Apartment of Teamster's Friend Set Afire

Court Grants Stay of Integration Order at Little Rock School

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today granted a stay today to its decision which would return seven Negro pupils to Central High School at Little Rock.

Chief Justice Archibald K. Gardner announced from his home at Huron, S.D., that the seven-judge court had agreed to grant the stay.

Gardner, who wrote the only dissent in the 6-1 decision that overturned U.S. Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley's 2½-year breather order, said the stay was granted so the Little Rock School Board could appeal to the Supreme Court.

The clerk of the circuit Court, Robert Tucker, said a motion filed by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People and the attorney for the Negro pupils would be denied.

This motion asked that the court issue its mandate on its decision reversing Judge Lemley immediately.

The NAACP had said that Judge Lemley's order would still be in effect when school starts Sept. 2 at Little Rock if the mandate wasn't issued immediately.

Judge Gardner said that the seven judges of the Circuit Court had previously agreed to the delay which was asked this morning in an application filed by the board.

Judge Gardner said that the order granting the stay would probably be filed tomorrow morning in St. Louis.

The Little Rock School Board was expected to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court within the next few days to uphold the postponement order handed down by U.S. District Judge Harry J. Lemley.

Lemley had called for a delay of integration at the request of the school board, which said it believed a "cooling-off" period was needed to avoid violence such as that attending the end of segregation at Central last fall when U.S. troops were sent in.

But the St. Louis court nullified Lemley's order this week and President Eisenhower supported this action yesterday.

Officials Seek Motive After Mystery Blaze

Question Harrelson and Waitress in Effort to Uncover Clues

By HAROLD COHEN

Key figures in the blaze late Wednesday afternoon in the apartment of a friend of Teamster official Leaun Harrelson were quizzed today by Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem and Pontiac detectives.

No motive for the fire setting has been discovered as yet but Ziem said there was no doubt the fire was deliberately set with some kind of inflammable fluid.

The blaze was discovered at 4:30 p.m. by another tenant on the second floor of the apartment building at 60 Douglas St. It was the apartment of Mrs. Mary Ann Wilson, a waitress at Town and Country Restaurant, Bloomfield Township.

The neighbor, W. R. James, told Ziem that he asw a man, who appeared intoxicated, leave the building through the rear door at the time the fire was first noticed.

Found in the badly burned apartment was a suitcase of clothing belonging to Harrelson. He said today that he was a friend of Mrs. Wilson's and had a date with her yesterday to go to the races.

An attempt to check the blaze against the Frank Kierdorf human torch burning at a dry cleaners in Flint is being made.

Ziem said he has asked the Flint Fire Marshall to come to Pontiac today to see if there was any similarity in the two fires.

Ziem said he asked Harrelson if the apartment might have been used as a hideout for Herman Kierdorf who eluded police for 13 days during the Frank Kierdorf investigation, but Harrelson denied any connection with Herman's disappearance.

Harrelson's suitcase and bits of a charred rug were turned INTRUDER LEFT DISORDER — This is how the interior of Mrs. Mary Ann Wilson's apartment at 60 Douglas looked today after someone set it afire yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Wilson was working during the afternoon and went to the apartment at 6 p. m. in company of Teamster local president Leaun Harrelson. Both were questioned by Prosecutor Fred C. Ziem today in an effort to find a motive for the arson attempt.

Expect Quick End of U.N. Session

Arabs OK Mideast Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Arab countries, including pro-Western Lebanon and Jordan, today gave their final approval to a Middle East peace formula expected to bring a quick end to the emergency session of the U.N General Assembly.

The plan, agreed on tentatively yesterday in a rare demonstration of Arab harmony, appeared headed for unanimous adoption in the 81-nation Assembly.

The heads of the 10 Arab delegations agreed at a private meeting this morning to submit the four-point resolution endorsed by their governments in overnight consultations.

The general debate in the Assembly was suspended after a short morning session to give time for distribution of the resolution.

The Arab plan was formulated by the delegates of the United Arab Republic, Lebanon, Jordan, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Yemen, Sudan, Libya, Tunisia and Morocco. It contained these points:

1. Reaffirmation of Arab League pledges against noninterference in the affairs of other Arab states.

REQUEST TO DAG

2. A request to Hammarskjold to make "such practical arrangements as would adequately help in upholding the purposes and principles of the U.N. charter in relation to Lebanon and Jordan" to permit early withdrawal of U.S. and British troops.

3. An economic development plan along the lines proposed by Eisenhower Aug. 13 and by Hammarskjold Aug. 8.

4. A request for the secretary general to report back by Sept. 30 to the Assembly's regular session.

The plan also called in effect for an end to inflammatory broadcasts from one Arab nation at another.

Western informants predicted that the U.S. and British forces may be withdrawn by Sept. 30.

Boat Tips Over, Girl, 18, Drowns

Attempts by Companion to Revive Detroiter at Orchard Lake Fail

Despite a companion's attempts at rescue, a Detroit girl drowned last night in Orchard Lake after a sailboat tipped over in the rain.

The victim was Barbara Telfer, 18, of 17135 Plainview Ave., who police said was sailing with David G. Sarles, of 18021 San Juan Ave., Detroit, employed as a life guard at Orchard Lake Country Club.

Sarles told police the boat tipped over about 9 p.m. north of Apple Island, pitching himself and the girl into the water. He said that he was able to right the boat, but that it began to move away from the scene when the wind filled the sail, so he dove in to search for the girl.

Locating her, Sarles said, he swam with the girl under one arm to the island, where he hailed a passing boat and applied artificial respiration.

Occupants of the passing boat contacted police, who summoned an inhalator crew from the West Bloomfield Township Fire Department. Efforts to revive the victim failed.

Ike May Give Temporary-Ban Order Today

East - West Scientists Agree on Policing at Geneva Meeting

(From Our Wire Services)

WASHINGTON — The United States is ready to announce a temporary suspension of nuclear weapons tests and a White House statement is expected soon —perhaps today—informed sources reported.

The American decision coincided with an agreement at Geneva between Eastern and Western atomic scientists on methods of policing any formal international ban on further nuclear tests.

The scientists, whose work represents the first significant break in the East-West disarmament deadlock, said they had reached the conclusion that:

"It is technically feasible to set up, with certain capabilities and limitations, a workable and effective control system of the detection of violations of a possible agreement on the worldwide cessation of nuclear tests."

Their final communique said a network of control posts "disposed on continents and on islands, as well as on ships in oceans," would be appropriate for this purpose.

"The experts came to the conclusion that the control system should be under the direction of an international control organ which would ensure the coordination of acitivities of the control system and the functioning of the system in such a way that it would satisfy the necessary technical requirements," the communique said.

The conference's published findings did not recommend any definite number of control stations, nor a maximum effective distance between the stations.

This is considered one of the technical points with major political implications because of the likelihood that an all-inclusive network would require control stations in Communist China.

The Peiping government did not participate in the conference, which was attended by scientists from the United States, Britain, France, Canada, the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Romania.

METHODS LISTED

The announcement listed the following methods to be used by the control stations: "collecting samples of radioactive debris, recording seismic, acoustic and hydroacoustic waves, and the radio signal method, together with the use of on-site inspection of unidentified events which might be suspected of being nuclear explosions."

A temporary ban presumably would be labeled as a preliminary step toward securing a firm international agreement to ban nuclear testing, backed by difficult-to-evade inspection.

Russia announced suspension of its nuclear testing following a series of red tests last winter and challenged this country and Britain to follow suit. The Soviet Union made it clear it would resume test-

'It's Lie! I'm Not Kidding,' Baker Roars

Harriman Would Find Him Wife?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert (Barney) Baker denied today testimony that he left his former wife with a brag that Gov. Averell Harriman of New York would find him another, and he then would be safe from the law.

"An absolute lie! I'm not kidding," the ponderous Baker, a top lieutenant to Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa, roared.

The allegation had come from Mollie Baker, his former wife, in testimony earlier this week to the Senate Rackets Committee.

Baker denounced her as "a very vicious person."

Baker's present wife, his third, is Carol Ann More Baker, daughter of Jake More, former Iowa Democratic national committeeman. They were married last April.

Baker and Mollie Baker were divorced in 1955.

Just before Baker was asked about Mollie Baker's testimony, he had denied any knowledge of or hand in a variety of crimes, including killings, beatings, and traffic in stolen jewels.

CHARGES FORGERY

He denounced as a forgery the autograph on a photograph of Harriman which Mollie Baker said her former husband left behind and which, she said, was signed "To my dearest friend, Barney."

"I might have wrote it myself," Baker protested when quizzed about it by Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-NY), whom Harriman had defeated in the 1956 gubernatorial election campaign.

"I'm a ham—I drop names," Baker said, his voice rising.

But he later said he had never seen such a signature on the photo, and that his former wife might have doctored the autograph.

Baker also denied as untrue Mrs. Baker's testimony that he and Harriman were so friendly they called each other by their first names—at Harriman's suggestion—and that Baker had been a frequent visitor at Harriman's home.

Mollie Baker said her marriage to Baker broke up over his attentions to a Miami blonde who had been convicted of slaying another boy friend.

Baker swore to the senators that he didn't use Teamsters Union money to support the blonde in luxury in 1955. He said he couldn't remember exactly where he did get the money.

Baker, a $125-a-week Teamsters Union organizer at the time, said the funds he put out for blonde Mrs. Ruth Brougher were "nothing like" the $20,000 to $25,000 she has testified he lavished on her. He set the figure yesterday at $7,000 or $8,000.

Baker said he went to Miami to help organize the taxi drivers there and met Mrs. Brougher, then appealing her manslaughter conviction.

"I got to like the woman and I went for the money. I supported her."

When Baker challenged her estimate of the money he spent, Sen. Ives asked Baker whether he doubted her word.

"Certainly," Baker boomed. "Women do funny things to people."

Mrs. Brougher, sitting in the rear of the hearing room with her matron-attendant, beamed broadly.

Baker first denied ever threat-

DENIES HE GOT ANY RANSOM MONEY — Gesturing with his hands, Teamster Robert (Barney) Baker bellows from witness stand before the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington. At one point he denied he got any part of the stolen $300,000 Greenlease kidnap ransom, or that he knows who did.

Fair, Pleasant Here on Friday

Storm Fells 100 Trees in West Michigan Area

Skies are expected to clear by tonight with the low a cool 60 degrees. This morning's 10-20 miles an hour winds will diminish tonight.

The Weatherman promises tomorrow will be fair and pleasant with a high near 75 and a low tomorrow night of 55, fair and cool. The outlook for Saturday is mostly fair with a warming trend.

According to Wayne B. Siefert, Oakland County agricultural extension agent, this morning's gentle rain was a boon to home gardens and a blessing to later crops such as sweet corn, peaches and apples.

The temperature dipped from 69 degrees at midnight to a low of 63 at 8 a.m. The mercury rose to 72 at 2 p.m.

A fierce electrical storm, one of several which buffeted parts of West Michigan late yesterday, virtually isolated Paw Paw from telephone communications and slashed of its electric power.

Telephone circuits to the city still were reported out of order today.

Paw Paw, a village of about 3,000 persons, is Van Buren County seat.

State Police said a five-minute blow last night toppled at least 100 large trees in the city and in areas within a mile on each side of the village.

Comparatively little property damage was reported.

However, Cpl. Glenn DaFoe reported high winds knocked a 14-by-14-foot porch from his home.

Lakeview Hospital, operating on emergency power, reported two babies born shortly after the storm struck at 7:29 p.m.

Rains which broke records set in 1956 fell yesterday in Kent County.

Kent City, in Kent County, got six and a half inches of rain during the day, Sparta reported more than five and a half inches. Within one hour's time Grand Rapids received 1.43 inches.

Telephone service in the Lowell area was out for a time because lines were down.

A sharp electrical storm also hit Western Wayne County. Lightning started two small fires. Numerous basements were flooded in Detroit suburbs.

Oakland Sends Largest Delegation

Dems Expect to Rename 4 Incumbents to Ballot

By GEORGE TRUMBULL JR.

Oakland County's delegation to the Democratic state convention in Grand Rapids this weekend will go along with the renomination of four incumbent state officers, Carlos Richardson, county committee chairman, said today.

The four state officers up for renomination at the Aug. 22-23 convention are James M. Hare, secretary of state, Sanford A. Brown, state treasurer, Frank S. Szymanski, auditor general, and Paul L. Adams, attorney general.

All roads will be leading to Grand Rapids tomorrow for Democrats throughout the state as they meet to draft their 1958 platform.

Oakland County will have the largest delegation from among the 18 congressional districts in the state. The local delegation will consist of 161 persons holding 114 votes.

How these votes will be cast — by unit rule or by individual delegate vote — will not be decided until a caucus of the Oakland delegation is held at 10 p.m. Friday.

This matter came up at the county convention in Pontiac a week ago and was tabled until the caucus.

Keynoting a "Victory Target 1958" dinner tomorrow night will be Paul M. Butler, national Democratic chairman.

The first order of business in the two-day convention will be a 2 p.m. meeting tomorrow of the platform committee at which the party will come up with a proposed campaign platform to be presented to the full state delegation Saturday.

David E. Utley will be Oakland's delegate, to the platform drafting meeting.

Richardson said he knew of no planks his delegation would push for to include in the state platform.

If Moon Men Fired Back at Earth

He Would Die Laughing

TOKYO (UPI) — A letter to the editor of the Asahi Evening News which was published today:

IF the Americans should ever succeed in launching their "moon rocket" from Cape Carnival, or whatever they call the place; and

IF the rocket should hit the moon instead of going around it as scheduled; and

IF about twenty rockets carrying super-duper nuclear warheads were fired right back at earth;

I'd die laughing.

APARTMENT SET AFIRE — Mrs. Mary Ann Wilson enters a car after talking with Prosecutor Fred Ziem this morning regarding the fire which was started in her apartment during her absence yesterday afternoon. She said she knows of no one who would have reason to start the blaze.

Arson Motive Sought

over to the Detroit Fire Marshal for analysis to see if the type of fluid used to start the fire can be determined. A report is expected Tuesday.

Ziem quoted Mrs. Wilson as saying she had no idea who could have started the fire. She said her real name is Mrs. Mary Ann Thon but she used the name of Wilson to keep her whereabouts a secret from her ex-husband, Eugene, believed to be in New York.

Mrs. Wilson told Ziem the door to her apartment, first believed jimmied by the arsonist, was forced on Monday and could not be locked. She said nothing was missing, so she did not report the incident to the police.

She also admitted there was a burglary on June 10 in which cuff links and a St. Christopher medal belonging to Harrelson were stolen.

Harrelson said he picked up Mrs. Wilson at 6 p.m. after she finished work and drove to her apartment so she could change clothes before going on to the races. He said they arrived at her place at about 6:45 p.m. and learned for the first time of the fire.

Harrelson said he could not think of anyone who would want to commit the arson.

He added he did not have any papers or anything stored there which might have tempted an arsonist. He also said he knew of no connection with the Frank Kierdorf affair.

Harrelson said he had no troubles with any dissident faction in Local 614 which he heads that might account for the arson, Ziem said.

Ziem quoted the Local president as saying, "If they were after me why didn't they burn my house on Delaware."

Harrelson, who is divorced, has most of his belongings at 26 Delaware where his former wife lives.

Loss in the fire was estimated by the Pontiac Fire Dept. at $300 to contents and $500 to the building.

Baker Bellows Wife's Charges 'Absolute Lie'

ening to kill her lawyer, George Everett for failing to win Mrs. Broughter's freedom. When Kennedy said the committee knew a threat had been made, Baker amended his denial.

"I don't recall ever saying anything like that," he said.

Kennedy asked whether he once told Everett he would put him in concrete blocks or "I'll break your neck or I'll kill you."

Mr. Kennedy, I don't use those kinds of words," Baker said in shocked tones. "I might have said 'I'll punch you in the nose.'"

Mrs. Brougher complained yesterday that Everett took her money and sold her down the river by withholding favorable evidence. The committee said the lawyer has been imprisoned for mishandling money belonging to clients.

Pressed by the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee to tell the source of the thousands, the 300-pound Baker pleaded: "I can't remember, I don't want to perjure myself."

Mrs. Brougheh, 44, is serving a 15-year sentence for the July, 1954, Miami parking lot slaying of Murray Dubois, a boy friend. She said he was pistol-whipping her and was shot in a struggle over the weapon.

Baker said he could pin down the source of only $4,000 of the money he had spent on Mrs. Brougher in less than a year while she waited out her appeal in plush surroundings.

He said he had borrowed that much from Mert Wertheimer. He identified Wertheimer as a "boss" at the Colonial Inn in Hollywood, Fla., a night club operated by Frank Costello, Joe Adonis, and other mobsters.

As for the rest of the money, Baker said, "I borrowed money from a few people." When asked the identity of the loaners, he replied: "I can't recollect."

He vaguely remembered, he added, borrowing some money from a St. Louis bank. When pressed for details, he replied: "To the best of my knowledge, I don't know."

Ike May Halt Tests for Limited Period

ing if other nations did not join in the ban.

Authoritative sources in London said Britain will go ahead with its forthcoming nuclear test series in the Pacific regardless of any U.S. action. But there was general belief in London the new series would be Britain's last, now that an Anagreement has been reached.

Other related developments:

United Nations—U.N. Sec. Gen. Dag Hammarskjold greeted the "solid accomplishment" of international nuclear experts at Geneva as a big step toward world disarmment.

HIROSHIMA, Japan — Japan, led by the atom-bombed cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, welcomed reports of a U. S. nuclear test suspension. Dr. Fumio Shigeto, director of the Hiroshima Red Cross Hospital, recalled the recent United Nations warning that "contamination of the elements has already reached the danger point to mankind."

Moscow—Moscow radio broadcast a letter from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to the Geneva scientists stating "There can be no arguments at all to justify a refusal to end tests immediately."

London—Britain's opposition labor party protested Britain's planned nuclear tests on the ground that they would jeopardize current prospects for controled international suspension of nuclear tests.

HAGGERTY NONCOMMITTAL

Asked about the temporary ban last night, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty referred to President Eisenhower's news conference statement yesterday on the Geneva agreement and added:

"The experts have not yet rendered their report. No conclusion on that report has been or could have been taken."

The President told newsmen yesterday the Geneva agreement "gives ground to hope you can go another step, and every step that you go means you can go another one."

The President said yesterday the Geneva agreement might be signed today. That might make it a logical time to announce a U.S. test suspension. There were other indications the U.S. move might be announced later in the week.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flew to Washington from the United Nations session in New York yesterday to confer with President Eisenhower. Dulles indicated he discussed the Geneva meeting at his 90-minute session with the President but refused to say whether the United States was ready to suspend tests.

Report Living Costs Drop During July

NEW YORK (UPI) — The cost of living declined in July for the first time in more than two years, the National Industrial Conference Board reported today.

The decline — a slight one-tenth of one per cent — marks the first break in the inflationary spiral that began in 1956 after almost three years of price stability.

Declines in food, housing and apparel costs offset increases in transportation and sundries, sending the board's over-all index down 0.1 per cent from June to 107.4 per cent of the 1953 base period. The index was 2.5 per cent above July 1957.

The conference board's index of consumer prices had risen 26 consecutive months before the July break. With the economy showing signs of recovery from the depths of the shortest but deepest postwar recession, some economists have warned that inflationary forces may pick up steam.

Skiing Done on Sand

BERLIN—When no snow is available in eastern Bavaria, skiing enthusiasts use kaolin sand, the refuse of a porcelain factory, instead. In another makeshift, snow is stored in caves in Iberg Mountain during the winter for next summer's skiing pleasure.

The Day in Birmingham

Superintendent Praises District PTA Groups

BIRMINGHAM — Several PTA units in the Birmingham district have been cited by Dr. Dwight B. Ireland, superintendent, in his annual report.

At the Bloomfield Village School, the unit contributed $300 for shrubbery in a grounds beautification program. They also assisted in the library and did volunteer work for the principal and the faculty.

At Midvale Elementary School, the quickly-formed unit is credited with helping to iron out many of the difficulties experienced in a newly-opened school.

At Walnut Lake Elementary School, 10 mothers worked as librarians and handled more than 14,000 book loans during the year. Another group of three repaired a total of 310 books, representing a district saving of about $600, according to Ireland.

The newly-organized group at Greenfield Elementary School had an average attendance of 394 parents at its meetings. Members raised more than $500 for library books in the first year.

In addition, PTA groups have been of great help in district administration, Ireland reported.

Committees formed within their membership have conducted surveys and studies on the needs of existing schools and the possibility of new schools.

Martin Weinrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Weinrich of 155 Vorn Lane, arrived in Germany yesterday where he will study in Duseldorf on the American Friends Society Exchange Student Program.

The 16-year-old Birmingham High School senior is now attending an orientation camp in the Harts Mountains. He will return home by Feb. 1 for the second semester in his own high school.

Two foreign students, one from Italy and one from Turkey, will attend school in Birmingham under the same program.

Mrs. Erwin Darling, dean of students at Birmingham High School, said that in a concerted drive, high school students raised $3,800 in one week to defray the expenses of their guests.

The student body raised the entire amount through a work program ranging from bake sales to car washes.

Robert Girardin, recreational director, says the city Teen Center at Eton Park is badly in need of certain types of equipment. He said a special need is a full size pool table. Ping pong equipment and a piano are also needed.

Mrs. James Goodman

Service for Mrs. James (Delores) Goodman, 23, of 23029 Couzens Hwy., Hazel Park, will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Manley Bailey Funeral Home. Burial will be in Royal Oak Cemetery.

A native of Birmingham, Mrs. Goodman died yesterday in William Beaumont Hospital following a long illness.

I talked to him (Copola) was to try to help Ruth Brougher. . . I said she needed some money."

Mrs. Brougher, brought under guard from a Florida prison to testify here, told the committee yesterday Copola had given her $5,000.

She said she had no idea where the money Baker spent on her came from.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) had asked whether it had come from Baker's own funds, the Teamsters' treasury, or was stolen or kidnap money.

There were signs of strained relations between the 300-pound Baker and his boss — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa. Baker, an ex-convict, is an aide to Hoffa in Detroit.

After yesterday's session, Hoffa poked Baker in the back and snapped, "Come with me." Photographers had spotted Hoffa delivering an angry lecture to Baker in a car during the noon recess.

Baker was a subdued witness after a morning performance that delighted spectators in the jammed hearing room.

In the forenoon session, Baker roared that the committee was unfair in trying to connect him with the missing $300,000 of what he called "blood-tainted" Greenlease ransom money. He accused the committee of trying to smear Gov. Averell Harriman of New York by linking them.

She told the committee Tuesday that Baker was the best of friends with Democrat Harriman and knew the whereabouts of money missing from the $600,000 ransom paid in 1953 for 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City, who was kidnaped and slain.

Baker said he "honored and loved" Harriman but that the New York governor, seeking re-election this year, "wouldn't know me if he saw me." Harriman has said he doesn't recall any contact with Baker, except a possible handshake during a political campaign.

As for the Greenlease money, Baker said flatly he got "absolutely none" of it.

In contrast with his firm denials of the Greenlease and Harriman testimony, Baker said he didn't remember accepting money from employer representatives but could not be sure.

"I wish my memory were a lot better," a grinning Baker said after being asked whether he accepted money from management to settle a Teamster strike against Midwest Burlap Bag Co. in Des Moines, Iowa.

He denied, however, receiving $10,000 to halt a Teamster strike against Esco Co. in McKees Rocks, Pa.

Boy Slays Mother, Sister With Shotgun

FLINT (AP)—A mother and daughter were shot to death with a shotgun today. Police said they were holding a 16-year-old brother-son who told them he killed the two because he was afraid they would starve.

Police Sgt. William Ludwig said the boy, Roger St. Pierre, told him he shot his mother, Mrs. Martha Lattimore, 42, and his sister Donna, 19, because "they were $1,500 in debt and I was afraid they would starve. They would be better off in heaven."

The boy and his sister were children of Mrs. Lattimore's by a previous marriage. Police said the woman's second husband left her Monday.

Congress Hopes to Finish Saturday

Adjournment Target Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — New fights over Supreme Court bills and other unfinished legislation confronted Congress today as leaders clung to hopes for winding up the current session this weekend.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas set Saturday night as the target for adjournment.

But a big pile of work still lay ahead — the bulk of it with the Senate.

Today, for the third day in a row, the Senate considered legislation aimed at lessening the effect of recent Supreme Court decisions.

Opponents last night lost a move to quash debate on a measure designed to prevent state laws from being ruled invalid because they parallel federal acts. A move to table the bill, which is similar to one passed by the House, failed 46-39.

Earlier, the Senate killed by a 49-41 vote a bill to curb the review powers of the Supreme Court and to undo the effects of several rulings in Communist cases.

Should the Senate clear the decks of the court bills, Johnson said he hoped to move on today to consideration of the foreign aid money bill and a measure to hike the national debt ceiling from 280 to 288 billion dollars.

Johnson listed a dozen pieces of legislation which he said the Senate must act on before quitting for the year.

Nevertheless, he told the Senate, "We hope to get out of here Saturday night." It was the first time he had set an adjournment goal.

But a new snarl developed when the Senate and House differed on how much control Congress should exercise over the new civilian space agency.

Husband Disappearance Rises During Recession

Periods of business recession have great effects on husbands. Just take, for example, the Tracers Company recent survey that showed a 55 per cent increase over 1957 in missing husbands.

"Economic conditions, not the other woman, are strong factors in the matter of disappearing husbands," says DAN EISENBERG, president of the Tracers Company of America.

Mr. Eisenberg speaks with authority since his company was assigned to search for 65,000 errant spouses during the past 34 years.

Past records reveal that husbands were content to stay home during the silk shirt era of the 1920's. At that time there were no financial pressures. Leaving home by husbands really started in the 1930's and reached its peak in 1940 when 25,000 were reported missing.

World War II seemed to bring a halt to the runaways. But the post war years—which were good years, high salaries and plenty of work—kept the husbands close to home and their families.

This continued until 1956 when the rise started. Already, during the first six months of this year, 8,650 husbands have taken it on the lam.

A breakdown on the subject shows that the age range bracket 40 to 50 has 74.4 per cent. Wives take note.

Our Lakes Make for Traffic Safety

Straight roads are not as common in the Pontiac area as in most other parts of the nation.

Our numerous lakes make it necessary in many cases to abandon the usual plan of placing the highways on section lines.

This makes more curves than in most areas.

One would naturally assume that these curves would add to the traffic hazard.

But such is not the case. Statistics prove the reverse.

On many of our roads the straight approach to the curves is not long enough for a car to get up a hazardous speed.

They have a tendency to keep drivers well within the speed limit.

It has been found that most of our accidents are on straight roads.

It is quite rare that one happens on a curve.

Hence, besides being one of our most valuable assets in many other ways, our lakes are helping us to keep our speed within the limits that make for good traffic records.

New Plan for Okinawa

The new High Commissioner for the Ryukyu Islands, Lt. Gen. DONALD P. BOOTH, has announced a different method of negotiating for land for Okinawa bases will be proposed.

In the past the U.S. has paid one large lump sum for land requisitioned for immediate military purposes and for future indefinite use. The Ryukuans have asked for an annual rental for their land and for periodic reappraisals of U.S. need for it. Okinawa is densely populated and every bit of arable land is required to feed the people. Our bases have taken 21 per cent of it.

Under a 1951 treaty the U.S. administers these islands as a military outpost. Our air bases there protect not only Japan, which owns the Ryukyus, but Nationalist China, South Korea and the Philippines as well. Our military spending has brought greater benefits to the population than they enjoyed as a Japanese prefecture.

Misunderstandings have risen resulting in election of leftist officials in Naha, capital of Okinawa. Our military governors may have been somewhat tactless in dealing with the islanders. However Gen. BOOTH'S announcement should smooth the way for more amicable relations.

Pontiac Pastor Chosen to Deliver Sermon on Event

Diet: When you get fed up on not being fed.

At the quaint and home-loving little community of Omena on Northern Michigan's beautiful Leelanau Peninsula is a small Presbyterian church that on Sunday celebrated its centennial. Chosen to conduct the service was the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Pontiac.

Now, for the 30th consecutive year he is occupying the pulpit of the Omena church during the month of August. He has had much to do with its progress in those years.

Missionary work among the Chippewa Indians of that area, beginning 119 years ago, was the nucleus of that church. The present building was erected in 1858, but in recent years has undergone extensive repairs.

Its bell was cast from copper pennies contributed by the Indians, several of whose descendants still live in the vicinity and worship at this church.

David Lawrence Says:

Troops Shouldn't Enforce Decree

WASHINGTON — Neither the statement issued by President Eisenhower nor the one issued by Governor Faubus of Arkansas points the way to a settlement of the "integration" controversy at Little Rock.

The President is right as far as he goes in interpreting the duty of the Federal government, and Governor Faubus is right in construing the limits of the power of a state governor.

LAWRENCE

Eisenhower spoke of "the solemn duty that all Americans have to comply with the final orders of the court." But this does not solve the problem of how court decrees shall be enforced. The President added:

"Nor should we lose sight of the fact that the maintenance of order to permit compliance with the final orders of the court is the responsibility of each state."

The key words are the "maintenance of order" which, in turn, would "permit compliance" with Federal court orders.

Governor Faubus says: "I do recognize my duty to preserve the peace of the state, and I shall continue to do so to the best of my ability."

So far, both the President and the governor are in agreement in interpreting the duty of the state. The issue, however, is broader. The President, for instance, says: "Each state owes to its inhabitants, to its sister states and to the Union the obligation to suppress unlawful forces."

Even this would be agreed to by the governor of any state. But the President appears to extend the obligation of state authority when he says:

"It (the state) cannot by action or deliberate failure to act permit violence to frustrate the preservation of individual rights as determined by a court decree."

The reference in the foregoing sentence to "deliberate failure to act" is unprecedented as a definition of constitutional obligations attributed to a state governor or a state legislature. It means, in a nutshell, that a state is required to assist the Federal government in the enforcement of its court decrees.

This has never before been regarded as a legal obligation of the state, though many times state authorities have voluntarily assisted the Federal government, particularly where federal property or even enforcement of a federal law was involved.

To say, on the other hand, that the Federal government may act as the disciplinarian of a state is to contradict the constitution which declares that federal forces may be used to suppress "domestic violence" in a state only when called upon by the governor or the state legislature.

The President has the right to use federal troops to suppress "insurrection" or to enforce the "laws of the United States," but no authority specifically given by Congress exists today which would permit the use of Federal troops to enforce court decrees. There is a legal distinction between a court decree and a "law of the United States."

But, even with such methods of enforcement, the big obstacle is public sentiment. President Eisenhower in mid-September 1957 said to a press conference: "You cannot legislate morality where human beings are involved — it must come from within." He has repeated that comment many times since. The experience of the American people with the Eighteenth Amendment is a case in point. It was widely resisted because prohibition was unpopular. Enforcement became next to impossible.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Witch Hazel Proves Boon to Varicose Vein Victim

"I thank the day I read your article on taking witch hazel for varicose veins" (writes Mrs. Coudersport, Penn.). "After taking not quite a pint of it I had more relief than from anything else. I can stand to wash dishes or iron now and my legs don't ache as they used to. In your pamphlet you said 'walk, don't slouch in posture, but step along briskly.' At first I thought the witch hazel advice and the advice to step lively sounded silly, especially walking, for that was just what I tried to avoid, in the belief that being on one's feet too much was the main cause of the trouble. (Mrs. T. W.)"

Being on one's feet in a slouching posture is a contributing cause of varicose veins, varicose ulcer, varicocele and hemorrhoids (piles). So is lolling or dragging your weight in lackadasical strolling — that's almost as hard on the veins below the equator as hour after hour of just sitting.

No better remedy for varicose veins, varicose ulcer, varicocele or hemorrhoids (piles) than a brisk walk two or three times daily, say to and from work, office, school, or business, whether it be six blocks or six miles a day.

The Yankee propensity for sitting — at the bridge table, movies, ballgame, theater, watching television, listening to radio, riding to work or school, soaking up or picking up at the bar or cocktail lounge, or "relaxing" after a hard day at the store — is the chief cause of these common manifestations of venous stasis or stagnation of blood in the great and small veins below the diaphragm.

I remember mentioning the witch hazel treatment in this column. I found the suggestion in the sixth edition of Shoemaker's "Materia Medica and Therapeutics":

"Varicose veins, varicocele and internal hemorrhoids may, not infrequently, be entirely cured by the persistent administration of hamamelis."

Hamamelis is the scientific name for witch hazel. Shoemaker suggested fluidextract of hamamelis, half teaspoonful twice a day. The lotion popularly known as witch hazel extract is not suitable for the purpose. If the druggist can't supply fluidextract of witch hazel, I don't know how you can obtain it.

In the free pamphlet on Varicose Veins and Varicose Ulcer (for which send stamped, self-addressed envelope) I give instructions for use of another old remedy, salted chamomile tea as a wet dressing for varicose ulcer. You steep the tea from dried chamomile flowers (Hungarian, English, Roman or German) as you would a cup of tea and keep the gauze dressing on, constantly wet. It usually gives relief and advances healing. Put a teaspoonful of salt in the pint of tea.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

I agree the Frank Kierdorf case has nothing to do with the UAW, but I'm not foolish enough to think it couldn't happen that way. It appears some people have been brain-washed to think the UAW can do no wrong.

There are those who aren't working who had to pay extra money for that so-called strike fund, only to wake up and realize they're now laid off. Some tried to borrow money from the fund, only to find they had to pay it back with interest when the UAW was on strike a while back. Was that a gag.

I happen to know a veteran who was confined in the Oakland County Jail and only after three days of agony did he receive any treatment for a broken bone in his foot. Case Records of a Psychologist:

Most Teenagers Are Idealists

Dr. Hess derived some unusual data on college students which will be of help to all church folks. We need to follow Shakespeare's advice and use perfect "timing" when we try to appeal to the idealism of youth. Despite the pulpit-griping about juvenile delinquency, most teenagers are idealists at heart.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

DR. CRANE

"Select the one chapter out of the 20 in Dr. Crane's textbook which you liked best and then write an essay explaining your reasons."

I have previously mentioned that this college text offerst a panoramic view of practical psychology for the beginning student.

It is intended to open his eyes to the many places where you can earn a salary as a result of knowing Applied Psychology.

Thus, it includes chapters on advertising, public speaking, education, personnel, salesmanship, writing, music, religion, personality, marriage, etc.

"Dr. Crane, which chapter do you think was the most popular with the college students?" I was asked.

And I picked Chapter 6, which covers "Personality Improvement," for I figured the 19-year-olds would be most concerned with carrying on conversation and otherwise enhancing their rating as "date bait."

"No, it was Ch. 18," came the astonishing reply, "for 90 per cent of the students selected it.

And Ch. 18 is headed "Psychology Goes to Church." It deals with the use of psychology in religious education and shows why Jesus was the greatest Applied Psychologist of all times.

I have previously mentioned this clever classroom assignment by Dr. Hess, but wanted to use it again today to bring out a challenging fact about teenage psychology.

During the teens we not only develop our highest peak of romantic interest (including love poetry and erotic idealism).

But that is when we have a natural stage of religious fervor and moral idealism.

SHAKESPEARE'S MOTTO

So parents, church teachers and all those who are trying to make this world a better place in which to live, should strike while the iron is hot.

Summer church camps are thus a vital need for every church and YMCA.

For in the middle teens, a trained leader can take young people and carry them up to a mountain-top religious experience.

For high schoolers are especially receptive at that time. In later adult years they may become cynical and hardboiled.

Even a Billy Graham may then have a hard time converting a hardened sinner but at the age of 15, such a person is begging for religious inspiration.

Oh, these teenagers may assume an outward show of callousness. They may affect disdain for ethical matters.

But don't let this conventional exterior pose deceive you. If they are in the teens, they are easily led to high resolves and vocational choices that involve constructive careers in nursing, medicine, the pulpit, the mission field, etc.

Shakespeare warned us that to be successful, we must learn proper "timing."

Catch a wave when it is cresting, he said, and it will carry you onward to fame and fortune.

But if you wait till it has already crested and is receding into the next trough, it may lead to failure and ignominy.

Young people are "cresting" in their religious idealism, so catch them before they reach the age of 21.

Send for my booklet, "The Logical Proof of God," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit). It fortifies them for college.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Ask Lowering of Bond Today

Herman Says Gun Silencer Only Muffler for Mower

By PETE LOCHBILER

With state police casting doubt on his story that the homemade pistol silencer he is accused o possessing illegally is only a power mower muffler, ex-Teamster boss Herman Kierdorf was to appear in Circuit Court today to seek a lower bond.

Kierdorf's appearance, scheduled for 2 p.m., was ordered yesterday in a writ of habeus corpus granted by Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland on petition of Kierdorf's attorney.

The attorney, William F. Dohany, protested that the $25,000 bond under which Herman is being held over for examination on the silencer charge tomorrow is "excessive."

The bond was set at Herman's arraignment yesterday before Madison Heights Justice of the Peace Hendrik J. Smit.

Dohany's petition explained that the homemade silencer found Herman's cache of two pistols, some dynamite blasting caps, cartridges and two telephone receivers was "actually" a muffler used on the exhaust of a motorized mower.

Dohany said Herman gave the muffler to his next door neighbor because the latter's noisy mower kept him awake when it was used in the morning.

The neighbor, John Tyler, of 29078 Spoon St., Madison Heights, declined to comment when contacted at his home yesterday.

Dohany went on to say that Herman had removed the muffler from an old mower, which he turned in when buying a new one recently.

The arsenal was discovered at the Tyler home by Madison Heights Police Chief Robert E. Richardson Aug. 4, less than 12 hours after Herman's Teamster nephew, Frank, staggered into St. Joseph Hospital with burns covering 85 per cent of his body, and only a few hours before Herman dropped out of sight for 13 days.

Richardson said the silencer, a German Luger type pistol and the dynamite caps were in a briefcase that Herman deposited with the Tylers about two or three weeks previously.

The other pistol and the telephones were in a paper bag that Herman brought over that morning, Richardson said.

According to Richardson's report Aug. 4, Tyler did not know what the briefcase contained.

In his petition, Dohany asked that the alleged silencer be produced at today's hearing.

Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem said that he did not intend to produce the silencer, however, since it was not mentioned in the court order, a copy of which was served on him.

Another copy was served on Sheriff Frank W. Irons, who is holding Herman at the Oakland County Jail.

Det. Sgt. Wallace Van Stratt, director of the State Police Crime Laboratory in E. Lansing, doubted that the silencer could be a muffler.

"It is not even commercially manufactured, but rather is constructed out of plain plumber's pipe," said Van Stratt.

Van Stratt, said he had tested the device and found it to be effective. The test consisted of fitting the silencer onto the muzzle of the Luger and firing a bullet through it.

Van Stratt said the tip of the gun's muzzle had been threaded so that the silencer could screw onto it.

It is anticipated that Judge Holland would rule out any discussion of the silencer at today's hearing, which is concerned only with Herman's rights to a "reasonable bond."

It was probable he would refer the silencer matter to tomorrow's examination, which is to delve into the extent of the criminal evidence against Herman.

Protesting the high bond, Dohany pointed out that the maximum penalty on a silencer charge is only $2,000 fine, plus five years in prison.

Judge Smit said he set the bond at $25,000, "in view of the defendant's record of past behaviour," apparently a reference to Herman's disappearance.

Meanwhile, in Lansing State Police Commissioner Joseph Childs turned over to Atty. Gen. Paul Adams a list of about 20 unsolved bombings and arsons that might be connected with the Flint arson of the dry cleaning pickup station late Aug. 3, in which Frank is believed to have suffered his fatal burns.

Adams said he would study the report. He added the investigation of the Flint arson had reached the "routine stage," and he planned to "get caught up on other matters" in the next few days.

Herman was subpoenaed after he voluntarily surrendered Sunday night. So were two other persons who have been questioned in the arson case: Frank Thompson, a fellow business agent of Frank's at local 332, and Myron D. Wiess, an associate of Herman's who was with him the day he disappeared.

Investigators said both men were "uncooperative," and refused to devulge information.

Adams, meeting Tuesday with Ziem and Genesee and Oakland County authorities, decided that a grand jury investigation of a possible tri-county arson conspiracy was inappropriate "at present."

But a demand for a Grand Jury investigation has been repeated by Paul D. Bagwell, Republican nominee for governor.

From his campaign headquarters in Lansing Bagwell deplored what he called Democratic atty. Gen. Adams' failure to "go after the whole sorry picture of hoodlum violence in Michigan."

Bagwell said Adams should ask Genesee County Circuit Court for an inquiry into the cleaning plant blaze. He said such an investigation should be conducted by a special prosecutor and staff "free of political ties."

He Tries in Vain to Keep the Talk on Higher Plane

WASHINGTON (AP)—Burly Teamster Robert (Barney) Baker tried his best yesterday to keep some things on a high plane in testimony before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee.

But Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy wasn't cooperating.

"Did you know 'Cock-eyed' Dunn?" Kennedy asked, referring to the waterfront mobster convicted of the murder of Anthony Hintz in 1947.

"'Cock-eyed' Dunn?" ex-convict Baker asked. "I didn't know him as Cock-eyed Dunn. He was John Dunn."

"He met his maker," Baker intoned, "I believe through electrocution in the City of New York."

"What about 'Squint Sheridan?'" Kennedy asked referring to another of the Hintz killers.

State Building 'Near'

LANSING (UPI) — Amid talk of parking lots and coffee pots, a nearly final step was taken yesterday toward construction of a 10-million-dollar state building by the Legislative State Office Building Committee. The eight-member committee was expected to make a final decision on a possible go-ahead within 30 days.

SILENCER . . . FOR GUN OR LAWN MOWER?—Police Chief Robert E. Richardson, left, of Madison Heights, and Prosecutor Fred Ziem, examine a device on the end of a pistol which Herman Kierdorf turned over to a neighbor for safekeeping. Officials say it is a silencer for the pistol. Kierdorf's attorney claims it is an exhaust to deaden the noise from a power lawn mower.

Oil Magnate Getty Flying In for Service

LUGANO, Switzerland (AP)—American oil millionaire J. Paul Getty said today he plans to fly to Los Angeles within a few days for the funeral of his youngest son.

The 12-year-old boy, Timothy, died of heart failure in New York Saturday after plastic surgery.

The child is to be buried near his father's parents at Forest Lawn Cemetery. Getty said the date of the funeral would be set after Timothy's mother, from whom he is divorced, recovers from the shock of the boy's death.

The oil man said he had not returned to the United States to be with his son at the time of the operation because the doctors had told him "it was no more serious than pulling a tooth."

"The fact that I was not there with him has caused me very particular grief," Getty added.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Cities of the future may some day be lighted by fusion power, predicted by a panel of experts attending the 1958 Western Electronic Show and Convention. But fusion—thermonuclear power—will take 30 or more years before becoming economical enough to light a city, the experts said.

Bar to Tempt Jurors?

Sack Dresses Torn to Shreds by Egyptians

CAIRO (AP) — You wouldn't have expected the sack dress to kick up any commotion in Egypt, would you?

After all, it has been hanging around, so to speak, for thousands of years. You might even say the murals in the oldest tombs forecast the shapelessness of things to come.

But not even Egypt has been able to take the sack.

A man came into court the other day, demanding a divorce and custody of a 11-year-old daughter. He said his wife is a bad influence on the child.

The evidence? "She wears these sacks." The case is pending.

The venerated interpreters of religious law in the oldest Moslem university in the world, Al Azhar, have been dragged into the argument. They disagree.

One called the sack a calamity.

Another noted that religious law expressly forbids tight clothing. On that score, he observd sagely, there could be no complaint against the new garment.

Unwittingly, the board of examiners at an Egyptian university also collided with the problem. A coed came before the board in the process of getting her degree as a doctor of philosophy. She appeared in a sack dress.

Some on the board had difficulty picturing a Ph. D. in a chemise. The young lady argued that the sack is only a throwback to the galabia, an equally ambiguous garment that Egyptians have been wearing for centuries.

She got her degree.

Urges Microphones, Cameras in Courts

NEW YORK (AP)—Opening of courtrooms to news cameras and microphones was urged today by Harold E. Fellows, of Washington, president of the National Assn. of Broadcasters.

Fellows, addressing the Veterans of Foreign Wars national convention, proposed a meeting of representatives of the legal profession, broadcasting industry, the press and other media to discuss the possibility.

The former Boston radio executive told the veterans that the public's right to know is of particular concern to them because it "is closely related to keeping our traditional American freedom."

The public's right to know in the judicial branch of government "generally has been hobbled by the American Bar Assn.'s Canon 35," which bans coverage of court trials by newspaper and television cameras and microphones, Fellows said in a prepared address.

CAA Denies Blame for Air Collision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil Aeronautics Administrator James T. Pyle denies his agency is partly to blame for an air collision which took 49 lives near Las Vegas, Nev., last April 21.

The Civil Aeronautics Board said Tuesday that CAA and the Air Force must share some of the responsibility for the accident involving a United Air Lines DC7 and a jet trainer plane.

In a statement yesterday, Pyle contended the CAA couldn't take the necessary measures to control airspace in the area because military and commercial users would not make sufficient voluntary concessions.

Pyle voiced the hope the new federal aviation agency would help resolve such problems.

Chinese Nationalists Name Envoy to U.S.

TAIPEI (AP)—The Chinese Nationalist Cabinet today formally appointed former Foreign Minister George Yeh ambassador to the United States.

His selection for the post became known when he was omitted from the Chen Cheng Cabinet installed July 14. Yeh had served as foreign minister since 1949.

In Washington he will succeed Hollington K. Tong, who has been ambassador since March 1956.

President Plans to Take Vacation —if It's Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said yesterday he hopes to take a vacation late this month or early in September, but doesn't know for sure whether he can.

Asked at his news conference if he might make another visit to Newport, R.I., he said he would want to talk this over with a consultative committee of the press, who accompany him on his trips, to see what they think.

He said he doesn't know now whether he can leave the Washington area or not.

In response to a question he said it was always possible he might vacation at his farm home in Gettysburg, Pa.

However, he said, he keeps hoping to go to some more salubrious climate.

Powder 'Bombs' Mark Oil Pipeline Leaks

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. — Airplane pilots are being used to spot leaks in oil pipelines on regular patrols.

When a pilot finds a leak, washout, or other pipeline failure, he "bombs" it with a pound of yellow powder dropped in a paper bag to mark the spot for repair crews.

Hedy Lamarr Sues Former Husband

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Hedy Lamarr has restored a $19,500 suit against her former husband, actor John Loder. The action involves a $6,500 judgment and $13,000 in alleged back alimony.

Miss Lamarr was divorced from Loder, her third husband, in 1947.

She abandoned her original suit last January, when a general agreement was reached by attorneys in the case.

But she complained in State Supreme Court yesterday that the agreement never was carried out by Loder, now in England. A hearing on her motion to reinstate the case was set for Aug. 27.

Alcorn Reports Firms Prosper

Butler Hits Contention of Republican National Chairman in Debate

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP)—Meade Alcorn, Republican national chairman, says American business has prospered as never before under the Eisenhower administration. But Paul Butler, his Democratic counterpart, disputed this last night in a debate before the South Dakota Bar Assn.

"One of the greatest victories that we have handed the Communists in the cold war has been the way the Eisenhower administration has allowed our economic rate of growth to deteriorate during the past 5½ years," said Butler.

Alcorn pictured the administration as one of integrity that maintained peace and prosperity. He said the voter weighing principles and performances of the two parties "will recognize that his own best interests are linked to the elections of Republicans to public office."

Butler said the administration was guilty of smugness, secrecy and distortion in seeking "to divert attention away from the true nature" of the Soviet challenge and "the grave economic dangers that beset us."

In a rebuttal period after his 20-minute talk, Butler also said the American people "never have been propogandized and brainwashed by any administration as much as they are being today."

Alcorn replied that the Democratic party is controlled by a left-wing element headed by Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers and Democratic Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Wayne Morse of Oregon.

Butler said the 12-billion-dollar deficit facing the nation next year would be an all-time record for peacetime. He added it would be the fifth year in seven when the present administration's finances have been out of balance.

Alcorn said that of 34 recorded deficits in this century, 22 had been run up under Democrats.

Against Butler's claim that the present administration had failed to arouse the nation to efforts necessary to keep ahead of the Soviet Union, replied that President Eisenhower had brought to the White House an administration of integrity he said had served to maintain both peace and prosperity.

Tot 'Checks Up' on Community; Parents Frantic

Though he didn't have any money, he got on the subway-elevated line from his home in the Kensington section and went for a joyride clear to the end of the line at suburban Upper Darby, a trip of several miles. On the way back he stopped off at City Hall to check up on things there.

Then he started home.

Meanwhile, his frantic mother, who had parked him in the family yard to play, notified police. They looked high and low, but they never thought of the el.

Stanley, on his way home, fell into conversation with a couple of older men — say 15 or 16 years of age — who found out his name and notified the police.

Officers returned him to his worried family, tired and more than a little dirty.

In one grimy little fist, he clutched 30 cents — representing a clear profit for the day's activities.

Boston Man Cuts Off Iron Curtain Relatives

BOSTON (AP) — Because he feared any bequests might be confiscated, Norman Levin, former Boston businessman, has cut relatives behind the Iron Curtain from any share in his $110,000 estate. Levin's will left the bulk of the estate to Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass.

The will did not identify the relatives or their homes.

'Sailors' Land in Jail

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Two would-be sailors who tried to sail a $150,000 yacht to Tahiti have been placed in drydock—in the county jail. Max A. Moore, 45, Redondo Beach, was sentenced to a year and E. John Spellman, 42, of Tulare, received nine months. The pair pleaded guilty to stealing the 65-foot Quest.

Jurists Attack Supreme Court

Chief Justices in Nine States Hit Tribunal for 'Policy Maker' Role

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Recent Supreme Court decisions raise doubt that America has a government of laws and not of men, chief justices of nine states allege.

They accuse the nation's highest court of assuming the roles of policy maker without proper judicial restraint.

The justices, representing both Northern and Southern states, presented the 36-page report yesterday to the annual Conference of Chief Justices. Delegates are present from the 48 states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

A resolution offered with the report urged the Supreme Court to exercise judicial self-restraint in differentiating between constitutional rights and powers on the one hand and local self government on the other. A vote on the resolution is due Saturday.

The report said in part: "We believe that strong state and local governments are essential to the effective functioning of the American system of federal government. . . .

"It is strange, indeed, to reflect that under a constitution which provides for a system of checks and balances and of distribution of powers between national and state governments, one branch of the government — the Supreme Court—should attain the immense and, in many respects, dominant power which it now wields.

GETTING THE LOW-DOWN — Flying at treetop-level between two small islands calls for tricky piloting of this 200-ton Boeing B-52 Stratofortress. It is cruising along the coast of Washington on a special low-level flight carried out by Boeing Aircraft Co. to test the performance of equipment designed for operation at high altitudes. The treetop run was cleared by the Civil Aeronautics Administration, and residents of Washington and Oregon were warned not to be startled by the immense bomber skimming over the waves, sometimes less than 200 feet above the water. It is believed to be the first time that an airplane the size and speed of the B-52 has flown for any prolonged period at such a low altitude. It was an uneasy feeling at first, reported Don Knutson, Boeing senior B-52 experimental pilot.

OKs U.S. Subsidy for Ships to Europe

WASHINGTON (AP)—A maritime administration examiner has held that an application for a government subsidy for service to Europe by American ships plying the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway may be made under the nation's shipping laws.

The ruling was given by examiner C. W. Robinson yesterday in connection with an application for subsidy aid by the Isbrandtsen Co., Inc.

Isbrandtsen asked for the subsidy to set up service on a route between the Great Lakes, the United Kingdom, Germany, Holland, Belgium, France and Spain.

The examiner's finding cleared the way for the board to authorize the subsidy aid.

Isbrandtsen said in its application that it would put eight vessels on the route and provide between 23 and 30 sailings a year.

If They Only Realized

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Thieves tried to burglarize a dynamite shed at the General Refractories Co. by setting off a dynamite charge against the shed's steel door. The charge went off, but the door held and the thieves, apparently disgusted, walked off. Just inside was 1½ tons of dynamite.

Chrysler's Figures on Jobs Blasted

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers accuse Chrysler Corp. of putting misleading figures on reemployment and giving false hopes to thousands of jobless men.

The union, in a statement yesterday, said Chrysler's announcement of recalling 42,000 workers for a start on 1959 car model production refers almost entirely to employes on the job up to the last days of 1958 production.

"The estimated 52,000 Chrysler workers on layoff most of this year will remain idle," the union said, "and the corporation will head toward volume production with a work force about half the size that existed a year ago at the beginning of 1958 model production."

Chrysler made no immediate comment on the union statement.

He's Thought It All Out

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The California Youth Authority asked nine youngsters at the Fricot Ranch School for Boys what they would like to do when they were men. Eight of the boys —aged 8 to 14—said mechanic, truck driver, etc., but the ninth answered: "I would like to be a civilian."

Winds of 28 to 34 miles an hour are called moderate gales.

2 Chat Amicably With His Wife

When Banker Arrives, Bandits Make Him Open Vault, Take $3,000

CORRECTIONVILLE, Iowa (AP) — Two men chatted amicably with a bank president's wife while they awaited his arrival home. They forced the banker to open the bank vault last night and took about $3,000.

Within two hours of the midnight departure of the bandits from the banker's house one of them was captured at Sioux City, 30 miles west of here.

The other still was sought today after he jumped from a stolen car the two men were using.

P. S. Hart, 48, president of the Corn Belt State Bank, said he returned home about 9 p.m. from a fishing outing after work yesterday and was accosted as he walked in the door.

He said the men had visited for 30 minutes with his wife, Irene, before he returned. She was unaware of the purpose of their visit.

Hart said one man suddenly pulled out a gun and the other a knife, and then they tied the couple hand and foot on a double bed in the bedroom.

After about 30 minutes of persuasion, Hart said, he gave the men the vault combination.

While one man went to the bank with Hart's keys and the combination, the other freed the couple and let them watch television. Later the bandit returned after being unable to open the vault and had Hart accompany him back to the bank.

Hart said he and the bandit came home and then the man made a third trip to the bank and got the money.

Army Preparing to Launch Explorer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The Army appeared today to be preparing a Jupiter-C rocket for another Explorer satellite launching.

There was no indication how soon it might come.

The Defense Department has maintained strict secrecy about satellite launch programs.

Signs of increased activity in the Army area of the missile test center yesterday gave some indication that a new Explorer try might be made this week or next.

Teenager Rescued From 1-Foot Ledge

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP)—Teenager Bill Beeghley, who perched nearly motionless for 18 hours on a foot-wide granite ledge 600 feet above Yosemite Valley, was rescued yesterday the hard way.

Park rangers, who unsuccessfully tried to reach him from below, finally got to a ledge 250 feet above him, slipped a rope around him and eventually hoisted him atop a 3,000 foot cliff.

Rangers kept the 17-year-old Long Beach, Calif., high school senior awake the night before by yelling at him through loudspeakers.

Beeghley, hiking with four companions, had attempted a short cut around the face of Firefalls Point, slipped on a rock and found himself stranded on the narrow ledge.

Sen. Ellender Seeks to Slash Aid Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La) said today he will try to cut 150 million dollars from a $3,518,092,500 foreign aid money bill President Eisenhower wants in full.

Ellender said in an interview he was ready to talk for two or three hours in behalf of fund-cutting amendments when the bill is called up in the Senate.

This is one of the major pieces of unfinished business facing Congress as it drives for adjournment.

Democratic and Republican leaders, working together, are confident of sufficient votes to reject attempts to cut the bill, which carries 440 million dollars more than the House allowed.

Senate to Vote on Court Bill

Plan Aimed at Curbing High Tribunal's Rulings Involving Communism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of a states rights measure aimed at recent Supreme Court decisions face a showdown fight today in the Senate battle over the legislation.

They lost one round last night when a motion to table the bill, and thus kill it, lost by a 46-39 vote.

The measure, identical except for minor amendments to a bill already passed by the House, is designed to prevent state laws from being declared invalid because of parallel federal legislation.

It is one of several bills which have come before the Senate this week aimed at reducing the impact of recent Supreme Court decisions involving communism.

Left dangling when the Senate adjourned last night was a motion by Sen. John J. Carroll (D-Colo) to refer the bill to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Carroll denounced the measure as an assault on the Supreme Court and said its passage would create economic chaos by upsetting established federal-state relations in many fields.

Adoption of Carroll's motion would have the effect of killing the bill. But in view of setbacks already suffered by opponents, this appeared to be unlikely.

Earlier in the day the Senate rejected by a 49-41 vote a bill of Senators William E. Jenner (R-Ind) and John M. Butler (R-Md) to curb the Supreme Court's review powers and to undo the effects of its decisions in several Communist cases.

CANBERRA—Overseas investors have poured more than 700,000,000 pounds sterling (about $1,568,000,000) into Australia in the last 10 years. About 185 of the firms, or between 35 and 40 per cent, were subsidiaries of, or affiliated with, American companies.

Much of South Carolina's textile industry is located in the Piedmont area.

Pacific Oysters Better

PORTLAND, Ore. — The Pacific oyster, connoisseurs seem agreed, has a more pronounced flavor as well as being larger than the Atlantic Coast oyster. At normal marketing age 60 to 140 Pacific oysters make a gallon after shucking. A gallon of the Eastern variety contains 150 to 200.

TEHRAN — Oil production in Iran during 1957 climbed to 245,000,000 barrels, an increase of 24 per cent over 1956.

Oakland's Schools Prepare for Returning Students

District Staffs Reminding Parents All Children Must Be Registered

With school bells throughout the county ringing out within the next two weeks, school officials as well as parents are reminded of that necessary and time consuming "must" registration.

The following is a breakdown of the various school districts and their agenda during the pre-school days.

BRANDON TOWNSHIP

Students of Brandon Township Schools will register for fall session next Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 28 and 29, according to Superintendent E. J. Hungerford. Regular classes will begin Sept. 2

High school enrollment is estimated to have increased by 20 students and in junior high by 24, bringing the total enrollment to 427, plus 760 in the elementary schools. Five new teachers have been employed by the district.

Last year the district eliminated vocal music from all schools, and art in the grade schools. Home economics will also not be taught in the high school this year.

Hungerford claimed that budget difficulties occurred when the millage asked last month was defeated.

CLARKSTON

Monday, the Clarkston Community High School book store will open for sale of books to students in grades 7 through 12. Office hours will be 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday throughout the week.

Member of House 45 Years

Speaker Sam Wields Powerful House Gavel

By FRANK ELEAZER
Of UPI

To one of the scores of people who in recent weeks have asked him when he would hang the year's final gavel in the House, Speaker Sam Rayburn the other day replied this way:

"I'm like the fellow who was walking down the street in Bonham, Tex., with a rope around his waist. The other end of the rope was tied to a bull. Somebody asked this fellow where he was going. 'I don't know,' he replied. 'Ask the bull.'"

Mr. Sam has adjourned a lot of Congresses since he took office as speaker on Sept. 16, 1940. After all these years he doesn't even have to wet his finger to tell which way the legislative winds are blowing. So you can figure he has had a pretty good idea for some time when the 85th Congress would be able to quit for the year.

But once he set a date, he reasoned, some balky member seeking to block a bill's last-minute passage would be encouraged to stall.

So Mr. Sam has kept his own counsel on adjournment.

As of today (Thursday, Aug. 21), Speaker Rayburn has been splintering gavels for 13 years, 11 months and 5 days, far longer than any of his distinguished predecessors in a post that legally is ranked the nation's third highest but practically is second only to the presidency in power.

His record span as speaker, with two breaks for the Republican 80th and 83rd Congresses, embraces not only a lot of gavels but plenty of history.

Rayburn earns $45,000 a year. He rides in an air-conditioned, chauffeured limousine. He mingles with and is one of the mighty. He has been adviser to two presidents — Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman — and has considerable say about the administration of a third — Dwight D. Eisenhower — despite the fact that Ike gets his advice somewhere else.

That represents quite an achievement for a country boy, born in the Tennessee hills to parents most folks would call poor and reared on a 40-acre cotton farm in Texas. But if success has gone to Mr. Sam's head it doesn't show. And Rayburn's bald head isn't built for concealment.

Rayburn is 76. He has been in the House since March 4, 1913, and is its senior member. Politics was his boyhood dream and has been his life's work. He considers the 3,000-plus House members with whom he has served the greatest people on earth.

Rayburn is a Democrat who, unlike some others of his party, especially in the South, has always stayed hitched. Despite an essentially conservative nature he helped Roosevelt and Truman with their New and Fair Deal legislation and personally steered through the House much reform legislation such as that regulating the stock market.

Mr. Sam tells each new Congress his door is always open to House members. It is. In addition it is open to others like the 97-year-old Texas lady who dropped in the other day to say what she liked about Rayburn was the way he fried chicken in hog lard. She allowed that this was the only civilized way.

Air Force Bags Jet Trainer

Routine Drill Becomes Real Thing as Missiles Discharge Accidentally

GRANDVIEW, Mo. (AP)—High above the clouds over western Missouri a jet plane streaked northward toward Kansas yesterday. It was unidentified, and thus presumed by the Air Force to be an enemy.

At Richards-Gebaur AFB here on the southern outskirts of Kansas City, a sleek F102A jet took off to intercept the invader.

Within minutes, 1st Lt. Roland Svane, 26, Seattle, and his interceptor sighted the aggressor aircraft at 41,000 feet.

Svane attacked. Three Falcon air-to-air missils shot from the interceptor toward the target. One of them hit the tail of the plane, and the jet headed earthward. Its two crewmen bailed out.

Unfortunately, the enemy was a T33 Air Force trainer and Svane's attack was a routine practice maneuver. Routine, that is, until the three missiles, which automatically seek their targets and explode if they miss, were discharged.

The trainer's crew, 1st Lt. John D. Rice, 27, Sacramento, Calif., and 1st Lt. Raymond Zuhars Jr., 26, Evansville, Ind., escaped with cuts and bruises. They landed on a farm near Clinton, Mo., and were picked up by a truck driver who saw their parachutes come down.

At a news conference, Svane declined comment when asked what caused the Falcons to fire. Rice and Zuhars, who are being treated at Richards-Gebaur Hospital, were equally reticent. So were three security officers.

As for the Air Force, officials said only that they are investigating.

Steel Output Unchanged

DETROIT (AP) — Steel production in Detroit area plants will be virtually unchanged this week, says Iron Age Magazine. It estimated a tonnage of 95,500 or 67 per cent of capacity, compared with 67.4 per cent a week ago.

SAFE FROM TRAFFIC — Above is a new type pedestrian overpass known as Sky-Walk, being used in Lansing to furnish safe passage over busy streets and highways. The overpass is manufactured in Lansing.

Try New Type Overpass on Busy Lansing Street

LANSING — The chicken who crosses the road to get to the other side may not always make it these days — and what's worse, neither do some people.

But the problem is being solved for people by a new pedestrian overpass, known as Sky-Walk, designed with many safety features that have brought praise from municipal, school and police representatives in Lansing where the first Sky-Walk has been put in use. Sky-Walk is manufactured by C. D. Scarlett Co., Inc., of Lansing.

It crosses a main road that is quite heavily traveled, especially morning and evening.

The speed limit in this area is 45 miles an hour, and speeds are frequently in excess of this figure, particularly with incoming traffic.

Allen T. Hayes, traffic engineer for the city of Lansing points out, "Twenty-four hour, year 'round availability for pedestrian crossing, with none of the problems usually associated with these facilities, is the main advantage of this type of pedestrian overpass.

"This installation practically eliminated complaints about children crossing this street, even with the protection of a school crossing watchman. The crossing man is no longer needed.

"We like this pedestrian overpass because it eliminates the vehicle-pedestrian conflict, it permits the retention of a reasonable speed limit in this area, and it has postponed the installation of a traffic signal, which under present traffic conditions, is not warranted."

Mayan Is Still Spoken

MEXICO CITY — The Mayan language is far from dead, according to authorities on American Indian languages. It is still spoken by the bulk of the population of Yucatan, which uses a variety of dialects that are very much alike.

Norway Teens Riot Over Rock 'n' Roll

OSLO (AP)—Ten thousand teenagers went berserk last night because their Norwegian favorite wasn't crowned king of the rock 'n' roll.

Pandemonium broke after the six judges chose the Swedish competitor, Karl (Little Gerhard) Lundkvist. The audience packing the Jordal AMFI Stadium favored Norwegian Per (Elvis) Granberg.

The spectators tried to rush the stage. A cordon of police and stadium attendants halted them while the newly crowned king and the judges — two Swedes and two Norwegians—sneaked out the back way.

De Gaulle Visits French Africa

Premier Seeks Support for New Constitution in Referendum

PARIS (AP) — Premier de Gaulle flew south today on a tour of French African territories to drum up votes for his new constitution in the Sept. 28 referendum.

The general's first destination was Madagascar, an Indian Ocean island off Africa that is larger than France. Then he will visit Brazzaville, Equatorial Africa, where he pledged local self-government to French colonies in a World War II speech as leader of the Free French; Abidjan, Conakry and Dakar, in West Africa; and rebellion-torn Algeria.

In the referendum the people of these territories will vote on an equal basis with Frenchmen for the first time.

De Gaulle favors letting the territories choose between full integration into the French government structure or loose federation, but his Cabinet reportedly has abandoned the idea of federation. However, talks the Premier has with local leaders on his trip are expected to have considerable bearing on his future plans for France's overseas possessions.

Russians Claim Fiber Stronger Than Steel

NEW YORK — The Russians claim to have a new synthetic fiber stronger than steel, according to the publication, Chemical Week.

It will be used for knitwear, light fabrics, rugs, lace, machine parts, conveyor belts, and automobile tires. The Russians say they have discovered a way of taking gases and converting them into a material resembling mother of pearl, and the fiber is formed from this.

Look at Them Wave!

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Nearly every passing motorist waved at Robert F. McKenzie, driving a truck load of trash. He discovered at his next stop that the trash was on fire. "I knew I didn't know all those people," said McKenzie.

(4)—Rocket Pioneers

By Don Oakley and Ralph Lane

(1) The story of space now turns to rockets. Known to the Chinese possibly as early as the 7th century, by the 13th they were employing them as weapons. In Europe, however, rockets were merely used as fireworks until the late 18th century. Then the Englishman William Congreve developed an artillery rocket. During the Napoleonic Wars military rockets reached a high point, then fell into disuse. The "rockets' red glare" seen by Francis Scott Key during the bombardment of Ft. McHenry in 1814 were Congreve rockets.

(2) Space travel was an old dream, and the wisest men knew that rockets offered the only practical form of propulsion. But not until the 1890s was any serious mathematical work done, when the Russian Konstantin Ziolkovsky first advocated liquid-fueled rockets. He also studied the problems of keeping men alive in space.

(3) In America, Prof. Robert H. Goddard built rockets to probe the upper atmosphere. He was the first to test rocket theories in the workshop.

(4) Like Ziolkovsky, Goddard arrived at the conclusion that—at that time—liquid rockets were the best source of power. In 1926 he launched the world's first liquid-fueled rocket. Its two-foot-long motor burned for two and a half seconds. The rocket covered a distance of 184 feet at about 60 miles an hour. It has been likened to the Wright brothers' first airplane flight.

In Germany about the same time, the Hungarian-born Hermann Oberth had also hit upon some of the same rocket ideas. His writings sparked the formation of amateur rocket clubs throughout Europe. From one of them, the German Society for Space Travel, was to come the builder of the famous V-2.

Their Major Problem in Desert—Lack of Women

3,000 Work for Oil Companies in Sahara

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
for Hal Boyle

HASSI MESSAOUD, Algeria (AP)—Some 3,000 men live and work in the heart of the Sahara without suffering many of the hazards and discomforts of desert life.

Their major problem is lack of women.

The men are employes of French oil companies building what they hope is a future French oil empire amid sun-baked sand dunes.

They live in air-conditioned huts with running water, showers, and plugs for electric razors. They are served five-course meals in air-conditioned dining rooms. Their bars offer a variety of French and foreign drinks—at a fraction of the normal price.

Every day planes land on airstrips in the middle of the desert with mail and newspapers.

The wages of the men of Hassi Messaoud oil site are on the average twice as high as those of comparable workers in France. Their lodging costs nothing and their food costs about $15 a month.

One of the oil companies estimated that in addition to salary and initial investment in living quarters, each man costs it $14 a day.

The workers also receive special bonuses. In summer, when the outside temperature reaches 125 degrees Fahrenheit, the bonuses are the highest.

Every three weeks, the men of the Hassi Messaoud site are transported by plane — free — for a week's rest in Algiers, 500 miles away. Those who want to go to France must pay their own way.

Ninety per cent of the workers are French citizens — of whom two-thirds are Moslems. About seven per cent are ex-Foreign Legion members and about three per cent are skilled foreign technicians.

Despite the present program of complete integration of Moslems and Europeans in Algeria, a number of Moslem workers in Hassi Amessaoud live and work in conditions much inferior to those of their European colleagues.

The oil companies claim they have to make this difference because of the varying degrees of development of the Moslems working on the site.

One company thus distinguishes three groups among its Moslem workers: Nomads from nearby oases hired on a temporary basis who live in gangs under tents outside the company camp; the so-called auxiliary Moslem workers who live together in separate, inferior quarters, wear colored shirts depending on the task they perform and have no access to most bars, movies and camp installation; and finally those who are completely integrated with their white coworkers.

The site is linked with the oasis of Ouargla—some 60 miles north—by a recently built concrete road. Heavy trucks roll over the road while camels plod through the sands nearby.

Most of the old-timers are proud of making it into an oil town.

None of the oil companies, however, has managed to solve the most acute problem — lack of women. The site is still not ready to install family dwellings, and anyway the added cost frightens the firms.

Alaskan Tromping to Florida

He Hoofs Into Ann Arbor After 1,500-Mile 'Stroll'

ANN ARBOR (AP)—John F. Frey, a 64-year-old Alaskan with sturdy legs, is best described as footloose.

He likes to take walks — long ones.

Walking John, as he bills himself, hoofed into town this week after a walk of some 1,500 miles from Regina, Sask. He walked every inch of the way, too, he said, never accepting a ride.

He said he stopped off here to cool his heels and let his mail catch up with him.

Frey plans to ankle out of town today to complete his stroll. He's walking all the way to the Florida Keys via Columbus, Ohio; Washington, Norfolk, Va.; Jacksonville and Tampa, Fla.

The highstepper expects to tromp into the Florida Everglades about 97 days from now.

His schedule is based on seven hours of walking a day, lugging a couple of packs that weigh 40 pounds. He's fleet afoot at three miles per hour, taking 2,400 steps to the mile, helped along by a mahogany walking stick.

Frey said he has been hiking around North America since he was 60.

His love of walking comes naturally. As a youth, he served in both the United States and Swiss armies and then became a surveyor.

He claims to have been the first man to walk the Alcan Highway from Dawson Creek, B. C., to Fairbanks, Alaska, where he hangs his walking shoes at home. That's a 1,521-mile trek that took 66 days.

Other of Frey's walks took him from New York to San Francisco and from the Golden Gate to Mexicali, Mexico. He said he has never accepted a ride although 11,000 cars have stopped to give him a lift.

Frey figures he has worn out three pairs of boots and 30 heels in his four years of hoofing. He says he's trekked 9,074 miles on foot.

Despite his crosscountry jaunts, Frey said he never misses a meal. His diet consists of oatmeal, milk and fruit.

Can Man Live on Space Trip?

Air Force Colonel Says No One Knows How Great Hazards Are

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—The hardware to shoot a man to the moon in a space ship may be in sight.

But a still unanswered question is: Could a human pilot survive the rifling bombardment of cosmic rays outside the earth's atmosphere?

"We really have no idea of how great the hazard may be," Col. David G. Simons, Air Force balloon explorer, told a man-on-the-moon symposium at Stanford University Tuesday.

Simons reached 102,000 feet in a balloon flight last year and has two gray hairs on his forearm as a result. He said photoplate evidence indicates a hit from a primary ray killed the pigment cells of the hairs.

Relatively, Simons said, the heavy primary rays are like rifle bullets and nuclear radiation like shotgun pellets.

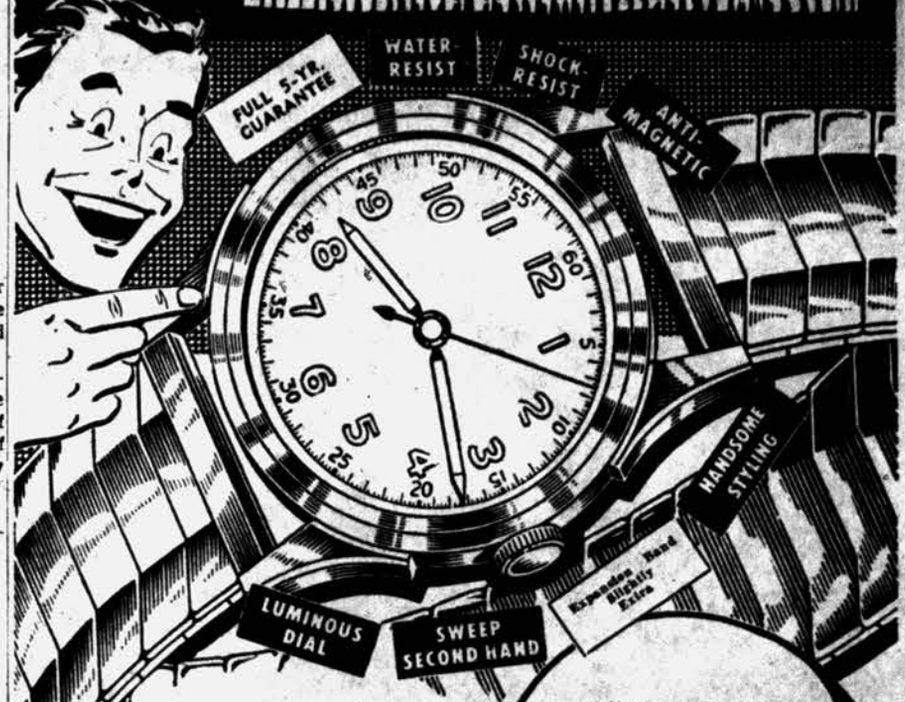

Beyond 150,000 feet altitude, man would encounter primary rays ranging free and unchecked by atmospheric molecules.

Simons said the University of Chicago is attempting to develop a device for a comprehensive check of the density of the exploded atom particles in space.

"We do have tenuous evidence for assuming man could survive up to 24 hours of cosmic radiation," Simons told the closing symposium of the American Astronautical Society's Western region.

Labor Reform Full-Blown Campaign Issue in Congressional Election

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor reform—and what Congress failed to do about it—is now a full-blown campaign issue in the 1958 congressional election.

Democrats and Republicans will blame each other for what didn't come to pass. But the fact is neither side looks pretty in this one.

President Eisenhower has already rushed to the defense of his Republicans with a statement yesterday. This is how it started and ended:

Last January Eisenhower proposed—as a result of disclosures by the Senate Rackets Committee—a 12-point labor reform program.

The Democratic-run Senate on June 17 passed its own bill which fell short of all Eisenhower wanted. It was sponsored by Senators Irving M. Ives (R-NY) and John F. Kennedy (D-Mass).

Republicans and Democrats teamed up to shove it through 88-1.

This bill sought to throttle racketeering by both unions and employers. It would have required detailed reports on union affairs and funds, along with reports by employers on how much money they spent on labor relations activities.

Further, it would have barred convicted crooks from holding union office, required secret ballot union elections for limited terms, and let union members sue to recover stolen union funds or property. And it would have made management representatives take a non-Communist oath, just as union leaders have to do.

Then the bill went over to the Democratic-run House. There the leaders of the House Democrats, Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, bottled it up 41 days by keeping it on his desk. He finally sent it to the House Labor Committee for consideration July 29. Why the delay?

He explained: He didn't want to get it entangled with another piece of labor legislation the Labor Committee was considering.

But the House Labor Committee is run by Democrats. They didn't want any part of the Ives-Kennedy bill. In fact 16 of them, joined by six Republicans, voted against even considering the bill. The committee also voted against considering a Republican-backed substitute.

Finally, the bill was yanked out of the committee's hands and thrown before the full House for action. Under the special procedure used, the bill couldn't be amended. It also required a two-thirds vote for passage.

But then the Republicans got in their licks. They closed ranks to kill the bill on the floor. A big majority of them, joined by some Democrats, voted to kill the bill. It was killed.

Yet a big majority of Democrats on the floor voted for the bill. This was a switch for their party since an overwhelming number of Democrats in the Labor Committee had voted against ever letting the bill see the light of day.

Sen. Ives was incensed at what happened in the House. He said he was ashamed of it. But he also said: "A lot of House members were misled by false propaganda by the National Assn. of Manufacturers, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the American Retail Federation, the Teamsters, and the United Mine Workers. Can you imagine a more unholy alliance?"

Kennedy also struck out at the NAM. That organization's president, Milton C. Lightner, said it was true his organization had opposed the bill but he denied NAM pressure killed it.

So everything was confused but warming up for a who-struck-John fight in the campaign when Eisenhower issued a statement yesterday. He was highly critical of the Ives-Kennedy bill—although his Senate Republicans had voted overwhelmingly for it. He objected mostly on the grounds it didn't go far enough.

Then he proposed that Congress pass a labor reform bill to his liking before it quits this year. But Congress is only a few days away from quitting, and Eisenhower must know—since everyone else does—no other bill has a chance this year.

THE GUARDIAN—Dramatic symbol of the protection given our strategically-vulnerable big cities is this striking photograph. It shows a Nike-Ajax missile installation agianst the skyline of Cleveland, Ohio.

Rebel Dems to Demand Apologies at Convention

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — A group of anti-Williams Democrats, defeated by the regular Democratic Party in the Aug. 5 primary, today prepared to toss a series of political firecrackers at the Democratic State Convention here this weekend.

The shots were in the form of resolutions aimed at Gov. G. Mennen Williams and state chairman Neil Staebler. They were adopted by delegates and directors of the State Democratic Club of Michigan Inc., at the Morton Hotel yesterday and will be laid before the convention rules committee Friday.

The resolutions demand recognition of the club's "worthy purpose" as a forum for all Democrats and that the club be given time at the convention to explain its activities. They also demand that the club be represented on the Democratic ticket this fall and that Staebler apologize for alleged "false and derogatory statements" he made about the club.

Opposition candidates nominated by the club for governor, lieutenant governor and U. S. senator in the August primary surprised many Democrats by polling 20 per cent of the total party vote.

The candidates campaigned mainly on the charge that Williams and Staebler had turned the party over to United Auto Workers chieftain Walter P. Reuther.

Attending the Morton Hotel conference were the club president, Norton M. Wisok, vice president and former congressman, Frank E. Hook, treasurer, Michael T. Mohardt, secretary, Theodore G. Albert and a number of directors and delegates.

Bee Proves His Undoing

TOKYO (UPI) — Automobile salesman Kasei Ikeshita drove his car into a telephone pole today when he took his hands off the wheel to lash out at a bumblebee that flew in a window of the auto. He suffered facial cuts, but the bee escaped unhurt.

She's Not Very Loyal

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Henrietta Olivarez was arraigned on a grand larceny charge in the theft of $1,000 from the Topeka furniture store where she worked. Police said she told them she used half the money to pay bills. The other half? She spent it, officers said, for furniture — at another store.

Carrier Enterprise Goes to Her Doom

NEW YORK (AP)—The "Big E," a terror to the enemy in nearly every major Pacific sea battle during World War II, goes meekly to her doom today.

The 834-foot aircraft carrier Enterprise, rendered obsolete by the jet and atomic age, makes her final voyage—from the Brooklyn Navy Yard to Kearny, N. J., where she'll be dismantled.

The flagship of Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey (Ret.), she was credited with downing 911 enemy planes, sinking 71 ships and damaging 192 others.

The late James Forrestal, secretary of the Navy, described the "Big E" at the war's end as "the one vessel that most nearly symbolizes the history of the Navy in this war."

Halsey last year headed efforts to raise a million dollars and set the Enterprise up as a national shrine. But ill health forced him to abandon the project and it fell through.

Last June the hull and machinery of the stripped-down, 20,000-ton ship were auctioned off to the firm of Lipsett, Inc., for $561,133.

Ex-Polish Ship Captain Now Selling Ice Cream

By MARK SHEEHAN

CLIFTON, N. J. (AP) — Jan Cwiklinski has no regrets.

Ten years ago he was captain of the Polish transatlantic liner Batory.

Today he works 16 hours a day in a roadside ice cream stand.

"I need a piece of bread," he says, "so I sell ice cream to get it. In Poland, when there is a knock on the door, you don't know if it is the milkman with the milk or the security police come to take you to jail. Here I am a free man, I work hard, but I sleep."

Nine years ago, when the Batory was docked in New York, Gerhart Eisler, reportedly America's top Communist, came aboard as a sightseer and stowed away in the laundry.

Eisler was free on bail after his conviction on perjury charges in connection with a passport declaration.

When Eisler presented himself at sea, the captain knew there would be trouble. He radioed New York and Warsaw as well as the ship's destination, London, informing authorities Eisler was aboard.

The United States wanted Eisler returned. Poland wanted him brought safely to Communist territory. Capt. Cwiklinski turned the matter over to the Polish consul at London.

The consul refused to surrender Eisler, but Scotland Yard men boarded the ship and carried him off.

After that the Batory was barred from ports in the United States.

Capt. Cwiklinski fled the ship in London in 1953. He worked for Radio Free Europe, and wrote a book, "The Captain Leaves His Ship."

He came to the United States in 1954. He saw a newspaper advertisement offering to sell ice cream stand franchises, and he bought one. He had money from the sale of his book and television rights to his story.

He says the work is harder than that of a ship captain, but it pays better too. As captain of the Batory, one of Poland's two transatlantic liners, he was paid only the equivalent of $65 a month.

The 57-year-old captain speaks English well. It is one of seven languages he knows.

Cwiklinski is a big man, almost 6 feet and 180 pounds. His hair is thinning, and turning from black to gray. Occasionally he wears horn-rimmed glasses, and when he smiles he shows gold-capped teeth.

How does he feel now, working in an ice cream stand, sleeping in a trailer behind the stand? It's not like the captain's quarters on a transatlantic liner. The Batory is steaming these days between Poland, Denmark, England and Canada. Doesn't he feel he is going to waste?

"No, no. A seaman is always ready. The time will come when they will need us—all Polish seamen like me who are without ships. Also a merchant sea captain is the same as commander should war come. I hope there will not be another war, but is there another solution?"

Transatlantic liner captains are considered by many to be at the top of their profession. Would Cwiklinski accept a smaller ship, a freighter, say? His answer is plain:

"Anything. I would like any kind of duty. For a captain there is no question. It is a question of the sea and the power which is in a captain's hands. It's a thrill to be a captain. Someday I would like to be one again."

The captain has a wife and two children in Poland. His daughter is 22, and attends a university. His son is 12. The Communists once took their house away but returned it.

He communicates with his family indirectly, and rarely, because he is an unpopular man in Poland. His wife is working, and he sends parcels—"bolts of cloth and things like that, things she can sell."

Someday he hopes they can get back together, just as some day he hopes to get back to sea.

It takes a GIANT to set America in motion

This year millions of footloose travelers will buy tickets to romantic places. They'll pay several billion dollars to get where they're going by bus, plane, ship and train.

The transportation industry employs hundreds of thousands of people. It spends billions for equipment. It performs a gigantic task in carrying its passengers safely, surely and swiftly to their destinations.

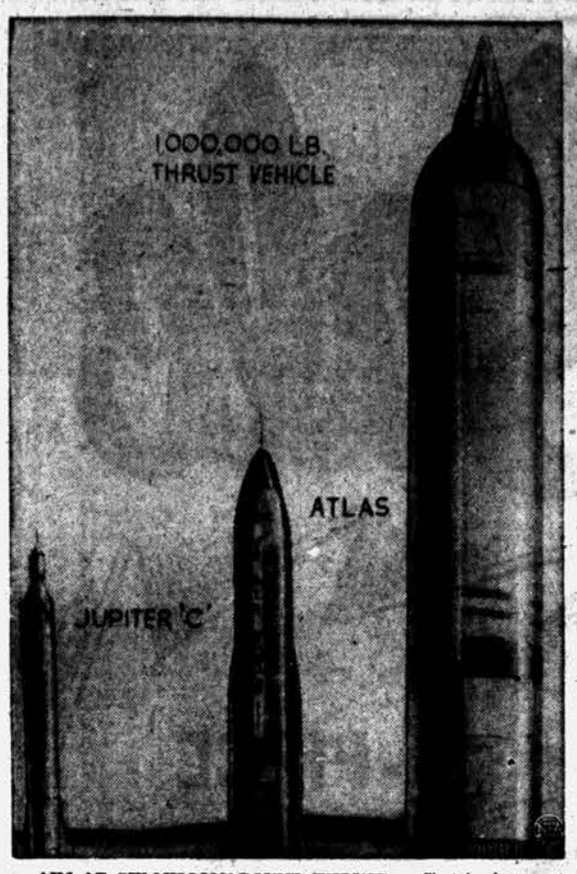

Transportation space is possibly our most perishable product. An accommodation that has not been sold by the time a trip has begun is never sold. To help keep its product sold, transportation turns to another giant—the daily newspaper, the number one travel medium.

Last year the travel industry spent $58,266,000 in newspapers to attract the greatest number of ticket-buying travelers in history. More money is spent in newspapers—by all kinds of advertisers—because newspapers set people in motion—buying.

All business is local . . . and so are all newspapers

AIM AT SIX-MILLION-POUND THRUST — Sketch shows, at right, a projected missile that can be boosted with a million-pound thrust engine. It is compared for size with well-known existing missiles. Rocketdyne division of North American Aviation, Inc., has just received an Air Force contract to build major components for the unprecedented engine. An essential step toward interplanetary exploration, the development of a single-chambered engine in the one-million-pound class will make a cluster of six for a six-million-pound thrust relatively easy. The million-pound engine will have a liquid propellant system, similar to those used in the Rocketdyne engines for the Atlas ICBM, the Thor and Jupiter IBM's and the Redstone missile that provided the first-stage boost for the satellite-launching Jupiter-C.

Pontiac City Affairs

Three to Work Out Details of Traffic Bureau Shift

Mayor pro tem John A. Dugan and Commissioners Floyd P. Miles and Philip E. Rowston will work out details of the transfer of the Traffic Violations Bureau from the Police Department to the Municipal Court.

The tree-man committee will meet with Municipal Judges Maurice E. Finnegan and Cecil McCallum to draw up an ordinance effecting the switch.

Already on record as approving the move, the commission as a whole will have the final decision on the ordinance.

The switch is also favored by the judges and the Public Administrations Service study of the police department.

Commissioners had only a few items of business before them at their regular meeting this week.

They scheduled for final action next week an ordinance rezoning 26 lots on the south side of Montcalm street between Baldwin avenue to the Pontiac, Oxford & Northern Railroad from Residence 2 and Commercial 1 to Commercial 2.

Two petitions were sent to the Planning Commission. One is for rezoning 122 W. Howard St. from Residential 2 to Commercial 2. The other asks the city to vacate the alley running from E. Pike street to Lois street between N. Sanford and Ardmore streets.

Five public hearings were held, involving:

Construction of a sanitary sewer on the north side of Montcalm at Lakeside drive; assessment rolls for curbing and gutters on Longfellow avenue, University to the Pontiac, Oxford & Northern Railroad; assessment rolls for a sanitary sewer on Lounsbury avenue, from Stanley west about 300 feet; assessment rolls for a sanitary sewer on Montcalm, Wing to Portland; and vacating of a small triangular piece of land at Perry street and N. East boulevard.

After the last mentioned hearing, the land involved was vacated to the Inch Memorial Co., whose property adjoins it. Vacating the property came about as a result of the Perry street widening project.

Shorts-Wearing Auto Repairman Raising a Din

DARTFORD, England (UPI)—A man's home may be his castle, but can he repair automobiles in his back yard in his shorts?

Automobile repairman Tom Cobbold and some of his unhappy neighbors today awaited the answer to that question.

A group of Cobbold's neighbors told the Dartford Council some time ago, "Cobbold must go."

They complained Cobbold "lowered the tone" of the neighborhood. Not only did he turn out in shorts in hot weather, they said, but he made a terrible din banging out dented fenders.

Furthermore, they protested, his paint spraying smelled.

Dartford Council ruled Cobbold would have to move the one-man shop he has operated behind his house for four years.

Cobbold, 48, appealed the decision yesterday at the hearing conducted by a Housing Ministry inspector.

"Cobbold often goes right out into the road with only a pair of short on to inspect cars," said one of the neighbors, Kenneth Clements.

"My wife, who is at home all day, finds it objectionable to see him so scantily dressed."

So what, said Cobbold. He named two neighbors who also wore shorts.

"If it comes to a beauty contest I am sure I have a better looking body than either of them," he said.

Cold Cuts With a Difference!

PICKLE BOLOGNA TURTLES—Add interest to children's parties and mealtimes with Pickle Bologna Turtles, the newest sandwich rage. They're fun and easy-to-make. Serve with fruit and sweet mixed pickles.

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Our article last week on the hot dog started something. We have looked into the whole subject of lunch meats and find them fascinating. Historically, they are the oldest known form of processed meat. Some varieties are thousands of years old.

According to tradition, salami was named because it was the victory meat developed for celebrations following the ancient Greek defeat of the Persian fleet at Salamis. Some kinds of sausage were commonplace in China and Babylon 4,000 years ago.

Each nation has added its favorite to the list: Bologna, Italy contributed bologna; Germany developed a number of sausages. From the British we got corned beef; the Hungarians gave us kolbase. And so it goes from all over the world. But the modern cold-cuts are thoroughly American. They're delightful additions to our diet, especially in warm weather.

Just a word of warning! Keep all cold meats well refrigerated and use them before they are too old. If you have any doubts about their freshness and goodness, feed them to the cat.

Children will love sandwiches that look like little turtles. Even grown-ups will be intrigued by them.

Pickle Bologna Turtles

1 pint cottage cheese
½ cup chopped sweet mixed pickles
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
12 bologna slices
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
Sweet gherkin slices
6 slices white bread, trimmed

Combine cheese, sweet mixed pickles, garlic salt, salt and paprika. Mix well and place by tablespoonfuls on 6 bologna slices. Top with remaining bologna slices and fasten with toothpicks. Place on broiler rack.

Combine chili sauce and mayonnaise; blend and brush on bologna. Broil 3-4 inches from source of heat 4-5 minutes, or until lightly browned. Remove toothpicks. Insert gherkins between bologna slices to resemble turtle head and feet. Serve on bread. Makes six.

You've all heard of the Hero Sandwich. Now you can go it one better and serve the Uncle Sam Sandwich. Developed by two home economists, it calls for a gigantic loaf of French bread (for an Uncle Sam Sandwich?) and a great variety of your favorite cold-cuts.

The Uncle Sam

1 loaf French bread, 8 to 8 feet long
Butter or margarine
Prepared mustard with dash of Worcestershire sauce and horseradish
Lettuce leaves
Sliced sharp cheddar cheese
50-100 slices assorted cold cuts and sausages
2 to 4 dozen sweet gherkin pickles, sliced lengthwise
8 medium onions, sliced

Cut bread into halves, lengthwise. Spread cut surfaces with butter or margarine. Spread bottom half with seasoned mustard. Arrange lettuce leaves over mustard. Place sliced cheese on bottom layer, then overlap assorted cold cuts over cheese, making certain meat completely covers bottom half of sandwich. Arrange sliced pickles and onions on meat. Place top half of loaf over filling.

To serve, cut sandwich crosswise and diagonally into three-inch lengths.

If your family is tired of scrambled eggs served in the usual manner for breakfast, give them a welcome change by filling bologna cups with the creamy eggs. The Ten-Year-Old loves these bologna cups just plain or filled with baked beans.

Bologna Cups

12 slices of large bologna, cut about ⅛ inch thick
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
6 to 8 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Brown 6 bologna slices in frying-pan in lard or drippings. As meat heats, it will curl to form inverted cups. Remove from pan. Chop remaining 6 bologna slices. Combine chopped meat, eggs, milk and pepper. Pour into frying-pan and cook slowly until set, stirring occasionally. Fill bologna cups with egg mixture. Yield: 6 servings.

Tender Veal Kidneys Served on Muffins

You may be acquainted with veal kidneys that are cut with chops and sold as kidney chops, but have you tried veal kidneys separately?

Veal Kidneys With Mushrooms

2 veal kidneys
¼ cup bacon drippings
¼ cup diced onions
1 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 can chopped mushrooms
½ cup water
Muffins or toast

Cut fat and membrane from kidneys. Split through center and remove fat and heavy veins. Cut into ½-inch cubes. Cook onions in hot drippings until soft; add kidneys and cook 10 minutes longer, or until meat is lightly browned. Stir in flour, salt, and pepper; add mushrooms and water.

Heat to boiling, stirring constantly, then cover and simmer over low heat 20 minutes. Serve over hot muffins or toast. 4 to 6 servings.

Bananas, Coffee Flavor Drink

During the long, hot summer months, teenagers love tall, frosty drinks and Panama Coolers are just the ticket! They can make the coolers themselves by simply combining zesty coffee, smooth banana, cream sda and evaporated milk in a blender. Then listen to their praises—and you'll want to try one yourself!

Panama Cooler

2 cups stron cold coffee
2 ripe bananas
½ cup evaporated milk
1 quart cream soda

Combine coffee, bananas cut in chunks, and evaporated milk in electric blender or small bowl of electric mixer. Blend or beat until smooth and creamy. Divide equally among 6 tall glasses and fill glasses with ice cold cream soda. Stir gently to mix.

Veal Needs Spicy Sauce

In a large skillet, lightly saute ¼ cup instant minced onion and 1 diced green pepper in 2 to 3 tablespoons hot olive oil. Add 1 pound veal, cut into cubes and brown on all sides.

Add 1 cup Spanish type tomato sauce, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon crumbled whole oregano leaves, ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper, ½ teaspoon parsley flakes and ¼ teaspoon garlic powder. Cover and cook slowly until done, 45 to 55 minutes. Serves 3 to 4.

Lemon, Spice Peps Up Bland Blueberries

Lemon and spice give blueberry pie extra-good flavor.

Blueberry Pie

Pastry for a 2-crust 9-inch pie plate,
½ of a small lemon,
4 cups blueberries (washed and drained),
¾ cup sugar,
2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca,
dash of salt,
¼ teaspoon cinnamon,
heavy cream.

Roll out half of pastry and fit into 9-inch pie plate. Grate rind and squeeze juice from lemon; mix with blueberries. Stir sugar, tapioca, salt and cinnamon together; mix gently with berries.

Fill pastry-lined plate with berries. Roll out remaining pastry and fit over berries for top crust, sealing edges. Brush top crust with cream. Cut gashes in top crust to allow steam to escape.

Bake in hot (400 degrees) oven 45 minutes or until juice bubbles. Serve with heavy cream, plain or whipped.

Buttercup Toast Cups

Buttercups demonstrate a new way to toast bread for a "new look" in open-face sandwiches. Trim crusts from slices of fresh enriched bread. Brush lightly with melted butter or margarine. Press into muffin cups. Place in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) until lightly toasted, 10 to 15 minutes. Fill with poultry, meat or seafood salad.

Coconut Tops Colorful Dish

Ice cream has become an everyday family food, kept on hand in the home freezer to create plain and fancy desserts at the drop of a hat. Because ice cream compliments so many other foods, it's fun to experiment with different combinations. There are literally hundreds of wonderful, simple-to-make possibilities.

Frozen Sunshine will make a hit for either family or party table. Canned peach halves and vanilla ice cream form the base. Sparkling red grenadine syrup and toasted coconut topping add unusual flavor and texture. Try it for that quick-to-prepare dessert or special snack treat.

Frozen Sunshine

¼ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 cup moist flaked coconut
6 canned or fresh peach halves
6 tablespoons grenadine syrup
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Mix together the brown sugar and butter; toss mixture with coconut. Brown lightly in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 5 minutes. Cool. To make each serving, place a peach half hollow side up in sherbet or dessert dish; fill hollow with a tablespoonful of grenadine syrup. Top with a large scoop of ice cream; sprinkle with coconut topping. Makes 6 servings.

Quickie Sweet Rolls

Place packaged refrigerated ready-to-bake biscuits close together in a 9-inch pie plate. Sprinkle the tops of the biscuits with a mixture of brown sugar and soft butter. Bake in a hot oven until the tops of the biscuits are brown and bubbly. Serve at once.

Bake This Cheese Bread for Ambrosia Sandwich

That sandwich-time favorite, cheese, has done an about-face. Most often between two slices of bread, this time it's baked right in the bread. Cheddar Cheese Bread is delicious for sandwiches, and for toast to serve with salads.

Cheddar Cheese Bread

2 packages yeast, compressed or dry
½ cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)
2 cups milk
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons melted shortening
6¼ cups sifted enriched flour (about)
1½ cups grated Cheddar cheese (6 ounces)

Soften yeast in water. Scald milk. Add sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour, stirring well. Add softened yeast and cheese. Add enough more flour to make a moderately stiff dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead until smooth and satiny.

Shape into ball and place in lightly greased bowl. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled (about 1½ hours). Punch down. Divide dough into two equal portions. Shape each portion into smooth ball. Let rest 10 minutes.

Shape into loaves. Place in greased loaf pan, 5¼x9½ inches. Let rise until doubled (about 1 hour). Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) 35 to 40 minutes.

Cheese Bread Ambrosia Sandwiches

3 ounces cream chese, softened
½ cup whole cranberry sauce, drained
12 slices cheese bread, toasted
Lettuce leaves
2 ripe bananas, thinly sliced
6 slices pineapple, well drained
Mayonnaise or salad dressing

Mix thoroughly the cream cheese and cranberry sauce. Spread on half the toasted bread slices. Cover cranberry mixture with lettuce. Arrange banana slices over lettuce and top with pineapple slices.

Spread remaining toast with mayonnaise or salad dressing and cover pineapple slices to close sandwiches. Secure with wooden picks and cut into halves. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Easy Homemade Sodas

If you prefer ice cream sodas — home-style, try this: Into a large glass, put about one third cup of crushed, sweetened fruit — strawberries, raspberries, peaches, apricots, pineapple — or about three tablespoons of syrup — chocolate, maple — any you prefer, then a scant one fourth cup of chilled milk, a large scoop of ice cream, and almost fill with chilled sparkling water. Stir. Add straws and serve.

Fresh Limes Add Tang to Cool Desserts

All year long we use and enjoy our refrigerators and freezers but during the summer months they truly have an honored place in our lives. When the weather's hot it's smart to prepare food early in the day and let the refrigerators do the rest!

Here's a dessert that uses convenient condensed milk and cool-looking shiny green Persian limes and then firms itself in your refrigerator tray until serving time.

Persian limes, the big-as-lemon ones you see in your stores, are from Florida and the nice part about them is the quantity of juice they contain and the fact that they are seedless.

Limes are the one Florida citrus fruit that are a deep green when ripe and which reach maturity during the summer months. Their color and tang make them just right for use in 'ades, as garnishes, and in desserts.

Lime Freeze Deluxe

3 tablespoons butter, melted
1 cup fine graham cracker crumbs (12 2½-inch squares)
2 eggs, separated
1 15-ounce can sweetened condensed milk
1 tablespoon grated lime rind
½ cup lime juice
¼ cup sugar

Combine butter and graham cracker crumbs. Press 2-3 cup of crumb mixture on bottom and sides of a lightly buttered refrigerator tray; chill. Beat egg yolks until thick; combine with condensed milk. Stir in lime rind and juice; mix well. Tint pale green with few drops green food coloring, if desired.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; gradually add sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into lime-milk mixture. Turn into prepared refrigerator tray; sprinkle edge with remaining crumbs. Place in freezer or freezing compartment of refrigerator and chill until firm, about 6 hours. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Limeade Snow

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups very hot water
1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrated limeade
2 unbeaten egg whites

Mix together gelatine, sugar and salt. Add very hot water and stir until gelatine is thoroughly dissolved. Add undiluted limeade concentrate and stir until blended. Chill until mixture is slightly thicker than the consistency of unbeaten egg white.

Add unbeaten egg whites and beat with rotary or electric beater until mixture begins to hold its shape. (To speed up chilling and beating time, set mixture over ice and water.) Turn into a 6 or 7-cup mold or individual molds, or spoon into dessert dishes; chill until firm.

Unmold (if molded) and serve with Custard Sauce, which utilizes 2 remaining egg yolks. Yield: 8 servings.

Custard Sauce

1⅛ cups milk
1 whole egg
2 egg yolks
3 tablespoons sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Scald milk in top of double boiler. Beat whole egg and egg yolks; stir in sugar and salt. Gradually add small amount of the hot milk, stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and cook, stirring constantly, over hot, not boiling water, until mixture coats the spoon. Remove from heat; cool. Stir in vanilla.

Cultured Cream Adds Gourmet Taste

Both buttermilk and cultured cream have been handed down to us from a generation or two ago, when grandmother made her own butter from cream she got by milking her own cows. The cream was allowed to sour before churning. Sometimes grandmother wouldn't churn the cream, but instead would use it as clabber.

When the family cow and home separating of cream went out of style, so did clabber or sour cream. But in recent years, it has been making a comeback, produced under carefully controlled conditions by commercial dairies.

You can use today's cultured cream to make some delightful salad dressings or toppings for other foods. For example, in making potato salad, use equal parts cultured cream and mayonnaise mixed with cooked potatoes, celery and eggs.

Use sour cream and mayonnaise with shredded cabbage in coleslaw. And cultured cream with a touch of vinegar over sliced cucumbers helps you to feel that Spring has come.

BROILED SHOULDER LAMB CHOPS — Parsleyed potatoes fill the center of this lamb chop platter. Round bone lamb shoulder chops, shown here, are equally as flavorful and often less expensive than the loin chops. Add a salad of sliced tomatoes and cucumbers, warm yeast rolls, and a rhubarb pineapple pie to the meal featuring broiled chops.

Make Low Fat Dishes More Interesting

Now you can eat like a gourmet, even if your doctor has put you on a low-fat diet!

There used to be a time when low-fat diets, prescribed because of high blood cholesterol, meant dull and unappetizing meals. This was largely due to the lack of a suitable shortening and table spread. But times have changed, thanks to a new margarine made chiefly from nonhydrogenated corn oil.

Substituting this new margarine for forbidden fats not only puts the pleasure back into eating, but, according to a report presented at the annual meeting of the American Medical Association, significantly lowers blood cholesterol levels, as well. High blood cholesterol is believed related to the most serious form of hardening of the arteries.

The new margarine can be used in cooking, flavoring vegetables and as a table spread, which incidentally every member of the family can enjoy. It is sold only in drugstores.

When preparing low-fat meals, experiment with unusual herbs and seasonings, too. You will find that their subtle flavors considerably enhance meat and fish dishes, in particular.

Curried Fish

1½ pounds dressed fish
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1 small onion chopped
¼ cup chopped celery
1 teaspoon margarine made from corn oil
2 tablespoons flour
Skim milk
1 teaspoon curry powder
Salt to taste
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Place fish in a shallow pan, adding small quantity of water. Cover and simmer until tender, about 10 minutes. Drain and save the liquid. Combine the next four ingredients. Cook for a few minutes, stirring frequently, until lightly browned. Shake flour and liquid from simmered fish together in a covered jar. Pour into a cup measure and add skim milk to fill cup. Pour mixture into a pan and cook over low heat until thickened, stirring constantly.

Add browned vegetables, curry powder, and salt to taste. Remove skin and bones from cooked fish. Arrange fish on hot platter with a border of flaky rice. Pour sauce over fish and sprinkle top with 2 tablespoons chopped parsley. (Serves 6).

Burgers — Deluxe

2 pounds ground round steak (very lean)
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1½ teaspoon rosemary, crushed
1½ cloves garlic, crushed
3 tablespoons margarine made from corn oil
1½ cups chopped onion
4-ounce can mushrooms, drained
Paprika

Combine and mix the steak, salt, pepper, rosemary and garlic until well blended. Shape into patties, cupping down the center. Place on broiler rack and broil slowly until done all the way through with tops nicely browned.

While meat is broiling, make a sauce by sauteeing together until lightly browned, margarine, onion, and mushrooms. Add paprika and salt to taste. When patties are ready, remove from oven, place on individual squares of foil; surround with ring of mashed potatoes and fill center of patties with sauce. (Serves 6).

Baked Halibut Mousse

½ pound halibut steak
1 teaspoon onion juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ cup skim milk
1 tablespoon melted corn oil margarine
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of white pepper
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Remove skin and bones from halibut steak. Put raw fish through food chopper using fine blade. Mix with onion, lemon juice and seasoning. Stir in skim milk mixed with melted corn oil margarine. Fold in beaten egg whites. Place in greased custard cups.

Place cups in a pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees F., for 20 minutes. Serve with Yogurt Cucumber Sauce. (Serves 4-5).

Yogurt Cucumber Sauce

Combine ½ cup nonfat yogurt; 2 tablespoons vinegar; 2 tablespoons sugar; ¼ teaspoon dry mustard; ½ cup finely chopped cucumber; 1 teaspoon grated onion; ½ teaspoon salt; paprika and pepper to taste.

REFRESHING SHERBET — Refreshing Pineapple Mint Sherbet is versatile as a dessert or a meat accompaniment. It's not too high in calories either.

Cool, Green Sherbet Delicious With Meat

Victorian menus featured fruit sherbets in both cold and hot weather and served them not only for dessert but as an accompaniment to poultry or meat.

If you're interested in reviving this pleasant custom, here's a sherbet that's fine for all-year-round use because it's made from pantry shelf ingredients. Flavored with pineapple and mint, it's delightful with roast lamb. Serve it this way some Sunday when all the family's home and a few guests have been invited for dinner.

As a dessert, this sherbet is just dandy for weight-watchers. It rings up only 104 calories per half-cup serving, due in part to the fact that it is made with nonfat dry milk.

Pineapple Mint Sherbet

3 cups liquefied instant nonfat dry milk
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon peppermint extract
¾ cup well-drained crushed pineapple
Green food coloring

Set refrigerator control at coldest point. Pour liquefied instant nonfat dry milk into top of double boiler; add gelatin and allow to soften. Add sugar. Place over hot water; stir until sugar and gelatin are dissolved. Remove from heat; add peppermint extract and pineapple; stir to mix. Tint mixture pale green with food coloring.

Pour into refrigerator freezing tray; cover with waxed paper, place in freezing unit until mixture is a firm mush (about 1 hour). Turn into chilled bowl and beat with rotary beater (hand or electric) until fluffy.

Quickly return to freezing tray and cover with waxed paper. Return to freezing unit and freeze until firm, about 2 hours. Makes eight ½ cup servings.

Orange Sauces Gives Chicken Tropical Air

Are you an indoor picnicker? Some people are. If so, you prefer dining in comfort without all the extra work that accompanies a picnic or cook-out. Here is a special recipe using frozen chicken parts . . . and canned condensed consomme touched with a bit of cloves and cinnamon. Even guests who are fussy about food will find this dish intriguing.

It's called South Sea Chicken and this is what you do: Thaw 2 packages (1-pound each) frozen chicken breasts, drumsticks, thighs or wings as directed on package. Coat chicken with flour . . . seasoned with salt; shake off excess. Brown in ¼ cup shortening in heavy skillet. Meanwhile combine 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed consomme, ½ teaspoon grated orange rind, 3 oranges (sectioned and drained), orange juice (plus enough water to make ½ cup), 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, ⅛ teaspoon ground cinnamon and ⅛ teaspoon ground cloves in a bowl.

Pour sauce over chicken. Cover and cook 45 minutes. Turn chicken now and then; spoon sauce over. Remove cover; continue cooking about 15 minutes, or until chicken is tender and sauce is thickened. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Pimiento Dots Color Biscuits

Pimientos work minor miracles in today's popular, quick and easy hot breads. With a minimum of time and effort, ready-to-bake biscuits, rolls, and breads are transformed into things of beauty and joys to taste by a twist, a slit, a strip of pimiento, and a sprinkle of cheese.

Bright red, zesty pimientos and golden cheese are long-time friends. Introduced into the hot bread dough, they make an oven-ready biscuit or loaf of bread look homemade, but festive, and taste, oh, so delicious. Try these quick pimiento tricks to add bright appeal and new flavor to your family's favorite hot breads.

Pimiento Butterflake Rolls

1 package brown 'n' serve butterflake rolls
1 can or jar (4 oz.) whole pimientos, cut into strips
Very thin strips of sharp cheese

Pull butterflake rolls apart on top just enough to insert alternating strips of pimientos and cheese in the indentations. Fasten strips in with toothpicks if necessary. Bake at 425 degrees for about 5 minutes.

Pimiento Biscuit Sandwiches

1 package oven-ready biscuits
Thin slices of cheese
1 can or jar (4 oz.) whole pimientos, chopped

Split biscuits in half and place thin slices of cheese on lower halves, sprinkling generously with pimientos. Top with the other halves and bake at 425 degrees for about 6 minutes.

Precautions Needed With Dry Ice Use

Vacationers and families who go on picnics have in recent years welcomed the convenient refrigerant known popularly as "dry ice," which effectively keeps foods and beverages cold for comparatively long periods of time.

However, the National Safety Council reports that carbon dioxide—an important ingredient of dry ice—in ten per cent concentration may produce unconscionusness and that larger quantities may cause death by suffocation.

A physician has cited a case report of an adult man and his mother who were overcome by carbon dioxide intoxication while driving in a car with windows closed. In the back of their car they were transporting 60 gallons of ice cream sealed in cartons packed with 100 pounds of dry ice.

Dealers in dry ice should be alerted to this danger and should warn customers to have adequate ventilation in cars carrying the refrigerant. Also, persons who use dry ice should be careful to protect their hands with heavy gloves when handling it, as direct contact may result in a nasty burn.

Ham Sandwich Baked Like Fondue

Outsides of sandwiches can be as intriguing as insides. Next time you go to the store, look for a bread that you don't use regularly; rye, or pumpernickel, or orange date bread, to name a few. Then use the new bread in an old favorite sandwich.

Home economists of the milling industry, remembering that August is Sandwich Month and noting that the U. S. Department of Agriculture says peaches are plentiful, have dreamed up a baked ham sandwich with peaches in it.

It's made by covering slices of buttered bread with slices of ham and topping them with fresh peach halves. You place the sandwiches in the bottom of a greased baking dish, brush the peach halves with butter and sprinkle with brown sugar. Then pour a mixture which contains one egg, a half cup of milk and a quarter teaspoon of salt for every two sandwiches, into the center of the baking dish and bake in a 350 degree oven for 35 minutes.

Summertime Hospitality Calls for Iced Tea

Iced tea and hospitality are naturals. They go together like sunshine and flowers. A combination of fresh fruit, chilled and cut in bite size pieces, are good accompaniments for iced tea.

For example, a fresh pineapple cut in bite size wedges, berries, orange sections, grapes and cherries make a delightfully attractive and mouth-watering spectacle. Tall frosty glasses of iced tea, topped off with sprigs of mint and lemon wedges, add to the colorful set-up.

And here's a bit of thoughtfulness your weight watching friends will appreciate. Use a non-caloric sweetener for iced tea. For example, a six-ounce serving of iced tea, when a non-caloric sweetener is used, give you only 4 calories . . . fewer than any other summer beverage (next to water).

To make 2 quarts or about 10 servings of iced tea, pre-measure one-third cup loose tea (or 15 teabags). Bring 1 quart of cold, fresh water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan. Remove from heat. Immediately add tea. Brew uncovered 5 minutes. Stir and strain into a pitcher holding 1 quart of cold water. Serve in tall, ice filled glasses with wedges of lemon and or sugar to taste.

Iced tea will keep its amber clear color longer when left at room temperature. If it should cloud, just add a little boiling water to restore its original color.

Eat Lobster Out of Hand

It makes good sense and it's certainly good fashion, to serve the first course in the living room. But the appetizer must be easy to handle and exciting to eat.

Such a first course is South African rock lobster. For living-room service, select the small, three or four-ounce tails, and allow one for each person. They can be prepared well before-hand and stored in the refrigerator—just waiting to be carried out on a petty tray. Guests help themselves, spoon this delightful variation of a Remoulade sauce over the tender, juicy tails and eat right from the gay, red shell.

To prepare, boil the tails in salted water for not more than 6 minutes. Drench with cold water, cut away the thin undershell and carefully remove meat in one piece. Save the shells and chill the cooked tails. Then slice each tail into medallions and replace pieces to simulate a whole rock lobster tail inserted upside-down in shell.

Remoulade For Rock Lobster

3 hard cooked egg yolks
¾ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon chopped gherkins
½ teaspoon anchovy paste
2 tablespoons heavy cream
2 teaspoons chopped parsley
1½ teaspoons Angostura bitters

Put egg yolks through sieve. Combine mayonnaise and vinegar with egg yolks and mustard. Blend thoroughly. Add parsley, gherkins. Blend thoroughly. Add anchovy paste, cream and Angostura. Blend thoroughly. Makes 1 cup.

Constant Watching Protects Produce

One of these times, you may get acquainted with a new emblem, a red-white-and blue shield, appearing on a bag of potatoes or a tube of tomatoes or some other package of fruit or vegetables. When you see it, it will be your guide to quality in whatever kind of fresh produce you're buying. The red-white-and blue shield will be the U.S. Department of Agriculture's mark for continuous inspection of fruits and vegetables.

Up to now, government inspectors have inspected fresh fruits and vegetables by taking a representative sample out of several hundred bushels and deciding whether the entire lot should be graded U. S. Number One, or U. S. Fancy, U. S. Grade B, or whatever the grade should be. Recently the Department of Agriculture offered the fruit and vegetable industry a continuous inspection service, in which a government inspector would be at the packing house all the time.

The service will be voluntary; it will be up to the farmer or shipper to decide if he wants it, and is willing to pay the cost. In addition to keeping an eye on the quality of the fruit or vegetables themselves, the inspector will see that the buildings are kept clean and sanitary.

The growers and shippers who meet all the requirements will be entitled to use the Government red-white-and blue shield on their packages. When it comes into use, it will help you judge the quality of the apples or tomatoes or lettuce when you buy.

ELEGANT PARTY TARTS — Hidden under the plump red strawberries is a layer of cream cheese. The base for these dainties is a shortcake you buy at the corner store. Nothing to it.

Cake Cups Hold Cheese, Berries

It's easy to make a party of any meal when you serve these dainty, elegant French Party Tarts. Juicy, red strawberries over a cream cheese filling on spongy shortcake dainties from your grocer's ready-to-eat cake department will bring spring to your table in a bright big way.

Chopped pistachio nuts garnishing the edge of each tart put the final gourmet touch on this Continental treat.

French Party Tarts

2 3-ounce packages cream cheese
¼ cup cream
1 teaspoon powdered sugar
1½ teaspoons vanilla
4-6 shortcake dainties
2 cups fresh strawberries
1 tablespoon cornstarch
⅔ cup sugar
¼ cup water
½ cup chopped pistachio nuts

Mix cream cheese, cream, sugar, and vanilla together. Fill center of shortcake dainties with cream cheese mixture. Chill. Mash ½ of the berries and add sugar.

Combine cornstarch and water and stir until free of lumps. Add to strawberry mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until clear and slightly thickened. Set pan in cold water and stir until sauce is cool. Fold in remaining berries halved or left whole.

Top cream cheese with berries. If desired, garnish edge of each tart lightly with chopped pistachio nuts. Serves 4 to 6.

Add enough butter to the pan, when you are frying eggs, so you can baste the yolks with it. Keep the heat low!

Dunk Pretzels in Hot Cheese

Pretzels have been in business ever since the good year A.D. 610, when an imaginative monk in a monastary high in the Alps invented the first looped and twisted treat that has delighed unnumbered millions since. And, though they have never changed their shape, texture, or goodness, there is always something new to go with them.

Hot Diggity Dip! It's a heart-warming, tangy cheese-egg-and-soup mixture that caresses a crisp pretzel as a pretzel should be tenderly taken. Crispness and melting goodness mingle in this rich flavor combination.

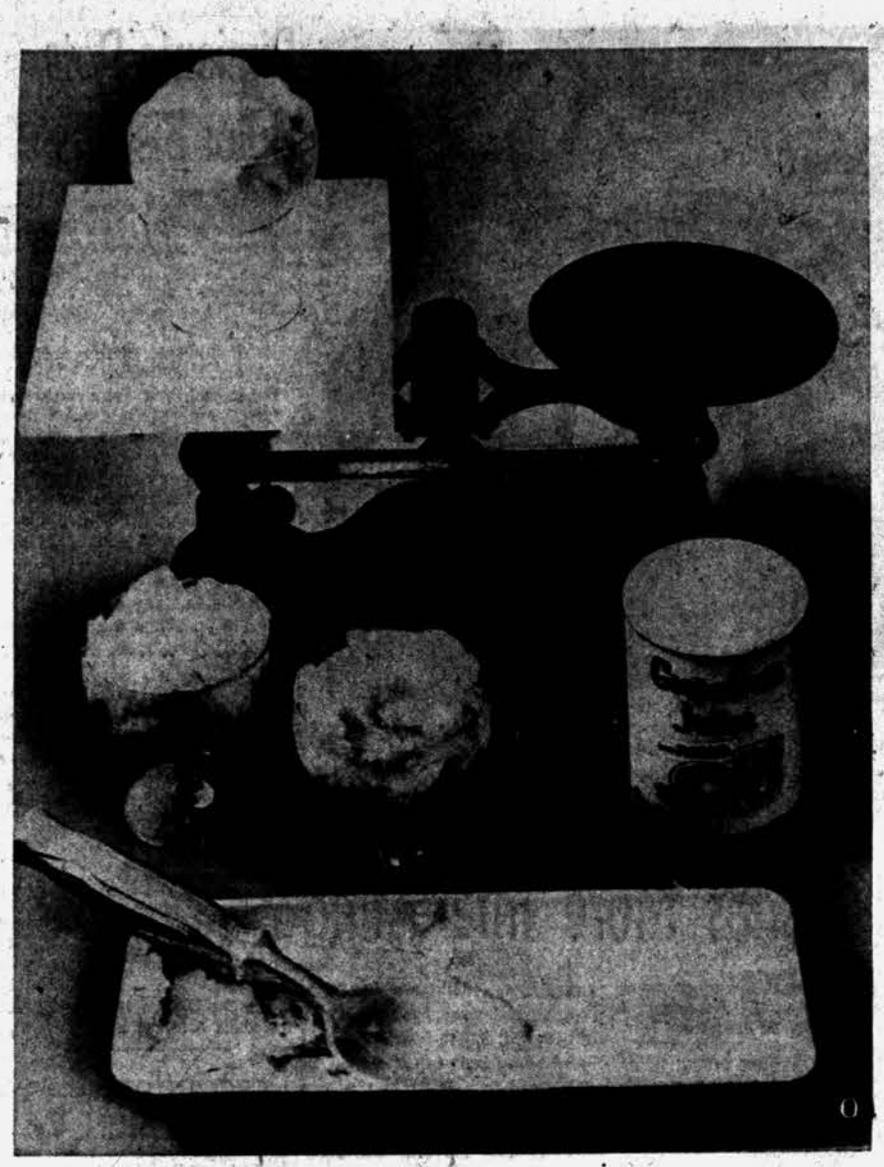

Serve Hot Diggity Dip and pretzels at your next party, large or small. Make plenty of the dip and heap the bowl nearby with pretzels. Then dunk away.

In chafing dish or heavy saucepan, heat 1 can condensed mushroom soup and 1 can condensed tomato soup together with ½ cup white wine. Simmer, but do not boil. Saute 2 tablespoons minced chives or green onions, and 2 tablespoons grated green pepper in 1 tablespoon butter. Add ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, plenty of freshly-ground black pepper, and a small pinch of cayenne pepper. Do not overcook chives-pepper mixture.

Stir this into the hot soup mixture, then add ½ lb. finely grated sharp cheddar cheese and stir over low heat till cheese melts. Remove from heat and stir into the mixture 1 well-beaten egg.

Keep mixture warm in chafing dish or sauce warmer for dipping crisp pretzels. If mixture becomes too thick, thin with white wine or milk.

FROZEN GRAPEFRUIT CREAM — A rich-tasting dessert for dieters that tips the caloric scales at only 74 calories per serving. Canned Florida grapefruit juice adds the refreshing tang.

ISLAND BRUNCH — Guests for brunch will be pleasantly surprised by food with an "Islands" flavor. Accompanying the thick ham steak are luscious baked bananas.

Entertain at Brunch in Hawaiian Style

If you're planning to entertain guests for the weekend this summer, or like to entertain with brunch on Sundays, try the easy "Islands" style with food. Give a brunch in the beautiful, carefree Hawaiian manner. It's fun, different, yet it's all done with familiar foods.

The main course is a handsome platter of baked whole bananas and thick ham steak, which is cut into individual portions and served with the bananas. The mellow tasting bananas, which give the platter such a wonderful party air, are easy to prepare with a delicious glaze of maple-blended syrup and tender-thin flaked coconut.

A new idea in breakfast first courses is the tempting Sunrise Sherbet. It is made with creamy evaporated milk for richness and velvety texture. Canned tropical punch gives it authentic island flavor and rich, rosy color. (You may wish to make a double quantity of this refreshing and inexpensive milk sherbet to serve all weekend long, either alone or as an addition to fruit cup or iced tea.)

Even the bread in this menu has a Hawaiian touch. Ordinary brown 'n' serve rolls are brushed with maple-blended syrup and topped with a sprinkling of chopped Hawaiian Macadamia nuts, then heated in the oven as directed on the package.

Baked Bananas Oahu With Coconut

6 ripe bananas
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
¾ cup maple-blended syrup
¾ cup tender-thin flaked coconut

Peel bananas and place in a well-greased baking dish. Brush thoroughly with butter or margarine and syrup. Sprinkle bananas with coconut. Bake in a 450 degree oven 8 to 10 minutes . . . or until bananas are easily pierced with a fork. Serve hot with syrup. Yield: 6 servings.

Sunrise Sherbet

1 cup evaporated milk
1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrated tropical punch
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
Few drops food coloring (optional)

Chill evaporated milk in freezer tray of refrigerator until ice crystals form around edges. Turn into chilled bowl and whip with rotary beater or high speed of electric mixer until milk is stiff.

Combine frozen concentrated tropical punch, sugar and salt; add to milk 1 tablespoon at a time, whipping until very stiff. Add food coloring, if desired.

Turn into freezer tray or loaf pan and freeze until firm. Use ice cream scoop to make "sunrise" serving. Garnish in "sunrise" style with canned pineapple slice.

One of the secrets of really fine fried chicken, Southern style, is to use small birds that get tender quickly.

Curry Gives Tang to Creamed Onions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vary the creamed onion routine with the tang of curry. Peel and cook 1 pounds small white onions in boiling salted water until tender.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, blend in 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon each of curry powder and salt, and ⅛ teaspoon black pepper.

Add 1½ cups milk, cook and stir until thickened. Drain onions, place in 1-quart baking dish, cover with sauce and sprinkle with ½ cup grated American cheese. Bake in preheated moderate (350 degree) oven 10 minutes. Serves 6-8.

Melon, Ham Canapes

Mix 3-ounce package cream cheese with 2 tablespoons deviled ham, one-third cup minced fresh cantaloupes, and ⅛ teaspoon ground ginger. Spread on melba toast or crackers. Garnish with small pieces of ripe cantaloupe. Serve with fruit juice or cocktails.

Stuffed Buns Delight Summer Sandwich Eaters

Sandwiches can be varied in so many appetizing and nutritious ways. Your baker and grocer have countless ideas on their shelves for breads and spreads. Take them home and add your own special touch, such as the scooped-out buns used in Bacon 'n' Egg Stuffed Buns.

Ready in minutes, these surprise buns are scooped out and filled with creamy egg salad mixed with bacon crumbles and chopped ripe olives. A fresh fruit salad and cold beverage make this a welcome hot weather lunch or dinner.

By making sure that the breads you choose are enriched, you'll provide your family with three needed B-vitamins and food iron. Sandwich fillings, such as meats, cheese, eggs and peanut butter, are rich in protein, and bread gives active children and adults plenty of energy.

Bacon 'n' Egg Stuffed Buns

6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped.
4 slices crisp bacon, crumbled.
⅓ cup chopped ripe olives.
⅓ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing.
6 enriched hamburger buns.

Combine eggs, bacon, olives and mayonnaise and mix well. Cut tops from buns. Scoop out nest in buns. Fill with generous amount of egg mixture and replace tops of buns. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Double the Meat in Hamburgers

This year's hamburger has gourmet appeal. It's really two hamburgers-in-one, molded around a slice of tomato with a sprinkling of cheese and minced parsley. Broil the jumbo hamburger, serve on garlic-buttered buns, and bite into one of the tastiest hot sandwiches ever.

Stuffed Hamburgers De Luxe

1½ pounds ground beef
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
½ teaspoon thyme
⅓ cup butter or margarine, softened
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
6 thin slices tomato
2 tablespoons minced parsley
½ cup grated sharp cheese
6 enriched hamburger buns

Mix thoroughly ground beef, salt, pepper, monosodium glutamate and thyme. Divide hamburger mixture into 12 equal portions. Flatten each portion to patty about 3 inches in diameter.

On 6 hamburger patties, place tomato slices. Sprinkle parsley over tomato slices. Cover parsley with grated cheese. Top with remaining hamburger patties and seal edges.

Blend thoroughly butter or margarine and garlic powder. Split hamburger buns and spread all halves with garlic butter. Toast under broiler until lightly browned. Broil stuffed hamburgers until well browned on both sides. Serve on toasted buns. Makes 6 sandwiches.

If you sprinkle your salmon steaks with lemon juice, as well as with melted butter before broiling, they'll taste especially savory.

MACARONI SALAD LOAF — This unusual main course salad is made with macaroni, chicken, mushrooms and cheese. Although it has to be baked, it is served cold. Try it for a summer buffet.

Macaroni Loaf Served Cold

A cold macaroni loaf, baked and then chilled makes an attractive summer luncheon or Sunday night supper. Like molded gelatin salads, it's a fix-ahead dish . . . just slice and serve.

Since the main course is fairly substantial . . . why not serve a bowl of mixed fresh fruit for dessert? Could be strawberries and pineapple or cultivated blueberries and peaches. For an added touch, garnish the fruit with canned flaked coconut.

Chicken Macaroni Salad Loaf

¼ cup butter
2 tablespoons minced onion
¼ cup flour
1¼ cups milk
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
3 oz. can chopped broiled mushrooms
4 ozs. processed American cheese, diced
2 cups cooked elbow macaroni, drained
1½ cups finely diced cooked chicken, turkey or roast meat
1 canned pimento, diced

Melt butter in skillet over moderate heat. Add onion and saute 1 minute. Stir in flour. Add milk, chicken bouillon cube, mustard and contents of can of mushrooms and bring to boil, stirring constantly. Add cheese and continue to stir until cheese is melted.

Combine macaroni and chicken in large mixing bowl. Add diced pimento. Pour in cheese sauce and mix thoroughly. Place in well-greased loaf pan, 8x4 inches. Bake in preheated oven, 350 degrees until lightly browned and done, about 40 minutes.

Cool in pan, then refrigerate. When thoroughly cold, invert on cold serving platter. Garnish and serve, cutting loaf in slices like your favorite meat loaf. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Just a Peachy Dessert

A couple of extra egg whites in the refrigerator? Beat them until frothy with a dash of salt, then gradually beat in four tablespoons of sugar and a tiny bit of vanilla. Continue beating until very stiff and glossy. Spoon the meringue into the cavities of fresh peach halves and bake in a slow oven about fifteen minutes or until the topping is lightly touched with brown.

Peaches and Cantaloupe Lead List of Food Buys

The "season's the reason" for so many food choices at such reasonable cost. Homegrown fruits and vegetables added to those shipped from other areas assure plenty for the market basket. Retail meat prices show little change with the exception of pork. Some pork cuts are lower. Fryer supplies are about one-fifth larger than a year earlier. Small size eggs are more abundant at this season.

PRODUCE DEPARTMENT — Peach plenty! That is the peach story for the balance of August and most of September.

Peaches must look good to be good. Ripeness is your clue. Peaches should be left on the tree until firm-ripe. Full flavor-goodness develops only on the tree.

Firm-ripe peaches have natural peach goodness and near-mellow texture and can be held 3-4 days for fresh use. Firm - ripe peaches become full-ripe at room temperature in 3-4 days.

Full-ripe peaches are full-flavored, juicy and mellow. These are the only peaches for the best in fresh peach eating.

What about under-ripe peaches? Under-ripe peaches may get soft, but will never develop sweet-peach flavor; mellow texture and juiciness; bright, natural color. Peaches with green in the "ground" or background are under-ripe. Pick a peach with yellow or yellowish white background color.

Michigan's cantaloupe harvest is under way. Honey Rock, one of the favorite varieties, is large with netting that is raised and coarse.

It is the smart shopper who knows the clues to selecting good cantaloupe. Ripe melons are heavy for their size. The stem end should be slightly sunken, smooth and well calloused. The netting should be raised, coarse, dry and grayish in color.

The color beneath the netting varies according to variety, but should not be dark yellow or orange as this may mean overripeness. The odor should be musk-like, fragrant and sweet.

Softness at the stem end is no guide to choosing cantaloupe. It probably means another shopper thought this a good way to test cantaloupe and pressed the end, causing it to become soft.

Growers report green beans have passed their peak in quality and production. If you still plan to can or freeze beans, action is the word to follow.

All sizes of cucumbers are available for all sizes of pickles and relish.

You will find price changes on pears and bananas this week. Larger supplies bring slightly lower cost.

MEAT REPORT—A look in the pork department will find special emphasis on picnics, chops and roasts from the loin, bacon and hams.

Canned hams weighing between 3¾ to 8½ pounds range from about 85 cents to slightly over $1.00 a pound. When cost per pound is divided by four (the number of servings canned ham yields) the cost is less than that of many other meat cuts.

To be assured of the best flavor in ground beef you buy, use it within a day after purchase. If you cannot use it within that time, shape into the form in which you wish to cook it, wrap in foil and freeze. No thawing necessary when time to cook.

EGGS — Good things sometimes come in small packages. This is the case with eggs at this season. Young hens, which begin to lay in late summer and early fall, first lay small eggs.

Allowing for the weight difference, the smaller eggs offer as much food value as large eggs. In recipes, substitute three small eggs in place of two large eggs.

The small size is the economy buy when large eggs of the same grade are 15 cents a dozen more.

Vary French Dressing

Here are some of the good tidbits you can add to French dressing to add extra interest: minced hard-cooked egg, minced drained canned beets, minced pickles or pickle relish, sliced stuffed olives, minced parsley, minced green pepper and canned pimiento and grated onion (pulp and juice).

Award-winning Arnold Scaasi presented his collection of fall and winter fashions in his first public showing Wednesday at Kingsley Inn. He was photographed as he assisted a model with one of the coats from the collection—a chinchilla-topped tweed coat.

Answer Remarks Casually

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: A girl friend and I went to Bermuda for a two-week vacation. On the fourth day of our vacation, my girl friend received a telegram stating that her mother had died suddenly and to please come home at once. She flew home as soon as she could.

"I did not, however, go with her but stayed on for the remainder of my vacation. She is very much hurt because I did not leave with her. I would like to know was I wrong not to accompany her home?"

Answer: If you were intimate friends so that your presence besides her would have been a real help and comfort to her in her grief, your not going with her was heartless. If you were hardly more than acquaintances and taking your vacations together as a matter of mutual convenience and not because of great friendship, I do not think she should have been hurt because you stayed behind to finish the rest of your vacation.

"Dear Mrs. Post: It so happens I look like my stepfather and often people thinking he is my real father, will remark, "My, you look like your father." I always find this embarrassing because I hate to emphasize that he is only my stepfather. (My own father has been dead for many years.)"

Answer: It seems to me the simplest thing to do is to reply, "Yes, I think I must, many people say that."

"Dear Mrs. Post: 'Mrs. A' gave a bridge luncheon at her house and invited a neighbor, 'Mrs. B,' who had to refuse because of a previous engagement. When 'Mrs. B' gave a similar party she did not invite 'Mrs. A.' In my opinion, even though she refused 'Mrs. A's' invitation, she was still obligated to her and should have invited her. Do you agree or not?"

Answer: It would have been more polite had "Mrs. B" invited "Mrs. A," but she was not obliged to do so.

"Dear Mrs. Post: How is it possible to convey to our many friends and relatives that we're not having a wedding except for the immediate families? When they receive the announcement they may feel they have been slighted."

Answer: On the theory that news travels, it is almost certain that everyone will hear from those who have been told, just how small the wedding was.

"Dear Mrs. Post: How much time should elapse before a young widow may consider going out socially with a man?"

Answer: Six months is about the shortest time—and even then only with an old friend. Going out with strangers before the end of a year would make it seem evident that her husband was not kept long in her memory. Going to the houses of intimate friends for lunch, dinner, or to play bridge would not, however, be criticized.

Award Winner Takes Scissors to Hems

Designer Scaasi Holds First Showing Here

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE
Women's Editor, Pontiac Press

We may as well get used to it. Hemlines are way, way up and many a kneecap will be showing ere long.

Arnold Scaasi, the designer who skyrocketed to fame when he won the coveted 1958 "Winnie," the American Fashion Critics Award, told members of the press previewing his collection at Kingsley Inn Wednesday to "take scissors to your skirts." Hemlines, he said, should be 19 inches off the ground.

The Canadian born designer cut short a European trip to stage the first public appearance of his fall and winter collection.

BROADER SHOULDERS

Scaasi believes a woman should look feminine and pretty, and his interpretation of this look is a broader look at the shoulders and the very short skirt. Scaasi explained:

"I try to design pretty clothes to make a woman beautiful. Fashion means little on its own. It must always define, enhance and compliment the personality of the wearer."

He further believes that a designer should never follow European trends in fashion and he said, "A fashion never should look strange."

While the high Empire silhouette and the T-square shoulders which offset the pyramid lines of many of the dresses refused to disturb the audience, there were excited voices when one of the models appeared in a dress which barely touched the knee top.

STARTED AT 16

The 27-year-old designer with the boyish face has been designing since he was 16. Born in Montreal, he went to Australia in 1947 and then to Paris in 1950 where he studied fashion design. A year later he moved to New York where he worked with Pauline Trigere and Charles James.

Prices in his collection range from $195 to $1,200, but he showed a tweed coat lined with chinchilla which sports a price tag of $3,500.

Although Scaasi does not go abroad for influence or inspiration, he noted that the Paris collection had just opened with the same kind of look. He was referring to the look he prefers in women's fashion—the broader top and the shorter skirt.

The T-square shoulder treatment was first seen in a yellow tweed Empire suit with a charcoal and yellow butterfly lining. (The butterly pattern is seen throughout the collection).

The after-five dresses with elegant matching coats were favorites with the audience. Many dresses had pouf skirts, lowered hemlines in back, but always the very short hemline in front.

MULTITUDE OF FURS

Scaasi showed his fur collection for the first time at the showing at Kingsley Inn, using furs from almost the entire animal kingdom. There were otter, black mole, Russian broadtail, badger, mink and sable. There's even a tiger jacket for next year's safari. The coats designed to go with the new styles were T-squared at the shoulder and pyramided out in trapeze fashion.

The young designer's version of the mink coat was a full-length, three- arter sleeved coat with deep, low pockets. The lining matched an autumn warp dress with a pouf skirt.

Princess Meg Is 28 Today

BALMORAL, Scotland (UPI) —Princess Margaret celebrated her 28th birthday today still single, thus confounding the soothsayers who predicted an early marriage almost from the moment of her birth.

There is still one prophecy to go. A British almanac forecast when she was one year old that she would have a somwhat turbulent romantic life but finally would marry happily in November, 1958.

With only three months left, there doesn't appear to be anyone in sight who might join her at the altar in Westminster Abbey.

RECEIVED PRESENTS

Queen Elizabeth II, the Prince of Wales, Princess Anne and Queen Mother Elizabeth as well as Philip gave presents to Margaret. There were many cards, messages and bouquets of flowers — one of them possibly from Townsend, who was in London.

The royal family planned its activities around the weather. And weather permitting, they planned a picnic on the moors or on the shores of Loch Muick where Philip has initiated the sport of catamaran sailing. There also was the possibility of a shooting party or fishing in the River Dee.

Other garden show chairmen are (left) Mrs. W. Ross Thompson, Pontiac Branch, and Mrs. Dalton Ettinger, Waterford Branch. Committee chairmen are Mrs. George Guine, publicity; Mrs. Leroy Small, ways and means; Mrs. Raymond Swaney, tea and Mrs. Walter Willman, schedule.

Skirts Are Up

Dear Abby....

The Case of the Tattooed Lady---

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: Twelve years ago I was very much in love with a man and his name was CARL. To prove his love for me he had my name tattooed on his chest. There was also some fancy art work to go with it. I was a silly kid of 18 and I wanted to prove my love to him so I had 'I AM YOURS FOREVER, CARL' tattooed across my arm.

ABBY

"I am now happily married to a man named Bert and we have four kids. Bert doesn't like that tattoo and I am ashamed of it so I have been wearing long-sleeved blouses, but it is miserable worrying about it all the time. Is there any way I can have it taken off?" TATTOOED

DEAR TATTOOED: See a skin specialist. You can have it removed.

"DEAR ABBY: My husband is a regular Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. When I ask him to dance with me he tells me he is too tired, but just let one of the young girls look his way and he is out on the floor like lightning struck him.

"He is 45 years old and did the Charleston last Saturday night with some little teenager and everyone else cleared off the floor and watched them put on a show. He didn't shut his mouth about it until Tuesday. How can I get him to act his age?" ALSO 45

DEAR ALSO: Don't throw cold water on your hubby or you'll put out the flame for everybody. There's no harm in his kicking up his heels if he's got a good strong heart.

"DEAR ABBY: I know mothers-in-law must not interfere with the rearing of their grandchildren, so I'm hoping the parents of my three little grandchildren (ages 2, 3 and 5) read this. The parents are refined and educated people and it is hard for friends and relatives to understand how they can allow their children to eat like animals.

"You wouldn't believe the mess they make at a table. They get food on themselves, each other, anyone sitting near, the floor, the walls and all over the table. They spit and throw food and more goes to waste than in their stomachs. The parents have a theory, 'Leave them alone and they will learn by themselves.' Please Abby, can you tell me if this makes sense to you?" NOT INTERESTED

DEAR NOT: If children are ever going to learn how to be civilized someone will have to teach them. The "leave them alone" theory in my opinion is dangerous, foolish and an injustice to the children.

"DEAR ABBY: If you go out with a boy a couple of times and he begs you for your picture and you give it to him (a big one, 8 x 10 in a five-dollar frame) and then things get pretty washed up between you, is it okay to ask for your picture back?" EX GIRL FRIEND

DEAR EX: If you autographed the picture, it is his. Otherwise, ask him for it. (P. S. You went overboard. When giving your photograph, the RECIPIENT should frame it.)

60 Pct. College Students Graduate With Degree

If you are planning to send a child through college, you must have asked yourself about his chances of receiving a degree.

His chances are better than fifty-fifty.

Studies by the U.S. Office of Education, show that about 60 per cent of students who enter college will eventually graduate. Most of those who do graduate get their degree in four years from the college they entered originally.

Is it possible for parents to help increase a child's chances of completing his college course? A clue to the answer can be found among the reasons students themselves give for leaving college.

CENTERS ABOUT STUDIES — The major cause of college failure centers about studies.

High school records show that a student who stands high in his high school class has a better chance of graduating from college than his classmate with poorer high school grades. Thus encouragement by parents while a youngster is still in the lower grades, and on through high school, may mean the difference between discontinuing college later, or receiving a degree.

Many students leave college because of financial reasons.

Parents will also be interested in knowing that the first year of college is the most "dangerous" one — most of the students who do leave, drop out during the freshman year. After that, chances of attaining a degree brighten considerably.

This would seem to indicate that it is worth a special effort not only to put a promising youngster through his freshman year, but also to encourage him to make that year a success. Statistically at least,

Clothes Designers Ignore One Group

By RUTH MILLETT

Memo to the American fashion industry:

A woman will pound the pavements only so long looking for a few additions to her wardrobe in which she feels comfortable and happy. Then she gives up and decides to make do with what she has hanging in the closet.

A lot of middle-aged and older women are in that unhappy state right now. They need clothes, but they can't find anything to fit their needs.

Today's crazy styles are fine for the slim young things who look good in anything. They're all right for the young woman who isn't afraid of looking silly—so long as she knows she is in style.

But for the mature woman who expects a dress to flatter her figure, give her freedom of movement and the comfortable feeling that she is dressed to suit her age—the dress designers at the moment offer nothing.

And that is pretty silly of the dress designers. For it is the mature woman who is willing to pay the price for a really flattering dress.

It is the mature woman who really needs clothes that "do something" for her morale.

It is the mature woman who is a cagy, careful shopper who knows what she wants and isn't easily persuaded to take something else.

And this is the woman the designers have completely overlooked in their rush to see who can turn out the most outlandish, the most "amusing," the most difficult-to-wear designs.

BUYERS' STRIKE

The other day I overheard two tired matrons talking as they waited for a department store elevator. Said one, "I've looked at every store in town and I can't find a single dress I can wear. I guess I'll have to buy some material and get a dressmaker to make me a few things."

Said the other, "The more I look at the new clothes, the better the clothes hanging in my closet look to me. I guess I'll just shorten the hems on the dresses I have and sit it out until I can find something becoming."

If the designers don't wake up and start designing clothes a mature woman can wear happily and comfortably they are going to find that more and more women are buying fewer and fewer clothes.

Does Child Make Fuss at Meals?

Why is it that sometimes children just "aren't hungry" at mealtime?

It may be because they've been nibbling between meals, says Lennah Backus, extension specialist in parent education and child development at Michigan State University.

Some children do seem to need food often—others can wait till mealtime. Don't encourage nibbling if they can get along without it.

REGULATE SNACKS

A snack in mid-morning or mid-afternoon is better than constant nibbling, continues Mrs. Backus. A glass of milk or juice—possibly a peanut butter sandwich for big appetites—makes a good snack. Encourage children to take their snacks sitting down; it's not only a good practice but gives them a little rest.

Children's appetites vary greatly from day to day—both as to how much and what they eat. The "children will eat when they are hungry" theory is fairly safe to keep in mind. Urging them to eat when they're not hungry only tends to make them resist more.

100th Year Good One to Celebrate

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — Mrs. Emma F. Keller believes in celebrating birthdays. She just called in 100 friends and relatives to observe her 100th anniversary.

The Boston-born woman who has lived in San Francisco since the age of eight tossed her last big party on her 90th birthday and topped off the day by dancing a jig.

This year her celebration was quieter. She sipped a Manhattan cocktail, accepted the congratulations of well-wishers, and displayed a birthday greeting from President Eisenhower.

Her advice on reaching the 100-year mark?

"Enjoy life and your friends.

"Eat whatever you like, whenever you like.

"And for goodness sake, don't worry about your health."

Mrs. Keller, who still eats everything she wants, thanks God "for allowing me to live a long and healthy life."

The active white-haired woman, an avid television fan, loves company and parties.

Her only child, Ruth Keller, who keeps house for her mother, says:

"She always has been the life of the party. On New Year's Eve 10 years ago, she kissed all the boys in the room and we stayed out until 4 a.m."

Mrs. Keller, who has lived 92 years in the three-story wooden frame house her parents built, looks back fondly on her "younger" days and laments, "All I do now is take it easy."

Start Marathon

Trim Figure for Fall Fashions

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Fall will be upon us before we know it. In a very few weeks we will get our last year's clothes out of mothballs and begin shopping for the new ones we need.

Some of my readers are in for a shock! Some of the garments which zipped up easily last year may be stubborn because of summer vacation pounds. What an awful feeling when the zipper refuses to work because we stuffed rather than because it is stuck! However, this often happens in the best of families.

A combination of diet and exercise will bring the best results.

If you would like your fall shopping to be fun, rather than a chore, it is not too early to begin cutting down on calories and tightening muscles up with a few figure-molding exercises.

In order to give you a little push in that direction I am going to print two more letters from Marathon winners.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman: Before your 8-Week Marathon I weighed 150 pounds. I now weigh 130 pounds. I am 5 feet 5 inches tall. Here are my measurements before and after.

BEFORE	AFTER
Bust 39 inches	37 inches
Waist 30 inches	25 inches
Hips 40 inches	36 inches

"I have so much more self-confidence and my husband is so proud of me."

Another letter: "Dear Mrs. Lowman: I am the happiest person today! The Marathon instructions seemed so simple that I just did not believe they would work, but they did. When I started Marathon I weighed 158 pounds. I now weigh 127 pounds. Before I started my bust measured 35 inches, waist 31, and hips 41.

"I decided to do just the waist, hip and thigh exercises, because I wanted my bust to remain the same. After eight weeks of diet and two simple exercises my waist measures 27 inches, my hips 37."

The Marathon booklet gives you exercises as well as a calorie chart for the most usual trouble spots in feminine figures. A combination of diet and exercise will bring the best results, but if you cannot exercise you can shave those pounds off and reduce measurements with diet alone.

If you would like to have my Marathon booklet, send 10 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Raps Male Video Stars for Their Sloppy Attire

NEW YORK (AP)—Most male television stars dress sloppily, have bad posture and set a poor example for the country's youth.

So says Larry L. Mack, president of a slenderizing firm, whom the New York Custom Tailors Guild has chosen one of the best-dressed men in America.

"Most college students, although tightly limited in funds, look neater and dress better than many of our highest paid TV stars," Mack said the other day.

"Of course there are many well dressed men on television, but most of them are masters of ceremonies and newscasters. Few rank as stars. Bob Hope and Jack Benny are notable exceptions: they have always dressed in impeccable taste and invariably look dapper.

Who's the worst dressed man to appear on television in recent seasons?

Elvis Presley, says Mack. "You can try—but it's impossible to look more sloppy than Presley. His clothes have that unmade-bed look, as if he shops in a bargain basement."

Other TV personalities whose style of dress leaves much to be desired, in Mack's opinion, are Liberace and Lawrence Welk.

"They go from one extreme to another," he said. "Liberace's dazzling jackets are too spectacular to be in good taste. Welk's are too nondescript. Liberace also is guilty of wearing out-size cufflinks. They look like miniature Sputniks."

Reminded that Jackie Gleason reputedly has the biggest wardrobe of any television male performer, Mack said:

"No man as fat as Gleason can be called well dressed, no matter how much he spends on his clothes nor how well they are cut. If he shelved 75 pounds, his wardrobe would appear to much better advantage. So would he."

Feet Important to Loveliness

Lovely women should be pampered. And not only by others, but also by herself.

A relaxing foot bath in thick warm soapsuds can make you feel as luxurious as Cleopatra. While your toes are soaking, give yourself a manicure.

Then follow it up with a pedicure. You'll want a well-lathered pumice stone handy, too, to take care of any callouses or rough spots that endanger sheer nylons.

Buy House but Don't Go All-Out

EAST LANSING — Should a young family buy a house?

Yes, in most cases, if you buy it from an investment point of view, says Grace Gerard of the home management department of Michigan State University.

Don't choose a house for a lifetime, she advises. Buy a small inexpensive used house, fix it up and sell it when you need a larger one. "Real estate is a good protection against inflation," she points out. It increases in value as prices rise and so is called a growth investment. Buying a house can be a step in your retirement savings plan.

A house as an investment must be resalable. Location is important. Look for a house located well in the community—keep in mind the advantages it will offer people when you want to sell it.

Cinnamon Circles Baked in Star Shaped Loaf

Pontiac Press Home Editor

When entries in the food exhibit at the annual 4-H Fair are superior, they go to the State Show for further judging. Marge Crawford of Milford is taking her yeast coffee cake to Lansing later this month. It was as handsome a coffee cake as we have ever seen.

Sixteen years old and a junior in High School, Marge is active in a number of 4-H club activities. Sewing is her hobby.

STAR COFFEE CAKE
By Marge Crawford

1½ cups lukewarm milk
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 packages dry yeast
½ cup lukewarm water
2 eggs
½ cup soft shortening
7 to 7½ cups sifted flour melted butter
sugar and cinnamon

Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. Add sugar and salt to milk and add dissolved yeast. Stir in eggs and soft shortening. Add the flour, beating with spoon or mixer until mixture gets too thick, then mixing with hand.

Knead until smooth and no longer sticky. Let rise in greased bowl until double. Punch down and let rise again until almost double. Divide into four parts.

Roll each quarter of the dough into a rectangle. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar. Roll up like a jelly roll.

Slice diagonally into 6 slices. Arrange on greased baking sheet in form of a star, with one roll in the center. Bake 25 minutes at 375 degrees. Glaze and decorate as desired when cold. Makes 4 coffee cakes.

Wholesome Dessert Best for Children

For children, plan wholesome desserts like custard or ice cream that can be eaten any time during the meal rather than exaggerating the importance of dessert by expecting the child to wait for it.

You may wish to serve a heavier dessert than is good for children. With fruit pies you can scoop out the filling to serve Junior.

Hint for Cake

Cover the top of a freshly baked cake with chocolate wafers. Slide it back into the oven for a few minutes until the wafers soften, and then swirl with a spatula for a quick frosting.

Tip on Washing Vacuum Bottle

If the neck opening of a vacuum bottle is too narrow to get a well-lathered dishmop inside — then be very sure to soak any residue hot suds and waiting several minutes.

Then cap the bottle and shake vigorously. Rinse, fill with fresh suds, and shake again. Don't cap the bottle immediately after the final rinse, but let it "air dry" first.

Empty egg cartons can be used for storing earrings, Christmas tree decorations, children's socks, nails, nuts and bolts, and other small items.

Mom, Dad Rise to Answer With Pent-Up Fury

What's the Trouble With Today's Teeners?

By EUGENE GILBERT
Gilbert Youth Research Co.

"The trouble with kids today is . . ."

How often have you heard people begin a conversation with those words and a sad shake of the head? Teenage troubles seem to be on everyone's mind these days, especially the parents of teenaged children.

All right, then, what is the trouble with kids today? What makes them so different from when you and I were young?

We decided to find out by making a special survey limited to parents of teenaged children, a switch from our regular studies which are devoted to the opinions of teenagers themselves.

Our first question was:

"What do you consider the single worst influence on the lives of your teenaged children?"

It turned out to be a block-buster. Rising to the bait with what seemed like pent-up fury, parents blamed the troubles of their teenage offspring on everything from rock 'n' roll to progressive education.

The leading culprit, so adjudged by 57 per cent of the parents, was the "low moral standard of our society."

To Mrs. Philip B. Wilson of Long Beach, Calif., the mother of two teenaged boys, our society has deteriorated because of "too much freedom."

In blasting the moral standards of modern society, many parents put a heavy portion of the responsibility and the guilt on their own shoulders.

"There is not enough respect shown to parents by teenagers," said Mrs. Joan Messina of Flushing, N. Y., "because there is a lack of love, patience and understanding on the part of parents. The child feels no one is interested in him or really cares at home. Before long, he gets the attention he craves by causing trouble.

"Parents wonder why and where they have failed, but they look for the fault in the child instead of in themselves."

Joseph Greenstein of New York City, father of two teenagers, lashed out at parents "who think it's smart and modern to let a child grow up without restraint or guidance."

Second place on the teenaged trouble list went to bad companions, with 29 per cent citing it as the single worst influence on our youngsters.

Said Ramsey Coller of Atlanta, Ga.: "If kids continue to follow the leader like a troop of elephants joined trunk to tail, we won't need a third world war. They'll murder themselves."

TV, MOVIES HIT

The influence of television and movies on teenagers was considered worst of all by 11 per cent of the parents. Next, with 3 per cent vote, was rock 'n' roll music. Progresive education drew a 1 per cent vote.

Other influences cited included working mothers, divorce, lack of home training, dwindling emphasis on manners and courtesy, tendency to escape parental responsibility by "packing kids off" to summer camps, etc., and the publication of crime news.

Harry Fink of Hoosick Falls, N. Y., father of four teenagers, termed many modern movies, popular songs and TV shows as "nothing more than legalized pornography."

Our next question was: what do you consider the single best influence on the lives of your teenaged children?

RELIGION HELPS

The influence of religion and church activities was regarded as the most important by 25 per cent of the parents interviewed: "Spiritual influence," said a Minnesota mother, "helps keep the children on the right track all their lives."

The remaining 2 per cent of the parents visited by our interviewers across the country were pretty evenly divided among such factors as school training, YMCA and scout work, good companions, supervised reading and entertainment, neighborhood environment, hobbies, etc.

The parents were given an opportunity to offer some suggestions for keeping their kids out of trouble.

Suggestions included censorship of movies, TV and magazines, raising legal drinking and driving ages, more community recreation programs, closer supervision of companions, stricter school discipline, controlling off-color song lyrics, more church activities for young people, getting more parents interested in YMCA and scout work, tighter divorce laws when children are involved, and in general more participation on the part of parents in the lives of their children.

Gloves and Man Travel Through Ages Together

From prehistoric times gloves have gone hand in hand with man.

The latest styles on display are basically similar to gloves found in the tomb of Tutankhamen, who flourished about 1358 B. C.

CRUDE MITTENS

Looking past even earlier Egyptian civilizations, it is not hard to imagine how cavemen used bone needles and thong strips to sew together their first crude animal-skin mittens.

During her recent visit to the United States, Queen Elizabeth wore gloves at official receptions, and expressed a preference that women guests do likewise — especially when being presented in large numbers.

Such mass handshaking by royalty, gloved or not, is relatively new. But queens, and kings too, long set fashions in glove wearing.

Elizabeth I (1533-1603) delighted in collecting richly decorated gloves of all materials and cuts. She gave away many as a mark of favor or reward for achievement.

One, handsomely jeweled, went to the Earl of Cumberland, who had commanded a British ship against the Spanish Armada. He wore it pinned to a plumed and gold-trimmed white hat.

BECOME FANCIER

As early as the 11th Century, dress gloves were popular among European nobility. From then on they became increasingly fancy and numerous. According to accounting books of the French court during the 1380s, King Charles VI was supplied with 251 pairs for a single year.

Although dress gloves were out of reach of the common people — and at times expressly forbidden — simple hand coverings for warmth and work were known from the earliest recorded periods.

Ancient Persians, Greeks and Romans wore different types of skin or leather coverings, with or without fingers, and tied or laced around forearms, wrists and hands. Homer's Odyssey describes peasant clothing that included "long sleeves (gloves) over his hands by reason of the brambles."

Utility gloves have served such varied users as farmers, falcon hunters, surgeons and electrical workers. For Chinese mandarins who grew inches-long fingernails, gloves had extended fingers for protection. Any glove is standard equipment by which detective-story and real criminals avoid leaving fingerprints.

FOR GOOD FAITH

As a tangible expression of the phrase, "My hand on it," presentation of a glove has stood for good faith in the transfer of land, the sale of merchandise, and the exchange of lovers' vows.

Worn singly or as a pair in court and religious rites, gloves symbolized authority of sovereign and churchman. They made sentimental and practical Valentine and New Year gifts. Presented to bride or bridegroom, they were a sign of welcome to the family.

Medieval knights wore their lady's glove into tournament or battle. Gentlemen swordsmen slapped an opponent's face with a glove as a challenge to duel.

Young girls dreamed of husbands-to-be with a glove under the pillow instead of wedding cake. In colonial America, black mourning gloves were often distributed to friends, relatives, and servants of the deceased.

Today, travelers in glove-making centers of southern France still find that a glove nailed to the door means the birth of a child. A pair announces twins.

Say $50 Million to Keep Jordan

U.S. Officials Believe Sum Is Needed Yearly to Save Mideast

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States will have to spend 50 million dollars a year on Jordan to keep pro-Western King Hussein in power, U. S. officials believe.

The alternative, they said, is to let Jordan collapse into the lap of United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser and face the threat of general war in the Middle East.

British troops currently are stationed in Jordan to assure political stability for the time being. But both Britain and the United States realize the troops must be removed eventually.

Western officials fear Hussein's regime will fall the day British troops are withdrawn unless he can be given adequate protection through the United Nations. He also must be guaranteed sufficient funds to keep loyal his Bedouin army and feed the population, they declared.

Britain paid Jordan a yearly subsidy of 35 million dollars until Jordan booted Sir John Glubb Pasha and his British officers out of the Arab Legion. Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia promised to make up the subsidy but the Arab nations never kept their pledge.

It then fell on the United States to help out. Since 1952 this country has given Jordan aid valued at $90,121,000.

Beer Snaps Actress Out of Stage Trance

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Eugenie Leontovich, the great actress, limped painfully into the restaurant. Her head was swathed in black chiffon. Her eyes were lifeless.

In a low, anguished voice she said, "I'll have a beer. What'll you have?"

It was a straight line. Madame Leontovich, star of stage, screen and the Russion Revolution, wanted a beer to snap her out of the part she had just finished playing —that of a limping, lifeless-eyed old lady.

"When you start to work—if you are me — you go into a trance. You find out who you are, where you come from, what is your motivation. Then the part goes from your head to the real McCoy—" Leontovich punched a fist at her chest— "The heart, the soul. And finally, the feeling goes down to your legs.

"This," she said, "is why I limp. Today I am the old Greek mother of a man killed by a policeman. My limp is not in the script. It is how you call it psychosomatic."

Madame Leontovich is a petite woman who may be (unconfirmed) in her late 50s. She is acknowledged as one of the finest actresses of the century ("Grand Hotel," "Anastasia," "The Cave Dwellers"). She has a school for acting in Los Angeles which the already-famous vie to enroll in.

She took a sip of beer. Smiled. "Ah," she said, "I am getting out of the part. I am becoming again a citizen of the great United States."

As herself, instead of the aged mother in a TV drama for the ABC series, "The Naked City," Madame Leontovich confided that she loved acting more than life itself. Well, more than love or men, anyway.

For instance, the press had built up her long, dramatic courtship and marriage many years ago to Gregory Ratoff as the greatest love since Romeo and Juliet. They had delved even further back into her history and revealed that her first husband had, tragically, been swept from her arms in the Russian Revolution in 1917.

"I divorced them both," she said, covering her mouth with a small hand at the "dirty word, divorce."

"The reason is because acting is above personal life. It is above love. It is a h— of a thing."

Pressed to tell the romantic story of her escape from Russia at the time of the Revolution, Madame cried, "No, no, it's so corny nobody believe it. Let's how you say skip it."

Urged further, she said, "Okay, okay," and told of those days when she was a White Russian, the toast of the great Red Army. "When you see a revolution like that, you see a naked thing. Nothing is so unbelievable as that thing called the Revolution. It's furious, it's drunk, it makes no sense.

"Nothing in life makes sense, anyway. But this is worse."

To escape death, young Eugenie disguished as a peasant maid and stowed away in a houseboat on the Volga. She made her way after a month to Constantinople. From there to Paris, and from Paris to New York.

At no time was she frightened. She said, "I am an actress and I was very young. It was like a good, blood, bloody production to me."

MIDWEST HAS PACIFIC COAST INGREDIENTS; PRO COMPETITION GROWS

Is Big 10, College Football Stable?

How stable is the Big Ten? Does college football feel secure?

These questions were asked at the confab of Midwest writers in Chicago last week and as discussions began, there were a lot of awed expressions when those close to Big Ten camps pointed out the trembles being heard in the foundation of the conference.

Five years ago everyone laughed at the suggestion that the Pacific Coast Conference was waivering and a break would soon follow.

The ardent Pacific Coast fan wasn't convinced two years after the haggling started and even until recently when the divorce came between the California schools and the weak sisters of the north, there were those who believed reconciliation was possible.

When the coast mist lifted the non-believer finally reasoned, "Well, the league wasn't sound geographically, it was due to break up."

Geography today is not the foremost reason for expansion or dissolution. Not in big business. And college football like pro football, major league baseball and other nationally scaled sports is definitely doing big business.

Actually the reason for the Pacific Coast breakup was due to the fact that the schools of the north, namely Idaho, Washington State, Oregon and Oregon State were unable to conduct their football business on the same scale as the schools in the southern part of the conference.

Why should California, Southern Cal, Stanford, UCLA, play in the northern stadiums before 20,000 or 30,000 when they have 100,000 seats and could fill them with any worthy foe?

And again, when voting was done why did these same "little businessmen" hold the controlling vote? They did and the "big businessmen" were unhappy about it.

The California schools had to think about gate appeal, especially with big growing rivals like the Rams and 49ers in pro football and Giants and the Dodgers in pro baseball.

Then there were the recruiting scandals and the "upstarts" of the conference sat back in subtle silence as the ax fell on the Californians.

"Stadiums with 100,000 seats are attractive to the best teams, "Southern Cal athletic director Jess Hill was quoted as saying, "and our athletic programs must be built along those lines."

BIG 10 HAS COAST INGREDIENTS

There is no geographical problem in the Big Ten, but follow the tide of events and the ingredients for conference security aren't of first grade adhesiveness.

Indiana, Northwestern, Iowa, Purdue and Wisconsin all have stadiums seating under 60,000. While, Michigan, Ohio State, Michigan State, Illinois and Minnesota can seat nearly double of some of the aforementioned.

MSU just moved into the big seating bracket last season, and since coming into the Big 10, Spartan brass have been known to straddle the fence along voting lines.

Michigan and Ohio State have been accused more than once of padding a home schedule to shy away from the 30,000 seats at Indiana or 40,000 at Purdue.

Now, Michigan State will be able to get the conference home schedule about which it has been disgruntled since becoming a member.

Since 1947 the seating of Spartan Stadium has moved from 26,000 to 51,000 to 60,000 to 76,000. There's no denying it, business is booming and ALL 10 members of the Big Ten have to get in step to keep the conference happy.

Stadiums were pointed out as just one ingredient of uneasiness. The present code of athletic tenders, the variance of financial aid put into the athletic programs at the different schools, the hassles over TV limitations, the unhappiness at the proposal of a round robin football schedule thereby forcing the "big" school to schedule the "little" man, and a few shakes of pepper and spice, here and there, make up some of the other unpleasant ingredients.

COLLEGES REALIZE PRO COMPETITION

College people, including the Big Ten, are having a rude awakening to the competition presented by professional football.

While overall college football attendance has declined in the last decade, pro football has not fallen backward once. Each year it has shown a steady increase.

Schools in the Big Ten as well as other conferences see the need for playing top inter-sectional foes in the biggest arenas. They also see the necessity taking nationwide status rather than holding their schedules to regional acclaim.

The proposed coast to coast conference which was discussed in Chicago was aimed right at this very thing.

Pitt was the strong pusher from the East and Southern Cal and UCLA were keen on the idea from the Far West. Stanford, California, and Washington were suggested to complete the Western Division, with possibility of others.

Army, Navy, Penn State, Syracuse and Notre Dame were backed by Pitt for the Eastern Division.

This the college people could argue as the counter-attack of the pro offensive.

Just to show how seriously the mentioned schools are about forming the Atlantic-Pacific College Conference is noted in their schedules in the near future.

Pitt, Penn State, Syracuse and Notre Dame are all on the UCLA card for the next five years. Southern Cal has replaced its ex-PCC weak sisters with Pitt, Notre Dame and West Virginia. California and Stanford are doing likewise.

Where does this leave the Big Ten and other conferences of regional makeup such as the Southwest, Southeast, Atlantic and Ivy?

Right in the stormy middle, fighting to get on the schedules of these schools who are looking to nationwide affiliation and using 100,000 seats as temptation.

What could result? A cross-section of teams merged in three or four "Big Eights" or "Big Tens", thereby granting that at most, 24 or 32 schools can stay alive in big time football.

This was college football talk, August 1958 in Chicago.

Sounds fantastic! But so does the "Moon Bowl," January 1, 1990 until they start selling tickets.

Kaline Breaks Slump as Tigers End Streak

Al Blasts Two Homers to Help Frank Lary Win

Bunning Goes Against Baltimore Tonight in Bid for 10th Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Al Kaline smashed his batting slump with two home runs and the Detroit Tigers cut off their losing streak at five games in a 7 to 1 victory over the Washington Senators last night.

As a result, the Tigers were hopeful today of getting a fresh start in their fight to stay in the American League's first division. They open a three-game series tonight with the Baltimore Orioles.

Kaline's slump-breaking homers — each a three-run clout — might have been the shot in the arm the Tigers need. They were hit 12th and 13th of the season and came after he had been able to get only six hits in 44 previous trips to the plate.

The star outfielder hit one in the first inning with two men on base and another in the fifth under identical conditions. Both came off the Cuban Pedro Ramos and accounted for six of the seven Detroit runs.

With Kaline in a power show, Frank Lary sailed to his 12th victory and the Tigers avoided the disaster of losing two successive series by opposition sweeps. The victory gave them a split of the Washington series after they had dropped three straight to Kansas City.

For tonight's opener with Baltimore the Tigers will be counting on Jim Bunning. Bunning will be after his 10th victory against seven defeats.

Lary permitted Washington eight hits but he also struck out eight men and forced the Senators to leave 10 men on base. The only run off him was unearned. It came in the third inning on two singles and Gail Harris' error.

On Kaline's first homer the Tigers got off to a quick 3-0 lead. Coot Veal singled and Harris walked to set it up for Al in the first inning. He hit the ball into the left field bull pen for the three scores.

The Tigers got a run in the second on two scratch singles and a double by Veal.

In the fifth inning Kaline drove a high smash into the centerfield bleachers after a walk to Frank Bolling and a single by Harris.

That was enough for Ramos. Starting the Tiger sixth, Johnny Romonsky was on the mound for Washington and Detroit could not score again although filling the bases in the eighth and leaving Harris stranded after a triple in the ninth.

Take 7-Game Streak to New York

Chisox Get Shot at Yanks

By The Associated Press

The second-place Chicago White Sox have a seven-game winning streak, their longest in two years. The first place New York Yankees have a winning streak of one, their longest in a week.

That's the way things stand as the White Sox roll into Yankee Stadium tonight for the opener in a three-game set with the league leaders.

The league lead isn't involved—and hasn't been since the fifth day of the season. But what face the rest of the American League clubs have left at this point, could be saved by continued White Sox success.

The Yankees lead by 10½ games, and it's up to the White Sox to bring the champs back closer to the field.

It's not just benevolence that motivates the White Sox. They're on a drive to nail second place, although Manager Al Lopez insists they're shooting for the flag, and at the moment they're doing right well, winning 15 of their last 18 games in a rush from fourth place.

They built a three-game lead over third place Boston by beating the Red Sox 10-8 yesterday after blowing a six-run lead.

The Yankees, who had lost four in a row, ended that jazz with a 7-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians for their third victory in 11 games.

Detroit clung to fourth by belting Washington 7-1 while Baltimore regained fifth with a 4-3 decision over Kansas City in the other AL games.

Jim Landis drove in four runs for the White Sox, doubling home a pair for a 7-1 lead and then nailing it with a two-run homer, his 15th, in the seventh inning. Turk Lown won his third in relief, but Gerry Staley had to get the final out, fanning Don Buddin with the bases loaded.

Bud Byerly (1-2) lost it in relief, after Ted Williams' 21st homer had counted three runs in the fifth and the Red Sox had added four in the sixth for an 8-7 edge.

The White Sox last won seven straight back in mid-June, 1956, when they won nine in a row. They were unbeaten in 10 consecutive games last season, but that string included a tie.

Art Ditmar (9-4) had a four-hit shutout for six innings and wound up with an eight-hitter for the first complete game by a Yankee pitcher in 13 games. Yogi Berra belted his 18th and 19th home runs for a 3-0 lead against loser Gary Bell (7-8).

Bob Nieman, out five days with a bum hand, hit a run-scoring triple in a two-run first-inning, then iced it for the Orioles with a two-run homer in the third off loser Walt Craddock (0-2). Jack Harshman (10-11) allowed only five hits, and had the A's blanked on two hits until the eighth inning.

SPORTS

Shoots Par 70 at Tucson

Green Leads State Jaycees

(Special to The Pontiac Press)

TUCSON, Ariz.—A trio of Michigan youngsters shot rounds in the low 70s Wednesday in first round championship action of the International Jaycee Junior golf tournament at El Rio Country Club.

Pete Green of Birmingham led the group with a par-equalling 70—only four strokes off the pace. Tommy Grace of Lathrup Village fired a 72 and Chuck Newton from Ann Arbor had a 74.

Green carded 34-36 over the warm, humid El Rio course for the state's best effort yesterday. Grace had a scorecard of 37-35 while Newton's score was 33-41. Championship play continues through Saturday.

In the two-day consolation tournament, Dick Zimmerman of Jackson shot a first round score of 80, eight strokes off the pace for the par 72 Randolph Park course.

Don Morano of Belleville, N. J., set yesterday's pace with a sizzling 66. Nick Secondo of Watsonville, Calif., fired a 67 and Fred Blackmon of Highland, N. C., shot a 68.

Bunched at 69 were pre-tourney favorite Buddy Baker of Florence, S. C.; Jerry Greenbaum of Atlanta, Ga., and Jeff Kirby of Hattiesburg, Miss.

Harrison Takes Old-Timer Event

J. E. Harrison shot a net score of 28 to win the nine-hole Pontiac Oldtimers handicap golf tournament at City Municipal course.

Browns Count on 4 Ex-Spartans

Lions' Foe Friday Has MSU Flavor

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The Cleveland Browns, who have yet to find the formula of beating the Detroit Lions, move into Briggs Stadium Friday night with a strong Michigan State flavor.

Coach Paul Brown has been able to master the Lions only three times in 17 meetings of exhibition and regular season games and this time he may be planning to do it with products of Michigan.

Four Michigan Staters are on the Cleveland squad, including Jim Ninowski, Leroy Bolden, Dave Kaiser and Bill Quinlan.

While the Browns were beating Pittsburgh 10-0 last week, Ninowski was calling the signals in the 35-19 romp over the Lions in the All-Star game.

Bolden, former member of the famous MSU "pony backfield" which won the 1954 Rose Bowl, was plagued by injuries in 1955, his final year at MSU, and then went into the air force as a jet pilot. He has been the star of the Browns' camp.

At present Bolden is ahead of both Bob Mitchell, Illinois speedster who tied with Ninowski for most valuable honors in the All-Star game, and veteran Lew Carpenter.

Ninowski, Kaiser, Bolden and Mitchell are the vanguard of the 15 rookies in the Browns' camp. There are 31 veterans back from the 1957 squad that won the Eastern Division title.

Lion coach George Wilson said he'd give his rookies a thorough test in the game. The Lions wound up heavy work for the game yesterday with a morning session for the newcomers and quarterbacks and an afternoon drill for the whole squad.

Jerry Reichow will be lost to the Lions for at least eight weeks, Lion trainer Millard Kelley said today.

The quarterback-end was operated on for a ligament injury in his right knee yesterday at University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Kelley said the operation was "very successful."

Last Second Boot Wins for Steelers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Tom Miner, a rookie end from Tulsa, booted a 37-year field goal with a second left to play to propel the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 3-0 decision over the Green Bay Packers Wednesday night in a rain-splashed National Football League exhibition game.

Until Miner's last ditch heroics, both teams slipped and sloshed all over County Stadium's turf, turning the Milwaukee Braves' baseball diamond into a morass.

Jack Butler set up the Steelers' winning placement by intercepting Babe Parilli's pass at midfield and returning it to the 37.

Indian Officials Offer 'Attend or Else' Edict

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) —The Cleveland Indians, whose attendance has dropped steadily since the golden days of the "Veeck era," will be moved to another city unless the trend is quickly reversed.

The "attend or else" edict was sounded late yesterday by William R. Daley, chairman of the board of the Indians. "Attendance must improve," Daley warned, "or moving the team will become a necessity."

"We obviously can't continue this way," he said.

His remark was made in connection with talk about Minneapolis getting a Major League ball club — possibly Washington, possibly Cleveland.

From the "can't continue" statement he went on, "it's beginning to be evident that the Cleveland fans won't support us."

His tone represents quite a change from the sort of response that used to come from Indian management every time transfer rumors popped up.

The statement in the past was to the effect that the management has no plans or intentions of moving, followed by a mild "unless" attendance dropped too far.

This time there still are disclaimers that the club is doing any negotiating. But Daley seems to be a little less specific these days in the customary denials.

He says several cities have made approaches about the Indian franchise and "we have received many attractive offers, but have consistently refused to negotiate on a business level."

The attendance problem is highlighted by the fact that in the wild pennant chase of 1948 the Tribe had a home attendance of more than 2,600,000. Last year it was 722,256 and this year it probably will be under 700,000.

Area Racers Move Up in Mt. Clemens

Pontiac drivers Chuck Partello and Joy Fair have moved up in the modified hardtop point standings at the Metropolitan Speedway during the Thursday night racing programs.

Fair who started back in his winning ways after changing his motor back to his 1957 status is favored to win at the track tonight.

METROPOLITAN POINT STANDINGS: George Roberts (415), Chuck Partello (395), Jimmy Nelson (395) Leon Blachura (Warren), Joy Fair (370), Johnny Roberts (300), Jimmy McCune (285), Joe Doyle (295), Dick Carter (285) and Johnny Wallace (235).

Strongest Field in History Aims for State Crown

Wally Burkemo Defends Title in 39th Annual Test at Atlas Valley

GRAND BLANC (AP) — The strongest field in the 39-year history of the Michigan Open golf tournament will start action here tomorrow.

The $5,000 event calls for 18 holes tomorrow and 18 holes Saturday for the starting field of 161 pros and amateurs. The field will be trimmed to the low 60 and ties for the final 36 holes on Sunday.

Atlas Valley Country Club, the site, is a 6,400-yard par-72 layout that emphasizes doglegs, trees and small, tricky greens. It's the first appearance of the Open in the Flint area since Al Watrous won in 1949 at the Flint Golf Club.

Defending champion Wally Burkemo and former champions Watrous, Chick Harbert, Mike Dietz, John Barnum, Emerick Kocsis and Chuck Kocsis are entered.

In addition, three-time runner-up Max Evans and former National Open champion Jack Fleck bolster a field of pros that includes virtually every name player in Michigan golf. Four-time state amateur champ Glenn Johnson and former state amateur winners Tom Draper, Lou Wendrow and Lloyd Syron will also compete.

Former National Publinx champ Sam Kocsis, State Publinx winner Mike Andonian and Detroit District champ Bud Stevens add more strength to the field.

There is a $750 first prize at stake. To win it may take a score of 275, 13 under par, some say. But Burkemo, who fired a 78 in one practice round, isn't so optimistic. He picks 278.

A Pro-Amateur tournament scheduled Wednesday was cancelled.

Request Made to Telecast Game, Oct. 4

TV for 'M'-MSU?

EAST LANSING—Michigan State University officials have put in a request with the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. to televise the Michigan-Michigan State football game Oct. 4 on a regional basis.

Fred Stabley, MSU athletic publicist, said the request went to Doug Mills, University of Illinois athletic director and NCAA representative in the Midwest. The NCAA's television committeee will make the decision, he said.

Stabley said application was made under the "sellout" clause in NCAA regulations which permit regional television in addition to regularly scheduled football telecasts if there is no competing game within a 90-mile radium of the sellout game. Michigan-Michigan State football contest always are sold out.

Other games will be played within 90 miles of East Lansing Oct. 4, Stabley said, but University officials are hopeful widespread area interest will persuade the NCAA to authorize a regional telecast.

If not, he said officials may look into the possibility of closed circuit telecasts to Michigan and Michigan State alumni clubs in several large cities.

"That, however, is an expensive proposition," he said.

Michigan State's football season ticket sale has hit a record high of 19,400 books with nearly four weeks of the announced sales period remaining.

The old record of approximately 18,000 books was set last year. The season ticket deadline date this year is Friday, Sept. 12.

A ceiling on season sales of 21,000 books was announced by Athletic Director Biggie Munn last spring with the explanation that ticket obligations for the Michigan-Michigan State game made necessary the limitation. Should this 21,000 maximum not be reached, any tickets left over will be offered for sale on the "per game" basis.

Oberson and Crew Win Race at PYC

Al Oberson and his crew of Bob Grieshaber and Carol Minor won last night's Lightning race in the weekly Pontiac Yacht Club competition on Cass Lake.

Second place went to Dave Davies and his crew of Phil and Margie Smith while Andy Roualet, assisted by Bill Roualet and John Harbaugh, finished 3rd.

Twenty-two boats took part in yesterday's event and 10 to 15 mile winds prevailed. Next Wednesday's racing will conclude the PYC's "night owl" series for this season.

Mrs. Knudsen to Meet Mrs. Gawne for Club Title

Mrs. Sam Gawne and Mrs. S. E. Knudsen have shot their way into a match play finals of the women's club tournament at Bloomfield Hills Country Club. The two ladies reached the title round with semifinal victories yesterday.

Mrs. Gawne defeated Mrs. Louis Colombo in their semifinal match, 4-3, and Mrs. Knudsen eliminated Mrs. Carl Moyer by the same 4-3 score. Mrs. Knudsen and Mrs. Gawne will now meet over an 18-hole route for the club championship.

Beat Spahn as Giants Win

Hot Dodgers Slash Braves' Lead

By The Associated Press

The Dodgers did it again!

They blew some more foam off Milwaukee's National League lead last night, taking their third in a row from the Braves, 2-1.

That slashed the champs' lead to 5½ games, with two games remaining in the series at Los Angeles before Milwaukee plunges into a five-game set with the second place Giants at San Francisco.

The "dead" Dodgers spanked the Braves the hard way this time, getting but four hits off seldom seen Warren Spahn. At that, they needed only the last two, scoring in the fifth inning on Joe Pignatano's home run, a walk and Norm Larker's triple.

Philadelphia quit the cellar and cut a losing string at seven games by rapping St. Louis 12-2 with Willie Jones driving in eight runs. Third place Pittsburgh beat the Chicago Cubs 4-2, then lost 5-1 in the second game of the doubleheader, which was held to five innings by rain and darkness.

The Dodgers, who have won eight of their last nine in a jump from last place to fourth, built a 12-6 season record over the Braves who began their 10-game tour of California with an eight-game bulge.

Spahn, who gained his first victory over the Dodgers in seven years (a lefty, he's been kept clear of their long-time right-handed power) two weeks ago, was staked to a 1-0 lead in the first inning on a fielder's choice and Hank Aaron's double. But rookie Stan Williams then blanked the Braves on five singles, although needing Johnny Klippstein's help with two on and two out in the ninth. Klippstein fanned Del Rice.

Williams now is 9-7, Spahn 16-9.

Bob Friend, the only other 16-game winner in the NL, also failed at No. 17, taking his 13th defeat in the nightcap at Chicago. Dick Drott (6-10) didn't give a hit until Bill Mazeroski slapped his 16th home run in the fifth inning. Friend got the only other Buc hit, a two-out double in the same frame. The Cubs battered Friend for 11 hits, scoring twice in the last of the fifth before the rains came.

Dick Stuart's two-run homer, his 11th, and a pair of RBI singles by Dick Groat bagged the opener for the Bucs and Ron Kline (12-11). Dave Hillman (3-5) lost it as the third place Pirates gained their 62nd victory—matching their 1957 total.

The Giants, blanked on two hits for four innings by Harvey Haddix, scored two in the fifth on Ray Jablonski's pinch double and a bases-loaded walk, then handed reliever Brooks Lawrence (6-12) his ninth defeat in a row as Valmy Thomas singled, Jabbo doubled and Bill White lined a pinch single that scored both in the sixth. Al Worthington (10-5) won it in relief after starter Stu Miller had given up homers to Frank Robinson and Johnny Temple.

Jones banged a pair of three-run homers and a two-run double for the best one-game production by a Phillie since Del Ennis drove in seven against the same Cardinals in 1955. Harry Anderson also homered for the Phils, making Robin Roberts' 13th victory a breeze. Billy Muffett (4-5) lost it. Stan Musial, staying .004 ahead of Phillie Richie Ashburn in the batting race, had two hits for the Cards—one a double that gave him 2,165 extra bases on long hits, matching Mel Ott's NL record.

State Nines Still Going

Amateurs in 3rd Round

ALTOONA, Pa. (AP) — Altoona, Pa., opened defense of its Naitonal Amateur Baseball Federation Jr. tournament championship yesterday with two victories — 9-0 over Indianapolis, Ind., by a forfeit, and 5-4 over Louisville, Ky.

Detroit, Mich., also won two games, defeating Gloversville, N.Y. 12-2 in the morning and Chicago 2-1 in the afternoon. Chicago had already defeated Cincinnati, Ohio, 7-4 in first round play.

Cleveland, Ohio, defeated Buffalo, N.Y., 3-1 and then edged Pittsfield, Mass., 2-1 for its two victories. Pittsfield recorded a morning victory over Youngstown, Ohio, 2-1.

Pittsburgh, with victories over Dearborn, Mich. 4-3, and Maryland State 10-9 completed the winners circle. Maryland State had previously beaten Dayton, Ohio, 9-2.

Third round games today pit Altoona against Pittsburgh and Detroit against Cleveland in the winners bracket. Losers bracket games find Baltimore playing Fort Wayne, Youngstown versus Cincinnati, Louisville against Chicago and Pittsfield meeting Dearborn.

Grand American Shoot in Ohio Has $90,000 Purse

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — They separate trapshooting's deadeye Dicks and Doras from the novices today as the 59th Grand American moves into the big money phase.

The preliminary handicap, a 100-target feature in which marksmen fire from 18 to 27 yards behind the traps according to their proved ability, is on the agenda.

A $1,000 purse goes to the winner and he can pick up thousands more in the optional wagering system. A $56 entry fee, including the optionals, is assessed each shooter and close to 2,000 were expected on the firing line. About $90,000 in various purses will be awarded.

Today's preliminary is a dress rehearsal for the clay target sport's biggest classic, the Grand American Handicap, which will be fired over the same route tomorrow.

Shooters yesterday wound up the 16-yard phase of the annual tournament and the Waukesha, Wis., Gun Club walked off with most of the honors.

2nd Anthony-Spieser Meeting Considered

DETROIT (AP) — Fight manager Ernie Braca says he is interested in bringing light heavyweight Tony Anthony back to Detroit for a return bout with Chuck Spieser.

Braca, interviewed recently in New York, said a December bout at Detroit's Olympia is possible if Spieser wins two bouts he has lined up in Europe.

Anthony knocked out Spieser a year ago April in the third round and kept the Detroit fighter from a title bout with Archie Moore. Anthony later lost on a seventh-round knockout to Moore but since has been campaigning successfully.

Diamond Dust

By CHUCK ABAIR

If there were such a word as playoff-itis, it would be fitting to describe a disease that has made victims of several hundred Pontiac area residents lately.

The eliminations keep rolling on and on in both baseball and softball in order to determine the best in the sector and entire state. Local teams are still in the running in both groups despite the many highly-rated contingents which have fallen by the wayside.

Officials of the Pontiac and Waterford recreation departments are certainly more than earning their salary these days putting in long hours. But they love it and look forward to the "big ones" each summer right along with the loyal rooters of the various teams.

Every year around tournament time there always seems to be one or two teams who crop up with "ringers" trying to bluff their way to a title. Know occurrences this year in softball have been here and at Mt. Clemens. The Drayton Drug Nine of Waterford is still fuming, and with good reason, over its opening loss to host Mt. Clemens.

Waterford was held hitless in that game by a fellow who was later declared ineligible because he had been starring in a fast Detroit league. Yet a protest by the Drugmen was futile because Class B officials said it should have been made before the contest. What kind of rule is that? Mt. Clemens went on to win that district.

SKIPPING AROUND

Royal Oak city league proud of lefthanded catcher Tom Alsheskie but Pontiac's "D" loop came up with a southpaw 2nd baseman in Jon Byron of Edison . . . Oxford Little League benefited from recent donkey game there . . . Shaw's baseballer Bob Swindell had a string of nine successive hits. . . .

Those Birmingham Little Leaguers certainly deserve plenty of credit for going so far. That city had 61 kids teams this year . . . A Romeo junior team recently pulled a triple play . . . Lapeer Legion star Butch McKillen being wooed by Phillies . . . Milford Boys' Club founder and baseball enthusiast Jerry Blakely recovering from an eye operation.

Pontiac Class B team Kuhlman Electric lost two players during the season due to broken bones. Earl Baker broke a wrist bone and Jerry Moore suffered a fractured arm. Both were hit by pitches . . . PeeWee outfielder Larry Bok rated a future prospect by an area high school coach . . . Hustling Auburn Heights Boys' Club director Sam Sheehy had a busy summer. He coached three teams in city loops, held a baseball clinic and other activities besides his regular work.

Three Boys Bag 18 Rattlesnakes

Three Walled Lake boys, rambling through a patch of woods on the south side of Walled Lake, yesterday, rounded up two "collections" of Michigan rattlesnakes, totaling some 18 or 20 reptiles. Two of larger "buzzers" were killed, because of their size and unusual activity. Both were females, the boys reported.

In addition to the 18 they now have corraled in a metal can, Dennis Sikkila, 14, son of WL resident John Sikkila, speared another big rattler along the roadside on Henning road. With Dennis were Martin Schoenberger and Bob Sagerley. The 18 snakes average 18-inches in length and all are very well equipped with "buzzers" and fangs, the boys say. They'd like to sell the collection to some serpentarium.

Four Detroit Farm Clubs Leading League

DETROIT (UPI) —When things get bad at Briggs Stadium, and that's been quite often this season, the Bengal brass can partially soothe itself by looking at the Minor League standings.

Charleston (AAA-American Association), Birmingham (AA-Southern Association), Augusta (A-South Atlantic League) and Lancaster (A-Eastern League) all are in first place and two other clubs (Idaho Falls and Valdosta) are in the first division of their leagues.

All but two of the players on the Charleston roster — aside from pitchers — have had shots at the Major Leagues and failed. Several pitchers, Don Lee and Jerry Davie, are expected to help the Bengals but probably not this year.

Detroit, in desperate need of a relief pitcher, has George Spencer at Charleston. Spencer started the season with the Tigers and pitched effectively but was sent down.

There's a feeling he still could help Detroit. But if the Tigers pull him up before the end of the American Association season with Charleston fighting for the pennant, the Bengals would incur a great deal of ill will.

Davie has posted a 15-3 record with the Senators and Lee an 11-6 mark. Both rank high in earned run averages—Davie with a sparkling 2.39 and Lee a 3.01. Spencer has a 2.00 era for 76 innings and a 9-4 record.

Pitchers Bill Harrington and Joe Grzenda are the chief prospects at Birmingham.

At Augusta, outfielder George Alusik leads the Sally League in hitting and rbi's and could become the second straight Tiger farmhand to win the league's most valuable player award. Alusik hit .319 in 84 games.

Bonus player George Thomas, who plays both first base and the outfield for Augusta, had a .284 average in 53 games and his older brother, Jerry, also a product of the University of Minnesota, had an 8-5 mound record for Augusta.

Lancaster, the Bengals other Class A farm, was paced by outfielder Bubba Morton (.323) and third baseman Bill Springfield (.304) on offense and pitchers Gorgon Seyfried (14-6) and Bob Paffel (12-8). Detroiter Ron Rozman had a 5-3 mark for the Red Roses.

The top batting averages in the chain belonged to Idaho Falls. Jerry Kudajeski went at a .373 clip in 53 games and outfielder Frank Franchi at .357 in 103 contests. Six other players were over the .300 mark leaving only Jim Spyhalski below with a .282 average.

Steve Gromek's Erie Sailors, with no pitcher over .500, still were embedded in seventh place in the Class D New York-Pennsylvania League.

CLOSE QUARTERS — Chicago Cub catcher Cal Neeman gets into close quarters with umpire Frank Dascoli in protest over a play yesterday in the game against the Pirates. Romack, Scot in Golf Duel

DARIEN, Conn. (AP) — Barbara Romack, a pert blonde girl from Sacramento, Calif., and Mrs. George Valentine, a wispy veteran of British golf competition, clashed today in a repeat match in the fifth round of the U.S. Women's golf championship.

It was three years ago that Miss Romack and Mrs. Valentine met under very different conditions in the final of the British Women's championship.

The weather at Portrush, Ireland, was miserable then. Barbara had to wear a stack of sweaters and rain pants for protection and she took a 7 to 6 licking from her veteran Scottish opponent.

Things have been a little different this week at the tight Wee Burn course. For one thing, the weather has been perfect. And the competition, going pretty close to form, has left Mrs. Valentine as the only survivor of seven British entries after four rounds of match play.

CHICAGO (AP) — The Barnstorm, owned by Charles Barns of Gull Lake, Mich., finished second yesterday in the third race of the five race Great Lakes Star Class championship sailing race.

John McKeague, of Michigan City, Ind., finished first in the event in his Hurr'in' Hoosier to take over the lead in the series standings with 42 points. Barns is second in the standings with 37.

Beats PBI, 4-2, for City Title

Boys Club Class B Champ

Boys Club is headed for the state Class B baseball tournament after winning the city championship Wednesday with a 4-2 triumph over Pontiac Business Institute at Jaycee Park.

Champion of the regular season race, the BC team made a clean sweep of honors by taking two straight from PBI in the final best-of-three playoff. Boys Club took a 5-1 decision Monday in the opening game of the series.

A darkness-halted seven-inning 4-4 tie Tuesday delayed the BC nine's title ambitions. There was no denying the Boys Clubbers yesterday, however.

They scored three runs in the 1st inning and their final tally in the 2nd, then coasted to victory behind the three-hit pitching of Bob Garrett.

PBI, which advanced to the finals by beating Talbott Lumber two games to one in the semis, reached Garrett for their two runs in the 6th inning.

Leroy Nicholas started on the mound for PBI and left the scene during Boys Club's three-run 1st stanza. Harry Bell hurled the rest of the way for PBI with Nicholas suffering the loss.

Boys Club now enters the state "B" tournament Aug. 29 against Ypsilanti at 8 p.m. on Butzel Field in Detroit.

Pine Mountain Skiing Facilities Being Expanded

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich. (AP) — Though Michigan sports fans still are thinking about baseball and have the football season just ahead of them, the ski people are making mid-summer news.

The Pine Mountain Winter Sports Area, located in Iron Mountain, will have a new look on the opening of the 1958 skiing season.

Included in the expansion program will be a new 2,350-foot double aerial chair lift and the construction of a 12,000 square-foot ski lodge. The lodge will be the Swiss type with three stories.

In addition to the present six slopes and trails, three new slopes varying in length up to 3,000 feet will be ready for the 1958 winter season. The expansion program will cost $150,000.

Mrs. Hilkene Wins WMGA Medal Crown

A closing round of par 75, the only par round in the entire tournament, gave Mrs. Bruce Hilkene the 54-hole medal play championship of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association.

The 31-year-old Birmingham housewife won the 20th annual tourney at Sunnybrook yesterday with a 54-hole total of 233 on rounds of 82-76-75. Her score was three strokes better than Mrs. R. G. Martell and Mrs. C. F. Fox, both former champions who tied for 2nd place with 236.

Mrs. Martell gained the runner-up spot by defeating Mrs. Fox on the 3rd hole of a sudden-death playoff. Mrs. Hilkene's winning score was 10 shots better than the previous record of 243 set by Mrs. H. C. Harr at Beverly Hills in 1936.

It's More Confusing Than Mulligan Stew

Two Rival Hobo Groups Take to Feuding

BRITT, Iowa (UPI)—Two rival organizations of the knights of the open road have taken to feuding. And trying to figure out what's it about is more difficult than guessing the ingredients in a hobo's mulligan stew.

The knights gathered here Tuesday for the 58th annual Hobo Day to devour gallons of the aromatic stew and elect a hobo king and queen. The clan considers the gathering the official convention of the nation's 'boes.

Boxcar Betty of the Bowery in New York City explained her organization this way:

"First you sell the Hobo News. Then you join Big Tom's Panhandlers Union. But you've got t' be a hobo," the newly-elected queen of the hoboes added.

"Jeff Davis runs that outfit. He's got a real racket. He's connected with the breweries and the unions and they drink it up there."

Back at Cincinnati, Davis added fuel to the fued. He said he does not have anything to do with the likes of BB (Boxcar Betty, not Brigitte Bardot).

"She has no organization," Davis said. "She took her name from a character in the late Dr. Ben Wrightman's book, 'Girls of the Road'."

Davis said his organization was formed in 1908 and incorporated in Indiana in 1914.

"We have done so much good for others," he said. "We're trying to get the 'boes off the road and back to work. We're nonprofit. Boxcar Betty and other imposters like her are just out for their own good."

BB refused to carry the argument any further.

She said her followers also believe hoboes should be helped in finding jobs. And for the uninitiated, she gave their glossary of terms to explain the difference hoboes, bums and others:

—A hobo is a migratory worker.

—A crumb bum scratches his way around. He never takes a bath.

—And a big bum is the big shot, the king or queen.

Betty said the official name of her group is "Tourists Union Local 63."

"Any body who joins the union has to be a good hobo," she said. "Come to New York and see us some time. We have a lot of good parties."

Michigan Bank Led to the Term 'Wildcat Money'

ALBANY, N. Y. — In 1838 New York passed a "free banking" law and soon many independent state banks sprang up all over the country. For the most part, they were owned by the people of their communities and their business was local.

Until 1863 these notes circulated everywhere although many of the banks were in remote places where there were more wildcats than people.

Such banknotes came to be called "wildcat" currency. This name was first used in Michigan, where a bank had issued currency bearing the picture of a wildcat. The bank failed, and depositors, looking at their worthless money, said in derision, "Wildcat money from a wildcat bank!"

Electronic Brain Acquires 'Ears'

AF Compiler Converts Thirty English Verbs Directly Into Code

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — Electronic "brains" still can't talk, but at least now they can listen, the Air Force has revealed.

Technicians at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base say they have created a mechanical linguist that can convert 30 English verbs directly into electronic codes for instructions to computers.

And the machine—Air Materiel Command Automatic Compiler, or AIMACO — will eventually be taught a respectable human listening vocabulary.

Designed by men from Remington Rand Division of Sperry-Rand Corp., and from the Air Materiel Command here, AIMACO eliminates manual translation of the spoken word to machine language. It uses a giant computer to make the conversion electronically, for itself and for such other "brains" as Remington-Rand's Univac.

"This is a tremendous forward step in the data processing field," says AMC commander Gen. E. W. Rawlings.

Extra advantages of the mechanical Berlitz: Computer personnel don't need so much technical training, machine programs can be more quickly altered to suit changing circumstances, and management can more quickly discover whether a proposed operation is actually doing what it's supposed to do.

All Warm Objects Emit Infrared Rays

WASHINGTON — Infrared rays, being used by American military forces for taking pictures at night and by industry for analyzing complicated chemicals, are radiation similar to heat waves.

They are put out by any object having a temperature above absolute zero, which is minus 273 degrees Centigrade.

Tungsten Once Said to 'Devour' Good Tin

LONDON — English miners in Cornwall in the 16th Century believed that a brown-black ore, one of the mineral forms of tungsten, devoured good tin. Hence the ore's name—wolfram, or wolframite, meaning "wolf soot."

A dense, silvery element, tungsten withands more heat than any other metal and it ranks second to the diamond in hardness.

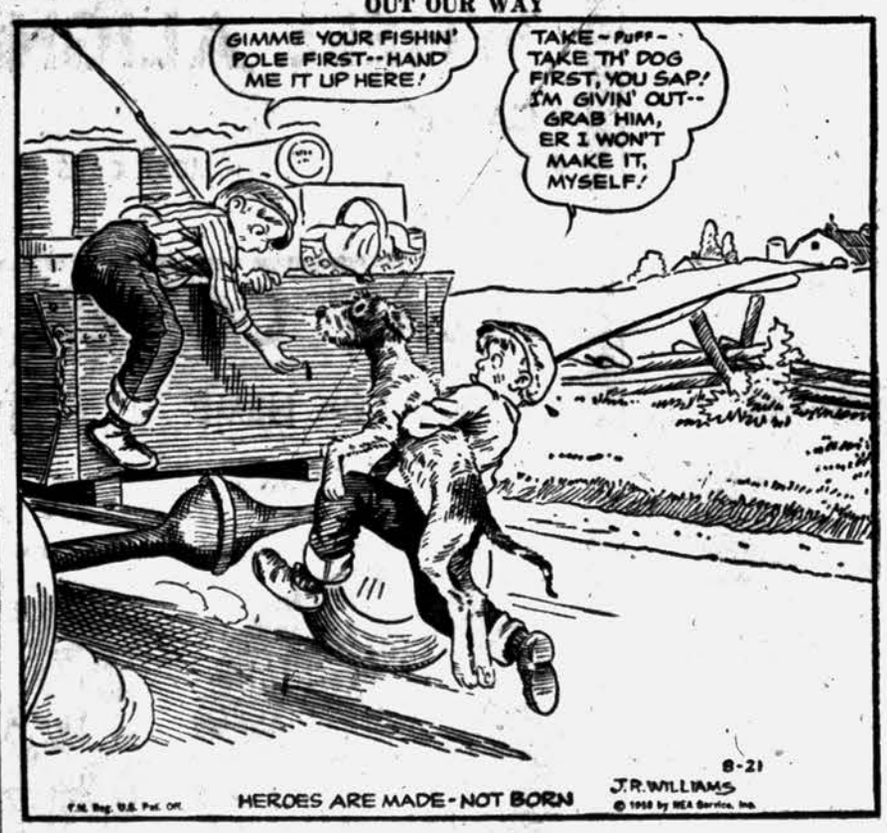

To Head Allied Air Force

Soviets Revise 'Hamlet' to Rip Baghdad Pact

LONDON (AP)—A Soviet version of the ghost in "Hamlet" ranted on an Arab battlement today with a U. S. Marine and a British paratrooper standing in for Shakespeare's celebrated sentries.

Moscow's phantom was Cockney rather than courtly and his creator no budding bard.

Moscow radio called its broadcast a "modern ghostly melodrama" entitled "It's Dead but it Won't Lie Down!"

The night is dark, the wind howls.

Enter ghost in tattered British desert uniform, a relic of World War I in Mesopotamia.

To the accompaniment of groans and shrieks, the ghost begins his jingle:

"When you 'ear the pact a'moanin' you'll shudder with might and main. The Baghdadless Pact's a'groanin' for the day it lost its name.

"It's just too bad, but then, by gad, the rightin' won't lie down, while the Baghdad Pact with no Baghdad is dead but it won't lie down."

There are 14 more verses before the curtain falls on a chorus from the sentries:

"Show me the way to go home. I'm scared and I might as well be dead, for we've seen an 'orrid pact just a minute ago and it didn't 'ave no 'ead."

Driver's 2 Daughters Die in Car-Bus Crash

DETROIT (AP) — Jack Ritter's two daughters were killed yesterday when the car he was driving collided with a city bus.

Ritter, 47, of Detroit, suffered minor injuries.

Mrs. Joan Traurig, 19, was dead on arrival at a nearby hospital. Her sister, Linda Ritter, 10, died about three hours later.

Ruth Rosenburg, 11, Windsor, Ont., Ritter's niece, was injured. No one on the bus was hurt.

PUFFED WITH PRIDE—With a relaxing puff on her pipe, Mrs. Louisa Jackson, of Thornton, Colo., celebrated her 106th birthday. Believed to be the oldest double amputee in medical history, she has been smoking a pipe since she was eight years old. That was back in 1860. Arteriosclerosis forced the amputation of one leg when she was 99. The other was cut off when she was 102.

Labor Reform Appears Dead

Ike's Attempt to Goad Congress Into Passing Bill Seems Doomed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor legislation showed no signs of life today despite President Eisenhower's attempt to goad Congress into passing such a bill before adjournment.

It was hard to find any senator or representative who believed a labor bill could be pushed through in these final days of the session.

In a special statement yesterday, Eisenhower expressed disappointment "that the Congress has thus far failed to enact legislation to curb the racketeering, corruption and abuses of trust and power" which he said the Senate Rackets Committee has found in the labor-management field.

"I still hope that before adjournment the Congress will pass a labor bill which will effectively protect the working men and women of our country," Eisenhower added.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell also made an appeal for action before Congress goes home, perhaps this weekend.

But Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, a House Republican leader, said in an interview: "I'm afraid under the circumstances nothing will be done."

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) had no comment on the Eisenhower-Mitchell appeals. Neither did Chairman Graham Barden (D-NC) of the House Labor Committee.

Rep. Stewart Udall (D-Ariz) said that "if either the President or Mitchell had spoken up Monday, we'd have a bill today."

It was on Monday that the House killed a Senate-passed labor bill sponsored by Senators John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Irving M. Ives (R-NY).

That bill would have required, among other things, disclosure of union finances through public reports to the secretary of labor. It also would have required secret balloting for union officers and placed limits on terms of such officers.

In appealing for Congress to enact labor legislation at this session, both Eisenhower and Mitchell criticized the Kennedy-Ives measure as not going far enough. They plumped for the 12-point administration program sent to Congress last January.

Eisenhower's proposals called in part for full reports to the government on union finances and welfare fund operations, as well as on their internal organizational affairs. Most such reports would be open to the public.

The President also sought criminal penalties for theft of union funds, for failing to file or falsifying required reports and for bribery either by union or employer representatives.

President Signs Bill on Trade

Reciprocal Agreements Extended for 4 Years by Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has signed legislation giving the reciprocal trade program four more years of life. It is the longest extension ever granted by Congress.

The administration had requested a five-year extension, but Eisenhower made it clear in signing the bill yesterday that he was quite happy with what Congress provided.

Eisenhower praised Congress for voting the four-year extension and said the legislation represents a "firm, forward step on the road to a stronger America in a world at peace."

In addition, he said, the free nations "are now assured of a continuity in United States trade policy that will make possible new international negotiations to promote mutually advantageous commercial exchange and increased world productivity."

The four-year extension of the 24-year-old program is expected to give the government sufficient power to deal with future trade problems arising from the new European Common Market.

This is a union of France, Italy, West Germany and the Benelux countries in a common market embracing some 160 million consumers.

Besides giving authority for the program to operate through June 30, 1962, the legislation provides additional powers to cut tariffs 20 per cent in return for like concessions from other nations. The administration had asked for 25 per cent.

The law will now permit Congress, by a two-thirds vote of both House and Senate, to sustain recommendations of the Tariff Commission for higher duties or import quotas, even though the President may disagree.

Another provision will allow industry appeals for protection on grounds of defense importance.

The President is also directed to consider the impact of imports on the nation's economy, specifically any substantial unemployment which may result.

Sarawak tribemen still hunt wild boar, deer and monkeys with poisoned darts, but they prefer modern firearms when they can get them.

Hollywood Headlines

'Female Marlon Brando' Lives Up to Her Billing

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I never thought Hollywood would use me. There's no place out here for a fat girl . . .

"I can't stand the sunshine in California. It's so relentless. But it's good for you, I guess. Even the old ladies out here look better than I do. . . ."

This was Maureen Stapleton talking, and she was living up to her billing as the female Marlon Brando.

She is like the early Brando—before he became husband, father and film producer. She has a similar disdain for the niceties of attire ("I hate clothes"). She is unimpressed by herself, Hollywood protocol and nearly everything.

Also Brando-like: she is a great performer, universally admired by her fellow actors.

Dore Schary is the man who got her to do a movie. He and director Vincent Donahue sought her to play the important role of an unhappy housewife in "Lonelyhearts" with Montgomery Clift, Robert Ryan and Myrna Loy.

How was she landed?

"Vinny called me up and asked me if I wanted to do it," she reported. "I loved the book and I liked the setup so I said yes."

Maureen has been called the American Magnani. She has originated two roles which have befallen Magnani in the movie versions—"The Rose Tattoo" and the forthcoming "Orpheus Descending."

She also did the stage original of "27 Wagons Full of Cotton," which turned up on the screen as "Baby Doll" and made a star of Carroll Baker.

More Foreign Ships Reported on Lakes

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The number of foreign ships visiting Great Lakes port so far this year indicates a sharp increase over last year, the Great Lakes Commission said today.

The interstate agency said overseas vessel trips by the end of June had reached nearly half the number for the entire 1957 season. Upbound passages totaled 169 from April to June, compared with 351 during all of last year.

"The increase," the Commission said, "reflects in part the desire of vessel agencies to establish contacts in preparation for opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway next spring."

Overseas imports to Great Lakes ports totaled about 97,000 tons to the end of June. No figures were available for the comparable period in 1957, the Commission said, but it added import cargo tonnages were holding up well.

Export tonnage figures for 1958 are not yet available, the Commission said, but are reported to be lower than the last two seasons.

Singer Leaves Hospital

PALMA, Mallorca (UPI) — American opera star Patrice Munsel yesterday took her one-month-old, prematurely-born son Carl from the hospital here to her seaside villa on nearby Formentor Island. The child, born July 20, was reported still in an incubator. Miss Munsel's husband is producer Robert Schuler.

Robinson Recovering

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Edward G. Robinson, 64, is in excellent condition following minor bladder surgery. Attendants at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital said the actor probably will be discharged soon.

Texas had 52 oil refineries operating at the end of 1957.

Chevrolet Changing Over for '59 Model

Auto Production for Week at Low Level

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — Passenger car production this week will drop to nearly the lowest level of the year.

Chevrolet, the world's heaviest volume producer, completed its 1958 model run last week. It will be out of production for a month while equipment changes are made for 1959 model output.

A four-week changeover shutdown is a little longer than would be scheduled in a heavy selling market. But 1958 has not been characterized by high sales volume.

Chevrolet has been turning out new cars this year at an average of more than 27,000 units weekly. In recent weeks, it has been building at a 30,000 cars a week level. That's close to a normal year rate for Chevrolet.

Probably the high production rate that put Chevrolet more than a quarter million units ahead of Ford, its nearest rival, also built up Chevrolet's dealer inventory. But Chevrolet's sales have been running closer to its 1957 level and far ahead of Ford's.

Chevrolet's nearly 660,000 retail sales in this year's January-June half were about 63,000 behind those of 1957s like period. Ford, with nearly 501,000 retail deliveries was more than 263,000 units behind its 1957 January-June total.

But industry experts say the longer Chevrolet changeover shutdown probably is due more to the fact that broader equipment changes are being made this year than in many previous years because of wider design changes in the forthcoming 1959 cars.

The changes have not been disclosed but Chevrolet gets an entirely new car for 1959. A major styling feature will be the unique rear end treatment, with an indented V in the center of the deck and a gullwing design spreading outward into fins, almost horizontal and parallel with the ground.

There are other styling changes, too, but the rear end treatment will attract the most attention.

As Chevrolet started the first week of its changeover shutdown, Buick began production of its 1959 models. Buick had been down since late in June. Its 1959 models — lower, longer and wider — are scheduled to go on sale Sept. 19.

Instead of the five series of cars produced heretofore, Buick will have three in 1959. They are the Lesabre, Invicta and Electra. They replace the Special, Super, Century, Roadmaster and "75" series.

Buick, which tapered off production even before its early build-out of 1958 models, has virtually no inventory problem. The extended changeover shutdown aided in an orderly liquidation of outgoing models.

To cut to three series of cars and a broad elimination of color combinations is expected to ease dealers' future inventory problems.

Grain Futures at Slow Pace

CHICAGO (AP)—After two moderately active sessions, grain futures dealings dropped back to a slow pace again today and prices eased.

Dealers said there appeared to be some hesitancy either to liquidate or reinstate speculative positions at current prices in the absence of any major guiding influences.

Many contracts are at or near the season's lows and some traders expressed belief the most immediate considerations appear to be on the bearish side.

After about an hour wheat was ⅛ to ⅜ cent a bushel lower, September $1.82¾; corn ⅞ lower to ⅛ higher, September $1.26; oats ⅜ lower to ⅛ higher, September 62½; rye ¼ lower to ⅜ higher, September $1.20¾; soybeans ¼ to ½ lower, September $2.23¾; lard 2 to 8 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $12.65.

A good deal of trade attention has been centered recently on the soybean crop as the next major one to be harvested. With conditions ranging from good to excellent the outlook for a record yield has been a decidedly bearish factor even though a larger percentage than ever before is expected to go into government storage under price support loan.

Hold Leonard Man in Shooting Attempt

LEONARD—Romeo State Police today are holding a 54-year-old farmhand on the charge of felonious assault with a deadly weapon after he allegedly attempted to shoot his employer, a Bruce Township dentist.

Scheduled to be arraigned on the charge this afternoon is Jesse Shuford of 2641 36 Mile Rd., Bruce Township.

According to state troopers, Shuford was arrested last night at his home after Dr. Charles Conally of 2835 36 Mile Rd. reported Shuford had pointed a 16 gauge single-shot shotgun at him twice and pulled the trigger after Conally refused to pay the arrested man approximately $200 in back pay.

The incident occurred in Shuford's residence which is adjacent to the Conally farm, following an argument over money.

Troopers report the gun did not go off, although it was loaded, because the firing pin was not in the gun.

Shock Was Too Much

CREIL, France (UPI)—Placide Totis, 60, died of a heart attack yesterday after reading his annual income tax demand from the government.

Oils Move Up in Quiet Mart

NEW YORK (AP)—Oils did fairly well in a mixed and quiet stock market early today.

A higher tendency seemed to be developing. Gains of key stocks went from fractions to about a point. Losses were mostly fractional. Many stocks were unchanged.

Getty Oil was ahead about a point and Gulf Oil rose a bit more than that. Fractional gains were scored by Texas Co., Royal Dutch and Standard Oil (New Jersey).

The boost in permitted oil production in Texas was an encouraging feature. Some improved earnings and a new high for electric output were other factors.

Baltimore & Ohio eased following its late jump of 1½ yesterday as Wall Street took a second look at the road's earnings report. Lorillard, which sank 2⅛ yesterday as traders "sold on the news" of its upped dividend, recouped a good-sized fraction.

U. S. Rubber, International Paper, General Motors, Caterpillar and General Electric made small gains. Slight losses were taken by Illinois Central, United Aircraft, Boeing and United Air Lines.

Opening blocks included Rhodesian Selection Trust unchanged at 2⅜ on 26,700 shares; Getty Oil up 1 at 27¾ on 3,300; Penn-Texas unchanged at 7¾ on 3,400; and American Telephone up ¼ at 182⅝ on 2,500.

Says Bomb Deters War

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The secretary of the Navy says the hydrogen bomb is not really an instrument of war and has only one sane purpose—to deter general war. Thomas S. Gates Jr. told a $100-a-plate Republican party dinner: "If war should come, the hydrogen bomb will have failed and the cost may be the end of all civilization."

Show Presents Big Problems

Half of Every Episode Filmed on Location Outside Hollywood

By WARD BOND

NEW YORK (AP) — There's no denying that the life of men like Maj. Seth Adams, the wagonmaster I portray in television's "Wagon Train" series, was a rugged one.

But in all the books I've read about frontier life, I haven't yet run across a wagonmaster who got ulcers because of his work.

Unfortunately, I can't say the same for the man who pretends to lead that existence once a week on TV.

After 30 years as a supporting player in motion pictures, they decided I should enter television with star billing. And what happeneo? Two months later I developed an ulcer.

The troubles we encountered in getting our wagon train from Independence, Mo., to Sacramento, Calif., would have shaken the toughest of last century's wagonmasters.

For one thing, we spent almost a full year making the trip which our real-life counterparts covered in half that time. And the problems of logistics, personnel and time topped anything that was dreamed of 95 years ago.

The show's production office had to consider and solve—for the purposes of the story—all the difficulties that faced the wagon trains of that day.

This was the easy part. Because then came the problem of finding good scripts. When the series was begun, in May 1957, there wasn't a single script which could be adapted to our format. Each of the 39 stories presented during the season was written especially for "Wagon Train."

The newness of the format, that is, featuring Robert Horton and myself in alternating episodes, with each story build around a name guest star, required not only unusual stories, but a special style of writing.

At least half of every "Wagon Train" episode was shot on location. Most of them were filmed in the vicinity of Thousand Oaks, Calif., about four miles from Hollywood. Others were made at more distant sites, with three filmed in the desert near Tucson, Ariz.

Every day's shooting on location created tremendous problems. First, there was the risk of bad weather. Sites had to be selected for each scene that resembled terrain the wagon train was supposed to be passing through.

Then the exact amount of equipment, horses, other livestock, props, costumes and the thousand and one things necessary to film a picture had to be ordered and transported each morning to the shooting site.

The personnel necessary for a day's shooting on location ranged from 90 to 130. Special provision had to be made each day for transporting and feeding the entire company.

Now that I've gotten this off my chest, I'll get ready for another season. Because regardless of the work and worry, I've never experienced a more exciting and self-satisfying year in my life.

Carnival Items Go Like Hotcakes He Sadly Reports

CHICAGO (AP)—Ralph Simons' stuffed animals and huge baby dollars were selling like crazy. The trouble was he wasn't selling them.

Simons, a carnival concessionaire, wasn't even giving them away, as he normally does to winners at carnivals. He was asleep at home when it happened yesterday.

Youngsters found the animals and dollars in his parked car and promptly sold 30 of them. The hottest item appeared to be small pandas—going price 50 cents.

Simons later told police each doll, panda and teddy bear cost him $4.

"I'd buy them back at $2 each," he said, "no questions asked."

Six Persons Killed in Head-On Crash

FLORENCE, Tex. (AP) — A head-on auto collision near this central Texas town killed six persons early today.

Officers said everyone in both cars died.

Military police at nearby Ft. Hood said the bodies of five military personnel had been taken to the base.

Identifications were not immediately available.

High Society Shindig Rocks Atlantic City

By EARL WILSON

ATLANTIC CITY — In case you haven't been to Atlantic City lately, the town is swingin'.

I flew to a "fabulous, exclusive" Gay 90s high society party (that's how everybody got) for Mrs. Mary Roebling, the Trenton banking lady, and ran the long night's journey into day by watching Sammy Davis Jr. performing around 3 a.m.

WILSON

Doll-Girl Elaine Stewart of Hollywood—who was born in Monclair, N.J., but had never been to Atlantic City—was supposed to wear a Gay 90s dress that had once been worn by Marilyn Monroe.

She couldn't get into it. It seems that in a couple of areas Miss Stewart is even more voluptuous than Marilyn.

The "fabulous, exclusive" party was flung for Mrs. Roebling—whom some friends want to run for vice president — by Mrs. Mary Biddle. It was given for Mrs. Roebling's 52d birthday which, curiously, was 18 days earlier.

ELAINE

ADD "FUNNY SIGNS": Peggy's Luncheonette in Brooklyn displays these: "If you put ashes in your cup or saucer, we will serve your coffee in an ash tray" . . . "It's not that I don't hear you, I'm ignoring you" . . .

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN N.Y. . . .

Burgess Meredith's son Jonathan, who's 9, is now acting with his father in "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker" in summer stock. Mrs. Meredith pilots them fearlessly from one engagement to another in a pink Piper Cub. Meredith, one-time playboy, now thoroughly domesticated, has a little wine at dinner — that's all . . .

Veronica Lake has "disagreements" with the producer and quit her summer stock show . . . Gloria Swanson'll promote a "health tea" here . . .

Ex-champ Barney Ross will get back into the fight business up $60,000 for a three-night Washington concert . . . Joni James will tour GI bases in the Far East . . .

EARL'S PEARLS: Hollywood is where they marry for better or for worse, but seldom for long.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Publicist Herb Wurth, a recent dad, notes similarity between babies and old men: Both go to sleep over their bottles.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Jack Benny explained jokingly why he attended George Jessel's Grossinger show: "After all, George acted as toastmaster when the Friars gave me a dinner. It was a beautiful gesture—particularly since no one asked him to" . . . That's earl, brother.

Called Bigger Problem Than Cancer

Fatness Hard to Cure

ABOARD THE SS MATSONIA (AP)—Fatness is harder to cure than cancer, says a physician who specializes in problems of diet and nutrition.

Only one out of 20 people who successfully reduce their weight by restricting food intake stay that way, Dr. Donald Petit of the University of Southern California told physicians attending a unique medical refresher course aboard this liner en route to Los Angeles.

Dr. Petit cited studies made on people 10 years after dieting. By that time, 95 per cent were back where they started.

Roughly a third of those treated for cancer are free from the disease 5 to 10 or more years afterward.

The small success of weight reductions suggests a typical obese person is naturally that way and may not be just a normal-sized individual with too much padding.

Other investigators have found children follow the body contours of their parents. In cases where both parents are obese, 72 per cent of the offspring also are fat.

Where one parent is fat, 41 per cent of children are overweight. When neither parent is obese, only 4 per cent of the offspring are fat.

Can Transfer Nike to Any Trouble Spot

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Nike antiaircraft installations can be flown to trouble spots around the world, the Army says.

Ft. Bliss here said two Nike Hercules batteries were transported from Ft. Bliss to Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., in a mobile test. The rocket weapons and 500 personnel left El Paso in mid-June, fired six missiles in July and returned to El Paso last week.

"Any piece of equipment in the system could have been hauled in a C124 Globemaster," said Brig. Gen. John Snodgrass, Ft. Bliss deputy commanding general.

He said the Nike Ajax is even more mobile and can be set up and ready to fire within two hours.

China's 500 million people comprise one-fourth of the world population.

Day at the Lake Ends in Death

Mother; Two Children Drown; Teen Youths Save Another Pair

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — Two next-door neighbor women took their children to play at a lake yesterday. One mother and her two children drowned. The other, clasping her 14-month-old daughter in her arms, was rescued by two teen-age boys.

Mrs. William Holley saw her 3-year-old son Ben wade into deep water. With her daughter Rene, less than a year old, in her arms she ran to help her son.

Two boys pulled her and her child to safety. Then they dived for the other mother and her children. It was too late, however, when they brought their bodies from the lake.

The young rescuers were Robert Clemmons, 14, and James Tate, 13.

South American Ready to Supply Garbage, Refuse

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — Delaware County has been offered all the garbage and refuse it can burn.

Gregorio Vassiliev, Russian-born industrial engineer in Buenos Aires, offered to round up tons of South American garbage as incinerator representative for the county neighboring Philadelphia.

Vassiliev, who said in his letter that he can speak eight languages, apparently misread the county's advertising, Clearance L. Conner, head of the county disposal department, said.

His letter came in answer to an ad for a superintendent for the county's three planned incinerators, which will cost six million dollars. Vassiliev said he could line up Argentina's refuse supply plus millions of tons more from other South American countries.
