U.S., Hanoi Issue Peace Challenges

PARIS (AP)—The United States and North Vietnam challenged each other today to take new steps to scale down the war in Southeast Asia.

Both pledged serious efforts to find some basis for a peaceful settlement.

★ ★ ★

Ambassador Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam, who spoke first at the opening round of substantive talks, called on the United States to end the rest of the bombing and "all other acts of war" against his country, but did so in words softer than expected. He made no threat of breaking off the talks if the demand is not quickly granted.

See Related Story, Page A-5

President Johnson's spokesman, Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, asked for some sign of military restraint by North Vietnam that would meet the President's request for a de-escalation response to his March 31 ban of part of the bombing.

What actually has happened, Harriman charged, is that North Vietnam has moved "substantial and increasing numbers of troops and supplies from the North to the South."

Thuy made the opening statement, a U.S. spokesman said, after Harriman suggested that he lead off. It was Harriman's second initiative in courtesy.

When the two delegations assembled in the International Conference Center, Thuy and his group entered the glittering, gray and gold grand salon a few seconds ahead of Harriman.

When the American diplomatic trouble shooter caught sight of the slight, smiling Vietnamese Communist official he quickly turned, walked to him with extended hand and said "Mr. Thuy". Thuy smiled and they shook hands.

A BEGINNING

That was how the talks began after years of violence and long, frustrating months of effort to bring the two governments into direct ambassadorial discussions. After 3 hours and 15 minutes they adjourned to meet again Wednesday.

U.S. officials expected a blast from Thuy and they were not surprised when they got it.

★ ★ ★

He accused the United States of aggression in South Vietnam and said the more it was defeated the more cruelly it responded —increasing attacks and sending in troops. But when he put the often-stated demand that all attacks on North Vietnam must stop before any other subjects can be discussed, he avoided threats and warnings and said his government is "hoping that the problem . . . . will be resolved."

SERIOUS, BUSINESSLIKE

At the same time, he said he and his delegation had "come here with an attitude which is serious and full of good will."

U.S. officials said they found the start, on the whole, serious and businesslike.

Harriman opened his statement by saying the United States rejected many points Thuy had made but that the U.S. statement today would not be a reply, but "an affirmative statement."

Call Musters 20,000 Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 20,000 Army, Air Force and Navy Reservists and National Guardsmen—about half of them Vietnam-bound—answer President Johnson's call to active duty today.

★ ★ ★

How long they stay in uniform will depend at least partly on the course of U.S.-North Vietnamese talks beginning today in Paris. They could be held on active duty for up to two years.

★ ★ ★

The course of the peace talks may also determine whether any more citizen soldiers and sailors will be called up. Pentagon officials said no decision has been reached on any further muster of Reservists.

Acting on Johnson's orders, Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford announced April 11 that about 24,500 reservists were being ordered to active duty. They were given 30 days to arrange their affairs before putting on their uniforms.

10,000 TO VIETNAM

Clifford said about 10,000 of the Reservists and Guardsmen would be sent to Vietnam to provide needed support troops and the rest would help fill out the badly depleted central force of fighting men kept in the United States for possible use worldwide.

Last week, about 1,250 Air Force and Air Guard troops were excused from active service because it was found regular Air Force units could provide the support functions the Reservists had been designated to fill.

This reduced the over-all call-up total to about 23,300. Nearly 20,000 report today. They form some 87 units in 34 states.

Another 3,600 individual Reservists from the Army ready reserve manpower pool will show up for active duty starting June 15, the Pentagon said. These men will fill out the ranks of understrength units called to active duty.

38,000 ACTIVATED

The new call-up brings to more than 38,000 the number of Reservists and Guardsmen ordered to active duty since January.

The first call-up, involving 14,787 Air Reservists, Air Guardsmen and Naval Air Reservists, came Jan. 26, shortly after the North Koreans seized the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo and its crew.

★ ★ ★

That call-up enabled the Air Force to send more regular fighter units to South Korea and provided added strength for U.S.-based tactical air elements drained by the Vietnam war.

One squadron of Air National Guardsmen ordered to active duty in late January recently arrived in Vietnam for combat duty—the first fighting by a National Guard or reserve unit since the Korean War 15 years ago.

Tent City Started in D.C. for Poor People's Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Poor People's Campaign, officially launched with a Mother's Day march through a riot-ripped Negro slum, now begins erecting the tent city to house some 3,000 demonstrators slowly converging on the city.

The first 450 of the campaign's rank and file reached the nation's capital over the weekend. More are scheduled to arrive by week's end.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., widow of the slain civil rights leader who conceived the campaign as a means of winning more federal help for the poor, led yesterday's march.

★ ★ ★

"These are difficult and crucial days for the way of nonviolence," Mrs. King told a rally at the end of the march.

STARVATION, SUPPRESSION

"I must remind you that starving a child is violence. Suppressing a culture is violence. Neglecting schoolchildren is violence. Punishing a mother and her family is violence.

"Discrimination against a working man is violence. Ghetto housing is violence. Ignoring medical needs is violence. Contempt for poverty is violence."

The demonstration, soaked by rain for most of its duration, went off without incident. Police Lt. E. J. Prete estimated the number of marchers at between 2,000 and 3,500.

Today the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, is to drive a stake into parkland near the Lincoln Memorial and thus signal the start of construction of shelters in what campaign leaders call Resurrection City.

ORDER MAINTAINED

Campaign marshals wearing black armbands with white letters PPC strove with waving arms and blaring bullhorns to maintain order and discipline.

The marchers strolled arm in arm down the middle of the street, singing songs such as "We Shall Overcome."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. King was joined on the speaker's platform by Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, wife of the New York senator.

Fireman Rescues 3 Children

A Pontiac fireman who entered a burning and smoke-filled bedroom to rescue three children early yesterday has been recommended for a special commendation.

★ ★ ★

Fire Chief Charles Marion today credited fire fighter Richard Adams, 32, with saving the lives of the children of Mrs. Barbara Misher in a house fire at 610 Pearsall about 12:30 a.m.

★ ★ ★

Rescued were Leavette, 6; Ronald, 5, and Dwayne, 4.

★ ★ ★

Firemen administered resuscitators to each, who were then taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for treatment for burns and smoke inhalation.

'SAVED LIVES'

Leavette is reported in satisfactory condition. Her brothers were released after treatment yesterday.

Marion said he had no doubt that Adams had saved the lives of the children.

"He entered the room, which was very hot and smoky, and handed two of the children out a window and the third down a flight of stairs," said Marion.

★ ★ ★

"Adams acted without regard for his own life, which was very much in danger," said the chief.

VETERAN OF DEPARTMENT

A nine-year veteran of the department, Adams lives at 949 Emerson.

Fire officials said the cause of the blaze, which started somewhere in the upstairs area of the house, has not been determined.

★ ★ ★

Four vehicles under the command of Capt. Talmadge Shelton responded to the alarm and were at the scene more than two hours.

Damage to the building was estimated at $4,000 and damage to contents was expected to exceed $5,000, officials said.

Spies Defect, Reds Say

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam claimed today that a band of seven "spy commandos" trained by the United States and South Vietnam to help pinpoint bombing targets in North Vietnam have defected to the Communists.

The Vietnam News Agency said the group was parachuted into northwestern Lai Chau Province in late April. The agency said they were instructed to collect intelligence information.

Heavy Fog Slows Morning Traffic

Heavy fog pockets caused consternation this morning as commuters flooded freeways and other main traffic arteries in the rush to get to work and housewives stood beside the washing machines wondering whether to wash or not to wash.

As today's skies cleared, temperatures climbed into the high 60s. Tonight will be cloudy and mild with lows predicted in the 50-to-55 degree range.

Tomorrow should be perfect weather for outdoor enthusiasts planning excursions as sunshine and warm temperatures are predicted.

WINDS TO INCREASE

Wednesday will continue the warming trend with partly cloudy skies.

★ ★ ★

The low mercury reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 50. By 2 p.m. it warmed to 67. Precipitation probabilities in per cent are today and tonight 10 and tomorrow 20.

Rocky Tries to Stop Nixon in West

Leonard Hall, former Republican national chairman, conferred with California Gov. Ronald Reagan—himself a potential nominee—and others of the 11 Republican chief executives at the Western Governors Conference.

★ ★ ★

"Just social calls," said Hall, who roamed through the convention hotel on the beach at Waikiki dressed in a Hawaiian shirt, the uniform of this meeting.

Thirteen state chief executives and the governors of American Samoa and Guam began four days of meetings on such Western problems as resources, transportation, economic development, land managment and water.

ATTRACT ATTENTION

As usual, however, gubernatorial political talks attracted as much attention as the morning and afternoon meetings on state problems.

Between meetings, the governors relaxed on the beach or saw the sights of Honolulu. Reagan spent Sunday afternoon on the beach.

★ ★ ★

Hall told a reporter that he doesn't believe former Vice President Nixon's support is as solid as his supporters claim.

★ ★ ★

While Hall said he didn't specifically urge Western governors to refuse to back Nixon, he said he believed most would "stay loose" until just before the convention, rather than sign up in the Nixon camp.

If enough state delegations stay uncommitted, Nixon would be deprived of victory on the first ballot — the aim of Rockefeller supporters.

NO 'HARD SELL'

Hall said he wasn't using a "hard sell" on the governors, just renewing old friendships.

And he said he would not ask Reagan to join a Rockefeller-Reagan ticket—the so-called "dream ticket" that many of the New Yorker's supporters talk about.

★ ★ ★

Reagan says he will not accept the vice presidential nomination.

The Californian also says he is not campaigning for the presidential nomination.

But speculation that he might enter the race was increased here by a speech he gave at a Republican dinner Saturday night in which he called for a stronger stand in Vietnam and criticized Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and President Johnson.

"Whatever the cost, the United States must honor its pledge to uphold the sovereignty and independence of South Vietnam," said Reagan in a talk that drew a standing ovation from some 9,000 Republicans who paid $100-a-plate to hear him.

Ordinance, Fee Changes to Be Eyed

BIRMINGHAM — Changes in this city's refrigeration and heating ordinance and in building permit fees are scheduled for consideration at the City Commission meeting at 8 tonight.

According to Building Official Harold C. Weber, the amendments to the refrigeration and heating ordinance are based on the model codes of the Reciprocal Refrigeration Council and the Refrigeration Council.

★ ★ ★

Weber's report on the amendments, however, also includes a section which would establish a board of building trades appeals, to be the official body for hearing appeals on permit requirements.

"All of our various code sections relating to building construction and equipment installed therein, have established to some degree a board of appeals." Weber explained.

PROCEDURE LACKING

"However," he continued, "I found that an appeal procedure was lacking in both the electrical and plumbing ordinances. Rather than to constitute separate boards of appeal for building, plumbing, electrical, heating and refrigeration, it was felt that one master appeal board would better serve the situation."

The board would include contractors from each of the building trades as well as an architect and, as an ex officio member, the building official.

★ ★ ★

Weber recommended in the second report that the city's permit fees be increased by an average of 88 per cent.

"A review of the income of this department received from permit fees," he commented, "indicates that this department has to be subsidized by tax monies for its operation."

FEES LOWER

At least 40 per cent of the money for the department, he added, must be appropriated from general tax money.

"A further review of the fees currently being charged by other municipalities in the suburban Detroit area, and also in the City of Detroit, indicated that our fees are substantially lower than any of the other areas," Weber continued.

★ ★ ★

The proposed rate structure, based on an average $40,000 single-family residence, would result in fee increases of 54 per cent for the building permit, 10 per cent for the electric permit, 116 per cent for the plumbing permit, 135 per cent for the heating permit, and 100 per cent for the air conditioning permit.

The proposals came before the commission April 29, but were delayed at City Manager Robert S. Kenning's recommendation, to allow time for notification of building tradesmen.

REPORT ON PAVING PLANS

Also on tonight's agenda is a report from City Engineer William T. Killeen on plans of the Oakland County Road Commission for the paving of Cranbrook Road from Lincoln to 14 Mile.

According to Killeen, the project will include three major grade changes in the street.

In the low section south of Lincoln, plans are for a maximum seven-foot raise in grade. A maximum nine-foot raise is planned for the low area north of 14 Mile, while the grade will be lowered a maximum of six feet south of Northlawn.

The project, Killeen said, will consist of construction of a 24-foot-wide pavement with shoulders and ditches.

The traffic and safety board has returned a report recommending that a request from residents for a stop sign at Abbey and Oxford be denied.

The board cited low traffic volume and the good visibility at the intersection in the recommendation.

Fred M. Crossman, mayor of Sylvan Lake, has filed to run in the Pontiac School District Board of Education election on June 10.

Three candidates have filed so far for one vacancy. The filing deadline is 4 p.m. today.

★ ★ ★

Earlier, Schools Business Manager Vern Schiller had set the deadline for Saturday.

He said the law requires that nominating petitions be received 30 days before the election, not naming a certain day of the week. A period of 30 days would make the deadline Saturday.

DEADLINE EXTENSION

But he said he found out the law requires that the period can't end on Saturday, extending it to the next business day, which is today.

Crossman became mayor last November, succeeding John M. Hanson. Crossman was mayor pro tem.

★ ★ ★

Crossman, 2461 Renfrew, was elected to the city council in 1965, ousting incumbent mayor E. V. Geizer, Crossman's term expires at the end of the year.

Crossman, 47, is vice president and owner of Construction Pipe Co. Inc. in Lincoln Park.

Elected president of the state Jaycees at the convention was Robert Padget of Eastland, a 28-year-old supervisor at Ford Motor Co.

★ ★ ★

VOTE DELAYED

A floor fight over a vice presidency at the Jaycee annual convention in Grand Rapids delayed the presidential election for a time.

★ ★ ★

In the contested spot, Don Hann, 30, of Holland upset former national director Frank Yurcus of St. Joseph. Hann is state legal counsel for the Jaycees.

★ ★ ★

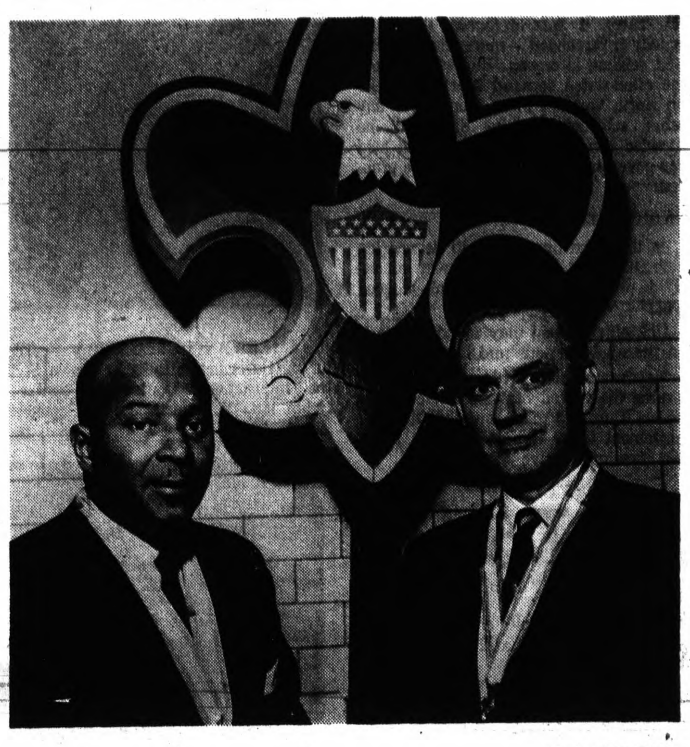

The other vice presidential post went to Don DeMoss, 31, of Swartz Creek, a national director.

The Clarkston Jaycees won a divisional Project of the Year award for a program of recreational therapy for children at Pontiac State Hospital.

Lewis E. Wint, Clarkston funeral director, was awarded a coveted Jaycee senatorship, which is a life-time membership in Jaycees International.

State Republican Delegates to Put Candidates to Test

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan delegates to the Republican National Convention over the weekend considered 185 questions to test GOP presidential candidates on major issues but Gov. Romney will have a lot to say about handing out passing grades.

Many of the questions submitted reflected Romney's views. As favorite-son candidate, he leads the 48-member delegation.

★ ★ ★

Romney has asked the delegates and alternates to remain uncommitted until they have a chance to try the questions on announced contenders — former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Following Saturday's three-hour closed-door meeting, Romney said there "really wasn't any disagreement at all" about the questions on major issues.

'MORE UNIFIED'

"I think if anything the delegation is more unified than in 1964, the delegates cast 40 of 48 first-ballot votes for Romney and fought unsuccessfully for a strong civil rights plank.

The questions dealt with many Romney interest areas, such as "excessive concentration of power," Romney sees such concentration as the cause of the loss of the individuality in society.

On Vietnam, the candidates will be asked what they consider "the alternatives in Vietnam and what do you think is a fair and honorable conclusion in Vietnam for all parties."

Rockefeller will be the first to submit to questioning. The New York governor has agreed to meet with the delegation May 22 while in Detroit for a fund-raising dinner and speech at the Detroit Economic Club.

IN LANSING FOR DINNER

Nixon has arranged to meet with delegates May 27 while in Lansing for a dinner for candidates to the Michigan House.

Romney said a subcommittee will set the order of questions and the design of the meetings. The delegates overruled a committee recommendation and let the candidates see the questions in advance.

★ ★ ★

In other action, the delegates named their representatives to committees at the GOP National Convention.

U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, a delegate at large, and Mrs. Paul Robertson of Franklin were named to the platform committee.

OTHER COMMITTEEMEN

Named to the credentials committee were Mrs. John Riecker of Midland and Peter Fletcher of Ypsilanti.

Appointed to the committee on permanent organization were Mrs. Lavonne Lindroos of Ishpeming and Dwight Vincent of Dearborn Heights.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Irene Logan of River Rouge and George V. Boucher of Grand Rapids were elected to the committee on rules and order of business.

He said he checked with the victim about 6:30 p.m. and found everything in order. However, he said he was unable to find Donoghue or the tractor when he checked again at 9 p.m.

Watkins said after a search he found Donoghue pinned under the vehicle at the bottom of a hill in the north section of the field.

Policeman Keeps Teen Show From 'Bombing Out'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A police sergeant disarmed a time bomb yesterday minutes before it was set to explode in the municipal auditorium where his daughter and 3,500 other teen-agers sat watching a rock-and-roll show.

Sgt. R. Oscar Stone, 50, raced into the auditorium with a group of patrolmen in a search for the bomb which was reported by an anonymous telephone caller.

* * *

Stone and Patrolman Charlie Hayes first spotted the device in a men's rest room off the main lobby and picked it up.

'Someone said it looked like nitro (nitroglycerine)," said Stone, "and I grabbed it and took it outside.

THE BEAT GOES ON

The auditorium was throbbing with the voices and instruments of Paul Revere and the Raiders, who held the teen-agers spellbound. Stone said he was calm. In the front row was his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Margie.

"You don't think about it until it's over," he said. "You sort of act on instinct, and later you get to thinking about it and say 'would I have done it a different way'."

* * *

He said he took the device from Hayes and realized it was not the highly explosive nitroglycerine.

"I saw it was black powder and that I had plenty of time."

10 MINUTES

Plenty of time to Stone meant the 10 minutes between the discovery of the device and the preset time for the explosion.

Stone described the bomb as a half-pint sloe-gin bottle which had been filled with the type of gunpowder used to reload shotgun or pistol shells.

* * *

The guy who built it pretty well knew what he was doing," said Stone, who underwent bomb-disarming training in the Army.

Stone said he was nervous enough to spill some of the powder as he fumbled with the bottle cap. When he lit the powder to burn it harmlessly in the open air, it flashed and singed his shirt, eyebrow and hat brim.

4 MORE BOMBS?

Minutes later, police recieved an additional call that four more bombs were in the building.

"It was intermission and we quietly emptied the audience into the lobby and corridors which had already been searched," he said. "We did not completely evacuate the building at any time because we did not want to panic them."

* * *

That's when Stone's daughter spotted him and asked what he was doing and how he burned his shirt.

"I just told her we had to check something," he said. He added she was never aware of the bomb scare.

Nothing else was found.

Holland Set for Its 39th Tulip Fest

HOLLAND (UPI) — Holland will look more like a Dutch village Wednesday than most Dutch towns look like in the old Netherlands.

The thriving bustling burghers of this community of more than 25,000 are preparing to absorb 10 times that number of people when the 39th annual Holland Tulip Festival is held starting Wednesday.

* * *

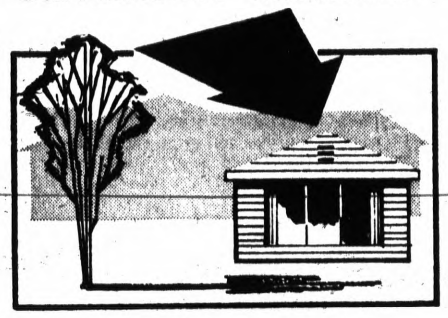

Millions of beautiful tulips, which are cooperating with the festival date and are at their best, are the chief attraction, along with authentic replicas of a Dutch market, museum, Dutch village, a wooden shoe factory, arts exhibits, about 500 Klompen dancers wearing wooden shoes and Dutch costumes, and a windmill that reached Social Security age 135 years ago.

It will be the 39th edition of the famous festival which attracts more than a quarter of a million visitors during the five-day affair, and an estimated 100,000 additional visitors before and after the formal festival.

The festival officially gets under way Wednesday with the street scrubbing by local residents wearing Dutch costumes and wooden shoes. The street scrubbing symbolizes the traditional Dutch trait for cleanliness.

The Festival ends Sunday.

Sheriff's deputies said one of the victims, Joseph R. Fessler, 41, of Dubuque, Iowa, veered over the center line and collided head-on with a pickup truck driven by Floyd A. Bennett, 49, of Eggleston Township, Muskegon County. Bennett was killed, along with his passenger, a nephew, Dale Hoffman, 22, of Port Huron.

$20,000 More Income Than Expected in W. Bloomfield's Tentative Budget

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The 1968-69 tentative budget approved by the Township Board shows $20,000 more revenue than expected earlier.

Submitted to the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board is a balanced budget of $799,000. In the campaign for the March 25 millage election, revenues were anticipated at $779,000 including income from the 1-mill renewal and 2-mill increase, for a total of 3 voted mills.

The unexpected $20,000 is the result of a higher state equalized valuation. Anticipated was about $103 million.

The valuation finalized by the county comes to $109.2 million.

SPLIT BETWEEN DEPARTMENTS

The $20,000 is split between the police and fire departments to provide more men and equipment, Doherty said.

The police budget now comes to $260,000; last year it was $154,363.

The fire department budget is now $165,000 up from $129,150 last year.

Library and roads were also cited as specific needs in the millage campaign.

MATCHING FUNDS

As quoted in early March, township matching funds for road projects will be $38,000, according to the tentative budget. No money was allocated for roads last year.

The library is to tentatively receive $50,000 — a raise of about $4,000 — as projected in the campaign.

While the supervisor received no salary increase, the clerk's and treasurer's salaries were upped $1,000 each for a total of $11,000 each.

Other township employes are slated to receive an estimated average 5 per cent salary increase, said Doherty.

OTHER ALLOCATIONS

The other allocations in the tentative budget are as projected in the millage campaign:

- Supervisor's office, $66,000, up $2,000 from last year.
- Clerk's office, $30,000, up $1,500 from last year.
- Elections, $11,000, up about $7,000 from last year due to the national elections.
- Treasurer's office, $36,000, up about $2,000 from last year.
- General government, $49,000, up about $2,000.
- Building department, $90,000, up about $20,000.

Although still listed as tentative, the budget is effective for the fiscal year April 1 to March 31, 1969.

MOTORCYCLIST KILLED — A 16-year-old, Raymond W. Longueull, was killed when his motorcycle and an auto hit head-on near Flint Friday. State police said the auto had crossed the center line. Longueuil's passenger, Glenn Brimmer, also 16, suffered a fractured leg and cuts in the accident. The auto driver was not injured.

Weekend Traffic Crashes Kill Two Men From Area

Traffic accidents claimed the lives of two area men over the weekend, one each in Macomb and Lapeer counties.

Ferrell D. Puckett, 45, of 2751 Hartline, Avon Township, was dead on arrival at Crittenton Hospital, Rochester, yesterday after his car collided with another in Washington Township, south of Romeo.

★ ★ ★

The driver of the second car, Murray L. Galen, 19, of 288 S. Main, Romeo, and a passenger, Dale Craft, 21, of 196 Dickerson, Romeo, were listed in fair condition today at Crittenton.

State Police from the Romeo post said Puckett was driving south on M53 at 29 Mile when the head-on collision occurred at 1:45 a.m.

SECOND DEATH

In Lapeer County, Raymond Jennings, 47, of 9787 N. Lake, Otter Lake, died Saturday when a truck he was driving overturned on Lake Road in Marathon Township.

members will be present to give financial details of the millage request.

A spokesman from the Lapeer County Sheriff's Department said Jennings was rounding a curve when the vehicle apparently went out of control.

★ ★ ★

Deputies said Jennings was thrown from the truck when it hit an embankment and was pinned under it when the vehicle slid sideways and rolled over.

The accident was reported at 4 a.m., police said, but evidently occurred at about 3:30. Jennings was dead on arrival at Lapeer County General Hospital.

Hairdressing Fills Goals of Area Man

By BETTY ANN SCHULTZ

WOLVERINE LAKE — "We may all be bald in several hundred years," surmises Sydney Lewis, 828 Los Arboles, who soon may become an "Olympic" hairdresser.

He recently won entrance into a seven-member group from which five members will be selected for the U.S. Olympic Hairdressing Team.

★ ★ ★

The competition is sponsored by an international hairdressers' association and has no relation to the athletic olympics.

Lewis' prediction, he explained, is based on the belief that hair serves no purpose. Nevertheless, he has no worries about being put out of business.

SUMMER WORKSHOPS

Lewis competes in workshops in June and July which will narrow the field to five. The winners will go to Vienna, Austria, for the international contest in September.

Since the qualifying contest last weekend, Lewis has been back at his shop, Lewane's Coiffures at 726 N. Woodward, Birmingham.

★ ★ ★

Hairdressing, Lewis says, isn't much apart from pottery or woodworking. It's all working with your hands, an ambition he says he had always held.

Lewis' styling is done with definite, quick hand movements.

ATHLETIC BUILD

While creating a "do" he can be seen with a can of hair spray under his arm, hair pins sticking out of his mouth and a brush in his hand. The 25-year-old's athletic build is noticeable as he quickly circles his customer's chair, touching up all angles of a hair style.

Lewis is found in these postures 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. during working hours and an additional four hours daily for competition practice.

★ ★ ★

But the pace isn't new for Lewis who played varsity sports, worked on a farm and had a stock-boy job while attending high school in Milford.

His spare time recently has been spent swinging a golf club, and panelling and laying tile in the basement of his home where he lives with his wife, Patricia, his three-year-old daughter and two-year-old son.

MEN ARE BEST

"It's an old tale that hairdressing is just a woman's field," asserts Lewis. He adds that men make the best hairdressers mainly because hairdressing is their life's work.

The seven-member olympic qualifying team includes three women.

★ ★ ★

Lewis, who has captured about 35 trophies in the past two and a half years, doesn't consider himself young to be in the top circles already. Most of the award winning hairdressers are in their mid-twenties, he said.

Hairdressing, which he entered five years ago at the urging of a friend, fulfills several ambitions for Lewis.

OWN BUSINESS

One of his ambitions was to own a business without having to go to college six or eight years. He owns Lewane's Coiffures along with two other men.

Lewis also likes the idea that he can create something in several hours. "It's challenging to see how many different kinds of things you can do with hair," he says with a youthful enthusiasm.

Of course, women do add appeal to the field, he admits with a smile. Lewis concedes that getting along with women presents one of the toughest problems of the job.

He insists that "without well done hair, a woman isn't beautiful."

TIME FOR PRACTICE

Another challenge is finding enough time to practice for the contests, he says seriously.

Lewis fears, though, that he may become tired of contests or that ideas may run out.

For now, he assures, "I never get tired of doing hair."

Following Public Hearing

New Budget Approved in Novi

NOVI — This village's operating budget to go into effect July 1 has been approved unanimously by the Village Council.

The vote followed a public hearing, said Village Manager Harold Ackley.

★ ★ ★

The only change from the proposed budget is the specific allocation of $8,000 for a six per cent salary increase for all village employes, Ackley said. The amount was originally labeled as the salary contingency fund.

★ ★ ★

Expenditures and revenues are set at $316,700 which is up $39,200 from 1967-68.

PROPERTY TAXES

Part of the revenue increase is due to $12,000 more this year in property taxes.

Items receiving major increases in allotments include the fire department ($4,700 more for a total of $17,700), and police department ($9,000 more for a total of $101,950). Roads expenditures will total, $25,000.

Not yet approved, however, is the proposed $74,000 water department budget.

Harriman, Viet Counterpart Vastly Different

PARIS (AP) — The two leaders of the Vietnam conference, W. Averell Harriman and Xuan Thuy, are as different as the worlds they represent.

Harriman, tall, lean and elegant, is a product of enormous American wealth — equipped with a top-drawer education, trained to the social graces, an expert bridge player and in his youth an accomplished sportsman.

His world has been Yale and Hobe Sound, the drawing rooms of New York and Washington, the polo fields of Long Island, the embassies and high government offices of half a dozen world capitals.

★ ★ ★

The son of railroad tycoon E.H. Harriman, who controlled the Union Pacific, Harriman has used the benefits of personal affluence for public service.

Since before World War II he has devoted himself to government. During the war he was ambassador to Moscow and afterward to London. He was with President Franklin D. Roosevelt at all but one of the major wartime conferences.

During President Harry S. Truman's administration he served as secretary of commerce and during the 1950's, before he became governor of his native New York state, he made two unsuccessful tries for the Democratic presidential nomination.

★ ★ ★

Harriman was not especially happy as governor. Aides said his real interest lay in international affairs. In 1958 another multimillionaire — Republican Nelson Rockefeller — defeated him for the statehouse job.

In 1961-62 Harriman headed the U.S. delegation to the Geneva conference on Laos and helped achieve the nuclear test-ban treaty with the Soviet Union and Britain in 1963.

COOL NEGOTIATOR

Now 76, Harriman is hard of hearing but extremely vigorous and rated one of the coolest negotiators in the diplomatic world.

Diplomatic finess is about the only thing Harriman and his Vietnamese counterpart have in common. Physically, the diminutive, moon-faced Xuan Thuy is dwarfed by Harriman's six-foot frame.

★ ★ ★

Xuan Thuy in his 55 years has been a revolutionist, a prisoner of the French, a journalist and a handyman for Ho Chi Minh.

Born on the outskirts of Hanoi, Xuan Thuy became an activist almost in his childhood, agitating first against French colonial rule in Indochina.

3 PRISON TERMS

At the age of 18 he was packed off by the French to a grim prison island in the South China Sea. He later served two more prison terms, including a stretch for six years.

In between he wrote for the Vietnamese nationalists and then edited the organ of the Viet minh movement that fought the French.

All the while he was rising in the North Vietnamese Communist party. During the 1961-62 Geneva conference on Laos he was second man in the delegation that faced the American representatives led by Harriman. These two men, from different cultures and ends of the world, came to Paris already having each other's measure.

After Geneva, Xuan Thuy was rewarded with Hanoi's Foreign Ministry but was replaced in 1965. The official explanation was reasons of health.

Support Sought for Students

Strike Begins in France

PARIS (AP) — French workers, students, teachers and opposition politicians demonstrated against the government today in the first nationwide general strike of President Charles de Gaulle's 10-year rule.

Observance of the 24-hour strike order from the nation's four major trade union federations appeared at the outset to be spotty and far from total.

★ ★ ★

It was expected to build up, however, as demonstrators assembled for parades through the heart of Paris and other big cities throughout the country.

The strike was called in support of students at the University of Paris whose conflict with the government erupted last week in bloody battles with police.

DISMISSALS DEMANDED

The students today charged that police used chlorine gas bombs against them and demanded the dismissal of the minister of the interior and the Paris police prefect. Prof. Francis Khan of the Paris medical faculty said he examined injured students and found signs of chlorine gas burns.

The police denied the charge and said only tear gases were used.

★ ★ ★

The riots, strikes and demonstrations could not have come at a more embarrassing time for De Gaulle with hundreds of foreign newsmen assembled for the opening today of the Vietnam peace talks.

There was no indication, however, that the demonstrators would try to approach the conference hall. And the government made sure that the strike of power plant workers and others would not interfere with the conference.

★ ★ ★

The strike began at one minute past midnight, when the teleprinters of Agence France Presse, the French news agency, stopped. From then on only 10-minute time signals were sent out.

It Seems to Me . . .

Civil Outbreaks and Riots Disrupt Nation's Progress

Much of America stands rather aghast at the civil outbreaks and rioting in a few major universities. Is this another indication of retrogression in the democratic way of life?

How far must we recede before stability and a recognition of necessary leadership again hold sway?

There must be authority.

Otherwise, there's no progress.

★ ★ ★

In any group of consequential size we always see a percentage of malcontents and dissidents. Practically anything suggested by large groups will find a few in honest opposition. That's inevitable. But this Nation wasn't built by allowing these tiny segments to dominate and run roughshod over the vast, overwhelming majority that builds the Country, underwrites proper progress and guides advancement.

★ ★ ★

Inexperience has the right to be heard and understood. These groups can explain their respective causes. But they have no moral or legal right to thrust their ideas down the throat of humanity by sheer physical power. No one has the privilege of overruling properly constituted authority. The greatest nation in the world was founded on our "due processes of law."

★ ★ ★

Where would we be today if riots, rebellion, anarchy and unauthorized physical force had taken precedent? We'd be in the global doghouse, "unwept, unhonored and unsung."

★ ★ ★

College students have as great an obligation to obey the laws as anyone else. When they defy proper authority they bring condemnation and disgrace on inexperienced heads.

Russian newspapers comment in glowing terms on these collegiate manifestations of anarchy. They love it. They hope we're headed downward as these incidents indicate. They cheer every collapse of authority and every sign of national retrogression.

★ ★ ★

Could you picture these campus riots happening in Russia? Death and Siberia would claim the lot pronto. Let's put reason and proper procedures back in the saddle and unitedly fight the battles the whole Nation faces on so many fronts.

Capable Civic Group . . .

Right from its inception, the Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce has been an alive, assertive, constructive group.

It accepts civic responsibilities readily and volunteers to undertake tasks that require work and understanding. Action in approving the open housing ordinance is a current example. These capable young businessmen voted overwhelmingly to support the move.

They could have looked away. But they never duck.

★ ★ ★

The PRESS offers hearty congratulations to this well-run group of tomorrow's top civic and business leaders.

They're well prepared.

Athletic Stadium Dome . . .

Michigan is honestly perplexed and unhappy with the projected costs of a dome over our athletic stadium if, as and when one is built on the Fair Grounds site.

And she should be.

It takes heavy sugar.

★ ★ ★

Yet Wilmington, Delaware, is currently shadowboxing with the idea of a dome over the entire city. This should provoke a world's record "hrrumph" from Major Hoople. Dr. Celina P. Ugarte tells officials that domes can now be extended ten miles.

The device would give Wilmington almost complete control over local weather.

What's next?

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Earl Wilson says Barbra Streisand is one of the best looking gals he has seen. Personally, I wouldn't put her in the first two dozen . . . . . Many privately endowed colleges face some rough financial days (or years) ahead if their students revolt, for generous donors have announced they'll find something more strictly American . . . . . Overheard: "Did you hear about the Western Union office boy who went into the Pentagon building to deliver a telegram and came out a colonel?" . . . . . Exactly 191 entrants paid the original $100 to be eligible for the last Kentucky Derby.

SUE

Personal nomination for one of the attractive young ladies in the area: Sue Matthews . . . . . "Sound of Music" has broken the movie records of all time with a box office gross of $104 million . . . . . Both Bobby Kennedy and McCarthy have taken hasty steps to stop criticism of the fact they have no top level black workers on their personal political staffs . . . . . Sign on the gate of a nudist camp: "Clothed for the Winter." . . . . . Congress is going to hear stentorian demands that they pull the bulk of U.S. troops out of Europe and save the dough.

★ ★ ★

I understand a flock of articles will appear shortly in widespread magazines about Hubert H. Humphrey . . . . . Underground rumors say Mayor Daley of Chicago will go all out for Humphrey in the Presidential battle . . . . . Overheard: "Can you remember when the moon figured in love songs instead of the national budget?" . . . . . I guess it's true that it takes some people an hour to get to work after they reach their desks . . . . . Very vocal Democrats are urging Edward Kennedy or Governor John Connally of Texas as the running mate for H. H. Humphrey . . . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's — Our Jaycees; the J's — Chairman Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee for surrendering meekly on the big cut in Foreign aid.

—HAROLD A. FITZGERALD

He Must Have Something!

David Lawrence Says:

Discontent Rife in U.S. Today

WASHINGTON — If the national elections were held right now, the chances are the Republicans would win by the biggest landslide in their history.

LAWRENCE

Things could change by November, but at present the discontent of the nation — often the prime factor in deciding a presidential contest — is more intense than it has been since 1932, when economic depression swept the country.

The Gallup Poll published over the weekend indicates that citizens are reacting to the failure of the administration to deal decisively with the crime problem and other vital issues.

★ ★ ★

The survey shows that Nixon or Rockefeller, Republicans, could defeat either Humphrey or Kennedy or McCarthy, Democrats. This means that the Democratic party as a whole could be the victim of voter resentment.

The principal reason for the unhappy mood of the electorate is fear. Streets are not safe. People hesitate to go to the movies or visit friends at night.

PASSIVE ATTITUDE

Part of the trouble, of course, has been the passive attitude of the governing authorities toward "marches" and "demonstrations."

The public authorities again and again have refused to enforce these principles and have not punished the offenders.

★ ★ ★

In the city of Washington — where an example of good government presumably should be set — the people are living in a kind of terror. Retail business has been affected adversely. Looting and arson have been committed on a wide scale.

AUTHORITIES BLAMED

Many businessmen's associations have blamed the authorities for neglecting to furnish adequate protection.

What is happening here is not unlike the manifestations of fear in other parts of the country.

★ ★ ★

All this will be reflected in the voting next November unless there is a change for the better.

When a substantial number of the people are against an administration in power, they seem to be inclined to turn to the opposite party without regard to the merits of the candidate.

POLITICAL MEANING

The Congress, too, could find itself with a Republican majority in both houses unless between now and November the Democrats awaken to the political meaning of an era in which campuses are the scenes of riots while other disorders are sweeping the nation, and criminals as well as irresponsible militants — even some with a good education — take advantage of the unrest.

Never before has the Congress been so continuously threatened with acts amounting to an intimidation of the legislative body.

★ ★ ★

The people are beginning to show their disapproval and are demanding policies of firmness.

Bob Considine Says:

Nomination Is Hubert's, Claims Wise Old Dem

NEW YORK — One of the oldest and wisest of the Democrats, who would prefer to stay out of the battle until around convention time, reached for his Coke and opined:

CONSIDINE

"So Bobby won in Indiana. That's what the headline said. 'Bobby Wins, Gets 40 Per Cent.'

★ ★ ★

"But that means 60 per cent of the Democrats of Indiana voted against him, giving their votes to McCarthy and the other fellow. And none of the Republicans voted for him. That means Bobby couldn't carry the state. He won a primary and lost a war.

"It's one thing to win a primary, another to be able to carry a state. That's why Hubert is going to get the nomination, no matter how many primaries Bobby or anybody else wins. He's going to get it on the first ballot, too.

STRONG IN LABOR

"McCarthy will drop out after California or maybe before. His votes won't go to Bobby; they'll go to Hubert. Hubert's got a lot of strength in New York, though the delegation is assumed to be Bobby's.

"He's very strong in labor, as you know, and in the South. He'll be even stronger in the South when he picks Gov. John Connally of Texas as his running mate, as I think he will. Connally is one of the ablest, most courageous and attractive politicians in the country. And he was there when Jack was killed.

★ ★ ★

"A lot of the states said to be 'for' Kennedy and McCarthy really aren't, actually. The delegates are undergoing the same thing that happened just before Roosevelt flew to the convention in 1932. They want to be remembered as being 'with FDR before the convention.' It helps, later. Now it's Hubert.

"Johnson hasn't come out openly for Humphrey publicly because he wants to see him make it on his own steam. It would look better.

★ ★ ★

"Humphrey would like it that way, too. But if necessary, the President will go all the way for Humphrey, if that turns out to be the only way to stop Bobby. I don't think he'll have to."

'Hourly-Rated Employes Carry Heavy Tax Load'

LBJ is pushing for an extra 10 per cent income tax. What is going to happen to the poor factory hourly-rated employes? They carry the tax load now with Federal income tax, State income tax, City income tax, and I suppose it won't be long before we have a county income tax.

★ ★ ★

The UAW-CIO boasts how it fights for lower taxes. Now Mr. Reuther is endorsing the 10 per cent raise in income tax. Let's stick up for our rights. Our Constitution says there will be no taxation without representation. What is happening to our great free United States?

Questions Teaching Negro History in School

With all due respect to the colored people, right is right and wrong is wrong. Why should Negro history be taught in our schools? If that's the case, let's teach history of the Italians, Irish, Jewish, etc. When prayers in school can be stopped for no basic reason, other things are secondary. On one radio show everyone, regardless of color or creed, bows his head and says a prayer. Is there a better way to start the day?

Question and Answer

What will happen to me and others that have businesses when the City passes this new zoning? Will they close us up or what can the City do with us?

SHORTY

REPLY

Mr. Smith of the Planning Department says if you operate a business not allowed under the new zoning, you would become a non-conforming use and continue to operate. However, while you would be allowed to make regular repairs and upkeep, you probably would not be allowed to expand.

Idle Farms

Phoenix Gazette

The Department of Agriculture, always a leading contender in Washington's boondoggle sweepstakes, has teamed up with some state prison systems to score another point toward the championship.

★ ★ ★

Now the federal agency is paying whopping subsidies to keep acreage in farms idle, even though the farms supposedly are maintained to keep convicts busy.

In Arkansas the Cummins State Prison Farm has received $225,000 in subsidies during the past two years, most of the amount for keeping 35 per cent of its cotton acreage fallow.

★ ★ ★

Other prison farms receive similar payments, according to an agriculture spokesman.

Prison Supt. Thomas O. Murton, since fired in a scandal over the questionable burials of convicts' bodies on the farm, allowed in a masterpiece of understatement that prison farm subsides "seem kind of odd in a way."

★ ★ ★

That they do, indeed. The prison systems collecting the subsidies first ask the people to provide tax money to buy and maintain the farms, then make them fork over still more, through the federal tax collector, so that the farms won't be used.

The Agriculture Department contends prison farms are just like any other which indicates the department is confused about either farming or penology.

★ ★ ★

Prison farm is a great deal different from a private farm, and states operating them have no business keeping acres and convicts idle just to cash in on federal largesse.

Moreover, the federal government has no business tempting the state to accept such an absurdity as an idle prison farm by offering the handouts.

News Hoax

Delta Democrat Times

A funny thing happened recently in Yuma, Colorado. The television station located about 60 miles from Yuma in Sterling, Colorado, (KTAS-TV) announced that a million-dollar motor hotel and recreation mecca would be built in Yuma by Swen Laetsi, a Chicago business tycoon.

★ ★ ★

Bewilderment and a rash of humorous incidents welled among Yuma citizens in the wake of the announcement.

The Yuma Pioneer failed to mention the big enterprise in its next issue. People began to suspect a hoax.

★ ★ ★

The Yuma Pioneer finally broke down and confessed. Irritated because KTAS-TV consistently put out Yuma news which the newspaper said was "pirated" from its columns, the Pioneer had "planted" the story about the hotel in a single copy of the newspaper, placed a three-banner headline on it and sent the copy to the television station, a regular subscriber.

★ ★ ★

Obviously, the TV station read the story over the air without checking on its accuracy.

The Pioneer says this is habitual with the station — which does not give credit for its sources but allows the televiewer to believe that the station's news staff did the work.

In this case, the newspaper had the television station dead to rights. All the station had to do to expose the fraud was to call "millionaire Swen Laetsi in Chicago, or check his financial standing.

★ ★ ★

They could have figured out that "Swen Laetsi," spelled backwards, is "I steal news!"

Mining Won't Resume Until 10 Bodies Are Found

AP Wirephoto

RESCUED — Roy McClure and his wife leave Sacred Heart Hospital in Richwood, W. Va., yesterday after his release. McClure was one of 15 miners rescued early Saturday.

HOMINY FALLS, W.Va. (AP) — Mine operators are refusing to send their men back to work in honeycombed Big Sewell Mountain until rescue workers locate the bodies of 10 men believed to have drowned in a flooded coal shaft here, an official said.

There are at least nine active mines in the mountain, owned by Maust Coal Co. and the Imperial Coal Co. Some are operated by subsidiaries of these large companies and others by independent contractors.

★ ★ ★

In addition there is a maze of abandoned mine tunnels—and the mine operators have realized that they too might be tunneling dangerously close to one of these old flooded workings.

Twenty-five men were trapped underground May 6 when a crew of miners working in the Gauley Coal and Coke Co. No. 8 mine—a Maust subsidiary—accidentally broke into a flooded abandoned shaft known as the McKenzie mine, C.E. Richardson, Maust president, said.

PRESUMED DEAD

Fifteen of the men were rescued early Saturday after five days entombment. Ten miners are missing and presumed dead.

"The mine operators say they won't send their boys down until we drain the flooded shaft and recover the 10 bodies," said the official.

"They're mighty worried. They're asking a lot of questions which will probably come out at the board of inquiry,"

Most of the 15 men who were rescued have said that they will continue to work in the mines. "Accidents happen" is the philosophy of the men who work in the Appalachian coal fields.

The 10 missing miners were following a map when they tunneled into the flooded McKenzie mine, Richardson said. The map indicated the McKenzie tunnel was 200 feet away from the Gauley No. 8 shaft.

"There was negligence somewhere," said Frank Davis, mine foreman and one of the rescued men. "Somewhere someone drew a wrong line."

★ ★ ★

Rescue supervisor H. E. Sundstrom said the map was a combination of two maps—one prepared by Maust engineers, then combined with a map of the McKenzie mine, abandoned in 1956.

"Our map was right," he said. "But there's going to be some hell raised about the McKenzie map."

STILL INVESTIGATING

He said mine officials are still trying to find out who drew the McKenzie map.

Sundstrom estimated the flooded mine will be drained and the bodies recovered some time near the end of the week.

The 15 rescued miners, their wives and children attended a Mother's Day luncheon Sunday in the cafeteria of Richwood's Sacred Heart Hospital.

It was also a reunion celebration for Roy McClure, one of the rescued miners, and his two sons who flew here from military bases in Thailand and the Philippines.

★ ★ ★

Mining folk also flocked to churches in the scenic Green Valley area of Nicholas County to pray for the grieving families of the 10 missing men.

BIBAI, Japan (AP) — Police said 13 miners were trapped by a cave-in Sunday at Bibai coal mine on Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island.

Investigators said the cave-in apparently was caused by an earth tremor.

★ ★ ★

Police said efforts to reach the men trapped 1,850 yards from the mine entrance were hampered by a fire that broke out after the cave-in.

Kickbacks Denied by Head of U. S. Firm in S. Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secret Senate report alleging indications of kickbacks to employes of a U.S. construction firm in South Vietnam has been strongly denied by the company's top officer.

Edward A. Shay, president of Pacific Architects Engineers, Inc., said Sunday the report is "distorted, unjustified and unfair."

★ ★ ★

The 75-page document, prepared by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., after a Southeast Asia tour last December, urges broad congressional investigation of U.S. aid programs in Vietnam and of contracts held by two major contractors.

Ribicoff named the firms as RMK-BRJ, a point venture that includes four companies, and Shay's PAE. The report has been filed with the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

NO COMMENT

There was no immediate comment in Saigon from U.S. aid and RMK-BRJ officials. Shay's prepared reply was released by company officials in Los Angeles.

Ribicoff said PAE contracted with the Army in mid-1965 to renovate the Grand Hotel in Nha Trang for use as a headquarters at an initial estimated of $208,423 but the final cost was $996,226.

★ ★ ★

Shay replied: "The original cost estimate involved principally the restoration of a single building, but the U.S. Army later ordered the company to construct an entire complex of buildings."

The Ribicoff report also said PAE purchased materials in Singapore and Hong Kong with funds that were to be used only in South Vietnam and added:

"There were also definite indications that some of the PAE employes were receiving kickbacks for giving the business to certain Singapore firms."

'WRITTEN APPROVAL'

Shay said the Army gave written approval for the Hong Kong and Singapore purchases because the materials were not available in South Vietnam. He said all materials were purchased at the lowest possible cost.

Shay added that the company "has never, at any time, received any kickback from any source."

★ ★ ★

One employe who once allegedly accepted $3,500 in kickbacks was dismissed, Shay said, and the Department of Justice found the company free of wrongdoing.

The Ribicoff report said General Accounting Office auditors found last spring that RMK-BRJ could not account for $120 million of government-reimbursable material shipped to Vietnam from the United States.

Ribicoff said both RMK-BRJ officials and Navy officers now report the $120 million has dwindled to $5 million carried in an "in transit" account.

The Guessing Game:

How much would you save on a new car if you saw your credit union first?

Look at the price sticker on the car you are buying. It lists the base price, the extras, license, sales tax. What it doesn't list is the cost of financing — and that's where you start guessing.

Let's say you're offered financing "at just $4.50 per hundred." Is that 4½ per cent? Wrong. It's actually almost 9 per cent true annual interest. Of course, not everyone can qualify even for 9 per cent: It applies only to new cars, depends on the down payment, etc. If you're buying a used car, you can pay 18 to 34 per cent. All this can add up to hundreds of dollars in interest rates — and boost the price of your car.

How do you beat the guessing game? DON'T GUESS. See your credit union first. They'll be glad to explain the mysteries of interest rates. They'll tell you in one lump sum how much your financing will cost . . . and give you rock-bottom rates on a loan as well. It pays to be a credit union family.

Nebraska Vote Possible Bonus for Humphrey

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, an election favorite who won't admit it, and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy stage their final hunt for votes today in Nebraska's Democratic presidential primary—which could hold a political bonus for Hubert H. Humphrey.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, a Republican, said the vice president could poll a substantial write-in vote in Tuesday's Democratic showdown. Crossover voting is not permitted.

★ ★ ★

And the governor said he expects to see Richard M. Nixon capture 70 per cent of the vote in a Republican race which holds little suspense.

New York's Kennedy and Minnesota's McCarthy planned a series of campaign sessions between Lincoln and Omaha to wind up their second primary election clash in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination. Kennedy won the initial test, in Indiana last Tuesday.

LBJ ON BALLOT

Their names are on the Nebraska election ballot along with that of President Johnson, who spurned another race for the White House too late to have it removed.

Kennedy has pulled the larger crowds, and is rated a likely Nebraska winner by most Democratic politicians and surveys. But the senator is trying to dampen such talk.

★ ★ ★

He scoffs at surveys indicating he will take over half the Democratic vote. "How can I get 50 per cent with four of us in the race?" He asked Sunday as his campaign plane flew over western Nebraska.

In Indiana, Kennedy won with 42 per cent of the vote, McCarthy polled 27 per cent. The rest went to Gov. Roger D. Branigin, a favorite son.

INSULATE SELF

The object of Kennedy's Nebraska assessment, it seemed, was to enhance the impact of a big showing in his second primary outing, while insulating himself against assertions that a victory with less than 50 per cent of the vote would not help his presidential cause.

McCarthy all but conceded the election in advance. He has forecast a Kennedy showing of something over 40 per cent, with about 30 per cent of the vote in his own column. He chose to campaign in Oregon and California in the waning days of the Nebraska race, calling them key tests in the primary races for the nomination.

★ ★ ★

He picked up his Nebraska campaign Sunday—and said in McCook that a victory here would help him in those later primaries.

Nixon's opposition in the Republican race consists of California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who is on the ballot but says he isn't running for the presidency, and a miniature write-in movement for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a candidate not on the ballot. Perennial candidate Harold Stassen and a Nebraska cowboy named Americus Liberator also are on the GOP ballot.

HUMPHREY WRITE-IN

Tiemann said in an interview he believes Humphrey will fare well in Nebraska. Humphrey was in Omaha Friday night and Saturday, preaching his theme of Democratic and national unity—while denying he had any intention of trying to promote write-in votes.

"Some of the Democrats I've been talking to express an interest in McCarthy and Kennedy," said Gov. Tiemann, "But I think they're going to feel more comfortable with Humphrey when it comes time to mark those ballots."

★ ★ ★

Tiemann said that with Johnson's name on the ballot, votes for the President could logically be assumed to be votes sympathetic to Humphrey.

"The combination of the two could make Humphrey look very good," Tiemann said. Kennedy said he could not estimate the possible size of the Humphrey write-in votes. But he said labor leaders are pushing for it, and added he understood Humphrey supporters were conducting a telephone effort to encourage write-in votes.

DELEGATION CANDIDATES

Humphrey held a session with about 40 candidates for seats at the Democratic National Convention Saturday.

The preferential primary is not binding on the delegates who will be elected Tuesday to cast 28 Nebraska votes at the convention.

★ ★ ★

And there was an opening for Humphrey there. On the delegate ballot, 42 candidates are running pledged to President Johnson, 31 for McCarthy, 29 uncommitted and only one for Kennedy, whose candidacy began after the delegate lineup was in progress. Kennedy forces are supporting the uncommitted delegates.

Republicans will choose delegates to cast 16 nominating votes.

SMALL TOWNS

Kennedy spent Sunday campaigning from Wilber, in eastern Nebraska, to McCook, in the southwest, and drawing big crowds in small towns. He was in a buoyant, bantering mood, jokingly asked for votes for the sake of his 10 children. "Picture little children with tears running down their eyes, he said. "You wouldn't want that to happen."

If audiences were slow to applaud, he chided them. He told a crowd in Crete he was about to ride out of town with their cheers ringing in his ears.

★ ★ ★

At every stop, Kennedy said he wants to take steps to cut farm interest rates, extend subsidies, make sure grains are not poured onto the market in times of falling prices, and encourage collective bargaining in agriculture.

"I don't think we should penalize the farmer because he has done well and because he's efficient," he told some 4,000 people in a cavernous pavillion at Hastings. "I think he should be rewarded, and that's want I intend to do."

BETTER DEAL

McCarthy promised the farmer a better deal, too. He said the Department of Agriculture should make sure farmers receive a fair return for their produce.

McCarthy drew a crowd of more than 1,500 at an outdoor rally in McCook. Kennedy went to the same town to wind up his campaign day, and police esimated 2,500 were at an auditorium to hear him.

At the University of Nebraska, McCarthy told some 3,000 persons, most of them students, his campaign is based on the politics of conscience and of reason.

Scars Remain Two Months After U. P. Murder Spree

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Two months ago a gunman killed seven people in a shooting spree. As with most violent crimes, the public's attention is focused first on the accused and second on the victims. But the most lasting scars are often born by the victims' relatives.)

IRONWOOD (AP) — Eight weeks ago the quiet world of 12-year-old Robin Gustafson exploded in horror.

A gunman armed with a highpowered deer rifle burst into her family's home near this Upper Michigan city and fired a rapid succession of shots that killed Robin's mother, her maternal grandmother and two family friends.

★ ★ ★

Before the night of March 16 had ended, severn persons were dead, Robin lay critically wounded and she, her two sisters and a brother were orphans.

When the shooting started, Robin, an outdoors type of girl, tall for her age, with big eyes, a bright smile and long blonde hair, fled into her bedroom and sought refuge in a small closet.

LAY BLEEDING

The gunman fired a shot through the closet door and his bullet tore through Robin's abdomen and smashed her left hand.

★ ★ ★

For two hours she lay bleeding in the dark closet before her plight was discovered by a sister, Pamela, 17, who retured home moments before midnight.

★ ★ ★

Pamela was confronted by a scene of carnage when she entered the house. She found her mother and three others dead in the living room, heard Robin moaning in the closet and saw blood flowing from beneath the door.

Robin was rushed to Grand View Hospital, near Ironwood, and there underwent emergency surgery. Several days later, when her condition remained critical and complications threatened, she was removed to a hospital at Rochester, Minn.

LIFE IN DOUBT

For many days there was doubt whether Robin would live, but expert care and her robust constitution brought her through the crisis and gradually she began to recover.

Robin has returned to Ironwood to be cared for by her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Hjalmer Wester. She will return to Rochester for more surgery and doctors have indicated that she will have to have additional treatment and checkups at intervals for months to come.

The shades are drawn in the now-unoccupied Gustafson home. The modest, ranch-type dwelling lies five miles outside this city of 10,000 on the edge of a forest, where residents are trying to carve a new economy in ski resorts from the once-prosperous mining country.

Robina and her two sisters, Pamela and Deborah, 19, and their brother, James, were orphaned by the slaying of their mother, Mrs. Vienna Gustafson.

FUTURE BLEAK

Their father, Eugene, who had been employed by the Gogebic County Road Commission, built the home, but died in 1962, soon after the family moved in. Their mother was unemployed at the time she was killed.

The children are facing a bleak future, with few resources. Their principal asset is the family home, the value of which may have been affected by the gruesome tragedy which occurred there.

★ ★ ★

The brother, James, a student at Northern Michigan University, Marquette, was appointed guardian of the younger children when he reached the age of 21 recently.

Mrs. Wester, with whom Robin is living is a widow, dependent of Social Security. Her second husband died a few years ago. Her first husband, paternal grandfather of the Gustafson children, was killed in a mining accident when the children's father was a small boy.

LIVE WITH FRIENDS

Robin's two sisters are now living with the John Krznarich family, friends of the Gustafsons.

Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, Pontiac superintendent of schools, was a special guest at the annual spring breakfast of the Association for Childhood Education. Cranbrook Academy of Art to Expand Facilities, Program

The board of trustees of Cranbrook Academy of Art has announced plans for a stepped-up program of activities and special events designed to broaden its support and to increase public participation in the Academy's affairs.

The announcement was made by Ernest A. Jones, chairman of the board of trustees, at a meeting in Cranbrook Galleries Friday night. The meeting followed a preview of the Annual Degree Exhibition and reception attended by more than 100 area couples.

★ ★ ★

DISCUSSES PAST

In citing the Academy's accomplishments during the past four decades, Jones paid tribute to the achievement of scores of former students who today are leaders in their respective crafts.

"Many are today lending their talents to business and industry," he pointed out. "Their creativity influences the car you drive, the city in which you and your children now live, and in countless other ways."

★ ★ ★

Skills taught at the Academy include: architecture, ceramics, design, fabric design, graphics, metalsmithing, painting and drawing and sculpture.

Two years prior credit is required for admission and students may acquire either a bachelor's or master's degree, or both.

★ ★ ★

Future plans, Jones said, include a Center for Creative Thought — for people in government, in business, industry and education.

★ ★ ★

Arrangements have already been made for personal appearances by increased numbers of distinguished artists and lecturers. These, Jones said, will be announced shortly.

★ ★ ★

In addition there will be outstanding films and exhibitions, not only for the student body, but for citizens from all sectors of the community.

★ ★ ★

Pointing out that there has been no major building on campus for 27 years, Jones revealed that plans are now being studied for expanding and modernizing the Academy's physical facilities.

"We want to alter the Academy's image so that it will more accurately reflect its true character. We already have many activities of interest to the public and we are increasing that number," he added.

WANT MEMBERS

The membership drive outlined by Jones includes a wide range of subscriber membership categories. "These are scaled," he said, "to accomodate a wide variety of pocketbooks."

Literature describing Academy activities and containing details of new memberships being offered to the public is currently being circulated by the Women's Committee of the Academy of Art.

★ ★ ★

Interested persons may secure copies by either writing or calling the Art Academy office on Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills.

Miss Griffin Repeats Vows

Attired in an Empire ensemble of ivory peau de soie, Barbara Joy Griffin became the bride of Brian Hitsky Saturday in a double ring ceremony officiated by Rev. Malcolm Burton of First Congregational Church.

★ ★ ★

A front panel of Venitian lace highlighted the former Miss Griffin's bridal gown and matching peau de soie chapel train. To complement her look, she chose a full length veil of illusion caught by a half-cap of floral lace.

The bridal bouquet was comprised of Stephanotis, pink roses and orchids in a cascading arrangement.

SISTER

Pamela Griffin assisted her sister as maid of honor. Their parents are the Glenn H. Griffins of Ogemaw Road.

Bridesmaids were Elizabeth Nida, Karen Ibser, Christine Griffin, Mrs. Richard Brown, Mrs. Darwin Spearing and Eileen Hitsky.

Best man honors for the son of the Stanley E. Hitskys of Farmington were performed by Curt Sylvester. Also at the bridegroom's side were Thomas Griffin, Alan Hitsky, William Kreifeldt, Lawrence Kaluzny, Dino Fekaris and Robert Coosaia.

★ ★ ★

Following a reception at the Pine Lake Country Club, the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon trip to New York City.

MRS. BRIAN HITSKY

But Not This One

Toaster Might Warm Mom's Heart

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I was given my Mother's Day present a few days prematurely because, "It was something I would find useful" and there was no sense having me do without it another day. You have no idea how disappointed I was to find my "gift" was a household appliance.

ABBY

Please warn these unsuspecting, generous shoppers not to be brainwashed by salespeople who will try to sell them electric appliances, such as toasters, mixers, blenders, vacuum cleaners, and washer-dryers to give to Mother as a "gift." These items are not really gifts, they are tools of her trade just as a saw and hammer are a carpenter's tools.

★ ★ ★

How many husbands would be thrilled to unwrap a pair of hedge clippers, or a gallon of paint and some brushes on Father's Day?

ONE WHO KNOWS

DEAR ONE: Sorry, but you rattled the wrong cage. Any of the "tools" you mentioned would be a most welcome gift to the woman who faces the normal routine of housework daily. As long as she must cook, clean, and do the laundry, anything that helps her do it more easily and faster is indeed a great gift.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who is a sophomore at college (about 200 miles from home) has been bringing home his "girl" for weekends since last October. She also is a sophomore, and seems to be a nice enough girl, but we don't "know" her any better now than the first time he brought her home.

You see, she always has a book with her. She sits in our company while everyone is conversing, and keeps her nose in the book. She hardly ever says a word, her head is down and she reads. I say this is very rude. Our son has tried on several occasions to draw her into the conversation, but so far he hasn't succeeded. Is there some way WE can pry some conversation out of her so we can find out what she is like? Our son thinks she's "Wonderful." This is wonderful?

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The girl is shy and sadly lacking in self-confidence. Let her hide. She's using the book as a "shield." When she feels more at home with you, perhaps she'll turn over a new leaf.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: You devoted a lot of space to whether parents (for the sake of a healthier sex education) should allow their children to witness a cat bearing kittens. Some said yes, some said no.

★ ★ ★

Any parents who would permit the family cat to bear kittens for the sake of "educating" their child should complete their education by giving them a tour of the local pound, requesting special permission to see the gas chambers where unwanted kittens and puppies are disposed of.

★ ★ ★

This will clearly show the fate of the majority of unwanted animals produced by neglectful, irresponsible owners.

We do not need more animals to destroy in gas chambers. Neither do we need more animals who eventually will die of disease, starvation, poison, and under car wheels.

★ ★ ★

If you love animals you will print this so your readers will know the seriousness of permitting pets to breed accidentally.

Branch of League of Women Voters Passes Resolutions

Several items were on the agenda when the League of Women Voters of Birmingham-Bloomfield met Thursday at the Birmingham Athletic Club.

Items adopted for the year were:

- A study and evaluation of the public schools in the Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills districts in relation to the needs and resources of the community.
- A study and evaluation of housing in the area, one aspect of which would investigate tenants' rights and responsibilities.

REPORT

Mrs. Andrew M. Mezey presented a progress report on the drive to obtain 28,000 signatures on the petition calling for the amendment of Article VI of the Michigan Constitution, the Judicial Article. The aim of the amendment is to provide a better method for the selection and tenure of judges in the State.

The current drive, if successful, would put this amendment on the ballot in November.

Petitions will be available the next three Saturdays at the Pontiac Mall from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Listeners were advised that any registered Michigan voter is eligible to sign.

The engagement of their daughter, Karen Lynne, to Richard M. Tioran is announced by the Raymond D. Thompsons of Lincolnview Street, Pontiac Township. Sept. 7 vows are slated. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Tyron Tioran of Grant Street and the late Mrs. Tioran. Miss Thompson is a senior at Central Michigan University.

Island Honeymoon for Pair

John Russell Thomas Jr. and his bride (nee Christine Rebecca Dodrill) departed for the Virgin Islands following a dinner-reception Saturday at the Detroit Athletic Club.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Forest Dodrill of Bloomfield Hills and son of the senior Mr. and Mrs. John R. Thomas of Pontiac Trail, West Bloomfield Township, exchanged vows earlier that afternoon in First Methodist Church, Birmingham.

MRS. JOHN R. THOMAS JR.

★ ★ ★

Attended by her sisters, Mrs. Matthew Gardner Jr., and Marysue, the bride was gowned in an ivory peau de soie skimmer with a matching full length train gathered at the neck with a bow.

Motif beading accented the gown as well as the Dior bow atop her illusion veiling. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Bridesmaids were Martha Cross, Mrs. David Olson, Mrs. Richard Smith and Gail Monroe. The usher corps was comprised of John Locke, John Evans, Thomas Davidson, Harold Weekman and Norman Otto.

★ ★ ★

Best man honors were performed by the bridegroom's brother James Thomas.

★ ★ ★

Following their honeymoon trip, the newlyweds will make their home in Ann Arbor where they are students at the University of Michigan.

Juvenile Theft a Social Protest

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Dr. Marshall Shearer, of the University of Michigan, says repeated stealing on the part of a child means something may be wrong with the emotional atmosphere in the family.

★ ★ ★

Such anti-social acts, he reports, probably stem from anger and resentment, or loneliness. A child, for example, might steal to buy friends, to gain symbolic gratification, or to produce an emotional response in his parents.

Chocolate Stain

When a chocolate stain is in a washable fabric, sponge or soak the spot in cool water, then wash with a synthetic detergent. If a brown stain remains after washing and rising, use a mild bleach. First test the bleach on the hem or other inconspicuous place for fabric colorfastness.

Dryclean Crayon

Crayon marks on wallpaper? Scrape off as much of the crayon as possible with a spatula. Sponge lightly with a cloth dampened in a drycleaning fluid. It may be necessary to repeat this treatment several times, says the Cornell Extension Service.

Gals---Let's Keep Some Secrets

By BETTY CANARY

Those who laughed when Betty Furness walked away from the refrigerator are now applauding. The proposed legislation for truth in packaging is long overdue and I think Miss Furness is trying to help the consumer get an even break.

★ ★ ★

When did boxes stop coming in sizes small, medium and large? Every one I see now is stamped Large, Family-size and King-size or Superfull. To me it is really unimportant what they are called because I'm busy checking the shelves for one that is labeled Enough.

★ ★ ★

I had been thinking about writing a letter to Miss Furness. I was going to ask if she might be able to do something about turning those women in television commercials into something at least resembling real flesh-and-blood ones.

★ ★ ★

I mean, what average mother of 3.2 children spends her time in the supermatket squeezing the toilet paper? And, about that 3.2 children — whose extra 1.8 children do I have? Give us REAL women is what I wanted to say. Not, for example, the helpless bride who runs down to the store after hours with her coffee problems to meet the sweet old manager who looks as though he had just jumped off a Swiss cuckoo clock. Not a woman who scrubs the floor while she wears an expensive dress and high heels. I was going to write, "Help, Help," and then I started thinking.

★ ★ ★

What is a real woman and exactly how much truth do I want told about me? This truth in packaging could be a serious matter and I want to know where it will all end.

★ ★ ★

My wondering began when I discovered that truth in packaging might be a new idea to us but England was with it a long time ago. In 1770, the English Parliament passed a bill proclaiming that "all women of whatever rank, age, profession or degree, who shall after this act, impose upon or betray into matrimony any of His Majesty's male subjects by virtue of scents, paints, cosmetics, washes, artificial teeth, false hair, Spanish wool, iron stays, bolstered hips or high-heeled shoes, shall incur the penalty of the law now in force against witchcraft or other like misdemeanors . . ."

I am still in favor of realistic commercials and truth in packaging but that doesn't mean I want the truth about EVERYTHING.

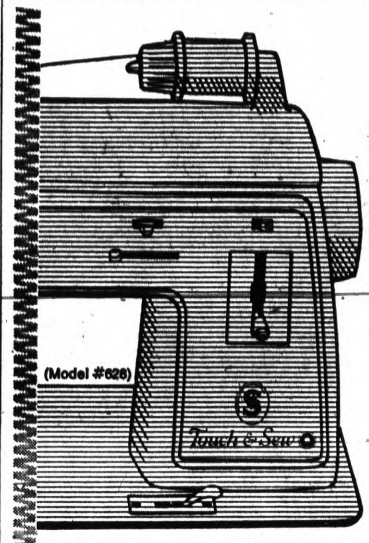

I have amended my letter. now says: "Dear Miss Furness: How do you stand on the eating-our-cake-and-keeping-it-too bit?

Toothaches Unidentified

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A toothache is just a toothache to everyone but a retarded child.

Merle Morris, chairman of the Children's Dentistry Section at the University of California Medical Center, says many retarded children are not able to identify the source of their pain.

★ ★ ★

An aching tooth or inflamed gum may make such children miserable for months or even years if not discovered and treated, Morris says.

Carpet Backing Varies in Quality

NEW YORK (UPI) — The quality of the foam rubber used on carpet varies considerably.

Here are some guidelines from the Latex Foam Rubber Council: A good foam backing is rather rigid; the carpet sample will not droop limply. The backing should be at least three-sixteenths of an inch thick, and preferably more. Foam cells should be of fairly uniform size. To test a sample, bend the carpet. A good foam backing will not crack.

Now through "Wedding Photography Registry" a prospective bride can call C. R. Haskill Studios on University Drive in Pontiac and engage a photographer to cover the wedding day festivities. At the same time, she can select the style of wedding photography she prefers — Natural color; the album; wall - hung paintings; frames, etc.

As a gift, C. R. Haskill provides each of his brides a Wedding Guest Book, a portrait for the newspaper free and even rice conveniently packaged for the guests to throw at the happy couple when leaving the church.

3 Feared Dead in Lake

COLCHESTER, Ont. (AP) — Three Detroit men who jumped from a sinking boat were presumed drowned Sunday after a search of Lake Erie near Colchester failed to turn up a trace of them.

A fourth man—the son of one of the victims and the brother of another—was rescued Saturday afternoon when a man in a passing sailboat spotted him clinging to a two-foot section of the sunken boat.

Police identified the victims as Sam Latamore, 50, James Latamore, 20, and Willie Madison, 26. Rescued was 19-year-old Jerome Latamore.

The younger Latamore said he and the other three men jumped overboard when the 16-foot craft started sinking stern first. The youth told authorities he tried to help the others, but could not reach them.

Canoe Victim's Body Recovered

SAGINAW (AP) — The body of a 19-year-old Saginaw youth who drowned in a canoing accident April 27 has been found at Tobico Beach, just south of Saginaw.

★ ★ ★

Police reported Sunday that Albert Mitchener, who lives on the beach, found the body of Larry Ilgen. Ilgen drowned when a canoe capsized. A friend, John Gorty, 20, of Saginaw, was rescued.

Man Found Dead in Detroit River

DETROIT (AP) — The body of an unidentified man about 55 years old was pulled from the Detroit River at Detroit Sunday, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

The man was found by a passing ship, which notified the Belle Isle Coast Guard station. The body was discovered on the Canadian side of the river and turned over to Canadian authorities.

Fire Danger Remains High

By United Press International

Showers in southeastern Michigan have reduced fire danger there but the Weather Bureau warned danger remains high today over most of the Lower Peninsula.

Woodlands remained tinder dry around an area where almost 5,000 acres were blackened early in the week.

★ ★ ★

Fire danger remained extremely high in Huron National Forest on Lake Huron west to sections of the Manistee National Forest, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau at Houghton. Several small blazes smoldered over the weekend in the Kaikaska area, scene of the large blaze last Wednesday and Thursday.

More than 14,000 acres of Michigan woods and grassland have burned in 1968, compared with only 2,800 acres during all of 1967.

Body in Bay Is Identified

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — A body found floating in Grand Traverse Bay Sunday was identified as that of a man who had been missing since early last month.

★ ★ ★

Grand Traverse County Sheriff's officers said the body of Edgar Birth Oughton, 39, of Gaylord, was found by a fisherman about a half mile from the mouth of the Boardman River.

Oughton's car, presumed abandoned, had been impounded by police about April 2. Sheriff's deputies said the body had been in the water for several weeks.

Postmaster Seeks Prettier Mailboxes

PLAIN CITY, Ohio (AP) — Down with plain, ordinary mailboxes, says Plain City Postmaster Howard S. Foust who has started a local campaign to beautify rural mailboxes.

Foust is sponsoring a contest and will award a $25 savings bond for the best rural mailbox.

"If a person is proud of his rural home he should be proud of his mailbox," Foust says.

Baby Is Born in Mid-Skid

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Policemen are trained to deliver babies, in cars or ambulances, but nobody ever taught St. Louis County patrolman Vinson Kallbrier how to do it in the middle of a skid.

The ambulance was on its way to the hospital over the weekend on a maternity call. Kallbrier described the action: "The baby started coming and just then I heard this noise. The ambulance began swerving. I was losing my balance. It's enough to scare a guy."

By the time the ambulance was able to come to a stop the baby was born.

Hubert, RFK Seek State Support in Visits This Week

DETROIT (AP)— Within the span of a day, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will seek Michigan's support in their bids for the presidential nomination.

Humphrey plans to spend some 12 hours in Detroit and Lansing on Tuesday. Kennedy plans to woo potential voters in a three-hour stop Wednesday in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Humphrey's visit is aimed heavily at Democratic party financial backers and officials, plus Negro voters.

Kennedy's visit includes a scheduled motorcade and public speech in Kennedy Square, the downtown park named for the late President John F. Kennedy.

KEY STATE

Michigan could be a key "swing" state for Humphrey, Kennedy or the third announced candidate, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn.

In 1960, the Michigan delegation supported John F. Kennedy for presidential nomination. But political observers anticipate a tough battle between the New York senator and the vice president, with McCarthy probably less of a factor, for the state's 92 votes this year.

★ ★ ★

Humphrey will arrive at Capital City Airport at Lansing Tuesday morning and go to the State Capitol.

He is scheduled to meet Republican Gov. George Romney and address a joint session of the House and Senate.

RECEPTION PLANNED

Humphrey plans to speak in the afternoon in Detroit at the 38th general conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church. The church's membership is largely Negro.

In the evening, a reception is to be held for Humphrey by the Democratic State Central Committee. Special invitations are going out to members of the Century Fund, consisting of persons who have contributed $100 or more to the party.

★ ★ ★

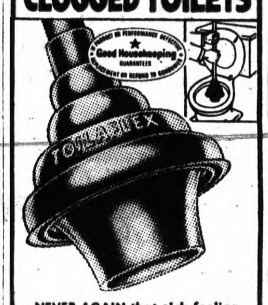

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and Secretary of State James Hare, plus other party leaders, will attend a buffet dinner in Humphrey's honor Tuesday night. Later, the vice president plans to meet with precinct delegates from across the state at the Veterans Memorial Building in Detroit.

The vice president is slated to return to Washington at about 10 p.m.

Kennedy is scheduled to arrive at Detroit Metropolitan Airport at about 11:30 a.m. Wednesday. On his agenda are the motorcade, noon speech in Kennedy Square and handshaking sessions among the people.

The term "first lady" is believed to have been used for the first time in a description of President Rutherford Hayes' inauguration in 1877.

Negro Role in Auto Industry Pointed Up

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Negroes today play a major role in the automobile industry, which is nearing a milestone in policy aimed at achieving racial integration.

This was the major point established in a study of Negro employment in the automobile industry over the past 50 years, the first in a series of industry surveys.

★ ★ ★

It was conducted by the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at the University of Pennsylvania under a three-year Ford Foundation grant.

At least 11 other industries will be covered. Next in the series will be a report on racial policies in the aerospace industry.

HIRING INTENSIFIED

Tracing the increase in Negro employment in the automobile industry, Dr. Herbert R. Northrup, chairman of the Wharton School's Department of Industry, observed that, since the riots in Detroit last year, the Big Three auto companies have intensified their hiring of marginal workers.

"Now companies are literally searching for the most marginal (employes) that possibly can be utilized . . . instead of stressing the hiring of the fittest and best personnel obtainable in the labor market," Northrup said.

★ ★ ★

If this policy succeeds, he said, it will be a milestone in company personnel policy toward achieving racial integration.

The study showed that Negroes made up 13.6 per cent of the labor force of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler by the end of 1966, a percentage slightly larger than their general population ratio.

Most of the Negro force was concentrated in production jobs—about 25 per cent, compared with only 3 per cent of the more than 100,000 skilled workers in the Big Three plants.

Difficulties in receiving training in craft skills in either apprentice programs or through on-the-job training have held back employment in this category, the report explained.

★ ★ ★

Negro progress in the salaried area has been slow, but major companies have been trying to correct this, the report said.

It noted that Negroes represent only 4 per cent of the total office and clerical work force, indicating the industry's late start in this area.

As late as 1962, the report said, Negroes constituted less than one half of 1 per cent of the white-collar and professional employment and one half of 1 per cent of the skilled craftsmen in one of the Big Three.

Another had no nonwhite clerical employes throughout most of the 1950s, and the third had only a small number.

★ ★ ★

Governmental pressures during World War II strengthened Negro employment in the automobile industry because they not only encouraged companies to hire nonwhites, but provided them with backing.

Northrup observed that the rise in Negro employment was not without difficulties.

To obtain one permanent employe since 1965, companies have been compelled to hire four to six.

Other problems included a greater incidence of claims, more discipline cases, and whites not seeking employment in plants or departments where Negroes formed the majority.

Chinese Snub Hanoi's Envoy

Mao Boycotts Xuan; Chou Assails Him

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung refused to see North Vietnam's peace delegate Xuan Thuy when he stopped off in Peking en route to Paris, the Hong Kong Star said Saturday.

It added that Premier Chou En-lai snubbed a dinner in Thuy's honor but saw him for a few minutes later and assailed North Vietnam for agreeing to enter talks with the United States.

★ ★ ★

A Hanoi broadcast Wednesday said Thuy and his delegation arrived in Peking on Tuesday and left the following day. The broadcast reported that Thuy was greeted and seen off by Foreign Minister Chen Yi.

The Star, quoting "exclusive sources inside China" gave this account:

CHOU 'COLD'

Chou was cold to Thuy when he finally met him. He told him that Mao and other top Peking leaders considered Hanoi's agreement to enter the Paris talks a major tactical and diplomatic mistake.

Thuy tried to mollify the Chinese leaders by saying that he and his delegation would only discuss cessation of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam. But Chou told Thuy that Hanoi had fallen into an "American trap," and he blamed Hanoi for listening to Soviet advice.

★ ★ ★

When Thuy told Chou that his government had specifically asked him to stop in Peking and seek Mao's advice, Chou sarcastically told Thuy to go to "your Russian friends for advice now that they have talked you into the American trap."

Chou also told Thuy that North Vietnam was abandoning its revolutionary compatriots in the South and encouraging U.S. aggression in Asia by agreeing to meet with U.S. delegates.

Round-the-World Yacht Record Set

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Two Germans claim a new round-the-world sailing record for a yacht—195 days and 20 hours at sea.

Juergen Wagner, 33, and Holger Rahliff, 24, completed the 30,000-mile voyage here Saturday in a 43-foot catamaran.

★ ★ ★

They left here July 22, 1966. The trip took 22 months because of several stopovers, including four months in New Zealand to wait out the hurricane season.

The collection was donated by children of the author of stories of the American West who was born here in 1872.

Language of Bigotry Is More Subtle Now

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.
Executive Director
National Urban League

There was a time when people were frank and open about their racist feelings. A lot of what we heard then was harsh and ugly, but at least we knew what people were talking about.

YOUNG

"We don't want Negroes in our schools," however sick and distorted a statement, means what it says. Now, however, the talk is all about "preserving neighborhood schools."

Both statements mean the same thing to the people who use them. In fact, one mayoralty candidate last year often talked about "neighborhood schools," and then told her audiences, "You know what I mean."

★ ★ ★

Of course they did. She didn't have to elaborate on it. Everyone knew she meant maintaining segregated schools, just as everyone knows that the candiate for the presidency who goes around the country saying, "You know where I stand" knows that he stands for suppression of Negro citizens.

★ ★ ★

But this kind of code language is catching on too fast for anyone to ignore it. It's easy to pin down the racists who frankly say they are against Negros, but how do you argue agaist "law and order" or "neighborhood schools?"

COMMON PHRASES

By using common, accepted phrases as code of bigotry, racism is appealing to many people who would be ashamed to respond to more open language.

One of the most important priorities of the national campaign to eradicate racism which I have been asking for, would be to break this code of racism and to tear away the false respectability it takes on through its use of words.

'CRIME IN STREETS'

Let's look at some examples of this code language.

★ ★ ★

"Crime in the streets" is one phrase that always comes up. What do the people who use it so often really mean? Do they mean the brutal murder of Dr. King in Memphis? Do they mean the white collar crime and embezzlement that costs this nation enough to house thousands of the homeless?

★ ★ ★

Perhaps they mean the loan sharks and crime syndicate bosses and cheating store owners who prey on the poor. Or is it the crime of overcharging tenants for slum hovels? How about the street crimes of throwing bricks at nuns in a march for open housing?

DEMONSTRATIONS

"Crime in the streets" means none of these — it's a code phrase for Negro demonstrations. Lately it's come to mean riots too.

It intentionally seeks to associate crime with Negros without ever mentioning race — a good trick, and it's working.

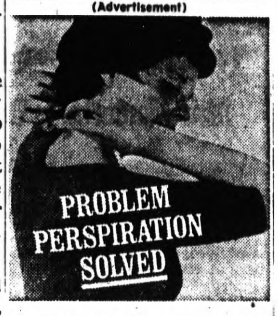

★ ★ ★

"Law and order" is always used by people who are afraid "crime in the streets" is too well known. It's becoming a code phrase for "Keep the Negroes down." But it hides that meaning well, after all, who can be against law and order. The answer is everybody, if law and order is not accompanied by justice.

★ ★ ★

Present day South Africa has law and order, as did Nazi Germany, but neither had justice. Any police state is long on law and order but very short on justice.

GOP Hopefuls Besting Dems

Gallup Poll Shows Nixon, Rocky Ahead

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The two Republican presidential hopefuls are faring better than the top three Democratic candidates, according to recent nationwide test elections conducted by the Gallup Poll.

★ ★ ★

Of the two rival GOP candidates tested—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon—Rockefeller made the better showing in the matchings against the three declared Democratic candidates, Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Eugene T. McCarthy of Minnesota and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the poll said Sunday.

★ ★ ★

The findings were based on a national survey of registered voters completed just prior to last Tuesday's Indiana primary and following Rockefeller's entry into the race. The survey was conducted between May 4 and 8 among 1,139 registered voters in more than 300 localities.

In the poll, the candidates were matched individually against the other party's candidates, with former Alabama Gov. George Wallace considered as a third party candidate.

WALLACE GAIN

Support for Wallace in six trial heats averaged 16 per cent, representing a gain for Wallace since the previous survey in April, the poll said.

Humphrey gained on Nixon since the early April survey—conducted before Humphrey entered the race—and now trails by three percentage points.

★ ★ ★

Rockefeller, pitted against Humphrey for the first time since entering the race, had a seven point lead over Humphrey.

Robber Gets $8.50 From Area Drive-In

A stocky robber tusseled with a teen-aged employe at the Waterford Drive-In Theater Saturday night, then escaped with only $8.50 of the night's receipts when a tracking dog lost his trail on a freshly oiled subdivision road.

★ ★ ★

Ernest Vanderwater, 15, of 5517 Rowley, told police he was escorting ticket girl Joyce Russel, 16, of 5545 Harrel, from the ticket booth at about 11 p.m. when he was attacked by the robber.

After a brief scuffle, the robber fled on foot with some of the evening's receipts which had fallen to the ground in the cash box.

★ ★ ★

Waterford Township police were immediately called but they could not find the suspect, described as a white male, about 20 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, with dark hair and weighing about 180 pounds.

Market Fire Is Blamed on Arsonists

A fire in a Pontiac market early today was started by arsonists who threw a Molotov cocktail through a door window, according to city fire officials.

The blaze at the F and W Market, 64 Jackson, broke out about 3:30 a.m. and firemen were at the scene more than an hour.

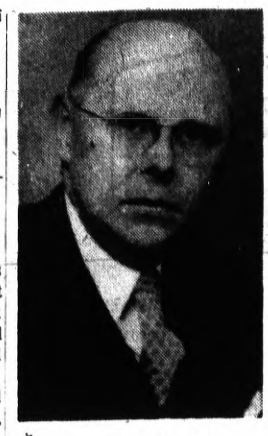

★ ★ ★

A witness living above the store told firemen and police of seeing three or four youths throw something through the window, then flee in a car.

Police said they found a bottle, containing an accelerant and stuffed with a rag wick, inside the building.

★ ★ ★

Damage to the building was estimated at $1,000. No estimate of damage to contents has been made.

County GOP Picks Treasurer

Charles L. Lyle, former county GOP chairman, has been elected treasurer of the Oakland County Republican party.

Lyle, 45, of 18890 Hillcrest, Beverly Hills, was named by the GOP executive committee to fill the vacancy created by the death of Chad M. Ritchie.

★ ★ ★

He will serve until a new executive committee takes office in November.

Long active in county politics, Lyle served two terms as county chairman from 1961 to 1964, and one term as chairman of the 18th Congressional District, 1965-66.

★ ★ ★

A University of Michigan graduate, he is a Michigan sales representative for the Electroloy Co. at Bridgeport, Conn.

Lyle, a widower, is the father of four children.

Cottage Fire Being Probed

The Commerce Township fire department is investigating a blaze which nearly destroyed the two-story, frame cottage at 1951 East Saturday night.

The house, owned by Harvey Timm of Hamtramck, was vacant at the time.

★ ★ ★

Firemen were called to the blaze at 11:45 p.m. Saturday. They had the flames out at 2:30 a.m., according to the department report.

Damage is estimated at $10,000 to the house and $3,000 to the contents.

Man Arrested in City Shooting

A 43-year-old Pontiac man was arrested and booked for attempted murder late Saturday, shortly after another man was shot.

Police dispatched to 565 S. Paddock about 8 p.m. were told by witnesses that Kenneth Marshall, 29, of 412 Central had been shot and taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

★ ★ ★

They arrested Herman Stegall of the Paddock address minutes later.

Marshall was treated for a wound in the left arm, then released, according to hospital authorities.

★ ★ ★

Police said they will seek a warrant against Stegall today.

Fraud Charged in Vote

2 Claim Victory in Panama

PANAMA (AP) — Panama's two major presidential candidates each claimed victory today but official returns were slow coming in. The election Sunday was peaceful but there were the usual charges of fraud.

A spokesman for the National Electoral Tribunal said Sunday night that only 40 precincts had reported results and these gave "a slight edge" to the government candidate, David Samudio, 57.

★ ★ ★

Backers of Arnulfo Arias, 67, the candidate of a powerful five-party opposition coalition, claimed he had a margin of more than 5,000 votes in Panama City. Samudio's headquarters said he had a nationwide margin of 12,000 to 14,000 votes.

Even before the polls closed, each side staged small victory processions in downtown Panama City.

POOR THIRD

Dr. Antonio Gonzalez Revilla, a neurosurgeon backed by the small Christian Democratic party, was expected to run a poor third. Voters also chose 42 members of the one-chamber National Assembly.

The election campaign produced a crisis in which the opposition-dominated National Assembly voted to oust the current president, Marco A. Robles, claiming he had violated the constitution by backing Samudio, his finance minister.

★ ★ ★

The National Guard blocked the ouster and the Supreme Court later overruled the assembly. At the height of the dispute, a brief riot flared in Panama City March 28.

There were signs of government pressures during the voting, including authenticated reports of stolen ballot boxes, intimidation and arrests of opposition party leaders.

INTIMIDATION CHARGED

Arias, twice deposed from the presidency, contended the National Guardsmen in the interior intimidated his followers and kept them from the polls.

Opposition sources also claimed the government delayed the opening of some polling stations to discourage voters in Panama City, regarded as Arias' main stronghold.

★ ★ ★

The Arias camp urged its partisans Sunday evening to "go out in the streets to protect your interests." Pro-Samudio radio and television stations urged his supporters to remain at the polls to protect the ballot boxes from Arias' followers.

A National Guard spokesman said four of Arias' partisans were arrested for stealing a ballot box. He said another box had been stolen by persons posing as Samudio supporters.

NEWSMEN HELD

Newsmen Henry Giniger of the New York Times and Ruben Salazar of the Los Angeles Times said they were stopped by government partisans near Penonome, 90 miles southwest of the capital, accused of taking antigovernment pictures and forced to break off a trip to the interior.

They said Giniger's camera and pocket radio and Salazar's pass for travel in the interior were taken from them. Giniger said Penonome authorities rejected a complaint against the assailants.

★ ★ ★

On Saturday, Bert Quint of the Columbia Broadcasting System and James Nelson Goodsell of the Christian Science Monitor said a hostile crowd forced them to leave Penonome.

Fund Solicitation Is Unauthorized

"An unauthorized organization is apparently soliciting funds for a children's picnic by explaining verbally to prospective donors that the children from the Sarah Fisher Home in Farmington will be attending," Sister Mary Magdalene, administrator of the home, said today.

★ ★ ★

"This solicitation is contrary to the policy of our home, which is a Torch Drive agency. We ask you not to support it. Pleaase contact us if you have any questions," she added.

★ ★ ★

A Pontiac mailing address is being used by the solicitors.

GOP Leader to Address County Unit

State Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, will address the Oakland County Young Republicans tomorrow on Richard M. Nixon's presidential campaign.

LOCKWOOD

The meeting, open to the public, is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m. at the Belanger House, 12 Mile Road and Main Street, Royal Oak. A social hour will precede the meeting.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Lockwood, state campaign manager for the Nixon for President Committee, is the first in a series of speakers sponsored by the club.

Called "Campaign 68," the series is designed to acquaint club members and the community with local and national Republican candidates.

★ ★ ★

Lockwood has been a state senator since 1963. He was elected by his colleagues as minority leader in 1965, and majority leader when the Republicans gained control of the Senate in 1966.

State Police Set Open House at Pontiac Post

The Pontiac State Police post, 1295 N. Telegraph, will hold open house from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. May 22.

Sgt. Raymond Hoopengarner, post commander, said the open house is part of the State Police's participation in Michigan Week activities.

★ ★ ★

"The open house provides a special opportunity for area residents to learn more about State Police services in general and post operations in particular," he said.

U.S. Education Benefits—1

Federal Programs Offer Something for Almost Everyone

AN IMPORTANT NOTE

....All of the programs described in this series have been established by law and many have been in operation for years. However, the amount of money to operate these programs varies from year to year, depending on appropriations voted by Congress. Availability of some funds and openings in training programs may vary locally depending upon demand.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first article in a 15-part series on U.S. educational and training benefits available to you.)

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Publications

Federal aid to education, in an almost stupefying variety of forms and programs, is currently running in the neighborhood of $12 billion a year.

There are expectations that when the Vietnam war is ended this amount will double or triple in a short time.

★ ★ ★

Already on the books as law are educational programs to help you pursue knowledge in virtually any field. Included are:

College undergraduate and graduate work, foreign study, research, vocational studies and on-the-job training, technical advice for your business or farm.

TO AID 1 MILLION

Federal government grants, loans and loan guarantees and government-stimulated state programs alone will assist more than one milion college students this year.

Federal educational, training and research programs for teachers, school dropouts, the elderly, for businessmen and farmers, for preschool children, and for a host of others provide direct or indirect aid now or will within the next year or two for several million more.

★ ★ ★

There is hardly a subject for which there is not a federal government assistance program, whether it's foreign languages, child psychology, medicine and nursing, drama or sculpture, automobile repair, the use of radioactive isotopes in research, industry or farming or how to manage a small business.

The federal government will help train you to care for small children or big ones, how to teach in a slum school —or it will send an adviser to teach you technical and management skills aimed at making your farm show a profit.

RESEARCH PROGRAMS

The federal government has programs which sponsor research and research training in almost every subject under the sun from oceanography to missiles, to the opertion and use of teaching machines.

The study aid runs from stipends for participation in advanced nuclear science seminars to basic reading, spelling and arithmetic for those who can't read or write.

★ ★ ★

Aid programs cover educational projects for children under three years of age, for men and women over 60 and for the years in between.

A man or woman who has finished school has a chance (or can make the chance, through aggressive community action) to continue his studies through his life and old age until the day he dies. It can be done at very low direct cost to himself.

NOTE OF CAUTION

One note of caution. So many national programs have been started in so short a time that in some localities little headway has been made.

The program you are interested in may not yet have gotten off the ground at your college, vocational school or in your city or county.

★ ★ ★

As a result, the funds for this year may have been funneled off to programs in other areas that got an earlier start.

Thus there are great differences from region to region, state to state and community to community.

COOPERATION REQUIRED

Most of the federal programs require cooperation and initiative by local colleges, universities, high schools, elementary or vocational schools or other local or national institutions or groups. Frequently the funds available will not cover the needs of all those seeking federal aid.

Since most federal grants, loans and other aid—even that given to the individual student—come through state governments, local institutions or community organizations, your chances for aid vary according to the college, vocational school or other institution or community group through which you apply.

★ ★ ★

The situation is complicated further because the myriad of assistance opportunities are divided into so many programs and managed by so many different government agencies.

They're further subdivided in supervision through many local institutions and community agencies. In some cases the search for the right office to contact may take some considerable time and effort.

BILLIONS AVAILABLE

That is, though billions of dollars are available, getting them may take some time and doing.

The purpose of this series is to make that task easier and quicker for you.

★ ★ ★

The opportunties are there.

It is certainly true today that an ambitious student can work his way through college and graduate school, or through vocational or trade school regardless of how poor he may be, by taking advantage of federal, state and private scholarships and loans.

He may also—regardless of his financial circumstances —find help to continue his learning throughout life.

Your new car may be the most important family decision you'll make this year.

To be sure you make the right choice, talk to your Cadillac dealer before you decide.

As a specialist in luxury motoring, your Cadillac dealer has some interesting things to say about quality and value in a new car.

The brilliant 1968 Cadillac gives him plenty to talk about. Quality abounds in the spacious, lavishly appointed interiors, in the smooth, quiet ride and in the solidity of Cadillac construction.

These Cadillac qualities are universally recognized. Year after year, Cadillac returns a greater portion of its original cost at resale than any other car built in the land. Major advancements this year, such as a totally new 472 V-8 engine (largest V-8 ever to power a production passenger car), further assure a high resale value.

There's no better time than now to talk quality and value with your Cadillac dealer. His selection of models may never be better, and your present car may never be worth more. See him before you decide.

Medical Volunteers Are Trying to Solve Problems of the Poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — A young mother awoke at 2 a.m. to find her infant son violently ill. Outside her home, soldiers with fixed bayonets patrolled the streets and she was afraid to try to get through to a hospital

Around the corner from the 12th Precinct, two men jumped a soldier from behind, knocked him to the ground and kicked him in the throat. He couldn't breathe. His heart stopped. In a matter of minutes, he would be beyond saving.

★ ★ ★

In both instances during last month's civil disorder here, disaster was averted by doctors who belong to the Medical Committee for Human Rights, a volunteer organization which has staffed emergency medical centers in riot areas across the nation.

A call from the frightened mother to the committee brought a pediatrician to her home within minutes to treat her son for an ear infection.

SAVE SOLDIER

A team of volunteer doctors who had been treating minor injuries in the 12th Precinct jail rushed to the injured soldier, applied heart massage and saved his life.

★ ★ ★

"We started this committee in 1964 to provide emergency medical care at times and in places where ordinary medical care is, at best, inadequate and, at worst, nonexistent," said Dr. George Wilson, national president of the committee, in an interview from Philadelphia where he teaches at Temple University.

★ ★ ★

"Doctors and nurses responded to pleas from Selma, Ala., that year, pleas from organizations working on voter registration.

"When it was over, we found that we weren't satisfied with just stitching up cut heads. We decided we should be doing something to keep heads intact in the first place."

4,000 MEMBERS

In 1965, the Medical Committee for Human Rights became a full-fledged national organization, incorporated in New York City. It claims a national membership of 4,000. Since then, its members have found themselves ministering to the sick and injured in Bogalusa, La.; marching with James Meredith down U.S. 51 in June, 1966 and in the midst of the Chicago, Detroit and Washington civil upheavals.

They have lobbied on Capitol Hill for strong medicare and Social Security laws; worked with the Office of Economic Opportunity to provide improved medical care for children in the Head Start program and studied the health problems of city jails.

★ ★ ★

"As much as this country has done, there are a lot of medical needs that the nation isn't meeting, a lot of medical needs the communities aren't meeting," said Dr. Arthur Frank, a member of the committee's Washington branch.

"We're trying to change attitudes and meet the needs where we can find them on a temporary basis until permanent solutions are found."

WORKING IN DETROIT

Among the 20 cities where the committee is working are New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Detroit, Boston, Washington, St. Louis, Topeka, Baltimore, Atlanta, New Haven and Syracuse.

Some members of the committee are fond of saying their organization represents the medical arm of the civil rights movement. Wilson does not agree.

★ ★ ★

"It started that way," he said, "but the old civil rights movement died with the concept of successful nonviolence on the Meredith march, and at that point we expanded our aims to take on national goals and national programs concerned with all sorts of human activities—particularly the correction of the inadequacy of health and medical care to all the poor—the Negro, the Mexican American, the poor white man."

★ ★ ★

For that reason, the Washington branch of the committee has, for weeks, been stockpiling drugs—the bulk donated by 19 drug companies, one drug store chain and the District of Columbia Health Department—for availability when the Poor People's Campaign gets to town.

READY TO GO

"We've got doctors, nurses, medical students, technicians, lawyers, wives and health specialists—several hundred of them— all ready to go to work in whatever way they're needed for this thing," said Dr. Sidney Wolfe, the committee's man in charge of preparations for the campaign.

"We'll set up a health unit right in the middle of the new city the poor people say they're going to build. It's mobile. It will go wherever they go."

★ ★ ★

Wolfe emphasized that the committee is in no way involved with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in organizing the campaign, scheduled to begin here May 19.

"We've offered our services in providing medical care, that's all," he said.

House Backers of Fair-Housing Bill Hopeful

LANSING (AP) — Now that the Legislature has completed the bulk of its committee work and turned to action on the floor, the first measure on tonight's House agenda is the open-occupancy bill.

That indicates the priority level assigned to the controversial item by Gov. George Romny and the Republican and Democratic leaders in the chamber.

★ ★ ★

Backers in the House say they expect to have enough votes to pass the bill eventually — probably after a lengthy and heated debate—and hope they also will be able to fight off amendments objectionable to the Senate, which approved the bill April 4.

The House defeated the measure 47-55 last winter, but Speaker Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, and Democratic leader William Ryan of Detroit, both supporters of the bill, say they think both parties will contribute more votes this time.

32 DEMOCRATIC VOTES?

Ryan says as many as 32 Democrats may vote for the measure, which needs 55 votes to pass. Some 26 Democrats and 21 Republicans supported last year's similar bill.

The bill forbids racial discrimination in negotiating, financing, soliciting or transacting the sale or rental of a housing unit or in making money available for home building or repairing. Certain "tight living situations," such as rental of rooms in a private house in which the owner lives, are exempted.

As passed by the Senate and endorsed by a House committee, the measure provides a circuit court could fine a businessman up to $1,000 for violating the act and up to $2,000 for a second offense.

★ ★ ★

An individual violator could be held liable for up to $500 in actual damages suffered by the person filing the bias complaint. If a complaint was dismissed, a court would be able to order the complainant to pay the costs and attorney fees of the person accused.

FIGHT IS LIKELY

That complainant-liability provision is certain to stir up a fight on the House floor. Some backers of a strong bill favor making the state, rather than the complainant, liable.

Other changes which various members are expected to try to make in the bill this week include:

—Returning to the 1967 bill language requiring that a housing discrimination complaint be proved "by a preponderance of the evidence," rather than "beyond a reasonable doubt," as the 1968 Senate version provides.

★ ★ ★

—Reinserting in the Senate bill language excluding from the antibias sections of the bill housing owned by charitable or religious groups.

—Taking the entire question of housing discrimination out of the hands of the State Civil Rights Commission and requiring filing of all such bias complaints in court.

Waldron and Ryan hope to form a bipartisan coalition which can prevent adoption of any major amendments.

If the bill passes the House without amendment, it will be ready to go to Romney for his signature. If changed, it would be returned to the Senate, facing still more legislative battles and possibly the danger of being scuttled.

★ ★ ★

Although open housing fell nine votes short in the House last year, its chances appear somewhat better this session because since then:

—The Michigan Supreme Court has ruled that the right of equal treatment in the housing market is a civil right guaranteed by the Michigan Constitution.

—Congress has approved a federal civil rights act containing open housing provisions.

—Several Michigan cities have passed local open-occupancy ordinances, and they have withstood challenges at the polls in Saginaw, Birmingham and Flint.

—Romney, who has strongly and repeatedly called for passage of such a measure, has withdrawn from the Republican presidential race and is expected to be in Lansing to twist the arms of wavering legislators.

More Flexible Now on Negotiated Peace

Viet Enemies Are Ready to Bend a Bit

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP — America's enemies in North and South Vietnam appear to have adjusted their thinking and to be showing signs of a readiness to make meaningful concessions to achieve peace.

At the same time, they show signs of determination to fight on indefinitely rather than accept what would look like palpable defeat or disastrous loss of face.

★ ★ ★

This picture emerged from discussions with Communist and Western diplomats in Cambodia's capital, including talks with responsible members of the diplomatic missions of North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front (NLF), the Vietcong's political arm.

Qualified sources claimed that both Hanoi and the NLF have adopted a more flexible attitude toward a negotiated peace than at any time since the United States first sent combat troops to Vietnam.

IT'S NOT WEAKNESS

Sources warned, however, that the Allied governments should not interpret this flexibility as weakness.

"They are prepared to make peace now because they feel they have adequately shown their strength, not because they are at the end of their rope," one Soviet diplomat said. "A miscalculation in Washington on this point could drag the war on for years.

★ ★ ★

Communist negotiating strategy, as pieced together from reliable diplomatic sources here, could be based on realism in Hanoi.

The Communist leaders, while probably convinced the Viet- in South Vietnam, no longer in South Vietnam, now longer believe the Americans can be pushed into the sea.

A LONG WAY

This would be a long way from the intransigent Communist posture in earlier stages of the war, which in effect rejected all negotiations until after the last American soldier had been withdrawn.

★ ★ ★

In the North Vietnamese view, there are three distinct stages of bargaining on what they expect to be a long and difficult road to peace:

1. "Contacts" 2. "Talks" and 3. "Negotiations."

The "contacts" stage would be conducted exclusively between Hanoi and the United States. No delegates or observers from other countries would be admitted. Ostensibly, the only item on the agenda would be an American declaration halting U.S. air and sea attacks on the entire territory of North Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

Behind scenes, Hanoi might offer some kind of assurance concerning North Vietnamese troop movements in South Vietnam. Such assurance would not be given publicly because Hanoi has never admitted its troops are deployed anywhere south of the Demilitarized Zone.

For this reason, the sources said, North Vietnam has been anxious to locate the initial "contacts" as far as possible from the glare of publicity.

When the bombing was fully halted, the way would be open — in the Communist view — for the second stage, described as "talks."

Serious difficulties are likely to arise in preliminary argument over who should take part in these talks, what they should cover and where they should take place.

North Vietnam, presumably secure from renewed bombing, would seek to step aside and invited the United States to carry on peace talks directly with the NLF. In current Communist jargon, the NL is "the sole representative of the South Vietnamese people."

This would be unacceptable to the United States. Hanoi fully expects it to be rejected. A possible compromise would involve armistice talks similar to the Panmunjom talks that ended the Korean war. Various nations could be represented but only two "sides" would negotiate.

The site of such talks would not necessarily be the same as where the "contacts" took place. The agenda could include discussion of a cease-fire and preparations for the ultimate peace conference, the third stage of the process. Fighting would continue, though possibly on a reduced scale.

The third stage, described as "negotiations," presumably would be held in Geneva under auspices of Britain and Russia, co-chairmen of the 1954 Indochina conference.

★ ★ ★

France and Red China would enter the scene at this point, as would the other participants in the 1954 meeting. Hanoi would demand full, independent delegation status for the NLF. In return, it probably would accept equivalent status for the allied powers including South Vietnam. The sources said by the time this final stage is reached, Hanoi expects the present Saigon government of President Nguyen Van Thieu to have been toppled in favor of a regime more willing to end the war by compromise.

Such a compromise, in the Communist view, would have to include an American withdrawl from South Vietnam, possibly spread over several years.

It would also provide for the creation of a "government of national unity" in which the NLF would have a large share but not necessarily a majority, set a date for free, possibly supervised, elections throughout South Vietnam, and draw up a big power declaration on South Vietnam's permanent neutrality and nonparticipation in military alliances.

Finally, both Hanoi and the NLF seem to be willing to shelve for a while the reunification of North and South Vietnam, which was the banner under which they began the struggle against the late President Ngo Dinh Diem 12 years ago.

Boy, 4, Phones for Help After His Father Dies

LANDSDOWNE, Pa. (AP) — "I want my mommy . . . my daddy's lying on the floor . . ." the small, frightened voice of 4-year-old Michael Fili said to the telephone operator.

His father, John, 46, had died, apparently of a heart attack while peeling potatoes. The youngster, alone, couldn't remember his last name or address.

★ ★ ★

"I knew he was in trouble," said the operator, Mrs. Helen F. Duly. She tried to calm the boy and 15 minutes after he picked up the receiver, the call was traced and police arrived at his home.

The boy's mother was at work at the time. Neighbors cared for Michael while she was located.

MARK OF EXCELLENCE

If you don't want to pay the price of America's roomiest car try the second roomiest:

'68 Chevrolet Impala 4-Door Sedan

a new Chevrolet like this

If things like head, shoulder and leg room are important to you, take a close look at the new Chevrolet.

Automotive News did—and its 1968 Roominess Index shows Chevrolet is the second most spacious of all American sedans.

The roomiest? That distinction, we're not at all embarrassed to admit, goes to America's most popular luxury car.

Based on the Roominess Index, which totals seven key interior dimensions to the fraction of an inch, Chevrolet's 4-door sedan scored 290.7. A tenth of a point behind the 4-door luxury model.

A pretty good showing when you consider how much more the expensive model sells for. And some of the other cars Chevrolet topped carry just as impressive price tags.

But that's just a sample of the pluses you get at a Chevrolet price. You'll find a lot more of them in the fine things Chevrolet has designed around all that space.

Drop down to your dealer's and bring the family. This one's a real crowd-pleaser.

Tigers Gain Despite 6-3 Loss to Senators

TAMES TIGERS — Rookie outfielder Del Unser of the Washington Senators heads for first after delivering a single that brought home two runs in a contest against the Detroit Tigers in Washington yesterday. Heading down the line toward home is Unser's teammate Paul Casanova. Watching the play is umpire Johnny Stevens. The Senators came up with five runs in the sixth and went on to down the Bengals, 6-3.

Howard Blasts 2 Home Runs to Snap Streak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank Howard socked a pair of homers Sunday — one igniting a five-run inning for Washington — as the Senators snapped Detroit's four-game winning streak 6-3.

Despite the defeat, the American League's front-running Tigers picked up a half-game and increased their lead to two games over Baltimore and Cleveland, locked in a two-way tie for second place as the Indians dumped the Orioles twice Sunday

★ ★ ★

Howard touched off the five-run sixth-inning burst with his eighth home run of the season off starter Mickey Lolich. The leadoff round tripper landed in the left centerfield seats. Ken McMullen also smacked a solo shot in the same inning to give the Senators a 5-2 lead.

Howard then led off the seventh with his ninth homer of the year, a shot off reliever and loser Daryl Patterson, which landed in the upper left field seats.

WRONG MIXTURE

"We didn't mix our pitches on him today and he's the kind of a guy who can kill you," said Manager Mayo Smith of Howard's performance.

"We took two out of three here and in Baltimore and after getting 12 runs in each of the last two games, I knew we needed a well-pitched game today and we didn't get it," said Smith.

★ ★ ★

Howard, pleased with the outcome said, "We've been going bad lately but are still only two under .500 and if I can hit one here and there, anything can happen.

For the seventh-place Senators, it was only their second victory in a nine-game home stand.

EARLY LEAD

The Tigers picked up an early lead on two runs in the third when Dick McAuliffe singled and Frank Coggins fumbled Mickey Stanley's grounder to second for an error with McAuliffe taking second. Al Kaline singled McAuliffe home and Bill Freehan then forced Kaline as Stanley scored.

In the eighth, Kaline scored from third on a single through the box by Tom Matchick.

★ ★ ★

Winner Joe Coleman, who went the distance without issuing a single walk, said, "I threw 82 fastballs, probably the most I've ever thrown."

Kaline, hitting .275, had some personal optimism, however. "It felt good to get seven hits in this series and now maybe I've got something going."

But Norm Cash was unable to share Kaline's hope.

SAME INJURY

"My knee just got well after missing a week and now I hurt it again in the same place sliding into second on that fourth inning leadoff double," mourned the big first baseman. "I don't know how long I'll be out this time."

Jim Northrup, who pulled a leg muscle Saturday and missed Sunday's game should be ready for the Tigers' next game, Tuesday night against Baltimore at Detroit.

Waterford Takes Title

Records Fall in Oxford Meet

The classiest field in the history of the Oxford Invitational put on a stirring show on the Oxford track Saturday and broke 10 records in the process.

★ ★ ★

The Skippers of Waterford won three events and piled up 36 points to lead the field of 15. Close behind were Rochester (29), Waterford Kettering (27) and defending champion Howell (25).

While Waterford dominated the overall competition, senior speedster Bob Woodruff of Rochester emerged as the outstanding individual of the 7th annual invitational.

Woodruff put a new time on the books in the 100-yard dash with a clocking of 9.8 seconds and he returned later to post a record 21.6 seconds in taking the 220-yard dash.

★ ★ ★

Rochester also picked up a couple other firsts. Dave Marr won the 440-yard dash in a record 51.5 seconds and the Falcons set their fourth record in winning the 880-yard relay in 1:33.

FIRST WIN

Butch Felnolon posted Waterford's first victory, taking the two mile in a record 9:59.0. Dave Galloway also cracked the record en route to a 4:29.7 effort in the mile.

★ ★ ★

Kettering's Captains checked in with a couple of record efforts. Eugene Pankner took the shot put in 55-feet-10½-inches, while Bill Penoza turned in a 19.7 time in taking the low hurdles.

Bill Freeman of Warren Fitzgerald leaped 6-feet-¾-inch to set a record in the high jump, and the other record-breaker came in the 880 with Oxford's Brian Edgett posting a time of 2:00.6.

Tim Willis gave Waterford its other victory with a 15.1 clocking in the high hurdles. Penoza grabbed a second in that event.

OLD FAITHFUL — Young Gary Bettenhausen will stick with a track relic (No. 47) when he attempts to pass his rookie driving test at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. No. 47 sits in front of No. 40, the turbine-powered machine that almost won last year's 500-mile race. Bettenhausen is hopeful that old No. 47, eventually to be bolstered by a 625-horsepower turbocharged power plant, will be competitive in this year's race. Gary's father, Tony, drove a similar car in several unsuccessful attempts to claim the '500' title. The No. 40 car was wrecked in a track test yesterday. See story, C-4.

EMBARRASSING MOMENT — California's varsity shell was swamped and sunk by waves just 200 meters into the 2,000-meter race with Stanford Saturday in the Redwood City harbor at Redwood City, Calif. The crewmen were fished from the water by the press boat. Stanford continued on to the finish line with four oarsmen rowing and the other four bailing. The race was declared no contest.

Slump-Breaking Hit Leads to Triumph

By The Associated Press

Willie Davis kept the faith in one old baseball adage and Walter Alston flouted another. The Los Angeles Dodgers came out ahead both ways.

Davis overhauled the law of averages Sunday, breaking an o-for-24 slump with a 12th inning triple and scoring on Zoilo Versalles' infield hit as the Dodgers nipped Atlanta 1-0 . . . with the help of hazardous managerial maneuver by Alston.

★ ★ ★

The Los Angeles skipper ordered Hank Aaron walked intentionally — putting the potential winning run on base — during the Braves' last-ditch rally in the bottom of the 12th.

"I wasn't going to let Aaron beat me," said Alston, explaining why he had Jim Brewer walk Aaron with two out and Felipe Alou, who had doubled, in scoring position. "I broke an unwritten rule, but Hank's one of those rare characters you can justify breaking that rule for."

FORCE PLAY

The Dodgers got away with it when Jim Grant, third reliever in the inning, induced pinch hitter Deron Johnson to bounce into a game — ending force play at second.

In other National League squeakers Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 2-1, Houston shaded first place St. Louis 3-2 and Cincinnati came from behind to beat San Francisco 3-1. The Chicago Cubs divided a doubleheader with New York, topping the Mets 4-3 before taking a 10-0 drubbing in the nightcap.

Mexican Netters Next U.S. Foe in Zone Action

By The Associated Press

Mexico will be the next United States opponent, as expected, in the American Zone of Davis Cup play after the Mexicans swept past Canada in the quarter-finals Sunday with a doubles victory.

★ ★ ★

Rafael Osuna and Vincente Zarazue crushed Mike Belkin and Keith Carpenter of Canada 6-3, 6-4, 6-3, for an insurmountable 3-0 lead, putting Mexico into the semifinals of zone play against the U.S. at Berkeley, Calif., May 20-22.

Equador also won its quarter-final series against Venezuela by winning the doubles for a 3-0 lead. Miguel Olvera and Pancho Guzman trounced Jorge Andrew and Ivo Savy 6-3, 6-2, 6-1, moving Equador into the zone semis against Chile.

FIRST SINGLES

Both Mexico and Equador had won the first two singles Saturday of their best-of-5 series, and the final meaningless singles will be played today.

In the only other Cup play Felicimo Ampon prevented Japan from gaining a sweep in the Eastern Zone Section A finals. The 47-year-old Philippines player outlasted 20-year-old Toshiro Sakai 7-5, 1-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Japan thus won the series 4-1 after an earlier singles victory as Ichizo Konishi of Japan defeated Eddie Cruz 6-1, 6-0, 6-4.

Dick Radatz Shows Form

"The Monster" is returning to form and the Detroit Tigers couldn't be happier.

Dick Radatz, one-time relief pitching scourge of the American League, made his second straight impressive showing for Toledo yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The 6-5, 240-pound righthander hurled a seven-inning two-hitter as the Mudhens downed Richmond, 1-0, in the second game of an International League doubleheader. Richmond took the opener, 6-5.

Radatz became ineffective a couple of years ago after starring for several seasons with the Red Sox and was traded to Cleveland. He went to the Chicago Cubs early last season, but wildness sent him to the minors where he never did regain his control.

ANOTHER LOOK

The Cubs took another look this spring at training camp. Radatz was so wild that batters were afraid to swing against him. He was released.

The Tigers signed him to a Toledo contract about a month ago and Bengal pitching coach Johnny Sain has been trying to correct the problem — apparently with success.

Radatz may see some action Thursday when the Tigers play an exhibition with their top farm club in Toledo.

Radatz outdueled Richmond's Frank Kreutzer to chalk up his first victory of the season.

New Bowling Leader in Men's State Play

JACKSON (AP) — With only one weekend to go in the 65th Men's State Bowling Tournament, Paul Drain of Detroit has pulled into first place in the handicap all-events category. Drain's 2,058 pinfall this weekend put him one pin ahead of former leader Ken Johnson of Holland. Meanwhile, Drain and his partner Dale Etherinbton of Detroit moved into second place in the handicap doubles with a 1358 and third nn the actual doubles with 1301.

Detroit Pabst was the only entry to penetrate the leaders. Pabst rolled a 3,003 to move into third in the team actual.

Trainer's Suspension Possible

Kentucky Derby Hearing Under Way

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The official hearing into the disqualification of kentucky Derby winner Dancer's Image got under way today with the possible suspension of Trainer Lou Cavalaris Jr. hanging on the outcome.

The hearing is to determine the guilt or innocence of those connected with the horse, including owner Peter Fuller of Boston and Cavalaris, one of North America's leading conditioners.

★ ★ ★

Fuller has said he will not allow Dancer's Image to run in Saturdays Preakness if Cavalaris is suspended and cannot saddle the horse.

Track stewards startled the racing world last Tuesday with the announcement that traces of phenylbutazone, a banned drug, had shown up in a routine urine speciman taken from the Derby winner after the race.

NEVER BEFORE

After that announcement the real bomb was dropped when stewards said Dancer's Image had been placed last and Forward Pass declared winner of the 94th running of the American classic. It was the first time a Derby winner's number had been taken down.

Phenylbutazone, or "bute" as it is called by horsemen, is an analgesic which is allowable for horses in training, but taboo for actual racing.

Cavalaris said the colt had been given a dose of the drug the Sunday before the race, but said the following six days should have been plenty of time for the effects of the "bute" to wear off.

Veterinarians are agreed generally that the drug usually is dissipated within 85 hours. However, Dancer's Image was being treated for weak ankles with cold water and ice packs, and there has been speculation that this slowed down his body's ability to shake off all traces of the drug.

ENTIRE DAY

Kelso Sturgeon, public relations director for Churchill Downs, said the stewards would devote the entire day to the hearing and would try to have the matter settled by the end of the day.

The stewards ordinarily have to watch the races but deputy stewards were appointed to observe today's racing so they could remain in the hearing.

Sturgeon also said many witnesses were scheduled to be heard.

Saginaw Bowler Leads

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Beulah McDuffy of Saginaw, a 107-average bowler, has taken over the lead in the handicapped singles division for the only change in leadership in the Women's State Bowling Tournament at Grand Rapids. Miss McDuffy combined actual games of 188, 181 and 198 with a handicap of 195 pins for a series total of 762. The tournament ends June 2.

Cleveland Hurlers on Shutout Spree; Angels With Errors

Orioles Beaten 4 Straight by Surging Indians

Tiant Pitches Fourth Consecutive Scoreless Game in Opener

BALTIMORE (AP) — "I expect a shutout every time one of my starters go out there," said Cleveland Manager Alvin Dark. "I think they're that good."

Ordinarily that would sound like so much managerial hokum. But the way Cleveland pitchers have been performing, Dark undoubtedly believes what he says.

★ ★ ★

After winning 10 of 11 games, including four in a row over the Baltimore Orioles during the weekend, the Indians have tied Baltimore for second place in the American League, two games behind the Detroit Tigers.

Of Cleveland's 16 victories, nine have been shutouts. Of its 12 defeats, seven have been by one run.

FOURTH SHUTOUT

Luis Tiant hurled his fourth consecutive shutout Sunday, blanking Baltimore 2-0 on a four-hitter. Stan Williams followed with a 4-1 six-hitter, missing a shutout on a ninth-inning homer by Brooks Robinson.

"You have to pitch a shutout to get in the rotation on this staff," said Williams, who lost a 1-0 decision in his only other start when Washington scored an unearned run.

★ ★ ★

The Cleveland staff pitched two shutouts in the Baltimore series, allowed four runs, and left town with a 1.99 earned run average.

★ ★ ★

Tiant who moved within one of the league record of five consecutive shutouts, set in 1904 by Doc White of the Chicago White Sox, had never before beaten Baltimore.

"About time I ween one," the Cuban right-hander said in broken English. "They been keeling me every year. I got good control theese time."

SIX STRAIGHT

The Orioles, who have scored only six runs while losing six straight — following an eight-game winning streak — advanced only one runner past first base against Tiant.

Tony Horton's run-scoring single in the sixth inning off Tom Phoebus ended the scoreless tie and Cleveland added an earned run in the ninth. Jose Cardenal's two-run double highlighted a three-run rally in the fifth which clinched the nightcap.

★ ★ ★

Steve Hargan, who has notched two shutouts, was sent home to Cleveland during the weekend for treatment of tendonitis in his right elbow.

Dark said he may take Billy Rohr out of the bullpen to start against New York Tuesday. But then came the terrifying threesome — Sonny Siebert, Sam McDowell and Tiant

Chisox Angry at A's Stealer

OAKLAND (AP)— Bert Campaneris of the Oakland A's thinks the Chicago White Sox are mad at him.

Campaneris, who scored two runs and stole two bases against Chicago in the 6-2 Oakland victory Sunday, was hit on the shoulder by a pitch from White Sox reliever Don McMahon in the sixth inning, and Hoyt Wilhelm sailed a pitch over Camp's head in the eighth.

★ ★ ★

"I think (Eddie) Stanky told them to throw at me," Campy charged. "He was mad because I knocked the ball out of the catcher's hand."

Campaneris scored the first run of the game on a hard slide that jolted the ball away from White Sox catcher Duane Josephson.

HELD BACK

After McMahon hit Campaneris, Campy took a few steps toward the mound but was held back.

Campaneris was thrown out on a third attempt to steal. He has 14 so far this season and that rate would finish the season with about 75.

★ ★ ★

"All I want to do is steal more bases than I did last year," he said. He set a club record with 55 thefts in 1967 and has led the American League in each of the last three years.

Third baseman Sal Bando also was a standout for the A's. He collected three hits and drove in two runs.

MADE DIFFERENCE

"We had a meeting before the game and the manager told us not to swing so hard," said Bando. He said to just meet the ball and not try to hit it out of the park.

★ ★ ★

"I cut down on my swing and it really made a difference."

The six runs were the most the A's have scored this season at Oakland Coliseum. Their 11 hits tied the home high.

★ ★ ★

Left-hander Tony Pierce was the winner, and Manager Bob Kennedy promised Pierce would start more often. Pierce was a last-minute replacement for John Odom, who had a sore shoulder.

★ ★ ★

UNEARNED RUNS

The A's spotted Chicago a first inning run and then moved ahead to stay with two unearned runs in the bottom of the first.

Bobbles Help Twins Defeat California, 4-2

Minnesota Relief Staff Chokes Off Threats in Series on Coast

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California Angels have taken to giving games away, something they didn't do last season when they led the American League in fielding.

They outscored Minnesota, 18 runs to 15, in a five-game series here last weekend. But three errors gave the Twins four unearned runs and a 6-5 victory in the second game of a doubleheader Friday night.

★ ★ ★

And Sunday the Angels committed four errors, one of them letting in a tie-breaking run and helping Minnesota win in the 10th inning, 4-2.

The fatal error Sunday was committed by shortstop Jim Fregosi, who has committed 11 miscues in the first 31 games this year. By comparison, Fregosi made only 25 errors all last season, when he was the American League's all-star shortstop.

"We knocked their starting pitchers out in every game and, with a little hitting and better fielding, we could have swept the series," moaned Manager Bill Rigney after watching the Angels tumble out of the first division.

STRONG RELIEF

The Angels could manage only four hits Sunday and, once again, were throttled by Minnesota reliefers Ron Perranoski and Al Worthington. Between them, they pitched 10 1-3 innings in the series, neither allowing a run.

"One more hit in the sixth inning and we could have broken the game wide open," Rigney said.

★ ★ ★

It was in that inning that Rick Reichardt and Paul Schaal coaxed walks off starter Dave Boswell to force in the runs that put the Angels ahead, 2-1. Singles by Jay Johnstone and Jimmy Hall, and an intentional walk to Don Mincher, had started the rally.

However, Perranoski, the ex-Dodger star, relieved Boswell, choked off the threat and went on to gain his third victory against no defeats. Worthington pitched a perfect 10th inning.

MORE BALANCE

The Twins' John Roseboro, the ex-Dodger catcher, claims Minnesota has better balance than the Los Angeles teams that won National League titles in 1959, 1963, 1965 and 1966.

"All the Dodgers had was speed and pitching," Roseboro says. "We (the Twins) have speed, power, defense, five good starters and a strong bullpen."

The Minnesota speed paid off in the 10th inning. Rod Carew led off with a single to left. Tom Burgmeier relieved loser Minnie Rojas, 1-2, and got Tony Oliva to hit a grounder to shortstop, with the infield drawn in. But Fregosi, hurrying because of Carew's speed, fumbled the ball for an error to let in the winning run. Later, Bob Allison walked to force in an insurance tally.

★ ★ ★

The Angels will play two games at Chicago and three at Minnesota this week before returning home May 20 for an 11-game stand against Boston, Cleveland and Detroit.

Minnesota's Gophers, whose last bid for baseball fame was winning the 1964 Big Ten and NCAA championships, have strengthened their lead in the current conference pennant race.

Minnesota swept a doubleheader from Illinois Saturday for a 10-2 standing and a one game edge over second-place Michigan State, 8-2.

★ ★ ★

The Gophers, apparently have a softer touch this week. They play only single games, both at home, against the struggling Iowa Hakeyes, 4-6, Friday and Saturday.

In Friday doubleheaders, Illinois (5-5) is at MSU, Northwestern (5-7) at Ohio State (2-7), Purdue (0-8) at Michigan (6-4), and Wisconsin (8-4) at Indiana (3-6)

Saturday's twin bills send Illinois to Michigan, Northwestern to Indiana, Purdue to MSU and Wisconsin to Ohio State.

ONE-HITTER

Dave Carey hurled a one-hitter as the Gophers blanked Illinois 1-0 in Saturday's opener. Catcher Ken Rizzo spoiled a no-hit bid with a third-inning single. Frank Stanek singled home the winning run. Minnesota took the nightcap 6-2 with a nine-hit attack.

Michigan State moved into pursuit of the lead by brushing aside Wisconsin 3-1 and 7-3. Mickey Knight won the first game on a five-hit no-walk performance. The Spartans rallied for six runs in the final inning of the afterpiece. Steve Garvey's two-run homer capped it.

★ ★ ★

Northwestern downed Michigan 4-3 as Gary Berman singled across winning pitcher Bob Shutts in the fifth inning. Michigan erased a three-run deficit with a six-run sixth inning to win the nightcap 7-6. The key blow was a two run double by Pete Titone, who also homered in the fourth inning.

Rain cancelled Indiana's single game at Ohio State and Iowa's doubleheader at Purdue.

Another Cup for Montreal

Canadiens Beat Blues in Four Straight

MONTREAL (AP) — Hector "Toe" Blake left the National Hockey League coaching scene Saturday the same way he entered it 13 seasons ago — with a splash.

Blake, 55, announced his retirement immediately following the Montreal Canadiens' third Stanley Cup triumph in four years and the eighth since he took over as coach before the start of the 1955-56 season.

★ ★ ★

Montreal swept past the St. Louis Blues in four games, taking Saturday's game 3-2 on J. C. Tremblay's third-period goal after trailing 2-1.

The ecstatic Montreal players hadn't even had an opportunity to dip into the champagne supplied for all post-Cup traditional parties, before Blake made the announcement that he was quitting.

TOUGHEST SEASON

Almost in tears, Blake broke the news, "after the greatest, but also the longest and toughest" season in 13 years behind the Montreal bench.

"I just can't take it anymore — the tension and the pressure are too much," Blake said.

★ ★ ★

The retiring coach set an NHL precedent when he brought the Cup to Montreal in five successive years from 1956 to 1960.

After his announced retirement Blake then spoke of his love of the game.

"I'd like to coach for 100 years, it's the only thing I can do, but I just can't take it any more.

MUST TRY

"Maybe I can't live without hockey, but for my health's sake I have to try it."

Blake has been threatening to retire for the last six years, while waging his private war with officials, fans and the press, but he always came back. However, this time he vows only a miracle could change his mind.

A great left winger on the famed Punch Line with center Elmer Lach and right winger Rocket Richard, Blake coached the way he played the game — all out.

Flyod Curry, a former teammate now supervisor of administration and public relations with the Montreal club, is currently touted as top candidate to replace Blake.

David Molson, the Canadiens' president, said he had known of Blake's impending retirement for "a couple of months" and said he and General Manager Sam Pollock will sit down today to screen a list of possible successors.

Tokyo Boxer in Title Bout Against Nino

TOKYO (AP) — Handlers of Japanese middleweight champion Yoshiaki Akasaka described the 24-year-old boxer as "elated and thankful" Sunday to get a chance to fight world champion Nino Benvenuti in a non-title match in Rome June 7.

"This is a real good opportunity for our boxes," Akasaka's manager, Miss Haru Nagano, said in an interview. "Akasaka is elated and thankful he's going to tangle with a world champion."

Miss Nagano said the Benvenuti-Akasaka fight was "suggested to us many times since last year." She said, however, the Japanese boxer "simply could not make up his mind."

Bowling with Hudepohl, a 927 average team, Gilkey had 636, Zaph 615 and Schroder 570. The other two members, Anita Bolmer and Getty Doll, bowled 571 and 531 series.

PNH Wins, Loses; Wolves Pull Upset

Pontiac Northern divided a twinbill with Flint Southwestern Saturday, while Northville's Mustangs were rained out but still won.

★ ★ ★

The Huskies of PNH downed Flint Southwestern in the opener, 3-2 but dropped a 4-2 decision in the nightcap.

The first game went to Northern in nine innings, while Southwestern erupted for four runs in the fourth inning of the second game to take command in that one.

The split left Northern with a 7-6 record.

★ ★ ★

Northville had a date at Brighton in a Wayne-Oakland League encounter, but rain stopped that contest along with the Bloomfield Hills Andover-Clarenceville tilt.

In another W-O game Saturday, West Bloomfield edged Holly, 3-1.

Sophomore Tom Lane belted a two-run homer in the first to give Clarkston a 2-0 lead and he doubled home another run in the Wolves' four-run sixth. The big blow in the sixth, however, was a bases-loaded triple by Jerry Ostrom.

★ ★ ★

Back-to-back doubles by Curtis Britton and Tom Stahr produced West Bloomfield's first run in the second and the Lakers added the other two on one hit and some faulty defensive play by Holly in the fifth.

Red Sox Flatten Yankees Twice

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Ellsworth pitched a three-hitter in the opener and Gary Bell scattered five hits in the nightcap as the Boston Red Sox flattened New York with first inning scoring flurries Sunday on the way to an 8-1, 4-2 doubleheader sweep.

The Red Sox, who had lost three in a row and six of their last eight starts, tagged Bill Monbouquette for five runs in the first inning of the first game, helping Ellsworth Breeze to his fourth victory of the season.

In thenightcap, Ken Harrelson's two-run double keyed a three-run first inning burst against Fred Talbot and Bell held off the Yanks for his first 1968 triumph.

Ellsworth, who struck out nine, lost a shutout in the fifth inning, when the Yankees scored on Bobby Cox's double, Bill Robinson's single and an error by third baseman Joe Foy.

Bell survived a two-run fifth inning homer by Andy Kosco in the nightcap.

MONBO POUNDED

Monbouquette, who took a 1.15 earned run average into the opener, gave up a single by Mike Andrews and then was raked for successive run-scoring doubles by Carl Yastrzemski, Reggie Smith and Harrelson. Singles by Foy and Elston Howard delivered two more first inning runs.

The former Boston right-hander was removed with the bases loaded and none out in the third. Andrews then slapped a two-run single off reliever Fritz Peterson.

★ ★ ★

Talbot retired the first two Boston batters in the second game, but walked Yastrzemski and was clipped for a ground rule double by Smith. Harrelson then doubled two runs home and scored on a single by George Scott.

★ ★ ★

Singles by Foy and Smith plus an error by right fielder Kosco gave the Red Sox another run in the fifth.

Yastrzemski stroked five hits in the twin bill and had nine in the four-game series, lifting his batting average to .296.

Dodgers' Strategy Pays Off in Win

Davis lined a shot up the right field alley with two out in the 6th and legged the hit into a triple. Versalles then brought home the game's only run by beating out a roller to the left side.

"I figured I had to get a dribbler or something sooner or later," said Davis, whose average had dipped from .273 to .219 during the slump. "But I was beginning to wonder."

FOURTH HIT

Davis' triple off Cecil Upshaw was only the fourth hit for the Dodgers, who managed just two in eight innings against starter Dick Kelley. Don Sutton, who worked the first nine innings, winner Jack Billingham, John Purdin, Brewer and Grant limited the Braves to seven hits.

Run-scoring singles by Roberto Clemente and Matty Alou gave the Pirates a 2-0 first inning lead and right-hander Al McBean made it stand up for his fifth victory in seven decisions.

★ ★ ★

McBean scattered seven hits while the Pirates tagged rookie Jeff James for five singles in the first . . . and just one more hit the rest of the way.

Denis Menke's two-run single off Bob Gibson with two out in the seventh carried the Astros past St. Louis. Larry Dierker held the Cardinals to seven hits, including a homer by Mike Shannon, in gaining his third victory against five setbacks.

ANOTHER HOMER

Willie Mays' 570th career homer gave the Giants a 1-0 lead at Cincinnati, but the Reds struck for three runs in the eighth and hung on to end a five-game losing string. Winning pitcher Gerry Arrigo allowed three hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

★ ★ ★

Leo Cardenas and pinch hitter Chico Ruiz got the Reds' rally started with singles and Cardenas scored the tying run as Pete Rose tapped into a force play. Alex Johnson followed with a run-scoring double and tallied on a single by Tony Perez.

★ ★ ★

The Cubs-Mets opener was tied 3-3 when Chicago pitcher Rich Nye led off the ninth with a single and was forced at second by Don Kessinger. Kessinger stole second and then raced all the way home with the winning run as Glenn Beckert beat out a bouncer to short.

Dick Selma stopped the Cubs on five hits in the nightcap and contributed three singles to New York's 17-hit assault. Met catcher Jerry Grote had three hits in the first game and stroked singles his first two times up in the nightcap for a three-game run of seven successive hits before the Cubs finally got him out.

After 10,000-Meter Victory

'64 Olympic Ace Sets Winning Sights

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Billy Mills, the United States' hero of the 1964 Olympic Games, sets his sights on another victory in the grueling 10,000-meter race and feels he's well ahead in his training program.

A member of the Marines when he won at Tokyo, Mills now works gof an insurance company in San Diego and so far has concentrated on shorter races.

★ ★ ★

At the West Coast Relays on Saturday night, he placed third in the two-mile race won by Veteran steeple chase runner Pat Traynor in 8 minutes 42.2 seconds. Mills' time was 8:43.3 for the race of about one-third the distance of his Olympic event.

"I was happy with that showing," declared the ex-marine who proved four years ago that American runners can win over the long haul. He doesn't know how the altitude at Mexico City will affect him, but he says he hopes to get in a lot of high altitude training this summer.

AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

"I'm way ahead of my 1964 schedule," Mills declared, "but I'm going to keep running the two-mile races for a while."

Billy wasn't much affected by the wind and chilly weather on Saturday night which spoiled many record attempts. Despite the weather, however, Bob Seagren of Southern California boosted his meet record pole vault to 17 feet 6¼ inches. He missed his three attempts at 17-8½ trying to better the world record held by teammate Paul Wilson, who missed this event because of a pulled muscle.

★ ★ ★

Villanova's mile relay team, anchored by Dave Patrick, clocked only 7 minutes 23.5 seconds off the world record of 7:16 at which it aimed. Jim Ryun brought Kansas into second place as he made up about 25 yards on his anchor lap after starting in fifth place.

Earl McCullouch won the high hurdles in 13.3 seconds, just one-tenth off the world record the Southern Californian star shares.

J. D. Hill of Arizona State ran a 9.3. for the 100-yard dash but in both cases the wind was 5 miles per hour above the allowable aiding limit.

San Jose State, winning the 880, mile and distance medley relays, captured the team title with 71 points. Brigham Young took second with 56, followed by California 37, Arizona State 26 1 x 3, New Mexico 24 and Villanova 23.

Lee Evans anchored both the 880 and mile teams for San Jose and in the latter he ran a 44.9 to beat Villanova's great sophomore Larry Jones after starting three years back.

Repairs Unlikely by May 30

Turbocar Badly Damaged in Practice

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Its frame badly wrenched in a practice accident Sunday, the STP turbocar that nearly won last year's Indianapolis 500 mile race probably won't be repaired in time to make the May 30 classic.

Driver Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., bumped the first turn wall after turning laps in the 166 mile per hour range. Leonard was not injured.

★ ★ ★

STP President Andy Granatelli said he does not think the car, No. 40, can be repaired in time for the race.

"We may figure out a way to get the job done in time to qualify it," he said. "But right now it looks like the car never will run again."

GEAR FAILURE

The turbine, then driven by Parnelli Jones, led nearly all the 1967 race until a minor gear failure eliminated it with only minutes remaining.

Another turbine fared better in Sunday's practice.

★ ★ ★

Mario Andretti, Nazareth, Pa., tested the vehicle in which English driver Mike Spence was killed Tuesday and turned in four laps in the 167 m.p.h. range. He clocked similar speeds in his own Ford-powered racer in other practice runs Sunday.

★ ★ ★

The day's best time was recorded by Dan Gurney, Costa Mesa, Calif., who posted a 168.099 in an Eagle—the fastest speed by a piston engine in warmups so so far.

★ ★ ★

One other accident occurred Sunday when Chuck Stevenson, Garden Grove, Calif., brushed the wall in his No. 94 Valvoline Special.

LOST CONTROL

Stevenson, who hadn't hit the wall in 13 years at the track, lost control in a patch of oil on the fourth turn. He escaped injury.

NFL Controversy Looms at Confab

ATLANTA (AP)—The annual spring meeting of professional football club owners gets under way here today with a controversy already looming between owners and players in the National Football League.

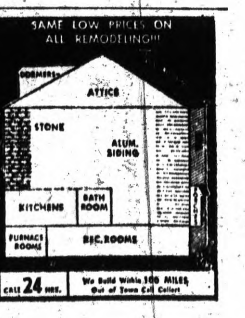

The player - owner dispute, which involved salaries and the pension fund, flared into the open Sunday when Art Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns and NFL president, said concessions being demanded by the players "come under the realm of impossibility."

Modell said he and his labor relations committee "are open to any suggestion that makes sense," but said two of the player demands are impossible.

The two player proposals considered impossible, Modell said, are that $5 million be contributed annually to the player retirement fund and that each player receive $500 for each exhibition game.

Tall City Tournament to Mickey With 204

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Veteran Mickey Wright is playing less golf, taking fewer strokes and winning oftener these days. But the tensions still are there.

Miss Wright won the $15,000 Tall City Open by four strokes Sunday with a three-under-par 204 and then apologized for not having a better final round.

★ ★ ★

She finished with a three-over-par 72 after three-under 66s the first two days. "I think a winner should have a better round," winsome Mickey said.

"I was playing scared because I feared the big edge I had would cause me to be careless," she added.

Miss Wright, 33, carried a five-stroke lead over Carol Mann and Shirley Englehorn into the rain-soaked final round. Miss Englehorn shot a 71 and finished second with 208 and Miss Mann had 209 with a final-round 72.

THANKFUL — Phil Rodgers strikes a thankful pose after dropping a 15-foot birdie putt during the final round of the New Orleans Open yesterday. He finished the 72-hole grind with a 282, 11 strokes off the pace.

Archer Takes Orleans Title

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — George Archer added $20,000 to his swelling bank account today — the result of a string of birdies that won the Greater New Orelans Open golf title.

The 6-foot-6 pro nailed down first place in the $100,000 tournament Sunday on the 18th green by tapping in a five-foot putt for his fourth birdie on the back nine.

★ ★ ★

With 67, Archer was four under par over the demanding 6,560-yard Lakewood Country Club course — 13 under at 271 for the 72 holes. His slice of the cash boosted his PGA tour earnings to $77,632 for the year.

★ ★ ★

A supurb finishing round of 66, five under par, boosted Bert Yancey to the second spot and a $12,000 payoff. Miller Barber, Tom Weiskopf and Bobby Cole tied for third at 276.

Barber and Weiskopf were tied for the lead when the final round began but both fired 73s for the last 18 holes.

TRIPLE BOGEY

Cole, who had a 65 Saturday, ran into a horrendous triple bogey at No. 15 when his tee shot disappeared in thick Spanish moss hanging from a cypress tree, and finished with a 70.

★ ★ ★

Archer was one under on the front nine. At No. 10 he three-putted from 45 feet for a bogey 5. Then he buckled down.

★ ★ ★

On 11 he chipped in from off the green for a birdie. At 12 he rammed in a 15-foot birdie putt. At 13 his lie was four feet off the green and 30 feet from the flag but his chip shot ran straight to the hole.

★ ★ ★

Weiskopf, leading money winner on the tour, lost his touch after a minor accident on the 10th tee. A wind gust blew down the portable score board—with the loud clatter coming just as Weiskopf was at the top of his backswing.

Weiskopf dropped his club and stalked away, then returned to hook his tee shot behind some trees — and hook his second shot into one of the 61 lakes on the course.

★ ★ ★

The double bogey 6, combined with a bogey on the next hole, dropped him out of contention.

Matmen After Olympic Berths

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Greco-Roman competition — a style of wrestling in which this country has been far from successful — got under way today in the second phase of the U.S. Olympic wrestling trials at Iowa State University.

The United States has been a steady loser in the event in international competition for years, but nonetheless some 100 grapplers were expected for the four sessions of trials today and Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

The first stage of the five-day trials, which help determine the makeup of the U.S. Olympic squad, ended Saturday night with the selection of eight free-style champions.

Larry Kristoff, a 250-pounder from Carbondale, Ill., took only 33 seconds to pin Iowa's Dale Stearns in the final heavyweight match. It was the fourth pin in five matches for the National AAU champion and member of the 1964 Olympic team.

OTHER TITLISTS

Also winning titles were Jess Lewis, Corvallis, Ore., 213.5 pounds; Ton Peckham, former NCAA winner, Iowa State, 191.5; Jason Smith, Iowa State, 171.5; Fred Lett, Ann Arbor, Mich., 154; Bobby Douglas, AAU winner, Bridgeport, Ohio, 138.5; Dick Sofman, AAU winner, New York, 125.5, and Sergio Gonzalez, UCLA.

However, winning a title here didn't assure a wrestler of a direct trip to Mexico City. Not only the winner, but also the No. 2 man in each weight, qualified for the Olympic training camp late this summer at Alamosa, Colo.

A series of matches at the camp will determine the final makeup of the team.

INVITATIONS SENT

In addition, Olympic officials said Sunday several wrestlers forced to pass up the trials here for medical reasons also will be invited to the camp.

They include Rich Sanders, two-time NCAA winner from Portland, Ore., 114.5; AAU champ Art Chavez of San Francisco, 114.5; Jim Hanson of Commerce Park, Colo., 125.5; Mike Young, Provo, Utah, 125.5 or 138.5; Wayne Wells, NCAA winner from Oklahoma, 154, and Pat Kelly of Chicago, 171.5.

Greco-Roman differs from freestyle in that use of the legs is prohibited.

Pearson Gets Rebel 'Check'

DARLINGTON, S. C. (AP)—Stock car racing's big money is being paid on the superspeedways, and it had been seven long years since David Pearson had drawn a winner's check from one of them.

Saturday, the 32-year - old Pearson drove his sleek blue and gold Ford Torino into victory lane after the Rebel 400 at Darlington and sighed:

★ ★ ★

"You're looking at the happiest man in this park, and right over there is the happiest boy." He pointed to 12-year-old Ricky Pearson, whom the proud father-driver feels is due large part of the credit for his $13,900 victory in the 12th running of the spring race at Darlington International Raceway."

★ ★ ★

Pearson finished the Rebel 400 almost a lap ahead of Darel Dieringer, a 45-year-old veteran Plymouth driver, in the fastest race ever run at Darlington—132.699 miles per hour. The drama of men and machines also drew the largest crowd ever for the Rebel, 35,000.

Safety Is Byword for Upcoming Apollo Tests

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Space officials here have made safety their byword as they prepared to start ground tests this month on the next three-man Apollo spacecraft.

This time, when the next trio of astronauts participate in the launch pad test that was going on when the Apollo 1 crew died, the door of their spaceship will be wide open.

★ ★ ★

Astronauts and personnel working around the spacecraft will be well rehearsed in how to handle fire emergencies.

The right kind of fire-fighting equipment will be on hand.

LESS FLAMMABLE

There won't be a 100 per cent oxygen atmosphere inside the cabin to help a fire along, and the spacecraft will be far less flammable.

It wasn't that way Jan. 27, 1967, when Air Force Lt. Cols. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee died in a ground test of their spaceship and rocket.

★ ★ ★

The door of Apollo 1 was sealed and they had no chance to get out in time. Launch pad personnel were not trained to cope with a spacecraft fire, and the proper fire-fighting equipment was not available. Apollo 1 was pressurized with 100 per cent oxygen, and much gear inside was not fireproof.

Throughout the testing and checkout schedule for the next Apollo spacecraft — to be flown by Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn Eisele and Walter Cunningham, a civilian — there is plenty of evidence of emphasis on safety.

TO ARRIVE SHORTLY

The craft, to be launched in September for an earth-orbit flight lasting up to 14 days, is to arrive at Cape Kennedy within a few days from the plant of the prime contractor, North American Rockwell Corp., Downey, Calif.

Twenty-one working days later — after the Apollo cabin section is mated to its engine section inside an altitude chamber here — the Schirra crew and pad safety personnel will rehease an emergency escape.

★ ★ ★

After these procedures are worked out, pressure tests in the altitude chamber will begin with the first of the series performed unmanned.

★ ★ ★

In the chamber and on the launch pad, astronauts will breathe pure oxygen inside their space suits, but the atmosphere in the Apollo cabin will be a mixture of 60 per cent oxygen and 40 per cent nitrogen to reduce the chance of fire, reported C. A. "Skip" Chauvin, NASA test conducter for the Schirra craft.

1056 Tablets A Year—FOR LIFE

That (at median dosage) is what a patient on prophylactic migraine medication has to ingest.

The above statement appeared recently in a leading Medical Journal. One thousand fifty-six tablets per year for life is the average dosage a migraine patient takes to help migraine headaches.

Isn't it a shame these migraine sufferers don't know how effective Chiropractic is in relieving this devastating condition. Do you have friends or relatives who suffer with migraines? Tell them about Chiropractic! They'll thank you!

Three Missouri Boys Missing a Year Without Trace

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — A year has passed since three Hannibal boys disappeared after one announced: "We're off to the caves."

Not one piece of physical evidence has been found to indicate their fate.

★ ★ ★

Joey Hoag, 13, shouted to a sister on the afternoon of May 10, 1967. It was the last anyone in the Mississippi River community of about 20,000 heard from Joey, who was seen walking with his brother Billy, 11, and Craig Dowell, 14.

A search of the caves which honeycomb the limestone beneath the city and surrounding countryside revealed nothing. Hundreds of volunteers crawled through the caves, which at most points are measured in inches.

MOM FACES UP

"I have to face up to it some day," Mrs. Helen Dowell, mother of Craig, said recently in an interview. "I can't help but feel they are buried some place around here . . . but God only knows where."

Mrs. Dowell has been reluctant to talk at length about her missing son and his friends. Her usual answer has been, "I don't want to exploit a tragedy."

★ ★ ★

She is a waitress at the Becky Thatcher restaurant in Hannibal, a city made famous in Mark Twain's "The adventures of Tom Sawyer."

In the book one episode told of Tom and his friend Becky Thatcher getting lost in one of the area caves. The story ended happily as Tom and Becky found an unknown opening and were saved.

DOOR UNLOCKED

Mrs. Mike Hoag, mother of Joey and Billy, did not give up hope. She refused to lock the back door of her modest home for months because she felt the boys might return.

Mrs. Hoag said recently she had received new information about her missing sons. She declined to reveal the nature of the information or its source.

"We can't give up and we won't until we find them . . . one way or the other," she said before losing her voice to tears.

During the past year another son, Michael Hoag Jr., 25, died in an automobile accident. Mike had helped search for the missing boys. He was the oldest of the 11 Hoag children.

RESCUE ATTEMPT

The search began the evening of May 10 after one of the boys failed to show up for a church meeting. The Mark Twain Rescue Unit of Hannibal was called out and initial efforts were pointed at Murphy's Cave on Hannibal's south side, near the homes of the boys. The rescue unit also searched the river and some islands.

Not far from Murphy's Cave, a new road bed for Missouri route 79 was under construction. The excavations uncovered previously unknown caves. The volunteers searched each one.

All clues and theories were checked out. Equipment used in the hunt ranged from bulldozers to electronic sounding devices and even a forked divining rod one man thought might located a water-filled cavern. The wooded area around the city was combed by National Guard troops. Police across the nation were alerted to watch for the boys on the chance they might have ridden a freight train out of the city.

After 18 days the formal search was abandoned.

The rescue unit has continued to search caves as they are found. After each effort the report has been identical . . . "not a trace."

Nobody, but NOBODY, Sees Hirohito

TOKYO (UPI) — It is considered boorish to peek at the emperor, but from atop Tokyo's newest and only skyscraper you can gaze right down into his yard, which is the nicest one in town.

But you can't see the emperor himself because the Imperial Household Agency recenly transplanted more than a thousand trees to give Hirohito more privacy.

★ ★ ★

People try, though, because It's fun to try to see him.

Another place to attempt a little emperor-peeking is the United Press International office on the third floor of the Mainichi Newspaper plant, just across the moat from the palace grounds.

NEVER HIM

I peer across the emperor's moat almost every day. I see his swans swimming back and forth and people riding his horses, but I never see him.

Actually, I did see him once, but not in his yard. A few months ago he crossed his moat to pay a neighborly call on the people in the Mainichi building. He brought his wife, Empress Nagako, with him.

★ ★ ★

The Mainichi people took the emperor to the top of their building and he did just what everybody else does up there. He looked down into his yard.

Hardly anyone gets onto the palace grounds.

Occasionally I see a delivery truck waved through a gate by a guard on the other side of the moat.

Very few people are honored with an audience with the emperor. They don't invite just anybody. Certainly not reporters. Nobody interviews the emperor.

Still, a surprisingly large number of people show up at the palace gate and demand to see Hirohito.

One woman who was unable to crash the gate took a dried fish from her purse and left it with a guard as a gift for his imperial majesty.

SOME ARE SEIZED

"We take about 50 people in to protective custody every month," said an officer at a police station near the palace grounds.

"About a third of them want to see the emperor or the empress or both."

★ ★ ★

In the prewar years anyone who dared to approach the palace was hauled to the station and grilled severely. Then Hirohito was officially a divinity. Things are different now.

Trade Moderately Active

Mart Firms After Shaky Start

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was firmer early this afternoon after an irregular showing in the morning. Trading was moderately active.

Gains outnumbered losses by some 150 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off .06 at 912.85 at noon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 329.9, with industrials unchanged, rails up .7, and utilities up .4.

Scattered weakness in blue chips put the brakes on the averages. The start of peace talks in Paris seemed to foreshadow a long and difficult process ahead, but the market itself had a big recovery move behind it, and many analysts said it apparently was in for a period of consolidation.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange. Gains of a point or more were made by Phillips Electronics, Buttes Gas & Oil, Ramer Industries, Applied Devices and Canoga Electronics. Clary Corp.

Junior Editors Quiz on PEARLS

QUESTION: How are pearls formed?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: The pearl ranks as a gem, but is different from other gems because it is not made of stone. Also, nature fashions the shape so we do not have to recut it to bring out the beauty.

Pearls grow inside six species of pearl oysters, especially those found in the Persian Gulf and the South Sea islands. A pearl begins as a tiny speck of sand or other foreign matter which gets into an oyster.

This irritates the soft body, so the outer body edge or mantle covers the speck with the smooth, delicately colored material or nacre which is used to line the inside of the two shells. Gradually, more and more nacre is added and a pearl forms, getting larger and rounder until it is free from the shell (upper picture).

Many oysters must be brought up by divers before good pearls are found. But when a good pearl is discovered it is an exciting moment, for pearls can have a fabulous value if they have perfect shape and that beautiful, mysterious luster for which this gem is so famous.

"Cultured" pearls are those formed artificially by introducing little pellets into the body of a living pearl oyster.

British Doctors Brace for Abortion Rush

LONDON (AP) — After years of argument, widespread abortions became legal in Britain — and free of charge — under a law that went into force in April. Medical authorities wonder whether the strained National Health Service can cope with the demand.

Roman Catholic doctors and nurses have threatened to fight the new abortion act. Sir John Peel, president of the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, says: "We have a built-in dislike for doing this operation." The British Medical Association is advising its 67,000 members physicians to refuse to follow the law in full.

★ ★ ★

But to many an unwed mother or harried housewife, it appears, the abortion act is a blessed revolution for women's rights. Public opinion polls show an overwhelming majority of Britons favor easier abortion under the new law.

Medical circles are unwilling to venture a guess on how much it may swell the abortion rate. A sociologist at Hull University estimates 10,000 to 100,000 abortions already are being performed every year in Britain, most of them illegal.

Since 1938, when four members of the Elite Guards Regiment raped and impregnated a 14-year-old girl, abortions have been permitted here if the prospective mother's mental or physical health was considered in danger. But these women have gone to society doctors, who charge exorbitant fees. Abuses have been common.

Doctors often sent patients to a psychiatrist, with advance coaching to say they were desperate enough to commit suicide. The psychiatrist recommended an abortion and the doctor performed it — under only a slight risk of prosecution.

★ ★ ★

The new act is aimed not at these doctors but at putting the illegal back-alley "abortion factories" out of business.

Under the law, pregnancies can be terminated free in the Health Service if the hospital involved agrees to perform the operation. Some have indicated they will not.

CONDITIONS SET

The new law allows an abortion if two qualified doctors agree a woman's physical or mental health is in danger, or if a substantial risk exists that her child will be born deformed or handicapped.

It also permits the abortion if two doctors agree that the woman's existing children would be unduly affected by an addition to the family. In addition, it permits the consulting doctors to weigh the circumstances under which she lives or may live later, including such factors as poverty or large families.

★ ★ ★

This "social clause" has been attacked by doctors, clergymen and members of Parliament. The medical association has urged its members not to perform "social abortions," arguing they violate respect for human life.

Whether the doctors will follow this recommendation remains to be seen. If not, says one woman gynecologist, "The pregnant teen-ager and the middle-class mother who are in no physical or mental danger may find that things have changed very little."

'CONSCIENCE CLAUSE'

A "conscience clause" in the act says doctors or nurses with a conscientious objection to performing abortions are not compelled to do so unless the patient is in danger.

Whether the new law means that more women will want abortions, or whether the demand will simply turn to hospitals instead of to bootleg abortionists, the problem remains: Can Britain's bulging hospitals handle the cases? Nonpaying patients already wait months for nonemergency surgery.

★ ★ ★

"The rush isn't starting — it is here," said one gynecologist. He said his clinic is booked solid for three weeks, and 12 out of 30 patients who registered in one day wanted abortions. In the industrial city of Birmingham, an advisory service to arrange abortions says it is getting 80 inquiries a week.

Many gynecologists argue they do not have beds enough for regular operations, let alone abortions.

STAYED NEUTRAL

The new law, proposed by a 30-year-old Liberal member of Parliament from Scotland named David Steel, was passed last year and sealed by the queen Oct. 27, to come into effect six months later. The House of Commons debated it over 13 months. The Labor government stayed neutral, but gave up some of its own debating time for the act to clear.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, speaking for the Church of England, first opposed the "social clause" but later changed his stand. Some Catholic parliamentarians gave limited approval to the health risk part of the law despite a 1966 statement by John Cardinal Heenan that "All destruction of life in the womb is immoral."

★ ★ ★

Some doctors contend the only value of the bill is to prevent the harm done by secret abortionists. They say Hungary allows abortions for anyone who wants one, and illegal operations reportedly have faded away. Czechoslovakia has a "social clause" similar to Britain's and clandestince abortions there have dropped.

But if the shortage of hospital beds in Britain remains crucial and the medical association's opposition is effective, the bootleg abortionist still will find plenty of customers in Britain.

Italy Gives Away Land on Famous Battlefield

ROME (AP)—Italy is giving away free — to foreigners only —plots of land where they can build villas of their own on one of the world's most historic battlefields.

To get the land free, an applicant must agree to put up the villa within two years.

★ ★ ★

To meet specifications it will cost the equivalent of $7,200 to $13,600.

Thirty-three of them have already been built; 50 more are started; 250 are expected to be completed by 1969.

20,000 APPLICANTS

And there are 20,000 letters of application for plots from the United States, Germany, Austria, England, Switzerland, France, Belgium, Holland and the Scandinavian countries.

The plots, ranging from 500 to 2,000 square meters each, are on the wooded slopes around Lake Trasimeno, 22 kilometers west of Perugia and 150 kilometers north of Rome.

Trasimeno was the Punic War battlefield where Hannibal, after marching his elephants across the Alps, defeated the armies of Rome in 217 B.C.

The land is being given away by the Tourist Board of the province of Perugia with a twofold aim; to bring more good-spending foreigners there, and to build up the region by enhancing property values generally.

★ ★ ★

Italians are completely frozen out of the deal. The foreigner who gets the land and builds the villa cannot give it, rent it or sell it to anyone of Italian nationality.

He is allowed, however, to transfer the property to another foreigner who lives abroad.

★ ★ ★

The new villa owners have to pay their share of putting in the necessary utilities.

The give-away plots of woodland or scenic hillside sites are in areas around the north and west sides of central Italy's largest lake. The area never has been greatly developed.

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

Oswald: "We haven't talked about no-trump bidding for a long time. Maybe we should discuss it again."

JACOBY

Jim: "A good idea. The basic idea of the opening no-trump is that it is bid with a hand that would be difficult to rebid if opened with anything else.

"In addition, the hand must be suitable for no-trump play. Thus, the standard opening no-trump is distributed 5-3-3-2, 4-4-3-2 or 4-3-3-3. It is downright silly to open in no-trump with a singleton."

★ ★ ★

Oswald: "Today's South hand is a good example of a maximum Jacoby no-trump. South has 18 high card points, all suits stopped and 4-3-3-3 distribution. It might be described as 18 points minus."

Jim: "That's right. Add a couple of 10 spots and we would open one club and jump in no-trump at our next turn to bid. The standard American no-trump has a point count range of 15-17 or 16-18, with 16-18 more popular. We use 15 plus to 17 plus and consider this as a 17 plus hand rather than an 18 pointer.

★ ★ ★

Oswald: "North also has a balanced hand and is able to raise to three no-trump by the use of simple arithmetic. He holds 10 points. This means that the partnership total will be somewhere from 26 to 28 and, since 26 should present a satisfactory play for game and it takes 33 for a satisfactory play for a slam, North bids three no-trump."

Jim: "There is no trouble with the play. South's jack of hearts wins the first trick and he notes that West surely holds that ace. Then South takes the four diamond tricks and leads a spade toward dummy's queen. When that queen holds, South plays a second heart. This line of play produces one spade, two hearts, four diamonds and two clubs for a total of nine tricks."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Home affairs dominate tonight. Earlier, your mind is centered on travel, change — later, you come down to earth. Don't compound error. Know where you belong — get there.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on short journeys, improved relations with neighbors. Mail, calls require attention. Avoid confusion by stating where you will be and at what time. Spotlight clarity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Money and how to increase earning power dominates attention. You seek greater authority and attract added responsibility. Good day to volunteer, to display unique abilities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Obtain hint from Sagittarius message. Circumstances work out in favorable manner for you. Take initiative, make contacts, put forth ideas. You are appreciated — be grateful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Organize, get facts in order. Work with group but remain behind the scenes. Important individual makes decision concerning you. Before day is over you have more positive attitude.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Some of your desires can be fulfilled through intervention of friend. Know this. Welcome helping hand. Don't permit pride to stand in way of progress. Share knowledge, aspirations.

IF TUESDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are fond of life, appreciative of those with musical or artistic talents. You would make fine critic because you are cabable of explaining delicate nuances of a performance. If single, marriage could be on horizon. If married, greater responsibility is due.

'Quake Due in LA Area'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — An earthquake formula developed by a geophysicist supports scientists' predictions that a large quake is overdue in the Los Angeles area.

The mathematical formula, developed by Dr. James N. Brune of California Institute of Technology, indicates how much the earth on either side of large cracks called faults can be expected to slip laterally during an earthquake.

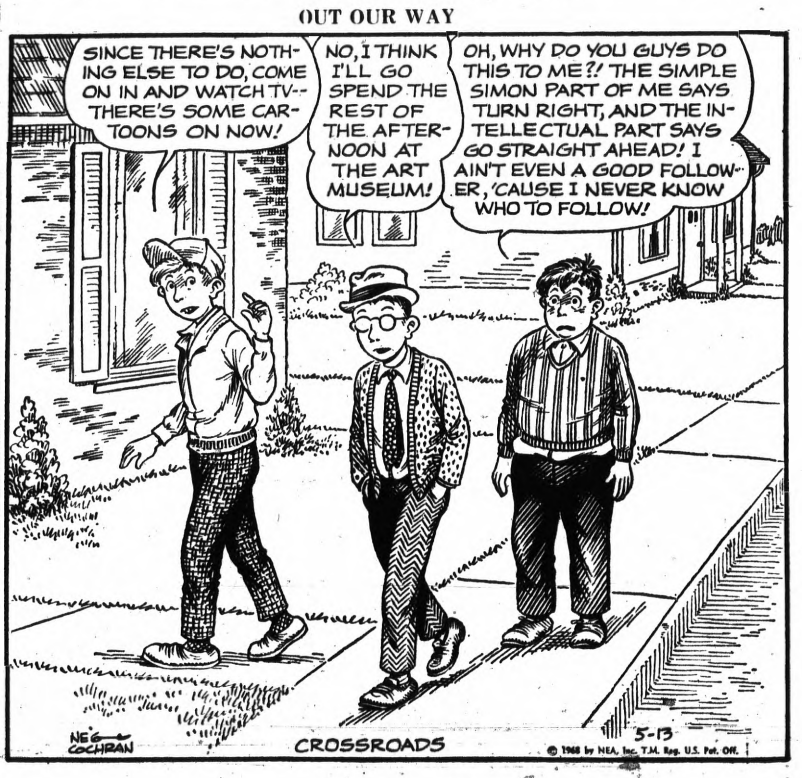

★ ★ ★

Brune figures the section of the fault between San Bernardino and the central coast range of mountains north of Los Angeles County may have amassed as much as 22 feet of "slip" since the last major quake there in 1857. A 22-foot slip would produce a tremor potentially disastrous to a populated area, he said.

John Paul Habiger says he and his wife had an understanding that the survivor of their marriage would give his life to the Lord.

His wife, Mildred, died in 1963, shortly after both of their sons, John Jr., and Henry Louis, had begun studies for the Catholic priesthood.

Habiger followed them into the seminary, and all three soon will complete their studies at Belmont Abbey at Belmont, N.C.

They are from Salina, Kan., and will be ordained at St. Benedict's Abbey in Atchison, Kan., on June 14.

Habiger was an oil well driller, a sales manager and a real estate appraiser before studying for the priesthood.

He and his sons are members of the Benedictine order. Benedictines take vows of poverty and obedience. When Habiger prepared to enter the seminary he divided his property among his two sons and his daughter, Paula, who is married. His and his sons' possessions will go to the Benedictine order.

Monkee Visits Arizona Traffic Victim

Rhonda Cook, 11, of Phoenix, Ariz., who lost a leg last week in a traffic accident, had a special visitor yesterday: television and recording star Davey Jones of the Monkees.

"He flew in here in an airplane, and the first thing he did was give me a kiss," said Rhonda, "and it was nice. It was like nothing else."

Jones learned from a newspaper story that Rhonda was carrying the Monkees' latest record album when struck by a pickup truck while crossing a street.

Jones autographed the Monkee posters which hung in her hospital room.

Dr. Seymour Weisman, Rhonda's physician, said, "morale is always important and now I think we can say that this patient's morale is excellent."

Candidate Puts Away See-Through Blouses

Topless dancer Vicky Drake has stopped wearing see-through blouses and donned a more serious image on the eve of student body elections at Stanford University.

Last week the blonde, who measures 38-22-36, led all primary candidates with 1,575 votes.

Miss Drake, 22, a Spanish literature major last term, is not now a student but says she plans to enroll again next fall.

In her bid for victory she has offered to join in a tea with Mrs. Wallace Sterling, wife of the university president. The elections are tomorrow and Wednesday.

Dennis Hayes, 23, a junior of Camas, Wash., who received 1,232 votes in the primary and is Miss Drake's major opponent, said, "It's difficult to attack her platform. To attack her platform is to attack her body and there is a California law against that."

Opera Star Collapses on Berlin Stage

American opera star Anna Moffo, making her first appearance last night in West Berlin, collapsed while singing the role of Violetta in Verdi's La Traviata. A friend said later her doctors had told her to take a long rest and she has canceled all engagements for three months.

Miss Moffo fell to the German opera stage just before she was to sing the famous first-act drinking song. Conductor Lorin Maazel stopped the orchestra. The curtain came down. The audience was told Miss Moffo was being treated by doctors.

Some in the audience were stunned. Others thought it part of her portrayal since the role calls for her to collapse.

Fifteen minutes later it was announced that Miss Moffo could not continue. She was replaced by singer Neyde Thomas, who happened to be on hand and knew the role.

The American-born Miss Moffo makes her home in Rome.

Spokesman said she had been taking injections for a painful back condition. "Apparently the condition and the injection weakened her and she fainted," the spokesman said.

Liquor Vote Asked in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A move to get a proposal for liquor-by-the-drink sales on the Utah ballot in November has been opposed by Mormon Church President David O. McKay.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman for a group which began circulating petitions Friday to have the issue put on the ballot said, "signing the petition does not necessarily indicate support of the proposal, but, rather indicates people should have an opportunity to vote on it."

★ ★ ★

McKay, 94, said Saturday "let no one be misled concerning the real intent" of the drive. "The real purpose is to make liquor more easily available."

$60-Million Offer in Debentures Set by Chrysler

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has announced it will offer $60 million in guaranteed convertible sinking fund debentures of Chrysler Overseas Capital Corp., shortly. The offer will be made outside the United States by an underwriting group headed by White, Weld & Co. Ltd. and S. G. Warburg & Co. Ltd.

★ ★ ★

The debentures will have a final maturity of 20 years with an unconditional guarantee by Chrysler and will be convertible in common stock of the corporation.

★ ★ ★

Chrysler Overseas Capital Corp. is a wholly-owned financing subsidiary of Chrysler Corp. incorporated in Delaware.

The debentures will not be offered in the United States or Canada, its territories or their possessions or to their citizens.

900-Mile Voyage Begun by Canoeist

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—Tony Calery, who gained the nicknames "Seaway Tony" and "Timber Tony" for his prowess in paddling canoes and as a lumberjack, is off on a 900-mile voyage to publicize Sault Ste. Marie's tricentennial celebration.

★ ★ ★

Calery left Three Rivers, Que., on Saturday, paddling his canoe toward the Soo. He plans to reach the Upper Michigan city in about a month.

In 1964, Calery paddled 2,000 miles from Sault Ste. Marie to New York.

Gunmen Rob Supermarket

DETROIT (UPI) — Redford Township Police today sought three armed men with ski masks who blasted a supermarket safe Saturday night and stole an estimated $12,000.

★ ★ ★

Police said the robbers entered the Farmer Jack supermarket about 10:30 p.m. Saturday and held 10 to 15 stock workers at gunpoint. In what police called, "strictly a professional job," the three blasted the safe with nitro-glycerine.

Taking the loot, the robbers fled north through the parking lot.

Father, 72, Slain

FENNVILLE (AP) — Authorities Sunday held a 13-year-old Fennville boy in the shooting death of his father. The father, George Gregory, 72, was killed Saturday. State Police said the boy, whose identity was withheld, was picked up a short while later carrying a 12-gauge shotgun.

U.S. Has Plan for Saving Rare Ducks

SOCORRO, N.M. (AP) — Whether its called the Mexican or New Mexican duck, the U.S. Bureau of Sports Fisheries is working to prevent its extinction.

There are only about 1,200 of the ducks known to exist and some debate exists among naturalists whether the waterfowl actually are one species or two.

★ ★ ★

Nonetheless, officials at the Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge 18 miles south of Socorro have started a program to create a habitat acceptable to the ducks and foster their survival.

The ducks are not adaptable, federal game personnel report, and prefer to nest near trees.

DEPOSED BY MAN

Years ago the ducks nested along the Rio Grande Valley but farms and cities changed that. So officials are trying to create a habitat for the ducks.

The program at the Bosque, as the refuge is called, will create ponds or potholes in low areas near trees so the ducks will be near both water and nesting locations.

★ ★ ★

Treated ammonium nitrate and dynamite charges are set about five feet underground and detonated to create the ponds. Each blast creates a pothole about 20 feet wide and six feet deep.

Underground water fills the potholes in 24-36 hours but it takes about a year for vegetation to grow sufficient for nesting ducks, game management officers said. Some 50 potholes are planned on the refuge.

NEW TYPE?

In the 1920s a naturalist named Wharton Huber described a new variety of duck in "The Auk," a naturalist publication. He said he had found what appeared to be a new type duck, which he called the New Mexican duck.

The question of whether the New Mexican duck is really different from the Mexican duck centers around a few buff-color feathers near the fowl's neck.

★ ★ ★

The New Mexican duck has them; the Mexican duck doesn't, say those who favor the two-species claim.

In appearance, however, both ducks look almost exactly like a female mallard. But the male New Mexican or Mexican duck also looks like a female mallard instead of having the bright colors of the male mallard.

TOOK A YEAR

When conservation efforts started nine years ago to save the ducks from extinction, it took a year to even locate a brood. A few finally were found northwest of Silver City in western New Mexico.

In the 1920s, when Huber first described the New Mexican duck, it was estimated that the species made up about 5 per cent of the total duck population in the state.

Unlike migratory mallards, the New Mexican ducks are stay-at-homes, seldom venturing further north than the Colorado border.

Barring unexpected hunting pressures or natural catastrophes, game officials hope for the ducks to make a comeback.

Bee Rental Business Honey of an Idea

EAST LANSING (AP) — The rent-a-bee business in Michigan is boosting benefits to beekeepers and fruit growers as well.

Beekeeping in the state had been on a gradual decline because of a static honey market, says Dr. Bert Martin, a Mich-State University entomologist.

Then bee rentals boomed.

Last year, some 10,000-12,000 colonies of bees were used on 6,000 acres of berries operated by the Michigan Blueberry Growers Association alone and the state's beekeepers benefited by some $70,000.

Bee pollination is required in the annual production of more than $80 million worth of Michigan crops, Martin explains. While wheat, oats, barley, corn and many other field crops are wind pollinated, most fruits and vine crops like cucumbers rely almost entirely on bees to carry out that process.

COMMON IN '20s

"In the 1920s, people realized that bees were necessary for some pollination," Martin says, "particularly in apples and tree fruit crops and it became fairly common to bring in some bees."

Several factors combined to push honey bees out of their hives and into the fields.

★ ★ ★

"Many of the state's blueberry plantations (totaling some 9,000 acres) are close together," Martin says, "and the bumblebees couldn't do all the pollinating necessary because the concentration of bloom was too much for them."

★ ★ ★

The number of crop acres requiring bee pollination increased, Martin adds, and pesticides took a toll of the native bee population.

RESEARCH SHOW GAIN

Until recently, however, it was assumed that the native bumblebee was an effective pollinator of blueberries and that honeybees were not effective because their tongues were too short to reach well into the flower.

But research undertaken by the MSU Department of Entomology — in cooperation with the Blueberry Growers Association — showed that blueberry bushes caged without bees each yielded 1.5-2 pounds of berries per bush, while several other bushes, which were "flooded" with honeybees, produced yields of up to 52 pounds each.

★ ★ ★

How does one rent a bee?

A grower simply contacts a beekeeper, tells him how many hives are needed and when.

The keeper loads the required number of hives — usually two per acre for blueberry fields — onto a truck and delivers them, then picks them up again when the bees have done their duty.

Venezuela Is Bidding for More Tourists

CARACAS (UPI) — Venezuela, located on the fringe of the rich Caribbean tourist market, wants to get into the middle of an expected U. S. travel boom to Latin America.

The nation's tourism promoters even are considering changing an island penal colony into a resort center.

★ ★ ★

This was one of the suggestions made during the recent first International Venezuelan Tourism Convention.

★ ★ ★

Latest figures show approximately 150,000 visitors coming to Venezuela every year, but only about 25,000 are considered to be tourists spending more than two or three days in the country.

LITTLE TIME

The others are businessmen or one-day visitors from Caribbean cruise ships who have little time to see Caracas or the rest of Venezuela after docking at La Guaira, the port for Caracas.

Minister of Development Luis Hernandez Solis, told the convention that President Johnson's desire to curb American travel to Europe and Asia "was an unexpected opportunity for South America to substantially alter the trends of world tourism."

★ ★ ★

Hernandez Solis estimated that 130,000 North Americans traveled to South America in 1966 while nearly 217,000 Latin Americans went to the United States. He said it was time to reverse the trend.

The main recommendation made by convention delegates was spending more money to promote Venezuelan tourism.

TOP ATTRACTIONS

Venezuela has some of the world's outstanding tourist attractions, including Angel Falls, at 3,281 feet the highest in the world, and the world's highest cable car, running in four stages to the top of Pico Espejo, 15,380 feet above sea level.

Delegates considered opening gambling casinos, and making a resort area of the penal colony on Tacarigua Island in Lake Valencia, about a two-hour drive from Caracas.

★ ★ ★

Work is about to start on a new $65 million airport for Caracas. At its completion scheduled for 1970, the airport will be able to handle up to 3.5 million passengers a year.

The interior of Venezuela has a chain of first-class hotels. Caracas has a hotel room shortage, but some relief is due this December when a new 430-room luxury hotel to be operated by The Hilton hotel chain is scheduled to open.

Vanishment of Maharishi Leaves New York Up in Air

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—There was a mystery here the other day: What happened to the mysterious Maharishi?

Very suddenly the Guru and the Beach Boys from California canceled several concerts. Three reasons were given by various people concerned. The Maharishi got pneumonia. The Maharishi remembered a Hollywood movie contract and flew there. Or, the Maharishi flew back to India, dejected that people walked out. Some folks weren't mesmerized hearing him talking about transcendental meditation while he sat in his white outfit on an antelope skin on a couch holding on to flowers.

WILSON

The Maharishi promised to rejoin the Beach Boys for a May 17 date in Denver. The Beach Boys, who were advised to sue him for leaving them, declined. They remain loyal and said they'll forever be his disciples.

A Look at TV

Emmy Show Nears

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's awards show, in which the Emmys will be passed out, comes along next Sunday night, pretty much winding up the awards season.

This has not been one of television's golden years. By and large, the regular fare, the series, have been predictable, grade B stuff. There has been a feast of old movies and a famine of meaty, quality drama.

★ ★ ★

This viewer, confronted with almost 250 nominees, would find it difficult to pick a favorite program or performer in most of the 47 categories.

Certainly much of the season's excitement was stimulated, first, by "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour," and, later, by "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-in." Both shows have several nominations and certainly deserve recognition if only for bringing some spice, daring and often a point of view into an entertainment area that had been slipping into a bland and perfunctory rut.

LAPSES IN TASTE

Occasionally there may have been lapses in taste and the viewer on occasion could disagree violently with their expressions of opinion, but the two shows combined to make a more stimulating season.

"CBS Playhouse" made a stab at bringing back meaningful, original drama, and had some success with two efforts, "Do Not Go Gentle into that Good Night" and "Dear Friends."

★ ★ ★

ABC's adaptations of some old movies with new stars didn't come off very well, but "A Case of Libel," with Van Heflin recreating his stage role, provided a fine evening of television.

Among the variety specials, one recalls with affection, "Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass," on CBS, a most imaginative show, and Frank Sinatra's NBC special with Ella Fitzgerald.

CHARACTER BLURRED

Raymond Burr probably deserves some award for managing, within a few months, to blur his well-established image as Perry Mason by developing a completely different and equally convincing character named Ironside—so convincing a lot of fans believe Burr is really paralyzed and in a wheel chair.

"PBL" on the educational network tried hard if not always successfully, in the current affairs area. ABC's "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich" was a painstaking and well-researched three-part series, and its "Africa," a marathon program that taxed the viewer's stamina, was certainly an ambitions piece of public service.

★ ★ ★

That does not add up to much of a list when one considers the thousands of hours of programming that went on the air. That is just one viewer's list—and any fairly regular viewer can make up his own.

There were all those fine hours of sports which television handles so expertly. There were the news shows, the discussion groups, the interviews and the analyzing, many of them enlightening, most of them well done.

★ ★ ★

But rarely does a single program stand out in memory like Eric Sevareid's conversation with Erich Hoffer, or carry the wallop of the educational network's documentary on migrant farm workers, "What Harvest for the Reaper?"

It may not have been a notable TV year, but the viewers apparently were enchanted by it. The most recent Nielsen surveys found that the average set was in use 6½ hours daily last January—peak viewing month—and had dropepd off only one hour in April.

Police Refuse Hippies' Gifts

CHICAGO (AP) — A group of gaily dressed hippies paraded to a Chicago police station Sunday in a demonstration of love on Mother's Day.

★ ★ ★

More than 100 gift-laden flower children walked a mile bearing such offerings as watermelons, pizzas, apple pies, daisies and love buttons.

★ ★ ★

"We want to become friends with the police department," said a spokesman for the group.

Capt. Kenneth W. Fossier cited a police regulation banning gratuities and directed the parade to a nearby children's hospital where the hippies left their offerings.

★ ★ ★

Fossier did accept a daisy and lilac sprig.

Moms Are Guests at San Quentin Fete

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — The prison gates swung open, and 158 mothers passed into San Quentin Sunday to visit their convict sons.

★ ★ ★

They came from all over California, and some from other states.

★ ★ ★

They breakfasted with their boys, two to a table, in the dining hall, and afterward strolled in conversation with their sons along flower-lined walkways.

Fair Housing, Court Reform in Spotlight Again

LANSING (AP) — The controversial issues of statewide open housing and lower court reorganization move back into the spotlight in the State Legislature today — nine months after they were first introduced at a special Legislative session.

The House begins debate on the open-housing bill, which would bar racial discrimination in most housing transactions, while the Senate starts its consideration of lower court reorganization, which would do away with the state's justice of the peace system.

★ ★ ★

Both Houses of the Legislature planned to convene at 3 p.m.

Backers of the open-housing measure, which has been approved in the Senate, say they have enough House votes to pass the bill eventually—probably after a long and heated debate.

ROCKY DEBATE

The lower court reorganization bill — reported out of committee with numerous amendments — faces a rocky debate in the Senate. But legislators are obligated to consider the question favorably by the new State Constitution, which calls for a new lower court system by 1969.

★ ★ ★

Legislators spent most of their time Friday, before taking a weekend break, trying to beat the midnight deadline for committee action on bills already passed by the opposite chamber.

A Senate-passed bill prohibiting a state agency from ordering a community to fluoridate its water was reported out of a House committee in an amended form. The bill now would require all communities to fluoridate their water supplies within three years.

The Senate received — with committee recommendation for for passage a controversial bill which would allow wiretapping by criminal investigators with circuit court permission.

An antisecrecy bill reported out of a Senate committee would make it illegal for state, county and municipal governing boards to meet behind closed doors, except when undertaking investigations concerning performance of their official duties.

Sent to the floor of the House was a Senate-approved bill which would provide a maximum 10-year prison term for "tumultuous or violent conduct" contributing to "public alarm or terror" or for inciting others to violence.

Eligible First-Time Voters Will Number 11.4 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Census Bureau figures indicate about 11.4 million Americans will be old enough to vote for president for the first time in this year's election—enough to hold the balance of power in a close race.

The newest potential voters comprise nearly 10 per cent of the total civilian population of 118.5 million the Census Bureau says will be of voting age this coming November.

★ ★ ★

Of these, however, about 8.5 million will be ineligible to cast ballots because they are aliens, are in mental or correctional institutions or fail to meet state residency requirements.

The bureau didn't attempt to spell out how many persons of voting age actually will be eligible to vote in November.

63 PCT. VOTED IN '64

But it said 63 per cent of the total civilian resident population of voting age cast ballots in the last presidential election.

The number of persons of voting age anticipated in November would be about 6 million more than November 1964 when President Johnson defeated then-Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., by landslide proportions.

★ ★ ★

The 1960 presidential election between the late President John F. Kennedy and then-Vice President Richard M. Nixon was decided by a margin of about 168,000 votes out of more than 68 million cast.

Eligible voters 24 years old or younger had the lowest voting percentage—51 per cent—of any age in the 1964 presidential election.

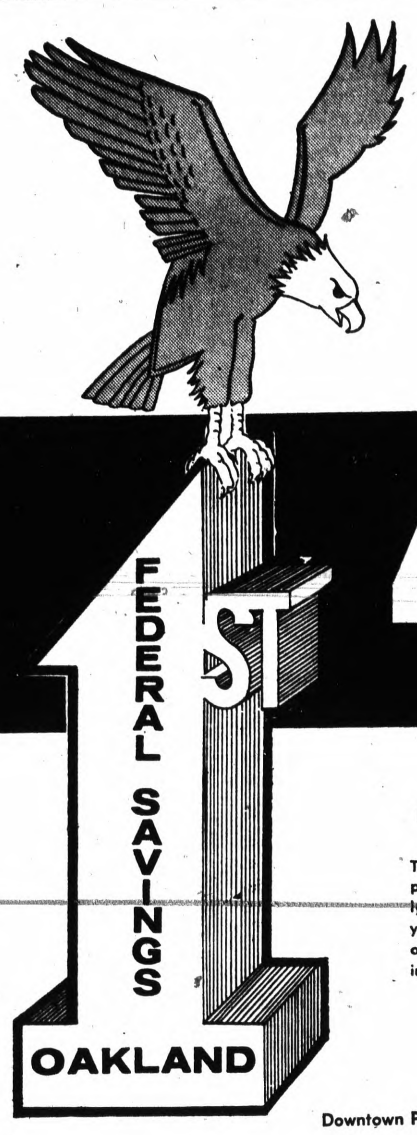

NO REPORT

The bureau didn't extract the number of collegians among this year's crop of those old enough to cast presidential ballots for the first time.

Generally, a person must be 21 to vote in any election but the minimum age is 19 in Alaska, 18 in Georgia and Kentucky and 20 in Hawaii.

★ ★ ★

New York is expected to have the largest resident population of voting age in the November election—11.7 million—followed by California with 11.6 million, the bureau said.

U.S., Hanoi Trade Opening Charges

PARIS (AP) — The United States accused North Vietnam directly today of moving "substantial and increasing numbers of troops and supplies" into the South, and called on the Hanoi government to take some "important step toward peace."

★ ★ ★

In an opening statement at the first round of substantive negotiations, Ambassador W. Averell Harriman renewed a U.S. offer to withdraw forces from Vietnam if and when the North pulls its forces from the South and the "level of violence" subsides.

"For our part," Harriman declared, "we desire no bases in South Vietnam, and we are prepared to leave the facilities we have built there to the people to use as they wish."

See Related Story, Page A-5

On the other side, Xuan Thuy told the meeting the United States has been defeated but is continuing its "aggression" against the people of Vietnam.

Xuan Thuy said the United States had been condemned by international opinion including opinion in the United States.

President Johnson, he added, had been obliged to announce a limitation of U.S. bombing but in reality aerial bombardment of an important part of the country is continuing and U.S. reconnaissance planes continue to fly over the country including the capital.

★ ★ ★

Xuan Thuy charged that new troops were being brought from the United States and new appropriations were being sought from Congress.

For the United States, Harriman told the more than three-hour meeting the securing of South Vietnam's freedom from outside interference is "at the core" of "serious and productive actions" for peace.

CITES DMZ STATUS

He also proposed:

- The United States and North Vietnam should restore the demilitarized zone "to its proper and original status."

★ ★ ★

- The neutralization agreements on Laos, maed in 1962, "should be honored and its people should be left to the peaceful life they desire."
- The people of South Vietnam, as a matter of principle, "must be allowed to determine their own future without outside interference."

★ ★ ★

In effect, this last point was a direct proposal for North Vietnam, once peace was established, to join in a U.S.-Assisted development program.

★ ★ ★

Harriman said the United States knows differences will arise in the future and the road ahead will be uneven "but we are not discouraged by this."

'SPIRIT OF SINCERITY'

"We came to Paris," Harriman went on, "in a spirit of sincerity, good faith and hope: the hope that reason will prevail over rancor; the hope that peace will overcome war; the hope that we here will look forward to the promise of tomorrow and not backward to the recriminations of the past."

★ ★ ★

The next meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday.

Area Couple Is Killed, Two Youths Hurt in Crash

Heavy fog pockets caused consternation this morning as commuters flooded freeways and other main traffic arteries in the rush to get to work and housewives stood beside the washing machines wondering whether to wash or not to wash.

By 10 a.m. the fog had lifted somewhat leaving a misty haze in its wake. Spring sunshine beaming above the cloud blanket, however, dried the excessive moisture and cleared the skies by afternoon.

★ ★ ★

As today's skies clear, temperatures are due to rise, according to the weather forecast. Tonight will be cloudy and mild with lows predicted in the 50-to-55 degree range.

Tomorrow should be perfect weather for outdoor enthusiasts planning excursions as sunshine and warm temperatures are predicted.

The low mercury reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 50. By 1 p.m. it warmed to 66. Precipitation probabilities in per cent are today and tonight 10 and tomorrow 20.

The five-day weather forecast predicts higher than normal temperatures through Saturday.

Tractor Driver Is Killed in Area

A LaPorte, Ind., man was killed yesterday when the tractor he was driving apparently overturned on a hill in the Commerce Township field he was plowing.

Lynn P. Donoghue, 24, was killed about 8:30 p.m. in a 20-acre area just west of Benstein near West Maple, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

★ ★ ★

Ollie Watkins of 915 Brushwood, Walled Lake, told deputies he had hired Donoghue to plow the field earlier in the day.

He said he checked with the victim about 6:30 p.m. and found everything in order. However, he said he was unable to find Donoghue or the tractor when he checked again at 9 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Watkins said after a search he found Donoghue pinned under the vehicle at the bottom of a hill in the north section of the field.

Spys Defect, Reds Say

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam claimed today that a band of seven "spy commandos" trained by the United States and South Vietnam to help pinpoint bombing targets in North Vietnam have defected to the Communists.

The Vietnam News Agency said the group was parachuted into northwestern Lai Chau Province in late April. The agency said they were instructed to collect intelligence information.

Call Musters 20,000 Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 20,000 Army, Air Force and Navy Reservists and National Guardsmen—about half of them Vietnam-bound—answer President Johnson's call to active duty today.

★ ★ ★

How long they stay in uniform will depend at least partly on the course of U.S.-North Vietnamese talks beginning today in Paris. They could be held on active duty for up to two years.

★ ★ ★

The course of the peace talks may also determine whether any more citizen soldiers and sailors will be called up. Pentagon officials said no decision has been reached on any further muster of Reservists.

Acting on Johnson's orders, Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford announced April 11 that about 24,500 reservists were being ordered to active duty. They were given 30 days to arrange their affairs before putting on their uniforms.

10,000 TO VIETNAM

Clifford said about 10,000 of the Reservists and Guardsmen would be sent to Vietnam to provide needed support troops and the rest would help fill out the badly depleted central force of fighting men kept in the United States for possible use worldwide.

Last week, about 1,250 Air Force and Air Guard troops were excused from active service because it was found regular Air Force units could provide the support functions the Reservists had been designated to fill.

★ ★ ★

This reduced the over-all call-up total to about 23,300. Nearly 20,000 report today. They form some 87 units in 34 states.

Another 3,600 individual Reservists from the Army ready reserve manpower pool will show up for active duty starting June 15, the Pentagon said. These men will fill out the ranks of understrength units called to active duty.

38,000 ACTIVATED

The new call-up brings to more than 38,000 the number of Reservists and Guardsmen ordered to active duty since January.

The first call-up involving 14,787 Air Reservists, Air Guardsmen and Naval Air Reservists, came Jan. 26, shortly after the North Koreans seized the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo and its crew.

★ ★ ★

That call-up enabled the Air Force to send more regular fighter units to South Korea and provided added strength for U.S.-based tactical air elements drained by the Vietnam war.

One squadron of Air National Guardsmen ordered to active duty in late January recently arrived in Vietnam for combat duty—the first fighting by a National Guard or reserve unit since the Korean War 15 years ago.

Mother's Day March Begins D.C. Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Poor People's Campaign, officially launched with a Mother's Day march through a riot-ripped Negro slum, now begins erecting the tent city to house some 3,000 demonstrators slowly converging on the city.

The first 450 of the campaign's rank and file reached the nation's capital over the weekend. More are scheduled to arrive by week's end.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., widow of the slain civil rights leader who conceived the campaign as a means of winning more federal help for the poor, led yesterday's march.

"These are difficult and crucial days for the way of nonviolence," Mrs. King told a rally at the end of the march.

STARVATION, SUPPRESSION

"I must remind you that starving a child is violence. Suppressing a culture is violence. Neglecting school children is violence. Punishing a mother and her family is violence.

"Discrimination against a working man is violence. Ghetto housing is violence. Ignoring medical needs is violence. Contempt for poverty is violence."

★ ★ ★

The demonstration, soaked by rain for most of its duration, went off without incident. Police Lt. E. J. Prete estimated the number of marchers at between 2,000 and 3,500.

Today the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, is to drive a stake into parkland near the Lincoln Memorial and thus signal the start of construction of shelters in what campaign leaders call Resurrection City.

ORDER MAINTAINED

Campaign marshals wearing black armbands with white letters PPC strove with waving arms and blaring bullhorns to maintain order and discipline.

The marchers strolled arm in arm down the middle of the street, singing songs such as "We Shall Overcome."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. King was joined on the speaker's platform by Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, wife of the New York senator.

Rocky Tries to Stop Nixon in West

Leonard Hall, former Republican national chairman, conferred with California Gov. Ronald Reagan—himself a potential nominee—and others of the 11 Republican chief executives at the Western Governors Conference.

★ ★ ★

"Just social calls," said Hall, who roamed through the convention hotel on the beach at Waikiki dressed in a Hawaiian shirt, the uniform of this meeting.

Thirteen state chief executives and the governors of American Samoa and Guam began four days of meetings on such Western problems as resources, transportation, economic development, land managment and water.

ATTRACT ATTENTION

As usual, however, gubernatorial political talks attracted as much attention as the morning and afternoon meetings on state problems.

Between meetings, the governors relaxed on the beach or saw the sights of Honolulu. Reagan spent Sunday afternoon on the beach.

★ ★ ★

Hall told a reporter that he doesn't believe former Vice President Nixon's support is as solid as his supporters claim.

★ ★ ★

While Hall said he didn't specifically urge Western governors to refuse to back Nixon, he said he believed most would "stay loose" until just before the convention, rather than sign up in the Nixon camp.

If enough state delegations stay uncommitted, Nixon would be deprived of victory on the first ballot — the aim of Rockefeller supporters.

NO 'HARD SELL'

Hall said he wasn't using a "hard sell" on the governors, just renewing old friendships.

And he said he would not ask Reagan to join a Rockefeller-Reagan ticket—the so-called "dream ticket" that many of the New Yorker's supporters talk about.

★ ★ ★

Reagan says he will not accept the vice presidential nomination.

The Californian also says he is not campaigning for the presidential nomination.

But speculation that he might enter the race was increased here by a speech he gave at a Republican dinner Saturday night in which he called for a stronger stand in Vietnam and criticized Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and President Johnson.

"Whatever the cost, the United States must honor its pledge to uphold the sovereignty and independence of South Vietnam," said Reagan in a talk that drew a standing ovation from some 9,000 Republicans who paid $100-a-plate to hear him.

Ordinance, Fee Changes to Be Eyed

BIRMINGHAM — Changes in this city's refrigeration and heating ordinance and in building permit fees are scheduled for consideration at the City Commission meeting at 8 tonight.

According to Building Official Harold C. Weber, the amendments to the refrigeration and heating ordinance are based on the model codes of the Reciprocal Refrigeration Council and the Refrigeration Council.

★ ★ ★

Weber's report on the amendments, however, also includes a section which would establish a board of building trades appeals, to be the official body for hearing appeals on permit requirements.

"All of our various code sections relating to building construction and equipment installed therein, have established to some degree a board of appeals." Weber explained.

PROCEDURE LACKING

"However," he continued, "I found that an appeal procedure was lacking in both the electrical and plumbing ordinances. Rather than to constitute separate boards of appeal for building, plumbing, electrical, heating and refrigeration, it was felt that one master appeal board would better serve the situation."

The board would include contractors from each of the building trades as well as an architect and, as an ex officio member, the building official.

★ ★ ★

Weber recommended in the second report that the city's permit fees be increased by an average of 88 per cent.

"A review of the income of this department received from permit fees," he commented, "indicates that this department has to be subsidized by tax monies for its operation."

FEES LOWER

At least 40 per cent of the money for the department, he added, must be appropriated from general tax money.

"A further review of the fees currently being charged by other municipalities in the suburban Detroit area, and also in the City of Detroit, indicated that our fees are substantially lower than any of the other areas," Weber continued.

★ ★ ★

The proposed rate structure, based on an average $40,000 single-family resident, would result in fee increases of 54 per cent for the building permit, 10 per cent for the electric permit, 116 per cent for the plumbing permit, 135 per cent for the heating permit, and 100 per cent for the air conditioning permit.

The proposals came before the commission April 29, but were delayed at City Manager Robert S. Kenning's recommendation, to allow time for notification of building tradesmen.

REPORT ON PAVING PLANS

Also on tonight's agenda is a report from City Engineer William T. Killeen on plans of the Oakland County Road Commission for the paving of Cranbrook Road from Lincoln to 14 Mile.

According to Killeen, the project will include three major grade changes in the street.

★ ★ ★

In the low section south of Lincoln, plans are for a maximum seven-foot raise in grade. A maximum nine-foot raise is planned for the low area north of 14 Mile, while the grade will be lowered a maximum of six feet south of Northlawn.

The project, Killeen said, will consist of construction of a 24-foot-wide pavement with shoulders and ditches.

The traffic and safety board has returned a report recommending that a request from residents for a stop sign at Abbey and Oxford be denied.

The board cited low traffic volumen and the good visibility of the intersection in the recommendation.

Sylvan Mayor Files for City School Election

Fred M. Crossman, mayor of Sylvan Lake, has filed to run in the Pontiac School District Board of Education election on June 10.

Three candidates have filed so far for one vacancy. The filing deadline is 4 p.m. today.

★ ★ ★

Earlier, Schools Business Manager Vern Schiller had set the deadline for Saturday.

He said the law requires that nominating petitions be received 30 days before the election, not naming a certain day of the week. A period of 30 days would make the deadline Saturday.

DEADLINE EXTENSION

But he said he found out the law requires that the period can't end on Saturday, extending it to the next business day, which is today.

Crossman became mayor last November, succeeding John M. Hanson. Crossman was mayor pro tem.

★ ★ ★

Crossman, 2461 Renfrew, was elected to the city council in 1965, ousting incumbent mayor E. V. Geizer. Crossman's term expires at the end of the year.

Crossman, 47, is employed at Construction Pipe Co. Inc. in Lincoln Park.

William H. Landis of 74 Preston, Waterford Township, won a Spoke award for being one of the five top new Jaycees in the state at a statewide Jaycee convention in Grand Rapids over the weekend.

Landis, who joined the Pontiac Jaycees in August, was elected treasurer of the city organization at a recenet meeting. He was cited for his participation and enthusiasm in Jaycee work.

★ ★ ★

Elected president of the state Jaycees at the convention was Robert Padget of Eastland, a 28-year-old supervisor at Ford Motor Co.

★ ★ ★

VOTE DELAYED

A floor fight over a vice presidency at the Jaycee annual convention in Grand Rapids dclayed the presidential election for a time.

★ ★ ★

In the contested spot, Don Hann, 30, of Holland upset former national director Frank Yurcus of St. Joseph. Hann is state legal counsel for the Jaycees.

★ ★ ★

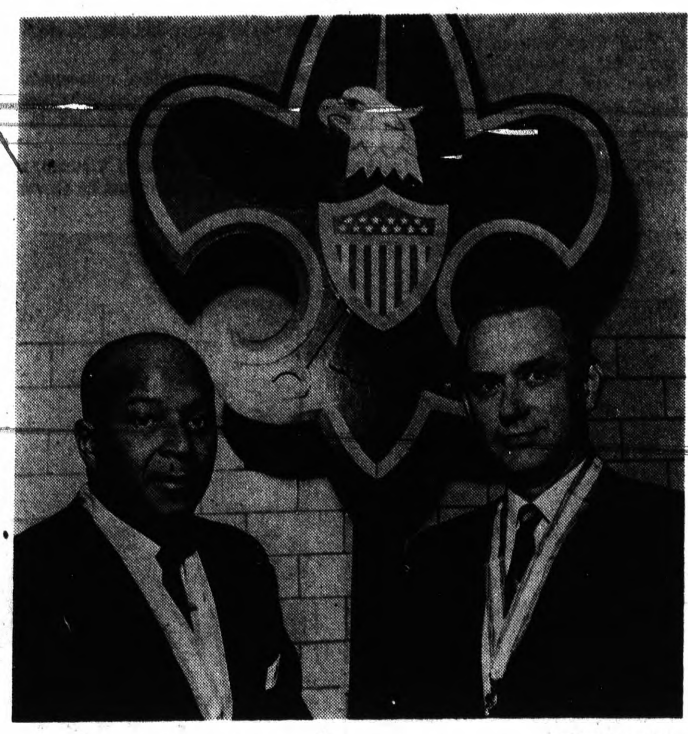

The other vice presidential post went to Don DeMoss, 31, of Swartz Creek, a national director.

The Clarkston Jaycees won a divisional Project of the Year award for a program of recreational therapy for children at Pontiac State Hospital.

Lewis E. Wint, Clarkston funeral director, was awarded a coveted Jaycee senatorship, which is a life-time membership in Jaycees International.

Wint was also cited as an outstanding member of the Michigan Jaycee Executive Board for 1967-68. Wint's wife, Diane, was selected as one of five for Jayceette honors.

State Republican Delegates to Put Candidates to Test

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan delegates to the Republican National Convention over the weekend considered 185 questions to test GOP presidential candidates on major issues but Gov. Romney will have a lot to say about handing out passing grades.

Many of the questions submitted reflected Romney's views. As favorite-son candidate, he leads the 48-member delegation.

★ ★ ★

Romney has asked the delegates and alternates to remain uncommitted until they have a chance to try the questions on announced contenders — former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Following Saturday's three-hour closed-door meeting, Romney said there "really wasn't any disagreement at all" about the questions on major issues.

'MORE UNIFIED'

"I think if anything the delegation is more unified than in 1964, the delegates cast 40 of 48 first-ballot votes for Romney and fought unsuccessfully for a strong civil rights plank.

The questions dealt with many Romney interest areas, such as "excessive concentration of power," Romney sees such concentration as the cause of the loss of the individuality in society.

★ ★ ★

On Vietnam, the candidates will be asked what they consider "the alternatives in Vietnam and what do you think is a fair and honorable conclusion in Vietnam for all parties."

Rockefeller will be the first to submit to questioning. The New York governor has agreed to meet with the delegation May 22 while in Detroit for a fund-raising dinner and speech at the Detroit Economic Club.

IN LANSING FOR DINNER

Nixon has arranged to meet with delegates May 27 while in Lansing for a dinner for candidates to the Michigan House.

Romney said a subcommittee will set the order of questions and the design of the meetings. The delegates overruled a committee recommendation and let the candidates see the questions in advance.

★ ★ ★

In other action, the delegates named their representatives to committees at the GOP National Convention.

U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, a delegate at large, and Mrs. Paul Robertson of Franklin were named to the platform committee.

OTHER COMMITTEEMEN

Named to the credentials committee were Mrs. John Riecker of Midland and Peter Fletcher of Ypsilanti.

Appointed to the committee on permanent organization we erMrs. Lavonne Lindroos of Ishpeming and Dwight Vincent of Dearborn Heights.

Fireman Saves 3 From Blaze

Pontiac Fire Chief Charles Marion said today he will recommend a special commendation for a fireman credited with saving the lives of three children in a house fire about 12:30 a.m. yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Fire fighter Richard Adams, 32, of 949 Emerson entered a burning and smoke filled bedroom where the children were sleeping and handed each to safety, according to Marion.

★ ★ ★

The blaze at 610 Pearsall, a 2½-story frame dwelling, caused some $10,000 damage, fire officials said. The cause hasn't been determined.

Four vehicles under the command of Capt. Talmadge Shelton responded to the alarm and were at the scene more than two hours.

EVACUATED CHILDREN

Adams evacuated the children of Mrs. Barbara Misher by handing two of them through a window and the third down a flight of stairs, Marion said.

"I have no doubt that he saved their lives," Marion said.

★ ★ ★

Firemen administered resuscitators to Leavette, 6; Ronald, 5; and Dwayne, 4; who were then taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for treatment for burns and smoke inhalation.

Leavette is reported in satisfactory condition, while the other two were treated and released.

Nebraska Vote Possible Bonus for Humphrey

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, an election favorite who won't admit it, and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy stage their final hunt for votes today in Nebraska's Democratic presidential primary—which could hold a political bonus for Hubert H. Humphrey.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, a Republican, said the vice president could poll a substantial write-in vote in Tuesday's Democratic showdown. Crossover voting is not permitted.

★ ★ ★

And the governor said he expects to see Richard M. Nixon capture 70 per cent of the vote in a Republican race which holds little suspense.

New York's Kennedy and Minnesota's McCarthy planned a series of campaign sessions between Lincoln and Omaha to wind up their second primary election clash in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination. Kennedy won the initial test, in Indiana last Tuesday.

LBJ ON BALLOT

Their names are on the Nebraska election ballot along with that of President Johnson, who spurned another race for the White House too late to have it removed.

Kennedy has pulled the larger crowds, and is rated a likely Nebraska winner by most Democratic politicians and surveys. But the senator is trying to dampen such talk.

★ ★ ★

He scoffs at surveys indicating he will take over half the Democratic vote. "How can I get 50 per cent with four of us in the race?" He asked Sunday as his campaign plane flew over western Nebraska.

In Indiana, Kennedy won with 42 per cent of the vote, McCarthy polled 27 per cent. The rest went to Gov. Roger D. Branigin, a favorite son.

INSULATE SELF

The object of Kennedy's Nebraska assessment, it seemed, was to enhance the impact of a big showing in his second primary outing, while insulating himself against assertions that a victory with less than 50 per cent of the vote would not help his presidential cause.

McCarthy all but conceded the election in advance. He has forecast a Kennedy showing of something over 40 per cent, with about 30 per cent of the vote in his own column. He chose to campaign in Oregon and California in the waning days of the Nebraska race, calling them key tests in the primary races for the nomination.

★ ★ ★

He picked up his Nebraska campaign Sunday—and said in McCook that a victory here would help him in those later primaries.

Nixon's opposition in the Republican race consists of California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who is on the ballot but says he isn't running for the presidency, and a miniature write-in movement for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a candidate not on the ballot. Perennial candidate Harold Stassen and a Nebraska cowboy named Americus Liberator also are on the GOP ballot.

HUMPHREY WRITE-IN

Tiemann said in an interview he believes Humphrey will fare well in Nebraska. Humphrey was in Omaha Friday night and Saturday, preaching his theme of Democratic and national unity—while denying he had any intention of trying to promote write-in votes.

"Some of the Democrats I've been talking to express an interest in McCarthy and Kennedy," said Gov. Tiemann, "But I think they're going to feel more comfortable with Humphrey when it comes time to mark those ballots."

★ ★ ★

Tiemann said that with Johnson's name on the ballot, votes for the President could logically be assumed to be votes sympathetic to Humphrey.

"The combination of the two could make Humphrey look very good," Tiemann said. Kennedy said he could not estimate the possible size of the Humphrey write-in votes. But he said labor leaders are pushing for it, and added he understood Humphrey supporters were conducting a telephone effort to encourage write-in votes.

DELEGATION CANDIDATES

Humphrey held a session with about 40 candidates for seats at the Democratic National Convention Saturday.

The preferential primary is not binding on the delegates who will be elected Tuesday to cast 28 Nebraska votes at the convention.

★ ★ ★

And there was an opening for Humphrey there. On the delegate ballot, 42 candidates are running pledged to President Johnson, 31 for McCarthy, 29 uncommitted and only one for Kennedy, whose candidacy began after the delegate lineup was in progress. Kennedy forces are supporting the uncommitted delegates.

Republicans will choose delegates to cast 16 nominating votes.

SMALL TOWNS

Kennedy spent Sunday campaigning from Wilber, in eastern Nebraska, to McCook, in the southwest, and drawing big crowds in small towns. He was in a buoyant, bantering mood, jokingly asked for votes for the sake of his 10 children. "Picture little children with tears running down their eyes, he said. "You wouldn't want that to happen."

If audiences were slow to applaud, he chided them. He told a crowd in Crete he was about to ride out of town with their cheers ringing in his ears.

★ ★ ★

At every stop, Kennedy said he wants to take steps to cut farm interest rates, extend subsidies, make sure grains are not poured onto the market in times of falling prices, and encourage collective bargaining in agriculture.

"I don't think we should penalize the farmer because he has done well and because he's efficient," he told some 4,000 people in a cavernous pavillion at Hastings. "I think he should be rewarded, and that's want I intend to do."

BETTER DEAL

McCarthy promised the farmer a better deal, too. He said the Department of Agriculture should make sure farmers receive a fair return for their produce.

McCarthy drew a crowd of more than 1,500 at an outdoor rally in McCook. Kennedy went to the same town to wind up his campaign day, and police esimated 2,500 were at an auditorium to hear him.

At the University of Nebraska, McCarthy told some 3,000 persons, most of them students, his campaign is based on the politics of conscience and of reason.

Medical Volunteers Are Trying to Solve Problems of the Poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — A young mother awoke at 2 a.m. to find her infant son violently ill. Outside her home, soldiers with fixed bayonets patrolled the streets and she was afraid to try to get through to a hospital.

Around the corner from the 12th Precinct, two men jumped a soldier from behind, knocked him to the ground and kicked him in the throat. He couldn't breathe. His heart stopped. In a matter of minutes, he would be beyond saving.

★ ★ ★

In both instances during last month's civil disorder here, disaster was averted by doctors who belong to the Medical Committee for Human Rights, a volunteer organization which has staffed emergency medical centers in riot areas across the nation.

A call from the frightened mother to the committee brought a pediatrician to her home within minutes to treat her son for an ear infection.

SAVE SOLDIER

A team of volunteer doctors who had been treating minor injuries in the 12th Precinct jail rushed to the injured soldier, applied heart massage and saved his life.

★ ★ ★

"We started this committee in 1964 to provide emergency medical care at times and in places where ordinary medical care is, at best, inadequate and, at worst, nonexistent," said Dr. George Wilson, national president of the committee, in an interview from Philadelphia where he teaches at Temple University.

★ ★ ★

"Doctors and nurses responded to pleas from Selma, Ala., that year, pleas from organizations working on voter registration.

"When it was over, we found that we weren't satisfied with just stitching up cut heads. We decided we should be doing something to keep heads intact in the first place."

4,000 MEMBERS

In 1965, the Medical Committee for Human Rights became a full-fledged national organization, incorporated in New York City. It claims a national membership of 4,000. Since then, its members have found themselves ministering to the sick and injured in Bogalusa, La.; marching with James Meredith down U.S. 51 in June, 1966 and in the midst of the Chicago, Detroit and Washington civil upheavals.

They have lobbied on Capitol Hill for strong medicare and Social Security laws; worked with the Office of Economic Opportunity to provide improved medical care for children in the Head Start program and studied the health problems of city jails.

★ ★ ★

"As much as this country has done, there are a lot of medical needs that the nation isn't meeting, a lot of medical needs the communities aren't meeting," said Dr. Arthur Frank, a member of the committee's Washington branch.

"We're trying to change attitudes and meet the needs where we can find them on a temporary basis until permanent solutions are found."

WORKING IN DETROIT

Among the 20 cities where the committee is working are New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Detroit, Boston, Washington, St. Louis, Topeka, Baltimore, Atlanta, New Haven and Syracuse.

Some members of the committee are fond of saying their organization represents the medical arm of the civil rights movement. Wilson does not agree.

★ ★ ★

"It started that way," he said, "but the old civil rights movement died with the concept of successful nonviolence on the Meredith march, and at that point we expanded our aims to take on national goals and national programs concerned with all sorts of human activities—particularly the correction of the inadequacy of health and medical care to all the poor—the Negro, the Mexican American, the poor white man."

★ ★ ★

For that reason, the Washington branch of the committee has, for weeks, been stockpiling drugs—the bulk donated by 19 drug companies, one drug store chain and the District of Columbia Health Department—for availability when the Poor People's Campaign gets to town.

READY TO GO

"We've got doctors, nurses, medical students, technicians, lawyers, wives and health specialists—several hundred of them— all ready to go to work in whatever way they're needed for this thing," said Dr. Sidney Wolfe, the committee's man in charge of preparations for the campaign.

"We'll set up a health unit right in the middle of the new city the poor people say they're going to build. It's mobile. It will go wherever they go."

★ ★ ★

Wolfe emphasized that the committee is in no way involved with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in organizing the campaign, scheduled to begin here May 19.

"We've offered our services in providing medical care, that's all," he said.

Turbocar Badly Damaged in Practice

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — wall after turning laps in the 166 Its frame badly wrenched in a mile per hour range. Leonard practice accident Sunday, the was not injured.

STP turbocar that nearly won ★ ★ ★ last year's Indianapolis 500 mile race probably won't be repaired in time to make the May 30 classic.

Driver Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., bumped the first turn

STP President Andy Granatelli said he does not think the car, No. 40, can be repaired in time for the race.

"We may figure out a way to get the job done in time to qualify it," he said. "But right now it looks like the car never will run again."

GEAR FAILURE

The turbine, then driven by Parnelli Jones, led nearly all the 1967 race until a minor gear failure eliminated it with only minutes remaining.

Another turbine fared better in Sunday's practice.

★ ★ ★

Mario Andretti, Nazareth, Pa., tested the vehicle in which English driver Mike Spence was killed Tuesday and turned in four laps in the 167 m.p.h. range. He clocked similar speeds in his own Ford-powered racer in other practice runs Sunday.

★ ★ ★

The day's best time was recorded by Dan Gurney, Costa Mesa, Calif., who posted a 168.099 in an Eagle—the fastest speed by a piston engine in warmups so so far.

★ ★ ★

One other accident occurred Sunday when Chuck Stevenson, Garden Grove, Calif., brushed the wall in his No. 94 Valvoline Special.

LOST CONTROL

Stevenson, who hadn't hit the wall in 13 years at the track, lost control in a patch of oil on the fourth turn. He escaped injury.

★ ★ ★

A season high of 32 cars was on the track as practice went into its final week before Saturday's initial qualifying day.

NFL Controversy Looms at Confab

ATLANTA (AP)—The annual spring meeting of professional football club owners gets under way here today with a controversy already looming between owners and players in the National Football League.

The player - owner dispute, which involved salaries and the pension fund, flared into the open Sunday when Art Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns and NFL president, said concessions being demanded by the players "come under the realm of impossibility."

Modell said he and his labor relations committee "are open to any suggestion that makes sense," but said two of the player demands are impossible.

The two player proposals considered impossible, Modell said, are that $5 million be contributed annually to the player retirement fund and that each player receive $500 for each exhibition game.

Miss Wright by 4 Strokes

Tall City Tournament to Mickey With 204

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Veteran Mickey Wright is playing less golf, taking fewer strokes and winning oftener these days. But the tensions still are there.

Miss Wright won the $15,000 Tall City Open by four strokes Sunday with a three-under-par 204 and then apologized for not having a better final round.

★ ★ ★

She finished with a three-over-par 72 after three-under 66s the first two days. "I think a winner should have a better round," winsome Mickey said.

"I was playing scared because I feared the big edge I had would cause me to be careless," she added.

Miss Wright, 33, carried a five-stroke lead over Carol Mann and Shirley Englehorn into the rain-soaked final round. Miss Englehorn shot a 71 and finished second with 208 and Miss Mann had 209 with a final-round 72.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

John Paul Habiger says he and his wife had an understanding that the survivor of their marriage would give his life to the Lord.

His wife, Mildred, died in 1963, shortly after both of their sons, John Jr., and Henry Louis, had begun studies for the Catholic priesthood.

Habiger followed them into the seminary, and all three soon will complete their studies at Belmont Abbey at Belmont, N.C.

They are from Salina, Kan., and will be ordained at St. Benedict's Abbey in Atchison, Kan., on June 14.

Habiger was an oil well driller, a sales manager and a real estate appraiser before studying for the priesthood.

He and his sons are members of the Benedictine order. Benedictines take vows of poverty and obedience. When Habiger prepared to enter the seminary he divided his property among his two sons and his daughter, Paula, who is married. His and his sons' possessions will go to the Benedictine order.

Monkee Visits Arizona Traffic Victim

Rhonda Cook, 11, of Phoenix, Ariz., who lost a leg last week in a traffic accident, had a special visitor yesterday: television and recording star Davey Jones of the Monkees.

"He flew in here in an airplane, and the first thing he did was give me a kiss," said Rhonda, "and it was nice. It was like nothing else."

Jones learned from a newspaper story that Rhonda was carrying the Monkees' latest record album when struck by a pickup truck while crossing a street.

Jones autographed the Monkee posters which hung in her hospital room.

Dr. Seymour Weisman, Rhonda's physician, said, "morale is always important and now I think we can say that this patient's morale is excellent."

Candidate Puts Away See-Through Blouses

Topless dancer Vicky Drake has stopped wearing see-through blouses and donned a more serious image on the eve of student body elections at Stanford University.

Last week the blonde, who measures 38-22-36, led all primary candidates with 1,575 votes.

Miss Drake, 22, a Spanish literature major last term, is not now a student but says she plans to enroll again next fall.

In her bid for victory she has offered to join in a tea with Mrs. Wallace Sterling, wife of the university president. The elections are tomorrow and Wednesday.

Dennis Hayes, 23, a junior of Camas, Wash., who received 1,232 votes in the primary and is Miss Drake's major opponent, said, "It's difficult to attack her platform. To attack her platform is to attack her body and there is a California law against that."

Opera Star Collapses on Berlin Stage

American opera star Anna Moffo, making her first appearance last night in West Berlin, collapsed while singing the role of Violetta in Verdi's La Traviata. A friend said later her doctors had told her to take a long rest and she has canceled all engagements for three months.

Miss Moffo fell to the German opera stage just before she was to sing the famous first-act drinking song. Conductor Lorin Maazel stopped the orchestra. The curtain came down. The audience was told Miss Moffo was being treated by doctors.

Some in the audience were stunned. Others thought it part of her portrayal since the role calls for her to collapse.

Fifteen minutes later it was announced that Miss Moffo could not continue. She was replaced by singer Neyde Thomas, who happened to be on hand and knew the role.

The American-born Miss Moffo makes her home in Rome.

Spokesman said she had been taking injections for a painful back condition. "Apparently the condition and the injection weakened her and she fainted," the spokesman said.

Liquor Vote Asked in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A move to get a proposal for liquor-by-the-drink sales on the Utah ballot in November has been opposed by Mormon Church President David O. McKay.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman for a group which began circulating petitions Friday to have the issue put on the ballot said, "signing the petition does not necessarily indicate support of the proposal, but, rather indicates people should have an opportunity to vote on it."

★ ★ ★

McKay, 94, said Saturday "let no one be misled concerning the real intent" of the drive. "The real purpose is to make liquor more easily available."

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has announced it will offer $60 million in guaranteed convertible sinking fund debentures of Chrysler Overseas Capital Corp., shortly. The offer will be made outside the United States by an underwriting group headed by White, Weld & Co. Ltd. and S. G. Warburg & Co. Ltd.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Chrysler Overseas Capital Corp. is a wholly-owned financing subsidiary of Chrysler Corp. incorporated in Delaware.

The debentures will not be offered in the United States or Canada, its territories or their possessions or to their citizens.

900-Mile Voyage Begun by Canoeist

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)— Tony Calery, who gained the nicknames "Seaway Tony" and "Timber Tony" for his prowess in paddling canoes and as a lumberjack, is off on a 900-mile voyage to publicize Sault Ste. Marie's tricentennial celebration.

★ ★ ★

Calery left Three Rivers, Que., on Saturday, paddling his canoe toward the Soo. He plans to reach the Upper Michigan city in about a month.

In 1964, Calery paddled 2,000 miles from Sault Ste. Marie to New York.

Gunmen Rob Supermarket

DETROIT (UPI) — Redford Township Police today sought three armed men with ski masks who blasted a supermarket safe Saturday night and stole an estimated $12,000.

★ ★ ★

Police said the robbers entered the Farmer Jack supermarket about 10:30 p.m. Saturday and held 10 to 15 stock workers at gunpoint. In what police called, "strictly a professional job," the three blasted the safe with nitro-glycerine.

Taking the loot, the robbers fled north through the parking lot.

Father, 72, Slain

FENNVILLE (AP) — Authorities Sunday held a 13-year-old Fennville boy in the shooting death of his father. The father, George Gregory, 72, was killed Saturday. State Police said the boy, whose identity was withheld, was picked up a short while later carrying a .12-gauge shotgun.

U.S. Has Plan for Saving Rare Ducks

SOCORRO, N.M. (AP) — Whether its called the Mexican or New Mexican duck, the U.S. Bureau of Sports Fisheries is working to prevent its extinction.

There are only about 1,200 of the ducks known to exist and some debate exists among naturalists whether the waterfowl actually are one species or two.

★ ★ ★

Nonetheless, officials at the Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge 18 miles south of Socorro have started a program to create a habitat acceptable to the ducks and foster their survival.

The ducks are not adaptable, federal game personnel report, and prefer to nest near trees.

DEPOSED BY MAN

Years ago the ducks nested along the Rio Grande Valley but farms and cities changed that. So officials are trying to create a habitat for the ducks.

The program at the Bosque, as the refuge is called, will create ponds or potholes in low areas near trees so the ducks will be near both water and nesting locations.

★ ★ ★

Treated ammonium nitrate and dynamite charges are set about five feet underground and detonated to create the ponds. Each blast creates a pothole about 20 feet wide and six feet deep.

Underground water fills the potholes in 24-36 hours but it takes about a year for vegetation to grow sufficient for nesting ducks, game management officers said. Some 50 potholes are planned on the refuge.

NEW TYPE?

In the 1920s a naturalist named Wharton Huber described a new variety of duck in "The Auk," a naturalist publication. He said he had found what appeared to be a new type duck, which he called the New Mexican duck.

The question of whether the New Mexican duck is really different from the Mexican duck centers around a few buff-color feathers near the fowl's neck.

★ ★ ★

The New Mexican duck has them: the Mexican duck doesn't, say those who favor the two-species claim.

In appearance, however, both ducks look almost exactly like a female mallard. But the male New Mexican or Mexican duck also looks like a female mallard instead of having the bright colors of the male mallard.

TOOK A YEAR

When conservation efforts started nine years ago to save the ducks from extinction, it took a year to even locate a brood. A few finally were found northwest of Silver City in western New Mexico.

In the 1920s, when Huber first described the New Mexican duck, it was estimated that the species made up about 5 per cent of the total duck population in the state.

Unlike migratory mallards, the New Mexican ducks are stay-at-homes, seldom venturing further north than the Colorado border.

Barring unexpected hunting pressures or natural catastrophes, game officials hope for the ducks to make a comeback.

Bee Rental Business Honey of an Idea

EAST LANSING (AP) — The rent-a-bee business in Michigan is boosting benefits to beekeepers and fruit growers as well.

Beekeeping in the state had been on a gradual decline because of a static honey market, says Dr. Bert Martin, a Mich-State University entomologist.

Then bee rentals boomed.

★ ★ ★

Last year, some 10,000-12,000 colonies of bees were used on 6,000 acres of berries operated by the Michigan Blueberry Growers Association alone and the state's beekeepers benefited by some $70,000.

Bee pollination is required in the annual production of more than $80 million worth of Michigan crops, Martin explains. While wheat, oats, barley, corn and many other field crops are wind pollinated, most fruits and vine crops like cucumbers rely almost entirely on bees to carry out that process.

COMMON IN '20s

"In the 1920s, people realized that bees were necessary for some pollination," Martin says, "particularly in apples and tree fruit crops and it became fairly common to bring in some bees."

Several factors combined to push honey bees out of their hives and into the fields.

★ ★ ★

"Many of the state's blueberry plantations (totaling some 9,000 acres) are close together," Martin says, "and the bumblebees couldn't do all the pollinating necessary because the concentration of bloom was too much for them."

★ ★ ★

The number of crop acres requiring bee pollination increased, Martin adds, and pesticides took a toll of the native bee population.

RESEARCH SHOW GAIN

Until recently, however, it was assumed that the native bumblebee was an effective pollinator of blueberries and that honeybees were not effective because their tongues were too short to reach well into the flower.

But research undertaken by the MSU Department of Entomology — in cooperation with the Blueberry Growers Association — showed that blueberry bushes caged without bees each yielded 1.5-2 pounds of berries per bush, while several other bushes, which were "flooded" with honeybees, produced yields of up to 52 pounds each.

★ ★ ★

How does one rent a bee?

A grower simply contacts a beekeeper, tells him how many hives are needed and when.

The keeper loads the required number of hives — usually two per acre for blueberry fields— onto a truck and delivers them, then picks them up again when the bees have done their duty.

Venezuela Is Bidding for More Tourists

CARACAS (UPI) — Venezuela, located on the fringe of the rich Caribbean tourist market, wants to get into the middle of an expected U. S. travel boom to Latin America.

The nation's tourism promoters even are considering changing an island penal colony into a resort center.

★ ★ ★

This was one of the suggestions made during the recent first International Venezuelan Tourism Convention.

★ ★ ★

Latest figures show approximately 150,000 visitors coming to Venezuela every year, but only about 25,000 are considered to be tourists spending more than two or three days in the country.

LITTLE TIME

The others are businessmen or one-day visitors from Caribbean cruise ships who have little time to see Caracas or the rest of Venezuela after docking at La Guaira, the port for Caracas.

Minister of Development Luis Hernandez Solis, told the convention that President Johnson's desire to curb American travel to Europe and Asia "was an unexpected opportunity for South America to substantially alter the trends of world tourism."

★ ★ ★

Hernandez Solis estimated that 130,000 North Americans traveled to South America in 1966 while nearly 217,000 Latin Americans went to the United States. He said it was time to reverse the trend.

The main recommendation made by convention delegates was spending more money to promote Venezuelan tourism.

TOP ATTRACTIONS

Venezuela has some of the world's outstanding tourist attractions, including Angel Falls, at 3,281 feet the highest in the world, and the world's highest cable car, running in four stages to the top of Pico Espejo, 15,380 feet above sea level.

Delegates considered opening gambling casinos, and making a resort area of the penal colony on Tacarigua Island in Lake Valencia, about a two-hour drive from Caracas.

★ ★ ★

Work is about to start on a new $65 million airport for Caracas. At its completion scheduled for 1970, the airport will be able to handle up to 3.5 million passengers a year.

The interior of Venezuela has a chain of first-class hotels. Caracas has a hotel room shortage, but some relief is due this December when a new 430-room luxury hotel to be operated by The Hilton hotel chain is scheduled to open.

Does Snoopy Know Sopwith's for Sale?

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — A World War I Spad, a Fokker D-VII, a Sopwith Camel and other vintage aircraft will be auctioned May 29.

★ ★ ★

About 30 planes from World War I and II go on sale. They are part of a collection gathered by two stunt pilots and movie flyers—Frank Tallman and the late Paul Mantz. Two Nebraska investment firms acquired the planes a year ago.

Admission to the auction at Orange County Airport will be by invitation only.

Fair Housing, Court Reform in Spotlight Again

LANSING (AP) — The controversial issues of statewide open housing and lower court reorganization move back into the spotlight in the State Legislature today — nine months after they were first introduced at a special Legislative session.

The House begins debate on the open-housing bill, which would bar racial discrimination in most housing transactions, while the Senate starts its consideration of lower court reorganization, which would do away with the state's justice of the peace system.

★ ★ ★

Both Houses of the Legislature planned to convene at 3 p.m.

Backers of the open-housing measure, which has been approved in the Senate, say they have enough House votes to pass the bill eventually—probably after a long and heated debate.

ROCKY DEBATE

The lower court reorganization bill — reported out of committee with numerous amendments — faces a rocky debate in the Senate. But legislators are obligated to consider the question favorably by the new State Constitution, which calls for a new lower court system by 1969.

★ ★ ★

Legislators spent most of their time Friday, before taking a weekend break, trying to beat the midnight deadline for committee action on bills already passed by the opposite chamber.

A Senate-passed bill prohibiting a state agency from ordering a community to fluoridate its water was reported out of a House committee in an amended form. The bill now would require all communities to fluoridate their water supplies within three years.

The Senate received — with committee recommendation for passage — a controversial bill which would allow wiretapping by criminal investigators with circuit court permission.

An antisecrecy bill reported out of a Senate committee would make it illegal for state, county and municipal governing boards to meet behind closed doors, except when undertaking investigations concerning performance of their official duties.

Sent to the floor of the House was a Senate-approved bill which would provide a maximum 10-year prison term for "tumultuous or violent conduct" contributing to "public alarm or terror" or for inciting others to violence.

Eligible First-Time Voters Will Number 11.4 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Census Bureau figures indicate about 11.4 million Americans will be old enough to vote for president for the first time in this year's election—enough to hold the balance of power in a close race.

The newest potential voters comprise nearly 10 per cent of the total civilian population of 118.5 million the Census Bureau says will be of voting age this coming November.

★ ★ ★

Of these, however, about 8.5 million will be ineligible to cast ballots because they are aliens, are in mental or correctional institutions or fail to meet state residency requirements.

The bureau didn't attempt to spell out how many persons of voting age actually will be eligible to vote in November.

63 PCT. VOTED IN '64

But it said 63 per cent of the total civilian resident population of voting age cast ballots in the last presidential election.

The number of persons of voting age anticipated in November would be about 6 million more than November 1964 when President Johnson defeated then-Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., by landslide proportions.

★ ★ ★

The 1960 presidential election between the late President John F. Kennedy and then-Vice President Richard M. Nixon was decided by a margin of about 168,000 votes out of more than 68 million cast.

Eligible voters 24 years old or younger had the lowest voting percentage—51 per cent—of any age in the 1964 presidential election.

NO REPORT

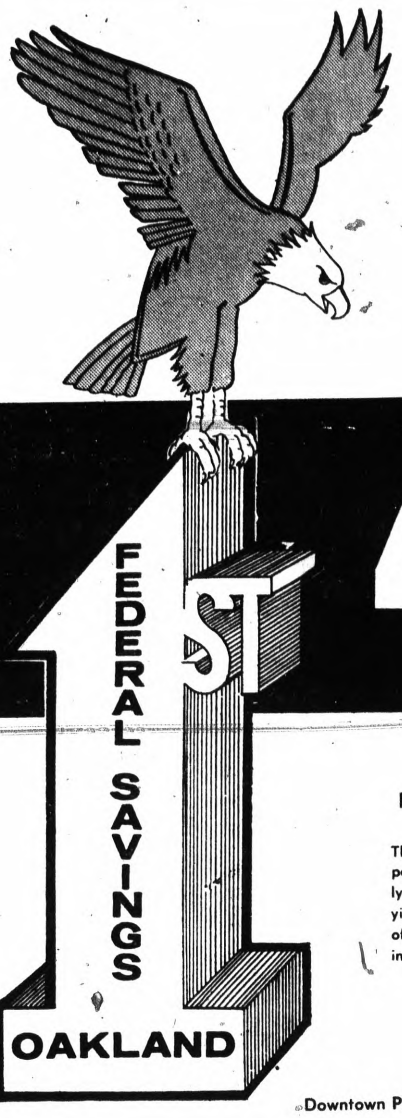

The bureau didn't extract the number of collegians among this year's crop of those old enough to cast presidential ballots for the first time.

Generally, a person must be 21 to vote in any election but the minimum age is 19 in Alaska, 18 in Georgia and Kentucky and 20 in Hawaii.

★ ★ ★

New York is expected to have the largest resident population of voting age in the November election—11.7 million—followed by California with 11.6 million, the bureau said.

But Not This One

Toaster Might Warm Mom's Heart

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I was given my Mother's Day present a few days prematurely because, "It was something I would find useful" and there was no sense having me do without it another day. You have no idea how disappointed I was to find my "gift" was a household appliance.

ABBY

Please warn these unsuspecting, generous shoppers not to be brainwashed by salespeople who will try to sell them electric appliances, such as toasters, mixers, blenders, vacuum cleaners, and washer-dryers to give to Mother as a "gift." These items are not really gifts, they are tools of her trade just as a saw and hammer are a carpenter's tools.

★ ★ ★

How many husbands would be thrilled to unwrap a pair of hedge clippers, or a gallon of paint and some brushes on Father's Day?

ONE WHO KNOWS

DEAR ONE: Sorry, but you rattled the wrong cage. Any of the "tools" you mentioned would be a most welcome gift to the woman who faces the normal routine of housework daily. As long as she must cook, clean, and do the laundry, anything that helps her do it more easily and faster is indeed a great gift.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who is a sophomore at college (about 200 miles from home) has been bringing home his "girl" for weekends since last October. She also is a sophomore, and seems to be a nice enough girl, but we don't "know" her any better now than the first time he brought her home.

You see, she always has a book with her. She sits in our company while everyone is conversing, and keeps her nose in the book. She hardly ever says a word, her head is down and she reads. I say this is very rude. Our son has tried on several occasions to draw her into the conversation, but so far he hasn't succeeded. Is there some way WE can pry some conversation out of her so we can find out what she is like? Our son thinks she's "Wonderful." This is wonderful?

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The girl is shy and sadly lacking in self-confidence. Let her hide. She's using the book as a "shield." When she feels more at home with you, perhaps she'll turn over a new leaf.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: You devoted a lot of space to whether parents (for the sake of a healthier sex education) should allow their children to witness a cat bearing kittens. Some said yes, some said no.

★ ★ ★

Any parents who would permit the family cat to bear kittens for the sake of "educating" their child should complete their education by giving them a tour of the local pound, requesting special permission to see the gas chambers where unwanted kittens and puppies are disposed of.

★ ★ ★

This will clearly show the fate of the majority of unwanted animals produced by neglectful, irresponsible owners.

We do not need more animals to destroy in gas chambers. Neither do we need more animals who eventually will die of disease, starvation, poison, and under car wheels.

★ ★ ★

If you love animals you will print this so your readers will know the seriousness of permitting pets to breed accidentally.

Cranbrook Academy of Art to Expand Facilities, Program

The board of trustees of Cranbrook Academy of Art has announced plans for a stepped-up program of activities and special events designed to broaden its support and to increase public participation in the Academy's affairs.

The announcement was made by Ernest A. Jones, chairman of the board of trustees, at a meeting in Cranbrook Galleries Friday night. The meeting followed a preview of the Annual Degree Exhibition and reception attended by more than 100 area couples.

★ ★ ★

DISCUSSES PAST

In citing the Academy's accomplishments during the past four decades, Jones paid tribute to the achievement of scores of former students who today are leaders in their respective crafts.

"Many are today lending their talents to business and industry," he pointed out. "Their creativity influences the car you drive, the city in which you and your children now live, and in countless other ways."

★ ★ ★

Skills taught at the Academy include: architecture, ceramics, design, fabric design, graphics, metalsmithing, painting and drawing and sculpture.

Two years prior credit is required for admission and students may acquire either a bachelor's or master's degree, or both.

★ ★ ★

Future plans, Jones said, include a Center for Creative Thought — for people in government, in business, industry and education.

★ ★ ★

Arrangements have already been made for personal appearances by increased numbers of distinguished artists and lecturers. These, Jones said, will be announced shortly.

★ ★ ★

In addition there will be outstanding films and exhibitions, not only for the student body, but for citizens from all sectors of the community.

★ ★ ★

Pointing out that there has been no major building on campus for 27 years, Jones revealed that plans are now being studied for expanding and modernizing the Academy's physical facilities.

"We want to alter the Academy's image so that it will more accurately reflect its true character. We already have many activities of interest to the public and we are increasing that number," he added.

WANT MEMBERS

The membership drive outlined by Jones includes a wide range of subscriber membership categories. "These are scaled," he said, "to accomodate a wide variety of pocketbooks."

Literature describing Academy activities and containing details of new memberships being offered to the public is currently being circulated by the Women's Committee of the Academy of Art.

★ ★ ★

Interested persons may secure copies by either writing or calling the Art Academy office on Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills.

Miss Griffin Repeats Vows

Attired in an Empire ensemble of ivory peau de soie, Barbara Joy Griffin became the bride of Brian Hitsky Saturday in a double ring ceremony officiated by Rev. Malcolm Burton of First Congregational Church.

★ ★ ★

A front panel of Venitian lace highlighted the former Miss Griffin's bridal gown and matching peau de soie chapel train. To complement her look, she chose a full length veil of illusion caught by a half-cap of floral lace.

The bridal bouquet was comprised of Stephanotis, pink roses and orchids in a cascading arrangement.

SISTER

Pamela Griffin assisted her sister as maid of honor. Their parents are the Glenn H. Griffins of Ogemaw Road.

Bridesmaids were Elizabeth Nida, Karen Ibser, Christine Griffin, Mrs. Richard Brown, Mrs. Darwin Spearing and Eileen Hitsky.

Best man honors for the son of the Stanley E. Hitskys of Farmington were performed by Curt Sylvester. Also at the bridegroom's side were Thomas Griffin, Alan Hitsky, William Kreifeldt, Lawrence Kaluzny, Dino Fekaris and Robert Coosaia.

★ ★ ★

Following a reception at the Pine Lake Country Club, the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon trip to New York City.

Branch of League of Women Voters Passes Resolutions

Several items were on the agenda when the League of Women Voters of Birmingham-Bloomfield met Thursday at the Birmingham Athletic Club.

Items adopted for the year were:

- A study and evaluation of the public schools in the Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills districts in relation to the needs and resources of the community.
- A study and evaluation of housing in the area, one aspect of which would investigate tenants' rights and responsibilities.

REPORT

Mrs. Andrew M. Mezey presented a progress report on the drive to obtain 28,000 signatures on the petition calling for the amendment of Article VI of the Michigan Constitution, the Judicial Article. The aim of the amendment is to provide a better method for the selection and tenure of judges in the State.

The current drive, if successful, would put this amendment on the ballot in November.

Petitions will be available the next three Saturdays at the Pontiac Mall from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Listeners were advised that any registered Michigan voter is eligible to sign.

The engagement of their daughter, Karen Lynne, to Richard M. Tioran is announced by the Raymond D. Thompsons of Lincolnview Street, Pontiac Township. Sept. 7 vows are slated. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Tyron Tioran of Grant Street and the late Mrs. Tioran. Miss Thompson is a senior at Central Michigan University.

Island Honeymoon for Pair

John Russell Thomas Jr. and his bride (nee Christine Rebecca Dodrill) departed for the Virgin Islands following a dinner-reception Saturday at the Detroit Athletic Club.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Forest Dodrill of Bloomfield Hills and son of the senior Mr. and Mrs. John R. Thomas of Pontiac Trail, West Bloomfield Township, exchanged vows earlier that afternoon in First Methodist Church, Birmingham.

★ ★ ★

Attended by her sisters, Mrs. Matthew Gardner Jr., and Marysue, the bride was gowned in an ivory peau de soie skimmer with a matching full length train gathered at the neck with a bow.

Motif beading accented the gown as well as the Dior bow atop her illusion veiling. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Bridesmaids were Martha Cross, Mrs. David Olson, Mrs. Richard Smith and Gail Monroe. The usher corps was comprised of John Locke, John Evans, Thomas Davidson, Harold Weekman and Norman Otto.

★ ★ ★

Best man honors were performed by the bridegroom's brother James Thomas.

★ ★ ★

Following their honeymoon trip, the newlyweds will make their home in Ann Arbor where they are students at the University of Michigan.

GOP Hopefuls Besting Dems

Gallup Poll Shows Nixon, Rocky Ahead

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The two Republican presidential hopefuls are faring better than the top three Democratic candidates, according to recent nationwide test elections conducted by the Gallup Poll.

★ ★ ★

Of the two rival GOP candidates tested—New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon—Rockefeller made the better showing in the matchings against the three declared Democratic candidates, Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Eugene T. McCarthy of Minnesota and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the poll said Sunday.

★ ★ ★

The findings were based on a national survey of registered voters completed just prior to last Tuesday's Indiana primary and following Rockefeller's entry into the race. The survey was conducted between May 4 and 8 among 1,139 registered voters in more than 300 localities.

In the poll, the candidates were matched individually against the other party's candidates, with former Alabama Gov. George Wallace considered as a third party candidate.

WALLACE GAIN

Support for Wallace in six trial heats averaged 16 per cent, representing a gain for Wallace since the previous survey in April, the poll said.

Humphrey gained on Nixon since the early April survey—conducted before Humphrey entered the race—and now trails by three percentage points.

★ ★ ★

Rockefeller, pitted against Humphrey for the first time since entering the race, had a seven point lead over Humphrey.

Fraud Charged in Vote

2 Claim Victory in Panama

PANAMA (AP) — Panama's two major presidential candidates each claimed victory today but official returns were slow coming in. The election Sunday was peaceful but there were the usual charges of fraud.

A spokesman for the National Electoral Tribunal said Sunday night that only 40 precincts had reported results and these gave "a slight edge" to the government candidate, David Samudio, 57.

★ ★ ★

Backers of Arnulfo Arias, 67, the candidate of a powerful five-party opposition coalition, claimed he had a margin of more than 5,000 votes in Panama City. Samudio's headquarters said he had a nationwide margin of 12,000 to 14,000 votes.

Even before the polls closed, each side staged small victory processions in downtown Panama City.

POOR THIRD

Dr. Antonio Gonzalez Revilla, a neurosurgeon backed by the small Christian Democratic party, was expected to run a poor third. Voters also chose 42 members of the one-chamber National Assembly.

The election campaign produced a crisis in which the opposition-dominated National Assembly voted to oust the current president, Marco A. Robles, claiming he had violated the constitution by backing Samudio, his finance minister.

★ ★ ★

The National Guard blocked the ouster and the Supreme Court later overruled the assembly. At the height of the dispute, a brief riot flared in Panama City March 28.

There were signs of government pressures during the voting, including authenticated reports of stolen ballot boxes, intimidation and arrests of opposition party leaders.

INTIMIDATION CHARGED

Arias, twice deposed from the presidency, contended the National Guardsmen in the interior intimidated his followers and kept them from the polls.

Opposition sources also claimed the government delayed the opening of some polling stations to discourage voters in Panama City, regarded as Arias' main stronghold.

★ ★ ★

The Arias camp urged its partisans Sunday evening to "go out in the streets to protect your interests." Pro-Samudio radio and television stations urged his supporters to remain at the polls to protect the ballot boxes from Arias' followers.

A National Guard spokesman said four of Arias' partisans were arrested for stealing a ballot box. He said another box had been stolen by persons posing as Samudio supporters.

NEWSMEN HELD

Newsmen Henry Giniger of the New York Times and Ruben Salazar of the Los Angeles Times said they were stopped by government partisans near Penonome, 90 miles southwest of the capital, accused of taking antigovernment pictures and forced to break off a trip to the interior.

They said Giniger's camera and pocket radio and Salazar's pass for travel in the interior were taken from them. Giniger said Penonome authorities rejected a complaint against the assailants.

★ ★ ★

On Saturday, Bert Quint of the Columbia Broadcasting System and James Nelson Goodsell of the Christian Science Monitor said a hostile crowd forced them to leave Penonome.

Fund Solicitation Is Unauthorized

★ ★ ★

Cleveland Hurlers on Shutout Spree; Angels With Errors

Orioles Beaten 4 Straight by Surging Indians

Tiant Pitches Fourth Consecutive Scoreless Game in Opener

BALTIMORE (AP) — "I expect a shutout every time one of my starters go out there," said Cleveland Manager Alvin Dark. "I think they're that good."

Ordinarily that would sound like so much managerial hokum. But the way Cleveland pitchers have been performing, Dark undoubtedly believes what he says.

★ ★ ★

After winning 10 of 11 games, including four in a row over the Baltimore Orioles during the weekend, the Indians have tied Baltimore for second place in the American League, two games behind the Detroit Tigers.

Of Cleveland's 16 victories, nine have been shutouts. Of its 12 defeats, seven have been by one run.

FORTH SHUTOUT

Luis Tiant hurled his fourth consecutive shutout Sunday, blanking Baltimore 2-0 on a four-hitter. Stan Williams followed with a 4-1 six-hitter, missing a shutout on a ninth-inning homer by Brooks Robinson.

"You have to pitch a shutout to get in the rotation on this staff," said Williams, who lost a 1-0 decision in his only other start when Washington scored an unearned run.

★ ★ ★

The Cleveland staff pitched two shutouts in the Baltimore series, allowed four runs, and left town with a 1.99 earned run average.

★ ★ ★

Tiant who moved within one of the league record of five consecutive shutouts, set in 1904 by Doc White of the Chicago White Sox, had never before beaten Baltimore.

"About time I ween one," the Cuban right-hander said in broken English. "They been keeling me every year. I got good control theese time."

SIX STRAIGHT

The Orioles, who have scored only six runs while losing six straight — following an eight-game winning streak — advanced only one runner past first base against Tiant.

Tony Horton's run-scoring single in the sixth inning off Tom Phoebus ended the scoreless tie and Cleveland added an earned run in the ninth. Jose Cardenal's two-run double highlighted a three-run rally in the fifth which clinched the nightcap.

★ ★ ★

Steve Hargan, who has notched two shutouts, was sent home to Cleveland during the weekend for treatment of tendonitis in his right elbow.

Dark said he may take Billy Rohr out of the bullpen to start against New York Tuesday. But then came the terrifying threesome — Sonny Siebert, Sam McDowell and Tiant

Chisox Angry at A's Stealer

OAKLAND (AP)— Bert Campaneris of the Oakland A's thinks the Chicago White Sox are mad at him.

Campaneris, who scored two runs and stole two bases against Chicago in the 6-2 Oakland victory Sunday, was hit on the shoulder by a pitch from White Sox reliever Don McMahon in the sixth inning, and Hoyt Wilhelm sailed a pitch over Camp's head in the eighth.

★ ★ ★

"I think (Eddie) Stanky told them to throw at me," Campy charged. "He was mad because I knocked the ball out of the catcher's hand."

Campaneris scored the first run of the game on a hard slide that jolted the ball away from White Sox catcher Duane Josephson.

HELD BACK

After McMahon hit Campaneris, Campy took a few steps toward the mound but was held back.

Campaneris was thrown out on a third attempt to steal. He has 14 so far this season and that rate would finish the season with about 75.

★ ★ ★

"All I want to do is steal more bases than I did last year," he said. He set a club record with 55 thefts in 1967 and has led the American League in each of the last three years.

Third baseman Sal Bando also was a standout for the A's. He collected three hits and drove in two runs.

MADE DIFFERENCE

"We had a meeting before the game and the manager told us not to swing so hard," said Bando. He said to just meet the ball and not try to hit it out of the park.

★ ★ ★

"I cut down on my swing and it really made a difference."

The six runs were the most the A's have scored this season at Oakland Coliseum. Their 11 hits tied the home high.

★ ★ ★

Left-hander Tony Pierce was the winner, and Manager Bob Kennedy promised Pierce would start more often. Pierce was a last-minute replacement for John Odom, who had a sore shoulder.

★ ★ ★

UNEARNED RUNS

The A's spotted Chicago a first inning run and then moved ahead to stay with two unearned runs in the bottom of the first.

Bobbles Help Twins Defeat California, 6-5

Minnesota Relief Staff Chokes Off Threats in Series on Coast

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California Angels have taken to giving games away, something they didn't do last season when they led the American League in fielding.

They outscored Minnesota, 18 runs to 15, in a five-game series here last weekend. But three errors gave the Twins four unearned runs and a 6-5 victory in the second game of a doubleheader Friday night.

★ ★ ★

And Sunday the Angels committed four errors, one of them letting in a tie-breaking run and helping Minnesota win in the 10th inning, 4-2.

The fatal error Sunday was committed by shortstop Jim Fregosi, who has committed 11 miscues in the first 31 games this year. By comparison, Fregosi made only 25 errors all last season, when he was the American League's all-star shortstop.

"We knocked their starting pitchers out in every game and, with a little hitting and better fielding, we could have swept the series," moaned Manager Bill Rigney after watching the Angels tumble out of the first division.

STRONG RELIEF

The Angels could manage only four hits Sunday and, once again, were throttled by Minnesota relievers Ron Perranoski and Al Worthington. Between them, they pitched 10 1-3 innings in the series, neither allowing a run.

"One more hit in the sixth inning and we could have broken the game wide open," Rigney said.

★ ★ ★

It was in that inning that Rick Reichardt and Paul Schaal coaxed walks off starter Dave Boswell to force in the runs that put the Angels ahead, 2-1. Singles by Jay Johnstone and Jimmy Hall, and an intentional walk to Don Mincher, had started the rally.

However, Perranoski, the ex-Dodger star, relieved Boswell, choked off the threat and went on to gain his third victory against no defeats. Worthington pitched a perfect 10th inning.

MORE BALANCE

The Twins' John Roseboro, the ex-Dodger catcher, claims Minnesota has better balance than the Los Angeles teams that won National League titles in 1959, 1963, 1965 and 1966.

"All the Dodgers had was speed and pitching," Roseboro says. "We (the Twins) have speed, power, defense, five good starters and a strong bullpen."

The Minnesota speed paid off in the 10th inning. Rod Carew led off with a single to left. Tom Burgmeier relieved loser Minnie Rojas, 1-2, and got Tony Oliva to hit a grounder to shortstop, with the infield drawn in. But Fregosi, hurrying because of Carew's speed, fumbled the ball for an error to let in the winning run. Later, Bob Allison walked to force in an insurance tally.

★ ★ ★

The Angels will play two games at Chicago and three at Minnesota this week before returning home May 20 for an 11-game stand against Boston, Cleveland and Detroit.

'Toe' Blake Retires in Winning Style

Another Cup for Montreal

Canadiens Beat Blues in Four Straight

MONTREAL (AP) — Hector "Toe" Blake left the National Hockey League coaching scene Saturday the same way he entered it 13 seasons ago — with a splash.

Blake, 55, announced his retirement immediately following the Montreal Canadiens' third Stanley Cup triumph in four years and the eighth since he took over as coach before the start of the 1955-56 season.

★ ★ ★

Montreal swept past the St. Louis Blues in four games, taking Saturday's game 3-2 on J. C. Tremblay's third-period goal after trailing 2-1.

The ecstatic Montreal players hadn't even had an opportunity to dip into the champagne supplied for all post-Cup traditional parties, before Blake made the announcement that he was quitting.

TOUGHEST SEASON

Almost in tears, Blake broke the news "after the greatest, but also the longest and toughest" season in 13 years behind the Montreal bench.

"I just can't take it anymore — the tension and the pressure are too much," Blake said.

★ ★ ★

The retiring coach set an NHL precedent when he brought the Cup to Montreal in five successive years from 1956 to 1960.

After his announced retirement Blake then spoke of his love of the game.

"I'd like to coach for 100 years, it's the only thing I can do, but I just can't take it any more.

MUST TRY

"Maybe I can't live without hockey, but for my health's sake I have to try it."

Blake has been threatening to retire for the last six years, while waging his private war with officials, fans and the press, but he always came back. However, this time he vows only a miracle could change his mind.

A great left winger on the famed Punch Line with center Elmer Lach and right winger Rocket Richard, Blake coached the way he played the game — all out.

Flyod Curry, a former teammate now supervisor of administration and public relations with the Montreal club, is currently touted as top candidate to replace Blake.

David Molson, the Canadiens' president, said he had known of Blake's impending retirement for "a couple of months" and said he and General Manager Sam Pollock will sit down today to screen a list of possible successors.

Minnesota's Gophers, whose last bid for baseball fame was winning the 1964 Big Ten and NCAA championships, have strengthened their lead in the current conference pennant race.

Minnesota swept a doubleheader from Illinois Saturday for a 10-2 standing and a one game edge over second-place Michigan State, 8-2.

★ ★ ★

The Gophers, apparently have a softer touch this week. They play only single games, both at home, against the struggling Iowa Hakeyes, 4-6, Friday and Saturday.

In Friday doubleheaders, Illinois (5-5) is at MSU, Northwestern (5-7) at Ohio State (2-7), Purdue (0-8) at Michigan (6-4), and Wisconsin (8-4) at Indiana (3-6)

Saturday's twin bills send Illinois to Michigan, Northwestern to Indiana, Purdue to MSU and Wisconsin to Ohio State.

ONE-HITTER

Dave Carey hurled a one-hitter as the Gophers blanked Illinois 1-0 in Saturday's opener. Catcher Ken Rizzo spoiled a no-hit bid with a third-inning single. Frank Stanek singled home the winning run. Minnesota took the nightcap 6-2 with a nine-hit attack.

Michigan State moved into pursuit of the lead by brushing aside Wisconsin 3-1 and 7-3. Mickey Knight won the first game on a five-hit no-walk performance. The Spartans rallied for six runs in the final inning of the afterpiece. Steve Garvey's two-run homer capped it.

★ ★ ★

Northwestern downed Michigan 4-3 as Gary Berman singled across winning pitcher Bob Shutts in the fifth inning. Michigan erased a three-run deficit with a six-run sixth inning to win the nightcap 7-6. The key blow was a two run double by Pete Titone, who also homered in the fourth inning.

Rain cancelled Indiana's single game at Ohio State and Iowa's doubleheader at Purdue.

Tokyo Boxer in Title Bout Against Nino

TOKYO (AP) — Handlers of Japanese middleweight champion Yoshiaki Akasaka described the 24-year-old boxer as "elated and thankful" Sunday to get a chance to fight world champion Nino Benvenuti in a non-title match in Rome June 7.

"This is a real good opportunity for our boxes," Akasaka's manager, Miss Haru Nagano, said in an interview. "Akasaka is elated and thankful he's going to tangle with a world champion."

Miss Nagano said the Benvenuti-Akasaka fight was "suggested to us many times since last year." She said, however, the Japanese boxer "simply could not make up his mind."

PNH Wins, Loses; Wolves Pull Upset

Pontiac Northern divided a twinbill with Flint Southwestern Saturday, while Northville's Mustangs were rained out but still won.

★ ★ ★

The Huskies of PNH downed Flint Southwestern in the opener, 3-2 but dropped a 4-2 decision in the nightcap.

The first game went to Northern in nine innings, while Southwestern erupted for four runs in the fourth inning of the second game to take command in that one.

The split left Northern with a 7-6 record.

★ ★ ★

Northville had a date at Brighton in a Wayne-Oakland League encounter, but rain stopped that contest along with the Bloomfield Hills Andover-Clarenceville tilt.

CLARKSTON WINS

But a surprise came at Clarkston where the host Wolves handed Milford a 6-2 setback and knocked the Redskins 1½ games back of league-leading Northville.

Sophomore Tom Lane belted a two-run homer in the rirst to give Clarkston a 2-0 lead and he doubled home another run in the Wolves' four-run sixth. The big blow in the sixth, however, was a bases-loaded triple by Jerry Ostrom.

★ ★ ★

Back-to-back doubles by Curtis Britton and Tom Stahr produced West Bloomfield's first run in the second and the Lakers added the other two on one hit and some faulty defensive play by Holly in the fifth.

Ellsworth, who struck out nine, lost a shutout in the fifth inning, when the Yankees scored on Bobby Cox's double, Bill Robinson's single and an error by third baseman Joe Foy.

Bell survived a two-run fifth inning homer by Andy Kosco in the nightcap.

MONBO POUNDED

Monbouquette, who took a 1.15 earned run average into the opener, gave up a single by Mike Andrews and then was raked for successive run-scoring doubles by Carl Yastrzemski, Reggie Smith and Harrelson. Singles by Foy and Elston Howard delivered two more first inning runs.

The former Boston right-hander was removed with the bases loaded and none out in the third. Andrews then slapped a two-run single off reliever Fritz Peterson.

Talbot retired the first two Boston batters in the second game, but walked Yastrzemski and was clipped for a ground rule double by Smith. Harrelson then doubled two runs home and scored on a single by George Scott.

Singles by Foy and Smith plus an error by right fielder Kosco gave the Red Sox another run in the fifth.

Yastrzemski stroked five hits in the twin bill and had nine in the four-game series, lifting his batting average to .296.
