Yank Armor Repels 2 N. Viet Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — American armored units killed 10 North Vietnamese in two battles but lost at least four tanks and seven other armored vehicles, military spokesmen said yesterday.

A daylong battle 50 miles northwest of Saigon cost the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment four tanks — two new 16-ton Sheridans and two 50-ton M48 tanks — plus seven killed and 28 wounded, field reports said.

Later last night, three armored personnel carriers were destroyed by fire and four other tracked vehicles were badly damaged when North Vietnamese sappers attacked a "wagon train" circle of tanks and personnel carriers three miles southeast of the demilitarized zone.

Despite the loss of the tanks in the first battle, armored cavalry officers called it a victory. They said 82 enemy bodies were found after the battle.

RAN INTO AMBUSH
The fighting erupted when units of the regiment ran into a North Vietnamese ambush in Tay Ninh province.

Near Cam Lo, 13 Americans were killed and 24 were wounded in the other surprise attack against a defensive circle set up by 9th Regiment Marines and supporting armor of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Infantry Division.

Rocket-grenades knocked out three armored personnel carriers in the first minutes of the battle, clearing a path for enemy sappers who raced through and hurled satchel charges at three tanks and 17 other APCs.

The battle lasted two hours and the American armor commander was wounded when his APC was blasted by explosives.

RING OF FIRE
Helicopter gun-ships laid a ring of fire around the embattled troops until a second troop of tanks and APCs arrived. Then the North Vietnamese withdrew.

A later sweep of the battlefield turned up 13 North Vietnamese dead.

U.S. military spokesmen reported today that North Vietnamese troops have built a series of big concrete gun emplacements into mountainsides along the South Vietnam-Laos border to fire on American and South Vietnamese special forces camps and bases.

The guns are mounted on railroad tracks and protected by giant steel doors, the spokesmen said.

ACK-ACK DEFENSE

They added that three such batteries were reported damaged or disabled by recent American air strikes. But the spokesmen said the gun emplacements are defended by antiaircraft fire, making aerial observation and attacks extremely hazardous.

Tornadoes Twist Dixie

By United Press International

At least one person was killed, more than 40 injured and scores driven from broken homes yesterday when tornadoes spun across Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina and North Carolina.

Biggest of the twisters churned through a trailer park near Douglas, Ga., twisting mobile homes like toys and leaving 30 injured, seven seriously

Fleet Steams for Korea

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — Potent U.S. naval forces, including the battleship New Jersey and possibly a pair of aircraft carriers, were reported steaming to new positions today to provide protection for American intelligence missions off North Korea.

The Pentagon announced redeployment of extensive forces yesterday shortly after President Nixon ordered resumption of reconnaissance flights with the promise they will cease to be "fair game" for North Korean jets.

President Nixon will order drastic retaliation, without warning, for any future attack on U.S. intelligence ships or planes, responsible members of Congress said today.

These sources said Nixon made this statement in reviewing with congressional leaders the reasons he feels it necessary to continue flights of electronics planes such as the one shot down in the Sea of Japan by North Korea.

Fights off the North Korean coast were halted Tuesday after an EC121 reconnaissance plane with 31 men aboard apparently was shot down. Only two bodies have been found in the Sea of Japan where the craft fell.

In Chicago, the national chairman of the Remember the Pueblo Committee said yesterday the U.S. government may have information that seven men survived the destruction of the plane.

INFORMATION WITHHELD?

The Rev. Paul Lindstrom told a news conference, "It is within the realm of possibility that our government has such information and is withholding it because of the public outcry that might result."

Lindstrom reiterated information he said his committee had received Tuesday from an unidentified government source indicating seven members of the 31-man crew of the EC121 had parachuted into the sea.

"These men may have survived, and they may have been picked up by North Korean gun boats," he said.

Redeployment of the naval forces was viewed as a protective step rather than a threat of retaliation against North Korea.

TROOPS ON ALERT

The semiofficial Seoul newspaper Shinmoon reported today U. N. forces in South Korea were placed on a special alert this morning. It said the alert, known as "Defcon II," is instituted only when a danger of hostilities exists. A spokesman for the U. N. Command would not comment on the report.

The New Jersey, which had been scheduled to arrive in Long Beach, Calif., today after duty off Vietnam, was ordered to turn around and return to the Western Pacific.

County Budget OK'd Amid Controversy

By JEAN SAILE

An Oakland County Board of Supervisors meeting, called yesterday to approve a record $31-million tentative 1970 budget, erupted into controversy.

The meeting also saw the introduction of a resolution which could start the county toward a home-rule (county manager) form of government.

The budget (nearly $6 million more than this year's) was approved by a vote of 24-2, with Supervisors Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights, and William Richards, D-Royal Oak, opposed. Supervisor Fred Houghten, R-Avon Township, was absent.

Politics was largely the order of the day as supervisors debated:

• A last-minute attempt by Supervisor Philip Mastin, D-Hazel Park, to include a $138,000 appropriation for the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCOE) in the tentative budget.

The request, following the defeat of Mastin's resolution, was referred to the finance committee for possible inclusion in the final budget.

• A resolution by Niles Olson, D-Orion Township, to sell the Oakland-Orion Airport to the County Parks and Recreation Department, with the proceeds to be used for development of Children's Village.

Olson had attempted a similar resolution Monday. Yesterday's motion was amended to constitute only a study of the airport and its development and was referred to the aviation and transportation committee.

• The referral by Board Chairman Charles B. Edwards Jr. of the whole matter of conducting public hearings to the committee on committees for a study of procedures.

The referral followed public criticism of Olson, planning, building, and zoning committee chairman, for his alleged "poor handling," of the recent anti-ballistic missile (ABM) public hearing.

Temperature Takes a Tumble

High winds and rain in the Pontiac area yesterday brought temperatures tumbling to a near freezing 33 at 6:45 this morning.

Frost warnings were issued for tonight by the U.S. Weather Bureau for southeast, southwest, midwest and mid-east Lower Michigan but tomorrow will be pleasant.

Here is the official forecast for the weekend by the Weather Bureau:

TODAY — Mostly sunny, windy and cool. Fair and cold tonight with chance of frost. Low near 32.

Winds northeasterly at 12 to 25 miles per hour diminishing slowly this afternoon, and northeasterly four to 10 miles tonight.

TOMORROW — Sunny and warmer, the high in the mid 50s.

MONDAY — A chance of showers and mild.

No precipitation is predicted for tonight or tomorrow. Rainfall yesterday measured near one-quarter of an inch.

The thermometer in downtown Pontiac registered 48 at 2 p.m.

Blacks Protest 'Racist' Cornell

By the Associated Press

Black students occupied the Cornell University student center shortly after dawn today, then scuffled briefly with white students. At the Atlanta University Center, dissident students held about 25 members of the board of trustees as prisoners behind chained doors.

At several other major university campuses, protests had ended or were suspended.

About 40 black students at Cornell, protesting reprimands given to three Negro students for demonstrating last December, took over Willard Straight Hall, forcing the school to order 30 parents and 40 school employees out of the building.

The parents were on the Cornell campus at Ithaca, N.Y., for the annual Parents Weekend.

'RACIST ATTITUDES'

The black students broadcast briefly over the student radio station, housed in the building, and charged Cornell with having "racist attitudes" and failing to provide a relevant black studies program.

In Atlanta, Ga., the students at the predominantly Negro, six-college complex were demanding that white trustees resign and that the university be renamed for the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., a graduate of Morehouse, one of the six colleges. The trustees were locked in the room yesterday morning.

Students allowed campus guards to take food and coffee to the trustees.

One of those locked in was Dr. Hugh M. Glover, president of Morehouse College, King's alma mater and part of the complex. He said he would resign rather than accede to the demands under duress.

KING'S FATHER

The Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., a Morehouse trustee, walked out of the room yesterday declaring his family wanted no part of the tactics protesters were using in seeking to honor his slain son.

Other than campus security police, there was no sign of city police on the Atlanta campus.

MSU Prexy Still Up in Air

Williams Will Need Panel Endorsement

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Former six-term Gov. G. Mennen Williams apparently must win the endorsement of a special faculty-student-alumni selection committee if he is to become president of Michigan State University.

Chairman Donald Stevens of the MSU Board of Trustees, the body that will make the final decision, said yesterday he will not go outside the list of five finalists recommended by the committee.

"I have no idea who will be nominated, but I will adhere to the recommendations of the committee," said Stevens, a staunch Democrat and state AFL-CIO official.

Because Democrats hold a 5-3 margin on the board, speculation has it that Williams—Michigan's Mr. Democrat of the 1950s—will get the job hands down.

EXPECTED BACK
Williams, 57, is expected back in Michigan next month following a two-year stint as U.S. ambassador to the Philippines. He currently is vacationing abroad with his wife.

His stiffest competitor for the MSU job could be Dr. Walter Adams, named acting president three weeks ago by the trustees on a 5-3 party-line vote.

Adams stoutly insists he does not want the job and even has stated he would not accept should the board ask him to step on.

However, he won praise from the trustees and students alike for his recent handling of a student demonstration against police recruiters from Oakland, Calif.

BRACED DOOR
Adams rushed to the Student Service Building while the protest was in progress and physically braced the placement director's door when students threatened to crash through. He ended up talking to the students about their demands and later announced a faculty-student committee to study job interview policies.

"He used the best kind of judgment by meeting with the students personally and then deciding to include students on his committee to review placement service policies," said Stevens.

"He has been doing a splendid job all around."

At yesterday's meeting of the trustees, Democratic member Warren Huff of Plymouth asked the board to approve a resolution pledging members to vote for a new president "for their own conscience and personal convictions."

'ALREADY CHOSEN'
This, Huff said, would help eliminate rumors "that a new president has already been chosen."

The request was defeated, with opponents explaining it is unnecessary. Democrat Blanche Martin of East Lansing commented, "When I ran for this office I promised to be fair in my decision. I don't think it's necessary to reaffirm that."

Pinto Horse Show Is Tomorrow at 4-H Fairgrounds

The Dixie Saddle Club will hold a Pinto horse show tomorrow at 9 a.m. at the 4-H Fairgrounds at North Perry and Pontiac Road.

The pinto queen for eastern Michigan will be selected at the show. The queen must be between the ages of 18 and 25 and a member of her family must belong to the Pinto Horse Association (PTHA) or own a pinto horse.

The winner will receive a $35 gift certificate and several items in western apparel. She will go to Marshalltown, Iowa, to represent eastern Michigan at the national convention of the PTHA.

The production of man-made fibers in Britain totaled $69.8 million pounds during the first half of 1968, 23.5 per cent higher than the corresponding 1967 period.

ABM Critics 'in Box,' Dirksen Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen says President Nixon has put opponents of the Safeguard antimissile system "in a box" by insinuating that a vote against the ABM is a vote against the commander-in-chief.

Two leading ABM critics denied, however, that the President's comments at his news conference Friday had hurt their case.

"The President has the responsibility for determining what is needed for our security," Dirksen said in an interview. "Those who criticize his decision don't have that responsibility if they are wrong."

Nixon, in answer to a question, told his news conference that intelligence estimates now put Russia's offensive missile submarine punch at 60 per cent greater than was thought two years ago.

COMMAND DIVISION

"Under these circumstances," he said, "I had to make a basic command decision as to what the United States should do if we were to avoid falling into a second class or inferior position vis-a-vis the Soviet Union."

And, Nixon said, he made his decision not only to strengthen his own position but to avoid the possibility of weakening some future president.

Dirksen, who must steer Nixon's request for Safeguard funds through a closely divided Senate, said Nixon's comments put ABM critics "in a box."

But Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, opposed to deploying Safeguard, said in a separate interview he feels no additional pressure because of the President's statements. But he conceded that in the end it will come down to a question of judgment between Nixon and Congress as to whether Safeguard is vital.

NOT NEEDED

For himself, Mansfield said he does not subscribe to Nixon's theory that the antimissile system is needed to keep abreast of Soviet missile developments or to maintain American retaliation power after a nuclear strike.

"Not when we have 500 B52s and 41 submarines with 600 nuclear warheads," he said. "We have definite superiority—notion that when the country sufficiency (Nixon's term) knows the facts, the ABM will be supported in Congress.

"I am firmly convinced—I am extremely hopeful that when all the facts are known, (Nixon's) decision will be reversed," disagreed with Nixon's assertion Kennedy said.

Hopeful Asks Honest Race

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A candidate for this city's mayoralty post wants an honest race—one foot after the other.

Raymond P. Nordin, an independent, challenged Republican Dan Cohen and Democrat Gerard Hegstrom, to a 50-mile foot race from City Hall to Hudson, Wis.

Honest? Yep, Nordin even promised that the state highway patrol would judge the race, at his own expense.

"And I'd win too, if the darn guys took me up on it," Nordin said.

Reason why the race probably won't take place: Nordin wants to start at 3 a.m.

Two Astronauts Practice Chores

Moon-Walk Dress Rehearsal Goes Smoothly

AP Wirephoto

MAN ON A STRING — Astronaut Edwin E. Aldrin uses cables to operate a crane to lower a moon experiment from a mock-up of the lunar module. He is practicing a job he'll do on the moon in July if Apollo 11 goes as planned. Watching in the background is Apollo 11 commander Neil Armstrong. The pair rehearsed the 2½ hours of work planned for them on the moon surface in an exercise at the Houston Space Center yesterday.

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Two American astronauts Friday walked through 2½ hours of chores they'll perform on the moon's surface in July. Officials said the dress rehearsal went "very smoothly."

Neil Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin wore their bulky pressure suits similar to those designed for the moon.

Site of the practice session was an indoor gravel pile, meant to simulate the barren surface of the moon.

Both astronauts walked with a stiff-legged gait and used awkward and jerky hand movements. Officials said the 120-pound pressure suit and life support back pack caused the abnormal movements.

DISH ANTENNA SETUP

Armstrong demonstrated setting up of a dish antenna. He will command the Apollo 11 lunar landing flight and will be the first man to walk on the moon. After he pulled a lanyard, releasing a spring-loaded dish of wire mesh, Armstrong ducked awkwardly to avoid the spring action.

Aldrin demonstrated a crane to be used to lower two experiments the landing mission will carry. The crane, carried in a side compartment of the lunar module, has one lanyard for lowering and raising the experiments and another to guide their descent.

* * *

Aldrin carried one experiment—a seismograph measuring device—away from the lunar module. He pulled pins from latches, then released a cable. The box sprang apart and unfolded into a series of panels.

The other experiment—a laser beam reflector—was uncovered by Armstrong, who aimed it toward a point on the ceiling simulating the moon's view of the earth.

WORE A CAMERA

During much of the exercise, Armstrong wore a camera on his chest. The 70mm camera is pointed by movement of his body and can be operated even with the bulky gloves.

In an exercise held before the 36-minute session staged for the press, space officials said Armstrong used a scoop device on a handle to gather samples of simulated lunar soil without stooping.

Flaw in Some Gas Furnaces

JACKSON (AP) — Consumers Power Co. has advised customers that gas furnaces installed since July 1, 1968, may contain a defective valve, following a similar announcement made in February by Honeywell Inc. of Minneapolis, the valve manufacturer.

Consumers advised customers to have their furnaces inspected. The firm authorized replacement of the potentially defective valves.

The company said the valves might allow gas to enter the fire chamber without being ignited immediately.

Milliken Consolidates Highway Safety Units

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken Friday ordered a consolidation of the state's highway safety activities, aimed at "an efficient, united and vigorous attack" on traffic accidents. Milliken transferred the Office of Highway Safety Planning from the executive office to the Department of State Police and ordered that staff combined with the Michigan State Safety Commission.

The governor urged that the commission, chaired by Secretary of State James Hare, act in an advisory capacity for the Safety Planning Office. "When the State Safety Commission was created some 20 years ago to coordinate the state's traffic safety programs, it involved the four state agencies with related official responsibilities — State Police, education, state and highway," Milliken said.

"Under the new federal standards, other state and local government areas, as well as private interests, are seriously involved and should be brought into the decision-making process," he explained.

Milliken's order specifies that the head of the safety planning office would continue to act as his representative in dealings with the federal government under the federal highway safety act of 1966.

Committee OKs Base-Pay Hike

LANSING (UPI) — Legislation to raise the state minimum wage from $1.25 to $1.50 per hour over the next three years has been recommended for passage in the State Senate.

The measure was sent to the floor yesterday by the Senate Labor Committee and could come up for preliminary debate next week.

It is opposed by the State Labor Department and labor interests. They want the minimum wage boosted to at least $1.50 by 1971.

Another controversial provision in the bill would raise from 25 to 30 per cent the amount employers could deduct from their workers pay for tips and other gratuities in figuring the minimum wage.

The Senate accorded preliminary approval to six bills before adjourning for the weekend. Included was a measure to assure that county party chairmen would be selected by secret ballot at county conventions.

Explorer to Sail $1 Boat to Prove Vikings Crossed Atlantic

LONDON (AP) — Using an unwanted movie prop he bought for $1, explorer Bob Marx hopes to prove the Vikings conquered the Atlantic in their primitive longships centuries before Columbus.

Marx, with a crew of eight, plans to sail a replica of a Viking longboat from Norway to New York starting May 1.

"I've put everything I have into the voyage," he says. "It'll probably cost me $13,000, but it's worth it to show I'm right." Marx hopes to prove the Vikings were capable of sailing to the New World without the aid of any navigational equipment or charts.

FOOD AUTHENTIC

To add authenticity, Marx and his crew intend to live on whale blubber, dried cod and ale—the diet of the Viking explorers.

Marx, 34, is from Kingston, Jamaica.

From recent archeological evidence, including the Vinland map and the Bay of Meadows Viking settlement on Newfoundland, many scholars accept that the Norsemen had colonies on the North American continent more than 500 years before Columbus arrived in the 15th century.

"We know the Vikings got there," said Marx, "but we don't know how. Many theorists say they could never have made the trip in their frail longships.

"Our job is to prove them wrong."

BUILT FOR FILM

Marx's ship, called the Alfred the Great, was built by a Danish shipyard to duplicate the Gokstad longship excavated from Oslo harbor and restored in 1880.

The 76-foot vessel was used in a recent movie about the Vikings. Marx persuaded the film company to part with it for $1.

"It's a sound ship," he said, "and should withstand any amount of bad weather."

GM a Success Story

The world's largest corporation, that of General Motors, understandably ranks first in the related categories of production, sales and earnings common to industry. But by way of icing on its industrial cake, its corporate shares rank first in desirability by institutional investors—an implied testimonial to the safety and return of GM securities.

Last year was the sixth straight year the Corporation has won that distinction in the annual survey conducted by the New York Stock Exchange of the 50 most popular stocks in institutional portfolios.

Few need be reminded that General Motors represents the century's great success story. Organized in 1908 with a nucleus of four auto nameplates, the organization in half a century has expanded to girdle the earth with 128 plants in the United States situated in 18 states and 70 communities, and plants or installations in 29 other countries, seven of them in Canada.

Ownership of the Corporation resides in 287,541,184 shares of stock held by 1,372,000 shareholders. Significantly, 68 per cent of the stock is held by individuals and another 20 per cent by joint tenants (largely couples).

Even more significant is that General Motors has grown to its mammoth structure that accounts for more than 50 per cent of domestic auto production, some 3,000 automobile companies have been established and fallen by the wayside, leaving but three other auto makers now operating in the U.S.

Those who decry bigness as a threat to our way of life might well look at the beneficial influence General Motors has exerted on the economic climate of the Nation and the contribution it has made to the well-being of millions of its citizens.

Score One for 'Old Folks'

Old age brings enough problems without society adding others for no good reason.

It has long been assumed by many traffic safety officials and insurance companies as well as most laymen that advanced years brought decreased ability to drive a car safely. The older driver was a hazard, who needed to be re-examined after he passed a certain age and perhaps restricted.

A massive study has demolished this myth entirely.

Sponsored by the University of Denver and the Administration on Aging (AOA) of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the study examined the records of drivers in 30 states and the District of Columbia. This was not a sampling but a study of the TOTAL driver population in the 31 jurisdictions for which data was available.

It was found that although senior drivers (65 and over) represented 7.4 per cent of all drivers in the states surveyed, they were involved in only 4.8 per cent of the accidents.

Particularly noteworthy were the findings in the state of Minnesota. Senior drivers there represented 12.28 per cent of the driving public (highest of any state surveyed) but recorded the best accident-avoidance performance of any age group.

The senior driver "is almost error-free with respect to some of the most disastrous driving errors," says Judge Sherman G. Finesilver, who headed the study.

"Speeding, drunk driving and 'tailgating' are accident-producing causes, or errors, of which senior drivers are almost never guilty." AOA Commissioner William Bechill hails the study as "a breakthrough which hopefully will lead to a cessation of arbitrary practices and attitudes directed to older drivers and ultimately create fairer, more enlightened practices in licensing and insuring older drivers."

Already, the findings have moved Washington, D.C., to revise its previous requirements that drivers take mandatory re-examinations upon reaching 65. The new re-examination age has been set at 70.

Controversy Continues Over ABM

By EVERETT DIRKSEN

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Senate is stirred up considerably over controversy that has developed over the deployment of the anti-ballistic missile. The two sides — proponents and opponents — are organizing, and how it will depend on numerous hard factors.

Millions of citizens are asking "Just what is this ABM?" In briefest explanation, it is a system consisting of radar detection devices designed to determine when a missile from a foreign source is coming in our direction, to be followed by the launching of our own missiles at the right moment in order to encounter the enemy missiles above the earth and so destroy them.

Will such a system work? Outstanding scientists said years ago that the hydrogen bomb wouldn't work. But it did. Long afterward, one of the noted scientists who worked on the hydrogen bomb confessed that he had said it wouldn't work because he did not want it to work. That makes us take thought, doesn't it?

What is the underlying purpose for getting this system into operation at one of our missile sites in Montana and at another site in North Dakota? It is a defensive system to keep our missiles and missile sites intact so that if we have to fire back at an enemy we can do so.

By having the missiles ready for operation, the system would serve as a deterrent against any potential enemy from firing a missile at us and thus provoking a war. That is why it is called a "deterrent"—something that discourages a certain action because of the fear of consequences.

There are those who contend that deployment of the ABM will be extraordinarily costly. Installation of the first two sites will cost an estimated $6 to $7 billion over a four-year period. If the system is completed. For the first year, the cost is expected to range between $600 and $800 million, more than half of which will go for research and development.

If the ABM has any value whatsoever in discouraging a potential enemy from taking steps whereby we might find ourselves in another war, it would appear proper to equate this cost with the cost of another war. So let's look.

billion (figures supplied by the Defense Department), about 32 times as much as the $6 to $7 billion estimated cost of the two defensive missile sites. But that by no means is the whole story. World War II got under way on Sept. 16, 1940, and ended on July 25, 1945. Sixteen and a half million Americans participated in WW II. WW II battle deaths totaled more than 291,000.

It is the continuing cost of a war that reaches staggering figures. As a result of WW II, there are on the pension rolls of the United States 179,000 disabled or ill, 277,000 widows, 684,000 children and 1.77 million veterans. All carry monthly pensions.

It is our—us! of carrying out what Abraham Lincoln said, to bind up the nation's wounds and care for the widow and the orphan of him who bore the brunt of battle. And this is done at a cost that goes on and on.

The Civil War ended in 1865, but the last pensioned veteran of the Union Army died in 1956, at age 109. He was pensioned all those years, as he deserved to be.

If the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile can deter and discourage war, it would be the cheapest insurance this nation can buy.

The POWER of FAITH

BY WOODI ISHMAEL

Martin Luther, the German leader of the Protestant Reformation, while still a young student found a sentence in the New Testament that became his life's doctrine. "... The just shall live by faith." (Romans 1, 17.)

It served him well during his difficult life. An Augustinian monk and a Doctor of Divinity, Luther was professor of Theology and district vicar at the University of Wittenberg when he realized he could not accept some of the actions of the church. He did not approve of money being offered for indulgences being granted by the Pope. He made his objections public by nailing his protest to the door of All Saints Church at Wittenberg.

The protest became famous as the Ninety-Five Thesis. It was not his intention to break away from the church—only to bring about reforms. He wrote three pamphlets making known his beliefs, which brought about his being banned by the Pope. At the Diet of Worms in 1521 he was condemned by the Emperor as a heretic. Luther spent 10 months under the protection of his good friend Frederick, Elector of Saxony at the castle of the Wartburg. There he translated the New Testament from the original Greek to German. Upon his return to Wittenberg the rest of his life was spent actively reforming the new church, setting up a new church government. He introduced singing by the congregation and wrote many great hymns of faith.

Martin Luther, against great odds, lived by his faith. He wrote, "Faith is not a human dream of illusion, Faith is God's work within us. It transmutates us and makes for our rebirth in God."

Confident Living:

Never Give Up --- Keep Trying

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

Often a plan that seems completely wrecked will still work out if you just keep hoping and, better still, keep trying! Unexpected obstacles recently gave me quite a demonstration of this.

After a meeting in Holland, Mich., at which city I stayed overnight, my next engagement was for the following night in Phoenix, Ariz., and under normal travel conditions it appeared to be no problem getting there. I was to take an early plane from Grand Rapids to Chicago and a plane from Chicago to Phoenix, and on this schedule, should be there in plenty of time. It seemed like an easy travel setup.

But that morning at Holland you could hardly see the car parked right outside the motel-room window. That is how foggy it was. I called the Grand Rapids airport and found it was fogged in. No planes going out.

I called Detroit. It too was fogged in. They advised that Chicago's O'Hare was also at a below-minimum overcast, and did not expect any planes to be getting out that morning. I called Minneapolis. Fogged in. In short, I was fogged in—hundreds of miles from Phoenix and my evening engagement.

What could I do? Well, I sat down and had a positive-thinking session. The people in Phoenix had booked me eight months before. To call now and tell them I couldn't make it was the last thing to do. Now I could have sat there and said, "Well, there's nothing I can do about it. I just can't get there."

Had I admitted that, I'm sure I would not have gotten there. But, instead, I definitely practiced a positive mental attitude. I rented a car and set out for Chicago visualizing the fog as lifting by arrival time.

After going about 60 of the 200-mile drive to Chicago, the car started sputtering and missing. The prospects of my travel program were not brightened by this mechanical difficulty. I forced my mind to take a positive view.

At this point I came to a service station where, believe it or not, they had one of the best mechanics I have ever met. In a jiffy he had the engine half apart. He cleaned and scraped a lot of things and ended by putting in eight new spark plugs. "Now," he said, "it'll go."

I went to the pay phone and called Chicago again. "Your plane's been cancelled," I was told. But she added, "There's one going at 4:00 this afternoon." That would get me to Phoenix in just the nick of time for my speaking engagement.

Getting back in the car, what do you know? It wouldn't start. The battery was dead. The man recharged the battery. However, he told me, "You can get to O'Hare Field, but don't turn it off on the way, no matter what!" With new spark plugs and all, the car ran beautifully. When I pulled up at O'Hare Field, I had to turn the motor off to get my bag out of the rear end, and then the car would not start again. The battery was really dead. So I simply turned the ailing

Voice of the People:

Viewpoints on Abortions Enjoyed by Press Reader

I've read the articles on abortion, and salute Mrs. Odell. It's time someone decided to discuss abortion and the pros and cons of legalizing it. How ridiculous and cruel for people to say that a girl who gets pregnant should be punished for her sin. These are the ones who would gossip about such an unfortunate case.

It's time people realize that many girls now have premarital sex. This doesn't mean they are promiscuous. Some are very emotionally involved with their boyfriends and find no need for repressing their physical want. The big question should be birth control. People avoid discussing that with unmarried people, so the need for abortion may arise and usually does.

There are too many children in orphanages that will never know the love a family can give. Why should we add more to this because of a mistake some woman has made? People who think that way are the reason the world is what it is today. Maybe when they see or know an unwanted child their views will change.

'Ease Load on Individuals by Church Tax'

There is no reason for people to be taxed out of their homes. All the government has to do is make a law to tax the churches. The value of tax-exempt church property from 14 cities in 1968 amounted to $162.5 billion. Three churches in Illinois bought the Biltmore Hotel for $3,500,000, rented it for $250,000 a year, and don't pay one cent tax. A 22-story church temple in Chicago rents it out for $250,000 a year—no tax.

If the trend is not checked, we may expect half or more of all property to be tax exempt in 25 years, and more than half will belong to churches. It has been estimated $50 billion a year slips out of government grasp through leaks in the tax structure. There is no reason for schools closing or poverty in the United States if all had to pay their dues.

Citizen Questions Need for Swimming Pool

What's wrong with people in West Bloomfield Township who wish to spend $600,000 for a public swimming pool out of school funds when it has been voted down once? A swimming pool is not necessary to a good education. I have lived in West Bloomfield Township 42 years, 41 years as a taxpayer. People who made so many laws in the city they couldn't stand it there move here to what was God's country and talk of making this township a city and having everything here they couldn't stand in the city.

A RETIRED SENIOR CITIZEN

Suggests Levying School Tax on Incomes

Why not remove all school tax from the property tax bill and levy a school tax on every working person. This would exempt the senior citizen trying to live on his pension. If a tax on income is levied, all persons earning any income would help pay for the education of our children. The landlord would pay school tax, not on his property but on the income from that property, and the renter would pay on his income, not through larger rent payments. We would gain the added tax of the two- and three-worker family. We would gain all good schools. So long as a change is in order, let's go "whole hog" and do it right — adequate to our needs but fairer to all.

'Prayer Could Bring End to War in Vietnam'

There have been many suggestions to end the war in Vietnam, but the most important solution has been overlooked. We must turn back to the Lord. If everyone asked God to stop all the fighting and asked for peace, our boys would be on their way home. We were put on earth to help one another, no matter what race, color, creed or belief, so reach out a hand to a neighbor or loved one. Pray for our GIs.

Question and Answer

Current school news items refer to state tenure law, tenure teachers and non-tenure teachers. Would you define? INTERESTED READER

REPLY

The Michigan Tenure for Teachers Act defines teacher tenure. Essentially it is job security in a teaching assignment. Tenure is granted after a teacher has successfully served a probationary period, usually two years, according to Mr. Crew at Pontiac Board office. Once tenure is granted, that teacher cannot be dismissed without due cause, which is determined after a hearing as prescribed by the tenure act. A non-tenure teacher is one who has not been granted tenure. Copies of the act may be obtained by writing to the State Department of Education, Lansing.

Question and Answer

Could you tell me where I can find a licorice gun that can be eaten like the one in the movie, "Adam's Rib." ANN WILKINSON

REPLY

We called major candy manufacturers and distributors, as well as some specialty stores that handle old-fashioned candy items. We found wax guns and licorice pipes and cigars—no licorice guns. One man remembered them from years back, when that movie was made. Unfortunately, there doesn't seem to be a re-run on the candy.

GI Rescued; Captured for Over a Year

SAIGON (AP) — An American soldier listed as missing for more than a year has been found in Tay Ninh province, 18 days after he escaped from the Vietcong, the U.S. Command said today.

He was identified as Spec. 5 Thomas H. Van Putten, 21, of Caledonia, Mich. Spokesmen said he was suffering from malnutrition and dehydration but otherwise was in "good condition," when found Thursday.

Van Putten was reported missing Feb. 10, 1968. The command said he was riding as a guard on a road scraper in Tay Ninh province about 70 miles northwest of Saigon when he disappeared. His vehicle was "found off the road," headquarters said.

At that time he was serving as a construction machine operator with the 79th Engineer Group and had been in South Vietnam since Feb. 20, 1967.

NO DETAILS

The command gave no details saying only that "he escaped captivity about 18 days before being found" by 17th Cavalry troops attached to the U.S. 25th Division.

"I blew a kiss to the gunner on the LOH—light observation helicopter—that picked me up," headquarters quoted Van Putten as saying. "I'll never forget that big, beautiful blond moustache the pilot had. When I jumped in the chopper, I grabbed his shoulder and yelled 'I love you.' That was really something. And I hugged the gunner."

The command said the young soldier's first words to the Americans were: "I've escaped from the enemy. Give me something to eat."

Then he ate some canned ration chicken with noodles, fruit cocktail and drank some warm root beer.

"I've never tasted such delicious food in all my life," the GI was quoted as saying.

Van Putten first was taken to the 45th Surgical Hospital in Tay Ninh and later was flown to the 24th Evacuation Hospital at Long Binh, 15 miles north of Saigon.

Before being captured, Van Putten weighed about 185 pounds. Spokesmen said he now weighs 121 pounds.

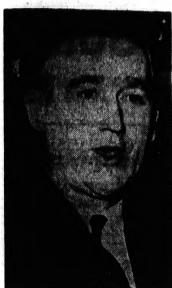

"The first time I looked in the mirror—that isn't me," he said.

BED 'TOO COMFORTABLE'
After his first night back with U.S. forces, Van Putten reportedly complained: "I tried to sleep but the bed is too comfortable. I just keep wanting to talk to people."

U.S. headquarters said Van Putten was a specialist four when he was taken prisoner and was promoted to specialist five last Jan. 3 while in captivity.

Spokesmen said he would be flown to the United States today for a reunion with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Van Putten of Caledonia, Mich.

VA Chief Quits; 'Purge' Is Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee says William J. Driver's resignation as administrator of the Veterans Administration is part of a Nixon administration plan to purge the VA of its top career men.

Driver, administrator since 1964, has resigned effective May 31 the White House announced Friday. There are indications a half-dozen other high-level officials will leave.

Chairman Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., said Driver's administrative ability is admired by both congressmen and veterans' organizations.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen and other Republican congressmen have urged President Nixon to give the top VA post to a Republican. Driver has had some Republican support, in addition to wide Democratic backing, on Capitol Hill.

'ALL BUT EV'

"Everybody was for him except Everett Dirksen," Teague said.

Driver, 50, has served with the VA since 1946 except for two years of military service during the Korean war.

Teague said Driver's deputy administrator, A. W. Stratton, is being transferred to become director of a VA hospital at Hampton, Va., after 25 years with the agency. Two of Driver's aides, Gene Howard, a personal assistant, and Mack G. Fleming, congressional liaison, have been told they were fired and could not work for the government, he added.

School District Road Safety Grant

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken Friday announced that the Benton Harbor school district has been awarded a $45,740 National Highway Safety Grant to expand its driver education program.

The program, aimed at junior high and elementary school pupils as well as high school dropouts and slow learners, will be funded on a matching federal-local basis, Milliken said.

Donald P. Pobuda, director of reimbursement programs for the school system, will supervise the project, due to get under way June 1.

Swedish 'Company' Delights in 1968 Drop in Liquor Sales

STOCKHOLM (AP) — In Sweden, a company is trying to cut down its sales—and is bragging that it is succeeding.

This is part of an official temperance policy to change the drinking habits of the Swedes and stem the use of alcohol among the youth.

Nya Systembolaget, the state-owned monopoly which runs all the retail outlets for spirits, wines and strong beers, is happy because its liquor sales dropped sharply in 1968.

Drunkness and alcoholism are among the greatest social problems in this welfare state.

RATIONING SYSTEM
For 40 years Sweden tried a liquor rationing system.

Police Get Grant

LANSING (AP)—Gov. William Milliken has announced that the Taylor Police Department of suburban Detroit will receive a $29,000 National Highway Safety grant to establish a four-man selective traffic enforcement unit. The grant will cover one-half the cost of the program for the first year.

Avoid Parts Loss

When cleaning the screws, bolts, and tiny parts you remove on the sticky side of a strip of adhesive tape, making sure you place them in the order of removal. There will be no trouble replacing them.

In October 1955 Sweden dropped this experiment. Anyone over age 21 could buy as much to drink as he wanted—provided

Dependent mainly on income and social status, some 40 percent of the Swedes over 21 years of age had permits to buy one to four liters of spirits monthly. Opponents said the system encouraged Swedes to be wasn't blacklisted for abuses.

Authorities switched to other ways of trying to bring alcohol under control—mainly through high taxes. Prices today are from 90 to 100 per cent higher than the last year of rationing.

CHEAPER, BETTER

Aside from pricing policy, a campaign to drink more wine—"It's cheaper and better"—has been pushed.

Instruction on the effects of alcohol is required in the schools and in the armed forces. Official temperance boards are charged with an intensified program of treatment for alcoholics and others who misuse spirits. Temperance societies are strong. Restaurants may dispense spirits only under a strict licensing system. Driving under the influence is heavily penalized. Parliament has under consideration a bill to ban liquor advertising.

All this is bound to have an affect on Swedish drinking habits.

Chief Is Named

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Jack Hendricks, a deputy with the Kent County Sheriff's Department for 11 years, Thursday was named police chief in the Grand Rapids suburb of Walker. Hendricks succeeds Joseph Bancevich, who was asked to resign several months ago following a dispute. He will assume his post April 28 at an annual salary of $9,280.

Recent Sino-Soviet Strife Spotlights Sensitive Area

By the Associated Press

The recent border clash in the Far East points a finger at one of the world's most sensitive and troubled regions.

Only a few miles from the Chinese-Russian boundary lies the trans-Siberian railroad connecting Russia's key port and naval base of Vladivostok with the Russian homeland.

This same railroad skirts the Chinese and Mongolian borders for hundreds of miles.

China's claims to much of the border territory date back 100 years to the days when an expanding Russia wrested some of it from the declining Manchus.

SORE POINT

The independence of Russia-leaning Mongolia is itself a sore point with the Chinese.

And, 200 miles from the scene of the clash, in the heart of China's Sinkiang Province, her scientists are busy developing hydrogen bomb and missile systems.

All in all, this vast area would be a fit setting for a power struggle, if anybody were determined to have one.

Dean Resigns for U.S. Job

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University trustees have accepted the resignation of Dean Thomas K. Cowden, recently named assistant U.S. secretary of Agriculture.

Cowden will retain his position as professor but will step down as dean of the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources May 15.

Provost Howard Neville will serve as acting dean until a successor is named.

The 60-year-old Cowden has been dean since 1954, when he took over the post from Clifford Hardin, now agriculture secretary in the Nixon Administration.

Number Was Up, Without Villainy

TORONTO (AP) — The notices to 100 apartment families said: "On May 1st your number is up."

It looked suspicious, because the apartment project had just been taken over by a bank, and a union was accusing the bank of unfair practices.

The union offered $500 for information leading to the distributor of the notices.

It turned out today that the villain was the post office, promoting the introduction of a new zip-code system.

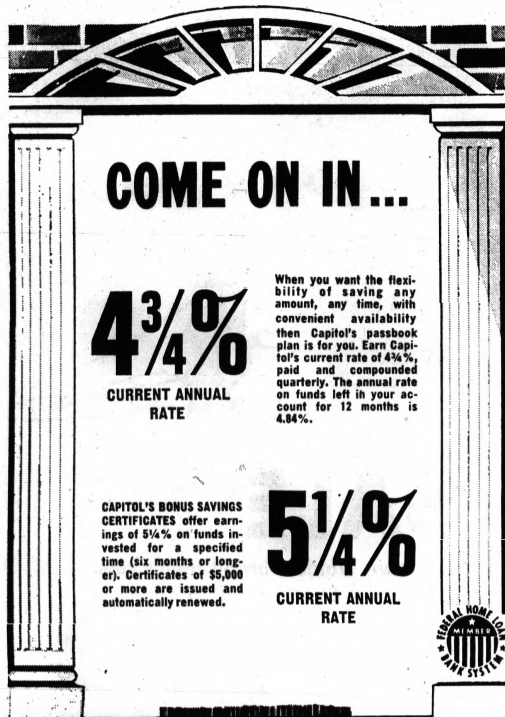

English Baronet, Would-Be Pianist, Is Dead at 56

LUTON, England (AP) — Sir Francis Cassel, a baronet who aspired to be a concert pianist, died Friday at 56.

Every year he hired the 3,000-seat Albert Hall in London to give a recital. It cost him $840 each time and some acid reviews.

His comment: "A pianist wouldn't be human if he hit the right notes all the time."

Cause of death was not announced. He was unmarried and the title passes to his brother.

Women No. 1 Target of Car-Repair 'Sharpies'

DETROIT (UPI) — Most automobile mechanics at car dealers, repair shops and service stations are honest, but a few are unscrupulous, and their principal victims are women because few women know much about cars and how they work.

The problem is not new. The "sharpies" were around decades ago, and they still are around today.

Twenty years ago, a woman driving from New Hampshire to New York pulled into a repair shop with an engine running poorly. She had used 10 gallons of gasoline in the last 50 miles, but could get no power or speed from the car. It ran reasonably well at low speed on level ground, but died trying to climb even a small grade.

What she needed was the air filter of her carburetor cleaned with gasoline.

UNNEEDED PARTS

What she got was a new spark coil, a new distributor head, the filter cleaned on the ply, and a bill for four hours of work, total $28.70. The bill was for a series of things which didn't need repair.

The woman's car could have been fixed in five minutes with a pint of gas to clean the air filter.

The small town New Hampshire mechanic had spotted

His Attitude Is Not Sobering

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A 32-year-old man, before Judge Bernie Weisman on a drunk charge, was asked if he had anything to say in his defense.

"Yes sir, judge," the man replied. "They (police) pick me up every Saturday night, whether I'm drunk or not. So I was thinking about it Saturday night and figured I'd better get drunk because if I'm going to have to spend the night in jail, I'd rather be drunk than sober."

ted the "city slicker's" plates from New York City.

STILL HAPPENS

But it still happens. Edith Black, who writes a woman's page in the magazine "Motor Age," tells of a college girl traveling by car from Chicago to take a job in Philadelphia.

Car trouble developed. Garage and service station mechanics at several spots along the way worked on her car, took her money, but never seemed to be able to fix what was wrong.

Mrs. Black says she recalled her own experience on a vacation trip. She stopped at a gasoline station for a fill-up. The attendant said her air filter was dirty and she needed a new one.

At the next stop the operator warned that her fan belt was just about to fall apart.

NOT SURE

Mrs. Black admits that both these might have been legitimate. She's not sure. But at the third station, the station attendant looked grave and asked . . . "How far are you going, Ma'am?"

When she told him, he shook his head like a surgeon breaking bad news. "I'm afraid you need a new voltage regulator. Before you get there, you'll likely burn up your battery, maybe your whole electrical system."

Scare tactics: A woman could

A Bang-Up Job

EAST LANSING (AP)—State Police have advised local units of government that forms for applications and permits for public fireworks displays and storage may be obtained at any State Police post. The cities, villages and townships now are the only units of government which may issue permits for fireworks display or storage.

not possibly know for sure these were ruses.

The station attendant always says . . . "It won't cost much."

"That's the teeth in the steel trap. In the case of the regulator, Mrs. Black told him to go ahead. Before she escaped, the regulator and labor had cost her $21.65.

WHAT CONSCIENCE?

Says Mrs. Black . . . "I could plead for more honesty and fair play on the part of garages and service stations along the turnpikes. Would it do any good? I don't know. Maybe I should just advise any mechanic who reads this to get a franchise on one of the major turnpikes. He could make a fortune in no time. He doesn't have to belong to the AAA.

"There's only one thing he'll have to do. He'll have to kill his conscience."

It's just like everything else in life. A few bad apples spoil the whole barrel, or at least people begin to think they're all bad. Even when most of them are okay.

Army Learns to Live With 'Family Problem'

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HEIDELBERG, Germany — Nobody likes to admit it here but M.Sgt. Ken Gubert, 22 years in the Army, is a problem.

No, he's an excellent soldier — obedient, sober, enthusiastic, hard working, law abiding, loyal and dependable. The problem is his wife — and those eight kids.

The Army doesn't talk much about the situation. It simply classifies Sgt. Gubert's family (and every other military family) as "moral necessities," and lets it go at that.

FAMILY WILL FOLLOW

But the thing is, almost anywhere Sgt. Gubert is assigned in the world, his family will follow. Thus the Army is saddled with extra work, extra worry and extra expense. In short, Sgt. Gubert's flock — and all such families — are an Army burden.

Europe is probably the best illustration.

The Army has more than 60,000 military families on the Continent today (some unauthorized). They include more than 145,000 dependents, the majority of them children.

Each assigned family is authorized so many pounds of personal and household goods to be shipped at government responsibility. In Sgt. Gubert's case, the total poundage was 5,600: radio, phonograph, car, lamps, washer, dryer, television, sewing machine, six bicycles, dishes, clothing and on and on.

Some families have brought even more: favorite sofas, fish tanks, model train platforms, refrigerators, doghouses. All of it is packed, crated and hauled by U.S. soldiers on both sides of the ocean, who do nothing else but moving work.

And if the moving is elaborate, so is the expense. No one at Army headquarters in Heidelberg will estimate the cost but when personal transportation (by air charter) is included, observers believe the per-month drain is millions.

Transportation is only part of the bill. Once in Europe the dependents must be housed and equipped. Homes must be ready. Whole staffs work at this at every base. They supervise some 50,000 such billets.

SCHOOLS NECESSARY

Schools must be available. In Europe, the Army has 124 elementary, 39 junior high and 33 senior high schools.

Also, base facilities must be able to handle family needs: PXs, theaters, laundries, churches, even teen shops.

In Europe, of course, most of the ground work for Army family living was completed years ago. The initial expense for buildings and furnishings is therefore history.

But maintenance liability continues and grows. The estimate is that a whole division of personnel is tied up with dependent maintenance. Five thousand alone, for example, are employed to teach 100,000 Army schoolchildren.

Yet, with it all, the Army keeps smiling. Few in authority will even voice slight concern with the "dependent" crush. Nobody, it's explained, wants a squabble.

"Wives want to be wanted," says a colonel who refuses to be identified. "If I admit there is a dependent problem, they'll think I don't want them here. God, would I hear it then."

EXCESS BAGGAGE

"Realistically speaking, I think dependents are excess baggage. For several reasons. Let's just take one — war. Say the Russians suddenly brought a dozen divisions into West Germany."

"Can you imagine the calamity? Here's a man with a family and he's told to forget them and report immediately."

"Here's a family in a strange country, out of touch, in the way, loaded down with two tons of household belongings

"And here's the Army, in the Third World War, and it has to stop everything to haul 150,000 wives and kids back home."

For its part, the U.S. Army says it is more than willing to carry out all the responsibilities of dependent-keeping, even in the event of war. And the official viewpoint on military families remains resolutely the same: They are, come what may, part of the whole show.

The Army feels the viewpoint is a sound one. It believes its families cannot be tampered with, whatever the price.

MILITARY 'BURDEN' — An asset with his 22 years of service, M. Sgt. Ken Gubert is also a problem for the Army. In addition to wife Peggy, the Gubert family package includes eight children and 5,600 pounds of household equipment. The Army is committed to transporting it all, across oceans and continents, wherever Gubert goes.

County Big Brothers to Help Host Confab

Big Brothers of Oakland County, a United Fund (UF) agency located at 132 Franklin Blvd., is one of four United Fund agencies serving as hosts for the national convention of Big Brothers of America.

The convention will be Wednesday through Saturday at the Pontchartrain Hotel, Detroit. Roy D. Chapin Jr., board chairman of American Motors Corp., will be the featured speaker.

Other host groups will be Big Brother of Macomb County and programs sponsored by Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of Detroit and Church Social Services of the Metropolitan Detroit Council of Churches.

members of the Oakland Big Brothers service. Sterling is also a member of the national board of Big Brothers.

Sterling said, the convention will provide a clearinghouse for ideas and methods which the 135 Big Brothers services in 120 communities across the country have found effective.

TO DISCUSS PRIORITIES

Agency staff representatives will meet the first day to discuss priorities which must be established to meet their chief objective, providing adult men volunteers capable of becoming friends on a one-to-one basis with young fatherless boys. The greater metropolitan area includes some 28,000 fatherless boys between the ages of 8 and 17 years, Sterling said.

The Big Brother programs supported by the UF serve more than 800 boys in the Wayne - Oakland - Macomb area, he said.

General chairman for the convention is Jack Sterling of Birmingham, general manager of Newspaper 1, a research firm in Southfield, and James Cummins of Bloomfield Hills, owner of Cummins Publishing Co., Oak Park. Both are board

House Is Full of Whimsy

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

It takes "a heap of livin'" to transform a house into a home, and Dr. and Mrs. Charles R. Becker and their two daughters, Mindy, 3, and Heather, 2, are doing just that.

Their comfortable home in Avon Township is chock full of surprises and delights that would enchant any little boy or girl, thanks to the capable hands of a creative mother and father.

Sharing the home scene with the young family are three Siamese cats (Sam, BoPeep and Muffin), one Old English sheep dog (Eloise), one St. Bernard (Shannon), one vizsla (Holly), one "coccopoodle" (Tinker Belle), one mutt (Ginger) and two canaries (Hawk and Snow).

"Come around to the back door," called the friendly voice of the petite Mrs. Becker as our car pulled into the yard.

SWEET LEDGE

"No one ever uses the front," she added as we climbed the short flight of stairs into the warm kitchen where filled candy jars line the window ledges in gay profusion.

The Early American atmosphere is punctuated with delightful bits of fantasy such as the orange-crate mouse house, the hollowed-log bear house and the antique mouse trap of wire complete with toy mouse and cheese. (The latter was guarded by a live Siamese while we were there.)

Perched on an ancient cast iron stove in the kitchen is the mouse house, its host and hostess peering welcome over the opening as the baby mouse naps in his cradle.

"I tore an orange crate apart, recut it and put it back together," said Mrs. Becker.

"The walls are papered with old newspapers and confederate money. The beds are sardine cans and the patchwork quilts are handmade and tied."

An inverted cup and saucer make up the cloth-covered table served by cork chairs.

And, lest the residents forget their prosperity, a mouse trap stands ready on the roof as a grim reminder of another fate.

"I hunted all over for china cheese," laughed Mrs. Becker, "but when I couldn't find it . . . I varnished a chunk of real cheese for their table. It worked."

In the adjoining dining room, centered by an oval oak table, stands a brick and mahogany fireplace.

"You should have seen it when we got it," sighed Mrs. Becker, shaking her head. "It was covered with three coats of ivory enamel. I stripped it and then spent months with a nutpick cleaning up the carving and crevices."

"Most of the antiques in the house," said Mrs. Becker, "are family pieces though we have collected a few."

Colorful leaded glass mobiles created by Mrs. Becker pick up the sunlight in the living room windows. The balloon man appears to be caught by a gust of wind and carried high above the house tops clutching his airy burden.

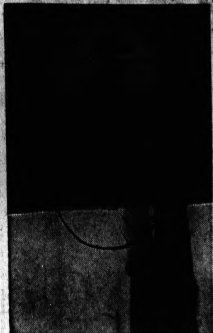

"He is one of my favorites," said Mrs. Becker. "I like to work with my hands and working with glass proved particularly interesting."

"I started out with the flat leaded pieces first . . . like the ones in the dining room windows . . . but they weren't too much of a challenge so I went on to making the dimensional ones."

On the room's shuttered stereo stands the whimsical bear house with Papa Bear fishing, Mama Bear getting supper and Baby Bear swinging, all busy as if while the hours away until Goldilocks arrives and the real fun begins.

Up 50 Per Cent

Apartment Demand Soars

During the first six months of 1968, according to F. W. Dodge, the contracts for apartments soared 50 per cent but the increase for single-family homes was up only 10 per cent.

The Insulation Board Institute comments that we may well be becoming a nation of apartment dwellers, so here are a few tips on buying or renting apartments. The location, appearance of the building, the floor plan and price are, of course, vital considerations.

But as the popularity of apartments grows, the public is discovering the importance of buildings designed for quiet and privacy. All the beauty of a new apartment fades if the construction is paper-thin and noise is transmitted both through the walls and floors.

A recent study by the Research Foundation of National Association of Home Builders indicates that in a 96-unit garden apartment studied, most of the occupants could hear people walking upstairs and a high percentage heard noise through the walls.

Prospective renters or buyers can now find apartments where the builder has engineered quiet into his properties. By making a simple check, it is easy to learn if the building is truly sound conditioned.

• Enter an apartment, close the door, and observe if noise created in the hallway comes through. The door should be the solid type and closely fitted to the frame. Preferably, it should close into a vinyl gasket and the bottom should have a threshold closure.

• The hallway itself should be carpeted and the ceiling should be acoustical insulation board to reduce noise. Walls of the hall must be constructed to contain noise.

• Wall Test — Never buy or rent until you have tested noise transmission through walls you will share with your neighbors. This so-called "common wall" now can be constructed to above your apartment — just reduce noise using such products as sound deadening insulation board.

Have someone start a lively conversation in the next apartment to test the wall you might eventually share. Many experienced renters and buyers bring a transistor radio when they shop, using this for the noise source. The key question — does voice or radio penetrate enough to be annoying?

• Floor Test — Carpeting overhead helps, but your builder should also have used a special floor-ceiling system now available to reduce noise.

The test here is simple — have a friend walk around your apartment — just listen. Is the impact of heels disturbing? Can you stand it day after day?

• Mechanical Noise — The NAHB research illustrated widespread complaints on plumbing and appliance noise from 70 per cent of the renters. Plumbing noise can easily be checked.

Try the plumbing in the next apartment, in the apartment overhead. And don't neglect the appliances.

Quieter models and improved installation methods are available to your builder. Check the garbage disposal unit and the dishwasher. Both these appliances are often singled out as key noise offenders.

Tie Tool House to Garage Back

In many yards, a garden tool house can be attached conveniently to the back wall of the garage, doors opening to the garden.

Slant its roof to the front and build doors gate-style, with Z-bracing, sliding boards. Match into siding pattern to the garage.

Well Begun Is Half Done

If you've been postponing that, I'd tackle the screening of a screened-in porch project because you can't muster up the courage to tackle it, give up and call for help," says photographer John Hugelmeier of Riverdale, N.J., who did just that. It's better to begin the project, and get into the act later, if you must, he says, by doing some phase of the work that doesn't require professional talent.

"At first I thought I'd tackle the whole project — flooring, roof and all," says Hugelmeier of his 16 foot by 25 foot project. "My brother, an architect, drew up plans in large scale, but the more I looked at plans, the more I realized it was too big a job for me. So I decided to get someone to build the foundation and roof, and then Such considerations as how to connect rafters to the house, how water must run off, how the roof should be edged, and the job required professional know-how.

But, whammo, as soon as porch posts, ceiling and foundation were installed, Hugelmeier was ready to tackle the screening in with gusto.

"That part of it was fun when I got around to it. I armed myself with aluminum wire screening, a stapling gun and some pine stock for frames. But this is a great idea. But after considering that plan, he decided against it because in his case, the concrete floor might necessitate framing as knots will weaken the frame, he says.

The screening should be started by stapling the middle of each side of the frame, pulling from the center toward those points so there will be no sags or ripples in it.

"If screening is properly put up it will be impervious to everything. Ours has withstood the barrage of chipmunks, cats, other animals and two lively youngsters," he says.

GLASS FRAMES

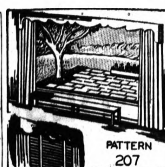

Many people make glass frames for winter use of a porch, Hugelmeier points out, and this is a great idea.

But after considering that plan, he decided against it because in his case, the concrete floor might necessitate expensive heating arrangements.

Though Hugelmeier's original plan was to have an open covered porch, he went on from there to the screened-in version because "it is almost a necessity in any buggy area to use screens, if you'd get the maximum enjoyment out of an outdoor area, particularly at night," he says.

Anyone who has an open porch that merely needs screening could have an enclosed one by expending the little time and effort required in building frames and applying screening.

PATTERN 207

IF YOU MAKE A CORNICE your curtaining problem is half solved. If you make a scalloped plywood frame as shown here, it is entirely solved. Pattern 207 gives actual-size guides for many designs that may be combined in different ways and includes installing directions. Price 50 cents. This pattern is also one of four in the Decorator Projects Packet No. 50 for $1.50.

Decorating Ideas in New Booklet

Rooms made exciting with raised plank-and-beam ceilings appear in 19 full-color photos in the booklet, "Wide Open Living."

This "must" for everyone's building-decorating library is available for 15 cents from Dept. 533-P, Western Wood Products Assn., Yeon Bldg., Portland, Ore. 97204.

Vertical Accent in Bookcases

When solid lumber is used for a bookcase, the boards forming shelves and side supports need no edge banding for appearance.

But it's often desirable to emphasize the vertical line of uprights by facing them with a 1x2 nailed flat across the edge.

Prefab Housing for Pontiac

(See Pictures Page B-4)

By ED BLUNDEN

A factory in Detroit is being toolled up to turn out prefabricated housing which promises to play a large part in the future of the Pontiac area.

Leading the firm, Pre-Built Homes, Inc., are two area developers, Lester Taubman of Southfield and Paul M. Corp of 850 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills, the current models meet city requirements.

The firm became "big business" last Friday, merging with Intercontinental Industries, Inc., of Dallas, Tex. The announcement of the merger sent Intercontinental from 13 to 15.5 on the Stock Exchange, according to Walling Lerchen & Co. of Pontiac, exchange members. The price had stayed at that level this week.

Pre-Built has announced plans to build a $4-million, 254-unit town house complex at East University west of Palmer. The firm has been granted site-plan approval and hopes to start initial construction soon.

These units will be the mid-income variety with added space and bedrooms. When the site is prepared, installation of single units can take place within hours. The modules of living rooms, bedrooms, kitchens, etc., come with all fixtures ready to hook up.

The concept of prebuilt homes has met many obstacles since its inception after World War II. But, according to city officials, the current models meet city requirements.

Taubman's firm was winner last March of a competition held by the Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority. Competing against much-larger firms, Pre-Built's home was judged best at the price and the reward was a contract for 800 units.

Since that time the firm has been almost flooded with orders, Taubman said. Besides his up-coming project in Pontiac, several others in the city and surrounding area are in the planning stage, he said.

The Pre-Built factory is on the Detroit near northeast side. A huge building, it is being redesigned to be an assembly line for homes. Taubman said he hopes to hire some 400 persons. He said most of them will be ghetto-area and hard-core unemployed, thus providing a service to the Detroit area.

Probably the most important factor in Taubman's plans is his use of the nonskilled. He said factory methods to be employed are easily teachable, much easier than the skills needed in standard home-building.

This is also much less expensive, he pointed out. Taubman has long been a housing developer in the Oakland and Wayne county area. His brother, A. Alfred Taubman, is a commercial property development who was author of the unsuccessful Taubman Plan for Pontiac's downtown urban renewal land. Corp brings long experience in manufacturing to the Pre-Built firm having served as an officer in firms such as Briggs Manufacturing and American Metal Products.

Details of land acquisitions for Pre-Built are handled by W. A. EEngelhart of the Birmingham firm of Weir, Manual, Snyder & Ranke.

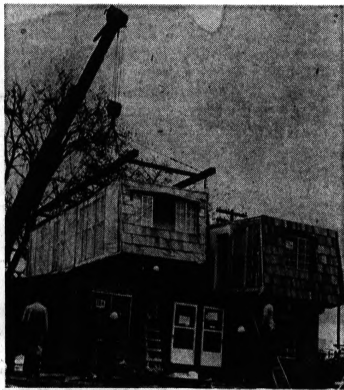

Weather Wood the Easy Way

Do friends make disparaging remarks about the raw appearance of your newly built wood deck? Let them; you'll have the last laugh. Some week next year, while you're relaxing on your weather-silvered deck, they'll be refinishing theirs.

HOMES FOR PONTIAC — Two area developers inspect their Detroit factory which will be remodeled and soon be turning out homes on an assembly line basis. The men, Lester Taubman of Southfield (left) and Paul M. Corp of 850 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills, are top officers of Pre-Built Homes, Inc. A 254-unit subdivision using the new-type housing will be constructed in Pontiac starting this year.

Easy to Build, Too!

Cedar Closet Does Two Jobs

A two-prong home problem can have a single solution.

If you need a cedar closet to protect out-of-season woollens from moths and larvae and if your basement needs a room divider, you can have both simply by building the unit as a floor-to-ceiling space partition.

Size of the installation depends on the space required for a passageway past the divider-ward closet, size of the room and family needs. The closet can range from small to extensive, as modules may be added quite readily.

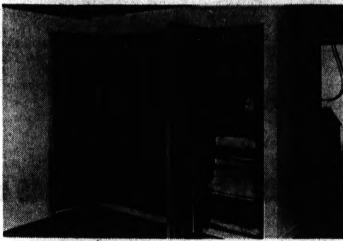

By constructing a double closet — one that opens on both sides — you'll not only increase storage facilities by 100 per cent but make it easier to "file" the garments by categories such as "his," "hers," "adults" and "children."

THREE TYPES STORAGE

Such a closet, offers three types of storage: Hanging, deep shelves and shallow shelves, providing the right kind of space for virtually any type of woollens and other off-season garments and bedding.

The dual-purpose closet is essentially a tight box with partitions.

As a foundation, 2 x 4s were laid flat over small hardwood blocks to allow for drainage in case of flooding. Built of 3/4" exterior plywood, recommended for damp basement in core doors, using nails and cartridge-type general purpose adhesive. The skins of such doors are too thin for nails alone.

CEDAR CLOSET—This handsome cedar closet solves a familiar problem. It has ample room for protective storage of off-season woollens, and it serves as a room divider to screen the basement laundry area. Fully lined with aromatic red cedar wood, including floors, doors and ceiling, the spacious closet offers protection against moths and larvae for both shelf and hanging storage items. It is built of 3/4" exterior plywood.

Small finishing nails are used to secure the cedar lining. Start in one corner of the closet and work up from the bottom, with the first piece having the grooved edge down and against the wall. Where pieces meet end-to-end, force them together to interlock. Corner pieces are scribed to fit.

Omit any finish on the lining, otherwise you will seal in the fumes which are pleasant to human beings but abhorrent to moths and their larvae.

Exterior of the closet, in this case, was painted colorfully. Adjoining doors were orange and lime green, with single doors and all other exterior lemon yellow. Knobs were set 6" from edges in door centers.

New closet, which shields laundry facilities, provides a separate storage area for off-season clothing and woollens, plus spare space for other items.

GARDEN TIP — Where lawn doesn't grow well around tree's trunk, replace grass with ground cover, add a seating bench of Douglas fir 2x4s, and path or border of crushed rock contained by treated 2x4s sunk into ground.

Away With Town Dump

A new method of disposing of rubbish is not only expected to take a big step toward ridding residential area of that long-time eyesore — the neighborhood dump — but also to increase land values.

Industrial Resources of America, Inc., (IRA) — a leader in a fast-growing new industry, is now licensing its solid (non-garbage) waste handling concept, with licensees either leasing or buying the company's equipment.

Unlike sewage disposal, solid waste solutions have been virtually non-existent. Today, however, some 20 firms are selling refuse handling equipment.

IRA has developed a complete rubbish removal service package involving: collecting trash via "lift carts" at points of refuse generation in a plant, unloading it into compactors where hydraulic rams cram it into containers, salvaging separating it and then shredding the residue in grinders preparatory to hauling to disposal sites.

And what does trash disposal have to do with real estate values?

Dumping the compacted, chemically treated rubbish residue in a sanitary landfill, or "dump-and-cover" — a sophisticated version of the old open dump — helps to create instead of destroy usable land space.

Work Surfaces Need Built-In Resistance

Sometimes success gets out of hand. A product comes to be so well thought of that users automatically expect too much of it.

For instance, some people polish the finish right off their shiny new automobiles.

Decorative laminated plastic for counters, cabinets, furniture and walls is so well thought of, it too takes a beating, says the Decorative Laminate Section of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association.

Laminated plastic is one of the most attractive and wear resistant materials available for surfacing kitchen and bathroom counters, for finishes of fine furniture and for wall panels.

All that it takes to clean it is to wipe it with a damp cloth, any of the generally available dish washing soaps or detergents, and a light hand.

This high-pressure laminate has an extremely dense surface that is highly resistant to dirt and stain, and impervious to moisture. Decorative laminated plastic is scuff and scratch resistant, but cooks should use a cutting board when slicing or mincing. The board will also protect the sharp edges of your cutlery.

Modern technology has developed a decorative, versatile, material that resists cigarette burns — but for a limited period of time. Nicotine stains, however, can be removed with a mild abrasive or a light soap.

Decorative laminated plastic withstands heat too, but please protect it from sizzling hot pots. It's hard to find another beautiful surfacing material that will stand up to heat, water and stains like high-pressure decorative laminated plastic.

Use it, enjoy it, but give it the loving care it deserves.

Natural Wood for Casual Living

Don't stain or paint wood deck boards unless you look forward to repeating the job. For carefree living and top appearance, let the wood weather naturally.

If Douglas fir decking is finished with clear water repellent, weathering comes faster and more evenly.

Osage orange, hickory, beech and black locust are the heaviest American hardwoods.

A-FRAME CHALET of this type is becoming increasingly popular as a vacation or second home. This one has four bedrooms and all the extras which would make it suitable for an all-year-round house in most country areas.

A-Frame Includes Four Big Bedrooms

A-frame houses have become popular as second homes or all-year houses in suburbs and country areas. They seem to answer the yearning for something different.

Architect Lester Cohen had added an extra room in answer to requests for a four-bedroom A-frame.

The standard design usually has two bedrooms and one in the upper peak, but with larger

The stairway to the living level also is there. The recreation area or family room on the same level is big and will be a star attraction whether this house is for vacation or all-year use.

Cozy, friendly furniture groupings suggest themselves — around the fireplace, centered in the room or around the walls, even in front of the window wall at the front. Supplementing the garage, for shore or lake use, there is a boat stall. This opens into two dressing room areas and a full scale bathroom with a stall shower.

In ski country or suburban acreage, the boat space will be utilized for another car, and the dressing rooms by ski gear or gardening equipment storage.

ENTRY
To enter the living levels, you can go up the stairway at the front and cross the sun deck, or come up from the side yard to the dining balcony, especially the latter if you are heading toward the kitchen.

Even vacation-minded families like several means of entering a house to spare the living room floor or rugs the burnt of through traffic. The view through the big picture windows will be an important feature for living and dining rooms in any interior decorating scheme.

There's a second fireplace

Z-89 STATISTICS

Design Z-89 has a living room, dining and kitchen area, two bedrooms and a bathroom on the main level, totaling 933 square feet. There are three bedrooms and a bathroom upstairs, adding 656 square feet to the living area. A large family room — 29' by 18' — is on the ground floor, along with a bathroom, two dressing rooms, a laundry, a storage area and a place for an automobile and a boat. Over-all dimensions of the basic house are 37' 4" by 30' 6".

outlined by the open stairways from below and above, and a planter to one side.

The kitchen is self-contained and easy to work in. A snack bar with overhead hanging cupboards forms the divider between the kitchen and living areas.

Meals are easily handled at the bar, in the dining area or, best of all, when the weather warrants it, outside on the dining balcony. When the sun shifts or you just want a change, there's the equally inviting front deck.

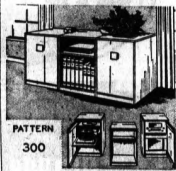

At the back, two bedrooms share a closet wall and have another bathroom to themselves.

On the second floor are the main family bedrooms.

The master bedroom gives the owners large quarters, their own balcony, excellent closet, space and private access via a pocket door to the third bedroom. A fireplace in the bedroom is a delightful country-estate extra.

The second bedroom features a closet wall and has a fine view to the deck.

SHE FELT HOUNDED — There is little friendship between Carolyn Bencham, 19, and Bomber, a German shepherd police dog. Bomber, trained to sniff out marijuana, colared Carolyn at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport with $3,200 worth of the drug.

Carolyn's lawyer, at her arraignment this week, claimed use of the dog was unconstitutional and has vowed to appeal to the Supreme Court if necessary. Trial has been set for May 13.

MSU Boosts Funds for Black Programs

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State University trustees voted yesterday to increase sixfold the funds allocated for programs mainly aimed at helping Negro students — from $250,000 to $1.5 million in the year beginning July 1.

The money would go to finance MSU's equal opportunities program and its center for urban affairs.

About 60 Negro students appeared at the board meeting to show their support of the action. The students, some wearing African headbands, were commended by Trustee Blanch Martin for the way they conducted themselves and for "being such ladies and gentlemen." Martin, a former halfback on the MSU football team, is the first Negro trustee of MSU.

The board also approved resolutions supporting creation of a Wayne County community college and requiring proof of equal employment opportunities from all university contractors. The formal board meeting was interrupted while a spokesman for Negro students read a list of some of their complaints.

Among complaints were:

- Failure of the sports program to include any black cheerleaders.

- "Black athletes are exploited for four years and then cut loose without proper education or a degree."

- The College of Human Medicine includes only one black among 78 students, and there is a short supply of black staff members in residence hall programs.

- A high rate of black students still flunk out of the university "because of lack of support programs."

- Students are intimidated by the presence of policemen with guns in a supposedly academic and progressive community."

The spokesman for the Negro students also complained the university fails to relate to the community as a whole. He said a black student representative should be at each board meeting.

A major part of the program for black students will be an effort to recruit up to 1,000 additional black students each academic year. This goal would nearly double the present Negro enrollment at Michigan State. The Negro registration now is 1,007 out of a total enrollment of 39,949.

Trustee Warren Huff won passage of a resolution declaring that any excess funds received from the Legislature be used to support the recruitment of up to 1,000 Negro and other disadvantaged students.

What will spring bring?

Spring is here and so are the fly-by-night itinerants who invade the Pontiac area every year. Spring and summer is the time of year when homeowners and business firms are interested in making improvements to their property. The itinerants seem to concentrate on driveway resurfacing work but they also do roof coating, house painting, gutter and chimney repairs.

We suggest that before an agreement is made to have the work done some very simple guidelines be followed.

1. Obtain the name and address of the firm.
2. Ask for the names and addresses of previous customers.
3. Secure estimates from at least two other firms for the identical work.
4. Study a copy of the contract, be sure all promises are included, understand all the terms and conditions.
5. Do not fall for a price that seems too low. It might be the more costly.
6. Do not accept a story that "we just happened to be in your neighborhood with extra materials," etc.

The cash take of the "itinerants" can run into thousands of dollars. The cash outlay MIGHT be smaller but poor quality work is the result of bargain prices.

Why Not Give the Work to Legitimate Business Concerns?

Yard on Lookout for Scotchmen

LONDON (U) — Scotland Yard, burr instead of a Cockney London's famed police headquarters, has nothing to do with Scotland, but it's getting closer to the Highlands all the time.

That doesn't mean that the capital's cops are going to turn in their traditional blue trousers for tartan kilts, but it does mean that more bobbies on the beat may speak with a Scottish capital.

"That's our only connection with Scotland, but now we are trying to get more Scotsmen on the force," said a yard official.

PEP TALKS

"London's population comes from all over Britain, so we try to have police from all over, instead of just Londoners. Tactically, it is better that way."

In a high-powered white police car and a small panel truck, the yard has now sent an inspector, a traffic specialist, a fingerprint expert and a woman inspector to northeast Scotland to give pep talks to schoolchildren and started a recruiting drive to bring Scottish cadets to London.

The yard is also running newspaper ads around Aberdeen and Elgin.

The yard's force totals just over 20,000 men and needs another 5,000 to come up to strength. It recruits all over Britain — 1,200 to 1,600 new members a year — but this is the first direct effort in upper Scotland.

'WANT MORE'

"Some of us estimate that about one-quarter of the force is from Scotland already," said one official. "At least from the accents around here that's what it sounds like. But we want more."

LOOKING FOR RECRUITS — Scotland Yard's touring recruiting office — a high-powered squad car and a panel truck — stand on London's Westminster Bridge. In the background are Big Ben and the houses of Parliament.

Winders, also of Birmingham, holds a silver tea service. The daffodil metal sculpture in the foreground weighs about 40 pounds.

Rummage Sale Slated

The spring rummage sale sponsored by Episcopal Churchwomen of Christ Church, Cranbrook, is scheduled Thursday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Clothing for everyone in the family, plus accessories, toys, jewelry, furniture, linens, china, glass and books will be offered in 15 departments.

The French Room is stocked with designer clothes and almost-new label apparel from the smartest shops. Mrs. Russell Robins is chairman of the French Room.

French Fashioners Gird for Cheap-Labor Contest

PARIS (AP) — The French ready-to-wear industry's winter show is enjoying "spectacular prestige," but faces trouble from less-expensive Oriental competition and possible import controls by the United States.

With January-February sales up 29 per cent over the corresponding period last year, the industry attracted 50,000 visitors to the week-long show—including 800 foreign buyers and fashion reporters from 40 countries. But its exports—$73.6 million last year—are still in danger.

Andre Beltenecourt, minister of industry, warned the 665 displaying firms at opening ceremonies that despite France's "spectacular prestige," a flood of competition is developing in such cheap-labor areas as Hong Kong and Formosa.

Beltenecourt did not mention President Nixon's campaign pledge to cut down on textile imports. But about the same time he was speaking, a U.S. mission arrived bent on persuading makers to adopt voluntary quotas. In absence of these, Congress may pass import controls, the mission was said to be arguing.

NEW MARKETS

While French quality and workmanship "have nothing to fear," said Beltenecourt, new outlets must be found. The European Common Market now is the largest at 58 per cent of clothing exports, with Germany heading the list. For the other 42 per cent, Switzerland is top customer with the United States a close second.

Ready-to-wear clothes are commercial adaptations of current trends and not pace-setting creations. But they do offer quality finery with haute couture ancestry to upper-middle-class and middle-class budgets.

By ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently my three grandchildren, aged 12, 10 and 6 were involved, without their mother's knowledge or consent, in the remarriage of their divorced father to a woman they had known for only a short time, who was also divorced.

The wedding took place when the children were spending school vacation with their father. The girls were junior bridesmaids and the boy carried the ring for his father.

I was very distressed when I heard what had happened, as was my daughter. Should the children of divorced parents participate in the remarriage of the parent unless it is agreeable to the other parent? — An Ex-mother-in-law.

Dear "Ex-mother-in-law": The children involved are too young to appreciate their mother's feelings but their father should not have put them into such a position of disloyalty. To have the wedding during vacation so that they could attend was quite right, but they should not have been asked to take part unless their own mother had been advised and given her approval.

GIFT ETIQUETTE

Dear Mrs. Post: When a separate gift is given to a man in addition to one to his wife, how come he has her write the thank-you for his as well as her's? He's used to having her secretarial services in connection with invitations, but personalized gifts are another thing. I maintain that men (and children) don't deserve to receive gifts if they can't personally acknowledge them, provided they are capable of doing so. — Helen

Dear Helen: I'm with you. Many men — when they can get away with it — are apt to turn thank-you chores over to their wives, and they are wrong to do so. A thank-you of any sort should come from the recipient of the gift — not an agent.

The French apply the byword "pour le relax" — for relaxing — to a range of hostess gowns and costumes for fireside, at-home and boudoir. They come in novelty fabrics, exciting sheers, mat-tress-ticking jersey and silks in luscious colors.

Teen Sees Error of Ways; Wants to Help Others Now

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY I am 16 and in a pack of trouble. I was arrested for burglary and other charges. This was not my first time, so I am locked up here in Cambridge, Minn., awaiting trial. I would like to express some of the things I have learned in the 121 days I have been here.

One is that you should listen to your parents as they will never steer you wrong. I never got along too good with my dad. Every time he tried to talk to me we got into a heated argument, but now I realize if I had listened to him, I wouldn't be here.

I would also like to tell kids, don't quit school to go out and make money. I did, and look where I ended up.

Also, there are no short cuts. A guy needs all the education he can get. And another thing. Don't blame your mistakes on other people. My friends showed me how to break the law, but I am the one who now must take full responsibility for my own actions. I will probably get sent up to St. Cloud, but thanks, Abby, for letting me say this. Also, I want to thank Sheriff Erickson. He is a swell guy. He let me use his typewriter to write to you.

Sincerely,
"THE CAMBRIDGE BUM"

DEAR SIR: You're young yet, so don't go calling yourself a "bum." You can pay your debt and still amount to something if you really want to. I talked to Sheriff Erickson, and he told me you had already been sent to St. Cloud. He said he certainly hoped you would straighten yourself out because you had a lot of good in you, in addition to being exceptionally smart. I believe him. I wish you luck.

DEAR ABBY: You always tell girls they should confide in their mothers. Well, I used to, but no more.

First I made my mother promise if I told her something in confidence she wouldn't tell anybody. She promised and I told her. (It was something about a boy I liked.) Well, it got back to this boy because my mother told my aunt, and this aunt just happens to have the biggest mouth in Baltimore, that's all, and she told this boy's mother!

So, please, Abby, tell mothers who can't keep secrets not to feel left out if their children don't tell them anything.

Mom Read Baby Care Books, Delivers Fifth Child Unaided

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (UPI) — Mrs. Harry Reynolds, 31, Port Angeles, was up and about, feeling "just fine" today just two days after she delivered her fifth child at home all alone.

"I just got tired of seeing hospital rates go up every time you turn around," she said.

Mrs. Reynolds, whose fourth child came at a hospital-doctor cost of $552, said she had read books on baby care.

"There were instructions on what to do in case you had your baby at home," she said. "It's really not that hard. I had no trouble at all."

Her husband, a logger, was at work when the event occurred. Her four other children were watching television.

"My husband was happy with the result when he came home, but he thinks I'm a nut for not going to the hospital," Mrs. Reynolds said. "But I'm one of those hard-headed kind and when I decide to do something, I do it."

The "result" was a boy weighing more than nine pounds.

DEAR TERRY: You are right, of course. So to all you mothers out there: If you want to keep the lines of communication open between you and your children, never — but NEVER betray a confidence.

DEAR ABBY: Your column has always been welcome in our home. Indeed we called you "the learned judge — a Second Solomon." Then all that endeavor came to a sudden end when you gave your approval to a mother bathing her baby in the kitchen sink — the same sink in which the household dishes were washed!

Abby, you showed a shocking disregard for the accepted principles of sanitation and disease prevention. The mere thought of eating from dishes washed in the same sink in which a child was bathed leaves a most offensive taste in one's mouth.

We could easily close this chapter by forever boycotting your column. However, we prefer to give you a chance to retract your unsavory judgment.

HELEN A., NORTHPORT, N.Y.

DEAR HELEN: Like I said. If the sink is clean BEFORE AND AFTER the baby's bath, what's the difference?

DEAR ABBY: Is a FIFTH COUSIN far enough away for marriage?

ELOISE

DEAR ELOISE: Genetically speaking, yes.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ACTOR-AT-LIBERTY": Pride goeth before a fall. A small role is better than a long loaf.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GENE: The next best thing to brains is silence.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P. O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'Shaped' Suits for All Ages

If a man is less than an Adonis, should he reach for one of those elegantly shaped men's suits in the stores? The answer — "Yes."

The American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear says so for this reason: although original efforts were aimed at the slim, trim, youthful figure, there now are similar looking styles for "the more mature man." These have been designed to accommodate a wider waistline — and disguise it a bit, too.

LED TO SAFETY — Rescuers escort an unidentified woman from a luxury apartment building in Atlantic City. Four persons died and 24 were hurt as flames gutted two floors of the allegedly fireproof building.

'Fireproof' Apartment Burns in Jersey; 4 Killed, 24 Hurt

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Four persons died and 24 were injured last night in a raging fire believed to have started as a grease fire in a frying pan in a "fireproof" luxury apartment building.

The dead all were women.

Two of them were found when firemen pried open an elevator shaft between the sixth and seventh floors of the 12-story Brighton Towers apartments.

Atlantic City Hospital officials identified three of the victims as Judy Stout, 25, a nurse at the hospital, Mrs. Marie Falcigatore, 42, and Mrs. Marie Andisman. There was no immediate identification of the other victim, a young girl who police said suffocated.

HEAT 'EXCRUCIATING'

John E. Wilson, a fireman who lives in the building, and the heat was "excruciating." He said the smoke was "so thick you could push it with your hand."

Twenty of the injured were released after treatment. Only one of those hospitalized was listed in serious condition. He was James O'Hagan, a building superintendent, who suffers second-degree burns of the face and hands.

Officials said O'Hagan, trapped in the elevator with two of the women who died, was blown free by an explosion and managed to make his way out of the building.

The seventh and eighth floors of the aluminum- and glass structure were gutted, and damage was estimated in the millions.

NEWLYWEDS' APARTMENT

The fire was believed to have started as a grease fire in a frying pan in the seventh-floor apartment of some newlyweds. It quickly got out of hand and spread.

Fire Chief Earl Jordan said the fire was well under way when the first firemen arrived after responding to the alarm at 7:40 p.m. They brought it under control some two hours later.

Some 200 firemen from 11 companies fought the blaze in the drizzling rain.

"STUBBORN AS A MULE"

No one seems to know how or when the saying started. The Bible says something about it. In Psalm 32 we read, "Be not as the horse or as the mule which have no understanding. Maybe the saying comes from there."

Some people are more stubborn than others. Stubbornness can be described as hard headedness, hard to get along with, set in one's ways and so on. When one is in such a mood or has that attitude, it is often impossible to reason with the person. At such times, they "have no understanding" has special meaning. It takes patience to try to reach an understanding. When understanding is reached, stubbornness vanishes like a smoke ring.

RNA Implies Police Tried to Kill Henry

DETROIT (AP) — The slaying of a white Detroit policeman three weeks ago was the frustrated result of a plot to assassinate the first vice president of the Republic of New Africa, a spokesman for the separatist group said Friday.

Richard Henry, who goes by the name of Brother Iari, told a rally of the RNA that his brother, Milton Henry, was marked for assassination. Iari did not say who planned the alleged assassination attempt, but implied it was a police plot.

In the subsequent police invasion of the church building, four persons were wounded and one suffered a broken leg.

"Someone with a gun had sense enough to move away, and draw the police car away from its target, Brother Galdi," Iari said. "Looks like somebody had sense enough to know what to do to save the first vice president — and he did it." The RNA minister of the interior told the 600 supporters jamming a Wayne State University auditorium.

Iari said police reinforcements who had shot their way into the church in the incident were "guilty of felonies."

Police Commissioner Johanne Spreen had said an investigation disclosed the arriving police were fired upon from the church.

"In due time we'll identify them," Iari said of the police. "And they will be brought to justice."

The rally Friday night was carefully controlled by the elite guard of the RNA, the Black Legion.

All people were thoroughly frisked and searched before being allowed to enter the auditorium. A photographer whose flash accidentally fired was told to leave and his film was confiscated.

The RNA spokesman said one of the men charged with the attempt to murder in the incident who later took the stand against his comrades had been beaten for four days by police. But a police spokesman denied that allegation early today.

The man to whom Iari referred was David Brown, 19, of Compton, Calif. He was identified by Iari as a member of the RNA, but not of the Black Legion.

Brown took the stand in Detroit Recorder's Court Friday to testify he saw Rafael Viera, 20, of New York fire six times at Patrolman Michael Czapski.

Viera surrendered himself to the FBI in New York Friday and was held in $100,000 bail. The Brown also testified that Alfred Bibbs, 38, of Detroit, fired at patrolman Richard Worobec, who was wounded.

Cancer Data Is Available in the Area

Since April has been proclaimed Cancer Control Month in Michigan, area residents are urged to obtain information about the disease from the north Oakland unit of the Michigan Cancer Foundation (MCF) office, 64 W. Lawrence, said Andrew Barto, MCF field representative.

This year the foundation has distributed four filmstrips to organizations and area schools along with literature explaining some facts about cancer. The filmstrips are shown by trained lay persons, doctors and nurses.

A smoking-withdrawal clinic will be held May 4-8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Oakland County Courthouse auditorium, 1200 N. Telegraph.

The Michigan Cancer Foundation is an agency of the United Foundation and does not charge for services literature or film programs.

The MCF has nine branch unit offices in the Detroit area in addition to its research and headquarters in Detroit, he said.

He joined the firm in 1947 and became its president in 1965, resigning two years ago because of ill health.

Born in Victoria, B.C., his father, James W. Kelly, was an oil explorer who served the governments of Spain, France and Colombia.

BY ED BLUNDEN
Whose afraid of the MCR? Not very many area contractors, it appears.
This is in spite of the rejection of some $1.6 million in contracts for an education project nullified after recommendations of the MCR (Michigan Civil Rights Commission) last month by the Pontiac School Board.

A check by The Press revealed most of the contractors are going right back after the contract, and new contractors are entering the field.

In the first bidding, BLUNDEN companies competed for four contracts on different phases of construction. Nearly that many, perhaps more, are expected to submit bids which are to be opened Tuesday.

TRAINING CENTER
The contracts were for construction of the Northeast Oakland Vocational Technical Training Center to be located on North Perry near Madison Junior High in Pontiac.

News Analysis

Bids had been asked for four major phases of construction, in order of cost, general construction, mechanical installation, electrical installation, and food service equipment installation.

On March 13, the school board voted to reject all four of the apparent winning low bidders. The board said the MCR had advised them three of the contractors had failed to meet nondiscrimination provisions of state law. Not found in violation was the low bidder for food service, Gold Star Products. (Since this job depended on completion of the others, it too had to be rejected.)

Then on March 20, the school board rejected the rest of the 35 bids claiming the MCR also had found noncompliance among subcontractors that the major bidders would be expected to hire.

ANGER, CONSTERNATION

Though the school board's action aroused some anger and consternation, it has not stopped a desire to get the contract. In talks to bidders it was indicated almost all of them feel they either comply, could comply or would comply if they won the contract.

The most anger was aroused in the low bidder on the prime contract ($882,000), Dale Cook Inc. of 3340 Highland, Waterford Township. Cook claims the MCR report that he would not sign a written agreement to comply was false.

Cook said he was willing to sign an agreement but only if it had a stipulation that any extra cost involved in hiring extra minority group workers would be borne by the schools and not himself.

James McClung, director of the MCR compliance division, insists Cook's stand constituted noncompliance. Cook said that in his estimation, his firm, which has many other jobs under construction in the city, has endeavored to have racial balance. He and many other contractors have cited the relative shortage of Negroes with skills in the building trades.

'MY CONTRACT'

Cook insists the school board's action is illegal and that he will seek legal means to recover his financial losses. Cook also claims the school board's action is in violation of his contract. He said he did not rebel on the job, "but it's my contract."

Altogether there were 12 bidders on the main construction job. None besides Cook appeared concerned about complying with MCR demands. Most of them pointed out their firms were found in compliance on other governmental-type construction jobs in the area.

The contractors also were generally in agreement that the new bids probably will be slightly higher than the original bids. Spokesmen pointed out that a trade union contract increase is due May 1, and this cost will have to be included in new estimates. If the job had been allowed to begin sooner, much of the work could have been done at the lower rate, it was pointed out.

The school board was rather lucky to have such competitive bids, some of the contractors also pointed out. Several factors seem to be responsible for the spirited competition.

'MONEY SQUEEZE'

Apparently, the "money squeeze" caused by government-imposed high interest rates for private construction, has motivated contractors to seek public construction contracts.

Another apparent motive is the desire to "get in" on the construction scene in the Pontiac area which promises to boom in the near future.

For instance, the Oakland Schools Board of Education will be building three other structures similar to the one in Pontiac.

The board is planning vocational education centers for Walpole Lake, Clarkston and Royal Oak. The money comes from a 1/2-mill levy approved by a countywide vote in 1968. The board is planning vocational education centers for Walpole Lake, Clarkston and Royal Oak. The money comes from a 1/2-mill levy approved by a countywide vote in 1968. The that, whichever firm gets the contract, racial balance in some of the skilled trades such as bricklaying, electrical, etc., handled for the most part by subcontractors, is going to be difficult. One contractor pointed out: "For years these jobs were all white. Many Negroes apparently are unaware that they can even enter these trades."

ANOTHER DIMENSION

A subcontractor must use whatever men are sent to him from the union hall, which adds another dimension to the problem. The Buildings Trades Department of the AFL-CIO has carried out an adopted policy of integration for some time.

Several training programs, some with federal funds, are under way. However, it will admittedly be several years before a near balance will be reached in some fields.

The MCR director told The Press that his compliance division has no special emphasis on the Pontiac area. He said each job review has to be judged against each area. For instance, a job in the Upper Peninsula would not be expected to have many minority group workers, he said.

He did, however, say his division will be expanded. "We are only going to insist on enforcement of state policies that have been in effect for many years," McClung said, "but we are tightening up."

McClung denies exact numerical formulas are used in determining discrimination. He said each job review has to be judged against each area. For instance, a job in the Upper Peninsula would not be expected to have many minority group workers, he said.

Nature vs. Nurture Row on Intelligence Is Fanned

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — The embroilment of the oldest dispute in psychology—nature versus nurture—have been fanned to white heat once again, this time by a Berkeley professor. And the flames are beginning to lick through the academic woods, creating much heat and perhaps even a little light.

The pyrotechnic scholar is Dr. Arthur R. Jensen, a psychologist at the University of California's School of Education.

His view of the overwhelming primacy of nature—heredity—as a determinant of intelligence is set forth in a 123-page article in the winter 1969 issue of the prestigious Harvard Educational Review.

After arguing that environmental factors are not nearly as important in determining the intelligence quotient as genetic factors, Dr. Jensen analyzes the environmental influences which may be most critical in determining I.Q. He concludes that prenatal influences may contribute the largest environmental factor, but genetics dominate nevertheless.

BASIC FINDING

A basic finding of Dr. Jensen's research is that environment sets as what he calls a threshold variable. Extreme environmental deprivation can keep a child from performing up to his genetic potential, but an enriched educational program cannot lift him above this potential.

Dr. Jensen emphasizes the point that new educational methods must be developed which take advantage of the mental abilities of children from deprived backgrounds.

But there is more to the Jensen study than just another vote for heredity in its ancient struggle with environment for the allegiance of behavioral scientists. Dr. Jensen also contends that the federal government's widely publicized effort at compensatory education for the children of deprived minority groups is a failure.

The church building contains 20 Sunday School class rooms, kitchen, church school, two offices, pastor's study, and a women's missionary room.

The sanctuary is furnished with upholstered pews carpeted throughout. Walnut toned arches and railing contrast with the natural grain of the red-oak backdrop in the chancel area. Gold grill cloth accentuates the cross.

The multi candle chandeliers

Send Food to 43 Nations

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Lutheran World Federation Department of World Service and its affiliated agencies shipped more than 75.6 million pounds of food, clothing, medicine and other relief goods in 1968.
The shipments, valued at $18,617,102, went to 43 countries, according to the Rev. Eugene Reis, LWF World Service assistant director. He said there has been a growing emphasis on self-help and development welfare programs but "there is still a real need for material relief supplies in many emergency situations and areas of endemic need."

The nine groups also were asked to "seek cooperative efforts in establishing and supporting religious student work on campuses where such work does not now exist."

Plan Revival

Pastor Paul C. Cooley will conduct the evangelistic services starting Monday evening and continuing through April 27 at Lake Street Church of God, Lake and Orion. Meetings begin at 7:30 p.m.

Instant Service

POOLE, England (AP) — The Salvation Army in this Dorset town now provides "instant religion;" if you can't get to church, let the church come to you. People too ill or just too busy only have to write in to have the band, complete with preacher and songsters, come around to their door.

Man's Feet Are 'Too Big' for Earth's Plant Life

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The late Fats Waller, in what surely was one of the funniest songs ever composed, used to shout, "Man, your feet's too big!"

Waller's grammar may have been faulty, but science seems now to have provided support for his hypothesis: Man's feet really are too big, or at least too much, for the living things upon which they trample.

In modern times man has stepped up his assault against plant life in his environment with the help of pesticides, defoliants, and a fantastic variety of air and water pollutants.

To get back to nature for recreation and the repose of his soul, man has had to venture farther and farther afield from where he lives.

Some time ago scientists from more than 50 nations gathered at the Paris headquarters of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organizations (UNESCO) to talk about "how man could stop despoiling the earth and fast-disappearing natural environment for his own and his children's benefit."

Among the papers considering man's effort on the biosphere (earth's living space) was one which, according to UNESCO, indicted "an unexpected culprit: the human foot."

"It literally stamps out species, so much so," said UNESCO, "that American national parks were forced to pave certain trails to keep visitors away from fragile plants."

"And the French fenced off the biggest oaks in the Forest of Fontainebleau so that picnickers would not impact the ground beneath the trees and eventually kill them."

Pontiac Press Photos by Roll Winter

UP AND OVER — Under construction at Oakland Hills Country Club is a bridge across busy Maple Road in Birmingham that will link the north and south courses of the 36-hole layout. The structure will be wide enough to permit crossing by powered carts.

PGA Title at Stake

Pros Await Early Test

One of the juiciest plums on the state professional golfing schedule comes over in the '68 calendar of events.

That's the 49th annual PGA Championship and on to defend that title June 30 at Davison Country Club will be Oakland Hills' head pro Mike Souchak.

FINDS SUCCESS
Souchak, 41, has made his presence felt in three years as pro at Oakland Hills following a successful career among the touring pros.

In Mike's first year here, he won the Michigan Open. Then the PGA last year and he won the PGA by two strokes (141) over former Michigan Open champion Thom Rosely of Grand Rapids.

Glen Stuart, also of Grand Rapids, was third at 144 and Bill Bisdorf of Grosse Ile was fourth at 145.

WIN, RUNNER-UP
Bisdorf also figured in a '68 tournament victory and a runner-up finish in another.

He teamed with Bob Panasuk, an assistant at Knollwood who is now on the pro tour, to win the second annual Al Watrous Pro-Pro event at Warwick Hills with a 132 total.

NEW PARTNER
With Panasuk out of local action, Bisdorf will team with Mel Mchiktenko of Battle Creek in defense of the Pro-Pro crown this year at Mchiktenko's home course Sept. 8.

Along with that win, Bisdorf and Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile wound up second in the state Pro-Am at Indianwood Country Club near Lake Orion.

PRO-AM WINNERS
Taking the Pro-Am title was the twosome of Cass Jawor of Glen Oaks and Dennis McInerney of Detroit. The winners were in with a 54-hole total of 198. Bisdorf and Johnson were a stroke back.

McInerney and Jawor will be on hand to defend their crown starting July 21 at Bay City Country Club.

NEW CHAMP
Panasuk won the pro assistants' title last year so a new champion is a certainty when the field tees off in that one July 14 over a 36-hole route at Walnut Hills in East Lansing.

Also available is the Pro-assistant championship won by Gene Bone and Don Powell of Bay Pointe last year.

Powell has since left Bay Pointe for a position at a Kalamazoo course, so Bone will have a new partner for the event which is slated for July 7 at Birmingham Country Club. It's a 36-hole event.

One other tourney on the schedule is the PGA Seniors, slated for Oswego Aug. 4. Defending champion is Lorin Shook of Saginaw Country Club.

Two Gals Dominate Activity in WMGA

After Mrs. Midge Cova of Novi and Mrs. Max Evans of Southfield take their share, there are five honors left for the other members of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association.

Of the 17 weekly tournaments conducted by the WMGA last year, Mrs. Cova won seven and Mrs. Max Evans captured four. And there was more. Along with the top spot, Mrs. Cova finished second three times, while Mrs. Evans played the role of runner-up on seven occasions.

OTHER WINNERS

The other six victories went to Mrs. David Mortimer (3) of Birmingham, Mrs. James Courtney (2) of Union Lake and Mrs. Peter McAlpine (1) of Southfield.

While that twosome dominated the weekly competition, neither managed a win in the WMGA's two major tournaments.

TITLE FOR DETROITER

The match play crown went to Mrs. John Hartwell of Detroit, while Mrs. Nick Panasuk of Elmstead, Ont., captured the medal play title.

Mrs. Panasuk won the medal play crown in 1968 but didn't get an opportunity to defend in 1967 because of the rioting in Detroit. The border was closed at the time, thus blocking her bid to repeat. Mrs. Evans took that title.

EASY TIME
Last year, Mrs. Panasuk won by 11 strokes at Tyrone Hills near Fenton.

Third Try Pays Off for MSU Linksman

Open Champ Experimenting

It's not something you'll swing are designed to bring the notice, but Michigan Open champion John Molenda will have a new look of sorts when he moves onto the course to defend his title in August.

The stocky Molenda, now assistant to Mac McElmurry at Knollwood Country Club near Birmingham, won the crown last year with a 287 total, three shots ahead of Pontiac's Gene Bone.

ENDED DROUGHT

The victory ended a drought for Molenda, who had seen little success as a part-time player on the pro tour, and with the triumph one might have suspected he'd be happy with the swing that produced the win.

"I played fairly well this winter," says Molenda, "but I didn't set any records, I've been working on a few things with my swing."

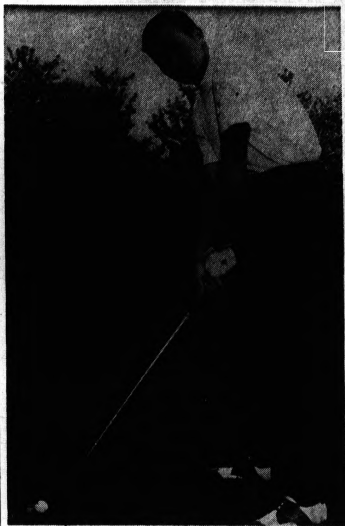

SLIGHT CHANGE

"Oh, the appearance will be the same," he quickly adds. "It's hard to change the swing, but the hit will be different. The trajectory of the ball will be lower line. I'll have a bit more time. The carry will be there but it'll be lower and work well on soft or hard greens."

"Why the change?" he was asked.

LIKES TOUR

The reason is a liking for the pro tour, admits Molenda. And the changes he's making in his STATE CHAMPION — Near at hand is the Michigan Amateur Golf Championship and returning to defend his title will be Lynn Janson of Michigan State University. The event is slated for June 25-29 at Belvedere Country Club in Charlevoix.

New Format for GAM in 51st Championship

Thompson, a 1968 graduate of the Michigan Association of Michigan will turn to medal play for its 51st championship this summer at Plum Hollow Country Club in Southfield.

The battle for the GAM match play crown was launched in 1919 and the same format was followed through 1968. The move to medal play followed an off-season recommendation by a GAM player committee.

So, when the field tees off July 29 at Plum Hollow, it'll be over 72 holes of stroke play.

LIMITED FIELD
The format calls for the field to be limited to the first 15 players entering with a handicap of five or less. All must be at least 18 years of age.

During the tournament, the field will be trimmed to the low 60 after 36 holes of play and further trimmed for the final 18 holes.

DEFENDING TITLE
Returning to defend his championship will be 20-year-old John Grace of Detroit Golf Club who checked in with a 3 and 2 win over Stan Thompson of Midland in the finals last year at Red Run.

'Best Ever' Says Janson of '68 Play

Once he's under way, young Lynn Janson of East Lansing has proven he's difficult to stop.

A junior majoring in elementary education at Michigan State University, Janson, 21, is the current holder of the Michigan Amateur Championship.

DEFENSE NEAR

And he'll keep the title, at least for a couple more months. Janson will put it on the line in the 58th event June 25-29 at Belvedere Country Club in Charlevoix.

The slender Janson, whose father, Victor, is a game biologist with the state conservation department, bagged the title on just his third attempt.

BOWED EARLY

In his first two efforts, he hardly got out of the starting gate. In his first venture three years ago, he won his first match and lost the second. Two years ago, he was ousted in the first round.

But last year, he put everything together and it spelled victory. He's never played better than in the two final matches.

WINS SNOWBALL

Winning is a snowballing thing says Janson. "The confidence builds as you get going... when you win the first match you then figure you can win the second..."

He dined Stan Thompson of Midland, 3 and 2, in the semifinals and disposed of 1968 champion Don Stevens of Plum Hollow in the afternoon match, 5 and 4.

ALL WENT WELL

"I played the best in the semifinals," said Janson. "I didn't have a bogey that round. But really, the whole day was going well."

"Yes, I'd say it was the best I've ever played, especially so because of the circumstances."

TOP NAMES
The victory marked the 13th time in 16 years that a MSU product claimed the championship. The two most notable performers in that span were four-time winner Glenn Johnson of Grand Rapids and Melvin Stevens (three times) of Western.

Before the Michigan Amateur rolls around, however, Janson has his sights on another golfing gem — the Big Ten title.

DISAPPOINTING EFFORT
Last year, he placed seventh in the Big Ten and 28th in the NCAA. Janson admits he was highly disappointed with his sophomore performance.

"When I was a freshman I played better," he was saying a short while back. "But last year I pulled a muscle in my back so I didn't do beans in the Big Ten."

HOME COURSE
A big thing Janson has going for him in the Big Ten Conference battle is that the tournament is slated for his home course — Forest Akers — May 16 and 17. He knows the course well and shoots the layout in the 60's.

Along with the Michigan Amateur, Janson beat a field of 80 to take the Lansing All-City trophy last year. And he's looking ahead with confidence.

"I have pretty high ambitions as far as golf goes. I work hard at it. I'd like maybe to be a touring pro — if that's possible. It's worth a try."

Golf Numbers 15 Million in Entire World

WASHINGTON — Golf is now played by 15 million enthusiasts from Australia to Zambia.

More than half the world's golfers are in the United States where the golfing explosion has been triggered by more leisure time, higher incomes and earlier retirement.

The Nation's 9,000 golf courses collectively cover an area larger than the entire state of Rhode Island, the National Geographic Society says. Many housing developments are centered around the golf course. Communities have been known to build the clubhouse first.

Eddie Donovan, general manager of the New York Knicks, doesn't play golf but he coached three undefeated golf teams at St. Bonaventure University.

Michigan Senior Women to Duel at Local Club

Members of the Michigan Senior Women's Golf Association will tour the links at Tam O'Shanter Country Club in Orchard Lake in their 14th annual tournament.

The outing is slated for June 27 and expected to be on hand to defend their championships are Mrs. Almon Smith (low gross) of Grand Rapids Elks Country Club and Mrs. Robert Hippler (low net) of Dearborn Country Club. Oldest player in the field last year was Miss Elsie Hilding, 78, of Grand Rapids Country Club.

The event is open to women 50 years of age and older. "We have some good golfers and there's some competition but it's mostly a fun tournament," says Mrs. Arthur J. Whelpley, president of the organization.

Contestants are divided into groups according to age. There were four divisions last year — 50 to 59, 60-69, 70-79 and 80 and over. "The groups could vary," says Mrs. Whelpley, "depending on the number of entries we receive."

MAKING PLANS — On the golfing calendar for the month of May is the second annual National Golf Day dinner which is slated for the 29th at Hillcrest Country Club in Mt. Clemens. Mapping plans for the event at a recent meeting are general chairman Lou Powers (standing), who is also president of the Michigan Section PGA, along with (l-r) cochairman Mrs. John A. Bjorquist of Dearborn, president of the Woman's District Golf Association; Mrs. George Kendrick, president of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association; and Gus Kranites of Union Lake, president of the Michigan Publix Golf Association.

Third Year as President Powers Adds Zip to PGA

An organization is generally only as good as the guy at the top and that's what makes the Michigan Section PGA one of the best in the nation.

Heading the Michigan golf pros as president for the third year in a row is energetic Lou Powers, a 50-year-old ex-hockey, baseball and basketball player who operates a successful business along with his PGA duties.

STREAMLINED

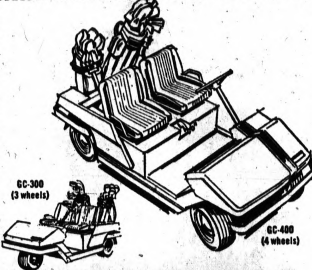

Those closely associated with the Michigan Section PGA will tell you the organization has taken on a streamlined look during Powers' tenure.

That's no knock at Lou's predecessors. It's a compliment to the tireless Powers, who takes a business-like approach to his PGA duties. He's a man with ideas and a knack of transferring ideas to reality.

ACTIVE AREAS

Some of the things that have happened during Lou's tenure include:

- Establishment of a business office; organization of a state National Golf Day program; formation of a Michigan Section PGA golf magazine; and an improved tournament schedule.
- OPERATES COURSE — Powers owns the nine-hole Sunnycroft Golf Club on Little Mack. The course is one of three which he has built.
- Those to be honored are Mrs. William McGivern of Country Club of Detroit, cofounder in 1919 with the late Mrs. J. Hal Livey of Women's District Golf Association; Arthur Zebede of Birmingham, Mich., and Fort Lauderdale, Fla., former member of the Michigan PGA Advisory Board and chairman of Club Managers Association of Birmingham Country Club.
- OTHERS — John Brennan, longtime manager of Oakland Hills Country Club and past president of Club Managers Association of America; O. V. (Tex) Ellison, first president of the Michigan Public Golf Association; Clarence Wolfrom, golf superintendent at Maple Lane Golf Club.
- HEADS FESTIVITIES — Powers will preside over the festivities there at which honors will be bestowed upon seven Michigan personalities for their contributions to the game of golf.
- John Walter, Detroit News sports and golf writer for the past 40 years; and the seventh honoree will be the Michigan Section PGA Player of the Year to be selected later.

County Brightens Golf Picture

The Oakland Parks and Recreation Department is now in position to add to the county's golfing picture.

The department operates one course in the county at present and three other golfing areas are on the organization's future agenda.

Expansion of the nine-hole course at Davisburg is likely to start this year, and then, if the timetable permits, there'll be courses in Addison, Waterford and Independence townships.

PROPERTY AVAILABLE

The department has secured property in each of those townships for development into recreation areas.

Gerald Lacey, assistant director of the Parks and Recreation Commission, made it clear, however, that golf would probably be at the bottom of the priority list in development of land in Waterford, Addison and Independence.

FIRST ON LIST

Boating and swimming facilities along with camping grounds figure first in the development plans. With those established, the commission could then turn to the golf.

Expansion at Davisburg is expected this year and the plan calls for a new clubhouse along with another nine holes.

NEW CLUBHOUSE

The commission asked for bids on a modernistic clubhouse for Davisburg last fall, but figures were higher than anticipated so the commission is turning to a log cabin type building of some 4,000 square feet. Lacey pegged the cost of the building in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Also on the docket at Davisburg is development of beach facilities. That, along with the course, is expected to open this year.

The commission has a 110-acre parcel on Watkins Lake Road and a couple of courses are planned there — a regulation nine hole layout plus a lighted par-3 course.

Caddy Superintendents Elect Officers for '69

The State Caddy Superintendents' Association set the dates for its annual two tournaments and elected its 1969 officers at the meeting earlier this month.

Jim Dewling was reelected president. The Birmingham Country Club official will be joined again by secretary treasurer Larry Wilkinson.

superintendent at Royal Oak's Red Run Golf Club.

The other association official is tournament chairman Don McIntyre of Orchard Lake CC who is the new vice-president.

TWO TOURNAMENTS

McIntyre will have the responsibility for organizing the annual state Caddies Tournament Aug. 4 at Bloomfield Hills CC, and the Caddy Superintendents Tourney Oct. 13 at Red Run.

Knollwood is the defending six-member team champion in the caddies meet. This tournament is arranged in conjunction with the Caddy Welfare Committee of the Golf Association of Michigan.

OPEN TO GAM CLUBS

The Superintendents' Association is open to the caddy managers at all GAM member clubs.

The association will provide the caddies for this year's Michigan Golf Classic at Shenandoah CC, and several of its boys will be invited to work the Buick Open at Warwick Hills.

Dewling revealed two significant changes in the caddy regulations for this year: the age limit has been lowered to 11-year-olds for boys to tow carts, and the approved state rates now are $4 for the caddy captains, $3.50 for Class A boys, and $3 for apprentice caddies.

Many club superintendents are recruiting boys at this time. The clubs have training and testing programs for all applicants.

11 State Golfers Entered in 69th North-South Event

Eleven Michigan golfers, including six from Oakland County, will be competing in the 69th consecutive North-South Amateur Golf Championship, Apr. 28-May 3 at Pinehurst Country Club, North Carolina.

Tom Draper of Red Run Golf Club leads the state contingent as he enters the tournament as a past champion, having won the title in 1965.

LOCAL ENTRIES

Among the outstanding local golfers entered with Draper are Pete Green of Orchard Lake, Gene Eyer of Oakland Hills, Leo Daigle of Indianwood, John Jennings of Birmingham, Dave Cameron of Oakland Hills and Bud Stevens, Livonia golfer from Western Golf and Country Club.

Other state golfers entered are Dr. Robert Corley of Jackson, William Newcomb, Jr. of Ann Arbor, Ben Smith of Detroit, Glenn Johnson of Grosse Ile.

The North-South Championship, first played in 1901, is the oldest continuously played major amateur championship in the United States today.

Among the great names of past champions include, Chick Evans, Ed Furgol, Frank Stranahan, Harvie Ward, Jack Nicklaus, Bill Campbell and Billy Joe Patton.

Arnold Palmer was never a champion of this tournament, but he will always remember the year 1949 when he took one of the worst beatings in golf, losing 12 and 11 in the semifinals to Frank Stranahan.

Junior Tournament Set for Spring Lake

Four young players picked up golfing honors last year in a National Invitational Tournament and at least three of them are expected to be on hand to defend their championships this year.

The National Junior event is slated for June 30 through July 2 at Spring Lake Country Club near Clarkston.

Winning last year from the state were Mike Sheridan (age 16-17 bracket) of Royal Oak, Dan Bolsture Jr. (14-15) of East Lansing, Scott Rabakun (12-13) of Albion and Steve Stoppert (11 and under) of Clarkston. The girls' title went to Sandi Baker of Fostoria, O.

Sheridan will be the only champ ineligible because of age to defend his title.

Women's Tourney on June Schedule

The 17th U.S. Women's championship is slated for June 26-29 at Seaside Hills Country Club in Pensacola, Fla.

The tournament is open to women professional and amateur golfers with handicaps not over five strokes computed under the 1969 U.S.G.A. Golf Handicap System.

In City Tourneys

New Titlists Abound

Only one of the city champions managed to hang onto a title last year and the likelihood of a similar occurrence is in the offing.

Repeating as Women's Medal Play titlist was Mrs. Bobbi Miller of Farmington, who captured the city crown for the fourth time in a row and for the fifth time over-all.

NEW CHAMPIONS

There were new champions in the other four tournaments. Men's Best Ball, Mixed Two-Ball Foursome, Men's Medal Play and Retirees' Event.

First on the city schedule this season is the Men's Best Ball which is slated for June at the Pontiac Municipal Course.

TOP TEAM

Capturing the championship last year was the twosome of George Hammlitt and Truman Hammett, who combined for a five-under-par 66. Defending champions Gary Beckman and Larry Backland were well back in the pack with a 74.

In all, 21 of the record 104 teams shot par or better over the 5,889-yard course.

While that one comes first, the biggest has to be the Men's Medal Play which is expected to draw a field of well over 100. For the Medal Play is set for Aug. 16 with the 36-hole final on the Aug. 23-24 slate.

Returning to defend the Medal Play title will be 40-year-old Avery Burton, who checked in with a one-over-par 139 in taking the title last year.

PLACED SECOND

In the runner-up spot, just a stroke back, was five-time winner Paul Bada. State Publix Match-Play champion Gary Balliet and Fred Pinkney were in the third spot with 142.

Playing the role of defending champion in the event was Tom Balliet, Gary's father, and he managed a 146 to place well off the pace.

OTHER EVENTS

The Mixed Two-Ball Foursome is slated for July 19, while the Retirees will battle in their handicap event early in September. The exact date for the latter tourney will be set later.

Combining to claim the Mixed Two-Ball title last year were Barbara Rohn of Novi and Doug Wright of Bloomfield Hills.

Picking off the Retirees' championship was a former minor league baseball star Stan Keyes, who grabbed the title shortly after celebrating his 70th birthday.

Keyes was an outstanding baseball player during the 1920s and '30s, toiling at one time for another with clubs owned by the St. Louis Cardinals, New York Yankees, St. Louis Browns and the Pittsburgh Pirates. In 17 seasons, Keyes never batted under .300, and in his top year, he swatted .387 and clouted 42 home runs and drove in 165. That banner season came while he was with Des Moines, then a member of the Western League.

City Okays Privileges at Municipal Course

Youngsters and senior citizens should become familiar with the golfing privileges available at Pontiac Municipal Golf Course on Golf Drive.

Boys and girls — ages 12 through 16 — are permitted to play free each Monday from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. starting with the first Monday after school is out and continuing through the Monday preceding Labor Day.

SENIORS, TOO

Senior citizens, 65 years of age or older, also have free privileges at the course.

Schedule for the senior citizens is Mondays, (except June 30 through Labor Day), Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays — from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. each day.

LIMITATIONS

The seniors' permit does not include Wednesdays, Saturdays, Sundays or holidays, tournaments, classes, clinics or any other organized activities, except those organized by and for the senior citizens with approval of the City Parks and Recreation Department.

The senior citizens schedule is not restrictive, parks officials pointed out. The seniors may play as paying customers during times not included in their permit.

Coach Eyes Big Season for Spartans

Preseason optimism isn't unusual so it'll be no surprise to find golf coach Bruce Fossum of Michigan State in such a mood as he looks toward the big ten Championship next month. The Spartans have never won the Big Ten gold crown, but Fossum believes that this could be the year.

THIS YEAR?

In the past three seasons Michigan State has placed fourth, third and second, and it could be Fossum's young squad could claim all the marbles this time round.

The Spartans will have one edge when the championship opens May 16-17. They'll be playing the role of host at Forest Akers Golf Club.

Heading the list of returnees are Larry Murphy of Wheeling, W. Va., and junior Lynn Janson of East Lansing, the current Michigan Amateur Champion. They finished one-two in the Spartans annual fall tournament.

OTHER PLAYERS

Among the other returnees are juniors Lee Edmundson of Lidington and Tom Steenken of North Omstead, along with sophomores Graham Cooke of Beaumont, Que., and Rick Woults of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Janson holds the Michigan State course record, a five-under-par 66.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (NEA) — The sun gamboled through the branches of the soft-breathing trees and landed, dappled, on Bruce Fleisher, who was unaware of the light show playing on his back.

This was at the second tee in the second round of the Masters Tournament and Fleisher sat straddled on the hard back edge of his alligator golf bag. His light blue eyes took in every movement of his partner, Billy Casper, who approached the ball. Fleisher's mouth was open only somewhat.

GLAS GAPE

In the gallery, a group of young ladies — known to rock record makers as teen boppers — watched Fleisher with the same intensity he held for Casper. Their mouths, too, were agape a bit and the sun danced off their dental work.

"Isn't he just..." and the words of one of the barefoot ladies was swallowed in a languid sigh.

Fleisher is a 6-3, 185-pound 20-year-old from Miami-Dade County Junior College (North) who brushes his blondish hair in the mode of the day and who beats a golf ball well enough to be United States Amateur Champion and to have been one of the early leaders in the prestigious Masters.

FUTURE STAR?

And, to those who know, it seems Fleisher has a good chance of becoming a future pro golf star. The chances are also good that he could become the next matinee idol, if that species still exists.

"He has," said Arnold Palmer, Fleisher's partner the first day of the Masters, "a lot of potential."

"He has," said Casper, "a lot of talent."

"He is," said a teen-age tomato, "gorgeous."

Tumbling underfoot of Arnie's Army was Fleisher's squealing Kiddie Korps. They were scampering and crawling in and around Casper's following, who have yet to earn an alliterative nickname.

While Fleisher was making birdies and asking Palmer if he still gets nervous (he said he does) and making birdies and asking Casper what it takes to be the best ("the will to want to be the best"), the girls in the flowing gallery watched him and consumed all stray bugs.

NEEDS LESSON?

As Fleisher emerged from the scorer's tent after his round, Jackie Burke Jr. came by. Fleisher said, "I'm going to need some putting lessons from you." Burke laughed. "With your stroke?" said Burke. "Don't kid me."

Sonny Jurgensen, the Washington Redskins' quarterback, introduced himself and offered congratulations.

They grew up in the same town, Wilmington, N.C.

"You gonna be ready for the season?" asked Fleisher. Jurgensen assured him he was, despite the handsome beer midriff.

GALS ARRIVE

Then came the gals. One wanted a tee, others wanted autographs. Fleisher signed one on a paper cup. "It may be worth a million dollars some day," he said. "No," he said later, "they don't bother me. I was just like them a few years ago, at the Azalea Tournament, I got autographs, too. Casper's Palmer's, still got 'em someplace."

One of the girls gave him a paper bag. Later, he opened it, pulled out a package of "sugar babies" candies, a chapstick and a card. The front read: "Hey, rah, ooh, aah, rey!" Inside it said: "Everytime you even BREATHE in my direction, that's what I say."

The girl later asked a reporter if Fleisher had read it. "What did he say?" she asked. "That he already had a girl friend," said the reporter. "Oh, rats," she replied.

Third Nine Ready at Arrowhead GC

The third nine at Arrowhead Golf Club on the north side of Pontiac is expected to be open by mid June, says owner Nevlin Hummon.

The third layout is 3,250 yards and will play at par 36.

"I think it'll be even better than the other 18," says Hummon, who has just finished building a course at Bay City.

On National Scene

Publinx Top Golf Draw

The process of finding out who is best among the nation's public links golfers opens early in June and winds up in mid-July in Erie, Pa.

Two qualifying rounds are slated for Michigan players. An 18-hole, pre-qualifying trial is slated for June at Burroughs Farms near Brighton with the leading scorers joining exempt players for the 36-hole sectional round at the same course June 16.

OTHER SITES

There are 44 sectional qualifying sites on schedule around the country between June 15 and June 22. From the sectional field will come 150 players who will battle in the championship proper over 72 holes at the Downing Golf Course in Erie, July 9-12.

The Publinx event normally draws more entrants than any other single tournament in the country.

A total of 3,316 entered last year. The record entry is 3,586 achieved in 1946.

DEFENDING TITLE

Returning to defend his championship will be Gene Towry of Richardson, Texas. He won with a score of 292 at the Benson Memorial Municipal Golf Course in Dallas last summer.

Another tradition of the Publinx event is that it brings together golfers with a wide variety of occupations. Towry, for example, is an electrical engineer. Verne Callison, who won in 1960 and 1967, is a tavern owner. Monty Kaser, the 1966 titlist, was an employee in the payroll department of an aircraft factory. He since has turned professional.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

The tournament is open to male amateur golfers who since January of this year have been bona fide public course players and have not held privileges of any course from which the general public is excluded or privileges of any private club maintaining its own course.

Entries, along with a $5 fee, must reach the sectional qual-

Golf Fashions Score New Popularity on Greens...

It's nice to have a "big person" type friend. Steffie and Ian Sterling of Walled Lake are happy to be guided back to the clubhouse by Joe Bileti, also of Walled Lake. Joe's opening day round of golf didn't catch him unprepared fashionwise. His golf pants are blue and white check. Carrying out the all blue and white theme, he wears a white turtleneck shirt under his light blue alpaca golf sweater.

Heed the expert's advice is a tip for Eugene Walsh of Troy (right) as he gets a few pointers from Shenandoah's pro, Bill Mattson. Bill sports golf sweater, pants and knit shirt outfit in muted tones of mustard. The alpaca sweater features a "V" stripe in two shades of gold.

Ron Riedl of Southfield wears jacket and tie for an early lunch date before his appointed tee off. His golf slacks are an off-white, brown, tangerine plaid and he has teamed them with an olive shirt and rich gold sportcoat. His quick change for golfing will involve only removing jacket and tie and of course, a change of shoes.

Pay no attention to Mrs. Jack Gemmell of Orchard Lake; she's just along for the ride. The real stars are Eugene Walsh's green-on-green golf togs that defy any and all weather conditions. Slacks, knit pullover shirt and windbreaker are beautifully coordinated in the Emerald Isle's best tradition.

By JEANNE NELSON

You don't have to be in the pro class to look really great on the golf course this season as even duffers take on an expert's appearance in this year's news making fashions.

Menswear in general has undergone a revolution in the past two years and now we see it extending into the active sportswear as well. Color, shape and fabrics all come in for their share of the spotlight as activities switch from snow to sun backgrounds.

Fabric finishes, too, play bigger than ever parts in the whole leisure fashion scenario, providing sportsmen with the kind of protection it takes to keep the game going under the worst conditions. These same miracle finishes are also responsible for shape retention on those items of clothing that often hang for long periods of time in cramped lockers.

Color and pattern are the real headliners when it comes to golf fashions for '69. Slacks are patterned or solid for happy blending with print, plaid and solid color shirts. Coordinating windbreakers and alpaca sweaters top these for total good looks.

Comfort is no longer sacrificed for appearance as both are incorporated in the new active sportswear. The knit shirts are strong season survivors on the greens but the new crop adds its "own thing" with stripes, intricate designs and new collar treatments.

Woven short sleeved shirts continue their popularity with golfers as they make their mark in vibrant solids and in the new bold plaids. Color-matched or solid white bucket hats are catching on too at most of the clubs, providing players with great sun cover as well as an outdoor, athletic look.

Shenandoah, one of the area's newest clubs, was the setting for a recent fashion shooting session with gal members modeling their own Pro Shop styles and the men in fashions from the Argyle Shop in Bloomfield Plaza. Just narrowing down the styles to be used from both shops' huge stocks was a frustrating experience.

This has certainly got to be the best year yet for variety in sportswear.

Another big bonus for golfers, too, is the ability of most outfits to go right from the club's dining room to the greens and vice versa. In fact, practically everything designed plays a dual role. The walk shorts in varying colors and fabrics will look just as great aboard ship as on the 18th hole. And their own tucked-in waffle weave knit or polo type shirts go sailing right along.

Stan Brown of Farmington checks out some new equipment for this season in a handsome small windowpane plaid sportcoat of worsted wool. Gray and yellow lines run through the off-white background of the jacket, making the charcoal pants and gray knit shirt perfect go-togethers for a leisure time outfit.

Early Season Pointers Are Offered To Shenandoah Members By Club Pro, Bill Mattson

Bright tangerine outlines a stark white golf ensemble for Mrs. Douglas Shaw of Farmington as she loads up the cart for her game. Her spiked golf shoes carry out the same tangerine and white combination.

All is not lost; this attractive golf ensemble worn by Mrs. John Sills of Southfield will go to the market for shopping just as well. She tops a blue and white stripe wrap skirt with a light blue sleeveless shell and white cardigan golf sweater.

Prints have their day in the sun as Mrs. Mark Dale of Birmingham sports kilt shorts in lively shades of blue, green and red on a white background. Her white windbreaker with mandarin collar covers a sleeveless green turtleneck knit top.

Mrs. Mitchell Ramsey of Walled Lake makes after-golf lounging comfortable and attractive in a printed sheath of green-on-green touched with blue. The colorful ensemble is the perfect switch from active sportswear to casual afternoon dress.

Tiny yellow dots spark a skort of fire orange for Mrs. William Slater of Pocono Drive, West Bloomfield Township. A dyed-to-match sleeveless shell with coordinating neckline stripe finishes off the perfect ensemble for a day on the links.

"Hey, down there," shouts Bermuda shorts clad Jack Gemmell of Orchard Lake to Mrs. Robert Daniels of Birmingham. Dottie wears a brown ribbed turtleneck pullover with her two-piece golf ensemble of brown and white Glen plaid.

Gala Outing Slated for Women's Unit

Plans are under way for a Mrs. Harold G. Warwick, Shenandoah Pro Sites

Play-for-Pay Boys Slated in Area

Pro golfing fans in Michigan will have a couple of opportunities to view the play-for-pay boys locally this season. The pros will be on hand for the 12th Annual Buick Open at Warwick Hills July 3-6, and they'll make a return trip Sept. 4-7 for the Michigan Golf Classic at Shenandoah Country Club near Orchard Lake. The retailing of long Warwick Hills is expected to be quite noticeable this year.

GOOD TEST
Added sandtraps, recon-touring of greens and reshaping of fairways have turned the lush Warwick layout — once just a hitter's course — into an excellent test of golf. The length, in most cases, is still there but there's also a premium on thinking for the shotmakers.

Making his way back to defend the Buick title will be 26-year-old Tom Weiskopf, the former Ohio State player who is rounding back into shape following a six-month stint with the U.S. Army. Weiskopf came close to bag-ing the Masters' championship a week ago in Augusta, Ga. He wound up tied for second with Billy Casper Jr. and George Knudson, one stroke behind Californian George Archer.

The long-hitting Weiskopf prevailed at Warwick Hills last year with an eight-under-par 280, one of the best scores ever recorded there.

The late Tony Lema won with 277 and 280 totals in 1964 and 1965, while Julius Boros set the tournament record of 274 in 1963.

Michigan Golf Classic, Inc. an organization formed to bring the state, has a two-year contract for the event at Shenandoah with an option for a third year. President of Michigan Golf Classic is John Brennan, manager of Oakland Hills Country Club.

Top Names Missing From WMGA Events

A couple of the top names in the past will be missing when the ladies move onto the course to contest for the 33rd Women's Michigan Golf Association championship this season. The WMGA is the oldest of the golfing organizations in the state.

The tournament is slated for July 14-18 at Dearborn Country Club. Match play follows the opening day of qualifying.

CHAMP OUT
Chief among the missing is defending champion Joyce Kazmierski, the long hitter from Grosse Ile Golf & Country Club who has since turned professional.

The Michigan State graduate won the title twice, the first time in 1966.

Also missing will be Mrs. T. M. (Sally) Werner of Indianwood. The Werner family has moved to Florida.

Miss Kazmierski becomes the second champion of the event to turn professional in recent years. Earlier, Sharon Miller of Battle Creek won the title in 1964 and 1965 and then joined the Lady Professional Golf tour.

OPENS DOOR
With Miss Kazmierski and Mrs. Werner — a four time winner of the event — out of the way, it could open the door for at least two former champions.

Mrs. Patti Shook Boice of Saginaw won in 1967 and she's expected to be on hand for this one.

Another is Mrs. Keith LeClair, who has won it twice, the latest coming in 1963. Mrs.

And on his return Weiskopf will be trying to accomplish a feat only Lema managed — winning two Buick titles in a row.

After starting back in the back with a one-over-par 73 last year, Weiskopf came back with 67, 70 and 70 to claim the title.

TOOK SECOND
Placing second in the Buick was former Jackson pro Mike Hill, who now plays out of Denver, Colo. He carded a 281.

At stake in the Michigan Classic will be a $100,000 purse, and the tournament signals the baptism for Shenandoah on the big-tourney circuit.

GOOD SHAPE
Several fairways have been revamped, much reseeding has taken place and a drainage problem has been eliminated, says Shenandoah pro Bill Mattson.

The Shenandoah layout measures 6,01 yards and will play at par 72. Mattson owns the course record of 68 which he set last year.

Nicklaus Has Best Scoring Record

Jack Nicklaus holds the best all-time performance average of all the pro four players in the past Professional's Golfers Association Championships according to exclusive figures compiled by Golf Digest magazine and published in the August issue. Jack, who has played in six PGA tourneys, has won one and placed second and third twice each, for a .897 performance average. The only other performer to top the .800 percentage is Al Geiberger with .818 with one win and three times in the top 10.

Mrs. Patti Shook Boice of Saginaw won in 1967 and she's expected to be on hand for this one.

Another is Mrs. Keith LeClair, who has won it twice, the latest coming in 1963. Mrs.

Ex-Walled Laker Plays Key Role for EMU Golfers

A former medalist in the Pontiac Press Invitational is one of the big guns on the Eastern Michigan University golf squad this spring.

He's Russ Streeter, a junior, who posted a record-tying 70 to claim the medal honor in 1966 Press event. He shared the Press record with Ron Holden (1964) of Bloomfield Hills.

Along with Streeter, a graduate of Walled Lake, on the EMU team are three other Oakland County golfers.

Jim St. Germain of Northville, a transfer from University of Houston, is a member of the team along with Pete McVittie of Royal Oak and Steve Presser of Huntington Woods.

Knicks Ousted by 'Old Men'

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics, written off as tired old men just a short time ago, are back in familiar surroundings as the title round of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Acting like the old pros they are, the Celtics won the Eastern Division playoff for the 12th time in 13 years by hanging on for a 106-105 victory over the New York Knicks Friday night in steamy Boston Garden.

The Celtics, who have won the NBA championship 10 times since Play-off Coach Bill Russell entered the league and became a defensive genius 13 years ago, managed only one victory in seven starts against New York during the regular season.

Boston finished fourth in the East and

Skinny Rookie Not Poor Risk for Minnesota

ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Twins hesitantly signed Tom Hall to a pro contract in 1966. They're glad now they took a chance on him.

The 21-year-old rookie lefthander, backed by 10 singles, pitched a two-hit 6-4 shutout over California Friday in Minnesota's home opener before 22,857.

"We were a little hesitant in signing him because of his size," said George Brophy, a Twins' farm director. "We waited six to nine months before we signed him. We felt maybe he wasn't an attractive pitcher because of his size."

Hall, 6-foot-6, weighs between 142 and 148 pounds, depending on who you ask. Manager Billy Martin put his weight at 142 pounds. Hall fixes it at 148 and the Twins statistical sheet listed him at 144.

There was one report Hall refuses to get himself publicly.

GETTING TIRED
"He ballooned up to 146 this spring," said Martin after Hall gave the Twins their fourth straight victory. "He was tiring toward the end but he did a great job."

Hall struck out six, walked four and had two wild pitches but stretched his scoreless innings to 16 straight, which include seven innings in relief against the Angels last week. Hall has allowed one unearned run in 21½ innings.

Jim Fregosi's triple in the first and Lou Johnson's single in the seventh were the only hits for the Angels.

Alert fielding preserved Hall's shutout while the Twins took advantage of three Angel errors to help score some runs for him.

The Twins staked Hall to the only runs he needed in the fourth when Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison drew walks off Josey Study May, Leo Cardenas and Frank Quilici hit singles to score Killebrew and Allison.

10 Area Gymnasts in Final Round of State Amateur

Ten members of the Acronauts Club from the Bloomfield Hills Recreation Department qualified for the Michigan Amateur Gymnastics finals today at Jenison Fieldhouse in East Lansing.

They earned their berths with strong performances last Saturday at the state's eastern regional championships at Saginaw and Ann Arbor.

As a team the Acronauts placed second in the junior eliminations, third in the senior division and sixth among the preps. They are coached by Steve Whitlock, Al Sanders and Mrs. Oscar Kastner.

The qualifiers include Kerstin Vikstrom, Sandy and Debbie Kastner, Sue Britt, Leslie and Linda Speer, Sara Capps, Terri Ransier, Kathy Gipper, and Mark Cavin.

In the regional competition, Sandy Kastner of Rochester earned a first in junior tumbling and seconds in trampoline and floor exercise. Her sister Debbie was the runner-up in juniors' balance beam work, and on the uneven bars.

Rain Delay May Haunt Azalea Open Officials

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The Azalea Open golf tournament has had six rain delays in 11 years and officials are hoping No. 7 doesn't come up Sunday.

As a result of Friday's rainout, the second round of the $35,000 tournament was set back to today and a 34-hole windup was scheduled for Sunday to make up the lost day.

To get the low 70s scorers and ties after today's play around the 6,575-yard Cape Fear Country Club course twice Sunday requires a 7 a.m. start from the first and 10th tees.

If a playoff is needed to determine the winner of the $5,000 top prize, darkness could be a problem.

the cry went up: "The Celtics are dead." But the Celtics were playing possum in their own way, aiming for the playoffs.

MARKING TIME

After finishing off Philadelphia in the Eastern semifinals, the Celtics whipped the mighty Knicks 4-2 in the best-of-seven finals. Now Boston will mark time while Los Angeles battles Atlanta in the Western Division.

Los Angeles can wrap up the series in the fifth game Sunday.

"I'm glad that's over," Russell said wearily after playing his usual 49 minutes in the finale against New York. "The Knicks were tough, a real good team. We had to go all out."

Russell scored 12 points, grabbed 21 rebounds, blocked a half dozen shots and set up teammates for baskets although he had to play cautiously after picking up his fifth foul at the three-minute mark of the fourth period.

"I had to let Mike Riordan drive as I couldn't take a chance on getting a sixth foul," Russell said. "It makes it a tougher game. If I had just three or four fouls, I could try to stop him. And if I stopped him once, he wouldn't come back."

Riordan, an unheralded reserve, helped bring the Knicks back from a nine-point deficit midway through the final and finished with 15 points.

Sam Jones, humiliated by being held to just 12 points by New York in two previous games, was the key man in nailing down the victory. The 36-year-old veteran, retiring after this season, scored 29 points, the last a crucial free throw with three seconds left.

HARD WORK

"Anytime you end a series with a win you feel great," Jones said as he took the victory in stride with the rest of the Celtics. "Does this give me any extra pleasure at the end of my career? I stopped getting pleasure out of playing basketball when I joined the Celtics. It's been a lot of hard work."

New York Coach Red Holzman congratulated Russell and shook each Boston player's hand in a visit to the Celtics' dressing room.

New U-D Coach Resigns Post After 3 Days

DETROIT (AP) — Don Haskins resigned as head basketball coach of the University of Detroit only three days after agreeing to take the post, university officials reported today.

Haskins, 38-year-old coach at the University of Texas at El Paso, said in a telephone statement that "I made my decision too quickly. I have decided that I cannot accept the job at the U-D because my family is very upset as the thought of moving and I cannot do this to them."

Haskins, coach at El Paso the past eight years, was to have replaced U-D Athletic Director Bob Callahan, who resigned recently as basketball coach.

Haskins, whose El Paso team won the 1966 NCAA basketball championship, told U-D President Malcolm Carron, S.J., "If my family were unhappy there I know I could not do a good job for you and I would not want to do a poor job at your university."

SAFE ON BOSTON BOBBLE — Baserunner Duke Sims (9) begins his slide into second base Friday afternoon at Boston while Red Sox shortstop Dick Schofield peeks at the baseball between his feet after he failed to catch a wild toss from teammate Ray Culp. The play began with the tidians' Chuck Hinton bouncing back to the mound. Despite the misplay, Boston pounded out a 10-7 victory.

'COVERING' HIS MAN — New York's Dick Barnett (12) goes a bit too far in defending Boston Celtic guard Larry Siegfried Friday night during the fourth quarter. Siegfried reversed directions while dribbling and Barnett failed to change quickly enough. The host Celtics ousted the Knickerbockers from the pro playoffs, 106-105.

Wins Welterweight Crown

Wait Ends Happily for Boxer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cuban refugee Jose Napoles waited five years for his title shot and when he got it, the fight proved no contest as he hammered Curtis Cokes into submission after 13 rounds for the welterweight crown.

With his eyes swollen shut, Cokes simply couldn't see to continue fighting and although the boxer wanted to go on, manager Doug Lord asked the bout at The Forum Friday night be halted.

I knew about the 10th round when he didn't like those left hooks to the body that I was winning," Napoles declared through an interpreter. "I followed our plan of keeping Cokes in the center of the ring and not let him fight off the ropes."

Napoles, who now calls Mexico City his home, weighed 143 to 145½ for the champion, and stood an inch shorter. Cokes had two inches in reach but that didn't help. Napoles kept boring in with his relentless attack.

WANTS REMATCH
"I just couldn't get off," the ex-champion said through swollen lips. I just couldn't get started. Yes, I'd like a rematch."

Lord said, "you'll see a different Curtis Cokes in a rematch. If you don't, I'll retire him."

Cuco Conde, the new champion's manager, said they had agreed to give Cokes a chance to get the 147 pound title back but it remained undecided if the fight would be in the United States or Mexico City.

A crowd of 15,878 at the Forum paid a gross gate of $195,480, a new California indoor record surpassing the $193,000 drawn by bantams Lionel Rose of Australia and Chuchio Castillo of Mexico last winter.

Cokes collected $80,000 and Napoles $20,000.

A top lightweight contender before he drew into a welter, Napoles now has a record of 53-4 including 38 knockouts. For Cokes, trying to defend the title a sixth time, it was his 10th loss against 55 victories.

"He was strong and intelligent and I knew he wanted to fight me coming off the ropes, but I wouldn't let him," ex-

Boston's Hawk Overcomes Hex

BOSTON (AP) — Ken Harrelson, the Boston Red Sox' colorful slugger, figures he's up against the April curse once again, but he's doing his best to bury the annual hex once and for all.

"I always have a bad April," Harrelson said Friday. "I don't know what it is. Maybe it's a mental thing, but I'll be glad when the month is over."

Harrelson, who hit 35 homers and led the American League with 109 RBIs last year, broke out of a slump with his second and third home runs in a 10-7 victory over Cleveland.

His first homer against Cleveland's Luis Tiant was a mighty two-run blast tying the score 4-4 in the fifth inning. The ball cleared the 23-foot screen extension atop the 37-foot wall in left center.

"That's as hard as I can hit a baseball—and as far as I can hit one," the Hawk said.

TIANT SHELLED

Harrelson capped a five-run sixth with a homer on a high drive into the screen, sending Tiant to the showers with his third straight defeat of the young season.

In the last two years with the Red Sox, Harrelson has four hits in 18 times at bat against Tiant, a 21-game winner with a 1.60 ERA in 1968. All four hits have been homers.

"I've hit eight homers off him during our major league careers, though," Harrelson said. "And I bet he's struck me out 50 times. He was struggling out there today. He didn't have his good stuff. When he's right, I think he's the best pitcher in the league."

Harrelson's homers lifted his average to .217 and his RBI output to eight in 10 games.

MOD ATTIRE

The Hawk, whose witty repartee matches his way out mod attire off the field, was all business in discussing his hitting. He admitted he spent "a long, long time" in the practice batting cage after the game against Baltimore Thursday.

"I really hit a lot of balls—look at these blisters," he said in displaying marked palms. "I don't know if it really helped, though. Batting Coach Bobby Doerr told me not to worry—that I was swinging the bat good and not to change. He said his hits would come—and he was right, as usual."

Norm Cash Has 'Salary Swing' Going Already

NEW YORK (UPI) — Norm Cash is starting his "salary drive" early. A half-season early.

Usually the Detroit Tigers' slugging first baseman has a negative batting average for the first half of the baseball year because he gets off to such a slow start.

Then Cash generally winds up around the .260 mark by hitting something like .799 for the portion of play after the All Star game.

Last season was typical. Cash began in for his best start in memory. And the surprising thing about it is that it's not really surprising.

The left-hander wound up at .263 by going 67-for-261, a .333 pace — with a dozen home runs and 33 runs batted in for 54 second-half games.

The 1961 batting champion (.361) was famed for foisting off pay cuts with stirring finishes.

NOT SURPRISING

But now Cash is hitting .391 on 9-for-23 with one home run and five runs batted in for his best start in memory. And the surprising thing about it is that it's not really surprising.

"I said in Florida he might hit .320 this year," commented Tigers' hitting and first base coach Wally Moses in Cleveland this week. "He just might do it. He knows what he's doing right."

What Cash is doing right you can tell on television by watching what field he hits to on outside pitches. Right. He goes to left.

WIDER STANCE

Cash, who helps keep this team loose with his quick and sometimes biting tongue, opened up his stance last summer brought his lead foot closer to first base and began spraying the ball all over the park.

This season in spring training he started off by doing the same thing. In the stretch between his batting title and last year, Cash would invariably pull a Ted Williams — i.e., try to pull everything to right even if there were nine fielders on that side of the diamond.

Orioles' Phoebus Blanks Senators With Four-Hitter

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's difficult to believe, but Baltimore's Tom Phoebus, with a straight face, says he wouldn't want to face the Washington Senators each time he went out to pitch.

"They're a tough team," Phoebus said after shutting out the Senators 6-0 Friday night for the second time this season. "Everything's been going good for me, I guess."

Good is hardly the word when Phoebus, 1967 Rookie of the Year, faces the Senators.

Phoebus allowed only four hits Friday night, but that's twice as many as the Senators were able to nick the righthander for last Sunday.

Phoebus says, however, it's much easier to pitch when your team gets you runs. And get runs Baltimore has.

FOUR MORE

The rampaging Orioles slugged four more home runs today. They have hit 18 homers in winning seven of their last eight games.

Paul Blair hit two while Frank Robinson and Elrod Hendricks had one each. Blair, with his third and fourth homers of the year, has hit safely in 16 straight games and is 19 for 45 since he was blanked in five attempts in the season opener.

APOLLO'S CHIEF — Chuck Cherundolo, 52, has been named to coach the new Tri-City Apollos of the Continental Football League. The chief scout for the Chicago Bears, Cherundolo will command a salary in excess of $20,000 a year for three seasons. The Apollos are the former Michigan Arrows entry in the CFL.

U. of M., Spartan 9s Play 2 in E. Lansing

EAST LANSING (AP) — Heavy rains forced postponement of a Michigan-Michigan State baseball game scheduled in East Lansing Friday and led to a switch in locations for a meeting today between the teams.

MSU officials said a Spartan-U. of M. doubleheader would be played at East Lansing today.

Rain made the U. of M. field unplayable, officials said, so the second game, set for Ann Arbor, was changed to East Lansing.

Louisville's Franchise Revoked by IL President

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — and under a league rule ordered the franchise forfeited.

Sisler blamed a stalemate in the negotiations for his action, saying, "The conditions of the deal that we set forth to be approved were not met by decision."

Sisler said he had the unanimous vote of the league's other clubs to act in any way he deemed advisable.

Observing the proceedings was John Donovan, counsel for the Boston Red Sox, who provide the Louisville franchise. Mr. Sisler did what he had to do under the circumstances," Donovan said.

The revocation, coming on the eve of the Colonels' opening game, was unprecedented in the history of the 65-year-old professional baseball league.

The team's franchise was formerly owned by an Evansville, Ind., real estate man, Walter J. Dilbeck Jr.

Dilbeck, despite a league-leading attendance last season of $43,887, encountered financial trouble and accumulated debts reported to be around $56,000. He had been negotiating to sell the franchise to an Indianapolis businessman, Thomas H. Redmond, when Sisler stepped in.

Pace Slowed, Miss Wright Leading by 2

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Mickey Wright says she's playing as well as she has for years, but she still doesn't plan to try to win back her crown as queen of the women's golf tour.

"I don't have any desire to play all the golf I did a few years ago," the 34-year-old said before starting today's second round of the $17,500 Lady Carling Open.

Miss Wright, who at 34 has already won 80 tournament titles for an all-time women's record, hasn't claimed a crown for 10 months.

But she's playing like the queen of old, and she grabbed a two-stroke lead in the first round of the Lady Carling with a four-under-par 68 Friday.

Wright's lead was 34-36 over Kathy Whitworth (33-38), Betty Jo Johnson (33-39), and Carol Mann (33-40). Wright's score was 33-37-72, Whitworth's 34-38-72, Johnson's 33-39-72, and Mann's 33-40-72.

Tigers Visiting NY, Then in Baltimore

Detroit has a television game with the Yankees in New York today plus a doubleheader on Sunday. Earl Wilson, who has yet to win despite pitching two good games, goes against rookie Bill Buchart.

National League Playoffs Division Series: St. Louis vs. New York, 4 p.m. (TV); St. Louis vs. New York, 7 p.m. (TV). Only game scheduled. Sunday's Games: Montreal at Boston, Montreal leads 2-0; St. Louis at Los Angeles, St. Louis leads 2-0. Only game scheduled. Monday's Games: No games scheduled.

'CORONADO SOMBRE' — Jose Napoles of Mexico City sports a big sombrero from his well-wishers after pounding Curtis Cokes (towel over head) and taking his world welterweight title in 13 rounds last night at Los Angeles. Cokes didn't answer the bell for round 14 of the scheduled 15-round fight. There were no knockdowns but the dethroned champion's eyes took a beating.

Archer, Trevino Wind Provides Lift Pace Tourney for Prep Trackmen

Littler, Player, Boros One Stroke Off Pace

(Continued From Page D-1) Trevino, who missed only one fairway, opened with a bogey when he was in a trap, then rallied with four birdies, ending in putts of 8 and 15 feet, chipping to within four inches at No. 2, and reaching the par five 12th in two and two-putting.

Archer had five birdies and four bogeys, all of the latter coming when he got into the deep rough. His birdie putts were from 30, 20, 20 and 18 feet, and he reached one par five in two.

"You have to play for birdies on this course," he said, "because with this rough you know you've got on this course," he said, "because with this rough you know you've got to have some bogeys."

Littler had a surprising round, going eight-under-par on the first 12 holes, then collecting two bogeys and a double bogey on the last six.

Low Treading: George Archer (71-72-143), Gary Player (71-72-143), Arnold Palmer (71-72-143), Tom Shaw (71-72-143), Dick Lott (71-72-143), Steve Reid (71-72-143), Bob Charles (71-72-143), Billy Casper (71-72-143), Tom Weiskopf (71-72-143), Bill Butler (71-72-143), Robert de Vicenzo (71-72-143), Ben Curney (71-72-143), Sam Snead (71-72-143), Nelly Klerk (71-72-143), Kiyomasa (71-72-143), 60 Roney-22 (71-72-143), Wagner, Richard (71-72-143), Jack Nicklaus (71-72-143), 71-72-143.

OL St. Mary Loses on Links

Detroit Service handed Orchard Lake St. Mary a 168-170 golfing setback yesterday. Greg Stizalkowski fired a 39 while Dennis Glandon carded a 42 for OLSM. Tom Judd paced the Detroit team with a 37.

While the cold temperatures might have dampened the participants' enthusiasm, the wind provided a lift for the runners Friday night in a double dual meet on Milford's local weather track.

Several outstanding times were turned in by the freshmen and hurriers as the host Redskins upped their record to 4-0 with 74 points to 42½ for Howell and 29½ for Fenton.

Milford's Dan Smith posted wind-aided times of :10.2 and :22.5 in capturing the 100-yard and 200-yard dashes. Teammate Mike Sutton ran :52.8 in winning the quarter-mile with the wind at his back.

DRYSDALE'S DOWN AND OUT — Los Angeles pitcher Don Drysdale (wearing jacket) is accustomed to throwing to catchers and not running into them. He falls to get around Houston's John Bateman.

Starting Hurler Wins in Relief

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The day did not turn out to be exactly as Al McBean had planned. Twenty-four hours earlier he was penciled in to be the starting pitcher for the San Diego Padres in San Francisco. But, Friday night, McBean wound up winning in relief for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Acquired Thursday in a deal with the Padres, McBean made his first appearance for the Dodgers a memorable one, hurling two innings of shutout ball and then accepting the victory as the Dodgers rallied for three runs in the ninth inning to knock over the Houston Astros, 5-4.

"This is the kind of club I like to play for," McBean said. "Many fans told me all about them. They are aggressive and determined. I've only been here one day but I can see that already. They are like the Cardinals. They are never out of a game."

Cuba's 'Year of Decision' Starts Off Badly

HAVANA (U) — Fidel Castro already says this year's harvest — billed as a rehearsal for next year — is not going well. It may make five million tons.

BIG HARVEST NEEDED

Cuba needs a big sugar harvest to meet credit obligations on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Trade experts say it is possible that Castro can get by financially in 1970 with less than 10 million tons — say eight million tons — if sugar prices stay up.

Present indications are that the government will have to get hustling to make it.

Prime Minister Castro to the 1970 harvest by pledging the honor of his Communist government on reaching the goal. He says the Cuban revolution can be judged once and for all on whether the country makes it.

The result has been to make the 10 million tons a national motto. Huge posters dot the countryside proclaiming "the 10 million are coming." A big neon sign flashes the same news in red, white and blue on Havana's main street.

MORE WORK

Along with the sloganeering has come more work. Some examples:

- More than 110,000 workers, mostly young people, are working in hot, Texaslike Cam-ague province. Many will stay up to three years.

- Workers in westernmost Pinar del Rio province have pledged to work 12 hours daily. Some in Las Villas province have given up vacations this year. Most factory workers have agreed to work one hour extra daily without pay to make up the production loss of fello workers toiling in agriculture.

- High school students who normally spend 45 days in agricultural work are doing 50 this year. Some are staying for 120 days.
- There are mounting indications the government plans to empty the universities next fall and send most students to agricultural labor.

HAVANA QUIET

Havana has lost much of its bustle. April is the time of the usual labor mobilization to commemorate Cuba's victory over the U.S.-sponsored Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961. The mobilization will last a month.

Castro has indicated the traditional Christmas and New Year's holidays will be postponed until July 1970 when the harvest is finished. This year will be 18 months long, he says.

Meanwhile, the country's food and clothing shortage continues. Thousands of man-hours are still being lost in queues.

Thousands of others are being lost in a breakdown of services as employees leave their jobs to work in agriculture.

Many government ministries lack key people. Routine decisions are delayed. The Supreme Court has ordered courts to operate with skeleton staffs and consider only the most urgent cases this month so Justice Department workers can join the harvest.

OTHER PROBLEMS

The country faces other problems in achieving the 10 million goal.

Bureaucracy still abounds. There is faulty planning in many projects, maladministration in others. Worker absenteeism is a complaint frequently voiced by Communist officials. A shortage of qualified personnel continues in industry and agriculture.

College Rebels in Lather

Student Revolt Is Barberous

WASHINGTON (UPI) — You have read about the student disturbances this week at Harvard, Columbia, Stanford, Oberlin, Purdue, Southern U. and Albright and the University of Virginia. To mention a few.

Well, here's an advance story about another campus disturbance that is waiting to happen.

SOUTH BOUNCE, Mont. — Militant students at the South Bounce Barbers College seized control of the front chair today and forcibly ejected the dean of the school of sideburns.

J. Horace Feathercut, president of the college, threatened to call police to evict the demonstrators unless they called off the strike within 25 hours.

CAUSE DAMAGE

He said the rebel group already had caused considerable damage by pouring hair tonic into one of the hot lather machines.

But Rensler Pate, a leader of the Student Barbers for Democratic Haircuts (SBDH), vowed that the activists would continue the protest until the college yielded to their demands.

He said the students were demanding a bigger voice in the selection of shampoo, replacement of barber shop quarters by rock guitarists and the establishment of autonomous study programs in beard trimming.

Girls attending the South Bounce Institute of Manicures, the female branch of the barbers college, walked out of their classes in support of the demonstration.

GIRLS WARNED

Mrs. Gladys Emeryboard, a nail-filing instructor, said the girls had been warned that unless they returned immediately they would not be given credit in cuticle-removing.

During the night, someone removed the barber pole in front of the college and replaced it with a psychedelic poster.

The protest was the culmination of efforts by SBDH leaders to force the barbers college administration to adopt "meaningful" and "relevant" changes in the curriculum.

Pate pointed out that clipper operation was a required course whereas the department of razor styling was relegated to the back chair.

"The faculty is dominated by the influential department of crew cuts, which is strictly

Bridge Tricks From Jacobys

East was slightly disappointed when South and West passed and it was up to North to make a second bid. Once more, North could afford a jump raise in diamonds but by this time North was sure that if he showed real strength his non-vulnerable opponents would refuse to give up and North wanted to get doubled at the lowest possible level in diamonds so North merely went to three diamonds.

East continued his slow bid-

It got back to West, there was a double.

North had achieved his objective. It was up to South to play the hand.

South was pretty sure that West held the club ace so South started his campaign by trying for a partial strip play. He took two rounds of trumps, cashed two spades, ruffed a spade; ruffed his last heart; led a club but this time West found his voice and went to four. North West had to play his ace of continued with his plan and clubs and South's worries were called five diamonds and when over.

North had quite a problem with his first bid. He could give his partner a jump raise in diamonds, he could cue bid in hearts, or he could show his lackluster spade suit. North solved the problem by bidding one spade and keeping cue bids and diamond raises for the future.

East really should have jumped to three or four hearts but East was one of these rubber bridge players who distrust their partner's overcalls. Anyway, it was a free-wheeling sort of game and East was sure the bidding would continue.

Junior Editors Quiz on DESERTS

DESSERTS MAY SEEM DRY AND FORBIDDING

BUT, THERE'S A LOT MORE TO THEM THAN MEET THE EYE

QUESTION: How do desert animals get enough water?

ANSWER: It is amazing how plants and animals can exist on the very small amounts of water they get in a desert, for all living things need moisture. The answer is that nature has worked out many ingenious ways for desert plants and animals to get and conserve water.

The camel doesn't sweat like other animals and so a drink of water lasts him a long time. Deserts are hot, and heat means thirst, so many animals burrow underground during the heat of the day and come out in the cooler evening and nighttime (see picture).

Many beetles have a tight round shell which holds moisture in. Hard scales and shells do the same job for desert reptiles. The internal anatomy of many desert creatures is arranged so they can get all the moisture they need from their plant or animal food. Many can go without drinking for weeks and months.

Desert plants catch every possible drop during the rare showers and conserve it inside of dry, leathery coverings. Cactus plants are a good example of this. Sharp spines protect such plants from thirsty animals.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

NEW YORK (AP) - Linda Eastman, now the wife of Paul McCartney of the Beatles, was the inspiration for the song "Linda."

Jack Lawrence, a client of her attorney father, wrote it for her in 1946, and it was a hit record sung by Buddy Clark.

The sheet music has a picture of Linda sitting on a piano listening to Lawrence play.

Chemicals released by planes have thinned out wind-blown fogs common in the Cape Cod area of Massachusetts.

When Mrs. Oldfield called the GPO they said they were interested only in faults on the line - not cats.

The cat was finally rescued by a passing painter who had some ladders.

Luridity in Private Lives? Glenn Ford Says a Bit Is OK

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK - Glenn Ford thinks we're all entitled to a little luridity in our private lives.

"God knows we all have lurid pasts that we keep secret, and a guy without something lurid in his past would be pretty dull," Glenn said, not at all hinting at his own lurid past. He's a 34-year-old actor, looking very slim in his Royal Yacht Club blazer.

"I've got a lurid chapter? Well, don't forget, I served 3 1/2 years in the Marine Corps. I've been around," he smiled.

"But I would type that everybody's private life would be kept private. I don't have to share mine with people. And that's what I have against pornographic movies. They're sharing it. I've never been a voyeur. I've never seen any of these movies where I envied any of the participants."

Naturally, Glenn did not reveal even a hint of his own lurid chapters. His remark about it came out quite surprisingly while we were discussing a Disney picture simply titled "Smith."

"This is my 127th film," Ford had been saying.

A man who's done 127 pictures should have some feeling about what a film should be. "I think you should go out of the theater feeling better after seeing one. It should be a breath of fresh air above all the excrement. I think the present trend in sex pictures, in pornography, has got to run its course soon. Where else has it got to go?" he asked.

Ford, sometime husband of Eleanor Powell, now being divorced from Kathryn Hays, says he got his break working as a stunt waiter at a 20th Century-Fox executive's Hollywood dinner.

"They gave me $20 to drop a tray over his head and tell him off. I guess, I guess, I said after dropping the tray, 'Tut, you're all a bunch of bums, you're all relatives.' When I went to get my money next day the guy who hired me said, 'Kid, you were great. We're going to give you a screen test.'"

Zero Mostel, dining at Joe's Pier 52, brought his own bottle of champagne in an attache case and asked, "Is this how Diamond Jim Brady did it?" ... Jay Weston's talking to Lee Marvin about starring in an Ernest Hemingway film bio ... There'll be a company of "Hain" in Tokyo (set by Joe Cavalliere, mgr. of Cheateh).

Harry Belafonte's album, "Anthology of Negro Music," four years in preparation, will be released in the fall ... Sandier & Young '11 TV-tape 12 weeks of Kraft Music Hall in London, with big-name guests ... The 1910 Fruit Gum Company rock group (from the Honka Monka discotheque) will play at Princess Capades for a 7-carat ring from restaurateur Paul Seindler (of Brochetteria).

Playboy's "Playmate of 1968," Victoria Veli, was signed by Warner Bros.; she'll be in "When Dinosaurs Ruled the Earth" ... Brew boss Gusale Busch wants to buy a prize horse from Van Rapoport (of the Spindletop) ... Former child star Margaret O'Brien, just divorced, may wed Julie Tjere, wealthy Latin American.

Court Officer Is Woman

NEW YORK (AP) - Grace Howard, who couldn't realize her ambition to be a policewoman because she couldn't pass the eye test, has chosen the next best thing. She is the first female court officer in Queens Supreme Court.

Her duties are to maintain order in the courtroom, swear in jurors, escort defendants, call out cases and generally make sure everything goes smoothly.

"I've been in similar situations before, being the only woman among men," she says. "In Brooklyn Family Court where I previously worked, my colleagues were all men and treated me as one of the boys."

Reps. John Conyers, D-Mich., Andrew Jacobs, D-Ind., and Thomas Rees, D-Calif., said they supported Smothers. Rees accused CBS of blacking out the show because it included satirical libel at Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I., chairman of the Senate communications subcommittee and a strong advocate of network self-censorship of sex and violence.

Conyers greeted Tommy Smothers before the screening and promised his help. He said he had several House colleagues ready to pitch in.

LIBERAL VIEWS

Conyers, like Jacobs and Rees, said the Smothers Brothers show was practically the only prime time network program expressing liberal views in opposition to the Vietnam war and on race relations.

Tommy Smothers said "NBC will not pick us up." ABC is where I previously worked, my colleagues were all men and treated me as one of the boys."

Philippines Political Race Heating Up 7 Months Before Vote

MANILA (AP) — The Philippines presidential election is seven months away, but the political guns already are blazing. Technically, a new law bars campaigning until 120 days officially the two main political parties before the Nov. 12 voting, and parties have not named their candidates. However, neither side seems inhibited. The antagonists of the moment are President Ferdinand E. Marcos, certain to be the candidate of the Nationalist party, and Sen. Sergio Osmeña Jr., who appears in the lead for the opposition Liberal party's nomination. COLLABORATION? Despite many current controversial issues, their angriest words have centered on events of 25 years ago. Marcos spoke recently about certain Filipinos collaborating with the Japanese during World War II. While he did not name Osmeña, all the news media said that was who Marcos meant.

Osmeña had been accused of selling scrap metal to the Japanese during the war. He insists that years ago he was cleared by a court. The records are not precise. Legally it doesn't make any difference, because a sweeping amnesty was granted all Filipinos after the war. Osmeña in turn charged that Marcos, widely known as the Philippines' most decorated soldier, got medals for heroism in places he had never been, in battles he never fought.

Osmeña then said in fact he was a special intelligence agent during the war. He said an affidavit certifying his agent's role was signed in 1945 by Col. Russell W. Volckmann, retired.

That Volckmann's signature was forged and that Volckmann himself denied issuing any such affidavit. He lives in Morrison, Ill. They said Volckmann told that to Eulogio Balo, a wartime army general now with the Philippines Reparation Commission in Tokyo.

Howell Lawyer Ruling Stalled

HOWELL (AP) — A three-judge panel failed to reach a decision Friday on a petition to suspend the law license of former Brighton City Attorney Martin Lavan, but promised a decision at some future date. The panel was appointed a month ago by the Michigan Supreme Court to look into the case of Lavan, who is accused of professional misconduct, including milking the estates of at least two Howell widows.

Lavan, pleading illness, has refused to appear before a special grievance committee of the Michigan Bar Association investigating charges against him.

Medical examinations ordered by the State Bar showed that a long-standing heart ailment might cause his death in the event of an emotional upset.

SUSPENSION ASKED The State Bar in March petitioned the Livingston County Circuit Court to suspend Lavan's license "until such time as he is able to answer charges against him." The Friday hearing was to decide if that action will be taken.

Attorney Stanley Beattie of Detroit represented Lavan at the hearing and argued that his client is too ill to appear and that the courts do not have the power to suspend Lavan's license for misconduct because no misconduct has been proved.

But attorney Chris Youngjohn, representing the State Bar, said:

"My feeling is that an order of temporary suspension until a lawyer is able to appear and defend himself is synonymous with an injunction."

Fleet Steams for Korea

From Our News Wires
WASHINGTON — Potent U.S. naval forces, including the battleship New Jersey and possibly a pair of aircraft carriers, were reported steaming to new positions today to provide protection for American intelligence missions off North Korea.
The Pentagon announced redeployment of extensive forces yesterday shortly after President Nixon ordered resumption of reconnaissance flights with the promise they will cease to be "fair game" for North Korean jets.
Flights off the North Korean coast were halted Tuesday after an EC121 reconnaissance plane with 31 men aboard apparently was shot down. Only two bodies have been found in the Sea of Japan where the craft fell.

In Chicago, the national chairman of the Remember the Pueblo Committee said yesterday the U.S. government may have information that seven men survived the destruction of the plane.
INFORMATION WITHHELD?
The Rev. Paul Lindstrom told a news conference, "It is within the realm of possibility that our government has such information and is withholding it because of the public outcry that might result."
Lindstrom reiterated information he said his committee had received Tuesday from an unidentified government source indicating seven members of the 31-man crew of the EC121 had parachuted into the sea.

"These men may have survived, and they may have been picked up by North Korean gun boats," he said.
Redeployment of the naval forces was viewed as a protective step rather than a threat of retaliation against North Korea.
TROOPS ON ALERT
The semi-official Seoul newspaper Shinmoon reported today U. N. forces in South Korea were placed on a special alert this morning. It said the alert, known as "Defcon II," is instituted only when a danger of hostilities exists. A spokesman for the U. N. Command would not comment on the report.
The New Jersey, which had been scheduled to arrive in Long Beach, Calif., today after duty off Vietnam, was ordered to turn around and return to the Western Pacific.
While no announcement was made of the strategy to be used in providing protection for the reconnaissance planes, indications were fighters would be stationed where they could come to the swift rescue of any threatened U.S. aircraft.
Except for the New Jersey, the Pentagon did not say what ships were in short of specifying the new positions involved and the announcement stopped was in the Sea of Japan.

MUM ON DESTINATION
One carrier believed on the way to the Sea of Japan is the USS Kitty Hawk, which carries 90 warplanes. The Kitty Hawk left Hong Kong with two destroyers earlier this week without any announcement of its destination.
In ordering resumption of the intelligence flights, Nixon pronounced them vital to the security of U.S. troops stationed in South Korea.
Nixon revealed for the first time that the United States is capable of "reading" radar pictures of another country from miles away.
"We know what their radar showed," Nixon said. "We, incidentally, know what the Russian radar showed."
90 MILES AWAY
He said both showed that the EC121 was 90 miles off shore — well outside North Korean territory — when shot down.
Diplomatic sources in London said the Soviets were deeply concerned over the possible diplomatic and political fallout from the shooting down of the U.S. plane.
Reasons for a Soviet attempt to pressure North Korea were not entirely clear, but hope for eventual arms talks with the Nixon Administration was believed partly behind the attempt.
There also is some concern in Moscow over the possibility that Communist China had something to do with the downing of the plane.
The North Koreans were reported to be in tough mood, and to consider themselves in a strong military position.

County Budget OK'd Amid Controversy

By JEAN SAILE
An Oakland County Board of Supervisors meeting, called yesterday to approve a record $31-million tentative 1970 budget, erupted into controversy.
The meeting also saw the introduction of a resolution which could start the county toward a home-rule (county manager) form of government.
The budget (nearly $6 million more than this year's) was approved by a vote of 24-2, with Supervisors Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights, and William Richards, D-Royal Oak, opposed. Supervisor Fred Houghton, R-Avon Township, was absent.
Politics was largely the order of the day as supervisors debated:
• A last-minute attempt by Supervisor Philip Mastin, D-Hazel Park, to include a $138,000 appropriation for the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCOE) in the tentative budget.
The request, following the defeat of Mastin's resolution, was referred to the finance committee for possible inclusion in the final budget.

• A resolution by Niles Olson, D-Orion Township, to sell the Oakland-Orion Airport to the County Parks and Recreation Department, with the proceeds to be used for development of Children's Village.
Olson had attempted a similar resolution Monday. Yesterday's motion was amended to constitute only a study of the airport and its development and was referred to the aviation and transportation committee.
The referral by Board Chairman Charles B. Edwards Jr. of the whole matter of conducting public hearings to the committee on committees for a study of procedures.
The referral followed public criticism of Olson, planning, building, and zoning committee chairman, for his alleged "poor handling" of the recent anti-ballistic missile (ABM) public hearing.

Student Protest Erupts in Atlanta

By The Associated Press
Demonstrating students kept 25 trustees locked in a conference room at Atlanta University Center today, but protests were ended or suspended at several other major campuses.
Harvard students voted to suspend their strike for seven days after the university agreed to reduce the status of the Reserve Officers Training Corp. to an extracurricular activity. Stanford University protesters ended a nine-day sit-in at an electronics lab.
A new protest by a breakaway group of Students for a Democratic Society at Columbia University fizzled when it failed to get any widespread support.
The dissidents at Atlanta University Center, a six-college complex, were demanding that the schools be renamed for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and that white trustees resign.
HE'D RESIGN FIRST
One of those locked in was Dr. Hugh M. Gloster, president of Morehouse College, King's alma mater and part of the complex. He said he would resign rather than accede to the demands under duress.
The Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., a Morehouse trustee, walked out of the room yesterday declaring his family wanted no part of the tactics protesters were using in seeking to honor his slain son.
Dr. Thomas D. Jarrett, president of Atlanta University, told school officials not to send security guards or city police.
In Cambridge, Mass., a mass meeting of 3,500 Harvard students voted 2-1 to suspend the eight-day strike touched off by the arrest of 200 sit-ins at the administration building.
However, SDS members and about 150 black students seeking a large voice in setting up a black studies program, said they would continue the boycott.

BACK AGAIN—Sixteen convicted gamblers were taken for a ride yesterday—from Oakland County Jail to Jackson State Prison and then back again. In the top photo they are going and then (bottom) they are returning. Just as they got to Jackson, it was learned the State Supreme Court had ordered a delay pending a decision on an appeal. Yank Armor Repels 2 N. Viet Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — American armored units killed 10 North Vietnamese in two battles but lost at least four tanks and seven other armored vehicles, military spokesmen said yesterday.
A daylong battle 50 miles northwest of Saigon cost the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment four tanks — two new 16-ton Sheridans and two 50-ton M48 tanks — plus seven killed and 28 wounded, field reports said.
Later last night, three armored personnel carriers were destroyed by fire and four other tracked vehicles were badly damaged when North Vietnamese sappers attacked a "wagon train" circle of tanks and personnel carriers three miles southeast of the demilitarized zone.
Despite the loss of the tanks in the first battle, armored cavalry officers called it a victory. They said 82 enemy bodies were found after the battle.
RAN INTO AMBUSH
The fighting erupted when units of the regiment ran into a North Vietnamese ambush in Tay Ninh province.
Near Cam Lo, 13 Americans were killed and 24 were wounded in the other surprise attack against a defensive circle set up by 9th Regiment Marines and supporting armor of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Infantry Division.
Rocket-grenades knocked out three armored personnel carriers in the first minutes of the battle, clearing a path for enemy sappers who raced through and hurled satchel charges at three tanks and 17 other APCs.
The battle lasted two hours and the American armor commander was wounded when his APC was blasted by explosives.
RING OF FIRE
Helicopter gun-ships laid a ring of fire around the embattled troops until a second troop of tanks and APCs arrived. Then the North Vietnamese withdrew.
A later sweep of the battlefield turned up 13 North Vietnamese dead.
U.S. military spokesmen reported to day that North Vietnamese troops have built a series of big concrete gun emplacements into mountainsides along the South Vietnam-Laos border to fire on American and South Vietnamese special forces camps and bases.

The guns are mounted on railroad tracks and protected by giant steel doors, the spokesmen said.
ACK-ACK DEFENSE
They added that three such batteries were reported damaged or disabled by recent American air strikes. But the spokesmen said the gun emplacements are defended by anti-aircraft fire, making aerial observation and attacks extremely hazardous.

Mississippi Flooding Parts of Illinois, Iowa

From Our News Wires

After more advance warning than ever before, the Mississippi River flood of 1969 has arrived in Illinois and Iowa.

The river caused new evacuations in the two states yesterday. Rain predicted for tomorrow could further bloat the swollen Mouse River at Minot, N.D.

A crest 120 miles long swelled the Red River of the north in Minnesota and North Dakota. The Red, normally a placid stream, had spread from eight to 20 miles wide as it flowed toward Canada. Hundreds of small communities and farm homes were inundated.

At Moline, Ill., most of the 24 families on Campbell's Island in the Mississippi left their homes as the river rose half a foot a day.

DISASTER AREAS

In Iowa, 40 riverfront residents of Marquette were evacuated. National Guardsmen guarded dikes at Dubuque.

President Nixon yesterday declared parts of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota major disaster areas and allocated $1 million to each state for repairing flood damage.

Civil defense and state officials estimated flood waters have caused $31 million damage so far in three Midwestern states.

- $5 million in Minnesota, where 70 families were still homeless.
- 19 million in South Dakota, where 5,000 farms were evacuated and 1,000 remain homeless.
- At least $7 million in North Dakota.

WORST HIT

Minot, N.D., was suffering worst from this spring's flooding. The U.S. Geological Survey said yesterday the Mouse River flowed past Minot, N.D., at 3.2 billion gallons a day, the second-highest mark in 65 years — with higher flows expected this weekend, and the crest still a week away.

More than 12,000 of the town's 34,000 residents have left their homes.

Flood stage at Minot is 12 feet. The river was measured today at 20.05 feet. Previous estimates had said it would be 21 feet next Wednesday but rain was forecast tomorrow. Officials said an inch of rain could mean 22 feet.

GM Execs Got $17.7 Million

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. reports it paid a record total of $17.7 million in salaries and supplemental compensation to its officers and directors in 1968, an increase of more than 18 per cent over the previous year.

Highest paid among the executives was GM Board Chairman James M. Roche of 425 Dunston, Bloomfield Hills, who received $794,534. This included a salary of $225,000, cash bonuses of $427,500 and contingent credits worth $142,034. The contingent credits are payments in stock, set at one-third of an executive's bonus payment, which may be taken in installments over five years.

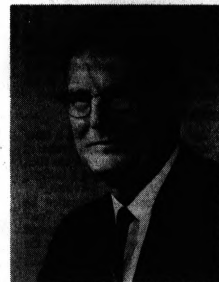

GM said in a proxy statement notifying stockholders of its annual meeting May 23 that salaries alone for the 63 officers and directors totaled a record $4,336,916. Bonuses totaling $9,896,012 were added on to the salaries. And $2,906,572 more was paid via contingent credits.

A week ago, Ford Motor Co. issued its proxy statement, listing payment of $10,009,512 in salaries and supplemental compensation to its 52 directors and officers. It included $4,204,512 in salaries and $5,805,000 in supplemental payments. The top individual payment was given Henry Ford II, board chairman, who received a $200,000 salary and $400,000 supplement.

2ND-PLACE EARNER

Tied for second place among GM's top money earners were Edward N. Cole of 1371 Kirkway, Bloomfield Township, who replaced Roche as president in November 1967, and George Russell, named vice chairman in the same month. Each received $177,490 for the year. This included salaries of $202,500 and bonuses of $386,250, plus the contingent credits.

The GM executives also were granted a total of 101,811 stock options, with Roche receiving the largest number — 5,211.

Fisher Body PR Aide Dies at 59

Donald D. Nimmo, assistant director of public relations for Fisher Body Division, died yesterday. He was 59. Service will be 11 a.m. Monday at Christ Church, Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills.

His body is at Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co., Birmingham. Surviving are his wife, Barbara; two daughters, Joan, at home, and Mrs. Nancy Winthrop of Rye, N.H., one son, Stephen of Chicago, Ill.; a brother, Hector of Birmingham; a sister; and two grandchildren.

HELD TERNSTEDT POST

Nimmo, 4969 Ranch, Bloomfield Township, was public relations director for General Motors Corp.'s Ternstedt Division in Warren for six years until the division merged with Fisher Body last year.

After graduating from Yale University, he was vice president and associate editor of the defunct Detroit Saturday Night weekly newspaper and an employee of a real estate firm.

A member of Christ Church Cranbrook, he was a director of the Michigan United Fund. The family has suggested memorial tributes may be sent to the Michigan Heart Association.

State Okays Expansion of Elm Tests

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The State Agriculture Department has issued a permit to expand the experiment, begun at Cranbrook, which may cure Dutch Elm disease.

The experiment began at Cranbrook last year and was extended to 92 trees on the private 300-acre campus.

Other trees on private property have been treated by the experimenters. Floyd Gaskick, 3559 Brookside, and Dr. B. J. Szappanoy, 3325 Burning Bush, both of Bloomfield Township. Gaskick and Szappanoy, an allergist, know the disease is a fungus carried by the beetle. The fungus spores grow in the water conducting vessels of the tree, eventually causing a full obstruction.

"DECONGESTANT"

The two men are treating trees with a liquid formula referred to as "a decongestant," which flows from a plastic bottle directly into the tree. Cranbrook officials have given Gaskick and Szappanoy approval to treat as many as possible of the thousands of elms on the Cranbrook grounds.

Gaskick said these trees located around buildings frequented most by visitors will be treated first. Later, work will begin in the woods.

"We want to make it very clear that this experiment is only in its infant stages. We should know more conclusively by August, just how it is progressing."

INQUIRIES POUR IN

Since the original publicity last November, Gaskick and Szappanoy have received thousands of inquiries from all over the country.

The experiment's work is based on these points:

- They know they cannot harm a tree in good condition because Gaskick has been pouring the decongestant into a healthy tree on his own for years.

• A general distribution of the formula can be obtained throughout the tree.

- After a month's treatment a positive culture becomes negative.
- Experience has shown that the beetles leave a treated tree.

• The assumption that the beetle does not return for reproduction to a treated tree remains just that only because they have been programming for such a short time. However, branches of trees taken down at Cranbrook show no signs of larvae or beetle activity.

16 in Steren Case Get Reprieve

Gamblers Back in County Jail

Sixteen gamblers were back in the Oakland County Jail today after the Michigan Supreme Court granted them a last-minute reprieve that will keep them out of state prison for a while.

The group, which includes three alleged members of the Mafia, had been transported to the state prison at Jackson by sheriff's deputies yesterday only to be turned away at the gate.

Prison authorities had been informed while the group was en route that the high court had granted a stay of proceedings sought by their attorney, Carlton Roeser of Pontiac. All had been free on bond for nearly four years until last month, when Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem canceled their bonds after the Michigan Court of Appeals upheld their convictions.

STEREN CLUB RAID
All but one of the defendants had been convicted of gambling charges in August 1965 in connection with the operation of the Steren Assembly Club in Madison Heights.

The other, Angelo (Barrels) Lombardi, had been found guilty in June 1966 of bribing a Pontiac police officer who was working undercover to smash a gambling operation at the Seaway Club and Social Club in Pontiac.

Lombardi, 42, of Detroit, and two men convicted in the Steren case, Eddie Gurevitz, 52, of Las Vegas, and Joseph Brooklier, 56, of Mount Clemens, had been linked to the Detroit-area Mafia in testimony before a U.S. Senate subcommittee.

Wednesday night, members of the Steren group and Lombardi voluntarily surrendered to authorities at the Oakland County Jail in compliance with Judge Ziem's order.

NO REPLY BY DEADLINE

Ziem had given Roeser 20 days to file a motion appealing the circuit court order. When no reply was received from the Supreme Court by the Wednesday deadline, Roeser had his clients turn themselves in at the jail.

Though granting a stay of proceedings, the Supreme Court refused Roeser's request to reinstate the bonds so that the defendants could be released while the cases are still pending.

The gamblers will stay in the custody of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department until the supreme court decides if it will accept Roeser's application to appeal.

How long that will take is not certain, though the supreme court has informed Assistant Prosecutor Dennis Donohue, the county's chief appellate expert, that he has until April 28 to file an answer on why the cases should not be accepted.

'NOT THEIR VICTORY'

Donohue said that as far as he's concerned the high court order wasn't a victory for the gamblers since their bonds were denied and will have to remain in jail, if not prison. In addition to the 16 men who were to begin prison sentences ranging from 1 to 5 years, three others in the Steren case are serving 90-day sentences in the county jail.

Tentative County Budget OK'd in Scrap

Richardson, R-Waterford Township, a member of the committee, and coigned by Paul Kasper, R-Bloomfield Township. Olson is a Democrat.

The tentative budget, which goes before the County Allocation Board Monday for a determination of the county's tax levy, includes $14 million for salaries. The budget allows for 115 new positions, most of them in areas of law enforcement, courts, child care and health. It includes $873,000 for future salary increases, not yet specified.

The budget resolution indicated the "feasibility" of containing building authority payments within the 15-mill limit. The sum of $1,067,500 is so designated. It also provided for a five-year continuing construction program to be funded in 1970 by $2 million in non-tax revenues.

It included a $400,000 appropriation to the County Road Commission to be used in a matching fund program which it said will make an additional $1 million available for road improvements.

SIGNIFICANT INCREASES

An additional $116,000 is included for mental health programs over the $1.4 million appropriated this year. Other areas reflecting significant increases are for the office of medical examiner, $180,000; $230,000 for drainage programs compared to $116,000 this year; and $925,000 for retirement programs versus $600,000 this year.

The county home-rule issue was brought up by Board Vice Chairman Alexander Perinoff, D-Southfield, who asked that it be referred to the legislative committee for the purpose of setting an election date for a vote of the people.

Perinoff's motion passed on voice vote with no debate.

The hassle over the Oakland-Orion Airport began when Olson presented a "watered-down version" of a previous motion. The ensuing debate then prompted Olson to fling charges of "politicizing" and he withdrew the motion and introduced his original proposal, which called for outright sale of the 425 acres of county-owned Oakland-Orion Airport property.

Reverse charges of "politics" angered Olson and he charged the airport had been "conceived in secrecy by private capital." Delos Hamlin, R-Farmington, who was chairman of the old board of supervisors which conceived the plan, retorted the charge.

Questions as to Olson's impartiality in the airport issue were raised when Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights, attempted to have the review conducted by the local affairs committee. He noted that Olson serves on the aviation and transportation committee. Walker's attempted amendment was ruled out of order.

Olson came under fire again when Richardson discussed the recent ABM hearing. Richardson charged Olson had not received board approval for the hearing; that he alone had made up the agenda.

Richardson said the hearing was "not in keeping with the dignity of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors and degrading to the people of Oakland County."

Supervisors also aired some debate on a resolution to support Gov. William Milliken's plan for the division of $100 million in recreational funds. The resolution passed, however, in a voice vote.

In Ypsilanti Area

Doll May Be Slayings Clue

From Our News Wires

Was an abandoned girl doll, nude except for a torn blouse, just a sick joke or a clue to murder?

That question left police in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area puzzled today, as they sifted through "tips coming out our ears" in the search for a killer or killers who have slain five girls, aged 13 to 22, in the past 20 months.

Reward funds climbed to $19,000 as authorities attempted to trace the origin of the doll found yesterday hanging face down from a barbed wire fence in the same, general area where the bodies were found.

Undersheriff Harold J. Owings Jr. of Washtenaw County said the doll was discovered "too close to the murder scenes to be written off" and may have been "more than a sick joke."

STABBED, CHOKED

The most recent — and youngest — victim, Dawn Basom of Ypsilanti was found on a gravel road Wednesday. Most of her clothing was missing except for a torn bra. She had been stabbed repeatedly on the chest and stomach and an electric cord was knotted around her neck.

Three of the other four victims were similarly attacked and left nearly nude in the wooded area between Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. The fourth was found fully clothed and shot to death, though she, too, had been choked.

Police said Dawn was lured or forced into someone's car then killed at an abandoned farm. They were speculating that other murders may have been committed there, and that perhaps four of the girls were killed by the same person or persons.

A SICK JOKE? — This doll found snagged on a barbed wire fence near the scenes of five Ypsilanti area murders is being checked by detectives, who are calling the doll "significant" to the murder probe.

Work Surfaces Need Built-In Resistance

Sometimes success gets out of hand. A product comes to be so well thought of that users automatically expect too much of it.

For instance, some people polish the finish right off their shiny new automobiles.

Decorative laminated plastic for counters, cabinets, furniture and walls is so well thought of, it too takes a beating, says the Decorative Laminate Section of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association.

Laminated plastic is one of the most attractive and wear resistant materials available for surfacing kitchen and bathroom counters, for finishes of fine furniture and for wall panels.

All that it takes to clean it is to wipe it with a damp cloth, any of the generally available dishwashing soaps or detergents, and a light hand.

This high-pressure laminate has an extremely dense surface that is highly resistant to dirt and stain, and impervious to moisture.

Decorative laminated plastic is scuff and scratch resistant, but cooks should use a cutting board when slicing or mincing. The board will also protect the sharp edges of your cutlery.

Modern technology has developed a decorative, versatile, material that resists cigarette burns — but for a limited period of time. Nicotine stains, however, can be removed with a mild abrasive or a light soap.

Decorative laminated plastic withstands heat too, but please protect it from sizzling hot pots. It's hard to find another beautiful surfacing material that will stand up to heat, water and stains like high-pressure decorative laminated plastic.

Use it, enjoy it, but give it the loving care it deserves.

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — Potent U.S. naval forces, including the battleship New Jersey and possibly a pair of aircraft carriers, were reported steaming to new positions today to provide protection for American intelligence missions off North Korea.

The Pentagon announced redeployment of extensive forces yesterday shortly after President Nixon ordered resumption of reconnaissance flights with the promise they will cease to be "fair game" for North Korean jets.

Flights off the North Korean coast were halted Tuesday after an EC121 reconnaissance plane with 31 men aboard apparently was shot down. Only two bodies have been found in the Sea of Japan where the craft fell.

In Chicago, the national chairman of the Remember the Pueblo Committee said yesterday the U.S. government may have information that seven men survived the destruction of the plane.

INFORMATION WITHHELD?

The Rev. Paul Lindstrom told a news conference, "It is within the realm of possibility that our government has such information and is withholding it because of the public outcry that might result."

Lindstrom reiterated information he said his committee had received Tuesday from an unidentified government source indicating seven members of the 31-man crew of the EC121 had parachuted into the sea.

"These men may have survived, and they may have been picked up by North Korean gun boats," he said.

TROOPS ON ALERT

The semi-official Seoul newspaper Shinmun reported today U. N. forces in South Korea were placed on a special alert this morning. It said the alert, known as "Defcon II," is instituted only when a danger of hostilities exists. A spokesman for the U. N. Command would not comment on the report.

The New Jersey, which had been scheduled to arrive in Long Beach, Calif., today after duty off Vietnam, was ordered to turn around and return to the Western Pacific.

While no announcement was made of the strategy to be used in providing protection for the reconnaissance planes, indications were fighters would be stationed where they could come to the swift rescue of any threatened U.S. aircraft.

Except for the New Jersey, the Pentagon did not say what ships were in short of specifying the new positions involved and the announcement stopped totally were in the Sea of Japan.

MUM ON DESTINATION

One carrier believed on the way to the Sea of Japan is the USS Kitty Hawk, which carries 90 warplanes. The Kitty Hawk left Hong Kong with two destroyers earlier this week without any announcement of its destination.

In ordering resumption of the intelligence flights, Nixon pronounced them vital to the security of U.S. troops stationed in South Korea.

Nixon revealed for the first time that the United States is capable of "reading" radar pictures of another country from miles away.

90 MILES AWAY

He said both showed that the EC121 was 90 miles off shore — well outside North Korean territory — when shot down.

Diplomatic sources in London said the Soviets were deeply concerned over the possible diplomatic and political fallout from the shooting down of the U.S. plane.

Reasons for a Soviet attempt to pressure North Korea were not entirely clear, but hope for eventual arms talks with the Nixon Administration was believed partly behind the attempt.

There also is some concern in Moscow over the possibility that Communist China had something to do with the downing of the plane.

The North Koreans were reported to be in tough mood, and to consider themselves in a strong military position.

County Budget OK'd Amid Controversy

By JEAN SAILE

An Oakland County Board of Supervisors meeting, called yesterday to approve a record $31-million tentative 1970 budget, erupted into controversy.

The meeting also saw the introduction of a resolution which could start the county toward a home-rule (county manager) form of government.

The budget (nearly $6 million more than this year's) was approved by a vote of 24-2, with Supervisors Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights, and William Richards, D-Royal Oak, opposed. Supervisor Fred Houghton, R-Avon Township, was absent. Politics was largely the order of the day as supervisors debated:

- A last-minute attempt by Supervisor Philip Mastin, D-Hazel Park, to include a $138,000 appropriation for the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCEO) in the tentative budget.

The request, following the defeat of Mastin's resolution, was referred to the finance committee for possible inclusion in the final budget.

- A resolution by Niles Olson, D-Orion Township, to sell the Oakland-Orion Airport to the County Parks and Recreation Department, with the proceeds to be used for development of Children's Village.

Olson had attempted a similar resolution Monday. Yesterday's motion was amended to constitute only a study of the airport and its development and was referred to the aviation and transportation committee.

- The referral by Board Chairman Charles B. Edwards Jr. of the whole matter of conducting public hearings to the committee on committees for a study of procedures.

Student Protest Erupts in Atlanta

By The Associated Press

Demonstrating students kept 25 trustees locked in a conference room at Atlanta University Center today, but protests were ended or suspended at several other major campuses.

Harvard students voted to suspend their strike for seven days after the university agreed to reduce the status of the Reserve Officers Training Corp. to an extracurricular activity. Stanford University protesters ended a nine-day sit-in at an electronics lab.

A new protest by a breakaway group of Students for a Democratic Society at Columbia University fizzled when it failed to get any widespread support.

The dissidents at Atlanta University Center, a six-college complex, were demanding that the schools be renamed for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and that white trustees resign.

HE'D RESIGN FIRST

One of those locked in was Dr. Hugh M. Gloster, president of Morehouse College, King's alma mater and part of the complex. He said he would resign rather than accede to the demands under duress.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., a Morehouse trustee, walked out of the room yesterday declaring his family wanted no part of the tactics protesters were using in seeking to honor his slain son.

Dr. Thomas D. Jarrett, president of Atlanta University, told school officials not to send security guards or city police.

In Cambridge, Mass., a mass meeting of 3,500 Harvard students voted 2-1 to suspend the eight-day strike touched off by the arrest of 200 sit-ins at the administration building.

However, SDS members and about 150 black students seeking a large voice in setting up a black studies program, said they would continue the boycott.

Yank Armor Repels 2 N. Viet Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — American armored units killed 10 North Vietnamese in two battles but lost at least four tanks and seven other armored vehicles, military spokesmen said yesterday.

A daylong battle 50 miles northwest of Saigon cost the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment four tanks — two new 16-ton Sheridans and two 50-ton M48 tanks — plus seven killed and 28 wounded, field reports said.

Later last night, three armored personnel carriers were destroyed by fire and four other tracked vehicles were badly damaged when North Vietnamese sappers attacked a "wagon train" circle of tanks and personnel carriers three miles southeast of the demilitarized zone.

Despite the loss of the tanks in the first battle, armored cavalry officers called it a victory. They said 32 enemy bodies were found after the battle.

RAN INTO AMBUSH

The fighting erupted when units of the regiment ran into a North Vietnamese ambush in Tay Ninh province.

Near Cam Lo, 13 Americans were killed and 24 were wounded in the other surprise attack against a defensive circle set up by 9th Regiment Marines and supporting armor of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Infantry Division.

Rocket-grenades knocked out three armored personnel carriers in the first minutes of the battle, clearing a path for enemy sappers who raced through and hurled satchel charges at three tanks and 17 other APCs.

The battle lasted two hours and the American armor commander was wounded when his APC was blasted by explosives.

RING OF FIRE

Helicopter gun-ships laid a ring of fire around the embattled troops until a second troop of tanks and APCs arrived. Then the North Vietnamese withdrew.

A later sweep of the battlefield turned up 13 North Vietnamese dead.

U.S. military spokesmen reported today that North Vietnamese troops have built a series of big concrete gun emplacements into mountainsides along the South Vietnam-Laos border to fire on American and South Vietnamese special forces camps and bases.

The guns are mounted on railroad tracks and protected by giant steel doors, the spokesmen said.

ACK-ACK DEFENSE

They added that three such batteries were reported damaged or disabled by recent American air strikes. But the spokesmen said the gun emplacements are defended by antiaircraft fire, making aerial observation and attacks extremely hazardous.

Tornadoes Twist Dixie

By United Press International

At least one person was killed, more than 40 injured and scores driven from broken homes yesterday when tornadoes spun across Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina and North Carolina.

Biggest of the twisters churned through a trailer park near Douglas, Ga., twisting mobile homes like toys and leaving 30 injured, seven seriously.

Mississippi Flooding Parts of Illinois, Iowa

From Our News Wires
After more advance warning than ever before, the Mississippi River flood of 1969 has arrived in Illinois and Iowa.

The river caused new evacuations in the two states yesterday. Rain predicted for tomorrow could further boost the swollen Mouse River at Minot, N.D.

A crest 120 miles long swelled the Red River of the north in Minnesota and North Dakota. The Red, normally a placid stream, had spread from eight to 20 miles wide as it flowed toward Canada. Hundreds of small communities and farm homes were inundated.

At Moline, Ill., most of the 24 families on Campbell's Island in the Mississippi left their homes as the river rose half a foot a day.

DISASTER AREAS

In Iowa, 40 riverfront residents of Marquette were evacuated. National Guardsmen guarded dikes at Dubuque.

President Nixon yesterday declared parts of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota major disaster areas and allocated $1 million to each state for repairing flood damage.

Civil defense and state officials estimated flood waters have caused $31 million damage so far in three Midwestern states.

- $5 million in Minnesota, where 70 families were still homeless.
- 19 million in South Dakota, where 5,000 families were evacuated and 1,000 remain homeless.
- At least $7 million in North Dakota.

WORST HIT

Minot, N.D., was suffering worst from this spring's flooding. The U.S. Geological Survey said yesterday the Mouse River flowed past Minot, N.D., at 3.2 billion gallons a day, the second-highest mark in 65 years — with higher flows expected this weekend, and the crest still a week away.

More than 12,000 of the town's 34,000 residents have left their homes.

Flood stage at Minot is 12 feet. The river was measured today at 20.05 feet. Previous estimates had said it would be 21 feet next Wednesday but rain was forecast tomorrow. Officials said an inch of rain could mean 22 feet.

GM Execs Got $17.7 Million

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. reports it paid a record total of $17.7 million in salaries and supplemental compensation to its officers and directors in 1968, an increase of more than 18 per cent over the previous year.

Highest paid among the executives was GM Board Chairman James M. Roche of 425 Dunston, Bloomfield Hills, who received $794,534. This included a salary of $225,000, cash bonuses of $427,500 and contingent credits worth $142,434. The contingent credits are payments in stock, set at one-third of an executive's bonus payment, which may be taken in installments over five years.

GM said in a proxy statement notifying stockholders of its annual meeting May 23 that salaries alone for the 83 officers and directors totaled a record $4,836,516. Bonuses totaling $9,896,012 were added on to the salaries. And $2,906,572 more was paid via contingent credits.

A week ago, Ford Motor Co. issued its proxy statement, listing payment of $10,009,512 in salaries and supplemental compensation to its 52 directors and officers. It included $4,204,512 in salaries and $5,805,000 in supplemental payments. The top individual payment was given Henry Ford II, board chairman, who received a $200,000 salary and $400,000 supplement.

2ND-PLACE EARNER

Tied for second place among GM's top money earners were Edward N. Cole of 1371 Kirkway, Bloomfield Township, who replaced Roche as president in November 1967, and George Russell, named vice chairman in the same month. Each received $717,490 for the year. This included salaries of $202,500 and bonuses of $386,250, plus the contingent credits.

The GM executives also were granted a total of 101,811 stock options, with Roche receiving the largest number — 5,211.

Fisher Body PR Aide Dies at 59

Donald D. Nimmo, assistant director of public relations for Fisher Body Division, died yesterday. He was 59.

Service will be 11 a.m. Monday at Christ Church, Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills.

HELD TERNESTED POST

Nimmo, 4989 Ranch, Bloomfield Township, was public relations director for General Motors Corp.'s Ternested Division in Warren for six years until the division merged with Fisher Body last year.

After graduating from Yale University, he was vice president and associate editor of the defunct Detroit Saturday Night weekly newspaper and an employee of a real estate firm.

A member of Christ Church Cranbrook, he was a director of the Michigan United Fund.

The family has suggested memorial tributes may be sent to the Michigan Heart Association.

State Okays Expansion of Elm Tests

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The State Agriculture Department has issued a permit to expand the experiment, begun at Cranbrook, which may cure Dutch Elm disease.

The experiment began at Cranbrook last year and was extended to 92 trees on the private 300-acre campus.

Other trees on private property have been treated by the experimenters. Floyd Gaskick, 3559 Brookside, and Dr. B. J. Szappanys, 3325 Burning Bush, both of Bloomfield Township. Gaskick and Szappanys, an allergist, know the disease is a fungus carried by the beetle. The fungus spores grow in the water conducting vessels of the tree, eventually causing a full obstruction.

'DECONGESTANT'

The two men are treating trees with a liquid formula referred to as "a decongestant," which flows from a plastic bottle directly into the tree.

Cranbrook officials have given Gaskick and Szappanys approval to treat as many as possible of the thousands of elms on the Cranbrook grounds.

Gaskick said those trees located around buildings frequented most by visitors will be treated first. Later, work will begin in the woods.

"We want to make it very clear that this experiment is only in its infant stages. We should know more conclusively by August, just how it is progressing."

INQUIRIES POUR IN

Since the original publicity last November, Gaskick and Szappanys have received thousands of inquiries from all over the country.

The experiment's work is based on these points:

- They know they cannot harm a tree in good condition because Gaskick has been pouring the decongestant into a healthy tree on his own for years.

- A general distribution of the formula can be obtained throughout the tree.

- After a month's treatment a positive culture becomes negative.

- Experience has shown that the beetles leave a treated tree.

- The assumption that the beetle does not return for reproduction to a treated tree remains just that only because they have been programming for such a short time. However, branches of trees taken down at Cranbrook show no signs of larvae or beetle activity.

35 Lost in Boat Spill

TEHRAN (AP) — Thirty-five persons are feared drowned after a motorboat capsized off the coast of Kuwait last night, the newspaper Ayandegan reported today. The report said 16 passengers and crew members were rescued.

ON THE MOVE — Floodwaters of the Red River surge across the highway at bottom and spill over farmland near Oslo, Minn., Thursday. The house at upper right is surrounded by the muddy water. Officials on the scene estimate the Red River to be 10 miles wide at Oslo.

16 in Steren Case Get Reprieve

Gamblers Back in County Jail

Sixteen gamblers were back in the Oakland County Jail today after the Michigan Supreme Court granted them a last-minute reprieve that will keep them out of state prison for a while.

The group, which includes three alleged members of the Mafia, had been transported to the state prison at Jackson by sheriff's deputies yesterday only to be turned away at the gate.

Prison authorities had been informed while the group was en route that the high court had granted a stay of proceedings sought by their attorney, Carlton Roeser of Pontiac. All had been free on bond for nearly four years until last month, when Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem canceled their bonds after the Michigan Court of Appeals up held their convictions.

STEREN CLUB RAID

All but one of the defendants had been convicted of gambling charges in August 1965 in connection with the operation of the Steren Assembly Club in Madison Heights.

The other, Angelo (Barrels) Lombardi, had been found guilty in June 1966 of bribing a Pontiac police officer who was working undercover to smash a gambling operation at the Seaway Civic and Social Club in Pontiac.

Lombardi, 42, of Detroit, and two men convicted in the Steren case, Eddie Guarella, 52, of Las Vegas, and Joseph Brooklier, 56, of Mount Clemens, had been linked to the Detroit-area Mafia in testimony before a U.S. Senate subcommittee.

Wednesday night, members of the Steren group and Lombardi voluntarily surrendered to authorities at the Oakland County Jail in compliance with Judge Ziem's order.

NO REPLY BY DEADLINE

Ziem had given Roeser 20 days to file a motion appealing the circuit court order. When no reply was received from the Supreme Court by the Wednesday deadline, Roeser had his clients turn themselves in at the jail.

Though granting a stay of proceedings, the Supreme Court refused Roeser's request to reinstate the bonds so that the defendants could be released while the cases are still pending.

The gamblers will stay in the custody of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department until the supreme court decides if it will accept Roeser's application to appeal.

How long that will take is not certain, though the supreme court has informed Assistant County Prosecutor Dennis Donohue, the county's chief appellate expert, that he has until April 28 to file an answer on why the cases should not be accepted.

'NOT THEIR VICTORY'

Donohue said that as far as he's concerned the high court order wasn't a victory for the gamblers since their bonds were denied and will have to remain in jail, if not prison.

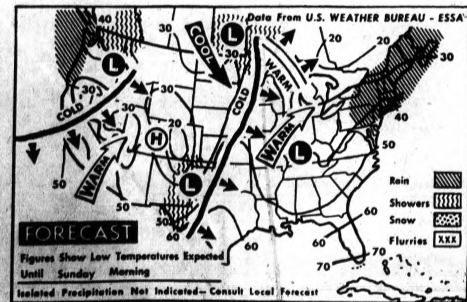

In addition to the 16 men who were to begin prison sentences ranging from 1 to 5 years, three others in the Steren case are serving 90-day sentences in the county jail.

Tentative County Budget OK'd in Scrap

Richardson, R-Waterford Township, a member of the committee, and cosigned by Paul Kasper, R-Bloomfield Township. Olson is a Democrat.

The tentative budget, which goes before the County Allocation Board Monday for a determination of the county's tax levy, includes $14 million for salaries. The budget allows for 115 new positions, most of them in areas of law enforcement, courts, child care and health. It includes $873,000 for future salary increases, not yet specified.

The budget resolution indicated the "feasibility" of containing building authority payments within the 15-mill limit. The sum of $1,067,500 is so designated. It also provided for a five-year continuing construction program to be funded in 1970 by $2 million in non-tax revenues.

It allocated a $400,000 appropriation to the County Road Commission to be used in a matching fund program which it said will make an additional $1 million available for road improvements.

SIGNIFICANT INCREASES

An additional $116,000 is included for mental health programs over the $1.4 million appropriated this year. Other areas reflecting significant increases are for the office of medical examiner, $180,000; $230,000 for drainage programs compared to $16,000 this year; and $225,000 for retirement programs versus $60,000 this year.

The county home-rule issue was brought up by Board Vice Chairman Alexander Perinoff, D-Southfield, who asked that it be referred to the legislative committee for the purpose of setting an election date for a vote of the people.

Perinoff's motion passed on voice vote with no debate.

The hassle over the Oakland-Orion Airport began when Olson presented a "watered-down version" of a previous motion. The ensuing debate then prompted Olson to fling charges of "politicizing" and he withdrew the motion and introduced his original proposal, which called for outright sale of the 425 acres of county-owned Oakland-Orion Airport property.

Reverse charges of "politics" angered Olson and he charged the airport had been "conceived in secrecy by private capital." Delos Hamlin, R-Farmington, who was chairman of the old board of supervisors which conceived the plan, refuted the charge.

Questions as to Olson's impartiality in the airport issue were raised when Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights, attempted to have the review conducted by the local affairs committee. He noted that Olson serves on the aviation and transportation committee. Walker's attempted amendment was ruled out of order.

Olson came under fire again when Richardson discussed the recent ABM hearing. Richardson charged Olson had not received board approval for the hearing; that he alone had made up the agenda.

Richardson said the hearing was "not in keeping with the dignity of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors and degrading to the people of Oakland County."

Supervisors also aired some debate on a resolution to support Gov. William Milliken's plan for the division of $100 million in recreational funds. The resolution passed, however, in a voice vote.

Doll May Be Slayings Clue

From Our News Wires
Was an abandoned girl doll, nude except for a torn blouse, just a sick joke or a clue to murder?

That question left police in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area puzzled today, as they sifted through "tips coming out our ears" in the search for a killer or killers who have slain five girls, aged 13 to 22, in the past 20 months.

Reward funds climbed to $19,000 as authorities attempted to trace the origin of the doll found yesterday hanging face down from a barbed wire fence in the same, general area where the bodies were found.

Undersheriff Harold J. Owings Jr. of Washtenaw County said the doll was discovered "too close to the murder scenes to be written off" and may have been "more than a sick joke."

STABBED, CHOKED

The most recent — and youngest — victim, Dawn Basom of Ypsilanti was found on a gravel road Wednesday. Most of her clothing was missing except for a torn brassiere. She had been stabbed repeatedly on the chest and stomach and an electric cord was knotted around her neck.

Three of the other four victims were similarly attacked and left nearly nude in the wooded area between Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. The fourth was found fully clothed and shot to death, though she, too, had been choked.

Police said Dawn was lured or forced into someone's car then killed at an abandoned farm. They were speculating that other murders may have been committed there, and that perhaps four of the girls were killed by the same person or persons.

A SICK JOKE? — This doll found "snagged on a barbed wire fence near the scenes of five Ypsilanti area murders is being checked by detectives, who are calling the doll "significant" to the murder probe.

Easy to Build, Too!

Cedar Closet Does Two Jobs

A two-prong home problem can have a single solution.

If you need a cedar closet to protect out-of-season woollens from moths and larvae and if your basement needs a room divider, you can have both simply by building the unit as a floor-to-ceiling space partition.

Size of the installation depends on the space required for a passageway past the divider-cedar closet, size of the room and family needs. The closet can range from small to extensive, as modules may be added quite readily.

By constructing a double closet—one that opens on both sides—you'll not only increase storage facilities by 100 per cent but make it easier to "file" the garments by categories such as "his," "hers," "adults" and "children."

THREE TYPES STORAGE

Such a closet, offers three types of storage: Hanging, deep shelves and shallow shelves providing the right kind of space for virtually any type of woollens and other off-season garments and bedding.

The dual-purpose closet is essentially a tight box with partitions.

As a foundation, 2 x 4s were laid flat over small hardwood blocks to allow for drainage in case of flooding. Built of 3/4" exterior plywood, recommended for damp basement installations, the closet is finished throughout with aromatic red cedar lining, including floors and ceiling.

CEDAR CLOSET—This handsome cedar closet solves a familiar problem. It has ample room for protective storage of off-season woollens, and it serves as a room divider to screen the basement laundry area. Fully lined with aromatic red cedar wood, including floors, doors and ceiling, the spacious closet offers protection against moths and larvae for both shelf and hanging storage items. It is built of 3/4" exterior plywood.

Even the door interiors were lined with aromatic red cedar, because the more cedar, the better protection against moths and their larvae. On the walls, cedar pieces were applied horizontally, staggering the joints for best appearance.

For contrast, cedar was applied vertically on the hollow-omit any finish on the lining, otherwise you will seal in the fumes which are pleasant to human beings but abhorrent to moths and their larvae.

Exterior of the closet, in this case, was painted colorfully. Adjoining doors were orange and lime green, with single doors and all other exterior lemon yellow. Knobs were set 6" from edges in door centers.

New closet, which shields laundry facilities, provides a separate storage area for off-season clothing and woollens, plus spare space for other items.

GARDEN TIP—Where lawn doesn't grow well around tree's trunk, replace grass with ground cover, add a seating bench of Douglas fir 2x4s, and path or border of crushed rock contained by treated 2x4s sunk into ground.

Away With Town Dump

A new method of disposing of rubbish is not only expected to take a big step toward ridding residential area of that long-time eyesore—the neighborhood dump—but also to increase land values.

Industrial Resources of America, Inc. (IRA)—a leader in a fast-growing new industry, is now licensing its solid (non-garbage) waste handling concept, with licensees either leasing or buying the company's equipment.

Unlike sewage disposal, solid waste solutions have been virtually non-existent. Today, however, some 20 firms are selling refuse handling equipment.

IRA has developed a complete rubbish removal service package involving: collecting trash via "tilt carts" at points of refuse generation in a plant, unloading it into compactors where hydraulic rams cram it into containers, salvage separating it and then shredding the residue in grinders preparatory to hauling to disposal sites.

And what does trash disposal have to do with real estate values?

Work Surfaces Need Built-In Resistance

Sometimes success gets out of hand. A product comes to be so well thought of that users automatically expect too much of it.

For instance, some people polish the finish right off their shiny new automobiles.

Decorative laminated plastic
for counters, cabinets, furniture and walls is so well thought of, it too takes a beating, says the Decorative Laminate Section of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association.

Laminated plastic is one of the most attractive and wear resistant materials available for surfacing kitchen and bathroom counters, for finishes of fine furniture and for wall panels.

All that it takes to clean it is to wipe it with a damp cloth, any of the generally available dishwashing soaps or detergents, and a light hand.

This high-pressure laminate has an extremely dense surface that is highly resistant to dirt and stain, and impervious to moisture.

Decorative laminated plastic is scuff and scratch resistant, but cooks should use a cutting board when slicing or mincing.
The board will also protect the sharp edges of your cutlery.

Modern technology has developed a decorative, versatile material that resists cigarette burns — but for a limited period of time. Nicotine stains, however, can be removed with a mild abrasive or a light soap.

Decorative laminated plastic withstands heat, too, but please protect it from sizzling hot pots.
It's hard to find another beautiful surfacing material that will stand up to heat, water and stains like high-pressure decorative laminated plastic.

Use it, enjoy it, but give it the loving care it deserves.

Natural Wood for Casual Living

Don't stain or paint wood pearance, let the wood weather naturally.

It Douglas fir decking is faster and more evenly.

and black locust are the heaviest American hardwoods.

Kicks Ousted by 'Old Men'

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics, written off as tired old men just a short time ago, are back in familiar surroundings — the title round of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Acting like the old pros they are, the Celtics won the Eastern Division playoff for the 12th time in 13 years in the best-of-seven final. Now Boston will mark time on for a 106-105 victory over the New York Knicks Friday night in steamy Boston Garden.

The Celtics, who have won the NBA championship 10 times since Player-Coach Bill Russell entered the league and became a defensive genius 13 years ago, managed only one victory in seven starts against New York during the regular season.

Boston finished fourth in the East and

MARKING TIME

After finishing off Philadelphia in the Eastern semifinals, the Celtics whipped the mighty Knicks 4-2 in the best-of-seven final. Now Boston will mark time while Los Angeles battles Atlanta in the Western Division.

Los Angeles can wrap up the series in the fifth game Sunday.

"I'm glad that's over," Russell said wearily after playing his usual 48 minutes in the final against New York. "The Knicks were tough, a real good team. We had to go all out."

Russell scored 12 points, grabbed 21 rebounds, blocked a half dozen shots and set up teammates for baskets although he had to play cautiously after picking up his fifth foul at the three-minute mark of the fourth period.

"I had to let Mike Riordan drive as I couldn't take a chance on getting a sixth foul," Russell said. "It makes it a tougher game. If I had just three or four fouls, I could try to stop him. And if I stopped him once, he wouldn't come back."

Riordan, an unburied reserve, helped bring the Knicks back from a nine-point deficit midway through the final and finished with 15 points.

Sam Jones, humiliated by being held to just 12 points by New York in two previous games, was the key man in nailing down the victory. The 36-year-old veteran, retiring after this season, scored 29 points, the last a crucial free throw with three seconds left.

HARD WORK

"Anytime you end a series with a win you feel great," Jones said as he took the victory in stride with the rest of the Celtics. "Does this give me any extra pleasure at the end of my career? I stopped getting pleasure out of playing basketball when I joined the Celtics. It's been a lot of hard work."

New York Coach Red Holzman congratulated Russell and shook each Boston player's hand in a visit to the Celtics' dressing room.

Bruins to Suit Up Another Rookie for Tilt With Montreal

BOSTON — The Boston Bruins will have another rookie in uniform when they try to even their National Hockey League East Division final playoff series with Montreal here Sunday.

Garnet Bailey, 20-year-old forward who was impressive in brief trials with the Bruins during the regular season, was added to the squad Friday for the fourth game of the best-of-seven series.

The Bruins added Bailey after X-rays disclosed that winger Wayne Cashman suffered a broken bone in his left hand in Boston's 5-0 victory Thursday night and will be lost for the remainder of the playoffs.

"We'll use Bailey, Glen Sather and Eddie Shack in the left wing spot with Derek Sanderson and Eddie Westfall," Coach Harry Sinden said.

After losing two games in overtime in Montreal, the Bruins overpowered the Canadiens in the first meeting in Boston. Now they're confident of continuing their assault in the fourth game.

Except for the addition of Bailey, Sinden plans to keep his lineup intact for Sunday's game.

SAFE ON BOSTON BOBBLE — Baseman Duke Sims (9) begins his slide into second base Friday afternoon at Boston while Red Sox shortstop Dick Schofield peeks at the baseball between his feet after he failed to catch a wild toss from teammate Ray Culp. The play began with the Indians' Chuck Linton bouncing back to the mound. Despite the misplay, Boston pounded out a 10-7 victory.

'COVERING' HIS MAN — New York's Dick Barnett (12) goes a bit too far in defending Boston Celtic guard Larry Siegfried Friday night during the fourth quarter. Siegfried reversed directions while dribbling and Barnett failed to change quickly enough. The host Celtics ousted the Knickerbockers from the playoffs, 106-105.

Wins Welterweight Crown

Wait Ends Happily for Boxer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cuban refugee Jose Napoles waited five years for his last winter.

Cokes collected $80,000 and Napoles $20,000.

A top lightweight contender before he grew into a welter, Napoles now has a record of 53-4 including 38 knockouts.

For Cokes, trying to defend the title a sixth time, it was his 10th loss against 55 victories.

"He was strong and intelligent and I knew he wanted to fight me coming off the ropes, but I wouldn't let him," ex-drawn by bantams Lionel Rose of Australia and Chucho Castillo of Mexico last winter.

The Cuban boxer, who had been on the ropes repeatedly during the latter stages, but never could put him down.

At the end, referee George Latka had scored the bout 11-1 as did judge Joe Olmos. Judge John Thoms had it 10-2 under the California system of awarding from one to five points to the winner of a round.

Golf Tournament Leaders Agree on Eventual Winner

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino and masters titleholder George Archer, tied for the second round lead in golf's $150,000 tournament of champions, pick the same man to win it — Lee Trevino.

"You have to pick Trevino," the gangling, 6-foot-4 Archer. "He's the best driver on the tour. He says he only leaves the fairway to go to the phone. That's about right."

"And that's what you have to do to win on this course, stay in the fairway. The rough is really rough."

"If my driver stays like it was today," Trevino said Friday after shooting a second round 68, four under par. "I'd say I like my chances very much."

"You've got to keep it in the fairway to win and I can hit it as straight as anyone else."

Trevino, seven shots back going into the second round, and Archer, who has a pair of 71s, are tied at 142 going into today's third round on the 7,114 yard, par-72 La Costa Country Club course.

Just one shot back at 143 are Gene Littler, who had a second round 68, South African Gary Player, 46-year-old Julius Boros, the PGA champion, and dynamic Arnold Palmer.

Player, Boros and Palmer all had second round 74s.

U. of M., Spartan 9s Play 2 in E. Lansing

EAST LANSING (AP) — Heavy rains forced postponement of a Michigan-Michigan State baseball game scheduled in East Lansing Friday and led to a switch in locations for a meeting today between the teams.

MSU officials said a Spartan-U. of M. doubleheader would be played at East Lansing today.

Rain made the U. of M. field unplayable, officials said, so the second game, set for Ann Arbor, was changed to East Lansing.

Boston's Hawk Overcomes Hex

BOSTON (AP) — Ken Harrelson, the Boston Red Sox' colorful slugger, figures he's up against the April curse once again, but he's doing his best to bury the annual hex once and for all.

"I always have a bad April," Harrelson said Friday. "I don't know what it is. Maybe it's a mental thing, but I'll be glad when the month is over."

Harrelson, who hit 35 homers and led the American League with 109 RBIs last year, broke out of a slump with his second and third home runs in a 10-7 victory over Cleveland.

His first homer against Cleveland's Luis Tiant was a mighty two-run blast tying the score 4-4 in the fifth inning. The ball cleared the 37-foot screen extension atop the 23-foot wall in left center.

"That's as hard as I can hit a baseball—and as far as I can hit one," the Hawk said.

TIANT SHELLED

Harrelson capped a five-run sixth with a homer on a high drive into the screen, sending Tiant to the showers with his third straight defeat of the young season.

In the last two years with the Red Sox, Harrelson has four hits in 18 times at bat against Tiant, a 21-game winner with a 1.69 ERA in 1968. All four hits have been homers.

"I've hit eight homers off him during our major league careers, though," Harrelson said. "And I bet he's struck me out 50 times. He was struggling out there today. He didn't have his good stuff."

When he's right, I think he's the best pitcher in the league."

Harrelson's homers lifted his average to .217 and his RBI output to eight in 10 games.

"I've been hitting the ball real good, but haven't been getting many hits," he said.

MOD ATTIRE

The Hawk, whose witty repartee matches his way out mod attire off the field, was all business in discussing his hitting. He admitted that he spent "a long, long time" in the practice batting cage after the game against Baltimore Thursday.

"I really hit a lot of balls—look at these liners," he said in displaying marked palms. "I don't know if it really helped, though. Batting Coach Bobby Doerr told me not to worry—that I was swinging the bat good and not to change. He said the hits would come—and he was right, as usual."

Norm Cash Has 'Salary Swing' Going Already

NEW YORK (UPI) — Norm Cash is starting his "salary drive" early. A half-season early.

Usually the Detroit Tigers' slugging first baseman has a negative batting average for the first half of the baseball year because he gets off to such a slow start.

Then Cash generally winds up around the .280 mark by hitting something like .799 for the portion of play after the All Star game.

Last season was typical. Cash began slowly then tailed off. He went something like "Zero-for-April" and was hitting a lousy .195 as late as July 27.

The left-hander wound up at .263 by going 67-for-201, a .333 pace with a dozen home runs and 33 runs batted in for 54 second-half games.

The 1961 batting champion (.361) was famed for foisting off pay cuts with stirring finishes.

NOT SURPRISING

But now Cash is hitting .301 on 9-for-23 with one home run and five runs batted in for his best start in memory. And the surprising thing about it is that it's not really surprising.

"I said in Florida he might hit .320 this year," commented Tigers' hitting and first base coach Hal Moses in Cleveland this week. "He just might do it. He knows what he's doing right."

What Cash is doing right you can tell on television by watching what field he hits to on outside pitches. Right. He goes to left.

WIDER STANCE

Cash, who helps keep this team loose with his quick and sometimes biting tongue, opened up his stance last summer brought his lead foot closer to first base and began spraying the ball all over the park.

This season in spring training he started off by doing the same thing. In the stretch between his batting title and last year, Cash would invariably pull a Ted Williams — i.e., try to pull everything to right even if there were nine fielders on that side of the diamond.

Orioles' Phoebus Blanks Senators With Four-Hitter

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's difficult to believe, but Baltimore's Tom Phoebus, with a straight face, says he wouldn't want to face the Washington Senators each time he went out to pitch.

"They're a tough team," Phoebus said after shutting out the Senators 6-0 Friday night for the second time this season. "Everything's been going good for me, I guess."

Good is hardly the word when Phoebus, 1967 Rookie of the Year, faces the Senators.

Phoebus allowed only four hits Friday night, but that's twice as many as the Senators were able to nick, the righthander for last Sunday.

Phoebus says, however, it's much easier to pitch when your team gets you runs. And he runs Baltimore has.

FOUR MORE

The rampaging Orioles slugged four more home runs. They have hit 16 homers in winning seven of their last eight games.

Paul Blair hit two while Frank Robinson and Elrod Hendricks had one each. Blair, with his third and fourth homers of the year, has hit safely in 10 straight games and is 19 for 45 since he was blanked in five attempts in the season opener.

APOLLOS' CHIEF — Chuck Apollos, 52, has been named to coach the new Tri-City Apollos of the Continental Football League. The chief scout for the Chicago Bears, Apollos will command a salary in excess of $20,000 a year for three seasons. The Apollos are the former Michigan Arrows entry in the CFL.

Skinny Rookie Not Poor Risk for Minnesota

ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Twins hesitantly signed Tom Hall to a pro contract in 1966. They're glad now they took a chance on him.

The 21-year-old rookie left-hander, backed by 10 singles, pitched a 6-0 shutout over California Friday in Minnesota's home opener before 22,857.

"We were a little hesitant in signing him because of his size," said George Brophy, a Twins farm director. "We waited six to nine months before we signed him. We felt maybe he wasn't an attractive pitcher because of his size."

Hall, 6-foot-0, weighs between 142 and 148 pounds, depending on who you ask. Manager Billy Martin put his weight at 142 pounds. Hall fits it at 148 and the Twins statistical sheet listed him at 144.

There was one report Hall refuses to weigh himself publicly.

GETTING TIRED

"He ballooned up to 146 this spring," said Martin after Hall gave the Twins their fourth straight victory. "He was tiring toward the end but he did a great job."

Hall struck out six, walked four and had two wild pitches but stretched his scoreless innings to 16 straight, which include seven innings in relief against the Angels last week. Hall has allowed one unearned run in 21½ innings.

Jim Fregosi's triple in the first and Lou Johnson's single in the seventh were the only hits for the Angels.

Alert fielding preserved Hall's shutout while the Twins took advantage of three Angel errors to help score some runs for him.

The Twins staked Hall to the only runs he needed in the fourth when Harmon Killebrew and Dale Allison drew walks off loser Rudy May. Leo Cardenas and Frank Quilici hit singles to score Killebrew and Allison.

10 Area Gymnasts in Final Round of State Amateur

Ten members of the Aeronauts Club from the Bloomfield Hills Recreation Department qualified for the Michigan Amateur Gymnastics finals today at Jenson Fieldhouse in East Lansing.

They earned their berths with strong performances last Saturday at the state's eastern regional championships at Saginaw and Ann Arbor.

As a team the Aeronauts placed second in the junior eliminations, third in the senior division and sixth among the preps. They are coached by Steve Whitlock, Al Sanders and Mrs. Oscar Kastner.

The qualifiers include Kerstin Vikstrom, Sandy and Debbie Kastner, Sue Britt, Leslie and Linda Speer, Sara Capps, Terri Ransier, Kathy Gipper, and Mark Cavin.

In the regional competition, Sandy Kastner of Rochester earned a first in junior tumbling and seconds in trampoline and floor exercise. Her sister Debbie was the runner-up in juniors' balance beam work, and on the uneven bars.

Rain Delay May Haunt Azalea Open Officials

WILMINGTON, N.C. — The Azalea Open golf tournament officials had six playoffs in 11 years and officials are hoping No. 7 doesn't come up Sunday.

As a result of Friday's rainout, the second round of the $35,000 tournament was set back to today and a 36-hole windup was scheduled for Sunday to make up the lost day.

To get the low 70s scorers and ties after today's play around the 6,575-yard Cape Fear Country Club course twice Sunday requires a 7 a.m. start from the first and 10th tees.

If a playoff is needed to determine the winner of the $5,000 top prize, darkness could be a problem.
