UF Counting on Labor $$

Pontiac today looked to labor to help put the United Fund drive over the top.

More than 30,000 industrial workers are being asked for pledges to keep 54 UF-supported agencies running at full-peak next year.

UF leaders stressed that full participation in the drive is as important as the amount each person gives.

"If the [illegible] goal of $612,202 is to be reached by Nov. 16, it is equally important," Campaign Chairman Walter K. Willman said, "that everyone participate in the drive."

45 PER CENT IN

Willman spoke yesterday at the mid-campaign report luncheon, when it was announced the drive has reached $274,178, or 45 per cent of goal.

About [illegible] of this figure was raised by the Industrial Division, which is increasing efforts to get 100 per cent participation from workers.

A big part of the division's report yesterday was the $115,000 gift from General Motors Corp. This sum includes gifts from Pontiac Motor Division, GMC Truck & Coach Division and the Fisher Body Division.

To make up the rest of the quota, the UF must turn to small businesses and to the individual workers. Labor leaders are backing the plea for 100 per cent worker participation.

The first reports of pledges collected from factory workers was $72,300 announced yesterday by [illegible] Industrial Division chairman.

Mr. [illegible] expects further reports tomorrow and next week.

ASKED A LOT

The local labor force, he said, is asked to pledge $281,681 of his division's goal.

Salaried and hourly employes alike are being asked this year to give a minimum of $10.42 apiece. The figure, UF officials said, is comparable to pledges asked in UF drives across the country.

A little arithmetic shows, however, that 90 per cent participation or more is needed if workers are to meet the division's quota.

Praise yesterday went to two plants where workers went over quotas. Maxwell reported employes at American Forging and Socket Co. pledged $1,892 with a goal of $1,886.

At Universal Oil-Seal Co., where soliciting is 89 per cent complete, employes have topped their $958 goal with pledges totaling $1,221, Maxwell announced.

The luncheon yesterday also heard Special Gifts Chairman H. Wayne Gabert announce his torchlighters have gone over the top. With a quota of $68,483 sought from the community's big givers, solicitors have collected $68,820, he said.

NEARING HALF-WAY — A pretty miss knows that the Pontiac Area United Fund now stands at 45 per cent of its $612,202 goal. She is Hilda Schrubba, UF volunteer from Pontiac, who is filling in the three-week campaign thermometer in front of the county courthouse. UF leaders hope the thermometer will register over 100 per cent by Nov. 16, when the campaign is to end.

Call Emergency Session of U.N. Today in Crises

Ike, Top Aides Confer on Way to End Fighting, Keep U.S. Clear

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly was called into emergency session for 5 p. m. today to decide what to do about military attacks by Britain, France and Israel on Egypt.

President Eisenhower met with his top strategy advisers today in a search for a way to end the fighting in the Middle East without involving U. S. forces.

The Chief Executive presided at an expanded meeting of the National Security Council. The Joint Chiefs of Staff and the civilian secretaries of the Armed Services were present at the White House session this forenoon.

The U. N. Security Council voted 7-2 last night to summon the Assembly after Britain and France launched air and naval operations against Egypt with the announced aim of occupying the Suez Canal zone and halting the Israeli-Egyptian fighting.

Less than 24 hours earlier Britain and France had vetoed U. S. and Soviet resolutions in the council for a cease-fire in Egypt and withdrawal of Israeli troops.

Under the resolution introduced by Yugoslavia, the special session of the 76-nation Assembly will consider recommendations to U. N. members for collective measures, including "the use of armed force when necessary."

Less drastic steps could include

Class Time Cut for Romeo Kids

Three Romeo high school boys were not allowed to attend classes yesterday because of unacceptable haircuts, school officials reported today.

High school principal Harold F. Barr and Supt. T. C. Filppula had previously said the situation "has been cleared up".

One boy was readmitted after a visit to the barber shop yesterday, and the other two were back in classes this morning, with haircuts.

Israeli Forces Attack on Sinai Peninsula

TROOPS ADVANCE — Israeli forces advance up a barren hill in a drive across Egypt's Sinai Peninsula toward the Suez Canal. The photograph above was released today in Tel Aviv by an Israeli Army force which did not indicate when or where it was taken. The spokesman also said that forces in the Sinai theater have enlarged their field of action.

Attackers Hit Airfields With Nonstop Raids

Israelis Say Nasser's Troops Are Retreating on Sinai Peninsula

LONDON (AP) — British and French planes carried on nonstop attacks on Egyptian airfields today and Cairo announced attacking aircraft sank an Egyptian warship in the Suez Canal —blocking traffic and cutting off oil shipping to Europe.

Cairo said British and French warplanes raided Egyptian troops at crossing points along the canal and in the operation sank the Egyptian warship Akka in Timsah Lake just south of Ismailia, midway point of the canal.

Britain and France launched military operations against President Nasser's regime last night with the declared purpose of protecting the Mideast waterway from fighting swirling between Egyptian and Israeli forces in the Sinai Peninsula.

The Egyptians gave out no official information today on the fighting with Israeli troops. But the Israelis claimed Egyptian troops were in retreat and would soon be cut off in the Sinai Peninsula.

Even before Egypt announced blocking of the canal, shipping was reported turning back from its approaches because of danger from military operations.

Egypt asked other Arab states to block another source for Middle East oil—the pipelines from the main production centers to Mediterranean ports.

Egypt broke off diplomatic relations with Britain and France. Jordan broke relations with France.

ALARMS SOUNDED

Cairo dispatches said five air raid alarms sounded in Cairo up to early afternoon, and Egyptian military headquarters claimed six British planes were shot down over the Nile delta.

Troops of the two Western nations had not showed up in the area of operations, but their landing on Egyptian soil was expected.

British planes with cannon and rocket fire were reported in official announcements here and at Cyprus, their base, to be striking hard at five Egyptian airfields in the Suez zone and Nile delta in an effort to destroy Nasser's Soviet-built MIG air force on the ground.

British pilots said they had destroyed 14 Egyptian planes on the ground, including Soviet MIG15 fighters. The pilots said they had encountered almost no resistance.

Cobo Is Lying or Ignorant, Williams Says

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On the Michigan scene, Gov. Williams, running for his fifth term on the Democratic ticket, said yesterday his Republican opponent, Detroit Mayor Cobo is either "ignorant or guilty of deliberate misrepresentation" in saying the governor failed to help bring natural gas to Michigan.

"I testified before the Federal Power Commission in an attempt to get more gas and so did Cobo," Williams said. "I fail to see how he could accuse me of failing to help."

Cobo who introduced Vice President Nixon to a Detroit rally did not make a major address. But Republican John B. Martin Jr., running for secretary of state, hit out at Williams on the educational front.

Martin disputed that the governor's recommendations are responsible for increased salaries for faculty members at Michigan State University. He said the recommendations came from John Hannah, university president, and this recommendation, he said, was made directly to the Legislature.

Martin, speaking to Michigan State's Men's Club, said some 67 million dollars appropriated in the past seven years for capital improvements at Michigan's higher educational institutions also came from recommendations of educators to the Legislature.

Campaign Centers on Mideast

Ike Vows to Sidestep War, Adlai to Answer Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, reportedly planning new jabs at Adlai E. Stevenson, returns to the campaign platform tonight in Philadelphia for further discussion of the Middle East crisis.

In a television-radio address to be carried coast to coast by NBC the President may have something to say about a contention by Stevenson, his Democratic opponent, that "the world is on the brink of war again" because, Stevenson said, Eisenhower's "foreign policies in the Middle East have been disastrous."

Time of the address is 9:30 p.m., Pontiac time.

Stevenson made his statement in a campaign speech in Pittsburgh last night, and contended again, as he had earlier in New York, that the Eisenhower administration "bears heavy responsibility" for the situation.

U. S. TO DUCK

In a nationwide TV-radio address from Washington last night, a talk the White House termed "nonpolitical," Eisenhower said the United States will avoid "involvement" in the present Middle East fighting.

Eisenhower's Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said that at the time Eisenhower went on the air he had not seen a telegram from Stevenson expressing hope "that you will not commit us to any precipitate military action."

In announcing that the President will discuss the Middle East situation further tonight, Hagerty

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson canceled two upstate New York addresses today to fly into New York City for a nationwide television - radio talk on his theme that Eisenhower administration policies "have brought the whole world to the brink of war."

The Democratic standard-bearer called off political talks scheduled for Syracuse and Rochester, N.Y., but planned to go ahead with a speech set for 9:30 at a big night rally in Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium.

He intends to fly to Buffalo after delivering the telecast speech in New York.

Roger Tubby, assistant Stevenson press secretary, first announced that all three upstate New York talks were out, but later said Stevenson would keep his Buffalo engagement.

PLANS CHANGE

The hostilities in Egypt virtually crowded out all other issues in Stevenson's strategy as he entered the final stage of a campaign which finds him seeking to seize the initiative on the "peace issue."

Stevenson's campaign staff awaited word from the major television and radio networks on his request for free time to reply to President Eisenhower's 15-minute talk last night on the crisis in the Middle East.

Eisenhower spoke from Washington at 7 p.m. and Stevenson would like to go on the air at about the same time.

The announcement here that the Democratic presidential nominee will leave Pittsburgh at 2 p.m. for New York City indicated that he will make his TV reply to Eisenhower even if the Democratic par-

Nasser Promises Village-to-Village 'Last Drop' Fight

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — In a fighting speech to his people, President Nasser of Egypt promised today "we will fight from village to village, from place to place," until Egypt wins victory.

In a 20-minute broadcast heard in Beirut, Nasser pledged he would fight "to the last drop of my blood" to secure Egyptian independence.

"Every one of you is a soldier," he declared. "Arms have been distributed to everyone able to carry them. We shall fight hard. We shall never give up. We shall fight from village to village from place to place. We shall be victorious."

Last Babsonpoll Indicates Ike Is in Again

The final tabulation of the nationwide Babsonpoll indicates President Eisenhower will be re-elected Nov. 6.

The Babsonpoll originated in 1932 and was extremely accurate that year and in 1954.

Assuming the relatively small undecided vote will divide equally, Babsonpoll analysts say Ike will get about 52 per cent of the vote cast for the two major candidates.

This would give the President a plurality of about 2.3 million, substantially less than the 6½ million he was given in 1952.

SWING TO ADLAI

Statistics show 12 per cent of those who voted for Eisenhower in 1952 intend to support Stevenson, while 7½ per cent of 1952 Stevenson voters have switched to Eisenhower.

Late tabulations indicate a growing interest in the independent candidacy of T. Coleman Andrews, whose name appears on the ballot in 14 states and who may be supported by write-in votes in a number of other states.

While Babsonpoll findings show no more than a token Andrews vote in any of these areas, his candidacy could be a factor in determining the winner in some states. Andrews appears to be drawing his support principally from former Eisenhower voters — in some cases by a ratio of 6 to 1.

In the Babsonpoll a state is listed "safe" if the leading candidate is likely to receive 52 per cent or more of the combined vote of the two major candidates.

A "leaning" state is one in which one candidate appears to be leading with 51 per cent to 52 per cent of the combined vote. States in the 49 per cent to 51 per cent classification are listed as "tossup."

On that basis, here is the way the race looks:

Safe for Eisenhower — Calif., Colo., Conn., Idaho, Ind., Kan., Maine, Mich., Mont., Neb., N. H. N. J., N. Y., N. D., Ohio, Ore., S. D., Vt., Wis. and Wyo. (228 electoral votes).

Leaning to Eisenhower — Ariz., Ill., Iowa, Md., Minn., Nev. and Pa. (96 electoral votes).

Safe for Stevenson — Ala., Ark., Ga., La., Miss., Mo., N. C., R. I., S. C., Ten., Tex. and W. Va. (131 electoral votes).

Leaning to Stevenson — Del. and Ky. (13 electoral votes).

Tossup states — Fla., Mass., N. M., Okla., Utah, Va. and Wash. (63 electoral votes).

If Eisenhower should take his safe and leaning states, he would have an electoral-vote count of 324. Stevenson's safe and leaning states have 144 electoral votes.

Assuming Ike will get an even break in the tossup states, his final electoral-vote would be about 356 — to 175 for Stevenson.

To reach an electoral-vote majority of 266, Stevenson would have to win all of his safe and leaning states, all of the tossup states, and 59 additional electoral votes in the Eisenhower leaning column. In the latter group, Illinois and

Oakland Dems Set Last Rallies

Winding Up Campaign With Four Meetings and Torchlight Parade

Oakland County Democrats this week are winding up their campaign for the home stretch.

With the general election only five days off, candidates and workers have scheduled three candidates' rallies, organized attendance at an Adlai Stevenson rally in Detroit, and a torchlight parade on election eve.

Rallies tonight will be held in Royal Oak Women's Club and in Bushman Hall in Lake Orion. Another will be held tomorrow night in the Waterford Township CAI Building.

Missing no bets, a State Central Committee instructor will conduct a class for ballot challengers tonight at 8 p.m. in Democratic headquarters in Pontiac's Roosevelt Hotel. All Democratic election workers have been urged to attend.

According to the State Central Committee, county Democrats are organizing a caravan of cars and chartered buses to parade to the Stevenson rally tomorrow night in the Fox Theater, Detroit.

The presidential candidate's speech, preceded by a special variety show, will be piped to standees outside the theater over loudspeakers.

Democrats have been told to "bring your own flashlight" to the election eve torchlight parade in South Oakland County.

To be led by Gov. G. Mennen Williams, the parade will start on Woodward Avenue at Greenlaf Street and head north on Woodward to 12 Mile Road, turning west to the Carpenter's Hall in Berkley.

Ike Rules Out U. S. Forces for Mideast

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, having ruled out use of U. S. armed forces in the present Middle East fighting, looked to the United Nations today to find a way of solving "this tormenting problem."

"In the past," the President said in a radio-TV broadcast to the nation last night, "the United Nations has proved able to find a way to end bloodshed. We believe it can and will do so again."

He said the United States would "do all in its power to localize the fighting and to end the conflict."

He said the U. N. General Assembly should be able to bring "the opinion of the world" to bear on the situation created by Israel's attack on Egypt and British-French intervention.

CHIDES ALLIES, ISRAEL

He chided Britain, France and Israel but added that all had been provoked by Egyptian actions.

He said he has no plan to call a special session of Congress. But he promised to maintain close contact with congressional leaders.

A few hours before Eisenhower spoke, the State Department banned travel by U. S. citizens into Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Syria except where a trip is determined to be in this country's "best interests."

The department announced also that 1,888 Americans had been evacuated from the same four countries by late yesterday afternoon, and that by its count 4,878 Americans remained. It said the Air Force and units of the 6th Fleet are aiding in the evacuation.

WARN SHIPS

The Maritime Administration, meanwhile, advised all U. S. merchant ships to avoid the Suez Canal area until the Middle East situation is clarified.

Eisenhower described the tangled situation in his speech, and then said: "In the circumstances I have described, there will be no United States involvement in these present hostilities."

Eisenhower declared that the Israeli, British and French decisions to attack Egypt were decisions "taken in error."

Yet to say that the U. S. government considers the British, and Israeli actions wrong, Eisenhower declared, "is in no way to minimize our friendship with these nations — nor our determination to maintain those friendships."

"For we are fully aware of the grave anxieties of Israel, of Britain and of France," he went on. "We know that they have been subjected to grave and repeated provocations."

He said the Middle East situation is not one "that calls for extravagant fear or hysteria."

After saying that Egypt had provided "repeated provocations" to Israel, Britain and France, he continued:

AGAINST U.N.

"The present fact, nonetheless, seems clear: the actions taken can scarcely be reconciled with the principles and purposes of the United Nations to which we have all subscribed. And, beyond this, we are forced to doubt that resort to war will for long serve the permanent interests of the attacking nations."

"In all the recent troubles in the Middle East," he said, "there have indeed been injustices suffered by all nations involved. But I do not believe that another instrument of injustice — war — is the remedy for these wrongs.

"There can be no peace — without law. And there can be no law — if we were to invoke one code of international conduct for those who oppose us — and another for our friends."

* * *

Earlier in his speech, Eisenhower said that "in Eastern Europe there is the dawning of a new day."

* * *

"If the Soviet Union faithfully acts upon its announced intention," he said, "the world will witness the greatest forward stride toward justice, trust and understanding among nations in our generation."

* * *

He reaffirmed U. S. readiness to assist the new governments of Hungary and Poland with economic help.

Gasoline Price Drops One Cent

Local Filling Stations Pass On Wholesale Cut to Consumers

Consumer gasoline prices have been cut one cent per gallon at the majority of filling stations in the Pontiac area, John W. Nerlinger Jr., executive secretary of the Retail Gasoline Dealers Assn. of Michigan, said today.

Retail prices dropped to 32.2 cents for regular and 35.2 for premium.

The decrease is part of a one-cent drop passed from wholesalers to retailers.

Standard Oil Co. started the price cuts Monday and was followed by the Shell Oil Co. and Pure Oil Co.

Latest to cut prices were Economy Oil Co., Sun Oil Co., Speedway Petroleum Corp., Gulf Oil Co., the Texas Co., Sinclair Refining Co. and the Socony Mobil Oil Co.

COST TO DEALERS

The new prices to the dealers for regular gasoline will be 16.3 cents per gallon, and 18.8 for premium.

James C. Clarke, president of the Clarke Oil Co., distributor for 30 Marathon stations in the county, said, although the retail prices are controlled by the dealers, he expected all would "go along with the price cut to the motorist."

Nerlinger said the decrease was based on Standard's explanation that it was a readjustment of the wholesale cost in keeping with economic conditions.

Area Firm Sold for $65 Million

Baltimore Co. Purchases Dearborn Motors Credit of Birmingham

The Commercial Credit Co. of Baltimore, Md., announced it has acquired the former Dearborn Motors Credit Corp. of Brimingham, for approximately $65 million.

The company said yesterday it formed a new subsidiary to acquire the receivable accounts of the former Dearborn Motors Firm, and has given the new subsidiary the same name as the old firm.

The new Dearborn Motors Credit Corp. will carry on its operations as a separate unit, specializing in the financing of tractors and farm equipment, the announcement said.

The Commercial Credit Co. release said operating personnel of the old company "will be retained and augmented by employes from subsidiaries of Commercial Credit Co.

Plans have been made to expand the operations of the new company in order to afford a full integrated service for tractor and farm machinery distributors and dealers throughout the United States."

Election Slows New Building

Bloomfield Inspector Says Permits Down One-Third

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Building permits have taken a drop by one third of their usual total in this township, in the last two weeks, and is blamed by Building Inspector Carl Rhodes on prospective home buyers waiting for the Nov. 6 election.

"'We'll just wait and see whether Ike or Adlai wins!' they're saying," Rhodes reports.

There are only about 25 unsold homes on hand among the new home builders in the township, he estimates, with five in the $40,000 to $60,000 bracket, and 20 in the $30,000 bracket.

Last week about 20 permits were issued, about two-thirds of the normal, Rhodes says.

Most of those waiting for election returns to resume building are project home owners. However, one project-home subdivision sold their two model homes last week in a spurt of sales.

Two homes in process are in the $150,000 bracket, Rhodes says, while this year's sales have included one that cost $300,000.

This year's totals are above average, with 885 homes built, according to a total taken yesterday by Supervisor Arno Hulet.

"We're having more homes built here this year than in any year in the last ten," Hulet said.

Cranbrook Show of Theater Prints to Open Saturday

An exhibit of 40 modern and contemporary prints of the theater, ballet and circus will go on display at the Cranbrook Academy of Arts, beginning Saturday afternoon and continuing on weekends throughout November.

The prints, more than half of which are in color, are from the George Binet collection, and interpret the world of stage and arena in graphic art.

A wide range of nationalities are included in these works which constitute a survey of printmaking in Europe and America. The pictures are from works by famous artists of America, France, Spain, and Italy.

The exhibit will be open to the public Saturdays and Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m. Large groups may arrange to see it on weekdays by contacting the art academy office. There will be no admission charge.

Linda Mitchell, 9, Wins Bike as Halloween Prize

Nine-year-old Linda Mitchell is glad she stayed home on Halloween night.

Today Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Mitchell, 33 Miami Rd., is the proud owner of a spanking-new bicycle—at least she will be when the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce makes a switch.

The Jaycees had purchased a boy's bike as top prize in the grade school division of the 1956 "Mystery Treat Contest," which they co-sponsor along with the Parks and Recreation Dept. and the Board of Education.

The Jaycees are making the necessary change while Linda waits patiently to show off her prize to the kids in the neighborhood.

The happy winner is in the fourth grade at Webster School.

CALLED OUT OF BED

The bike went to Linda as she was at home—and in bed—when the Jaycees called her. Her card had been pulled from thousands at the drawings in the City Hall for 67 prizes donated by the Jaycees.

Other winners and prizes in the grade school division were: Radio, Lorna May Beals, 10, 1220 Taylor Rd.; five silver dollars, William Rodriquez, 9, 153 Raeburn St.

Winners in the senior high class were: Wrist watch, Ken Kendale, 17, 566 Lowell St.; pen and pencil set, Rosalie Reynolds, 16, 156 S. Tilden Ave.; and five silver dollars to Theresa Couture, 15, 75 Court Dr.

JUNIOR HIGH WINNERS

In the junior high division: Wrist watch, Judy LaBarge, 13, 603 E. Tennyson Ave.; pen and pencil set, John Gallardo, 13, 299 N. Paddock St.; and five silver dollars to Richard Godwin, 13, of 145 Washington St.

In addition, there were some 54 other children who received silver dollars for staying home last night.

Leonard T. Buzz, recreational director for the city department, termed the program "very successful."

Lyle Root was chairman of the contest for the Jaycees.

She Didn't Think Oldster 'Fresh' —So They'll Wed

OMAHA (AP)—William B. O'Keefe, 81 years a bachelor, is getting married.

It was an old-fashioned comb that 70-year-old Mrs. Mable F. Cree wore to a church meeting that started O'Keefe on the way to the altar.

He related, "The comb was coming loose and I was saying to myself 'Shall I tell her or will she think I'm fresh. I decided to tell her."

They "dated" for three years before O'Keefe asked, "How about an engagement ring?" Mrs. Cree recalled "I was very elated!"

Human Porcupine

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — "I've had so many transfusion needles in me I feel like a porcupine," said Lloyd Smith, 39, of Minneapolis, after he received 37 pints of whole blood and 218 units of fresh frozen plasma in six weeks. Smith, who underwent stomach surgery, needed the transfusions because his blood lacked essential clotting factors.

An average college student reads 24.8 books a year, according to a study made in Ohio state.

Winter Is Time for Big Sleep

Hibernation Is Still Among Big Mysteries in Animal Life

WASHINGTON — As the days grow chilly, a mysterious force within certain creatures seems to say: "Well, it's just about time to go underground for a good long rest."

The big sleep—a state of suspended animation—is nature's way of tiding vulnerable animals over the lean cold days of winter, the National Geographic Society says. Men, who lengthen their own days with artificial light and often appear bent on crowding 13 months into each year, call it hibernation. But they do not know how it happens.

NATURE BANKS FIRES

Take the woodchuck. Having made a storage locker of its body, the rodent stows away a snack of green fodder on the slim chance it may wake up hungry before spring. Then the drowsy animal seals its burrow, rolls into a furry ball, and goes into a trance. Pulse and breathing approach the vanishing point.

Seemingly dead, the woodchuck sleeps month after month like a slow-burning lamp that needs almost no fuel.

Ground squirrels, hedgehogs, badgers, bats, and dormice also find cozy hideaways for the winter, as do bears, snakes, turtles, frogs, spiders, mosquitoes, crayfish, snails and some worms.

Some of nature's sleepyheads take astonishingly long naps. One classic case confounded the British Museum. Four years after the presumably empty shell of an Egyptian desert snail was mounted on a card, the snail crawled out, hungry but none the worse, for wear.

FEW TRUE HIBERNATORS

Few of the sleepyheads are true hibernators. Bears, for instance, sleep in a normal state in dark snug dens, consuming the fat stored up in their bodies during a summer eating spree. Mother bears give birth to cubs during the twilight sleep.

True hibernators, a small group of northern mammals, undergo radical physical changes that are baffling. Body functions virtually cease. So low is the flame of life that a hedgehog survived a 22½-minute-long dunking in water. Woodchucks and bats, sleeping through laboratory tests, have lived for four hours in deadly carbon dioxide.

Significantly, the hibernators seem to have trouble maintaining stable body heat even in summer. In hibernation they become, in effect, cold-blooded creatures.

Their body temperatures remain only a few degrees above that of the surrounding air, the two rising and falling together. As a safeguard, nature provides a built-in thermostat that awakens the unconscious animal if freezing should threaten.

Now and then, researchers find clues to the riddle of hibernation. Two scientists at the University of Wisconsin have found that hibernators have hyper-irritable hearts. This condition sets the heart throbbing at the slightest stimulus and keeps it going when the body heat drops to a level that no other animal could long withstand.

Birds don't hibernate, as a rule. In 1946, however, biologist Edmund C. Jaeger found a poorwill ensconced in a rock cleft in California's Chuckwalla Mountains. The sleeping bird was watched through four winters in its rocky nest.

Sullivan Show Brings Elvis' Usual Crowds

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Perhaps some of you young ladies will wish a lock of my crew cut now that I have personally, and in the presence of bona-fide witnesses, touched Elvis Presley.

Not too many requests, please, for the locks of my crew cut are limited. However . . .

Well, it occurred in Ed Sullivan's dressing room, 10 minutes after his TV show. Ed was just leaving.

But Elvis and some of his Dixie-talking buddies were staying around, waiting for the crowd to thin, so Elvis could escape with his sideburns intact.

ELVIS

"How we gonna get out of here?" Elvis was asking as he nervously roamed the big room.

"Through the basement," the fellow answered.

Out on the steps his cousin, friend and watchdog, Gene Smith, who also has sideburns, was waiting for news that the crowd was melting a little so he could try it. But it wasn't melting.

"Where's Tom Parker?" I asked Elvis, referring to his manager.

"Probably down in the lobby selling pictures," Elvis smiled, paying in this way a nice tribute to the Colonel's money-making propensity.

They say it's "Cunnel Tom" who's made Elvis a potential millionaire at only 21.

"Ed let you go a little more with the hips this show," I remarked. "But it seemed fine to me."

"Oh, I didn't do anything vulgar!" Elvis spoke up quickly. "Listen," he turned to one of his buddies, "what time we got to shoot that picture tomorrow?"

"I hate to tell you," replied the one addressed. "You got to be up at 6:30. We better rush that basement right now."

"Come on, let's go!" Elvis sang out. Like a football team dashing out onto the field, we all swept down into the basement, under the stage, and then to the door leading onto Broadway where some cops, seeing us coming, cleared the way. Elvis pierced the crowd expertly, wriggling out of squealing little girl's hands, and dived into a taxicab that shot away.

There was a moan and a groan from the fans and a few picked themselves up off the sidewalk onto which they had been upset in the rush.

And that's the way it is almost every time Elvis goes anywhere. I imagine it could, in a few years, grow irksome.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Jackie Gleason and Marilyn Taylor, sister of June Taylor, were together again (after a lot of months apart) . . . The "Oklahoma" sign several stories high on the Mayfair Theater has a misspelling . . . Jayne Mansfield, who starts "Wayward Bus" next Monday, is dating three guys in Hollywood now—Nick Ray, Robert Wagner and Mickey Hargitay.

Tommy Dorsey's son Steven, 4, sang "Hot Diggety" all the way through the other night from the bandstand . . . Audrey Meadows gets out of things by saying, "I can't . . . my sister's pregnant."

Fess Parker got $100,000 richer out of Davy Crockett . . . Now that he's skinny, Fat Jack E. Leonard salutes other people, "Hi, Fat Man!"

Earl's Pearls . . .

It's when a woman hasn't been to the hairdresser for two weeks," says Bob Olin, "that she shows her true colors."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "When I was a sailor and had been at sea 18 months, we were so eager for girls, we used to stand in line to dance with a mop."—Bob Sweeney on CBS TV.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "The average wife wears nylons in zero weather—but still requires 90 per cent of the blanket."—Lou Apuzzo.

A famous Hollywood Producer, says Bill Haley, told his talent scouts, "Will you please go out and find me a new star to discover" . . . That's earl, brother.

Mule Skips Town

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Policeman C. J. Simpson tried to enforce an ordnance prohibiting stray mules.

The mule kept out of reach during a long chase and finally trotted over the city limit line where he was out of reach of the Durham ordnance. Said Simpson's official report:

"When said mule left city, I stopped."

Tokyo, Twice Razed, Flourishes With Over 8 Million People

WASHINGTON — Tokyo, one of the world's largest cities, is hardly ten years old. Yet it is celebrating its 500th anniversary.

Disaster explains the paradox. Twice in the 20th century, the capital of Japan has been physically reduced to rubble. Two decades after the great earthquake of 1923, the fire bombings of World War II leveled 55 square miles. But like the legendary phoenix, Tokyo, each time, has risen strong and fully grown from its ashes.

The incarnate city is spilling along the many-spanned Sumida River and Tokyo Bay, the National Geographic Society says. Needle-like television towers punctuate the down town skyline of steel-and-concrete office buildings.

The population, unofficially estimated to be about 8,250,000, totaled 6,2777,500 when counted in 1950.

ALONG THE GINZA

Always a gay flamboyant city, the modern capital preserves the old personality. At night a madness of light colors the Ginza, the oriental cousin of New York's Broadway. Along Tokyo's great white way, shops display handsome silks, brocades, kimonos, lacquer ware, cloisonne, and artfully made paper toys.

Come what may, young Tokyo in modern dress carries on the old custom of ginbura—a coined word meaning "wandering along the Ginza.

Entire families still turn out to spend a happy day exploring a fine new department store or take a picnic supper to the world-famous Kabuki theater.

A few landmarks remain—the moats and massive walls of the Imperial Palace, scattered Shinto shrines, park remnants of old estates, and the kura or treasure houses where valuables can be cached in the event of fire.

Since its earliest days the former fishing village of Yedo has considered fire and earthquakes as a certainty of life, like death and taxes. Flames broke out so often that they were called the "red flowers of Yedo."

History does not mention Yedo until the 12th century. The village didn't really get on the map until an ambitious warlord built a castle there in 1456. After considerable fighting, the warrior mastered the province and made Yedo the local capital.

SEAT OF THE SHOGUNS

Ultimately, it became the seat of the Tokugawa family of shoguns, who ruled Japan for two and a half centuries. The Yedo of that era had a ready-made population, for each ruling shogun surrounded himself with some 80,000 swashbuckling retainers and forced all the feudal barons to keep their families there as hostages. By the end of the 18th century, Yedo was one of the largest if most secluded cities in the world.

After Commodore Perry lifted Japan's bamboo curtain, the Emperor Meiji overthrew the shogunate (1868) and restored the royal dynasty.

He moved the court from Kyoto—now a museum piece—to bustling Yedo and changed its name to Tokyo or "eastern capital."

Today's Tokyo is a world crossroads. The stock exchange is booming; hotels and restaurants are filled with patrons. Streets named for flowers and birds also bear such mundane but helpful designations as "A Avenue." Among other recent innovations are coffee houses and pinball machines.

Beyond the noisy bustle, however, the heart of old Tokyo beats in ceremonial teahouses and serene little wooden houses with gray-tile roofs. And though the walls are new, one can still awaken to a temple bell.

Is Board Justified in Courthouse Planning?

The Press last week published a series of articles describing how the Oakland County Board of Supervisors has gone about its plans to build a new courthouse. These articles brought out considerable information previously unknown to most county residents.

The county reports that it will have sufficient money to pay for the first unit by the time work is completed. There are some who question this. These critics maintain that, since the supervisors have already spent the one-tenth of a mill levied in the past few years on other buildings, they cannot now say they will be spending it for the new courthouse.

The supervisors say the money has been replaced by surpluses from other funds. Admittedly there is room for difference of opinion here, but since this switching of funds has been regular procedure over a considerable period of years, The Press is inclined to go along with the supervisors' viewpoint, but more about this fund switching later.

The Press believes that the county supervisors have done well generally in the way they have set about building a new courthouse. It believes their statement that the county's financial operations have been conducted honestly.

The Press regrets, however, that the supervisors have felt it necessary to violate the law in some past years by spending more than a tenth of a mill on capital improvements. We believe that, at the very least they should have gone to the legislature first in an effort to have this limitation changed. And there is room for argument whether some of the new buildings were so badly needed, as the supervisors contend, that they could not take time to go to the public for authorization. Certainly elected public officials should always set an example of observance of the law.

The Press agrees that this limitation was unreasonably low for a county the size of Oakland which was facing unusually rapid growth. When the county did go to Lansing this year, the Legislature changed the law, so that hereafter any budget surpluses may legally be placed in the building fund. Thus this question presumably will not arise again.

There has been criticism of the way money has been switched from one fund to another. The supervisors defend this action on the grounds that by so doing they have saved the taxpayers thousands of dollars in interest by avoiding outside borrowing. In effect the county has borrowed from itself.

So long as this switching of funds is done to save money and never is done for any other purpose, The Press believes the procedure may be justified, if it is legal. However, the practice easily could be carried to excess.

Honest public officials should always bear in mind that there might some day be less honest men in office and precaution should be taken to see that practices are not inaugurated which would make it easy to hide dishonesty.

We have two suggestions regarding the county's financial operations which we believe might help to protect the county from future criticism. One is a simplification in its accounting procedure. The second is more open conduct of the county government, with a complete realization on the part of every official that the public is entitled to full knowledge of what is going on at all times.

The county budget at present is set up in such a way that there is a departmental budget and a non-departmental budget. In addition there are other county operations that never appear in the budget, revolving funds that the public, and apparently even some supervisors, hardly know exist.

Meetings of the Board of Supervisors always have been open to press and public. But some meetings of the Ways and Means Committee of the board, for example, have been closed.

This does not promote a feeling of confidence in the mind of the public.

Surely, if the county's business is being conducted honestly, and The Press believes it is, then there should be no objection to conducting all of it openly.

However, in fairness to the supervisors it must be remembered that Oakland County is a big, heavily populated area, facing metropolitan problems with a governmental and financial setup designed to serve counties of a few thousand population. Considering this handicap, the county officials have done a remarkable job and are entitled to much more praise than censure.

The Man About Town

They're Fed Up

Have Had Enough Politics to Last Another 4 Years

Democracy: Where a person too lazy to vote has the right to beef about the officials elected.

In perambulating around the Pontiac area, which is the principal occupation of MAT, he finds that our people are sick and tired of politics. They've been harangued, cajoled, jollied, wisecracked, coaxed, bluffed, flattered, orated, begged, wheedled, ranted, bantered, bogied, duped, anaestheticised, beguiled, praised, condemned, censored, lectured, warned, windjammed and lied to until they wonder how the greatest nation on earth ever got that way.

Thanks to their good sense, none of them are frightened. They're so disgusted that some of the recent political meetings had a bigger attendance of office seekers than of spectators. They've had enough—and then some. They've made up their minds. All they want is to be let alone. Any boiling over of political fantasy between now and Tuesday will be a boomerang on the politician that perpetrates it.

Pontiac Kiwanians are staging a rummage sale, and

Jack Niggeman,

That Stuff's Dangerous Too, Boys!

U. S. Stuck in Mideast Squeeze

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's attempt to balance the Middle East picture — by criticizing the British, the French, the Israelis and the Egyptians — put a spotlight on this country's critical dilemma.

But it is only part of the problem unleashed by the British-French attack on Egypt.

Top government officials are privately very angry at the British and French. But the United States needs its two allies, as they need the United States, for defense against Russia.

In his speech to the nation last night Eisenhower tried to keep the way smooth for retaining the alliance. He chided the British and French for what they did. But he did not speak harshly of them.

And, while criticizing this country's friends, he also blamed Egyptian President Nasser for aggravating them.

But the Arabs have ears too. No Arab can ever be expected to forget the attack on Egypt this week by the French and British, who acted like the colonial powers which they were and are.

Already the Russians are accusing the United States of being in cahoots with the British, French and Israelis in the attack on Egypt.

Unless they can be convinced the United States does not condone the attack, the people of the Middle East will have no reason ever to trust a Western power again.

The people of Africa and Asia, newly freed from colonialism, will be watching the United States also.

This country attempted in the U.N. Security Council to block the French-British attack this week. The French and British blocked the United States with a veto. Now the case goes to the U.N. General Assembly.

What the United States does there to get U.N. action of some kind against the British and French will be under scrutiny everywhere. Yet, if the United States acts too strongly, it may wreck its alliance with Britain and France.

The people of Asia and Africa have reason to distrust the British and French from now on. It's not difficult for them to see themselves someday in the present position of Egypt.

But if they lose faith in the United States, they will have no powerful ally to turn to except Russia. The Arabs may well turn to Russia now no matter what the United States does.

Russian penetration and domination of the Middle East wouldn't have to happen overnight. The Russians have time.

This is all based on the assumption that Russia will not get actively into the conflict now. If that happened, there'd be a world war.

But more than all that is involved:

By their determination to go ahead with their attack on Egypt, no matter what the U.N. thought, the French and British have dealt that organization a blow from which it may not recover.

Further, it is possible vengeful Arabs will cut the Middle East oil lines, shutting off Europe's supply and forcing it to turn to the United States for help. That might mean rationing here.

One thing is certain: the French and British have done terrible damage to the efforts of the West to woo the Asians and Africans and make Russia look like the only big power to be feared.

LI'L ONES

"If enough ignorant people come along I can make a fortune!"

Dr. William Brady Says:

Switching to New Climate No Cure for 'Rheumatiz'

Let's drop our dispute about the nature, cause, and prevention of chronic joint disability for today and talk about the weather—the climate, and the season, the wind, the rain, the sunshine, the altitude, the latitude, the humidity, and the mean temperature as factors of comfort or discomfort for persons with chronic joint disability.

For instance I like comfort, but not the sort, if it is comfort, that one tries to get sleeping under an electric blanket. A sufferer with rheumatiz, however, gets a lot of comfort sleeping under an electric blanket.

One with chronic joint disability, be it rheumatiz (insidious physical degeneration of joint tisues), actual arthritis (inflamation of joint, due to infection), or trauma (effects of strain or injury), is generally more sensitive to changes of weather than a healthy person is.

But such sensitivity is common in many other conditions besides joint disability. A great many persons with chronic bronchitis (winter cough), chronic sinusitis, nephritis (Bright's disease) or perhaps some vague neurosis are just as sensitive to change of weather.

WEATHER PSYCHOLOGY

When the baromter is falling, advises Clarence A. Mills, M.D., in his interesting book "Climate Makes the Man," avoid your most difficult customer. His instinctive reaction is most likely to be curt and unfavorable; he will look upon you with a suspicious eye . . . Attack your problems on the mornings of rising-pressure days . . .

However, I'm afraid few experienced physicians agree with some of the suggestions Dr. Mills makes, for instance:

"Removal to the Southwest is most imperative for people attacked by acute rheumatic infections of the joints or heart valves . . . Transfer to the non-stormy Southwest usually prevents new attacks and allows gradual repair of the heart damage."

Some statistics do seem to indicate that streptococcus infection (the cause of rheumatic fever) is less prevalent in the Southwest than in other parts of the country. But who can tell whether weather, climate, amount of sunshine, relative humidity, temperature variations, etc., account for this more than roominess does?—that is, less crowding affords less opportunity for the spread of infection.

FUN BUT COSTLY

For people who can afford to go traipsing off to a better climate far from home for a month or a season or an indefinite time, such travel or removal is fun and sometimes proves beneficial.

I must add, however, that from comments of medical authorities and from reports by readers who have tried it, change of climate does not alter the course of chronic joint disability.

People who like to think some other climate than that in which they developed insidious chronic joint disability would somehow be salutary may change climate without leaving home. It's a good trick, and I'll tell you later how to do it.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Crane Explains Biblical Example

Rev. Silas opposes church suppers because he says Jesus drove the money changers out of the Hebrew Temple. This act, Rev. Silas argues, proves that Christ would not patronize a pay supper in a church nowadays. Read my answer and discuss it next Sunday in your Bible classes.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case T-310: Rev. Silas J., aged 28, is a young clergyman who disapproves of having pay suppers in the church.

* * *

"Dr. Crane, I disagree very much with your belief that Jesus would attend such suppers in the church basement," he began.

"Don't you remember how he reproved those who bought and sold in the Temple?

"Well, when people buy their suppers in a church building, isn't that commercializing the church?"

TEMPLE THIEVES

When Jesus upset the tables of the moneychangers in the Temple and drove them out of that church building, remember what he said?

". . . . ye have made it a den of thieves."

Well, church suppers are definitely not in the same category as that famous example, for the modern church folks are unselfish in their efforts to pay off a mortgage or build new classrooms for Sunday school.

Let's take a closer look at Christ's cleansing of the Temple. In those days, religion had degenerated largely into a "gumshoe" or detective affair.

The priests went around trying to catch you in error so they could levy a fine against you.

For a petty offense, you had to sacrifice a pair of doves. For a medium sized sin, you offered a lamb.

And for a man-sized offense, you were fined the cost of a bullock. Indeed, if you didn't sin enough to fill the coffers of that "den of thieves," then the priests made new rules so you would commit more religious offenses.

For the church made money by increasing the number of your sins, which is always a bad system in any religion. Jesus was a positive clergyman who never trafficked in "sin" money.

TEMPLE RACKETEERS

But in those days a racket was being carried on in the Temple. The accepted money of the market place was Roman currency.

So the priests in the Temple said you couldn't buy their sacrificial birds or animals with Roman money. No, you had to exchange the Roman currency and get Temple money.

And in this method they gypped people. If you turned in a $1 bill, you got maybe 75 cents back, so the priests profitted from this exchange.

Then they made you buy purified doves or lambs and steers. And they took another rake-off on that deal. For a lamb that would cost $15 in the open market, was now priced in the Temple at maybe $20 or higher.

And you had no choice. You had to pay through the nose or remain a sinner. So the priests cheated you twice—once when they exchanged your Roman money and, again, when they overcharged you for sacrificial animals.

It was this racketeering which Christ indicted so hotly. That was why he said they had made the church a "den of thieves," which was true.

But the modern church supper has no resemblance at all to such thievery. Devoted housewives usually donate the food and then offer their services to prepare a delicious church supper.

Their men folks then contribute their money for the completed meals. Meanwhile, all sit down in a spirit of good fellowship and brotherly love.

There is no compulsion. Nobody is forcing you to buy. And you aren't being gypped, as were the poor patrons of the Temple.

The whole affair is purely a voluntary offering for an immediate moral project such as more Sunday school rooms, or a church furnace or an organ, etc.

As for me, I like church suppers, not alone because of the good food but for the cheery atmosphere of brotherhood.

In fact, I think in some churches you absorb more of Christ's atmosphere at these suppers than in the dry, pedantic sermonizing in the sanctuary.

But take your choice. This is a free country!

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

Discuss Health, Politics in Letters From Readers

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

After reading recent articles about TB patients who leave sanatoriums against medical advice, we got our dander up. We are taking it upon ourselves to write you as to how we and several other patients here in Gaylord sanatorium feel.

We came in here willing to be cured, knowing it would be at least a year's stay. "Health" (publication of Michigan Tuberculosis Association) states that one of the main reasons patients sign out is that they are not able to adjust themselves to the long stay. Nevertheless, it is no excuse to leave and endanger their families and other innocent people they come in contact with. Why, out of self-pity, are they that "couldn't take it" allowed to endanger our loved ones?

Is their self-pity more important than other people's health? Just think, more than 1200 left the sans last year against medical advice. If ever there comes a time we can vote for compulsory confinement, we'll be the first to vote.

If people have to be so ignorant as to endanger others, then I think there should be a law against them walking the streets. Maybe we're harsh or prejudiced, but when it comes down to our children, we feel we have a right to be. After all, we want them protected, and we think every other parent should think hard on this. Something should be done.

Mrs. R. Buchanan
Mrs. Louis Olson

Both the Democrats and Republicans claim they have the formula for peace. But facts don't support their claims. The fact is that the world is perilously close to war. The further fact is that the struggle for world domination between Western capitalism, headed by the U. S., and Russian State despotism is creating many points of tension. At the moment, the Suez Canal crisis is outstanding.

I want peace. I believe the vast majority of the people of the world wants peace. But there will be no lasting peace until the cause of war is removed.

The cause of war in the modern world is industrial and commercial rivalry. Even some capitalist spokesmen admit this fact. But neither Stevenson nor Eisenhower propose to do anything to remove the capitalist cause of war. Their talk of peace, therefore, is so much campaign rivalry.

I am going to write in my vote for Eric Hass and Georgia Cozzini, candidates of the Socialist Labor Party for President and Vice President, because their platform aims at the very cause of war—at the capitalist exploitation of labor which compels capitalist nations (as well as despotic Russia) to fight for world markets.

(Editor's note: Write-in votes for presidential and vice presidential candidates not on the ballot will not be counted, according to a recent Michigan court ruling.)

So Soapy is not worrying about the Teamsters' vote for Cobo. He says he will get 95 per cent of their votes anyway. I doubt that a little, and also have considerable doubt of his getting that percentage in his own Democrat ADA, PAC, and CIO.

Time was when I used to respect the Democratic Party, for instance Thomas L. Patterson, Judge of Probate when I was a young chap, Alfred Gale, Jimmy Lynch, et al; times and the party have changed.

James W. Clapp

When our dear friend Adlai can't even keep his own family intact, how in God's name can we ever expect him to run this wonderful country of ours as it should be run?

He frankly is one of the most inadequate, antique persons I have ever seen!

I believe that our beloved Ike is far more capable of running a country than Stevenson ever thought of being. He knows how to handle the foreign "bosses" and has been in close contact with the majority of them during his hitch over in the European theater of operations.

I hope and I pray that Ike will get in again so that he can keep the old Ship of State on an even keel.

Female World War II Vet

Well, I see Adlai is very much agitated because the Eisenhower administration has been so immune from criticism. Well, maybe they, the people, surmised the Little Three could do enough of that in their campaign, little Adlai, little Estes, and last, but not least, little Harry-give-em-hell.

Now the Little Three have tried everything else they could think of and did not seem to be doing so well. Now they stooped clear over and are trying to scare the people with the terrible after-effects of the H-bombs. Our own H-bombs.

Well, I will take the chances of our own rather than the Russians' bombs. Whether the Democratic party is a war party or just happened to inherit the wars, why not keep the party in that seems so furtunate to miss them. Why bet on a losing horse? I admire a winner.

Law Makes French Life Hectic

PARIS (INS)—A thrice-married, thrice - widowed French engineer lives in uneasy freedom today after spending 51 days in prison charged with the murder of his third wife.

Alfred Lindecker, 54, finds himself in that legal twilight zone known in France as "provisional liberty." It means he can be either completely cleared of the charge or again be put behind bars before trial.

His release from prison rekindled interest in the mystery death of Mrs. Janine Lindecker, found lying semi-nude on the kitchen floor of her home in Royat, a mountain spa nestled in the rolling hills of south-central France, March 12.

Janine, a buxom 36-year-old brunette, who in her youth was known as the "village belle," died of two gunshot wounds.

The still unsolved enigma facing investigators is:

Could Janine have shot herself in the chest, then removed her slip, and again shot herself through the head?

Medical examiners have ruled out this possibility.

Each of the wounds, they contended, was sufficient to render the victim unconscious. Consequently, the injuries could not have been self-inflicted.

Lindecker thinks differentty. He believes Janine committed suicide and was later disrobed by the family cat, Tototte.

It was Lindecker who, returning from work at a nearby factory, found his wife lying inanimate at about 6:30 p.m.

Nearby was his revolver. Three cartridges had been fired, but police only found two bullets.

Lindecker told police he had picked up the gun and laid it on a cupboard shelf to prevent the cat from playing with it, before calling authorities.

Under this cupboard, police found Janine's slip, showing a bullet hole with powder marks on the inside. It had been rolled into a bundle.

Police found Janine's torn brassiere, under her body.

Medical experts set the time of death between 1:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Lindecker, who had lunched at home, told police he had left his wife at 1:40 p.m. to return to the factory.

The house, known as the Villa Rose, showed no signs of having been broken into, reducing but not eliminating the possibility Mrs. Lindecker could have been slain by a prowler.

POLICE QUESTION

Lindecker was questioned by police for 36 hours following discovery of Janine's body and again for 15 consecutive hours about two weeks later. He steadfastly maintained the theory of his wife's suicide.

Investigators then resorted to a "parafin test"—never before used in France.

This process, developed in the United States, works on the principle that when a revolver is fired, backblast from the chambers forces gunpowder particles into the pores.

Paraffin wax poured over the hand draws out their particles, which can then be detected chemically.

Janine's body was exhumed and a wax cast made of her hand. Lindecker's hand got the same treatment.

An analysis of the casts showed no traces of carbon on Janine's hand. But there were traces on Lindecker's hand.

He explained these carbon particles, found in the test, were not gunpowder residue, but dust created when he had filed carbon brushes of an electric motor.

Lindecker produced witnesses to testify he had worked on an electric motor a few days before his wife's death.

However, April 20, Lindecker was formally charged with the murder of his wife and taken into "preventive custody."

This is the term used in France when police are not sure whether they have a case or not.

The fact Lindecker has been released appears to indicate the evidence against him is considered too slender to obtain a conviction in court.

Phone Loss Ties Ohio City

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—People here talk about the telephone strike, the weather — and the telephone strike.

They aren't sure which affects them more.

"Beautiful day" or "lousy weather" used to be the greeting. Now they pass on the streets, grimly shake their heads and mumble something about "telephones" or the lack of them.

Usually, they are trotting somewhere. they wouldn't have trotted 16 days ago. That was when Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. closed its exchanges here and in surrounding Scioto County after the installations were stoned by a 500 persons.

This is the third and longest telephone blackout this Ohio River city has seen during the strike, now in its 109th day. The strike began July 15 when 636 members of the Communications Workers of America walked off their jobs in parts of 24 southern Ohio counties.

Besides Portsmouth, a city of some 40,000, at least six other communities served by the company have gone without telephones during the long and bitter dispute.

Portsmouth housewives resort to the old-fashioned gossiping over a backyard fence. Messenger service and parlor chats are back in vogue. Taxi-cab drivers cruise the streets hoping to be flagged rather than snoozing while waiting for telephone calls. Western Union is working like it never did before.

The police, taxi companies and amateur radio operators have set up an emergency broadcast system that is connected with hospitals, law enforcement agencies and fire stations.

Sixty-one extra state highway patrolmen sent here by Gov. Frank J. Lausche also deliver emergency messages either by radio or in their cruisers.

The off-and-on contract negotiations were scheduled to resume Friday in Cleveland. So far, the talks have whittled deadlock issues down from around a score to 16. But concessions from either side appeared unlikely on the company's demands for a no-strike clause, the union's stand for a union shop and the company's holdout to de-unionize certain supervisory employes.

New Book Furnishes Ammunition on Every Subject

Argument Lovers Now Can Get the Facts

BY PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—There is no certain way of knowing how many arrests, black eyes, broken beer bottles and shattered marriages have resulted from American man's great indoor hobby—arguing the statistical point.

But this much is certain. Rarely does a day go by when two gentlemen in a bar, say, do not carry on a conversation like this:

First gent (reading newspaper): "I see another hurricane's heading up the coast. Better go home and batten down the hatches. I'm still paying for the damages from 'Diane.' Man, that was the worst hurricane in history."

Second gent: "Y' crazy? Worst was 'Hilda.' Caused 95 deaths and $100,000 property damage."

Bartender: "Easy, boys. No use fighting, especially when you're both wrong. It was the Galveston, Texas, one in 1900 that . . . ."

Before the owner of the bistro can call in his handy neighborhood patrolman, an argument thus innocently begun can turn into a nasty brawl in which teeth—but never the truth about hurricanes—are bared.

ALWAYS ARGUMENTS

"Whenever people congregate to talk, they will argue," writes Rupert Guinness, the honorable Earl of Iveagh in Dublin, "and sometimes the joy lies in the arguing and would be lost if there were any definite answer.

But more often the argument takes place on a dispute of fact—and it can be very exasperating if there is no immediate means of settling the discussion."

For the sake of all persons who love to argue, but who want the satisfaction of knowing whether they have won or lost the decision on a point of fact, the Earl (who knows his bar brawls well since he is of the family which controls the famed Guinness breweries) has turned out a book called "Superlatives."

This chronicle—which lists the largest, smallest, highest, fastest, slowest, rarest, richest, hottest, loudest, softest, mostest and worstest of almost anything an argumentative chap could conceivably argue about—should settle all questions of fact that man could dispute.

For instance, it would reveal that gents I and II and the bartender were all wrong in that foolish fracas about hurricanes. The worst such disaster, it reveals, was at Haiphong, Indochina, in 1881, when 300,000 persons were killed.

INANE FACTS

"Superlatives" reveals such inane facts as the names and locations of "the loudest organ stop," the "maharajah with the longest title," the "longest moustache" in the world, the "earliest recorded slipped disc," and the "longest airline ticket ever issued."

For persons interested in weight reduction, it reveals that margarine is the highest caloric foodstuff, and raw cucumber the lowest.

For lady gold-diggers, it suggests what perfume to request that retails at $300 a bottle. For animal lovers, it lists the most poisonous snake: The Australian tiger snake, which has it all over our diamond-backed rattlesnakes for toxicity of venom.

In fact, on any subject from architecture through nature to science and sports and human achievement, in all realms "Superlatives" gives the dope on who and what set the records—and when and how they did it.

This book should be of invaluable help to gamblers, and it's recommended that any suckers who see a man bearing this orange-and-yellow treatise should run, as from the plague. For that man, friend, can "con" you into almost any fool's bet . . .

He has just learned that the highest income figure in history was in 1953, when U. S. citizens earned $305,002,000,000.

And quite naturally, with the help of this superlative book, he's out to get his share.

No Farm Boy!

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — There was a faint suspicion that the policeman who wrote this report on a missing cow didn't grow up on a farm: "The cow is yellow, about six or seven years old, weighs about 700 pounds and has a missing milk spout."

Prefer Quick Death

OSLO — Ancient Nordic tribes offered condemned prisoners a choice between immediate execution and a month without salt in any form. Many prisoners chose execution as preferable to the agonies of a slow death from lack of salt.

Hal Boyle Says:

Want to Feel Young? Then Act Like a Kid!

NEW YORK (AP)—Famous folks often are asked what keeps them so young.

The secret of many seems to be—they don't always act their age.

Nothing really makes you feel and look older than your years than letting your calendar age put you in a mental straitjacket.

"When are you ever going to grow up?" is a rebuke often heard from the killjoys of this world.

If by growing up they mean when are you going to put away all childish pleasures and be deadly serious about everything, your answer should be a fervent, "Never, I hope!"

SERIOUSLY DEAD

The trouble with people who always insist on being deadly serious is—they often become seriously dead before their time.

No one could say that statesman Winston Churchill, financier Bernard Baruch, architect Frank Lloyd Wright or Casey Stengel, the leading exponent of world championship baseball, haven't done well in their respective fields.

But they are all young old men. Why? Because each has kept alive in him a small boy's sense of fun.

The late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who quipped "Oh, to be 70 again!" had the same quality. So did gentle Albert Einstein, father of the atom age.

The adult who feels he is wasting time unless he is always thinking high thoughts or doing important deeds is guiltier of a greater waste. He commits a form of self-suicide.

He murders the spirit of childhood in him, the child he once was and must somehow keep alive or else he'll turn forever old.

LIKE A FORMULA

It works as simply as a formula—let the delight of childhood die within you and you begin to wither, too.

And what does delight of childhood consist of? It consists of the feeling of joy you get in doing things, not because they are important, but because they are fun.

Celebrities, when they aren't busy being celebrities, often relax in pursuits that seem childish to the worldly dull. The smarter the celebrity the more likely he is to have this ability to forget his own importance now and then relive the pleasure of acting like a kid.

A few examples:

Actor Yul Brynner, star of "The King and I," is sternly impressive when laying down the law to his bevy of Siamese brides. Guess what Yul does in his spare time at home? He spends hours building and operating model railroads.

AGA FLIES KITES

The portly Aga Khan is known to the Western world chiefly because of his racing stable, but he is recognized as a religious leader by millions of followers of a Moslem sect. Know what one of his favorite pastimes is? Flying kites!

One of the most respected men in the monarch industry today is King Gustav of Sweden. But how does this elderly sovereign escape from his royal worries? He builds castles in Scandinavia with a toy mechanical set, a kind popular with two generations of American children.

Actor Walter Slezak has an $80,000 collection of musical manuscripts by Bach and Beethoven. But he also likes to build model airplanes with his three youngsters and fly them in Central Park.

Woodrow Wilson was certainly one of the most serious of U. S. presidents. But he had a lifelong interest in collecting funny limericks.

The moral is: If you want to feel like a kid, forget your dignity now and then and act like one!

A new 155-foot-long vessel has been built by India's North-Eastern Railway to ferry railroad cars across the Ganga River at Mokameh.

Two presidents, Thomas Jefferson and John Quincy Adams, were elected to that office by congress, having failed previously to poll a majority of the state's electoral votes.

Wedemeyer Has Ike in 'Landslide'

Iowa Bankers Group Hears Political Views of Retired General

DES MOINES (INS) — Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer predicts that President Eisenhower will win reelection next Tuesday in a "landslide."

The retired Air Force commander also said that the President may have "sufficient strength to carry Congress" for the Republicans. He was in Des Moines to address a meeting of the Iowa Bankers' Association.

Wedemeyer said that he has not been active in the campaign for President Eisenhower previously because he had been ill—he underwent two major operations recently — but promised that he would do whatever he could to assure a Republican victory at the polls Nov. 6.

Gen. Wedemeyer, now retired, said that the "calm, deliberate way that President Eisenhower has conducted himself in the present tense international situation" would undoubtedly bring him thousands of votes. He asked whether the American people would prefer Eisenhower, "with his unexcelled experience in international affairs" or what he called the "inexperience" of Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson.

Regarding Stevenson's proposals that the U.S. halt H-Bomb tests and end the draft, Gen. Wedemeyer said those views were "highly dangerous to the national security."

Gen. Wedemeyer said his support of the President has never wavered (he was a Taft backer in the GOP primaries four years ago) but declared he was "impatient with the accomplishment of some objectives" which the 1952 Republican policy committee outlined.

May Cut Pulp Cost

ANTIOCH, Calif. — A Canadian-American paper producer with a kraft mill here has developed a cost-cutting method of hauling pulp in slush, or "noodle," form by tanker between its British Columbia plant and the mill here. Normally pulp shipped to the converting mill is dried and baled, requiring heat and other costly processes.

TO SING HERE — The Buffalo Bills, International champions of 1950, will be among the featured attractions of the Holiday of Harmony concert to be sponsored by the Pontiac Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America Dec. 8 at Pontiac High School.

Williams, the Man GOP Calls 'Soapy,' Has Cleaned Their Clocks Since '48

BY GEORGE L. WALKER

LANCING (AP) — G. Mennen Williams, the "boy wonder" of Michigan politics, faces the stiffest test of his political career Tuesday when he asks voters to return him to Lansing for a fifth consecutive term.

Republicans consider this their golden chance to interrupt the spectacular career of a man who revolutionized Michigan politics by building a shattered Democratic party into an organization of power.

Ironically, the man who did this was once the butt of Republican jokes—a man whose nickname was "soapy," whose talisman was a bow tie, and who gained the favor of voters by shaking their hands, talking their language and calling their square dances.

Now is the time to beat this man, Republicans say. They think they've got the winning formula in Detroit's Mayor Albert E. Cobo, President Eisenhower, the impatience of voters for new faces in Lansing and a revised ballot which they hope will work to their advantage.

DOESN'T LOOK SCARED

If Williams is running scared, he doesn't show it. His aides insist his margin over Cobo will be 300,000 votes. And they predict confidently Williams will sweep in the five Democratic members of the State Administrative Board who rode with him to victory in 1954.

What's Williams' vote—winning secret? How could he win an unprecedented fourth term in Michigan's statehouse and inflict such heavy wounds on the Republican goliath?

Much of William's success can be attributed to the almost solid support of labor, which Williams has wooed assiduously since his first campaign in 1948.

In all his legislative programs and in his campaigns, Williams has tried to portray himself as the champion of the working man.

His continuing campaign for a corporations profits tax, for higher and higher unemployment compensation, workmen's compensation, revised safety laws and other labor legislation have generated Republican charges Williams is a sort of puppet for Walter Reuther, UAW president and vice president of the CIO-AFL.

If the support of labor is the keystone of his political success, the support of Michigan's large minority groups is hardly less important.

MULTILINGUAL

Williams probably knows how to say "greetings" in more languages than any man in Michigan. He has to learn to like the national dishes of Poles, Rumanians, Hungarians, Italians and a host of other nationalities.

On civil rights, Williams' stand has been unremittingly strong, although his role at the 1956 Democratic National Convention was less turbulent than in 1952, when he helped lead the fight for the so-called loyalty oath.

This capital city of Nicaragua, almost completely destroyed by earthquake and fire in 1931, has been reconstructed largely with modern earthquake resistant buildings.

UF Helps Support Hospital Clinic

It's a terrible thing when baby takes sick and the family breadwinner is out of a job.

In Pontiac, though, the community bands together to soften trying times when funds are low and medical attention necessary.

Folks contribute to the Pontiac Area United Fund, which supports such agencies as the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Clinic.

Pontiac Press Photo

ON THE MEND — Gary White, of 233 W. Ann Arbor, is being helped into a consultation room at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital Clinic by Nurse Madeleine Frantz. He's typical of the hundreds of patients who get expert medical care which they might not otherwise be able to afford. By providing such care, the clinic guards the health of the Pontiac area. It is supported by the Pontiac Area United Fund.

No one is refused treatment there because of inability to pay.

Corridors are jammed every weekday morning with men, women and children needing medical care.

Although doctors donate their time, and the hospital provides its facilities, it takes money for medicine, x-rays, laboratory tests, eye-glasses and physical therapy treatments.

The UF is the clinic's largest supporters.

Few of the 10,000 patients who visit the clinic every year are welfare cases. Most of the trouble comes when a hard-working family, living on its income, finds itself suddenly needing medical care.

Father, for example, may have a bad back sprain needing clinical attention if he is to return to work.

A child is doing badly in school, it is discovered, because he needs glasses.

Mother is sick and unable to attend her children unless she gets expensive medicine.

The clinic also serves in treating accident victims.

But the majority of patients are not emergency cases. Some of them must return to the clinic for several months while treatment is being completed.

Most of the clinic's patients are children.

Last year, 15 children in one family received the clinic's help.

Another family's first born child needed surgery to correct a hair lip.

There was a 7-year-old girl referred by a public health nurse. The girl suffered convulsions four of five times a day and could not attend school.

After 14 months of treatment, the convulsions stopped and the girl went back to classes.

Crippled children often receive diagnosis to receive Michigan Crippled Children Commission care and treatment.

School nurses often refer children to the clinic.

For admission, a referral note is necessary from a doctor or nurce, social agency or city and county health departments.

Since its beginning 27 years ago, the clinic has been sponsored by the hospital auxiliary.

That's Going Too Far

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A just wed couple, off on the honeymoon, didn't mind the "just married" signs on the car but the newlyweds felt their friends went just a little too far. Also painted on the car was Oklahoma City's slogan: "600,000 in '60. Watch Oklahoma City grow."

Swedish Test Unique

STOCKHOLM—In a unique experiment in top-level collective bargaining covering much of the labor market, representatives of employers and more than 2,000,000 employes recently signed agreements calling for pay increases of 3½ to 5 per cent.

Earth Warming Little by Little, States Expert

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — You can't count on saving much in fuel bills just because the earth is warming up a couple of degrees a century. But it may help insure your great-grandchildren an adequate food supply.

That was the word from Dr. Helmet E. Landsberg, director of climatology for the U. S. Weather Bureau, who told the annual meeting of the American Meteorological Society yesterday that winters also are getting milder.

Dr. Landsberg said the average temperature in the eastern United States is rising by two or three degrees a century. And the ice masses in the arctic regions are melting away, while the average temperature in that area goes up 10 to 12 degrees each 100 years.

This gradual warmup, Dr. Landsberg added, will mean longer growing seasons in some areas. This could help meet the growing need for food by the growing world populace. On the other hand, he observed, the added warmth could make dry areas more arid than before.

He listed as theories for the warmup changes taking place on the sun: mechanical combustion processes increasing the amount of carbon dioxide in the air, to absorb more heat; fading away of a giant cloud of cosmic dust between the earth and sun; and fewer volcanic eruptions, which create heat-shielding dust clouds in the atmosphere.

Australia has awarded a $12,000,000 contract to the Kaiser-Walsh-Perlui-Raymond Joint Venture, of California, to complete Adaminaby Dam, in the Snowy Mountains hydro project, within four years. The dam will be 381 feet high, Sydney reports.

12 Candidates Vie for Six Posts in State Legislature

Editor's Note: This is the second of three articles detailing background and policies of candidates in next week's election. A previous article has discussed candidates for Congress and the State Senate. The third will review candidates for county offices.)

Oakland County's six seats in the Michigan House of Representatives will be filled in the general election next Tuesday.

The county as a whole, which composes the 18th Congressional District and the 12th Senatorial District of Michigan, is divided into six legislative districts.

District 1 includes all of Holly, Groveland, Brandon, Oxford, Addison, Rose, Springfield, Independence, Orion, Oakland, Highland, White Lake, Waterford and Pontiac Townships, and the village of Sylvan Lake.

District 2 is composed of the city of Pontiac. District 3 comprises Milford, Commerce, West Bloomfield, Avon and Troy Townships, and the city of Troy.

District 4 includes Lyon, Novi, Farmington and Southfield Townships, with the cities of Berkley and Oak Park and part of Royal Oak Township.

District 5 includes the cities of Royal Oak, Clawson, Huntington Woods, and Pleasant Ridge.

District 6 comprises Ferndale and Hazel Park.

Lloyd L. Anderson

The Republican nominee, Lloyd L. Anderson, 49, is supervisor of Waterford Township. He serves on the County Board of Supervisors and its Roads Committee, and has been a member of the Welfare Coordinating and Planning Committee and the Michigan Association of Supervisors.

Anderson is married and has three children. His statement:

"I am very interested in the proper planning for the state of Michigan, especially our dire need in the metropolitan areas for sewer, water and drainage. I will make these problems my main object if elected as representative of District 1."

Steven J. Kolar

Democrat Steven J. Kolar, 49, of Waterford Township, is a photographer for union publications.

A high school graduate and World War II veteran, Kolar is employed by Chrysler Corporation and a member of UAW local 7, where he has been recording secretary and chief steward and a member of the legislative education and recreation committees.

"If elected, I am interested in getting an active contact group established in each of the 14 townships in my district and thus be aware of their needs and how I can best serve them as their representative in the Legislature."

DISTRICT 2

Leslie H. Hudson

Democrat Leslie H. Hudson, 34, of 59 W. Colgate Ave., is the incumbent in District 2 and seeks re-election.

A former member of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors Hudson is a World War II veteran and former Waterford Township Clerk. He graduated from Pontiac schools and attended the University of Michigan. He is married and has four children.

His statement:

"The tempo of school construction on all levels must be increased to meet the demands. Methods of encouraging college students to follow teaching as a profession are vital to the success of our educational program. We can aid in meeting the challenge of education by promoting a junior college in Pontiac.

"Our highways are antiquated, and we must procure a lasting water supply for Oakland County. We need a fifth Circuit Judge, a second Probate Judge, and a planned growth with automation."

Robert C. Miller

The Republican nominee in District 2, Robert C. Miller, 28, of 963 Berwick Blvd., was chief investigator for the Prosecutor's Office for five years.

A graduate of Pontiac High School, Miller is a Navy veteran married, and has three children.

His statement:

"I have pledged to work for the following public program:

"1. A vastly improved network of superhighways and feeder roads.

2. Liberalization of teacher's benefits and aid to school districts.

"3. Establishment of a junior college in Pontiac.

"4. A park development plan for Pontiac and Oakland County.

"5. General watchfulness to protect Pontiac citizens.

"6. State laws aiding communities to establish large scale improvement of drainage and sewage disposal systems.

"7. A plan for an authority with broad powers to launch a juvenile delinquency preventive program.

"8. A plan to raise workmen's compensation benefits."

Farrell E. Roberts

The Republican nominee, Farrell E. Roberts, 34, of West Bloomfield Township, is an attorney and former assistant prosecutor.

A graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis and the University of Michigan law school, Roberts is a veteran of World War II and Korea. He is married, and has one son.

His statement:

"I am aware of our local needs for drains, roads, water and school facilities. We all are.

"In order to find out what steps to take toward a solution of these problems, I have been meeting with our local officials so that I might learn their experience to date. With cooperation, we can save valuable time in solving these crucial problems.

"A special field that I am very interested in is that of aiding in the recodification and the modernization of our civil procedural statutes."

P. T. Smith Jr.

The Democratic nominee, P. T. Smith Jr., of Rochester, is a realtor. Smith was unopposed in the primary election.

An Oakland County resident for 23 years, he is an Air Force veteran, married, and the father of two children.

Smith did not submit a statement of policy to The Pontiac Press, or a picture.

DISTRICT 4

S. James Clarkson

WALTER T. McMAHON

BRUCE P. WHEELER

A graduate of the Detroit College of Law, Clarkston is an Army veteran of World War II. He is married and has two children.

His statement:

"If elected, I will work for the following measures:

"1. A Local Drain Authority of the State government.

"3. Unemployment compensation equal to one-half of the worker's wage.

"4. A better mental health program.

"5. Establishment of a St. Lawrence Seaway Port Authority.

"6. A Building Safety code."

Theodore F. Hughes

Republican incumbent Theodore F. Hughes, 47, of Berkley, seeks re-election as State Representative from District 4.

A former Navy lieutenant, he is a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mason, Odd Fellows and the Berkley Exchange Club.

Hughes submitted no statement of policy to The Pontiac Press.

DISTRICT 5

Donald A. Brown

A former Oakland County assistant prosecutor and World War II veteran, the GOP candidate, Donald A. Brown, 32, of Royal Oak, now is an attorney in private practice.

Brown attended Michigan State University and is a graduate of Detroit College of Law.

His statement:

"First and foremost, we need a complete constitutional revision. Tax rates and tax rebates must be spread fairly, something impossible under our present crazy-quilt of tax legislation.

"It is obvious that due to an outmoded constitution and legislators who seem to think we're still sleepy farmland, South Oakland (and other Detroit suburbs) are getting the squeeze play from Detroit lobbies and the outstate interests.

"We're the state's second largest county, far surpassing Kent, the third, in population. Yet there are only a few crumbs left on the table when new roads, etc., are passed out."

David Paul

General manager of a men's clothing store, Democrat David Paul, 34, of Huntington Woods, also seeks to represent District 5.

An Air Force veteran and University of Michigan graduate, Paul is married and has four children.

His statement:

"I pledge to stress a vigorous effort to solve our drainage and water problems, to remove the office of highway commissioner from politics so we may have more and better roads, and to have our district, as an urban area, given more voice in the Legislature.

"To this end, I will seek to increase our representation in the Legislature. I pledge an all-out effort for fair legislation, for the benefit of all."

DISTRICT 6

Walter T. McMahon

Incumbent Walter T. McMahon, the Democratic candidate, is a Hazel Park subcontractor.

McMahon, 50, a World War I veteran, was first elected to the Legislature in 1948.

McMahon did not submit a statement of policy to The Pontiac Press.

Bruce P. Wheeler

An auctioneer and former owner of a Ferndale furniture store, Bruce P. Wheeler, 56, of Ferndale, won a five-man primary race for the Republican nomination.

A Ferndale resident for 27 years, Wheeler is married and has two children.

He did not submit a statement of policy to The Pontiac Press.

Report Russians Circle Budapest

Capital Rid of Troops; Rebels Getting Angry With Nagy Rule

VIENNA (AP) — Battered Budapest was virtually free of Soviet troops today, but the Russians were reported forming a cordon around the Hungarian capital.

Resentment mounted in Budapest against Communist Premier Imre Nagy's regime.

Budapest radio said Nagy's government had sent Moscow a note demanding that Soviet delegates be named to confer with Hungarian officials on complete withdrawal of Russian troops from the whole country.

Despite this announcement and Nagy's promise of free elections and other reforms, demonstrations grew against his regime. Nagy himself did not take over until after the rebellion started.

"Out with the government of murderers" shouted a crowd of 2,000 demonstrators in Kossuth Square outside Parliament.

Hungarian troops bolstered by armed civilians were seen camped on the outskirts of Budapest. It was believed they were trying to prevent the escape of prominent Communists and members of the hated Hungarian secret police.

Budapest radio said former Hungarian Communist Pary Chief Erno Geroe and former Premier Andras Hegedus, who were ousted by the revolt against Red control, have left the country. Presumably they fled to the Soviet Union.

Street fighting was reported still going on last night.

CONSTRUCTION PROGRESSES — Workers have been taking advantage of the warm weather recently and have progressed rapidly on the construction of the Public Safety Building (top), and the new addition at Pontiac General Hospital. The Public Safety Building is located just to the north of the City Hall. The $800,000 building—second milestone in the city's Civic Center program—will house, among other things, the police department, fire department offices, and municipal courts. It is being financed from Pontiac's capital improvement program. Fall of next year is the expected completion date. The present hospital is in the right of the photograph (bottom). Robert Pullar, on-the-job architect for designer Leo J. Heenan, said today concrete had been poured for the ground and first floors. The frame work for the second floor is ready for pouring. Expected completion date of the $3.5 million wing is summer of 1958.

Some Tankers Refuse to Use Suez Canal

Mideast Crisis to Trigger Oil Shortage?

WASHINGTON (INS) — Diplomatic sources said today the Middle East crisis is beginning to affect the normal flow of oil from that region.

The first indication of a slowdown came in the refusal of some tankers to use the Suez Canal. Instead, a few are using the long detour via South Africa.

One official said there was some indication this has started a slight back-up in oil storage in the Middle East.

There is some fear this reluctance by a few tankers to use the canal could spread rapidly and thus produce a critical oil situation in Europe.

Western Europe consumes some 80 per cent of the two million barrels of oil per day which flows from the Middle East.

After Egypt first seized the Suez, the U.S. promised to help Britain and France meet any oil shortage caused by tankers taking the long, slow trip around Africa. The question now is whether the U.S. wil find itself in the dilemma of meeting that promise—if the Anglo-French move against Egypt should create a fuel crisis for Europe.

The Arab oil-producing states have shown no indication up to now that they intend to interfere with British and French oil facilities in spite of the cirtical situation.

Major oil producing countries of the Middle East are Iran, Saudi Arabia and Iraq, with lesser fields in Kuwait and Qatar. Saudi Arabian oil is processed almost exclusively by U.S. interests. But everywhere else, the British and French are involved on a large scale.

Oil pipelines vital to the distribution of the Middle East's "black gold" cross Syria, Lebanon and a tip of Jordan.

Chou to Visit Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) —Prime Minister H. S. Suhrawardy announced today that Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai will arrive in Karachi Dec. 22 for a state visit of at least a week.

THOSE WERE THE DAYS! — Thomas A. Edison was responsible for this "electro-graphic vote-recorder and register" which is currently drawing smiles and chuckles at the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn. The device was shelved after a committee of the U. S. House of Representatives decided that it would put an end to filibustering — and who wanted to see that happen? Wound by a key, the clockwork mechanism rotated on a drum containing names in metal type. A switch was moved to either of two positions for an affirmative or negative vote.

Russian Shares Nobel Prize

Joins British Chemist in Honors for Finding Rule of Chain Reaction

STOCKHOLM (AP) — A Russian and an Englishman won the 1956 Nobel Prize in chemistry jointly today for discovering the rules of conduct when molecules blow up in chain reactions or combine smoothly.

Their work laid the foundation for the development of plastics and was a factor in later atomic research.

The winner of the first Nobel award ever given to a Soviet citizen is Nikolai N. Semyonov, bearded 60-year-old Moscow professor of physical chemistry and the organizer of much of Russia's chemical science.

Sharing the $38,633 award is Sir Cyril Hinshelwood, 59, of Oxford University. He and Semyonov worked independently, but have been friends and correspondents for some 25 years.

The prize will be presented to them by King Gustaf VI Adolf of Sweden at the colorful Nobel ceremony in Stockholm Dec. 10. The king also will present the prize for literature to Juan Ramon Jimenez, Spanish poet now living in Puerto Rico, and for medicine to Dr. Andre F. Cournand and Dr. Dickinson W. Richards Jr. of New York's Columbia University and Dr. Werner Forssmann of Bad Kreuznach, West Germany.

The award to Semyonov and Hinshelwood came after nearly 30 years of painstaking research into the basic mechanics of molecular behaviour.

Americans eat an average of 65,000,000 pounds of meat each day — enough to fill 2,500 railroad refrigerator cars.

HITS HUSSEIN — In the U.N. Security Council, in New York City, Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban, above, declared Jordan responsible for Israeli-Arab border fighting and named Jordan's King Hussein as helping to incite his people to "aggressive attacks on Israel."

Gas Rationing Looms in Britain

Arabs Told to Cut Off Pipes, Ruin Refineries by Cairo Radio

LONDON (INS) — Gasoline rationing appeared a distinct possibility in Britain today in face of possible cutoff oil supplies from the Middle East.

The Ministry of Fuel and Power was given authority in an order approved yesterday by Queen Elizabeth to impose wartime rationing if necessary.

The order was published today.

Meanwhile, Cairo Radio, heard in Paris, urged workers in Arab countries to destroy all their pipelines and sabotage all oil refining installations.

The broadcast also requested that "all enemy airdromes on your soil" be rendered unusable.

Dr. Keliher Discusses Teaching Methods at Meeting With School Administrators

A national authority on childhood education exchanged ideas with the Administrators and Supervisors Assn. of the Pontiac Public Schools at its meeting Wednesday morning.

Dr. Alice Keliher, professor in the advanced division of the School of Education at New York University, told local educators how teacher training affected teaching practices of today.

"It's my theory that teachers teach as they were taught," Dr. Keliher said. "We have to pay more attention to the individual who's being groomed for a teacher."

Dr. Keliher peppered her suggestions with examples from her years of teaching experience.

She praised the Pontiac School system for attempting to keep classes small. "Somehow it seems the older a student gets, the poorer individual teaching he gets," the speaker said.

HOMEROOM STRESSED

She stressed more homeroom activities for students in the secondary school systems. Dr. Keliher also urged educators to experiment in their teaching experiences.

"Nothing is so important in teaching as knowing the children and accepting them as they are," she added.

Luncheon at Webster School was followed by an informal discussion among the educators and Dr. Keliher.

ACTIVE NATIONALLY

The speaker has been active in many national organizations concerned with various aspects of child welfare. She has participated throughout her professional career in conferences on the problems of children from nursery to high school.

Recently Dr. Keliher participated in a series of conferences organized by the Department of Justice as a result of a study of juvenile delinquency.

Dr. Keliher holds three degrees from Teachers College of Columbia University. She was associated with Dr. Arnold Gesell at the Yale Clinic for Child Development where she directed a study of the naturalistic behavior of infants.

September Road Toll Hits 164 in Michigan

LANSING (AP) — September traffic accidents killed five more persons than in the same month a year ago, reversing a downward death toll trend that ran through five months.

This was reported Wednesday by State Police, who placed the death figure at 164.

For the first nine months this year, fatalities remained 119 under the corresponding period of 1955, a reduction of 8 per cent. The figures were 1,291 as against 1,410.

September injuries were down 1 per cent, but accidents were up 1 per cent.

For the nine-month period, injuries increased from 43,403 to 43,988, and accidents from 136,759 to 143,690.

Because travel rose an estimated 3 per cent, the death rate per 100 million miles dropped 13 per cent on this basis.

Part of a Roman jewel casket bearing the Latin message "Use this happily," has been discovered at East Stoke, England.

'Deepfreeze' Crew Drops Weather Beacon at Pole

By DON GUY

OVER THE SOUTH POLE (delayed) (AP) — American airmen have planted an automatic weather station at the South Pole.

The device, a six-foot-long equipment-filled container nicknamed the "Grasshopper," was dropped by parachute from an Air Force Globemaster in the first airdrop ever made at the pole.

Made of stainless steel, the Grasshopper has legs that automatically hoisted it upright after it touched the ice plateau. It will transmit weather data every six hours for the benefit of fliers participating in Operation Deepfreeze in Antarctica.

Ours was believed to be the seventh flight ever made over the pole. There were 43 persons aboard the giant 93-ton troop carrier, probably as many as there were aboard all the previous flights combined. Adm. Richard E. Byrd, pilot Bernt Balchen and two others made the first polar flight Nov. 29, 1929.

It is a bleak plain of ice that stretches off monotonously toward a ring of mountains 200 miles away.

The surface is rippled — due, scientists aboard the plane said, to the polar winds that whistle in at right angles.

Dr. Paul A. Siple, who will head a party of scientists camping at the pole through the antarctic winter to make observations for the International Geophysical Year, was among the Globemaster's passengers.

He estimated that the surface of the polar plateau is 10,350 feet high. Earlier estimates placed it at just under 10,000 feet.

As a Boy Scout, Dr. Siple first flew over the pole with Adm. Byrd more than 25 years ago.

Lt. Richard A. Bowers, Quonset, R.I., a young Navy engineer, will head a party of 24 men that will fly to the plateau in a smaller ski plane soon to build the base.

Thugs' Trick No Treat

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Two Halloween-minded gunmen, wearing false black beards and clown makeup, held up a supermarket last night and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash, police reported.

Lively Halloween for Montana Coeds

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Halloween fun turned into a panty raid at Montana University last night.

The women apparently started it.

Before the hourlong battle of the sexes ended the school president, Carl McFarland, had been hanged in effigy, a car had been left atop a pile of gravel and several girls were thrown into showers at Craig Hall, men's dormitory.

An eyewitness said it all started when women students from the residence halls decided to run through Craig Hall and other men's dormitories.

The men then decided to run through the women's residence halls. Some of them turned it into a panty raid, emerging from the buildings waving their trophies.

Synagogue Bombed

CHICAGO (AP) — The synagogue of congregation B'nai Emunah in suburban Skokie was damaged by an explosion reportedly caused by a homemade gasoline bomb last night. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

Newlyweds Spend First Night in Jail

CINCINNATI (AP)—Dillard Bowling, 28, and his bride Ruby, 43, spent their wedding night in jail on a charge of disorderly conduct.

The Bowlings told Judge Daniel C. Handley they got to drinking during the wedding celebration and wound up in a sidewalk argument.

"It's a little early for you to start fighting so here's a wedding present," Judge Handley said. "Costs remitted."

Britain-France-Israel Team Pulls Sneak Play on U. S.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The missing link in the fighting in Egypt is this: Did the British, French and Israelis plan it together? It looks that way. All three stood to gain by what they did.

What the Israelis wanted was to help wreck Egyptian President Nasser, whom all three hated. He was the rallying point for Arabs against Israel. What the British and French wanted was to wreck Nasser and get back the Suez Canal.

But the effects of what the British and French did went far beyond their move to seize the canal. They ignored the United Nations, although pledged to work with and uphold the world organization.

They made American leadership of the free world look as sick as a straw hat in the rain by telling Secretary of State Dulles nothing of their plans to go into the Suez area and then ignoring President Eisenhower's personal plea not to.

They made their move at a time when the West might have profited by the Russian killing of Hungarians in Budapest. Now world attention has been diverted.

The French and British had been angered and frustrated by Dulles ever since Nasser seized the canal last July. They wanted to take military action against Nasser to take back the canal.

Dulles proposed a couple of plans—for negotiating peacefully with Nasser—which didn't work out but managed to forestall military action until now.

The British and French apparently made up their minds he wouldn't block them again. They shut him off from information for 10 days, American ambassadors for that time were not able to see the heads of the French and British governments.

On Monday — when the Israelis marched into Egypt — the British and French ambassadors were absent from Washington. But on that day the British Minister J. E. Coulson, told Dulles the American - British - French agreement of 1950 — to stop any aggression in the Middle East — was dead. Nevertheless, the White House said Monday night this country would honor that agreement.

Too much emphasis should not be placed on the idea the Western alliance is wrecked. This country needs the British and French against Russia, just as they need the United States when this blows over.

Unless there is a world war or an unexpected development, they will almost certainly be in harness again, although probably from now on with a distrust of each other that didn't exist before.

From the moment the Israeli government announced its troops had gone into Egypt, it was clear they were headed in the direction of the Suez Canal. This gave the British and French an excuse to move in. They gave this explanation: they had to do it to protect the canal.

Yesterday the United States asked the U. N. Security Council to approve a resolution demanding a cease-fire in Egypt and calling upon all U.N. members—including the British and French—not to use force in the Israeli-Egyptian fighting.

The French and British, announcing they intend to move into the canal area, vetoed the U.S. proposal.

113-Year-Old Veteran Will Get Medal at Last

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Union Army at last will present a medal to Confederate Walter Williams.

The 4th Army announced it would present the medal Friday to the 113-year-old former forager for Hood's Texas Brigade. He is one of three survivors of the Civil War.

The presentation will be at Williams' farm home near Franklin, Tex.

The 84th Congress authorized the secretary of the treasury to strike suitable medals in honor of the last surviving veterans of the Civil War.

ETCHED BY HORROR—The strain of 25 years' imprisonment in Siberia shows on the face of Sevki Bektore, 60-year-old Turkish professor, following his release and return to Istanbul. He obtained his freedom by writing three letters to Communist Party Chief Nikita Khrushchev. Bektore left Turkey in 1917 to teach Turks in the Crimea, but was arrested in Tachkend, Turkistan. He was condemned by the Russians for provoking nationalism because he was teaching Turkish. His comment, after being reunited with his wife and three children: "There is nothing like freedom."

Government Slices 11,639 Off Payroll

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Harry Byrd (D-Va) said today September brought the first monthly decline in the number of federal employes since December 1955.

Byrd, chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures, said the number of civilian employes in all executive agencies in September was 2,388,854, down 11,639 from August.

The report said September employment in civilian agencies was 1,208,661, down 4,730 from August. Civilian employes of the Defense Department numbered 1,180,193, down 6,920, it said.

So, Put Out Water!

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — A mountian lion was sighted on two consecutive nights at the edge of the city, far from its usual mountain hideouts. Some residents theorized the big cat may have been looking for a drink, since the mountains had been dry for several weeks.

How Israel Began and What the Fighting Is All About

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

In Jerusalem, one night during World War II, a woman said:

"Nobody but a Jew can realize how we feel about this land. It is beyond thought, deeper than reason, in our very blood."

Her voice shook with emotion.

Two days later, the late Emir Abdullah, King of Jordan, said in an interview, "We will resist a Jewish state with all our strength. This land is ours. We shall keep it."

In these two statements lie 40 years of tragedy.

They express fierce emotions embracing religion, politics, economics, culture and a love for the land that is holy to both the Jews and Arabs.

They explain, in part, why this region has run wet with the blood of many people from many nations.

They are the rock on which every effort to find a solution to the "Palestine problem" has shattered.

And they lie behind the fact that, today, real war has come to the Sinai Peninsula and the Suez Canal zone.

Israel is a gentle and, lovely land. An incredible green flows between the grey stones of the hills. Olive trees and lemon groves rustle in the wind. It has been made fruitful by human hands.

Much of the land around it is tawny desert. Even that has been fought over for years.

Here, in brief, is the background story. It does not include the 2,000 years of Jewish exile, hope and striving.

It begins in 1915. Britain, at war with Turkey, solicited the help of the Arabs, who were subjects of the Sultan. In these negotiations, the Arabs said, they were offered independence after the war.

Two years later, and independently of these actions, the British foreign secretary, Lord Balfour, wrote a letter to Lord Rothschild which contained this passage:

"His Majesty's government view with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people and will use their best endeavors to facilitate the achievement of this object, it being clearly understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of the existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine or the rights and political status enjoyed by the Jews in any other country."

This became known as the "Balfour declaration," and in Jewish eyes, the foundation of Britain's responsibility to them.

World War I ended. The area became a mandate of the League of Nations with Britain administrating.

Now began the efforts to find a solution to the "Palestine problem."

They took many forms—a proposed constitution, a legislative council with both Jewish and Arabic members, etc. All were abortive.

Far worse, total disagreement developed over boundaries. The Arabs insisted that, to them, "Palestine" was merely one district of what they called "Syria." Citing the World War I negotiations, they fiercely disputed any British suggestion to create a Jewish national state there.

Blood soon flowed.

Between 1936 and 1938, Arab nations went all-out to drive the British from Palestine.

In 1937, a British royal commission reported after an exhaustive study that Arab-Jewish differences were "irreconcilable," and recommended partitioning Palestine —but that insoluble matter of boundaries remained. Where do you partition to satisfy both peoples?

Meanwhile, Jewish immigration was increasing. By 1940, the census showed the population of Palestine to be 1,529,559 of whom 456,743 were Jews.

During World War II Britain limited immigration. Riots broke out when the five-year period London specified came to an end.

With peace came the drive for a Jewish state, an independent nation with all the prerequisites.

Its chief proponents were the Zionists and two underground fighting arms. Certain other Jewish organizations were opposed.

A year later, the United Nations voted for partition.

Then the summer of 1948. In the white-walled Museum of Art at Tel Aviv, the words were pronounced, "We hereby proclaim the establishment of the Jewish state in Palestine to be called Israel."

War with the Arabs erupted immediately. They were beaten.

But at the battle of Faluja, an Egyptian officer — who had previously resigned from the army and then volunteered for combat — led several attacks, and was wounded several times. His name was Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Out of this war came the terrible problem of the displaced persons — Palestinian Arabs who became refugees. They numbered 922,000 in a United Nations count last June.

They live in miserable camps in various Arab countries. They get little or no help from Arab governments. They are wards of the United Nations, fed and clothed by the organization. Over 200,000 of them are children born in the camps.

The scene now shifts to Egypt, 1952.

That summer a few Egyptian officers revolted and forced corpulent King Farouk to leave his throne. One was Lt. Col. Nasser.

He soon became head of the government. In 1954 he told this correspondent he would "never rest until Israel aggression is ended." In that same year Nasser got the agreement by which Britain pulled her 83,000-man garrison out of the Suez Canal zone.

Then, this year, the United States and Britain withdrew an offer to help Egypt finance the long-planned "high dam" at Aswan, on the upper reaches of the Nile.

There had been reports, later denied by the Soviets, that Nasser was playing off the West against the Russians. The U. S. note withdrawing the offer said, however, that Washington doubted Egypt's economy could provide the rest of the necessary money, and that other "riparian" states — those with water rights on the Nile — had not consented to the dam.

Nasser's answer — having said "May they choke on their fury"— was to seize the Suez Canal, announcing its nationalization.

Israeli shipping had been barred from the canal earlier. Now, the big-jawed, heavy-shouldered colonel had the power to close it to anybody, if he chose.

Israel, Britain and France have reacted.

Driver Records on Tap

LANSING (AP) — Law enforcers now can get information from driver violation records in the secretary of state's office every day around the clock.

For many years the Department of State has maintained 24-hour information service on car registrations, the announcement said.

Provision for extending the driver licensing activity was made in the current budget. Training of help to staff the operation began in July at the start of the fiscal year.

Only law enforcement agencies will be given driver violation records because of staff limitations.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

PETER THE PIEMAN

Halloween is over, but big pumpkins are still in the markets. This is the season of pumpkin pies.

In the next three days we are going to bring you pictures to illustrate the old nursery rhyme about pumpkins.

"Peter, Peter, Pumpkin Eater
Had a wife and couldn't keep her,
Put her in a pumpkin shell,
And there he kept her very well."

Here is Mr. Peter Pumpkin Eater, who makes pumpkin pies. He has a little bakery, and every day he sets out in his white apron and big cook's hat to sell his fresh pies.

Color this picture with your crayons and make the sky a bright blue and the hollyhocks gay pinks and reds. Fold the left end panel back on the dotted line and fold the right end panel forward. Tomorrow we will show you another scene which can be pasted to this one, so keep this picture safely.

(First to contribute this idea was Paula Lyons, Richland, Wash. Junior Editors awards $10 for a usable idea, so send in your suggestions care of this newspaper. Violet Moore Higgins; AP Newsfeatures.)

AEC Out of Line, Says Harriman

No Explanation Given for Fallout-Check Halt, N.Y. Governor Charges

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman reported today that the New York State Health Department had detected "a remarkable high" level of radioactivity in the atmosphere over New York on Sept. 24.

The governor said in a statement that the Atomic Energy Commission two days later ordered the department, without explanation he said, to stop its radioactivity monitoring program.

He noted that the order came six days after Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate proposed the United States take the lead in seeking to end H-bomb tests.

The Democratic governor linked the high-level incident of Sept. 24 to a reported explosion of a Russian H-bomb on Aug. 30.

"The manner in which this program was ended," said Harriman, "is typical of the (Eisenhower) administration's custom of taking action without explanation."

In Washington last night four Senate Democrats asked President Eisenhower if it were not true that some of his advisers had recommended steps toward ending test explosions of "certain types and sizes of the super H-bomb."

Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy committee; Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, J. William Fulbright of Arkansas and Mike Mansfield of Montana, said they also asked the President, in a telegram, if it were not true that he had agreed with the idea and had ordered studies to follow it up.

Adlai Assails Ike on New Brink of War

ty should have to pay for the time.

Stevenson planned to spend most of the day at the Penn-Sheraton Hotel here working on the speech.

Cancellation of the upstate New York talks apparently was dictated by the availability in New York City of nationwide TV and radio network facilities.

Stevenson seemed confident the time he sought would be granted under federal communications regulations requiring equal time for candidates between conventions and elections.

Last night he asked a tumultuous audience in Pittsburgh's Hunt Armory to support "efforts to end the war between Egypt and Israel" but said "I cannot promise to support or respect a foreign policy that has bluffed and blundered the United States into a shattering diplomatic disaster."

"It has brought the whole world to the brink of another war that Mr. Dulles (secretary of state) may not have planned but which he did a lot to cause," he said.

An audience which fire department officials estimated at 12,500 gave him a roaring reception.

He hammered away at Republican foreign policy in rallies in New York City during a day in which a steady downpour of rain cut down his street crowds and forced him to do his speaking indoors in halls of limited capacity.

At Pittsburgh, he said Eisenhower-Dulles policies have not only alienated Great Britain and France, and lost the confidence of Israel, but left this country on the side of the Soviet Union and Egyptian Dictator Gamal Abdel Nasser in the flaming Mideast crisis.

Stevenson arrived here too late to speak over a statewide television network purchased for his address. That was because he had lingered at New York's LaGuardia Airport to draft a telegram to Eisenhower that was made public minutes after the President went on a nationwide hookup and pledged "no United States involvement" in the Middle East fighting.

Stevenson's telegram referred to an earlier White House statement saying this country still stands by the 1950 United States-British-French pledge to aid the victim of any aggression in the Middle East.

Stevenson said the United States "must stand by its commitments, but I hope the statement does not mean that you (Eisenhower) are going to commit the United States to the hasty use of armed forces, especially in view of the confused history of this area, where both parties have engaged in shooting at one time or another."

At the Hunt Armory, Stevenson spoke without benefit of TV coverage. He told the party rally he was glad Eisenhower "assured us that he has no present intention of calling Congress into special session or involving the U.S. in these hostilities."

"All good Americans share his concern for peace and efforts to check the spread of war," he said.

"As leader of the Democratic party, I ask support for efforts to end the war between Egypt and Israel. But I cannot promise to support or respect a foreign policy that has bluffed and blundered the United States into a shattering diplomatic disaster. And what's more, it has brought the whole world to the brink of another war which Mr. Dulles may not have planned but which he did a lot to cause."

U.N. Meeting Today on War Emergency

a condemnation of Britain, France and Israel, a cease-fire call, or a request that U. N. members punish the three with diplomatic and economic measures.

Britain and France voted against the resolution to convene the Assembly, contending it was illegal. Australia and Belgium abstained.

The United States and the Soviet Union were among those casting favorable votes, further emphasizing the grave split in the Western alliance.

The emergency session is the first ever called under the Assembly's so-called "uniting for peace" resolution of Nov. 3, 1950. The United States got that resolution adopted in the Korean War days to enable the U. N. to act against aggression despite the Soviet veto in the Security Council.

GRAVE SITUATION

The council call for the session said "a grave situation has been created by action undertaken against Egypt" and the council had been unable to act because of the British and French vetoes.

The U. S. resolution which they vetoed now will become a proposal for action by the assembly.

It calls upon Israel and Egypt, 1 to cease fire at once; 2 upon Israel to withdraw its armed forces from Egypt; 3 upon all U. N. members to withhold military, economic and financial aid from Israel until she pulls back, and 4 on all U. N. members to refrain from the threat or use of force in the Middle East.

The later aimed squarely at Britain and France.

U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold told the council a secretary general could serve only on the assumption that all member nations would honor their pledge to observe the U. N. Charter, calling for peaceable behavior. The members generally including Britain and France, then voiced confidence in him.

A U. N. spokesman denied any idea that Hammarskjold had in mind to resign. He said he was merely leaving it up to U. N. members to agree with his interpretation of his role or to get rid of him.

Attackers Sink Ship to Block Suez Canal

AIMED AT AIRFIELDS

The air strikes, beginning at dawn after a night of British and French bombing attacks, were aimed at the airfields of Abu Sueir, Fayid and Kabrit in the canal zone; Inchass, 35 miles from Cairo; and Kasfareet.

The reported sinking of the Egyptian warship in the canal, followed the British announcement that another Egyptian warship had been sunk in the Red Sea off Suez, at the southern approaches to the canal. An Admiralty spokesman said the Egyptian frigate Domiat went down under the guns of the British cruiser Newfoundland.

"The Domiat was carrying mines with the apparent intention of laying them in the area," said the Admiralty announcement. It added 69 survivors from the Domiat had been picked up by British ships.

The British spokesman said attacks against Egyptian airfields were expected to go on throughout the day and gave this picture of the raids.

British bombers dropped delayed action bombs with fuses of different lengths on Egyptian fields last night. He said the fuse devices were used to give Egyptian personnel a chance to get away safely.

The first word of the break in Egypt's relations with Britain came from Cairo. The British Foreign Office took similar action against Egypt a short time later and a similar move was expected from France.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau called in U.S. Ambassador C. Douglas Dillon for a 20-minute talk on the Middle East crisis. French sources said Pineau outlined France's position. They added that plans drawn by military officials are proceeding on schedule and that no diplomatic intervention has altered the French-British operation.

The Egyptian Embassy in Paris said it was making preparations to leave France as soon as possible.

An official Egyptian government announcement from Cairo said Egypt was "studying" the question of withdrawing from the United Nations because the U.N. had "showed its inability and failure in dealing with big colonial countries' ambitions."

An American firm is making a water survey of Saudi Arabia for that Government.

Thief Forces Window to Effect Local Theft

Clifford Johnson of that address said the thief evidently entered by forcing a kitchen window. The billfold was on the kitchen table, he said.

Final Babsonpoll Still Likes Ike

Pennsylvania have a total of exactly 59.

The poll still indicates Democrats will control the new lower house by substantially the same margin they now enjoy.

In House races, 183 Democrats appear to be safely re-elected, 32 others are narrowly ahead, and 4 Democratic candidates are likely to upset GOP incumbents. Total: 219 Democratic seats.

Republicans seem destined to hold 126 seats, are leading in races for 54 others and probably will unseat Democrats in 5 more for a total of 185.

In 31 contests, the result is rated as tossup. These seats are now held by 19 Republicans and 12 Democrats.

With an even split in the tossup contests, the composition of the new House would be 234 Democrats and 201 Republicans.

The number of Senate races which have fallen into the Babson tossup classification is unusually large.

Good fortune in these nine contests for either party could mean control of the upper house by a substantial margin.

Again assuming an even break between the two parties in the neck-and-neck contest, however, the Democrats would wind up with a margin of one to three seats in the new Senate.

The tossup seats are now held by six Republicans and three Democrats. Democrats hold a fragmentary lead in five of the races; Republicans in four.

Because of the number of close senatorial contests, Babsonpoll officials predict control of the Senate may not be finally determined until many hours after the presidential result is known.

Ike Promises Nation to Stay Out of War

underscored it will be a campaign address.

Asked whether Eisenhower's talk would be political in nature, Hagerty replied:

"It's on a campaign platform — certainly."

The Middle East crisis caused Eisenhower to cancel a campaign trip he had scheduled for yesterday into Texas, Oklahoma and Tennessee.

And it was not until yesterday that he decided to go ahead with tonight's Philadelphia speech, which was arranged last week. Aides said the decision was based on the fact that the engagement will take the President out of Washington for only a few hours.

Hagerty said Eisenhower has under consideration only one more campaign address — a trip to Boston for a speech Monday night, election eve.

FOR 360 PUPILS—Here's what the city's two new elementary schools will look like, according to the architects, H. E. Beyster and Associates of Detroit. A wing of ten classrooms and two kindergartens is on the left, with a fenced in play area for the kindergartners. In the middle is a classroom wing for the upper elementary students and a multi-purpose room is at the far right for gymnasium, cafeteria, auditorium and community activities. There's an open air court in the center, opposite the main entrance. The schools will be built and be ready next fall on Bay street in the Herrington Hills Subdivision and on Kennett road west of Cloverlawn drive. They will cost less than $500,000 apiece.

Radioactivity in State Jumps 20 Times, Williams Orders Continued Tests of Air

LANSING (AP) — Daily tests of radioactivity in the air over Michigan have been ordered resumed by Gov. Williams.

In ordering resumption of the tests, the governor cited State Health Department reports that radioactivity readings ranged up to 20 times as much as "normal" in September.

Experts hastened to add this is far from the danger point.

John C. Soet, director of occupational health for the department and supervisor of the tests, said the danger point will not be reached until radioactivity climbs to 4,000 times the normal amount.

"Nevertheless," the governor said, "I think that public safety requires that we keep a close watch on the matter."

The tests were begun April 18 at the request of the U. S. Public Health Service, which asked all state health departments to help determine what effect atomic and hydrogen bomb explosions have on radioactivity in the air.

Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner, said the U.S. ordered the tests stopped in a leter dated Sept. 26 and received by his department two days later.

"I do not know why they were ordered stopped," Heustis said. "Our original understanding was that they were to continue before, during and after the atomic bomb explosions."

Soet said he thought the tests should be continued.

"We are using more and more radioactive materials in the state — in industry and elsewhere," he said. "It would be helpful to have continuous information on the amount of radioactivity in the air."

The research was conducted with devices installed on the roof of the State Health Department in Lansing.

One testing device forced air through filters for 24 hours, after which time the filters were removed and read with geiger counters.

In another test, a sheet of paper was stretched across a frame. The paper, covered with sticky substance, caught particles of dust. Then the paper was burned and the degree of radioactivity in the ashes was read with a counter.

COUNT VARIES

The tests were conducted daily, Soet said, and the degree of radioactivity varied widely.

In the latter part of September, however, Soet said the tests detected a rising trend in the degree of radioactivity to a point where the content reached 20 times normal.

The highest previous reading since the tests were started was four times normal, he said.

Soet said he could not connect the peak readings with the bomb tests because he didn't know when the test explosions were conducted.

He said he understood tests were to have been conducted in New Mexico in May but were postponed until June because of bad weather.

Soet said the peak readings recorded on the instruments "indicated unusual atomic activity somewhere, however."

Yen for Drinks Pays Off

BIG SPRING, Tex. (INS) — A Big Spring youth had a good thing going with a local vending machine. He discovered that a Japanese yen would deliver a cold drink, return the yen and an additional 15 cents.

Profits (exclusive of drinks) were up to $3.20 before he was caught.

Rails Did Army Stint

NEW YORK—The railroads of the United States went to war in 1941 with fewer engines and less trackage than had supported our forces in 1917. Yet they carried more than 90 per cent of the total freight and troops, in addition to three fourths of all intercity freight. The increase in cargo volume was 125 per cent and in passenger volume 300 per cent.

Ike's-Nixon's Popularity in New England Down

BOSTON (INS) — The ticket of Eisenhower and Nixon is nowhere near so popular in New England today as it was in 1952, but it apparently will be popular enough to win at least five out of the six states.

Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver have their best chance to break into the win column in Rhode Island, where they will benefit from a strong Democratic organization and the expected re-election of a popular governor.

In Massachusetts, Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine, the GOP victory margins will be much narrower than they were four years ago.

An indication of the GOP's situation in New England was given by Maine voters in that state's September election.

Democratic Gov. Edmund S. Muskie was returned to office by the largest majority—50,000—in the history of the Pine Tree state. Muskie also carried one Democratic congressman to victory. A second missed unseating GOP veteran Robert Hale by 95 votes.

Nonetheless, political experts in Maine believe the President's personal popularity plus the Republican tradition will keep the state in the GOP column.

In Massachusetts, the result will be very, very close in the presidential race. Present indications are however, that the President will carry the state.

Cutting into the Republican vote will be discontent in western Massachusetts with what is considered the administration's apparent lack of interest in flood control despite the disastrous floods of 1955.

In the eastern half of the state there is considerable bitterness over the administration's alleged failure to aid the depressed textile industry.

The gubernatorial race in the Bay State is a toss-up at the moment. Lt. Gov. Sumner G. Whittier of Everett, the running mate of retiring Gov. Christian A. Herter for the past two terms, is seeking to keep the Republicans in the state house for another two years.

Foster Furcolo of Longmeadow, former U.S. representative and state treasurer, hopes to become the first Italo-American governor to be elected in Massachusetts and return the Democrats to power in the Bay State.

There is no U.S. senatorial race in Massachusetts this year, but seven Democrats and seven Republicans in the house are seeking re-election.

They include Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Attleboro (R), house minority leader, and John W. McCormack, Boston, house majority leader, both of whom expect little trouble.

Vermont is expected to remain traditionally Republican, but the Democrats are waging the loudest and most flamboyant campaign ever staged in the Green Mountain State. The GOP is countering with stepped-up activity.

The President, however, looks like a sure winner.

In the gubernatorial race, the two men who made the race two years ago—Gov. Joseph B. Johnson, and Democrat E. Frank Branon, 65-year-old Fairfield farmer—oppose each other again. Johnson, a retired engineer, has the edge.

U.S. Sen. George D. Aiken of Putney is seeking re-election and should win easily over 35-year-old Bernard O'Shea, a weekly newspaper publisher in Swanton.

U.S. Rep. Winston L. Prouty (R) of Montpelier should have an easy triumph over Democrat Camille St. Amour of St. Albans.

In New Hampshire, President Eisenhower is regarded as a sure bet again although the contest between Republican incumbent Gov. Lane Dwinell and Democrat John Shaw, former mayor of Rochester, is attracting the greatest political attention.

Democrats are hopeful of electing a Democratic governor for the first time in 32 years. If Shaw succeeds, it will be because of GOP dissension.

Dwinell is still favored to win, however. There's a preponderance of Republicans in the Granite State and President Eisenhower is topping the GOP ticket.

U.S. Sen. Norris Cotten (R) of Lebanon, N.H., is expected to win his first six-year term fairly easily from his Democratic opponent, Lawrence M. Picket, former mayor of Keene. Cotten was elected in 1954 to fill out the unexpired term of the late Sen. Charles W. Tobey (R).

In the first congressional district, Republican incumbent Rep. Chester E. Merrow is expected an easy victor for his eighth term over Democrat James B. Sullivan, Manchester, N.H., attorney.

In the other congressional district, Rep. Perkins Bass (R), a strong Eisenhower supporter, is looked upon as a sure winner for a second term over Democrat George Brown, Winchester, N.H.

In Rhode Island, Gov. Dennis J. Roberts is picked to sweep the Democratic state ticket back into office with him for his fourth term, and could carry the state for Stevenson, too.

A stiff battle is being waged by Christopher Del Sesto, Providence attorney and a former Democrat.

There is no U.S. senatorial contest in Rhode Island this year. The two Democratic representatives are expected to win easy re-election.

The Eisenhower-Nixon ticket carried Connecticut by nearly 130,000 votes in 1952. Democratic gains since then aren't expected to be enough to change the final result.

Cutting into the President's lead is the close contest between Democratic Rep. Thomas J. Dodd and Sen. Prescott Bush, who ran a 100,000 votes behind Mr. Eisenhower when he won an unexpired Senate term in 1952.

Democrats Appear Safe Bets to Retain Control Over Senate

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Democratic party is a heavy favorite to control the next Senate by at least the same narrow margin it held the past two years.

A tremendous landslide victory by President Eisenhower might alter the prospects. But it appears there will be a minimum of 49 Democrats in the next Senate, leaving a maximum of 47 to the GOP.

There are 35 seats at stake in 33 states in Tuesday's elections. These seats are held by 18 Democrats and 17 Republicans.

Senatorial contests in California, Colorado, Connecticut, New York and two in Kentucky are expected to decide the political division of the Senate. Without belittling the importance of any other race, it appears the margin of Democratic control will be the number of seats they win in these six contests.

SENATE MAY SPLIT

On the other hand, if Republicans take all six of these contests they seem sure of electing an evenly divided Senate. In that case the vice president casts the deciding vote.

Democrats actually started out with a big edge in the campaign because 11 seats are in the Solid South and border states. Even the Republicans concede 11 Democrats will be elected to fill these seats. They are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, and two in South Carolina.

Republicans are certain of electing at least three. These are in Kansas, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Of the remaining 15 contests, Democrats are ahead in six — Nevada, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Washington and West Virginia. Only an upset could bring a Republican victory in any of these states.

Republicans are ahead in the remaining nine contests — Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Maryland, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah and Wisconsin. A Democratic victory in any of these contests would be a surprise, although the Democrats are seriously claiming a couple of them.

There are 61 holdover senators, 31 of them Democrats and 30 Republicans. With the 11 certain Democratic victories and three sure Republicans added, the totals would be 42 Democrats and 33 Republicans. Adding the six Democrats "ahead" and the nine Republicans "ahead" the totals would be 48 Democrats and 42 Republicans.

6 KEY STATES

Despite many conflicting reports on these and even other contests, the key to senatorial control apparently lies in the other six races. Here is how they look:

California: Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R) in a toss-up battle with Richard Richards (D). Reports favor one and then the other. Each party has sent its top speakers into the state, in part, to win this seat.

Colorado: Former Gov. Dan Thornton (R) vs. former Rep. John A. Carroll (D). Again both sides claim victory.

Connecticut: Sen. Prescott S. Bush (R) vs. Rep. Thomas J. Dodd (D). Bush's prospects in a toss-up battle seem to rest on a big Ike victory.

Kentucky: (two seats) (1) Sen. Earle C. Clements (D) vs. former Assistant Secretary of State Thruston B. Morton. (2) Former Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby (D) vs. Former Senator John Sherman Cooper (R) for the late Alben Barkley's seat. Clements and Cooper are reported leading. Veteran observers say nothing is certain when ballots are split in a double Senate race.

New York: New York City Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr., (D) vs. State Attorney Jacob K. Javits (R). Most experts say Javits' fate is tied with the size of Ike's majority.

This year in all these Senate races outside the "sure winners," there is a larger independent vote —sometimes called "undecided" or "silent" or "won't say"— which may bring startling surprises.

Palisades Slide Women Into $55,000 Law Suit

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Four women who rode a landslide down Santa Monica's Pacific Palisades Aug. 26 are suing the city for a total of $55,000, contending it was the city's land which slid.

Mrs. Maude Hankerson, 64, Mrs. Lucille Glenn, 48, Mrs. Eugenie Baughman, 72, and Mrs. Norah K. Hayward, 63, said in their suit that they were injured when a portion of the Palisades Park broke away, dropping them—and nearly 12,000 tons of earth—on the Pacific Coast Highway.

Mel Torme Weds Again

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Singer Mel Torme, 31, and Arlene Miles, 25, were married last night at the New Frontier Hotel. It was the second marriage for both.

As a retaliation move, Guatemala has embargoed all imports from West Germany.

Resistance Movement

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — David Louis (Cockey) Bennett has been arrested 134 times since 1938, but it's the last few times that hurt, Bennett complained to the FBI. The 39-year-old unemployed laborer says Louisville police, who arrested him five times during the past week for loitering, violated his civil rights. The FBI said it would investigate.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

SYNOPSIS

Connie Barton's husband of almost five happy years aroused her suspicion by his Wednesday night absences; his alibis for going out these evenings were too weak. So Connie concluded Steve was having blonde trouble. She resolved to fight fire with fire. She began by having her jet hair dyed the blondest blonde and seeking to allure him into staying home. But Steve laughed at her new hair-do and went out again. Furious, Connie followed him to an office building where she spied him in a private room dancing with a beautiful blonde. She realized Steve started taking dancing lessons as a pleasant surprise for her. She kept an eye on the door, and after Steve left Connie entered the room unnoticed to have an encouraging word for his blonde teacher. The teacher was sprawled on the floor—she dead. In her hand there was a paper silhouette of herself with a needle through it.

Connie looked in vain for another door that the murderer could have used. Then, seeking to cover up for Steve, she grabbed the silhouette and the appointment book at the unattended reception desk and went home. Police arrived, explaining that police have the names of all the teacher's Wednesday pupils and are contacting them about their appointment hours.

When Bolling asks Steve his hour, Steve, on the pretext of getting beer, hurries to the kitchen where Connie has hidden the stolen appointment book so—

Chapter 6

Bolling was looking at me closely, curiously. I pressed my hands together to still their shaking. I tried to smile casually. I answered the question in Bolling's eyes with one of my own.

"Yes, Mr. Bolling?"

"I was just wondering . . ." Steve came into the room with three glasses of beer on a tray. "Barton," Bolling said, "what's your opinion? You like her better as a blonde or a brunette?"

"Blonde or brunette," Steve said, "she's my wife. Three o'clock Saturday."

"What's that, Barton?"

"I take my lesson at three o'clock Saturday."

"Oh, thanks."

Bolling wrote the name Barton into the right block. Then he leaned back with his glass of beer. He could afford to relax, even though he didn't know it. In a few minutes Hankins and Lewine would be calling.

One of them would have found the dancing man who actually had his lesson at three o'clock on Saturday. Bolling would know which one was lying . . . I found myself wondering if Steve would go quietly.

"Barton," Bolling was saying, "how well did you get to know this Anita Farrell?"

"You know that," Steve said. "I spent exactly nine hours with her."

"You must have talked a lot to her."

"I guess so. Mostly I said, 'Excuse me, pardon me, was that the same foot again?' Things like that."

"She must have been a hell of a good looking girl."

"She was."

"More than that, wasn't she? Sexy?"

"Well," Steve said.

I said, "Shall I step outside a minute?

"No," Bolling said amiably. "Stick around."

He looked at his watch. I could have told him what he wanted to know. Hankins and Lewine would be calling in about four minutes or less. He took a long, happy pull on his beer.

He said, "This is what I'm getting at, Barton. A girl like this Farrell girl . . . she could drive a man a little bit crazy. If one of her students . . . well, if she kept saying no to him, that might upset him to the point where he might put a bullet in her."

"That sort of thing happens," Steve said.

"Almost every day, including Sunday," Bolling said. "It's alarming. She never talked to you about any of her students, Barton? Never complained about one, maybe who bothered her especially?"

"No, she never impressed me as a girl who would complain about anything like that."

"Oh. Would you say she was on the make? A tease, maybe? I want your opinion, Barton."

I said, "What does motive matter? In a few minutes you'll know which of two men killed her . . ."

The phone rang.

Bolling took his chart to the phone. He talked to Hankins through the precinct switchboard, then he talked to Lewine. He kept mumbling days, hours, names. He kept filling in his little squares. At last he hung up. He sat there then, endlessly, studying his chart. Abruptly he stood up. He was annoyed.

"Damn," he said. "We haven't got it yet. No two have claimed the same time."

"Tough," Steve said.

I wasn't able to speak at all.

Bolling snatched up his hat. "See you soon," he growled.

He was gone.

"Steve," I breathed, "you lucky, lucky boy!"

"What do you mean lucky?"

"You happened to pick the lesson time of someone they haven't got in touch with yet."

"It wasn't luck. I knew they couldn't locate guys named Tolley, Grant and Culligan because Bollin said so. Out in the kitchen I looked up Tolley in the register. I took his time . . . Saturday at three o'clock."

"You darling, you!"

"Now don't get happy. This Tolley may pop up any minute."

"Steve, we've got to find him before Bolling does!"

"If we could, what would we do with him?"

"Keep him quiet!"

"How?"

"I don't know. There are ways, aren't there?"

"Connie . . ."

"All right! Then you've just got to solve this case before they do locate Tolley!"

"Just like that, huh? All of a sudden, I can solve murder cases."

"Well, you'd better learn. Because that's the only way to keep a murder rap away from you . . . you, personally, Steve. Do I make myself clear, darling?"

I fled into the bedroom. I didn't want Steve to think I was the hysterical type blonde that was always crying all over men's shoulders.

The next morning I awoke before Steve. He was still sleeping heavily, and the ashtrays in the living room told me why. It must have taken him until almost daybreak to smoke that many cigarettes. My husband was a very worried man.

He was trapped; there was nothing that he could do to help himself. The taking-off place for the solution to this murder was the Crescent School of Dancing, and Steve couldn't show his face there. He would at least be recognized as a pupil of Anita's, if not as the Waltzer himself.

Steve's hands were tied, but there was something I could do. It was something I was going to do without telling Steve. Almost certainly he wouldn't let me do it. I had to get out of the apartment without waking him.

I dressed as quickly as possible. I didn't bother with any breakfast. I stopped only long enough to check on a hunch I had. It was a good hunch. In the back of the register I found a list of all the present customers of the Crescent School of Dancing with their addresses.

I learned that Mr. Ralph Tolley lived at the Macklin Hotel on West Fifty-fourth Street.

I called the Macklin from the first drugstore I came to on my way downtown. Mr. Tolley was still away.—The switchboard girl didn't know where he was or when he would be back. Yes, she said, he still had his room there. I hung up, feeling a little better.

Mr. Tolley hadn't as yet made a liar out of Steve by telling the cops that he, not my husband, took the Saturday lesson at three o'clock from Anita Farrell.

I took a cab downtown and I arrived at the Crescent School of Dancing just after the first classes got under way at ten o'clock. I had a bad moment when I faced the smart receptionist with the bejewelled glasses.

But if she had somehow noticed me lurking in my corner the night before, she didn't remember me. When I asked to see Mr. Oliver Bell, the proprietor of this establishment, she was most helpful. In reply to my inquiry, she thought there was a good chance that Mr. Bell might be hiring a new dancing teacher. She showed me directly to his office.

Connie's wits are put to a crucial test as Chapter 7 of "The Blonde Died Dancing" continues. Read it in this newspaper next Monday.

MSU Mendyk's Nephew Killed by Electrocution

SAGINAW (AP) — Ten-months-old Mark Dennis Mendyk was found unconscious Tuesday on the floor of his home in suburban St. Charles. He was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Police said he apparently was electrocuted by touching a radiator pipe and an electric wire.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Mendyk, and a nephew of MSU football player Dennis "The Menace" Mendyk.

Postpone Retirement

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—City Commission has approved a one-year extension of tenure for Fire Chief Frank H. Burns and Fire Department master mechanic Ferdinand Brocker. Burns becomes 60 years old Nov. 19. Brocker's 60th birthday was Oct. 21. A city ordinance fixes 60 as retirement age for police and firemen, but allows extension while replacements are sought.

Serve Election Day Cake Nov. 6

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Whether your candidate wins or loses next Tuesday, you will probably serve refreshments during the evening hours while you're listening to returns. This year serve an Election Day Cake.

In the early days of our country's history it was not easy to hear election results. Men (for women didn't vote, of course) rode long miles to vote, then often stayed around until the final count was in. Candidates were expected to supply food and drink for all.

First introduced in the late 1700's, election day cakes soon became popular. Old time cookbooks list as many as a dozen different recipes. Housewives vied with one another to make and serve the best cake.

One of the original recipes calls for thirty quarts of flour and three dozen eggs; a pint each of wine and brandy were also worked into the dough.

Neither a fruit cake nor a nut bread, Election Day cake is a yeast-raised cake somewhere between the two. One story has it that this tempting treat was served only to those who voted the straight ticket!

While in New York, we saw demonstrated a modern version of this old American favorite. We are giving you that recipe, also one calling for fewer ingredients. Both will give you an excellent cake to serve November 6, or any time of the year.

Ye Olde 'Lection Cake

2 packages active dry yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 teaspoon sugar
½ cup boiling water
½ cup brown sugar, packed
1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2¾ cups sifted cake flour
1 cup granulated sugar
1¼ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon mace
⅔ cup shortening
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup milk
3 eggs, unbeaten
½ cup currants or seedless raisins
½ cup candied citron, diced
½ cup candied pineapple, diced
¼ cup candied orange peel, diced

Sprinkle yeast in lukewarm water, add 1 teaspoon sugar and let stand until mixture is frothy (5-10 min.). Pour boiling water over brown sugar and stir until sugar is dissolved. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in dissolved yeast. Add 1¼ cups all-purpose flour and beat until smooth. Cover and let rise in warm place until light and bubbly (30 min.).

Sift cake flour and next 4 ingredients together into large mixing bowl. Add shortening and next 4 ingredients and beat 300 strokes (3 min. on mixer at low speed). Scrape bowl and spoon or beaters once during mixing. Add light yeast mixture and beat well (1 min. on mixer at low speed). Add currants, citron, pineapple and peel and mix well.

Turn into greased 8½" tube pan and let rise in warm place until light (about 1 hr.). Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees) 55-60 min. Cool in pan on wire rack 15-20 min., then remove cake to rack to finish cooling. When cold, spoon Pineapple Frosting over top, letting frosting run over sides.

Pineapple Frosting

Put 1 tablespoon each of light cream, canned pineapple juice and butter or margarine in small bowl and heat over hot water until butter is melted. Remove from hot water. Add ¼ teaspoon each of grated orange rind and grated lemon rind and 1½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar and beat until smooth. Add 2 tablespoons diced candied pineapple and mix. Makes enough frosting for top of 8½" tube cake.

Election Cake

2 packages dry, active yeast or 2 cakes, compressed
½ cup warm water
2 teaspoons sugar
1½ cups milk, scalded
8 cups sifted enriched flour (about)
1 cup butter or margarine
1½ cups brown sugar, firmly packed
4 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¼ teaspoon each cloves, mace, nutmeg
1½ cups seedless raisins
½ cup chopped citron

Dissolve yeast in water (lukewarm for compressed yeast; warm not hot, for dry, active yeast). Add 2 teaspoons sugar. Cool scalded milk to lukewarm and add. Add 1½ cups of sifted flour. Cover and let rise in warm place until very bubbly—about 1 hour.

Cream butter or margarine; add brown sugar gradually, while creaming. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition; add to yeast mixture. Mix and sift remaining flour, salt, and spices; stir in, adding more flour if necessary to make a stiff batter. Beat until smooth. Stir in raisins and citron.

Turn into a greased and floured 10-inch tube cake pan, filling not more than 2-3 full. Cover. Let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, about 2½ hours. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, 1 hour, 15 minutes. Cool. Frost top with thin lemon glaze and sprinkle with grated lemon peel. Serves 24 to 30.

ELECTION DAY CAKE — Mrs. Ben Korczynsky of Auburn avenue baked an Election Day Cake to show Pontiac Press readers what it is like. She put this yeast-raised, fruit-filled cake into a square tube pan, but suggests that a smaller tube pan would be better. "It's a delicious cake," Mrs. Korczynsky said, "not at all hard to make." Try either one of the recipes printed below (Mrs. K. used the first one) and serve it to your family and guests next Tuesday evening.

Popcorn Balls Surefire Treat

Peppy Molasses Popcorn Balls (they're peppy with peppermint) combine a new ingredient with that wonderful old-fashioned molasses flavor.

And real New Orleans molasses gives these popcorn balls much more flavor. It's one of the very best sources of iron—usable iron, the kind that our bodies can assimilate.

No need to urge children to eat this treat because "it's good for you"—they'll be eying the second popcorn ball after one bite of the first!

Peppy Molasses Popcorn Balls

4 quarts popped corn
⅔ cup crushed peppermint
1½ cups light New Orleans molasses
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Mix popcorn and crushed candy. Cook molasses and sugar together slowly, stirring constantly, to 270 degrees (or when small quantity dropped into cold water forms a hard ball). Remove from heat and add butter or margarine.

Pour syrup over popped corn mixture, stirring constantly in order to coat all the kernels. Cool slightly; shape into balls with lightly-butered hands. Makes two dozen balls.

Enhances Luncheon

A cluster of seedless grapes, a fresh pear halve or some wedges of red-skinned apple help to make a luncheon sandwich look and taste good. The fruit will be delicious with a filling of ham, chicken or cheese.

Molded Shrimp Is Festive Dish

Food baked in a ring mold and served on a platter with other foods in always taste tempting. The Shrimp Association of the Americas has developed such a recipe in honor of its Shrimp Fiesta, Oct. 15 to Nov. 3.

The Fiesta, of course, takes place in the fall because that's when the boats come into home ports with their holds full of shrimp, most of which are frozen or canned, to be shipped throughout the United States.

Shrimp Fiesta Ring Mold

2 pounds shrimp, cooked and cleaned, or 2 cans shrimp, drained
¼ cup salad oil
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup chopped celery
2 cups day-old bread, broken in pieces
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

Reserve six or eight whole shrimp for garnishing. Run remaining shrimp through medium blade of food chopper or cut in small pieces. Heat salad oil and saute vegetables. Soak bread in water and squeeze out excess. Add to sauteed vegetables.

Add shrimp, egg, seasoninsg. Mix thoroughly. Pack in buttered ring mold.

Bake about 15 minutes in moderate (350 degrees) oven.

Turn out on platter. Fill center with a colorful vegetable, such as peas, green beans, broccoli, carrots. Garnish with lemon slices, parsley and the whole shrimp. Makes six servings.

Make Different Dessert

Need a different dessert for company? Fill parfait or sherbet glasses with chocolate ice cream and pour a mint flavored sauce over it; top with whipped cream if desired.

Tempting Loaf of Beef, Noodles

If you're in the habit of serving casseroles often, you might like to branch out and test your talents at this Tasty Noodle Loaf.

It goes together just like any casserole. The difference comes when you unmold the loaf on a serving platter, garnish it with spiced fruit, and set it on the table with a flourish.

Dried beef is the meat ingredient. Consomme and mushrooms flavor the sauce.

Tasty Noodle Loaf

4 ounces broad noodles
¼ cup butter or margarine
⅓ cup finely chopped onion
⅔ cup chopped mushrooms (4-ounce can)
¼ cup enriched flour
1 teaspoon dry mustard
Dash pepper
1¼ cups condensed consomme (10½ ounce can)
1 cup milk
2 eggs
4 ounces dried beef, cut in pieces

Add 2 teaspoons salt and noodles to 3 cups boiling water. Boil rapidly, stirring constantly, for 2 minutes. Cover, remove from heat and let stand 10 minutes.

Rinse noodles and drain well. Stir dried beef and noodles into half the sauce. Turn into greased 4½x8½ inch loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Remove from pan to heated serving platter and serve with remaining sauce. Makes four servings.

For a smoother flavored mincemeat pie, add 1 tablespoon pure vanilla extract to each 2 pound jar mincemeat used.

Turkey Deserves Name of All-American Bird

Turkey deserves the honor of being the All-American Bird! The Department of Agriculture tells us that of all the animals on the farm, the turkey is the only one whose history is rooted firmly in American soil. From 1621 when our Pilgrim Fathers first feasted on wild turkey with their Indian neighbors, the turkey has been identified with this oldest of American holidays.

Not only is turkey a holiday bird, it has become good eating any time of the year. Better production and breeding methods have produced birds of all sizes. Today's plump meaty turkeys are tender, and barely resemble the tough wild turkeys of our forefathers' day.

SKILLET CLUB FOR MEN

By Frank Kohler

By UNCLE FRANK KOHLER
(Chief Skilleteer)

BOOKBINDER SOUP as done at The Drake in Chicago—and our thanks to Frank Amstadt, "head yardmaster" at Camelia House, for this wonderful soup. It is a red snapper dish, and highly popular. Try it and you'll see why.

¼ cup diced onions
1 cup diced green pepper
½ cup diced celery
3 tablespoons butter
3 peeled tomatoes, diced
2 pints of fish stock
1 pint brown tomato sauce
1 cup diced red snapper
Sherry

Saute the onion, green pepper and celery lightly in butter until tender, then add the diced tomatoes and fish stock and simmer 20 minutes. Add brown tomato sauce.

Simmer the fish lightly in water to cover for five minutes, then add to the soup, and let all simmer, stirring occasionally, until fish is nice and tender. Check for taste.

At the Drake they serve a bit of sherry in a little decanter so each guest may flavor his soup to his own taste.

To make the fish stock, get two pounds of any white-fleshed fish, cut it up in small pieces, and place it in a kettle together with head, tail, bones and skin. Add one onion sliced thin; one carrot sliced thin; one blade of mace; twelve white peppercorns, slightly crushed; one teaspoon salt; pinch of dried thyme; two cloves; one bay leaf; ten sprigs of parsley.

Pour over it three pints water, bring to a boil, then simmer one hour. Skim carefully, strain through a fine sieve, and keep refrigerated.

For the brown tomato sauce you need:

4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped carrot
2 tablespoons chopped celery leaves
2 bay leaves
3 springs parsley
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups beef consomme or stock
2 tablespoons tomato paste

Melt the butter, and stir in the vegetables. Stir and cook until vegetables begin to brown. Blend in the flour, then the two cups of meat stock. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens.

Check the seasonings for flavor, then strain through a fine sieve Finally, stir in the tomato paste and blend well.

This sounds like a lot of trouble, but it is really elegant eating. A big bowl of "Bookbinder" and a Caesar salad, for instance, make a wonderful meal.

You might try a well-chilled melon to top it off—maybe a ripe honeydew with a blob of lime ice or sherbet mounted jauntily thereon.

SKILLETIPS—on iced coffee. Try making your coffee extra strong and chilling in the refrigerator. Some like to freeze a tray of coffee ice cubes to avoid undue dilution of the coffee.

Gift Fudge Has Minty Goodness

Cold weather is traditionally the season for making candy at home. With this quick recipe you'll want to make Chocolate Mint Fudge often for family nibblers, for visitors and for holiday gifts.

Remember, the most appreciated gift is often the one you make yourself.

Five-Minute Chocolate Mint Fudge

2 tablespoons butter
⅔ cup (small can) undiluted evaporated milk
1½ cups sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups (about 16) diced marshmallows
1½ cups (1½ 6-ounce packages) semi-sweet chocolate chips
½ teaspoon peppermint extract
½ cup chopped nuts

Combine butter, evaporated milk, sugar and salt in 2½ quart heavy saucepan over medium heat. Bring to a boil. Cook 4 to 5 minutes, stirring constantly. (Start timing when mixture starts to "bubble" around edges of pan.)

Remove from heat. Stir in marshmallows, chocolate chips, peppermint extract and nuts. Stir vigorously for 1 minute or until marshmallows are completely melted and blended.

Pour into 9-inch square buttered pan and allow to cool. Cut into squares. Top each square with a colored mint wafer if you want to make the fudge extra festive. Makes about 2 pounds.

Rules for Substituting Bananas in Recipes

If you like banana flavor in cakes, cookies, biscuits, muffins or quick breads, here are some rules to help you substitute bananas for the liquid ingredient in commercial package mixes.

When directions say to add 1 cup of water or milk, use in its place 1½ cups mashed (4 to 5) bananas. When directions say 1 cup of water or milk and eggs, then use in its place 1 cup mashed bananas (2 to 3), ½ cup water and eggs as specified. Incorporated into batter, bananas give sweet, mellow banana flavor and help bakery products to stay fresh and moist.

Adults Need Milk for Nerves, Bones

Many people think milk is important only for children, because it supplies calcium for growth and for upkeep of the bones. They think that as they grow older they don't need milk.

Nothing could be further from the truth. Calcium is needed at every age for upkeep of the bones and normal functioning of nerves and muscles, including the action of the heart.

If our food doesn't supply enough calcium, then calcium is taken from the bones. They then become thin and weak and sometimes break easily. The doctor uses the word "decalcified" to describe such bones.

Milk has many other nutritional values besides calcium. It supplies the important vitamin, riboflavin. No vitamin has more widespread action in the body than riboflavin. It is involved when the cells use oxygen—a very vital function indeed!

When the diet does not supply enough riboflavin the skin may crack at the corners of the mouth and the skin may become scaly, especially around the nose. The eyes may be affected, too, becoming sensitive to light and inflamed. Vision may dim.

Almost Endless Variety of New Products Appears

Pontiac Press Home Editor

It's time to share with you all the interesting bits of food news we've collected in the past several weeks. There are several exciting new products on the market, or just about to be put on the market.

Chop Suey is coming in large, economy-size cans now. You have a choice of Chop Suey Vegetables with Mushrooms, with Beef or with Chicken. All you have to do is thicken the liquid in the can, add the vegetables and heat thoroughly. It's a delicious answer to the last-minute cooking question.

Watch the frozen food section of your grocery store for Ice-box Cookies. We had some in New York at the Food Editors Conference and gave our approval.

You will probably like all three kinds, Crunchy Peanut, Coconut and Butterscotch Nut. With a roll of these cookies in your freezer, or refrigerator, you can have cookies at a moment's notice.

Another new instant food that we tasted in New York was Instant Lemon Pie Filling. It requires no cooking so eliminates forever sticky and sometimes scorched pans. Personally, we would like it a bit more lemony. But try it for yourselves.

This is the sort of item that properly belongs on the business page. However, we think it an interesting development. Duncan Hines mixes are now being made by Proctor and Gamble Company. Actually, the only change is in ownership, as the mixes will be made in the same locations as before.

If you have a baby to consider in your food shopping trips, look for the high protein cereal now on the market. Made of milk, wheat germ, soy flour, oat flour and cottonseed meal, it contains thirty-five per cent high qualiy protein. Ask your doctor about using this new prepared cereal product.

Recently we were sent a new cake mix to try. It should be on the market this week or next. It's a yellow cake with tiny bits of lemon in it. Everyone who tasted it liked it. It's a quickie to make too.

Cooking continues to be a most exciting occupation. If you like to "fuss", you have a world of food at your fingertips. If you want to get the best meals with the least work, you can do that too. Convenience, taste and quality are the keynotes of today's food products.

Here's a new dessert and party surprise that's certain to make you the most popular mother in the neighborhood—Jelly Roll Pops. The tots will love these bright jelly roll slices edged in creamy chocolate or white frosting.

Miniature jelly rolls (2½ ounces) from your grocer's ready-to-eat cake department are the perfect size for Jelly Roll Pops, and the frosting may be melted dot chocolate, made from prepared mixes, or from your own favorite frosting recipe.

JELLY ROLL POPS

Miniature jelly rolls (plan three pops per jelly roll)
Large meat skewers or narrow wooden tongue depressers
Frosting

Thoroughly chill or lightly freeze jelly rolls. Slice each into three even slices. Insert a skewer carefully but firmly into the center of the bottom of each slice. Spread outside edges and back of each slice with frosting. Place, frosted side up, on baking sheet. Chill before serving.

Plan Hearty Brunch for Football Crowd

NEW YORK (INS).— The brisk, football weather sparks ideas for the rousing, warm type of brunch that will carry the gang through the day of the big game.

If you plan to feed your friends before trooping out to the stadium, be sure you give them adequate food to last them through the chill afternoon.

You can start with bowls or mugs of steaming hot soup—a good rich variety like tomato-beef noodle or bean chowder.

Then, along with the warming liquid nourishment, serve tempting he-man dishes like broiled ham slices with grape-pineapple rings, creamed eggs with mushrooms, buttered English muffins and a pick-and-choose fruit bowl and coffee.

Soup makes a wonderfully warm companion at the game too, so why not fill thermos bottles with beef broth or tomato soup to sip through the afternoon?

Beef Chop Suey for Buffet Meal

The following recipe for Beef Chop Suey is perfectly suited to an evening of informal buffet entertaining.

The dish needs no extra trimmings. It's an all-in-one platter, traditionally incorporating vegetables into the sauce along with strips of meat.

Flavor's the important thing in Chinese cooking, and when you serve this dish to your guests, you can be proud of a real culinary accomplishment!

Beef Chop Suey

2 tablespoons oil
1 teaspoon salt
1 pound round steak cut ¼ inch thick
1½ cups boiling water
1 beef bouillon cube
1 cup coarsely-diced celery
1 cup thinly-sliced onion
¼ pound mushrooms, sliced
1 16-ounce can bean sprouts, drained
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 teaspoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons molasses
1 teaspoon vinegar

Heat oil and salt in large skillet. Cut beef diagonally in strips ⅛ inch thick and one inch long; brown in hot fat. Dissolve bouillon cube in water and add with celery, onions and mushrooms.

Cover skillet and simmer for 20 minutes, or until meat is tender. Add bean sprouts.

Mix together cornstarch, soy sauce, molasses and vinegar. Stir into meat mixture and cook until thickened and very hot. Serve immediately on hot boiled rice. Serves six.

For Tastier Cocoa

To give cocoa made from nonfat dry milk a richer flavor, add ¼ teaspoon pure vanilla extract to each cup liquid used.

Mincemeat Turnovers

A small amount of pastry and a few spoonsful of mincemeat can be turned into tempting mincemeat Turnovers. If you have leftovers from your Thanksgiving pie baking, roll pastry out ⅛ inch thick and cut into 3-inch squares.

Put a generous tablespoon of mincemeat on each square. Fold into triangles and press edges with fork. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes.

Do-It-Yourself Pudding Mix

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (INS)—A do-it-yourself pudding mix recipe is offered by cooking specialists at Purdue University.

The one recipe is enough to make about 50 servings, if it were all utilized at one time, but the mix can be stored in a tightly covered container and used as wanted over a period of several weeks or months.

The recipe:

1½ cups sugar
1½ cups cornstarch
1 teaspoon salt
7 cups dry milk (non-fat, dry milk solids)

Sift together sugar, cornstarch, salt and dry milk until thoroughly combined.

To make a four-serving size pudding, use three-fourths cup of this mix and one and one-fourth cups water.

Add water gradually, stirring until smooth. Bring to a boil over gentle heat and add one-fourth teaspoon vanilla.

Vary by adding one tablespoon chocolate syrup or one-half square shaved or melted bitter chocolate.

Also one-fourth cup chopped fruit, cinnamon drops, crushed peppermint candies, nuts, coconut, or toasted cake cubes are other suggested additions.

This pudding mix is low in calories but has twice as high value in milk solids as those made with fluid milk.

After-School Snack: Molasses Eggnog

Here's a good answer to those after-school hunger pangs. Not filling enough to take away their appetite for dinner, it's rich in nourishment and, above all, tastes good!

Molasses Eggnog

1 egg, separated
2 teaspoons real New Orleans molasses
1 cup cold milk
Few grains salt
Few grains nutmeg

Beat egg yolk. Add molasses and mix well. Add milk, salt and nutmeg. Beat egg white stiff and fold into mixture. Serve at once.

If you use small wooden skewers for broiling tidbits outdoors, be sure to soak the skewers for an hour or so before you're ready to cook.

MOCHA RUM TORTE — This torte was never so elegant or so easy as it is made the new way with a chocolate angel food mix. The rich, delicate cake is split into layers, filled with coffee-flavored whipped cream and topped with more of the same. Since it needs no last-minute fixing, this luscious dessert is perfect for parties.

Angelic Dessert Is Mocha Torte

Anyone who has tasted Mocha Rum Torte knows first-hand how well coffee-flavored whipped cream sets off the delicate richness of Chocolate Angel Food.

Simply bake the angel food in the usual tube pan. After splitting the cake into layers, fill with a mixture of sweetened whipped cream, rum and instant coffee, then sprinkle with chopped filberts.

Spread more of the cream mixture on top the cake and possibly the sides. Over all, sprinkle more filberts. Then chill.

When dessert time comes at a party or special meal, take your Mocha Rum Torte out of the refrigerator and serve it with real pride!

MOCHA RUM TORTE

Bake a Chocolate Angel Food Cake as package directs. Cool.

In a 2-quart bowl, mix ½ cup sugar, few grains salt and 2 tablespoons instant coffee. Stir in 2 cups (1 pint) whipping cream. Cover and chill about an hour. Whip until stiff. Then fold in 2 tablespoons Jamaica Rum, if desired.

Split cake crosswise into 3 layers. Spread about ¼ of the whipped cream between the layers and on top, sprinkling each as it is spread with about ¼ of 1 cup finely cut filberts.

Spread rest of whipped cream on sides of cake and sprinkle with rest of nuts. Chill 3 hours or longer to develop flavors. Makes 16 servings.

Drink for Teenagers

A tangy party beverage that teenagers will welcome any time of year is Grape Lemon Fizz. Mix a quart of bottled grape juice and a quart of soda water. Add a can of undiluted frozen concentrate for lemonade. Fill glasses with ice cubes, pour in the punch, and add to each a thin slice of lemon.

New Vegetable Combo

Heat together canned peas and carrots and drained canned bean sprouts. Add butter and season with salt and pepper. Makes a nice vegetable change.

Prepare to Eat More Turkey in Next Year

Michigan's farmers have 8 to 10 per cent more turkeys this year than were grown in 1955. The national production picture is much the same. The national crop of turkeys is about 76 million birds, or 16 per cent more than last year.

What does this mean for the food shopper? It simply means we will find plenty of turkey of all sizes at prices that will fit most food budgets.

It means that we need to encourage the use of turkey in family meals, in restaurant meals, for school and other cafeterias.

It means that we may want to find and try new recips — new ways of using turkey after the first meal of roast turkey.

It means that we may want to use turkey broiled or fried, as well as roasted. It may mean we could use more turkey parts. Baked turkey breasts or legs have more meat than chicken—may be new for some families. Having the turkey cut in half and roasting just half for one meal may appeal to others.

Insulated Bag Best to Carry Ice Cream

PORTLAND (INS) — Leaving ice cream in insulated bags for home storage may help retain its smooth, fresh flavor and avoid leaving holes and rough areas when dipping, according to Roy Stein, superintendent of the Oregon State College dairy products laboratory at Corvallis, Ore.

Stein says almost any insulated bag prevents unrefrigerated ice cream from melting as it comes from the store. Some bags are laminated with thick insulation walls which are poor heat conductors while others of shiny 'foil' bounce heat off the package and prevent temperature changes.

Other tips offered by Stein: put the ice cream in the hardening compartment of the refrigerator just as soon as it's brought home from the store. When ice cream melts and is refrozen, large ice crystals form, making it coarse to eat.

As ice cream is used, cover the remaining surface with waxed paper to prevent drying.

You can make fritters with your leftover cooked rice; mix it with a beaten egg and fry in a skillet.

Fish Shortcakes Good Anytime

Shortcakes — doesn't the very word make your mouth water?—needn't be confined to summer desserts. Seafood shortcakes, for instance, are a highly satisfying main course, any time of the year.

Made with canned salmon, they're especially pretty. And it doesn't matter, says the National Fisheries Institute, whether the salmon is pink or red; food values and taste qualities are the same. Too, canned salmon rates with canned tuna as being one of the most versatile of all fish.

As to popularity, according to a survey made by the Fish and Wildlife Service, it is America's most popular canned fish, with tuna and sardines the runners-up.

SALMON SHORTCAKES

1 16-ounce can salmon
1 green pepper cut in pieces
3 tablespoons butter
1 pimiento, cut in strips
2 cups medium white sauce
6 large baking powder biscuits (served hot)

Drain salmon and flake. Saute green pepper in butter until tender but not brown. Add with pimiento to white sauce. Fold in salmon. Heat until sauce begins to bubble. Split biscuits.

Cover bottom halves with half of mixture. Lay other halves on top and cover with remaining mixture. Makes six servings.

Potatoes in a Hurry

To speed boiling potatoes for a hurry-up meal, cut the potatoes in pieces, cook in as little water as possible in a pan with a tight cover or in a pressure cooker.

Hot Onion Bread Not Difficult to Prepare

Interested in onion bread? Here's how to prepare it.

New Onion Bread

¼ pound (½ cup) butter
1 package dry onion soup mix
regular baked French bread

Have butter soft enough to spread easily and mix it with the dry onion soup mix. Cut French bread diagonally into slices, almost to bottom but not all the way through.

Spread butter mixture on one side of bread slices—how much you use depends on how thin or thick you slice the bread, and on your own taste. For slices that are no more than an inch thick, try 1 or 2 teaspoons of the mixture on one side of each slice.

Place the prepared bread on a sheet of aluminum foil; leave the top uncovered but draw up the foil around the sides of the bread. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven about 15 minutes. Serve at once.

Refrigerate any of the butter and onion soup mixture leftover in a jar that has a tight cover for use another time.

Feature Buttered Soup at Chafing Dish Party

Festive parties needn't be elaborate affairs. Feature something as simple to make and easy to serve as soup for your next chafing-dish party.

Ladle your favorite soup (or a combination of two soups) from the chafing dish into mugs or soup cups. Then top each serving with a butter ball rolled in chopped parsley. Hot buttered soup looks pretty—tastes wonderful!

Add Sardines to Shirred Eggs

Have something "special" for your Sunday breakfast.

Shirred eggs always seem more festive than the more usual fried or scrambled ones. Add a couple of meaty sardines from Maine as a flavorful change.

The combination of fish and eggs is not only a delicious one, but also one which is very rich in body-building protein.

Maine Shirred Eggs

5 tablespoons butter
8 eggs
1 can (3¼ or 4 oz.) sardines
Salt and pepper to taste

Melt one tablespoon butter in each of four ramekins. Break two eggs into each and place in moderate (350 degrees) oven until whites are creamy and set (5-10 minutes).

Drain sardines and saute in remaining butter until heated. Place two sardines in each ramekin, add salt and pepper to taste and serve at once. Yield: four servings.

Dress Up Leftovers With Deviled Polenta

It's easy to dress up creamed or gravied leftovers — with a special topping of Deviled Polenta. Prepare yellow corn meal as directed on package for polenta or corn meal mush. Stir in plenty of grated cheese and a family-size can of deviled ham.

Fill a casserole or deep serving dish with the heated leftovers and top with the hot deviled polenta, making a border around the edge.

As a rule, it's best to whip no more than 1½ to 2 cups of heavy cream at one time.

Protein Foods Needed to Maintain Pep, Vigor

Some senior citizens feel that they don't need "much meat" or other protein foods. Some even think meat is hard to digest or hard on the kidneys. This is not true except in certain uncommon diseases.

Protein foods give the body substances essential to life and which no other foods can supply. Again, if the diet is deficient in protein, the body will have to use some of its own tissues as a source of the materials necessary for daily upkeep and repair.

Listlessness, fatigue, lack of vigor and zest result from a diet which supplies insufficient protein for healthful daily upkeep.

Keep either a straight-edge knife or a small spatula in your kitchen for leveling off a cup (or fractions of a cup) when you are measuring dry ingredients.

Little Pigs Come to Market as Bargains

'Tis the season when menu variety can be obtained with little effort. Fall harvest has brought plenty, and with modern modes of transportation, fresh foods from other parts of the country are here for every table. Shoppers will find good quality and thrifty price tags on many cuts of pork, poultry, fruits and vegetables, and dairy products reports the Consumer Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

MEATS—The spring crop of pigs is starting to market. This seasonal trend, along with an effort to decrease wholesale inventories, is resulting in some economical pork values.

Both fresh and smoked pork are attention-getters at meat counters. Wise choices can be found in fresh pork loin or ham roasts, and smoked ham for baking. Shank halves of fresh and smoked ham are as low as 39 to 49 cents a pound in many stores, while whole hams are from 47 to 55 cents a pound.

Many homemakers depend on the brand name of the packer in choosing the quality of pork desired. Pork may be selected by the appearance of the meat itself. Signs of high quality fresh pork are:

Delicate rose or grayish pink in the lean meat
Smooth fine grain in firm and velvety lean flesh
Firm outside fat
Fat marbled lean meat (little streaks of fat throughout the lean)
Pink bone center

The supply of both chicken and turkey is large this fall. Smart shoppers will include these in the weekly menus for they will find some thrifty choices in this protein food. Fryers vary from about 31 to 49 cents a pound, while turkeys are from 49 to 59 cents a pound, depending upon size and quality.

FRUITS & VEGETABLES—Late October brings a flow of cider from apple presses. The fresh cider without a preservative may show a bit of sediment in the bottom of the container, if it hasn't been filtered. Cider in retail stores is preserved by either the addition of benzoate of soda or a pasteurization process. The label will give information on the ingredients used, net weight, and the name and address of the processor distributor.

All cider should be refrigerated to keep its quality and full flavor. Fresh, untreated cider will keep about a week when refrigerated.

The economy buy of apples comes in the firm, crisp, small sizes. These are sometimes called "School Boy" sizes, and rightly so, for they are happy hand-outs for children. When apples are bought by the container, the smaller the size, the larger the pound-age. When apples are bought by the pound, there are about 3 medium sized apples in each pound.

Broccoli may be a welcome treat for not only does it add color to any meal, it also supplies vitamins for good health. Though broccoli is rarely an inexpensive vegetable, it can be found for 19 to 39 cents a bunch this week. Usually, a bunch will give four or five generous servings.

When choosing broccoli, remember that tender stalks are a fresh blue-green or purple-green. Buds that are tightly closed tell that the broccoli is at the peak of good quality. Yellow buds and leaves tell that the broccoli has lost much of its original freshness and goodness.

Broccoli is best when cooked quickly in a small amount of water. Serve promptly. If held at high temperatures unpleasant odors and flavors develop.

DAIRY & EGGS—Learning to include dry milk solids on the weekly market list is a good way to provide more health for the family. By adding dry milk solids to many baked products, puddings, and to cereal milk, more calcium and other health giving food nutrients are worked into the daily meals.

A copy of the bulletin, "Using Non-Fat Dry Milk Solids," may be obtained at the Cooperative Extension Office, 1200 West Boulevard, Pontiac.

The egg that rates from the standpoint of the least money spent for the most weight, is the small and medium size again this week. The large size gives only 3 more ounces per dozen.

Mulled Cider

1 quart cider
¼ cup brown sugar
3 1-inch sticks cinnamon
2 whole allspice
2 whole cloves

Put spices in cheesecloth bag. Boil with cider for 5 minutes. Remove spice bag. Add sugar. Stir until dissolved. Serve hot. Serves 6. Mulled cider may be made in advance of serving time and kept hot over hot water.

Proper Snack Builds Health

Most mothers fear that youngsters will spoil their dinnertime appetites if given any sort of filling after-school snack, but growing boys and girls demand a substantial and tasty "tide-me-over."

* * *

Why not stock your icebox with satisfying and nutritional frankfurters or sausage products, instead of fattening dessert-time sweets?

Pre-cooked, skinless franks can be warmed or eaten cold, without losing any of the delicious and protein-packed meat juices. And a slice or two of salami or bologna with cheese, relish or mustard on fresh whole wheat bread will add nourishment without unnecessary calories.

* * *

The temptation to stave off hunger pangs with sweets or desserts that children crave (and are so easy to serve without preparation) is understandable. However, mothers who stock their iceboxes and cupboards with an eye toward nutritional food products will profit by observing their children adapt themselves to more regular and healthful eating habits, home economists have stated.

TAKES LITTLE TIME

It takes as little time to open a package of skinless franks as it does to open a bakery carton of pie. And it'll pay off for mothers who want to see their children grow taller instead of wider!

With skinless franks, heated or fresh from the chilled package, or a cold meat sandwich, delicious with leaf lettuce and relishes, serve a tall glass of milk or cocoa.

Add a piece of fruit or a cookie, if Junior's appetite is particularly ravenous. Then sit down with your youngster for a quiet spell before he goes out for a pre-dinner play period. You'll gain both an enjoyable moment of respite for yourself, and a healthier child.

Little Bit of Pineapple?

When there are a couple of slices of canned pineapple left-over, dice them and fold them into a half cup of cream (whipped, sweetened and flavored, with vanilla). Use as a topping for store-bought sponge cake cups.

Industry Rolls at Walled Lake

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles describing Walled Lake's rapid growth.)

One of Walled Lake's newer industries is the Plastray Corp., of which D. L. Jocelyn is president.

Plastray is one of the top five plastic houseware producers in the United States, according to Jocelyn. It moved to Walled Lake from Detroit last May, occupying the former plant of the Walled Lake Door Co. It has some 70,000 square feet of manufacturing area.

Plastray now employs approximately 100 people, and expects to increase this figure to about 150 when it gets into full production.

"We felt Walled Lake was welcoming new industry," says Jocelyn, "and have been well received by the community. We expect to employ more people here in time.

"We also plan to improve our property by beautifying the area in front of our plant. Later, too, we will add more modern structures."

WIDE RANGE OF PLASTIC

This company produces a wide range of plastic houseware products, including food containers, ice ers, refrigerator racks, mixing cube trays, cake and bread keep-bowls, cups, sandwich boxes, butter dishes, pitchers, fly swatters, tumblers, tumbler covers, and coasters.

Plastray designs and merchandises its products, maintaining a large sales force covering the country through 17 sales districts. It sells to jobbers, who in turn sell to department and variety stores, drug stores and super markets.

Michigan Precision Molded Products, Inc. is another industry that is moving into Walled Lake. This company makes precision molded rubber parts for the automotive industry, and employs about 100 men.

It has outgrown its present plant on Grand River between Farmington and Novi. The firm has begun construction on its new plant on West Maple. It will contain for the present, some 35,000 square feet of manufacturing and office space, and will be occupied next June or July when moving will interfere the least with manufacturing operations.

Donald A. Boyd is executive vice president.

A comparatively new industry in Walled Lake which has played its part in the community's growth is the Mills Products Co. This plant moved out to Walled Lake from Detroit three and a half years ago.

Organized eight years ago, it manufactures non-fog windgw glass for oven windows and chrome plated steel stove trim. Its slogan is "It's the window that lets you see what's cooking."

Mills Products sells to the manufacturers of most of the leading kitchen ranges. Herbert E. Mills is president. The company already has made three additions to its buildings and has 14,000 square feet of manufacturing space. It employs about 50 men.

A still newer industry in Walled Lake is the Rex Roto Corp. This company manufactures combustion chambers for domestic furnaces, selling its product to various furnace manufacturers.

John Rex is president of the firm, a subsidiary of Rex Clay Products of Detroit. The parent firm has been in business for 30 years.

Rex Roto moved to Walled Lake three months ago and is employing almost 50 men today. It is planning to diversify its products and to enter the automotive accessory field in the near future. The company and its associates own more than 17 acres of land and are looking to future expansion.

Another nearly new Walled Lake industry is Walled Lake Metal Co., of which Sam Essick is president. This company was organized two years ago and is the only firm in Michigan in its field, according to Essick. It produces aluminum ingots, which it sells to foundries and smelters all over Michigan and in other states.

The company recovers aluminum from dross or slag, and has developed a new method to accomplish this task. Seven men are employed and the company's business is expanding, said Essick.

One of the newest additions to Walled Lake's industries is the Ex-Cello Corp. One of its wholly owned subsidiaries, the American Paper Bottle Co., maintains an engineering department on Pontiac Trail.

Ex-Cello recently purchased 41 acres of land on Ladd Road with a long range view of developing permanent site for a research and engineering department. American Paper Bottle Co. engineers help to expedite the development program of Ex-Cello's Pure-Pak Milk Container Division.

An older business establishment which has had an imposing growth and which, in turn, has added to the community's employment, is Lakeside Products, of which Robert Buffmyer is president.

The land occupied by this company on Ladd Road has been in the Buffmyer family for more than 40 years. A wholesale packing plant was established 20 years ago. Three years ago the company extended its operations into the retail field and added a supermarket. The whole operation now occupies 20,000 square feet of space and employs 75 people.

(Tomorrow — Other phases of Walled Lake's growth.)

Cancer Strikes Boy, 5

Slate Dance for Funds

WALLED LAKE — A benefit dance for Ricky Ramsey, five-year-old son of the Richard Ramseys, is being planned for 9 p.m. Saturday at the VFW hall by former Walled Lake High School classmates of Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey.

Ricky has been ill with cancer for several months, and, though a doctor here gave the child only six months to live, his parents took him to a New York hospital a week ago.

There, doctors offer little hope except that radium treatment may prolong life until science finds a cure.

The party is, as Margaret Dennis, nurse at the Walled Lake Clinic and head of the American Cancer Society here, says, "not just for charity but for the information that may be gained by having Ricky hospitalized that might save other children's lives as well."

Among planners of the dance, for which the Blue Notes will play, are Mrs. David Dewey and Mrs. Harry Blake.

Mrs. Ramsey and the boy will remain in New York several more weeks, but Ramsey is returning to resume work at Budweisers' in Pontiac.

Building Date Due for Rail Safety Gates

When Pontiac is going to get the long-awaited safety gates for the railroad crossing on S. Saginaw at Wilson, should be known "in the next couple of weeks," Theodore M. Vanderstempel, city traffic engineer, said yesterday.

In Lansing this week, he was told construction of the gates was delayed because the State Highway Dept. had not been included in the planning.

He said this is necessary because US-10 is an interstate federal highway. "They have to be made aware of this necessity for the gates," Vanderstempel said.

In February, the Michigan Public Service Commission declared the project a necessity and instructed the Grand Trunk Western Railroad to install the gates.

Sets Dec. 1 Deadline for Distant Yule Mail

Surface Christmas mail to Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico should be mailed by "very early December," Acting Pontiac Postmaster Leslie H. Dean said today.

Dean said available shipping schedules and possible delays by bad weather necessitate the early deadline.

He suggested Dec. 1 as the deadline for Pontiac, but added earlier mailing will help postal workers and provide better chances of delivery in time for Christmas.

Huge Prints Add Focal Area to Room

Photomurals — huge enlargements several feet high, wide and handsome — can be made from any average-sized, sharply detailed fine-grain negative.

A little too ambitious a project for the beginner, perhaps, but certainly easily within the scope of any experienced amateur armed with enlarging equipment and basic darkroom procedure. If your experience or darkroom procedure is limited, there's always a professional studio around where photomurals are made to order from negatives you supply.

Enlargements may be hand-tinted, sepia or black-and-white. If expense is no consideration, color negatives and transparencies may also be used. Your choice of dimensions is a generous one, ranging up to 40 inches high and eight feet wide. After the big print has been mounted on tempered wall-board with wheat paste, it is ready for whatever type of framing treatment you elect to give it.

Since a photomural is intended to be lived with and looked at in much the same way as a painting, the material you select should have true pictorial quality. Masses, tones and lines arranged in a coherent composition, pleasing proportions, proper contrast between light and shade — these are essential to any picture worthy of wall space, whether painted or photo.

Horror Movies Are His Business

Producer Enjoys Work With Monsters

By JOAN HANAUER

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — William Alland is a movie producer who enjoys working with monsters, aliens from outer space and other life forms you wouldn't want to meet in a dark alley.

A glance at the titles of his movies can give you an idea of Alland's chamber of horror.

"This Island Earth," "It Came From Outer Space," "Tarantula," "The Mole People," "The Deadly Mantis" and all three of the films dealing with "The Creature From the Black Lagoon."

He is currently working on "The Land Unknown," a delightful thing chock full of various types of dinosaurs.

Alland may create fantasy and science fiction, but his feet are planted firmly on the ground. His first brush with science fiction taught him how potent it could be.

He was a member of the cast of the famous Orson Welles radio broadcast that all too realistically reported a fanciful invasion of earth from Mars. Nationwide nearpanic resulted from that broadcast.

FRANTIC CALLS

"We even got phone calls from Hawaii," Alland recalled. "One fellow called from Wisconsin to tell us he had 25 vigilantes, what did we want him to do with them. But the classic was the fellow who called and said, 'My mother-in-law just dropped dead. Thank you' and hung up.

Alland prides himself on the fact that his monsters are not just technical horrors, but rather have their own personalities.

"I always want my monsters to create terror," he explained, "but I also want them to evoke sympathy. All my monsters have some human attributes. I never put my monsters in a situation where they can really be victorious.

"You know this from the first moment you meet my monsters, and since you know their doom is assured, no matter how terrifying their deeds may be, the futility of their trying to overpower the forces of man evokes sympathy.

"Man has sympathy for the underdog, even if the underdog is a queer-looking creature 60 feet high."

SCIENTIFIC ATTITUDE

Alland approaches science fiction film-making with the proper attitude—scientifically. He said:

"A good science fiction or horror film should give the audience the opportunity to be confronted with unexplainable phenomena which therefore frighten them. Then it is explained and the audience is relieved.

"I always strive to have man discover the truth by himself. Symbolically man must face the unknown every tomorrow and it frightens him.

"Then he copes with tomorrow when it comes and is relieved and ready for another day. A good horror film follows the same pattern."

PATRICIA ANN KUCERA

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kucera of Oliver street announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Ann, to James Glynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Glynn of Buenos Aires, formerly of Pontiac. They plan a Feb. 9 wedding.

Girl Should Round Out Fall Wardrobe With Care

A teenager who's just beginning to manage her own wardrobe often finds that she has a raft of disorganized garments and "nothing to wear."

Fall is a good time to set out to correct this condition.

After a thorough survey of the closet and making the decisions about what's there and what's to be given away, swapped, remade, let out and repaired, the problem of how to allocate the budget comes up.

The winter coat is the first consideration. It's an expensive buy, no matter what price range you generally keep within.

If last winter's coat is one of the items in good condition and it still fits, this problem is avoided. However, it may be through after this season because of being outgrown or worn out.

If this is the case, start putting away a few dollars a week so that you'll be able to take advantage of the winter coat sales that will come along next spring.

CHOOSE BEST COAT

If a winter coat must be purchased, take careful stock of what will go best with your usual style of dressing. Fitted or not fitted, three-quarter or full length. If you have no dress-up coat, prepare to buy one that will do double duty.

If you give a coat hard wear (girls in cold climes do) pick a fabric that will hold up. If it gets extra cold in your area, investigate coats with zip-in linings.

If you are going to have only one coat, remember that fancy fabrics or pile fabrics take longer to be dry cleaned and you may be without a coat longer than you'll want.

If you have to have a coat and it'll take many weeks' allowance or salary, try to float a loan with the family and pay it back. If this is impossible, many stores offer time payment plans. This will raise the cost, but if you must have a coat, you have no choice.

The new off-face effect and the full, softly gathered crown are featured in this Lilly Dache hat. Made of beige velour, it is trimmed with a red velvet cord laced through its full crown.

Imagination Can Revolutionize Life

By ANNE HEYWOOD

The gift of an open mind, or imagination if you like, is one of the bigger blessings.

Most of us, alas, react in the typical way to the typical thing.

We never realize that we're getting set in such a mold that we're perfectly predictable and therefore boring as well as bored.

I thought of this recently when I was visiting in Michigan and met a charming woman named Nell.

My hostess was giving a tea, and told me that the caterer would be handling it. The caterer, a Mrs. B., was interesting enough, but she couldn't touch Nell.

Nell drove up in a station wagon and unloaded all the cakes and sandwiches in the kitchen. Then she telephoned Mrs. B., said, "OK, come right away," smiled at us cheerfully and left.

But I'm not one to let people like that get away. I dashed out to the driveway and cornered Nell.

"Just what," I asked, "is your function? I assume that Mrs. B. will be here to serve things, but why doesn't she bring them? Why you?"

Nell grinned.

"It's quite a story," she told me.

"Mrs. B. is a fabulous cook and the best caterer in the world. When she first began, I was one of her biggest boosters.

NEVER ON TIME

"But there was only one trouble. She was always at least an hour late. It was impossible. I got so mad when it happened at a shower I gave for my daughter, that I decided never to use Mrs. B.'s service again.

"But then I thought twice," Nell said. "I decided to have it out with Mrs. B. After all, everybody can't be good at everything. Maybe she just wasn't born with a time-sense as I was.

"I told her either she'd go out of business, if this kept up, or she could hire me to see that the food got delivered absolutely on time.

"I said I would get it there and then be her alarm clock — call her and make her drop everything and get to the place of appointment on time.

"It works, too." Nell grinned. "See, here comes her car now!"

That kind of open-mindedness, that seeing more than one solution to a problem or an irritation, can revolutionize a life.

If you'd like to develop it, a good first step is to send for my pamphlet, "Pointers Toward An Open Mind." A stamped, self-addressed envelope, care of The Pontiac Press, will send it on its way to you.

Marriage Gets Real Test When Children Grow Up

Some Couples Have Little in Common and Endure Isolated Loneliness

By RUTH MILLETTT

The real test of a happy marriage is what happens to it when the last child leaves home.

Some marriages that seemed happy enough when husband and wife had the children as a mutual interest, have little to offer except dreary routine when this later period arrives.

In such marriages the husband turns to his work as the answer to his loneliness. Or he may start spending more and more time on interests and hobbies that don't include his wife.

And the wife tries desperately to fill her days with bridge and club meetings.

Each is lonely. But neither senses the other's loneliness or tries to establish again the "oneness together" they had when they were first married.

The marriages that stand the test which comes when the couple is once again just a couple, are the ones where husband and wife look to each other for companionship. They start making new plans and welcome the chance to have time for each other, once again.

In these marriages, having the children leave home isn't the end of shared interests but the beginning of a new kind of sharing.

The husband urges his wife to do more things with him, to go along on his business trips, to take up hunting or fishing or whatever happens to be his main enthusiasm. He makes more of an effort to share his life with her.

And the wife sees the need for making herself companionable. She doesn't let herself think that things are too much trouble or that she isn't really interested in her husband's enthusiasms.

She doesn't let herself feel that she can't change her stay-at-home pattern, established when it was necessary to make a full time job out of keeping house.

It is a wonderful thing when a husband and wife who have reared a family find that they are just as companionable as they were in the early days of their marriage.

But it doesn't just happen. It takes effort on the part of both.

Ways to Keep Patent Shoes at Shiny Best

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Those patent leather shoes and bags need a lot of care to keep them at their gleaming best.

Patent leather is very sensitive to heat and cold and few manufacturers guarantee that the shoes will not crack or peel.

Bernetta Kahabka, clothing specialist at Michigan State University has some tips for babying along patent leather.

Sue suggests warming the shoe by rubbing them with the hands before going out, especially when the shoes are new or on a cold day. Or the shoes may be worn for a while in the house to accustom them to body temperature and to soften the leather.

Patent leather shoes or accessories, she advises, should be kept in a dry closet, never too near a radiator and never where cold will crack them.

Check your shoe dealer before using creams, oils or greases on patent leather, she advises.

Patent leather handbags also should be handled with care, the clothing expert says, especially when opening or closing them in cold weather.

Jersey and velvet are fabrics that should have skirt linings if you have a slight weight problem or if you sit a great deal.

Imports Add Distinction to the Home

NEW YORK (INS) — Foreign craftsmanship ranging from Turkish goat-hair rugs to Japanese music boxes has invaded the American home.

Foreign imports these days are unlimited. All you must have is the good taste to make careful selections in your purchases so they blend with other pieces in the home.

One of the most important things to keep in mind is the basic color scheme. You do not back an orange-colored Bavarian marble-topped chest up against a group of yellow-tufted dining room chairs from Italy.

But a wicker bar basket on wheels (from Spain) will fit into any room in the house as well as on the terrace.

All manner of furniture imports are available, including rosewood wine coolers from Hong Kong, banquet tables from England, carved headboards from Italy and Bavarian night chests.

Some of these items, as recently displayed in a New York department store, are quite expensive, but others can be had for a minimum sum within the household budget.

Wright-iron chairs and tables, which are so popular now in American dining rooms, can be had in an unusual Italian style—gilded after the Louis XV period.

In case you already own a wright-iron table and chair set, try gilding it yourself for an interesting effect.

Need height? Avoid bloused two-piece. The new tall skirt, the tall hat, the costume that's all one color from head to toe will give the tall look.

Under five feet in height, you should never wear the two piece unless it stops at the waistline. Only vertical skirt detail and if you need to soften the sheath, a narrow self-belt and small trouser pleats will cover problem hips.

Fireplace Furnishings Modernized

A startling innovation in fireplace decoration has been made possible by a new, contemporary collection of fireplace furnishings. The designers of this new line have swept away the narrow restrictions of the past and provided a strikingly versatile array of new designs, materials and finishes to spotlight the hearth.

Andirons and fire tools, as well as screen fixtures, are featured in this collection. For the first time, homemakers and decorators may now, with good taste and imagination, furnish a contemporary fireplace.

The fireplace probably has the oldest and most noble lineage of any component of the modern home. Its function is both basic and simple, serving the same purpose through many centuries.

Fixtures have been largely utilitarian with little predisposition to change in design. The andirons of today accomplish the same task as those to be found in the oldest English collections. The brass that is usually associated with the hearth has served mankind from early Roman times.

Design has, for this reason, been rooted in the past and a certain nostalgia is pleasing in our decorative schemes. Of all the available symbols of antiquity, however, style has been largely limited to familiar variations on the theme of ball and urn.

The tarnish-proof lacquer finish has the ability to withstand scorching heat. These features make the contemporary collection an advance in workmanship as well as decoration.

Women Take More Realistic Attitude About Facial Defects and Aging

By DOROTHY ROE

If any American woman today is not well dressed, no matter what her budget, it's nobody's fault but her own, says the world's most famous dressmaker.

Mild, balding, conservatively dressed Christian Dior smiled diffidently as he took a few minutes out of his crowded schedule to discuss the state of the nation's fashion. Tilting back in an office chair in his plush New York salon, this dictator of world fashion said:

"Only in America is it possible for every woman to be smartly dressed in inexpensive readymade clothes. In Europe and other countries the fashionably dressed woman must have her clothes custom - made, and she must be wealthy. Her smart clothes in good taste are not available to everybody. I think the women of the United States should erect a monument to New York's Seventh Avenue."

In the ten years since the then unknown Dior of Paris burst the bombshell of the "New Look" upon the world of fashion, this modest and unassuming man has built up a fantastic business empire reaching practically every corner of the earth and influencing the way women look each season all over the world.

When he showed "half-a-dozen ankle-length outfits in his last Paris collection, the American garment industry was thrown into a tizzy. Manufacturers went into frenzied conference with designers about whether or not long dresses were coming back. Some decided to leave it to the customers, and sent out dresses with basted hems. Apprised of the hysteria he started, Dior blinked and remarked:

"But I never meant that street clothes should be long. It wouldn't fit into today's way of life. Cocktail and dinner gowns are flattering when worn longer. But I don't think the present length of daytime clothes will change much."

Miss Teenager Needs Assistance With Cosmetics

Help Miss Teenager learn her beauty secrets early and right. Instead of a hodge podge of cosmetics (some right for her, some wrong) scattered all over the room, help her to set up a beauty bar—a neat array of just the right health and beauty aids she needs.

Maybe brother or the boy friend will piece together the shelf or cabinet that will display each tube and bottle to best advantage. Stock young milady's beauty bar with a light fragrance, and rouge and lipstick keyed to her special coloring and personality.

Don't let her overdo in color or scent. Provide her with a mild skin freshener like a good quality witch hazel. Keep all cosmetics on the gentle side—let her natural, young beauty smile through.

Heavy Makeup Scares Off Teenage Boys

By EUGENE GILBERT

President of the Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Teenage glamor girls, slathered with makeup, may inspire wolf whistles, but it's the lass with a natural look who gets the dates.

There's something about excess makeup and lowcut dresses that freezes a young man in his tracks.

"If there's anything I despise it's a girl with all that gook on her face," observes a high school football star. "And slinky dresses, ugh!"

A Providence, R. I., youth comments:

"My steady used to try to dress sexy to make herself look older. But I told her it was the fancy-pancy duds or me, and she sure caught on in a hurry."

HOLLYWOOD JAZZ

And what do girls think about how men dress?

"None of this Marlon Brando jazz for me," says 16-year-old Lucy. "My date should at least wear a tie and sports jacket. He doesn't have to wear evening clothes. All I ask is neatness."

In one of our cross-country surveys, several girls registered complaints against the Presley influence. They admit they like it on Elvis, but . . .

"The fellows in my crowd are growing sideburns," one sighed. "Next they'll have beards. It's just too much."

As for the teen girl, being a femme fatale won't keep the wolf (young and two-legged) away from her door, but it probably will the boy she'd really like to go out with.

ALL-AMERICAN GIRL

Almost unanimously, young men favor the All-American Girl look. They say heavy cake makeup, mascara and rouge are all right for movie stars, but not for the girls they want to be seen with.

A light touch of lipstick and perhaps a dab of powder are enough to set off a girl's natural beauty, they think. One Bronx, N. Y., high school boy remarks:

"There's a cute girl I've wanted to take out a couple of times, but I'm afraid to ask her. The last time I met her at a party she looked like her face was made up to haunt a house."

This young man may not know it, but girls today look better and dress more neatly than girls of a decade or two ago.

After correlating our most recent information on high school students of yesterday and today, we learned:

Our teenager dresses more neatly than even her older sister 10 years ago. She wears sweaters and skirts that show her figure and thus she has to watch her weight.

Her boyish coiffeur is growing to a flattering shoulder length and for school she has adopted a tidy ponytail.

She wears costume jewelry less obviously and shows a taste for simplicity.

In cosmetics, which become a part of her daily schedule at about 14, she prefers discreet makeup. Consequently, she looks more natural and a new maturity shines through.

This maturity reflects the changes in thought and belief which have come about in the last 15 years.

Today's young woman is increasingly aware of events around her because she emerged into an adult world tottering on the brink of war.

She dates two years younger than the girls of 10 or 20 years ago, and she will marry about two years younger.

Because security is important to her—and to the family she hopes to have— she wants to go to college. And career opportunities for women that would have been unthinkable 10 years ago are opening up for her.

Hand in hand with this growing consciousness of responsibility—and this applies equally to teenage men—is interest in health and diet.

This emphasis has developed mainly in the last decade. For example, 17.6 per cent of the teenagers we surveyed take vitamin capsules.

Why? "Don't be a goof, man," admonishes a Texas lad. "The healthier you are, the longer you live. And I want to be around for a long, long time."

Young moderns' diet-consciousness is especially apparent in girls 13-17. Thirty-six per cent of them say they watch what they eat.

Weight-watching starts young, and 18 per cent of teenagers consider themselves too hefty to be hep. Only 5 per cent however follow a strict diet regime for losing weight.

Many teens, especially 13-17-year-old boys, want to gain some manly muscles.

And a New Jersey deb exclaims:

"Is there anything so ugly as the skin-and-bones type? I'd like to see it. I'm doing my best to fill out those curves. No one likes a skeleton."

Of course, dieting is done for other purposes than taking off weight. Eleven per cent of girls and 14 per cent of boys have what they call "serious complexion trouble."

But many more than that—nearly one-third in fact—worry about pimples.

Only 3 per cent are on complexion diets under doctors' directions, but many skin worriers are trying on their own book to control their eating habits and thereby improve their skins.

Bicycling Isn't Reserved for Kids

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

There are some sports you can take down the years with you. For instance, swimming and golf age when employed with discretion and if there are no special physical disabilities. Of course, the daily walk is another splendid exercise.

Bicycling is another of these. It combines many pleasant and beneficial factors. It is not too strenuous for the middle-aged and older person. It gets you outdoors and tones the muscles.

It also stimulates circulation and respiration. Any exercise taken in the fresh air is especially revitalizing. Then, too, when you bicycle you can ride through the lovely country or in parks. This gives you physical relaxation and a psychic boost.

In most European countries we see old men and women riding their bicycles. In some cities they need a traffic cop to direct these two-wheeled buggies. However, this side of the Atlantic the bicycle is thought of as an activity reserved for the young. Don't you believe it!

Depending on where you live, there may be quite a few weeks left yet before winter sets in. If so why not rent a bicycle or ride your son's or daughter's. This is a wonderful activity to look forward to next spring, too.

WON'T SLIM HIPS

Many women write to ask if bicycling will reduce the hips. There is no logical or anatomical reason to think it will. I do not classify it as a hip reducer. It is fine for building health and for firming and toning the body.

Some women who do ride want to know if it will develop large calves. If you rode miles and miles every day it would have this effect.

But the amount of riding most women indulge in is not a cause for worry on this score. The muscle action is not severe since the body weight is supported by the bike.

The important thing is to incorporate some outdoor activity into your habits of life. Select the one you like best and do not allow procrastination or inertia to rob you of this weapon in the effort to delay aging.

Tomorrow: Try Vegetable Dye to Touch Up Hair.

The daily walk is another splendid exercise.

Have Extra Hose

The mishap that befalls the working girl most often is the stocking with a run in it. A word of advice: An extra pair of stockings kept in a desk drawer will save embarrassment.

Change Hair Color

If you don't like the color of your hair, change it. This is a day in which no one is ashamed of tinted hair. Some girls switch colors each season. While this isn't necessary, they find it fun.

Elegant Fixtures of Victorian Age Have Place Now

NEW YORK (INS)—"Elegant" should be the word for your apartment in town this year and the Venetian influence in furnishings and decorations gives exactly the right touch.

If you go in for modern decor and still want a whisper of old-world atmosphere, try a gilt-edged mirror in the foyer, a 17th Century Italian wall plaque, or a faithful copy of an Italian old master painting in the living room.

This will give the right touch without interfering with your decorating scheme whatever it may be.

However, if you are in more of a Venetian mood, then you could construct a small fountain complete with gold statuette for the foyer or dining room.

Another "elegance" trick is to transform ordinary drab walls into luxurious gold by using either gold-colored wall paper or lacquer. A New York furniture house shows a bedroom done in this type of decor with matching bedspreads, lamps and rugs.

A scroll design either in wallpaper or in fresco will add pounds of oldworld charm to a room.

Looking cool and collected requires a neat appearance. This applies to times of hot water or times of tension, such as job-hunting.

Birth Notice Does Not Require Gift

Mom Should Send Announcements to Shower Guests

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: When a shower has been given for an expectant mother, is it proper etiquette for the mother to send those who attended the shower a birth announcement, and if so, should they be obliged to send another present?"

Answer: She should certainly send them birth announcements. These never imply an obligation to send a second present.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is proper for a girl who is marrying a widower with a child to wear bridal clothes and have a large church wedding? The bride has never been married before. Please advise me as I won't want to do anything that would cause criticism."

Answer: The bride's clothes—and all of the details of the wedding—indicate her own status, not that of the bridegroom. In the situation you describe the bride may, of course, wear bridal clothes, have as many attendants as she chooses and every other detail that is pleasing to her.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My grandmother, who has been a widow for the past five years, is going to remarry in the near future. I would like to know what I should call her new husband? Do I call him Grandfather or Mr. Jones, or what?"

Answer: You ask your grandmother what he would like you to call him.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is it ever permissible for a woman to refuse to dance with a man who is a terrible dancer, and if so, how can she do this without hurting his feelings?"

Answer: It is permissible only at the risk of losing his friendship.

City's Hospital Auxiliaries Gather at Friendship Tea

Mrs. Mary Kelly Mullane, director of the nursing program of a national drug foundation, spoke at the Friendship Tea given Wednesday afternoon at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Nurses' Residence.

The tea was sponsored by the Auxiliaries to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and Pontiac General Hospital.

Mrs. Mullane, introduced by Marie Hickey of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, said, "Auxiliary members are mothers, and the mother figure is the center of home, school and hospital."

Mrs. Mullane told of the time when the hospital was just a last resort for the very sick, poor and despairing, but "this has changed so that we look upon the hospital as something as close as the school. We depend on it in our everyday life, we work hard because we feel the need of it for the preservation of our families."

She stated there are 300 per cent more nurses working today than ever before, but there also are more patients than ever before.

FAVORS AUTOMATION

In speaking of the staff necessary to run a hospital, Mrs. Mullane believes, "Automation is the answer to giving nurses more time for the bedside manner; their duties and book work and extras are taking away from the personal care that the old days allowed. The big question today is just what to automate.

"We need an inquiring mind in order to help, maybe more dividing of responsibility. The auxiliary should be alert at all times."

Mrs. Mullane told of the three ways auxiliary members can assist: By being volunteers, by promoting public relations for the hospital in every day life, and by being a prod to the hospital.

The welcome was given by Sister Mary Jane De Chantal, in the absence of Sister Mary William, administrator of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Lauretta Paul, director of Pontiac General Hospital, thanked Mrs. Mullane and commented that these teas are a forward step in human relations.

Mrs. P. Eugene Miller, president of Pontiac General Hospital Auxiliary, introduced Mrs. William A. Plumb of William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak; Mrs. Burton Knapp, Mrs. Gertrude Maurer and Stella Steiner from Mercy Hospital, Monroe, and Mrs. Harold Mack of Harper Hospital Detroit.

Mrs. Walter Williams is president of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Auxiliary.

Mrs. Everett Reese was general chairman for the event. Cochairmen were Mrs. William Kennedy from Pontiac General and Mrs. Harold E. Brady of St. Joseph.

Mrs. Charles Barrett, Mrs. E. L. Bradley and Mrs. Fred Pickering were members of the reception committee.

Pouring at the tea were Mrs. Ralph Babbington, Mrs. William Bedard, Mrs. L. Raymond Sampson, Mrs. Ruth Weber Parshall, Mrs. Mel Werden and Mrs. Gertrude Heenan.

Also assisting at the tea table were Mrs. Peter Davidson, Mrs. Edwin H. Gaukler and Mrs. O. L. Burke.

Luncheon Speaker Tells UF Workers Not to Slacken Their Pace

More than 300 women volunteers have done their part in reaching the halfway mark of the Pontiac Area United Fund campaign this year.

These women gathered for the mid-campaign report luncheon Wednesday at Elks Temple as the guests of the Community National Bank.

Keynote speaker for yesterday's event was Dean James McCarthy, who urged them not to slacken the pace, as he said, "The going gets tougher from now on."

He challenged them to think not of just the unfortunate, but also to think of youth and its need for organizations.

It is the responsibility of every good citizen to do his part in this campaign, the speaker noted.

GIVES REPORT

Reporting for the geographical division was Mrs. Ralph G. Bump, chairman. Her assistants, Mrs. William E. Hutchinson of the Pontiac division and Mrs. George Eldred of the Waterford division, reported contributions to date.

The Pontiac division has 62 per cent of its goal and Waterford has 28 per cent of its goal at the midway mark.

Also speaking to the group was Campaign Chairman Walter K. Willman, who told the workers, "We are going to make our goal — all $612,202 — keep up the good work."

Toastmaster was John Hirlinger, and Dave Ewalt assisted with arrangements.

India's per capita income in 1954-55 was $132, statistics in New Delhi indicate.

Old Styles Make News in Michigan

Fennville Man Has Hobby of Collecting 'Century' Fashions

FENNVILLE (AP) — Designer Christian Dior of Paris had better watch out for David Chappell of Fennville. David's fashion line, from 50 to 100 years ago, is a big hitm with local mesdemoiselles.

At 18, David has parlayed a wardrobe of hi sgreat-grandmother into an $8,000 collection of period dresses. He has 27 complete outfits, all pre-dating 1910.

His collection is in demand for style shows and television programs.

The youthful fashion expert stages shows featuring the old fashioned gowns.

Modeling was a problem for David. The girls of great-grandma's day were much more petite than today's women. David, who gathered dresses from attics all over the Fennville area, says a 23-inch waist is large by his standards.

BRING A GASP

Some of the middles in his collection are only 18½ inches, enough to bring a gasp from modern-day athletic women.

But none of this was beyond the 18-year-old imagination of David Chappell. He went to high school girls, proud of their slender shapes.

So far David hasn't had to pay a penny for the old dresses which have come from the bottoms of musty old trunks where grandmother put them years ago.

One gown is 103 years old. It used to belong to a Mrs. Wade, one of the earliest settlers of the Fennville area.

To protect such items as this, David has taken out an $8,000 insurance policy. He's also built up a considerable library of costume books and old fashion magazines.

SOME PROBLEMS

All of the problems of his hobby haven't been solved, however. David points out cleaning as an example.

The fabric of the old dresses, many times stained by age, is difficult to clean because of its fragility.

It all started when David drew the job of finding old-time costumes for a high school play. Now it's a local attraction.

How else for instance can a high school girl model a 93-year-old checked silk taffeta gown with silk piping?

Nice Clothes Take Time and Bother

A woman is more likely to have a collection of splendid, classic clothes at the age of 50 than she is at 20. She has more time, presumably, more money and has had more years to gather up a wardrobe.

Care of the year-in-year-out, expensive items in a wardrobe becomes important. Many grown women have been upset when a favorite suit has fallen prey to moths.

Fur coats, if such there be, fur cuffs, jackets, muffs and collars should be in cold storage in this season. A garment bag in a closet is insufficient, since it isn't cold at all, but extra hot. Fur items should be cleaned and should be remodeled when they're so out-of-style they're unwearable.

Good clothes worn throughout the year should be sunned and brushed now and then if they're appealing to moths. They can be turned inside out on a line and the seams brushed with a clothes bush, to get out lint and any potential moths.

Hem lengths can be adjusted from season to season with no line showing if the hem is taken out before dry-cleaning.

Storing out-of-season clothes should be done with care so they aren't crushed out of shape or hung on the hanger with shoulders askew. Splendid dresses to be packed away for a year or more should be put in the biggest possible box with enough tissue paper to prevent the formation of three-cornered creases.

Army Losing Missile Men to High-Paid Civilian Jobs

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUNDS, N. M. (INS) —While the nation's top defense planners in Washington debate the inter-service row over guided missiles, the Army is faced with a more immediate problem in its missiles' program.

It is simply: How to prevent industry from raiding the ranks of specialists needed to man the Nike antiaircraft missile installations.

The only source of the highly trained men who man the installations around key American cities is the 1st Guided Missile Brigade at Ft. Bliss, Tex.

Yet, advertisements in El Paso newspapers provide the men of the brigade with constant temptation to leave the Army for more luctative jobs in industry.

HIGHLY TRAINED

The brigade is engaged in an extensive and expensive troop training program, requiring not only a knowledge of the common military subjects but also a highly technical knowledge of guided missile equipment and its difficult utilization.

Men of the brigade are sent out throughout the world to assume the difficult job of manning Nike and Corporal rocket defenses.

The Army has no trouble in securing personnel for services of various antiaircraft battalions. Cooks, bakers, clerks, drivers —all are easy to secure.

But the radar expert, the fire control man, the electronic expert —all have a job waiting for them with industry, if they want it. And it's a job industry can fill without a long, tedious and expensive training period.

Specialists sent to the guided missile brigade are literally the "cream" of the Army. They have completed eight weeks of basic training, another eight weeks of advanced training, and then an additional 16 weeks of battalion training.

In this time the men attend classes which compare with those given in the finest colleges of the nation.

MISSILES SINCE '54

An example of the type of battalions turned out is the 513th Antiaircraft Artillery Battalion of Seattle, Wash. This group, a former 80 mm battalion, has been working with Nike missiles since 1954. In its first annual service practice firing last October, the battalion scored 11 hits against 12 targets.

Last spring the battalion fired at White Sands proving Ground's Red Canyon range, and when C. Company blasted a target from the air, the soldiers acted like a high school football team which has just scored a touchdown.

The motto of the 513th is "Maximus Sub Soles," which means, "Best Under the Sun." The troops believe it, too.

Soldiers of the Nike battalions are not aware of the dispute in Washington. In fact, they would love nothing better than a contest against Air Force units using the Talos, a Navy-developed missile.

But — as one officer put it— "let's not use this Nike, but the Nike B, which is vastly superior." The Nike B is still "under wraps" of security.

The pride of service does hold many of the officers at White Sands Proving Grounds. One colonel admitted frankly he could double his salary with industry, but he said he preferred to "do his job", despite the isolated, sunbitten, snake-ridden condition on the proving grounds.

UPROAR HELPS

Actually, the dispute in Washington has aided rather than hindered the all-important morale of the rocket specialists. They seem to thrive on competition, whether it be against another service, or an intramural affair within the anti-aircraft command.

Annual firings at Red Canyon are run on a competitive basis with each company of each battalion trying to knock down the target as far away as possible. The further away the hit is made the higher competitive score is given, and the GIs and their officers strive to strain the Nike's range to its limits.

The soldiers have an intense pride in their companies and battalions, and even more, they have what amounts to a personal pride in the Nike, itself.

Authors of Dirty Books No Longer Cleaning Up

CINCINNATI (AP) — H. Joseph Houlihan of Lexington, Ky., president of the American Booksellers' Assn., says smut, obscenity and sex are not the easy road to fortune in fiction writing that they were for some years.

Houlihan, speaking at a meeting of his association, said:

"I think the demand for dirty literature is leveling off and, in fact, the public is showing some signs of revulsion against the stuff."

Soar Fete to Sore Feet

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Police said a 65-year-old woman jumped from her sixth floor hotel room, landed feet first on a garage roof three stories below and told officers: "My feet hurt." Mrs. Matt B. Walker was taken to Kaiser Foundation Hospital where her only apparent injuries were bruises on the soles of her feet.

Sue Ex-Congressman for Payroll Padding

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Rep. Ernest K. Bramblett (R-Calif) was sued yesterday in U.S. court for $71,724 for padding his payrolls during his tenure in the House.

Bramblett was convicted in 1955 of diverting public funds to his own use. He served in Congress from 1945 to 1953.

U.S. Atty. Laughlin Waters said the amount diverted was $35,408. The remainder asked was for damages.

Bramblett was accused specifically of setting up a dummy staff of four clerks and collecting money for their salaries. He was given a one-year suspended sentence and fined $5,000.

Britain's pre-war cononial possessions comprised a combind total of 12,230,457 square miles. Of this the Dominion of Canada accounted for about one-fourth of the whole amount.

Weight Events at Olympics Favor U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—When you think of a 20th century Hercules, his muscles rippling in perfect rhythm, throwing an iron ball further than any human in history, what name comes to mind?

Parry O'Brien, of course.

This strong man to end all strong men will be back at his familiar stand in the shot-put circle in the Olympic Games starting Nov. 22 at Melbourne, and appears a certainty to win the event.

There is a chance, just a chance, mind you, that the Americans will sweep all four weight events on the program. Their other top hopes are Fortune Gordien in the discus, Hal Connolly in the hammer and Cy Young in the javelin.

O'Brien and Gordien, will be favored. Connolly and Young, who won the javelin in Helsinki in '52, will be second choices.

O'Brien is a legendary character the world over. He became the first weight man to crack the 60-foot barrier and his current world record is 62-6¾ inches. He has been beaten only once since the 1952 Olympics, making his streak the longest in track and field history.

Ken Bantum of Manhattan College, the man who beat him, probably will be second and Bill Nieder of the University of Kansas, another 60-footer, should take third.

There is no reason why the 34-year-old Gordien should not come out on top in the discus. He holds the world record of 194-6, and he knows he's the man to beat.

The other Americans in the discus are Al Oerter of the University of Kansas and Ron Drummond of UCLA. They may place. Oerter says he hopes to hit 200 feet by the time he's a senior two years hence.

The hammer throw should be a two-man struggle between Conolly and Russia's Mikhail (Mike) Krivonosov. These two have been breaking each other's world records for a long time and Mike, with a 220-10¾ toss, holds the standard at the moment. He's been undefeated since 1954. Connolly's best is 218-10½.

Al Hall of Cornell and Cliff Blair of Boston University are the other two Americans in the event.

That brings up the javelin, and, of course, the new Spanish style, in which the spear-tosser twirls around before letting go. Using that system, Egil Danielsen of Norway has gotten off a throw of 307-4½, compared to the world record of 274-5½.

The International Amateur Athletic Federation, luckily for most of the world's tossers, banned the new style last week. So normalcy returned to the ranks.

A whole handful of Europeans have been in the neighborhood of 275 feet using the accepted system. Still, Young believes the winning distance will be around 262 feet.

AMERICA'S HOPES IN WEIGHT EVENTS — The United States will be counting on these athletes to sweep the weights events at the forthcoming Olympic Games to be held in Melbourne, Australia, this month. Left to right are Parry O'Brien, world record holder in the shot put; Cy Young in the javelin, Fortune Gordien in discus and Hal Connolly in the hammer throw. Another strong point in the shot put is Ken Bantam, who also has thrown the iron ball 60 feet.

THE POWERHOUSE

By Jimmy Powers

Things are looking up for the Rangers. NHL forwards who had gotten into the habit of fattening their scoring records against the Blueshirts are due for a surprise this year.

The Ranger defense has greatly improved. They have another rugged checker in Larry Cahan to go with the regular rear guard of Gadsby, Evans, Howell and Fontinato.

The last named looks much better. He is hitting as hard as ever and playing his slot with more poise and cleverness.

Goalie Gump Worsley is in great shape. Gump seems to have more confidence in his defensemen.

The Ranger forwards have come up with fine plays. They need only a little sharpening of their shooting eyes to climb near the top of the scoring column.

The Prentice-Popein-Bathgate line is a fine two-way combination. They'll score often and back check fast.

Little Camille Henry's uncanny knack of tipping the disc into the cage will help the Ranger power play — a weakness last season . . . New Garden favorite could be Red Sullivan, acquired from the Black Hawks this summer.

Sullivan is the type of center who can dig the disc out of the corners. He backs off from no one.

Teamed with Gerry Foley as a penalty killer Sullivan rags an enemy powerplay relentlessly, often breaking it up before it gets across the Ranger blue line.

With Worsley working behind a strong defense, new faces like Sullivan and Foley, and a better power play, I'd say our Rangers are a good bet for "most improved" honors!

Because Yogi Berra's "calls" during the Series were so nearly perfect, he is regarded as Mister Brain in many quarters. A Cleveland printed source suggests a 4 for 1 trade for Berra with Yogi being installed as manager of the Indians.

The four Indians listed are Lemon, Hegan, Garcia and Rosen. This is only the first of the Screwball Department exchanges that will be proposed during the upcoming Hot Stove season.

BAVASI RATES APPLAUSE FOR LANDING SAL

Buzzy Bavasi who deservedly was taking bows all over the landscape for his acumen in landing Sal Maglie, now is being blamed for his psychological boner in pressuring a distraught Don Newcombe to leave his family and fly to Japan for more humiliating drubbings.

It would have been much wiser to let Don do what he instinctively wanted to do—stay home and recuperate from a bad case of shell-shock.

Leafs Surprise of NHL Sextets

Toronto Gains 4th Win in Row by Defeating Rangers, 7-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Toronto Maple Leafs, who weren't picked to go far in the National Hockey League this season, are proving the experts wrong.

True, the 1956-57 season has just about started but the Leafs are tied for first with the Detroit Red Wings after going through their last seven games without a defeat. Last night they beat the New York Rangers 7-2 for their fourth victory in the string.

The Leafs, rolling up the highest score of the season, tallied four times in the first period, picked up another in the second and added two more goals in the final 20 minutes.

Centers Rudy Migay and Billy Harris and rightwinger George Armstrong led the scoring parade with two goals each. The other came off the stick of rookie rightwinger Gary Aldcorn.

The Rangers, who brought up two forwards from their Providence farm in an effort to add more offensive punch, saw two defensemen, Jack Evans and Larry Cahan, do all of their scoring.

49ers, Browns Are Dissatisfied

Views Vary on NFL Officials

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Whether officiating in the National Football League is good or bad apparently depends on a team's position in the standings.

A check of club officials showed that for the most part the coaches and owners of teams with poor records condemn the officiating while those with title chances see nothing wrong with the way the rules are being administered.

It all started with Tony Morabito, owner of the San Francisco 49ers, expressing dissatisfaction with the officiating after his club lost to the Chicago Bears 38-21 Sunday for their fourth setback in five games. Morabito said he would try to get Commissioner Bert Bell fired when the league meets in January.

And then Morabito was joined by Coach Paul Brown, whose Cleveland Browns also have dropped four of their five games.

"It isn't only Tony," said Brown. "There is a general feeling around the league that the officiating has to be improved. The thing that irks Tony is that you can't do anything about it. But something has to be done, and I think Bert Bell himself agrees that something must be done."

To which Bell replied:

"The officials are doing a great job. They have 50 to 60 judgment plays a game and naturally everyone doesn't see them the same way. We have the best officials around. I don't say they don't sometimes make mistakes. We all do. But they do a great job in a tough situation."

Lining up with Bell in the argument were officials of the Chicago Cardinals and New York Giants, whose 4-1 records place them in a tie for first place in the Eastern Conference.

"The officiating is way over par," said Walt Wolfner, managing director of the Cards. "There have been a lot of judgment plays and the judgment was good. As a whole, officiating in the NFL outclasses any other and it is in very capable hands, Bert Bell's."

"Sure they make mistakes sometimes," said Jim Lee Howell, coach of the Giants. "They are only human but I would say they are the best officials available. After all they don't miss anymore than I do a coach."

Coach Joe Kuharich of the Washington Redskins (2-3) said he was "sure that Bell and the owners are making an effort to get and assign the best men available. After all the officials perform a thankless job. I doubt if an owner or coach can pin point any situation that turns the tide since there are so many calls added up over a period of 60 minutes. Over the whole season you probably would find as many for you as against you. Unfortunately, you are hurt sometimes more than others."

General Manager Tex Schramm and Coach Sid Gillman of the Los Angeles Rams (1-4) said "we feel there should be a continuing program to survey the work of the officials with an eye to improving the officiating and keeping it abreast of the game as played in the NFL."

Walt Kiseling, coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers (2-3) said there have been times this season when he thought the officiating was bad. "And at other times I thought it was good," he added.

Beagle Tops Vote

Pick All-Time Navy 11

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Former Naval Academy football players have picked an all-time Navy team, and heading the list of vote getters is Ronald Beagle, All America end of the past two seasons.

Beagle got 192 votes in the 206 ballots received by John T. Cox, sports publicity director at the Academy. Next to him came Fred (Buzz) Borries, Navy's great halfback from 1932-34 who polled 183 votes.

George Welsh, who co-starred with Beagle in 1954-55, was named quarterback of the all-time eleven. He led Navy to a 27-20 victory over Army in 1954 and to a 21-0 Sugar Bowl victory over Mississippi the following New Year's day. He was the nation's leader in total offense and passing last season.

Others chosen were Dick Duden, 1943-45, end; Frank Wickhorst, 1924-26, tackle; Don Whitmire, 1943-44, tackle; John (Babe) Brown, 1910-13, guard; Eddie Burke, 1926-28, guard; Dick Scott, 1945-47, center; Tom Hamilton, 1924-26, halfback, and Jack Dalton, 1908-11, fullback.

Brown and Whitmire have been named to football's hall of fame, and Cox said nine of the 11 were voted first team honors on various post-season All America teams.

Making up the second team were: ends, Wendell Taylor, 1919-22, and Bill Dague, 1904-07; tackles, Slade Cutter, 1932-34, and Tom Eddy, 1925-27; guards, Steve Eisenhauer, 1951-53, and Lyman (Pop) Perry, 1916-18; center, Emery (Swede) Larson, 1918-21; quarterback, Bill Ingram, 1916-18; halfback, Bob Jenkins, 1943-45, and Wolcott Roberts 1916-18; fullback, Joe Gattuso 1952-54.

Weekend Grid Choices

Following are International News Service predictions for this weekend's college football games. INS experts were right on 32 of 41 selections last week for a season's average of .728 with 166 right, 62 wrong.

EAST

Chiefs Shoot for Victory

By H. GUY MOATS

After one of the toughest scrimmage sessions of the season, yesterday, at Wisner field, the Pontiac High football Chiefs looked ready for an all-out scrap Friday against their winless Valley foe, Saginaw High. Trojans come here for the Chiefs home windup, and the contest has been rated a toss-up.

"Maybe the breaks will decide this one" said Trojan mentor Herb Korf, yesterday, announcing his starters for Friday. At any rate, the upstate coach indicated his squad was coming down here with one idea in mind — to win.

Much of yesterday's workout for Chiefs had to do with defensive action against possible Trojan aerials. "We saw some very good passing in the Central game, with Dick Jones and big Ron Frost both doing the throwing. Deb Blondin was also a very hard-driving left halfback so we've got our job cut out for us, to stop them. I hope we can. We want this victory very much indeed," coach Ed Graybiel commented.

Bob Baxter (end) was not out for two days, and may not be able to start. He worked out Wednesday, however, and if he improves will get in. Jim Shorter's bad ankle looked better and the speedy back is sure to be used, although not as a starter.

Probable starters for Pontiac will be Beamer and Cagle at ends; Holloway (or Kelly) and Massengale at tackles; Kelly (or Willie Duncan) and Kors at guards, with Joe Hill at center. Emil Frisch will also get in at a guard spot. Backfield will have Whitmer at quarter, Lon Humphrey at left half and Art Poe at fullback. Charley Robinson is at right half.

Korf said he would use Gary Potts and Joe Moore at ends; Bob Yauck and Willie Butler at tackles; Jim Lazzaro and Jim Murphy at guards; Ken Ott at center. Trojan backs will include junior Dick Jones at quarter (or end); Tyler O'Keefe at left half; Deb Blondin at fullback and Tyronne Bryant at right half. Six-foot-five Ron Frost will work at both quarterback and end, the Saginaw coach said today.

"We'll also use Johnny Hinton at left half, a lot, too," says Krof. "He's a sprinter and has been used probably more regularly than O'Keefe."

War Clouds Not Expected to Hinder Olympic Games

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — It's unlikely that war clouds in the Middle East will cast a shadow over the Olympic Games in Australia later this month, Avery Brundage said today.

The president of the International Olympic Committee said he expects all athletes entered from the various countries to be on hand when the Olympic torch is lighted in Melbourne Nov. 22.

"The Games are not concerned with political matters, at all," said Brundage. "I have no reason to believe that present fighting in Egypt will hurt the games in any way."

Brundage said he doubts that Olympic regulations require participating nations be at peace. "But I plan to study the rules carefully just to make sure."

The Games are and always have been contests between individuals, Brundage said. The nation-by-nation scoring and designations such as the "Russian team," and "U.S. team," are strictly unofficial, he said.

Egypt withdrew a few weeks ago, saying it did not have enough top athletes to make the trip to Australia worthwhile. Brundage added that he is not sure if Israel has any athletes entered.

"The United States team leaves Los Angeles later this week in six or seven specially chartered planes," Brundage said. "I plan to leave Nov. 13."

Brundage said the committee hopes that someday countries will follow the ancient idea of the "Olympic Truce."

"They used to stop fighting to compete in the Games," he said. "Now we stop the Olympic Games and continue our wars."

BIGGEST BIRD — One of two new leaders in The Pontiac Press "big pheasant derby" is shown above. The splendidly colored 3-pound-15½-ounce rooster was shot by Milford High grid ace, Jerry Stanley, 17 (holding his prize), Tuesday. It eliminated a 3-pound-12-ounce bird entered by Ernest Meeker of Pontiac.

Thin Slate on Prep Grid Front

THE LONG HEAVYWEIGHT — Largest heavyweight in boxing, Ewart Potgieter of South Africa, takes time out from his workouts in Boston to match heights with a couple "normal" guys at the arena. Potgieter, 330 pounds, will fight Jeff Dyer in the Boston Arena November 8th.

It's pretty thin pickings on the prep football front this week. Only one championship battle is in the offing in addition to a sprinkling of other games of mild interest.

The lone title-deciding scrap is scheduled Friday afternoon at Memphis where Almont shoots for a share of the Southern Thumb League crown. Otherwise, play in county area leagues is light and insignificant.

Waterford, which had its hopes for a perfect season and an Inter - Lakes Conference title squelched last week by Walled Lake, invades Milford Friday night to tangle with the Redskins.

The Skippers, carrying a 6-1 record, should have little trouble with Dick Yeager's squad. Milford, with an overall mark of 3-2-2, has dropped two decisions and tied one in its last three starts and seems hopelessly outclassed.

Waterford's Ed Clark sustained an injured knee in the Walled Lake clash and will be out for the rest of the year. Speedy Stan Jones is slated to take over his halfback position.

Bloomfield Hills, which muffed a chance to win the Southeast Suburban title in its last year in the circuit, tackles the Ortonville Blackhawks at Ortonville. The Barons own a 4-2 record.

Ortonville will be closing its season against the Barons and victory would be sweet, especially after last week's 46-0 lacing at the hands of Imlay City. The Blackhawks' record stands at 5-2.

Clarkston appears headed for another bad evening tomorrow when Holly comes to town for a Wayne-Oakland Conference encounter.

Ed Hintz' Wolves have waded through many ups and downs this season and have tasted victory only once. Holly, smarting from a 32-0 shellacking by Northville which removed its title hopes, will be a tough foe for Clarkston.

Title-bound Northville is host to Brighton and West Bloomfield visits Clarenceville in other Wayne-Oakland games.

Troy seeks to wrap up 2nd place at Madison, Roseville goes to Lake Orion and Avondale entertains Fitzgerald in Oakland B League engagements. Oakland B champion Clawson is expected to have no trouble with Oxford on the Wildcat gridiron.

Rochester should dispose of visiting Fraser and Romeo is a top-heavy favorite to preserve its spotless slate at North Branch. Magnificent Tom Wilson will end his high school football career as Lapeer hosts Flint St. Michael.

Almont can divide the Southern Thumb championship with New Haven by beating Memphis. Brown City and Capac, both winless, collide at Capac and Armada visits Dryden in other league games.

A strong rivalry will be renewed at Royal Oak when the Acorns tangle with Ferndale and Saginaw comes to Pontiac for a Saginaw Valley tilt. Cranbrook travels to Pittsburgh Saturday to meet Shady Side Academy in an Inter-State League game.

Assured Four Million

JACKSON — Jackson Raceway, virtually assured of going over the $4 million mark in its final four days, comes up with a balanced field in tonight's featured pace.

Racing secretary, Don Roberts has drawn a previous winner at every post position as eight sidewheelers go postward in the 8th race.

Off the Grapevine

Don't look now but the crystal ball on Kearns' desk must have been crystal-clear last week because he failed to miss a game in 14 selections.

A mark of 13 wins and one tie last week for Kearns were more than Moats and Cornwell cared to discuss.

The tie came between Clarkston and Oxford and downfall for two of the grapeviners were Bloomfield Hills' loss to Fraser and West Bloomfield's win over Milford.

Things get down to the late stages this week, but the grapevine still is productive.

Bogs Long Pheasant

Longest pheasant he ever shot was downed Tuesday west of the city by Jim Coe of 2444 Pontiac Rd. But the 38½ inch bird was too short, at that, to get in The Pontiac Press "Big Pheasant derby." Lead-is a 39⅞ inch specimen.

It very well might also have been the leader in the "big bird" division of the contest, but had been drawn before entry. Birds that have been drawn are not eligible. Coe's rooster was nearly four pounds, minus its vitals.

Southern California has won 10 Pacific Coast football crowns.

Mikes Aim for 2nd Place at St. Rita

Second place will be at stake for St. Michael this Sunday afternoon when the Shamrocks meet St. Rita in a Suburban Catholic League football game at Hazel Park.

St. Mike, St. Rita and St. Benedict of Highland Park are now deadlocked for the runner-up spot with 4-2 records. A Shamrock victory coupled with a St. Benedict loss at Orchard Lake would give them the position.

Ferndale St. James clashes with St. Frederick at Wisner Stadium to complete Sunday's league schedule. Royal Oak St. Mary and St. Clement collide at Center Line on Nov. 11 to officially end the SCL campaign.

Shamrock coach Bob Mineweaser was pleased with last Sunday's revamped lineup, which brought his team back into the winning column. He was particularly happy over the line play of Joe Fitzgerald, George Drake and Bob Birchmier as St. Mike downed the Dales 20-12.

Dan Dropps regained his old form in the St. James contest by scoring two touchdowns and passing to Chuck Brown for another.

Against the Vikings the Mikes will be forced to stop the rushes of halfback Jim Jacobs and fullback Al Sleyter plus fighting off St. Rita's home field advantage.

Orchard Lake St. Mary, with its 2nd straight SCL championship already in the bag, will now concentrate on attaining its 2nd perfect season in a row. The Eaglets have won 19 consecutive games.

Father John Rakoczy's gridders will be favored to make St. Benedict victim No. 20, but they cannot afford to regard the visiting Ravens too lightly. The Bens own a 5-2 record and both setbacks were by the margin of an extra point, 7-6 and 20-19.

St. Fred will make its 33rd successive attempt to win on the gridiron, but the Dales may prove too rugged for Gene Wright's charges. The bruising St. James squad has an overall season mark of 2-5.

Marion Awaits Greenberg Talk

Now Looms as Strong Candidate for Tribe's Managerial Post

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Marty Marion, now a strong candidate for the Cleveland Indians managership with Leo Durocher out of the picture, says he is awaiting a visit from Hank Greenberg, Cleveland general manager.

The 39-year-old former St. Louis Cardinal shortstop, who recently resigned as Chicago White Sox manager, said Greenberg told him Friday he would confer with him in St. Louis this week. He didn't pinpoint the time.

"I haven't made up my mind yet," Marion said when asked if he was available for the job. "I don't want to comment on the situation until I've talked to Greenberg."

Al Lopez resigned as Cleveland manager and was signed by the White Sox for Marion's former position.

Golf Helps Gridder
Makes Him a Better Competitor, Ace Says

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Stanford football Coach Chuck Taylor says golf helps the grid game of his ace passing quarterback and the nation's total offense leader, John Brodie.

"It makes him a better competitor," says Chuck of Brodie's golf, a sport that kept the All-America candidate from part of spring football practice.

The tall 192-pound senior runs the T-formation show for the Rose Bowl favored Indians. His passing has improved over 1955, and his leadership in signal calling is 100 per cent better in his coach's opinion.

Brodie thinks golf helps his football because "you learn that when things get tough it's no time to quit." For the record, he doesn't play golf during the football season but hopes to be on the Stanford team next spring.

The passing star leads in total yardage gained with 1,034 in six games, slightly more than half the Stanford total. Most of the yardage, 969, came from passes. He has completed 32 of 144 attempts for 10 touchdowns.

"He keeps calm and collected back there," Taylor says of his quarterback.

What's it like for a quarterback when the ball is snapped from center?

"If a receiver is open, I throw right away," says Brodie. "If not, I go into the pocket (protected by blockers) to see where the pressure is coming from. If I see a blur coming from the right or left, I'll move away.

Dick Dunkel's CHROME FOOTBALL POWER INDEX

Upsets Change Picture!

By DICK DUNKEL

Top-ranking Oklahoma may be meeting its most stubborn opponent of the season next Saturday.

But it will only be Colorado and the Buffs rate 36 points lower than the lordly Sooners, who will be seeking their 39th straight win. They'll play at Boulder.

At the same time No. 3 Georgia Tech will be in Durham for its annual battle with Duke. According to the Power Index, Tech's record this year has been 18 points per game stronger than Duke's.

Other national leaders have rated themselves over their Saturday opponents as follows:

No. 3 Michigan State, 11 over Wisconsin; No. 4 Tennessee, 21 over N. Carolina; No. 5 Texas A. & M., 6 over Arkansas; No. 6 Minnesota, 5 over Pittsburg.

The Power Index shows, from this season's record to date, average scoring difference relative to rating of opposition. As a forecast it has indicated winners correctly in 77.3 per cent of 1,229 games, omitting ties, so far.

Here's the past performance ratio for other big games of the coming week-end:

East, Saturday—Syracuse 1 over Penn State; Army 18 over Colgate; Princeton 24 over Brown; Yale 9 over Dartmouth.

Midwest, Saturday — Iowa even with Michigan; Ohio State 22 over Northwestern; Purdue even with Illinois, Notre Dame 1 over Navy.

South, Friday Night — Miami, Fla., 16 over Florida State. Saturday—Baylor 6 over TCU; Florida 4 over Auburn; Mississippi 14 over LSU; Tulane 12 over Miss. State; Va. Tech 3 over Clemson.

Far West, Saturday — S. California 25 over Wash. State; Oregon State 8 over Washington; Stanford 3 over UCLA; California 7 over Oregon.

Iowa Sees Rose Bowl Way in 'M' Game

CHICAGO (AP)—Iowa or Minnesota, two teams which have never played in a Rose Bowl game, will represent the Big Ten New Year's Day unless somebody else puts on a miracle finish.

Iowa, the Big Ten's only undefeated, untied team, faces a major test Saturday in quest of its first Big Ten championship since 1922.

Ranked seventh nationally, the Hawkeyes take on the wounded Wolverines of Michigan. Although the game will be at Iowa City, twice-beaten Michigan ranks a three-point favorite.

Minnesota rests on its Big Ten laurels this week and plays Pitt, a non-conference foe.

However, a showdown battle finds Minnesota and Iowa meeting at Minneapolis a week from Saturday. Iowa has a 3-0 conference mark and Minnesota is 3-0-1. A victory over Michigan could send the Hawks on their way but even a loss wouldn't take away the lustre from the Iowa-Minnesota game.

With Ohio State and Michigan State ineligible for the Rose Bowl and all the other teams having at least two losses, there appears little chance that either Iowa or Minnesota will not reach Pasadena.

Aside from Michigan and Minnesota, Iowa's only other conference game is against Ohio State, undefeated in the Big Ten and aiming for a third straight title.

Minnesota finishes against Michigan State and Wisconsin.

Iowa's showing has been a real surprise since the Hawks were not rated high by pre-season dopesters. The Hawks, however, trounced Indiana, 27-0; edged Wisconsin 13-7 and Purdue 21-20; and came up with two fourth quarter touchdowns to beat Oregon State, 14-13, and downed Hawaii, 34-0.

Minnesota, lauded by Michigan Athletic Director Fritz Crisler at the Chicago Football Writers' Assn. meeting Tuesday, has been more impressive despite a scoreless tie with Northwestern.

The Gophers beat Illinois, 16-13, Washington, 34-14, Purdue 21-14, and Michigan, 20-7.

Crisler called the Gophers the "best Minnesota team I've seen in years" and likened their line to the strong forward walls developed by Bernie Bierman in the "golden" days of the late 1930s.

The surge by Iowa and Minnesota proves that the Big Ten is gaining balance, a point emphasized by Crisler.

"There's greater football balance this year than I've seen in my 30 odd years of knocking around this conference," said Crisler who preceded Bierman as Minnesota's coach and later piloted some of Michigan's great teams.

U.S. Equestrians Break Into Winning Column of Competition

NEW YORK (AP)—If any of the five competing nations are going to dominate the international jumping competition at the National Horse Show as Mexico has done in the past then they had better get started.

There have been three international events and as many winners in the first two days of the eight-day stand at Madison Square Garden.

Canada started off by winning the opening phase of the three-event low score competition challenge trophy series. Then Brig. Gen. Humberto Mariles, the great Mexican rider, won the Good Will Challenge Trophy.

Last night the U.S. equestrian team broke into the winning column, placing one-two in the Royce A. Drake Memorial Challenge Trophy competition. Only Ireland and Chile have failed to come through with a victory.

Spartans Look for Rebound
Badgers Fear Irate MSU

MADISON (AP)—Wisconsin's bedraggled football team today faced the unhappy prospect of going from the frying pan into the fire.

Blanked 21-0 by an Ohio State machine rebounding from an upset loss to Penn State, the Badgers this week meet Michigan State, which no doubt will be bent on a comeback after being stung by Illinois.

Coach Milt Bruhn, whose freshman year as a head coach is rapidly turning into a nightmare because of glaring inadequacies, especially at quarterback, could find little to cheer about from the scouting reports he received on the Spartans.

"Our scouts tell us Michigan State still has a great ball club, despite its loss to Illinois," he said. "They just had one of those days that's hard to explain. They were good enough to win and ordinarily they would have won."

Bruhn said he was really sorry to hear that halfback Clarence Peaks, one of the finest runners in the nation, has been lost to the Spartans for the balance of the season because of an injured knee.

"He's a really great one," Bruhn said. "You don't like to see that happen to any player."

Bruhn indicated the Badgers expect to see a lot of Dennis (the Menace) Mendyk, now that Peaks is on the shelf.

"Of course, Michigan State may have other plans," Bruhn said.

As for his own club, 1-3-1 overall and 0-2-1 in Big Ten competition, Bruhn said he hasn't made up his mind which of his four quarterbacks will start at East Lansing Saturday.

"It could be Gil Blackmun," he said, "or it could be Ron Carlson, or even Sid Williams." The one he didn't mention, Dick Simonson, isn't completely out of the picture either.

Carlson, a 169-pound sophomore from St. Charles, Ill., who was tabbed as the Badgers' best bet before the season started, but has seen little sustained action because of injuries, would be Bruhn's first choice if he is ready.

Carlson, the best of a poor crop of passers at Wisconsin, missed the first two games and most of the third because of a knee injury. He finally started against Purdue, but suffered a severe wrist sprain and didn't play against the Buckeyes.

Air Force Rejects Bowl Game Offer

DENVER (AP)—The Air Force Academy said today its unbeaten football team will not play in the Refrigerator Bowl at Evansville, Ind., Dec. 2.

Athletic Director Robert V. Whitlow said "no decision regarding post-season invitations can be made prior to conclusion of the regularly scheduled season."

"For this reason," he advised the bowl's selection committee, "the Academy requests that it be excluded from further consideration for your bowl."

House (Texas) Divided
Price Quits Longhorn Job

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Ed Price, who resigned as coach under fire of the alumni, set out today to pick up the pieces of what could be the worst football season in University of Texas history.

Price brought an end to a turbulent period, during which he was thrice hanged in effigy, when he quit with a year to go on his $12,500 contract but with the provision that he would finish the current season.

With all officials stressing that there was no pressure brought from university sources, Price declared yesterday that he was resigning because "it is unfair to the team for us to have a house divided."

Saturday the Board of Regents will meet here and delegate to the athletic council the duty of selecting another coach and athletic director. Athletic Director D. X. Bible will retire to "modified service" in September, 1957. Tom Sealy, chairman of the board, said it was quite likely that one man would be obtained to fill both positions.

Henrich Back in Baseball as Giant Coach

NEW YORK (AP)—Tommy Henrich has joined the "enemy."

For years a fixture in right field with the New York Yankees, Henrich returns to baseball in 1957 after a six-year lapse as a coach under Manager Billy Rigney of the New York Giants.

Since Henrich turned down an offer from the Yankees to manage a club in their minor league farm system after the 1951 World Series, he has been out of baseball. A brewery executive in Cincinnati for two years, he has been working in radio and television in recent months.

Horace Stoneham, Giant president, announced the appointment yesterday.

List Mounts for All-America Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oklahoma's devastating halfback combination, a slender tailback who recalls another era, and a sore-shouldered fullback are among the leading All America backfield candidates as the football season swings into November.

Tommy McDonald, seeking All America honors for the second consecutive year, and Clendon Thomas are the twin spark plugs who ignite the nation's most potent offense, then demoralize opponents with their defensive skills.

"The best tailback we've ever had," is Tennessee Athletic Director Gen. Bob Neyland's description of John (Drum) Majors. The waspish, 162-pounder does most of the running, all the passing and kicking, calls signals and plays safetyman in the once-dominate single wing system.

Jack Pardee, a fullback who plays with unrestrained vigor, is the heart of the Texas Aggies as an outstanding runner and linebacker. He starred in vital Southwest Conference triumphs over Texas Christian and Baylor despite a deep shoulder bruise.

The Associated Press regional All America boards located in every sector of the country have made their first nominations complete through October games.

Quarterbacks John Brodie of Stanford, Paul Hornung of Notre Dame and Len Dawson of Purdue drew abundant praise.

At halfback, Jimmy Brown of Syracuse is making a tremendous bid.

Paige Cothren of Mississippi, C. R. Roberts of Southern California and Bill Barnes of Wake Forest rate highly at fullback.

Victims Of Circumstance

USC's Jon Arnett, Michigan State's Clarence Peaks and 1955 All America Jim Swink from Texas Christian appear to be the victims of circumstance.

Arnett, one of the best runners of this or any year, was able to play only half the campaign under a Pacific Coast Conference ruling limiting certain seniors to five games. Peaks' college career ended last week due to torn knee ligaments requiring an operation.

A full season is necessary to adequately judge a player's performance under all conditions.

Swink continues to be an important cog in the Horned Frog attack as a pass receiver and blocker, but the lad who captured the nation's imagination as a climax runner a year ago is being fairly well contained by enemy defenses.

Three Eastern performers, Milt Plum of Penn State; Bob Kyasky of Army and Guy Martin of Colgate, also are listed with the quarterback candidates. They are joined by Don Flynn of Houston, Jim Lugar of Virginia Tech and Ralph Hunsaker of Arizona.

Jimmy Crawford is another fine single wing tailback for the unbeaten Wyoming Cowboys. The Southwest board rates John Crow of the Texas Aggies and Walt Fondren of the slumping Texas Longhorns as that area's best halfbacks.

Elsewhere the halfback list includes Abe Woodson of Illinois, Joel Wells of Clemson, Paul Rotenberry and George Volkert of Georgia Tech, Jim Klisanin of Wichita, Jack Hill of Utah State and Tom Morris of Princeton.

Royal Ensign Joins 5-Time Winner Club

JACKSON—Royal Ensign joined the "five-time winners club" at Jackson Raceway Wednesday night with a smashing one-length victory.

A crowd of 2,536 saw Wally McMurray drive the three-year-old gelding home in 2:05 1-5—just two-fifths of a second off the track record.

It was Pontiac fans' night and Royal Ensign took the Pontiac pace for his 14th win of the season.

Wisconsin has more tied Big Ten football games than any other team.

Held and Gutowski May Go

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Games track and field team goes through its final tuneup drill in Memorial Coliseum today and there is a possibility there may be one or two revisions in the lineup.

Head Coach Jim Kelly of Minnesota said that if any last ditch change in personnel is made it will be announced tomorrow.

In the spotlight are the pole vault and javelin throw, with the possibility that the Rev. Franklin (Bud) Held, world record-holder in the javelin, and pole vaulter Bob Gutowski may gain berths on the team and fly off for Australia next week.

Held and Gutowski are now alternates. Both failed to make the squad in the final Olympic trials last summer.

But Gutowski, from Occidental College, vaulted 15 feet, 5 inches last week, highest in history for an undergraduate. The regular member of the vaulting squad, Jim Graham of Oklahoma A&M, has been bothered by a leg injury.

Held failed by one inch to make the team in the tryouts but since then has beaten the regulars some 25 feet or more each time out.

The No. 3 man on the team in the javelin is Benny Garcia of San Diego, whose position may be in jeopardy.

Held said he was still opposed to determining the team in June instead of just before takeoff time for the Games themselves.

But Kelly can point to a host of world and American records broken in the past three weeks in the team's tuneup meets to discount criticism of the summer final trials.

"I am immensely pleased with the condition of the team as a whole," the veteran coach said. "I know we will do all right at Melbourne."

Peaks' Surgery Called Success

EAST LANSING (AP) — Clarence Peaks, star MSU halfback, convalesced today from a knee operation, assured that his recovery will be complete.

The operation, performed Wednesday by Dr. Herbert Harris, was pronounced a "complete success" by Dr. James Feurig, team physician.

"Barring anything unforeseen," Feurig said, "Peaks will recover 100 per cent. In another year he won't even know he had a bad knee."

Feurig said Dr. Harris removed some torn cartilage from the left knee but found no ligaments torn.

Only 11 Players Left

WOODSON, Tex. (AP)—Bill Boles, coach of Woodson High, said yesterday he would only be able to suit out 11 players for tomorrow night's game against Valley View of Iowa Park.

Boles said he had 16 players when the season started, but five are out with injuries.

Bob Considine Says:

Home Will Replace Broadway, Hollywood

NEW YORK (INS)—Robert William Sarnoff, 38-year-old president of the National Broadcasting Company, sees a day in the tolerably near future when the American home will be the center of the family's entire entertainment.

"There will be no real reason to venture outside in search of amusement, the theater, concerts, motion pictures—what have you," he said as he toyed with a slab of vintage beef in his private dining room that looks down on Mr. Rockefeller's skating rink.

"You'll have television and radio, of course, and your hi-fi, but in addition the average home will have a library of films on tape. Sensitized tape can now accept and immediately transmit color TV shows, spot news events, anything a camera and film ever could, but better.

"A color film can never approach the clarity of colors electrically received and transmitted off tape because a beam is truer than chemicals."

Sarnoff, who looks and talks as if he would have made good if his name had been Jones, or Weaver, says the TV-viewer of the immediate future, forced for one reason or another to leave the house of an evening, perhaps to see the razing of Radio City Music Hall and its replacement by a 40-story supermarket, will simply touch a button on his set as he leaves and preserve the evening's entertainment on tape.

WATCH AT LEISURE

At his leisure he can then watch what he missed by feeding it back into the machine. Sarnoff sees great libraries of classics, history, melodrama, humor, comedy, current events and so forth being built up in this manner.

But that's tomorrow, a realm in which his father, Gen. David Sarnoff, is a master. We asked him about today.

Young Sarnoff doesn't believe that there will be any startling changes in TV programming for some time to come. The spectacular is here to stay, he says, and so is the one-shot treatment of tried and trusted plays.

He is not happy with TV news coverage and hopes to provide newspaper-type mobility for his reporters and commentators. He sees a day when a great foreign news event can be received "live" in this country. The new TV-tape will eliminate the costly and slow-moving development time now expended on news film, Sarnoff feels.

"I'm not at all sure that people want to see any great changes in TV programming just now," Sarnoff said. "People are happiest with what they're familiar with.

"There's no virtue in change just because it's change. If Ed Sullivan's type of entertainment is liked in 25,000,000 homes, he should stay that way."

BAD PUBLICITY

He thinks color TV has had a bad press, some of whose sources are in the industry itself.

"The charge is that color sets cost too much," he remarked. "But think what they once cost. A few years ago they sold for $1,200. Now they're just under $500. If we could sell more, the price would come down much lower, of course.

"There are charges, too, that you need to keep a TV repairman in the house if you've got a color set. But our surveys show that 90 per cent of color set owners say they're satisfied.

"The surveys show, too, that color sets, once installed, command the attention of twice as many viewers as black and white sets."

In a cracked little voice, we asked the young executive about radio.

"Network radio is scraping the bottom," he said. "It will rebound a bit, I think, but it will never be what it once was. We're all going through a period of soul-searching as to what to do and where to go.

"There are things the networks can do for the stations out along the line that they can't do for themselves, and I think that will always be true. Seems to me we should stress that. News, for example, of a national and international character.

AS IT HAPPENS

"We ought to be able to feed important news on to the radio network as abruptly as it happens, and give the stations the right to take it then and there or record it for use at the end of any local program.

"I think radio will always be the one media able to command the attention of the whole country simultaneously. It would be hard to find a home without a radio. There are probably 10,000,000 more car radios alone than the 37,000,000 TV homes in this country.

"Yet we operate our radio network in the red, and you can't get anybody in Washington to shed even one little tear for us."

Supersonic Sweetheart

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mrs. Delvina Wheeldon, Cincinnati radio broadcaster and former Powers model, became the first woman ever to be given the Air Force Assn. Citation of Honor. She was named "Supersonic Sweetheart" of the AFA. The honor was the result of her having flown faster than the speed of sound as a jet plane passenger last May 12. Mrs. Wheeldon made the flight with the permission of the Air Force over Lake Erie in a Lockheed F94C "Starfire." She is known to midwest radio listeners as "DelVina" and conducts a program called "Woman's World."

Giggle but No Gurgle

ADA, Okla. (AP)—While the giggle of returning children echoed through Galey school in Pontotoc County, the gurgle of water from the school's well stopped. The water well went dry the first day of school and an emergency supply was being hauled in. Oklahoma's severe drought was blamed.

Indonesian tin exports last year totaled about 32,000 tons out of total production of 33,400 tons. Exports the previous year amounted to 35,900 tons.

Walled Lake Youth Still Is 'Critical'

Robert O'Connor, 13, of 3067 Brookneal Rd., Walled Lake, is still in critical condition at Pontiac General Hospital with severe injuries received Monday when he was thrown off his motor scooter and landed against a passing car.

He is being treated for multiple bruises, possible internal injuries, and cuts of the leg and head. The incident occurred at a Commerce Township intersection.

Says Face Up to Your Fears

Rats Show MSU Prof How to Tackle Worries in Life

EAST LANSING (AP) — Shocked rats are helping a psychology professor at Michigan State University demonstrate the fastest way to overcome a fear is to face the situation, not run away.

"What's true of rats in this case apparently applies to humans as well," said Dr. M. Ray Denny, associate professor of psychology.

"A person frightened of public speaking or fearful of selling from door-to-door has to face those situations to extinguish his fears," he said.

"Londoners who moved to the country to escape bombings in World Wr II remained scared stiff hile those who stayed behind and ewre not harmed overcame their fear," Denny said.

In a controlled experiment it was learned rats lost their fear of being shocked much faster in surroundings very similar to those in which the original shock occurred. It took them more than twice as long to lose the fear in different surroundings.

The results were noted by counting the number of times the rats kept jumping from the box even after the slight electrical shocks were discontinued.

Hollywood Headlines

Hayward Joins the List of Star Movie Producers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Now it's Susan Hayward, girl producer.

The redhead from Brooklyn is the latest to join the producers' ranks, but she's frank enough to admit that it's in name only. "I couldn't handle the business details," she said. "I can't even count to 10."

She'll hire talent to handle the business end. The reason for becoming a producer? Money, of course. Until now, she has always been under contract to producers, working for a flat salary. "I'll Cry Tomorrow" may have helped her see the light on getting a percentage of the take.

Susan hears that the Lillian Roth biography has grossed between 12 and 14 million, making it MGM's third biggest moneymaker after "Gone With the Wind" and "Quo Vadis."

Right now she's happy to be making a comedy — "Top Secret Affair" with Kirk Douglas. "At least I think it's a comedy," she said. "We're doing it in pieces and you can't be sure."

She is negotiating to buy a property for her own company. One project she won't do: the Henen Morgan biography. She had been mentioned for it.

"I turned that down long ago," she said. "Helen Morgan didn't have one tenth the problems that Lillian Roth did, and I've played her" . . .

Producers all over the place! In a nearby dressing room was Kirk Douglas, returned from a lunchhour conference with his business associates. He reported a healthy profit on his first production effort, "The Indian Fighter." And he has high hopes for unreleased films, "Spring Reunion" with Betty Hutton and Dana Andrews, and "Lizzie" with Eleanor Parker."

Next he makes "King Kelly" and in the summer he'll produce "The Viking," to be made in Scandinavia for three million dollars. I asked him if he ever thought he would be spending such millions when he was a waiter in New York. "No, and I don't want to think about it now!" he replied.

Unions to Cap Drive for Votes

Closed Circuit TV Rally to Fire Up Campaigners for Stevenson

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO arranged a 28-city rally linked by a closed television circuit tonight to whip up voting support among workers for Democratic presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson.

AFL-CIO President George Meany and the political chiefs of the 15-million-member labor organization, James McDevitt and Jack Kroll, were listed among the speakrs.

The hourlong TV show, which also will feature entertainers from Hollywood and New York, is designed to key up union leaders to get out the maximum worker vote next Tuesday — preferably

The program, costing more than $30,000 which AFL-CIO unions provided from members' dues, climaxes a quiet but determined and costly political drive by organized labor, mainly in behalf of Democrats but also for a few Republicans.

Officials of the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE), headed by McDevitt and Kroll, declined to detail expenditures. But from all accounts the total political spending from all union sources will exceed two million dollars and may approach three million.

COPE officials acknowledged they are spending a record sum for any election, more than the AFL and CIO did together before their merger.

Generally speaking, the AFL-CIO and the independent railroad and mine workers unions are favoring Democrats in congressional races. The AFL-CIO's COPE refuses to put out an over-all list of congressional endorsements but says it supports about 25 Republican House candidates, none in the Senate.

• • •

For the presidency, the AFL-CIO has formally endorsed Stevenson but a few influential union leaders have endorsed President Eisenhower.

Sorry Business: Traffic Light Runs Into Car

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A Salt Lake motorist was just minding his business when a traffic signal ran into his car.

Denton Lee Dunn, 42, pulled up to an intersection where workmen were cutting a tree.

Workmen motioned Dunn to make a left turn to avoid the tree, which was being felled. Dunn turned, the tree began falling, a gust of wind blew the tree into a utility pole, which supported the signal light, which in turn came crashing down on the hood of Dunn's car, into the windshield and bounced over the back.

Blames School Program for Speeding Ticket

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — It was all the high school's fault, a teenage girl told City Judge James Demopolos as she answered a charge of driving her father's car 70 miles an hour within the city limits.

She told the judge she could not get served in the 30-minute lunch period at the school cafeteria so she ate at a restaurant three miles away. She said she was hurrying a little to get back before the lunch hour was over.

Rite Precedes Classes in $1,500,000 Modern Structure

By MYRENE TAYLOR
Rochester Correspondent

ROCHESTER — Solemnity mingled with happiness for 600 High School students marked the opening of Rochester's Community High School at 8 Wednesday morning.

A mile of students, teachers and village officials paraded from the old high school building to the new $1,500,000 modern, open - court building.

Brief opening exercises were held around the flag pole with the Rev. J. Douglas Parker of St. Paul's Methodist Church giving the invocation. The presentation of the new American flag was made by the Women's Relief Corps, Mrs. Claude Cross and Mrs. Conrad Zollner making the presentation.

Monte Clute, vice president of student council accepted the flag. Lewis B. Arsott, president of the Board of Education gave a short address of welcome. Response by Fred Weaver, president of the student council.

The Rev. John Yuells of the First Congregational Church gave the benediction. Then the high school choir sang "Alma Mater" and a band selection closed the brief ceremony.

Students entered the new building for the first full day of classes since the school year began, luncheon was served in the new combination cafeteria and lounge and regular classes were held throughout the 25 classrooms.

Only one-half hour period will be given for lunch each day and students will not be allowed to drive cars from the school during that period.

An open house is being planned for a future date.

Nixon Fighting for Penn Votes

V-P's Talks Insist GOP Has Good Chance to Win Keystone State

ON ROUTE WITH NIXON (AP) — Vice President Nixon returned to Pennsylvania today for two days of intensive campaigning, most of it by train, in a final bid for the 32 electoral votes of this key state.

Democrats are claiming Pennsylvania for Adlai Stevenson, but Republicans dispute this. Nixon hopes to tip the scales with a dozen speeches. He also plans to plug hard for Sen. James Duff (R-Pa), who is in a tough fight for re-election with former Mayor Joseph Clark of Philadelphia.

The vice president boarded his special train in New York City last night after one of his most strenuous days on the road — a 24-hour period during which he flew from coast to coast and made five speeches in two of the nation's greatest industrial centers.

In Detroit he assailed Stevenson for injecting the Near East crisis into the campaign, and also sought to win over voters of Polish extraction and other minorities with the assertion that re-election of President Eisenhower is the way to keep steam behind the movement for liberation of Russian satellites.

In New York's Harlem last night he told a predominantly Negro crowd that only the Republicans could follow through on civil rights pledges, because, he said, they have the record.

Nehru's Letters Asking for Peace

NEW DELHI (INS)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru today sent urgent personal messages on the Middle Eastern situation to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

An American embassy spokesman said the Indian leader also sent messages to British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden and French Premier Guy Mollet.

It was understood the messages appealed for an immediate halt in hostilities so that a peaceful negotiated settlement can be brought about.

Pair Bound Over in Grocery Robbery

Two brothers, examined on charges they held up a grocery store clerk Oct. 8 and took $300, yesterday were bound over for arraignment Monday in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Gerald Hubble Jr., 22, of 68 Putnam St. and Jack Hubble, 28, of 120 Pingree St., Royal Oak, were returned to jail under $5,000 bonds apiece set by Pontiac Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum.

Pontiac police say the older man entered the store at 185 Edison St. armed with a pistol while his younger brother remained outside in the getaway car.

Kefauver Hits at Foreign Policy

Stepped-Up Dem Theme Sounded by Candidate in Hard-Hitting Talk

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver charged today that "the Eisenhower - Dulles foreign policy has brought us to the brink of war for the fifth time in four years."

The vice-presidential candidate stormed into New England, hammering at the latest Democratic campaign theme — that administration policies are largely responsible for Middle East fighting and what he termed the breakdown of understandings with Britain and France.

Kefauver's talk, prepared for a rally at Boston University, was part of a back-breaking schedule of 10 speeches in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, two news conferences and several informal handshaking sessions.

"Our so-called foreign policies are utterly bankrupt," he said, and added:

"This is the third time in 10 days that the Eisenhower administration has been caught short in an international crisis."

He said "there was no American ambassador in either the Polish or Hungarian capitals when the revolt broke out. We had no idea it was coming."

Earlier crises, he said, were over a possible renewal of Korean fighting, Indochina, the Formosa Strait and a previous peak of tension over Suez.

He said the Suez crisis "has struck another body blow at NATO" and that if the trend continues "we may return to isolationism a la Herbert Hoover, simply because none of our past allies and friends will trust us."

He said "NATO seems to be in tatters" and added, "As goes NATO, so goes SEATO (Southeast Asia Treaty Organization) and the other alliances upon which our national security rests."

Black Market Flourishes in Russia

MOSCOW (INS) — Capitalism has gone underground in the Soviet Union.

Shortages and lack of variety in many lines offered by Soviet state stores make black market manufacturing highly profitable.

The rewards are so worthwhile that unreconstructed capitalists set up elaborate underground operations to obtain materials and to manufacture and market their products.

In recent weeks, the Soviet press has reported on such rings exposed by the police in the Moscow area.

The scope of their operations and the number of people involved indicates adroit talents for getting things done outside the law in a nation where the state monopolizes legal manufacturing and sales.

"Trud" reports that in the town of Cherkizov, near Moscow, Mr. and Mrs. Lotsmanov operated a thriving sweater combine unhampered by official assistance.

They bought wool from V. Zakharov, whose source of supply was a pair of light-fingered spinners at the Lensky wool factory.

The Lotsmanovs farmed out the yarn to town and village housewives who did the knitting, then forwarded the garments to their Moscow organization for finishing and sale on the black market.

In an issue a few days later, "Trud" revealed that plastic imitation leather was being stolen from Moscow's haberdashery factory No. 2.

The thieves took the material around to factory No. 3, also run by the haberdashery industries trust, and had it run up into handbags which they sold on the black market.

Officials of factory No. 2 were apparently too busy with a little racket of their own to bother about the missing plastic. Three department chiefs and the warehouse manager were selling velvet, moleskin and other expensive fabrics out the back door.

They ordered the high-quality goods ostensibly to make them up into gloves, while concentrating on making canvas work mittens.

"Evening Moscow" reported meanwhile that some cabinet makers in the capital have also found there's more in going into business for yourself than working for the government.

They turned out storage cupboards from hard-to-get materials — stolen from the government. They had no trouble getting rid of even such bulky commodities.

Grains Active, Selling Heavy

CHICAGO (AP) — In very active dealings grains gave up ground grudgingly on the Board of Trade today.

Selling entered the market after three days of advancing prices. It was based on the belief the fighting in the Middle East may be localized. But there was still plenty of demand for all cereals.

Prices receded most in soybeans, which ran up the most gains late in the previous session. Feed grains held up better than other cereals but eventually backtracked for small losses.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ½ to 1 cent lower, December $2.36⅛; corn unchanged to ½ lower, December $1.39¼; oats ⅛ to ⅜ lower, December 80¼; rye 1¼ to 1¾ lower, December $1.59½; soybeans ½ to 1¼ lower, November $2.48¼, and lard 10 cents lower to 7 cents a hundred pounds higher, November $11.60.

The Middle East uproar again was the dominating influence in the market. Buying on this conflict continued, but there also was selling from those who did not see how the fighting would result in increased exports for American grains.

First Evacuees From War Zone Due in New York

NEW YORK (INS) — The first American evacuees from trouble spots in the Middle East were due to arrive late today at New York's Idlewild Airport.

Several U. S. citizens from Cairo reportedly were on a Trans World Airlines plane due from Athens in the first airlift of evacuees.

TWA also said it had three planes in Athens ready to go to Cairo for additional Americans as soon as the flight ban is lifted on the Egyptian City. The U. S. Air Force has been ferrying evacuees to Athens from danger zones.

More evacuees were expected on a flight of El Al, the Israeli airline, scheduled to arrive later at Idlewild from Tel Aviv.

REROUTE PLANES

Pan American World Airways said it was rerouting affected flights by way of Turkey and Iran as the result of a ban on civil aircraft in Syria.

Air India International announced in New York that all of its Middle East flights normally scheduled through Cairo and Beirut had been rerouted through Istanbul, Turkey.

KLM Royal Dutch Airlines announced it had discontinued service to Cairo and Tel Aviv until further notice.

Vinegar Victim Drowned

BANGOR (AP) — An autopsy shows Peter Mocole, 56, who fell into a vat of cider sludge at a vinegar works, drowned. Dr. Joseph Cooper said Mocole's respiratory tract was clogged by the apple residue.

Stock Market Bounces Back

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rebounded in early trading today, making a partial recovery from yesterday's sharp loss on news of the Egyptian crisis.

Leading issues throughout the entire list posted gains of fractions to around a point.

Some brokers said although news of the international crisis will still be reflected on the market, it is hoped a technical support area will aid in resisting declines below the lows reached Oct. 1.

Two oil stocks heavily involved in the Middle East, Royal Dutch and Gulf Oil, made good advances at the opening then settled back to small fractional losses.

LIGHT FLURRY

The buying flurry at the opening lasted only around 10 minutes or so then turnover slackened while prices generally held.

U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott Copper, International Nickel and New York Central held gains of around a point.

General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Boeing, American Telephone, Anaconda and Union Carbide retained fractional gains.

A big 10,000-share block of Southern Production was sold at 43½, up ⅜.

Opening blocks included Royal Dutch up ⅝ at 101¼ on 1,300 shares, General Motors up ¼ at 45 on 2,000, and U. S. Steel up ⅜ at 68¼ on 2,000.

2 Only Slightly Hurt in Headon Collision

Two drivers were slightly injured in a headon crash last night, caused, Pontiac police said, when one driver fell asleep at the wheel.

Joyce M. Tomlin, 23, of 299 E. Tennyson Ave., who admitted she dozed off and swerved across the center line, police said, was treated for chest and leg bruises at Pontiac General Hospital.

The other driver, Joseph F. Ashley, 31, of 62, W. Mansfield Ave., who police said was going north on North Saginaw street when Miss Tomlin's car came towards him at Kemp street, also was treated for minor bruises.

Ashley told police he thought the approaching car was about to turn left.

Pontiac Coach Co. Elects New Officers

In moves to fill out the corporate structure of Pontiac Coach Co., Drayton Plains, the board of directors has elected a new vice president and treasurer.

Michael Wild, partner in the accounting firm of Berger and Wild of Detroit, takes over the new position, John Langs, board chairman, announced today.

Raymond E. Danto, who was elected president and chief executive officer of the Detroit suburban mobile home manufacturer last month announced that Fred Lindsay, a veteran of the company's manufacturing department, has been named plant manager and Max Fell, controller.

Building Slack in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Contracts for future construction in Metropolitan Detroit in September were 24 per cent below a year ago, Dodge Reports said. Heavy engineering awards increased but failed to offset a decline in total building classifications.

Nation's Economists Predict Business Boom Until Spring

WASHINGTON (INS)—The 1956 elections come at a time of record business activity which economists in and out of the government believe will continue until next spring, at least.

If past experience is a guide, this will undoubtedly work to the advantage of the party in power and thus help the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

The situation is far different from that at the time of the 1954 congressional elections, when the Republicans lost control of both houses of Congress, due partly to a year-long recession.

However, there are several adverse spots in the picture. Farm income is still down, though not as much as in 1955. Home building and auto sales are much lower than last year. There are many depressed industrial areas. Tight money is a nation-wide business problem. Inflationary pressures are forcing up some prices.

Nevertheless, experts believe the boom, which has roared ahead since the 1954 elections, will continue until next spring, although some of them think it will slow down and simply move along a plateau a good part of next year—assuming that the U. S. does not become involved in a war.

They point out that for more than a year the economy has been operating at close to the ceiling of its plant, material and manpower resources, and therefore does not have room at this time to advance much further in a basic sense.

That means, they add, that any further upward movement will be at the expense of an inflationary rise in prices, as buyers bid for things in short supply.

Here is a brief run-down of the pre-election economic situation based on interviews with a dozen economists:

Total output: The value of all goods and services produced by the U. S. ran at a yearly rate of 408 billion dollars in the second three months of 1956. It was then rising at about four per cent a year, but three per cent of that represented inflation and only one per cent real progress.

Jobs: Total employment, at around the 66 million level, is at a record high for this time of year. Unemployment, though very low, is not as low as it was in 1953. Purchasing power of factory workers is at a record for this time of year.

Farm Outlook: Farm prices have dropped now for four consecutive months, but they are still higher than last year. The prospect is that farmers will net 11.7 billion dollars this year as compared with 11.3 billion last year. This reverses a decline that had continued since 1951.

Retail Sales: Signs point to a record Christmas. Department store sales have recently been at an all-time high, but slacked off a bit in October.

To Enlarge Floor Space at GM Training Centers

DETROIT (INS) — General Motors announced today it is adding about 180,000 square feet of floor space to its 30 training centers throughout the nation.

The expansion will bring the amount of floor space to a million square feet.

William F. Hufstader, GM vice president in charge of distribution, said the expansion was necessary because of increased manufacturing activities by the firm's non-automotive divisions.

Business Notes

George Boyd, of Moll's Inc., of Pontiac, was among 50 retailers from 12 states attending a Retail Merchandising Clinic sponsored by James Lees and Sons Company in Natural Bridge, Va.

After the opening sessions Tuesday at the Lees' Glascow Mill, tours of the mill and discussions closed the conference.

George Romney, president of American Motors Corp., today announced realignment of the company's autonomous divisions, election of two new executive vice presidents and appointment of an Automotive Policy Committee.

Under the realignment, the company will have three separate divisions instead of four. The three will be automotive appliance, special product and export and subsidiaries will be absorbed into the appropriate product operation.

B. A. Chapman, vice president of operations, will become executive vice president and general manager of the appliance division. Roy D. Chapin Jr., vice president and treasurer, becomes executive vice president and general manager of the automotive division, Romney announced.

A local man presided at the sixth annual All Industry Insurance Conference staged at the Veterans Memorial Building in Detroit Tuesday.

Max E. Kerns, associated with Huttenlocher Insurance Agency of Pontiac and president of the Michigan Chapter, Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriters was in charge of the meeting.

DETROIT (INS) — Chrysler's Stamping Division today announced the appointment of Clarence G. Bauer as quality control manager.

He succeeds John J. Pathe, who has been promoted to the staff of division General Manager John F. Kerigan.

DETROIT (INS) — General Motors said yesterday that John Q. Holmes has been named director of the production engineering section at GM's Technical Center.

R. M. Critchfield, vice president in charge of GM's Process Development Center, said Holmes would succeed Rolly L. Wilhite, who is retiring after more than 27 years of service with the corporation.

Troy Wants Out of Drain Project

City Is Reluctant About Joining Others in $38.5 Million Deal

Meeting yesterday, attorneys involved in the prolonged legal hassle over the planned 38.5 million dollar Twelve Town Drain reported "a very cordial meeting" and some progress.

Harry J. Merritt, Oakland County Corporation Counsel, said the meeting was called to discuss with Troy attorneys Troy's objections to participating in the 16-community project.

Troy's township government agreed to enter the project before the new city's incorporation ment, 900 acres of Troy were to be included.

Since incorporating, the city has said it wants completely out of the drain project, which was designed to ease floods in its southern Oakland County area.

Merritt said between 400 and 500 acres of the Troy territory is included in the natural drainage district of the Twelve Town project, and would drain into the project whether Troy were assessed or not. Project authorities feel they have legal power to compel Troy to pay for this drainage.

But the remainder of Troy's 900 project acres, he said, would not drain into the Twelve Town area.

Merritt said Troy attorney Jack W. Hutson and other Troy officials "reacted favorably" to a suggestion that only half of the agreed Troy area be included in the project.

He said no conclusion will be reached until a further discussion has been held. It will concern 80 acres of Troy land outside the original drain district, he said, which is already developed with drains waiting for the Twelve Town hookup.

Merritt said it is possible that a reduction of Troy area to be drained would increase costs to the other participating municipalities.

But he pointed out that the reduced extent of lines to be laid and a possible reduction of pipe diameter could compensate for the loss of territory.

Merritt said a meeting with Southfield Township authorities, who have also objected to the project, will be held next week.

In Royal Oak, Mayor Howard K. Kelley yesterday was reported in protest against the idea of a reduction of Troy drain area and a rise in costs to other communities.

Pointing out that Royal Oak's share of the cost has risen from an original 9 million dolars to 12.9 million, Kelley said he doubted his commission will pay another raise.

U.S. Aid to Schools Is 1½ Billion in Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Office of Education said today the federal government contributed more than 1½ billion dollars to 81 educational programs in the 1954-55 school year.

The federal expenditures included aid to local school districts crowded with children because of new federal activities, veterans education, school lunches, agricultural extension work and education of Indians.

The 1954-55 figure was about half that for 1948-49, mainly because of a reduction in veterans' payments to about 700 million dollars, one fourth what they were in the earlier year.

Win $50,000 Damages

BAY CITY (AP)—A Flint family of four has been awarded $50,000 in damages for injuries suffered in a headon auto crash Sept. 2. The defendant, Kenneth Hinshaw of Agawam, Mass., acknowledged liability which was set in an out-of-court settlement. Richard Larkin will receive $30,000 for injuries, including loss of an eye. His wife, Evelyn, gets $15,000. Their children, Danial and Evelyn, get $4,000 and $1,000 respectively.

In Memoriam 2

BRINKER—IN LOVING MEMORY of Sharron Lee Brinker who passed away 2 yrs. ago today.
The depths of sorrow
we can not tell of the loss of one
we loved so well
And while she sleeps
a peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep
Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Sisters and Brothers

IN LOVING MEMORY OF our beloved Mother, Mrs. Bessie Briggs, who passed away Nov. 1, 1955
Gone is the face
we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice
we loved to hear;
Too far away
for sight or speech,
But not too far
for thought to reach
Sadly missed by children, Blanche, Franklyn and Gertrude

Some Register Disappointment

Criticize Mary Martin in Her TV Portrayal of Billie Dawn

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight people scarcely constitute a quorum for a public opinion poll. But here are the opinions of eight concerning "Born Yesterday" as presented on Hallmark Hall of Fame Sunday evening:

Two enjoyed it thoroughly. Six, including this viewer, suffered from varying degrees of disappointment with the Garson Kanin comedy.

All the disappointed expressed great admiration for the talents of Mary Martin, who played the part of Billie Dawn. But all felt she failed to equal the role of the dumb-smart, tough-tender dame which Judy Holliday created on Broadway and also played in the movie version.

"The trouble with Mary Martin, though it's not really a trouble," said one woman, "is that she's a lady. And Billie Dawn just isn't—in fact, she ain't no lady."

"The trouble with Mary Martin, and I really like her terrifically," said another woman, "is that she played the part with a Southern accent. Maybe it's just because we live in the New York area that I don't think a Southern accent is funny. I mean I think a Brooklyn accent, such as Judy Holliday had, is funny or something."

"You mean," a man said, "that a so-called Brooklyn accent conveys a toughness of spirit and a tenderness of the flesh that's exactly right for the role."

The woman blinked. "Maybe that's what I meant," she said dubiously.

Only one of the eight tapped (as we say in the poll business) failed to praise Paul Douglas, who brought to television the role of the big junkman, Harry Brock, which he played on Broadway and in the movies.

Diphtheria Victim's Family Stricken

DETROIT (INS) — The mother, brother and sister of a Detroit diphtheria victim are in Herman Keifer Hospital today after tests showed they have the disease, too.

It is the second instance of multiple cases in a single family. Eleven members of another family were hospitalized last week.

Deputy Health Commissioner Dr. Charles P. Anderson said tests have been made daily on family members of all persons with the disease.

Anderson also reported that the Amos School, where several victims attended, is almost 100 per cent immunized.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

NOT IN THE CARDS — Mary Martin's portrayal of Billie Dawn in the recent television version of "Born Yesterday" disappointed some of her fans. They thought Miss Martin was too ladylike in her characterization of the famous dumb blonde created by Judy Holliday on the stage and screen.

Grandma 'Digs' River Life

By JERRY PETERS
of The Saginaw News

SAGINAW (AP) — Don't call her a riverboat queen or try to be funny about Tugboat Annie. She's just a woman doing her job.

Of course that job is bossing a dredging company and Mrs. Glen H. Conrad of Saginaw says she realizes that's highly unusual work for a woman. But she's not concerned about whether she's unique.

A few weeks ago her company, Carland Dredging Co., Inc., was awarded a $259,300 contract to dredge a 65-mile inland scenic waterway at the top of the Lower Peninsula. The project is for the government, Mrs. Conrad's favorite customer.

Mrs. Conrad, who grew up in Toledo, never expected to end up as boss of a 13-man dredging crew. She taught ballroom and interpretive dancing there before her marriage to Howard C. Carland, son of a railroad contractor.

WIDOW CARRIES ON

When they moved to Saginaw in 1934, Carland entered the dredging business. After his death in 1935, his widow continued a project he'd started, dredging the Saginaw River.

She says she had misgivings about taking over but finished the job within the contract time limit.

"I'd learned the business, of course, from being around my husband," she said. "The Army Engineers gave me advice and I followed it."

In 1939 she successfully bid a contract to dredge the Saginaw River turning basin which allows lake freighters to turn around for return trips downstream to Saginaw Bay.

Since then the company has been occupied with government and private dredging projects around the Saginaw Bay area.

Off the dredge Mrs. Conrad is strictly a homemaker. She loves to cook but hates to do dishes. She has a dishwasher in her house in Golfside, Saginaw's top residential area, and a cleaning woman and a yard man.

HUSBAND HELPS

Since her marriage two years ago to Conrad, retired head of Consumers Power Co. here, her business duties have eased up and her husband has taken over some of the company responsibilities.

But Mrs. Conrad has a bookkeeper and auditor to keep records and she maintains an office on the dredge. She does all contract bidding herself.

Because of her marriage Mrs. Conrad has become a grandmother of four lively youngsters. But grandma has given strict orders that they're to keep off the dredge during working hours.

The firm bought another dredge, a smaller one, for the inland water route job. Besides snagging (clearing out debris) and dredging a five-foot channel, the job will include pile driving, driving steel sheeting for breakwaters and setting markers for boatmen.

The company has a year to complete the project. Most of that time Mr. and Mrs. Conrad will be on the site.

The boss, probably in knee boots, will oversee the work from the new dredge, the Mudhen, a name picked by previous owners.

Said Mrs. Conrad, "I'd probably have chosen a prettier name."
