Estes Lightning Bolt Strikes High Official in Labor Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lightning from the Billie Sol Estes storm struck high up in the Kennedy Administration last night. Assistant Secretary of Labor Jerry R. Holleman resigned, saying he had accepted $1,000 from the indicted Texas financier.

In a letter delivered to President Kennedy, Holleman revealed the gift from Estes — whose wheeling and dealing with government farm programs and officials is being investigated by two congressional committees and by four grand juries in Texas.

JERRY R. HOLLEMAN

He said he took the money from Estes, a friend for 10 years, because he was having trouble making ends meet on his government salary of $20,000 a year.

"He offered to help me out by a personal gift," said the 43-year-old Holleman. "I accepted this gift."

Holleman related that he accepted the money in January "before I knew anything about Mr. Estes' involvement." And, he added, "The gift has no connection with any of Mr. Estes' interests or my responsibilities. This was entirely a personal matter."

But, Holleman said in his letter to the President, "I realize at the same time, that the circumstances which have developed make it inevitable that this incident will be misunderstood and that it will be embarrassing to me personally."

"I am not going to let any of this embarrassing effect anyone else, particularly you and Secretary Goldwater."

Goldberg announced the resignation had been accepted and said: "It is regrettable that this has happened. Under the circumstances, Mr. Holleman has taken the proper course of action."

Holleman's resignation was the latest development in the swift-moving and sensational case involving Estes. The 37-year-old sometime Peoria farm boy built a huge financial empire in cut-rate

Angry Storm Lashes Chicago

Tornadoic Winds Rip Homes, Trees, Power Lines; Roof Falls on 2

CHICAGO (UPI)—A storm which reached tornadoic proportions in some areas swept Chicago and its suburbs today, collapsing a roof on two sleeping sisters in a south side apartment and smashing homes, trees and power lines.

Neighbors dug through the debris to free the girls and they were hospitalized, apparently not seriously injured.

There were no fatalities reported in Chicago, but a fisherman was missing and feared lost off Belmont Harbor on the North Side.

The front wall and part of the roof of another South Side apartment house caved in, but the occupants were not injured.

WORST DAMAGE

The worst damage seemed to be concentrated on the northwest side and on the southeast side, where the roof collapses occurred.

Elsewhere in Chicago, 15 persons were injured by flying glass when three by 10 foot windows crashed at a department store. Three of the injured were hospitalized.

As the storm rolled through Chicago, the Grand Rapids, Mich. Weather Bureau issued a provisional warning of tidal wave which could change the level of Lake Michigan by as much as 5 feet from Grand Haven, Mich., south to Michigan City, Ind.

OFFENSIVE IN LAOS — The solid arrow shows Communist Pathet Lao troops have captured towns in Laos (underlined) on their current offensive. The shaded area shows a Red push the government fears may be made against the royal capital of Luang Prabang and the administrative capital, Vientiane.

Say Reds 20 Miles West of Royal Laotian Capital

TOKYO (AP) — Pro-Communist forces in Laos have seized a town on the Thailand border only 20 miles west of Luang Prabang, the royal Laotian capital, the Chinese Communist News Agency said today.

The reported capture of Tanoum, on the Mekong River 60 miles southeast of Houei Sai, added weight to royal government fears that the Reds were preparing an all-out attack on Luang Prabang and the administrative capital of Vientiane farther south.

The capture of Houei Sai was reported Friday, but later reports indicated the Reds still may be a few miles outside the town.

Quoting the rebel "Voice of Laos," the Chinese agency said royal Laotian troops abandoned Tanoum and fled presumably across the Mekong into pro-Western Thailand.

The broadcast did not mention the situation at Houei Sai. In Vientiane, a government official said today he believed the rebels were three to four miles from Houei Sai. But he added that government troops were continuing to retreat southward and across the river into Thailand.

The Reds were reported beeping up banks at Muang Sing, 110 miles northwest of Luang Prabang, and at Van Vieng, 100 miles above Vientiane.

King Savang Vatthana appealed to Laotian leaders to try to solve the issue peacefully.

Umbrella Looms as Fitting Gift for Mothers Day

Occasional showers or thunder-showers will dampen the area on Mothers Day.

A high of 70 is expected tomorrow. Tonight will be mostly cloudy with a low of 52. Showers with warmer temperatures are predicted for Monday.

Winds were easterly at 8 to 15 miles per hour. The mercury hit a low of 50 at 6 a.m., but climbed to 62 at 2 p.m.

The U.S. Weather Bureau reported a high of 109 at Presidio, Tex., yesterday.

Salinger Has a Talk With Nikita in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Pierre Salinger, President Kennedy's press secretary, had a conversation with Premier Khrushchev today less than 24 hours after arriving in Moscow.

Informal sources indicated they met at the home of Alexei Adzhubei, where Salinger spent the night. What they talked about was not known.

The first bill, introduced by Rep. Arthur J. Law, D-Pontiac, is designed to make 10 acres fronting on Elizabeth Lake Road near State Street available on a site for a new Pontiac National Guard Armory. It requires only the governor's signature.

TO BE DEMOLISHED — The present armory on Water Street is designated for acquisition and demolition by the city in its urban renewal program.

Whatever the amount paid for the armory by the city, it will go toward erecting a new building on the Elizabeth Lake Road site, according to Law.

The other bill, introduced in the senate, has been returned to committee for amendment. Several legal descriptions of properties in the original bill were incorrect. It is stated to be brought back for a vote in the near future.

The bill would make available for sale to the city, a stretch of property about 300 feet deep fronting on Telegraph Road across from Pontiac Mall.

If passed, the state would then have the land appraised and offer it for sale to the city at the appraised price. The property already lies within the city limits.

Kennedy, Aides Ponder Action in Laotian Crisis

Task Force and Troops May Be Deployed for Thailand in SE Asia

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — Officials said today that President Kennedy has sent a task force of the U.S. 7th Fleet, with a battle group of 1,000 Marines aboard, into Southeast Asian waters because of the crisis in Laos.

The task force was said to have left Subic Bay in the Philippines yesterday en route to the South China Sea and the Gulf of Siam area near the landlocked Laotian kingdom.

Word of the power move came as President Kennedy held a White House meeting of his top military and diplomatic advisers to consider further U.S. moves in the light of the virtual collapse of the royal government forces in northern Laos.

Indications were that the Marine battle group, aboard an aircraft carrier, might be deployed for Thailand.

Communist-led Pathet Lao forces now stand on the Thailand border after routing government troops from the stronghold of Nam Tha and other positions in the northern Laos area.

There was no information as yet to suggest that the United States had altered its decision to send U.S. military forces into Laos itself.

The joint chiefs of staff in the past have warned Kennedy that the terrain and conditions would make such a move unprofitable.

The rapid collapse of resistance by pro-Western Lao government troops in the northwestern part of the country indicated that even if American forces were sent in, they would have little base on which to build a new position.

The Communist troops now hold a little more than two-thirds of Laos by U.S. official estimate, and American-supplied Royal Lao government forces a little less than one-fifth.

The major objective of U.S. policy, officials said, will be to halt the fighting, restore the cease fire, and try to revive negotiations for a neutral government.

For this political purpose, a re-appearance of substantial United States military strength in the area was considered necessary.

Part of the 7th Fleet purpose, therefore, would be to make a demonstration of power as a way of showing Russia and Red China that the United States has intentions and commitments in Southeast Asia which it intends to fulfill.

Tribute to Our 'Johnny Applesseed'

YUM! — Sixty years ago, the first apple trees were planted on the Old John Tillotson Farm at 255 Applewood Lane, Bloomfield Township. Today, a township four-year-old, Pamela Hoofnagle of 300 Hickory Grove Road, munches away in a blossoming tribute to Oakland County's own Johnny Applesseed. The farm now is owned by Nicholas Hays.

Con-Con Wrapped Up With Bitterness in Air

LANSING (AP) — A new constitution to replace Michigan's present 54-year-old document has been approved by a constitutional convention that began on a note of bipartisan harmony and ended in bitter political wrangling.

After seven months and some three million words of debate, delegates adopted the proposed new constitution 11-10-8-8-6 changes in every article of the present document.

The new constitution would re-apportion the State Senate after the 1970 census on a formula giving a weight of 80 per cent for population and 20 per cent for area. Democrats insisted the redistricting should be a strict population basis.

Other changes in the proposed document included establishment of a Court of Appeals, one step below the State Supreme Court; a ban on a graduated state income tax; lengthening the term of governor from two years to four; and switching four top state offices from elective to appointive status.

Democrats insisted that, although they agreed with many of the provisions in the new draft, the overall package was objectionable and did not deserve support over the present 1960 constitution.

Officials of the Democratic party—including the governor and powerful labor leaders have announced they probably will fight against adoption. A few rural area Republicans also indicated they

Highlights of Constitution, Dem and Present Versions

LANSING (AP) — Here are the highlights of the new proposed constitution as compared with the Democratic version and the present 1908 document:

LEGISLATIVE APPOINTMENT (Convention) — Senate reapportionment after 1970, based on a formula giving an 80 per cent factor to population and 20 per cent to area. Four new senators would be added to the present 34, one each for Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Genesee counties.

House of 118 members, based on a population theory with any county or group of counties with 7 per cent of the state's population entitled to one seat, and others allocated on equal proportions.

(Democratic) — Both Senate and House districts within 25 per cent of each other in population totals.

(Present) — Specific Senate districts drawn into constitution; House of 110 members with 5 per cent of the population as the dividing line for qualifying for one seat (known as "moieties").

CIVIL RIGHTS (Convention) — Creates a bipartisan civil rights commission, with the power to investigate cases of alleged discrimination due to race, religion, color or national origin.

(Democratic) — A stronger civil rights commission with broader powers.

(Present) — No provision.

TAXATION (Convention) — Bans a graduated state income tax; retains sales tax earmarking for schools, but eliminates primary school funds; keeps 15-mill limitation of property taxes but allows 18-mill limit on local option basis; restricts assessments to 50 per cent of cash value.

(Democratic) — Allows a graduated state income tax; permits legislature to determine cash value assessment; eliminates 15-mill tax limitation; exempts food and drugs from sales taxes.

(Present) — Supreme Court of six members; allows justices of the peace.

Project Given Supervisors Approval

Main proposed purpose of the auditorium is to serve as a meeting place for the supervisors who now meet in an auditorium in the County Office Building in downtown Pontiac.

Group Asks Aid to Push College

Oakland County may vote on a community college system in November — if a citizens study group gets a nickel per county student to conclude its plans.

On the ballot would be three issues:

- 1 — Whether or not to establish a countywide community college system.

Franco Cancels Vacation Plans

Spanish Chief Stays in Madrid to Handle Mounting Labor Crisis

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco suddenly canceled a vacation trip to strikers Northern Spain today and remained in Madrid to deal with the nation's mounting labor troubles.

Informed sources said, Franco changed his travel plans at the behest of his worried ministers in a 15-hour cabinet session on the labor crisis, one of the severest of his 25-year strongman rule.

A communiqué issued after the cabinet meeting said Franco and the ministers discussed proposals that would come close to meeting demands of 70,000 striking miners and industrial workers.

Franco was believed hunkering about fully to the strikers' demands but was expected to order general wage readjustments throughout the country to head off a further spread of strikes.

STRIKES BANNED

The government sets most wages in Spain and strikes are officially banned. But the strikers—all but 8,000 of them in the Asturias coal mining region and Bilgiao industrial area—have been off the job as much as a month.

Calls for Funds to Fight Detroit Income Levy

DETROIT (UPI)—The vigilance tax committee today issued a statewide appeal for funds to fight the Detroit-imposed 1 per cent income tax.

Berkley Mayor George Kuhn said 10 cities and villages had already contributed $15,000 in cash and pledges to enable the committee to hire legal help to fight the tax, which applies to nonresidents as well as residents of Detroit.

Kuhn said the committee would send letters to officials of at least 200 communities which have "already registered sympathy toward our cause" for financial support. He said funds also would be sought from Detroit residents and from individuals, civic organizations and industry.

Believe Antisubmarine Rocket Tested by U.S. in Pacific Friday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States set off two nuclear explosions in the Pacific yesterday.

The second explosion was detonated in "the eastern Pacific ocean several hundred miles from the nearest land area," Atomic Energy Commission and the Pentagon said.

It was the first underwater detonation in the series.

As usual, the AEC and Pentagon would not say what nuclear devices were exploded, but it was known that a nuclear-tipped antisubmarine rocket, or ASROC, was scheduled to be tested in the series.

In combat, an ASROC would be launched from the deck of a Navy destroyer or frigate, and would dive beneath the waves to seek out a submarine. Each ASROC would carry eight ASROC launchers.

The ASROC was one of two operational missiles scheduled to be tested in the Pacific with their atomic warheads attached.

A Polaris missile was fired from the atomic submarine Ethan Allen.

Patrolman Elmer Rogers was dispatched to the scene. He was joined by Patrolman Fritz Weaver and Sgt. Tilton E. Rugg, when the second child was reported lost. Hundreds of private citizens turned out to aid the policemen when word spread that two children were lost.

Five youths, who happened by when the search got under way, searched drains in the area and waded into the Clinton River when it started getting dark, said Sgt. Rugg. Others went over swampy fields and wooded areas near East Boulevard.

Deborah and Audie were found about 8 p.m. by a search party headed by Rogers. The two toddlers were walking on Chandler Street near Tusculum, swallowing the contents of a half gallon ice cream carton in large gulps.

Sgt. Rugg today was expressing his thanks to residents and Boy Club members who took part in the search, calling it "one of the best cooperative efforts by private citizens I ever have seen. I don't know the names of any of them."

Rugg said, "but they were the finest bunch of people I've ever worked with."

Meanwhile, the children are being questioned by their parents. No one knows where they got the ice cream.

2 More Seek Seats on Education Board

Filing of two more nominating petitions for two Pontiac Board of Education seats late yesterday brought the number of candidates to five.

The latest candidates are Dr. Walter L. Goddell of 307 W. Huron St.; incumbent; Beauregard St. 1183 Eckman St.

Candidates who filed earlier are: Mrs. William Nichols of 1302 Vineyard Ave.; incumbent; Mrs. Charles Naasom of 302 E. Mansfield Ave.; Merle White of 2574 Ivanhoe St.

Deadline for petition filing is today at the Board of Education offices, 40 Patterson St. The election is June 11.

NAACP tags are being sold in Pontiac and surrounding shopping centers today on National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Tag Day, declared by the City Commission. Proceeds go to the NAACP Freedom Fund.

Next week has been proclaimed National NAACP Week. Members will hold a dance at 9 p.m. next Saturday at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Terrorists Kill French Officer

Information Chief Shot in Bone; OAS Gunmen Slay 10, Wound 12

ALGIERES, Algeria (UPI)—Gunmen killing the chief government information officer at Bone today. The slaying of Raymond Vidal occurred while police imposed daytime curfews and conducted house-to-house searches here and at Bone in an effort to smash terrorism by the Secret Army Organization (OAS).

Bone police said Vidal was shot to death in the city center. He had just stepped from his car when five bullets struck him down.

By 3 p.m. (9 a.m. Pontiac time) terrorists had killed 10 persons and wounded 12, bringing the year's totals to at least 4,517 dead and 5,490 wounded.

Following a new administration plan to fight the OAS, police and military units today clamped surprise blockades around Algiers' suburbs, European residential areas, and the OAS quarters of Cite Perret and Gambetta.

Armored cars stood at street corners. Policemen methodically checked closets, attics and other possible hiding places for weapons caches that might reveal the presence of OAS killer squads.

When one search was ending in OAS's Gambetta quarter, an OAS terrorist team fired at a mobile gendarme armored car with a bazooka. Gendarmes returned the fire with heavy machineguns.

There was no immediate report of casualties or captures. But there was other violence in Algiers.

Large Operation Reportedly Starts in S. Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A large operation in the Mekong River delta, supported by U.S. Army and Marine Corps helicopters, reportedly opened today but there were no details. Other operations were under way in the deep south of Communist-claimed South Viet Nam, in the Mekong delta.

The plane-dropped device yielded a force of intermediate size, meaning it probably set off a force equal to about 100,000 tons of TNT.

The Defense Department said the "potential hazard" from the underwater explosion was so small that there was no need to set aside a danger area.

There was no indication as to whether it was set off outside the previously announced danger areas around Christmas and Johnston islands.

The Pentagon said the United States checked carefully to make sure it had no unauthorized ships in the area. It said previous underwater shots have indicated they would not contaminate fish.

Man Reports Robbery by Razor-Armed Trio

A Pontiac Township man told Pontiac Police he was robbed of $30 early today by three men who held a razor to his throat in a parking lot next to the Bethel Baptist Church at Brand and Ward streets.

About 8:45 p.m. yesterday, George H. Wilson, 641 S. Jessie St., told police he was robbed of $15 by three youths who attacked him while he was walking on Ferry Street. Wilson said he was struck on the head with an unknown object. He was not seriously hurt.

IMPRESSED MANY
The President circulated freely among the artists. He impressed many of them with his knowledge of their latest book or play. Mr. Kennedy spent considerable time chatting in fluent French with Malraux.

The French minister, who is a distinguished author and scholar in his own right, said he was in this country to present "the real image of France."

Earlier in the day he said his Government would have no objection to loaning Leonardo Da Vinci's "Mona Lisa" to the National Art Gallery here.

Last night's party was similar in tone to the affair given recently by the Kennedy for Western Hemisphere winners of the Nobel Prize. While that party featured mostly scientists, the guest list for this one contained the names of celebrated writers and members of the performing arts.

2 County Educators to Head Symposiums

Two educators from Oakland County will head symposiums in the annual spring conference of the Michigan School Public Relations Association and Friday at the University of Michigan's Dearborn Center.

Walter J. Pell, administrative assistant at Birmingham schools, will head a symposium on a recent study in his district on the relationship of a suburban community to its public schools.

He will be joined by Ralph Smith, associated professor of sociology, Eastern Michigan University.

Eugene Spencer, superintendent of Clawson schools, will head a symposium on "Community Feedback in Public Opinion."

Public Hearing Slated on Sewer Construction

BIRMINGHAM — A public hearing to determine the necessity of constructing relief sewers in the Chester-Walton area has been scheduled for June 11 by the City Commission.

The drains would alleviate the flooding of basements in the area bounded by Southfield, Merrill, Pierce and Lincoln.

It has been roughly estimated by City Engineer William Killean that the project would cost about $100,000. Benefiting property owners would be assessed 85 per cent of the cost, with the city paying the remainder.

The hearing was called after Killean reported that a post card survey showed that 17 per cent of the homes in the area have experienced some flooding as a result of street sewers backing up.

Killean said that engineering plans for the sewer were prepared several years ago, but since that time changes have taken place that will make it necessary to redesign part of the sewer.

Service and burial for Hal B. Orr, 47, of 1512 Buckingham St., was to have been held today in Muncie, Ind.

Mr. Orr, assistant chief engineer for the C&O Railroad, died Wednesday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, following a heart attack.

He was a member of the American Railway Engineering Association, Roadmasters and Maintenance of Way Association of America, and the American Association of Railroad Superintendents.

He also was a member of the Detroit Economic Club, the Clifton Forge Lodge, 166, P&AM, and the Allegheny R.A. Chapter 24, both of Clifton Lodge, Virginia.

Surviving are his wife Jessie T.; two daughters, Frances and Catherine, and two sons, Harry and George, all at home; mother Mrs. Harry H. Orr of Muncie, Ind.; one sister and brother.

Phantom Miler Wins Event 'Going Away'

BRANTFORD, Canada (AP) — When the gun went off to start the mile race, a fellow in a track suit jumped out of the crowd and started after the field.

He took the lead at the half-way point, won the race, ran right on, jumped into a waiting car and drove away.

Officials at Brantford Institute said the runner probably was from one of Brantford's rival high schools.

The phantom runner was timed in 4:45, from a late start.

Has 'Tusk' Luck in Elephant Race

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Now that the world's first intercollegiate elephant race is history, the tired, but inspired minds at Orange County State College are thinking of another whacky "Pachydermy" next year.

And from the looks of the campus, a bit the worse for wear by 15 elephants and 10,000 spectators Friday, it may take a year to clean up the place.

Although it was irrelevant, irrelevant, illogical and almost incomprehensible, the event won critical acclaim from students who swarmed over the once-secure, 22-acre campus.

As a college craze, fans said, elephant racing has several advantages: More sedate than party raiding, more palatable than gold-fish swallowing and less cramped than phone-booth stuffing.

WORK FOR PEANUTS
And contrary to some college athletes, you never have to worry about elephants losing their amateur status—they're happy to work for peanuts.

This midsemester madness, which started as a gag a few weeks ago, had its hectic moments as well as its high jinks. A 5½-ton elephant, named Kinney by sponsoring Long Beach State College, won the varsity race for heavyweights—last up parently couldn't see the finish line with its one good eye.

In an amazing exhibition of broken field running, the beast hurdled a rope barrier and roamed through the crowd like a hot knife through butter.

Fortunately, none was hurt — although the animal bowled over a few cameramen and aged a dozen sophomores.

All results and times for the competing elephants are unofficial, unsubstantiated and unimportant. Each animal won a trophy for such characteristics as beauty, showmanship, independence, figure, courage and wisdom.

HARVARD HONORED
Harvard, the most distant entrant, got a sweepstakes trophy just for being "ancient and honorable." Orange Coast College—not to be confused with Orange County—got a second sweepstakes award for the elephant with "the best personality." Sponsoring Orange County State got a gold shovel—"for obvious uses."

The races were held on an athletic field for the smaller bouts, and a nearby Out Field remained "Dumbo Downs."

They're Missing Out, Says Prof

'Let Teens Read Moderns'

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A Harvard professor says it is a shame more modern literature isn't read in high school classes.

Dr. Edwin Sauer suggested Thursday night that parents get together with teachers and form committees to prepare the curriculum for the use of realistic books by the better modern authors.

Though he said he did not agree with some who contend that all in all of the wrong books," he said.

ANNOUNCES NEW
INSURANCE"

This year The Equitable Life Assurance Society introduced a new insurance program that helps protect you against loss of income caused by sickness or accident. We call it Living Income Insurance. Here's how it works: when you are sick or hurt and unable to work, Equitable will pay you a specified amount each month... up to $500 a month... for 15, 30 months or longer—depending on the plan you select and for which you qualify.

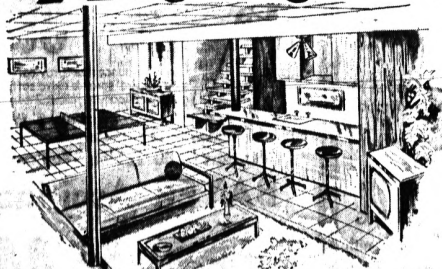

Living Income can mean real financial security for you and your family if you are laid up. Here's money to help pay your bills, protect your savings, keep you from losing your home. With Living Income Insurance you'll have money to go on living—when you need it most. Let your Man from Equitable explain it to you personally.

It Seems to Me . . .

Entire World — Everyone — Will Bow Before This Thought

Just so you won't forget — and just so you'll keep things in their proper perspective with first things first — read about the class that was asked to bring a statement or poem suitable for Mothers Day.

These ten words won all prizes: "God can't always be everywhere, and so He invented mothers."

On the eve of this wonderful day, we all stand respectfully at attention and salute the greatest individual on earth: Mother.

Wild Spending . . .

Unless someone throws a few road-blocks in JOHN F. KENNEDY's path, he may spend us into economic dizziness.

When the fiscal year closes, the current deficit will approximate $8 billion. The Federal Government has spent every dime it extracted from the taxpayers and then added $8 billion more, says Rep. John J. Rhodes of Arizona. He adds that the Kennedy program is a "pattern for poverty."

The House Republican Committee says that the President's own current estimate of a surplus of half a billion is just wishful thinking. The members believe that the budget will show another huge deficit.

The Committee says the new ideas advanced by the Chief Executive in his messages in 1962 are frightening. His program of spending, spend and spend is accelerating; and he is traveling swiftly in the footsteps of FDR and Harry Truman. And just in passing, Dwight D. Eisenhower was no blooming lily in the garden of Federal economies.

The same Committee says that if we accept a fair portion of KENNEDY's program, it "threatens any possibility of balancing the budget from this time onward." There's one of the most disheartening declarations in the history of the American Congress. "From this time onward" means "forever."

The New Frontier declares this spending will produce sufficient additional business to reverse the deficit trend, but statistics show this just isn't happening. The GOP thinks tax reductions are the proper step toward boosting the economy. Assuming the GOP is overly pessimistic and the Committee has painted the economic scene with unnecessarily lugubrious strokes, the picture is still pretty dismal.

Can his own party stop JFK? Does it want to?

Titov Shows Poor Taste

GHERMAN TITOV, Russia's astronaut, can spend the rest of his life in Moscow — or Siberia — as far as we're concerned.

He came over here and had himself a ball as nearly as the naked eye can discern, and he returned our gracious and spontaneous hospitality with a lot of rude and ill-timed lectures on atheism. He even was crude enough to joke about the fact he "didn't see God or any angels while he was out there in space."

Russia's goddess theories interest us not one whit. We made no attempt to convert him and he could have returned the compliment by keeping his lip buttoned up on our belief in God.

It wasn't necessary to parade his monumental ignorance on religion, especially when it was lacking in tact and decidedly offensive. The best place for Titov is back in outer space with a more generous supply of rations.

Idea Is for Peace . . .

All outer space activities aren't centered on murder, mayhem and the slaughter of mankind. These peaceful developments deserve a hearty cheer from everyone, everywhere.

Our Air Force bounced some TV signals off a satellite in orbit as faithfully chronicled recently in The Press. The signals traveled nearly 4,000 miles from a California station to Echo I and back to a receiving center in Massachusetts. A bill has been passed in the House setting up a worldwide TV communication system.

This pertains to peace. It isn't designed to conquer anyone. Glory be.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

A fan magazine that faces a $7-million suit from EDDIE FISHER and LIZ is all smiles. It will never come to trial now. . . . The Decatur Herald says if anyone wants to know who's tending store in Washington while the KENNEDYS are away, the answer's simple: CAROLINE. . . . Political insiders say TIM KENNEDY will stage a terrific, all-out, slam-bang campaign for his Massachusetts seat in the Senate. . . . Internal Revenue men were first amused and then annoyed at the number who tried to pay their income tax with a credit card. . . . Overheard: "Did you see that western last night? The wagon train was attacked by 200 Indians and 100 commercials. Everyone lost."

I can't prove it, but I'll bet a sugar cookie that even though J. Paul Getty is the wealthiest man in the world, I have more fun. . . . Herb Shriner: "President Hoover gave all his salary back to the Government and the idea certainly caught on. Now we all do. . . . Robert Briscoe, lord mayor of Dublin, recently was invited to a big Chicago dinner. He arrived at 5:00, attended the function, then flew back home at 11:00. . . . Youngster at the circus seeing her first leopard: "Oh, look, mommie, there's a tiger with a coat on like Elizabeth Taylor's."

I understand TWA's feature-length movies have been canceled but will be restored. . . . Sport circles are smiling at the assertion of a former Oakland County citizen. HARRY WISMER, president of the New York Titans, says he is working out a plan to give his football team a share of the profits. (The team has lost more than $1.1 million so far). . . . New York's Senator KEATING says it's high time the fact is firmly established that Harvard turns out bright men as well as Democrats. . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: The C's: our own JOE HANS for a perfectly wonderful and inspiring life; the J's: no jeers (everyone's doing well).

—HAROLD A. FITZGERALD

The POWER of FAITH

The Apostles — III THOMAS

Where there is faith there can be no doubt. It was one of the first lessons the disciples learned after the Resurrection. As in the case of many of us at times, so it was with Thomas. He had to see to believe.

After Thomas saw the marks of the nails in the hands of the Risen Lord, he made one of the great confessions of Faith in the New Testament with his statement, "My Lord and my God." Jesus said, "Thomas, because thou hast seen me thou hast believed; Blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed."

Thomas, with his faith and belief strengthened, went on to serve and do missionary work with a strong unwavering devotion.

Days of All Faiths:

Saint Needn't Be Christian First

By DR. HOWARD W. HARPER

St. Boniface went to look for Christian relics and became one himself. He is called St. Boniface "of Tarasus" not because he came from Tarasus but because he was martyred there.

Boniface was chief steward in the household of a wealthy young woman named Aglae. This was in Rome in the fourth century. Aglae was his mistress in both senses of the word. Boniface, whose name means "good," was badly misnamed. He was what today would be called a drunken bum. He could not have held his job as Aglae's steward if he had not also been her gigolo.

Aglae happened to hear one day that the man who does honor to the memory of those who have suffered for Christ will also share in their glory. Being a woman of action, she promptly sent Boniface to the East to gather some sacred relics and bring them back so that she might honor them and build up merit for herself. Since Christianity had its roots in the East, she calculated there would be more bones of the martyrs to be found there than around Rome.

The moment he received this commission Boniface was a changed man. It was like a miracle, and perhaps it was one. On his journey, this former dervish drank no alcohol at all, ate no meat, and spent his time in prayer and meditation. At Tarasus, St. Paul's home town, he landed right in the middle of a persecution. In the marketplace as he arrived twenty Christians were being cruelly tortured. Without a minute's hesitation, Boniface ran among them, begging them to pray that he might be allowed to join them. No prayer was ever more quickly answered.

Boniface was arrested on the spot and his tortures began. After the crowd felt sufficiently entertained, they threw him in a cauldron of boiling pitch, and to their anger and frustration, watched him climb calmly out, quite unharmed. They had to behead him to kill him.

Boniface's body was now exactly what he had set out to find: a Christian relic. His servants took it and started back to Rome to deliver it to Aglae, who met the procession half a mile outside the city and built there a church to house her precious relic. Aglae's life, too, was changed. She lived on for fifteen more years, in Christianity, and built there a church to be buried beside Boniface when she died.

There is no indication that Boniface was even baptized. He seems to have practiced his piety without relating himself to the Church. And this brings up a technical question. To be a Christian one must be baptized—can anyone who is not a Christian be a Christian saint?

The answer is of course he can. Anyone who dies for the faith is considered without question to have achieved sainthood. And there are many who were neither Christians nor martyrs who are saints, for example Anne and Joachim, the Blessed Virgin's parents.

Note that Boniface was a layman. It is good to have a chance to write about an unordained saint. Among the male saints so many were monks, priests, bishops and Popes that no one, looking at the Christian calendar, would ever suspect that 98.6 per cent of the Christian Church's members are laymen.

The fact is that this superstition existed long before the Last Supper. In ancient Rome it was common to say, "May the gods avert the omens" whenever salt was spilled.

Neither Judas nor the gods have anything to do with it. The point is that in ancient times salt was such a precious commodity that it really was bad luck to lose any.

Soldiers in Greece and Rome were paid in salt. Our word "salary" comes from the Latin "salarium" — salt. This, of course, is the origin of the expression "not worth his salt."

Astronaut Takes Over Unicycle

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter, the astronaut scheduled to take the next space ride, bought a unicycle for his two boys.

The boys claim that when father is home they hardly get a chance to ride. Carpenter is now the hit of neighborhood parties. He brings his unicycle and amazes all the guests with his feats of balance.

Judge Thurman Arnold, President Franklin D. Roosevelt's trust-busting assistant attorney general, went to Topeka, Kan., for a visit with the 1966 GOP presidential candidate, ex-Gov. Alfred M. Landon, who will soon make a National Bar Assn. speech in Washington supporting President Kennedy's trade expansion program and the Common Market.

Landon met Judge Arnold at the airport, and picked up the visitor's suitcase.

"Wait a minute," said the judge. "It would never do for a Republican like you to be seen carrying the bag of an ex-Nep Dealer like me."

"I guess you're right," said Landon. Arnold carried it the rest of the way.

I sympathize with the lady who wrote about the ham operators messing up her TV.

Our neighborhood has one and he is on from 9:30 to 10:00 every night and even later on weekends. Can't something be done? Why should one selfish man disturb everyone else?

Ham operators can irritate and annoy everyone in an entire neighborhood. Are the neighbors helpless? How do we stop that? A Fellow Sufferer

If We Pay Ransom We're Aiding Cuba'

The money contributed as ransom to Cuba for prisoners taken in the Bay of Pigs invasion is the same as aid and comfort to an enemy.

Around 60 disabled captives have been released and are helping to raise the total of $65 million demanded by Fidel Castro. This action is an insult to the American people. It offends our dignity.

Castro says the millions of American dollars will be used to buy medicine and food. However, it is apparent the blood money will be used to tighten communism's grip on the island and spread communism throughout this hemisphere. Americans must not contribute to help Castro, who is our sworn enemy.

Editorial Proves We Need Guidance

The editorial "Are You Cautious of Tampering With the Souls of Americans," was wonderful. What can we do about it? Where do we begin?

Articles of the conflict in religious matters such as "Should there be any Bible reading or audible prayer allowed in public schools?" etc., should be enough. Unfortunately they aren't. Religion is definitely needed in our schools and in all public gatherings. Our leaders of tomorrow need a firm hand to guide them. This is supposedly a God-fearing nation, but somewhere we've slipped.

A good start would be with George Romney and more religious men as our leaders. Mr. Romney is a praying man with a devout religious background. With leadership such as his we could help but improve. "I'll God be for us, who can be against us?"

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Saturday, May 12, the 132nd day of the year with 233 to follow in 1962.

The moon is approaching its full stage.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1892, searches found the body of the baby son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, kidnapped on March 1.

In 1853, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed into law the Agricultural Adjustment Act, an attempt to alleviate the distress of the nation's farmers.

In 1837, George VII was crowned king in Westminster Abbey, London, following the abdication of his brother Edward VIII.

In 1949, after 328 days, the Soviet occupation authorities in Berlin announced the end of the block blockade of the German capital.

A thought for the day: Mark Twain said: "Hain't we got all the fools in town on our side? And ain't that a big enough majority in any town?"

The other one retorted: "No, you'd better not say that. There's no sense in getting them mad."

Just being associated with U.S. Olympic star Rayfer Johnson can be as tiring as running the 100-yard dash.

Rayfer and two Kansas University students have been touring the country promoting a college "People to People" program. While on the road Rayfer has been keeping in shape with early morning sit-ups and push-ups, and has been trying to convince his colleagues that they should do the same — without luck.

Student Bill Dawson explains, "At that time of the morning I hardly have enough energy to get up out of bed."

The Justice Department's large outdoor court located in the center of the building has taken on a new springtime look, thanks to Ethel Kennedy, the attorney general's wife.

It seems the last time she visited she was appalled by the lack of lawn equipment.

Now the court looks like a colorful outdoor cafe. There are lawn chairs and many more tables with colorful umbrellas made of flowered awning.

Grass Roots Experience Helps Amid Grass Huts

Williams Called 'A Great Guy' in Swahili

By JACK ENSOLL
GIAKANJA, KENYA (UPI) — G. Mennen Williams may be unpopular with the press of Africa, but the villagers of this tiny Kikuyu land village near Nyeri loved him.

I watched Williams practice among these natives — many of them former Mau Mau supporters — shaking hands and bawling out "Jambo," which means greetings and "is the only Swahili word I know."

The rangy American diplomat was playing the typical friendly Yank. To most reporters present it seemed a very pleasant change from the traditional icy calm of the British colonial diplomat.

A British administration official smiled thinly in the background as Soapy was surrounded by local women who all wanted to send their children to his school — he had just opened a new secondary school in the district.

Suddenly, Williams bumped into a local politician. Equal to the occasion, Soapy grabbed his hand and roared, "Jambo."

"How about you and our Tom Mboya (Kenya labor minister) sharing a platform in New York?" asked the politician.

"What's Swahili for goodbye?" Williams asked a bystander, and was told "kwa heri."

"Kwa heri," beamed Soapy at the politician and dived for the open door of a waiting car which whisked him from Giakanja and across the rolling Kikuyu countryside, the Stars and Stripes flying from one fender and the cheers of the villagers ringing in his ears. In his baggage was a native spear and a fly whisk — gifts from the people of the district.

SAME OLD SOAPY

Williams, who uses the same technique in Africa that won him six straight terms as Michigan's governor, undoubtedly left a large residue of good will for himself and the United States in Giakanja, those who covered his trip believe. Most natives called him the Swahili equivalent of "a great guy."

A few of the natives may remember his official words: "America is dedicated to the proposition that an educated, well-informed, participating citizenry is absolutely essential for the functioning of a modern democratic society. We know how much the people of Kenya want to build such a society and . . . we are happy to cooperate."

But all will remember the afternoon ceremony in which Soapy received the spear and fly whisk — given by the people and presented in a surprise ceremony by an official of the Kenya African Nationalist Union (KANU), one of Kenya's two major political parties.

"We hope you will remember the time when we put down our spears and take up education instead." Handing over the fly whisk, village elder explained, "this is traditionally given an old man for his leadership."

Crowning after the ceremony, Williams said he had not been lives who have known so much and was off into the crowd, to a Mau Mau violence, and said, "I shake some more hands."

I'll use it to prod my friends in the United States to remind them there is a tremendous job to do for human welfare."

He was cheered again when he brandished the glittering spear in his education of three African students — waved his spear again to a plea by defense counsel William G. Reamon to place Lindeman on will use it to fight against misery, disease and poverty.

Jailed for Cruelty to His Stepdaughter

GRAND RAPIDS UP — Rockford High School teacher-coach Larry Lindeman, 32, was sentenced to 18 months to 4 years in prison yesterday on his conviction of cruelty to his 2-year-old stepdaughter.

The sentence by Circuit Court Judge John H. VanderWal denied Lindeman, to a plea by defense counsel William G. Reamon to place Lindeman on probation in order that rehabilitation efforts could be made.

Judge VanderWal commented in handing down the sentence: "What I'm doing, I'm doing because it is so clear in my mind that I don't make a mistake I never will forget this experience, but I hope she will. I want to give you time to think about what you did and I am convinced that what I am doing will do you some good."

The rangy American diplomat was playing the typical friendly Yank. To most reporters present it seemed a very pleasant change from the traditional icy calm of the British colonial diplomat.

A British administration official smiled thinly in the background as Soapy was surrounded by local women who all wanted to send their children to his school — he had just opened a new secondary school in the district.

Suddenly, Williams bumped into a local politician. Equal to the occasion, Soapy grabbed his hand and roared, "Jambo."

"How about you and our Tom Mboya (Kenya labor minister) sharing a platform in New York?" asked the politician.

"What's Swahili for goodbye?" Williams asked a bystander, and was told "kwa heri."

"Kwa heri," beamed Soapy at the politician and dived for the open door of a waiting car which whisked him from Giakanja and across the rolling Kikuyu countryside, the Stars and Stripes flying from one fender and the cheers of the villagers ringing in his ears. In his baggage was a native spear and a fly whisk — gifts from the people of the district.

SAME OLD SOAPY

Williams, who uses the same technique in Africa that won him six straight terms as Michigan's governor, undoubtedly left a large residue of good will for himself and the United States in Giakanja, those who covered his trip believe. Most natives called him the Swahili equivalent of "a great guy."

A few of the natives may remember his official words: "America is dedicated to the proposition that an educated, well-informed, participating citizenry is absolutely essential for the functioning of a modern democratic society. We know how much the people of Kenya want to build such a society and . . . we are happy to cooperate."

But all will remember the afternoon ceremony in which Soapy received the spear and fly whisk — given by the people and pre-

Greenlease Officer Dies in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former Police Lt. Louis Shoulters, who arrested the kidnappers of Bobby Greenlease in 1953 and then went to prison for perjury, died today of an apparent heart attack.

Shoulters was taken to Jewish Hospital and died about one-half hour later.

He was imprisoned for lying about handing of suitcases containing the ransom money. More than half of the $500,000 ransom never has been found.

JFK Pins Medals on Youngsters for 'Life Saving'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy pinned medals yesterday on five children, named heroes of the country's school safety patrol for lifesaving acts. In turn, he was given a button making his 4-year-old daughter Caroline an honorary captain of the patrol.

Caroline wasn't present for the ceremony in the White House garden but there was a distinguished visitor, Prime Minister Einar Gerhardsen of Norway.

"Stand here with me and observe the pleasure of this office," the President told the prime minister when they walked together into the garden.

It was a big moment in the lives of the children, dressed in their Sunday best and wearing their white safety patrol belts.

Oldest, Youngest Mothers Will Receive Recognition

Mothers will be honored at the Mother's Day service tomorrow at 10 a.m. in the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church. Special recognition will be given to the oldest and youngest mothers present and also the mother with the largest family in attendance.

The pastor, the Rev. Theo R. Albrecht will preach on "The Honor Due to Motherhood."

One hundred per cent attendance is the goal in all Sunday School classes tomorrow. Since the first of March there have been 37 times when classes have made the goal. The junior high and senior high young people will hear Jack Daniels of Youth For Christ International.

Youth Groups meet at 5:45 p.m. with Pioneers having a meeting entitled "Must I Obey?" The program for Builders is "Just Don't Sit There."

Tomorrow at 7 p.m. the pastor will begin a new series of messages from the book of Ephesians.

The pastor asks that people bring their Bibles to all church services because he believes people can better follow the theme of the messages.

Special music will be given by the Junior High Ensemble and R. G. Critch.

Troy Methodists to Hold Ground-Breaking Service

TROY—The Troy Methodist Church will break ground for its new building in a special ceremony Saturday at 3 p.m. at the new site, 6383 Livernois Road, between Square Lake Road and South Boulevard.

This progress was made possible by the completion of a successful committee chairman is Ralph Quinlan.

Total cost of the project, including furnishings, is approximately $215,000. Included in the plans for the first unit are the sanctuary, narthex, fellowship hall, kitchen, classroom and office space.

The Troy Methodist Church was organized in 1827. Since 1901 the members of the congregation have been worshipping in their present building at 90 East Square Lake Road.

Church pastor is Rev. Ralph W. Janka.

Members and friends of the church, as well as the general public, are invited to attend.

Guests will include Dr. Everett K. Seymour, Detroit district superintendent of the Methodist Church; Dr. Benjamin Holme, executive secretary of the Methodist Union of Greater Detroit; Rev. Jesse DeWitt, executive secretary of the Detroit Conference Board of Missions of the Methodist Church and the architect.

The new structure, contemporary in style, was designed by the architectural firm of James B. Morrison of Detroit. Building

A dramatic, educational, science stage show will be a part of the program for the annual Father-Son Dinner at 7 p.m. Monday in Christ Church Cranbrook dining hall.

The second part of the program will be a movie, "Fishing Fantasies," a color film of the thrilling fishing adventures in Argentina and Chile.

Boy Scout Troop No. 1005 will be guests. A camp will be set up on the church grounds featuring the equipment the Men's Club has furnished. Rev. Gerald O'Grady asks the men and boys to come early so they might look the camp equipment over before dinner.

Rev. Lester L. Dobyns, director of college work for the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, will be the morning speaker at the meeting of Episcopal Church Women Tuesday at Christ Church.

The day's activities will begin with a service of Holy Communion at 10 a.m. followed by the talk by Rev. Mr. Dobyns at 10:15. Luncheon will be served at 12:15 p.m.

Reports from the annual meeting of the Episcopal Church Women of the Diocese will be given at the business session which follows.

Salvation Army Week Proclaimed

In recognition of the spiritual and material aid which the Salvation Army extends to our community with its "Hands of Mercy," Mayor Robert A. Landry this week proclaimed May 20 to 27 as Salvation Army Week in Pontiac. Citing the organization's 73 years of service in this community and the forthcoming centennial of its founding in England in 1865, the mayor called upon the people of Pontiac to express their gratitude to the Salvation Army during this time.

Special services, speakers and programs will be featured during the special week of observance at the local citadel, 29 W. Lawrence St.

Membership Increases
WASHINGTON (U) — There are now 3,441,415 baptized Protestant church members in Latin America, an eight-fold increase over the 1937 figure of 422,385, according to a just-published book, "Protestant Missions in Latin America," by Dr. Clyde W. Taylor and the Rev. Wade T. Ogden of the Evangelical Foreign Missions Association.

Pastor to Speak on Meaning of Home

A special tribute to mothers will be given by Rev. Ronald Thompson of Trinity Methodist Church, Waterford Township at the 10:30 morning service tomorrow when he speaks on the theme, "Home—What Is It to You?"

Debbie Peterson and James Wehling will sing "For My Mother" as the offertory selection and the Adult Choir will offer the hymn, "We Thank Thee, Lord, for Mother's Love."

Following the service there will be a coffee hour with Mrs. William G. Grobbed, Mrs. Joyce Koop and Mrs. T. C. Chapoy hosts.

Schoolcraft School on Maceday Drive is the temporary meeting place of the congregation. Nursery facilities are available at the 9:30 Sunday School hour as well as morning worship.

The Woman's Society for Christian Service will meet at the home of Mrs. Arthur Burleson, 2552 Overdrive Drive Thursday.

A long range building program was launched last week when a committee met with Rev. Jesse DeWitt, executive secretary of the Conference Board of Missions and Church Extension, to initiate plans for the forthcoming Building Fund Crusade May 22 through June 10.

TO BUILD ON HILL
A goal of $10,000 has been set to start the campaign to build a new church on the hill of the church property located adjacent to Schoolcraft School.

William Ladanyi was named chairman of the crusade. Preceding the month of visitation for peddle by speakers will give five minute talks each Sunday. These will include Mrs. William Ladanyi, James Matcosen and Norman Dunn.

It was just a year ago that the congregation first met for service in the Community Activities Center, Waterford Township. On Sept. 17 his first sermon on June 25 just the group was officially recognized by the Detroit Conference.

Rev. Fred C. Renich, executive director of Missionary Internship Inc., Detroit, will speak in the Missionary Alliance Church, North Cass Lake Road at 8:30 a.m. both morning and evening services Sunday.

The missionary internship is an inter-mission organization engaged in counseling, evaluating and screening candidates who are provisionally accepted by various mission boards.

Candidates undergo a period of seven months of highly supervised training in cooperating churches in the Detroit area prior to their final acceptance by their respective mission boards.

Returned missionaries who have special needs are also helped through this program which was founded and directed by Rev. R. E. Thompson, a veteran of over 30 years of service as a foreign missionary.

Rev. Mr. Renich began his missionary work in China where he remained until forced to leave by the Communists. After serving in Australia, he toured mission fields before accepting a pastorate in Illinois. A graduate of Wheaton College, he has served on the Home Council of the Far Eastern Gospel Crusade.

With his wife and four children he makes his home in Detroit.

OTTO G. ZIEGENHAGEN

Christian Science Lecture Scheduled

The power of scientific prayer to overcome fear and other every day problems will be discussed in a free public lecture Friday, by Otto G. Ziegenhagen, a Christian Science lecturer from Chicago.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, is sponsoring the lecture, to be delivered in the church auditorium, 164 West Lawrence St., at 8 p.m. The subject will be "How Christian Science Destroys Fear."

Mr. Ziegenhagen, an authorized teacher and practitioner of Christian Science, is on a nationwide tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lecturership.

A native of Chicago, he is a former actor. In addition to his stage and radio work, he taught platform art and literary interpretation.

Mr. Ziegenhagen withdrew from these activities in 1942 to enter the full time practice of Christian Science. He served from 1944 to 1946 as a Christian Science Wartime Minister. He became a Christian Science teacher in 1955.

The Christian Education Committee will meet Monday evening under the leadership of Carol Appel, and the trustees will meet with J. C. Sario presiding.

The Session of the Church meets Tuesday evening with the pastor as moderator. Rev. Mr. Auchard will present the Bible Study to the Woman's Association of the Church on Wednesday morning. Following lunch a program will be presented on the theme, "Running in Circles."

This program has been prepared by social education and action committee of the association under the leadership of Mrs. Kenneth Sanderson.

The Senior High Fellowship will visit Youth Island in White Lake for a Planning Retreat Friday through May 20.

The program has been planned under the leadership of Linda Newport, moderator, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Sario and Grace Purdy advisers. Mrs. John Ashby will be in charge of meals.

The pastor and Christian Koch, assistant in Christian education will participate. The theme of the retreat is "Christ Lives in Me."

Women's Club Sponsors Tea

Mrs. S. C. Campbell of Detroit, Guest Speaker at Providence Church

The Christian Women's Progressive Club of Providence Missionary Baptist Church will sponsor a Mother's Day tea and program from 3:30 to 6 Sunday afternoon.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. S. C. Campbell wife of the pastor of the Russell Street Baptist Church in Detroit.

Mrs. Campbell, a graduate of Benedict College, holds a master's degree in education from Wayne State University. A teacher in the Detroit Public School System, she is a lecturer, counselor and director of the youth department of National Baptist Convention.

She is the author of many books and has written several pamphlets.

A gift will be presented the oldest mother present and to the mother with the most children.

Mrs. Walter Richardson, program chairman, is working with Mrs. Alvin L. Harris, president of the club. Rev. Claude Goodwin said the public is invited.

9 Churches Form Agency to Serve St. Louis Area

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Nine Protestant churches in the northwestern part of this city have organized a community-wide agency to coordinate their weekday activities, avoid duplication of efforts and solve problems which are difficult for one church alone.

Episcopal, Presbyterian, Congregational, Christian and Methodist churches make up the new "West St. Louis Ecumenical Parish."

A spokesman for the parish said: "This serves notice to our community that these churches are anchored here and intend to serve the general welfare of the community."

"We will work together to serve the good of our community."

Church Needs Workers

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Methodist Church reports that it has job openings for at least 9,239 full-time workers annually. The denomination says it needs to recruit each year at least 2,400 new ministers, 30 missionaries, 1,800 Christian educators and 5,000 doctors, nurses and technicians.

TULIPS FOR MOTHERS — "See what God made for you" said children of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil L. Kilbourn of 29 Chamberlain as they bring their mother tulips from the garden for Mother's Day.

Children, Churches Honor Mother

Tomorrow is Mother's Day and Linda Crabtree will sing during the opening services for the Church School Mother's Day program tomorrow at First Christian Church.

During the morning worship hour plans will be given to honor the oldest mother present, the most recent mother, and the mother with the most children present with her.

The Christian Men's Fellowship will meet for dinner at 6 p.m. Wednesday with Harold Brown and Ray Heyse, the chefs.

At the business session officers will be elected. Don Woodward will give a talk.

St. John Pastor at Conference

11 Church Members Attending Sessions of Cleveland Convention

Rev. Martin Bellinger, pastor of St. John Methodist Church, is attending the 33rd session of the Lexington Conference of the St. Louis Area of the Methodist Church, Cleveland, Ohio.

Other members from the local church to attend include Frank Carruthers, Andrew McCall, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sawyer, Mrs. Felix Roach, Mrs. Martin Bellinger, Bettie Taylor, Glenn Beasley, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Buckner.

More than 400 ministers and laymen from the 154 churches in the conference are expected, according to Bishop Matthew W. Clair Jr. of St. Louis, Mo., will preside.

"One of the most interesting items of business for the conference will be a vote on a request for the transfer of the Baltimore Area of the Central (Negro) Jurisdiction to the Northeastern Jurisdiction," Pastor Bellinger said.

Rev. Dr. Roosevelt Crockett, president of Philander Smith College in Little Rock, Ark., will be the conference preacher.

Rare Books Reveal Chinese Jewish Past

CINCINNATI (AP) — Among the rare books kept in a special building at Hebrew Union College are 59 items which compose the entire library of a group of Chinese Jews of 300-500 years ago who lived somewhere within the interior of China.

"What we know about that community is guesswork at best," says librarian Herbert Zafren, "but it covers several hundred years, from the 15th Century to the 17th."

Political Unrest Causes Big Demand for Bible

NEW YORK — The demand for the Bible rises dramatically during periods of political unrest, the annual report of the board of managers of the American Bible Society published this week revealed.

The 14th annual meeting of the society was held this week at the Hotel Manhattan. One of the highlights of the meeting was the first showing of a new sound filmstrip, "The Least of These," which describes the society's distribution of the Bible in the United States.

During 1961, the society distributed over 24-million copies of Scriptures in this country and in over 100 other countries on continents. It was the largest annual total since the society was founded in 1816.

The society, during the past year, greatly expanded its distribution of Scriptures to persons of special need in hospitals, nursing homes, jails and other institutions. Hundreds of thousands of Spanish Scriptures were furnished to agricultural migrant workers. Over 6,000,000 special Scripture portions were circulated for Christmas and Easter reading.

During the year, the number of languages into which at least one book of the Bible has been translated rose to 1,181, a rise of 16 over 1960.

A book of the Bible was translated into the following languages which never before had any part of the Scriptures: Baure (Bolivia), Bawn (East Pakistan), Dila (Senegal), Ghesogo (Gahon), Guinea (Venezuela), India (Assam), Hutelo: Maitana (Peru), Ixil (Guatemala), Kabre (Togoland), Kyaka (New Guinea), Manobo: Ilanen (Philippines), Mixe de Coatlán (Mexico), Nambya (South Rhodesia), Phom Naga (Assam), Piro: Manchineri (Peru) and Tuna (Guinea).

There are now 236 languages into which the whole Bible has been published; 281 in which a whole Testament has been published, and 674 in which at least a complete Gospel or other book has been published.

For illiterates around the world, the society has produced "Ger-Fono" Scripture recordings for use with a special phonograph which is rotated by pressure from a finger. A total of 30,612 sets in 40 languages has been provided.

Distribution of Braille volumes and "Talking Book" records for the blind total 50,251 during the year.

$2.5 Billion Donated

NEW YORK (AP) — A record $2.5 billion was contributed to 47 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox communities during 1960, according to the latest report of the National Council of Churches' Department of Stewardship and Benevolence.

German Church Leader Addresses Conference

Those people who accept some "practical" Christian principles but reject others, such as the commandment to love your enemy, which they call "excessive and idealistic," are atheists no matter what church they belong to, Dr. Martin Niemöller declared last week. The famous German church leader, one of the six presidents of the World Council of Churches, addressed a luncheon in his honor given by the U.S. Conference for the World Council in New York City. Dr. Niemöller stressed that the Gospel cannot be accepted merely as an ethical program. It is basically a personal relationship between the living Lord and faithful disciples," he said. The division of the churches and the image of Christianity, as the "white man's religion" are two fundamental challenges to Christians in this decade, the speaker asserted. Warning that in newly independent countries "native religions are coming to life again," Dr. Niemöller said that until race discrimination is outlawed in the Union of South Africa and parts of the U.S., "many colored Christians may turn from their faith in despair."

Mothers-Daughters Hold Annual Banquet

New Bethel Baptist Church women sponsored by the Ladies Club will hold the annual Mother and Daughter Banquet at 6:30 this evening at the church. Toastmistress will be Ann Baker Lane. Jackie Washington of Macedonia Baptist Church will sing "The Lord's Prayer" with Mrs. S. G. Lawrence accompanist. Mrs. Richard Davenport of New Bethel Church will toast the mothers and Mrs. Carl Moss of the Lutheran Church will give a toast to daughters. Mrs. J. L. Bellinger, wife of the pastor of St. John Methodist Church, will be guest speaker. There will also be group singing of "Mother O Mine" and "Mother Machree."

Send Boxcar of Beans to Algerian Refugees

A boxcar of beans for Algerian refugees was dedicated in Bay City by officials of the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP), a unit of Church World Service. Contributed by farmers, churches and individuals in Saginaw and Bay counties, the beans will be distributed to those who have fled to Tunisia from strife-torn Algeria. The Rev. Donald F. Bantz, executive secretary of the Bay County Council, presided over the open-air ceremony conducted beside the railroad car.

A Present for Mother on Her Day

children. Encircling their mother are Donald and Joanne (left) Carolyn and Ralph (right) and 15-month-old Tommy, intrigued by the package's bright red bow.

Convention Is Held by Lutherans

Some 175 members of Augustana Lutheran Church Women from 14 congregations in Eastern Michigan attended the annual district convention in Gloria Dei Lutheran Church.

Following the coffee hour, Mrs. Elmer Larson, Detroit, president, Eastern District, gave the opening prayer and Mrs. Ercell Kishbasa, president of the local ALCW welcomed the visiting members.

Mrs. Paul Johns of Calvary Lutheran Church, Clarkston, gave a meditation on "Praise" and Mrs. LeVon Ryden sang, "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked" with organ accompaniment by Mrs. Roy Lewis.

DIRECTED PRESENTATION
Pastor Philip Nelson of Messiah Lutheran Church, Bay City, directed a group presentation of "A Look at Our Missions."

Mrs. Nels Holmgren of the Augustana Lutheran Church, Detroit, displayed 11 literary books and Christian literature and Mrs. Reuben Norling spoke on resolutions.

The noon luncheon was served by Mrs. Fred Larson and her service committee of the host church.

Arden Sears directed Madison Junior High School choir in an afternoon concert. Shirley Kath was pianist.

Evelyn A. Stark, executive director, International ALCW, Chicago, spoke on "Merger Matters." After the forthcoming merger convention in Cobo Hall, Detroit, June 25-July 1, the merged groups will then be known as The Lutheran Church in America, with 300,000 members in the Lutheran Women organization to be known as Lutheran Church Women.

GIVE PROGRAM
Six costumed kindergarten children of the host, Sunday School presented "Missions Around the World" in pantomime. While Heidi Danielson, Mary Ann Hahn, Jennie Santala, Caroline Filippi, David Taylor and Dale Roman, encircled a huge world globe on stage, the assembly sang "In Christ There is No East or West." Mrs. Eugene Danielson was accompanist.

The meeting closed with benediction by Pastor Charles A. Colberg.

Service projects displayed were quilts, lap robes, and other handwork tagged for the Grand Rapids Hospital for the Aged and the Bethpage Mission, Astoria, Neb.; also layettes, bedding and hand knits for the Oakland County Children's Home.

Tray favors made by the Golden Agers of Gloria Dei, the Oakland County, and the firm were shown, also hospital bandages for African hospitals and dressings for Michigan Cancer Society.

One of the most dangerous things about high blood pressure is that the people who suffer from it feel so well.

Those with low blood pressure may have longer to live, but they never feel in the same way.

High blood pressure often leads a man into doing far too much. Consequently, his blood pressure grows worse. If only people would reduce the hypertension of their lives, they would reduce their own hypertension too.

Your blood pressure is lower when you are mentally relaxed than when you are turning over some problem in your mind. It is at its lowest when you are sleeping.

VARIOUS METHODS
Various methods of reducing the blood pressure are in vogue today, but the most important is the fundamental one of reducing stress, and this can very often be achieved merely by using tranquilizers, or even simple sedatives.

Sedatives are valuable not because they directly reduce the blood pressure, but because they reduce the tempo of life for overworked business and professional men.

Few men who lead such lives are capable of eliminating the tempo of the hectic rushing of their lives without the help of such drugs.

Many cases of high blood pressure require nothing more than weight reduction, but people who suffer from high blood pressure are not always the fat, florid type.

The man who is overweight and who suffers from high blood pressure is an easier case to treat. It is quite likely that the blood pressure will return to normal when the weight does.

It is not true that eating meat increases the blood pressure. Those who are suffering from high blood pressure should not cut out meat, because cutting down on proteins will cause them to put on weight, instead of lose it.

A high protein diet is required to lose weight and will do no any harm to the blood pressure in essential hypertension.

Various diet diets for reducing the blood pressure have come into vogue from time to time, but there is no article of diet which is a specific for reducing blood pressure.

Anxiety about blood pressure does far more harm than the blood pressure itself. Once investigation has proved there is no underlying disease, there is nothing to worry about.

Doctors are often asked if people with heart disease or high blood pressure should fly. They should not fly in pressurized chambers, but in a modern airplane is pressurized to 8,000 feet, this should be perfectly safe for everybody.

The man who is suffering from heart disease or high blood pressure who goes to an altitude of over 10,000 feet either on a mountain or in an airplane is taking a grave risk.

If he couples this with any form of exertion at such altitudes, he is increasing the risk enormously. My advice is to avoid such heights altogether except in pressurized planes.

A stress-free life is the most important factor in reducing blood pressure. Now, what can a wife do about this?

A wife who knows that her husband's case has been fully investigated and that his blood pressure is not due to any underlying organic disease, can persuade him to stop worrying about it.

But she cannot do this unless she herself stops worrying. A wife who worries about her husband because she thinks that some disaster is about to befall him is doing very lasting harm.

In more serious cases, when the treatment is in the hands of a competent physician, a wife should persuade her husband that modern medicine can control even malignant cases and that living in a state of suppressed alarm can do nothing but harm.

RUSH-HOUR HAZARDS
The wife's job in all cases is not that ways and means of abolishing stress producing situations in her husband's life. One of these is rush-hour travel.

There is probably nothing more tiring and frustrating in his whole life than his journey to and from a day's hard work, whatever means of travel is used. And it is even necessary for him to travel at the rush hour?

If a woman's hypertensive husband is overworked, she must make it her business to find the answer to the question, "Is it necessary?"

Wives will do well to exercise a great deal of tact to wean their husbands from their compulsive self-destruction.

Somehow they must persuade them to renounce overwork along with overeating, over-smoking and overdrinking.

Monday: Are your husband's chores never done?

'Little Lady in Blue' She's Still Agile at 93

By REBA HEINTZELMAN
You go up the steps of an old house on Norton Street, ring the ancient doorbell and immediately are greeted by a charming "little old lady in blue."

This is Mary Todd, who was born exactly 93 years ago on Mother's Day. Her appearance—first—then the warmth in her quick-talking voice, astomishes and captivates total strangers. No old age signs here.

Moving on into the living room is like stepping backward almost a century as the agile little woman arranges an old Lincoln rocker for a guest's comfort. And Mary is not the least bit inhibited, as she steps to the 50-year old square piano and bells out a few solid chords "just to make you feel at home."

KEEPS BUSY
All of the things that have been said about wonderful sight and hearing in individuals so old, have been gross exaggerations compared to Mary's tremendous faculties.

She takes care of her big nine-roomed house, washes, cooks and shops twice a week. A long-time lady friend is sharing the house with Mary.

Although she was never a mother (her husband died in 1931), Mary has actually "mothered" hundreds of unfortunate children, cared for the sick, and has been a definite asset to her native Pontiac.

"I was born on Jackson Street, raised here and I've never left my home town," she quipped.

KEEPS ROMANCE OFF
Mary keeps romance at arm's length by juggling dates with three widower friends.

She refused to reveal their names, but one drives her to market a couple of times a week, one drops in just to "talk" about old times, and the other has an extra elegant birthday cake delivered by taxi cab every May 13.

Mary's two fervent watch dogs maintain a constant vigil over their beloved owner and woe is he whom Mary cannot identify readily.

As an expert elocutionist,

Mary can rattle off one poem after another—getting all the vocal crescendos in the right spots.

So it passes-by at the Norton Street house hear a soft voice flowing out of the windows or doors within the next few days—it will be the delightful Mary rehearsing for her performance of "Apple Blossoms" Tuesday at the Young Men's Christian Association's Golden Age group meeting.

A 50-year DAR life member, Mrs. Mary Todd, likes her hobby of "shutterbugging" whenever she chances to spot an intriguing subject with her camera.

Neglecting Priest's Invitation Common Wedding Oversight

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Why is it that even the best educated people don't know enough to send the priest (or officiating clergyman) an invitation to the wedding breakfast, reception, dinner or any social function related to the wedding?

I have seen this happen so many times it isn't even funny. The very last minute they send word that the clergyman is "expected" to attend these affairs and are insulted if he isn't available: Parishioners do the same thing at Christmas, New Year's and Easter.

WONDERING WIVES
DEAR WONDERING: I don't know why this "oversight" is so commonplace, but perhaps after this item appears there will be fewer "sins of omission."

DEAR ABBY: I read your column every day and notice that some women complain because their husbands—

1. Stay out all night
2. Beat them
3. Gamble away the paycheck
4. Drink to excess
5. Use abusive language
6. Never take them anywhere
7. Never show them any affection.

How lucky these women are whose husbands have only one, two or three of these faults. My husband has all of them.

Sincerely,
BURT'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Now, I'd like to hear from Burt.

DEAR ABBY: Print this for the mother-in-law who criticized her daughter-in-law for saying, "My children, my home, etc." Many mothers are blind where their sons are concerned. A husband who spends no time with his children and does nothing to help around the house should not blame his wife for referring to her children and home as "mine" instead of "ours."

"PULLING THE LOAD ALONE"

Presbyterian Church Class Holds Banquet
The Levitts Class of Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church chose a Hawaiian motif for its annual Mother and Daughter Banquet.

Mrs. Gerald Schultz gave the invocation with special music provided by the Pontiac Northern High School Players group during the evening.

Acting as toastmaster, Mrs. R. G. Crites introduced Mrs. James Meredith, who presented the toast to the daughters followed by the toast to the mothers by Paulette Meredith.

Highlight of the gathering was a skit, "The Happy Journey" by Thornton Wilder, presented by the Pontiac Central High School Players group.

Gifts were then given to the oldest, youngest, and mother with the most children and youngest daughter present. Mrs. T. R. Albech gave the benediction.

Mrs. Marie Crooks and Mrs. Harry Fidler fourth and Mrs. James H. King, fifth.

Mrs. Nova Sicks accepted an award for perfect attendance and high weight loss for April. Mrs. King Stetler and Mrs. Abair also received gifts for weight loss.

RECORD SET
Recognition was given to Mrs. King for losing weight over a 12-week period and Mrs. Fidler set a record for a 14-week period.

Mrs. William Woodruff now holds the weight loss trophy for last week. Mrs. Charles R. Nelson was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Frank Berchert directed "gym night" exercises Tuesday and moderated a discussion on dieting and hair care.

Mrs. Peter Hernandez, Mrs. Albert Lowe and Mrs. Daniel Navarro assisted members with dress alterations.

Good Taste to Write 'Thank You'

By the Emily Post Institute

Q: In acknowledgment of two wedding presents I sent to two brides recently, I received a small photograph of the bride and groom in their wedding clothes. The words "Thank you so much for your lovely present" printed underneath the picture. I would like to know if these were in good taste.

A: My daughter is going to be married soon and would like to send out similar acknowledgments, but before doing so we would like your opinion on the propriety of these photographs.

A: The picture of the bride and groom is a nice idea but the thank-you message should be handwritten by the bride and should specifically describe the present. Printed thanks for an unnamed gift is never in good taste.

Q: My husband is president of a lodge. We will be fortunate enough to have the national grand president and his wife visit here next month. During the afternoon a tour of our city is planned.

A: My husband and I are to be host and hostess on the tour, which will be at three o'clock in the afternoon. Immediately following the tour a small cocktail party is planned in their honor. There will not be time in between to change clothes.

I had planned on wearing a suit on the tour but do not know whether these clothes will be proper to wear at the cocktail party. Would a suit be correct or should I choose something else?

A: Your suit will be entirely correct, especially as no one else on the tour will be able to change into a cocktail dress.

OES Unit Hosts VIP of Chapter

Mrs. Floyd Levely, grand councilor of Grand Chapter, was a special guest of Arme Chapter No. 563, Order of the Eastern Star, at a business meeting in Roosevelt Masonic Temple.

Announcement was made of the Grand Chapter appointment of Mrs. G. Robert Scharf, as grand representative of Mexico.

Melvin Patterson, worthy patron, passed the following members on their proficiency: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schmidt, Mrs. Charles Bradshaw, Mrs. George Crockett, Mrs. Melvin Springer, Ruby Hendricks, Mary Wheeler and Charles Woody.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Loring Downs and her committee, Mrs. Albert Kugler, Mrs. William Medlen and Mrs. George Bush.

Guest officers from Arme Chapter to various friends nights are Mrs. Harry Lunford, Hazel Park and Oak Park Chapter; Mrs. Harry Eaton, Ferndale and Oak Park; Mrs. Ralph Lister and Mrs. Kenneth Bain, Pontiac; and Mrs. George Eldred, Oxford.

Rainbow Girls will exemplify the degree at a cooperative dinner May 21 honoring past matrons and past patrons, life and honorary members of Arme Chapter.

Arme Chapter joins with Job's Daughters Chapter No. 5, in planning a day at the Masonic Home, Alma. Members will leave Roosevelt Temple, with their picnic baskets, at 9 a.m. May 27.

Reservations for the Oakland County Association dinner meeting in Southfield Masonic Temple, May 24, will be accepted by Mrs. Royal Clark through Saturday.

A picnic lunch is set for the 43rd annual Villa Day, June 3, at Eastern Star Villa, Adrian, where children with Masonic or Eastern Star affiliations reside.

Editors for the newsletter are Mrs. Ford Newcombe and Mrs. Bain.

Hartley of Home Street and the late Charles Hartley, the bride was given in marriage by her brother Charles E. Hartley.

Peppermint-stripe red and white carnations distinguished Mrs. Charles Graves, her twin sister's matron of honor, who wore red tissue tulle with post overcoat. In identical sleeveless dresses were bridesmaids Diane Pickford and Mrs. Charles E. Hartley, they held red and white carnations.

Flower girls, Ellen Hartley and Patricia Bramble wore white eyelet over red polished cotton.

Hubert Croteau stood as best man for his brother, they are the sons of the Emily J. Croteau of DuPont Avenue. Charles Graves ushered with Ted Fellman, Detroit.

After an evening reception in the Italian-American Club the couple will leave for a honeymoon in the Indian River area. They will live in Pontiac.

Copper-toned carnations complemented Mrs. Hartley's moss green tulle sheath dress. The mother of the bridegroom, in sandalwood lace, chose light green accessories and corsage of pale pink carnations.

96 State Branches Will Meet

Gardeners to Gather

Members of 96 state branches, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, will attend the annual meeting of the Michigan Division which opens with 9 a.m. registration Tuesday at Birmingham Community House.

High points of the two-day seminar will be a luncheon address by Dr. Stanley Kane, professor of botany at the University of Michigan, Tuesday in Pine Lake Country Club; and a tea in the Bloomfield Hills home of Mrs. Edward Wellock.

Mrs. G. Mennen Williams will speak on "Africa From a Woman's Viewpoint" at the 36th annual informal banquet Tuesday at Oakland Hills Country Club.

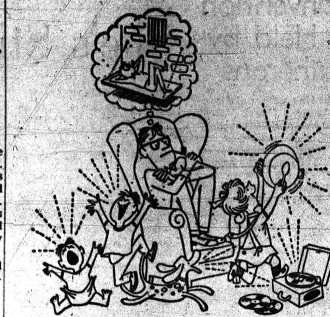

The Grace E. Frysinger International Fellowship award has been presented to Mrs. William J. Ullenbruch, past president of the Michigan Division. Every other year, the national organization selects a member from a U.S. branch for this exchange program.

Mrs. Ullenbruch will spend a month in Holland, speaking before various gardening groups. She is presently studying the Dutch language.

At the closing luncheon Wednesday at Devon Gables, awards will be presented to branches for exceptional accomplishments and outstanding participation in projects which promote aims of WNF&G.

Some of these categories are civic improvements, conservation, horticultural therapy and scholarships.

The Michigan Division annually gives 37 college scholarships of $250 minimum, 13 home maker scholarships to Michigan State University and 44 grants to teachers for a week course at the Conservation School at Higgins Lake.

Hi-Infidelity

Dad Needs Peace, Not Riot at Home

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

I am of the opinion that a woman is temperamentally suited to motherhood and to housework.

A vision of sweet Genevieve in a frilly apron is still as symbolic of Americana as a split rail fence, even though Genevieve may need a degree in gadgetry to get through the day.

The male is still the natural head of the household, the breadwinner whose principal role is outside the home and not in the laundry room or the nursery.

When he is home, home should be his castle. When it's just his barracks, can you blame him for going AWOL?

A man needs a corner of his own — a desk (or even a drawer) where he can keep his things and know they will not be disturbed.

WORRY-FREE CHAIR

A chair where he can lean back without fretting about what his hair oil will do to the upholstery. A place where the children won't bother him when he comes home tense as a fiddle string.

A nook where he can simultaneously watch pro football on TV and listen to the World Series on the radio without having his sanity questioned.

A den perhaps. Or a room over the garage. But even if you lack the square footage, you can still square things for dad if you really try.

For it isn't a question of space . . . it's a matter of attitude. Send the children out to play when he wants quiet or he would rather wait until the situation at your house gets out of hand as Shirley's did:

DEAR ABBEY:

What do you think of a husband who tells you that he wants to go to jail? He says he is thinking of a way to get in. He isn't a violent man, but he is planning to throw a brick through a window, talk back to a policeman, or do something to get himself arrested. He tells me he can't stand the noise around here. We do have six little ones. I can't tape their mouths shut, but if I can stand it, so can he.

He says he is fed up with me and married life and the children, and the only place for him is jail where nobody can bother him.

SHIRLEY

When a man is so miserable at home that he starts to dream up ways to break INTO jail, his little woman's wife-ship has hit a new low.

Well, at least Shirley has fair warning. Some men with this problem have been known to "get lost" for several years, returning home only after their children's voices have changed.

So home should be where the heart is. It's also where the head of the house is treated like royalty by a queen. A wise wife remembers that even more important than a place for papa's shirts, ties and shoes is a place for papa.

Judith Anne Clinansmith Weds James E. Mullin

Wedding vows and rings were exchanged by Judith Anne Clinansmith and James E. Mullin, before Dr. H. Vaughn Whitely this afternoon in the West Side Methodist Church, Ann Arbor.

Receiving guests in the church parlors with the bride couple were their parents, the Charles Clinansmiths, Ann Arbor and the Glen Mullins, Waterford.

The bride appeared in floor-length white Chantilly lace over tulle, styled along princess lines, with portrait neckline and long tapered sleeves. Soft fabric roses and pearlized flowerlets held her veil of silk illusion. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley.

Kathleen Rich, South Lyon, was the bride's only attendant.

On the square side were Jerry Tacka, Plymouth, best man, and ushers, Michael Mullin, Waterford and Lawrence Clinansmith, Ann Arbor. Jeffrey Allen, Drayton Plains, carried the rings and Nancy Curtis, Oxford, was flower girl.

After May 20 the couple will be at home in Ann Arbor. They will honeymoon in Chicago. The new Mrs. Mullin is a graduate of Cleary College, Ypsilanti.

Women Select Officers

Mrs. Walter G. Lingenfelter, membership chairman of Pontiac Chapter 269, Women of the Moose, conducted her chapter night in Moose Temple. John Baxter spoke briefly on membership.

New candidates for enrollment were Mrs. Ray Casterline and Mrs. George Bacon, sponsored by Mrs. Lingenfelter, also Mrs. Howard Vallance and Mrs. Walter Jones, sponsored by Mrs. Mervin Minnick.

Senior Regent, Mrs. Richard Rohrer reported on the recent state convention in Jackson. She announced the coworkers of the chapter who received their friendship degrees: Mrs. William Paetow, Mrs. Ray M.

Ottmar, Mrs. Paul Knowles, Mrs. Ray Gard, Mrs. Lawrence Cletcher, Mrs. James Beach, Mrs. Warren Thurston and Mrs. James Lafear.

On this month's agenda are the mother-daughter banquet Wednesday and a business meeting May 21.

Have You Tried This? Put Meringue Topping on Pineapple and Cake

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Home Editor

Here's another recipe that we acquired at or just after the cooking school in January. It's for a light dessert with an amusing name.

Mrs. Franklin Racine of Rochester is our cook today.

MAD HATTER ROUNDS

By Mrs. Franklin Racine

2 egg whites
4 tablespoons sugar
1 small angel food or sponge cake

Beat egg whites until stiff, add sugar and beat until well mixed. Cut cake into small wedges and place in bottom of loaf pan, having edges overlap. Lay a slice of pineapple on each piece of cake. Sprinkle with coconut.

Cover with meringue and sprinkle with more coconut. Place in 350-degree oven 15 to 20 minutes, or until meringue is brown. Serve at once. Serves 6-8.

Honor 917 at U. of M. Ceremony

The University of Michigan cited 917 undergraduates at its 33th annual Honors Convocation Friday in Hill Auditorium. "Education and Survival" was the subject discussed by Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

Honored from the Pontiac area were Brian P. Wideman, Avondale Road, freshman honors in literature, science and arts; Theodore J. Gaensbauer, Illinois Road and Suzanne M. Koprince, West Ironquels Road, sophomore honors in LS&A; Donna E. Helmbsich, Gossens Road, freshman honors, nursing; Richard H. Jackson, James K. Boulevard, sophomore honors, engineering; and Lanny J. Younger, Waterford Township, junior honors, LS&A. Orchard Lakes include Sally A. Abgrim, junior honors in education; Elizabeth A. Rosdiger, freshman honors in LS&A, and Carol B. Sommer, junior honors, LS&A.

Bloomfield Hills students include John M. Marckley, Angell School, senior honors in LS&A; Ruth E. J. Miley, freshman, LS&A; and Andrew J. Suley, sophomore honors, engineering, and Angell Scholar.

From Birmingham are Mary E. Bleakley, senior honors, education; Michael E. Pryce, senior honors, business administration; Molly W. Marshall, senior honors, nursing; Margaret L. Chamberlain and Ruth A. Payton, freshman honors in nursing; and Grace L. Saelee, sophomore honors, music.

Honors in engineering were awarded to David M. Sanborn, freshman, and Mark K. Scherba, junior.

Freshman honors in LS&A went to Roger L. Premo, Edward H. Boothman, Michael J. Emery and Sally E. Ryden; sophomore honors to Anne S. Abbott, Albert L. Baumann III, Susan B. Genter, Ricki W. Johnston, Robert K. McKenzie Jr. and Paul B. Simmons.

Junior honors in LS&A were awarded to Ellen J. Schmitt, Laura A. Szymke and Jane S. Thompson, with senior honors for William F. Cartwright and Howard C. Kutchal.

Auxiliary Group Selects Officers for Coming Year

Pontiac Auxiliary Women's Typographical No. 129, will hold its June meeting at the Lakeland Avenue home of Mrs. William C. Pfahler.

Mrs. James Turnbull was elected president for the coming year with Mrs. Kenneth Phares, vice president; and Mrs. Pfahler, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Donald Barker of Menominee Road installed the new officers following the Tuesday evening dinner gathering at her home.

Mrs. Phares was appointed relief chairman; Mrs. Barker, sunshine chairman; Mrs. Blaine Kinney, telephone; and Mrs. Nille McCaffery, label chairman.

Both Mrs. Pfahler and Mrs. Kinney were elected delegates to the Michigan Federation Typographical Auxiliary Convention to be held at the Hotel Pantlind, Grand Rapids, June 24 through 26. Alternates are Mrs. Barker and Mrs. Phares.

Saudi Arabia's progressive split is shown by the fact that cars are now chopped off in the public square (for stealing or speeding) only after the third offense.

May Fete Queen at Kalamazoo Is Waterford Girl

Kalamazoo College senior Carol Kratt, daughter of the William P. Kratts, Foley Street, Waterford, has been crowned May Fete Queen by Dr. Weimar K. Hicks, college president.

The queen and her court, selected by women of the college for outstanding contributions in campus activities, will be honored at the school's annual May Fete dance today.

President of her dormitory, Miss Kratt studied last summer at University of Bonn, Germany, under a Light Scholarship.

She has been in the college choir for three years, played on the university's girls' field hockey team for four years and has participated in major festivals for two years. Her major is history in the college of education.

State Society Sets Showing of Cancer Film

In response to popular demand, the Michigan Cancer Foundation, an agency of the Pontiac Area United Fund, will sponsor a special showing of the new life-saving film "A Breath of Fresh Air."

This deals with the technique of breast self-examination for protecting women against breast cancer.

This program, scheduled especially for working women of Oakland County, will be offered Monday at 8 p.m. in Pontiac Northern High School.

A medical doctor will be present to answer questions. Admission is free. The program is open to women only.

Club 20 Schedules Coiffure Contest

Club 20 will meet June 12 for its monthly gathering. Some 14 members were present for the group's meeting at which time arrangements were made for a hair styling contest and a "roving basket". The treasurer then directed a "silent auction" which brought the club some $11 dollars.

Mrs. Leonard Thomas hostess served a lunch.

Drop Outs Topic at Social Worker's Annual Dinner

Children who drop out of school will be the concern at the annual dinner meeting of the Oakland County Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers.

The session is to be held at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Adrian Coter's restaurant, 12-Mile Road and Woodward Avenue in Berkley.

At the same time, the chapter will present its third annual Volunteer of the Year Award to the county resident "who has given outstanding service as a volunteer during the year. In a health, welfare or recreation agency," according to program chairman Daniel Lamb.

Following the dinner will be a panel discussion entitled, "The serious social and employment implications of the school drop out."

The panel will include Donald McMillan, administrative assistant at Pontiac Central High School; Joseph Pintel of the Michigan Employment Security Commission; Judge Arthur E. Moore of the Oakland County Probate Court, and Cressy Larson, director of the Pontiac Boys Club.

Pontiac General Honors 2 Long-Time Workers

Mrs. Max A. Miller and Miss Irene Barnes had an edge on Pontiac General Hospital employees, administrators and even trustees at the hospital's eighth annual recognition and award dinner Thursday evening.

Between them, the two have more years' service to their credit than the hospital has history.

Mrs. Miller, who retired six weeks ago, completed 30 years at the hospital this year. She was supervisor of the social service department.

Miss Barnes, a nurse, was honored guest. She was given a bouquet of roses in recognition of 38 years at the hospital.

They topped a list of 32 employees who received service awards from Harold B. Euler, administrator.

The dinner, held at Devon Gables in Bloomfield Township, was attended by some 100 employees, guests, administrators and trustees. Harold A. Goldberg, chairman of the board of trustees, was master of ceremonies.

Make Fair Photo Check List to Avoid Missing Highlights

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

The nation's newest photo-attraction is the Seattle World's Fair. We would guess that more people will bring more cameras and shoot more pictures there in its six-month season than in any similar area in the world for a similar period.

What a shame if those pictures fail to capture the color, excitement and spectacular displays to supplement the personal story of a Fair-goer's visit!

Guido Appears on His Way Out

Argentine Government Shaky as Key Figures Seen Ready to Resign

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—President Jose M. Guido's provisional government appeared to be tottering today despite assurances of military support.

Jose M. Raggio, who returned here from the United States to become Guido's communications secretary, decided on his arrival that he didn't want the job.

There also were persistent reports that such key government figures as Foreign Minister Bonifacio del Carril, Interior Minister Jorge W. Perkins, Navy Secretary Gaston Clement and Education Minister Miguel Susini Jr. were either about to resign or be replaced.

All of those concerned denied planning to quit, but Del Carril in particular was known to be opposed by some Argentine political elements because of his strongly pro-American policies.

War Secretary Juan B. Loza declared in a general order last night the army "will firmly support the present government."

"The army will use all means to prevent a dictatorship," Loza said. "Avoidance of dictatorship is the only way to preserve republic institutions and channel the nation into the free play of democracy."

While that may happen to the casual camera toler, it will not happen to the real photo fan.

We'll... it won't, leastwise, if the guide camera for help plans to stumble on this or plans in advance to shoot a comprehensive picture story of the occasion.

With any off-beat vacation trip, why not make this a personal photo "assignment" and prepare a preliminary script or check list of important highlights to be included?

Certainly no photo fan is going to miss the Fair's tallest attraction—the flame tower. Spouting flames from its top, it soars 200 feet into the sky with a 40-foot torch apewing color-changing flames. Just below the flaming jet of natural gas is an observation deck, making it the high point for picture taking on the grounds.

BETTER VANTAGE POINT

But, I am informed by scouts on the scene, perhaps even a better vantage point for an overall view is the northeast elevator going up and down from the Needle. It has glass walls and the vertical motion of the elevator can, easily be stopped with a speed of 1/100 second and a firm grip on the camera.

A Photo Information Center near the base of the Needle and just across from the monorail station where people arrive from downtown Seattle is a handy meeting place or starting point for camera fans.

It is headed by Charles Whaley Jr. (of Kodak) whose past experience includes camera advice at such tourist centers as Disneyland, New York's Grand Central Terminal and the Dallas attraction, Six Flags over Texas.

The staff advises on all exposure problems, suggests the best picture subjects and even helps visitors load their cameras.

Movie fans are urged to take the Sky Ride for a fast-moving view of the Fair. The aerial cars transport sightseers diagonally across the 74-acre grounds starting from the Gayway with its glittering, razzle-dazzle over the Boulevard of the World, where international bazzars make colorful shots.

'POPULAR' SUBJECT

Near the Fair's center, and certain to be one of its most photographed subjects, is a magnificent fountain with streams arching to a height of 100 feet.

At night, colored lights add to the effect. For effective after-dark pictures of this water display, an exposure of 1/5 second at 1/2 with Kodachrome Type A film is suggested. Or time exposure, with a tripod to steady the camera, can start with two seconds at 1/4.5.

Countless opportunities for taking pictures indoors make it advisable to bring flashbubs or a good light meter to gauge available light exposure correctly.

For impressive and photogenic atmosphere, the U.S. Science Pavilion is a must for camera fans.

It summarizes the theme and spirit of the Fair: our world in the 21st Century. With its vaulted cathedral arches, reflecting pools, fountains, and imaginative displays, it is enlightened and inspired architecture.

People of This State Have Resisted Change

Just What Sort of Constitution Would Michigan Get?

By A. D. UNDERWOOD

LANSING (UPI) — The people of Michigan have by tradition been slow to change the basic law they live under.

When the state was organized in 1827 there was a poorly written constitution which lasted only 13 years — years of struggle to write a better one.

The document written in 1850 remained in effect until 1960 when minor surgery was performed on it and that basic law, little changed since before the Civil War, is still the law of the land.

The 1960 version of the constitution without six attempts to call conventions to revise it before the 1960 call succeeded.

With this history of resistance to change, an air of pessimism has become apparent in regard to the proposed 1962 constitution. Much of the doubt that the people will accept the work of the convention seems to center in Convention Hall.

"How can the people accept this document?" said Tom Downs, D-Detroit, one of three vice presidents of the convention.

"We have done nothing to correct the malapportionment of the legislature. We have done nothing to give the people true fiscal reform. We have weakened the traditional safeguard of having elected officials responsible to the people. How can this meet with the voters' approval?"

SLIMS UP MINORITY
Downs' objections sum up well

the taken back by the Democratic minority throughout the convention.

Appointments was the banner they carried into battle with the Republican majority which outnumbered them, 90-45 when the convention started, 97-47 at the end.

"Partisan election of delegates assured this would become a political issue," said Downs.

The object of this statement was George Romney, R-Bloomfield Hills, GOP candidate for governor and another convention vice president.

Romney, through the Citizens for Michigan organization he helped start, was a prime mover in the call of the convention.

CFM, along with the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the League of Women Voters did the leg work for the calling of a convention. When Romney became an announced candidate for governor, Democrats set up a howl that he had sought the convention to ride the end product into the capitol, and perhaps to Washington in 1964.

CARRY TO POLLS

Romney was not the only candidate to come from the convention. There were between 25 and 30 others including the third vice president, Edward Hutchinson, R-Fennville, a former state senator now seeking a congressional seat.

Romney, however, since he is going for the biggest job up for grabs in the state this year, and since he has been a convention leader, must carry some of the good and some of the bad reaction to the convention to the polls with him.

The question uppermost in everyone's mind is how much good and how much bad will the voters find when it comes time to decide whether the convention's work will be accepted.

Democrats are most unhappy about losing their apportionment fight. Not all Republicans are satisfied with the apportionment article either, but they are sure they will not fight it at the polls.

The state AFL-CIO, headed by August Scholle who has battled in the courts to change the state apportionment, is already on record as opposed to the work of the convention.

State employees angered over what they believe to be an attack on the civil service merit system also appear likely to fight acceptance.

"MANY IMPROVEMENTS"

"Everyone can find something to object to in the new constitution," said Convention President Stephen S. Nibbel, R-Fremont. "That isn't the object. The object is to explain the improvements and there have been many."

Among the most widely accepted sections in the proposed strong civil rights language.

"If the voters approve we can have the strongest, most effective civil rights language in our constitution of any state in the Union," said Romney.

Democrats, particularly the Negro Democrats, agree that great strides have been made in this area.

Between the two points—that of violent disagreement and that of general agreement—are many shadow areas.

The remaining weeks between now and a vote on the document will be filled with attempts to explain these by the groups most concerned.

Japan Election July 1

TOKYO (AP)—The government announced yesterday an election for new members of the Upper House of the Diet (parliament) will be held July 1. Half of the 260 seats will be at stake. The members, called councillors, are elected for six-year terms.

The average American family uses about 300 metal cans a year.

Harriott Phillips Swainson's 1962 Campaign Chief

One of Oakland County's top Democrats yesterday was appointed Gov. Swainson's campaign manager for 1962.

Mrs. Harriott Phillips of 25101 W. Royce, Farmington Woods will take a leave of absence as state Democratic vice chairman to lead the governor's re-election drive.

Mother of three sons, Mrs. Phillips has been active in her party's county activities since 1952 when she participated in the campaign for the late U.S. Sen. Blair Moody.

Her assistant in Gov. Swainson's campaign is the Rev. Lewis H. Dewley of Jackson.

New Wall Up in Berlin—Courtsey of Hollywood

BERLIN (AP)—Hollywood movie makers are building a lath and plaster wall in Berlin for a film featuring the escape of 28 refugees from Communist East Germany.

The dummy wall, about 200 yards long, is in a section of Berlin well away from the 25-mile-long wall erected by the Communists.

But to prevent any mistakes movie officials put up notices in four languages explaining it is just an imitation.

Your Neighbor's House

F. J. Grosses Achieve Ideal Home

Pontiac Press Home Editor

It's getting hard to remember when there were no houses between Middle Belt Road and Pine Lake Road. But there are a score or more very new houses in that area, Pine Lake Manor. The Frank Grosses live in a ranch model on St. Joseph Street. Residents for two years, they had lived in Auburn Heights, then in New York City before coming back to the Pontiac area. The Grosses have reached the stage in their married life where they can have a home just the way they want it. Their older son is married and lives in New York. Their younger son is in Hollywood and (take note, ye television fans) works in TV and is a movie stand-in. His professional name is Paul Garth.

In the living room the beamed ceiling is varnished redwood. Walls are champagne color. Carpeting is pale beige. Draperies are cream with aqua and brownish bronze figures.

The end wall containing the fireplace is red Roman brick. The raised hearth is slate; the mantel stone. Little stone shelves on the chimney hold green plants.

On either side of the fireplace is a low coral chair with button tufted backs. The slightly curved sofa is pale beige. All occasional tables are mahogany with leather tops.

An upholstered club chair, striped in shades of beige and brown, matches the chairs around the dining room table. The latter are often used in the living room for guests.

In front of the window is a small fountain on a brass stand. The plastic bowl that catches the water looks like alabaster. A flower cup holds the fountain. There are green plants around the inner bowl.

A tall lamp nearby has a cream ceramic base with holes cut in the ceramic — these are lined in coral.

The dining room is merely an extension of the living room. Carpeting and draperies are the same, of course.

The dining table is oval. Chair seats are striped in beige and brown. The chair backs have cane inserts. An attractive tea cart stands in front of the window. This has drop leaf ends and drawers and a cupboard below the lower shelf.

PATIO
A door from the dining room leads to a stone patio outside. This is surrounded by a low brick wall.

At the far end of the family size kitchen is a small birch bar with red Formica top. The end wall has a birch dado with sailboat paper above. Black bar stools have white leather upholstery.

The kitchen floor is corkstone tile. Walls are the palest of aqua. Curtains are aqua. Cupboards are birch and counter tops rosy red Formica. The laundry equipment is put in next to the sink.

The bathroom is done in subtle shades of sandalwood, corn white and gold. Fixtures are cream.

One of the three bedrooms is used as a den. Walls are off white. Carpeting is blue. The small sofa is bright red. A television set and a kneehole desk complete the furnishings.

In the guest room walls are pale peach. The high windows are curtained in cream. Carpeting is deep tangerine. Brass hardware accents the dark furniture. The quilted bedspread and skirt are cream. A pole lamp and tiny table are installed next to the bed.

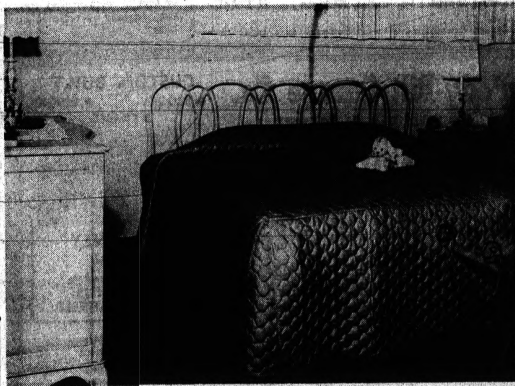

VIOLET SHADES
The master bedroom has deep violet carpeting. Walls are lavender. Curtains are white. The bedspread is a shade of violet halfway between wall and carpeting.

Furniture is Provincial, antiqued white with gold trim. On the little graced brass bench at the foot of the bed there is a violet corduroy cushion.

The attached bath is lavender and white. The curtains are white with a lilac design. Fixtures are white.

The Grosses' house was built by the original owners. The exterior is cream brick and redwood. Trim is brown and white.

PROVINCIAL — Antiqued white Provincial furniture with gold trim is used in the master bedroom. Walls, bedspread and carpeting go from lavender to deep violet. Curtains are white. The little brass bench at the foot of the bed has a violet corduroy cushion.

Help and Plans in Home Book

Prospective home planners, builders and owners can find many new ideas and designs for home improvements in a book just released by the Midwest Plan Service.

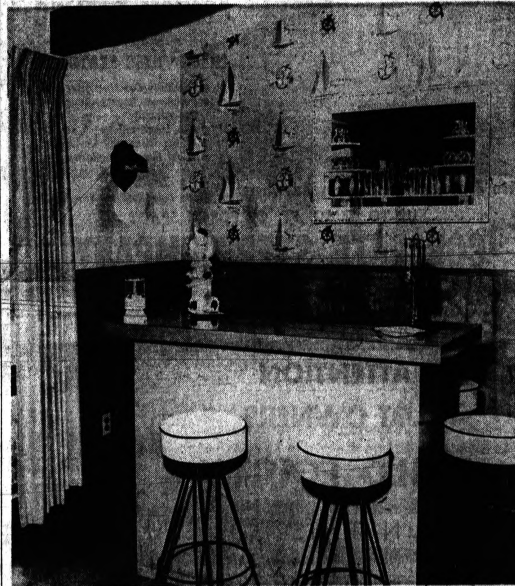

Called "Home Improvement Plans," the new 48-page publication provides drawings for room dividers, closets, kitchens, bathrooms, lighting, doors, laundry centers and even the home workshop. It includes the best ideas of home economists and engineers at 13 midwest land-grant colleges and universities.

The book includes suggestions for every room of the house, according to Robert A. Aldrich, an agricultural engineering specialist at Michigan State University. More than eight pages deal with improvements for the kitchen alone.

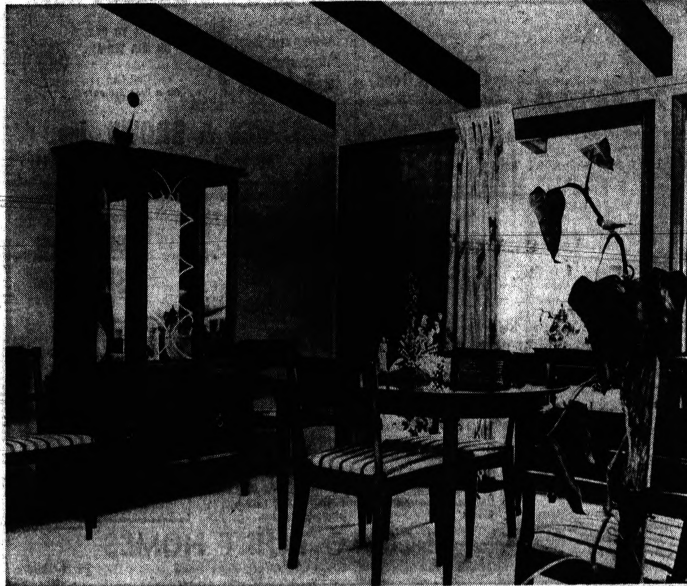

The book does not contain house plans, Aldrich points out. It provides only simple detailed illustrations and construction details. Sections of the book also deal with ideas for shelves, children's furniture, work tables and the construction of drawers and cabinets.

The latest available data on types and sizes of nails and screws, inside finishing materials, insulation, ventilation, common hardwoods and ways to be assured of a dry basement are also included.

For a copy of the book, write to Robert Aldrich, MSU Department of Agricultural Engineering, East Lansing. It costs $1.

END OF THE KITCHEN — There is a little red topped birch bar at the far end of the Grosses kitchen. Bar stools have white padded seats. The wall behind the bar has a birch dado with sailboat paper above. The floor is corkstone tile. At the left is a pair of long windows and a door leading to the back yard.

Pontiac Press Photos by Ed Noble

FOR ENTERTAINING — This dining area is an extension of the living room. Draperies in both rooms are cream with aqua and bronze figures. A door opens onto the patio at the rear of the house. The chairs have cane inserts in the backs. Striped seats are beige and brown.

PLANT DECORATIONS — Mrs. Grosses uses a profusion of green plants to relieve the austerity of the red brick fireplace wall. Other plants are used in various spots, including a planter near the front door. Carpeting is beige tweed; and walls are champagne color. The pair of chairs in front of the fireplace is coral. Ceiling beams are varnished redwood.

IN PINE LAKE MANOR — Taken before the recent warm spell that brought out the leaves, this picture shows the Frank Grosses' home on St. Joseph Street. The exterior is a combination of cream brick and redwood. The attached garage has a white door with brown trim. The original owners built this house which the Grosses have occupied for the past two years.

The bald eagle builds the largest (one record being a nest 20 feet east of any North American bird)—deep and 3 1/2 feet wide.

Buyers of Shell House Have Rights

WASHINGTON, May 4 (UPI)—New government guides for advertising of shell houses provide prospective buyers with a fund of tips on what to watch out for in the ads and when buying.

The guides were published by the Federal Trade Commission, which polices false and misleading advertising. FTC chairman Paul Rand Dixon noted that the relatively new business of selling unfinished or "sweat equity" houses has grown to a $2 billion industry which represents about 10 percent of all individual homes built annually in the United States.

Drawn up mainly to curb abuses by letting builders know just what the law prohibits in the way of advertising, the FTC guides may prove even more valuable to the sheltering unsuspecting buyer. The agency pointed out that 50 percent of sales of shell houses have been on credit, chiefly to "the lower income group of buyers."

Probably "the most misleading practice engaged in by some members of this industry is the use of 'balloon notes,'" said Bryan Jacques, director of the FTC's Bureau of Industry Guidelines. He gave this example:

An ad offers "low monthly payments of $30." This is true for, say, the first 36 months. But the 36th payment is not $30 as advertised but $1,000. The startled home buyer can't make the final payment and is forced to refinance at a high rate of interest.

The FTC guide requires disclosure of such financing arrangements. It also:

- Prohibits "insincere offers to sell." Sellers—and not just those of houses—often advertise a low-priced model which they don't have in stock or have only in limited quantity. That is their way of getting the customer interested enough to come in or accept a visit from a salesman. Then the customer is "switched" to a higher-priced model.
- Even if the true facts about the second model are "made known" to the buyer, the law is violated if the first contact or interview is secured by deception," the FTC said.

—Requires an advertiser who claims savings to specify the basis for the claim. He must disclose the type of house to which he is comparing his shell house. He must say explicitly that the buyer has to furnish materials needed to finish the house and must perform or pay for the labor himself.

Savings claims must be "factually true," the FTC said. To be so, the comparison must be with "a home of like quality, material, size, design and workmanship in the same general locality where the shell house is to be built."

—Directs that "all construction items featured in a pictorial representation, such as a porch, carport, chimney, steps, etc., must be included in the price quoted in the advertisement."

—States that two houses of different prices in the ad for the low-price model. This can lead prospective buyers to think they can get the higher-priced house for the lower price.

—Prohibits an advertiser from asserting that the home in its unfinished state is habitable. The typical shell house lacks wiring, plumbing, heating, lawns, trim and finish, the FTC said.

—Requires that guarantees specify exactly what is guaranteed and for how long. What is excluded, who the guarantor is and how he will make good—repair, replace or refund. If he has an option, that must be specified.

—Forbids false representation to a prospective buyer that his home will be used as a "model" or "demonstration." The buyer may be told he will get as much money if so many other homes like his are sold. This is not an illegal practice as such. But it is a common type of false claim in the selling and remodeling of houses.

The FTC also said that advertised and quoted prices shall include all charges for delivery and installation of a home unless it is clearly disclosed that these charges are not included in the price.

LASTING IMPRESSIONS—The new Hospitality Hallmark entrance door is the architectural focal point of the above entrance way. The proper selection of the right door is extremely important to the styling of any home. This door is one of a series of new economical, custom-designed doors recently introduced by Simpson Timber Company. The entrance, which also features Lifecore factory-primed rough-sawn redwood siding, was designed by San Francisco architect, Gumar Andersen, A.I.A.

Keep Siding Dry and Seal Then Paint It

The Southern Pine Association offers this advice on proper application of wood siding on exterior walls:

Wood siding should be protected from the elements until installed. Good practice calls for stacking on supports a minimum of six inches above the ground and covering with a waterproof material.

Ends of siding should be cut square and adjoining boards butted tightly together. A sealer coat should be applied at ends and if necessary as a caulking to seal the end of the lumber against rain.

A three-coat paint system is recommended under most conditions. It's good practice to paint a side of the home after the sun has passed over it.

"Dry" lumber holds paint longer. Proper drying is a mandatory grade requirement for Southern Pine siding.

Second Grade Is Good

Remember the lower grades of Northern hard maple flooring are good grades. The Second Grade, for instance, is equal in performance to the higher First Grade. It provides a colorful floor and is less costly than the higher grade.

Stained Glass Back

Stained glass, one of the oldest known types of decorative glass, is enjoying a revival in schools, office buildings, homes, and industrial buildings. The world's largest stained glass window is a block-long facade on the American Airlines terminal at Midfield Airport in New York City.

Finishing Family Room Can Be Everyone's Job

Whatever the reason, family rooms are more popular today than ever, and the theme of "Don't Move—Improve" seems to be gaining more and more supporters.

For homeowners who are considering how they might acquire such a room, here are a few basic suggestions offered by Armstrong Cork Company's Bureau of Interior Design that will help during the planning stages:

1. Make the family room for the entire family—not just a game room for the children or a watch-the-game-on-television room for Dad.
2. Since the floor and walls will be the largest areas in the room, start with them when decorating. It's now possible to get an almost unlimited number of effects in embossed linoleum, sheet and vinyl tile, and other smooth-surface floorings.
3. Provide for sufficient storage space. Books, games and other household articles tend to accumulate in the family room, and it's wise to have covered cupboards to store them in.
4. To keep the noise of family fun from spreading to other parts of the house, install an acoustical ceiling in the family room. Acoustical tiles, which are a bright, decorative addition, absorb up to 75 per cent of the sound waves that strike them.
5. Don't overlook the do-it-yourself possibilities. Both resilient flooring tiles and acoustical ceilings lend themselves to installation by the home handyman.
6. Next to comfort, make easy maintenance the chief consideration in selecting furnishings for the family room.
7. Plan the family room carefully beforehand; decide on color scheme, furniture, and equipment before the work actually begins. Here's an opportunity for every member of the family to cooperate in designing a room that will give many years of pleasure for all.

WORK OF ART—This fireplace in the Oxford home of the George Krohn is a work of art. The various stones have been carefully cut and fitted together by Krohn. Note the keyhole above the fire opening and the interesting way in which little rocks fit in at the top of the chimney.

Jefferson Pioneered in Air-Conditioning

Thomas Jefferson, in addition to his statesmanship, also was noted for his talents as an architect and builder because of his dream mansion, "Monticello."

But not many Americans know that he made one of the country's earliest recorded attempts at air-conditioning at a summer retreat he built called Poplar Forest at Bedford, Va. Jefferson had wet leaves placed on the roof to cool the air before it entered the house.

More than 4 billion asphalt shingles were needed by U.S. homeowners last year, and about two-thirds of the total was used for reroofing old roofs.

New Roof Part of Remodeling

The advantages of including a new roof in plans to remodel a house are numerous, housing authorities say. Here are five of the most important ones:

1. Appearance. The roof generally is the widest visible area on a house. A carefully-chosen roof color can make any house look better. Soft texture without glare adds richness and dignity.
2. Security and increased value. A new roof will provide years of protection from weather without the danger of damaging leaks. A new roof increases property value the moment it's applied.
3. Resistance to stormy weather. In areas subject to high winds, self-sealing or interlocking shingles can prevent expensive wind damage to the roof. Special applications of asphalt shingles in low temperature zones can avoid leaks caused by ice dams.
4. Fire resistance. Flaming brands or sparks landing on a flammable roof often start serious fires. In many parts of the country building codes require fire-resistant roofing on all homes.
5. Cost. A new roof needn't be costly today. Asphalt shingles, for example, are low in applied cost, since they go in place quickly with no "on-the-job" delays, and can be applied directly over old roofing.

All but 23 miles of the Oregon coast is publicly owned.

Tone Yellow Down

Yellow is often recommended for enamelling kitchens because it is a cheerful sunny color. But pure yellow is also a warm color, and even air-conditioned modern kitchens can become too hot. So if you enamel your kitchens yellow, select a pale tint that is cheerful without creating the feeling of heat. Pale blues and greens are often preferred because they are cool colors.

Chances Are Heating System Can Expand

If your house was built within the last 20 years, chances are you can add more living space to it without changing the heating system. Most modern heating systems are adequate to heat an extra wing or a remodeled basement or attic. If your heating system is an old one, have it checked by a reputable heating contractor before you start to remodel. He will advise you of ways to get additional heat for the new space.

Since World War II more than 21 million housing units have been built.

Pair of Vacation Homes Offers Exciting Choice

By JULES LOH
According to one authority there now are more than a million vacation homes tucked away in the country and about 85,000 more are being added each year. At this rate it won't be long before a second house becomes as commonplace as a second car.

So that House of the Week readers can take advantage of the trend while it's still relatively young, we offer a double-barreled selection. They are designs J-19 and J-20 in the series, and a study plan of both will come with an order for either.

One of the houses, by architect Paul's basic house consists of a large lounge, dining area, compact kitchen, a bath with shower, and storage facilities—all neatly packaged in 840 square feet. A broad plank deck on three sides more than doubles the area. The main bath has access from the outside, and an additional shower head is located on the deck for quick rinses. Both features could be regarded as musts for vacation houses at lake or seashore.

The economical A-frame roof from the deck, is composed of rafters spaced four feet apart from the deck to the roof ridge. The side decks with a fantastic amount of cross ventilation resulting.

Post and beam construction is used for architect Paul's friendly, inviting summer home. The large beams which are exposed in front extend through to the rear and serve as the main roof supports.

A neat arrangement of a dual bathroom allows for simultaneous service indoors and out. Another handy feature is the wet-dry closet adjoining the shower, which also is directly accessible from the deck.

The deck, extending around three sides, is made of redwood planking with small spaces between. Its 240-square-foot surface provides an added dramatic touch of informality.

The exterior wall finish is grooved plywood put up in large sheets. The result is an excellent interior as well, though additional interior finish might be required for winter use. The ceiling consists of large sheets of wood finished siding fastened to the underside of the rafters.

A final accent of comfort and leisure to this charming hideaway is its large stone chimney block with both fireplace and barbecue.

structure then it test, providing ample room for a sleeping balcony over the rear portion of the house. There is a natural stone fireplace at the balcony in addition to the large one in the lounge.

In the rear of the basic house is a long concrete block wing wall which assures privacy and also serves as a starting point for future expansion of up to four bedrooms.

The luxurious deck of this house is built on concrete piers, so that the house is adaptable to any terrain. The A-frame, which rises

BALCONY
This house also features a large balcony, with a full cedar in cold-looking the main floor. The ground level is 875 square feet (not counting the 384 square foot deck) and the balcony level adds 161 square feet.

Wood portions of furniture should be dusted as often as necessary, with a soft, lint-free folded cloth. Long sweeping strokes will usually remove all accumulated dust. And don't forget the special brush attachments on your vacuum cleaner, which can be a great help.

Unpolished parts of furniture should be vacuumed or brushed each week, while wood surfaces will keep their finish bright and shining if polished every few weeks. Many new furniture polishes are on the market that are especially good for maple, or a little lemon oil will do the trick.

Dust the surface first, then lightly rub with a soft cloth on a gleaming clean field.

Waxing furniture is usually necessary only two or three times a year, but be sure to remove any old wax from the surface before applying the new. This can be done with a special preparation available for this job.

USE WATER
Or, dip a cloth in warm water and a bit of soap, wring out carefully and wipe surface lightly. Rub the cloth and go over lightly once again. Allow to dry and apply wax.

Use your wax sparingly, then rub. If you are using a liquid wax, you can remove old wax by freely applying this wax to the surface and immediately wiping off while still wet.

Unpolished fabrics which are not affected by water can be shaken.

Simple Home Remedy Will Clean Brassware
You can remove dirt and tarnish from brass or brass-finish hardware without destroying the "antique" finish. Just combine vinegar and salt in a ceramic dish and apply this mixture to the hardware with a soft brush.

Then wash the hardware in soap or detergent suds to remove all traces of the cleaning mixture, rinse, and dry. If desired, spray on a tarnish-resistant coating used to lacquer silverware.

Hunt for Odd Spaces to Add Storage
Finding a place for additional storage capacity is apt to be a problem in some homes because the right kind of wall and floor space is hard to come by.

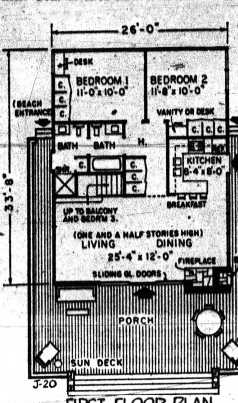

If you face this problem, check your closet doors to see if they might accommodate wood shelving. Another economical storage device is a wood room divider. Either cabinets or shelves, or both together, can be installed in this unit.

The best way to get specific answers to the specific storage problems is to visit your nearest lumber dealer or building materials supplier. He's an expert, fully able and willing to point your personal search for space in the right direction.

Furniture Thrives on Routine Care

The best short-cut to keeping your furniture in prime condition is a good routine of furniture care. For best results, schedule daily weekly and spring and fall cleanings.

Wood portions of furniture should be dusted as often as necessary, with a soft, lint-free folded cloth. Long sweeping strokes will usually remove all accumulated dust. And don't forget the special brush attachments on your vacuum cleaner, which can be a great help.

Get Most From Air Cooler by Following Few Rules

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — With the heat and humidity season just around the corner for most of the nation, air conditioning experts of the General Electric Company have issued some advice on how to achieve the most effective and economical results from room air conditioners.

Some of the most important do's and don'ts for cool air escape—cold air tends to fall, so be sure floor and wall registers and furnace cold air returns are closed to keep the cool, dry air in the room or zone you are cooling. Above all, keep windows shut tight.

Don't let the room get too hot—Whenever possible, turn the air conditioner on before too much heat is "stored up" in walls, furniture, rugs and draperies. The hotter the room, the longer it takes to produce the desired comfort condition.

Keep the filter clean—You should wash the filter at least once a month to remove accumulated dirt, dust and lint. A clogged, dirty filter restricts air flow, reduces your unit's efficiency.

Attach two curtain rings low on the baseboard of the bedroom to hold back legs of a studio bed so that it will not move away from the wall during the night.

Many Ways to Silence Ordinary House Noises

Too much noise can make a home uncomfortable regardless of how well it is furnished. However, the problem of unwanted noise in the home can be solved with these simple, economical steps, suggested by the Insulation Board Institute.

Several times during the day at home, stop to listen. Try to isolate the excess sounds you hear. Trace them to the source and see what adjustments can be made to subdue the noise.

Install fiberboard acoustical tile on your ceilings. Installation of fiberboard acoustical tile is often all that is required to turn a noisy room into a peaceful one. It is available from your lumber dealer in many styles and colors and will absorb up to 70 percent of the excess sound that strikes it. You can install it yourself, or your building materials dealer will recommend a contractor to do the job for you.

Large expanses of glass (such as picture windows) reflect noise and make it seem louder. Put up heavier curtains or decorative drapes.

Use rugs to silence floor sounds—even a couple of throw rugs in the family room or children's room will dull many sharp sounds.

Install anti-rattle hardware on windows; re-putty loose glass; install weather stripping.

Mount stationary appliances on rubber pads or resilient furniture glides.

Substitute silent mercury wall light switches for the conventional "click-snaps" switches.

Oil door hinges and locks; use weather stripping on outside and door closers; install rubber door stops.

Ask your heating plant service-man to check your furnace can be made to operate more silently.

Chiefs Fourth as FNH Wins Championship

No Points in Hurdles, Dashes Hurt Shorter Standouts

SAGINAW — Pontiac Central's John Stewart and Wilbert Preston won Saginaw Valley championships here last night, but the Chiefs finished a disappointing fourth in the one-finisher.

A one-finisher sag in the bar kept Stewart from typing the pole vault placed, a cleared 14-foot on the standards, but a measurement of the bar recorded 11 feet 11 inches.

Preston was clocked in 2:34.9 on winning the mile. This was the best effort of his prep career.

Flint Northern repeated as champion. The Vikings scored 48 points, Flint Central 31, Flint Southwest 28, PCH 27, Bay City Hardy 28, Saginaw 14-5-6, Bay City Central 10-5, Arthur Hill 8-2-3 and Midland 3.

The Chiefs were expected to challenge Flint Central for second place. Poor performances in both hurdles races and a disputed placement in the 100-yard dash hurt coach Dean Wilson's chances.

OVER HURDLES PCH's Willie McDaniel, Tim Thompson and Charles Humphries were among nine qualifiers for the finals of the 120-yard high hurdles. All three knocked over hurdles and failed to place in the top five.

Two runners failed to place in the 180-yard high hurdles. The dispute centered around the judges' failure to place PCH's Steve Hinesman in the 100-yard dash. The timers said he had the fourth place time 22.8 in the close finish, but the judges did not place Hinesman in the top five.

Points were awarded to the top five finishers in each event. Jim Smith and Elick Shorter turned in their top performances of the year for the Chiefs but failed to win.

Smith ran a 2:01.8 half mile but finished fourth behind winning Jim Conors of Flint Central 2:00.5. Shorter put the shot 53 feet 6 inches. He was runnerup to a 55 feet 35-inch effort by Bay City's Steve Hinesman.

At Washington of Flint Northern broke the Valley high jump record when he cleared 6 feet 8 1/2 inches. The old record was 6 feet 6 1/2 inches, set by Floyd Bates of Flint Central.

Gerry Henry of PCH finished in a tie for third at 6 feet while Ed Williams, Thompson and Charles Graves tied for fifth.

In the pole vault, clearing 11 feet 6 inches, Graves was third and Williams fourth in the broad jump.

Orion Track Team Stays Unbeaten

Lake Orion had no trouble staying unbeaten, West Bloomfield finished strong for a victory and Rochester breezed to one in area prep track yesterday.

St. Frederick downed city rival Emmanuel Christian 8-6 and Waterford bowed to Inter-Lakes leader Farmington 6-2 in baseball.

Pontiac Northern trounced Walled Lake in tennis, 5-1. Freshman Ed Legz set a school record with a 4-5-2 shot put. Dave Welch led a slam of the 100 to 10.6 and also won the 220 to place Orion over Avondale 81% to 27%.

LARRY WORM had 193 in the broad jump. Henry Grews 34-1/2 in the pole vault. Jon Cuckey 17-6 in high hurdles. Marty Townsend 4:55 in the mile and Lyle McDermott 2:13.8 in the 800 and both Dragon relay teams won.

Dale Yarger took the high jump in 2:13.8 and Rock garnered the low hurdle dual in 2:27 for Avondale's victories.

LAKERS TRIUMPH Don Wareham took the low hurdles in 23 seconds and Vaughn McGraw the 220 in 24.2 and two other Lakers were 3rd on West Bloomfield broke a 43-1/2 tie to defeat Brother Rice, 60-49.

Wareham also won the high in 16.8 and McGraw the 100 in 11 seconds. Both WBHS relay teams were 1st as was shot putter Jim Ferguson at 45.4. Eric Victor was Joe Schur with 4-17 broad jump, Bill Moore 5-8 high jump, Newark 4-6 in pole vault, Kelle's 4-45 mile and Dean with 2:15.80. Gary Morey of West Bloomfield Montgomery Country City course is 72.

Miss Wright, of Dallas, Tex., leader as the second round opened Friday couldn't find the range that gave her a 60 on Thursday, and she finished with a 74.

Miss Breen, who plays from St. Andrews, Ill., and has won the Western title seven times, fired a blistering 4 under-par 68 Friday to tie for the lead after carding an unimpressive 75 Thursday. Par for the 6,312-yard Montgomery Country City course is 72.

Miss Jessen, of Seattle, Wash., won Thursday in 71 Thursday and shot a par 72 Friday.

The field of 15 was cut to the 32 low scorers as the 36 holes of play began today.

Mighty Tide Triumphs in Harness Opener OXON HILL, Md. (AP)—Mighty Tide, trained and driven by 67-year-old Paul Vineyard, scored a smashing victory in the first leg of the $12,500 Harness Tracks of America pacing series at Rosecroft Raceway Friday night.

He bested the favored Henry T. Adios by three-quarters of a length with a track record of 2:00 1/5. The record of 2:01 1/5 was held jointly by Thomas B. Scott and Mr. Budlong.

Mighty Tide paid $6.80.

St. Fred put together two hits, a misjudged fly for another, three errors and three walks for six runs in the opening inning and went on to

Player Ahead by Stroke Topping Palmer and Pott

FORT WORTH, Tex., (AP)—Gary Player, who says his putting runs in streaks and right now it's sizzling, carried a one-shot lead into the third round of the $300,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament today.

The scrappy South African, whose moods vary with his golf game, was jubilant Friday after he fired an even-par 70 to snatch the lead from Arnold Palmer.

Player had a 36-hole total of 138, a shot ahead of Palmer and Johnny Pott.

Palmer, the Masters champion, said he hoped so many putts he got downright embarrassing.

The personable Player—who dressed in black from head-to-toe because, he contends, it gives him a feeling of strength—sank an 8-foot birdie putt on the eighth hole to highlight his day.

He started with birdies on the first two holes, sinking a 6-foot putt on the first and chipping in from 30 feet on the second.

He faltered momentarily at the fifth when he hit a tree and bogged, sank his 8-foot putt on the 10th and then parred to the 13th where he knocked his tee shot out of bounds and got stuck with a double bogey 5.

He rammed home a 10-foot putt for a par on the final hole to take the lead and exclaimed later: "I had the best putting round today that I've had in a year."

It was a bad day generally for goldmine elite as a tricky wind swept the 7,112-yard layout. None of the remaining field of 55 cracked par—and only four equaled it. This contrasted sharply with Thursday's round when nine bettered par and Palmer took the lead with a 3-under-67.

In addition to Player, those carding 70s were Byron Nelson (101), Pott and Bruce Crampton (101).

Palmer shot a 72 and blamed his putter for the score. He one-putted only one green, the 11th, which he birdied. He also birdied the first, reaching the par 5 hole in two shots and two-putting for a 4.

Two strokes behind Player at 140 were Doug Ford and Jack Nicklaus. Ford fired a 72 while Nicklaus, who shared the lead at one time when he was 2-under-par, came in with a 71.

Defending champion Doug Sanders shot a 71 and 142 and Ben Hogan, seeking his sixteenth here, also had a 71 for 143.

25 Countries Entered TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The number of countries entered in the World Wrestling Championships, to be held at the University of Toledo June 21-27, reached 25 Friday with the addition of seven teams.

John N. Richards, chairman of the tournament committee, said negotiations were received from Turkey, Finland, Bulgaria, Belgium, Greece, Switzerland and Denmark.

The Hukkie netters swept singles and missed a shutout when Larry Stoklus and Gary Hentel batted Jim Haddock and Barry Buffington 6-3, 6-3. George Kovach took Cliff Humble 2-6, 6-2, 6-0. Fred Kern trounced Bob Jones 6-2, 6-1. John Kerns whipped Jim Foster 6-3, 6-3. Terry Patterson and Wayne Thomas defeated Ken Hoffman and Gary Pachal 6-4, 6-0 and Bill Basinger-Siege Long won.

Bloomfield Hills runners set one school and six field records as the Barons ran past Kettering and Clarencville in a triangular track meet.

The Barons scored 80 7/12 points, Kettering 54 5/8 and the Trojans 34 7/12.

Art Trejens set school and field records by clearing 5:04 in the high jump. He also ran 15:25 in the high hurdles for a field mark.

Other field records for the Barons were the mile relay, 3:35.5; the 880 relay, 1:31.9; John Schewepe, 100-10.15; and Dave Noyes, 440, 51.4.

Electronic Computers Planned at Olympics TOKYO (AP)—Electronic computers will be used to compile and distribute the results of the 1964 Olympic Games. It was announced Thursday by Masanobu Tominaga, director of the Olympic Committee's press and public relations division.

Tominaga said that results would be known in all 18 press centers here in two seconds. He added that the American electronics firm, International Business Machine, was contributing the computers, relay equipment and technicians at no charge to the committee.

Phils Change Pitchers PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Phillies bought left-handed pitcher Dennis Bennett, 23, from their Buffalo farm club in the International League Thursday night and optioned right-hander Paul Brown to Buffalo on 24-hour recall.

FRIDAY'S FIGURES By The Associated Press LOS ANGELES—Sugar Harris, 26, Mexican City, knocked out Danny Valdez, 24, DEERFIELD, Wash., Eddie Cotton, 18, Phil River, Mass. 2-0, Tony Dallas, knocked out Rudolf Bert, British Honduras. 8-0. WORCESTER, Mass.—Larry Carver, 29, Lowell, Mass., slugged Freeman Turner, 19, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., 8-0.

The second leg of the series will be raced at Maywood Park in Chicago next Friday.

Spencer and Stroh's City Softball League Set to Open Monday

Defending champion Spencer Floors started a new season the right way downing O'Neill Realty 6-4 in Waterford softball last night. Stroh's downed Sarfo Investment, 3-1. Both were in Class B.

All Sharrard's two round double in the 4th was the key blow for Spencer. Harry Dearborn slammed two doubles and a triple for the winners. John Harrington fired a three-hitter, fanning eight.

Held hitless by Bill Pittman for 4 2/3 innings, Stroh's bounced back. Walter Arky James spoiled the feat with a double. Paul Atkins got a clinching single in the 6th, the 3rd and final Stroh's hit.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Eva Kraiger and Mrs. Jennie Roth, both of Oxford, and two grandchildren.

MOTHER'S DAY
Sunday, May 13th, we can return a small portion of that dedicated love she has lavished upon us. As long as there is a child, in need, at any time, have you found a mother ministering to its needs; that's the job she does. Mildred B. Vermont once said, "Being a full-time mother is the most unglorified job in any field, since the payment is pure love."

To begin the day hold her tight and whisper, "Mother, I love you." That spoken sentiment is the spark that sets off the tone of the day. Start your letter or telegram with "Mother, I love you," everything else will fall neatly into place.
Surely in Heaven there has been a place set apart for mothers. There are children of course, safety pins and diapers, ribbons and tears, smiles and hugs, crinkles, dolls and toys, soldiers, night gowns and a rocking chair where she can sing the lullabies that go with childhood. With them she'll be happy, sharing herself with those she loves. Mothers have a happy, happy day.

'I've Gone New York!'
Says Lawrence Harvey
By EARL WILSON
"One thing I have not gone, is Hollywood!" Lawrence Harvey exclaimed.

"I'm sick of all Hollywood's brilliant celebrities about Hollywood. But here is one thing I've gone."

"I've gone New York!"
Having made this profession of allegiance before witnesses, the rising young British star poured out some more wine, first being very fastidious about the vintage. And why had he gone New York?

Well, I'll tell you. One reason was that Plaza chambermaid would keep telling him about a variety of disguises . . .

"It happened while he was filming part of 'The Manchurian Candidate' here with Frank Sinatra, who pulled him out of Central Park Lake."

"By the way, I wish you a member of the Clan?" I asked him.

"I got my own clan," he smiled sophisticatedly.

"The morning of the day when I was to go into the lake, I wasn't shaved," he remembered.

"I was supposed to be in a wrinkles suit. The English material of my suit was non-wrinklable."

"Johnny Frankenstein, our director, said, 'I got news for you, you're the greatest suit-wrinkler in the business.'"

"He had a guy stand on the suit and do other things to it, to make it a complete disgrace."

Harvey was leaving with his script under the wrinkles when he met the chambermaid and gave her a hearty "Good morning."

"I could just hear her saying, 'They're letting any kind of bum in this hotel!'"

Not very long afterward, his teeth still chattering from the icy plunge, Harvey returned to the hotel, wearing a terry-cloth robe, long underwear, furled boots, "and on top of this a little bandy."

It seemed a big joke to his wardrobe-man, "Ronnie Rags," who called out: "The champ! He knocked him out in the 13th round."

And who was there to hear it: "That same gal with the vacuum cleaner."

Imagine that woman's astonishment when, the same day, he left his room wearing a clergyman's outfit and being very big about it, too.

"I blessed everybody from the front door of the Plaza to Madison Square Garden," he said—not excluding the chambermaid.

To account for his British accent, Harvey plays a Bostonian in the picture. He made no predictions.

THE WEEKEND WINDUP
EARL'S PEARLS: Chivalry nowadays consists of opening a door and holding it for a woman—whirl 'round and take the job you're after.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Science is now tackling the most vexing problem facing astronauts wearing those bubble helmets—what to do about an itchy nose.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: People who are careless about crossing streets may be called "jaywalkers" or merely "the deacons."

Those Movie Love Scenes are getting so daring, reports Tony Bennett, that when he goes to a drive-in theater he hardly ever looks into the next car any more. . . . That's earl, brother.

Georgia Appeals Bus Runs Off Road With Forty Aboard
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Party of Georgia appealed to the Supreme Court yesterday to uphold Georgia's county unit election system as used in party primaries.

A formal appeal, in which Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook of Georgia joined, asked quick reversal of an April 26 decision by a three-judge federal court.

The decision was that the county unit system violates the equal protection of laws clause of the federal constitution's 14th Amendment.

The system is based on the distribution of seats in the Georgia legislature, a division which for many years has given such populous counties as Fulton (Atlanta) only three times the voting weight of the most sparsely populated South Georgia County.

The difference between the values of individual votes in the various areas is figured as high as 99 to 1.

To Act Again on Village Bid

Bank Asks Waterford Twp. Board to Establish Unincorporated Area

The Waterford Township Board is expected to take final action Monday night on a request by the Community National Bank that an area in the township, including the Pontiac Mall, be designated an unincorporated village.

Board members rejected the request at the April 30 meeting but last Monday bank officials asked for reconsideration.

It was agreed to formally place the matter on the agenda again and to advise competitive financial institutions in the area.

Designation of an unincorporated village by the township board reportedly would facilitate the mechanics of applying for a branch bank franchise.

RAIL FIELD PETITION
Other business for consideration of the board includes requests from the Highland Estates Home Improvement Association to use township water system property for a ball field.

Township Clerk James Seeterlin will report to the board on the dump truck bids opened last Monday. A report from the planning commission on civic center plans is also slated.

County Men Take Posts With Kenney Foundation

Two Oakland County men have been named officer and trustee of the Sister Kenney Foundation, it was announced today.

Provided from a member of the board of directors to a vice president of the Foundation was James Clarkson of 3111 S. Judson.

Dr. Clayton Plaster, executive director of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Oakland County, was named to the board.

Named to the board was Dr. John J. Marra on Lake Orion, medical director in charge of the house staff and pathologist at Pontiac General Hospital.

Economy Fad Disappears

By BEN PHILIPAR
AP Automotive Writer
DETROIT — Consumers have retired the economy car fad in two short years and have stormed back to what any psychologist could tell they really wanted in the first place, a garage showboat with all sorts of useless accoutrements.

That's how one investment advisory service sizes up the current auto market, and especially the resurgence of the so-called medium price car.

SPENDING MORE MONEY
While prices have changed only slightly since 1959, buyers are spending more money for their automobiles now.

Not only are they loading the compacts with such costly items as bucket seats, floor shifts and not engines, but they are coming back to the old-line names which sell somewhere in the range between Ford and Cadillac.

When you talk about cars, "medium price" becomes a relative thing. One of the statistical services, Ward's Reports, currently estimates this area as all cars carrying a base-suggested factory price — before any kind of taxes or accessories — between $2,600 and $4,000. Taxes and optional equipment boost these figures roughly $1,000 at the retail level.

Of the slightly more than four million 1962 models built up to April 1 — most recent date for which a complete breakdown is available — 560,094, or 23.5 per

Seaton Seeking Nebraska Office

Ex-Interior Secretary After GOP Nomination for Governor

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The attempt of a Dwight D. Eisenhower cabinet member to re-enter politics in his home state and a shrinkage of congressional districts have heightened interest in Nebraska's May 15 primary election.

Former Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton, 52, Hastings publisher, is seeking the Republican nomination for governor following an eight-year stay in Washington. The Democrats have held the governorship for the last two terms.

Seaton isn't bothering with attacks on his Republican rivals, George A. Clark, 44, Harrison rancher; publisher, not dealer; or Louis H. Hector, 72, retired Lincoln building custodian. Instead he is going after Gov. Frank Morrison, 66, the Democratic incumbent.

Morrison, apparent front runner for the nomination, has his problems. Not only is he the only elected Democrat in the statehouse, his long-standing feud with Democratic National Committee member Bernard J. Boyle has grown so intense Democrats have given up trying to conceal it.

HIT BY DEM
Morrison also is under steady attack from Mrs. Ralph G. Brooks, 55, widow of his predecessor and a candidate for the nomination.

Mrs. Brooks has been charging the governor with deviating from her late husband's policies.

Torothy Mangiameli, 45, Omaha contractor and 1960 primary contender, also is seeking the nomination.

Ike Plans to Help GOP Campaign in Key Contests

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former President, Dwight D. Eisenhower, will help campaign for Republican candidates in some key contests this fall, Rep. Charles A. Halleck, R-Ind., said yesterday.

Halleck, the House Republican leader, said definite arrangements had been made for Eisenhower to appear in two or three states.

He said, however, no announcement of Eisenhower's schedule would be made at this time.

Eisenhower met with GOP congressional leaders Thursday to discuss the fall elections, including the possibility of an active role for the 71-year-old ex-president, was among items discussed.

Would Punish Sabotage by Death in S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Sabotage would be punished by death under a bill introduced in parliament yesterday.

Details were not disclosed but leakage to the press indicated the bill was aimed especially at subversive elements—both black and white — suspected of Communist leanings.

IT'S A DOG'S LIFE — Believe it or not, Heidi, the St. Bernard of Lt. and Mrs. P. K. Bowen of Valdosta, Ga., lapped up the wonderful shower — despite the look on her face. Appeal Cooperative JFK, Blough Set Example

HOT SPRINGS, Va., (AP) — President Kennedy and steelman Roger Blough, economic foes a month ago, seem to be deliberately trying to set personal examples of industry-government cooperation.

Kennedy sent an emissary to the weekend session here of the Business Council, an organization headed by Blough and representing the biggest of big business, to unveil the administration's plan for up to $1.25 billion of tax relief through liberalized depreciation rules.

PICKED UP CUE
Although many of the more than 100 top-run corporations heads had spoken privately of their doubts and suspicions of the administration's attitude toward business, Blough picked up the White House cue.

The chairman of U.S. Steel Corp. told newsmen the new treasury order, due in a month or two, is a very important step toward restoring business confidence and clear evidence of the administration's desire to help industry solve the problem of building up funds for investment in new plant equipment.

Blough then sprang a surprise. The Business Council — "at the request of the President" — he announced — is forming a committee to help and advise the government on reducing the deficit in international payments.

As reporters questioned him, it came out that Kennedy and Blough have had an unpunctuated conversation on the payments problem at the White House. Blough would not tell when it took place, except that it was since April 13, the date Blough, rescinded the price increase posted three days earlier.

Blough left newsmen in no doubt that he accepts a full share of Kennedy's public assault on the chicken coop he had been forced open.

Drainage Work Go-Ahead Given by Tunnel Crews

Tunnel work on the 12-Town Drain project and other drainage work in the Oakland County area should begin Monday after a 24-month delay.

Tunnel workers have ended a strike that began in February. A new two-year contract has been ratified by members of Pontiac Laborers Local 1976 and Detroit Local 354 representing some 800 construction workers in the Detroit metropolitan area.

Negotiations with the Associated Underground Contractors ended in an agreement Thursday.

The tunnel workers walked out when negotiations bogged down early this year. The old contract expired Dec. 31.

Progress on the 12-Town Drain had been confined entirely to surface and open cut construction for several months.

Lodge Calendar
Regular meeting Pontiac Chapter No. 225 OES, Monday, May 14, at 8 p.m., 1814 E. Lawrence. Mothers will be honored. Edith M. Coons, secretary.

News in Brief
Fifty Lagoon calves valued at $50 were stolen from a coop on her farm at 800 Hadley Road, Brandon Township. Mrs. Harold Spencer told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies yesterday. Officers said a door on the chicken coop had been forced open.

Reflexions
Sunday, May 13th, we can return a small portion of that dedicated love she has lavished upon us. As long as there is a child, in need, at any time, have you found a mother ministering to its needs; that's the job she does. Mildred B. Vermont once said, "Being a full-time mother is the most unglorified job in any field, since the payment is pure love."

To begin the day hold her tight and whisper, "Mother, I love you." That spoken sentiment is the spark that sets off the tone of the day. Start your letter or telegram with "Mother, I love you," everything else will fall neatly into place.

Surely in Heaven there has been a place set apart for mothers. There are children of course, safety pins and diapers, ribbons and tears, smiles and hugs, crinkles, dolls and toys, soldiers, night gowns and a rocking chair where she can sing the lullabies that go with childhood. With them she'll be happy, sharing herself with those she loves. Mothers have a happy, happy day.

Plans to Fight India Aid Cut

Administration Ready for Major Battle Over $270-Million Slash

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration forces said today they will make an all-out fight to reverse a $270-million cut in next year's aid to India voted by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Assistant Democratic leader Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota said the committee would be asked to reconsider Friday's action. If that move is not taken, a reporter, "We will carry our fight to the Senate floor to restore this cut."

Sponsors of the aid cut said it reflected growing resentment in Congress against Prime Minister Nehru's military buildup, India's invasion of Goa and Defense Minister Krishna Menon's repeated attacks on the United States.

The $270 million was slashed from $545 million in aid projected for India in the fiscal year beginning July 1. This year aid to India amounts to $727 million.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., sponsored the aid slash and it carried by an 87-vote after the committee rejected by a vote of 22 to 67.

Sen. Symington introduced an amendment to cut off all foreign aid to India next year.

Construction Work Halted in California

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Construction halted today on $3.5 billion worth of projects in 46 northern California counties as contractors, hit by scattered strikes since several union contracts expired May 1, yesterday ordered the mass shutdown in retaliation.

The shutdown will immediately idle more than 120,000 other construction workers and probably throw thousands of men out of work in related industries such as lumber, steel and petroleum should the dispute continue.

Boy Finds Out What It's Like 'in the Doghouse'

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Willie Brown, 6, who wandered away from home without permission, knows what it's like to be "in the doghouse."

He came back home late from playing and deciding he didn't want to face the wrath of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brown, he crawled into the dog's bed under the house.

After a four-hour search by his parents, neighbors and police, an uncle found Willie asleep in the dog's bed.

Willie was too sleepy to care about where the dog would sleep.

Canadian Bank Cuts Cuban Credit Ties

MIAMI (UPI)—The Royal Bank of Canada announced without explanation last night that it has halted transfers of credit to Fidel Castro's Cuban dictatorship.

The announcement was a blow to Cuban refugees here, who had often way to send money to relatives in their homeland.

The U.S. Government cut off postal money orders to Cuba in March because of lack of cooperation by the Cuban National Bank with the American Express Co. halted its money order service last month for the same reason.

City Postmaster Elected to Head Oakland Group

Pontiac Postmaster William W. Donaldson has been elected president of the Oakland County Association of Postmasters.

He succeeds Robert W. Fagan, postmaster of Holly.

Other officers are Vice President Margaret E. Watson of Northfield, N.J.; Treasurer Charles L. Curtis of Southfield; District Director Kenneth Oaks of Drayton Plains; County Director Merle E. Kinney of Dearborn.

Journalism Society Will Present Awards

DETROIT (U)—The annual awards of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, will be presented here tonight.

Fifteen awards for distinguished service in journalism were to go to recipients from throughout the nation.

Tonight marks the first time in the 35-year-old society's history that its awards banquet has been held in Detroit.

The song "There's a new one of the finest thoughts in Europe. It feels largely on warm and snuggly."

Duchess of Windsor Pattern

The wonders of designing perfection that mark the difference between a dress and the narrowly understated chic of this Duchess of Windsor model begin with the most subtle detail.

A case in point is the manner in which the little cap sleeves are closely moulded over the shoulder tip to achieve an expensive custom look. The slow back slant of skirt's side seams makes the hips appear slimmer, trimmer.

With light waistline shirring adding pretty ease to the simple boat-neck bodice and soft fullness to the skirt's design, the dress is a fine example of understated elegance.

Estes Lightning Bolt Strikes High Official in Labor Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lightning from the Billie Sol Estes storm struck high up in the Kennedy Administration last night. Assistant Secretary of Labor Jerry R. Holleman resigned, saying he had accepted $1,000 from the indicted Texas financier.

In a letter delivered to President Kennedy, Holleman revealed the gift from Estes — whose wheeling and dealing with government farm programs and officials is being investigated by two congressional committees and by four grand juries in Texas.

He said he took the money from Estes, a friend for 10 years, because he was having trouble making ends meet on his government salary of $20,000 a year.

"He offered to help me out by a personal gift," said the 43-year-old Holleman. "I accepted this gift."

Holleman related that he accepted the money in January "before I knew anything about Mr. Estes' involvements." And, he added, "The gift has no connection with any of Mr. Estes' interests or my responsibilities. This was entirely a personal matter."

But Holleman said in his letter to the President, "I realize at the same time, that the circumstances which have developed make it inevitable that this incident will be misunderstood and that it will be embarrassing to me personally."

"I am not going to let any of this embarrassment affect anyone else, particularly you and Secretary Goldberg."

Goldberg announced the resignation had been accepted and said: "It is regrettable that this has happened. Under the circumstances, Mr. Holleman has taken the proper course of action."

Holleman's resignation was the latest development in the swift moving and sensational case involving Estes. The 37-year-old one-time Peconic farm boy built a multimillion dollar empire on cut-rate sales.

State Hospital May Lose Land

Bills in Legislature Would Sell Property to Pontiac

Pontiac State Hospital stands to lose about 70 acres of land this year, pending passage and signing of two bills in Lansing.

One bill, already passed by both House and Senate, would transfer about 10 acres of hospital property to the state military board.

A second bill awaiting legislative approval would sell off another 60 acres or so to the City of Pontiac.

The first bill, introduced by Rep. Arthur J. Law, D-Pontiac, is designed to make 10 acres fronting on Elizabeth Lake Road near State Street available as a site for a new Pontiac National Guard Armory. It requires only the governor's signature.

TO BE DEMOLISHED

The present armory on Water Street is designated for acquisition and demolition by the city in its urban renewal program.

Whatever the amount paid for the armory by the city, it will go toward erecting a new building on the Elizabeth Lake Road site, according to Law.

The other bill, introduced in the senate, has been returned to committee for amendment. Several legal descriptions of properties in the original were incorrect. It is slated to be brought back for a vote in the near future.

The bill would make available for sale to the city, a stretch of property about 500 feet deep, fronting on Telegraph Road across from Pontiac Mall.

If passed, the state would then have the land appraised and offer it for sale to the city at the appraised price. The property already lies within the city limits.

OFFENSIVE IN LAOS — The solid arrow shows where Communist Pathet Lao forces have captured towns in Laos (underlined) on their current offensive. The shaded arrow shows a Red push the government fears may be made against the royal capital of Luang Prabang and the administrative capital, Vientiane.

Say Reds 20 Miles West of Royal Laotian Capital

TOKYO (AP) — Pro-Communist forces in Laos have seized a town on the Thailand border only 20 miles west of Luang Prabang, the royal Laotian capital, the Chinese Communist News Agency said today.

The reported capture of Tanoum, on the Mekong River 60 miles southeast of Houei Sai, added weight to royal government fears that the Reds were preparing an all-out attack on Luang Prabang and the administrative capital of Vientiane farther south.

The capture of Houei Sai was reported Friday, but later reports indicated the Reds still may be a few miles outside the town.

Quoting the rebel "Voice of Laos," the Chinese agency said royal Laotian troops abandoned Tanoum and fled presumably across the Mekong into pro-Western Laos.

The broadcast said royal Laotian units tried to recapture Nam Tha, provincial capital of north-west Laos but were eliminated Thursday.

The broadcast did not mention the situation at Houei Sai. In Vientiane, a government official said today he believed the rebels were in Laos but he did not know where they were.

The Reds were reported fleeing up bases at Muang Sing, 110 miles northwest of Luang Prabang, and at Van Vieng, 100 miles above Vientiane.

King Savang Vatthana appealed to Laotian leaders to try to solve the issue peacefully.

Kennedy Talks With Top Men on Laos Crisis

Aircraft Carrier Task Force From 7th Unit Is Said to Be Involved

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy was reported today to have ordered units of the U.S. 7th Fleet into the Southeast Asian area because of military advances of Communist-supported forces in Laos. The fleet is stationed in the western Pacific.

Kennedy held an urgent conference with his chief diplomatic and military policy makers today on the Laos crisis and possible moves to deal with the situation on both the diplomatic and military fronts.

Word spread in the capital, meanwhile, that Kennedy had already given the order for an aircraft carrier task force to move into the Southeast Asian area and be ready for further action.

Such action could include putting a battle group ashore in Thailand, informants here said, if U.S. ally wanted reinforcement troops moving over the border from Laos in their pursuit of retreating Lao government forces.

DIRECT ACTION

In official quarters here there was still talk of possible direct U.S. military intervention in Laos, although any such move would be taken reluctantly.

The rapid collapse of resistance by pro-Western Lao government troops in the northwestern part of the country indicated that even if American forces were sent in, they would have little base on which to build a new position.

The Communist troops now hold a little more than two-thirds of Laos by U.S. official estimate, and American-supplied Royal Lao government forces a little less than one-third.

The major objective of U.S. policy, officials said, still is to halt the fighting, restore the cease fire, and try to revive negotiations for a neutralist government.

For this political purpose, a re-appearance of substantial U.S. military strength in the area would be considered necessary.

Part of the 7th Fleet purpose, therefore, would be to make a demonstration of power as a way of showing Russia and Red China that the United States has interests and commitments in Southeast Asia which it intends to fulfill.

Tribute to Our 'Johnny Appleseed'

YUM! — Sixty years ago, the first apple trees were planted on the Old John Tillson Farm at 255 Applewood Lane, Bloomfield Township. Today, a township four-year-old, Pamela Hoofnagle of 300 Hickory Grove Road, munches away in a blossoming tribute to Oakland County's own Johnny Appleseed. The farm now is owned by Nicholas Klayo.

Con-Con Wrapped Up With Bitterness in Air

LANSING (AP) — A new constitution to replace Michigan's present 54-year-old document has been approved by a constitutional convention that began on a note of bipartisan harmony and ended in bitter political wrangling.

After seven months and some three million words of debate, delegates adopted the proposed new constitution Friday, 98-4. The vote followed mainly along party lines, with Democrats generally opposed.

Ballotage at the polls will be required before the product can become the basic law of the state.

Officials of the Democratic party—including the governor and powerful labor leaders have announced they probably will fight against adoption. A few rural area Republicans also indicated they were not happy over some provisions.

BALLOT QUESTION

There is even a dispute over whether the proposed document will be placed on the ballot next November or in April 1963.

Adopted at a cost of more than $2 million for delegate salaries and other expenses, the proposed new constitution included changes in every article of the present document.

The new constitution would re-arrange the State Senate after the 1970 census on a formula giving a weight of 80 per cent for population and 20 per cent for area. Democrats insisted the re-districting should be a strict population basis.

Other changes in the proposed document included establishment of a Court of Appeals, one step below the State Supreme Court; a ban on a graduated state income tax; lengthening the term of governor from two years to four; and switching four top state officers from elective to appointive status.

Democrats insisted that, although they agreed with many of the provisions in the new draft, the over-all package was objectionable and did not deserve support over the present 1908 constitution.

Emergency Declared in Congo Province

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (UPI) — Congo President Joseph Kasavubu today declared a state of emergency in Kivu Province following attempts there earlier this week to overthrow provincial President Jean Mihoro.

The provincial capital of Bukavu was reported calm despite the emergency regulations. A three-man extraordinary commission has taken over administration for the duration of the emergency.

Highlights of Constitution, Dem and Present Versions

LANSING (AP) — Here are the highlights of the new proposed constitution as compared with the Democratic version and the present 1908 document:

LEGISLATIVE APPOINTMENT (Convention) — Senate reapportionment after 1970, based on a formula giving an 80 per cent factor to population and 20 per cent to area. Four new senators would be added to the present 34, one each for Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Genesee counties.

HOUSE OF 110 MEMBERS, based on a population theory with any county or group of counties with 7 per cent of the state's population entitled to one seat, and others allocated on equal proportions.

(Democratic) — Both Senate and House districts within 15 per cent of each other in population totals.

(Present) — Specific Senate districts frozen into constitution; House of 110 members with 5 per cent of the population as the dividing line for qualifying for one seat (known as "meatiness").

CIVIL RIGHTS (Convention) — Creates a bipartisan civil rights commission, with the power to investigate cases of alleged discrimination due to race, religion, color or national origin.

(Democratic) — A stronger civil rights commission with broader powers.

(Present) — No provision.

TAXATION (Convention) — Bans a graduated state income tax; retains sales tax earmarking for schools but eliminates primary school fund; keeps 15-mill limitation of property taxes but allows 18-mill limit on local option basis; restricts assessments to 30 per cent of cash value.

(Democratic) — Allows a graduated state income tax; permits legislature to determine cash value assessment; eliminates 15-mill tax limitation; exempts food and drugs from sales taxes.

(Present) — Same as Democratic version.

JUDICIAL BRANCH (Convention) — Creates a new appellate court system; reduces number of Supreme Court justices from present eight to seven; eliminates justices of the peace within five years.

(Democratic) — Establishes a new appellate court system; increases number of Supreme Court justices to nine; abolishes justices of the peace in five years.

(Present) — No appellate court system; Supreme Court of eight justices; allows justices of the peace.

1. The first part of the document is a list of names and addresses, which appears to be a directory or a list of contacts. The names are written in a cursive script, and the addresses are listed below them. The list includes names such as "J. H. Smith", "W. J. Jones", and "A. B. Brown", among others. The addresses are also written in cursive and include street names and city names.

Grass Roots Experience Helps Amid Grass Huts

By JACK ENSOZZI
GILKANA, Kenya (UPI) — G. Mennen Williams may be unpopular with the peas of Africa, but the villagers of this tiny Kikuyu land village near Nyeri loved him.

I watched Williams prance about these natives in their traditional dress, shaking hands and bowing out "Jambo," which means greetings and "is the only Swahili word I know."

The rascally American diplomat was playing the typical friendly Yank. To most reporters present it seemed a very pleasant change from the traditional by-catch of the British colonial diplomat.

A British administration official smiled thinly in the background as Soapy was surrounded by local women who all wanted to send their children to his school — he had just opened a new secondary school in the district.

Suddenly, Williams bumped into a local politician. Equal to the occasion, Soapy grabbed his hand and roared, "Jambo."

"How about you and our Tom Mboya (Kenya labor minister) sharing a platform in New York?" asked the politico.

"What's Swahili for goodbye?" Williams asked a bystander, and was told "kwa heri."

"Kwa heri," beamed Soapy at the politician and dived for the open door of a waiting car which whisked him from Gilkani and across the rolling Kikuyu countryside, the Stars and Stripes flying from one fender and the cheers of the villagers ringing in his ears. In his baggage was a native spear and a fly whisk — gifts from the people of the district.

SAME OLD SOAPY

Williams, who uses the same technique in Africa that won him six straight terms as Michigan's governor, undoubtedly left a large residue of good will for himself and the United States in Gilkani, and the natives who covered his trip here. Most natives called him the Swahili equivalent of "a great guy."

A few of the natives may remember his official words: "America is dedicated to the proposition that an educated, well-informed, participating citizenry is absolutely essential for the functioning of a modern democratic society. We know how much the people of Kenya want to build such a society and . . . we are happy to cooperate."

But all will remember the afternoon ceremony in which Soapy received the spear and fly whisk — given by the people and presented in a surprise ceremony by an official of the Kenya African National Union (KANU), one of Kenya's two major political parties.

"We hope you will remember this time when we put down our traditional spear and fly whisk," a KANU official said, "until the time when we put down our traditional spear and fly whisk."

spears and take up education in hand. Handing over the fly whisk, a village elder explained, "This is traditionally given an old man for his leadership."

Crowning after the ceremony, Williams said he had not been taught how to use a spear, but he was told to use it to fight against misery, disease and poverty.

"I'll use it to prod my friends in the United States to remind them there is a tremendous job to do for human welfare."

He was cheered again when he brandished the glittering spear in the tropical sun, looked at the natives who have known so much violence, and said, "I shake some more hands."

Then he gave the school a $100 bill — enough to pay for the yearly education of three African students — waved his spear again and was off into the crowd, to shake some more hands.

Jailed for Cruelty to His Stepdaughter

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Rockford High School teacher-coach Larry Lindeman, 23, was sentenced to 18 months to 4 years in prison yesterday on his conviction of cruelty to his 2-year-old stepdaughter. The sentence by Circuit Court Judge John H. VanderWal denied a plea by defense counsel William G. Reardon to place Lindeman on probation in order that rehabilitation efforts could be made. Judge VanderWal commented, in handing down the sentence: "What I'm doing, I'm doing because it is so clear in my mind that I did not make a mistake. I don't know whether this little girl ever will forget this experience, but I hope she will. I want to give you time to think about what you did and I am convinced that what I am doing will do you some good."

Greenlease Officer Dies in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former Police Lt. Louis Shoulters, who arrested the kidnap killers of Bobby Greenlease in 1953 and then went to prison for perjury, died today of an apparent heart attack.

Shoulters was taken to Jewish Hospital and died about one-half hour later.

He was imprisoned for lying about handing of suitcases containing the ransom money. More than half of the $500,000 ransom never has been found.

JFK Pins Medals on Youngsters for 'Life Saving'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy pinned medals yesterday on five children, named heroes of the country's school safety patrol for lifesaving acts. In turn, he was given a button making his 4-year-old daughter Caroline an honorary captain of the patrol.

Caroline wasn't present for the ceremony in the White House garden but there was a distinguished visitor, Prime Minister Einar Gerhardsen of Norway.

"Stand here with me and observe the pleasure of this office," the President told the prime minister when they walked together into the garden.

It was a big moment in the lives of the children, dressed in their Sunday best and wearing their white safety patrol belts.

Oldest, Youngest Mothers Will Receive Recognition

Mothers will be honored at the Mother's Day service tomorrow at 10 a.m. in the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church. Special recognition will be given to the oldest and youngest mothers present and also the mother with the largest family in attendance.

The pastor, the Rev. Theo. R. Allison, will preach on "The Honor Due to Motherhood."

One hundred per cent attendance is the goal in all Sunday School classes tomorrow. Since the first of March there have been 57 times when classes have made the goal. The Junior high and Senior high young people will hear Jack Daniels of Youth For Christ International.

Youth Groups meet at 5:45 p.m. with Pioneers having a meeting entitled "Must I Obey?" The program for Builders is "Just Don't Sit There."

Tomorrow at 7 p.m. the pastor will begin a series of messages from the book of Ephesians.

The pastor asks that people bring their Bibles to all church services because he believes people can better follow the theme of the messages.

Special music will be given by the Junior High Ensemble and R. G. Critch.

THE PRAYER of Parents Seeks Help With Children
Great Parent of mankind, help me in my divine task of parenthood. Help me to see my children's problems through their eyes; keep ever before me my own childhood so that I will not expect too much. Give me the patience of the silent stars; give me a sense of humor; help me to win them through love instead of compelling them through fear. Help me to teach them to see straight and to play the game according to the rules; help me to teach them that every home is an altar and that every wish is a prayer. Help me to live my own life above doubt and skepticism; help me to radiate faith in the basic goodness of life; help me to keep the ideals of youth aglow in my own life. Give me the strong hand of guidance when youth falters and would turn back; help me to teach them to live bravely and to meet defeat courageously. Help me to teach them that a man's real character is what he is when he is alone with himself in the dark; help me to teach them that the value of their lives will be measured by the service they give. Help me to teach them that true happiness is found, not in things, but in the unfolding of their minds and their souls; help me to make my life go on in theirs, bigger, finer, nobler, than I ever dared to be. —Author unknown

Troy Methodists to Hold Ground-Breaking Service

TROY—The Troy Methodist Church will break ground for its new building in a special ceremony Saturday at 3 p.m. at the new site, 6333 Livernois Road, between Square Lake Road and South Boulevard.

This program was made possible by the completion of a successful fund-raising campaign. The total cost of the project, including furnishings, is approximately $15,000. Included in the plans for the first unit are the sanctuary, narthex, fellowship hall, kitchen, classroom and office space.

The Troy Methodist Church was organized in 1827. Since 1882 the members of the congregation have been worshipping in their present building at 50 East Square Lake Road.

Church pastor is Rev. Ralph W. Jenks.

Boys and Girls to Sing Sunday

Rev. F. William Palmer Preaching on Elizabeth, a Mother in the Bible
For his Mother's Day meditation Rev. F. William Palmer will speak on "Elizabeth, a Mother Righteous Before God" at the 11:15 Sunday morning service in the United Presbyterian Church, Auburn Heights.

The combined Chapel and Crusader Chorus made up of boys and girls from third through ninth grades, will sing under the direction of Mrs. Milton Patrick. This will be their final appearance for the season.

Playing its first game of the season will be the church softball team under the coaching of Robert Gramuske Monday.

The annual Mother-Daughter banquet for Mothers and girls of the community will be held at 6:30 p.m. Thursday. Mrs. John Devereaux will have charge of the program following the smorgasbord dinner.

Delegates to the Department of Michigan Blue Star Mothers convention June 24 in Lansing will be Mrs. Ethel Dennis and Mrs. James Dando, as announced at a meeting in the Young Men's Christian Association club rooms.

Planning Banquet

The Nebe Social Club is completing plans for the summer banquet in July at the Hawthall Gardens, near Holly.

Mrs. Helen M. Wallis of Dwight Avenue was hostess with cohostesses, Mrs. Gerald Mahrie and Mrs. John Salisky.

The June 12 meeting will be in the Milford home of Mrs. Arthur Witt.

Xi Beta Beta Sets Social

Xi Beta Beta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will hold its next social meeting and installation of officers for the coming term May 22 at the home of Mrs. Thomas Ogden.

The May business meeting was directed by Mrs. John Whitehead, president, who introduced the program for the evening.

Speakers on the program were Mrs. Ida Mae Fraser, Mrs. Francis Colson, Mrs. Ogden, Mrs. Fred Rigotti and Mrs. H. G. Richardson. The program was the group's last of the season.

Permanent Care

(NEA) — Don't fall into the error of believing that a permanent wave entitles you to ignore your hair styling for its duration.

May Fete Queen at Kalamazoo Is Waterford Girl

Kalamazoo College senior Carol Kratt, daughter of the William P. Kratts, Foley Street, Waterford, has been crowned May Fete Queen by Dr. Weimar K. Hicks, college president.

The queen and her court, selected by women of the college for outstanding contributions to campus activities, will be honored at the school's annual May Fete dance today.

President of her dormitory, Miss Kratt studied last summer at University of Bonn, Germany, under a Light Scholarship.

She has been in the college choir for three years, played on the university's girls' field hockey team for four years and has participated in track festivals for two years. Her major is history in the college of education.

State Society Sets Showing of Cancer Film

In response to popular demand, the Michigan Cancer Foundation, an agency of the Pontiac Area United Fund, will sponsor a special showing of the new life-saving film "A Breath of Fresh Air."

This deals with the technique of breast self-examination for protecting women against breast cancer.

This program, scheduled especially for working women of Oakland County, will be offered Monday at 8 p.m. in Pontiac Northern High School.

A medical doctor will be present to answer questions. Admission is free. The program is open to women only.

Club 20 Schedules Coiffure Contest

Club 20 will meet June 12 for its monthly gathering.

Some 14 members were present for the group's meeting at which time arrangements were made for a "hair styling contest" and a "roving basket."

The treasurer then directed a "silent auction" which brought the club some $11 dollars.

Mrs. Leonard Thomas hostess served a lunch.

Pontiac General Honors 2 Long-Time Workers

Mrs. Max A. Miller and Miss Irene Barnes had an edge on Pontiac General Hospital employees when they were honored at the hospital's eighth annual recognition and award dinner Tuesday evening.

Between them, the two have more years' service to the hospital than the hospital has history.

Mrs. Miller, who retired six weeks ago, completed 20 years at the hospital this year. She was supervisor of the social service department.

Miss Barnes, a nurse, was honored guest. She was given a bouquet of roses in recognition of 38 years at the hospital.

They topped a list of 32 employees who received service awards from Harold B. Euler, administrator.

The dinner, held at Devon Gardens in Bloomfield Township, was attended by some 100 employees, guests, administrators and trustees. Harold A. Goldberg, chairman of the board of trustees, was master of ceremonies.

Featured speaker was board member Rev. Theodore R. Allen. Mayor Robert Landry praised the employees for their contribution to the hospital.

Take to the Tub

A bath isn't a cure-all for all back trouble, but when you suffer from any muscle strain, take to the tub. Much ease and much comfort can be had in a tub full of relaxing, warm soapsuds.

The group meets at 8 p.m. every first and third Thursday of the month at the downtown Detroit Young Men's Christian Association. Open discussion and refreshments follow the meetings. A small donation is asked of members.

The year will close with a picnic at the home of Mrs. Kruger on Homestead Drive, Waterford Township.

Make Fair Photo Check List to Avoid Missing Highlights

AP Newsfeatures

The nation's newest photo scenic attraction, is the Seattle World's Fair. We would guess that more people will bring more cameras and shoot more pictures there in its six-month season than in any similar season in the world for a similar period.

What a shame if those pictures fail to capture the color, excitement and spectacular displays to supplement the personal story of a Fair-goer's visit!

While that may happen to the casual camera taker, it will not happen to the real photo fans.

Well... it won't, at least. If the genuine camera fan happens to stumble on this or a plans in advance to shoot a comprehensive picture story of the occasion.

As with any off-beat vacation trip, why not make this a personal photo "assignment" and prepare a preliminary script or check list of important highlights to be included?

BETTER VANTAGE POINT

But, I am informed by scouts on the scene perhaps even a better vantage point for an overall view is the northeast elevator going up and down from the Needle. It has glass walls and the vertical motion of the elevator can easily be stopped with a speed of 1/100 second and a firm grip on the camera.

A Photo Information Center near the base of the Needle and just across from the monorail station where people arrive from downtown Seattle is a handy meeting place or starting point for camera fans.

It is headed by Charles Whaley Jr. (of Kodak) whose past experience includes camera advice at such tourist centers as Disneyland, New York's Grand Central Terminal and the Dallas attraction, Six Flags over Texas.

The staff advises on all exposure problems, suggests the best picture subjects and even helps visitors load their cameras.

Guido Appears on His Way Out

Argentine Government Shaky as Key Figures Seen Ready to Resign

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—President Jose M. Guido's provisional government appeared to be tottering today despite assurances of military support.

Jose M. Raggio, who returned here from the United States to become Guido's communications secretary, decided on his arrival that he didn't want the job.

There also were persistent reports that such key government figures as Foreign Minister Bonifacio del Carril, Interior Minister Jorge W. Perkins, Navy Secretary Gaston Clement and Education Minister Miguel Susini Jr. were either about to resign or be replaced.

All of those concerned denied planning to quit, but Del Carril in particular was known to be opposed by some Argentine political elements because of his strongly pro-American policies.

War Secretary Juan B. Loza declared in a general order last night the army "will firmly support the present government."

"The army will use all means to prevent a dictatorship..." Loza said. "Avoidance of dictatorship is the only way to preserve republican institutions and channel the nation into the free play of democracy."
