Surveyor Path to Moon Altered

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 1 cruised today toward a new and hopefully smoother landing site on the moon after a tricky steering maneuver 97,000 miles out in space.

Jet Propulsion Laboratory officials, who are guiding the 2,200-pound camera-carrying craft toward a soft landing in the dry Sea of Storms late tomorrow, said Surveyor responded properly to all commands during the intricate change of course.

They said it would take several hours of tracking to be sure Surveyor's new course will bring it down, as now planned, about 20 miles north of the point picked prior to yesterday's launch.

The new site was chosen to give the spacecraft the smoothest possible landing area in the 62-mile diameter target circle—at the western edge of the 1,700-mile long equatorial strip selected for future Apollo astronaut touchdowns.

Like the Soviet Luna 9, which soft-landed and televised pictures from the lunar surface Feb. 3, Surveyor is pioneering a technique planned to deposit manned craft gently on the moon.

DOWN SLOWLY

In the maneuver at 1:45 a.m. EST, the spacecraft was ordered to roll and yaw slowly to the left, aiming it in the desired direction.

Officials said there was no indication so far that the steering maneuver was disturbed by any shift in the craft's center of gravity, a possibility that arose when radioed data indicated an antenna boom may not have extended fully after launch.

FINAL APPROACH

There was still a chance that a shift in the center of gravity might cause the craft to tumble and crash when the descent-breaking rockets are ignited on the final approach to the moon.

If all goes well, however, Surveyor will radio across 230,000 miles of space pictures almost as sharp as those seen on home television screens, showing terrain details as small as a pencil lead.

Gemini 9 Gets the 'Go' Light

Launching Tomorrow for 3-Day Mission

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The "go" light flashed brightly to tracking stations around the world today for the Gemini 9 spacemen to embark on a three-day exploration of some unknowns of space travel.

"We're ready to go," said Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford. His rookie pilot, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan, agreed. Cernan is scheduled to take a 2½-hour walk in space to become the world's champion cosmic stroller.

They'll ride a mighty Titan rocket into the hostile void of space at 11.38 p.m. EST tomorrow to search the skies for a stubby target satellite, then boldly latch Gemini 9's nose to it.

Their target, known as an Augmented Target Docking Adapter — ATDA, will be powered into a 185-mile high circu-

Healthy and trained to razor sharpness, the Gemini twins planned a final review of their vital, action-packed mission with top space agency officials during the day.

They also hoped to crowd in a few more hours of practice sessions in a mockup version of the tiny Gemini spaceship.

Technicians, sailing along without a hitch on preparations for launching both the Titan and Atlas rockets, scheduled a five-hour check of all systems aboard the 11-story tall Titan before beginning the final countdown leading to launch.

Death Count for State Ranks 2nd Nationally

40 Die on Michigan Roads in 3-Day Span; California's 55 Is Tops

By The Associated Press

With 40 killed, Michigan traffic was second most deadly among the nation's states over the long Memorial Day weekend.

Only California, with a toll of 55, killed more in traffic over the 78-hour span.

An auto pursued by State Police rammed the rear of another passenger car on I-75 near Erie and killed three persons shortly before the holiday count ended at midnight yesterday.

The Associated Press tabulation began at 6 p.m. Friday.

The worst holiday toll in Michigan history was 58 killed over a 102-hour Memorial Day weekend in 1941.

The victims of the crash near Erie were tentatively identified by the Monroe County coroner as James Parsons, 26, of Caretta, W. Va.; Charles T. Jenkinds, 21, of Ecorse; and Geneva Aileen Hatfield of Ewing, W. Va.

State Police said officers were pursuing the car in which the victims were riding at speeds over 110 miles an hour.

They said the auto struck the rear of another southbound car, veered through a guard rail and struck an overpass abutment.

IN CRITICAL CONDITION

A fourth person in the auto, Louise Long, 19, of River Rouge, was in critical condition at Riverside Hospital in Toledo, Ohio.

Also hospitalized at Toledo was Phyllis Zucker, 24, of University Heights, Ohio, driver of the auto hit from behind.

State Police said the car was being chased for a speeding violation.

Others killed included:

Charles W. Dykeman, 33, of Troy and his son, Charles Jr., 8, in a two-car collision yester-

LEST WE FORGET — The Civil War monument which stands before the Pontiac City Hall was the focal point of local Memorial Day observance here. Memorial Day Toll Is Record for 78 Hours

In Other Accidents, 43 Killed in Boating Mishaps, 90 Drown

By The Associated Press

The death toll on the nation's roads has soared to an unprecedented three-day Memorial holiday figure and it may surpass the total fatalities recorded for any Memorial Day weekend regardless of duration.

As of last midnight, local time, 542 lives were lost on America's highways.

The death count began at 6 p.m. local time Friday.

★ ★ ★

PREVIOUS RECORD

★ ★ ★

The council said yesterday the current holiday period was similar to the Fourth of July weekend last year when 547 lives were lost.

JAMMED HIGHWAYS

Sunny skies and pleasant weather throughout most of the nation contributed to motorsists' jamming thoroughfares as millions of Americans traveled to recreation areas, athletic events and family gatherings.

California, with more automobiles and miles of freeways than any other state, recorded the highest number of deaths as of midnight, 55.

The worst single recorded accident occurred in Somerset, Ky., Saturday when five persons died in a three-car collision. Four of the victims were from a vacationing Ohio family.

The lowest three-day rate for a Memorial Day, since records were initiated, was in 1948 when 204 persons died.

The National Safety Council said 10,710 persons died during the first three months of 1966, a 7 per cent increase over the similar period in 1965.

City Charter Change Eyed

A proposed amendment to the City Charter to be presented to voters Aug. 2 is scheduled for City Commission consideration at tonight's regular meeting.

★ ★ ★

The amendment would provide for the inclusion of the city's two municipal court judges in the general city Pension plan.

The deadline for approving such proposals for the Aug. 2 primary election is Friday.

Thus, the commission would have to approve ballot proposals tonight, or schedule a special meeting for that purpose by Friday.

★ ★ ★

ADDITIONAL JUDGE

Judge Cecil McCallum and Maurice Finnegan last week proposed the charter be amended by a vote of the people to permit creation of a third municipal judgeship.

★ ★ ★

In other scheduled business tonight, the commission is to consider two petitions for the construction of storm drains in two areas of the city.

Monks, Junta Leaders Meet on Compromise

The monks met with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, a Roman Catholic and a target in the Buddhist campaign to force the military junta to resign in favor of a provisional civilian regime.

The meeting came after another Buddhist had burned herself to death in Hue, center of government opposition in the north.

She was the fifth and possibly the sixth suicide in the wave of antigovernment protests.

Thich Tam Chau, head of the powerful Buddhist Institute, headed the delegation of four that called at heavily guarded Gia Long Palace, Thieu's residence.

An institute spokesman said no statement will be made for the time being.

A Vietnamese official said the talks were "simply preliminary and may be followed by other meetings."

Five outstanding citizens will be guests of honor at the dinner to be held at the Pontiac Elks Temple at 6:30 p.m.

A special award of $100 will be granted to a Pontiac citizen who has performed an outstanding act in support of law and law enforcement during the past year.

Decision Is Near on College

An important deadline looms in the Michigan Legislature for Pontiac's projected osteopathic college. The deadline is June 8 if there is to be legislative action this year.

It is by that date that the House Ways and Means Committee must report out a Senate-passed bill calling for the creation of an osteopathic college authority.

June 8 is a general deadline for reporting bills out of committee that have passed the other house of the legislature.

Currently lodged in the 16-member House Ways and Means Committee, the osteopathic bill has already passed one House committee — the State Affairs Committee.

The college bill was referred to the Ways and Means Committee because of its monetary implications, although the Senate deleted provisions for a specific appropriations of state funds.

The bill now only provides for the college authority, a panel to be appointed by the governor from a list submitted by the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons.

Essentially, the college authority would be the governing body for the proposed $60 million college to be located on a 164-acre site at Auburn and Opdyke.

Consideration by the Ways and Means Committee is expected to be favorable, according to the present lineup of votes.

A nine-vote majority is needed to bring the bill to the house floor for final debate and action.

8 IN FAVOR

There reportedly are eight committee members favoring the bill, four opposed and four undecided.

College supporters are seeking annual state aid of $3-5 million for the pending school, which is to open in 1970 with a charter class of 64 students.

To date, the college and the aspirations of its backers for state support have received a better reception in Lansing than elsewhere.

OPPOSITION

Most of the opposition to the present bill has come from representatives of existing state-supported medical schools and the Michigan State Medical Society.

A possible future merger of M.D.'s and D.O.'s has been emphasized by those against state aid for the Pontiac School. A statewide survey showed M.D.'s in favor of a merger of the two health professions and D.O.'s against it.

Viewing the June 8 deadline, college backers say legislative defeat of the bill may delay the project, but the college will still be built.

★ ★ ★

Meantime, the bid for eventual state aid has entered its second year. The authority bill has been before four separate legislative committees, been the object of an attorney general's opinion and the cause of a statewide poll of physicians.

SOME BENEFIT

The many trips to Lansing, however, have returned some benefit to the college. A $50,000 appropriation was received last year for planning studies.

Even with a favorable House vote in June, there are still more hurdles to surmont including obtaining Gov. Romney's signature.

Last fall it was indicated that

Linemen Strike Detroit Edison

The linemen, members of Local 17, of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, walked out after negotiations broke down yesterday on a new contract.

An Edison spokesman said supervisory employes would perform essential work normally done by linemen and there would be no disruption of service except in case of a major storm.

No new negotiation sessions were scheduled immediately.

The company said it stood fast on its offer of a two-year contract providing a wage and fringe benefit increase of 5.6 per cent in the first year and 4.7 per cent in 1967.

The union has demanded a 10 per cent increase in wages. Journeymen linemen currently make $4.03.

Japan Leftists Renew Protests Over N-Sub

TOKYO (AP) — About 30,000 leftists renewed their protests last night against the first visit to Tokyo Bay of a U.S. nuclear-powered submarine.

The mass demonstration in the nearby port city of Yokosuga was described by police as orderly.

About 12,000 persons staged three demonstrations at Yokosuka Monday as the submarine Snook docked at the U.S. naval base there to give the crew five days of rest and recreation.

The demonstrators were brought to the port 30 miles south of Tokyo by the Communist and Socialist parties. Police said 30 policemen and 21 students were injured in clashes Monday and another 20 persons were hurt Sunday, when the protests started.

None of the demonstrators molested the sailors from the Snook or from the carrier Kitty Hawk and other American ships in port. Weaving through the demonstrators, the sailors went as usual to Yokosuka's shops and 270 bars and clubs.

PEACEFUL

★ ★ ★

Privately some demonstrators said they did not want to do anything to hurt Yokosuka's thriving trade with U.S. servicemen. But both police and demonstration leaders said they were worried about members of the radical Zengakuren Students Association.

★ ★ ★

"They are hotheads," said an organizer. "They are here on their own, and not part of our group."

Police and leftist leaders blamed the students for most of the scuffles with police. The students also tore down posters which shopkeepers put up to welcome the Snook.

DEMONSTRATIONS

Noisy leftist demonstrations accompanied each of the eight visits by five other U.S. nuclear subs to Sasebo, another U.S. naval base 500 miles southwest of Tokyo. The number of demonstrators had dwindled with each call, however.

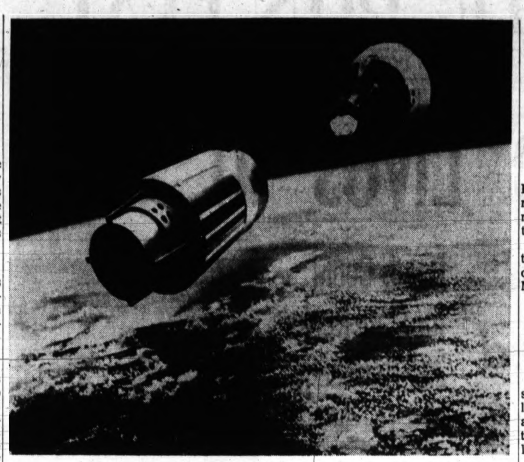

★ ★ ★

The leftists stepped up their protests for the Snook's port call because it is the first to Yokosuka and because Yokosuka is close to heavily populated Tokyo. Authorities mobilized 5,000 policemen to keep the demonstrators in check.

★ ★ ★

A group of 100 Socialist members of Parliament marched on the U.S. Embassy in Tokyo and handed U.S. officials a petition protesting the Snook's visit. The officials said they would forward it to Washington.

Socialist and Communist lawmakers also submitted questions to the government about the Snook's visit.

Seek to Avert Chaos

British Strike Quiz Begun

LONDON (UPI) — A four-man court of inquiry began investigating Britain's 16-day merchant seamen's strike today in the hope of ending it before the walkout plunges the nation's economy into chaos.

The first act of the court was expected to be an appeal to the sailors to return to their ships pending the inquiry—an appeal which sources in the National Seamen's Union said would be rejected out of hand.

As the board began meeting, the union was reported considering a plea to unionists on the European continent not to unload British flag tankers. The seamen contend British tankers have been diverted from British to continental ports to unload.

They said normally 40 tankers dock in Britain each week but since the strike only three have done so.

Under the 72-year-old Merchant Marine Act, British sailors can be charged with mutiny if they leave a ship in a foreign port and crews have waited until their ships reach home to sign off and join the strike.

HAVE LANDED

Other merchant ships bound for Britain have landed despite the strike and, as of last night, 18,974 sailors had abandoned 651 of them.

The court of inquiry is expected to issue an interim report within 12 to 14 days.

It is hoped that this report will become the basis for settlement of Britain's first maritime strike in 55 years.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson appointed the court before he was granted emergency power by Parliament to deal with the walkout. So far, he has not used any of the powers.

Nevada Mountains Combed for Boy, 6

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — More than 100 men, including professional trackers with bloodhounds, searched through brush-covered mountains today for a 6-year-old boy missing and apparently without food or water for three days.

Larry Jeffrey of Henderson, Nev., whose hearing is 30 per cent impaired, was reported missing Saturday afternoon.

He wandered from his family's campsite in Lee's Canyon after he was refused permission to climb to a higher level to see snow on the ground.

Lt. Walter Butt of the Clark County sheriff's department, head of the search, said searchers covered 20 to 40 square miles yesterday with the aid of helicopters.

By late yesterday, the hunt was concentrated near the 10,000-foot level in a section of Lee's Canyon.

Senator, LBJ: Copper Parley by U.N. Best

The Montana Democrat—who returned to his desk today after extended hospital treatment for a urinary infection — made public letters from the President and Atty. Gen. Nicholas B. Katzenbach on the copper problem.

Mansfield had written both officials May 10 urging that consideration be given to calling a world copper conference to deal with the "ups and downs" of the copper industry and its markets.

Katzenbach, like his predecessor, Robert F. Kennedy, advised Mansfield that participation of American copper producers in a conference to allocate production and stabilize prices "would be in violation of the antitrust laws."

Monks, Junta Leaders Meet

ering asking for Ky's resignation to further a settlement with the Buddhists.

The influential monk Thich Tri Quang, leader of the Buddhist struggle movement in the northern provinces, issued an appeal earlier in the day for a halt to protest suicides after the 17-year-old girl had set herself on fire in Hue, his stronghold.

Quang said he spoke for the supreme patriarch of South Vietnamese Buddhism, Tich Tinh Khiet, when he urged "all Buddhists to cease acts of self-sacrifice in the name of Dharma the Buddhist gospel."

U.S. officials said the Buddhists may be willing to accept less than the resignations of Ky and Thieu as the price for calling of the antigovernment campaign, since the suicides have had less impact than the monks apparently expected.

These officials also spoke of a crisis of confidence among the monks in the face of the government's strong stand.

"There is a great deal of perplexity among Buddhist leaders," said one American official.

But even if the monks in Saigon accepted a settlement, there was a question about Quang Tri's willingness to go along with any agreement.

He and the monks around him in Hue are regarded as the most militant figures in the Buddhist movement.

Tri Quang's followers in Hue distributed his appeal for a halt to the suicides after the girl, Nguyen Thi Van, died in a hospital there.

PURSUED REDS

U.S. infantrymen pursued a large North Vietnamese force through rainswept jungles near the Cambodian border after killing 227 Reds in three days of fighting.

American casualties were reported light to moderate.

The estimated 1,000 North Vietnamese troops — so identified by captives—retreated into the hills west of Pleiku, 240 miles northeast of Saigon, after breaking off contact yesterday afternoon with units of the 25th U.S. Infantry Division on Operation Paul Revere.

The fighting took place only a few days' march from the Cambodian hills where U.S. intelligence sources have located as many as 10,000 North Vietnamese troops — a report vigorously denied by the Cambodians and unconfirmed by U.S. officials in Washington.

Vietnamese troops reported killing 30 Viet Cong near the Cambodian border Monday at a village near Tuyen Nhon, 50 miles west of Saigon.

An unconfirmed peace feeler from North Viet Nam was reported by Newsweek magazine in its current edition.

City Woman's Sentencing Set

A 43-year-old Pontiac woman will be sentenced June 14 in Oakland County Circuit Court for accepting the earnings of a prostitute.

★ ★ ★

Found guilty by a jury, Friday afternoon, Mrs. Marie Mayes, 23 Chapman, faces a maximum 20-year prison term for the offense.

She will be sentenced by Judge Frederick C. Ziem who presided over her two-day trial.

Following her conviction, Ziem set her bond at $1,000 but later increased it to $5,000 when she attempted to escape from the court officer, Vance Hanger, father of Pontiac Police Chief William K. Hanger.

★ ★ ★

ACQUITTED

She had been charged with maintaining and operating a house of prostitution at the Chapman address, and soliciting an act of prostitution, but was acquitted on both counts in Pontiac Municipal Court.

★ ★ ★

In late April, while police were taking steps to padlock the residence as a "public nuisance," it was discovered that Mrs. Mayes was paying the rent with funds she received from the County Welfare Department.

Birmingham Area News

Police Chief Asks to Halt Driver License Sale

BIRMINGHAM — Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley will recommend to the city commission tonight that the city discontinue the issuing of driver licenses.

"It's costing the city several thousand dollars a year and a considerable amount of time," Moxley explained today.

"It is neither a city nor a police function," said Moxley. "Driver licenses should be handled by the secretary of state."

Michigan is one of the few states where police sell driver licenses and then have to turn around and take then away when the privilege is violated, Moxley said.

★ ★ ★

Birmingham is issuing nearly 11,000 licenses a year, including renewals and the number is increasing steadily, according to to the police chief.

COLOR PHOTOS

The problem came to a head last summer when Birmingham was one of 14 Oakland County communities selected by the secretary of state to receive a camera to take color photos that now appear on driver licenses.

With the number of cameras limited and the added expense of hiring a full-time employee to operate them, many communities were unable to participate and closed their licensing bureaus, shifting the burden to neighboring cities.

Moxley said the present situation will worsen soon because he has been informed that Southfield will discontinue its bureau on July 1.

★ ★ ★

Both Ferndale and Oak Park have announced their intention to do the same but have set no date.

OUT OF BUSINESS

Detroit went out of the licensing business the first of the year and the secretary of state office took over the entire operation without difficulty, said Moxley.

"Eventually, the state will take over the job throughout Michigan," Moxley said.

The chief said he would ask the commission to give the secretary of state three months notice of its intention to drop the program.

Wife Survives Boat Mishap

MONROE (AP) — Mrs. Louise Donnelly, 71, of the Akron, Ohio, suburb of Fairlawn, was reported in good condition in Memorial Hospital here today following a boating mishap which apparently led to the death of her husband.

An autopsy was performed on Harry Donnelly, 64, who died in Memorial Hospital Monday after he and his wife were found unconscious on their boat in Lake Erie. The results were not yet known.

★ ★ ★

The Toledo Coast Guard station said the Donnellys' 37-foot-cabin cruiser was found aground Saturday night and the couple was offered a ride to shore. The Coast Guard said the couple decided then to remain on board their craft and await a tow boat.

The Donnellys were found unconscious and suffering from exposure when the tow boat arrived Sunday in the Toledo Beach Marina area.

Cost of Home Loans Jumps

Interest Rates Are at Top Level in 3 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interest rates on conventional home loans took their sharpest jump during April since the money market began to tighten last year, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board said today.

John E. Horne, board chairman, said the April rise brought average mortgage interest rates to the highest level in the more than three years that this type data has been collected.

The average mortgage loan for a new single-family home rose to 5.99 per cent during April compared with 5.9 per cent during March, the board said. The rate in April, 1965, was 5.74 per cent.

On conventional loans for purchase of existing homes, the average interest rate rose to 6.09 per cert during April compared with 6.01 per cent in March and 5.89 per cent in April of 1965, the board added.

Interest rates on loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the Veterans Administration are fixed by those agencies at 5.75 per cent.

SAVINGS DECLINE

At the same time, the board reported, as expected, that aggregate savings held by insured savings and loan associations declined during April.

Gross savings received by associations during the month totaled $3.7 billion, but withdrawals totaled $4.5 billion, reducing the net inflow of savings for the first four months of the year to $549 million.

The board reported gross mortgage lending operations at $1.8 billion during April, 9 per cent lower than a year eralier.

★ ★ ★

Mortgage portfolios rose by the end of the month to $108.8 billion, mainly because of a sharp increase in borrowing from Federal Home Loan banks.

★ ★ ★

Savings and loans and commercial banks have been in sharp competition over the past several months to attract savings.

Navy Revamps Security

Sailor Tried to Sell U.S. Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Navy serviceman assigned to routine duties in a "top secret" area methodically collected highly sensitive information and tried to sell it to the Soviets, it was learned today.

The Navy turned aside all questions about the case by saying that it is "under active investigation" and that "other details are classified."

Since the man involved held a secret clearance, it can be assumed that he had undergone a fairly stringent security check beforehand.

NO INDICATION

There was no indication of the specific nature of the material he tried to sell or whether the Soviets bought it. On these points, too, the Navy refused to talk.

The previously undisclosed case came to light in a notice to all ships and stations signed by Rear Adm. Rufus L. Taylor, director of the Office of Naval Intelligence.

The notice was intended, it said, to advise commanders "of the danger inherent in our present security system whereby an individual who has access to secret information may, through the peculiar nature of his duties, gain access to top secret information without an appropriate clearance."

It went on to say that "as a result of a recent case involving the compromise of classified material, a weakness in our security system was brought to the attention of the chief of naval operations."

STORY TOLD

Then it told the story, without giving any names or indication of where the espionage incident occurred.

It said a serviceman who had duties as a "watch stander," officer supply clerk, and repairman was placed on a list permitting access to spaces where top secret information was discussed.

★ ★ ★

As a result of his frequent appearances in the sensitive spaces, the notice said, "authorized personnel assumed that he held a top secret clearance."

Further, the commanders were told, the authorized personnel "failed to challenge his need-to-know."

'COLLECTION'

"Through observation and pertinent questions, the serviceman managed to collect and collate information classified top secret," it added.

4 Congo Plot Suspects Face Hanging

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Four former Cabinet ministers today faced a speedy trial and possible public hanging for allegedly plotting with foreign embassies to overthrow the government and murder the Congolese president, Lt. Gen Joseph Mobutu.

The four, including former Premier Evariste Kimba, were brought before Mobutu yesterday with their hands tied behind their backs and accused of high treason, a crime punishable by hanging. The government said more arrests were expected.

The official government radio said Kimba and the three other Congolese politicians were likely to be sentenced to death, and perhaps hanged in the public square.

There were unconfirmed reports that the four would be brought to trial today. They were arrested Sunday night.

The government said military officers, including one who posed as a houseboy to learn details of the plot, were responsible for foiling the planned coup.

FOREIGN EMBASSIES

The government said two foreign embassies supported the plotters and gave them 1.3 million Congolese francs ($8,666) to use as bribes for government soldiers. It did not identify the embassies, but said they were not African.

The government said the four men planned to kidnap and kill Mobutu and throw his body into the crocodile-infested Congo River.

The same fate allegedly awaited Premier Leonard Mulamba and the army commander, Louis Bobozo.

The government said the plotters were betrayed when they approached military leaders in late March to enlist their support. The army was not involved in the plot, the government said.

Those arrested included Kimba, Jerome Anani, defense minister in former Premier Cyrille Adoula's government in 1963, and two lesser known politicians Manuel Bamba and Alexander Mbamba.

Several members of Parliament were believed involved in the plot.

★ ★ ★

The government said Anani was to have been named premier if the coup had succeeded. Kimba would have been foreign minister and Bamba finance minister.

1 Dead, 8 Injured as Typhoon Judy Leaves Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Typhoon Judy blew out into the Pacific Monday night, leaving one person dead in southern Formosa, four others missing and eight injured. Police said three of the injured were in serious condition.

The typhoon, with winds up to 80 miles an hour, caused heavy but not disastrous damage to banana plantations, crippled the electric power system in the port of Kaohsiung and caused low-level flooding.

Charles Friedrich's Belgian Horses In Their Sunday Best

Preserving Belgian Breed

His Hobby Is Huge Horses

By JANICE KLOUSER

DRYDEN — A visit to the Charles Friedrich farm is like stepping back into the days before mechanized farming.

Friedrich is one of about 30 breeders of Belgians in the state and one of the few who still use the horses for farming.

"I feel it's good to work them to give them some exercise," he said, "and I use them wherever a team is as good as a tractor."

★ ★ ★

The damp weather this spring, however, has forced Friedrich to turn to up-to-date methods and has sidelined the big animals for a while. Friedrich said he is behind in his planting and is going to have to use a tractor to get his work done this year.

HORSE HOBBY

Friedrich started raising the horses as a hobby about 10 years ago when he and his wife managed the L. D. Buhl estate in Romeo.

Two years ago they moved to their own place at 5300 Dryden Road. They now have 17 Belgians, including two colts born this year.

"I've been around horses all my life," said Friedrich, "but I'm partial to the work horses.

★ ★ ★

"They used to be used exclusively for farming and were the backbone of this country."

STILL IN USE

He pointed out that the Amish people still use the animals for their farming.

The Belgian is good for farm work, she said, because it is a heavy, rugged horse and can stand more wear and tear than other breeds.

One of the largest breeds of horses, the average Belgian weighs 2,000 pounds or more and stands about 17 hands high. Other horses, he said, weigh between 900 and 1,200 pounds.

★ ★ ★

The horses used to be smaller, he said, maybe 15 or 16 hands high, but through select breeding have become taller.

MORE GENTLE

The Belgian is also more gentle than any other horse, according to Friedrich.

The pride and joy of the Friedrichs is a stallion named Jimmy which they use for stud purposes. They got him from Mrs. Alfred Wilson's Meadow Brook Farms in Howell.

"We don't charge for our stud service," pointed out Friedrich, "because we're trying to get more young people interested in them.

"We're trying to keep the breed from dying out. If we're not careful, the museum will soon be the only place to see this breed."

Friedrich said the most popular Belgian is blond with a white mane and tail.

Friedrich is occasionally forced to shoe his own horses because of the size of their hooves. He said he has a hard time finding a blacksmith who will work on the Belgians.

The horses are also used for showing at various fairs throughout the state.

Sunday, Friedrich will display his animals at the Kingsbury School Old-Time Country Fair from noon to 5 p.m. The school is located at Oakwood and Hosner Roads, Oxford Township.

FREE RIDES

Chairmen of the fair are Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Holden of Metamora. Cochairmen are Mr. and Mrs. James Church or Romeo.

Zoning Code Hearing Set

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A public hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. tomorrow at the township hall to consider a new zoning ordinance.

The ordinance, providing for limited industrial development of a commercial area, is being disputed by business owners in the area.

Set aside for industrial development is a strip along the eastern side of Haggerty nearly two miles long and one-quarter-mile deep.

The ordinance is part of the township's master plan which would also provide for larger residential lot sizes.

The planning commission has estimated the ordinance would cut future population density as much as 25 per cent.

Beetles Would Bristle if They Knew Type of Grain in Store

EAST LANSING (AP) — Scientists have taken the first steps toward making small grain areas as uncomfortable for cereal leaf beetles as a bed of nails, but the next steps could take eight years.

The problem now is to cross-breed bristly wheat varieties with high-quality, high-yield varieties to produce a commercially acceptable grain.

Field trials by Michigan State University scientists in Berrien County showed that wheat leaves with bristly surfaces provide a nest so uncomfortable for the beetle that it repels egg laying.

★ ★ ★

"It will take us about eight years to complete all the tests and breeding work necessary to develop a commercially acceptable variety, but I know we can do it," said Dr. Everett Everson, an MSU crop scientist.

14,444 LINES

"Altogether," he added, "we have tested 14,444 wheat lines for resistance to the cereal leaf beetle. Of these, 2.2 per cent, or 323 lines, have been found quite resistant after two years of testing in the field."

These 323 now will undergo further laboratory tests. All are either low-quality or low-yield varieties, making cross breeding necessary.

★ ★ ★

"We've tested 5,000 lines of oats and 9,000 lines of barley to try to screen out resistant varieties," he said. "Our tests show some tolerance but no beetle resistance in any one of these . . . yet."

LUSH FIELDS

Michigan and U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists hope to find beetle stoppers before the insect pests spread from Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Illinois into the Great Plains' lush grain fields.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, MSU laboratories are raising more and more beetles — for test purposes.

Phone Firm Customers Asked to Vote

MILFORD — General Telephone customers in the Milford and White Lake exchanges have been asked to vote on a proposal to provide toll-free calling to Pontiac.

A survey letter, which included a return postal card "ballot," was sent to all customers in the Milford and White Lake exchanges this week, according to J. E. Skoog, Milford district manager for the company.

The letter explains the proposed extended area service which would link the 250 telephones of the two General Telephone exchanges with 72,000 telephones of six Pontiac exchanges.

The Pontiac exchanges which would be involved are those with the prefix 332, 333, 334, 335, 338, all FEderal exchanges, and 682.

★ ★ ★

The rates for local service, which are based on the number of telephones in the local calling area, would be increased slightly for customers in the Milford and White Lake exchanges, Skoog said. Pontiac rates would not be affected.

If the customers support the proposal, he said, the company will present it to the Michigan Public Service Commission for approval.

He will handle school public relations and assist in negotiations with teacher organizations.

Kratz was formerly with the Detroit Board of Education in employe relations.

For Farmington Elementary Pupils

Summer Sessions Set

FARMINGTON — The elementary summer school enrichment program will offer a variety of activities for area children this summer.

Registration for the program will be taken at the summer school office, Farmington High School, from 3 to 6 p.m. June 13-17 and from 9 a.m. to noon June 18. Final registrations will be accepted June 20 and 21.

The program is open to nonresidents as well as to children in the school district.

Classes have been scheduled daily at Ten Mile School from June 22 to Aug. 5. The classes have been organized into three sessions so that a student may attend one of two three-week sessions, or an entire six-week session.

Tuition for the three-week sessions, from June 22 to July 15 and July 18 to Aug. 5, is $5. The six-week session from June 23 to Aug. 5 is $10.

COURSES OFFERED

Courses to be offered are explorations in math for grades four to six; composition and study skills for grades four to six; beginning Spanish for grades three to six; and intermediate Spanish, grades three to six.

Others are beginning and intermediate French for children in grades three to six; and science exploration for grades four to six.

Fundamentals of basketball will be offered to children in grades four to six at the Farmington High School gymnasium from 8 to 9 a.m. daily.

In addition to the noncredit enrichment courses, a math improvement course will be offered to children in grades four to six. Two sessions are scheduled at Ten Mile School from 10 to 10:55 a.m. and 11 to 11:55 a.m.

Driver education will be offered to residents only. A number of secondary school credit courses will be offered for residents and nonresidents in grades seven through 12.

A summer instrumental music program is scheduled for grades four to 12 at various schools in the system.

Gerber's Nurtures Yams

New State Crop Brings M-Week Honor

LANSING (AP) — To take a southern plant and fix it up to pay off as a commercial crop in Michigan's harsher climate, that's sweet success—or in this case, sweet potato success.

"People didn't think it could be done," said Terry Hewitt of Gerber Products Co. in Fremont.

Gerber did it and received the 1966 Michigan Week award for Agricultural Product of the Year.

The problem was to develop a plant that would produce a large crop of sweet potatoes in Michigan's shorter growing season, so Gerber wouldn't have to go to the Deep South to buy its supply.

MEETING NEEDS

After eight years' experimentation, aided by Michigan State University, growers in Van Buren and Berrien counties were able to produce enough to meet all the needs of the Fremont baby food plant.

"We're hoping another processor will pick up the ball and go farther," said Hewitt, who believes the crop has excellent potential in Michigan.

Growers stand ready to plant the crop, he said, providing there are processors interested in buying it.

John Downes, an MSU horticulturist, said the crop has many advantages, including the fact it thrives on "some of our cheaper land"—light sandy soil.

MECHANIZED CROP

Labor problems are unlikely since it is a complete mechanized crop, Hewitt said, and the equipment needed is something a grower likely would have around anyway.

The pests and diseases which harm sweet potatoes in the South haven't appeared in Michigan, said Gerber's William Hays.

With large - scale plantings, they might show up, he said, "but if we keep rotating the crop, we think we can keep them out for the present time."

Gerber - contracted plantings last season totaled more than 200 acres and produced more than 1,000 tons.

NOW FEASIBLE

"It now is feasible for Michigan to compete with the South in sweet potatoes," Hewitt said.

One problem, said Downes, is that in the North the sweet potato is not the staple it is in the South.

★ ★ ★

"If the market were larger we could grow untold acres," he said.

Alabama's Dem Runoff Today

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Federal authorities kept a close watch today on Alabama's Democratic party runoff primary in which Negroes ran against white opponents in 16 of the state's 67 counties.

The Justice Department sent poll watchers into six counties — Choctaw, Greene, Hale, Marengo, Perry and Sumter — just as it did in the first primary May 3 when 12 counties were put under surveillance.

They were under instructions to look for possible violations of the new federal Voting Rights Act. In two of the counties, Hale and Perry, local officials had asked for them.

Polls open at 10 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. in rural areas and 8 p.m. in cities and rural areas with voting machines. Polls remain open until 9 p.m. in Jefferson and Tuscaloosa counties.

BLOC VOTE

Negro candidates seeking seats in the all-white Legislature or running for sheriff or other local office in the six counties being watched and 10 others hoped for a bloc vote and a heavy turnout of newly registered Negro voters.

But there was little likelihood that the size of the vote statewide would approach the record 880,000 ballots cast in the governor's race four weeks ago.

There was evidence in at least one county of a split in Negro sentiment. The Rev. K. L. Buford, one of two Negroes on the Tuskegee City Council, openly endorsed a white candidate for sheriff and urged other members of his race in Macon County to follow his lead.

Buford supported Sheriff Harvey Sadler, who was appointed to his job by Gov. George C. Wallace 16 months ago.

NO MAJORITY

Failure of the Negro voters to stick together or to turn out in full strength would jeopardize the Negro candidates' chances even in counties where they are a voting majority.

The runoff was necessary in races where no one received a majority of the votes cast on May 3.

The Negro vote was a factor also in one of the three statewide races to be decided today. Secretary of State Agnes Baggett, a candidate for state treasurer, sought the support of white voters by labeling her opponent State Auditor Bettye Frink, as the one the "bloc vote" preferred.

Mrs. Baggett reportedly had the support of the Wallace administration.

Medicare Plan Deadline Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Today is the last day for persons over 65 to sign up for Medicare insurance against doctor's bills.

Unless they enroll before Social Security offices close for the day—about 5 p.m., local time in most cities—they will have to wait until Oct. 1, 1967, for another chance.

They also will have to pay 10 per cent higher premiums for coming in late.

Social Security offices across the nation remained open yesterday despite the Memorial Day holiday, to give oldsters every opportunity to qualify.

The insurance coverage is available at a bargain rate of $3 a month to all men and women over 65.

SUPPLEMENT

Urge Calm Look at 'Auto Safety'

At a time when sensationalists and self-seeking politicians have been having an oral field day attacking the safety standards of automakers, the objective observations of two of Michigan's congressional representatives — Republicans Sen. ROBERT GRIFFIN and Rep. GERALD FORD—come as a welcome relief.

Both legislators, while not minimizing the paramount importance of auto safety design, cautioned against making a legislative circus out of the issue.

They advocate realistic consideration by the lawmakers of many factors related to highway casualties before pinning the onus on the car manufacturers with some ill-advised legislation leading to uniform bureaucratic regulation and control.

While expressing the belief that highway safety and tire safety bills would pass in some form this year, the pair agreed that the producers of autos and tires are best qualified to prescribe whatever safety remedies are called for and should have a strong voice in drafting them.

★ ★ ★

The PRESS commends the solons for their rationalism with the hope that its substance will have a wide acceptance on Capitol Hill.

Economics an Invisible Force That Affects All

Our new economists hold that an increase in the public debt—lower taxes, higher government spending —will spur the economy out of the doldrums. The traditionalists preach that increasing private debt —a rise in the cost of borrowing— is the best way to curb inflation.

The first proposition has been pretty well vindicated by the boom of the past two years; the latter has been around so long that few people question it.

We heard very little about a danger of inflation before last December 3, says VOORHIS. Prices up to that time had remained remarkably stable over a long period. It is since that date, when the Federal Reserve Board took the classic anti-inflation step of raising interest rates, that inflation has become a major issue and that prices have been rising to a point where people are concerned.

Inflation has always resulted when interest rates have been raised in moderation as an inflation preventive, he says. To take the Federal Reserve argument at face value, we should now raise them still more. Yet if this method is used as drastically as it must be to have the desired effect, it will cause deflation and depression.

The best way to control inflation, says Voorhis, is to increase production of goods and services to a point where the very supply of real wealth becomes great enough to bring prices down. An increase in taxes is another method.

Until economics become an exact science, which seems most unlikely, its ramifications and interactions make establishment of immutable laws of cause and effect a pretty dubious business.

Mississippi No Longer to Swallow 'Prohibition'

Racial relations was not the only social area the State of Mississippi marred by hypocrisy. Another was its approach to the commercial status of liquor.

For 58 years the State has been technically "dry," and as such is the only state in the Union currently so classified.

★ ★ ★

But Mississippi's long period of "abstinence" comes to an end on July 1 when a bill legalizing the sale of liquor subject to local option action takes effect.

Were it not that flouting of state law is to be deplored, the openness with which liquor has long been available by drink or bottle in Mississippi would have been ludicrous.

Efforts on the part of realistic segments of the citizenry, however, to terminate the phony prohibition have regularly been beaten down by a coalition of sincere abstainers, the two-faced who vote dry and drink wet and the racketeering element and corrupt politicians who profited from the illicit traffic in the commodity.

Moralists need not be concerned that legalization of liquor will lead to an orgy of drinking in Mississippi, since "prohibition" had provided an unlimited number of well-stocked establishments for easy accessibility of would-be imbibers.

LBJ Wary of China Reappraisal

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson appears to be wary of a senatorial proposal for a blue ribbon commission inquiry into U. S. relations with Communist China.

Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and George S. McGovern, D-S.D., who proposed the policy inquiry in recent Senate speeches have not been able to get any encouragement from the White House.

At the State Department, the word is that Johnson has turned thumbs down on the proposal. But the senators are not giving up hope of an eventual favorable decision.

If it chooses, Congress could set up a commission of recognized national leaders to hold hearings and advise it what to do about lessening tensions with Peking.

★ ★ ★

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is reported favorable to that idea. But Kennedy and McGovern have no present plans to introduce a resolution for such an inquiry.

PRODDED A REVIEW

The two senators are reported to feel that their commission proposal, following the China hearings held by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has prodded the administration into reviewing its policies toward the Peking regime.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has moved toward enlarging unofficial contacts between Communist China and the United States but the State Department says these efforts have been rebuffed by Peking thus far.

Diplomatic contacts continue between the two governments in Warsaw and Rusk publicly has expressed U.S. willingness to sit down with the Chinese to discuss disarmament and nonproliferation of nuclear weapons.

★ ★ ★

Rusk has said the United States is avoiding the assumption that there will be "unending and inevitable" hostility between the two nations. He has tried to reassure Peking that this country does not intend to attack mainland China.

DEFEND FORMOSA

However, the administration is holding firm to its commitment to defend the Republic of China on Formosa against attack and it continues to work to prevent the expulsion of Nationalist China from the United Nations and to oppose Red China's admission to that body.

Senators interested in finding some way to reopen peaceful contacts with Peking think the first step may have to come in the United Nations. Some of them have suggested a two-China policy, but the administration does not seem interested.

Until the President decides on some policy changes about all the senators can do is keep talking about what they regard as the need for them.

David Lawrence Says:

Vote Fund Plan Fine for Starter

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has sent a communication to Congress urging that the statutes dealing with the financing of political campaigns be strengthened.

LAWRENCE

He said the existing laws are "obsolete, too narrow and inadequate" and "invite evasion and circumvention." He declared they must be revised.

The President's message is constructive so far as it goes, especially in recommending that there be "complete public disclosure of campaign funds" by all candidates as well as revelations also by members of Congress of gifts and income.

But the central difficulty is ignored. It is that huge organizations collect money under various kinds of duress and use the funds, in effect, as a means of buying elections.

If ever there was a "conflict of interest," it is in this anomaly.

At present, a national political committee singly cannot raise or spend more than $3 million in any year. But there is no limit on the number of committees that can be created and, as the President says, the federal restriction does not apply at all to committees active in only one state.

Significantly, Mr. Johnson points out that the present law does not limit spending by state committees which incidentally aids federal candidates. This help is given when campaign speeches are made for the party as a whole.

Candidates for federal offices and local nominees benefit from the same effort and from the boosts that are given at mass meetings to urge the citizen to vote a straight-party ticket.

Then there are the primary contests which have never been covered by federal laws. Yet in many states a nomination won in a primary is equivalent to victory in the final election.

Complete disclosure, however, of who furnishes the money and in what amount will not alone uproot the evils in the present methods of conducting political campaigns.

There will be no real cleanup of the campaign scandals in the United States and no assurance that elections are not being bought until a limit is placed on the amount of money that any organization which is interested in legislation pending in Congress can raise and contribute to political campaigns.

Maybe the President's new communication to Congress will at least focus attention on the political corruption that exists in America due to the misuse of campaign contributions.

Bob Considine Says:

U.S. Gap Called Critical in Manned Space Flight

NEW YORK — We continue to inch forward at the customary velocity of 17,500 m.p.h., except in the case of moon probes and then the speed moves up to 25,000 m.p.h. But the Russians are not standing still by a long shot. They're still out in front.

CONSIDINE

So swears Dr. George E. Mueller, NASA's scholarly manned space flight associate administrator.

"The United States program initiated in 1961 was intended to achieve world preeminence in space by 1970. However, in spite of our tremendous progress, this nation has not been able to close the gap.

★ ★ ★

"The most critical gap that we face is in the area of manned space flight.

HAVE THE CAPABILITY

"The Russians have the capability to adopt many options and their capabilities will soon reach a point where they could expect success in an attempt to land men on the moon.

"In fact, there is more chance today than there was a year ago that they will land on the moon before 1969."

Dr. Mueller's visions were outlined in a speech which he read like a man intoning the inventory of a second-rate shoe store.

★ ★ ★

Despite the wonders he outlined, there was no "fight team fight" in his message when it came to the assessment of Russia's chances.

NO. 1 GAG

This led to the convention's No. 1 gag: "It will take our people four and a half instead of two and a half days to reach the moon. The additional two days will be spent going through Russian customs."

Right now we're only second best, Dr. Mueller says, and leaves us with the thought that we must try harder.

"Our space activities represent the most compelling and dramatic demonstrations of this country's scientific and productive excellence, and portray a picture of a strong, dynamic 'can-do' nation, able to compete with a formidable rival," Dr. Mueller concluded.

"Today, however, the United States is not ahead in this deadly serious competition. It will require a strong and increasing effort to prevent the Soviets from forging ahead as the unchallenged leader in space."

Mother Gives Suggestion on Guideline for Students

There has been much talk about guidelines. This is good. Students of all ages need them as well as grown-ups. One solution would be to have the Ten Commandments printed in large block letters and hung in every schoolroom. Students should learn by memory and be able to recite these commandments, and perhaps take home to parents the full meaning of the commandments.

★ ★ ★

Many tired mothers with jobs outside their homes don't have time to talk to or understand problems of their school age children. Too much pampering and too much TV leave a terrible impression on young minds. Teens need chores to do, responsibilities, and more guidelines to grow up by. Industry should use time and money to help teen-agers find themselves with part-time employment.

★ ★ ★

The potential is there. What are we doing about it?

Reader States View on Automobile Safety

It has been most interesting to hear the discussions about car safety, but I think they are working on the wrong end. Never before have cars had such good brakes, such ease of driving or facility of handling. Never have there been such good roads and accessibility of weather information.

★ ★ ★

Unless car manufacturers can invent instant brains and common sense, and instant "sober-uppers" for the person behind the wheel, I fail to see how the high rate of accidents can be attributed to them.

GOP Gaining Negro Support

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A white liberal who recently sat in on a private meeting of a dozen or so Negro leaders in Michigan says some told him Republican Governor George Romney might capture up to 40 per cent of the Negro vote in a re-election bid this November.

BIOSSAT

Seasoned politicians regard that figure as high and outside, but at least one top Republican thinks Romney could get 30 per cent of Michigan's Negro voters.

This reporter was present in Detroit the first time Romney spoke to a major Negro audience in 1962. As he ticked off his quite genuine civil rights credentials, including acknowledged crucial leadership in a fight to improve Detroit's schools, Negroes hooted at him derisively.

★ ★ ★

That sort of response is seldom heard today. He is widely accepted as the Negro's friend.

Another GOP governor who can reasonably expect to register a substantial Negro vote for himself is Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio, who seeks a second term.

Rhodes, who insists on keeping his political endeavors to a narrow state focus, has received little national attention for the fact that he has sprinkled his administration with Negro appointments and has made Negroes increasingly visible in Ohio's Republican party structure.

In Cuyahoga County, embracing Cleveland, where Negroes are heavily concentrated, Rhodes got 54.5 per cent of the total vote in 1962. He could do even better this time if his share of the Negro vote rises as many leaders anticipate.

There is a certain irony in Rhodes' advancing status with the Negro community, since he was busy telling Republicans at the 1964 GOP national convention in San Francisco that a huge white backlash was developing—to the likely benefit of Barry Goldwater. The backlash turned out to be vastly overrated.

The mounting Negro vote prospects for Rhodes and Romney are simply fresh evidence that the Democrats do not have this vote tied down. As is now well-established, the Negroes in the big-city states are restless. They are clearly ready to move to Republican candidates who show convincing signs of interest in their cause.

The 1965 elections offered the first dramatic turnabout. Mayor John Lindsay of New York took 40 per cent of the Negro vote. Mayor Kenneth Schmeid in Louisville got 55 per cent. Arlen Spectar, winning as district attorney in Philadelphia, gained nearly 30 per cent.

What these Republicans did was no freakish accident. The emotional fire which now invests civil rights issues has frayed the economic bonds which have linked Negroes to the Democratic party since 1936.

★ ★ ★

Indeed, it is fair to say that countless Negroes today see their economic outlook bound up not with government benefits but with a widening horizon for jobs, schooling and housing.

To the extent Democratic state and local governments appear to hold down that horizon, Negroes are ripe for Republican overtures.

The gains evidently in store for Romney and Rhodes contain an unmistakable lesson for others. It is not lost on such an important GOP prospect as U.S. Senate candidate Charles Percy of Illinois, who got just 11 per cent of the Negro total as 1964 governorship nominee but thinks he can do much better.

The Republicans' opportunity is golden. But they badly need many more prime candidates with convincing appeal to a Negro community adrift from its old Democratic anchor.

Dominicans Brace for Vote Tomorrow

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

SANTO DOMINGO — The Dominican Republic reaches another decisive moment Wednesday in its long, frustrating search for some sort of democratic system, and a strange, indefinable mood seems to have settled over this tortured little island nation.

There is suppressed excitement on the eve of national elections which conceivably could bring new, bloody chaos. There seems to be little real optimism about the future, but there seems to be little real pessimism either.

* * *

Until the elections are behind them, Dominicans cannot be sure that elections are going to be held successfully at all. But that is only the first hurdle.

The chances are that hurdle will be taken. The next will be acceptance of the result. If the vote Wednesday is close — and that seems likely — there is a good chance for trouble from supporters of the man who is declared the loser.

STILL OTHER HURDLES

If that hurdle is taken, there are still others. Any president declared elected must be successfully inaugurated. Then he must remain in office. In a country like the Dominican Republic it will not be easy.

The two major candidates, Juan Bosch of the Dominican Revolutionary party — PRD — and Joaquin Balaguer of the Reform party — PR — each bears a burden of political liability.

* * *

Bosch, overthrown in September 1963 after seven months as the nation's first democratically elected president, was accused then of being soft on communism. The charge remains to haunt him.

Balaguer became president in 1961 after the assassination of the dictator, Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, under whom he had served as vice president. The charge of Trujilloism remains to haunt him.

Should Balaguer win by a tight margin, there could be an explosion in the streets sparked by leftists. Should Bosch win by a close margin, the reaction might be more slow, but he could be in danger from right-wing elements in the armed forces.

One does not see danger in the streets on the election eve. As one old hand put it, the country seems "abnormally normal." This is a big change from only two months ago, when there was shooting in the streets of Santo Domingo. There have been only sporadic incidents since mid-March.

In the crowded old part of the capital, despite blaring sound trucks and loudspeakers, the atmosphere seems almost relaxed. It is as if people were becoming immune to propaganda being blasted at them from all sides and were only half listening or perhaps no longer listening at all.

Almost every available wall is scrawled with slogans and promises: "The Poor Love Balaguer," "Balaguer, a New Epoch For Our Country," the inevitable "Yankee Go Home," and the promises of Bosch's party of reforms and a better life.

The Communist minority — small, noisy and potentially dangerous — is much in evidence. "An Anti-Yankee Vote is a Vote for Sovereignty" screams a banner of the 14th of June Movement, only recently legalized as a political party.

* * *

The Communists have done well at infiltrating the university, the courts and some labor organizations, but they, too, apparently are unhappy. They appear to worry about Bosch, who has denounced their support of him. If elected he may want to demonstrate that the "soft on communism" charge was groundless.

NY Teen-Agers on Rampage at Coney Island

NEW YORK (AP) — An estimated 4,000 teenagers went on a rampage at Coney Island last night, letting off steam as the Memorial Day weekend drew to a close.

Police said the teenagers — both girls and boys between the ages of 14 and 18 — engaged in fist fights, threw bottles and forced rides and booths to close early at the amusement center.

* * *

At least eight persons were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct, and another was charged with felonious assault for allegedly striking a mounted policeman.

NY Subway Station Blast Injures Pair

NEW YORK (AP) — One woman suffered a serious eye injury and another was hurt slightly when a bomb exploded in a telephone booth in a Manhattan subway station.

The explosion Monday was beneath the Municipal Building, a short distance from City Hall.

* * *

It tore apart two phone booths and showered glass and metal in an area where about 10 persons were walking.

Police said it could have been far more serious if the device, which resembled a huge firecracker, had gone off on a normal workday.

Doctors removed glass fragments from the right eye of Carrie Mangum, 38, of Brooklyn and said she would need more surgery.

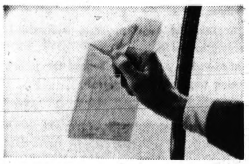

The other injured woman, Maria Ortez, 18, of the Bronx, was cut slightly by flying glass.

Cuban Exile's Fate Unknown

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Exile sources say a commando leader with a record of more than a dozen anti-Castro missions to Cuba led last weekend's ill-fated infiltration attempt denounced by the Cuban government.

★ ★ ★

They said they had not learned the fate of the 39-year-old revolutionary, Tony Cuesta. A Cuban government communique said two invaders were killed, two men were wounded and captured and two were missing and presumed drowned.

Cuesta's last reported action occurred last November, when a vessel under his command shot at the waterfront home of Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticas. The men missed their target but hit an aquarium 30 yards from the home.

★ ★ ★

Cuesta, military commander of a group called Commandos L, reportedly headed a raiding party that shelled and almost sank the Soviet freighter Baku at a Cuban port three years ago. The Soviets protested to Washington.

'NO BREATHER'

Less than a day after he was hailed as a hero for rescuing a boy burned by a high-voltage power line, John Dennis, 28, of New York stood in Criminal Court on a burglary charge.

Judge Herbert I. Sorin asked yesterday: "Are you the man who rescued the little boy?"

Dennis said he was, and the judge said: "I was very proud of you, but now I'm disillusioned. First you acted like a real citizen and then you do something like this. What got into you?

"We're going to try to help you. The court is going to be lenient. I'm going to parole you for a hearing. Now you can go home. I hope you appreciate what the court did for you."

Dennis, who on Sunday rescued Ronnie Perez, 11, after the boy caught fire following a brush with a railroad power line, was charged with burglarizing a Brooklyn service station.

The boy, who toppled off a fence and plunged 30 feet to the freight tracks of the Long Island Railroad, was reported in critical condition.

Small Texans Fail to Cheat Police Test

Two applicants for a Houston, Tex., police training class have been caught cheating.

Mayor Louie Welch said yesterday that one applicant "tied 15 pounds of lead sinkers to his legs" in an attempt to meet the minimum weight requirement.

His plan failed when he had to step on the scales minus his clothes.

The mayor said the other applicant increased his height by padding his socks.

He too failed—when a detective noticed the padding and the applicant was measured barefoot.

State Hopefuls Join Parades

DETROIT (UPI) — Michigan's U. S. Senate candidates shuffled along with hundreds of Detroit area marchers in Memorial Day parades yesterday. It was a day of stumping and handshaking but few speeches.

★ ★ ★

Former Gov. G. Mennen Williams led the candidates in endurance by participating in five parades, two in Detroit and one each in nearby Melvindale, East Detroit and St. Clair Shores.

Twice the veteran campaigner shared the political spotlight with Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, his chief Democratic opponent in the Aug. 2 primary, and twice with newly appointed Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich.

Griffin shared the political reign with Williams in St. Clair Shores and Melvindale. Griffin also was part of a Wyandotte parade. Cavanagh was a part of both Detroit parades.

★ ★ ★

The three candidates are priming for the Michigan AFL-CIO convention tomorrow in Lansing where they will address the union members in hopes of swaying their sentiments.

Williams made brief remarks at a small parade in northeast Detroit, recapping his Viet Nam position which essentially coincides with the Johnson Administration.

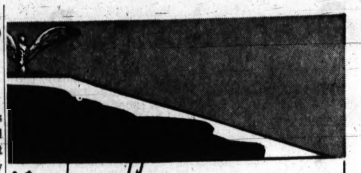

They're looking for trouble

so you won't have any

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — It is an American tradition that no politician runs openly for vice president. Sen. Jacob K. Javits isn't exactly breaking that tradition but he may be bending it.

In a field where few men care to publicly venture, Javits quietly is trying to narrow down — to himself — the GOP's choice of a 1968 vice presidential candidate.

★ ★ ★

Although the New York Republican insists publicly he has made no decision, he has told friends privately he would be willing to give up his Senate seat to get the Republican second-place nomination two years from now.

Javits' current term expires in 1969 and New York has no provision by which he can run for both the Senate and Vice President.

FIRM DESIRE

Behind Javits' willingness to risk his political future is his desire to become the first Jewish candidate on a major party ticket. It is his private opinion that this would be a crowning achievement for a political career in which he has gone all out for civil rights.

It also is Javits' view that if John F. Kennedy had not won the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960, it would have been another decade before a Roman Catholic breakthrough in the political field. He feels the Jews may be 10 years away from a similar achievement if he fails to get the second place spot in 1968.

Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York has gone a long way toward linking Javits' vicepresidential aspirations to the presidential hopes of Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

In a Long Island, N.Y., speech last week, Rockefeller said he had bowed out of the presidential picture "forever" and suggested that Romney and Javits should share the top spots on the 1968 Republican ticket.

The New York governor also said he would be in favor of Javits' running for the 1968 nomination as a favorite son candidate from New York.

"Jack Javits is preeminently equipped for national leadership and for candidacy on the national Republican ticket," he said.

If Rockefeller is reelected, Javits' friends will be reminding him of the favorite son support. If the governor should lose, the delegation will be Javits' by default.

These prospects put the New York senator in a potentially powerful position to have something to say about the top nomination. He doesn't necessarily have to hitch his aspirations to Romney's wagon.

NIXON'S OUT

Ordinarily, the presidential nominee picks his running mate. About the only candidate who couldn't accept Javits would be former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, now a New York lawyer. Presidential and vice presidential candidates aren't selected from the same state.

As a Jew who has been friendly to labor and a leader in the civil rights fight, Javits would be calculated to attract minority votes that the Republicans are going to have to enlist to defeated Johnson's reelection bid. He also has demonstrated that he can carry New York with its hefty electoral vote.

Police Nab 3 Florida Felons

Trio Fled State Prison, Caught in Georgia

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Three Florida convicts who escaped Thursday were back in police custody today, two of them with bullet wounds.

Ray Eugene Edwards, 28, was struck by two shots fired into a stolen automobile by College Park police Monday morning when the convicts refused to submit to arrest and sped away.

★ ★ ★

Edwards gave up to a man at a private residence shortly afterward and said, "They shot me through the car."

After an all-day search in the vicinity of the Atlanta airport, police captured Chester Cole, 28, after he attempted to buy some cheese and crackers at a small cafe.

SHOT IN KNEE

★ ★ ★

"Cole showed us where he last saw Roy, and we formed a skirmish line and walked across this field covered with brush and stuff," said patrolman Melvin Denney of suburban Hapeville. "We found Roy in a bunch of honeysuckle."

★ ★ ★

The three had escaped last Thursday from the Florida State Prison at Raiford.

Edwards, from Fort Myers, Fla., was serving a 20-year term for armed robbery; Cole, of Pensacola, was in the eighth year of a life term for armed robbery and Roy, of Lynn, Mass., was serving a term of 11 years for breaking and entering and auto theft.

Sheridan Man Drowns

SHERIDAN (AP) — William Baker, 61, of Sheridan drowned Monday when he apparently fell from a boat while fishing in Twin Lakes near here. His body was recovered from 12 feet of water.

★ ★ ★

Clothes Gain Importance as the Big Night Nears

By HELEN COLLIAS

Pontiac Central High School seniors are busily preparing for their senior prom, which will be held Saturday from 9 p.m. to midnight at Oakland University.

Although much time has been spent in selection of individual attire, many seniors have found time to help on the various committees essential to the success of the prom.

Chairmen of the theme and decoration committee are Lisa Koper and George Ellenwood.

Chosen as theme for this year's prom is "Hellenici Panigirisis" meaning Grecian celebration or Greek festival.

The classic beauty and culture of ancient Greece will be incorporated into the decorations. Gold and white will predominate.

TICKETS PRINTED

Several posters and signs publicizing the dance have been distributed throughout the school by the publicity committee headed by Gail Caughill.

Patti Ressler, chairman of the band committee has secured two bands for varied musical entertainment at the prom. They are, The Panic and The Pack and the Andy Amato 5.

Refreshments will be provided by the committee headed by Janis Watkins and Lisa Koper.

COCHAIRMEN

The administration will pay $100 toward the rental of the Oakland Center as a reward for the senior class being the top seller in the recent magazine drive.

The cheerleading squad for the 1966-67 season has recently been chosen.

Over 60 seniors have recently been honored by initiation to the National Honor Society. The symbols of the society are character, leadership, service, and scholarship.

At the honors assembly Jerry Murphy, Ronald Lewis, Eileen Hatchett and Roberta Wine each gave a rendition of the symbols.

Things Buzz at Country Day School

By KAREN SEDAN

Final examinations are over and students, especially the seniors, at Bloomfield Country Day School have many exciting festivities to enjoy, culminating with commencement.

Red and white are the theme colors for the Bloomfield Country Day School Rose Ball which will be held on Friday at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club.

When the first Rose Ball was held, the parents were invited and this tradition is still maintained today.

A dinner will be held for the seniors before the ball by Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Monaghan and their daughter, Mary, at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club.

Thursday, class day will be held at the Birmingham Community Center. Various awards will be presented to the students for academic achievement and scholastic excellence. President of the Student Council for 1967 will be announced.

When the Federation of the Alliances Francaises of the United States held its annual meeting to recognize Detroit metropolitan area high school seniors excelling in the study of French during their high school careers, Lorna Richman was honored.

SCHOOL NEWS ROUNDUP

Kingswood

By CINDY GRISSOM

Students of Kingswood School will observe the annual Kingswood Day Friday. Lunch will be hamburgers and ice cream served outdoors on the grass.

Awards will be given for athletic ability. Membership in the "K" Club will be awarded to girls who have received a necessary number of credits for outstanding performance in various sports.

The McLean Trophy, dedicated to a former teacher, is given to the girl with the greatest ability in field hockey.

Sportsmanship is also recognized with two awards, the winners of which are decided by an election.

The outcome of the interschool athletic competition between the "green" and "white" teams will be announced.

RECITAL ON TAP

South Lyon

By DIANNA DANIELSON

During Thursday's class meeting, candidates for class officers gave their campaign speeches.

Later that day, all three classes voted for the Student Council president.

Marian

By PATRICIA POLMEAR

College-bound Marian students have been awarded scholarships. Robin Kuebler leads the senior class in academic honors.

Robin plans to attend Marquette University next fall.

In recognition of outstanding academic achievement, the National Honor Society has also honored Robin with a scholarship. Diane Rice (Marygrove College) and Jeanne O'Callaghan (University of Detroit) have also received this honor.

Under the Michigan Higher Education Assistance Act, eight seniors have been offered academic recognition and financial aid. Among these are Kathleen Mulcrone (Western Michigan), Hilary Keating (Marygrove), Bonnie Vicunas (Madonna College) and Mary Kelly (University of Detroit).

Lorrene Heipel (Western Michigan), Susan Leh (Oakland University), Diane Sutter (Western Michigan) and Ann Florio (Michigan State) will also receive Federal assistance.

Ann Florio has also been notified of a Trustee's Scholarship for Michigan State.

Honor Founder of Brother Rice

By JOHN PALMS JR.

Brother N. B. Hueller, who founded Brother Rice High School six years ago, was honored at an all-school assembly Friday. He will leave the school next year.

SCHOOL EMBLEM

On its front, it is engraved with the school emblem bearing the motto, "Sanctitam per Scientiam," meaning "sanctity through learning."

The $600 gift was purchased with money from the sale of Christmas trees last December.

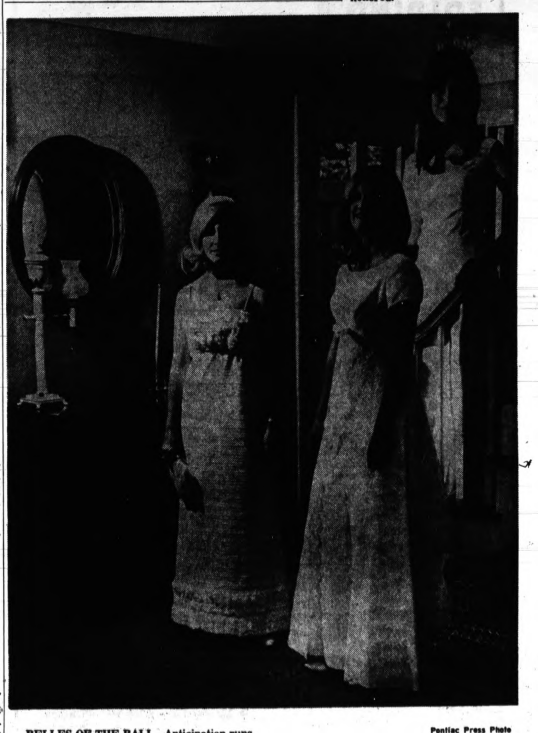

Friday ended formal high school for the seniors. Exams are set for this week.

Graduation will be held June 12. A baccalaureate Mass will be held June 11 followed by the senior breakfast.

Pontiac Press Photo

Big Segment of Teens Likes Large Family

GILBERT YOUTH SERVICE

No matter how parents regard children these days, it's fairly evident that young people think pretty well of children.

How else can you explain the results of our latest survey?

A surprising 40 per cent of the 1,155 teen-agers we questioned said they expected to have families of four or more children!

And of that number, more than 7 per cent said they'd have five children; more than 3 per cent said six would be the right number; and 5½ per cent hoped to have more than six.

★ ★ ★

FIGURE JUMPED

The figure jumped to 27 per cent for two children, to 32 per cent for three, and dropped to 25 per cent for four.

Less than 4 per cent either didn't know or didn't answer the question.

The total came to a little more than 100 per cent because a few gave alternate figures, such as "two or three."

LITTLE CHANGE

Asked whether their ideal families will be larger or smaller then those they now are in, the teeners indicated no overall changes.

More than 32 per cent expected their own families to be about the same.

Thirty three per cent believed it would be smaller, and 31 per cent thought it would be larger.

★ ★ ★

In his reply, 14-year-old Clifford Kawaski, of Honolulu, Hawaii, used an old axiom that quite probably had no relation originally to the size of a family. Said Clifford: "The more the merrier."

GET ALONG

Peter Marana, 16, of Portland Ore., commented: "When you have brothers and sisters, you learn how to get along with people."

Edward Roelant, also 16, of Newport, Mich., expected his own family to be small because "having too many kids around is hard all around."

Among the girls, 18-year-old Bea Williams, of Miami, Fla., admitted she didn't like large families. "You can," she said, "do more for your children if your family is smaller."

★ ★ ★

But Linda Clough, 16, of Oshkosh, Wis., said that, with a large family, "children tend to help out one another and are not too widely spoiled."

HARD TO FEED

"The way the world is going now," explained Cindy Williams, 15, of Lincoln, Neb., "the population will be too hard to feed.

"I also think a smaller family will be easier for a husband with an average income to take care of and provide with the necessities of life."

Mayna Epstein, 16, of New Haven, Conn., would "love to have a big, closely-knit family," in contrast to Bonnie Boynton, 15, of Cobelskill, N.Y., who said "a big family is too many headaches."

One of two children, Adrienne Bass, 16, of Winnepeg, Manitoba would like a family of the same size, "I am very happy now, and with only two children, I could be assured of giving them a very good start in life," she explained.

Early Dating Is Becoming an American Way of Life

Gilbert Youth Service

Early dating — leading to earlier and earlier marriage — is fast becoming an American way fo life.

Last year 8 million teens became engaged, and 48.4 per cent of the brides were under 20.

There's another aspect to dating.

Last year teens spent approximately $1.47 billion on grooming items and clothes to be eye-catching to the males.

There is another trend in teen dating — participation in action sports.

★ ★ ★

Feminity is vital. The boys love being the strong and wiser sex, so let them keep this illusion.

A FEW VICTORIES

It's all right to win a few sets of tennis or an occasional swimming race, but if the boy is continually outdone, you're finished as a date.

Enthusiasm is the key to being good company.

Perhaps you're not at all interested in Bach motets or radio isotopes, but don't let it show. Listen with enthusiasm.

★ ★ ★

CONSIDERATION

Consideration is an important characteristic at any age, but during the teen years where egos are at stake, it's a necessity.

Try to understand if there are last-minute changes in plans, if he doesn't phone precisely when he said he would.

He'll appreciate a little latitude while he tries to work out the relationship with you.

★

Natural, healthy looks are what the boys go for.

A BIT OF DOING

True, it takes a bit of doing to achieve that look, but with brushon makeup and your most fetching eye color, you will really be glowing.

EVEN AT A LOSS

A recent survey showed that a drug store prescription department loses money every hour in which it does not do at least $15 in business. That's how much is needed simply to break even on the cost of operation. The survey also showed that many drug stores are open many hours—especially evenings and weekends. Nevertheless, these stores stay open—to make sure you can get the prescription you need.

For Summer School

Students, Try a New Routine

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.

Was your schoolwork this year below par? If so — and you are headed for summer school — try a complete change of routine in an effort to bolster your grades.

DR. NASON

To establish a new routine, you must think about it and plan it. Action follows plan- ning. Not only should you search out good techniques for studying the subjects you will be taking, but you must change your daily habits.

If, during the school year, you slept late and barely got to school on time, try getting up an hour earlier than necessary. Review quickly the materials you studied the night before. Arrive in the classroom with your mind filled with thoughts and ideas about the subject you are studying.

Since your grades were not very good during the school year, you probably were a little behind in your studies at all times. Resolve not only to keep up to date, but to keep ahead.

★ ★ ★

Resolve to learn more in class this summer than you have been doing during the year. This means taking a positive attitude toward listening. You must think about what the teacher and your classmates are discussing.

SEEK HELP

If you carried your school problems without consultation with counselors or teachers, reverse the procedure and at least for a few days get all available help. Ask your teacher to explain the best way of studying the subject you are taking.

If you depended upon cramming, switch to early and continuous reviews.

If you avoided reading and depended upon learning while listening in class, make a strenuous effort to understand your textbooks.

★ ★ ★

Most summer school sessions are only six or eight weeks long but more time is spent in class each day than during the regular school year, which makes it important that you learn as much as possible during the class period.

Try to regulate your life over these few weeks so that you get the right amount of sleep and the right amount of exercise.

Make it your aim to be a better student at the end of the summer session than you were at the beginning.

Before the start of each new week, think over your activities during the past week, evaluating each for its effectiveness. Then set up specific plans to cover your actions for the coming week.

Ask your parents to cooperate with you in carrying out the new plans as well as to remind you to keep planning.

It will take time to become a planner if you have been a drifter. However, a conscious effort on your part and the few minutes that each week's planning requires will pay off handsomely in time saved and better grades.

Fish Caught in a Hard Rain

CRANBROOK, B.C. (AP) — It rained so hard in Cranbrook yesterday you could pick up fish from the lawn in a downtown park.

An inch of rain in less than an hour backed an underground river through a storm sewer into the park. With the river came dozens of trout, some of them 12 inches long.

Heads Social Workers

CHICAGO (AP) — Helen E. Cassidy, a social worker at Tulane University in New Orleans, La., has taken office as president of the 46,000-member National Association of Social Workers.

Among married couples enumerated in the 1960 census, the median age of all husbands was about 44 years and of all wives, about 41 years.

Body Hunted in Lake

PETOSKEY (AP)—Authorities today sought the body of Nicholas Hazenberg, 18, of Grand Rapids, who was believed drowned in Carp Lake near Petoskey. A boat from which Hazenberg had been fishing was found empty Saturday night.

Paintings by O. C. C. Students to Be Hung

WOMEN'S SECTION

Pontiac Press Photos by Edward R. Noble

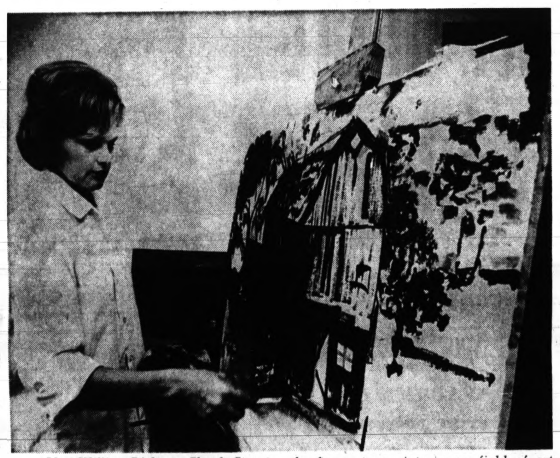

John Saghy of Bridle Road (left) looks like an art student. He's not bothered by an audience, even when part of it is Victor Stokes, head of the art department at Oakland Community College. A fellow art student is Donna Sparrow of Westwood Lane. The "studio" on the Highland Lakes campus is crammed with paintings done by students during the first two terms.

Joan Brownridge, Alma Street, is just completing a landscape. Joan takes art classes and is employed on OCC's Highland Lakes campus.

Mrs. William Dickson, Shoals Street, has had previous training in painting and has exhibited locally. With further study, she hopes to go into some field of art education.

Alan Nelson of Southfield is having a bit of trouble with his painting and must concentrate. The presence of a photographer and other visitors doesn't bother him at all.

When Julie Brown of Royal Oak paid a visit to the studio, little did she know that Michael Samuilow, James K Court, would put blue paint on her toenails. The interested spectator is John Saghy of Bridle Road.

OCC Students Paint in Garage

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

It was the most unusual art exhibit we've ever gone to. But there isn't much that is usual about the art department at Oakland Community College, Highland Lakes campus.

The art department is now spread out in four rooms, one of which is an over-sized bathroom, complete with tub. This is the locker room.

But the space is light and airy since some new windows were added on the front and fluorescent lights installed.

Victor Stokes, head of the art department of OCC, has 15 students in painting this term.

MORE TO COME

★ ★ ★

"It's amazing," says Stokes, "what some of these students can do. Many of them have had no training or just a little in grade school."

★ ★ ★

The studio is crammed with finished paintings. Stokes plans to hang some of them this week in the cafeteria on the Auburn Hills campus and the student center at Highland Lakes.

When the Orchard Ridge campus is finished, there will be a building for the creative arts, with an art gallery. But art classes will be offered on the Highland Lakes campus too.

All art classes are open to the public, says Stokes. During the summer, one in drawing will be given.

There may not be any Picassos or Van Goghs in the group, but everyone's having fun and learning something about the realm of art.

Club Members Gather for Golf and Dancing

By SIGNE KARLSTROM

Weekend weather did not dampen the spirit of outdoor sports.

★ ★ ★

Memorial Day found a record number of golfers at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club. This year's new buffet luncheon served in the men's locker room has become most popular and convenient.

★ ★ ★

The Frank H. Boyers headed the host committee. Assisting them were the E. W. Hufnagles, the Robert S. Markers, Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Pucher and Mr. and Mrs. John L. Scolaro.

POOL OPENS

At the Bloomfield Open Hunt the swimming pool opened Saturday in the presence of committee chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. John Menson, assisted by Brig. Gen. and Mrs. S. L. A. Marshall.

★ ★ ★

Among those are the Mensons' daughter Betsy and son James; Jamie Martin, son of the Robert L. Martins; Ace and Doug Cuddeback, sons of the A. C. Cuddebacks.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Maynard R. Andraea is headed east for her alma mater where she for the first time will wear a black gown and cap when as a board member of Briarcliff College she takes part in the graduation ceremoney on Sunday.

Your Attire Important to Other Folks

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I just finished reading your article on your pet peeves. I have one in particular which makes me wonder about some women: "Don't they have mirrors at home so that they can see how dreadful they look in pants?"

I know slacks are popular but some people should not be seen in them. Another peeve of mine is to see a woman in short shorts or tennis dress doing her marketing. I suppose she imagines herself very chic.

A more serious offense, I think are the pregnant women who wear shorts. Even with long blouses over them, it is terribly unattractive. — Jeannette Blumken.

Dear Mrs. Blumken: I've always maintained in my book and in my column that clothes must be becoming to the wearer. Slacks and shorts are attractive on slim figures but should never be worn by anyone with a bulge.

Appropriatness is another important factor and I agree with you that short shorts and tennis dresses, chic as they may be, don't belong in the supermarket.

★ ★ ★

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that we receive each week, we'll send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette, revised by Elizabeth L. Post.

Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Pontiac Press and don't forget to include your name and address.

Teen's Bad Phone Manners Upset Young Girl's Mother

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would say something in your column about young people who telephone and ask, "Is Mary there?" And when they are asked, "Who is calling," they either hang up or say, "Never mind, I'll call later."

ABBY

We have a 16-year-old daughter, and this happens at our home all the time, which is very annoying. Should we ask Mary to please educate her friends?

MOTHER PERPLEXED

DEAR MOTHER P: Not only "young people" but many who are old enough to know better are guilty of this rudeness. For those who need a lesson in the proper procedure to follow: Say, "Hello. This is Bill Forthright.

May I please speak to Mary?" (One father told me that a boy once called and asked, "IS AGNES THERE?" The father simply replied, "Yes," and hung up. He later explained to Agnes that the boy had merely asked him a question, and he answered it.)

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago my older sister was engaged to marry a man I'll call Lester, but he broke the engagement to marry another girl. (He did the honorable thing by this girl because her father threatened to kill him.)

My sister was heartbroken for over a year, but she got over it and is now married to a very nice fellow. Lester's wife had two more children in the meantime, but their marriage didn't work out so they are being divorced.

I bumped into Lester two weeks ago and he asked me out. I went, but I didn't tell my folks because they hate him. I have seen him several times, but I don't like sneaking around. I am 18 and Lester is 27.

Do you see any reason why I can't date him out in the open? How can I make my folks accept Lester? He's really not a bad guy, he's just had some tough breaks.

KID SISTER

★ ★ ★

DEAR KID: Without judging Lester (circumstances have already done that) may I suggest that you not reopen old wounds and add to your parents' anxieties by becoming involved with what strikes me as a loser.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Your suggestion to barmaids who can't keep the wolves from making passes was great. You advised them to point out the huskiest bartender in the place and say, "There's my husband!"

★ ★ ★

Well, I used a similar gag 22 years ago when I was a green cocktail waitress in Norfolk, Va. A good-looking sailor came into the car and said, "How about taking you home, baby?" I pointed to the bartender and said, "There's my brother, he's taking me home."

★ ★ ★

The sailor promptly grabbed me and gave me a real big kiss right on the mouth and said, "SIS!"

He was the bartender's kid brother, so help me!

Nursery School Holds Election for Parents

In a recent election of Temple Beth Jacob Nursery School Mrs. Robert Gash was chosen president.

★ ★ ★

Other officers elected at the meeting in the James K. Boulevard home of Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Bienenfeld were Mrs. Harry Reed, vice president; Mrs. Dean Wilson and Mrs. Robert Crandall, secretaries and Mrs. Belmont Kershenbaum, treasurer.

★ ★ ★

Assuming other duties in the fall will be Mrs. Bienenfeld, Mrs. Richard Burke, Mrs. Isaac Grabelsky, Mrs. James Howlett, Mrs. Marvin Jaffee, Mrs. John Miller, Mrs. Irving Schlyfestone, Mrs. Fred Vollrath and Mrs. David Zamek.

★ ★ ★

Polly's Pointers

Extra Effort Pays

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for those homemakers who stay in their robes until noon. Getting up half an hour earlier in the morning can really make your day and put you steps ahead if you spend that time dressing from hose to hairdo including make-up and a touch of cologne.

You will look so much better that it will improve your disposition. Your family will love you for it, which is a priceless return for that special effort.— SUSAN

DEAR POLLY — When my slacks or skirts are too tight in the waist, but a good fit otherwise, I sew a piece of elastic on the end of the waistband that has the button and then resew the button to the elastic. — M. A.

DEAR POLLY — The spool spindle on my sewing machine is only one-and-a-half inches long. I use the 1,000-yard spools of thread which measure two-and-a-half inches so had trouble with the spool wobbling, especially when I filled the bobbin.

I remedied this by sliding a drinking straw over the spindle and cutting it to the required length. — EDITH

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is a word of warning. Please when cleaning old medicine out of the medicine chest empty it down a drain or some place where a child cannot get it.

This came to mind when I saw some boys pulling old medicine bottles out of a trash can so they could play doctor. — MRS. A. W.

You are so right, Mrs. A. W., for often we discard things without really thinking what may happen to them. A reminder such as yours will alert all of us. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I do hope someone can tell me how to clean a white goatskin rug.

My hint is for those older folks who have trouble getting out of the bathtub. Since I have been older I have been petrified while stepping out of my bath.

One day the idea came to me to let the water out of the tub and then pull down a dry terry cloth towel and lay it in the bottom to stand on as I get out. — MRS. J. R.

This Child Needs Loving Reassurance

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: For the last seven months my husband has only been able to get home on weekends. He is working at a new job in another state and our 2-year-old boy and I can't join him until we have sold our old house.

The problem is that the baby now acts very jealous of him. He pushes him away if he comes near me. A girl friend of mine says he has an Oedipus complex on me and that if he doesn't get over it, he will become a problem child.

ANSWER: I wish that you and your husband would try saying to your small boy, "Daddy is not going to take mommy away from you." I wish this because I suspect it's what he needs to hear.

I think he needs to hear it not only because his father has become strange to him but because his father's presence can't be counted on. He keeps on disappearing.

As this small, dependent son of yours has registered your interest in this disappearing father, I think he's become afraid that you might take it into your head to disappear yourself with this too-interesting stranger.

A dog, you know, doesn't have to have an Oedipus complex to snarl when a comparative stranger tries to take a bone away from him. He snarls not because he wants to kill his father and marry his mother but because he feels a threat to his bone—to his survival supply.

Nor is it my view that little children have to have Oedipus complexes to feel resentful fear of someone they suspect of threatening their possession of mommy—who is their survival supply.

Although I can always be wrong, in this case it might be wise to delay taking on the complexities this girl friend of yours suggests. Reach for simplicity first; a simplicity that can perceive that no matter how passionately a small son may desire to remove his father in order to marry his mother, he is more passionately interested in his own survival.

Were I you, I'd try the simple solution to this baby boy's "jealously" of his father. Take him on your lap and say, "Now look right straight into mommy's eyes when I tell you this so you'll know it's true.

Daddy is not going to take me away from you." After giving this reassurance, ask your husband to endorse it by saying, "I am not going to take mommy away from you. When I take her, I take you, too."

Before You Paint

Before painting, rub protective cream on your hand and arms. The film of cream makes it easier to remove all paint from your skin when you've finished painting.

Losing a Scent

K Living Quiet Life at Home, Wife Says

MOSCOW (AP) — Nina Khrushchev says she and Nikita are leading a quiet life in the country and the ousted Soviet leader spends a lot of time reading and walking.

Three British newsmen ran into Mrs. Khrushchev Monday at Moscow's Sheremetyevo Airport where she was saying goodby to a niece going to Cuba. She gave the first authoritative account of Khrushchev's life in many months.

Khrushchev, 72, was replaced in October 1964, pensioned and given a villa outside Moscow. He has not been seen by Westerners in more than a year.

Mrs. Khrushchev confirmed reports that her husband had been through a long siege of kidney trouble but said he has made "an astonishing recovery."

FIT AND WELL

"He was in the hospital twice, but he has fully recovered and is fit and well," she said.

"We live quietly these days. Our old friends come to see us from time to time. And we have our family out, of course."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Khrushchev, who is 66, talked readily in English and seemed to enjoy the encounter with the newsmen. She looked well and somewhat thinner.

FINISHED BOOK

Mrs. Khrushchev said her husband had just finished reading the memoirs of French President Charles de Gaulle, who comes to Moscow June 20 for a state visit.

"He enjoyed them," she said. "He found them very interesting."

Asked whether her husband planned to write his memoirs, Mrs. Khrushchev smiled and replied: "No, at least not now. Perhaps later."

The Khrushchevs' small, blonde niece was going with her husband to an undisclosed assignment in Communist Cuba, a country that loomed large in U.S.-Soviet relations while Khrushchev was in power and over which Khrushchev and President John F. Kennedy had an "eyeball to eyeball" confrontation when Khrushchev attempted to arm Cuba with ballistic missiles.

92 Reported Dead in Brazilian Rains

RECIFE, Brazil (AP) — Authorities reported today that at least 92 persons have drowned in floods from heavy rains that have deluged the Recife area on Brazil's Atlantic coast since last Friday.

More than 6.5 inches of rain have fallen in some spots.

Graham Hill Official Winner of '500'

First Decision in Dispute Is Upheld Today

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Official scorers reviewed tapes of electric timing devices this morning and London's mustached Graham Hill was officially declared the winner of the Indianapolis 500.

The decision yesterday was disputed by Jimmy Clark of Scotland and thus race officials released standings as unofficial.

The standings were finalized this morning.

Hill and Clark were the first two finishers in the Memorial Day Classic and two of only seven drivers still on the track when the accident-marred race ended.

A massive, flaming pile-up involving 16 of the 33 starters scattered wrecks over the track and sent wheels and parts spraying into the crowd after a mishap on the first turn. Miraculously, only one driver — A.J. Foyt of Houston, Tex. — and 14 spectators received only minor injuries.

FIRST IN U.S.

The 36-year-old Hill, making his first start in America's most prestigious auto race, was declared the winner after the track was cleared and the race restarted with the field trimmed to 22.

Clark's backers were quick to dispute it.

"It is impossible for Hill to be the winner," said Andrew Granatelli of Chicago, a part-owner of Clark's car. "We were a lap ahead of Scot Jackie Stewart and Hill was even farther behind. There's been an error."

EARLY TROUBLES

The tradition-shrouded race was fouled up from the beginning, when No. 1 starter Mario Andretti barely had crossed the starting line in the flying start before Billy Foster of Victoria, B.C., only Canadian in the lineup, collided with Gordon Johncock of Hastings, Mich. Foster said somebody crowded him.

That set off a spectacular chain reaction pile-up which eliminated 11 cars and wiped out such strong contenders as Foyt, Don Branson, Champaign, Ill., and Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif.

The race had to be restarted because of an impassable track, delaying the show an hour and 24 minutes. The only other wreck-caused restart was two years ago after drivers Eddie Sachs and Dave MacDonald were killed in a flaming second-lap pile-up.

"We generally do not have these chain reaction type accidents on the Grand Prix circuit, where we begin from a standing start," said Hill, a rookie at Indianapolis but a former world road racing champion.

Of the 22 cars that finally got rolling, four others were eliminated by wrecks of drivers Johnny Boyd, Fresno, Calif.; Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., and a collision of George Snider, Fresno, and Chuck Hulse, Downey, Calif. None was hurt.

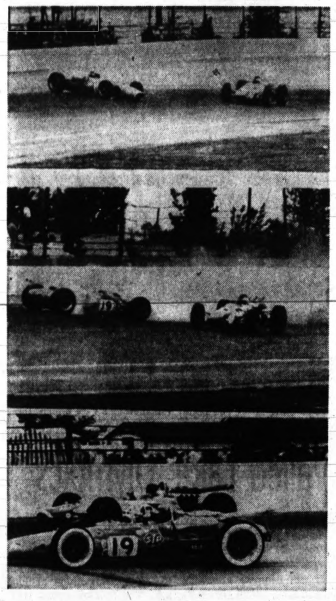

The 11 other failures went out with assorted mechanical troubles, including leaders Andretti, broken valve; Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., oil leak, and Stewart, oil pressure failure.

Ruby made America's best showing. He took the lead from Clark three times in the first three-quarters of the race, twice when the hard-pressed Scot went into spins — both times without hitting anything — and once by outrunning Clark on the mainstretch.

LEADER TAKES SPIN—Jimmy Clark in No. 19 spins around in the north chute at Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Clark had spun three times earlier. On all occasions, he managed to straighten out his car and keep the lead. However, he later lost first place to Jackie Stewart who is pulling even in the lower photo.

RACING FALLOUT — Flying wheels and debris off cars mixed with the dust to cloud the 16-car pileup at the start of yesterday's 500-Mile race at Indianapolis. Eleven of the cars were beyond repair. A. J. Foyt was the only driver injured. He was treated for a cut hand and bruised knee. Fourteen spectators and one mechanic suffered minor injuries from the flying debris. Seventeen cars participated in the restart and five more joined the field after being repaired.

Hill's Career Began After Borrowing $14

Hill started his racing career in 1956 after borrowing $14 from a friend to take lessons in racing driving. He was out of work at the time, having quit his job as an instrument manufacturer.

★ ★ ★

Two turns on the track convinced him this was the life — and still with no money behind him he bluffed his way into a part-time job as a racing instructor.

It didn't last long so he became a racing mechanic, hanging around the tracks and looking for a chance.

The opportunity came when he joined the Lotus team of Colin Chapman as a spare driver for Formula Two events — traditionally the nursery cars for up-and-coming Grand Prix aspirants.

First signs of his championship qualities came in 1960, the year he joined BRM. After stalling on the starting grid in the British Grand Prix, he carved his way through the field to take the lead.

Special 'Opener' Award

Bass Derby Slated

When the "dream bass" is finally landed, a mild case of delirium that usually besets the lucky angler can be excused.

Should an Oakland County fisherman find himself in such a state tomorrow — opening day of the black bass season — he should step off Cloud 9 long enough to enter his catch in The Pontiac Press Big Fish Derby.

A $50 savings bond will be awarded to the fisherman entering the heaviest largemouth or smallmouth black bass caught on opening day. And there's a chance the bass will take over-all honors and earn another $50 bond.

The bass must be taken from Oakland County waters to be eligible for either the opening day or full Derby honors. The fish must be caught by a county resident.

Entries for the opening day prize must be brought to The Press sports department for weighing between 7 a.m. and 3 p.m. tomorrow and from 6:30 a.m. to 8 a.m. Thursday.

Weight is the only determining factor. Times for entering bass and pike for over-all Derby honors will be 7 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday until the contest ends Sept. 5.

A $50 savings bond will be awarded for the heaviest entry in the pike division. Northern pike, muskellunge and walleyes are eligible.

Gets Banner Headlines

Britain Hails Winner

Wilfrid Andrews, chairman of the Royal Automobile Club, said:

CABLEGRAM

Within minutes of the end of the race, Andrews a sent a cable to Hill and Jim Clark, who came second.

It said: 'Heartiest congratulations on anther outstanding victory on behalf of British motor sport."

"Britons in 1, 2 triumph," said the banner headline in the Daily Expres.

Mrs. Helen Stewart, wife of Jackie Stewart of Scotland who was leading with only eight laps to go when his car stopped, watched the race on closed-circuit television.

She said afterward: "I was so relieved he was not involved in that terrible crash. It was most disappointing that his engine gave out on his so near the end."

Later she telephoned her husband in a Transatlantic call.

Her first words were: "Hard luck darling. When I saw you pushing the car I felt like coming to help you."

'Not My Fault'

Foster 'Absolves' Self

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Billy Foster, Canadian from British Columbia, was blamed by some drivers Monday for the wreck that eliminated about one-third of the racing field on the first lap of the Memorial Day 500.

Foster, in an interview, said it was not his fault.

He added:

★ ★ ★

"Someone on my left moved to the outside, and I moved with him, to avoid his hitting me. As I moved over my right rear tire hit Gordon Johncock's front tire. That's what they tell me."

Foster said the first time he knew he was involved in a wreck was when he hit Johncock. He said he was traveling about 140 to 150 miles per hour when he wrecked.

★ ★ ★

Foster indicated that he will try again to win at Indianapolis next year.

"My chances for winning were really good this year," he said. "My car was running well."

Foster, who ran his first Indianapolis 500 last year, said he will race again Friday night in Grand Rapids, Mich., and again Sunday.

PROTEST DENIED

He complained specifically because he had one lap taken from him at the restart of the race, after his crew had been prevented from working on his car in the pit between the start and the restart.

The protest was denied.

A rule requires that a car in the pits at the time a race is restarted must complete one lap before counting starts.

Johncock's car was damaged in the 16-car smashup moments after the start of the race. His crew was not allowed to work on it in his pit until the race was restarted.

★ ★ ★

The same rule was applied to four other cars that were in the pits after the pileup.

Twins' Mele Is Hospitalized

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Manager Sam Mele of the Minnesota Twins was hospitalized Monday with a pain in the calf of his right leg.

Dr. William Proffitt, team physician, said the pain may be a recurrence of phlebitis, which Mele suffered from last winter. Phlebitis is an inflammation of the veins. However, Proffitt said it was more likely that the injury was a pulled leg muscle.

Mele is expected to be hospitalized for two days.

Move Hockey Team

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Rankgers of the National Hockey League have moved their Central League farm club from Minnesota to Omaha, Neb.

A Minnesota franchise will begin operations in the NHL in 1967.

Pontiac Press Hole-in-One Club

Norbert Hofman

Is hereby admitted to The Pontiac Press Hole-In-One Club on this day May 31 for having aced his 9 iron shot on the No. 4, 127-yd. hole at Pontiac Municipal on the day of May 29. His score was attested as 4 for the 9 holes.

Tiger Hurler Records Eighth Triumph, 5-2

Two-Run Double Only Kansas City Hit; Cash Drills Long Homer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — No pitcher in the American League has a better record this season than the Detroit Tigers' Denny McLain.

McLain added insurance to his commanding position with a one-hit victory over the Kansas City Athletics Monday night.

TIES SCORE

Phil Roof tied it for the A's in the fifth inning with a double that drove in Ed Charles and Ken Harrelson, who had walked.

The score remained tied until the seventh. Then Gates Brown walked and went to third as Don Wert sliced a double to right. Dick McAuliffe delivered both runners with a triple. Cash singled home McAuliffe.

★ ★ ★

Though McLain struck out seven, he had control problems in the game. He walked five men in taking his fifth straight victory against the Athletics.

McLain walked the first two batters he faced in the fifth but escaped more damage when he converted Dick Green's attempted sacrifice into a double play. Green popped the ball up and McLain grabbed it and doubled Larry Stahl at first base.

Chuck Dodson, Kansas City's starting pitcher, was tagged with the loss. He went 6⅓ innings.

Tonight, the Tigers plan to put Bill Monbouquette on the mound against Fred Talbot. Monbouquette has a 3-4 record. Talbot is 2-4.

Simpson Runs 3:58.4 Mile

LONDON (AP) — Alan Simpson ran the mile in 3:58.4 Monday in the British Games. It was his fifth mile under four minutes.

Simpson burst into the lead with 500 yards to go, ran the last lap in 56.9 and beat his nearest rival, John Whetton, by 20 yards.

PCH Faces Northville in Tourney Semifinals

Central Edges Milford, 3-1

Mustangs' Ace Pitcher Stops Waterford

CLUTCH HIT — Pontiac Central catcher Paul Roberts delivered one of the Chiefs' biggest hits of the season when he singled home two runs in PCH's 3-1 victory Monday over Milford at Jaycee Park.

Unheralded Pontiac Central and highly rated Northville will clash in the Pontiac Invitational High School Baseball Tournament's Wednesday night semifinal after victories Monday.

PCH broke loose for three six-inning runs in the opening quarter-final contest at Jaycee Park to eliminate Milford, 3-1.

Northville rapped out seven hits and was aided by seven Waterford errors for a 6-1 conquest. The Mustangs now are 18-2 for the campaign and bidding for a second tourney title.

They captured the championship in the 1962 inaugural competition, initiating a four-year domination of the tournament by southern Oakland County squads.

Northville and Central (11-12) will collide at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow. All games in the annual Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department — Pontiac Press sponsored affair are played at Jaycee Park.

The Chiefs — who never before have reached the semifinals — won their second game of the tournament after being limited to one walk in the first five innings by Milford's Bill Spietz.

PCH scored a record 21 runs in beating Walled Lake Saturday but never got a ball out of the infield until Bill White grounded a single to left field with one out and one on in the sixth inning.

All Bessant, who had reached on an error, then moved to third when Dan Irwin walked (loading the bases). Paul Roberts produced a clutch safety to center scoring the tying and go-ahead runs.

Jerry Murphy followed with an rbi-single for an insurance run. Glenn Kitchen, a right-hander, pitched six strong innings in his best effort of the season to get the mound win.

* * *

Northville snapped a 0-0 deadlock with Waterford on a two-out single by Dennis Primeau, a wild pitch, and a bobble on a high infield pop fly.

The Skippers erred on Northville's first three hitters in the fourth, Randy Pohlman's liner hopped over Larry St. Dennis' head for a triple and Bob Bartski singled for three more runs — all unearned.

Meanwhile, the Mustangs ace moundsman Steve Evans mowed down 13 straight Waterford batters until Paul Thomas singled sharply down the third base line to end the spell.

Dennis Galbraith's lead-off, pitch-hit double against reliefer Primeau in the sixth was the only other hit and led to WTHS' only run.

This is the first time since 1963 that Northville has reached the semifinals.

Kettering Suffers 3rd Overtime Loss

By JERE CRAIG

Kettering's Captains have proven in triplicate to the Pontiac Invitational High School Baseball Tournament fans that there can be defeat without dishonor.

In 1964 it was a 4-3, 10-inning title game loss to Royal Oak Kimball.

In 1965 it was 4-3 in 12 innings to Madison in the opening round.

Last night it was 8-5 in 16 innings to Southfield in the 1966 quarter-finals.

Certainly the Captains felt bitter disappointment, and the despair must have been hardest on their intense, soft-spoken coach Irv Thompson.

* * *

The personable young mentor —who once was a batterymate of Tiger pitcher Dave Wickersham—has guided WKHS nines to several Tri-County League championships and numerous outstanding tournament efforts, but leaves the coaching ranks without a coveted invitational title.

INDUSTRY

Thompson is entering industry with the conclusion of school next month.

The defending champions (7-6 for the season) blew 4-0 and 5-2 leads, but blanked Kettering over the final nine innings behind Mike Kuhna and Don McClean's hurling in relief of starter Tom Berkert. It was McClean's first varsity game.

The ever alert Simmons then took advantage of a mental lapse by the Captains' battery to steal third base, and he scored on a catcher's balk.

Kuhna, who moved back to the outfield after using up his seven eligible mound innings under tournament rules, added a run-producing single to center.

ERRORS

Five Kettering errors had led to the winning Blue Jays' initial five runs. They, in turn, gave WKHS two unearned runs in the third, and catcher Dennis Campbell doubled to cut the gap to 5-4 in the sixth inning.

Pinchhitter Bruce Mihaley, a 5-1 junior, walked to force home the tying run after Jim Starnes and Jay Nash singles, and an error loaded the sacks with two out in the seventh.

Southfield will meet the winner of tonight's Birmingham Brother Rice-Royal Oak Kimball contest Thursday in the semifinals. Their quarter-final showdown was postponed by mutual consent when Monday's Kettering - Southfield 4½-hour game went two hours beyond the scheduled 7:30 p.m. Warrior's-Knights' tilt.

* * *

This also means the fifth annual tournament's championship game will be pushed back until Friday night.

Triple Crown Bid Now Easier for Brumfield

By the Associated Press

The 28-year-old jockey from Nicholasville, Ky., rode Kauai King to victory in the Kentucky Derby and The Preakness and it looks as if he will win the Belmont Stakes with Kauai King on Saturday and become the first to sweep the Triple Crown in 18 years.

It seemed for awhile that Brumfield might be faced with a difficult choice Memorial Day after he won the $137,900 Jersey Derby astride Creme Dela Creme at Garden State Park.

* * *

But Don's good fortune stood up. He didn't have to choose between Kauai King and Creme Dela Creme in the Belmont.

Ira Hanford, trainer of the Jersey winner, eased Brumfield's mind. "We will not go in the Belmont," Hanford said. Instead Creme dela Creme will be shipped to Chicago for the Arlington Classic.

May Sign Top Choice

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association said it would make a "major announcement" at a news conference today leading to speculation that the team has signed its No. 1 draft choice, Matt Guokas.

Beanball War Flares

TRAVELLING TROPHY—Walled Lake track coach Bernie Stafford (left) and C. A. (Sonny) Behm admire one of the four relay trophies Behm donates to the annual Walled Lake Kiwanis Club Junior Olympics. The track and field competition will have preliminaries Saturday, and the finals will be June 11th. The Behm Trophies travel among the various winning school teams.

'Eye for Eye,' Claims Boss of NY Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — The beanball war has flared up at Shea Stadium only this time it's an elbow, hip and shoulder battle.

Dick Selma of the Mets hit Ritchie Allen of the Phile on the shoulder with a pitch in the third inning of Monday's second game. When Selma came to bat in the third, Bob Buhl hit him on the right elbow, knocking him out of the game. The next time Buhl came up, relief pitcher Jack Fisher plunked him in the hip.

* * *

The Phils won the opener 7-2 but the Mets came back to win the second game 3-1.

The 46,882 fans had a field day booing Buhl and pelting him with fruit.

ANGRY REPLIES

All of this brought angry noises from Mets' Manager Wes Westrum.

"When they take a pot shot at one of my boys, you have to protect your players," Westrum said. "We have a standing order to get the pitcher who threw the ball. I'm not saying what they (Phils) were trying to do. I'm going to do what they did.

"The first time he (Buhl) threw at Selma he just missed. Then he came back with another. That's for the birds. This is a young kid of mine. I know he's innocent because I didn't give any orders to throw at Allen. The kid's whole pitching carrer could go out the window. Fortunately the X rays are negative but Lord knows how long he will be out.

"I believe in an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. You've got to protect your own ballplayers. Any pitcher that takes care of any of my ball players is going to get it.

"Is his (Buhl's) control that bad? He is a control artist. That's what has kept him around this long."

Westrum said the incident "made my players mad. You let sleeping dogs lie don't you?"

Over in the opposing clubhouse, Manager Gene Mauch of the Phillies said, "There's no place for sleeping dogs in baseball. I'd never admit anything woke my team up.

Big Field in Walled Lake 'Olympics'

The Walled Lake Kiwanis Club is expecting at least 1,000 youngsters from Wixom, Novi, Wolverine Lake, Commerce and Walled Lake to participate Saturday in the club's junior Olympics' eliminations.

All boys and girls from the fifth to the ninth grades in the Walled Lake and Novi school districts are eligible to enter the activities at the senior high school stadium.

All will compete according to a classification by age, weight and height. There is no entry fee and contestants may compete in any three events with some restrictions.

The Kiwanis Club will present 600 medals and ribbons after the June 11th finals of the fourth annual Junior Olympics.

* * *

Trophies include six outstanding girl awards named after Henrietta Piltz, six outstanding boy awards (Horace Hatfield), and the four traveling Sonny Behm relay trophies.

Behm and senior high track coach Bernie Stafford are the coorganizers of the two Saturday programs.

The girls' field events will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday and the boys' competition at 10:30 a.m. The running events will follow the field activities.

* * *

The June 11th finals will begin at 9 a.m. There are 10 events in all.

Tipton Sets New Marks in Hurdles

Special to The Press

KALAMAZOO — Pontiac Central's Bill Tipton is setting some impressive goals to shoot for next year.

* * *

The junior hurdler rewrote two records here yesterday in the Champion of Champions track meet at Western Michigan University. He won the low hurdles in 18.9 nine seconds to break the meet and PCH records.

He added the high hurdles title in 14.25 and was voted the meet's outstanding performer. Art Wiggins (21-9¼) of PCH was fourth in the long jump.

Tipton's low hurdles time was below the 19.0 state record held by Framington's Rex Cawley. But state records can only be set in the state finals.

* * *

Tipton now holds the state high hurdles mark and school records in both events. He still has one more year of high school competition.

* * *

Farmington's Ron Shortt cleared 13-10 to break the meet record. Milford's Chuck Andrews (57-2) and Keith Grantham (55-6) were fourth and fifth respectively, in the shot put.

Chicago Team Takes Honors as WIBC Ends

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The Woman's International Bowling Congress ended its 47-day tournament Monday night with the announcement the Gossard Girls of Chicago had won the Division 1 team title and the Jasperettes of Jasper, Tex., were champions of Division 2.

The Chicago team scored a 2755 series on May 21 which stood up the rest of the tourney. The Texans bowled their 2446 series on May 15. Each team won $1,500 and a trophy.

Division 1 was for contestants with averages of 151 pins or better.

Individual competition ended Sunday night. The final all-events standings will be announced later this week. More than $214,000 in prize money also will be mailed this week.

Lake Angelus Sailors Start Racing Season

Lake Angelus Yacht Club began its weekly races for the season with events Sunday and Monday.

Rich Gould and George Bailey took the morning and afternoon snipe races respectively on Sunday, and yesterday Don Hite won the close morning race with John Kern finishing second.

Bailey again won the afternoon race as many of the boats dropped out because of strong winds.

Orioles' Catcher Undergoes Surgery

BALTIMORE (AP) — Catcher Dick Brown of the Baltimore Orioles was reported alert at Sinai Hospital today after being moved from the intensive care unit back to his private room.

* * *

Brown, 31, underwent neurosurgery Friday for the second time in less than three months. Last March 7, a benign tumor was removed from beneath the back of Brown's brain.

Doctors reported Brown was sitting up and eating well, without evidence of headaches which bothered him prior to both operations.

* * *

A spokesman for the Orioles said a series of X ray treatments will be set up for Brown in about a week, and he will visit the hospital for treatment on a day-to-day basis.

Steelers Deny Luring Offer

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Steelers Monday emphatically denied a published report that they had tried to lure Abner Haynes away from the Denver Broncos with a tempting offer.

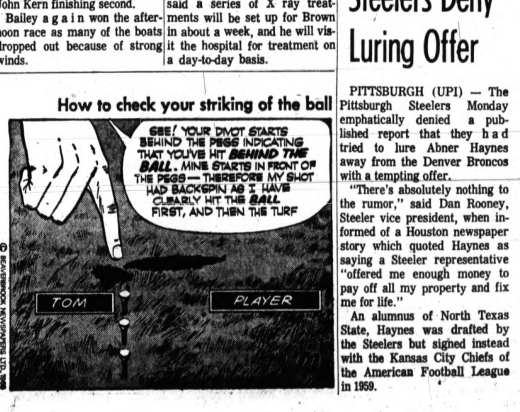

"There's absolutely nothing to the rumor," said Dan Rooney, Steeler vice president, when informed of a Houston newspaper story which quoted Haynes as saying a Steeler representative "offered me enough money to pay off all my property and fix me for life."

An alumnus of North Texas State, Haynes was drafted by the Steelers but signed instead with the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League in 1959.

Cepeda, Wills Swing Powerful Bats

By The Associated Press

Orlando Cepeda is toting around the hottest bat in baseball but for slugging, how about little Maury Wills, who could be a threat to Babe Ruth's home run records if there were enough Memorial Days in the year.

Cepeda had a perfect night with a homer, two doubles and a single Monday and provided all the offense Bob Gibson needed as St. Louis' ace right-hander throttled Houston 3-1 on a three-hitter.

Wills led off Los Angeles' 10-6 victory over Atlanta with a home run—the 10th of his National League career and his first one since Aug. 31, 1964.

* * *

The sudden power shown by Wills was almost expectable. It was exactly four years ago — Memorial Day 1962—that the switch-hitting shortstop made it to the record book by hitting a homer from each side of the plate. Only six other National League batters have achieved that feat.

RAISES AVERAGE

Cepeda's four hits gave him a string of seven over two games and raised his batting average to .330. The veteran first baseman, who came in a trade from San Francisco for pitcher Ray Sadecki, drove in two runs and scored the other as the Cardinals won their third straight.

* * *

Sadecki, meanwhile, turned in his first victory for the Giants, beating Cincinnati 8-4 on a five hitter. Pittsburgh swept a doubleheader from Chicago 3-2 and 5-3 with Roberto Clemente homering in each game, and Philadelphia split a pair with New York, winning 7-2 and losing 3-1.

Sadecki, who had a 12.38 earned run average in his last three starts for San Francisco, evened his record at 3-3 with his first complete game for the Giants. He was supported by a 12-hit attack that included homers by Willie McCovey and Tom Haller.

TWO-RUN HOMER

Clemente hammered a two-run homer in the seventh inning of the nightcap that sent the Pirates in front of Chicago to stay. He had driven in Pittsburgh's first run of the game with a sacrifice fly in the fifth as the Pirates pecked away at an early 3-0 Cub lead.

Four home runs helped Jim Bunning win his sixth straight game for Philadelphia in the opener against the Mets. Bill White, Johnny Callison, Bob Uecker and Richie Allen all connected for the Phillies.

Jark Fisher hurled six innings of sharp relief to gain the second victory for the Mets. He allowed one run on six hits, coming on after starter Dick Selma was hit by a pitch and forced to leave the game.

Michigan has more than 11,000 inland lakes and upwards of 36,000 miles of streams and rivers.

Shadow of Wilhelm Prods Chisox

CHICAGO (AP) — Hoyt Wilhelm hasn't thrown a pitch as yet this season but the mere shadow of the veteran knuckleballer apparently is getting the Chicago White Sox pitching staff back in shape.

Wilhelm, who injured a fingernail in spring training and is expected to return to the active roster in about a week, has been working out with the club.

When Wilhelm returns, another of the Sox pitchers must go and that could be a contributing factor inasmuch as Sox pitchers have a string of 30 scoreless innings including three straight shutouts and a one-hitter by Jack Lamabe.

SWEEP TWIN BILL

Lamabe's one-hitter came in the second game of a doubleheader against Boston, giving the White Sox a sweep Monday with 1-0 and 11-0 victories.

Lamabe had a no-hitter going until Joe Foy led off the eighth inning with a line single to center field.

* * *

Lamabe, who came up to the Red Sox in 1963 before drifting back to the minors and then to the Houston Astros last season, never had pitched a shutout in the majors.

In other AL games, Chicago downed Boston in the first game 1-0, California swept Cleveland 4-3 and 6-1, Baltimore defeated Minnesota 5-1 before bowing 7-4 and Washington stopped New York 2-1 after losing 4-2.

Lamabe was supported in his one-hitter by Tommy Agee and Don Buford, who between them collected five hits, scored eight runs, drove in two and stole five bases. Lamabe's shutout was the third straight for the White Sox.

* * *

Fregosi's seventh-inning homer in the opener snapped a 3-3 deadlock while Knoop's two-run blast in the fourth inning of the second game put the Angels ahead to stay. Minnie Rojas, making his major league debut, gained the victory in the nightcap with relief help from Dean Chance.

FOUR HITS

Dave Johnson rapped four hits in the first game, including a single that triggered Baltimore's three-run sixth inning, while Woody Held and Andy Etchebarren added homers to the Orioles' attack.

* * *

Minnesota won the nightcap behind Harmon Killebrew's pair of homers and Bernie Allen's tie-breaking, two-run blow in the eighth.

Bobby Richardson's double and a single by Elston Howard were the key blows in a three-run first inning outburst that carried the Yankees past Washington in the opener.

Crystine Jones Aids Triumph by U.S. Riders

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — Frank Chapot of Wallpack, N.J., won the 2,500 mark $625 Grand Prix of the Wiesbaden Equestrian Jumping Tournament Monday.

Of the 20 riders entered, only Chapot and Merkel completed the initial 500-meter course with its 25 jumps without faults.

Crystine Jones of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., was seventh and eighth riding Ksarina in 65.4 and Fru in 72.1. Both rides were faultless.

Chapot won the runoff by faultlessly covering a 350-meter course in 41.3 seconds. Merkel's horse knocked down one of the six hurdles and finished with four faults in 44.2 seconds.

The United States victory was its fifth — the best showing of the five-day tournament.

French Golf Title Is Won by Native

CHANTILLY, France (AP) — Frenchman Gaetan Mourgue D'Algue won his second straight French International Golf Championship Monday, defeating countryman Patrick Cros 6 and 5 in the 36-hole final round.

D'Algue finished the first 18 holes 1-up over Cros, who won the championship three years ago.

* * *

Nineteen Americans were entered when the tournament opened last Friday. Tom Draper of Birmingham Mich., made it to the semifinals, losing Sunday to D'Algue on the 19th hole.

Beat the Champ Golfers Faced With Big Hurdle

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Dave Marr has given some 100,000 golfers a tough score — par 70 — to shoot at if they want to earn a Beat The Champion certificate from the PGA.

All entrants must record a score of one-under-par, including handicap, to beat Marr, who fired a 33-37—70 at the Firestone Country Club layout Monday to win National Golf Day's Round of Champions by one stroke over Gary Player.

Marr, PGA titleholder, toured the front nine of the 7,180-yard, par 70 course in two-under, but was two over on the last nine to break even. Player, U.S. Open champ from South Africa, finished 37-34—71 and kept hitting to his left on the front nine.

"I have no excuses," he said. "I just played a lot of junk."

Marr jumped to a three-stroke lead with a birdie on the first hole and an eagle on the 500-yard, par 5 second. Two wood shots put him 35 feet from the pin and he made the first putt.

Then he shot par until a bogey 5 on the 465-yard ninth.

Player rushed on the course after spending the night in Columbus with Jack Nicklaus and was four strokes down after the first nine. Player got to within one-stroke when Marr took a bogey on the 12th, but he fell behind again with a bogey on the 15th.

Player picked up one stroke on the 10th when his approach shot hit a rake on the fringe of the green and bounced 50 feet to within three feet of the flag.

IT'S ALL OVER — Mario Andretti, the U.S. Auto Club's national racing champion and holder of the pole position in yesterday's 500-mile race, throws up his hands in despair after going out on the 30th lap. A faulty valve put his car on the sidelines.

'500' Racer Too Speedy

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A charge of speeding on the highway faces one of the starters in yesterday's 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway and he also is accused of failing to appear in court.

Gordon Johncock of Hastings, Mich., was arrested May 21 and slated to appear May 28 in Justice of the Peace Court at Cicero, Ind., north of Indianapolis, but Justice of the Peace Agnes said he didn't show up.

The justice didn't issue a warrant against Johncock for failing to appear, saying she understood he might be busy.

"We'll wait and see what happens," she added.

* * *

One driver and about 16 spectators were injured by flying debris and wheels, none seriously.

National Loop Tilts Outdraw American

By The Associated Press

Seven National League games drew only 568 fans less than nine American League games on Monday's Memorial Day baseball schedule.

The NL schedule, two doubleheaders and three night games, attracted 128,062 fans while four doubleheaders — one a day-night affair — and one night game in the AL drew 128,630.

The day's biggest crowd — 46,882 — saw the doubleheader between Philadelphia and the Mets in New York. The smallest — 8,039 — was on hand at Kansas City for a night game between Detroit and the Athletics.

Last year's total included 148,449 for seven Nnational League games and 109,345 for 10 American League contests.

National League
Philadelphia at New York, 2	46,882
Los Angeles at Atlanta	40,702
Chicago at Pittsburgh, 2	15,327
Houston at St. Louis	14,196
San Francisco at Cincinnati	10,955

Bar Burglars Elude Police in Waterford

Burglars fled with $145 they had taken from a cash register at Eager's Bar, 1055 W. Huron, Waterford Township, yesterday morning just as township police arrived on the scene for a building check.

According to police, at least two men escaped from a rear entrance as they pulled into the driveway.

Left behind were 26 six-packs of beer and two rolls of dimes the burglars apparently had also planned to take.

The bulk of the stolen money was change, police said.

* * *

However, they said nothing was reported stolen.

Joint Supervisors' Confab Slated Thursday in Detroit

Bernard F. Hillenbrand, executive director of the National Association of Counties, will be keynote speaker Thursday at a joint meeting of the boards of supervisors of six counties.

Supervisors from Oakland, Wayne, Macomb, St. Clair, Monroe and Washtenaw counties will convene at 2 p.m. at the Veterans Memorial Building, Detroit.

Other speakers will include Victor Fischer, director of the Office of Metropolitan Development in the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, and Conley O. Bacon, personnel director of the service section of General Motors Technical Center.

The program will include a report on last year's activities of the Committee of 100.

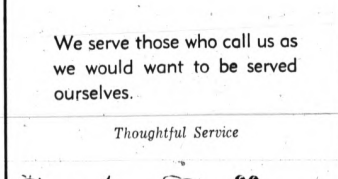

This committee, composed of governmental officials from the six-county region, has been reviewing recommendations of a study on governmental organization for southeast Michigan.

Burglary Nets $2,950 in Bonds

Glenn C. Fiebelkorn of 493 John R, Avon Township reported to sheriff's deputies yesterday a burlary at his house in which $2,950 worth of U.S. savings bonds and items valued at $630 were stolen.

The intruders entered the house through a rear door sometime between 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. last Friday night, according to Fiebelkorn who told deputies he was gone from the residence for the two-hour period.

Loot included a television set, a transistor radio, a toaster, a clock radio, two shotguns, a movie projector, two sets of wedding and engagement rings worth $265, 29 $100 U.S. savings bonds and two $25 U.S. savings bonds and the savings bonds were taken from a safe, deputies were told.

We serve those who call us as we would want to be served ourselves.

JACOBY

He is concerned with the last two letters of the code word "ARCH." He starts by counting his winners and finds that he has plenty of them but he also Counts four potential losers — the three missing aces and one club.

How can he make the hand? The defense has started by knocking out one of his top clubs and will proceed to knock out the other one as soon as they get in with one of their aces.

If South had plenty of time he could knock out the ace of trumps, draw trumps, knock out the ace of diamonds and discard his club loser on one of dummy's high diamonds but South does not have that much time. He can't stop to play trumps but must work on that club loser immediately.

The simple way to handle the losing club would be to attack diamonds. The play would succeed if diamonds were to break 3-3 but the odds are against that nice a break and South should try to find a better play.

He finds one when he looks at the spade suit. He can knock out the ace of spades, discard one of dummy's clubs on his third spade and ruff his last club in dummy. What does he need in the way of breaks for this play to work?

The spades must break 5-3 or better and clubs must go around twice. The odds favor these breaks so South's correct technique is to win the first club in dummy and lead dummy's jack of spades. Of course, he will go after trumps as soon as he has ruffed his last club.

A—Pass. Your partner can go to four spades if he has no defense against hearts. In competitive situations you should leave the decision to your partner if you do not have any clear-cut action.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of jumping to three spades, your partner bids two diamonds over your spade overcall. East passes. What do you do now?

23 British Buses Arrive in Havana

Havana radio, monitored in Miami, said the buses will begin operating immediately on Havana streets.

The broadcast said 654 British buses now are serving the Havana metropolitan area and another 146 vehicles will be added to the capital city's transportation system before the end of the year.

Cuba has received 737 buses from the British firm Leyland Motors, according to the newscast.

Viets to Be Guests at Havana Congress

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Vietnamese students will be honored guests at the fourth annual Latin American Student Congress in Havana July 29-Aug. 8, a Cuban broadcast said.

The Havana radio said representatives from the United States would attend. It did not name the U. S. student groups.

Talks May End Asia Dispute

Indonesia, Malaysia Optimistic for Peace

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI)—Indonesia and Malaysia began formal peace negotiations here yesterday, and high officials from both sides expressed optimism for an early end to the three-year-old conflict between the two countries.

Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik and Malaysian Deputy Premier Tun Abdul Razak met in separate sessions, searching for an end to the "confrontation" that began in 1963 when Indonesian President Sukarno declared his hostility to the new Federation of Malaysia and vowed to "crush" it.

Following the afternoon session, Malik told his aides there was a "good hope" the two sides may be able to announce an end to their controversy in a joint communique today.

Hope that the undeclared war would be called off quickly began to build up Sunday when Malik declared on arrival that "with God's will," confrontation would end in a hurry. He added he was authorized to sign anything to bring this about.

3-MAN RULE

Although Sukarno remains president, full powers have been signed over to a three-man triumvirate which includes Malik, Army Commander Lt. Gen. Suharto, and the Sultan of Jogjakarta, Hamengku Buwono IX.

The new Jakarta government is moving relentlessly toward settling Indonesia's outstanding foreign problems in order to restore the nation's political and economic credit abroad.

Small Quake Hits Virginia

Buildings Are Jarred; No Damage Done

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A rolling, rumbling earthquake that a Georgetown University scientist described as small and not unusual hit the Richmond area early today.

Father Bernard McConnell of Georgetown said the quake measured about 4.0 on the Richter scale.

★ ★ ★

The quake was felt in a line from Washington to Richmond in the south, as far west as Charlottesville, and east to Williamsburg.

No major damage or injuries were reported.

State police said it was believed that the last earthquake to be felt in the area occurred in 1953.

Father McConnell described the tremor as a "small local earthquake like those that occur every few months" in the East Coast area. He said it was too small to be recorded at any distance.

Residents of the area hit were more alarmed. Hundreds called police, radio stations and newspapers with reports of furniture thrown around rooms and their houses shaking.

A state police dispatcher here said he was tossed out of his chair. A spokesman at the Weather Bureau at Byrd Airport said he felt two tremors, one immediately behind the other. He said the bureau's building at the airport shuddered when the quake hit

FURNITURE MOVED

A telephone operator in Culpeper reported her switchboard flew across the room. Bob McSherry of Charlottesville said he was thrown out of bed.

Police in Charlottesville reported all the buildings in the University of Virginia section of town shook and rattled in the quake, but none of the huge glass windows were broken.

The quake was reported in Richmond at 2:18 a.m. Father McConnell said his seismograph in Washington recorded the disturbance at 2:34 a.m.

Solemn LBJ Pays Tribute

Joins With Thousands at Arlington Service

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — President Johnson paid tribute yesterday to the nation's living and dead warriors, deplored political suicides in South Viet Nam, and placed flowers on the grave of President John F. Kennedy.

★ ★ ★

First he placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown soldier.

Then he stood with head bowed as thousands joined him for a moment of silent prayer for permanent world peace.

★ ★ ★

From the tomb, Johnson walked a short distance to the cemetery's amphitheater where he spoke of his hopes for peace and a world community of independent nations capable of assuming collective responsibility for peace.

ON BUDDHISTS

Touching on the war in Viet Nam, Johnson described as tragic the present turmoil in which several Buddhists have committed suicide in protest against U.S. support of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government.

"This unnecessary loss of life only obscures the progress being made toward a constitutional government," he said.

"It only clouds the sacrifice of thousands of lives already made for the cause of independence and political hope in South Viet Nam."

★ ★ ★

He said, however, that he believes South Viet Nam is moving toward a government that will increasingly reflect the true will of its people.

FIRST STEPS'

"That will come if the South Vietnamese keep their internal quarrels and differences within bounds and concentrate on taking together their first steps toward constitutional government."

Caine Is Barred From E. Berlin

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

BERLIN — West Germans — and an English actor named Michael Caine — are banned from travel to East Berlin.

THOMAS

The West Germans are forbidden, except on certain holidays, because of the devious politics of the East German government. Insurance underwriters have decreed that Caine must stay on the free side of the Berlin wall.

"It makes sense, I suppose," the actor comments. "The East Germans obviously know we are making a movie which will reflect ill against their government; they know everything.

"They probably have as many pictures of me as Paramount does. I've been up to the wall many times to be photographed from this side, and I'm sure the East Germans took their photos, too. So it might just be inviting trouble for me to go across."

REPRODUCTION OF WALL

Caine is starring in "Funeral in Berlin," portraying the same Len Deighton spy that brought him fame in "The Ipcress File." Because some of the action takes place at the wall, the film makers have built a reproduction a mile away from the wall itself.

The company has been toiling there nightly, thus denying Caine access to the Berlin night life. It's just as well, he sighed.

"Once you have made a tour of the strip joints and the transvestite places, you have just about seen all that Berlin has to offer at night," said Caine. "Berlin is a man's city; I understand there are five men for every available woman. The reason is that West Germans can escape the draft by coming to Berlin.

"It is also an old people's city. The East Germans permit persons over 60 to come to West Berlin if they so choose. Thus the East German government escapes paying social security. It was different for Caine in another far-off outpost, Hollywood. He was there recently to appear opposite Shirley MacLaine in 'Gambit,' and he was out nightly with such figures as Natalie Wood, Mia Farrow, Carol Lynley, etc.

"I am part of the swinging new scene in London," said Caine, "and whenever I go to a new city, I try to find where the action is. In California, I found it at the Daisy club, and that's where I made my home."

Detectives Seek Clues in Killing of Stanford Chemist

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Detectives appealed today for help from the anonymous persons who reported finding the body of a mysteriously slain Stanford University chemist.

Two telephone calls alerted police who found the body of Floyd C. Martin, 37, on a grassy plot near Lands End, where couples often park cars for a view of the Pacific.

★ ★ ★

Colby College Faculty Dislikes Draft Method

WATERVILLE, Maine (AP) — The faculty of Colby College has placed itself on record as disapproving the use of class standing, grades or other academic ranking in determining Selective Service classification.

The results of a faculty vote were sent to Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service System.

Nigeria Riots Kill at Least 60

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Northern Nigeria was apparently calm but tense today following weekend riots in which more than 60 persons were killed.

After the bloody clashes between demonstrators and police, the government clamped on strict censorship and ordered troops to shoot troublemakers.

Delayed reports said Roman Catholic churches headed by American missionaries in the cities of Gusau and Sokoto were sacked during the demonstrations. Informed sources said no Americans were injured.

ABOLISHMENT

The demonstrations were sparked by the decision of the military government in Lagos to abolish the country's loose federal system and institute unitary rule from Lagos.

Most of the violence was perpetrated by northern Hausa tribesmen on Ibo tribesmen from the south who live in special quarters in many northern cities.

38 Killed in India Bus

Stocks Mixed, Then Lower

Mart Drops in Slow Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined early this afternoon in slow trading.

Stocks were mixed at the opening but gradually worked lower. For most of the list there was no particular incentive to buy, brokers said.

★ ★ ★

News to rekindle buying was notably absent, except for the steels which responded with moderate gains to published indications of continued strong buying for steel.

Losses of most key stocks stretched from fractions to 1 or 2 points.

WIDE LOSERS

IBM was a wide loser, dropping more than 7 points as its offering of about 1.3 million shares of stock at the rate of one share for every 40 held got under way.

The Dow Jones industrial average — which recovered 20.15 points last week—was down 5.06 to 891.98 at noon.

★ ★ ★

Prices were mostly lower on the American Stock Exchange in moderate trading. Solitron Devices lost 4, National Video about 2½, Conductron and Flying Tiger about 1½. Losses of a point or so were shown by Xtra Inc., Atlas Consolidated Mining and Acme Missiles. Among fractional losers were Chromalloy, Brazilian Traction and Harnischfeger. Up about a point were Day Mines, Kysor Industries (new), MOOG Inc., O'Okiep Copper and Peel-Elder.

Housewives' Budget Brigade Finds Government Index Accurate on Food Prices

By the Associated Press

A housewives' budget brigade concluded today that government price indexes fairly reflect a hard fact of life in the 1960s: It is costing more and more to feed the family.

Many housewives seem firmly convinced that food prices just about doubled in the past year. They didn't, but government figures, supported by an independent Associated Press survey in March, show that the cost of a typical week's shopping went up nearly 7 per cent.

Meats, however, have risen sharply. Based on the government's national price averages, it cost $6.22 to buy one pound each of sirloin steak, hamburger, pork chops, ham, bacon and lamb chops in mid-March, compared with $5.12 in mid-March of 1965 — a rise of 21.5 per cent.

By contrast, the other items on the shopping list of the AP's budget brigade rose only 1.5 per cent.

The AP's budget brigade figures, and the government's, should enable skeptical shoppers to judge for themselves. The AP housewives themselves started out highly skeptical on their 12-city spot survey.

They said food prices over-all were unquestionably high, although many a penny could be shaved off the grocery bill by determined bargain-hunting from store to store. Some made the point that few housewives can spare so much time from their other homemaking duties.

If a housewife does all her shopping at one store, the researcher in St. Louis said, "it doesn't matter much which store you shop at — they'll get all your money anyway."

"Each store's weekly bargains really were bargains," she reported. "They cut off as much as 20 or 30 cents per item. But they seem to make it up somewhere else."

The Associated Press budget brigade priced a list of 38 to 40 food items, from potatoes to sirloin steak, in three supermarkets in each of the 12 cities on March 10.

The results were set alongside returns from U.S. Department of Labor checkers who shopped a wider range of stores in the same cities at approximately the same time. (The government checkers also cover stores in 50 smaller cities for which no price breakdown is published).

In the 12 cities where the AP paralleled the government survey, average total bills were remarkably similar and in the case of St. Louis came out at precisely the same figure — $20.43.

The government goes about its monthly price-gathering in a coolly scientific way, using 125 checkers working under field supervisors and supported by computers at home base. The AP survey was a matronly affair on a much smaller scale but following in the footsteps of the government checkers.

Food prices make up only 22.5 per cent of the government's over-all cost of living index, which during the March-to-March period rose 2.5 per cent. However, it is food prices which the housewife encounters face to face everyweek and is most aware of.

Both AP and government checkers reported Cleveland to be the cheapest city for the over-all food bill. Government checkers came up with a figure of $19.67 for 39 items, and the AP housewife found the same items for $18.77.

Government checkers found San Francisco to be the costliest city, with an average price of $21.27 for 39 items compared with $19.70 reported by the AP checker. Costliest city in the AP survey was Boston, with a total of $21.06 compared with the government finding of $21.10.

In between the extremes came Baltimore, Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Washington, D.C.

2 States Enact LSD Controls

California, Nevada First to Regulate Drug

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Nevada and California, which annually rank one and two in national crime rates, yesterday became the first states to enact controls over the dream drug LSD.

★ ★ ★

The action came when Nevada Gov. Grant Sawyer and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown used part of their holiday mornings to sign similar bills into law.

Despite some dispute over which governor signed first — making his state first in the nation — the statutes were generally the same.

Each permits supervised use of LSD but bans other uses, along with sales and possession.

★ ★ ★

Brown said California acted because of evidence showing that the odorless, tasteless and colorless LSD "poses a growing threat to society — particularly to young thrill-seekers unaware of the damage it can do."

CAUSE FANTASY

During legislative hearings in California, medical officials said LSD was one of many so-called "mind-expanding" drugs that cause hallucinations and fantasy.

Police said its use was growing rapidly among college and high school students.

The author of the California law, Republican Sen. Donald Grunsky of Watsonville, said state failure to enact controls was "an open invitation to its use."

★ ★ ★

However, opponents, who nearly killed Grunsky's measure, argued that making LSD illegal would only stimulate youthful use.

In Millbrook, N.Y., Dr. Timothy Leary, a controversial promoter of LSD use, said control laws were "hysterical" and "unrealistic."

Junior Editors Quiz on— MUMMIES

QUESTION: Why did the Egyptians make mummies of the dead?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: In very early Egyptian times, dead people were buried right in the sand. The special quality of the hot, dry Egyptian sand preserved such bodies from decay.

It is thought that when the early Egyptians discovered that the bodies they buried did not decay, it gave them the idea they had survived to a life after death.

Then came the further thought that they should provide the dead people with food and various utensils. Graves were made larger for this purpose. But then the air came in, and the bodies decayed.

To prevent this, the Egyptians mummified the dead bodies. The brain and all organs except the heart were removed; they body was soaked in salt and nacron.

Mummies were often enclosed in a coffin (lower right) which was itself carved and painted.

We show some objects found in King Tut's tomb: a dagger and a handsome drinking cup made of alabaster.

Mummies of the kings were often placed deep within huge stone structures such as the pyramids. In many cases, however, robbers broke in and stole the gold and jewels buried with the kings.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: We do not imitate the Egyptian habit of making mummies, but many of our other habits are based on Egyptian customs. Find out more about ancient people and how much they have contributed to our civilization.

Graham, Aides Await Crusade

Will Open Tomorrow in Heart of London

LONDON (AP) — Billy Graham planned to meet with his workers tonight at a dedication service on the eve of his month-long religious crusade in the heart of London.

★ ★ ★

The American evangelist scheduled a 10-minute address to the 2,000 members of the choir, 1,000 ushers and 2,000-3,000 counsellors.

He will wind up the crusade with a rally in 100,000-seat Wembley Outdoor Stadium, the scene of prize fights, Olympic games, greyhound racing, soccer matches and horse shows.

★ ★ ★

The evangelist rested today after a game of golf yesterday that made headlines because he blundered — he looked up while driving.

A PAR FOUR

Graham took a par four on the first hole, but on the second he sliced his drive onto a railway track.

"I looked up," he explained.

His partner was Lindsay Clegg, 84, a British member of the crusade's executive council. His opponents were two American members of the crusade, the Rev. T. W. Wilson and the Rev. Lee Fisher.

★ ★ ★

Results were not revealed.

Mrs. Graham stayed in the clubhouse because she was wearing high heels.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, producer of all U.S. paper currency, has streamlined its public tour to allow close-up views of the entire production line.

Connecticut Schools Will Pool Resources

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — The University of Bridgeport, Fairfield University and Sacred Heart University have agreed to pool their resources in a cooperative educational program.

The 11,700 students in the three schools will be able to enroll in the courses and use the libraries of any of the institutions.

Forest Fire Halted Near West Branch

WEST BRANCH (UPI) — More than 150 fire fighters yesterday battled a day-long forest fire over 1,000 acres about 12 miles north of West Branch.

★ ★ ★

The fire finally was brought under control late in the day after it threatened small oil and natural gas wells in the area.

★ ★ ★

There were no injuries, and the wells were not set afire.

Card of Thanks 1

WE WISH TO EXPRESS OUR SINcere thanks and appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness during our recent bereavement of Roy H. Corey, beloved husband and father. — Mrs. Roy H. Corey and their entire family.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR son, James R. Mazza, who passed away 15 years ago, May 31, 1951.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well.
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep,
His memory we shall always keep.

A Message to Our Customers from the Detroit Edison Company

Local 17, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO, representing about 750 of Detroit Edison's 9,500 employes called a strike at midnight Monday.

More than 700 of these employes are linesmen and members of field crews — men whose duties during normal operations are the building and maintenance of overhead transmission and distribution lines carrying electric energy to our customers in Southeastern Michigan.

Detroit Edison has had favorable relations with the members of this union for over 63 years. The Company did its best to reach a reasonable agreement and stands ready to meet with the Union at any time.

Despite the strike, it is the intention of Detroit Edison and our many dedicated employes to continue to render normal electric service that is so essential to the life, safety and employment of our citizens and the economy of the area.

New Star of 'Mame' Finds Failure Leads to Success

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — There's a lot of accident in every success.

Now that Angela Lansbury's been standing-ovationed everywhere for her success in "Mame," it's easy to remember that a few months ago some friends of hers were hoping that she'd get the part. They were afraid she wouldn't.

"She may not be a big enough musical comedy name," one of these friends of her said.

It was suggested that I phone Composer Jerry Herman of "Hello, Dolly!" who was writing the music and lyrics, and ask what he thought about it.

He told me he hoped she got it but he wasn't sure yet.

WILSON

"What happened?" I asked him after the bravos were still ringing through Sardi's and the Rainbow Room after the opening.

The tall, willowy, 41-year-old, British-born blonde seemed to have got her break through a flop, "Anyone Can Whistle."

So maybe she was an accident altogether?

"Not at all," said Jerry Herman. He remembered her singing — and acting—from "Anyone Can Whistle."

"I suggested to Jerry Lawrence and Bob Lee that we get this lady, who was an actress who could sing," he said. There were those who thought that Lucille Ball should play it. But Herman preferred somebody less comedic. "I got together with this lady and taught her one song, 'It's Today.' And—she got the part."

And they were asking in Sardi's whether any show had ever received a standing ovation before.

Daryl Zanuck watched Eddie Fisher's Persian Rm. show, discussed buying two film properties Eddie owns . . . Jackie Gleason did a frantic limbo act at the Miami Beach Eden Roc with Chubby Checker and the new Miss U.S.A. . . . One of the plushest film premieres will be "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" June 23.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A businessman said he gives his employes extra vacations: "It's the easiest way to find out which ones I can do without."

EARL'S PEARLS: The worst thing about being prompt is that people think you have nothing else to do.

Singer Bobby Vinton, whose custom-built Cadillac will have a TV set, was asked why a refrigerator will also be included. "Well," he said, "I gotta go somewhere while the commercials are one." . . . That's earl, brother.

Human Error Causes Blast

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. (UPI) — A panel of top-ranking space experts yesterday blamed the failure to reconnect a pressure sensing line for the second-stage explosion of a Saturn rocket Saturday.

The board of inquiry said the failure apparently was a human error.

The preliminary report came after two days of probing into the circumstances surrounding the explosion of a tank on the Saturn's second stage.

The explosion occurred while the tank was being filled with helium to determine where a leak was that had cut short an earlier test.

The explosion injured five persons, none seriously.

NO ASSESSMENT

The board said yesterday it had not attempted yet to assess any possible setback to the U.S. man-to-the-moon program as a result of the blowup.

★ ★ ★

The second stage test version was destroyed by the explosion. The test stand did not appear to be seriously damaged, the board said.

U.S. Holiday Traffic Claims 519

By the Associated Press

The death toll on the nation's roads has soared to an unprecedented three-day Memorial Day figure and it may surpass the total fatalities recorded for any Memorial Day weekend regardless of duration.

As of last midnight, local time, 519 lives were lost on America's highways.

The death count began at 6 p.m. local time Friday.

★ ★ ★

PREVIOUS RECORD

The highest previous traffic death toll for a three-day Memorial Day period was 474 last year.

★ ★ ★

The council said yesterday the current holiday period was similar to the Fourth of July weekend last year when 547 lives were lost.

JAMMED HIGHWAYS

Sunny skies and pleasant weather throughout most of the nation contributed to motorsists' jamming thoroughfares as millions of Americans traveled to recreation areas, athletic events and family gatherings.

California, with more automobiles and miles of freeways than any other state, recorded the highest number of deaths as of midnight, 55.

The worst single recorded accident occurred in Somerset, Ky., Saturday when five persons died in a three-car collision. Four of the victims were from a vacationing Ohio family.

The lowest three-day rate for a Memorial Day, since records were initiated, was in 1948 when 204 persons died.

720 DEATHS

The Associated Press made a comparative record of traffic fatalities from 6 p.m. Friday May 13 to midnight Monday May 16 and recorded 376 deaths during the period.

The National Safety Council said 10,710 persons died during the first three months of 1966, a 7 per cent increase over the similar period in 1965.

The total highway death toll in 1965 was a record 49,000.

Surveyor's Course to Moon Adjusted

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 1 cruised today toward a new and hopefully smoother landing site on the moon after a tricky steering maneuver 97,000 miles out in space.

Jet Propulsion Laboratory officials, who are guiding the 2,200-pound camera-carrying craft toward a soft landing in the dry Sea of Storms late tomorrow, said Surveyor responded properly to all commands during the intricate change of course.

They said it would take several hours of tracking to be sure Surveyor's new course will bring it down, as now planned, about 20 miles north of the point picked prior to yesterday's launch.

The new site was chosen to give the spacecraft the smoothest possible landing area in the 62-mile diameter target circle — at the western edge of the 1,700-mile long equatorial strip selected for future Apollo astronaut touchdowns.

★ ★

DOWN SLOWLY

In the maneuver at 1:45 a.m. EST, the spacecraft was ordered to roll and yaw slowly to the left, aiming it in the desired direction.

★ ★ ★

Officials said there was no indication so far that the steering maneuver was disturbed by any shift in the craft's center of gravity, a possibility that arose when radioed data indicated an antenna boom may not have extended fully after launch.

FINAL APPROACH

There was still a chance that a shift in the center of gravity might cause the craft to tumble and crash when the descent-breaking rockets are ignited on the final approach to the moon.

★

If all goes well, however, Surveyor will radio across 230,000 miles of space pictures almost as sharp as those seen on home television screens, showing terrain details as small as a pencil lead.

Pontiac Press Photo

LEST WE FORGET — The Civil War monument which stands before the Pontiac City Hall was the focal point of local Memorial Day observance here. Hundreds of area residents gathered to honor those soldiers who have died defending America's freedom. A 45-minute parade down Saginaw was followed by wreath-placing ceremonies at the City Hall and Perry Mount Park Cemetery.

Michigan's Death Count Ranks 2nd

By The Associated Press

With 40 killed, Michigan traffic was second most deadly among the nation's states over the long Memorial Day weekend.

Only California, with a toll of 55, killed more in traffic over the 78-hour span.

An auto pursued by State Police rammed the rear of another passenger car on I-75 near Erie and killed three persons shortly before the holiday count ended at midnight yesterday.

The Associated Press tabulation began at 6 p.m. Friday.

The worst holiday toll in Michigan history was 58 killed over a 102-hour Memorial Day weekend in 1941.

The victims of the crash near Erie were tentatively identified by the Monroe County coroner as James Parsons, 26, of Caretta, W. Va.; Charles T. Jenkinds, 21, of Ecorse; and Geneva Aileen Hatfield of Ewing, W. Va.

State Police said officers were pursuing the car in which the victims were riding at speeds over 110 miles an hour.

They said the auto struck the rear of another southbound car, veered through a guard rail and struck an overpass abutment.

IN CRITICAL CONDITION

A fourth person in the auto, Louise Long, 19, of River Rouge, was in critical condition at Riverside Hospital in Toledo, Ohio.

Also hospitalized at Toledo was Phyllis Zucker, 24, of University Heights, Ohio,

Commission to Air Charter Amendment

A proposed amendment to the City Charter to be presented to voters Aug. 2 is scheduled for City Commission consideration at tonight's regular meeting.

The amendment would provide for the inclusion of the city's two municipal court judges in the general city Pension plan.

The deadline for approving such proposals for the Aug. 2 primary election is Friday.

Thus, the commission would have to approve ballot proposals tonight, or schedule a special meeting for that purpose by Friday.

The commission is slated to receive a communication from judges on still a second charter amendment.

ADDITIONAL JUDGE

Judge Cecil McCallum and Maurice Finnegan last week proposed the charter be amended by a vote of the people to permit creation of a third municipal judgeship.

In other scheduled business tonight, the commission is to consider two petitions for the construction of storm drains in two areas of the city.

New trunk sewers are proposed for an area in the vicinity of Baldwin and Brooklyn and in the vicinity of Featherstone and the Grand Trunk Western Belt Line.

The commission is to consider whether to petition the county drain commissioner to construct the storm sewers as county drains, which would put the financing of the new sewers on the county tax bill of city residents.

Gemini 9 Gets the 'Go' Light

Launching Tomorrow for 3-Day Mission

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The "go" light flashed brightly to tracking stations around the world today for the Gemini 9 spacemen to embark on a three-day exploration of some unknowns of space travel.

"We're ready to go," said Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford. His rookie pilot, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan, agreed. Cernan is scheduled to take a 2½-hour walk in space to become the world's champion cosmic stroller.

They'll ride a mighty Titan rocket into the hostile void of space at 11.38 p.m. EST tomorrow to search the skies for a stubby target satellite, then boldly latch Gemini 9's nose to it.

Their target, known as an Augmented Target Docking Adapter — ATDA, will be powered into a 185-mile high circu-

★ ★ ★

PRACTICE SESSIONS

They also hoped to crowd in a few more hours of practice sessions in a mockup version of the tiny Gemini spaceship.

Technicians, sailing along without a hitch on preparations for launching both the Titan and Atlas rockets, scheduled a five-hour check of all systems aboard the 11-story tall Titan before beginning the final countdown leading to launch.

Farnum to Talk at Dinner Fete

City Group to Honor 5 Outstanding Guests

Congressman Billie S. Farnum, D-19th district, will deliver the keynote address Friday at the fourth annual Citizens' Awards Dinner sponsored by the Pontiac Citizens' Committee on Youth.

FARNUM

Five outstanding citizens will be guests of honor at the dinner to be held at the Pontiac Elks Temple at 6:30 p.m.

A special award of $100 will be granted to a Pontiac citizen who has performed an outstanding act in support of law and law enforcement during the past year.

Monks, Junta Leaders Meet on Compromise

The monks met with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, a Roman Catholic and a target in the Buddhist campaign to force the military junta to resign in favor of a provisional civilian regime.

The meeting came after another Buddhist had burned herself to death in Hue, center of government opposition in the north.

She was the fifth and possibly the sixth suicide in the wave of antigovernment protests.

Thich Tam Chau, head of the powerful Buddhist Institute, headed the delegation of four that called at heavily guarded Gia Long Palace, Thieu's residence.

★ ★ ★

An institute spokesman said no statement will be made for the time being.

'SIMPLY PRELIMINARY'

Unconfirmed reports swept Saigon that some members of the government were considering asking for Ky's resignation to further a settlement with the Buddhists.

The influential monk Thich Tri Quang, leader of the Buddhist struggle movement in the northern provinces, issued an appeal earlier in the day for a halt to protest suicides after the 17-year-old girl had set herself on fire in Hue, his stronghold.

Rev. James A. Moloney of Detroit was the driver of the car, according to police. He was not held.

Father Moloney, who was westbound on 11 Mile, said he honked his horn and swerved to the left to avoid the boys, who were traveling in the same direction.

Decision Is Near on College

An important deadline looms in the Michigan Legislature for Pontiac's projected osteopathic college. The deadline is June 8, assuming there is to be legislative action this year.

It is by that date that the House Ways and Means Committee must report out a Senate-passed bill calling for the creation of an osteopathic college authority.

June 8 is a general deadline for reporting bills out of committee that have passed the other house of the legislature.

Currently lodged in the 16-member House Ways and Means Committee, the osteopathic bill has already passed one House committee — the State Affairs Committee.

The college bill was referred to the Ways and Means Committee because of its monetary implications, although the Senate deleted provisions for a specific appropriations of state funds.

PROVIDES FOR AUTHORITY

The bill now only provides for the college authority, a panel to be appointed by the governor from a list submitted by the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons.

Essentially, the college authority would be the governing body for the proposed $60 million college to be located on a 164-acre site at Auburn and Opdyke.

Consideration by the Ways and Means Committee is expected to be favorable, according to the present lineup of votes.

★ ★ ★

8 IN FAVOR

There reportedly are eight committee members favoring the bill, four opposed and four undecided.

College supporters are seeking annual state aid of $3-5 million for the pending school, which is to open in 1970 with a charter class of 64 students.

To date, the college and the aspirations of its backers for state support has received a better reception in Lansing than elsewhere.

OPPOSITION

Most of the opposition to the present bill has come from representatives of existing state-supported medical schools and the Michigan State Medical Society.

A possible future merger of M.D.'s and D.O.'s has been emphasized by those against state aid for the Pontiac school. A statewide survey showed M.D.'s in favor of a merger of the two health professions and D.O.'s against it.

Viewing the June 8 deadline,

Japan Leftists Renew Protests Over N-Sub

TOKYO (AP) — About 30,000 leftists renewed their protests last night against the first visit to Tokyo Bay of a U.S. nuclear-powered submarine.

The mass demonstration in the nerby port city of Yokosuga was described by police as orderly.

About 12,000 persons staged three demonstrations at Yokosuka Monday as the submarine Snook docked at the U.S. naval base there to give the crew five days of rest and recreation.

The demonstrators were brought to the port 30 miles south of Tokyo by the Communist and Socialist parties. Police said 30 policemen and 21 students were injured in clashes Monday and another 20 persons were hurt Sunday, when the protests started.

None of the demonstrators molested the sailors from the Snook or from the carrier Kitty Hawk and other American ships in port. Weaving through the demonstrators, the sailors went as usual to Yokosuka's shops and 270 bars and clubs.

PEACEFUL

★ ★ ★

Privately some demonstrators said they did not want to do anything to hurt Yokosuka's thriving trade with U.S. servicemen. But both police and demonstration leaders said they were worried about members of the radical Zengakuren Students Association.

★ ★ ★

"They are hotheads," said an organizer. "They are here on their own, and not part of our group."

Police and leftist leaders blamed the students for most of the scuffles with police. The students also tore down posters which shopkeepers put up to welcome the Snook.

DEMONSTRATIONS

Noisy leftist demonstrations accompanied each of the eight visits by five other U.S. nuclear subs to Sasebo, another U.S. naval base 500 miles southwest of Tokyo. The number of demonstrators had dwindled with each call, however.

The leftists stepped up their protests for the Snook's port call because it is the first to Yokosuka and because Yokosuka is close to heavily populated Tokyo. Authorities mobilized 5,000 policemen to keep the demonstrators in check.

★ ★ ★

A group of 100 Socialist members of Parliament marched on the U.S. Embassy in Tokyo and handed U.S. officials a petition protesting the Snook's visit. The officials said they would forward it to Washington.

Socialist and Communist lawmakers also submitted questions to the government about the Snook's visit.

Seek to Avert Chaos

British Strike Quiz Begun

LONDON (UPI) — A four-man court of inquiry began investigating Britain's 16-day merchant seamen's strike today in the hope of ending it before the walkout plunges the nation's economy into chaos.

The first act of the court was expected to be an appeal to the sailors to return to their ships pending the inquiry—an appeal which sources in the National Seamen's Union said would be rejected out of hand.

As the board began meeting, the union was reported considering a plea to unionists on the European continent not to unload British flag tankers.

The seamen contend British tankers have been diverted from British to continental ports to unload.

They said normally 40 tankers dock in Britain each week but since the strike only three have done so.

Under the 72-year-old Merchant Marine Act, British sailors can be charged with mutiny if they leave a ship in a foreign port and crews have waited until their ships reach home to sign off and join the strike.

HAVE LANDED

Other merchant ships bound for Britain have landed despite the strike and, as of last night, 18,974 sailors had abandoned 651 of them.

The court of inquiry is expected to issue an interim report within 12 to 14 days.

It is hoped that this report will become the basis for settlement of Britain's first maritime strike in 55 years.

★ ★ ★

Prime Minister Harold Wilson appointed the court before he was granted emergency power by Parliament to deal with the walkout. So far, he has not used any of the powers.

ORDERED STUDY

Wilson ordered the board to study the causes of the strike, the Merchant Shipping Act, conditions at sea and relations between ship owners, officers and crewmen.

The issues in the walkout are money and hours. The union has asked for reduction of the workweek from 56 to 40 hours with overtime pay for any work beyond 40 hours and a small monthly wage boost.

The owners, banded together in the shipping federation, said the demands represented a 17 per cent increase and they countered with a 13 per cent bost spread over two years.

There has been no movement on either side since the walkout began May 16.

Suitor Shoots Woman, Then Kills Himself

LANSING (UPI) — A triangle love affair ended yesterday in the death of one man and left a 45-year-old widowed mother of seven in critical condition after being shot in the back with a 12-guage shotgun.

Police said McBridge Wiseman, Lansing, shot himself after critically wounding Mrs. June Hyatt as she returned home with an unidentified third man.

Wiseman was quoted as saying, "Lie to me, will you," just before he shot Mrs. Hyatt, the mother of seven children ranging in age from 4 to 16 years.

Police said Mrs. Hyatt and Wiseman ha dbeen dating for several months.

Her husband was killed in 1964 by her oldest son, then 14, during a family argument. The boy was never charged.

The Ingham County Sheriff's Department questioned the third man in the love triangle but would not reveal his name pending a complete investigation of yesterday's shooting.

Decision on College Is Looming college backers say legislative defeat of the bill may delay the project, but the college will still be built.

★ ★ ★

Meantime, the bid for eventual state aid has entered its second year. The authority bill has been before four separate legislative committees, been the object of an attorney general's opinion and the cause of a statewide poll of physicians.

SOME BENEFIT

The many trips to Lansing, however, have returned some benefit to the college. A $50,000 appropriation was received last year for planning studies.

Even with a favorable House vote in June, there are still more hurdles to surmont including obtaining Gov. Romney's signature.

Last fall it was indicated that even the final legislation may be subjected to a court test.

When the bill passed the Senate, there was considerable debate over an opinion by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley was the legislature was "without power to enact a statute establishing such a college or university without the prior determination, a device and recommendation by the State Board of Education."

With a court test waiting in the wings, as the final solution, June 8 looms as an important date for the future medical school.

Nevada Mountains Combed for Boy, 6

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — More than 100 men, including professional trackers with bloodhounds, searched through brush-covered mountains today for a 6-year-old boy missing and apparently without food or water for three days.

Larry Jeffrey of Henderson, Nev., whose hearing is 30 per cent impaired, was reported missing Saturday afternoon.

He wandered from his family's campsite in Lee's Canyon after he was refused permission to climb to a higher level to see snow on the ground.

Lt. Walter Butt of the Clark County sheriff's department, head of the search, said searchers covered 20 to 40 square miles yesterday with the aid of helicopters.

Police Chief Asks to Halt Driver License Sale

BIRMINGHAM — Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley will recommend to the city commission tonight that the city discontinue the issuing of driver licenses.

"It's costing the city several thousand dollars a year and a considerable amount of time," Moxley explained today.

Michigan is one of the few states where police sell driver licenses and then have to turn around and take then away when the privilege is violated, Moxley said.

Birmingham is issuing nearly 11,000 licenses a year, including renewals and the number is increasing steadily, according to to the police chief.

COLOR PHOTOS

The problem came to a head last summer when Birmingham was one of 14 Oakland County communities selected by the secretary of state to receive a camera to take color photos that now appear on driver licenses.

With the number of cameras limited and the added expense of hiring a full-time employee to opeeate them, many communities were unable to participate and closed their licensing bureaus, shifting the burden to neighboring cities.

Moxley said the present situation will worsen soon because he has been informed that Southfield will discontinue its bureau on July 1.

Both Ferndale and Oak Park have announced their intention to do the same but have set no date.

OUT OF BUSINESS

Detroit went out of the licensing business the first of the year and the secretary of state office took over the entire operation without difficulty, said Moxley.

"Eventually, the state will take over the job throughout Michigan," Moxley said.

Wife Survives Boat Mishap

MONROE (AP) — Mrs. Louise Donnelly, 71, of the Akron, Ohio, suburb of Fairlawn, was reported in good condition in Memorial Hospital here today following a boating mishap which apparently led to the death of her husband.

An autopsy was performed on Harry Donnelly, 64, who died in Memorial Hospital Monday after he and his wife were found unconscious on their boat in Lake Erie. The results were not yet known.

The Toledo Coast Guard station said the Donnellys' 37-foot-cabin cruiser was found aground Saturday night and the couple was offered a ride to shore. The Coast Guard said the couple decided then to remain on board their craft and await a tow boat.

Rusk Sets Out on Europe Trip

Again Stresses Denial U.S. to Reduce Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk set out for Europe today, stressing anew that the United States "does not consider a major withdrawal" of troops from Germany.

Flying first to Helsinki, Finland, he will visit Finland and Norway, then attend the ministerial council meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The meeting of NATO foreign ministers, which could be an important milestone in the 17-year history of the 15-nation organization, opens in Brussels June 7.

Talking with reporters before his plane left Andrews Air Force Base at 8:13 a.m., Rusk said the foreign ministers will have a number of important questions to consider — questions which "require some kind of discussions, particularly with France."

DECISION DUE

"The decision how to handle the situation will be made in Brussels," Rusk said. The situation he referred to is France's decision to break with NATO's military structure.

Rusk said in response to questions that he does not think the alliance is facing a "critical" situation, or that the Brussels meeting will be critical.

Asked about a rumor of American plans to withdraw forces from Western Europe, Rusk said:

"Oh, no! We are not getting into that, the meeting will be a general assessment of the situation. We do not consider a major withdrawal from Europe."

NEW COALITION

Rusk's visit to Helsinki will coincide with the formation of the new Finnish government on a coalition basis, with Communist participation for the first time since 1948.

Rusk will be in Oslo, the Norwegian capital, June 2-4.

He described the Finnish and Norwegian visits as long overdue, recalling that he had planned them last year but the Dominican Republic crisis had interfered.

The Brussels meeting may decide the question where to move NATO's military installations, now in France. A decision is expected also on the problem whether the allies' political headquarters should remain in Paris or move too.

Monks, Junta Leaders Meet

dhists may be willing to accept less than the resignations of Ky and Thieu as the price for calling of the antigovernment campaign, since the suicides have had less impact than the monks apparently expected.

These officials also spoke of a crisis of confidence among the monks in the face of the government's strong stand.

"There is a great deal of perplexity among Buddhist leaders," said one American official.

★ ★ ★

But even if the monks in Saigon accepted a settlement, there was a question about Quang Tri's willingness to go along with any agreement.

MOST MILITANT

He and the monks around him in Hue are regarded as the most militant figures in the Buddhist movement.

Tri Quang's followers in Hue distributed his appeal for a halt to the suicides after the girl, Nguyen Thi Van, died in a hospital there.

PURSUED REDS

U.S. infantrymen pursued a large North Vietnamese force through rainswept jungles near the Cambodian border after killing 227 Reds in three days of fighting.

American casualties were reported light to moderate.

The estimated 1,000 North Vietnamese troops — so identified by captives—retreated into the hills west of Pleiku, 240 miles northeast of Saigon, after breaking off contact yesterday afternoon with units of the 25th U.S. Infantry Division on Operation Paul Revere.

The fighting took place only a few days' march from the Cambodian hills where U.S. intelligence sources have located as many as 10,000 North Vietnamese troops — a report vigorously denied by the Cambodians and unconfirmed by U.S. officials in Washington.

Vietnamese troops reported killing 30 Viet Cong near the Cambodian border Monday at a village near Tuyen Nhon, 50 miles west of Saigon.

PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT

The report said North Vietnamese Premier Le Duan told Romania's deputy premier, Gen. Emil Bodnaras, in Hanoi recently that North Viet Nam "would not come to the peace table 'on its knees' but was interested in exploring a peaceful settlement."

★ ★ ★

Newsweek's informants said Soviet party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev endorsed the idea and advised the Romanians on how to broach the subject to Chinese Premier Chou En-lai.

Urge Calm Look at 'Auto Safety'

At a time when sensationalists and self-seeking politicians have been having an oral field day attacking the safety standards of automakers, the objective observations of two of Michigan's congressional representatives — Republicans Sen. ROBERT GRIFFIN and Rep. GERALD FORD—come as a welcome relief.

Both legislators, while not minimizing the paramount importance of auto safety design, cautioned against making a legislative circus out of the issue.

They advocate realistic consideration by the lawmakers of many factors related to highway casualties before pinning the onus on the car manufacturers with some ill-advised legislation leading to uniform bureaucratic regulation and control.

While expressing the belief that highway safety and tire safety bills would pass in some form this year, the pair agreed that the producers of autos and tires are best qualified to prescribe whatever safety remedies are called for and should have a strong voice in drafting them.

Economics an Invisible Force That Affects All

Our new economists hold that an increase in the public debt—lower taxes, higher government spending —will spur the economy out of the doldrums. The traditionalists preach that increasing private debt —a rise in the cost of borrowing— is the best way to curb inflation.

The first proposition has been pretty well vindicated by the boom of the past two years; the latter has been around so long that few people question it.

We heard very little about a danger of inflation before last December 3, says VOORHIS. Prices up to that time had remained remarkably stable over a long period. It is since that date, when the Federal Reserve Board took the classic anti-inflation step of raising interest rates, that inflation has become a major issue and that prices have been rising to a point where people are concerned.

Inflation has always resulted when interest rates have been raised in moderation as an inflation preventive, he says. To take the Federal Reserve argument at face value, we should now raise them still more. Yet if this method is used as drastically as it must be to have the desired effect, it will cause deflation and depression.

The best way to control inflation, says Voorhis, is to increase production of goods and services to a point where the very supply of real wealth becomes great enough to bring prices down. An increase in taxes is another method.

Until economics become an exact science, which seems most unlikely, its ramifications and interactions make establishment of immutable laws of cause and effect a pretty dubious business.

Mississippi No Longer to Swallow 'Prohibition'

Racial relations was not the only social area the State of Mississippi marred by hypocrisy. Another was its approach to the commercial status of liquor.

For 58 years the State has been technically "dry," and as such is the only state in the Union currently so classified.

★ ★ ★

But Mississippi's long period of "abstinence" comes to an end on July 1 when a bill legalizing the sale of liquor subject to local option action takes effect.

Were it not that flouting of state law is to be deplored, the openness with which liquor has long been available by drink or bottle in Mississippi would have been ludicrous.

Efforts on the part of realistic segments of the citizenry, however, to terminate the phony prohibition have regularly been beaten down by a coalition of sincere abstainers, the two-faced who vote dry and drink wet and the racketeering element and corrupt politicians who profited from the illicit traffic in the commodity.

Moralists need not be concerned that legalization of liquor will lead to an orgy of drinking in Mississippi, since "prohibition" had provided an unlimited number of well-stocked establishments for easy accessibility of would-be imbibers.

LBJ Wary of China Reappraisal

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson appears to be wary of a senatorial proposal for a blue ribbon commission inquiry into U. S. relations with Communist China.

Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and George S. McGovern, D-S.D., who proposed the policy inquiry in recent Senate speeches have not been able to get any encouragement from the White House.

At the State Department, the word is that Johnson has turned thumbs down on the proposal. But the senators are not giving up hope of an eventual favorable decision.

If it chooses, Congress could set up a commission of recognized national leaders to hold hearings and advise it what to do about lessening tensions with Peking.

★ ★ ★

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is reported favorable to that idea. But Kennedy and McGovern have no present plans to introduce a resolution for such an inquiry.

PRODDED A REVIEW

The two senators are reported to feel that their commission proposal, following the China hearings held by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has prodded the administration into reviewing its policies toward the Peking regime.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has moved toward enlarging unofficial contacts between Communist China and the United States but the State Department says these efforts have been rebuffed by Peking thus far.

Diplomatic contacts continue between the two governments in Warsaw and Rusk publicly has expressed U.S. willingness to sit down with the Chinese to discuss disarmament and nonproliferation of nuclear weapons.

Rusk has said the United States is avoiding the assumption that there will be "unending and inevitable" hostility between the two nations. He has tried to reassure Peking that this country does not intend to attack mainland China.

DEFEND FORMOSA

However, the administration is holding firm to its commitment to defend the Republic of China on Formosa against attack and it continues to work to prevent the expulsion of Nationalist China from the United Nations and to oppose Red China's admission to that body.

Senators interested in finding some way to reopen peaceful contacts with Peking think the first step may have to come in the United Nations. Some of them have suggested a two-China policy, but the administration does not seem interested.

Until the President decides on some policy changes about all the senators can do is keep talking about what they regard as the need for them.

David Lawrence Says:

Vote Fund Plan Fine for Starter

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has sent a communication to Congress urging that the statutes dealing with the financing of political campaigns be strengthened.

He said the existing laws are "obsolete, too narrow and inadequate" and LAWRENCE "invite evasion and circumvention." He declared they must be revised.

The President's message is constructive so far as it goes, especially in recommending that there be "complete public disclosure of campaign funds" by all candidates as well as revelations also by members of Congress of gifts and income.

But the central difficulty is ignored. It is that huge organizations collect money under various kinds of duress and use the funds, in effect, as a means of buying elections.

If ever there was a "conflict of interest," it is in this anomaly.

At present, a national political committee singly cannot raise or spend more than $3 million in any year. But there is no limit on the number of committees that can be created and, as the President says, the federal restriction does not apply at all to committees active in only one state.

Significantly, Mr. Johnson points out that the present law does not limit spending by state committees which incidentally aids federal candidates. This help is given when campaign speeches are made for the party as a whole.

Candidates for federal offices and local nominees benefit from the scene effort and from the boosts that are given at mass meetings to urge the citizen to vote a straight-party ticket.

Then there are the primary contests which have never been covered by federal laws. Yet in many states a nomination won in a primary is equivalent to victory in the final election.

Complete disclosure, however, of who furnishes the money and in what amount will not alone uproot the evils in the present methods of conducting political campaigns.

There will be no real cleanup of the campaign scandals in the United States and no assurance that elections are not being bought until a limit is placed on the amount of money that any organization which is interested in legislation pending in Congress can raise and contribute to political campaigns.

They exert pressure on members of Congress as well as officials of state and city governments to get favorable action on measures in which these organizations usually have a financial interest.

U.S. Gap Called Critical in Manned Space Flight

NEW YORK — We continue to inch forward at the customary velocity of 17,500 m.p.h., except in the case of moon probes and then the speed moves up to 25,000 m.p.h. But the Russians are not standing still by a long shot. They're still out in front.

CONSIDINE

So swears Dr. George E. Mueller, NASA's scholarly manned space flight associate administrator.

"The United States program initiated in 1961 was intended to achieve world preeminence in space by 1970. However, in spite of our tremendous progress, this nation has not been able to close the gap.

★ ★ ★

"The most critical gap that we face is in the area of manned space flight.

HAVE THE CAPABILITY

"The Russians have the capability to adopt many options and their capabilities will soon reach a point where they could expect success in an attempt to land men on the moon.

"In fact, there is more chance today than there was a year ago that they will land on the moon before 1969."

Dr. Mueller's visions were outlined in a speech which he read like a man intoning the inventory of a second-rate shoe store.

★ ★ ★

Despite the wonders he outlined, there was no "fight team fight" in his message when it came to the assessment of Russia's chances.

NO. 1 GAG

This led to the convention's No. 1 gag: "It will take our people four and a half instead of two and a half days to reach the moon. The additional two days will be spent going through Russian customs."

Right now we're only second best, Dr. Mueller says, and leaves us with the thought that we must try harder.

"Our space activities represent the most compelling and dramatic demonstrations of this country's scientific and productive excellence, and portray a picture of a strong, dynamic 'can-do' nation, able to compete with a formidable rival," Dr. Mueller concluded.

"Today, however, the United States is not ahead in this deadly serious competition. It will require a strong and increasing effort to prevent the Soviets from forging ahead as the unchallenged leader in space."

Mother Gives Suggestion on Guideline for Students

There has been much talk about guidelines. This is good. Students of all ages need them as well as grown-ups. One solution would be to have the Ten Commandments printed in large block letters and hung in every schoolroom. Students should learn by memory and be able to recite these commandments, and perhaps take home to parents the full meaning of the commandments.

★ ★ ★

Many tired mothers with jobs outside their homes don't have time to talk to or understand problems of their school age children. Too much pampering and too much TV leave a terrible impression on young minds. Teens need chores to do, responsibilities, and more guidelines to grow up by. Industry should use time and money to help teen-agers find themselves with part-time employment.

Unless car manufacturers can invent instant brains and common sense, and instant "sober-uppers" for the person behind the wheel, I fail to see how the high rate of accidents can be attributed to them.

GOP Gaining Negro Support

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A white liberal who recently sat in on a private meeting of a dozen or so Negro leaders in Michigan says some told him Republican Governor George Romney might capture up to 40 per cent of the Negro vote in a re-election bid this November.

BIOSSAT

Seasoned politicians regard that figure as high and outside, but at least one top Republican thinks Romney could get 30 per cent of Michigan's Negro voters.

This reporter was present in Detroit the first time Romney spoke to a major Negro audience in 1962. As he ticked off his quite genuine civil rights credentials, including acknowledged crucial leadership in a fight to improve Detroit's schools, Negroes hooted at him derisively.

★ ★ ★

That sort of response is seldom heard today. He is widely accepted as the Negro's friend.

Another GOP governor who can reasonably expect to register a substantial Negro vote for himself is Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio, who seeks a second term.

Rhodes, who insists on keeping his political endeavors to a narrow state focus, has received little national attention for the fact that he has sprinkled his administration with Negro appointments and has made Negroes increasingly visible in Ohio's Republican party structure.

In Cuyahoga County, embracing Cleveland, where Negroes are heavily concentrated, Rhodes got 54.5 per cent of the total vote in 1962. He could do even better this time if his share of the Negro vote rises as many leaders anticipate.

There is a certain irony in Rhodes' advancing status with the Negro community, since he was busy telling Republicans at the 1964 GOP national convention in San Francisco that a huge white backlash was developing—to the likely benefit of Barry Goldwater. The backlash turned out to be vastly overrated.

The mounting Negro vote prospects for Rhodes and Romney are simply fresh evidence that the Democrats do not have this vote tied down. As is now well-established, the Negroes in the big-city states are restless. They are clearly ready to move to Republican candidates who show convincing signs of interest in their cause.

The 1965 elections offered the first dramatic turnabout. Mayor John Lindsay of New York took 40 per cent of the Negro vote. Mayor Kenneth Schmeid in Louisville got 55 per cent. Arlen Spectar, winning as district attorney in Philadelphia, gained nearly 30 per cent.

What these Republicans did was no freakish accident. The emotional fire which now invests civil rights issues has frayed the economic bonds which have linked Negroes to the Democratic party since 1936.

★ ★ ★

Indeed, it is fair to say that countless Negroes today see their economic outlook bound up not with government benefits but with a widening horizon for jobs, schooling and housing.

To the extent Democratic state and local governments appear to hold down that horizon, Negroes are ripe for Republican overtures.

The gains evidently in store for Romney and Rhodes contain an unmistakable lesson for others. It is not lost on such an important GOP prospect as U.S. Senate candidate Charles Percy of Illinois, who got just 11 per cent of the Negro total as 1964 governorship nominee but thinks he can do much better.

The Republicans' opportunity is golden. But they badly need many more prime candidates with convincing appeal to a Negro community adrift from its old Democratic anchor.

Graham Hill Official Winner of '500'

First Decision in Dispute Is Upheld Today

Jimmy Clark Second Despite Protest by Scot's Backers

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Official scorers reviewed tapes of electric timing devices this morning and London's mustach loed Graham Hill was officially declared the winner of the Indianapolis 500.

The decision yesterday was disputed by Jimmy Clark of Scotland and thus race officials released standings as unofficial.

The standings were finalized this morning.

Hill and Clark were the first two finishers in the Memorial Day Classic and two of only seven drivers still on the track when the accident-marred race ended.

A massive, flaming pile-up involving 16 of the 33 starters scattered wrecks over the track and sent wheels and parts spraying into the crowd after a mishap on the first turn. Miraculously, only one driver — A.J. Foyt of Houston, Tex. — and 14 spectators received only minor injuries.

FIRST IN U.S.

The 36-year-old Hill, making his first start in America's most prestigious auto race, was declared the winner after the track was cleared and the race restarted with the field trimmed to 22.

Clark's backers were quick to dispute it.

"It is impossible for Hill to be the winner," said Andrew Granatelli of Chicago, a part-owner of Clark's car. "We were a lap ahead of Scot Jackie Stewart and Hill was even farther behind. There's been an error."

EARLY TROUBLES

The tradition-shrouded race was fouled up from the beginning, when No. 1 starter Mario Andretti barely had crossed the starting line in the flying start before Billy Foster of Victoria, B.C., only Canadian in the lineup, collided with Gordon Johncock of Hastings, Mich. Foster said somebody crowded him.

That set off a spectacular chain reaction pile-up which eliminated 11 cars and wiped out such strong contenders as Foyt, Don Branson, Champaign, Ill., and Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif.

★ ★ ★

The race had to be restarted because of an impassable track, delaying the show an hour and 24 minutes. The only other wreck-caused restart was two years ago after drivers Eddie Sachs and Dave MacDonald were killed in a flaming second-lap pile-up.

"We generally do not have these chain reaction type accidents on the Grand Prix circuit, where we begin from a standing start," said Hill, a rookie at Indianapolis but a former world road racing champion.

Of the 22 cars that finally got rolling, four others were eliminated by wrecks of drivers Johnny Boyd, Fresno, Calif.; Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., and a collision of George Snider, Fresno, and Chuck Hulse, Downey, Calif. None was hurt.

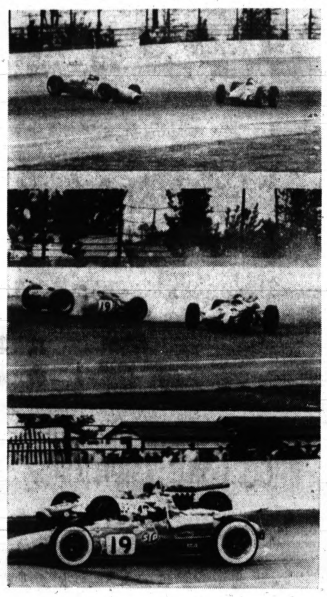

The 11 other failures went out with assorted mechanical troubles, including leaders Andretti, broken valve; Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., oil leak, and Stewart, oil pressure failure.

Ruby made America's best showing. He took the lead from Clark three times in the first three-quarters of the race, twice when the hard-pressed Scot went into spins — both times without hitting anything — and once by outrunning Clark on the mainstretch.

RACING FALLOUT — Flying wheels and debris off cars mixed with the dust to cloud the 16-car pileup at the start of yesterday's 500-Mile race at Indianapolis. Eleven of the cars were beyond repair. A. J. Foyt was the only driver injured. He was treated for a cut hand and bruised knee. Fourteen spectators and one mechanic suffered minor injuries from the flying debris. Seventeen cars participated in the restart and five more joined the field after being repaired.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Hill started his racing career in 1956 after borrowing $14 from a friend to take lessons in racing driving. He was out of work at the time, having quit his job as an instrument manufacturer.

★ ★ ★

Two turns on the track convinced him this was the life — and still with no money behind him he bluffed his way into a part-time job as a racing instructor.

It didn't last long so he became a racing mechanic, hanging around the tracks and looking for a chance.

The opportunity came when he joined the Lotus team of Colin Chapman as a spare driver for Formula Two events — traditionally the nursery cars for up-and-coming Grand Prix aspirants.

First signs of his championship qualities came in 1960, the year he joined BRM. After stalling on the starting grid in the British Grand Prix, he carved his way through the field to take the lead.

Victory seemed certain until, five laps from the end, he spun off the track.

'Not My Fault'

Foster 'Absolves' Self

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Billy Foster, Canadian from British Columbia, was blamed by some drivers Monday for the wreck that eliminated about one-third of the racing field on the first lap of the Memorial Day 500.

Foster, in an interview, said it was not his fault.

He added:

"Someone on my left moved to the outside, and I moved with him, to avoid his hitting me. As I moved over my right rear tire hit Gordon Johncock's front tire. That's what they tell me."

Foster said the first time he knew he was involved in a wreck was when he hit Johncock. He said he was traveling about 140 to 150 miles per hour when he wrecked.

Foster indicated that he will try again to win at Indianapolis next year.

"My chances for winning were really good this year," he said. "My car was running well."

Foster, who ran his first Indianapolis 500 last year, said he will race again Friday night in Grand Rapids, Mich., and again Sunday.

A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., Lotus-Ford, first lap, crash.

Bass Derby Slated

When the "dream bass" is finally landed, a mild case of delirium that usually besets the lucky angler can be excused.

Should an Oakland County fisherman find himself in such a state tomorrow — opening day of the black bass season — he should step off Cloud 9 long enough to enter his catch in The Pontiac Press Big Fish Derby.

A $50 savings bond will be awarded to the fisherman entering the heaviest largemouth or smallmouth black bass caught on opening day. And there's a chance the bass will take overall honors and earn another $50 bond.

The bass must be taken from Oakland County waters to be eligible for either the opening day or full Derby honors. The fish must be caught by a county resident.

Entries for the opening day prize must be brought to The Press sports department for weighing between 7 a.m. and 3 p.m. tomorrow and from 6:30 a.m. to 8 a.m. Thursday.

★ ★ ★

Weight is the only determining factor. Times for entering bass and pike for over-all Derby honors will be 7 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday until the contest ends Sept. 5.

A $50 savings bond will be awarded for the heaviest entry in the pike division. Northern pike, muskellunge and walleyes are eligible.

Gets Banner Headlines

Britain Hails Winner

Wilfrid Andrews, chairman of the Royal Automobile Club, said:

CABLEGRAM

Within minutes of the end of the race, Andrews a sent a cable to Hill and Jim Clark, who came second.

It said: 'Heartiest congratulations on anther outstanding victory on behalf of British motor sport."

"Britons in 1, 2 triumph," said the banner headline in the Daily Expres.

Mrs. Helen Stewart, wife of Jackie Stewart of Scotland who was leading with only eight laps to go when his car stopped, watched the race on closed-circuit television.

She said afterward: "I was so relieved he was not involved in that terrible crash. It was most disappointing that his engine gave out on his so near the end."

Later she telephoned her husband in a Transatlantic call.

Her first words were: "Hard luck darling. When I saw you pushing the car I felt like coming to help you."

Twins' Mele Is Hospitalized

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Manager Sam Mele of the Minnesota Twins was hospitalized Monday with a pain in the calf of his right leg.

Dr. William Proffitt, team physician, said the pain may be a recurrence of phlebitis, which Mele suffered from last winter. Phlebitis is an inflammation of the veins. However, Proffitt said it was more likely that the injury was a pulled leg muscle.

Mele is expected to be hospitalized for two days.

Move Hockey Team

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Rankgers of the National Hockey League have moved their Central League farm club from Minnesota to Omaha, Neb.

A Minnesota franchise will begin operations in the NHL in 1967.

Mexican Netters Win

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico's Davis Cup team completed a 4-1 victory over Argentina Monday in the American Zone semifinals as 18-year-old Luis Garcia and veteran Rafael Osuna won their final singles matches.

Two-Run Double Only Kansas City Hit; Cash Drills Long Homer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — No pitcher in the American League has a better record this season than the Detroit Tigers' Denny McLain.

McLain added insurance to his commanding position with a one-hit victory over the Kansas City Athletics Monday night.

The 5-2 Tigers victory brought his record to eight victories and two losses this season.

TIES SCORE

The score remained tied until the seventh. Then Gates Brown walked and went to third as Don Wert sliced a double to right. Dick McAuliffe delivered both runners with a triple. Cash singled home McAuliffe.

★

Though McLain struck out seven, he had control problems in the game. He walked five men in taking his fifth straight victory against the Athletics.

McLain walked the first two batters he faced in the fifth but escaped more damage when he converted Dick Green's attempted sacrifice into a double play. Green popped the ball up and McLain grabbed it and doubled Larry Stahl at first base.

Chuck Dodson, Kansas City's starting pitcher, was tagged with the loss. He went 6⅓ innings.

Tonight, the Tigers plan to put Bill Monbouquette on the mound against Fred Talbot. Monbouquette has a 3-4 record. Talbot is 2-4.

Most Moves Fractional

Mart Shows Uneven Pattern

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved unevenly early today as trading slackened after a fairly active start.

Most gains and losses were fractional but there was a scattering of wider moves.

* * *

Aerospace issues, displayed little movement. Most electronics were higher although Radio Corp. dropped a fraction. Zenith spurted about 3½.

Eastern Air Lines fell more than a point. Pan American and American Airlines gained fractions.

On Friday The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .4 to 324.7.

* * *

Prices were irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Up nearly 2 were Syntex and O'okiep Copper. Fractional gainers included Westec, Barnes Engineering, Ogden and Mead Johnson. Down slightly were Reliance Insurance, Data-Control Systems and Aurora Plastics.

2 States Enact LSD Controls

California, Nevada First to Regulate Drug

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Nevada and California, which annually rank one and two in national crime rates, yesterday became the first states to enact controls over the dream drug LSD.

★ ★ ★

The action came when Nevada Gov. Grant Sawyer and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown used part of their holiday mornings to sign similar bills into law.

Despite some dispute over which governor signed first — making his state first in the nation — the statutes were generally the same.

Each permits supervised use of LSD but bans other uses, along with sales and possession.

★ ★ ★

Brown said California acted because of evidence showing that the odorless, tasteless and colorless LSD "poses a growing threat to society — particularly to young thrill-seekers unaware of the damage it can do."

CAUSE FANTASY

During legislative hearings in California, medical officials said LSD was one of many so-called "mind-expanding" drugs that cause hallucinations and fantasy.

Police said its use was growing rapidly among college and high school students.

The author of the California law, Republican Sen. Donald Grunsky of Watsonville, said state failure to enact controls was "an open invitation to its use."

★ ★ ★

However, opponents, who nearly killed Grunsky's measure, argued that making LSD illegal would only stimulate youthful use.

In Millbrook, N.Y., Dr. Timothy Leary, a controversial promoter of LSD use, said control laws were "hysterical" and "unrealistic."

Junior Editors Quiz on MUMMIES

QUESTION: Why did the Egyptians make mummies of the dead?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: In very early Egyptian times, dead people were buried right in the sand. The special quality of the hot, dry Egyptian sand preserved such bodies from decay.

It is thought that when the early Egyptians discovered that the bodies they buried did not decay, it gave them the idea they had survived to a life after death.

Then came the further thought that they should provide the dead people with food and various utensils. Graves were made larger for this purpose. But then the air came in, and the bodies decayed.

To prevent this, the Egyptians mummified the dead bodies. The brain and all organs except the heart were removed; they body was soaked in salt and nacron.

Mummies were often enclosed in a coffin (lower right) which was itself carved and painted.

We show some objects found in King Tut's tomb: a dagger and a handsome drinking cup made of alabaster.

Mummies of the kings were often placed deep within huge stone structures such as the pyramids. In many cases, however, robbers broke in and stole the gold and jewels buried with the kings.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: We do not imitate the Egyptian habit of making mummies, but many of our other habits are based on Egyptian customs. Find out more about ancient people and how much they have contributed to our civilization.

Graham, Aides Await Crusade

Will Open Tomorrow in Heart of London

LONDON (AP) — Billy Graham planned to meet with his workers tonight at a dedication service on the eve of his month-long religious crusade in the heart of London.

★ ★ ★

The American evangelist scheduled a 10-minute address to the 2,000 members of the choir, 1,000 ushers and 2,000-3,000 counsellors.

He will wind up the crusade with a rally in 100,000-seat Wembley Outdoor Stadium, the scene of prize fights, Olympic games, greyhound racing, soccer matches and horse shows.

★ ★ ★

The evangelist rested today after a game of golf yesterday that made headlines because he blundered — he looked up while driving.

A PAR FOUR

Graham took a par four on the first hole, but on the second he sliced his drive onto a railway track.

"I looked up," he explained.

His partner was Lindsay Clegg, 84, a British member of the crusade's executive council. His opponents were two American members of the crusade, the Rev. T. W. Wilson and the Rev. Lee Fisher.

★ ★ ★

Results were not revealed.

Mrs. Graham stayed in the clubhouse because she was wearing high heels.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, producer of all U.S. paper currency, has streamlined its public tour to allow close-up views of the entire production line.

Connecticut Schools Will Pool Resources

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — The University of Bridgeport, Fairfield University and Sacred Heart University have agreed to pool their resources in a cooperative educational program.

The 11,700 students in the three schools will be able to enroll in the courses and use the libraries of any of the institutions.

Forest Fire Halted Near West Branch

WEST BRANCH (UPI) — More than 150 fire fighters yesterday battled a day-long forest fire over 1,000 acres about 12 miles north of West Branch.

★ ★ ★

The fire finally was brought under control late in the day after it threatened small oil and natural gas wells in the area.

★ ★ ★

There were no injuries, and the wells were not set afire.

A Message to Our Customers from the Detroit Edison Company

Local 17, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO, representing about 750 of Detroit Edison 9,500 employes called a strike at midnight Monday.

More than 700 of these employes are linesmen and members of field crews — men whose duties during normal operations are the transmission and distribution lines carrying electric energy to our customers in Southeastern Michigan.

Detroit Edison has had favorable relations with the members of this union for over 63 years. The company did its best to reach a reasonable agreement and stands ready to meet with the Union at any time.

Despite the strike, it is the intention of Detroit Edison and our many dedicated employes to continue to render normal electric service that is so essential to the life, safety and employment of our citizens and the economy of the area.

New Star of 'Mame' Finds Failure Leads to Success

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — There's a lot of accident in every success.

Now that Angela Lansbury's been standing-ovationed everywhere for her success in "Mame," it's easy to remember that a few months ago some friends of hers were hoping that she'd get the part. They were afraid she wouldn't.

"She may not be a big enough musical comedy name," one of these friends of her said.

It was suggested that I phone Composer Jerry Herman of "Hello, Dolly!" who was writing the music and lyrics, and ask what he thought about it.

He told me he hoped she got it but he wasn't sure yet.

WILSON

"What happened?" I asked him after the bravos were still ringing through Sardi's and the Rainbow Room after the opening.

The tall, willowy, 41-year-old, British-born blonde seemed to have got her break through a flop, "Anyone Can Whistle."

So maybe she was an accident altogether?

"Not at all," said Jerry Herman. He remembered her singing — and acting—from "Anyone Can Whistle."

"I suggested to Jerry Lawrence and Bob Lee that we get this lady, who was an actress who could sing," he said. There were those who thought that Lucille Ball should play it. But Herman preferred somebody less comedic. "I got together with this lady and taught her one song, 'It's Today.' And—she got the part."

And they were asking in Sardi's whether any show had ever received a standing ovation before.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A businessman said he gives his employes extra vacations: "It's the easiest way to find out which ones I can do without."

EARL'S PEARLS: The worst thing about being prompt is that people think you have nothing else to do.

Singer Bobby Vinton, whose custom-built Cadillac will have a TV set, was asked why a refrigerator will also be included. "Well," he said, "I gotta go somewhere while the commercials are one." . . . That's earl, brother.

Human Error Causes Blast

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. (UPI) — A panel of top-ranking space experts yesterday blamed the failure to reconnect a pressure sensing line for the second-stage explosion of a Saturn rocket Saturday.

The board of inquiry said the failure apparently was a human error.

The preliminary report came after two days of probing into the circumstances surrounding the explosion of a tank on the Saturn's second stage.

NO ASSESSMENT

The board said yesterday it had not attempted yet to assess any possible setback to the U.S. man-to-the-moon program as a result of the blowup.

The second stage test version was destroyed by the explosion. The test stand did not appear to be seriously damaged, the board said.
