

Monday, June 1, 2009

Summer course in advanced art therapy counseling planned

Oakland University's School of Education and Human Services (SEHS) will offer "Advanced Art Therapy for Counseling Professionals," a hands-on seminar demonstrating visual strategies for providing services to family, group, couple and individual clients. The course is scheduled on Thursday and Friday evenings and Saturdays from June 11-13 and June 18-20 at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Center in Birmingham.

Leading the seminar will be Sylvia Walworth, a board certified art therapist with more than 25 years of clinical experience, including private practice, staff training and community service programming. She is past president of the Michigan Counseling Association, Michigan Counseling Association of Marriage and Family Counselors, and the Michigan Association of Adult Development and Aging.

Participants will learn about the Kinetic-House-Tree-Person, an art therapy projective assessment tool and how it can be utilized. Steps and materials needed to create masks and shields with clients will be presented and applied. Multicultural strategies will be emphasized. Artistic skills are not required. An audio course preview is available at www.oakland.edu/pd.

Registration is $395 if enrolled for non-credit, continuing education units. There also is an option to earn graduate credit. For more information, call (248) 370-3033 or e-mail to pdfirst@oakland.edu. Those interested in learning more also can listen to a course preview at www.oakland.edu/pd. The enrollment deadline is Wednesday, June 3.

SUMMARY

The School of Education and Human Services will offer a hands-on seminar demonstrating visual strategies for providing services to family, group, couple and individual clients.

Created by David Groves (groves@oakland.edu) on Monday, June 1, 2009
Modified by David Groves (groves@oakland.edu) on Monday, June 1, 2009
Article Start Date: Monday, June 1, 2009