

Lawmen Foil 2 Hijackers Holding 10 Aboard Jetliner

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Two hijackers seized a Continental Air Lines jetliner with 73 persons aboard today and tried to force the pilot to fly to Havana with 10 hostages. They were foiled by FBI men and police who riddled the landing gear with bullets and then captured the men in a fist fight aboard the airliner.

All 10 hostages were released and the plane swarmed with federal agents and police. There were no serious casualties.

One hijacker and an FBI man were "roughed up" and the hijacker fired a 45-caliber pistol through the floor of the $5-million Boeing 707 jetliner.

The two hijackers, one a middle-aged man, the other a youth, put up a fight but were overwhelmed.

HAULED OUT OF PLANE

The young man was hauled out of the plane by an officer holding him in a full nelson grip and both were hustled into a Border Patrol wagon.

Officials identified the elder hijacker as David Beardon of Coolidge, Ariz. No one by that name was on the passenger list issued by Continental Air Lines.

Earlier, authorities said the younger man was Beardon's son, Cody.

It was not immediately clear whether they had accomplices throughout the almost nine-hour siege of the plane as it stood on an International Airport runway.

Officials said earlier there were four hijackers. The two captured men talked about two accomplices.

There was no immediate explanation. Nor was there any immediate reason given as to why they wanted to force the plane to go to Fidel Castro's Cuba.

FBI Special Agent Francis E. Crosby boarded the plane after hours of dickering with the hijackers via radio to the pilot's cockpit where pilot Capt. B. D. Rickards of Redondo Beach, Calif., had been held at gunpoint.

Crosby, FBI Agent Bob Nagel and Texas Border Patrolman Ed Gilman got aboard the plane while the hijackers still held it.

Five hostages, including two stewardesses, were then allowed to leave, but the hijackers kept the other five hostages under their gun.

Crosby jumped the youth. Gilman jumped the elder man, who is small, and slightly built. The hijacker had his jaw laid open. Gilman had a cut on his jaw.

It was all over. The authorities dragged the two hijackers out and the thankful remaining hostages were released.

The sound of officials and law officers around the plane dispersed.

The big aircraft sat parked on the field, raged by mountains, only its 16 flat tires and holes in the fuselage testifying to the drama that lasted almost half a day.

The attempt to steer another multimillion-dollar American aircraft to Fidel Castro's Cuba drew cries of outrage in Congress.

President Kennedy, told the hijackers were trying to dictate for another, smaller plane and guaranteed passage to Havana, ordered that the hijacked airliner be kept on the ground.

No other plane could be used either, to give in to the hijackers, Kennedy ruled.

CLASHES FUEL NEED
They seized the jetliner on a flight from Los Angeles to Houston, Tex., while the plane was en route from Phoenix, Ariz., to El Paso, with two intermediate stops.

On landing at El Paso (the pilot said to get fuel) the hijackers released all the passengers except four who volunteered to remain with the six-member crew as hostages.

When they forced the pilot with a gun at his head to begin taxiing for take-off, 15 FBI agents and border patrolmen swarmed under the wings heedless of the screaming jet engines and opened fire with heavy rifles and submachine guns.

The tires were flattened and one jet engine disabled. The plane stopped.

There it sat, in an outside temperature of 82 degrees, surrounded by a crowd of 200 law officers. The plane landed at 4:19 a.m. (Pontiac time) in El Paso.

At 12:35 p.m. the drama began to end.

Flint Woman Tells of Tragedy

VISITS SURVIVOR — U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland Robert McKinney discusses the bus tragedy at Lake Lucerne Wednesday with Eunice Clasper, 27, of Flint, Mich., during his visit with survivors in a Stans, Switzerland, hospital today. Miss Clasper managed to escape from the tourist bus which plunged off a road into the lake, carrying 16 American sight-seers to their deaths.

16 Americans Die as Bus Falls in Lake

HERGISWIL, Switzerland (UPI) — Divers groping through the chilly depths of Lake Lucerne today located the tourist bus that plunged off a rain-slick road and carried 16 American vacationers to death.

Among the dead was an Oak Park woman, Lillian Lee Merlaub, 47, who lived with her sister Mrs. Clara Shiner at 2430 Blackstone St.

Miss Merlaub, a buyer for a Detroit women's store, left on her European trip in June and had planned to return home Aug. 15.

Eunice Clasper, 24, formerly of Flint, Mich., and now a Gilroy, Calif., school teacher, survived the accident as "the solar, the jolt and a crash—all too quick."

One of the 21 survivors described the accident as "the solar, the jolt and a crash—all too quick."

Fifteen bodies were in the bus when it was located at a depth of about 185 feet by special electromagnetic equipment.

WELL OFFSHORE
It lay more than 60 feet offshore, having slid off a ledge after its first plunge.

The bus, carrying 35 American passengers and a staff of three Europeans, collided with the truck-trailer Wednesday and crashed

Oakland County 4-H Fair Will Open Here Tuesday

The climax of a year's work for some 1,500 boys and girls throughout the county will be reached next week at the annual Oakland County 4-H Fair which opens Tuesday.

Already more than 2,800 entries have been received in the various project areas which range from food preservation to the raising of dairy cattle.

The annual event, which is held at the 4-H fairgrounds on Perry Street, just south of Walton Boulevard, will have special programs and contests through Aug. 12.

The big projects this year will be horses, which have better than 300 entries, foods with 250, sheep with 70 and dairy animals and rabbits, both of which have about 60 entries.

There also are 25 beef animals entered in fair competition.

LEADERS SPONSOR
The Oakland County 4-H leaders, headed by Keith Middleton of Oakland Township, sponsor the show.

In cooperation with the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

One leader, Leon Smith of Orion Township, is directing the major (large) improvement project being undertaken this weekend. It is the building of extrusions onto the horse barn at the north end of the fairgrounds.

Pole-type structures, measuring 15 feet in width, will be added on each side of the 100-foot-long barn.

Swainson is heading the group of volunteers and paid laborers who are doing the work.

The lighting system also has been expanded, especially outside where more illumination is needed for the evening programs. A number of the exhibits have been consolidated under one roof in facilities handling and judging of entries.

Traditional highlights of the fair are the King and Queen and freestyle contests to be held on a special night, the parade through Pontiac at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday and 4-H talent shows all four nights.

An added attraction this year will be an automobile operators' skill contest, which will be similar to Road-see that is popular now in many major cities throughout the country. It is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon.

The fair opens for entries at 10 a.m. Tuesday and other days at 9 a.m. Judging will take place each day and evening.

Soys Incentives Vital

In the few minutes before the vehicle slid to the bottom, 19 passengers and the three crew members clambered out through the windows.

All but two of the survivors were kept overnight in hospitals. Doctors said nearly all would be released in a few days.

"The bus was filled with water in a matter of seconds," said Stanley M. Smith, 54, of Kansas City, Mo. "We hardly even knew what happened."

In the next hospital bed, Charles Krepps, 65, a research analyst from Los Angeles, described the horror-filled moment when the bus plunged into the lake.

"The bus turned over on its side before we hit the water and it seemed to me it was still turning when I put my feet out and gave myself a shove to the surface," he said.

Russia Answers Notes on Berlin

Red Leader and Italian Agree Negotiations 'Opportune, Possible'

From Our News Wire

MOSCOW—Premier Khrushchev today agreed with Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani that East-West negotiations to settle the explosive Berlin crisis are "opportune and possible."

A short time later, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko received the American, British and French ambassadors and gave them the Soviet reply to the Western notes on Berlin.

The contents of the notes were not disclosed. They probably will be published tomorrow.

It was reported the Soviet notes reaffirmed the Kremlin's position laid down in Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's memorandum to President Kennedy in Vienna and repeated several times in speeches by the Soviet leader.

An Italian announcement on the day of talks by the two heads of government over a Kremlin conference table said Fanfani, in urging negotiations, made it clear he spoke for all the Western Allies.

"It would be dangerous to believe that the solution of present difficulties can come from unilateral action," the spokesman quoted Fanfani as saying.

Death Gun's Owner Will Be Sentenced

A man whose shotgun shot and killed a 5-year-old playmate accidentally while playing with his 38-caliber revolver Tuesday has pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of an unregistered gun.

Sentencing of Knox Williams, 46, of 289 Osborn St., was set yesterday by Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan for Aug. 9. Williams is free on $100 personal bond.

His stepson, Leslie Brown, 13, told Pontiac police he was playing with the revolver when it discharged.

The bullet fatally wounded Mark LaRosa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Detroit police said the revolver was reported stolen six years ago. Williams said he bought the gun in mid-July and didn't know it had been stolen.

Urges Action Against Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — An uproar of demands for decisive action against Cuba's Fidel Castro was touched off in Congress by the hijacking today of a Continental Air Lines jet in the El Paso, Tex., area.

There was a general assumption that Castro was behind the seizure of the plane by gunmen who said they wanted to go to Cuba.

And Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., said that if it is established that there was a conspiracy involving Castro "it is an act of war and should be dealt with accordingly."

In the House, Rep. August E. Johansen, R-Mich., introduced a bill to provide for the mandatory death penalty for any person convicted of hijacking, or conspiring to hijack, any type of aircraft by force, or threat of force, while the crew and passengers are aboard the plane.

Johansen coupled with it a call for action as to Cuba.

"We will continue to devote ourselves if we do not get forth with the larger problem and threat of the Communist kidnapping of the unhappy island and people of Cuba," he said.

SHOULD TAKE STEPS
Johansen said the United States is able to obtain joint action through the Organization of American States, should on its own take all steps necessary — including military action — to eliminate

Uproar Over Plane Grab

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communist stronghold in Cuba, Rep. Edgar W. Hiestand, R-Calif., fired off a telegram to President Kennedy demanding that this country "quit playing possum to a p-p-sneak and call a halt to vesting disgraces by Communist Cuba."

Hiestand said in a statement that "if we allow this Communist sore to fester only 50 miles from our shores, we are going to have continuing disgraces such as the incident today when four Cuban rebels hijacked a jet liner, bound from San Francisco to Houston."

Hiestand said the United States should topple Castro's regime, set up a temporary government and pave the way to free elections.

"What better foundation could we have in Berlin than to seize the initiative in Cuba?" he asked.

Hiestand said Kennedy should set a deadline for return of the Eastern Airlines Electra plane hijacked and flown to Cuba last month, and if Castro doesn't return the plane, send U.S. Marines to get it.

Pick Area Man to Head Probe

Birmingham Engineer Will Dig Into Collapse of Saginaw School

LANSING (UPI) — A Birmingham man was named today to head a committee conducting the second investigation of a July 10 school building collapse in Saginaw Township.

Gov. John B. Swainson said Linton Hart, of 415 Argyle Road, was named to head the five-man committee of members of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers.

The collapse at the Douglas MacArthur High School construction site, resulted in the death of one worker. Six others were injured.

The State Police and a State Department of Labor inspector investigated the collapse but Swainson accepted the engineers' offer for a professional probe.

The committee headed by Hart, recently retired district manager of the Raymond Concrete Pipe Co. of Detroit, would conduct hearings in Saginaw on all aspects of the design and construction of the school building.

Swainson said the report submitted by Deputy Industrial Inspector Arthur E. Rowe of the Labor Department, "raised serious doubts about construction methods at the school site."

Guard Airman 'Ready to Go'

67 From Area Facing
Mobilization Following Alert to Unit

"I am ready to go."

This was Air National Guard Lt. Jack Savidge's reply after learning yesterday his unit has been alerted for possible mobilization in face of the Berlin crisis.

He and 67 other Pontiac area men belong to the 2,000 strength Michigan Air National Guard as members of the 121 Tactical Reconnaissance Wing.

Gov. Swainson was notified of the alert late Tuesday afternoon through a telegram from Maj. Gen. Winston P. Wilson, chief of the National Guard Bureau's air division.

The guard said full details will be sent later to Maj. Gen. Ronald B. McDonald, state adjutant general.

NECKED EMOTIONS
Savidge, 30, of 2420 Walnut St., West Bloomfield Township, said he has "mixed emotions" facing recall to active duty.

"I'd rather not be called, but, if it's necessary, of course I am ready," he said.

Married and the father of three young daughters, Savidge is employed as an engineering coordinator by Vickers Corp., manufacturer of hydraulic equipment in Troy. He felt that the firm would still have a job for him when he got back.

Weekends, Savidge files photo-reconnaissance jobs with the guard unit.

Nearly all of the men, who train at Detroit Metropolitan airport registered similar emotions—reluctant to leave their families and jobs, but ready and willing to answer a call to arms.

Will Urge Plans by West to Meet Any Red Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk plans to urge Allied foreign ministers to meet next weekend to work out detailed agreements on precise steps the Western powers would take to meet any specific threat from the Soviet Union and East Germany may pose to the security of West Berlin.

Rusk is scheduled to leave for Paris at midnight tonight, following a final meeting with President Kennedy late this afternoon in Berlin crisis planning.

Saturday he will meet with the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany in the Paris discussions on contingency planning—that is, what the Western powers should do in response to any pressures or threats which

The Paris conference, apart from the Berlin situation, may also discuss Far Eastern problems, Rusk was planning to take as one of his advisers John M. Stevens, deputy assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs. Presumably the Central Asian issues taken up at Paris will be those of Laos and South Viet Nam.

CONTINGENCY PLANNING

The Allied ministers are reportedly planning to concentrate their Paris discussions on contingency planning—that is, what the Western powers should do in response to any pressures or threats which

Rumor Try to Oust De Gaulle Imminent

PARIS (UPI) — Rumors of an imminent attempt at a coup to overthrow President Charles de Gaulle were published today by the influential morning newspaper "Figaro" and stirred immediate alarm in four powerful labor unions.

Figaro's front page story followed weeks of whispered rumors in Paris that a new attempt might be made to overthrow De Gaulle's Fifth Republic during the August holidays.

Publication of the story brought swift reaction from the powerful Communist-led General Workers Federation (OGT), the Catholic Union (CFE), the Teachers Union (FEN) and the Union of Students (UNEF), which announced they were keeping in contact with each other "to oppose the new coup."

Reports of attempts to unseat De Gaulle have persisted in the capital ever since the abortive Algerian "generals' revolt" in April.

Nixon's Suggestions, Criticisms to Kennedy Break Long Silence

President JOHN F. KENNEDY has enjoyed six months of almost uninterrupted support. Criticism has been held to a minimum. Democrats who have been out of sympathy with some of his proposals have kept respectfully silent.

Republicans have extended him the deference due the winner and have soft pedaled almost everything that could have been construed as hostility or open negation.

But politics is still politics. And we do have two parties.

In the circumstances, RICHARD NIXON fittingly breaks a long silence with four definite suggestions for the candidate who defeated him by the proverbial cat's whisker. Nixon is among the first, and surely friend and foe will accord him that right. Even today a lot of people secretly think that Nixon polled more votes than KENNEDY, but was eulogized out of the Presidency by political shenanigans. Illinois is seething right now over the current decisions of an imported judge who dismissed several hundred vote fraud cases in Chicago. No one was guilty.

But, as Nixon aptly says: "The shakedown cruise is over," and he suggests that Kennedy "drop overboard the pilots who have almost run the Ship of State around."

In a special article in The Los Angeles Times, he points out that Mr. Kennedy is failing his nation at the moment in four separate areas.

First, he feels it is high time we "stop Castro's outlaw operations in the Americas." And this situation is getting progressively worse.

Secondly, he thinks it is high time to "break the Soviet filibuster on atomic testing." This matter has been variously kicked around until it resembles last fall's tackling dummy. Kennedy can't stall much longer.

Thirdly, Nixon wants the President to "put some backbone into America's fight against admitting Red China to the United Nations." Up to the present, the whole thing has been largely a string of controversial "whereas" and academic "to wit's."

Fourthly, Mr. Nixon suggested that the President "shelve all new spending programs not directly necessary for national defense." This covers a host of KENNEDY sponsored activities which were slated to come from the taxpayer's wide open wallet. Except on defense, Mr. Nixon says we should halt.

Do you agree?

Henceforth, President Kennedy must face honest suggestions and criticism. The Los Angeles Times and Mr. Nixon have cracked the sound barrier and the President must stand up and face "the loyal opposition."

Now comes the hour to talk. That's the glory of a democracy.

The points Mr. Nixon enumerated are logical and straightforward. The former Vice-President commands a respectful audience. In fact, he commanded 49.99% of it in the November election. He is still one of our keenest and best students of world affairs. Hence, his background for making deductions and drawing conclusions is unsurpassed.

A nation listens respectfully.

The Man About Town

Extensive Repairs Under Way Northwest of Pontiac

Vacation: When you can go much further outside of Oakland County and see less.

An accumulation of rough spots and other imperfections in the four-lane Dixie Highway northwest of our city is now being fixed and put back in shape as good as new.

Traffic is being maintained with some difficulty, and the indulgence of drivers is asked. They should remember that the work is being done for them.

This improvement should dispel the fears of some people that the Dixie would not be kept in good shape as its competitor, the great 78 super Expressway, is completed through Oakland County next year.

Residents of Drayton Plains, Waterford, Clarkston and other areas feeding into the Dixie can be assured that it will always be kept in excellent repair. Southeast of Pontiac the highway also is booked for similar treatment.

My last word from Michigan State Highway Commission:

John C. Mackle is to this effect, and the present expenditure of around $300,000 on the improvement bears this out.

The August issue of the magazine of 80,000 nation wide circulation, Lawyers Title News pays Pontiac a big compliment. In 50 issues it proposes to pay tribute to an outstanding city in each of the 50 states. Second in that series is Michigan, and Pontiac is the city. The illustrated article fills nearly three pages.

A letter over the signature of "A Real Estate Dealer" tells me that this paper's recent editorial on the value of the marl deposits that surround many of our lakes is responsible for a rise in the price of lake frontage.

A postal card drifts in from Goldie Goodenough of Rochester, asking if the winner of our Freckle Contest at the 4-H Fair next Tuesday evening must stay for exhibition for all of the fair. Certainly not; the winner gets the $50 bond and the applause and that's all. Using a cheap pun: is that good enough, Goldie?

Another pun is received by phone from Mrs. Augusta Hanchett of Waterford, who suggests that Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Doerres, whose home was featured in our "Background for Living" page Saturday, surely are doers.

The last issue of the Regional Reporter, put out monthly by the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission, commends Pontiac merchants for their good planning — which we already knew.

Mice have been causing some trouble around the home of Mr. and Mrs. Blair Horwath of Birmingham. The other day a large garter snake was killed in their garden, with two badly extended spots in its body. A little vivisection revealed — two dead mice.

David Lawrence Says:

Europe Buzzing Over British Move

IN EUROPE — It's a strange paradox that while the American people are worrying over the Berlin crisis and whether military reserves will soon be called up for active duty, the peoples of Europe are talking excitedly about Great Britain's momentous decision "to join the continent."

For while, strictly speaking, the British are merely applying for membership in the European Economic Community—known as the "common market"—the speculation all the way from Moscow to the far-away commonwealths of Canada and Australia is concerned with what the move may mean by way of European political union.

On its face, the discussion of political purposes in an international sense is puzzling. For, after all, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization already includes all of the members of the "common market" countries, known as the six.

It also embraces four of the countries—Britain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark—associated together in a rival organization known as the European Free Trade Association, or "the seven." Moscow, indeed, sarcastically calls the whole combination just another "economic subdivision of NATO."

But the truth is that political solidarity in Europe in the long run is dependent on economic prosperity. The drive now is to secure the formation of such a powerful economic alliance that it could, if it liked, play a decisive part in the political program of a united Europe.

The political complexion, however, which some of the members of the six "common market" countries—France, West Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium, and Luxembourg—have tried to introduce in their recent meetings is by no means assured of harmony in the future.

For, although it was decided by resolution to give "political form and substance" to the organization, there are differences of opinion as to what formula shall be applied.

France, for example with the strong nationalistic philosophy that is expressed so often by President De Gaulle, is inclined more toward the idea of a loose federation of equals, but with the hope eventually of French leadership.

The smaller countries are veering toward a supranational union, or something analogous to the United States of America. Since decisions at this point can be taken only by unanimous vote, it would seem that political integration is a long way off.

DIFFICULTIES AHEAD

There is, therefore, greater enthusiasm among the small countries over the decision of Britain to enter the "common market" organization than there is in Paris.

The presence of the two major powers—France and Britain—in the enlarged "common market" could tend gradually to lessen the political emphasis and keep the organization preoccupied, as it inevitably must be, with the technically difficult questions of tariff changes to be applied as between the various member countries.

For, while a free-trade setup in the goal, all sorts of special arrangements may have to be worked out in the transition period, particularly in Britain's trade relations with Canada and Australia and the other commonwealth countries.

Inside Britain, the controversy rages as to whether the decision to "join the continent" is a wise one. Obviously, those business or labor groups whose industries are at home and the throwing away of our American prestige and honor abroad.

Let us not forget that many of the 34,000,000 who voted for Mr. Nixon still look to him as their spokesman against the encroachments of the social state at home and the throwing away of our American prestige and honor abroad.

Wisdom Teeth Signify Maturity Despite Age

By quirks of custom and the law, Americans may be qualified to make contracts, pay taxes, vote, hold office, bear arms, inherit, own or bequeath property, serve on juries at the ages of 16, 17, 18, 19, 20 or 21.

Be that as it may — in Yankee land you name it and we have it — the fact remains that individuals attain full growth and development, become adults in fact — at the average age of 22 years or at anywhere from 18 to 25 years.

This is the age at which Americans cut their wisdom teeth — if at all.

Approximately 50 per cent of the population never cut all their wisdom teeth. Why not is an academic question and therefore over my head, but I have a notion that we do not use our teeth enough to preserve them.

In my pamphlet "Yankee Stomach" (hyperacidity, hunger pain, heartburn, acid eructations, water-brash, uneasiness from fullness or bloating by gas) — the copy sent stamped, self-addressed envelope — I harp tirelessly (to wit: because) on the importance of keeping all your teeth or your dentures in good functional condition, for a significant part of the digestion of carbohydrate is salivary digestion, which begins in the mouth while the food is being chewed and continues a half hour or longer after the food has been swallowed.

Dentists, the old timers at any rate, seem to think that once a permanent tooth has fully developed it is no longer dependent on nutrition. They seem to acut the idea that the everyday diet of an adult can determine the condition of his teeth, yet they insist that a pulpless tooth (that is, one in which the "nerve" as the layman calls it, has been killed or destroyed) is a "dead" tooth. I don't know how they can keep up this equivocal but they do.

Actually, of course, all plant and animal life grows and develops up to the peak of perfection — a year, a month, a day, an hour — and having attained the peak begins immediately to decline. This is the point at which the generation or growth of new cells can no longer keep up with the degeneration and death of the old cells, and worked out in the transition period, particularly in Britain's trade relations with Canada and Australia and the other commonwealth countries.

Inside Britain, the controversy rages as to whether the decision to "join the continent" is a wise one. Obviously, those business or labor groups whose industries are at home and the throwing away of our American prestige and honor abroad.

Let us not forget that many of the 34,000,000 who voted for Mr. Nixon still look to him as their spokesman against the encroachments of the social state at home and the throwing away of our American prestige and honor abroad.

This is the age at which Americans cut their wisdom teeth — if at all.

Approximately 50 per cent of the population never cut all their wisdom teeth. Why not is an academic question and therefore over my head, but I have a notion that we do not use our teeth enough to preserve them.

In my pamphlet "Yankee Stomach" (hyperacidity, hunger pain, heartburn, acid eructations, water-brash, uneasiness from fullness or bloating by gas) — the copy sent stamped, self-addressed envelope — I harp tirelessly (to wit: because) on the importance of keeping all your teeth or your dentures in good functional condition, for a significant part of the digestion of carbohydrate is salivary digestion, which begins in the mouth while the food is being chewed and continues a half hour or longer after the food has been swallowed.

Dentists, the old timers at any rate, seem to think that once a permanent tooth has fully developed it is no longer dependent on nutrition. They seem to acut the idea that the everyday diet of an adult can determine the condition of his teeth, yet they insist that a pulpless tooth (that is, one in which the "nerve" as the layman calls it, has been killed or destroyed) is a "dead" tooth. I don't know how they can keep up this equivocal but they do.

Actually, of course, all plant and animal life grows and develops up to the peak of perfection — a year, a month, a day, an hour — and having attained the peak begins immediately to decline. This is the point at which the generation or growth of new cells can no longer keep up with the degeneration and death of the old cells, and worked out in the transition period, particularly in Britain's trade relations with Canada and Australia and the other commonwealth countries.

Inside Britain, the controversy rages as to whether the decision to "join the continent" is a wise one. Obviously, those business or labor groups whose industries are at home and the throwing away of our American prestige and honor abroad.

Let us not forget that many of the 34,000,000 who voted for Mr. Nixon still look to him as their spokesman against the encroachments of the social state at home and the throwing away of our American prestige and honor abroad.

Voice of the People:

Social Worker Laments Bad Effect of Television

Young children are bound to develop some distortion of reality when negative influences are so readily available. When a child threatens to kill he really cannot comprehend the enormity of the threat. He still believes that what is done can always be undone.

Children, constantly fed the suggestion of revenge, hate and brutality, are easily stimulated to anti-social behavior. Many programs even offer step-by-step instruction in the art of murder and theft.

Children gain their sense of right and wrong, primarily from adults around them who act as models. If parents permit exposure to the inhuman behavior too often involved in much of TV and movie fare, they tacitly approve it, in the child's mind.

It is tragic that the genius of electronics should operate in the perpetuation of one of our worst social diseases.

'Nixon Comments Most Refreshing'

Richard Nixon's comments are like a breath of clean, fresh air after these past months of living under the smoke screen created by the millions of words put out by the welfare-state which obscure and distort the basic principles of our democratic way of life under capitalism and free enterprise.

Let us not forget that many of the 34,000,000 who voted for Mr. Nixon still look to him as their spokesman against the encroachments of the social state at home and the throwing away of our American prestige and honor abroad.

TALKING IT OVER — President Kennedy talks with Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon (left) and deLease Morrison, U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States, Wednesday at the White House. Dillon heads a team of U.S. officials going to a special meeting of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council in Uruguay. Morrison will be an adviser to Dillon. The meeting opens Saturday.

'Millions' Hopes Rest on Confab

JFK Believes Future of Hemisphere Lies in Uruguay Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said Tuesday the hopes for progress of millions of people in the Western Hemisphere are pinned to an Inter-American conference in Uruguay next weekend. The conference, which Kennedy once planned to attend, will bring together finance ministers of most nations from the United States south.

It is officially designated as a meeting of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council, but Kennedy referred to it as the alliance for progress meeting — using the name given his own plan for helping Latin American nations which determine to raise the economic and social standards of their population.

Kennedy issued a statement on the conference after meeting at the White House with Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, who will represent the United States at the meeting in Punta del Este, and deLease Morrison, U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States.

"The hopes of millions of peoples throughout the Americas rest to a very large extent on the success of your efforts," Kennedy said in a statement to the U.S. delegation.

NASA Making Study of Moon Launching Sites

WASHINGTON (AP) — World-wide study of possible launching sites for moon vehicles and even farther ranging spacecraft is being conducted by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in cooperation with the Defense Department. Among potential sites already inspected are the Gulf Coast near Brownsville, Tex., the White Sands Proving Ground in New Mexico, Christmas Island in the Pacific, and an area in Hawaii.

A spokesman for NASA said the site study team also is making a thorough review of the possible adaptation of present launching installations at Cape Canaveral, Fla., and Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., for the much larger and more powerful rockets for moon and planetary research.

"No decision has been made, and the studies are continuing," he said.

About 30,000 periodicals are published in the United States with a combined circulation of about half a billion.

Battle Looms Over Bombers

Senate Ready to Vote on Biggest Peacetime Budget Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A fight over funds for manned bombers paring to vote on a $46.8 billion defense money bill, biggest in peacetime history.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said he expected the military spending measure would be passed by nightfall.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said he would press for a vote on his amendment to knock out $25 million for manned bombers added by the Senate Administration Committee over administration protests.

Senate action on the giant appropriations bill followed final congressional approval Wednesday of an extra $1 billion asked by President Kennedy for missiles and planes to meet the Berlin threat. The House passed the bill 403 to 0.

Kennedy was expected to sign the emergency measure into law without delay. It was the second part of his military preparedness program. The first part already enacted, authorized him to call up 250,000 reserves.

Urges Adopting New Language of Mathematics

NEW YORK (AP)—Toss out ancient Euclidean geometry and the 200-year-old method of teaching math in our public school and replace them with the new language of mathematics, urges a panel of mathematicians and educators.

A 266-page report, made public Wednesday, developed from a seminar held in France in 1959 and attended by educators from 16 West European countries, Canada and the United States.

The report called for a unity concept in mathematics limited of the old, laborious method of student progression from arithmetic to algebra, geometry, trigonometry then calculus.

Prof. Howard F. Fehr of Columbia University drafted the report.

Drop State Squadron From Callup Slate

LANSING (AP) — At least one unit today was excluded from the alert sounded Monday for the Michigan Air National Guard.

The 172nd Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron was excluded from a detailed list of alerted units from the National Guard Bureau in Washington, D. C., said Maj. Gen. Ronald D. McDonald, state adjutant general.

The first alert notice listed the 172nd Tactical Reconnaissance wing and supporting units, McDonald said. The later notice excluded the Battle Creek squadron, as well as the 107th Weather Flight of Detroit, and headquarters of the Michigan Air National Guard, Lansing and Alpena.

There apparently was a less immediate demand for the RB-57B jets down by the 172nd Squadron than for the type of aircraft flown by the other units he said.

Politicians Against Closed Doors for Con-Con

By A. F. MARIAN
AP Staff Writer

Who thinks the forthcoming constitutional convention should operate in a so-called "closed-door" session, with all general and committee sessions open to the public and all news media?

The answer: Nearly everyone in the hierarchy of the Republican and Democratic parties in Michigan, and Gus Scholle and George Romney and a lot of other people.

Paul D. Bagwell, who carried the Republican banner in the 1958 and 1960 races for governor, said in a sampling of opinion:

"I say unequivocally it has got to be an open convention. The decisions of the delegates go before the people for a vote and the people should know step by step what is done and why. An open convention would generate tremendous confidence on the part of the people. There should be no closed-door sessions at all, committee or otherwise."

Gov. John B. Swanson reiterated a plea for "a free and open convention" when delegates convened Oct. 3, following a general election Sept. 12.

"It is basic to the constitutional convention that it be of and for the people," the governor said. "As a former state senator, I have gained first hand knowledge of the tyranny wrought by rules prohibiing full public consideration of all matters pertaining to all the people. This must not be allowed to occur in the constitutional convention."

George M. Van Pelt, Republican state chairman and a former speaker of the Michigan House of Representatives, said:

"The interest of all citizens can best be served by making all deliberations open to the public. If the voters are to make an intelligent final judgment, they must be kept fully informed along the way."

"They must understand completely the thinking of the delegates at arriving at a final determination. The delegates are responsible to the people who elect them and the electorate must be given an unobstructed view."

John J. (Joe) Collins, Democratic state chairman, endorsed open convention and committee sessions, with roll call votes and Roberts' Rules of Order prevailing.

George Romney, president of American Motors Corp. and a Republican member for delegate from Oakland County, said he was "unreservedly in favor of an open convention." Such, he added, would "provide a splendid means of informing citizens of the fundamental principles of representative government."

"The ultimate result of the convention," Romney continued, "depends upon intelligent, informed action by the voters."

August Scholle, AFL-CIO chief in Michigan, echoed industrialist Romney's views thus:

"I am definitely and positively in favor of an open convention, including every kind and conceivable kind of session, committee, subcommittee or otherwise."

George W. Sallade of Ann Arbor, one-time member of liberal Republican "Young Turks" in the legislature, said he is "100 per cent behind open meetings, with committee sessions open and some journal documentation of all actions taken."

Carlton E. Morris of Kalamazoo, a leader in the Republican conservative wing of the State Senate, declined to commit himself, saying:

"I have adopted a policy generally: Leave the constitutional convention to the con-con delegates. Whenever my Judiciary Committee (of the Senate) gets letters from someone who wants to appear we arrange to hear them. Whenever anyone wants a meeting open it is open. It is a matter for the delegates to speak on, rather than legislators."

Murray D. Van Wagener, a former governor generally classified as a Democratic conservative, said:

"If (the convention) sure should be open. They (delegates) should have nothing to hide. If anything should be discussed before it is released, I believe the press would hold up on it. If I were in charge and wanted something withheld until it was settled, I'd ask them (newsmen), but I can't think of anything at the moment that would require this."

John B. Martin Jr. of Grand Rapids, Republican national committeeman, said he favors "a convention open from top to bottom, including committee and subcommittee sessions."

Mrs. Ella Koon, Republican national committeewoman, also endorses a wide-open convention. "Because, after all, it is the people's business and they have a right to know what and all that is going on."

Mildred Jeffrey, Democratic national committeewoman and a nominee for convention delegate, didn't go quite as far as her Republican counterpart. The Democratic committeewoman said:

"All sessions of the convention should be open. But there may be times when it gets into committee sessions when it would be useful to have executive sessions of those committees. This subject should be discussed by convention delegates when they get to Lansing. The purpose of such executive sessions, if held, would be for discussion of subject at hand and no vote should be taken. All voters should be taken in public, of course."

Richard Van Dusen, a Detroit lawyer and Oakland County Republican nominee, said he favors an open convention and that "the press certainly should be present at general sessions, at hearings held by committees and at all sessions when committee action is taken."

Van Dusen added, however, "There may be instances where executive sessions would be desirable, and, as a practical matter, such executive committee meetings will take place in committee rooms and hotel rooms to explore on a purely tentative basis many suggestions of delegates or others."

Nonswimmer Dies Trying to Water Ski

FREMONT (AP)—Gerald Holtzge, 37, of Zeeland couldn't swim but planned to go water skiing any day.

He buckled on a belt-type life preserver and jumped into deep water to test it.

Witnesses told police he went under and apparently panicked. He was pulled out almost immediately, but attempts to revive him failed.

State police ordered an autopsy. They believe Holtzge might have suffered a heart attack.

Alerted Units Callup Likely

Plans to Supply Berlin
if Necessary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Practically all 28,000 Air Force reservists just put on alert are likely to be called to active duty and many may be sent to Europe in the face of the Berlin crisis.

That was the outlook today as the administration buttressed U.S. military power for a prolonged test of will with the Soviet Union over the Berlin and other East-West issues.

If Russia should sign a peace treaty with East Germany later this year and again blockade Berlin, Air National Guard and Air Force reserve units loom large in present planning for supplying the free western portion of the city.

They may be ordered to operate transports in an airlift and to fly escort with their jet fighter planes to West Berlin, which lies 110 miles inside Communist East Germany. The Air Force notified 71 guard and reserve units on Tuesday that they had been given priority for "possible recall to active duty."

The word in Washington today was that the 28,000 men involved should put their affairs in order and expect to be recalled. It was still possible, however, that some might not be summoned to federal service.

Tells State CD Men to Expect Transfers

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Adam Yarmolinsky, Secretary of Defense McNamara's special assistant for civil defense, told staff members of the regional headquarters of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization here to expect the possibility of transfers.

Yarmolinsky, McNamara's right hand man on civil defense matters, made a flying visit to the Battle Creek ODCM headquarters from Washington.

He told the staff members here that those concerned with civil defense could expect to be transferred as rapidly as possible to roles in the Department of Defense. The local agency became a part of the department Tuesday by presidential order.

New Premier of the Congo Vows to Retrieve Katanga

CYRILLE ADOULA — Leopoldville, the Congo (AP)—Backed by a near-unanimous parliamentary vote of confidence in his new coalition government, Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula today vowed to suppress the secession of rich Katanga Province "in the days immediately to come."

In a firm inaugural address to the two houses of Parliament that approved his government Wednesday Adoula denounced Katanga President Moïse Tshombe and Belgian commercial interests in the province for committing "a great wrong against the Congo."

"Neither Tshombe nor certain of his ministers nor the Union Minière (the Belgian mining company in the province) nor the Belgians behind the Katanga secession can prevent the Congolese people from recovering their rightful heritage," Adoula declared.

LEFTISTS JOIN IN — Delegates representing Antoine Gizenga's leftist Stanleyville regime joined in supporting Adoula, 53, who was the personal choice of President Joseph Kasavubu to head a unity government.

Gizenga, who stayed in Stanleyville and said illness prevented him from attending the Parliament session, was named one of three deputy premiers. Christophe Gbemwe, a key member of Gizenga's regime, was appointed interior minister with control of the nation's loosely organized police.

Gbemwe attended the parliamentary session and presumably agreed to the new line-up. But it was not clear whether Gizenga would accept the secondary role allotted him.

Adoula told newsmen only that it would be "normal" for the leftist leader to come to Leopoldville now. He declined to elaborate.

Soviets Calmly Issue Blueprint for World Conquest

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON—You can expect world turmoil for the rest of your life. Not big war, maybe, but endless conflict, struggle, revolution around the globe.
It's all spelled out calmly in the Russian Communist party's program for the next 20 years, and beyond.

This program, the first laid down in Moscow since 1919, was released Saturday. It fills 64 columns of print in the New York Times.

When Hitler wrote "Mein Kampf" — his blueprint for the wild savagery of Nazism later — unfortunately no one took it seriously.
It looked like the work of a neurotic, and it was.

No doubt many men had a hand in the new Russian Communist party program which has the blessing of Premier Khrushchev. No one is calling this neurotic.

It is frankly and confidently Moscow's blueprint for world conquest by communism. This true taken as seriously as Mein Kampf should have been.
It is divided into two main parts. One is a catalogue of rosy promises of a richer and easier life for the Russian people in the next 20 years.

It was this part of the program which got most attention when it was made public over the week-end.

The other, predicting the ultimate triumph of communism without a timetable, is the blueprint for the long, fierce, unending struggle ahead.
Reading the full text in this part of the program makes the idea of "peaceful coexistence" which Khrushchev preaches, look like an exercise in the Communist lexicon of double-speak.

It says quite blandly that peace through that long twilight period of peaceful coexistence — that is, possible but desirable. After all, it explains, this just gives communism more time to take over.

It says, for instance: "Communists have never held that the road to revolution lies necessarily through wars between countries. The great objective of the working class can be said: 'Leninism maintains, and historical experience confirms, that the ruling classes do not ideas of what should be happening through that long twilight period of peaceful coexistence' — that is, everywhere Communists should be, trying to take over whatever country they're in.

The means may vary but the central theme is revolution. The revolution may not necessarily be violent, if, for example, Communists could get elected in enough numbers to control a parliament and thus take over government.

The program sounds a little skeptical that Communists are going to conquer many places without violent revolution. It will depend on how well the working class and its party master the use of all forms of struggle — peaceful and non-peaceful, parliamentary and extra-parliamentary — and how well they are prepared to replace one form of Red banner.

The program emphasizes that one country after another should be knocked off from within — avoid war — although the exact method will vary from country to country, depending on how much and what kind of opposition there is.

This advice is given: "The success of the struggle which the working class wages for the victory of the revolution will depend on how well the working class and its party master the use of all forms of struggle — peaceful and non-peaceful, parliamentary and extra-parliamentary — and how well they are prepared to replace one form of Red banner.

struggle by another as quickly and unexpectedly as possible." The Russians are too practical to assume that Communists outside Russia will have enough sense to do things right by themselves.

So the program reassures them: "The Communist party of the Soviet Union will continue to strengthen the unity and cohesion of the ranks of the great army of Communists of all countries."

Bolled down to one sentence this means for unnumbered years around the world, with Russian help, will be trying to knock off one country after another — hoping all eventually will fall under the Red banner.

Compromise Farm Bill Ready for Final Congressional Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A compromise farm bill designed to cut farm surpluses and raise farm income was ready today for final congressional action.

A Senate-House conference committee turned out the catch-all bill last night. It includes only part of what President Kennedy requested.

It must be approved by both the House and the Senate. Quick action was expected.

Administration officials claim the bill would cut surpluses, saving taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars in storage costs and boosting farm income.

They said the program is based on the theory that it is cheaper to pay farmers not to grow grain than to let them grow surplus grain under the support program.

CUT PLANTING Under the bill, farmers would be forced to cut next year's wheat planting allotment by 10 per cent.

They would get payments based on 45 per cent of the normal yield of the idled land.

If farmers voluntarily cut production, they could get payments based on 60 per cent of the normal yield.

Drum wheat allotments, however, could be increased in order to avert a shortage of that type.

The bill does not specify in 1962 grain support rates, but Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman has indicated that rate will be boosted from the present $1.75 a bushel to $2.

Other provisions: —Continuation in 1962 of the program under which corn and grain sorghum growers voluntarily cut production in return for government payments, plus eligibility for price supports. In 1962, growers of barley — except malting barley — would be subject to the program.

—Authorization to producers of turkey, turkey hatching eggs, peacocks and a number of other products to adopt federal marketing orders under which grade and volume regulations can be imposed.

—Extension for three years of the Food for Peace program under which farm surpluses are exported for foreign currencies. Sales would be limited to $4.5 billion over the three-year period with a ceiling of $2 billion in any one year.

—Extension of the wool price support program for four years.

—Extension of the Great Plains conservation program for 10 years.

—Liberalization of farm credit terms for low-income farmers.

—A statement of congressional policy not to allow exports of subsidized farm products to Communist countries.

—Extension of federal school milk subsidy authority for five years.

—Authorization for heating imports of foreign foods, except for dates used for processing which do not meet quality standards imposed on similar U.S. products under federal marketing orders.

Rochester School Head Reveals Staff Changes

ROCHESTER — Several administrative changes designed to place more emphasis on curriculum and supervision of instruction were announced today by School Superintendent Donald C. Baldwin.

Douglas Lund, former director of instruction, will become an assistant superintendent of instruction following a recommendation by Baldwin which has been approved by the Rochester Board of Education.

The Rochester Community School District will have two assistant superintendents now that Lund's title has been changed.

Richard J. Winters is named assistant superintendent in charge of administration.

William VanderVen, former administrative assistant, has been named director of buildings and grounds. The title of administrative assistant has been dropped.

The classification of Mrs. Lois Thompson also has been changed from instructional consultant to instructional supervisor. Mrs. Thompson is now in charge of the local club and confers with its president, Roger Page, and secretary, J. Harry Selman, on Rotary administration and service activities.

A former employee of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Trippe is now a member of a State Bar Association's constitutional convention committee.

Trippe's jurisdiction covers 48 Rotary clubs in Southeastern Michigan and Southwest Ontario. He was elected district governor for 1961-62 at the 22nd annual Rotary International convention in Tokyo last May.

The Auburn Heights Rotary Club's major project this year will be a theater benefit Sept. 5 to provide funds for crippled children.

Flint Mother of 3 Beaten to Death; Husband Is Held

FLINT (UPI) — A mother of three was beaten to death at her Flint home last night and her husband was held for investigation.

Mrs. Emille Virginia Cook, 37, was slain, Genesee County Sheriff Tom Bell said her husband, Harold A. Cook, 50, an insurance broker, admitted the fatal beating.

Bell quoted Cook as saying he had disciplined a son, Henry, 18, and told him to do the dishes. Bell said Mrs. Cook replied she would do the dishes and Cook sent the children upstairs and began beating his wife.

Cook telephoned his brother, a local physician, asked for emergency instructions and tried to revive his wife, according to the sheriff. The brother called police when he arrived at the home. Mrs. Cook was pronounced dead on the scene.

Bell said Cook gave a formal statement admitting the beating to Chief Asst. Prosecutor Edward J. Jansky.

As many as 85 per cent of the people of the U.S. lived on farms during the Colonial period.

ALBANY — Hunger is the greatest threat to international peace, said Roswell Garst — the Corn Rapids, Iowa, farmer who stepped into international prominence through his visits behind the Iron Curtain.

Garst told an estimated 1,700 persons on the Gratiot County farm of John Van Page yesterday that the United States must share its food growing know-how with other nations.

His talk was part of an annual farm management tour sponsored by Michigan State University.

American farmers should aim at constantly higher per-acre yields, he said. There is no tragedy in having too much food, but there is in not having enough; what is surplus today will be insufficient in 10 years, Garst added.

A key figure in introducing hybrid corn on Soviet farms, Garst was visited in Corn Rapids by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev during his 1959 tour of the United States.

WANT TO EXPAND Despite efforts to boost production, Russia is hampered by a climate that is drier and cooler than the United States, he said.

Soviets are anxious to expand beef production, since meat is one of their most serious shortages, according to Garst.

He advised Michigan farmers to aim at higher grain yields. Those who get more than 20 bushels of corn per acre should quit raising it as a main crop.

The Iowa farmer also urged state farmers to get late season cattle raising.

A growing population and limited production in the Southwest United States will expand opportunities for Michigan farmers, Garst said.

FLINT (UPI) — James E. Ryan, 51, Flint, was killed early today when he was struck by a car here.

Witnesses told police the man started to cross Grand Trunk street but appeared to change his mind and turned back, stepping into the path of an oncoming car.

Salesman Cleared in Election Case

MOUNT CLEMENS (UPI) — The charge against real estate salesman Willard Myer that he distributed biased pamphlets in a city election was dismissed yesterday.

Circuit Judge Howard Carroll threw out the charge on a finding that there was no evidence that Myer had violated state election laws.

The charge had been brought against Myer, 60, a Detroit, in connection with the mayoralty election campaign earlier this year in the city of Warren. Police said the pamphlets appeared to be anti-Catholic.

PETITE PARADES — The Imlay City VW H-Stoppers maintain a fast pace to keep up with a tight schedule of parades, pageants and festivals in which they have appeared this summer.

The girls appeared locally on opening day of the Eastern Michigan Fair which continues through Saturday at the fairgrounds in Imlay City. Standing with the flags are Sandra Austin, 9, and Carol Skoldt, 10. Kneeling are Patricia Schow, 8, and Betsy Payne, 7.

Detroit Youths Held in Assault

Charged With Beating 2 Walled Lake Teens With Tire Iron

WALLED LAKE — Three Detroit youths accused of beating two Walled Lake boys with a tire iron were being held today in the Oakland County Jail today on charges of felonious assault.

Police said Wallace White, 14, of 1910 Austin St., and Richard Griffin, 17, of 215 Sawwood St., were arrested at 11 p.m. Tuesday behind the Lakeland Packing House, 261 Ladd Road.

Being held are Charles Donohue, Edward Polyn and John Cico, all 18 years old. A John Doe warrant is out for the arrest of a fourth youth who allegedly took part in the attack.

Polyn and Cico pleaded not guilty and Donohue stood mute yesterday in their arraignments before Justice of the Peace Gene Schmitz.

Bond was set at $2,500 apiece for the three youths, all of whom are on probation for breaking and entering and assault. They will appear for examination at 3:30 p.m. Aug. 10 in Walled Lake Justice Court.

White and Griffin reportedly were slapping a girl friend here Tuesday night when the Detroit youths showed up at her home.

The two Walled Lake boys reportedly were forced into a car, driven to a spot behind the packing house and beaten by the youths Tuesday night.

Police said White staggered to the home of Clement Phillips at 425 S. Pontiac Trail following the attack. Phillips called Walled Lake Police who picked up White at the home and found Griffin lying behind the packing house.

White and Griffin were released after treatment at the Mackenzie Memorial Clinic.

Kickoff Slated Oct. 12

Set Orion UF Goal at $6,000 in '61

ORION TOWNSHIP — A goal of $6,000 has been set as Orion Township's contribution toward Pontiac Area United Fund drive this year. It was announced today.

Plans for the 1961 United Fund drive in Orion Township were outlined at a recent meeting of local campaign leaders by Karl W. Bradley, executive director of the fund.

Attending the session were Joseph Taylor, president of the Orion Township Board of Trustees, and Mrs. Margaret C. Libby, women's division director for Pontiac Area headquarters, and local volunteers, including Mrs. Willard Stephens.

Others at the meeting, held at the Lake Orion branch of the Community National Bank, were Mrs. Margaret C. Libby, women's division director for Pontiac Area headquarters, and local volunteers, including Mrs. Willard Stephens.

Bradley said that the Orion Township drive will open following a kick-off dinner Oct. 12 when all volunteers will receive their campaign material.

The township will be divided into four sections by the women's division. An area chairman will direct the drive in each section.

Neighborhood captains and volunteer workers will be recruited to assist the area chairman between now and the time the drive starts.

Agencies aided through Orion Township's participation in the Pontiac Area United Fund drive this year include Orion Community Projects, Orion Youth Center, Gingsville Youth Center and Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Others are the American Red Cross, Clinton Valley Council of Boy Scouts, Northern Oakland County Girl Scout Council, Big Brothers, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Clinic, Salvation Army and the Michigan United Fund.

Anyone wishing to assist in this year's United Fund Drive in the township may contact Mrs. Decoy, 363 Park Island Road.

Transfer of 25 inmates to Ionis was approved several months ago and approval for the shift of another 25 came a few weeks ago.

Corrections Director Gus Harrison said Bannan reported the situation at Southern Michigan Prison fairly quiet now.

Bannan told lawmakers the situation was "explosive" and the danger of a flareup was greater than just prior to the prison riot of 1962 when he appeared before appropriating committees this spring. He said, however, guards were in a better position to control the prison population in the event of trouble.

Original plans formulated by the mental health department called for transfer of non-dangerous patients from several of the state's mental hospitals to the new facility at Howell. Other patients were then to be sent from Ionis to fill space in the other mental hospitals.

He said "one step in the process" of opening up beds at Ionis was transfer of patients to Howell, and although this had to be curtailed due to money shortages, some transfers were made and this was part of the reason the 50 prisoners could be taken at Ionis.

Other steps also were taken, including transfer of non-dangerous patients, to make more room, he said.

Complicating Wagg's problems is the steady rate of commitments to Ionis from courts around the state.

Some 50 persons were being held, almost all in county jails, awaiting transfer to Ionis and the number is growing more or less steadily, officials said.

The Mental Health Department asked for $85 million for operating in the 1961-62 fiscal year. Gov. John B. Swainson recommended $77.4 million and the legislature approved $76 million.

Cardinal Canali Is Dead at 87

Mayor of Vatican City for 22 Years Succumbs in Oxygen Tent

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Nicola Cardinal Canali, for 22 years the mayor of Vatican City, died today of bronchial pneumonia and circulatory complications.

He was 87. Cardinal Canali's death came four days after the sudden death of another Italian cardinal, Domenico Tardini, the Roman Catholic Church's secretary of state. The two deaths reduced the membership of the College of Cardinals to 82.

GAVE UP HOPE: Cardinal Canali had long suffered from a circulatory condition. He was stricken with pneumonia late last week and doctors gave up hope for his survival Saturday. His life ebbed away slowly as he lay in a coma under an oxygen tent.

Pope John visited him Sunday night after the death of Cardinal Tardini brought the pontiff back to the Vatican from his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, south of Rome.

Cardinal Canali, a jovial, round-faced prelate, had been president of the pontifical commission for the state of Vatican City since shortly after Pope Pius XII's death.

New Car Debuts Could Stretch Through Spring

By BEN FELDGAU
AP Automotive Writer
DETROIT — Like a child with his Christmas candy the auto industry is going to save some of its goodies 'til last when it brings out the 1962 models.

The first of the new ones will be in the showrooms within seven weeks. But the very present plans are shaping up there are apt to be various new models spread out almost until Christmas.

HOLD UP
Ford has decided to hold up its new in-between cars until sometime after introduction of the regular 1962 models. They probably will show up in late October or early November.

Several of the compact cars which will be showing convertibles for the first time may also delay their debuts — as late as early spring in some cases.

This would follow the pattern used by Rambler with its American convertible in the 1961 model year. The softtop model was announced along with the rest of the line in the fall but was not put into production until late December.

run. The Monza was the first of their versions, such as the Buick Skylark, F85 Cutlass, Falcon Futura and others, they clustered around April dates.

When other lines brought out

John R. Bowers, a Ford advertising executive, claims the public won't wait for the customary fall showings. But others say the comparative lack of competition makes mid-year dates increasingly attractive to the manufacturers.

Ford's planning has been of considerable interest to the industry which continues to search for an indication of when the Dearborn automaker plans to bring out its small-small car, generally called the Cardinal.

Until recently it was believed Ford would withhold the little car until the 1963 model year, possibly bringing it out in August, 1962.

However, observers claim to see a continuing push by Ford for mid-year dates and therefore speculate the Cardinal might make its debut next spring, several months earlier than original plans.

Ford so far continues to re-make money on the Cardinal project. But it is believed to be considerably more advanced than General Motors with Chrysler definitely waiting to test public reception.

The Cardinal would be aimed at the Volkswagen market, both in size and price, and would be assembled in this country of parts made both here and abroad.

Rejects Lifting Senate Curbs

Kills Item to Remove Restrictions on Refund for Travel Expenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal to repeal a year-old curb on Senate travel allowances was removed from a legislative appropriation bill Wednesday after Reps. Clare E. Hoffman, R-Mich., and H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, objected to the item.

Hints He May Block Feikens

Sen. McNamara Might Stand in Way of Tries to Obtain Confirmation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Patrick McNamara, D-Mich., hinted Wednesday he might block the Kennedy administration's attempts to gain Senate confirmation of John Feikens as a permanent Michigan federal district judge.

Feikens is one of three Republican judges now serving under Eisenhower administration recess appointments. All three received Kennedy administration endorsement this week.

Asked if he would seek to prevent Feikens' from gaining Senate confirmation by declaring him "personally objectionable," a traditional privilege accorded members of the state concerned, McNamara said, "I don't know at this point what I'll do."

Asked if this did not indicate he might be considering the move, McNamara replied, "Well, a fellow always likes to keep some powder dry."

McNamara said both he and the Michigan Democratic federal appointments committee had endorsed Rep. Theodore Macrowicz, D-Mich., for the judicial post held by Feikens.

McNamara said his stand is not a split with the Kennedy administration or with Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., who has said he will accept the administration's endorsement of Feikens.

"It's just that we're not on the same side," McNamara said.

Says Socialism Reason Aid Asked of Czechs

VIENNA (UPI) — Austrian President Klement Novotny has asked for aid from Czechoslovakia "because it is a socialist and not a capitalist country," Prague radio said Thursday night.

"The main reason for our request was the fact that your industrial production is based on socialist and not on capitalist principles," the radio quoted him as having said.

World War I Hero Dies in Allen Park Vet Hospital

DETROIT (AP) — A man credited with the singlehanded capture of 256 German soldiers in World War I, ex-Sgt. Hercules E. Korgis, is dead at the age of 72.

Korgis died Wednesday in Veterans Administration Hospital in Allen Park. He was one of the United States' most decorated heroes of the First World War.

He won the Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star, Purple Heart and the French Medaille Militaire and Croix de Guerre with palm leaf.

Korgis' reputed capture of an entire German company came on July 18, 1918, after he was taken prisoner himself at an outpost near Chateau Thierry in France.

According to accounts of the incident, Korgis told the Germans he was a Greek draftsman who had been forced into the American army. He told a German officer he could lead him to a weak spot in American defenses where the Germans could do immeasurable damage.

The officer believed him and followed—with an entire company. Korgis then told the Germans they were in a trap and surrounded and persuaded them to surrender.

PRETTY WISE MOVE — Ed Yanis, 31-year-old electronics engineer of Delaware Township, N. J., sits at the opening of a homemade fallout shelter with his wife and two children. When he started to build the shelter last year he said he was ashamed of what he was doing. Now he says his neighbors say it's a pretty wise thing.

Begin Refurbishing Job

on State Capitol Dome

LANSING (AP) — Work was begun today on the refurbishing of the 10-year-old dome of the State Capitol. Completion is expected in 40 days, said John Garner, state property director.

The project, costing $48,000, is being handled by Kish Industries, Inc., of Lansing, second lowest bidder on the job.

It was awarded to Kish because of the firm's experience, the type of paint it had available, and because it promised completion in 40 days, said A. N. Langus, state building director.

A Holland firm had underbid Kish by about $7,000.

Four Times More Than U.S.

Soviets Spending Billions on CD

By RAY CROMLEY

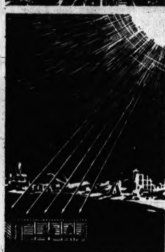

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Nikita Khrushchev is stepping up the pace of civil defense in Russia. That's the confidential information arriving at the Pentagon and at the White House emergency planning offices.

Last year the Russians spent more on civil defense than the U.S. has spent in the last decade.

Soviet civil defense spending this year is running at the equivalent of over $12 billion a year.

Even if President John F. Kennedy gets all the additional military he's asking for, the Soviet Union this year will spend at least four times the U.S. rate.

One hundred million Soviet citizens have received a minimum of

20 hours in civil defense training. Thirty million have been taking compulsory 10 to 18-hour courses every two years since 1955.

Every Soviet citizen this year and next is required to take 18 hours of additional training. This includes two hours in fire fighting and fire rescue, four hours in medical first aid and evacuation of casualties, four hours in decontamination procedures and the use of radiological instruments, three hours participation in rescue and repair work in a disaster area, one hour in protection against fall-out, one hour in alert, shelter and evacuation procedures.

Each man and woman must take a three-hour examination to show that he has learned what he's studied. Each must demonstrate in a practical exercise his knowledge of each subject.

The proper use of gas masks is heavily emphasized. Training includes realistic exercises in the use of masks in the presence of poison gas. Defense against biological warfare is included.

Avoidance of training by the average citizen is difficult. That is could be equated by the authorities with antisocial behavior.

FARMERS, TOO

Farmers must also take, or show they've completed, an extra two-hour practical course in organizing the protection of livestock against nuclear and chemical attack, in evacuating livestock from burning buildings and in aiding animals suffering injuries from radiation, gas or biological agents.

But that's only a part of what's happening in the Soviet Union.

Nikita Khrushchev is requiring reinforced construction in major new buildings to give shelter against moderate blast.

He is building bombproof shelters in the underpasses beneath city streets, tunneling out on either side of the underpasses.

He is making improvements in his Moscow subway to make them safe shelters against both bombs and gas attacks.

CITY SHELTERS

Basement shelter is already available to an important segment of the urban population in many areas of the Soviet Union. The construction of solid wall basements with reinforced concrete ceilings has provided a valuable degree of protection against nuclear radiation.

The Soviet Union has pushed civil defense against nuclear attacks with vigor since 1955.

The Soviet system is well organized. There are civil defense professionals on the staffs of the governing bodies throughout the Soviet Union from the national government on down through city, town and rural governments.

The Soviet civil defense officials have a voice in city planning. They are thus in a position to see to the dispersal of industry and the inclusion of shelters in new buildings.

Soviet civil defense training is spearheaded by the Voluntary Society for Cooperation with the Army, Air Force and Navy — DOSAAF.

Thirty million Soviet civilians have been compelled or induced to join. DOSAAF is headed by a General of the Army, D. D. Lelushenko.

Serves Notice on School Aid

Humphrey Says Vote on Construction Grants
Needed to Help Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., served notice today that Congress will have to vote on school construction grants if it wants to continue aid to federally impacted areas.

Humphrey, assistant Senate leader, said notice had been given to House Democratic leaders that the Senate first plans to accept a simple extension of aid to schools in districts crowded because of federal installations.

"These districts undoubtedly should get aid, but there are other school districts which also need aid and I believe the Senate intends to see they get it," Humphrey said in an interview.

PASS MEASURE

The Senate already has passed a $2.5-billion federal aid to education bill, carrying grants for classroom construction and teachers salaries. Also included in the measure was authorization for continuation of impacted area aid.

This measure, along with several other Kennedy administration proposals, has been scheduled in the House Rules Committee. Because 315 House members are from districts which get impacted area aid, there have been suggestions that a simple extension of this authority be passed.

About $300 million a year has been spent on this program, authority for which expired last June 30.

Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the House Republican leader, told a news conference Wednesday action on an extension bill could be taken quickly, "if the Democratic leadership would just get behind it."

Nationalist China Envoy Leaves With Note of Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nationalist China's vice president, Chen Cheng, closed out a three-day official visit to Washington today with a message of hope for the difficult days ahead.

In an airport statement just before he took off for New York, Chen quoted an old Chinese proverb: "Difficulties can be overcome if two men work together for the same purpose."

"This is also true of relations between two nations," he said. "The great strengths generated by the joint efforts of our two countries will, I am sure, be able to maintain our common goals in the difficult days that lie ahead."

Washington Feels NATO Match for Commie Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Current appraisals in informed Washington circles are that Western forces would be a virtual match for Communist troops in a conventional war.

The feeling here now is that Western armies have far more powerful ground forces in Europe than popularly believed. Behind this thinking:

1. American and North Atlantic Treaty Organization divisions are larger and have more firepower than the Communists, and actually outnumber them on the critical central European front.

Two men arrested for the theft of scrap metal from the Reliable Welding Co., 725 Oakland Ave., Wednesday night have pleaded guilty to simple larceny charges before Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

The pair — Arthur Demmon, 48, 520 1/2 N. Perry St., and Paul Thacker, 31, of 18 Newton Court, were given a choice today of paying $50 fines or serving 10 days each in the Oakland County Jail. Pontiac police arrested them after spotting the two men loading metal into the trunk of a car.

Predict Week's Auto Production Will Be '61 Low

DETROIT — Auto production this week will drop to its lowest total of the year — 32,825 cars — with only 18 assembly plants working, Automotive News said today.

Last week the industry built 74,855 cars and in the comparable week a year ago the total was 103,628.

Production this week was limited to 12 plants of Ford Motor Co., three Chevrolet plants and Checker Motors.

Truck output was estimated at 13,185 compared with 22,299 last week and 14,019 last year.

Man Pleads Guilty to Simple Arson

James A. Hurlburt, accused of setting fire to a chair in his home so as to collect insurance, appeared yesterday before Circuit Judge William J. Beer and pleaded guilty to a reduced count of simple arson.

He had stood mute to an earlier charge of arson with intent to defraud an insurance firm. Hurlburt, 40, of 794 Corwin Court, paid $100 court costs and received a 90-day suspended sentence for pouring lighter fluid over the chair on June 30 and setting fire to it.

2. The Allies are believed to have as much tactical air power on the central front as the Communists.

3. The Allied nuclear power exceeds that of the Soviets even though they may be superior in their ability to deliver it via long-range missiles.

This picture is beginning to emerge here in information obtained from Defense Department officials and sources in Congress while the Berlin situation remains critical.

AIR POWER HELP —

The U.S. forces in Europe may be bolstered with a substantial portion of the 28,000 men in 71 Air National Guard and reserve units alerted for possible active duty Tuesday.

They could help build up conventional air power and air transport capabilities in the NATO region.

In an appearance before the House Armed Services Committee last Friday, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara took a view much in step with current appraisals here of the military situation.

He said that "overestimates" of Red power fail to take into account "the problems that the Soviet Union is likely to have with the satellites in the event of an armed conflict."

McNamara said he believed that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has "grave doubts" about whether the East Germans would fight for him in event of a conflict over Berlin.

CAN'T RUN OVER NATO

And, the Pentagon boss said in the testimony made public Monday: "There is no reason for us to assume that the Soviet Union can run over NATO. It can't."

McNamara also criticized the press for what he said was failure to distinguish between different kinds of divisions and thus building a public conception of the Soviets "as 12 1/2 feet tall."

McNamara said in his congressional testimony the Soviets don't have 187 or even 175 divisions — a figure used for years in official U.S. statement or testimony — because "a major portion of their divisions today are under strength" compared to the U.S. divisions with their support forces.

The thinking in Washington now is that the Communists, presumably, could mobilize greater ground forces than the West after an initial clash, but in so doing they would be forced to come to a decision whether to seek negotiations or continue the war and run a risk of Allied nuclear retaliation.

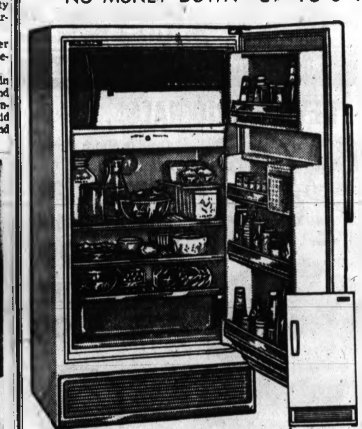

There are 22 NATO divisions, much fewer than the Soviet Union is believed to have in Europe. But, the feeling here is that differences in size and firepower more than balance out the numerical difference.

Ah, the Good Old Days With No World Problems

They Did Things Different 'Way Back Then

By MAE BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Let's have another look back at the calmer times when people could go to sleep without worrying over whether the next morning they'd have to face a fresh world crisis.

Sometimes it's a blessing to have these days to recall. It's a compensation for growing older.

So, count yourself among the lucky ones if you can still remember when:

Anybody who bought a $10.00 house was considered well-to-do. If you got a $50 weekly salary, that was the amount they put in your pay envelope. There were no such things as deductions.

When you went to the store for a gallon of coal oil, the grocer always stuck a raw potato on the spot to keep the can from leaking.

A showoff was a fellow who bought suits with only one pair of pants.

Folks were more scared of typhoid fever and appendicitis than of getting heart attacks.

BABE WAS BIG
Babe Ruth earned almost as much for knocking 60 home runs in a year as many 16-year-olds now get for signing as home players.

A real dude insisted on wearing spats—even in hot weather.

The "Beast of Berlin" was somebody called the Kaiser, who was widely believed to dine on Belgian children for breakfast.

If you gave a child a penny, he didn't look up and ask, "What's it good for?"

It was regarded as a national disaster when movie stars Doug Fairbanks and Mary Pickford got a divorce.

You stepped on a running board before entering an automobile, and there was no such thing as a gasoline tax.

Ministers denounced the rumble seat as the greatest threat to the morals of the younger generation. You could impress the neighbors with a $200 funeral.

A fountain pen was advertised as a lifetime investment.

DRAFT WAS BREEZE
The most popular indoor hobby in America was making home brew in the basement.

A draft was a breeze that seeped through a window—not an order issued from Washington.

A good pool player had a wider circle of admirers than a fellow who beat par on a golf course, and any man over 20 who still played tennis was put down as a sissy.

A wife was judged by the skill with which she could darn her husband's socks.

There was only one wonder drug—aspirin—and nobody had heard of a virus.

The average home held only one carpet sweeper.

Anybody who tipped more than 10 per cent for anything was regarded as a fool and a wastrel.

You could get a hired girl or a maid without having to pay her transportation from Europe.

If you were sick, the doctor came to see you; you didn't have to go see him.

One of the great social virtues was the ability to play a canny game of checkers.

Bizerte Session Near, but is Not Expected to Begin Till Next Week

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Asian-African nations seeking a special session of the U.N. General Assembly to debate the French-Tunisian crisis lacked the endorsement of only three nations today, but the session was not expected to begin before Monday or Tuesday.

With signatures of 37 delegates on their petition and those of the nine-nation Soviet bloc and Cuba assured, Tunisia's supporters predicted that by Friday they would have the remaining three to give them the majority of the 99 U.N. members necessary to convene the assembly.

U.N. officials made preparations for a session early next week. They expected it to last about four days.

Chief U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson conferred Wednesday with Tunisian Ambassador Mongi Slim in an effort to avert the session in favor of peace talks between France and Tunisia. But informed sources said Slim was adamant, and that there was no conciliatory sign from the French that might make negotiations imminent.

Alabama Women Very Interested in Political Affair

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—State Democratic officials learned the hard way that there are more Alabama women interested in politics than they thought.

The women's division of the party's campaign steering committee planned a luncheon here.

They figured since it was vacation time for some and coming time for others, not more than 50 would come.

But committee officers found themselves in a stew when more than 200 reservations were made.

The hotel where the luncheon was planned couldn't handle that many.

So the luncheon was moved to another hotel, and plans are now being made for 250 women to attend the event Aug. 5.

People Closest to Berlin Are Calmest

By HARRY FERGUSON
BERLIN (UPI) — Flight No. 614 of British European Airways, London to Berlin, is a "Viscount," and about three-quarters of the passengers appear to be tourists.

It is shortly after 1 p. m. when the voice of the stewardess comes over the loudspeaker in a clipped British accent:

"Ladies and gentlemen, we are preparing to land at Tempelhof Airport in Berlin. Please fasten your seat belts and remain seated until the aircraft has come to a complete stop. As smoking, please."

There is the usual scramble to fasten the seat belts. Then, as the plane glides down and Berlin comes into view, the passengers strain to look out the window. Most of them turn away disappointed at what they see.

Apparently they thought the River Spree would be running blood red and that the airport would be filled with soldiers with fixed bayonets.

ROUTINE AIRPORT

Instantly it is a normal landing at a routine airport. Except for the language, Tempelhof could be in Louisville, Denver or San Francisco.

In fact, it has a sort of American flavor because it is in the American sector.

Police West German customs men speed you past the barrier and you are on your way into the heart of West Berlin.

Still no troops, no tanks, no machine guns. One of the odd facts of this ordeal is that the closer you get to Berlin the calmer the people seem to be.

The main street of West Berlin is called Kurfürstendamm.

It is a wide avenue lined with shops, office buildings and open air cafes which give the city some of the carefree gaiety of Paris and Vienna.

A familiar face crowned with a mop of blonde hair smiles down at you from a billboard.

Fraulent Marilyn Monroe is appearing in a movie called "Mistress" and a long line of persons predominantly male, is waiting to buy tickets.

The lobby of the Berlin Hilton is bustling with people arriving and departing, and from the open doors of the cocktail lounge come the strains of "Somewhere Over the Rainbow."

And yet in one corner of the world where the Berlin Hilton is located, the world is at war. The world is at war, the world is at war, the world is at war.

Most of West Berlin's buildings are new and shiny with only the blackened shell of the Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial Church to remind you that the U. S. Air Force and the Royal Air Force reduced one-third of the city to rubble.

It has been left standing as a memorial to the war dead and a perpetual reminder of the dark path down which Adolf Hitler led the German people.

So this is a modern, bustling city, prosperous and apparently carefree. And yet in one corner of the world where the Berlin Hilton is located, the world is at war. The world is at war, the world is at war, the world is at war.

Not a physical siege because you can enter and leave the city freely, but a mental one. Every resident of Berlin must learn to live with the fact that he is surrounded by enemies. The Russian army has an iron ring around Berlin, 32 miles from the city's center.

The force consists of 45,000 Russian troops, 15,000 of the East German Communist army, 1,200 tanks and 280 armored cars.

Western intelligence agencies know for a fact that the Russian troops are equipped with tactical nuclear weapons, ground to ground and ground to air. Elsewhere in East Germany the Russians have another 600,000 troops.

Against this, the western allies have 10,500 soldiers in West Berlin — 5,000 Americans, 3,000 British and 2,500 French. The Russians could overrun them with ease between sunrise and sunset by the sheer weight of numbers. No allied officer, non-com or private in West Berlin is kidding himself.

QUICK DEFEAT
He knows he would be quickly defeated, but he also knows he is in Berlin as a symbol of western determination to hold the city. His morale is high, and he doesn't worry about the odds against him.

What chance is there that at dawn some day the Russians will attack and overrun the still-allyed garrison in Berlin? Almost none, according to western intelligence officials. If Khrushchev is going to start a war, they reason, he will not slip his hand by an attack on West Berlin.

He will fire his rockets first in an attempt to score a knockout punch against New York, Washington, Pittsburgh, Detroit and this one is a high priority target because it is the headquarters of the U. S. Strategic Air Command — Omaha, Neb. Once he has struck a paralyzing blow, he can dispose of the allied garrison in Berlin at his leisure.

WHERE TWO WORLDS MEET — On the other side of the Brandenburg Gate, the dividing line between East and West Berlin, is the world of the Communists. Explaining the importance of the landmark to his family is Edward W. Bird, European manager of an American insurance firm. The others are (from left) Tim, 14, Julie, 9, Mrs. Bird, and her mother, Mrs. Mildred M. Bradley of Des Moines, Ia. The Birds live near Frankfurt in West Germany.

So the military experts are convinced there is nothing to be gained by pouring more western troops into Berlin. The function of the ones here is to form a sort of thin line which the free world has drawn and its message to the Russians is "This far and no farther." So far, the Russians have got the message.

MORE BONIES
Some more bones in Khrushchev's throat:

Street scene on the Kurfürstendamm — The sign says "Rollenbahnen." It is a high class delicatessen and through the open doors come the delicious smells of salami, cheese, hot bread.

Two show windows on the street are crammed with food, fresh fruits, vegetables and liquor. In American currency: Large can of Libby's fruit salad, $1.15. Chivers black currant jam, 90 cents. Stuffed olives, 52 cents. Fresh artichokes, 70 cents. Quart of I. W. Harper bonded bourbon, $7.30.

The sidewalk in front of the Rollenbahnen is jammed with people. About half of them are well dressed and are going inside to buy something. They are West Berliners. The other half are poorly dressed and are merely window shoppers. They are about to go home to East Berlin dreaming about what they have seen.

They can't find such things in East Berlin and they haven't got enough money to buy them at the Rollenbahnen.

Big bone in the throat:
The Communists contend that the West German mark are worth the riders, dancing in and out of East same — 25 cents. But I walk out of the United Press International office and go into a small bank. I give the cashier one West German mark.

In return he gives me four and a half East German marks. This is how the two currencies compare on the free market. This is the verdict of hard-headed bankers who have sized up the rival economies of the Communist and the free world.

Journey into another world:
We are going into East Berlin. Joe Fleming, UPI Berlin bureau manager, says, "You won't need anything except your passport and they probably won't even look at it. He has a U. S. military license plates on his blue, two-door Opel sedan, and that impresses the Communist East German police."

Joe is right. We roll through the Brandenburg gate, which divides East and West Berlin, and are waved to a halt by two young policemen in green uniforms. They look at the license plate and signal us to go on.

We have come out of a West Berlin street bustling with traffic. Now we are riding through streets that are almost empty. Occasionally we see a car. Fleming identifies one of them as an Opel, eight years old. "Sometimes they buy a second-hand car in West Berlin," he explains.

A feature of the traffic in most large European cities is the motor scooter, or the motor bike. Two kinds of people ride motor bikes — youngsters and adults who don't have enough money to buy an automobile.

West Berlin is full of motor bike signs put up by the managers of the stores. "We are striving for the title of Brigade of Socialist Labor."

On the third floor they sell television sets, radios and electrical appliances. We stop in front of a television set with 12-inch screen. Light wood frame. Price: $352. A young clerk comes over and says to him:

"We would like to buy this television set. How soon can you deliver it?"

"In two and a half years," he replies. "But you can register for it now if you like."

How it all started:
When a big war ends, almost everybody assumes it will be the last one. "The war to end war," was the slogan Woodrow Wilson used to carry the United States into World War I. At the end of World War II there was relief, hope and excessive optimism.

A tyranny had been defeated and with the new weapons that were being developed mankind never would make war again for fear of destroying everybody. The Russians were allies and friends, they had shared their blood with us and now they would join us in a world organization to be called the United Nations.

This was no time to quibble about details. A hasty meeting in London divided Germany into four zones — American, British, French and Russian. It happened that Berlin fell into the Russian zone.

but because it was the capital of Germany it was agreed that the Big Four allied powers should all be represented there.

Four sectors were created inside the city and it was agreed that Russian, American, British and French troops should be stationed there. The western representatives even neglected to get anything in writing that would guarantee them access to Berlin across the 110 miles their troops would have to travel to reach the divided city. Such details could be handled later.

Could it have been prevented? Probably so. One man who peered through the veil of the future and saw the dangers was Winston Churchill. He never got along very well with Stalin and he never trusted the Russians.

His first plan to save most of Europe from communism was to invade through the Balkans — the soft underbelly of Europe — and fight northward until a line of American, British and French troops stood in front of the advancing Russian armies.

The Allied War Council rejected that plan in favor of an attack against southern France to follow closely on the Normandy invasion. The Russians swept through Poland and the Balkans with the result that they now have a collection of satellite Communist nations.

Churchill made one more attempt. When the German armies were collapsing, he urged Supreme Commander Dwight D. Eisenhower to make a plunge direct for Berlin and beat the Russians to the city. Eisenhower replied:

"May I point out that Berlin itself is no longer a particularly important objective." He turned to other matters and the Russians pushed through to Berlin. In a strictly military sense Eisenhower was correct. As supreme commander his mission was to destroy the German army and let the politicians worry about the shape of things to come in Berlin.

What is likely to happen now? "If he detects the slightest sign of weakness in Washington, London agrees Khrushchev will sign on or Paris, there is going to be a peace treaty with the East German trouble and somebody is going to get hurt."

The best summation of the crisis this correspondent has heard was delivered by a western diplomat, wise in the ways of the Russians and thoroughly familiar with Berlin. "This thing is entirely inside Khrushchev's mind. If he becomes convinced President Kennedy is ready to fight for Berlin and that the British and the French are willing to fight beside him, he will forget Berlin and start the pot boiling somewhere else."

What is likely to happen now? "If he detects the slightest sign of weakness in Washington, London agrees Khrushchev will sign on or Paris, there is going to be a peace treaty with the East German trouble and somebody is going to get hurt."

Trip of a Lifetime Ends in Death for 16 Sight-Seers

By The Associated Press
They came from across the nation, from varying walks of life, strangers anxious to discover together the wonders of a world many had only read about. Across the sea to Europe they traveled, to England, The Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Rhine River Valley and Bavaria, to Vienna, to Italy, and then to Switzerland.

And there, as their luxurious bus splashed along a rain-soaked mountain road beside beautiful Lake Lucerne, their tour ended violently Wednesday. The bus plunged into the lake, with 16 of the 38 aboard drowning.

Each paid $1,027-up for the 43-day tour sponsored by Gateway Holiday Tours of New York. Many were school teachers. All but five of the 35 Americans aboard were women.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Work of Conestoga, Pa., were among those who escaped death. They are newlyweds, and the trip was a part of their honeymoon.

CALLA MOTHER
Mrs. William H. Swan, the bride's mother, received a phone call from her daughter a few hours after the accident.

"She told me, 'We are safe,' the worried mother said. Mrs. Swan said she had a strange premonition something might happen to the couple.

"Each letter we received told of their happiness and their enjoyment of the honeymoon," she said. "It all seemed too nearly perfect."

Yvonne Winter, 36, of Millwaukee, Wis., also had a premonition.

A travel agent who arranged the tour for Mrs. Winter and her sister, Nora Pannier, 64, said Mrs. Winter became concerned when a hitch in travel plans developed.

Told they would have to travel to Europe by plane rather than by ship as planned, Mrs. Winter said: "This is not a good sign. Maybe we shouldn't go."

The sisters, both school teachers, were among the survivors.

The accident was a tragic parting for many old friends. Miss Anna Mary Speck, 48, of Lorain, Ohio and Julia T. Tschantz of St. Mary's, Ohio, planned the tour for a long time. Both were teachers.

Miss Speck was among those believed dead. Mrs. Tschantz, a widow, survived.

WORKED TOGETHER
Miss Louise McMurray and Martha Isaacs, of Washington, D.C., had worked together for 10 years. When Miss McMurray retired, she moved to Greensboro, N.C. They traveled together on the tour. Mrs. Isaacs lived. Miss McMurray died.

Miss Julia R. Schultz and Pauline G. Hudson, teachers at Keefe Junior High School in Altoona, Pa., also traveled together. Miss Schultz died. Mrs. Hudson was among the living.

Three Norristown, Pa., travelers survived the plunge. They were Harnema Humberger, a widow, her daughter, Nancy, 17, and a friend—Helen Egleston, wife of a Bell Telephone Co. employee.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lampton of Glendale, Calif., an elderly married couple, died together. Lampton, in his 60s, had retired only recently from his painting business.

John Payne Nearly Recovered

HOLLYWOOD — On March 1, John Payne started across a New York street to visit the apartment of friends.

Seconds later, he was lying on the pavement, his eyes filled with blood, his skull dented and his left leg broken in five places.

Today his hands, some face seems unchanged except for a straight scar across his chin. He still wears a steel brace to support his mending leg.

Payne's comeback is a tribute to surgeons' skill and his own will to survive. His injuries and the loss of blood "I left about three quarts on the pavement," placed him on the critical list.

The actor never saw the car that hit him. It was driven by a 21-year-old research analyst who said he didn't see Payne in the twilight rain.

"I knew when I became unconscious on the street that I was hurt, but I didn't know how badly," Payne recalled.

He summoned the friends he was to visit and had them call his wife Sandy in California, as the news would be broken gently. Then he sought the best medical care possible.

"I got it," he said. "There were his doctors working on me — a team of three on the leg, two on the face and one on the head."

"I wondered if he felt concern about his face, since it is an actor's malice."

"At a time like that, you only think about survival," he replied. "After that, my principal concern was my children." He has a daughter by his marriage in five places.

Court to Sentence Would-Be Hijacker
OROVILLE, Calif. (UPI)—Bruce McKee Britt, 40, will be sentenced Aug. 11 on three counts of attempted murder stemming from his beret shooting spree on a Chicago-San Francisco airliner Monday night.

The construction worker from Mackinac, Mich., Wednesday pleaded guilty to the counts. Superior Judge J. P. Good announced the sentencing date and set bail at $10,000.

Britt's attempt to commandeer the Pacific Airlines flight on the ground at Chino Airport resulted in the serious wounding of two persons and the narrow missing of another. He could be sentenced up to 14 years in prison for his actions.

U.S. Stamp Will Honor Chinese Anniversary
WASHINGTON — The United States is going to issue on Oct. 10 a postage stamp commemorating the 50th anniversary of the revolution which set up the Republic of China.

President Kennedy so informed Vice President Chen Cheng of the Republic of China during their conversations at the White House this week.

The stamp also will honor Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese Republic.

State Grown Produce, Beef Are Good Buys

This week's best bargains in the Detroit Metropolitan area grocery stores can be found in beef cuts and vegetables.

Increased supplies of Michigan-grown vegetables are driving prices down while beef cuts continued at their lowest price point, the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service reports.

In poultry, however, fryer prices jumped drastically this week after a long period of selling at near-cost prices. However, many store specials on fryer parts offered exceptionally good buys.

Pork prices have been generally high because of seasonally light marketing of hogs. This makes most advertised values on smoked cuts, frankfurters, semi-boneless and canned ham, bacon and lunch meats good buys.

Best bargains in fruits include heavy shipments of peaches from out of state, Michigan blueberries, which are of excellent quality, and plums and grapes.

Vegetables in largest supply are corn, green beans and top quality cabbage. Supplies of cucumbers, Michigan celery, and Michigan outdoor tomatoes are increasing. Prices on Michigan new potatoes are exceptionally low and quality is good.

Wholesale beef prices are slightly higher this week. But retail prices on top quality beef remain at their lowest level since World War II, mainly because of heavy supplies. Steak cuts and roasts are feature-priced in many stores.

Exceptional values also are available on fish, always one of the most economical protein foods. Features include fresh whitefish and smelt. Fresh perch continues to be scarce and relatively high in price.

Eggs remain at about the same price as last week. More small sizes are appearing in stores, however, and special prices may be found on the "small" eggs.

It takes five quarts of milk to make one pound of cheese.

Turkey Joes, a new adaptation of an old American favorite, make great eating for the teens at summer parties. They're a slick, quick combination of chopped cooked turkey meat, condensed chicken Gumbo soup, chopped onions and a little butter or margarine, with interesting seasonings.

This is the sort of food treat the young folks will enjoy doing for themselves. Keep a supply of cooked turkey meat in the home freezer, a few cans of gumbo soup on the shelf, our new recipe handy and you'll never need fear an "invasion" of hungry youngsters at any hour from noonday on.

Turkey is such a good buy again this summer, for the marketing specialists tell us there's from 20 to 25 per cent more birds coming to market this year than ever before. And these 1961 birds are the most tender, juiciest ever to grace your table, because improvements are constantly being made in their breeding and feeding. Ample supplies mean economical prices, too. For all these reasons, you'll want to use turkey often this summer.

TURKEY JOES — Take a dish the teenagers really like, give it a new twist and you'll have a new favorite for their parties. Summertime turkey tastes wonderful in a highly seasoned sauce, served over toasted buns. It's economical, too.

Brown Rice Dish Fit for Fridays

Rice is expected in an Oriental setting but "Brown Rice Oriental" accentuates the familiar with a flavor and flair all its own. Here's an entrée of buttered browned rice, chicken broth, water chestnuts, green pepper and pimiento seasoned with instant minced onion and soy sauce. It's an exotic casserole dish. In baking specialties such as this and in limitless other kitchen uses, instant minced onion make a handy cooking companion.

Brown Rice Oriental
 1 cup raw brown rice, rinsed quick-cook.
 1 cup water or margarine
 2 chicken bouillon cubes
 1 cup hot water
 1 tablespoon instant minced onion
 1 tablespoon soy sauce
 1/2 cup oil and water chestnuts, sliced
 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
 1/2 cup sliced pimiento

Brown rice in butter, stirring constantly until golden. Dissolve bouillon cubes in hot water; combine with onion, soy and browned rice. Turn into 1 1/2-quart casserole. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 minutes. Uncover; add water chestnuts, green pepper and pimiento. Return to oven and make uncovered 10 minutes longer. Makes about 6 servings.

To accentuate the flavor, use honey in cooking raisins or dried figs, prunes, or pears for use on cereal.

 2 cups finely sliced cooked turkey meat
 1 can Chicken Gumbo soup
 1 cup water
 1/2 cup oil
 1/2 cup instant minced onion
 1/2 cup soy sauce

Chocolate Water Ice a Novelty

A summer refresher made with the instant chocolate drink mix is a Chocolate Freeze. This is a light and very low-calorie dessert that is similar to a European water ice and can be made up simply and quickly.

Chocolate Freeze
 1 1/2 cups dry instant chocolate drink mix (directions without sugar)
 1 cup water
 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Stir chocolate drink mix into water. Add vanilla; mix well. Turn into refrigerator tray and freeze until mushy. Serve immediately.

Count on a medium-sized lemon yielding two to three tablespoons of juice.

Add Some Jelly

Turkey is an all year 'round meat... especially when it's as readily available as a frozen prepared turkey dinner. And a special touch for it is a sparkling gem of jelly. Try this: Fold back foil over the turkey. Slip a little curant jelly into a spot near the meat. Reveal. Heat following label directions.

Unless a recipe states otherwise, it is wise practice to cook a butter-type cake in its pan set on a wire rack before turning out. After turning out the cake, use another wire rack to shift it once more so it will be top side up.

Frost Dark Cake With Cherry

As every woman who ever baked a cake knows, the frosting makes the difference. But so often when you're baking a cake, especially for an important occasion there's little time left to make an impressive frosting.

For just such "tight spots," here's a recipe for a spectacular frosting that can be made quickly. All you need is a frosting mix, peanut butter and Danish cherry wine. The flavor is spicy and nutlike; the color is pink and, if desired, you can emphasize the color with a few drops of food coloring.

Peanuts have long been known for their affinity to fruit as witnesses their combination with many fruit salads. The Danish cherry wine with peanut butter in the frosting produces this same delightful flavor combination, which is so subtly good it is a mystery as well as a delight.

Cherry Peanut Butter Frosting is fine for any flavor of cake but especially good for devil's food, spice and chocolate.

Cherry Peanut Butter Frosting

1 cup Danish cherry wine
1 package (4 1/2 oz.) fluffy white frosting mix
1 cup smooth peanut butter

Bring wine to a full rolling boil. Place the frosting mix in a small bowl. Add boiling wine and blend thoroughly with electric mixer on low speed. Beat at highest speed until mixture forms stiff peaks that bend slightly.

Blend in peanut butter with a spatula. Spread immediately on cooled cake. Makes enough frosting for one large loaf cake or two nine inch layers.

All Cantaloupes Are Muskmelons

All cantaloupes are muskmelons, but not all muskmelons are cantaloupes. "Cantaloupe" is the name we give a small, oval and heavily netted muskmelon which was first grown in the 18th Century at "Cantaluppi," a papal estate just outside Rome. Cantaloupes were introduced commercially in this country in 1885 and fruit wholesalers were amused at the smallness of the new melon.

Chill cantaloupes only until pleasantly cool—perhaps an hour in the refrigerator. This enhances the sweet musky flavor which would be diminished if thoroughly chilled. Honeydew and watermelon, on the other hand, taste better if quite cold.

Teenagers Like It

Combine chilled grape juice and ginger ale for a refreshing ginger ale. Some good cooks like to use 3 parts of grape juice to 1 of ginger ale.

Milk-Orange Recipes Rate High in Nutrition

Junior's love for orange sherbet coated ice cream-on-a-stick can be the inspiration for a raft of orange juice and milk combinations.

Just as he loves that frozen treat, he'll like Creamy Orange Drink, a perfect warm weather snack. Frozen orange juice concentrate, allowed to thaw, is beaten with milk and vanilla ice cream into nourishing bubbles.

Milk is wholesome for Junior to snack, adding to the nutritive value of his meal. Vitamin C-rich orange juice added to milk makes a super nutritious snack, fortifying the milk with a nutrient it lacks.

The same six-ounce can of frozen concentrate gaily dresses up into summery party eggnog, too. It's a colorful, creamy inspiration to serve during the summer rush of bridal showers and luncheons.

Orange Freeze is another tasty recipe to try on the family. This soft spoon topping is so good over fresh strawberries, pineapple or any airy-light sponge cake.

Creamy Orange Drink

1 6-ounce can frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed
2 cups milk
1/4 pint vanilla ice cream

In a mixer or blender, beat together orange juice (not reconstituted), milk and ice cream until smooth. Serve icy-cold. Makes 1-1/2 servings.

Orange Eggnog

6 egg yolks
1 6-ounce can frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed
2 cups milk
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 egg white
1 cup sugar

Beat egg yolks slightly; then, add orange juice (not reconstituted), vanilla, nutmeg and milk slowly, mixing well. Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually add sugar and continue beating until soft peaks form. Fold into milk-egg yolk mixture. Serve chilled. Makes 10-12 servings.

Orange Freeze

1 6-ounce can frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed
2 cups milk
1/4 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 cup sugar
1 cup whipping cream
Fresh fruit

Mix together orange juice (not reconstituted), milk, rind and sugar until well blended. Whip cream until stiff; fold milk mixture into it. Pour into refrigerator tray or pan and place in freezer until half frozen. Serve over fresh fruits, such as strawberries and pineapple. Makes 6 servings.

A Peachy Idea for Good Eating

A peach of a dessert... in more ways than one.

That is the perfect description of a Peach Melba Pie, a brand-new way to enjoy the traditional combination of peaches, ice cream and ruby-red raspberries.

A toasted coconut crust is filled with peach ice cream, then topped with whipped cream and raspberry sauce... to make this one of the most delicious desserts you could serve. And, one of the prettiest!

Peach Melba Pie

1 8-inch coconut crust
1 quart peach ice cream
1 cup whipping cream
Raspberry Sauce

Soften ice cream slightly. Spoon into coconut crust and freeze until very firm. Before serving top with stiffly whipped cream. Cut into 6 or 8 pieces. Serve with warm or chilled raspberry sauce.

Coconut Crust
1 1/4 cups flaked coconut
2 tablespoons melted butter
1/2 cup finely crushed graham crackers

Combine coconut and butter; add sugar and graham crackers and mix thoroughly. Press on bottom and sides of well greased 8-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees F., for 10 to 12 minutes or until brown. Chill.

Raspberry Sauce:

1 12-ounce package frozen sweetened raspberries, thawed
1 tablespoon cornstarch
3 tablespoons cold water
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Press berries through sieve. Blend cornstarch and water until smooth and add to berries. Cook in heavy saucepan stirring constantly until thick and clear. Add lemon juice gradually. Chill. Makes 1 cup sauce.

Reds Organized to Take Over New Nations

By PIERRE J. HUNS
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Sometimes people in the free world get "tired" of hearing that "the Communists" are behind this and that outbreak of violence or revolution, especially if that happens in a newly independent area of Africa or Asia too remote to be bothered about.

Nikita Khrushchev and his Kremlin cohorts, who run the Communist empire in the world, are well aware of this and exploit it to the utmost in pushing Communist goals of global domination.

Far back in 1936, for example, the Spanish revolution was hailed by intellectuals and the average innocent American as a glorious event.

Since then, it stands on record that the masters of communism in the Kremlin engineered and directed that shockingly bloody civil war with the aim of creating a great Communist beachhead in Spain admirably suited as a jumping-off platform for the Red subjugation of the European and African continents.

By the same token, who has forgotten the fact that despite FBI warnings against the Communist agent Fidel Castro, he was hailed in the United States and Western Hemisphere as a conquering hero when he came storming out of the Cuban hills?

Madison Sit-In Enters 4th Day

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — An 86-year-old woman, whose parents were born in slavery, and a 4-year-old child have participated in the night and day civil rights sit-in going into its fourth day in the rotunda of the Wisconsin

There are many people willing to take a turn, says Lloyd Barbee, a Madison Attorney who is president of the Wisconsin chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Barbee said, "We plan to keep those chairs filled day and night until we get action on our bill of the legislature adjourns."

Their aim is a bill designed to prevent discrimination in housing and to expand the powers of the Governor's Commission on Human Rights.

ONE BILL KILLED
One such bill was killed by the State Assembly two weeks ago. Similar measures are pending in both the Assembly and State Senate.

Lawmakers, however, have paid little official attention to the demonstration, concentrating instead on continuing wrangle over tax revision. There have been private exchanges as the senators and assemblymen passed the demonstrators on the way to legislative chambers two floors above.

Like Castro, Patrice Lumumba was their ready-made and carefully trained tool to create a Communist state under Moscow influence in the heart of Africa, although those who voiced warnings to that effect were laughed off.

And does anyone still seriously question that Laos is anything but the victim of a step-by-step Communist take-over?

Are we again ignoring warning voices from many parts of Latin America that the Communists under the direction of Moscow agents are on the march?

A sample came recently from Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton the Scottish peer who visited British Guinea, just north of Brazil. He predicted that by the end of this year, Guinea will become the first Communist beachhead on the mainland of South America.

In the face of all this, it might be advisable to take a closer look at what is behind the international counterintelligence cover.

European observers who have lately visited that troubled Port guese colony on the African west coast more and more confirm official Portuguese claims that the "liberation" crusade leaders are none other than the agents of Moscow, trained in the techniques of

This Communist training center annually spawns hundreds of spies, agitators and "diplomats" who are assigned to the specific African areas in which they are to foment dissent and explosions.

When the United States in the U. N. voted in favor of censuring the Portuguese government for rule over Angola, the political objective was to align itself with genuine Afro-Asian desires for the final elimination of "colonials."

In the U. S. mind, that term conjured up all the 19th century type of suppression amounting to slavery for the blacks.

Prime Minister Nehru of India, the leader of anticolonialism in that area of the world, was deeply satisfied with the U. S. position. So was the Soviet Union, but for vastly different reasons.

The U. N. action against the Portuguese government greatly facilitated and encouraged the camouflaged Communist drive against Angola, and in the end may turn out to be another of the things by which the United States inadvertently aided the imposition of Communist rule on a vital geographic part of Africa.

She Ought to Mend Her Ways

By the Emily Post Institute

Q: I went to visit a friend the other evening. When I arrived she was sitting in the living room mending some clothes. She greeted me cordially and said she was glad to see me. However, instead of putting her mending aside, she continued to do it in my presence. I thought she was very rude and it made me feel as though I was intruding on her. Wasn't this very bad manners on her part?

A: Unless you are very intimate friends, she should have put aside her mending or at least excused her continuing to sew by explaining that she hoped you didn't mind but that she must finish mending her children's clothes so that they would have something to put on in the morning.

Q: A question has arisen which we would like you to answer. When a girl is invited to a dance which requires her staying in the dormitory for two nights, is she expected to write a thank-you note to the house mother after she returns home?

A: The bread and butter letter that she must write to her hostess in whose house she has spent one or more nights is not necessary, but a letter thanking the house mother for the trouble she took to make her stay in the dormitory comfortable will be appreciated and indicates that she has been well brought up.

Q: When a person has just gone through a very unpleasant experience and friends as well as acquaintances insist upon asking a lot of personal questions which the one concerned does not care to discuss, what is the proper way to handle this situation without seeming rude?

A: She turns the conversation to another subject if she can. If the inquirer persists, it becomes necessary to say, "I'd rather not talk about it."

Q: My daughter and her husband were married recently at a private ceremony. Since relatives and friends have not met her husband, I would like to give an afternoon reception in their honor. Should there be a receiving line, and if so, who stands in it?

A: There should be a receiving line. You, as hostess, stand first at the door of entrance, your daughter stands next and her husband next to her. Your daughter introduces each arriving guest to her husband.

Q: My parents are giving a large dinner party soon to announce my engagement. Will you please tell me how and when the announcement is made, and also by whom?

A: Usually toward the end of dinner when the table is cleared for dessert, the father of the girl rises and proposes a toast saying, "I propose we drink to the health of Mary and the young man she has decided to add permanently to our family—John Brown." Or, "To our Mary and her John."

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Pro's Tips Will Start You on Your Fairway

Editor's Note: The following is the first of three tips for the beginning golfer, written by one of the stars of the annual Golf Association of America tournament.

By BARBARA ROMACK

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—One of the delights of golf is that you can enjoy playing the game with almost anyone. This is because it is one of the few games in which you actually compete against yourself. But before we talk about how you better your game, let us get you started on it. How do you begin? Should you take lessons? Where is the best place to play?

Your introduction to the game, which usually is through friends, can be at a golf club, driving range or on the living room carpet. This introduction certainly should be followed up with lessons from a well-qualified professional.

I would recommend a series of 12 lessons. At least eight of them should be taken before venturing onto the fairway.

BUILDS CONFIDENCE

Knowing the basic essentials of the game will make playing it more pleasant by building up your confidence and teaching you the etiquette of the golf course.

Where you play later naturally depends on where you live and on whether you can afford to belong to a private club or would prefer to play at a public one.

I will give you a tip on the selection of golf clubs later, but first let's talk about the most important thing in the golf game: the swing.

One of the most important things about the swing is that it should be done as a "one piece operation." The basic parts of a good swing are a proper grip, stance and alignment of your body.

Your teacher will demonstrate each of these to you in detail. He will show you how to get everything in motion at the same time.

He also will explain that properly executed footwork is essential to a proper swing and that if you are able to shift your weight evenly, which permits your hips and shoulders to move easily back and around.

This, in turn, enables you to swing your hands to the correct position at the top of the backswing and to build up the power, which you must transfer directly at the ball on the downswing.

TIPS ON SWING

Since the very nature of the swing makes it hard to describe and much simpler to demonstrate, it should be learned with a professional. This is because it is so easy to develop bad habits at the beginning. These are hard to correct later on.

The club must be started back the same way every time. On the backswing there is a simultaneous turn of the left shoulder and of the right hip.

On the downswing, there is a simultaneous turning of the left shoulder and of the left hip. These movements should make the hands swing freely into the proper position in the backswing and then through the ball to the proper full finish.

This action also encourages naturalness in the swing which we must try to maintain as much as possible.

I would suggest that you do not venture onto the golf course until the swing does come naturally. Otherwise false starts may discourage you. Two other tips for golfers at all stages: relax when you approach the ball, and concentrate. Both are essential.

Pontiac Press Photo

The thing about a swing is that it should be a "one piece operation." Proper grip, stance and alignment of body all should be considered. Mrs. Dilyard Doolin from Lake Orion of Tuesday Tee Golf Club looks up to check the pro's advice on her backswing. It's best to learn with a professional, for bad habits in the beginner stage are easy to develop and hard to break.

U. S. Goes to State for Musicians

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has gone to the north woods of Michigan to enlist some of the nation's most talented young musicians in the cold war.

The United States Information Agency (USIA) said today the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich., is preparing a series of 28 half-hour programs for worldwide distribution this fall through the USIA's Voice of America (VOA).

"The Voice of America's interest in the national music camp is inherent in the group's dedication to the promotion of world friendship through the universal language of the arts," Harold Boxer, VOA music director, said.

The series was developed after consultations here between Boxer and Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, founder and director of the National Music Camp.

AROUSES INTEREST

Maddy also has generated considerable interest in his proposal to send some of his musicians on a 5-episodes tour behind the Iron Curtain.

"The series is being specially tailored to radio requirements and will emphasize compositions by American composers," Boxer said. "The narrations that unify the program will be translated into local languages abroad."

The camp, nestled among towering pines between two lakes in the Grand Traverse resort region, draws students from around the nation.

As is the case with series being carried on a national network this summer, the music camp's overseas series will be tape recorded.

The recordings, made by senior students, including Pontiac students Jean Hurlula and David Elcher, will be made available to some 200 U.S. Information Agency posts in more than 80 countries.

"We say often that music plays an important role in the education of American youths," Boxer said. "For overseas listeners, these programs will be proof they can hear with their own ears."

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, says if women want equal footing with men they must stand on their own two feet.

She told the American Legion Auxiliary Girls Nation that women "must be willing to give up feminine privileges when they demand equal rights."

Sen. Smith urged the teenage girls: "Don't demand special privileges under the guise of equal rights whether the laws be on the basis of race, creed, color, religion or sex."

DEAR FLABBERGASTED: In a few isolated communities this is indeed the "custom." But it doesn't make much sense to me either.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Richardson will give another of their famous party Sunday in their Glenary Road home. Outriggers, turkeys, strolling musicians and a Polynesian feast will be highlights of their poolside South Seas Safari party when they entertain the Circumnavigators Club, an international group of globe-trotters, some eighty of whom live in Michigan.

Dividing and trampoline exhibitions, a fashion show of furs and movies are on the agenda. Assisting in planning the affair are J. Leslie Berry and Raymond Dismore.

A proud moment for Mrs. C. E. Nancy will be married at noon in Holy Name Church and a reception will be given at Bloomfield Hills Country Club.

Abby Gives 'Bald' Facts

This Hair-Raising Tale's False

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been debating with this buddy of mine about whether a person can start growing hair on his head after he has been bald for a number of years.

He says yes and I say no. He has a good time on all sorts of remedies. He has been doing for treatments, and has even been sleeping with sheep dung on his head, but he is still as bald-headed as ever.

Can you or anyone else tell me if there is anything known to man that will actually restore hair on a man's head after he has become bald with age?

DEAR ABBY: My wife has become a problem. I think she is just right, but she thinks she is too fat. She is always going on some sort of diet. For days at a time she will not eat enough to keep a canary alive. This makes her very cross and irritable. She yells at the kids and snaps at me. How can I convince her that I would rather have her a little on the heavy side and her old sweet self?

DEAR ABBY: I got up to give my baby her 2:00 a.m. bottle, and I heard the neighbor's children, ages 2 and 3, screaming. Their mother is a night waitress who works from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m., and their father is supposed to be home. His car wasn't in the driveway so I went over there and tried to go get it. The house was locked up tight.

I telephoned the mother at her place of work, and she said she'd come right home in a cab. A few minutes before she arrived her husband came in the back door. He said he never left the place, and was there all the time. I was called a meddling busybody, and a few other things.

My husband is a trucker, and has seen this man coming home at 4 and 5 in the morning. What do you think, Abby? What if those babies were locked in the house and a fire broke out? I can't sleep nights for worrying about them.

ONLY HUMAN: The husband is obviously irresponsible, so you had better talk plainly with the wife. Let her know that her babies are being left alone and, unless she wants to be taken to court for neglecting her children, she had better stay home or arrange for competent help.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Costly Clothes, but She Still Looked Tacky

By ALICIA BART

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Looking at the middle-aged woman across from me on the bus, I was startled to realize that she was expensively dressed. And then I found myself wondering: why the surprise? Why shouldn't she be well-dressed?

I stole another look at her. Yes, she was wearing a handsome black silk summer suit trimmed in bone silk. But the overall effect was tacky. Why? Because of the way in which she had accessorized her suit.

With it, she wore a cheap cotton tapestry handbag, white shoes, one too clean and some tawdry white plastic jewelry. In her left hand she clutched a pair of slightly soiled white cotton gloves. Altogether, she had succeeded in ruining the effect of her neat, expensive suit.

A LITTLE THOUGHT

With a little thought and planning, she could have done this: accessorized her suit with black patent handbag and pumps, then added wrist-length gloves in bone leather. Or, she might have had a handbag in bone leather. And she would have looked smart!

A one-eyed person actually has less visual fatigue than a normal person with two eyes, according to the Better Vision Institute.

Housewife Has Time Advantage

(NEA) — Housewives who feel that career girls have it all over them in the matter of making themselves attractive should take stock of the situation. It's true that the girl with a job needs more clothes, more accessories, spruce grooming. Presumably, she has more time to devote to her appearance. Actually, this isn't always so.

2 JOBS FOR HER

She may have others dependent on her for care and support who need a good bit of her time. So, even though you're anchored to your home much of the time, you still can look your best.

In fact, you have the advantage. You can shampoo and set your hair anytime during the day. You can make repairs in and press your clothes when it suits you. And thus you can make a small wardrobe do a tremendous job.

And remember, your clothes should be right for your job. No tacky dresses or rundown house slippers. You can also take time to tint your own hair at home. You can apply make-up before your husband arrives in the evening. In short, you may not have the income of the career girl to spend on your appearance, but you can match her by making clever use of your time at home.

Become Airline Hostess

Try 'Wild Blue Yonder' for Husband

By RALPH MONCRIEF

DALLAS, Tex. (NEA) — If you are one of the approximately 20 million girls in the United States without a husband and you want one, the nation's airlines just might be your answer. It doesn't take too long, either — 15 months to two years is about the average. Of course, there are a few conditions. You must be between 19 and 26, single, in most cases, have two years of college or its equivalent and be healthy.

Then, too, you must be willing to put in five weeks of training, spending some 200 classroom hours learning every phase of all the planes that fly the airlines. You must learn how to wear the uniform of the airline, be well versed in passenger psychology, know FAA regulations, rules of conduct, and spend at least four days being briefed on emergency techniques.

Not discouraged yet? Well, here is what Maxine Harper, assistant to the chief hostess at Braniff Airlines and boss of hostess recruiting, has to say: "We want girls who are naturally beautiful — no artificial types. This girl is divided into about five component parts. She must be:

"Gracious, as betis a hostess."
"Poised for any contingency."
"Interested in people and what we have grown to think of as the 'All-American' girl."

"She needn't have facial beauty, but if she has the components, she is in."

SOME STATISTICS

If the above has not scared you off, here are statistics to fortify you in your quest for a husband. At least 98 per cent of the girls who leave the airways do so for the altar. Fifty per cent marry the boy back home. Another 8 per cent marry into the aircraft industry. For the rest, it's a catch-as-catch-can proposition. If this sounds interesting, contact your favorite airline. You may even receive your training in an atmosphere that is luxurious and romantic.

American Airlines has a stewardess school located at Amon Carter Airport near Fort Worth that cost well over a million dollars. It is a rambling Texas sandstone structure nestled on the side of a hill in a 20-acre setting of oaks. It is the only stewardess school in the world where students live in residence while taking their training. More than 1,000 girls a year pass through its halls.

IT'S SIMPLE

What has this to do with getting the recalcitrant boy friend to pop that all-important question? Simple. When the recruiter contacts or interviews you for this glamorous profession, the boy friend often can't stand the idea of his best girl going off and leaving him alone. So the question is popped.

Nancy Nichols, a very lovely instructor at American's stewardess school, says:

"A number of girls never finish the five-week course simply because the boy friend misses her so much he shows up and takes her into immediate marriage, even though she is receiving training that would cost her at least $1,000 at a modeling school."

"Many of the girls make it through their training, but just barely," laughs Dorothy McDonald, chief hostess at Braniff. "We had one girl who finished her training and five familiarization flights, then took off to Chicago on her first regular working assignment. Her boy friend met her there. They were married. She never came back."

Anger, Like Love, Is a Human Emotion

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Dear Mrs. Lawrence: As younger children, our two older girls were devoted to each other.

The older one would never leave for school without her sister. I took such pride in them.

Now at 12 and 15, they haven't a decent word for each other.

Even at meals they scream at each other, calling each other names. There are constant scenes before guests.

When I think how hard we've tried to be good Christian parents. . . .

ANSWER: Why are you so frightened by human hostility?

Have you always been scared of it? I expect so. It's a bad fear for parents to indulge. For like us children often fall short of the Christian ideal of perfected love.

If they sense that their unkind feelings and jealousies of each other shock and disappoint us, they start putting on acts of devotion to each other that will keep us happy.

But when adolescence begins to weaken their interest in keeping us happy, the acts are given up—the original feelings break through with the violence of such volcanic eruption as is now your problem.

In this situation we can do one of two things. Wringing our hands, we can protest the discovery that our children are not as Christian as we thought they were. Or we can say to ourselves, "If such irreligious feelings are inside, they should come outside. For religion begins with honesty."

This is true, isn't it? All right then, what about you? Do you feel pure Christian love for these two squabbling girls at this point? Aren't you sick and tired of their name-calling? Aren't you often tempted to smack them both for their disruptive scenes? Aren't you, in fact, as angry at these girls as they are at each other?

Why can't you let them know it? Anger, truly felt, is a fine Christian emotion. It's not so fine as love but in the scale of moral values it includes humility — the ability to cry out to another person, "This is how I feel and not what I have been told I ought to feel."

I think your girls are seeking this humility in you. I think they want you to break out of your pious front of false tolerance and join them in the open communication of truthful feeling. I think they're bored with being unjustly patronized.

Becomes Mrs. Watson in Double-Ring Rite

Honeymooning in Northern Michigan following their Saturday evening wedding are newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. R. Warren Watson.

The couple's parents are the Charles E. Watson of South Superior Road, Auburn Hills, and Mrs. Joanne Watson of Palmer Street.

The bride, formerly Claudia Kay Uhan, chose a ballerina-length gown of nylon chiffon featuring a scoop neckline and stirred bodice. A cap of seed pearls and lace held the shoulder-length veil of nylon net. Her bouquet was comprised of white carnations and pink roses. Dolly Stonehouse of Auburn Heights attended as maid of honor in a lavender chiffon dress, also ballerina-length, with a white ecruish corsage.

Attending as best man was Robert Kaufman of Pontiac.

Foresees Red, Green for Walls

CHICAGO (UPI) — A designer of wallcoverings, Jack Denst, foresees a return in the next five years to the plush reds and greens of the Victorian era in home decor. He expects women to take readily to the lavish use of these colors. "Women are becoming increasingly conscious that they look best against a dark, rich background," he said.

Denst makes color predictions by studying the color wheel. "Red and green are immediately adjacent to the colors on the wheel which are presently fashionable, and the public's tastes in color almost always follow the order of color on the wheel," he said.

Denst — with the firm of Denst and Roderlund — said the color wheel also enabled him to predict approximately how long a color trend might last.

A true color star, as opposed to a fast such as the pink and black combination, generally stays in vogue for a period equivalent to the space it occupies on the color wheel," he said. "Red and green — large segments on the wheel — can be expected to remain popular for several years after they come into usage."

Orange, yellow and other colors that zoomed into vogue for only a short time were doomed to a brief life by their small segments on the color wheel, he said.

Denst tries to predict the five-year probabilities in color trends because he needs that long to come up with wallcoverings in the new colors.

"It takes two years to experiment and prepare advance designs and another three years to get into actual production," he said. Denst said he usually met the first demands for new colors from avant garde decorators and homemakers with "custom" colors.

SHEDDING TO BOLD

He predicted that red and green decorating schemes would begin showing up in soft shades of rose and possibly khaki green, which would gradually give way to deeper colors. The true blues and purples now in vogue came into usage this way, he said. They appeared first in aqua, turquoise and lavender.

Auxiliary Meets at Local Home

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Metropolitan Club met at the home of Mrs. Victor Bodamer on Therman Avenue Tuesday evening. Announcement was made that Mrs. Park Nique will attend the national convention at Bay City this month in alternate for Mrs. Davy Gilpin who is unable to attend. The other two delegates from Pontiac are Mrs. Merrill Petrie and Mrs. Harold Wright.

Fretting? Look at Others

Troubles Alter Viewpoint

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
Sometimes thinking about the misfortunes of others changes our whole viewpoint. Perhaps we have been fretting about minor inconveniences or some disappointment or frustration, or have had some real trouble, and then we hear about something which has happened to someone else, and it gets everything in focus again.

With this in mind I am printing a letter from a reader. I am sure it will make you pause for thought, just as it did me.

FEELS DISGUST

"Dear Mrs. Lowman,
I read your column daily and enjoy it very much but sometimes I get really disgusted when some women or girls write to you that they are self-conscious because they are a little plump or do not have the measurements of a movie star.

"I am asking you to please publish this letter and dedicate it to your column. Thank you very much. If any of the girls have trouble I hope they read this letter and see how I conquered mine.

"November of 1959 I was driving myself to work on the night shift as a telephone operator. I take a short cut. My car got stuck on a railway crossing. I could not get it to go. I got out, hoping help would come along, but it didn't. The closest house is about 2 1/2 miles from the crossing. I got back into the car to try once again, all in vain.

"Just then along came a train. I froze inside and—wham! The car was dragged about 60 feet with me in it. The car was a total wreck and so was I. That was all I knew until I woke up in the hospital.

LOVES LIFE

"My left arm was amputated just below the shoulder and my right leg was amputated just below the hip. I had four broken ribs and serious cuts. I was on the operating table for 20 hours and it was four days before I knew what had happened to me. Nobody knows how I pulled through. I guess it was with God's help and a strong will to live.

"I am back at work again as a telephone operator, minus my leg and arm, but with a love of life. The moral of this story is, no matter how bad things look, don't despair. Have faith and things will turn out all right. I remain yours, in high hopes."

This letter makes me feel like a piker. How about you? If you still want to exercise, and feel your hips are too large, send for my leaflet No. 3, "Hip Exercises." Address: Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Fashionettes Visit Library After Business Meeting

Fashionette Club members toured the Pontiac City Library Tuesday evening.

Mrs. W. E. Jackson, head of the circulation department, guided the group through the children's room, local history section and the record collection. The women found a collection of telephone directories from major cities of special interest.

During a business meeting earlier in Adah Shelly branch library, Mrs. Harold Hopper earned the weekly award for the greatest weight loss. Last week

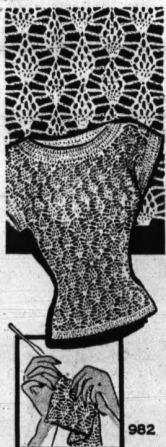

Mrs. Victor Evjen and Mrs. Patrick Mason tied for the trophy.

Mrs. Mason was named winner for the biggest weight loss during the group's elimination contest. The club's queen, Mrs. Harry McCarthy, who has maintained her weight since she was crowned on March 21, will receive a cash award.

At next week's meeting the Oakland County Sheriff's Department will show movies on first aid. Area women interested in the club, sponsored by Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, may attend meetings from 7 to 9 Tuesday evenings in the Shelly library.

According to Today's Teen-agers

Takes More Than Money to Be Popular

By BOB CUNIFF

Gilbert Youth Service

Do you believe all young people are created equal or do you live in a social caste system based on money?

"The rich and the poor keep away from each other," says Michael Wall, 16, Durham, N.C.

But most of you teen-agers about him down. You think most of your classmates are on the same social level, regardless of wealth — and you're on that level with them.

Sue Hastings, 17, Anatin, Minn., speaks for 83 per cent of the 90 young people whose opinions we sampled on this subject.

"I don't think many people look either down on me or up to me."

Asked whether riches give a teen-ager custom tailored popularity, opinion divides. The majority of the boys say yes, the majority of girls, no.

But both girls and boys agree money does not guarantee election to school offices or elite favors from friends.

Joanne Marshall, 18, Lynchburg, Va., believes being well fixed financially is a factor in popularity with adults, but among teen-agers, "Most people like you for what you are, not how much money you've got," in the opinion of Beth Kelley, 14, Salina, Kan.

BOYS, GIRLS DIFFER

Fifty-eight per cent of girls we talked with, like Joanne and Beth, said wealth has no relation to popularity. But 55 per cent of the boys believe fortune is a factor:

Ronald Wolff, 18, Seattle, philosophized:

"A person who has money to burn always has friends to gather the clinkers."

While 68 per cent agree that certain groups stick together at school dances and social functions, there is no agreement that money provides the clue.

Dorothy Kiffner, 17, Cumberland, Md., thinks it does: "In our school there are cliques of wealth," she says.

"You have the nice group of people and also the rough group," says Richard Dawson, 18, Lynchburg, Va.

"Most security and fraternity groups stay together," says Joann Shepard, 17, Macon, Ga.

Other types mentioned as forming cliques: shy boys, wallflower girls, new people, make, basketball players and other athletes.

Similarly, office holders in school activities don't always line up as the most affluent, say 80 per cent of our teen-agers. Half the girls and 39 per cent of the boys say they know some leaders whose backgrounds could be considered unfortunate.

CHOICE ON ABILITY

"We always nominate the persons we feel can do the best job," says Cheryl Stoenburner, 18, Alexandria, Va.

In Brooklyn, Esther Rosen, 15, says, "We don't look at people's bank books."

Not quite half the girls — 49 per cent — would go along with the suggestion that only students with high marks run for offices. Fifty-six per cent of the boys termed it a good idea.

"They work for grades — they'll work in offices," believes Roy Connolly, 18, Los Angeles.

From the opposite coast, in Lowell, Mass., comes the opposing view of 15-year-old Steven Gilboord: "I want a person who thinks of the school, not someone who knows the Einstein Theory backwards."

On the subject of student money in relation to treatment by teachers, 80 per cent said wealth brings no advantages.

"Teachers at our school will give anybody a fair shake," maintains Ronald V. Haase, 16, Fairbault, Minn.

Jennifer Hayward, 17, Washington, D.C., thinks money can be a detriment because the students who have it are sometimes "used."

But 69 per cent say money doesn't cause suffering. The question seems ludicrous to Duane Talley, 16, of Salina, Kan. His opinion: "How can you suffer with money?"

Daughter of Mrs. Ross H. Brown of Draper Avenue and the late Mr. Brown, the bride was given in marriage by her uncle Rolf Wischman of Marquette. The Carl G. Dallmann of Elizabeth Lake Road, Waterford Township are parents of the bridegroom.

With her floor-length gown of white nylon lace over taffeta, featuring a pleated front skirt panel of net, the bride wore fingertip veiling held by a flowered crown.

The bridegroom's gift necklace of pearls and a cascade of white and pink roses, completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Thomas L. Walsh of Drayton Plains attended her sister as matron of honor and Mrs. Bayard Stansback was bridesmaid. They were greeted by a quartet of white and pink roses, completed her ensemble.

Elsie M. Walsh, wearing pink nylon, was flower-girl and her brother Mark carried the rings. Bayard Stansback was best man. Richard Mohr of Union Lake and Fred Hishle of Drayton Plains ushered. After a church reception, the newlyweds left for Northern Michigan. They will reside on Tilden Avenue.

Pink roses accented beige lace over taffeta for Mrs. Brown and white roses complemented powder blue lace over taffeta for the mother of the bridegroom.

RUTH ELLEN BRYIE

Weak-Kneed Belief Handicaps Parents

RUTH MILLETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. If the answer is ever found to why so many of today's adolescents from "good homes" are getting into serious trouble, it will probably be found in the six-year philosophy, "You can make your child different."

It is that weak-kneed belief that lets otherwise intelligent, conscientious parents give their kids more freedom than they know how to handle.

Mothers repeat it to themselves when they let their 14-year-old girls not only start dating, but start dating steady.

Fathers repeat it to themselves when they give their sons all the pocket money they ask for instead of expecting them to work for it.

Both mothers and fathers use it whenever they find themselves going against their better judgment to let sis or junior do something all the other kids are doing — whether it is staying out late at night, going to unchaperoned parties, running with the wrong crowd, going steady, neglecting school work or whatever.

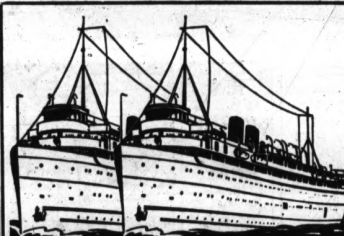

And when parents get together to complain because their children aren't doing well in school, don't do their share of household chores, expect and get too much spending money, they shrug off all personal blame for the situation with the words, "What can you do? You can't make your child different." So each set of parents blames other parents for the fact that their children have gotten the upper hand and are out of parental control. What they should blame, of course, is the ridiculous idea that one child has to be allowed to do whatever his friends are allowed to do to keep him from being different.

Heel for Tigers From Kansas City but Yanks Pick Up Full Game

Bertoia, Staley Arrive to Give Bengals Assist

Virgil Traded to KC After Two-Night Split With Senators

DETROIT (AP)—These are the "dog days" of the baseball season, the days and nights when the men are separated from the boys.

Today, the separation between the New York Yankees, in first place, and the Detroit Tigers, in second, was 2 1/2 games. Manager Bob Schefling, trying to remain optimistic in the face of a washed out bullpen and a hitting slump, believes the Tigers are "still in the pennant race to stay."

The Tigers split with the Washington Senators in a two-night doubleheader last night, winning the first on some luck and a long ball, and losing the second. The scores were 4-3 and 6-2 in 11 innings.

While the Tigers were losing ground to the Yankees, who won a doubleheader from Kansas City, help was on its way.

"It can't arrive too soon," said Schefling, plainly disgusted with his team's performances over the past week. The Tigers have lost five of seven games to seventh and eighth place clubs, the teams Schefling said earlier "you have to beat regularly."

Help, in the form of third baseman Reno Bertoia and relief pitcher Gerry Staley, was coming from the Athletics. For those two, the Tigers gave up utility man Orel Virgil, relief pitcher Bill Fischer and an undisclosed sum of cash.

To make room for the additions the Tigers also sent relief pitcher Hal Woodeshick to their Denver farm club on options. Woodeshick, hearing the news after the game, growled "I won't report to Denver."

Schefling said he would put Bertoia at third base and use Staley in relief "as often as I can."

"We have to have help," said Schefling. "Bertoia will be better than what we have and I think Staley can get the ball over the plate with a little consistency."

This was Schefling's most severe dig at his team this season. He tried Bobo Osborne at third in both games last night, but the over-eager Osborne is not the answer. Despite three singles in eight trips, he is not hitting well enough to justify the expense of his poor glove work.

Chico Fernandez has to go back to shortstop simply because rookie Dick McAuliffe is not the answer to the problem there.

Schefling is downright mad at his bullpen. He didn't need relief help in last night's opener as Don Most went the route, spacing right hits and winning the game when Charlie Maxwell pumped a two-out, three-run pinch homer into the upper right field seats in the sixth inning.

The same youngster who made Maxwell's home run, or his at-bat possible, was Bud Zipsfel, a 22-year-old first baseman the Senators just brought up from Houston of the American Association. Zipsfel dropped a throw that would have complicated a double play and yanked pitcher Marty Kutna out of the inning unscathed.

But Zipsfel turned from got to here, winning the nightcap on his 11th inning home run. It was his first in the majors. The Stats came off Paul Regan, first of four relief pitchers who worked with little success.

In the second game, Schefling was doing more moving about than most of his players. He got a strong starting job from Paul Foytack, who yielded only three hits in eight innings.

The Senators got out of Foytack in the second and another hit the fifth on Gene Green's disputed homer that hit—umpire Bill McKinley said—off a plate in right centerfield. Schefling and the Tigers insist it hit off the screen, and there is a ball marker to prove it.

But the home run stood, and so did the Washington lead until the eighth when a walk, Jake Wood's triple and an error tied the score.

Schefling yanked Hank Aguirre after the southpaw yielded two hits in the sixth. Regan got the Senators out until the 11th when one out, Zipsfel cracked his home run. After Willie Tasby's single, Schefling brought in Fred Gilman.

The robust rookie faced only two batters and yielded a single and a walk. Manuel Montez came on, gave up a single and an infield out that scored another run, and finally got the side out after the Senators had pushed across four runs.

The Tigers sent Jim Bunning to start the second game. Bunning, who won the Eastern two years ago, was 70, required 76

WHAT WAS THAT?—Detroit Tiger Charlie Maxwell, 6th inning pinch hitter in the first game yesterday, steps back from the plate and questions a second strike called on him by umpire Nestor Chylak. Maxwell went to the plate and socked a three-run homer into the upper right field seats to put the Tigers ahead, 4-3, which turned out to be the final score in the opener against the Senators.

New York Takes A's Twice

In New York, the Yankees improved their American League lead over Detroit to two and a half games with a 6-5 and 12-5 doubleheader sweep over Kansas City as Mickey Mantle walloped his 40th home run.

East Open Begins Today

BALTIMORE (AP)—Golf pros teared in the $35,000 Eastern Open found out Wednesday that the Pine Ridge course is growing up and should be a tougher test for their mittie.

Fifty of them toured the 6,820 yard long layout in a preliminary round before starting Thursday on a 72-hole grid, and the general run of scores was nowhere near the low range of the past.

The course, meandering around its city water reservoir, was opened only two years ago and the pros treated the par of 72 mercifully both years.

Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., and Gene Littler of Sausalito, Calif., both won with scores of 273, a total of 15 under par.

Littler, who led for seven of his eight rounds in the two years, started off both times with 65.

The lowest round Wednesday afternoon by a pro was a 69 by Bert Weaver of Daytona Beach, Fla. A pro-amateur best ball competition provided the warm-up test of the course.

The course is playing much longer than last year," analyzed Dave Marr of Sun City, Ariz., after shooting 70. "The grass has grown more."

Last year, Gay Brewer of Crystal River, Fla., and Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La., shared the $500 first prize in the pro-amateur with a low individual score of 68. Brewer took 71 strokes this time and Hebert didn't bother to turn in his card.

Ragan, whose highest score when he won the Eastern two years ago was 70, required 76 man Chuck Schilling helped the Red Sox down Los Angeles twice 7-2 and 8-7 with a rally-starting single and a game-winning home run.

In Cleveland, Chicago outfielder Jim Landis smacked two homers, the second one setting up the White Sox triumph after the Indians had won the opener, 3-2.

Yet, none of these big blows was more welcome or more effective than a little single hit by Dave Philley, in Baltimore. The 41-year-old pinch hitter extraordinary, batting for Marv Breeding, drove in Jim Busby with the run that gave the Orioles a 4-3 second game triumph after Minnesota had won the first game of the two-night twin bill, 4-3.

In the National League, Cincinnati's game-winning blow was his 19th pinch hit of the season, leaving him only one short of the league record set by Ed Coleman of the St. Louis Browns in 1936. Sam Leslie of the 1932 New York Giants, holds the major league pinch hit mark of 22.

The Yankees' perfect day was marred by Whitey Ford's failure to record 20 victories. The little left-hander went into the ninth inning of the opener, leading 5-3, but pinch hitter Haywood Sullivan hit a two-run homer to tie the score. Luis Arroyo, brilliant relief pitcher, had to rescue Ford before the inning was over.

The Yankees won in their half of the ninth when with the bases full and one out, catcher Joe Mauer dropped third baseman Wayne Chuskey's throw of a grounder hit by Bob Cerv. It was the fourth Kansas City error and the Yankees' fifth unearned run.

The Yankees combed four Kansas City pitchers for 17 hits in the nightcap as Ralph Terry coasted to his seventh victory in eight decisions. Mantle got his homer in the first inning to put him in a tie with Maris at 40, leaving them 17 games ahead of the pace set by Babe Ruth when the Babe hit his record 60 in 1927.

Held hitless until the eighth by Baltimore's Chuck Estrada, the Twins erupted for four runs in the ninth of the opener. Base-loaded doubles by Hal Naragon and Bill Tuttle were the big blows. Jim Gentile, who hit his 29th homer for Baltimore in the first game, had three singles and knocked in his 96th run in the finale.

Schilling's eighth-inning single drove in the first of five Red Sox runs that secured the Delock's sixth victory in the opener. The little second baseman cracked Angels' relief pitcher Art Fowler's first pitch in the ninth of the nightcap to break a 7-7 tie.

Jim Grant pitched a six-hitter and outfielder Willie Kirkland hit his 21st home run in Cleveland's opening victory over the White Sox. Landis drove in three runs with a single and his second home run of the night to lead the White Sox to their split.

"There hasn't been any change in the manufacture of the big league baseballs since 1925," says Duke Zilber, national manager of professional baseball sales and major sports promotion for A. G. Spalding & Brothers, makers of the balls.

"In 1926, the cork center was added to the ball and prior to that, in 1921, they started the use of Australian yarn in the winding," said Zilber.

"The ball is not wound tighter," Zilber insists. "It's the same winding, the same yarn, the same cork, same sides and the same hand-ditching that they've used for the last 35 years."

Zilber attributed the outburst of home runs this year to a lighter bat some hitters are using and the fact "the Major-League today is a bigger man, a stronger man and better conditioned."

Reds Regain NL Lead Taking Cousins

By The Associated Press

The Cincinnati Reds, who twice in the modern era came within one of losing all 22 games to an opponent, are in position today to become the first team in baseball history to sweep a full season schedule from a rival club.

The Reds not only made it 11 in a row from Philadelphia by winning both ends of a two-night doubleheader Wednesday, 4-2 and 3-2, but surged back into first place in the National League by one game over Los Angeles. The Dodgers, who had led by a half game, were shut out 6-0 by the one-hit pitching of San Francisco right-hander Juan Marichal.

St. Louis downed Pittsburgh 4-2. Milwaukee defeated Chicago by the same 4-2 score in the first game of their doubleheader. The second game was halted after 11 innings by darkness with the score tied at 7-7.

Jim O'Toole (11-8) and Joey Jay (13-6) were the Reds' winning pitchers against the Phillies. Gordy Coleman's two-run homer, his 26th broke up the first game.

Frank Robinson's two-run single was the key hit in the second.

No club has ever won all 22 games from a rival. The 1909 Cubs had a 21-1 record against Boston and the 1858 Pirates and 1945 Cubs had 21-1 marks against the Reds.

Tommy Davis' fifth inning sin-

Peaches Bartkowicz, the youngest entry in the National Girls' Tennis tourney, put up an outstanding showing before bowing out Wednesday at Cincinnati. Sharon Pritula of Detroit was a winner.

The Los Angeles Rams put two rookie linebackers yesterday. Baltimore coach Weeb Ewbank says his first sizeable slicing Friday.

The U.S. Golf Association's Junior Amateur tournament was rained out for the first time in its 14-year history at Cornell University yesterday. Volney Bayle, Jr. of Wall Lake is among the contestants.

Fred Martin has joined the coaching colony of the Chicago Cubs replacing Bobby Adams. The latter will take over Martin's post as boss of the White Sox. Wash. team on the Northwest League.

Betern Rochester High football and basketball coach Gene Konek will drop the cage position this season to become the school's athletic director. He replaces Jay Eldred who will be assistant principal. Gene will continue as football coach. No basketball replacement has been named.

Baseballs Same Today as Those Ruth Belted

BALTIMORE (AP)—A representative of the company that manufactures baseballs for both Major Leagues says the balls being used today are the same as the ones Babe Ruth hit for 60 homers in 1927.

"There hasn't been any change in the manufacture of the big league baseballs since 1925," says Duke Zilber, national manager of professional baseball sales and major sports promotion for A. G. Spalding & Brothers, makers of the balls.

Lions' Scrimmage May Set Record

The largest football crowd in the history of the Detroit Lions is expected to be on hand Saturday night when the Detroit Lions stage their full dress scrimmage.

The Pontiac Jaycees and Community National Bank, co-sponsors of the scrimmage game, expect a crowd of close to 5,000.

Werner Stadium, opened in 1945 with a game between Pontiac Central and Royal Oak, which drew close to 5,000, has had crowds well over 10,000, but not for football.

Pontiac Central's top crowd in the stadium was 7,899 for a Flat Central game in the early 1950s.

A few years ago, St. Michael's, St. Fred rivalry drew close to 7,000, and last year the Jaycees' All-Star cowboy football game had 7,800.

Advance sale of tickets, all selling for $1.00 have reached 3,000, but a large gate sale is anticipated Saturday night.

Meanwhile at Cranbrook, the Lions' list of holdouts was cut to nine as Yale Lary signed his contract.

Among the unsigned were the team's 1-2 quarterbacks, Earl Morrill and Jim Nowinski.

Despite being holdouts, both will be ready to play in Saturday night's scrimmage. The starting call for the offensive unit may go to Morrill who sparked the Lions in the late stages of last season.

Actually, the scoring sessions of the three-day workouts have been devoted to some heavy base tackling, probably as hard as will be seen Saturday night.

LeBaron and Tubbs Will Captain Dallas

NORTHFIELD, Minn. (AP)—Quarterback Eddie LeBaron and middle linebacker Jerry Tubbs Wednesday were named co-captains of the Dallas Cowboys for the 1961 National Football League season.

LeBaron, an eight-year veteran with the Washington Redskins before joining the Cowboys last season, will captain the offensive unit. Tubbs, a four-year NFL veteran from Oklahoma, will take charge of the defensive forces.

In the Werner scrimmage however, the two units will be completely dressed in game uniforms, the offense in white and defense in blue.

Another difference in a scrimmage at Cranbrook the one at Werner is that the players will have the opportunity to earn themselves some extra spending money with nearly $500 in prizes to be awarded for pre-game contests in running, kicking and passing and for outstanding play in the scrimmage.

Coach George Wilson will pick a list of players who will compete in each event.

"We want to make it interesting. There's no use putting some guys in some of the events when I might be able to beat," he noted.

There will be sprints for linemen and backs, kicking competition and passing competition. It won't be the quarterbacks who will do the passing however. It will be some of the linemen who feel they have talented throwing arms.

The competition will start at 7:30 p.m. with game time starting at 8:00 p.m.

There will be no kickoffs or punts and only the offensive team will move the ball with the defensive unit scoring by way of a system devised by Wilson.

PITCHING FOR MORE DOUGH — Among the nine players still unsigned with the Detroit Lions are the team's two field generals, Jim Nowinski (15) and Earl Morrill (14). Both are holdouts for more money, but they will be ready to play in Saturday night's scrimmage at Werner Stadium. The game will feature the offensive unit against the defensive unit.

All-Star Gridders Set to Meet Eagles Friday

CHICAGO (AP) — The College of the series, which is sponsored by the Chicago Tribune, will try to beat the Philadelphia Eagles with wide open football Friday night at Soldier Field in the 28th annual midsummer game.

Three passers—Norm Speed of Wake Forest, Bill Kilmer of UCLA and Tom Maje of Ohio State—are expected to operate mainly out of double-wing spreads and the short-punt formations.

The air show will attract about 65,000 customers to the big lake front stadium and will be televised nationally by ABC starting at 9 p.m. EST.

The collegians, coached for the fourth straight year by Otto Graham, have slid from original 13-point underdogs to 8½. This is the fewest points allotted opposing National Football League champions as favorites in the history of the series, which is sponsored by the Chicago Tribune.

The All Stars, never installed as a choice by oddsmakers, have won eight of the 27 games played and battled the pros to two ties.

Graham hopes Navy's Joe Belino can be cut loose the same way this time.

The collegians drilled under the lights in Soldier Field Wednesday night and today will have only a refresher session. Their running attack lost some glitter when Graham decided not to take a chance using Tommy Mason of Tulane, who suffered a pinched neck nerve in the All Stars impressive come-from-behind 16-14 tie last week with the Chicago Bears in a full-gate scrimmage.

Bob Gallers, a crashing runner from New Mexico State who had been counted on to share a half-back assignment with Mason, also is out. So is Jim Johnson of UCLA. Gallers has a pulled leg muscle and Johnson, brother of Rater Johnson, has a bad sprain and a bone chip in his left wrist.

Also not sure is fullback Art Baker of Syracuse. HE has an assortment of bumps and bruises.

The Eagles are to arrive in Chicago today from their Hershey, Pa., camp and take workouts tonight in Soldier field. They are reported in excellent physical condition. Their new head coach Nick Skorich, who succeeded retired Buck Shaw, still has not decided between quarterback Sonny Jurgensen or King Hill as the starter.

Quarterback Norm Van Brocklin, who led the Eagles to the NFL crown last year, has retired along with Shaw.

"The Eagles will miss Van Brocklin especially his leadership," Graham told his squad. "But Hill and Jurgensen can throw."

"I think the loss of Van Brocklin will fire them up all the more for this game. They will be wanting to prove they can win without him."

Care of Plastic Boat Windshield Very Important

New or old, your boat's plastic windshield should move by wiper with a dry cloth. The Mercury outboard motor suggests that you always wash it thoroughly with water and follow with a gentle wash with a soft cloth and mild soap.

Whenever possible, cover it with some sort of protective cloth to keep bugs and highway dust from its surface when you're trailering your boat. Such a cover will also prolong the life of the windshield by keeping out the sun's ultra-violet rays, which can discolor, harden or "crack" the plastic.

But no matter how carefully you've been cleaning the windshield, the time is probably coming when it will have lost its sparkling clarity and will be developing a haze which is impossible to remove.

Give Boat 5-Minute Check Each Time

The secret of success in keeping your outboard rig shipshape with a minimum of extra work is to keep ahead of the work by performing your upstart checks a little at a time, perhaps five or ten minutes before and after every use.

While waiting for guests to arrive, clean the windshield and forward deck, check all fittings for tightness and unlatching any lines which may have become tangled last time out.

At the end of a cruise, give the boat a quick once-over. Wipe up any spilled oil or gasoline immediately. A clean transom is the mark of a careful boatman. If you wipe it down after every run, there'll be less chance of stains working into the finish.

U.S. Challenge to Miss Supertest III Saturday

Sleek Canadian Craft Aims for Third Straight

Miss Detroit to Seek Return of Harmsworth Cup to U.S.

PICTON, Ont.—Canada's sleek and seemingly invincible powerboat champion, Miss Supertest III, defends her two-year hold on the Harmsworth Trophy starting Saturday against a single challenger from the United States.

Miss Detroit gets the practically untested task of trying to recapture the old symbol of international powerboating supremacy. The U.S. held the trophy for 39 years until Supertest III broke American dominance at Detroit in 1959.

The mahogany and orange Canadian craft, owned by Jim Thompson of London, Ont., then made a successful defense in recent years last year, out of home waters at nearby Bay of Quinte. The three-hull challenger U.S. fleet was no match for her.

Bob Hayward, a curly-haired ex-chicken farmer from Embro, Ont., piloted Supertest in both her Harmsworth victories. He'll again be at the throttle Saturday in the first 45-mile race of the best-of-three event on the bay of Quinte. The second will be raced Aug. 7 and the third, if necessary, the following day.

Chuck Thompson is owner and driver of Miss Detroit. Lone American boat willing to enter this 59-year-old competition.

The other American boat owners decided they'd prefer to race next weekend in the Seattle Mayfair regatta, which offers prize money.

But the yachtmen's association of America, which governs powerboating in the U.S., feels Miss Detroit is a strong, representative challenger.

Miss Detroit's last victory came in the 1960 President's Regatta at Washington. Thompson had her ahead in this year's Detroit Metropolitan Regatta when she blew a supercharger. But the casualty has been repaired and Miss Detroit has been running smoothly.

Miss Supertest, meanwhile, has become the pride of Canada. She was shown off at the Canadian National exhibition after winning last year's Harmsworth and hasn't raced since. Her hull is reserved for the Harmsworth.

But her big, 2,000-horsepower Rolls Royce Griffon engine has been kept in tune by running in her sister craft, Miss Supertest II. The mighty engine sped Miss Supertest III around the Harmsworth course in record time last year. She averaged 115.967 m.p.h. for the two races. The speed bettered her own mark of 99.976 set the year before at Detroit.

Supertest also claimed the five-mile lap record and was clocked at speeds of 170 m.p.h. on Bay of Quinte's 2 1/2-mile straight-aways.

This year the owners have been shortened to three miles around. This may be an equalizer for Miss Detroit. The shorter straightaways will cost Miss Supertest some of her advantage in accelerating to overrunning speeds.

Miss Detroit's Allison engine doesn't carry the horsepower strength of Miss Supertest's Rolls Royce.

Last year the U.S.' three-hull team was bothered by mechanical troubles. Supertest won in two races and they weren't even close.

Scuba Divers Flock to See Sunken 130-Foot Schooner

An old schooner, built in 1878, now sitting at the bottom of Lake Huron in 80 feet of water, has drawn the attention of skin and scuba divers from around Michigan.

A part of 13 divers from Pontiac made the trip to Port Sanilac last Sunday morning and spent the day looking over the 3-masted schooner in its grave.

In the summer of 1881 the boat was becalmed in the lake.

The captain, his wife and daughter and two crewmen were sailing toward Lake Michigan when a squall struck. The three members of the crew on deck saw the squall coming but they thought it would get them going again.

The squall hit with terrific force. It brought the main mast down through the cabin where the five were eating. The three on deck drifted out and were later picked up.

That was the end of the schooner.

Just last spring fishermen hooked their nets on something and after using a wrench, they brought up a piece of wood strip. They found it was part of the ship and settled state police.

Police diving crews went down and found the schooner sitting right side up.

Captain Bill Brown, owner of a 65-foot boat "Miss Port Sanilac" and relative of the owner of the sunken schooner is one of the few who know the location of it.

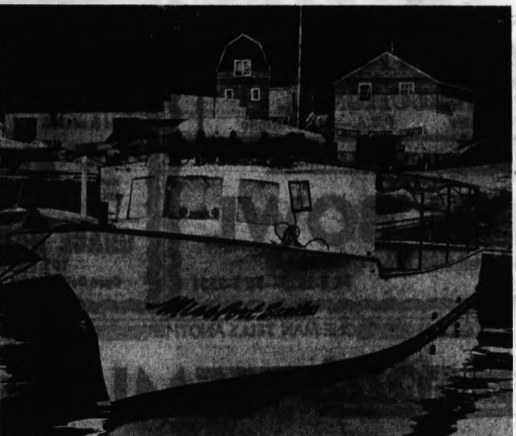

Divers from many parts of the state have used Captain Brown's boat to go out 11 miles and dive to see the schooner.

All of the Pontiac divers went down, using two tanks and the buddy system. Some brought up souvenirs.

Among the divers, Tom Geris reported that his thermometer registered 48 degrees at a depth of 80 feet in Lake Huron. He made a comparison of a dive at 80 feet in Lake Michigan when his thermometer registered 48 degrees a week earlier.

Among the others who made the trip were Tom Lukin, Barry Tuttle, Jack Mackay, Lee Laxey, Ted Hout, Ed Van Horn, Dick Frost, John Pierce, Ed Valardo, Howard Batten and Glen Uhl.

The group plans another excursion to the Port Sanilac August 26th.

FOR DIVER'S EXPEDITION — This 45-foot steel hull boat was used by 13 Pontiac skin divers who ventured to Port Sanilac last Sunday to see a 130-foot 3-masted schooner which was sunk in Lake Huron in 1881. The schooner is in 80 feet of water. The group of local divers will make the trip again Sunday, August 27th hoping to take some underwater pictures.

HEAP FAST WATER — Chippewa Indian Chiefs Crossing Clouds (left) and Little Elk (right) among Michigan's Rifle River is mighty big medicine after testing the 85-mile course of this year's annual July Midwest International Canoe Race. The hand-peeling sprint starts at the headwaters of the Rifle near Rose City in eastern Michigan and runs through forest land to Omer on Lake Huron. The chiefs are members of the Algonquin Nation, whose time-honored rules govern the race.

Local Tankers Take Ribbons

Swimmers enrolled in the Pontiac Recreation Department classes at Pontiac Northern this summer took numerous ribbon honors in the 4th annual Lower Huron Metropolitan Park meet yesterday.

In the age 11-12 novice bracket, Mary McBride took first in the 25 yard breaststroke, Irene Kent was first in the 25 yard backstroke and second in the 25 yard freestyle for 11-12 year olds.

Bill Erickson was 2nd in the 40 yard freestyle for boys 13-16 and Jay Wilder was 4th in the 200 yard freestyle and 5th in the 100 yard freestyle of the same age bracket.

Hugh Wilder took first in the 50 yard freestyle and 3rd in the 40 yard butterfly for 13-14 year old boys, while Pam Curran was 2nd in the 40 yard breaststroke and Lorraine King was 2nd in the 80 yard freestyle for 13-14 year olds.

Brunswick-Mercury Merge

FOND DU LAC, Wis.—Mercury, one of one of the nation's biggest outboard motor manufacturers with the huge Brunswick Corp.

Waukegan, Ill.—Net earnings of Outboard Marine Corporation for the third quarter ended June 30, 1961, were $4,876,378 equivalent to $1.61 per share, compared with $7,317,225, or $3 per share for the same quarter of 1960.

For the first nine months of this fiscal year, sales and earnings totaled $108,007,053 and $4,763,560 respectively, compared with $134,292,906 and $10,535,400 for the same period last year.

State Boat Drivers Win Top Positions

CELINA, Ohio—Michigan drivers took the largest share of top places last weekend in the fourth annual governor's cup regatta for hydroplanes on Grand Lake St. Marys here.

In six races, 10 Michigan drivers finished among the top four places. The Governor's cup, which goes to a boat owner, was awarded to Elmer Bailey of Dayton, whose 225-cubic-inch hydroplane, "The Trailblazer," came in first.

The names of winning boats in all six races were put into a hat and one was picked for the Governor's cup award.

Joseph E. Allen of Dearborn, Mich., was the only double winner. He drove Bailey's Trailblazer to victory, and also placed first in the 48-cubic-inch class.

Sailors from Pontiac and Watkins Lake Yacht Clubs took part in big regattas last weekend and made impressive showings.

Among the 47 boats in the Michigan District Lightning championships sailed on Saginaw Bay, PYO Fleet No. 54 had the largest number of entries and Mack Goodwin scored 176 points for second place. He finished 2nd, 1st, 2nd and 10th in his series.

Winner was former International champion Herman Nichols of Fox Island, Michigan, 182 points with a series of 1st, 4th, 4th and 1st places.

The 5th race in the scheduled series was canceled because of a heavy squall, whereas Saturday there was hardly any wind.

The event was sponsored by the Saginaw and Bay City Yacht Clubs.

Space for 52nd National Show Being Allotted
NEW YORK — Allotment of space for the 52nd National Motor Boat Show, Jan. 13-21, at the Show Committee started August 1. Joseph E. Choate, show manager announced.

Space applications have been coming in to the show's sponsor, National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, for several weeks. Choate, whose annual duty is to squeeze as many exhibitors into the New York Coliseum as possible, predicted a space sell-out.

Five floors of the giant exhibition building, which year after year has proved to be too small to contain the nautical equipment, will overflow with boats, marine motors and equipment of all kinds.

AFL Boss on Airdale
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—American Football League commissioner Joe Foss doesn't mind admitting that he combines Air National Guard training flights with some of his league business trips.

"The only time I have for such flights," he told a Kiwanis Club luncheon, "is on such trips, and it's a better training than going up and flying circles around the same pea patch all day."

Foss, decorated Marine Corps fighter pilot in World War II and former governor of South Dakota, was here Wednesday on a pre-season tour of league training camps.

Elliott Picks Committee to Find His Successor

There was one change made and promises of another in the leadership of the Republican Committee of Oakland County at a meeting held in Birmingham last night.

County Chairman Arthur G. Elliott Jr. named a committee of the four Oakland State Central Committee members to help find his successor.

Chairman since 1957, Elliott, 44, of Pleasant Ridge, told 65 members of the executive committee that he hoped the "exploratory committee" would find a replacement "by the end of this month or at the very latest the first part of September."

He said he was quitting because of the press of business and family.

In other action, Wilbur G. Durice, 36-year-old staff assistant, was confirmed as successor to former executive director John A. Gibbs, who resigned recently to become executive assistant to State Chairman George M. Van Patten.

Gibbs received a standing ovation from his fellow Republicans who honored him with a special resolution and appointment as an associate member of the executive committee from Royal Oak.

Elliott, who'll devote much time after he resigns in campaigning for a constitutional convention was from the 5th legislative district, urged the many members of the governing body of the county organization to look in their respective areas for likely candidates and report back to the four-member committee.

Members appointed are Gordon T. Getsinger, Bloomfield Township, James F. Fresh, chairman from Royal Oak, Mrs. John C. Finegan and Mrs. Robert B. Lowry, both from Birmingham.

The executive committee makes the final appointment. Republicans also allocated $3,000 to be used by Elliott and the other six Oakland State Central Committee members in the forthcoming campaign, which the chairman predicted would be "extremely vigorous."

State Racing Post to Hayes

LANSING (AP) — Edgar Hayes, 33, former Sports Editor of the Detroit Times, was appointed state racing commissioner today by Gov. Swainson.

The $9,000-a-year position was vacated when James H. Inglis resigned last month to become chairman of the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Dan Gilmarin, Swainson's press secretary during last fall's election campaign, had been filling the post as acting commissioner.

Hayes' appointment is for an indefinite term and does not require Senate confirmation.

Hayes was sports editor of the Times when the newspaper folded last November.

Swainson said Hayes' appointment continues the "integrity and devotion to the public interest that has distinguished the office of racing commissioner."

Recovering 16 Bodies From Swiss Lake

Americans Die as Bus Plunges Into Ice Waters

Sight - Seeing Journey of Lake Lucerne Ends Tragically; 22 Survive

HEROISWIL, Switzerland (AP)—Divers groping through the chill depths of Lake Lucerne today located the tourist bus that plunged off a rain-slick road and carried 16 American vacationers to death.

Among the dead was an Oak Park woman, Miss Lilian Lee Merlaub, 47, who lived with her sister Mrs. Clara Shiner at 24030 Blackstone St.

Miss Merlaub, a buyer for a Detroit women's store, left on her European trip in June and had planned to return home Aug. 15.

Miss Fannie Clasper, 34, formerly of Flint, Mich., and now a Gilroy, Calif., school teacher, survived and was hospitalized in Nans, Switzerland.

One of the 22 survivors described the accident as "the noise, the jolt and a crash—all too quick."

Fifteen bodies were in the bus when it was located at a depth of about 165 feet by special electromagnetic equipment.

WELL OFFSHORE

It lay more than 60 feet offshore, having slid off a ledge after its first plunge.

The bus, carrying 35 American passengers and a staff of three Europeans, collided with the truck trailer Wednesday and crashed.

In the few minutes before the vehicle slid to the bottom, 19 passengers and the three crew members clambered out through the windows.

All but two of the survivors were kept overnight in hospitals. Doctors said nearly all would be released in a few days.

"The bus was filled with water in a matter of seconds," said Stanley M. Smith, 54, of Kansas City, Mo. "We hardly even knew what happened."

In the next hospital bed, Charles Kreppe, 63, a research analyst from Los Angeles, described the horror-filled moment when the bus plunged into the lake.

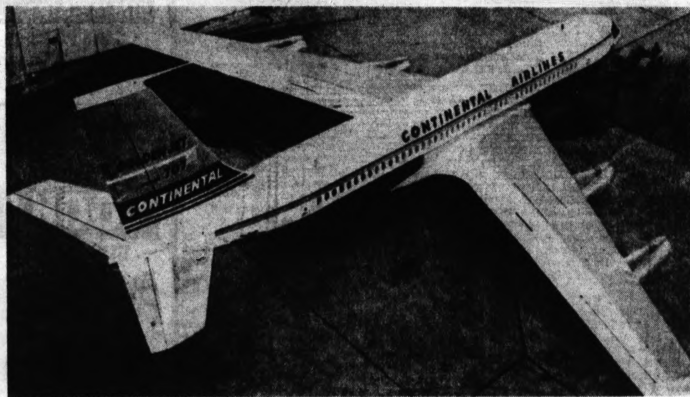

STILL TURNING
"The bus turned over on its side before we hit the water and it seemed to me it was still turning when I put my feet out and gave myself a shove to the surface," he said.

Kreppe and Smith fought their way through a window in the forward part of the bus. They said the rear door wouldn't open. Most of those who died apparently were seated toward the rear.

"The first thing I felt was the noise, the jolt and a crash when the bus struck the truck," said Kreppe. "It seemed that our bus

Gunmen Hold Ten Hostages Aboard Hijacked Jet Airliner

Type of Jetliner Hijacked by Gunmen

Take-Off Stymied

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Gunmen seized a Continental Air Lines jet today, forced it to land at El Paso to refuel, and were prevented by gunfire from taking off.

For five hours the $5-million Boeing 707 was on the ground at International Airport, surrounded by trucks, baggage trailers, ambulances and armed officers to prevent its departure.

There were 67 persons aboard on the flight which originated in Los Angeles and was en route to Houston, Tex., via Phoenix, Ariz.

All but six crewmen and four passengers were released. None of them was injured when officers shot out 10 tires as the plane attempted to taxi and take off.

Adelia Wyson of San Antonio, Tex., a passenger, said that after the airliner left Phoenix, Ariz., the gunmen announced they were taking the plane and flying to Havana, but would land at El Paso for fuel.

She said a pregnant woman sitting behind her became hysterical and that apparently led to the decision to release all the passengers except four who remained as hostages.

Names of the four hostages were not immediately known.

There were conflicting reports as to the number of gunmen involved.

Continental Air Lines said four men boarded the plane at Los Angeles bus passenger, C. J. Gerker, Phoenix, said two of them got on the jet when it stopped in that Arizona City. He said he sat next to one of them.

There was almost immediate speculation, based on Gerker's description of his seat mate, that some of the four might be American adventurers.

Gerker said his fellow passenger was young, blond and spoke with an accent.

In Austin, the headquarters of the Texas Department of Public Safety said it had a message from Highway Patrol Sgt. Robert Grimsitt that he had established there are only two hijackers in the plane and that they are not Cubans.

Robert Six, Continental president, flew in from Denver and went into closed-door conferences with Francis Croley, special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at El Paso.

DCB OFFERED
The FBI said a DCB had been offered the hijackers and would be flown into El Paso from Houston. Passengers said the quarter had demanded another plane in exchange for the jet.

The ground crew stalled for time and efforts were made to negotiate with the gunmen.

The ground crews took four hours to refuel the plane. They took up more time with a check of the hydraulic system and other mechanical parts.

About 30 officers—border patrolmen, FBI and Secret Service agents, state police and sheriff's officers—had rushed to the airport and stood by.

Passengers said the gunmen demanded that they be given a DCB as ransom for the jet if they could not get the jet refueled.

GIVEN CLEARANCE
The tower at one point gave the plane clearance to take off. As it rolled forward, officers opened fire at the tires and the huge jet slowed to a stop. It was immediately ringed again by vehicles.

People swarmed around the plane, apparently unconcerned about the possibility of gunfire.

County 4-H Fair Will Open on Tuesday

The climax of a year's work for some 1,500 boys and girls through out the county will be reached next week at the annual Oakland County 4-H Fair which opens Tuesday.

Already more than 2,500 entries have been received in the various project areas which range from food preservation to the raising of dairy cattle.

The annual event which is held at the 4-H fairgrounds on Perry Street, just south of Walling Boulevard, will have special programs and contests through Aug. 12.

The big projects this year will be horses, which have better than 200 entries, foods with 250, sheep with 70 and dairy animals and rabbits, both of which have about 60 entries.

There also are 25 beef animals entered in fair competition.

LEADERS SPONSOR
The Oakland County 4-H leaders, headed by Keith Middleton of Oak Township, sponsor the show in cooperation with the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

One leader, Leon Storm of Orion Township, is directing the major fairgrounds improvement project being undertaken this weekend. It is the building of extensions onto the horse barn at the north end of the fairgrounds.

Dole-type structures, measuring 15 feet in width, will be added on each side of the 100-foot-long barn.

Storm is heading the group of volunteers and paid laborers who are doing the work.

The lighting system also has been expanded, especially outside where more illumination is needed for the evening programs. A number of the exhibits have been consolidated under one roof to facilitate handling and judging of entries.

Traditional highlights of the fair are the King and Queen and freestyle contests to be held on opening night, the parade through Pontiac at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday and 4-H talent show all four nights.

An added attraction this year will be an automobile operators' skill contest, which will be similar to Road-Ex that is popular now in many major cities throughout the country. It is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon.

The fair opens for entries at 10 a.m. Tuesday and other days at 9 a.m. Judging will take place each day and evening.

A man whose stepson shot and killed a 3-year-old playmate accidentally while playing with his 38-caliber revolver Tuesday has pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of an unregistered gun.

Sentencing of Knox Williams, 46, 289 Osburn St., was set yesterday by Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan for Aug. 9. Williams is free on $100 personal bond.

His stepson, Lewis Freeman, 13, told Pontiac police he was playing with the revolver when it discharged.

The bullet fatally wounded Mark LaRose, son of Mr. and Mrs. William LaRose.

Detroit police said the revolver was reported stolen six years ago. Williams said he bought the gun in mid-July and didn't know it had been stolen.

The collapse at the Douglas MacArthur High School construction site, resulted in the death of one worker. Six others were injured.

The Main Police and a State Department of Labor inspector investigated the collapse but Swanson accepted the engineers' offer for a professional probe because he had no state agency jurisdiction or professional personnel in the field of construction safety.

Swanson said the report submitted by Deputy Industrial Inspector Arthur E. Rowe of the Labor Department, "raised serious doubts about construction methods at the school site."

The committee headed by Hart, recently retired district manager of the Raymond Concrete Pipe Co. of Detroit, would conduct hearings in Saginaw on all aspects of the design and construction of the school building.

Brief Kennedy on Plane Snatch

FAA Chief, FBI Keep President Up to Date on El Paso Incident

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy was kept fully advised today of the hijacking of a Continental Air Lines jetliner by a team of armed men at El Paso, Tex.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Najeed Halaby, administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency and the FBI kept the Chief Executive up to date on the incident.

The State Department refused to learn the full facts of the hijacking before deciding what action to take.

Officials said the hijacking, depending on circumstances, could involve a long list of crimes—piracy, kidnapping, theft and assault.

CAN'T BE ALLOWED
Meanwhile, Rep. Richard L. Roush, R-Ill., said that "under no circumstances" should the hijackers be allowed to get away with any U.S. plane, the 707 jetliner or a DC-7.

"I don't believe in ransom," he declared. "They should be prevented from leaving. We should use whatever force we can to get that aircraft back."

Roush said that if the United States permitted the men to leave El Paso with a plane, "then they will just start stealing others."

Congress, which has been deeply stirred over previous hijacking, is studying bills to make this a federal crime.

The Senate Aviation subcommittee will open hearings Friday on a bill to punish airplane hijacking and other acts of violence in the sky.

Red Says East-West Negotiations on Berlin 'Opportune, Possible'

BRUSSELS (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today handed notes on the Berlin situation to envoys of Britain, France, West Germany and the United States.

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev today agreed with Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani that East-West negotiations to settle the explosive Berlin crisis are "opportune and possible."

An Italian announcement on two days of talks by the two heads of government over a Kremlin conference table said Fanfani, in urging negotiations, made it clear he spoke for all the Western Allies.

"It would be dangerous to believe that the solution of present difficulties can come from unilateral action," Fanfani was quoted as saying.

Fanfani said Western moves following Khrushchev's announcement that he would sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany must not be mistaken for aggressive intentions.

NOT WEAKENED
"Finally, the will to negotiate must not be mistaken for weakness," he added.

Compromise Farm Bill Ready for Final Congressional Action

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A compromise farm bill designed to cut farm surpluses and raise farm income was ready today for final congressional action.

A Senate-House conference committee turned out the catch-all bill last night. It includes only part of what President Kennedy requested.

It must be approved by both the House and the Senate. Quick action was expected.

Administration officials claim the bill would cut into the nation's huge grain surplus, saving taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars in storage costs and boosting farm income.

They said the program is based on the theory that it is cheaper to pay farmers not to grow grain than to let them grow surplus grain under the support program.

CUT PLANTING
Under the bill, farmers would be forced to cut next year's wheat planting allotment by 10 per cent. They would get payments based on 45 per cent of the normal yield of the idled land. If farmers voluntarily cut an additional 30 per cent, they would get payments based on 60 per cent of the normal yield.

Drum wheat allotments, however, could be increased in order to avert a shortage of that type.

The bill does not specify in 1962 grain support rates, but Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman has indicated that rate will be boosted from the present $1.78 a bushel to $2.

Other provisions:
—Continuation in 1962 of the program under which corn and grain sorghum growers voluntarily cut production in return for government payments, plus eligibility for price supports. In 1962, growers of barley—except malted barley—also would be subject to the program.

—Authorization to producers of turkeys, turkey hatching eggs, peewees and a number of other products to adopt federal marketing orders under which grade and volume regulations can be imposed.

—Extension for three years of the Food for Peace program under which farm surpluses are exported for foreign currency. Sales would be limited to $1.5 billion over the three year period with a ceiling of $2 billion in any one year.

—Extension of the wool price support program for four years.

—Extension of the Great Plains conservation program for 10 years.

—Liberalization of farm credit terms for low-income farmers.

—A statement of congressional policy not to allow exports of subsidized farm products to Communist countries.

—Extension of federal school milk subsidy authority for five years.

—Authorization for banning imports of foreign foods, except for dates used for processing which do not meet quality standards imposed on similar U.S. products under federal marketing orders.

Dealers will be coming from Illinois, Indiana and cities through out Michigan to the show to be held in the American Legion Building on M21.

Hours will be from noon to 10 p.m. daily with the kitchen to be open throughout the event.

A coin and jewelry dealer from Grand Rapids will have among his merchandise about 50 pieces of medallion art, Japanese swords and a display of precious and semi-precious stones.

Thousands of items are expected to be on display, said the sponsors.

Charged With Beating 2 Walled Lake Teens With Tire Iron

WALLED LAKE—Three Detroit youths accused of beating two Walled Lake boys with a tire iron were being held today in the Oakland County Jail today on charges of felonious assault.

Police said Wallace White, 16, of 1910 Austin St., and Richard Griffin, 17, of 215 Sawwood St., were arrested about 11 p.m. Tuesday behind the Lakeside Parkhouse, 2561 Ladd Road.

Being held are Charles Donohoo, Edward Polcyn and John Cocco, all 18 years old. A John Doe warrant is out for the arrest of a fourth youth who allegedly took part in the attack.

Polcyn and Cocco pleaded not guilty and Donohoo stood mute yesterday in their arrangements before Justice of the Peace Gene Schmelz.

Bond was set at $2,500 apiece for the three youths, all of whom are on probation for breaking and entering and assault. They will appear for examination at 3:30 p.m. Aug. 10 in Walled Lake Justice Court.

White and Griffin reportedly were visiting a girl friend here Tuesday night when the Detroit youths showed up at her home.

The two Walled Lake boys reportedly were forced into a car, driven to a spot behind the parking house and beaten by the youths Tuesday night.

Police and White assigned to the home of Clement Phillips at 424 S. Pontiac Trail following the attack. Phillips called Walled Lake Police who picked up White at the home and found Griffin lying behind the parking house.

White and Griffin were released after treatment at the MacKenzie Memorial Clinic.

Kickoff Slated Oct. 12

Set Orion UF Goal at $6,000 in '61

ORION TOWNSHIP—A goal of $6,000 has been set as Orion Township's contribution toward Pontiac Area United Fund drive this year. It was announced today.

Plans for the 1961 United Fund drive in Orion Township were outlined at a recent meeting of local campaign leaders by Karl W. Bradley, executive director of the fund.

Attending the session were Joseph Taylor, president of the Orion Community Chest; Walter Skapp, Community Chest treasurer; and Mrs. Alford Dacey, Community Chest secretary and women's division chairman of the local United Fund project.

Others at the meeting, held at the Lake Orion branch of the Community National Bank, were Mrs. Margaret C. Libby, women's division director for Pontiac Area headquarters, and local volunteers, including Mrs. Willard Stephens.

The township will be divided into four sections by the women's division. An area chairman will direct the work in each section.

Neighborhood captains and volunteer workers will be recruited to assist the area chairmen between now and the time the drive starts.

Agencies aided through Orion Township's participation in the United Fund drive this year include Orion Community Projects, Orion Youth Center, Ginghamville Youth Center and Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Others are the American Red Cross, Clinton Valley Council of Boy Scouts, Northern Oakland County Girl Scout Council, Big Brothers, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Clinch, Salvation Army and the Michigan United Fund.

Anyone wishing to assist in the year's United Fund Drive in the township may contact Mrs. Dacey, 463 Park Island Road.

Transfer of Psychotics From Jackson Will Stop

LANSING (UPI)—Whole cases that needed immediate hospitalization.

Transfer of 25 inmates to Ionia was approved several months ago and approval for the shift of another 25 came a few weeks ago.

Corrections Director Gus Harrison said Bannan reported the situation at Southern Michigan Prison fairly quiet now.

Bannan told lawmakers the situation was "explosive" and the danger of a flareup was greater than just prior to the prison riot of 1952 when he appeared before appropriating committees this spring. He said, however, guards were in a better position to control the prison population in the event of trouble.

Original plans formulated by the mental health department called for transfer of non-dangerous patients from several of the state's mental hospitals to the new facility at Howell. Other patients were then to be sent from Ionia to fill space in the other mental hospitals.

He said "one step in the process" of opening up beds at Ionia was transfer of patients to Howell, and although this had to be curtailed due to money shortages, some transfers were made and this was part of the reason the 50 prisoners could be taken at Ionia.

Other steps also were taken, including transfers between hospitals, to make more room, he said.

Complicating Wagon's problems is the steady rate of commitments to Ionia from courts around the state.

Some 50 prisoners were being held, almost all in county jails, awaiting transfer to Ionia and the number is growing more or less steadily, officials said.

The Mental Health Department asked for $85 million for operating in the 1961-62 fiscal year, Gov. John B. Swainson recommended $77.4 million and the legislature approved $76 million.

Blood Charges to Be Dropped by Hospital

ALMONT—The Community Hospital near here has decided to drop all charges for blood, except in certain instances, Hospital Director James W. Cray announced today.

The decision resulted from a re-evaluation of the hospital's blood program with the American Red Cross, Cray said.

Instances when a charge will be made will be when the patient would rather pay for blood than have it donated or when the patient makes no effort to have Red Cross blood replaced.

The reason for the charge would be to replenish the hospital's blood bank from professional blood banks and to keep its account with the Red Cross in balance.

According to Cray, purchases made from outside blood banks inasmuch as the Red Cross never accepts money as a replacement for blood.

4,000 at McLouth Vote, Go to Work
DETROIT (UP)—Some 4,000 McLouth Steel Corp. workers went back to work today after voting Wednesday night to discontinue a 13-day walkout in a protest over safety standards.

George Pappas, treasurer of Local 2659, United Steelworkers, said a hand vote to return was taken at the polls. The hand represents workers at plants in Detroit, Gibraltar and Trenton.

McLouth has filed a $1.7-million suit against the union in U.S. District Court here, charging breach of contract in the walkout.

The company claimed its contract with the union prohibits "strikes, slowdowns or work stoppages for any cause whatsoever."

The union contended that its members were on a "voluntary and preventive safety protest" against working conditions in the Michigan plants.

He advised Michigan farmers to aim at higher grain yields. Those who could not get more than 70 bushels of corn per acre should quit raising it as a main crop.

The Iowa farmer also urged state farmers to get into feeder cattle raising.

A growing population and limited production in the Southwest United States will expand opportunities against working conditions in the Michigan plants.

Flint Mother of 3 Beaten to Death; Husband Is Held
FLINT (UP)—A mother of three was beaten to death at her Flint home last night and her husband was held for investigation.

Mrs. Emilie Virginia Cook, 37, was slain. Genevieve Cook, 35, was injured. Her husband, Harold A. Cook, 38, so insurance broker, admitted the fatal beating.

Bel quoted Cook as saying he had disciplined a son, Henry, 18, and told him to do the dishes. Bel said Mrs. Cook replied she would do the dishes and Cook went the children upstairs and began beating his wife.

Cook telephoned his brother, a local physician, asked for emergency instructions and tried to revive his wife, according to the sheriff. The brother called police when he arrived at the home. Mrs. Cook was pronounced dead on the scene.

Bel said Cook gave a formal statement admitting the beating to Chief Asst. Prosecutor Edward Joseph.

Salesman Cleared in Election Case
MOUNT CLEMENS (UP)—The charge against real estate salesman Willard Meyer that he distributed bigoted pamphlets in a city election was dismissed yesterday.

Circuit Judge Howard Carroll threw out the charge on a finding that there was no evidence that Meyer had violated state election laws.

The charge had been brought against Meyer, 60, a Detroit, in connection with the mayoralty election campaign earlier this year in the city of Warren. Police said the pamphlets appeared to be anti-Catholic.

SACs Always Ready at Wurtsmith Base

WURTSMITH AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—Outside, the last summer sun beat down on the miles of concrete runways and aprons. Inside, in the air-conditioned briefing room, a group of 17 news men and photographers listened with rapt attention as Col. John H. Kunkel Jr., commanding officer of the 37th Strategic Air Command Wing at this Northeastern Michigan base, outlined the function of SAC in case of actual warfare.

"It would be absolutely impossible for one of our aircraft (to be speaking of giant bomb bases) to start a war through an accidentally triggering of a nuclear missile.

"The only way that this missile can be fired is by receiving the proper 'go' signal and no one man can be responsible for that," Col. Kunkel said.

He also said he knew from his own experience that a nuclear weapon will not explode unless properly detonated.

"We had one born on one of my bases when a plane caught fire in landing. Naturally, we evacuated the area, but the fact that I am here to tell about it proves my point," Kunkel said.

At the Occident Room, named for the late Brig. Gen. Paul B. Wurtsmith, there are 16 of the latest, largest and bestest bombers in the world ready and waiting to protect the United States and retaliate against any possible enemy attack.

These aircraft, painted white as protection against radiation, with wingspreads of 167 feet and weighing 500,000 pounds when fully loaded, carry both the Quail decoy and the Groundbolt missile, with a 500-mile range.

Within a year the 1,000-mile nuclear warhead Skybolt will be added to the armament.

In addition the B52H carries a tailgun capable of firing 4,000 rounds a minute—plus a nuclear missile. Size, weight and capacity are classified.

SEX CREWS SET

Out by the "barry base," the name the airmen have given the quarters where the six crews on 24-hour call for five days at a time live, eat, sleep and play, three of the giant superfortresses and three of the almost as large KC 135 jet tankers stand ready to take off for any destination the SAC headquarters may designate.

From the safety angle, Kunkel told the group that every B52H, 6,000 dependents; and another $15 million would go back to the factory for addition to civilian personnel.

Two other SAC bases in Michigan, Kincadeo near Sault Ste. Marie, and K. I. Sawyer, at Marquette, are scheduled to receive the B52H jets in the near future and take up their part in the over-4,000 military personnel and their all air defense.

When a Kansas winds, no matter the time of day or night, there is a submarine and in less than five minutes the planes are airborne and climbing at nearly the speed of sound.

When the planes take off, their crews do not know where they are headed or when they may return.

Fleets of flying tankers will meet them and refuel them if necessary, giving them almost unlimited range.

Calls Recruits in Germany

BERLIN (UPI)—East German Communist youth leader Wolfgang Stenke today opened an army recruiting campaign to prepare for trouble over Berlin.

He called on "every healthy young man" to enlist in the "people's army" in case the West tries to force its way across East Germany's borders after a peace treaty is signed with the Soviet union.

He said "war crises" from the West made it necessary that the army remain at full strength and that personnel gaps be filled.

At the same time, the official Communist party newspaper "Neues Deutschland" told U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara his belief that the East German army would not fight was false.

The newspaper said editorially that joint summer maneuvers of the East German army with the Soviet army proved that the East bloc could frustrate military plans of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Study Remedy to Berlin Crisis via U.N. Action

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Kennedy administration is studying ways of dealing with the Berlin crisis through the United Nations.

One thought—not yet far enough along to be called a proposal—is for a U.N. resolution this fall calling on both the Soviets and the West to declare a cooling off period and discuss the issues.

This type of "stand still and talk" resolution usually is easily passed through the U.N. and is generally regarded as a mild action. But in this case U.S. officials believe it would help the West. The Western powers basically want to maintain the status quo in Berlin until they are in a position to bargain for gains.

The Communist youth leader's virtual demand that youths enlist for two or three years was expected to increase still more the record flood of refugees to West Berlin.

About 1,000 arrived in West Berlin today, although reinforced Communist police snatched routes to Berlin halted pedestrians and searched trains, buses and automobiles in unprecedented controls.

The police hauled hundreds of suspected refugees off Berlin-bound trains.

They also barred from traveling to West Berlin hundreds of so-called "border crossers"—eastern residents who work in West Berlin.

Will Arraign Pair in Chicago Killing

MUSKEGON (AP)—Two Chicago men were bound over to circuit court Wednesday in the July 3 slaying of retired watchmaker Michael F. Markski, 67.

Arthur C. Hartman, 28, and Gaylor L. Stanton, 35, will be arraigned Monday on a charge of first-degree murder. Trial will be set then.

The men are accused of slaying Markski during an attempted robbery. Wednesday's action ended three days of testimony—scattered over nearly a month—in the preliminary hearing.

Fretting? Look at Others

Troubles Alter Viewpoint

Dissatisfied with what you see in your mirror? Maybe you don't know when you're well off.

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
Sometimes thinking about the misfortunes of others changes our whole viewpoint. Perhaps we have been fretting about minor inconveniences or some disappointment or frustration, or have had some real trouble, and then we hear about something which has happened to someone else, and it gets everything in focus again.

With this in mind I am printing a letter from a reader. I am sure it will make you pause for thought, just as it did me.

FEELS DISGUST

"Dear Mrs. Lowman,
"I read your column daily and enjoy it very much but sometimes I get really disgusted when some woman or girls write to you that they are self-conscious because they are a little plump or do not have the measurements of a movie star.

"I am asking you to please publish this letter and dedicate it to your column. Thank you very much. If any of the girls have trouble I hope they read this letter and see how I conquered mine.

"November of 1959 I was driving myself to work on the night shift as a telephone operator. I missed a short cut. My car got stuck on a railway crossing. I could not get it to go. I got out, hoping help would come along, but it didn't. The closest house is about 2 1/2 miles from the crossing. I got back into the car to try once again, all in vain.

"Just then along came a train. I froze inside and—bammo! The car was dragged about 60 feet with me in it. The car was a total wreck and so was I. That was all I knew until I woke up in the hospital.

LOVES LIFE

"My left arm was amputated just below the shoulder and my right leg was amputated just below the hip. I had four broken ribs and serious cuts. I was on the operating table for 20 hours and it was four days before I knew what had happened to me. Nobody knows how I survived. I guess it was with God's help and a strong will to live.

"I am back at work again as a telephone operator, minus my leg and arm, but with a love of life. The moral of this story is, no matter how bad things look, don't despair. Have faith and things will turn out all right. I remain yours, in high hopes.

This letter makes me feel like a piker. How about you? If you still want to exercise, and feel your hips are too large, send for my leaflet No. 3, "Hip Exercises." Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Which twin is which? Mrs. Stanley Budzink of West Waukegan, Ill., had no trouble identifying her twin daughters for the first six months of their lives as long as she kept an ankle bracelet on Joe (at right). When she removed it the other day to add some links, she got confused and had to call on the hospital and police for footprint identification.

Fashionettes Visit Library After Business Meeting

Fashionette Club members visited the Pontiac City Library Tuesday evening.

Mrs. W. E. Jackson, head of the circulation department, guided the group through the children's room, local history section and the record collection. The women found a collection of telephone directories from major cities of special interest.

Mrs. Jackson told the group that there are 70,000 volumes at present in the library with space for many more.

During a business meeting earlier in Adah Shelly branch library, Mrs. Harold Hopper earned the weekly award for the greatest weight loss. Last week

Mrs. Victor Ejes and Mrs. Patrick Mason tied for the biggest weight loss during the group's elimination contest. The club's queen, Mrs. Harry McCarthy, who has maintained her weight since she was crowned on March 21, will receive a cash award.

At next week's meeting the Oakland County Sheriff's Department will show movies on first aid. Area women interested in the club, sponsored by Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department, may attend meetings from 7 to 9 Tuesday evenings in the Shelly library.

'NEA' — If you make frequent use of a hair spray and find that it makes your hair oily, there's just one solution. Shampoo your hair often. Most of us can't do without a hair spray of some sort, particularly if we haven't a permanent. A spray is essential to hair styles set on rollers. But at the first sign of oiliness, get out that shampoo bottle.

Grain Prices Dip in Early Trading

CHICAGO (AP)—Prices turned weak for all grain futures today in early transactions on the board of trade, with most major contracts down fractions to a cent a bushel.

Soybean led the setbacks. The selling was described as largely outright liquidation, but in wheat it appeared to include an increased volume of hedging.

Brokers said clearing brought over the Midwest generally brought almost ideal weather for crop development. Particularly corn and soybeans.

24th Police Pistol Shoot Will Be Held on Sept. 7

JACKSON (AP)—The 24th annual Michigan Police Pistol Shoot, the largest all-police event of its kind in the country, will be held Sept. 7 at the 60-target range at Jackson.

Competition will be in five classes. The shoot drew 697 entries and 140 teams representing 72 departments last year.

Charge Dismissed in Death of Girl, 6

Municipal Judge Cecil McCullum yesterday dismissed a negligent homicide charge against a Waterford Township driver whose car struck and killed a 6-year-old Pontiac girl earlier this month.

McCullum was charged in the death of Pamela Gordon, 167 Lincoln Ave., on Elizabeth Lake Road July 25.

Police said the girl stepped into traffic on her way to watch a baseball game on the Pontiac State Hospital grounds.

Following testimony at a pretrial hearing, McCullum said he could find no evidence of criminal negligence by Knack.

Authorities had charged that Knack was distracted by the same ball game and was not paying enough attention to the road.

Guilty Grocer Receives $75 Fine for Short Weights

The operator of an Auburn Heights roadside market pleaded guilty to charges of unsanitary conditions and short-weighting potatoes when arraigned yesterday before Robert W. Hope, Pontiac Township justice of the peace.

Tony Ciruolo, 32, of Detroit, was the complaining agent.

The market is the Lincoln Fruit House, 3915 Auburn Road.

He was signed by James McCollum, judge inpector of the State Department of Agriculture.

Trends Mixed in Stock Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—Mixed trends prevailed in early stock market trading today.

Key issues moved up or down fractions about a point. Isolated islands of strength popped up here and there, giving the list a somewhat firmer tone.

The trading pace quieted noticeably after an active opening. Any contraction of volume while the market was resting on its laurels after its recent exuberant general rally was regarded as a bullish sign.

American Telephone again was prominent, this time on the upside with an advance from 44 to 45 1/2.

The most widely held issue declined 4 1/2 Wednesday on a Justice Department threat to its foreign operations. International Telephone was about unchanged.

Carnegie again was among the firmest groups as Eastman Kodak climbed over a point and De Post nearly as much.

These issues, plus other basic, heavy metals, motors and the like, are expected to benefit most from economic warfare defense spending.

MOTORS FIRM

Motors were firm, too, with Chrysler up almost a point and Ford and GM higher. Steels were quiet. Anaconda rose, Kennecott declined and Phelps Dodge was up changed among coppers.

Rails showed little immediate reaction to reports of possible favorable loan legislation in Congress next spring. Illinois, Erie and New York Central were up.

These issues, plus other basic, heavy metals, motors and the like, are expected to benefit most from economic warfare defense spending.

In June the comparable figures were 821 citations for moving violations, 828 tickets for meter violations, and 165 for other parking violations.

Man Pleads Guilty to Simple Arson

James A. Hurlburt, accused of setting fire to a chair in his home so as to collect insurance, appeared yesterday before Circuit Judge William J. Beer and pleaded guilty to a reduced count of simple arson.

He had stood mute to an earlier charge of arson with intent to defraud an insurance firm.

Hurlburt, 40, of 794 Corwin Court, paid $100 court costs and received a 30-day suspended sentence for pouring lighter fluid over the chair on June 30 and setting fire to it.

Discovered in Shadow of Mackinac Bridge

Salvage Parts of Mystery Sailing Ship

ST. IGNACE (AP)—Parts of a sailing vessel that might be more than 150 years old were salvaged last month by two Detroit skin divers in the shadow of the towering Mackinac Bridge.

The identity of the craft and the fate of the crew are a mystery that might be solved by further probing.

Location of the wreck, in shallow water between the north anchorage of the bridge and uninhabited Green Island, has been known for nearly 30 years by 68-year-old Donald Denmore.

"I didn't want a bunch of amateurs poking around something that could turn out to be very valuable historically," Denmore said in explaining why he kept his discovery a secret.

Using lines with hooks on them, Denmore has salvaged the centerboard construction, planks, iron fittings, a handmade frying pan and other smaller objects.

Operator of a marina near the site of the bridge since 1916, Denmore discovered the sunken vessel in 10 feet of water while guiding a party to a nearby fishing grounds.

Denmore believes the wreck-age might be the remains of a ship that sank while bringing supplies and troops to British garrisons in the area during the War of 1812.

"The type of construction, the hand-wrought nails and rigging indicate that it's a very old ship," he said. "There's a report that one British ship disappeared in the Straits during a storm about that time."

The first to inspect the wreckage under water were skin divers Alan L. Deneau, a Detroit News photographer, and Leon Schoyan of St. Clair Shores.

They reported the vessel, half buried in sand and silt, appeared to be about 70 feet long and 35 feet wide, with several of its ribs sticking up through the sand. Only the stern was visible. They searched unsuccessfully for the bow section.

Deneau and Schoyan found a small corroded jewel or money box encased with small sea shells. The rotted box contained only sand.
