

Blasts Out of Earth Orbit

Apollo 8 Craft Heading for Moon

AP Wirephoto

READY TO GO — Apollo 8 astronauts Frank Borman (leading the way), James A. Lovell (behind Borman) and William A. Anders leave a Cape Kennedy building early today on their way to the Saturn 5 rocket that launched them on their journey to the moon at 7:51 a.m.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Reaching into unexplored frontiers, America's Apollo 8 astronauts today soared higher and faster than man has ever flown and set sail across the uncharted ocean of space, aiming for a Christmas Eve orbit of the moon.

Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders became the first humans to escape the grasp of earth's gravity as a jolting rocket blast hurled them out of earth orbit and sent them toward man's first voyage in the vicinity of the moon.

As they broke away from earth's hold, Apollo 8 set a new altitude record for manned space flight, shattering the 851 miles mark set in 1966 by the Gemini 11 pilots.

The power was provided by the third stage of the Saturn 5 super-rocket that had pushed Apollo 8 into space with an earth-shaking roar at 7:51 a.m. EST.

SEE ENGINE FIRING

Ground trackers at a station in Hawaii reported they had actually seen the engine firing as it propelled Apollo 8 outward toward the moon. The firing occurred over Hawaii in darkness.

"You're on your way—you're really on your way now!" flight director Chris Kraft radioed the astronauts after the successful burn.

"Roger, we look good here," Borman replied.

For nearly three hours, Borman, Lovell and Anders had circled the globe checking and rechecking their systems, making certain all were functioning before they were committed to a potentially hazardous quarter-million-mile journey across the trackless void where man has never ventured.

GIVEN GO-AHEAD

They reported Apollo 8 was perfect and the Mission Control/Center gave them the go-ahead to take the historic step that propelled them toward the moon, the alluring first frontier in man's exploration of space.

The third stage had provided the final push to drill Apollo 8 into earth orbit, and the 38-foot long section remained attached for the nearly two orbits that the astronauts checked the systems.

At 10:41 a.m. EST the third stage was restarted a second time and during a five-minute burst it increased Apollo's speed from about 17,400 to 24,200 miles per hour, the velocity needed to escape the influence of earth's gravity.

Half an hour after the firing, the third stage separated from the spacecraft and Commander Borman turned Apollo 8 around and flew formation with the spent stage for a short period.

LINK-UP

During a manned landing on the moon mission, the Apollo craft will have to fly up to the burned out stage and link up with a lunar module stowed on top of it. The lunar module is the taxi that would carry two astronauts to the surface of the moon.

The Apollo 8 third stage later was to fly off on a separate path that was to take it into endless orbit around the sun.

Tight Security for Korea Talks

SEOUL (AP) — The Korean truce village of Panmunjom was under a tight security lid today amid reports that 62 crew members of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo might be released tomorrow or Monday.

The South Korean Christian Broadcasting System reported that the United States and North Korea held their 28th private meeting today to settle final details of the men's release.

Quoting unidentified diplomatic sources, the radio station said that if everything goes well at today's meeting, the crewmen would be freed tomorrow or Monday. It said both sides already have reached general agreement on the release and would not have much difficulty in working out the final procedural details.

The Seoul newspaper Kyunghyang Shinmun, which correctly predicted two meetings early this week, published a story similar to the radio report.

U.S. military and diplomatic officials, however, refused to comment on the progress of the negotiations or on where, when and how the Pueblo crew might be released.

But a high government source in Washington said North Korea had agreed to free the men and that he would not rule out the possibility that the American sailors would be on their way home by Christmas.

Panmunjom was closed to newsmen. A U.S. Army information officer in Seoul said permits to visit the village in the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea normally are not difficult to obtain, but, when he submitted a foreign correspondent's application today, he said he received "one of the flattest no's I've had in a long time."

The official explanation for the ban was that the Army's armistice division was concerned about security of civilians in Panmunjom due to recent incidents in the truce zone.

John Steinbeck Is Dead at 66

NEW YORK (AP) — John Steinbeck, winner of the 1962 Nobel Prize for literature, is dead at age 66. "The Grapes of Wrath," his compassionate portrayal of migrant workers during the Depression, won the 1940 Pulitzer Prize.

Steinbeck died in his sleep at his Manhattan home last evening of heart and respiratory failure. He had been in failing health for some time and had moved into the city from his country home in Sag Harbor on Long Island.

His literary output included 24 works of fiction but it was the one novel, "The Grapes of Wrath," that secured his reputation in the pantheon of American letters.

Steinbeck is survived by his third wife, the former Elaine Scott; and two sons by a previous marriage, Thom, 24, on leave from service in Vietnam, and John, 22, currently a civilian writer in Vietnam.

A funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at St. James Episcopal Church here. The remains will be cremated and taken to Salinas for burial.

Entombed Three Nights, Kidnaped Coed Is Freed

KIDNAP VICTIM GOES HOME—Barbara Jane Mackie, 20, who was released in Georgia yesterday after kidnappers kept her entombed for 80 hours, is escorted to a private plane last night by her father (left).

Bob Hope Reports:

Girls Get an Eye-Opener

By BOB HOPE
SEOUL, South Korea — This is the story of 12 little girls, uncommonly pretty, perhaps, and blessed with grace, but to the aging eye, painfully normal in their girlishness.

They twinner a lot, forming small groups with constantly shifting members. Their placid notes are a "running river of harmless merriment," for they're off on a great adventure and the excitement of the moment has taken hold.

The girls are professional entertainers, bound for Southeast Asia with us. They're known, for some unfathomable reason, as "The Goldiggers," although they're far removed from the early Ginger Rogers, Glenda Farrell, Joan Blondell school of practical-minded, smart-talking, hip-swinging chorines who related from their Busby Berkeley routines by entertaining big butter-and-egg men from the Midwest.

These are a wide-eyed dozen, barely out of their teens, who would make Nellie Forbush look like Bloody Mary. During the long, long 17-hour haul from Burbank to beautiful downtown Tokyo via gooney-bird-infested Midway Island, they sprawled, oh, how they sprawled.

In knots of three they sat intertwined in a Dalesque profusion of arms and legs, oblivious to the hissing of the jet

Winter Is Greeted With Little Fanfare

Winter arrived today with little fanfare, with temperatures mild and skies mostly cloudy. The outlook for the weekend is damp, dark and dismal.

Here is the official U.S. Weather Bureau day-by-day forecast:

TODAY — Mostly cloudy with little temperature change, the high 32 to 35. Tonight cloudy and a little warmer with chance of rain late tonight, low 30 to 34.

TOMORROW — Light rain and warmer, high 39 to 44.

MONDAY — Light snow or snow flurries and colder.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are today, 30 tonight and 80 tomorrow.

MIAMI (AP) — Kidnap victim Barbara Jane Mackie returned to her parents today after she was freed from a box in which she was buried for more than three nights in the red clay of freezing North Georgia woodlands. Her parents paid a $500,000 ransom.

The 20-year-old coed told her mother that during the more than 80 hours she was in the box she worried most that her family was worrying about her.

An escaped convict and his woman companion charged with the kidnaping remained at large.

Barbara's ordeal ended about 5 p.m. yesterday. The girl still wore the red and white checkered nightgown she had on when kidnaped. A sweater from some unknown source was added.

KIDNAPERS' SECRET

The kidnappers gave the word where Barbara could be found about 5 p.m., some 15 hours after retrieving a suitcase full of $20 bills from a shopping center on Miami's Tamiami Trail.

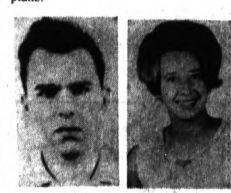

When the noon deadline for the girl's release had passed with no word of her safety, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced that kidnap warrants had been issued for Gary Steve Krist, 23, an escaped convict from California, and Ruth Eiseemann Schier, 26.

Both were researchers at the University of Miami Institute of Marine Science.

Hoover said the box in which the debutante was imprisoned near Atlanta was equipped with an air pump, food, water, a fan and a battery-powered lamp that failed hours before she was located. The lid of the box was screwed down and flexible vent pipes protruded through the soil.

Barbara told her brother the kidnappers "were very considerate" and she told her mother she was "very well taken care of by a woman," Barbara's uncle said.

Once rescued, Barbara was taken into seclusion aboard her father's private plane.

GOP-Dem Division on Board Widening

By JEAN SAILLE

A split between Democrats and Republicans over the salary and functions of the new Oakland County Board of Supervisors is widening.

Republicans elected to the new board have agreed they want no part of a Democratic plan to form a blue-ribbon citizens advisory study committee to determine salaries.

The 12 Republican members of the board have fixed on the neighborhood of $5,000 per year plus $25 per meeting as a suggested pay rate for supervisors.

When representatives of the two caucuses met yesterday, Republicans presented their views to the board's Democratic majority. The Democrats are to meet tomorrow to review the Republican position and name their chairman and vice chairman nominees.

WHAT ABOUT PLEDGES?

Robert Patnales, Republican caucus leader, said it was the opinion of his party that the citizens' committee to recommend salaries would be reneging on campaign statements made by many Republicans and even some Democrats.

Behind the salary controversy is the larger question of what functions the new board should have.

Shall it remain as a policy-making organization or take an active share in the administration of county government?

Some Democrats believe it should move to the latter position — that board members should expect to devote most of their time to the job—and that by so doing taxpayers would have immediate recourse to a voted representative should problems arise.

POLICY-MAKING ROLE

The Republicans reportedly believe in adhering to policy-making programs as in the past but "reworking the organizational structure and work load of the new board to streamline its efficiency... to allow its fewer members to make policy for, and give counsel to, one of the finest county governments in the nation on a bipartisan basis."

McDonald Sets Up ABM Site Briefing

A briefing will be held at 11 a.m. Monday for area citizens and officials who have expressed concern about the possible location in the Pontiac area of a Sentinel antiballistic missile base.

Called by Congressman Jack McDonald, R-18th District, the briefing will be held at the Holiday Inn, 1801 S. Telegraph, Bloomfield Township.

McDonald said a contingent of Army officials, including Col. Robert C. Marshall, director of site acquisition for the Sentinel program, will be on hand to answer questions.

Educators from Oakland University and representatives of the Oakland County Medical Society also will attend, according to McDonald.

The congressman said he has invited all of those people who have contacted him about the potential of a missile base being located in the area.

New U.N. Ambassador Not as Political as Predecessors

By MAX HARRELSON
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Twice cast as top aide to the chief U.S. representative to the United Nations, Charles W. Yost is about to step into the leading role but without the political views of his predecessors.

Although Yost is a Democrat, his political activity as far as his friends know has been limited to a brief stint as adviser to President Hubert H. Humphrey during the campaign.

He is the first career diplomat to be appointed chief delegate and, at 61, he is not expected to begin to advance himself politically.

The job would have been made to order for a man like Sargent Shriver who confirmed Friday that President-elect Nixon had sounded him out about it.

SHRIVER CONTENT

But Shriver, who praised Yost and said he was "sure he will do a good job," is continuing as U.S. ambassador in Paris. He said he was "delighted at the prospect of staying on here and being the history of his predecessors, even though some of them do our best for the improvement of French-American relations."

Yost's predecessors at the United Nations included a former presidential nominee, a former secretary of state, a former Supreme Court justice and two U.S. senators.

News Analysis

Yost served under two of them, Adlai E. Stevenson and Arthur J. Goldberg, and often sat in as their deputy.

His role in shaping policy of the Nixon administration will be closely watched for he is the first chief delegate since Warren R. Austin, 1946-53, to belong to a party different from that of the administration. Austin, a Republican senator from Vermont, was appointed by President Harry S. Truman.

PAST AS PROLOGUE

No one will be surprised if Yost fails to win a major voice in policy-making since that has been the history of his predecessors, even though some of them had semiofficial Cabinet status.

Even such influential figures as Henry Cabot Lodge, Stevenson and Goldberg were deeply disappointed over their inability to mold policy decisions. Stevenson and Goldberg were especially embarrassed by having to defend U.S. Vietnam policies with which they disagreed.

The first to learn that the U.S. delegation was not a "Little State Department" was Austin. He came close to resigning in anger late in 1947 when Truman announced the U.S. recognition of Israel without informing Austin, who was at the moment urging U.N. delegates to maintain the existing situation in the Middle East.

U.N. Assembly Winding Up 23rd Session

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly today winds up its 23rd session, dominated by debate on the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia, a limited disarmament proposal and a black African attempt to penalize South Africa for its policy of apartheid.

The Soviet action in Eastern Europe, though not up for consideration on the agenda, overshadowed the general policy debate and the discussion of most political issues before the assembly.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko made plain in his policy speech that the Kremlin wants a free hand to do what it likes in Eastern Europe and considers the thrust into Czechoslovakia an internal matter.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk denounced the move in a speech before the assembly. He later told newsmen, "This has thrown a cloud over the considerations of the United Nations."

College Refuses to Assist Student Editor

ALLENDALE (AP) — The Grand Valley State College Board of Control has denied a request for help in defending the editor of the student newspaper who is charged with publishing obscene literature.

James Wasserman, 21, of Muskegon, is editor of the Lantern, which came under severe criticism in November for allegedly printing obscene stories. Ottawa County prosecutor James Bussard was instrumental in serving an injunction against the college to halt publication of the paper.

In a six-page prepared statement read at a news conference Friday, L. William Seidman, chairman, said the board "agrees that the Lantern violated the standards of good taste and was not in conformity with Grand Valley State College's educational ideals."

"This board has been requested to seek ways to provide legal and financial assistance in defense of the criminal action of the editor for the Lantern. We must deny this request."

"NOT PROPER"

"In the board's opinion, this is not a proper use of public funds. The editor should realize that with freedom goes responsibility and that those who ask for freedom from restraint must be prepared to accept the consequences."

Although the Lantern violated the college's standards, Seidman noted, it was regrettable that the Ottawa County authorities acted without prior notice. Otherwise, he said, it would have learned the college was taking appropriate and orderly action to improve the newspaper.

Displeasure with the paper was also indicated through a questionnaire answered by 967 of the some 2,000 students at the four-year college.

Flu, Weather Cool Yule Sales

Pace Still Tops 1967; 'Peace Toys' Gaining

By the Associated Press
Flu outbreaks and warm weather have put a damper on Christmas buying in some Michigan stores, but not enough to keep sales from running ahead of last year.

That was the consensus from an Associated Press survey of 1968 Christmas buying trends at department and chain stores across the state.

Meanwhile, merchants reported significant changes in the kinds of toys appealing to shoppers' eyes.

So-called "peace toys" — as opposed to traditional "war" toys such as guns — were reported selling very well.

"SOUL" DOLLS
And enthusiasm was running high in Negro communities for "soul" dolls. White shoppers also have bought many of the Negro dolls.

Over-all Christmas sales were reported running about six to seven per cent ahead of last year. Occasional stores reported increases ranging to 16 or 18 per cent.

Analysts for the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce pegged Christmas sales at six to seven per cent higher than last year, attributing the gain to increased personal income and the high rate of employment.

Harry Kresge, public relations director for S. S. Kresge and K-Mart stores, said that sales were "maybe 16 to 18 per cent ahead" of last season.

SALES GAIN
Officials of J. L. Hudson Co., the Detroit-area department store chain which is the largest in Michigan, found a sales gain of seven to eight per cent.

Retailing experts predicted a modest growth rate of five to six per cent in 1969.

"Christmas sales have been affected only by the flu," said Roy Erickson, public relations director of J. L. Hudson. "With four colleges closed and 26 per cent absenteeism in Detroit schools, most mothers who would be shopping are home taking care of their children."

Kresge said most kinds of merchandise were selling well in K-Mart and Kresge stores but "We've had an extra mild winter in Michigan, and it has hurt sales probably two per cent because it's too warm. It has hurt sales of warm clothing — people have put off buying warm clothing until we get the winter bite."

COLOR TV
Color television sets were among the sales pace-setters in so-called "big ticket" items. "Fashion goods were enjoying a high demand."

But the Board of Commerce experts found that "Toy sales are soft."

"There has been a noticeable decline in parental interest and enthusiasm for toys of violence," the J. L. Hudson official said.
Kresge said he had found toy sales unaffected by the antiwar sentiment, although his firm deliberately played down guns and other toys of destruction in its advertising.
Inventories and stock deliveries at all big stores reported in the survey were contacted as heavy enough to meet demand.

Christmas Greeting From Your Carrier

I am one of the 1,047 newspaper boys who during the course of a year deliver nearly 25 million copies of The Pontiac Press to 80,000-plus customers.

It's a pretty big job, but being a part of it gives me a lot of satisfaction. The papers must be delivered promptly and distributed with regard for protection against the weather and convenience of subscribers.

Sure, there are days when a newspaperboy has to contend with foul weather, sometimes hostile dogs, and when he is not feeling up to snuff and would much rather be comfortably at home.

But, like those of the postal service and others upon whom the public depends for regular and reliable service, carriers feel the obligation due their subscribers and strive always to fulfill it.

Although the weather during the Holiday Season can be pretty rough, I get a special kick from delivering my paper route during this time of year. You can feel the Christmas spirit in the air and within the homes of subscribers. And the bright lights and decorations on houses add a festive touch.

The Press and I are glad to have you as a subscriber. We can't personally wish each of you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, so we'll call this copy of your paper our greeting card.

Norman Thomas

NORMAN THOMAS, once America's most articulate champion of Socialism, is dead at 84.

An ardent foe of capitalism, it was, ironically, the wealth that his wife brought to their marriage that enabled the social evangelist to devote his time and efforts to advocacy of his economic beliefs.

THOMAS had for seven years been pastor of a Presbyterian parish in East Harlem when he was attracted by the Socialist Party's stand against World War I. Then 33, he resigned his parish and went to Washington to work with the American Union Against Militarism.

THOMAS

Thereafter he staged six unsuccessful campaigns for the presidency and failed in tries for the governorship of New York and the mayoralty of New York City as he crusaded on behalf of labor, a more equitable distribution of national wealth (as he saw it) and against warfare. In the course of his embattled career, he wrote 15 books and was frequently embroiled in demonstrations on the side of workers and pacifism.

THOMAS, however, was not a rabble rouser in the modern meaning of the term. A polished speaker and a felicitous writer in pushing his objectives, he abjured violence and lawlessness in furtherance of them.

Although his views were considered irrational and impractical by the majority of his contemporaries, it is nonetheless true that many of his less revolutionary social precepts have come into legislative reality.

NORMAN THOMAS was true to his beliefs, and spent his life in pursuit of them. On the premise that there is a place in a democracy for sincere and peaceable dissenters, history will duly record his idealism.

Risks Neck by Blaming Women for Youth Revolt

English satirist C. NORTHROP PARKINSON has put his finger on the source of the youth revolt in America. It's all the fault of women.

The campus revolution traces directly back to the feminine revolution, he says. "Women demanded the vote and equality and ceased to submit to the control of their husbands.

In the process, they began to lose control of their own children."

PARKINSON is famous as the author of "Parkinsons Laws," poking fun at bureaucracy and other aspects of modern life. When the women learn about his new theory, however, it will be PARKINSON's turn to learn about another, very ancient, law—the law of survival.

Budget Bureau Report Is Bad News

BY EVERETT DIRKSEN

In these colder, stormier, sometimes gloomier days of December, we think rather sadly of a day last summer. July 30 was a good day weather wise, but not otherwise.

The flags were not at half staff on that day. Perhaps they should have been. There was no anguish outcry heard in Washington or elsewhere, but perhaps there should have been. There were no big, bold headlines mentioning that particular day as a day of importance, or a day to remember. There should have been.

It was on that day that the Budget Bureau, which is a fiscal arm of the President, released the budget figures for the fiscal year, which is the government's official year for bookkeeping purposes — in this case, the fiscal year of 1969 that began on July 1, 1967, and ended on June 30, 1968.

The books were now closed, and the score was totaled up and the news was not good. It showed that for that year the United States had spent $25.4 billion more than it took in from all sources.

It meant that for still another year we had been living on the cuff, that we had to borrow that much money to pay our bills, that we had to issue bonds, notes and bonds to get the money to pay the bills. It meant that we had to add those borrowings to our national debt, a debt steadily climbing that probably all too soon will reach the $400 billion mark.

And there is an item of interest on that debt that cannot be forgotten. The interest charge should now be about $1.33 billion every 30 days.

Let's do some figuring. In a year the United States spends X dollars and takes in Y dollars from all sources. If X is greater than Y, we are in a fix, aren't we? We are short!

Have you ever been short? When the government is short, it is easy. It borrows. The only limit on its borrowing is what Congress imposes. But Congress can increase that limit year after year. So we spend X, take in Y and get Z. Z stands for $25.4 billion in the red. You, the taxpayers, not only owe the debt, you own it. Now where is the United States going to get the money to pay this $25.4 billion? It is short in order to pay its bills? From you. The Treasury Department sells bills, notes and bonds to banks, insurance companies, mutual funds and other financial institutions.

Where do you think those financial institutions get the money to buy these U.S. obligations? Why, from your bank and savings deposits, your insurance premiums. Perhaps you never thought that you both owed and owned that huge public debt.

There is another aspect to it that is very painful. The money borrowed to pay the bills goes into the spending stream of the country.

The spending stream makes inflation. You may think that prices have gone up, but actually they have not in a certain sense. The buying clout of the dollar has gone down.

In every store where you buy, you pay more and more for any item as time goes on. So you get caught twice by the federal deficit: once when your money is used to buy the public debt, and the second time when you pay through the nose for what you purchase at the corner store. THE CHRISTMAS STORY

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour which is Christ the Lord and this shall be a sign unto you; ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger." (Luke 2, 11-12)

These words have been said in many tongues and drawn in pictures of many cultural traditions. They are old but forever new. Let us pray that the spirit of Christmas, the spirit of love and giving be reborn in all the world this Christmas eve.

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

Confident Living:

Wondrous Mystery of Christmas

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

A mysterious and wondrous phenomenon of the Christmas Season is the way everything and everyone seems changed.

It is as though a magic wand were waved over this strident world — and over men's hearts. A strange, ineffable, sort of lifting joyousness seems to pervade the air. DR. PEALE

DR. PEALE says that yesterday seemed unattractive suddenly becomes beautiful. It is the old-time exciting miracle of Christmas.

On a mid-December morning my wife and I were walking along Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles. At a busy intersection I noticed a hippie standing astride a bicycle waiting for a traffic light change. Now I have seen hippies and hippies, but the looks of this one out-hopped all others. He was wearing a long dirty robe fastened at waist by a cord with tassels. His hair was long and shaggy; feet bare except for dirty sandals.

Now personally I do not go for unkemptness and the no-bath policy. They repel me. "Just look at that character!" I muttered to my wife. And I proceeded to enlighten her on my opinion of the likes of him.

My wife is a philosopher of sorts and she responded mildly. "Oh, maybe he's just trying to find himself."

"Well, he sure is going at it wrong," I said. And I'm afraid there was plenty of aversion in my voice.

We were now quite close to the man. I was staring coldly at him. My look doubtless showed my disapproval. He turned his head and met my gaze. And he gave me one of the most beautiful smiles I ever saw. It was gentle, kind and loving. It winged its way right into my heart.

I smiled back. I don't know what sort of a smile mine was, for he had taken me by surprise. But my attitude had suddenly changed. There was good will going out from me to him. Not a word was said. Just a smile between two human beings, with good will flowing in both directions.

I walked on, remorse mingled with good will. I felt better about unlikely people. Then came some understanding: We human beings are not all alike, nor was it ever in the scheme of things that we should be. Each of us has his own individuality. Different people search for truth in different ways. Who am I to expect everyone to go at things the same way as I would?

If only we could peg ourselves to the mutual tolerance and good feeling that takes hold of us at Christmastime! If somehow we could hold it and live on this high wavelength all through the year! Why can't we? Well, maybe we just aren't big enough. But that we do have within us what it takes to make ourselves that big can hardly be doubted. Were we not taught that man is created in God's image? And that being so, we have plenty of potential yet to draw upon.

The basic meaning of Christmas can, I think, be very simply stated. It was announced in prophecy before the birth of Christ. He would be called Emmanuel, said the prophet, meaning God-with-us. The message of Christmas is that our Creator is not a vengeful God, nor indifferent and unconcerned. He is a loving God. He loves you no matter what you do and is always present to comfort, strengthen or enlighten whenever His help and guidance are asked.

No wonder, then, that Christmas brings so much joy. "The supreme happiness of life," says Victor Hugo, "is the conviction that we are loved."

By developing and practicing love toward each other we get in tune with life—and that makes you real happy deep inside. Otherwise we get out of harmony and grow superior, even hating — griping about life itself — you are building inner walls which shut happiness out.

But it is possible to work out of that dead end by practicing love and good will toward everybody.

Voice of the People:

'Actions of One Student Shouldn't Reflect on All'

I have a son who is now a senior at Oakland University and I resent the reflections cast upon the student body by Senator Huber. The vast majority of the students at this University and others across this great country are hard-working, serious students. The manner in which material is presented to them by their instructors is part of the education process. Each student is on his own and must ferret out the grain from the chaff. Their term papers reflect their maturity and broadening perspectives as each semester is accomplished.

Has anyone bothered to ask what the engineering students just did in recognition of the fine work of Professor Richard R. Shank? Has anyone bothered to ask students in the various dormitories about their fierce loyalties to each other? For one incident to be blown up into the proportions this one has been is really ludicrous.

Just as every neighborhood, every school, every organization has some "way out" member, such a member of Oakland's student body was Lee. Someone might casually ask, "And what has Lee done today?" It is insidious to pull one item out of complete context and make it an issue which reflects on several thousands. Lee should be disciplined, but to punish the whole University is reverting back to old prison-type tactics of punishment of all for the folly of one. Any investigating team will find Oakland University really quite a model institution with far more strengths than weaknesses.

'Appreciate Response to Christmas Project'

Because of the fine publicity given the Clarkson Area Jaycees project "Smokes for the Boys in Vietnam," the response was overwhelming, both in donations and names of servicemen. The collections in canisters placed throughout our community during November amounted to $434. We received the names of 31 servicemen in Vietnam. Because we had previously committed to send a case of cigarettes at $27.50 to the company of each name we received, we have done just that. For all 31 boys in Vietnam, this represented a total cost of $862.50 with the balance drawn from our treasury.

REPLY

Dan Murphy, Chairman of the County Board of Auditors, says the County offices will remain there until the County takes over the Intermediate School Buildings. Courts will probably move about March 1, the rest in April, except O.E.O. and Central Clothing Stores Division, which are indefinite.

Washington Notebook:

D.C. Is Governed From Suburbs

By NOEL GROVE

NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—One Washington week calls them the Viet Congress.

They are, he says, the nation's lawmakers who lie back in the safety of the suburbs by night and infiltrate the District of Columbia by day to strike at the city. Daygates include the crippling of capital subway construction plans, denying new formulas for general municipal operating funds and refusal to negotiate home rule.

Congress keeps its hand firmly on the purse strings of this city of 600,000. As house-hunting runs rampant with the influx of new governmental personnel, a move is under way urging them to live in Washington so they can experience and understand its problems.

Its problems are exactly the reasons most of the 1,600 congressmen and staff members moving here will likely take up residence in nearby Maryland or Virginia. Most newcomers would rather fight commuting traffic than risk the urban front lines, with its law and order issue.

It's bad enough to be under fire on the Hill every day, they say, without being denied R and R in the suburbs by night.

A minor war of words has erupted. Three House members wrote letters urging new members to settle in Washington. Rep. Joel T. Broyhill (R-Va.), who lives in the suburbs, retaliated by assuring new colleagues that "you need not live in the District of Columbia in order to perform your constitutional obligations to it."

Last week President-elect Richard Nixon got into the act by indicating support of settling in the District. After all, he will, albeit with iron fence and the Secret Service.

But nobody will be surprised if the big move is to the suburbs, giving Washington residents fuel for more complaints about their absentee controllers and sarcastic lines about the "Viet Congress."

Negotiating for a home in suburban safety may assure new lawmakers a niche of graceful domesticity, but capital residents question whether it's a just and honorable peace.

Promise of the Prophets—3

Persecuted Jeremiah Speaks Out

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the third article in a five-part Christmas series about the Old Testament prophets who looked forward to a coming Messiah. By GEORGE W. CORNELL, AP Religious Writer

Brutal, lacerated and thigh-deep in mud at the bottom of an empty cistern, Jeremiah waited for the end. "They flung me alive into the pit," I am told, says his Book of Lamentations. "Men dogged our steps . . . our days were numbered."

The aged prophet had been beaten and dumped into the deep stone shaft to die, about 587 B.C., for condemning the slanders and charges of treason, as a menace to national defense and security.

"Let this man be put to death, for he is weakening the hands of the soldiers," demanded the chauvinistic courtiers who had ordered armed mobilization against the Babylonian forces of Chaldeans. It had become the world's new ominous colossus of the East in 512 B.C., crushing the Assyrian empire which had dominated the area for nearly a century, and in rapid order, making Egypt, Judah and other states subject to it.

URGED INTEGRITY
Through the vicissitudes of imperial overrule, first by Assyria, then briefly by Egypt and now by Babylonia, Jeremiah for almost 40 years had urged internal moral and religious integrity as Judah's only hope.

"Amend your ways and 'our doings,'" he had pleaded, and the nation shall endure. "Messed up, but otherwise, 'shall become a desolation . . . a lair of jackals . . . this city shall be burned with fire.'"

It was an appalling insight, but one that could apply to any desperately sick society plunging into depression, distrust, strife and dissolution.

"Behold, evil is going forth from nation to nation, and a great tempest is stirring," the great prophet said, bringing back mass repousoir to the ends of the depravity.

"The harvest is past, the summer is ended and we are not saved," Jeremiah grieved. "Is there no balm in Gilead? Is there no physician there?"

With a crowd of sympathizers, he staged a demonstration outside the city walls, breaking a clay flask into bits to dramatize the fate facing Jerusalem. Then, standing in related in the books of the Temple inner court, he declared that Judah's debauchery would bring its destruction by Babylon.

PROPHET FLOGGED
An officer had the prophet flogged and locked in stocks in the Benjamin Gate as a public enemy.

Released next day, he continued his unrestrained criticisms, assailing Judah's military alliance with Egypt against Babylon. Officials seized him, "You shall die!" He was put on trial for treason.

Another prophet, Uriah, already had been executed for similar warnings of a military catastrophe.

Jeremiah was let off tame, he agonized at one point, porarily under surveillance.

"I have become a laughingstock Barred from the Temple . . . a reproach and derision all precincts, he dictated a scathing sermon to his amanuensis, the walls and the city swept But he was again imprisoned, Baruch, and had him read it publicly.

Aides to King Jehoiakim seized the manuscript and delivered it to him. He read the scroll, and burned it. "Sete Baruch the secretary and Jeremiah the prophet," he ordered.

FLED INTO HIDING
The pair fled into hiding. "Voe is me . . . a man of strife and contention to the whole land!" Jeremiah sorrowed. "All of them curse me . . . waiting for my fall . . ."

In 605 B.C., four years after Egypt overcame Judah, Egypt itself was overwhelmed by Babylon in the Battle of Carchemish, making Babylonia the master of the Middle East, from the Nile to the Euphrates rivers.

When Judah's King Jehoiakim launched resistance against new conqueror, Jeremiah himself was overwhelmed by Babylonians, sending his forces into Jerusalem, sending its leading artisans and king into captivity.

Jeremiah urged the newly installed ruler, Zedekiah, to concentrate on peaceful social reform. "Do justice . . . deliver from the hand of the oppressor him who has been robbed."

MOURNS SURRENDER
Zedekiah wavered, finally giving in to the war planners. Jeremiah mourned, "They have healed the wound of my people lightly, saying 'Peace, Peace,' when there is no peace."

He was cast into a dungeon, but later removed to a guard house on instructions of the king, who continued consulting him.

When a royal order freeing Jerusalem's slaves went unforced and ignored, Jeremiah thundered:

"Thus says the Lord: You have not obeyed his by proclaiming liberty, everyone to the land. As a result, he said, the country would be subjected to sword, famine and the horror of Babylon's forces which would 'burn it with fire.'"

Soon afterward, with Babylon's troops pounding at

The stone covering on the cistern was pushed aside, and the light poured in. A black Ethiopian slave, named Ebedmelech, lowered ropes to Jeremiah and pulled him out.

"O Lord . . . To Thee shall the nations come, from the ends of the earth." He "who scattered" will gather and keep His people "as a shepherd keeps his flock."

Captains Are Behind Brazil Power Struggle

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A power struggle is being waged in Brazil's armed forces and behind it all are reaching Buenos Aires from "captains with knives in their teeth"—bitter about low pay and inflation while politicians inexperienced but extremely naive up fortunes. Some in Brazil doubt President Arthur da Costa e Silva can hold on.

According to information from Buenos Aires from Brazil—where censorship is in force—the young captains are under control while Brazil's economy is still plagued by inflation. They feel that Gen. Juan Carlos Onganía, head of Argentina's military government who ousted Brazil's 1964 military revolt but outstripped it, had the right idea when he completely restructured the nation's political system.

Now these Brazilian captains are pushing their immediate commanders—the two-star generals—to see that Brazil catches up with the Argentine counterparts. They want reforms in their own ranks.

The pay for a Brazilian army captain with a wife and four children is the cruzeiro equivalent of about $210 a month. Thus they become enraged when they watch politicians—many of them corrupt—become rich almost overnight.

It is these captains, particularly those in the powerful 1st Army in Rio de Janeiro, who are believed to have put the steam behind the move last weekend for overtime army Marshal Costa e Silva to assume extraordinary powers.

IN THEIR OWN HANDS Tremendous pressures are only to avoid civil war and being brought to bear against Costa e Silva to tighten up the Brazilian grain.

Jersey Mafia Probe Near

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — A "strike force" of federal agents will move into New Jersey to investigate Mafia activities.

Sources in the U.S. Justice Department in Washington said Thursday the task force, composed of agents and attorneys from at least six agencies, will delve into underworld activities throughout northern New Jersey.

Its headquarters will be in Newark.

Similar teams have struck at organized crime in Brooklyn, Detroit, Chicago, Philadelphia, Miami and Buffalo, N.Y., with reported good results. The Newark probe has been planned for more than a year.

COMPLETE FACTS

The investigators, working out of private offices to be opened in Jan. 6 in the Federal Building, will complete intelligence on the eight Mafia "families" reported to be operating in the state and then single out individuals for arrest.

A staff of attorneys from the Justice Department's organized crime and racketeering section will be joined in the unit by handpicked agents of the FBI, Secret Service, Federal Bureau of Narcotics, Naturalization and Immigration Service, Internal Revenue Service and the Alcohol Tax and Tobacco unit.

U.S. Special Atty. James Featherstone will head the unit. Justice Department sources said the strike force was not specifically assigned to investigate charges that state legislators are "too comfortable with the underworld," nor recent allegations by a national magazine that Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N.J., was "a tool of the underworld."

Shift in Focus of Engineers' Talents Seen

By Science Service

A shift in the engineer's orientation toward solving social problems and a move to bring more women into the professions is foreseen by Russell R. O'Neill, associate dean of the UCLA engineering school.

Once the Vietnam war ends, American engineers will focus their talents more on domestic problems than on space or ocean technology, says Dr. O'Neill.

Working with experts in other fields, "the engineer can help solve almost any social problem," the dean predicts. He can develop low-cost kidney machines, germ-free recovery rooms, burglarproof cars and homes, urban transportation networks and low-cost housing.

Young British Actress Involved With Fast Company

NEW YORK — Anna Calder-Marshall is a young English actress who does not seem overawed at making her American television debut in the company of such actors as the Lawrence Olivier, Sean Connery, Michael Caine and Paul Scofield.

In a three-part play called "Male of the Species," she plays Connery's daughter in the first segment and has affairs with Caine and Scofield in the second and third. Olivier is host and narrator.

"People said to me, golly, it must be great to work with Sean Connery or Michael Caine, but I didn't want to look at it that way," she said. "I played to the parts, not the men."

She admitted, "At first I was very nervous. I didn't know what they'd be like. But each helped me very much. I loved working with Scofield. It's like being taught while acting."

Anna is not likely to be lost in this crowd. She has golden red hair and the kind of figure and face that would set Connery's James Bond off on a new adventure.

"Male of the Species" is the second offering this season of Prudential's On Stage on NBC. It will be seen from 8:30-10 p.m. on Jan. 3.

In England the play will be seen in its three parts. It also will have a different ending. "It was kind of a joke that the Americans had to have happy endings," Anna said. "Maybe we English are more pessimistic."

Since she was a child she and her family had made up plays and recorded them on a tape recorder. "My sister and I used to improvise Stanislavsky instead of watching the telly," she said.

TOOK PART HOME
After she won the part of Mary McNeil by beating out 40 other actresses in an audition at London's ATV studio, she took the script home and "we acted it out," she said.

"Suddenly our home became Mary's. We shoved the furniture around. Mum played one of the Men's parts, and she wanted to know who was directing. You know, when you've got a background like this, it's marvelous. You're sharing."

London-born, Anna was raised on a farm where her father, Arthur Calder-Marshall, wrote novels and nonfiction books. She said she decided early to be an actress.

"After we saw 'West Side Story' my girlfriends and I grabbed hands and vowed that we would be actresses. One other made it. She just finished a film," Anna said.

After nine weeks work on the production, Anna flew to New York for her first visit to this country. "It was raining when I got here. I said, 'Just like London they saw me off,'" Anna said. "But the next day I woke up and snow was all over the ground," she said.

"My family laughed when they saw me off," Anna said. "They told me to be sure to up and snow was all over the ground," she said.

Armored Cars Rush to Scene

Police Chief's Slayer Trapped

TWIN CITY, Ga. (AP) — the suspect from the tangled web of the slaying of the slain police chief of this east Georgia community, was shot at "point-blank range" and killed late Friday, the state patrol said. The slayer was later trapped in a wooded area just north of here, the patrol said.

It disclosed that Gov. Lester Maddox has authorized armored vehicles summoned to help flush he witnessed the slaying of the police chief. He said he, Oglesby and two or three other officers were tracking a man sought in a knife attack on a state patrolman when they entered the wooded area.

"We walked right into him," the trooper reported. "He fired at point-blank range—five or 10 yards at the most."

State Trooper Gene Errington, 35, of Dellwood, Ga., was stabbed four times with a pocket knife Thursday after stopping a man for a traffic violation. He is reported in good condition at a hospital in Metter, Ga.

Indian Warm Again After Long Journey

CHICAGO (AP) — Jimmie James, 30, a Navaho Indian who rode 1,700 miles from Phoenix to Chicago in a locked, refrigerated railroad car, enjoyed the warmth and food of the Pacific Garden Mission Friday.

Len Fordon, chief counselor at the refuge for men who can't find for themselves, said James related that his knees were rather stiff, and he thought crates fell on his legs during his four-day ride with a shipment of lettuce.

But James was able to walk around the mission.

"He said he'd like to stay in Chicago for a week," Fordon said, "and then get transportation to Flagstaff, Ariz., and Kalbito on a reservation."

Fordon said James told him his name is Jim Little Mexican, and that he has a brother Paul and two sisters, Nina and Elsiebeth, also nicknamed Little Mexican, in the Kalbito area.

The mission's guest had been listed as Jimmie James when he arrived in Chicago Wednesday night. James, a lettuce picker, said he fell asleep in the car containing the lettuce, and got locked in inadvertently.

Apollo 8 Craft Heads for Moon

The separation occurred while the spacecraft was about 3,000 miles from earth.

Mission Control reported, "All looks satisfactory."

If Apollo 8 had not been aimed toward the moon, it would have headed for an orbit around the sun because it had broken away from earth's hold.

However, in the vicinity of the moon, lunar gravity will grasp the spacecraft and prevent it from shooting out into the solar system.

Ahead of the astronauts on their momentous space odyssey lay a lonely 66-hour trip through a strange world to the vicinity of the moon, which today was 220,074 miles from earth.

Guiding themselves by the stars, Borman, Lovell and Anders are to steer themselves within 69 miles of the moon early Dec. 24 and then fire their spaceship engine to inject Apollo 8 into an initial orbit ranging from 69 to 106 miles above the lunar surface. Later they are to circularize the path at the 69-mile altitude.

Before heading home 20 hours later, they hoped to gather vital information that will ease the way for Americans to make a landing on the moon next year.

During the two orbits of the earth the astronauts were very businesslike in their conversation. Most of the communication was technical except for brief outbursts of "we're go" from Borman when Apollo 8 shifted into orbit.

Asked how things looked out the window, Borman replied, "everything looks the same as it did three years ago," referring to the two-day Gemini 7 flight that he made with Lovell.

Two and one-half minutes after lift-off, the second stage of the huge rocket power plant separated and exploded to life.

Borman said the separation was smooth and "the ride now is even smoother."

As the rocket slipped from sight of ground observers, astronaut Michael Collins, the capsule communicator at Houston's Mission Control told the astronauts they were "right on the line."

"Thank you, Michael," Borman replied.

ROAD TO MOON—This diagram shows the path the Apollo 8 astronauts hope to follow in their journey to the moon.

Flight Schedule for Lunar Trip

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The flight plan for Apollo 8's Christmas voyage calls for three men to fly 10 times around the moon, a round trip covering half a million miles and lasting 6 days 3 hours.

Here are highlights of their flight, day by day, (all times EST and approximate, subject to change during flight):

- SATURDAY, DEC. 21
- 10:42 A.M. — Astronauts restart top stage of rocket and blast out of earth orbit and toward the moon, a quarter-million miles away.
 - 11:00 A.M. — Apollo 8 separates from Saturn and is on its own.
 - 4:50 P.M. — Astronauts have first of four opportunities to fire tiny burst with spacecraft engines, if necessary, to steady their aim toward the moon. At this point they are more than 50,000 miles from earth.
- SUNDAY, DEC. 22
- 11:50 A.M. — Second opportunity to make mid-course corrections if necessary. Spacecraft now is more than 100,000 miles from earth.
 - 3:05 P.M. — First of six live television shows planned from Apollo 8, showing the astronauts and giving views out the windows toward earth and moon. Planned to last 15 minutes.
- MONDAY, DEC. 23
- 6:50 A.M. — More than three-fourths of the way to moon, astronauts again have chance to adjust their aim with a mid-course engine firing.
 - 3:05 P.M. — Second live telecast from spacecraft. Should feature moon, now about 25,000 miles away and the dominant celestial body in crew's field of view. Planned to last 15 minutes.
 - 8:50 A.M. — Astronauts get final opportunity to adjust course slightly so they lead toward the moon and will swing behind it at the correct altitude. This makes sure they will come out from behind the moon on a course headed back toward earth if their main spacecraft engines does not fire and put them into lunar orbit.

- TUESDAY, DEC. 24
- 2:51 a.m.—Apollo 8, which has faced toward the moon during most of journey from earth, turns around and flies backward as it prepares to swing behind the moon. Astronauts now are looking back toward earth; craft's main engine is pointing the direction they are traveling, ready to fire as a space brake.
 - 4:59 a.m.—Astronauts fire their main engine, slowing Apollo 8 so it drops into lunar orbit. This maneuver takes place behind the moon, out of touch with earth.
 - 7:30 a.m.—Astronauts present their first live telecast from the moon orbit. They hope to show how the lunar surface, between 69 and 169 miles below them, looks out Apollo 8's windows. Planned to last 12 minutes.
 - 9:22 a.m.—Main Apollo 8 engine fires a second braking blast, again behind the moon, and places astronauts in circular orbit 69 miles high. They remain in this orbit for eight revolutions.
 - 9:30 p.m.—Borman, Lovell and Anders present a Christmas Eve special telecast, live from Apollo 8 during next-to-last lunar orbit. Show could include shots of far-away earth as seen from the moon on the night before Christmas. Planned to last 20 minutes.

- WEDNESDAY, DEC. 25
- 1:06 a.m.—Behind the moon for the last time, Borman fires a blast of the main Apollo 8 engine to accelerate the spacecraft out of lunar orbit and speed it back toward earth.
 - 1:11 a.m.—Homeward-bound astronauts flash from behind moon and into contact with earth tracking stations.
 - 3:50 p.m.—Moonflight crew may make first of three return mid-course corrections, if necessary.
 - 4:05 p.m.—Fifth live television show from Apollo 8. Planned to last about 12 minutes.

- THURSDAY, DEC. 26
- 9:50 a.m.—Second opportunity for return mid-course correction.
 - 3:50 p.m.—Final live telecast from inside Apollo 8, showing the earth which has been rapidly growing larger through the spacecraft windows. Planned to last about 12 minutes.

- FRIDAY, DEC. 27
- 8:40 a.m.—Astronauts make final mid-course correction, placing them on precise path to hit entry corridor leading to Pacific Ocean splashdown.
 - 10:26 a.m.—Crew separates cone-shaped Apollo 8 cabin from its tanklike service module, turns blunt bottom of cabin forward and prepares for 25,000-mile-per-hour reentry.
 - 10:40 a.m.—Apollo 8, glowing like a meteor, splashes back into earth's atmosphere.
 - 10:54 a.m.—Borman, Lovell and Anders splash into Pacific Ocean near Christmas Island southwest of Hawaii. They are to be picked up by aircraft carrier USS Yorktown.

Crew Picked Blander Diet for This Shot

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — When it comes to eating, the "Apollonauts" flying to the moon this Christmas are easier men to please than the earth-orbiting crew of Apollo 7.

Frank Borman James Lovell and William Anders will not be eating the way they do at home, but they will be eating the foods they like best. All three Apollo 8 crewmen chose the same menu, 35 separate items ranging from cheese and crackers to spaghetti and meat sauce.

The powdered and freeze-dried foods prepared by the Whittaker Corp. of St. Joseph, Mich., are packed in clear plastic bags. To eat this food, the astronauts mix it with hot or cold water inside the bag and squeeze the resulting mushlike mixture into their mouths.

They also have bite-size bits of dry food. Dry bites and wet mush may not sound too delicious, but the astronauts say this food tastes very much like it would if it had been fixed the regular way at home.

OTHERS MORE PICKY

It was harder to please the tastes of Apollo 7 crewmen Walter Schirra, Don Eisele and Walt Cunningham, who flew America's first three-man space mission in October. They each selected a separate menu from the more than 60 space foods and drinks available.

Once they got in space, the Apollo 7 crewmen found their high-calorie diet was too rich and sweet. And they discovered that the repeated meals containing highly-spiced foods, like barbecue beef bits, could quickly become unpleasant.

Two of Apollo 8's crew Frank Borman and James Lovell, spent two weeks in 1965 eating space food aboard the record-setting Gemini 7. From their experience, and from the Space recommendations of Apollo 7, they abandoned all safety considerations for the astronauts and the U.S. mainland population, Apollo 8's

TAKE OWN TRIP — While their dad, Maj. William A. Anders, lunar module pilot of Apollo 8, was waiting out man's first flight around the moon, Gregory Anders, 6, and brother Eric, 4, start out on a trip of their own down the street from their home near the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex., yesterday.

Computers Got a Workout; Light Had to Be Right

Determining of Launch Time Took a Juggling Act

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (U) — A huge Saturn 5 rocket could blast off any time.

Flight planners want to achieve some scientific good, however, and would like to do so without killing anyone. So they showed that 7:51 a.m. EST on Dec. 21 was the best opportunity to launch.

If the 7:51 a.m. time missed, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had a slightly more than 4 1/2 hours to get the big booster off the ground today.

Apollo 8 could have blasted off any day through Dec. 27, but the launch time would have gotten progressively later until, on Dec. 27, liftoff could not have occurred before 4:45 p.m.

As an orbiting target, its position continually changes in relation to Cape Kennedy launch pads.

Flight planners had to hit it in target with a launch that not carry the rocket over heavily populated areas. Liftoff had to be timed so that several hours of daylight remained in the recovery area offshore from Cape Kennedy in case the rocket had gone astray and the astronauts had to fire an escape rocket to pull their capsule away, aborting the mission.

The length of the flight — 6 days, 3 hours — also had to be considered so there will be on Dec. 27, liftoff could not have occurred before 4:45 p.m.

the problem was the moon. In the Pacific when their lunar journey is completed.

In terms of mission goals, the most important constraint was lighting conditions on the moon required that it be done at a time when the sun is shining on the landing sites at an angle between 7 and 21 degrees. At that angle, craters and rocks cast shadows so their size, shape and location can be determined.

Pick Up Pet for Warm Gift

PICTURES, STORY

By DIANNE DUBOCHER

Some Christmas presents need to be wound up, pulled, pushed or have their batteries changed periodically. One special gift that requires only love and nourishment is a real live animal.

A present of a dog or a cat prompts most children to beam with delight.

Pets come in all varieties, sizes, shapes and colors at the Oakland County Animal Welfare Shelter. It is located in the county service center, 1200 N. Telegraph. It is open weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

MANY ARE AVAILABLE

About 100 dogs, 15 cats and 50 puppies are available. Prices for dogs over 4 months old are $10 for males and $15 for females; puppies are $5 for males and $10 for females.

Don Sheridan, chief deputy dog-warden, said he is always happy to see the expression on a child's face when he selects a puppy.

"At Christmastime we get requests for puppies more than anything else, but sometimes people prefer an older animal," said Sheridan, who has worked at the shelter for 16 years.

An equally good assortment of animals can be found at the Michigan Animal Rescue League, 790 Featherstone.

OPEN SIX DAYS

The rescue league is open six days a week from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. There are about 110 dogs, ranging in price from $20 to $30, at the rescue league. Puppies are $10 and $12.

Happy Holiday!

'Thou Shalt Love Thy Neighbor As Thyself'

It's almost Christmas.

In many homes there will be rejoicing as families get together for a holiday dinner and give gifts to those they love and remember the birthday of Jesus Christ.

Jesus said, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength, and thy neighbor as thyself."

Ministers and leaders of the many Christian churches are teaching young people to care for the sick and the underprivileged as they grow in the Christian Faith.

Programs and activities are listed here for the Christmas Season at Pontiac area churches.

New Bethel

The Rev. Amos G. Johnson will preach on "What Is Your Fault of Jesus" at 11 a.m. tomorrow in New Bethel Baptist Church.

The annual Christmas Concert will be presented by the choir of the church at 5 p.m. Immediately after the program young people will go caroling, visiting homes of the sick and shut in members of the church.

They will also present gifts. The ordinance of Baptism will be held at 8 a.m. on Christmas with Pastor Johnson bringing a message on "When Jesus Comes." The public is invited.

Trinity

United Methodist

A reception will be held at 7:30 p.m. today for the 33 members of the fall confirmation class at Trinity Methodist Church, 6440 Macdonald, Waterford Township.

Hosts for the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. James Duddles and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McLeish. Cocktails for the reception are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harrison.

Faith are given the privilege to hold Christmas Eve services in the church. The bell in the tower rings out and the tones broadcast around the world. One must humbly bow his head to enter the low doorway.

BLANKETS FOR FAMILIES — Nick R. Stallard of 1821 Crooks, a senior at Rochester High School, brings blankets to University Presbyterian Church, 1385 Adams, Avon Township. Here he passes the hut representing homes where refugees live around the world. Blankets will be dedicated on Jan. 5

CARRY CANDLES — Mrs. Louis Guzman of 18 Neome holds the lantern with candle she will carry when members and friends of Pontiac area churches walk in a candle-light parade Monday evening from First

In Downtown Procession

Carolers to Carry Lanterns

A citywide Christmas Carol is being planned for the Greater Pontiac Area by the Pontiac Pastors' Association. All churches in the area are urged to participate. The event will take place at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Carolers are asked to meet at First United Methodist Church, South Saginaw at Judson.

It is hoped by Pontiac pastors that each person will carry a lantern he has made and that each church will have a banner.

CAROL DOWNTOWN

The procession will carol down Saginaw Street through downtown Pontiac ending at the YMCA where hot chocolate will be served. The public is welcome to participate.

Mrs. Louis Guzman tells how she made her lantern from a milk carton.

"A half gallon milk carton or even a quart size carton may be used. Cut windows from the sides of carton and glue or scotch tape bread wrapping paper in openings. Use part of coat hanger for handle at top.

"Then use a little screw of nail at bottom to hold candle upright. Finally make a few air holes in top and bottom of the carton. Paint it if you wish."

SHOW OF FAITH

"This is a citywide show of faith and if successful will become a yearly event," the Rev. Fred Kletner of St. Vincent de Paul Church said.

The Rev. Ronald Tallman, associate pastor of Central United Methodist Church stated, "Amidst today's political and social chaos, the main complaint of many people is that the real meaning of Christmas seems to be taking second place."

"With the Santa parades and frantic shopping, seldom is thought given to the real occasion of the holiday. This procession will be a show of faith a sort of birthday present to God, upon whom it will give honor and glory."

"It is hoped each church will send 200 people to join their brothers in proclaiming the Good News."

Pine Hill Choir to Present 'The Nativity'

The Chancel Choir of Pine Hill Congregational Church, 4100 Middlebelt Road, will present a choral composition entitled "The Nativity" tomorrow at the 10:30 a.m. worship service. The choir is directed by H. Bernard Ernst. Mrs. Ernest Coldwell is accompanist.

"The Nativity" is a cantata based on traditional hymns and carols, text and music written and compiled by Roger C. Wilson.

The cantata opens with "The Prophecy," a baritone solo by Jack Souder, followed by the choir singing the ancient Gregorian plain-song "Veni Emmanuel."

Other solo parts will be by Jean Hoffman, Byron Wyatt, Colleen Ernst and Don Batty.

The full choir will be heard in an old English carol "The Angel Gabriel," Handel's "Christmas," the liturgical "Adeste Te," and "Gloria in Excelsis Deo."

Also featured in the morning service will be a medley of Christmas songs by the newly-formed Children's Choir under the direction of Mrs. Bernard Ernst.

At 7:30 on Christmas Eve, there will be a candlelight service at the church, during which the Rev. Harry W. Clark will present a monologue entitled "David, The Shepherd Boy."

Julie, David Take Prewedding Trek Down the Aisle in Church Rehearsal

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Julie Nixon, daughter of President-elect Nixon, and David Eisenhower, grandson of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, marry Sunday in Marble Collegiate Church.

Today she marches down the aisle in a rehearsal of the wedding in the Fifth Avenue church where workmen Friday were putting the finishing touches on the decorations of Christmas greenery and red and white poinsettias.

After the rehearsal, the bride-to-be attends a dinner given by the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Eisenhower, at a Manhattan restaurant.

Friday, Julie was honored — and advised — at a luncheon given by Susan Harvin of Houston, Tex., a Smith College classmate and bridesmaid.

Highlight of the luncheon at the posh Cosmopolitan Club was a skit titled "Recipe for the Perfect Bride."

Julie was given a jar of pennies for "common sense," a can of meat tenderizer for "tenderness" and a red garter trimmed with black lace for "frivolity and foolishness."

Other ingredients in the recipe included an hour-glass egg timer symbolizing the need for "a generous helping of patience," a host of pans "for all the humor you can work in" and a kitchen strainer to "strain out envy and jealousy."

Instructions included with the gifts directed: "Mix all these ingredients with a tremendous amount of love and serve before wings sprout."

Although there will be several Eisenhoweres at the wedding — David's three sisters are bridesmaids — two of the most famous will be missing.

The former president, in Walter Reed Army Hospital after a series of heart attacks, will watch the ceremony on a special closed circuit television broadcast. Mrs. Eisenhower, sick with the flu, also will remain in the hospital.

GUEST LIST

The guest list includes few political or public figures. All of Nixon's Cabinet choices have been invited, however. Also among the guest list is Johnnie Musaple, who used to deliver vegetables to the Nixons when they lived in Los Angeles eight years ago. "Julie used to go out to meet him," said Mrs. Van der Heuvel.

Others who have been invited include Katsu Ogawa of Hawaii who the Nixons met during a vacation, Monserrat Castells, an exchange student from Spain who is staying with the John Eisenhowers, and Hans Fuzesi, a Hungarian refugee who was working on a private boat the Nixons took a cruise on while he was vice president.

Mrs. Van der Heuvel said Fuzesi, who had lost a leg escaping from Hungary, was so concerned about the Nixons' safety "he stayed up all night to guard them."

PRIVACY

The lack of "big names" is in keeping with the young couple's desire to keep the wedding a private, rather than a state, occasion.

No newsmen will be allowed at the church or at the Plaza Hotel reception.

"Julie did not want anyone watching that wedding who was not a personal friend or someone she knows," said a press spokesman earlier this week.

Among other tidbits Mrs. Van der Heuvel disclosed was the fact that the wedding guests will ride from the ceremony to the reception 30 blocks away in five chartered buses, decorated by friends of David and Julie.

Joseph Tarantino, the pastry chef of the Plaza Hotel where the reception will be held, said he was baking a six-tier, five-foot cake described as a rich poundcake with lemon filling. Instead of the traditional bride and groom figures atop the cake, there will be a vase of flowers — placed there at Julie's request, Tarantino said.

Buying Another Might Avoid Any Conflicts

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of the Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is getting married 18 months after his sister. Do you consider it improper or cheap for me to wear the same dress and shoes I wore to my daughter's wedding? I could spurge and buy another outfit, although there are times when one wants to be practical. — Mrs. C.

Dear Mrs. C.: There is no rule — I can only tell you how I feel, having had two sons married within six months. Although none of my friends or relatives (because of the distance) were able to attend the first wedding, I bought a new dress for the second one.

I wanted to spend as much money and effort on the second son as the first, and while he would never have voiced any objections, I know that he appreciated the gesture.

Don't worry about your relatives — the question is how you feel about it.

Dear Mrs. Post: As etiquette goes, is it improper or in bad taste for a woman to be the first to speak and say hello to a man she thinks she knows? — Grace

Dear Grace: No. If a woman really thinks she knows a man, so she doesn't appear to be "picking him up," she may speak first.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week, I will send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette.

Bishop Pike Wed for the Third Time

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike was married Friday night to Diane Kennedy, 31, who collaborated with him on his book, "The Other Side," a story about communication with Pike's dead son.

It was the bishop's third marriage. The first two ended in divorce and the last rather was annulled.

The ceremony, with guitar playing and singing, was performed by four ministers before a group of about 100 in Willow Glen United Methodist Church.

The bride wore a knee-length candlelight crepe dress and white veil. It was her first marriage. Pike, 55, wore the bishop's red vest and collar. His best man was his surviving son, Christopher, 18. Also present were his daughters, Constance, 20, and Catherine, 25.

Shenfield, vice-chairman of the board of the Stroh Brewery Co., also is treasurer of the Founders Society of the Detroit Institute of Arts and a director of Camp Oakland.

Archangeli, a management consultant, is affiliated with the Society of Automotive Engineers, Orchard Lake Country Club and the Detroit Athletic Club.

New Girl's Boss Advances for Holiday Gift Giving

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 22, my friends say I'm pretty, and I am the new girl in a five-girl office. My boss told me if I needed a cash advance to buy Christmas presents he could arrange it and I wouldn't have to sign any notes or pay any interest.

Then he took hold of both my shoulders and sort of pulled me toward him, but I made out like I thought it was a joke and I got away from him.

The truth is, I could sure use about $200, but I am wondering if it would be a mistake to accept a cash advance?

BETTY IN BUFFALO

DEAR BETTY: I hate to spoil your Christmas, Kiddo, but there ain't no Santa Claus. If you could use a little cash (and who couldn't?) borrow it from a bank and be prepared to pay a legitimate rate of interest.

At least when the note comes due you won't have to wrestle your banker for it.

DEAR ABBY: How does a mother go about telling her seven-year-old son that she and his father are getting a divorce? On the advice of his attorney, my husband moved out of our house nearly two weeks ago, and I haven't the heart to tell our little boy that he is not coming back. (I told him that Daddy was away on a business trip.)

Our son is a very sensitive child and he adores his father. How can I soften the blow?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Tell him the truth — that his father and you have decided that you would be happier living apart. And be sure to mention the word "divorce." It is better that he hear it from you than from the neighbors or the kids at school.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young widow with three small children. My income is limited, but I do get a sitter in when I am invited out for an evening by a certain gentleman who has been paying me quite a lot of attention lately. Question: Would it be proper to ask the gentleman to pay for my sitter? He has lots of money and isn't stingy with it.

ORANGEBURG, S.C.

DEAR ORANGEBURG: It's not proper to ASK, but if you "hint" a little and he offers, it's proper to accept.

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that a child born out of wedlock cannot be christened? Answer in the paper, please.

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: No! A child born out of wedlock can indeed be christened, and special efforts are usually made to do so. Talk to your clergyman.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

For Abby's new booklet "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1.00 to Abby in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

A series of five classes on diabetes will be held Tuesday afternoons from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Oakland County Health Center on North Telegraph Road, beginning Jan. 7.

Topics include the nature of the disease, dietary management, medications and suggestions for coping with everyday problems.

There is no charge. A written statement from the doctor is required and can be presented at the first class.

Preregistration can be accomplished by calling the Oakland County Health Department.

Mrs. Glen Sanders of Davisburg was elected to membership. Mrs. John McCormick was chairman of the event.

Bows and Arrows
Win Trophies for Married Couple

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shepherd together can boast of 100 trophies, medals and other awards from archery competition as a result of a hobby of only five years duration.

In addition, Mrs. Shepherd is this year's Kansas State Field Archery Champion. "When I first started," she recalls, "I shot a total score of 28 out of a possible 560."

The couple became interested in the sport when they met an Oklahoma Indian while they were camped in Arkansas. "Anyone can do it," says Shepherd, "but then to go on and become tops in your field takes one whole of a job. But this is a sport you can enjoy when you get older."

New Venetians
Have Slim Slats

A new slim-line venetian blind is one inch in width instead of the standard two inches. It has plastic rather than cloth tapes. The manufacturer says they are less obtrusive than ordinary blinds, come in many colors and can be removed for maintenance with the flick of a finger.

To clean, immerse them in a tub of soapy water, dry and rehanging in minutes. Because of the narrow slats, there's less surface for dust to cling to.

A Junior Editors Quiz About THE POPE*SOME FAMOUS POPES

QUESTION: Has the Pope always been an Italian?

ANSWER: The Pope is the supreme head of the Roman Catholic Church. The first Bishop of Rome, it is recorded, was Saint Peter, one of Christ's apostles. If you will read in the Bible Matthew 16, verses 16 to 19, and John, verse 15, you will find the authority on which the Roman Catholic papacy is based.

From Saint Peter, the succession of Popes reaches in an unbroken line to the present. It is not true, however, that all the Popes in history have been Italians. St. Peter himself was born in the town of Bethsaida in the Holy Land.

During one period of confusion, the papacy was moved to Avignon in France. Brought back to Rome in the 1300s by Urban V, the papacy worked out improved relations with the Italian government, so that a tradition became established of cordial relations.

It is the cardinals who choose the new Pope, and most cardinals have been Italians. Perhaps because of this, and of the situation in the city of Rome, the cardinals have chosen Italian Popes for hundreds of years, although officially, any Roman Catholic could be chosen as Pope.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Canada Split
on Proposal for Marijuana

OTTAWA (AP) — Health Minister John Munro seeks to have marijuana classified in Canada as a restricted drug rather than as a narcotic. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police opposes the change, which in effect would make possession of marijuana a less serious offense than it now is.

Marijuana at present is under the Narcotics Control Act which provides penalties of up to seven years in prison for possession and up to life for selling. These penalties date from 1956, when the act was drawn up as a deterrent to the opium and heroin trade. Marijuana, no problem then, was thrown in almost as an afterthought.

In 1961, there were only 15 marijuana prosecutions in Canada, most of them involving visitors. Between April 1 and Sept. 30 this year, there were 1,414 marijuana prosecutions.

The police say four of five convictions involve persons of 16-25. The maximum sentences have never been invoked, even for pushers. Traffickers this year got sentences ranging from six months to two years, while most of those charged with possession got suspended sentences or six months at most.

However, all those convicted emerge with a criminal record — an Ottawa file that can make it difficult for them to get a job, to travel or to hold elected office.

Under legislation now before Parliament, the Cabinet could order marijuana transferred to the food and drug bureau as a restricted drug.

RECORD LESS VITAL

This would allow prosecutors to proceed by way of summary conviction, which brings a criminal record only at the local level. As one federal official said, it is much easier to lie successfully about such a record when applying for a job or a visa.

The Mounties want marijuana to remain an indictable offense, and suggest that prosecutors have the option of proceeding with an indictment or by summary trial. This way, the police would still be able to fingerprint marijuana convicts and keep a central record on them.

"We would like it to remain an indictable offense in order for the police to retain a tool that we think is essential in the enforcement of the drug act," Deputy Commissioner W. H. Kelly told a legislative committee.

U.N. Mission Yields No Results

Mideast Peace Still Elusive

By United Press International
Twenty months after Israel crushed her Arab neighbors in the lightning six-day war, prospects of real peace in the Middle East powder keg seem as elusive as ever. Jew and Arab still confront each other in armed hostility across the Suez Canal, and the Jordan River and on Syria's Golan Heights.

Almost daily a theoretical cease-fire is broken by armed clashes, artillery duels, mine laying or shelling of settlements, Arab commando raids and fierce Israeli reprisals.

U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring still shuttles back and forth on a peace mission that so far has yielded no results. He has been reported just about ready to give it up in despair.

SOVIET BUILDUP

Behind the scenes looms the ever more menacing Soviet power buildup in the Middle East and the Mediterranean, where Moscow now openly challenges U.S. and NATO naval power with a fleet of more than 60 Russian warships.

The Soviets have replaced virtually all the planes, tanks and other military hardware Egypt and Syria lost in the six-day war. The United States finally appears ready to heed Israeli appeals and to sell the Jewish state 50 Phantom jet fighters to restore the military balance.

The Arabs are not yet ready to fight another all-out war. Israel, which has waged three wars of national survival in a generation, hopes desperately not to have to fight a fourth.

But in this hostility-charged atmosphere, anything could happen at any time.

silence Arab guerrillas, and King Hussein himself seems powerless to control them.

In October, Israel offered a nine-point plan for permanent peace in a major speech by Foreign Minister Abba Eban to the U.N. General Assembly.

It called for a declaration of readiness to replace the cease-fire lines by permanent, secure and recognized borders compatible with the security of Israel and the honor of the Arabs.

Once again Israel proposed direct peace talks with each of her Arab neighbors.

DEFIANT REJECTION

But the Arabs defiantly rejected the Israeli peace bid and again demanded she evacuate all occupied Arab territory.

The Arabs still stand by the November 1967, U.N. Security Council resolution as a basis for a settlement. They continue to refuse any direct negotiations with Israel.

Egyptian officials have let it be known privately, however, that if Israel withdrew, they would be willing to guarantee her freedom of navigation through the Straits of Tiran under his power or U.N. guarantees.

Egypt still refuses Israel navigation rights through the Suez Canal, although Egyptian officials have indicated they might consent to this, too, in exchange for "justice" for one million Palestine Arab refugees.

Meanwhile, the military and diplomatic deadlock remains unbroken and the Soviets extend their influence throughout the Middle East.

It is a situation that the West fears may well contain the seeds of a third world war.

Pontiac Central Halts Arthur Hill; Northern Romps, 95 - 74

Ratliff, Russell Lead Win Over Lumberjacks

By FLETCHER SPEARS
The young Chiefs of Pontiac Central are growing up.
Two weeks ago they blew a big lead late in the game and dropped a decision to Flint Central. Last night, they were locked in a similar struggle that had a happier ending. This time they stood firm under the pressure and extracted an 88-81 victory over visiting Saginaw Arthur Hill.

'WE'VE LEARNED'
"We've learned a lot since that (Flint Central) game," said coach Ralph Grubb after the Chiefs had pinned the first loss of the season on Arthur Hill (2-1).

"Our kids are just playing better now and they're jumping a full game instead of half a game," he added.

HAUNTING MEMORY
Still, thoughts of that Flint Central game coursed through Grubb's mind as he watched the Chiefs squander a 15-point lead midway through the final period.

With the game seemingly locked up — PCH led 75-69 with five minutes left — the tide suddenly turned and the Arthur Hill squad managed to pull within two points on two occasions in the final two minutes of play.

TRIMS LEAD
A basket by Arthur Hill's Bill Jurgens with 1:30 left made it 79-77, with PCH in front. But successive buckets by sophomores center Campanella Russell and junior guard Anthony Styles sent the Chiefs in front, 83-77.

Still, the visitors refused to fold. Guard Mark Champagne, who collected 27 points, including 15 of 16 at the free throw line, hit on two charity tosses and Tom Rousseau stole a PCH pass and converted it into a basket to slice the deficit to 83-81 with 29 seconds left.

CHIEFS TAKE CHARGE
The Chiefs then took charge. Junior Jerry Ratliff, who led all scorers with 28 points, pushed in a layup (85-81) off a jump ball with 11 seconds left and added another with three seconds (87-81) to go. He was fouled on the play and canned the free throw.

Both teams scored in spurts. Central enjoyed sizable leads in the first half, but Arthur Hill managed to keep close and the visitors were only down by five at halftime, 41-25.

COACH PLEASED
Over-all, Grubb was pleased with the performance which gave the Chiefs a 2-1 record in Saginaw Valley Conference play and a 3-1 mark on the season.

"I think we played a good game," said Grubb. About the on and off defense. He added "Well, at times we played good defensive ball. At times our kids just ran out of steam." Grubb singled out Ratliff and Styles for their defensive play.

Russell played a superb game. Along with his 23 points, the 6-5 jumping-jack sparked the Chiefs to a 53-27 edge in rebounds. Shooting-wise, the Chiefs managed a hot 68 per cent, connecting on 38 of 65 shots.

A little troublesome for PCH was the tight, pressing defense of the Lumberjacks which forced the young Chiefs into several mistakes.

Along with his defensive play, Styles contributed 11 points and forward Monte Herring tossed in 13 markers, banging in several buckets at crucial moments. Senior Clayton Burch shared the other guard spot with sophomore Myron Brock. Grubb used Waverly Jones, a 6-4 senior center, often in spelling Ratliff, Russell and Herring.

The Chiefs now go against city rival Pontiac Northern on the PNH court Monday night. Northern is unbeaten in three starts.

Kettering Accepts Cage Victory

LOOSE BALL — Pontiac Central's Monte Herring (50) and Frank Scigurney of Saginaw Arthur Hill have eyes on this loose ball but it sailed out of bounds during second half action last night at Pontiac Central. Herring contributed 13 points in PCH's 88-81 win.

WKHS Strong Defensive Effort Forces Key Andover Mistakes

BY DON VOGEL
Bloomfield Hills Andover handed Waterford Kettering a 74-61 Wayne-Oakland League basketball victory last night. The Captains accepted and added a few trimmings to the pre-Christmas gift.

The Barons managed to stay within two points during a scrambling first half and that was the margin — 34-32 Kettering — when the teams left the court at intermission.

However, in the third quarter, the Andover squad committed 14 turnovers, lost control of the backboards and came apart on defense.

Much of the distress can be attributed to a tight Kettering defense that repeatedly stole the ball or intercepted passes as the Barons attempted to work in close for a shot.

EASY BASKETS

Dave Powell, who was the game's high scorer with 20 points, and Jerry Velzy, who netted 16, drove in for three easy baskets apiece in the decisive quarter. The Captains quickly opened a 10-point advantage and then lengthened it to 51-40 going into the last quarter.

Powell, Velzy and Rick Colonna dominated both backboards. The Barons tried a full-court press in the fourth quarter, but the Captains had no trouble beating it with sharp passing and Colonna scored four fast-break field goals.

Although Powell fouled out with five minutes remaining and guard Ross Evans left for the sage reason a couple of minutes later, Kettering was never in trouble during the last period.

SCORING BOOST

Evans, starting for the first time, gave the Captains a much-needed scoring boost in the backcourt with 13 points. Colonna left the bench early in the game and went on to contribute 12.

It was the second victory in three starts for the Captains — all in W-O play. Andover is 1-2 in the league.

"The boys are starting to learn some things," said Kettering coach Joe Duby. "It showed tonight." Duby is rebuilding after losing all but Powell and Velzy from last season's varsity.

Southern Mississippi in Coaching Market

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — The University of Southern Mississippi is shopping for a head football coach for the second time within a month.

It was announced Friday that Roland Dale, who had accepted the job Nov. 30, has changed his mind and will stay at the University of Mississippi, where he has been an assistant under Johnny Vaught for nine years.

Substitutes Play Key Roles for Winners in I-L Games

It was a big night for substitutes around the Inter-Lakes League Friday. Pontiac Northern and Farmington both came up lacking a leading rebounder, and the Huskies had the right fill-in — registering a surprisingly easy 95-74 victory over their host.

Waterford coasted past Southfield Lathrup, 72-38, with Coach Bob Taylor finding some valuable playing time for the Skippers' reserves.

Walled Lake's starters were off target so junior guard Marvin Gross came off the bench to lead the Vikings' scoring, but Livonia Stevenson's fast start was too much to overcome in a 73-56 result.

REMAIN TIED

PNH and Waterford thus remained tied for first place after two I-L starts. Northern is unbeaten overall while the Skippers suffered their only loss by one point earlier this week.

At Farmington, the host Falcons' 6-4 Mark Lynott was injured in practice this week and they weren't able to fill the gap in their rebounding ranks.

PNH's Huskies, meanwhile, were without 6-5 Sheldon Fisher who is ill, but 6-4 junior Mike Chapman moved up from the junior varsity and tossed in 22 points. He, Charlie Moncrief and Ernie Crawford also dominated the backboards. PNH spurred to a 16-2 lead and kept the Falcons down the rest of the game.

The Falcons never were closer than 15 points in the second half after trailing, 53-31, at the intermission. Paul White of Farmington led all the scorers with 27 points. Steve McGregor and Randy Cleveland added 13 and 12 to the losers' cause.

BIG SPREAD

Moncrief matched teammate Chapman's 22 points, and Crawford tossed in 18 others. PNH outgunned the losers, 44-28, in field goals.

Although having a definite advantage in free throw attempts, Farmington could only connect on 18 of 40. Visiting Northern received only 14 tries and had 25-11 deficit in personal fouls.

Waterford's fourth win in five starts saw it outscore young Lathrup in every quarter, holding the Chargers to eight tallies in each of the last three sessions.

The Skippers romped to a 30-8 advantage in the third quarter as Bruce Carlson scored 17 of his game-high 23 points, and Mike Sheldon contributed 8 of his 10. In all, 10 players notched at least two points for the winners.

REBOUNDING

Lathrup had nine players tally at least one basket, but it was outshot by 28-14 in field goals. The taller Skippers used their rebounding superiority to ignite a fast-break attack.

This was the first WTHS game this season decided by more than seven points, and its best defensive showing of the campaign.

Walled Lake's regulars left behind, 22-7 in the opening quarter and the Vikings were down, 42-21, at halftime. With only junior guard Bob Serra producing more than two field goals, coach John Oswald turned to the bench.

Serra by one point as the Walled Lake scoring leader and the Vikings managed to reduce the gap to 14 points in the last half.

Bud Daniels, Stevenson's solidly built pivotman, scored 12 of his 18 points in the first half. He teamed with Jerry Dettler in leading the Spartans to a 64-47 rebounding edge. Dettler added 13 points to the winners' cause.

Plagued by 24 turnovers, the losers only managed 54 shots to 88 by Stevenson. A 16-for-28 success at the charity stripe was damaging to the Vikings' offense, too.

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan Tech and Wisconsin-Madison advanced Friday 14 in the Great Lakes Invitational hockey tournament at Detroit. Michigan Tech, 3-2, won Wisconsin 3-2 while Wisconsin slapped Michigan State 6-4.

The teams met tonight for the title while the losers tangle for third.

Tech scored twice in the first period on goals by Lyle Moffat, and Herb Boxer. The lead proved insurmountable.

In the first game Wisconsin jumped ahead in the first period and expanded the lead by four goals in the second period.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Pappy Gault, coach of the U.S. Olympic boxing team, said Friday night that George Foreman, the Olympic heavyweight champion, would turn professional about May 1.

Groves Coach Carson Dies

Tom Carson left the Oakland County basketball coaching ranks Friday night the same way he joined them nine years ago — a winner.

The 53-year-old Carson, who complained of feeling ill for much of the day, collapsed at Birmingham Groves High School about a half hour after guiding the Falcons to an overtime victory over Livonia Franklin.

It was the first victory of the season for the 1965-66 prep county coach of the Year.

Carson was the only varsity basketball coach since Groves opened. He masterminded the school's 37-23 victory over Cherry Hill in its cage debut Dec. 4, 1959.

Although recording a winning record (5-4) that first season, Carson suffered through five losing seasons before enjoying consecutive undefeated regular seasons in 1965-66 and 66-67.

The latter quintet won a Class A district championship and posted 20 straight victories before dropping a four-overtime loss to Hamtramck in the regional title contest.

The Falcons slumped to 7-10 last year and are 1-4 after last night's victory.

Carson's wife Catharina is a regular at all the games and helped him with scouting and statistical reports. He had been talking with her after last night's game when he became ill.

Swimming coach John Wiecek and assistant basketball mentor Al Vordermark administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. However, he was dead, apparently of a heart attack, upon arrival at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak at 10:59 p.m.

The remains are at Lefchick Funeral Home, 1937 Conant in Detroit. Funeral arrangements are pending.

PLAYERS GATHER

Only one member of the basketball team was still at the school when the distinguished-looking, gray-haired Carson suffered his seizure. Word quickly spread to the team members, who were celebrating their victory at a Birmingham restaurant, and most of them reportedly gathered at the hospital.

In addition to his wife, Carson is survived by two brothers, Ted, who lives in Redford Township and Ed, of Madison Heights.

Search Goes on for Baseball Czar

CHICAGO (AP) — The 24 major league baseball club heads failed to elect a new commissioner today and gave up and went home after a marathon tug-of-war that lasted almost 15 hours and went through 19 unsuccessful ballots.

The meeting broke up after John McHale, former executive

Cage Tourney Set Monday at Two Sites

The Northwest Christmas Basketball Tournament opens for eight teams at two sites Monday.

At Redford Union, Southfield meets Livonia Stevenson at 7 p.m. with Redford Union taking on Walpole Lake in the 8:30 nightcap.

Livonia Bentley and North Farmington tangle in the first game (7 p.m.) of a doubleheader at Farmington. Berkley and Farmington play the second game.

All action then moves to Redford Union for play Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Monday losers are slated to play at 7 and 8:30 on Thursday and the Monday winners going at 7 and 8:30 Friday. On Saturday, there'll be a combination of winners-losers starting at 4 p.m.

A native of Toronto, Carson was a graduate of St. Rita High School in Detroit and Michigan State University. He began coaching at Lansing Resurrection High School, and was recruited at Birmingham Seaham prior to the opening of Groves.

He had a 79-71 career record with the Falcons, and produced one All-Stater — Mike Raftery.

assistant in the commissioner's job the club heads wanted from office, removed his name from consideration while apparently on the verge of being elected. McHale said he preferred to devote himself to his new job as president of the expansion Montreal Expos.

Francis L. Dale, president of the Cincinnati Reds acted as spokesman for the club heads. He said they wouldn't meet again for 30-40 days. Dale said McHale received more than the necessary nine American League votes but withdrew as a candidate before the National League could ballot. Dale indicated that McHale could have gotten the nine necessary National League votes as well.

YOUNG TURKS
"If he had been able to be a candidate, the National League would have supported him," said Dale, a Cincinnati publishing executive who is one of the Young Turks, a group of owners who ousted Gen. William D. Eckert as commissioner two weeks ago and announced plans to "restructure" baseball. Dale said other names on the ballots included Charles "Chub" Feeney, a career executive with the San Francisco Giants; Michael Burke, president of the New York Yankees; Joe Cronin, president of the American League; Robert Cannon, a circuit court judge in Milwaukee and former counsel to the Major League Players' Association; and Lee MacPhail, general manager of the Yankees.

Dale said there was "no fighting or loss of temper," we just ignored the whole thing out. But it was obvious the two major leagues still were at odds and unable to agree on a man to help baseball recoup some of the popularity it has lost to professional football.

Dale said the most votes anyone received was Feeney, who had 17 on several occasions. But at least nine votes in election, not an over-all total of 18.

TURNED DOWN
Feeney had the required National League votes all along, but the American League turned him down. Burke apparently was the American League's top choice, but it was not known if he had the needed nine votes even in his own league.

The meetings began at 5:37 p.m., EST. Friday and Dale said the first few hours were spent discussing what kind of

Oranges at Stake for Bowl Foes
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state of Pennsylvania will have to pay off in oranges if its representative, Penn State, doesn't defeat the University of Kansas in the Orange Bowl "Bowl" New Year's Day.

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania agreed Friday to buy enough oranges for the entire staff of Sen. James Pearson of Kansas if the Nittany Lion lose to the Jayhawks Jan. 1.

WOODY ARRIVES—Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State is greeted by Tournament of Roses queen, Pamela Anelich, on his arrival in Los Angeles with the Ohio State football team yesterday. To Hayes' right is Jess Hill, athletic director of the University of Southern California, OSU's opponent in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

Alcindor Has No Pain in 20th Win

By the Associated Press
Low Alcindor's injured foot turned out to be a pain in the ham 72-60 in the other Lobo first-round contest.

The agile 7-foot-2 All-American for the top-ranked UCLA Bruins showed no visible sign of being bothered by a pulled tendon in his left arch as he led the National Collegiate basketball champions to a devastating 90-51 victory over Minnesota Friday night.

Mr. A. played about 28 minutes, threw in 25 points, grabbed 20 rebounds and set a UCLA career scoring record of 1,006 points. It was UCLA's 20th straight victory, fourth this season, and the Bruins' 67th triumph in their last 68 games.

"I was happy we were able to give Lewis as much rest as we did," said Johnny Wooden, UCLA coach. "During practice he has only been able to play about 45 minutes. After that it starts to bother him and he starts to limp. But he played only about 28 minutes tonight and it didn't bother him at all."

NO COMMENT
There was no comment from Alcindor, who suffered the injury Dec. 6 against Ohio State, although it did not become generally known until Thursday night.

UCLA's return to action after a layoff of nearly two weeks highlighted the collegiate activity in which Davidson, Kentucky, New Mexico, Cincinnati and Santa Clara, the other teams in the Associated Press Top Ten to see action, all won.

Davidson, No. 3, scored at home over stubborn South Carolina 62-55 as Jerry Kroll scored 15 of his 23 points in the closing three minutes.

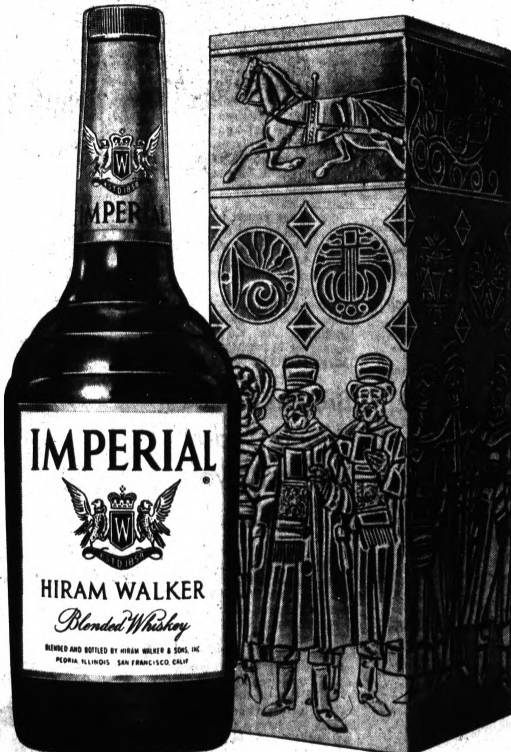

New Mexico, No. 5, whipped San Francisco 82-71 in the first game of the Lobo Invitational at Albuquerque, although playing without star Greg Howard. Bob King, New Mexico coach, dropped Howard from the team earlier Friday for disciplinary braska 83-76 in the other game reasons. Temple downed Ford at Phoenix.

Kansas State downed North Carolina State 66-54 and Vanderbilt took Rice 85-77 in the Van-derbilt Classic, while Texas-El Paso beat Georgia Tech 75-71 and Chicago Loyola tripped in a row by downing North Texas 64-51 at San Jose, Calif.

St. Louis Keeps Hex on Oakland's Seals

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Seals have more than a case of the blues when it comes to beating St. Louis, the West Division leader in the National Hockey League.

The Bitters is more like it. The St. Louis Blues downed the Seals 1-0 Friday night before only 3,865 in the NHL's lone game.

The victory, St. Louis' second shutout over the Seals this season, kept alive the Blues' record of never having lost to the Seals in 15 games over a season and a half.

So far this year, the Blues have allowed the Seals only one goal in three games. St. Louis leads the NHL in defense, having given up 66 goals in 30 games.

FOURTH SHUTOUT

Gossie Jacques Plante turned aside 24 Oakland shots in recording his fourth shutout of the season.

All the scoring the Blues needed came from rightwing Tim Ecclestone, who took a pass from Red Berenson and whipped an 18-footer by Gary Smith at 17:43 of the first period.

Oakland had a chance to tie the game with 1:22 left when Plante came out of his nets to direct a loose puck to safety and was checked by the Seals' Gary Jarrett. Jarrett was sent off the ice for two minutes on a boarding penalty.

Brain Checks, Demands Payment of 'Sleep Debt'

LONDON (UPI) — Do you find yourself yawning? Your body may be trying to collect your "sleep debt."

According to Dr. George Tume in an article in "Science Journal" you need sleep of the right duration and the right quality to function at your best. You may think you had just that last night and the night before, but your brain knows better.

Dr. Tume says it keeps an accurate check of the sleep balance in the health bank and at some points begins to demand repayment of the debt you owe. This is especially urgent in the case of night shift workers and those who have trouble replenishing themselves during the normal sleep hours of 11 p.m. to 8 a.m.

Prompted by the brain, many people make up their deficiency with catnaps or siestas or by sleeping much later on weekends than they do on working weekdays. Or, as wives have often noticed, dozing in front of the television set.

QUALITY IMPORTANT

Dr. Tume, who has been doing research on sleep at Liverpool University for the Medical Research Council, said that the quality of sleep is just as important as quantity. Missing either type of sleep could, in the long run, injure health.

Some other British workers in this field believe quality is more important than quantity and evidence that dreaming is linked to body temperature. Dreaming is more frequent when the body temperature drops during the night. Temperature goes up rapidly on awakening, then remains fairly stable until evening when it climbs again.

This means that catnappers are more apt to dream if they drop off in midafternoon than after they get home from work.

Dr. Tume said there is evidence that dreaming is linked to body temperature. Dreaming is more frequent when the body temperature

Hal Explains How to Tell Sexes Apart

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — We live in confused times, and few things are more confusing than the sexes themselves.

It is getting harder to tell them apart as men and women tend to ape each other more in manners, dress and talk. Some say that differences between the sexes aren't of much importance any longer anyway. They feel that society is headed toward a future in which there will be only one gender—unisex.

While such a situation certainly would end the present puzzlement, there are those among us who are old-fashioned enough to prefer a world in which there are two sexes — and ways to distinguish them.

There is no doubt it has become increasingly difficult to tell the sexes apart, and it is certainly far more difficult than the traditional task of separating the sheep from the goats. But there are means available to do the job in most cases.

BATHTUB SCRUBBING

For example:
If it is too lazy to scrub out the ring it leaves in the bathtub, it is probably a boy. If it wears more than one ring on its fingers, it is probably a girl.
Does it enjoy playing house? It is a little lass. Would it rather scot around the floor pushing a toy fire engine. It is a little lad.

Could it dance the night away at a fraternity prom and still look dewy-fresh at dawn? That's a coed. Would it rather after swinging its partner around the floor once, meak out and pitch woo in a parked car? That's Joe College.

Do the pockets of its slacks bulge with junk it has no real need for? Put it down for a young gentleman. Can't it ever manage to carry even its own pack of cigarettes and matches in its slacks? Put it down to be a young lady.

Does it like to pick up an infant and toss it into the air and catch it? That's the Papa. Does it hold the infant to its bosom with one hand while it tries to butter a piece of breakfast toast with the other? That's the Mama.

When it stifles a yawn, does it absent-mindedly tug at its nose between thumb and fist? That is a man. Does it stifle a yawn by holding the back of its hand daintily to its mouth and simultaneously utter a soft apology? That is a woman.

Does it keep its old love letters tied in beribboned packets and like to take them out and have a good cry reading them on rainy days. That is the Mrs. Does it sometimes get in trouble by leaving new love notes crumpled in a suit to be sent to the cleaners? That is the Mr. — and he's a rascal, he is.

Is it sometimes willing to admit its errors and take the blame for them? It is a man. Does it always try to conceal its mistakes and like to be flattered for its faults? It has to be a woman.

Is it a teen-ager? There is no known way for an adult to determine by himself the sex of a teen-ager. They all look and act alike. All you can do is put another teen-ager into the room and wait and see what happens.

U.S. Reputation Clouded on Sharing Air Pollution

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States, according to the latest statistics, currently produces enough air pollutants for every man, woman and child in the United States to breathe 1,500 pounds of air per year.

Despite this fabulous output, however, there are still pockets of oxygen in this country where people have only unpolluted air to breathe.

Obviously, the problem is one of distribution rather than production. There are plenty of air pollutants for everyone, but some people are getting more than their fair share.

Under our system, we rely on the natural law of supply and demand, plus atmospheric currents, to create equitable distribution.

WORLD LEADER

This system has worked very well for almost two centuries and is largely responsible for making America one of the world's leaders in the pollution of air.

It is now apparent, however, that some sort of artificial stimulation is needed to bring the "have-nots" close to the level of the "haves."

No nation can long endure half-polluted.

I always hesitate to recommend new governmental programs as a solution to a problem, but there are times when federal action is necessary to achieve the desired results.

TVA PROTOTYPE

In this case, it seems unlikely that private, local or state resources are sufficient to carry out corrective measures on the scale that is required.

After studying the matter closely, I have concluded the best approach would be the creation of a governmental corporation along the lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority. It might be called the federal pollution redistribution corp.

The FPRC would be given responsibility for erecting giant wind machines at strategic locations around the country to stimulate the circulation of pollutants.

One complex of machines might be built in the Los Angeles area to blow smog into southwestern states where pollution production has fallen behind.

BLOW AIR

Another should be constructed in the lower Great Lakes region to channel pollution from such cities as Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland into the midwestern farm belt.

There also should be a giant complex in the northernmost regions to service pollution-poor regions of the south.

State Listed 5th in U.S. in Revenue Gain

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan ranked fifth nationally during fiscal 1968 in state tax collection increases compared with the previous year, a national research organization reported today.

Commerce Clearing House of Chicago said a nationwide survey showed the state collected 23.2 per cent more taxes for the period ended last June 30.

The gain it added, was due chiefly to enactment of the first state income tax and higher-than-anticipated sales tax results.

Michigan's income tax is 2.6 per cent on individuals and 5.9 per cent on corporations. The sales tax is 4 per cent.

SALES TAX VITAL

CCH said 39 per cent of Michigan's state revenue is fiscal 1968 came from the sales tax, which was also the best revenue source in 51 other states.

Nebraska, which enacted its first income and sales tax in 1967 led the nation in tax collection increases with a 42.2 per cent hike. California at 33.8 per cent, Wyoming at 25.3 per cent and Minnesota at 23.5 per cent likewise were ahead of Michigan.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — As Scott Detrick was recovering from having his tonsils removed at a hospital here, he continued to wonder why so many strange women walked into his room, took a look at him and left hurriedly. When he was able to get out of bed and open the door of his hospital room, he found that someone had hung a sign on the door: "WOMEN."

Christmas Tree Follows GIs to Vietnam and Back

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — This is a story of a Christmas tree that followed four Grand Rapids men to combat in Vietnam and back again.

A year ago the tree, which traveled 25,000 miles on a round trip from Grand Rapids, was the background for a celebration by the Marines in an underground bunker on the DMZ zone while mortars and rockets were exploding around their ears.

The aluminum tree was shipped by Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Fox of Grand Rapids to their son, Cpl. Mike Fox along with tinsel, decorations and a spotlight and goodies.

Fox and the three other Grand Rapids Marines Jerry Grabham, Terry Fortney and Don Flangelien enlisted together, went through basic training together and were shipped to Vietnam in March, 1967. They completed their enlistments last summer and returned to Grand Rapids Junior College where they are sophomores.

This week they decorated the same tree, as they expressed it "under more favorable circumstances."

Prices, Pollution Now Stir Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Such issues as the high cost of living and the future of Okinawa stir the Japanese these days, along with things like air pollution. An intersection in the Ginza district of Tokyo shows the country in microcosm.

At the northwest corner of Sotobori and Harumi Avenues, a curious metal box studded with electric bulbs measures the incredible din rising over the area.

Under an elevated highway, which houses a department store, Zengakuren students, some still swathed in bandages from their most recent encounter with the law, bawl through bullhorns for contributions.

A stone's throw away, a hundred spectators, some on U.S. nuclear vessels, are riveted by a radio disc jockey at work in the apartment store window. Another hundred face the other direction to hear the bellowed protest of venerable Aki Bin, last of the prewar right-wingers, a daily fixture on Sotobori Avenue.

FOUNTAIN IS LURE
At the southwest corner more crowds cluster around the clean, functional lines of Sony building to stare at an aluminum fountain dreamed up for a charity. Passersby who toss a coin into the fountain are rewarded with the turning of wheels, an emission of steam and a pinging which sounds soft and reassuring against the cacophony.

This is said to be the busiest corner in the world.

The intersection reflects Japan's wide-eyed interest in the outside world. One corner is dominated by an enormous animated electric sign whose figures dance and leap to the greater glories of an American soft drink company. Below it, shops sell doughnuts and hot dogs. Maxim de Paris is in the basement of Sony's, an Italian restaurant on the sixth floor; across the street the top floor of the Hanky department store one restaurant is divided into French, Chinese and Japanese sections.

An accepted institution in a Buddhist land, Christmas trees illuminate the sidewalks and buildings.

THE BIG ISSUES

The big issues which agitate the Ginza—and the country—these days are the return of Okinawa, seized by the United States in World War II; the alarming rise in the cost of living; student unrest; the U.S.-Japan security treaty and its subsidiary problems of visits by American nuclear vessels; accidents at American air bases and U.S. troops in the populated areas; the troubles of the big cities; and keeping up with the Watanabes, Japan's Joneses.

The larger foreign issues, such as Vietnam, take a back seat to skyrocketing prices, which pick at everyone's pocketbook.

The government repeatedly said it would peg price increases at 4.8 per cent but by autumn they were up 8.5 per cent and still climbing.

Though they are better off than most of their fellow Asians, the national wealth hasn't rubbed off in any lavish amounts onto the working class. Japan's per capita income is 21st in the world. Married salary earners have about 5,000 yen or $14 a month for drinking, smoking and recreation after the bills have been paid.

ON HEROIC SALE

This is the only Asian nation which approves of alcoholic consumption on a heroic scale, possibly because the mythological plant, administration and facilities were sturdy devotees of fertility unprepared to cope with the flood.

The national penchant for staidness shows that one out of every three Japanese man drinks alcohol every night and that seven out of 10 are smokers. The smoke adds a little to the smog in the big cities. Always inquisitive, the Japanese put up smog indicators around town, set off "smog alarms" when the level gets dangerously high and equip policemen with masks at bad intersections — but have gotten nowhere in cutting down the choking blanket which hovers over Tokyo, Osaka, Yokohama and other centers.

One of the reasons is the reluctance of big industries to convert to more expensive fuels containing less sulphur; civic consciousness keeps few industries awake nights.

As a sign of the times, Dr. Shiro Nakagawa, director of the Ueno Zoo hospital, reports that Tokyo cats are not catching rats these days. The reason: They have become fat, slow, soft, pampered and overcivilized and are suffering from diabetes or high blood pressure.

ACCOMSTOMED TO LUXURY

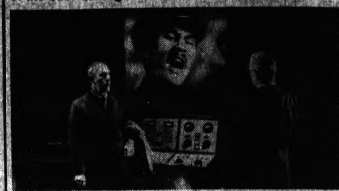

The proliferation of expensive, often imported dogs and cats is evidence that much of the population, like the cholerics cats, is becoming accustomed to luxuries.

Students wrestle with problems of their own, centered around the inadequacy of the educational system.

The U.S. occupation after World War II turned Japanese education, formerly aimed at training an elite corps, to one in which the masses could take part. University enrollment jumped from the 230,000 in 1936 to 1.4 million in 1968—with

Yule-Cruise Boom Part of Trend to Fun

NEW YORK (AP) — Steamship lines expected a big Christmas bonus this year from the booming holiday cruise business.

More than 15,000 people are expected to sail from New York alone this Christmas, Amory S. Carhardt, vice president of American Express Co., said.

The growth of Christmas cruises reflects the current trend of voyaging for recreation rather than transportation.

CHRISTMAS CRUISES

At Christmas, about 80 per cent of the cruises go south to the Caribbean with St. Thomas as the most popular port of call.

Christmas cruising can cost anything from $50 to $5,000 per person. Steamship lines usually schedule sailings around school vacations, with most cruises beginning around Dec. 20 and ending near Jan. 5.

"Christmas cruises are the friendliest," according to Bob Smith, senior cruise director for Holland-America Line.

Smith, who's been cruising for 35 years, gives children credit for creating the Christmas spirit aboard ship.

What Wall Street Did

By ROBERT HAWORTH
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. government bond prices fell sharply this week following the decision by the Federal Reserve to restrict credit availability in the banking system.

The Federal Reserve Board approved an increase in the discount rate—the rate at which federal Reserve banks lend to

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week took its worst loss in 4½ months as Wall Street continued to react to higher interest rates.

Hopes that the market might embark on its traditional year-end rally were smashed by another salvo of interest rate boosts.

In fact, the market was so

Commercial banks, in turn, and Tuesday in advance of the news that came after the close on Tuesday, namely, that it sed their prime rate on commercial and industrial loans to 6½ per cent from 6½ cent.

In the wake of this one-two punch, long term government bonds had sold off by two to three points on the average last Friday, according to analysts at the government investment firm. Immediate governments were down a little more than a point.
Short term rates, which move in tandem with the prime rate, dropped dramatically. Rates on one-month Treasury bills were down 30 basis points above their rate, to 11½ per cent.

In the corporate market, the undiscounted issues were gradually reduced as underwriters ended their pricing restrictions on unsold securities to permit free market trading.
The $40 million National Natural Gas Co.'s $40 million offering of debentures, awarded November 1979, and Western Massachusetts

Federal Reserve Bank, the Fed increased the discount rate to 5½ per cent from 5W per cent.

Actually, this rate of discount was the first increase that members of the Federal Reserve had already prepared for from mid-April to mid-August, and did not interfere too much with a booming economy and generally higher stock market.

More surprise was the news that came on Wednesday that the major commercial banks had raised their basic lending rates to 12½ per cent from 6½ per cent. The stock exchange was closed on the news that the Fed had raised the discount rate.

As predicted, there is a stiff sell-off when trading resumed on Thursday—but also as analysts predicted—there was a rally of the immediately affected. In one of the more recent sessions of the year, the Dow Jones cent bonds, awarded Dec. 19, 1991, showed a steep early loss of 9.26 but erased it all and finished the day with a

The northern Natural Service net gain of 4.23. The rest of the market, however, was not able to perform as well as the 30 blue-chip Dow, which rose 1.25.

Bargain-hunting, a reinvestment demand, and encouraging technical factors were cited as the reason for the quick rebound. It continued for a while early on Friday when the Dow, however, closed at first half hour, only to backtrack and close with a thumping loss of 8.15.

Monday is the deadline for taking profits "regular way" (five-day delivery) for inclusion in 1969 income tax returns, and the wave cited as a factor for the Friday loss. No particular news accompanied the slide.

For the week, the Dow industrials dropped 14.30 to 966.99—further and further from the Dow 1,000* some had expected to reach last week's ago.

Of 1,731 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 1,036 declined and 589 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 224 and new lows 58.

The Associated Press average of 30 stocks dropped 5.9 this week to 353.4, its lowest weekly loss since the week ended Aug. 3 when it fell 6.2.

Marlene Fowler, a junior at Pontiac Northern High School, is this week's Teen of the Week. Marlene, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Fowler Jr. of 421 Lynch, carries an 'A' average.

She is secretary of the junior class, treasurer of Girls' Recreation Association (GRA) and a member of the Catalinas, the German Club and the Ski Club.

She is also first vice president of the National Association of the Negro Business and Professional Women's Clubs Inc. of Pontiac.

When Marlene completes high school, she plans to attend the University of Michigan where she hopes to earn a degree in pathology.

Family Is Picky About Its Fishing

DIAMONDVILLE, Wyo. (AP) — When the Carl Ulrich family goes fishing, the equipment consists of iron bars and hacksaws, rather than fishing rods.

Mr. and Mrs. Ulrich and their children, Wally, 17, and Gail, 15, look for fish fossils in the oil shale of southwest Wyoming and their "catch" goes into museums and scientific collections all over the world.

After discovering a fossil, they cut around it with a hacksaw, pry up the layer of shale and take it home for cleaning.

With dental drills and tiny hand picks, they remove the rocky accumulation of ages, a process that takes up to eight hours for a 5-inch specimen.

Only the top half of the fish is uncovered. The rest is left embedded in the shale to show how it was found.

New Insights May Help End Radiation Ills

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — New insights into the nature of radiation damage may yield effective ways of preventing or curing the often lethal radiation sickness.

When exposed to radiation, the normally life-giving oxygen that is present in body cells becomes a menace, scientists now find. Radiation excites low-energy oxygen molecules, charging them with enough power to combine and enter into destructive reactions.

Scientists have known that radiation damages all living things since shortly after Wilhelm Roentgen discovered X rays in 1895, but they have been unable to find protection or remedy.

With the advent of nuclear weaponry and nuclear power came intensified efforts to solve the problem — efforts resulting in drugs that protect animals from radiation if they are dosed before exposure and treatment for human beings exposed to limited amounts.

LACK PROTECTION

But there are no proven drugs to protect men from nuclear fallout or industrial radiation accidents and none to cure them after total body exposure to large quantities: 400 roentgens (units of radiation) or more.

Nor has there been any real understanding of how radiation destroys cells, making it all the more difficult for scientists to plan rational ways of blocking the destruction.

Whimsical Angel Mobile, Turquoise Tinsel Tree And Massed Poinsettias In Red And White Set Galg Holiday Mood In Pool Area

Pontiac Press Photos by Sam Untermyer

Carpeted In Deep-Piled White Wool, Living Room Features Double View

Contemporary Home Of The W. E. Crydermans In Bloomfield Township

Home Suited to Yule Season

By JODY HEADLEE

Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

Mrs. Claus better pack Santa's bathing suit this year for he's sure to be in the mood for a swim after he drops the presents beneath the turquoise-tinsel tree in the inviting pool area at the home of the W. E. Crydermans.

Adding to the area's holiday air are massed red and white poinsettias, inverted clay pot bells painted holly red with a hint of gold overlay and crystal clappers and a cloud of angels bobbing this way and that in the gentle air currents.

Made by Mrs. Cryderman, a former art teacher, the mobile is a conversation piece second to none.

"When I made it," she said, "it was too early in the season for angel hair so I used furnace filters to get the cloud effect. It took eight."

"The angels were constructed of papier mache and wire. Their hair came from an old darning wig of mine."

Dressed in a glittering gold-on-green fabric, the whimsical creatures have wings of aqua to further coordinate the mobile's colors with that of the pool.

White Italian lights are worked through the fluff for a starry effect. The whole mobile (affixed to heavy wire screening) is suspended from the ceiling by copper wires.

Mrs. Cryderman uses floor throws of artificial grass for the redwood and wrought-iron furniture grouping to add to the outdoor effect. Coordinated with the pool, the furniture cushions are covered in an aqua-blue and green-on-white fabric.

"All of the plants on the first level are real," said Mrs. Cryderman. "The ones on the balcony though are artificial because it would have been almost impossible to water them."

A round fireplace of harlequin brick is shared by the pool area and the adjoining family room. Weights make it possible to pull down the semicircular hoods that frame the fire pit.

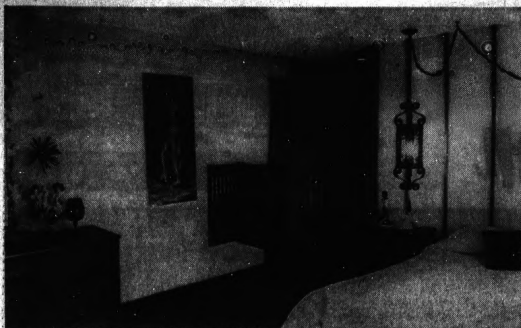

"It's perfect for entertaining, too," said Mrs. Cryderman. "I use the hearth as a buffet and its scattered electric outlets make it so easy to keep hot foods hot."

Though more restrained, the holiday mood is not forgotten in the formal wormy chestnut paneled living room. Before the harlequin brick fireplace hangs an exquisite pink mobile which Mrs. Cryderman made of metal rings, strips of mirror-mounted-on metal, pearls and iridescent ornaments.

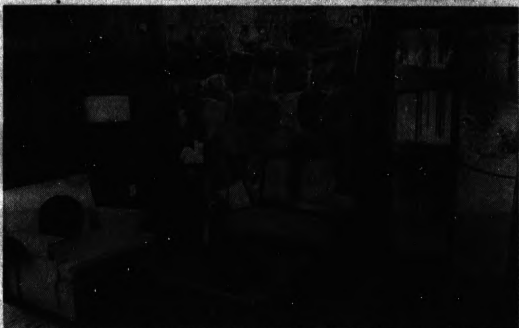

Wheat paste angels on a drop of shimmering cranberry cloth hold glittering gold stars on the fireplace hearth which extends under the window.

Gay Entranceway Offers A Christmas Salute To Visitors And Passersby

ELEGANT RETREAT — Ceramic angels (made by Mrs. W. E. Cryderman) with blue-purple satin Christmas ornaments and flocked twigs introduce holiday sparkle into the master bedroom. White carpeting covers the walls with narrow wood strips creating a headboard effect on the king-size bed wall. The floor is carpeted in a blue, grape and black loop.

MEDITERRANEAN ROOM — Branches of berried holly offer a touch of Christmas cheer in the walnut-paneled bedroom overlooking the pool area at the W. E. Crydermans. "The Victorian loveseat," said Mrs. Cryderman, "belonged to my husband's grandmother." Covered in gold brocade, the loveseat complements the antiqued-gold carpeting.

PRIVATE PATIO — Italian lights and green and blue plastic ornaments herald the yule season on the walled patio opening off the bath. The heated tile floor keeps the patio completely snow-free in the winter. Italian sculpture, white wrought-iron furniture and an aqua-cushioned bench complete the patio's furnishings. The grape throw rug and the grape vanity cushion coordinate the bath's accent colors with those of the nearby master bedroom.

Accidents Occur Most in Kitchen

Before 1968 is over, some 4.5 million persons will be involved in the National Safety Council. Most of these accidents — almost 30 per cent — will occur in the kitchen.

The reason is not that the kitchen is the most lived-in area of the home — although this may be a fact — but that it offers so many potential hazards. Among these are ovens and ranges, pans of boiling water and other liquids, and razor sharp objects, particularly those tossed carelessly into drawers. All can and do result in painful, disfiguring accidents.

Then there is the wobbly chair that is used as a makeshift ladder. It's usually an invitation to a serious fall. Sure, it may seem quicker and simpler to hop on a chair to reach an object on some remote shelf. But it's a lot safer to invest in a lightweight ladder with non-skid steps.

Aluminum ladders fit the bill to a tee. They're light and easy to store. And they'll last for years.

A NECESSITY
While a ladder should be a necessity in every home nothing prevents accidents like good common sense.

Even if a sturdy aluminum ladder is available, a good safety rule to remember is always put heavy equipment on an easy-to-reach shelf. Handling heavy equipment should be avoided unless both feet are on the ground.

FAMILY ROOM — Inverted hanging basket with plastic drops and Italian lights, garlands of greens and avocado candles in a spruce bough base add to the holiday atmosphere in the W. E. Crydermans' family room. The card corner's pedestal table is carpeted in a gold shag to blend colorwise with the crushed velvet arm chairs and the room's round area rug.

Unfinished Hardboard Will Rot

Because tempered hardboard is designed for exterior use or where good moisture resistance is required, it often fails to receive the attention necessary to insure a long, trouble-free life.

The truth is that tempered hardboard which has not been finished will ultimately be damaged by the penetration of water, although it will resist the ravages of weather for a much longer period than the standard type.

A good primer is the first and most essential step in preparing the exterior hardboard for its existence outdoors. This primer should be applied to all exposed surfaces, including the ends and edges.

Priming the back of the hardboard is also helpful even when that side will not be directly hit by rainfall.

PAINT
Once the priming process has been completed, a high grade exterior house paint can be used, especially on tempered hardboard which is being used for siding or vertical surfacing of any kind.

When hardboard panels are installed horizontally, it's a good idea to use a floor-and-deck enamel as the top coat, since it is more likely to prevent the penetration of water which might tend to settle in channels around the ends and edges. Exterior trim paints are excellent for exterior hardboard when high gloss or extreme color retention is desired, especially when bright colors are used.

But a good rule of thumb is that any outside paint suitable for natural wood will prove satisfactory for hardboard.

If you decide to purchase factory-primed hardboard, you can be assured that it will have been sealed thoroughly. But not all hardboard manufacturers use the same kind of primer.

RECOMMENDATION
Be sure, therefore, to follow the manufacturer's recommendation on the best type of paint to use on his product. Fortunately, most factory primers are compatible with the usual exterior house paints, either oil or latex.

Since factory-primed hardboard might be damaged, before doing the entire job.

EFFECTIVE USE of masonry gives this split level a distinctive appearance. Rugged stone, contemporary brick and pierced wall are pleasantly combined, with vertical siding on the three-bedroom top level adding a touch of warmth.

Split-Level Has an Attractive Exterior

A house is more than good looks, but even the perfect floor plan is more appealing when the exterior is attractive.

If the budget on which the house can be built is moderate by the standards of the present, almost any family will react positively to the complete package.

In this three-bedroom split level, architect Lester Cohen has included a lot of logical extras.

The house is shown off to good advantage by a harmonious blending of rugged stone, contemporary brick and vertical board siding.

It demonstrates that a house doesn't have to be stark or cold to qualify for modern approval.

SPLIT LEVEL

One of the several types of split levels, it is known as a side-to-side plan because the living room-dining room area and the bedroom floor, although on different levels, are located alongside each other rather than one behind the other.

Another feature is placement of the recreation room behind the garage — both at grade level — with sliding glass doors leading to a rear patio.

A striking pierced brick wall is actually the outside wall of the two-car garage, with a side-to-side plan because the living room-dining room area and the bedroom floor, although that provides a sunny spot for breakfast and informal eating.

If necessary, this dinette extension could be used to accommodate a playpen so that kitchen chores and supervision would be no problem.

Another half curve up from the living landing, the three-bedroom level comes into focus. Two junior bedrooms are at the front, with a five-closet wall between them.

BEDROOMS

With two children in the family, each would have a separate bedroom. With three, the oldest could take over the smallest of the bedrooms; the two others sharing bedroom No. 2.

The family bathroom has a vanity and an alcove tub and, located at the head of the stairs, can serve for guests.

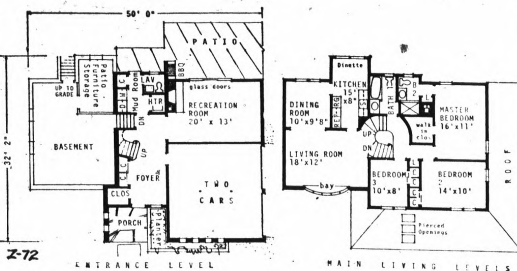

The bathroom in the master bedroom has a stall shower and a linen closet to supplement the main one in the hall.

A walk-in closet in this bedroom is large enough for both husband and wife.

Although a house of modest size (combined, the living and bedroom levels total 1263 square feet), it has 455 additional square feet of living area on the entrance level.

LAYOUT

In this type of layout, the recreation room is likely to be well used, leaving the living room for formal entertaining.

FLOOR PLANS: Complete utilization of all available space on the living and bedroom levels is evident, a necessary design procedure in a split level of modest dimensions.

Fireplaced recreation room on the entrance level has sliding glass doors to rear patio.

Plastic Tops Easy to Clean

Laminated plastic paneling for horizontal and vertical installations in kitchen and bathrooms is becoming increasingly popular.

The plastic surface withstands heat and moisture, resists marks and stains, and can be washed clean with a damp cloth or sponge.

Customized by building material dealers to a contractor's exacting specification, the panels come in a variety of attractive woodgrains, decorator colors and patterns.

Because of its durability, wall panels and kitchen countertops surfaced with decorative laminated plastic are unaffected by boiling water, fruit juices, alcohol and ordinary household chemicals. Laminated plastic, withstands heat up to 275 degrees in addition to resisting cigarette burns.

Bathrooms are another area where the installation of panels surfaced with laminated plastic have proven exceptionally satisfactory for vanity tops, shower enclosures and walls because of their high resistance to heat and moisture. As in the kitchen, laminated plastic is easy to clean. A whisk of a damp sponge will wipe away fingerprints, splash marks and stains left by spilled liquids and medicines.

Panels surfaced with laminated plastic have been proven in the kitchen and bathroom, the two rooms of the home which really take the most abuse. They are now being installed in many other hard use areas such as the family room, children's bedrooms, hallways, and the utility room.

If there's available space and you need a sewing area, you might consider building a stow-away sewing center in your family room.

Try some broad swinging doors in front of shelves for sewing machine and materials; let them contain a built-in, drop-down work table that can open out to form the center, and close to stow it away.

A ceramic tile floor will make clean-up easy as it does for all family room activities.

Preservatives have clear finish are good in areas where there is a lot of dampness. Bleaches give the achieved only after a number of years.

And almost any kind of exterior paint can be used, including latex, acrylic, alkyd and a regular oil-base house paint.

If you purchase a new house with shingles or shakes, it's a good idea to find out from the builder exactly what, if

Due to Finishes

Shingles Do Differ

Ride through any neighborhood where shingled houses are five or more years old, and, without talking to anyone, you'll find decided differences of opinion on whether shingles should be finished.

That age specification is necessary because, in a new development, all the houses with shingles or shakes will have the same finish, or lack of it, as determined by the builder. It is after home owners have lived with this type of exterior material for a while that they develop their own preferences.

You then will see shingles that have become silvery gray, some that have taken on a blackish appearance, some that have retained their natural color, some that are much darker but with no loss of grain and texture, and some that have been painted.

Should you purchase a shingled house that has been painted, you'll have to stay with the paint, although you can, of course, change the color if it doesn't suit you. But you can't successfully use stain over paint.

REMOVAL And removing the paint is a monumental job that even professionals usually will refuse to attempt.

If the shingles have been stained, bleached or coated with a preservative, they can be painted. It is then important to use a primer formulated to prevent any of the initial coating from bleeding through the paint. It is equally important that the proper paint be used.

Your dealer probably will recommend an exterior latex or an acrylic. While some other types can be used, be sure the label on the container says so.

When shingles or shakes have not been treated at all, you have a number of choices. Oil stains now come in a wide variety of colors, including pastels.

MERRY CHRISTMAS — Sarah Jordan's boarding house, used by Thomas Edison's laboratory assistants in Menlo Park, New Jersey, was the first home illuminated by Edison's electric light. On New Year's Eve, 1879, Edison turned the switch that lighted it and his laboratory complex down the street. The Christmas decorations reflect the holiday atmosphere as it was in a boarding house in the latter half of the 19th century. Those decorations include cedar roping for a cornice design, pine branches highlighting the pictures, and poinsettias in vases on the fireplace mantel.

Boughs of Christmas Holly Highlight Greenfield Village

Greenfield Village decks the halls with boughs of holly — and cedar, and pine, and mistletoe — for the Christmas season. Authentic early American holiday decorations fill many of the Village's historic buildings, giving them an added charm.

Several Village homes, the 17th century Cotswold Cottage, the Noah Webster House, the Wright Brothers' Homestead and others take on the same appearance they might have had at Christmastime when they were occupied by their original owners.

The festive atmosphere of an earlier America is carried not only by the greens, scented candles, hand-blown glass balls, and pointsettias, but by music as well. At each stop visitors make, appropriate music of the season and of the period will be playing.

Visitors to Greenfield Village through December 31, will be taken on guided tours through the decorated homes, ending at historic Clinton Inn for a cup of hot spiced cider and Christmas cookies. Revisiting another tradition from the past, a sleigh or carriage ride will conclude this intriguing look at earlier American Christmases.

The village will be open 95 days except Christmas and New Year's days during the holiday season. The last tour will begin each day at 3:30 p.m. down with a damp sponge.

The attractive, rough-textured panels have the rugged finish, which adds to their rich appearance and makes maintenance a matter of a quick wipe down with a damp sponge.

Deeply-embossed panels, capture the rustic flavor of barnboard in their random pattern.

Prefinished hardboard paneling with the realistic look of barnboard now is available to families planning remodeling projects and to builders of new homes and offices.

TV Violence: Admitted, but Controls Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) - "The head of the nation's three television networks say that the portrayal on TV entertainment shows of violence for violence sake is wrong, but that the government should not attempt to control programming."
CBS president Frank Stanton, Leonard H. Goldenson of ABC and NBC head Julian Goodman Friday told the President's commission on violence and the public were the best judges of what should be on TV.

"I would rather be responsible to the people than to a small commission," Stanton said.
The television executives were criticized for the amounts of murder, war, brutality and sex on network shows.
"NETWORKS APATHETIC"
Leon Jaworski, a commission member, said the networks have been apathetic and indifferent to the effect of the portrayal of violence on the air.

The network heads all said they were against showing excessive violence and that they were working to reduce the amount of mayhem shown in entertainment programs.

But they disagreed that showing violence on television necessarily leads to people imitating brutal actions.

CUSTOM MADE

100% HUMAN HAIR

But you can with Mister G's original. Our new process (covered by 18 U.S. Govt. Patents) eliminates the unsightly stitches, knots and material base. Instead each individual hair is embedded into a very soft Synthetic material having the same texture and color of your own scalp. Now for the first time you can comb your hair anywhere and anytime you want to! No longer must each hair know it's place, in fact the more the wind blows the more natural it looks. Clean your new hair just like your own, while you shower using ordinary shampoo. Never before possible but now you sleep, play and work in your new hair, because it never comes off. So if you want hair but don't want the artificial look, call 623-0267 for an appointment.
