All GM Divisions Back on 5-Day Week Dec. 14

DETROIT (AP)—All General Motors car and truck divisions will resume operations by Dec. 14 on a five-day week basis, John F. Gordon, GM president, said today.

GM, its automotive assembly lines shut down since Nov. 11 by a steel shortage, will begin passenger car assembly again Dec. 7.

Gordon said assembly plants to start up a week ahead of others are Cadillac at Detroit, Corvair at Willow Run and Chevrolet at Janesville, Wis., Norwood, O., and Flint.

Enough components will be available to operate these plants four days during that week, the company said.

The balance of Chevrolet and all other divisions will resume production on Dec. 14. Those divisions already are recalling employes for production of components.

Other GM divisions supplying parts and accessories for the automotive and truck divisions are beginning to recall employes. The company said these recalls will increase during the next two weeks in order that final assembly plants have enough materials on hand to maintain continuous assembly of automobiles.

GM has had as many as 220,000 of its 320,000 hourly rated employes idled as a result of the steel shortage. It had recalled approximately 17,000 by the end of last week and an additional 36,000 are expected to be returned to their jobs by the end of this week.

Meanwhile steel shortages will idle another 10,000 at Chrysler Corp. by tomorrow night bringing to 23,430 the total number of Chrysler workers laid off by parts shortages.

Chrysler said car production at its suburban Hamtramck plant would stop after today's operation idling 5,000. Assembly plants at Los Angeles and Newark, Del. will close down tomorrow. Some 2,200 employes will be laid off at Los Angeles and another 3,000 at Newark.

Chrysler said it expects to resume production next month at all its idled plants. Only three of its seven assembly plants will remain in operation after tomorrow, Chrysler said.

Production on Chrysler's Valiants, Imperials and Dodge trucks already has been halted.

Ford, which makes about half of its steel, is operating but on curtailed work weeks. American Motors and Studebaker-Packard have not been affected thus far by the steel shortage.

Record Budget to Be Submitted to Commission

City Financing for '60 Will Top $6 Million for First Time

The city's finance department today was finishing preparation of a proposed 1960 operating budget that will top the $6,000,000 mark for the first time.

The figures are scheduled for presentation tonight at the last regular Tuesday meeting of the City Commission prior to the Nov. 30 deadline for submission of the budget.

City Manager Walter K. Willman said details would be spelled out tonight.

City budgets have been rising steadily over the years—recently at about $225,000 to $250,000 a year—and next year's budget is not expected to be an exception.

The budget for 1959 was set at $5,919,250.

Next year's proposed increase will be based, in part, on consideration of the property tax rate of $13.27 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation, which the city has stuck to the past two years.

Whether this low rate can bring in sufficient revenues to maintain a higher budget will be one of the factors studied by the City Commission between now and the Jan. 31 deadline for approving the budget.

The rate of 13.27 mills is the lowest since 1949. It was adopted in 1958. During the four years preceding 1958 the rate was 13.70 mills.

Commissioners will be asked tonight to consider approving a giant budget for next year submitted by the Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees.

The hospital is asking approval of a record outlay of $4,622,780—more than $1,400,000 more than this year—to operate more beds and care for more patients than ever before, thanks to near completion of the expansion program.

For the first time since the expansion program got under way four years ago, the hospital budget anticipates a balanced financial operation.

Voelker Resigning Top Court

LANSING (AP)—Justice John D. Voelker, author of the best-selling "Anatomy of a Murder," is resigning from the Michigan Supreme Court to devote more time to writing.

Gov. Williams confirmed today that Voelker had written him expressing his intention "but we haven't fixed a date." The justice asked to be relieved after Jan. 1.

Neither Williams nor Voelker would discuss reasons for the resignation in any detail. The governor said only that the letter, received last week, was "highly personal."

Voelker, 56, a pipe-smoking individualist who loves fishing and the north woods, reportedly cleared more than $500,000 on his successful novel and a motion picture based on it.

Voelker's letter to the governor immediately raised speculation that Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams, mentioned as an outside possibility to succeed Williams as governor, will be elevated to the prospective Supreme Court vacancy.

Adams was a contender for the Supreme Court appointment Voelker received from Williams in December 1956. Like Voelker, who lives in Ishpeming, Adams is from the Upper Peninsula—Sault Ste. Marie. Both men are Democrats.

It is almost a tradition in Lansing that attorneys general wind up on the Supreme Court.

Voelker was elected to a full eight-year term last April, one commencing Jan. 1, 1960. His novel, "Anatomy of a Murder," hit the best-seller lists early in 1958 and later was made into a successful motion picture.

PLANE WRECKAGE SITE — The wreckage of a burning Trans World Airlines cargo plane burns this morning where it fell in a Chicago residential section about a block southeast of Midway Airport, Chicago. At least seven persons were killed and a dozen injured when the plane smashed into houses in the rain just before dawn. Ten buildings were set afire.

Constellation Smashes Home Near Midway

3 Crew; 4 Others Are Killed; 11 Injured With Four Still Missing

CHICAGO (AP) — A cargo plane, returning to Midway Airport due to a fire warning, plowed into a house in rainy darkness just before dawn today and sprayed a sleeping neighborhood with fiery death.

Killed were the crew of three aboard the Trans World Airlines Constellation and at least four residents of homes drenched with flaming airplane fuel.

At least 11 persons were taken to hospitals for treatment of injuries. Four persons were reported missing, but officials were unable to say whether they were included among the unidentified bodies.

The plane, from New York and Philadelphia, crashed three blocks from the southeast corner of the nation's busiest airport, a square network of runways and terminal buildings on Chicago's Southwest side.

TWA in New York said the plane had landed in Chicago, discharged cargo and taken off again when a fire warning flashed on the instrument panel. The pilot began circling to land again when the crash occurred, TWA said.

In a flash a string of houses and apartment buildings near 63rd Street and Cicero Avenue burst into flame. Firemen said 10 dwellings were set afire, some from the plane fuel, others from flames from those sprayed with gas.

"It seemed like the end of the world," residents of the neighborhood said.

"They come over the house all the time," a woman resident of one of the damaged houses said, "but somehow this one sounded different. Suddenly, the entire house shook and I could hear glass flying everywhere."

Flights from all points of the compass use Midway. The rate of traffic is nearly a movement in or out every minute of the day and night.

★ ★ ★

Thomas Fracassi, 31, occupant of a house hit by the plane, said the aircraft caved the roof into a bedroom. Two of his three small children were hurt. Fracassi, his wife, Geraldine, 29, and their third child, were unhurt.

Nuisance Tax Labeled Illegal; Push Income Tax

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

LANSING—A Senate Republican "nuisance" tax proposal includes an "illegal delegation of legislative power," Revenue Commissioner Louis M. Nims said today.

A report from Nims to Gov. G. Mennen Williams on the package came as House Republicans mobilized to revive an income tax.

Nims said "years of litigation would be required to establish the exact meaning of the words proposed to be used" in the package proposed by Senate Republicans.

Nims said the illegal delegation of power was determined because the proposed tax on services "lacks certainty to the extent it precludes administration . . . "

Nims' report provided further ammunition for backers of an income tax.

House Republican leaders, in a desperate attempt to break Michigan's tax deadlock, advanced a "no strings" income tax plan.

House Speaker Don R. Pears called on fellow Republican lawmakers to swallow Gov. Williams' flat rate income tax with "no strings attached" — save one.

The only condition was that Democrats put their name on the bill, and supply the bulk of votes for House and Senate passage.

The governor promised to take full responsibility for recommending the tax a month ago but said nothing about Democratic sponsorship.

Pears unfolded his surprise plan a few hours after Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton), an income tax man from the start, made a somewhat similar proposal.

"It looks like the only way to break the stalemate and settle the cash crisis problem is for the House to take the bull by the horns," the Buchanan Republican said last night.

Pears said he would talk over his idea first with House and Senate Democratic leaders and the GOP Senate leader, and then submit it to the House Republican caucus to get the ball rolling.

"If you went in there with a constructive plan under way, the (House) caucus would be very receptive," chimed in Rep. Charles A. Boyer (R-Manistee), speaker pro tem, as Pears spoke to newsmen.

By "no strings attached," Pears said he meant Republicans should:

1. Agree to prompt release of the 50 million dollar Veterans Trust Fund as part of the settlement package, assuming adequate provision for rebuilding it.

2. Abandon insistence on immediate adoption of sales tax and income tax propositions for the November 1960 ballot.

3. Back away from the Republican demand for a new tax settlement of only 70 million dollars. The governor has demanded a 110-million dollar a year answer.

Boyer said, and Pears agreed, that the income tax should have a June 30, 1961, cutoff.

Pears said he thought the people back home were tired of the way things were going in Lansing.

He was asked if he thought GOP Senate feelings would be ruffled by his proposal, thinking it would undermine their 73½ million dollar nuisance tax program.

"I think it's pretty plain that there's not enough support to pass the luxury taxes," he replied.

Boy, 12, and Fireman Die in Detroit Blast

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

A fireman and a 12-year-old boy were killed and 13 firemen were injured today when a two-story frame house at 4907 Ogden St., in the western fringe of Detroit, burst apart in an explosion.

The blast knocked more than a score of policemen and firemen to the ground.

Killed were fireman Bruno J. Koluch, 39; and Eugene Pietszak, 12, who lived in a first-floor apartment. Two firemen were reported in serious condition.

The explosion originated in a coal furnace where Irene Pietszak, mother of the dead boy, started a fire. Mrs. Pietszak called firemen when smoke billowed through the house.

Firemen donned gas masks and were entering the house when the explosion occurred.

One policeman said he was knocked down by a fireman who was hurled through the air.

Koluch and his partner, Glenn C. Mumm, 35, were bowled over by the explosion when they opened a door at the Pietszak home. Mumm was seriously injured.

The body of Eugene was found huddled in a bathtub in the gutted building. He apparently tried to hide from the flames and smoke.

His father, Richard, 32, a factory worker, arrived home from work shortly after midnight to find the house in flames. Mrs. Pietszak, 32, had escorted her two sons, Robert, 12, the dead boy's twin, and Gerald, 4, to safety.

Mumm was the only person seriously injured. The others hurt included two policemen, two neighbors and eight other firemen. They suffered burns, cuts or smoke inhalation.

Mrs. Pietszak told authorities the furnace overheated, sending smoke through the hot-air registers.

The mother said she tried to enter the basement, but was forced back by the heat and smoke.

Shortly after she noticed the smoke, the lights went out. She said she thought she had rounded up all three of her children in the darkness but Eugene was trapped in the bathroom.

When she discovered he was not with them outside, she was unable to re-enter the burning home.

GMC Will Build 300 DSR Buses

Doubled Earlier Order for City-Made Coach; Allocate $7.7 Million

The Detroit Street Railway Commission yesterday allocated $7,715,000 for the purchase of 300 buses from General Motors Truck and Coach Division.

The decision doubled a previous contract for 150 coaches.

The total price includes $40,000 for air conditioning in 10 of the buses.

Despite loss of riders, General Manager Leo J. Nowicki predicted a better than 4 million dollars net income over the next two years.

This profit, along with borrowing of 3 million dollars through eight-year revenue anticipation notes, will be almost enough to finance the cost of the buses, he said.

Figured in the income prediction is the added revenue of a fare hike, also approved at yesterday's meeting. On a two-month trial basis, patrons will pay an extra five cents for each mile of travel outside Detroit's city limits.

Present fare is 25 cents within Detroit's boundaries.

★ ★ ★

The first 50 coaches on order from GMC Truck and Coach are scheduled for delivery in February, 1960. Another 125 are due for delivery in July and the last 125 in November.

Detroit's McLeod Faces the Music

Turntable Tizzy Shakes Up World

From Our News Wires

From Detroit to Australia, payola charges, denials and confessions are snatching headlines that are rocking the broadcasting and record publishing industries.

"I'm not clear as to what payola is or isn't," said Don McLeod after he became the third disc jockey to leave Detroit radio station WJBK and WJBK-TV.

McLeod, 34, resigned from WJBK yesterday, explaining later to newsmen that the move was over a "difference of opinion." Another WJBK disc jockey was fired for taking payola and a WJBK-TV disc jockey resigned.

McLeod's resignation came as Storer Broadcasting Co., owner of the two stations, stepped up its investigation into payola — the taking of gifts to plug records — at its five television and seven radio stations.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

"I resigned over a difference of opinion which I would rather not go into," said McLeod, who conducted a popular program for music-loving teenagers called McLeodsville U.S.A.

"I realize it is not an opportune time — that it's not very smart of me. And I realize that by saying no comment (about payola), I'm laying myself open."

★ ★ ★

Tom Clay was fired Saturday by WJBK after admitting he took payola. Clay said he received about $6,000 in 18 months to play certain songs on his record show.

Dale Young resigned Sunday from WJBK-TV, where he conducted a show called Detroit Bandstand.

All three disc jockeys were favorites of Detroit's teen-aged set.

Newscaster Jac LeGoff, of WJBK-TV, was fired last week. The station said LeGoff had editorialized on payola on a newscast.

LeGoff was reported being considered for a position on Detroit's WXYZ-TV. John Pival, manager of the station, refused to comment on the report that LeGoff was being considered for a variety show. He said several people were under consideration for the position.

★ ★ ★

In New York, rock 'n' roll disc jockey Alan Freed, who has lost both his radio and television outlets here, says he has plenty of work to keep him busy.

Freed and WNEW-TV parted ways Monday even after the disc jockey signed a statement for the station denying he ever had accepted payola.

★ ★ ★

The station said it wants to take over control of all its record shows. The Freed show was a package deal, controlled entirely by Freed.

He was fired Saturday by WABC radio after he refused to sign a similar statement. He said then he was insulted that the station would ask him to.

★ ★ ★

In Viterbo, Italy, Police held former radio crooner Fulvio Pazzaglia today on Italian-style payola charges.

Pazzaglia was accused of promising about 1,300 would-be singers a fame that never came and collecting tens of thousands of dollars in return.

In Great Britain, the question of "payola" comes up in Parliament today, but disc jockeys and music publishers there say it's purely academic — that the practice never took root in British broadcasting.

At today's session of the House of Commons, Laborite Roy Mason — who used to be a jazz drummer himself — will ask Postmaster General John Bevins to rule "record-boosting programs" off the air "in view of discrimination."

And in Australia, Postmaster General Charles Davidson told the House of Representatives today he was looking into the payola operation in Australian radio and television.

Citizens for Michigan Launch Drive in County

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

Oakland County residents who haven't already heard of Citizens for Michigan probably will between now and Dec. 15.

A steering committee of 35 persons met last night at the Birmingham Community House to launch an intensive campaign for membership in a county committee of CFM.

They announced a general membership meeting for 8 p.m. Dec. 15 at the Pontiac Northern High School gymnasium.

"We'd love to set up for 200 and have it overflow to 2,000," said Murray D. Van Wagoner, chairman of the Oakland CFM.

★ ★ ★

George Romney, president of American Motors Corp., founded the statewide Citizens for Michigan in hopes of bringing about the rebirth of citizen participation to help solve Michigan's problems.

Regional committees like Oakland's, which will be subdivided into chapters, will study four basic concepts.

They are:

1. What services do Michigan citizens need from their state government?

2. How should these services be paid for?

3. How should the state government be structured to carry out its responsibilities?

4. What can be done to accelerate Michigan's economic growth and its cultural and social development?

"One's responsibility as a citizen is third only to his responsibility to his family and church," Romney stressed to the Oakland group.

Although CFM is a nonpartisan organization which will support no candidates or platforms, it will attempt to sell its recommendations to both parties by next year's fall elections. Democratic and Republican leaders alike have pledged their consideration of the findings.

"My conviction grew for this organization as Khrushchev came over and began to flout in our face that this country is dominated by economic and minority groups," declared Romney, a resident of Bloomfield Hills.

Along with a drive for Oakland members, a drive has been started for funds, according to C. Allan Harlan of Bloomfield Township, a member of the state board of directors.

As a safeguard against any individuals or groups dictating the group, no pledges exceeding $100 will be accepted, Romney said. Harlan said the state organization has set up a budget of $75,000.

Van Wagoner, former Democratic governor, said he expected the Oakland committee probably to be divided into 25 or 30 different chapters, all of which will study the four basic fields.

It will be up to the statewide committee to gather all recommendations—only to be considered will be those where there is unanimous agreement—from 14 regions and to draft a proposal to present to both parties by next June.

In discussing how to sell the organization, Robert Browning of Royal Oak warned:

"It takes some time before you can convince people this is the greatest thing ever." He has prepared 300 letters soliciting members.

"This is a beautiful chance for all those people who want to help their state but don't want to declare their political faith," Van Wagoner said.

County Resident Killed as Auto Rams Abutment

A Madison Heights man was killed last night on the U.S. 16 expressway in Novi when his car rammed an abutment of the Novi road bridge.

A witness told Brighton state police that the car driven by the victim, Bernard J. Tyler, 49, 676 Kalana St., went out of control near the bridge, veering off the expressway and onto the shoulder of the road.

Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole said that the westbound car rammed the abutment with such force that special equipment had to be used to pry the auto open in order to free Tyler's body.

Its speedometer needle was stuck at 65 miles an hour, he said.

Union Monitors Win One Round

Judge Letts Will Issue Subpoenas to Use in Ousting Hoffa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Court-appointed monitors of the Teamsters Union today won a preliminary legal round in their campaign to oust James R. Hoffa as president of the big union.

★ ★ ★

They obtained from Federal District Judge F. Dickinson Letts sweeping powers to investigate their allegation that Hoffa had misused funds of Detroit Local 299. Hoffa is president of the local, as well as the International union.

Letts said he would issue subpoenas asked by the monitors and would authorize them to take testimony under oath concerning financial transactions of Local 299.

In asking for authority to conduct the investigation, the monitors said that if they establish that Hoffa violated a court order he should be removed as president of the International union and put on trial looking to his expulsion as a union member.

Chairman Martin F. O'Donoghue of the three-member panel of monitors told news men he intended eventually to offer testimony in court concerning Local 299's financial dealings.

BACK TO JAIL — Three Oakland County sheriff's deputies check back into jail six Clarkston area boys who chose serving out balance of 25-day terms rather than pay fines or be placed on probation for vandalism. The youths are (from left) James B. Lowe, Kent R. See, Kenneth F. Stock, Gary R. Beach and Jerry N. Terry. Obscured behind Terry is Thomas E. Robey.

They Prefer It to Fine, Probation

6 Youths Take Choice---Jail

Six of seven young Clarkston area boys received a stern lecture yesterday and then chose to spend Thanksgiving in jail rather than pay fines and be placed on probation for rowdyism.

The alternative was offered the boys — all but one of them high school graduates — by Circuit Judge Theodore F. Hughes, who called them "bullies" and their missile throwing escapade cowardly.

After the judge questioned each of the nervous boys, he sentenced each to pay a $100 fine or serve 10 days in the county jail and ordered them on two years probation.

In addition, Judge Hughes ordered the gang disbanded, telling them they could associate only with the two friends each specified as the closest chums, and imposed an 11 p.m. curfew on the seven.

Then the judge interposed: "If any of you don't like the sentence you can serve out your jail terms instead."

Up popped Thomas E. Robey, 19. To the surprise of their attorneys, five of the other boys stood up also, indicating they'd take the judge's alternative.

The parents of the seventh youth, Cecil H. Weber, 17, 4461 Elmdale, Drayton Plains, motioned for their son to stay seated. He did. After conferring with his attorney, Weber who was found guilty by a Circuit Court jury, said he rather take the fine and probation.

The boys were part of a gang of 12 that went on a rampage of egg throwing and other malicious mischief last month. They were caught when they heaved stolen eggs at the car of an off-duty deputy sheriff. Police said the gang had been "terrorizing" the Clarkston area for some time.

Independence Township Justice William H. Stamp sentenced 10 of the boys to 25 days in jail. They appealed the sentence — their attorneys called too severe for the crime — to Circuit Court. Six pleaded guilty Oct. 27.

Marched off to jail yesterday with Robey of 5 S. Holcomb St., Clarkston, were Jerry N. Terry, 18, of 94 N. Holcomb St., Kent R. See, 19, of 8480 Andersonville Rd., James B. Lowe, 19, of 6141 Overlook Dr., Gary R. Beach, 18, of 5751 Main St., and Kenneth F. Stock, 18, of 5421 Andersonville Rd., all of Clarkston.

Sitting in a row waiting for their interrogation by the judge, the boys, although twitching uneasily, retained their composure. But as they were marched out of the courtroom handcuffed together, Stock began to cry while others joked and laughed. Stock made insulting gestures to a news photographer.

Terry, attired in a suit and necktie like some of the others, chose to serve out the balance of his jail term despite telling Judge Hughes:

"A weekend over there (the jail) was enough for me. I was sick."

The judge said the days the six had already served before they appealed would be deducted from the 25.

Before he issued his alternative, Judge Hughes asked each of the boys why they shouldn't finish out their jail terms like another member of the gang, Gary L. Norman, 18, 6247 Snowapple Dr., Clarkston. Most replied they thought the terms too harsh.

Emmett J. Leib, himself a justice of the peace and attorney for See, urged probation for the boys instead of bringing them in contact with hardened criminals in the jail.

Another attorney, Brakie J. Orr, said, "Maybe the fault lies somewhere other than with the boys themselves." He criticised Clarkston for not having sufficient recreational facilities.

Norman, who was a spectator in the court with a friend, stood up and defended his buddies when Judge Hughes said the gang had stolen the eggs. Norman said he later made restitution.

The boys denied making statements while out on bond that they would get even later. All but Robey have jobs.

They had no explanation for the judge who asked them how they, high school graduates from good families, could get in so much trouble. Few of the parents were in the courtroom.

When Will Summit Come? by June -- or Maybe 1961

LONDON (AP) — Diplomatic circles in London believe the date for the East-West summit conference is getting farther and farther away. But officials in Paris and Bonn say the meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev still is likely before June.

Diplomatic observers here cite the full schedule of engagements for the world's chief political leaders. They see signs that Communist China is trying to put the brakes on negotiations between the Soviet Union and the West.

There is speculation that the summit won't be reached until 1961, when a new American president will be in the White House.

But West German press chief Felix von Eckardt told newsmen Monday the prevailing opinion in Bonn is that the meeting will be held in April.

American and French diplomatic sources in Paris say the most logical date appears to fall somewhere between the last week in April and the end of May.

They agree that it can't be set before then. Khrushchev will visit France for two weeks beginning March 15. French President Charles de Gaulle will be in Britain April 5-8. Following that, Western discussion of the Khrushchev visit plus time required for technical arrangements could take up another two weeks.

DE GAULLE MAY BE HERE

There also is a possibility that De Gaulle will visit America sometime in May, thus pushing a summit date back some more.

There is a feeling here that Khrushchev might lose any desire for a meeting if it fails to materialize by mid - June. Several leading British newspapers point out that by then the U.S. presidential election would not be far off, and Khrushchev possibly would prefer to talk with the new president rather than outgoing President Eisenhower.

These papers maintain there is little to support Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's continuing display of confidence that an early summit can be held. They say his hopes received a rude setback when Khrushchev failed publicly to oppose De Gaulle's call for a slower approach to top-level negotiations, and when he agreed to visit France in March rather than in February.

Belief is also growing that Khrushchev already has lost much of his interest in an East-West conference, due to pressure from Communist China's Mao Tze-tung. According to this theory, Red China wants to prevent the summit meeting because it would not participate.

Plane Burns, Kills 7 at Chicago's Midway apartment, three-story building behind his house.

A woman living across the street from the Fracassis, Miss Gertrude Bolin, said, "repeated explosions" awakened her. She said what she believed to be explosions could have been roofs collapsing.

The three dead crew members were identified by TWA as C. W. Helwig, pilot; D. E. Waters, co-pilot, and A. L. Auge, flight engineer, all based at Los Angeles.

The 116-feet-long four-engine Lockheed constellation was running behind schedule and was due in Chicago at 1:50 a.m. It left New York with a 6,576-pound cargo including an aircraft engine and other freight, 99 pounds of mail and 106 pounds of express.

★ ★ ★

It landed in Chicago, unloaded some cargo and took off again for Los Angeles, TWA reported, when the warning of fire aboard the craft flashed on the instrument panel. The pilot began circling to return to Midway when the crash occurred.

First firemen arriving at the scene reported the entire area was ablaze. One woman ran from the blazing apartment building screaming "oh my God, my babies, my babies." She collapsed in shock.

John Ascher, chief of Chicago detectives, said there were four residents of dwellings killed in addition to the three airline employes.

The badly burned bodies of a man about 40 and a woman about 35 were brought to the morgue but could not be identified immediately.

Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn said the body of the pilot was found still strapped to his cabin seat 50 feet away from a building at 6355 S. Kilpatrick Ave. The co-pilot's body was recovered from the building.

Quinn said two other bodies were taken from the apartment building at 4651-59 W. 64th St.

Pontiac Fireman Gets Probation

Civil Service Verdict Considers Past Record at Dismissal Hearing

A Pontiac Fire Department lieutenant was placed on six months probation by the Civil Service Commission at a hearing last night.

Lt. Raymond R. Fay, 35, a veteran of 13 years with the department, faced dismissal charges for "failing to maintain good behavior and giving the department unfavorable publicity."

In their decision the three-man Commission stated that "due to his (Fay's) length of service and position in the department we do not recommend that he be dismissed."

The Commission ordered that Fay's penalty consist of loss of pay during his period of suspension and that he return to work Wednesday to begin a six-month period of probation during which time Fire Chief James R. White will file a monthly report on Fay's conduct.

Fay now faces examination on a felonious assault charge before Orion Township Justice Helmar G. Stanaback Dec. 1.

The dismissal charges were prepared by Public Safety Director George D. Eastman and Chief White and submitted to the Commission by City Manager Walter K. Willman.

Fay requested last night's closed hearing. The officer was arrested Nov. 6 after he allegedly went to the home of William H. Whitmire, 19, of 3715 Grafton St., Orion Township, armed with a shotgun.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies, who arrested Fay, said he demanded to see Whitmire who had been cleared in the knife-slaying of a Pontiac man, Louis Vanitvelt, 26, in a tavern brawl.

Fay is a friend of the Vanitvelt family. He was suspended on Nov. 9 by White.

Pius XII Library Best in World, Cushing Says

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston says the new Pius XII memorial library holds "the greatest single extant treasury of world culture and scholarship."

He spoke Monday night at a St. Louis University Founders Day dinner. The four-million-dollar library, dedicated Sunday, contains 600,000 microfilmed Vatican manuscripts.

The Day in Birmingham

Judge Emery Accepts City Traffic Court Award

BIRMINGHAM — Municipal Judge John C. Emery last night at the City Commission meeting was presented with the annual Traffic Court Award by the American Bar Assn.

The award, which began in 1947, is given to the court which has shown the greatest improvement in handling traffic cases.

Birmingham received this year's award for cities with a population of 25,000 to 50,000.

After the plaque was presented by Henry L. Woolfenden, of the bar association, Emery turned the award over to Mayor Harry Denyes.

Preliminary plans to build a three or four-story luxury apartment here were presented to the City Commission last night.

The apartment, proposed by the Wallace J. Newton Co. of Detroit, would comprise 85 units and be located on the west side of Woodward avenue, north of Oak street and south of the Colonial Terraces.

Newton asked that the property now zoned only for two-story structures be rezoned. Otherwise, Newton said, only 60 units could be built.

"If this were done, our architects feel that the building would be disoriented," Newton said.

"The apartment would not tower over adjacent property since the best part of our land is considerably lower than the front facing Woodward," Newton explained.

"We find it impractical and economically unsound to erect a fine building which would be overshadowed by the adjoining structures."

"We are asking that the property be rezoned so that we may erect a building that would be a credit to the community."

"I already have quite a few written commitments to rent the apartments," Newton said.

The plans call for an underground parking lot, Newton said.

The commission accepted City Manager's L. R. Gare's recommendation to assess only businesses fronting alleys on both sides of Woodward avenue from Lincoln avenue to 14-Mile road when it is determined that the alleys be paved.

Though no petitions to pave the alleys have been received, the Commission directed Gare to gather cost estimates of the paving should the work be done in the future.

"Normally, where an alley abuts business property on one side and residential property on the opposite side, the procedure is to place that portion of the assessment, not carried by the city, against the businesses and not the residential property," Gare said.

"To my knowledge this is the way previous assessments within the city have been made and I feel it is equitable."

Mental Patients Need Gifts, Too

Remember Sick Souls, Director of Relations at Pontiac State Says

Pontiac State Hospital today appealed to the community to remember the "forgotten souls" in the institution at Christmas time.

"A large number of the 3,100 patients is not going to be remembered unless the community pitches in and lets these lonely sick people realize that somebody is interested and cares about them," said Ted Panaretos, director of community relations.

"The patient who is remembered retains his dignity and has a reason to want to get well and return to his respective community again as a useful member of society."

Panaretos listed the following items as examples of things the patients can use:

★ ★ ★

Christmas cards for the patients to mail out of the hospital or exchange with other patients, stamps, cigarettes, cookies, cakes, writing material, gift wrapping, ribbon, cloth and thread.

★ ★ ★

Games to help pass the time away: checkers, cards, monopoly, jig-saw puzzles, scrabble sets, ping pong balls and paddles; soap, tissues, deodorants, talcum powder, wallets, cosmetics (not in breakable jars), art supplies and equipment.

Clothing could include sweaters, gloves, handkerchiefs, socks, slippers and similar items.

Packages should state their contents and the name of the donor so that the hospital can thank the giver on behalf of the patients.

★ ★ ★

They should be addressed to Ted Panaretos, director of community relations, Pontiac State Hospital.

★ ★ ★

The deadline date is Dec. 11.

"Don't send perishable goods or glass containers," Panaretos cautioned.

No Relief Is Indicated in Northwest Floods

By The Associated Press

The worst floods in 26 years plagued northwest Washington today, with no immediate relief indicated.

Hundreds of persons have been forced from their valley homes. Hundreds of others have been rescued from the Green River Valley and from the Snohomish River area, in the Seattle area.

Thousands of acres of rich farmland were flooded within a radius of about 50 miles. The disastrous floods resulted from torrential rains, strong winds and heavy snow that had covered mountains and melted into swollen streams that poured into valleys and rivers. Nearly 14 inches of rain drenched the area in a week.

Unofficial estimates placed the damage in the millions of dollars.

Rain fell in the warm moist air in the Gulf states while rain and snow hit the upper Great Lakes region, most of the upper Mississippi Valley and in parts of Illinois and Iowa. Skies were clear in California, the Great Basin region and from Arizona and Colorado eastward to Texas. Oklahoma and Kansas. Partly cloudy to cloudy weather prevailed in other areas.

A rain belt extended from Georgia and Alabama northeastward through the eastern Ohio Valley and Mid-Atlantic states to the lower Great Lakes and New England.

There was no severe cold. Temperatures were in the 20s in parts of Minnesota, North Dakota and Michigan.

Valentine Wife, Sawchuk Become Citizens Here

Among 62 foreign-born persons to become naturalized American citizens in Oakland County Circuit Court today were Terry Sawchuk and Mrs. Lin Kven Lee Hong.

At least to hockey fans, Sawchuk needs little introduction. He is goaltender for the Detroit Red Wings.

Mrs. Hong, 25, needs a little more introduction. In 1956 she traveled 8,000 miles to Pontiac from Hong Kong, providing her husband of today—Custer S. L. Hong, proprietor of the China City Restaurant, Waterford Township—with the best Valentine ever.

He first met her when she was 12 years old, crying on a Hong Kong street. She was an orphan. When Custer came to this country in 1949, he began a long series of correspondence with Lin which ended with her arrival here three years ago.

Mrs. Hong, the mother of two children, said she was a little nervous at today's ceremony. Her husband said she was most proud of her becoming a citizen because she wanted to vote.

The Hongs live at 1067 W. Huron St., Waterford Township.

Sawchuk, a veteran of nine years in the National Hockey League, said he started in August of last year to become a citizen because his wife is one. The sawchuks live at 8676 Golfside Dr., Commerce Township.

The 29-year-old native of Winnipeg, Manitoba, his face scared from puck- and stick-inflicted injuries, was asked if he was nervous during the ceremony.

"Shucks, this was nothing," he replied.

HOUNDED POOCH — Butch, the mentally disturbed boxer whose unsociable attitude has been blamed on an unhappy puppyhood, seems to appreciate the sympathy of dog psychiatrist Robert Horsfall in London late last week. Because of his tendency to attack all other dogs, Butch's psyche is being probed at the Canine Defense League's School for Problem Dogs. After a session on the analyst's couch, it was determined that he was the victim of an inferiority complex produced by unsuccessful run-ins with older dogs in his puppyhood.

Son Settles for Quarter Million
John Sues Astor Estate

NEW YORK (UPI)—John Jacob Astor has agreed to settle his claim against his half-brother's $123,000,000 estate for a tax-free $250,000, it was learned Monday.

★ ★ ★

Agreement to the settlement was to be filed this afternoon in Probate Court at Poughkeepsie, N.Y., where the will contest suit was scheduled to go to trial today.

Vincent Astor inherited the bulk of the estate of their father who died aboard the Titanic before John Jacob's birth. Vincent left the bulk of his vastly increased fortune to the Vincent Astor Foundation.

The younger brother was not mentioned in the will and was reported to have claimed he was almost penniless.

It was understood that today's agreement provides him with a quarter-million dollars free and clear, with the estate paying any taxes due on the sum.

John Jacob Astor filed a contest to the will and in pre-trial examination contended that his half brother was under undue influence and mentally incompetent to make a will at the time he signed the document in June 1958. He died the following February at the age of 60.

★ ★ ★

He had no children. The will provided a two-million-dollar settlement for his widow.

De Gaulle, 69, Aims at Algeria

Fetes Birthday With Hope for Peace in the Next 12 Months

PARIS (UPI) — Gen. Charles de Gaulle, who turned 69 Sunday, was reported hopeful of bringing the five-year-old war in Algeria to an end before his 70th birthday.

★ ★ ★

With birthday greetings showering down on him from world leaders, the French President was back at his desk after a speaking tour in which he told crowds in several cities that the "road to peace" in Algeria has been found.

At a reception in Colmar he was reported to have told members of Parliament from Alsace Province that a settlement in Algeria "will in any case come before the end of 1960."

That would give de Gaulle's 70th year dramatic luster.

★ ★ ★

The general, with his well-known sense of personal destiny, is reported to be vividly aware of that and to be determined to make his prediction come true.

2 Moving Parts in Newest Type of Car Engine

NEW YORK (AP) — An American company and a German firm have developed a light, cheap, efficient internal combustion engine with only two moving parts.

The Curtiss-Wright Corp. and NSU Werke of West Germany developed the engine jointly.

Curtiss-Wright chairman Roy T. Hurley said Monday the motor combines the best features of the reciprocating piston engine and the gas turbine or jet engine.

He said it will go into production next year with models ranging from 100 to 700 horsepower to be available for cars, boats, planes or industrial uses.

The engine requires no valves, springs, camshafts, connecting rods or any other similar parts required in a reciprocating piston engine. The only moving parts are the rotor and the crankshaft.

Purdue's Golden Girl Gets Lenient Term

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Pretty Sandra Hutchinson, 21, former Purdue University "Golden Girl" accused with her mother of shoplifting, slipped into court Monday to receive a six-month suspended sentence.

Shirley Hutchinson, 47, Sawyer, Mich., schoolteacher mother of the girl, also received a suspended sentence. Each was fined $116.

They denied guilt, saying they were unable to find receipts for the items, but pleaded guilty "because it would cost too much to fight the case."

Government to Ponder Manistee Harbor Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The proposed $1,735,000 Manistee, Mich., harbor project will be considered by the Rivers and Harbors Board at its Dec. 15 meeting, spokesmen for the Army Corps of Engineers said today.

★ ★ ★

Local interests have sought the project since 1955, to make the harbor accessible to the larger boats which will sail the St. Lawrence Seaway. The expense of replacing the Maple street bridge at Manistee, necessary to deepen the harbor, made federal help essential, they say.

James Lee, 33, Writes Huckleberry Finn Script

Lansing Man Happy at Son's Fame

LANSING (AP) — James H. Lee, a member of the State Public Service Commission, has lived a life of challenging and exciting experiences.

But few have given him as much pleasure as watching the progress of his son, James, a top Broadway playwright.

The younger Lee, 33 is the author of the play "Career" which won critical acclaim and has been adapted as a motion picture and is now being shown throughout the country.

He also wrote the script for the prize-winning Omnibus production of Boswell's Life of Samuel Johnson.

Right now Lee is in Hollywood to write the movie version of "Huckleberry Finn."

He is married to Neva Patterson, a Broadway and Hollywood actress. The couple maintain homes on both coasts.

The elder Lee early became identified with Democratic Party activities. In 1904 he was given a scholarship to Illinois College by Williams Jennings Bryan.

Lee came to Lansing in 1910 at the age of 22 as the youngest state senator ever elected in Michigan.

Prior to his appointment to Public Service Commission, he served for 44 years as an attorney for the city of Detroit.

Modified Chemical Cures a Fatal Cancer in Mice

NEW YORK (UPI) — Merely by making changes in an out-of-the-way chemical, scientists produced an agent which protected 44 out of 50 mice from a death-dealing cancer.

This is yet another reason why so many scientists expect human cancers to yield to chemical treatment some day.

The chemical — phenazine — has no anti-cancer activity. It is derived from the aniline dye chemicals which stem from coal tars. Some of these are quite the opposite of anti-cancerous in that they can cause cancer.

The scientists changed phenazine by impregnating its molecule with oxygen. This also brought nitrogen atoms into the molecular structure and resulted in a comparatively simple compound, phenazine di-N-oxide.

With this compound, they challenged the Ehrlich tumor, a widely used experimental and highly malignant cancer of mice. It was transplanted into 70 mice.

★ ★ ★

Fifty of these mice were injected with the chemical daily for five days. At the end of 30 days, 46 of the 50 were alive and apparently healthy. They were destroyed and dissected and in 44 of the 46 there was no cancer.

★ ★ ★

The remaining 20 of the 70 mice got no chemical. These were the "controls." All 20 were dead of cancer in 10 to 17 days.

Dr. Dooley Wins Cancer Battle

Missionary to Laos Seems Cured; Slates Return to Work

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Dr. Thomas A. Dooley, St. Louis missionary with a hospital in Laos, said Monday night he has temporarily won his battle against cancer.

"No definite extension of the cancer was found and the doctors completely approve of my returning to Laos," Dr. Dooley said after a series of tests.

"I say temporarily only because there is always the possibility of a return," he said. "I'll have to have a monthly checkup, but it is one I can do myself."

Dr. Dooley plans to return to Laos Dec. 4. He underwent surgery Aug. 28 for removal of the cancer from his chest wall, and has been on a fund raising tour since then.

His remarks were made in a telephone interview by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

'Fiorello' Draws Rousing Approval

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — An explosive little man who once stood New York City on its political ear gets a rousing salute in the new Broadway musical, "Fiorello!"

The show, an arrival Monday night at the Broadhurst Theater, is an entertainment landslide even for a spectator from afar who may somehow have missed hearing of the preliminary years of Fiorello H. La Guardia, the reform mayor of the big town in the 1930s and 40s.

★ ★ ★

Mixing sentiment, satire and elections, "Fiorello!" rampages through the zestful era from World War I into the roaring 1920's. The frenzied rhythm of the period gives director George Abbott full opportunity to indulge his fair for high - pitched movement and coloration.

★ ★ ★

In the title role a Broadway newcomer, Tom Bosley, performs with polished verve in interpreting the bombastic outer eccentricities and the compulsions beneath the surface La Guardia.

Composer Jerry Bock and lyricist Sheldon Harnick have fitted "Fiorello!" with several lively melodies and Peter Gennaro has steered the dancing contingent with vim and precision.

Soviets Rush Projects to Overtake America

Chairman JOHN MCCONE of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) and his staff have returned from a tour of Soviet atomic installations. They report that they saw nothing to indicate that the Russians are ahead of us in nuclear development and feel that in certain areas the U.S. is in the lead.

What impressed the group was the fact that once the Soviets decide on a course of action there is no delay. The project is rushed to completion. Mr. McCone cited two examples:

Near Moscow the Americans were shown a plutonium reactor designed to breed more fuel than it consumes. The plant was planned and built within one year. We have no such reactor in this country. In the second instance the Soviets designed and built within 10 months a giant thermonuclear experimental machine known as OGRA.

★ ★ ★

Both these projects, said Dr. MCCONE, would have taken much longer in the U.S. and he warned that "if we are to continue our leadership in the atomic field and indeed, if we are to match the Soviets in other scientific areas, we must find ways . . . of consolidating our scientific and technical efforts . . . on an urgent basis in pursuit of the early accomplishment of important objectives."

★ ★ ★

The head of the AEC again reminds us of the fact that we are in this contest for technological and economic superiority and that we should and can move faster along that road.

Bourguiba's Election Welcomed by West

The people of the newly independent Republic of Tunisia have shown their approval of Pres. BOURGUIBA'S policies by returning him to power with 99 per cent of the votes.

In this first general election the National Assembly consists entirely of Bourguiba's National Union Party. Early in the campaign a few independent candidates withdrew and in the election the Communists were completely routed getting only 3,500 votes out of over a million.

★ ★ ★

Tunisia is not a member of the Arab League, is pro-Western and at the present time has no diplomatic relations with Egypt. Nevertheless Algerian rebels have found refuge in Tunisia despite protests from France. However, when Gen. DE GAULLE offered a new plan for Algerian self-determination, BOURGUIBA was quick to urge the rebels to negotiate.

★ ★ ★

Pres. Bourguiba's strong support of North African freedom and federation of Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco coupled with his moderate approach to these matters have won him the respect of the West. The results of the election show that his own people value his leadership also. It should have a salutary effect on the French-Algerian situation.

Swedish Power Plant Entirely Underground

A great industrial development has just been completed in Sweden. It's a water power station entirely underground and the largest in Western Europe.

★ ★ ★

At Stornorrfors on the Ume River, 175 miles south of the Arctic Circle, the Swedes have constructed the most powerful hydroelectric generators and turbines in the world. The tailrace tunnel is almost 2.5 miles long with a cross section of 4,200 square feet.

Since the river is of great importance for timber driving, a 3.5 mile floatway capable of handling 25,000 logs an hour, had to be built from the supply canal to bypass the tailrace tunnel.

Begun in 1953 the plant's capacity of 375,000 kilowatts, enough to supply the city of Stockholm, comes from three generators in an underground room 41 by 60 and 95 feet high. The power station was constructed by the state power board at a cost of $50 million.

Private companies will continue to provide 50 per cent of the total power for the country. State board plants will account for 42 per cent and local authorities the remaining eight per cent. While Socialist Sweden has over 1,000 hydroelectric plants, only 50 are owned by the government.

★ ★ ★

Public and private producers have solved their difficulties by working in a voluntary association to coordinate distribution through a national grid. The government, as it should, undertakes only those projects too expensive for private enterprise.

"Don't Worry—They've Got Their Heads Together"

David Lawrence Says:

Public Should Study Steel Facts

WASHINGTON — Not long ago there was a hue and cry about the unknown "facts" in the steel dispute. It was widely argued that the American people were entitled to know why they were being subjected to such a costly strike. But when the "facts" do come out, who pays any attention to them?

LAWRENCE

Just a few days ago the 11 steel companies made public a new offer. It contained a signal retreat by the employers on certain points they had insisted on before. It proposed some increases in pay. It gave reassurance that employes whose jobs might be affected by layoffs due to the introduction of new machinery would be given certain benefits.

Yet union spokesmen, in denouncing it, have used such words as "infamous" and "gall" and other emotional phrases which hardly are conducive to a spirit of good will in collective bargaining.

The companies did not at the outset make their proposals public, giving them instead to the unions to study first. But when the new offer was rejected, the companies made it public.

How many people, especially among the steel employes, had an opportunity, then or since, to read what was offered? How can the processes of public opinion function effectively if the facts that are available are not widely disseminated?

PART OF STATEMENT:

The statement issued for the 11 steel companies says in part:

"Among the improved insurance benefits offered by the companies are that:

"1. The companies would pay the entire cost of life insurance and sickness and accident insurance heretofore paid for jointly by the companies and the employes. This includes life insurance after retirement.

"2. The scale of life insurance for which the companies will assume the cost will be generally increased to provide insurance ranging from a minimum of $4,000 up to $6,500 for active employes.

"3. The companies would pay for continuing life insurance for up to six months in the event of layoff, with coverage available for an additional 18 months at a cost of 60 cents per month per $1,000 to the employe.

"4. The sickness and accident benefits for which the companies would also assume the cost, would be increased to a new scale of $53 to $68 per week.

"5. Employes with two years or more of service could continue coverage for the first six months of layoff under the existing hospital and surgical insurance program which would remain on a contributory basis.

"The net result of the companies' proposal relating to insurance would be to increase the employe's insurance benefits and to reduce his contribution to the insurance program, thereby increasing his take-home pay."

The plan not only includes improvements in the pensions paid to those who retire but supplemental unemployment compensation is also pledged.

In addition, the companies would agree with the union "to protect employes' seniority rights for up to five years against a break in service in the event of layoff, or physical disability, or both."

If the committee members disagree, the issues would be submitted to a board of arbitration, with the recommendations to be binding on both parties.

Yet the union leaders reject all this out of hand and accuse the employers of trying to deprive the workers of "hard-won gains and protections."

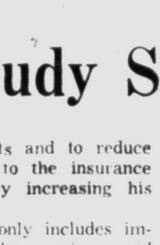
The Country Parson

"Great men are not created at the rate of 40 hours a week."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Gouging Entire Tonsil Tragic Chance to Take

One of the many reasons why so many doctors detest me and my blankety-blanked column is that I advise parents not to permit perpetration of tonsillectomy upon their children.



DR. BRADY

Note carefully, please, that I say tonsillectomy. Tonsillectomy means removal of the tonsils — a formidable major operation that proves fatal to many children and some adults.

Tonsillotomy is entirely adequate treatment for enlarged tonsils. Tonsillotomy means clipping, cutting off the obstructing portion of tonsil. It is instantaneous.

It is no more dangerous than extraction of a tooth. It requires no more anesthetic than does extraction of a tooth. It gives at least as good results as the most successful tonsillectomy does. And as far as I have been able to learn tonsillotomy has no mortality rate.

I have bulging files of newspaper reports of the tragic deaths of children on the operating table or immediately after the perpetration of tonsillectomy. I have yet to hear of a fatality from tonsillotomy.

If there is any reason why a child with enlarged (hypertrophied) tonsils and or adenoids should be subjected to this very dangerous operation, some smart operator should spell it out for us in words of one syllable.

Lest we get too technical about it, it may be well to emphasize these facts about tonsillectomy:

(1) More or less tonsil tissue remains in the throat after most tonsillectomies — dissecting in a blood covered field it is difficult to make sure you have removed every bit of tonsil.

(2) In many instances the operator inadvertently removes portions of throat muscle along with odds and ends of tonsil, and this doesn't improve the patient's singing or speaking voice.

(3) There is nothing malignant or injurious to health in tonsil tissue — so why the insane desire to "get every bit of tonsil"?

It is reasonable to believe, as many physicians do, that round-cell or adenoid tissue, which composes tonsils and other structures in the body, is functional, contributing to natural defense against infection, particularly respiratory infections which give physicians most of their everyday work. This is another argument in favor of tonsillotomy and against tonsillectomy.

COMING TO SENSES

Although tonsillectomizing chilparents close their eyes to the dreadful death rate, more and more physicians are coming to their senses these days and employing conservative methods of treatment. The doctors tell me so in personal communications.

I have said nothing about infected tonsils in this piece. The enlarged tonsils of children are seldom infected. Neither tonsillectomy nor tonsillotomy is advisable for infected tonsils, in my opinion.

If infected tonsils or a focus of infection in tonsil is a diagnosis and not just a surmise, the method of choice is electro-coagulation — which pasteurizes, sterilizes, disinfects, drains or destroys the septic focus or area of infection, without too much damage to the surrounding normal tonsil tissue.

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Voice of the People

Reader Says People Must Wise Up About Politicians

I am so "burned up" at the way people uphold ex-President Harry Truman and splatter his speeches all over the front page of some newspapers that I can't keep still any longer.

★ ★ ★

Why doesn't the old coot realize he is a "has been" and go back and sit down where he belongs? He is so senile he thinks he is very important to our country. And what did he do that was so wonderful when he was President?

He plunged us into the Korean War which took the lives of many families' beloved sons for one thing and what did it accomplish? Absolutely nothing!

And I could name many other things that were badly bungled during his administration.

Can you imagine Mr. Eisenhower (whom he criticizes continually) saying anything like, "Give 'em h–?" which Mr. T. seems to think is a real cute saying but which sounds very uncouth and undignified for a former President of our country to use.

While I am writing this I may as well sound off a little about Soapy also. It is a laugh when he gets on the TV with his smug smile and blames the Republicans for the sorry condition of our state.

Who has been the governor for the past 10 or 12 years? (I forgot how long he has been running it. Surely seems ages.)

Or haven't we had a governor? How long will it be I wonder before the Michigan people will wake up?

Trade Battle With Reds Looms as Great Fight

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — What happens when the Soviet Union really gets rolling? Premier Nikita Khrushchev talks blithely of peaceful, economic competition. It sounds almost jolly and sporting. It could be deadly.

It's a long-range thing and the kind easy to lose sight of in the more immediate problem of trying to work out a way of getting along with the Soviet Union to cut down on armaments and avoid the possibility of war.

Yet the question of competing with the Communist world may become the greatest challenge the United States has ever faced.

It's a question brought to mind now by the direction the Eisenhower administration is taking in giving loans to needy nations. It's been called "Buy American."

It means that if backward countries need American money to buy things, then they should spend it in this country. If they want money to buy things elsewhere, then let them get the loans elsewhere.

Recently the administration nudged its West European allies to do more on their own in lending money to needy peoples overseas. There was a time, during the 1940s, when they were too broke to do that. We did it. Now they can do some of it.

The reason behind the "Buy American" idea — without getting into the complex economics of it — goes like this: This country is still selling more abroad than it is buying abroad. But the gap is getting narrow.

And American money is flowing overseas in other ways, too. For instance, in American investments overseas, in money spent on American troops and bases, and so on. The result is that this country is sending out a lot more than it is getting back.

Yet, this whole idea of "Buy American" is being heatedly debated and challenged. The argument will get worse when Congress returns.

Still, far in the background like a ghost, is that challenge of Khrushchev to the United States to eliminate military competition and compete with the Communist world economically.

Right now there is not much danger to this country from such competition. The Soviets still are not abreast of us industrially and, because they want big armaments, they are still far behind us in producing consumer goods for their own people.

They will overcome that in time. So will the rest of the Communist world. And, since their living costs and pay scales are much lower than here, the things they eventually will make for the world markets should cost less than American goods.

You can be sure the Communists will use trade for a double purpose: to make money and to influence other peoples in their direction.

If relations between this country and the Communist bloc remain peaceful, then the day is also coming when they will probably try to compete with American goods in America.

FACE STRUGGLE

Some day the United States almost certainly will have to face this kind of competition, particularly since the state-owned means of production under communism can take a loss on one item it wants to sell and make it up elsewhere.

Under the American free-enterprise system, the government as we know it can't do that unless it subsidizes an industry in order to help it sell below cost.

This problem isn't immediate. But it lies ahead. The United States and the rest of the free world will have to find a way to solve it. This is long-range, to be sure. But it seems to be a problem which must be faced inevitably.

'HELP' Plan Builds Conversation

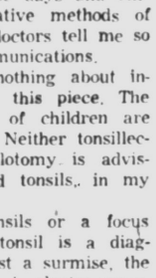
Doris has already seen rich dividends result from using the "Compliment Club" just one month. But supplement it with the "H-E-L-P" strategy outlined below, for these two techniques can make you girls popularity queens even if you haven't a classy chassis. Scrapbook this case.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE D - 408: Doris D., aged 17, is the blushing girl mentioned yesterday.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane," she reported to me a month later, "I have changed my attitude a great deal about blushing.



CRANE

"And I believe you are right, for I notice that boys seem to like me despite their teasing.

"They hang around me at parties and act almost as if they hope I will blush so they will have something to talk about. But your strategy of having me analyze my companions for good points on which to pay them compliments, has also helped a lot.

"I now feel more sure of myself, so I blush less often. But sometimes I find a pause developing in conversation, and then I get self-conscious, which makes me blush. So how can I keep conversation flowing smoothly?"

H-E-L-P STRATEGY

In such a dilemma, million of other men and women also feel humiliated by these embarrassing pauses in conversation.

"Help, Help!" is their unvoiced thought.

★ ★ ★

So utilize that very word "H-E-L-P" as the memory device by which to shatter that awful pause with a new conversation starter.

Take the letter "H," which stands for "Hobbies."

Ask your companion if he ever collected bottle caps or stamps or old coins, or pads of safety matches, etc., when he was in grade school.

Or inquire if he had a home chemistry set or work bench, or if he liked to draw cartoons.

This opening wedge will usually start your companion upon conversation and soon you may both feel at ease as you engage in gay, effortless repartee.

But if "H" proves a dud, or you exhaust its conversational value, then move over to the letter "E," which indicates "Entertainment."

And when you ask him a question, try to give him two choices, for it is much easier for him to make a choice than to evolve an original idea in reply to your question.

For example, inquire if he prefers football to baseball. Does he think track builds up an athlete's health better for later life than does basketball.

★ ★ ★

Or does he think TV will spell the doom of Drive-In Theaters and commercial movie houses.

Does he prefer to read the book or see the movie version of a modern novel.

POPULARITY SECRETS

Boys would rather date girls who can make them feel important than movie stars or local beauty queens who keep them uncomfortable because of long pauses in conversation.

So a jolly girl who helps her companion make conversation without effort or strain, soon gets asked for a second date; then a third, etc.

Girls, repartee will win you far more dates than cosmetics, though you are entitled to use the latter, too.

A classy chassis and a slick paint job are desirable but girls win their sweethearts more by what they say!

So shift over to "L" when those first two "veins" run out of ore. The "L" refers to literature, including comic books, magazines, plus the novels assigned in English literature classes.

Finally, fall back on "P," which refers to "Politics," but don't get into bitter debates.

Instead, ask if he thinks 18-year-olds should vote, or if we should continue drafting American boys when England has stopped her draft.

Objectors Present at Waterford Twp. Board Meeting

Delay Street Light Hearing to Dec. 7

A street light hearing was postponed when objectors appeared at last night's Waterford Township Board meeting.

Owner of 14 lots in the Golfview Park Subdivision, Gordon C. Bates, 115 Tyler St., Highland Park, protested the assessments for seven unoccupied lots on Clive street and seven on Goldner drive.

"It seems very impractical to install lights for all those vacant lots located on roads the county refuses to maintain," Bates said.

The Board advised Bates to present a written protest to be heard at the postponed hearing stated for Dec. 7.

Two other residents, Del Wright, 4110 Elizabeth Lake Rd., and his brother Kenneth, 4439 Elizabeth Lake Rd., took the opposite stand. They want more lights in the subdivision so the assessments will benefit their property.

★ ★ ★

Of the 286 property assessments in the subdivision, 50 per cent of those affected had signed petitions for the street lighting. Each lot assessment is $2.40 annually for operation.

The township pays 10 per cent of the total $687 for the lights.

TO MAKE CHANGES

Altogether, there will be nine major adjustments to the original plan made by Supervisor Elmer Johnson before the next hearing.

In other business, consulting engineers Harold Hickman and Edwin M. Orr of Dearborn presented background activities of their company regarding sewer and water installation.

Problems of drainage, financing and public education for the need for a sewer-water bond issue were discussed by the two men.

Johnson said the township primarily was more interested in land planning at this time. Orr replied:

"I don't think we are interested in that project," and left the meeting.

However, a special meeting has been called for 7:30 tonight when the Township Board will meet with township engineers Johnson and Anderson, bonding consultant Milton Thomas and Oakland County Advisory Committee chairman Louis Schimmel to discuss all phases of township improvements.

Trustee John Coleman commented:

"I certainly hope we can get off the ground soon and get something started on the sewer and water situation."

The Board approved a request from Township Treasurer Mrs. Dorothy Olson for the hiring of four extra women at a maximum wage of $2 per hour to take care of tax statements and collections. Their work will be completed in early spring.

Clerk James Seeterlin was authorized to pay $150 rental fee for the civil defense portable hospital set up at the Community Activities Center. The county splits the rental cost of $300 with the township.

Rhodesia Track Man Critical After Crash

MOUNT PLEASANT (UP)—John Winter, 25-year-old quarter-mile champion of Southern Rhodesia, remained in critical condition today from car crash injuries that claimed the life yesterday of Yotham Muleya, 19, Northern Rhodesia's three-mile champion, and two others.

Whether young Winter ever can run again still is a question. He suffered fractures of both legs and a hip, plus a punctured lung. A tube was inserted to drain an internally bleeding lung cavity.

The Rhodesians came here only a week ago for a good will tour of the United States under the State Department's educational exchange program. They were en route to the NCAA championship cross-country race at East Lansing when their car and another collided on a rain-slicked and foggy highway yesterday morning.

Sen. Hart Seeking Laws to Help Negroes Vote

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UP)—Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich) has called for federal legislation to end what he called the disfranchisement of many Negro voters.

Hart placed heavy emphasis on his own pending bill to create a congressional elections commission with power to register voters and conduct elections for U.S. senators and representatives. This power now is in state hands.

N.Y. Teacher Fired for Balking at Board Order

MOUNT KISCO, N.Y. (AP) — John R. Worley has been fired from his $8,650-a-year teaching job for refusing to file detailed advance plans for classroom studies.

The district Board of Education fired Worley Monday after finding him guilty of insubordination.

The trial of the chairman of the English department at Fox Lane High School attracted crowds last week.

Worley, 38, married and father of two children, balked at a new rule directing him to file with the principal an outline for classwork two weeks in advance. He argued that school administrators have no business interfering with his classes.

In an eight-page decision, the school board said "the freedom to teach is not synonymous with the license to do altogether as one pleases, free of administrative direction or restraint."

★ ★ ★

The board said the rule was designed to keep teachers thinking ahead, enable administrators to check on class progress, and help substitute teachers.

Father, Sons in Business Scheme

Face Bad Check Charges

A father and his two sons, who were partners in a 'windling Farmington Township water softener business, have found themselves confronted with both criminal and civil prosecution for a bad check scheme.

Emmett F. Delaney, 60, formerly of 5285 Putnam St., West Bloomfield Township, and his two sons, Robert M., 29, and Edward F., 39, yesterday pleaded guilty in Wayne County Circuit Court to issuing checks without sufficient funds.

Meanwhile, two lawsuits have been started in Oakland County Circuit Court trying to collect $2,609 from the trio.

The father also is awaiting sentencing in the Oakland court for stealing a number of water softeners over a six-month period which another firm stored in his warehouse, at 32385 Northwestern Hwy. He pleaded guilty to larceny in a building.

The Delaneys, police say, admitted they participated in the scheme to get their business going.

Partners in the Rite-Way Softener Service, the Delaneys handled some $76,000 in checks between Sept. 23 and Oct. 13, according to State Police Detective Jack Woolley. An estimated $15,000 in bad checks resulted, he said.

Some of the money was put back into the Brighton State Bank to cover checks already written, according to detectives. They said the father wrote checks to the sons who cashed them at bars and grocery stores.

Rule Hits Only Student Pilots

But FAA Urges That All Take Lessons on Flying in Poor Weather

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Federal Aviation Agency said Monday its new requirement that private pilots take special training in how to fly safely in bad weather will apply initially only to those licensed after next March 16.

The main impact, therefore, will be on student pilots.

FAA said it has not decided how the regulations will be applied ultimately to all private pilots. However, the agency said it is strongly urging all pilots to acquire the emergency capability as a safety measure.

The goal, FAA said, is to get the other pilots to take the training as they learn its value.

The FAA emphasized that the new rules do not require that pilots learn to fly by instruments. The special training will qualify the pilots only for emergency use of some instruments by familiarizing them with the instruments.

The pilots will be required to accomplish certain maneuvers and meet certain standards under the new rules.

The FAA made the statements in clarifying an earlier impression that the new rules applied to all private pilots. Although many pilots already were reported taking the instruction, indications were that a blanket order would halt the flying of others, especially the small plane operators.

New York to Decide Soon on Fluoridation

NEW YORK (UPI)—The nation's largest city will decide soon whether to follow smaller cities by fluoridating its public water supply.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner made public a report yesterday which showed it would be feasible to set up a fluoridation plant to fight tooth decay. The report said it would cost $888,950 a year to maintain it.

Wagner said he is convinced the plant should be built and will make a formal proposal to that effect in the board of estimate.

Baltimore was incorporated as a city in 1729.

Insists He Is Not Guilty of Kidnaping

Touhy Free After 25 Years in Prison

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — Roger Touhy, Prohibition era gangster who schemed for freedom and sued for it, today walks out of Stateville Prison after serving 25 years for a kidnaping he says was a hoax.

★ ★ ★

Announcement that Touhy, 61, would be released was made Monday night by Warden Joseph Ragen and the State's Parole supervisor, T. Edward Austin.

★ ★ ★

Austin said his office had approved Touhy's plans to live with a sister, Ethel Alesia, in Chicago. Austin said requirements that Touhy have employment before his release were waived because of his age and because of a back injufy which renders him unable to do strenuous work.

The State Parole and Pardon Board's decision Nov. 13 to parole the former Chicago beer baron ended a long series of legal maneuvers by Touhy.

★ ★ ★

He has insisted that he was imprisoned for the 1933 kidnaping of John (Jake the Barber) Factor, a onetime confidence man, on the basis of perjured testimony. His efforts to win freedom went before the Illinois Supreme Court twice and before the U.S. Supreme Court three times.

★ ★ ★

In 1942, he went over Stateville's 32-foot wall with six other prisoners but was recaptured 83 days later. He was given a 199-year sentence for his part in the break, but Gov. William G. Stratton in 1957 cut that term to 3 years and the kidnap sentence to 85 years.

Touhy tasted freedom once again in 1954 — for 48 hours — when the late U.S. District Court Judge John P. Barnes ruled the Factor kidnaping was a hoax and because, he said, the conviction was obtained on perjured testimony. The release was overruled on an appeal, and Touhy was sent back to prison.

★ ★ ★

Touhy, known as "The Terrible" in the 1920s when he was a gang leader with a working agreement with the old Al Capone gang, told reporters when he was granted a parole: "All I want is to live in peace for the few years left for me. I hold no grudge and I'm not looking for revenge. I'm not bitter. I just want to get out of here."

Allies Told Horn of Plenty Runneth Low

Open Trade Gates to Aid U.S. Purse

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

The United States has told its European and Asian Allies that the horn of plenty is running low.

Not low enough as yet to be a danger to the American economy, but enough to bring about a serious reappraisal of U. S. military and foreign aid expenditures and for the U. S. to tell its Allies that they now must help to shoulder some of the burdens formerly borne by the United States almost alone.

The result has been that in world capitals from Tokyo to London, other governments also have faced up to a reappraisal and with surprising unanimity have decided that the United States has carried the burden long enough. They will help.

Since 1949, with the exception of one year, the United States has had a trade deficit with other nations which by the middle of this year had reached a staggering total of nearly 15 billion dollars.

Accompanying the deficit has been a flow of gold away from the United States totaling nearly five billion dollars.

WARNED OTHERS

It has been a cause for growing concern for the reasons that no nation can exist forever on a deficit and that an unbroken outflow of gold eventually must be reflected in reduced faith in the U. S. dollar.

So it was for these reasons that U. S. Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon warned in a speech last October that either other nations must put their financial shoulders to the wheel or face the possibility the U. S. would take steps to protect itself.

In their extreme, these steps could mean a return to high U. S. tariffs and the development of a kind of economic isolationism.

The warning was aimed at those nations who have received unstintingly of U. S. aid, while at the same time erecting barriers against U. S. goods to protect their own recovering economies.

And it pointed up the inequality of a situation in which the U. S., in 1959 alone, suffered a four billion dollar trade deficit while others prospered.

These nations were quick to take the hint.

In rapid-fire order Japan, Britain and France announced moves to lift restrictions against the "Made in U. S. A." label.

Sweden noted that five times this year, she has reduced restrictions against U. S. goods, the latest this month lifting barriers against import of coal, coke, some woolens and some farm products.

★ ★ ★

In the just concluded meeting of the GATT nations (General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade), it was announced that eight other countries could be expected soon also to lower their barriers. They were France, Italy, West Germany, Norway, Australia, Belgium, The Netherlands and the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

Among the goods were agricultural and manufactured products including American automobiles.

Minister Digs Car Free of Oregon Drift

Family Safe After 3 Days in Snow

BEND, Ore. (AP) — A family of three reached safety Monday after being trapped in the snow without food for three days on a backwoods road.

Aside from exhaustion, however, the Rev. Laurence Loftus, 28, his wife and their baby son were pronounced in good condition after reaching this central Oregon town.

A search started for the family Sunday after the minister failed to turn up at his Methodist church at Sweet Home in western Oregon to conduct services.

The minister said he and his wife, Ruth, 27, and son James, 2, had set out for a picnic last Friday, gone across the Cascade Mountains, eaten lunch and then driven up a backwoods road where they got stuck in a snow drift.

During the nights they huddled in their small foreign car, with only the car heater and a blanket to keep them warm.

★ ★ ★

Once they tried to hike out on foot, but a wolf stalked them, the minister said, and they returned to the car.

He said he dug the car free Monday morning, and then drove to safety.

"Towards the end, most of our thoughts were prayers," he said.

Supreme Court Protects Thief

Says Police Employed Illegal Methods to Trap Man With Stolen Goods

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court declared Monday that suspicion alone is not sufficient reason for a police officer to lay hands on a citizen.

With this pronouncement, the court set aside by a 7-2 vote the conviction of John Patrick Henry of Chicago on charges of unlawful possession of three cartons of stolen radios.

The court majority, in an opinion written by Justice Douglas, said FBI agents investigating liquor thefts stopped with probable cause an automobile in which Henry was a passenger and discovered the radios. Further investigation developed that the radios had been stolen from an interstate shipment.

★ ★ ★

The FBI agents had no search or arrest warrant, and Douglas declared their actions were illegal and unconstitutional. He added:

"It is better, so the Fourth Amendment (unreasonable search and seizure) teaches, that the guilty sometimes go free than that citizens be subject to easy arrest."

★ ★ ★

Justice Clark wrote a dissenting opinion in which Chief Justice Warren joined. Clark said Henry's suspicious activities during a somewhat prolonged surveillance by the agents warranted stopping the car.

Trial Starts Today in School Bombing

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Segregationist E. A. Lauderdale goes on trial today on a charge of dynamiting the Little Rock School Board offices Labor Day evening—one of three bombings he allegedly plotted.

★ ★ ★

A plea for a change of venue by the 48-year-old lumber dealer was denied Monday in Pulaski Circuit Court. The stocky defendant, a director of the bitterly anti-integration Capital Citizens Council, said prejudice would prevent a fair trial here.

★ ★ ★

Two men who have been tried and convicted in the case, Jessee Raymond Perry, 24, and John Taylor Coggins, 39, drew three years in prison. Another man, J. D. Sims, 35, pleaded guilty and got five years. All implicated Lauderdale and Sims testified that Lauderdale was the leader of a plot to harass Little Rock for accepting school integration.

First pulpwood for a new paper mill in Catawba, S. C., was bought from nearby Neely's Creek Presbyterian Church. Members of the church harvested the pulpwood in order to enlarge their cemetery.

Park Areas Future Still Unknown

Toledo Mall Blocks Look Bare

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The four-block downtown mall where grass, evergreens and potted plants provided adorning greenery for 3½ months was back to bare paving today.

Bare, that is, except for smudges of mud left when bulldozers scraped the streets clear over the weekend.

Whether the mall, with its flowers, fountains and footpaths will again push the automobile out of this section of downtown shopping district is still undecided.

Originally, the mall experiment, which cost about $20,000, was to run for 45 days from Aug. 3. But there were several extensions, the last in order that 1,500 delegates to the Young Democratic Clubs of America Convention last week could view the project.

The streets were opened to traffic Monday.

Just how much the mall experiment helped the businessmen whose stores fronted on the temporary greenery has not been clearly defined.

Early in the experiment, merchants in that immediate area thought it was helping, while operators of stores nearby and not fronting on the mall were less enthusiastic. No recent surveys have been announced.

The Downtown Toledo Associates, Inc., a merchants' organization, chipped in with nearly $5,000 of the cost, and the city of Toledo paid the other $15,000.

A decision by city council is expected soon after Feb. 1 on whether permanent malls will be built. A number of legal questions have bobbed up—such as whether merchants may contribute directly to the cost of a permanent installation and whether Lucas County can participate with the city in financing.

Ned Skeldon, president of the board of county commissioners, has promised to "agitate for permanent malls in every way I can."

John Richards, chairman of the malls' technical committee, said he favors building permanent malls over the same blocks covered by the experimental project — between St. Clair and Huron streets on Adams St. and Madison Ave.

Skeldon favors installing the permanent malls one block at a time and estimates the cost would be $30,000 a block for the permanent alteration. City Manager Russell Rink believes it would take $40,000 a block, and Lawrence Murray, Toledo-Lucas County plan commission secretary-director, estimates $100,000.

The difference in figures is geared somewhat to the elaborateness of the plans. The temporary mall used 10,000 potted plants and 1,000 evergreens.

The citizens and shoppers on the whole expressed satisfaction with the mall experiment. Now that it has ended, they're likely to miss it, as indicated by the comment today of a housewife, Mrs. Tom Finn:

"After having a mall, the four blocks appear very stark and bare."

State Will Delay Employe Bonus

$2.6 Million Due This Christmas May Not Be Paid Until July

LANSING (AP) — Austerity notwithstanding, state employes are in line for their usual "Christmas bonus," $2,600,000 this year.

Because Michigan is 90 million dollars in debt, they may not actually get it until next fourth of July or thereabouts.

The State Administrative Board was expected to scrape out the state treasury later today in an effort to meet past-due November operating allowances for the three major state universities.

Also coming up for board decision was a two million dollar allotment for direct relief payments to counties Dec. 1.

Annual bonuses to state workers, formally called a longevity payment plan, were started in 1956 by the State Civil Service Commission to reward and retain long-time employes.

Ordinarily, they are payable Dec. 1.

Payments due range from $120 for six years service at the lowest pay levels to $460 for high salaried employes with 22 years or longer service. Most payments are in the $149 to $384 bracket.

The bonuses come due this year at a time when under an austerity order there are tight restrictions on out-of-state travel for official business, supply and equipment purchases and on filling of job vacancies.

Blood Test Clears Rep. Diggs in Suit

DETROIT (AP) — Results of a blood test "exclude" U.S. Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr. (D-Mich) as the father of a 5-year-old girl whose mother named Diggs in a paternity suit, the Wayne County prosecutor's office was told yesterday.

Diggs, 36, of Detroit, was accused by Mrs. Jacquline Gibbs, 26, also of Detroit, of being the father of her daughter.

The blood test report, signed by Dr. Wolf W. Zuelzer of the Children's Hospital of Michigan, read in part:

"The results indicated exclude the paternity of the defendant in the case of Angela, the child of Jacquline Gibbs."

Object to Loyalty Oath

16 Schools Boycotting Student Loan Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sixteen colleges and universities are boycotting the federal student loan program in protest against a loyalty oath requirement, the U. S. Office of Education disclosed Monday.

It said 11 institutions, which originally participated in the program, have withdrawn because of their objections to the oath. They are Harvard, Yale, Oberlin, Amherst, Bennington, Sarah Lawrence, Goucher, Grinnell, St. Johns of Maryland, Reed College of Portland, Ore., and Wilmington College of Ohio.

Five other well known schools, the office of education said, have refused from the outset to participate in the loan program because of the loyalty oath. They are Princeton, Haverford, Bryn Mawr, Swarthmore and the University of Richmond.

In establishing the loan program as part of the National Defense Education Act, Congress stipulated that every applicant must (1) swear allegiance to the United States and (2) sign an affidavit that "he does not believe in, and is not a member of and does not support any organization that believes in or teaches the overthrow of the United States government."

The Office of Education said that about 1,370 other institutions, enrolling 88 per cent of the total college student body, are participating in the program.

Some of them, however, have registered protests against the loyalty oath, and have urged its repeal. Among those who are thus participating "under protest" are Dartmouth, Johns Hopkins, Columbia University, Rutgers, Ohio State, Bowdoin, Colby, Bates, Colorado College, Denver University and the Universities of Connecticut, New Hampshire and Washington.

Grandmother Comes for Holiday

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Our annual Thanksgiving picture and story about a minister's wife and her preparations for the holiday centers around Mrs. Ralph C. Claus this year. Her husband is the pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church on Auburn avenue. They have four children: Julia, aged 13; Laura, aged 8; Chuck, aged 7; and Michael, aged 2.

Mrs. Claus' parents, the William Wahrows of Astoria, N.Y., came for a visit two weeks ago. Mr Wahrow had to go back to work last week, but Mrs. Wahrow is staying on for Thanksgiving — and as long after that as her daughter can keep her, the daughter says. An energetic little woman, Mrs. Wahrow fits right into the busy life at the parsonage.

MORE TO FAMILY

One other important member of the family is Tibbar, the pet rabbit. Fearful that their father might not be enthusiastic about such a pet, the children presented Tibbar to him as an Easter present last April. Tibbar doesn't know he's a rabbit; the Claus' say he acts like people.

In the winter he lives in a cage in the kitchen. When he sleeps, he hides his head in a cardboard tunnel. As a small bunny, the tunnel hid him completely. Now he looks like an ostrich. In warm weather Tibbar goes out in the yard wearing a harness. His newest food likes are brownies and peanut butter.

But back to the humans and their Thanksgiving which is not going to include Hassenpfeffer!

There will be eight people sitting down for dinner early in the afternoon. In the morning there will be church. Then the children will watch the annual parades on television while Mrs. Claus finishes the food preparation.

The menu includes roast turkey with Waldorf dressing; mashed potatoes and gravy; green beans with mushrooms; frozen fruit salad; ice cream and fruit cake.

To make the dressing Mrs. Claus uses prepared stuffing mix. To this she adds celery, nuts, chopped apples, raisins and melted butter.

Here is her salad recipe:

FROZEN FRUIT SALAD
By Mrs. Ralph C. Claus

1 package lemon gelatine
1 package lime gelatine
1 large can fruit cocktail, drained
½ cup mayonnaise
1 pint whipping cream, whipped stiff

Dissolve gelatne in hot water as directed on package. Chill until partially set. Fold in fruit, mayonnaise and whipped cream. Pour into mold and chill until serving time.

Someone wanted to know why we didn't save Mrs. Claus for a Christmas feature. Well, we're not sure, but she might be very busy at the North Pole about that time.

Hearty Pie Is Main Dish

Swiss pie — reminiscent of high Alps and quaint chateaus — has long been a favorite dish in Switzerland. Called "Quiche Lorraine" in that country, this wholesome entree is a tasty blend of Swiss cheese, milk and eggs baked to a golden perfection in a pastry shell.

And for the American homemaker who may want to prepare this flavorful foreign food, here's a suggestion for a hearty version of Swiss pie. Just add chunks of prime tuna — that real good meat from the sea — for flavor and aroma that are bound to have the family asking for more.

A mixed green salad and fruit cup for dessert will complete this meal designed to please every appetite.

Tuna Swiss Pie

1 can (6½-ounce) tuna
2 cups (½ pound) grated swiss cheese
2 teaspoons minced onion
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
3 eggs
1 cup milk

Drain fish and flake. Combine cheese, onion, flour and salt in medium-size bowl. Fill pastry shell with alternate layers of tuna and cheese mixture. Beat eggs and milk together, pour over fish and cheese.

Who Says Turnips Are Unpopular?

New cooks should learn to use as many vegetables as possible. Here's a small-size basic recipe for the often neglected white turnip.

Buttered Turnips

1 bunch (4) white turnips (about ½ pound after green tops are removed) ¾ cup boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
1 to 3 teaspoons butter or margarine
White pepper

Pare turnips; cut into ¼-inch cubes; there will be 1½ to 2 cups. Turn turnips, boiling water and salt into a 1-quart saucepan. Cook rapidly, covered, just until turnips are tender—about 10 minutes. Drain; add butter and pepper to taste. Makes 2 servings.

For best keeping quality, potatoes should be stored in a cool, dark place.

Creamy Lemon Sauce Goes With Many Desserts

In some countries a woman is recognized as a good cook if she knows how to prepare interesting sauces. Homemakers in this country are quite aware that sauces give personality plus to many foods.

A basic Lemon Whip Sauce can be easily made and kept for a variety of desserts. It's delicious as the filling for cream puffs . . . or can be varied for fruit cups or used as the topping for ice cream sundaes.

Lemon Whip Sauce

¼ cup fresh lemon juice
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 cup heavy whipping cream

Combine lemon juice, sugar and peel. Chill. Whip cream until stiff. Fold into lemon juice mixture. Refrigerate or freeze until needed.

Cream Puffs

Slit sides of baked, cooled cream puffs; fill with Basic Sauce. May be served plain or with slightly thawed frozen berries spooned over tops.

Ice Cream Topping

Spoon Basic Sauce over chocolate ice cream.

Creamy Fruit Cup

Blend 1 cup Basic Sauce with 1 cup sweetened orange chunks, ½ cup miniature marshmallows and ¼ cup toasted coconut. Spoon into sherbet glasses. Refrigerate several hours. Makes 4 servings.

Start Bacon Cold

Frying bacon? Place the strips as they come from the package (and the refrigerator) in a cold pan; do not try to separate. As bacon warms, over moderately low heat, it will be easy to place strips apart. Turn the bacon several times, so it will cook evenly; it will be crisp in six to eight minutes.

Cornish Hens Make Dinner a Success

Elegant main dish!

Stuffed Rock Cornish Hens

4 frozen Rock Cornish hens (each 14 ounces)
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup finely diced celery
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
½ cup boiling water
2 packaged herb-seasoned bread stuffing

Thaw hens completely; remove giblets; wash in cold water, drain and dry. Melt butter in a 1-quart saucepan over low heat; add celery and cook lightly. Add onion, boiling water and stuffing; mix well.

★ ★ ★

Stuff mixture into hens; turn wings back akimbo fashion; tie legs together. Roast on a rack in a shallow pan in a hot (425 degrees) oven for 1 hour or until skin is very brown and crisp and drumstick meat is very tender when fork is inserted. Serve at once. Makes 4 large servings.

Dear Abby Says Give Just Your Company

Popular Girl Is Wrong, Needn't 'Pay' for Date

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am cheap. Here is my problem: I am an 18-year-old girl who is considered quite popular. I have a good reputation. When a fellow takes me to a show or some place nice, I feel that I have to repay him for what he's spent on me. I don't go too far, but I can't turn him down when he wants to park. I am not "in love" with any of them. They are just nice dates. Afterwards I always feel cheap. When a boy has spent his hard-earned money on me, I can't say no. Is this wrong?

ABBY

NOT CHEAP

DEAR NOT: This IS wrong. When a fellow asks you for a date, all he is entitled to is your company. Unless you want to risk your "hard-earned" reputation, don't feel obligated to give a boy his "hard-earned" money's worth.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a person who is always late for an appointment? I realize that a person can be late once in a while for good reasons. But this certain person claims he thinks the world of me yet in all the time I have known him he has never been on time for an appointment. He is always anywhere from 30 minutes to an hour and a half late. I would like your remarks on this subject to be printed please.

LOSING PATIENCE

DEAR LOSING: The chronic "late-nik" lacks a very important quality, namely: consideration for others. I have never known a person who consistently kept people waiting who was not equally disappointing in other respects.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am going out of my mind trying to figure this out. I can't ask any body because nobody is supposed to know about it. When my mother married my father she was a widow with two-teen-aged daughters, one of whom had a baby fathered by my father before I was born. I was born five years later. What is my relationship to the baby my half-sister had? And what is that baby to my mother?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Your half-sister's baby is your mother's grandchild since it is the child of her daughter. The child is your half-sister (or brother) because you have a common father.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO JOE W.: Your dreams of being a detective are far from foolish. Ask for "THREE STUFFED OWLS" by Keith Robertson, (your school or public library has it). Here is a real cool mystery-detective story about two 13-year-old boys who run their own detective agency and do a neat job of it. (Don't let the title fool you. There's nothing babyish about this book.)

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a man who is very funny about money. Whenever he gives me a gift, he shows me the price tag. When we go anywhere he never fails to tell me how much the evening cost him. And he continually gripes about how expensive everything is.

I like him otherwise, but he makes me feel very uncomfortable because he is always bringing up money. My father says he will make a good husband. My mother says the opposite. What do you say?

UNCOMFORTABLE

DEAR UACOMFORTABLE: A man who makes you feel "uncomfortable" during the courtship is not likely to make you feel comfortable after marriage. It's all right to be conservative, but he sounds like he's all dollars and no sense.

Not Rude to Leave Girl Alone

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have just returned home from a week's vacation in Florida. I went with a girl friend of mine and we shared a room together. While we were there, I met a very nice young man who was staying at the same hotel. He invited me to go out to dinner with him one evening. I accepted and when I told my girl friend about it, she was very peeved and said that I was very rude to go off and leave her alone.

"I was very much hurt by her attitude and thought her very unfair. I feel that I was perfectly right in accepting this invitation and just because we went away together was no reason why I had to spend all of my time with her. I would very much appreciate your opinion on this matter as it has caused a rift in our friendship."

Answer: If you gave your friend sufficient notice so that she could plan for her dinner without you, you were certainly not rude in accepting the young man's invitation.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When our club news is written up for the paper, a friend insists that the name of a married woman musician on the program should be given as Mrs. John Doe. I think the musician's professional name should be used (Mary Doe or Mary Grant Doe or even Mary Grant) because her public doesn't connect her married name with the musician. I claim she is Mrs. John Doe socially and Mary Doe professionally. Will you please settle this controversy?"

Answer: You are quite right, her professional name, not her social one, is correct in this instance.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct way to sign Christmas cards when the family consists of mother, father and three children?"

Answer: You could sign it from, "The John Smiths — all Five" or from "The Smiths — John, Mary, Johnny, Marie and Tim." There is no rule about anything as informal as this.

Leonie B. Adams Says:

More Poetry, but Readership Lagging

NEW YORK (UPI) — Leonie B. Adams, America's "poet laureate" for 1960, said today that more poetry is being written than ever before in the United States but a smaller proportion of the reading public is poetry minded.

"When you consider the wide popularity of poetry in the Victorian age and in the highly productive 1915-25 period, you must admit that the present era is predominantly one of novels and non-fiction," said Miss Adams. "But several thousand serious poets are at work in our country, and I see hopeful signs that poetry is coming into its own again."

RECEIVED AWARD

Miss Adams received the coveted Academy of American Poets $5,000 Fellowship Award for "distinguished poetic achievement" earlier this month, based on her three slender volumes of lyric poetry. The award the nearest thing to an American Laureateship, has previously been held by Edgar Lee Masters, E. E. Cummings, Padraic Colum, Robert Frost, William Carlos Williams, and Robinson Jeffers.

"Many things have occurred in my lifetime to make the lot of the poet an easier one," said Miss Adams, who is nearing 60. "The many awards and fellowships established by various foundations are tremendously helpful in getting one's work published and in providing financial security, and equally important is the employment of poets by universities and poetry workshops all over the country."

Miss Adams has been teaching poetry since 1930. She presently instructs three courses at Columbia University and will teach at the University of Washington next year. She has taught poets who in turn have taught poets who are now emerging as leading young writers.

"Teaching is exhausting for the poet, but it is good for us if we are not drawn too fully into the academic life," she said. "I am glad when I can withdraw to my mountaintop home in New Milford, Conn., and my award money is going to give me a free summer up there to polish some of my new work."

RECOGNIZED EARLY

Miss Adams, who like the late Edna St. Vincent Millay was recognized as a major talent at the age of 19, is excited about the forthcoming republication of her volume of selected poems in an inexpensive, paperback edition.

"Poetry in paperbacks is catching on and attracting thousands of readers," she said. "Recordings of poetry readings are having increased sales, and there are a number of small magazines, some published by universities, that are printing good poetry and enjoying wide readership."

She does not think the beatniks will produce anything new in poetry because they are "technically univentive and abjectly romantic." But she does look forward to the development of something "quite different" in poetry as a result of the space age and the changes it will make in the life of man.

★ ★ ★

"Poets always have been credited with prophetic vision because they have had to come to terms with every crisis of human experience and looked in the inner recesses of their beings for knowledge of what is to come," she said. "This has resulted in new poetic imagery and language in the past and I am sure it will again."

Conserve Energy

Healthy Folk Abuse Selves

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It is a human trait to think that it cannot happen to us! Others may break a leg or become a victim of one of the chronic diseases or have a heart attack—but not us! No Sir!

I have written before about the madness of superlative health. Those who are blessed with an overabundance of vitality may be in greater danger than those who must care for and hoard a smaller store of energy.

★ ★ ★

It is a great temptation for the one who is never ill or tired to abuse himself. Actually many of those who have lived happily into late years were physical weaklings at middle age. They HAD to take care of themselves.

BEST INSURANCE

Perhaps having some handicap or physical ailment or weakness is the best insurance one could have for a long, vital life. Such folks know what they must do in order to survive and therefore follow the routine outlined for them.

Our health is more important to us than we ever know until we lose it. Haven't you often had the experience of recovering from a virus or bug of some sort and thinking, "I had forgotten how wonderful it is to feel well!" Health adds an extra bonus to life and is so well worth working for.

When you are in fine fettle movement is a pleasure, hectic situations seem humorous and we are too busy living to fret over nonessentials. We are too engrossed in interests, work and people, to be sensitive or self-conscious.

★ ★ ★

The search for or the care of health usually involves seemingly mundane routines such as getting enough sound sleep, relaxation, fine nutrition, regular exercise and maintaining a happy mental attitudes. When indulged in regularly these can make life glow for you.

★ ★ ★

If you would like to have my short routine of exercise planned especially for women, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 19 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Man Understands Women All Right!

RUTH MILLETT

"Why do women go to such great pains NOT to say what they mean?" asks a man who reads this column.

"My wife, for instance, almost never BUYS anything. She always comes home all excited over having FOUND the 'most adorable' hat or just the right lamp for the living room. What does she mean she FOUND them — when she walked into a store and charged them to me?

"My wife will work for weeks planning and preparing for a party that is to be her all-out social effort for the next six months and to which she'll invite anywhere from fifty to one hundred persons.

"But does she tell our friends when she is inviting them that this is going to be our big party for the summer or winter? Nope. She says, quote, we are having a few friends in, unquote.

"Another thing my wife is always telling me is that she got something for 'practically nothing'. When I finally pin her down, 'practically nothing' can mean anything from $2.98 to $200.98.

"That phrase, 'in a minute,' when used by a woman is very deceptive, too. If I come home starved and ask when dinner will be ready I am always told it will be ready 'in a mimute,' which sometimes means fifteen minutes, sometimes means a solid hour.

"And the way my wife 'saves' my money always costs me a pretty penny. She 'saves' by buying a $150 dress marked down to $75. But the catch is that she never would have considered it at the original price, so why does she think she's saving money by buying it at half price?

"She is also very proud of 'saving' me money by buying an inexpensive dress and then buying expensive hat, shoes and bag to make the dress look expensive. Women certainly can misuse that word, 'save.'"

For all your fretting it sounds to me as if you understand "woman talk" only too well.

NEW YORK (AP)—The cost of a marriage license here will go up from $2 to $3 if City Clerk Herman Katz has his way. He included the suggestion in a report on how to streamline the marriage license bureau.

Chevalier Names Ten Top Women

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Maurice Chevalier has always resisted Hollywood's publicity gimmick of selecting the 10 most beautiful girls or the 10 most anything.

"Now that I'm 71," says the French star, "it is safe for me to say anything about women. In fact, at 71 one is safe, period."

★ ★ ★

So here are the 10 most extraordinary women of the world as picked by Maurice:

"1. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt . . . She has added more greatness to the Roosevelt name.

"2. Queen Elizabeth . . . a lovely and gracious queen.

"3. Marlene Dietrich . . . The very essence of glamor.

"4. Grace Kelly . . . one of the world's most beautiful women.

"5. Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev . . . for her touching gentility and comportment during her recent visit to America.

"6. Brigitte Bardot . . . an authentic Parisian beauty.

"7. Madame Yvonne de Gaulle . . . her steadying influence in assisting a great man attain his goal.

"8. Aviatrix Jacqueline Auriol . . . for proving women can be just as brave as men.

"9. Marian Anderson . . . humility and nobility.

"10. Joan Crawford . . . all the qualities of a great artist and person."

Ashes Can Fool

After-party clean-up should not include the ash trays, unless you can dump their contents directly into an incinerator, or covered metal pail out of doors. Otherwise, let trays stand on sink until morning. The cigarette you THINK is out is the one that starts the fire.

Young fashions do not belong on middle-aged women. Button caps, frivolous flats, layers of petticoats, giddy handbags with poodle trim all belong to the youngsters. You'll find many attractive fashions designed just for you.

'Bundle of Joy' May Bring Postnatal Blues

Doctors agree that every young mother is subject to postnatal blues. Back from the hospital, the props of security and service taken out from under her, she's scared and bewildered. She's on her own, with a tender young life in her keeping.

I may be a "bundle of joy," but it's more responsibility than shes' ever had. And the work has piled up while she was in the hospital. How is she going to face what lies ahead—her regular housework and the baby's care—and still cope? Will she size up to her new job?

★ ★ ★

This is the question that lies at the root of the nervous tension most mothers of first babies experience, according to a study made by a diaper service industry which included the emotional and psychological factors connected with motherhood.

BE PREPARED

Here are hints supplied by the counselors: Know what you're facing with the arrival of your first baby. You can't prepare for all emergencies, but you can eliminate a great deal of worry over trifles. Attending pre-natal classes is one of the best ways of conquering your worries.

If no such classes are available in your community, your doctor will be glad to give you the necessary instruction. If you have a friend or relative, who has recently successfully managed an infant, she will be a good source of help in day-to-day problems.

Don't at first try to learn everything about child care and rearing. Take a phase at a time. Find out what you have to know to keep your baby healthy and contented. Then tackle each new development as it arises.

DO JUST 'MUSTS'

Don't wear yourself out with unnecessary chores. Make a list of the musts. Then a list of the chores in order of their importance. Take advantage of all the labor-saving services at your disposal, such as prepared baby foods and diaper service.

★ ★ ★

Learn to budget your time to best advantage. Be your own time-study engineer. Note how long a given operation should take and allow sufficient time for it, so that you don't get that harassed feeling that time is running out. Fit your work and leisure schedule into the baby's. Plan the necessary jobs like cooking, cleaning, laundering, while baby is napping.

NAP OFTEN

Plenty of rest is essential not only to your well-being, but to the baby. When you are tired and irritable, baby will be fretful. Remember, baby reacts to your moods. Naps while baby is sleeping, even if of short duration, are revitalizing. You'll do your work so much more efficiently for having had them. And don't feel guilty when you steal twenty winks—they're an absolute must.

★ ★ ★

Also, a good time to get a rest is while baby is feeding. Choose a comfortable chair and hold baby in your arms while you feed him — this serves a double purpose: it gives baby the attention and sense of security he needs and it gives you the rest and emotional satisfaction you should be getting from the nearness to baby.

Today's Story
"EVERYBODY SMILE"

Thanksgiving ranks on our list as one of the top "family-get-together" days of the year. Everybody's under one roof with nothing on the agenda but a hearty meal.

All of which leads us to suggest: Wouldn't Thanskgiving be a great day to take those pictures your whole family will treasure in later years?

If you don't have a camera able to handle the job, put us on your shopping list. We'll be glad to show you the new Brownie Flash 20 Camera that's ideal for snapshooting on Thanksgiving—or any day.

The Brownie Flash 20 has a built-in flashholder that makes indoor pictures every bit as simple as sunny-day shots. It also has a "zone focusing" system that makes all kinds of pictures extra easy. Just turn a dial, and you can take big close-ups of the small fry. Dial again, and you can take a big family group. (For outdoor pictures, there's another setting for taking sharp scenic views.)

Best of all, this camera lets you concentrate on your snapshooting. Once you take your first picture the film automatically locks into position for the next shot. No little red window to watch. And no chance for annoying double exposures either.

Sound good? So will the price!

Odor Epic Expert Says:

Smell Well? You're Heaven Sent

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Learn to smell and you have a future, says Selma Weidenfeld of New Brunswick, N. J.

Selma, an attractive young wife and mother, has been working her nose overtime ever since graduation from William and Mary College, in Williamsburg, Va., and now is acknowledged a top expert in the new science of aromatics, or, in the language of the movies, "The Smellies."

For the last year or so, Selma has been concentrating on creating the right smells for the first "smelly" movie, "Behind the Great Wall," a documentary film on China, to be released soon. When it appears, audiences will not only see and hear the story, but they also will smell it, says she:

"This is the greatest advance in movies since Garbo talked. Everybody remembers some certain smell connected with a certain time and place in the past — the smell of fresh bread baking in your grandmother's kitchen, the smell of the first lilacs of spring, the smell of fresh-turned earth in your mother's garden, the smell of coffee and bacon in the morning. Smells are an important part of memory and emotion. And if a story is to be realistic, you must not only see and hear it, but you also must smell it."

The new movie, the first of many to come, has a smell track in addition to the sound and vision track. Audiences will see, hear and smell the Chinese waterfront scenes, the forests and the temples.

Until the advent of smell movies, Selma was a specialist in perfumes for her company. Her trained nose could identify the ingredients of almost any smell, and her trained brain could figure out how to reproduce it.

In the new movie, some 35 scents accompany the action—the mingled smells of tobacco smoke, perfume and packed humanity in a night club, the smell of a river, the smell of a tiger, the smell of a man's leather boots, the smell of incense, sandalwood, team and hay. Says Selma:

"When we started this project we first saw the film, without scents, and then started figuring out how to produce the correct odors to add reality to each scene. Take the river smell — it's a mixture of foilage, fish, earth, air and water. That's a large order to combine in one scent, but we did it. I went down to a river in New Jersey, near where I live, and tried to analyze all the various smells that made it real. After experimenting in the lab, we called in a group of people and tested our results. If a majority of those present identified the smell as that of a river, we knew we were on the right track."

Getting the exact smell of a tiger was one of Selma's toughest assignments. She did it by visiting zoos and by talking with big-game hunters. Says she:

"There are few women in the field of aromatics at present, but there's a great future here for girls who are interested in chemistry. This is the field of the future — Smell-o-Vision. So few people have specialized in it that the opportunities are unlimited. Smell is the fourth dimension of the movies of the future. I'm training my own daughter in the science of sniffing. Any girl interested in a fascinating scientific future should take this hint and major in smelling."

Here's What U.S. Women Buy

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new and weighty (three pounds, four ounces) report on the American woman's buying habits came across this desk today.

Its loose leaf pages are full of interesting data on numbers owned, prices paid and frequency of use for everything from hats to hand lotions, from perfumes to pajamas.

The one major item in the family budget not covered is food, and Ralph J. Sharp, the statistician who supervised the study, said there were a couple of reasons for the omission—one, a lack of space on the questionnaire which ran four pages; and two, lack of need for such information, since the publication which underwrote the study is largely a fashion magazine and would capture little food advertising.

Sharp said 5,452 women, whose names were supplied by an independent research organization, replied to the detailed questionnaires.

Leafing through "The American Woman," I find that 86.5 per cent of us use lipstick, 80.6 per cent use hand cream; 87.4 per cent, deodorants, and 53.4 per cent, nail polish. Eye shadow, mascara and eye pencil fell well below the 50 per cent figure.

But we're pretty liberal with perfume—74.5 per cent of us use it, 32.6 per cent use it daily, and 40.3 per cent of us also use toilet water.

69 PER CT. SEW

The study, which covered the ages of 15 to 50-plus, showed that 69 per cent of us do some sewing at home. Of the total, 65 per cent make their own clothes, 42 per cent do household furnishings (slipcovers, curtains and so on), 43 per cent make children's clothes, and 10 per cent do men's clothes.

The average seamstress, however, spends only $22.64 a year on sewing for herself, $21.01 for the children, and $24.86 for the house. The amounts spent on men's clothing and gift items were even lower.

In ready-to-wear, the study found that 67.7 per cent of us purchased 3.3 new daytime dresses in the last year, in addition to the 7.3 we already own. We paid an average of $12.04 for each. Some 24 per cent purchased a new daytime suit, to add to the average 2.2 suits we already own. The average price: $33.75.

In hosiery, 86.2 per cent purchased an average of 8.6 pairs at $1.39 each.

We're a pretty well hatted nation, despite complaints from the millinery industry that the women are going bare-headed. The study found that 80.2 per cent of us already owned 4.3 hats each and two more were added in the past 12 months at an average price of $5.95 each.

The study also produced these statistics: 60 per cent of the women own some life insurance, 64 per cent took a vacation in the last 12 months, 57 per cent have a driver's license, and 31 per cent of the women were employed at the time, at a median income of $2,210 annually.

The bride, the former Carol Ann Ashbaugh, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ashbaugh of Marquette street. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McManus of Lake Orion.

Of delustered satin, the bride's ballerina length gown, worn by her sister, Mrs. Richard Kehl of Milford, at her wedding, featured a Chantilly lace bolero. She wore a fingertip veil of illusion with a sequin, seed pearl and rhinestone tiara and pearl necklace and earrings, gifts of the bridegroom. Her white orchid bouquet with streamers was centered by a prayer book.

Mrs. Kehl was matron of honor wearing a Kelly green gown of chiffon over taffeta with brown accessories and carrying a bouquet of yellow roses and white carnations and streamers.

Mr. Kehl attended as best man.

Christmas Greetings Are Big Business

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—A custom which began in England 116 years ago today is a multi-million dollar business in the United States.

The custom of sending Christmas cards each year edges a little closer the saturation point. The Greeting Card Assn., which represents the bulk of the manufacturers, said that this year, we will exchange 2,630,000,000 cards, 130,000,000 more than last year.

The cost will be $275 million, or about $13 million more than in 1958. Our postage bill will run an estimated $20 million.

Comparatively, five years ago we spent $217 million, on 2,054,000,000 cards, said Stephen Q. Shannon, the association's executive director.

Shannon said the sending of greetings is an ancient Chinese custom; the oriental celebrated the new year with messages of good will and cheer.

But the first known published Christmas card appeared in London in 1843, when John Calcott Horsley, a painter and illustrator, created a card for Sir Henry Cole, first director of the Victoria and Albert Museum.

By 1860, the custom was well established in Britain. In 1875, cards appeared in the United States market — made by Louis Prang, a Boston lithographer.

His had all the frou-frou typical of the Victorian era — some were cards designed for wall decoration and equipped with heavy silk cords. Some were edged with inch-long silk fringe. Other folded cards dripped with tassels. Some even were encrusted with blown glass frosting.

★ ★ ★

But none carried the symbols typical of today's Christmas — mistletoe, Santa Claus, bells and candles. Prang used his favorite flower — the Killarney rose.

Today's cards are rarely so elaborate, but the designs are far more numerous — an estimated 40 thousand, of which 25 per cent feature a religious motif.

In the religious group, the most popular design is the Madonna, which accounts for 18 per cent, followed by the three wise men, the holy family, churches and manger scenes in that order.

In the nonreligious group, the bold titles account for about 15 per cent of all designs. These are cards which display a single word such as "Noel," or a boldly lettered message — "Merry Christmas," or "Season's Greetings."

Santa Claus accounts for 11 per cent of the nonreligious cards, followed by winter scenes, floral motif, candles, animals and birds, in that order.

Soap Paste Helps Unloosen Mold

If any of your do-it-yourself projects require pouring plaster into a mold, here's a handy hint. Brush the mold with a thick paste or soap or detergent suds before you pour the plaster.

Later, this makes it easy to separate the solid plaster from its mold.

Rochester Council Moves Toward Annexation

Convalescent Home to Open

Twin Beach Clubhouse in West Bloomfield Completely Remodeled

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The former Twin Beach Clubhouse will get a new lease on life the first of the year when it reopens as a rest home for the aged and convalescing.

★ ★ ★

The large, one-story structure, which hasn't been in use the past several years, has been completely remodeled, said its owner Neil Sanderson, 1651 Playsted Rd., Union Lake.

★ ★ ★

He said the building, at Richardson road and Forbush street, will be called the Orchard Lake Rest Haven.

Sanderson, who bought the 27 year-old building 18 months ago, said that in the past seven months $100,000 has been spent in modernizing it.

Another $60,000 will be spent in furnishing the rest home, Sanderson added.

It is nine miles west of Pontiac on a two and a half acre site less than a block from Dodge Park No. 1.

"The elderly guests will have no trouble finding areas where they can walk and spend their days strolling through parks and scenic spots," Sanderson said.

"Not only are we close to the park, but we are just a short distance from Middle Straits Lake and the new Twin Beach Clubhouse.

★ ★ ★

"Everything has been done to aid the elderly guest that will be staying at the home.

★ ★ ★

"In fact, we have installed individual thermostats in each room for the comfort of the patients."

He said the home will have private and semi-private rooms, and four and nine-bed wards.

Sixteen persons will be employed by the home when it is opened, Sanderson said.

Farmington Voters Approve Three School Board Proposals

By JIM LONG

FARMINGTON — Voters here yesterday approved three school proposals that will enable the Farmington School Board to construct new schools and meet operating expenses.

★ ★ ★

Some 3,025 voters, less than 25 per cent of those registered in the Farmington School District, turned out at the polls.

Only the proposition calling for a 2-mill increase was close when ballots were tabulated last night.

★ ★ ★

The proposition which called for a $2 per $1,000 of assessed valuation just edged by with a vote of 1496 to 1484.

★ ★ ★

The first proposition, calling for the transfer of $463,000 from a previous bond issue, was approved 2,005 to 907.

Proposition two asked that voters approve a $3,000,000 bond issue to defray the cost of erecting and furnishing a new junior and senior high school building and a new elementary school building. Voters approved the bond issue 1618 to 1276.

Gerald V. Harrison, superintendent of the Farmington School Board, said that the proposition calling for the 2-mill increase was the only one that would cost taxpayers money.

He said the increase would show up on tax rolls in Dec. 1960.

★ ★ ★

Harrison said the $3 million bond issue would not increase taxes since the first payment won't come due until 1961, and by that time it will be possible to reduce rate on previously approved bond issues enough to offset the rate that will be added by the $3 million bond issue.

★ ★ ★

"It is gratifying to see the citizens respond and approve the propositions after the long work that has been put in by persons interested in the school program," Harrison said.

Authorizes Survey of Water, Sewage Cost for Southern Area

By LEE WINBORN

ROCHESTER — A preliminary move by the Rochester Village Council last night could lead to annexation of large commercial and industrial sites south of the village limits.

Members voted unanimously to authorize a survey of South street and the property fronting on Rochester road south to Avon road to determine the feasibility of providing village water and sewer service in that area.

Diversion street also will be included in the engineering survey to cost an estimated $750.

The authorization was given in response to a request by the South Hill Development Committee, represented at the meeting by its secretary, Mrs. Hazel Smith, administrator of Avon Center Hospital.

Other signers of the request were Larry Jerome, Dr. J. W. Eastman, Keith Crissman, Harold L. Pocklinton of Leader Dogs for the Blind and R. J. Clark of Detroit Broach and Machine Co.

In its petition for service, the committee said that after the survey, if the estimated costs for construction are found "reasonable and desirable," members would support a proposal to incorporate with Rochester.

Village Manager Paul York said the main object of the petitioners is to get the services they know they cannot have unless the boundaries of the village are extended to include their properties.

Councilmen agreed that the village would benefit by having more water and sewer customers and that annexation of these parcels would open a large industrial area.

Two representatives of the New York Central Railroad also were present to explain the railroad's proposed centralization plan as it will affect Rochester.

Designed to modernize and improve the efficiency of its station agent system, the new plan would go into effect after the first of the year.

★ ★ ★

Among the features would be free telephone service from Rochester to the freight service center in Dtroit and free pickup and delivery of merchandise in the Rochester area.

The railroad also would have a traveling representative in the district.

The company spokesmen said the reposed plan would mean no change in freight service and in the passenger train schedule.

Before the plan goes into effect, the railroad must present a petition to the Michigan Public Service Commission after which a public hearing will be held.

★ ★ ★

In other business, the Council voted to start legal action on condemnation of the house at 333 Woodward St. which was the home of Mrs. Cora Barwick before it was gutted by fire last New Year's Day.

This decision was reached following an investigation of the property by the village manager, fire chief and building inspector.

After the fire the Council allowed a group to try to restore the building. The investigating committee said no work has been done in the past six months and that now the structure constitutes a safety and health hazard.

Condemnation, according to the village ordinance, means the house must be altered, torn down or moved within a specified period.

In other action the Detroit Edison Co. was authorized to install street lights in the new Rochester Meadows subdivision.

City Attorney Asked to Act

Demand Troy Airstrip Ban

By DICK HANSON
Suburban News Editor

TROY — Immediate action prohibiting the location of an airstrip next to a school and in a residential district was demanded by alarmed citizens at last night's City Commission meeting.

Stirred by the angry protests, commissioners sought to put the new strip out of operation immediately, quoting the City Charter which stipulates that the commission can prevent any annoyance dangerous to the people.

They were stymied in this action, however, by City Attorney Stanley Burke who said this charter provision is contrary to state laws and thus unenforceable.

Spokesmen for the more than 75 residents in the area of the Roy Moore farm, living for the most part in Hills Acres Subdivision between 18 and 19-Mile roads, Millard M. Corbin, demanded immediate action.

He told commissioners that yesterday a light plane had again landed on the airstrip, passing less than 50 feet over roof tops and endangering over a hundred youngsters in Troy Union Elementary School.

Commissioners asked the city attorney what could be done to rid the area of the airstrip which they deemed a threat to children and others.

Burke said he was checking over city ordinances and felt that there was at least an implication that operation of an airstrip in a residential district was illegal, although nothing was difinitely spelled out.

PREPARE LAW

In addition, he said, the City Planning Commission was preparing an ordinance that definitely would outlaw such a situation.

Petitions bearing 75 signatures protesting location of an airport or landing strip on the Moore farm have been presented to the city commission. Corbin said other petitions were being circulated throughout the city by the citizen's group he is heading.

The pilot using the airstrip under an agreement with Roy Moore, Robert H. Lash, told the Commission he was advised last August by the city manager there was no ordinance prohibiting the landings.

He indicated that other pilots also were interested in using the strip under a lease arrangement with Moore.

The commission instructed Burke to notify Moore today that the city is taking necessary steps to prohibit the landing of airplanes in residential district of the City of Troy.

The Commission felt that this action would persuade Moore not to negotiate further in the leasing of his property as an airstrip.

OTHER ACTION

In other action, commissioners authorized City Manager David Hasse to prepare final plans and specifications for installation of sewers to serve Pine Hill and Meadow Lane residents. They set a public hearing for Dec. 14 on the proposed Leonard lane sewer line.

Action on proposed ambulance service policy and top soil removal ordinance was tabled by the Commission for further study.

After five hours, the Commission barely got into new business on the agenda and adjourned the meeting until 8 p.m. today.

They will consider the appointment of a fire marshal and payment for emergency facilities used for Civil Defense. City Treasurer L. A. Rice will present a report on the Water Department through last September.

Burned by Bomb, Boy May Lose Sight

ROYAL OAK — A 14-year-old Royal Oak boy may lose the sight of both eyes. He was burned when a souped-up "car bomb" exploded in his face here yesterday.

John Kaminski, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kaminski of 820 Cherokee Rd., was listed in fair condition today at William Beaumont Hospital.

He sustained first degree burns of both eyes and his right hand. It is not known yet if the boy's sight has been impaired, hospital authorities said this morning.

Royal Oak police said the explosion occurred on the corner across from Dondero Junior High School where the boy is a ninth grader.

★ ★ ★

The youth told police he was showing the homemade bomb to a group of students. He then put a match to it, expecting it to burn slowly, but instead it blew up in his face, he said.

None of the bystanders were injured.

According to police, the boy had purchased the "car bomb" at a Royal Oak market, then stuffed it with explosives to make it volatile.

"Car bombs," the sale or use of which is outlawed in Michigan, are in themselves not considered explosive, only noisy. Police are investigating the store where the boy said he purchased his.

GOP May Lose Vote of Farmer

Sen. Aiken Foresees Policies Backfiring at Rural Polls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reaction to the administration's farm policies may lose some votes for the 1960 GOP presidential candidate, Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt) said today.

He predicted that result from what he called "the impression in farm areas the administration is not sympathetic to farmers." He mentioned North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota and Iowa as among the states where such an impression could cost Republican votes.

But Aiken added in an interview that farmers are losing their political influence in the nation as a whole as their numbers decline and their interests broaden. Less than 10 per cent of the nation is engaged in agriculture, he said, and the number is declining.

"A farm revolt would not have the impact of 15 or 20 years ago," Aiken said, "and about a third of the farmers are engaged in other businesses which would influence them to vote Republican."

Aiken, senior Republican on the Agriculture Committee, said he sees little chance of any major farm legislation next year.

The views of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson and Congress are so far apart, he said, that "the outlook for basic changes in farm law in the January session is very bleak."

"I can't imagine Congress passing an administration bill," he told reporters, "any more than I can imagine the President signing any measure Congress might pass."

Struck by Truck, Seeks $100,000

Walled Lake Mother Knocked Into a Lake, Put in Hospital

A Walled Lake mother is seeking $100,000 damages in Circuit Court for injuries suffered last summer when an auto transport, out of control, knocked her into a lake.

Mrs. Jeanette B. Roberts, 50, of 584 E. Walled Lake Dr., has sued the E & L Transport Co. of Dearborn and Harold H. Sneed, 30, of Byron, the driver of the truck which struck her June 5.

Mrs. Roberts, the mother of a 13-year-old son, said she was cleaning weeds from the beach in front of her home when suddenly she saw the truck, carrying four new autos, bearing down on her. She said she became frozen with fright, but started to jump out of the way when the truck hit her, throwing her into four feet of water.

She claims she was hospitalized at Pontiac General Hospital for 11 days, and three weeks later at a convalescent home for injuries she suffered in the accident.

The company was neglectful in allowing Sneed to operate the vehicle with his poor driving record, the suit claims. A charge of driving while under the influence of liquor was dismissed against Sneed because of lack of witnesses.

Sneed told police at the time of the accident he had little sleep the night before and had several beers that day.

Find 13 Dead Animals on Farm

Faces Cruelty Charges

DETROIT (AP) — Startled police arrested Orvel Hamilton after a tour of his Sumpter Township farm yesterday. And they were little inclined to believe his assertion that he cared for his more than 100 animals the best he could.

Officers found the bodies of six dead horses, four dead rabbits and three dead dogs lying around the farm. They said the animals appeared to have died of neglect.

Hamilton, 34, faces arraignment today in Romulus Township Justice Court on a charge of cruelty to animals.

A Humane Society officer said there was evidence that the animals died of starvation and malnutrition. Hamilton, a factory worker, denied that they had been mistreated.

Hamilton told police he has 17 horses, 25 dogs, seven rabbits, four goats, two cows, two pigs, 100 ducks and 20 geese. He said all of the horses died last Tuesday except one which he said had died about two weeks ago.

The farmer said sub-freezing temperatures may have killed the last five horses but that the first died of eating poisoned grain.

The remaining horses were taken to a nearby farm for care and an attendant was sent to the farm by the anticurelty association to look after the animals remaining on Hamilon's farm.

A bachelor, Hamilton rented the farm about five months ago.

The letter-answering program will start when the mailbox is set up Dec. 5 and continue through Dec. 20.

Set New Jury in Lynch Case

District Judge Against Recalling Panel From First Parker Probe

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — U.S. Dist Judge Sidney Mize will empanel a grand jury Jan. 4 at Biloxi to hear the Mack Charles Parker lynch case.

Mize said Monday the case would get priority over routine matters.

He said he advised U.S. Atty. Robert Hauberg of his decision to empanel a new grand jury at Biloxi rather than recall the existing grand jury in Jackson.

The Justice Department re-entered the case after the Pearl River County grand jury declined last month to act.

Parker, 23, a Negro truck driver was dragged from jail April 25 at Poplarville two days before he was slated to go on trial on a charge of raping a white mother in the presence of her 5-year-old daughter.

His body was found several days later in Pearl River. He had been shot to death.

Poor Family in Italy Afraid to Take Gift

SAN MARCO D' URRI, Italy (AP) — More than two weeks after their neighbors struck it rich, three residents of this mountain village still won't accept a gift of stock in the world's largest bank.

"Nobody in this world gives away money without asking something in exchange," said Gentile Cassinelli, 57.

★ ★ ★

"Mother says, 'never put your signature on anything and you'll keep out of trouble,'" added her brother, Mario, 53.

★ ★ ★

From a corner of the large, dirt-floored single room of their unpainted house their mother, Virginia Cassinelli, 81, glowered at the village priest and officials of the Bank of America who wanted the family to accept ownership of 75 shares of the bank's stock.

★ ★ ★

So for the fourth time in 15 days, the bank's representatives Monday trudged back down the twisting, mile-long trail from this village in the northern Italian Apennines with their job of giving stock to all local residents unfinished.

★ ★ ★

On Nov. 8 bank representatives delivered $340,000 worth of stock to the village on behalf of Victor and Joseph Saturno of Reno, Nev., whose parents were natives of San Marco d'Urri. The father — and then the sons — built up a fortune in Nevada.

★ ★ ★

Although the two brothers had never seen the village, they had heard about its poverty and wanted to help it as a memorial to their parents. So they offered 25 shares of Bank of America stock, a block worth about $1,200, to each villager.

Decentralized Bargaining Plea

NAM President Says All Suggested Curbs Would Limit Freedom

DETROIT (UPI)—The president of the National Association of Manufacturers said Monday decentralization of collective bargaining rather than increased government participation in labor-management disputes is the "logical remedy" for industrywide strikes.

Stanley C. Hope, speaking before the Detroit Economic Club, said decentralized bargaining would be a "way out which is consistent with individual freedom and infinitely preferable from both the union and management standpoint to having Washington, D. C., take over.

He said that "actually when a monopolistic union in a basic industry lays its demands on the bargaining table, it's the consuming public which sits on the other side of the table."

He said there have been proposals for fact-finding boards with settlement powers, compulsory arbitration, government seizures and labor courts to end industry-wide strikes such as the steel strike.

But he said "none of these is compatible with the principles under which Americans have always lived. They would lead to price-fixing, to production controls, to manpower regulation."

The bank is providing free of charge through Dec. 12 four different letters from Santa Claus and the envelopes for mailing. The letter can be addressed to any child and deposited in the Santa Claus Mailbox. The bank sends the letters to Santa Claus, Ind., for dispatch to Pontiac or elsewhere bearing a "Santa Claus" date mark. Mrs. Donald Doyon, 732 W. Huron St., one of the first customers to use the service, wants the secret kept from her son Michale that she's Santa's helper.

Williams Spikes Political Rumor

Lansing Buzzed With Report Governor Won't Run Again

LANSING (AP) — A report that Gov. Williams passed the word he will not seek a seventh term was spiked by the governor himself after it buzzed through the capitol yesterday.

"It is not true. I have not yet made up my mind," the governor said. "I have been discussing my political future with a lot of people."

Word circulated that Williams told Democratic party leaders in Wayne County that his present term as governor will be his last.

The occasion was reported to have been a meeting last Saturday morning with chairmen of the six Democratic congressional districts in the Detroit area.

Leading Democratic figures in the capitol are nearly all firmly convinced that the governor will step out to pursue his national aspirations.

They look for his formal announcement not later than January to clear the way for open maneuvering among potential candidates to succeed him in the Aug. 2 primary.

However, before that time they believe Williams will confide his decision to political intimates.

The betting in Lansing has been that the governor will not disclose his future plans until after the state's bitter cash crisis struggle in the Legislature has come to an end.

Seek to Confer on Police Dept.

Chamber Says Plan to Be Presented Tonight Is Misunderstood

Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce officials want to huddle with members of the Police Trial Board to smooth the dispute over the chamber plan to realign Police Department administration.

★ ★ ★

"We still want to talk with members of both the department and the trial board concerning our recommendations," said John W. Hirlinger, chamber manager.

"We feel that lack of understanding of our plan has led to misintrepretation. Basically, there's nothing in it that should be upsetting."

The plan is scheduled for formal presentation tonight to the City Commission, Hirlinger said, "with no substantial changes," despite strong opposition that has already developed from several trial board members and the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council.

Hirlinger expected the presentation to be brief. Details of the proposals already have been outlined in letters to the Commission.

★ ★ ★

The chamber is asking for a spring election to amend several portions of the city charter, particularly in the Trial Board section.

It believes the changes would strengthen police department administration.

It is proposed that the office of public safety director be eliminated and the police chief be made responsible solely to the city manager.

It is further proposed that the trial board be renamed Police Board of Review and that its duties be curtailed to include only the hearing of appeals and the review of disciplinary actions.

Under this plan, the trial board would relinquish to the police chief its responsibility for rules and regulations.

★ ★ ★

Hirlinger pointed out that most of these proposals represented no big departure of current practice. The biggest change, he noted, would see the police chief removed from the jurisdiction of the trial board.

Wrangle Over Yule Parade

J. L. Hudson Has Sold Rights to ABC, Raps CBS Coverage Plans

DETROIT (UPI) — There's very little peace-on-earth, goodwill-toward-men spirit in Detroit's battle of the Christmas toy parade on Thanksgiving.

J. L. Hudson Co., sponsor of the annual parade, has protested against the Columbia Broadcasting System's plan to pick up parts of the parade through its local outlet, WJBK.

Hudson already sold the television rights for coverage of the parade to the American Broadcasting Co. which has its own sponsor.

CBS-TV said the parade was a public event and as such could be televised by anyone as a special event.

CBS also planned to pick up portions of the annual Christmas parade sponsored by R. H. Macy's in New York on Thanksgiving. Macy's sold TV rights of its parade to NBC.

Both the authorized pickups, ABC's of the Hudson parade and NBC's of the Macy parade, were to be sponsored.

★ ★ ★

Roy Erickson, spokesman for the Hudson Co., said when the store allowed ABC to telecast the parade with a sponsor, it stipulated that it must be shown in the Detroit area with no commercials. The network agreed and so did Chrysler Corp., which was set to sponsor the ABC pickup.

Erickson also said CBS had given no such assurance, and that it has not had the courtesy of a reply from CBS to the protest wired last week by Joseph L. Hudson Jr., president of the store.

Erickson said Hudson regretted that it was in the position of opposing a local station. He added, "Our protest is with CBS-TV, not with WJBK-TV."

Jay Frommert, WJBK-TV producer who will handle the Detroit portion of the CBS telecast of the parade, said three television cameras were being set up to cover the parade. But he declined to give any information as to where they would be placed.

Bob Murphy, WJBK special events telecaster who will handle the commentary, said precautions were being taken because the station wanted to guard against anyone trying to foul up the telecast.

Building, Equipment Damaged

Vandals Strike Waterford

Six incidents of malicious destruction of property last night were reported to Waterford Township police.

Sometime during the night, according to police, vandals set a bulldozer in motion and jumped off as the vehicle crashed into the side of a storage building.

Owned by the Stanley Jones Construction Co., the wreckage at 3730 Elizabeth Lake Rd. was discovered by foreman Harold Lawrence, 59 Monroe St., Pontiac, when he checked in for work this morning.

Full extent of damage has not yet been determined.

More than $400 damage to equipment in Ward's Gravel Pit, 7575 Maceday Dr., was reported by owner Fred Ward.

★ ★ ★

He told police that stones and pipes had been used to smash windows in trucks parked in the yard.

Dr. Kenneth Dickstein reported that part of a cyclone fence around his parking lot had been cut and used in an attempt to break into his dental clinic at 1132 Voorheis Rd.

Vandals uprooted mailbox posts and threw them over a fence into the yard of Mrs. Selden Ledgond, 4702 Kempf St.

The larceny of three hybrid rabbits was reported by Bud Block, 7235 Elizabeth Lake Rd.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Ruth Knapp, 2885 Buick St., reported to police that three high school age boys were seen wrecking the basketball court at the Hudson Covert School. They were gone when police arrived.

Eleanor Powell, 47, Divorces Glenn Ford

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Former dancing star Eleanor Powell Monday divorced Glenn Ford, 43, the movies box office king, on testimony that:

"He was very moody and antisocial . . he made me very nervous and embarrassed me considerably. I had to be under a doctor's care for nervousness. He just doesn't care for people. He's anti-social, I suppose. Sometimes he would just get up and walk out at social affairs."

Miss Powell, 47, was relaxed, and joked and chatted with newsmen for 10 minutes before going into court.

★ ★ ★

Their 16-year marriage was considered one of Hollywood's happiest until she announced last May 1—on Ford's birthday—they were breaking up.

★ ★ ★

She said at that time: "My marriage wouldn't have lasted this long except for my religion and my feeling that I should keep the marriage together."

Miss Powell retired as a top screen dancer after the marriage. Her chief activity since has been as Sunday School teacher.

The two have agreed on a $350,000 property settlement that pays her $40,000 a year for six years and $30,000 a year after that for life. She receives half of the community property and support for their 14-year-old son, Peter.

Dear Sir:

I would like to take time to thank you for the fine high school sports coverage the Pontiac Press has given the past Fall. You people have more sports coverage in your paper than any in this area. We at North Branch appreciate what you have done for us.

Dear George:

Ditto again.

Dear Sir:

Recently we received a letter which we certainly appreciated. We think it's just wonderful for a coach to take time to write his "thanks" to the parents of a member of a team. This is the letter:

"Dear Parents:

It has been by observation that the parents are usually the un-acknowledged heroes of the athletic field . . . This brief message is to acknowledge my appreciation of the inconveniences you have borne so that your boy might share in the athletic experiences which Northern provides for him. You son's enthusiasm, spirit and perserverance reflect the understanding and encouragement of proud parents."

Doug is a fine high school football player. It was certainly no oversight. He was in the running all the way, and the difference between the top team and the class B team he made, was by a hair in the voting.

CHICAGO (AP)—Guard Bill Burrell of Illinois and tackle Dan Lanphear of Wisconsin were the only unanimous choices for the 1959 Big Ten All-Star football team selected by 12 Associated Press sports Writers.

Although Northwestern tail-spinned after winning its first six games, the ever-dangerous Wildcats landed three places on The AP team.

Wisconsin, winner of the title on the final day and now pointing for the Rose Bowl, took two berths in the voting along with Illinois and Iowa. One spot each went to Michigan State and Ohio State.

★ ★ ★

Aligned with Burrell and Lanphear on the first team were ends Jim Houston, Ohio State, and Don Norton, Iowa; tackle Joe Rutgens, Illinois; guard Jerry Stalcup, Wisconsin, and center Jim Andreotti. Topped by Rutgens at 245 pounds, the line averages 212. Norton, the conference's leading pass catcher, is the lightest at 175.

The No. 1 backfield consists of quarterback Dean Look, whose all-around play guided Michigan State to second place; halfback Bob Jeter of Iowa, the Big Ten's leading ground gainer, halfback Ron Burton of Northwestern, an explosive game-breaking runner and adept pass catcher, and fullback Mike Stock, Northwestern's rushing leader and No. 1 scorer in the league.

Repeaters from last year's squad were Burton, Houston and Stalcup. Guard Ron Maltony of Purdue dropped from first to second team and injury-bothered fullback Bob White of Ohio State fell to the third team.

In addition to Maltony, the second team line has Ron Perkins of Wisconsin at guard; tackles Gene Gossage, Northwestern, and Jim Heineke, Wisconsin; center Bill Lapham, Iowa, and ends Elmbert Kimbrough, Northwestern, and Ted Aucreman, Indiana.

★ ★ ★

The No. 2 backfield is made up of quarterback Dale Hackbart, Wisconsin; halfbacks Ray Jauch, Iowa, and Ray Purdin, Northwestern, and fullback Bill Brown, Illinois.

Beach, Larkin and Taylor on College 11

3 Local Boys Are All-State

DETROIT (AP) — A backfield that does everything and a big, mobile line that averages better than 213 pounds feature The Associated Press All-State small college football team announced today.

The line is anchored by a pair of 240-pound tackles, Waterford's Jim Larkin of Hillsdale and Roger Kramer of Kalamazoo, and wary ball carriers will note that both of these linemen will be back next season.

The Associated Press polled its member sports editors and college coaches throughout the state to determine the 22 finest players. The leader in the balloting was Walter Beach, of Pontiac, who broke Jim Podoley's rushing record at Central Michigan.

The flashy senior, eyed by American pro teams and being heavily courted by Canadian teams, missed one game with an injury but still outpolled every other back in the state — and there were plenty of them in the running for the top spots.

Beach is one of two repeaters from the 1958 team. Halfback Tom Schwalbach of Northern Michigan, a triple-threat star, is the other.

Oddly, Schwalbach got the honor for the third time. He was the first-string quarterback on the 1956 team when he was a freshman. He missed out in 1957, then returned last year as a first string quarterback. This year, coach Frosty Ferzacca changed his offense, and figured he would get more mileage out of Schwalbach at a halfback position.

Schwalbach made the move with extraordinary skill, leading his highly successful club in scoring, rushing, punt returns, pass receiving, interceptions and passing percentage.

Joining Schwalbach and Beach in the backfield are the two necessary ingredients to make this a do-everything foursome. The quarterback is Jerry Northrup of Alma, one of the nation's top small college passers and a good runner to boot. Everyone geared a defense to stop Northrup, but most failed.

The fullback is Jim Hurd, a fellow the Green Bay Packers thought enough of to draft a year ago. He sparked Albion College with 561 rushing yards and a 4.5 average. It was Hurd's blocking that gave the Albion quarterbacks time to throw, too.

All in all, the backfield scored 223 points, Beach leading the way with 88, Northrup scored 49 points, Hurd 48 and Schwalbach 38. On top of his own scoring, Northrup threw eight touchdown passes.

The state's top end of a year ago, Jim (Jelly Bean) Reynolds of Hillsdale, failed to repeat. In-and-out performances cost him even the vote of his own coach, but Hillsdale landed another end in Jerry Taylor, of Walled Lake, a standout two-way performer. Joining him at end is Bill Wiljanen of Michigan Tech.

The guards are Bill Huibregtse of Hope and Jim Hasse of Central Michigan.

Center on the club is Wayne State's Jim O'Hara, a giant of 230 pounds and 6-feet-3.

The top 22 players will be feted at a Dec. 7 luncheon in Marshall, Mich. They will receive All-State awards, and at the same time, the AP will present its Michigan college coach-of-the-year award.

Washington Is Coast Choice for Rose Bowl

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)— Washington today was officially chosen as the West Coast representative to play in the Rose Bowl football game New Year's Day against Wisconsin.

Greg Engelhard, chairman of the 1960 Pacific Coast selection committee, said he had received votes from the nine schools that used to make up the defunct Pacific Coast Conference.

"It was a unanimous ballot," said Engelhard, University of California athletic director.

Washington finished the season with a 9-1 record, losing only to Southern California by a 22-15 score.

Nicknames for Four

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Only four of the eight teams in the American Football League have adopted nicknames thus far.

They are the New York Titans, Los Angeles Chargers, Dallas Texans and Houston Oilers. Boston, Buffalo, Denver and Minneapolis-St. Paul still have not made public the names under which they will operate.

Tigers to Scout Latin-America

Talent to Be Sought in Puerto Rico, Cuba Areas

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers today made their first bid to obtain some of the rich Latin-American baseball talent by naming full-time scouts to cover Cuba and Puerto Rico.

Mike Guerra, a former Philadelphia and Washington catcher, was appointed Detroit's scout in his native Cuba. Babel Perez, general manager of the Mayaguez team in the Puerto Rico League, will cover his island homeland.

Tiger general manager Rick Ferrell recently returned from a tour of the Caribbean area.

The Tigers have stood by while other clubs claimed Latin-American players who became standout major leaguers.

But the expansion into Latin-America is in line with new Detroit president Bill DeWitt's policy to improve the Tigers.

D'Amato Plans Battle to Stay in Fight Game

NEW YORK (AP)—A "shocked and dismayed" Cus D'Amato expects to get back his license to manage and second fighters in New York State through legal action.

If that effort doesn't meet with success, the National Boxing Assn. offers him a glimmer of hope he may be able to manage within its jurisdiction. That would give him most of the nation in which to operate as manager of Floyd Patterson if Sweden's Ingemar Johansson will consent to meet Patterson outside of New York.

★ ★ ★

"I have a legal contract for the return bout and I intend to fulfill this obligation," D'Amato said.

D'Amato, whose license was revoked yesterday by the New York State Athletic Commission, indicated in a statement relayed by attorney Edwin S. Schweigh last night, that his first move may be court action to upset the commission's action.

"I shall review the matter carefully with my attorneys and I believe that on appeal to the courts the drastic and unbelievable penalty visited upon me will not be upheld," the white-thatched pilot declared.

★ ★ ★

The statement questioned the legal authority of the commission to revoke a license that had expired last Sept. 30, and asserted that if the commission believed he had done anything wrong it had the facts May 22, 1959, well before the Patterson-Ingemar Johansson title fight, yet made no move of any kind until Oct. 26.

The "wrong" referred to, and on which the commission based its decision, was related to four charges, to wit:

1. Failing to appear at a Sept. 14 commission hearing into alleged irregularities in the title promotion.

★ ★ ★

2. As a licensed manager participating as a matchmaker and promoter in the title fight.

3. Seeking to foist Harry Davidow upon Johansson as a manager, thereby attempting to control both contestants.

4. Failing to file after the fight a manager's financial report within the five days.

A fifth charge, that of consorting with Charley (Black) Antonucci, described by the commission as a gambler and an associate of bookmakers, was dismissed.

Jet Hydroplane in Beach Crash

Driver of Lombardo Boat Injured, Claims World Record

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Bandleader Guy Lombardo and the designer and driver of his jet-propelled hydroplane Tempo Alcoa still aim to shoot for a new world record—despite a nearly disastrous accident yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The sleek aluminum craft, with Les Staudacher at the controls, skimmed into the beach at Pyramid Lake 30 miles northeast of here, struck a rock and soared 20 feet before crashing on the sand.

Staudacher, 47, emerged badly bruised but claiming he had topped the world record of 260.35 miles per hour on three runs before the crash.

★ ★ ★

Lombardo skinned his leg when he tripped while running toward the crash scene after he hopped out of his station wagon. He and another hydroplane enthusiast, Bill Stead of Reno, witnessed the spectacular accident.

Except for its right sponson—a pontoon-like float—the hydroplane appeared undamaged. However, Staudacher said it would be returned to Bay City, Mich., for repairs before another record try at Pyramid Lake next year.

Hillsdale in Bowl Playoffs

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Michigan's Hillsdale College has accepted an invitation to enter the four-team football playoffs of the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Hillsdale will compete in the Eastern playoffs Dec. 5 against an opponent yet to be named by the NAIA selection committee.

Texas College of Arts and Industries, Kingsville, was named yesterday to the Western playoffs for which a second team must be chosen.

The playoff sites have not been selected. The two winners will advance to the championship game in the Holiday Bowl, St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 19.

Hillsdale was runnerup in the 1957 championship game, losing to Pittsburg (Kan) State 27-26.

This year the Dales, champions of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Assn., won eight games before losing their final game to Northern Illinois 33-27.

Hillsdale scored 319 points and held its opponents to 83. It averaged 342.8 yards a game to opponents.

The Dales were among the top 10 NAIA teams all season.

Coach Frank (Muddy) Waters has been at Hillsdale five seasons, winning 49, losing five and tying one game. The school's enrollment is about 700.

At Hillsdale, Waters said he would take a 33-man squad to the playoff. The Dales have continued their practice sessions since ending their season Nov. 14 because of the possible bowl bid.

Waters said he expected Hillsdale's opponent to be Lenoir Rhyne of North Carolina, ranked No. 1 in the NAIA weekly listing. Lenoir Rhyne is unbeaten and untied in eight games and concludes its regular season Thursday against Catabwa.

The playoff game probably will be at Hickory, N. C., Waters said.

Twyman Gains NBA Point Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Twyman of Cincinnati, with a total of 530 points in 17 games, has taken over the lead in the National Basketball Assn. individual scoring race, replacing Elgin Baylor of Minneapolis.

Both Baylor and towering Wilt Chamberlain of Philadelphia have higher averages than Twyman. But Baylor missed two games because of the flu and has played in only 14, and Chamberlain has played in only 13. Chamberlain has averaged 35.4 points to 33.1 for Baylor and 31.2 for Twyman.

Sam Jones of Boston has hit on 84 of 155 field goal attempts for an astonishing average of .542 while his teammate, Bill Russell, is averaging .512. The figures are based on a minimum of 30 field goals.

The scoring leaders:

1. Twyman, Cinn.	17	199	132	530	31.2

They Need a Quarterback, Pass Catchers

Lions Plan for 1960

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Lions are beginning to think of 1960 with three games left to play this season.

Their major needs for the future are a quarterback who can throw passes and some receivers who can hang onto them.

It is apparent now the current crop of quarterbacks can't do the job for the Lions. Tobin Rote seems to be over the hill after many fine seasons in the National Football League. Earl Morrall has failed to take command after several opportunities to lock up the position.

Jerry Reichow is completing his third active NFL season and has been used only in lost causes as a quarterback. Reichow, who missed all last season with a damaged knee, is better suited at end.

Who'll be the starting quarterback in Thursday's traditional Thanksgiving Day tilt with Green Bay is questionable. Reichow was the only one who could get the Lions over the goal line in Sunday's 24-14 loss to the Chicago Bears.

Rote was rusty from a two-week layoff with a knee injury. Morrall, who started the last two games, was victimized by butterfingered receivers. The Bears intercepted four Detroit passes.

One of the glamour-boy college quarterbacks possibly is the answer to the Lions' question-marked future. Don Meridith, a sensation at Southern Methodist, and Richie Lucas of Penn State are the hottest pro prospects on the campus right now.

Both went quickly when the hopeful American Football League held its first draft meeting yesterday at Minneapolis. Dallas drafted Meredith, a hometown boy. Buffalo took Lucas.

Their names will reappear next Monday when the NFL holds its draft. Then a battle royal will begin for their services. A price war seems certain between the new AFL and the long-established NFL.

Wilson doubts if the Lions will go after Meridith.

"It's not likely we'll be in a position to draft him or whether we could gamble and draft him even if we had first crack at him," Wilson said.

Foreigner NCAA Champ

Harrier Crown to MSU

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Foreign imports ran off with the first five places in the 21st annual NCAA cross country grind here yesterday.

Al Lawrence, of Sydney, Australia who represented the University of Houston, finished the four-mile course first in a time of 20:35.7.

★ ★ ★

Lawrence, 26, a 5-8, 126-pound sophomore, hit the tape 30 yards ahead of teammate John Macy, a Polish refuge who is taking out U.S. citizenship papers. Macy was leading at the three-mile mark but dropped behind because of a stitch in his side.

★ ★ ★

Forddy Kennedy of Michigan State, defending champion from Canada by way of Scotland, placed third; Bill Reynolds of MSU, a Canadian, was fourth; Tom O'Riordan of Idaho State, from Ireland, placed fifth.

First native-born runner to finish was Billy Mills, a part American Indian from the University of Kansas, who came in sixth.

The runners were slowed by swampy footing from recently melted snow and rains. The winning time was well above the course record of 20:01.1 set by Kennedy last year.

★ ★ ★

Michigan State repeated as team champion for a low of 44 points. It was the second consecutive year MSU has swept the Big Ten, IC4A and NCAA cross country runs.

Houston was second with 120 points and the University of Iowa third with 134.

Syracuse Heads AP Poll

By The Associated Press

Syracuse, the only unbeaten, untied major football power, retains the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters for the third straight week.

The powerful Orange polished off Boston University 46-0 Saturday and now have two weeks to get ready for their regular season finale with UCLA, Dec. 5. After that Coach Ben Schwartzwalder's men move on to the Cotton Bowl in Dallas Jan. 1.

Syracuse's finale with UCLA now looms as an important test that should measure their real ability. UCLA knocked off Southern California, which had the only other perfect record, 10-3. The final poll will be held the weekend after the Dec. 5 games.

The weekly voting produced a landslide for Syracuse with 121 of 174 first place ballots marked for Bill Orange. The next best was Mississippi, the No. 2 club which drew 32 firsts, although it didn't even play a game. Mississippi still has one to go, a Nov. 28 date with oft-beaten Mississippi State.

★ ★ ★

Louisiana State held third place by whipping Tulane 14-6, closing out its regular season. LSU will play in the Sugar Bowl, Jan. 1.

Last week's leaders ran 1-2-3 in the latest poll but there was a shakeup underneath. Southern Cal dropped from No. 4 to No. 7 in defeat and Wisconsin moved up from No. 9 to No. 5 on the strength of its Big Ten title victory over Minnesota 11-7.

★ ★ ★

Georgia's Southeastern Conference champs remained in the No. 6 spot. They were idle last week getting ready for the finale with Georgia Tech. Texas Christian advanced from 10th to No. 8 on a 5-6 romp over Rice. Washington's 20-0 decision over Washington State that took them into the Rose Bowl boosted the Huskies from No. 14 to No. 9. Arkansas edged into the No. 10 position from 13th on its 27-8 triumph over Texas Tech.

The top 10 with points based on 10 for a first place vote, 9 for second etc. (First place votes and won-lost records in parentheses):

Horvath Still 1st in NHL

MONTREAL (AP) — Although the Boston Bruins are moving slowly in the National Hockey League race, their lanky center, Bronco Horvath, is setting a lively pace in the scoring competition.

Horvath has collected 17 goals and 13 assists for 30 points according to NHL records released today and including Sunday's games. Nearest to him is Detroit's Gordie Howe with 24 points.

Howe was the only pursuer able to gain much on Horvath last week. He made three goals and three assists for six points—twice Bronco's output—and moved from a sixth-place tie into second. Andy Bathgate of the New York Rangers scored three goals and climbed to third with 22 points, one more than Vic Stasiuk, Horvath's linemate with the Bruins.

★ ★ ★

Boston's Johnny Bucyk and Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal were idle all last week because of injuries. Two other Montreal players, Henri Richard and Jean Beliveau, and Bobby Hull of Chicago joined them at the 20-point level.

Montreal goalie Jacques Plante, who has given up only 21 goals in the Canadiens' undefeated string of 15 games, whittled his goals against average to 1.85 per game. Next is Toronto's Johnny Bower with a 2.26 average.

Saturday Classic His 1st Attempt as Head Coach

Cadets Have Scouted Middies Six Times in Preparation

NEW YORK (AP) — Saturday is Dale Hall's first Army-Navy game as a head coach. Is the Army mentor worried?

"I don't feel much different than before, even though this is my first game," Hall said today. "Under Col. (Earl) Blaik, this was my game. That is, I was the one who scouted the Navy and Col. Blaik always made the Navy scout responsible for the Army-Navy game.

★ ★ ★

"I'm used to the pressure under that basis," Hall went on. "This year Tom Harp was the Navy scout so this is his game. He scouted them for six games and will be with me on the sidelines on Saturday," the former Army halfback, who played in two Navy games said.

Actually Army first scouted Navy when the Middies opened the season at Boston College. The Cadets were to face BC the next weekend at West Point and thus were able to kill two birds with one stone.

Army began following the Middies around in earnest before midseason and Harp has been doing the main dogging.

His reports to Hall, plus an exchange of films covering all but the game prior to the huge classic this Saturday in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, have left the Cadets impressed with the Middies, despite their so-so 4-3-1 record.

"When only one soph (guard John Hewitt) can break into the first two units, then the club must have something," Hall said. "They have two fine quarterbacks in Joe Tranchini and Jim Maxfield. Actually after last year's game (Army won 22-6), we figured that Tranchini would be one of the best quarterbacks in the country, and then Maxfield goes and beats him out in mid-season. And now we understand that Maxfield's injury (suffered against Maryland Nov. 7) is not as bad as anticipated and he is back working out."

Hall counted his own chances against Navy commensurate with the injury list, which now lists only backs Don Bonko and Glen Adams as non-participants.

"We'll be at a physical peak for the season," Hall said. "This should cut down our mistakes. We'll be playing the right backs in the slots where they belong and they'll be familiar with their duties.

"If Navy shakes their injuries, I really think this will see a battle of two of the country's finest teams that quite possibly could jell by the weekend," Hall declared.

The game will be televised (NBC) nationally beginning at 1:30 p. m. EST, and has already sold out the 100,000 seat Philly stadium.

Texas lost fullback Don Allen for the second time this season as it prepared for its Thanksgiving game — and a shot at the Southwest Conference title — against Texas A&M.

Penn State and Louisiana State both accepted bids to post-season bowls. Penn State will participate in Philadelphia's first Liberty Bowl game on Dec. 19 against an opponent yet to be selected and LSU will be the host in the Sugar Bowl on Jan. 1. LSU also must wait for an opponent to be named.

College Football

"RED" BLAIK

NEW YORK (AP) — If the East were given to sounding trumpet blasts for its great college players, as some sections do, Joe Caldwell, of Army, might be more generally acclaimed for what he unquestionably is—the finest passer in the game today.

The Southwest maintains that Southern Methodist's Don Meredith ranks with the best ever developed in that area, and I don't doubt it. But I am convinced neither Meredith, nor any other college passer you name, is quite in a class with Caldwell.

From Vern Prichard's day in 1913, Army has sent many superior passers into the Navy game, but none to compare with Caldwell. I also doubt the Cadets ever sent a better pass-receiver, a more valuable all-around end or a more inspirational leader against the Midshipmen than Bill Carpenter, "the lonely end."

Unfortunately, from Army's viewpoint, Carpenter will have to operate against Navy next Saturday, as he did against Oklahoma, with his left arm strapped to his side and partially immobilized because of a shoulder separation. However, it should be remembered that Carpenter, despite this handicap, managed six catches against the Sooners.

With Don Usry, the other end, who had been injured most of the year, able to function against Oklahoma as a receiver, Army's passing was more dangerous than at any time since the Illinois game. Besides Carpenter and Usry, end Frank Gibson and halfbacks George Kirschenbauer and Roger Zailskas were also catching the ball well. But it was primarily Caldwell's show. The Cadet receivers were usually well covered by Oklahoma's secondary, but Caldwell was so pinpointing his passes that they could not be batted down or intercepted.

With Al Rushatz doing good work at fullback, Army's running attack looked improved at times. And in last Saturday's off-day practice, Bob Anderson was moving well. Coach Dale Hall, therefore, may be able to mount his most balanced attack to date in the game he would most like to.

The Cadets' attack, however, will not win for them, unless they also succeed in reducing, if not eliminating, the mechanical errors which have beset them all season. Fumbles contributed measurably in the defeats by Illinois and Oklahoma and in the tie by the Air Force, while foolish penalties were disastrous in the loss to Penn State.

The fumbles, of course, are linked to the record number of injuries the team has incurred. Lack of depth and the long and constant hospital list has prevented Coach Hall from getting together a set backfield combination. He reminded me only Monday that he has not started the same unit in any game. The cohesion that is a preventative against fumbling can only be attained by having your troops in sufficient shape so you can scrimmage and play them together.

There is an old saying the team that loses an Army-Navy game walks off the field with a psychological edge to be carried over into next year's game. That would suggest an edge for the Midshipmen in Philadelphia. But I don't think it would hold true this time, if it actually ever did, because both teams have known much travail this season and the classic offers each the chance for redemption.

Whatever happens, it shapes up as the passingest of all Army-Navy games. I would not be surprised to see over 50 passes thrown, since each has been averaging about 25 a game. The Midshipmen have two able tossers in quarterbacks Joe Tranchini and Jim Maxfield and dangerous receivers in halfback Joe Bellino and ends Tom Albershart and Tom Hyde.

Backfield Coach Tom Harp, who has been in charge of scouting Navy, believes Bellino will be at top speed for Army; if so, he will be the fastest back on the field. With a steady-going fullback like Joe Matalavage to blend with Bellino and a good passing game I expect the Midshipmen to move the ball well and score more than once.

But Caldwell's passing and the ability to cut down fumbling would make Army a hard day's work for Navy—or anybody else.

Injured Michigan Gridder Now OK

ANN ARBOR (UPI)—University of Michigan end John Halstead, injured on the first play of the Ohio State game Saturday, was expected to leave the hospital today.

Halstead suffered a contusion of a cord in his neck when he tackled the Ohio State ball carrier on the opening kickoff.

The tackle was so vicious that it caused a fumble, which led to Michigan's first touchdown in the 23-14 win. Halstead suffered a temporary paralysis as a result of the injury.

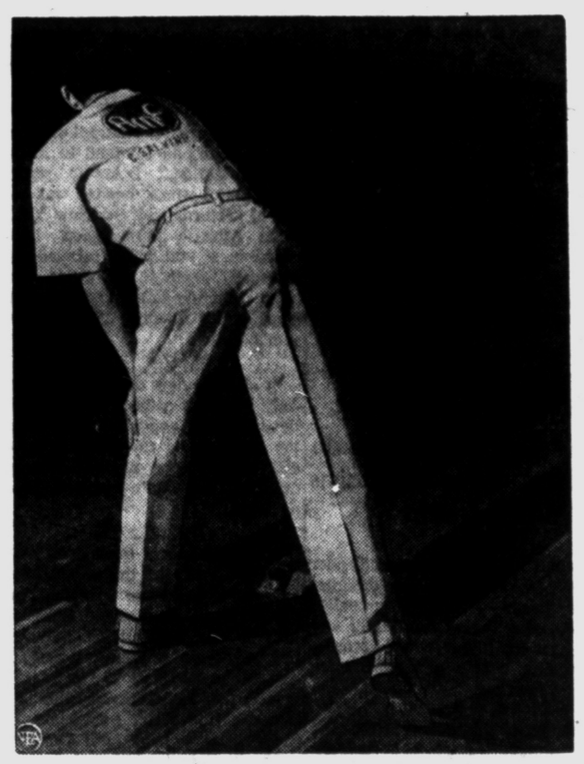
The junior from Bay City was better when removed to the training room, however, and X-rays showed no permanent damage.

Former Grid Coach Dies

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Rudy S. Comstock Jr., 59, former football coach at Oklahoma A&M and the University of Washington, died here Sunday.

Comstock played professional football for 11 years after starring for Georgetown University.

All-Star Pin Points



BREACH — Carmen Salvino strongly advises against following through on to the adjoining lane. Bowling has ethics, too.

DON'T DISTURB OTHERS
By CARMEN SALVINO

Bowling has its code of ethics and sportsmanship.

Give the bowler on the lane to your right the right of way. Give him the go ahead sign with a quick nod.

After making your delivery and the pins fall, walk back promptly to the bowlers' settee without posing at the foul line or wandering across an adjorning lane in front of another bowler. Jumping around and using body English that extends onto other lanes not only distracts other bowlers, but holds up the game.

A few don'ts to observe:

Don't heckle or needle opponents to upset their concentration. Don't use someone else's ball even if it is a house ball without obtaining permission. Don't lose your temper — you not only disturb others, but don't do your own game any good. Don't make excuses if you don't shoot well and don't brag if you do.

If you can't be a good loser, at least be gracious and congratulate your victorious opponent. If you're a winner, don't lord it over the losers.

You'll score better if you conform to the rules of bowling etiquette.

'M' Varsity Trims Frosh

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan's varsity basketball team, led by John Tidwell's 26 points, rolled to an 81-70 victory over the freshman team last night.

The varsity jumped off to a 12-0 lead before the freshmen finally countered, then built up a 43-23 lead at halftime.

Tom Eveland of Livonia led the freshmen with 14 points.

Look Shaky AFL Draft Pick by Denver

Spartan Back Seems Headed for Baseball

Tigers and White Sox Interested; Ten Other Area Boys Chosen

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Dean Look, Michigan State's All-Big Ten quarterback, was gobbled up quickly by Denver in yesterday's American Football League draft.

But it's a sure bet Look isn't interested in pro football.

Look, who has turned down $50,000 bonus offers from major league baseball to finish his college grid career, was shopping for a diamond job while the AFL was conducting its draft.

The Lansing star went to Chicago to talk baseball terms with the American League champion White Sox.

It was reported in Detroit Look wouldn't sign a baseball contract until he talked with the Tigers. General manager Rick Ferrell said the Detroit club was ready to make Look a substantial offer.

Look has played both outfield and infield with the baseball Spartans. He hit .412 and .298 in his two Big Ten seasons. Look has one more season of baseball eligibility at Michigan State. But he's expected to sign a major league contract shortly.

The Denver football club apparently knew its chances of signing Look are slender. Denver made an optional choice of quarterback Jim Monroe, of Arkansas.

Others with Michigan affiliations selected by the AFL were:

Denver: Tackle John Dingens of Detroit and center Larry Cundiff of Michigan State.

New York: Guard George Genyk of Michigan and fullback Blanche Martin of Michigan State.

Minneapolis-St. Paul: Tackles Bill Boykin of Michigan State and Don Deskins of Michigan, and guard Jim Chastain of Michigan State.

Houston: Halfback Bruce Maher of Detroit (already drafted by the Detroit Lions of the NFL).

Los Angeles: Fullbacks Bob Bercich of Michigan State and Iowa's Don Horn from Detroit.

Front-Running Pistons at N.Y.

Western Leaders Play Cincinnati Tonight and Host Hawks Tomorrow

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons put their newly acquired first place standing in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association on the line for the first time tonight against the Cincinnati Royals at Madison Square Garden.

The Pistons grabbed first place with a 115-104 win over the New York Knickerbockers at Detroit Sunday.

If they get by Cincinnati, the Pistons return home to face the St. Louis Hawks, previous division leaders, in a ladies' night attraction at Olympia Stadium.

But Cincinnati comes first, and the Royals are fresh from a 106-100 upset of the Hawks that helped put Detroit on top.

The Pistons will probably play without the services of guard Dick McGuire, out with Charley horses in both legs, and forward Earl Lloyd who has a strained knee ligament.

Twin Cities Set for AFL

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Organizers of the new American Football League girded for a dollar duel with the National League today in a scramble to land the blue ribbon names of college football.

The AFL chose 264 players in a day-long draft yesterday, planned to select at least 400 more within a few weeks, and then announced it is squaring away to go into operations in 1960.

★ ★ ★

From the Minneapolis-St. Paul ownership came a firm assurance that it definitely will field a team in the AFL next year despite reports that a franchise in the National is open to the Twin Cities.

"We will be playing football in the American League next year and we have no intention of going into the National," said H. P. Skoglund, part owner of the Twin Cities franchise.

Left unsettled, however, was selection of the new league's commissioner. The list was reduced yesterday to two, unidentified candidates, one now in the college ranks and the other connected with pro ball.

League-founder Lamar Hunt of Dallas said the two under consideration are "name" figures and both, reportedly, are interested in the job. When a newsman suggested that Northwestern Athletic Director Stu Holcomb had been mentioned as a possibility, Hunt agreed he was a "big name" but went no farther.

While some AFL owners discounted predictions of a full scale bidding war with the National, it seemed obvious that the entrenched NFL would not yield easily in competition for the top players it wants.

"I don't think there is going to be fierce competitive bidding all down the line," said the millionaire owner Bud Adams of Houston, "but I know that I'm willing to spend some money to get the players I think Houston needs."

AFL officials agreed that each of the eight clubs could expect a stiff argument from the National in the competition for at least three choice players.

It was clear they expected the lure of wide-open job opportunities to steer a lot of talent their way.

The nation's ranking stars were plucked early. Houston chose fullback Bob White of Ohio State and halfback Dick Bass of College of Pacific after picking Louisiana State's All-American Billy Cannon in the first round.

★ ★ ★

Boston named halfback Ron Burton of Northwestern and center Max Fugler of LSU. Buffalo picked halfback Ray Jauch of Iowa and end Jim Houston of Ohio State. Two of the South's finest backs, Johnny Robison of LSU and Tom Moore of Vanderbilt were drafted by Dallas, whose first round selection was SMU's Don Meredith, a quarterback.

Denver drew quarterback Dean Look of Michigan State, New York took halfback Ed Kovac of Cincinnati, and Los Angeles tabbed halfback Bob Jeter of Iowa, and fullback Charley Flowers of Mississippi.

Minneapolis-St. Paul, after naming quarterback Dale Hackbart of Wisconsin in Sunday night's opening round, added Iowa end Don Norton and halfback Aber Haynes of North Texas State.

In two cities, Los Angeles and New York, the new league will be in direct boxoffice competition with the NFL.

Hunt has insisted the NFL has been holding out for enticement of franchises to various AFL member cities in a campaign to block formation of the new league.

"As far as the Minneapolis-St. Paul situation is concerned," he said, "the issue is closed. I don't think the Twin Cities owners ever had any serious intention of shifting to the National."

★ ★ ★

Players picked in the 32 additional rounds of yesterday's draft will form a player pool nucleus that will be augmented by another 44 to 55 players for each club in later sessions.

The AFL expects to meet again within a couple of weeks to name its commissioner and complete the draft.

Hal Boyle Describes Different Profession

Ghost Writers Take Cash, Forget Credit

NEW YORK (AP) — Samuel J. Michelson is a man content to take the cash and let the credit go.

At 52 he is recognized as the Henry Ford of one of word-happy America's most flourishing but least known industries—professional ghost writing. He put the business on an assembly line.

BOYLE

"We don't worry about the anonymity so long as the pay is good — and it usually is," said Michelson. He is small, blue-eyed, friendly, eager-faced. He looks a little like Mickey Mouse, and a lot like Adlai Stevenson.

He began setting type in a country weekly at 13. After college he free-lanced for a time, then decided he could make more money writing under other people's names.

★ ★ ★

His success as a literary haunt has been both spectral and spectacular. In the last 25 years he has written or revised more than 20 million words.

★ ★ ★

"I've turned out everything from first-person adventure stuff to romantic novels, political speeches and scientific treatises," he said. "There's no subject or assignment ever stumped us, although when it comes to the field of electronics, I'm dead there myself."

ALL AFTER GHOSTS

For such specialized topics he draws upon a regular staff of three ghostly aides and a spook stable of 200 part-time workers.

"Among them are engineers, scientists and educators who want an outside source of income," he said. "There's no shortage of writing talent."

★ ★ ★

Who seeks the services of a ghost writer today? Practically everybody. His clients have included explorers, major corporations, publishing houses, suburban housewives for help on a club talk, sports figures, surgeons, prime ministers of foreign countries, statesmen and judges, and aging actresses who hope a well-written autobiography will lead to a comeback.

★ ★ ★

Michelson defends ghost writing as a legitimate profession, and one of the oldest in civilized history.

"Demosthenes wrote for some of the ancient Greek political leaders," he said. "A fellow named Hirtius helped Julius Caesar.

"There are thousands of ghost writers of one kind or another in the United States today, although they may not have that title. Practically every big business or political figure has to rely on them, because of the increasing pressure on their time.

EVERYONE DOES IT

"Alexander Hamilton helped to write George Washington's speeches. Judge Samuel Rosenman and Robert Sherwood did the same thing for Franklin D. Roosevelt. President Eisenhower has has a number of ghosts.

"When I met Carl Sandburg, he told me he had ghosted for a time in his youth."

Ghost writing has become an intensely competitive business, and centers in New York, Hollywood and Washington, D. C. Michelson estimates there are 20 such services in this city alone.

★ ★ ★

"The biggest trouble with ghost writing," he confessed, "is in getting letters of recommendation from satisfied clients."

They're all a bit bashful about admitting publicly how much of their eloquence is owed to a paid wraith and a hired pen.

Fast Settlement Seen for Steel

Sec. Mitchell Says He Is Confident It Will Be Within Cooling Period

CHICAGO (UPI) — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said Monday he is confident the steel dispute will be settled before the 80-day cooling off period ends.

Resumption of the steel strike would be "unthinkable," Mitchell told reporters at a news conference.

"The issues are definable enough, the parties close enough so that with good will and compromise a settlement can be reached," Mitchell said.

One factor deterring a speedy settlement, he said, was a provision in the Taft-Hartley Law that requires management to make an offer 20 days before the cooling off period expires. Both sides are waiting for this offer, he said.

★ ★ ★

Mitchell said he was "unalterably opposed" to government arbitration by compulsion. "I don't think that's the kind of system we want in this country," he said.

But he foresaw little possibility that Congress in an election year would effect more punitive legislation in the labor field.

Sobell Parole Try by Mom Is Failure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Rose Sobell, mother of convicted spy Morton Sobell, said Monday night she tried unsuccessfully to see Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers to make a holiday season appeal for her son's parole.

Mrs. Sobell, 65, of the Bronx, N.Y., told newsmen at the Justice Department she was turned down last week in a similar bid to talk to White House officials about her son's case.

A Justice Department spokesman confirmed that Mrs. Sobell sought an appointment with the attorney general. He said the U.S. Parole Board was not considering the Sobell case now because he will not be eligible for parole until Aug. 4, 1962.

Sobell, 42, was convicted in 1951 of conspiring to steal U.S. radar secrets for Russia. His co-defendants, atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, were put to death. Sobell received a 30-year sentence, which he is serving at Atlanta penitentiary.

★ ★ ★

Sobell's wife asked permission last spring to visit him in prison in order to conceive a child. This request was turned down. The couple already has two children.

Socialite Will Auction 19 Fur Coats for Change

LONDON (AP) — Lady Norah Docker said today she feels like a change of fur coats so she's putting 19 of her present collection up for auction. They might fetch about 40,000 pounds ($112,000), she said.

"There are several I want to buy so I decided to sell some of my old ones," the wealthy socialite said in a statement to the press. "I certainly don't mean to go furless in the future. I couldn't. I love them too much."

Texas has the greatest amount of rural roads in the United States, Rhode Island the least.

Science Issues Cut 3, 4 Points

NEW YORK (AP) — Profits were taken in some of the higher-priced electronics early this afternoon as the stock market pursued an uneven course.

Most key stocks showed narrow gains or losses, well within a point. Here and there a wider move showed.

Recent sensational gainers among the "science" stocks were clipped for losses of 3 or 4 points as profits were taken. The lower priced issues in this group moved ahead moderately except for Radio Corp. which spurted 2 points on news it has developed an electronic device smaller and faster than the transistor.

The major steels moved ahead slightly, bolstered somewhat by news that steel operations are now scheduled at 88.1 per cent of capacity, a big improvement over a week ago.

★ ★ ★

Ampex and Texas Instruments dropped more than 3 points. Litton Industries more than 4. Motorola and Varian Associates were down more than a point each.

Philco, Raytheon and Sperry Rand were up fractions.

Pepsi-Cola, which reached a high yesterday, dropped a fraction as traders sold on the news of a raised dividend. Philip Morris jumped about 3 following a dividend hike.

Curtiss-Wright advanced 3 points or so after unveiling its new lightweight internal combustion plant. Martin Co. was ahead a fraction on a published item that the Air Force is continuing production of the Mace, 600-mile missile for which Martin is prime contractor.

★ ★ ★

General Electric, which soared 4¼ yesterday, apparently on institutional buying, was down fractionally for a while then showed a net gain of about 2. Also in apparent response to investment demand, Eastman Kodak and Schering added around 2 apiece.

Food machinery & Chemical fell 1½ to 48 on a big block of 19,500 share but clipped about a point from this loss in later trades.

Grain Futures Steady to Firm

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures prices were steady to firm all around in early transactions today on the board of trade.

Soybeans were in strongest demand and opened with gains running to about a cent a bushel which held after the accumulation of overnight orders had cleared.

Fluctuations in the grains were mostly in small fractions. Dealers said there appeared to be a little more buying on commercial accounts.

Chrysler Shuts 3 More Plants

Steel Pinch Forces Move; 23,430 Are Now Laid Off by Firm

DETROIT (AP) — Dwindling steel supplies have forced Chrysler Corp. to shut down three more auto plants today and tomorrow.

The shutdowns affect more than 10,000 workers, bringing Chrysler's layoffs of hourly-rated workers to 23,430.

Chrysler said car production at its suburban Hamtramck plant would stop after today's operations, idling 5,000.

Assembly plants at Los Angeles and Newark, Del., will close down tomorrow, Chrysler said. The corporation said 2,200 employes will be furloughed at Los Angeles and about 3,000 at Newark.

Chrysler said it expected to resume production next month at all its idled plants. The exact date depends on when new supplies of steel are on hand. Only three of its seven assembly plants will remain in operation after tomorrow, Chrysler said.

Production on Chrysler's Valiants, Imperials and Dodge Trucks already has been halted.

General Motors, meanwhile, was reported returning toward auto production at a slow rate. GM was hit hardest by lack of steel among the big three.

Ford, which makes about half its steel, has continued production, but for a time was working short weeks. American Motors and Studebaker-Packard were not seriously troubled by steel shortages.

Berlin's Linda and Anne Marie 'Make' Register

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York society put its seal of approval on Cinderella Monday — Anne Marie Rasmussen Rockefeller made the social register.

The daughter of one of the nation's greatest song writers also was listed for the first time in the Register which booted out her mother 33 years ago for marrying Irving Berlin. Their daughter, Linda, made it by marriage to registerite Edouard C. Emmet.

The 1¼-inch "Bible" of New York society — officially Social Register, New York, 1960 — came off the presses Monday to be quickly thumbed for the social acceptability of marriages, divorces and assorted scandals.

City Hall Switchboard Goes on the Blink

Telephone calls to Pontiac City Hall were disrupted for half an hour this morning when the headset of the switchboard operator went on the blink.

Mrs. Goldie Taylor, the operator, said she was unable to handle the calls because she couldn't talk with the callers.

★ ★ ★

"The calls kept piling up until the switchboard was all lit up, but there was no way to communicate with the callers," she said.

The trouble lasted from 9:45 a.m. to 10:15 a.m.

Fumes Disrupt Songfest; 500 Students in Hospital

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Carbon monoxide fumes disrupted a huge choral festival and sent some 500 high school students to hospitals and first aid stations Monday night.

Many were ill with carbon monoxide poisoning. Others thought they were and had to be treated for hysteria. None was considered even seriously ill. Doctors guessed about 200 had varying degrees of monoxide poisoning.

The youngsters were part of more than 5,400 Oklahoma high school singers from 109 schools taking part in the eighth annual Thanksgiving songfest at Oklahoma State University. Another 3,000 or so persons filled Gallagher Hall to hear the massed voices.

About 200 school and charter buses were parked around the fieldhouse. About halfway through through the performance many drivers started the engines to warm the buses for the trip home.

Weldon Barnes, OSU public relations officer, said the fumes apparently were drawn into the fieldhouse by air intake fans.

Hardest hit were the soprano and alto sections in the balcony at the south end. Girls outnumbered boys at hospitals and aid stations about 10 to 1.

David Pursley, a Lawton High School sophomore, said, "I was downstairs and I turned around and looked up and saw them falling. I helped several out. I was walking around looking for some more to carry out and one girl who was seated in the balcony fell and hit the rail, then bounced toward the floor. I and two other guys caught her and took her to a room for oxygen."

The program was halted just before the final number, the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "Messiah."

Witnesses said the withdrawal from Gallagher Hall was orderly. But once outside many more youngsters became ill.

Ambulances, oxygen and doctors were assembled from Stillwater and communities surrounding this north central Oklahoma college of 25,000. Rescue parties formed quicky.

An unknown number of students were sent home as soon as buses could be loaded. The highway patrol said some of these became ill on the buses. Eight were hospitalized when they reached Tulsa, about 80 miles away, but none was in serious condition.

Pontiac Coach Building Trailers to Fill Demand

The first house trailer to be produced since the Pontiac Coach Company closed its doors in July rolled off the assembly line in Drayton Plains at noon yesterday.

More than 100 employes are back with the company building Detroiter trailers for coast to coast distribution, according to owner Melvin J. Hutchinson.

"This plant was re-opened because of the abundance of orders impossible to meet properly at our other two plants," he said. These are located in Hutchinson, Kan. and in St. St. Louis, Mich.

Approximately 150 Waterford Township employes were either laid off or transferred to the other plants in the shut-down move July 21.

★ ★ ★

Reason for closing the plant was for consolidation purposes, Hutchinson said.

However, company officials said they soon realized that the demand was greater than the supply, and they re-equipped the local plant with new machinery.

★ ★ ★

Extensive improvements have been made both inside and outside of the plant at 4615 Dixie Highway. Installation of new lighting, modern assembly line equipment and $21,000 paving back of the building have been completed.

The company will have 150 employes on the payroll and will produce from 8 to 10 trailers daily, Hutchinson said. At the present time, it is producing from 3 to 5 units daily.

San G. Harrison has been named factory manager. Frederick Lindsay is plant superintendent.

N. Y. Newsman Admits Lying About Bribe Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsman Eugene Gleason had admitted to the district attorney's office that he lied when he claimed a high city official tried to bribe him to stop investigating the city's slum clearance program.

Gleason, a reporter for the New York World-Telegram and Sun, told Chief Asst. Dist. Atty. Alfred J. Scotti Monday that he lied twice about the "bribe"—first in 1956 to his fellow reporter, Fred J. Cook, and again Sunday night on a television program.

Cook, also a World-Telegram and Sun newsman, said on WNTA-TV's discussion program "Open End" that Gleason had told him a high city official offered them $75 to $100 a week each to halt their research on the slum clearance program. Gleason said on the show that the official was still in the city administration.

Along with other newspapermen, Cook and Gleason were discussing their recent article, "The Shame of New York," which appeared in a special issue of the Nation, a weekly magazine. Cook said he brought up the incident because city officials had charged he and Gleason were irresponsible in their charges of mishandling Title 1 projects.

Hogan indicated there would be no further action in the case.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan called Cook and Gleason to his office Monday. They showed up with an attorney and another staff member of their newspaper. After the others left, Gleason remained with Scotti and Asst. Dist. Atty. Francis X. Clark.

Hogan said Gleason at first stuck to his story and named a city official. After four hours of questioning, Gleason signed a six-page statement admitting he lied.

"He used the name of a high and respected public official," Hogan told newsmen after Gleason left his office. "It was a damnable outrage, and it would be most unfair to make it public."

Cranberry Use Is Up to You

Agriculture Dept. Will Give No Advice on Lots Which Aren't Okayed

LANSING (AP) — Michigan housewives must make their own decisions on serving cranberries with their Thanksgiving turkeys, a spokesman for the State Agriculture Department indicated today.

"It's a matter of consumer discretion at this point," said J. W. Littlefield, chief of the Food and Standards Division.

"We're giving no advice," he added. "All we're doing is issuing approval to lots that have been tested and found not contaminated."

Littlefield reported that some stores are putting up placards that their berries have passed inspection and added:

"If consumers buy berries they know have been tested and passed, it would be all right. We're telling wholesalers and retailers which lots have or have not passed. They have the code numbers and the lot numbers of berries that have been sampled."

★ ★ ★

Littlefield said he could not say if contaminated berries would or would not cause cancer in humans.

"I've read many statements and no one seems to know for sure," he added. "But I am sure of this—contaminated berries violate the federal food laws."

The Food and Standards Division, in conjunction with Federal Food and Drug people, intend to take a sample of each lot of cranberries in the state.

Littlefield reported preliminary laboratory tests indicate contaminated berries were among four lots recently taken off the market in Detroit and Grand Rapids. Fresh cranberries, canned cranberries and cranberry-orange relish were involved, he added.

"The testing will go on long after Thanksgiving," Littlefield said. "There's a lot of cranberries in Michigan."

U.S. Stars Go Wild in Rome

Anything Goes in Italian Films

(Editor's note: This is the last of a two-part series on the wild life in the Rome movie industry which resembles Hollywood, 1929.)

By FRED SPARKS

ROME (NEA) — Ava Gardner likes bullfighters (Luis Dominguin) and singers (Frank Sinatra) and actors (Mickey Rooney) and bandleaders (Artie Shaw) and Rome. She hates photographers.

She came back to Rome the other night to make a movie and promptly dated an actor. They were in a slinky sports car above the Spanish Steps when a photographer pulled alongside and clicked.

"Get him!" yelled Ava, and her date popped out like bread out of a toaster. He slugged the lensman, bashed his camera.

This is not Ava's first encounter with Roman photographers. On the last visit she was moonlight bathing with a comedian when a photographer invaded the pool at a suburban hotel.

Flash! Ava's companion, wearing a towel, chased the cameraman, who fled across the lawn, then on a motorcycle. The comic, dripping, continued the pursuit by car, through ancient countryside. The photographer vanished.

★ ★ ★

One director sighed: "Wish I had my cameras grinding. Would have made the best footage of the year."

It is understandable why the youthful Italian cinema industry is acting its age, but why do Hollywood stars, many as conservative as bankers when back home, let down their hair and toupees in Rome?

Federico Fellini, a genuine genius, the Oscar winner who made "La Strada," has this answer:

"Anglo-Saxons go wild in Latin Italy. They quickly learn there are no puritanical restrictions such as in the United States.

"All their cooped up inhibitions come out. Everything goes here. In Rome there is passion for all — but real love for no one."

★ ★ ★

So we find Rock Hudson drifting down the Grand Canal in Venice on a raft made from old crates. Followed by gondola-borne Diana Dors in mink bikini.

So we note a British starlet pulling Linda Christian's hair outside a fashionable restaurant for the love of Edward Purdom.

So we nightly hear of hysterical movie parties that wind up with target practice in the Colosseum or dunking in the Tiber.

And there are lavish masquerades that begin at 2 a.m. and provide bachelors with improper companions and unescorted ladies with gigolos.

★ ★ ★

Fellini, convinced that Rome with American aid is in full decadence, has just finished a sizzling three-and-one-half-hour movie, "Dolce Vita" ("Sweet Life").

Unless Boston has radically changed, it will get no further up Bunker Hill than the Redcoats. Besides the regular sexes, it features others not usually booked into Radio City.

'SWEET LIFE'

The U.S. movie colony here is vividly portrayed in "Sweet Life," a documentary in depth with help from Anita Ekberg.

Of course, while eating the hopped-up Latin lotus is jolly, the No. 1 reason for moving movies abroad is taxes. You can go to several European countries and say:

"Now, I'd like to make this my official residence next year and I'll pay you $25,000 in taxes. O.K.?"

Rather than lose a customer the country agrees, and you're off the U.S. hook, which might top $100,000.

The Italian productions that win most of the hard currency are flashbacks to the epic Hollywood days when Cecil B. DeMille discovered the Bible. "Helen of Troy," "The Odyssey," "War and Peace," "Ben Hur," and "Hercules" have done more to preserve the horse than "Wagon Train."

★ ★ ★

The epics are made with slapdash abandon and daily casualty lists. During "Ben Hur's" Circus Maximus race a charioteer lost control and ran over the camera crew. The real horses in "Helen of Troy," frightened by the Trojan Horse, stampeded, routing the Greek warriors and sending 110 to the medics.

RECALLS 1929

Roman movie shenanigans also recall Hollywood 1929 when there were 10 promoters and 20 phonies for every producer. If you know the ropes you can make a movie on a Diner's Club card.

There are so many budding actresses and directors they'll work for promissory notes on dreams.

Take Carla Strober, a New Yorker whose ankles could stop the 20th Century Limited. After drama studies and a smattering of Manhattan TV she came to Rome where opportunity knocked three times.

She starred in three quickies, including "Death Runs on the River," in which every corpse was a beauty contest winner.

She was on one of those Roman advertising posters that were branded "pornographic" by the Vatican. It showed her embracing an ardent lad who seemed to be taking inventory.

But Carla still rides the bus. For the three starring roles, she has received, to date, a grand total of 100,000 lira, $1,600.

The rest is in "cambiales," IOU's. She might collect—if the pictures click and the producers don't leave for Nairobi.

Carla, still fighting, still scrimping, finds living expensive here. "In America," says Carla, who you'd proudly take to the Stork Club, "I seldom paid for dinner.

★ ★ ★

"In Rome you dare not let a man take you to dinner unless you intend to marry him. A Roman who invites you for dinner expects you to stay for breakfast."

WHOOPS IT UP — Swedish beauty Anita Ekberg wasn't performing for the cameras when she was caught in a dance at this wild Roman party recently. She is a prominent member of the movie colony there.

Mathers Enjoys Stardom

Works Like a Beaver

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jackie Coogan and Jackie Cooper, two of the biggest child stars in history, must take a back seat to 11-year-old Jerry Mathers in the statistical department.

As star of the "Leave It to Beaver" TV series, young Jerry is seen by some 20 million viewers weekly. His 39 half-hour shows for the past two seasons give him a total of 39 hours on film.

In 11 films as a child star Coogan racked up 13½ hours while Cooper managed 23 hours in 15 pictures. Jerry's total does not include roles he has played in movies.

Jerry, however, is unmoved by the comparisons.

"I'm glad I'm a child star," he said during a lunch break. "The good things about it outnumber the bad ones.

"Sometimes I miss the companionship of boys my own age. But lots of the adults I work with are boys grown up. They play with me all the time on the set.

"Also, I'm more in contact with the adult world, so I guess I'm more of an adult myself."

Jerry, sitting with the producers of his show—Joseph Connelly and Robert Mosher—said he thought he was fortunate to be working.

"Being a performer is good for me. Most boys are self conscious in groups of adults, but I have self confidence," he explained.

Asked if there were any similarities between himself and television's "Beaver," Jerry laughed.

"He's always getting into trouble and so do I. I gues I'm pretty much like Beaver — except he doesn't work for a living. And maybe he doesn't have as much fun as I do."

Connelly and Mosher said they work closely with Jerry's parents to maintain as normal a childhood as possible for the boy. When Jerry gets out of line, or his head begins to swell, he is set straight in a hurry.

Jerry has no ambition to become an adult actor.

"When I grow up I'd like to be an attorney, or maybe own a restaurant," he said.

★ ★ ★

"Maybe I'll miss all the attention of being an actor when I quit," Jerry concluded thoughtfully, "but I'm not going to let it throw me. If I stop acting it won't make any difference to my friends, anyhow."

College Braces for New Rally Asking Day Off

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — University of Kentucky students, unhappy over a faculty decision not to grant a holiday Wednesday, threatened another protest rally on the campus today.

★ ★ ★

A crowd dispersed Monday night after demonstrating for more than four hours. Up to 3,500 persons were in the group at times.

Gov. A. B. Chandler earlier had declared Wednesday a state holiday in honor of Kentucky's 20-0 football victory over traditional rival Tennessee.

★ ★ ★

However, the governor left it up to individual schools to decide whether to observe the holiday and the university faculty voted against it.

Sterling Hayden Fights in Court Over Children

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Actor Sterling Hayden returns to court today to take up a bitter custody battle with his former wife over their four children.

But Superior Court Commissioner Clinton Rodda first was to render a decision on whether the attorney for Mrs. Betty De Noon Hayden, 37, should be held in contempt for failing to appear at last Friday's scheduled hearing.

These Regulars Can Go on Your List of Turkeys

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thanks to science, bigger, fatter and meatier turkeys are headed for the Thanksgiving Day tables.

I don't know whom to thank, however, when it comes to TV turkeys, of which there have been some mighty plump specimens this season.

The blue ribbon turkey, in my scorecard, was "The Jaz: Singer," starring Jerry Lewis. But the turkeys that trotted right along behind it included the Louis Jourdan Special, the Milton Berle Special with Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, Victor Borge's Copenhagen Special and the Bob Hope show with the four Crosby boys.

But if you're shopping around for turkey, it's not necessary to wait for the specials. Each night of the week, some newly hatched, ponderous turkeys gobble up some of TV's prime time. Here are the candidates for this pedigreed barnyard:

MONDAY—Bourbon Street Beat; Adventures in Paradise

TUESDAY — Dennis O'Keefe Show; Tightrope!

WEDNESDAY — Hawaiian Eye; Wichita Town

THURSDAY—Betty Hutton Show; Johnny Ringo

FRIDAY—Rawhide; Hotel de Paree

SATURDAY—Five Fingers; Bonanza and the Man and the Challenge

SUNDAY—Riverboat; The Alaskans

Officially, the trail ends next week for NBC-TV's daytime quiz show, Treasure Hunt. Actually, the show died weeks ago.

The recent congressional investigation of TV quiz shows touched off a wave of no-interest in Treasure Hunt on the part of sponsors. And Jan Murray, the emcee and owner of the program, found himself meeting with the district attorney and the NBC brass.

I have no doubt that as the program now stands, it is absolutely honest. The reason is that you can't fool around much with nothing, and nothing happens on the show.

Yesterday, for example, Murray kidded around with a winner for nearly 15 minutes before he could bring himself to open a treasure chest and show the man what he had won on last Friday's show. I know many shows are nothing but time-killers, but this is carrying it to an extreme.

Incidentally, the contestant gave Murray a gift during the show—it was a wash cloth for getting at the spine—and I conjured up a new TV format in which the plain people go on and try to outdo each other with zany gifts for the emcee.

While the loss of Treasure Hunt is not too hard to bear, I note that the replacement will be Play Your Hunch, a Goodson-Todman game show that has kicked around the networks before. There's very little to indicate that daytime viewers are out of the nursery school class when you compare "Hunt" and "Hunch."

Biased Observer Says Merman's the Greatest

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Who is our greatest woman singer — Mary Martin . . . Ethel Merman . . . Judy Garland . . . Sophie Tucker . . . Kate Smith?

Stopped you, didn't I? Roger Edens, who's a trifle biased, hedges a little, but says: "Merman's created more hit songs . . . Great as Mary Martin is, she hasn't been around that long . . . Judy's got some great songs, but she didn't create them all . . . Ethel's had the real cream of the composers: Berlin, Cole Porter, Dorothy Fields, Arthur Schwartz and now Julie Styne . . ."

Edens nodded that yes, he could be biased.

"I was playing piano in the pit the night Merman came to Broadway in 'Girl Crazy,'" he said. "In 1930, which is 29 years ago. Al Siegel, her accompanist, collapsed and I went up on stage to play for her . . . She was a handsome, sexy-looking girl in a lush way.

JUDY

And now he's putting together "Ethel Merman on Broadway" for an hour TV show today.

"Judy," he said, "should forget about her weight. When she sings the whole house falls on its face. Her mother brought her to me at M-G-M when she was 13. Prettiest thing you ever saw! Let her go on and be as big as Sophie Tucker or Kate Smith, but just sing!"

Edens added: "Merman is a little on the elephant side, you know?"

"WHAT?" I asked, stunned.

"She doesn't forget things, is what I meant," he said quickly. "You hear stories about her hurting other performers. That's a consumate lie! She won't be taken advantage of, she'll fight anybody she thinks is wrong, she'll tell anybody at all, 'Don't give me any of that ——!'

Anything devious or under the table makes her blow up. 'Gypsy' is the peak of her career. Her voice is better than it's been in 15 or 20 years. It's found a wonderful level."

"She's been saying for some years that she was about to retire," I said.

★ ★ ★

Edens answered: "She wants to play this in London. There may be a movie. By the time she's finished all her commitments, maybe she won't want to do any more shows." He smiled. "Then again, maybe she will."

★ ★ ★

EARL'S PEARLS: Description of "Ben-Hur," with its chariot race: "An Italian western." Orson Welles, directing a death scene in Europe recently, told the star: "Put more life into your dying!"

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: If Lincoln were a young man today he'd have no trouble getting an education—he was tall enough to qualify for a basketball scholarship. . . That's earl, brother.

Rule Tavern Owner Liable

Minor or Drunk Must Not Be Served, Claims New Jersey Court

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—The New Jersey Supreme Court has ruled that a tavern owner can be held liable if he serves a minor or someone obviously drunk who then immediately has an auto accident.

★ ★ ★

The court Monday reversed dismissal of a $453,000 suit against four Newark taverns brought by an East Orange woman whose husband was killed in an auto accident. The 18-year-old driver of the other car was described as drunk by a doctor at an examining hospital.

★ ★ ★

Selma Rappaport brought her action against the boy, Robert Nichols; Nichols mother; an adult friend she charged bought him drinks; and four taverns, which she said served him liquor shortly before the accident.

Martens, a deaf boy, has admitted he killed Steven Moscoe, 8, with a knife Saturday to get revenge for damage to Martens bicycle. As a juvenile, he can't be prosecuted for murder.

★ ★ ★

His father, George Leo Martens, Olathe carpenter, said Monday the boy never had shown such anger before.

★ ★ ★

"He is just beginning to understand that the little boy won't wake up," the father said afer visiting young Martens in jail.

Master Your Tensions

Mate Requires Understanding

GEORGE S. STEVENSON, M.D. and HARRY MILT

A certain amount of tension in marriage is unavoidable. If we all recognized this, then did what we could to keep discord at a minimum, at the same time working to increase the pleasures and satisfactions, there would be considerably less misery among married folks than there is today.

But many people make demands, on the basis of highly idealized images, which marriage can't fulfill, then ask "What happened? Where did it go wrong?"

Marriage is the best arrangement we humans have been able to work out to keep ourselves and our race going, but it has built-in sources of tension. One of the least recognized is the mere state of being together, day after day and year after year.

No two people can be together continuously without having tensions build up occasionally. Yet, how many husbands will chance saying, "Look, honey, I'd love to go off by myself for a day or two. It isn't that I don't love you — I just want to be alone."

★ ★ ★

The awareness in marriage that you have given up some of your freedom can be very aggravating.

But if you have this feeling, why deny it? It is much better to accept the reality and say, "This is one of the minuses," than to feel guilty about it.

SEEK HIDDEN TRAITS

It's even better to permit these feelings to come out in the open in a discussion with your mate. Neither of you has anything to fear from a feeling you can discuss frankly.

And then go one step further and arrange for scheduled opportunities to get away from each other.

You'll be surprised how little freedom it will take to satisfy your craving.

Another major source of tensions are the clashes which result in serious differences in temperament, tastes and personal habits. Traits present in courtship often disappear after marriage.

When Elizabeth first met Richard she was impressed with his independence, courage, poise and control. So Elizabeth got the surprise of her life when, during her honeymoon, she saw her husband's masterful qualities vanish.

In making arrangements at the hotel, he behaved like a little scared boy. Even in his personal relationships with her, Richard was apologetic, weak and submissive.

How was Elizabeth to know that Richard had been cowed by a domineering father and that he had only appeared strong in situations where he wasn't under pressure.

The best people can do is to try to observe each other before marriage in as many different situations as possible. Even then, they may be in for a lot of surprises.

When you marry, you don't get a brand new item. You get a person who has been around 20 or more years, and who has developed a whole assortment of special needs, cravings and expectations which are going to demand fulfillment in marriage.

Your mate is also likely to bring along some special peeves, gripes or even hates.

THE CASE OF MARTHA

When Martha was 16, her father died, but death could not erase her bitterness over his drunkenness, fights and beatings. You would think, after this, that Martha would look for a kind, gentle person.

But she didn't. She was drawn to shiftless, brutal bums. At 19 she ran away with a sadistic drunk. But her parents caught up with the couple and prevented their marriage.

Eventually, a distant relative of Martha prevailed on her to marry him.

In no time, she made life miserable for him. She met his kindness with nastiness and with vicious attacks on his manliness. After every quarrel she would weep, berate herself and ask forgiveness.

Finally her husband and uncle convinced her to go to a psychiatrist.

After months of treatment, it became clear that she had wanted to marry a man like her father so that she could punish him. But the man she married was kind and decent.

This took the sting out of her revenge but only increased her anger. Martha was relieved as she began to see the real reasons for her strange behavior.

Every one of us brings into marriage some unconscious insecurity which we seek to relieve through an excess demand for love and attention.

Or we try to have our mate make decisions for us, solve our problems, fight our battles.

What do you do about all these irritations and strains? Do you just say, "This is the way it's got to be," and accept the misery with resignation? You certainly don't have to. While some of the conflict can't be helped, a good deal of it can.

Start out by tackling the clear-cut disagreements about practical things like food, entertainment, furniture, orderliness, appearance.

A PRACTICAL PLAN

The next time your husband or wife gets going on a pet peeve, let him or her sound off. Then instead of replying with a counter blast, say something like this: "You know, dear, I can understand why you're upset, but suppose we sit down over a cup of coffee and talk it over. Let's see if we can arrive at a compromise that will make us both happy."

If this brings on another blast, listen patiently until it begins to run down, then propose once more that you talk it over. You can be sure this soft approach will take the fire out of the attack.

When you've gotten your cooled-off mate to sit down and talk, ask him to tell you fully what's bothering him. If he's already done that, you can start giving your views.

It will surprise both of you how silly many of your objections sound, and how much more ready both of you will be to suggest and accept compromise.

If it shouldn't work out this way the first time, propose that the matter be dropped and reopened when both of you are less irritable. Try to fix a time for reopening of negotiations. Don't raise the question again until the scheduled time.

You will have to continue to maintain the role of conciliator, to keep the discussion open and going and moving in the direction of a compromise (which means you have to be ready to give in part of the way too.)

Don't be discouraged if this method doesn't work the second or third time.

It may take weeks or months to break down the barriers, but when you finally settle one issue, you will have opened the way for settling others much more quickly.

If you simply can't reach an agreement, you should certainly consider bringing into the picture someone who'll listen to both of you and help you work out a compromise.
