

U.S., Soviet Ships Have 2nd Run-In

ONE COLOR MAKE OVER PAGES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American destroyer Walker was scraped by a Soviet warship a second time about 1:30 a.m. today in the Sea of Japan, it was learned.

This is expected to be announced officially by the United States shortly.

Pentagon sources said the latest incident involved American and Soviet confrontation in international waters involving another Russian destroyer.

The incident was said to have occurred yesterday off the northern coast of the Japanese island of Hokkaido.

The Walker, along with two other destroyers and the aircraft carrier Hornet, have been undergoing anti-submarine warfare training maneuvers in the Sea of Japan.

Yesterday, another Soviet destroyer—not the one involved in today's incident—made several close sweeps toward the American task group, coming as near as 50 feet on two occasions and finally bumping up against the Walker, causing minor damage.

The United States officially protested to the Soviet government over the first incident and was expected to file another complaint as a result of today's collision.

Sources view the Soviet actions as harassment.

The situation has taken on grave tones in view of the Vietnam war: Russia is a major supplier of war materials to North Vietnam.

U.S. officials said they would await details before trying to assess the significance of the collision yesterday in the Sea of Japan.

A Pentagon spokesman labeled it an accident, but the State Department said the fact the Soviets were repeatedly warned about coming too close to a group of American ships speaks for itself.

The State Department protested "close maneuvering and violation of the rules of the road" by the Soviet destroyer Besedny, resulting in her colliding with the USS Walker.

The scraping caused minor damage to the two ships and no one was hurt, the Pentagon said.

State Department sources said the incident could indicate a further toughening of Moscow's attitude toward the United States as the Vietnam war intensifies.

Killing Suspect to Be Arraigned

The arraignment of 20-year-old Dennis O'Dell, who gave his address as Metamora Township, was scheduled today in Monroe County on a charge of murder.

The body of his wife, 19-year-old Mary Katherine O'Dell, was found yesterday morning on a lovers' lane 500 feet north of the Michigan-Ohio line in Monroe County, not far from the home of her parents.

An attempted reconciliation in the 18-month-old marriage had apparently ended in a shooting death, police said. The O'Dells had been estranged since February, according to police.

The Oxford Police Department where O'Dell turned himself in early yesterday reported that he said he had picked her up at her parents' home.

A resulting argument ended with O'Dell allegedly shooting his wife six times with a 22-caliber pistol, which he surrendered to officers, according to police.

Taken to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department by an uncle, Sgt. Ray Westphal of the Oxford department, he accompanied county authorities to Whiteford Township where the woman's body was discovered at 10:14 a.m.

Held on a charge of murder, O'Dell has reportedly made no statement to authorities there.

DST Foes Get 2-Week Stay

LANSING (AP) — Nervous clock watchers can relax. There won't be a time change in Michigan for at least two weeks.

It looked for a while yesterday as if Michigan would zip ahead an hour — from Eastern Standard Time to Eastern Daylight Time.

The State Board of Canvassers stepped in with a slowdown, however.

The board refused to immediately certify petitions to put the Daylight Saving Time issue on the November 1968 election ballot.

Instead, the board decided to consider the issue May 24.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelly had argued that as soon as the petitions were stamped valid the state would go on Eastern Daylight Time. The action would nullify the state law exempting Michigan from daylight time, he said.

George Montgomery, state elections director, had alerted state officials that a fast time switch might be in the offing.

Kelley and Montgomery had even agreed on a time for the switch at midnight, which they said would result in the least amount of confusion.

State Civil Service Director Frank Dewald had already started figuring out new schedules for state workers who would be affected by the change.

STUBBORN WOMAN

But a stubborn woman lawyer, Mrs. Zoe Burkholtz of Benton Harbor, swung the board against making any fast moves on a time change.

"We should investigate the many matters raised," she insisted. "We can't possibly decide what to do without having a hearing."

Mrs. Burkholtz said that opponents of the time change have filed suits in the State Court of Appeals and State Supreme Court to prevent elections on the question.

Kelley advised the canvassers to act on the petitions and ignore pending litigation.

Mrs. Burkholtz said, however, that the attorney general had given the opposite advice when the canvassers were asked to certify a vote of the people ratifying the 1963 constitution.

BUSY NIGHT — Pontiac firemen play a stream of water on a blaze in a coal yard at 142 Bagley as spectators watch the action. This was the department's second trip to the Bagley address in three hours—one of 10 alarms called in from 6 p.m. yesterday until 1 a.m. today. Fire officials said most of the blazes last night were unquestionably the work of arsonists.

Rash of Local Fires Blamed on Arsonists

By MEL NEWMAN

Pontiac's fire equipment was taxed to the limit last night when arsonists started blazes in five locations within three hours.

A total of 10 alarms were called in from 6 p.m. yesterday to 1 a.m. today.

"I was considering calling in off-duty personnel when things really got bad," said Chief Lee Nye, commanding officer on last night's shift.

He said the department was down to a single engine company and rescue truck at one point.

Nye pointed out that the locations of the fires followed a rough pattern along railroad tracks from the South Jessie area to Bagley.

NO DOUBT ABOUT IT

Fire Marshal Charles Metz said he had no doubt arson was involved.

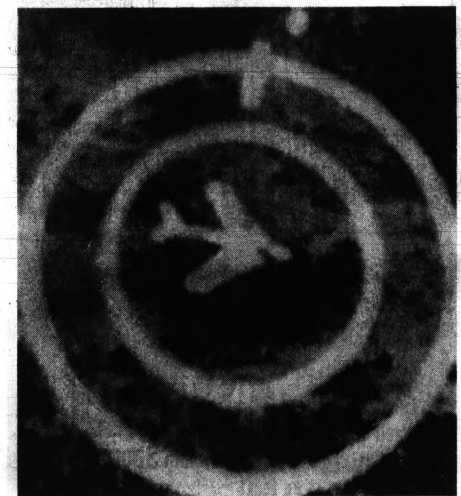

"You don't find five building fires on a traceable course in three hours unless they are set fires," he said.

Chronologically, the department was called to:

- Vacant house at 543 Highland at 6 p.m.
- House fire at 408 S. Jessie at 6:55 p.m.
- A false alarm at 283 Raeburn at 7:04 p.m.

- A shed attached to the rear of a former meat packing plant at 49 Turk at 7:28 p.m.
- A shack in an old coal yard at 142 Bagley at 7:43 p.m.
- An auto wreck (to flush gasoline) at 300 Branch at 8:06 p.m.
- Car fire at 339 Branch at 8:34 p.m.

MIG IN AMERICAN GUNSIGHT—Maj. Frederick G. Tolman, 34, of Portland, Maine, saw this Communist MIG17 in his gunsight while on a strike mission over North Vietnam. Army to Direct Viet Pacification

SAIGON (AP) — The United States apparently has decided to assign more troops to help protect South Vietnam's embattled pacification program.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker announced today that U.S. participation in the program has been transferred from civilian to military control. Henceforth, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, will direct the American pacification effort as well.

Westmoreland, however, will have a civilian deputy heading up U.S. pacification work. He is Robert W. Komer, 44, special assistant to President Johnson, who is known to have recommended that the military take over.

Bunker, who celebrated his 73rd birthday today, succeeded Henry Cabot Lodge two weeks ago.

He said the change was ordered to bolster security for Vietnamese revolutionary development-pacification teams who are trying to supplant Vietcong influence in the countryside and because the greater part of the American advisory and logistics assets in South Vietnam belong to the military.

S. VIET RESPONSIBILITY

The South Vietnamese army has been primarily responsible for protecting the villages where some 20,000 pacification workers are stationed. But security has often been lax, and more than 220 pacification workers have been killed and more than 300 wounded in guerrilla attacks since the beginning of the year.

THE ROCKEFELLER BROTHERS — Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York (right) and Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas chat at the first annual Brotherhood-in-Action dinner in New York last night. It is the first time they have appeared together since Winthrop was elected. Introducing Winthrop, Nelson quipped, "This is really brotherhood in action."

Boy, 2, Survives Car Plunge

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — For nine hours, a 2-year-old boy bobbed in an icy mountain stream yesterday, clinging to a partly submerged car.

The child's father, called away from his job to search for his missing family, found the youngster clinging to the car. Inside, the bodies of James Lawson's wife Patsy, 36, and daughter Susan, 5, were recovered.

Lawson pulled his son Gerald from the water and drove him to St. Bernardino's Hospital. The boy was later reported in critical condition from exposure.

Investigators said the car skidded on a curve and plunged down a 300-foot slope into the stream, swollen by melted snow from the San Bernardino Mountains.

The search for his family was begun by Lawson after a school principal at Riverside, Calif., had telephoned him that Mrs. Lawson, a teacher, had not arrived at school.

Tot Heart Surgery Veteran

NEW YORK (AP) — Erik Agostini is only six weeks old but he already has undergone two major operations in which parts of his heart were rearranged to correct congenital defects. Today he is well enough to go home.

"We thought the worst," said Benjamin Agostini, the boy's father, recalling the time when doctors informed him and his wife that the boy required surgery.

Erik had seemed normal when he was born March 31 but after a few days his breathing became labored, his skin turned blue, and his heart was pumping too rapidly.

"At first they thought it was a little heart murmur," said Agostini, "then it seemed to be pneumonia."

After a week, the physicians began to suspect a congenital heart condition and Dr. Joshua Lynfield, a specialist in cardiology and pediatrics was called in.

During surgery, Erik developed complications including an irregular heart beat, collapse of a lung and high acid levels in the blood. He recovered during 16 days in the intensive care unit.

Senator Asks Data on Deal for 493 Jets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan predicted today the Pentagon would pay up to $12 billion to get 1,300 F111 planes in the air — double the cost defense officials once estimated for 1,700 of the controversial aircraft.

The Arkansas Democrat coupled his prediction with a demand that the Air Force supply details of the $1.82 billion contract it signed Wednesday with General Dynamics Corp. of Fort Worth, Tex., for 493 of the all-purpose planes, once known as the TFX.

McClellan, chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, said the Pentagon originally estimated it would cost $1 billion to $6 billion for 1,700 planes. "But I do know it is going to cost from $10 billion to $12 billion to get 1,300 planes in the air," he said in an interview.

The Air Force F111s will cost $3.7 million each but this does not include the engine, weapons control system or electronic navigation systems.

McNAMA

The F111 was ordered developed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as an all-purpose plane for the Air Force and Navy to help save on production costs.

The new contract calls for a fixed price incentive arrangement allowing General Dynamics a possible nine percent profit if it meets a target cost of $1.67 billion.

This would permit a $15 million profit, with the company sharing in savings below the target cost and the government helping absorb any excess costs up to 15 percent above the contract total.

The Air Force said the contract would cover 168 Air Force and Navy aircraft authorized by Congress in the fiscal year ending June 30. Australia would get 24 planes and Britain 50. The remainder of the 493 still lack congressional funding.

PROHIBITED

McClellan noted Congress prohibited the purchase of production models for the Navy in the year ending June 30.

"The Navy version is bogged down," he said. "They have no engine for it that will do the job and they can't test a new engine in the plane until next year."

The committee chairman said his over-all estimate of the final cost of the planes included research and development items running to about $1.3 billion. He said Air Force models will cost twice the original estimates and Navy models up to three times the first figures.

McClellan said he was glad the contract has been signed "because maybe now we will get some idea of the cost if we don't get the usual half-story from the Pentagon."

CAP for the past year has included School Community Action Programs, National Teacher Corps, breakfast program, Community School reading under State Section 12 and those under the Elementary and Secondary Act.

"It seems likely that funds will continue to be available from federal, state and private foundations provided the school district has the capacity to make the necessary contacts, develop the proposals, make follow-up contacts on proposals and implement the program after funding," Asst. Supt. William Lacy told the board.

Vankoughnet reported to the board that he is still awaiting federal approval of funds for a $273,620 Head Start program for 420 deprived children this summer.

One person will be hired for 1967-68 to devote half of his time each to the new position of coordinator of elementary and secondary Community Action Programs.

School Programs Will Be Expanded

Pontiac schools Community Action Programs (CAP) which received over $1.1 million in federal, state and foundation funds this year, are being expanded and modified.

The Pontiac Board of Education last night authorized the immediate addition of two new budgeted position titles in the program with the possible increase of two more in the future.

The title of Mrs. Pearlina Butler was also changed by the board from assistant director of elementary education to coordinator of preschool education.

Arsonists Keep Firemen Busy

● An abandoned house, no address, on Dixon at 9:16 p.m.

● The shack at 142 Bagley which rekindled about 10:20 p.m.

● A false alarm at 120 Reburn at 12:57 a.m.

No extensive loss was caused by any of the blazes, either because of fast action by firemen or because the buildings damaged were old and unused.

The home at 408 S. Jessie, a two-story frame, was the only occupied building involved and the fire was contained to the exterior of the house, authorities said.

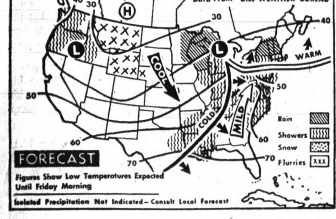

Metz said he found no evidence that any materials aside from matches and paper or wood were used for ignition.

However, Charles Gale, Pontiac police chief of detectives, said a witness reported seeing a youth with a gasoline can at the scene of one blaze.

U. S. War Toll Ties Record

SAIGON (AP) — A total of 274 Americans were killed in action in Vietnam last week and 1,748 were wounded, the U. S. command announced today. The number of dead equaled the record for the war, in the week that ended March 25.

Eighteen Americans were missing or captured, the command said, bringing the total casualties for the week to 2,940. This was 52 less than the record total of 2,992 during the week that ended March 18. The total included 211 killed, 1,874 wounded and seven missing or captured.

Enemy losses last week were reported at 1,903 killed, a marked increase from the 1,152 reported a week earlier.

10 Pct. Leaving City Schools

A search is on to replace 10 per cent of Pontiac's teachers who are leaving the school system, Asst. Supt. Richard Fell reported last night.

He announced that there will be 156 teaching vacancies this June compared to 119 last year.

Fell cautioned, however, that 58.5 new elementary and secondary positions are included in the 156 total.

School Bids $80,000 Under Estimates

BIRMINGHAM — Bids for construction of the $2.6 million new junior high school came in $80,000 under estimates, the school board reports.

Muzzi and Vincente of Allen Park was the contract-winning firm.

Because of the apparent savings, the schools' architects, O'Dell, Hewlett and Luckenbach, recommended installation of air-conditioning of all academic areas, and this was approved by the board.

The school is expected to open in September 1968 on Inkster 750 students with future expansion planned to accommodate 1,000.

State Dem: Adjourn, End 'Farce'

LANSING (AP) — "Let's adjourn, this session has been a farce," suggested Sen. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, in the Senate Wednesday.

"Let all the bills die," said Brown. "They are nothing but a bunch of cats and dogs anyway."

Brown's idea was that the Legislature adjourn immediately. "Then the governor could call us back into special session to work on just tax reform," Brown said.

Brown's notion was thrown in during a debate over a resolution to go along with the House in extending the deadline for reporting bills out of their house of origin by two weeks.

The Senate, on a 20-12 party line vote, agreed to allow the House to continue doing what it already is doing by the trick of labeling all bills as taxation bills.

The deadline for reporting out bills was extended from May 12 to May 26.

The 20 votes for the bill were all Republican. The 12 against all Democrats.

RAP ELEVATOR

"Even the elevator doesn't work any more under the Republican administration," said Brown, reporting he was stuck for 10 minutes in a Senate elevator.

"Next to nothing has been accomplished," complained Sen. Roger Craig, D-Deerborn. "But we can't blame it all on the House. Some of the actions in the Senate have been more reprehensible than in the House."

"How can we reconcile that 'Romney Action Team' motto with the action we are being asked to take today," Craig asked. "We could stay here until doomsday and nothing would happen."

Sen. Robert Vander Laan, R-Grand Rapids, noted that at least 13 bills passed by the Senate were introduced by Brown.

"Where these all junk?" he asked.

"I confess!" cried Brown, raising his hand.

Vander Laan asked sympathy for the House. The Republican party, he said, wanted tax reform by April 1.

Tickets will be on sale at the door with proceeds to go for band equipment.

Post Writer Needs Help on Names

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to submit the following letter in competition for your book on etiquette. I am currently a college student and at the age where your book could do the best job of guiding my future actions. — J. J. Kohler

Okay, J.J., you win! A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to you. Here's Mr. Kohler's letter and my answer:

"I would like to know the rule on how to address people older than myself. I am 31 years old and have always been taught to address anyone older than myself as Mr., Mrs. or Miss.

Now that I am considered an adult, how am I to conduct myself intelligently in talking to office supervisors, older professional people and older co-workers? I'm confused as to when a person could, or should, be addressed on a first name basis and when it is mandatory that a person be addressed more formally."

Dear Mr. Kohler: In a large office where a certain amount of formality is maintained, continue your practice of calling older people "Mr.," "Mrs.," or "Miss" until they ask you to use their first names. Whether they are your supervisors or your co-workers, courtesy demands that it is up to them to make the suggestion.

In a smaller, less formal office, keep your ears open. If you hear everyone calling each other by first names you'd better go along, or you'll just end up being thought a terrible stuffed shirt.

AN ODD NOTE — Gaylene Ford, 13, found this battered piece of sheet music in the yard of her Grand Rapids home this week. It came from her church, South Congregational, which is two miles away. The church was hit by a tornado last month. The odd note? The song title is "All in the April Evening."

Egyptians Want Venice to Return Body of St. Mark

ROME (AP) — First the Egyptian Copts might request the body, Giovanni Cardinal Urbani of Venice said: "The body of St. Mark is so closely linked to Venice that it can never be taken away from the city permanently."

Venice would just about as soon give away one of its canals.

Patriarch Kyrolos VI, religious leader of Egypt's Orthodox Copts, was reported in Cairo to have written Pope Paul VI asking that St. Mark's body be returned to Alexandria where Venetian sailors whisked it away in the year 815.

The patriarch wrote that it was improper for the body to be kept separated from the apostle's head. The head is in Alexandria Cathedral.

VATICAN REPORT

A spokesman for the Vatican Secretariat for Christian Unity said that if Pope Paul had received such a letter, he had passed on no instruction about it to the secretariat.

But when word first circulated some weeks ago that the statue stands in front of the ancient shipyard of the Republic of Venice. Now that Venice is no longer a republic, the shipyard and the statue have become state property, Venetian officials say.

"It would require a bilateral accord between Italy and Greece to allow the Lion to be sent back to Piraeus," the officials said.

The Italian government is not considering any such deal.

ILL TRADE YOU AN ELK. By Charles A. Goodrum. Funk & Wagnalls. $4.95.

This is the funniest book in years.

It begins, back there in the late '20s, with a nonplus pelican. Having made several navigational errors, it came down kerplunk on a Kansas highway.

A farmer rescued it and turned it over to Bernie Goodrum, who had become recreation director in the parks department of Wichita, where there was a very small zoo.

Back in the Depression days there was barely enough money to feed the zoo's pitifully small collection, but Bernie was determined to create a big zoo. He did it by becoming a scrounger and a swapper.

The story of Bernie Goodrum's adventures with his zoo is a delightfully crazy romp, full of slapstick emergencies and droll situations.

The author has a natural gift for humor, and his chronicle of his father's exuberant career as a zoo-maker contains a chuckle quotient that's hard to match. It is one of those very rare books you wish hadn't come to an end.

Miles A. Smith

THE THOUSAND HOUR DAY. By W. S. Kunzick. Dial. $7.95.

The thousand hours are the approximate length of the German blitzkrieg, accompanied by a Russian invasion from the East, which crushed Poland in September 1939.

This huge (622-page) novel is a searingly vivid account of the chaos, pain, confusion, bitterness, fear, fatigue, agony, hunger, frustration, treachery, desperation and brutality of warfare.

As a war novel, this will stand comparison with many of the monumental ones, but it carries a theme beyond that of warfare alone. What Kunzick is chronicling here is the transition from the 19th Century, when principles, honor and chivalry still were to be found, to the 20th Century's bestial disregard for human values.

Here is a book in which death and destruction form the background for a memorable story.

Miles A. Smith

THE POPE'S BACKYARD. By Curtis G. Pepper. Farrar, Straus & Giroux. $4.50.

For those who have visited the Vatican or hope to, Curtis Pepper has written an engaging book, lavishly illustrated with his own photos. The style intentionally is simple and this reviewer found a fascinated audience when he read the book aloud to his children. Odd facts, anecdotes and incident make for an intriguing inside look at the unique Vatican city state.

Few people know Rome as well as Pepper, a University of Illinois graduate who has lived there for more than 20 years.

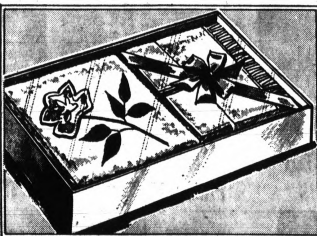

A plus for travelers is an appendix telling how to arrange a Papal audience and how to secure admission to the Vatican gardens.

Blue Chips Disregarded

Mart Active; Gains Prominent

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market advances outnumbered losses today in active trading.

However, the averages were a little lower, indicating that buying interest wasn't in the blue chips.

Brokers said they were encouraged by the market's behavior in the early stages of its corrective reaction and hoped that the 875 level on the Dow Jones Industrial Average would hold.

Garrison Will Stick to Probe

Hits 'Efforts to Block JFK Investigation

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison said "there's no way in the world" to stop his investigation of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

"All they can do is slow it down," Garrison said after a series of developments Wednesday.

This included: A request for a subpoena to the Central Intelligence Agency to produce what Garrison claims is a long-suppressed photo of Lee Harvey Oswald, named by the Warren Commission as the assassin of Kennedy.

Refusal by the Justice Department to permit an FBI agent to testify before the Orleans County grand jury on his role in the investigation of the 1963 assassination.

Tape recording. A report of a tape recording which reportedly indicated a bribe had been offered for a statement to help substantiate Garrison's probe.

The application for the subpoena called on Richard Helms, CIA director, to produce before the grand jury a "true photograph" of Oswald and a burly Cuban which Garrison says was taken in front of the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City.

Garrison contends the photo was suppressed and a "fake photograph" was submitted in evidence before the Warren Commission.

Garrison wanted FBI agent Reggie Kennedy to testify before the grand jury on his role in the assassination investigation, but U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark had instructed Kennedy not to testify. Bagert ordered a hearing next Tuesday on the government's motion.

NEW YORK — Obviously he wasn't doing well. His attitude and achievement were definitely beneath his capabilities, as shown on tests. He was an underachiever, and needed to be placed in a special class.

With children? No, with other executives. In this class he would be taught, better executive practices. He would be given on the job supervision. He would be forced or induced to achieve, perhaps by being given more responsibility, or maybe less.

This gentle treatment of middle executives is still rare, but more common now than it was when jobs were few and candidates numerous. But with business expanding, spreading abroad, diversifying, underachievers are looked upon as rough diamonds to be polished.

BOSS IS BLAMED

Far more often than in previous years the boss rather than the underachiever is blamed. Frequently the underachiever is viewed as capable but misunderstood, a potential producer in an uninspiring environment.

In fact, if there is a shortage of able middle executives—and some claim there always is such a shortage—top management is more frequently in the mood now to accept blame for having failed to train candidates properly.

Naturally this treatment is under as much criticism as approval. It is odd, certainly, that some companies consider it not just necessary but also rewarding to both the individual and the company.

As a result, numerous corporations have set up formal training programs to assist those who fail to pick up the tools of the trade simply by working and observing.

These companies feel today's business environment, in which electronic computers change century-old management methods within a year, demands formal training.

Reflecting this, thousands of businessmen this summer will spend from a few days in more than a month on college campuses they left 20 years before, attending special courses at company expense.

This attitude has other facets also: schools at resorts during which managers are played before swimming or after golf; a growing tendency to teach sabbaticals; and instant success courses—salesmanship, speed reading, dress and behavior—paid for by corporations.

No longer is the route to the top guided by the homely old maxims, such as keep your ears and eyes open, your nose clean and to the grindstone. These "in-factory" methods are often considered obsolete now. More often the training is outside the firm.

INTERNATIONAL TRAINING

In Cahors, France, a medieval castle has been transformed into a schoolhouse to train up-and-coming international executives at a cost of $3,000 for 10 weeks, the wife's expenses included.

Colleges participating with businesses or business associations in training courses for middle-aged executives include many of the best known names in the country: Harvard, Northwestern, Stanford.

For longer periods of study, the sabbatical seems to be slowly gaining in favor. This is a very expensive activity, but it often means the executive is away from his job for nine months a year.

Nevertheless, as Dr. Martin Warshaw of the University of Michigan puts it: Periodic full-time study may be the best way for certain managers to avoid "executive obsolescence" and to keep from being "dropouts with degrees."

Toyota Gets 1st California Antismog OK

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—Toyota Motor Co. of Japan yesterday became the first automobile manufacturer to gain California approval of its 1968 exhaust emission control system.

The state motor vehicle pollution control board said Toyota's factory-installed exhaust system met California's smog control requirements for 1968 with the following qualifications:

• Toyota must agree to certify 100 per cent inspection of spark timing at end of the vehicle assembly line.

• The firm must offer and promote a free spark timing and idle adjustment through the dealer at 1,000 miles.

• Notification of this promotion and offering must be provided by the dealer to the owner.

Toyota was the first auto manufacturer to submit an application for approval of its 1968 exhaust system to the board.

Q "I'm 74 and retired and need your help badly. I have $25,000 in series E bonds due in 1970. My friends tell me I should redeem these bonds or the government will tax me when they become due. I prefer to keep them until maturity." A.M.

A There is no reason at all why you should not sell your bonds in 1970. Your friends have in mind deferred federal income taxes on E bond accruals. These levies are payable at maturity, but they are equally payable if you redeem your bonds before they come due. You are holding them for an extension in 1970 and tax liability can again be deferred at that time. If your retirement income puts you in a low enough bracket, you might be able to redeem all or part of your bonds in that year.
