

Still Near Holly Raided

RAIDED — This ancient shack near Holly housed an illegal still which was raided yesterday.

MOONSHINE BARRELS — Moonshiners stored mash in these barrels before turning it into alcohol. Gun belongs to police.

ARMED PAUSE — Raiders get a brief respite in their work of chopping up mash-barrels, jugs, burner and still.

Still Near Holly Smashed by Police, Treasury Men

In a daylight raid yesterday, five Treasury Department officers, two Holly policemen and an Oakland County Sheriff's deputy demolished a 30-gallon still off Road road near Holly.

The still, with about 300 gallons of mash, was in a shack on the bank of a small, nameless lake about 400 yards from the road.

Plight of Alcoholic Not All in Mind, Physician Claims

DETROIT (AP)—A New York physician says the plight of the alcoholic is not all mental—a good share of his craving arises because his glandular system is upset.

Dr. John W. Tintera, chief of the endocrine clinic at St. John's Riverside Hospital, Yonkers, today told the ninth annual scientific assembly of the Michigan Academy of General Practice:

"Alcoholics can be materially helped with medicines. Injections of adrenal-cortical extract can correct insufficiencies of the adrenal-cortical glands."

He said these injections help the victim resist his craving for alcohol later and help balance other glandular systems which are thrown out of balance when the adrenal-cortical system becomes short.

"However, none of these things will help unless the patient has a firm desire to beat the problem," said the doctor.

"Few alcoholics are willing to admit their enslavement to alcohol and the victim must understand that tapering off won't help."

3 Airmen Lost in Pacific Ocean Transport Crash

Navy Ship Fights Seas to Save Two Crewmen of Downed 'Boxcar'

HONOLULU (AP)—Two of five airmen who parachuted into the Pacific were picked up late last night by a seaplane tender which spotted tiny flashlights on their lifejackets.

The U. S. Navy seaplane tender Floyds Bay found the men more than a mile apart after a 75 mile dash through wind and rain-whipped seas to the spot where the five crewmen bailed out of their C119 Flying Boxcar after one of its two engines ran wild.

The Air Force said there was no sign of the other three crewmen, "but they seem to have the area pretty well bracketed" and expressed hope they would be found.

A Pan American Airways plane reported spotting two lights on the surface some 630 miles east of here last night, more than three hours after the crew radioed one of its engines was running wild and they would have to parachute. Seas were whipped into 6 to 10 foot swells by rainstorms and winds up to 25 m.p.h., the Navy said.

The Floyds Bay reached the area around 11 p.m. and picked up the first survivor. Half an hour later it recovered the second man.

Their names were not reported. The Navy said the rescued men were the plane's navigator and flight engineer. The two said they bailed out with the radio operator.

RIGGED ESCAPE HATCH

The Navy reported the flight engineer said he rigged the bow escape hatch for the pilot and copilot who were to parachute afterward. On the way down the engineer saw the plane begin circling and he took that to mean they had actually left the craft.

The Weather Bureau reported the wind dropped to around 20 m.p.h. and the rain had slackened to showers with the seas moderate and visibility somewhat improved.

The aircraft carrier Kearsarge was racing toward the scene. A Navy spokesman said it presumably will launch planes to search for the other three men if they have not been found before dawn.

The lost plane was one of two which left McClellan Air Force Base at Sacramento, Calif., yesterday for Hickam AFB, Honolulu, on a ferrying flight to Japan. Both crews were from the 178th Ferrying Wing based at Kelly AFB in Texas.

As the two planes droned toward Hawaii yesterday, one was about an hour ahead of the other. The lead plane received a radio message from the second one that it had an engine racing out of control.

"Unable to feather (propeller) and will have to bail out," said the message. The lead plane turned back to establish and report the position.

Clear City Man at Second Trial

Jury Acquits Former Student on Charges of Extortion

An acquittal was won yesterday in Detroit Recorder's Court by a Pontiac man who was sentenced to 5 to 20 years in prison in 1951 on charges of extorting $3,500 from the mother of one of his classmates at the University of Michigan.

A former university honor student, William F. Welke, 29, had secured a new trial on grounds that results of a lie detector test had been used as evidence in the first trial.

He originally was convicted of extorting the money from Mrs. Katherine Voss, of 17200 Northlawn, Detroit, after allegedly telling her she would never see her son, Cordell, alive if she didn't pay.

A jury of nine women and three men found Welke innocent after a week-long trial before Recorder's Judge John P. O'Hara.

Welke had been free on bond since his conviction.

Capital Readies Welcome

Today Is Ike's Last Day at Fitzsimons Hospital

DENVER (AP)—Today is President Eisenhower's 48th and last full day in Fitzsimons Army Hospital. Tomorrow it's off to Washington and a joyous "welcome home" reception.

The mood at the hospital on this final day—among the doctors, nurses and all the others who have cared for the 65-year-old President—is a joyous one, too. They are all delighted—and so relieved—that his damaged heart is mending well.

Eisenhower undoubtedly is the happiest of all, although his wife is feeling mighty good about the way things are going. With check-out time just a day off, the President's business agenda was being kept light to assure as much last minute rest as possible. He had no official government visitors scheduled today except for his chief aide, Sherman Adams.

Departure from the hospital is fixed for about 8:30 a.m. (MST) tomorrow and 30 minutes later he will take off for Washington aboard his private plane, Columbine III.

His doctors agree that the President could have left the hospital a few days ago if he had been willing to be carried aboard the plane. But he insisted that when he did leave he was going to be able to walk up the 19-step ramp. Now he is able to do that. Yesterday he walked up and down a 20-step flight of stairs at the hospital a half dozen times.

In going up the ramp to his plane at Lowry Air Force Base here, Eisenhower will pause on about the seventh step at a microphone in place there and address the nation briefly on television and radio. He probably will express thanks for the prayers for his recovery and for the tens of thousands of "get well" messages he has received.

He also plans another brief informal talk on arrival at the Washington airport.

There will be a "welcome home" reception there and greetings from crowds along the route from the airport to the White House, which Eisenhower left Aug. 14 for a Colorado work and play vacation. He was stricken in Denver Sept. 24.

He said: "It may very well be that if the company continues to move in the years ahead as it has in 1955, we will find it necessary to revise our investment plans upward."

Colbert said Chrysler's plant and equipment expansion and research plans "are based primarily upon our confidence in the dynamic future of this country."

AUTOMATIC MACHINES

The automobile manufacturer said much of the new machinery to be installed will be automatic. In this connection, he said he saw certain "advantages" to the economic development of automation.

A number of economists and labor union leaders have voiced concern that automation—the increasing use of automatic devices in business and industry—may cause unemployment.

Colbert did not touch on this point, but he said automation will make "even more desirable than ever the jobs of factory workers."

He said "one of the most powerful stimulants for the economy at the present time is investment in plant and equipment by industry generally to prepare for the tremendous markets that are going to open up in the years ahead."

Freed Suspects End Till Case

Kidnap Charge Voiced by County Jury Against Two Brothers

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP)—Two white men today were free of all charges in the celebrated case of Emmett Till, the 14-year-old Chicago Negro boy who disappeared while vacationing on his uncle's farm in Mississippi.

A Leflore County grand jury yesterday declined to indict white half-brothers Roy Bryant, 24, and J. W. Milam, 36, on charges of kidnaping Till from the cabin of his sharecropper uncle.

Less than a month ago, a trial jury in a neighboring county found the two half-brothers innocent of murdering Till on grounds there was reasonable doubt about identification of a battered body pulled from the Tallahatchie river.

"The question now arises," said Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins of the NAACP in a statement in New York yesterday, "since Mississippi jurors have determined that Milam and Bryant did not kidnap and murder young Till, who did commit the crimes?"

Wilkins said the grand jury action, which cancelled $10,000 bonds posted by the two men, "comes as no surprise to anyone acquainted with the administration of justice in Mississippi."

Till's mother, Mrs. Mamie Bradley of Chicago, commented "just about everything has run out on me now. I don't know what to say. I don't see how they could fail to indict those men."

She said she was thinking of filing a civil suit but had no money, and further action would be up to the NAACP. Mrs. Bradley was in a recent tiff with the Negro organization, which dropped her from a proposed fund raising tour of 11 western cities for demanding a $5,000 fee or one-third of the proceeds, plus expenses.

Will Close for Holiday

Pontiac banks, governmental offices and the post office will be closed tomorrow for the Veterans Day observance. County schools are reported planning special ceremonies but will remain open.

'Geneva Spirit' Shattered Today as Big 4 Meet

Western Reunification Stand Likely to Go Into Disarming Talks

GENEVA (INS)—The Big Four foreign ministers turn today to the disarmament question amid the Soviet-shattered wreckage of the "Spirit of Geneva."

The quartet of top diplomats moved to the second agenda item after the Western ministers demanded the suspension of discussion of the first item—German reunification and European security.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay originally asked for a final adjournment of the first item debate.

But Russia's V. M. Molotov—whose rock-like resistance to the allied plan for German reunification—managed to keep the item open for later debate by introducing some warmed-over proposals on reducing foreign troops in East and West Germany.

Nevertheless, the Western Big Three was determined to resist any conciliatory gestures by Molotov later in the conference unless the Soviets reverse themselves completely.

The tougher Western policy—demonstrated by the bitterly critical speeches of Dulles, Macmillan and Pinay yesterday—was expected to be carried over into this afternoon's discussion of disarmament.

Dulles was to make clear that President Eisenhower's pre-disarmament proposals for mutual inspection and an exchange of military blueprints between the U.S. and Russia was the key to solving the long deadlock on arms limitation.

He said "one of the most powerful stimulants for the economy at the present time is investment in plant and equipment by industry generally to prepare for the tremendous markets that are going to open up in the years ahead."

Warmer Weather Tonight, Tomorrow

According to the U.S. Weather Bureau it will be a little warmer tonight and tomorrow. The low tonight will range from 34 to 38. The high Friday will be from 47 to 51.

The thermometer only varied 6 degrees from 8 a.m. yesterday morning until 8 a.m. this morning. The variation was from 30 to 36 degrees.

The lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. was 30 degrees. The thermometer registered 44 at 1 p.m.

Egypt and Israel Warned by U.S. on Starting War

WASHINGTON (INS)—Israel and Egypt have been warned the U.S. will take stern reprisal action against either or both if they start war in the Holy Land.

The British and French are understood to be supporting the U.S. The warnings were part of the heavy diplomatic pressure the Western Powers are exerting to prevent a Middle East war. In Washington officials said they believe there is a better than even chance that war will be averted.

But if a conflict does come: 1. Economic sanctions almost certainly would be placed against either or both countries.

2. Efforts would be made to embargo arms shipments, but U.S. officials admit that such an embargo without a blockade would be of little value unless Soviet Russia agreed to it. They see little likelihood of that, in view of Soviet approval of the sale of vast amounts of arms to Egypt by Red Czechoslovakia.

3. As a last resort, the U.S. Sixth Fleet, based in Italy, and the British Mediterranean Naval forces might be ordered to blockade the seaports of Israel or Egypt, or both.

Heart Attack Fells Rochester Boy, 12

A 12-year-old boy was dead on arrival at the Avon Center Hospital, Rochester, at 8:15 a.m. today, after being transported there by ambulance from his school.

Leonard Schultz Jr., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Schultz Sr., of 360 Shadywood, Rochester, was pronounced dead of a heart attack by hospital authorities.

Leonard, thought to have "fainted" at St. John Lutheran School this morning, was taken to the hospital after efforts to revive him failed.

Arrangements are pending at Potere Funeral Home.

Let Mom Fix Machines Relax, Daddy, It's OK to Cuddle Your Baby

EAST LANSING (AP)—Fathers who enjoy cuddling their baby or changing the diapers had top-level assurance today that it's the right thing to do.

"Nothing should keep the father from participating in the care of the infant," said Dr. Gunnar Dybwad of the Child Study Association of America at the annual Michigan Child Study Association meeting at Michigan State University.

"Parents should not tolerate the old cliches about the father's or mother's place in the home. These old rules have not stood up to the test of time."

Dr. Dybwad said it is just as right for the father to enjoy rich moments with his children as it is for the mother to be capable of running and repairing the many machines in the modern home.

Legislators Quit Without Adding Required Beds

Program for Retarded Youngsters Caught in Parliamentary Snafu

LANSING (AP)—The Legislature, caught in its own parliamentary web, went home last night without providing any beds for mentally retarded children.

Theoretically, the lawmakers are in an indefinite recess. They have agreed to meet Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays until the end of the year.

But unless a bitter inter-chamber dispute is ended, it appeared the recess would amount to a final adjournment, with the clerk of the Senate banging his gavel three times a week in an empty chamber.

This arrangement will make it impossible for Gov. Williams to summon the legislators into another special session, since they have not yet adjourned from the one which began Monday.

Williams labeled the Legislature's action "parliamentary trickery" which constituted "legislative irresponsibility at its worst."

"There is no excuse for gag rule, obstruction and fraudulent deceit at a time when everybody ought to be working together for the relief of human suffering," he said.

Sen. Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield) chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, talked to Williams privately in an attempt to persuade the governor to accept the Senate's "emergency" program of 1,750 beds plus a promise that the committee would give the Farmington Children's Hospital the first week of the January session.

"The governor was very fair about it and promised to talk to his people," Porter said, "but I have heard nothing more from him."

Williams was angry at the Senate, which in juggernaut fashion introduced and passed a bill in the record-setting space of 20 minutes, shutting out debate. The Senate said its bill provided 1,750 beds.

In effect, the Senate left the House holding the bag in the special session. But House opponents of the Senate bill promised the Senate would get the bag back Monday.

Senate Republicans, led by Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville), introduced a bill calling for an emergency care program almost identical to one (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

'Quit Bickering'—Feikens

LANSING (INS)—Republican State Chairman John Feikens yesterday futilely appealed in a letter to GOP legislators to set aside personal bickerings and find some solution to the problem of hospitals for Michigan's mentally retarded children.

Lapps Remain Quiet

NEW YORK—Never ask a Lapp how many reindeer he has, is the advice of Mrs. D. G. Ross, just

Fishing Plus Cooking Equals Cash

By ANNE KEYWOOD
"My husband and I have a nice retirement activity," a reader writes, "and while it takes place only in the summers, it does give us the income we need and a great deal of pleasure, too."

Her husband, she went on to say, had a good job in a large company for years. They always used to spend their vacations at the shore, because he loved to fish.

A GOOD BUY
"By the time we were in our early 40s," she tells me, "we bought a small house on a nice piece of shorefront property, which we got quite cheap."

"We spent our summer vacations there. While Harry was fishing, I lazed around in the sun or redecorated the house."

"When retirement came—in Harry's company they retire people at 40—we had enough to live on, but not say to spare. We tried to think of a way to add to our income, but without success."

"At first, we just lived on our small income. At least, Harry had plenty of time to fish. Then, after a few years, we decided to capitalize on his fishing."

"I like to cook and, because of all the fish Harry caught, I became an expert in preparing all kinds of recipes for fish dishes."

"We decided to fix our big enclosed sun porch as a dining room and serve fish dinners on Fridays."

"We put a small ad in our local paper and had four customers on opening night. Little by little, the number grew and we began to serve three nights a week.

DINNERS NOTED
"Last summer," she concludes, "business continued to be so good that we were open every night but Monday. Our fish dinners are getting to be an institution. Little by little we've worked things out. Our prices are reasonable, too."

"This winter we're going to build an addition to the porch, so we'll have more space. Harry is happy because he loves to fish and I am happy because I love to cook and the income during the four summer months gives us lots of extra luxuries."

"We aren't going to expand too much, because we like it just as it is. We don't want a huge restaurant operation."

"But it really is wonderful, as Harry says, to get a living out of doing what you'd be doing anyway, just for fun!"

High Waists,
Easy Lines,
— Fall Coats

NEW YORK (NEA)—Easy lines, a high-waisted look and semi-fit provide a fast description of coats for fall, 1955.

Along with these easy lines, there are narrow shoulders and sleeves. Neat cuffs and contoured, carefully-fitted collars carry out the new look of soft elegance.

The A-line coat (spreading slightly from a narrow top), the kimono coat, the slim and belted redingote and the slim coat with fur collar (either small or wide and deep) are chief silhouettes.

Variations on these are many. While the dominant look, all through fashion, is a straight and narrow one, designers have found numerous ways of easing this straight line and giving it softness.

Some designers use the halfbelt at the back, pockets (placed high or low), seaming or soft inverted pleats for a fluid line.

Fur trim is discreet, used in notched or shawl collars, in setin collars or collars that are simply small and neat. Furs most often used are mink, Persian lamb, ocelot and even sable.

The double-breasted line is very much in evidence, used both for the straight and narrow coat and the A-line coat.

Tweeds are often dressy, some with bulky effect and others soft and light as chiffon. Woolens take on new textures, some with a hand-knit look. This year, the same fabrics are frequently used for both suits and coats but in different weights.

Green is a newcomer to color this season and, in all shades, it shares honors with the darkened colors, with a newly elegant black, with brown, deep blues and the tawny shades.

"Clever gal,
my Carol!"

► I'm tickled pink with the smart way my Carol handles her housework. Takes wood floors for instance. Most gals complain about all that scrubbing and waxing. But not my Carol! She cleans and waxes them in one easy operation with Bruce Cleaning Wax. It takes her half the time and a lot less elbow grease. And we've yet to have a guest who hasn't commented on our beautiful wood floors. My Carol and her Bruce Cleaning Wax really make easy work of a hard job. I'm mighty pleased with both of them.

Ah, Sweetie, Remember That Junket to ---

NEW YORK (INS) — The airships fly the junketeers so fast these days that they don't get to meet one another. The junketeers, not the airships.

People have learned to snore on complete strangers for nights on end, drink with them, dance with them, meet the deputy premier with them, and never get the last name. The first name is always easy.

In this day and age, the first name is always "Sweetie." The word "Sweetie," I've found, covers a multitude of sinners.

Well, sir, went to a reunion party of junketeers tother night and it was something to see. This group had returned some time ago from a trip to Thule, Keflavik, BW-8, Crystal 2 and other gay spots in the Arctic.

As it turned out, certain husbands could not make the trip and certain wives were not invited. This was the big reunion at which all single-o's on the trip would have an opportunity not only to introduce their mates but also meet, officially, those they had been with for the previous month.

HOW ABOUT ---

But things sometimes get ahead of schedule at these affairs. At this party a very attractive blonde who had been on the trip sidled up to one of the liveliest guys on the junket — a real live one — threw a bump at him, howled "How about that party we all had at the Hotel Nord?" and was about to continue with a bellow when Joe Lively blanched and cut in as follows:

"Miss Murgatroyd, I want you should meet the Mrs. You know, the dear little helpmeet and mother of mine I talked about so much on the trip."

Youth Editor Runs Full Scale Weekly

HYDEN, Ky. (B)—Danzil Allen, 16, is editor of Kentucky's youngest full-scale weekly newspaper. He still wears braces on his teeth, but he had completed a year of college when he joined the paper, The Leslie County News, which began publishing in May.

He puts out a six-page edition each Thursday and is part-owner of the paper.

At college, he assisted Dr. Leonard Roberts in collecting mountain folklore for his book, "South From Hell Fer Sartin," and reported for the college newspaper.

By taking Saturday classes and correspondence courses, he plans to get a degree.

The dear little helpmeet and mother of mine doesn't believe a word of it, and you can tell it from her look at 900 yards. Miss Murgatroyd is offended, too. Her name is Mrs. Bluts.

Then, on these occasions, there's the bad moment for the spouse who hasn't been on the trip when the allusions begin to fly. Each of these trips develops a supreme comic, as any fool who attends a junket reunion will understand.

At this particular party, a short, bald man absolutely killed the entire room (except those who were not along) by rolling one eye and saying:

FUZZLED SQUARES

"How's that again?" People rolled about the floors in hysteria, while squares stood along the sidelines, stunned and wondering. Later, the mate who went on the trip would explain at length what happened in the old Sauna at Goose Bay in Labrador. But in the meanwhile it had to remain broken Eskimo.

Nothing can freeze a human being quite as much as a remark that is generally accepted as wonderful by all but he/she. He/she feels woefully out of the swim.

He/she feels a great deal like Stella Dallas must have felt with all the ice cream melting and nobody ringing the front door bell. He/she, I've found, never orders a melted ice cream, however. He/she orders a stiff drink and keeps grumbling "Well! . . ." more and more indignantly.

It all reminds me of the time I was on an Air Force junket up that way, Iceland, and one of the fellows got to know one of those big, beautiful Ingrid Bergman-type girls. Iceland goes in for.

When we left the island — he had met her for a good three minutes at the deputy premier's party and had taught her the word "darling." — he said, "If you're ever in Poughkeepsie, call me up."

Well, the following Christmas Eve, plus two years, he's trimming the tree and the dear wife and kiddies are gathered about and the phone rings.

So he says hello and a husky

New Jet Engine Silencer Controls Motor Roaring

EAST HARTFORD, Conn. — A jet-engine silencer, which can be turned on or off at will by the pilot, has been designed by an East Hartford aircraft-engine manufacturer. The device changes the low roar of the jet's exhaust to a high-pitched hiss that the company seems less noisy because much of the sound is transferred beyond the range of human hearing. The pitch is raised by forcing gases through many small openings instead of one large hole.

hasn't explained it fully yet, though unduffed as the snow-driven.

needed when you are preparing lemon gelatin. Turn the gelatin into a small square pan and chill until set. Cut the molded gelatin into squares and serve on crisp greens with cottage cheese and salad dressing.

Serve for lunch after hearty bowls of split pea soup and croissants. The croissants will taste especially good if you make them by browning and crisping small squares of bread in plenty of butter or margarine.

Baked Potatoes Acquire Glamor

Baked potatoes appeal to every member of the family. From young child to grandfather they're a favorite.

Now, baked potatoes are delicious when served with butter. They can be even more delicious when stuffed with mushrooms.

When you serve stuffed baked potatoes, you can prepare them ahead of time and reheat just before serving. This is a time-saving method that busy modern homemakers appreciate.

Baked Potatoes Stuffed with Mushrooms

8 large baking potatoes
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 cup hot milk
1/4 cup finely chopped fresh mushrooms
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
12 slices mushrooms for garnish

Wash potatoes and bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees F.) one hour or until soft. Remove from oven. Cut a slice from the top of each and scoop out the inside.

Mash thoroughly. Add salt, black pepper and hot milk. Saute the chopped mushrooms in 2 tablespoons of the butter or margarine, and fresh lemon juice. Add to potatoes and beat until fluffy.

Fill lightly into shells. Garnish each with two slices fresh mushrooms, dipped in remaining butter or margarine, melted. Bake until brown, 8 to 10 minutes. Serves six.

Good sandwich filling: Mashed liverwurst mixed with mayonnaise.

BAKED STUFFED POTATOES — Baked potatoes are wonderful eating just served with butter, salt and pepper. Imagine them stuffed with mushrooms and browned lightly. They make a good accompaniment to seafood croquettes of any kind.

Peanut Butter Waffles Rated Simply Super

Reach into your freezer compartment for this early morning send-off. Pop frozen Peanut Butter Waffles into toaster; serve with crisp bacon and honey butter. Simply super!

Peanut Butter Waffles
1/4 cup shortening
1/4 cup peanut butter
2 cups pancake mix
1/4 cup sugar
2 eggs
1/4 cup chopped peanuts

Melt shortening and peanut butter together; mix well. Place all ingredients (except peanuts) in bowl; beat with rotary beater until fairly smooth. Stir in peanuts. Pour batter onto hot waffle iron. Bake waffles until steaming stops.

To freeze waffles, cool thoroughly; wrap in foil. Freeze immediately. To serve, unwrap and heat in toaster. Serve hot with butter and honey. Makes five servings.

Make Harvest Salad With Variety of Fruit

An appetizing Harvest Salad is made by combining two diced oranges, three slices pineapple, cubed, two red Delicious apples, unpeeled and cut into bite-sized pieces. Add one-half cup, pitted dates, chopped, and 1 cup seeded or seedless grapes. Mix with cooked salad dressing or a tart French dressing. Serves six to eight.

'Kettle Supper' Ideal for Winter

To our way of thinking, there's nothing quite as friendly and inviting as a hearty meal like this "Country Kettle Supper" on a blustery eve.

As the flavorful, economical smoked pork shoulder butt simmers away in a rich tomato sauce, you can go about your work, confident there will be no last-minute scurrying when your hungry family comes home.

Country Kettle Supper
1 large onion, sliced
2 tablespoons bacon drippings

3 or 4 pound smoked pork shoulder butt
1 can tomato paste
1 can water
1 or 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
1 teaspoon salt
1 No. 2 1/2 can sweetstarch
1/2 cup chopped ripe olives

Cook onion in drippings in deep skillet or kettle. Add meat, tomato paste, water and seasonings; cover and simmer slowly for about 1 1/2 hours.

Stir in vegetables and olives; heat thoroughly. Makes six servings.

New-Style Ambrosia

Serve that old-fashioned Southern dessert, Ambrosia, this new way. To the usual combination of sliced oranges and bananas sprinkled with shredded coconut, add scoops of sherbet. The sherbet can be orange, lemon or lime flavor.

Spanish sherry is known as the "smoker's wine" because for some reason that science cannot explain it is the only wine which does not lose its flavor for heavy tobacco users.

Ever Try (Jgh)
Peanut Stew?

PORTALES, N.M.—Tired of the same old thing for dinner? Just serve peanuts, advises editor Gordon Greaves of the Portales Daily News.

"Have you tried stewed peanuts?" asks Greaves, probably the world's most enthusiastic peanut fancier. "Delicious! You just pull 'em right out of the ground and stew 'em."

Greaves is highly peanut conscious, his favorite variety being the locally grown Valencia peanuts, one of the main crops in the rich farming area served by his newspaper.

Through his column, "By the Way," the editor keeps cooks in his county thoroughly informed on peanut recipes. He advocates the use of peanuts in just about every dish, commenting:

"I have eaten peanuts in the hull, raw, roasted and stewed, and they are good any of these ways."

"I have eaten them in pies, in candied sweet potatoes—and of course, in peanut butter, which can be used as an ingredient in many recipes. I especially like popcorn popped in peanut oil."

His favorite salad is called 3-P and is composed of peas, pickles and peanuts.

Greaves' youngest daughter is named Peanut, but he says sadly: "My wife calls her Patricia."

For Pacific Tuna, This Has Been a Fine Year

California Fishing Fleet Idle, Canneries Closed

By GABRIEL DAVIDSON
SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — For Pacific tuna, this has been a fine year.

The big fish are frolicking along the shores of the Americas, growing fatter with every passing day. For tuna fishermen, however, it's another story. At San Pedro and San Diego, two ports usually busy making Southern California the center of the U. S. tuna industry, more than 160 boats are creating idly at their wharves. In both ports the canneries are closed.

The men of the big Southern California fishing fleet are landlocked because of a complex economic knot.

The stalemate includes such factors as large imports of low-priced Japanese tuna, South American belligerence over fishing grounds, low prices to U. S. fishermen, cannery strikes, and fishing boat walkouts.

In general, here are the seeds of the trouble:

The Japanese fishing fleet has moved into the tuna market with increasing strength since World War II. Each year more low priced frozen and canned tuna is shipped into the United States from Japan. Peru, Ecuador and Chile have signed a joint agreement declaring the sovereignty of their nations extends out 200 miles into the Pacific Ocean. Edwin L. Morris, director of the canning industry's Tuna Research Foundation, reports the South American nations claimed this was necessary "to protect their fisheries." Seldom has any nation attempted to claim sovereignty beyond three or 12 miles.

Primarily because of the importation of cheap Japanese tuna, canneries have cut the price paid fishermen for tuna by $40 a ton. This, for example, brings the price of yellowfin tuna down to $270 a ton.

Most of the San Pedro fishermen are members of the independent International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union and they have announced that they won't fish for that price. In San Diego most of the fishermen are members of an AFL union and they and boat owners in both ports have announced they will try to make a go of fishing at the lower price.

Buy a Cottage for $250,000
In the Market for a Home?

NEW YORK (INS)—If you are in the market for a snug 20-room cottage costing somewhere around $250,000, check over these helpful tips from a man who sells everything from European castles: sprawling Long Island estates: —The servant problem is a stickler for big estates these days. —Property around Gettysburg, Pa., is "unobtainable" at the moment and has been ever since President Eisenhower became a Pennsylvania "farmer."

—The fastest depreciating style of architecture is Spanish.

John C. Tysen, who maintains real estate offices in eight U. S. cities and Paris, reviewed the "plush home" market for newsmen covering the current 48th annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Admitting that his type of real estate was bought "by personal whim," Tysen said anyone preparing to purchase a costly estate should have a fistful of ready cash.

Tysen, who heads a national real estate clearing house called Previews, Inc., with New York headquarters, disclosed that his biggest all-time sale was $475,000 for a Georgian-type home on Long Island's north shore—25 rooms, 40 acres, tennis courts, swimming pool, in other words, "the works."

Southern California fishermen have been campaigning for a limitation on the amount of Japanese tuna that may be imported. In the harbor areas many cars bear placards reading "Quota on Tuna."

The canneries here, which normally would be handling big loads of tuna, were closed last month by a strike of AFL cannery workers who demanded wage increases and other contract improvements. More than 4,500 workers were idled by the work stoppage. At San Diego the three canneries there closed, one by a strike of engineers, another by a threat of picketing by San Pedro cannery union members and the third was shut down by the company.

The complex snafu has tied up a fishing fleet with a value approximating 150 million dollars. More than 2,500 fishermen are idle at San Pedro and San Diego. Many of the tuna clippers and purse seiners are loaded with fish they can't unload.

The state's marine biologists report there is no shortage of tuna in the fishery along the Pacific coast. There is plenty there for the catching. But while the men on shore are bogged down with the economic and political problems, the tuna fish are getting quite a breather.

First Steamer in 1897

NEWTON, Mass. — The first Stanley Steamer, a steam-powered automobile inspired by a steam wagon, was completed in Newton in 1897 by the Stanley twins, Francis and Freeland.

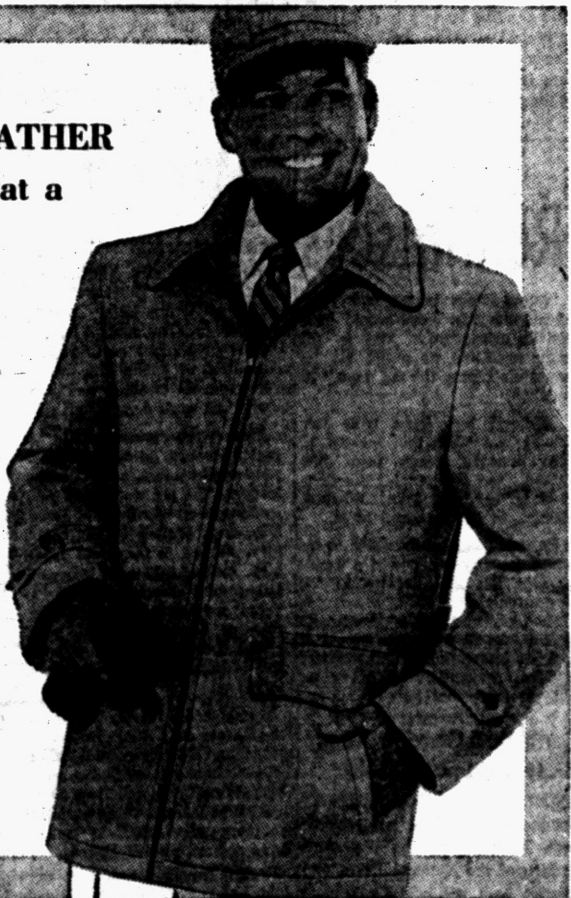

By the end of 1898 they had manufactured a dozen and were planning to mass-produce 200. In 1899 they sold their patent rights for $250,000; within three years they bought them back for $30,000. The company went bankrupt in 1923.

Rename Zoning Board Members

Waterford Township Also Appoints New Justice

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—Members of the Waterford Township Zoning Board were reappointed for 3-year terms by the Township Board Monday night. Renamed are Adis Stewart, Burton Hilliker, Harley Stevens and James Devereaux.

Upon acceptance of the resignation of Justice Donald E. White, who is moving from the township, Bert C. White was appointed to fill the unexpired term. The appointment, effective Nov. 7, will terminate in July, 1956.

Other action taken by the board included acceptance of a bid from Jack Walser for the Tuttle drive at Huron and Lind Sts.; opening of bids on two police cars for which final action was tabled until Nov. 14; approval of $254 license transfer from Chester F. Hunt to Roscoe Hunt for Farmway Grocery; acceptance of police, clerk, and treasurer's reports for October.

Brown Williams appeared before the board to discuss the development of a township cemetery.

'Headin' for a Weddin' Seniors Will Give Play

ORTONVILLE—"Headin' for a Weddin'" a farce in three acts, will be presented by the Senior Class of Brandon Township High School in the Brandon Gym on Friday and Saturday, curtain time, 8 p.m.

The play, written by LaRosa Rose, is built around the Hollowbone family, kinfolks and friends. There's "feudin'" a plenty! The hero, Homer Hollowbone, portrayed by Bill Killian, carries on an exaggerated correspondence with a stranger whose address he found by chance. His "Maw" and older sister, Fannie Jane, do all the hard work and are portrayed by Lerita Jenck and Kay Smith. Slow moving "Paw" is played by Jerry Boschma.

TIME OUT FOR GINGER — Mary Rewold and Stephen Selfert rehearse a scene from the senior play to be presented in the Rochester High School gymnasium Thursday and Friday, Nov. 17 and 18.

Village Ready for Christmas

Rochester Plans Near Completion for Yuletide Festivities

ROCHESTER — Planning is already underway for the annual Christmas festivities in Rochester, it was announced today by Hudson G. Hill, Christmas decorating program chairman, and Lafayette Maynard, Christmas parade chairman, both of the Rochester Lions Club, which sponsors the activities.

There will be additional street decorations, residential and business lighting contests, and the parade on Dec. 10 welcoming Santa Claus to the scene.

The complete program is made possible through the joint cooperation of the Lions Club; the local business, professional, and industrial people who finance the program; and the assistance of the Rochester Department of Public Works.

Letters went out to the financial sponsors last week, and many checks have already come in, according to Hill.

The Department of Public Works, under the direction of Village Manager Robert Stone will begin erection of the overhead street decorations shortly after Thanksgiving.

SANTA TO COME

Parade chairman Maynard states that the parade will form at 1 p.m. and start moving at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 10. Santa Claus will arrive in the parade and move into his headquarters on Main Street.

George Hesketh, Jr., chairman of the lighting contests, states that entry blanks for the residential competition will appear in the weekly. Prizes will be awarded to the residential winners and trophies to the winning merchants.

Detroit Edison manager Edward Dahlman has secured permission for the use of utility poles for decorating purposes, and has arranged for the Detroit Edison Company Calliope for the parade.

Same House Hit Twice by Blaze

WEST BLOOMFIELD—Lightning never strikes twice but fire may and did strike twice yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Barkey of 7339 Farrant.

At 11:30 a.m., the Commerce Township and Union Lake Fire Departments were summoned to the Barkey home to extinguish a porch fire. According to Fire Chief Ray Price of the Commerce Township Fire Department, the fire was caused by a short in an electrical extension cord on the front porch. Price estimated a $100 loss to the building at that time.

Later in the afternoon, the West Bloomfield and Commerce Township Fire Departments found themselves at the same residence. A blaze, reportedly caused by careless smoking, had started in the bedroom of the home.

The estimated loss to the building during the afternoon was $2,000 and $500 to the contents, according to West Bloomfield Township Fire Chief Ben Mosher.

4-H LEADERS GET AWARDS — Among 4-H leaders and club members who received a total of 132 trophies, medals and special awards last night were Mrs. R. H. Dudley, (center) of 4510 Charing Cross, Birmingham, and James Marble (right) of 2185 Hill Rd., Milford. Presenting national alumni award certificates to the two leaders is (left) Ray Ranta of Michigan State University, assistant state 4-H Club leader. The awards were given in recognition of "outstanding leadership work over a long period of time," at the annual 4-H Leaders Banquet, held in Pontiac.

Original Ford Investor Is 92 Years Old Former Stockholder Now Reminisces

PLYMOUTH (INS) — When the Ford Motor Co. places stock up for sale for the first time early in 1956, one Michigan man won't be in the least bit interested.

He is Charles H. Bennett, 92-year-old Plymouth resident.

Bennett is the sole survivor of the 12 men who, 52 years ago, put up the money to found the Ford Motor Co.

The dapper little man, who has been president of the Daisy Air Rifle Co. for 40 years, sold his interest in Ford for $35,000. Had he held on to it for a few years longer, it would have sold for $25 million.

When most people still regarded Henry Ford as crazy, Bennett invested $5,000 of his own money to buy 50 shares in the infant company. For two years the investment paid 50 per cent dividends. In the third year, Bennett sold out for $35,000 after opposing a change in company policy.

Looking back, Bennett said:

"That was a lot of money in those days. I have never suffered financially. And my own company has been just as absorbing to me as being a Ford stockholder would have."

Bennett never lost touch with Ford.

"Many times in the last years of his life Mr. Ford would have his chauffeur drive him to my home here and we would sit for hours discussing the old days," he recalled.

Bennett has been with the Daisy Air Rifle Co., located a few hundred yards from his home, for 66 years. Another founder of the firm, Edward Hough, is still treasurer at 86.

Bennett has been confined to his home recently because of a throat ailment but still dresses in the best of style.

He likes to think of the family doctor who 92 years ago looked at a sickly infant and told his mother: "Mrs. Bennett, we'll never be able to save that baby."

Farmington Board Still Troubled by Water Lack

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Farmington Township Board is all but sinking in its water problems. Pursued for more than a year by a group of determined citizens who are endeavoring to force the board to bring water into dry areas of the township, they are now under fire from Thompson, Brown Co. realtors and land developers.

On Dec. 14, 1954 the board agreed to become a continuing authority for a water and sewer system and Thompson-Brown then proposed Kendallwood subdivision upon its completion. The systems are now complete and at a special board meeting on Oct. 28 the board agreed to accept the system and act as a continuing authority but only on temporary basis according to the FHA. Thompson-Brown Co. was to continue to pay all costs while the board made a study of operational costs and profits.

At the meeting Tuesday night Charles Brown, president of the developers, again presented a resolution requesting the board to accept the system on a permanent basis. He stated that unless the board would fulfill its previous commitments to act as a continuing authority, the FHA will not release mortgages on homes already sold in Kendallwood. He said that unless immediate action is taken, his firm faces court action from Kendallwood builders and home buyers.

The Board agreed after Ross Campbell, vice president and attorney for Thompson-Brown, threatened to sue collectively and individually to rescind the resolution adopted on Oct. 28 and to become a permanent continuing authority as of this date for the operation of the water and sewer system in Kendallwood. Campbell and A. G. Leonard, township attorney, will draw up a suitable contract.

Judge Arthur E. Moore, member of the Township Special Water Study Committee, had submitted a letter requesting that the township authorize the printing of a petition questionnaire and letters to send property owners as a means of assisting members of the Water Development Committee in circulating petitions for a water system in the dry areas.

He also requested that the board require Dr. Joseph J. Gadbow, township health officer, to call upon the county and state health departments to test water from all wells in the area. The letter was accepted as read and unanimously approved.

Farm and Garden Assn. Slate Rummage Sale

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP—To finance their high school scholarship, members of the Waterford Branch of the National Farm and Garden Assn. will hold a rummage sale this Friday and Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., in the former Waterford Post Office. The building is located on the Dixie, next to the Cascade Motel and across from the Old Mill.

The organization will present its first annual scholarship to a Waterford Township High School graduate next June. The amount is, $250.

AUBURN HEIGHTS — Hill Gazette Post No. 143 American Legion Auxiliary sent four representatives to the fall conference in Saginaw. They are Kenneth Collins, second vice commander; Ralph Perkins, financial secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Collins, auxiliary president and Norma Palmer, chaplain.

Church Group Plans Meeting in Waterford

WATERFORD — There will be a meeting of Christ Couriers of Waterford Community Church at 7:30 p. m., Saturday.

The meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mehlberg of 5938 Andersonville Rd.

By WILMA GREENWAY

An imposing number of gold cups, medals, pins certificates and special awards — 132 in all — were presented to 4-H club leaders and members last night at the annual 4-H Leaders Dinner held in the community room of the new Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan building on West Huron Street.

Guest speaker at the affair, which attracted more than 200 4-H leaders and members from Pontiac and Oakland County area clubs, was A. G. Kettunen, state 4-H Club leader and assistant director of extension at Michigan State University.

Kettunen complimented the club leaders on their "fine leadership."

"I salute you as part of a group of 9,000 in Michigan whose work in 4-H is shaping better young men and women of tomorrow," he said. Pointing out that 4-H work is centered in the home, he praised the parents of 4-H members for their cooperation and understanding.

"Moreover," said Kettunen, "through its international farm youth exchange program, 4-H is making one of the finest contributions to world understanding."

Other speakers were Lyle Abel, Oakland County agricultural agent who gave the talk of welcome, Carlos Long who delivered the invocation; James L. Reid, the chairman; toastmaster Kenneth Brown, deputy superintendent of Oakland County schools; and Jack Worthington, county 4-H Club agent. Entertainment was by 4-H state "share the fun" winner Penny Christopher, who did two dance numbers.

PINS PRESENTED

Two leaders, Mrs. Martha Dudley of Bloomfield Hills, and James Marble of White Lake Township received the National Alumni Awards of framed certificates in recognition of outstanding service over a period of time, and particularly the work done at 4-H fairs.

Pins were presented to 33 junior leaders, to 29 one-to-five-year adult leaders, and six senior leaders. The six were: 5-10 year leaders Bert Wormuth of Holly, Mrs. Ben Walton of Clarkston, Mrs. James Wimmer of Novi, Mrs. Milton Miller of Seymour Lake; gold clover award for 10 years' service to Mrs. D. S. Wiggins of Rochester; and pearl clover award for 15 years' service to Mrs. Helen Johnson of Holly.

Avondale 4-H Horse Club took the Rural Arts and Recreation award, and the Novi Country Slicks 4-H Club received the Safety award. Several families who had sponsored international farm youth exchange members were cited, as well as firms sponsoring 4-H awards.

Named honorary members were John Kendall of Clyde, Jean Hardy of Birmingham, Albert Kessler of New Hudson and Mrs. Stanley Kipp of Pontiac. Soil Conservation award went to Keith Middleton of Lake Orion.

Among the outstanding 4-H club members were Marilyn Sharpe and Donna Frisbie, both of Novi.

Marilyn won the state award, which includes a trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago as one of Michigan's 26 delegates, in recognition of her work on the home improvement program. She also copied two gold cups for outstanding achievements in the home economics field and as a 1955 4-H dress revue winner. In addition, she took the Girls' Record award and the Leadership award.

As the 1955 4-H queen, Donna Frisbie automatically received the big gold cup to hold for a year until another queen is picked and a small gold cup to keep for herself. She also received a third cup as 4-H dress review winner, as well as other awards for clothing and general achievement.

CHICAGO TRIPS

Coveted trips to Chicago went to three girls and three boys; Judy Vanderhoof of Milford, Delores Markie of Milford, Donna Scramlin of Holly, Robert Middleton of Lake Orion, Stuart Hutchins of Rochester and Donald Bowers of New Hudson.

Michigan Farmer Awards of engraved desk sets went to Judy Vanderhoof and to Phil Elkow of South Lyon.

Other medals and certificates were: health, John Scheller of Rochester; home improvement, Judy Martin and Delores Markie, both of Milford; leadership, Phil Elkow; meat animal breeding, Howard Storm of Lake Orion and Fritz Lutz of Rochester; poultry, William Middleton of Lake Orion; recreation and rural arts, Penny Christopher; dairy, Edward Braid of Lake Orion and Stuart Hutchins of Rochester.

Awards in electrical achievement went to Frank Lessiter of Lake Orion and Glenn Marble of Milford; entomology, Sue Tobin of Farmington; field crops, Calvin Voorheis of Davisburg and Richard Scramlin of Holly; food preparation, Judy Vanderhoof, Aletha Boomus of South Lyon and Donna Scramlin; frozen foods, Janet Long of Milford; garden, Donald Brendel of Davisburg, Vern Geck of Pontiac, Mike Trocke and Carol Skarritt, both of Milford.

Achievement awards were presented to Phil Elkow and Stuart Hutchins; boys' agricultural to James Atchison of South Lyon and Ronald Randall of Walled Lake; soil and water conservation to Roger Kriebel of Milford, William Middleton and Edward Braid, both of Lake Orion; and tractor to James Thompson of Milford.

Following the four-and-a-half hour session of dinner and award presentations, 4-H agent Jack Worthington explained the new enrollment cards available for leaders. In closing he gave a long look at the boys and girls who had just received awards from his hand, then remarked:

"If these boys and girls are any example of the younger generation that's going to the dogs — I'd say 'Let 'em go!'"

Group Honors Former Official

Critic Lauds Avon Group

By HAL HIGGINS

ROCHESTER—Play-goers in the Pontiac area who have presumed the only "live" theater is to be found in Detroit and Bloomfield Hills may begin to look in a new direction. There is an organization in Rochester, called the Avon Players, whose members are not only alive, but talented and ambitious.

This reviewer took "one on the stage" in Rochester high school auditorium last Saturday night for the performance of "The Heiress," by authors Ruth and Augustus Goetz. Despite a dangerously tedious script, the Avon Players rewarded a patient and appreciative audience with several excellent characterizations. Director Louise Akers, assisted by Alice Spiller, inspired a well-knit and smooth-flowing production, though we felt it was slow-paced, even for the staid parlor-life of the 1850's. Costuming was excellent.

By way of post-analysis, here are a few notes, sweet and sour, from the opinionated pipe of one who was a stranger to cast and play alike. We enjoyed the performance as much, probably, as the players permitted themselves to enjoy it. Actors who "let go" and have fun are invariably a pleasure to watch, whether skilled or not.

After the performance, we scored three stars on our program before the role of "Lavinia Penniman," played by Betty Shaffner. But for her near-faultless performance of that "supporting" role, the play might have been a dreary procedure. Time and again, it was her alertness and spirited expressiveness that rescued the scene from boredom. Watching her as the nosy, mischievous, well-meaning "Aunt Lavinia," we could forgive it was a play. She was every-body's Aunt Meddlesome.

We were genuinely impressed at the same time with Lynette Brown's handling of the title role. We gave her "Catherine" two stars for effectiveness this side of the footlights, and a deal of admiration for her very great talent and earnest effort. We commend the remaining members of the cast for adequate if not outstanding performances.

The real heroes of Little Theater, the technical and promotional workers, remain unsung. They are not applauded, appreciated or remembered—until the next assignment is ready. Little Theater is more than an activity for fun and entertainment; it is an expression of talents, a coalition of numerous abilities in artistic creation. Rochester is a live city, because live people make it so. There's a growing star on the cultural map of Michigan.
