

Romney Reports Big State Gains

LBJ Eyes Plan for Fast Transit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson plans to propose a high-speed transportation program that could lead to Americans rocketing between cities on cushions of air, through tubes or on electronically guided cars within 15 years.

High administration sources said an immediate result could be the fastest East Coast rail service in history in 1965.

These sources said Johnson probably will unveil the three-year research and test program in his state of the union message to Congress next Monday.

The long-range program will call for an initial $20 million outlay in the first year, a figure reported to have been approved by Johnson in his forthcoming budget.

If Congress approves that amount, $10 million would be spent for research and development of new ground transportation systems, $8 million for demonstration projects and $2 million for statistical studies.

One purpose of the studies will be to determine whether Americans actually want to travel at a speed of 200 miles an hour on the ground, or whether they would fear such fast rail travel.

While the research and development program is designed to solve nagging inter-city transportation problems between such municipalities as Boston and Washington, administration officials said the results would be used nationwide.

LONG RANGE AFFAIR
The research aspect of the program is a long-range affair — looking ahead to 1980. The demonstration project could take place next year.

Waterford Man Raps Contractor, Inspection

A resident's allegation that one of the water main contractors in Waterford Township was doing an incompetent job resulted last night in the Township Board requesting a full investigation of the contractor's performance.

F. L. Currey of 2540 Silver-side alleged that Schwab Brothers Co. of Buffalo, N. Y., was not using sufficient sand fill where the main is laid and that cleanup work following main laying is dragging.

"You're paying for a first class job," Currey, a retired Consumers Power Co. superintendent of new business, told board members. "But you're not getting it."

Currey cited at least five residences in his neighborhood where access to the driveway is cut off because of insufficient impaction where main was laid. After the fill settled, depressions or ruts of a foot to 18 inches were reported by some residents.

IMPROPER FILLING
He pointed out that there was indication of improper filling along Dixie.

Currey requested the Township Board take formal action to correct the matter. He said he realized the County DPW was inspecting the job and that the township had no direct control over it. Currey also termed the inspection incompetent.

Kenneth Squires, superintendent of the township's water department, said his office has received several complaints on the Schwab operation, particularly on cleanup. These have been referred to DPW inspectors.

SAND BEDDING

According to Squires, specifications on fill call for four inches of sand bedding under new water main and one foot of impacted sand over the main.

EMPTY MONEY TRUCK — A Brink's truck was left abandoned in the Chicago suburb of Norridge, last night after three masked gunmen captured it when the truck made a pickup at Divine Savior Church. The bandits bound two priests and a guard before driving away with the truck and looting it. An undetermined amount, collected during the day from stores and churches, was taken.

Second Money Truck Looted of $223,000 at Church Stop

CHICAGO (AP) — Brink's Inc., estimated today that the company lost $223,000 to three robbers who overpowered two guards and two Roman Catholic priests in a church rectory.

The robbery at Divine Savior Church yesterday was a virtual replay of last week's half-million-dollar holdup at a church in Paterson, N.J.

A. S. Genet, president of Brink's, and Donald Hoagland, vice president, said in a joint statement the loss was "only an estimate" and that a more accurate figure will be available tomorrow.

Hoagland said "a very large portion of the loss was in checks — probably recoverable." He would not estimate how much of the loss was in cash. The funds were insured, he said.

The gunmen invaded the church rectory in suburban Norridge, on Chicago's northwest edge, tied up two priests and awaited the arrival of the Brink's truck, making its rounds of customer collections.

GUARD AMBUSHED

When the truck arrived, the robbers ambushed a guard, slugged him and tied him up and drove the truck away.

The gunmen wore Halloween masks and a ski hood.

After they tied up the guard and priests in the rectory, one of them removed the guard's jacket, donned it and, averting his face, gained entry to the locked truck from the unsuspecting Brink's driver.

Inside the gunman took over the vehicle and let in an accomplice. They held the driver at gun-point while driving away from the rectory as the third man followed in the car.

In the Paterson robbery, three gunmen wearing Halloween masks robbed a bank truck while it was picking up the Sunday collection at St. Anthony's Catholic church. The bandits unloaded a bank truck containing $121,000 after binding four priests, a janitor, and the two bank truck guards who entered the rectory to pick up the collection money.

Tax Collections Taken

Rob Buffalo City Office

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Two gunmen strolled into the city treasurer's office today, slugged the treasurer and escaped with $299,130 in tax-collection money. Only $16,245 was in cash.

A Brink's truck was to have picked up the Buffalo money a half hour after the gunmen, described as white and in their 30s, entered the office of City Treasurer Melvin W. Elliott at about 9:30 a.m., EST.

Mrs. Mae D. Wicks, chief teller and a city employee for 28 years, said one walked to her cage, pointed a revolver at her and said:

"This is no bull, I want the (money) bag."

She was putting $282,885 in checks, written to the city treasurer and nonnegotiable, and the cash into a bag.

PUSHES ALARM

"I just dropped under the counter and pushed the alarm, and I stayed there until the rest of the girls came to my cage."

Elliott, meanwhile, walked up to the cage, unaware that the holdup was in progress.

One man, he said, struck him on the left side of the head.

"I went to one knee," Elliott said. "Then he vaulted the top of the cage, grabbed the bag with Monday's receipts and then jumped back."

Progress Cited in Economic, Fiscal Areas

'Have Lifted Michigan Back to Its Former Place of Prominence'

LANSING (AP) — "Our tremendous strides in fiscal soundness, economic growth and the creation of new jobs," were highlighted by Gov. George Romney yesterday as he issued a 1964 Michigan progress report.

"A record number of people are working, unemployment is the lowest in many years, improvement in personal income tops the nation, investment in plant and business expansions is the greatest in the state's history, fiscal integrity has been restored," the governor declared.

Romney continued:

"We have made tremendous strides in reducing longtime public service deficiencies in meeting people's needs in education, mental and physical health, problems of youth and senior citizens, working standards, welfare programs, and many other areas."

"And we have raised Michigan back to its former place of prominence among the states," he added.

"An area for which no accomplishment is claimed," said Romney, "was legislative redistricting, the gerrymander system imposed by the courts in contradiction to the new State Constitution."

EXCERPTS

Excerpts from Romney's itemized report:

• Economic growth: Total personal income in the first nine months of 1964 grew 9.2 per cent over the same period in 1963, ranking Michigan behind only the resort states of Florida and Nevada.

Economists estimate continuance of this rate would produce a $1.9 billion increase over 1963-$236 a person.

In addition, Romney said, "Michigan has seen some $90 million more in announced business and industrial construction than two years ago."

STATE EDUCATION
• Education: "Support of our 10 state colleges and universities was increased by $21 million, single-year increase in Michigan's history, with an additional $31 million provided for

'Where Do We Go From Here'

Scrap Yard Feud Gets Bitter

A long-standing feud between the City Commission, owners of the Sam Allen & Son, Inc., scrap yard at 22 Congress, and residents in the scrap yard area is growing more bitter as 1964 dwindles into 1965.

"Where do we go from here?" was a question asked today by Mrs. Robert Gilbert of the D. E. Pursley Funeral Home as she told of the efforts she and her neighbors have made toward eliminating the nuisance in their area.

The controversy began last summer when an auto-body crushing machine was installed at the scrap yard. Neighbors for blocks around are disturbed by the smoke and noise when the machine is in operation.

But it continues to operate — sometimes 24 hours a day, according to Mrs. Gilbert. "We've called the police, the fire department, the mayor, the city attorney, the Chamber of Commerce and everyone else we think might be able to do something about it," said Mrs. Gilbert. "Nothing has been done."

claim is in violation of several city ordinances.

MADE PROTESTS

Varying numbers of the petitioners have appeared at nearly every commission meeting since the machine was installed to protest its operation.

"But it continues to operate — sometimes 24 hours a day, according to Mrs. Gilbert.

"We've called the police, the fire department, the mayor, the city attorney, the Chamber of Commerce and everyone else we think might be able to do something about it," said Mrs. Gilbert. "Nothing has been done."

The Pursley Funeral Home is about 100 yards from the machine and the huge cranes which feed auto bodies into it.

"We can't sleep when it's running at night," Mrs. Gilbert said. "You can hardly carry on a conversation in our parking lot."

Mrs. Gilbert and several of her neighbors have retained Attorney Paul M. Mandel to help them goad the City Commission into action.

"We can't stand the expense of taking this matter into court," Mrs. Gilbert explained, "and we shouldn't have to. It's the city's job to take it there, not ours."

SAID ILLEGAL

City Manager Joseph A. Warren has told the commission that the scrap yard operation is illegal according to existing zoning ordinances and recommended that it be stopped.

The scrap yard owners built a "round-roffing" structure around the crushing machine but this does not stop the noise of the cranes dropping the bodies into piles and loading them into boxcars.

Campaign Violation by Dems Is Reported

LANSING (P) — The state's Fair Campaign Practices Commission has found the Democratic State Central Committee "guilty of an unfair practice" in the 1964 gubernatorial campaign. Gov. George Romney said today.

He said the practice was distribution of a pamphlet which accused him of opposing equal opportunities in housing.

Romney said "hundreds of thousands" of copies of the pamphlet not only violated fair campaign practices but also a bipartisan agreement not to make civil rights a partisan issue.

The commission told Democratic State Chairman Zolton Perency of its findings in a letter dated Dec. 15.

Romney personally filed a complaint with the commission shortly after the election.

CONTENT, TIMING

The commission said it considered both the content and the timing of the pamphlet in reaching its decision.

There is no provision for punishment for violation of the commission's code of fair campaign practices.

Romney, asked if he considered the pamphlet a smear, said, "It was a distortion."

Quotes attributed to the governor were made from a speech he made to an open state meeting of the Michigan Real Estate Association in September.

Perency said the central committee had prepared the pamphlet but said he had not seen the Dec. 15 letter from the commission.

with representatives of the Pennsylvania Railroad and New Haven Railroad about participation in the demonstration project. One official described the talks as "very encouraging."

It was understood the demonstration project would include 100-mile-an-hour electrical rail service between Washington and New York, possibly as far as New Haven, Conn.

The experiment would cut the traveling time between New York and Washington to less than three hours, compared to the four hours or more it now takes for the 250-mile train trip.

TO MAKE SURVEYS

There would be statistical surveys made to find out if passengers would ride trains if they are fast, clean, on time and frequent.

The administration's program is an outgrowth of a proposal made in 1963 by Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., for an eight-stage compact to develop high-speed rail service between Boston and Washington.

The Johnson approach is the most concerted attack so far on the transportation problem. Massachusetts Institute of Technology is working under a $500,000 Commerce Department research contract trying to look ahead to the most feasible high-speed transportation system for the Eastern region.

One government official said many people are mistaken in the belief that this is just a rail program. "It isn't," he said. "Slender study are numerous ground systems, including exotic plans such as air cushion travel, guided ground systems and tubular transportation."

Airport Report Tops Agenda

A report on Pontiac Municipal Airport by City Manager Joseph A. Warren heads tonight's agenda for the City Commission.

Warren will present a written report on the city's interest in acquiring the city airport.

Periodically, negotiations have been conducted between members of county government and the city as to the city transferring or selling the facility.

Warren is slated to report that Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the County Board of Auditors, visited last week with a set of questions on the airport.

Murphy was delegated by a special county aviation committee to seek the commission's feeling toward turning the airport over to the county.

PRICE FIGURE

The questions concern a price figure that the city would place on the facility, an income-compensate tally and the commission's readiness to sell.

In other business the commission is expected to pass on a proposal to extend Edward C. Bloch's retirement date 90 days.

Bloch, city assessor, is slated to retire Feb. 13 and has already received two extensions as allowed by the General City Employees Retirement Board of Trustees.

Waterford Adopts Law for System

Waterford Township Board members last night adopted an ordinance pertaining to the operation of the township's central water system.

Besides providing for management procedures, the ordinance also specifies rates and establishes rules and regulations governing the system.

The Township Board reviewed language of the township's first proposed ordinance at a special meeting three weeks ago.

In other business the board opened bids on two cars for the building department and referred them to the clerk and a building department superintendent for study.

Bill Spence Inc., with a bid of $3,871, was the lower of two bidders. Proposals included trade-in of used building department cars.

TEMPORARY PERMIT

The board approved a dance permit for New Year's Eve only for Mitch's Tavern, 4000 Cass Elizabeth.

The action is subject to approval of the township's fire and police departments and the Liquor Control Commission.

In other business the board rescinded a resolution passed last week calling for bids on gasoline for township vehicles.

An examination of the present gasoline contract revealed that it continues through 1965 so bids will not be required until next December.

Rail Union Calls Strike Against Southern Line

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers called a surprise strike today against the 14-state operations of the Southern Railway System.

Union spokesmen claimed several hours after the strike began at 6 a.m. (EST) that the walk-out was 75 per cent effective and would shut down virtually all Southern operations by noon.

The strike, in a dispute over the operation of some trains without firemen, caught government officials by surprise.

"We just heard about it," said a spokesman for the National Mediation Board, which handles railroad labor disputes. He declined to speculate whether the government would intervene.

A spokesman for the Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said he had no plans to step in immediately.

WITHOUT NOTICE

D. W. Brosnan, president of the railroads, said the strike was called without notice, apparently because "Southern is operating freight and yard engines without firemen only when no firemen are available."

Brosnan said Southern has notified all its firemen, that none would be eliminated except by promotion, retirement or dismissal for cause.

"The union is apparently striking because Southern is not hiring new men as firemen," Brosnan said.

He called the strike illegal but no court action was announced immediately.

WITHOUT FIREMEN

J. W. Jennings, vice president of the AFL-CIO union said the railroad started running some engines without firemen last Saturday despite an agreement to meet Jan. 13 to negotiate the issue.

Jennings said operating law without fear or favor and put an end to a long history of special interest government in Michigan.

I think No. 2 has been the recognition that you can't really meet the needs of the people adequately without recognizing your obligations and commitments in meeting them. We have made use of all the means available to meet our obligations, to put ourselves back on a solid financial basis.

We have adopted a program based on solid fundamentals of undertaking to increase personal responsibility and local responsibility and to meet our social responsibility.

We have adopted a policy of making our state attractive to those doing business here. We have used our strengthened economic and fiscal situation to begin to overcome deficiencies that have built up in important public service areas over a period of time. I refer to the fields of education, mental health, traffic safety and many of the other fields.

Recount Verifies Election Win of Area Supervisor

Pontiac Township Supervisor Leonard Terry's 39-vote winning margin in the Nov. 3 election was confirmed today following a recount.

The recount was conducted this morning by the Oakland County Board of Canvassers on the request of Mont D. Bodman, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for the post.

Bodman challenged Terry's final tally after losing by a vote of 1,350 to 1,389. He asked that only three of the township's six precincts be recounted.

State and local government: The general election included selection of our new Appellate Court and our revamped State Board of Education under the new constitution.

"We also declared a temporary moratorium on new taxing privileges of local government pending development of a sound, statewide approach."

unanimously by the board will cite the fact that several complaints have been received and ask that a full investigation be made of the Schwab operation.

The resolution will be directed to the DPW and a copy will be sent to the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

Though critical of the Schwab contracting and inspection on the $7.5-million water system, Currey said the engineering job on the project is excellent.

The DPW is acting as agent for the township on the project that will interconnect the present 10 separate water systems.

Leonard Kapitz, Schwab Brothers vice president and superintendent of the Waterford Township project, said today the job is being performed according to specifications.

Kapitz acknowledged the possibility of isolated cases of roots on dirt or gravel roads but said generally the surfaces where main has been laid is in better condition now than before the project began.

His firm will perform a final cleanup in the spring when the job is completed, Kapitz said. This will include seeding and sodding in some areas.

Romney Reviews First Years in Office

LANSING (AP) — Restoration of confidence in Michigan is the No. 1 accomplishment of his first administration, Gov. George Romney declared Monday.

In a 40-minute private interview with the Associated Press, Romney summed up his first two years in office and looked forward to the next two, which begin Friday with his second inauguration.

Excerpts from the interview text:

Q. What one accomplishment would you list first in your first term?

A. The biggest thing that's happened is that the confidence in the state has been restored. As a result we got to make real progress again. I think there is an excellent degree of confidence in the state at this point. We should do the things necessary to retain it.

I think perhaps the No. 1 thing that has brought out a change in attitude is evidence that this is an administration that is determined to apply the their capital expenditures, including starts on 20 new facilities.

"The first state scholarship program was adopted and is already benefiting 1,200 students. While the student loan program was improved.

"Elementary and secondary education was allotted a single year hike of $26 million in state school aid, which included revision of the per pupil gross allowance from $24 to $26.50."

● Mental health: "This year's appropriation was boosted another $4.3 million, including $1.5 million more to move into full swing the community mental health services program and $1.3 million to further improve the program for care of retarded children.

NEW BEDS

Funds were provided which will furnish 930 new beds for the retarded as well as plan for the future in west central Michigan."

● Social welfare: "Michigan became qualified in 1964 to participate in the federal program of aid to dependent children of the unemployed, resulting in the transfer of needy parents and children out of direct relief at higher average monthly benefit levels."

"Old age assistance recipients saw their monthly maximum convalescent home benefits increased from $90 to $140 and those in their own homes were boosted from $60 to $90."

"Under the Medical Assistance for the Aged Act, we increased allowable income levels to permit an estimated 22,000 additional needy senior citizens to qualify."

COUNCIL CREATED

● Human resources: Romney cited creation of a human resources council to help "pool help for our underprivileged."

"One major target of anti-poverty programs are our youth. We have taken several sizable steps toward making them more employable."

"For detention and correction of wayward youth, we have opened 300 more beds at Boys Training School and will have more early next year, started an extensive halfway house program, expanded our youth rehabilitation camps, and added beds at Girls Training School."

● Labor: "A highlight in this year was passage of the long-needed minimum wage law. . . . a constructive study of our antiquated workmen's compensation program will soon bear fruit, providing a foundation for improvements next year."

"As governor it was necessary for me to play an essential role in resolving two major labor disputes — the Essex Wire Corp. strike at Hillsdale last summer and the Detroit newspaper strike this fall."

● State and local government: "The general election included selection of our new Appellate Court and our revamped State Board of Education under the new constitution."

"We also declared a temporary moratorium on new taxing privileges of local government pending development of a sound, statewide approach."

Farrell Roberts Files for 14th District Seat

Sen. Farrell E. Roberts yesterday filed in Lansing for the special election called to fill the 14th District vacancy caused by the death of Sen. elect Paul Chandler, R-Livonia.

Roberts, 42, of West Bloomfield Township gave up his own seat to run unsuccessfully for the Court of Appeals. He is the first Republican to file for Chandler's seat.

Pontiac Bank Elects Director

Milo J. Cross, president of Pontiac State Bank, announced today that James A. Corwin, 170 Marlborough, Bloomfield Hills, has been elected to the bank's board of directors.

Corwin, 57, attended Pontiac public schools, Albion College and Babson Institute.

He entered the Corwin Lumber and Coal business in 1939 with his father, who had operated the business for many years on Cass Avenue.

Corwin operated it after his father's death until 1963, when the property was taken over by the city's urban-renewal program.

He has been active in civic affairs and is presently a director of the Pontiac YMCA, the Pontiac Community Finance Co. and the Pontiac Community Loan Co. He is also president of the Oxford Lumber Co.

Corwin is married and has a daughter and son.

Commission Meeting Last for City Manager

BIRMINGHAM (P) — After 10 years as the city's chief administrator, L. R. Gare attended his last City Commission meeting yesterday before retiring Jan. 1.

Mayor Charles Renfrew praised Gare, saying, "He has contributed tremendously to the development of the city."

Prior to becoming city manager, Gare, 61, served as director of public works and as city engineer for five years.

He announced his plans to retire last October.

"The city of Birmingham has been a pleasure working with officials these last 10 years," Gare told commissioners last night.

'COULD SHAKE HANDS'

"There have been differences but afterward you could go up and shake hands with friends."

"The people should appreciate those they have governing."

Succeeding Gare as city manager will be Robert S. Kenning, present assistant city manager and a municipal employee since 1950.

In other business, the commission authorized the city's participation in an engineering study designed to eliminate odors caused by an overflow from the Bloomfield drain.

CITY'S SHARE

The city's share of the cost of the report is estimated at between $700 and $800, with the remainder to be paid by Bloomfield Township and Bloomfield Hills.

The problem centers in a ditch extending from the east side of Cranbrook immediately north of 14 Mile Road to the Nixon Pond.

The Birmingham firm of Hubbell, Roth & Clark will undertake the $1,800 study.

Because of the increased work load encountered by the city's legal counsel, Howlett, Hartman & Beier, Pontiac, the commission approved an additional $1,750 for the firm.

The appropriation covers the months December 1964 through June 1965.

The firm has been receiving an annual fee of $8,500.

The administration, on the suggestion of Mayor Renfrew, also will prepare a report on the feasibility of hiring a full-time attorney.

"The commission should give consideration to a full-time city attorney because of the large amount of work involved with a growing city," said Renfrew.

A request for the closing of Ridgedale Avenue and a petition to rezone property on Purdy Street between Frank and Brown for an office complex were referred to the plan board for study.

U.S. Sets Egypt Aid Despite Nasser Railing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only five days after Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser had told America in effect to take its aid and "go to hell," the United States is going through with plans to provide him with $16,994,000 worth of surplus wheat. The Agriculture Department issued an authorization Monday for the purchase of that amount of wheat under the Food-for-Peace program.

The department will pay cash for the wheat in the open market, and Egypt will pay for the grain in its own currency, a part of which will be spent in the United Arab Republic.

Although arrangements for the transaction had been made some time ago, the United States still could have stopped the deal after Nasser's speech of last week.

ECONOMIC PRESSURE
He accused U.S. Ambassador Lucius Battle of trying to put economic pressure on Egypt and told a cheering crowd in Port Said: "Anyone who does not like our attitude can drink from the sea. And if the Mediterranean is not big enough, we will give him the Red Sea to drink, too."

In Egyptian slang, to "drink from the sea" is the equivalent of to "go to hell."

His outburst apparently was triggered by U.S. accusations that he is aiding Congolese rebels and intimations that future aid deals would be curtailed because of this.

Nasser said in his speech: "We have sent arms to the Congolese rebels, and we will continue to send arms because the rebels need them."

CUT OFF TONGUE
"We do not accept any words against us, and we will cut off the tongue of anyone who uses them. We do not need their money."

Washington has been supplying Nasser with about $140 million in food yearly under a three-year agreement that expires next June 30. The Nasser government has asked for $35 million worth for the coming year because of a serious shortage.

Some U.S. officials have indicated that the new $35-million request will be shelved.

Report Bomb Probe Quashed

MANILA (UPI) — President Diosdado Macapagal was reported today to have quashed an investigation into a bombing attempt on an American primary school here. A presidential spokesman denied the report.

A high explosive mortar shell was lobbed into the yard of a U.S. Air Force primary school at Clark Air Force Base, according to the U.S. Embassy. The shell did not explode.

Eller Torres, public prosecutor in Angeles City, adjacent to the U.S. air base, told the Philippine news service he had been ordered by President Diosdado Macapagal to put off his investigation for an indefinite period.

The president's press office, however, said the report was "absolutely untrue."

Press Secretary Virgilio Reyes said Macapagal is not taking any direct hand in the investigation of recent incidents at American military bases in the Philippines because he has already appointed Justice Secretary Salvador Marnio to look into the situation.

MOUNTING UNREST
Recent incidents, including the fatal shooting of two Filipino trespassers by U.S. sentries, have set off mounting agitation here.

At a demonstration in Angeles Sunday, some 3,000 Filipinos waved anti-American placards and shouted for the recall of "ugly Americans."

Summoned for the hearing scheduled for today were Col. Joseph Friedman, director of information of the U.S. 13th Air Force; Col. W. C. Nutting, Clark Field provost marshal, and Victorio Doria, Filipino guard at the base's primary school.

American officials said Doria was on duty when the shell-hurling incident took place Dec. 17.

Doria reported seeing two Filipinos fleeing from the scene after throwing the mortar shell over the base fence into the school yard.

No Primaries Required in 3

Candidates File in Four Villages

In at least three of the four villages where candidates for office filed nominating petitions by 4 p.m. deadlines yesterday, no primaries are slated because of lack of intraparty competition for each open post.

Incumbents and others interested in running for office in the March 8 general elections turned petitions in to the village clerks in Romeo, Holly, Lake Orion and Oxford.

In each village no more than two from any party filed for a single vacancy thereby eliminating the need for a primary — and in most cases incumbents are seeking reelection to present posts.

*Romeo, however, is the only village yet undecided about a primary with six having filed for the three trustee vacancies. A council ruling will be sought.

A roundup of those who filed

Oxford

A total of five persons, including two incumbents, turned in petitions for three council seats which will become open.

The incumbents are Homer Night, ending a one-year term, and Edmund Unger, winding up a two-year stint.

The holder of the third seat, Gerald Olrich, has announced that he would not run for reelection.

Lake Orion

With seven positions to be vacant here, nine candidates submitted nominating petitions.

No competition developed within either the Citizens or Village parties for any spot, however, and a primary is therefore unnecessary.

Incumbent Village President William V. Shoup (V) filed, as did Citizens party member Clarence Rossman, both for the presidency.

Rossman of 543 Atwater made an unsuccessful bid for the Orion Township supervisor spot in the November election.

SAME SLATE

Clerk Mary Parkinson and treasurer Geraldine J. Campbell also filed for reelection, both on the Citizens party slate.

The assessor position now held by Orion Township Treasurer-elect Mrs. Myrtle Longpre (C) attracted the interest of one petitioner, Robert Swen (C) of 459 North Shore.

Three two-year trustee positions open are being sought by two incumbents and two other candidates.

Incumbents Stewart Drahner (V) and Michael LaMagna (V) filed for reelection, while former Orion Township Trustee William D. O'Brien (V) of 15 Bellevue and Richard Goebel (C) of 272 Lakeview also submitted petitions.

The holder of the third open seat, Robert Hauxwell (C), did not file.

Romeo

With three incumbents and three other men, all Republicans, filing petitions for the three open trusteeships, the necessity of a primary election here is not known.

Village Clerk Norman Engel said that the council will have to decide whether to have a primary.

Two men have filed petitions for the village presidency now held by Edgar Welsch, who has announced that he will not run for reelection.

SEEKING REELECTION

Incumbents filing for reelection were clerk Engel, treasurer Mrs. Elaine Hosmer, and trustees Stanley Holmes, Howard Pallister and Marvin Sie-weke.

Jack McFadden of 221 Craswell, Merlin J. Kerr of 153 Crowell and Donald R. Mosher of 439 Benjamin have filed for the trustee positions.

Ernest Maule of 421 N. Bailey filed for clerk and Mrs. Bonnie Kost of 421 N. Bailey for one of the two library trustee spots open.

Incumbent library Trustees Mrs. Elizabeth Spencer and Mrs. Helen Davidson did not file petitions. Neither did incumbent assessor Fred Ebeling.

The council trustees serve for two years, library trustees for three.

Holly

With only the seven incumbents filing nominating petitions here, there will be no primary election before the general election March 8.

All present officeholders are Union party members.

Seeking one-year terms are Village President John F. Oldani, Clerk Betty Oliver, Treasurer Hulda Anderson and Assessor Grant H. Hulet.

GEORGE GOBLE

New Officers Inducted by Area Kiwanis

ROCHESTER—A new slate of officers for 1965 was inducted last night at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Rochester at Bebout's Restaurant.

New president is George H. Goble, 5621 Orion, Oakland Township.

He replaces Herbert Stoutenburg who remains an officer of the club as immediate past president.

A Rochester area resident for 10 years, Goble has been a Kiwanian for six years and has held several key offices during that time.

He is a missiles engineer and holds the position of manager of reliability and quality assurance at Chrysler Corp. missile division near 16 Mile and Mound Road.

Other Kiwanis officers for 1965 include Darrell Bordine, first vice president; Carl Queck, second vice president; Louis Watson, secretary; and Lloyd Christenson, treasurer.

Rules on Extra Duties

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled Monday that the appointive state superintendent of public instruction and the chairman of the Highway Commission or his designee will serve on the State Safety Commission when the presently elective schools superintendent and a highway commissioner leave office.

Farmington Twp. Raises to Be Decided by Voters

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP—A question concerning the salary increases of three township officials will be put to voters here Feb. 15.

They will determine whether the raises totaling $9,000 will go into effect during fiscal 1965-66.

The special election was set following a ruling on the matter by Oakland County Circuit Judge Philip Pratt.

The legality of the raises granted on the eve of the Nov. 3 election has been challenged by 11 township residents.

However, Pratt found that the move was not unconstitutional, that the action was valid and that township trustees acted within the scope of their authority.

LEGAL CONFLICT

Pratt said there is a conflict in the state statute affecting pay raises but held in his interpretation that a township that had abolished its annual meeting could grant salary increases.

If Farmington Township were still conducting an annual meeting, the increases would have been ruled void, he said.

The night before the township's three full-time officials were reelected, they were given raises by the other members of the Township Board.

Supervisor Curtis H. Hall's salary was jumped from $11,200 to $15,000 a year. Clerk Floyd A. Cairns' from $9,000 to $11,500 and Treasurer Elise Avery's from $8,300 to $11,000.

PRESENTED PETITION

While the suit filed against the township was pending in Circuit Court, some 1,700 electors presented a petition requesting a referendum election be held on the matter.

The Township Board awaited Pratt's ruling before setting the date.

Form of the proposition has not yet been determined, according to Hall.

HILLSDALE (AP) — Angelo LoPresto, 37, of Hillsdale, was convicted of felonious assault Monday night in the shooting of a plant guard in the Essex Wire Corp. strike here last spring.

LoPresto was found guilty by a Hillsdale Circuit Court jury which deliberated eight hours.

The jury was given four charges to consider, including assault with intent to murder.

VIOLENT STRIKE

Scott was brought to Hillsdale by Essex Wire during the violent strike.

Joe LoPresto will be tried at a later date. He testified at his brother's trial that he and not Angelo had fired the shot that wounded Scott in a roadside brawl between guards and strike sympathizers May 28.

Joe LoPresto testified that he fired when he saw Scott advancing toward his son, Tony LoPresto, during the scuffle.

Alabama, Mississippi Fall Into Line

All States Have Started Integrating National Guard Units

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief of the National Guard said today all 50 states with Alabama and Mississippi falling into line last have dropped bars against mixing Negroes and whites in their Guard units.

"The National Guard of all states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico is now integrated," Maj. Gen. Winston P. Wilson told the Associated Press.

"All restrictions, whether by law or administrative regulation, barring membership for race, religion or national origin have been eliminated in the Guard units."

Wilson, chief of the National Guard Bureau, acknowledged that there had been "only token integration in some areas so far."

But Wilson, an Air Guard general from Arkansas, contended that even token integration "represents a milestone in the history of the National Guard."

NOTE PROGRESS
President Johnson and his Committee on Equal Opportunity in the Armed Forces said Sunday they were encouraged at "definite and clear signs of progress" in desegregating the Guard.

They strongly indicated they

BLUE SHIELD ANSWERS YOUR QUESTIONS

Blue Shield Protects Subscriber Dollars

I've heard Blue Shield say that it protects subscriber dollars. What does that mean and how do you do it?

We mean we make sure subscriber dollars are not spent carelessly or needlessly to pay for benefits that are not necessary or not covered in the subscriber's contract. We do this with a team of internal auditors and quality-control specialists, including physicians, who maintain a constant check on claims and payment procedures.

I have a small business which employs only a few people. Can we get Blue Shield coverage?

Firms with as few as five full-time employees including the owner may qualify for group coverage. And even if you do not have enough employees to qualify as a group, you and your employees can get Blue Cross-Blue Shield protection as individuals. Write or phone your nearest Blue Cross-Blue Shield office for full particulars.

If my newborn baby required emergency surgery within hours after his birth, would Blue Shield cover the cost?

It certainly would. Children requiring special care are eligible for all Blue Shield benefits from the moment of birth. If he is your first child, be sure to notify Blue Shield of his birth within 30 days.

Can I buy stock in Blue Shield and how high are the dividends it pays?

No, you cannot buy stock in Blue Shield because it is a non-profit organization. The only dividends it pays are in the form of the finest medical care protection available at the lowest possible cost. In addition, Blue Shield returns to its subscribers, in benefits, more than 93¢ of every dollar taken in. This is one of the highest benefit returns of any health care protection plan anywhere.

Do I need a physical examination before I can join Blue Shield?

No. You need no physical examination or statement of health—no matter how old you are or when you join.

Do you have a question about your Blue Shield coverage? Just write Dept. 54, Michigan Medical Service, 441 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

Not satisfied with token integration in some states.

Brig. Gen. Francis S. Greenfield, deputy chief of the bureau, said, "We expect progress to continue."

"I don't expect to see any tremendous surge in Negro membership in hitherto all-white units in the South," Greenfield said, "It is a matter of steady growth."

16 STATES
Eighteen months ago there were 10 states that had not integrated their Guard organizations.

They were Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

The drive to persuade these states to integrate began in earnest when Wilson became Guard Bureau chief in the summer of 1963.

As Greenfield noted, "He had no command authority. We tried to lead."

The governors the key officials in peacetime in their state Guard organizations had to be won over.

Wilson with his slow grin and soft Arkansas drawl set out to bring the Southern state chiefs around to his way of thinking.

It was a slow job of missionary work, done through personal contact and conversation wherever possible.

Wilson was something less than welcome in some of the governors' offices at first.

Long Kiss Saves His Life

LONDON (AP) — Kathryn Strower, 24, gave her husband the longest kiss of his three-year marriage yesterday and saved his life.

George Strower, 26, collapsed with electric shock while adjusting a television set.

"I hardly knew what to do but guessed I had to breathe air into his mouth," said Mrs. Strower.

"His heart had stopped and he wasn't breathing but after a minute or two he began to come round."

At a hospital in Wimbledon a doctor said Strower was recovering and added: "But for the kiss he wouldn't be alive now."

Wider Music Concept Framed by Area School

Oakland University takes another long stride toward establishing itself as a leading center for study in the field of performing arts.

An ambitious credit-standard summer program for orchestral students and conductors and another for vocal students and directors are scheduled to coincide with the Meadow Brook Music Festival that won wide acclaim following its inauguration last summer.

The project will be guided by Sixten Ehrling, conductor of Detroit Symphony Orchestra and newly appointed professor of music at OU. Joining him in direction of the venture are Robert Shaw, associate director of Cleveland Symphony Orchestra and Albert Tipton, solo flutist for the Detroit orchestra and conductor of his own chamber orchestra.

Enrollment will be limited to 350 professional musicians, college students, graduate students and high school students who have completed their junior year.

The Press warmly congratulates the administration of Oakland University on this latest landmark in the development of the institution and its widening influence on the cultural tone of the community.

Maladies of the Aging a Check to Longevity

So much has been said and written about the great gains that have been made in life expectancy that it may come as somewhat of a shock to learn that we are not really much better off in this respect than Americans at the turn of the century.

True enough, average expected life span in 1900 was about 45 years. It is around 70 today, a gain of 25 years.

But this is the expectancy of a newborn child, the result of the conquest of childbirth and childhood diseases that once took a heavy toll of babies and mothers and young children.

People who reach age 40 in 1964, however, can expect to live only a few years longer than their 1900 counterparts—eight years for women, only four years for men. That is, where a 40-year-old male in 1900 could look forward to another 28 years of life, his grandson can reasonably count on 32.

This was the report of a panel of heart specialists to the recent Second National Conference on Cardiovascular Diseases held in Washington, D. C. The reason: The chronic diseases, such as heart disease and cancer, which are the chief killers among the middle-aged and elderly, "persist today largely unabated."

It is in this area that medicine is stalemated. Until a breakthrough is achieved, comparable to that made in the treatment of childhood diseases, the predicted "Golden Age" when the average man will live to 100 or 125 or even longer—with all the social problems that will bring—is one thing we needn't worry about today.

U.S. State Subsidies Called Costly Handouts

Assistant Treasury Secretary STANLEY SURREY has expressed opposition to the currently-popular idea of Federal subsidies to the states for all and all purposes.

This proposition has been advanced on the basis that state and local government costs are advancing rapidly, and that Uncle Sam should help out by making payments direct to the states out of Federal revenues.

Mr. SURREY is the first Administration voice to be raised against this proposal, and we hope he will get backing.

There is no limit to the money that government can spend, given the chance. The principal restraint on extravagance felt by state and local governments now arises from the fact that their taxpayers and their voters are mainly the same people and must pay for what they get.

Once a politician sees the opportunity to spend money from other states on the citizens of his own state, the temptation will be irresistible—especially around election time.

The sensible approach is for the Federal government to collect no more than it needs, and to allow the states and cities to raise their own money. If Federal taxes go down, the states and local governments will have a better opportunity to tax for their own needs.

Issues at Home Clearer in 1964

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — The world was still sticky in 1964 but at home there was steady movement forward and the air was cleared a bit, politically and otherwise, leaving President Johnson to face his first full term at ease on many issues.

The economy was booming for a record fourth year in a row. To top it up even more, Congress gave it a blood transfusion with the biggest tax cut in history.

In the long view the achievements in the field of citizens' rights, civil and political, perhaps will be most memorable.

In a year in which three civil rights workers were murdered in Mississippi and Negroes rioted in Northern cities, Congress passed the most far-reaching civil rights act of the century.

Then, with extraordinary speed, the Supreme Court supported it a couple of weeks ago by upholding the new law's ban on racial discrimination in places of public accommodation, like hotels, or motels, or restaurants.

But, even without the civil rights ruling, the court would have made this a memorable year. For half a century, injustice had been piling up in the states where city people were getting less representation in state legislatures than country people.

VACUUM OF RESPONSIBILITY

Neither Congress nor the legislatures would correct it. The Supreme Court stepped into this vacuum of responsibility and ordered reapportionment so that each man's vote means as much as any other's.

But it was the presidential election which settled, for years to come, the direction this country will take.

Because Democrats and Republicans for decades looked like twins, the presidential races began to resemble personality contests rather than different views of life and government for voters to choose between.

This year the voters got a clear choice between the Conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater and the much more moderate Johnson. The President won with the greatest plurality in history, 43 million to 27 million votes.

As a result, the two parties' candidates for a long time are likely to be liberals or at least middle-of-the-roads.

"The Season To Be Jolly Is Over!"

David Lawrence Says:

Need to Expose Red Subversion

WASHINGTON — One basic problem facing President Johnson is how the United States can thwart Communist operations in the smaller countries of the world.

The main objective — to fight communism and to enable the governments on all LAWRENCE continents to withstand Communist pressures — can hardly be achieved by those governments alone.

Unfortunately, the United Nations is not doing anything to combat Communist activities which threaten the independence and territorial integrity of many nations in the world today.

Adlai Stevenson, American ambassador to the U.N., said the other day:

"We have seen emerge throughout the world this much more subtle, indirect method of intervention in the affairs of another country by subversion, by penetration of one kind or another, mostly calculated to overthrow, sometimes by the use of force, the other government."

This emphasizes the failure of the United Nations even to recognize this new kind of aggression, though its charter specifically sets forth as one of the purposes of the organization the taking of collective action for "suppression of acts of aggression."

MAY TAKE STEPS

But if the U.N. ignores its obligation, any group of governments which wish to participate in collective action may take any financial, economic, or military steps deemed necessary to help preserve the territorial integrity of nations and the independence of established governments.

What is needed, of course, is a means of exposing publicly the nature of the subversion in the different countries where the Communists have gotten a foothold.

Where the lives and property of foreigners are threatened, international law gives another government the right to intervene and to protect its nationals and their possessions.

The United States has maintained that it is rendering economic assistance or is providing military help only when this is requested by the government of the country to which such aid is given.

ANSWERS CHARGE

This answers the charge that America is violating international law by its "intervention."

So long as the United States is invited by an established government to participate in the affairs of a country either through advisory missions or the extending of economic or military assistance, the requirements of international law are fulfilled.

These principles have not been made clear to the world in recent months, nor has the whole foreign aid program been portrayed in its true light — as a means of fighting the Cold War in order to enable the smaller governments to retain their independence and to preserve their territorial integrity.

To withdraw foreign aid altogether would merely force the weaker governments into the arms of the Communists of Moscow or Peking.

By granting certain help to the governments in Africa and Asia as well as in Latin America, the United States is able to send its own personnel into a country to observe what is going on and to make representations to the government in the hope that effective measures may be employed to drive out the conspirators.

Basic Communist Tenet Undergoing an Overhaul

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

A basic tenet of the Marxist-Leninist philosophy is that each member of a Communist state shall produce according to his ability and receive according to his need.

And while no Soviet leader would dare admit it, this theory basic to communism is undergoing a serious overhaul by Communist leaders who see their own national growth rates declining as the United States economy, already the world's largest, becomes one of the world's fastest-growing.

The Soviets' forced departure from accepted theory is one of the reasons for Red Chinese charges that the Russians are betraying communism.

It is interesting that many students of the Royal Institute of International Affairs in London agree with the Red Chinese and see European communism inevitably moving toward capitalism.

It currently is estimated that U.S. production of goods and services topped $40 billion in the last year, bringing the total for the year to about $624 billion.

DOUBLE RUSSIA'S

The total is more than twice the comparative figure for the Soviet Union, and the one-year U.S. growth rate is believed to be more than that achieved by the Soviet Union in the last two years combined, and possibly in the last three years.

As they see the United States economy increasing its lead, Soviet leaders are striving desperately to pinpoint their failings.

The more glaring ones have not been hard to find.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda, for example, recently reported 10,000 complaints in a single year against poor workmanship in Leningrad industrial plants.

TYPICAL JARGON

The Communist leadership employs typical Communist jargon to explain its slow transfer to the profit motive for plant managers and to individual incentives and to deny that it is "creeping capitalism."

But that is what it is. And it is going beyond the Soviet Union into the satellites.

Bulgaria is experimenting with it, and both Poland and Czechoslovakia have been forced to make even greater concessions in an effort to bring economies out of crisis.

In Washington:

'Kooks' Pose Problem for GOP

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—In all the clamor surrounding the fight over Republican National Chairman Dean

Burch, some party members are thinking beyond to other things—such as what to do about the "kooks."

This has been exclusively a concern of party moderates. Many conservative leaders grumbled privately throughout 1964 at the antics and attitudes of right-wing fringe groups and individuals attaching themselves to Sen. Barry Goldwater's cause.

One of these leaders—a man closely involved in the Goldwater campaign—believes the party must soon act openly to disavow the fringe groups. He considers it a vital step in the rehabilitation of the Republican image for the campaigns of 1968 and 1972. Says he:

"I don't think it should be done head-on. What we should do is seize upon an issue that will permit us to draw a sharp line."

Party progressives, of course, favor meeting the "kook" problem with a head-on disavowal. The more cautious approach suggested by the conservatives, who cannot be identified here, illustrates a peculiar aspect of the GOP's ideological difficulties.

The problem in part is that

Suggests Way to Regain Prestige of Our Country

I strongly urge that this country send some 250 congressmen and high state officials to replace the Americans killed in Viet Nam.

By so doing the criminal farce in Viet Nam (as was in Korea) would end quickly and the prestige and respect which this country has lost since the end of World War II would be partially recovered.

DISGUSTED AMERICAN

'More Dancing Is Offered Outside City'

Our city commission has done it again—more business is being sent to Waterford. The commission refused a request from a local lounge for a dancing permit.

Minors and teenagers have no business in a lounge and those families that do not wish to drink or dance need not enter the lounge. One of the commissioners stated that more dancing was not needed in the city as the Department of Parks and Recreation had a fine dance program set up in our schools. Wonderful! I can picture a group of adults in cocktail attire dancing around a gymnasium.

I can't understand why our commissioners are bent on sending business outside the city limits. Almost every bowling alley in Waterford offers dancing while the City of Pontiac seems to offer only wide streets enabling people to pass through the city more swiftly.

A DISGUSTED BOWLER

Says Congratulations for Entertainment

It is refreshing to know that somewhere there is a place where adults seeking adult companionship may congregate and enjoy adult entertainment. I congratulate the proprietor of the bowling alley in providing such a place of entertainment.

D. N.

The Better Half

"Deep down I suppose you resent me because I know what all these little buttons on the stove are for."

the term "conservative" has become badly muddled in the last few years. Respectable, long-established Republicans think the label is theirs. They are more than a little annoyed to find the fringers trying to take it for their own.

How, then, do you separate "respectable" Republicans from those who are not? How do you attack the goofy ones without seeming to strike at the regulars?

When Goldwater and Burch, defending the latter's tenure as chairman, say they do not want to see conservatives humiliated, it is not clear which ones they are talking about. Many conservative leaders want Burch removed.

At the root of this dilemma is a hard, unpleasant fact: Despite their frequent private grumblings, Goldwater forces and other conservative party regulars allowed the line between themselves and the "kooks" to be badly blurred from 1963 on.

For one thing, the fringers represented an undetermined but conceivably promising number of Goldwater votes. There was no disposition to cast these aside with blunt disavowals such as were suggested by the moderates at San Francisco in July.

There is something else. For all their wild grumblings, the fringe groups were performing one service whose value might prove considerable. They were striking hard and often, in uninhibited language, at the very

When, as now, talk stirs about shaking off these embarrassing encumbrances, the problem is two-fold; getting rid of the "kooks" themselves, and stripping the party's argument of the nonsense that has crept in during the time the irregulars were permitted within party borders.

For example, professional politicians simply laugh at the notion, supposedly first generated by the fringers, that Goldwater's 27 million votes were somehow a great triumph. But established conservative George Humphrey tried to tell that to his friend, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower (It was no sale).

Sharpening a blurred line is one of the tougher political chores.

Congo's Independence Filled With Troubles

(EDITOR'S NOTE — With virtually no preparation, the Congo was catapulted into independence four years ago. The results have been sometimes comic, often disastrous. An AP correspondent describes the nation's efforts at survival. Second of three articles.)

By SAUL PETT

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Like so much else in the Congo, there is a primitive religious sect in the east which invites both smiles and tears. It is called the Kitawala sect, whose idea of the genesis goes something like this:

In the beginning, God had three sons and a daughter. They were all colorless until God grew bored with this. So he gave the sons the colors of the rainbow to choose from.

The eldest chose to be white and was given a rifle and went to live in Europe. The second son became tan (Arab) and went to live in Zanzibar with a muzzle-loading gun not as good as the rifle. There was nothing left for the third son and he became black and went to live in the Congo armed only with a bow and arrow.

This son became God's favorite and was given the daughter in marriage and they had many children, one of whom was called America. America was carried off into slavery by the son in Europe to a distant land where he invented the automobile, the refrigerator and the transistor radio.

JUDGMENT DAY

On judgment day, America will return to the Congo and give all the descendants of his parents automobiles, refrigerators, radios and all the other good things he invented.

Judgment day still eludes the Congo, which like many places in Africa has been treated cruelly by history.

For centuries it was allowed to sleep until the white man came and grew rich here and then, after 80 years, the Congo suddenly became independent and found itself rushing into the 20th century with scarcely enough preparation for the 10th.

Thus, a lack lady seeks to protect a facial cut with both an antiseptic bandage and a dirty fetish from a witch doctor. She seeks the best of two possible worlds and finds neither.

BLACK MAN WALKS

Thus, the average black man, poorer now after four years of disillusioning independence, still walks while the white man rides, still lives in a shack or mud hut while the white man enjoys a big house.

The black man has been known to approach whites and ask for their "intelligence pills" as the only sure key to the white world.

Thus, at a recent meeting of the National Cabinet, one of the ministers was telling about his trip to New York. He told of a heavy rain one day in Manhattan, of the cab problem and the traffic.

It took him 40 minutes to cover 700 yards. "Really!" said the cabinet member on his left. "Was it the mud?"

FIFTH GRADE

The Belgians gave many Congolese the equivalent of a fifth grade education and they fed and paid them better than most Africans under colonial rule.

But unlike the British and the French, the Belgians gave their rich colony no preparation for independence.

When it came suddenly four years ago, there was not a single Congolese college graduate, not one doctor or lawyer or engineer or military officer or man with any government training higher than that of a postal clerk.

Now, there is a handful of graduates in these fields in a country with a population of 15 million and a size 80 times the area of Belgium.

NOT ENOUGH

It is nowhere near enough. And so, four years after independence, the Congo has no sense of being a nation, no central government or army which can function without foreign help.

And it is still plagued by the feuds and dialects of more than 200 tribes with the result that on one 300-mile stretch of railroad, the train crews must be changed seven times. Crews from alien tribes would be slaughtered.

For the average Congolese, four years of independence have meant almost four years of bloody genocide in wars of secession and rebellion, riotous graft and ineptitude in government, fewer jobs, fewer medical facilities, fewer goods and galloping inflation.

The rich copper mines, the the strength of the Congolese Army at roughly 70,000.

The estimate is very rough because local guerrillas frequently exist on paper while their commander pockets the payroll.

And now, along with the bitter confused fruits of independence, the bloody rebellions and secessions, the chaos and graft of government, a new element has appeared in the Congo. It is the cold war.

U.S. SUPPORT

The United States supports the Moise Tshombe government as the only one available with a chance of governing. America sends about $50 million in aid a year, mostly in agricultural surplus.

The Red Chinese are evidently here, too. Their guns and propaganda have shown up among the rebels. If they increase their aid, the United States may be forced to increase its involvement.

And the poor bewildered natives in the Kitawala sect may be obliged to rewrite their pathetic history of the world to include the name of a place they never heard of. It is called Viet Nam.

Tomorrow: Another Viet Nam?

Thus, the Parliament argued for four years about a flag and motto.

They finally got the flag designed because President Joseph Kasavubu lost his patience and arbitrarily decided on one. There still is no motto.

Graft in the Congo has a quaint simplicity. A customs inspector simply holds up your bag until you bribe him. A city policeman courteously salutes and shakes your hand before he shakes you down for a real or imagined traffic violation.

GOOD MANNERS

Their good manners rarely fail them. At one time, when a European used to complain of looting in his neighborhood, the police politely explained they could not patrol the area "because it was too insecure."

Until a few months ago, when the police got on jeeps, the desk sergeant responded compassionately to the report of a theft and said, "If you'll send a car down we'll be glad to investigate." The police had no vehicles then.

Last spring, the cabinet of the province that includes Stanleyville casually voted itself out and drew two years "severance pay" about $126,000 — while still in office.

Before that, they had pocketed a reported $360,000 intended for police and teachers who went unpaid. The cabinet was only recently fired.

NO SALARY

Many teachers throughout the Congo went without salary for two years until they finally went on strike. The central government had sent the money but it never reached them. Estimates of that larceny ranged from $40 million to $50 million.

Sandwiches Good When French Fried

An egg beaten with one-third cup of milk or light cream makes an excellent dipping mixture for French-toasted sandwiches. Cheddar cheese (sliced) or tuna fish salad will make good fillings for these sandwiches.

Beans, Tuna Great in Salad

Recommended as a filling luncheon or supper salad, "Tuna Bean Salad" spotlights tender Blue Lake green beans.

Tuna Bean Salad
1 can (1 lb.) whole or cut Blue Lake green beans
2 tablespoons wine vinegar
2 tablespoons salad oil

Salt
Pepper
Shredded lettuce
1 can (7 oz.) tuna
½ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup chili sauce
2 tablespoons drained pickle relish

1 hard-cooked egg, chopped
Drain beans. Combine 1 tablespoon vinegar, salad oil and salt and pepper to taste. Toss with beans. Chill.

Place a layer of crisp lettuce in shallow bowl; top with beans. Flake tuna coarsely over beans. Mix remaining vinegar with all remaining ingredients; spoon over tuna. Serve at once. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Cheese Souffle Must Be Baked for One Hour

Cheese souffle, the American way, calls for cream of tartar.

Cheese Souffle

¼ cup each butter and flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
Cayenne pepper to taste
1 cup milk

¾ pound cheddar cheese, grated medium fine
3 large eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar

In a 1-quart saucepan melt the butter over low heat; stir in the flour, salt, pepper and cayenne. Add milk all at once. Cook and stir constantly over moderately low heat until very thick and boiling.

Remove from heat; add cheese and stir to melt. Beat egg yolks until thickened and lemon-colored; gradually but vigorously stir into cheese sauce.

With clean beater, beat egg whites with cream of tartar until they hold straight stiff peaks. Fold into cheese mixture. Turn into ungreased 1½-quart souffle casserole (about 7½ inches by 2½ inches).

Set dish in a small roasting pan (13 by 8 by 3 inches) with 1 quart hot tap water — water should come up 1 inch. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 1 hour. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

ful companion for the smooth cheese filling. It's the kind of dessert that gives the grown-ups a chance at the peanut butter too!

This peanut butter cheesecake belongs to the variety of baked cheesecakes. The peanut butter and crumb mixture line the pan. Then comes the filling, a smooth mixture of cream cheese, lemon, mace, and eggs.

After the cake comes from the oven it is cooled and sour cream spread over the top. An additional 10 minutes baking sets the topping.

This do-ahead dessert should be chilled before serving.

PEANUT BUTTER CHEESECAKES

Crust
¾ cup peanut butter
1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
¾ cup chopped peanuts
2 tablespoons brown sugar

2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Filling
2 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese

¼ cup granulated sugar
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
1 teaspoon ground mace
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 eggs

Topping
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine peanut butter, cracker crumbs, peanuts, brown sugar, and melted butter. Line the bottom and sides of a 9 by 1½ inch cake pan with removable bottom with the crumb mixture.

Beat the cream cheese until it is smooth. Gradually add the ¼ cup granulated sugar. Blend in the lemon rind, mace, and lemon juice. Add the eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Pour cheese mixture into crumb-lined pan. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 35 minutes.

Remove cake from oven. Cool. Combine sour cream, 1 tablespoon granulated sugar, and vanilla. Spread cream mixture over top of cake. Return to a hot oven (425 degrees) for 10 minutes. Chill in refrigerator before serving.

Shower Bride-to-Be

With Cake Equipment

Give that bride-to-be a cake shower. Cake pans in various sizes, wire racks to hold the cakes when they come out of the oven — wooden mixing spoons, a cake tester, a flour sifter. These are all inexpensive gifts that a new cook who likes to bake will enjoy having. And have each guest bring her favorite cake recipe!

Prepare Two Elegant Mocha Desserts

Coffee first came to Europe from Turkey and Arabia about 1600. Chocolate came to Europe when Spanish conquistadores returned with cacao beans from Mexico.

These two favorite flavors, from opposite ends of the world, were joined together in Paris in the late 1600s.

The Marquis de Louvois, war minister to Louis the Fourteenth, is credited with first serving half coffee and half with a touch of whipped cream. It is still possible to order Cafe Louvois in France today.

History does not record how this delightful fusion came to be called mocha, an ancient name which conjures up the very quintessence of coffee excellence. Mocha's lively presence, however, is evident in the wide popularity of mocha desserts.

Coffee in the cup is, of course, America's favorite beverage. When you invite friends in for coffee and dessert, when you plan a dessert-bridge or when you need a special dessert to serve with coffee following dinner, nothing is more compatible with the steaming cup than a delectable coffee-and-chocolate confection.

NEW RECIPES

Here are two new, unusual and excellent desserts for your pleasure. Chocolate Cream Puffs, filled with coffee-flavored whipped cream and topped with Coffee Fudge Sauce, would make a memorable and delicious end to any "come for coffee" evening. For a special dinner you couldn't create a more impressive sweet than Layered Coffee-Mocha Pie.

Whichever dessert you choose, keep in mind that the coffee you serve with it should be your very best — tips in quality, perfectly brewed, served hot and fragrant.

CHOCOLATE CREAM PUFFS
 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 1 cup boiling water
 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
 1/2 cup breakfast cocoa (not instant)
 4 eggs

Combine butter and water in saucepan. Bring to boil and lower heat. Combine flour and cocoa; add all at once, stirring rapidly. Cook and stir until mixture leaves sides of pan and gathers around spoon in smooth, compact mass.

Add 1 egg at a time; beat thoroughly after each addition. Continue beating until mixture looks satiny and breaks off when spoon is raised.

Drop by spoonfuls on ungreased baking sheet, making 12 mounds spaced apart. Bake at 425 degrees for 30 minutes or until puffed and dry. Cool on rack.

Split each puff crosswise, fill with Coffee Whipped Cream. Chill or freeze. Serve with Coffee Fudge Sauce.

Coffee Whipped Cream
 Combine 1 cup whipping cream, 2 teaspoons instant coffee and 2 tablespoons sugar. Chill well. Whip until stiff.

Coffee Fudge Sauce
 1 cup light brown sugar
 1 tablespoon instant coffee powder
 1/4 cup whipping cream
 2 tablespoons light corn syrup
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 Combine all ingredients except vanilla. Bring to a boil, stirring until sugar dissolves. Continue to cook and stir 3 or 4 minutes, or until thickened. Add vanilla. Serve warm.

LAYERED COFFEE-MOCHA PIE

Mocha Layer:
 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
 1/2 cup cold water
 1/2 cup sugar, divided
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 cup strong coffee beverage
 2 eggs, separated
 1 1/2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1/2 cup whipping cream
 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
 Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine 1/2 cup of the sugar, salt and coffee in saucepan. (Coffee may be made with 1 tablespoon instant coffee and 1 cup water.) Stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Stir in beaten egg yolks. Return to double boiler and add melted chocolate.

Cook over low heat until mixture begins to boil. Remove from heat. Add vanilla and stir in softened gelatin. Cool until partially set. Beat smooth. Whip cream and fold in.

Beat egg whites until soft peaks form, then beat in cream of tartar and remaining 1/2 cup sugar. Fold in. Spoon into baked 9-inch pie shell. Chill until set.

Coffee Layer:
 Prepare as above but omit chocolate. After egg whites are added, let stand until mixture will mound in a spoon. Heap on top of mocha layer. Chill until set.

If desired, top pie with a mixture of 1/2 cup brown sugar, 2 teaspoons instant coffee and 1/4 cup chopped pecans. Six whole pecan meats inserted in rim of pie shell before baking are an attractive garnish.

Brussels Sprouts Come Small Size

If you haven't tried the new frozen baby Brussels sprouts—waste no time. Get them today! These are tiny globes of sprouts, with a delicate flavor, tender as butter. For a real treat cook a package of the baby Brussels sprouts as directed, and drain.

 Then blend 1/4 cup of soft butter with 2 tablespoons of blue cheese. Toss the hot Brussels sprouts with the butter mixture and serve to an admiring audience. This will make 5 servings.

Orange Glaze

You can make a simple glaze for a coffee cake with confectioners sugar, orange juice and grated orange rind. This orange-flavored topping is particularly delicious used over a yeast-risen coffee cake that contains raisins, and nuts.

Soup Hits Spot on Cold Day

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Soup is on the menu at our house this week. We're having old-fashioned homemade vegetable soup, made with the bones from our Christmas beef roast. Into the kettle with those bones I put onions, carrots and celery. I added a can of tomatoes.

All this simmered slowly and the tantalizing fragrance made the family hungry before the soup was done.

With youngsters home from school between the holidays, you'll find soup an easy lunch-eon dish.

You too can have a good vegetable soup, even if you don't have roast beef bones. In the Normandy area of France, you'll find soup made in the following manner:

Normandy Soup Pot
6 large potatoes, pared and quartered
3 medium leeks, cut in 2-inch slices
2 medium carrots, pared and quartered
4 packages (10-ounces each) frozen Brussels sprouts
3 quarts boiling water
½ cup sliced celery and a few minced leaves
Few springs parsley
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
¼ teaspoon pepper

Add potatoes, leeks, carrots and Brussels sprouts to boiling water; cover and simmer ½ hour. Stir in celery, parsley, butter and seasonings; simmer 1 hour longer. Makes 10 servings.

Another soup you can simmer, though briefly, is an Asparagus Cream Soup. Sour cream imparts a delightful tang to this smooth soup.

Asparagus Cream Soup
2 packages (9 oz.) cut up asparagus
1½ cups water
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon chicken stock base
¼ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
Dash of pepper
3 cups milk
1 cup dairy sour cream

In a saucepan place asparagus in water; cover, bring to boil; turn heat to simmer and cook until very tender.

Meanwhile, in another saucepan, melt butter; blend in flour, salt, chicken stock base, monosodium glutamate and pepper. Gradually add milk; cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and loses starchy taste.

Using a blender or food mill puree asparagus with cooking liquid; blend in sour cream. Just before serving combine asparagus mixture with white sauce. Heat and serve immediately. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Note: One chicken bouillon cube dissolved in ¼ cup hot water may be substituted for chicken stock base.

If soup is what you want most of all and time is short, you're still in luck. There are so many excellent canned and dry soups on the market today that your choice is infinite.

Chicken Corn Chowder starts out with a can of chicken rice soup. Less than 15 minutes later, you'll be pouring it into bowls.

Pass This Platter After Card Game

This platter will feed a dozen friends—and men will like it as much as do the women.

1 pound Italian-type thinly sliced salami (casing removed) 12 hard-cooked eggs, halved and stuffed ½ bunch watercress
2 small bunches radishes
1 can or jar (4 ounces) pimiento

Make an attractive platter arrangement of all the ingredients with the snap beans in the center, and the other foods ringed around them. Makes 12 servings.

Mashed Bananas Go Between Cake Layers

For a last-minute cake filling mash ripe bananas with a little lemon juice and grated orange rind; frost the cake with sweetened whipped cream.

Winning Hand in Every Game

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

It was a year to do a woman's heart good.

Never had she been so appreciated, appointed, awarded and elected.

The President boosted so many women into high office—and kept the talent search going full steam—that at one point he felt it necessary to reassure men. They would always have a place in government he said, "as long as there are no women to fill the jobs."

Important professional organizations elected women presidents for the first time.

For the first time the name of a woman, Republican Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, was placed in nomination for president at a major party convention.

And although the Census

Bureau said that women were more plentiful than men by 3½ million—that for every 100 women there were 96.4 men—there was a silver lining.

Single men still outnumbered single women, and it made Leap Year hunting more of a sporting event.

Two top pairings of the year: actors Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, who had been going steady for some time; Sen. Maurice Neuberger and Dr. Philip Solomon, Boston psychiatrist.

Along with Leap Year every 48 months comes the Presidential Election Year. And U.S. women in '64, poliostruck more and more.

From the First Lady to the precinct worker who rang doorbells, thousands of women lived, breathed and talked politics until the last vote was counted in November.

SHE SETS PACE

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson set the pace. When she became the nation's 32nd First Lady she said that her role must "emerge in deeds not words."

She set to work underlining her husband's program in travels around the country; she called attention to the ever expanding role of women as citizens by giving White House luncheons for the women "doers."

After the Democratic National Convention nominated her husband, she hit the campaign trail on her own, the first President's wife to whistle-stop independently.

Politically adept Lady Bird Johnson was voted Woman of the Year in the Associated Press Poll, even as last year's top woman newsmaker, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, sought privacy.

JACKIE

In New York the gallant widow of the assassinated President lived quietly, with two chief aims: to bring up her children, Caroline and John-John, 7 and 3 in November; and to perpetuate the memory of her husband.

She had left Washington and its memories when crowds of curious tourists packed the street in front of her Georgetown home day and night.

In 1965 the home still loomed as the No. 1 place to be for a majority of women, but President Johnson made it plain he thought their place was also in government service.

His appointments—and they numbered in the hundreds—included women ambassadors (Margaret Joy Tibbets to Norway, Katharine Elkus White to Denmark) Dr. Mary I. Bunting, president of Radcliffe, as the first woman member of the Atomic Energy Commission, Mrs. Elizabeth S. May, the first woman director of the Export-Import Bank.

Meantime, women weren't

Call Friend, Mention Town Trip

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: A woman I know invited me to lunch but did not set a definite day. She merely said that whenever I was in the city to call and she would take me to lunch.

I live in the suburbs and go into the city every so often on business or to shop. This woman works and lives in the city.

I plan to go in some day and would like to know if it would be proper to call her and remind her of her lunch invitation. I'm sure her invitation was sincere but somehow I just don't feel right about calling and "inviting myself to lunch."

What do you advise me doing in this situation?

A: You may quite properly call her and say that you are coming into town next Wednesday and that you hope she will be free to see you.

She will then most likely ask you to lunch with her.

Q: I received a thank-you note in yesterday's mail for a wedding present I sent to a young bride. The note was typewritten.

Maybe I'm old-fashioned, but I thought this is very bad taste and almost as rude as a printed thank-you card.

Are typewritten notes acceptable in the present day?

A: Long, chatty letters may quite properly be typewritten, and indeed are much to be preferred to those written in a hard-to-read handwriting, but a bride's thank-you notes must be written by hand.

Q: My brother-in-law's name is Lawrence but everyone calls him Larry. When addressing a note or card to him, would it be proper to address it to Mr. Larry Jones or must it be Mr. Lawrence Jones?

A: When writing to him, the envelope must be addressed to Mr. Lawrence Jones.

Gala Event Marks End of Yuletide

The 16th annual Twelfth Night Gala will be held Jan. 6, in Cranbrook House. Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Booth will be hosts at the event, scheduled from 8 to 11 p.m. He is executive director and chairman of the board of trustees of the Cranbrook Foundation.

Entertainment will be as usual but details in advance are never released.

GUESTS

Guests will be members of the faculty and staffs of the six Cranbrook institutions, trustees and directors of the institutions, board members of the Cranbrook Music Guild and St. Dunstan's Guild, choir members of Christ Church Cranbrook and spouses of the same.

Committee members working with Mr. Booth in planning this year's program are: Donald Willett, Elizabeth Boyne, Mrs. Jack U. Kiar, Walter F. Read, Mrs. H. Leslie Schaefer and Margaret MacKenzie.

The Reinold Yeagers of East Howard Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Ruth to Thomas Howard Eley, son of the Enoch Eleys of Highmore Way. They are Eastern Michigan and Albion College seniors, respectively.

WOMEN'S SECTION

suggards in getting laurels for themselves. Outspoken yet ladylike Hazel Brannon Smith, publisher of four Mississippi weeklies won a Pulitzer Prize for "steadfast adherence to her editorial duty in the face of great pressure and opposition."

Over the years she has battled bootleggers, racists and extremists, but she says: "I don't call myself a crusader at all. All I've tried to do is meet the issues as they arise . . . and to report the truth."

WON MEDALS

Four women won Medals of Freedom, the highest civil honor the President can bestow: actress Lynn Fontanne, opera singer Leontyne Price, Dr. Lena Edwards, who three years ago gave up private practice in New Jersey to devote herself to medical care of migrant workers in the Texas Panhandle, and Dr. Helen B. Taussig, professor emerita of pediatrics at Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Taussig later in the year was again honored in being named president-elect of the American Heart Association. She will be the first woman to hold the office.

One of the most glamorous—and hardest-working—women at the United Nations, Mrs. Marietta Tree has been a delegate since 1961.

In November she became the first woman to serve as permanent U.S. ambassador to the United Nations. Her mother, Mary Parkman Peabody, made news too in 1964. She went to jail. That's because the peppy Mrs. Peabody, 72, wife of an Episcopal bishop and mother of five, including the governor of Massachusetts, decided to fly to Florida to help the integration movement.

When she attempted to de-segregate a motel at St. Augustine, she was carted off to the paddy for a couple of days.

Controversial women kept active. For example, Vivien Kellems, former industrialist from Mystic, Conn., sat 2½ hours in a voting booth to protest against voting machines because she thinks they intrude on her privacy.

She's the lady, you may remember, who refused to act as a tax collector and withhold taxes from her employees' salaries 16 years ago.

Then there was embattled atheist Madalyn Murray, who fled with her family from Baltimore "in fear of our lives." From Honolulu she is carrying on her fight to tax churches.

SPORTS CHAMPS

In the field of sports, Alice Marble got elected to the National Lawn Tennis Hall of Fame.

And in Tokyo at the Olympic Games the U.S. track-and-field team won 2 gold medals out of 12. U.S. women swimmers captured 7 out of 10 events and 13 out of 16 gold medals.

Blonde, 15-year-old swimmer Sharon Stouder from Glendora, Calif., won three gold medals and missed a fourth by a half-second.

American women, it would seem, not only are marrying younger these days, they are winning gold medals at tender ages. Sports enthusiasts aren't objecting, but does it make a girl a has-been at 20?

Marietta Tree is a beauty who achieved fame in 1964.

New Consul to See Art

The new German consul for Detroit, Dr. Wolfram Huckle, and Mrs. Huckle, will be among the guests, Jan. 4 in Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries for a special showing of the current exhibition "The Spirit of New Berlin in Painting and Sculpture."

Dr. K. Erich Rombach, Mr. and Mrs. Gunther Laste and Mrs. Agnes Chestohin, of the German consulate, will also attend.

The guest list includes patrons of the galleries, members of the board of trustees of Cranbrook Academy of Art and heads of the other Cranbrook institutions.

Out-of-Towners Visit C. R. Haskills

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Haskill, Woodbine Drive, have as their guests Mrs. Haskill's parents, the Glen Richmonds of Largo, Fla. Present also for the annual Christmas day family dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Richmond of Long Island, N.Y.

False Birth Certificate Isn't Something You Demand

DEAR ABBY: Our baby was born last March. My mother, who lives in another state, asked me if the baby had been baptized and I replied no.

Then she suggested that I make arrangements to have the baby baptized in the city where she lives, which is my home town.

The reason I'm writing you is because I'm sure the priest who will baptize our baby will want to have the birth certificate, which may put me in an embarrassing spot.

You see, I told my mother the baby was born in June because I didn't want her to know that I was pregnant when I got married, and I'd rather she didn't find out the truth.

Please tell me where I can get a birth certificate stating the baby was born in June.

ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: Don't risk embarrassment by asking anyone to falsify a legal document.

If you have the baby baptized in your home town, hope your mother doesn't notice the date on the birth certificate.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 15. I love my parents but I hate my grandmother on my father's side, and I mean I really HATE her.

She has lived with us ever since my grandfather died. This woman gets on my nerves so much that I could just scream.

I try to ignore her as much as possible, but her slightest faults disturb the living day-lights out of me. We aren't on speaking terms right now, but it's best this way because I despise the sound of her voice.

I don't feel like being friends with her because that would be worse, believe me. What should I do?

"hate" too intensely for a 15-year-old. The chances are that you are taking out all your frustrations and hostilities on the one who is least able to fight back.

Tone down your bitterness, young lady, and get this out of your system by having a frank discussion with your parents.

She has lived with us ever since my grandfather died. This woman gets on my nerves so much that I could just scream.

I try to ignore her as much as possible, but her slightest faults disturb the living day-lights out of me. We aren't on speaking terms right now, but it's best this way because I despise the sound of her voice.

I don't feel like being friends with her because that would be worse, believe me. What should I do?

Keeps Sewing Orderly

By POLLY RAMER
DEAR POLLY—I do lots of sewing for my three daughters and myself. There are always several garments in various stages of completion. I keep each folded in a separate suitcase with its pattern, buttons, zippers, thread and so on and when I am ready to sew on a certain garment I have it all ready.

I found boxes the height of pattern envelopes, grouped my many patterns according to sizes and categories such as suits, dresses and so on and they are filed in these boxes. My daughters receive many corsages and I save the pins that come in them to use when working on heavy fabrics as they have sharp points and do not leave holes in the materials.

Our bakery packages bread in plastic bags which I save for my daughters' shoes. The bags not only protect the shoes but make it easier to find the right ones when they have so many different colors.

We recently decorated our den and the assorted covers of the books on our shelves gave a cluttered look to the room. I bought shelf paper in colors that would look well in the room and made d-st jackets for the books which now look uniform and most decorative.

DEAR POLLY—If you have ever struggled to hang a number of coat hangers on the little hook in a car you will appreciate my tip. *

Hook all the hangers with garments on them to one hanger and hang only that one on the car hook. —ROBERTA

DEAR POLLY—Some of your women readers may like to surprise their husbands and express their love in the unique way my wife did when she put several big red lipstick kisses on the absorbent tissue she uses to cover the bottom of my lunch basket. —JOHN

GIRLS—What could be better than love and kisses for dessert? —POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Save those worn plastic tablecloths. They make ideal aprons for general cleaning days. Cut them out with a scalloped edge.

I usually make one large pocket all across the front and then stitch through it to make three or four smaller pockets (like a shoe bag).

They can hold sponges, dust cloths and so on with no dirt or dampness coming through. Sew on a waistband and you are ready to go. —MRS. R. A. W.

Decorating Has Rules You Follow

Valuable decorating tips come from some of America's foremost interior decorators, including William Baldwin, Rose Cumming, Marian Hall, Mrs. Eleanor S. Brown, Mrs. Henry Parish II, George Stacey, Anne Urquhart and Michael Taylor.

• Rooms should have far more permanent value than a seasonal excitement; do not choose furnishings as you would a dress or hat.

• Underdecorate: a room should be able to grow—it should not look furnished.

• Rooms should contain an element of contrast in form, color and texture.

• Mix various furniture styles within both a house and a room: keep the period room in a museum.

• Comfort is the primary element in the arrangement of furniture.

BUY THE BEST

• The best custom-made upholstered furniture is a better investment than the average department-store equivalent.

• The settled, comfortable, look of beautiful upholstery makes an otherwise austere room more cozy.

• Never hesitate to put an object of great material value next to an object of sentimental value: put your finest Meissen beside a friend's photograph.

• Line lampshades with pale pink for a softer light.

• Free-standing lamps should be at approximately the same height to relieve an excess of conflicting shadows.

Scores Zero on Computer

PROVO, Utah (AP)—An electronic computer was used at Brigham Young University to match boys and girls with similar interests for a university dance.

Bonnie Mitchell, 18-year-old red-haired freshman, asked the machine to pick out a tall boy with dark hair and blue eyes who liked entertainment and looked favorably on marriage.

Out of the 15,000 students at BYU, the machine picked a boy who not only met the description, but had asked for a date with a red-haired girl. He was Richard Mitchell, Bonnie's brother.

Unpeeled Apples Best Says MD

Americans still repeat that adage, "an apple a day keeps the doctor away." One doctor advises that it should be the whole apple, except for the core and stem.

He also recommends scrubbing the skin with plenty of soapsuds, then rinsing it thoroughly before eating the unpeeled apple.

Top Removable?

If your range has a griddle top and shield, remember that this handy gadget lifts out for easy at-the-sink sudsing and rinsing with hot water.

Needlework Kit

Onion Tea Towels

The blue and white Blue Onion design shown here was inspired by an old Meissen china pattern which is currently enjoying a renewed popularity.

You will find it everywhere in all kinds of kitchen and bathroom accessories.

This pair of tea towels has two variations of the design stamped on creamy, white, 100 per cent linen. It is to be embroidered in two shades of fresh, clean-looking blue. The stitching is easy; it's the kind of embroidery that works up very fast but looks impressive.

These towels are so handsome you will be tempted to use them for hand towels in the bathroom.

They are both stamped on a single strip of linen which is to be cut apart, hemmed and embroidered. The value can't be beaten; both towels complete with embroidery floss cost only $2.

They are sold only in pairs. Think of how many of your friends would like to receive a pair of these for a gift.

To obtain Needlework Kit 36A fill out the coupon below and send it with a $2 check or money order for each kit desired to Needlework Kit Service at address given.

Old Home Is Charmed

JUNCTION CITY, Kan. (AP)—When the Harold Reunions left Junction City seven years ago for Roseburg, Ore., they sold their longtime family home at 524 West 7th St.

Back here recently on a lengthy visit, they sought a place to set up temporary housekeeping. It just happened that the old home—now for rent furnished, so they found themselves back "home" again.

Mrs. Frank Kurkowski, East Strathmore Avenue, believes in being practical, even with her Christmas tree. She has decorated it almost exclusively with unbreakable fruit and flowers and green and gold velvet roping. She never has to worry about her small children's breaking any ornaments and the tree has become a conversation piece.

SERVING THE PONTIAC AREA OVER 41 YEARS

Has Child-Proof Tree

With three children under five years, the Frank Kurkowski of East Strathmore Avenue thought they might have a problem with their Christmas tree. Solving it gave them an unusual tree.

For several years now, Mrs. Kurkowski has been collecting fruits and flowers, most of them unbreakable. She does have some china fruit bought at an antique auction, but this goes toward the top of the tree where small hands can't grab it.

VELVET ROPING

Winding through the branches is green and gold velvet roping.

At the base of the tree there is a hand-carved and hand-painted nativity scene. This was sent to her by her cousin, the Rev. Donald Hessler, a Maryknoll missionary in Mexico, formerly of Lake Orion.

The Kurkowski children are Marcelyn, 4; John, 3; and Todd, who is just a year old.

Old Standby Yields Soft Laundry Day

Vinegar added to your last rinse water will give you brighter, cleaner washables and softer, sweeter-smelling diapers for your baby.

Try this test. Take an article of clothing that has been washed, rinsed, and dried. Dunk it back into clear water. Chances are you probably will be able to see the soapy residues dissolving in the water.

One or two rinses in clear water will not completely rinse detergents or soaps from your laundry. Plain water does a good job but not a complete job.

To make sure your clothes get a thorough rinse, put a little white vinegar into your last rinse water. About one cup of white vinegar in your rinse water for an average sized family washing will do the trick, whether you use a tub or a washing machine.

Vinegar is about 5 per cent acidity. This is too mild to harm fabrics but strong enough to dissolve the alkalines in the soaps and detergents, giving your clothes a better rinse. Commercial laundries use this same general principle in their rinses.

Your baby's diapers especially can benefit from a vinegar rinse. The vinegar neutralizes the ammonia that is an after product of wet diapers and a common cause of diaper rash.

After running your diapers through the complete washing machine cycle, turn the machine on rinse again, filling the machine only half full of hot water and adding one cup of vinegar. Put the machine through the rinse and spin cycle.

Wash Blender With Care

A blender manufacturer advises against soaking the container in dishwasher. Instead, partly fill it with warm water, plus a little soap or detergent, put the cover on, and let the motor run at low speed until food particles are loosened. Then rinse and dry the container.

Turn the motor off, pull the cord from the electric outlet, and wipe off the base and cord.

Chrome News in Pan World

Featured now in the pots-and-pans department is bake-wear made of chrome.

Everyone knows how easy it is to keep chrome clean. Just wash it with hot soap or detergent suds and rinses.

Brush Becomes Bathing Beauty

To make a bath brush perky and distinctive, just tie a nylon velvet bow to its handle. Luxurious nylon velvet, in any color, is washable so it can only be freshened — not damaged — by a sudsy bath. And will make the bather feel feminine and pampered.

Warmest of all for braving storms, skating, snow-play. Use bright knitting worsted.

Fry Pan Tops Need Sudsing

If you use a metal filter top on your electric skillet, remember that this cover must be swished clean in soap or detergent suds after each use.

These covers, usually made of aluminum mesh, tend to collect grease as steam escapes.

Enamelware Back Again

Old-fashioned enamelware is making a come-back, now designed for the dinner table and the freezer as well as for the kitchen range.

Despite its new social status, this smooth-surface enamelware is traditionally easy to wash in hot soap or detergent suds.

Raisins, Oats Make Cookies Taste Good

Pontiac Press Food Editor
If your house is like ours, it is almost cookieless by now. And with the children home from school all week, you'll need more cookies for snack time.

Mrs. William Robertson suggests a recipe for Raisin Squares. This recipe came from her aunt who lives on Manitoulin Island.

The mother of two children and the holder of an outside job, Mrs. Robertson lives to cook. Do try her cookies.

RAISIN SQUARES

By Mrs. William Robertson

Convenience Foods Make Lasagna Good Enough to Serve as a Dessert

Casserole Elegante?
Yes, indeed! A casserole that is elegant in every sense of the word: rich, tasty, and correct for any occasion. It's also one of the more delicious meals you could serve!

Any dish that includes beef and noodles, of course, is off to a fast start in its campaign for acceptance. Add zesty spaghetti sauce mix crisp bell peppers, and sour cream sauce along with other ingredients, and you're bound to have a winner.

That's Casserole Elegante! Casserole Elegante

8 pieces lasagna macaroni
1 pound ground beef
1 cup water
1 package spaghetti sauce mix
1 teaspoon diced green bell peppers

1 package sour cream sauce mix
1/2 cup water
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
1 cup (8 oz.) small curd cottage cheese

Cook noodles in boiling salted water, as directed on the package, then drain.

Brown ground beef in a fry pan. Add 1 cup water, spaghetti sauce mix, and diced peppers. Mix well, and bring to a boil. Add sour cream sauce mix to 1/2 cup water, and beat until smooth. Blend in cream cheese and cottage cheese.

Put half of lasagna in a greased 13x9-inch baking dish. Cover with cheese mixture. Then add remaining lasagna. Pour meat sauce over the top.

Bake in a 350 degree oven for about 20 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

For a pleasant dessert after a main course of Chinese-style food, serve chilled canned pineapple enlivened with slivers of preserved ginger.

Shrimp Is Inside

Looking for something novel with an Oriental flavor? A distinct improvement over egg rolls are these unusual rolls.

Sea-Prize Asparagus Rolls
20 cooked asparagus spears
1 package buttermilk refrigerator rolls
1/2 pound fresh shrimp, cleaned and cooked
1/2 teaspoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon horseradish mustard
1/4 cup sour cream
1 can condensed mushroom soup

1/2 stick butter or margarine, melted
1/4 ounce sesame seeds
Slice or mash shrimp and add 1/4 teaspoon soy sauce, horseradish mustard and 1/4 cup sour cream. Set aside.

Separate rolls (10) and roll each one paper thin on lightly floured cloth. Spread with shrimp mixture and place 2 spears of asparagus at edge of each biscuit, with tips in opposite directions. Roll up and secure with toothpicks.

Place on baking sheet with fold side down. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with sesame seeds. Bake in 450 degree oven for 15 minutes or until golden brown.

Serve with mushroom sauce made by adding remaining 1/4 teaspoon soy sauce and 1/4 cup sour cream to mushroom soup and heating slowly.

Add Some Apple
Add one cup of freshly peeled and grated apples, tart and tangy, to each four cups of a bland, seasonal vegetable, such as mashed squash, sweet potatoes, rutabagas, or parsnips, to impart flavor and flair.

Can of Cream Soup Just a Starter
To vary that can of cream of potato soup, add whole-kernel corn or mushrooms. If you have leftover cooked corn on the cob, just cut off the kernels and use them.

If the mushrooms are fresh, they may be cooked lightly in butter or margarine before adding to the soup.

Some good cooks like to baste ham, while it's baking, with sherry or ginger ale.

Today's Cultured Sour Cream, Uniform in Quality, Adds Exciting Taste to Foods

All the good things you've heard about dairy sour cream are true," states Mrs. Josephine Lawver, Michigan State University Extension Agent. Dairy sour cream can give everyday cooking a gourmet touch.

Today's cultured sour cream is a tribute to dairy technology. Scientific processing has produced a dependable steady supply of thick cream, uniform in quality, and packaged in the sanitary modern manner.

The dairy sour cream you purchase today is cultured fresh cream. It is generally made from coffee cream and contains about 18-20 per cent butterfat. There are about 30 calories per tablespoon.

Sour cream is pasteurized and homogenized to insure smoothness and uniformity. The creamy, tangy flavor and the thick, smooth texture are carefully regulated by adding a special lactic acid culture to the cream.

Since sour cream is a dairy product it must be refrigerated. It will keep well for one week or longer. To protect its perfect seal, store the container upside down.

When using dairy sour cream in baking, baking soda may be used for all or part of the leavening in the proportion of one-half teaspoon baking soda to one cup of sour cream.

Because one cup of sour cream contains about six tablespoons fat it can be used to replace all or part of the fat in pancakes, biscuits, cakes, etc.

For desserts, it can be made smoother and fluffier by whipping, using chilled beaters and bowl, and beating at high speed for about five minutes. Care must be taken not to overwhip the cream or it will become very thin.

BEGENTLE

When cooking with sour cream, handle with care. Heat it gently; do not boil, and add it to other ingredients just before serving. Always fold it into other ingredients carefully as over-stirring may thin it.

Cook sour cream-bottan-daise type mixtures over warm, not boiling water; do not cook over direct heat.

Experiment with sour cream. Besides using it as a dip for an appetizer, try a generous dollop on your favorite hot or cold soup.

Use sour cream as a salad dressing or as an ingredient in molded salads. Add vinegar and herbs for leafy greens, try fruit juices and spices for fruit salads.

Spread sour cream on browned pork or veal chops or add to gravies and sauces as an accompaniment to a variety of meats.

Vegetables will have more interesting flavor when topped with sour cream, and you can add variety by use of seasonings, blue cheese, crumbled bacon, etc.

Dessert possibilities with sour cream are only limited by your imagination. Top fruit, pumpkin or mince pies with sour cream. Or serve sour cream on chocolate cake, gingerbread or canned fruit.

If your family desires a slightly sweet flavor, add one-half cup confectioners sugar to one pint of sour cream.

Here is a sour cream dressing to enhance the flavor of fruit or molded fruit salads: Combine one teaspoon grated orange rind, two tablespoons each orange juice and lemon juice, one tablespoon honey, one-half teaspoon dry mustard, one teaspoon salt, and one-fourth teaspoon paprika. Fold into one cup dairy sour cream. Chill thoroughly before serving.

Makes about one and one-fourth cups. Keeps well, covered, in refrigerator.

If you want a quick dip to serve with cheese crackers, blend two cups dairy sour cream, one to two tablespoons grated onion, one tablespoon chopped pimiento, and one-half teaspoon salt. Serve chilled.

Add Mashed Egg

Hard-cook an extra egg. Mash it fairly fine and add it to mayonnaise to serve with a cooked vegetable salad.

Between Holidays Is 'Season of Great Letdown'

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Every year has a lost week. This is it — "The season of the great letdown."
It is doubtful that an examination of American history would disclose any great inventions were conceived, any great poems written, any inspiring songs created between Christmas and New Year's Day.

It is not a week for doing great things; it is a week for hanging on — and hoping for better days.
Everyone is gripped by a kind of spiritual numbness and physical lethargy that has turned us all into ambulant zombies, drained of all feeling.
The season of good will to all has passed, leaving us exhausted from Christmas satieties and excesses and mildly resentful of Santa Claus, whom we tend to blame for our blue and listless mood. Anyone who walks along the streets now absent-mindedly whistling "Jingle Bells" invites black looks.

ALL NEED
What we all seem to need is a high-powered, double-action, after-Christmas pep pill that will rescue us from the dumps and make us feel as good as we did just a week ago.
What happened anyway to that frolic sense of anticipation, that friendly sense of the joy of sharing, that pulse-throbbing thrill in the mere human ecstasy of being alive? They are gone, leaving a barren glumness in their place.

At home the small boy sits listlessly staring at his broken drum. His older sister — on holiday from school — whines drearily, "What'll I do, Mama, there's no one to play with?" And Mama herself wonders wearily how she's going to summon the strength to get done all the things that cry for her to do.
One by one the browning needles drop from the Christmas tree upon the living room rug. Sensing the decline in family cheer, the dog snarls at the cat, and the cat arches her back and hisses back.

MORE EVIDENT
The deterioration in the jolly "Ho, Ho, Ho!" spirit is even more evident outside the home. The postman totes his load of belated Christmas cards with the self-plying air of an Atlas carrying unnecessary burdens. In the department stores the clerks, still busy taking back or exchanging presents, are lands of industriousness in the general inertia, but their smiles are forced and they go about their chores reluctantly.

Bus drivers, cabbies and truck drivers bark tiredly at each other, and all bark together at the unwary pedestrian. He'd yap at them, but why bother? Right now he doesn't have the energy even to jump out of the way.
Life at the office is just one big fat yawn. Custom forces the boss to greet each employee with, "Have a nice Christmas?"

OWN TROUBLES
Translated, however, his question merely means, "Don't tell me about it — I've got my own troubles."
The hired hands look dolefully at all the unfinished chores on their desk, and wonder vaguely who thought up the idea of man having to work for a living. Yes, life is at a halt during the season of the great letdown. But this too will pass. After the first of January, fired up with new resolutions, everyone will be back on the beam. Some of them will even begin to believe in Santa Claus again.

Life saving resolutions for '65

1. I resolve to install seat belts in my car.
2. I resolve to make sure my seat belt is buckled every time I drive. (Even short distances from home.)
3. I resolve to look for seat belts every time I ride in someone else's car.

"My advice, sir-get DE-ICER!"

It's that time of the year again—moisture can collect in your gas line, freeze, choke off the flow of fuel to the engine and stop you cold. That's gas line freeze, and there are two ways about it. You can be towed in and thawed out. This takes time. This takes money. Or you can use American Brand Gasolines regularly. They contain the real thing—DE-ICER—to prevent gas line freeze. No extra cost to you. Standard Oil Dealers have said it before and they say it again: "My advice, sir-get DE-ICER!"

You expect more from Standard and you get it

"DE-ICER" is the trademark for Standard's gas line anti-freeze additive.

On 21st Ballot

Italy Elects a Socialist

ROME (AP) — Giuseppe Saragat, 66, first Socialist president in Italian history, swore faith to the nation and the constitution today as a 101-gun salute thundered over Rome from the Janiculum Hill.

The partly former foreign minister took his oath of office standing stiffly erect before a combined session of Parliament, which elected him to a seven-year term Monday on the 21st ballot. He succeeds Christian Democrat Antonio Segni, who resigned because of illness.

Although Saragat is pro-NATO and anti-Communist, the Communists' 253 votes were the decisive factor. They gave him a total of 646, well beyond the 482 necessary.

FOUR PARTIES

The four parties in Moro's coalition — Christian Democrats, Socialists, Republicans and Saragat's Democratic Socialists — could have elected him, but about 150 Christian Democrats turned in blank ballots.

It was a double defeat for the Christian Democrats, Italy's largest and dominant party since World War II. They failed to elect Giovanni Leone, their official candidate, and they couldn't keep Communist votes from being decisive. The result underlined the shaky position of the divided party.

Il Popolo, the Christian Democratic organ, warned today of the "grave phenomenon of internal indiscipline, about which the party must make an attentive and severe examination of conscience."

The independent newspaper II Messaggero commented that "Christian democracy, lacking rediscovery its unity, lacking which it loses its function as democracy's stronghold and as the party of the relative majority."

CENTER-LEFT

Saragat is an exponent of center-left government, both by commitment and as a member of the Moro Cabinet. Political experts speculated that some arrangement may emerge in which the Communists would play a strong role in a center-left regime.

President Johnson cabled congratulations to Saragat, but no official reaction at the State Department was tinged with reservations.

9 Indonesians Caught in Malaysia Territory

SINGAPORE, (P) — Nine Indonesian infiltrators carrying Sten guns, hand grenades and high explosives, were captured in the western swamps of Singapore Island today.

Malaysia Police said they apparently had shipped ashore from a boat within the last 24 hours. It was the third such landing in Singapore the past two months.

Viets Eye End to U.S. Deadlock

U.S. Loan Offer Riles Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Criticism of the United States welled up today over the terms of a military loan offer to aid Malaysia in its defense against Indonesia.

The government said Tuesday night it has rejected the offer because the United States wanted to charge 5 per cent interest. The loan, to run from five to seven years, was to be used for buying American planes and other military supplies.

"We have to reject this kind of assistance," Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak told the House of Representatives. "We thought our friends would look to us with sympathy in our time of difficulty."

U.S. officials said 5 per cent interest was normal for short-term credits for purchase of military equipment.

IN DIFFERENT LIGHT

"Any aid to Malaysia must be given in the light of saving democracy and not on the basis of trade," said Sen. Athi Naphan of the Malaysian Indian Congress, a member of the government coalition.

Tan Chee Khoo, leader of the small opposition Socialist Front, called on the government to make a "complete reappraisal of its attempts to obtain aid from the West so that Malaysia will not become a pawn in the game of politics."

A spokesman for Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman's party, the United Malay National Organization, told the Malay Mail: "All along we were doubtful of U.S. aid. At least we know now just how sincere the Americans are toward Malaysia."

Razak told the House his government would accept an American offer to train military personnel. Originally the United States offered to train pilots to fly the jets it was going to sell Malaysia.

DEFEND DEMOCRACY

"Since we are defending not only ourselves but also democracy in this part of the world, our friends ought to look at us with more sympathy and give us more aid," Razak declared.

Britain has been shouldering the bulk of Malaysia's defense burden and is expected to continue doing so.

Indonesian President Sukarno has vowed to destroy Malaysia, a federation of former British territories in Southeast Asia. Indonesia sends raiders across the border into Malaysian Borneo, lands small groups of invaders on the Malaysian mainland, and harasses Malaysian fishing boats in the Strait of Malacca.

Detroit Pair Released in Death Case

PORT HURON (AP) — Two Detroit brothers under investigation in the slaying of a farmer during an argument have been released by St. Clair County authorities for lack of evidence.

Two sheriff's deputies have been assigned to continue the investigation of the shooting which resulted in the death of Ralph Plankard, a Capac area farmer, last Thursday.

The brothers, Lawrence Rice, 42, and Elliott, 48, were hunting rabbits at the time of the incident. Authorities quoted them as saying Plankard was shot accidentally at point blank range when he tried to wrest a shotgun from one of them.

No charges were placed against the pair.

Ohio Congressman Backs Ford's Bid

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Rep. Charles A. Mosher, R-Ohio announced Monday his support for Congressman Gerald R. Ford Jr. of Michigan to replace Rep. Charles A. Halleck, R-Indiana, as minority leader in the House.

Mosher is the first of Ohio's 18 Republican congressmen to support Ford, Grand Rapids, Mich., Republican.

"Halleck has tended to go stale," Mosher said, adding that "two more years under his leadership would be like treading water, it would be a static period."

WOUNDED GUERRILLA — Vietnamese rangers drag a badly wounded Viet Cong guerrilla from a hiding place in a rice paddy at Dai Ngai after the rangers overran the major Red stronghold in the Mekong Delta recently. Other rangers carry captured weapons.

Military Chief, Staff Confer

$600 Million in Aid Withheld by Yanks

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, Viet Nam's military commander, and his general staff flew to the seaside resort of Cap St. Jacques today for conferences apparently aimed at ending the deadlock with the United States.

The United States has been holding back an estimated $600 million offer of expanded aid for Viet Nam since Khanh and his generals ousted the civilian High National Council on Dec. 20 and arrested a number of political leaders.

The United States has demanded that the council, which was South Viet Nam's provisional legislature, be reinstated in some form. It also wants the political prisoners released. Khanh has hinted that he is ready to do without American aid rather than give in to Washington's demands.

ISSUE COMMUNIQUE

Chief of State Phan Khanh Suu and Premier Tran Van Huong issued a commune Monday calling on Khanh and his followers to restore the national council.

Suu and Huong were not ousted in the military purge, but they said it had shaken the foundation of their government. Both were named by the High National Council.

The Education Ministry announced today that it would suspend students from classes for a year and bar them from taking examinations if they indulge in political activities at school or incite students to demonstrate.

At least four controversial generals were retired or dismissed from the armed forces last week, it was learned today. A dispute over whether they should be thrown out was a key reason for Khanh's purge of the national council.

RETIREMENT

Khanh had called for mandatory retirement of all officers with 25 years or more service, with the exception of Brig. Gen. Phan Van Dong, military governor of Saigon. Civilian leaders opposed the proposal and when the High National Council tabled it indefinitely, Khanh ordered the council purged.

Maj. Gen. Tran Van Don, Mal Huu Xuan and Le Van Kim, and Brig. Gen. Do Mau all have been retired, a source close to one of them reported.

Over Soviet Vote

U.N. May Avoid Showdown

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The way was reported clear today for the U.N. General Assembly to clean up year-end business without a showdown over the Soviet Union's vote.

Assembly President Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana, was expected to tell the assembly this morning that he had worked out an agreement with key delegates.

Diplomatic sources said the agreement would let the assembly elect four new Security Council members and adopt a stopgap budgetary resolution by the general consent procedure that was used on opening day.

Negro-Police Relations Aired

Civil Rights Backers Meet With Cavanagh

DETROIT (AP) — Representatives of 10 groups concerned with civil rights met with Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh Monday and demanded an improvement in relations between police and the Negro community.

Included in the group's recommendations were establishment of a civilian review board to investigate and rule on charges of police brutality and the integration of special four-man police cruisers assigned to control outbreaks of violence.

Also discussed was the possibility of adopting a rule that would prevent police officers from shooting to kill unless someone was in danger of bodily harm.

The committee cited the case last week in which an unarmed 15-year-old boy was shot and killed when he refused to stop in his flight from a ransacked house.

NO NECESSITY

Cavanagh told newsmen after the meeting he saw no necessity for a review board if the mayor and the police commissioner perform their duties.

In urging integration of the special police cruisers, Rev. James Wadsworth Jr., president of the Detroit branch of the NAACP, said the presence of a Negro in the cars would give the colored community greater trust in the police department.

Other groups besides the NAACP who met with Cavanagh were the Cottillion Club, the American Civil Liberties Union, the Urban League, the Congress for Racial Equality, the National Lawyers Guild, the Wolverine Bar Association, the Metropolitan Democratic League of County Associations, the National Student Association, and the Adult Community Movement for Equality.

Flood Victims Call Motel Home

KLAMATH, Calif. (AP) — The far-famed state redwoods located six miles north of Klamath on scenic coastal Highway 101, attract thousands of tourists in downy summertime.

Today the motel at the famous redwood grove is an around-the-clock shelter and kitchen for hundreds left homeless by raging waters of the Klamath River.

When the river swept the villages of Klamath and Klamath Glen into the Pacific a week ago, "The Trees" motel and restaurant was back in business. But not commercially.

Owner Jack Morris, who had closed for the winter, isn't asking for any money, in keeping with the spirit that has provided relief to flood-stricken families in stricken Northern California.

CONSTANT EFFORT

"Morris, his wife and a cook, Mrs. Rose Rode, have been helping and cooking constantly for these people," reported photographer Peia Palmquist, who was airlifted by Marine helicopter into the isolated resort.

Palmquist said that meals were being provided daily for 200 persons, 75 of whom were bedding down at the motel. The others were in nearby private homes or vacant buildings.

back to clean up and salvage the remains."

NO COMPLAINTS

Their southern exit along Highway 101 was severed when the 1,000-foot concrete Bear Bridge collapsed into the Klamath's frenzied waters.

Their northern exit ends 20 miles away at Crescent City, a community of 3,000 also stranded because of wrecked highways.

"But I didn't hear a single complaint from these people," Palmquist said.

The Klamath River refugees mostly work in lumber mills or cater to the area's tourist-oriented businesses.

"Now," Palmquist reported, "the beaches as far as eye can see are littered with bits of everything. The houses are just broken pieces — splinters."

"It's all come down the river to the sea, and the sea tossed it back on the beaches."

Detroit Area Experiment

End Bail Bonds for Some

LANSING — An experiment to eliminate bail bonds for persons accused of crimes but known to have strong community roots will be tried in the Detroit area within the next two months, State Supreme Court Chief Justice Thomas Kavanagh said yesterday.

Investigators would report whether they think the accused has sufficient community ties to justify releasing him on his own recognizance.

The judge would make the final determination.

This would apply to persons accused of crimes other than those involving sex, narcotics and violence.

If the Detroit project is successful, a study will be made to determine if present law can be changed to make the application uniform in the state.

PANEL APPOINTED

Kavanagh, a member of the executive board of the National Conference on Bail and Criminal Education of the University of Michigan Law School, announced the appointment of a bail and criminal justice committee to conduct the study.

Damon Keith, Detroit attorney, will chair the committee.

The Michigan project would be patterned after Manhattan and District of Columbia bail projects.

Kavanagh said these two projects indicate large sums of money can be saved the taxpayers by releasing respondents on their own recognizance.

STEADILY EMPLOYED

"This is especially true," he said, of those who are steadily employed and who can continue to support their families, earn sufficient money to employ counsel to represent them, and, if placed on probation, continue in their regular employment."

In such cases, the number of those failing to appear for trial was less than those released on bond, he said of past experiments elsewhere.

This is not a program for the indigent defendant, Kavanagh said, but rather to help all who are unfortunately involved in crime.

It is particularly helpful, he said, to the middle income group who have payments on homes, a family and other responsibilities.

LARGE FEES

"Rather than paying large fees to professional bondsmen," Kavanagh said, "these individuals would be permitted, in the discretion of the judge, to continue a productive life caring for their families and maintaining their employment."

Key to making the experimental Detroit project work would be the use of University of Michigan law students as investigators.

Kavanagh said the project was encouraged by Detroit court and police officials.

Shake-Up Report Has U.S. Officials on Edge

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson had a lot of officials and their wives sitting on the edge of their chairs today, some with a sense of foreboding, some in hopeful expectation.

Much excitement was aroused by word that the President plans a shake-up in his "little Cabinet"; that he will make many new appointments to such posts as undersecretary, assistant secretary and other administrators.

The President has ordered a "talent scan." He wants, so far as possible, to recruit his new administrators from men and women already in the government.

So the question arose: Who will get the ax, and who will be promoted to jobs paying as high as $30,000 a year?

HARD TO CRACK

It is one of the hardest secrets to crack, because the President is playing his cards so close to his chest.

Johnson dipped into government ranks in making two of his most recent appointments. Saturday he named William J. Driver to head the Veterans Administration. Monday night he selected Sheldon S. Cohen to be collector of internal revenue.

Driver, who had been deputy VA administrator, succeeds John S. Gleason Jr., who resigned. Cohen, chief counsel of the IRS, succeeds acting Commissioner Bertrand Harding, who had been serving since Mortimer Caplin resigned last July.

Some doubt is expressed as to how sweeping the "little Cabinet" shake-up will be. All such officials submit their resignations, as a matter of formality, when a president is newly inaugurated. The President can give a man the gate by merely accepting the resignations.

TOP MANAGER

But will he do this, for example, to Charles S. Murphy, undersecretary of agriculture? Murphy was a top manager of Johnson's campaign for the presidential nomination in 1960. Or to Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of LBJ's kiel?

Or to W. Averell Harriman, long-time Democratic stalwart and specialist in foreign affairs? He is an undersecretary of state. Incidents take into consideration talk that relations between him and Johnson are not close.

Without firing anybody, the President can put the LBJ brand on much of the government when he fills a long list of existing vacancies.

FEDERAL JUDGESHIPS

These include about 15 federal judgeships, nearly as many little Cabinet positions and seven ambassadorships.

Among the vacancies are: deputy attorney general, two undersecretaries of the Treasury, assistant secretary of state, undersecretary of the Army, two seats on the Interstate Commerce Commission, one on the Federal Power Commission, one on the Tariff Commission, one on the Civil Aeronautics Board, administrator of the General Services Administration and executive director of the Civil Rights Commission.

McCormack Holds Key to Plan for Changes in House Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaker John W. McCormack may decide today how far the Democratic leadership will go in co-operating with a group of liberals seeking changes in House rules and reprisals against two Southern Democrats.

McCormack was to return to Washington today. Without his support the changes sponsored by a Democratic study group headed by Rep. John A. Blatnik of Minnesota would have enough stalling in the party caucus next Saturday.

Blatnik said in an interview his group of more than 100 members intends to push its program. But he would make no prediction about the outcome before conferring with McCormack.

Persons close to McCormack represented him as being favorably disposed to one of the major proposals of the Blatnik group. This would break the grip of the Rules Committee on legislation by limiting to 21 days the time it could block a House vote on bills approved by other committees.

POSSIBLE 'RUNAWAY'

To minimize the danger of possible "runaway" committees' bringing undesirable bills to the floor, the speaker would determine what measures would be taken up after a 21-day delay in the Rules Committee.

McCormack also was represented as having no objection to several other proposals involving parliamentary procedure and Democratic party organization in the House.

However, he reportedly wants to take a longer look at proposals to strip the two Southern members of their party standing and seniority, to change the membership ratio on the Ways and Means Committee and to lower the number of signatures needed to make a discharge petition effective.

The Democrats marked for a "purge" if the Blatnik group has its way are Reps. John Bell Williams of Mississippi and Albert W. Watson of South Carolina. Both openly supported Sen. Barry Goldwater's presidential candidacy.

LESS DRASTIC

Some Democrats are urging McCormack to support a less drastic plan by forgiving Williams and Watson but putting the party caucus on record as determined to get tough on Democrats who bolt party lines in the future.

Holiday Strike Looms as Hotel Offer Rejected

DETROIT (AP) — Possibility of a strike by hotel workers in Detroit at midnight on New Year's Eve loomed today with union rejection of a wage offer.

Involved are some 3,000 employees at 10 major hotels.

The Detroit Hotel Association said the rejected offer was "very fair," and it is asking for no further negotiating meetings with bargainers for the Detroit Joint Board of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes and Bar-Tenders. The latter represents four AFL-CIO union locals.

The offer reportedly would have given maids a 16-cent-an-hour increase over a three-year period. Nontip workers would have received 12 cents an hour and tipped employees 7½ cents.

A union spokesman contended that Detroit hotel workers are paid less than hotel workers in other major U.S. cities.

3-Day Yule Traffic Kills 578 in Nation

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's traffic deaths over the weekend totaled 578, second highest toll for a three-day Christmas holiday weekend.

The record toll for a three-day Christmas holiday period is 609 set in 1955. This year's total compared with 396 fatalities reported in a three-day nonholiday weekend earlier this month.

The National Safety Council had estimated between 550 and 650 deaths during the 78-hour holiday period. For a similar period for the New Year's holiday weekend, the council estimated a traffic death toll of from 390 to 360.

Four million, ninety-eight thousand and twenty babies were born in the U.S. during 1963.

Report Players Get Incentives

Teams Deny Gift Bonuses

By The Associated Press.

Officials of the Buffalo Bills and Baltimore Colts denied reports Monday that their players were rewarded with incentive bonuses for victories.

Both American and National Football League rules prohibit bonuses for winning a game or a title.

Ralph Wilson, president of the Bills, denied a report that he had given each player $2,000 for beating the San Diego Chargers for the AFL title Saturday.

AFL Commissioner Joe Foss said Wilson called him to say it was not so.

The Baltimore News-American, in a story written by sports editor John Steadman, said owner Carroll Rosenbloom of the Colts distributed $100,000 among his players "as a reward" for winning the NFL's Western Division title. The Colts lost the championship playoff to the Cleveland Browns 27-0 Sunday.

"We have an incentive plan," said Kellett, but he denied the plan had anything to do with the title.

Steadman said the money "can be a gift or even a gratuity for professional services rendered."

He said several Colts confirmed they received the extra compensation. The Colts will receive about $5,000 anyway for their losing effort in the championship game.

WILL CHECK
NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said he would check into the Baltimore report as a matter of course but he had not made any attempt to reach Rosenbloom yet.

"These stories crop up from time to time and usually are erroneous," said Rozelle. "I will get in touch with Rosenbloom to look into it but I wouldn't call it a probe or anything like that."

"Our only rule on it is this: No blanket bonus for incentive for winning a game or a title. An individual player can have a bonus arrangement in his contract."

"But it is customary for players to be given rings or watches at the end of a season by the club."

PNH Mentor Is Confident; Zittel Wary

Unbeaten PCH Enters Huskies' Den Seeking Sixth Triumph

Pontiac Northern basketball coach Dick Hall is confident; Central's Fred Zittel takes a more wary position on the outcome of tonight's game between the city rivals.

"We are going to win," flatly stated Hall, one of the most optimistic coaches in the state. "The attitude of the boys (PNH) is excellent. This is the game they've been waiting for."

Zittel, on the other hand, points to Northern's home court advantage that "should be worth at least eight points." He also feels that "it is going to be difficult to stop Roger Hayward."

"And then there's the experience factor," commented the PCH coach. "They have more players with varsity experience than we do. This will help Northern."

One fact remains clear.

The Chiefs are unbeaten in five games and will be favored when the team's line up for the 8 p.m. tip-off. The junior varsity contest starts at 6:30.

PCH hasn't really been pressed while defeating Waterford, Flint Central, Saginaw River Hill, Bay City Central and Midland.

Even Record
Northern has a 2-2 record with the losses being close tilts with Flint Southwestern and Strong Highland Park. Mt. Clemens and Roseville have been defeated.

Central's success is built around the shooting of Carl Arnold, the rebounding of Jess Evans and Willie Adams, and the improving play of John Hooper.

Evans has come on strong in the last two games to up his scoring average to 17 points a game. Arnold is averaging 20 points a game.

Jim McClendon probably will be the fifth PCH starter. Hayward, Larry Frye and Dave Sudbury all top the 6-4 mark for Northern, giving the Huskies strong board play. In addition to averaging 17 rebounds a game, Hayward has been scoring at a 12-1 edge in the court play between the two schools. Northern's lone victory was recorded during the 1962-63 season.

The Huskies like to fast-break whenever possible. Central's offense, which has turned in 66 points a game, is a little slower but the Chiefs will run if the opposition leaves the door open.

'M' Ice Unit Trips Harvard

Northeastern knocked Boston University from the ranks of the undefeated in the first game of the doubleheader 4-3, with Larry Bone of Newmarket, Ont., getting the winning goal.

Michigan built up an early 3-0 lead on first period goals by Hank Brand and Mel Wakabashi and Barry MacDonald's long screened shot in the second stanza.

There's No Room Left for PNH-PCH Contest

Spartans Fall in Tournament

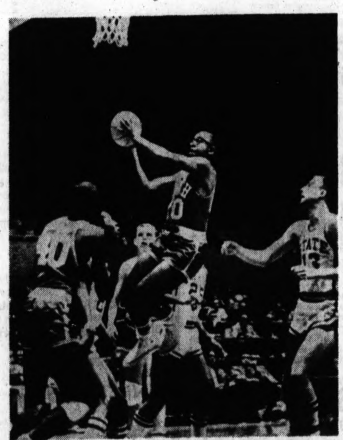

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Michigan State put a scare into unbeaten Utah Monday night before dropping a 98-86 thriller in the first round of the Los Angeles Classic.

The Spartans met Southern California and Washington took over Arizona in the consolation bracket this afternoon.

Utah, now 3-0, meets Iowa and Minnesota is slated against UCLA in the semi-finals tonight. With less than two minutes to play, and Utah holding a comfortable 97-84 lead, MSU caught fire. The Spartans scored 10 points in a row to close the margin to 97-84. The Utes' George Fisher sank a free throw to break the Spartan scoring string. A 15-footer by Bill Curtis left MSU two points short at the buzzer.

90-77 Victory Puts Squad in Semifinals

NEW YORK (AP)—No Broadway producer could have picked a better stage for the head-on clash tonight between Michigan's Cazzie Russell and Princeton's Bill Bradley.

The two superstars, who just may be the best two collegiate basketball players in the country, will take the boards before an estimated 18,000 cage fans in the basketball mecca—Madison Square Garden.

Michigan made the semifinals of New York's Holiday Festival with a 90-77 victory over Manhattan Monday night. Princeton held off Syracuse 79-69. Both Russell and Bradley, a Rhodes Scholar, scored 36 points.

Cazzie got his on 15 field goals in 26 ties and six of seven free throws. He added 13 rebounds and five assists.

Bradley hit 11 of 20 floor shots and 14 of 15 free throws. He managed eight rebounds but made no assists.

FIRE AWAY

The 6-foot-6 Russell helped the Wolverines to a 45-39 halftime margin with a 22-point burst. While the rest of the No. 1 ranked Michigan squad succumbed to the jitters that often beset teams unfamiliar with the musty Garden, Cazzie fired away.

He scored seven points as the Wolverines came alive to outscore Manhattan 17-2 midway through the final half. The sport gave Michigan a commanding 84-60 lead as it rolled up its seventh victory in eight games.

Bradley, playing with a far inferior supporting cast, was equally impressive. He scored 12 straight Princeton points over one stretch, pulling the Tigers from a 39-42 deficit to a 51-46 lead that stood up the rest of the way.

RECORD CROWDS

Cincinnati blasted Temple 83-56 and St. John's of New York held off LaSalle 78-71 in the other first rounders, which attracted a record total of 35,682 to the two doubleheaders.

That sets up this line-up for Wednesday:

Consolation semifinals in the afternoon:

Syracuse, 1-4, vs. Manhattan, 5-2, and Temple, 5-3, vs. LaSalle, 5-2. Championship semifinals Wednesday night: Cincinnati, 7-1, vs. St. John's, 5-2, and Michigan, 7-1, vs. Princeton, 6-2. The finals are scheduled for Saturday.

Win Over Colts Called for Strategy

Browns' Coach Reveals Master Plan

CLEVELAND (AP) — Blanton Collier revealed the Cleveland Browns' master plan for victory Monday in the wake of his smashing 27-0 victory over the Baltimore Colts in Sunday's National Football League championship.

Collier, a modest man who insists on shunning the role of mastermind and passes on the credit to the players and assistant coaches, pulled a game plan out of his coat pocket at an interview in his stadium office.

"We had decided to run Ernie Green at the start and see what they were going to do about covering Jim Brown. It didn't take long for me to decide that they weren't going to stop him. You could see this was going to be another one of his real good days."

"Once you knew Jim could run on them, the next question was in what area. We found he could get yardage up the middle in the first half."

However, the score was 0-0 at half time so a change in strategy obviously was dictated.

"We went to the double wing, just as they did against us," said Collier. "Our version is a little different than their version. We put Green outside and play Paul Warfield in tight on the left. John Brewer is in tight on the right and Gary Collins is the flanker."

"If the linebacker tries to hold Collins at the line of scrimmage, he can't get out to stop Brown going wide. If the linebacker moves outside to stop Brown, that leaves Collins with a one-on-one situation against their safety."

PLAN WORKED

The plan worked. Brown ran for 114 yards on 27 carries, including a 46-yard gallop. Collins caught three touchdown passes from Frank Ryan, setting a title game record for most scoring passes caught. At the end of the wintery afternoon on the wind-swept lake front, Collins had caught five passes for 130 yards.

Arkansas Golfer Takes

'64 Rookie Pro Honor

NORWALK, Conn. (UPI) — Golf Digest magazine has selected Dick Sikes of Springdale, Ark., 1964's pro golf rookie of the year.

Sikes won $23,353.09 while competing in less than half of the official PGA tournaments in order to complete his studies at the University of Arkansas.

Collier said his defensive plan had gone back to fundamentals for the first of their two weeks of preparation for the game, stressing position play.

"There was no master minding," he said. "We all worked together on defense. Howard Brinker, Ed Uliniski and Nick Skorich assistant coaches specializing in defense and we were very fortunate."

"We tried to cover Johnny Unitas' primary receiver and force him to look for a second receiver, giving our line a chance to get to him. If you leave his first receiver open, Johnny will destroy you."

"We knew he liked to throw to Raymond Berry. He did complete three passes to him. So we set up a double coverage on Berry. I told Walter Beach, our right corner man, to get all over Berry, play him like an all-court press in basketball, get in his face and don't worry about any zone."

"That permits our deep man, Larry Benz, to play loose to protect against a long pattern. Fortunately they went to the short pattern with Berry most of the time."

Washington News Briefs

Sees 3 in Race for Dem Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma believes the race for the assistant Senate Democratic leadership will end with his own selection as a compromise.

Monroney said in an interview Monday the contest is a close one among three senators — John O. Pastore of Rhode Island, Russell B. Long of Louisiana, and Monroney.

The second spot is being vacated by Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota. A Democratic caucus — voting by secret ballot, according to Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana — will choose Humphrey's successor Jan. 4.

Long has claimed at least 30 votes. Monroney believes Long will fall significantly short of that total. He is offering himself as a compromise choice between the Southern conservative bloc, from which Long draws the bulk of his support, and the eastern liberal senators backing Pastore.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The

State Department says investigation is continuing into the reported illegal export of two American fighter planes to Haiti last September.

A department spokesman denied Monday published reports that it had persuaded authorities to avoid unveiling techniques of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The New York Times and New York Herald Tribune accounts also said prosecution of a Haitian consular official had been dropped to avoid reprisals against U.S. Embassy representatives in Haiti.

"We have not been asked by CIA to ask dropping of prosecution," a State Department spokesman said. If events should warrant prosecution, he added, "there would be no objection on our part to normal judicial procedure being followed."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI has asked police departments to spell out the precise nature of morals offenses against government employees when submitting fingerprint cards to the FBI's central print files.

A bureau spokesman said Monday the request merely reiterates a policy of long standing and has nothing to do with the recent Walter Jenkins case. Jenkins resigned as an assistant to President Johnson after two arrests on morals charges were made public. His resignation was asked by the President.

11th Victim of Gangs in Boston Area

BOSTON (AP) — The new count in Boston: 11 men slain in unsolved gangland style murders in the greater Boston area since March.

The latest was George E. Ash, 43, stabbed more than 50 times and shot in the head before his body was found in a parked car early yesterday.

Ash had worked as a bartender in Boston's Brighton section after his release eight months ago from Rhode Island State Prison.

He had served four years after conviction for his part in the Providence slaying of Albert G. (Porty) Freeland.

Police found the body after an anonymous telephone call. "Check the sedan parked across the street from St. Philip's Church on Harrison Avenue and you'll find something there."

APPARENTLY SHOT

Dr. Richard E. Ford, medical examiner, said Ash was apparently shot after a frenzied stabbing attack.

Police said Ash had last been seen Christmas night when he took presents to his two nieces in Marshfield. It was then he borrowed the car — owned by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Ash.

A Boston police official said a feud between rival gang factions may account for the 11 killings and a half dozen attempted murders recently.

He said, "The men we are looking for are tough, fearless hoodlums — tallgators who rob from open trucks, and holdup men — not syndicate racketeers and bookmakers."

Ash's body was identified by his brother, William, a Boston policeman assigned to city prison.

Red Border Guards Fire 70 Flares in Air

BERLIN (AP) — More than 70 flares were fired into the air by the Communist border guards of East Germany last night along the fortified border surrounding West Berlin, Western police reported today.

Red guards also fired seven rounds from rifles and sub-machine guns. West police said the flares and shots, fired at the western and northern sections of the border, presumably were aimed at refugees.

ALL THIS FOR ME? — Israel Kallus, a 14-year-old first-year student at New Israel Rabbinical College, Baltimore, Md., is bewildered after receiving a $10,000 treasury note in the mail from a Western Maryland bank.

Kallus had written the bank asking about an account. His reply contained a $10,000 note. A bank employee put the note in the wrong envelope, it seems.

Husband, Wife Dead

Double Death Baffles Police

LONDON (AP) — Shortly before dawn yesterday Charles Bailey, 43, roared down Britain's speedy M1 motorway. Near Friar's Wash, the car ploughed into a concrete pillar of a bridge.

"I've seldom seen a car so damaged," said a policeman. "The length of the car was reduced from 14 feet to 8 feet."

Beneath the twisted steering wheel — with his safety belt still around him — was Charles Bailey, dead.

"UPSTAIRS ASLEEP"

"Where are your parents?" the policeman asked 20-year-old Janice Bailey.

"Upstairs asleep," replied the girl. "Wait here and I'll get them."

A few minutes later she ran down the stairs and said, "Mother — I'm afraid mother's dead, and father's not here."

The policeman found Mrs. Bailey's fully clothed body in bed, beneath the covers. She appeared to have been suffocated.

In addition to Janice, there were six other Bailey children in the house.

WENT TO BED

They told the police that when they went to bed the night before, their parents were sitting in the living room having a drink before a Christmas tree.

"At this point, we're completely baffled," said a spokesman for Scotland Yard.

Detroit Lawyer Joins Race With Swainson

DETROIT (AP) — Former Gov. John Swainson will oppose by Seymour Markowitz, a Detroit attorney, in the April 5 election to fill a vacancy on the Wayne County Circuit Court bench.

Markowitz filed for the office Monday before the closing deadline for nominations. The vacancy was created by the death last August of Judge Miles Culehan.

Pagan, a ruined Burmese city whose founding dates back to about A.D. 100, covers 16 square miles beside the Irrawaddy River. About 5,000 pagodas still stand in Pagan, most built between 1057 and 1284, before the Mongol invasion.

We're Closer to Being Worms Than Insects

MONTREAL (AP) — "If your wife calls you a worm, she's closer to being scientifically accurate than if she calls you an insect," a U.S. government insect expert said today.

The reason, said entomologist Arthur M. Heimpel of Beltsville, Md., is that worms, like humans, have proteins in their tissues, but insects do not.

Judge Raps Proposal to Limit News

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the State Supreme Court has joined Chief Justice John C. Bell in voicing disapproval of a set of guidelines concerning crime news proposed by the Philadelphia Bar Association.

"Curbing crime news is like recommending that no one talk about cancer on the theory that silence will cause cancer somehow to disappear," Musmanno said Monday.

The chief justice said Saturday he was "astounded at several of the recommendations made recently by the Bar's Criminal Law Committee."

The code proposes limiting the amount of information about a crime or a suspect that policemen and lawyers could release. The code also proposed limitations on the arrest and questioning of some suspects. The bar association is to vote on it today.

LIGHT NEEDED
Musmanno asserted that crime today is a cancerous growth on the American people and the means to cure it "can be more successfully achieved in light than in darkness."

"Instead of darkness on crime activities, there should be flaming torches," Musmanno said. "What we need is an acceleration of crime news, not a retardation."

The chief justice said the public, not criminals, needs more protection. And he said the public needs more, not less crime news. He said the proposed guidelines would restrict the amount of news about crime.

He said if news media are "muzzled or gagged," crime will be more rampant.

"Justice is a two-way street," said the chief justice, "where the rights of the peaceful citizens are at least as important as those of a criminal."

S.S. Cohen Chief of IRS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sheldon S. Cohen, who says he wants Americans to feel the Internal Revenue Service is not an agency to fear—it makes the government run—it has been selected by President Johnson to be the nation's top tax collector.

Cohen, 37, a native of Washington, is chief counsel of the IRS—a post to which he was named by Johnson a year ago Wednesday. His nomination as IRS commissioner was announced by the President Monday night.

The nomination requires Senate confirmation. Cohen expressed delight over his selection and said he had no specific plans at this time for IRS innovations. He said former Commissioner Mortimer Caplan had done "a remarkable job of bringing the mission of IRS home to the public" and that he would work for close cooperation between the service and the public.

TO SUCCEED HARDING
Cohen will succeed Bertrand Harding as head of the IRS. Harding was named acting commissioner to succeed Caplan last July 10 when Caplan resigned to reenter law practice.

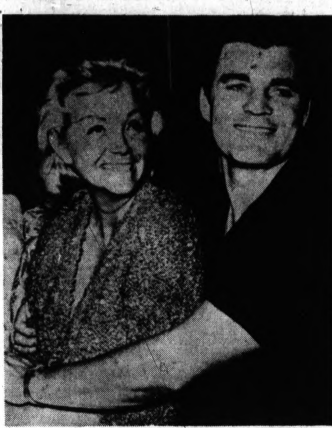

On June 28, 1927, and served in the Navy in 1945 and 1946. He was graduated from George Washington University here in 1948 with a degree in accounting. He completed his law course at George Washington in two years, finishing first in his class in 1952. A year later, he qualified as a certified public accountant.

He has been an associate professional lecturer at George Washington since 1958.

In 1960 he joined the Washington law firm of Arnold, Fortas and Porter.

He married Faye Fram of Baltimore 13 years ago. They now live in suburban Chevy Chase, Md., and have four children: Melinda Ann, 8, Laura Eve, 5, Jonathan Adam, 3, and Sharon Rowan, 10 months.

CHIEF COUNSEL
When Cohen became chief counsel a year ago, his salary was $19,000. This was increased to $26,000 under the government salary bill passed last August. As commissioner, he'll get $28,500.

120 Whites Are Rescued From Rebels in the Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI)—Congolese troops led by mercenaries today rescued about 120 white hostages from the rebels in the northeastern Congo town of Wamba, sources close to army headquarters said.

Wamba was one of the last towns in the northeastern Congo known to hold a concentration of whites held hostage by the Communist-backed rebels.

Something Missing in Back of Car

FRANKLIN, Ind. (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Linda Ann Sipes of Battle Creek, Mich., was asleep in the back seat, was when her parents stopped at Whitehall north of here today to get gasoline and use the rest stations.

Linda Ann woke up and also went to the rest station, missing her mother en route.

Three hours and 135 miles later in Warsaw, in northern Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Sipes discovered Linda Ann wasn't in the back seat. Sipes got in touch with the Ligonier State Police Post.

The post asked other units to check filling stations in the Whitehall area and sure enough there was Linda Ann waiting at one for her parents to return.

SAT TO WAIT

The family was en route home after a holiday trip.

Sea Bottom to Be Source of Minerals

NEW YORK (AP)—Mining on the moon? It's doubtful! But the sea bottom will eventually be a source of minerals such as manganese, cobalt and gold and they will be mined by processing plants 50 to 200 feet under the sea, an expert predicts.

Prof. A. M. Gaudin of the Dept. of Metallurgy of Massachusetts Institute of Technology says the lack of any such energy as gas, coal or oil will make moon mining an impossibility.

At the VII International Mineral Processing Congress meeting, held here in observance of the 100th anniversary of mining education at Columbia University, he said that a submarine processing plant at great depth in the sea would operate by sucking up ocean bottom mud containing metallic nodules for treatment and dropping the reject back to the sea floor. Such a plant would be insensitive to storms, he added.

Jailed Writer Raps Sentence

Writes Letter to Court Criticizing His Case

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Melchior Wankowicz, the Polish-American writer facing an 18-month prison sentence, has written a letter to the Polish Supreme Court criticizing his trial and conviction on charges of slandering the Polish government.

Relatives said the letter was an explanation of the 72-year-old naturalized American's decision not to appeal his conviction. They said Wankowicz believed an appeal would constitute an endorsement of proceedings which he considered unfair.

"I don't know what is going to happen to me," Wankowicz calmly told a reporter, adding that he felt it inadvisable to discuss his case with newsmen.

FIGURED IN CHARGES

A letter from Wankowicz to Mrs. Erdman figured in the charges against him. The government contended the letter, complaining of repression of Polish intellectuals, found its way to Radio Free Europe.

Mrs. Erdman, whose husband works for the U.S. Information Agency, told a reporter, "That letter has never left our home."

Lawyers said Wankowicz's sentence became final a week ago but the government could postpone it because of lack of space in prison, the age of the defendant, or without giving a reason.

'DROP OF GOLD'
"Every while who comes out of this area is a drop of gold," a military observer said recently, reflecting the anxiety felt for the hostages still in rebel hands after the American-Belgian rescue operation ended last month.

The Belgian paratroopers rescued twenty from Stanleyville and Paulis only.

Hubert Quits as Senator in Minnesota

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey formally resigned as a Democratic senator from Minnesota today.

The resignation, effective at the close of business today, clears the way for the appointment by Gov. Karl Rolvaag of Walter Frederick Mondale, 36-year-old Minnesota attorney general, to serve during the remaining two years of Humphrey's Senate term.

Humphrey's announcement came with his release of a letter to the governor, dated last Wednesday, saying he was resigning at the close of business today to permit the appointment of a new senator effective tomorrow.

The governor announced Nov. 18 he had chosen Mondale, who has described himself as a liberal with views that "closely coincide" with those of President Johnson and Humphrey, to replace the vice president-elect.

Although Humphrey goes off the Senate payroll tonight, and will not begin drawing his vice presidential salary until his inauguration Jan. 20, he quit the Senate early to give Mondale seniority over some new senators.

Romney Hears Plans for State 'White House'

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney heard proposals Monday for a $750,000 governor's residence, complete with swimming pool, and said they "make the present operation of the governor's office seem like small potatoes."

"I'm not for spending any more money than we need for this," Romney said. The legislative study committee which outlined the plans for him.

They included a master bedroom and four others, a library or den, a family living room and dining room, a recreation room, a place to accommodate groups as large as 150 for informal dining, an enclosed swimming pool and a four-car garage.

There also would be a state room for receptions, a state dining room to accommodate 24 persons, two state bedrooms and a sitting room, service areas, utilities including a kitchen and serving room, a laundry and elevator and quarters for a staff including a driver.

PRICE TAG
Such an official governor's residence could be built for about $750,000, A. N. Langius, head of the State Building Division, told the committee.

It was the first time Romney has appeared before a legislative committee in his two years in office. But the topic — what kind of official residence to build for the governor — was considered unusual.

At one point, he shrugged and said: "I don't expect to occupy it anyway."

The committee's concept, Romney said, "ceases to be a governor's residence and becomes a governor's mansion."

The two-story and basement dwelling, described by the committee as "modest yet dignified in character," would be air conditioned and would include a terrace and gardens and parking for 15 cars.

The family portion of the house would be isolated from the state portion.

"You ought to make it possible for the family involved to have some privacy," Romney observed.

The governor agreed with the committee that the residence should be made a part of the capital development area directly to the rear of the State Capitol, or should be near it.

New Methods to Fight Pests in Works

By FRANK CAREY

Some already are paying off in the fight against pests which cost the United States more than $2 billion a year in lost crops, to say nothing of livestock mortality and disease.

Dr. Nyle C. Brady of the U.S.

Department of Agriculture reported on the new weapons during a discussion of new approaches to pest control at an international science meeting here today.

The new weapons, he said, are in the experimental stage. But he said all of them show promise of helping intensify the war against pests — and perhaps overcoming the drawbacks posed by conventional chemical pesticides, including health hazards to men and animals.

STILL ESSENTIAL

As for the conventional, chemical pesticides — which have been a subject for controversy as a result of the late Rachel Carson's book "The Silent Spring" — Brady said in his report to the 131st meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science:

"Chemical pesticides are still essential to American agriculture and will be for some time. Today, however, the emphasis is on nonchemical approaches."

"In using chemicals, our greatest difficulties are concerned with the fact that some of them tend to persist in the environment... and build up in the bodies of biological organisms used for food."

Discussing some of the new nonchemical weapons, Brady said certain kinds of light — including ultraviolet or "invisible light" — show promise of controlling various insects "particularly those that fly long distances, such as some of the tobacco, cotton, and cabbage pests."

ATTRACT INSECTS

The lights, he indicated, attract insects to traps in some as yet unexplained way.

"We trapped tobacco hornworms in an area of 113 square miles in North Carolina for three years in succession, using near-ultraviolet light," he said. He added that the method reduced the hornworm population 90 per cent.

Scientist to See if Man Can Fly by Imitating Bird

By FRANK CAREY

That's where Leonardo the Flying by flapping your own wings is for the birds, but it may not be much longer.

A practical-minded scientist named John S. Seney, 50, of Seaford and a college junior, Stephen Moore, 19, of Fairfax, Va., have set out to determine whether or not the age-old dream of man flying like a bird can be made a reality.

Seney and Moore are hoping that electronic instruments, and a bird — a buzzard named Leonardo — will teach them how. Leonardo gets his name from the many-sided genius, Leonardo da Vinci, who tried, but failed, to solve the challenge of flight back in the early 16th century.

LITTLE FOLLOW-UP

The odd thing, as Seney sees it, is that so little effort has been made in modern times to follow up Da Vinci's idea.

"Steve contacted the Langley Field people, the biggest flight development center in the world, and consulted their librarian, and we just couldn't find anything on the actual dynamics of bird flight."

To Airlift Toys for Appalachia

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) —

Several more tons of toys, clothing and food will be airlifted from Selfridge Air Force Base near here today to bring holiday cheer to poverty-stricken families in Appalachia.

It will be the third plane load of such gifts to be flown from Michigan to Whitesburg, Ky. They were donated by citizens responding to a plea broadcast by television and radio last week.

Several agencies, including the Salvation Army, volunteered their assistance in the collecting, sorting and crating of the contributions, which may still be made until Friday.

'64 Was Turbulent but Good for Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD—This has been another turbulent year for the movie world.

Death, divorce, illness and a kidnap trial were among the top news stories of 1964. At year's end, more trouble appeared on the horizon. The industry was faced with the possibility of a major strike, and clashes over the moral content of movies seemed imminent.

Despite these travails, Hollywood appears healthier at the end of 1964 than it has in recent years.

With rare exceptions the film companies had good news for their stockholders this year. All this seemed to prove was some of us have suspected for a long time: that Hollywood thrives on trouble.

TOP STORIES

Here is how the top news stories of the movie world stacked up to this reporter:

1. The Sinatra kidnap trial. The bizarre kidnapping of Frank Sinatra Jr. at Lake Tahoe in December, 1963, was followed by a trial that was equally bizarre. It ended in the conviction of the three men accused of the crime.

2. The Elizabeth Taylor-Richard Burton wedding. The event itself may have seemed anticlimactic, but nevertheless the highly headlined pair continued to make news.

3. The deaths of Eddie Allen, Harpo Marx and Gladie Cantor. Coming within a few weeks of each other, the loss of these great stars seemed to signal the sunset of a great era in entertainment.

POITIER'S OSCAR

4. Sidney Poitier's Oscar. Few Academy Awards have been as happily received by the film community as Poitier's for "Lilies of the Field." The award to the Negro actor was well-served, but it was especially significant in a time of racial unrest. Patricia Neal's Oscar for "Hud" was another popular choice.

5. The death of Alan Ladd. The sudden passing of the iconic, steel-eyed star was a shock to Hollywood. He had only recently made a comeback with "The Carpetbaggers."

6. George Murphy's election to the Senate. The former dancer was scarcely taken seriously when he announced he would run for the U.S. Senate. Even some Hollywood Democrats couldn't disguise their pride when Murphy won the election, achieving the highest elective post for any film figure.

7. Peter Sellers' heart attack. The youthful, newly married British comedy star was rescued from death by a hospital team after eight heart arrests.

MARRIAGE FAILURE

8. Ethel Merman-Ernest Borgnine. Their much-publicized marriage lasted five weeks. At year's end "McHale's Navy" skipper was engaged again, to actress Donna Randall.

9. The Beatles. They were the hottest attraction in show business and their visit caused riots in Hollywood, as they have everywhere.

Junior Editors Quiz on Music

QUESTION: How did flats and sharps come to be used in music?

ANSWER: We are accustomed to think of musical scales as being based on groups of eight notes (octaves), but when musical notations was being worked out in the 10th century, the groups had 6 notes and were called hexachords.

They represented our notes C-D-E-F-G-A. These can all be played on the white keys of the piano.

Try them and you will find each note is a full tone (two semitones) above the other except for the interval between third and fourth—for F is only one semitone above E.

Then, musicians wanted to start hexachords from F. But here was a problem! Start with F and the interval between third and fourth notes is a full tone instead of the half one as in the C hexachord.

The musicians decided there should be a sign to put near B in such a case, which would show it was to be lowered by a half step, or softened.

B had been shown by the sign at upper right; the sign to show B was to be softened was drawn with a rounded shape and became our modern flat.

When one wanted to come back to the first B, the "natural" sign was to be used—we still use these today. Sharps were invented in the 1500's to show a tone was to be lifted a half step.

We show the original cross sign, then the sharp sign as we use them today. Sharps and flats gave so much richness to music that they soon became used for other notes besides B.

FOR YOU TO DO: Put your fingers on a piano keyboard as in (1) and play up on the white keys to next C. It will have a cheerful sound.

Now try (2) where you play the black note E flat instead of E. This will give the melancholy but beautiful minor scale giving a hint of the variety sharps and flats brought to music.

REPEAT OATH — County Clerk-Register of Deeds John D. Murphy (center) and Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson (right), are sworn in by Circuit Judge William J. Beer during ceremonies yesterday in the courthouse auditorium. Both men will assume duties Jan. 1. Murphy is the first Democrat to win his position, and Bronson is the first Democrat to be elected prosecutor, since the 1930s. Five new members of Bronson's staff were also sworn in.

LBJ Eyes Plan for Fast Transit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson plans to propose a high-speed transportation program that could lead to Americans rocketing between cities on cushions of air, through tubes or on electronically guided cars within 15 years.

High administration sources said an immediate result could be the fastest East Coast rail service in history in 1965.

These sources said Johnson probably will unveil the three-year research and test program in his state of the union message to Congress next Monday.

The long-range program will call for an initial $20 million outlay in the first year, a figure reported to have been approved by Johnson in his forthcoming budget.

If Congress approves that amount, $10 million would be spent for research and development of new ground transportation systems, $8 million for demonstration projects and $2 million for statistical studies.

One purpose of the studies will be to determine whether Americans actually want to travel at a speed of 200 miles an hour on the ground, or whether they would fear such fast rail travel.

While the research and development program is designed to solve nagging inter-city transportation problems between such municipalities as Boston and Washington, administration officials said the results would be used nationwide.

LONG RANGE AFFAIR — The research aspect of the program is a long-range affair — looking ahead to 1980. The demonstration project could take place next year.

Administration sources said talks have been under way with representatives of the Pennsylvania Railroad and New Haven Railroad about participation in the demonstration project. One official described the talks as "very encouraging."

It was understood the demonstration project would include 100-mile-an-hour electrical rail service between Washington and New York, possibly as far as New Haven, Conn.

The experiment would cut the traveling time from New York and Washington to less than three hours, compared to the four hours or more it now takes for the 250-mile train trip.

There would be statistical surveys made to find out if passengers will ride trains if they are fast, clean, on time and frequent.

Western States Start After-Flood Cleanup

Waterford Man Raps Contractor, Inspection

A resident's allegation that one of the water main contractors in Waterford Township was doing an incompetent job resulted last night in the Township Board requesting a full investigation of the contractor's performance.

F. L. Curry of 3540 Silver-side alleged that Schwab Brothers Co. of Buffalo, N. Y., was not using sufficient sand fill where the main is laid and that cleanup work following main laying is dragging.

"You're paying for a first class job," Curry, a retired Consumers Power Co. superintendent of new business, told board members. "But you're not getting it."

Curry cited at least five residents in his neighborhood where access to the driveway is cut off because of insufficient impaction where main was laid.

After the fill settled, depressions of a foot to 18 inches were reported by some residents.

IMPROPER FILLING

He pointed out also that there was indication of improper filling along Dixie.

Curry requested the Township Board take formal action to correct the matter. He said he realized the County DPW was inspecting the job and that the township had no direct control over it. Curry also termed the inspection incompetent.

Kenneth Squires, superintendent of the township's water department, said his office has received several complaints on the Schwab operation, particularly on cleanup. These have been referred to DPW inspectors.

SAND BEDDING

According to Squires, specifications on fill call for four inches of sand bedding under new water main and one foot of impacted sand over the main.

The resolution approved unanimously by the board will cite the fact that several complaints have been received and ask that a full investigation be made of the Schwab operation.

Mild Temperatures, Rain Are Forecast

The calendar says it's winter, but the weather doesn't. Mild temperatures and light rain is the prediction through Thursday.

With cloudy skies, the mercury will hit a low of 35 to 40 tonight.

Partly cloudy weather is forecast tomorrow, along with a high of 43 to 50.

Winds today are from the south and southeast at 12 to 25 miles an hour. They will be diminishing tomorrow.

This morning's low temperature recording was 27. At 1 p.m. the thermometer registered 39 in downtown Pontiac.

again to block helicopter delivery of food bundles to hundreds marooned in the high California timber country for the ninth straight day.

Between 400 and 500 persons were isolated in vest-pocket lumbering and mining communities along the Klamath and Salmon rivers in extreme northern California.

They have been cut off since Dec. 21. Civil defense workers said they undoubtedly were getting desperate for food.

Dozens of helicopters were in Yreka, Calif., near the Oregon border loaded for mercy missions but unable to take off because of snow and icing conditions.

3-HOUR BREAK

"We get a three-hour break in the weather," said Yreka Civil Defense chief Bill Sowle, "and you're going to see the damnedest airlift out of here you've ever seen."

"This is very, very rugged, mountainous country. In some areas we'll have to evacuate and in others we'll have to drop supplies."

"We have a report of 14 children in one house at Oak Bottom, 70 miles west of here on the Klamath. I'm concerned about those people and I'm concerned about the people on whom we have no reports at all."

"A jeep carrying four people with supplies left for Scotts Bar on the Scott River Sunday morning at 7 and we haven't heard from them."

MISSING FOUR

The missing four are Tom Payne, his wife, Cassie, and brother Pat, and Don Reynolds, all residents of the area.

Roughly the northern third of California, all Oregon and 14 counties in Washington had been declared a disaster area, enabling the region to receive aid.

'Where Do We Go From Here'

Scrap Yard Feud Gets Bitter

A long-standing feud between the City Commission, owners of the Sam Allen & Son, Inc., a scrap yard at 21 Congress, and residents in the scrap yard area is growing more bitter as 1964 dwindles into 1965.

"Where do we go from here?" was a question asked today by Mrs. Robert Gilbert of the D. E. Pursley Funeral Home as she told of the efforts she and her neighbors have made to ward off eliminating the nuisance in their area.

The controversy began last summer when an auto-body crushing machine was installed at the scrap yard.

Neighbors for blocks around are disturbed by the smoke and noise when the machine is in operation.

In July Mrs. Gilbert and some 45 property owners in the area petitioned the city commission to take action to eliminate the nuisance, which the petitioners bandits bound two priests and a guard before driving away with the truck and looting it. An undetermined amount, collected during the day from stores and churches, was taken.

EMPTY MONEY TRUCK — A Brink's truck was left abandoned in the Chicago suburb of Northridge, last night after three masked gunmen captured it when the truck made a pickup at Divine Savior Church. The

Second Brink's Truck Looted While Making Church Stop

CHICAGO (AP) — Three bandits overpowered two priests and a Brink's guard in a robbery yesterday, looted an armored truck and got away in what looked like a virtual replay of last week's half-million dollar holdup in Paterson, N.J.

In yesterday's robbery, the guard was hospitalized with head injuries, but the priests were not injured.

Buffalo, N.Y. (AP) — Two gunmen robbed the city treasurer's office of an estimated $299,000 today, police reported.

Here is the account of the holdup told by police and church officials:

The armored truck usually gets to the Divine Savior church on Monday's between 5:45 and 6:30 p.m. It arrived about 2 minutes after 6 p.m.

One gunman put on the guard's uniform and gained admittance to the armored truck outside the Divine Savior church. He slugged the driver, drove the truck to a nearby cemetery and the three men fled with the money in a car.

Brink's officials declined to estimate the amount taken until after an inventory.

In the Paterson robbery, three gunmen wearing Halloween masks robbed a bank truck while it was picking up the Sunday collection at St. Anthony's Catholic church. The bandits made off with the truck containing $513,000 after binding four priests and guards who entered the rectory to pick up the money.

Joseph W. Tottingham, assistant manager of Brink's Chicago office, said he was unable to estimate the amount stolen yesterday. He said it was a "chain store truck," which picks up funds for deposit from chain stores, small businesses, filling stations, and churches.

The three masked men, one of them reported as very nervous, then went into action. One robber put on Johnsten's Brink's uniform and went outside. He gained admittance to the armored truck and slugged the driver, Bernard Gendek, 27.

Gains Cited in Economic, Fiscal Areas

'Have Lifted Michigan Back to Its Former Place of Prominence'

LANSING (AP) — "Our tremendous strides in fiscal soundness, economic growth and the creation of new jobs," were highlighted by Gov. George Romney yesterday as he issued a 1964 Michigan progress report.

"A record number of people are working, unemployment is the lowest in many years, improvement in personal income tops the nation, investment in plant and business expansions is the greatest in the state's history," fiscal integrity has been restored," the governor declared.

Romney continued: "We have made tremendous strides in reducing longtime public service deficiencies in meeting people's needs in education, mental and physical health, problems of youth and senior citizens, working standards, welfare programs, and many other areas."

"And we have raised Michigan back to its former place of prominence among the states," he added.

"An area for which no accomplishment is claimed," said Romney, "was legislative redistricting, the gerrymander system imposed by the courts in contradiction to the new State Constitution."

EXCERPTS — Excerpts from Romney's itemized report:

● Economic growth: Total personal income in the first nine months of 1964 grew 9.2 percent over the same period in 1963, ranking Michigan behind only the resort states of Florida and Nevada.

Economists estimate continuation of this rate would produce a $1.9 billion increase over 1963—$236 a person.

In addition, Romney said, "Michigan has seen some $900 million more in announced business and industrial construction than two years ago."

STATE EDUCATION — "Support of our 16 state colleges and universities was increased by $21 million, sharpest single-year increase in Michigan's history, with an additional $31 million provided for their capital expenditures, including starts on 20 new facilities."

BJ, Bundy, Rusk to Meet; Air World Developments

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson meets today with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Presidential Assistant McGeorge Bundy to review world developments.

The three also will discuss the State Department's budget for the next fiscal year and go over personnel matters.

Rusk and Bundy, presidential assistant for national security affairs, were to fly to the President's ranch from Washington during the morning.

George McGee, U.S. ambassador to Bonn, who is home for consultation, will fly to the ranch Wednesday to review developments in West Germany.

REVIEW AMBASSADORS

Johnson's statement that he would review with Rusk and Bundy "ambassadors throughout the world" appeared to be in line with reports he plans shifts in 15 to 20 ambassadorships.

Official sources in Washington denied that McGee or David K. E. Bruce, ambassador to London, would be involved in the shift.

The shifting is expected to start in January with the naming of seven ambassadors and a minister to vacant posts.

The Johnson approach is the most concerted attack so far on the transportation problem. Massachusetts Institute of Technology is working under a $500,000 Commerce Department research contract trying to look ahead to the most feasible high-speed transportation system for the Eastern region.

One government official said many people are mistaken in the belief that this is just a rail program. "It isn't," he said.

"Under study are numerous ground systems, including electric plans such as air cushion travel, guided ground systems and tubular transportation."

Dondoro was unable to attend the courthouse ceremony. Presiding Circuit Judge William J. Beer admitted 41 attorneys to practice in the state.

Waterford Adopts Law for System

Waterford Township Board members last night adopted an ordinance pertaining to the operation of the township's central water system.

Besides providing for management procedures, the ordinance also specifies rates and establishes rules and regulations governing the system.

The Township Board reviewed language of the proposed ordinance at a special meeting three weeks ago.

In other business the board opened bids on two cars for the building department and referred them to the clerk and building department superintendent for study.

Bill Spence Inc., with a bid of $3,781, was the lower of two bidders. Proposals included trade-in of used building department cars.

TEMPORARY PERMIT

The board approved a state permit for New Year's Eve only for Mitch's Tavern, 4000 Cass Elizabeth.

The action is subject to approval of the township's fire and police departments and the Liquor Control Commission.

In other business the board rescinded a resolution passed last week calling for bids on gasoline for township vehicles.

An examination of the present gasoline contract revealed that it continues through 1965 so bids will not be required until next December.

The DPW and a copy will be sent to the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

Though critical of the Schwab contracting and inspection on the $7.5-million water system, Curry said the engineering job on the project is excellent.

10 SYSTEMS

The DPW is acting as agent for the township on the project that will interconnect the present 10 separate water systems.

Leonard Kapitz, Schwab Brothers vice president and superintendent of the Waterford Township project, said today the job is being performed according to specifications.

Kapitz acknowledged the possibility of isolated cases of ruts on dirt or gravel roads but said generally the surfaces where main has been laid is in better condition now than before the project began.

His firm will perform a final cleanup in the spring when the job is completed, Kapitz said. This will include seeding and sodding in some areas.

Workers Picket Strike at Dixie Railway

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen announced a systemwide strike against the Southern Railway today, effective at 6 a.m. EST.

J. W. Jennings, vice president of the AFL-CIO union, said the walkout resulted from a company move to operate locomotives without firemen. He said both sides had agreed to meet Jan. 3, 1965, to negotiate the issue, and called the company move a breach of contract.

Headquarters of the 8,100-mile line declined immediate comment. A spokesman said there would be a statement as soon as information had been rounded up.

Reports of picketing came in from various points along the 14-state Southern system, which services such cities as Washington, Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis, St. Louis and Louisville.

HOLIDAY TRAVEL

"Although the carrier began violating our contract at 12:01 a.m. Dec. 26, the brotherhood refrained from strike action until today, so that holiday travelers would not be stranded," Jennings said in his statement.

He said the carrier could have precipitated the crisis as early as Nov. 13, 1964, when procedures of the Railway Labor Act would have permitted either side to move on its own on the issue.

"Why the Southern's management waited until the mid-holiday season to force a strike is something that we cannot understand," Jennings said.

In Charlotte, pickets paced before the Southern station. They said the strike was called to improve general working conditions.

RICKETS COMPLAIN

Pickets also complained they have no paid holidays and are using unsafe machinery, although they did not elaborate.

Forty-one firemen were reported out at Asheville. They also were reported striking at Atlanta, Ga., and Rome, Ga., and Chattanooga, Tenn.

In Danville, Va., locomotives halted at Tippet's Crossing — a major switching point — at 6 a.m. Firemen set up picket lines immediately.

"Southern sources in Danville said the strike would not affect passenger service in and out of Danville."

Charles had taped the numbers played from his record collection, and cut himself in as master of ceremonies.

Romney Reviews First Years in Office

Q. When you took office did you think restoration of confidence was your most important task?

A. In looking at the inaugural talk made two years ago I said that restoring confidence in this state was the most important thing that could occur.

PRIMARY OBJECTIVE

Q. What is your primary objective for the next two years?

A. I think to pursue programs that will justify that confidence and retain it and enable us to build on it... when I say progress I'm speaking broadly and not just speaking in narrow terms of economic investment. I happen to believe that the more fundamental areas of progress relate to the individual and family life and community life and not just to the economic aspects of our society.

Q. Will the treasury surplus give you problems as did the deficit?

A. It creates a different situation, in some ways more difficult than the one we faced two years ago. When people think all is well there is a tendency to relax and say "let's forget it." And yet all is not well.

HARD LESSON

One of the hard lessons I think I've learned from experience is that it is very difficult in a free society to get fundamental action that is needed except in a crisis situation or where there is sufficient concern about some major public need so there is wide public support for a particular course of action. The fact of the matter is we have needed to get ourselves in this position in order to meet educational, mental health and public safety needs more adequately than we have met them in the past.

Q. Does one need stand out above the rest?

A. You take it from a human standpoint, I think some of the problems relating to those who are physically and mentally and educationally disadvantaged represent one of our major problems because it affects a number of fields.

Q. How do you plan to keep pressure of national politics from interfering with your job in Michigan?

A. By devoting adequate attention to my job here. At the same time, what we're doing here in Michigan is not unrelated to the country. As far as my involvement in the national situation is concerned, I'm simply one governor among 17 Republican governors who are in a position to be of some help in strengthening the Republican Party and thus maintain the vigor of our essential two-party system.

Q. Have you given any thought to what you'll do in 1967?

A. Sure, you think about things of that type now and then, but as far as trying to determine at what point I'll make any decisions, I haven't tried to nail it down. I have decided this: I'm not going to discuss it with anybody — what I think or what I plan to do.

Winning Hand in Every Game

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

It was a year to do a woman's heart good.

Never had she been so appreciated, appointed, awarded and elected.

The President boosted so many women into high office — and kept the talent search going full steam — that at one point he felt it necessary to reassure men. They would always have a place in government he said, "as long as there are no women to fill the jobs."

Important professional organizations elected women presidents for the first time. For the first time the name of a woman, Republican Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, was placed in nomination for president at a major party convention.

And although the Census

Bureau said that women were more plentiful than men by 3½ million — that for every 100 women there were 96.4 men — there was a silver lining.

Single men still outnumbered single women, and it made Leap Year hunting more of a sporting event.

Two top pairings of the year: actors Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, who had been going steady for some time; Sen. Maurice Neuberger and Dr. Philip Solomon, Boston psychiatrist.

Along with Leap Year every 48 months comes the Presidential Election Year. And U.S. women in '64, polioed more and more.

From the First Lady to the precinct worker who rang doorbells, thousands of women lived, breathed and talked politics until the last vote was counted in November.

SHE SETS PACE

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson set the pace. When she became the nation's 22nd First Lady she said that her role must "emerge in deeds not words."

She set to work underlining her husband's program in travels around the country; she called attention to the ever expanding role of women as citizens by giving White House luncheons for the women "doers."

After the Democratic National Convention nominated her husband, she hit the campaign trail on her own, the first President's wife to whistle-stop independently.

Politically adept Lady Bird Johnson was voted Woman of the Year in the Associated Press Poll, even as last year's top woman newsmaker, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, sought privacy.

JACKIE

In New York the gallant widow of the assassinated President lived quietly, with two chief aims: to bring up her children, Caroline and John-John, 7 and 3 in November; and to perpetuate the memory of her husband.

She had left Washington and its memories when crowds of curious tourists packed the street in front of her Georgetown home day and night.

In 1963 the home still loomed as the No. 1 place to be for a majority of women, but President Johnson made it plain he thought their place was also in government service.

His appointments — and they numbered in the hundreds — included women ambassadors (Margaret Joy Tibbets to Norway, Katharine Elkus White to Denmark) Dr. Mary I. Bunting, president of Radcliffe, as the first woman member of the Atomic Energy Commission; Mrs. Elizabeth S. May, the first woman director of the Export-Import Bank.

Meantime, women weren't

First Lady campaigns for her husband in 1964 election. Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson whistle-stopped to help the President win election. Here she greets an enthusiastic crowd.

KATHLEEN RUTH YEAGER

Call Friend, Mention Town Trip

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: A woman I know invited me to lunch but did not set a definite day. She merely said that whenever I was in the city to call and she would take me to lunch.

I live in the suburbs and go into the city every so often on business or to shop. This woman works and lives in the city.

I plan to go in some day and would like to know if it would be proper to call her and remind her of her lunch invitation. I'm sure her invitation was sincere but somehow I just don't feel right about calling and "inviting myself to lunch."

What do you advise my doing in this situation?

A: You may quite properly call her and say that you are coming into town next Wednesday and that you hope she will be free to see you.

She will then most likely ask you to lunch with her.

Q: I received a thank-you note in yesterday's mail for a wedding present I sent to a young bride. The note was typewritten.

Maybe I'm old-fashioned, but I thought this is very bad taste and almost as rude as a printed thank-you card.

Are typewritten notes acceptable in the present day?

A: Long, chatty letters may quite properly be typewritten, and indeed are much to be preferred to those written in a hard-to-read handwriting, but a bride's thank-you notes must be written by hand.

Q: My brother-in-law's name is Lawrence but everyone calls him Larry. When addressing a note or card to him, would it be proper to address it to Mr. Larry Jones or must it be Mr. Lawrence Jones?

A: When writing to him, the envelope must be addressed to Mr. Lawrence Jones.

Details concerning the remarriage of a widow and divorcee, are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "Second Marriage."

To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Marilyn May Igou of Clarkston became Mrs. Gerald Allen Henning Monday in Our Lady of the Lakes Church. Their parents are Mrs. Marvin Igou of Greensburg, Pa., the late Mr. Igou and the Theodore Hennings of Allen Road, Independence Township.

MRS. GERALD ALLEN HENNING

Marilyn May Igou Weds Gerald Allen Henning

Following their evening vows and reception Monday, in Our Lady of the Lakes Church, the Gerald Allen Hennings left for a northern honeymoon.

The former Marilyn May Igou of Clarkston, daughter of Mrs. Marvin Igou of Greensburg, Pa. and the late Mr. Igou, was escorted by Jack Hagen at the nuptial Mass offered by Rev. Thomas Kerwin.

SEED PEARLS

With her gown and train of white peau de sole applied with seed pearls and Afencan lace, the bride wore a bouffant illusion veil.

sluggards in getting laurels for themselves. Outspoken yet ladylike Hazel Brannon Smith, publisher of four Mississippi weeklies won a Pulitzer Prize for "steadfast adherence to her editorial duty in the face of great pressure and opposition."

Over the years she has battled bootleggers, racists and extremists, but she says: "I don't call myself a crusader at all. All I've tried to do is meet the issues as they arise... and to report the truth."

WON MEDALS

Four women won Medals of Freedom, the highest civil honor the President can bestow: actress Lynn Fontanne, opera singer Leontyne Price, Dr. Lena Edwards, who three years ago gave up private practice in New Jersey to devote herself to medical care of migrant workers in the Texas Panhandle, and Dr. Helen B. Taussig, professor emerita of pediatrics at Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Taussig later in the year was again honored in being named president-elect of the American Heart Association. She will be the first woman to hold the office.

One of the most glamorous — and hardest-working — women at the United Nations, Mrs. Marietta Tree has been a delegate since 1961.

In November she became the first woman to serve as permanent U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Her mother, Mary Parkman Peabody, made news too in 1964. She went to jail. That's because the peppy Mrs. Peabody, 72, wife of an Episcopal bishop and mother of five, inched the governor of Massachusetts, decided to fly to Florida to help the integration movement.

When she attempted to desegregate a motel at St. Augustine, she was carried off to the pokies for a couple of days.

Controversial women kept active. For example, Vivien Kellems, former industrialist from Mystic, Conn., sat 8½ hours in a voting booth to protest against voting machines because she thinks they infringe on her privacy.

She's the lady, you may remember, who refused to act as a tax collector and with-hold taxes from her employees' salaries 16 years ago.

Then there was embattled atheist Madalyn Murray, who fled with her family from Baltimore "in fear of our lives." From Honolulu she is carrying on her fight to tax churches.

SPORTS CHAMPS

In the field of sports, Alice Marble got elected to the National Lawn Tennis Hall of Fame.

And in Tokyo at the Olympic Games the U.S. track and Field team won 2 gold medals out of 12. U.S. women swimmers captured 7 out of 10 events and 13 out of 16 gold medals.

Blonde, 15-year-old swimmer Sharon Stouder from Glendora, Calif., won three gold medals and missed a fourth by a half-second.

American women, it would seem, not only are marrying younger these days, they are winning gold medals at tender ages. Sports enthusiasts aren't objecting, but does it make a girl a has-been at 20?

Marietta Tree is a beauty who achieved fame in 1964.

New Consul to See Art

The new German consul for Detroit, Dr. Wolfram Hücke, and Mrs. Hücke, will be among the guests, Jan. 4 in Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries for a special showing of the current exhibition "The Spirit of New Berlin in Painting and Sculpture."

Dr. K. Erich Rombach, Mr. and Mrs. Gunther Laste and Mrs. Agnes Chestnutt, of the German consulate, will also attend.

The guest list includes patrons of the galleries, members of the board of trustees of Cranbrook Academy of Art, and heads of the other Cranbrook institutions.

Out-of-Towners Visit C. R. Haskills

Mr. and Mrs. Cyle Haskill, Woodbine Drive, have as house guests Mrs. Haskill's parents, the Glen Richmonds of Largo, Fla. Present also for the annual Christmas day family dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Richmond of Long Island, N.Y.

False Birth Certificate Isn't Something You Demand

DEAR ABBY: Our baby was born last March. My mother, who lives in another state, asked me if the baby had been baptized and I replied no.

Then she suggested that I make arrangements to have the baby baptized in the city where she lives, which is my home town.

The reason I'm writing you is because I'm sure the priest who will baptize our baby will want to have the birth certificate, which may put me in an embarrassing spot.

You see, I told my mother the baby was born in June because I didn't want her to know that I was pregnant when I got married, and I'd rather she didn't find out the truth.

Please tell me where I can get a birth certificate stating the baby was born in June.

ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: Don't risk embarrassment by asking anyone to falsify a legal document.

If you have the baby baptized in your home town, hope your mother doesn't notice the date on the birth certificate.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 15. I love my parents but I hate my grandmother on my father's side, and I mean I really HATE her.

She has lived with us ever since my grandfather died. This woman gets on my nerves so much that I could just scream.

I try to ignore her as much as possible, but her slightest faults disturb the living daylights out of me. We aren't on speaking terms right now, but it's best this way because I despise the sound of her voice.

I don't feel like being friends with her because that would be worse, believe me. What should I do?

DEAR TROUBLE: You

"hate" too intensely for a 15-year-old. The chances are that you are taking out all your frustrations and hostilities on the one who is least able to fight back.

Tone down your bitterness, young lady, and get this out of your system by having a frank discussion with your parents.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOVE-STRUCK BELLE": BREAK AND BREAK CLEAN. ANY OTHER COURSE WILL SPELL DISASTER TO SIX INNOCENT CHILDREN.

Problems? Write to ABBY, in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press for Abby's booklet, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Polly's Pointers Keeps Sewing Orderly

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I do lots of sewing for my three daughters and myself. There are always several garments in various stages of completion. I keep each folded in a separate suit-box with its pattern, buttons, zippers, thread and so on and when I am ready to sew on a certain garment I have it all ready.

I found boxes the height of pattern envelopes, grouped my many patterns according to sizes and categories such as suits, dresses and so on and they are filed in these boxes.

My daughters receive many corsages and I save the pins that come in them to use when working on heavy fabrics as they have sharp points and do not leave holes in the materials.

Our bakery packages bread in plastic bags which I save for my daughters' shoes. The bags not only protect the shoes but make it easier to find the right ones when they have so many different colors.

We recently decorated our den and the assorted colors of the books on our shelves gave a cluttered look to the room. I bought shelf paper in colors that would look well in the room and made dust jackets for the books which now look uniform and most decorative.

—DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY—If you have ever struggled to hang a number of coat hangers on the little hook in a car you will appreciate my tip.

Hook all the hangers with garments on them on to one hanger and hang only that one on the car hook.

—ROBERTA

DEAR POLLY—Some of your women readers may like to surprise their husbands and express their love in the unique way my wife did when she put several big red lipstick kisses on the absorbent tissue she uses to cover the bottom of my lunch basket.

—JOHN

GIRLS—What could be better than love and kisses for dessert?

—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Save those worn plastic tablecloths. They make ideal aprons for general cleaning days. Cut them out with a scalloped edge.

I usually make one large pocket all across the front and then stitch through it to make three or four smaller pockets (like a shoe bag).

Decorating Has Rules You Follow

Valuable decorating tips come from some of America's foremost interior decorators, including William Baldwin, Rose Cumming, Marian Hall, Mrs. Eleanor S. Brown, Mrs. Henry Parish II, George Stacey, Anne Urquhart and Michael Taylor.

- Rooms should have far more permanent value than a seasonal excitement: do not choose furnishings as you would a dress or hat.
- Underdecorate: a room should be able to grow—it should not look furnished.
- Rooms should contain an element of contrast in form, color and texture.
- Mix various furniture styles within both a house and a room: keep the period room in a museum.
- Comfort is the primary element in the arrangement of furniture.

BUY THE BEST

- The best custom-made upholstered furniture is a better investment than the average department-store equivalent.
- The settled, comfortable look of beautiful upholstery makes an otherwise austere room more cozy.
- Never hesitate to put an object of great material value next to an object of sentimental value: put your finest Meissen beside a friend's photograph.
- Line lampshades with pale pink for a softer light.
- Frosted-lens lamps should be at approximately the same height to relieve an excess of conflicting shadows.

Needlework Kit

Onion Tea Towels

The blue and white Onion design shown here was inspired by an old Meissen china pattern which is currently enjoying a renewed popularity.

You will find it everywhere in all kinds of kitchen and bathroom accessories.

This pair of tea towels has two variations of the design stamped on creamy, white, 100 per cent linen. It is to be embroidered in two shades of fresh, clean-looking blue. The stitching is easy; it's the kind of embroidery that works up very fast but looks impressive.

These towels are so handsome you will be tempted to use them for hand towels in the bathroom.

They are both stamped on a single strip of linen which is to be cut apart, hemmed and embroidered. The value can't be beaten; both towels complete with embroidery floss cost only $2.

They are sold only in pairs. Think of how many of your friends would like to receive a pair of these for a gift.

Scores Zero on Computer

PROVO, Utah (U)—An electronic computer was used at Brigham Young University to match boys and girls with similar interests for a university dance.

Bonnie Mitchell, 18-year-old red-haired freshman, asked the machine to pick out a tall boy with dark hair and blue eyes who liked entertainment and looked favorably on marriage.

"Out of the 15,000 students at BYU, the machine picked a boy who not only met the description, but had asked for a date with a red-haired girl. He was Richard Mitchell, Bonnie's brother."

Unpeeled Apples Best Says MD

Americans still repeat that adage, "an apple a day keeps the doctor away." One doctor advises that it should be the whole apple, except for the core and stem.

He also recommends scrubbing the skin with plenty of soapsuds, then rinsing it thoroughly before eating the unpeeled apple.
