Consider 3-County Grand Jury in Torch Death

Afro-Asian Group Demanding Pullout

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —An influential group of Asian and African countries prepared today to counter a Western-backed Middle East peace plan with a new resolution calling for the withdrawal of U.S. forces from Lebanon and British troops from Jordan.

Western diplomats insisted they had enough votes to win approval for their own proposal in the emergency U.N. General Assembly. But there were signs they were worried by the new developments.

Informed sources said Secretary of State Dulles had canceled plans to return to Washington this afternoon.

He conferred with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and scheduled a meeting with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

The United States was understood to be trying hard to win support of five or six Latin American delegates holding out against the 7-nation Western resolution, authored by Norway.

The Western plan makes no specific mention of the withdrawal of U.S. and British forces from Lebanon and Jordan. It leaves to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold the task of working out arrangements in the two countries in accordance with the principles of the U.N. charter.

The Asian-African move was spearheaded by India's Arthur Lall, Sir Claude Corea of Ceylon and Indonesia's Ali Sastroamidjojo. A committee met this morning on the new proposal and a full meeting of the 28-nation Asian-African bloc was scheduled for this afternoon.

Corea said they were trying to find a formula that would bridge the gap betewen the Norwegian plan and a Soviet resolution demanding the withdrawal of the Western troops. He said the new plan would call for the removal of the troops, but in a way which he hoped would be satisfactory to the West.

U.S. sources said, however, that the United States already had gone about as far as it could in agreeing to compromises in the Norwegian resolution.

Charles Malik, Lebanon's Foreign Minister, opened this morning's debate in the Assembly. He made no mention of the Western resolution. Speaking in general terms, he said there is a deep-seated fear in Lebanon that the very existence of the country is at stake.

"We ask that this fear be allayed," he said.

The resolution introduced by Norwegian Deputy Foreign Minister Hans Engen, with six other small nations as cosponsors, may come to a vote tomorrow night or Thursday.

PREDICTS APPROVAL

Engen predicted Assembly approval. One Asian diplomat foresaw passage with 56 favorable votes and some abstentions in the 81-nation Assembly.

Some Arab and Soviet sources expressed belief it would fail to get the necessary two thirds of those voting.

But twin declarations by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd promising to withdraw the troops when requested to by the Assembly was expected to as-

Court Orders Little Rock to Continue Mixed Schools

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Gov. Oral E. Faubus declined today to call a special session of the Arkansas Legislature to deal with the new Little Rock integration crisis. He called on the Little Rock School Board to let him and the people of Arkansas know immediately what it intends to do to resist the U. S. decision on integration.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Resumption of integration at Little Rock's Central High School was ordered yesterday by the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus promptly moved to fight it, possibly through a special legislative session.

The court, in a 6-1 decision, set aside a ruling of U.S. Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley of Hope, Ark., which would have provided a 2½-year "breathing spell" after a tense year of troop-enforced integration at the school.

Writing for the majority, Judge Marion C. Matthes of St. Louis said the issue narrowed down to whether public resistance, including mob violence, was sufficient cause to nullify a federal court order directing the school board to carry out its plan for gradual integration of the Little Rock schools.

"We say the time has not yet come to these United States when an order of a federal court must be whittled away, watered down or shamefully withdrawn in the face of violent and unlawful acts . . .," Judge Matthes wrote.

Chief Judge Archibald K. Gardner of Huron, S. D., was the only dissenter. He said the school board had acted in good faith and that Judge Lemley's decision suspending integration had been based "on realities and conditions, rather than theories."

Air Force Pushes for Another Try at Moon Shoot

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) The first disappointing failure was all but forgotten today as the Air Force pushed ahead with ambitious plans for the next attempt to shoot the moon.

Two days after the first massive U.S. moon rocket exploded 77 seconds after launching, there still was no official announcement on the exact cause.

Divers continued to probe 60 feet in the Atlantic to recover the splintered remains of the first-stage Thor missile 10 miles from the cape.

Moon project officers looked forward to their next try, which probably will come between Sept. 14-17. That is when the moon again will be in closest proximity to the earth.

Roy W. Johnson, head of the Research Projects Agency said the Air Force probably will be given the next shot despite the failure. He indicated the Army is not yet ready for its first lunar attempt.

Undersea Routes Next

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — Rear Adm. H. G. Rickover said today that the giant atomic submarine Triton will show the way for building big capital ships to travel under the seas.

LONGEST AND HEAVIEST — The atom-powered Triton, the longest, heaviest and most complex submarine ever built is shown ready for launching today at Groton, Conn. The 447-foot giant of the rapidly expanding U. S. nuclear fleet was launched under sunny skies, regarded as a good omen, while 32,000 spectators watched. Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander in chief of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet, hailed the radar picket submarine as a "nuclear-propelled, invisible, electronic brain" to be used for keeping tabs on any enemy. Blame Business Groups for Defeat

Congress Squelches Bill to Control Labor

FOREST PARK, Pa. (AP) — Several labor union chiefs said today business interests helped sink a labor control bill in Congress to push for sterner measures next year.

The House of Representatives yesterday killed a Senate-passed labor bill, apparently ending the last chance for such legislation at this session.

AFL-CIO leaders, meeting here, had urged its passage, saying they believed the interests of the public and "the decent element in the labor movement and management" thus would be served.

In the wake of the House action, various AFL-CIO chiefs put major blame for defeat of the bill on the National Assn. of Manufacturers and U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

These members of the labor federation's Executive Council said the same management groups likely will seek stronger legislation next year — legislation that, from labor's viewpoint, would hamstring unions.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor legislation apparently is dead for this session of Congress. But signs point to another battle over the issue next year.

The last hope for enactment of such legislation this year faded yesterday when the House voted 190-198 to kill the Kennedy-Ives bill aimed at curbing corruption in labor union activities.

The measure failed by 69 votes to muster the two-thirds majority needed to win passage under special procedure. Some of the opposition apparently stemmed from the restrictions permitting little debate and prohibiting amendments.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Sen. Irving Ives (R-NY), passed the Senate 88-1 two months ago.

Kennedy and Ives denounced the House action. Kennedy said, "Only Jimmy Hoffa (president of the Teamsters Union) can rejoice at his continued good luck."

Congress Kills Housing Bill

Won't Provide Funds for Slum Clearance Projects This Session

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House killed the housing bill last night in the face of a warning by House Democratic leaders that this would be its last chance this session to act on housing legislation.

This meant that Congress would provide no funds for slum clearance projects this session.

The Republicans balked at the no amendment procedure. They contended they should have the right to seek to eliminate provisions which, they said, would have prompted President Eisenhower to veto the Democratic bill anyway.

Besides its slum clearance authorization, the bill contained Administration-opposed provisions to ease down payment requirements for home buyers, set up a new government agency to finance conventional mortgages and authorize federal loans to build college classrooms and low-rent housing for the aged.

Officials Seek Link Between Fire, Bombings

Herman Kierdorf Passes Lie Tests; Is Recalled by Racket Probers

Determination of whether or not a grand jury probe will be called in the Frank Kierdorf torch death, and into the possibility that his death and recent Detroit bombings may have a connection, was expected today.

Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem is in Detroit to confer with Michigan Atty. General Paul L. Adams, Wayne County Prosecutor Samuel Olsen, and Genesee County Prosecutor Jerome O'Rourke to consider calling a grand jury to investigate the mysterious fire death.

Ziem said, however, that should such a probe be launched there was only slight possibility that it would extend to events in Oakland County.

The case became more mystifying last night as Herman Kierdorf, uncle of the dead man, passed a lie detector test "with flying colors," according to George F. Taylor, chief assistant prosecutor for Oakland County.

Ziem, who would not comment on whether he favored a grand jury, did say, however, that "all we have here that would be remotely tied to it would be the bombings of several Royal Oak barber shops."

He said State Police had prepared for him a record of fires in the county going back to around 1952 which he would take to today's conference.

Besides the barber shop fires, he said, Oakland County is involved only in that Frank's horribly charred body was left in Pontiac at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. He died there Aug. 7.

In the meantime, Herman, 67, former Teamsters official from Madison Heights, rested in the county jail after a three-question polygraph test showed he was not an accomplice in an arson job outside Flint which police say cost his nephew his life.

The three-county meeting in Detroit is an attempt to see if there was a conspiracy between Frank's torch death and the burning of the dry cleaning shop, with eight dynamite explosions in Detroit business establishments since January.

BACK TO WASHINGTON

As Herman Kierdorf returned from taking the lie detector test at the Redford State Police Post, he was served a subpoena to appear Monday before the Senate Rackets Committee.

Kierdorf hid behind the Fifth Amendment when questioned by the McClellan committee last month. So did Frank, 56, when questioned last November.

After the elder Kierdorf voluntarily returned from 13 days of hiding Sunday, he again became silent to most questions asked by

Says Teamster Official Involved in $600,000 Kidnap-Slaying

Offers Clue to Greenlease Ransom

WASHINGTON (AP) — The former wife of Robert (Barney) Baker swore today he once told her that Joseph Costello, St. Louis taxi line operator, "got the Greenlease money, and that's why he tried to kill himself."

"I may get killed for telling," Mollie Baker, divorced wife of Teamster official Baker, said.

The woman was in the witness chair of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee.

The committee had hinted last week that it might produce some sensational testimony about the $300,000 that has never been recovered from the $600,000 ransom paid in 1953 by the parents of young Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City., Mo., who was kidanped and slain.

Mrs. Baker reeled off a story of links between the underworld and Baker, a top lieutenant of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa.

At times, she protested at having to answer the questions shot at her by Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel.

It was John Hager, a taxi driver employed by Costello's Ace Cab Co., who gave St. Louis police the tip that led to the capture of Carl Austin Hall, the kidnap-slayer of the 6-year old Greenlease boy.

Hall and his accomplice, Bonnie Brown Heady were executed for the crime, but the police never recovered half of the ransom.

Mrs. Baker described her hus-

He Believes Other Side Much the Same

Can't See Reason to Circle Moon--Charles E. Wilson

PETOSKEY (UPI)—Former Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson says he can't see why everyone is so eager to send a rocket around the moon.

"Maybe I'm old and not as curious as I was," Wilson told the Petoskey Service Club last night, "but I think the other side of the moon is much like this one."

The free-wheeling ex-secretary and former General Motors president indicated the moon rockets, just like the American satellites and Russian Sputniks, were not military weapons.

The only pain the United States suffered when Russia sent up the first satellite was a blow to its "false pride," Wilson said. "The competition to launch the first satellite was strictly between "two bunches of Germans — those with Russia and those with us," he added.

Wilson warned that the whole concept of U.S.-Russian competition must be changed.

"An all-out arms race between Russia and the U.S. is not the answer to the world's problems," he said. Such races led to 22 wars in the past and war today would be a "world disaster worse than the Dark Ages that followed the collapse of the Greek and Roman Empires."

"We must learn to live together in a not-so-competitive way," said Wilson. The world struggle, he said, "is not like a golf match but right now it's worse than strip poker."

In an off the cuff question and answer session following his speech Wilson said the trip under the Polar ice cap by the atomic submarine "Nautilus" was a "good scientific trick but it's too bad we did it if it heats up the Russians" in the arms race.

Wilson praised President Eisenhower's Mideast proposals now before the United Nations as a real contribution to peace. He said there were "five new forces" at work in the world which made him hopeful world problems might be solved peacefully.

— Technology, if properly applied, could help millions out of poverty and prevent wars over food supplies.

—"The U. S. policy of "colonialism in reverse" may meet the challenge created by the rise of nationalism and the collapse of colonials. Wilson characterized this policy as the willingness of Americans to "exploit" themselves by high taxes to help raise world living standards, instead of exploiting subject peoples to improve their own standards.

— The United Nations helps reach peaceful solutions by creating a family of nations within recognized international law and giving fair dealings for all.

— Rapid communication and transportation and more freedom of the press create better understanding and provide means for swiftly dealing with problems before they grow too large to manage.

—The broader education of the masses makes people less easy to fool. Wilson doubted that even the Russian people can be made to think only along Communist lines if they receive education as they are getting it today.

About his difficulties in saying the right thing at the right time while in Washington, Wilson had the following comment:

"I wasn't politically housebroken when I arrived in Washington. I learned there that you just don't speak about the political facts of life like I did. I proved over and over again that I wasn't a politician."

Union Holds Out Against Pay Cut

Continues to Reject Hospital's Attempt to Reduce Expenses

Union leaders at Pontiac General Hospital today indicated no change in their refusal to accept voluntary pay cuts affecting about 262 non-professional hospital employes.

A statement released by Samuel G. Baker, president of local 100, American Federal of State, County and Municipal Employes (AFL-CIO) blames the hospital administration for present financial troubles.

Faced with mounting deficit, the hospital's board of trustees in June asked employes to take a 10 per cent reduction in salaries above $6,500 and a five per cent reduction in salaries below.

The union, which at that time represented 263 of the 566 full-time employes, refused.

The board charged that due to poor administrative policy in previous years, hospital wages had got out of balance and represented about 70 per cent of the operating expenses.

Baker admits that the latter percentage is correct, but argued that some authorities believe it is normal and may even increase by about five per cent annually.

"We feel a definite responsibility to our hospital because we want it to be one of the finest in the country," Baker said.

"We firmly believe that the citizens of Pontiac will rally in support of Pontiac General if the administrators will honestly justify the hospital budget," he continued.

Sputnik Carrier Seen Clearly Near Birmingham

Dr. and Mrs. Paul L. Connolly and a few friends report an unusually clear view of Russia's Sputnik III rocket Monday evening shortly before nine o'clock. They studied it with both a telescope and binoculars, although it also was plainly visible to the naked eye.

On the next passage which was about 10:30, the party saw nothing at all. "We believe," said Mrs. Connolly, "that the clarity of the previous trip might have been due to the fact it was still in sunlight. The sun had set here, but it could have been shining on the rocket."

The Connolly's residence on East Millerway outside of Birmingham is elevated and commands a clear view of the sky.

Roche Predicts Good Sales

'59 Cadillacs to Feature More Glass and Power

DETROIT (AP) — The new 1959 Cadillac car is lower and has more glass area than the 1958 models. Some of the new 1959 models are longer and there has been a modest increase in horsepower and compression ratio.

These new details of the Cadillac came out at an off-the-record press preview yesterday. There were numerous styling advances in the car.

James M. Roche, Cadillac general manager, predicted that the more favorable business trend of the last few months will continue. He forecast a production of five and a half million cars for the industry for 1959 models.

The new Cadillacs go into production Sept. 2. They go on sale Oct. 1. Details of engineering and styling will be withheld until public introduction of the cars.

Roche discussed both Cadillac's market position and the economic situation in general at the preview.

He said a strengthening of the national economy is indicated by high level employment, new housing starts, personal bank deposits, personal income and the gross national product.

"While attention has been focused on the number of unemployed," Roche said, "actual employment is a very high level and was estimated at 65 million in June. There is every indication the number of employed and the average hours worked will continue to improve in the foreseeable future."

Roche said Cadillac took 59.6 per cent of the higher price car market in the first six months of this year. He predicted the car will maintain this position. For the first six months of last year Cadillac's share of the higher price car market was 48.9 per cent, he said.

The Cadillac chief said his car's retail sales through Aug. 20 this year should total 111,200 as against 118,500 for the same period last year.

He said this has been outstanding in a year when the auto industry's performance as a whole "left much to be desired."

In the 1958 model year Cadillac built 121,786 cars. In the same 1957 period it built 125,030 cars.

Ike to Approve Agriculture Bill

Senate Rushes Through Farm Legislation by Voice Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A farm bill that got rush treatment was White House-bound today amid predictions it will be signed by President Eisenhower.

Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La) of the Senate Agriculture Committee said he was reasonably certain Eisenhower would sign the bill, which the Senate passed by voice vote last night. The House passed it last week.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who supported most of the bill's provisions, indicated earlier that the President would sign the measure if it gained passage.

The measure would prevent a sharp cutback in planting of cotton and rice, allow corn farmers to rid themselves of all planting controls, and extend for three more years a subsidy program for domestic wool growers.

Another provision — which the administration especially likes — would permit lower government price supports on cotton, rice, corn and other livestock feed grains.

Benson said the measure contains "many forward-looking provisions which will give our nation's farmers and ranchers more freedom to plant, to market, to compete and make their own decisions."

"Although the bill is not all the administration sought, it is based on the sound principle that a wide range of price supports will lead to expanded markets for this nation's abundant agricultural products," he said in a statement.

Benson said it was his understanding Congress would act on two other pieces of farm legislation before it quits.

One would extend the farm surplus disposal law for two years with 3½ billion dollars in additional authority for overseas sales and gifts of farm surpluses.

Benson said the second bill was one pending in the Senate calling for state participation in aid programs for farmers hit by natural disasters.

Study Grand Jury Probe in Kierdorf Fire Death

Adams during morning and afternoon questioning in Ziem's office. He continually refused to answer questions, saying his attorney, William F. Dohany, of Pontiac, had told him not to answer.

This all changed, however, when Adams excused stenographer Mrs. Glenden Pote from the room and told Kierdorf his refusal to cooperate "tended to create suspicions and not bear out his protestations of innocence."

It was then that the cigar-smoking former aide of James R. Hoffa, Teamsters president, consented to a lie detector test. But only to three questions; he insisted.

They were:

(1) Were you at the Latreille Cleaners the night of the fire?

(2) Did you have any prior knowledge that the fire was going to take place?

(3) Did you in any way assist in transporting Frank Kierdorf to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac?

Kierdorf was insistent that he not be questioned on his whereabouts since he left the hospital after visiting Frank Aug. 4, sale of a Teamster-owned Cadillac, or his sudden retirement from the Union a day before he was questioned by the Senate Committee.

Herman answered "no" to all three questions asked him by Detective Sgt. Frank Barkman, who administered the test.

"His response was excellent," Barkman said "He didn't show any indications of deception in answering 'no' to each of the questions.

Kierdorf's passage of the test exploded another angle in an already baffling three-week mystery.

For weeks, as police conducted a nationwide search for the uncle, it was believed his hurried departure from the area implicated him in the crime. It was thought also he might have been the man that drove Frank to the hospital Aug. 4 after unsuccessfully attemptng to treat second and third-degree burns over 85 per cent of his body.

Authorities believe that Frank, an ex-convict who served time for armed robbery, was set afire while trying to burn down the cleaners. Why, police still are at a loss to explain.

Kierdorf, who told reporters Sunday night he fled "until things quieted down," told Adams "in great detail" during 1½ hours of questioning Monday afternoon how he spent Sunday, Aug. 3, the day the cleaning establishment was destroyed.

Although Adams said this account indicated "progress was being made," he added that Kierdorf refused again to account for any of his activities beyond midnight Aug. 3.

"When we got into any area beyond midnight aug. 3, we encountered considerable difficulty in getting information from him," Adams said.

He said Kierdorf declined to answer these further questions "on advice of counsel." He insisted that the prosecutor's office had taken a statement about his daytime activities Aug. 4, so he refused to explain a second time.

It was around early evening that same day that Kierdorf dropped from sight, not to be seen until 10 p.m. Sunday when he turned himself over to Taylor and Ziem with his son, Richard, acting as a go-between.

Kierdorf told investigators yesterday that he spent Aug. 3 chatting with neighbors, reading the newspapers, and watching, he recollected, "What's My Line?" on television that night.

Adams quoted him as saying that he talked with William F. Kenealy, 33, his foster son. They went to the National Meat & Food Foundation Inc., 15351 Livernois Ave., Detroit, "to discuss business of the store."

Kenealy, who lived with Herman at 29068 Spoon St., Madison Heights, is an employe of the store.

Investigators had believed that Kenealy and other employes of the store, near where Herman sold the Union Cadillac for $1,700 for "getaway" money, had planned his escape.

The man who reportedly was the last man to see Herman before his departure, Myron D. Weiss, allegedly a butcher in the meat shop, is scheduled to testify before the McClellan committee Monday also.

Sherman S. Willse, a Detroit investigator for the committee, said he also has served Jack Thompson, described as the "closest friend" of Frank Kierdorf, with a subpeona. He too is expected before the committee next Monday.

In addition to refusing to answer many questions, Kierdorf declined to give a sample of his handwriting which, Adams said, was wanted to check against several transactions, including the sale of the Cadillac.

Kierdorf also refused to give his statements yesterday under oath.

He was arrested and jailed Sunday night on a warrant ordered by Ziem charging him with possession of a gun silencer.

What the silencer was intended for was another question to which Kierdorf retained his tight-lipped silence with Adams yesterday. He also would not talk about two telephones he rushed out of his home and gave to a neighbor when he learned of Frank's burning.

Kierdorf is expected to be arraigned before Madison Heights Justice of the Peace Hendrik J. Smit either late today or tomorrow, Taylor said.

Conviction would mean a prison term of five years and a fine of $2,500 for the balding, white-haired Kierdorf, who had served time for armed robbery before Hoffa appointed him to the Teamsters.

Kierdorf steadfastly refused to take the polygraph test until Adams' "informal talk" with him with the stenographer out of the room.

"When I told him his uncooperativeness tended to link him with the case, he almost got up out of his chair," Adams told reporters at a 4 p.m. news conference.

At this conference the attorney general, who has been serving as a co-ordinator between county officials in the case, refused to say whether Herman would be eliminated from complicity in it if he cleared the lie test.

band as close to Costello and said

"Baker told me Costello got the Greenlease money, and that is why he tried to kill himself."

William Keating, an ex-New York crime investigator had given the senators a lengthy story on Baker's history as a waterfront tough before becoming associated with Hoffa.

LONG-TIME DESIRE

Keating also said he regards Hoffa's efforts to form a giant transportation union as stemming from a long-time desire by mobsters to cash in on waterfront business operations.

The Hoffa plans, Keating said, "follow along the same plans started years ago by mobsters."

Rep. Wint Smith (R-Kan) denied under oath today that pressure from high places squelched a 1953 investigation of Teamster President James R. Hoffa.

Smith said the hearings by a House subcommittee had run their course by the time he gaveled them to a close in Detroit.

Testifying before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, Smith said in reply to questions:

He never received anything of value from Hoffa to influence the inquiry.

He never has received campaign contributions from Hoffa or from organized labor.

Labor Control Bill Defeated in House forward again next year," Kennedy said. "In the meantime, those who defeated this bill will bear a heavy responsibility for the labor racketeering that will continue unchecked."

Ives, who is retiring at the end of this year, said defeat of the Senate-passed bill is an open invitation to criminals to make the most of their chances in the labor-management field.

Some members who favor a tougher bill said they would try again in 1959.

Supporters of the Kennedy-Ives bill said it would insure protection for the rights of rank-and-file union members. Opponents labeled it an ineffective measure which they contended would weaken provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act.

MRS. NOEL BUCKNER

MRS. J. S. TUTTLE

Name 3 Women for United Fund

Will Direct Workers in Their Areas During Coming Campaign

The appointments of Mrs. Noel Buckner, Mrs. Robert Giroux and Mrs. J. S. Tuttle to top positions in the reorganized Women's Division of the Pontiac Area United Fund were announced today by Mrs. Donald White, division chairman.

Mrs. Buckner, as Pontiac co-chairman will direct the door-to-door solicitation within the city and township limits. Four area chairmen and 42 district chairmen will work under her supervision.

Similarly, Mrs. Robert Giroux will direct the residential solicitation in the Waterford Township area with the aid of four area chairmen. In addition some 53 district chairmen and approximately 475 solicitors will aid her in this task.

Mrs. Tuttle will supervise the solicitations of homes in Lake Angelus Village. This is the first time a co-chairman has been appointed to direct the Lake Angelus collections.

The division's reorganization was prompted by its volunteer leaders of previous campaigns who felt an incomplete solicitation had been conducted in past years.

"This year we intend to have our volunteer workers visit every home in the United Fund's area of solicitation," stated Mrs. White.

Kierdorf Creating Turmoil

Customary sereneness of the Oakland County prosecutor's office has gone. It has been replaced by turmoil.

The change occurred when the nation's spotlight focused on Pontiac and the Frank-Herman Kierdorf case.

Chairs, telephones and patience are at a premium in the old brown brick building next to the courthouse on West Huron street.

Reporters, photographers, newsreel men and representatives of other news media have been steadily coming and going from the office of Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem since the Kierdorf case opened Aug. 4.

"This is the most activity I've seen in this office since the Barbara Gaca case," declared Mrs. Norman Colwell, who celebrated her fifth anniversary as Ziem's secretary Sunday. The Gaca girl's body was found May 31, 1955 in a West Bloomfield garbage dump.

"What's doing, George?" a restless reporter inquires of Chief Assistant George F. Taylor. When he or another official comes from behind closed doors, they're cornered by news-hungry reporters.

They pack the small reception room waiting for Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams to call a press conference. Since he stepped into the case as "co-ordinator," all news comes from him.

When the inner door outside Ziem's office opens, all eyes swing in that direction.

Following a conference, unused phones became scarce. One assistant prosecutor had to wait until a reporter finished using his. A secretary gave up trying to get at her desk to do her work.

A reporter sat there reading a magazine with feet propped on this desk.

Sensing the activity with the Kierdorf case, Ziem recently installed a public address system to page persons. Assistants used to just yell for each other before.

Mrs. Beverly Vernot took over her new job as switchboard operator just in time for this mass confusion.

Upstairs in the old county health building, which was once the county jail years ago, girls are busy typing out page after page of statements taken in the case.

"I wish they hadn't invented sound," said one frustrated newsreel cameraman as he unwound yards of electrical cable preparing for a press conference.

When the Kierdorf investigation scene shifts to Flint or Detroit, the prosecutor's office is its same old quiet self again. "I wish it would stay that way," an assistant prosecutor remarked.

HOPES FOR VOTE

Sir Leslie Knox Munro of New Zealand, Assembly president, hoped the Assembly would vote by Wednesday night. But observers predicted there would be a rash of attempts to modify the resolution by such dissatisfied nations as India and Japan and perhaps some Arab states.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville arrived today in New York and might have something to say on the Norwegian resolution. His arrival made it possible for Hammarskjold, the U.N. secretary general, to set up a "little summit" conference of the United States, Britain, France, Soviet Union and the United Arab Republic.

The "leave it to Dag" resolution would send him to the Middle East with a "Philosophical mandate" under which he would try to work out arrangements for what the Russians call "peaceful co-existence" of the various Middle East nations.

GIVEN BOOST

It was given a boost last night by Sweden which announced it would send additional personnel to Lebanon to reinforce U.N. observer teams and "smooth the way for the evacuation of American troops." Hammarskjold has wanted to reinforce the U.N. forces there for just that purpose.

The resolution was put before the Assembly's emergency session late yesterday by Norway, Canada, Colombia, Denmark, Liberia, Panama and Paraguay. Its principal provisions would:

—Call upon all countries to forego threats or acts of aggression, direct or indirect.

—Request Hammarskjold "forthwith to make such practical arrangements as he . . . may find would adequately serve to help in upholding the purposes and principles of the Charter in relation to Lebanon and Jordan."

— Note that Hammarskjold is preparing a report on creation of a standby peace force as suggested by President Eisenhower for next month's regular session of the Assembly. It would ask him to study with the Arab countries the setting up of an Arab do-it-yourself economic plan.

—Invite Hammarskjold to report on his peace efforts not later than Sept. 30.

Western diplomats admitted the resolution they were backing was vague. But this vagueness attracted the uncommitted "neutral" countries to the extent that leaders of the 28-vote Afro-Asian bloc admitted that 12 or 13 of their members would vote for it.

The Dulles-Lloyd declaration said they would withdraw their forces "whenever this is requested by the duly constituted government. . . or whenever as a result of the further action of the U.N., or otherwise, their presence is no longer required."

Lake Superior Blast Set Off

Scientists Test Theory That Thickness of Earth Crust Affects Gravity

CORNUCOPIA, Wis. (AP) — Scientists, testing a theory that gravity varies with the thickness of the earth's crust, yesterday finished firing the last of 10 tons of explosives under the surface of Lake Superior.

Seismographic studies, using shock waves from the explosives to prove the earth crust, were started Aug. 1.

A team of University of Wisconsin scientists, led by geologist Robert Meyer, fired about 40 charges of explosives from a Coast Guard cutter. The charges varied from 25 to 750 pounds of Notromon, a product known as a "safe explosive."

Shock waves radiated from the point of the blasts and also echoed within the earth. The tremors were detected by seismographic instruments located in northwestern Wisconsin, several miles inland from the lake.

Meyer said it will be several months before the voluminous readings can be coorelated and interpreted.

When the study is completed, the information will be submitted to Washington, headquarters of the U.S. National Committee of the International Geophysical year.

The explosives, packed in tincans, were dropped from the cutter Woodrush at various places on the lake. The charges were detonated at varying depths.

The project, financed by the IGY committee, was set up by George P. Woolard, University of Wisconsin geology professor.

The Day in Birmingham

2 Absent Commissioners Stop New Zoning Action

BIRMINGHAM — Two absent commissioners, Harry Denyes and William Burgum, stopped action on the John Chiera zoning amendment request at last night's City Commission meeting.

Since 22 objections have been filed, a full commission is necessary to act.

City planners have recommended denial of the request. The area, bounded by Smith, Grant, Edgewood and Southlawn streets, is surrounded by single family residenes. Planners say they feel the blocks can be successfully developed for single family homes and see no reason to approve the multiple family use request of Chiera, a land developer.

The request to change the property of Dr. J. Clark Moloney at 212 Daines St., from residential to non retail business, was approved. There were no objections from residents.

Commissioners also granted a request for the construction of sidewalks on sections of Henrietta and Chestnut streets.

City Manager L. R. Gare's request for $625 to alter the Department of Public Works office was approved. Gare said the change would provide private office space for T. C. Brien, DPW superintendent and Charles Gale, city forester.

Most of the labor will be performed by city employes.

Mrs. Perry Vaughn will entertain Past Matrons Club of Birmingham Chapter, No. 220, OES, at her cottage on Walpole Island August 26. A potluck luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m.

James L. Rast of 551 Oak St., has been named to the contact staff of the Detroit Office of Young and Rubicam. He will have charge of the Argus Camer aaccount.

Five Public Hearings Slated for Tonight

Five public hearings will occupy city commissioners 'attention tonight.

One concerns intention to construct a sanitary sewer on the north side of Montcalm street from Lakeside east about 80 feet.

Another involves vacating a small strip of land at Perry street and East boulevard. Vacating the property comes as a result of the Perry widening project.

Three other hearings are on assessment rolls covering new sanitary sewers on Lounsbury avenue, from Stanley west about 300 feet, and on Montcalm, Wing to Portland; and curbs and gutters on Longfellow avenue, University to the Pontiac, Oxford & Northern Railroad.

Also scheduled for tonight is the first reading of an ordinance to rezone 23 lots along the south side of Montcalm between Baldwin avenue and the Pontiac, Oxford & Northern Railroad from Commercial 1 and Residential 2 to Commercial 2.

Little Rock Ordered: Resume Integration

He had nothing to say publicly, but talk of a special legislative session mounted.

An administration source said Faubus probably would have the state legislators in Little Rock by a week from Wednesday.

The appeals court decision came just 16 days before school is scheduled to reopen at Central High.

BOARD TO FIGHT

Little Rock School Supt. Virgil Blossom said the school board would make an all-out fight to prevent seven negro students from re-entering Central.

But an attorney for the school board, Richard C. Butler, said he did not know whether an appeal could be considered by the U.S. Supreme Court before the Sept. 2 opening of school. The high court is in recess until Oct. 6.

The board could ask the court to stay its order pending review by the Supreme Court. If the stay is granted, Judge Lemley's order would continue in force after the start of the school term.

ATTACK RULING

In Congress, Southerners bitterly attacked the decision.

"It is rather tragic that the Circuit Court of Appeals has wholly disregarded the welfare of both races and the will of the people. . . ." said Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.).

Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-SC) said it appeared that "judicial tyranny in this country is running rampant over local self-government."

Among supporters of civil rights, Sen. Clifford Case (R-NJ) said he hoped Little Rock citizens would actively support authorities in carrying out integration.

Judge Matthes emphasized the importance of the decision on integration of Southern schools. Allowing Lemley's order to stand, he said, would mean an open invitation for other school districts to resort to violence.

In his short dissenting memorandum, the 90-year-old Gardner said segregation had become a way of life in the South.

"It is not strange that this long-established, cherished practice could not suddenly be changed without resistance," he said.

Judge Matthes, at 52 the youngest of the seven judges, said the court realized the school board and its administrators had been harassed by the public and the state government.

"The executive department of the State of Arkansas has openly opposed their efforts, as demonstrated by the statement by the governor of the official policy of the State of Arkansas against integration, followed by the use of National Guardsmen to prevent entry of Negro students," the majority opinion said.

Judge Lemley suspended the integration plan last June 21. It was at the request of the school board. Blossom, a key witness, testified that it was impossible to conduct normal classes because of incidents.

Faubus called out the National Guard at the start of school to keep the nine Negro students from attending classes. They had been selected to begin what the school board called gradual integration.

U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald Davies of Fargo, N.D., on a temporary assignment in Arkansas, ordered Faubus to withdraw the guard. When mob violence followed outside the school the next day, President Eisenhower sent federal troops to restore order and enforce the integration.

The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People appealed the Lemley decision. It asked the Supreme Court to bypass the appeals court for the sake of speed but that request was refused.

Guitar Sales Seizing Lead in Mail Orders

CHICAGO — One of the nation's leading mail-order houses reports that guitars are now leading sales in its musical-instrument department, edging out harmonicas, which were in first place for many years.

Ukuleles are in third place. Company experts credit the popularity of Western television shows and films and Western music for the swing to guitars.

Possible Cancer Preventive
Breast Operation Defined

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer

ABOARD SS MATSONIA (AP) — A way of virtually knocking out breast cancer as a cause of death has become a possibility in the not distant future even though no blanket cure is in sight.

The idea is based on the simple arithmetic of breast cancer fatalities and consideration of what surgery can do. It postulates that women past the child-bearing age would free themselves of the danger of breast carcinoma by having the milk glands removed from their breasts even though there is no indication of malignancy.

This would mean extraction of about half the bulk of the tissues within the breasts, but not the removal or destruction of the breasts themselves. It also would serve as a start toward reshaping breasts for aesthetic reasons.

A surgeon who neither approved nor disapproved the idea brought it to light yesterday in discussing the future of medicine before a group of about 50 doctors from all over the United States.

He is Clarence Berne, professor of surgery at the University of Southern California Medical School. His talk was part of a unique medical refresher course conducted by USC aboard this liner en route to Los Angeles from Honolulu.

Plain statistics show that one out of every five cancer deaths among women is due to breast malignancy. In a great majority of cases breast cancer originates in the milk gland tissue. Also, most breast cancer occurs in older women, usually those past childbearing age. It follows logically that elimination of the site of origin automatically would deal a substantial if not an actual knockout blow to breast carcinoma.

Man Loses Car, His Equipment in Deep Canyon

SPRINGVILE, Utah (AP) — Henry Teller Tyler's brakes failed as he and his wife drove down steep Spanish Fork Canyon in Central Utah yesterday.

The Modesto, Calif., man managed to stop his car with the emergency brake. Then, using the emergency and low gear, he proceeded down the 16-mile grade.

A tire blew out. After swapping tires, Tyler set out again.

But his brakes got so hot they set the car on fire. A passing Denver and Rio Grande Western freight train stopped and the crew used its hand extinguishers in a vain effort to quell the flames.

The Tylers lost their car, luggage and fishing and camping equipment. A fire truck dispatched from Springville gave them a lift into town.

Narcotics Stolen From Drug Store

An undetermined amount of narcotics were taken from a Pontiac Drug Store by burglars according to Ponitac police reports yesterday.

Alfred E. Scarborough, assistant manager of Lou's Drug Store, 493 S. Sanford St., told detectives that the building had been bfoken into through the ceiling.

Investigators found that the thieves had cut a hole in the roof, then dropped through to the ceiling, cut another hole and dropped down into the drug store.

A safe was forced open from which most of the narcotics were taken. Also reported missing were various pieces of costume jewelry, watches, cameras, clocks, liquor and cigarettes.

The store owners and managers are expected to disclose the amount and value of the stolen goods later today.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) —It must have taken this taxpayer a long time to collect the $3.71 he paid Warren County.

He mailed the sheriff six refund checks from mail-order houses.

Evidence of Recession

Everyone on the Street Loves the Connealys

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Connealy and family returned from vacation yesterday and what a hub bub.

They'd been gone only two weeks visiting his parents and her mother up at Decatur, Neb., but almost everyone along the first block of Concord Ave. west of Main St. turned out to welcome them home.

By latest and most reliable count there are 69 kids along this block. All of them except babes in arms kept a noisy, mobile lookout all day for the Connealy clan. Many mothers and a few fathers watched too.

At 5:12 p.m. the station wagon of accountant Connealy appeared and was quickly engulfed by 40 to 50 kids, all screaming.

Connealy finally got the idea. He was to drive around the block and come in the other way, the way they'd been expected, so they could see the banner flung across the street saying, "We Missed You All."

Hanging from the house was another: "Welcome Home Happy Honeymooners."

That was a joke. Beneath it caricatures of Mr. and Mrs. Connealy and their seven children—Joseph, 14, Dan, 12, Kathy, 10, Kevin, 9, John 7, Terry, 3, and Tim, 13 months.

The youngsters spilled two and three at a time out of the station wagon, a welter of pillows, blankets, sacks of groceries and suitcases in two luggage racks on top.

The family, with escort, moved toward the front door and someone shoved a cold beer in Connealy's hand.

Why all the fuss?

Everyone on Concord Ave. just loves the Connealys.

He Offers to Debate Bagwell, Williams

DETROIT (UPI) — The two principals in a political debate hassle —Gov. G. Mennen Williams and his Republican opponent, Paul D. Bagwell — today received offers to debate with a third party — the Socialist Workers candidate for governor.

Frank Lovell, the candidate on the Socialist Worker ticket, wrote Bagwell, hit at Williams' "sarcastic answer" to the debate challenge and said he was willing to face both men on a debate of war and unemployment.

Lovell said it was "patently false for Williams to claim there could be 'little prospect of any serious joining of issues in this manner.'"

He said he was not in agreement with Williams or Bagwell on their answers on war and unemployment and was "willing to debate these questions, or any others with you or with both you and Governor Williams. . ."

Extended Idle Pay to Cost State More

DETROIT (UPI) — It will cost about $15 for every one dollar saved in welfare costs to support the extended unemployment benefits, Colin L. Smith, manager of the Michigan Employers' Unemployment Compensation Bureau said today.

Smith said the extended payments "are not paid only to those who could otherwise qualify for public welfare aid" but to other jobless persons "whether they need it or not."

"As a matter of fact," he said, "only a minority of those who receive unemployment compensation benefits would be able to qualify for welfare if the benefits were not available."

Smith said the temporary extension cost will be $14,850,000 in Detroit where only $1,000,000 would be saved in welfare costs.

Miss America Will Add Up to 35-23-35½

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Tallying up the figures, Miss America 1958 figures to look something like this:

She'll be a little over 19, a shade under 5 feet 6 inches, will weigh about 119 pounds and will measure 35-23-35½, roughly—but not too roughly.

That's the average of the 51 girls from 46 states, Canada, Hawaii, New York City, Washington, D. C., and Chicago entered in this year's Miss America pageant starting Sept. 1.

Montana and Wyoming are the only states not represented this year. Bethesda, Md., on the other hand, has sent two entries—Miss Maryland and Miss District of Columbia.

OUTWARD TO THE STARS

(2)—Copernicus

By Don Oakley and Ralph Lane

Man's knowledge of the universe moved ahead with the years.

(1) Nicolaus Copernicus (1473-1543), of Poland, was repelled by the complicated, earth-centered Ptolemaic universe which had been accepted as truth for centuries. From his observations, Copernicus came to the conclusion that the Earth was just another planet, rotating on its axis and revolving about the Sun. The Sun, and not the Earth was the center of the universe. Shortly after his death, the Inquisition clamped its grip on Europe.

(2) The Italian Giordano Bruno (1548?-1600) was not an astronomer, but a philosopher. Herald of the modern age of science, he extended the Copernican system. He proclaimed that not only the Earth, but the Sun and all its planets were only a tiny part of the universe. For such heresy he was burned at the stake.

(3) Tycho Brahe (1546-1601) built the first observatory in the western world, on an island off his native Denmark. Brahe was a great observer and contributed much to astronomy. But he was never able to accept Copernicus' theories.

(4) Brahe's assistant, Johannes Kepler (1571-1630) of Austria, demolished the old Greek astronomy of perfect circular orbits for planets. His mathematics laid the groundwork for Newton's law of gravitation.

(5) The Italian Galileo Galilei (1564-1642) built the first astronomical telescope and was amazed when he turned it toward the Moon. He was the first man to see a heavenly body as it really was. And he declared that Copernicus was right — the Earth did indeed move about the Sun. But as an old man he was forced to recant his theories. It was for a later age to recognize his genius.

Next: Newton, Mechanic of the Universe.

4 Persons Die as Jet Crashes

3 Seriously Injured as Trainer Crashes Into Row of Parked Cars

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP)—A low-flying Air Force jet trainer with an engine flameout pinwheeled on one wing off a fishing pier concession building and crashed into a row of parked autos yesterday. Four persons were killed, three seriously injured.

The crash scene was less than a mile from a Myrtle Beach Air Force Base runway.

The bodies of a man and two children found in one of the cars were burned beyond immediate recognition. The auto bore an Indiana license plate registered in the name of Louis H. Snider, 46, New Albany, Ind.

Officers said New Albany relatives reported they believed the vacationing Snider was in the car with his two sons, David, 9, and Freddie, 7.

The relatives said Snider's wife Mary, 45, and two daughters, Marilyn, 17, and Hope, 13, also were in the vacation party.

Only one of the dead, concessionaire L. J. MacKey, could be identified immediately.

Injured were J.R. Martin, who helped operate the concession stand, and the plane's pilots, Capt. Wallace B. McCafferty, San Bernardino, Calif., and Capt. William J. Sitzman Jr., Waukegan, Ill. The pilots were taken to the Charleston Air Force Base Hospital for treatment of extensive burns.

An investigating team from Pope Air Force Base, N.C., said the pilots were making a good control approach landing when the engine stopped.

Col. Francis S. Gabreski, commanding the 354th Tactical Fighter Wing at Myrtle Beach Air Force Base, said the pilots "chose to guide the aircraft away from populated areas at the risk of their own lives . . ."

Coast Guard Rescues Two Boating Parties

By The Associated Press

The U.S. Coast Guard rescued two boating parties from distress in Great Lakes waters Monday.

Both groups, their craft crippled by engine failure, had drifted overnight since Sunday.

Four persons were towed in on Lake Huron after a comedy of errors involving both Coast Guard boats and a lake freighter. Three others were towed ashore from Lake St. Clair.

On Lake Huron, the 54-foot ketch Intrigue ran into trouble in high seas Sunday. Aboard were Howard Haarer of Detroit, his 12-year-old son (name unknown), William Heller of Detroit and John Dendy of St. Clair Shores.

When the motor of the Intrigue went out, the group sent up flares late Sunday.

The freighter Norman W. Fay, radioed by shore watchers to go to the Intrigue's aid, maneuvered in to put a tow line on the ketch.

But the Intrigue collided with the Fay's fantail, breaking in part of the Intrigue's hull above the waterline. In the confusion, the tow line was lost.

With the ketch disabled, her crew abandoned the idea of a tow.

The Harbor Beach Coast Guard sent out two boats — the second because the engine of the first stalled.

A nightlong search failed to find the Intrigue. It was Monday before a freighter picked up a radio message and spotted the Intrigue nine miles southeast of Port Sanilac. This time a Coast Guard boat towed her in.

On Lake St. Clair 78-year-old Peter C, Jezewski of Hamtramck and two fisherman companions, John Wolyniak and Edward Kowieski, also of Hamtramck, spent nearly 24 hours drifting in their disabled 26-foot cabin cruiser. The boat's engine went dead as they were heading for home Sunday.

A Coast Guard helicopter spotted them Monday eight miles south of the St. Clair River on the Canadian side of the lake and a Coast Guard boat towed them in.

Speeches Too Boring

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Delegates to the annual convention of the National Model Railroad Assn. are in for a surprise—there'll be no banquet speaker. Edward R. Campbell, local chairman of the group, said "We decided to cut speechmaking out." It was too boring. Delegates will see manufacturers' displays and go sight-seeing.

Casino Forced to Close

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A series of heavy winners forced the gambling casino at the Tropicana Hotel to close briefly yesterday. The dice started rolling again a few hours later after the owners deposited additional money in the treasury.

Deadly Sleeping Sickness Rises in Japan, Korea

TOKYO (AP)—Deadly sleeping sickness—encephalitis—is on the rise again in Japan and Korea, and welfare officials say it may reach epidemic proportions in the next few months.

The Welfare Ministry today reported 352 known cases in Japan this year, of which 42 died. In the past two weeks in south Korea there have been 297 cases reported, of which 71 died.

The most severe epideimc in Japan was in 1956, when 1,574 died out of a total of 4,350 cases.

Local authorities were urged to concentrate on eliminating mosquitoes, which carry the disease, and on inoculation programs.

Virginia's Natural Bridge, a span of water-carved limestone, arches 90 feet across a gorge. Thomas Jefferson paid George III 20 shillings for the bridge and for 157 acres of land less than a year before first shots were exchanged between Americans and Britons in the Revolution.

Ex-Vaudevillian Sells Stale Gags to Comics

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK—Any time you see two guys who agree on the subject of what is funny—one of them is a ventriloquist.

Humor is as controversial as the Middle East.

"Take like some people think dogs are funny. Dogs walking on ropes. Dogs walking on dogs walking on ropes. More dogs ruined my billing . . ."

Billy Glason, ex-vaudevillian, scratched a head distinguished by freckles with a shine on them. "But that's another story," he said. "What I'd like to tell you, in case you didn't know, is that there's no such thing as being original in the comedy business. All the jokes are old. It's just the person who tells them who's original."

Until a few years ago, Glason had been a comic for more than 40 years. He has collected, thus, thousands of old gags, which he sells at a modest price to some of the top comics of the day. (At least he says the price is modest and the comics are tops.) He won't mention names for publication because "a lot of performers today want the public to think that what they're givin' them is new.

"Nonesense, of course. Most of the jokes you hear on television are a century old. They're invaluable. Like antiques. You have to have a good, time-proven foundation to kick around and improve on."

Like the old "Who was that lady I seen you with last night?" wheeze.

Glason version, kicked around—presumably improved:

"Who was that lady I seen you with at the sidewalk cafe last night?" "That was no sidewalk cafe; that was our furniture."

Now this is an example, said Billy, of another facet of the old poke business. "It's a good thing all jokes are old ones. Actually, a lot of laughs come from the audience's subconscious. They know what's coming, and they're all set for it."

If there were such a thing as a new gag, they might not get as big a kick out of it.

PAID FOR GAGS

When he was a youngster in the business, Billy said, he paid as high as $100 a gag for material to use on whatever circuit he happened to be performing. He remembers one costly one:

"She was so popular she was referred to three times in that great battle song, "Tramp Tramp Tramp, the Boys Are Marching.'"

Another expensive item was "My Girl's nice, but ugly; she's so ugly, when she gets drunk the snakes see her."

This quite possibly was an updated joke from the Garden of Eden engagement.

Glason manages to make a pretty fair living selling samples of his comedy collection, which has been called the most extensive in the U. S. Snappy stories for every occasion. The only reason they don't have a money-back guarantee is that, as stated earlier, no two guys agree on what's funny.

"And besides," says Billy, "everybody has too much of the ham in his heart. Nine people out of 10 won't really hear the joke you're tellin' them. They're too busy thinking of another one that'll top you."

Large Catch of Sardines Made in Monterey Bay

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—For the first time since 1952, a large catch of sardines was made in Monterey Bay yesterday.

J. B. Phillips, Hopkins Marine Station biologist, said this might mark the return of a warm water cycle ideal for sardines.

A dozen boats, a third of the sardine fleet that once numbered more than 100, brought in 450 tons.

There was optimistic talk of a possible return of the 20 million dollar a year business that employed thousands of workers in a score of canneries 10 years ago.

Aussie Egg Sales Rise

CANBERRA — Australia has developed new markets for eggs in various European countries and South America. Total shipments of shell eggs in the 1957-58 season amounted to 5,000,000 dozen and earned nearly £ 4,000,000 ($9,000,000), an increase of 20 per cent over the previous year.

Judge to Enter School Problem

Norfolk Board Denies Move of 151 Negroes to White Institutions

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A federal judge may take over assignments of Negro pupils in Norfolk's school segregation controversy. The school board has denied transfer of 151 Negroes to white schools.

Federal Judge Walter E. Hoffman, who directed desegregation of the city's schools last year but whose order was delayed by appeals, said at the outset of a hearing yesterday that he would hear the complaints of any rejected Negro applicants as soon as possible.

The hearing was on a motion by a group of Negroes to have the entire school board placement program declared invalid. At the conclusion Hoffman directed the school officials to advise him by tomorrow of their action on the applications from 87 Negro youngsters who had complied with the assignment procedures.

The motion for invalidation was taken under advisement.

The school board gave its answer in a unanimous resolution last night.

It said it was turning down all 151 applicants, 63 because they had not submitted to tests and interviews prescribed by the board and 88 others for various educational and psychological reasons.

Hoffman indicated how he would react to such a development when he told his court earlier in the day he would hear any appeals this week, and in night, if need be.

"I can see I'm going to have many a long night between now and Labor Day," he said.

In another development two justices of the State Supreme Court of Appeals granted an injunction until Oct. 15 restraining the Norfolk school board from executing its assignment plan. The order, on behalf of a Norfolk white couple, came simultaneously with developments at Norfolk.

2 Taking Ferryboat Suspected in Holdup

DONALDSONVILLE, La. (AP)—Two men who went joyriding in a Mississippi River ferryboat were linked today with a Wisconsin service station holdup.

Sheriff Percy Hebert identified the men as Francis Pyykola, 23, Park Falls, Wis., and Godfrey Meyer, 27, La Crosse, Wis. They were arrested while hitchhiking after the boat was found last night tangled in a clump of willow trees alongside a levee.

Hebert said the men admitted taking the boat at Reserve, 37 imles downstream, and riding it up and down the Mississippi before abandoning it. He said the men also admitted the $135 robbery of a ffilling station at Onalaska, Wis., Aug. 12.

The men were held without charge while being questioned.

Edward G. Robinson Examined in Hospital

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Edward G. Robinson is in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for observation. He says he's feeling fine.

The veteran actor became ill Sunday on a flight from New York, causing the airliner to make an unscheduled stop at Las Veges, Nev.

An ambulance took him to a hospital, where the illness was diagnosed as a bladder condition. Robinson responded quickly to treatment, and he and his wife returned home yesterday.

Cost of Dying Up, Government Admits

WASHINGTON (AP)—The higher cost of dying was recognized today in a new law raising to $250 from $150 the sum the government will pay for funeral and burial expenses of a military veteran.

President Eisenhower signed the measure into law despite his Budget Bureau's objection that the increase would boost Veterans Administration spending by up to 19 million dollars a year.

The House Veterans Affairs Committee, in approving the bill, said the $100 step-up in burial allowance "simply reflects the economic facts of life — the increase in the cost of living."

Federal Tax Collection Totals 80 Billion in '57

WASHINGTON—Federal tax collections during fiscal 1957 totaled a record 80 billion dollars, a five billion dollar increase, or almost 7 per cent, over fiscal 1956. The largest gain—almost four billion dollars—occurred in individual-income-tax and employment-tax collections.

Britons Win Victory in Economic Crisis

Improved economic conditions in Britain are good news for her Allies and also strengthens the position of Prime Minister MACMILLAN'S Conservative Party.

In last fall's European exchange crisis rumors spread that Britain would follow France's lead and devalue her currency and that West Germany would revise upward the official value of the Deutsch mark.

On the eve of the annual September meeting of the International Monetary Fund, Chancellor of the Exchequer PETER THORNEYCROFT took drastic steps to smash inflation by increasing the Bank of England rediscount rate two points and declaring firmly that the exchange rate of the pound was $2.80 and that it would stay there.

The Chancellor called for a halt to excessive price and wage increases, imposed tight monetary controls and fixed limits on investment plans of public enterprises. All this strengthened sterling as an international trading currency and curbed inflation. With some aid from the U.S. and Canada the United Kingdom weathered the financial storm.

Gold and dollar reserves have climbed for the tenth consecutive month to a new record of $3.08 billion, the highest since 1951. Production continued upward and commodity prices are steady. Britain's share in world export of manufactured goods has risen from 18.5 to 19 per cent.

American investments in British industry now exceeds $1.2 billion and more than 300 branches of U.S. corporations financed jointly by Anglo-American companies give employment to nearly 350,000 Britons.

Not so long ago experts were agreed that the opposition Labor Party would win the next election in Britain. But because of the economic recovery as well as his diplomatic course in the Middle East, Prime Minister MACMILLAN and his government again are popular at home.

Trade Act Extended for Four Year Period

The Reciprocal Trade Extension Act has been approved by both House and Senate and awaits President EISENHOWER'S signature.

Congress gave the President most of what he asked to meet the country's needs. Under the Act, the HULL tariff policy is extended for four years rather than for five but this may give enough time to deal effectively with Europe's new Common Market which was the main reason for requesting the longer period. This extension is the longest granted since the Act was set up in 1934.

Among other provisions the President can negotiate trade treaties involving tariff cuts up to 20 per cent with the limit set at 10 per cent for any one year. If the authorization is not used in one year, it can be carried over into the next. Cuts in tariff may be negotiated for periods ending as late as June 30, 1966.

Congress reserves the right to overrule the President in certain cases. Should he veto a recommendation of the Tariff Commission, the lawmakers by a two-thirds vote, may put it into effect. Heretofore the President's decision was final. It is to be hoped this provision won't lead to log rolling.

On the whole the measure is as good as could be expected at this time of somewhat depressed business conditions. It should maintain good relations with other countries as well as protect our own industries from unfair competition.

Shooting the Moon

Americans like trick names for their specialists. You're a "jet jockey" if you fly a jet plane. If you have anything remotely to do with rockets you are a "missileman."

When the first men start heading for the moon—that glowing Luna, bound to be a primary objective of exploration—there is a ready made name the chair-borne lesser mortals will probably be using for the adventurers who participate—"lunatics."

Among the 99 Lost

A Former Pontiac Teacher Met Death in Plane Crash

Hoffa: A name everywhere else except in this column, so here goes—once only.

Teaching music in Crofoot and Malkim schools in Pontiac during the 1956-57 school year was

of Lennon. In July, 1957, she married her Michigan State University sweetheart,

Keith Miller,

Sports Editor of the Freeport, Ill., Daily Journal-Standard, where they have lived the past year.

This summer they made a trip to Germany, and were returning Thursday on the plane that went down with its 99 passengers and crew. She was 23, he 28. Their bodies have not been found.

Rolling his own (without filters) will be of Pontiac Lake, who has several three-foot tobacco plants.

A hurry up call comes through from

Donald L. Swanson,

Manager of the Michigan State Fair, asking entries in his Mrs. Michigan contest. If you know a housewife whom you think could qualify, write him at Detroit 3, as soon as possible.

Gladioli plants seven feet tall are reported by

of Birmingham, some with 35 blossoms.

Topping 12 feet are the hollyhocks of

Mrs. Geraldine Hawker

of Drayton Plains, with blossoms over 10 feet of their length.

A freak ear of sweet corn is reported by

of 238 Alberta St., dividing into six sections.

The dog, cat and pet lamb of

Mr. and Mrs. Bayer Morton

of Lake Orion all eat green corn off the the same cob at the same time—if it's well buttered. If not, the lamb eats alone.

He liked the car so well that when

C. H. Wescoat

gave up the Pontiac agency at Calumet, and started a resort hotel at Michigan's top mainland point at Copper Harbor, he calls it "The Pontiac."

Supervisor of Brandon Township, feels that Oakland County should provide a place for the exhibition of old means of transportation and farming also housekeeping, so they could be preserved for future generations. Alex. suggests that we'd better hurry about it, or there won't be any of them available.

Alex. Solley,

Verbal Orchids to—

Mrs. Mattie Hickson

of 17 Claremont Place; ninety-second birthday.

Mrs. Fred Miller

of 54 Lincoln St.; eighty-second birthday.

Fred Swayze

of Oxford; eighty-ninth birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Shiner

of Utica; golden wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sewell

Mr. and Mrs. William Carpenter of Otisville; sixtieth wedding anniversary.

Grim Choice!

David Lawrence Says:

Court Hinders Fight Against Reds

WASHINGTON—Congress is under heavy pressure from "left wingers" to kill all the legislation proposed at this session that is designed to overcome the ill effects of various decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States.

LAWRENCE

Some of these decisions weakened the processes by which criminals can be effectively prosecuted. Some have been termed "pro - Communist" decisions because they aid the members of the Communist conspiracy in carrying out their subversive plots.

Senator James Eastland of Mississippi, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, has come up with the "scores" of the individual justices of the Supreme Court on Communist issues. He says that three justices of the high court have consistently ruled in a way that benefits the Communist side of the argument.

He declares that Justice Black, for example, has participated in a total of 71 cases before the Supreme Court involving communism, and, as Senator Eastland says, his "batting average is an even 1.000." Eastland recently said to the Senate:

"Seventy-one times he (Justice Hugo Black) voted to sustain the position advocated by the Communists, and not one vote or one case did he decide to the contrary . . .

"It is hard for me to believe that the government, or the states, the Department of Justice and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the congressional committees and the district courts and circuit courts of appeal were always wrong."

Eastland points out that the "batting average" of Justice Douglas was almost the same as that of Justice Black. The senator says:

"Justice William Douglas participated in 69 cases. His batting average is slightly lower than Black's. Pro-Communist votes—66; anti-Communist—3.

"Felix Frankfurter is the third member of the Court who has served continuously throughout this period. He participated in 72 cases and his record shows pro-Communist votes—56; anti-Communist 16."

The Senate Judiciary Committee chairman has analyzed the decisions of the Supreme Court since 1919 on the subject of communism, and he says that, in the 24 years between 1919 and 1942, the Supreme Court decided only 11 cases involving Communist or subversive activities, and, of these 11, "the first 7 were decided against the Communist position and in favor of the government."

Since 1943, however, he points out that there have been 73 cases involving communism or subversion, only 34 of which were passed upon in the 10-year period between 1943 and 1953.

In those, "a majority of the court voted in favor of the position advocated by the Communists in 15 cases and held contrary to what the Communists wanted in 19 cases."

Senator Eastland continues:

"Earl Warren took the oath of office as chief justice in October 1953. In the four and a half years since he has been chief justice, the court has consented to hear a fantastic total of 39 cases involving Communists or subversive activities in one form or another. Thirty of these decisions have sustained the position advocated by the Communists and only 9 have been to the contrary."

This is the first time that any senator has undertaken to go back over the record and make a statistical analysis of Supreme Court decisions in the category of communism. Maybe someone now will make such an analysis of the votes of members of Congress.

Dr. William Brady Explains:

How to Detect Diabetes and What to Do About It

Here are some things I learned from a new book by Henry Dolger, M.D., and Bernard Seeman, "How to Live With Diabetes":

1. An overweight person is more likely to get diabetes than one of normal weight.

2. Persons from 45 to 70 are more likely to get diabetes than persons in other age groups.

3. A woman is more likely to get it than a man.

4. A married woman is more likely to get it than an unmarried one.

5. A mother is more likely to get it than a childless woman.

6. An unmarried man is more likely to get diabetes than a married man.

7. The mother of more children is more likely to get it than the mother of fewer children.

Over 30 per cent of adult diabetes is discovered only incidentally, say when applicants for life insurance have a urine test. (In some communities through cooperation of physicians, health department, druggists, fire stations, service clubs, etc., thousands of persons have submitted urine specimens for free testing and many cases of diabetes have been discovered.)

MANY UNDETECTED

For every four cases of diabetes probably three remain undetected.

The usual symptoms of diabetes are:

Frequent, copious urination
Abnormal thirst
Extreme hunger
Rapid loss of weight
General weakness
Drowsiness and fatigue
Itching of the skin and the genitals
Visual disturbances, blurring, etc.
Boils, carbuncles and other skin infections.

A man feels thirsty and starts drinking large quantities of liquids. Perhaps he attributes his great thirst to the heat or to the fact that he is working hard, or even to the fact that he is urinating more than ordinary. On the other hand he may think his excessive urination is due to his excessive drinking.

These symptoms may be insignificant, but too often a belated urine test shows glycosuria (sugar in urine) and then a blood test shows more than the normal amount of sugar (glucose, dextrose) in the blood—diabetes.

Bed-wetting is usually the first clue to diabetes in a child.

In the pamphlet "The Bed-Wetting Habit" I say it is reprehensible to scold, shame or punish any child who wets the bed. It would be tragic to do so if the child happens to be diabetic.

For the booklet send 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope. Please do not ask me for Dr. Dolger's book. Ask any book dealer for it.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Why Doesn't U.S. Help Arabs?' Ponders Reader

All of this talk, talk about justice in regard to the Middle East makes one wonder why the United States does not acknowledge its part in the situation and correct it. The Arabs have been the most cruelly treated of all nations.

England was very glad to turn over her responsibility in the matter to the United Nations.

Just to refresh memories — on Dec. 11, 1948, the General Assembly adopted the basic premises of the Right of Repatriation. I hereby quote, "The right of innocent people, uprooted from their homes by the present terror and ravages of war, to return to their homes, should be affirmed and made effective, with assurance of adequate compensation for the property of those who may choose not to return."

As of this date, the Palestine Arab refugees are homeless and uncompensated for the loss of their homes. Ten long years of exile because the General Assembly of the United Nations has not honored their word. Why?

How can the most ignorant among us think a victim or victims can sit down with the aggressors and make peace without the wrong being righted?

Rochester Thieves Are 'Disgusting'

I read Mrs. Shear's letter concerning the stealing that goes on in Avon Park. I, too, am very disgusted about it.

My children love to go there and I believe they have a nice program set up, but my children have lost many things there and so have others I have talked with. Our neighbor girl had a watch taken.

I don't know what can be done about it. It certainly is too bad. The condition is the same in the high school, where the children, I believe, should be old enough to know better.

My older daughter attended a high school where you didn't hear of it. We have a lovely little town, too nice for this sort of thing to go on.

Help Water Patrol Instead of Griping

In reference to the article, "Remedy in boat dispute" which appeared in your column Aug. 15, by the so-called disgusted resident or residents.

Because you are a resident and have lived all your life on Union Lake and by your own admission seen a few incidents where life and property have been endangered by motor boats, you should be grateful and show more respect for the sheriff and his deputies for the tremendous job they are doing.

Do you realize that those so-called incidents as you call it, could have been prevented?

Or don't you care as long as it is not you? May I remind you that the water patrol deputy is only doing his duty—to protect life and property, including yours.

In your observation, did you notice that Union Lake covers a large area? Did you observe the amount of people and boats on it? Do you expect one water patrol deputy to be in two places at the same time? Don't gripe, but cooperate.

A Grateful Resident

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Make Son Work for His Money

Bob's ingratitude and criticism of his mother would be eliminated if she had made him work for his spending money. So stop the vicious "allowance" plan and substitute the pay-for-work arrangement. A lot of working mothers could stay home if they'd let their kids get jobs after school; Don't make "squaw boys" out of your sons.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE Y—392: Bob L., aged 16, is a high school junior.

"He was in here for supper the other night," a restaurant owner informed me, "and began criticizing his mother.

"She got a job to help give him more advantages while he is in school. And she hands him $5 per week as an allowance.

"But he gripes and complains that $5 isn't enough. He thinks she should give him $10 each week.

"I suggested I'd let him wash a stack of dishes in the kitchen if he wanted to earn a little extra money to tide him along.

"He looked at the dishes, then inquired how long it would take to do the job. I said 15 minutes if he was fast, and 30 minutes at the most.

"Then he wanted to know 'How much?' and I said I'd pay him a dollar. But he looked in his pocketbook and found he still had a one dollar bill, so he declined my offer.

"Dr. Crane, don't you think mothers make a mistake in working and thus subsidizing their sons unduly? Aren't such fellows as disgraceful as a gigolo?"

MOTHERS, BEWARE

A gigolo is a man who lets the woman pay all the bills when he escorts her to dinner and a show.

The term is an indication of sissiness and disapproval among redblooded men.

It is somewhat like "squaw man" among the Indians.

But we are seeing an increasing number of "squaw boys" among the teen-age group, partly because mothers are letting their sentimentality becloud their good judgment.

And if the mothers are divorced or afflicted with drunken, no-account mates, they may become even more saccharine as they view their "poor son."

So they vow to make it up to the boy, at least by dressing him well and furnishing him ample spending money.

Well, it is natural for mothers to be "softies" regarding their sons, so they will starve themselves and do without necessary conveniences to indulge their boy.

For they hope in so doing they will give him a chance at a better education and thus a higher standards of living when he settles down to marriage.

Mothers, beware: School marks don't offset failure to train your child properly IN YOUR OWN HOME.

This means you must have courage and deliberately curb your natural generosity lest you harm the future welfare of the boy.

Don't give any child an allowance, regardless of its age or sex: For allowances are as obsolete in psychology as bows and arrows in the army.

PAY FOR WORK

Instead, see that ample jobs are available in the home, suited to the age and strength of your child.

Then pay for work accomplished: And pay preferably on a piecework plan.

Use Scotch tape and fasten a dime to each window sill. When your child has neatly washed and shined that window, let him remove the Scotch tape and pocket the 10-cent piece.

Assign ironing, or the dishes, washing the car, polishing shoes, mowing lawns and a host of other items. Then your child will have "ceiling unlimited" regarding his income.

And he can never blame you thereafter if he is short of funds, for it is then up to him to EARN as much money as he needs. So stop allowances N-O-W:

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Untidy Teener Just Storing Up Future Trouble

The teenager who lets her mother take care of her clothes is storing up trouble for herself in the not-so-distant future.

For the day will come when Mom won't be around to do the mending, the washing, the pressing, to sew on snaps and buttons.

Sooner or later, every girl is on her own, whether it's through marriage or a career. And she'll find that neither her husband nor her boss will be very indulgent about sloppy habits.

If she marries, her husband will expect her to take care of his wardrobe as well as her own, and to do it well.

If she decides on a career, her boss will have every right to expect her to look neat and trim. She won't be able to turn up on the job with dropping hemlines, wrinkled clothes or white trim that isn't snowy white.

She'd Pay for the Stamp!

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I recently wrote a friend asking her for some information which I needed rather quickly. I enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope with my letter for her convenience in answering.

"I was told that it was an insult to enclose a stamped envelope when requesting information from a friend and implied that she wouldn't spend 4 cents to send the information. I never thought of it in this way and I would like to know if I was wrong?"

Answer: Your sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to a friend was not actually insulting but not very friendly to do.

"Dear Mrs. Post: How are both ends of an egg cup used? Has the small end any purpose other than being the conventional base? Also, are egg cups used only for soft-boiled eggs, or for hard-boiled eggs, too?"

Answer: Egg cups are intended for soft-boiled eggs only. The larger end of the cup is used by people who like to eat their eggs American fashion — meaning to take the egg out of the shell, add seasoning, mix it together with a teaspoon, and eat it.

The small end is for those who prefer to eat their egg English fashion, cracking the tip of the shell and removing just enough to enable you to insert an egg-spoon, sprinkling small amounts of salt and pepper for each successive mouthful and eating the white or yolk as it happens to come, unmixed.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Would my 16-year-old brother be too young to substitute for my father and walk up the aisle with me and give me away at my wedding? Mother regards him still as "the baby" and thinks him too small for the duty."

Answer: At 16 — even 15 — a brother may very certainly give his sister in marriage — unless he is exceptionally small for his age.

Card Party Winds Up With Prize Fight

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: I belong to a card club along with seven other women. The other night at the Club I won first prize, which turned out to be a set of four placemats. I told my hostess I had placemats and couldn't use them and would she mind exchanging the prize.

ABBY

One of the other women spoke up and said she thought they were beautiful and would I mind selling them to her. I had to ask the hostess how much she paid for them.

"It caused a whole big fight and two members resigned and I went home without my prize or the money. My husband said I should have accepted the prize and kept my mouth shut. Please give me your opinion."—PRIZE WINNER.

DEAR WINNER: Your husband is a very wise man.

"DEAR ABBY: I'd like to see this problem in print because maybe others have the same problem. My father-in-law lives with us and he is not a well man. He is overweight and has a heart condition, high blood pressure and ulcers. The doctor tells him what to eat and what not to eat but it goes in one ear and out the other.

"He uses salt and pepper freely and helps himself to all the bread, butter and potatoes he wants. When he is up all night suffering with his stomach I am the one who has to walk the floor with him. He is making a nervous wreck out of me. How can I get him to follow doctor's orders without getting into a fight with him?"

CELIA

DEAR CELIA: Doctors can only TELL us how to preserve our health, they can't follow us home and be policemen. If a grown man deliberately eats that which the doctor forbids, he should be treated like a child. Dish out his food and hide the verbotens.

"DEAR ABBY: A family across the street has a houseful of kids. Their father is a part-time minister but nobody holds that against them. They have two older girls who have both tried to get a license for driving, but neither of them passed. They get in the car and drive anyway and all the neighbors have to call their little ones in the house to keep them from getting run over.

"Both girls have hit trees, fences and whatnot. I mentioned this to the mother and she says she knows it but can't do a thing with them. She asked me not to tell the father. Should I?"—NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Have another chat with your neighbor. Tell her if SHE doesn't tell her husband, YOU will — and make it plain, if THAT complaint falls on deaf ears you will notify the police.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HURT MOTHER: Your husband is wrong. Parents should never compare their children with one another. The one who gets the criticism is usually the one who needs the praise.

CONFIDENTIAL TO POOR RICHARD: He is probably saving your raincoat for a rainy day. Ask him to bring it back on accounta that's what YOU bought it for.

Want Fluffier Angel Food?

Before baking an angel food cake wash the cake pan thoroughly in hot soap or detergent suds to remove all trace of grease or oil.

Put your angel food cake batter in this suds-clean, grease-free pan and your cake will be lighter and fluffier. Sound like magic?

Well, this heavenly cake must adhere to the pan while cooking, or the cake will shrink — and a non-greased pan does the trick.

Drip-Dry Pleats

Skirts and dresses that are marked durable-pleated retain these pleats better if they don't go into an automatic dryer. These items should definitely drip-dry because it is the dripping water that shapes and resets the pleats.

Lettuce wrapped in foil will not turn brown in the refrigerator, and will stay crisp longer.

Marathon Did Trick

Found Job After Losing Weight

By Josephine Lowman

For a few days now I am printing letters from winners of my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon which ran last January. Today's letter touches a subject which is vital to thousands of women.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman: I am a middle-aged woman. I have always been considered good looking and attractive by my friends and my family, especially my husband.

"However, I guess I took their admiration for granted. Anyway I allowed myself to gain 25 pounds about six years ago. Then two years ago I lost my husband.

"We have not saved enough and he did not have enough insurance for me to live on. Therefore it was essential that I get some sort of job. I had had a fine position as private secretary before my marriage 20 years ago. Therefore I sought employment in this line. I was turned down over and over again, supposedly because of my age.

"I decided that a refresher course might turn the trick but the same situation prevailed. Then one day I decided that it might make a difference if I lost my overweight because I would then look younger. About that time your Marathon came along in our newspaper. I sent for the booklet.

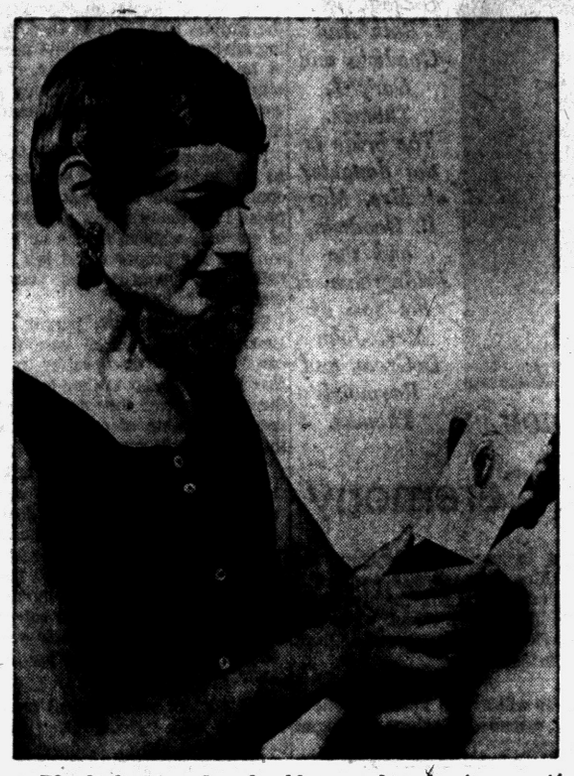

"The results are astonishing, not only in my figure but in my life. I looked so much younger that I decided that I could safely take 10 years off my age. Even then my age was past the usual age requirements. Well, I got a wonderful position. The boss said, 'You are older than we usually like when employing new people, but you look very fit.'

"Had he seen me eight weeks sooner he would not have thought so. I am telling you this because I think you will be interested to know what Marathon did to one of your readers."

Well there is not much I can add except to say that if you are looking for a job or just want to enjoy life more, lose those extra pounds! Anyone can stick to anything for eight weeks.

If you missed my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon and would like to lose 20 pounds in eight weeks, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon Booklet to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

The little Marathon booklet can do a lot for you if you're overweight or have other beauty defects. If you would like to have it, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

She Who Waits to Lose Weight Stays Weighted

The time to take off that extra five pounds is the moment you realize that you've put it on. Your scales — or your belt—will inform you.

The longer you wait, the harder it will be. Take it off before it's well settled and you're not faced with a program of really severe diet with each calorie counted.

To take off five pounds, you need to increase the length of your daily walk, cut out bread, potatoes, sweets and starches.

Substitute fruit juices for soft drinks and stay away from sundaes and sodas.

It isn't enough to make you uncomfortable. It's just a matter of being watchful and careful about what you eat.

Quick Crumb Cake Best Eaten While Still Warm

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Unexpected guests hold no terror for the hostess who has the recipe for a quick cake up her sleeve. Such a cake is Mrs. Alfred Legg's Crumb Cake. It can be served as an evening refreshment, for dessert or for Sunday morning breakfast.

Mrs. Legge, a resident of Milford, keeps busy running the business her late husband started. She is active in church work. Three daughters and eight grandchildren keep her from getting too lonesome.

CRUMB CAKE
By Mrs. Alfred Legg

2 cups unsifted flour
1 cup sugar
⅓ cup butter or other shortening
1 egg
1 cup sour milk
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt

Blend together flour, sugar and shortening until mixture resembles fine crumbs. Save out ½ cup for topping.

To the remainder add rest of ingredients. Pour into greased 8x8x2 pan. Sprinkle crumbs on top. Bake 25-30 minutes at 350 degrees. Best served warm.

Love for Child Is a Maturing Process

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

There is probably no recommendation being given as freely and often for a great variety of problems by all kinds of experts as the simple, cheerful and encouraging advice, "What your child needs is more love and affection. Tell him you love him. Tell him in words and other ways many times and day after day."

No recommendation seemingly so simple is at the same time more confusing. How can parents express love many times a day out of context, without rhyme or reason and the proper mood just because an authority has recommended it?

For the most part, parents do love their children as best they can. The less they suffer from fear and guilt about other feelings, the more relaxed they are and are thereby capable of expressing all the love they genuinely feel.

From all the writing and talking about "giving love," one might conclude that one is dealing with a well-defined, uniform commodity from the assembly line or prescription counter. The answer to this problem is for parents to find a real and honest balance in relation to their own experiences and feelings for the child.

The modern psychological preoccupation with "giving love" may be a sound revolt against overstern discipline and sterile neglect. Yet it carries the danger that something that can be truly expressed only as an emotional experience becomes an intellectualized and empty gesture.

CHILDREN KNOW

Children are not easily fooled about true feelings. Regardless of how often it is droned into a child's ear that he is being loved, he will respond to what is really going on. He is responsive to genuine expression of concern and love without having it spelled out in so many words and over and over again.

Leggy Fashions Put 'Crazy Legs' Back in Vogue

The leggy look of fashion will put "crazy legs" in vogue, predict college boards across the country.

The "crazy legs" are tights, patterned after leotards, and come in bright solid colors, stripes, cable and pebble stitches, and harlequin squares.

They can be worn under skirts or with sissy blouses as at-home attire.

Drip-Dry a Must?

Except for pleated skirts, most clothes which are labelled "drip-dry" can be dryer-dried even better. They will dry faster by "machine," and without the mess of dripping water.

With all the talk about "always love your child" there is danger that parents may become guilty if they notice changes in their feelings for the child, whereas that is exactly what is needed. Under the influence of too much psychologizing, there may be a general tendency to go on too long with an attitude that was correct earlier but now may serve to keep the child immature.

There is probably no greater misfortune for a child than his parents not maturing in their own capacity for loving him.

DIAGRAM OF A TENSPOT — Secret Service handbook on counterfeiting shows the position of important features of paper currency, should help you spot phony bills.

Modern Press Helps Amateur

Bogus Bills Easier to Print; Carelessness Aids Racket

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Counterfeiters are using the presses of legitimate printing plants to roll off hundreds of thousands of dollars in fake money.

In recent months, U.S. Secret Service agents have uncovered numerous counterfeiters working in commercial printing firms—including a newspaper press room.

They believe this startling new underworld trend may play a big part in the recent upsurge of bogus money cases.

Secret Service agents have conducted 2,183 counterfeiting investigations during the first nine months of this fiscal year. This is an increase of more than 400 over the total number of cases investited last year.

About 223 new issues of bogus bills have already been spotted since the beginning of this fiscal year. During all of fiscal year 1957, agents turned up only 101 new issues.

A new issue is a counterfeit bill which is different from those already on file in Secret Service headquarters. When one is discovered, agents know that either a new counterfeiter is at work or that veteran crooks have changed their reproduction plates.

NO SKILL NEEDED

What concerns the Secret Service most about the infiltration of counterfeiters into commercial plants is the relative ease wth which they can print fake money.

Counterfeiting used to require that a crook be a highly skilled artist in order to design and engrave the detailed reproduction plates. But today's modern, easy to operate reproduction and printing equipment enables people with little or no artistic ability to make realistic looking phony bills.

And the amounts they run off are sometimes staggering.

Recently Secret Service agents seized $130,000 worth of fake bills in Chicago when they arrested the owner of a printing firm and an employe on a counterfeiting charge.

A Secret Service raid in Minneapolis ended in the arrest of two men and the discovery of $800,000 counterfeit money hidden in their motel room and automobile. Both men were printers and admitted making the notes at night in a commercial firm where they had worked for only a week.

Following the arrest of two men in Morgantown, W. Va., for passing fake one and five dollar bills, agents learned the money had been made by the brother of one of the defendants. The agents weren't surprised when they found out the brother worked in a printing plant and had turned out about $45,000 in bogus bills.

Another case involved the son of a prominent smal' town newspaper publisher. Before his arrest, the youth had printed about 500 bills on one of his dad's presses.

PEOPLE CARELESS

Secret Service officials explain that often bills turned out in printing plants are such good reproductions that they can easily escape detection by an untrained eye. Others, however, can be readily spotted as fakes.

The reason the obvious phonies get by, agents explain, is the complete lack of attention people give to money they receive.

For instance, Secret Service agents have investigated cases in which merchants accepted hand drawn, crayola colored money. Others have been so careless that they changed clipped magazine pictures of phony dollar bills. Clerks have even taken printing plant fakes that ranged in color from dark blue to battleship gray.

Secret service Chief U. E. Baughman says that a big step could be made in eliminating counterfeiting if people would simply take a few seconds to look at the money they receive. He also recommends that merchants study the characteristics of legitimate notes. A knowledge of what real money looks like would help them in spotting some of the more realistic counterfeits, Chief Baughman explains.

Extracting Deuterium From Sea in Britain

LONDON — Five gallons of sea water yield one gram of deuterium gas and the present cost of extraction in Britain is 2 shillings (28 cents) per gram. The energy stored in one gram of deuterium is equivalent to the energy stored in 10 tons of coal. Nuclear physicists say that if it ultimately proves possible to construct a power-generating station operating on the fusion of deuterium, the oceans of the world will provide a virtually inexhaustible source of fuel.

The Suez Canal channel has been deepened so ships drawing 36 feet can pass through.

Dulles Warns of Aggression

Explains Why Indirect Acts Must Be Dealt With by U.N.

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles says indirect aggression "has become an issue with which the United Nations and its members must deal."

He says indirect aggression, if unchecked, could lead to a third world war.

Dulles stressed the situation in the Middle East last night in addressing a dinner gathering of the annual national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"Through the use of inflammatory radio broadcasts; through infiltration of weapons, personnel and bribe money; through incitement to murder and assassination; and through threats of personnel violence, it becomes possible for one nation to destroy the genuine independence of another," he said.

U. S. troops in Lebanon will be withdrawn whenever the U. N. General Assembly finds that such aid is unnecessary, Dulles declared. The United Nations, he added, is prepared to "subordinate our judgment to the collective judgment of the world community."

Obviously referring to the recent course of events in the Middle East, he said: "The United States is convinced that if indirect aggression, in the form of fomenting civil strife or subverting foreign governments, is now tolerated as an instrument of international policy, events will indeed follow the tragic pattern which led to World War II and this time with even more disastrous consequences."

Innocent Plea Entered in Deaths of 2 Children

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Court-appointed attorneys have filed a plea of innocent by reason of insanity for a bald and bearded prospector charged with slaying two Cuba, N. M., children.

Norman A. Foose, 47, was bound over to district court after the pleas were entered yesterday.

Foose is charged with the rifle slaying of Arlene Cebada, 12, and Eddie Cebada, 14, at Cuba, July 10. He said he had never seen the children before and shot them as part of a move to depopulate "an overcrowded world."

Falling Boulders Kill Mother, Two Sons

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A woman and her two young sons were killed yesterday by two-ton boulders from a dump truck that hurtled down a hill. The truck driver also died.

The woman's husband and daughter were injured. Both were reported in fair condition at a hospital.

One boulder smashed the automobile of Harry Jacobs, 31. Two others crushed his wife Estelle, 31. She was thrown from the car when it was struck by the truck, police said.

The truck spun off, then skidded on its side and jammed between a telephone pole and an iron utility pole. Albert Stone, 40, of Carthage, died in the smashed car.

Jacobs, his two sons, Robert, 6, and Scott, 1, and his daughter, Bonnie, 4, were trapped in the car. Rescuers used cranes and jacks to free them.

It was not determined what went wrong with the truck. There were indications the driver had attempted to apply the breaks.

Old-Time Cowboy Stars Wouldn't Stand a Chance

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Do you have a nostalgic notion that the film cowboys of yesteryear could outdraw, outride and outfight the current crop?

Forget it, says Cliff Ketchum, who has seen them come and go. He claims the old-timers wouldn't stand a chance against today's screen cowpokes.

Cliff is no grizzled veteran of Gower Gulch. He's a plain-spoken, fortyish fellow who has lived around horses all his life in various parts of the West. Since 1939, he has operated a saddlery in the San Fernando Valley, and all of the Western stars have been his customers.

Lately, he has been seeing what their life is like. He made his acting debut in "The Young Land" and is now working in "Pork Chop Hill." Besides which, his horses are steady workers in the film mills at $100 a week.

I asked him to compare the horse opera stars, past and present.

"No comparison," he said flatly. "With the possible exception of Tim McCoy, I don't think any of the old-timers could hold their own in any kind of contest with these new boys.

"The difference is that most of the old cowboys were actors who happened to choose Western roles. The Western actors today have often been chosen because they were superior athletes or horsemen.

"The old-timers cheated a great deal. I remember when I was a kid in Flagstaff, Ariz., Tom Mix was down there shooting some pictures. He had seven different doubles—one for riding, one for driving, one for falling off a horse, and so forth.

"Today, a lot of the stars insist on doing their own stunts. They even take more chances than the stunt men do. Like Sal Mineo in 'Tonka.' He came down a steep ravine and fell off and cracked his kneecap. The stunt man had more protection than he did."

There's no doubt, Cliff said, that the newcomers could outdraw the oldsters.

"These boys work hard at perfecting their draw," he explained. "The fastest draw in Hollywood? Well, it would be pretty hard to beat Hugh O'Brian. He has dedicated his life to being Wyatt Earp.

"The best rider? There's nobody better than Joel McCrea. He could have lived the easy life on his earnings, but he chose to be a rancher for real life and he's made a success of it too.

"The best fighter is Audie Murphy. Don't let his baby face and small stature fool you. If you got in a tangle with him, he'd kill you with his fists.

"And don't underestimate Roy Rogers either. He has a quiet manner, but he can handle himself mighty well."

Cliff also had kind words to say about Jim Arness, Clint Walker, Dale Robertson and others. It was Dale who suggested Cliff should turn actor, and the saddler has been having the time of his life.

Asks to Annul Marriage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Movie actress Barbara Lang, 24, wants to annul her 1956 marriage to TV actor Alan Wells, 31. Her complaint, filed in Superior Court, charges Wells did not have a final divorce from another actress, Claudia Barrett, when he married Miss Lang in September 1956.

The highest inhabited town on earth is Gartok, a busy trading center in western Tibet. Gartok stands at 15,100 feet above sea level, an altitude higher than the tallest mountain the United States.

2 Die as Result of Flash Flood

Third Man Suffering From Shock as River Tears Loose Near Reno

RENO, Nev. (AP)—A Sierra Nevada flash flood swept across U. S. Highway 40 west of Reno last night, killing one man and indirectly causing the death of another. A third man was hospitalized with shock.

Joseph Thompson, 23, Redwood City, Calif., was reported killed when he jumped from a car and tried to outrun the Truckee River flood, the California highway patrol said.

Frederick Johnson Jr., 33, Reno, a construction worker, died when his truck overturned as he drove to help clear the blocked highway.

Highway patrolmen quoted witnesses as saying a wall of water rushed down the mountains and across the highway.

Thompson was a passenger in a car driven by James Douglas Olinger, 23, Palo Alto, Calif.

Olinger stayed with his car, which was carried into the river and 500 yards downstream. He was brought to a Reno hospital suffering from shock.

Rocks and trees were carried into the roadway, blocking it for more than two hours.

The flood near Truckee, Calif., hit a freeway to Squaw Valley, the 1960 Winter Olympic Games site.

Divorce Suit Surprise

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Taking Hollywood friends by surprise, Finnish actress Taina Elg, 27, has filed suit for divorce from Carl G. Bjorkenheim, 29, an importer.

Dixie Dems Receive Civil Rights Setback

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern Democratic senators licked their wounds today after two setbacks on the civil rights battleground.

They lost a seven-month fight last night when the Senate confirmed W. Wilson White, a Philadelphia lawyer, as assistant attorney general in charge of civil rights. The vote was 56-20.

The Southerners have opposed White since his nomination last January. But the debate last night was all the hotter because it followed news that the federal appeals court in St. Louis had overruled a district judge and ordered resumption of racial integration this fall at Little Rock Central High School.

Reaction to the appeals court decision was hot. Southern senators rushed out with statements denouncing it as "judicial tyranny" and describing it as tragic.

Some of the sharpest language of the fast-fading session of Congress was used in the debate against White and against President Eisenhower's use of troops last year to enforce court-ordered school integration at Little Rock.

Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss) likened use of federal troops in Little Rock to Soviet repressions in Hungary. There, he said, "armed force and bayonets were used to bend a people to the will of alien ideas, thereby forcing on them a new social structure."

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) accused White of having mixed politics with law and said "it is obvious that he promoted the use of troops and prejudiced his advice in this direction."

This was a reference to White's role in directing preparation of legal papers on which Eisenhower based his Little Rock troop action. At the time, White was an assistant attorney general serving as legal adviser to former Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell.

Testifying earlier this year at a Judiciary Committee hearing on his nomination, White said troops were used as a last resort "to set down mass defiance" of a court decree.

Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-SC) said White either lacks understanding of constitutional law "or else his bias in favor of racial integration is so strong that he is able to overlook the law."

Defending White, Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) recalled that the Senate twice before had confirmed him for other federal posts. Watkins said nothing has developed to change the Senate's past conclusion that White is qualified for positions of public trust.

In the end, 20 Democrats and 36 Republicans voted for White's confirmation. Republican Senators John J. Williams of Delaware and Milton R. Young of North Dakota joined 18 Democrats in opposition.

The new post to which White was named was set up under a civil rights bill passed a year ago — the first such law since Reconstruction days.

Drayton Shopping Center Opens Tomorrow

Six Stores Comprise Major Trading Area

Waterford Township's first major shopping area will mark its formal opening tomorrow at the Drayton Shopping Center on Dixie Highway, just north of Walton Boulevard.

The center is comprised of six major stores. Two have been operating for sime time and four have been completed recently, with a seventh under construction.

The Grand Opening celebration is scheduled to start at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, even though some of the stores are ready to serve customers at an earlier hour. For the first time Waterford Township and the Drayton Plains area is served by a one-stop shopping area.

The center is built around a huge parking area which has facilities for 1,000 cars.

This plaza has been decorated with bunting, flags and balloons for the formal opening.

These are the stores which comprise the center:

Wrigley's Supermarket, the 207th store in this widely known chain of food markets. While the store offers a complete line of fresh and prepared foods, it has some departments which rate special notice.

One is bakery which turns out fresh pies in the store. Another is a meat preparation department in which assembly-line methods turn out a large quantity of neatly packaged meats, ready for the shopper.

Occupying a prominent spot is a Cunningham Drug Store, another unit of a firm widely known in the State.

This store is stocked with a wide variety of merchandise for home and personal use, but with the drug department as the heart of the store.

Donald McColl, a graduate in pharmacy from Ferris Institute, is in charge of this important department, as well as being manager of the store.

Interior decorating problems are the special interest of the Sherwin-Williams paper and paint store in the center. In addition to a complete line of paints and wallpaper, and the many tools and accessories needed for those who might like to do their own, the staff is prepared to extend to all who desire special help with decorating problems.

The S. S. Kresge company is also represented with a major store, located in the center of the area. It is a self-service type store in which shoppers may browse at will while selecting their merchandise. This unit features a department in which ready-prepared foods from a single item to a complete meal can be taken home, ready to serve.

A Federal Department store is another of the major units which make up the new shopping center.

It is the largest unit in the center, and is built all on one level, so that shopping can be done with a minimum of effort.

The store is designed with three entrances and exits so that large crowds can be handled with ease.

Another unit in the center is Neal's Shoe Store, with shoes for the entire family and offering a special fitting service, especially for children.

An additional store expected to be open in the near future is the Mary-Lee Shop, with women's ready-to-wear merchandise.

As a part of the formal opening celebration merchants will give awards, including a large number of shopping certificates, to visitors. No purchase is necessary to register for the lucky prizes.

During the opening day a Gay 90's Band will be on the grounds to entertain.

ONE OF 207 — The new Wrigley's supermarket was the first store to open in the new Drayton Shopping Center last fall. The new store is the 207th to open since the company started business in the early Twenties.

JACK RAPP

Wrigley Manager Has Long Experience

Jack Rapp is the manager of the 207th Wrigley supermarket, which was the first store in the Drayton Shopping Center, some months ago.

He is married and has had 17 years of experience in the grocery business. Most of his retail sales training has been with the Wrigley company personnel, and he has made many friends during his year's work in Waterford Township.

"Getting a brand new store to manage, is the dream of most supermarket operators," Rapp said. "Everything has been wonderful so far, and now that our neighbors have opened, many customers will be able to do one-stop-shopping, so vital in today's modern living," he said.

Working with Rapp in the Drayton Center's Wrigley store, are meat department manager, Gerald Jenkinson and Al Barnette, in the produce area.

Pies Baked on the Spot Featured in New Wrigley's

When a customer walks through the automatic doors of the new Wrigley supermarket in the Drayton Shopping Center, he is greeted with the aroma of freshly baked fruit pies, one of the many new features of the store.

The pies are made elsewhere, and rushed fresh to all of the newer Wrigley stores, then baked on the spot.

Two big baking ovens, which can accommodate 24 pies at one time, are in operation daily at the new store.

The Drayton Center Store sells an average of 600 pies a week.

Big aisles, some 8 feet wide, permit customers to wheel their stainless steel carts through the store with a minimum of congestion.

Hundreds of staples and other commodities are displayed with foods that "go together" placed side by side for easy accessibility.

In the produce department, bags of potatoes line the back wall, and crushed ice in most of the display bins keeps perishables fresh. The produce is delivered at 4 o'clock in the morning.

Currently, the seasonal fruit is peaches and several tables are piled high with red and yellow Hale Havens.

One of the big features of the new Wrigley store is the meat preparing department.

Beef is shipped into the store, and expert butchers then use power-driven meat cutters, grinders, cubers and crimping machines to prepare the meat.

One of the newest devices in use is a machine which sucks all remaining air out of plastic bags after smoked hams have been put in, and seals them. The meat is then dipped in hot water, shrinking the bag to the ham for longer, sterile protection.

Operations in the meat preparing area are largely automatic. Long stainless steel rollers carry the meat from one operation to another until it goes to the weighing and pricing operator.

Contractors Listed for Shopping Center

Architect for the new Drayton Shopping Center opening tomorrow was Louis G. Redstone, with Allan G. Agree, associate architect. General contractor was the S & L Construction Co., of 1457 Penobscot building, Detroit.

Subcontractors on the project included these: Excavating, Bruce Excavating Co.; Structural steel, Freeland Structural Steel Co.; steel roof decks, R. C. Mahon Co.; roofing & sheet metal, Schreiber Roofing Co.; plumbing, Chris Schur Plumbing & Heating; electrical work, Donn Resnick Electric Co.; heating, ventilating and air conditioning, American Automatic Heating Co.; glass & metal, Benz Glass Co.; ceramic tile & marble, Michigan Tile & Marble Co.; ceiling tile, Federal Floor Co.; resilient flooring, Walsh Resilient Floor Co.; painting, C. M. Madsen.

British Set Danger Zone for Nuclear Testing

HONOLULU (AP) — A 37,800-square-mile danger zone for British nuclear tests at Christmas Island goes into effect tomorrow.

The danger area is considered relatively small, as was the zone for Britain's April tests, but a Navy announcement said, "Early warning will be given if it is necessary to extend danger area."

When Britain fired its big H-bomb last summer, shipping was warned to stay clear of a 640,000-square-mile area.

Japan Begins to Drain Off Huge Lake

AKITA, Japan (AP)—Land-hungry Japan has begun to drain the nation's second biggest lake and turn it into a giant rice field.

The reclamation task is the largest ever undertaken.

Authorities hope the work in turning Lake Hachirogata into a food producing area will be completed in seven years.

They expect to raise at least two million bushels of rice, still the nation's staple food, from 32,000 acres of the reclaimed land, using 10,000 more for housing and other agricultural purposes.

The lake in north Honshu is 14 feet deep at its deepest, and covers 85 square miles.

The government has put aside 54 million dollars to reclaim it.

View Power Plants for Space Vehicles

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Power plants for propelling unmanned space vehicles into the first exploratory orbit around Mars were described yesterday to the American Astronautical Society's Western regional meeting.

A 616-pound saucer-shaped vehicle, propelled by an ion accelerator and transmitting a television picture back to earth, was envisioned by Henry K. Hebeler and Richard D. White, space scientists for Boeing Airplane Co. at Seattle.

They said the vehicle would jump off from an earth satellite station. It would sweep out to Mars, orbit that planet once, and then return to orbit around the earth in 3 years and 49 days.

Hero's Welcome Awaits in New York

Nautilus Speeding Home

By WILLIAM F. SUNDERLAND
(Written for the Combined American Press)

ABOARD USS NAUTILUS, AT SEA, (UPI) — The ice-conquering nuclear submarine Nautilus slipped gently under the waves off England yesterday, headed on a fast run to New York and a hero's welcome.

The command, "Take her down," was issued by Cmdr. William Anderson. The Nautilus will stay underwater until next Monday, when it will surface to dock in New York, probably at the New York Naval Shipyard, Brooklyn.

The 320-foot vessel was returning to the United States after its pioneer journey under the North Pole.

"We'll make a fast run to New York," Anderson said. "We shall arrive Monday, but just when we're not certain yet."

Anderson said he had no definite word on what the New York reception would be but added, "I'm sure it will be a good one."

The Nautilus departed from the Portland, England, Royal Navy Base at 1 p.m. (8 a.m. EST).

Anderson mustered the personnel for a short dockside ceremony prior to the sailing. It was foggy and drizzling.

As cameras ground away, the captain thanked the British people for the hospitality they gave him and his crew during the submarine's one-week visit to Portland, its first port after sailing under the Arctic ice from Pearl Harbor.

A Royal Engineer's band played "Yankee Doodle" and "Auld Lang Syne" as the Nautilus cast off. Dockyard workers, British navy men and a group of private citizens from the surrounding area cheered and waved until the Nautilus was out of sight.

After the send-off from Portland, the submarine stayed on the surface for about an hour — time enough to get into deep water.

Even in the reasonably mild weather there was a pitch and roll that did disastrous things to my stomach. But when the bow tilted down three degrees and the Nautilus went under it rode as smoothly as if on rails.

Lt. Cmdr. Frank M. Adams, the 32-year-old executive officer from Tunica, Miss., said: "We'll be moving at over 20 knots."

The 12 officers and 97 crewmen aboard do not act like heroes. They have little to say about their run under the Pole except that it was an easy trip.

Oldtime Pharmacy, Aviation Exhibits Set

DETROIT (UPI) — The Michigan State Fair running from Aug. 29-Sept. 7 will have a pair of exhibits recalling the bygone days of aviation and pharmacy.

The air exhibit, sponsored by Francis Aviation of Lansing, will have three planes — one a 1928 single engine bi-plane. The plane, a Waco, is covered by its original Irish linen fabric and will be flown into the fair grounds under its own power.

The exhibit of the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Assn. will be a re-creation of a drug store of the 1890s. The furnishings of the store all made of butternut wood and mahogany trim, came from a real drug store in the Thumb area. Many of the pill rollers, capsule machines and tablet presses are still in working order, although they were made as far back as 1865.

The aim of the exhibit is to convince students of the advantages of careers in pharmacy.

NEWEST BRANCH — The new Federal Department Store in the Drayton Shopping Center in Waterford Township is a far cry from the first drygoods store that opened 29 years ago in Detroit. Its glass and stainless steel entry ways will be thrown open to the public tomorrow. This is the 28th store in the Federal group.

Stream-Lined One-Level Store New Federal Unit

A new stream-lined, single-level Federal store will open its doors tomorrow in the Drayton Center Shopping area on Dixie Highway.

This is the second Federal department store in the Pontiac area, and is the 28th unit in the Detroit-based chain. The first Pontiac Federal store opened ten years ago.

Plans for the second unit were influenced by the tremendous growth of Waterford Township, according to company officials.

The sharp, modern lines of the new building are accented by unusual windows, which extend the full-length of the store.

Doors of stainless steel and glass are used in all main entrances and canopied walkways extend around the front of the store to protect shoppers from the sun, rain or snow. Recessed underlights illuminate the walks for after-dark shoppers.

The interior of the new building embodies newest features found in today's modern department stores.

A new type of lighting has been used, to preserve the true color values of merchandise.

Futuramic pastels, combined with light wood trimmings and harmonizing fixtures, produce eye-appealing interiors.

Various departments are grouped for customer conveniences, so that shoppers may often fill their needs in one planned area. Many of the departments have been designed to permit easy self-selection of merchandise.

More than 500 national brand items are available and include complete selection of men's, women's, children's and infants' apparel.

Kitchen appliances, musical instruments, home furnishings, housewares and sporting goods are offered.

A layaway storage area is designed to handle a large volume of business with maximum speed.

Bob Considine Says:

California Coast Drive as Spectacular as Italy's

NEW YORK—Here are a few facts, fears and frets picked up in the course of some recent travels and travails:

The coast road between San Francisco and Los Angeles is every bit as spectacular as Italy's unforgettable Amalfi Drive.

After what the Russian mobs did to our embassy building in Moscow, we should at least charge the Kremlin for the cops we keep on 24-hour duty at the Russians' U.N. delegation headquarters on Park Avenue.

The once-scabrous area north of Melbourne, Fla., and around Cocoa Beach has bloomed since the dawn of the space age. There is now a Missile Town, Fla., and half a dozen motels which use rocket names or emblems. Press headquarters last week was at a beaut—the Starlite Motel—featuring a neon spectacular whose rocket stays up longer than did our poor moon missile.

The international air lines have replaced, to a great degree, the services once a routine part of our consular and diplomatic corps. The traveler in trouble today, or in need of advice, information, or a cashed check, will take up the matter with Pan-Am, TWA, Air France, BOAC or one of those. It grows increasingly hard for an American wanderer to reach a U.S. State Department man on the phone.

The most difficult turn U.S. foreign policy has had to make in a long time was the comprehension that any Arab country which overthrows its ruling class may not necessarily turn communist overnight.

A firm I wouldn't want to be working for this week is Lipsett, Inc., a reputable junk dealer on a huge scale. The outfit is going to start breaking up the carrier Enterprise. The great Navy fighting ship, at one time the only carrier we had left in operation against the Japanese, was bought for $561,333. Eight Moran tugs will pull the proud vessel from the Brooklyn Navy Yard to the dismantling berth in Kearny, N. J. Raise your hat as she passes.

Proponents of statehood for Alaska — the vote's coming up soon—point out that until 1956 Alaska was excluded from the federal aid highway program, and then only one-third of its area was used in the formula for computing the apportionment of funds. The territory now receives $13 million a year from the federal government for this work. As a state it would get $30 million.

Left undecided in the statehood question is what will happen to the dole given to Eskimo women who cannot support a child. They receive $75 a month for such support. Parents with several childrn sometimes give one to a poor aunt or cousin, so she can earn her keep through the child. Unmarried Eskimo girls unable to obtain work have a baby and immediately receive the $75 allowance.

Bitterest comment on the inter-service rocket rivalry was expressed shortly after the Air Force's missile failed in the shoot for the moon. "I'll bet the beer is flowing and 'Hochs!' are being shouted all over the place at Huntsville." It was a reference to the colony of German missile experts, headed by Wehrner Von Braun, which has aided the Army's missile program so sucecssfully.

Ex-war correspondent Johnny Moroso played football in high school and college, then pro football, went through three invasions and the buzz bombing of London—without a scratch. Now he's at New Rochelle (N. Y.) Hospital with a fractured right knee, fractured left jaw, black eye, one tooth knocked out, two others chipped and a 20-stitch cut on his lower lip. Fell down his cellar steps, cold sober.

Fatal Shooting to Be Studied

Fugitive in Slaying Dies in Blaze of Gunfire at Georgia Roadblock

MACON, Ga. (AP)—An inquest will be held today to determine whether a deaf mute killed himself or was shot to death at a roadblock by officers seeking him in the slaying of a 7-year-old girl.

Parram Youngblood, a 32-year-old itinerant peddler from Toomsboro, Ga., died in a blaze of gunfire yesterday when he slammed on the brakes of a stolen station wagon at the roadblock on a bridge near here and fired at officers.

It was first assumed Youngblood was killed by an officer's bullet. But Coroner Lester H. Chapman said last night evidence indicated Youngblood shot himself.

Chapman said he found powder burns on skull bones behind Youngblood's right ear, indicating the fatal shot was fired at close range. He ordered the inquest.

The gun battle climaxed a mammoth manhunt for Youngblood, who was charged with kidnaping 7-year-old Margie Jones of Melvin, Ky., Saturday night.

The girl's body was found yesterday in a field. She had been shot twice in the back with a rifle and apparently had been beaten on the head and choked. She had not been raped.

Sheriff George Hatcher of Wilkinson County said the Jones family had been visiting Youngblood and his mother at their home near Toomsboro.

Youngblood was supposed to have taken Margie and three half-sisters to a drive-in movie Saturday night. Instead, the sheriff said he drove around for several hours and then forced the three half-sisters from the car and went off with Margie.

WSU Medical Building Construction Started

DETROIT (AP)—Work on an $800,000 building for industrial medicine and hygiene began this week at Wayne State University College of Medicine.

Dr. Gordon H. Scott, dean of the College of Medicine, said the building is expected to be completed in the early spring of 1959. Two specially designed and equipped floors of the four-story building will be used for radiation studies.

Great Lakes Sailors Reject Proposals

MONTREAL (AP) — Great Lakes seamen reportedly have rejected a conciliation board's proposals to end a pay dispute and have demanded new negotiations with nine companies forming the Assn. of Lake Carriers.

The Canadian Sailor, publication of the Seafarers International Union, said last night a substantial majority of the 3,000 Lakes seamen affected by the dispute had rejected the proposals in a vote taken over the last seven weeks.

A new round of talks began here last Thursday but spokesmen for both sides said then another meeting was indefinite.

The seamen's contract with the association expired last Dec. 31. They asked an immediate 10 per cent pay raise over basic salaries which began at $284 a month for ordinary seamen.

The conciliation board on June 16 recommended a 5 per cent increase from the start of the 1958 navigation season and another 4 per cent increase next year. It also recommended that seamen who work steadily from the start of the season get 16 days' extra pay in place of holidays instead of 14 days' pay.

Adult Polio Patients Referred to Detroit

Adult polio patients will be transferred from now on to Herman Kiefer Hospital in Detroit for treatment, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital announced today.

Sister Mary William, hospital administrator, announced that the hospital's polio committee recommended the change in view of the shortage of hospital beds here.

The committee said that the county board of health had arranged for the Detroit hospital to accept adult polio patients for diagnosis and care.

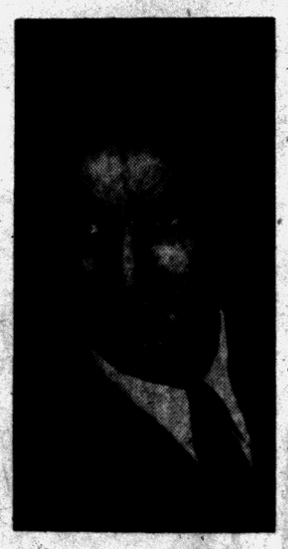

St. Joseph said it will continue polio diagnosis for adults and treatment of infants and children who are polio victims.

Detroit Boy Drowns While Playing in Boat

HOUGHTON LAKE (AP)—Edward C. Hanberry Jr., 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Hanberry of Detroit, drowned Monday in Houghton Lake while vacationing with his parents.

State Police said the boy drowned while playing with other youngsters in a rowboat near shore. His body was recovered from two feet of water.

Barbara Burns Has Less Than $500

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Barbara Ann Burns, daughter of the late comedian Bob Burns, has less than $500 left of the $20,000 he willed her.

This was disclosed in Superior Court when $4,600 was distributed yesterday toward claims of creditors—mainly attorneys.

Prior to the disbursement, $5,028 remained in the fund.

The legal expense was incurred in part during Miss Burns' trial on a charge of being a narcotics user. She was convicted and the case has been appealed.

Aside from the comedian's estate, Miss Burns, 20, receives $3,400 annual support, paid in monthly installments, from her mother Mrs. Harriet Burns.

Adlai's Aunt Beaten, Robbed in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Adlai Stevenson's 67-year-old aunt, Mrs. Anabel East, was beaten and robbed of $40 yesterday by an intruder who broke into her home and hit her on the head, police reported.

Mrs. East told officers she lay unconscious on her bed for about an hour after the attack, then called friends, who notified police.

She was treated for head cuts at Central Receiving Hospital.

Campaign Tour Planned by Ike

President Going All Out to Help GOP Senators Up for Re-Election

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower, it has been learned on top authority, plans to make the most extended off-year campaign tour of his career in October.

The series of flying swings into key states is expected to extend from California to Connecticut, and from Minnesota to West Virginia—the only state with two Republican senators up for re-election this November.

An unimpeachable source disclosed that Ike is so angry at Republican Sen. Charles E. Potter for his outspoken criticism of "assistant president" Sherman Adams that he is currently undecided whether to make a campaign speech in Michigan in his behalf.

The source predicted that Mr. Eisenhower will go to that state, however, because of the heavy pressure being applied by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, a Michiganite who headed the Republican National Committee during Ike's first presidential campaign.

Traditionally Republican, Michigan has gone overwhelmingly Democratic in recent state contests.

The official said Ike is also annoyed with GOP Sen. William F. Knowland for his similar criticism of Adams' gift-taking from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine, but realizes that "California must be kept in the Republican fold at all costs."

Gov. Goodwin Knight is running for the Senate seat which Knowland is vacating in order to seek the governorship, and both men are trailing behind their Democratic opponents in current public opinion polls.

The home state of front-running GOP presidential contender Richard M. Nixon, California is second only to New York in the number of delegates it will send to the 1960 nominating convention.

A top source in a position to know said that the tentative plans call for Mr. Eisenhower to deliver public speeches in such other key states as New York, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and possibly Arizona and Ohio.

He said that former Arizona Gov. Howard Pyle, now a presidential assistant, is urging Ike to stop over in that state on his return swing from California, in order to plug for the re-election of right-wing Sen. Barry Goldwater, a frequent administration critic.

He added that Ike will "gladly" go into Ohio, if it appears that Sen. John W. Bricker, another right-wing senator, needs his campaign help. He explained that the President feels an obligation to Bricker, since he and former Treasury Secretary George Humphrey "persuaded" Bricker to seek another term.

Quakes in Iran Claim Mounting Toll of Lives

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The officially confirmed death toll from continuing earthquakes in mountainous western Iran is nearing 100, a relief agency spokesman said last night.

The spokesman, Dr. Hussein Khatibi, was flying today to the area that has been shaken by repeated tremors since last Friday. Unofficial estimates said about 500 persons have been killed.

Khatibi said at least 24 groups were on the way to remote villages to give first and and check on casualties. Quakes in the same area last year killed more than 1,500.

Body Found in River

DETROIT (AP) — The body of a man recovered from the Detroit river Monday has been tentatively identified as that of Edward C. Heiden, 46, of Detroit. Police said the body had been in the water about a week.

Store Offers Special Service

Help With Your Decorating

One of the special services offered by the new Sherwin-Williams paint and paper store in the Drayton Shopping Center is expert advice on interior decorating problems.

A qualified advisor, manager Duncan Griffin majored in interior decorating at Wayne State University.

His know-how and experience has helped customers in their selection of carpeting, draperies and furniture, as well as in the proper use of paint and paper in their homes.

One of more than 2,000 branch stores in the nation, the new Drayton Center store has about 100 different patterns of wallpaper for immediate delivery.

For removal of old wallpaper, the store has electric steamers for rent, and other rental equipment includes a rug-shampoo machine with a vacuum attachment, and a new type floor polisher.

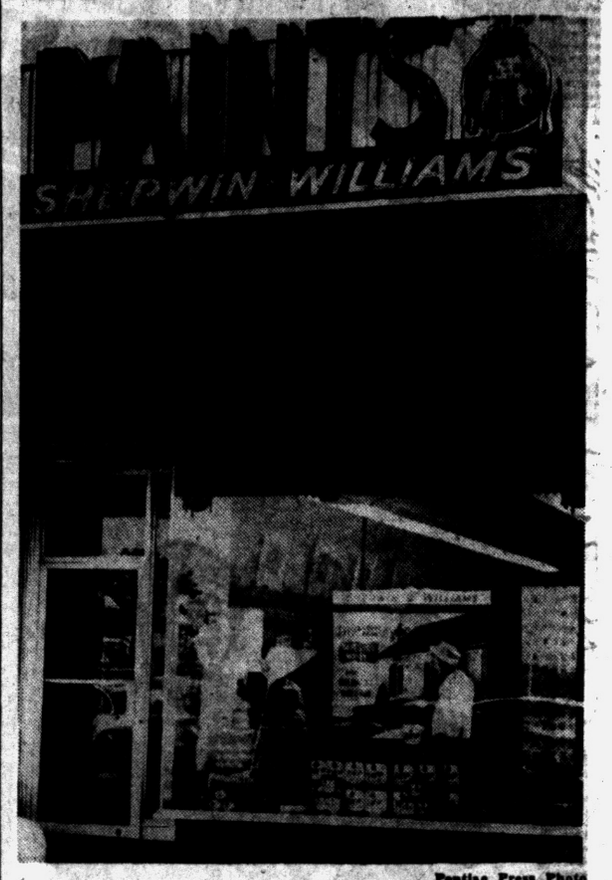

Every color of paint is available at the new Sherwin-Williams store, and quantities can be purchased from quarter-pint cans to 10-gallon cans.

Interior walls of the store are painted a soft French blue, and sound-proof ceiling with recessed lighting gives the store a pleasing decor.

For the do-it-yourself addict, there are many tools to make work easier for the home paperhanger, painter or cabinetmaker.

The store also features paints and varnishes especially made for boats and other outdoor uses. Located in the center of a water recreation area, the store expects these lines to be of high interest to sportsmen.

PAINT & PAPER — The neat Sherwin-Williams branch store between Cunningham's and Kresge's, in the new shopping center, features photo-murals. They are actual photographs. The store stocks a wide choice of paints in every color of the rainbow. There are available 150 different wallpaper patterns.

Being Elected as Congressman No 'Living Death'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Election to Congress really isn't the same as dying. At least, Rep. Winfield K. Denton (D-Ind) is trying to convince his ex-classmates that it isn't.

Denton was glancing over a copy of the 35th reunion report of the Harvard Law School Class of 1922 when "I was very much surprised to note that I was listed among those who had passed away."

So Denton, a hearty 61, fired off a letter to Morris E. Dry of New York, secretary of the class reunion committee, to tell him it isn't so.

He noted he has been elected to Congress four times, and speculated that "maybe some feel that when one enters on those duties he is no longer among the living."

Senate Probers Study Missing Man Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate probers dig for more information today on the disappearance of Indianapolis lawyer - businessman Dave Probstein.

The Senate Rackets Committee heard disputed testimony last week that Teamsters Union officials had muscled in on Probstein's Indianapolis taxi business just before he vanished more than three years ago.

Witnesses said Probstein disappeared June 6, 1955, on a trip to St. Louis after telling a friend he was in danger, the nature of which he could not divulge.

Probstein was allegedly forced out as owner of the State Cab Co. in Indianapolis.

The committee has accused Teamsters President James R. Hoffa of scheming with underworld figures to take over businesses and labor unions. The Senate group is attempting in the hearings to back up its charges.

Dining in Space a Real Problem

Traveler Could Drown on Spilled Milk; Can't Throw Dishes Out

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — In space travel, where a diner could drown on his own glass of spilled milk, chefs will face a special problem.

Admiral E. W. Clexton, chief of Naval Material in Washington, explained the situation today in a keynote address to open the 56th convention of the Executive Stewards and Caterers Assn.

The problem of weightlessness in space, Adm. Clexton said, will create the difficulty of providing a meal where it is impossible to throw anything away afterward.

There would be no need for dishes and containers may of necessity be edible, he said.

About 1,200 visitors are expected at the Grand Rapids conference which continues through Thursday.

A special Navy Night has been scheduled Wednesday by the association to honor commissary crews aboard the carrier USS Franklin D. Roosevelt and at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, Naval Station.

New York has been the most populous state in the Union since 1820 and now has about 10 per cent of the U. S. people although 29th in land area.

DUNCAN GRIFFIN

Paint Store Manager an Interior Decorator

Duncan Griffin, manager of the new Sherwin-Williams paint and paper store in the Drayton Shopping Center, is also a graduate interior decorator.

Customers may get counseling from him on interior problems whether they have to do with home furnishings or the use of paper and paint.

He has been in the business for seven years and lived in Detroit before moving with his wife and two sons recently to Oxford.

Griffin is a World War II veteran, and served in the Medical Corps in China for two years.

STORE HOURS: 9:30 to 9 Thursday - Friday - Saturday, Drayton Plains Center—5010 Dixie Highway

S. S. Kresge Company—Over 700 Stores in the United States and Canada

SET TO GO — A variety of tasty meals are served in the new Kresge store, celebrating its Grand Opening tomorrow. There is room for 28 hungry customers, and the air-conditioned store with day-time lighting makes both eating and shopping in the store a pleasure.

'Dime Store' of Earlier Era Grows With Today's Demands

So-called "dime stores" just "aren't what they use to be" as evidenced by the amazing variety of merchandise found in the new Kresge store located in the heart of the Drayton Shopping Center which opens tomorrow.

Since the first Kresge store opened some 60 years ago, at Woodward and State in Detroit, the company has made merchandising history in the operation of their 706 stores with 40,000 employes throughout the United States. The new store is the 97th in Michigan.

Electrical appliances, furniture, seasonal wearing apparel, backyard grills, power mowers — and many other larger items are a great contrast to the first shop that boasted "Nothing Over 10 Cents in the Store."

Merchandise is displayed on vertical tiers that reach halfway to the ceiling, and the wide aisles have eliminated the cramped feeling of some early stores.

Fluorescent overhead and indirect side lighting is used in the new store.

A department of the newer stores is a delicatessen section in which prepared foods are kept at serving temperature in 4-sided glass ovens. Similar refrigerated displays keep cold foods ready for sale.

Other store departments cover a wide variety of merchandise: a lamp section, upholstery materials and wall coverings. A baby section and toy department are well stocked and the millinery and women's ready-to-wear counters are loaded with fall goods.

Home gardeners find plenty to interest them in a large horticulture center, and of course the hardware section offers all manner of tools and repair materials.

The check-out system employed in the new store leaves customers free to wander at will throughout the store to select goods at their leisure.

Mighty Two-Reactor Triton Slides Down Ways Today

GROTON, Conn. (UP) — The biggest submarine known, and the first to be powered by two atomic engines, takes to the water today.

The 5,900-ton Triton, about twice the size of present U.S. atomic submarines, will go down the ways of the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. in a ceremony marking still another forward step in America's nuclear ship program.

Designed as a radar warning vessel, the Triton is costing about 109 million dollars.

She not only is the largest submersible ever known to be built but will be slightly heavier and considerably longer than the Polaris ballistic missile firing submarines now under construction. Their displacement, surfaced, is given as about 5,600 tons.

The Triton's two atomic power plants are to give the 447-foot long hull high speed on the surface as well as submerged. Her radar picket mission means she will spend much more time on the surface than other nuclear submarines designed for attack.

The nuclear power plants are being built by the General Electric Co., which also holds a contract for an atomic unit for a destroyer.

The Triton's reactors, designated as S3G type, will be of the pressurized water heat exchange system. In this system, heat produced by nuclear fission is passed into water moving under the pressure of pumps and carried from the reactor to an exchange point. There the heat energy in the water is transmitted into a steam generating system — without also transmitting radioactivity.

From that point, the power plant is virtually a conventional steam turbine system, with reduction gears to slow down the speed of the propeller shaft well below the terrifically high speed of the turbine. Excessive propeller speed results in inefficiency.

The Triton's two power plants will be complete, including two reactors, two machinery compartments. This is like the design long used in conventional surface warships, permitting the use of one engine if trouble occurs in the other.

EXTRA POWER, SPEED

However, the primary reason for the two atomic drive units in the Triton is to produce extra power and speed.

The Triton's hull design is patterned for extended operation on the surface. A surfaced nuclear submarine requires more power for a given speed than one submerged. The first nuclear submarines of the Nautilus class are long and narrow, similar in contour to the Triton.

For high underwater speed needed in attack and antisubmarine operations, the Navy is turning to the Albacore design hull in the newer nuclear submersibles. This is a whale-shaped hull, which has proved faster under water than the long narrow shapes.

There are now seven nuclear submarines afloat, three of them in commission, the others either launched and being outfitted or undergoing trials prior to commissioning. They are the Nautilus, Skate, Sargo, Seawolf, Swordfish, Skipjack and Seadragon.

Skipper of the Triton is Capt. Edward L. Beach, former naval aide to President Eisenhower and famous submarine commander of World War II.

Invited to christen the Triton with the traditional bottle of champagne is Mrs. John M. Will, wife of Vice Adm. Will, head of the Military Sea Transportation Service, who commanded a group in which the original submarine Triton operated in the Pacific in World War II.

Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet and supreme allied commander Atlantic, will make the principal address.

Other speakers include Frank Pace Jr., General Dynamics president, and Frederick E. Crever, general manager of General Electric Co.'s Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory, builders of the Triton's reactors.

Real Problems Need Attention

Lt. Governor Hart Says U.S. Foreign Policy, Not Football, Vital to All

LANSING (UPI) — "The really basic problems we're up against creep into conversation only rarely," Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart said today.

"Soviet Sputniks briefly shook many of our fellow Americans out of their preoccupation with sports and other pleasant but unimportant details of daily life," he said.

Hart, a director of the Detroit Lions professional football team, said he often had the impression audiences would rather hear him talk about football than U. S. foreign policy.

"Whether a football team wins or loses won't affect the lives of a one of us," he said, "But whether democracy wins or loses in Asia, Africa and Latin America will vitally affect the lives of every one of us."

He said attention should be devoted to helping raise living standards of other countries and how leaders of African and Asian nations can be convinced America doesn't want to dictate to them.

Hart said one main goal should be just how the American people can be made "aware of the serious, long-range nature of our life and death competition with Soviet and Chinese communism."

Adm. Rickover May Get Medal

Senate Voices Approval of Special Award for Nuclear Research

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate passed unanimously yesterday a bill for a special gold Congressional medal to be awarded to Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover for his direction of Naval nuclear research.

Sponsors hoped for swift concurrence by the House.

Senate approval came by voice vote, after rounds of praise of Rickover as a man whose achievements in developing the world's first atomic submarine and the first large scale nuclear power reactor will live in American history.

The measure provides an added push to a Capitol Hill drive to make sure that Rickover receives advancement and remains in the Navy.

Rickover was moved up from captain to flag rank in 1953, under Congressional pressure, after being passed over for promotion. Under normal Navy procedure his record comes up for review in the year starting next July 1, to determine whether he should be retained in service or retired.

The Congressional move comes on the heels of what some had regarded as a snub to Rickover when he was left out of the White House ceremonies honoring Cmdr. William R. Anderson for taking the atomic submarine Nautilus under the ice at the North Pole, another American first.

The resolution authorizes the chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee to have a special gold medal designed and cast. The measure would appropriate $2,500 for the project.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM), the joint committee's vice chairman, piloted the measure to approval.

Road Maps Will Guide Pilots Lost in Britain

LONDON — The ordinary road map is expected to become an effective aid to British pilots who get lost with air-navigation charts. The Transport Ministry and amateur flying clubs are working on plans to paint directional signs with 10-foot lettering at important road junctions so the lost pilot can see them from the air and find out where he is.

Symphony Units Double

NEW YORK — The American Symphonic Orchestra League reports that the number of symphony orchestras in the United States has doubled during the past 10 years—from 524 to more than 1,000—and attendance at concerts also has doubled.

Joins in Grand Opening Tomorrow

Cunningham's Among First in Center

Cunningham Drug Company's Drayton store, which opened last summer at the site which has become the Drayton Shopping Center, is joining in the formal opening of the Center tomorrow.

A self-service store, Cunningham's has more than 26 separate departments, and a modern prescription department under direction of registered pharmacists.

Manager of the store, Donald McColl, is himself an experienced pharmacist, having graduated from Ferris Institute. He served the firm in its Pontiac store before being transferred as manager of the Drayton store.

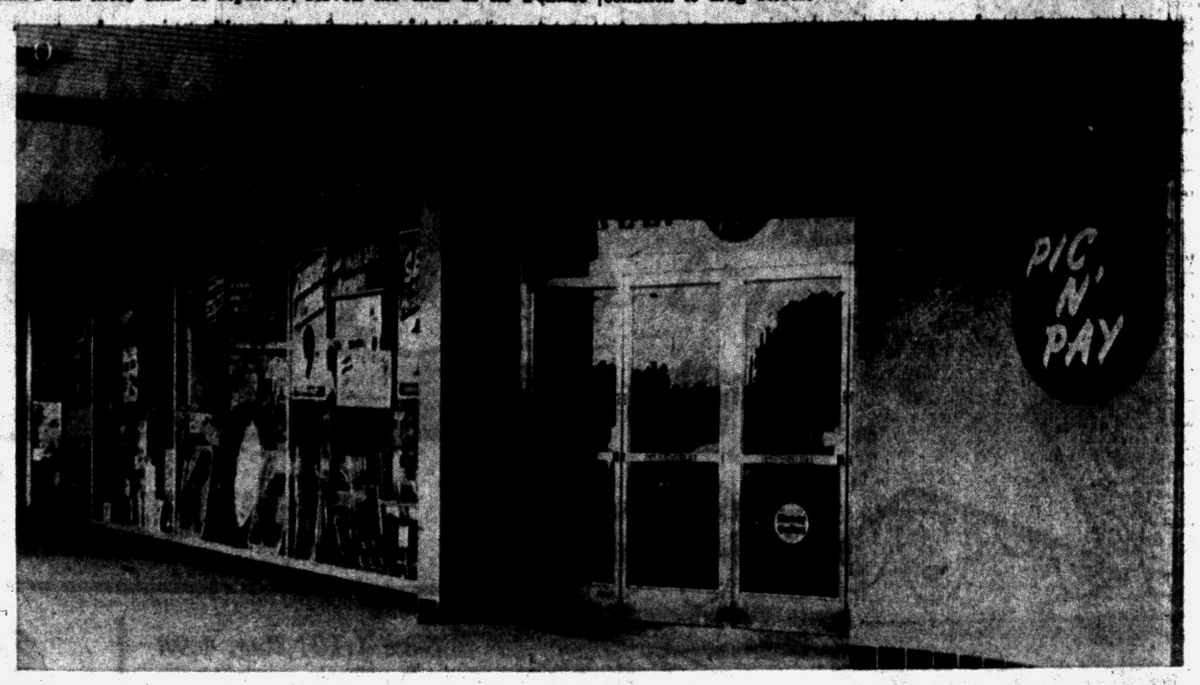

The store offers a wide variety of items, including such things as folding doors, wearing apparel, toys, power tools, luggage, crockery . . . in addition to the lines common to drug stores.

A cosmetic department is given special emphasis, with specially trained cosmeticians available to advise on individual beauty needs.

The modern soda fountain serves breakfast, lunch and dinner.

SELF-SERVE — The Cunningham Drug Store, participating in the grand opening tomorrow of the Drayton Shopping Center, uses a self-serve system which permits customers to make their own selection of most merchandise. A long lunch counter is incorporated in the store to serve shoppers during their visit to the center.

State Sailor Held on Robbery Charge

BOSTON (UPI) — Two young sailors were held in $5,000 bail each today on charges of unarmed robbery in a salt-shaker holdup.

Both Delmar Grommon, 21, of Marne, Mich., and John C. Stevens, 18, of Arriba, Colo., pleaded innocent yesterday. Police said one of the youths held a salt shaker in his pocket to simulate a gun in holding up a newsboy in Boston Sunday.

Newsboy David Fee handed over $21 but when the robbers turned to flee he and a fellow newsboy, Anthony Rizzo, 17, a high school football player, tackled them and held on until police arrived.

Neel's Shoe Store Gives Special Fitting Service

MILTON RESLER

Among the units in the new Drayton Shopping Center is Neel's Shoe store, where corrective shoes may be fitted by prescription.

Salesmen specially trained in fitting of shoes for men, women and children, staff the store.

A huge, lighted Buster Brown sign with a winking eye which can be seen from Dixie Highway, identifies Neel's store.

This is the third Neel's store to open in Michigan. Soft recessed interior lighting brings out the pink and green pastel tones of the walls. Interior trim and fixtures feature limed-oak.

The acoustical ceiling and deep-pile carpeting keeps noise at a minimum. Shadow-box type showcases are lined with off-white ripplebord and are illuminated with indirect lighting.

Milton Resler of Detroit has been named manager. He has been with the Neel's shoe company for more than 15 years, but with 25 years in the shoe business.

Resler has had special training in children's fittings, and is authorized to fill physicians' prescription for shoes.

Nationally known shoe brands as Buster Brown, Red Cross, American Girl and Jarman, are among those sold by Neel's.

Besides shoes, the store is stocked with women's accessories such as handbags, hosiery and shoe trimming.

Deer Returns to Visit Friends After 2 Years

GULLIVER (UPI) — A 2½-year-old deer called Bambi has returned to visit lighthouse keeper Ronald Rosie and family after two years away from home.

Rosie and his boys found Bambi when she was a fawn only a few days old.

They kept it at their Seul Choix lighthouse near this upper Michigan community on Lake Michigan. The fawn was bottle fed at first but its favorite food was crackers when it grew a little older.

Then in 1956 Bambi disappeared.

Last Thursday, Rosie said, Bambi walked out of the woods, ate crackers and licked her friends' hands. Then she suddenly turned and bounded away again.

Life Insurance Dates From 1583 in London

LONDON — A discussion in a London coffee house in 1583 led to the first life-incurance policy. A city alderman, Richard Martin, insisted it was possible to insure a man's life. To prove his point he offered to insure the life of William Gibbons, a young, healthy dealer in salt, drugs, and dyes. The result of the discussion was a one-year contract signed by underwriters who guaranteed the $1,800 face value of the policy.

Two Try to Halt Missile Work

Pacifist Couple Expects a Third to Join Them at Wyoming Air Base

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Two self-styled pacifists who are determined to halt construction of a missile launching site here say they will be joined by a Pennsylvania minister.

Kenneth Calkins, 23, made the announcement after he and his wife Ellanor, 22, were ejected from the area twice yesterday.

Calkins said he and his wife and the Rev. Theodore Olson, 26, of Fallsington, Pa., would attempt to distribute leaflets urging the workmen not to work.

Federal and military authorities are undecided how to keep the Chicago couple and the Rev. Mr. Olson off the site.

Two air policemen escorted Mr. and Mrs. Olson from the installation after they passed out one leaflet protesting bases to a welder.

The two later re-entered the installation and were taken to an office of the George Fuller Construction Co., prime contractors for the project.

A Fuller representative said the couple sat down in front of the gate, stopping traffic.

Calkins said once a worker carried him from the path of a truck.

Dep. U. S. Atty. William Walton said his office is officially taking no position. "We have the whole matter under study," he said.

Col. H. B. Earthman, deputy wing commander at Warren Air Force Base here, said, "We plan to take them off as often as they come onto the base."

Calkins said he was here under auspices of the American Friends Service Committee in an effort to halt what he termed a "hopeless arms race with the Soviet Union." He said there are some religious persons affiliated with the group.

The son of a Chicago Methodist minister, Calkins said if his efforts here are unsuccessful attempts would be made at planned missile sites at Denver, Spokane, Chicago, Omaha and elsewhere.

New Regime in Iraq Attacks Corruption

BAGHDAD (UPI) — Iraq's revolutionary regime has decreed that dishonest public officials and their private collaborators may be fined or imprisoned for five years or more.

An official announcement said the decree, proclaimed Sunday, is designed to curb the corruption which it said was "rampant" while the government overthrown July 14 was in power.

A previous decree set up military courts to try officials and supporters of the old regime for offenses ranging from high treason — punishable by death — to criticism of Arab chiefs of state.

Maj. Gen. Ghaza Daghastani is being tried for treason by one of the special courts martial. About 100 other former civil and military officials have been arrested.

Meanwhile, the new regime has announced its willingness to trade with the communist bloc.

In a speech last night, acting Foreign Minister Mohammed Shanshal mentioned dates as a commodity Iraq would be willing to "sell to the East." He made no mention of possible oil sales to the Reds.

The anti-corruption decree requires all elected or appointed officials, from village councilmen to cabinet ministers, to submit financial statements at the beginning and the end of their public careers.

Those deemed guilty of amassing "illegal news" while in office or for two years afterward may be brought to trial under the decree, along with any private citizen suspected of playing a part in their corrupt activities.

Informers who expose dishonest officials will be rewarded and granted immunity from prosecution for any part they may have played in the graft-taking they report.

Testimony at yesterday's session of the Daghastani trial indicated that the case against the general — a former deputy chief of staff — rests largely on charges of complicity in a plot to attack Syria.

Ousted ex-premier Ahmed ma Baban told the court that such a plot was hatched by Crown Prince Abdul Iliah, who hoped to make himself king. Baban said the idea of attacking Syria was opposed by King Faisal and high officers of the army, including Daghastani.

The ex-premier said he believes Nuri Es-said, former "power behind the throne," favored the plot. He said that he himself "opposed the idea fiercely," along with a number of other cabinet ministers.

Faisal, Abdul Illah and Nuri all were slain in the July revolution.

Baban, who appeared only as a witness in the Daghastani case, is among those slated to come before the court martial as defendants.

At yesterday's session, the ex-premier was the only witness who claimed any personal knowledge of the alleged plot. Other witnesses said that their only knowledge of it came from the radio or the newspaper.

Detroit paid tribute last night to the professional football champions of 1957.

There was little resemblence to the "Meet the Lions" bust of last year when Otto Graham, the guest speaker, lit the fuse with his subtle remarks and ex-coach Buddy Parker dropped the bomb.

Even under a four-day shadow of defeat by the College All-Stars the atmosphere was different, the essence of a championship team was present.

"What happened?" George Wilson was asked.

"Who the h—— knows what happened," he retorted, "we just lost."

"The pro team has to fear the All-Stars to do any good," said guest speaker Jimmy Conzelman, "and that's something difficult to do."

LIONS' LOSS HELPED CLASSIC

Actually, the defeat of the Lions was the best thing that could have happened for the annual classic, and possibly even as far as the Lions themselves are concerned.

Interest in the All-Star game has slowly been dwindling. The format was getting to be monotonous with the pros always on the winning end.

The attendance was announced as 70,000 but paid admissions totaled around 58,000. "We figure the Stars' victory helped the gate about 15,000 more for next year," said one of the officials of the sponsoring newspaper.

This should console the Lions, knowing that their defeat gave a lift to charity.

"If it didn't do anything else it should make them mad at themselves," said a Lions' official, "we'll see Friday night."

CONZELMAN THE "HOPE" OF SPORTS

Getting back to last night's party at which the members of the '57 championship team were presented with diamond rings, Conzelman, was worth every cent of the 10 bucks the fans paid per plate even without the prime ribs.

The veteran college and pro coach of the Chicago Cardinals is the Bob Hope of pro football who used George Halas of the Bears for his needlings just as Hope's counterpart Bing Crosby.

If Conzelman couldn't perk up the party then hardly anyone else would. His routine tale of the football game between little Washington of St. Louis, where he was coaching, against arch-rival Missouri should be put into a recording for the lighthearted sports gathering where hilarity is needed.

It could be recorded and sent to Pittsburgh for the "Meet the Steelers" banquet just for precautionary measures.

DITTOS FROM THE PRESS BOX

There are 47 players still on the Lions' roster and coach Wilson, who has always maintained that there is no such player as an "untouchable" when it comes to trading, reiterated this thought by inference last night when he said, "The 35 best players will make the team, and I wish them all luck."

Champ Dissatisfied With KO Win

Round by Round

FIRST ROUND
Harris opened by jabbing to the champion's head but both stayed at long range to the first half feeling each other out. Midway in this stanza, Patterson landed a hard right to the head and in a fast exchange, the New Yorker connected with a stiff left to the head and Harris with a right to the body, as the close round ended.

SECOND ROUND
Harris floored the champion for a three-count with a straight left and pushing right seconds after the round began. Patterson did not appear hurt and rushed back to the attack with lefts to be head and rights to the body. Harris slowed the attack, connecting with a right to the face. But Pattersonn moved in with a left-right combination but once again the challenger staved him off.

THIRD ROUND

SIXTH ROUND

SEVENTH ROUND
Patterson slowed down his attack as he attempted to set up the challenger. After the first minute, Paterson slammed a left hook and right to the body. The champion backed Harris into the ropes and scored with a left and right. As they reached the center of the ring, Patterson slammed home a straight right, sending Harris to the canvas for a count of eight. Harris finished the round without further damage.

EIGHTH ROUND

NINTH ROUND
Action started at long range. Both boxers jabbed with lefts. Patterson stalked his foe into the ropes and connected with another solid left-right combination. The challenger fought back gamely but Patterson was landing the punches. Patterson crashed the challenger into the ropes with a left to the body. He missed the follow up as the round ended.

TENTH ROUND
Patterson moved in slowly and they clinched. They moved to long range again and a Harris jab popped back Patterson's head. Midway in the round, Patterson again stunned the challenger with two rights to the side of the head, which started the blood flowing again. The champion scored with lefts as the round ended.

ELEVENTH ROUND

TWELFTH ROUND
The champion pounded another hard right to the side of the head. Harris went down for a fourth time from a looping right to the head and took a nine count on one knee. The challenger bled badly. Patterson was finding the mark repeatedly with a left jab. Harris continued, despite the pounding, and returned to his corner.

Patterson retained title when Harris was unable to answer bell for the thirteenth round.

HARRIS FLOORED IN 7TH — Champion Floyd Patterson catches challenger Roy Harris with a left to send him to the canvas in the 7th round of their title fight last night. The bleeding Harris regained his feet and lasted through the 12th, after which his handlers kept him in his corner.

Harris Unable to Answer Bell for 13th Round

Patterson Is Planning to Defend Heavyweight Title in England

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, dissatisfied with his gory title knockout over Roy Harris, said today, "I want to get busy now so I may defend soon in England."

The champion believed he should have disposed of game Harris, from Cut and Shoot, Tex., before the 12th round last night, even though the kayo in that session had tagged the blood-smeared challenger with his first defeat in 23 bouts.

Floyd's victory before an estimated 17,000 at Wrigley Field was his 15th knockout in his last 16 fights. But he was dissatisfied with his own trip to the canvas in the second round and displeased because his bleeding opponent had survived four knockdowns.

"I want to get busy now," said the 23-year-old champion, who had made his third defense.

"That's right," agreed manager Cus D'Amato, "and our next defense may be for promoter Harry Levene in London. We've given him our word we'll fight for him if there's a good European challenger."

Stocky, gray-haired D'Amato grinned and added significantly, "It looks as if there'll be a good one over there soon."

Apparently D'Amato was referring to next month's fight between Sweden's unbeaten Ingemar Johansson, European champion, and Eddie Machen of San Francisco, second ranking contender. D'Amato is reported to believe Johansson will win the fight at Goteborg, Sweden, and be available as challenger.

"I've got to keep busy to keep sharp," said the unmarked champion who had given Harris such a battering that his own trainer, Bill Gore, asked referee Mushy Callahan to stop the bout, when the action was finished in the 12th round but before the bell could start the 13th.

Callahan waved his arms in midring, signaling that the bout was over. And he announced it was a "knockout" in the 12th round. Under California rules, when a bout is stopped to save a fighter from further punishment, it is a kayo — not a technical kayo.

At that time the 25-year-old challenger was bleeding profusely from the nose and from cuts on his right brow, his right temple, nose bridge and left eyelid.

Dark-haired Harris made a brave stand against the champion from Mt. Vernon, N.Y.; but he was outgunned, Patterson's right-hand smashes to the body began to weaken the durable Texan as early as the third round.

In fact, "Big Henry" Harris, the challenger's father who worked in his corner, said, "he began to weaken in the third round and I knew he had no chance."

A terrific left hook to the body in the sixth round almost buckled Roy, and after that it was just a question of how long he could remain afoot.

Although the challenger, backpedialling and stepping from side to side, tried to fight back with left jabs, left hooks and rights, he was floored in the seventh, twice in the eigth and once in the 12th.

A right to the chin put him down for the count of eight in the seventh. A left-right combination dropped him for "seven" and a right for "three" in the eighth. Another right to the chin floored him for "nine" in the 12th. And a smashing left hook sent him reeling across the ring, just before the bell ended action in the 12th.

Harris, whose face looked as if he had fallen down a cliff, said, "I'd like to fight him again. I learned an awful lot last night."

D'Amato said Patterson "certainly will give Roy a return bout some day. He's a very good fighter and he'll improve with a few more bouts under his belt."

The champion may receive more than his guaranteed $210,000 through his percentage provisos, because a late surge of fans to Wrigley Field provided an estimated gate of $200,000 and early reports from the Tele-Prompter Corporation indicated that theater-TV receipts at 151 theatres in 133 cities would approximate one million dollars.

Harris will receive a flat guaranteed $100,000 for his battering.

Challenger Roy brought the crowd to its feet in the second round when he dropped Floyd with a right to the chin for a count of four. However, the 6-1 underdog was far behind when the bout was stopped.

It was Patterson's 34th victory in 35 fights and his 25th knockout.

In addition to the London defense, probably in the winter, D'Amato said he was practically guaranteed a defense at Colorado Springs, Colo., next June.

Lions Oppose Browns Friday, on Home Field

Reichow Lost to Team, Undergoes Surgery for All-Star Game Injury

DETROIT (UPI)—George Wilson didn't quit. But there still was occasion for some bloom at the Detroit Lions' "Meet the Champions" banquet last night.

Jerry Reichow, former Iowa quarterback doing duty as a flanker for the Lions, was scheduled to undergo surgery today for a ligament injury below his right knee today. He was hurt after catching a pass in the All-Star game.

Lion President Edwin J. Anderson made the first announcement of Reichow's operation at the banquet. It was not known how long Reichow will be sidelined. The coaches had intended to give him a full shot at quarterback during the pre-season games.

Wilson, who celebrated the first anniversary of being named head coach of the Lions, was almost as brief as Buddy Parker was last year.

But that night Parker stunned the football world by abruptly resigning and calling the team "uncoachable." Wilson took the same squad and won the National Football League championship with it.

Wilson introduced his coaching staff and briefly — although not lightly—passed over the humiliating defeat to the collegians.

"As far as we're concerned now, Friday is past. We've got another game coming up this Friday against a tough team (Cleveland Browns in Detroit) and that's the one we're worrying about now," Wilson said.

When reminded the Lions will be facing the twosome that applied the most damage in the All-Star game—quarterback Jim Ninowski and halfback Bobby Mitchell—Wilson guaranteed "they won't be making that kind of yardage against us Friday."

Anderson, in introducing the Lions, said the club "wasn't the best in the league last year but they had the desire and determination to win and that's what did it.

"We had a tough time at Baltimore on opening day last season and that game counted. The boys picked themselves up and went on to take the title. Maybe the loss to the All-Stars was a blessing in disguise," Anderson said.

BANQUET NOTESS

The first result of the Detroit Lions' lop-sided loss to the College All-Stars was an extended "head-knocking" session at the training camp yesterday . . . coach George Wilson lengthened the drill beyond the usual 90-minute limit emphasizing heavy work . . . The three rookies from the All-Star camp—Alex Karras, Wayne Walker and Tom Schulte — were shoved right into action.

Lion President Edwin J. Anderson tossed a good-natured jibe at center Charlie Ane during player introductions at banquet. Ane, first to be announced, sat down after his name was called.

AP Wirephoto

Floyd and Roy Praise Each Other

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Blinking at the dressing room floor from under a towel, battered but gallant Roy Harris said:

"He's the hardest puncher I've ever met. He's a great fighter."

"It's the toughest fight I've had since I've been champion. He was very game."

Harris got off the deck four times before his trainer asked that the title fight be stopped after the 12th round last night.

"I never lost my senses," said Harris. "I would have liked to have finished. "When I knocked him down in the second round I thought I could get him, but I guess I got too anxious," said the pride of the Big Thicket of East Texas.

Why did he jump back to his feet so quickly after two knockdowns in the eighth?

"I just felt like fighting," replied Harris, managing a grin through puffing lips.

"I'd like to fight him again — I think I could lick him," said Harris.

Patterson, who had the game challenger reeling but couldn't put him away, said he wasn't happy with his showing.

"None of them were any good," said Patterson when asked what his best punch was although he scored repeatedly with a left hook and a right combination. Harris' trainer, Bill Gore, said he stopped the bout because "I didn't want Roy cut any more." He told reporters Roy was yelling "Let me go. Let me go," when he did so.

Ringsider Joe Louis had little praise for the champ saying Floyd was slow and "way off" his timing. "He was missing badly. The long layoff hurt him. He's got to fight more if he wants to become a great champion. I think he can become a fine one," added the aging Brown Bomber.

Missed the Knockdown

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Next time I'll be at ringside."

So spoke pretty Mrs. Floyd Patterson after watching her husband stop Roy Harris in last night's title bout at a New York theater. She was in a party of 10, including her mother and Patterson's two younger brothers.

"Watching like this is not as emotional as at ringside," she explained. "You know, I didn't see Floyd get knocked down. I just happened to have my head turned. But I was never scared. Floyd was the agressor all the way and I knew it was a question of time."

Meanwhile, some 3,500 spectators watched at a drive-in theater in Conroe, Texas, including about 100 from Harris' hometown of Cut and Shoot.

They giggled and cheered when their hero came on the screen. The group had its big moment when Patterson went down. "Show him a little more of that, Daddy. Get him, Roy," they shouted.

But as the rounds were on you could hear the pleading, "Oh, come on, Roy. Do something. They sat silently when Harris failed to appear for the 13th round. There were no tears and nobody was ashamed.

Church Loops Near End of Season Play

The Pontiac Church League was nearing its playoff finals today while members of the Avondale Church League were looking forward to an All-Star game next Monday following the completion of regular season play last night.

Trinity Baptist gained the Pontiac finals by walloping Church of the Brethren 18-7 last night for its 3rd straight win. Mullin had two homers and Hatchett one for Trinity. The victor of tonight's Brethren-First Baptist tilt will meet Trinity for the crown.

Elmwood Methodist (8-6) nailed down 3rd, beating Stone Baptist (4-10) by 10-9 featuring homers by Terry Whittington and 40-year-old George Granger. Joe Macurek homered for runnerup Nike.

Kalamazoo Netters Win Top MRA Honors

JACKSON, Mich. (UPI) — Kalamazoo netters ran off with the team championship and three individual titles yesterday as the three-day competition ended here in the Michigan Recreation tennis tournament.

Second-seeded Tom Beach gave Kalamazoo its third individual crown by defeating Bob Waits of Jackson in the junior singles. Previously, John Cook of Kalamazoo won the men's singles title.

Kalamazoo had 38 points and Dearborn 31, Holland finished third in the team race with 18 points followed by Ann Arbzor, Saginaw and Battle Creek each with 18; Hamtramck 17; Jackson 15; Ypsilanti 12; Monroe, Port Huron and Trenton each with 10; Livonia 9; Adrian and Muskegon each with 4, and Lansing with 3.

Midland, Royal Oak and Plymouth did not score.

7 Teams Eye Big Ten Grid Title

MSU, Buckeyes Considered as Clubs to Beat

Iowa, Badgers, Purdue Expected to Challenge Strongly This Fall

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten football race, unpredictable at best, could turn into a hellcat scramble this year with at least seven teams fighting for the title.

Ohio State's defending champions and Michigan State's Spartans will be the teams to beat. Iowa, Wisconsin and Purdue are expected to challenge strongly and Michigan and Illinois never can be counted out until the season ends.

For Minnesota, Indiana and Northwestern, it looks like another long season.

Woody Hayes, Ohio State coach, promises the same bruising attack which has brought the Buckeyes three unbeaten titles in the last three years. Hayes plans to employ a powerful ground attack headed by fullback Bob White, fine line play and a great defense. There'll be little passing by the Buckeyes.

Michigan State is set to challenge all comers for the national title. The Spartans are loaded but they may be in need in the quarterback slot vacated by Jim Ninowski.

Coach Duffy Daugherty thinks his team can be the finest that has ever represented Michigan State but he may have trouble replacing Ninowski.

Iowa agains will be tough. The Hawkeyes have quarterback Randy Duncan to pass. They also have good and speedy halfbacks, a fine line and an easy schedule.

Purdue is the team that could take it all — Big Ten title, Rose Bowl and possibly a national title. There are 26 lettermen returning at the Boilermaker campus. And Purdue won five of its last six games in 1957 including a 20-15 upset triumph over Michigan State.

Wisconsin has a tough schedule but the Badgers are ready. They have a veteran team and 28 returning lettermen. Wisconsin could emerge on top if the Badgers can overcome a tough schedule which includes Iowa, Ohio State and Michigan State in succession.

Purdue is the real dark horse. Most Big Ten coaches refer to the Boilermakers when there is talk of a title. "That's the team to watch out for," said Ray Eliot of Illinois. The Boilermakers have a tremendous line plus quarterbacks Bob Spoo and Ross Fightner.

Michigan has to rebuild its line from tackle to tackle. The Wolverines are always tough and as unpredictable a team as there is in the Western Conference. Fullback John Herrnstein is a strong prospect to lead Michigan to most of its triumphs.

Illinois could wind up with the best line in the country.

"I wouldn't say that," says line coach Burt Ingwersen, "but we might be pretty rough," The Illini, however, will be lacking their usual fleet of halfbacks and again are in trouble finding a capable quarterback.

Minnesota has only two regulars back from last year's team which was picked to finish near the top but wound up in eighth place. The Gophers must rely on newcomers and could progress as the season grows older.

Neither Indiana nor Northwestern won a conference game in 1957 and since neither of the two meet, it could be the same story again. Help from newcomers is needed in both cases.

Not for Tigers Who Begin Eastern Swing

Travel Broadening?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Travel is broadening, it's said. But the only thing broadening during the Detroit Tigers' wanderings from home is their number of losses.

The Bengals, off like a sprinter shot from the blocks with a doubleheader victory at Cleveland last week, have only a 5-2 victory last night over their Charleston farm club since then and four straight setbacks to American League foes.

The Tigers open a nine-game swing through the East tonight against the last-place Washington Senators — a team they've beaten only seven times in 17 tries.

To make a run for the first division and to better 1957's fourth place finish, the Tigers will have to do a lot of improving on their road record which stands at 23 victories and 33 defeats.

As has been the case through most of the summer, Detroit can't put together good pitching and hitting in the same game. In the six games since leaving home, the Tigers have scored 31 runs but the pitchers have yielded 38.

Herb Moford (3-4), one of the few dependable pitchers of late, was scheduled to open the two-game Washington series against Camilo Pascual (6-7).

The Bengals will remain under arc-lights tomorrow night and for the following two nights at Baltimore.

Bill Norman, in an effort to rest his two-man catching staff, put Ozzie Virgil behind the plate last night in the exhibition contest at Charleston.

Virgil went the route, catching Jim Bunning, Bill Hoeft and Bill Fischer. Bunning and Hoeft each pitched one scoreless inning to start the game and Fischer took over in the third, going the rest of the way and giving up the two Charleston runs — one a homer by first baseman Bobo Osborne.

Detroit took a 1-0 lead off southpaw Wyman Carey in the fourth but the Senators tied it in the fifth. A four-run splurge off Carey in the sixth wound it up. Carey is regarded as a top prospect in the Tiger system.

The trio of Tigers surrendered only four hits to the farm club, mostly populated by ex-major leaguers.

Norman hoped to have Billy Martin back at third base tonight as the Bengals sought to protect their slim hold on the first division — Baltimore is only one-half game out of fourth.

Baltimore moved within a half game of the Tigers by whipping Kansas City 8-2 in yesterday's only game. The Orioles broke a 1-1 tie with seven in the 6th featuring homers by Gene Woodling and Dick Williams. All the clubs resume play today.

KEEPS WATCH — Manager Casey Stengel watched his New York Yankees go through a special workout at New York yesterday amid reports of tension and dissension on the club. He ordered the drill after the champs dropped five games off their lead in 10 days. They still lead by 11½. The players were unhappy about the extra workout. They have had only one day off in the last 28.

Boys Club Playoff Winner, Jewelers Run Into Trouble

Pontiac Boys Club continued its mastery of the Class B City Baseball League, but Shaw's Jewelers ran into trouble in Class A as final rounds of the best-of-three playoffs got under way Monday.

The Boys Club, regular season champ, drew first blood in the "B" loop finals at Jaycee Park with a 5-1 victory over Pontiac Business Institute behind the two-hit pitching of Jerry Pointer.

Shaw's, regular season winner of the "A" league race, blew a 4-0 lead as the Jets won the opener of their final series at Wisner Field by a 7-4 margin.

The Jets bounced back into contention in the 3rd inning with a three-run rally, then salted away the verdict with four runs in the 5th.

Don Picman, Dave Gaddis, Jerry Taylor and Jim Jones took their turns on the hill trying to stop the Jets with Taylor absorbing the defeat. Dick Cloonan was the winning pitcher in relief of Tom Estes.

The Jets combed Shaw's mound corps for 10 hits, two apiece by Ben Robinson, Gene Cox and Hurston Avery. The Jewelers could make only three safeties off Estes and Cloonan.

PBI scored one run in the 1st stanza, but couldn't dent Pointer's offerings the rest of the way in the "B" opener. Jim Skinner made two of the Boys Club's four hits against Leroy Nicholas.

Playoff action in both classes resumes today at 5:30 p.m.

Upset Marks Races for Watkins Lakers

Smart breezes gave Watkins Lake Yachting Assn, sailors plenty of power during the weekend races, and also provided the events with a bit of unexpected difficulty. Jack Berlien's lightning flipped when a gust caught the jib before it could be pulled in. There were no casualties, and the boat was righted later on.

The Bredes, with Guy Goss helping, won the lightning event, followed by Glen Fries, Jo Fries and Neil Wheeler, and John Noble, son Jim and Hal Roice in that order.

Don Zannoth and Phyllis Seebaldt led the thistles home, with Paul Saghy and Harm Gillen in Jim Parshall's Tar Baby second. A new boat in the fleet, Jack Hill's craft, was third.

Hurls No-Hitter, Loses Game, 1-0

Harlan (Fat) Keith of Sno-Bol is the unluckiest pitcher in Oakland County today. Keith hurled a no-hit game last night in the 1st round of the Waterford League softball playoffs — and lost, 1-0.

Drayton Drug handed Keith and his mates their heartbreaking loss without benefit of a safe blow as Gene Shell scattered seven Sno-Bol hits and stranded nine base runners for a business-like shutout performance.

Sno-Bol, regular season winner, lost the decision in the 2nd inning when Paul Atkins walked, took 2nd on a sacrifice, moved to 3rd on a wild pitch and scored the game's only run on Sid Gregory's sacrifice fly.

In the other scheduled playoff game, Lakeland Pharmacy forfeited to Nonne's Drive-In and automatically dropped out of the tournament. Nonne's meets Drug tonight at 7 o'clock on the Drayton Plains diamond.

Pontiac Girl Diver 3rd in Tower Event

Diving with the Ann Arbor Swim Club team, which returned from summer camp in Canada especially for the event, Pontiac's Patsy Dernberger of Oriole road, placed 3rd in the tower feature. The AASC team was 1-2-3 for the event, with Kathy Hartwig winner (154 points) and Sue Tilley, Detroit 2nd (111). Patsy had 99.9 points.

The Ann Arbor club was 3rd in the meet, behind Detroit Turners and Detroit Recreation. Meet was the Water Wonderland event and attracted some 200 contestants last weekend.

City Junior 9s Sidelined

Pontiac's two representatives in the Michigan Junior baseball tournament fell by the wayside Monday in first round games at Jackson.

Pontiac Boys Club, this city's standard-bearer in Class F, bowed to Livonia, 6-3. The BC nine left 12 runners on the base paths and Livonia iced the decision with four unearned runs in the 7th inning.

Darryl Thorpe and Norb Hoffman shared pitching duties for the Pontiac club with Thorpe the starter and loser. Livonia collected eight hits while the Boys Club could make only three.

Cranbrook bowed out in the Class D state tourney with the Grand Rapids Giants doing the job by a 3-1 score.

Each team scored once in the 1st inning, then the two teams battled on even terms until the 5th when the Giants tallied twice and made the margin stand up for victory. Tom Demrick, who was relieved by Bill York in the fatal 6th inning, was the losing hurler.

Grace Leads State Players

Tommy's 73 Is Lowest Michigan Score in JC Golf Tournament

(Special to The Pontiac Press)

TUCSON, Ariz.—Tommy Grace, 17-year-old Lathrup Village golfer, led Michigan's four-man team into the second round of qualifying play in the annual International Jaycee Junior golf tournament today.

Grace fired a three-over-par 36-37—73 for a five-stroke lead over Pete Green of Orchard Lake, Chuck Newton of Ann Arbor and Dick Zimmerman of Jackson, all of whom shot 78.

The field will be cut to the 100 low scorers after today's round. Seventy-two holes of championship medal play begins Wednesday. Non-qualifiers will go into a two-day consolation tournament.

Jim Folks, 16, of Ocala, Fla., posted Monday's low score, a 68, over the flat 6,434-yard El Rio country Club layout.

Three other Southerners, Jerry Greenbaum of Atlanta, Ga.; Jerry Abbot of Borger, Tex., and Marvin Giles of Lynchburg, Va., had 70s. Pre-tourney favorite Buddy Baker of Florence, S. C., newly-crowned USGA Junior champion, carded a 72.

J&A Reaches Finals

Johnson & Anderson eliminated Drayton Food Market in eight innings yesterday, 11-10, to enter the finals in the "B" division of the Waterford Little League softball playoffs. J&A will meet Lakeland Hardware for the title.

Title Easy for Sue

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Susan Hodgman of Kalamazoo, Mich., won easily over Annette Stoesser of Carmel, Calif., 6-0, 6-0, in the U.S. Girls Grass Courts Tennis Championships yesterday.

Bunning Is Selected 'July's Pro Athlete'

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Bunning of the Detroit Tigers, who hurled a no-hit game against the Boston Red Sox last month, yesterday was named the pro athlete of July in the S. Rae Hickok monthly voting. He received 46 first place votes. Dow Finsterwald, who won the PGA title, was second.

Bernard M. Baruch Celebrating 88th Birthday Quietly With Family

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (UPI) — Bernard M. Baruch intends to have no fuss about his 88th birthday today. He plans to observe it quietly with the immediate members of his family.

The famous elder statesman wants to avoid interviews, if possible, because — as he says — "These are times which try men's souls" and it is not up to a private citizen to speak out on world affairs.

I dropped in to see Baruch at his suite in the Gideon-Putnam Hotel in Saratoga Springs. He has long been interested in the spa and its health-giving facilities. He is taking the baths and going to the races occasionally for recreation.

In response to a question, he said:

"I feel fine. But I have to pace myself. I can't do as much as I once could."

He seemed to be in good shape, physically and mentally. In spite of his advancing years, he's still a strikingly handsome man — tall, erect and silver-haired — and one of the best liked and most popular figures at the summer resort.

Baruch reads a lot and spends some of his time working on the second book of his memoirs. He keeps in touch with his New York office by telephone.

Inevitably, our conversation got around to longevity.

"Longevity is primarily a matter of heredity," he declared.

After a moment's pause, he went on:

"We in America have developed lots of ways to increase the span of life. But, as far as most elderly people are concerned, it is more important to stop the inflationary processes and keep steady the purchasing power of our dollar, for our old age."

He emphasized that he realizes the importance of social benefits to elderly people, such as pensions and social security. But he said it is nevertheless more important to find some way "to prevent the constant eroding of the dollar through inflation."

"You've got to beware of those who promise you more dollars with less purchasing power," he warned.

Asked at what age he thought a man should retire, Baruch replied that was up to the individual himself. In this connection he recalled a remark of his father, Dr. Simeon Baruch, a noted surgeon, once made to him.

"I was about 35 years old at the time, and I asked father what he thought would be good for me to eat," he related. "Father replied: 'If you haven't learned by now, nobody can tell you.' And that's why I say a man can tell when he should retire better than any one else."

Baruch said he stopped smoking when he was 64. As for drinking, he added:

"I am a very light drinker. In fact, I seldom drink. But I don't know that drinking has too much effect on one's life. You see the hardest drinkers who live on for many years, and others who drink little pass on at a comparatively early age. As I said, I think longevity is a matter of heredity."

With Baruch in Saratoga Springs is his nurse, Miss Elizabeth Navarro, who has been with him 13 years.

Commenting on Baruch's good condition at 88, Miss Navarro said that Baruch comes from a family noted for its longevity. She said his aunt, Melvina Zimmt, who lives in London, will celebrate her 102nd birthday the day after Baruch observes his 88th.

Baruch said he planned to spend his birthday today with his daughter, Belle; his son, Bernard M. Baruch Jr., a captain in the Naval Reserve; Mr. and Mrs. Renee Samatog (she is his daughter), and Miss Mary Boyle, his secretary and friend for more than a quarter of a century, whom he regards as "a member of the family."

GREETINGS FROM CHURCHILL

He mentioned he had just received a cable from his long-time friend Winston Churchill. He smilingly remarked that Churchill and former President Herbert Hoover are "four years younger than I am."

With world topics barred from the interview, the conversation lagged a bit. Miss Navarro produced a racing program and asked Baruch what he thought of a horse in the first race. His reply was a noncommittal smile.

Because of Baruch's long and continued interest in the spa, the New York Racing Association has scheduled for today a unique tribute, "The Bernard Baruch birthday stakes," which is intended to become a permanent addition to Saratoga's stakes.

The interview ended when Baruch asked the writer: "Are we going to the races?" The answer was yes. When we got there, the ticketmen greeted him with smiles and passed him in. He laughingly said: "You know, they never will allow me to pay my way into this place."

All Grain Pits Hit by Selling

CHICAGO (AP)—General selling hit all the grain pits again today and futures prices on the Board of Trade were weak.

Soybeans and rye were off a cent a bushel or more within the first few minutes while the setback in wheat and corn ran to major fractions of a cent.

Wheat traders said there was some indication that the long interests in that grain were beginning to sell out since the spring wheat yield is moving to market in more sizable amounts than expected as reflected by a good volume of hedge selling.

The lower prices in both corn and soybeans hit a moderate amount of buying with major commission houses on both sides of the market.

Wheat was ⅛ to ⅞ cent a bushel lower near the end of the first hour, September $1.82⅞; corn ¼ TO ⅝ lower, September $1.26⅜; oats unchanged to ⅜ lower, September 61½; rye ¾ to 1 cent low September $1.21; soybeans ½ to 1⅛ lower, September $2.23½; lard 5 to 17 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $12.65.

2 Captured in Swamp Being Held for Court

A pair of ex-convicts who led Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies and State Troopers on a wild chase early last Saturday morning were arraigned on charges of breaking and entering in the nighttime before Orion Township Justice Helmar G. Stanaback Monday.

Both Lester L. Wathen, 33, of 40 Baldwin Ave., and Kenneth L. Deneen, 33, of 4635 Independence St., Clarkston, waived examination and were bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court.

They were returned to the Oakland County Jail with bond set on each at $2,000. The men are scheduled to be arraigned in circuit court on Aug. 25.

Deneen and Wathen were captured by troopers, deputies and Lake Orion police in a wooded area of Orion Township after a chase of several miles Saturday.

They are charged with the burglaries of a hardware store and market at the Judah Lake Shopping Center, on Joslyn Rd., just north of Brown Rd., in Orion Township.

Between 1939 and 1954 the number of students in United States colleges almost doubled in number, from 1,364,000 in 1939 to 2,475,000 in 1954.

UAW, Big 3 Return to Contract Parley

DETROIT (AP)—The drawn-out United Auto Worker contract negotiations resumed in the auto industry today against the background of new 1959 car model production.

With the big plants starting to hum though still only on limited production rates, the UAW and management continued their efforts at the bargaining table.

Ford and General Motors negotiated with the union yesterday. Today Chrysler talks resume. There has been no report of any marked progress in the more than two months since prior contracts expired.

New 1959 car model production got under way yesterday at four Chrysler divisions and GM's Buick Division. Full production is anticipated for mid-November.

Five states, other than his birthplace of New York, are preparing to celebrate the centennial birthday observance of Theodore Roosevelt. He was born at 28 East 20th Street, New York City, on October 27, 1858.

Stock Market Mixed, Sluggish

NEW YORK (AP)—A few selected issues were in demand early today in an otherwise mixed and sluggish stock market.

Changes of most key stocks were narrow.

Studebaker-Packard was the outstanding favorite, rising ¼ to 6¾ on a big opening block of 20,000 shares. Wall Street awaited formal announcement of a new refinancing plan to be proposed to stockholders, marking the end of Curtiss-Wright's management contract with the auto maker.

Penn-Texas also was actively traded and up a fraction following Leopold D. Silberstein's resignation as a director. American Telephone resumed its rise of yesterday on favorable corporate rumors. Lorillard was briskly traded and up a sizable fraction in a firm tobacco group.

Major industrial groups did litle. After a fairly active opening the trading pace slowed. Chrysler and General Motors were about unchanged while Ford lost a bit. Bethlehem was steady and U. S. Steel up a fraction. Other major steels were about unchanged. Rails were mixed as Santa Fe eased. Pennsylvania Railroad and Baltimore & Ohio rose slightly.

United Aircraft was ahead about a point and Boeing a fraction. Allied Chemical fell close to a point while other chemicals held their ground or advanced a little. Oils were either unchanged or narrowly irregular. Royal Dutch was a fractional gainer. Standard Oil of Indiana was easy.

Other opening blocks included: U. S. Steel up ⅝ at 71½ on 4,000 shares; American Motors up ⅛ at 16⅝ on 4,000; Aluminum Ltd. up ⅝ to 29⅜ on 3,100; and Penn-Texas up ¼ to 7¼ on 4,200.

Heating Ordinance Gains Approval in Waterford

A warm air heating ordinance and the establishment of a heating inspector position and a fourman board was approved last night by Waterford Township board members, according to James Seeterlin, clerk.

The ordinance will become effective 30 days following the publication of a legal notice and will establish a board which will have the authority to issue licenses to heating contractors and reciprocate licenses with neighboring communities.

The recommendation to create such a board came from the township electrical board this spring.

The board accepted a bid from the Blaze Guard House Company to purchase 1,200 feet of 2½ inch fire hose and 400 feet of 1½ inch fire hose at a total cost of $1,872. The hose will be used on the new truck when it is purchased.

However the board rejected all other fire truck and fire apparatus bids. They will ask companies to rewrite specifications and bid on basis apparatus and additional equipment separately.

In other business, the board approved the tranfer of a liquor by the glass license from Warren Ryan to Richard and Felictey Mason, owners of the Jack O'Heart's Bar, 2585 Dixie Hwy.

A license for beer and wine take out business was approved for James W. and Hazel M. Smith, of 5392 Highland Rd., owners of a party store.

A soft drink license was also granted to the Do-Nut Shop located in the Pontiac Lake Shopping Center and owned by Mark Butler.

Curtiss-Wright to End Accord

Will Terminate Pact With S-P on Completion of Refinancing Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — Curtiss-Wright Corp. is ending its management agreement with Studebaker-Packard Corp. when it completes a refinancing program for the auto company.

Curtiss-Wright announced the plan yesterday. It said the refinancing program for Studebaker-Packard is expected to be announced in the near future. Its agreement with Studebaker-Packard was set up in 1956.

The Studebaker-Packard stockholders Protective Committee said in Detroit it would fight any plan requiring stockholders to "gamble away what remains of their investment."

Curtiss-Wright said that as part of the refinancing program for Studebaker-Packard it will buy remaining interest in real estate it has under lease from the auto firm. This includes properties in South Bend, Ind., and Utica, Mich.

Sol Dann, attorney for the Detroit group, said the group would oppose any agreement permitting Curtiss-Wright to "retain the benefits they received when they entered the Studebaker-Packard picture" without giving S-P stockholders an accounting of profits from assets taken from the auto firm.

Dann said these included defense contracts, plant facilities and the Aero Physics Corp.

Curtiss-Wright's announcement said that Studebaker-Packard has "designed, developed and tooled for the production of a new, high quality economical car for 1959."

Woman Hurt Slightly in Two-Car Collision

A Pontiac woman, Evelyn T. Deloof, 48, of 59 Monroe St., was treated for minor injuries at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released yesterday after being involved in a two-car collision, said Pontiac Police.

Discover Plans, Working Model of Strange Gun

GENOA, Italy (UPI)—A prototype of a 61-barrelled antiaircraft gun was discovered in an attic here yesterday, two years after the death of its inventor.

Police discovered the gun, which can fire 61 shells simultaneously, during an investigation of a dispute between Mrs. Anna Barioni, the inventor's widow, and a sailor.

She said her husband, Gino, designed the gun before World War II but never patented it. Police said the prototype and the plans would be examined by gun experts.

Barioni, a wealthy farmer, died in November 1956.

Importers of Foreign Delicacies Report Boom

Appetite for Fancy Food Still Around

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—America's taste for fancy food hasn't let the recession get in its way. Importers of foreign delicacies and domestic producers of specialties say that business today is booming.

They credit record sales volume to two trends: (1) increasing numbers of Americans go abroad each year and discover new foods they like; (2) entertaining at home also is on the increase and this usually calls for something special.

Harold Roth, president of the National Assn. for the Specialty Food Trade, estimates specialty food sales here will hit a new peak this year in excess of 70 million dollars wholesale. Last year's sales came to 60 million dollars, up 15 million from the previous year, and comparing with 39 million in 1955.

This is only a trifling part of the 75 billions or more Americans spend at the grocery each year but it's one of the fastest growing items on the market list.

Roth says that imported delicacies account for about two thirds of the total specialty food market. He cites annual imports of 50¾ million pounds of foreign-made cheese, nearly half a million pounds of breadsticks from Italy, not to mention the caviar, truffles, pate de foie gras, fillets of wild boar, canned snails, smoked mussels and prepared pigeons, grouse and partridge.

Americans also paid out 10¼ million dollars last year for imported candy and confectionery, compared with 8¾ million in 1955.

This nation's production of gourmet foods is growing also. In all parts of the nation are flourishing small businesses using either treasured home recipes of a traditional regional dish.

Store sales of fancy foods are fairly even over the year but pick up noticeably at Christmastime. Food processors have taken advantage of this by offering various combinations in Yuletide boxes.

Food of the Month clubs have sprung up. Fruit boxes have proved especially popular as Christmas gifts, the recipient being remembered once a month during the year, or on specially selected months with the fanciest of the particular fruit of the season.

Explains Threat to Freedom

Editor Says Mechanical Costs Pricing Papers Out of Existence

ATLANTA (AP) — Mounting costs of newspaper production may eventually price Americans out of their freedoms, a Macon editor said today.

Bert Struby, general manager of the Macon Telegraph and Macon News, said influences in newspapers plants are as serious a danger to their proper functioning as threats from without.

The Macon editor, in a speech prepared for the annual Eastern Mechanical Conference sponsored by the Southern Newspaper Publishers Assn., said:

"If we do not have better newspaper mechanical methods we may very tangibly restrict and restrain the flow of information in printed form and thereby suffer the results of an uninformed public which could ultimately capitulate to world totalitarian forces . . ."

He cited internal revenue service reports showing that out of 3,076 daily and weekly newspapers filing returns in 1956, more than one-fourth failed to make any net profit.

From 1930 to 1950, he added, 747 daily newspapers suspended operations. He listed the causes as limited sources of revenue, increaed operating costs and failure to achieve less expensive methods of production.

The major single cost, Struby said, is mechanical operations.

"Newspaper wage scales have steadily increased during postwar years with percentage increases comparable to U. S. industry as a whole. But perhaps in no other American industry has the productivity per man hour gained so slightly as in newspaper operations.

"Newspaper fechanical crafts are going to have to get more production per man-hour to keep pace with wage increases which have already been made.

"We have got to eliminate every instance of 'featherbedding'," he said.

Opera, Football Vie for Space at Interlochen

INTERLOCHEN (AP) — Opera and football jostled for space today at the National Music Camp at Interlochen.

Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, camp president and founder, announced establishment of a workshop in American opera beginning with the 1959 summer season. He named American opera coach Barre Hill managing director of the project.

Composer Don Gillis will be director of development.

Dr. Maddy said:

"Somehow, people in our country have not taken to opera like they have to band concerts and musical comedy. We want to find the reason."

Meanwhile, the camp is being readied for more than 1,400 Michigan high school bandsmen who will receive their first musical and marching formation training for opening of the 1958 football season.

The program is an annual event following the regular eight-week summer camp schedule of music and arts sessions for talented young performers.

New Delhi Gripped in Critical Drought

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A critical water shortage gripped New Delhi for the third day today as army engineers sought to bring the wandering Jumna River back within range of city pumping stations.

More than 3,500 laborers worked around the clock to dig connecting channels between the pumping stations and the river, which shifted course in the wake of monsoon floods. The river's level also dropped.

Water mains throughout the city were turned on for only brief periods in the morning and afternoon. Long lines of the capital's poor stood, buckets in hand, before the public taps.

Black market water was reported selling for up to a rupee—21 cents—a pail.

Pilot on Critical List After Plane Crashes

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — An Air Force pilot was injured critically when his two-engine plane crashed and burned on takeoff from Selfridge Air Force Base last night.

The pilot, Capt. Robert J. Grinder, stationed at Wright - Patterson AFB, Dayton, Ohio, suffered burns on his face and body.

An Air Force spokesman said Griner's light plane, an L27, plunged to the ground from about 50 feet in the air after one engine suddenly quit.

Three soldiers from a missile battalion beat out the flames that enveloped Griner and he was rushed to the base hospital.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MRS. Carl Ehrcke, who passed away 1 year ago yesterday August 18, 1957. Sadly missed by her children and beloved husband.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR beloved Husband & Father Henry Burch who passed away 4 years ago, Aug. 18.
A light is from our household gone.
A voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Some may think you are forgotten
Though on earth you are no more;
But in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
Sadly missed by Wife, Norine & Children.

IN MEMORY OF DUKE C. Greenway, who passed away August 19, 1950.
"There is a link death cannot sever.
Love and remembrance last forever.
And while he lies in peaceful sleep,
His memory we shall always keep."
Missed by Mother, Dad and family

HE'S FOR HUMOR — James Garner, star of ABC-TV's Maverick program, feels that the humor inserted in the Western series, is a major reason for its great popularity. He says that he's amazed at most historians of the West treating that period "like a wake."

Off-Beat Script Adding Sparkle

Show's Writers Realize Laughter Has Place on Old-Time Range

(The author of this column is the star of ABC-TV's Maverick program.)

By JAMES GARNER

NEW YORK (AP) — When I pause to think of the rich vein of humor the Maverick scripters have tapped to make the series a superior TV product, I'm amazed that most Western historians treated the post-Civil War period like a wake.

We'd been led to believe that 1870 frontiersmen generally had an almost fanatical aversion to any type of humor other than a practical joke. Our silent screen Westerns reflected this mistaken premise; so the kids grew up with the idea that Tom Mix, Bill Hart and Hoot Gibson were nurtured on undistilled sour mash.

Our producer, Roy Huggins, a Phi Beta Kappa with enviable writing credits and considerable skill as a researcher, couldn't go along with the theory.

Asked at the outset for a terse slogan for the series, he said: "An adult Western — with humor."

With that thought as a starting point, the writing craft was combed for dramatic writers gifted with humor — in distinction to comedy writers noted for building joke routines.

Actors? Well, all I can say is that I'm horribly miscast as Bret and Jack Kelly is a misfit as Bart if they were looking for performers to deliver the melancholy subtleties of psychological drama. We ain't the types.

It would be grossly unfair to any writer for me to take a hunk of his dialogue out of context to illustrate his over-all skill as a humorist, but instances do come sharply to mind to show, generally, the line of thought that bears fruit after Huggins has given a Maverick assignment to a writer.

As I write this, we're putting the finishing touches on a Maverick dubbed "The Day They Hanged Bret Maverick," and I hasten to add that the title doesn't denote the demise of the series.

Quite the opposite: It'll probably be the opening show for the new fall series over an expanded ABC-TV network of stations.

I'd be drawn and quartered if I gave away the plot of "Hanged," but I can assure you that the script by Douglas Heyes is well-larded with sardonic humor.

In one of the early shots, Maverick, the card expert, awaiting his execution is a moldy cell, is calmly cheating at solitaire. That's what you might term a "twist."

I'm sure our 1870 frontier ancestors resorted to off-beat or shaggy dog humor. It was the historians who took themselves seriously.

The Step Pyramid of Djoser, built about 2740 B.C. at Memphis, Egypt, is the oldest free-standing stone structure in the world.

Let's Watch Haircuts; Mrs. Don Larsen Does

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — How To Hold Your Husband: The Yankees' no-hit pitcher, Don Larsen, was accompanied to the Stage Barber Shop by his pretty bride, who remained while he got his locks trimmed by shearsman Lucito D'Agostino. My B. W. never went with me to the barber shop!

WILSON

Reminds me how Herb Shriner, talking of the days in Indiana, used to say "Back home on Saturday nights 'twas nuthin' for us to go down town and watch a few haircuts."

Peter Lind Hayes—whose ABC TV show starts Oct. 6—tells of the drunk who got lost and phoned for help. "Where are you?" asked his wife. He went and looked, then reported, "I'm right at the corner of Walk and Don't Walk".

Carol Channing phoned me from the Las Vegas Tropicana to say the customers demanded her "impersonation" of Grandma Marlene Dietrich and she's put it back in her act . . . She hopes Marlene—who'd objected—doesn't mind too much.

Roxanne Arlen of "Who Was That Lady?" went to Sardi's with Dress Designer Elgee Bove, one of the best dressed men, who's also bringing out a line. Because he was in shirt sleeves, he was halted and asked to put on a busboy's coat and tie — "usually worn," he was told, "by Tony Perkins" . . . El Rancho Vegas Headwaiter Arturo who feuded with a comedian, says he knows one "so hammy that if he were in a prison break he'd try to have the prison spotlight on him at all times."

ARLEN

The TV Beat and Offbeat: I got a sneak preview of the Ziv "World of Giants" TV show (about a man 6 inches tall) that's either going on or not going on CBS, according to whom you want to believe.

The 6-inch man, a U.S. agent shrunken by rocket rays behind the Iron Curtain and smuggled out, is carried in a briefcase by a normal U.S. agent. To him a cat's as menacing as a leopard; a falling pencil can crush him. Comedian Jack E. Leonard, quite a shrunken man himself, was intrigued with the acting of Marshall Thompson and asked, "Who's his tailor?"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Zsa Zsa Gabor was being interviewed by Jack Eigen in Chicago and declared she didn't want to marry again. "But what if you fell in love?" asked Eigen.

"I'd live in sin," flipped Zsa Zsa.

"You understand, ladies and gentlemen," hurriedly spoke up Joey Adams, who's starring with her at the Chez Paree, "Sin is the name of a small town in Hungary."

Copacabana comics Marty Allen and Mitch De Wood claim there's one Broadway type who might be called "the agreer." He agrees with everything. Sample dialogue:

Agreer: "That Frankie Laine's one of the nicest guys in show business. I worked with him. He's WONDERFUL!"

Pal: "I hear he's a jerk."

Agreer (nodding vigorously): "You know, I heard that."

EARL'S PEARLS: It's Taffy Tuttle's diet advice: "Watch your food. Don't eat it—just watch it."

band: "When his wife

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Definition of a henpecked husband: "When his wife talks in her sleep, he agrees with her."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Comic Joe E. Ross tells of the shopkeeper who was very succesful: "He had a fire in his store—and he didn't even need it."

A local guy says he's invented a drink for drivers who insist on one more for the road. It's a martini with a white line down the middle. That's earl, brother.

Three Lightning Bolts Damage British Plane

LONDON (UPI)—Three lightning bolts damaged a British European Airways Viscount carrying 45 passengers when it ran into a severe storm over western France yesterday.

Pilot John Cann made an emergency landing after the successive bolts cracked the windshield, damaged an engine cowling and knocked out the plane's navigation lights.

Nobody was hurt and the plane landed safely at Cognac in western France.

The passengers, who were returning from Majorca, were flown into London in another plane early today.

Middle age is when you want to see how long your car will last instead of how fast it will go . . . A good beginning, says H. C. Diefenbach, is usually half the bottle. —Earl Wilson.

Hal Boyle Says:

Lazy People Helping to Create a Fortune

NEW YORK (AP)—America has a 500-million-dollar annual industry built on laziness.

It is the greeting card industry. "It depends completely on the fact people are naturally lazy" said William D. Harris, "and that's why the business is going to last.

"People are going to get lazier and lazier. The greeting card appeals to this flaw in the human race. It saves them the trouble of sitting down and writing a note."

Bill, 41, slender, dark-eyed and energetic, is one of the brighter minds in the rapidly changing industry, and helped pioneer the humorous greeting card.

After his release from the Air Force in 1946, he invested all his $3,000 savings in a small greeting card firm. In a dozen years he built it to an annual volume of a million dollars.

"When I started," he recalled, "funny cards accounted only for about one per cent of the business. Mostly it was all hearts and flowers, ribbons and bows, satin and lace. Today 60 per cent of all cards are humorous."

Writing a hit greeting card is about as difficult as turning out a hit song.

Harris puts out some 200 new cards each year. He sifts through tens of thousands of contributed suggestions — "everybody in the country now seems to be writing greeting cards"—but buys only about 25. The other 175 he turns out himself, which makes him one of the most productive men in the industry.

Harris, son of Harry Harris, an old-time vaudeville performer, is an action man when it comes to humor. He has cards that pop, jump, wiggle, smoke and say "Merry Christmas."

One of his cards, when opened, shows a beating plastic heart. Another, when immersed in water, grows a small tree.

Although birthday cards are the best sellers, followed by Christmas and get-well cards, the fastest growing specialty in the field today is the "slam card."

"I resisted the trend for sometime, because I didn't really believe people wanted to send that kind of card," said Harris. "But they do. They're going over stronger all the time.

"One of our biggest sellers at Valentine is a card that simply says, 'Drop Dead.'"

There is also a big market for the "peacemaker card."

Example: A card saying "Forgive me," which when opened adds "I lost my head." It shows a man holding his head under one arm.

"There is now a specialty card for practically any occasion you can name," said Harris, "there's even a card to send to someone who owes you money."

The greeting card industry is one of the few that doesn't worry about bad times.

"It's a depression-proof business," said Harris happily. "If times get tough, instead of sending each other gifts, people will exchange 10-cent greeting cards."

Homicide Warrants Out for Two Motorists

PETOSKEY (AP) — Two negligent homicide warrants have been issued here for Ted J. Padgett, 30, of Petoskey, beverage truck driver, and Gene E. Sarns, 22, of Good Hart, driver of a station wagon, for two separate fatal accidents.

In both cases the two were accused of straddling the center line.

Son of J. Paul Getty Passes Away at 12

NEW YORK (AP) — Timothy Getty, youngest son of J. Paul Getty, who may be the richest man in America, is dead at 12.

The boy survived an operation for a brain tumor last year. He entered University Hospital last Thursday for plastic surgery to remove the scars of the operation.

He was feeling well Sunday night. Later that night his heart failed and he died, it became known yesterday.

With the boy was his mother, Louise Dudley Lynch Getty, who sang professionally under the name Teddy Lynch. She is divorced from the boy's father.

Timothy always had a thirst for music. An hour before he died his mother sang several of his favorite hymns to him.

Getty, an oil operator who spends much of his time in Europe, telephoned Timothy last Saturday. He called his son at least once a week no matter where he was.

The family notified Getty of the boy's death. The mother, who was Getty's fifth wife, left for California to make arrangements for burial.

Assailant Hurls Acid at Candidate in Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — An unknown assailant threw acid last night at presidential candidate Jorge Alessandri but the politician escaped injury.

The acid hurler was among about 200 persons who tried to break up a parade by the candidate and his supporters. Police drove off the attackers and arrested two of them.

The acid hit some of Alessandri's aides, burning their clothing.
