

Outlines Health Problems

DR. ROBERT H. BAKER

State Medical Group Head Cites Need for Physicians to Serve in Rural Areas

By WILMA GREENWAY

"The vital problem facing the medical profession today is getting qualified physicians into outlying rural areas," Dr. Robert H. Baker, newly installed president of Michigan State Medical Society, said today in an interview with the Pontiac Press.

"Wider distribution of medical care is a challenge not only for the doctor, but for the community, the county and the state.

"Equally important, he said, "is getting new drug discoveries, surgical techniques and medical methods into the day-to-day practice of the average physician."

The 62-year-old Pontiac surgeon, who was installed Sept. 29 as official head of the Michigan Medical Society, pointed out that the absence of running water, electricity, laboratory facilities and hospitals often discourages the modern young doctor from settling in rural areas.

"Communities should be educated to the need of providing these minimal medical facilities," he said, "and doctors should be shown how to revise their modern methods to match available facilities."

Reds Lied, U. S. Charges in Note

Demands Russia Pay $2 Million for Aircraft Shot Down Last Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today accused Russia of having "willfully and knowingly" lied about the shooting down of the American B-29 bomber over the Sea of Japan in July, 1953. It filed a formal damage claim for $2,785,492.84.

At the same time the United States challenged Russia—if the Communists denied liability for the damages—to join in taking the dispute to the International Court of Justice.

Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen delivered the 17-page American note to the Soviet Foreign Office in Moscow today.

In Washington, the State Department made the note public and announced that U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. has been instructed to circulate the text among the members of the U.N. Security Council.

It was the second time that the United States resorted to this extraordinary procedure in pressing what is clearly a campaign to get satisfaction from the Soviet Union for the destruction of American aircraft.

The first instance was two weeks ago when Washington asked some 1 1/2 million dollars for a B-29 shot down off northern Japan in October, 1952.

The incident in today's formal diplomatic note occurred on July 29 last year and resulted in 16 American dead or missing.

Churchill Blasts Laborite Bevan

Says Isolation of U. S. Would Give Europe to Communists

BLACKPOOL, England (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared today the withdrawal of the United States "into isolation would condemn all Europe to Russian Communist subjugation and our famous and beloved island to death and ruin."

The 79-year-old British statesman told the annual Conservative Party Conference here that isolationist sentiment does exist in the United States in a policy described as "Fortress America."

"But he assured his listeners the 'wisest forces over there, irrespective of party, will not allow the great republic to be turned from the path of right and duty.'"

Without mentioning Aneurin Bevan by name, Churchill assailed the leftwing Labor leader for allegedly taunting the Americans to "go it alone."

"Six months ago a politician who has held office in a British Cabinet and who one day aspires to become leader of the Labor party did not hesitate to tell the Americans to 'go it alone.'"

"One cannot imagine any more fatal disaster than that this evil counselor should be taken at his word."

Longhairs to Go Sporty, Play at Game

WASHINGTON (AP)—The longhairs and the crewcut set rub elbows and oboes tomorrow at Griffith Stadium. The occasion: A concert by the National Symphony Orchestra between the halves of the Washington Redskins-New York Giants football game.

Maestro Howard Mitchell said he and Redskin owner George Preston Marshall hit upon this "brainstorm" during an evening of conversation.

The orchestra, sporting evening gowns and tuxedos, will offer the fans three selections: "Prelude to Lohengrin, Act Three," "Hail to the Redskins" and "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Delay Hearings on Dixon-Yates

Senators Plan to Meet Again on A-Contract After Election

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Dixon-Yates contract was on the shelf until after election today "at the suggestion," the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee said, political parties.

This was the committee's wording yesterday in wiring its 18 members there'll be no public hearings next Wednesday, as had been planned, on the much-disputed price of members representing both vate power proposal.

Instead, it suggested the hearings be rescheduled for Nov. 4—two days after the elections. It said "an overwhelming number" of the legislators found their campaigning duties too heavy to hold hearings now.

The contract provides that the Dixon-Yates private utility group build a plant to send electric power through Tennessee Valley Authority public power lines.

The Senate already is scheduled to meet in special session Nov. 8 on the move to censure Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Some Republican senators said privately they were more than pleased by news of the Dixon-Yates postponement. They said they had considered it would be a mistake to provide such a forum for foes, particularly Democrats, of the proposal.

French Tricolor Lowered as Reds Take Over Hanoi

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The French pulled out of Hanoi tonight, in advance of Communist-led Vietnamese occupation forces.

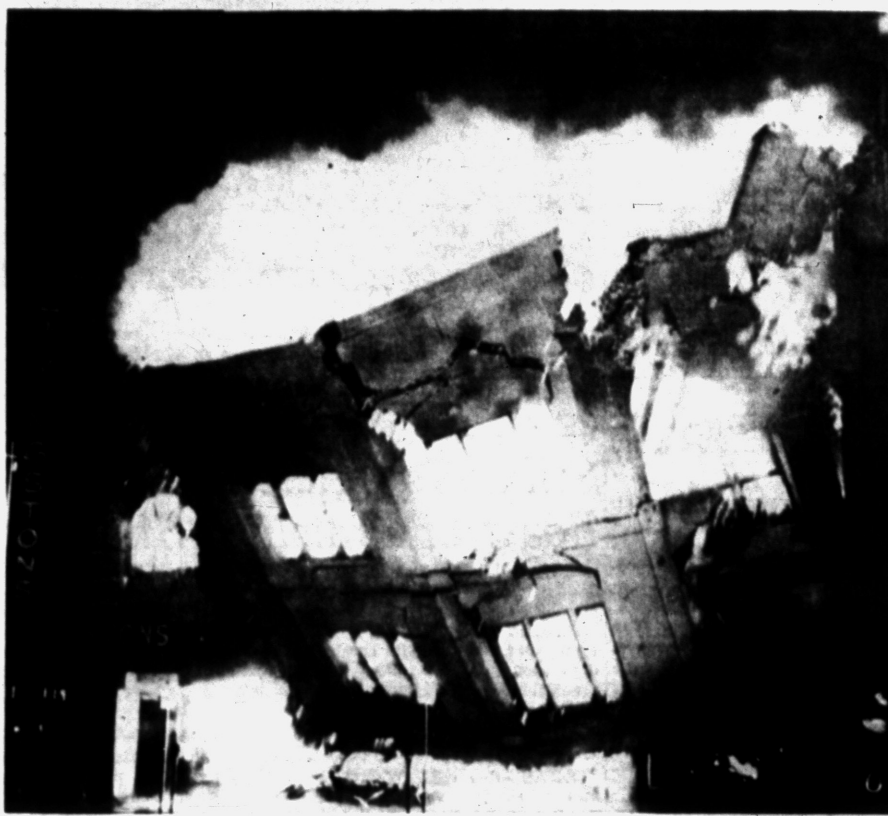

French colonial soldiers brushed away tears as the tricolor, which had flown almost unbrokenly over the city 71 years, was lowered for the last time.

The last French withdrew in orderly fashion according to plan. There was no confusion.

The Vietnamese, with whom the French fought a bitter seven-year war, started edging toward the city at dawn. By mid-afternoon they were in possession of Bac Mai, the big military airport on the outskirts. At nightfall they were in the suburbs.

Tomorrow, the red gold-starred Vietnamese flag will fly over Hanoi under terms of the July 21 Geneva Armistice agreement, which turned over the northern half of Viet Nam to the Reds.

Two Are Safe, 43 Missing After Freighter Capsizes

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Coast Guard reported this morning that two men had been picked up and three others sighted in the water from the ore-laden freighter, Mormackite, which according to one survivor capsized with a crew of 48 men aboard.

The first survivor picked up from the missing freighter, identified as Michael Angel Hernandez, chief steward of the Mormackite, said the ship capsized. He did not say when, but Coast Guard officials estimated it was probably early Thursday when winds were high and seas rough in the area.

Both men were picked up 150 miles east southeast of Cape Henry, Va., after they had been sighted by Navy and Coast Guard planes out of Elizabeth City, N. C., which directed the Macedonia to the area.

Shortly thereafter the planes reported sighting three more men in life jackets in the water.

Chief Boatwain Cyrus Gray, of the Norfolk Coast Guard, said the two others sighted were in the same general area as the man picked up.

The Macedonia reported hearing met's voices shortly before daylight. A boat was put overseas but nothing was found. It was later that the Coast Guard plane sighted the man in the water and directed the ship to the area.

Records in Baltimore showed the 6,000-ton Mormackite was in a Chesapeake Bay collision Dec. 13, 1949 with the Horace Irvine. The collision occurred in a heavy fog. Damage was slight and there were no injuries.

The ship usually carries a crew of 45.

Three Coast Guard cutters were sent from Norfolk to the area to continue the search. Twelve search planes, six from Norfolk, five from Elizabeth City, N.C. and one from Floyd Bennett Field, N.Y., also are covering the area.

Earlier, Capehart had indicated hearings were over except for persons who wished to testify because they thought they were injured in previous testimony.

A special federal grand jury here has been instructed by Atty. Gen. Brownell to "inquire into bribery and other criminal conduct in the federal housing program," and grand juries also have been convened in other cities.

Capehart said indictments are showing up almost daily and add ed, "there should be a lot more."

Politicians Seek Nevada Votes

Court Rules People to Name Man to Complete McCarran's Term

RENO (AP)—Republican and Democratic candidates for the two-year balance of the late Democratic Sen. Pat McCarran's term combed Nevada's sparsely-settled acres today in search of votes, knowing at last they are legal nominees.

After a tense week-long legal battle, Nevada's State Supreme Court decided the question yesterday. It ruled unanimously that the state's 102 thousand registered voters will name the person who will complete the term. The GOP had contended Republican Gov. Charles Russell had the right to name McCarran's successor.

With only 24 days until election, Democratic nominee, Alan Bible, 44, and Republican Ernest Brown, 51, both Reno attorneys—began whirlwind campaigns.

Even though the legal hassle has ended, political overtones still rock this desert state. Democrats were jubilant over the ruling. They had accused the GOP of attempting to block the election. Republican leaders denied the charge, contending they only wanted to make certain the winner of an election would hold office legally.

Denver Speech Warns of Risks If Control Is Lost

Over 5,000 in Audience Halt President 42 Times With Applause

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower, vigorously pressing the Republican campaign for continued control of Congress, declared last night he foresees "a cold war of partisan politics" if the Democrats take over.

He spoke to a nationwide television-radio audience and a cheering capacity crowd of 5,500 persons at a GOP rally in Denver Auditorium after getting a report from party congressional leaders on their plans to step up the campaign tempo.

The President was interrupted at least 42 times by applause, which helped to run his TV-radio address overtime and caused him to be cut off the air about a half minute before he completed his text.

In his Denver speech, Eisenhower cautioned about what he called the dangers of a November election outcome putting Congress under Democratic rule and leaving the White House Republican.

Eisenhower said voters who put the Republican administration in power in 1952 "got results" they wanted, and he appealed for two more years of GOP control of Congress to carry out the rest of his program.

Eisenhower got a howling ovation when he was introduced at the rally here by Vice President Nixon, who voiced confidence the Republicans still will be in the control saddle when Congress meets in January.

Eisenhower was flanked on the speakers' platform by a group of Republican congressional leaders and Colorado GOP candidates for Congress and state offices.

The leaders conferred with the President for an hour before his speech and at a news conference later promised "a stepped up tempo" in their fight for control of the House and Senate.

They avoided committing Eisenhower to more than the two additional campaign speeches he now definitely has planned. But Nixon said the president probably will make another address—a farm speech somewhere in the Midwest.

House speaker Martin and senate majority leader Knowland publicly continued to voice confidence the Republicans will win their battle, but some members of the party high command were saying privately they are worried.

Eisenhower's speech last night was in much the same pattern as the one he made in Hollywood Bowl. As on that occasion making (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Highlights of Eisenhower's Talk to the Nation

Two Drivers at the Steering Wheel May End Up in Ditch, Cautions President

From INS & UP Dispatches
DENVER—Following are highlights from President Eisenhower's speech in Denver last night:

"As leaders and workers in your precincts, you know that the members of our party cannot carry this battle alone. We must enlist the spirited support of friends and neighbors, regardless of party, who believe in our principles and objectives."

"For the cause in which we believe is bigger than any political party. To this cause, all Americans, regardless of party, can give their enthusiastic support."

"Now, my friends, a cold war of partisan politics between the Congress and the executive branch won't give us these goals."

"This brings up a political fact of life."

"You know perfectly well that you just can't have one car with two drivers at the steering wheel and expect to end up any place but in the ditch—especially when the drivers are set on going in different directions. You cannot have efficient federal government when the Congress wants to follow one philosophy of government and the executive branch another."

"In our system of government, progress is made when the leaders of the executive branch and the majority of the Congress are members of the same political party. The unsurpassed record of the 83rd Congress is shining evidence of this truth."

"History shows that when the executive and legislative branches are politically in conflict, politics in Washington runs riot. In these conditions, the public good goes begging while politics is played for politics' sake."

"In this struggle, I know you will have the same determination—the same enthusiasm—the same drive—as you had two years ago. I know you will fight to win."

"Only through your effort can our program continue to advance. Only through your effort will we continue to have the kind of America all of us so earnestly desire."

"Our people... now have clean, honest government."

"Taxes have been cut $4,700,000,000—the largest reduction in history"—and federal spending has been "cut... by 11 billion dollars."

"We smoked out 211,000 unnecessary positions on the federal payroll and got rid of them."

"Our military strength does not consist of involuntarily recalled veterans who have already served our nation in war."

"We at last have an economy whose strength is not sapped by the virus of inflation—an economy whose strength is not dependent upon the sacrifices of the battlefield."

"Together we shall forge ahead in this great work we have so well begun, determined to keep America strong and secure—determined that this land of freedom, under Almighty God, will not rest until we see in the world a lasting peace with justice."

The Day in Birmingham

Commissioners Deliberate on Off-Street Parking Plan

From Our Birmingham Bureau
BIRMINGHAM — The City Commission met behind closed doors twice in the last two weeks for the purpose of trying to draw together the loose ends of the Planning Board's off-street parking ordinance, but have yet to broach the subject.

The much-discussed ordinance, which stipulates that all new or expanding businesses must provide off-street parking space, has been hanging in the fire for many months but was finally tabled for further refinements.

A lengthy discussion on the assessment formula for financing a parking lot at the southeast corner of Pierce and Merrill streets occupied the commission's time last week.

And Thursday night's joint meeting with the Planning Board found both groups so involved in zoning problems that the subject of the parking ordinance again fell by the wayside. Presumably, a third try will be made shortly.

Record-breaking enrollment figures have been announced by the heads of three Cranbrook schools. Kingswood has 265 girls enrolled from several states, Italy, the Virgin Islands and South America, according to Marion E. Goodale, headmistress. Of this total 78 are boarding students and 187 are day students.

Cranbrook School's peak attendance figures show 348 students now enrolled from 16 states and South America. A breakdown figure by Harry D. Hoey, headmaster, reveals 186 boarding students and 154 day boys.

Jessie Winter, headmistress of Brookside, reports that 214 elementary pupils are now in attendance. This group comprises the largest student body since Brookside opened in 1922.

Participating in a Knights Templar Hospital Service at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church, will be the minister of the church, Dr. W. Glen Harris. Dr. Harris will preach the sermon on "Faith but Not Enough," and the chancel choir will sing.

The Detroit Commandery, No. 1, K.T., will host Damascus Commandery, No. 42, K.T. and the Detroit Consistory at the service. The public is invited to attend both the service and a reception to follow.

After previously asking for a check on both the low and second low bidders before awarding the contract for paving five streets in the Quanton Lake Estates subdivision, the City Commission this week awarded the $22,095.75 contract to Detroit Concrete Products, low bidder.

Paving on Lake Park, Pilgrim, Puritan, Fairfax and Suffolk is expected to be completed by Oct. 30.

Hundreds of women began meeting this week in homes throughout the Birmingham-Bloomfield-Franklin area, training for their record-breaking Torch Drive job which begins Oct. 19.

More than a thousand volunteers who will wear a major share of the annual give-once-for-all campaign, will attend special training sessions. These are being conducted under the direction of Mrs. Donovan J. Gray, chairman of the training committee, and the following training leaders:

Mrs. Charles Renfrew, Mrs. Bethel Kelley, Mrs. Carl Binkley, Mrs. Joseph Dodge, Mrs. Robert Bousie, Mrs. Haines P. Walmsley, Mrs. Cassius Miller and Mrs. Robert Wells.

Campaign Director Mrs. J. Rowland Quinn has also announced that reservations are being accepted for the kickoff luncheon for volunteers on Oct. 18. An attendance of about 300 is expected at the Cranbrook gymnasium.

Inclusion of the Red Cross in the campaign this year for the first time makes the $186,338 goal a difficult one, said John K. Stevenson, general chairman. But he pointed out that the need for a special Red Cross drive next spring is eliminated by the combined approach.

Tomorrow will be reorganization day for the Embury Methodist Church Sunday School. All classes from nursery through third grade will start meeting at 11 a.m., during the regular worship service. A care nursery will also operate for children under three years of age.

Fourth grade through adult classes will meet at 9:45 a.m. in the past.

Laymen's Sunday will also be observed at the church with William Ladd, Sunday School superintendent, speaking on "Yes You Can." Also participating in the service will be Fred McCullough, lay leader, Floyd Crouse, and others.

Local club members are attending the Midwestern Regional Conference of Soroptimist International this weekend at Columbus, Ohio. Birmingham's representatives are Helen Larkin, governor; Mrs. Mary Dewey, president; Mrs. Nina Noble delegates.

Others are Mrs. Marion Schmidt, Mrs. Thelma Zimmerman, Mrs. Edith Foster, Irene Hanley and Mrs. Eloise Wooster.

Guest minister at tomorrow's 10 a.m. service of the Unitarian Church at the YMCA, will be the Rev. V. Ogden Vogt, minister emeritus of the First Unitarian Church in Chicago, where he served as minister for 20 years.

He has authored two books: "Cult and Culture" and "Art and Religion," the last considered a classic in its field. A coffee hour will follow the service.

Meeting at 1:30 p.m. Monday at the Rivenook Avenue home of its president, Mrs. Howard Estes, MOMS Club Unit 3 will hear reports on the state convention which ends in Detroit today. Tea will follow.

The Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church will hold "Spiritual Emphasis Week" beginning tomorrow and lasting through Oct. 17.

Dr. Homer B. Henderson of Grove City, Pa., will preach each evening at 7 o'clock. His topics will be "A Place for God," "Why Should I Be a Christian?" "Why Did Jesus Come?" "The Barometer of Life," "There is a Super Man," "When Men Killed the King," "What Do Folks See in Your House?" and "Three Great Conclusions."

The choir from the United Presbyterian Church of Drayton Plains will give special numbers, Wednesday evening and the choir from the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church will sing Thursday.

World's record striper, a 73-pounder, was caught near here in 1913.

Sukos Is Ancient Autumn Feast of Praising, Sharing

Sukos will be celebrated by the Jewish people of the world beginning at sunset, Monday. Sukos is the plural of the Hebrew word, suko, a hut. The holiday commemorates the divine providence which sheltered the ancient Israelites as they wandered in the desert from the land of bondage to the land of promise.

Sukos, often called Tabernacles, is also the ancient autumn "feast of ingathering," and as such is the model after which the pilgrims created the American Thanksgiving Day.

Reference to Sukos can be found in the Biblical Book of Leviticus

(chapter 23, verses 39-43). Associated with the synagogue celebration of the holiday are the famous Thanksgiving Psalms of Scriptures (Numbers 113 to 118), with their numerous repetitions of Hallelujah (which is Hebrew for "Praise God.")

Ceremonial objects associated with the holiday are the lulav, a palm branch, the myrtle, willow and the esrog, a citrus fruit. These represent man's dependence on nature for nourishment and beauty.

It is customary to build a booth or lean-to outside of one's home or upon the synagogue altar in honor of the holiday. In this "suko" prayers are said and sung, lauding the goodness of God in inspiring seekers of freedom with courage and in sending mankind the bounties of nature.

Traditional Jews observe Sukos for eight days and follow it with a holiday known as Simchas Torah, or "Rejoicing over the Law," when the cycle of weekly Biblical readings is concluded with the last verses of Deuteronomy and immediately begun again from the beginning of the Book of Genesis. Reform Jews observe Sukos for seven days and on the eighth celebrate Shmini Atzeret ("The eighth day convocation") with rites similar to those on Simchas Torah.

At Temple Beth Jacob, the festival of Sukos will be celebrated with a special holiday service in which the children of the Religious School will participate.

Monday at 8:00 p.m., there will be a procession to the altar by the children who will carry baskets of food to lay before the booth which will adorn the altar for the holiday. These baskets will then be distributed to hospitals and other institutions to carry out the tradition of sharing associated with Sukos.

The festival will begin at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday. Beginning Monday, Congregation B'nai Israel will observe the Succos (Feast of Tabernacles) Services, with the following schedule:

Monday—Mincha 5:45 p.m.
Tuesday—Shacharis, 7:30 a.m.; Religious School Celebration, 10:30 a.m.; Mincha, 5:45 p.m.
Wednesday—Shacharis, 7:30 a.m.; Mincha 5:45 p.m.
Monday, Oct. 18—Mincha, 5:45 p.m.
Tuesday—Shacharis, 7:30 a.m.; YIZKOR (Memorial Service) 8:45 p.m.; Religious School Celebration, 7:00 p.m.
Wednesday—Shacharis, 7:30 a.m.; Rabbi Henry Hoshander will conduct all of the services.
The annual Simchas Torah Dinner will be held Sunday, Oct. 24, at 6 p.m.

The dinner will welcome home Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Simon, who have been traveling extensively in Europe and are now spending the Jewish High Holy Days in Israel. Mr. Meyer is president of the congregation.

The Synagogue's recently elected officers will be installed at this time. They are: Meyer Simon, president; Irwin Kamper, first vice-pres.; Milton Ressler, second vice-pres.; Sam Levin, treasurer; Alvin Jacobson, financial secretary; Mel Goldman, recording secretary; with Sam Toby, Charles Ellender, Edward Blumeno, Sol Newhouse and George Surowitz, members of the Board.

The dinner is sponsored by the B'nai Israel Men's Club with Joe Jacobson, general chairman.

Eisenhower reiterated that Republicans by themselves cannot win the November election battle. Appearing as he did in Los Angeles to independent voters and dissident Democrats, Eisenhower declared:

"We must enlist the spirited support of friends and neighbors, regardless of party, who believe in our principles and objectives." The President got one of his biggest hands of the evening when he praised the administration's record in the foreign policy field and added:

"For the first time in 20 years there is no active battlefield anywhere in the world."

California Dems Awaiting Adlai's Speech Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Democrats of Southern California rally round a home-town boy, Adlai Stevenson, in Hollywood Bowl tonight in a key campaign effort.

The 1952 Democratic nominee for president is scheduled to deliver the principal speech before an expected sell-out crowd of 20,000.

About 300 party leaders have contributed $100 or more each for the privilege of having a buffet supper with the former Illinois governor before the program gets under way.

Last night in Oklahoma City, he predicted a revival of Democratic party strength in the November elections.

The 1952 standard bearer ducked all questions here and in Oklahoma City regarding his own political future. But he wore a big smile as he was met at Los Angeles International Airport by several hundred supporters bearing placards, "Stevenson in '56."

Christian Layman Will Speak Sunday

Stanley Tam, a Christian layman from Lima, Ohio, will be guest speaker in all of the services at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church Sunday.

Mr. Tam states that for him, God is not a vision but a working partner. He is part owner of the States Smelting and Refining Co. of Lima. God is his senior partner and receives 51 per cent of the profits.

In 1936 Mr. Tam borrowed money to start the company which reclaims silver from photographs. He went broke. He prayed and asked God for guidance. He says, "Suddenly, God spoke to me." He explains God speaks to him through his conscience. Sometimes there are things you have to do because they are right. His business increased.

Mr. Tam went to an attorney and made a will, so that half his business goes to others when he is gone.

Boy, 18, Admits Double Slaying

Youth Gives No Reason for Killing Sitter, 14, and 4-Year-Old Charge

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — The boy around the corner was arrested yesterday in connection with the savage two-week-old knife slaying of pretty baby sitter Lynn Ann Smith, 14, and her four-year-old charge.

Police Chief Raymond P. Gallagher said Kenneth R. Chapin, 18, a high school sophomore who was a pall-bearer at the girl's funeral, admitted in a signed statement slaying Lynn Ann and little Stephen Goldberg.

Gallagher said Chapin, a 6-foot, 3-inch electrician's son described by teachers and friends as a "good... quiet boy," offered no reason for the double slaying.

Gallagher said the youth, a Boy Scout leader who had never before been in trouble with the police, chain-smoked cigarettes but otherwise was calm as he explained the slaying and readily signed his statement.

Then, Gallagher said, he told authorities where they could find the death knife (behind a chair in his room) and his blood-stained clothing hanging in a kitchen closet of his home.

The police chief said "there is no question of sex being a factor in this case. It definitely is not." Gallagher quoted young Chapin's statement as saying he began stabbing and beating the girl the moment she opened the door admitting him to the Goldberg apartment in a substantial section of Springfield.

Then, Gallagher went on, the youth heard little Stephen cry. He went to the child's bed and stabbed him and beat him with the wooden knife handle.

The bodies were found by the youngsters' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Goldberg, when they returned from a night movie. Lynn Ann had been stabbed 34 times. Her neck was broken, Stephen was stabbed 24 times. His skull was fractured.

The police chief said Chapin's arrest came after a house-to-house check of the neighborhood around the Smith and Goldberg homes. He indicated that a piece of crocheted thread, found in the Goldberg apartment, led to the Chapin home.

Earlier, police who described the thread as their best clue said it had been wrapped around the handle of the knife to secure better grip.

Neighborhood companions described Chapin as a "quiet boy" who traveled alone a great deal. They said his parents always insisted he be in the house by 8 p.m.

Stunned neighbors, meanwhile, were unanimous last night in their amazement and disbelief. Some of the reactions were:

"He was the only teen-ager I would have let into my house without a thought of my children's safety," said Mrs. Gerald Baxter.

Chapin's father in a copyrighted interview with the Boston Globe, said: "I can't understand any of this. My wife and I are taking this very bad, because, above all else, we firmly believe that our son is innocent. I pledge myself to fight this to the end. I'll never let my son down."

"Ken was so close to us that we would know, without any doubt, if any of these things were true. They aren't, and we will fight for him all the way."

Two Nipping Pooches Tree Franklin Housewife, Youth

A Franklin Village housewife and an 11-year-old neighbor youth spent part of yesterday climbing trees, but not for exercise. They were trying to get away from two dogs which were nipping at their heels.

Mrs. W. B. Byers, of 26475 Normandy, the treed housewife, had rushed to the rescue of John Faulkner, of 26662 Scenic, when she heard him screaming for help near his home.

"I knew someone was in trouble," said Mrs. Byers. "So I ran down there, about two and one-half blocks from my home."

Mrs. Byers said the boy was in a tree just out of the dogs' reach when she arrived and she tried to shoot them home with a stick.

Youths Get Jail for Drinking

Three Girls, One Boy Draw Sentences After Pleading Guilty

Three teenage girls were sentenced to 12 days in Oakland County Jail and a 20-year-old youth paid a $30 fine and drew five days Friday after a stern lecture by Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum about the group's drinking.

After hearing their pleas of guilty to illegal possession of beer, McCallum called the youths' predicament "unfortunate and intolerable."

The three girls, on probation for a similar charge growing out of a Sept. 4 raid by Pontiac Police vice squad on a drinking party at 14 Clark St., are Joyce Gjelhaug, 18, of 873 Woodland Dr.; Doris Nightengale, 18, and Robbie Sloop, 19, both of 171 N. Mill St. The trio failed to pay $30 fines each after McCallum sentenced them to five days and $30, or 12 days.

Robert Franzell, 20, of 1250 Cherrylawn Dr., owner of a car in which all four were arrested Oct. 1, escaped the extra seven days in jail when he paid the $30 fine. McCallum said that the probation period for the three girls would be increased after serving their sentence, and Franzell would get 30 days probation.

According to Detective Raymond E. Meggett, of the vice squad, Franzell admitted buying beer from an unidentified man at Bagley and Wessen Sts. prior to the arrest.

Three bottles of beer were found in the auto which Miss Gjelhaug was driving.

Reds Link Spies to Allen Dulles

French Paper Drags Name of CIA Director Into Scandal

PARIS (INS) — The French Communist party, apparently trying to divert suspicion from itself, made an effort today to link the name of Allen Dulles with France's dramatic spy scandal.

The head of America's Central Intelligence Agency and brother of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was dragged into the scandal by the French Reds in an apparent effort to throw investigators off any trail which might definitely lead to Communist headquarters as the receiving point for stolen French defense secrets.

The Communist party newspaper Humanite in Paris today published a photo of Allen Dulles among a group of pictures of the leading characters in the sensational espionage case.

The pictures were labelled with this caption: "Behind these faces is hidden the truth of the leakage affair." The word "leakage" referred to leaks of defense information from top-secret meetings of the French National Defense Committee.

Humanite accused French authorities of refusing to "knock on the only door behind which is the truth—that of the Mafia which unites (former Paris Police Chief Jean) Baylot and (former Interior Minister Leon) Martinand-Deplat with the Yankee O.S.S. of Allen Dulles."

The Communist paper's reference to the O.S.S. — the American Office of Strategic Services — was erroneous since that wartime agency was replaced several years ago by the CIA.

Rural Medical Care Pressing Need Today

extensive research in cancer holds promise for the development of a chemical to act specifically against the malignant growth.

"As for the Shik vaccine for polio," he said, "We don't know the answer until next April. It seems to hold promise, but so does other polio research based on live vaccines."

With regard to socialized medicine, Dr. Baker stated emphatically that he believed a tax supported program of medical care would "decrease quality and not increase cost."

"The family doctor is called upon to deal with emotional and psychological problems as often as physical illnesses."

"No government system would give life to that type of contract."

"I would rather see medical care budgeted through private insurance and hospitals provided by private initiative on the part of the people and the medical profession."

Dr. Baker, who lives at 1129 Fairfax St. in Birmingham and has his offices in the Pontiac State Bank Building, is the son of a former president of the Michigan State Medical Society. Before he was named president-elect in 1953, he served four years in succession as speaker of the House of Delegates for the society.

A fellow of the American College of Surgeons since 1927, he has held every office in the Oakland County Medical Society, and in 1950 was cited for "Outstanding Service to Medicine" by that organization. He served on the board of directors of the Michigan Medical Service for 12 years, and for the past three years has been secretary.

Dr. Baker received his M.D. Degree from the University of Michigan in 1916 and a graduate degree in orthopedic surgery from the U. S. Army Medical School in Washington, D.C.

Following his military career, he returned to teach surgery at the University Hospital in Ann Arbor while achieving his graduate degree in surgery.

Married and the father of two children, Dr. Baker has four grandchildren and two grandsons. Music, photography, travel and outdoor sports are among his hobbies. He is a charter member of the Kiwanis Club and the Torch Club.

Expressing his pride in the society which he heads, Dr. Baker pointed out that the Michigan State Medical Society has many "firsts" to its credit.

"It provided the first and largest all-state medical insurance plan in the nation. It prompted the TB X-ray program which has made a noticeable decrease in that disease in Michigan."

"It has gone beyond the medical and reached out into the social and economic fields. Over 300 doctors on standing committees are working constantly on such problems as the care of the aged, child welfare, medical ethics, control of cancer, polio, rheumatic fever, tuberculosis and other illnesses."

Reflecting his philosophy on this matter, Dr. Baker summarized: "There are only two professions which constantly strive to limit their own business. 'One of them is the clergy, which tries to save souls. 'The other is the medical profession, which tries to save bodies.'"

Homework Can Save You High Decorating Costs

By ANNE HEYWOOD
"I have just finished reading 'Gadgets Galore,' a reader writes, 'and it is just wonderful! My husband and I love to make things for the house in our spare time. It enables us to have many lovely things we couldn't otherwise afford, and it gives us such a relaxing hobby.'

"Can you tell us about more such books?"
Recently I came across two books which I think might be of interest.

They are called "100 Beautiful Pieces of Furniture You Can Build," and "100 Best Woodworking Projects." Both are complete volumes, clearly and lucidly written, with very easy - to - follow instructions.

The furniture book covers complete suites for living room, dining room and bedrooms, as well as many occasional and odd pieces.

Some are designed by John Bergen, the well known furniture stylist, and all are adapted to the home workshop.

The volume on woodworking describes lovely things you can make from wood - charming accessories as well as simple necessities like wheelbarrows. If you and your husband enjoy working with wood, you'll find many good hints in this book, some very simple to make, and some requiring real craftsmanship.

There is another book you might consider if you are really going into the make-it-yourself business in a big way.

This is "Planning Your Home Workshop." It tells you what you need, and how you can set up your home workshop on a limited budget.

Sometimes a little planning in advance will save many dollars. Buying equipment on the spur of the moment, or to use on just one project, is often a great waste.

Too many people I know have spent so much money on their tools and equipment, that the things they make end up costing more than the things they could buy!

Any readers interested in learning more about these books should send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Baby-Sitting Exchange Helpfu

A baby-sitting exchange or informal exchanging is the way many young couples get evenings out without paying the baby-sitter toll.

With young babies who sleep through the night, many parents only require checking in every hour or so. But all of this, if it can be managed, doesn't mean that childless couples are delighted to cope with Junior nightly while you go to the movies.

Be sure your request is welcome or that you have something to exchange for it, like leaf raking for a retired couple next door. Rather one go out at a time than impose consistently on long-suffering friends.

Fine Quality Joins Style in Dress

Harvey Berin Label Speaks Inimitably of Good Taste

A Harvey Berin label in a dress automatically bespeaks two things: Fine quality and inimitable style. This last contributed by his celebrated designer, Karen Stark. This dress, the body of which has been successfully succeeded by itself in Berin's last three collection, was so sufficiently advanced from the very beginning, that today it is remarkable for its Parisian news notes.

The bodice features the higher, but smaller and rounded bosom line as well as the "modesty" look of covered shoulders and arms, the narrowed armhole eased with a gusset. The lowered in back neckline is finished off with a bow, and in Paris, bows were prominent and prevalent.

The skirt, one of the most flattering ever to be conceived anywhere, anytime by anyone is darted in front over the hips and sweeps into back fullness with a centered box pleat. Originally shown in peau de soie, it is also extremely swank in plain or novelty cotton, any of the 40-inch silks with natural stiffness, or alpaca or silk and wool mixtures.

This pattern is cut to designer measurements, not standard pattern measurements.

Size 12 requires 4 1/2 yards of 50-inch material for dress. To order pattern 1197, address Spadea Syndicate, Inc., P.O. Box 535, G.P.O., Dept. P-6, New York, N. Y. State size. Send $1.00. Manners MAKE FRIENDS

You've told friends you're going to stop by at a certain time for a visit. If you find you'll be late, call from home or from some point on the highway, and let them know. Hospitality has a low boiling point, and it may evaporate under the heat of annoyance at your tardiness.

Diplomat's Daughters Tell of Cosmopolitan Rearing

WASHINGTON (INS) — It was in keeping with the best American tradition that a world - traveled daughter of the U. S. director general of foreign service returned home and married the "boy next door."

But that is the only thing "average" about the three charming daughters of Gerald A. Drew, top man in Uncle Sam's overseas setup.

Deirdre, blonde and green-eyed, is the bride who left the Drew household to make a home for Robert E. M. Du Bose, grandson of the founder of the University of the South in Seawance, Tenn.

The sisters she left behind, meanwhile, have established themselves as Washington belles in the two years since they returned from abroad.

Their good looks alone would open the doors to the most elite parlors in the nation's capital. But Judy, 20, and Joan, 19, have a stockpile of amusing and sometimes alarming experiences to fill any void in high level chit-chat.

Adventures in Paris, Budapest, Jordan, Switzerland, Rome, Greece, and Guatemala also form a solid background for studies in foreign affairs at Georgia's Washington University.

But, girl-like, they dwelled on the romantic side of foreign service life.

Judy, an oriental type with almond-shaped U. S. eyes, laughed: "I really found my white knight on the road to Damascus. He was a British captain in the Arab Legion who fancied he wanted to marry me."

"I was on my way to catch a plane for America when he appeared on a white stallion, his Arab head-dress flapping in the wind, to bid me farewell."

Although she spurned the captain's attentions, the Haiti-born beauty confided that she likes

Few of Us Are Happy With Life

But Try to Make Best of What It Has to Offer

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

So few of us are completely content with the way things are. In a way that restless dissatisfaction is good for progress. It keeps us churning away at trying to do better, and better.

But with some of us it's just restlessness. We aren't content to be ourselves with all our faults and our foibles. We have to go wishing we were somebody else. We watch that somebody with envious eyes.

We study the way she looks, the clothes she has and the way she wears them; we listen to what she says, we try to figure out how she thinks; we admire her personality, her talents, her success. We wish with all our hearts we could be that girl instead of stodgy, oldus.

Some of us are never satisfied with what we have. Things other people have always look so much more attractive. And we aren't happy over where we are. Some other place holds infinitely more charm. Funny thing is that when we get there, we immediately think of some other place that's preferable.

We just aren't willing to settle for things as they are. We can't convince ourselves that what we are, what we have and where we are is good enough for us.

And that's what's eating the heart out of this girl. She writes that she's 13, and since her mother died, she has been living with an aunt and uncle. She goes on: "No one loves and cares about me. I've lived here for three years and I couldn't be more miserable."

When I was eight and my mother was taken sick, I went to stay with some of my father's people. I was happy there. They broke me of all my bad habits. I wanted to stay there. But my father made other arrangements for all of us, my brothers and sisters and me. And here I am—so unhappy. What I want is a good home, and love and a future. How can I convince my father to let me go back to his folks?"

You're yearning for a place and a time and a set of circumstances that happened to you when you were quite a different girl. You were on a visit, a youngster content in the security of the love of your immediate family. Much has changed since then.

The grownups of your family have put their heads together, and opened their homes and their hearts to you young people. They've assumed permanent responsibilities for you. Your aunt and uncle love you or they wouldn't bother.

Right where you are you can find a happy home, understanding and love, encouragement and inspiration. But a girl who curls in on herself with unhappiness, a girl who goes into silences and tears is a problem to grownups. She erects barriers that prevent confidences. Her aloofness keeps grownups from getting close to her thoughts and her feelings.

Talk to your father about the way you feel. Perhaps he could arrange for you to visit the relatives you hold so dear. You might find everything different there now—but your curiosity and your longing would be satisfied.

It's dollars to doughnuts you'd find that your real place was back where you started from. There you have friends associations at school, habits of living behavior that have become a real part of you. Wouldn't you be surprised to find yourself homesick for the aunt and uncle you'd left behind you?

Some girls are never satisfied with the boy they're dating at the moment, their eyes are continually darting around in search of other talent. Once spotted, the new guy becomes a new project. Once captured, the old boy friend goes the long voyage alone. Why does a girl switch from one boy friend to another so fast? Well, this girl does, and maybe she knows why, too. She writes:

"Dear Miss Woodward: I've been going out since I was 12—now I am 14. Mother tried to stop me, but gave up. I look much older than I am and have no trouble getting dates. The trouble is that I like a boy until I go out with him three or four times. Then I give him the brushoff. I don't think it's because I'm young that I can't like a boy for long?"

It's because you're young—and have no desire to stay put for long, for one thing. It's because you use your feelings instead of your head in sizing up a boy, for another. It's because you work up a beautiful picture of a boy in your imagination before you really know him, then find him falling short of the mark you set.

It's because you're not really discriminating in your choice of boy friends—you're ready to date anyone who wants to date you. You're willing to try to like each of them enormously. It's because you're constantly looking for the new conquest, instead of being satisfied to make the old one into a real friend. But you can change all that—if you want to.

Ava Claims She Won't Return to Frankie Boy

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"Give it up, Earl!" Ava Gardner said, with a laugh. She was speaking of my amateurish attempt to reconcile her with an old husband, Frank Sinatra. I'd closely watched their transatlantic courtship, marriage and bust-up, and now I merely conjectured that they might yet relight the old fires.

"Frank and I gave up long ago!"

Ava limped across the room—she'd sprained her ankle the night before, dancing. Plucking at the collar of her Corgi dog, Rags, she showed me the tag which read: "I'm on my way to see my mama, Ava Gardner." Rags had come in by air that day from California.

"Isn't he named for Rags Ragland?"—meaning, of course, the late comedian.

"Yes." She nodded into the collar of the lacy white housecoat so cool and neat. "Frank gave him to me. He adored Rags."

Then she spoke of her posing for a photographer to the accompaniment of a string quartet, engaged from a symphony.

"I had asked for music," Ava said. "Posing is so dreary two things are very necessary. A big mirror so I can see what I'm doing. And music."

"We did pictures every possible way. I was lying on the floor and he was lying on the floor taking my picture."

We spoke of her visit to the Ernest Hemingways in Cuba. "Poor Papa," she said. "He writes standing up. He showed me his work room, which he calls his 'deep freeze.'"

"I hear you saw Mickey Rooney?"

"Poor Baby," she nodded. "One of those girls chomped onto him for a lot of money. He says he's very happy now."

"One of those girls he married was very pretty," I said.

"He always marries pretty girls!" she reminded me.

"The photographers now say you won't pose for cheesecake."

"I never did and I never will!"

Here for the exploitation of her new picture, "The Barefoot Contessa," Ava said she may do something unusual next time—make a picture in the U. S. She may go to India on the next one, however. She's been away so much, she's perhaps the only woman in America who hasn't an opinion about Marilyn Monroe.

"I must see her in a picture!" Ava said.

"What do you consider your home now?"

"I sold my place in Hollywood; so I don't have a home any more. Just Nevada, till I get my divorce . . . and after that . . . I'm just a gypsy."

THE WEEK-END WINDUP . . .

"DON'T PRINT THAT!": A big dept. store canceled the charge account of a famous actress this week. She'd returned a gown, claiming it was stained—the same day the papers ran pictures of her wearing the gown at a premiere.

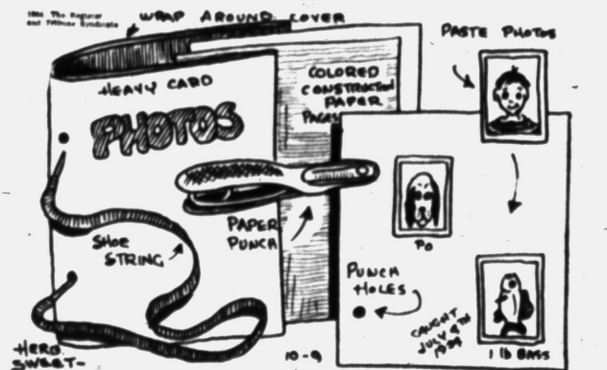

Charlie Applewhite, offered an éclair, said jokingly, "Look at the chocolate-covered frankfurter!"

Sonja Henie was offered 25 G's plus a percentage to be queen of the Winter Sports Show at Madison Sq. Garden next month.

A famous British actor owes his gov't $138,000 in back taxes. TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Danny Crystal tells of a gypsy who just inherited a million dollars—so he moved into a store on Park Av.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Al Fodor described a penny-pincher: "If he drank poison he'd try to get the deposit back on the bottle."

Try It House Your Snapshots

Do you have pictures or snapshots which you want to keep, but find them all over the house? This is too bad, for before long you will wonder what has happened to all of them, and perhaps you will never be able to get them all together.

Here is an answer to those loose pictures. This is most inexpensive and you may want to make several photo books for different kinds of pictures. You will need a package of construction paper and one large piece of cardboard for the cover.

Decide where you want the holes, then use a paper punch to make the holes in each sheet. Cut the cover to fit around these papers, and punch holes in this. Tie them all together with a heavy cord, a colored shoe lace, or grosgrain ribbon. Jeanne Alexander of Indianapolis tells us that she uses this for post cards and Christmas Cards that she likes to collect. An original Try It drawing goes to Jeanne!

You can letter "Photos" on the cover or cut them from construction paper and paste them on. It is fun to put your initials on the cover also.

An art gum eraser can be a great help in removing children's fingerprints from the hall wall or Venetian blinds. Use it lightly and just on the spot.

Your Dry Cleaner Is No Magician!

When you take clothes to your Dry Cleaner, don't expect him to work miracles! He is only human, and may occasionally make a mistake which he will be glad to rectify.

But many cases of unsatisfactory dry cleaning are not his fault. Before you expect too much, be sure that ---

- * The garments are of sufficiently good quality that they can be dry cleaned without shrinking and without colors fading or running.
- * That cloth-covered buttons and stiffening materials do not contain substances that will stain.
- * That you have not attempted to remove stains with fluids that will injure the fabric, set the stain or cause fading.
- * That your Dry Cleaner is a well-established, dependable local business man.

Your Dry Cleaner will tell you, when he accepts your clothing, just what to expect—but he cannot promise to work miracles.

RABBI S. E. SAPERSTEIN

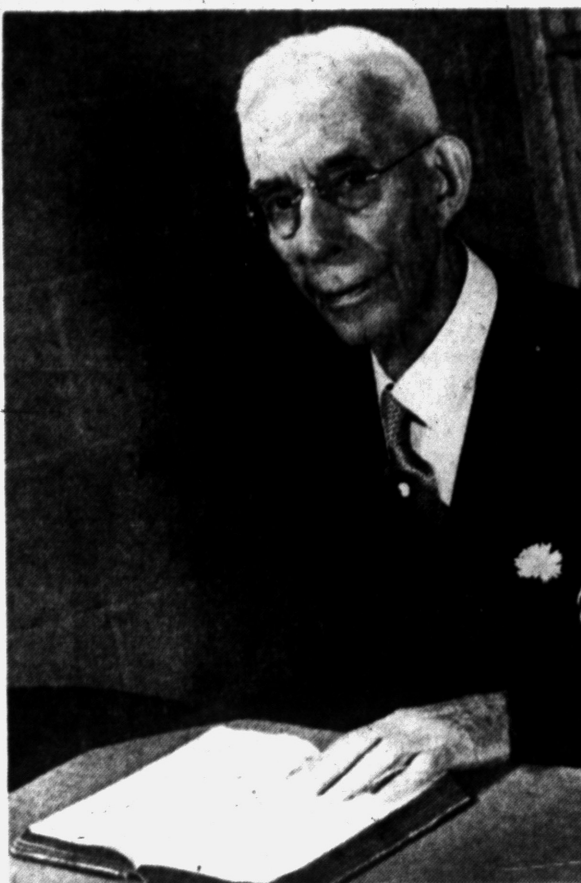

Holiday Sermon Written by Rabbi

An address by Rabbi Sanford E. Saperstein, leader of Temple Beth Jacob appears in a volume of sermons published this week by the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

Entitled, "A Set of Holiday Sermons," the book contains messages for Jewish festivals by some of the nation's leading rabbis. The theme of Rabbi Saperstein's address is the holiday of Purim, the Festival of Lots, which has its origin in the Book of Esther. It is called "The Name or the Reality."

Pointing out that the Book of Esther does not contain the name of God, Rabbi Saperstein writes, "Judaism recognizes that God is even in the midst of those who apparently deny Him. Though they insist that God is a stranger to them, they are no strangers to God."

The Union of American Hebrew Congregations is the parent body of American Reform temples, including Temple Beth Jacob.

REV. RUFUS M. TRAVER, D.D.

Men's Club Names Study After Dr. Rufus M. Traver

Many friends gathered Friday evening at the Bethany Baptist Church, to have dinner with the Rev. Rufus M. Traver and to honor him, for the 50 years he has given to religious and civic affairs in Pontiac.

Judge H. Russell Holland, serving as toastmaster, introduced the Rev. William H. Marbach D.D., of the First Presbyterian Church, the Rev. H. H. Savage D.D., of the First Baptist Church and the pastor of Bethany Baptist Church, the Rev. Fred R. Tiffany.

Dr. Marbach said, "I came to Pontiac in 1931 and Dr. Traver has helped to make my ministry a blessing. Dr. Traver has a great depth of character. He stands out today not because he has lived a long time but because he has reached into our hearts and reminds us of our Savior. It is a privilege to know him."

"I have been pastor of the First Baptist Church for 35 years and people still meet me on the street and call me Dr. Traver," stated Dr. Savage. "The memory of Dr. Traver is so precious that his name comes to peoples minds first, at the mention of the First Baptist Church."

Dr. Savage added, "Dr. Traver believed in neighborhood Sunday Schools and started the ones at Bethany Baptist and Memorial Baptist churches. I have stepped in after the plans were all in operation and am continuing the program."

The Rev. Mr. Tiffany spoke of Dr. Traver as one of his warmest and closest friends. "I thought it might be difficult to serve as pastor to a former minister but Dr. Traver has been so kind and understanding. He has come to me at the close of a sermon with encouraging and stimulating comments," he remarked.

A letter was read from Dr. Traver's son, the Rev. Roland Traver. He wrote: "He is the finest and best father in the world."

The Men's Club is furnishing the pastor's study and in honor of Dr. Traver calling it the "Traver Study."

Clonford Haviland presented the honor guest with a dressing gown from the men of the church.

Dr. Traver thanked his friends for coming, for the honor given him, his gift and closed with a word of prayer.

Local Minister Attends Meeting

Biennial Convention of ULCA Held in Canada First Time in 36 Years

Nearly 700 delegates from 32 synods in the United States and seven Canadian provinces are attending the 19th biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America, being held in Toronto, Canada Oct. 6 to 13. This is the first time in 36 years the convention has been held in Canada.

The Rev. George L. Garver is present as a visitor representing the Lutheran Church of the Ascension and the local members of the ULCA. The ULCA, with 2,150,000 members, is the largest Lutheran body in North America.

The delegates are struggling for agreement on important church questions such as the organizational structure of the church and the union of America's Lutheran bodies.

Theme for the convention is "Christ — the Hope of the World." Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the ULCA for 10 years, is presiding over the business sessions.

On Sunday, Oct. 10, the delegates will attend church services at Kitchener-Waterloo, center of Lutheranism in eastern Canada.

Delegates and visitors will be guests in Lutheran homes there at dinner, marking the traditional Canadian observance of Thanksgiving Day.

Sunday afternoon, the program at Kitchener Memorial Auditorium will be broadcast over a national radio network, with an orchestra, two choirs and 10,000 persons taking part.

Why Millions Call Him "HOLY FATHER"

Catholic loyalty to the Pope is the cause of never-ending amazement to many non-Catholics.

They wonder how an exclusively spiritual leader can command the devotion of nearly four hundred millions of people. They cannot explain why this vast religious family... representing every race, color, language and political belief on the face of the earth... lives and grows through the ages, while man-made empires have their day of glory and then disappear.

What is there about this one man that causes people to speak of him in a hundred tongues as "Holy Father?"

We find the answer, of course, not necessarily in the holiness of the man himself, but in his Christ-given office. The answer is found by tracing the history of the Catholic Church... the history of 262 successive Popes... back through nearly 2,000 years to Christ Himself.

We know as a matter of historical fact that Christ did establish His Church... that He commissioned the Apostle Peter as its first head... that He sent His Apostles forth to teach men to observe all things He had commanded.

We know from the New Testament that the Church was actually organized... that it was governed by the Apostles under the leadership of Peter... that it was teaching Christ's truth far and wide, long before the last book of the New Testament was written and the books of the Bible were collected into one volume.

Christ's purpose in organizing a Church was to make certain that the good news of Redemption would be preached to all men... even to the end of the world. To accomplish this with fallible men, required that He establish a Church—divinely protected from error in transmitting His teaching through the centuries.

The Catholic Church traces its unbroken history back to the Apostles—back to Christ. And Catholics today call Pope Pius XII "Holy Father" because he is the lawful and historical successor to Peter, the first Pope. He is in our time... as Peter was in the first century... the Vicar of Christ on earth.

Would you like to know more about the Pope... why the promises made by Christ to Peter and his successors make the Pope the most important man in the world? Then write today for a pamphlet which we shall send you free and without any obligation. Ask for Pamphlet No. 4-N.

Seaway Order Goes to Canada

Agent for German Mill to Provide First Steel for Project

NEW YORK (U)—The first big order for steel to be used on the St. Lawrence Seaway project has been awarded to the Montreal, Que., subsidiary of the Manufacturers Steel Corp.

The award was announced yesterday by the local office of Manufacturers Steel which, as agent for a West German steel mill, secured the contract in competitive bidding with major American and European steel mills.

The order will provide some 12,000 tons of sheet steel pilings for about 1 1/2 million dollars.

The pilings will be used in the construction of a cofferdam at Cornwall, Ont. Mannix-Raymond Co. of Montreal is the engineering and construction firm which will build the cofferdam.

Manufacturers Steel acted as agent for the German firm of Westfalenhütte A. G. of Dortmund, which designed and developed the pilings.

The manufacturers firm here said shipments from Europe will begin immediately, with deliveries scheduled to be completed about mid-December—before the port of Montreal closes for the winter.

Ist Negro Appointed Circuit Court Judge

DETROIT (U)—Gov. Williams, in a surprise move last night appointed a young Detroit Negro lawyer as a judge of Wayne County Circuit Court.

The appointee is 34-year-old Wade H. McCree, a member of the State Workmen's Compensation Commission for the last two years.

Iowa-born and Harvard-educated, McCree was named to fill the court vacancy left by the recent death of Judge Adolph F. Marshner.

This was the first appointment of a Negro to the circuit bench in Michigan.

Governor Williams, announcing his selection in a statement from Lansing, made a point of stressing McCree's youth. He said the late Judge Marshner himself was 33 when he took office.

The appointment came as a surprise to politicians. Several other possible choices had been mentioned in speculation.

Politicians also saw political importance to the choice in view of Detroit's large Negro population and the impending Nov. 2 election.

'Cat Whiskers' Reveal Tunnel, Bridge Leeway

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (U)—The Southern Pacific Railroad uses "cat whiskers" to determine safe clearances for loaded freight cars in tunnels and on bridges of its Sierra Nevada line.

A special car is equipped with 126 steel-tipped aluminum feelers extending from the top and sides. They operate something like the whiskers of cats walking in the dark.

When the feelers touch an obstruction, they transmit the distance to dials inside the car, where crewmen record them.

'Gator Loose in Capital'

WASHINGTON (U)—Jack, an eight-year-old, three-foot alligator with a tendency to "nip" is loose in the nation's capital. But Jack's owner, Karl von Papen, isn't so much afraid of what his escaped nipper might do to people. What he fears is that Jack will catch his death of cold if he isn't caught soon and returned to his warm quarters in the Von Papen aquarium.

Are Missing Note Blaze

4 Buildings Destroyed as Fire Does $500,000 Damage in Texas

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (U)—Thirteen persons were unaccounted for here today after fire destroyed the small three-story Millam Hotel and four other business establishments.

Fire Capt. Joe Counts said, however, that it would be "up in the day" before it was definitely known whether anybody actually died in the blaze which started yesterday afternoon at 5:50 p.m.

Counts told the Associated Press at 4:30 a.m. today he still had four pieces of fire equipment pumping water on the smoldering ruins. At that time, he said, no bodies had been found.

Fire Chief Eugene White earlier had said there was a possibility some persons were trapped in the blazing 75-room hotel. Of the 27 guests registered, more than a dozen made their way to safety by an outside fire escape. In all, 14 guests were accounted for, Counts said.

Firemen said heavy smoke and water damage to nearby businesses may bring the total damage to a half million dollars. Besides the hotel, a shoe store, barber shop, department store and a music firm were demolished.

Counts said two of his firemen suffered minor injuries.

Forecasts Fewer Vehicles This Week

DETROIT (U)—The nation's auto factories this week will build 58,717 passenger cars and 15,841 trucks, Ward's Automotive Reports said today.

Last week's assemblies numbered 64,115 cars and 16,912 trucks. In the comparable 1953 week 116,476 cars and 23,926 trucks were built.

Ward's said new model change-over problems kept assemblies below expectations this week. Ford also contributed a slightly lower volume as some of its Ford Division factories started change-over work.

Ward's noted that U. S. output so far this year is running far behind that of last year. The figures show assemblies through Oct. 9 this year will total 4,932,825 cars and 795,598 trucks. In the comparable 1953 period 5,004,283 cars and 973,834 trucks were built.

Thieves broke into two Bloomfield Township stores last night and took about $130 after smashing in the stores' rear doors, according to Michigan State Police.

Burglars took $8 from the Sylvan Cleaners at 1745 Orchard Lake Rd., and from Tom's Hardware next door they picked up $120 in fishing license fees and some hardware articles.

Michigan State Trooper Harold Wade of the Pontiac Post said both break-ins were evidently made by the same persons who earlier this week broke into the Ward W. Ross Inc. building 1941 S. Telegraph road and battered $85, which was contained about $85. The same night thieves broke into the Harrington Service Station at 1947 S. Telegraph Rd., but did not find any money, Wade said.

McCarthy said he will submit Juliana's name to the subcommittee for approval at its first meeting in November after the Senate reconvenes.

Thieves Solve Woman's Jewelry Problem Fast

CHICAGO (U)—Mrs. Suzette Morton Zurcher told police today she was robbed of $25,000 in jewelry because she "couldn't decide" which of her gems to wear to a social event.

Mrs. Zurcher said she carried the $25,000 worth of jewelry in a suitcase from her suburban home to her town apartment. She planned to make up her mind there which jewels to wear, but thieves stole the suitcase from her parked car.

FCC Employees Told to Behave

Avoid Loud, Disorderly Partying, Workers Are Cautioned

WASHINGTON (AP)—Employees of the Federal Communications Commission have been cautioned to avoid loud and disorderly partying, drunkenness, brawling or any other conduct which might result in "unfavorable publicity" and so reflect on the federal service.

These directives are contained in a circular which the commission quietly circulated late last month as a followup on the Budget Bureau's inauguration of a general program designed to maintain a close check on the conduct of persons on the federal payroll.

White House aides in Denver last week confirmed that such a program had been inaugurated and described it as designed "to prevent loose practices" in government agencies. Murray Synder, assistant press secretary, said there was nothing in the Budget Bureau order "that deals with the private lives of government employees."

The FCC's followup circular, made available for inspection by an individual employee, disclosed that the commission on Sept. 17 had created a "review and inspection program for improper conduct." An accompanying letter from Rosel H. Hyde, then commission chairman, said that the FCC's program "has been established, not because of any past misconduct on the part of the commission's employees, but to insure that the reputations of the employees, the commission and the federal service will not be damaged by any possible misconduct or ill considered acts by individuals in the future."

The FCC program provides for a special review board within the agency to investigate any indicated misconduct.

Veteran Fighter Lou Nova Now Nightclub Comedian

NEW YORK (AP)—"Fate knocked my brains out," said Lou Nova, a 38 retired heavyweight boxer, who earned half a million dollars in the ring, has traded his "cosmic punch" for a punchline. He is trying to make a comeback in a new career as a nightclub comedian.

His act is a satire on boxing, and he is billed as a "professor of pugilism and fistology."

Coached by Frank Fay, the famous monologist, Lou has high hopes of carving new renown in the entertainment world. "After all, my family has been in it for some time," he said, settling back and lighting a long cigar. "My father was a pianist with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and his father was a professional violinist."

"Since I quit the ring in 1946 I have been in 18 pictures and 5 stage shows, and any number of radio and TV programs."

"I've even been commentator at several high society fashion shows. That's really a switch. I don't know of any other boxer who's done that."

Finding a fresh career is an economic necessity for the 6-foot-2-inch onetime "blond adonis," who fought at 203 pounds and now weighs about 240. "I had 85 pro fights, lost only 5, and won more than half of them by knockouts," he recalled. "I grossed about $500,000. That figure looks good on paper, and I still wonder where it all went."

"But the manager gets a one-third slice, the income tax takes most of what you make in the fat years, and you have a lot of expenses eating at you the public doesn't realize."

"The odd thing to me is that I realized the danger of boxing—making big money but winding up broke. In 1941 I had $100,000 salted away, and thought I'd never have to work the rest of my life. Isn't that something? Here I am, still slugging away."

"I kept my money in the bank instead of putting it to work. Then inflation came along, and gradually gobbled it up. Fate knocked my brains out."

It was in 1941 that Lou reached the peak. He lost to world champion Joe Louis on a technical knockout in the 6th round, a referee verdict which he still thinks was a bit hurried.

"But Louis was in his prime then," he said, "and he was the greatest of them all."

"I was born 10 years too soon. Rocky Marciano is a tough, courageous fighter, but he hasn't had to fight the kind of men who were around 10 years ago."

"Joe Louis himself said I would have knocked out Marciano, and if I had—Lou grinned cheerfully—I'd be lighting my cigars with $10 bills."

Lou has one advantage over most night club comedians. He can squelch hecklers by saying, "look, you know I do my own bouncing here."

"Night club work is a real challenge," he remarked. "They say the loneliest place in the world is the center of a boxing ring, but you're even lonelier under the spotlight on a night club floor."

with nothing but a cold microphone in your hands—particularly when a good joke falls flat.

"In the ring you can at least lean on somebody in the clinches. You got company. And it's easier to throw a new punch than a new punchline."

Nova loves the memories of his fighting years. He says boxing is no more dishonest than "any other profession," and has no more crooks or cheaters in it than law, medicine, or business.

"The only difference," he said, "is that you lose more blood being a prizefighter."
