FRIENDSHIP TOKEN — Elvis Presley's latest girl shows off a cute set of dimples and the "friendship ring" the crooner gave her as she prepares for her first movie role, in Hollywood. Anita Wood, hostess on a Memphis TV show, says she and the singer haven't talked about marriage but says she wouldn't object if the subject did come up.

Weakening 'Esther' Rushes Northward

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Weakening Esther, a tropical storm that never became a hurricane, left behind the threat of floods today as she rushed northward from Louisiana.

Tides rose to three to five feet along southeast Louisiana and the Mississippi coast where normal tides are about 1½ feet. The same tides were expected to reach Alabama before nightfall.

Heavy rains hit Louisiana and were expected to follow Esther into Mississippi and Alabama. The New Orleans Weather Bureau predicted Mississippi may feel rains up to eight inches.

The bureau warned residents to take precautions against the tides and told them to watch for flood warnings.

One death had been attributed to the storm. A car skidded on a drenched highway near Morgan City early today and plunged into a canal. A passenger was drowned.

Esther, which carried 64 m.p.h. winds at one point, was the third Gulf storm to strike the Louisiana coast in less than three months.

At 10 a.m., the bureau lowered the storm warnings on the Louisiana coast but kept them displayed for the rest of the area.

★ ★ ★

Esther's predicted course was across Mississippi today and into northern Alabama tonight.

The bureau displayed storm warnings from Morgan City, La., to Pensacola Fla., and urged small craft from Galveston, Tex., to Cedar Keys, Fla., to remain in port.

Tides from three to five feet were expected along most of the Gulf of Mexico coast.

A Bloomfield Township woman lost $21,000 in U. S. Savings Bonds yesterday at J. L. Hudson's Northland store.

Mrs. Monya Brigand, of 4050 Fairlane Dr., told Redford State Police she was shopping and laid down her purse to examine some merchandise. When she looked up the purse was gone.

Also lost was $1,706 in personal checks and $40 cash. She said she had received the bonds by mail and had picked up the envelope from her box on her way to do some shopping.

★ ★ ★

Libel Trial Jury Out Second Day

Spends Over 5 Hours Considering Facts on Confidential

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Confidential magazine criminal libel trial jury today goes into its second day of deliberations.

The jurors spent 5 hours and 20 minutes considering the case yesterday, then were locked up in a hotel for the night.

The case was handed to the jury Monday afternoon after a six-week trial.

In addition to Confidential, the defendants are Whisper magazine, Publisher's Distributing Corp., Hollywood Research, Inc., and Marjorie Meade. They are charged with conspiracy to commit criminal libel and to publish lewd and obscene material.

★ ★ ★

In Hollywood, defense attorney Arthur Crowley said today he does not expect an "unfavorable" verdict in the trial.

"If there is a conviction," the attorney added, "I will move immediately for a new trial and if the judge denies it, I will appeal the case."

Dodgers Delay Decision

NEW YORK, (AP)— The Brooklyn Dodgers agreed today to defer action on their projected move to Los Angeles until Mayor Robert F. Wagner discusses with the City Board of Estimate a new proposal put foward by Nelson A. Rockefeller to keep the baseball team in New York.

'How Dry I Am' Theme Song for Staggering Puss

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —Mrs. Chester Massey placed some towels in her clothes drier and went about her daily chores yesterday.

A telephone next to the drier rang 10 minutes later and Mrs. Massey — well, let her tell it:

"The more I talked the more I realized something was wrong. I glanced at the drier and saw this white thing going around inside. I knew I hadn't put anything white in there — just brown towels.

"I opened the door and there was Mossie, my cat, inside."

She said the pet took five minutes to get its breath, but "is just as alive now as can be."

City Teamsters May Be Called in Labor Probe

Rackets Group Ready to Resume Investigation of Hoffa's Affairs

The possibility loomed today that the Senate Labor Rackets Committee would call Pontiac Teamsters' and business officials in the continuing investigation of James R. Hoffa.

Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel of the committee, in Detroit for the second time this month, is checking information to be brought before the committee when it meets again Tuesday in Washington.

UNDER FIRE

For nearly four years, the trusteeship of Hoffa over Pontiac Local 614 has been under fire by a group of members seeking to end his rule, and to get "an honest election" from among the rank-and-file.

Officials of Local 614 could not be reached as to whether they had been asked to appear next week.

Members of the insurgent group have remained mum on their part of the investigation, saying they are "sitting on a keg of dynamite."

DRIVE PRESSED

Hoffa was back East today pressing his drive to become Teamster Union president.

Meanwhile, James B. Carey, president of the Electrical Workers Union, declared, "I don't know of anyone in the AFL-CIO who will serve with Hoffa if he is reelected a vice president or elected president of the Teamsters."

Kennedy has refused to disclose to newsmen his activities other than to say "important information" has been developed from Michigan investigations regarding Hoffa.

★ ★ ★

Local 614 has been under Hoffa's control since October 1953 when two of its officers were indicted by a grand jury on conspiracy to bribe charges.

Leaun Harrelson, acting president under Hoffa for the Pontiac local, has continually denied corruption in the local. "It is the cleanest run local in Michigan," he said. "We have absolutely nothing to hide."

The businessmen and union agents next week were expected to be asked about their transactions with Hoffa. Besides Pontiac, some from Detroit and Flint was expected to testify.

Committee Chairman John McClellan of Arkansas today said Hoffa "committed flagrant, willful and contemptible perjury" by testifying he could not recall matters raised when he appeared first before the committee.

★ ★ ★

He said his group had to deal with many witnesses who definitely were "evil man . . . to be a little more specific, manipulators and conspirators both in management and in labor, bums, crooks, hoodlums, goons, muscle men, thugs, thieves, extortionists and possibly murderers."

The statements were made in a prepared address to the American Institute of Supply Association, Inc. convention in New York.

Graham Will Return

Hope to Fire Rocket 4,000 Miles Up

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Air Force late this month will attempt to fire a four-stage research rocket to an unprecedented altitude — 1,000 to 4,000 miles above the earth.

★ ★ ★

The rocket will be lifted the first 100,000 feet—nearly 20 miles—to a huge balloon which will then serve as a firing platform for the research vehicle.

★ ★ ★

The firing, Phase 2 of the Air Force's Project Far Side, will take place on Eniwetok Atoll in the Pacific, the Air Research and Development Command announced yesterday. No specific date was given.

Phase 1 was accomplished last June 28 when the ARDC sent the world's largest balloon—200 feet in diameter and weighing 1,500 pounds—up more than 104,000 feet with a record load of nearly two tons.

ARDC said the rocket firing will be strictly an exploratory research effort, aimed at gathering data on cosmic rays, the earth's magnetic field and other phenomena of the upper atmosphere.

"The firing is not an attempt to place a satellite in space" and has no relation to the Navy's Project Vanguard, the ARDC said. A spokesman also said Project Far Side has no nuclear energy aspects.

★ ★ ★

The four-stage rocket will be packed with instruments, including a tiny, but powerful, radio transmitter which will relay scientific data back to earth.

★ ★ ★

There has been no description of the four-stage rocket, eight of which have been manufactured by the Thiokol Chemical Corp. of Elkton, Md. The helium-filled balloon was developed by General Mills Co.

Attempt to End Phone Strike

Federal Mediators Say No Important Changes Made by Either Side

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal mediators are trying again today to hammer out agreement on a contract which would end a nationwide strike of 23,000 telephone exchange equipment installers.

After a five-hour negotiation session yesterday, Federal Mediator Walter A. Maggiolo reported "no significant change by either party" to the dispute.

The dispute is between the Communications Workers of America and the Western Electric Co., manufacturing arm of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

AT&T, surveying 14 cities yesterday, reported long-distance service "mostly good."

The company said long-distance telephone calls from New York City were cut an estimated 10 to 20 per cent yesterday.

On Monday, the strikers threw picket lines around telephone buildings in 44 states and the District of Columbia. An estimated 150,000 operators were kept from their jobs.

The company said workers passing through the lines and supervisory personnel were handling long-distance calls.

Dial phones were not affected.

The company said most local service was maintained even in non-dial areas.

Issues in the first installers' strike since 1954 are centered on wages, travel allowances and length of contract.

MANSION HUDDLE — Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, left, held another huddle with U. S. Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) presumably to discuss the approaching showdown between the federal government and Faubus on the Little Rock integration question. Hays acted as go-between in setting up the Faubus-Eisenhower conference last week.

Tomorrow will be partly cloudy. The temperature will continue mild with the high near 80.

The outlook for Friday is mostly cloudy with showers and thundershowers. Friday evening will be cooler.

The lowest thermometer reading preceding 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 52. The mercury rose to 78 at 2 p.m.

U. S. Prepares Big Battle in Court With Gov. Faubus

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The federal government unlimbered two big guns today—a mass of testimony and a secret report—and prepared to bring them to court in the struggle with Gov. Orval Faubus over his refusal to permit integration of a Little Rock high school.

Faubus still showed no signs of backing down.

He was smiling and appeared untroubled when he posed for photographers before another talk with Rep. Hays D-Ark, who is trying to mediate between him and the federal government.

Faubus termed "absolutely incorrect" a story in Time magazine that quotes him, through other persons, as saying he called out the National Guard because he intends to enhance his political chances.

The magazine said a close associate of Winthrop Rockefeller was its source. Rockefeller is chairman of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission and owns property in the state.

Faubus has consistently declined to say whether he will run for a third term.

Rockefeller, reached in New York by the Arkansas Gazette, said, "I have no comment to

In Excise Taxes

U. S. Nets $10.5 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Excise taxes netted Uncle Sam more than 10½ billion dollars in the 1957 fiscal year which ended last June 30.

★ ★ ★

Nearly half the total came from whisky, beer and cigarettes, but numerous other items accounted for sizable shares.

★ ★ ★

The biggest single revenue producer was the excise tax on distilled spirits, which brought in $2,121,411,000. The tax on beer netted another 763 million dollars, and wine was good for 88½ millions more.

Total tobacco taxes were $1,674,050,000. Most of this—$1,610,908,000—was on cigarettes.

Passes 171.5 Million Mark

U. S. Population Soars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The population of the United States passed 171½ million last Aug. 1, the Census Bureau estimated today.

★ ★ ★

That represents an increase of 20,378,000, or about 13½ per cent, since the census of April 1, 1950.

★ ★ ★

It is an increase of about three million over the estimate for Aug. 1, 1956.

The estimates include armed forces members overseas.

Firm in Chicago Given Authority to Study Force

Willman Tells of Plan for 9-Point Analysis of Department Functions

The green light was given by Pontiac city commissioners last night for a Chicago firm to perform a top to bottom study of the police department.

Commissioners okayed a study by the Public Administration Service as recommended by Walter K. Willman, city manager.

The study, expected to take from three to six months and to cost from $5,000 to $9,000, comes on the heels of firm departmental strife brewing since voters last April approved civil service for police.

★ ★ ★

In a letter to the commission, Willman outlined a nine-point scope of the proposed study. He emphasized that it would in no way conflict with the functions of the Civil Service Commission under state law.

This brought a criticism from Gerald Kehoe, a member of the city Board of Tax Review, who said the study was a waste of money and a "reflection against the commission you yourselves appointed."

Commissioner John E. Carry later pointed out to Kehoe that the City Commission appoints only one of three civil service commissioners.

DEFENDS OUTSIDE GROUP

Commissioner Philip E. Rowston defended the outside study as opposed to having a citizens committee study the department. Such a committee would never be free from criticism while the non-profit firm would have no links here, Rowston explained.

Willman recommended the study "to clear the atmosphere" hovering over the department.

Principally, the governmental surveying group will be asked to study the structural organization and personnel practices of the department.

It will also look into a proposal that Violation Bureau, now a responsibility of the department, be a segment of the Municipal Court.

The morale of the force and its possible improvement to increase efficiency, record systems, communications, traffic control, criminal investigation, police plant equipment, and layout of beats are included in the program the city will ask PAS to launch.

Special consultant to PAS is likely to be O. W. Wilson, dean of the School of Criminology of the University of California, Willman mentioned to commissioners.

They rejected a bid from the Detroit Institute of Advance Law Study for a similiar survey, but to include the fire department also.

Grand Rapids Lad Puts New Twist to Dad's Title

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — George Billey, recently appointed director of the Grand Rapids alcoholism rehabilitation center, is a big man in the eyes of his 9-year-old son, Philip.

The boy, starting classes at Sibley school, was asked by his teacher: "What is your father's occupation?"

Billey learned his son replied: "My father is the chief alcoholic in Grand Rapids."

'Indiscriminate' Car Impounding Charges Denied

Ewart Proposes Two Parking Revisions

City Attorney William A. Ewart last night proposed amending two city parking ordinances aimed at the "chronic" parking violator who repeatedly defies parking violations.

At the same time, Ewart and Police Chief Herbert W. Straley denied charges that the police department has been impounding cars "indiscriminately."

★ ★ ★

But city commissioners refused to jump hurriedly into the controversy which has flared over legal rights of impounding automobiles.

"The ordinance has stood for 19 years and it can stand another week," said Commissioner Philip E. Rowston as the commission moved for a week's time to study Ewart's proposals.

Ewart asked that the current power of the department to seize any car with an unpaid parking ticket against it "anywhere in the city" after a 72-hour grace period has elapsed, be deleted.

SUGGESTS LIMITATION

The attorney suggested the new provision limit officers to impounding cars with accrued delinquent tickets only if a current violation is registered against the vehicle.

The impounding, Ewart said, would be for the latest violation, and the car would not be returned to the owner until all accrued tickets are paid.

Gerald Kehoe, a member of the Pontiac Board of Tax Review, blasted the proposal as a "reprisal because the city attorney and his assistant lost a case in Municipal Court."

Reference was to the trial of Pontiac attorney Milton R. Henry, whose slugging of a police officer attempting to seize his car precipitated the car-towing hassle.

Henry was found not guilty of assault and battery by Judge Cecil B. McCallum who ruled the city ordinances covering seizure of cars was unconstitutional.

Ewart said, "The indiscriminate seizure of automobiles has never been used. I say this without fear of contradiction."

CRITICIZES NEWSPAPERS

Straley vehemently criticized newspapers for saying the department impounded cars indiscriminately. "Why shouldn't we chase after the chronic violator who continually flouts the law," he asked commissioners.

Ewart defended the department's practice of impounding cars as a "fair and reasonable policy."

Judge McCallum ruled the present drive to seize cars for past unpaid tickets deprived the owners of "due process of law."

★ ★ ★

Ewart declared that by removing the ordinance provision on impounding "anywhere in the city," the department would be free from cirticism that they tow cars away indiscriminately.

"All I am trying to do is clear the air," he explained.

Wayne Judges Pick Prosecutor

Pass Chief Assistant, Garber to Name Olson; O'Brien Staff Member

DETROIT (AP)— A Danish-born bachelor with a penchant for music and psychology is Wayne County's new prosecuting attorney.

The $21,000-a-year post, top law enforcement job of the Detroit area, has been given to a political unknown—Samuel Honore Olsen, 39.

Olsen, eight years a member of the late prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien's staff, was named O'Brien's successor in a surprise appointment yesterday by the Wayne County circuit judges.

One immediate result was the resignation of chief assistant prosecutor Ralph Garber, O'Brien's righthand man who presumably had counted on succeeding his boss.

Garber, a leader in the field of possible appointees, said he would leave within three weeks. He has been described as a "career" man in the prosecutor's office.

★ ★ ★

In naming Olsen, the Wayne County judges skirted the field of politics.

The prosecutor's office is a political plum. Along with Garber the possible choices had included CIO-backed D. Charles Marston. General union interest had been reported in the name of a new man.

The judges, whose choice was announced by Judge Miles N. Culehan, were represented as having decided on Olsen "on the basis of character, experience and ability."

The judges have been trying to pick a new man since the death Aug. 30 of Prosecutor O'Brien. O'Brien had held the office several terms. It is an elective post and Olsen will have to stand for election next year.

★ ★ ★

Olsen, a native of Copenhagen who was brought to the U. S. as a boy, is the son of a baker and graduate of Northwestern University where he was a star baseball player.

Psychology study is a hobby. As a trumpet player, he has performed with the Scandinavian Symphony Orchestra, an amateur and professional group of some standing.

Before joining the prosecutor's staff, Olsen was a federal lawyer specializing in conscientious objector cases during World War II and, prior to that, a labor relations consultant and member of a private law firm.

On O'Brien's staff he was chief trial lawyer for non-Detroit cases.

Olsen acknowledged his selection by describing himself as "exceedingly proud" to have been named O'Brien's successor. He said "any success I may have attained in the office I owe directly to him."

Leader of Poles in Exile Discusses Nation's Plight

"Conditions in Poland are very difficult economically and politically. During the occupation, first by the Nazis then the Russian Communists, Poland was exploited of all goods.

"At present she finds herself in economic ruin," stated Antoni Pajak, prime minister of the Polish government in exile in London, last night when honored with a dinner by the Rev. B. F. Jarzembowski at the St. Joseph rectory, 400 W. South Blvd.

Other guests were members of the Polish National Fund Committee of Detroit, sponsors of his visit to Michigan.

★ ★ ★

"Polish people are counting on economic aid from America. But this must be cautiously and prudently administered so that gifts will not be found going to Russia. Food, clothing and medicine are especially needed," said Pajak.

★ ★ ★

The prime minister, 64, said his group would continue to work for the freedom of his country.

"At the present time, a revolt against the Communists would be impossible without external help, for what happened to Hungary would be the fate of Poland—bloodshed and murder. In my opinion Wladyslaw Gomulka, Poland's leader, does only what Moscow orders," said Pajak.

A former member of the Polish Parliament, Antoni Pajak was imprisoned by Russians in World War II and released in 1942.

The prime minister was received yesterday by acting Detroit mayor, Louis Mariani, and members of the common council of Detroit and the mayor and council of Hamtramck.

★ ★ ★

Pajak will leave for Toledo Thursday. He will visit Los Angeles, Buffalo, Canada, Washington, D. C. and New York, returning to England Oct. 18.

U.S. Prepares Case Against Gov. Faubus

make that might add further confusion to an already unfortunate situation."

★ ★ ★

In Little Rock today, the story is that Faubus is searching for an avenue of compromise with Washington. But on what conditions, in terms of time or other concessions, remained his own close-to-the-vest secret.

As the hour approached for the scheduled hearing in U.S. District Court Friday on the government's petition for legal means to stop Faubus from continuing to bar Negroes from Central High school, this was the picture:

★ ★ ★

1. U.S. marshals have served subpoenas on about 200 people. Most of them are residents of Little Rock. Presumably, they are in a position to throw light on the question of whether violent action had been prepared and timed to explode Sept. 3, when the Negroes came to enroll in the high school.

Information to this effect, Faubus says, caused him to suddenly station the National Guard around Central High the night of Sept. 2.

2. Hays was still in Little Rock although he had expected to leave tomorrow. He said the illness of his father, and business reasons, changed his plans.

★ ★ ★

As he left the Governor's Mansion, he told reporters he will be available for more talks with Faubus, adding, "There is necessity for further conversations."

3. A report drawn up by the FBI was ready for Friday's hearing before U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies. The contents are secret. However, there are reports that FBI agents checked specific points in the information Faubus said came to him.

4. In Washington, the Department of Justice has squelched reports that it will ask for a delay in the hearing.

Thus the stage was set for a supremely important test of strength between a state governor and the federal government — unless Faubus backs down before Friday. It may set a precedent that will reverberate as long as the struggle lasts over permitting Negroes to enter schools that are now all white.

★ ★ ★

In an action parallelling the government's petition, an attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People has asked that Faubus be subpoenaed to appear at a hearing that challenges the validity of four newly passed laws designed to preserve segregation in Arkansas.

U. Simpson Tate of Dallas asked that the governor be summoned for the hearing, set for tomorrow. It was not known whether Faubus had been served with the subpoena.

Grand Jury Indicts 10 for Moonshine Ring

DETROIT (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted 10 persons, three of them from Belleville, Mich., on charges of being part of a moonshine whisky ring which bilked the government out of more than $50,000 in revenue.

★ ★ ★

Asst. U.S. Atty. John R. Jones described the ring as the biggest uncovered in Michigan in 15 years. Jones said the ring operated illegal stills at Belleville and also imported from Newport, Tenn. He said the government lost more than $50,000 in liquor taxes because of the moonshiners.

★ ★ ★

Indicted yesterday on charges of conspiring to violate the alcohol tax laws were Mrs. Elizabeth Sexton, Francis Arntfield and his wife, Elspeth, all of Belleville, and Milton Harris, Inkster; Allen L. Robinson, Cleveland, Ohio, and Edward Arms, Waldon R. Cooper, Edward McAmis, Everett W. Taylor and Isaac Ownby, all of Newport, Tenn.

★ ★ ★

Jones said the ring operated two 500-gallon stills at Belleville but closed them down and began importing from Tennessee when agents started closing in on them.

Seeks to Block Seating of Reds

U.S. Marshals Forces Against Attempt to Let China Into U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States marshaled support today against a new effort to seat Red China in the U.N.

The explosive issue is due for an airing late today when the General Assembly's powerful Steering Committee takes up India's proposal to make the seating a question a formal item on the agenda.

★ ★ ★

India or the Soviet bloc—prime supporters of Red China—could bring up the issue in the Assembly by simply challenging Nationalist China's right to a seat.

It was generally believed, however, that they will wait until the Steering Committee goes into session so they can stage a full debate.

A U.S. spokesman declared the Americans stand ready to block any seating move. He expressed confidence they have more than enough support to do it.

★ ★ ★

Britain already has swung behind the U.S. move to defer the seating issue for another year. A number of other delegations have privately indicated their support.

Last year 47 nations voted to sidetrack the China question, while 24 moved to consider it.

★ ★ ★

Peiping's main support comes from the nine-member Soviet bloc and a considerable portion of the Asian-African bloc. Some Scandinavian countries also have been pushing for a showdown.

Hangs at School Initiation

Principal Dies in Mishap

UTICA, Kan. (AP)—W. H. Sallee, principal of Utica High School, happily set about the blood-curdling role he had assigned himself.

He blacked his eyes with burnt cork and smeared catsup on his face. He slung a rope from the ceiling of the kitchen in an abandoned farmhouse just out of town and secured it under his armpits.

★ ★ ★

He waited in the dark.

The occasion was the annual senior initiation of new high school freshmen Monday night. Sallee, 60, had volunteered to play dead so he could keep an eye on things....be sure they didn't get out of hand.

Mrs. Betty Stevens, class sponsor, and 11 seniors drove up to the eerie old house with 23 freshman in tow.

One by one the freshmen were blindfolded and led inside. At the kitchen there were moans. The blindfold was lifted and a senior flashed an electric torch on the hanging man.

After the eighth freshman had jittered through the course, the seniors decided it would be an idea to get a picture of their principal. He was such a good sport.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Stevens called to Sallee. No response. Flashlights winked on. Sallee slumped in the rope. Someone called a doctor. The principal was dead.

An autopsy showed he had strangled.

"I just couldn't determine what happened," said Mrs. Stevens. "His feet were still and the floor and the rope was holding him up.

"The class had planned to use a dummy but he insisted on playing the part."

★ ★ ★

"We don't know for sure what happened," said Sheriff Harold Mellies of Ness County. "He may have fallen and struck his neck on the rope. There was a rope burn halfway around the side of his neck. There was lots of trash in the house, sacks and tire chains and such stuff. He could have stumbled on them and gotten tangled up in the rope."

Pontiac Adopts Disaster Plan

Outlines Duties of All City Personnel in Case of Attack, Tornadoes

Pontiac became the first city in Michigan last night to adopt a civil defense and natural disaster plan designed by the Michigan Municipal League.

★ ★ ★

Commissioners approved the lenghty plan which outlines the duties of all city personnel in case of enemy attack or such natural disasters as tornadoes.

Three sections of the plan, general city, law enforcement and fire control, were adopted by the City Commission in February.

City Manager Walter K. Willman was a member of the committee which drafted the model league plan.

★ ★ ★

"It is interesting to note that the new administrator of the Federal Civil Defense Administration has indicated that the new trend at the federal level is to emphasize the use of regular city employes rather than volunteers," said Robert A. Stierer, assistant city CD director.

★ ★ ★

The departments outlined for duties include DPW, water, electrical, parks and recreation, cemetery, engineering, health and medical services, finance, civilian aid such as Red Cross, plus the City Commission and other lesser departments.

2 Airmen Missing After Ditching Jet

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP)—Cutters and rescue planes searched today for the pilot and navigator-bombardier of a U.S. B47 jet bomber that plunged into the Gulf of St. Lawrence yesterday.

Still missing were Capt. Ray T. Cable, 36, the pilot, and Capt. Paul Pascal, 42, the navigator-bombardier.

All crew members are assigned to Plattsburgh Air Force Base, N.Y.

Merger Wins Unanimous Vote

Community National, Orion State Bank Wait Formal Federal OK

Shareholders of the Orion State Bank of Lake Orion and the Community National Bank yesterday unanimously approved the merger of the two banks.

Pending formal approval from the Comptroller of Currency in Washington, D. C., the Orion bank will become the eighth branch of the Community National Bank Oct. 1.

A. C. Girard, president of the Community National Bank, said no personnel changes were planned for the new branch. The present Orion bank building will still be used.

"We want to welcome the Orion bank to our family," Girard said. 'We will endeavor, as we always have, to serve the Lake Orion community like we serve the others."

The merger was planned to cope with the rapidly expanding community, said Oran C. Thomas, president of the Orion bank.

Other Community National branches, besides the main office in Pontiac, are located in Waterford Township, Keego Harbor, Perry street, Union Lake, Walled Lake, and Bloomfield Hills.

WASHINGTON (INS)—Vacationing President Eisenhower has been tipped off to begin quietly shopping around for a new deputy secretary of defense.

★ ★ ★

His top aides report that although incumbent Donald A. Quarles has agreed to stay on temporarily—perhaps until November—he is a bitterly disappointed man who wants out.

Quarles, along with most Capital observers, had assumed that Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, in promoting him from Air Force secretary to deputy chieftain, was grooming him as Wilson's successor in the No. 1 Pentagon spot.

Washington's social circuit has also noted a marked change in the usually affable Quarles and his attractive wife. Once among the gayest members of the dine-and-dance set, both seem dispirited and downcast since Ike passed over Quarles to name soap king Neil McElroy as Wilson's successor.

City Rushes Paving Jobs as Cold Weather Nears

BIRMINGHAM — Paving both streets and sidewalks is being pushed as rapidly as possible with the approach of cold weather, according to City Manager L. R. Gare.

★ ★ ★

Two pieces of sidewalk, one on Ferndale street and the other on Park street, were approved by city commissioners Monday. These two pieces were inadvertently omitted from the original sidewalk program.

The City Engineering Department recommended awarding the contract for paving a access drive at Pierce St. and 14-Mile Rd. to Mike Harabedian. His bid was for $6,581.90, approximately 11 per cent less than the city's estimate.

As Gare said work was progressing as rapidly as possible on the East Maple widening, Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley presented his plan for new parking hours in the area.

★ ★ ★

The south side of Maple avenue will have parking banned between 7 and 9 a.m. from Hunter boulevard to Worth street. From Worth to Adams road, parking will not be permitted at any time.

The north side of Maple will have a parking ban from 4 to 6 p.m. between Adams road and Poppleton street. The no parking rule will hold at all times from Poppleton to Hunter boulevard.

Commissioners have received a communication from Dr. Dwight E. Ireland, Birmingham school superintendent, expressing willingness of the school board to contribute $238.71 to the widening of Adams road.

The board also will participate in the Quarton Lake Estates sewers in the amount of approximately

The purchase of a new $2,150 tar trailer has been approved by Birmingham Commissioners. The purchase will be made from the Michigan Tractor & Machinery Co.

★ ★ ★

The Altar Society of Our Lady Queen of Martyrs Church will hold its third annual luncheon - fashion show Sept. 26 at Birmingham Country Club. Luncheon at 12:30 p.m. will be followed by a showing of fall fashions by Demery's, including children's styles.

★ ★ ★

Models will pose beneath a trellis decorated with fall flowers and foliage.

More Time Asked to Complete Hospital

A new tentative date for the completion of the $4,000,000 Pontiac General Hospital wing appeared likely last night after city commissioners granted the general contractors 154 additional days to finish the project.

★ ★ ★

Darin & Armstrong of Detroit asked for the extension to sometime in October of 1958 after running into numerous delays.

City Manager Walter K. Willman said the builders had encountered delays in starting the project, in receiving materials, and would be delayed also in tying the new wing to the old with waiting for certain equipment slowed in shipment because of the past defeat of the hospital bond issue.

★ ★ ★

Willman said the extension was "proper and justifiable." He added that the extension was for the present structural work and had nothing to do with the forthcoming $950,000 bond issue to provide equipment and furnish the wing.

Hazel Park Man Cleared in Death

Charles K. Lawson, 56-year-old Hazel Park political figure, has been cleared in the death of his wife Alice Tuesday morning.

★ ★ ★

Held for investigation earlier, Lawson was freed today after Dr. Herman J. Linn, Royal Oak pathologist, said, "There is nothing to indicate that violence played any part in the cause of her death."

★ ★ ★

Lawson was held after his wife died in Beaumont Hospital following three police calls to the Lawson home for "family trouble" complaints. She died of a brain hemorrhage.

WASHINGTON—The U.S. Supreme court, established in 1789, once occupied quarters in the basement of the Capitol and after 1800 met in the old Senate chamber. It got its own building in 1937.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

What is a cloudburst? Is a cloudburst a weather phenomenon or rather an ordinary occurrence?

A cloudburst is merely terminology used to describe a very heavy rain. In some areas of the country a cloudburst is said to have occurred during the heaviest downpour in a thunderstorm.

What is called a cloudburst usually takes place in summer, when high thunderheads build up and release torrents of water in very large drops (especially at the beginning of the downpour).

But there is actually no difference in what people call a cloudburst and the unusually heavy rain.

The term, cloudburst, then, is mostly folklore.

Mark 65th Anniversary, Never Have Argument

OLD TRAP, N. C. (AP)—W. B. Harrison, 82, who celebrates his 65th wedding anniversary today, says he and his wife have never had a quarrel since their marriage in 1892.

"I learned then that when she says something sharp to you, and you say something back to her, and she says something back, the only thing for you to do is to go to the barn. If you just stand there you'll get in trouble."

Thailand's New Boss

Seeks Close Tie to U. S.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand's new boss, Sarit Thanarat, pressed today for formation of a government pledged to continue this nation's close ties with the United States.

The armed forces chief, who ousted Premier P. Pibulsonggram in a bloodless power grab, told newsmen he did not know who would head the new government or what form it would take.

★ ★ ★

The whereabouts of Pibulsonggram remained a mystery. There were reports the fallen pro-Western leader was still in the country. Some U.S. quarters in Washington speculated he might be asked to return as premier.

Pibulsonggram was last seen Monday night speeding southeast of Bangkok in his auto after Sarit sent tanks rumbling through the capital to seize power.

★ ★ ★

Sarit had the formal backing of King Phumiphon Aduldet.

The King issued a statement calling on government officials to obey Sarit's orders, maintain order and await further instructions. Thai kings have been figureheads for the past 30 years and the royal blessing for Sarit's move was expected.

Teachers Unhappy About Time Rules

DETROIT (AP) — Some Detroit teachers are complaining about being kept in after school.

And many of them aren't too happy about the regulations requiring them to be at school 15 minutes before starting time.

★ ★ ★

Detroit School Supt. Samuel M. Brownell has been asked to modify his rule requiring teachers to report 15 minutes early and stay at least 30 minutes after the last class.

The regulations are contained in a new teacher's manual just issued.

But Brownell said the regulations are just "common sense." Teachers should approve the idea of "keeping office hours just like everyone else."

The Detroit Federation of Teachers has discussed the regulations at a series of meetings. No formal action has been taken although individual teachers have come out against them.

★ ★ ★

The manual says teachers should remain after school to meet with parents. Brownell said the early arrival is necessary so teachers can prepare the teaching schedule for the day.

Opposing teachers say that, as professional people, teachers recognize their obligations and do not need to be kept to specified hours.

Now Tom, Dick, Harry All Part of His Family

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A real estate salesman got an assist from Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones to realize an old dream of having a "Tom," "Dick" and "Harry" in his family.

★ ★ ★

Jones granted a court order to change the name of the 20-month-old son of Joffre D. Brantley Sr. from Joffre to Dick Brantley.

★ ★ ★

"I named my first boy Tom," Brantley explained, "and when the second one was born someone talked me out of it. Then I named the last one Harry and decided to go back and change the middle one's name to Dick."

Arrest Man Keeping 33 Dogs in His House

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Police were told Richard P. Clark, 69, had too many dogs and that they were bothering the neighbors' livestock. They said they caught nine dogs at Clark's home but 24 got away.

Clark was arrested on a warrant charging he harbored unlicensed and uninoculated dogs. He claimed only 13 of the dogs were his. He didn't explain where the rest came from.

Gen. Mark Clark Makes Proposal to Legion

Asks Camps to Combat Delinquency

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The American Legion today studied a proposal by Gen. Mark Clark that a summer camp for boys be set up in every military establishment in the nation to help prevent juvenile delinquency.

★ ★ ★

Clark was applauded at a Legion national convention dinner last night when he said he would make the proposal to President Eisenhower if the idea found support.

Clark, former United Nations commander in Korea, said he had conducted such a camp this summer at The Citadel, the Charleston, S. C., military college of which he is president.

★ ★ ★

He said the Citadel camp, besides providing recreation and a sense of discipline, taught character and love of God and country.

If, at the end of camp, the boys were given pins denoting them as junior defenders of the country, he said, they would go out to prevent trouble instead of to cause it.

Clark did not spell out details of the proposal except to say the boys would not wear uniforms and that the cost would be about "two dollars per day per lad."

★ ★ ★

He estimated that hundreds of thousands of boys could be accommodated if the facilities were made available.

At the Citadel camp, he said, the boys studied the Constitution and the Bill of Rights and learned "What made our country great."

"Support the Constitution," Clark said at one point. "I feel sad when I read about people who want to change the intent and meaning of the Constitution."

He did not elaborate.

★ ★ ★

The 40 and 8, the Legion's fun-making branch, held its annual parade last night on Atlantic Avenue, paralleling the boardwalk, before a crowd estimated by police at up to 200,000 persons.

Race Crisis Believed Ended

Nashville Schools Quiet

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Attendance has jumped to 90 per cent of the enrollment at the city's five desegregated grammar schools after a week of tension and violence.

★ ★ ★

Supt. W. A. Bass said yesterday, "I believe our trouble is ended."

Demonstrations of segregationists and violence capped by the mysterious dynamiting of Hattie Cotton school followed the first-grade integration last week ordered by U.S. District Court here. Attendance dropped to less than half normal at the affected schools.

★ ★ ★

The children returned yesterday under the watchful eyes of police officers, and all was quiet.

Eleven Negro 6-year-olds were in the five schools with about 2,000 white pupils, and a 12th Negro was expected to be on hand today. The one Negro girl at Hattie Cotton transferred yesterday to an all-Negro school.

As the classrooms filled up again, segregationist John Kasper was arraigned on a charge of inciting to riot, and his trial was set for Nov. 18. He remained in jail in default of $2,500 bond.

★ ★ ★

Kasper and nine other persons are under a federal court order restraining them and others acting with them for interfering with school desegregation here.

The three parties had combined in the "Democratic Front" to oppose the nomination by the King of Dr. K. I. Singh as premier. They accused him of being leftist and undemocratic.

Mr. Diefenbaker Lists Canada's U. S. Irritants

In a recent speech at Dartmouth College, Canada's Prime Minister JOHN G. DIEFENBAKER spoke frankly on the causes of disagreement between Canada and the United States.

While emphasizing the historical, spiritual and geographic unity of our two countries, the Prime Minister drew attention to our wheat disposal program in foreign markets. Called "dumping" by some critics, it has affected sales of surplus Canadian wheat abroad. Canada's wheat problem is even worse than our own.

★ ★ ★

However, the U. S. situation in that regard is easing and our wheat exports are expected to drop sharply from last year's record of 547 million bushels. New regulations have cut down barter deals with nations which can pay cash.

Some of this bartered wheat serves the useful purpose of strengthening the West's position including Canada's. It has helped the independence of recipient countries which do not have the dollars.

★ ★ ★

Another cause for concern is the ownership and control of Canadian industries by Americans. Mr. Diefenbaker says that "60 per cent of Canada's main manufacturing industries and a large proportion of its mine and oil production" are owned and controlled by U. S. companies. He suggests the incorporation of American firms investing in Canada as "Canadian companies making available equity stock to Canadians."

★ ★ ★

He also is disturbed over the $1.5 billion adverse trade balance with the United States. Michigan exports to Canada alone account for some $75 million a year. There is increasing talk of bringing the Canadian dollar down to par with the U. S. dollar. This could increase exports.

Mr. DIEFENBAKER's frankness and courage call for friendly discussions "to have the causes of disagreement removed, which unresolved may diminish the spirit of understanding which is characteristic of our relationship."

Threat to Middle East Countered by President

Mr. LOY HENDERSON's report to the State Department after his 14 day inspection trip to the Middle East, is not reassuring.

It confirms the fact that Syria is receiving huge quantities of Russian arms "which could not be justified by any purely defensive needs." While the President did not brand the Syrian government Communist dominated, he did say the present regime has "leftist leanings." Still another danger is the smuggling of Soviet arms from Syria to Red sympathizers in nearby countries.

★ ★ ★

The Communists, now well entrenched in Syria, could sabotage two major oil pipelines which cross the country and that is a powerful weapon to hold over Western Europe. From this vantage point in the Arab world they can broadcast vicious propaganda against the West, particularly the United States, and are doing so.

★ ★ ★

Using his powers under the Eisenhower Doctrine, the President is countering the threat in Syria by an airlift of arms to Jordan. Shipments to Lebanon, Iraq and Turkey are being speeded and Mr. EISENHOWER has made it plain that any act of aggression by Syria against those nations would risk American intervention.

The President's warning coupled with decisive action may be enough to hold back a Syrian attack on its neighbors. Renewed chaos would benefit only the Soviet Union which is striving to convince the Mideast that the United States "now has no military superiority over Russia."

The Eisenhower Doctrine does not deal with successful internal subversion of a government by Communists. However, Syria yet has time to awaken to the danger and may be deterred from wrecking Middle East peace.

"It Was Bad at First, Then I Got Used to It"

David Lawrence Says:

Reds Don't Have Mixed Schools

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Soviet Russia claims to be ahead in many things —from the invention of the airplane to the making of the intercontinental missile—but certainly there can be no doubt that in maintaining a rigid system of segregation of the races in the schools of Central Asia, the Soviet Union has managed to accomplish her objective with a maximum of efficiency at home and a minimum of criticism abroad.

For throughout the world hardly a ripple of dissenting comment is heard. In fact, the "Daily Worker"—the Communist Party organ in New York—brazenly spends most of its editorial energies denouncing segregation of schools in southern areas of the United States without showing a like concern about the same problem in Russia.

Also, many observers in congressional circles and in the press keep harping on the theme, "What will they think of us abroad?" without taking note of the many countries in which a similar separation of racial groups in the schools occurs.

But the truth is that Soviet Russia defends her segregation policies as desirable from a cultural standpoint. She says she wants to preserve the literary tradition. There are five of the so-called Soviet "republics" in Central Asia. The population of 16 million comprises many races, including Mongols. The religion is predominantly Moslem.

In 1955, Robert Kennedy, now counsel for the "Labor Rackets" committee of the United States Senate, made a trip to Central Asia with Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court of the United States.

GAVE VIEWS

When they got back to this country, Kennedy gave an interview on the subject to "U.S. News & World Report," and Douglas wrote articles for "Look" magazine. Kennedy said:

"The Russians maintain one set of schools for their children and one set of schools for the children of the local people. It is a segregated school system."

"What is that?" he was asked.

"The explanation the officials gave us," he answered, "is that people like their own schools. . . . All I know is that segregation exists. In every city that we visited in Central Asia, the schools were segregated—the Russian school children in one school—the local children in another."

DIFFERENCE IN COLOR

The next question was: "Is there a difference in color between the Russians and the natives?"

"Oh yes, they are completely different," replied Kennedy. "The Russians are European, white. The natives are Mongolian—a dark race."

Justice Douglas wrote in his article in "Look" magazine:

"The Soviets have foisted segregation on Central Asia. There are separate schools for the natives and separate schools for the Russians. The native schools are taught mostly by native teachers. The teachers in the Russian schools are almost always Russian.

"The Soviet press for years has screamed against the discriminatory practices of a few of our states in segregating Negro school children from the whites. A party member always delighted in teasing me about it. When I rejoined by asking about the separate schools for the natives of Central Asia, I got only resentful glares."

POINT WITH PRIDE

In his book entitled "Russian Journey," which was published a few months later, Justice Douglas made this comment:

"Some Uzbek teachers in Tashkent and some Kazakhs who were in the Alma Ata city government defended segregation, pointing with pride to the provisions in their state constitutions that the native people are guaranteed the right to receive public school education 'in the native language.' And so they are. But the natives are still at a loss to justify the practice of putting the Russians in separate schools."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Recipe Gives Immunity Against Ivy Poisoning

"Years ago you published your remedy for ivy poisoning. When I came down with ivy poisoning my mother took the recipe to the druggist, who said: 'Oh, I'm never without it. Keep it made up—have so many calls for it.' It worked very well.

DR. BRADY

"This summer I told a friend that the druggist had it always ready . . . but this time the druggist said: 'I have very few calls for it now—the doctors give shots for ivy poisoning now.'

"My frugal nature rebels. A doctor's call or a shot must cost over $5. We used to get a vial of Dr. Brady's Poison Ivy remedy, which lasted two summers, for 35c—finally upped to 50c. Would it be possible to reprint that article for the benefit of campers and late summer tourists? P.S.—The friend who had to settle for the shots had to live through the siege—the shots didn't cure. R.E."

One susceptible to ivy poisoning may immunize himself, at least for the season, by taking internally minute doses of a very dilute freshly prepared tincture of ivy leaf and progressively doubling the dose from a drop a day until, in the course of two weeks, one takes a teaspoonful once a day, then continue taking a teaspoonful in half a glass of water once or twice a week through the season.

Here's the recipe—and heaven help us all if the printers contrive to revise it to fit the available space:

Tincture (10%) of Rhus toxicodendron ..... 15 drops
Glycerin ..... 2 drams
Syrup of orange ...enough to make 3 fluid ounces

Directions: Take a drop twice a day in half a glass of water. Second day take 4 drops; third day, 8 drops; 4th day, 16 drops (in one dose or divided into two doses); 5th day, 32 drops; 6th day and thereafter, a teaspoonful.

Remember, this is solely immunizing treatment. To the best of my knowledge it is not satisfactory treatment for ivy poisoning.

The best treatment I know for ivy poisoning is a daily hypodermic or intramuscular injection of ivy toxin. Usually two injections suffice.

As for the legendary immunization by eating ivy, I tell all I know about it in the pamphlet on Ivy Poisoning, for which send stamped, self-addressed envelope. And all I know is what correspondents have told me. It is well to remember that in such matters human nature is, shall we say, fabulous.

Long-Time Congressman Agrees on Press Editorial

I would be false to my emotions if I did not immediately write to congratulate you on the fairness and high caliber of the editorial in Saturday's issue of The Pontiac Press on county government.

★ ★ ★

You have always been fair in all of your decisions. My gratitude will never cease for the splendid American way in which you dealt with public problems and with public servants which included myself.

★ ★ ★

You are 100 per cent correct in regard to Arthur Moore, and your comparison of his honesty with Abraham Lincoln is sufficient to place him on a sound basis with the people of our county. Personally I have always been proud of the administration of government in Oakland County, and especially since I went to Congress in 1932, for that brought me closer than anything before to those who administer our law in our country. This writer knows something about "do gooders," "lords of righteousness" and "faultfinders."

★ ★ ★

My hat is off to The Press. With this letter goes my personal thanks and appreciation for the fine American way in which you handle the criticism you receive.

Quotes Report by Committee

The Voice of the People had another letter regretting that our voters beat fluoridation. I now see the World Health Organization had a special committee of experts from six nations investigate this and they endorse it unanimously.

In the U.S. 1,500 communities now enjoy it and they embrace 32 million men. The committee said decay lessened 60 per cent and the teeth were superior.

Father's Worried About Facilities

I wonder if all parents who have children in kindergarten are aware that in some of our schools here in Pontiac both boys and girls are using the same toilet facilities.

When we enrolled our daughter at Mark Twain School, we were shocked to see that there is only one rest room for all the kindergarten children. We understand this is true of other schools built recently in Pontiac.

I can't imagine the reason for providing only one rest room for the kindergarten children and feel this situation should be corrected at once. I hope other parents are as concerned with this problem as we are.

'Look at Own City Before Judging'

Concerning Mr. Headshaker's letter, a person should know what he's talking about before he speaks. A person has a right to vote any way he wants and maybe Negroes did vote Democratic. But since when can a person look into the future and tell how another is going to vote? Before you judge the South, perhaps you'd better look around your own city and you'll see the situation isn't much better when it comes to getting jobs. I'm sure this isn't because the colored people vote Democratic.

J. P.

'Has Bright Idea but Who'll Work?'

Peeved certainly has a bright idea, but if you get women out of the shops, who will build the cars? As soon as a man is put on a job that has any work connected to it, he wants a 63B quick, and when jobs are easy to find, he will quit before the foreman has time to get him a 63B. So now the women should give up all their seniority, pension and social security because someone was a job hopper and didn't accumulate any seniority. We all know our own business best, so let's be fair. Don't be a job hopper and try a good day's work for a change.

Bosh

(Editor's Note: Will someone tell us what a "63B" is?)

Offers Americans Food for Thought

The American Legion Magazine says there are 10,000 Chinese-American teenagers in New York City. Not one—not one—has ever been arrested for committing a crime. The disgrace, shame and humiliation this puts on Americans is more than I can find words to describe.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Discusses Embarrassing Habit

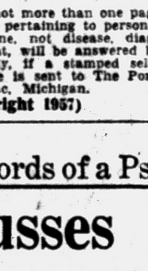

Clyde's social problem scares thousands of young men and women all over America. It can be cured however, by the three methods outlined below. They involve both psychology and medicine. Scrapbook this case or mail it to some shy relative or friend who is also a victim. Never become a slave to any segment of your anatomy.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-393: Clyde R., aged 28, is a chemical engineer.

"But I have a serious social problem," he confessed. "It has bothered me all my life.

"One reason why I was regarded as a 'lone wolf' in school and never have married, was this fear.

DR. CRANE

"Whenever I go out on a date, I find it most embarrassing. For I seem to have weak kidneys, though my family doctor said they were organically OK.

"Anyway, I find it necessary to visit the Men's Room several times during the evening.

"If I take a girl to a movie, I thus am forced to excuse myself two or three times during the show.

"As a result, I have led a lonely life. I never confessed this problem to anybody else, Dr. Crane, but I wonder if something can't be done to correct my difficulty?"

TEENAGE TORMENT

Clyde's problem confronts thousands of teenagers, as well as many older folks. And it is the bane of girls as well as men.

When we are mingling with the opposite sex at social events, our blood pressure rises and our heart beats faster.

★ ★ ★

Thus, more blood passes through our kidneys and they filter out more waste products. The urinary bladder then gets full more quickly.

And that is doubly true because, in our nervous excitement, we usually consume excess fluids.

When Clyde took a girl to dinner, he would drink several glasses of water, just as a nervous outlet. And he also had a couple of cups of coffee.

So his system became waterlogged. And the caffeine in coffee, tea or cola soft drinks likewise prods the body into secreting more urine.

It is thus only natural that such young people should have what is popularly called an "irritable bladder."

★ ★ ★

Actually, that social diagnosis usually refers simply to an extra full bladder. So what can you do to correct the difficulty?

ORGANS NEED TRAINING

First, eliminate the drinking of extra fluids. Purposely dry out your body when you are going on a date that night.

Stop taking fluids by mid-afternoon. And shun caffeine beverages at the dinner table. Go easy on the ice water, too. And alcoholic beverages are obviously taboo for they also promote more urine secretion.

Second, re-train your urinary bladder. Many young people get a "bladder complex" just as many oldsters have a "colon complex."

These young people with the bladder complex, may thus empty it whenever it holds only four ounces. Soon the bladder develops the habit of demanding to be emptied when it contains but half a glassful.

So reeducate your bladder. During the day, deliberately force it to stretch until it will hold 8 to 12 ounces.

And don't be afraid that this will make it burst, for the bladder can stretch until it contains several quarts. In prostate cases, we often find almost a gallon of urine dammed up in the bladder by the swollen prostate gland.

The third solution is to extrovert your attention so you feel less self-conscious and shy.

To do this, analyze your companion for some good point and then offer a sincere compliment thereon. This keeps the attention OFF yourself and ON the other party.

So send for the "Compliment Club Booklet," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents.

It is valuable in building up social poise. And it teaches you how to re-start conversations after they have bogged down.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Staebler Scores GOP for Tie-Ins With Hoffa

LANSING (AP) — Neil Staebler, state Democratic chairman, has accused his Republican counterpart of trying to soft-pedal GOP tie-ins with labor leader James R. Hoffa.

★ ★ ★

Actually, Staebler said yesterday, "the leadership of the Republican Party and men like Hoffa just seem to have a natural affinity for each other."

Hoffa, vice president of the Teamsters Union, has been under investigation by a Senate subcommittee looking into alleged racketeering in labor unions.

In a statement earlier this week, Staebler said, GOP State Chairman Lawrence Lindemer tried to minimize Hoffa's associations with the GOP by referring only to Hoffa's support to Detroit Mayor Albert E. Cobo in the 1956 governor's race.

A hospital-bound motorist caused a three-vehicle collision yesterday at 5:20 p.m. at W. Huron St. and Telegraph Rd.

Barrett told Pontiac Police he had his lights on, his spot light on and was honking his horn when he entered the intersection.

Fear, Outside Agitation Spark Racial Violence

(This is the third of six articles in which a famed reporter describes vividly what he and a reporting team have found to be the causes behind the crisis over school segregation in the South today.)

By BOB CONSIDINE

NASHVILLE (INS) — Gov. Frank G. Clement, Tenneessee's youthful and progressive chief executive, could hardly believe his eyes last year when a mob — many of them apparently from out of the state — advanced on the old Capitol to pillory him for suggesting that the law of the land in the matter of public school integration be upheld.

The motley crowd left their empty bottles of cheap whiskey in the corridors, and under the statue of Andrew Jackson. Later that day, Clement went home, chin still firm, closed the door behind him and briefly wept, that Tennesseans would treat him thusly.

Later, his 11-year-old son returned from the public school he attends ("if they're good enough for the average Tennessee family they're good enough for mine,") and said to his distinguished father, "I heard some terrible things, about you today."

Clement thought the lad himself might have had a hard time of it at school, but it developed that what the boy heard was a quote from the mob, on a radio program.

★ ★ ★

Clement took the boy aside and and asked, "Son, what would you say if a few Negro children entered your school, and your classroom?" The boy was uncomfortable for a time until he sensed that the father was honestly in search of information.

WOULDN'T LIKE IT

"I wouldn't like it too much," the child said. "I'm just not used to it. But if it was the law I wouldn't do anything about it."

The interview with the child helped shape Clement's approach to the difficult problem, a problem climaxed last week when persons unknown as yet — but perhaps stimulated by the northern racist John Kasper — dynamited Nashville's integrated Hattie Cotton Grammar School.

★ ★ ★

"This all boils down to three words," the keynoter of the last Democratic national convention told me in his modest office in the Capitol building. "Those words are 'law and order.' "

"I'd say that 90 per cent don't want desegregation in the public schools, but every last one of them wants violance less. I don't think the Negroes, by and large, especially want integration for their children.

He would not level any direct criticism against fellow-governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas, except to say:

"I've never read the constitution of the state of Arkansas. But I'm familiar with the constitution of the state of Tennessee and it forbids me from calling out the National Guard until there is material violence."

OTHER GIVE VIEWS

Elsewhere in Nashville, the International News Service team met with five interested parties whose feelings in the matter are pertinent:

★ ★ ★

Paul McConnell, father of two school-age children, who was arrested for disorderly conduct while protesting entry of Negroes at one school, said, "All I want to do is protest for our children. We feel that our children are not safe at that school. We've always been at peace, but once you mix the races there's no telling what might happen, and I don't want it to happen to my children."

Edward O. Glymp, who was arrested in the crowd gathered in front of a school, said, "I'm opposed to integration in this school because it's always been segregated, I feel that if I lived that way through childhood, I want my child to live the same way. It's something now in the South, and I don't think we're ready for it."

Presbyterian minister Fred Stroud, who has been named in a federal injunction forbidding interference with desegregation, said:

"I'm no fighter for violence. I just believe strongly that it is the way of the Lord to keep the whites and Negroes separate and I feel we should speak up for our right."

PRAYS FOR REPORTERS

Rev. Stroud asks Northern newsmen who call on him to kneel while he prays for them.

Mrs. Albert Young, who took her pretty child out of an integrated classroom, said with great sincerity:

"Deep in my heart, I got along all right with the Negroes, but I think mixing the schools is going to creat lots of friction.

"Colored people live in the same block I do. I don't talk to any of them, but I never get into any trouble with them either. With the mixing, I think it will bring about trouble."

The Rev. Edward Jackson, a Negro who escorted children to school and later was arrested for waving a pistol, said, "I was afraid the children were going to be hurt when the whites came toward our house after school was out. I would never have used the pistol, but I felt I needed it for their protection."

Three Tropical Storms Expected in Next Month

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Three tropical storms are expected to develop during the period from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15, the Miami Weather Bureau said today.

They will include at least one in the Gulf, one in the Caribbean and possibly one in the general area of the Antilles.

★ ★ ★

"While this forecast was being prepared," the Weather Bureau said, "the tropical storm forecast for the Gulf (Esther) developed."

If a tropical storm forms in the Antilles, it will likely remain at sea.

Hurricane Carrie, currently north of Bermuda, will remain east of the U. S. mainland and is not included in the three tropical storms forecast for this period, the bureau added.

★ ★ ★

On the average, about two or three tropical storms form during this 30-day period. During the past 70 years, 60 per cent of them developed into full hurricanes.

Iron Ore Shipments on Great Lakes Drop

CLEVELAND (AP) — Iron ore shipments on the Great Lakes during the week ended Tuesday totaled 2,801,417 tons compared with 3,182,818 tons during the corresponding week of last year, the American Iron Ore Assn. reported today.

Shipments for the season totaled 63,791,478 tons compared with 48,121,062 at this time last season, but a strike by seamen on the ore carriers cut the August 1956, tonnage far below normal.

All-White Church Names Negro Full-Time Pastor

CHAMPLIN, Minn. (AP) — Dr. Charles M. Sexton, a Negro, today assumed full-time pastorate over the Champlin Church's all-white congregation.

"This is a fine advancement in race relations, a Christian demonstration," he said after his appointment was confirmed yesterday by Bishop D. Stanley Coors, Minnesota Methodist leader.

★ ★ ★

James Cook, church chairman, said the vote for calling the Rev. Mr. Sexton was unanimous among the 160 members. "We think he is a wonderful leader," Cook said.

Dr. Sexton preached several sermons as a substitute pastor here. The congregation has had no regular minister for some months.

Dr. Sexton, native of Kingston, Jamaica, formerly was pastor of the Negro Border Methodist Church in Minneapolis.

2 Letters by Poe Bring More Than He Earned

NEW YORK (AP)—Two letters by Edgar Allan Poe have been priced by a rare book dealer at $5,000 for the pair.

About 25 years ago, they were sold for about $200.

The letters were obtained by Lew David Feldman, of Jamaica, Queens, head of the House of El Dieff, Inc. The new price is listed in the company's catalogue.

Poe, 19th century American poet and short story writer, never earned more than $1,000 in any year.

NATO Nations on Maneuvers

Test Ability to Defend English Channel From Air, Sub Attacks

LONDON (AP)—The English Channel came under simulated siege today as the NATO allies began testing their ability to defend the narrow waterway against air and submarine attack.

★ ★ ★

Hundreds of ships became the targets of dummy attack by forces of the opposing "Orange" navy. Along the shore, coast guard personnel, fishermen and volunteer workers kept watch for ships, planes and mines.

The defense of the channel is known as exercise "Stand Firm." It is being held in conjunction with exercise "Strikeback," a massive NATO maneuver involving naval forces of seven nations.

★ ★ ★

While the main NATO sea forces steamed for the Atlantic area where "Strikeback" begins tomorrow, the Channel region and the southern part of the North Sea came under "attack" a day early.

Units of the attacking forces will range from midget submarines to the U. S. Navy's Nautilus, the first atomic propelled submarine.

★ ★ ★

Countries taking part in the combined NATO exercises include the United States, Britain, Canada, France, the Netherlands, Portugal, Norway and West Germany.

U.N. Envoy Beaten, Knifed in New York

NEW YORK, (AP)—Nepal's ambassador to the United Nations—stabbed and beaten by two robbers as he walked in Central Park — was reported in satisfactory condition today in a hospital.

★ ★ ★

The robbers, who accosted him in the park early last night, took $95 from his wallet and his wristwatch.

★ ★ ★

The ambassador said the robbers were Negroes and that they asked him for a cigarette. He drew out his cigarette case, only to find it empty, and they then attacked him.

Romance of Cecil, Penelope at End; Lady Vanishes

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bronx Zoo says Penelope, its missing duck-billed platypus, is probably dead.

Dr. Leonard J. Goss, acting director of the zoo, yesterday called off the hunt for the two-pound, reluctant lover.

★ ★ ★

The zoo people don't know exactly how Penelope escaped.

They believe she scrambled out of her burrow and over a high wire fence July 26.

Cecil, her intended mate, lingers on in the platypusary into which he and Penelope moved after a trip from their native Australia. He hasn't betrayed much sense of loss, but they never got along anyway.

★ ★ ★

Cecil had been indifferent to her but unexpectedly showed some interest in July. It was too late. Penelope couldn't stand him.

For weeks the zoo men combed the 252-acre grounds.

Vendor Assails State Officials

Dairy, Apple Industries Said to Be Suffering From Run-Around

LANSING (AP) — The owner of a Lansing vending machine company says he's getting the run-around from state officials, and Michigan's dairy and apple industries are suffering as a result.

Paul Rankins, owner of automatic vending service, told the State Administrative Board yesterday he's been trying unsuccessfully for 3½ years to install milk and apple juice dispensers in state office buildings.

★ ★ ★

Conferences with one state agency after another failed to get results, he said.

"I finally came to you, Governor," Rankins told Gov. Williams, "because I know you are a milk drinker yourself."

Williams, showing obvious signs of irritation, ordered an immediate check on the situation.

★ ★ ★

Rankins pointed out that coffee and soft drink machines have been installed at numerous locations in state buildings. He estimated that 66,000 8-ounce-cartons of milk could have been sold in the same buildings since July 1 had his machines been there.

James W. Miller, state controller, told Rankins that milk is already sold on three floors of the Lewis Cass Building owned by the state, and in cafeterias in both state office buildings.

He said proposed extension of milk sales had been under consideration and that Rankins would have opportunity to bid on taking over the milk concessions.

Drunkometer Puzzles Oklahoma Lawmakers

OKLAHOMA CITY, (AP)—An Oklahoma legislative committee studying highway safety laws is a little skeptical of the drunkometer.

They tested one last night at the state capitol. Two newsmen, a legislator and a traffic engineer drank for safety's sake.

★ ★ ★

Phil Dessauer, capitol correspondent for the Tulsa World, had a two-ounce shot and breathed into a balloon. The gauge registered .50 of 1 per cent.

"That can't be right. That's a world's record. He's supposed to be dead," exclaimed Municipal Judge James Demopolos of Oklahoma City, who had addressed the committee on the use of the gadget.

★ ★ ★

Demonstrators explained .15 of 1 per cent on the gauge is considered evidence of intoxication.

Dessauer exhaled again. The gauge said zero.

Another newsman drank four ounces and took the test. The machine showed him .25 of 1 per cent — staggering drunk.

You couldn't tell it by looking at him and he passed another test. He said "Methodist, Episcopalian and electricity" without faltering.

Bill Skeith, a legislator from Muskogee, stepped up. The machine showed zero. It was right. Skeith hadn't touched a drop.

No one undertook to explain the gadget's apparent failure.

But this was sure: It still is a violation of the state constitution to sell or possess liquor in Oklahoma.

India Seeks U.S. Aid

NEW DELHI (AP) — Finance Minister T. T. Krishnamachari left for the United States yesterday to seek financial help for India's wobbling second five-year plan. Prime Minister Nehru said recently India would like to obtain a 500 to 600 million dollar loan from the United States.

Knight Succeeds Prince as UN's New President

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations has elected a knight to succeed a prince as its president.

He is Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, a 56-year-old diplomat with previous careers in law, newspaper work and radio broadcasting.

★ ★ ★

As president of the 12th Assembly, he succeeds Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand.

Munro is a knight commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, a rank bestowed upon him in Queen Elizabeth's 1955 New Year's honors list.

The honor goes to British subjects and British-protected persons who "may have rendered extraordinary and important services other than military within or in relations to any part of the British dominions or territories."

★ ★ ★

This description fits Munro, who stands over six feet tall, and has been booming out his words here in deliberate fashion with a New Zealand twang for more than five years.

He has been permanent U.N. representative for New Zealand in the U.N. and his country's ambassador to Washington since February 1952.

College Success Formula Still Remains Secret

CHICAGO (INS)—What is the secret of success in college?

Some say a high IQ; others stress long hours of study.

★ ★ ★

William D. Diemer, a mechanics instructor at Illinois Institute of Technology, says neither is a sure-fire formula.

Diemer asked 100 students at IIT to report their activities for a typical one-week period. His conclusions:

There is little clear relations between IQ and grades.

The use of study time counts more than the number of hours spent poring over books.

★ ★ ★

"And the grades may not bear a close relation to the amount learned," says Diemer.

"Personality characteristics, which may not be measurable, may be more important in determining a student's grades than either ability or amount of time spent in study."

Diemer found that study time averaged 25.9 hours per week. Freshmen in his survey averaged 20 hours, sophomores, 30, juniors 29 and seniors 24.

★ ★ ★

Those who studied more hours than the average were found to have grade-point averages ranging from a perfect 4 (A) to a low 1.33 (D-plus). Those who studied less than one hour for each hour of credit had a similar range of grade-point averages, 3.88 to 1.28.

City Orders 6 Studies; Base of Future Plans

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

The City of Pontiac is in the studying mood. This is indicated in the number of studies which officials have ordered or others on which future city plans are sure to hinge.

The outstanding studies, six in number, involve traffic and transportation, police, urban rehabilitation, drainage, municipal services to fringe areas, and a new source of water for Pontiac.

"We have a lot of problems," was City Manager Walter K. Willman's explanation for the numerous studies. These are:

1 — Transportation and traffic study by George Barton Associates of Chicago.

2 — Analysis of the police department by the Chicago Public Administration Service firm.

3 — Urban renewal and rehabilitation by David S. Geer of Birmingham.

★ ★ ★

4 — Clinton River drainage study by Jones and Henry engineering firm of Toledo.

5 — Proposed study of providing municipal services to fringe areas by Jones and Henry.

6 — Water study by Bechtel International Pipeline Co. for Southeastern Michigan Water Authority.

The traffic study was initiated last month. It will be financed entirely by the Downtown Pontiac Assn. and is expected to guide long-term planning in improving the city's major thoroughfares and all other forms of transportation.

It is expected to cost $17,442 and will be completed in six months. Working closely with the Chicago traffic engineer consultants will be David Geer, Pontiac's planning consultant.

★ ★ ★

The study of the police department was approved Tuesday night by city commissioners, upon the recommendation of Willman. It will principally probe administration and morale phases of the force.

It will cost the city from $5,000 to $9,000 and will be completed possibly in five months. The PAS is internationally known for governmental studies.

In March of this year officials gave the green light to Geer Associates to launch a long-range survey of city planning with the emphasis on rebuilding of certain blighted areas.

At present Geer has developed maps showing areas of substandard housing and is about ready to make application for federal assistance in the project, according to Willman.

This urban renewal work will be finance two-thirds by the federal government and one-third by the city.

★ ★ ★

The drainage study from Jones and Henry was asked for several years ago, Willman said. The preliminary cost of it is $15,000. "Its aim is to show us how to perfect our present drainage system outlet of the Clinton and also how to plan all future drainage projects," Willman stated.

★ ★ ★

The report from the city's engineering consultants is expected to be ready within two weeks.

Should Pontiac serve as a "core" city and provide services to fringe areas, or should it insist on these areas being annexed first? Partial light will be shed on this question when Willman recommends the Toledo firm undertake such a study.

Major reason for it stems from the nearly year long hassle resulting from the connection to Pontiac sewers of the supermarket in Waterford Township at Telegraph and Elizabeth Lake roads.

★ ★ ★

In the past, the City Commission has been firm in its annexation-or-no-services policy, but lately, according to Willman, several commissioners "seem to be changing their minds."

In the standpoint of need, the sixth and final study—that by the Bechtel firm—is probably the most important.

City officials have been aware for sometime of the lessening supplies of ground water.

The study will show if it is feasible to build a $150 million pipeline to provide water from Lake Huron for Oakland and Macomb County communities.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac will examine this study, due in several months, along with a Jones and Henry water survey of the city and one recently completed by the National Sanitation Foundation.

"All of these studies should put the city in a very forward looking position," the manager said.

Soprano Callas Protests Action

Assails Opera Company of San Francisco for Substituting Another

MILAN (INS) — Temperamental soprano Maria Meneghini-Callas charged bitterly today that the San Francisco Opera Company was acting "vindictively" when it dropped her from its roster of 1957 artists.

The golden voiced Metropolitan star was so upset by the adverse publicity she has been receiving that she took an unprecedented step and invited a reporter into her home.

Usually newsmen find the singing beauty a very difficult woman to locate but today she was eagerly waiting when International News Service correspondent George Gregori called on her.

She said she was very disturbed that Kurt Herbert Adler, general director of the San Francisco Company, had not believed her claim that she was tired and ill and unable to sing.

The singer said Adler had cabled her that he was "skeptical" about her condition and was formally notifying her she had been replaced.

Mme. Callas called his action "quite typical of what a theater does when it feels it has been damaged."

She maintained that she is in no condition to sing and will rest during the period of her contract with the San Francisco Opera.

She said she would visit the U. S. in November but was uncertain about whether she would sing at that time in Dallas.

France Short of Teachers Too

Country's Baby Boom Crowds Prep Schools Past Capacities

PARIS (INS) — Shortages of teachers and classrooms are problems not confined to booming U. S. cities and suburbs.

French high school enrollments will jump more than 10 per cent this year and education officials will be hard pressed to provide room for all the students.

The nation's lycees and colleges —both of which correspond to U. S. secondary schools — open on Oct. 1 to an estimated 570,000 students. Last year's enrollment was 510,000.

Officials trace the sharp increase to France's "baby-boom," which, as in the U. S., began during World II. They also cite improved economic conditions and a "race for culture" which causes more parents to keep their children in school beyond the primary level.

NEED SCIENCE TEACHERS

And, as in the U. S. again, France's most acute teacher shortage is in the scientific fields. The problem is double-edged: More and more secondary students are taking scientific studies, and fewer and fewer university students are candidates for teaching posts in the sciences.

As in the U. S., private industry and public research groups win many would-be science teachers. Moreover, low birth rates in the 1930's make difficult the task of recruiting a sufficient number of future teachers from today's older students.

This year, education officials in some areas of the country are offering teaching posts to engineers and technicians, providing them with salaries comparable with those they give up.

And teachers who reach retirement age now can continue to teach, if they so desire.

But these new measures, though they may ease the shortage, cannot totally solve France's urgent need for more science teachers.

England had three kings in one year: George V died in January of 1936; Edward VIII abdicated in December of the same year; and George VI became the new king.

Tin Pan Alley Keeping Pulse on People's Likes

By ED CREAGH
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Give me the making of the songs of a nation," a wise man once said, "and I care not who makes its laws."

(Andrew Fletcher, 1655-1716, in case you happen to be caught on a quiz program.)

What he seems to have meant is that the songs people sing tell more about them than all the laws on the statute books.

★ ★ ★

Fletcher lived before the juke box age, lucky fellow. Wonder what he's make of the American people if he were exposed to today's popular songs?

★ ★ ★

The "top 10," according to the amusement industry weekly Variety, are in order of popularity: "Tammy," "Diana," "Around the World," "Fascination," "Gonna Sit Right Down and Write Myself a Letter," "Honeycomb," "Rainbow," "White Silver Sands," "It's Not for Me to Say," "In the Middle of an Island."

★ ★ ★

This writer ran out of dimes before investigating all of these, but there does seem to be a trend:

★ ★ ★

If it's true that songs mirror the souls of people better than laws do, then Americans are more interested in love and foreign travel than in, say, civil rights or the other issues that furrow the brows of our legislators.

★ ★ ★

This will come as no surprise to Tin Pan Alley. Maybe Congress suspects it from time to time too. The members keep it pretty quiet if they do though. They tend to keep the beat at funeral tempo. No rock 'n' roll for Capitol Hill.

★ ★ ★

Getting back to the top 10, now: "Tammy," a catchy tune, seems to be concerned with young love, and who's against that?

"Around the World?" Well, that's about a guy who wouldn't settle for the girl next door. He had to search all around the world, like a congressman on an expense account.

★ ★ ★

"Gonna Sit Right Down and Write Myself a Letter?" This is quite possible the silliest one since Tin Pan Alley was a country lane. The girl won't write to the boy so he writes to himself and forges her name. What a jerk.

Likewise: "It's Not for Me to Say." This clown can't say whether the girl loves him or not. It doesn't seem to have occurred to him to ask her. Or better yet tell her.

★ ★ ★

He could, of course, be the dreamer type, like the boy who writes himself letters. In which case he'd be right at home on that "Middle of An Island" record. With the monkeys and the palm trees. Honest, that's how the song goes. Another dime down the drain, in the interest of trying to understand 20th century America.

★ ★ ★

It's not quite as bad as it sounds, though. The "top 10" list is culled from the dimes and dollars fed into the juke boxes and record shops by teen-age girls, for the most part. And the teen-agers do not yet run the country. They simply run the parents who do run the country.

How now, Mr. Fletcher? Would you still rather write our songs than our laws?

Grandfather's Glass Kills 4-Year-Old Boy

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—A 4-year old boy in the northern town of Jaffna died from drinking water out of a glass used by his grandfather to commit suicide, a coroner's report said today.

★ ★ ★

The boy's grandmother told the coroner the child's grandfather had committed suicide by drinking arrack, an alcoholic drink, mixed with poison.

★ ★ ★

While police were investigating, the boy brought her a glass and asked for a drink of water, she said. A little later the boy became violently sick. She realized the child had picked up the tumbler used by his grandfather.

CONSTIPATED?
New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloat or gripe
Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.
To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be remoistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it to action; to a normal urge to purge.
And, of all laxatives, only COLONAID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONAID'S great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONAID'S stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONAID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.
Superior to old style brik, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions.
It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONAID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98c for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

'Sensitivity' May Be the Opposite

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Some people pride themselves on being just too sensitive to live in this world.

But what they proudly claim as sensitivity is often just lack of understanding and compassion for their fellow men, plus a good amount of selfishness.

★ ★ ★

This letter from a lady in Pennsylvania indicates that she is of this type:

"Why do such awful people enter the personnel business?" she writes. "If they honestly don't love people, why do they go into the field?

APPLIED FOR JOB

"For example, today I went to an employment agency to apply for a job. It's true that I haven't had much business experience — I've been busy raising my family.

"I had a lot of shopping to do all day, so I was a little late in getting to the agency. However, it wasn't yet 5 o'clock and their hours for interviewing are 9 until 5.

"I tell you, that young woman in the agency was almost impossible! She insisted that I fill out a card, and wouldn't even listen to my explanation that it wasn't necessary.

"By the time the card was filled out, it was a little after 5. The interviewer was in such a hurry to get home, she didn't even let me explain what kind of job I wanted.

"She had that rude, harsh manner — probably jealous because I am married and have children. I know she won't get a job for me.

HURTING PEOPLE

"But if she dislikes people so much, why did she enter the personnel field? Think of the danger she does, hurting people's feelings, making them feel unemployable.

★ ★ ★

"Don't tell me I'm too sensitive. That woman would make anybody feel badly."

It's clear that this woman is going to have to change her approach if she wants a job. It is she who is insensitive, not the employment agency interviewer.

In the first place, at the end of a day, any interviewer worth her salt will be exhausted and tired of people. After interviewing for hours, and listening to sad and angry tales, you are apt to feel exhausted.

Moreover, it's hard enough at any time to interview the prickly difficult type who will not fill out the card, and who is exhaustingly long-winded. No wonder the employment agency woman was brusque. She was probably ready to scream!

GO THERE EARLY

If you have to work with employment agencies, remember to go early, when the interviewers are fresh. Do as they ask and fill out the cards and other so-called red tape their way.

There are reasons for rules. If you want an agency to help you, you'll have to play according to their rules.

Pates Love Gracious Old Home

Marine Chief and Wife Are Housed in 1801 Mansion

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Randolph McCall Pate, wife of the commandant of the Marine Corps, believes she has the most gracious dining room in Washington. It is also one of the oldest.

★ ★ ★

The house she calls home is probably the oldest official residence in the capital. Designed by Benjamin Latrobe, architect of the Capitol, it has housed all but the first of the corps' 22 commandants since it was built in 1801.

It was the one official building spared by the incendiary torches of the British when they marched on Washington in 1814. The story is that the British intended using it for their headquarters.

WELL SATISFIED

Like the Pates, most of the commandants have been well satisfied with the beautifully proportioned, roomy quarters provided for them and their families on the historic quadrangle which contains the Marine barracks.

★ ★ ★

In fact Commandant Archibald Henderson, whose 39-year tour started in 1820, lived there so long he apparently thought he owned it. The story is that he willed it to his children. Now the commandant's tour is four years.

Besides dinner parties in the commandant's house, teas and receptions, the Pates are often hosts to official Washington at the spectacular and singularly moving "sunset parades," which during the summer are actually held at 9 p.m., instead of 5:30. They are open to the public on Fridays.

★ ★ ★

While the downstairs of the commandant's house is quite formal, Mrs. Pate has used her personal preference for pastel tones in its decoration. Her "favorite dining room," for instance, is in her favorite color, Williamsburg Green. The drawing room is in a soft beige.

ANTIQUE COLLECTION

Upstairs in their private quarters the couple have used the early American antiques they have collected and which the commandant refinishes as a hobby. Mrs. Pate's hobby is collecting china figurines.

Currently, Mr. Pate is busily occupied as chairman of the 1957 Navy Relief Ball for the benefit of needy Marine Corps and Navy families.

The balls have been held annually since 1904 with the exception of the World War I years.

★ ★ ★

It was announced by Mrs. W. H. Bedard, social welfare chairman, that Mrs. Earle Hoskins will head the committee for an evening benefit card party to be held in October in the home of Mrs. Royal Pazik on Cass Lake road. Mrs. Maurice Baldwin and Mrs. C. W. Mossey have been named prize chairmen for that event.

American Women Want to Have Cake and Eat It Too

Career-Marriage Combination Produces Tension

(In offices, in factories, in laboratories and even in executive suites, the American woman is working—and competing—side by side with the American man. But the American woman wants more than a career—she wants marriage and a family. The tension created by that double desire is examined in the following article, third in a series of five.)

By OLGA CURTIS
INS Women's Editor

When it comes to career vs. marriage, the average American woman wants to have her cake and eat it too.

★ ★ ★

First and foremost, she wants to get married. It's still socially unacceptable to be a spinster.

But when she's married she wants a career as well.

And if she picks the career first, she still aims for matrimony on top of it.

MISSING SOMETHING

"No wonder women are restive today," says Dr. Wynne Arnholter of Indianapolis. "The woman who stays at home feels she is missing something her sisters holding outside jobs have. The career woman who doesn't marry feels unfulfilled and envies her married sisters."

Dr. Arnholter, who has personally made a successful duet of motherhood and a job as consulting psychologist to the Indiana Women's Prison, adds that the tension is worst for "those women handling dual jobs of homemaker and outside career."

That means 12,000,000 American women can become victims of career-vs-marriage tension. According to figures from the National Manpower Council, 22,000,000 women work—and more than half of them are married.

★ ★ ★

This kind of tension does not seem to hit women in other countries, even in countries where women work very hard outside the home. So it seems clear the tension doesn't stem from work itself.

NOT IN RUSSIA

In Russia, to take an extreme example, women dig ditches, mine coal, haul bricks and still raise babies. But they don't seem to suffer career-vs-marriage tension.

★ ★ ★

The explanation comes from recent American observers in Russia, and it helps to point up the problems of American women, the forces pulling them in different directions.

First, while American women have beautiful homes, most Russian families are cooped up in one room, with kitchen and plumbing on a "collective" basis.

As a result, Russian women obviously welcome the chance to get out of the four walls and into a friendly factory while American women have some divided feelings about leaving their homes.

Second, there are Soviet nursing schools in which to park the baby, or built-in baby-sitters—the grandmothers who live with almost every married Russian couple. American women, on the other hand, carry the responsibility for their children, and are considered "bad mothers" if they turn the job over to others.

EVERYBODY WORKS

Third, both Russian men and women are geared to the idea that everybody works. In America, men still generally consider a wife as "the little woman," and she's supposed to be content with the role.

★ ★ ★

"American men and women have equal rights in everything except the matter of marriage and career," says Gloria Vanderbilt. The heiress, formerly married to Leopold Stokowski and now the wife of producer Sidney Lumet, is an author in her own name. She notes:

"It is demanded and expected that a woman who wants a career and marriage too must put the marriage first and her career second. No such demand is made of a man: it is actually expected that a man puts his work first and his marriage second. This creates tremendous imbalance.

★ ★ ★

"A woman will be free from tension in combining marriage and career in only one way. When she knows her husband places, as she is willing to do, their marriage first and their work second."

MAY CUT TENSION

Another famous career woman felt less strongly about career-vs-marriage tensions. Actress Katharine Cornell, wife of producer Guthrie McClintic, thinks if a woman is susceptible to tension, the career-vs-marriage problem won't do her tension any good.

But she adds: "In some cases the combination decreases tension."

★ ★ ★

One psychiatrist thinks the problem is diminishing. Dr. C. Knight Aldrich of the University of Chicago says, "Women are moving toward acceptability of pride in their own role. Competition with men is diminishing."

Another Chicago University expert, Dr. Charles P. McCartney, associate professor of obstetric and gynecology, backed up his colleague: "The trend is toward larger families—people are getting married younger and having more children."

★ ★ ★

And one New York doctor indicates it's just a matter of time until women break down their own career-vs-marriage problem by admitting they'd rather be married. Dr. Lawrence C. Hinkle Jr., a human ecology expert from New York Hospital's Cornell Medical Center, says:

"The working woman knows pretty well she wants to get married and doesn't want to muck with a career. The working woman is in conflict only when she has to work and would rather be home."

(Tomorrow: Why women drink.)

Tea Bags Reduce Eye Swelling

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many women are worried about circles, puffs or lines about their eyes. Indeed the area about the eyes is one of the first to reflect strain, ill health, poor nutrition, lack of sleep, the effects of dryness or aging.

★ ★ ★

This is understandable since the tissues about our eyes are delicate and the skin is thin. As a woman grows older she must give special care to this portion of her face.

If you have puffs, you should see your physician and have a checkup. This condition can come from systemic or organic disorders. Often swollen eyes come from one or more allergies. Your physician may advise that you see an allergist.

The habit of sleeping with one or the other eye dug into the pillow will make the tissue about the eyes swell. Generally poor living habits may lead to puffed eyes.

★ ★ ★

You should find out what causes this condition but in the meantime I would like to give you first aid. Small tea bags, like those you put into a cup of tea, should be dipped in warm water and then placed over the lids while you rest. This helps reduce swelling and is a trick many actresses know and use when necessary.

EYE CREAM NEEDED

Practically every woman needs an eye cream from middle age on and even before that date. Unless her skin is extremely oily, she should use one. Even then the tissues just surrounding the eyes may be dry, although the rest of the skin is oily.

★ ★ ★

The epidermis should be cleansed first. The best time to use an eye cream is at night just before going to sleep. Most eye creams leave little or no grease.

The habitual use of an eye cream plus the use of colored glasses in glare in order to avoid squinting will help avoid and minimize the little lines about the eyes. If you have eye strain, of course, this also causes squinting.

Doing without glasses when you need them is most aging. It is aging in the lines it creates and also because you have to fumble around like an old woman.

I have mentioned dark circles recently. Poor nutrition, lack of sleep and illness can cause them. However, they are usually inherited

★ ★ ★

If you would like to have my leaflet, of eye exercises (not corrective — just restful), send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 60 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Tomorrow: "Ladies, Here Are Bargains You Can't Afford to Miss."

Here's a good first aid for puffs about the eyes small tea bags, like those you put in a cup of tea, should be dipped in warm water and then placed over the lids while you rest.

Late Guest Was Wrong to Feel Hurt

15 Minutes Is Most Hostess Need Keep Meal Waiting

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: Last Sunday my husband and I were invited to a friend's house for dinner. We were told that dinner would be at one o'clock. However, we got into a traffic jam and arrived a half hour late. When we arrived, the family and another couple were half way through with dinner.

"I was so taken back I could scarcely talk, and needless to say I was hurt and angry. I wouldn't think of doing this to a guest of mine, and as they had not heard from us, they should have known we were on our way and perhaps unavoidably detained. I would like to know what you think about this."

Answer: I do not think you had any cause to be hurt or angry with your hostess for believing you were not coming. Having heard nothing from you, would certainly not suggest that you were on your way, so much as that you had forgotten and were not coming at all. Fifteen minutes is the outside limit that any meal should be kept waiting for any belated guest, anywhere.

"Dear Mrs. Post: The question of whether or not it is necessary to tip when eating at a lunch counter is up for dispute and we would like you to settle it.

"I always thought that not having to leave a tip was one of the advantages of sitting at a counter. I have been told that I am wrong and that a tip is necessary."

Answer: If all you have is coffee and a roll it is not necessary to tip, but if you order food you really should. However, you are not expected to leave as much at a counter as you are when seated at a table with a tablecloth and receive attentive service.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me what the 15th wedding anniversary year is?

Answer: The 15th anniversary is Crystal.

Childrens' Pumps Have Slim Toes

"Just like Mommy's!"

Three little words are these, but they phrase the sheerest delight to every little miss.

★ ★ ★

And that's the thrill young ladies of the gingerale-and-cookie set will feel this Fall when they put on their new tapered pumps. After all, mommy will be wearing tapered or pointed toes in the new style swing that has swept the U. S.

The usually broad toes of children's shoes have been somewhat slimmed down to give a more elegant look, while retaining all the fit and support needed by young healthy feet, the National Shoe Institute reports.

Children's heels this Fall will no longer be just square, either. They'll be shaped, and covered with the material which matches either the body of the shoe or the ornamentation — "Just like Mommy's."

Not only will young milady wear her new Fall pumps on her feet. She'll hug them to her happy heart.

Be Pleased With B's, Don't Nag for A's

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

In school last term the 9-year-old daughter of a mother I know got poor marks in arithmetic. Her teacher made her promotion to the fifth grade conditional on her attending summer school and passing its tests.

So the child attended it. Soon her work was earning B's and the occasional A. When she was finally given her average, it was a B.

★ ★ ★

Her father was delighted with her accomplishment. What her mother said was, "If you could do B work this summer, I see no reason why you can't do A work next term."

A MISTAKE?

The next day the mother came to see me. She said, "My husband says I should have shown more pleasure in Joan's B instead of talking about next term's A. Do you think I made a mistake, too?"

★ ★ ★

"Yes, I do," I said.

I did not add, "Ah well, Mrs. So and So., we all make mistakes."

For the fact that a million parents may feel dissatisfied with a child's honest effort does not justify such dissatisfaction in us. Not just for the child's sake but for our own, we need to uproot the greediness that demands perpetual improvement of achievement.

To uproot it, we may need to experience the anxiety that will lead us to repent the greediness. We may require pain instead of a pat on the head.

★ ★ ★

Parents who are never satisfied with what a child has done are people who are never satisfied with what they themselves have done.

THE TRUE FRIEND

So it is not friendly to excuse the pressures they put on the child.

The friend is the person who warns, "If you refuse to take time to rejoice in what your child has accomplished, you will never take time to appreciate what you yourself have achieved.

"You may become so anxious to have something better that the good thing you've got has no reality for you. This kind of dissatisfaction is bad."

★ ★ ★

In our country it is too widespread.

It's a corruption of this nation's old pioneer spirit. This land was founded by people who were also discontented with what they had. The difference between their healthy discontent and ours is that they pushed at frontiers while we just push at ourselves.

Today our restless need to keep "improving" everything from our children's school marks to car designs makes not for pioneering strength but for increasing tension.

Betty J. Jilbert and Glenn A. Simpson were married Saturday in First Baptist Church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Douglas Jilbert, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Simpson.

MR. and MRS. GLENN A. SIMPSON

Betty J. Jilbert Becomes Bride in First Baptist Rite

White gladioli, snapdragons, daisies and palms banked the altar of First Baptist Church for the Saturday evening wedding of Betty Joan Jilbert and Glenn A. Simpson. The Rev. William Hakes performed the ceremony before 250 guests.

★ ★ ★

The W. Douglas Jilberts of Judson street are parents of the bride, and the bridegrom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Simpson of Osceola drive.

The bride chose a gown fashioned of Mira-Mist taffeta and Chantilly lace featuring a basque waist highlighted by a modified Queen Anne collar and long hand - tapered sleeves. The bodice was formed of appliqued lace over taffeta and accented with seed pearls and iridescent paillettes. The gown's chapel-length skirt was of taffeta appliqued with medallions of lace.

Betty wore a bonnet - type headpiece of tulle and lace which held a fingertip veil of pure silk French illusion. Her bridal bouquet was composed of white roses, shattered baby carnations and pearly everlastings.

★ ★ ★

Her sister's maid of honor was Rosemary Jilbert. Her ballerina - length gown of gold crystalette was fashioned with a Sabrina neckline and featured a cummerbund of French tucks. She wore a crown with a tiny nose veil and carried a colonial arrangement of bronze shattered baby chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaids Ann Button of Detroit and Marge Bartles wore bronze gowns like the honor attendant's. They carried colonial bouquets of gold pompon chrysanthemums.

★ ★ ★

The best man was Bill Flippo. Bill Keys, Bob Fuller, Charles Austin, Gary Gray of Detroit and Dick Huddy of Detroit seated the guests.

For a reception in the church parlors the bride's mother chose a pink embroidered crystalette dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses and shattered carnations. Mrs. Simpson wore a blue taffeta gown with blue and white accessories and a pink rose corsage.

★ ★ ★

Before leaving on a trip to Gettysburg, Pa., and Washington, D. C., the new Mrs. Simpson changed to a light blue knit dress with navy accessories and a white rose corsage from her bridal bouquet. The couple will live on Osceola drive.

Princess dresses from Italian couture have the large collar which slims the hips. Avoid narrow shoulders on princess dress if you're hippy.

Next to squared shoulders, the large collar flattens the front and derriere and makes hips appear smaller. Shoulder emphasis is important with the new shorter skirts because it puts this fashion in proportion.

Pretty Nails Are Important to Teenager

The teenager who uses nail polish is likely to be the gal most interested in looking pretty. But there are a lot of exceptions to this.

★ ★ ★

If there's dirt under that coat of polish, she's slipped in her grooming. If the polish is worn, chipped, cracked or other than glossy perfection, she's better off without it.

If she's let her nails grow to absurd lengths, she's showing off claws, not hands. (Most boys hate long nails.)

If she uses a bloody or too-bright shade of polish, she'll find people regarding her nails with something akin to horror.

★ ★ ★

To get the most mileage from a bottle of polish, pick a pretty, soft shade. Remove the old polish, use a hand brush vigorously, then clean and file the nails. (Don't file them down at the sides; this causes hangnails.)

Apply a base coat, two thin coats of polish and a sealer. Allow at least an hour for the polish to dry.

Bridal Party Given for Jo Ann Streeter

Fifteen guests attended a recent miscellaneous bridal shower given by Mrs. Clarence Beagle of Milford for Jo Ann Streeter.

★ ★ ★

The bride-elect, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Case Streeter of Stout street, will wed Robert Warman on Oct. 25. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Warman of Douglas street.

Fabric Softeners Restore New Look to Washables

KALAMAZOO (INS) — A laundry laboratory told a group of home economists and teachers at Western Michigan College recently "it is what you do with clothes after they are clean that really counts."

Rose V. White said the secret to "new looking" clothes is in modern textile softeners.

"These new fabric softeners are not detergents, not soaps and not water softeners," she said. "They are softeners to restore laundry-harshened washables and to keep new things looking and feeling new."

Miss White said the softeners "have a truly dramatic effect on the deep - pile fabrics such as bath towels, mats, shag rugs, chenille robes and bedspreads."

★ ★ ★

She told the group they also make baby diapers soft and keep woolen sweaters "lovely and soft."

Mrs. Domas Uses Cornmeal and Flour to Coat Fish Fillets

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

In Oakland county the fishing season goes on and on. And when pan fish aren't to be caught by the family fisherman, there are always fish from the store or the freezer. Today we are presenting a different way of cooking said fish.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Ben Domas is our cook. She is the mother of two school age daughters She and her husband are interested in both bowling and archery. Mrs. Domas enjoys sewing.

Whenever the Domas family has fish it is fried in a special way. Mrs. Domas dips fillets in a mixture of half white cornmeal and half flour. Then she deep fat fries it at 375 degrees for 10-15 minutes, depending on the thickness of the fish.

This makes it nice and crisp. It will even stay crisp if it is kept warm in the oven while you're waiting for the family to wash their hands.

With this fish the Domas' have baked potatoes taken out of the shel and mashed with cheese whiz, a tossed salad and a vegetable. Why not try their menu some night soon?

Recipe Correction

Sorry, we slipped a bit in yesterday's jelly recipe. We told you to measure the sugar, then never had you use it. It should be added to the juice when you get it in the sauce pan.

Your Wardrobe and You

By Edythe McCulloch

The fall change-of-season is a good time to take stock of your wardrobe. Do the clothes in your closet bring out the real you? The basic rules are quite simple:

1. To be underdressed rather than overdressed.
2. Shop for simplicity.
3. Individuality is expressed by accessories.
4. Remember: Style is lasting; fashion is fad.

Don't let this last one mislead you, to follow every fad would be ridiculous, but a select few fashion-fads can express your individuality and be accessories to your basic wardrobe. Thus you can afford to drop it when the fad fades and still have a basic costume to accessorize.

This fall . . . think before you shop.

Cecilia Marie Couture and Paul Michael Amman were married Saturday in St. Michael Church. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse J. Couture, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Amman.

MR. and MRS. PAUL M. AMMAN

Cecilia Courture Speaks Her Vows at St. Michael

White gladioli banked the altar of St. Michael Church for the Saturday morning wedding of Cecilia Marie Couture of Maxwell road and Paul Michael Amman. The Rev. Norman Thomas performed the Nuptial High Mass before 250 witnesses.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse J. Couture of Court drive are the bride's parents, and the Bernard Ammans of Lincoln avenue are parents of the bridegroom.

For her wedding the bride chose a waltz-length gown of lace fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, Peter Pan collar and long tapered sleeves, and featuring a skirt of nylon tulle ruffles over satin.

Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of seed pearls, and she carried white orchids and miniature white chrysanthemums on a prayerbook.

Annette Couture, a sister of the bride, served as the maid of honor.

The bridegroom's sister, Bernadette Amman, and Elizabeth Klinck of Commerce were the bridesmaids.

All wore waltz-length gowns of shrimp-colored crystalette. They were fashioned with princess lines, V-necklines and full pleated backs with bows at the waistlines. Each wore a Swedish crown with pearls and carried a cascade bouquet of white and shrimp-colored miniature chrysanthemums.

★ ★ ★

Larry Hayden served as best man while Edward Smith of Commerce and Arthur Fitzergerald of Walled Lake seated the guests.

For an afternoon reception Mrs. Couture wore a dusty rose taffeta dress with black accessories and a yellow rose corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a beige lace gown over taffeta with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Before leaving on a northern Michigan trip the new Mrs. Amman changed to a beige suit with brown accessories and an orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Cites Universal Need for Typing Know-How

LOS ANGELES (INS) — The only acceptable form of written communication — that's how a university professor describes the typewritten page.

"The world is too big, busy and impatient to decipher bizarre handwritings," days Dr. Allien Robertson Russon.

"The typewriter has become an appendage of modern man's fingers, and the ability to operate one is now as essential as handwriting used to be."

Typing is important in school work, business and private life, says the business education professor at the University of California.

She particularly urges students who plan to enter college to study typing in high school as an aid to future term reports, essays and papers.

★ ★ ★

Typing is a skill. She advises commercial teachers to offer it in a friendly relaxed atmosphere, free from tension and thoughts of punishments; in an atmosphere "full of praise and rewards, where students actually have fun wifile they learn."

Seek to Head West Germany

Two Prepare to Fight Over Person Succeeding Adenauer

BONN, Germany (AP)—Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss and Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard emerged today as the two major candidates to succeed Chancellor Konrad Adenauer when he steps down.

★ ★ ★

They were reported squaring off for a battle over the position of vice chancellor. The winner would be the logical one to succeed Adenauer.

Although Adenauer, 81, has given no indication of it, some believe he may seek the largely ceremonial office of president in the 1959 elections. President Theodor Heuss, 73, is constitutionally barred from a third term.

★ ★ ★

The chancellor, whose Christian Democratic party won a smashing election victory Sunday, has given little encouragement to anyone hoping to succeed him.

Erhard and Strauss are said to be working behind the scenes to replace Franz Bluecher as vice chancellor with the hope of increasing the political prestige of the office. Parliament elects both chancellor and vice chancellor.

★ ★ ★

As economics minister, the chubby, cigar-smoking Wehard is regarded by many as the chief planner of West German prosperity.

★ ★ ★

Strauss, at 41 the youngest member of Adenauer's Cabinet, is a tough administrator who has won the respect of Allied Military leaders.

Junior Editors Quiz on ATLANTIS

QUESTION: Where was the "lost continent" of Atlantis located?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: The legendary land of Atlantis was first mentioned by the ancient Greek philosopher Plato, who described it as a country larger than Asia Minor. He said Atlantis once ruled southwest Europe and northwest Africa until its armies were defeated by the Athenians about 9000 B.C.

Eventually, because of the wickedness of its inhabitants, Plato said, the island was swallowed by the sea and became a lost continent. He located it in the Atlantic Ocean, a short distance west of the Strait of Gibraltar.

Although 25,000 books and articles have been written about it, scholars today agree that the island never existed.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Study the globe and see if you can put Atlantis where it was supposed to be. Paste the picture on cardboard and color it.

★ ★ ★

CBS Dismisses Author Who Feuds With Duchess

NEW YORK, (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System has dismissed author Cleveland Amory as the writer of a television program about the Duke and Duchess of Windsor in the wake of differerences between him and the duchess over her autobiography.

A CBS spokesman said:

★ ★ ★

"This step was taken in view of widespread comment on the background of Mr. Amory's supposed differences with the duke and duchess, which we feel has created a climate of opinion prejudicial to the program."

After the dismissal was announced yesterday, Amory said: "CBS couldn't have been nicer in 'uninviting' me to a party. They offered to pay me in full for the script, although I haven't written a line. I have no ill feeling toward CBS. The only explanation they gave me was that the change resulted from 'pressure from above.'"

★ ★ ★

CBS would not answer a newsman's question whether the duke or duchess might have issued a protest to the network.

Henry G. Walter Jr., lawyer and New York representative for the Windsors, said he was not aware of any protest against Amory's assignment. Walter added, however, that CBS was alerted some time ago to the fact that the Windsors had not given permission for the use of any copyrighted material on a television program.

Walter said CBS replied by letter and explained that the TV program would be prepared from "news clips" and not copyrighted material.

★ ★ ★

The Windsors are in Europe. The background of the dismissal goes back to 1955 when the duchess engaged him to collaborate with her in the writing of her memoirs. They broke up part way through the project, and Amory was replaced.

Associates of the duchess suggested then that Amory's work was not satisfactory.

★ ★ ★

Amory's explanation was: "I will omit but I will not distort.... You can't make the Duchess of Windsor into Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm. The facts of life are stubborn things."

Yesterday, CBS said a staff writer would be assigned to write the narrative for the documentary film about the Windsors.

Flu Epidemic in South

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Flu outbreaks are near the epidemic stage in 12 Mississippi counties and the state total is 24,000 cases, a Board of Health report showed today, Dr. A. L. Gray, director of preventable disease control, said authorities believe most of the cases are Asian flu, but not all have been diagnosed.

Red Jet Stays Down So London Can Sleep

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet jet TU-104 airliner landed here today on its return journey from the United States and took off for Moscow 1½ hours later.

★ ★ ★

The big plane was scheduled to fly in last night. But it made a night halt in Iceland instead because London residents complained of the noise on its last trip here.

★ ★ ★

Britain's transport minister, Harold Watkinson, made the request to the Russians to change their flight plan so as not to disturb the sleep of Londoners.

Martin Van Buren was the first of the presidents of the United States to be American-born, under the American flag, but earlier presidents were all American-born.

Last Corruption Charge Dismissed

Portland Mayor Cleared

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Terry Schrunk, the five-times-indicted mayor of Portland, was freed of the last charge in a long vice investigation yesterday.

As with two previous charges, a state prosecutor said there were no grounds for the charge against the mayor, and a state circuit court complied with his motion for dismissal.

★ ★ ★

"Thank God for the American judicial system," said the 44-year old Schrunk, who had insisted that when he decided to run for mayor last year he became the target of a frameup by "a combination of the local underworld and a few so-called kingmakers in our community who operated on a basis of rule or ruin."

The last charge dismissed was one accusing the mayor of trying to get two women to swear falsely that gambler Big Jim Elkins, a key figure in the vice investigation, was a narcotics addict who was connected with prostitution here. Prosecutor Arthur Higgs said the indictment listed 24 acts and not one constituted a crime.

★ ★ ★

Identical charges against three other persons also were dismissed.

With those dismissals, about half the more than 100 indictments in the 1½-year-long investigation have been wiped out. There has been some duplication of indictments as a series of grand juries took up the cases, and officials were uncertain of the exact score.

But a newspaper, the Oregon Journal, listed it as: 59 cases dismissed; 3 acquittals; 2 pleas of guilty; 1 conviction; 51 cases pending.

In addition, a federal grand jury moved in last spring and indicted Elkins on federal wiretapping charges. Elkins, whose testimony was the basis for many of the state's charges, was convicted and sentenced to 20 months in prison. He is free on bond, to be available for the state cases.

Schrunk was brought to trial on one charge, accusing him of lying when he denied taking a bribe from a gambler two years ago, when Schrunk was sheriff. He was acquitted, and the state then dropped its companion charge that he had taken the bribe.

★ ★ ★

Acquitted in other trials were Clyde C. Crosby, Teamsters Union official, who had been accused of conspiring to receive a bribe while on a city commission, and a city policeman, Robert Sprague, who had been accused of false swearing.

The one conviction of a principal was that of Dist. Atty. William L. Langley, who was removed from office after being found guilty of failure to prosecute gambling. He has appealed.

Mayer Leaves Hospital, 'Feeling Fairly Good'

SAN FRANCOSCO (AP) — Movie magnate Louis B. Mayer, 72, checked out of Stanford Hospital Monday night for his Hollywood home "feeling fairly good," a hospital spokesman said yesterday.

Mayer entered the hospital Aug. 6 suffering from anemia. The cause of the disorder was never diagnosed, his doctors said.

The Dalai Lama of Tibet was to make his first visit to India in connection with the approaching Buddha Jayante celebrations.

Sargasso Sea No Trouble Spot

Helpful for Columbus in Voyage to America by Indicating Land Near

WASHINGTON—Men have rarely had anything good to say about the Sargasso Sea. Yet without this mysterious region of the Atlantic Ocean, Columbus might never have discovered America.

The Sargasso is a huge eddy, lazily rotating clockwise east and south of the mighty Gulf Stream, says the National Geographic Society.

★ ★ ★

Starting about 200 miles off the Carolina coast, the Sargasse stretches half way across the Atlantic, incompassing an area two-thirds as big as the United States.

The Sea is named for its mottled brown and yellow Sargassum seaweed. The weed has grapelike air sacs to keep it from sinking. From underneath, a Sargassum mass—spreading sometimes over an acre—resembles a vineyard.

Centuries ago, scholars connected the Sargasso with the fabled Lost Continent of Atlantis. Sailors believed the sea was the lair of enormous sea monsters that could swallow a ship. Even in recent times navigators believed ships might get trapped in the seaweed and their crews would die of starvation.

FLOATING ISLAND

In the popular mind the Sargasso came to be pictured as an enormous floating island, dotted with the hulks of rotting galleons.

Modern scientists report the weeds are not so thick that they can halt a ship, and no sea monsters have been found in the calm clear waters.

Columbus' crewmen might have mutinied if the Sargasso's seeweed had not led them to think land lay near. 'At dawn," says Columbus' diary, they saw many more weeds, apparently river weeds, and among them a live crab, which the admiral kept."

★ ★ ★

The Sargasso's shrimp, slugs and crabs are colored and shaped to resemble the seaweed around them. The Sargasso fish Pterophryne even copies the air sacs and encrusting worm tubes of the weed. This makes the fish look so curious that one expedition baptised a specimen My Word."

That was what a scientist exclaimed when he saw it.

OVER THE RIVER FOR 60 CENTS — You can move your home across the Mississippi river for just 60 cents, provided you go by the way of Eads bridge at St. Louis and if the home will fit through the toll gate. Extreme Care Urged in Handling Insecticides

FT. COLLINS, Colo. (INS) — Insecticide can be as fatal to the handler as the victim for which it is intended.

Colorado State University researchers say extreme care must be used in handling insecticides, noting, "All insecticides should be used with judgement."

Primary danger spots are contact with the skin, breathing concentrated vapors, or entrance through the mouth from contaminated hands in smoking or eating.

Antidotes, if used in time, can prevent death from insecticide poisoning.

Treasure Hunting Costly

Official Stands Firm on Dog Quarantine

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Trial Commissioner Nelson Hoskins believes in enforcing the dog quarantine.

He accepts no excuses about broken chains, or children turning dogs loose. The owners are fined.

Imagine Hoskins surprise when he went home the other evening and found his boxer—always kept chained in the yard—waiting to meet him at the front door.

In court the next day, Hoskins stated the facts in the case to one and all, then fined himself $10 and costs.

Hong Kong Unruffled as Red China Suffers

By FRED SPARKS

HONG KONG (NEA) — In bustling, unworried Hong Kong, lall is commerce, all is peace, an atmosphere indeed different from my last visit two years ago when events cried "war" with the clarity of a Manchu gong.

★ ★ ★

In fact, the only grumble is from American correspondents waiting here on Red China's doorstep for admission to the mainland.

Why does Hong Kong, Asia's sensitive fever thermometer, register normal?

Circulating among British and American officials, Europeans returning from Peiping and Chinese (both Red and white), I am given two reasons:

1. After digesting North Viet Nam and howling about Quemoy and Matsu, Peiping shifted from military aggression to infiltration, from revolutions to riots. It inches forward in Ceylon, Indonesia and Burma but has made no dramatic fresh advances.

2. Red China itself is torn politically; even Dictator Mao Tse-tung is a dubious insurance risk.

★ ★ ★

The honeymoon is over. Pie in the sky pledges go unfilled. Some large estates have been divided but now it's said "you can kill your landlord but you cannot eat him."

ELEMENTS IGNORE REDS

The elements ignore the party line. Recently there have been terrible mainland floods and droughts. Peasants, watching the Trans-Siberian railroad haul grain to Russia, pat their thin-skinned rib cages and say, "Do my Soviet comrades know the lid is seldom lifted from my pot?"

★ ★ ★

Refugees who find Hong Kong handouts more filling than mainland harvests tell me that on the mainland "food is scarcer than since the Japanese occupation."

Students who are original hard-core Marxists agitate in Peiping. There have been campus anti-dictatorship rallies. Student Reds have been treated to bamboo beatings.

This week 70 million Chinese students ending their vacations face new brain washings. Selected teachers were given summer political re-education, and they'll tell their pupils "there's no road for China between communism and capitalism."

Students who continue critical will be branded "rightist" at public trials and expelled.

As my old friend Wo Leifshek said as he filled tea cups on a black lacquer tray under a portrait of Sun Yat-sen, "a sick Communist China means a well Asia, a relaxed Hong Kong."

Dog Days for Deans

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — If your name is Dean, you had better stay away from the corner of Vermont Avenue and 15th Street here. A large yellow dog took a bite out of Charlie Dean and Ray Dean at different times one afternoon. The men aren't even related, Police Chief Clarence Walker said.

Air consists of about 78 per cent of nitrogen by volume.

"I spent over $500 for arthritis treatments in my hips and legs without results, but then tried O-JIB-WA BITTERS, and results were quick in coming."

"For over 25 years I suffered from rheumatism and arthritis in my back, shoulders and legs, and never found a thing that would help me, until I tried O-JIB-WA."

"Arthritis in my back and legs crippled me for five years. After using O-JIB-WA for a month, I threw my cane aside, sleep like a log and got up feeling fine."

"I knew that I would have to quit work if my arthritis got any worse, so I was willing to try anything. Wilson Calls Armament Spending Too High

Sees More Cuts in Military Program

WASHINGTON (INS) — Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson indicated today that further drastic reductions in the U.S. military program are inevitable because armament spending is too high.

The Pentagon chief told newsmen that despite all-out economy efforts initiated in June, the military spending rate is still around 40 billion dollars a year. He is seeking to reduce this to 38 billions before he leaves office Oct. 10.

MORE BAD NEWS

Asked if the inflated outgo means that more "bad news" (force reductions) are in prospect, Wilson replied: "I'm afraid so."

Wilson already has ordered a 100,000-man cut by Jan. 1 in the military forces, which now are at a strength of 2,800,000. He is known to be considering a further 130,000-man reduction for the first half of 1958.

The secretary talked to newsmen at an award ceremony and luncheon he gave to observe the 10th anniversary of military unification, which created the Defense Department in 1947.

Incoming Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy, Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson—a former deputy defense secretary — and former Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett and Louis Johnson were among those attending.

Wilson presented certificates to more than 100 top-level employes who have served the Defense Department for the full 10 years.

The defense secretary said it is "difficult to tell" whether the military spending rate is 40 or 40.5 billion dollars a year, because both July and August are unusual months.

★ ★ ★

Assistant Defense Secretary Wilfred J. McNeil, veteran Pentagon comptroller, agreed that the spending rate is still "in that range."

Turning to Anderson, Wilson told the treasury secretary wryly: "It's too bad you can't run a printing press (for money) on the side."

McNeil, when asked "what is hurting" the defense budget, said that contrary to popular impressions employment in the aircraft industries has not come down.

He said this employment, costing about $10,000 per worker, is at a total of about 900,000, compared with just over 800,000 a year ago and a Korean War high of near 700,000.

Wilson, philosophizing on his nearly five years in office — far longer than any previous defense secretary—said he believes understanding between civilian and military leaders has been achieved during his administration. He described this as "very vital."

Minister Fujiyama Visits U. S.

Japanese Is Career Man

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Japan's new foreign minister, Aiichiro Fujiyama, is not a career diplomat, but Americans who get to know him during his U.S. visit starting Monday should find him one of the ablest and most congenial Japanese with whom they have dealt.

His appointment July 10 to the cabinet post was a fitting climax to a fabulous career that has brought him untold fame — fortune he already had — in the Japanese business world.

It also represents an added reassurance that Japan will continue to tread pro-Western, anti-Communist path in its foreign policy.

It was no accident that Fujiyama was asked to shelve his vast business interests and his job as president of the Japan Chamber of Commerce and Industry to join Premier Nobusuke Kishi's Liberal-Democratic party cabinet as foreign minister.

WINS PRAISE

The soft-spoken, 60-year-old man had been called upon by the government twice since World War II to represent it on missions abroad. On both occasions his performance won unstinted praise from both public and private officials.

Last year he was sent to Manila to break what then seemed an insurmountable deadlock in the Philippine reparations negotiations.

Fujiyama's efforts were successful, and many a responsible Japanese has gone on record as saying that without his assurance the reparations talks could well have dragged on interminably to the detriment of Japan's prestige in Asia.

BORN BUSINESSMAN

In appearance alone, Fujiyama is a standout among Japanese. His thick shock of white hair and round black-rimmed spectacles have become almost a trademark.

Born into a millionaire family, Fujiyama was graduated from the political department of exclusive Keio University and promptly became associated with the family's many business enterprises, including the Japan Sugar Refining Co. and the Nitto Chemical Industry Co.

Fujiyama is also a patron of the arts, and at oil painting he is more than an amateur. His other major hobby is golf.

In his two short months as foreign minister, Fujiyama already has won considerable popularity, even from the hard-bitten Japanese press.

★ ★ ★

As one confidante put it — "Putting Fujiyama in the foreign minister's job was the wisest thing Premier Kishi has done."

Funeral Services Held For Rear Adm. Mannix

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—Funeral services were held today for Rear Adm. (Ret.) Daniel Pratt Mannix. He died here Monday aged 78.

Mannix, a veteran of the Spanish-American War and both world wars, had lived at Conches near Geneva since 1952. He was a native of Washington, D. C.

Members of the American colony attended the funeral. The ashes will be transferred later to Arlington, Va., National Cemetery.

Mannix is survived by the widow; a son, Daniel, and a daughter, Mrs. Rubin Reeder, both of Philadelphia, Pa.

Slow Drivers Battled

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The State Police today cracked down on slow drivers. Gov. Dwinell asked them to enforce a 1955 statute making it a misdemeanor to drive "at such a slow speed as to impede or block the normal and reasonable movement of traffic."

Tigers' Hopes for 3rd Thinner

Lose Full Game to Bosox After Yanks Win, 7-1

6-Run Outburst in 8th Sinks Hoeft; Duke Maas on Mound Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The Detroit Tigers' "fighting chance" for a third place finish in the American League was yet a little thinner today though it still existed.

Two games down to the Boston Red Sox and with 10 games to play, the Tigers can't afford to miss on virtually any shots from here on in.

The New York Yankees made it tougher for Detroit yesterday by beating Billy Hoeft and the Tigers, 7-1, with a six-run onslaught in the eighth inning.

That put the Tigers a full two games behind third-place Boston as the Red Sox were beating Kansas City to pick up a full game on Detroit.

New York and Detroit meet again today. Duke Maas (10-12) works for the Tigers, ancient Sal Maglie (1-0) for the Yanks.

Until the dike broke on him in the eighth yesterday, Hoeft had held his own in a masterful duel with Bobby Shantz. Shantz held Detroit to four hits.

Five Yank hits, two errors and two walks smashed down Hoeft all of a sudden after Billy—pitching over three errors—had held New York to five hits and one run over seven innings.

It was a bad day afield for the Tigers. They made five errors. With the score 1-1 Hank Bauer opened the Yank eighth with a home run, his 18th of the year.

Two walks followed, one purposely to Mickey Mantle, after which came two straight singles. Before reliefer rookie Joe Presko could get the side out two more singles and an error kept the runs scoring.

Detroit's only run was from a triple by Al Kaline and a single by Charley Maxwell in the fourth. Their only other hits were singles by Bill Tuttle in the first and by Harvey Kuenn in the seventh.

Lions Reject Resignation

Layne Offers to Quit

DETROIT (AP) — Star quarterback Bobby Layne's troubles with the law won't keep his playing presence from the Detroit Lions.

The Lions, rejecting an offer from Bobby to resign in the wake of his arrest for alleged drunk driving yesterday, called him back to practice today to get ready for Sunday's exhibition game with the New York Giants.

★ ★ ★

Bobby got in trouble with police who said he did some irregular driving in his car at 2:11 a.m.

In the course of the day Layne spent two hours in jail, appeared in court and pleaded innocent, and made a public apology through his lawyer.

He is to stand trial Oct. 17 on the drunk driving charge.

Coach George Wilson, who inherited these Lions whom Buddy Parker abandoned because he said he could not "control" them, refused to discuss a fine for Layne nor would he suspend the veteran signal caller.

★ ★ ★

Apparently Bobby violated the Lions' 11 p.m. curfew, if, as police said, he was out and about at 2 a.m.

Two other men and three women were in the car with Layne, the police said.

At court Layne's attorney, William B. Giles, issued a press statement saying "Mr. Layne wishes the fans of Detroit to know that he regrets the incident very much."

Later coach Wilson said Layne had offered his resignation to him but that he rejected it.

★ ★ ★

Wilson said any club action in later. He said if it is decided to Bobby's case would be decided fine Layne "it won't be made public."

Accounts differed on yesterday's pre-dawn incident. The lawyer's statement denied "emphatically" that Bobby was driving while drunk. The arresting police said otherwise.

In abruptly quitting the Lions several weeks ago, Parker, now Pittsburgh Steelers coach, complained that he could not "control" the squad. He went into no detail.

Braves' Hatchet Men Chop Giants

Adcock, Aaron Homers Nail 3-1 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jarrin' Joe Adcock and hammerin' Hank Aaron, Milwaukee's top hatchet men, are back in business and the Braves are breathing easy again.

It was Aaron and Adcock who homered all the runs and split six of Milwaukee's nine hits in a 3-1 victory over the Giants last night — giving the Braves two in a row for the first time in two weeks and retaining their three-game National League lead with 10 to go.

It was a neat and necessary job since second place St. Louis stayed with it, rallying for seven runs in the seventh that crushed Brooklyn 12-5. The third place Brooks, champs for two years, now are virtually out of it, trailing by eight with eight to play.

★ ★ ★

With a three-game showdown series against the Cardinals, who also have 10 left, opening in Milwaukee next Monday, the Braves' magic number now is "8." Any combination of eight Milwaukee victories and St. Louis defeats wraps up the Braves' first pennant since 1948.

Cincinnati bagged Pittsburg 9-5 and dropped the Pirates into the cellar as the Chicago Cubs moved out with a 7-1 decision over Philadelphia in the other NL action.

Aaron, only 9-for 41 (.220) as the Braves skidded from an 8½-game bulge by losing eight of 11, started the revival with a 2-for-4 night in Monday's victory over Philadelphia. That pushed him up a notch to fifth in the batting order last night and he was 3-for-4, doubling ahead of Adcock's second-inning home run and swatting his 41st homer in the eighth.

Adcock, who leads the '56 Braves with 103 RBI and 38 homers, poled his 10th home run, first since June 11 after being sidelined with a broken leg from June 23 to Sept. 8. Also 3-for-4, he had been only 1-for-7 in the Milwaukee skid.

Righthander Bob Trowbridge spun a five-hitter, all singles, and walked none for a 7-5 record while giving the Braves' staff consecutive complete games for the first time in a week. Rookie Curt Barclay (9-8) lost it as a crowd of 25,390 put the Braves within 2,265 of their fourth consecutive 2-million season in home attendance.

Anthony Feels He'll Win; Moore Still Isn't Talking

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tony Anthony's manager states his young challenger might stop the venerable light heavyweight champion Archie Moore with a single punch on Friday night.

"He can hit and he can box," says Ernie Braca of the New Yorker. "He can take a guy out in one punch."

★ ★ ★

Braca, however, appears to go along with the general feeling that the longer the bout progresses, the better Anthony's chances. The fight is scheduled for 15 rounds.

"He's not going out there to trade with the champion," the manager said. "We know Moore is tough and can hit, so why play into his hand?

"Tony will stay away and wait for openings in the later rounds."

Certainly Anthony showed a solid punch last April 4 when he stopped Chuck Spieser in the third round to earn the title shot. Still questionable is his ability to take a punch.

★ ★ ★

The former AAU titlist wound up his sparring yesterday after a total of 93 rounds. In addition, he did an estimated 135 miles of road work.

Just what Moore has done remains somewhat secret, along with his success at reducing. Archie closed his camp to one and all, building the aura of suspense over his plans and whether he has been having serious trouble getting down from his pre-training weight of 212 to the 175-pound limit.

★ ★ ★

Anthony doesn't flatly predict victory, but comes close with the assertion, "I've never gone into a fight I didn't think I could win."

He was wrong on four occasions when he was stopped, a fact that weighs in Moore's favor.

★ ★ ★

Anthony, who has won 30 fights and broken even in one, makes his first start over the 15-round route in this nationally televised bout. The distance is old hat to Archie, who eight times has appeared in championship fights and won six of them. Defeats were by Rocky Marciano and Floyd Patterson in heavyweight title affairs.

PHS CAPTAIN — Roger Coats, star Pontiac High miler of the last two seasons, will head the Chief harriers in their opening test of the 1957 season, Friday, at Beaudette Park. Coats is the PHS captain, and one of only three lettermen back this fall.

Chief Harriers Open Fall Season Against Maples

By H. GUY MOATS

Pontiac High School's hill-and-dale runners will stretch their legs, Friday afternoon in the first competition for the 1957 season. Chiefs' harriers face an always strong Birmingham High squad over the Beaudette Park layout, and this test will give PHS coach Mike Andonian his first real opportunity to gauge the worth of his material.

Roger Coats, state mile champion last spring, captains the PHS runners, and is their No. 1 man. Pete Cox, who developed into a good half miler in the spring, and John Jefferson are the other lettermen. But Larry Beamer, who rose to the heights in the state meet last spring as a half-mile champion, may provide some important strength in the top echelon. Larry, as did Coats, came along last spring in sensational style. Larry was not on the 1956 cross-country squad.

"From this point on," says Andonian, state's Publinx golf king this year, "rest of the top six places are wide open." He held a time trial yesterday to select his runners for the Friday run. The Pontiac top entries are: Coats, Beamer, Cox, Jefferson, sophomore Ken Smith, Jon Sampson and Phil White. Beamer showed unexpected speed in finishing the two mile grind even with Coats, in a time trial.

Maples' coach, Kermit Ambrose, today named his top starters. They are Bob Benson, Phil Ingraham, Lee Tout (new), Bill Landis, Jim Reilly (new), Dave Pew, Rich Riley.

Chiefs' schedule, listing duals with all Valley schools, as well as several outside squads, is not yet complete.

Tighe Befuddled, —Lennon Shows, Taylor Does Not

NEW YORK (AP) — The Detroit Tigers purchased an outfielder from Minneapolis last weekend after cancelling a deal for another with the Chicago Cubs.

The guy they nixed showed up. The one they bought didn't.

Bob Lennon checked in for yesterday's game with the New York Yankees, complete with telegram from the Cubs saying he had been sold, via Los Angeles, to Detroit. Tiger manager Jack Tighe had been expecting Bill Taylor.

Tighe called his front office and learned the Lennon deal had been cancelled, but couldn't find any trace of Taylor.

Lennon went on home. He lives in Brooklyn.

Pro-Member Tourney Ends in 4-Way Tie

Four teams wound up in a knot at the top of the Orchard Lake CC pro-member "metropolitan" golf test during the weekend. Twenty-one four-man teams participated in the final big links event of the season for the club, except for the annual caddy-member day on Saturday. This will also be a best-ball event.

★ ★ ★

Teams tied at 64 were:

Max Evans of Rochester, Pete Green, R. E. Dailey and R. C. Nordstrom; Bill Braham of Bloomfield Hills and Jack Moses, Bill Saunders, Bill Restrick; Bill Uzelac of Plum Hollow and A. O. Thalacker, Ed Proctor and Bill McNaughton; Ray Maguire of Birmingham and E. M. Mulock, Taylor Paisley and Bob Emmett Jr.

★ ★ ★

Awards were split four ways.

Evans led the pros with low gross of 68. Gene Bone of Tam O'Shanter had 69 and Chick Harbert of Meadowbrook and Ray Maguire shared 70.

Maple Harriers Win First 1957 Match

Birmingham High's cross-country squad yesterday afternoon chalked up its first 1957 victory over the Maples' own two-mile course. Coach Kermit Ambrose's crew defeated Walled Lake 17-46, with the first three runners home hitting the finish together in 11:08.

Bob Benson, Phil Ingraham and newcomer Lee Tout hit the line as one. Bill Hosley of Walled Lake was 4th. Next five were Maples' Bill Landis, new man Jim Reilly, Dave Pew (brother of Steve, last year's quarter-miler), Rich Riley and Fraser Cocks.

Loss was only the 2nd for Walled Lake in four years.

Maples ran 31 boys, Walled Lake 19.

Casey More Concerned Over Mantle's Injury

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Casey Stengel is now more concerned with the World Series than he is about the American League race.

With the White Sox dropping a 7-5 decision to Baltimore to fall 6½ games behind, Stengel's big concern is over Mickey Mantle, who has been playing despite pain in his left leg.

Mickey is still hobbled by shin splints — separation of the flesh and bone—which cuts down his power and speed to that of a normal athlete. The leg doesn't seem to be getting any better. He went hitless in three official times at bat yesterday and his batting average dropped to .306, 10 points below Ted Williams' leading mark.

"It looks like he ain't going to get well at the plate," Casey said, referring to Mantle. "He's fighting himself. You might ask why I'm playing him then. But what can I do? All my other boys are hurtin' too. And he insists on playing. Maybe I'll rest him once we get this thing clinched. The sooner the better."

★ ★ ★

The Orioles, three-hit and trailing 5-1, junked Billy Pierce's second bit for his 20th victory with four runs in the eighth, then beat rookie Barry Latman with Bob Nieman's two-run homer in the 10th. Gus Triandos homered for the Birds' first run and capped the eighth with a two-run double. Billy Loes won his 12th in relief.

★ ★ ★

Williams' 34th homer was a 400-foot job as he batted for rookie winner Murray Wall 3-0 to lead off the eighth in his first appearance since Sept. 1. That tied it and the Red Sox nailed it with Billy Klaus' RBI single in the same frame against losing reliever Tom Morgan.

Ray Narleski won his 11th for the Tribe, blanking the Nats for seven. Russ Nixon's three-run homer gave him a quick lead in the second against Camilo Pascual who lost his 15th.

Georgia's Game Against Middies Will Be Played

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Dr. O. C. Aderhold, University of Georgia president, said today Georgia's football team will play its Oct. 19 game with Navy at Norfolk, Va., under rules and regulations the Navy and the State of Virginia set up.

★ ★ ★

Robert O. Arnold, chairman of the Georgia Board of Regents, said he had been informed all tickets to the game had been sold and that they were sold on a segregated basis.

★ ★ ★

But in Washington the Navy said it had insisted upon nonsegregated seating.

★ ★ ★

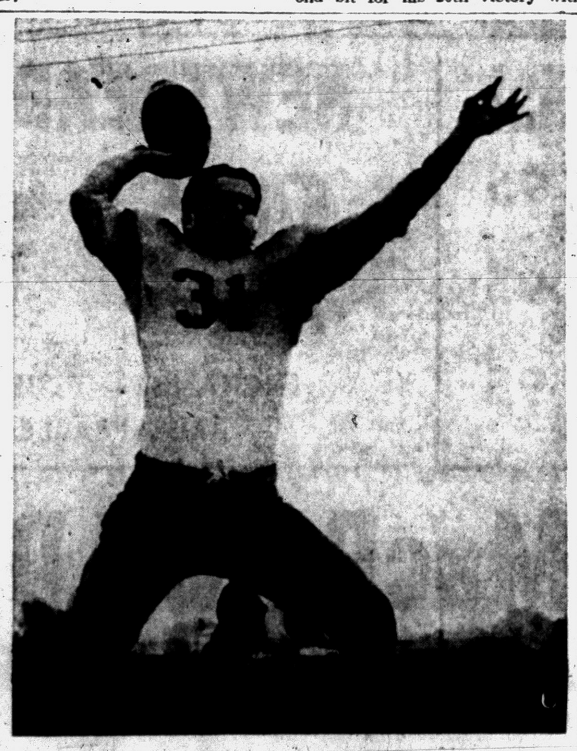

The subject arose after the Army-Tulane game, originally scheduled for New Orleans on Nov. 16, was moved to West Point because of Louisiana segregation laws.

National Champ Upset by Unseeded Giammalva

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A brassy Texan named Sammy Giammalva has handed freshly crowned U.S. Champion Mal Anderson of Australia a stunning upset in the 31st annual Southwest Tennis championships.

★ ★ ★

Four times yesterday the Aussie had match point on unseeded Giammalva, who couldn't make the U.S Davis Cup squad this season. The lad from Houston, however, battled back with a smashing service and aggressive net game, putting Anderson out of the tourney, 11-9, 1-16, 10-8.

Is It Brooklyn or Los Angeles?

Rockefeller, O'Malley, Mayor Wagner Discuss Dodger Fate Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Amid a welter of speculation, Mayor Robert Wagner, Dodgers' president Walter O'Malley and multimillionaire Nelson Rockefeller met today to discuss "new" proposals to keep the club in Brooklyn.

All three, accompanied by their legal advisers, were non-commital, but this much was certain:

1. The meeting probably would determine whether the Dodgers move to Los Angeles or stay in Brooklyn.

2. Rockefeller was the key man, the "angel," who had to take both the city and O'Malley off the financial hook.

One informed source said the city was pressing Rockefeller to contribute an additional $1,000,000.

Another report had the city hoping that Rockefeller would make up the difference between what O'Malley wants to pay and what Wagner wants for the proposed land in downtown Brooklyn for a new park.

Akins Rated Favorite Against Gil Turner

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Veteran Virgil Akins, 29, who has been clamoring for a welterweight title shot for close to five years, gets a chance to bolster his bid tonight when he faces hustling Gil Turner at the Auditorium.

★ ★ ★

The St. Louis contender, ranked second by Ring Magazine and third by the NBA, is an 8-5 favorite to beat Turner, 26, in the television (ABC 9 p.m., EST) 10-rounder.

★ ★ ★

Turner, a 152-pound Philadelphian, is ranked No. 8 among the welters by Ring and 9th among the middleweights by the NBA.

Ted Blasts 34th Home Run, Hikes Average to .377

BOSTON (AP)—Boston's Ted Williams, 39, back in uniform despite lingering effects of a heavy chest cold, was a step closer today to becoming the oldest batting champion in the history of modern baseball.

★ ★ ★

The slugger belted a pinch homer in his first appearance since Sept. 1 last night to help lift the Red Sox to a 9-8 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

★ ★ ★

Ted's 34th homer, a 400-foot smash into the right field seats, boosted his average to .377 for a commanding 11-point lead over Mickey Mantle of New York for the American League batting title.

★ ★ ★

Honus Wagner, a member of the Hall of Fame, is the oldest ever to win a major league batting championship. He led the National League with a .334 mark when he was 37 in 1911.

U.S. 9 Drops Out of Series

DETROIT (AP)—Americans have convinced just about everybody, with the possible exception of the Russians, that it was a U.S. citizen by the name of Abner Doubleday who invented baseball.

And not even the Russians will argue that the sport has enjoyed its greatest success on American diamonds.

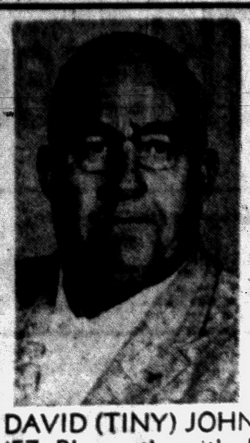

So it is unique that the United States will not be represented tonight when non-professional baseball teams from three nations—threee ontinents for that matter—enter the final round of the global World Series.

Japan, Venezuela and Canada battled into the payoff round, each with 3-1 records. The United States, after winning two straight over Colombia and Venezuela, lost 3-2 to Japan and last night bowed to Canada 8-0.

Reds Threaten; All Teams Improved

E. Detroit EML Favorite

By BILL CORNWELL

There should be better balance in the Eastern Michigan League football race this season, but defending champion East Detroit and Port Huron still seem to hold the trump cards.

New head coach Larry Hartsig has a wealth of veterans returning to the East Detroit camp and the Shamrocks are favored to win their 2nd straight title. Last year's championship was the 1st in the school's history.

Port Huron, a perennial contender, has another experienced squad on hand and coach Bob Hayes' Big Reds are ready to enter the throne room if East Detroit slips. The Reds finished 2nd in 1956.

* * *

Hazel Park, Birmingham, Ferndale and Mt. Clemens — the other active members of the seven-team Class A conference — are all expected to improve and a wide-open fight for the crown is a possibility.

* * *

Halfback Gary Ballman, an All-State choice last season, could hold the key to East Detroit's chances of repeating.

The fleet Ballman, who scored 24 touchdowns for the Shamrocks a year ago, broke a heel bone in a vacation accident and will probably miss the 1st two or three games. If Ballman's injury mends in time for the league campaign, stopping the East Detroit express will be a rugged assignment.

Also back in the Shamrock fold is giant Ron Emerick, 6-foot-6 end who excels at the art of catching passes.

* * *

East Detroit, where Ron Kramer of Michigan fame roamed in his prep days, was unbeaten in nine starts last fall and rated the state's 6th best "A" team.

Halfback Mike McDonald, fullback Bernie Palmateer, center Bruce Myles, tackle Dick Smith and end Fred Burrell, all tested performers, anchor Port Huron's hopes for the title.

Birmingham, which won its 1st EML crown in 1955, then slipped into 4th place in '56, figures to be on the road back. Coach Carl Lemle has a capable quarterback in Dave Ritchie and better team speed.

Other Maple veterans ready for action are end Bob Stephenson, 210-pound tackle Jack Palmer and big Chuck Gibson, a 220-pounder who may alternate between tackle and fullback.

* * *

Gibson had a trial at fullback last year and the experiment didn't work out. He is much improved and running harder now, however, and Lemle says that he will get another chance to carry the ball.

Halfback Ed Estes, a transfer from East Lansing, suffered a head injury in a practice scrimmage and his return to the Maple lineup is indefinite.

Hazel Park could cause a lot of trouble if injuries don't force coach Chuck Skinner to call on his undermanned bench. Halfback Oscar Lewis is a dangerous breakaway artist for the Parkers while Larry Clyma adds experience at quarterback.

Jack Smoot, a punishing runner and one of the league's top ballcarriers, is Mt. Clemens' chief hope of evacuating the cellar. Coach Bill Mowry has 10 other letter winners available. Eight seasoned gridders have returned to coach Ted Meister of Ferndale.

MAPLE FIELD GENERAL — Birmingham, which won its 1st Eastern Michigan League football title in 1955, then skidded to 4th place last year, is expected to improve this season and veteran quarterback Dave Ritchie is one of the reasons. Ritchie will direct Birmingham's T-formation attack in 1957.

Red-Faced Buff Thinclads Lack Eye for Beauty

NEW YORK (INS)—The recent selection of University of Colorado coed Marilyn Van Derbur as Miss America left members of the Buff track team very red-faced indeed.

It seems that each year members of a visiting team are asked to nominate five finalists for the Colorado Relays Queen contest; with the Buff trackmen making the final selection of the campus beauty who reigns over the games.

* * *

In 1936 the Kansas State squad and last year Southern Methodist thinclads thumbed through more than 100 pictures and named Miss Van Derbur among the five finalists.

Each time, members of the Colorado team bypassed her and picked another queen.

"I guess they could run better than they could see," said coach Frank Potts.

Billy Russel, senior left halfback at University of Detroit, is a nephew of Deacon Dan Towler, former backfield star for the professional Los Angeles Rams. Russell is from Donora, Pa.

Tony Hanley, sophomore quarterback at University of Detroit, was recommended to the Titans by Detroit Tigers' outfielder Jim Small. They were football teammates at Bellarmine Prep in San Jose, Calif.

Snead Adds Glamor to Cup

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—This weekend's warm-up round for the U.S. Ryder Cup golf team had a touch of added glamor today, and considerably more gate appeal, as a result of Sam Snead's record-shattering performance in the Dallas Open.

* * *

Snead captains the challenge team, which is supposed to give the Ryder Cuppers a warm-up for their matches with Britain early next month. But Samuel, who fired an amazing 60 on the way to the Dallas title, may steal the show.

* * *

The challenge, with the 20 participants sharing $12,500 in prize money, will be played Saturday and Sunday over Wanakah Country Club's 6,630-yard, par 72 course—toughened for the occasion.

* * *

Jack Burke Jr. captains the Ryder Cuppers. The team is decided on a point system based on PGA-sponsored events during the year, plus the U.S. Open and the Masters. Doug Ford tops the list. Others, in order of points, are Ed Furgol, Ted Kroll, Burke, Tommy Bolt, Dick Mayer, Dow Finsterwald, Fred Hawkins, Art Wall and Lionel Hebert.

Cary Middlecoff and Jimmy Demaret were in the top 10 in points, but were not selected because they did not play in this year's PGA tourney. Hebert finished 15th in points, but was selected because he won the PGA title.

* * *

Joining Snead on the challenge team will be Don Fairfield, Ed Oliver, Walter Burkemo, Jay Hebert, Al Besselink, Marty Furgol, Mike Fetchik, E. J. "Dutch" Harrison and Toby Lyons.

The matches will consist of five best ball foursomes Saturday and 10 singles matches Sunday.

Coach Thinks Pitt Is Ready

Panthers Coming Along OK for Oklahoma Grid Battle Saturday

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Taciturn Johnny Michelosen quietly admits his Pitt Panthers are ready for Saturday's football battle here with Oklahoma, victor in its last 40 contests.

* * *

Michelosen didn't go overboard in making an appraisal yesterday—he never does—but he indicated he feels the squad is coming along fine. Maybe even better than he had hoped.

For the first time in weeks Michelosen appeared at least somewhat satisfied after his players completed their final scrimmage.

"Fullback Dick Bowen's bad leg is holding up well," Michelosen said after the workout. "Tackle Bill Lindner has returned after a long absence. Guard Dick Carr jogged around well after his injury and end Art Gob got in some rough work."

Michelosen concluded: "We'll be ready."

Break Would Jeopardize Rose Bowl Pact

PCC Split Seems Inevitable

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

ANN ARBOR—It appears unlikely that the Pacific Coast Conference will be able to salvage its unity, and as a result the break between the Northern and Southern sectors of the league seems inevitable.

In fact, the split may come before too long.

★ ★ ★

This is the opinion of University of Michigan athletic director Fritz Crisler, who yesterday spoke at the luncheon of Michigan football writers.

If the Southern schools pull out of the PCC, "it would break the Rose Bowl pact wide open," said Crisler.

"The contract is between the Big Ten and the Pacific Coast Conference, and not with any of the California schools and thus it would be void," he added.

★ ★ ★

The big issue in the PCC is the result of a struggle for power. As it now stands, the material strength of the PCC is with the Southern division schools, California, Southern Cal, UCLA and Stanford.

The voting power, however, is with the Northern schools, headed by Washington and including Washington State, Oregon, Oregon State and Idaho State. This makes the margin 5 to 4 in voting issues, and in most cases the schools follow this voting line.

At one time Montana was a member but scheduling pressures forced the school's withdrawal.

Now the pressure is on Idaho State. The Northern group in order to keep its voting strength wants to keep Idaho State in the league against the desires of the California schools.

★ ★ ★

For many years it has been a compromised situation in the league, whereas the northwest schools conceded only partial participation for Idaho State. This is because none of the California schools will put Idaho on their schedules.

The two schools which are expected to be the first to withdraw would be California and UCLA. The board of regents has authorized these schools to select any football schedule they want. This is in violation of PCC rules which require a round robin schedule of games.

If these two schools were to break away, Stanford and Southern Cal would most likely follow, leaving Washington, the only desirable opponent in the North, no other choice but join the new league, or form another conference.

'Old John' Hunters' Favorite

Partridge Top Game Bird

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hunting seasons may come and go, but old John Partridge — despite dire predictions — appears willing to go on forever.

★ ★ ★

For no matter by what name you know him, the ruffed grouse continues to be the country's top native upland game bird from Maine to California.

★ ★ ★ ★

Old John used to be known as a pheasant, too, but the wide distribution of exotic ringnecks has made that too complicated. He's also known colloquially as a "ruffled grouch," but in truth that applies more to the smooth-bore operators who has burned up a box of shells trying to hit the little thunder bird.

All this is no reflection on Bob White, but cousin Bob doesn't get around as much.

★ ★ ★

Except for quail and ruffed grouse, the upland hunting picture across the country continues to present a changing scene. In the West, hunters will see more and more of comparatively new exotics like the Chukar partridge.

★ ★ ★

In the upper Midwest, hunters will find the Dakota wild pheasants moving steadily back to good populations, although nothing like the early 1940s is likely to be seen again.

★ ★ ★

In the East, and around the population centers all the way west to Illinois, there will be more and more made-to-order (private preserves) hunting on a pay-as-you-go basis for hunters weary of either traveling long distances or hunting in crowded fields.

Pythians Arrange 17th Hunters Party

Arrangements have been made for the 17th annual hunters' round-ac Lodge No. 19 castle. A turkey up and banquet, Oct. 15, at Ponti-dinner (Frankemuth style) will precede a program of talks and a conservation film.

A. J. Roy is chairman. Fanny Tompkin Temple No. 41 will serve the dinner. Ray Harington of Fellowship Lodge No. 277 will be toastmaster. Speakers will include Grand Chancellor Harry Pattison, and the film will show Michigan's deer herd and ways of preparing venison for the table.

Conservation Man Will Address OCSC

Oakland County Sportsmen's club will hear a discussion of game conditions and hunting prospects for the coming fall game season in Michigan, at a hunters' program next Wednesday, Sept. 25. Speaker will be Pete Petoskey of the State Conservation Department. Waterfowl (Oct. 1), pheasants and rabbits (Oct. 2) and other small game will be discussed. Gun safety films will be shown.

Members are asked to take friends and wear hunting costumes.

Seek Improved Relations

Farmers, Sportsmen Confer at M-L

By H. GUY MOATS

Master of the Michigan State Grange, official of the Michigan Farm Bureau, a representative of the U. S. Department of the Interior and farmers and sportsmen of this area are expected to attend an important farmer-hunter conference Sept. 23 at Multi-Lakes Conservation Association. Conference is open to sportsmen and others interested in the development of better relations between these groups.

Oakland County, with the state's greatest concentration of outdoors-minded people, in Detroit and other Metropolitan area communities, has a really big problem in this connection. Bird and rabbit hunters in the fall and winter, deer in many sections swarm over agricultural and recreational lands. In too many instances there is failure to observe the first rule — ask the farmer, first. However, with intensive compaigns by both conservation department and sportsmen groups, there has been marked improvement in these relations in recent years.

William J. Brake, state Grange master, will preside at the 8 p.m. Monday session. Dan Reed, assistant legislative counsel for the state Farm Bureau, will lend the voice for the farmer's side of the question. National viewpoint on the problem, which every farming-game section faces, will be discussed, it is expected, by Jack Berryman of Minneapolis, representing the Department of the Interior. Sunday hunting is certain to be among the questions raised.

★ ★ ★

Raymond Chabot, Multi-Lakes prexy, announcing plans for the conference, felt that a great deal of good would result from it. "Our association is very happy to be host to this gathering," he said. "We know that all of us will benefit from meeting together, becoming better acquainted, and discussing our mutual problems."

M-L clubhouse is located at Reed's Lake, near Commerce, and signs will be placed on Commerce road pointing the proper directions. The site is on Newton road.

Water Safety Group Meets With Governor

Organize Legislative, Educational Bodies to Study Conditions

The newly-formed State Water Safety Study Commission met in the House Chambers of the Capitol Building in Lansing this week to organize legislative and educational study committees.

The new commission, appointed by Governor G. Mennen Williams to look into the problems of water and boating safety, has two Pontiac-area men as members. They are Marshall L. Johnson of the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club and Donald Adams, Waterford attorney.

According to these commission members, Oakland County will be directly affected by the conclusions of the commission because of its importance as a water center.

"We welcome ideas, comments, and suggestions from the residents of Oakland County on water safety matters," Johnson says. "We hope every Oakland County resident interested in greater safety on our lakes and rivers will let us know their feelings on this subject."

In forming the commission, Governor Williams said the specific purposes will be to examine methods of improving safety and preventing accidents in boating operations, and in swimming. He added that "the commission will also preview federal - state relations on marine affairs and formulate methods whereby a great public consciousness of water safety can be created. And it will examine existing statutes to determine if any legislative changes or additions need to be made."

Commission will hold its next meeting in the Capitol Thursday, Sept. 26.

Pointers' Trial in Highland Area

Field trial time has returned to this area and one of the first of the fall events is the annual run by the German Shorthaired Pointer club of Michigan. It takes place at Highland Recreation area Sept. 28-29, and entries close Sept. 23. Draw will be made the evening of Sept. 23 at Northwest Sportsmen's club, 28615 Northwestern Highway, Birmingham.

★ ★ ★

Six events are listed; puppy, derby, gun dog (to be handler-gunner stakes), open all-age (all AKC recognized German pointer breeds), limited all-age and junior handling. In the gun dog stakes each handler will shoot over his own dog. Live pheasants will be used for all stake events.

Ribbons, trophies and cash awards go to the winners. Tony Burns trophy will be awarded the top amateur handler.

Spectators are welcome to witness the trial.

42-Inch 'Prize' Fails to Meet With Dad's OK

Richard (Dick) Compton, 13-year-old Waterford Township boy, one of three who hooked and landed a 42-inch gar-pike in Clinton River, found out that the "prize" had no place around the home. He, and his fellow-anglers, Dave Draper and Phil Hildner, showed the fish around the neighborhood, then took it to Dick's home.

★ ★ ★

Dick's stepfather, Norman Tick, an ardent angler himself, hustled the boys outside with the admonition, "bury that thing, quick." These rough fish often speedily develop an offensive odor. However, the boys did a good job, taking a voracious predator of panfish out of circulation.

★ ★ ★

The gar is a terror for fishermen's tackle. He'll try to eat anything within reach. Many times, when hooked — and it's a tough job to sink a barb in the long, bony teeth-lined bill — the gar will roll, like an alligator, snagging line and tackle in a big tangle.

Hunters' Dilemma

What to Do Opening Day

By JACK PATTERSON

With Oct. 1 rapidly drawing near it's high time the shooter made up his mind what to do on opening day. This is an easy task for old-timers and other fuddy - duddies who stand neck-deep in a rut of their own manufacture and always "open" at the same old stand. It is somewhat more complicated for the new shooter, or the more imaginative one, what with the simultaneous opening on a whole slew of species. It's still impossible to be everywhere at once and the shooter must concentrate on some species to the exclusion of others. O.K., but what species?

PATTERSON

First decide whether to open on waterfowl or upland game. First of the season usually offers the best local duck shooting.

This was when the choice was easy to make. Some years ago the writer's family had a farm out in the county and before the season opened, so that it would "weather," the farmer would set up a blind on the lake on the property and we enjoyed splendid early season shooting.

★ ★ ★

There are houses all around the lake now and as many ducks as on the court house lawn. And that, of course, is the trend with local pond and pot-hole shooting. So we defer our duck shooting now until blustery late October when the big waters are kicking up a fuss and the cans and redheads are swarming in.

★ ★ ★

It looks like the choice is upland work for which we'll have to go north of highway M20, but we still have another decision to make. Will it be ruffed grouse and woodcock in the deer country of the Lower Peninsula or a go at the fast-flying sharptails and chickens on the plains of the Upper?

★ ★ ★

Two things govern the choice here. One: The foliage is mighty think, pats are hard to find and harder to shoot in the thick stuff. Two: Best shooting for sharptails and squaretails is the first part of the season before the birds scatter.

There's another game bird—maybe the sportiest of them all—that's at his best early in the season. That little, long-billed aerial acrobat the jacksnipe, last of the shore birds on the open list, demands the best gun-handling the shooter is capable of and then some.

Wherever you find him, and his distribution is world-wide, you'll find the trickiest winged target of them all.

MSU Professor Pursues Study of State Snakes

In an effort to determine the specific distribution of reptiles and amphibians in Michigan, Dr. Max Hensley of Michigan State University has begun a study of rattlesnakes, and lizards, along with other species of snakes and amphibians. He is partcularly interested in learning about those that may be found in certain areas, but have not been recorded.

★ ★ ★

Oakland county has representatives of both groups; the fox snake also is seen in this area occasionally, along with the common garter snake. Few if any, pilot black snakes are found here, a condition that also applies to Central Michigan, Dr. Hensley says. Oakland county has several species of lizards. This state, the MSU man says, is unique in that it is the edge of range for certain species.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Henley's study will cover all reptiles and amphibians found in Michigan.

MUCC Trap, Skeet Test Set for OCSC's Field

Representing sportsmen's clubs from all parts of the state some 200 shotgunners will converge on Oakland County Sportsmen's club fields Sunday, for the 9th annual MUCC state shoot.

Traveling trophies will be awarded by MUCC to winners of the team and various classes only, and each club may have Teams will be from MUCC clubs as many teams as it desires.

Both skeet and trap events are for 50 birds, and contestants may fire in either or both events.

In last year's shoot the Detroit Sportsmen's Congress was team champion. The DSC will be shooting for its third crown in trap and its second at skeet. It won at skeet in 1956, took team honors at trap in 1953 and 1956.

Solunar Tables

Now that fall fishing is improving steadily, and the hunting seasons are near at hand, sportsmen can find the solunar tables, prepared for this area by noted outdoorsman John Alden Knight, a lot of help. The tables, showing the best times in which to hunt and fish, show major and minor periods lasting from an hour and a half to two hours for the former, somewhat less for the latter. For the ensuing week, the tables are as follows:

	A.M.		P.M.
	Minor	Major	Minor	Major
Thurs.	1:10	7:30	1:45	8:00
Fri.	2:10	8:30	2:45	9:00
Sat.	3:10	9:30	3:45	10:00
Sun.	4:10	10:30	4:45	10:55

Gar Throws Half-Hitch to Close His Own Mouth

A 3-foot long gar pike that grabbed Harry Forbes' (2400 Bogie Lake road) minnow while Forbes was fishing in Bogie lake recently, did himself in without help from the angler.

Forbes says the elongated fish started to roll, characteristic of the species (like the alligator) and he just threw a half-hitch over his own bill. The twisted line effectively closed the gar's wicked teeth-lined jaws. Forbes says he's lost many a gar when their teeth cut his lines.

National Trial Set for German Pointers

Fifth annual German shorthaired pointer national field trial stakes will be run Oct. 25-26-27 at the Orvis ranch near Farmington Calif. Stake is open to all German shorthaired pointer field champions of record and others that have placed in any licensed AKC open all-age stake since the 1956 trial. One of the judges will be Detroiter Dr. Carl Lenley.

★ ★ ★

FTC Traude von der Wengenstadt, owned by a coast man, is the current champion.

Demonstration Shows Obedience Training

Pontiac area dog owners are offered an opportunity, Thursday, of witnessing what a course in obedience training can do for pets and "working dogs."

★ ★ ★

First of the fall gatherings arranged by the Southern Michigan Obedience Training club is set for 8 p.m. Thursday in Daniel Whitfield school, Orchard Lake avenue. This is a demonstration, and owners planning to attend should leave their dogs at home.

★ ★ ★

Regular training classes begin Sept. 26 in the same location, and any one desiring further information should contact John Eicher, FE 2-7749.

There is no charge for admission for Thursday's demonstration.

Waggoner Is Rifle Champ

OCSC's Bob Waggoner shot his way to the top spot in the recent big bore rifle tourney at the club range in Waterford. Bob didn't take it without a struggle. Bert Beam also carded 229-17v in a possible 250. He lost the tie when Waggoner fired a fine 49-5v on the difficult 300-yard rapid fire. His 48-7v was also tops for the day in the 300-yard sitting slow fire. Thirty took part in the event.

★ ★ ★

Ken Farnum fired 89-1, 46-3, 46-2 and 46-4 for 3rd place with 227-12v. Fourth went to Will Dougall, a top OCSC pistol shooter who had 226-8v.

★ ★ ★

Other winners included A. Crile, who won the tyro medal with 217-8v with a Springfield 30-06 recently purchased "serviceable" rifle. B. Anderson was second; Jim Bennett, 218-6v, junior (48-2v at 300 RF) beat his dad in actual count. Bennett Sr. had 218-8v.

★ ★ ★

Two 4-man OCSC teams will fire in a 4-club match Oct. 6 at Detroit against Wyandotte, Lincoln Park and Detroit.

Dupas Risks Standing in Bout With Micelo

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lightweight contender Ralph Dupas, making first use of a racial ruling by the Louisiana State Athletic Commission, meets rugged welterweight Joe Micelo tonight. Each has a good deal to win—or lose.

★ ★ ★

Dupas, 21, will be risking his rating as the No. 3 contender for Joe Brown's title. Although he'll spot the veteran New Yorker about five pounds, a setback could detract from Dupas' glistening record and drop him in the rankings.

Bear Says Still Hunting Most Sportsmanlike Way

ALL OUTDOORS (INS) — Nationally known archer and big game hunter, Fred Bear of Grayling, says still hunting is the most sportsmanlike way to hunt deer.

★ ★ ★

But, he hastens to add, almost any method short of "shining" with a light at night could be called sportsmanlike in view of the odds against bowhunters.

Bears lists three prime hunting techniques — still hunting, stalking and standing — and says that for the most fun the first method is his favorite. This means the bowman walks slowly through known game areas, standing a few minutes, looking over the country and moving on to another brief stand several hundred yards away.

★ ★ ★

The veteran archer says climate, geography and the abilities of the individual will determine which method is best.

He recommends that for those lacking experience, it is wise to employ a guide or talk to natives of the area. Several days scouting in a deer area before the season begins is also most helpful.

Equipment? Rubber boots are most practical although the best footwear would be gym or tennis shoes. In the recommended bowhunter's wardrobe, drab colored clothing is a must — an army camouflage suit is best. For the real serious hunter, face and hand camouflage will help.

Quitting Reports Untrue

Bielat Back at MSU After Visiting Home

EAST LANSING (AP) — After a day's absence caused a brief stir, sophomore quarterback Larry Bielat was back with the Michigan State Football squad today.

Bielat was missing from practice Monday. One report had it he was miffed because he was no higher than the fourth squad and was thinking of transferring to Stanford.

Coach Duffy Daugherty explained that Bielat was excused from Monday's practice to go home.

Larry wanted to go home about a personal problem," Daugherty said. "The problem is solved and he's back with us now and so far as we know he's staying."

Daugherty said he called Stanford coach Chuck Taylor and Taylor denied knowing anything about the prospect of a change.

★ ★ ★

"I don't know who the boy is," Daugherty quoted Taylor as saying, "but if he's good we can use him."

★ ★ ★

Bielat, highly touted as a high school player, caused a stir before when he spent a summer working on the Purdue campus before reporting to MSU.

Gibson defeated Bill Lillard of Chicago last week, getting 279 in his first game of the match that is televised weekly (WXYZ-TV, 10 p.m.). Winner of this week's match will meet Buzz Fazio, now of St. Louis.

College Grid Season to Pop Lid

NEW YORK (AP) — Football seasons, like birthdays, keep rolling around faster each year. Here's hoping not all the candles are blown out on opening day.

Oklahoma over Pittsburgh; Pitt has a great center in Charley Bruckman and a great tackle in Jim McCusker but Oklahoma, as usual, has a top flight operator in every position. This could be the Sooners' toughest game of the year but it definitely will be their 41st consecutive triumph.

Texas A & M over Maryland: The Aggies are driving for a Cotton Bowl berth this year and won't be sidetracked in their opening game. Maryland already has lost its co-captain, halfback Joe Healey, with a knee injury.

Navy over Boston College: Bob Reisfnyder has been shifted to center to give Navy's its heaviest line ever. The middies also had two more weeks of drills. It all adds up to an unpleasant afternoon for the Boston team as it dedicates its new stadium.

Virginia Tech over Tulane: Strictly a hunch. It is a Friday night game.

★ ★ ★

Duke over South Carolina: this one may decide the Atlantic coast conference title on the opening day of the season. It'll be close with fullback McElhaney the deciding factor for Duke.

Baylor over Villanova: The Philadelphia Wildcats travel here and there for their games. Unfortunately their victories also come only here and there—and they definitely won't win here.

UCLA over Air Force Academy, Davidson over Catawba in Friday night games.

MIDWEST:

Detroit over Marquette, Iowa State over Denver, Nebraska over Washington State, Tulsa over Hardin Simmons, Arizona State over Wichita. Cincinnati over Dayton.

SOUTH:

The Citadel over Newberry, Clemson over Presbyterian, Florida State over Furman, Georgia Tech over Kentucky, Texas over Georgia, Rice over Louisiana State, Richmond over Randolph Macon, Tampa over Virginia Military, Vanderbilt over Missouri, George Washington over William & Mary.

SOUTHWEST:

California over SMU, Arkansas over Oklahoma State, Texas Christian over Kansas, Mississippi over Trinity, Texas Tech over West Texas State, Texas Western over North Texas State.

FAR WEST:

Oregon State over Southern Cal, Arizona over Brigham Young, Oregon over Idaho, Utah over Montana State, Wyoming over Kansas State, Stanford over San Jose, College of Pacific over San Jose State.

Strong Big 10 Bidders

Gophers Title Conscious

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A Big Ten football championship team seems to be brewing at the University of Minnesota with such ingredients as impressive size, exceptional experience and fiery quarterback Bobby Cox.

★ ★ ★

However, Coach Murray Warmath fends off suggestions his Gophers are loaded sufficiently to dethrone arch-rival Iowa with the comment:

"People are looking into our kitchen, but they don't see what goes into the apple pie."

He may have in mind an unprecedented Big Ten conference schedule of eight games in which the Gophers meet every other member except Ohio State.

But this season-dominated Minnesota club which marks the first full harvest of Warmath's four-season Gopher regime is virtually the same team which finished in a second-place conference tie with Michigan last fall.

The Gophers last fall had a 4-1-2 league record, suffering their only loss against Iowa, 7-0. The two meet at Iowa City, Nov. 9, but the Hawkeyes this year operate without clever quarterback Ken Ploen.

After a tough non-loop opener with Washington, the Gophers run their eight-game Big Ten gantlet against Purdue, Northwestern, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan State and Wisconsin.

★ ★ ★

Warmath concedes that Cox, a daring, talented split T quarterback, is a potential All-America and that this is his most experienced Minnesota team.

The Gophers are two deep in lettermen at every position except left half, where a swift sophomore, Willie Martin, could edge out two lettermen, Bob Soltis and Dave Lindblom.

Minnesota's chief losses from last year were star tackle Bob Hobert, center Dean Maas and halfback Dick McNamara.

★ ★ ★

"Naturally, I'm delighted some people rate us No. 1 in the conference, but I'm surprisd too," said the cautious Warmath.

Turkey Shoot Sunday

A novelty turkey shoot will be an added attraction, Sunday, at OCSC trap field, during the MUCC state shotgun meet. Shooting will begin at 9 a.m., run until dusk.

'Luk targets,' with bullseyes on the back of the sheets, provide the unusual angle.

Archers may also take part.

Canadian Port Always Bustles

Two-Way Trade Flows Through Vancouver in British Columbia

WASHINGTON — Through the bustling port of Vancouver, British Columbia, pours a two-way stream of products.

Resources of western Canada—timber, grain, minerals, fur, oil—roll down to meet the ocean. From the Pacific at its feet come salmon, herring, and other sea gold.

★ ★ ★

Some 25 miles north of the United States border, Vancouver is a young city already contemplating a $700,000,000 face lifting. A group of businessmen has proposed a 25-year program to rebuild the downtown area.

The Fraser River, draining in a wide loop from the Rocky Mountains on the Alberta-British Columbia border, cuts through the Coast Mountains to the port, offering a natural highway from the interior. Through this gap came the railroads, and recently a pipeline from Alberta's oil fields.

Part of Vancouver itself, the National Geographic Society says, rests on a mass of gravel deposited by the Fraser in the dim past.

★ ★ ★

Mountains cupping Vancouver provide a sheltered harbor with almost 100 miles of shore line, and enough depth to dock the largest ships.

The second busiest port after Montreal and the third largest city of Canada, Vancouver also boasts handsome scenery and an equable climate.

Although farther north than Quebec, it has winters so mild that roses can be picked on Christmas Day. This pleasant mildness springs from the transfer of heat from the warm waters of the North Pacific by the prevailing westerly winds.

Green and icefree the year around, Vancouver has one weather problem. Each year about 58 inches of rain, mostly concentrated in the winter months, fall on the city. Natives declare that it keeps Vancouver healthy by washing away germs.

★ ★ ★

Vancouver grew from a small sawmill community, a collection of squatters' shacks and a traditional Indian camping place. It was incorporated as a city in 1886. Disaster struck soon after.

A land-clearing fire, fanned by a strong wind, swept out of control June 13, 1886, and destroyed almost the entire settlement. Rebuilding began before the ashes were cool.

The next year, the Canadian Pacific Railway reached Vancouver, and the city began a life of almost unbroken prosperity. Enriched by the fur trade, gold rushes, the golden grain from inland prairies, Alberta's oil, the products of the vast forests of British Columbia, and the rich fisheries, Vancouver grew apace.

★ ★ ★

The opening of the Panama Canal in 1914, bringing European markets closer, aided the shipping industry. Another canal, the Suez, has played a part, too. With the recent demonstration of its vulnerability has come greater interest in Canadian oil.

Flint Commission OKs Big River Promotion

FLINT (AP) — The Flint City Commission has approved a proposal for a 25 million dollar redevelopment of Flint's central river area.

★ ★ ★

The proposed 55-acre area for redevelopment is near the central business district and the 20 million dollar Flint college and cultural development.

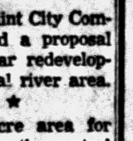

The project will include a new two million dollar main postal center, one or two office buildings and a heliport.

★ ★ ★

The commission unanimously approved the redevelopment proposal submitted by Webb and Knapp Inc., New York real estate developers.

EAR STRAIN from WAXY EARS Dangerous!

EACH TIME YOU STRAIN to hear what somebody says, you may flash to your subconscious mind the destructive thought, "Am I going deaf?" That thought repeated often enough can result in a state of imaginary, partial deafness that constantly gets worse and more nerve-wracking.

IF HARD OF HEARING NOW and there's wax (cerumen) in your ears, remove it with WAX-OUT. This deep-down wax clogs ear canal, hinders the sound-carrying powers of the canal linings, handicaps hearing, causes discomforts, ringing, buzzings, muffled sounds. Remove this wax with WAX-OUT, a compound of soothing, solvent oils that softens wax, with use of simple syringe. Float it out, and then soothe and help tissues normalize. Your money back unless your hearing improves in 7 days after using WAX-OUT. Start WAX-OUT today in the easy to use SQUEEZE-A-DROP bottle.

BACK-TRACKING ACROSS THE NATION, this picturesque covered wagon train heads East along the historic Oregon Trail.

Covered Wagons Retrace '49 Trek

By ELLIS LUCIA
NEA Special Correspondent

ALONG THE OREGON TRAIL, WYOMING (NEA) — The white-tops are rumbling across the prairie again as in the days of '49.

A train of covered wagons is plodding slowly through sagebrush and sand, dust and arid heat along the historic Oregon Trail. Only this time the prairie schooners are going in reverse, bound for Washington, D.C.

★ ★ ★

The train and party of nine left Ocean Park, Wash., on the Pacific coast April 20. They pushed up the Columbia and across barren stretches of eastern Oregon and Idaho. Now they're in Wyoming nearing the halfway mark in the long trek.

They plan to winter at Cheyenne and then jump off next spring from old Fort Laramie on the Wyoming-Nebraska border.

This is the first wagon train to cross the continent in this century. It's a fantastic departure from the motor age.

It took seven years for Mrs. Morgan to gain clearance through all the states, which nowadays frown on horse-drawn vehicles. Only Kansas won't let the caravan through. But Mrs. Morgan has the blessing of other governors and even President Eisenhower.

Six men and three women make up the party, which averages about 21 miles per day. Thousands of motorists have seen them this summer along U.S. 30.

The party leads a rugged life, for they shun plush motels and eateries. They have their own chuck wagon and sleep under the stars. Laundry is done in the rivers. The men shoe the horses and reset steel wagon tires. George Gibbs of John Day, Ore., is trail boss and John Vrechota of Madras, Ore., is wagon boss.

TOUGH TREK

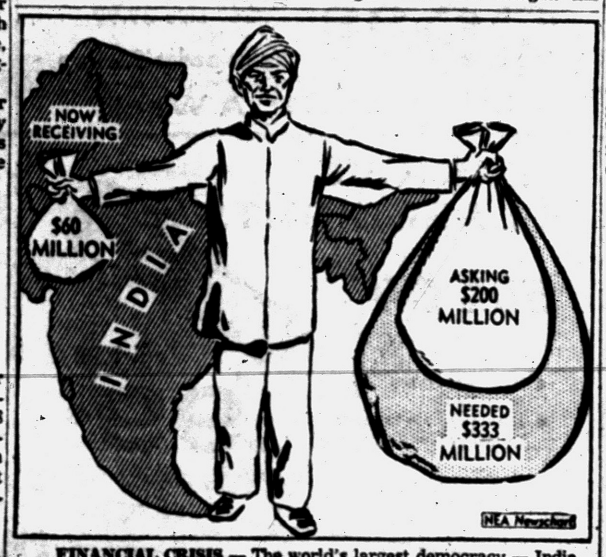

The trek is no wagonbed of roses. It's tough to guide a wagon train coast-to-coast, even in this day and age. There's no worry of Indian attacks, but these emigrants have other problems. Wagons break down. Water barrels burst. A horse got bogged down in a mudhole and was nearly lost. High speed motor traffic is a constant worry, so outriders must keep alert. Find replacements when horses play out is a real problem.

Scouts must locate waterholes and camp grounds in advance, often on private property. But Westerners have been hospitable, except for one Idaho town which told the train to "keep going," thinking they were gypsies.

The halfway point is expected to be reached early in September. The train, which has been visiting historic spots along the route, will go into winter quarters. When spring weather permits, the wooden wheels will be turning again, bound for Washington and perhaps a Presidential welcome.

★ ★ ★

Final act in the unique adventure will be the dumping of a barrel of Pacific Ocean water in the Atlantic. Then the emigrants will head back to Oregon — 20th Century style.

FINANCIAL CRISIS — The world's largest democracy — India — has reached a turning point in her effort to raise the standard of living and achieve a self-sustaining national growth through a mixed economy. Newschart shows the approximate figures of development assistance she receives and hopes to receive. Small bag, left, illustrates the approximately 60 million dollars annually supplied by United States' foreign aid. Larger bag, right, shows the 200 million a year — a four-fold increase — that India now asks from the United States on a three-year basis. Shaded bag — 333 million annually for three years — is what Indian financial experts consider necessary. If the difference isn't available from other Western sources, such as Britain, a larger loan may be asked in Washington.

Expert Reveals Ways of Detecting Trouble in Cars

DETROIT (INS) — Drivers can detect mechanical trouble coming in most cases and prevent accidents or breakdowns.

★ ★ ★

That's the opinion of Philip B. Hopkins, director of service development and training for Chrysler Corp. He has outlined important safety tips for motorists.

He says thumping tires, hard steering, front-end vibration and irregular idling are symptoms of possible problems.

"Look for such brake trouble indicators as spongy pedal, low pedal and squeaks or chatters when stopping. Check your tires for cuts and scoring."

★ ★ ★

He warns motorists not to forget their spare. Some spare tires lose pressure and are practically useless "especially when drivers have trouble miles from any service station."

Proper wheel alignment prevents excessive tire wear and helps to ease steering.

Hopkins says "thorough lubrication is a must. Wheel bearings and universal joints should be lubricated every 10,000 or 20,000 miles to prevent wear. Check the fluid levels in automatic transmissions, power steering and brake systems."

★ ★ ★

He added that motorists should "drive defensively," courteously and carefully.

The diameter of the sun is 865,000 miles or about 110 times greater than the diameter of the earth.

"Casey Jones (John Luther Jones) is buried at Jackson, Miss. Cayce, Ky., the town for which he was nicknamed, has erected a bronze tablet in memory of the famous railroader.

Ike Determined to Battle Slash in Income Taxes

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
INS Correspondent

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Eisenhower has determined to throw all the prestige of his office against a congressional move to cut income taxes, and will veto the measure if it should pass.

Convinced that a tax reduction next year would prove dangerously inflationary, Ike next month will launch an active campaign to enlist the support of leading Republicans for his position.

FLAT ASSERTION

This is the flat assertion of a high ranking member of the Eisenhower inner circle, who told this correspondent:

"Ike has definitely decided to fight with all his might to forestall a tax cut in 1958, despite the fact that it is a crucial election year.

"The President knows that his move will be unpopular, but he is convinced that our economy simply cannot afford reduced taxes. We are already dangerously close to the legal debt ceiling, and we can see no prospect of further reducing the budget next year."

MAY PASS BILL

The informant said Eisenhower believes that the new Congress will again pass the 850 million dollar government pay raise bill which he vetoed earlier this month, and that this time the measure will be passed over his veto.

"The President is baffled by the inconsistency of the American voter," the source disclosed. "Because of the hue and cry raised to cut his budget, he thought the people would support his move to block a government pay raise.

"Instead, they seemed completely indifferent to this highly inflationary measure. They flooded Congress and the White House with letters of protest against the high budget, but only apathy greeted the congressional move to raise postal and classified government employes' salaries. Ike simply can't understand their inconsistency."

★ ★ ★

The source said the President still has hopes that Congress will pass his proposed postal rate increase, which would add 600 million dollars to the budget, but he now believes the increase will be offset by a bill raising postal workers' pay.

He said Ike will again veto the wage increases for postal and classified workers, but that Congress will "undoubtedly" override the veto.

The President, according to this source, will launch his drive against an income tax cut shortly after the close of his vacation in early October.

★ ★ ★

His present plans call for a series of informal huddles with leading GOP senators and representatives, in the hopes of mapping a strategy which can derail the Democratic drive for a tax cut.

The informant said Ike is shocked that the Democrats are "willing to gamble with the economy simply to pick up votes next year."

He will therefore stake his appeal on the basis of "pure patriotism," when he talks with congressional leaders.

Fall Milk Strike Predicted by DFC Bargaining Head

NEW HUDSON — Homer Martin, organizational director of the Dairy Farmers Cooperative Assn. of Michigan, said today a milk strike by his organization later this fall appears inevitable.

"If we can get what we want without a strike, fine, but I don't have much hope that we will," Martin said after a day-long meeting of the DFC's directors here Monday.

DFC is demanding that creameries pay farmers $6 per 100 pounds for bottling milk. The present price is $5 per 100 pounds, 46½ quarts.

Martin predicted "positively" that a strike will be called, but said a date will not be discussed "until a day or two" ahead of it.

"We will try to get as much as we can from the creameries in negotiating meetings," Martin continued.

★ ★ ★

Strike headquarters were ordered set up in New Hudson, Imlay City, Carson City and Grand Rapids. A general membership meeting to discuss strike plans was called last night in Marlette.

HEADS BARGAINING

Directors gave Martin new powers at Monday's meeting, making him chairman of the DFC bargaining committee. He already was strike chairman, organizational director and publicity chairman.

★ ★ ★

In making Martin bargaining chairman, the directors supplanted Samuel Ball of South Lyon, DFC secretary, who recently has been at odds with Martin.

The directors also eliminated the office of business director, which had been held by another Martin critic, Lee Van Bonn, also of South Lyon.

Ballo and Van Bonn had accused Martin of attempting to become a dictator within the organization.

Ballo told newsmen afterward that "the whole organization has gone to pieces," adding: "It's typical of Martin that he won't play unless he's the whole cheese."

Name 'Woman of the Year'

Geraldine McCracken Picked by Keego Harbor B, P Organization

KEEGO HARBOR — The Business and Professional Women's club chose Geraldine McCracken as Woman of the Year at its recent business meeting. Mrs. McCracken is vice president of the club and is taking the place of Marjorie Billingsley, president, due to the illness of the latter.

The club members will especially honor their 'woman of the year' when they attend the Trinity Methodist Church as a group on Sunday, Sept. 22.

★ ★ ★

Other business during the meeting was the appointment of Francis Leaf and Helen Godhardt to head the United Fund Drive in the Keego Harbor area during the week of Oct. 5 through the 19.

The club is recruiting blood donors for the mobile unit to be stationed at the West Bloomfield Township hall Sept. 25. Donors are being asked to call Mariam Foxman at FE 2-6665 for appointments. The bank will be open from 2:30 to 8:30 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Hostesses for the evening were Sarah Young, Clara Cronk, Dorothy Weber, Helen Lack and Ruth Kimler.

★ ★ ★

The next meeting will be a dinner party at the Roosevelt Hotel, Pontiac, at 6:30 p.m. Sept. 23.

MR. AND MRS. GERALD F. HUNTER

Nancy Sworthwood Wed to Gerald Hunter at Holly

FENTON — Nancy Sworthwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Sworthwood of Fenton, and Gerald F. Hunter, son of the George Hunters of Holly, spoke their nuptial vows in a recent ceremony at Holly.

The Rev. Lewis Sutton officiated at the double-ring candlelight ceremony, held in Calvary Methodist Church.

The bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon acetate, fashioned with long tapered sleeves, fitted bodice and scalloped neckline outlined in seed pearls. A bouffant skirt extended over hoops into a chapel train.

The bride's veil of illusion, waist-length, was secured by a crown of lace embroidered with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink rosebuds and white carnations.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Richard Lewis of Corunna was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. William Turner of Holly and Mrs. Don Horner of Detroit.

The bride's nieces, Terry and Patty Sworthwood of St. John's served as flower girls, and a nephew of the bridegroom, George Hunter III was ringbearer.

Wayne Freeman of Holly was best man, and ushers were Dale Sworthwood of St. Johns, George Hunter II of Saginaw and William Horton of Holly.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony.

$119,075 Raised by Methodists

To Start on Parsonage Soon, on Site Donated by Huttenlochers

CLARKSTON — Building Fund Crusade of the Clarkston First Methodist Church has gone over the top, with $119,075 raised. The goal was $115,000. Success of the drive was announced at a Victory service last night by the Rev. Grant Dunlap.

Rev. Dunlap is a director of the department of field and finance of the National Board of Missions of the Methodist Church. He has been directing the crusade and preaching at First Methodist Church during the past two weeks.

A breakdown of the total shows that 368 families contributed $113,711.90 with $30,221.50 of this amount being in cash. In addition 117 youths gave $5,363.10 with $336 in cash.

First Methodist Church is moving to a new seven acre site donated to the church by the Howard Huttenlochers, located adjacent to the high school. The building site is bounded by Church Street on the north, the high school on the east, Waldon Road on the south, and a beautiful stream on the west.

The first unit to be built on the land is the parsonage. Construction is planned to begin in about a week. Last year the late Mrs. Ada Mills left her estate of $11,000 to the church to be used in the construction of a new parsonage.

★ ★ ★

First Methodist Church, under the leadership of its pastor, the Rev. William J. Richards, has enjoyed a tremendous growth during the past year now representing a membership of 700 and a constituency of over 2,000 people who participate in the various activities.

A three unit $450,000 church edifice is planned for the church's new location consisting of the sanctuary, the educational unit, and fellowship hall. Construction will not begin for two or three years. The church is to be of colonial design consistent with the architecture of the village.

★ ★ ★

Over 150 people of the church under the direction of Crusade Chairman Philip Smith and David Stewart were actively engaged in carrying out the fund raising. Promotional work was done by a committee under the direction of Mrs. Mary Lee Eliason and Takao Kojima. The visitation was directed by chairmen Percy Lowery and John King with the help of 25 captains. The dinners were provided under direction of Mrs. Florence Kreger and the ladies of the Women's Society. Also members of the crusade executive committee are Mrs. Eliza Johnson, secretary; Mrs. Mary Southby, building fund financial secretary, and Robert Jones, treasurer.

Lapeer Ponders School Problem

Voters Defeat Proposal of Tax Increase to Build New Classrooms

LAPEER — Lapeer school administrators, shaken by Monday's election blow, prepared today to tackle anew the problem of how to provide schools for the area's growing student population.

The district Monday turned down proposals for a tax increase to provide a sinking fund for purchase of sites, construction and repair of schools, and for classroom equipment.

Property owners voted 677-612 against Proposal 1 for a 5 mill tax hike over a two-year period. General electors in the school district also rejected, 700-632, Proposal 2, which provided for increasing the tax limitation by the 5 mills.

The special tax, if approved, would have raised $280,000 for additional classrooms in the overcrowded school system.

MSU Professor Gets Snowballed With Puffballs

EAST LANSING (AP)—A Michigan State University professor is being snowballed by puffballs.

★ ★ ★

Earlier this month, Dr. Eugene H. Lucas asked 4-H Club leaders to interest their members in finding large, fresh puffball specimens for a study of the medicinal properties of the plants.

So far, more than 500 pounds of puffballs have arrived and more are rolling in daily. Best response, he reported, was from the Battle Creek area.

MSU is paying senders 20 cents a pound plus shipping charges.

★ ★ ★

Although nothing has been proven yet about the medicinal properties of puffballs, Dr. Lucas reported that some interesting cultures have been grown from them in laboratories.

Work on Romeo Hospital Very Close to Schedule

ROMEO — Despite last week's heavy rains, work on the new 30-bed Community Hospital is proceeding "very close to schedule," building superintendent Harold Lefstad said today.

The new medical facility, designed to serve 13 communities within a 15-mile radius, is being built on Van Dyke (M 53), two miles south of Almont. General contractor is the Walter L. Couse Co. of Detroit.

★ ★ ★

The footings are in and grade beams and structural steel framework up, Lefstad reported. Nineteen workmen were busy on the project Monday. Some were erecting the metal deck preparatory to installing the built-up roof. Others were putting in the sanitary sewer within the building and working on the electrical wiring.

The next step, after the roof is completed, will be the installation of cement floor slabs—"this week if the good weather holds," the superintendent said.

"We hope to close the building in before it gets cold," he added. Work on the interior will continue throughout the winter months.

The $450,000 medical center is due for completion in March, 1958.

The building will contain 56,000 square feet and will cost about $14.85 per square foot which is well under the budget of $1,000,000 established prior to the vote on the bond issue last October.

Ask Property Owners Check Insurance Rate

ROCHESTER — The Avon Township office is urging owners in the area serviced by Avon Water System No. 1 that it is necessary to check with their insurance agents on the renewal date of their insurance, to make sure they are receiving the rate reduction under Class 8 insurance coverage. This new classification offers a sizable reduction in the costs of insurance because of fire hydrants located less than 1,000 feet from dwellings.

★ ★ ★

Homes located in the area served by the Avondale and Brooklands Fire Departments are entitled to Class 9 insurance. Maps showing the various classified areas have been sent to insurance agents by the Michigan Fire Inspection Bureau, and a copy is on file in the Township office.

The Oakland County Road Commission has accepted the work done by George Tripp Inc., contractor, on the roads in the water area as part of the clean-up after the installation of water mains. Maintenance and upkeep will be handled by the Oakland County Road Commission.

Marlette Given Grant Approval

May Get Federal Aid for Sewage Disposal System's Construction

MARLETTE — The Village of Marlette has been notified today that, because of a favorable referendum vote last week, Michigan Water Resources Commission has approved Marlette's application for $87,600 federal grant for aid in constructing a $475,000 sewage disposal system.

In a copy of a letter, received by Village Attorney Ward J. Atkins, the Commission said:

We are hereby authorizing you to proceed with the processing of this application "for federal aid."

The letter stated that, in view of the favorable referendum vote by Marlette last Tuesday on a village sewer ordinance, which provided financing for much of the disposal system, the Commission has withdrawn its directive which would have withheld the federal funds.

Soil Moisture Adequate

LANSING (AP) — Rains interrupted harvest activity and fall grain planting though lower Michigan last week, but at the same time raised soil moisture to adequate levels, the Federal-State Crop Report Service said today.

★ ★ ★

Excess moisture now is reported in quite a few areas, the agency said, and farmers are hoping for some good weather for harvesting and to push corn toward maturity before damaging frosts set in.

★ ★ ★

Weather permitting, silo filling now is under way in most parts of the state, the report said, indicating the corn crop is making about the same progress as it was at this time last year.

Bean pulling moved into full swing early last week, but was slowed later by rainfall. Some that were pulled but not threshed started sprouting on the ground.

Bean yields this year continue to fall below average on most fields harvested. About 30 per cent of the total acreage was pulled by Sept. 14, compared with little more than 15 per cent at the same date a year ago, the agency said.

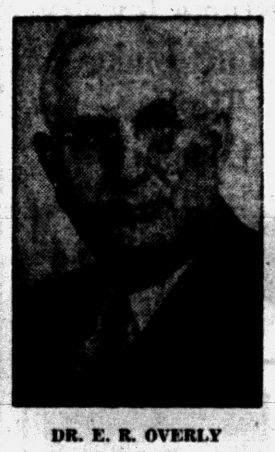

★ ★ ★

Late variety potatoes are making good size and quality and digging is increasing in volume. Prospects for soybeans and sugar beets remain above average.

Elberta peaches were harvested in volume last week and the harvest of McIntosh apples was well under way. It is expected that picking will begin this week in early maturing orchards of red delicious and Johnathan apples.

★ ★ ★

Harvest of this year's large concord grape crop should begin this week, the crop reporting service said. Many vegetable crops still are being harvested in good quantity with tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower and sweet corn heading the list.

27 Competitors Seeking National Plowing Honors

PEEBLES, Ohio (AP)—With Ohio's two state champions picked, the 1957 World Conservation Exhibition and Plowing Contest went into the second day today with 27 competitors vying for national honors.

From the 27, one national champion will be picked in each of two plowing divisions — contour and level land. The winners automatically qualify for next year's world contest in Germany.

★ ★ ★

Yesterday, Duane Mootz, 32, Hillsboro, won the Ohio contour plowing contest, and Dick R. Doren, 23, Xenia, won the Ohio level land contest. They represent Ohio in the same respective divisions in the national contest today.

Besides Doren, entrants in the national level land division will include another Ohioan, Lawrence Goettemoeller, Celina, defending champion.

★ ★ ★

Thursday and Friday, Goettemoeller and John D. Daniels, Mulberry Grove, Ill., represent the United States in the world contest, in which teams from 13 other nations will participate.

Many of the foreign entrants spent yesterday in practice plowing on farms around the 2,500-acre site of the plowing contest.

Offers Bonus Price for High Grade Corn

WASHINGTON (INS)—Farmers can earn an extra cent a bushel this year from corn containing less than 13.5 per cent moisture.

They can earn another cent a bushel, under a new Agriculture Department regulation, for corn containing less than two per cent cracked corn and foreign material. These premiums, added to a one-cent bonus for corn grading No. 2 or better, could bring a total three-cent bonus under the government price support program.

Tells of How Daughter Became Dope Addict

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"I am her father," Mr. X said, "But I'd rather see her in her casket than the way she is today."

The man, keeping his back to the audience in the hearing room and shielding his face as much as possible, was describing the seven years of horror his daughter, one of eight children, had caused the family.

★ ★ ★

She is a dope addict.

"Daddy, I've gotta have heroin —or alcohol," he quoted her yesterday at a State Senate Interim Committee on Narcotics hearing.

★ ★ ★

"And when she doesn't get dope, she drinks alcohol like it was water," he said.

Mr. X, the only name by which he was identified, said it all started when his daughter was 16 and attended a party at a friend's house. The friend's mother was to chaperone.

★ ★ ★

"The next I heard was when a deputy sheriff called," Mr. X related. "He said our daughter was in custody, that it had been a marijuana party."

The girl was placed in a school in the East, but she ran away and was placed in a different school.

"In the new school she took her first shot of heroin, 'just for fun.'" he said. At 16 she was an addict.

There was an interracial marriage, a child, separation from her husband, repeated trips to her parents' home.

★ ★ ★

"How did she pay for the heroin?" One of the senators wanted to know.

"I don't know," he answered. "But if you must know what I think, why — well, I guess by prostitution."

She says she wants to quit the habit, Mr. X said. Once he obtained admission for her to a federal hospital in Lexington, Ky. The girl got off the train before it left California.

★ ★ ★

"I tell you all this," he said, "in the hope that you gentlemen can find some solution to this problem of drugs among our young people."

The girl?

In jail — arrested three weeks ago for possession of narcotics.

Tomato Meat Loaf Is Good to Put in Lunches

It's back to school with books, balls and lunch boxes, those gay and pretty ones especially. A gay lunch box causes comment. And you can make real curiosity seekers out of students in your family, if their lunch boxes are filled with body-building foods as well as favorite fun foods.

Be imaginative and nutritional-minded when you plan lunch box menus. Include something hot. That something hot should be tantalizing and nutritious. What better than a vacuum bottle of wonderful soup. Canned condensed vegetable or vegetable beef fills the bill. Colorful, hearty and soul-warming too.

Sandwiches are accepted practice in a lunch box; give them special interest. A sandwich with slices of luscious meat loaf (made with condensed tomato soup) answers the need here. Crisp salad greens and your fayorite spread or dressing complete the sandwich. For a surprise, a whole fresh tomato cut and filled with stuffed olives.

Wrap up brownies or date bars for the finale. Tuck in a piece of fresh fruit too. As you pack the foods neatly away for toting, rest assured that your student has a filling, tasty lunch. Yes, you've "filled the hollow legs."

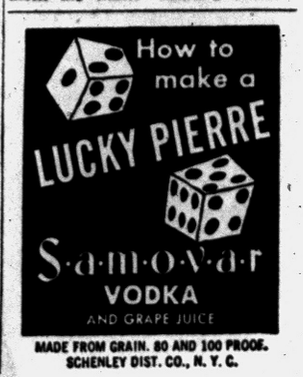

Favorite Meat Loaf

1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup
1½ pounds ground beef
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon salt
Dash black pepper

Combine ½ can soup with other ingredients; shape into a loaf or pack lightly into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 1 hour. Pour remaining soup over loaf; bake 15 minutes longer. 8 servings.

Tunisia Seeks U.S. Weapons

Nation Wishes Arms to Defend Itself Against 'French Border Raids

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tunisia has formally requested American weapons to defend itself against what it calls border attacks from French forces in neighboring Algeria.

★ ★ ★

The request was accompanied by a hint that President Habib Bourguiba's pro-Western government may turn to Communist supplies if the request is rejected.

The State Department is sympathetically weighing the request, but officials are somewhat uncertain how to handle it because of almost certain denunciations by the French if Tunisians are armed with American weapons.

★ ★ ★

Tunisian and French forces have been involved in a series of border incidents during the past few weeks.

The French have charged that the Tunisian government has allowed Algerian rebels to move across the border to safety, blocking pursuit by French forces.

Tunisia in turn has accused French planes and artillery of bombing Tunisian border villages, killing and wounding some of its citizens.

★ ★ ★

Bourguiba turned to the United States for military aid last week, informants said, stressing he wanted arms "no matter what the price." The quantity requested is believed to be relatively modest since Tunisia has only about 6,000 army and national guard troops.

★ ★ ★

The State Department is understood to have discussed the Tunisian request informally with the French who are vigorously opposed.

Heart Trouble Worry Causes Actual Disease

DENVER (INS) — The Colorado State Medical Society says heart palpitation is one symptom you can produce in yourself just by thinking about it.

★ ★ ★

As a matter of fact, to a physician palpitation means merely a person's abnormal awareness of his own heartbeat.

Palpitation can indicate an underlying heart disease, but persons without heart disease, says the medical society, can have uncomfortable palpitation with no significance.

This is what Old Doc Experience advises (by way of the Colorado State Medical Society):

—Palpitations have little significance in themselves unless they continue for 24 hours or longer.

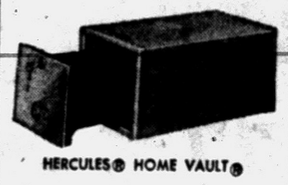

★ ★ ★

—The palpitations we feel after exercise or walking upstairs have no significance. It is normal to be conscious of heartbeat after exercise.

★ ★ ★

—Nature of palpitation can be diagnosed by electrocardiograph—if the doctor's pulse-taking and stethoscope examination are not enough.

John Drew Barrymore No Blueprint of Dad

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — John Drew Barrymore, the sensitive product of a brief domestic attempt between "The Great Profile" and the ethereal Dolores Costello, is a young man torn between living up to—and simultaneously knocking down—a sacrosanct family tradition.

★ ★ ★

He says, "Sure, I want to be a good actor, but not a blueprint of my father." To back up this determination, he refuses to be billed as "Barrymore Jr."

On the other hand, he almost annoyedly denies that he has any sort of moral obligation to follow the Barrymore-Drew theaterical tradition which dates back 10 generations.

"It's nonsense," he says. "I'm smart enough to know that if I couldn't make money acting—good-night, I'd go into the restaurant business tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

"The Drews and Barrymores just happened to be actors because it was the easiest way they could make a living. I'm sure if anyone was intelligent enough to sit down and analyze it, this 'tradition' would stop, and the Drews and Barrymores henceforth would be doctors and lawyers."

PHILOSOPHER AT 25

John is a positive young philosopher of 25, with a sensitive face that compares dramatically with his father's. He is inclined to turn touchy when questioned about the great actor, whom he remembers meeting only once.

★ ★ ★

That was on a Christmas Day, in John's seventh year, and asked if it was a pleasant meeting, he smiles wryly. "Oh, very," he says. "At the age of seven, what else could it be?"

There is no bitterness in the statement; only fact. He follows up with this summation of his impressions of his father:

★ ★ ★

"I think he was a marvelous actor, and a man who did exactly what he wanted to do. God bless him for it.

★ ★ ★

"There are certain governing factors and mores in life that we're all supposed to live by, and most people go along with the behavior patterns of the times.

RESPECTS FATHER

"But I respect my father for doing what he felt like doing, because I believe there are two things you're put on earth for: To do what you want to do, and to leave something—possibly something that can be embellished upon—to posterity."

★ ★ ★

Probably Barrymore's best-embellished bequest to the world, John Drew is now acting in the movie, "Never Love a Stranger," which is being filmed at the same New York studio where his uncle, Lionel, made his movie debut some 45 years ago. It's his eighth film, his largest role.

Asked which in the long line of Barrymore and Drew actors had the most talent, he replied: "My father, I think.

★ ★ ★

"Lionel was a more contemporary actor. And father was more hammy a lot of the time.

"But when John Barrymore wanted to do something sincere, he was the greatest. I didn't see some of his early silent movies till after he died, so I never could tell him—but they were beautiful, beautiful performances."

Yet John does not want to be like him. Or any other member of the family.

"I have never gone to any member of my family for advice or comment on my life," he says proudly.

★ ★ ★

The Barrymores are not clannish; they all just happen to be in the same profession. And John would thank the world not to expect him to follow any preconceived pattern of dramatic behavior.

"Look," he explains, "we're not breeding race horses, after all."

Whisky Bottles' Refill Fought

U.S. Agency to Continue Prosecuting in Face of St. Louis Court Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service said today it will ignore a St. Louis court decision and continue to prosecute those who refill whisky bottles.

Three judges of the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled in St. Louis Aug. 12 that the reuse of whisky bottles is legal if the proper tax has been paid on the whisky used to refill them.

★ ★ ★

The court said in effect that the law operates only to prevent the bottles being used as containers for bootleg whisky on which no tax has been paid.

"Our chemists can determine whether the whisky in the bottle is the whisky that was put there, but we would have a hard time proving whether the second-time whisky was tax paid or bootleg," an IRS official said.

★ ★ ★

"And this opens the way for unscrupulous bartenders to deceive the public. They can take a bottle that originally held the finest bonded whisky, fill it with the lowest grade tax-paid whisky, or even mooshine, and sell it to their customers as the original whisky."

★ ★ ★

The tax official said the IRS will appeal last month's ruling.

The spokesman added that the IRS will continue generally to enforce the law as it has been interpreted in the past.

★ ★ ★

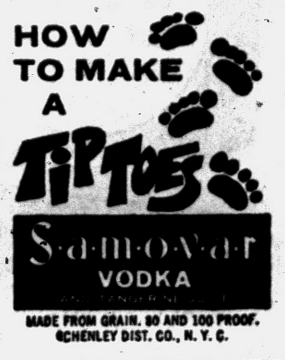

The government was given until next Monday to appeal the ruling that upset conviction of Theodore Wisniewski, Minneapolis liquor dealer, on a charge of adding one brand of whisky to a bottle carrying another label.

Hal Boyle Says:

Gift Stamps Could Bring More to Church

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Reflections of a Pavement Plato:

Churches need more salesmanship.

Despite a national upsurge of religious interest, ministers still complain of empty pews, particularly on Sabbaths marked by good golfing weather.

★ ★ ★

One wonders occasionally why more pastors don't adopt the showmanship of the business world.

There have been suggestions the churches might give prizes to adults for regular attendance, as they do now for children. The thought even has been advanced that this could be done in a form familiar to millions of American husbands and wives — so-called premium stamps.

For example, each person might receive 5 stamps for each service he attended, plus 10 stamps for every contribution to the collection plate. These would be pasted into a book and, in time, exchanged for premiums ranging from a family Bible to religious objects —or, perhaps even badly needed household furniture.

The mere suggestion of giving premium stamps for going to church might affront the sensitive devout, but after all they are not the problem. They already go to church. The task that confronts the conscientious clergyman is how to swell his congregation so that more can hear his message.

"The church is neither a supermarket nor a filling station, and salvation is not a mere bargain," some might object.

★ ★ ★

Yet aren't they wrong? Isn't a good church the greatest of supermarkets, the finest of all filling stations, dispensing the bread of the soul and the fuel of the spirit? Isn't salvation the tremendous bargain most of the earth's lost bargain hunters are vainly seeking?

★ ★ ★

The trouble with salvation is that most people have heard it's free and therefore they doubt its value, because life has taught them you don't get something for nothing. Actually, of course, salvation has a very real price tag—called penitence.

★ ★ ★

But how is the preacher going to get his flock together so he can deliver his message?

After all, the Salvation Army beats a drum in the streets to collect crowds, and out of these crowds it salvages some souls.

If a church can do the same thing by giving prizes to increase regular attendance, then is it not worth considering?

★ ★ ★

Some may say that the very idea is an affront to the dignity of religion and an invitation to flood the churches with opportunistic hypocrites. But no church has as its function the pursuit of earthly dignity, and it is better for a church to be filled with hypocrites—after all, hypocrites can change—than to stand half-empty.

★ ★ ★

Would anybody's dignity really be immortally offended if, in some church that gave premium stamps, one lost soul should find salvation and at the same time win as a prize a floor lamp to read his Bible by?

DON'T DO AS WE DO — West Berlin motorcycle cops demonstrate in the city's Olympic Stadium how to make four moving machines carry 27 people, with a certain amount of risk, of course. The daring policemen have formed their own "Pyramid Club," but let any local motorist try a trick along these lines and it's a cinch he'll be getting a ticket from one of these boys.

Historical Celebration in Nevada Needs Liquor

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — It was all or nothing for the Nevada Day Committee planning the admission celebration at Carson City.

★ ★ ★

Chairman John Moroni had applied for use of the auditorium for staging a melodrama at which drinks would be served.

★ ★ ★

When city trustees refused permission for the liquor the whole project was dropped yesterday. Moroni said a dry melodrama would violate tradition.

Judge Suggests Day on Bench for Miami Mother

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Miami mother will spend Monday on a judge's bench to see if the courtroom experience will soften her opinion that all drunken drivers should go to jail.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Lynn Levin, whose 13-year-old son was injured by a drunken driver last October, was invited by Municipal Judge Francis A. Sobieski to sit beside him for a day.

★ ★ ★

"I think she'll get a new outlook on this problem," said Sobieski, who feels mandatory jail sentences for drunken motorists would be too severe in some cases.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Levin has been campaigning for jail terms for drunken drivers on the first offense.

Right Solution Now Brings Winner $200

Winners may have emptied the pot, but already it's back at the $200 mark. Surely it's worth a few minutes of time and fun for a try at removing the cash from Pot-O-Gold again.

The new puzzle contains a series of squares which are alphabetically lettered and a corresponding list of sentences with two clue words. Each of the words is numbered. The object is to select the word which you think best fits the clue sentence. You then place the number of that word in the square which has the same letter as the clue sentence.

In other words, you will read the clue labeled A and decide which of the two words makes the most sense in the sentence. You then write the number of that word in the puzzle square marked A.

Do the same with all other squares. Read all the clues carefully and be sure the right numbers are in the right squares.

35-Cent Auto Part Costs Man $1,700

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A Blytheville man drove his car into a garage to get a 35-cent auto part and ended up with a repair bill for $1,700.

★ ★ ★

Fletcher Womack said he was backing into the garage when he reached for the hand brake but somehow contacted the accelerator. The car lurched back and knocked a huge hole in a brick wall.

The crumbling wall caused a large overhead door to fall on the car. The impact of the falling door somehow jarred the car's automatic transmission into a forward gear, and the vehicle plowed into another automobile.

Womack was lucky. He escaped injury — and he also had insurance.

But he left without getting the 35-cent part he intended to buy.

Plugged Movie in 1940

How Press Agent Duped U. S. Counterspy Morros

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Here is the story of how Boris Morros, American agent who duped the Russians, was himself duped by another agent—a Hollywood press agent.

★ ★ ★

It happened in 1940, after the hustling film maker had made his first independent movie, "Second Chorus." Starring Fred Astaire, Paulette Goddard and Artie Shaw, it was supposed to be a musical extravaganza.

It was a turkey.

★ ★ ★

The company which was releasing the picture was faced with the problem of selling it. What to do? None of the stars was willing to go on an exploitation tour. Why not send Morros?

★ ★ ★

A press agent who dealt with the out-of-town press—we'll call him Joe Flack — was faced with the chore of paving the way for the proud producer of the turkey. Flack knew that the nation's papers cared little about movie producers and less about Boris Morros, whoever he was.

★ ★ ★

So Flack decided to pique the editors' interest with a letter which read in part:

"One of these days, your door will be darkened by a happy little monster name of Boris Morros . . .

"He plunges, dives and charges after publicity in the manner that a salmon rushes — gashed and bleeding—upstream to spawn. If he doesn't find his name in the paper every day, he sits around sulking, muttering and tugging at an artificial forelock, his own head being as bald as an eagle's. . .

★ ★ ★

"Mr. Morros is a fantastic Russian with as humpty-dumpty an accent as ever tumbled from a swinging mouth. He is built like a bass drum, has no neck, and the back of his head is so straight he can slip off a collar without unbuttoning it. His shirts resemble aurora borealis struck by lightning; his neckties are tropical sunsets by a reckless artist. . .

"Anyway, he's going to be in your town Feb. — and my boss thinks he should be interviewed.

★ ★ ★

"You might keep the contents of this letter confidential. A public display of these words would serve only to puzzle Mr. Morros. He would, with one hand on his heart, declare: 'Morros is being crucified. . .'"

★ ★ ★

The producer went out on his 30-day, 20-city tour to plug "Second chorus." When he returned, he dashed into Joe Flack's office. Joe recalls that he was carrying a roll of clippings "as big as a stovepipe."

Audie Murphy Sued for Liking 'Classic' Films

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Audie Murphy, who has galloped through his share of movie Westerns, is accused in a one-million-dollar law suit of turning to the classics to get out of a contract.

★ ★ ★

The complaint, filed yesterday in Superior Court by Brown-Murphy Pictures, Inc., said that under a Nov. 9, 1955, contract Murphy promised to appear in two films for the corporation, one of which already has been made.

Murphy, the complaint asserted, has since taken advantage of clauses which gave him the right to select his own stories. He has submitted proposals to appear in films based on the classics "Peer Gynt," by Hendrik Ibsen, and "The Idiot," by Fedor Dostoevski.

★ ★ ★

These characterizations, the complaint said, would be wholly unsuited to Murphy's talents and his choice of them was made only to comply with the technical terms of the agreement.

Operates Radio Station —but Only for Family

APPLETON, Wis. (AP) — Rick Piebe, 12, who wants to be a radio announcer when he grows up, is off to a fine start. He has his own radio station complete with audience—his family.

From the basement of his home Rick operates the little station he calls WAPY. It's a homemade affair with only one outlet, the family radio upstairs.

Naval Officers Will Call on Ike

Men From 28 Foreign Nations Visit Today at Vacation White House

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — President Eisenhower arranged an informal visit today with 28 naval officers from as many foreign countries.

The officers are enrolled in command course classes at the United States Naval War College on Coaster's Harbor Island, where the vacation White House is located.

★ ★ ★

Weather permitting, the President expected to get in another round of golf and possibly more fresh water fishing.

He spent about three hours fishing from a rowboat yesterday afternoon after 18 holes of golf in the morning.

He caught four or five bass weighing about a pound each, and several bream or sunfish.

★ ★ ★

The White House acknowledged receipt of a telegram from Rep. Powell (D-NY) urging Eisenhower to confer with him and other Negro leaders regarding the school integration situation generally.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower probably will reply in a few days, but he declined to speculate on whether the President would grant Powell's request. Powell supported Eisenhower in 1956.

Powell returned to New York City from a trip to Europe yesterday and characterized the Arkansas school integration situation as a "major catastrophe for the United States abroad."

Stern of S. S. Cities Service Norfolk, a giant 32,000 ton supertanker.

It takes a GIANT to move tons of cargo

It takes a giant supertanker to move tons of petroleum and it takes a giant medium to move tons of merchandise. That medium is the daily newspaper, a giant that lives in every town.

With the help of this giant any retailer, wholesaler, distributor or regional manufacturer can be a giant, too. Of prime importance is good, consistent, dominant advertising in the one medium that penetrates deep.

The amount of impact your advertising delivers determines the amount of merchandise you'll move and keep moving. Nowhere else but in the daily newspaper can you get such powerful impact for the price. And this impact gives more of a wallop every year—daily newspaper circulation is now up to a new high of over 57,000,000.

Whether you're moving pounds of butter or tons of petroleum you'll move more of it faster with the daily newspaper. Use it often.

All business is local...and so are all newspapers.

Filter Cigarettes Cause Drop in Use of Tobacco

ROME (AP)—The Food and Agriculture Organization reported today the shift in demand toward filter-tip cigarettes has reduced the amount of tobacco leaf used per cigarette.

★ ★ ★

FAO added in its annual tobacco survey that this reduction "has not been fully offset by the number of cigarettes sold."

This was cited as one of several factors in the rising pileup of surplus tobacco supplies in the main producing countries.

Irregular Grains Relax Slightly

CHICAGO (AP) — Grains were mostly irregular on the Board of Trade today with prices holding at about yesterday's closing levels.

★ ★ ★

Wheat started steady but later eased slightly in the absence of good commercial demand and small export business. There was no news of importance to the trade and offerings increased to ease prices.

★ ★ ★

Soybeans were generally steady although prices eased fractionally on some professional selling at the outset. Weather continued to favor the bean crop.

Corn was steady to easy in a light trade.

★ ★ ★

Near the end of the first hour, new style wheat was ⅜ to ½ lower, Sept. $2.12⅜; corn was ¼ lower to ¼ higher, Sept. $1.22⅞; oats were unchanged to ⅜ higher, Sept. 65⅝; rye was unchanged to ¾ lower, Sept. $1.28½; soybeans were ¼ to ⅝ higher, Sept. $2.34¾; and lard was 2 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower, Oct. $12.12.

Spurned Suitor Shoots Woman

Policeman Not Sure Whether He Killed Man Afterward

CHICAGO (AP)—A policeman answering a burglary call today witnessed the fatal shooting of a woman by a spurned suitor who either killed himself or was slain by the officer.

The dead were Catherine McGill, 24, and Lawrence Fiellin, 30.

★ ★ ★

Patrolman James Broberg drew up on his motorcycle and saw Miss McGill standing in an alley.

Broberg said he heard the woman scream, then saw a man shoot twice, bend over the woman and fire three or four shots into her head.

★ ★ ★

The policeman shouted to the man to drop his weapon. Along with a reply "all right," there was a shot. Broberg said that he could not tell whether the shot was at him, or whether the man shot himself. Broberg fired in the man's direction.

★ ★ ★

In a briefcase near the man's body were a note giving directions for cremating his body, and a stamped envelope addressed to Larry Fiellin, care of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Fiellin, New York City.

★ ★ ★

Robert Weitzel, a high school English teacher who said he was a good friend of Fiellin, told police Fiellin began dating Miss McGill eight months ago. They broke up four months ago, Weitzel said, and "Fiellin took it pretty hard."

★ ★ ★

He said Fiellin had been undergoing psychiatric treatment but felt he was not improving and was subject to spells of depression.

Fiellin, he added, was a law student at the University of Chicago and recently was put on probationary status there because of poor grades.

Bridge Policing Poses Puzzle for Authorities

LANSING (AP)— The Straits of Mackinac Bridge Authority is having a problem figuring out how to legally police the big bridge once it opens.

★ ★ ★

The authority plans to meet Friday with representatives of the attorney general's office on the matter.

They hope to deputize some 14 employes to perform mostly "courtesy police-type" duties on the bridge. The force would be under George Mainer, a former State Police sergeant at the St. Ignace Post.

One trouble with deputizing them with sheriff's deputies is that the bridge and its approaches are divided between three counties, Mackinac on the north and Emmet and Cheboygan on the south.

So there is the question of whether a deputy under a sheriff of one county would have legal authority in another county.

STATE DEPUTIES?

Larry Rubin, bridge authority secretary, said there was also the possibility that they could be deputized by State Police.

★ ★ ★

But Joseph A. Childs, State Police commissioner, also was uncertain whether this would be legal and said it might require a formal opinion from the attorney general to settle the question.

The deputies also would be ticket-takers and have other routine duties on the bridge.

Childs said State Police had no plans to put their own men on the bridge but that they would be on call to help in any major policing problem, as elsewhere in the state.

Swirling Stocks Act Fractionally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned mixed in early dealings today after showing small gains at the start.

After a little activity at the opening, the trading pace again slowed down. Key issues mostly displayed fractional changes on either side of yesterday's close.

★ ★ ★

Texas Gulf Producing, the most active issue yesterday with a gain of more than five points, fell back two points. Other oils also were a little slower.

Steels made modest gains, as did radio-television shares. Zenith ran up nearly two points on reports a decision on pay-as-you-see television may be handed down today. Radio Corp. was ahead a fraction.

Rails and utilities were mixed.

★ ★ ★

There were not many large opening blocks. Among them were 2,900 shares of Goodyear, off ½ at 87; 1,500 shares of Bethlehem, off ⅛ at 44⅛; and 1,000 shares of General Motors, up ⅛ at 41⅜.

Westinghouse Electric and General Electric displayed a little early strength. U. S. Gypsum lost a point.

CAPITOL CHANGES — The black and white outlines indicate the proposed extensions of both the east and west "fronts" of the central part of the Capitol between the House and Senate wings. The east front, facing parking area, would be extended 32½ feet to maintain its present profile. Portions of the west front would be moved outward to make a flush line for most of the central portion. The proposed "face lifting" would be part of a 110-million-dollar program involving Capitol Hill changes. The proposal, result of a study authorized by Congress in 1955, also includes recommendations for a four-level, 1,900-car underground garage, costing 42 million dollars; a 4-million-dollar subway system, and a million dollars' worth of pedestrian tunnels linking the Capitol with the Supreme Court Building and the Library of Congress.

Palm Springs Touted as Rest Camp for All Mankind's Frayed Nerves

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (INS)—Back in the days when indians used "live arrows, redskins who got themselves clobbered by pale-faced invaders crept off to a little desert spa nuzzled into the lee slopes of the San Jacinto mountains to rest and patch their punctures.

★ ★ ★

In the century or so since, Palm Springs has undergone some changes that would shock the old braves from under their war bonnets.

The original tiny hot springs has been supplemented by a few thousand swimming pools, and luxurious homes and hotels have sprung from the land where Indian lodges once squatted.

About all that remains of the Palm Springs that the red man knew are its two prime asserts, sunshine and serenity—still the best known remedies for the wounds of social and financial combat.

Their lure has converted the little oasis, only slightly more than 100 miles from Filmland, into one of the world's most lavish rest camps for nervous mankind.

SWELLS IN SEASON

Its popularity is such that its normal population of about 13,000 sun lovers swells to almost 50,000 during the "season" and jams the town's 300 hotels to the rafters.

Not satisfied with merely soaking up the dry desert warmth for a few months a year, scores of celebrities have even erected their own "lodges" as havens of refuge from the pressures of fame and fortune.

The list of inhabitants of these fancy teepees, priced at from $20,000 up to $75,000, reads like a combination of a television spectacular cast list and a condensation of "Who's Who."

ALL WHEELS

Alan Ladd, Jack Benny, Dinah Shore, Rudy Vallee, William Powell, Bob Hope, David Rose, Marjorie Main, Eddie Cantor, Kirk Douglas, Alan Jones, Lily Pons, Claudette Colbert, Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, Phil Harris and Alice Faye, Frank Sinatra and Hoagy Carmichael do their relaxing as next-door neighbors of the bosses of some of America's largest businesses.

Some of the film folk even operate businesses in the village, just to keep them occupied while they are unoccupied.

Like the other thousands who pile into the various hotels ranging from three rooms (the city fathers frown on the term motel) up to the stately El Mirador and the cozy L'Horizon, the "names" are pursuing peace and quiet.

★ ★ ★

And no resort on earth makes a more determined effort to provide these commodities in abundance. There isn't a traffic light in town. Even ordinary street lighting is almost non-existent—the first was installed on the village's number two street only a few weeks ago—and the glare of neon signs is regularted by the glare of civic officials.

Six golf courses have spread over the cactus studded desert in and around Palm Springs, two of which, Thunderbird and Tamarisk, are the centers of the town's most exclusive residential sections.

Here the famous can chug from the links to their hearthsides in golf carts without exposing themselves to the strain of motoring or the gaze of fans.

★ ★ ★

To preserve the "village" flavor, Palm Springs has strict regulations on the types of businesses which are allowed to compete for the tourists and the celebrity dollar.

Definite Move Warily Awaited

Finance and Business Seeking Some Action in Either Direction

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—With industrial production stuck on dead center, the financial and business world warily watches today for a move one way or the other.

Blamed are the more cautious buying of consumers in the face of an abundance of goods and the drop in stock market prices which makes industry nervous.

★ ★ ★

True, retail sales run ahead of last year, thanks to high levels of employment and personal income — but due also to higher prices accounting for much of the gain in dollar volume total.

The consumers, although saving more than last year, are spending at least part of their increase in incomes in the stores and for services. They just aren't spending enough of it on industrial products to get factory output rising again.

★ ★ ★

The Federal Reserve Board notes that what gain there was in manufacturing during August was due mostly to increased production in the auto industry, a usual thing as it stocks up before changing over to the new models.

The increase in bank loans to business this month over August is about a fourth what it was last year — seen as an indication of business caution.

The nervousness of industry over these signs of a slow start for fall business is shown in the reports that plans for plant expansion are being rechecked.

★ ★ ★

Many companies are completing the ambitious programs they launched sometime back and feel they have enough capacity to meet immediate demands and those of the near future.

Others still wanting to build or modernize plants are struggling with all the problems of tight money and some are putting off decisions for awhile to await developments.

The Federal Reserve Board puts industrial output for August at 144 per cent of the 1947-49 base level. This was the same as in June and July and one percentage point above the year-ago level. The high point was 147 per cent, set last December.

★ ★ ★

Many in industry had been counting upon July being the low point because of vacations and other seasonal factors. They had hoped for the upturn to start in August. It may still blossom in October when the auto industry will be getting into full production on its new models.

Slump Causes No Panic

NEW YORK (INS)—The August stock market slump apparently failed to panic Mutual fund holders into selling their shares. Statistics for the month released by the National Association of Investment Companies show net assets of its 136 members declined to $9,420,228,000 at the end of August from $9,816,489,000, a slight drop from the previous month but ahead of August, 1956. Redemption in August totaled $32,728,000 against $37,298,000 a month earlier and $39,544,000 a year earlier.

Estimate Each Person in Nation Makes $2,019

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans made money at the rate of almost 347½ billion dollars a year during August, up about 1 billion from the July rate, the government estimates.

That works out to about $2,019 for every man, woman and child in the country.

★ ★ ★

The commerce Department's report on personal income covers wages and salaries, the net income of proprietorships and partnerships—both farm and nonfarm—as well as dividends and interests, net rents received by landlords and other types of individual income.

The seasonally adjusted annual rate for August was $347,300,000,000 compared to $346,200,000,000 in July.

About half the July-August rise in wage and salary payments, with most of the remainder in proprietors' income. Payroll increases were noted over the month in most private industries and in government. However, there was a slight drop in such categories as construction.

Total nonagricultural income moved upward from an adjusted annual rate of 330½ billion dollars in July to $331,300,000,000 in August. Total agricultural income climbed by 300 million dollars to an annual rate of 16 billion.

For the first eight months of this year, personal income was at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of nearly 342 billion dollars, compared to just over 323 billion in the corresponding period of last year and nearly 327 billion for the full year of 1956.

The biggest jump here was in wage and salary payments. They were at a rate of more than 238 billion dollars for the January-August period this year, compared to 224½ billion for the same eight months of 1956. The figure for the full year of 1956 was 227 billion dollars.

★ ★ ★

The annual rate of personal income in August, the middle month of the third quarter, was 5 billion dollars above that of the second quarter of this year. About two-thirds of this gain was in wages and salaries in nonmanufacturing industries remained unchanged, as declining employment and work hours offset the effects of rising wage rates.

City Not Affected by Firm's Transfer

The transfer of control of the Bradley Freight Co. and Bradley Terminal and Equipment Co., of Detroit, to the Jones Transfer Co., of Monroe, will not affect Pontiac operations.

"We will continue to do the work now that the firms are merged," he said.

Asks to Consult on School Sites

Pontiac School Board, City Urged to Discuss Proposed Locations

Closer cooperation between the Board of Education and the city in planning locations for new schools was called for last evening by the City Commission.

★ ★ ★

The move was prompted when Walter K. Willman, city manager, expressed concern over city expense of providing municipal services to schools located nearly isolated from other areas where services are installed.

"I know the schools are needed," Willman said, "but I think we should be consulted before they just plunk them down." He told commissioners the city never recaptures the costs of the services except from taxpayers.

★ ★ ★

Commissioners learned some property owners would be paying assessments as high as $22,000 in order for a combined sewer to get to the new Kennett Road School.

Foot hygiene suggestions by the National Shoe Manufacturers Assn. advise rubbing corns and callouses with a dry towel and caution against use of scissors or sharp instruments.

Pontiac City Affairs

Extend Study of Sewer Policy

A 90-day extension was granted by city commissioners last night in order for Waterford Township and the city to continue their studies of what to do about the connection to Pontiac sewers of a supermarket at Elizabeth Lake and Telegraph roads.

★ ★ ★

City Manager Walter K. Willman said the time would permit the city "to arrive at a future policy concerning municipal services to fringe areas."

The township had been ordered by the city Sept. 18 either to disconnect the sanitary sewer hookup or allow the area to be annexed to Pontiac.

Willman has said several commissioners have indicated they might be changing their minds on the city's unwritten policy of providing no services to outlying areas unless they be annexed.

★ ★ ★

In other action last night, commissioners authorized condemnation proceedings to acquire part of a lot blocking the extension of Glenwood avenue from Perry street south to Paddock street. The city has not been able to settle on a price with the owner, Willman told commissioners.

WORK AUTHORIZED

The commission authorized work to begin on a combined sewer on the west side of Joslyn avenue from First avenue to Second avenue despite the objections of Maynard J. Peters of 25 Douglas St. Peters claimed he would derive no benefit from the sewer.

A handful of residents of Cameron and Emerson avenues appeared to ask how soon sanitary sewer projects for their streets would begin.

Commissioners, on Commissioner Floyd P. Miles' motion, approved future curb, gutter and blacktopping for West Cornell avenue from Baldwin avenue to Hollywood avenue and from Hollywood to Carlisle street.

A request to vacate portions of Fern and Harvey avenues to allow for the construction of a new elementary school was referred to the Planning Commission.

★ ★ ★

Approved was the transfer of a 1957 SDM license from 824 Baldwin Ave. to 822 Baldwin.

Famous Byrds' Mother Dead

Two of Her Children Were Virginia Senator, Artic Explorer

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)— Mrs. E. Bolling Byrd, the mother of Sen. Byrd (D-Va) and the late Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd, died last night at her home here.

At her bedside were her two surviving sons, Sen. Byrd and Capt. Thomas Bolling Byrd, and her eldest grandson, State Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr.

State Sen. Byrd is a member of the Associated Press board of directors.

Mrs. Byrd had many connections with political life in Virginia and the nation. Her grandfather, Charles James Faulkner, was U. S. minister to France by appointment of President Buchanan in 1859. An uncle, Charles James Faulkner Jr., was a member of the Senate from West Virginia and a brother, Henry Delaware Flood, served in the House from Virginia.

Her father, Maj. Joel West Flood of Appomattox, Va., and her paternal grandfather, served in the Virginia Legislature as did Sen. Byrd. Mrs. Byrd, whose mother was Eliza Faulkner Flood, was married in 1886 to the late Richard Evelyn Byrd, former speaker of the Virginia House of Delegates.

Singer Refuses to Stage Feuds

Says She's Unworried About New TV Show Getting High Ratings

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Patti Page, a blonde bundle of song, doesn't want to go feudin' and fightin' with anyone.

★ ★ ★

Miss Page, debuting tonight as star of a new hour-long television show, "The Big Record," is determined to avoid such customary aspects of seeking major video attention.

"I haven't even thought about ratings," she avers.

"After all, you've just got to make up your mind that you never are going to be able to please just everybody."

★ ★ ★

Because a major trend of TV planning this season, along with cowboy shows, is the boom in shows spotlighting popular singers, Patti realizes that public tiffing with one or more rivals might appear to be inevitable.

SHE'S NOT MAD

"I'm not mad at anybody and I'm not going to be," says the lady of "Tennessee Waltz" and "Doggie in the Window" fame.

★ ★ ★

"I'm not even sure I'd want to get to be the top show in the ratings," she adds, "because then it seems you've just got to get in a feud."

Aside from such factors, Miss Page glows enthusiastically over "The Big Record" which takes over the CBS-TV network Wednesdays from 7 to 8 p. m. starting tonight.

The show, stressing great names of the disc-making industry in person each week, will have Patti introducing an average of nine guests per outing.

SHE WON'T FIGHT—Singer Patti Page, who launches her new hour-long television show, "The Big Record," tonight, refuses to feud and fight with anyone. She's determined to avoid rating battles designed to snare publicity. Patti's musical program will be telecast at 7 p.m. over CBS.

Labor Unit Suggests Impeaching Ike

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A resolution passed at the California Federation of Labor convention suggested impeachment of President Eisenhower in connection with the school integration trouble at Little Rock, Ark.

★ ★ ★

More than 2,000 delegates to the convention gave unanimous voice approval yesterday to the last-minute resolution.

"There is ample legal remedy in the hands of Congress to deal with a president who fails to carry out his oath of office to uphold the nation's Constitution," the resolution declared.

It asked Congress to prohibit any public official from using the National Guard "to thwart national law and undermine federal authority."

Delegates also called on the U. S. attorney general to take legal action to halt any and all defiance of the federal authority by public officials.

Manila Spots Typhoon

MANILA, (AP)—A new Pacific typhoon was spotted 150 miles southeast of Guam today. Packing center winds of 110 miles an hour, it was moving in a west-northwest direction at 9 miles an hour.

Hindu Official in Peiping

HONG KONG, (AP)—Vice President Sarvapalli Rad Hakrishanan of India arrived in Peiping by plane today on a visit to Red China as the guest of Chairman Mao Tze-tung, Peiping radio said.

British Slate Unveiling of New Guided Missiles

LONDON (INS) — Security restrictions will be lifted so visitors to this year's Farnborough air show can inspect for the first time Britain's latest guided weapons.

★ ★ ★

Previously the Farnborough air displays have shown little of Britain's work in this field. A spokesman of the Society of British Aircraft Constructors said:

COLLECTION LARGE

"The largest and most impressive collection of guided weapons produced by any national industry will be on view in a special enclosure adjacent to the main exhibition building, which will contain components and parts displayed on many of the 350 stands—a record number."

★ ★ ★

The display and exhibition which will be held during the first week in September is expected to be the most impressive ever staged in Britain.

Weapons on order for the RAF will be on view with test vehicles and a pilotless target aircraft.

★ ★ ★

A number of new aircraft types are also expected—the English Electric P-1A and P-1B, which have flown at speeds in excess of the existing world air speed record of 1,132 mph—the Fairey Delta 2, and possibly also the new Saunders-Roe SR-53 mixed power plant interceptor.

★ ★ ★

Guided weapons will include the Fairey Fireflash, powered by two solid-fuel rocket motors, and already in service with the RAF as an air-to-air weapon.

There will also be de Havilland's Firestreak which is to be fitted as standard armament to the P. I. Javelin and Sea Vixen. The Firestreak "homes" on to its target by means of infra-red rays emitted from the target's engines and can be used at great heights and at long ranges. It can be launched from an aircraft traveling at supersonic or subsonic speeds.

★ ★ ★

Armstrong - Whitworth's Seaslug has been ordered by the Royal Navy as the standard ship-mounted anti-aircraft weapon. It is powered by solid fuel booster rocket motors and an internal sustainer motor.

The Bristol Bloodhound is a ground-to-air weapon ordered by the Royal Air Force. Powered by two Thor ramjet motors and take-off booster rockets, it possenses great range for bomber interception.

Prince Wan to Try

Can Charm Move Sobolev

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — When Prince Wan Waithayakon tackles the Soviet government on the Hungarian question it will be a case of irresistible charm meeting an immovable object. Delegates are wondering what will happen.

★ ★ ★

The 66-year-old prince, Thailand's foreign minister, is the U.N. General Assembly's special representative on the problem. The resolution comdemning Soviet suppression of the Hungarian rebellion asks him to "take such steps as he deems appropriate" to get Soviet troops out of Hungary and bring about free elections there.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev damned the resolution as unwarranged interference in Hungary's affairs and a concoction of the State Department in a campaign to slander the Soviet sphere.

★ ★ ★

But not even Sobolev had the heart to attack Prince Wan personally. In a last-ditch speech, all he said was: "We regret that Prince Wan has been drawn into this shameful and noisy propaganda campaign against the Socialist countries."

Prince Wan looked on impassively from the rostrum, where he was putting in his last few hours as president of the Assembly's waning 11th session.

He has been described as an "imperturbable Buddhist," and he takes pride in the description.

★ ★ ★

If the prince ever frowns, he manages to keep the fact well concealed. His usual expression is a bland, fairly tight-lipped smile. It gives way now and then to a polite laugh that reveals two rows of pearly white teeth.

This lends animation to his round face, brown as unhusked rice. His dark eyes sparkle under black brows. The mood over, he subsides to impassivity.

★ ★ ★

He speaks slowly, sometimes jerkily, and never raises his voice.

He plans to see Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Hungarian Foreign Minister Imre Horvath, here for the Assembly's new 12th session. He hopes later to go to Moscow and Budapest.

He says his method will be, first, exploratory talks and, secondly, a diplomatic exchange of views.

College Girl, 18, Misses Question Worth $128,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Joyce Myron is just an 18-year-old college girl with $64,000 today.

★ ★ ★

The whiz on atomic physics had to settle for that amount last night when she missed a question worth $128,000 on the CBS-TV show "The $64,000 Question."

Miss Myron, a resident of North Bergen, N.J., is a sophomore at Drexel Institute in Philadelphia.

She failed to answer one part of a five-part question in the "atom" category.

She gave 1.00750 as the mass of a neutron expressed in atomic mass units. The acceptable answer was 1.00894 to 1.00899.

Italian Servicemen Hit by Asian Flu

ROME (AP)—Asian flu hit 20,000 Italian servicemen, the Ministry of Defense reported here today.

About 16,000 have returned to duty, a communique said.

There were three deaths but they were caused by complications not necessarily related to the flu epidemic, the communique added.

THE HAGUE (AP)—Widespread Asian flu has led to a 17 per cent decline in coal production, the Social Affairs Ministry reported today.

★ ★ ★

The outbreak is spreading from the southern mining area to Rotterdam, The Hague and Amsterdam. An 80 per cent absenteeism is reported among university communities and 34 military barracks are affected.

★ ★ ★

A ministry spokesman said it appears the epidemic has reached its peak. Few deaths have been reported, he added.

Car Injures Its Owner

LONDON, (AP)—Stephen Leach, 37 was struck and severly injured by his own driverless car last night. The car leaped forward as Leach was trying to crank it, dragged him 25 feet and flung him into the sunken garden of a nearby apartment building. He suffered head and internal injuries but is expected to recover.

Dagmar Is the One Who Needs Cheering

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Dagmar cried on the phone from the hospital.

She wept because she's still in Harkness Pavilion one week after her operation—and from realizing that if she'd withheld consent to the operation much longer, she might now be dead.

WILSON

"They finally say I can have visitors," Dagmar said, "but I've lost 13 pounds — and had to cancel so many things.

"I was supposed to be at the Cincinnati ball park Sept. 25. That was really a biggie. Everybody from Huntington, W. Va., was coming. I'm not all right yet. I cry all the time . . . "

And Dagmar wept again.

If Dagmar ever gave you a laugh, drop her a hello right now when she could really use a little friendship.

Small Plane Lands Safely

Passenger Goes Berserk, Attacks Pilot in Mid-Air

CUTCHOGUE, N.Y. (AP)—A former Air Force pilot was attacked without warning by his lone passenger yesterday but managed to bring a single-engine chartered plane down in a potato field near a golf course.

The passenger, identified as Arthur C. Miller, 29, New Rochelle, leaped from the plane, crossed a wooded area, stripped to the waist and waded across a brook. Police found him semi-conscious, with his wrists cut, among reeds near Peconic Bay.

The pilot, Roger Loncteaux, 40, Lake Mahopac, N.Y., said Miller had paid for a plane trip from Westchester County Airport, near White Plains, to East Hampton on the eastern end of Long Island. They were 3,000 feet over the bay and nearing their destination, Loncteaux said, when Miller suddenly struck him on the head from behind with a pair of pliers.

Loncteaux, who served with the Air Force during World War II and the Korean War and won the Distinguished Flying Cross, threw the plane into a dive. The passenger, thrown off balance, dropped the pliers.

By the time the pilot brought the craft under control, he said, Miller was beating him on the head with his fists. Once more, Loncteaux sent the plane pitching and careening, fighting off the cursing passenger and looking for a landing place.

He spotted the North Fork Country Club here and came down. One wing and the nose cowling were damaged.

★ ★

Loncteaux leaped from the four seater Cessna and shouted to a groundskeeper, who called police.

Miller was charged with felonious assault and sent to Central Islip State Hospital for psychiatric examination.

Police said his papers indicated he was an advertising salesman who had served as an Army first lieutenant in the Korean War and had majored in psychiatry at the University of Georgia.

At the hospital Miller was quoted as saying he had cancer of the liver and wanted to die. After a preliminary examination, doctors reported no basis for his fear of cancer.

★ ★ ★

Miller's wife said he had been missing since Sunday. Miller said all he could recall was that he had been in Chicago "a few days ago." He had made arrangements for the plane trip Saturday.
