Hoffa Trial Opens in Nashville Court

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (P) — The conspiracy trial of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa opens in federal court today. The judge, the Justice Department and defense lawyers agree it could last into the winter.

U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller said he has "pushed everything aside for this case."

Hoffa, who arrived by plane Sunday from Detroit, settled himself in a comfortable downtown hotel suite from which he expects to conduct the affairs of his 1.5-million-member union for the duration of the trial.

Newsmen who met Hoffa at the airport heard him lash out at U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, a frequent Hoffa target.

"Bob Kennedy is using the taxpayers' money for his own personal vendetta," Hoffa said. He contended the attorney general is "usurping the powers of his office, making his own policies and starting out just like Hitler did. If we continue like he is in America we will have no personal rights."

Hoffa is accused of conspiring to violate the Taft-Hartley Act, and with illegally obtaining a million dollars through a dummy company from a Michigan firm whose employees belong to the Teamsters Union.

At his arraignment last June he pleaded innocent and remained free under $3,000 bond. "We will beat this case just like we have all the others," the 49-year-old labor leader said at the time.

A federal grand jury returned an indictment May 16 against Hoffa and Commercial Carriers, Inc., a Detroit auto transport firm. Commercial Carriers entered a plea of no contest and Miller reserved judgment until after Hoffa's trial.

FEDERAL CHARGE
The indictment charged Hoffa and Owen Brennan, a Teamsters vice president who died last year, conspired with Commercial Carriers to form Test Fleet Corp., chartered here in 1959.

Crisis Threat Triggers Drop in Stock-Market

Nervous Rumors Run Through Wall Street as Leaders Meet

NEW YORK (P) — The stock market broke sharply today under the heaviest selling since last May's "big drop."

Worries over international developments were blamed as triggering the plunge.

Wall Street was swept by nervous rumors, fueled by President Kennedy's secret session with top congressional leaders and the intensified fighting between Red China and India.

It is not unknown news that is causing this, one analyst noted. "If you don't know what to expect next, that's what you worry about."

News that the President would address the nation on radio and television at 6 p.m. (Pontiac time) tonight made it unlikely the uncertainty could be resolved before the market close at 3:30 p.m.

Prices were off more than 100 points this afternoon, with some issues taking deeper cuts.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 6.15 at 567.14 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was down 34 at 54.65.

The high-speed quotation tape in 17 minutes behind transactions in the excited trading that saw 2.18 million shares traded by noon. That compares with 1.68 million at the same time Friday.

Around noon, however, the tape appeared to be catching up slightly.

U. N. Due to Debate on Peiping

UNITED NATIONS (P) — While Communist China and India battle on their border, the U.N. General Assembly opens debate today on the annual Communist attempt to seat the Chinese Reds in the United Nations.

Delegates generally predict the Communists would lose again.

The Soviet Union was scheduled to lead off the afternoon debate on its resolution that would have the 18-nation assembly replace Chinese Communist delegates on all U.N. bodies.

Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin, was believed likely to contend that the United Nations was only hurting itself by keeping out the Communist government controlling a fifth of the world's population.

Nationalist Chinese delegate Liu Chieh planned to reply with the argument that the Chinese people had repudiated the Peiping regime by fleeing the Chinese mainland in droves.

Liu was expected to contend that the Chinese Communists were committing aggression against India and should be kept out of the United Nations because the U.N. charter limits the membership to "peace-loving states."

U.S. delegate Adlai E. Stevenson was listed to speak third, followed by representatives of Afghanistan and Morocco.

Charge of Murder Against 2 Pending

Admits Slaying Inkster Man 'as a Favor'

By DICK HANSON

Murder charges against two men who admitted their part in the slaying of Peter Perva were pending today as Prosecutor George F. Taylor investigated the roles of two women in the death.

A 20-year-old ex-convict Richard Drobil of Belleville admitted killing the 44-year-old Inkster father of six "as a favor" for his ex-father-in-law, Taylor said.

He said his former father-in-law, Stanley Maroley, 46, of 2300 Middle Belt Road, Farmington, admitted being Mrs. Perva's lover and ordered her husband's execution.

According to Maroley's formal statement yesterday, Mrs. Perva, 40, knew of her husband's slaying the day before she reported him missing to Inkster police.

Perva's unidentified body was found in a well-censored grave in Independence Township Wednesday several hours before the missing report was received, according to Pontiac state police.

Maroley said he told Mrs. Perva of the murder by telephone Tuesday night, only hours after the slaying.

Also, Drobil said he told his ex-wife, Nina Maroley, 29, that he had killed Perva. He said she accompanied him the previous weekend to the spot where he dug the grave and left it waiting for the man marked for death.

According to Drobil, Nina didn't believe he was going to murder Perva.

Drobil said she didn't believe him afterward when he told her the job was done.

Taylor said he planned to charge the two men with first-degree murder today. But he said he was waiting for state police to complete their investigation to determine how involved the two women might be.

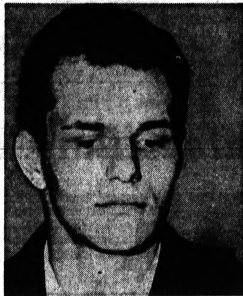

He said that knowing of a murder and failing to report it to the authorities isn't a crime in itself.

However, Taylor said there is a question at this time whether the women knowingly aided in Perva's slaying.

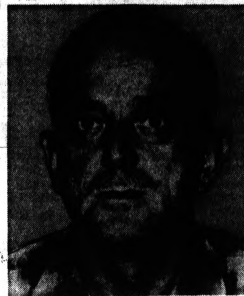

According to Drobil, he drove the victim's car to a laundromat at Eight Mile Road and Woodward Avenue after killing him, where he met Nina.

He said she drove her car behind him to the spot where he abandoned Perva's car near the Greyhound bus station in Detroit.

India in Danger — Nehru

Fear Red China Threat

NEW DELHI, India (P) — Prime Minister Nehru declared today that the independence of India is threatened by Chinese Communism.

If necessary, everything else must be sacrificed to meet the threat to the freedom of the Indian people, Nehru said in a broadcast.

He said India is facing a "powerful and unscrupulous opponent."

"He spoke at the end of the third day of a Chinese offensive into northeastern and northwestern India."

Using tanks in one place against lightly supplied Indian troops, the Chinese continued to press forward.

Today, Indian defense officials announced, the Chinese attacked near the junction of the Indian-Tibet-Burma border at the extreme end of the frontier.

There were indications of an impending Chinese attack in the center of the northeastern frontier too.

Using tanks in the western sector, in Ladakh, they captured four more Indian posts near Pangong Lake where they threatened the Chushul Airfield, India's only landing strip for supply in the remote lofty region.

The Chinese opened a new section of front at Kibito at the eastern end of the North East Frontier near Burma, the spokesman said, with an attack at 3 a.m.

Radio Peiping said earlier Indian troops attacked a Chinese position in the Chayul area of Tibet. This is possibly the same area, although there is a Chayul in Tibet about 200 miles west of the area near Burma where the Indian spokesman said the new fighting was raging.

The Chayul area in Tibet is about 10 miles north of the border claimed by India and about 20 miles northeast of Taglia Ridge near the Bhutan border where the fighting started at dawn Saturday.

CONCENTRATING TROOPS
About half way between Kibito and Taglia ridge, the Chinese are also concentrating troops, the Indian spokesman said.

The troops are in Longju, a village that the Chinese captured from Indian border guards in August 1959, killing three of them in the first bloodshed of the dispute over 51,000 square miles of Himalayan borderlands.

The spokesman declined to speculate on whether a Chinese attack was imminent at Longju, but indicated build-ups have led to other attacks in recent days.

Considerable cloudiness and colder temperatures are scheduled for the area tonight and tomorrow. Following a low of 39 this evening, the temperature is expected to reach a high of 56 tomorrow.

Forecast Tonight Colder Weather
The forecast for Wednesday is partly cloudy and continued cool.

Rainfall registered four-tenths of an inch in downtown Pontiac from 10 a. m. Saturday till the same time today.

Today's winds are from the southeast at 10 to 15 miles per hour; they will shift north to northwest tonight and tomorrow.

Forty-two was the lowest thermometer read preceding 6 a. m. today. At 2 p. m. the mercury measured 51.

Urgent Crisis Brings Action by President

Trouble Spot Mystery; National Security Unit, Cabinet Also to Meet

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy today recalled top congressional leaders to the capital and decided to address the nation on television at 6 p.m. (Pontiac time) on an international situation of the "highest national urgency."

There was no official indication of the nature of the crisis. There was no hint whether it concerned Cuba, Berlin or India, where the Chinese Communists have launched armed attacks on the northern borders.

The White House announced that Kennedy also had scheduled meetings of the National Security Council, the Cabinet and congressional leaders of both parties this afternoon.

The Defense Department set up a briefing for reporters at 7 p.m., an hour after Kennedy addresses the nation.

There was no statement on the nature of the briefing, but indications were that it related to possible military moves which the President might announce.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger declined to elaborate on his phrase "a subject of the highest national urgency." He said the television and radio networks had been asked to set aside a half hour for the address to the nation.

Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress were asked to report to the White House at 4 p.m. (Pontiac time).

LEI IN CAPITAL
Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson already was in Washington. Seventeen senators and representatives, including chairmen and top minority members of the Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees of Congress, were asked to attend the conference with Kennedy.

Salinger said Air Force planes were sent to bring the senators and representatives to the Washington where no other rapid transportation was available.

The chairman of the GOP congressional committee pledged "wholescale Republican support for any strong stand the President wants to take on Cuba and Berlin."

BACKS STRENGTHENING
Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., said that "whatever move the President has decided to make—if it involves strengthening our stand—I know that I speak for Republican congressmen and the Republicans who will be elected Nov. 6 in saying that we will give the President our unreserved backing in every way."

In London, British government quarters appeared mystified and uneasy about the air crisis reported in Washington.

Authoritative diplomatic sources said Britain has received no advance information on the Washington developments.

Kennedy conferred in private this morning with key members of the administration, including Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The highest sessions were held while evidence mounted that Kennedy was in the air.

Teacher Dies in Crash While Crop Dusting

ROME — A 27-year-old Lapeer Junior High School teacher was killed shortly before noon yesterday when his light plane plummeted to earth and caught fire while he was dusting for mice in an orchard just west of here.

The victim was Clarence D. Boyer, 825 Liberty St., Lapeer, who left Lapeer Airport about 11 a.m. on a crop-dusting assignment at Romeo Orchards.

Boyer made one pass at the field at an altitude of about 80 feet, then throttled the plane up and made a sharp bank to the left.

According to Romeo State Trooper Robert J. Kenney, who witnessed the mishap, the plane apparently lost air speed on the turn and crashed.

Dem Leaders Launch 10-Day State Campaign

By The Associated Press
Three Democratic leaders will invade Michigan in the next 10 days to make one last pitch to win votes for the Nov. 6 election.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson arrived in Detroit today for what is billed as a "nonpolitical" speech at the National Auto Show. Tomorrow, however, he'll roll up his sleeves and start campaigning in Grand Rapids for Gov. Swainson and other state Democrats.

Former President Harry S. Truman, due in Detroit Saturday, also is expected to do a little politicking for the state Democratic ticket.

Five days before the Nov. 6 election, President Kennedy will reaffirm his support of Swainson in another visit to the Motor City—his second in less than a month.

For good measure, Anthony J. Celebrezze, secretary of health, education and welfare, will show up two days before the election to put in a good word for the President's hotly contested medicare plan for the aged.

While Swainson sticks close to the vice president today, his Republican challenger, George Romney, planned to swing outstate for a series of rallies and speaking appearances in Muskegon.

Romney was idle Sunday, as is his custom, but Swainson spent a busy day visiting churches, rallies and a United Auto Workers educational meeting in the Detroit area.

In other campaigning in the Motor City Sunday, Neil Staeble, Democratic candidate for Congress—man-at-large, plugged his three-point program for education.

Staeble called for expanded college facilities, a self-liquidating federal loan fund for all college students and establishment of a youth opportunities program to aid drop-outs and high school graduates who do not go on to college.

"The youth activities program would help our noncollege students and high school drop-outs through such programs as the Domestic Peace Corps and the Youth Conservation Corps," he said.

Democratic Sen. Philip A. Hart, meanwhile, plugged his party's candidates and talked on his proposed bill to bring "morality to the marketplace in a whirlwind weekend tour of Berrien County."

"To me, bad packaging and labeling practices pose a threat to this nation," Hart told some 225 members of the southwestern chapter of the Michigan Credit Union League at St. Joseph Saturday night.

Bentley Has Big Edge on Staebler

DETROIT (AP)—Republican Alvin M. Bentley holds a 4.3 percentage point lead over his Democratic opponent Neil Staebler in the race for Michigan's congressional man-at-large, according to the latest Detroit News poll.

The poll gives Bentley, former Michigan congressman and Owens-Illinois industrialist, 51.3 per cent of the statewide total to 46.8 for Staebler.

Ralph W. Muncey, Socialist Labor candidate received one per cent and the poll said 1.5 per cent of voters interviewed remained undecided.

The News poll is compiled by Market-Opinion Research Co.

Sunday, the News poll showed Republican gubernatorial candidate George Romney leading Democratic Gov. Swainson by 32 per cent to 47.3 per cent.

The results of today's poll showed Bentley picking up an additional six-tenths of a per cent and Staebler dropping eight-tenths of a per cent since the last poll.

The poll said Bentley now holds 34.3 per cent of industrial Wayne County to 63.4 for Staebler.

Bentley's outstate showing is stronger than Romney's but he trails the GOP gubernatorial candidate in industrial areas.

The Soviet resolution was defeated then 48-36, with 20 nations abstaining.

Both Communist and anti-Communist diplomats predicted the Soviet proposal would lose again, but each side was hopeful of getting a few more votes than last year.

India was considered unlikely to enter into the debate, though it was expected to vote for the Soviet resolution. Indian delegation sources said over the weekend that their government still favored seating Communist China despite their new border fighting.

FOUND BY DOGS
Perva's body was found Wednesday when two hunting dogs led by David Cook, 23, of 1500 Tull Road, Waterford Township, to the grave hidden beneath leaves in the woods near Stuckey and Pine Knob Roads.

Perva had been shot once behind the right ear from close range. The bullets lodged in his brain causing instant death, according to Det. L. A. William Calkins.

In his signed statement to the prosecutor, Drobl said Maroley asked him to get rid of Perva and provided the gun, leaving further details up to Drobl.

Drobl said Perva didn't know who he was, and that he followed Perva's car en route to work Monday morning.

The next morning, Drobl said, he stationed himself at a stop sign where he knew Perva would stop his car.

When he did Drobl said he jumped in and pointed the gun at Perva, ordering him to drive out to Pontiac.

"My boss wants to see you about the way you've been treating your wife," Drobl said he told his victim.

They stopped for gas on the way, Drobl said the prosecutor.

Drobl said he knew the wooded spot from a camping trip he made as a boy.

As they drove when they arrived at the secluded scene he told him Perva was going to be the man to inject a drug in his arm to dull his senses so that he wouldn't recognize his boss who was waiting to see Perva in a nearby (nonexistent) cabin.

Drobl said the hypodermic needle contained air. This would have killed Perva if injected into his blood stream, L.A. Calkins said.

But Perva rebelled, Turning away, he said "You'll have to kill me first," according to Drobl.

Drobl said he then fired once. He said he then took Perva's wallet containing $9 and his car keys before dumping his body into the grave.

ONE MISTAKE
Det. Charles Leaf said Drobl made one mistake in an otherwise well-planned murder. He left a single fingerprint on the steering wheel of Perva's car before abandoning it.

Police were able to trace the fingerprint through crime files at Lansing. Drobl was convicted of assaulting a Detroit police officer in 1959 and served 1½ years at the Jonia state reformatory.

Taylor said at first they were almost convinced that Perva had been slain by professional killers because of the thorough planning involved.

"We probably would never have found Perva's body if it hadn't been for those dogs," Taylor said.

However, Det. Leaf said he was suspicious of Mrs. Perva when she failed to register the proper note of grief while identifying her husband's body.

The next day he asked her if she had any boyfriends, and she told him about Maroley, Leaf said.

"She also told us that Maroley had an ex-son-in-law (Drobl) who was an unsavory character of whom she felt was capable of murder," Leaf said.

REAL BREAK
"Finding Drobl's fingerprint in the car was a real break in the case," Leaf added.

Both Drobl and Maroley were arrested at Drobl's home in Belleville Saturday.

They offered no resistance, Leaf said.

Maroley talked first, saying he had wanted to get rid of Perva for a long time because of the way he treated his wife, Taylor said.

Maroley said he had met Mrs. Perva three years ago in a bar and that they had been intimate since, the prosecutor continued.

He said Perva knew this and warned him to stay away from his wife several times.

Mrs. Perva attempted to divorce her husband on two occasions. They have six children, one of whom is an epileptic patient in Caro.

Drobl said he hoped that doing a favor for Nina's father would help him gain a reconciliation with his ex-wife. They were divorced last spring.

"I thought I would solve a lot of problems for everybody by getting rid of Perva," Drobl said in his statement.

He said afterward he dumped Perva's wallet and the shovel in a pond near the murder scene and concealed the pistol in the hose connection between the engine and heater of Perva's car.

State police were searching the pond for Perva's wallet and the shovel used to dig his grave today.

The gun was recovered from the car and was being sent to the state police laboratory at East Lansing for a ballistics test.

Death of Ex-Resident Probed for Foul Play

The possibility of foul play is being probed in the death of a former Pontiac man, Douglas D. Miller, who was found dying in the Meridian Township home near Lansing Saturday.

Miller, 40, was the son of a prominent Pontiac businessman, Frank Miller of 66 Chipewa Road, former owner of the D and D Dry Cleaners on W. Huron St.

The younger Miller was found lying with head injuries in a pool of blood in the building's basement.

An emergency operation failed, and Miller died later that day.

Miller was vice president of Capital Business Service, Inc. of Lansing. He was separated from his wife and lived alone.

The condition of Miller's car indicated it had struck a tree and mailbox not far from the house, he added.

Reporter Sore After Meeting Bird Hunter

BY DICK HANSON
Although I have been hunting for 15 years, I learned more about it Saturday by being shot in the leg.

It was the opening day of pheasant season.

I learned: STAY WELL AWAY FROM HUNTERS. YOU DON'T KNOW AND CAN TRUST IMPLICITLY.

Our party of five (all good, safe hunters) was hunting in the Brown City area when two strange hunters approached in full view about 30 yards in front.

One of them shot at a bird that ran out from cover in front of me.

I was lucky. Most of the shot passed between my legs, and my leather boots stopped a few more pellets.

My fellow hunters ran to my aid but no one was able to get the name of the reckless stranger.

He ran to his car and sped off. Today I can't run as well as he can.

some major international development was imminent.

While speculation over the weekend had emphasized Cuba as the likeliest source of concern, there were indications that Europe — quite possibly the storm center of Berlin — also was involved.

SPECULATION ON EUROPE
There was fresh speculation that the heart of the Kennedy administration was in the capital over the weekend lay in Europe — quite possibly at the storm center of Berlin.

Among those at the White House this morning were Llewellyn Thompson, former ambassador to the Soviet Union and now a State Department adviser; and Martin Hillenbrand, director of the State Department's German affairs division.

For 36 hours Washington has been alive with conjecture that a new crisis was brewing in Cuba.

In answer to questions, however, Salinger said he did not believe that Edward Martin, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, participated in the White House talks this morning.

Salinger refused to answer when asked if the urgent subject covered more than one country. Asked if the situation could lead to some kind of message to the United Nations, Salinger said he could not reply at this time.

Hearing Slated Tonight on Proposal for Sewer

BIRMINGHAM — The necessity of installing a relief sewer to serve property owners on Ruffner Avenue will be decided after a public hearing at tonight's City Commission meeting.

The hearing, scheduled for 8 p.m., is the result of a petition presented to Birmingham officials in July, 1960, by residents of Ruffner Avenue between Grand Street and Woodward Avenue.

The petitioners complained that heavy rains resulted in flooded basements in the area. The residents asked the city to take action in solving the problem.

After compiling a study on the situation, the City Engineering Department said a relief sewer could be constructed for an estimated $5,100.

URGES HEARING
The State Health Department said that a construction permit could not be issued until the Red Run enclosure and the Dequindre Interceptor, both part of the 12-Towns Relief Drain project, were under construction.

City Engineer William T. Kilien requested that the hearing be scheduled for tonight because he said the 12-Towns projects soon will be under way.

Birmingham Mayor Florence H. Willett will act as chairman of a special traffic safety conference sponsored by the Michigan Safety Commission and the Michigan Citizens Highway Safety Action Committee Nov. 12.

The conference, which will be held at Michigan State University, is to decide a brief simplified action program for state priorities for traffic improvement.

LBJ May Drop Car Show Talk

Crisis Might Force Canceling of Speech

DETROIT (UPI)—Vice President Lyndon Johnson's scheduled visit to the 44th National Automobile Show in Detroit today because of a Washington crisis that forced President Kennedy to call important national leaders back to Washington.

Johnson's office had not canceled the engagement by 12:30 p.m., but the Vice President earlier had cut short a campaign trip to Hawaii by half a day to return to Washington.

Johnson was to sub for Kennedy at the auto show. He was scheduled to arrive here at 4:30 p.m. and leave Michigan tomorrow after some political speakmaking in western Michigan on behalf of Democratic state candidates.

The show is being held for only the second time in Detroit after 42 previous appearances in New York City. It features nearly 400 cars and trucks ranging from the compacts to a 27-ton GMC cement mixer.

Over 355,000 persons already have flocked to the show since it opened Friday night with an invitation preview attended by 50,000. A total of 188,764 persons jammed the huge exhibition hall yesterday.

Russians Closer to Alaska Than Cuba

By BOB CONSIDINE
NEW YORK — The Russians are a lot closer to American soil than their rocket emplacements and fishing harbor in Cuba. Far as we know, they've got nothing they can throw over the 90 miles of water between Castroland and Key West.

But they are only a few good brasses away from Alaska property. Ratmanov (or Big Diodome) Island in the Bering Strait is 2.4 miles from our Little Diodome.

It has been that way for a long time now, but matters once were worse.

In the early 1800's, the Russians owned Alaska as far south down the continent as the environs of present day San Francisco.

Russia's declaration in 1823 that nobody except Russians could navigate or fish the waters of North America from the Bering Strait to approximately the position of today's Seattle — and on a 100-mile limit basis, to boot — brought certain sharp retorts from President Monroe.

SHARP RETORT

One, historically and still topically, stated, "The American continents are no longer subjects for any new colonial establishments."

Russia owned Alaska from the time of its discovery in 1741 by the Danish voyager Vitus Bering, commissioned by the Tsar, until its sale to the U. S. in 1867 during the administration of President Andrew Johnson.

Johnson was nearly impeached and certainly never properly applauded for his needed support of Secretary of State William H. Seward's "Felly."

The haggling had begun during President Buchanan's term. He offered $5 million for Alaska's 586,400 square miles, two and a half times today's Texas. That's a million dollars less than the cost of a Boeing 707 or Douglas DC-8.

Russia turned it down, but sold on March 30, 1867, for $7,200,000 — a million dollars less than the little Ranger V which blew a fuse in space the other day and

Report Arresting Aides of Al-Badr

CAIRO (U) — The Middle East News Agency Correspondent reported from San'ta today that the Yemeni revolutionary regime has arrested all tribal sheikhs who helped Imam Mohammad A-Badr escape from it.

The dispatch said they will be tried by a military court.

Al-Badr escaped to the Washa region Sept. 27 after rebel army artillery units attacked his palace in San'ta. The Washa sheikhs granted the fleeing Imam refuge and helped him to escape to other pryorayal tribal units in northern Yemen, the dispatch said.

King Hussein of Jordan has assured Al-Badr that Jordan will stand by him, reports from Amman said.

Dearborn Man Killed in Canadian Crack-Up

WINDSOR, Ont. (U) — Leonard Cudla, 30, of Dearborn, Mich., was killed early yesterday when his car hit a bridge abutment near Essex, 15 miles southeast of here.

A passenger, Patricia Bucacurri, 31, of Detroit, was reported in serious condition with head and leg injuries at a Windsor hospital.

now will fail to hit its appointed target, the moon.

Americans learn a little more about, and appreciate the 49th state a little more each day. It's an incredible land which offers mainlanders, particularly young and vigorous ones, a last United States frontier.

Many have accepted that challenge. One, Lowell Thomas Jr., who is married to Pan-Am's Sam Pryor's daughter, is running for Congress from there.

My friend Carroll Colvin Bear, who once wasted time in the endless debates of a New York press club, sends me her intrepid full-page spread in the Anchorage Daily Times about the building of one of the world's toughest roads, the Copper River highway.

MORE THAN WORTH IT

As of last week, when the 95th anniversary of the formal transfer of Alaska from Russia to the U. S. was celebrated, Alaska had paid for herself countless times over in dollars and even more times in strategic value in today's tense world.

After all these years, the gold flashed and chewed from her soil in 1900 came within a million dollars of the original purchase price, and in addition to these 286,000 Troy ounces there was the silver, tin, coal, oil, fishing, timber, jade, furs, and tourism. Since 1898, Alaska has produced more than $5 billion in fish and minerals alone.

Alaska has 44,000,000 acres of commercial forest land, five kinds of bear (black, grizzly, polar, Kodiak and glacier), enormous airfields and radar sites which help keep the peace of the world, an annual ballgame played on June 21 in Fairbanks by the light of the midnight sun, both quick and slow silver, petrified prehistoric monsters, cabages the size of watermelons and a city named Nome.

Seems an early map-maker, finding no known name for that remote area, scribbled "name?" on his chart. It became Nome.

And the highest mountain in the world from base to top, Mt. McKinley, more active volcanoes than any other place in the world, and more poise about the proximity of the Russian Bear than any now under the gun.

QUESTION: WHAT IS WIREPHOTO?

ANSWER: News photographs have a vital part in a modern newspaper. The problem used to be to get a photograph of a distant event fast enough so that it could be printed while the story it told was still news.

Then, in 1935, The Associated Press, a news cooperative controlled by a large number of newspapers, started "Wirephoto." The process begins with a news photographer (1) taking a picture

He rushes a print to one of 40 different sending points. It is placed on a roll. As the roll turns around in the sending machine an electric beam focuses on it (2) and turns its dark and light areas into electric signals.

These are flashed out over special wires. Newspapers all over the country pick up the signals on their receiving machines and turn them into pictures by either (3, left) focusing them through another electric eye onto sensitized film to obtain a negative, or (3, below) having them turned directly into a final positive picture by another device called Photofax.

Eight minutes later, the editor of the newspaper can have a picture to engrave and put in his next edition so you (4) will be able to see it.

FOR YOU TO DO: Look at a photograph in your newspaper and see if you can tell why part of it seems light in color and why part of it seems dark.

Trial in Texas

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—Billie Sol Estes, the West Texas promoter whose empire of fertilizer tanks, grain storage and cotton allotments is in bankruptcy, is to go on trial here today on criminal charges.

It will be the state's third attempt to try him on charges of theft and swindling. Four indictments charge him with theft of a contract for fertilizer tanks, swindling a farmer, embezzlement of the contract and theft of the tanks.

If convicted, Estes, 37, could be sentenced to prison for a term ranging from 2 to 20 years.

The case was transferred from Pecos last June when defense lawyers said they could not get an impartial jury in Estes' hometown. When the case was called here Sept. 25, his attorneys won a postponement on the ground that key witnesses were not available.

Estes arrived in Tyler Sunday morning. After attending church he spent most of the day conferring with his attorneys.

He was installed in office Saturday at the group's 48th annual meeting by Richard D. McLain, manager of Dearborn Inn and outgoing president.

Old Car Jolts
Town, Turns Out to Be Live Wire

CUMBERLAND, Ind. (AP)—At 6:10 p.m., the burglar alarm at the bank began jangling. Lights and traffic signals blacked out. A fire sprang up in a vacant lot. Telephone lines went dead.

Authorities later blamed it all on a loose hood on Ford Sorrell's 1949 model car.

Town Marshal Vernon Buckshot said the hood flew off the 18-year-old Indianapolis youth's auto as he drove along U.S. 40 Sunday night. The wayward metal sheet soared over the car and sliced through telephone lines and a 13,000-volt electrical cable.

Power was restored to this small suburb east of Indianapolis two hours later.

Slate Another N-Blast
Over Johnston Island

HONOLULU (AP)—The United States will try to make it two in a row in the high altitude nuclear test series Tuesday night with a scheduled sup megaton blast above Johnston Island in the Pacific.

An Army Nike-Hercules rocket was expected to be used to loft the nuclear warhead to a firing altitude of 20 to 30 miles, the same height as Friday night's successful shot that was clearly visible on the Hawaiian island of Kauai.

The Atomic Energy Commission won't say, but several more drops — nuclear devices released from airplanes — are believed programmed. American scientists have set off 31 nuclear blasts since last April.

The shot is planned between 9:30 p.m. HST — 2:30 a.m. EST since last April.

Man Destroys Himself,
Columnist Harris Says

SAGINAW in—In mental well-being, "our real enemy is within," newspaper columnist Sydney Harris told a seminar on alcoholism at Delta College Saturday.

"If we ultimately destroy ourselves as individuals or as a civilization, it will be due to our irrationalities," he said to 400 persons attending the event sponsored by the Tri-County Committee on Alcoholism.

British Stand on Indian Side

London Reaffirms
Reds Are Aggressors

LONDON (AP)—British reaffirmed today its belief that India is the victim of Communist Chinese aggression.

In doing so, a Foreign Office spokesman declined to discuss specific details of the flare-up of serious fighting between the two Asian neighbors.

DISCUSSING ARMS

Other government officials reported privately, meanwhile, that Indian authorities are informally discussing with the British as well as the Americans possible new arms purchases.

Certain specialized types of equipment appear to be needed urgently by the Indians in the mountainous terrain where armed forces of the two sides are battling out a border dispute.

The New Delhi government, however, has not yet made a formal request to this country for weapons.

ATTITUDE SAME

Answering questions at a daily news conference, the Foreign Office spokesman said Britain's attitude toward the Indian-Chinese crisis was spelled out by Foreign Secretary Lord Home at the United Nations Sept. 27 — and he added that the position, in London's view, has not changed.

Lord Home said at that time: "The Chinese now are 150 miles inside Indian territory. India has been forced to rearm. Everybody knows they are peaceful people. Everybody knows they are being subjected to aggression."

Weigh Religious Issue

ATHENS (AP) — The Greek Orthodox Holy Synod is deliberating on whether King Paul and Queen Frederika should be godparents to a son of Francis Noel-Baker, British Laborite member of Parliament.

line, cohesiveness with Miss de Moriere aboard the plane, told of the tragic events in an interview.

"I was in the lavatory at the time of the accident," Miss Lacy said. "There was a tremendous noise, like an explosion. It knocked me to the floor and tore off the lavatory door."

"I started to crawl to the cabin aisle, but the copilot, already lying on the floor near the open hatch, told me to stay where I was. I was terribly frightened, thought it was a bomb."

HISSING SOUND

Miss Lacy said a hissing sound was coming from the hatch long before the accident and that it had been dulled by stuffing pillow cases into the door crevices.

She said Miss de Moriere was standing near the door to announce to the passengers that the plane was beginning its descent over Hartford.

"She always made the announcements," the Brookline stewardess said, "because the passengers got a kick out of her French accent."

Charles Mack, 34, of Springfield, a passenger on the plane, said there was a "screeching noise" before the hatch flew open and sucked Miss de Moriere to her death.

"At least one of the girls," he said, "had been holding her hands to her ears to shut out the noise long before the accident."

In Washington, Civil Aeronautics Board investigators said the explosion-like noise was caused by the sudden decompression of the plane's cabin.

Edward Slattery of the CAB said, "It's the same type of noise you would hear if you broke a paper bag filled with air."

He said the plane would be flown from Bradley Field, Conn., to Washington for a more complete investigation.

Public Told Again About Cigarettes

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Cancer Society, opening its five-day annual meeting here today, estimates that 280,000 Americans will die of cancer next year.

Of that number, nearly 41,000 will succumb to lung cancer, the society predicted, adding that 75 per cent of those cases could be prevented if people did not smoke cigarettes.

The Tobacco Institute, which speaks for the industry, maintains that no conclusive scientific proof has been offered that cigarettes cause cancer.

Hare Warns Candidates to Follow Poster Rules

LANSING (AP) — Candidates seeking office in the Nov. 6 election were warned today to keep their placards off polling places, public buildings, state highways and freeways.

Secretary of State James M. Hare, who is also supervisor of elections in Michigan, also urged candidates not to nail or tack posters on trees on either public or private lands.

It Seems to Me

State Needs George Romney as Governor More Than Ever

Michigan is witnessing one of her most stirring and vigorous gubernatorial campaigns.

It's an excellent thing.
It serves good purposes.

ROMNEY

Rarely has an outstanding businessman with the background and activities of George Romney, cast everything aside and plunged headlong into a whirlwind battle like this. Governor Swainson accepted the proffered gauntlet and the two have been at it hammer and tongs.

Recently, The Press phoned Mr. ROMNEY at his residence at 5 o'clock. He was out.

Would he be home for dinner? Dinner? Dinner? He wasn't expected until 11 o'clock and he had left shortly after 5 in the morning.

It's a very encouraging sign in the Nation when a highly successful businessman drops his own affairs and offers to serve the public. The governorship means a big financial loss to ROMNEY. Perhaps he isn't so wealthy as WILLIAMS, HART, all the KENNEDYS, FDR and other rich Democrats, but he is much more deeply entrenched in current business.

Michigan needs a man like Romney as she never has before. Under 14 years of Democratic administration, we acquired a bad name. We've been kidded, scorned and made the butt of nationwide jokes. Our "economic climate" stands absolutely last in general reputation among the 50 states. Employers shy at the mention of "Michigan." That costs us jobs. Michigan employers have expanded into other states. And, some businessmen pulled up and departed.

WILLIAMS dug himself into the doghouse with employers, and SWAINSON has done nothing to reverse the opinion. Michigan's Legislature has wrangled, quarreled and put purely state affairs in a hopeless mess. (And the Republican Senate can accept the stigma of a big, fat finger in that particular pie.)

A financial leader is a necessity. That stands first.

How can we restore order and imbue business with a greater confidence without someone who has proven his worth in a big, overwhelming way? Mr. Romney took American Motors when it was going down the third time and made a financial success competing against General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Does that take ability?

Does that require tremendous capacity? Remember, history shows more than 1,700 automobile companies have departed into the transportation graveyards. That many started — failed — and quit.

I have great confidence that GEORGE ROMNEY will work out plans acceptable to any legislator who isn't blindly and dumbly voting a straight party ticket. And these are a minority. The KENNEDY plans in Washington that failed were defeated by his own party which has a sharp majority in both houses.

On the basis of what each man can do to advance the cause of all Michigan people, I believe GEORGE ROMNEY is easily the logical selection. State affairs have sagged to a lowly level. A change is necessary—and especially with the possibility of a strong, vigorous, experienced man.

All segments of Michigan need a new approach. We all need greater business ability in Lansing. All divisions of the Commonwealth desperately cry for strong, virile leadership — the type that Mr. Romney can provide.

Oakland County offers the candidate — her own citizen: George Romney.

Serious Situation

British newspapers are taking a very dim view of our declarations about "a ring around Cuba."

They announce very calmly that they propose to do as they bloody please, and we aren't going to ride herd on any of their ships or their intentions. In fact, they're a bit belligerent. The whole world continues to discuss the Cuban situation, and we are reminded time and again that we have our own ring of military bases all around Russia.

The Reds have squawked, and pounded their shoes on our best tables, but we haven't been appreciably slowed down. Now some of our closest allies are balking on the Cuban matter. That situation is far from solved. The President faces a tremendously serious problem with half a dozen partisans clamoring for his ear, each with a different solution.

And in Conclusion

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

New York newspapermen tell me ROBERT MORGENTHAU, Democratic nominee against NELSON ROCKEFELLER, is annoyed no end at KENNEDY. Apparently, all he will receive is token support and he demands the full treatment. It's possible KENNEDY doesn't want to risk that in the face of MORGENTHAU's probable defeat.

SYD HARRIS, Chicago newspaperman, offers a reasonable apology to the people he passes on the street. "I'm thinking too hard," he explains, "and should wear a sign: 'Caution: Mind at Work.'" Every experience these unfortunate moments of abstraction. Surveys show older folks vote more regularly than younger ones and men outdo women in percentages at the polls.

I can't prove it, but I'll bet a sugar cookie that if you knew Bobby Darin, you'd think less of him than do those who know him well; and that approaches zero.

The new TV shows that are getting the national nod, according to a survey, are: "The Nurses," "Beverly Hillsbillies," "Lucy," "Jetsons," "Eleventh Hour" and a reluctant "Jackie Gleason." Those that aren't: "Lloyd Bridges," "Saints and Sinners," "Sam Benedict," "It's a Man's World," "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," "Stoney Burke," "Oggy Man Higgins" and "Roy Rogers-Dale Evans."

Trusted scouts advise me Diane Adams should be ranked as one of the area's attractive young ladies. She's recorded. Overheard: "Now

David Lawrence Says:

Labor Laws Handicap Business

WASHINGTON — Some day, when there's a deep depression in America while the European economy forges ahead, there will be post-mortems to find out the why and the wherefore.

Some of the things happening today that are glossed over or ignored or downplayed are recalled, and may be a remedy will then be prescribed. But, as of now, such principles as "equal protection of the law" are being LAWRENCE-disregarded and business is being severely handicapped.

In some instances, enterprises are being strangled and forced to close down altogether. Here are a few of the practices that reveal glaring inconsistencies in today's labor-management laws and in the interpretations given them by the National Labor Relations Board:

1. A company that goes out of business because it thinks it cannot make ends meet is penalized by being ordered to continue to pay wages for work not being done if somehow the closing down can be related to a labor dispute.

The "obligation" then continues indefinitely or until the workers some day "voluntarily" quit. The big labor unions, however, with tens of millions of dollars in their treasuries are not required to hear any of this expense.

2. A labor union can conduct an unjustified strike and put a company out of business but is under no obligation to reimburse the employer for any of its losses.

3. A labor-union executive for a region or area — with authority over many local unions — can nullify the desires of the members of a local union who may wish to accept a cut in wages as a means of helping to keep their employer in business.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Thus, the National Labor Relations Board — which now is controlled by Kennedy Administration appointees — announced last Thursday that Deering Milliken, Inc., one of the country's largest textile companies, had been ordered to assume back-pay payments in behalf of a small company in Darlington, S. C., that it does not own but which happens to have in it some individuals who own some stock in both companies.

The board, by a 3-to-2 vote, ruled that, while some of the causes may have been economic, the fact that there happened to be a labor dispute in which animosity was displayed by the employer toward the organizing of a union superseded all else and hence justified the imposition of a penalty in the form of back pay.

The textile company, in fighting the case, relied on a decision of the Eighth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The court had said:

"But none of this can be taken to mean that an employer does not have the absolute right, at all times, to permanently close and go out of business, or to actually dispose of his business to another, for whatever reason he may choose, whether union animosity or anything else, and without his thereby left subject to a remedial liability under the Labor Management Relations Act for such unfair labor practices, except up to the time that such actual and permanent closing or true and bona fide change in ownership has occurred."

But the National Labor Relations Board said all this was "obiter dicta" — extraneous opinion — because, in that same case, the court happened to order reinstatement by the successor company of some employees unlawfully discharged by the predecessor company.

NONE LIKE IT
In the Darling case, however, there is no successor company, as the assets have been sold at auction. No case exactly like this one has been reviewed by the courts.

As for the instance in which the regional director of a steel union in western New York insisted that the local union in a small company maintain its wage rates in accordance with the rates prevailing in the big steel companies, this resulted in a closing of the plant.

That's how the labor-union monopoly operates today in America, while European competitors, which face no such obstacles, are "Many great things have failed to be accomplished because old folks told young people they couldn't be done."

Today is Monday, Oct. 22, the 256th day of 1962 with 70 to follow.
The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:
In 1836, Gen. Sam Houston, hero of the battle of San Jacinto against the Mexicans, was sworn in as first president of the Republic of Texas.

In 1883, the Metropolitan Opera House in New York celebrated its grand opening with a performance of "Faust."

In 1907, thousands of people lined up in front of the Kaibab Cattle Co. in New York as a "run" on the bank got under way. The next day the bank suspended payments and this, more than anything else, spurred the Panic of 1907.

In 1953, representatives of France and the Indonesian state of Laos signed a treaty making Laos "fully independent and sovereign."

A thought for the day — the British playwright, George Bernard Shaw, said: "There is only one religion, though there are a hundred versions of it."

Latin America

Life

When a mob of Communist-led students rioted in Panama a lot of U. S. double-dames took it to mean that "the people" of Latin America are hopelessly anti-Yanqui or even pro-Castro. This fiction then becomes an excuse for our inaction in Cuba.

Secretary Rusk sought backing for a bolder stand from hemisphere foreign ministers. As usual, Brazil, Bolivia, Chile and several other governments showed little concern about the Soviet take-over in Cuba, and may even be glad Castro is around to provide an argument for more U. S. aid. But it does the Latin Americans scant credit to assume that President Goulart of Brazil speaks for them any more than do the elderly students of Panama.

There is in fact quite a different body of opinion in Latin America, especially around the Caribbean coast. There literate

Voice of the People:

Voter Urges Government to Stop Usurping Power

I complain to the government in Lansing and the White House: stop usurping my power. You were elected to direct not to control. Everything the federal government does costs me four times as much as the state government and if local government could do some of these things I would have more control and it would cost less.

Stop trying to drive my farmer friend out of business. He does a wonderful job. He loves his work, so don't discourage him.

Stop trying to ruin my employer. I would like to earn a living but I'm willing to work for it. Don't take all my employer's profit because he pays me out of it.

When his profit is good I benefit with raises and bonuses.

You drove my former employer out of the state (Pontiac Mobile Homes in Drayton Plains) because of your tax inequities and your idea that to make profit is a sin.

Get Gus Scholle and his buddies to leave some of those bureau workers in Lansing alone. It hurts to see them dance when he pulls the strings.

Stop trying to do things I neither need or want and can't afford. I'm not as blind, illiterate nor uninformed as you think. I've been too complacent and too trusting. You cannot take my power completely away for I won't let you. I am about to exercise it at the polls, so watch out.

We have lost the art of walking. That we had in olden days. When this life was more peaceable. With its nice old fashioned ways. I can still so well remember. When each Sunday afternoon. We would always go out walking. And with nature would commune. And it never failed in week-days. That as kids we walked to school. And the same way always homeward. Though the air was wind or cool. And we even did our shopping. In the snow and in the rain. Morning, noon and nighttime walking. To the stores and home again. And I think we felt much better. With the exercise we found. In the many miles of walking. As each daytime came around.

And We Give Aid to Lebanon...

Through December 1961, the United States had given Lebanon $88 million in foreign aid. Broken down, $8 million was in military assistance, $77 million was in grants (gifts) and $3 million was in loans. In 1960 Lebanon had a gold reserve of $20 million. At the end of July 1962, Lebanon's gold reserve stood at $172 million. It is unmistakably clear that Lebanon was never in need of our foreign aid.

On Dec. 31, 1962, U. S. gold holdings stood at $23.3 billion. In 1961, this total had shrunk to $11.1 billion. Meanwhile gold holdings of other free world countries had increased from $13 billion at the close of 1962 to $23.7 billion on Dec. 31, 1961.

For the Bride Who's Got Everything

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (AP) — Every now and then I run across something that is so heart-warming it almost gives me heartburn.

The packet, a collection of government pamphlets, represents the department's con-

JOHN RISTAU
Perfumed Cap Leads to Ex-Con

Man Held in Holdup Admits Shooting Teen

NEW YORK (AP) — Intensive police work apparently has solved the perfumed cap murder case.
The cap was their only clue initially, but finally it led detectives to an ex-convict accused of slaying a courageous teen-ager who tried to fight off a holdup man with a broom.

Police said the cap belonged to John Ristau, 35, of Ridgewood, Queens, and that he broke down under questioning Sunday and admitted killing Walter Gammon Jr. 17, during a supermarket robbery Oct. 12.

The cap, which got its scent from hair tonic, was traced from its manufacturer to an Army-Navy supply store in the Ridgewood section of Queens. Police were convinced they were seeking a man from that section because of a series of similar stickups in the area.

SUPPLIES PICTURES
State parole officer Paul Kimmelman viewed the composite sketch of the killer—drawn from descriptions by witnesses. He supplied police with pictures and information on four ex-convicts in the Ridgewood area who resembled the wanted man. Ristau was arrested Saturday night.

"I might as well tell you I did it," Ristau was quoted as saying after holdup witnesses identified him.

"I was trying to get away," Ristau said of the holdup, "and he (Gammon) tried to stop me."
Police said Ristau had cleaned out two cash registers at the Bo-back supermarket in Glendale, Queens, and was at a third when the young employee attacked him with a broom.

"Why did he have to do that?" police quoted Ristau as saying to them. "It wasn't his money. All I could think of was, this is my life."

ception of what every bride should know.
It includes a "Dear Bride" letter from Secretary Orville L. Freeman who noted that some of the pamphlets "tell you of grading and inspection services the Department of Agriculture performs to help make sure that our food supply is wholesome and of dependable quality."
There's nothing like getting a marriage started off on the right foot.
JUST IMAGINE . . .
If I were a bride, I would want to take one of the packets along with me on my wedding trip. In fact, I am, able to visualize the scene that might transpire as the newlyweds arrive at their honeymoon hotel.
He: Well, here we are.
She: Yes, here we are.
He: Might as well get unpacked, I guess.
She: Yes, I guess we might as well.
He: What's that in the top of your suitcase?
She: It's my bridal packet from the Agriculture Department.
He: May I see it?
She: Well, I suppose it will be all right, now that we are married and everything.
'DIDN'T MOM TELL YOU?'
He: Here's a pamphlet on "How to Prevent and Remove Mildew." Gee whiz, honey! I don't think you ought to get information like that out of a book. Didn't your mother tell you about mildew when you were growing up?
She: Of course she did, silly. But you know how old-fashioned mothers are. They make you feel that mildew is something to be ashamed of. This pamphlet gives you the facts about mildew in a straightforward, unemotional way.
He: Here's a booklet on how to combat carpet beetles. Sweetheart! I'm your husband! Couldn't you trust me to take care of things like that?
She: Of course, I trust you. It's just that I want our honeymoon to be perfect. There's no sense taking a chance on having it spoiled by carpet beetles.
He: You're right, dear. We must never let anything come between us.

NEW YORK (UPI) — United Nations troubleshooter Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, left for the Congo yesterday for what he described as "routine consultations with our U.N. mission."

Bunche, U.N. secretary for political affairs, maintained, however, that his trip to confer with Robert Gardiner, chief of the Congo U.N. mission, had been scheduled for the past six weeks but had been postponed for other matters.

But Shelley Kills and Buries It

Berman Skit on Air Travel Still Popular

By ROBERT J. SERLING

UPI Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON — Three years ago a then-obscure comedian named Shelley Berman declared friendly war on the airlines. He waged his battle with a 10-minute monologue known as the "Airline Bit." Pilots, stewardesses and even air safety.

He recorded the skit as part of an album, hoping it would sell a few thousand copies. It sold more than a million.

Just to refresh your memory, it's the one where Berman referred to an airline captain as "that handsome man, crooked smile but straight teeth."

And where Berman, frantically trying to tell a stewardess the wing is ON FIRE, gets the CLASSIC nasal answer: "Coffee, tea or milk?"

"We haven't time for coffee, tea or milk," Berman shouts. "We are doomed."

"Well, then," replies the stewardess.

Evangelist Billy Graham, in a barrage of personal and television appearances Sunday, said he would like to "see the spiritual flame for Christ sweep across a troubled country."

"Argentina certainly has its share of difficulties," Graham said. "But like everywhere throughout the world, they are not great that they cannot be overcome. Argentina, as we in the United States, now need a stronger push for honesty, integrity and morality."

The evangelist told newsmen on his arrival that he has more or less adopted "a hands-off policy on politics" during his Latin-American tour. "What I say can hardly conflict with the political situation of a country," he said.

Graham, who has been drawing overflow crowds everywhere, said he has come across "no antagonism whatsoever" from the Roman Catholic clergy or Catholics themselves.

"On the contrary," he said, "Catholic bishops in every large city have offered me their welcome."

ardest, "how about a martini?" That one monologue has had as much effect on the nation's airlines as a deskful of combined orders from the Civil Aeronautics Board and Federal Aviation Agency. Since Berman first recorded it, the following events have transpired:

—Some airlines have taught their stewardesses NOT to say, "Coffee, tea or milk?" for the simple reason that passengers were laughing every time the phrase was uttered.

—Many pilots have made open efforts to improve cabin PA announcements after Berman's spoofing of their clipped, metallic voices.

(Sample: "We'll be cruising at an altitude of . . . of . . . Oh, I dunno, about 18,000 feet.")

—At least one airline put the burp cups for airsickness bags out of sight in the seat pockets because Berman remarked it was the first thing he saw when he took his seat.

Berman's monologue was outright satire and even verbal caricature, but it contained enough truth to make the airlines wince.

SPEAKS TRUTH

"Just like that adage, 'Many a truth is spoken in jest,' Berman chuckles. "If I hadn't touched on some problems that are very real to an airline passenger, people wouldn't have been laughing so hard."

The slender comedian likes flying himself but still thinks the airlines are guilty of "immature and childish practices."

"For example," Berman says, "Take the announcement they make on every landing — 'For your own comfort, the captain asks that you keep your belts fastened until the plane has come to a stop and the engines have been turned off.'"

"Hell, everyone knows it's for safety, not comfort. The airlines are just afraid to use the word 'safety.'"

"If the plane stopped suddenly you'd push your head through the seat in front of you. Furthermore, seat belts aren't comfortable. They're binding and have you ever tried to reach a lighter in your pocket when the belt was fastened?"

Berman has flown several times to Europe and suspects someday he'll write a skit about Trans-Atlantic air travel.

"The part that always gets me is when the stewardess demonstrates the use of lifejackets and confides where they're located — and then never tells you how to get the thing out from under the seat," Shelley complains.

"I'm always too embarrassed to ask. You know, you like to feel sophisticated about air travel."

SKIT IS DEAD

Berman himself does not regard the airline bit as his favorite. He hasn't used it since Dec. 17, 1959 — the day two airlines collided over New York City with a death toll of nearly 140.

"I was in Italy that day and someone asked me if I had heard about the accident," he recalls.

"I bought an English-language paper, and that was it for the airline skit. It stopped being funny."

"Actually, I had scored on it earlier because my wife stopped laughing at it and when that happens, I know the material has had it. But the collision made up my mind and I kept refusing to revive it even though it's still the most requested skit I have."

Berman admits the bit won him immediate friends in the airline industry. Sometimes stewardesses ask him to make the cabin PA announcements. This is a mistake. Berman invariably intones the wrong airport and the wrong airline.

"We have just landed in Cincinnati," he will proclaim to startled passengers on an American Airlines plane that has just landed in Los Angeles, "and we want to thank you for flying TWA."

Despite the hatchet job he did on pilots and stewardesses (or steward), a Berman-ese expression that has been adopted by some airlines as official language, he has received many letters from crew members thanking him for the ribbing.

"Once I got a letter from an airline pilot complaining I had insulted the dignity of his profession," Shelley says. "But he helped me that was the only gripe. Even airline executives liked the skit."

"Eastern asked me to do it at Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker's farewell party when he retired as Eastern's president."

Berman got a plaque in 1960 from the National Aviation Club in Washington — inscribed, "To the man who has done the least for commercial aviation."

"I earned it," says Shelley proudly.

Billy Graham Sweeps Latins Off Their Feet

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A tall, Bible-carrying American has been in Buenos Aires three days and has swept the troubled Argentine public temporarily off its feet.

Evangelist Billy Graham, in a barrage of personal and television appearances Sunday, said he would like to "see the spiritual flame for Christ sweep across a troubled country."

"Argentina certainly has its share of difficulties," Graham said. "But like everywhere throughout the world, they are not great that they cannot be overcome. Argentina, as we in the United States, now need a stronger push for honesty, integrity and morality."

The evangelist told newsmen on his arrival that he has more or less adopted "a hands-off policy on politics" during his Latin-American tour. "What I say can hardly conflict with the political situation of a country," he said.

Graham, who has been drawing overflow crowds everywhere, said he has come across "no antagonism whatsoever" from the Roman Catholic clergy or Catholics themselves.

"On the contrary," he said, "Catholic bishops in every large city have offered me their welcome."

Argentina is Graham's last stop on his Latin-American tour.

Dearden Selected to Welfare Post

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic bishops of the United States have named the Most Rev. John F. Dearden, archbishop of Detroit, as treasurer of the National Catholic Welfare Conference Board.

He also was elected to the doctrinal commission for faith and morals, one of 10, 24-member commissions guiding the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council.

The most Rev. Allen J. Babcock, bishop of Grand Rapids, was named head of the lay organizations department.

Sister Florence Says That's All, Brother

LONDON (UPI) — A British brewery announced today it had changed its plans to name its new pub near St. Thomas' Hospital "Sister Florence," in honor of famed British nurse Florence Nightingale, because a hospital nurse named Sister Florence objected.

The pub's new name: "The Pillbox."

Ruth Peers in the Looking Glass and Cries Fiddle-De-Dee

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — I dreamed I was in Wonderland, and when I stepped through the Looking Glass and began reading the newspapers, everything seemed like 1960 again, but with a Mad Hatter twist . . .

President Eisenhower was out campaigning more vigorously than ever, but blasting away at the administration's mishandling of the Cuban crisis.

John F. Kennedy, who had been using the same verse and chapter two years ago, was now demanding that Cuba be kept out of the political arena. Was everyone mixed up except me?

There was Ike, pleading with Maryland voters to send Kennedy's step-brother-in-law, Newton Steers, to Congress, while JFK was urging his defeat.

ALL MIXED UP

I shifted my bemused eyes to Connecticut, where he was plunging away for the election of an Alsop to the governorship, but Kennedy was telling the same voters to scuttle this brother of his ardent supporters, writers Joe and Stewart Alsop.

I drifted over to the White House and saw Jacqueline Kennedy hiding behind the bushes on the White House lawn to observe the ceremonial reception for Algerian strongman Ahmed Ben Bella. This reassured me. She must have resumed her job as an inquiring photographer, and was stealing a shot.

Other shots rang out, however, and when a child beside her winced at the 21-gun salute, someone discovered them and called out, "First Lady."

This sent me straight to the tortoise, where I demanded to know less about what was going on. He peered over his tortoise.

john-shell glasses and replied: "This is what we mean by getting America moving again." With obvious satisfaction, he added: "Very, very, very slowly."

Desperately I peered around for Vice President Nixon, and felt instantly at home. He was relentlessly campaigning along the California coast, warning against the Communist menace from within, and challenging his opponent to televised debates.

Now I knew where I was, I thought, until I switched the dial and saw a plump governor confronting him.

RUNS TO RED QUEEN

Panic-stricken, I rushed to the Red Queen to tell her that someone had fouled up the match, but she snapped: "Off with your head! Can't you see that Khrushchev is still in the Kremlin!"

I tried to look toward Russia, but a Wall obstructed my vision. "Silly girl," she chided, "Don't you know that the East Berliners have a New Frontier, too?"

Troops were garrisoned in Dixie, and I moaned to myself, "Poor Ike, with so much trouble in Little Rock."

But the military planes kept going, and landed in Mississippi. Students were hanging effigies of Kennedy instead of Eisenhower, and when I stumbled over to the Duchess she lulled: "Tut, tut, child. Everything is the same because it's so different."

The March Hare told me to take some more tea, and although I didn't have any, it helped a lot, because I immediately saw a pretty South Carolina drum majorette kissing Lyndon B. Johnson, just like in the last campaign.

"She looks more kissable than a camel driver," the March Hare drolled. When I asked, "What camel driver?" the Mock Turtle sneered and said, "Really, you are very dull."

Indignantly I pulled myself up to my full three inches and said, "I am not dull. This is 1960 and the three big trouble spots of the world are Berlin, Cuba and Southeast Asia. You've brought me up to date on Berlin and Cuba, but what about . . . ?"

"Naturally the same," the Red Queen shrieked. "That's why the Republicans have a new slogan, 'Let's get Kennedy moving again!'"

In desperation I tried to run back through the mirror, but the tyrannical Queen snickered: "Faster! Faster! A slow sort of country! Now, here, you see, it takes all the running you can do, to keep in the same place. If you want to get somewhere else, you must run at least twice as fast as that."

I looked at Congress. Every one was running, except a few senators who could stay in the same place this year without trying.

Kennedy seemed to be running . . . Ike was running, although I thought he couldn't run again . . . all too confusing! I peeped through the looking glass at Jackie Kennedy and asked humbly, "What's the French for fiddle-de-dee?"

Ben Bella Eying Algerian Base

By PHIL NEWSON
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Notes from the foreign news cables:

DANGER SIGNALS
Algerian Premier Ahmed Ben Bella's pronouncements against nuclear tests and the American naval base at Guantanamo have set off speculation in Paris that he soon will start campaigning for evacuation of French military bases in Algeria, including the Sahara and the French air and naval base at Mers-el-Kebir.

Such a campaign would be to reopen the Evian agreements which led to Algerian peace and would endanger the whole program of French economic assistance to independent Algeria.

DE GAULLE
The French government believes President Charles de Gaulle will win about 67 per cent of the votes cast in the Oct. 28 constitutional referendum which is to determine whether future French presidents will be elected by direct popular vote.

Such a figure would not represent the massive vote de Gaulle asked for but probably would be enough to keep him from quitting.

SUMMIT?
Speculation that Premier Nikita Khrushchev might visit the United States already is leading to talk of summit sessions.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is thinking of a possible Washington trip if Khrushchev makes it.

There also is talk of summit-level talks among Washington, London and Paris.
De Gaulle is unlikely to attend but would be consulted either directly or through embassy channels.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is to visit Kennedy Nov. 7 and his opinions also would be asked.

Service Set for Wife of 1st U. S. Space Chief

STAMFORD, Conn. (U)—Service will be held here next Sunday for Mrs. Ina Ellen Johnson, wife of Roy W. Johnson, the nation's first space chief.

Mrs. Johnson died of cancer yesterday at the age of 56. She attended the University of Michigan, where she met her future husband at a fraternity dance. They were married in September 1927 while she was still an undergraduate. He had graduated in June.

Motivating against a four-power summit session: No results.

STRATEGY
Western sources in Berlin expect any Khrushchev visit to the United States, and incidentally, to the United Nations, to be accompanied by some new Berlin crisis to generate new war fears among Western and neutral nations.

But the Communist threat of forcing West Berliners and West Germans to obtain East German visas for travel to the divided city is unlikely to happen soon. The East Germans depend too much on West German trade.

BORDER DISPUTE
Winter arrives shortly along the Sino-Indian frontier. In the past, the snow has choked off the fighting.

But Red China's announcement that it will shoot down Indian aircraft "intruding into Chinese territory" may lead to aerial entanglements over the snowbound mountain passes.

The Communists claim the whole Himalayan range down to the plain of the Brahmaputra River.

And with winter coming on, Indian supply planes likely will stop up air drops to frontier posts.

'Crash in the Summer'
KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (U)—U.S. airman training in the British Royal Air Force parachute and "jungle survival" school at Changi, Singapore, are getting wary advice along with tough physical workouts. Such as: "Try to crash in June, July or August when there is more edible fruit about."

Pair Plans Appeal on Slaying Sentence

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Attorneys for Dr. J. Bernard Fuchs and his illicit lover, Carole Tregoff, will ask the 2nd District Court of Appeal to grant new trials to the pair.

The former West Covina physician and the outline model were convicted of murder and conspiracy in the 1959 pistol slaying of his socialite wife, Barbara. The conviction came in their third trial after two earlier juries deadlocked.

Each was sentenced to life imprisonment. The new appeals, based on alleged errors by the trial judge in connection with admission of certain testimony and with double jeopardy pleas will be heard on the Dec. 4 calendar.

Documentary Producer Comments on First Lady

Special Place in History Seen for Jacqueline

BY PHYLLIS BATTLE
NEW YORK — There are not many men who would venture to put Mrs. Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy in her place — but Perry Wolff wanted to have a fling at it.

"Jackie Kennedy, I think, will have a very special place. In history, I mean."

"She is intelligent and politically-oriented, but she does not allow the orientation to go on view, as Eleanor Roosevelt did."

"She chooses to stay out of the limelight, and yet she is not retiring, as Bess Turman and Mamie Eisenhower were."

"Most first ladies in America's history have looked upon the presidency as almost a death sentence for their husbands, and have kept calendars — mentally, if not physically — with a date circled on them, the happy date when they can leave the White House and live again."

In peace, I'm sure Jackie Kennedy is no exception.

"But her public view is this gorgeous, doll-like, soft, sensitive creature. She's so beautiful, she cannot help being a disappointment to some people; her voice, for instance, is talked about and sometimes derisively."

That is because of her beauty: She is so close to being a movie star in her appearance, that people think she should have all the accoutrements of a great professional actress. You know, there are no sub-goddesses . . .

"At any rate, she's playing a role now. She's playing it well. After we've passed that date she has circled in the calendar in the second floor of the White House — what date would it be? Maybe Jan. 1, 1969? — then we'll know who the woman is."

Perry Wolff is a pioneer documentary producer for television. He produced, after lengthy research and conferences with the First Lady the TV special, "A Tour of the White House with Mrs. John F. Kennedy."

Wolff did so much research for the show, and came up with so many fascinating facts about the White House and its inhabitants, that he's put them all together in a handsome book of pictures and text named — "Well, what else could I name it?" — "A Tour of the White House with Mrs. John F. Kennedy."

He has become a great student of the dames of the White House, a First Lady fancier. He talks about them as if they were personal friends, and lists them in categories, as he and history see them:

"The most beautiful — no question, if you ask me, Angelica Van Buren. She was her father-in-law, widower Martin Van Buren's, official hostess. Trouble is, Angelica went to London and saw Queen Victoria crowned, so she got 'queen fever.' Several first ladies had it, later, but she was probably the worst. She wore a crown.

"The most charming — Dolley Madison, of course. And the most likeable. First, she wrote like Jane Austen. She had dynamism and guts."

"She had a sense of humor—"

LBJ Defends Handshaking, Chats Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson has taken issue with unnamed U.S. diplomats who have criticized his handshaking and folksy chats with ordinary citizens while touring overseas.

Writing in the latest issue of the State Department Newsletter, a monthly publication circulated among U.S. diplomats here and overseas, Johnson said:

"Since the history of nations began, heads of state and their ministers have ridden in regal and dignified aloofness past the people over whom they had domination."

"We cannot demonstrate the essence and spirit of the American political system—in which the just powers derive from the people themselves—unless we leave our limousines abroad, as we would at home."

"After all, what dignity are we trying to prove—that of the office of the vice president or that of the human race?"

Since becoming vice president, Johnson has traveled 75,000 miles on six trips to 18 countries. In his signed article, Johnson named no U.S. diplomat by name, but criticized those at foreign posts "who would rather keep out of sight under the mistaken impression that our ways of political leadership are a national liability."

used to take snuff, and carried two hankies, a big one 'for the rough work,' and a dainty one, 'for polishing.' She was Thomas Jefferson's chosen hostess, and that's good enough recommendation for me."

"The most underrated First Lady was Lou Hoover. She spoke nine languages, had impeccable taste, was a philanthropist all over the world, was modest and had all the virtues. But the depression hid her many beauties from the public."

"The most politically astute? Probably Eleanor Roosevelt, and she may have been the most outspoken. When the Spanish Civil War was going on and she heard some refugees were trapped in Madrid, she cabled FDR: 'ARE YOU OR THE STATE DEPARTMENT DOING ANYTHING?'"

America's first ladies have been fascinating. Not all were intelligent or attractive; one or two were bad influences on their husbands, hence their country; a few have loved the limelight, but most have loved forward eagerly to the peaceful post-presidency. Some were crafty, one was judged legally insane; all are fascinating. As for Jacqueline Kennedy, she took her college degree in history, Wolff says, so she likely knows her "place" as well as anyone.

Norwegian King Visits London for Two Weeks

LONDON (UPI) — King Olav V of Norway arrived here last night for a private visit at the conclusion of his five-day state visit to Scotland.

The king will spend two weeks here, staying at the Norwegian ambassador's residence.

The so-called "rare earths" are not particularly rare. Most of these chemical elements are more common than gold or silver. Some, like lanthanum, cerium and neodymium, are more abundant than lead.

Mariner II Steams On

WASHINGTON (AP)—The following report on the progress of Mariner II was released today by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Mariner II, launched Aug. 27, is expected to pass within 20,000 miles of Venus Dec. 14.

Mariner at 7 a.m. (Pon-tine time) today: Distance from earth—4,492,180 miles. Distance from Venus—22,716,147 miles. Radio signal: Good.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would quit printing all those stupid letters from teen-agers. Who cares about an idiotic 14-year-old girl who's madly "in love" with her science teacher? Or, when a girl meets a boy in the hall, who says "hi" first? Come on, Abby, let's have some really serious problems!

ADULT READER

DEAR ABBY: Teen-agers read your column, too, and we would like to have more letters from our age group. We aren't interested in nosy neighbors, unfaithful husbands and barking dogs. Give us more teen letters! Thank you.

TEEN FANS

DEAR ABBY: I enjoy reading your column because you get right to the point and seem to hit the nail on the head without wasting any words. Keep up that snappy style, Abby, old girl. It's very refreshing in this day and age when so many writers don't know when to quit.

"A U"

DEAR ABBY: I don't know how you presume to answer with one sentence a problem so complicated that a person should really go to a psychiatrist for maybe five years. Who do you think you are, anyway? Solomon?

A READER

DEAR ABBY: I suppose it is only natural, but I notice you always take the woman's part. Please be a little more fair-minded, Abby. Sometimes the man is right and the woman is wrong, you know.

MALE READER

DEAR ABBY: If I had a problem, you would be the last person I'd ask for help because you always stick up for the man. Why is that?

DEAR ABBY: Why don't you quit using that ridiculous high school picture of yourself? Are you afraid to let people see what you REALLY look like? You are probably an old beat-up hag of 60.

TULSA

DEAR ABBY: I saw you on Art Linkletter's program and think it's time you had a new picture taken for your column. You said you were 44, but you looked like 25. You didn't have a wrinkle on your face, and your figure made me drool. However do you do it?

Seniors, Juniors Meet

Musicians Gather

Officers were elected when the senior group of the Pontiac Junior Musicians met with Mrs. Oscar Schmidt on Ullica Road Friday evening.

Pamela Pillow is the new president; Elizabeth Crocker, vice president; Belinda Keefe, secretary; and Peggy Jones, treasurer.

Linda Shaffrow, Peggy Jones and Christine Blakeney won awards for their scrapbooks, and Jerry Stoner received an award for original melodies.

Belinda Keefe and Patti Swartz assisted the hostess.

The Pontiac Junior Musicians held their meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Schmidt, club counselor.

Lorine Pritchett played the hymn of the month, "Obedient Christian Soldiers," after relating the life of the composer, Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould.

The following officers were elected: Ann Latzo, president; Glenda Farnsworth, vice president; Debra Davis, secretary and Laurie Blakeney, treasurer.

Rebecca Shelton, James Kuhlman and Kent Anselmi were welcomed as new members.

The social committee assisting Mrs. Schmidt consisted of Pamela Martin, Connie Smith, Pamela Rightmire and Deborah Garner.

Women Set Fall Agenda

The fall agenda for the Anna Gordon Unit, Women's Christian Temperance Union, was reviewed at a workshop meeting Thursday in the Oakland Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Frank A. Deaver, president, will be a delegate to the state convention Wednesday through Friday in Ypsilanti. She will be guest speaker at the Mary Morton Unit's pre-Thanksgiving dinner on Nov. 15.

The district convention Nov. 7 in the First Baptist Church, Royal Oak, was also announced. The Anna Gordon Unit will present the memorial service on this occasion.

Miss Williams Honored at Bridal Shower

Carolyn Juanita Williams was honored at a bridal shower Friday in the home of Mrs. Kurt Bemann Jr. of Parkinson Road.

Attending the evening affair were the honoree's mother Mrs. Charles Williams, Wayne Lake, and Mrs. K. E. Bemann of Holly, mother of the future bridegroom, Paul V. Bemann.

A Nov. 18 wedding in the Dearborn Plains United Presbyterian Church is planned.

Fall Dresses Colorful

Pretty dresses in Crompton cotton velveteen are the vogue for the younger set for the fall '62 season. The colors are marvelous. Designers for these social butterflies have added wonderful touches such as deep heavy lace collars, appliques and other features certain to enchant the young ladies.

Big and little sisters look beguiling in their matching dresses by Yolande. Their black Crompton velveteen jumpers are beautifully applique'd with hearts at the waistline and accented with their own special cotton print blouse.

Marks 60th Year

Oakland County Alumnae Chapter of Delta Zeta Sorority will celebrate the 60th anniversary of its founding at a Founder's Day luncheon Saturday at the Village Woman's Club.

Mrs. Russell T. Costello, Orchard Lake, will be one of the speakers at the meeting. She is national Panhellenic Conference delegate.

Other speakers include Mrs. Winfield C. Homan, past president, Mrs. George T. Belker, collegiate province director, and Mary Jo Kurk, college chapter director at Wayne State University.

Mrs. Kenneth T. Haven, Orchard Lake, is endowment chairman for the group. Reservations are being taken by Mrs. F. Llewellyn Lutze of Birmingham.

Love designs rich red Crompton velveteen in a trio of adorable dresses, importantly collared with Bishop lace yokes perfect for fall and holiday affairs.

Cocktails Okay if Inn Small

By The Emily Post Institute
Q: I am a single woman in the mid-30s. I go to business five days a week and on a Saturday I like to get into my car and drive out into the country for the weekend. Sometimes a friend will go with me but very often I go alone.

What I would like to know is this: Would it be proper for me to go alone into the cocktail lounge of the hotel in which I am staying to have a drink in the evening?

A: If the hotel in which you are staying is a small country-type hotel, your going into the cocktail lounge for a drink would be quite all right, but not if it is a large commercial hotel.

Q: My husband and I and two other couples are planning to go to a night club this Saturday night to celebrate my birthday. The other women and myself would like to wear evening dresses but our husbands refuse to wear tuxedos.

Must we forego wearing evening dresses because of this or would it be proper for us to wear them even though the men will be wearing business suits?

A: Until a few years ago it would have been very cheapening for women to be seen wearing evening dresses in a night club accompanied by men in business suits. Today, while still not correct, it is seen more and more often and no one will think anything about it if you wear simple evening gowns and your husbands don't wear tuxedos.

Q: Within the next week we will have our wedding rehearsal. A friend of mine told me that it is bad luck for a bride to rehearse her own part in the wedding. Is it true? Do we do seeds as much practice as anyone else. Will you please tell me if such a statement is true?

A: It is an old superstition that for a bride to take part in her own wedding rehearsal would bring her bad luck. Many brides fearing to defy this superstition, do have others stand in for them at the rehearsal. But there is no reason why a bride, who is not superstitious, may not take part in the rehearsal if she wishes to do so.

Fix Plate in Kitchen

Try Psychology

By GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE T-456: Lola G., aged 20, is a pretty girl but far too heavy.

"Oh, Dr. Crane," she began, "how can I ever lose this excess weight?"

"I have tried several different diets, but I never lose more than a few pounds till something comes along to ruin everything."

"I'd like to lose 25 pounds in the next few months, for my boyfriend is due back from the Navy and I am ashamed to let him see me looking so fat."

"What can I do to lose weight fast?"

DIET PSYCHOLOGY

Excess poundage is due to several reasons but the most common is simply the fact we eat more calories than we burn up in work or exercise.

And most of the highly publicized diets will help you streamline your figure if you will follow them to the letter.

But social factors demolish our resolve and often ruin our dieting schedule.

For example, a famous German scientist named Bayer used a group of hens as the subject for a very interesting experiment in eating.

He would starve the hens for a period of 24 hours to make sure they had a hearty appetite.

Then, if he placed one hungry hen in front of a 100-grain pile of wheat, she would peck away till she had consumed an average of 50 grams.

After that, she'd stop, apparently quite satisfied.

But if he placed a similar hungry hen in front of a much larger pile of grain, she wouldn't stop at the 50-gram mark, but would actually peck away till she had eaten 33 to 50 additional grams of wheat.

Applied to us human dieters, that would suggest we better not sit down in front of a table groaning with viands.

Instead, we should have our food placed on our plate in the kitchen and then have it served in the dining room where no other food is visible to entice us or increase our hunger.

Then Prof. Bayer tried another experiment. He would place that hungry hen in front of a pile of grain and let her eat till she stopped of her own accord.

At that point, he would remove all the grain and even sweep the floor clean, after which he would restore the pile. She would immediately start pecking again.

When she stopped eating for the second time, he would again remove all the wheat but then place it right back in front of her a moment later.

The hen would instantly start eating once more.

And in this fashion of serving the wheat "in courses," he could get the hens to eat as much as 67 per cent more. Applied to us human beings, that also suggests we should not be served food in courses while we are trying to diet.

AT ONE TIME

Instead, we should have all our limited quota for that meal placed in front of us at one time, so our stomach can fit itself to the expected volume.

For we human beings tend to adjust our stomach's demand according to the amount of food, as well as the frequency of servings, placed before us.

As a third variation, Prof. Bayer let a hungry hen stand before a pile of wheat and peck away till she stopped of her own free will.

Then he placed another hungry hen beside her. As it began to eat, the first and supposedly "filled" hen, would immediately begin eating some more.

She would then keep on till she consumed 60 per cent more wheat. And if 3 hungry hens were placed beside her, she'd devour even more than 60 per cent.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Collar, Cuff Scrubbers—Attention

EAST LANSING — Here's good news for housewives who must hand-scrub soiled collars and cuffs on synthetic fiber shirts to get them clean.

Researchers are now working to permanently eliminate the static electrical attraction of soil to certain wear-points of synthetic fiber clothing, Deegan reports.

Cotton of itself does not attract soil, he explains, but the static qualities of many current synthetic materials do, and often pose a stubborn washday problem.

Deegan spoke on synthetics and detergents before a Michigan Institutional Laundry Conference Oct. 4 at The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, Michigan State University.

On the subject of detergents, he has a tip for housewives. Stand fast in the face of enthusiastic advertising, he advises, and continue to use the type of detergent recommended by the maker of your particular washing machine.

Through careful study, they know the type of detergent which works best.

There's still one thing you can get for a penny nowadays — your incorrect weight. . . . Today's kids are very versatile: they can think up a dozen ways not to help around the house. . . . One local restaurant boasts it's so homelike you have to wash your own dishes. —Earl Wilson

MRS. LEONARD GEORGE CYR, JR.

Cyr-Jones Vows

Marry in Evening

Priscilla Ann Jones held a satin-covered Bible which belonged to her great-grandfather as she exchanged nuptial vows with Leonard George Cyr Jr. Saturday in the First United Missionary Church.

The candlelight evening ceremony was performed by Rev. O. P. Eastman of Calvary United Missionary Church, Detroit, assisted by Rev. W. K. Burgess. A reception followed in the church parlors.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Jones of Joslyn Avenue and the Leonard G. Cyr of Southfield.

SATIN GOWN

Pearl and sequin applique accented the bride's princess gown of white delusel satin styled with chapel train. Her silk illusion veil fell from a satin pillbox.

Attending their sister were Susan Leigh Jones, maid of honor; Mrs. Durwood Shawl, Royal Oak, and Mrs. A. Trenton Kent who served as bridesmaids with Mrs. Robert Jimeron.

Nosegays of white pompons and pink rosebuds complemented their dresses of American Beauty satin and matching hats.

Alicia Loree Kent was flower girl and Gregory A. Reichard carried the rings.

Best man was David Keller, South Bend, Ind. Seating some 300 guests were Robert Keller, Versailles, Ky., A. Trenton Kent, Robert Jimeron, J. Julian Baker and Durwood Shawl.

After their eastern honeymoon, Mr. Cyr who is a graduate of University of Michigan, and his bride will live on Westway Drive.

Victor Schoelcher, when he became France's under secretary of state for the colonies in 1948, freed Martinique's 72,000 slaves.

Wed Saturday in the First United Missionary Church were Priscilla Ann Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Jones, Joslyn Avenue, and Leonard George Cyr Jr., son of the Leonard G. Cyr of Southfield.

'Love-Struck' Woman Nabs Her Man at 90

WORCESTER, England (UPI)—Mrs. Louisa Lloyd, "love-struck" at age 90, announced last night she will marry the 82-year-old man she climbed a fire escape to catch.

Louisa and her intended, William Crane, are both residents at an old people's home here. It will be her third marriage, Crane's second.

"It was love at first sight," Louisa bubbled today. "I met William on a park bench. He was a bit shy, but finally he got around to inviting me to have a cup of tea with him."

"I was love-struck," she said.

"He was living in another old people's home at the time and I made it my business to visit him there regularly," she said. "Once he was confined to bed with a cold and I was forbidden to visit him."

"That didn't daunt me," she said. "I went up the fire escape and William was waiting at the top to welcome me."

Wife With Own Car Is the Errand Boy

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"The trouble with a two-car family is that a man never knows where his wife is," says a young husband. "When we had only one car I could call my wife at any hour of the day and find her at home. Now that she has a car of her own I can never catch her at home."

There's a lot of truth in the husband's complaint that wives on wheels don't spend much time at home.

But it's not because the wives are out gallivanting around for their own pleasure.

What keeps a wife with a car on the road a good part of each day is chattering and errand running. The wife with a car doesn't have her groceries delivered. She drives to a supermarket and picks them out herself.

The wife with a car doesn't ask her husband to go to the bank on his lunch hour or make a few stops on the way home from work. She does all of those errands herself.

And then there are all the errands the children think up for her to do, the overdue library books to be returned, the cookies to be dropped off for a school affair, the forgotten gym shoes to be rushed to school before gym class.

And when the lucky wife with a car of her own isn't running errands she is chauffeuring, taking kids to school and picking them up, driving them to dancing lessons, piano lessons, to football games and birthday parties.

And then, because she is on wheels and can get to them, there are all the meetings she is expected to attend as a "responsible member of the community."

The housewife with a car of her own doesn't stay at home much—that's true. But that's because with a car of her own she is everybody's chauffeur and everybody's errand boy.

Drive right out and buy him Ruth Millett's booklet, "Happier Wives (hints for husbands)." Just send 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, care of The Pontiac Press, P. O. Box 48, Dept. Radio City Station, New York 19, N. Y.

Theater Fetes to Precede Opening

St. Dunstan's Theater Guild of Cranbrook begins its fall season Friday with a round of parties preceding its black tie and red carpet opening of "Wake Up, Darling."

Entertaining before the 9 o'clock curtain that evening, will be Franklyn Donegan, Guild president, and his wife, the John S. Coppins, the David Raymonds and the William B. Saunders.

Also among Friday's hosts and hostesses are Mr. and Mrs. Darrell C. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. James Stalker and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hagopian.

The Garvin M. Bawdens plan a supper party for the cast following Friday's performance. Included in the list of players are Mrs. E. E. Wilson who has the female lead opposite Lawrence M. Finn.

Dinner parties are planned before Saturday's presentation by Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Raich, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott and L. James Schneider.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wilson will hold the cast party at their home following the final performance of "Wake Up, Darling" Nov. 3. The show runs this Friday and Saturday, and Nov. 1, 2 and 3.

Social Use, Food, Drink, Built Tables

Social functions and the food and drink served at them, created demand for specific table shapes and sizes.

When afternoon tea became an important element in English life, a table from which to serve it was designed. The narrow, half round table with drop leaves, called a hunt-table, was designed for the convenience of serving stand-up, pre-hunting breakfasts. Both types are still made with finely veneered tops.

Institute Club Meets

The Business Institute Women's Club met Saturday afternoon in the library of the Institute. Cohostesses were Mrs. Lillian Quayle and Mrs. C. E. Van Trease.

Mrs. Richard Tull presented an outline of the Nancy Taylor course now being offered at the Institute. Mary Parker and Mrs. Sol Lomerson were appointed to plan the Christmas dinner meeting. During this time, each member will bring gifts for the Oakland County Children's Home.

Brown-Upton Rites

Wed in Joslyn Presbyterian Church

Orchid-tipped white gladioli banked the altar in Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church for the Saturday wedding of Judith Jo Upton to Henry Elbert Brown. Rev. Edmund I. Watkins officiated.

Daughter of the Kenneth C. Uptions of West Hopkins Street, the bride appeared in white Chantilly lace touched with seed pearls and sequins, styled with chapel train. A jeweled crown caught her French illusion veil. Orchid gardenias, white carnations and Stephanotis comprised her bouquet.

Mrs. Paul Smith, matron of honor, wore violet silk taffeta and chiffon over a matching sheath and carried violet carnations and pink roses.

Cathy Hagan and the bride's sister Vivian, who were bridesmaids, wore orchid taffeta and chiffon and carried orchid and pink carnations. Tammy Ann Upton was her sister's flower girl.

Paul Smith stood as best man. Ushers were James Harrod, Clarkston, and the bridegroom's brothers, Ronald of Pontiac and Donald of Union Lake. They are the sons of the Harold L. Browns of East Columbia Avenue.

After the church reception, the newlyweds left for Niagara Falls, N. Y. They will live on Monroe Street. Copperstone gardenias accented Mrs. Upton's champagne lace dress. The mother of the bridegroom, chose pink lace and corsage of white and silver gardenias.

It's getting hard to find happy endings in books—especially bank books... The man who wrote that "a job well done never needs doing again" has never weeded a garden... Medicine has advanced to the point where an ounce of prevention is worth about $20—Earl Wilson.

Don't Let Your Child Dominate YOU

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Last summer while our 16-year-old daughter was visiting friends, I had her room done over. Nothing about it is right.

Last night she said I had dominated her by not giving her the chance to choose the wallpaper and furniture herself. My husband is as angry as I am and thinks we should try to return the new furniture to the store...

ANSWER: Why go to all this trouble to prove that you were not "dominating" her?

If you were trying to, you certainly didn't get away with it. Your daughter is clearly able to resist any suspicion of domination.

So we don't have to worry about her. Instead, let's concern ourselves with you. Why can't you say to yourself, "OK. I took a chance on my knowledge of what would please this child. I lost, which is no reason at all why I should feel apologetic or fear to take another chance on pleasing her..."

As a matter of fact, it would be a fine idea to say just that to her.

We parents often fail to please adolescent children because they feel obliged to oppose us on general principle. They have to try and make us feel fuddy-duddy, narrow-minded, clumsy and unimportant so that they can feel very modern, liberal-minded, graceful and important.

But this method they use for the reinforcement of their own self-esteem has nothing to do with us. We don't have to remain meekly in the slot marked "Dominating" or "Interfering" or "Old-Fashioned" because they shove us into it.

It is fine for everyone concerned to say to the belligerent adolescent: "Alright. This time the choice I've made for you seems to be a flop. But don't fool yourself. Because I have picked out the wrong furniture for your room doesn't mean that I can never choose anything right for you again. So I'm warning you. If I see a sweater or a tie that I think would be becoming to you I shall feel free to buy it just as you feel free to hate it or love it."

The point is, they can be "dominating" too.

Like all dominators, they can make us feel so utterly worthless that we forget that the issue is just our misjudgment of the kind of wallpaper they liked. Because their forces of development compel them to try to push us aside as blundering idiots is no reason why we have to stay pushed. We have to bounce back every time they try it.

Lose 5 Pounds in 7 Days

Trick or Treat Diet Here

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It will soon be trick or treat night and the kids will be coming around to see us. However, today I am thinking of trick and treat because I am presenting my trick and treat diet this week.

This is a shorty which you will find pleasant to use and which gives you a loss of about five pounds in seven days. It tricks the pounds while it gives you treats.

I feel that this is really an unusual diet, and a boon to late fall reducers, because it gives you lots of variety and items of food you will really enjoy.

Also, by adding more butter and sugar and whole milk and larger portions for the rest of the family, you can use the same menus for the entire family.

SPECIAL OCCASIONS

Perhaps you look forward to some special occasion which is important to you when you are going to meet new people. Maybe you want to wear a lovely dress for a certain time but five pounds too much makes this impossible.

If you have a lot of weight to lose you may want a diet which pampers you with good food and a quick loss of five pounds to encourage you to continue at a slower pace for a longer time.

Five pounds can slip up on us so fast (it only takes one uninhibited weekend for me). When this happens, the clothes which looked so well on us lose their charm even if we can squeeze ourselves into them.

Sometimes just a gain of five pounds makes this impossible if the clothes were well fitted to start with.

So, here I am, with first aid for those of you who have procrastinated. I am giving you the menus for tomorrow so you will know what to market for if you wish to use this diet for this week.

Josephine Lowman starts her trick and treat menus today. From them you may prepare your shopping list for the next visit to your store.

BREAKFAST

Six ounces orange juice
One-half cup oatmeal
Four ounces skim milk and two teaspoons sugar on oatmeal
One slice of protein bread toast
Black coffee

LUNCHEON

Salad made of four tablespoons of cottage cheese, one medium tomato cut in chunks and one hard cooked egg, also cut into pieces. You can add three tablespoons of reducing dressing

Two saltines
Eight ounces skim milk

DINNER

Shrimp cocktail (six medium-sized shrimp, one tablespoonful of chili sauce and lemon juice)

Four ounces baked ham (cut off fat)
One cup broccoli seasoned with lemon and paprika or thyme
Orange custard

If you would like to have my trick and treat diet in booklet form send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it.

The booklet also contains a recipe for low calorie orange custard. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

PERRY PHARMACY'S MEDICAL MIRROR

U. S. Urges Flu Shots

Q. Is Asian flu likely to strike again this year? Is the flu vaccine effective?

A. According to the U. S. Public Health Service, recent and past patterns of influenza A2 (known as the Asian strain) indicate that this type of influenza is due in the United States again this fall and winter. Outbreaks will probably occur in all parts of this country and possibly in Canada. The vaccine is quite effective. In fact, the Public Health Service encourages use of the vaccine and has sought the cooperation of physicians, medical authorities, and voluntary health agencies in planning extensive vaccination campaigns.

Bunions

Q. I have bunions on both feet. Would an operation help and does it take long to recover? Would I be able to take long walks and dance?

A. Operation for bunions is not especially arduous but it does require an experienced surgeon for best results. Plenty of time should be allowed for healing. If you follow the doctor's advice you should be happy with the results.

Measured by fast relief from pain or swift recovery from illness — prescribed medicine is priceless. Measured by our reasonable prices, prescribed medicine is the biggest "bargain" money can buy.

Fresh Applesauce Is Elegant in Chiffon Pie

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

What an apple year! Michigan trees outdid themselves in the production of crimson and scarlet beauties. Surely you're making applesauce with some of them. If so, save two cups for a different sort of apple pie.

Mrs. Roger Richmond is our cook today. She belongs to an Extension Club and enjoys doing copper work. Mrs. Richmond always does all the painting and decorating around her home.

APPLE CHIFFON PIE
By Mrs. Roger Richmond

2 cups applesauce
2 teaspoons butter
Pinch of salt

1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
3 eggs, separated
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

Beat egg yolks and add rest of ingredients to them. Cook in double boiler three minutes. Beat egg whites stiff and pour first mixture over them while still hot. Fold in, adding 2 tablespoons sugar. Add a few drops of red food coloring if desired.

Pour warm mixture into baked 8-inch pie shell. Let set for two hours, but not in refrigerator.

Top with whipped cream before serving.

This is an old family recipe.

'We're Through,' Whisper the Berlin Tunnel Diggers

BERLIN (AP)—Two men crouched in a narrow tunnel below Communist East Berlin. One cautiously poked a steel rod into the ceiling of the tunnel.

"We're through," he whispered, and quickly poked some more into the ceiling about five inches in diameter. Again he pushed the rod through the hole.

This time it had a mirror fastened to it so that the man could examine the surroundings above.

"Everything looks clear," he said. They widened the opening and crawled out, bringing sub-machine guns with them.

Soon 29 East Germans used the 350-foot tunnel to reach West Berlin.

The two men belonged to a group of 20 West Berlin students who had dug it in 4½ months of back-breaking labor, to free relatives and friends.

The tunnel became unusable after two days of operation because of water seepage in the sandy soil underlying Berlin. It was one of many scooped out since the Communists began building their wall Aug. 13, 1961, to stop the refugees flow.

Officials, for security reasons, are reluctant to furnish figures on how many tunnels have been built. Most tunnel builders place it around 30, of which 15 were used.

The others were either abandoned because the excavations proved dangerous or because the Communist secret police learned of them.

The number of people who have escaped through tunnels cannot be established but a conservative estimate would be 300 to 400.

One of the earliest tunnels, dug beneath an elevated railway station, was in operation Dec. 14, 1949. Close to 200 persons escaped through it.

It might have been used longer but for a careless mistake. A woman who escaped with her infant abandoned a baby carriage at the eastern end. Police investigated and discovered the tunnel.

As far as can be determined, the first tunnel was started in East Berlin last October by a 24-year-old house painter. He wanted to escape with his wife and brother.

CARNIVOROUS Plan Offered by Architect

NEW YORK (AP)—A West Coast architect says that automobiles are "space eaters" in the nation's cities, and that "if we got rid of all cars . . . put them all in a huge crate and dumped them into the ocean . . . the relief would be magnificent."

Allan Temko blamed the automobile for overcongestion and for helping turn the city into an "inhuman metropolis."

"More than half the prime space of what has been downtown Los Angeles is now taken up by freeways, parking spaces and garages," he said.

His views were contained in a booklet about "The American Character," issued by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions.

Bus Skids to Cliff Edge; Ten Treated for Cuts

SPARTA, Tenn. (UPI)—Ten of the 15 passengers aboard a New York bound express bus were treated for cuts and bruises yesterday when the vehicle skidded off a highway and came to rest at the edge of a cliff.

The bus, traveling on highway 70 five miles east of here, skidded in fog and rain into an embankment, then rolled to the edge of a cliff overlooking a mountainside.

Class on Commuting

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI)—University of Illinois students set what they claimed was a world record for "bus-stuffing" yesterday. They squeezed 206 youths into a bus designed to hold 50.

Renting a cellar near the sector border as a store room, he began to dig. He told a close friend who got drunk one evening and forgot to keep his mouth shut.

Soon the painter was showered with so many requests to help that he abandoned the project and escaped by riding to the West atop an elevated railway car.

"As soon as I got to West Berlin, I began making plans to get my wife and brother out," said the man.

Together with West Berliners, he dug a tunnel beneath another elevated railway station. Just before completion a large section of it caved in. He said.

"My wife was already on her way to where the Eastern entrance would have been. When she couldn't get across she returned home and was betrayed to police by her own cousin. She got two years at hard labor and my brother got six years."

The painter is a typical tunnel digger. There are at least six different groups in West Berlin. All started in order to help relatives. At least two groups continued operations afterwards, strictly as a business proposition.

According to a member of one group, they collect $750-$1,250 per person brought safely to the West.

"I would say that 50 per cent of all tunnel operations in West Berlin are now conducted only for financial gain," said a West Berlin official. "About 30 per cent of the remaining tunnel builders are idealists but must collect money from refugees in order to finance the projects."

The rest are students who collect money for their projects from idealistic businessmen.

U.S. military officials tend to have a hands-off attitude, fearing that a discovered tunnel might cause shootings that could in turn create large-scale disturbances.

But no one actually discourages tunneling in order to help refugees. West Berlin police are known to have looked the other way when they found a tunnel project.

Police even have closed their eyes to the fact that one group supplies weapons to tunnel diggers as protection against Communist police.

"It is easy to get weapons in West Berlin," said a tunnel builder. "You can get a Russian submachine gun with 500 rounds of ammunition for 200 marks ($50)."

All tunnel builders to whom this reporter talked said they would not hesitate to shoot anyone on the Eastern side trying to stop refugees.

There was a time when refugees could be brought through tunnels only 30 feet long. But now that a second wall has been built in many places and a restricted zone has been established, operations are more difficult.

"In order to have a successful tunnel, it must be at least 400 feet long and end well beyond the restricted zone, preferably inside a building," said one official.

"This costs a lot of money."

Communist police use more and more sound detectors and have even placed microphones in the ground in order to discover tunneling.

A West Berlin official, with extensive knowledge of tunneling, said he felt the tunnel era has ended.

Dems and GOP Candidates Racing Neck and Neck

WASHINGTON (AP) — With election day only two weeks from Tuesday no strong political tide seems to be running for either the Democrats or the Republicans.

Personalities often appear to overshadow party labels, pointed out by indications in a number of states that voters may elect a Democratic senator and a Republican governor or vice versa.

At stake in the Nov. 6 voting will be 38 Senate seats—five of them for unexpired terms—and all 435 House seats. Thirty-five governors will be named.

A nationwide survey by The Associated Press fails to disclose any major upheaval in sight in the political make-up of Congress, where the Democrats now have heavy majorities in the Senate and House.

Best bet for any Republican surge apparently is in the state house races, with GOP candidates given a chance to oust Democrats in big swing states like California, Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

PREDICTIONS HARD

In many cases political weather-vanes were fluttering too uncertainly to make forecasts comfortable.

The AP survey of the election outlook pulled together the opinions of newspaper political writers, polls taken by newspapers

She is still suffering from the effects of an anemic condition complicated by a lung infection, which caused her to be hospitalized at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center for three weeks.

Sen. Frank J. Lausche, a Democrat whose conservative leanings frequently put him out of step with the administration, looks like a sure winner.

ROMNEY-SWAINSON

The contest for governor of Michigan, with former automobile man George Romney making his political debut, is rated too close to call as of now. Romney is trying to unseat Democratic Gov. John B. Swainson.

An old hand at politics, Senate Republican Leader Everett M.

NIXON-BROWN

In California former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, is locked in rugged battle for the governorship with Democratic incumbent Edmund G. Brown.

Most polls put Brown somewhat ahead. Republican Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel is favored to fight off the challenge of Richard Richards, state senator from Los Angeles.

Pennsylvania is another example of a state where the Senate and gubernatorial races seem to be going in different directions.

Democratic Sen. Joseph S. Clark is rated a winner over Rep. James E. Van Zandt, his conservative Republican foe. In the governor's race Rep. William W. Scranton is given a slight edge over Richardson Dilworth, former Democratic mayor of Philadelphia.

DISALLE-RHODES

In neighboring Ohio, Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle is regarded by most political writers participating in the survey as somewhat of an underdog against his GOP challenger, State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

ganthus, but Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits also is expected to win re-election over New York lawyer James B. Donovan.

Two former Cabinet members—one from the Eisenhower administration and one from the Kennedy administration—are bidding for elective office.

SEATON-MORRISON

Fred A. Seaton, who was Eisenhower's secretary of the interior, is running for governor of Nebraska against the Democratic incumbent, Frank B. Morrison.

The battle is rated a standoff. In Connecticut, Kennedy's former secretary of welfare, Abraham Ribicoff, is bidding for the Senate seat of retiring Republican Sen. Prescott Bush.

Ribicoff's opponent is Rep. Horace Secoy-Brown Jr., six-term Republican congressman. Observers are inclined to give Ribicoff a slight edge.

New England's political waters also are being stirred by a Republican rumormongering in New Hampshire.

There Republican Gov. Wesley Powell, defeated for renomination by John Pillsbury, has thrown his support to the Democratic nominee, John W. King.

KING-PILLSBURY

Despite New Hampshire's generally Republican ways, King is given at least an even chance to beat Pillsbury. This is not expected, however, to shake the GOP's hold on House and Senate seats.

In the South the Democrats are running into stiffer Republican challenges in some states, but GOP gains seem likely to be limited to a few scattered House seats in Virginia and elsewhere.

Republican hopes of a major upset in Dixie center on the Texas gubernatorial race where the GOP candidate, Jack Cox, is pitted against John Connally, close friend of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Kennedy's former secretary of the Navy.

While Connally generally is favored, he reportedly could be in trouble if the Democrats don't turn out a big vote.

Study Alliance for Progress

Tough Job to Find Ways to Help Latins

MEXICO CITY (AP) — American finance ministers gathered today to try to pump more progress into the Alliance for Progress.

After a formal inauguration meeting this afternoon, the ministers will start Tuesday on a week's review of the problems of the alliance. They hope to find some solutions.

JOB IS TOUGH

Their job is a tough one. The alliance aims at achieving on the Latin-American continent a peaceful social and economic revolution within 10 years.

Experts after a three-week review of the program warned finance ministers Sunday: "The task of breaking with the past and restructuring a society characterized in many cases by economic and social rigidities cannot be realized in a few years."

This was echoed by U. S. Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon who said, "There are no overnight solutions for problems that have been building up for centuries."

"We must not expect miracles. This is, after all, a 10-year program."

The report on the alliance submitted by the hemisphere's economic experts was not bright. There are no signs of prompt improvement in Latin-American economies, the experts said.

MARKETS STAGNANT

Continual stagnation of internal markets is impeding progress. The magnitude of the flight of private capital from Latin America is a source of special concern.

Agrarian reform measures are opposed in many sectors. Many reform programs lack essential measures to provide credits, markets and increased agricultural production.

Tax reform programs are moving but no substantial results are likely soon because of weak public administration. The housing shortage is becoming more acute.

Reds Give Details on Twin Orbit

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia's million-mile space twins orbited within four miles of each other last August then ended their lengthy trip 1,864 miles apart before returning to earth, Pravda reported today.

The Communist party newspaper, in a special article dealing with the results of the four-day flight of Maj. Andrian Nikolayev and the three-day journey of Lt. Col. Pavel Popovich, disclosed new details about the record-breaking accomplishment.

The two and one-half page report made no mention of future Soviet space plans.

But it said the cosmonauts' trip showed "man will be able to work normally for long periods" in weightlessness and "flights lasting several hundred hours will be possible" with proper training.

Both cosmonauts felt "fine" throughout and received "absolutely safe" doses of radiation, Pravda said.

Pravda said the aims of the twin flights among other things were to check the design of the Vostok spaceships for flights lasting several days, and to develop the complex of placing a second spaceship near one launched earlier.

The American high-altitude nuclear test over the Pacific July 8 formed "an artificial radiation belt... which would have been most dangerous to the cosmonauts' health" if they had entered it, Pravda said.

But it added that by the time Vostok 3 and Vostok 4 were launched Aug. 11 and Aug. 13 respectively, "the intensity of radiation caused by the American... explosion had diminished to a permissible level at the altitude the ships were flying."

Pakistan, carved out of India in 1947, comprises two unequal parts. West Pakistan separated from East Pakistan nearly miles by sea.

Cuban Policy Topic Again for Ben Bella

PARIS (AP) — Algerian Premier Ahmed Ben Bella explained his Cuban policy to President Kennedy when they met in Washington, and the U. S. President appeared to understand the situation, the newspaper Le Figaro reported today.

The paper published an interview Ben Bella gave two of its correspondents in Algiers on his return from the United States and Cuba.

Ben Bella reiterated Algeria's policy of nonalignment and neutrality in world affairs.

He said the phrase "identity of views" with which a joint communiqué described his talks with Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro referred only to such matters as agrarian reform and opposition to colonialism, racial discrimination and nuclear tests.

JUST FRIENDLY

Ben Bella said his visit to Cuba was part of a general policy of maintaining friendly relations with all countries friendly to Algeria.

"An invitation had been sent to me three times, and was simply replying to the invitation of a country which has always demonstrated an attitude of unreserved support for Algeria," Ben Bella said, adding that he realized this would arouse criticism in the United States, especially because of the election campaign there.

"But one cannot refuse the invitation of a country because its neighbors are holding elections and because opinion in the neighboring state is very sensitive. The Cubans would not have understood," Ben Bella said.

26-Megaton Blast Set Off by Soviets

UPPSALA, Sweden (UPI) — The Soviet Union exploded a multimegaton nuclear device in the atmosphere at its Novaya Zemlya testing ground. In the Arctic today, the Uppsala Geophysical Institute reported. Dr. Sverin Duda said the explosion had a yield equivalent to 26 million tons of TNT. The spokesman said this was the 16th explosion monitored by Uppsala in the current Soviet test series.

Romance on the Rocks After Girl Slips Up

PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif. (AP) — The love affair between Marjetta Jackson, 22, and her boy friend, Louis Amouge, went on the rocks yesterday.

Fleeing Louis' amorous advances at a beach party, Marjetta slipped between a narrow gap in the boulders on a rock jetty and had to be freed by police and firemen.

Marjetta wasn't injured but had one complaint — Louis was "too amorous."

The world's oldest preserved, fully identified ship is Sweden's "Vasa." The 1,400-ton armed galleon capsized and sank in Stockholm harbor on the first day of her maiden voyage in 1628. The ship was raised intact in 1961 and will be restored as a historic monument.

Red Shoppers Unhappy
MOSCOW (AP) — Only 40 to 45 Soviet shoppers out of 100 can buy clothing that completely satisfies them for fit and style, says V. M. Sokolov, chief state planning specialist in the sewing industry.

Mama Does Civic Bit to No Avail

LONDON (AP) — Anne MacDonald, a shapely mother of four, became a roadside vamp to slow down fast drivers.

In fetching halter top and figure-hugging jeans, she took up her stand outside the village of Graveley on the busy Great North Road.

Then she wiggled her hips and gave the hitch-hiking thumb sign to every passing motorist.

When truck drivers pulled up to offer her a lift, Mrs. MacDonald, 31, smiled sweetly and said: "Thank you for stopping. I do hope you will observe the speed limit through our village."

Mrs. MacDonald said she had written six times to the Transport Ministry asking that it do something about the many drivers who ignored the village's 30-mile-an-hour speed limit.

"I saw drivers whistling at pretty girls in the village and that gave me a new idea," she said.

Mrs. MacDonald now has abandoned her vamp technique.

"The drivers were all as nasty as possible," she said. "I'm shocked."

"It would take the type of language used by truck drivers to describe my opinion of them."

'World's Soul Lost,' Archbishop Says

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The world has, by and large, lost its soul, the Archbishop of Canterbury says.

Dr. Arthur Michael Ramsey, spiritual leader of the Church of England and the Anglican Communion, spoke to more than 1,000 persons at the University of California at Los Angeles Sunday night.

He said "races and nations are not using the world's resources in fellowship, are exploiting their neighbors and aggrandizing themselves, trying to dethrone God."

He said pride is "the supreme rebellion against God."

Crew Lands Jet 'by Hand'

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — When an Eastern Air Lines jetliner lost hydraulic pressure, crewmen hand-cranked the gear and flaps while Capt. James Osborne brought the plane in to a safe landing.

The plane, with 65 passengers and seven crew members on board, flew here Sunday night from Boston and New York, en route to Fort Lauderdale.

Osborne, from North Stamford, Conn., said a fuel pump leak had caused loss of all but 1/2 gallon of the 5.4 gallons of fluid on the right side of the Boeing 720 jet.

223,618 Given Vaccine Against Polio in Mobile

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Despite rainy weather, 223,618 persons turned out Sunday to receive Type II Sabin oral polio vaccine. The total represents more than 71 per cent of the county's 1960 population.

More than 304,000 persons received the Type II vaccine in September in a two-day program.

Giants Keep 'Hold' Over Plum

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

NEW YORK—Even being with a new team can't help quarter-back Milt Plum against the New York Giants.

Plum faced the Giants for the 10th time yesterday in his 10th career and he was smothered before 62,000 Yankee Stadium fans.

During his days with the Cleveland Browns, Plum found no way to beat the Giants. He won once, lost eight and tied one including yesterday.

"Their defense beat our offense," said George Wilson who saw the tide turn in favor of the Giants in the second half with numerous Lions' errors.

Leading 14-7 at the halftime, the Lions gave the ball away on three occasions in the third quarter and gave the Giants 10 points. They had several chances to turn the tide but it wasn't in the books.

Everything started when Sam Huff shot through to block Yale Lary's punt and the Giants marched for the tying touchdown with Phil King going over from the one.

EVERYTHING WRONG
Things continued in a bad way for Detroit. On the next series Dick Lynch intercepted Milt Plum's pass that resulted in the winning field goal.

The Giants moved to the two yard line and on 4th downs, rather than go for the TD against the Lions' defensive line, Y. A. Tittle called for a field goal.

Don Chandler, who had put the Lions in the hole several times with great punting, booted from the nine yard line.

After Plum hit Osi Cogdill in the first quarter on a beautiful 44 yard TD play, the Lions looked sharp and ready to play in the same style of their first three games.

The Giants came right back on the ensuing kick and marched downfield on screen plays and dunks. They got to the Lions' 4 but in two downs got nothing. Tittle and Lynch recovered his fumble on the 13 to end the threat.

Lions hit the middle for the touchdown to tie it.

TIDE CONTINUES

Several factors helped the Giants' tide to victory. The Lions had a great chance when Plum hit Cogdill 38 yards in the third quarter. He was hit by Jim Patton and Lynch recovered his fumble on the 13 to end the threat.

On the next series another chance came for the Lions when big Roger Brown stepped in front of a pass by Tittle but couldn't hold it on the Giants' 28 yard line.

The Lions kept trying. A pass to Cogdill took the ball to the Giants' 30 with two minutes to play. Plum then tried Cogdill again, but the little tip of a finger stopped what may have been the winning touchdown.

Cogdill was all set to take the ball at the three yard line, when Eric Barnes made a last ditch jump at it. It flicked off his finger tip and over Cogdill's head into the end zone to stop the score.

Even Barnes knew how lucky he was as he motioned his hand to his brow with a sigh of relief.

The Lions had a chance to try for a field goal and Plum tried to move in closer with passes.

The big Giants' defensive line snared him twice in a row and Wayne Walker had to come in for a 47 yard attempt.

Lynch raced in and blocked the kick and the Lions had no more chances.

Amidst the fired up Giants' defense in the second half, the Lions bumped into each other in the backfield and had players shuffling in confusion several times which cost precious yardage.

With the Green Bay Packers winning another, the Lions and the Bears, both 4-2 meet next week, both hoping to catch the Packers who now must play six of last eight games on the road.

Schmidt Out

Lions' Injury List Starts to Multiply

NEW YORK—With captain Terry Barr missing from yesterday's game with a knee injury, the Lions received a couple more scares which will cause uncertainty for next week's game with the Bears at Tiger Stadium.

Defensive captain Joe Schmidt went off the field in the first half yesterday against the Giants and took part in only the first scrimmage play of the second half.

With his chest heavily taped, Schmidt was in pain and found it difficult to breathe. X-rays were to be taken today to determine if rib fractures were evident.

Defensive back Gary Lowe was also missed yesterday when he collapsed in the locker room prior to the game. Lowe was given a shot to ease pain in his legs and fell to the floor immediately afterward.

Dr. Richard Thompson gave

Low another injection to counter the first one and he also applied oxygen mask.

Lowe dressed but was not used in the game and his leg condition is to be given more treatment this week.

LIONS' NOTES
All of the 62,000 fans in Yankee Stadium and all TV viewers saw Andy Robustelli throw an elbow at Tom Watkins after a play early in the game. Everyone that is except the officials.

The Giants revealed they had practiced all week on rushing the Lions' on kicks and punts. Em Tunnell who scouted Detroit in all five previous games thought that by applying pressure on Yale Lary it might ease the Giants' distance on his booming punts.

The plans worked. The Giants not only blocked Lary's punt leading to the tying touchdown, but also blocked a field goal and almost blocked an extra point.

It was the first punt Lary had blocked on him since Baltimore did it in 1960. Yesterday was one of Lary's poorest days punting as he averaged only 35 yards per try.

Rome Council Takes Up Public Worship

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The major work of the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council began today with a look at liturgy, the rites of public worship.

The 2,700 council fathers gathered in St. Peter's Basilica to take up the first in a long list of topics following their election of 10 working commission.

The job of putting a modern look on Catholicism's face is centered in the 70 or more topics that the council must debate and then approve or reject. The proposed "Constitution on Sacred Liturgy"—a single topic divided into eight chapters that fill five booklets—happened to be the first topic ready, one source said.

Another explained that liturgy is an area where not too much delay or disagreement is expected, unlike topics dealing with such delicate matters as church-state world's Catholic bishops.

RELIGIOUS AREA

"Liturgy is a purely religious area and its significance within the church would be lost if it were buried among the other topics," said one of the experts advising the council.

Liturgy includes both the form and the prayers of the Mass, the sacraments administered to Catholics and the daily office or set of prayers that every priest must say. So-called "secondary devotions" like novenas and the rosary are intended to bring the faithful closer to Mass and the sacraments, but they are not properly part of the liturgy.

SOCIAL IDEA

"There is a very fundamental and social idea in the liturgy," explained a Jesuit scholar taking part in the council. "It is a community form of worship, as apart from private prayer."

There was no schedule as to when the 24-man commission on liturgy would go to work revising, amending and adapting the proposed constitution. Arcadio Cardinal Larraona, 74-year-old Spaniard, is president of the commission. Its members are cardinals, archbishops, bishops and superiors from 16 nations.

The council fathers had to submit their names three days in advance if they wanted to speak in the full assembly.

The commission's job is to take whatever changes should be voted and work over the original draft, then give it back to the full assembly for further discussion. The commission can call on 195 official experts named by Pope John XXIII.

'Militia to Handle' Integration

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Sources close to Gov. nominee George C. Wallace say he wants a state militia to deal with emergencies resulting from any racial integration attempts or other sources in the state.

The information came on the heels of an announcement that five Negro students would apply for admission to the University of Alabama in the next few days.

Wallace said during his campaign last spring that, if necessary, he would stand in the door of any Alabama school to block integration during his four-year term.

A state militia would be available should the Alabama National Guard be called into federal service, the source noted.

UNDER GOVERNOR

The militia would answer to the governor and not be subject to federal call.

Wallace declined to comment on the state militia idea or on the announcement by integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. that Negro college students would apply soon to transfer to the university.

A federal court order ended segregation at the university when Authurine Lucy was admitted in February 1956. Rioting broke out on the campus and Miss Lucy was removed for her own safety.

She was later expelled after she caused school officials of conspiring with the mob.

University sources said no qualified Negroes have applied for admission since.

Divers Get Set to Raise Tanks

VIDALIA, La. (UPI)—The countdown began today for the ticklish job of raising four giant chlorine tanks from the Mississippi River and removing a potential threat to about 80,000 persons in two states.

A team of 12 divers worked today to clear away three limbs, driftwood and other debris lodged at the upstream end of the barge. They expected to complete the job before nightfall.

The next step will be to maneuver two barges with powerful cranes into position and lower a raising platform atop one of the tanks.

Authorities have issued repeated statements to assure residents in a 30-mile radius of the sunken barge that changes of the liquid chlorine escaping from the tanks were remote.

If the chlorine should escape and mix with moisture, it would form the same type of poisonous gas used in World War I. This would force removal of inhabitants of six counties in Mississippi and Louisiana.

Engineers say it will take one day to place the raising platform to a tank and another to raise it.

Bad Show for Edna

LONDON (UPI)—The British Kennel Club said today it had banned Edna Batters, 27, from its shows for life because she tried to bribe a judge during a show in which her poodle Bunty was entered.

Gubernatorial Rivals Stumping Through State

Carries Campaign to Muskegon Stronghold

EN ROUTE WITH ROMNEY (R) — Republican George Romney carried his campaign outstate today in a continuing drive to crack Democratic voting majorities in the Nov. 6 election for governor.

The target this time was Muskegon, an outstate stronghold for the Democrats. Romney was to fly there for an all-day round of speeches and rallies, then return to Detroit for the annual National Automobile Show banquet.

Romney spent Sunday at home, as is his campaign custom, and hoped to shake off the effects of a nagging head cold that worsened slightly in Saturday's round of rallies and handshaking tours in a drizzling rain.

The GOP candidate paused Saturday in his quest for support to tell a gathering of newspaper editors in Detroit that Gov. Swainson had, in 24 instances, claimed credit for legislation and programs that were the work of Republicans, or other units of government.

He accused Swainson of "political piracy" in taking credit for certain accomplishments in the past two years, saying the list of 24 examples "bears out the fact that he takes credit for what others did and seeks scapegoats for his failures."

Romney, asked to comment on the latest Detroit News poll which showed he holds a 4.7 percentage point lead in voter preferences, said his own organization — using the same polling service — had come up with figures that showed him leading but by different margins.

Romney said the poll conducted by Market-Opinion Research Co. for the GOP was conducted on a broader basis than that of the News, however, so the variation in results didn't necessarily indicate a conflict.

Will Hear Speech by Clerk-Register

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Oakland County Clerk-Register Daniel T. Murphy will be guest speaker at tomorrow night's meeting of the White Lake Township Republican Club.

The meeting will be held at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the White Lake Township Hall, 7525 Highland Road.

Murphy, who is seeking re-election to his present post on the Republican ticket Nov. 6, will be available for a question-and-answer session following his talk.

State JC Withholds OK of Vigilance Tax Group

GRANDVILLE (UPI) — The Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce voted yesterday to withhold official sanction of the vigilance tax committee of suburban Detroit, pending an executive board meeting in Lansing, Nov. 9.

The committee, which is staging an all-out fight against municipal income taxes on nonresidents, sent a delegation to the meeting here asking support in its campaign.

The Grand Rapids delegation of the Jaycees moved, however, to place the issue before the governmental affairs committee.

Berkley Mayor George Kuhn who heads the tax committee, said the organization would not

Announce Engagement of Highland Girl

HIGHLAND — Announcement is made of the engagement of Sharon Lee Matthaei to Theodore W. Rachar by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Matthaei, 3464 Highland Blvd.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rachar, 2754 Wabaverton Road, Avon Township. A December wedding is planned.

BUT THEY LIVED — Contrary to the evidence in this picture that occupants of this car must certainly have perished in the three-car crash on Bowerman's curve, south of Romeo, early Saturday morning, they all are alive today. Eleven persons were injured in the mishap. The driver and one passenger in this car, both seriously hurt, are still in the Community hospital near Almont while the other two were treated and released. They were on their way north on Van Dyke for the opening day of the small game hunting season.

Other top winners in the state were Southfield High School's "Blue and Gray," Royal Oak Dossiero High School's "Oak" and Berkley High School's "Bear Tracks."

2-Car Collision on Van Dyke Injures Driver

WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP — A 67-year-old St. Clair Shores man is in satisfactory condition today, after being hospitalized for injuries sustained in a two-car collision at 6:25 p. m. Saturday on Van Dyke, south of 30-Mile Road.

James Zweeky, owner of a St. Clair Shores tool company, suffered head and internal injuries when he collided with a car driven by Mrs. Alva L. Brooks of 116 Spring St., Romeo.

Mrs. Brooks told Romeo and state police that she was headed north on Van Dyke when the two cars met. She said she saw no headlights.

Police were unable to question Zweeky and thus unable to determine which direction he was driving. He had been hunting near Imlay City.

Car Hits Tree Killing Youth

LAPEER — A 19-year-old boy died of injuries sustained in an accident in Tuscola County at 12:35 p. m. Saturday when his car apparently went out of control and struck a tree.

Earl Faust, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Faust of 2224 S. Daley Road, died at 3:30 p. m. Saturday in Mariette Community Hospital of multiple fractures and internal injuries.

State Police reported that Faust was driving west on M46 one mile west of Kingston. They said his car apparently went out of control and crossed the road to the south shoulder. It then went off the road where it hit a tree.

Poll Dismissed by Swainson

Says Evidence of Lead by GOP Inconclusive

EN ROUTE WITH SWAINSON

(R) — Gov. Swainson, expressing confidence that his campaign is going well, scoffed today at public opinion polls showing him to be trailing his Republican challenger, George Romney.

"I always think back to the primary of 1960," he said, "when the experts said I couldn't win — but I did. And they always said G. Mennen Williams couldn't win — but he did."

Swainson, who succeeded Williams as governor, was expected by many observers in 1960 to lose his primary battle for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination to James M. Hare, now secretary of state.

Results of the latest Detroit News poll on the Swainson-Romney campaign were released Sunday and indicated that Romney had scored a substantial gain in the statewide sampling in recent weeks.

But the Detroit Free Press reported that a secret Democratic poll showed the two candidates to be neck-and-neck, with both Swainson and Romney getting 47 per cent, and the remaining 6 per cent of the voters still undecided.

Swainson followed another busy Sunday schedule with appearance at four churches, a fund-raising dinner in Grosse Pointe, a United Auto Workers educational conference, and rallies in Taylor Township.

Today, he was scheduled to deliver the keynote address at a conference of the National Rehabilitation Association in Detroit, meet with Democratic legislators and candidates in Lansing and attend a National Automobile Show dinner with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

NEWS OF THE AREA

Wed in Lutheran Rite

Living in Brighton

WALLED LAKE — Now living in Brighton are Mr. and Mrs. Victor L. Burn who exchanged nuptial vows in a recent candle-light ceremony in St. Matthews Lutheran Church.

Official at the rites was the Rev. L. A. Kline.

The bride, the former Mary Eleanor Nelson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Nelson of 3353 Westwind Drive. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Howies of 822 Ladd Road.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of princess taffeta and Alencon lace. Appliques of the lace outlined the wide scoop neckline and the three-quarter length sleeves. The bell-shaped skirt, highlighted by a large bow at the waist, extended into a chapel train.

The bouffant veil was held by a jeweled lace crown, and the bride carried a bridal bouquet of roses, fugi chrysanthemums and ivy.

Mrs. Donald Reynolds of East Lansing was matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Elaine Zucchet and Mary Lang, both of Orchard Lake; Diane Fries of Detroit; and the bridegroom's sister, Rosella Burn of Walled Lake.

Julie Ann and Janet Beth Comes were flower girls while the bridegroom's nephew, Keith Howies, was ring bearer. Crowell Henry L. Bender of Croswell was best man. Ushers were Richard Daugherty and John Duncanson, both of Walled Lake, and

MRS. VICTOR L. BURN

Jerry Swartz and Larry Stauch, both of Novi.

Following a reception in the church parlors, the couple left for a honeymoon in northern Michigan and Wisconsin.

Deer Slayers Being Hunted

Farmers at Milford Add $100 to Reward

MILFORD — Several irate area farmers, still seething over the wholesale slaughter of a family of deer Oct. 6, have contributed an additional $100 reward for arrest and conviction of the culprits.

The Milford Turtle Club and the Tri-County Sportsmen's Club had each donated $25 in an effort to obtain information regarding the off-season killings.

A large buck, a doe and two fawns were discovered by Robert Sinclair of 1715 Old Plank Road as he took an afternoon walk down the road. He found the remains in a thickly wooded area on the east side of the road and called conservation officers.

Proud Lake Recreation Area manager, Al Masini, said the deer had been shot by shotgun slugs. The hind quarters and sirloin sections of the buck and doe had been stripped and parts of both fawns taken.

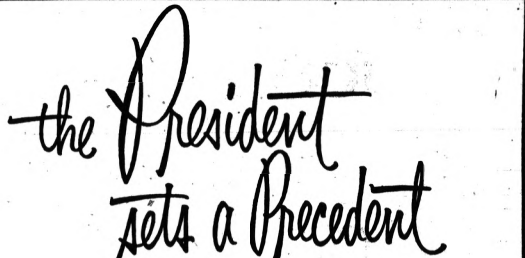

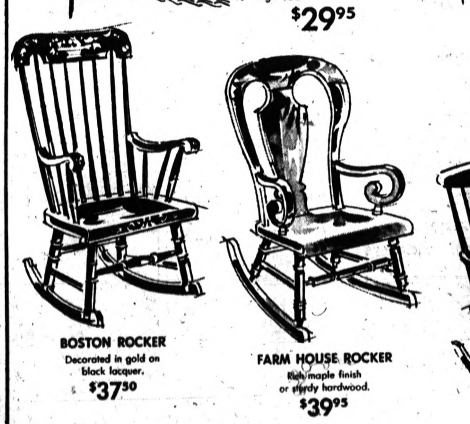

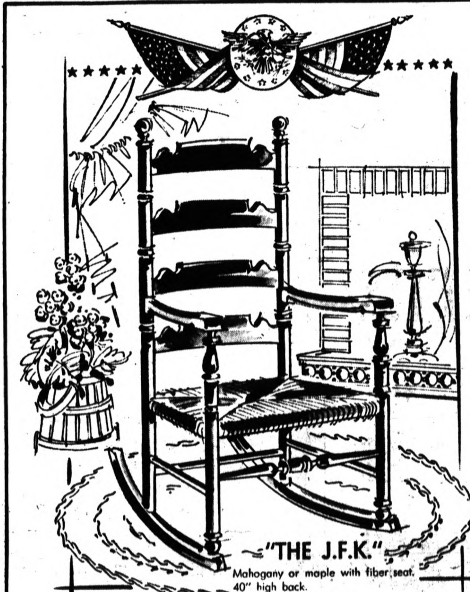

"This is the first time in my 14 years of work in this area that any deer had been deliberately killed on state land," Masini said.

He explained that conservation rangers came across about six deer a season that been killed, either accidentally during pheasant season, or shot "just for the heck of it," limping away to die.

A thorough investigation is still under way in an attempt to apprehend the heartless deer killers, Masini said.

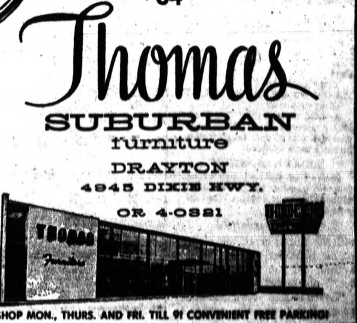

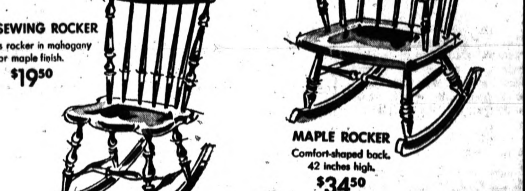

State Traffic Kills 1,252

EAST LANSING (R) — Traffic accidents have killed 1,252 persons in Michigan so far this year, provisional figures compiled by state police showed today. The toll at this date last year was 1,233.

Soviets Confused Over India-China War

MOSCOW (AP) — The state of confusion in Soviet official ranks over the India-China border fighting was reflected today in the total absence again of any news in any of the major papers about the fighting in recent weeks. The whole affair raises an acute problem for the Kremlin.

The Soviet Union has a mutual assistance pact with Red China which obliges it to come to Peking's aid in case of aggression. That explains in part the frantic effort of the Chinese to demonstrate that the Indians attacked first. There were reports from both sides Sunday narrowing down to a question of half an hour the claims of who struck first.

If the Russians accepted the Chinese claim that India attacked, it would put the Soviet government in an intolerable position with respect to virtually all neutral nations. Most of them appear to feel that this time the aggression clearly has come from the Communist side.

India has been negotiating for delivery in December of a number of Soviet MIG21 fighters, the latest model out here, and for the right to manufacture them in India. They chose the MIGs in preference to American fighter planes because they could manufacture the Russian planes more easily and the price was lower.

Soviet deliveries of military and other goods to China have decreased substantially during the past two years.

The slowdown was attributed in part to the inability of the Chinese to make payments on debts already owed the Soviet Union. The ideological differences between the two Communist giants apparently also affected their trade and military relations although both sides continue in public to profess great love and respect for one another.

However, the Chinese Press has been full of direct attacks on Soviet policy. The Soviet press in turn has carried a number of direct and veiled attacks against Chinese "dogmatists" who oppose Russian-American efforts to reduce their points of tension. Nevertheless, China remains a major member of the Communist camp. Thus the current situation poses a severe issue.

The Soviets have been plugging Indian-Soviet friendship as a major part of their program to build up a big neutralist bloc. They have built a big steel mill, an oil refinery and a number of other projects in India. Scores of Indian students are studying in Moscow and other Soviet universities. Top-level delegations from the Soviet Union have toured India several times a year for the past several years.

delivered to India in December, their use against the Chinese doubtless would cause a serious dispute throughout the Communist camp.

The Red Chinese have openly opposed Soviet contributions to India or any other neutralist country on the ground that aid should first go to Communist states, including Red China itself. The Soviets have ignored the protests, although in recent months their own needs have obliged Soviet authorities to scale down aid even to neutralist countries.

London Traffic Being Swept Underground

LONDON (UPI) — The new Hyde Park underpass, already described as London's attempt to sweep its traffic problems underground, lived up to this description again yesterday by jamming solid during the afternoon.

The underpass, which cost $14 million and took 29 months to complete, is designed to ease the passage of traffic from Hyde Park to Marble Arch.

It opened Wednesday and there was a traffic jam within an hour. The Royal Automobile Club described it sourly as a route leading from one bottleneck to another.

Expect Ella to Brush Canadian Coast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hurricane Ella followed a generally northeastern path which the Weather Bureau said would bring the slowly weakening storm close to the southeastern coast of Newfoundland today.

The Weather Bureau said the center of the hurricane was about 100 miles southwest of Cape Race, Nfld., at 5 a.m. and was moving north-northeast at 40 miles per hour. It is expected to slow its forward progress slightly and then veer more to the eastward at 35 miles an hour tonight. "The hurricane is expected to lose its tropical characteristics today but continue as a vigorous storm in the North Atlantic," the report added. "The strongest winds are expected to decrease slowly and continue mostly in the southern and eastern quadrants."

Latin America extends over eight million square miles. Only 16 per cent is arable land or land in tree crops; 18 per cent is meadows and pastures; 47 per cent is jungles and forests. The rest is largely unexplored.

Story Links Doris Day to Union Funds

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Singer Doris Day and restaurateur Toots Shor have been involved in Teamsters Union Pension Fund loans or commitments totaling $11 million, the Los Angeles Times reported yesterday in a copyrighted story.

The Times dispatch said the Teamsters fund had loaned $1.8 million and committed another $5 million to a nationwide chain of luxury motor hotels in which Miss Day is a major investor. The Times also said Shor's new restaurant in midtown Manhattan was financed by $1.2 million from the fund.

The money, according to the article, came from the $10 million central states, southeast and southwest area pension fund based in Chicago. Teamster President James Hoffa was identified as one of the trustees of the fund.

Eliza's Father Thinks Back 'Fair Lady' Memories Persist

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD.—Memories of "My Fair Lady."

When the record-breaking musical closed after six and a half years on Broadway recently, it evoked a rush of memories. Stanley Holloway, who devoted the better part of four years to playing Eliza's rakish father in New York and London, has a few memories of the musical. "There was the first show."

"Oh, I remember many nights," he said. "I remember the first night we played a Sunday night benefit before our own profession. The response was so enormous the stagehands waived their usual finishing time so they could work overtime."

"There was the night a 1,500-pound piece of scenery fell backstage with a great crash. Rex Harrison was doing a number and he didn't miss a note; he said later he thought someone was shooting at him."

"There was the night I heard a commotion in the theater but kept on singing. I learned later that a man had fainted in the stalls (orchestra seats). They had to carry him out over people's heads."

"One time Rex was out with a bad throat and his understudy played the matinee. What with nerves and all, the poor boy was steadily losing his voice. At the evening performance the audience couldn't even hear him. The curtain rang up at 8:35 and down at 9:15."

nothing of Harrison's scheme until this year. He received a letter proposing the engagement, was interested and came across.

NEW ABC SHOW
The result is "Our Man Higgins" on ABC Wednesday nights. It could be a long engagement for Holloway than "My Fair Lady," judging from the reviewer reaction. If the show can overcome its strong opposition—Perry Como and Dick Van Dyke—Higgins could look forward to the same steady employment of his neighbor at Screen Gems.

"Hazel." The prospect doesn't faze Holloway, a chunky, vigorous 72-year-old.

"I enjoy living here," said the actor, who had never before worked in the Hollywood studios.

Servicemen Pour Into Key West

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—A control tower is being built at Key West airport and construction round-the-clock to complete it.

The tower is needed to handle a big increase in traffic, informed source said. The airport, which has not needed a control tower in the past, is a few miles south of the naval air station at Boca Chica.

Frequent airport visitors said construction crews appeared suddenly at the airport Sunday and by late in the day the tower was operating on a makeshift basis. A Key West lumber yard hurriedly opened its doors to provide materials.

Suspense grew throughout Florida. Leaves were canceled at the Boca Chica Naval Air Station, where a battalion of Marines arrived during the weekend.

MacDill Air Force Base at Tampa in west-central Florida also was reported on the alert. Residents in the area reported heavy movement of planes and trucks hauling cargo marked "Explosives." The base was placed on an alert last Friday.

Readiness drills were staged at Jacksonville's Mayport Naval Station Saturday.

Bomb Home of Son of GOP Candidate

CHICAGO (AP)—A bomb exploded Sunday night at the home of Walter Eugene McCarron, son of the Republican candidate for Cook County assessor, in suburban Oak Park.

The blast wrecked a basement play room and broke windows in the two-story seven-room brick house and in an adjoining home. No one was injured.

McCarron, whose father, Walter Edward McCarron, was former Cook County coroner, estimated damage at $5,000. Young McCarron, 34, his wife, Mary, 32, and their three children, Timothy, 10, Michael, 7, and Marianne, 4, were in the house when the bomb, apparently placed at a basement window, exploded.

Copper production in Montana in 1961 totaled 103,840 tons, 13 per cent above 1960 and the highest in 17 years.

Ticker Tape Way Behind

Rumors Fly, Mart Skids Lower

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market slid sharply in heavy trading early this afternoon. Wall Street was jittery about as yet undisclosed international developments.

The ticker tape ran as much as 10 minutes behind transactions, its worst lag since July 10. Large blocks of key stocks were unloaded in the morning selling.

The military build-up in the Caribbean, combined with the President's calling of top Congressional leaders to a conference, left Wall Street buzzing with all kinds of rumors. The market observed its tradition of selling off on uncertain news.

In addition, last week's decline in the price of oil, the Fed's industrial averaged cracked through the support level of about 57 1/2 which had acted as a downside "floor" on July 18 and Oct. 1.

Many key stocks were off point or more and wider losses were taken by more volatile issues.

The ticker tape began to catch up in the afternoon and some of the worst losses were cut. Without the calming down process would continue or whether the market would be subjected to a renewed avalanche of selling remained to be seen.

All important segments of the list were affected by the selling wave. General Motors was down more than a point but shaved the loss to a bit less than a point.

Trading was light. Among corporates, trading during the first hour was heavy but price changes mostly were small.

Bond Prices Dip in Early Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—Bond prices drifted lower shortly after the opening of the trading today. Government securities suffered the largest losses.

One over the counter dealer in U.S. Treasury issues quotes distant maturities off 4/32 to 5/32, intermediates off 2/32 to 4/32 and bills off 1/32 to 2/32. The downturn in treasury issues was generally expected after the stock's strong rally, one dealer said. Trading was light. Among corporates, trading during the first hour was heavy but price changes mostly were small.

Find 20 Bodies in Norway Sea

Another 20 Missing as Liner Abandoned

RORVIK, Norway (AP)—Rescue ships and planes found 20 bodies and at least 20 persons were missing today after the Norwegian coastal liner Svalbard was abandoned in stormy seas.

Five lifeboats with a total of 48 survivors — 22 passengers and 6 crewmen — were picked up in the icy Norwegian Sea. Gale force winds and poor visibility hampered rescue operations.

Agents for the liner said she carried a crew of 50, instead of 45 as first reported, but they were unable to get the exact number of passengers, as tickets could be bought aboard ship.

Military planes searched the sea off Norway's west coast. Officials said there were several small islands where some survivors may have landed.

Rescue ships reported recovering eight bodies, while a Norwegian air force flying boat reported seeing another 12 bodies.

The modern 2,172-ton liner went down 4 miles south of Nordoya, a small island in the Gulf of Bothnia.

The ship was reported to have been hit by a massive wave that was taking a considerable amount of water and was abandoned ship was ordered.

Like everyone else, Republican Congressman William S. Broomfield gets some mail that pleases him and some that does not.

A letter he liked was one from U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Frederick G. Dutton, who praised Broomfield for "all your help on the State Department's legislative program this past session."

NOT SO PLEASANT Another — one not quite so pleasant was a second letter from Ken Morris, codirector of UAW-CIO Region One, which includes Pontiac.

Morris criticized what he termed Broomfield's "obvious reluctance to discuss your record as an incumbent congressman" and issued a second invitation for Broomfield to speak before UAW members and answer their questions.

Morris also suggested an alternative of appearing on the UAW's daily radio or television shows.

Broomfield has declined an earlier invitation to debate his opponent, George J. Fulkerson, before a meeting of Pontiac area UAW members.

He had said the late adjournment of Congress had made it difficult for him to meet previous commitments without taking on new ones.

He said the same thing after receiving Morris' second letter.

AT A STRANGE TIME A member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Broomfield says he is "one of the most ardent supporters of President Kennedy's bipartisan foreign policy."

Dutton's letter said, "You are certainly one of the coming congressional leaders in the field of foreign policy and I look forward to working with you."

Broomfield remarked it was a "very good night's sleep."

By ROGER E. SPEAR "I am 36 years old and a city fireman with no family at present. I want to buy some good growth stocks and can invest $1,000 a year. Would American Tobacco and Atlas Chemical be good choices, or could you suggest others?" B.M.

A. It always gives me considerable pleasure to assist someone in your position. When we need your help, we need it badly and always get it.

In certain respects, I like both the stocks you mention, but there are reasons why I advise against them at this time. Atlas is a fine company, but it is running up against severe competition. For your purposes, I suggest FMC Corp. and Northern Illinois Gas.

A. My first suggestion to you would be to get together and agree on a definite investment plan and stick to it. Decide right away what your objective is: income, long-term growth or speculation. There is nothing as unwise on the part of an investor as to have no objective, or to have one and then to change it. The latter is a sure way to ruin a good investment plan.

DISCOUNT RATE Or the Fed can cut the discount rate—what it charges member banks to borrow from it. Thus, if a bank has a customer who wants money from the Fed and lend it out at a profit to itself.

Either way, increased business activity is accommodated in the fall.

This time the Federal Reserve Board — for reasons that involve world conditions as well as domestic economic problems — has chosen to let the banks have more money to lend by lowering the amount they must keep on reserve to back their time and savings deposits. The reserve on the biggest bank item—demand deposits—wasn't changed.

The result is to release some $767 million, on which banks could pyramid up to $1.6 billion in loans — presuming business wants to borrow that much. In other words, the demand for loans was more pressing than that of the Fed has expanded the available funds by considerably more than that.

The legal minimum on time and saving deposit reserves is 3 percent. The new rate is 4 percent. It sends a strong message to bankers that legal reserves on these forms of deposits should be eliminated altogether.

So the Fed is using a method that is popular with the bankers, and one that has been under consideration for some time.

INTERNATIONAL REALM But the board probably had its eye as much on the international situation and the U.S. Treasury's current problems as on pleasing the banks.

Buying up short-term government securities to give banks the extra funds they normally need in the fall has another result—the Treasury is eager just now to avoid it. It sends a strong message to bankers that legal reserves on these forms of deposits should be eliminated altogether.

Drayton Plains Man Dies in 2-Car Collision

A Drayton Plains man was killed early Sunday in a two-car crash on U.S. 25 in St. Clair Township, St. Clair County.

Dead is Henry A. Polzin, 36, of 2086 Oakdale Road.

Dem Split Hit by Broomfield

Blames Opposition for School Bill Death

Congressman William S. Broomfield, R-Oakland County, today blamed "intraparty squabbling" among Democrats for the failure of federal aid to colleges legislation in the recently adjourned 87th Congress.

Broomfield said efforts to reach a compromise on the vital college aid bill were stalled "because stubborn men stood more on false pride than in meeting the needs of our nation."

He said Democrats in the House and Senate Conference Committee "killed the bill designed to help colleges meet the 'challenge of tomorrow' by doing nothing for three weeks until Congress adjourned."

A bill to help colleges build new classrooms and laboratories was passed by the House with bipartisan support, but the Senate tacked on a scholarship program turned down by the House "because it would have wrecked the student loan program now in effect," Broomfield said.

"The scholarship plan would have permitted students majoring in flycatching or basketweaving to have an education at federal expense, while those in vital scientific fields would have had to pay back loans," he explained.

Hare Campaigning in City, Area Today

Secretary of State James A. Hare was to bring his campaign for re-election to Pontiac today with a talk at a luncheon at the Elks Temple on Orchard Lake Avenue.

Hare is scheduled to attend a tea at the home of Mrs. Carlos Richardson, 2328 Carols, Waterford Township, at 2 p.m. before moving to Kingsley Inn in Bloomfield Hills for a reception honoring Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, wife of the Vice President.

Waterford to Open Paving Bids Today

Bids on paving bonds for Kemp and Preston streets will be opened at 7:30 p.m. today and reviewed by the Waterford Township Board.

The board will also hear a report from the insurance committee on motor vehicle insurance bids opened last week's meeting.

In other business the board will consider a request from the fire department for new uniforms. The request was submitted several weeks ago but tabled until the 1963 budget had been established.

Two Youngsters Die on Motorcycle

15 Killed in State Weekend Traffic

By The Associated Press
Fifteen persons lost their lives in weekend traffic accidents in Michigan.

There were three double fatalities including two youngsters who died when their motorcycle collided with a car on a hill west of Rogers City.

The Associated Press weekend count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

Clifford T. Lee Jr., 2, of Nankin Township was struck and killed by a car near his home Sunday.

Florence Harig, 50, of Grand Rapids, was struck and killed by an auto Saturday night as she walked along a road north of Grand Rapids.

A two-car head-on collision on U.S. 25 in St. Clair Township killed Plazny Polzin, 36, of Drayton Plains Sunday.

Waldemar Neuman, 23, of Kalamazoo, was killed Sunday when his auto ran off U.S. 131 north of Plainwell.

Howard Bardwell, 48, of Gladwin, died Saturday night in a two-car collision in Gladwin County.

A two-car collision Saturday, one mile east of Millington in Tuscola County, claimed the lives of Mrs. Phoebe Clemens, 53, of Central Lake and Thomas Rosencranz, 19, of Vassar.

Kris Krenkel, 16, of Hallett, was killed Saturday when his car ran off an Ingham County road and hit a tree.

Mrs. Emile Reynolds, 65, of Grand Rapids, died Friday in a two-car smash-up five miles north of Kalamazoo.

Earl Faust, 19, of Lapeer, was killed Saturday when his car veered off M46 west of Kingston in Tuscola County and hit a tree.

Wesley B. Algenstedt and Bonnie Morgan, both 15 of Rogers City, were killed Friday night when their motorcycle collided head-on with a car on an M58 hill west of Rogers City.

Sherman Robinson, 44, of Marcellus, died Friday night when his car flipped over on a Cass County road.

Area Man, Teen Killed Hunting

2 Fatalities Mark 1st Weekend in State

A Pontiac Township man was one of two victims of gunfire on the first weekend of Southern Michigan's small game season.

Killed by a rifle slug was Horace Naylor, 61, of 1190 Taylor Road.

The other fatality was a 15-year-old boy, David Collins of Petersburg. Hunting in Monroe County, David was hit in the back of the head by a shell from the gun of a companion, Thomas Layman, 16, also of Petersburg.

Naylor was fatally injured at 10:15 a.m. Saturday while hunting with friends on a farm four miles north of Brown City.

He was accompanied by his three sons, James, 25, Mike, 19, and Tom, 14; and Paul McNeary, 20, of 165 Chamberlain St. The group was joined by the owner of the farm, Howard Cumming and his son, Sandusky state police said.

The group was proceeding over irregular terrain, when the elder Cumming suddenly saw Naylor slumped near a tree. Naylor was hit by 22-caliber bullets, once above the right eye and once in the knee.

None of the group had fired. A stray shot from an unidentified hunter was suspected. Naylor died in Detroit's Ford Hospital at 3:25 p.m.

Among dozens of injured, a 32-year-old Coldwater man was in critical condition today after undergoing surgery for removal of a shell or pellet in a Battle Creek hospital.

The man, Bill Noble, was wounded by an unidentified hunter. His companions said none of their group fired.

GOP Hopeful to Visit Here

Norman O. Stockmeyer, Republican candidate for secretary of state, will lunch with Pontiac area realtors and visit the County Courthouse on a campaign swing through Oakland County tomorrow.

A Detroit realtor and former chairman of the Wayne County Republican organization, Stockmeyer also will attend informal coffees and tour county shopping centers.

He will address the Oakland County Young Republican Club at the Birmingham YMCA at 8:45 p.m.

Hart to Campaign With Neil Staebler

U.S. Senator Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., will accompany Democratic Congress-at-large candidate Neil Staebler to a luncheon for senior citizens at UAW-CIO Local 653 at 386 Kennett St. Thursday.

The luncheon will be one of several stops by the pair during the day's campaigning through Oakland County.

Also on their schedule is a breakfast in Royal Oak with city commissioners and city managers of southern Oakland communities, greeting shoppers at Northland Center, and several informal coffees.

Charge Invasion Set

HAVANA (AP) — The newspaper Revolution gave frontpage space today to a banner headline reporting a crisis atmosphere in Washington and accused the United States of "preparing aggression" against Cuba.

Waterford Man Found Dead in His Automobile

The body of a Waterford Township man was found in his car yesterday north of Ortonville by hunters.

A coroner's report stated that Howard J. Clark, 44, of 4078 South Shore Drive, died from carbon monoxide poisoning. He had been missing since Thursday. A hose was found near the car.

Back JFK on Cuban Dealings, Says Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says political snipers should hold their fire while President Kennedy is trying to deal with an international crisis.

To subject him to campaign attacks while he is attempting to cope with a current foreign policy problem is to weaken and divide the nation, Eisenhower said in a taped television interview—ABC—Politics '62—broadcast Sunday.

DEFENDS DECISIONS

At the same time the former president stoutly defended the Republican party's right to discuss policy matters that are history and the general long-range attitude of the nation toward its whole position in the world.

"Any pronouncements he may make respecting an impending crisis is almost sacrosanct as far as I am concerned," Eisenhower said. "If anyone argues with him, and the bigger the following this opponent gets, the more it has divided our country."

POLICY 'SAD'

Eisenhower's comments came in the wake of congressional campaign cross-fire over the Communist regime in Cuba and the Berlin crisis. Last Monday, in a Boston speech, Eisenhower joined in the fray, criticizing Kennedy for conducting "a dreary foreign policy... too sad to talk about."

In that stinging attack, Eisenhower termed "a strange departure from fact" a quote he attributed to Kennedy that "during eight years of Republican administration our foreign policy drifted aimlessly about."

Eisenhower said Sunday, "I heard the last of it. At least I hope so."

Eisenhower said it was the Democrats who first brought up foreign policy, accusing his Republican administration of drifting for eight years, and that he had responded to this in his Boston remarks.

"I do not believe we should fail to discuss things that are history," Eisenhower said. "A loyal opposition has got a perfect right to discuss it without rancor."

BYPASSES CUBA

At the same time Eisenhower brushed aside as "none of my business" a request for comment on calls by some Democrats and Republicans for an immediate invasion of Cuba.

Of the last Cuban invasion—the April 1961 Bay of Pigs fiasco—Eisenhower said he has never expressed an opinion about it at all.

Noting it occurred three months after the Kennedy administration had taken over, Eisenhower said: "I do not know enough about its complete details to comment upon it, and so while others have, others of my party and I suppose some of the other party have, I have personally kept still about it."

Commenting on Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, Eisenhower said: "While it is true the activities and the actions of the man began to show his real situation and his real intentions before I left office, the fact was that it was just something a situation we were still trying to save rather by diplomatic means than anything else."

CUBA THE ISSUE

Last Tuesday, the Republican campaign high command declared that foreign policy—Cuba in particular—is "the dominant issue of the 1962 campaign."

A formal statement, issued at GOP headquarters, declared: "If we were asked to state the issue in one word that word would be Cuba—symbol of the tragic irresolution of the administration."

Rep. William E. Miller, national party chairman, was joined in the statement by Sen. Barry Goldwater and Rep. Bob Wilson, chairmen of the Senate and House GOP campaign committees.

Reached Sunday night at Niagara Falls, N. Y., Miller said in a telephone interview there is no Republican disagreement over Cuba's place in the campaign.

"We feel we have a proper place in this country at this time to offer suggestions for dealing in the future with Cuba and the Cuban situation," Miller said.

"All we're saying is that they (the Kennedy administration) made a hell of a mistake in Cuba. If they adopt a current policy toward Cuba we'll support it. The reason we're offering suggestions is because they apparently have no policy toward Cuba, unless they're supporting Adlai Stevenson's statement that it'll wither on the vine."

Oil is now produced commercially in 29 of the American states. The most recent addition to the list was the state of South Dakota.

Briton Pleads Guilty to Spying Charge

LONDON (P)—William Vassall, 38, a British Admiralty clerk, pleaded guilty today to spying for the Soviet Union. He was sentenced to 18 years in prison.

Atty. Gen. Sir John Hobson told the court Vassall for the last six years has supplied Russian agents "secret information of the highest importance."

At a previous preliminary hearing Vassall said he was blackmailed into spying for the Soviet Union after photographs were taken of him in homosexual acts during a drinking party with some Russians in Moscow.

He was employed in the office of the British naval attaché at the time.

Hoffa's Conspiracy Trial Opens in Nashville Court

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The conspiracy trial of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa opens in federal court today. The judge, the Justice Department and defense lawyers agree it could last into the winter.

U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller said he has "pushed everything aside for this case."

Hoffa, who arrived by plane Sunday from Detroit, settled himself in a comfortable downtown hotel suite from which he expects to conduct the affairs of his 1.5-million-member union for the duration of the trial.

LASHES BOBBY

Newsmen who met Hoffa at the airport heard him lash out at U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, a frequent Hoffa target.

"Bob Kennedy is using the taxpayers' money for his own personal vendetta," Hoffa said. He contended the attorney general is "usurping the powers of his office, making his own policies and starting out just like Hitler did. If we continue like we are in America we will have no personal rights."

Hoffa is accused of conspiring to violate the Taft-Hartley Act, and with illegally obtaining a million dollars through a dummy company from a Michigan firm whose employees he has to the Teamsters Union.

At his arraignment last June he pleaded innocent and remained free under $3,000 bond. "We will beat this case just like we have all the others," the 49-year-old labor leader said at the time.

A federal grand jury returned an indictment May 18 against Hoffa and Commercial Carriers, Inc., a Detroit auto transport firm. Commercial Carriers entered a plea of no contest and Miller reserved judgment until after Hoffa's trial.

FEDERAL CHARGE

The indictment charged Hoffa and Owen Brennan, a Teamsters vice president who filed last year a suit with Commercial Carriers to form Test Fleet Corp., chartered here in 1949.

Commercial Carriers was accused of setting up Test Fleet and throwing a lucrative auto hauling business its way. Stock in Test Fleet later was transferred to Mrs. Hoffa and Mrs. Brennan under their maiden names, Josephine Pozysky and Alice Johnson, the indictment said, and Hoffa Brennan received profits of $1,608,667 from Test Fleet's operation from 1949-58.

UF Drive Reaches 26.8 Pct. of Goal

The Pontiac Area United Fund campaign has received $189,900 or 26.8 per cent of its $706,125 goal, Fred V. Haggard, drive chairman, announced today.

The Advance Gifts group, under Walter K. Willman, has campaigned since Sept. 26 seeking to meet a new high of $86,817. Willman reports $46,167 or 53 per cent collected so far.

Despite discouraging setbacks, Willman said, the overall picture looks good. He pointed to the following company gifts, all increased from over a year ago.

Michigan Bell Telephone $4,500
Detroit Edison Co. 2,500
Pontiac State Bank 2,750
J. L. Hudson Co. 1,200
Roy Annett, Inc. 300

He also gave warm praise to other large company contributors, including Grand Trunk Railroad, $1,000; Community National Bank $7,500; and The Pontiac Press, $3,000.

WOMEN'S DIVISION

Haggard added that the Women's Division, under Mrs. Joseph Fox, had collected $5,271 of its $28,213 goal. The division started its 10-day campaign on Oct. 16.

The receipts break down into $4,095 from Pontiac; $1,676 from Lake Angeles, and $100 from Waterford Township.

Commenting on the Industrial Division, Haggard noted that in-plant solicitation has been under way for two weeks and that it received "a tremendous boost" with the General Motors firm contribution of $123,000.

Ted Bloom, division chairman, says a further industrial report will be due at the end of this week. Total goal for the division is $467,700, representing 66 per cent of the entire campaign goal.

COMMERCIAL DIVISION

The Commercial Division headed by Bruce Annett also has started producing results, Haggard said.

The greatest progress has been made by the Chapter Plans group raising $46,333 against a quota of $115,019, or 39.1 per cent of its goal.

The chairman is Charles Brown.

Admits Slaying Inkster Man 'as a Favor'

Charges of Murder
Pending Against 2; Probe Role of Woman

By DICK HANSON

Murder charges against two men who admitted their part in the slaying of Peter Perva were pending today as Prosecutor George F. Taylor investigated the roles of two women in the death.

A 29-year-old ex-convict Richard Dubril of Belleville admitted killing the 44-year-old Inkster father of six "as a favor" for his ex-father-in-law, Taylor said.

He said the former father-in-law, Stanley Maroley, 46, of 22800 Middle Belt Road, Farmington, admitted being Mrs. Perva's lover and ordered her husband's execution.

According to Maroley's formal statement yesterday, Mrs. Perva, 46, knew of her husband's slaying the day before she reported him missing to Inkster police.

Perva's unidentified body was found in a well-celebrated grave in Independence Township Wednesday several hours before the missing report was received, according to Pontiac state police.

Maroley said he told Mrs. Perva of the murder by telephone Tuesday night, only hours after the slaying.

Also, Dubril said he told his ex-wife, Nina Maroley, 20, that he had killed Perva. He said she accompanied him the previous weekend to the spot where he dug the grave and let it waiting for the man marked for death.

According to Dubril, Nina didn't believe he was going to murder Perva.

Dubril said she didn't believe him afterward when he told her the job was done.

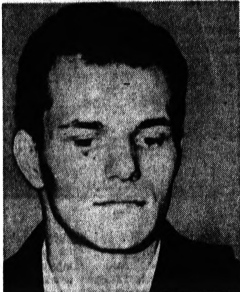

Taylor said he planned to charge the two men with first-degree murder today. But he said he was waiting for state police to complete their investigation to determine how involved the two women might be.

He said that knowing of a murder and failing to report it to the authorities isn't a crime in itself.

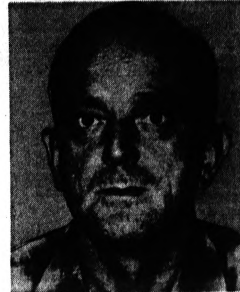

However, Taylor said there is a question at this time whether the women knowingly aided in Perva's slaying.

According to Dubril, he drove the victim's car to a dump at Eight Mile Road and Woodward Avenue after killing him, where he met Nina.

Use Tanks Against India

New Attack by Chinese

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Chinese Communists are using tanks on the western end of the Indian border and have launched a new attack on eastern India near Burma, an Indian spokesman said today.

The Chinese are concentrating their troops at another point on India's North East Frontier, half-way between the two places where the spokesman added.

Reporting on the third day of fighting between Chinese troops and Indian soldiers along the disputed Himalayan frontier, the spokesman indicated the Chinese were still advancing.

They captured four more posts at the southern end of the Ladakh battlefield in northwest India, one of them falling to tanks after they had turned back two previous Chinese assaults, he said.

The Chinese opened a new section of front at Kibitoo at the eastern end of the North East Frontier near Burma, the spokesman said, with an attack at 3 a.m.

Radio Peiping said earlier Indian troops attacked a Chinese position in the Chayul area of Tibet. This is possibly the same area, although there is a Chayul in Tibet about 200 miles west of the area near Burma where the Indian spokesman said the new fighting was raging.

The Chayul area in Tibet is about 10 miles north of the border.

Expect Cloudy,
Colder Weather to Hit Pontiac

Considerable cloudiness and colder temperatures are scheduled for the area tonight and tomorrow. Following a low of 39 this evening, the temperature is expected to reach a high of 56 tomorrow.

The forecast for Wednesday is partly cloudy and continued cool.

Rainfall registered four-tenths of an inch in downtown Pontiac from 10 a. m. Saturday 'til the same time today.

Today's winds are from the southeast at 10 to 18 miles per hour; they will shift north to northwest tonight and tomorrow.

Forty-two was the lowest thermometer reading preceding 8 a. m. today. At 1 p. m. the mercury measured 50.

U.N. to Begin Debating Seat for Peiping Regime

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—While Communist China and India battle on their border, the U.N. General Assembly opens debate today on the annual Communist attempt to seat the Chinese Reds in the United Nations.

Delegates generally predict the Communists would lose again.

The Soviet Union was scheduled to lead off the afternoon debate on its resolution that would have the 109-nation assembly replace Chinese Communist delegates on all U.N. bodies.

Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zarin, was believed likely to contend that the United Nations was only hurting itself by keeping out the Communist government controlling a fifth of the world's population.

Nationalist Chinese delegate Liu Chieh planned to reply with the argument that the Chinese people had repudiated the Peiping regime by fleeing the Chinese mainland in droves.

Liu was expected to contend that the Chinese Communists were committing aggression against India and should be kept out of the United Nations because the U.N. charter limits the membership to "peace-loving states."

claimed by India and about 50 miles northeast of Thagla Ridge near the Bhutan border where the fighting started at dawn Saturday.

CONCENTRATING TROOPS

About half way between Kibitoo and Thagla Ridge, the Chinese are also concentrating troops, the Indian spokesman said.

The troops are in Lengji, a village that the Chinese captured from Indian border guards in August 1959, killing three of them in the first bloodshed of the dispute over 51,000 square miles of Himalayan borders.

The spokesman declined to speculate on whether a Chinese attack was imminent at Lengji, but indicated both sides have led to other attacks in recent days.

DECLINES COMMENT

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger declined comment on the possibility that the ranking members of Congress were being assembled for a briefing from the president.

Meanwhile, the Defense Department announced "cancellation" of an amphibious maneuver in which more than 6,000 Marines were to have landed at Vieques Island near Puerto Rico tomorrow.

A Pentagon spokesman attributed the decision to the scattering of ships assigned to the maneuver by a Caribbean hurricane.

The department did not volunteer the information. It made the announcement after being asked about news dispatches from Puerto Rico.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in Chicago that he had been asked to fly to Washington "on urgent business" and that Rep. Leslie C. Arends, of Illinois, assistant House GOP leader, also had been summoned.

Emergency Briefing

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy asked today for time on television to address the nation on "a subject of the highest national urgency" at 6 p. m. (Pontiac time) this evening.

From Our News Wire

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy today summoned Democratic and Republican congressional leaders back to the capital, apparently for an emergency briefing on some still undisclosed international crisis.

The White House telephoned House and Senate leaders early this morning and urged them to rush back to Washington immediately.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market dropped sharply today under the first heavy trading in weeks amid speculation of an important action in Washington.

In some cases, at least, military jets were placed at their disposal.

There was no official hint of the precise nature of the crisis. Much of the speculation centered on Cuba, however.

According to a report from Mexico City, there was strong speculation there that Kennedy might announce a blockade of Cuba. Hemisphere economic and financial ministers are meeting in the Mexican capital to review the Alliance for Progress.

The report that leaders of both parties had been called to the capital sprang up as mystery deepened over signs that a major international development is imminent.

A flurry of weekend activity by Washington officials and a military build-up in the Caribbean had indicated such a move, perhaps concerning Cuba.

Teacher Dies in Crash While Crop Dusting

ROMEIO (AP)—A 27-year-old Lapeer Junior High School teacher was killed shortly before noon yesterday when his light plane plummeted to earth and caught fire while he was dusting for mice in an orchard just west of here.

The victim was Clarence D. Boyer, 225 Liberty St., Lapeer, who left Lapeer Airport about 11 a. m. on a crop-dusting assignment at Romeo Orchards.

Boyer made one pass at the field at an altitude of about 50 feet, then throttled the plane up and made a sharp bank to the left.

According to Romeo State Trooper Robert J. Kenney, who witnessed the mishap, the plane apparently lost air speed on the turn and crashed.

Will Tour Display,
Address 2,500

DETROIT (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson will visit the 44th National Automobile Show today.

Johnson, substiting for President Kennedy who declined an invitation, will tour the display of 1963 cars and trucks in late afternoon and will address a black tie banquet for 2,500 industry leaders and guests tonight.

The vice president was scheduled to arrive about 4:30 p. m. today. He will leave Michigan tomorrow afternoon after some political speechmaking in western Michigan on behalf of Democratic state candidates.

The show which Johnson will see has been called the biggest and most spectacular display of new cars ever seen in America. The sponsoring automobile manufacturers association hopes over one million persons will attend before the show ends Oct. 28.

The show is being held for only the second time in Detroit after 42 previous appearances in New York City. It features nearly 400 cars and trucks ranging from the compact to a 7-ton GMC cement mixer.

Over 305,000 persons already have flocked to the show since it opened Friday night with an inaugural preview attended by 50,000. A total of 188,794 persons jammed the huge exhibition hall yesterday.

Documentary Producer Comments on First Lady

Special Place in History Seen for Jacqueline

BY PHYLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — There are not many men who would venture to put Mrs. Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy in her place — but Perry Wolff wanted to have a fling at it.

"Jackie Kennedy, I think, will have a very special place, in history, I mean.

"She is intelligent and politically-oriented, but she does not allow the orientation to go on view, as Eleanor Roosevelt did.

"She chooses to stay out of the limelight, and yet she is not retiring, as Bess Truman and Mamie Eisenhower were.

"Most first ladies in America's history have looked upon the presidency as almost a death sentence for their husbands, and have kept calendars — mentally, if not physically — with a date circled on them, the happy date when they can leave the White House and live again in peace. I'm sure Jackie Kennedy is no exception.

"But her public view is this gorgeous, doll-like, soft, sensitive creature. She's so beautiful, she can't help being a disappointment to some people; her voice, for instance, is talked about and sometimes derisively.

That is because of her beauty. She is so close to being a movie star in her appearance, that people think she should have all the accoutrements of a great professional actress. You know, there are no sub-goddesses . . .

"At any rate, she's playing a role now. She's playing it well. After we've passed that date she has circled on the calendar in the second floor of the White House — what date would it be? Maybe Jan. 1, 1969? — then we'll know who the woman is."

Perry Wolff is a pioneer documentary producer for television. He produced, after lengthy research and conferences with the First Lady, the TV special, "A Tour of the White House with Mrs. John F. Kennedy."

Wolff did so much research for the show, and came up with so many fascinating facts about the White House and its inhabitants, that he's put them all together in a handsome book of pictures and text named — "Well, what else could I name it?" — "A Tour of the White House with Mrs. John F. Kennedy."

He has become a great student of the dames of the White House, a First Lady fancier. He talks about them as if they were personal friends, and lists them in categories, as he and history see them:

"The most beautiful — no question, if you ask me, Angelica Van Buren. She was her father-in-law, widower Martin Van Buren's, official hostess. Trouble is, Angelica went to London and saw Queen Victoria crowned, so she got 'queen fever.' Several first ladies had it, later, but she was probably the worst. She wore a crown.

"The most charming — Dolley Madison, of course. And the most likeable. First, she wrote like Jane Austen. She had dynamism and guts.

"She had a sense of humor —

LBJ Defends Handshaking, Chats Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson has taken issue with unnamed U.S. diplomats who have criticized his handshaking and folksy chats with ordinary citizens while touring overseas.

Writing in the latest issue of the State Department Newsletter, a monthly publication circulated among U.S. diplomats here and overseas, Johnson said:

"Since the history of nations began, heads of state and their ministers have ridden in regal and dignified aloofness past the people over whom they had dominion.

"We cannot demonstrate the essence and spirit of the American political system — in which the just powers derive from the people — unless we leave our limousines abroad, as we would at home.

"After all, what dignity are we trying to prove — that of the office of the vice president or that of the human race?"

Since becoming vice president, Johnson has traveled 75,000 miles on six trips to 18 countries. In his signed article, Johnson named no U.S. diplomat by name, but criticized those at foreign posts "who would rather keep out of sight under the mistaken impression that our ways of political leadership are a national liability."

used to take snuff, and carried two hankies, a big one 'for the rough work,' and a dainty one, 'for polishing.' She was Thomas Jefferson's chosen hostess, and that's good enough recommendation for me.

"The most underrated First Lady was Lou Hoover. She spoke nine languages, had impeccable taste, was a philanthropist all over the world, was modest and had all the virtues. But the depression hid her many beauties from the public.

"The most politically astute? Probably Eleanor Roosevelt, and she may have been the most outspoken. When the Spanish Civil War was going on and she heard some refugees were trapped in Madrid, she cabled FDR: 'ARE YOU OR THE STATE DEPARTMENT DOING ANYTHING?'"

America's first ladies have been fascinating. Not all were intelligent or attractive; one or two were bad influences on their husbands, hence their country; a few have loved the limelight, but most have looked forward eagerly to the peaceful post-presidency. Some were crafty, one was judged legally insane; all are fascinating. As for Jacqueline Kennedy, she took her college degree in history, Wolff says, so she likely knows her "place" as well as anyone.

Norwegian King Visits London for Two Weeks

LONDON (UPI) — King Olav V of Norway arrived here last night for a private visit at the conclusion of his five-day state visit to Scotland.

The king will spend two weeks here, staying at the Norwegian ambassador's residence.

The so-called "rare earths" are not particularly rare. Most of these chemical elements are more common than gold or silver. Some, like lanthanum, cerium and neodymium, are more abundant than lead.

Dem Split Hit by Broomfield

Blames Opposition for School Bill Death

Congressman William M. Broomfield, R-Oakland County, today blamed "intriguing squabbles" among Democrats for the failure of federal aid to colleges legislation in the recently adjourned 87th Congress.

Broomfield said efforts to reach a compromise on the vital college aid bill were stalled "because stubborn men stood more on false pride than in meeting the needs of our nation."

He said Democrats in the House and Senate Conference Committee killed the bill designed to help colleges meet the "challenge of tomorrow" by doing nothing for three weeks until Congress adjourned.

A bill to help colleges build new classrooms and laboratories was passed by the House with bipartisan support, but the Senate turned down the bill because it would have forced the student loan program now in effect, Broomfield said.

"The scholarship plan would have permitted students majoring in lyfscaying or basketweaving to have an education at federal expense, while those who do scientific fields would have had to pay back loans," he explained.

Waterford to Open Paving Bids Today

Bids on paving bonds for Kemp and Preston streets will be opened at 7:30 p.m. today and reviewed by the Waterford Township Board.

The board will also hear a report from the insurance committee on motor vehicle insurance bids opened at last week's meeting.

In other business the board will consider a request from the fire department for new uniforms. The request was submitted several weeks ago but tabled until the 1963 budget had been established.

The board will also consider the purchase of copper tubing for use by the water department.
