Abandoned Baby's Parents Show Up at Police Station

The parents of an abandoned 2-month-old baby walked into the Pontiac police station yesterday afternoon, minutes before authorities were to leave the station on a tip the father was employed at GMC Truck and Coach Division.

The two were identified as James Pusey, 19, and his wife, Susan, 18.

Their infant daughter, Dawn Marie, was found Monday afternoon in the chapel at Pontiac General Hospital.

Policewoman Mrs. George Caronis said she received two calls on the abandoned child, one from an Army recruiting officer who connected the father with a story and picture in yesterday's Press.

Sgt. Harold Munroe was telling of Pusey's attempt to enlist in the Army when the couple appeared at the station, according to Mrs. Caronis.

PUSEY REJECTED
Sgt. Munroe said Pusey was rejected for enlistment because of his dependents.

The other tip came from the Catholic Welfare Agency, which identified Pusey as the "man from Indiana" who attempted to place his infant daughter with the agency. The couple is originally from Fort Wayne, Ind.

"They've been living out of a car since they came here," said Mrs. Caronis.

"The father was given a job three days ago at General Motors Truck & Coach Division but only went to work one of the days."

INTENDED TO QUIT
Pusey intended to quit the job because he "didn't like the work," according to the policewoman. The couple was described by Mrs. Caronis as "heavily in debt."

A petition of neglect was to be filed on behalf of the child in the juvenile division of Probate Court this morning prior to a preliminary hearing.

A final hearing before Probate Judge Norman R. Barnard would determine what provision would be made for the infant's care.

Mrs. Caronis said the child would be taken from Pontiac General this morning and placed at the Oakland County Children's Center.

She indicated it was doubtful that charges of contributing to the neglect of an infant would be filed against either parent.

Sign Welfare Merger Bill

A mandatory welfare merger bill which shifts $6.1 million in relief costs next year from county governments to the State Department of Social Welfare was signed into law today.

Lt. Gov. William Milliken, acting for Gov. Romney who is touring Asia, signed the measure.

The bill excludes only Oakland and Wayne counties from merger of county and state-operated welfare agencies.

The door was left open, however, for the two counties with over 600,000 population to enter the merger by a Dec. 31 deadline.

George H. Williams, director of the Oakland County Department of Social Welfare, predicted last week that his department would merge with the state welfare agency, in Oakland County.

Oakland County would receive an estimated additional $439,000 in state funds next year if it merges.

If it remains independent, it will still receive an added $230,000.

Oakland County officials had opposed substitute Senate Bill 216 mainly because of the loss of control over welfare matters by the county.

GM Sets Records for a Manufacturer

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. reported the highest sales and profits in manufacturing history yesterday for both the third quarter and the year's first nine months.

The giant auto maker said its profits for the first nine months totaled $1,539,000,000, or $5.36 per share, up 13 per cent from $1,360,000,000, or $4.75 per share, in the same period last year, the previous record.

Sales in the nine-month period totaled $14,539,000,000, up 14 per cent from the year-ago level of $13,159,000,000, also a previous record.

No manufacturer has ever piled up so much in dollar sales or profits.

The same was true for the third quarter when GM made $264 million, or 91 cents per share on sales of $3,743,000,000, up from 1964 third quarter earnings of $222 million, or 77 cents a share, on sales of $3,291,000,000.

ROSY REPORT
GM's rosy report followed by 24 hours a record-breaking performance by Ford Motor Co., second largest auto maker, which also set all-time company marks in sales and profits for the quarter and the nine months.

All auto makers have reported brisk sales of 1966 models which were introduced last month.

THIRD QUARTER
In the third quarter, GM said it manufactured 1,245,898 cars and trucks in the United States, Canada and overseas, up from 1,194,173 last year.

The U. S., the firm said it made 949,296 cars and trucks in the period, which reflects the start of 1966 models, compared with 813,472 a year ago.

Chrysler Corp., third of the "big three" is expected to announce its results tomorrow.

American Motors Corp., which ranks fourth in the industry, has not yet announced its results.

Mrs. Caronis said the child would be taken from Pontiac General this morning and placed at the Oakland County Children's Center.

She indicated it was doubtful that charges of contributing to the neglect of an infant would be filed against either parent.

Missile Plant Blast Fatal to 2, Injures 3
BRIGHAM CITY, Utah (AP) — Rocket propellant at a Minuteman missile manufacturing plant in northern Utah blew up this morning, killing two workers and critically burning three others.

Thiokol, which operates the Air Force Plant 78 to make the first stage of the Minuteman missile, said the fire partially demolished part of the propellant preparation building where a mixing operation was in process.

DOs Confirm Merger Stand

Again Reject Plan for Joining With MDs

Responding to recent merger proposals, Michigan osteopaths have reaffirmed their stand against amalgamation with the "MD" profession.

Proposals for a merger of the DO and MD professions arose during recent legislation hearings on a bid by osteopaths for state operating funds for the projected Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine.

The projected osteopathic school is to be located on a site at Eastland and Ojibwe in the city.

The legislature declined to act at the full session on the request for state funds, but promised early consideration during the winter term.

Meantime, an interim legislative study has been ordered of the amalgamation proposal made by the Michigan State Medical Society.

Osteopaths, however, have issued a unanimous "no" on the question.

REAFFIRM RESOLUTION
This week the House of Delegates of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons voted 116-0 to reaffirm the group's 1959 "Michigan Resolution."

This resolution called for a separate and distinct school of medicine in Michigan.

The resolution stated that schools of osteopathic medicine are complete and are major schools of medicine "which have served the public for more than 60 years."

Further, "the public is best served by the free choice of physicians without interference from professional organizations," said the resolution.

In addition, the osteopathic medical school "shall maintain its status as a separate and complete school of medicine, cooperating with all agencies and groups that sincerely promote the same objective when that cooperation is on an equal basis, granting full recognition to the autonomy and contribution of the osteopathic school of medicine."

Cong Raid 2 U.S. Bases

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (UPI) — Viet Cong guerrillas launched simultaneous attacks against two U.S. Marine bases at midnight and left one littered with burning helicopters.

Official spokesmen said the attacks were launched precisely at midnight against the Marine air installations at Da Nang and at Chu Lai.

Da Nang is the biggest American military complex in South Viet Nam. Chu Lai is 60 miles to the south and like Da Nang is also on the South China Sea coast.

Marine officers said there were about 50 helicopters based at the nearby Da Nang, East-Marble Mountain air complex, across the river from this city, where a white glare gave evidence of burning aircraft metal.

The spokesman said a "number" of helicopters were destroyed but gave no immediate figure.

TRACER BULLETS
Explosions and tracer bullets were visible from downtown Da Nang and military officials said an attack had been made on the Da Nang east air complex, just east of the city about 370 miles north of Saigon.

Almost 200 miles to the south, "Flying Horsemen" of the 1st U.S. Cavalry division were sweeping the jungles for Communist troops who tried to overrun the Plei Me outpost for eight days.

The cavalrymen were dropped by helicopter into the U.S. special forces camp in the central highlands yesterday.

Ex-Press Newsboy No Newsboy at All

Sometimes a newsboy isn't a boy at all.

In fact, one of the finest Pontiac Press carriers in recent years was a woman—a mother of four.

Her name is Mrs. Earl Long and her purpose in delivering papers was to help finance the last phase of her college education to become a teacher.

She completed her degree work last August at Wayne State University and now is an ex-newsboy teaching third graders in Waterford Township's Donelson School.

Why would a woman of 23 with four youngsters and three years of college accreditation invade the male realm of newspaper distribution?

Mrs. Long explained her 1960 decision quite simply.

Three of her youngsters were then in school. She wanted a job that would both enable her to get out of the house and take a two-year-old son with her to avoid baby sitters fees.

ACCEPTS ROUTE
She accepted the challenge to deliver a route in the Bloomfield Township area by car and continued the assignment five years until last August.

"I enjoyed the work immensely," Mrs. Long said yesterday as she sat in her classroom at Donelson, reminiscing about her newspaper career.

"I made a lot of friends too," Mrs. Long not only derived self-satisfaction from her ten-

British Plane Unable to Land in Shifting Fog

Airliner Explodes in Flames; All Aboard Said to Be English

LONDON (AP) — A British domestic airliner exploded in flames on its third attempt to land in shifting fog at London Airport early today, killing all 36 persons aboard.

"We could see a sheet of flame which seemed to stretch the length of the runway," said one airport employee. "We could see people among the flames but they were obviously dead."

The plane, a four-engine Vanguard turboprop designed to carry 139 passengers, was landing at 1:23 a.m. after a flight from Edinburgh, Scotland.

Operated by British European Airways, it carried 30 passengers, one a child, and a crew of 6.

The airline said it was believed all aboard were British. Four hours after the crash all the bodies had been recovered.

WORKHORSE
It was the first fatal crash for a passenger-carrying Vanguard, which since 1961 has been BEA's workhorse on domestic routes. The deaths also were London Airport's first passenger fatalities in almost 15 years. A BEA twin-engine Viking from Paris crashed and killed 28 persons Oct. 31, 1950. That crash also occurred in fog.

Airport officials said visibility on the runway at the time of the crash today was 500 yards.

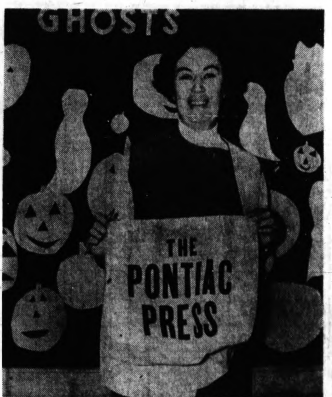

The airline said the pilot had made two previous attempts to land, and just before the crash was heard to turn on full power, apparently trying to get airborne again.

Clear Electric Firm in Iron Lung Death

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A metropolitan medical examiner ruled yesterday that an 11-year-old polio victim died of double pneumonia and not because electricity had been shut off to his iron lung.

Dr. W. J. Core said Francis Audie Barrett had a "well-established" case of pneumonia in his right lung and a lesser case in his left.

Core said the iron lung which the child's mother pumped by hand was of "no value" in her futile attempts to keep the boy alive.

NATIONAL WEATHER—Fair weather is expected to continue over the entire nation tonight except in the Pacific Northwest where intermittent light rain and showers are expected. Temperatures below seasonal averages will continue over most of the eastern half of the nation while above-average temperatures will prevail in southern California and Nevada.

Halloween Celebrations Slated

Costumes on parade, masquerade record hops and a gaggle of prizes in the Mystery Treat contest are part of the Halloween celebration scheduled for Pontiac and Waterford Township Friday and Saturday.

Students at Kennedy and Washington junior high schools are holding record hops Friday night, with prizes being awarded for the best costumes at the Washington party.

Most elementary schools are planning room parties for late afternoon Friday. Community groups have organized three parties at Pontiac schools Friday night.

The Herrington Hills Homeowners Association is sponsoring early evening cartoons and a costume parade for elementary students at Herrington School from 6 to 8:30 and a record hop from 8:45 to 10:30 for junior high and high school age students.

COSTUME PARADE

Weaver Elementary School will be the site for a costume parade and contest sponsored by the Wever-Owen-Alcott Hawthorne Community Club, with prizes donated by the Parent Teacher Associations from the four schools.

The Mystery Treat contest—sponsored by the Pontiac Parks & Recreation Department, the Pontiac Board of Education and the Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce—will be held Saturday night.

2 Men Rob Credit Office

Two men wearing masks over the lower part of their faces robbed a Waterford Township loan office of $1,400 at gunpoint yesterday.

The robbery at Pioneer Credit Co., 3513 Elizabeth Lake, occurred at 12:15 p.m. when the only persons in the building were cashier Mrs. Gerald Smith and a woman customer.

Mrs. Smith told police that the men entered the building simultaneously from different doors and then donned masks.

One of them rushed to the counter and ordered her to hang up the telephone she was using. Mrs. Smith said, and the other man stood in the doorway.

The man at the counter, who displayed a blue steel revolver, demanded the cash box, according to the cashier.

PUT ON GLOVE — She said he put on a rubber glove and sorted cash from checks, discarding the checks on the counter.

The bandits then ordered the two women to the rear of the building, bound their hands with tape and told them to stay there. A customer, who came in after the bandits fled, removed the tape from the two women.

Modified Space Rendezvous Try Set for Gemini 7

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — The next U.S. manned Gemini flight will include a modified space rendezvous, called station keeping, it was learned today.

Station keeping is similar to airplanes flying in formation. Air Force Lt. Col. Frank Borman and Navy Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr., the Gemini 7 astronauts, will try to keep within 10 to 300 feet of their Titan 2 second-stage booster for two and one-half orbits.

The United States attempted rendezvous exercises or the last three Gemini missions. All failed.

2 Brothers Reunited After 23 Years

By L. GARY THORNE — On a Pontiac street corner, two men are working. One turns to his companion and says, "I'm your brother!"

"But, I don't have a brother." "Oh yes you do..."

This near-comic conversation almost occurred recently at Williams and Pike between two city employees, George H. McClellan and James L. R. Prosser.

McClellan, 38, a city water department employee, and Prosser, 25, employed by the Department of Public Works, worked on opposite sides of the street recently on a city project.

Dominican Showdown Looms on Firing Top Military Leaders

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Members of the Dominican Republic's shaky provisional government appeared today to be nearing a showdown over whether to fire the top leaders of the armed forces.

The danger of more large-scale violence was believed ruled out by the presence of the 10,000-man American Peace Force patrolling the capital.

But there was a possibility that the long and costly rehabilitation program for the country might be dealt a serious setback if President Hector Garcia-Godoy was forced out by the crisis.

Then the Organization of American States would be faced with the task of creating a new provisional regime.

The prevailing view in influential circles was that the major portion of Garcia-Godoy's Cabinet, sympathetic to the rebel cause, would resign if the president did not immediately fire the armed forces secretary, Commodore Francisco J. Rivera Camero, and the chiefs of staff of the army, navy and air force.

The president was reported unwilling to take this decisive step because the U.S. government and the OAS had made clear that they considered such action undesirable at this time.

Garcia-Godoy reportedly does not wish to alienate the only source of badly needed economic support for the country, which is on the brink of bankruptcy.

Rebel sympathizers charge that the military chiefs ordered indiscriminate bombing of Santo Domingo's civilian population in the early days of the April revolt.

The military leaders deny this and fear their ouster would pave the way for extreme leftists to take over the armed forces.

This fear has chilled relations between the president and the military, which considers that Garcia-Godoy picked a Cabinet that is oriented too much toward the rebels.

The crisis brought the three-man OAS committee back to Santo Domingo late last week.

The three members — Ambassadors Ellsworth Bunker of the United States, Ilmar Penha Marinho of Brazil, and Ramon de Clairmont Duenas of El Salvador — have met repeatedly with the president and his Cabinet in an attempt to work out a solution.

It is known that the OAS committee, which forged the peace-making formula between the rebels and the military, is not happy with Garcia-Godoy's failure to carry out critical features of the formula, particularly the disarming of civilians.

Critics of the president say he relied too much on the word of rebel leaders that their sector of Santo Domingo had been disarmed. The outbreak of violence in the past 12 days proved that a substantial number of weapons remain in the hands of civilian sympathizers of the rebel movement.

License Plates to Have Unique Color Scheme

LANSING (UPI) — The 1966 Michigan license plates will have dark blue letters on a beige background, a color scheme designed to make them unique among states.

Secretary of State James Hare said the new colors have no special significance.

"They just mean we're not competitive with any other state," Hare said.

The 1966 plates will also not require tabs after one year's use.

The state abandoned the use of tabs on license plates following several years of protests from motorists who complained the plates rusted and presented a bad image to the major auto producing state.

Tab was used on license plates every third year starting in 1959.

Milliken, Subbing for Romney, Signs Four Measures Into Law

LANSING (AP)—Acting Gov. William Milliken Tuesday signed four bills into law, including two clarifying amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act.

The new law, effective immediately, provides that part-time domestic servants are excluded from the compensation program if employed by a private employer less than 35 hours a week for 13 of the preceding 52 weeks. Agricultural workers similarly are excluded on the same basis.

Another measure signed provides that death benefits paid under the Workmen's Compensation Act shall be no less than specified minimum weekly amounts which rise gradually by 1967 to two-thirds of average weekly wages for a period of 500 weeks.

Also signed was a measure permitting the State Employment Security Commission to disclose otherwise confidential information to the Treasury Department for escrow purposes and to colleges and universities for research purposes of a public service nature.

A researcher disclosing the identity of any person involved could be found guilty of a misdemeanor.

Another bill signed makes technical corrections to the so-called Hutchinson Act, revised in the regular legislative session to permit public employees to join labor unions and bargain collectively with their employers.

Ultimatum to Rhodesia Not Necessary

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty
WASHINGTON — The new dispatches coming out of Rhodesia predicting that Prime Minister Ian Smith will declare independence unilaterally unless Great Britain grants independence to the white-ruled African colony may be an accurate forecast, but such ultimatum need not have been reached.

Only a few weeks ago, I was in Rhodesia and had a long interview with Prime Minister Smith, and I know his desire for independence is equated with his desire for Rhodesia to remain in the British Commonwealth. Sentiment and economic advantages make a break with London undesirable.

Yet he's quite conscious of that almost unanimous vote of the United Nations (107 to 2) condemning Rhodesia for refusing to modify its constitution to provide equal representation for the four million nonwhites in the nation.

The turn of events in that African country, where the blacks outnumber the whites 16 to 1, has made me find deeper and new significance in what was said in my interview with the prime minister.

He is a strong man who speaks in a soft voice. A famous RAF pilot in World War II, he has a remade face to show for his heroism, and several of his wartime buddies are in his cabinet. They are still fighters.

SOME REMARKS

"We have set a precedent . . . a showcase . . . of peaceful cooperation of the black man and the white man under our constitution," the prime minister told me.

(Unlike South Africa with its apartheid policy of no black representation, 14 blacks are seated in the 65-member Rhodesia Parliament representing the boroughs where they live, and there is qualified voting based on property, income and education.)

"Conceivably and eventually the black could gain control under the present constitution."

IT'S EASY

(This is misleading because there is a clause providing for change by a two-thirds vote that's easy for the prime minister's Rhodesian Front party which at present has a 9-vote margin in the Parliament . . . and that's why the British want the constitution to be revised before granting independence.)

Maybe the current "breathing spell" will result in a solution for both independence and continued inclusion in the British Commonwealth.

"Timing" is so important . . . and apparently the only hope of a good settlement.

Voters Wrong on Barry---Ike

'Mistakenly Believed He Stood for War'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower believes the American public overwhelmingly defeated Barry M. Goldwater's bid for the presidency last year in the mistaken belief that he stood for war.

"I think he was far from being as bellicose as he was advertised in this country," Eisenhower said in a television interview last night.

But, he added, "the people of the United States did believe that this man was talking in too bellicose a manner. Therefore, they were showing their resolution for peace, their devotion to peace in the overwhelming vote by which they defeated the Republican party."

"Now, I think they were somewhat mistaken because I don't think the Republican party ever stood, like any other country, for war," he said.

Eisenhower, U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall appeared on an hour-long television program answering questions by students in London, Paris, Belgrade and Mexico City via the Early Bird communications satellite.

MEXICAN STUDENT

Eisenhower was replying to a Mexican student who had asked why the Johnson administration was "putting into effect the very same platform that the people of the United States repudiated."

The three U.S. officials occasionally got into heated exchanges with the students, particularly over U.S. policy in Viet Nam and American intervention in the Dominican Republic.

Eisenhower said student demonstration against U.S. involvement was the work of "a few rabble-rousers trying to get publicity and trying to get their faces on the television screen."

Goldberg and Marshall emphatically denied another Mexican student's assertion that U.S. prosperity depended on waging war in Viet Nam and elsewhere.

Meet Familiar Characters

Closing Time Is Office Ritual

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Quitting time is as much a daily ritual in the American business office as coming to work in the morning.

The way an employe departs shows his nature just as clearly as does the manner in which he arrives.

If you check the lowing herd in your own white collar zoo, you might note the following familiar characters at the hour of closing:

Methodical Milton — Somebody stole a paper clip over before dusk. In winter he starts fled. Atheist Freed by Court

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Madalyn Murray O'Hair, the atheist whose suit led to the Supreme Court's historic school prayer decision, was a free woman today because a Baltimore grand jury that had indicted her professed a belief in God.

Criminal Court Judge Shirley Jones dismissed a nine-court indictment against Mrs. O'Hair yesterday. The judge's dismissal was based on the ruling of another court which held that Maryland's law requiring jurors to affirm a belief in God was unconstitutional.

Mrs. O'Hair, married to expatriate Richard O'Hair Oct. 18, has been fighting extradition from Texas. Her attorney said the ruling makes her "a free woman."

She was charged with assaulting Police Sgt. Charles Kelley, disorderly conduct and obstructing justice.

In Austin, Tex., her lawyer, Bill Mitchell said he has no plans for the present, "but will wait and see if the state of Maryland will not drop its extradition request."

PRAYERS BANNED

Mrs. O'Hair was the plaintiff in a 1963 suit which resulted in a Supreme Court ruling banning compulsory prayers in public schools. Since winning that case, she claims she has been abused by private citizens and police.

The assault charge resulted from an altercation she had with Kelley and other policemen sent to arrest her daughter-in-law, Susan Abramovitz, for violation of a court order.

Mrs. Abramovitz, a minor, had been forbidden to see the Murrays, who were professed atheists.

A scuffle followed, and Mrs.

Murray, her son, William; and her mother were ordered to court to answer the charges. Instead the family left for Hawaii.

The woman then went to Valle de Bravo, Mexico, where she met O'Hair, part-time rancher and artist.

Mexican authorities later deported her because of discrepancies in her tourist papers. She went to San Antonio, Tex., where she was arrested and ordered extradited to Maryland to face the assault charges.

Mrs. O'Hair won her first battle in the case when District Court Judge Tom Reavley ordered the state of Texas to explain why it held her for extradition. She contended it was an act of religious persecution.

Yesterday's petition was filed through American Civil Liberties Union. Mitchell said the move was based on an Oct. 12 ruling by the appellate court in a murder case involving a Buddhist convicted of shooting his wife.

The conviction was thrown out because the defendant was denied equal protection under the law because Maryland required jurors to affirm belief in God.

Mitchell said Mrs. O'Hair, an avowed atheist, was denied her right to be tried by persons of her same views.

Dallas-to-Sea Canal Doesn't Hold Water

One of the less publicized enactments of the Congressional session recently adjourned is a bill to make Dallas a seaport. Dallas happens to be in Texas, which in turn happens to be the home state of President LYNDON B. JOHNSON.

Since the city is 370 more or less desolate miles from the nearest sea, one might wonder just how the design is to be accomplished.

Moving Dallas to the sea is a little too far out even for the Great Society. But moving the sea to Dallas presents no problems at all for the architects of the better life.

A canal would be dug from the Gulf of Mexico — at an initial cost of $911 million, with the eventual outlay envisioned to run up in the billions.

But we suggest that if the Administration wants to go canal-digging, it at least center on a water link about which there is an element of sanity.

Such a one is a cut from the Mississippi River to Lake Michigan — a distance of but 150 to 170 miles. The estimated cost is $500 million. Benefits therefrom would be:

- Elimination of floods in the upper Mississippi like the one which caused a billion dollars' worth of damage last spring.
- Conservation of an enormous amount of water now wasted in Mississippi floods and creation of a kind of water-saving bank which could be drawn upon to maintain a steady flow during dry periods in the existing Illinois-Mississippi waterway, one of the most useful traffic arteries in the world.
- Easing of the long-standing bone of contention with Chicago over the city's 1,500-cubic-foot-a-second diversion of water from Lake Michigan into the Chicago sanitary and ship canal.

With the control and conservation of the Nation's water resources a problem daily becoming more acute, let's let Dallas forego its salt water aspirations in the interest of a development that holds immeasurable advantages for one of the most thickly-populated and highly-industrialized regions in the United States.

Communism Has Dose of Its Own Medicine

It is refreshing to read about somebody wrecking a Communist building in Indonesia for a change.

A screaming mob, angry over the recent Communist attempt to overthrow the government, sacked the headquarters of the leftist Indonesian Youth Front in Jakarta. It was from here that most anti-American demonstrations have been engineered in the past.

While riots are a poor substitute for good citizenship, it is to be hoped that this one signals a genuine and lasting disillusionment with the Communists on the part of the Indonesian people — not just that the rabble have run out of American libraries and property to destroy.

A Scholar Capsules Our Social Climate

An astute observer of the American scene, RAYMOND MOLEY, recently voiced some significant and timely philosophy.

Pointing out that "the house of law is the dominating structure in the institutional settlement that we call our civilization," he declared that it stands guard over the many other structures created out of the jungle once inhabited by men who lived in primitive anarchy.

Among those subsidiary structures slowly put together, said he, there are provisions for individual welfare, health, comfort, education, mutual aid and the enjoyment of a short life here on earth. There is also, he added, the protection of individual liberty, closely integrated with the house of law.

"But as history has shown," MOLEY warned, "the protection of individual liberty is a very fragile thing. Time after time over the centuries, the fullness of a free life has been enjoyed, but after a few short years it has vanished.

"Its enemies have been the many vices and weaknesses of those who have enjoyed it."

How many of us are there to whom this preachment is not applicable?

If a sunny disposition is conducive to good health and longevity, as nearly everybody believes, why is it that grouches outlive almost everybody?

Transportation Age-Old Problem

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President Johnson says he'll try to solve a problem that baffled ancient Rome and frequently ties America in knots.

The problem is transportation. Roman engineers built practically indestructible roads winding over hill and dale through much of the known world. But transport of goods on them was frightfully uneconomic, for a strange reason. The Romans never learned to harness a horse properly.

They used an adaptation of the ox harness, and if a horse pulled hard he tended to choke himself. It was not until the barbarians from the steppes introduced a proper harness that costs of transport fell.

Like a Roman horse, traffic in developed modern countries tends to choke itself, despite or perhaps because of ingenious applications of the internal combustion engine.

The United States has enough private passenger automobiles to move all of its people simultaneously — all riding in the front seat. But what a traffic jam that would be!

EQUAL SPEED

Even with only part of the population out motoring, highway automobiles frequently make no better speed through congested areas than did horse-drawn omnibuses in the 19th century.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., who has given much thought to passenger transportation in such heavily populated areas as the Washington-Boston corridor, lays emphasis on rails. He says one railroad track can handle as many people as 18 lanes of superhighway.

So the recently adjourned congressional session voted $90 million for research and demonstrations. One aim is to hurtle trains between the two Eastern cities at 150 miles an hour, perhaps eventually much faster.

The word from Texas is that the President will look for other metropolitan complexes where similar ideas might be tried out.

MORE MEASURES

Moreover, the President is reported to feel that transportation policy generally is in a tangle. He is expected to propose to the next session of Congress measures for a more national, uniform treatment of railroads, trucks, buses and ships.

If he does, the 1966 session will see some hard, protracted fighting. The railroads and truckers, for example, can be expected to deploy their lobbyists in force.

In essence the question is the same that the Romans suffered: How can a nation best harness its horsepower?

89th a 'Do-Nothing' Congress

WASHINGTON — The 89th Congress may go down in history as the most glaring example of a "do-nothing" Congress. It can point, of course, to many pieces of legislation of a "do-something" variety in the field of human welfare. But even these laws, it is conceded by some of the LAWRENCE leaders, will have to undergo substantial changes and amendments at the next session in order to make them feasible or workable.

The "do-nothing" record can be summed up as follows:

- Congress did nothing to stop the irresponsible spending of billions of dollars of taxpayers' money each year, as the purchasing power of the dollar is steadily weakening.
- Congress did nothing to halt the reckless misuse of power in the industrial field, as nationally organized labor unions annually inflict heavy losses on the country.
- Congress failed to stop the use of the strike weapon as a means of demoralizing an industry, forcing higher prices and causing the shutdown of factories and plants because of artificially imposed costs by labor organizations.
- Congress did nothing to protect the rights of companies in the free-enterprise system to carry out management functions.

It permitted instead the use of boycotts and picket lines to paralyze many a business which did not conform to union demands, even though these were not directly related to wages or employee benefits, but were concerned primarily with the way a company should be permitted to use machinery.

● Congress did nothing to curtail the abuses that are going on abroad in the foreign-aid program at U.S. expense.

● Congress did nothing about "trading with the enemy." Although Congress has the power to make war in Viet Nam, it did not insist that all countries aiding the Communists in Southeast Asia should not be given the benefits of world trade.

● Congress did nothing to prevent injustices against public-school systems which are punished because they do not obey arbitrarily phrased edicts of the federal government. Indeed, Congress failed to supply the legislative standards to justify the penalties now being imposed.

● Congress did nothing to help the states to meet some of their rising problems by giving them refunds of their own taxes. These funds could better be spent by the states whose inhabitants are furnishing the money out of their incomes.

● Congress did nothing to help the states to meet some of their rising problems by giving them refunds of their own taxes. These funds could better be spent by the states whose inhabitants are furnishing the money out of their incomes.

● Congress did nothing to straighten out the overlapping in tax systems between the federal and local governments. Action has long been overdue.

govern all federal agencies. While the Bobby Baker case was widely publicized, the lessons that were learned from it were neglected.

Committees to develop codes of ethics are helpful, but Congress was confronted by a concrete example of misfeasance and failed to enact remedial legislation.

Bob Considine Says:

Aerospace Achievements Are Modern Phenomenon

LOS ANGELES — This is the "Detroit" of the aerospace industry.

Billions of dollars have funneled into it, and the general area has produced aircraft that blanket the airspace of the world, missiles that keep the peace, satellites that find startling answers to planetary and solar questions that baffled man since his creation.

And all of this has come to pass in the memory of millions still alive and kicking.

James A. Farley touched on that particular phenomenon in a speech this year before the International Benjamin Franklin Society in New York. Big Jim said:

"No man in Benjamin Franklin's time — and no man now — can foresee the vast new sources of energy and insights which will come to us. Some times, it is closer than we think. 'At a state celebration a few years ago, the oldest person present, a lady nearing 100 years of age, was brought to the microphone to speak of her early days.

SCIENCE INSTRUCTOR
"She said that she and her husband had taught in a log cabin school, built by a religious order. Her husband was an instructor in science.

"Every three years the bishop inspected the school, she related, and on their first encounter with him he asked the young husband what he thought about the subject he was attempting to teach.

"The husband said science was the greatest tool ever given to man by God and that through it man would build a wonderful new society.

"The bishop cautioned the young teacher. He said that man already had the steam engine and the telegraph and, indeed, there were even a few telephones.

"The bishop suggested that God had given enough, perhaps as much as was in store for man, and it behooved the young scientist to teach gratitude for gifts already received.

merely a prelude to great new inventions that lay beyond. In fact, he said to the bishop, he foresaw the day when man would fly.

"The bishop sternly warned him that if he continued in this view the mission church might have to reexamine his teacher's contract.

"You are approaching blasphemy," the old lady remembered the bishop saying. "Then she added, 'There would be nothing exceptional about this story except that the bishop's name was Wright, and his own two sons invented the airplane my husband predicted.'"

Peace Alliance

The Israel Digest

In a speech of welcome to President Francois Tombalbaye of Chad, who has been paying his second visit to Israel, Prime Minister Levi Eshkol called on the developing nations to take the initiative in concluding alliances of peace instead of military treaties.

"It is customary in the world of today," Mr. Eshkol said at a luncheon, "for countries to contract military alliances for the preservation of their independence and sovereignty. Surely it would be a good thing to alter this situation. Let us take the initiative — we, the developing countries — and contract alliances of peace for the same end. No place could be more fitting and suitable than Jerusalem, the City of Peace, as the forum from which a call should go forth to all nations for the establishment of such alliances.

"Whereupon, the old lady continued, her young husband answered bravely that in his opinion these times were

Driving Hazards Exist in Unrepaired Highways

When driving along Telegraph recently, between Eight and Nine Mile roads, my automobile struck a large hole in the pavement. The left front tire had a blowout and I narrowly missed colliding with another automobile. I was thankful that no one was injured or harmed in any way.

This incident could have been avoided if the hole had been repaired. After inquiring about it, I found that this condition has existed for about four months. Certainly the road commission realizes the hazard that exists to motorists in this area. I wonder why nothing has been done to correct it?

'Sidewalk Should Be Provided for Students'

We wish to disagree with Mrs. Pond on her recent letter concerning Cray Junior High. The problem of walking on M59 could be solved by putting in sidewalks on one side of the road. Students find it necessary to walk on only two or three feet of one lane out of four lanes, but if sidewalks were put in people would use them.

We do agree that students should not be touching trucks and endangering their own and others' lives.

Waterford Township Streets Need Attention

It is about time that the duly-elected officials of Waterford Township did something about the situation of many of our streets and roads. This is mainly due to the work done by the contractors in installing the mains for our water system. Crescent Road, Plumstead and Rivard are heavily traveled but nearly impassable. We understood the construction company installing the water system was bonded against leaving such damage. Many of the streets which we have paid to have oiled for many years are in worse condition than they were thirty years ago.

One of Those Things...

The Hutchinson (Ill.) Herald

Conscience is something that makes a kid tell his mother before his sister does.

Good Example

The Danville Commercial-News

We think it was a good idea when the director of public welfare in Muncie, Ind., sent out orders to 150 unemployed mothers on welfare to report to work or be dropped from the community-support program.

The reason for the order was due to the bumper crop of tomatoes around Muncie that needed processing. The welfare mothers worked in the tomato canneries. They were paid $1.25 an hour for a five-day week with hours from 8 p.m. until midnight. The welfare department provided care for children. Mothers who were disabled, or unable to work, were excused from the order.

It is not unreasonable for those on welfare to help themselves and their communities, or to be asked to do so. Many of the women, including those who had never worked before, found that it was not as difficult as they had imagined. They received more money than the welfare gives them. Many of the tomato workers may have been encouraged to seek permanent employment with the welfare drop them from welfare aid and from being a burden on the community.

1974 Is Target for Huge Plane

Designing Started on 2,000-M.P.H. Craft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will put a supersonic airliner into the skies no later than 1974, Federal Aviation Administrator William F. McKee said yesterday.

McKee told the Aero Club of Washington that the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) has a target date of 1974 for certification of a 2,000-mile-an-hour supersonic transport (SST).

Certification means that the plane will have finished all tests and pronounced safe for regular passenger flights.

"But," the new FAA chief added, "I hope we can do better."

The competing British-French "Concorde" SST project, a slower and somewhat smaller transport, is expected to be ready for passenger service by 1970 or 1971.

ANSWERS CRITICS

McKee indirectly answered criticism that the Concorde's designers already are cutting metal while the U. S. planners still are cutting paper.

Referring to President Johnson's order last July for 18 months of further research on an American SST, McKee said, "This present phase means more than blueprints and wind tunnel tests."

"It means hardware — three engines from each manufacturer. It means certain sections of the proposed wings and sections of the fuselage."

McKee said he has been visiting manufacturers involved in the SST competition — Boeing and Lockheed for the airframe and General Electric and Pratt & Whitney for the engines.

KEEN BATTLE

"The work is under way and going well," he said. "The manufacturers are in high blowers and the competition is keen."

The FAA boss also predicted America's SST would be a money-maker for airlines operating it.

"The odds look better every day that it will operate at a seat-mile cost equal to that of the present jets," McKee said.

McKee said the SST program would benefit taxpayers by bringing about economic growth "that otherwise would not occur."

He said the project would create about 50,000 new jobs and "will be plain good business for all parties concerned."

Cleveland's 4-Way Race for Mayor May Be Decided Along Race Lines

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP) — A four-way race for mayor may be decided along ethnic and racial lines in this strongly Democratic city of 875,000.

Incumbent Ralph S. Locher, the favorite, has the Democratic party support against two independent Democrats — one a Negro — and an independent Republican who is popular among the city's elderly.

Carl B. Stokes, 38, first Negro Democrat ever elected to the Ohio House of Representatives, claims 75 per cent of the Negro vote, an estimated 128,000 of the city's 337,803 registered voters.

Stokes, a lawyer running with the support of Americans for Democratic Action, has stressed that his election would not mean a Negro take-over of City Hall.

"But," the new FAA chief added, "I hope we can do better."

He is the second Negro to run for mayor. In 1955, Alexander H. Martin, also an independent Democrat, polled 10,830 votes, about 8 per cent of the total, and finished fourth in a five-men race.

Another candidacy carrying racial overtones into the Nov. 2 election is that of Ralph A. McAllister, 36, an independent Democrat. He was president of the Cleveland Board of Education when a dispute over a de facto school segregation reached a high pitch in 1964.

McAllister, a tall and handsome lawyer given to blunt speech, was accused by civil rights groups of blocking their attempts to bus Negro children to predominantly white schools.

Red China, the country most violently opposed to Soviet participation, has announced it will boycott both the summit and the preliminary foreign ministers' meeting due to open tomorrow.

Sailors deserted 500 ships in the San Francisco Bay during a Negro take-over of City Hall.

He has used his considerable speaking ability to woo votes in July in 1950 to join the California Gold Rush.

By overriding protests against building three schools in mainly Negro neighborhoods, rather than at sites where enrollment would have more integration, McAllister became a hero of Democratic ethnic groups.

Two newspaper advertisements brought Perk $14,000 of campaign funds to help finance election after his close victory over County Auditor Ralph J. Perk.

Like Locher, he is popular among the city's many national-ity groups. But Perk, 51, also is well liked by elderly citizens based on his successful fight for reduced city transit fares for persons over 65, his campaign tactic favored by retired persons and permit pay.

Perk, the only Republican in county office, is not running with intent from their estate after Frank J. Lausche, his close friend.

Perk apparently believes the party endorsement would hurt him with these predominantly anti-integrationists.

West Berlin Still Tense, Lonely Despite Glitter of Prosperity

BERLIN (AP)—Beneath its sphere of tension," says Dr. Ellen Balazseskul, a psychiatrist at Kari-Bonhoeffer Mental Hospital.

Last year there were 81 known suicides, or 40 for every 100,000 inhabitants. It was only 110 less than Denmark, which has more than twice the population.

"The wall and the fact of being enclosed create an atmosphere of tension," says Dr. Ellen Balazseskul, a psychiatrist at Kari-Bonhoeffer Mental Hospital.

Charters Plane to Get Stockholm Apartment

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—

In this crowded capital you have to wait for nine years in the municipal rent-a-flat queue. So Alfred Friman, 28, and his wife, Ingrid, 26, asked a special airplane charter company to send up one of its small aircraft carrying the message: "Alfred Friman needs a flat—call 38 42 05." It cost 1,000 Swedish crowns—$200. They received a dozen calls from private apartment house owners.

answer to why the suicide rate is high.

SUICIDE RATE

"The suicide rate in Berlin was high even before World War I," she said.

More than half of West Berlin's people are 45 or older, and about a quarter of the suicides are 50-60. The attempted suicides predominantly involve persons in the 20-30 age group.

Dr. Moldenhauer said most of the persons sent to the mental hospital after trying suicide are in an alcoholic and depressed state. The younger ones usually are treated in regular city hospitals.

The rate is especially high, he said, around holidays. The rate drops when the city faces a direct threat, such as when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev demanded in 1968 the withdrawal of all Western forces from Berlin.

ACUTE THREAT

"In the state of acute threat to life," Moldenhauer said, "most people react properly."

Sir Winston's London Home Will Be Sold

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill's famous London home, 28 Hyde Park Gate, will be sold at auction here Thursday and the buyer could be an American, said an official of the auctions — Knight, Frank & Rutley.

The house — really two houses, because it includes No. 27 Hyde Park Gate next door — is expected to bring between $224,000 to $280,000.

The auctioneers have imposed no condition of sale concerning the use of the house or who buys it, but a move is under way to have it declared a historic building. It then could not be moved or substantially altered without official approval.

BOUGHT HOUSE. Sir Winston died in a ground-floor room in the house on Jan. 24.

Sir Winston moved into the house during World War II and bought No. 27 for his staff.

The adjoining houses are in a quiet dead-end street in fashionable Kensington, just south of Hyde Park.

The house is heated by a system of concealed electric radiators. It also includes a big wine cellar, Sir Winston was a lover of wines, whisky and cognac.

RATE DECLINE. The decline in the birth rate began in 1957. A spokesman for the National Center for Health Statistics expressed the opinion that birth control pills are having only a very small effect, if any, in the decreases.

The birth rate for the 12 months ended in August was even lower, at 20 per 1,000 population, compared with 21.3 in the preceding year.

There were an estimated 3,864,000 babies born during the year ended Aug. 31, down from 4,062,000 in the preceding year. During the first eight months of LANSING (AP) — Michigan high school seniors and graduates have until next Monday to apply for 1966-67 state college scholarships, the State Department of Public Instruction said today.

'Economy Changes Benefit Elderly'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Automation and changes in the economy may be more of a blessing than a curse for older workers, a Harvard economist said yesterday.

Prof. John T. Dunlop, chairman of Harvard University's Economics Department, said older persons probably have only one major disadvantage in applying for new job opportunities — less formal education than younger persons.

Dunlop made the statement in a paper presented at a two-day conference on manpower policy for older workers sponsored by the National Council on Aging.

Job requirements for physical effort and strength have decreased, Dunlop said. Government figures show that laborers' jobs fell from 14.7 per cent of the male labor force in 1900 to 7.8 per cent in 1960, he noted.

GROWING SECTORS. Dunlop described rapidly growing sectors of the economy — state and local government, services, trade and finance — as probably more favorable for older workers than mining, construction and manufacturing, in which employment is dropping.

Finally, Dunlop said, the expected shifts in location of industries to warmer climates in Florida, California, Texas and the southwest is a favorable indicator for older job seekers.

But, he added, employers' demands for high school graduates may hamper workers who grew up in a grammar school education was more typical as a job requirement.

Dunlop suggested that private and public employers provide more part-time jobs for older workers.

SHORTER PERIODS

Two persons may be able to share a single job, he said, if each takes responsibility for half of the working time. In occupations such as teaching, he said, a shorter work year might be arranged.

The Harvard faculty member also urged extending jobless benefits for long-service employees.

"Far too much of our unemployment compensation dollar goes to the seasonally unemployed and employees with marginal attachments to the labor force, compared to long-service employees who lose their job as a consequence of plant shutdown, long-term decline in business or technological displacement," he said.

"A year of benefits might well be provided, for instance, for those employees with over 15 years of employment."

FDA Tags Pregnancy Drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Manufacturers were under orders today to warn pregnant women that three nonprescription drugs sold to millions in the past decade might possibly injure unborn infants.

After three years of studies and congressional hearings, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) ordered the warnings added to the labels on preparations containing three antihistamines, two of them commonly used to prevent "morning sickness."

Named in the FDA order were meclizine and cyclizine, used to prevent nausea often accompanying pregnancy, and chlorcyclizine, used for allergies, colds and insect bites.

The drugs have been sold over the counter since 1955.

Other preparations containing the drugs, and given under prescription to ease pregnancy nausea, also must contain the new warning along with a note that the drugs have not been proven effective against vomiting.

WARNING LABEL

The new warning label will be aimed both at pregnant women and those who may become pregnant.

Dr. Joseph Sadusk, FDA medical director, said the order was based on laboratory studies involving animals.

Clinical studies failed to show any increase of congenital abnormalities among infants whose mothers had taken one of the drugs, meclizine.

"Nevertheless, careful animal studies established that the drugs had produced congenital abnormalities in test animals," he said. "The possibility of injury to the unborn child could not be ignored."

MILDER CLAUSE

Earlier this year, the FDA had considered issuing a milder advisory committee, the drugs agency's own medical staff or it would have said the drugs with the medical facts.

"should not be used during pregnancy without the advice of a physician."

But during hearings last June by the House Intergovernmental Relations Subcommittee, Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., the chairman, pushed for stronger wording.

At one point in the hearings, Sadusk said that, as a private physician, he would prefer no warning on the nonprescription forms of the drugs.

In Chicago, a major drug manufacturer, Chas. Pfizer & Co., said in a statement it disagreed with both the revised labeling requirements for the drug meclizine and with "the scientific rationale for such requirements."

NOT IN ACCORD

Pfizer said it believed the requirements were not in accord with the views of the FDA's expert committee, the drugs agency's own medical staff or it would have said the drugs with the medical facts.

Evidence that the drugs caused deformities in animals was first discovered by the government in 1963. An FDA advisory group, including Dr. Frances O. Kelsey, who inspired the thalidomide warning, recommended that nonprescription sales be halted.

A special advisory committee was formed by the FDA in 1964. It recommended continued counter sales but a new warning on the labels.

According to the FDA, the three antihistamines are also used for motion sickness and allergic conditions.

Yesterday, Sadusk said the FDA acted because of the effects of laboratory animals as well as the recommendations for adding the warning by the committee.

Illegal off-track betting in this country is a $50 billion a year business, a Senate investigating committee has divulged.

Ted Hopeful Over Viet Nam

But He Says Struggle to Be Long, Enduring

SAIGON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy told a news conference today that he and three other U.S. lawmakers are "hopeful" about the situation in Viet Nam but "it certainly appears that the struggle will be long and enduring."

The Massachusetts Democrat, Sen. Joseph Tydings, D-Md. Rep. John Tunney, D-Calif., and Rep. John Culver, D-Iowa, concluded a five-day visit to South Viet Nam and left for Laos.

"The Vietnamese people could not have a firmer ally than the United States," Kennedy said.

He reported that U.S. troops with whom he spoke expressed concern over the student protests at home against U.S. involvement in South Viet Nam. But he said the soldiers have "extraordinarily high morale."

Earlier today, the visitors met with a group of South Vietnamese students, and one student suggested that Vietnamese student groups be sent to the United States to explain the U.S. effort in South Viet Nam.

UNDERSTANDING

The young Vietnamese said he thought the demonstrations showed that American students do not understand the war.

Tunney welcomed the suggestion. Kennedy expressed confidence in the South Vietnamese government's efforts to meet the needs of its people. He and his group came to Viet Nam to survey the refugee problem.

Yank Tells of Killing 2 in Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. aid mission official Robert Kimball told today how he killed his boss and an attractive Vietnamese woman "out of my mind" with jealousy last July 23.

He said he tried to kill himself, too, but found he had used all his bullets on the victims.

Kimball, separated from his wife and son who live in Salt Lake City, Utah, went on trial in Saigon's Palace of Justice on murder charges.

He is the first American to be tried by a Vietnamese court. U.S. authorities waived his diplomatic immunity.

The victims were Jack Ryan, 44, a onetime FBI man who was chief of the public safety division of the U.S. Operations Mission (USOM), and Mrs. Nguyen Thi Hai, 27, a secretary in the mission who was estranged from her Vietnamese Air Force pilot husband.

INFURIATED

Kimball, 37, said he was in love with the Vietnamese woman and became infuriated when he found her outside Ryan's bungalow shortly after taking her home from a date.

"It happened instantaneously," he testified. "I do not know how many shots I fired. I lost control of myself."

"After seeing what I had done, I put the pistol to my forehead and pulled the trigger, but the pistol was empty. I was out of my mind."

Kimball was the first witness called by the three black-robed judges, who sat in a semicircle on a raised platform.

Kimball could receive from five years to life in prison if convicted. Vietnamese justice ministers said it was unlikely he would be sentenced to death.

Russian Moves Against China May Bring Viet Talks

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Moscow may be getting up steam behind a drive to isolate Red China's warlike policies and create conditions in which Viet Nam peace talks could be held.

A clue to thinking in the Moscow bloc — at a time when Kremlin patience with Peking seems near the breaking point — came in a broadcast from Czechoslovakia. It contained one of the most outspoken condemnations of China's Viet Nam policy from a Communist source and carried a hint of division in the Viet Cong leadership over peace talk demands.

The broadcast concerned a statement in Finland last week by the Moscow representative of the National Front for Liberation of South Viet Nam—NFLSV—the Viet Cong's political front. It came at a time when an international Communist meeting was in session in Prague, and it is unlikely that it could reflect anything but an official view.

The Prague version of the Viet Cong representative's remarks to a group of students differed to a degree from a report carried by Helsinki newspapers. The difference was one of shading—perhaps indicating wishful thinking.

COOL RELATIONS

According to the Helsinki papers, he said "relations between China and the Viet Cong are not very warm, even now."

In this version he repeated Communist demands that the Americans withdraw completely from South Viet Nam and end raids on the north as preconditions for talks. Then, when asked if U.S. withdrawal was a fixed precondition, he replied: "It does not matter if they are there or not, as long as they accept our final conditions."

The Prague radio version went this way:

"Nguyen Van Dong, NFLSV representative in Moscow, said that relations between the Viet Cong and People's China now are considerably strained. The Viet Cong, in his words, has no definitive claims under which the United States would have to withdraw its units from South Viet Nam before it would be possible to start peace talks. The Viet Cong only insists that the United States must recognize the NFLSV as a partner in the talks."

END PRECONDITION

This seemed to lift the precondition of U.S. advance withdrawal and limit the Viet Cong demands to a seat at a conference table, rather than recognition as South Viet Nam's only legal representative, as Hanoi and Peking have insisted.

The way Prague quotes the NFLSV representative, there is a hint of division in the Viet Cong ranks and probably in Hanoi, which fathered the liberation front. It also adds substance to a growing impression that Peking is becoming more and more isolated in the Communist world. This seemed to be reflected in the Prague broadcast, which said that if "the entire NFLSV leadership" endorsed the statement made in Helsinki, "it will mean for Chinese policy the last step in the isolation in which it finds itself at every step because of its unrealistic war-seeking of the past few weeks."

The "past few weeks" could include China's interference in the India-Pakistan war over Kashmir. It could include Vice Premier Chen Yi's dare to the Kremlin leaders to join "the U.S. imperialists and Indian reactionaries" in an attack on China. It could include the painful Chinese setback when a Red-backed coup collapsed in Indonesia. It could include the rejection of China's demand for another postponement of the Asian-African conference scheduled for Nov. 5 and China's threat to boycott it because the Soviets will be invited.

CONFUSION SPREADS

Moscow and Washington each have a tiger by the tail in Viet Nam—Moscow because the war has spread confusion in world Communist ranks and threatens to involve the U.S.S.R., Washington because the Communist attitude up to now has left open no honorable avenue to peace.

But the Viet Cong takes increasingly more punishment all the time, and Communist North Viet Nam obviously is hurting.

Referring to these factors, the Prague broadcast said: "The Vietnamese people, meaning the Viet Cong, would not be able to agree indefinitely with the Chinese attitude that the struggle must be waged till the victorious end, whatever the price."

Junior Editors Quiz on SPEEDY ANIMALS

QUESTION: What are the fastest animals?

ANSWER: Many studies have been made of the speed of animals by driving alongside them in cars or from planes. It is difficult to get an exact speed figure in this way, so one must allow for possible error.

But experts agree that the pronghorn antelope (A) is the fastest native land animal in America, having been clocked at over 60 miles an hour (compared with 40-45 miles per hour for the fastest racehorses).

(B) is the duck hawk going 175 m.p.h. It is when hawks and falcons dive down on their prey that they attain such terrific speed. There is little doubt that the family of swifts are the fastest birds.

There is disagreement about their top speeds — some say the claim of great speed is exaggerated, others insist that the Swifts of Europe and Asia have been clocked at 200 m.p.h. which would make them the latest living creatures.

Experts agree that the prize for the world's fastest land animal goes to the cheetah of Africa and Asia (D). It is a cat, but has the long legs and deep chest of dogs, making speeds up to 70 m.p.h.

They are often trained to hunt. The fastest fishes are (E) the sailfish and (F) the dangerous barracuda, which sometimes attacks human beings.

FOR YOU TO DO: Next time you are in a car or bus, watch for some flying birds and see if you can judge their speed. You may be traveling 40 or 50 miles an hour. Are the birds flying faster or slower?

WOMEN'S SECTION

He Won't Marry Her

Add the Score and Run

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and recently met a fine young man of 26. We hit it off perfectly.

I've never known a young man who had so many of the qualities I admire. He told me he "loved" me, and I told him I loved him, too.

Then he said he didn't think we should get "too serious." ABBY as he couldn't propose marriage. The reason: His parents were very much prejudiced against people of my religious faith, and he would never marry a girl his parents didn't approve of.

He said he realized that a "real" man would probably marry the girl of his choice and disregard his parents' wishes. But material things were his weakness, and if he were to marry me he'd have to change his standard of living, and give up all hope of eventually falling heir to the family business.

Should I continue going with him, hoping he will change his mind? Or hope he can get his parents to change theirs? I love him, Abby, and can't give him up just like that.

DISQUALIFIED: If he can't propose marriage, what does he propose? Run fast, in the other direction, unless you are content just to go with him until he meets a girl of whom his parents will approve.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who is a professor at one of the local colleges, is very well-liked by his students.

Consequently during the school year we receive many wedding invitations, and we usually accept them all. We are on a very tight budget and must watch our expenditures closely.

Is it necessary for us to give the couple a wedding gift if we attend their wedding? Many of our friends who are also teachers (even the single ones) are wondering about this, too.

We know the students invite my husband because they want him, and the gift is unimportant.

TIGHT BUDGET
DEAR TIGHT: If you want to attend the wedding, go, and take a gift. It isn't necessary to strain your budget.

Browse around in an antique shop, or a book store. You can find some small appropriate item for a dollar or slightly more.

A second-hand book, or paperback edition of one of the classics, selected with the couple's special interest in mind, could be more meaningful than a more pretentious gift.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Gave 34,000 Hours in Year

Hospital Thanks Its Volunteers

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor
Pontiac State Hospital said thank you Tuesday to its volunteers at the annual tea set up to honor the more than 1000 individuals who give service.

Dr. Donald Martin, medical superintendent, said that 116 organizations are participating in a volunteer program that gave 34,000 hours to the hospital in the past year.

More and more, he added, volunteers are being included in the treatment team. Their presence in the hospital has a special meaning for the patients; it shows them they are not forgotten by the world outside.

MAIN SPEAKER
Principal speaker was Dr. Lowell Eklund, dean of the department of continuing education at Oakland University and director of Mott Center.

Our way of life would without volunteers, Eklund said. Volunteers have always been in the vanguard of every step forward they have helped to advance civilization.

"Always it has been the individual first with his own commitment and dedication. When the needs are revealed, social agencies then assist."

He echoed Dr. Martin's statement about the importance of volunteers to the well-being of the patients, then elaborated on it.

Volunteer work is important in three ways.

• There's the actual work itself which contributes a service otherwise impossible.

• Internal communication with hospital personnel means that the public has its finger on the pulse of a government sponsored institution.

• Volunteers are an external public relations resource. Not only do they help interpret the hospital program to the community, but they also bring in more community support and help.

Volunteer work is "obedience to the unenforceable" and imposes an obligation on oneself. It is the right to be responsible. Admitting that service to others is a form of enlightened self-interest, Eklund also stated that it is a challenge for the individual to grow. He concluded with Rostand's quotation, "The purpose of life is not to be happy. It is to be useful."

Dr. Lowell Eklund of Oakland University was the principal speaker at the annual volunteer tea. Dr. Wanda Schlicht, a psychiatrist at Pontiac State Hospital presided during the refreshment hour. Dr. Schlicht's husband is a coworker with Dr. Eklund.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice:

Why, oh why do we still pay a good price for buttons that come back completely ruined after a garment has been dry-cleaned?

Dear Mrs. J. A. W.:

Almost without exception, decorative buttons should be removed before a garment is dry-cleaned. Many of the expensive buttons are imported and are made of various types of plastic which are soluble in commercial cleaning fluids. Since these buttons are the focal point of your garment, it just doesn't pay to take a chance.

Get in the habit of removing them yourself. It only takes a few minutes to sew them back on again—it's good insurance!

Mrs. Leonard Andrus, Horsesheds, N. Y., is awarded this week's Tailor Trix pressing board for the instructions for making a "deerskin" jacket from the skins the hunters in your family have acquired.

This, she says, is a very rewarding project. However it takes time and patience.

Four skins are required for the average man's jacket. Be sure to make a muslin pattern first and fit it perfectly before cutting the skins. Machine stitching cannot be removed from the leather without leaving permanent marks.

There is no "grain" direction to leather. However, there are certain parts of the skin that are much thicker. Try to avoid using the thicker part of the skin where you will have to join more than one seam; it is almost impossible to machine stitch.

You will find extra yokes and seams on most ready-made leather garments. Don't hesitate to add them to your garment. It will conserve leather and also add to the attractiveness.

Do not fold the deerskin when cutting; cut each piece of your pattern separately. Do not use pins. Trace pattern with a soft pencil instead. Deerskin stretches very easily, so you should use a cotton twill tape on all seams to prevent sagging out of shape. It also is wise to use interfacing in the fronts and collar of your jacket.

Use a longer than normal machine stitch and heavy duty thread. Be prepared to break a few sewing machine needles, because this will happen when you are stitching through the heavier parts of the skin. Use paper clips or hair clips to hold the seams together for stitching. Experiment with the stitching on a few scraps before stitching the garment.

You may press the seams open by placing brown paper over the seam before pressing with a warm iron. It is best to glue the seams lightly to the jacket, using a milky type household glue. The hem will also be glued in place.

Be sure to clip or trim excess leather close to the stitching line on any area that is to be top-stitched. It will relieve the thickness of the seams.

Are you proud of your buttonholes? If not, send for Eunice Farmer's free leaflet, "Bound Buttonholes." Send a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Is a Small Town Best for Retirement?

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Even if retirement is still some years off, you've probably done some thinking on the subject. Most of us are concerned with two angles when we try to do any serious planning where and how.

Some people build their retirement years around a certain spot on the map, either because they've always wanted to go there, or because it's a familiar and beloved place.

Others weigh the advantages of one locale over another strictly from an economic standpoint. I think this letter from a reader in Roseburg, Oregon, raises some interesting questions:

Dear Miss Feeley: I do not recall that you have ever said anything to give the impression that living in the country or small town is cheaper for the retiree—or anyone else—but many people think it is. After years of experience with both city and small-town living, my first advice would be for the older person to choose a city or a town at least large enough to have a little competition among businesses and services.

At first glance, it might seem a small community is best for the purposes of retirement, but I do not think this is necessarily true.

Take, first, the matter of groceries. It is an unusual small town grocery which does not charge more (they have to), and offer less variety than a city market. Add to the larger grocery bill the cost of transportation to get to the market—and right there you have added costs.

In fact, transportation is the thing that fools you in figuring cost of living. When you must consult a doctor—and most older people have to with increasing frequency—consider that you must first telephone with long-distance charges, then buy gasoline to get to the office, which in the case of specialists can be many miles away, and often even spend a night or two in a hotel in order to keep the appointment. Of course, I am talking about a very small town.

In the city a telephone call and a bus ride are all the services you usually need.

Telephone rates and most utilities are higher, also, to say nothing of the exasperation of poorer services, REA statistics to the contrary. I have never lived so cheaply or so satisfactorily when I chose a 30,000-population city.

Miss Miller, Mr. Lankford Speak Vows

Candlelight vows and a reception in the Memorial Baptist Church marked the recent marriage of Connie Mae Miller to Donald Lee Lankford.

The Lewis S. Millers, South Francis Street and the Cecil E. Lankfords, North Sanford Street, are parents of the newlyweds who are at Niagara Falls for a honeymoon.

For the double ring ceremony performed by Rev. Gerald Rapelle, the bride appeared in a gown and train of candlelight satin appliqued with rose motifs of Alencon lace.

A rose headpiece secured her illusion veil and her bouquet was of white carnations and Sweetheart roses.

With Mrs. Lawrence Crawford, maid of honor, were the bridesmaids Mrs. Edward Van Tassel and Nancy Fetter.

Edward Lankford assisted his brother as best man. Ushers were Costa Gnakos and Bernie Tate.

The newlywed James C. Rutledges (Tennie Mae Hutchison) left for a northern honeymoon after their recent vows and reception in the Bethany Baptist Church.

Their parents are the Jack Hutchisons of Mark Street and Mr. and Mrs. Crozier I. Rutledge of Beverly Island Drive.

Candlelight silk organza over satin fashioned the bride's bouffant gown and cathedral train worn with sequin tulle and veil of white tulle.

CASCADE BOUQUET During the ceremony performed by Dr. Emil Kozit, the bride held cascading white roses, carnations and ivy encircling a white orchid.

With Charlene K. Woody, maid of honor, were Mrs. Jack Hutchison, Mrs. Kirby Hutchison and Mrs. Joseph Hutchison as bridesmaids.

Mark T. Rutledge was best man and the bride's brothers Jack, Kirby and Joseph Hutchison ushered.

The couple will reside on Murphy Street.

The hair dresser is just around the corner, the library easily accessible, and to me all these things make up for the few extra dollars in rent or taxes. After all, when we retire most of us want to do some of the things that were not possible during the years of work in places perhaps not of our choosing.

How Guest May Assist at Party

By The Emily Post Institute While most of the obligations lie with the hostess at a party, there are many things that a guest can do to make the evening a success.

When invited to dinner, you should arrive within 15 minutes of the time for which you were invited. More delay than that indicates that you have not made much effort, and it may ruin the hostess's carefully planned meal.

When dinner is announced, don't ignore the invitation, sitting back and sipping slowly at your full cocktail glass.

On the other hand, don't jump up and fly out as if you had been kept waiting to the point of starvation.

Watch your hostess and if she seems to be edging toward the door, take one more sip and rise, encouraging your companions to go with you — "Shall we go in to dinner? I think Lucy would like us to." She may say, "Dinner is ready, but don't hurry. It will stay hot for a few minutes."

Unless she says, "Please bring your drink with you," don't. She may be serving wine or a meal that she does not feel is complemented by a cocktail.

When you are told which is your place, wait until the hostess starts to seat herself before you sit down, unless she says, "Please sit down, I must bring in another dish." Men, at any meal, should help the women on their right to be seated.

When your hostess rises to clear the table, don't jump up to help unless she has asked you to beforehand. You'll probably not get in her way.

However, it can only be a help if you wish to offer to pass the cups around when she serves coffee after dinner.

And most important: remember to talk to the guests on either side of you or to enter with enthusiasm into a general conversation if the table is small.

She was awarded the first Mott Fellowship in English at OU for the development of an American literature textbook which will challenge the interest and imagination of eleventh-grade inner-city students of average ability.

Polly's Pointers

Save With Sheets

DEAR POLLY — After purchasing a king-size bed, I could only afford one set of sheets and pillowcases to fit it. In order to have a change, I slit a fitted double sheet down the center, measured the extra material needed by slipping these two halves over each side of the bed. Then I cut a flat sheet to size for the center. It was stitched in and made a good fitting bottom sheet.

I enlarged a top sheet by slitting one down the middle and sewing these two pieces at either side of a whole sheet. The blankets were done the same way. Pillowcases can be made from any material, printed or plain.

DEAR POLLY — When storing glasses, save space by placing six glasses in two rows

(three one way and three the other), lay a piece of heavy cardboard on top and store six more glasses on top of the cardboard.—KATIE

DEAR POLLY — After our trash cans were emptied it was always such a bother to find the right lids for the right cans. As a cure, I coded each lid with its correct can by painting a "1" on each, "2" on the next pair and so on. Readers who live in apartments, where there are many cans, might have to work out a different code such as one big dot on one set and two big dots on another.

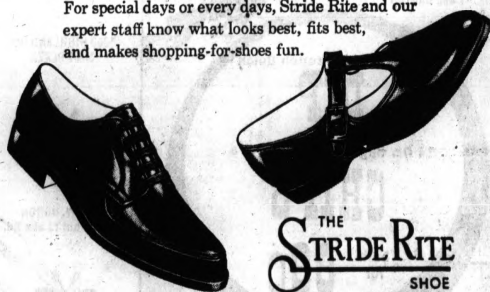

This really cuts down on the rattle and clatter as well as the annoyance of having to try several lids on several cans.

Boston Man Guilty in Gang Slaying

BOSTON (AP) — George P. McLaughlin, 37, was under sentence today to die in the electric chair after he was convicted of murder in what police called the first of 24 gangland slayings in the last 19 months.

A Suffolk Superior Court jury found the short, plump McLaughlin — once one of the FBI's 10 most wanted men — guilty of shooting a bank clerk who never had a police record and who police say may have been mistaken for someone else.

McLaughlin paled perceptibly and took the hand of a girlfriend last night as the jury foreman read the verdict of guilty in the first degree. His sentence was stayed pending appeal.

He was accused of killing William J. Sheridan, 29, of Boston after a christening party the night of March 15, 1964.

Police said the murder had the effect of setting rival gangs against one another — and that since then more than a killing attempt might be made on George's life.

Just last Wednesday, McLaughlin's brother, Edward J. (Punchy) McLaughlin, was shot seven times and died as he was imprisoned in the slaying last November of William Treanin.

Punchy had lost part of his jaw and a hand in two other shooting attempts on his life earlier this year.

Another brother, Bernard, 41, was killed in a water-front ambush in 1961.

About 50 police officers were stationed in and about the court-house last night as officials feared a last-minute gangland attempt might be made on George's life.

ONE CONVICTION

The state has obtained only one conviction in the other 23 killings. Robert E. Cook, 35, Boston, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the slaying last November of William Treanin.

Deputy Police Commissioner Herbert F. Muloney said he had traced the trouble to "rivalry between gangs from Boston and Somerville, loan sharks and tailgaters who rob from open trucks."

One victim was Joseph R. Francione, 35, of Revere, who at the time he was shot last Jan. 26, was under surveillance in the Plymouth, Mass., jail truck robbery. Some $1.5 million was taken in the robbery in August 1962.

McLaughlin swore during his trial that he was innocent. "The shot that killed Sheridan was meant for me," he said.

STRONG CASE
Asst. Dist. Atty. John A. Pino

told the jury the government had a strong case because a "young man named Herbert Josselyn had the courage to come in here and point the accusing finger at George McLaughlin."

Josselyn, 22, an ex-Marine, testified that he witnessed the shooting in a doorway of a housing project where the christening party was held.

The jury also convicted three friends of McLaughlin of being accessories after the fact in harboring McLaughlin.

Sentences against James S. O'Toole, 34, Maureen Dellamano, 33, and Frances Bithony, 21, all of Dorchester, were deferred until Monday.

Coastal Rocks Key to Puzzle

By Service Science

WASHINGTON — The dates of ancient rocks along the coasts of South America and eastern Africa may solve the mystery of whether or not the continents were once joined in a huge supercontinent that then split up and drifted apart.

If the ages of the rocks match, the theory of a former large continent will be strengthened, Dr. John Reynolds of the University of California said.

If the ages do not match, the supercontinent theory will probably have to be discarded.

Scientists have long argued over the possibility that a large land mass near the middle of what is now the Atlantic Ocean later broke and drifted apart to form today's continents of North America, South America, Africa and Europe.

Supporters of the continental drift theory, who call the supercontinent Gondwanaland, are now using latest scientific advances to match belts of rocks in the continents.

RESEARCH GRANT

A grant for this research has been made by the National Science Foundation to the University of California and its partner, a new institution called the Geochronology Laboratory of the University of Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Scientists supporting the continental drift theory have long based their arguments on similarities in certain continental shapes, particularly those of South America and Africa, which seem to fit together like pieces of a jigsaw puzzle.

Nearly all of the approximately six million square miles of Antarctica, the world's fifth largest continent, is covered with ice and snow.

Young GOP Will Conduct Birch Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Young Republicans are going to conduct an inquiry into the John Birch Society in an attempt to find out if Birch membership is compatible with being a Republican.

Members have agreed in a sometimes stormy session to hold four open hearings to discuss the history and background of the Birch Society; the nature of the affiliation — if one exists — between the society and the Republican party; and whether to take any action regarding Birch members who belong to the Young Republicans.

Roland Barnes, president of the District of Columbia group, indicated that spokesmen from the Birch Society, along with opponents, would be invited to testify. "We'll listen to anybody who wants to come," he said.

Says Area Optometrist

'Good Vision Key to Highway Safety'

Advanced highway and automobile technology have decreased the modern driver's awareness of hazards and put a premium on vision as a traffic safety factor, according to a Bloomfield Township optometrist.

Dr. Paul L. Connolly of 4947 Karen, in a paper presented to the American Association of Automotive Medicine, points to the modern superhighway as a "visual desert" in need of "reference cues" to guide the speed and direction of motorists.

Dr. Connolly is visual consultant to the styling staff of General Motors Corp.

He notes that smoother highways, improved suspension systems and tightened car design have taken away a driver's feeling of vibration and centrifugal force and awareness of road and traffic noise.

Vision, he concludes, is man's "major sensory input of information" in directing the speed of his vehicle, allowing for other cars and responding to the highway, signs, guide lines and adjacent objects.

In guiding the job of "road transport engineering," human vision capabilities have a number of significant limitations, Dr. Connolly notes. Also vital is brother to the parole board."

Dr. Connolly says. Among them he lists the following:

- An oncoming car 140 feet ahead and one lane to the left of the driver's forward sight is perceived in an area of only 20 per cent vision — the equivalent of legal blindness in the United States.

- Motion perception is poorest at the periphery of vision or to either side, but can be greatly improved when there are stationary reference objects in the field of view — such as trees, buildings and parked cars.

- Ability to pick out movement at either side of the forward line of sight is cut in half when the driver has a demanding visual task directly in front of him, such as a fast-moving expressway.

Improving the safety factor from a visual standpoint, Dr. Connolly suggests, can be attained through attention to both driver and vehicle.

Drivers must be taught to "read the road" — to look for the meaningful events in a traffic pattern and react to them.

Good visual acuity, with or without correction, is a must, they've just appointed your brother to the parole board."

coordination of driving skill in processing visual events.

Responsibility for improvement of vehicles from a standpoint of better vision lies with automotive designers and engineers and with visual consultants.

Visual instruments, vehicle lighting and signaling, Dr. Connolly says should provide a driver with necessary information about driving conditions with which he must cope.

A third possibility is the marking and landscaping of the highway. Pavement markings and stationary objects near the road are also backed by Dr. Connolly as effective aids to driving.

The paper was presented at the association's recent annual meeting at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

Happiness to Prisoner: Kin on Parole Board

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — Jon Carey, a San Quentin inmate and member of the prison's newspaper staff, wrote in this column recently:

"Happiness is discovering with no number, with or without correction, is a must, they've just appointed your brother to the parole board."

Campaign Publicity

Telling UF Story Is Vital Endeavor

Campaign publicity, much in evidence during the current Pontiac Area United Fund Drive, plays a vital role in the success of the drive.

Behind the scenes efforts that make it possible are accomplished by a group of people with the backing of innumerable businesses which help finance and donate facilities.

For example, the 6-ft. bright red torch and feather sign hanging from street poles, remind citizens of the drive.

They are cut from masonite, painted in dayglo paint, and mounted on brackets to fit varying poles in Pontiac, Independence, and Oxford shopping centers.

Each year the signs are made in the charts and display department of Pontiac Motor Division. The painting process alone requires four days to complete.

WIND DAMAGE

Wind damage, which previously took a heavy toll has been corrected by drilling numerous 1-inch holes in the torch and feathers.

A frequent check is made throughout the campaign to spot broken brackets or loosened eye bolts which might cause personal or property damage. A call to the city electrical department, results in immediate repair or removal of the sign.

Similarly three 10-by-12-foot displays placed in retail stores, office buildings and campaign meetings are also conceived, constructed and maintained by Pontiac Motor.

Weight and size of the UF displays require two men to handle and transport the sign by truck to various sites scheduled by Pontiac Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., display chairman.

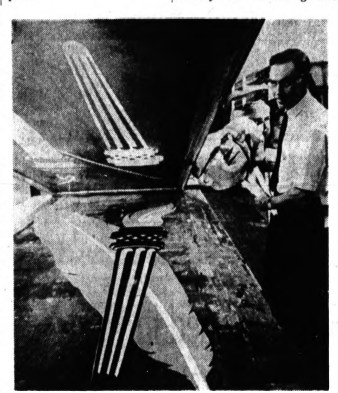

PROGRESS BOARD

Pontiac Motor is also responsible for the progress board located at Wide Track and Auden, and Oxford shopping centers. The board is decorated with caricatures of chairmen in a General Motors Truck and Coach Division bus, play department of Pontiac Motor Division. The painting process alone requires four days to complete.

Motorists checking the daily progress of the campaign may not be aware that two extra sets of faces stand ready to replace those that become weather damaged.

The flaming gas torch ignited on kickoff day in front of City Hall, burns brightly for 21 days or until the goal has been reached. It is maintained by Consumers Power Co. The 25 UF billboards throughout the Pontiac area are obtained through the combined efforts of the display chairman, Press' advertising department, Naegle Outdoors Advertising. A record high of 1,000 inches of relinquished these valuable sponsored advertising was solicited by the advertising staff last year and is again under the direction of Arthur Sanford, UF advertising chairman.

Advertising is subscribed by local merchants, firms and organizations.

The Pontiac Press editorial staff gives wide coverage to the campaign as do local weeklies, industrial publications, and radio station WPON.

Brochures and other materials distributed are given an assist in copy and layout by MacManus, John & Adams.

SPONSORSHIPS

Meal sponsorships and training for the numerous meetings and campaign functions which constitute a vital role in the campaign machinery are assisted by an arrangements committee headed by Solon Phinney.

Volunteer speakers help by giving talks and film showings to employ groups on behalf of the drive.

William Belaney is chairman of the campaign speakers bureau.

Over-all responsibility for planning, coordinating and staffing the publicity promotional efforts for the 1965 campaign is credited to Robert C. Emerick, public relations director, Pontiac Motor Division.

New India Has Emerged in Past Year

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

NEW DELHI, India — Between the neo-Indian architecture of the new U.S. Embassy in New Delhi and the red sandstone government buildings stands the half-completed embassy of Red China, encased in aging wood scaffolding.

It has been that way since, NEWSOM just three years ago this month, Red Chinese troops crashed across India's Himalayan frontier and destroyed Jawaharlal Nehru's hopes of peaceful coexistence.

The Red Chinese attack revealed the woeful state of Indian defenses and forced India upon a whole new course of action. In the midst of it, Nehru died.

Most of the problems which Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri inherited from Nehru remain, but Western observers say that the last six months to a year have been marked by the emergence of a new India.

In the minds of Indians, at least, it also proved that India's army is the equal of Pakistan's which had been touted as one of the best in Asia.

BULK OF FORCES
India fought the war with the bulk of its forces still lined up against Red China and was on the offensive when the cease-fire came.

The war bolstered Indian unity and from a new burst of national confidence, Indian ministries now are studying possible effect on the national economy should the country elect to go it alone without foreign aid.

From a practical standpoint, no one seriously believes that any such thing will occur. But predictions are being made that within a target date of 10 to 15 years, India might become self-supporting.

Economically, Western observers see India with three main problems — agriculture, population control and the need

Vandals Pose Threat to School's Retreat

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — Lake Michigan College administrators are trying to figure out ways to combat vandals who have caused an estimated $5,000 damage this year to the school's retreat in Van Buren County.

The unused retreat, consisting of a hunting lodge in an 80-acre wooded tract, was donated to the school several years ago.

Curiosity Marks Iron Curtain Students

By MARY KAY LYNN

MOSCOW (NEA) — Curiosity is a curious thing in Communist countries — especially among students.

Visitors may arrive with the preconceived notion that the Communist-orientated youth, sheltered and propagandized, must have limited or no interest in a foreign way of life.

But visitors often leave convinced that these students, bred in self-containment, have a deep desire to know what is "out there."

The epitome of the "outside" is likely to be the United States, a world power which has attained such economic audacity that its women can throw away nylon just because they have run out in them.

Foreign students find that most counterparts they meet in Communist countries express the wish to study or travel in the West. Their primary is an intellectual curiosity.

RAVENOUS APPETITE

Visitors from the United States report that Soviet students display a ravenous appetite for the paperback books they carry in their luggage.

FERTILIZER PLANTS
Agriculturally, fertilizer plants are on the increase and a land distribution program is being pressed.

Those are two items on the credit side of the ledger. On the other side is the stifling hand of the ruling Congress party, whose aging leaders show no signs of stepping aside or of developing younger men.

Meanwhile there remains the unsettled dispute with Pakistan, and the equally unsettled bordering women in the use of Red. The "loop," a cheap and effective birth control device which is expected to reduce the birth rate to about 1 per cent instead of 3.

"Send me anything to read," a Russian student pleaded after Carl Brandow of Pleasantville, N. Y., gave him a novel he was carrying.

Knots of youths gather around Western - manufactured automobiles hoping more for conversation with the occupants than for a close-up look at the upholstery and design of the car.

Charles Callender of Dearborn, Mich., was impressed with the "complete friendliness" of the people who talked with him for more than two hours in a parking lot when he stopped to attend a celebration in a Russian village.

PARTING NOTE

A local student gave him a set of picture cards and a parting note: "Thank you for your visit. It was very charming to talk to you. Come some other time. Good luck."

Among the youngsters who traveled recently behind the Iron Curtain was a pilot group of People-to-People Students Ambassadors from the United States.

They wanted to understand and be understood through visits to homes and classrooms.

chance meetings and scheduled "mixers."

These travelers have returned to their campuses with a new appreciation of international friendship.

VERY IMPRESSED

Seven students were so impressed by a Russian intern met at a hostel near Leningrad that they plan to pool their resources within the next few months in order to bring him to the United States to complete his medical education.

"We tried to be good listeners, remembering always to separate the people from their government," Mike Kepler, one of the seven, commented in Moscow.

"The students we met during our camping tour were open-minded and receptive to explanations of our society."

Convincing the Russian student that the American student feels a commitment to the lot of society was somewhat difficult, according to John Dolebel of Detroit.

"The Russian seems to think Hungarian youth was overheard that American students have saying, 'He asks if you are going to esthetic goal and only go to ing.'" school for the social life," he said.

At a televised outdoor dance in Budapest, Hungarian teen-agers warmed around a People-to-People delegation of 35 high school students from Spokane, Wash.

Photos and addresses were exchanged between dances.

It was the first time most of the Hungarians had met Americans and when they could not ask questions through interpreters or limited English they resorted to charades.

NO LANGUAGE BARRIER

Suzanne Smith did not find language a barrier. "He danced steps I've danced at home," she said excitedly. "After several dances I said I was tired by wiping my brow and pointing to my chair."

The students, who found they had many interests in common, including the Beatles and U.S. television shows, reluctantly parted at the 10 p.m. closing.

Interpreting for a friend, a Hungarian youth was overheard that American students have saying, "He asks if you are going to esthetic goal and only go to ing."

"Yes," the girl from Spokane answered.

"The boy is sorry."

GREAT INTEREST

Coeds in Warsaw displayed a great interest in Americans and in particular, Doug Lamb of that street peddler sold Richard Chamberlain's photo along with those of national heroes.

While a guest in a Polish family's home, Doug saw two postcard - size photos of the star propped beside the television set.

After a month in Yugoslavia, Diana Drisko of Kansas City, Mo., was so accustomed to questions that he got so she could anticipate the subject range.

Students in particular were eager to communicate.

At a party following a student performance of folk dances and songs, one of the violinists told Diana: "I cannot speak much to you in English so I play the violin for you."

Construction of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City began in 1858. The edifice was completed in 1879.

'MSU Has No Cong Recruits'

New York Statements Surprise Unit Head

EAST LANSING — (AP) — Statements that the May 2nd Movement is training people in Michigan to fight on the side of the Viet Cong surprised the leader of the Michigan State University chapter Tuesday.

The organization — a student group whose main purpose is to protest U.S. involvement in Viet Nam and to interest others in protesting — has staged one demonstration this fall, is making tentative plans for another and has given some undefined thought to donating blood for the North Vietnamese.

But Brian Kelleher, local leader, registered surprise when asked about the statements, reportedly made in New York. "I'm going to have to call our New York headquarters to find out what this is all about and who said it," he said.

GARBLED UP
"The only explanation I can think of is that someone said Michigan State University is training people to fight in Viet Nam and it somehow got garbled up," he added.

The MSU School of Police Administration helped South Viet Nam reorganize its National Police Force and advised the Vietnamese from 1955 to 1961, said Arthur Brandstatter, director of the school.

"And Ngo Dien Diem (former South Viet Nam president, assassinated in a coup) was a graduate assistant at MSU," said Kelleher.

"Radio Hanoi called MSU a school for spies last week," he added.

POLITICAL STUDENT

Kelleher, of New York City, is a senior in political science at Michigan State.

The idea of sending Americans to North Viet Nam to fight has been raised before, he said—but rejected as impractical.

"The only possibility is that of sending doctors and technicians to aid the North—but that idea is still in the stage of dinner table conversation," Kelleher said.

Four Arrested on Charges of Selling Dope

NILES (AP) — Four Niles area men were arrested Tuesday by federal narcotics agents and State Police in a crackdown on an alleged interstate marijuana operation.

The arrests followed six to eight weeks of surveillance during which undercover agents purchased quantities of marijuana, said Ross Ellis, Detroit district supervisor for the Federal Bureau of Narcotics.

Seized on charges of selling the contraband were Leroy Smith, 54, of Niles; James Henderson, 42, of Sodus; Charles Dilworth, 44, of Berrien Center, and Charles D. Haliburton, 50, of Eau Claire.

All were taken to Vicksburg for arraignment before U.S. Commissioner Lloyd R. Payling.

DETROIT, CHICAGO

Investigators said sales were made to buyers from Detroit and Chicago.

The State Police Rackets Squad under Sgt. Walter Sokol cooperated with the federal men.

Dilworth and Haliburton were arrested at Haliburton's home. Smith and Henderson were seized at their homes.

Thousands of Collegians Give Blood to Show Support of U.S. Viet Role

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of college students are giving blood to the armed forces with Pentagon approval as a gesture of support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The junior class at Washington State University collected 750 pints in three days. Hundreds more were turned away for health reasons.

A "bleed-in" is being organized by the Denver Center of Colorado University.

"We wanted to show that not all college students rush around saying 'no' to everything," said sophomore Bill Van Pelt of Denver, drive organizer.

CONG SUPPLIES

Pentagon approval came as it was revealed that the May 2nd Movement prepared to raise funds to send medical supplies to the Communist Viet Cong.

the movement, who called the United States the "aggressor" in Viet Nam, said his group had "the go-ahead" from the International Red Cross to send the supplies. He did not elaborate on "the go-ahead."

Students at more than a dozen American universities and colleges across the nation are involved in blood drives. The drives came into being after the anti-Viet Nam demonstrations.

The Defense Department said Tuesday it has asked the American Red Cross to collect the blood donations. A defense spokesman said that while the blood is not needed in Viet Nam, it will be used for military requirements within the United States.

2,000 SIGNERS

He said the first collections will be made early next month at the University of Illinois, where 2,000 volunteer donors have signed up.

"We've had several inquiries already from groups on other campuses who want to provide donations," said Philip Hinnerberger, 22, of Alton, Ill., president of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity at Illinois, sponsors of the drive.

The SAE chapter at Millikin University in Decatur, Ill., is planning a community-wide drive for blood donations.

In Berkeley, Cherkoss said that sending medical supplies to the Communist Viet Cong would be a "concrete political act against U.S. imperialism."

NEW MOVEMENTS

He said the drive to aid this country's enemy would begin at Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif. "Depending on the success of the program at Stanford," Cherkoss said, movement chapters at San Francisco State College, Sacramento State College and the University of California will start similar fund drives.

The movement takes its name from a demonstration on May 2, 1964, which it claims was the first against U.S. intervention in Viet Nam.

New Dixie Protests Are Being Planned

ATLANTA, Ga. (UP)—A series of conferences behind closed doors in Atlanta set the stage for possible new racial demonstrations in the South and what could be a solution to the school desegregation problem in Georgia's Tallapoosa County.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. cut short a European tour to return to Atlanta Tuesday because, he said, he was "outraged at the acquittal of Collier Leroy Wilkins in Hayneville, Ala."

The Negro integration leader reported a similar reaction in Europe to the jury's verdict last Friday in the case of the 22-year-old Ku Klux Klansman charged with the slaying of Viola Liuzzo, a Detroit civil rights worker.

"It appears urgent that the civil rights movement must voice all its influence in insisting on the proper administration of justice," King said. "I think it necessary to dramatize what has happened at a very high level and Hayneville occupies a symbolic position."

MADE PLANS

Then he met with his aides in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference to plan the demonstrations. In Paris Sunday, King called for a march "by the thousands on the courthouses of the South to obtain justice."

SCLC members have been active recently in demonstrations protesting school segregation at Crawfordville, Ga., the Tallapoosa County seat.

Attorneys Howard Moore Jr. and Donald L. Hollowell met for two hours with U.S. Circuit Court Judge Griffin B. Bell in Atlanta. They said a state plan to bus Tallapoosa County Negro pupils to other counties with white pupils would not be satisfactory.

Clues Hunted in Air Crash Near Jackson

JACKSON (UPI)—The search for pieces of a six-passenger private jet plane continued in Leoni Township today as officials made plans to attempt to reconstruct the aircraft to determine what caused it to crash.

The plane, built by Lear Jet Corp. of Wichita, Kan., plunged to destruction last Thursday night, carrying two test pilots to their deaths while it was on a routine postmaintenance test flight.

Bill L. Abram, principal operational inspector of the Federal Aviation Agency, said it would take six months or a year before the cause of the mishap can be determined.

He and the FAA will investigate whether the plane fell short of standards for safety procedures, design of the aircraft and pilot proficiency.

Abram said when all the obtainable facts are collected they will be forwarded to the Civil Aeronautics Board which will attempt to determine the cause of the crash.

NO STATEMENT

A spokesman for Lear said the company would have no further statements to make about the crash until the official investigation is made public.

The attorneys said the Negro school would not solve the problem. They recommended transferring certain Negro pupils to schools in Warren, Wilkes or Green counties. In Washington, the Wilkes County seat, 45 civil rights workers marched through almost deserted streets for a courthouse rally. The two-mile march was heavily guarded by state police.

RULINGS WAIT

Bell took the objections under advisement and indicated a ruling would be handed down in August, along with a three-judge federal court's review of Purcell's plan.

The school superintendent said the reopening of Crawfordville's halt. He did not hit anyone.

DeGaulle Decision Due Nov. 4

PARIS (UP)—President Charles de Gaulle will reveal Nov. 4—the Feast Day of St. Charles—whether or not he will seek reelection to another seven-year term on Dec. 5, it was announced today.

The date of his nationwide radio and television speech was disclosed by information minister Alain Peyrefitte after today's regular cabinet meeting.

It was still anybody's guess what de Gaulle's decision would be, although French sources said virtually all members of the government believed he would announce he has decided to run again, despite the fact he will be 75 on Nov. 22.

French sources said that, until last spring, de Gaulle's cabinet was completely divided on his second-term plans. But they said that, in recent weeks, it has been generally assumed he will run again.

The stars said that, in the first three months of this year, he appeared to favor a second term himself.

But he apparently had second thoughts between April and June. Then in July, it was said, he seemed to have changed his mind again and to have decided it is his duty to run again.

However, aides who see de Gaulle frequently, warned that a bombshell decision not to run cannot be ruled out. They recalled that on a number of occasions in the past—among them when he suddenly quit politics in 1946—he has completely surprised his aides and advisers.

There have been reports that de Gaulle might announce he plans to stay in office only a year or so if he is reelected. Informed French sources said this is most unlikely. They said he might announce, however, that he plans to do so as long as his mental and physical powers hold out.

U.S. to Help Streamline Local, State Law Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — At precinct headquarters, a policeman checks an instrument panel to see if the doors of all merchants in the area are locked for the night.

On the street, a patrolman takes careful aim at a fleeing suspect, fires his weapon and brings him down, asleep and unarmed — with a tranquilizer dart.

In a classroom, a seasoned police chief studiously takes notes in a course in public relations, personnel management and cost accounting.

If this doesn't sound like any police department you've ever heard of, wait a while — it may figure in police work of the future. The federal government is pitching in to try to streamline law enforcement at state and local levels as part of the Johnson administration's "war on crime."

CRIME IN STREETS

After long years of staying out of "crime in the streets," the federal government is going to spend $7,249,000 in hopes of modernizing police department, court and correctional practices.

"Of course, we're not going to do it all in the three-year life of the Law Enforcement Assistance Act," said Courtney A. Evans, a former FBI official who has been given the job of putting the new law to work and earmarking the federal money for local projects.

"We're just hoping the little bit of money we can invest will result in substantial benefits to many persons beyond the immediate field of law enforcement," Evans, 51, said in an interview. "Perhaps we can set up some models in law enforcement for others to copy and record and disseminate what's been learned so that it becomes the literature of law enforcement."

Evans expects the first demonstration grants will be distributed in January and will range between $20,000 and $150,000.

NEW LAW

Much of the impetus for application of the new law will come from suggestions of the National and District of Columbia crime commissions, Evans said. Meanwhile his office plans to recruit a panel of scientists to study the application of modern science to law enforcement.

"I think we have to generate additional, radically new applications of scientific methods to law enforcement," he said.

"Police still go on patrols in 1965 as they did in 1700, and patrols are primarily used to prevent and detect crime."

"Why can't we develop a whole new field of scientific research devoted to law enforcement just as we did when we decided to explore outer space?"

Evans cited continuous electronic surveillance of a neighborhood at night as a sample of what the scientist might do for the policeman.

EX-FBI AIDE

The former assistant director of the FBI, who retired last year to begin his own law practice, envisions schools where police executives will be exposed to the best modern business methods.

"We're not going to take these experienced men and put them through a law enforcement course," he said. "But they should know the best methods of running a big organization, principles of budgeting and personnel management and cost accounting. And they could learn something about public relations and how to give their product the best possible image."

Evans feels the program, to be successful, must depend on the suggestions and initiative of local, county and state authorities.

Will Evans' former chief, FBI

Director J. Edgar Hoover, cooperate?

"I have no doubt the FBI will be involved," Evans said. "I can't imagine it expanding its National Academy from 200 to 1,200 police officers without wanting to use it to test new procedures. The FBI always has played a prominent role in this field, and I'm sure it will continue to do so."

Salt Water Converter

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Tuxedo, N.Y., firm — Linde division of Union Carbide Corp. — has been awarded a $170,568 contract to design construct and test a new high thermal efficiency evaporator for use in saline water conversion.

During $2.4-Million Expansion

Hudson's Is Going at Full Tilt

Sometimes when a store expands, it is necessary to shut down existing facilities for at least a short period of time.

However, this is not the case in the proposed $2.4-million J. L. Hudson Co. expansion program at Pontiac Mall.

Hudson's Budget Store is open and operating at full capacity, emphasizes Manager Robert Greening, even though 10,000 square feet of floor space has been chopped off to make room for the huge addition.

Even when the budget store is relocated into a new base, thought the budget store was closed.

"It's still convenient to shop or makethrift about our operation now," he said, explaining expressed some concern over that all of the same merchandise is being sold even though the store is somewhat smaller in size.

STILL SELLING

"There's nothing temporary about our operation now," he said, explaining expressed some concern over that all of the same merchandise is being sold even though the store is somewhat smaller in size.

In fact, it has only been reduced from an 84,000 to a 74,000-square-foot area.

Construction plans call for expansion of the present one-story building into a full-line department store with two floors and a basement.

The addition, which also will house six fashion shops, will consist of 200,000 square feet of floor space.

BANK EXPANSION

The Community National Bank will also expand its present branch at the Mall.

Upon completion of construction, the Mall will be the third largest shopping center in the Detroit metropolitan area and the largest enclosed shopping center in Michigan with more than one million square feet.

The first floor will offer a broad variety of women's, and children's fashions and accessories, sporting goods, a drug and sundry department, books and stationery and other departments.

The second floor will provide home needs including furniture, home furnishings, housewares and related merchandise and a toy department and service area.

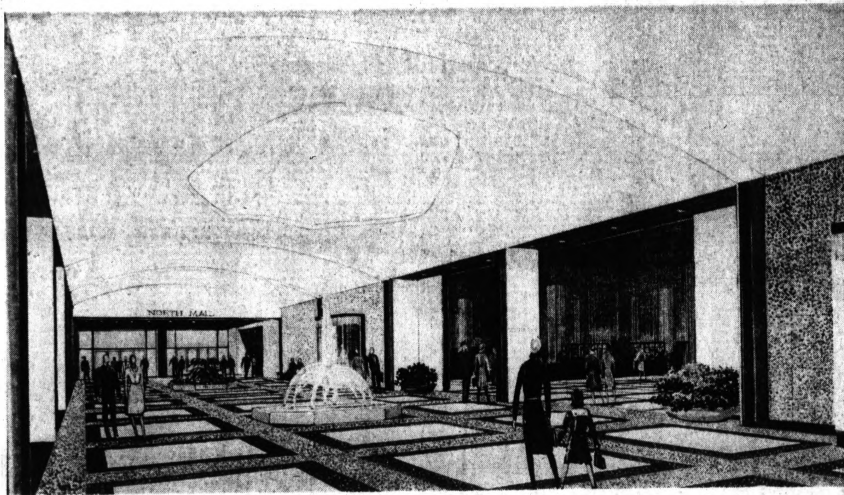

PONTIAC ROOM

The "Pontiac Room," a new Hudson restaurant, also will be located on the second floor, according to a company spokesman.

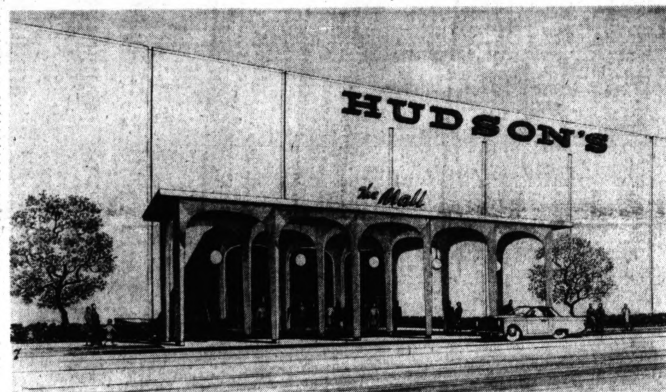

The basement will house a modern beauty salon in addition to budget store offices and service facilities.

A new entrance on Elizabeth Lake Road will lead into an air-conditioned mall from where customers can enter Hudson's or the fashion shops.

Hudson's present entrances will continue in use.

INTERIOR VIEW — Large plants and a water fountain, as sketched by the architect, Charles N. Agree, Inc., of Detroit, beautify a hallway of the projected J. L. Hudson-Pontiac Mall expansion program. Completion of the $2.4-million addition is earmarked for the spring of 1967.

NEW ENTRANCE — This is the architect's drawing of the proposed new main entrance to the Pontiac Mall. Located on Elizabeth Lake Road, the entrance will lead into the new J. L. Hudson Co. addition, currently under construction, and several planned fashion shops. Hudson's present entrances also will be in use, company officials note.

6 New Shops in Mall Plans

4 Will Be Women's Ready-to-Wear

Winkelman's Brothers Apparel, Inc., and five other shops will be built as part of the Pontiac Mall-J. L. Hudson Co. $2.4-million expansion program.

Mall officials indicated that four of the shops, including Winkelman's will be women's ready-to-wear stores.

Also scheduled to be constructed are a fabric shop and, tentatively, a shoe store.

The Winkelman's store will augment the company's present store, two blocks from the Mall.

Details will be announced at a later date, said Mannie Hartman, senior vice president.

Winkelman's is planning to add a minimum of 15 new outlets to its present 46 stores by 1970.

The expansion is aimed primarily at regional shopping centers throughout Michigan and Ohio.

A spokesman disclosed that long-range plans for the Mall call for a Northland-type area, including theaters, bowling alleys, medical facilities and automobile dealerships.

Blankets to Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agency for International Development says it is sending thousands of blankets to refugees in South Viet Nam.

CNB Branch Doubling Its Teller Space

The $60,000 Community National Bank expansion program at Pontiac Mall will double the capacity of the tellers' service and office space, according to a company spokesman.

Upon completion—earmarked for January or February—there will be 12 tellers' cages instead of the present six.

Subsequently, from five to seven additional persons will be employed.

At present, the branch bank employs 16 persons—eight per shift.

The expansion will increase floor space at the bank from 31,000 to 32,000 square feet.

TERRIFIC VOLUME

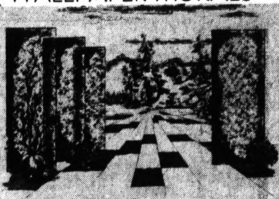

The spokesman noted the "terrific volume" of business at the bank's Mall branch especially during the evening hours.

The bank is open from 11:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday.

Lack of Imagination Laid to Communists

JAKARTA (AP) — Not much imagination went into a flag the Communists prepared to fly if the Oct. 1 coup succeeded. The official news agency Antara said the flag found by mobs ransacking a party headquarters in Saigon had simply a hammer and sickle imposed on the Indonesian national red and white banner.

Cost Equals Entire Budget for Fiscal '32

'Great Society' Could Affect Millions

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Among far-reaching programs approved by the first session of the 89th Congress was the administration's ambitious anti-poverty project. This third of five articles examines the subject, and delves into housing programs and beautification as well.)

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Poverty-stricken women with a knack for making fruitcake, but no customers; the worker whose assembly line world has collapsed because of automation; the girl too embarrassed to go to school because her shoes are worn out; the fatherless child for whom breakfast is something other people eat.

The motorist irked by billboards between him and autumn's splendors; the soul who finds enjoyment in music, painting, ballet, theater; the man in a hurry wondering how to get from place to place in megapolis; the nature-lover bemoaning the reported slaughter of wildlife by pesticides.

All these people and millions more could be affected, in greater or lesser degree, by what President Johnson calls the "Great Society" measures passed at the first session of the 89th Congress.

It was a session in which appropriations for all purposes hit a peacetime high of $118 billion; in which one supplemental appropriation of $4.7 billion, to help finance 35 "Great Society" programs and other activities, equaled the entire cost of government in the fiscal year 1932.

LEAP FORWARD

While critics cried "Peder-nales panacea" and accused the Johnson administration of a mammoth boondoggle, Congress took what the President's backers called "a great leap forward" in social welfare. Peder-nales is the name of the river at the Johnson Texas ranch.

Almost doubled was the money for Sargent Shriver's anti-poverty campaign—from $800 million last fiscal year to $1.5 billion this year. However, the project operated only seven months last year, so the monthly spending rate stays about the same.

The multitudinous projects of the Office of Economic Opportunity include:

Community action programs—these, ranging from education in the three R's to job training to clean-up-the-block campaigns, are sort of revolutionary, in that by law poor people must sit on the policy-making committees. There has been much pulling and hauling with established powers-that-be. But Shriver aides say that in Clarkdale, Miss., a Negro civil rights worker sits on a committee with a White Citizens Council man.

COLLEGE-AGE FOLKS

VISTA—This is short for Volunteers in Service To America. It is a "domestic Peace Corps," composed mostly of college-age folks, with a sprinkling of retired elderly. Its workers teach the children of migrant laborers, introduce modern cookery and dressmaking to Indian women on reservations, show a town how to get federal funds for a hospital, help retrain the jobless of Appalachia's hills.

Job Corps—The trick here is to train youths for jobs that actually exist. Emphasis is on such trades as welding—there's a crying shortage of welders; mechanics who can do simple auto repairs; hotel jobs; small boat repairs and cookery. At Camp Kilmer, N.J., a veteran Navy cook is reading books to be chefs at hotels and motels.

Neighborhood Youth Corps—The aim is to prevent school dropouts by providing part-time jobs. In some towns, youngsters work in libraries; at Passaic, N.J., they help clean a polluted river; on Cape Cod, Mass., they build jetties against beach erosion. Wage: the legal minimum of $1.25 an hour. "This helps," said an anti-poverty official, "because how can a kid go to school if he has no shoes."

In retraining adult workers, pitfalls must be watched for. Recently, in New York City, 40 men were trained to maintain air conditioners. But the water-short city clamped restrictions on air conditioning, and the expected jobs did not materialize.

SORE SPOT

For one of the nation's sorest economic sore spots—Appalachia, stretching from northern Pennsylvania to Alabama—Congress authorized a $1.1-billion five-year program.

The impoverished mountain folk, and coal miners passed by in automation's progress, will get a chance to help build an $840-million highway network. The aim is to open up hills and valleys for industry and recreation.

HE'S ALL BALLED UP—Little 22-month-old Doug Curtis of Mount Holly, N.J., actually is up to his chin in popcorn as he samples a huge popcorn ball made by his father. The father explained that he was making popcorn balls and "it sorta got away from me." At any rate, son Doug had a ball.

$7.5-billion housing authorization bill, featured by a proposed new departure in the form of rent subsidies.

However, the start of these new subsidies was delayed at least until next year when the House looked at supplying funds. This was a setback for the Johnson administration.

OTHER FEATURES

The housing program has many other features, such as grants up to $1,500 to home owners with incomes of $3,000 or less, to repair their rundown properties; provision for 240,000 units of public housing, 100,000 of which might be obtained by buying or renting existing homes. This could be a boon to the central core of cities, where big old houses are often a wasting asset.

The problems of the cities were much on the mind of Congress. It created an 11th Cabinet department, the Department of Housing and Urban Development. For the moment, it amounts to little more than a changing of nameplates on doors, a regrouping of existing functions.

But for the future, it undoubtedly spells greatly increased attention to the problems of cities, in which 70 per cent of Americans now live.

Transportation, for example. Experts say that a motorist, bucking New York traffic, is lucky if he travels across the city at an average of nine miles an hour.

$90-MILLION STUDY

What happens when megalopolis, a vast city, stretches from Norfolk, Va., to Portland, Maine? Seeking an answer, Congress set up a $90-million study and demonstration program. Emphasis at first will be on high-speed rail transport between Washington and Boston, perhaps eventually whisking passengers at 150 miles an hour.

For the highway traveler who does not fancy billboards, Congress passed Lady Bird Johnson's beautiful highways bill, but the billboard lobby was active, and the measure was a compromise.

It requires states to initiate billboard and junk yard controls along the interstate and primary systems by Jan. 1, 1968. If they don't, they lose 10 per cent of their federal highway aid funds.

Owners of signs which must go, or auto graveyards which must be screened or removed, will be compensated mostly by federal funds. The measure calls for removal of all signs on the primary system, except in designated "commercial or industrial" areas, and on the premises of businesses doing the advertising.

AUDIENCE OF CELEBRITIES

If, against the billboard lobby, nature lovers did not score an unqualified breakthrough, it was otherwise with those who have argued that the federal government should do more to support the arts.

Before a star-studded audience of Hollywood performers, artists, poets and other humanists, President Johnson signed a $21-million-a-year, three-year bill to set up a national foundation for the arts and humanities.

Johnson announced plans to create a national repository theatre to bring ancient and modern classics to the people; support national opera and ballet companies, and subsidize artists to work in schools and universities.

And for the nature lover, Congress authorized a study of the effect of pesticides on fish and wildlife. Thus the nation may know whether it really faces the menace pictured by the late biologist Rachel Carson, in her book "The Silent Spring."

Myth: Society Will Be Older

Population Analysis Debunks Pet Theory

By Science Service
CHICAGO — The widely accepted belief that man's capacity to survive to a ripe old age is creating an oversized older population appears to be mythical.

In an analysis of the U. S. population at the American Public Health Association meeting here, it was revealed that mortality rates in themselves really have little effect on the population.

Major changes are in growth and age and result mainly from the birth rate.

The relative importance of mortality and fertility was reported by Albert I. Herman of Princeton University, who made a study under a partial grant from the National Institute of Mental Health.

Mr. Herman surveyed the effect of fewer deaths from 1900 to 1960. Using these statistics, he estimated the future effect of long life-spans on the U. S. population.

NO GREAT CHANGE

He concluded that a decline in death rate from 1960 figures will not change the population to any great extent, either in size or age.

In the first half of the 20th century, the greatest advances in staving off death benefited the young — especially young women capable of having children.

The effect of declining mortality was to increase the population, considerably and also make it younger. One life saved actually meant three or four.

Now advances are expected to occur primarily in the over-50 segment of the population. Their increased longevity will have very slight effect on population growth, reports Mr. Herman.

FOR INSTANCE

For instance, if not a single woman should die between 1965 and 2000 and if there were a low birth rate — about 2,500 babies per 1,000 women — the female population would increase only by 5 million or three per cent, over what would be the case should current trends continue. Women now have something like 3,500 children per thousand.

Mr. Herman estimates that there probably will be a smaller proportion of people over 65 in the year 2000 than there are now.

Stretcher-Bearers Carry Wounded To Aid Station

Rescue Helicopters Mean Blood, Agony at Aid Areas

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

BIEN HOA, Viet Nam (NEA) — The men of the aid station sat, backs to tent poles and feet spread like 20 minutes to four. They slept, they scratched, they carved holes in the dirt with their heels.

"It's quiet," said Capt. Buck Harper, M.D. "That's a bad sign."

It was midday and the heat of it had cooked the breeze from the countryside.

What air that did stir was putrid with farmland manure left to sizzle in the sun.

The cats were occupied by camp patients mostly; a sore foot, a headache, an upset stomach.

IN ONE CORNER But in one corner a Vietnamese mother wept and smoothed the hair of her 4-year-old son.

He and a playmate had stepped on an area mine. The pal died. The boy was left with hamburger on the inside of his legs.

"How bad is the boy, captain?" somebody asked.

"He'll live," was the reply. "Only he'll never father a family."

COPTER CLATTER

The clatter of a helicopter interrupted...

"Cap'n," the radio man said, "rescue copter's coming in."

"What's aboard?" "Litter cases."

"Damn. I knew it was too quiet."

Eyes squinted up. The bird had appeared from nowhere, as was his habit, and began to land.

GIANT BLADES

Its giant blades picked up dirt and debris and hurled it against the aid men who had turned tail to the force of the wind.

The cargo doors flew open and small rivers of blood spilled on the ground to introduce the passengers.

A man with a gaping hole in his face staggered out unassisted. Four others had to be carried.

"You, hey, you," cried the copter pilot. "Get us some water buckets."

"Water? What?"

INCH OF BLOOD

"We got an inch of blood on the floor of this thing. Swab it out. All hell's breaking loose in the hills. We gotta get right back."

Hell was also breaking loose in the aid tent.

"God help me," mumbled a man on a stretcher.

Blood was everywhere. Men slipped on it. A jeep driver became ill.

THREAD OF RED

The man shot in the face sat bent over, a steady unbroken thread of red dripping from his mouth. Now and then he spat out a tooth or a chunk of flesh.

Another man's leg jerked uncontrollably.

One sergeant had no cot, so he sat on a stool and painstakingly counted the puncture holes in his mutilated legs.

"Won't somebody get me some water?" a private pleaded.

"GOTTA WAIT"

"You gotta wait, man," he was told. "You know you gotta wait."

In combat, suffering is personal misery. One man's wound, regardless of degree, is invariably less than somebody else's.

Aid men act not with courtesy or favor but with speed and proficiency. They must only remain impersonal, professional.

A shot of morphine, a wet rag, a hunk of gauze...

HAVEN'T TIME

"Our job is to see they don't die," says Dr. Buck Harper, 173rd Airborne Brigade. "We haven't the time, the men nor the facilities to do much else. Sometimes we can't even stop the pain."

"In a few minutes as possible, we have to sort them out, decide the more serious, patch them up temporarily and then get them back to a larger hospital."

"Sometimes you can't get them all back at once. So I have to choose. And I have to choose right."

The bleeding began to subside and the dull, quiet hurt set in.

GROAN, PRAYER

The private groaned and prayed. The sergeant quit counting his holes.

"My feet," a man whispered. "I can't feel my feet."

"They're there, boy," he was told. "Believe me, they're there."

This activated enzyme then brings about the release inside the cell of a special chemical, nicknamed cyclic amp.

NEW YORK — Driving your car, you almost have a terrible accident.

And almost instantly, your heart speeds up.

Your heart, of course, couldn't "see" the threat. Neither could the glands inside you that spurted out adrenalin to make your heart start thumping.

Then how does such an astonishingly quick reaction come about?

CHAIN OF EVENTS

The answer is fantastic. For at least eight separate events take place, in chain sequence, in perhaps three seconds or less.

The story is another example of the remarkable workings of the human body, plus new insights as to how vital hormones, such as adrenalin, really do their jobs. It's also an example of basic medical research digging ever deeper toward knowledge that might lead to new means of safeguarding human health.

As for those eight steps:

1. Your eyes spot danger, and register images in your brain, so you slam on brakes, steer away, or just luckily escape collision.

2. Your brain flashes nerve signals to your adrenal glands, sitting atop your kidneys, as well as to your heart and various other organs.

3. The nerve impulses stimulate the adrenals to release some adrenalin—about 1,000 times as much as when you're just resting—and stimulate nerve endings in the heart to release some nonadrenalin. Adrenalin and nonadrenalin are the hormones that mobilize energy to fight or run away.

4. The hormones reach the muscle cells of your heart.

5. But they don't act within these cells, and this is one new finding. Instead, they activate an enzyme, or chemical governor, which appears to be located in the cell membrane or wall.

BRINGS RELEASE

6. This activated enzyme then brings about the release inside the cell of a special chemical, nicknamed cyclic amp.

7. Cyclic amp then activates one or more enzymes inside heart muscle cells.

8. And this enzyme — or enzymes — actually does the job of making your heart speed up and work harder — all because of what your eyes saw an instant ago.

Hormones are chemical messengers playing powerful roles in maintaining health and normal body functions. Different hormones are produced by the adrenals, the sex glands, the pituitary, and other glands. Each hormone affects only one or a few body organs or tissues.

CARRY MESSAGE

Now, from research at Vanderbilt University, it appears that hormones carry their messages only part way. Upon reaching their target organ, they turn over the job of delivering the message to a kind of errand boy inside cells of the organ. And this errand boy is cyclic amp.

This chemical can mimic or do the job of at least some hormones, the researchers find.

These new studies of hormone action were described to the American Chemical Society recently by a team of Vanderbilt researchers, including Dr. Earl W. Sutherland, who first discovered amp; and Dr. R. W. Butcher and G. Alan Robison.

Cyclic amp seems to mediate or control the action of a variety of hormones, they said.

COURSE OF ACTION

This, they believe, is what happens:

A hormone, when it reaches its target organ, first activates a complex enzyme system, known as adenylyl cyclase. This interaction increases the amount of cyclic amp inside the cells. The amp then "tells" special enzymes within the cells to get busy and follow the instructions of the hormone.

At any one time, numerous hormones may be circulating in the blood, reaching all organs. Then why don't all organs and cells react to every hormone, willy-nilly?

The answer, the researchers think, is that the adenylyl cyclase molecule has a slightly different shape in the heart, the liver, the uterus, or other organs, so that it will respond only to the hormone it is supposed to accept.

Water Under Arabia

By Science Service

ROME — Still relatively fresh and cool, 40,000-year-old rainwater has been found beneath the boiling desert of Saudi Arabia.

These vast reservoirs of precious water, in saturated layers some 1,500 feet beneath the surface, can be tapped to meet the country's needs for many years, water experts of the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) of the United Nations report here.

An investigation of this water resource has begun with a million dollar agreement between the Saudi Arabian government and FAO, which will provide technical advice and training to develop the water resources lying under 700,000 square miles of the country.

New geophysical instruments, superior drilling equipment and methods developed in searching for Arabia's rich fields of petroleum and natural gas will be used to locate the water reservoirs, by the Saudi Arabian government.

These reservoirs have been slowly accumulating as rainfall has seeped downward over thousands of years.

Experts estimate that some of the water has been there for at least 40,000 years. Tests show that, thanks to the normal filtering and purification phenomena, the water is of good quality, although there are some areas where the water is salty.

The deserts of Saudi Arabia are dry and dusty, with less than an inch of rainfall a year, compared to 30 to 40 inches on an average for Europe.

Saudi Arabia, is about as large as Europe. It is one of the few large countries in the world which has no real rivers or permanent water courses.

Delinquents Also a Viet Problem

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — As in many Western countries, Viet Nam is beset by a surging wave of juvenile delinquency and the problem is what to do about it.

Col. Pham Van Lieu, director general of national police, said in a speech that police arrested 1,413 hoodlums and rowdies last year, and almost that number—1,225—in only the first six months of 1965.

Lieu compared Viet Nam's delinquents with the English Teddy Boys and the French Blousons Noirs.

Young hoodlums in Saigon are called cowboys. Many have individualistic haircuts, often thick with pomade. They display a sullen air and usually go about in small gangs.

CRIME LIST

Purse snatching is one of their most frequent minor offenses. They often assault police. Their crimes range from brawling, general disorderliness and theft to stabbing, shooting, murder and rape.

Saigon's crowded streets and bars, with many dark side streets and alleys, offer a wide scope of operation. Police have announced the breakup of a free love club among students. A Saigon paper said the club's activities were designed to promote "wild parties and free association."

Lieu named the war as one of the main causes for Viet Nam's growing juvenile problem. He also listed a lack of education, broken homes and inadequate parental supervision, depraved literature, and sexy movies.

He also said the Communists were scheming to exploit unrest in major cities.

PROPOSED CURES

His remedies were those often heard in discussions of juvenile delinquency elsewhere: compulsory primary education, vocational training and more technical schools, a ban on obscene literature and films. He urged church and social organizations to aid in fighting the problem.

Aden: Independecne Now

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In the face of continuing terrorism, Britain last month suspended the constitution of the colony of Aden, perched on the southern tip of the Arabian Peninsula and considered the most important British base between the Mediterranean and the Far East. A UPI reporter in the following dispatch describes the strategic city and the troubles encountered there.)

By DAVID DUGAS

ADEN (UPI) — A local joke is that the first men on the moon will find it uninhabitable "because it will be just like Aden."

The colony also has been described as located in an "unfortunate extinct volcano," but it is the location that makes it vital to the British.

Through the long summer, Aden steams in 105-degree temperatures and intense humidity. In the winter there is virtually no rain but the air cools down to the 80s. Almost no one has running hot water because in Aden the cold is hot enough.

For entertainment, there are a few beautiful sandy beaches and they draw crowds the year around despite the constant menace of sharks. The 10-year television station now allows residents to watch films of recent rioting and less exciting American serials.

The Old Rock Hotel now has a new rooftop supper club with a commanding air-conditioned view of the spectacular harbor. An Italian colony's frequent renovations of the twist only remind one how far this oasis is from London or New York.

Aden in fact is perched on the southern tip of the Arabian peninsula, 100 miles east of the entrance to the Red Sea. Only its strategic location explains why Queen Victoria sent a gunboat to claim it for Britain in 1839.

LIVE ON TRADING

In those days, a mere handful of Bedouin Arabs managed to live here on trading. Today, Aden colony has a population of nearly 250,000, including 12,000 British forces, 8,000 European civilians who are mostly British service families, 30,000 Indians and Pakistanis, and 20,000 Somalis. The Arab population is made up of about 100,000 Adenis and other South Arabian Arabs and 80,000 Yemenis.

Surrounding the colony are a series of British-protected sultanates and sheikhdoms with some 750,000 tribesmen scattered over an area larger than the United Kingdom.

The relatively sophisticated, highly unionized, Arabs of Aden colony enjoy a surprisingly good life for this harsh part of the world. But the trouble is that Aden, in an era of rampant Arab nationalism and anticolonialism, finds itself the worst of pariahs — a British colony and British military base.

The British have promised Aden independence by 1968 but want to keep the base, their most important between the Mediterranean and the Far East.

FEDERATING PLAN

Hoping to make this possible, they set out six years ago on a plan of federating the colony with the surrounding protectorate states, whose rulers rely on the British to maintain their power.

Most Adeni politicians want immediate independence and complete British withdrawal. They oppose the whole idea of a south Arabian federation on grounds it would give power to the tribal rulers of the protectorate and perpetuate Britain's presence.

Pressure against the British has increased ever since September, 1962 when the dormant monarchy in neighboring Yemen fell in an army Republican coup. It proved a major victory for Britain's arch enemy in the Middle East, Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser, who was invited to send troops to support the new regime.

Nasser had long held the support of key Adeni politicians, yet the British remained, as strong as ever. To speed their departure, he organized the so-called National Liberation Front in southern Yemen. Backed with Egyptian money, arms and cadres of Yemenis trained and sent into Aden, it has become the most powerful and feared element in Adeni politics.

BACKED NLF

It has been blamed for, and claimed credit for, most of the terrorism. The Adeni political leaders meanwhile have backed the NLF, either out of fear or because they see it as a usefully winning British withdrawal.

By suspending the constitution and imposing strict security measures, the British have now declared open warfare against the NLF. If they can crush it, they argue, the Adeni politicians can return to their earlier, more moderate, position and plans for the federation can proceed.

To most foreigners, and many Yemenis, the federation makes sense. Aden colony itself has no natural resources except its harbor and some salt. It has no army.

The protectorate states, on the other hand, have an army and newly irrigated farmlands that now feed much of the colony. It may even have oil; at least that is the claim of Americans now looking for it in the outlying deserts.

Aden colony's lunar landscape gives everything here an aura of unreality matched only by its political situation.

GREAT YEMEN

The NLF, for example, aims to absorb Aden and south Arabia into a greater Yemen, a move that would overwhelm the Adenis and their politicians with six million poor and less developed Yemenis.

The anti-British Aden Trade Union Congress (ATUC), led by Abdullah Asnag, demands withdrawal of the British base although its largest union, 1,800-member forces union employed on the base, would be thrown out of work by the move.

Other Adenis would feel the British withdrawal in their pocketbooks, too. Besides the $100 million British now spends annually on maintenance of the base, another $35 million is spent in Aden on salaries and goods.

TEMPORARY VICTORY

Weeks after suspending the constitution, indications are that the British are winning at least a temporary victory over the terrorists and politicians. A 48-hour petroleum strike passed peacefully and with little effect. A schoolboy demonstration was snuffed in the bud. A few bombs have gone off but without causing serious damage or injury.

But on a wall at the office of the British High Commissioner hangs a map of Aden with marks for each bomb explosion, grenade attack and assassination attempt since the terrorist campaign began nearly two years ago.

It shows, at a glance, how difficult it has become for the British to remain here. But anyone can see that by driving, as I did some days ago, from Aden airport to a hotel.

BRITISH SOLDIERS

Along the hot, dusty main streets, lined with shops and cookie-cutter apartment houses, British soldiers walk with their rifles and sten guns. The weapons are not slung casually over their shoulders but held firmly and grimly in their hands so that as you pass them the barrel points briefly, impersonally, at you.

Along the incongruously modern divided highway, which might have been imported from Los Angeles, there are road blocks where more British soldiers peer into cars and trucks.

A European, American or Indian is instantly waved on sometimes with an embarrassed smile or remark ("sorry"). But a carload of Arabs may be searched down to their bones and axles for a hidden weapon or bomb.

Over lunch at the house of a friend we hear a dull boom in the distance. It can be another terrorist attack — or just blasting at a nearby quarry.

Conversation turns automatically to the most recent incidents and precautions a resident has to take — little everyday things like locking doors and windows to keep from being murdered.

The terror began dramatically in December 1963 when a bomb at Aden airport killed an Indian woman and Aden's deputy high commissioner. Attacks have been intermittent since 1958.

For Underprivileged Child

A 'Head Start' Is Not Enough

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D. Emergency programs are not the sole answer to the problems of educationally disadvantaged children.

It is true that a six-week program aimed at giving these children reading into kindergarten ten does give them a better start. Unfortunately, their background in word usage and ideas cannot be brought up to the level of the children who live in more fortunate circumstances.

In fact, home environment continues to exert a powerful influence on a child's attitude toward school. The use of good English, as well as the activities carried on by both children and adults in some homes, give some children a distinct advantage over the less fortunate ones.

The line, and the problem was appropriately attacked simultaneously at several age levels. It was necessary to do something immediately without taking time for long-range planning.

BEING REVISED

These programs are now being revised and corrected in the light of the first successes and failures.

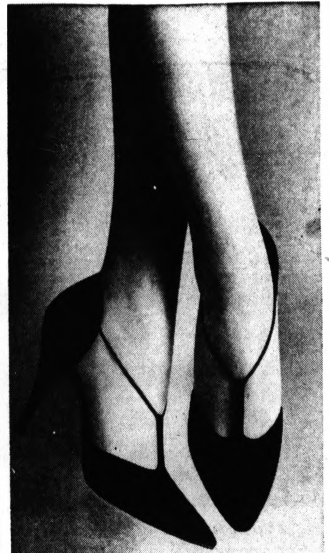

It is hoped that, as there is more time available for planning, provisions will be made for continuity in the support and help for individual children. This should not be considered solely the responsibility of the Mall Exhibiting 'Accent on Elegance'

$100,000 'GEM' — Valued at more than $100,000, this gem-studded necklace is on display at the Pontiac Mall as part of its "Accent on Elegance" celebration today through Saturday. The necklace is included in a $750,000 exhibit shown through the courtesy of Rose Jewelers.

On exhibit during the Pontiac Mall's "Accent on Elegance" celebration today through Saturday are a jewelry collection, Currier and Ives original prints and six Bernard Buffet originals.

Rose Jewelers, Finger's Art Supplies and the Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co. of Columbus, Ohio, are sponsoring the exhibits.

The $750,000 jewelry display, featuring diamonds, sapphires and emeralds, is from a world-famous New York collection, said Mall officials.

Some pieces contain as many as 100 carats of diamonds in marquise, pear, baguette, round, emerald and square cuts.

Included in the collection are pins, bracelets and necklaces. Individual pieces are valued as high as $150,000.

OTHER EXHIBITS

The collection has previously been exhibited in London, Paris, California and Texas.

Mall officials believe it is the most costly group of gems ever brought to the Pontiac area.

The exhibit will be transported by courier and will be under Pinkerton guard at all times.

Original prints turned out by Currier and Ives were commonplace in American homes 100 years ago, according to officials of Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co. of Columbus, Ohio — owner of the large collection.

PRINTS RARE

However, they point out that today these prints are rare and growing in value.

Some of these prints depict rustic beauty, a favorite subject of Currier and Ives artists. Winter scenes — used extensively on Christmas cards — will also be on display.

Many Currier and Ives originals cost several hundred dollars today and some are valued at more than $1,000.

A century ago, they sold for as little as six cents and rarely for more than $3.

BUSINESSMEN FIRST

Currier and Ives were businessmen first and artists second. They sold popular and cheap prints for the people, according to the Nationwide officials.

Because their pictures were made to sell, there was an absence of pretense in them.

They are valued today not only because they are rare, but because of their simple scenes of 19th century American life as the artists saw them: Art without artifice; a mirror of the times.

Buffet's lithographs — depicting Parisian scenes — and an original oil painting by Marc Chagall were brought to the Pontiac Mall through the courtesy of Finger's Art Supplies.

POSTWAR GENERATION

The artist Buffet is called the voice of the postwar generation of France. Emptied of all illusions, his art shows life without rose-colored glasses.

As a youngster, Buffet was a victim of insomnia who composed his pictures at night. His mother, who encouraged him, died when he was 14.

Buffet lived a monastic life and often painted around the clock.

Some critics contend he is the leading artist of the second half of the 20th century. His other media are oils, water colors and drawings.

PRODUCED MANY

He is a skilled lithographer and has painted a gigantic mural of Joan of Arc. Working 10 to 12 hours a day, Buffet has produced as many paintings as did Rembrandt in his lifetime.

His works command from $2,000 to $10,000 each.

Chagall was born in Russia in 1897 and moved to Paris in 1910.

His art is fanciful with brilliant colored images recalled from his childhood.

MOVE FORWARD

The newspapers move toward front-line units in planes, helicopters or mail bags at a speed dictated by the aircraft and trucks available.

He gets his daily newspaper, can buy a magazine at the military equivalent of a general store, or tune in an hourly news broadcast on his transistor radio.

The soldiers' daily newspaper is Pacific Stars and Stripes which distributes 34,000 free copies per day in South Viet Nam and aims for a circulation of 40,000 by the end of the year.

"Stripes" is far more than a military house organ. It prints a lot of international news.

POST EXCHANGE

Opinion back home is also filtered through to the servicemen through Stars and Stripes and through magazines on sale at the post exchanges.

Stars and Stripes subscribes to syndicated political columns and cartoon services in the United States and publishes both conservative and liberal opinions, side by side.

The availability of magazines and newspapers is limited more by transportation problems than anything else.

CENSORS AT WORK

The two Saigon newspapers sometimes turn up with blank space in the middle of their columns, where Vietnamese censors have been at work. Each has a circulation of a few thousand.

Stars and Stripes is immune to Vietnamese censorship as are the magazines sold through the PX.

The American military command also operates a radio network in Viet Nam, with transmitters reaching to U.S. Navy vessels off the coast.

The transmitters of the Armed Forces Radio Service follow the familiar stateside format at disc jockey shows separated by five-minute news broadcasts every hour.

NEWS AGENCIES

The station subscribes to the major American news agencies for the contents of these newscasts.

The object of the five-minute shows is just to touch the highlights of the news, however, and the written word is still the main source of information for interested servicemen.

Sea Test Is Big Step Downward

WASHINGTON — Six French oceanographers have returned to the surface of the Mediterranean after living three weeks in an undersea station planted 325 feet deep.

The feat, planned and supervised by Capt. Jacques-Yves Cousteau, vastly increases the area of the world accessible to human exploitation, said Dr. Melville Bell Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society. The society has supported Capt. Cousteau's projects since 1952.

The French undersea experiment, known as Conshelf III, is a tremendous leap downward from the previous depths of 33, 36 and 50 feet at which Capt. Cousteau had stationed divers in prefabricated steel structures.

Recently the U.S. Navy has had men living 205 feet below the surface in its Sealab II project off La Jolla, Calif.

The French team, under the immediate supervision of engineer Andre Laban, were given daily tasks to perform outside their underwater home.

EFFICIENT HANDLING

They efficiently handled a production well head at 370 feet. The oceanographers made short excursions to a depth of 430 feet.

Oil experts watched on television screens as the oceanographers manned the five-ton production well head which was rigged with compressed air to simulate the 3,000-pounds-per-square-inch pressure of an actual oil well.

Capt. Cousteau said the new working depth of divers, made possible by sophisticated sea habitations and respiratory devices, more than doubles the offshore territory that can be efficiently exploited.

Previously, offshore oil strikes 150 or more feet down have been capped because the normal diving techniques — with divers returning to the surface after each period of work — cannot maintain economic output at such depths.

The six French oceanographers breathed a mixture of helium and oxygen at 11 atmospheres of pressure. Nitrogen had to be removed to prevent toxic effects under high pressure.

State Chairmen Claim Birch Impact Light in GOP

WASHINGTON — Republican state chairmen say the John Birch Society packs little punch in the GOP.

That was the consensus from Maine and Florida to Washington and California after Republican congressional leaders accused the militantly conservative organization of trying to infiltrate their party.

In a few states, party leaders told of takeover attempts by right wing forces, but they said the efforts were thwarted.

Idaho GOP Chairman John McMurray said the society in his state "has no more influence in the party than a gnat on a jackass."

OFFICIAL STATUS

"I do not know of one John Birch Society member who is an official of the Republican party," McMurray said.

His colleagues in other states said there may be society members on precinct and state committees, but their number is small. Associated Press newsmen interviewed GOP chairmen, John Birch Society figures and Republican officeholders in 45 states to size up the impact of the congressional denunciation.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky opened the attack by declaring that Birchers should be ousted from the GOP. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen and Rep. Gerald R. Ford, the GOP congressional leaders, lined up with Morton on Sept. 30.

"They are not now a part of the Republican party. They never have been and they never will be," Dirksen said of society followers.

STRONGER HOLD

Morton said in a speech "Birchers of the left have a far stronger hold on the Democrats than any extremists ever have had or could have had in our party."

The consensus view of Republican state chairmen:

The criticism probably will not change much in the party itself, because there is little overt Birch influence to be changed. But it may help Republicans convince middle-of-the-road voters that the conservative society is not influential in party policies.

"I don't think there will be any particular impact on the party," said the West Virginia chairman, John Shott. "The denunciation was more for the edification of the public than the party."

Morton himself has said there are probably as many Democrats as Republicans in the John Birch Society. The organization claims 80,000 to 100,000 members.

A Birch leader in Connecticut, Thomas A. Davis of Stamford, said, "Our best guessimate is a little over 50 per cent are Republicans; I would say about 50 per cent."

Davis said the society is strongest in southern California. But even there, the state Republican chairman played down society influence.

"I know of no John Birch Society members in the leadership of the California Republican party," said Dr. Gaylord Parkinson. "There are no plans to oust any Republican from the party in California."

WORK SECRETLY

Some other state GOP leaders said they suspect there are society members secretly at work within their organizations, but assisted the number is small.

In Michigan, GOP Vice Chairman William McLaughlin said society members "seem to be dedicated workers, and I don't think they'll be scared away."

"I don't know why they picked our party, but they did," he said. "We know they're there." "They do most of their work on the precinct level," he added, "trying to gain strength from the bottom up, and I'm sure they're active there."

TROUBLE TALK

Society leaders in Maryland and Delaware talked of trouble for the Republicans because of the congressional denunciation.

If Republicans "don't want support from us kooks and extremists," said a society director, Tom Anderson of Baltimore, "a lot of us are going to be coming out for a third party."

Phillip W. Gordon, a Birch section leader in New Castle, Del., said Republicans may lose some of their conservative contributors in campaigns to come. "There's going to be a screaming plea for money," he said, "and a lot of conservatives aren't going to contribute if they don't have someone of Barry Goldwater's philosophy."

TIME FOR PARTY

Goldwater has now suggested that Birchers could help the GOP by resigning from the society and devoting their time to the edification of the public than the party.

Arizona's GOP chairman,

Barry Rosenzweig, long a close friend of the party's 1964 presidential nominee, said he has seen no evidence of Birch efforts to infiltrate the party.

"They might be working in such a manner that I don't recognize it," he said. "I'm sure that there are some, but I don't know who they are. It is a small number."

Two Republican governors — William H. Avery of Kansas and Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon — offered different advice on dealing with the society.

SEES NO ROOM

"There's no place in the political party for the Birch Society," Avery said. "But I have always held the position that the Birchites were very evident move them."

Washington Chairman C. Montgomery Johnson said Birch members before the party's congressional leaders spoke out.

Crime in Sweden's Capital Literally Is Underground

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Crime in this capital city of Sweden is going underground quite literally.

In fact, beneath the surface of the "Venice of the North" the rumbling is not caused by the subway trains alone.

The modern city-center stations on the Stockholm underground railway network, with their late-night shops and hot dog and soft drink automats, have become favorite hang-outs for young thugs, teen-age prostitutes and persistent drunks.

Add to these the velvet, lace and pastel plumage of the male "beat" set, with their shoulder-length curls, Spanish heels and chunky jewelry, and you have a crime cocktail which is leaving the Stockholm police and subway authorities with a monumental hangover.

The bitter olive in the cocktail is that these young hoodlums are a product of Sweden's affluent society and welfare state, where economic prosperity has elevated just about everybody to middle class status.

DANGEROUS SITUATION

The crime rate has increased so alarmingly that, according to an official of the subway company, the tendency is toward a "dangerous situation."

So serious has it become, that in addition to regular two-man police patrols and armed officers of Stockholm's Night Security Service, employees of the subway are being recommended to take special training courses in judo and unarmed combat.

Meanwhile the Stockholm Police Department is planning transportation.

Good News for Bad Hearts

3 Man-Made Valve Substitutes Possible

By Science Service
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — Rheumatic heart patients are getting a new lease on life through replacement of three heart valves.

Dr. Albert Starr, head of surgery at the University of Oregon, Portland, told the American College of Surgeons here of the progress he had made in replacing the tricuspid valve. This valve often has to be replaced after substitutive mitral and aortic valves have been implanted in heart surgery.

Of 23 patients who had surgical replacements of all three valves, only two died, Dr. Starr reported.

A 67-year-old woman who was such a desperate case that we advised against surgery, Dr. Starr said, "insisted that she needed to live to take care of her 80-year-old sister. We operated and she is still going strong."

And they are not likely to receive much moral or physical support from local onlookers, for the average Stockholmer prefers to steer a course of noninvolvement which, depending on their proficiency, will be cold comfort for the 75 women who have so far enrolled for the unarmed combat course.

Crimes range from vandalism—which runs up to millions of dollars every year—to robbery with violence and sexual assaults on young girls and elderly women.

Many women having to travel by the late night trains, arm themselves with bags of pepper to ward off attackers.

Having his staff trained in self-defense is the idea of the subway's newly appointed managing director, Helge Berglund, who is only too aware of the dangers of allowing Stockholm's subway savages to go unchecked.

FINANCIAL LOSS
Apart from the need for protecting passengers, there is also the financial loss to be taken into account if they decide to make use of other forms of transportation.

They must "Water Point," a tiny outpost on a swift stream some distance from the main camp. With simple but effective apparatus they can turn out 900 gallons of pure water an hour.

Without this precious water, the 19,000 men of the 1st Air Cavalry would either die of thirst in the dehydrating heat, or sicken from drinking impure water.

MANY JOBS
Devin and Nipper are members of the 8th Engineer Battalion. Among its numerous other jobs, the battalion is fortifying the camp into a strong position. The battalion commander, Lt. Col. Robert Malley, says: "It will be our Rock of Gibraltar in the middle of Viet Nam."

One company of the 8th was with the 1,000-man advance party that arrived Aug. 25 in Viet Nam. It directed the clearing—by hand—of thick jungle on the chosen campsite.

The hand clearing, with brush, look, ax and GI shovel, was done for a specific reason, explained by Col. Malley.

"We couldn't disturb the turf with bulldozers and earth movers too much. We've got 450 helicopters in this outfit and they create enough dust, even with good turf. Also we can't have a morass of mud when it's raining."

CHASE SNAKES
Together with the banyan, teak and mahogany trees, the tangled liana vines and lesser brush, the troops chopped up 18-foot pythons, cobras and poisonous kraits, which the men call "bamboo vipers." One man was bitten but swift medical attention saved his life.

On a recent move of battalion strength, an engineer truck leading the way was blown up by a mine. But the engineers had padded the truck's floor with sandbags so that the driver escaped with no injury at all and the passenger had only superficial cuts.

A particularly difficult task for the battalion was clearing the top of nearby Hon Cong Mountain and the establishment of a heliport and "antenna farm" as the heart of a communications network.

Hon Cong, commanding the entire An Khe Valley, is valuable as an artillery observation position.

COMPANY'S JOB
Capt. Paul J. Cerjan's Bravo Company had the job of pre-Vermont.

One section of the exhibit draws heavily from the unique medical instrument collection of the late Dr. F. A. Collier, surgeon and teacher at the University of Michigan's medical school.

Another exhibit relates the story of Michigan's early years as a pioneer in medical education which began in 1866 at Ann Arbor.

Forests Seen as Vital

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — Forceful management of wooded areas and forest industries is essential to close the widening gap between the "have," or developed countries, and the "have-not," or newly developing land that gives the public such benefits as timber, water, wildlife, livestock forage and recreation opportunities.

Much progress has been made in the last few years to retain the beauty and benefits of the forests, Mr. Cliff said. Research is under way to develop biological or improved chemical controls to destroy forest-blighting insects without danger to other forms of life.

Canada, Mexico and the United States are members of the Commission, which is one of six regional forestry groups organized by FAO to facilitate international cooperation and rapid exchange of information on forest resources. For the first time, the United States is host to the sessions. Previous biennial meetings were held in Mexico City in 1961 and in Ottawa in 1963.

The "have-not" countries can greatly benefit from counsel, capital and assistance in learning how to develop their forests and to combat such destructive forces as insects, fires and careless depletion of trees, Dr. Osara said.

The forestlands of the United States are a cornerstone of our Great Society, said Edward P.

Past Stirred Up by Halloween

'Beggars' Unwittingly Revive Old Customs

WASHINGTON — When ghostly little beggars ring the doorbell at Halloween and chirp, "trick or treat?" they unknowingly revive an assortment of old customs.

There were beggar holidays some 400 years ago to permit the poor to call on more favored neighbors for largess, the National Geographic says.

Considerable activity centered around Allhallowes Even, or Halloween.

In England and Wales, soul cakes were baked about Oct. 28 to be distributed among the poor and eaten on All Souls' Day.

Beggars went about singing, "A soul cake, a soul cake, have mercy on all Christian souls for a soul cake." Prayers were pledged in return for gifts.

GOT INTO ACT

As time passed, the pledge of prayers was dropped. "Soulers" gave way to children eager for apples, nuts, or other goodies. But households were still roused with the old song:

Soul, soul, an apple or two, If you haven't an apple, a pear will do.

One for Peter, two for Paul, And three for the Man Who made us all.

In Ireland, forerunners of trick or treat laid it right on the line. People went about begging gifts in honor of one Muck Olla, an obscure folklore character probably linked to the Druids, who provided many Halloween customs.

Householders were reminded that Muck Olla was responsible for prosperity, which would disappear if the callers weren't treated liberally.

Pickling Gives Shrimp Lively Taste

Pickled shrimp is a perfect special feature for your next bridge luncheon, buffet supper, cocktail party, or after-the-game snack.

This gourmet treat is both delicious and attractive on your table. What's more, you prepare it at least a day in advance—when you aren't busy rushing around doing other things just before your guests arrive.

Pickled Shrimp

2 1/4 pounds fresh or frozen shrimp
1/4 cup celery
3/4 cup mixed pickling spices

1 cup celery slices
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup diced green pepper
1/4 cup sautéed oil
1/4 cup vinegar
1/4 teaspoon salt
7 or 8 bay leaves
2 1/2 tablespoons capers and juice

6 or 7 drops Tabasco sauce
3 hard-cooked eggs, diced
Cover shrimp with boiling water; add celery tops, pickling spices, and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Cover and simmer 5 minutes. Drain. Cool with cold water. Peel shell from shrimp, and de-vein under cold water.

Combine celery slices, chopped onion, diced green pepper, salad oil, vinegar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, bay leaves, capers, and Tabasco sauce. Pour this dressing over shrimp; chill at least 24 hours.

Drain shrimp reserving dressing; remove bay leaves. Toss shrimp with diced hard-cooked eggs.

Serve on lettuce with the dressing or mayonnaise. If desired, garnish with hard-cooked egg slices. Yield: About 6 servings.

Taffy Rum Mousse Is Light, but Distinctly Flavorful

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

AP Food Editor

When a recipe is tried in our test kitchen for possible use in this column, the result is commented on by the people who work with us — our regular tasters.

But as often as we can, we like to have what has come to be known at our house as honest-to-goodness eaters give us their opinion of a dish.

This means that the dish is served at a meal at which our family, friends or neighbors are the taste-testers. When we tested the recipe that follows, a full-bodied Taffy Rum Mousse, we made a changeabout. We presented the mousse for dessert at a supper party for eight given by my sister.

Make your own fire extinguisher to keep in your kitchen! Use an empty salt box with a pour spout and fill with baking soda. Cover the outside of the box, if you like, with attractive paper.

Her menu included a first course of spaghetti with white clam sauce; a huge and very thick sirloin steak; a cooked vegetable casserole; a tossed salad.

Then came the Taffy Rum Mousse. We're happy to report that the honest-to-goodness eaters were enthusiastic. And not just out of politeness — there wasn't a smidgen of the dessert left.

Taffy Rum Mousse

1 cup cold water
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup sugar
½ cup old-fashioned molasses
½ cup light rum
½ cup milk
2 cups heavy cream

Into a medium saucepan pour the cold water; sprinkle the gelatin over the water. Place over low heat and stir constantly until gelatin dissolves — about 3 minutes. Remove from heat; add sugar and stir until dissolved. Stir in molasses and rum, then milk.

Chill, stirring occasionally.

Second Appearance

Use that leftover meat loaf for an hors d'oeuvre. Cut it into small squares and broil; brush with butter, if you like, during the broiling. Tastes good with 3 tomato juice.

until mixture is slightly thickened and consistency resembles that of unbeaten egg white. Whip cream until it doubles in volume and holds soft peaks; fold it into the gelatin mixture. (If at the end of the folding process there are blobs of cream not worked in, use a rotary beater and gently beat until they are blended.)

Turn into a 2-quart mold; chill until firm — about 3 or 4 hours; garnish of pimiento and anchovy tightly cover the top of the mold fillets.

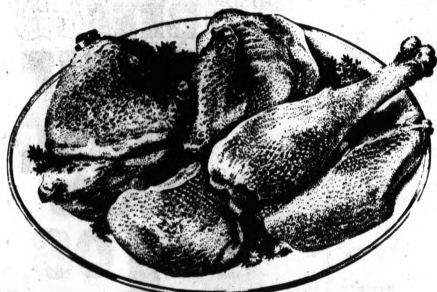

with saran and continue chilling until serving time. Unmold and serve "as is," or garnish with whipped cream and chopped nuts. Makes 10 servings.

Different Salad

As a change from a tossed green salad, cook celery ribs in chicken stock; drain and marinate in French dressing; chill and serve on salad greens with a garnish of pimiento and anchovy.

'Men Over 26 Have Little to Fear From Draft at This Time'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The deputy director of the Selective Service said today that men over 26 have little to fear from the draft at this time — the bumper crop of postwar babies is filling the bill to a great extent.

"Under present circumstances, I don't anticipate that we'll be getting into men over 26," Col. Daniel O. Omer said in an interview. "Right now about 150,000 to 160,000 youths a month are coming into their 19th birthday, and this year about 2 million men will reach the age of 18."

Under present law, youths under 19 cannot be drafted. But Omer estimated that about 30 per cent, or 600,000, of the 2 million 18-year-olds will be eligible for induction next year. About 40 per cent will be excused because of school, he said.

As for the 19-year-olds, Omer said that a large number of them will enlist.

ENLISTMENTS UP

"Always when draft calls are high, enlistments are up," he said. "Right now enlistments are good."

Selective Service officials revealed Tuesday that the ban against drafting childless men who were married before midnight Aug. 26 had been lifted, enabling local draft boards to meet the recently increased manpower quotas.

President Johnson's announcement of the Aug. 26 cutoff date, made that afternoon, precipitated a rush to the altar by many young couples hoping to beat the draft.

Two weeks ago, the Defense Department requested a draft quota of 45,224 men for December, the largest quota since the Korean war.

MARRIED MEN

By early next year, Omer predicted, nearly all states will be drafting married men under 26 in order to fill their quotas. An Associated Press survey indicated Tuesday that at least 12 states plan to start drafting married men without children in December. The states are New Mexico, Alabama, Washington, Illinois, New Hampshire, Montana, Minnesota, Maryland, Idaho, Connecticut, New Jersey and Wisconsin.

Nine other states — California, Nevada, Oklahoma, Maine, Texas, Arkansas, Kansas, Nebraska and Massachusetts — indicated that by January they may begin taking such men. Omer said he considered the decision to draft those married men a further assurance that men over 26 are not immediately in line for the draft.

MANPOWER POOL

The colonel, who is also general counsel of Selective Service, explained that there is a manpower pool of 500,000 men who were married on or before Aug. 26 and who must be inducted before men over 26.

The order of selection for induction now is:

1. Registrants who have disregarded their draft notices or draft regulations.

2. Volunteers.
3. 1A single men and men married since Aug. 26 who are between 19 and 26.
4. Men who married before Aug. 26 and who maintain a bona fide family relationship in their homes.
5. Men over 26.
6. Men between 18½ and 19.

Views Vary at Migrant Worker Hearing

LANSING (AP) — Proposed regulation of migrant labor camps by the department. The regulations still have to be gone over by an advisory committee to the department, approved by the Legislative Service Bureau, checked by the attorney general's office for legality and finally be adopted by the department.

BETTER CONDITIONS

"The consensus was that there needs to be a general improvement in facilities for migrant labor," Vogt said of the meeting attended by some 80 persons, mostly growers.

"Our goal is to be realistic and reasonable. A reasonable period of time will be allowed for improvement of present facilities housing migrant labor."

The hearing mostly was concerned with technical details of the requirements for housing, such as the number of square feet allowed for each worker, the size of windows and the number of fire exits.

Growers objected some of the regulations were too strict while representatives of migrant labor said they were not strict enough," reported John Vogt, director of the department's engineering division.

The recent Legislature approved a new law requiring

U.N. Kashmir Talks Strained

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The Security Council worked today to end bloodshed on the India-Pakistan frontier and to narrow down a Soviet-American split over how the fighting should be stopped.

The council convened this morning in a strained atmosphere resulting from a Russian attempt, supported by France, to limit the powers of Secretary-General Thant in directing and manning the 194-man U.N. observer team in India and Pakistan.

Britain joined the United States in backing Thant's efforts to preserve the shaky cease-fire in the Kashmir conflict. They said he should have full authority to dispose the observers, in opposition to the Soviet view that he has already exceeded the council's mandate.

The Americans and British regarded this as an "internal" matter that would not destroy the so-far unanimous effort to get an effective cease-fire on the Kashmir front. They did not regard it as a new breach in Soviet-American relations but merely as a renewal of an old quarrel over the role of the secretary general.

The council faced another complication, India, which walked out Monday evening when Pakistani Foreign Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto attacked Indian police in Kashmir, said it would continue to boycott the council meetings during this phase of debate.

INTERNAL MATTERS

India is willing to talk about the cease-fire and withdrawal of troops but unwilling to discuss Kashmir internal matters.

American sources said the council will try to agree on another resolution that would emphasize the need to have both sides withdraw their forces to positions held prior to last Aug. 5.

The number of television stations in the United States reached 570 last year as six very high frequency stations went on the air.

Rumors Denied

'Defense Chief Will Stay'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has relayed a denial: he hasn't talked with President Johnson about resigning.

The statement came after a syndicated news column reported Tuesday that the Defense Department chief had told the President he planned to return to private life by the end of the year.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester conferred with McNamara.

He reported: "Mr. McNamara told me he never has had any such discussion with the President."

Other McNamara associates insisted that the secretary plans to stay on the job as long as the President wants him.

Old Capone Crony Will Be Deported

CHICAGO (U) — Paul (the waiter) Ricca, 67, one of the few survivors of the old Capone gang, has been ordered deported to England—if that country will accept him.

If he is turned down in England, Ricca will be deported to his native Italy—a place Ricca doesn't want to go.

Otto Eck, special inquiry officer of the Chicago office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, said yesterday he had served an order for deportation of Ricca.

Rickover Asks War on Technology Threats to Man

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice Adm. Hymen G. Rickover sounded a call to battle today against those technological practices which threaten man and the world he lives in.

On some fronts, he suggested, the battle may already be lost. Referring to industrial pollution of the air, Rickover said, "We may be damaging the atmosphere permanently by changing its chemical composition."

Rickover, the man who directed the development of nuclear engines for ships and submarines, pleaded for "a humanistic technology" in a paper prepared for lectures sponsored by the British Association for the Advancement of Science in London.

Too many people, he said, confuse technology with science, and view it as an "irresistible force" which cannot be controlled.

Science, the search for truth, does indeed discover laws which "cannot be overturned by human fiat," he said, but technology, the practical exploitation of scientific knowledge, is merely a tool. Unless it is viewed "as a means to human ends," he said, "It may become a Frankenstein monster destroying its creator."

Rickover cited these examples of technology gone wrong, used for short-range private profit rather than the long-range public good:

- Deep-sea fishing techniques capable of destroying all commercial fish in the oceans. (It already has brought the great whales close to extinction.)
- Indiscriminate dumping of poisonous wastes which have turned rivers and lakes into sewers and have polluted soil, water and air.

- Wholesale slaughter of wild animals and upsetting of natural balances "with consequences we cannot even fathom as yet."
- Strip mining practices which turn once green regions into "a desolate lunar landscape."
- Overuse of pesticides and weed killers capable of poisoning "soil, crops, birds, animals, fish and eventually, man."

There are, indeed, new technologies which "involve snooping into the inner recesses of the human mind, personality testing and pseudoscientific manipulation of human beings," Rickover said.

When they are "imposed as conditions of employment or otherwise partake of an element of compulsion, these technologies should be regulated or outlawed entirely."

18 Chinese to Die for Killing Warden

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Eighteen members of a Chinese secret society will be hanged Friday for killing a warden during a prison riot in 1963.

The victim was Daniel S. Sutton. He was in charge of a rehabilitation settlement for hardened criminals on Pulau Senang Island, scene of the bloody riot in June 1963.

The mass execution will be carried out at Changi Prison.

Proposal Raises Hopes to End Rhodesia Crisis

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — A proposal to insure the political future of Rhodesian Negroes raised some slight hopes today for a solution of the Rhodesia crisis. It met opposition from a Negro leader who said treaties "have always been broken."

"We are not impressed by the idea of a treaty," declared Josiah Gondo, whose All-African United People's party holds 10 seats in the colony's 65-member Parliament.

The treaty proposal, put forward by Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith at a meeting yesterday with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, was followed by faintly optimistic expressions from spokesmen for the two governments.

"The door is not so firmly shut now," said Wilson's press secretary.

Smith said at a civic banquet last night that there is a slight ray of hope that his talks with Wilson will produce a solution.

But he stated firmly that the white Rhodesians are prepared to defend their cause to the end.

LEGAL AIDE

Wilson summoned Britain's attorney general, Sir Elwyn Jones, from London to advise him on the legal aspects of the proposed treaty.

The British prime minister was reported planning to meet today with two leading opponents of Smith's policy, African nationalist leader Joshua Nkomo and former Prime Minister R. S. Garfield Todd.

Nkomo has been under government detention for months. Todd was restricted to his ranch earlier this month.

The crisis revolves around Smith's threat to declare independence rather than surrender government control to the Negro majority in this central African colony.

The British say the Negroes must be guaranteed political advancement and ultimate control of the government.

Wilson's government has warned that seizure of independence by the white minority would be rebellion against the crown and might result in racial warfare that could spread across Africa.

The British leader delivered to Smith a personal letter from Queen Elizabeth II in which she said she earnestly hoped their talks would "succeed in finding a solution to the current difficulties."

"We don't want to lose the queen we love," Smith said in his banquet speech. The Englishman under a neighbor's porch Monday for in Rhodesia," he declared.

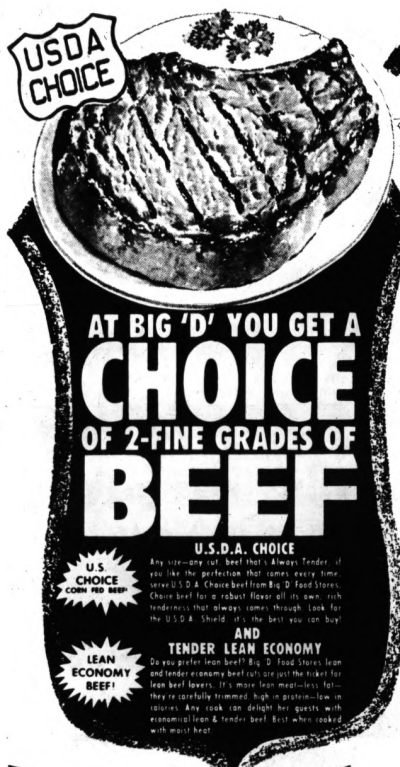

But Smith told his listeners to hold on to what they had or they would lose it. Quoting a passage from Shakespeare's "Henry V," he said anyone who did not have stomach for the fight ahead should leave.

Portugal's wine production in 1964 was more than 1.4 billion per cent (70 per cent) of dark hues; 17 per cent are medium in tone, only 4 per cent on the light side.

Heart Attack Blamed
in State Teen's Death

WYANDOTTE (AP) — The death of 17-year-old Martin Rzaada, whose body was found under a neighbor's porch Monday, was ascribed to natural causes Tuesday. A heart attack was blamed.

Dr. Edward Zawadzki, Wayne County medical examiner, said Rzaada had a severe heart condition of which his family apparently was unaware.

Vote Is Tuesday on Annexation

By PAT MCCARTY

City living would be cheaper, Farmington city officials advise residents of the Farmington Township area being considered for annexation.

"They're promising something to the people which they cannot deliver," Township Supervisor Curtis H. Hall said.

The discrepancies are mainly in the comparative costs of supplying water and sewer services to the 500-acre area.

Voting on the annexation will be conducted Tuesday. The change would require the approval of a majority of voters in both the city and the area involved.

The triangular parcel which is the subject of the vote is

Farmington Area Survey Being Held

Farmington area residents are about to record opinions on their community and its future. A community attitude survey is being conducted by the Farmington Jaycees in an attempt to discover what the Farmington area public would like to see accomplished.

The survey covers all phases of community services in both Farmington City and Township.

A questionnaire was to be published today in the area's two weekly newspapers.

Composed of some 80 questions, the survey is aimed at establishing an order of preference for community improvements.

The complete questionnaire is to be returned to the Jaycees within a week.

They expect to have results of the survey available within 30 days.

bounded by Grand River, Gill, Freedom and Halstead.

A group of over 500 city and township residents petitioned for the election last summer.

Except for Woodcroft Subdivision, much of the parcel is undeveloped.

The City Council has offered what it labels "firm prices" for extension of Farmington sewer and water lines to the area.

For a 100-foot lot, the charge for a lateral sewer line would be $550, with a $35 tap-in fee added to it.

LATERAL LINE

A lateral line for water would cost $450 plus a $140 tap-in and meter charge, according to city officials.

The combined figure for supplying these services through the city systems there would be $1,175.

In comparison, City Manager John Dinan listed charges for township services totaling $2,938, attributing them to estimates made by township officials.

According to Dinan, township sewer charges would be $1,250 for a lateral sewer, $175 for an arm which would have to be extended up Gill Road, $150 for the Tarabusi Industrial Arm and $350 for a tap-in fee.

SEPARATE CHARGES

He claimed that the cost of supplying Detroit water through the township would consist of an $800 lateral line charge, $130 for tap-in and meter and a $75 capital charge.

Dinan computed the net savings at $1,763.

"He's doing something our engineers wouldn't do," Hall said. "Those are not official estimates. We don't claim them."

The supervisor said they were off-the-cuff figures which definitely were high.

"They're not authentic. They're not even realistic," he said.

NO ESTIMATE

While the township has no firm estimate on sewer service, it has determined that the cost of supplying water to the area would be about $807 per house, according to the supervisor.

Hall said that whether the area is annexed to the city or not, it still will be a part of the sewer district established for the Farmington Interceptor.

Residents of the area legally are bound to pay a $150 capital charge for the Tarabusi Arm and $350 for the interceptor.

"This is binding," he said. "You can't move and escape your debts."

TOTAL UNITS

Hall noted that financing for the interceptor was based on the total number of units in the township.

While there now are about 83 homes in the area under consideration, it has a potential for 1,050 to 1,100 units.

The Township Board entered the sewer agreement in 1959.

Hall said the responsibility of property owners is explicit in the contract.

COURT ACTION

The supervisor mentioned the possibility of court action should the annexation be approved.

"Farmington Township has approximately $1 million at stake," he said. "Certainly we would have to pursue it to the end to protect our people's interest."

Dinan also compared city and township taxes.

The city rate is $11.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation and the township rate is $8.73 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation.

CONSTANT TAX

"But the city tax has remained constant for the last five years and is four per cent lower than in 1960," he said. "The township tax has increased 370 per cent since 1960, when it was 2.37 mills."

Although the average property owner in the area would pay $22.30 a year more in city taxes than he now does to the township, a savings would be effected by a $25 cut in water charges and others in expenses not entailed in city service, Dinan said.

He listed expenses of township residents which would be dropped through annexation as $30 a year for garbage pickup, $15 for oiling streets and $15 for snowplowing.

In an appeal to the city residents who will vote on the question, Dinan noted the "great economic potential" of the area.

FUTURE BUILDING

"We project that this area will produce upwards of $18 million in assessed valuation by the ultimate development within the next five to 10 years," he said.

"The city is in a position to service this area with very little increase in operational costs because of its proximity to the center of the community."

May Not Need Vote by Teachers in Troy

TROY—It may not be necessary for the school district's teachers to hold a special vote to determine who will represent them in salary negotiations with the board of education.

The board last night reconsidered the Troy Education Association (TEA) request for sole bargaining rights and decided to withdraw its petition for an election now pending before the State Labor Mediation Board.

Two weeks ago the board denied the TEA's request for exclusive representation, claiming it did not have adequate proof of authorization.

The board wanted to see signature cards or photocopies as proof that the teachers authorized the TEA to represent them.

An attorney for the Michigan Education Association advised that the signature cards were signed with the understanding that they would be held confidential.

UNFAIR PRACTICE

He said it might constitute unfair labor practices if a school official looked at the cards.

In an attempt to solve the problem last night, board members said they would accept a third party affidavit as proof of authorization from teachers.

They appointed Rev. C. William Pearson of the Lutheran Church of the Master to check out the cards against school records.

Into Record High Ground

Stock Market Widens Gains

Trading was very active as the Steel streamed to have recovered confidence following yesterday's reversal of the Monday profit-taking.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 3.5 points, with 3.4 at 3:55 p.m. and 3.5 at 4:15 p.m. and 3.6 at 4:35 p.m.

U.S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin were more than a point each while Bethlehem and Republic Steel gained sizeable gains.

Record sales and earnings by General Motors spurred the entire automotive group.

Chemicals, railroads, building materials, utilities, electronics, office equipment and aerospace issues joined in the advance.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 6.14 to 962.46.

Jacoby on Bridge

By JACOBY & SON

Oswald Jacoby starts off to-day's discussion. He says, "Here is a hand that illustrates the extra chance that a good player gives himself."

Jim: "You mean the extra chance that a losing player does not give JACOBY himself, don't you?"

Oswald: "Right. When this hand was played South bid up to a six heart contract only to lose the hand by poor play."

Jim: "We really should be happy about the whole thing. After all, we held the East-West cards."

Oswald: "How about giving our readers a chance to see the winning play before you describe it to them."

Jim: "All right. Now that they have looked the hand over, I will start by giving the actual play. South ruffed the second diamond, led out three rounds of hearts in order to pull East's trumps and went after the clubs. When East showed up with four clubs he had to go down one."

Oswald: "Now for the correct play!"

Jim: "South should lead only two rounds of trumps and then start on the club suit. East would have to follow to four clubs and South would have been able to ruff out his club loser."

Oswald: "This play risked nothing. True, if East held a singleton club he would have ruffed and set the hand, but if East held a singleton club South would have been unable to make his contract on any line of play."

State Minister to Ride Horse in Baltimore Fete

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Michigan Methodist minister will be one of 12 riding horseback to Baltimore, Md., next spring in the observance of Methodism's bicentennial.

The Rev. John R. Allen, pastor of the Farwell, Mich. Methodist Church, was among the 12 named Tuesday for the exercise "Saddlebags East."

All 12 will preach in Methodist churches along the way and lodge overnight in Methodist parsonages.

For the Rev. Mr. Allen, it will be a trip of about 500 miles. He'll start his horseback ride from Kalamazoo.

"Saddlebags East" commemorates the Methodist preachers who spread the gospel on horseback during America's early days.

To Urge New Laws on Child Custody

LANSING (AP) — A House committee planned today to recommend new child custody legislation.

Committee Chairman Rep. Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, said the recommendations would "strike a balance between the best interests of the child and the natural rights of the parents."

He said the recommendations would stress stability for children "in line with the thinking that courts should give prime consideration to the best interests of the child in custody cases."

U.S. Has Some Asian Support for Viet Policy

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The storm over American military involvement in South Viet Nam isn't blowing just one way in Southeast Asia. Along with gusts of criticism against the United States, there is a current of "Yankee, stay" sentiment.

Wellspring of support for American policy are Thailand, the Philippines, Malaysia and Laos, whose governments and people feel their future is closely linked with the fate of South Viet Nam.

One Malaysian observer cautions: "If Viet Nam goes Communist, for us there may be no tomorrow."

The most strident opposition to U.S. involvement has come from Indonesia and Cambodia, which have bonds with Communist China and North Viet Nam.

Indonesian President Sukarno has condemned what he calls American "intervention and aggression" in South Viet Nam. It remains to be seen whether the recent crisis in Jakarta, with the solidifying of army power there, will mute Indonesia's anti-U.S. outcry.

Little change, if any, can be expected in the attitude of Cambodia. Its chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, sees China as the eventual victor.

Sihanouk is both scornful and angry toward the United States and what he calls the "pretend government" in Saigon. He broke relations with Washington last May after accusing U.S.-Vietnamese forces of intruding into Cambodian territory where the Viet Cong are said to take refuge.

LESS WARM

Singapore, Southeast Asia's newest independent state, has taken a somewhat less than warm line toward the American effort in Viet Nam. Its premier, Lee Kuan Yew, is pessimistic about U.S. ability to sweep back the Communist tide. He claims Americans know nothing about Southeast Asia — "that's why they are in a mess."

But in the Philippines, Thailand and Malaysia, official and popular opinion is running in favor of America's presence in South Viet Nam and its strikes against the Red North.

The Thais, in fact, think the Americans could have moved in a bit earlier.

Thailand's Communist-hating Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman advocates "careful use of armed force" to prevent a Communist take-over in Viet Nam and eventually in all of Southeast Asia.

LONG BORDER

A long border with Laos has put Thailand close to the Indochina firing line. The feeling in Bangkok is that if Viet Nam falls, Laos will fall too, and Thailand also.

Thanat Khoman believes that, faced with American military power, the Communists "are beginning to feel that they cannot get what they want. There is no other way to stop aggression."

Although Thai military leaders say they need all their armed strength to meet threats developing along their own borders, Thailand has pitched in with some active help for the American-Viet Nam effort, including use of airfields.

The Thai air force has trained some 30 South Vietnamese pilots, and promises more of the same. Thai medical and development project teams are operating in South Viet Nam.

Similar aid is being supplied by the Philippines whose foreign secretary, Mauro Mendez, is known to feel that no action taken by the United States in Viet Nam could be too strong. Neither President Diosdado Macapagal nor his chief opponent, Ferdinand Marcos, has made Viet Nam an issue in their campaigns for Nov. 9 presidential elections. A reliable private poll recently showed that 76 per cent of the Filipino cheer for the Americans in Viet Nam, with only a few of the remaining 24 per cent actually in opposition.

VOCAL SUPPORTER

Malaysia's Prime Minister Abdul Rahman is a vocal supporter of America's policy.

Although elements in his government would like to see Malaysia take a more neutral stand — in keeping with the country's efforts to win Asian friendship — Rahman insists the United States has no alternative but to fight.

"It is clear that the Communists were the aggressors. It is wrong to speak of American intervention," he says.

Rahman notes that Malaysia, while saddled with its own defense problems involving hostile Indonesia, is throwing open military centers to South Vietnamese personnel for training in jungle warfare. He recently welcomed Vietnamese Premier Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky.

The influential Straits Times, which does not hesitate to tell the United States on other matters, has praised President Johnson's Viet Nam decisions.

In neutralist Burma, which shares a frontier with Communist China, there has been criticism of U.S. policy — and also of North Viet Nam's refusal to negotiate a peaceful settlement.

Burmese condemnation of "power bloc" competition in Viet Nam cuts two ways.

Laos has not let its official neutralist line get in the way of support for the United States. The government of Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma has become increasingly aware of the role played by North Viet Nam and Communist China in stirring up Laotian civil strife.

It's acknowledged that American pressure on the North Vietnamese has slackened the Red war effort in Laos.

The American-equipped

Laotian air force raids the Ho Chi Minh trail, the jungle corridor in southern Laos used by the North Vietnamese to funnel men and equipment to South Viet Nam.

The Laotian minister of public works, Ngon Sananikone, sees it in terms of dragons.

"For thousands of years we have had the big dragon and the little dragon, with their big appetites, sitting on our shoulders. When the big dragon, China, was too drowsy to pibble at Laos, the little dragon, Viet Nam, was eating away. If America were not in Southeast Asia, it would be a fast day for them," he says.

One RPI Win Puts Coach in Spotlight

TROY, N.Y. (UPI) — Dick Riendeau, fresh from the most satisfying — and only — victory of his college coaching career, today issued a note of caution for his Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute football team.

RPI's 28-14 victory over Middlebury (Vt.) last Saturday sent the student body into spasms of ecstasy but Riendeau kept his feet on the ground, as well might a coach who had suffered 16 consecutive winless games in his capacity.

"I don't think we'll be overconfident when we meet Worcester Poly (next Saturday)," understated Riendeau. RPI teams had lost or tied 43 consecutive games prior to last Saturday.

"After all they beat us 34-8 last year. We're working hard to rub off the glow of victory."

That victory was sensational enough to earn the youthful Riendeau "Coach of the Week" honors from United Press International and a plethora of gifts and congratulatory telegrams from sympathizers throughout the nation.

It also earned him a few aches and pains, since Riendeau had promised his team that if and when they ever won a game, he would run a mile with the players the following day. He fulfilled that promise Sunday.

TRIMMING ON CAKE

But all the cigars and cakes and messages were simply trimmings to Riendeau, who struggled, hoped and planned for this victory during the past three seasons.

This victory belongs to every one of our kids," he noted, "including those who graduated without ever playing on a winning football team. Without them, RPI would not even have a football team."

It wasn't very long ago that the school considered dropping the sport, but the proposal was defeated.

Now the atmosphere has changed and RPI is looking ahead to the future.

"The win was all we needed," said Riendeau, who despite his ordeal looks younger than his 33 years. "I am sure there isn't a boy on this team who doesn't feel that this is just the beginning. We have a chance to win our next two games and have a good nucleus coming back next year and could win five."

Riendeau could have added that the RPI freshman team also generated hope for the future by beating Hobart 13-0 Saturday for its first victory in three years.

Such a positive approach must have appeared quite distant when Riendeau took over from Ed Hoffman at RPI after the Engineers had lost 27 successive games in a three-year period.

Riendeau, however, came well equipped for his task. He had served as an assistant coach at St. Lawrence, a school which had suffered through a 23-game losing streak.

There was little sunshine that first season at RPI, a school whose athletic conquests were limited almost entirely to hockey, as the Engineers managed to score only 16 points while being buried by all opponents. As the losing streak increased, so did the publicity, until it reached national proportions.

But the curly-haired coach, perhaps goaded by the publicity and jibes, began to mold the Engineers into a respectable unit and they narrowly missed a victory last year, settling for a 20-20 tie with Nichols College.

When RPI was barely edged by Hamilton 14-12 earlier this season, the fans began to sense that the nation's longest winless streak was about to end.

PNH Surprises Chief Harriers

Northern Edges Past Central by 27-28

Pontiac Northern's cross-country team surprised unbeaten Pontiac Central yesterday by downing the Chiefs, 27-28.

The loss was the first in dual starts for the Chiefs, who won the Saginaw Conference championship last week.

PNH, the Inter-Lakes League champion, was paced by Dave Johnson, whose time of 10:17 tracked the record of 10:18 set by Nick Ochao on the Northern course last year.

Helping Johnson with the scoring were Dave Kay (8th), Ochao (6th), Dave Preetz (7th) and Dave Trousdale (8th).

Bill Hollis of PCH ran a 10:18 to finish in the runner-up spot.

Trailing Hollis for the Chiefs were Joe Dickie (3rd), Harold Boone (4th), Martin Asch (9th) and Larry Hurst (10th).

The PNH JV squad posted a 24-31 victory. Ernest Griffin of PCH ran first and Mark Kay of PNH second.

TROPHY LEAD

The victory gave PNH a 100-0 lead in the Pontiac Press All Sports trophy race.

Bloomfield Hills, its ace runner sidelined by illness, lost to Cranbrook 23-33. John Benecick of Bloomfield Hills took over for missing Sterling Speirn and won the race in 10:40.4.

Cranbrook took the next four spots with Mike Koerner, Bruce Hunter, Charley Craig and John Vogt finishing in that order.

Orchard Lake St. Mary finished Catholic League dual competition by downing Ann Arbor St. Thomas, 25-31, as John Dziuba, Bob Przeslaski and Phil Slatiniski finished 1-2-3.

The Eagles posted a 3-2 record.

Coach Produces Quickly

Unbeaten Utica Builds Success String

By JERE CRAIG

When Bob Dillard suffers a defeat as coach of the Utica Chiefs football team, he apparently learns his lesson well.

The Utica mentor saw Center Line pin a 13-0 blanking on the Chiefs in his second game at the helm last fall. Utica hasn't lost since that night.

The unbeaten orange-and-black clad Chiefs will be out to extend a streak of 13 games without a loss Friday night at home against St. Clair Shores South Lake.

Only two ties mar the string — Warren Lincoln tied them the week after their loss, and Romeo deadlocked them in the final tilt last season.

Dillard has prospered using a nucleus of about 15 players. Good conditioning and luck have helped.

"We haven't had any injuries to speak of," Dillard noted early this week.

"For two years we've had good kids, both in the classroom and on the field. They don't seem to make many mistakes."

SENIOR QB

A senior quarterback in his second season as a regular key the attack. Tom Orliowsky was the all-Bi-County League signal caller last season and he has Utica moving again.

The Chiefs equalled last season's win total with Friday's romp over Lakeview, 30-0.

The senior is second in the area prep school scoring race with nine touchdowns.

Last fall they finished 6-1-2 in Dillard's debut.

Orliowsky is a fine runner and play caller, often using check-offs at the line of scrimmage. He has scored nine touchdowns on sneaks and roll-out rushes.

The added running of junior Gary Rojewski, a speed specialist, and junior Gary Lieber, a blocking fullback who has begun running more, complement the ball-control attack.

The blocking up front is led by tackles Don Para and Dan Kruse, center Mark Fear, and guard Mike Maszkowski.

Another vital contributor to Utica's success has been halfback Don Drea. He plays both offense and defense, and his punting and place kicking have helped immeasurably. He booted the deciding point in this fall's 7-6 triumph over Lake Shore.

A next week the Chiefs have a shot at Center Line. Not only will they be gunning for revenge, but the league title would be at stake if both get by with wins this week.

VERSATILE PERFORMER — While quarterback Tom Orliowsky of unbeaten Utica is feared for his excellent running and play calling, his passing was good enough to bring him all-league honors last season in the Bi-County League. The senior is second in the area prep school scoring race with nine touchdowns.

Krause, center Mark Fear, and guard Mike Maszkowski. Krause, a junior, at 265 pounds is the only one who exceeds 185. He and Maszkowski, another junior, play defense, also.

Dave Healey, a senior line-backer, is the defensive captain while Orliowsky leads the offense. End Jim Jilek goes both ways as does Fear, the center.

Parker, Oliva, Kubek Ailing

By The Associated Press

Their long season finally completed, baseball players are beginning to filter into hospitals across the country, having various aches and pains cured for.

The famed Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., is the busiest by far with three ball players already checked in.

Wes Parker, first baseman for the World Champion Los Angeles Dodgers, joined American League batting champion Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins and shortstop Tony Kubek of the New York Yankees at the Clinic Tuesday.

Parker will undergo a series of allergy tests and have X rays taken of his shoulder. The rangy first baseman also plans a routine physical check-up.

Parker said he injured his shoulder in a home plate collision at Cincinnati early in the season. The Dodger infielder said he expected the tests to take four days and he plans to leave Friday for a vacation in Hawaii.

Oliva, who batted .321 and won his second straight batting crown, will undergo surgery Friday for traumatic peritonitis of the middle finger on his right hand.

Packers Flop Statistically in Upping Record to 6-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Quick now, which attack is best — Green Bay's or New York's? Ninety nine out of 100 will say Green Bay but the latest National Football statistic show the Giants have gained more ground.

Statistics can be most misleading. For instance, they show Green Bay eighth in running, 11th in passing and ninth in total offense. But the all-important won and lost standings show Green Bay way out there with a 6-0 record. New York is 10th in running, seventh in passing and eighth in total offense. But they are 3-3 in the standings after absorbing a 38-14 beating from Cleveland.

The figures also show that Cleveland's much-maligned defense is better than a year ago when the Browns won the championship. Cleveland has permitted opponents to complete 45.1 per cent of their passes, have intercepted 10, given up 4.3 yards per rush and permitted 1.894 yards over-all.

A year ago the comparative statistics showed 55.2 per cent pass completions, only five interceptions, 4.6 yards per rush and 2.066 yards total defense.

TOP DEFENSE
However, the Browns are not among the leaders on defense. Baltimore's strong unit is showing the way in both total defense and rushing defense. St. Louis has the best record on pass defense and also has put on the best pass rush, throwing the quarterback 25 times for 226 yards.

San Francisco's high-powered offensive unit which scored 41 points and still lost last week, leads the NFL in total offense and passing.

At the other end of the stick is Dallas in just-play. With their passer throwing 26 times for 184 yards, Cleveland's running game, paced by Jim Brown's 738 yards is tops in the league. Brown has about 66 per cent of the Browns' rushing total of 1,121 yards.

STARTING NOD — George Izo, second-string quarterback with the Detroit Lions, is expected to get the starting call Sunday when the Detroiters take on the Los Angeles Rams on the west coast.

Lions Go Conservative

Play Patterns Easy to Spot

dicte some strengths and weaknesses, which in turn affect the result.

As to one to a few:

In the Baltimore game, with the Lions losing 31-0 at half-time, not even the extreme loyalist could imagine that Detroit could win without a barrage of bombs.

Yet, when the third and early fourth quarters passed, the Lions ran the ball 15 times out of 27 plays, consuming the clock and going through the motions.

The following week the shoe was on the other foot, but an imaginative offense and quarterback Bart Starr showed the difference.

The Lions led 21-3 in the first half, and Plum had 10 of 13 passes completed, while the Packers had a total of only 71 yards.

To make up 18 points and then start on an even basis, Starr knew he had to make a few fast strikes, and the Lions' defense should have known this. Maybe, the Lions' defense thought, "our offense wouldn't do it that way," so they weren't ready for it. Well, Starr had 16 first down plays and he passed on 11 of them; rolled up 21 fast points and then got back to the pound-the-line game.

Again, against the Bears, the Lions were behind 24-3 at half-time. Out of the next 33 Plum-called plays, 17 went into the line.

Another statistic to observe, is the stereotyped series we mentioned.

On the first down plays, which everyone knows Joe Looney or Nick Pietrosante will carry into the line, the Lions threw five times out of 24 first downs against the Rams; only four times of 25 first downs against the Redskins; five of 19 against the Colts and five of 20 against the Bears.

These are first down situations early in the game not in-

Ex-Champ Floyd in Open Workouts

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Former world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson today resumed public workouts in preparation for the title fight with champion Cassius Clay Nov. 22.

Patterson spent Tuesday in private drills. He staged a public workout today in the main showroom of the Thunderbird Hotel.

Champion Clay was expected to arrive here next Wednesday, Nov. 3, and set up training Munn, now NSU athletic headquarters at the Stardust director. He threw 11 touchdown passes in 1948.

Glick leaves his widow and four children.

Mays, Yastrzemski Gain Slugging Titles

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielders Willie Mays of San Francisco and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston won the 1965 major league slugging championships, the final average revealed today.

Mays had a .645 mark in leading the National League for the fifth time. The past season, he collected 360 total bases in 558 at-bats. Among his 177 hits were 21 doubles, 3 triples and 52 home runs, the latter a major league high.

The Giants' star also paced the NL in 1954, 1955, 1957 and 1964. The 1965 campaign was the 12th straight in which Mays has compiled at least 300 total bases. This extended his own league record. He also lifted his career slugging average four points to .593, another NL mark.

Yastrzemski topped the American League with 536 on 365 total bases in 494 at-bats. He had 45 doubles, 3 triples and 20 home runs among 154 hits. Yastrzemski is the first Boston player to lead the AL in slugging since Ted Williams in 1957.

Glick, Ex-QB at MSU Dies

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Gene Glick, 37, quarterback and star passer of Michigan State football teams in the late 1940s, collapsed and died Tuesday while playing paddleboard at the YMCA. A heart attack was believed the cause of death.

Glick, a high school coach here after his graduation from Michigan State and in recent years operator of an insurance agency, played on Spartan teams coached by Charley Bachman and later Biggie Munn, now NSU athletic headquarters at the Stardust director. He threw 11 touchdown passes in 1948.

Glick leaves his widow and four children.

Defender Collects AP Gridiron Honor

NEW YORK (AP) — It was another big weekend for runners and passers, but a defense player — safety Bill Eastman of Georgia Tech — was named today as The Associated Press back of the week.

"I didn't think one player could ever do so many things in one game," Tech defensive coach Jim Carlen said of Eastman's performance in the Yellow Jackets' 37-16 victory over Navy Saturday.

What the 5-foot-10, 165-pound Eastman did was return a punt 86 yards for a touchdown, recover a fumble, intercept two passes and deflect three others, make nine tackles and contribute four key blocks on punt returns.

Ultra-Modern Dome Set for Shea Stadium

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you ready, Texas? Plans have been made to finish off Shea Stadium with a $9 million glass dome that will top Houston's Astrodom because it will be:

1. Glare-proof.
2. Bigger.

The announcement of the plans for turning Shea Stadium into an all-weather stadium, made today by city sports commissioner Ben Finney, also called for an arena to have 14,000 additional seats. Shea now has 55,000 permanent seats.

Squirrel Shooters Doing Well

Pheasant Hunters Need Dog

Hopeful pheasant hunters who don't use dogs had better turn to squirrels or jumping brush piles for rabbits.

This is one pheasant season where a good dog is worth his weight in gold. Ringnecks are scarce and those that are around are running a country mile before flushing.

It takes a smart canine to flush or pin these crafty birds within shotgun range.

Except for the wet opener when numerous roosters were walked up, gunners with dogs have been having the only success. Early in the morning—probably at dawn—and the last hour of daylight are the best times.

Pheasants are moving off or going to roosting areas at these times. Open fields are the best producers. During the day corvids are best and so are heavy swales.

Rain the first three days of the season in Southeastern Michigan cut hunter activity and the overall success was well down from last year, according to the Conservation Department report.

A spot check of western and northern Oakland County last Sunday showed 54 pheasants taken by 165 hunters.

The average in Macomb County is one ringneck per eight hunters and one in seven for the six townships open to hunting in Wayne County. Pressure is reported down in all areas with a lot of good pheasant cover not being hunted.

The Pontiac Press Pheasant Contest started slowly, but picked up momentum Monday because of increased weekend hunting pressure. The top three ringnecks were taken Saturday.

Leading contender for the $50 savings bond is Michael Colosimo, 381 Clayburn, who downed a 39½-inch ringneck in Brandon Township.

Tied for second are Michael O'Dea, 7195 Wedworth, Union Lake, and Robert Pickett, 3545 Meadowleigh, who entered 38½-inch roosters. Second place carries a $25 bond.

Pickett shot his bird near North Branch and reported very good success in that area the last weekend. The majority of the four days of the season, were downed in the northwest O'Dea's rooster was downed in Lyon Township.

All entries must be brought to the sports department of The Press for measuring Monday through Saturday between 7 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Squirrel hunters had very good success Sunday. Leaves are off the trees making it easier to see the bushy tails and numerous hunters were out with scope-sighted 22 rifles. A check of squirrels taken showed two fox for every grey.

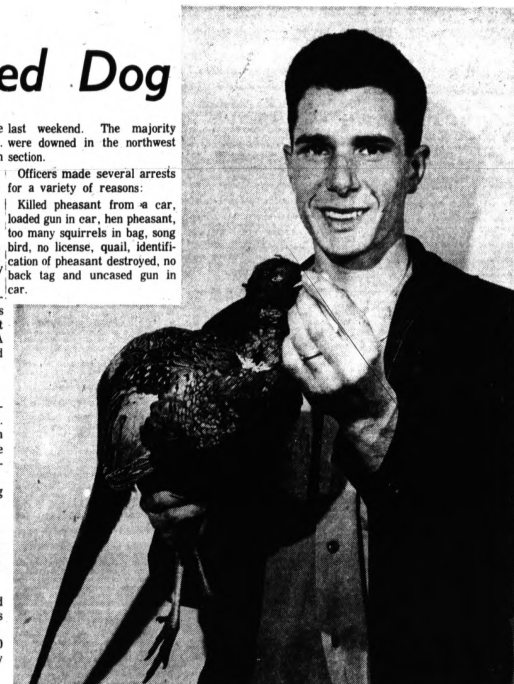

Pressure on grouse in Southern Michigan has been light. Vessels were poor Sunday in the Vassar and Tuscola game areas and fair in Rose Township.

A few woodcock are being taken.

Flight ducks are beginning to arrive at the St. Clair Flats, but gunning pressure is light as the waterfowlers are still concentrating on pheasants.

And ringneck hunting around the Flats and Harsen's Island is rated good.

The department reports 50 geese taken in Oakland County

CONTEST LEADER — Michael Colosimo, 381 Clayburn, holds the top ringneck entered in The Pontiac Press Pheasant Contest. He shot the 39½-inch bird Saturday in Brandon Township. The contest closes at noon.

Gaining Access to Farms Becoming More Difficult

By DON VOGEL

"Ask the farmer first," is a slogan that has been pushed by sportsmen's clubs and conservation department officials before and during the pheasant season for a number of years. More and more nimrods are following this advice, but more and more landowners are saying, "No."

"I drove past mile after mile of excellent pheasant cover on farms in Rose, Springfield, Holly and White Lake Townships Sunday," said Howard Greene, the Conservation Department's district game supervisor for southeastern Michigan, "without seeing a hunter."

Greene reported that the state-owned lands were being "grounded very hard by hunters."

"I can't understand it," he said. "We like to have the hunters using state land, but let's face it—most of the game is raised on private lands and that's where the best hunting is normally found. If the hunters can't get permission at one or two places they should keep trying."

"Sooner or later they're going to find a farm where they can hunt and they should get good shooting."

Most hunters, however, don't have the time, patience and necessary diplomacy to gain access to choice hunting grounds. They want to hunt; not spend half of Saturday or Sunday running from farm to farm.

They ask, and if the owner refuses they move on. "Time's a-wastin'," is their theme. A couple of rebuffs and these hunters head for state land.

NO TIME FOR BANTERING

The mid-week after work hunter has only an hour or two at best. He goes straight to a pre-determined site. There's no time to banter with landowners.

Of course, some hunters have made friends with farmers over the years and are always welcome. But even some of these are finding former spots now closed to hunting.

A few have the ability to talk their way into just about anything. The average hunter, however, isn't so blessed.

Why the increasing reluctance on the part of the farmer to allow hunters on their lands?

"We just decided not to let anyone hunt here this year, that's all," is the stock answer. The most apparent cause appears to be the few who fail to ask permission and trespass or become belligerent when they are refused access. Trespassers and landowners being threatened and even shot by irate hunters haven't helped.

Carelessness is another reason. Farmers get tired of making repairs because of malicious shooting that deliberately destroys property, and fences or gates being broken down.

These things have happened in the past, but occurrences are becoming more numerous, for some reason, with each season. Only a few are guilty, but the majority of careful and thoughtful hunters are being penalized.

The only persons who can prosecute trespass violators and those who destroy property are the owners. And they have found it much easier to close their lands to hunting by tacking up plenty of signs and refusing permission to anyone who asks.

Many people fear retribution if they sign a complaint. Eliminating the problem by barring hunters also eases this fear.

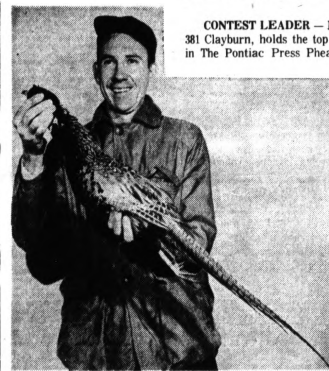

The solution isn't a simple one. Even when arrests are made and convictions handed down, the violators usually gets a fine, which he pays, and goes back to hunting.

THE HORTON TRESPASS LAW

Violation of the Horton trespass law should carry with it suspension of all hunting and fishing privileges in Michigan for a period of five years. Malicious destruction of property with firearms should carry the same penalty in addition to the usual fines and restitution. Second offense careless use of firearms, other than wounding, should have the same suspension of privileges.

If complaints are signed each year, particularly for trespassing, word would soon get around and this problem would pretty much erase itself. The same holds true for other violations.

A reminder in the 1965 small game laws says, "To hunt on another man's land is a privilege. Abuse of that privilege has but one result—loss of a place to hunt."

TIED FOR SECOND — This 38½-inch rooster was taken near North Branch Saturday by Robert Pickett, 3545 Meadowleigh, and is tied for second place. A $50 savings bond will be awarded for the longest bird entered and a $25 savings bond for the second place ringneck.

Conservation Crews Seek Seasonal Workers

The Department of Conservation is sounding its call to men who are interested in finding seasonal work as park rangers and forest fire lookouts starting next spring.

The chance to take examinations for both types of job openings are being offered to eligible candidates who apply through the Civil Service Commission in Lansing by Nov. 15.

Applicants who meet minimum qualifications will be selected for work if they score passing grades in written tests to be held Dec. 18.

Park ranger candidates must be at least 18 years old by June 30, 1966. They also must be high school graduates or anticipate earning their diplomas by next June.

Those who pass Civil Service exams will be assigned to state parks throughout Michigan.

With one exception, applicants for these jobs must not be over 18 or over 45 as of next June 30. The maximum age limit does not apply to those who take the fire lookout exam on a promotional basis.

The starting bi-weekly salary for park rangers and fire lookouts is $178.40.

Further details about these positions can be obtained from the Civil Service Commission or Conservation Department in Lansing.

Striped Bass Program Sidetracked

The Conservation Department has postponed its plans for planting striped bass in the lower Great Lakes next spring in order to concentrate on the introduction of Coho salmon in northern streams.

Since the Conservation Commission in September signaled the go-ahead to planting strippers, department fisheries men have learned more about the Coho which indicates that this species may provide a bigger breakthrough in improving Great Lakes fishing than they earlier thought.

"Coho experts from the West, who ought to know, told us recently that we may have been underestimating the potential of this fish for making the grade in a big economic way in the Great Lakes," explains department fish chief Howard A. Tanner.

Tanner reports that the states of Washington and Oregon have in recent years come up with new techniques and information for raising, feeding and planting Coho salmon which have virtually revolutionized efforts for producing and increasing the survival of these fish.

"This means that we should have a much better chance of successfully introducing Coho in the Great Lakes than we realized only a few short weeks ago," points out Tanner.

"We aren't pooh-poohing the striper in any way and we haven't given up on this fish. We Lettelier, former California champion now playing out to make Great Lakes fishing of Manassett, N.Y., shot a four-better, we should lead with our under-par 68 Monday to lead the strongest suit. Sore-Legged Horse Sparks U.S. Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Even horse shows "observed the 39-year-old book publishing executive who came off the bench. "He has had a bad leg for the last minute in the line-up, several years. The 82nd edition of the venerable fixture opened Tuesday in Madison Square Garden and in the two international classes, the U.S. Equestrian team took six of the first eight spots.

Fire One was the late replacement. Untouchable, one of the aces of the team, and the mount Kathy Kusner rode to second place in the Women's World Championships last month, in England, was badly shaken in a fall at the Pennsylvania National Show in Harrisburg last Saturday.

The horse was not injured, but U.S. Coach Bert De Nemethy decided to keep him on the sidelines for the week so he could rest up.

Enter Fire One. Miss Kusner pushed him to second place Monday night in the American Trophy competition behind Simon, piloted by peerless Bill Steinkraus. She had two clean rounds on Fire One, and lost only on time, 28.6 seconds to 30.2.

QUARTER HORSE. Steinkraus actually has ridden Fire One, a registered quarter horse, more than anyone on the team.

"He's the Mickey Mantle of horse show," said the coach.

The council estimated skiers spent $25 million in Michigan last season.

Skiing Increase Seen for State

LANSING (AP) — Michigan skiers will spend $28 million pursuing their sport during 1965-66 the Michigan Tourist Council predicted Tuesday.

It would help bring the state's biggest-ever winter vacation season, the council said.

Some 47 winter sports centers, two less than last season, will serve an estimated 250,000 skiers this year. The other half of winter recreation economy comes from hunting, ice-fishing, skating, tobogganing and remaining winter sports.

The council estimated skiers spent $25 million in Michigan last season.

TIRE TALK

If you're reading your snow retreat ads carefully these days, you'll notice a confusing array of prices, designs and claims. Trying to pick the best value here is even harder than selecting the most succulent melon from a fruit stand.

We make lots of mistakes picking melons, but when it comes to tire retreats, we are not fooled. Here are some yardsticks for you to use in measuring value in snow retreats:

1. Appearance — Is it finished carefully, the easing fresh-looking, sound, and free from weather-checking or cracking?
2. Tread Depth — is it 14/32" deep? Many are 8/32" 11/32" shallow designs that won't give lasting traction.
3. Tread Design — Lugs should be heavy, well-spaced (blade cut for traction) and the contour fairly flat for more contact.
4. Rubber Quality — Service and performance depend on top quality tread rubber — it is here that the good retreader offers the best and the cheapest, the worst.
5. Guarantee — Ask and see how well the retreader stands behind his product. Some are as long as two years.

And finally, while we can't help much picking melons, we can help you pick a quality snow retreat instead of a lemon. Try us.

The two were identified as James Pusey, 19, and his wife, Susan, 18.

GM Records Best Ever for a Manufacturer

Sales, Profit Marks Set for 3rd Quarter and First 9 Months

DETROIT (UPI)—General Motors Corp. reported the highest sales and profits in manufacturing history yesterday for both the third quarter and the year's first nine months.

The giant auto maker said its profits for the first nine months totaled $1,539,000,000, or $5.36 per share, up 13 per cent from $1,360,000,000, or $4.75 per share, in the same period last year, the previous record.

Sales in the nine-month period totaled $14,539,000,000, up 14 per cent from the year-ago level of $12,750,000,000, also a previous record.

No manufacturer has ever piled up so much in dollar sales or profits.

The same was true for the third quarter when GM made $264 million, or 91 cents per share on sales of $7,743,000,000, up from 1964 third quarter earnings of $222 million, or 77 cents a share, on sales of $7,231,000,000.

ROSY REPORT
GM's rosy report followed by 24 hours a record-breaking performance by Ford Motor Co., second largest auto maker, which also set all-time company marks in sales and profits for the quarter and the nine months.

FUSEY REJECTED
Sgt. Munroe said Pusey was rejected for enlistment because of his dependents.

The other tip came from the Catholic Welfare Agency, which identified Pusey as the "man from Indiana" who attempted to place his infant daughter with the agency. The couple is originally from Fort Wayne, Ind.

"They've been living out of a car since they came here," said Mrs. Caronis.

"The father was given a job three days ago at General Motors Truck & Coach Division but only went to work one of the days."

INTENDING TO QUIT
Pusey intended to quit the job because he "didn't like the work," according to the policewoman. The couple was described by Mrs. Caronis as "heavily in debt."

A petition of neglect was to be filed on behalf of the child in the juvenile division of Probate Court this morning prior to a preliminary hearing.

A final hearing before Probate Judge Norman R. Barnard would determine what provision would be made for the infant's care.

Mrs. Caronis said the child would be taken from Pontiac General this morning and placed at the Oakland County Children's Center.

Claim 101 Cong Killed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — While U.S. troops fanned out around Plei Me in mop up operations, a toll of 101 Viet Cong dead was claimed today in fighting only 20 miles northwest of Saigon.

A U.S. military spokesman reported the heavy Communist casualties were suffered in an attack by an estimated two battalions of Viet Cong on a Vietnamese ranger battalion camped at Duc Lap.

Government casualties were termed moderate. American advisers with the rangers suffered light casualties, but all returned to duty after treatment, the spokesman said.

The Viet Cong hit the ranger camp at Duc Lap last June and again last month. The attack early today followed the same pattern — a barrage by mortars and small arms and then an assault on the camp.

The rangers fought back, and artillery and air assaults were made quickly on the attackers.

FIRE POWER
The spokesman credited the repulse of the attack and the high Viet Cong casualties to coordination of ground and air fire power.

At Plei Me, airborne American cavalrymen landed and swept south to clear out the last Communist stronghold threatening the special forces camp.

Light mortar and recoilless rifle fire fell during the night near the camp which had been under siege for a week.

But the troops of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division met no resistance as they pushed through the jungle 210 miles northeast of Saigon.

HURLED BACK
The decision to send out the American troops apparently was made after a South Vietnamese column of infantry and armored vehicles which had relieved the post Monday was hurled back by heavy Communist fire when it began moving south of the camp.

On one ridge the U.S. troops found an abandoned Viet Cong outpost overlooking the camp and the body of one North

Pilot and Crew Foil Hijacking

Disarm Cuban Exile Above Florida Keys

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — High above the Florida Keys Capt. K. I. Carlisle faced a decision aboard National Airlines Flight 200 from Miami to Key West.

He could obey the desperate commands of an armed Cuban exile and fly the plane to Havana, or he could gamble and attempt to overpower him.

Carlisle decided to gamble, and with the help of his crew disarmed the would-be hijacker yesterday.

The exile, Luis Medina Perez, 20, who said he wanted to see his family in Cuba, was wounded and taken prisoner in the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion.

He was one of 60 prisoners returned to the United States April 14, 1962.

Perez pleaded guilty yesterday to attempted piracy of an airplane — a federal offense which could carry the death penalty — and was held in default of $25,000 bond.

32 ABORD
The prop-jet Electra, with a crew of 5 and 27 passengers including Medina, was 20 minutes out of Miami when the control tower at Miami's International Airport got its first word of the drama.

"Have a man on airplane with gun holding it on overboard," radioed the copilot, D. S. McDaniel, 29.

"He wants to go to Havana. Captain is talking to him on flying plane. Will keep you informed."

Carlisle, 46, filled in the details after the plane landed at Key West.

GO TO HAVANA
"Take this plane to Havana because I want to be with my family," he quoted the stocky, dark-haired passenger as going alive.

Pilot Is Unable to Land Craft in Shifting Fog

All Aboard Believed to Be British; Airliner Ripped by Explosion

LONDON (AP) — A British domestic airliner exploded in flames on its third attempt to land in shifting fog at London Airport early today, killing all 36 persons aboard.

"We could see a sheet of flame which seemed to stretch the length of the runway," said one airport employee. "We could see people among the flames but they were obviously dead."

The plane, a four-engine Vanguard turboprop designed to carry 129 passengers, was landing at 1:23 a.m. after a flight from Edinburgh, Scotland.

Operated by British European Airways, it carried 30 passengers, one a child, and a crew of 6.

The airline said it was believed all aboard were British. Four hours after the crash all the bodies had been recovered.

WORKHORSE
It was the first fatal crash for a passenger-carrying Vanguard, which since 1961 has been BEA's workhorse on domestic routes.

The deaths also were London Airport's first passenger fatalities in almost 15 years.

A BEA twin-engine Viking from Paris crashed and killed 28 persons Oct. 31, 1950. That crash also occurred in fog.

Airport officials said visibility on the runway at the time of the crash today was 500 yards. As fire engines and ambulances raced out, it closed into less than 100 yards and sometimes to zero as fog patches rolled over the No. 1 runway.

The airline said the pilot had made two previous attempts to land, and just before the crash was heard to turn on full power, apparently trying to get airborne again.

ORANGE FLAME
John Dabbs, working at an airport service station, said he heard the impact and saw a huge orange flame light the sky.

"Then I saw the plane coming along the runway from the east, breaking up and exploding as it went," he said.

"Seals and bodies were scattered all over the runway. Then the wings broke off."

"Finally the nose ended up in some buildings at the end of the runway."

FORMER 'NEWSBOY'—From her third grade classroom at Donelson School, teacher Mrs. Earl (Laurel) Long recalls her five years as a Pontiac Press carrier that helped finance her education, which led to a teaching certificate.

Ex-Press Newsboy No Newsboy at All

Sometimes a newsboy isn't a boy at all.

In fact, one of the finest Pontiac Press carriers in recent years was a woman—a mother of four.

Her name is Mrs. Earl Long and her purpose in delivering papers was to help finance the last phase of her college education to become a teacher.

She completed her degree work last August at Wayne State University and now is an ex-newsboy teaching third graders in Waterford Township's Donelson School.

Why would a woman of 33 with four youngsters and three years of college accreditation invade the male realm of newspaper distribution?

Mrs. Long explained her 1960 decision quite simply.

Three of her youngsters were then in school. She wanted a job that would both enable her to get out of the house and take a two-year-old son with her to avoid baby-sitter fees.

She accepted the challenge to deliver a route in the Bloomfield Township area by car and continued the assignment five years until last August.

Anne Ford, 22, Plans to Marry

Will Wed New York Stock Broker Dec. 28

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Anne McDonnell Ford, former wife of Henry Ford II, Tuesday announced the engagement of her daughter, Anne, 22, to Giancarlo Uzielli.

Miss Ford, younger daughter of the Fords, made her debut in 1961 at a lavish party in the Grosse Pointe, Mich., home of her father.

Uzielli, a New York stock broker, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Giorgio Uzielli and is divorced from the former Anne-Marie Deschodt.

Uzielli's mother is a member of the Rothschild family. Miss Ford and her older sister, Charlotte, 24, last year were among those named as the world's best dressed women.

EDSEL'S GRANDDAUGHTER
Miss Ford is a granddaughter of the late Edsel B. Ford, only son of the original Henry Ford, founder of the Ford Motor Co. Mrs. Edsel Ford still lives.

Family sources in Detroit said Anne and Uzielli will be married in New York Dec. 28. It will be Miss Ford's first marriage. The two were said to have been dating for more than a year.

Miss Ford, a pretty blonde, is a graduate of the Convent of the Sacred Heart in Connecticut. She also attended Briarcliff Junior College in New York. Anne and Charlotte, along with their brother, Edsel, 16, have made their home with their mother in New York since their parents' divorce in 1964.

'61 Cong Killed'; Yanks Mop Up After Viet Fight

Vietnamese regular soldier. The area had been heavily bombed by U.S. planes during the siege.

Atop one hill the advancing Americans found one of the Communists' main observation posts. The enemy had pulled out so fast they left behind ammunition, equipment and clothing.

U.S. officials in Washington had been baffled by the renewal of the Communist attack after the arrival of the 1,300-man relief force. One official speculated that the Reds were trying to "pull a psychological Dien Bien Phu" — a victory which Communist propaganda could liken to the disastrous French defeat in 1954.

Dominican Showdown Looms on Firing Top Military Leaders

SANTO-DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Members of the Dominican Republic's shaky provisional government appeared today to be hearing a showdown over whether to fire the top leaders of the armed forces.

The danger of more large-scale violence was believed ruled out by the presence of the 10,000-man Inter-American Peace Force patrolling the capital.

But there was a possibility that the long and costly rehailitation program for the country might be dealt a serious setback if President Hector Garcia-Godoy was forced out by the crisis.

Then the Organization of American States would be faced with the task of creating a new provisional regime.

The prevailing view in influential circles was that the major portion of Garcia-Godoy's Cabinet, sympathetic to the rebel cause, would resign if the president did not immediately fire the armed forces secretary, Commodore Francisco J. Rivera Caminero, and the chiefs of staff of the army, navy and air force.

The president was reported unwilling to take this decisive step because the U.S. government and the OAS had made clear that they considered such action undesirable at this time.

Garcia-Godoy reportedly does not wish to alienate the only source of badly needed economic support for the country, which is on the brink of bankruptcy.

Rebel sympathizers charge that the military chiefs ordered indiscriminate bombing of Santo Domingo's civilian population in the early days of the April revolt.

The military leaders deny this and fear their ouster would pave the way for extreme leftists to take over the armed forces.

This fear has chilled relations between the president and the military, which considers that Garcia-Godoy picked a Cabinet that is oriented too much toward the rebels.

The crisis brought the three-man OAS committee back to Santo Domingo late last week.

The three members — Ambassadors Ellsworth Bunker of the United States, Ilmar Pena Marinho of Brazil, and Ramon de Clairmont Duenas of El Salvador — have met repeatedly with the president and his Cabinet in an attempt to work out a solution.

It is known that the OAS committee, which forged the peace-making formula between the rebels and the military, is not happy with Garcia-Godoy's failure to carry out critical features of the formula, particularly the disarming of civilians.

Critics of the president say he relied too much on the word of rebel leaders that their sector of Santo Domingo had been disarmed. The outbreak of violence in the past 12 days proved that a substantial number of weapons remain in the hands of civilian sympathizers of the rebel movement.

Mushrooms, Beans and Cheese Become

Preparing appetizers that pique the interest of your guests by their exciting looks and taste is the formula for launching a party successfully. Here are suggestions for canapés and dips that should be conversation pieces at your next party.

Stuffed Mushrooms
12 large mushrooms
1 tablespoon minced onion
3/4 teaspoon butter
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup soft bread crumbs

1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
3 tablespoons chopped walnuts
1 tablespoon steak sauce
1 tablespoon water

Clean mushrooms, remove stems and chop. Saute onions and chopped stems in half of butter, until onions are golden. Mix sauteed onions and mushrooms with salt, crumbs, cheese, walnuts and steak sauce.

Stuff mushroom caps with this mixture, and place in shallow baking dish. Add water, and dot with remaining butter. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 20-25 minutes until nicely browned.

Bean Dip
2 1/2 cups cooked lima beans
2 tablespoons steak sauce
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon chopped scallion
Mash beans well with fork. Add remaining ingredients and blend to a paste consistency.

Refrigerate, covered until ready to serve. Serve on crackers.

Nutty Cheese Balls
1 package (8-oz.) cream cheese
1/2 cup steak sauce
1/2 cup chopped nuts (pecans, walnuts or almonds)
Softened cream cheese and mix well with steak sauce. Shape into little balls. Place toothpicks in each, and roll in chopped nuts, turning toothpick until cheese ball is completely covered.

Hearty Casserole Saves the Day

When you are in a hurry, this pantry-shelf special may fit in.
Chili Beans With Rice
2 cans (1 pound each) barbecue beans
1 teaspoon chili powder (or more to taste)
1 cup rice, cooked
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
In a large skillet, mix the beans and chili powder; heat slowly, stirring often. Serve over the rice and sprinkle with the cheese. Makes 4 large servings.

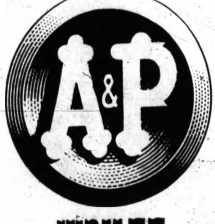

Pickling Gives Shrimp Lively Taste

Pickled shrimp is a perfect special feature for your next bridge luncheon, buffet supper, cocktail party, or after-the-game snack.
This gourmet treat is both delicious and attractive on your table. What's more, you prepare it at least a day in advance — when you aren't busy rushing around doing other things just before your guests arrive.
Pickled Shrimp
2 1/2 pounds fresh or frozen shrimp
1/4 cup celery
1/4 cup mixed pickling spices

3 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 cup celery slices
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup diced green pepper
1 1/4 cups salad oil
3/4 cup vinegar
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
7 or 8 bay leaves
2 1/2 tablespoons capers and juice
6 or 7 drops Tabasco sauce
3 hard-cooked eggs, diced
Cover shrimp with boiling water; add celery tops, pickling spices, and 3 1/2 teaspoons salt. Cover and simmer 5 minutes. Drain. Cool with cold water. Peel shell from shrimp, and de-lings.

vein under cold water.
Combine celery slices, chopped onion, diced green pepper, salad oil, vinegar, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, bay leaves, capers, and Tabasco sauce. Pour this dressing over shrimp; chill at least 24 hours.
Drain shrimp, reserving dressing; remove bay leaves. Toss shrimp with diced hard-cooked eggs.
Serve on lettuce with the dressing or mayonnaise. If de-lings, garnish with hard-cooked egg slices. Yield: About 6 servings.
