Apollo Zeroes In Midway to Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Carrying medals honoring three Americans and two Russians who have died while serving space exploration, America's Apollo 11 explorers soared past the halfway point toward the moon today and fired a brief burst of their spaceship engine to zero in on their target.

The medals Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. plan to leave on the moon's surface Monday will honor Russians Yuri A. Gagarin and Vladimuir Komarov and U. S. Air Force Lt. Cols. Virgil I. Grissom Jr. and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee.

President Nixon said in Washington today that the widows of Gagarin and Komarov had given the medals for their husbands to astronaut Frank Borman during his recent Soviet visit.

Gagarin, the first man to fly in space, was killed in a plane crash. Komarov died in 1967 when his spaceship parachutes tangled on reentry and the vehicle crashed.

APOLLO 1 TEST FATAL

The three U.S. astronauts burned to death in a fire in the Apollo I spacecraft in a ground test Jan. 27, 1967 at Cape Kennedy.

Apoll's midcourse engine firing lasted three seconds and increased Apollo 11's speed by 14 miles per hour. It adjusted the path so the astronauts will pass within 69 miles of the moon's backside Saturday, precisely where they want to be to inject themselves into Lunar orbit.

★ ★ ★

The firing of the 20,500-pound-thrust engine was a reassuring sound to spacecraft commander Neil A. Armstrong, Air Force Col. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins.

This powerplant must blast them into lunar orbit before Armstrong and Aldrin descend to the surface and must also work to start them home Monday.

NIXON CALLS HOLIDAY

Several governors and mayors have already honored a request yesterday by President Nixon that they declare a holiday Monday to celebrate man's first landing on the moon.

★ ★ ★

Nixon signed a proclamation declaring Monday a national day of participation hours after he watched the liftoff on television.

His action gives Monday off to all federal employes except those in national security and public service areas.

Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins reached the midpoint of their trek to the moon at 9:33 a.m. (Pontiac time) when their 48-ton spaceship was 120,068 miles from both earth and moon, moving at 3,080 miles per hour. It will take them twice as long to cover the remaining distance as it did the first half.

MCOM-State Link Seems Doomed

By ED BLUNDEN

The Pontiac location for a new college of osteopathic medicine is excluded in a revised version of a bill which cleared the Legislature yesterday.

The new version encompasses a request from Gov. Milliken's office which specifies that the school be located at "an existing campus of a state university with an existing school or college of medicine."

The original bill had cleared the Legislature July 2. It stated that the State Board of Education would determine the affiliation of the school.

Under that wording, the state board could have designated Oakland University or Wayne State University as the affiliation and had the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine (MCOM), under construction in Pontiac, as the location.

State Rep. Loren D. Anderson, R-Waterford Township, told the Press from Lansing today that the bill passed as a compromise measure — allowing the osteopathic college, but denying it separate entity.

A statement from Gov. Milliken's staff today said money for a Pontiac site "was definitely excluded" in the new measure. The reasoning was that existing state colleges have buildings which could contain the college, and separate buildings in Pontiac "would be a duplication of funding."

Anderson said the Pontiac facility could still be utilized as part of whichever state institution is awarded the college.

He termed the new measure "half a loaf," and said he and other representatives from the Pontiac area had fought hard to try to bring the facility to Pontiac.

He said the new measure indicates a continuing power struggle between state medical doctors and osteopaths. The new wording would bring osteopaths more directly under a board of trustees which also has jurisdiction over a medical doctorate program.

State osteopaths long have fought for the Pontiac location. They have begun building their school at the Auburn-Opdyke site. MCOM is to open in the fall, with private funding.

★ ★ ★

The bill awaits only Gov. Milliken's signature or tacit approval before becoming law. He has 10 days in which to veto the measure, but this is not likely since the bill contains the wording he wanted.

The State Board of Education decision could come before the new school year and funding period begins.

TWO FEDERAL GRANTS

MCOM in the last few weeks has received two grants from the office of Housing, Education and Welfare totaling $61,700.

A spokesman for MCOM said today if will study the language of the new bill and see where there is room for interpretation.

Future consideration of the Pontiac location now depends on the "good will" of both the State Board of Education and the board of trustees of the designated controlling university, the spokesman said.

He pointed out MCOM already represents $1 million in private investment which would be, in effect, a gift to the state. The spokesman also pointed out that $125,000 was spent on a study which chose Pontiac as the best location.

In any case, he added, the bill establishing the osteopathic college is "a giant step forward."

Grand Jury Bill Is Before Senate

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's unique one-man grand jury system — called both a "political guillotine" and a "necessary law enforcement tool" — faced a possible life or death sentence in the Legislature today.

In a preliminary vote during debate on a grand jury bill yesterday, the Senate narrowly defeated a House proposal to kill the one-man system.

★ ★ ★

The vote was 17-16. A 20-vote total, necessary to pass on legislation, is not required until final-vote stages.

Final vote on the measure, which sets up a 13-17 member grand jury that the House wanted to replace the one-man system, was expected today.

Repealing the one-man system would be a "rotten" move, charged Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford Township.

Lodge maintained that "repudiation" of the one-man system could jeopardize workings of the newly named Oakland County one-man grand jury, sought charged with digging into alleged corruption.

Scattered Showers

The weatherman says scattered showers or thundershowers are due in Pontiac tonight and again tomorrow.

They are expected to bring temperatures to a low of 63 to 68 tonight. The high will reach 80 to 86 tomorrow.

A muggy 76 was the low in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. By 2 p.m. the mercury had climbed to 76.

Goal for PAUF: $1.24 Million

A record goal of $1,240,000 has been set for this year's Pontiac Area United Fund drive, PAUF President Fredrick J. Poole announced today.

POOLE

The goal, the highest in the history of the Pontiac Area United Fund and a 15 per cent increase over the amount raised last year was decided on after months of deliberation by UF officials.

In 1967 for the first time in 10 years the PAUF failed to reach its set goal of $1.13 million by about 10 per cent. Last year a goal of $1.13 million was again set and contributions fell about 6 per cent below the figure.

Poole explained, "Agency services and needs have increased proportionately with the area's rapid increase in population. This, coupled with the inflationary trends everyone has been experiencing, has created the necessity for this year's increase."

He added that a sizable sum was included in the figure because of the Northern Oakland Girl Scouts rejoining PAUF. The group had previously split from the PAUF in a dispute over budgeting policies.

PAUF general campaign chairman Warren H. Eierman, executive vice president of the Community National Bank, spoke optimistically about the coming drive:

"This year's campaign theme, 'Reach Out and Care,' expresses my feelings and hopefully the feelings of the community, regarding this vital campaign."

"If we are to meet the challenges in our community, it is time to reach out to those in need."

GMC Truck Tells of Expansion Plans

Plans for a new GMC Truck and Coach Division building and plant modernization program were announced today by Martin J. Caserio, a vice president of General Motors and divisional general manager.

Pontiac coach-assembly facilities at the main manufacturing complex will be expanded. And in Ypsilanti, a new service-parts warehouse and distribution center will be constructed on an 80-acre site, just north of Willow Run Airport, eventually replacing the Pontiac parts warehouse.

★ ★ ★

The entire project is expected to be completed in the summer of 1971.

Pontiac coach-assembly plans revealed by Caserio include a new 135,000-square-foot manufacturing addition and extensive modernization of facilities used currently for intercity coach manufacturing. Construction is set to begin immediately.

When the program is completed, all coach-building operations will be consolidated in one location here. Presently two separate areas are utilized for coach assembly.

Caserio said the new parts center will consist of 1,077,600 square feet of floor space and incorporate the latest in warehousing and shipping techniques including applications of computer technology.

Construction is scheduled to begin this fall. Industry sources estimated the program involves about $40 million. GM disclosed no cost estimate, but said it would be the division's biggest single expansion and improvement project ever.

Replacement of the Pontiac parts warehouse by the Ypsilanti operation is expected to result in little, if any, decrease in local employment, Caserio explained.

TRANSFERS AVAILABLE

The more than 500 persons employed at the Pontiac warehouse, located at South Saginaw and West South Boulevard will be offered jobs either at the new Willow Run location, about 40 miles away or in other Pontiac GMC operations.

The new coach-building facility and parts center are the latest in a series of expansion and modernization programs adopted at GMC Truck & Coach since early-1968.

★ ★

PGH Trustees Meet Tonight

The Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees is expected to have plenty of company at its regular meeting at the hospital at 7:30 tonight.

A group of employes has indicated it will attend to ask again why former administrator Harold B. Euler was fired last month. Some 835 employes signed a protest petition after the firing, but have thus far been given no reply.

Soviet Craft Orbits Moon; Briton Predicts Landing Try

JODRELL BANK, England (AP) — The Soviet Luna 15 probe orbited the moon today. Jodrell Bank astronomers said they expected an attempt to land the unmanned craft on the moon by tomorrow morning.

★ ★ ★

Observatory director Sir Bernard Lovell said Luna 15 was in an eliptical orbit two hours long and taking the craft from 600 to 1,200 miles above the moon.

Lovell said his radio telescope, the West's main listening post for Luna 15 since it was launched Sunday, was providing "heaps" of data.

★ ★ ★

The official Soviet news agency Tass said in Moscow Luna 15 had become an artificial satellite of the moon, a statement interpreted in the Russian capital as possibly meaning no landing attempt would be made. Lovell said he did not believe this.

'NO SENSE OTHERWISE'

"It simply doesn't make sense to create another lunar satellite at this stage of the Soviet program," Lovell declared.

"In my opinion, this is not the end of the exercise but probably the beginning," he added. "I think it will stay in orbit probably for the rest of the day and then an attempt will be made to land the whole spacecraft, or part of it, and collect some rock."

Lovell conceded he was speculating on the purpose of Luna 15, although similar predictions had been made by unofficial Moscow sources that the Russians would try to steal some of the thunder of the American manned Apollo 11 flight and bring back lunar samples first.

3½ Hours to Orlando

Logjam at the Cape

By HARRY J. REED
Editor, The Pontiac Press

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. — For a while after the moonshot yesterday, we began to wonder if the three astronauts would be back on earth before we reached our motel in Orlando, 50 miles away.

Predictions of a massive traffic jam when the estimated 800,000 spectators left the launch area were quite accurate.

The poor people's mule train along one of the expressways was making better time than our bus.

As it was, the astronauts had made several orbits around earth, relighted the third-stage rocket, and put themselves on the way to the moon well before we had completed our 3½-hour trip to Orlando.

Pontiac Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. and I thought we were going to ride the bus all the way home, at one point. Heading north along the Florida coast, our driver was unable to make a left turn, and we had visions of going up to the Carolinas before we could head inland.

Memories of the flashing orange flames of ignition and the terrific rumbling as the spaceship lumbered up toward history were recalled again and again as the brief seconds of launching were reexamined by the visitors trapped on the motionless bus.

★ ★ ★

The overwhelming emotion of pride in the accomplishments of our space program, and awe of the powerful rocket, carried the day.

Nixon Rules Out Wage and Price Controls for Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, moving to stamp out speculation fed by his own treasury secretary, has all but ruled out wage-price controls as a weapon against inflation.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, after conferring with Nixon, said yesterday "The administration has ruled out wage and price controls as a way of dealing with inflation under conditions that are now foreseeable."

Lest anyone conclude that the "foreseeable" reference was intended to be a loophole, Ziegler added:

★ ★ ★

"Looking into the future with the knowledge and experience that this administration has, and projecting the various alternatives that could be used in the future, wage and price controls would not be considered."

SPECULATIVE STATEMENTS

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy has on several occasions made statements resulting in speculation the President might put a ceiling on wages and prices, something not tried since the Korean war.

Kennedy always indicated he did not favor such controls, but refused to state flatly they wouldn't be imposed, particularly if Congress refused to extend the income surtax.

Kennedy's latest statement on the matter, along with the sequence of the White House pronouncements on the matter indicated the confusion over the issue.

Ziegler at a morning news briefing made the first reference to presidential opposition to mandatory wage-price restraints. This was followed by a Kennedy news conference about 1 p.m., when the spectre of controls was again raised.

This in turn was followed by the strong statement issued about 3:30 p.m. by the White House at a regular afternoon press briefing.

Kennedy told newsmen regarding wage-price confrols, "I close no doors on any kind of possibility." He emphasized, however, he considered it an academic matter being discussed only as a possibility if all other anti-inflationary moves failed.

Conditions Set for Cease-Fire in Latin America

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Honduras and El Salvador each agreed to a cease-fire in their three-day-old war last night, but each nation attached conditions, which delayed an end to the fighting.

★ ★ ★

A peace committee of the Organization of American States had asked the warring Central American neighbors to agree to a peace plan which unofficial sources said called for:

- A return to territorial conditions that existed before the fighting broke out with each nation's armed forces pulling back three miles behind its borders.

★ ★ ★

- Respect for the citizens of one country living in the other.
- Neutral military observers to see that the cease-fire is observed.
- An end to hostile radio and press propaganda in both countries.

CONDITIONS TO CEASE-FIRE

Honduras agreed to the plan on condition that El Salvador withdraw its troops.

★ ★ ★

El Salvador also agreed to the plan but on condition that the OAS provide machinery adequate to enforce the agreement. It demanded particularly that more than 275,000 Salvadoreans living in Honduras be protected against "persecution."

★ ★ ★

Diplomatic sources in Washington said after an OAS council meeting the Honduran government had agreed to allow an OAS committee to inspect its territory to check on the treatment of the Salvadoreans living there.

Meanwhile, troops of the two countries continued to shoot at each other. Honduras announced today its forces had struck an area about five miles inside El Salvador and that enemy troops were abandoning their arms and fleeing.

House Unit Clears Bill Extending Vote Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee rejected President Nixon's proposed voting rights bill today and approved a five-year extension of the existing law.

The committee, by what was described as an overwhelming voice vote, urged renewal of the 1965 act, which suspended literacy tests and limits election procedure changes in seven Southern states.

★ ★ ★

The vote, in which a majority of committee Republicans lined up with the Democrats, signals a party-splitting fight among Republicans when the bill is brought to the House floor.

City Rights Unit Probing Incident

The Pontiac Human Relations Commission (HRC) yesterday officially stepped into the case of charges of brutality made against two members of the City Police Department.

Samuel Baker, HRC chairman and personnel officer for the city, said an emergency meeting was called last night and an investigation begun.

★ ★ ★

HRC is probing the forceful arrest last Thursday of two black community workers outside the Hayes Jones Center.

Arrested after a struggle were Kenneth Walker, 27, of 97 S. Jessie, an employe of Harambee Inc., and Elick Shorter, 25, of 529 Judson, social director for the Pontiac Area Urban League.

TRIED TO INTERVENE

According to the reports a struggle began when police attempted to arrest Walker on a charge of creating a disturbance. Shorter was arrested when he apparently attempted to intervene. Both men face charges in District Court.

Urban League officials have protested Shorter was only attempting to act as peacemaker but that he was beaten, arrested and jailed anyway. He was hospitalized briefly with a head wound. Police brutality in both arrests has been claimed. The two patrolmen accused were Raymond C. Hays and Clarence Yuill.

★ ★ ★

HRC will begin by getting police reports and statements, Baker said. Following this, statements by the arrested men and witnesses will be taken.

"After all the evidence is gathered, the commission will evaluate it and decide on a course of action," Baker said.

15-20 CITIZENS

The HRC was formed in 1966 and is made up of 15 to 20 citizens appointed by the City Commission.

Grand Jury Bill Is Before Senate

Opponents, who contended repeal of the system would in no way affect the Oakland County probe, termed the one-man system "an archaic form of investigative pursuit."

'POLITICAL GUILLOTINE?

"It's a political guillotine," said Sen. James Gray, D-Warren, pointing at secrecy provisions binding all such investigations.

"There's been no evidence presented at any time to justify the existence of the one-man grand jury, regardless if it is replaced by anything," he said.

★ ★ ★

"I've seen a grand jury destroy people who never had had an opportunity to defend themselves," offered Sen. William Faust, D-Westland.

Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, said he had voted to do away with the one-man system as far back as 1949. "It was a facist court and gave no protection to anybody," he said.

CONDEMNATION

Sen. Michael O'Brien, D-Detroit, condemned the one-man system that he said generally failed to indict anyone but the "little man." "The minute you indict somebody" that's somebody," he said, "It's thrown out" of court.

Sen. George Fitzgerald, D-Grosse Pointe Park, a former prosecutor and defense attorney in cases involving one-man grand juries, said he believed the system "has in a sense outlived its usefulness."

The bill, without the repealer, would permit citizens jury panels of 13-17 members, instead of the 23 now required.

As amended in the Senate, it also would allow use of grand jury records in connection with charges lodged against elected officials, increase of the life of the one-man grand jury from six months to two years with a possible one-year extension, increase penalties for contempt and require the judge to file a full report with the governor.

Area Auto Workers Laid Off for '70-Model Changeovers

Several thousand area workers are affected by model changeovers at local automotive assembly plants.

Production of 1969 models ended yesterday at Pontiac Motor Division's home plant. Company officials said the majority of the division's 16,500 production employes will be laid off for a short period.

During the layoff, inventory and plant rearrangement activities are expected to be carried on.

Fisher Body plant-employes were furloughed earlier this week for the annual two-week changeover period. Company officials said about 3,800 employes were affected.

GRADUAL START

After completion of the inventory and plant rearrangements, production of parts for the 1970 models will begin on a gradual basis.

Pontiac Motor expects to be assembling 1970 models at the home plant by Aug. 11, officials said.

Divisional offices noted that production of 1969 Pontiac models will continue for several days at plants in Fremont, Calif., Baltimore, Md., and Framingham, Mass.

Senate Panel Passes Surtax Extension Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee voted 9-8 today to approve the House-passed surtax extension bill without change and send it to the Senate floor for debate.

The vote represented a first-round victory for President Nixon in Senate consideration of the bill.

However, it was uncertain as to when the legislation would be called up for Senate debate.

★ ★ ★

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., has said the bill must be accompanied by meaningful tax reform and the finance committee refused today to consider any reform amendments before acting on the bill.

Two Democrats, Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico and Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, joined with the seven Republicans on the committee to give the administration the nine votes it needed.

U.S. Envoys to Gather

BANGKOK, Thiland (AP) — American ambassadors in Southeast Asia will meet in Bangkok during president Nixon's three-day visit to Thailand, official sources said today.

The sources said the meeting will be opened by Nixon on July 29, one day after his arrival.

Blind 'Learn the Ropes' Fast at Camp in Addison Township

ADDISON TOWNSHIP — Kindness is more than a watchword at Echo Grove Camp, it is a way of living.

The Salvation Army's emphasis on social work, or service to man, is readily available here to those who ask.

* * *

For some, the pursuit of happiness comes hard. Echo Grove Camp near Leonard provides for the handicapped, the blind, the old and the poor a rare period of carefree happiness.

This week, guide ropes can be found throughout the campgrounds — guide ropes for the blind.

GET AROUND WELL

"You'd be surprised how these blind people become acquainted with the grounds so fast. In a day or two they'll know how to get anywhere. If they have any problems, there are always the guide ropes," said program director and Salvationist Nancy Roberts.

If one member of a family is blind, Echo Grove Camp accepts the family for one week of camping experience. The cost is $10.50 for each person over 16.

* * *

United Fund subsidizes the camp while Salvation Army provides the volunteer and paid staff.

For a blind person, a vacation with other blind persons is a pleasurable break from a world geared for the seeing.

QUITE AN EXPERIENCE

For the seeing at the camp, watching the blind people becomes an observation of human ingenuity.

Baseball for the blind: the pitcher rolls the ball on the ground to the batter, who strikes the ball with a bat somewhat like a golf club, the infield calls out a name to signify the direction the ball is traveling along the ground as they listen for the sound through the grass.

* * *

Conversations of the blind: "How are you dressed today?" . . . "I'm dressed for a boating excursion." . . . "Margie, will you please guide this guest to his cabin?" . . . "Nancy, could you address my postcards, please?"

Nancy Roberts, whose husband, William, is bookkeeper at the Salvation Army's Eventide Home along a Detroit skid row, explained her reasons for becoming a Salvationist:

"The Army, as we call it, is no different than membership in any other Protestant church. I was raised a Presbyterian, but I fell in love with the Army when I became acquainted with its practice of doing what other Christians talk about. The Army gets right in where help is needed and helps," Mrs. Roberts said.

FUNDAMENTALISTS

What would be more to the point is that the Salvation Army puts its money where its mouth is.

The Salvation Army, whose members observe a fundamentalist Methodist doctrine, is more than a church of knee-jerk wallet openers. Salvationists are doers.

* * *

What the Salvationists are doing for people along Skid Row — and for people at Echo Grove Camp — has the tranquil gratitude of those who have long pursued and finally caught a bit of happiness.

Judges' Blast at Griffin Over U.S. Post Told

DETROIT (AP) — The eight federal judges at Detroit have reportedly informed Goerge E. Woods that he was badly treated by Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., who nominated him for U.S. attorney at Detroit and then changed his mind.

The meeting with Woods was held last week in the chambers of Chief U.S. District Judge Ralph M. Freeman, the Detroit News reported.

* * *

The judges met last week to discuss Sen. Robert Griffin's withdrawal of his nomination of George E. Woods as U.S. attorney at Detroit.

* * *

Chief U.S., District Judge Ralph M. Freeman said he called the meeting at the suggestion of "some of the judges" because he felt the court was becoming too involved in the controversy surrounding Griffin's change of mind.

'POLITICAL MATTER'

"This is a political matter and not a matter for the court," Freeman said, declining to give his opinion of Griffin's action.

* * *

It had been reported that the eight federal judges informed Woods that he was badly treated by the Republican senator from Michigan.

* * *

When asked about this, Freeman said "I made no statement like that, and there will be no statement."

* * *

Griffin withdrew his nomination of Woods after he learned the lawyer had once represented an alleged Mafia character. Griffin said there was nothing unethical about the lawyer-client relationship adding, "However, it is apparent that Woods could not act as U.S. attorney and would have to disqualify himself in any and all federal cases which might involve Peter Lazaros or might grow out of his testimony."

PROBE IN COUNTY

A grand jury investigation will begin soon in Oakland County based in part on allegations of corruption made be Lazaros.

* * *

Metro Mobile Home Usage Up, but Short of U.S. Pace

Mobile home occupancy in southeast Michigan has risen substantially in the last decade but in proportion to the total population, the seven-county southeast Michigan region is not keeping pace with the national increase.

Oakland County has some 12,000 persons living on 4,677 sites in 43 different parks. Some 4,413 additional sites have been proposed.

* * *

These findings were reported in a mobile-home study just published by the Detroit Regional Transportation and Land Use Study (TALUS).

* * *

The inventory is one of many steps in finalizing a 1990 growth plan for Southeast Michigan, according to TALUS Director Irving J. Rubin.

DEMONSTRATES IMPACT

"The report is designed to contribute to an understanding of an increasingly important housing type and to demonstrate the impact of mobile homes on the regional housing market," said Rubin.

* * *

According to the report, mobile home parks in Southeast Michigan have averaged a 15 per cent growth rate yearly for the last 10 years. The average park holds 95.6 units.

* * *

Nationally some 2.75 per cent of the population lives in mobile homes. In Southeast Michigan only one per cent of the region's population — about 45,000 — lives in mobile units.

Purchase price averages $7,200, with home costs averaging about $10 per square foot compared to $20 per square foot for conventional housing.

27 IN MACOMB

Macomb County has 27 parks holding some 3,891 units housing 8,500 persons. An additional 775 sites have been proposed.

Livginston County has 15 parks with 715 sites housing 1,800 people. Another 265 sites are proposed.

* * *

Monroe County has 14 parks with 884 sites housing 2,200 persons. Some 1,429 additional sites are proposed.

St. Clair County has 19 parks with 751 sites housing 1,500 persons. An additional 1,949 sites are proposed.

WASHTENAW FIGURE

Washtenaw County has 15 parks with 1,241 sites housing 3,100 persons.

Wayne County has 48 parks with 5,348 site housing 12,500 persons. An additional 2,227 sites are proposed.

Township, Village Get State Bond OK

The State Municipal Finance Commission has approved the issuance of $1,309,000 in bonds for special assessment districts in West Bloomfield Township and Quakertown.

* * *

West Bloomfield has received approval to sell $1,255,000 in bonds to cover the cost of sanitary sewer installation in Hernandon Walnut Lake Estates.

* * * M

Quarkertown in Farmington Township may sell $54,000 in bonds to cover the cost of paving several village streets. The streets are Quaker Valley, Braebury Ridge, Hunters Row and Quakervalley Lane.

Buick Shuts Down for Model Change

FLINT (UPI) — Buick Motor Division of General Motors Corp. closed out production of its 1969 models today after turning out 711,944 cars, an increase of 5-7 per cent from the previous model year.

It was the second biggest model year in Buick's 67-year history and was the first time since 1955 that Buick topped the 700,000 mark.

* * *

The Flint Buick complex, which turned out 329,797 cars during the model year, was closed today for an annual inventory and model changeover.

The main assembly plant, with 2,200 hourly workers, was scheduled to resume production Aug. 11, while the Buick plant which manufactures Rivieras with 500 hourly employes, was scheduled to begin operations again Aug.

No Findings Reported Yet

More Funds for Campus Probe

LANSING (AP)— The nearly 7-month-old Senate committee investigating campus unrest — criticized for not yet reporting any findings—has been authorized to spend up to $50,000 in state money to continue its probe.

Chairman Robert Huber, R-Troy, said he would "go out in sackcloth and ashes with open hands," seeking contributions from foundations and industry, so the committee would not have to spend the money granted after lengthy Senate debate yesterday.

* * *

The Huber committee was set up in January and given $25,000 to finance operations. Since that time, Huber has issued a preliminary report, outlining interviews held with college officials and students, and has reported hiring an outside firm to probe further.

"As the study unfolded," he told the Senate, "we decided that if we were going to do a serious, in-depth study, we would have to go onto all the college campuses, public and private," for interviews.

He said the committee had spent $6,000 of the allocated $25,000, but faced a proposed program that could total $60,000-$70,000.

"I'm sure the $25,000 is not going to cover more than 40 per cent of the budget," he said, adding that the entire eight-member committee had yet to approve the proposed budget.

"I personally am going to contact foundations," he said, "and we're also starting a program to contact industry" for donations. "If that is turned down, we will have to rely on the Senate money," he said.

"I hope we won't need it."

Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, opposed the extra $25,000 grant, saying he felt the committee was "effective enough" that Huber could come up with the money elsewhere.

NO JUSTIFICATION

It would be "somewhat irresponsible to increase the ante at this time," Lockwood said.

Minority Leader Sander Levin, D-Berkley, said he "hoped there would have been some product in writing to justify authorizing $50,000. But I have not seen any results that justify it," he said.

* * *

Sen. Roger Craig, D-Dearborn, contended that conclusions of the committee—first branded a "little HUAC," after the controversial House Un-American Activities Committee, and a "witch-hunt" by opponents—"could be submitted right now, without spending more money."

* * *

"We can save money and the senator from Troy's time if we just submit the conclusions we believe the committee is going to come to," Craig said.

'NO WITCH-HUNT'

"This study is not turning into a witch-hunt," disagreed Sen. N. Lorraine Beebe, R-Dearborn.

"We will have a good document when we're through," she promised. "We have a staff. We are working and I can assure you there are no junkets."

* * *

Some senators, checking the proposed budget that Huber handed out, questioned an item that earmarked $12,000 for "optional room and board for 400 participants at $30 per unit."

* * *

That item was included in a "supplementary proposed budget" that suggested four conferences . . . involving "senators, legislators, congressmen, educators . . . medical personnel, police and law enforcement and student trustee folk, local governmental leaders foundation, civic and business."

* * *

The proposal said the conference would be held at Kalamazoo or Grand Rapids, Traverse City or Petoskey, Lansing or Saginew and Detroit.

'BRAIN-PICKING'

If approved, Huber said the conferences would be "brain-picking sessions."

The proposed budget also included $7,500 for staff-secretarial help in the report writing phase of the probe; $6,000 for a director; $1,000 for a media and public relations consultant; $4,000 for an associate director; $2,000 for secretarial help and $1,000 for staff travel.

* * *

The Senate approved the additional $25,000 on a voice vote, with several dissenting "noes" heard.

MOTORCYCLE MOURNERS — At the request of his widow, Wilbur Cooper's motorcycle club friends led his funeral procession yesterday in Lake Orion. Some 40 cycles driven by members of the Thunderbolts of Lake Orion, the Golden Eagles of Lapeer County and the Matadors of Pontiac formed a three-abreast procession followed by a military color guard. Cooper died early Sunday morning when he lost control of his cycle on a Lapeer County road.

'Satellite' Center Will Ease Load for Phone Users

DETROIT (AP) — A "Satellite" long-distance call-switching center, a $25-million project of Michigan Bell Telephone Co., will be put into operation Sunday in Plymouth.

By shifting long-distance switching for 370,000 downtown Detroit telephone customers to the Plymouth center, Michigan Bell said Wednesday, the remaining callers in the 313 southeastern Michigan area will have more circuits and switching equipment available to handle their local, interzone and long distance calls.

* * *

In Oakland County, the facility will serve customers in Farmington, South Lyon and Walled Lake.

John S. North, general switching systems manager, said "In the years ahead, the Bell System will erect similar satellite switching centers around all major metropolitan areas."

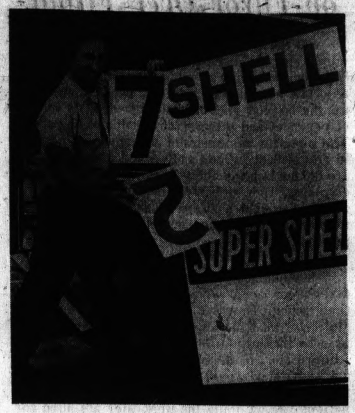

* * *

In April, Michigan Bell placed a similar switching center in service in Grand Rapids. It was the first in the nation to use an electronic translator system, an automatic, solid-state call directing system. It now serves western Lower Michigan and the Upper Peninsula.

* * *

A third project in Michigan Bell's record $230-million construction program for 1969 is a long-distance center being built in Pontiac.

Gas-Price War Fuels Dealers' Disconfent

Pontiac Press Photos by Ed Vanderwarp

Once Again, Jim Comparoni Prepares to Cut Prices

Bill Kennerly Believes In Service First

War isn't popular, even when it's a price war, area gasoline dealers indicate.

★ ★ ★

Oakland County is experiencing a full-scale gasoline price war. The object of the war, according to the declaration by the major oil companies, is to trim the popularity of the so-called "cut-rate" or "discount" service stations.

Standard Oil Co. fired the first shot, cutting the cost of gas supplied to its dealers by three cents a gallon and asking its dealers to trim another two cents a gallon.

FOLLOWING LEAD

Following Standard's lead, other major oil companies have effected similar reductions.

While most area station owners have agreed to cut their pump prices to reflect their distributors' reductions, many dealers are reluctant on the additional two-cent discount.

★ ★ ★

"I'm not going to go along with it," said Standard Oil serviceman Bill Kennerly, who owns and operates a station at 378 W. Huron.

A veteran of 24 years in the service station business, Kennerly estimates that the two-cent decrease would cost him $600 a month in gross income, based on monthly sales of 3,000 gallons.

HE LOST MONEY

"I went along with the price cutting in a war four or five years ago," he says, "and I know I lost money for doing it."

A representative on the Standard Oil Advisory Committee in Pontiac, Kennerly believes that good reliable service and a clean attractive station are the keys to building a faithful clientele.

★ ★ ★

"My customers don't expect me to operate at a loss," he said. "I've noticed no real decline in business for not having made the cut," he added.

By contrast, Shell dealer Jim Comparoni has already dropped the price of gas at his station at 735 Baldwin four cents, and plans on a total reduction of six cents per gallon.

INCREASED SALES

Comparoni believes that the drop will result in an increased sales volume that will protect him from losing money.

"Many of my regular customers are from Pontiac Motor," he explains, "and I'm counting on a big volume when workers return to the city after the model changeover."

★ ★ ★

Comparoni, who has been in the service station business for 10 years, believes that a surplus of gas prompted Standard to initiate its price cutback.

Chuck McPherson, who owns and operates a Mobil station at 128 Baldwin, admits that the reduced gas prices have helped his business. "I'm selling more gas now than I was before," he says.

'NOBODY BENEFITS'

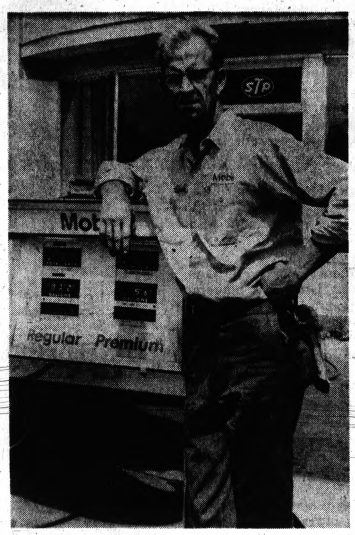

In spite of the increased trade, McPherson is not happy to see a gas war strike Pontiac. "Nobody really benefits from this sort of thing," he feels.

McPherson favors treating gasoline as a public utility with some governmental rate regulation to prevent future price slashes.

★ ★ ★

It remains to be seen to what depths gas prices in Pontiac will fall and how long the price war will rage before an armistice, the dealers indicate.

Perhaps all that can be said with certainty is that the situation remains volatile, with only the gas-hungry consumer benefitting.

AMA Pledges Effort to Raise Poor's Care

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Medical Association has pledged itself to work toward the day when the poor of the United States will get the same quality medical care as the rich.

At the same time, a young psychiatrist charged that the nation's health care system, including the AMA, has "no absolute commitment" to see that everyone gets the same level of care.

★ ★ ★

The AMA, acting at its annual convention, voted unanimously Wednesday in favor of a resolution giving "top priority" to a program it said was aimed at closing "the acknowledged gap" between health care for the affluent and the poor.

The AMA said it will begin working with state and county medical socities to set up local programs to improve the care of the poor.

"It has been recognized for years," the AMA said, "that the same quality of medical care should be accessible to all people. Realization of this ideal has, for a variety of reasons, not been fully achieved."

Meanwhile, Dr. Richard Kunnes, 27, a resident in psychiatry at Albert Einstein College of Medicine, told a news conference: "There is no overall commitment by the system to assure that everyone gets the same level of care."

Kunnes said he spoke on behalf of up to 1,000 persons in the New York area, 35 perc ent of them licensed physicians and the others working in health professions.

In its resolution on care for the poor, the AMA said health needs do not exist in isolation, adding that steps must be taken to combat poor housing, malnutrition, employment problems and inadequate education.

"Unless efforts are successful in improving the over-all quality of life of all people," the AMA said, "efforts in the health care field alone will not be enough."

At an inauguration ceremony, Dr. Gerald D. Dorman of New York took over as head of the AMA from Dr. Dwight L. Wilbur of California. Earlier, the House of Delegates unanimously chose, Dr. Walter C. Bornemeier of Chicago os president-elect. He will take office in June 1970.

Boat Blast Claims Two More Victims

DETROIT (AP) — Two severely burned persons died Wednesday raising fatalities to four in an explosion of a boat in the Detroit River Saturday.

Mrs. Ethel Guenther, 46, of Warren, and Samuel Watts, 35, died in Detroit General Hospital. Sixteen other persons were injured in the blast, which sank the 39-foot cabin cruiser moored at a Detroit marina.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile Wednesday, Detroit police said they have found no evidence of criminality in the boat explosion. The Coast Guard, however, is continuing its investigation.

Joseph Rzeppa, 7, and his 12-year-old sister, Kim Rzeppa, were killed in the explosion, which took place shortly after the boat was filled with 116-gallons of gas at the marina.

★ ★ ★

All persons aboard the boat resided in the Detroit area and were about to go on a pleasure outing.

Most of the injured, including Mrs. Guenther's husband, Gene, remain hospitalized.

Nixon to Start Tour After All-Star Game

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon plans to set off on his round-the-world tour directly from the annual baseball All Star game next Tuesday night.

And by the time Nixon is back, the White House figures he will have flown at least 24,070 miles, crossing three oceans and six seas, with stops at seven cities in seven countries.

The White House made public Wednesday these further details on the President's July 22-Aug. 3 trip pending a final announcement of his itinerary in each country. He is going to the Philippines, Indonesia, Thailand, India, Pakistan and Romania plus a refueling stop in Britain during which he will talk with Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Disorder Is Penalized

By the narrowest of margins—a vote of 18-17—the House Education and Labor Committee has killed a bill that would have required all colleges and universities receiving Federal assistance to develop plans of action, including penalties, for handling student outbreaks or else have their funds cut off.

Contrary, however, to what seems to be the prevailing opinion around the Country, the colleges have not been totally helpless or remiss in dealing with those whose protest activities have exceeded the bounds of decency or legality. Hundreds of troublemakers have been disciplined, by one means or another.

• The University of Chicago, for example, expelled 43 students and suspended 81 for periods up to six quarters for the take-over of a building.

• At Dartmouth, 36 students were sentenced to 30 days in jail for violating a court order directing them to clear a seized building.

• In California, San Fernando Valley State College placed 46 students on disciplinary probation after the take-over of the upper floors of the administration building. Twenty-seven of the students are awaiting trial on felony charges.

Actions taken by other schools in that state as a result of a variety of incidents include:

Occidental College in Los Angeles — 42 students expelled; San Francisco State College — one expelled, 27 suspended and letters of reprimand issued to 97; Stanford University — 14 suspended, 77 placed on probation and fines levied totalling $5,425; the University of California at Berkeley — 15 expelled, 35 suspended, 160 placed on disciplinary probation and some $20,000 in fines collected.

★ ★ ★

Since suspension or dismissal can mean loss of draft-exempt status, these punishments are more than mere wrist slaps.

There is no doubt that college and university administrators were taken by surprise by last year's unprecedented outbreaks of student violence. But now many of them seem to be exhibiting the kind of "backbone" President NIXON chided them for lacking. In view of the fact that each situation on each campus is different, the worst thing Congress could do would be to level its legislative cannons at all colleges and all students in general.

★ ★ ★

Let the punishments—and the reforms—initiated by the schools themselves begin to sink in.

Missile Maker Sights Peace

What kinds of plowshares will the sword makers turn to when, if ever, world conditions permit defense spending to be reduced to a happy level comparable with, say, annual expenditures on congressional stationery?

One example is an unlikely product assembled by a leading aerospace firm, Lockheed Missiles & Space Co. of Sunnyvale, Calif. It's a course in drug education aimed at children in grades six through nine.

Described as a complete educational package, "Drug Decision" consists of a three-hour color movie, a 300-page student workbook, a film-slide-tape presentation for teachers and parents, a five-hour teacher course and follow-up materials.

★ ★ ★

The program, which relies heavily on gaming and simulation techniques, grew out of the company's previous experience in teaching basic skills to disadvantaged children. In one, "the Spanish land grant game," 30 failing Mexican-American eighth graders were moved completely away from the school environment for two days.

The youngsters were told to survey a piece of property and draw up a plot. This gave them intense exposure to eighth-grade mathematics. Then they had to apply to the Spanish government for a land grant. To find out how to do this, they had to do research in a library. This gave them a practical lesson in library use. Finally, composing the application gave them essay-writing practice.

The students, who previously had an attention span of about two hours, enthusiastically worked 16 hours a day on the game. Disciplinary problems almost disappeared.

★ ★ ★

The drug course, which Lockheed is test-marketing in Prince George County, Md., at $4 a pupil, likewise avoids the preaching kind of teaching. Instead, students are cast in the roles of community decision-makers on questions pertaining to drugs.

The company has developed more than 200 games to stimulate interest in basic learning skills and expects to be in the education business on a large scale in the 1970s.

Now that's a plowshare.

Dem Chief Takes Aim at Vote Barriers

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic National Chairman Fred Harris is leading another charge against barriers to voting.

Actually the relatively low election day turnouts in the Unites States seems more due to apathy than legal or administrative requirements for voting.

★ ★ ★

Harris has appointed a 20-member subcommittee, headed by former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, to promote greater participation in elections.

A rundown on the 1968 presidential election shows that only 60.8 per cent of the voting age population and only 80.8 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots.

FAILED TO VOTE

A Gallup Poll indicated that 15 million citizens who were registered failed to vote because they "were disinterested or didn't like the candidates."

"Because of restrictive state laws," Harris said, "some voters have to go to a certain place on a certain date and register each and every year in order to vote . . . present registration laws make it seem we want to discourage voting rather than encourage it."

★ ★ ★

He said the Clark task force would take a look at state registration and residence requirements, proposals to lower the voting age and "continuing racial barriers" to voting.

Harris favors some kind of automatic registration to permit voting in presidential elections for citizens who moved too recently to meet state residence equirements.

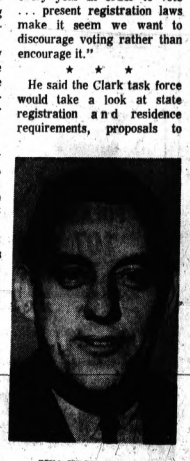

SIMILAR PROVISION

The Nixon administration's voting rights bill contains a similar provision. It would require states to permit voting in a presidential election for citizens who moved into a state by Sept. 1 before that election. Those who moved in the final two months would be allowed to vote in the state of their former residence.

Subject to some restraints in federal law and the Constitution, voter eligibility is determined by the laws of the 50 states.

★ ★ ★

Fifteen states now permit a vote for president by new residents with no more than 30 days in the state. The residence requirement is 60 days or less in 28 states.

SEN. FRED HARRIS

David Lawrence Says:

Insurrection Must Be Defined

WASHINGTON — Congress has the specific power under the Constitution to suppress insurrections.

LAWRENCE

The authority of the federal government, however, has been the subject of an unsettled controversy between those who insist there is no limit to the right of free speech and those who believe that it does not cover violence and rebellion.

★ ★ ★

The FBI, in a recent report, reveals the nature of the revolutionary movement, and notes that law enforcement in the United States today is confronted with new and unprecedented challenges.

The FBI reports that seizure of campus facilities, destruction of university property, and the use of organized terror and violence disrupted more than 225 of the country's institutions of higher learning during the last 12 months. Fire bombs and other explosives, as well as rifles and shotguns, became familiar weapons in the 1968-69 academic year.

'$3 MILLION DAMAGE'

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says: "The activities of these student revolutionists resulted in over $3 million damage to educational facilities and more than 4,000 arrests."

The FBI director places the blame largely on the Students for a Democratic Society, which is described as the instigator of much of the unrest: "The SDS, he says, "remains at the core of the 'new left.' "

ADDED PROBLEMS

Hoover also discloses that the increased activity of black extremist groups has added to the investigative problems of the FBI.

Typical of the investigations carried on by the FBI is a case involving one of the members of the Students for a Democratic Society, Michael Sherrod Siskind, who attempted to set off a fire bomb at a Reserve Officers' Training Corps office at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., on Dec. 3, 1968. He pleaded guilty after being charged with sabotage and received a five-year prison term.

★ ★ ★

But what is being done to pass laws which will punish the instigators of violent demonstrations even though they themselves do not destroy any property?

Evidence is available to the Department of Justice to carry on extensive prosecutions.

WIDE MEANING

Recent decisions of the Supreme Court, however, have given such a wide meaning to the free-speech clause in the Constitution that there has been a hesitancy to ask for indictments of many of the demonstrators.

Congress, on the other hand, has the power to limit the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. It also can stipulate by law the offenses which are part of an "insurrection."

★ ★ ★

The Constitution itself declares that treason — which includes giving "aid and comfort" to the enemy — is a punishable crime. Congress now needs to define what are t reasonable demonstrations and what acts of violence really amount to "insurrection."

Bob Considine Says:

Public Becoming Blase About Space 'Miracles'

NEW YORK—The wonders of space travel come so thick and fast that we overlook events which a few short years ago would have been hailed as absolute miracles.

CONSIDINE

For example, we have Mariner 6 and Mariner 7 approaching Mars. Each is equipped with a television camera which will send back pictures of that mysterious red planet on July 31 and Aug. 5.

The unmanned vehicles will approach to within 2,000 miles of Mars after incredible twin voyages that began last Feb. 24 and March 27.

Mariner 7, launched a month after Mariner 6, has nearly caught up with the pacemaker because of the different positions of earth and Mars at the time of liftoff.

FIRM PLANS

There are firm plans now in existence to land unmanned research vehicles on Mars and Venus that will send back surface-level pictures and enable us to assay the secrets of those planets.

In the manned space effort, Apollo 12—crewed by Charles Conrad, Dick Gordon and Allen Bean—will land considerably more scientific instrumentation on the moon than are being taken there by Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin.

★ ★ ★

Apollo 12's Lunar Landing Module will also alight at a different place on the moon than the pioneers.

If Apollo 11 is a complete success, Apollo 12 will go in November. There will be at least three moon trips in 1970, 1971 and 1972.

GOING CONCERN

The Apollo Applications Program, about which little has been written, is a going concern with at least two experiments on order.

In the first of these fantastic events, a 3-man crew, launched into earth orbit by a Saturn 5, will leave their command module and enter the burned out third stage of their booster.

★ ★ ★

There they plan to remain for 28 days performing the most comprehensive study ever made of the earth.

They will be relieved by a fresh crew—sent up by a Saturn 1B.

They will climb into the command module of the smaller Saturn and return to earth in the conventional manner.

★ ★ ★

The fresh crew is scheduled to remain in the orbiting workshop for 56 days.

But all these wonders are being eclipsed by Apollo 11, and understandably so.

'Bachelor' Survives Week of Freedom

By L. GARY THORNE
City Editor

Marriage is not heaven. Some days it is not even good. It is, however, a common condition of coexistence for man and woman.

THORNE

There are benefits other than clean socks, although a bank balance is not one of them.

I crossed this river of no return some six years, a few days and many minutes ago. I have never been the same, financially or emotionally.

Man is a helpless creature. Born dependent on women, man is destined to so remain, notably married man.

★ ★ ★

One of the simpler methods of reminding man of his place is to leave him alone, completely on his own for a period of days responsible only to his conscience.

My woman recently ventured forth to visit my in-laws, leaving me and the dog to talk to each other.

Here I was, a bachelor seven years married. To be so free is a frightening prospect. First of all, the pure mechanics of eating, sleeping, dressing, etc. must be relearned. These are the things a married man buries alongside his little black book and Boy Scout manual.

Secondly, and maybe more important, there is all that freedom to accommodate. For a man to have a week or more to himself to do anything he wants is foolhardy.

With an entire week, subtracting the hours spent at work, I thought I might see a couple of the racier movies about—the ones my wife refuses to waste time seeing—play a little pool perhaps, visit a few of those buddies still single, and most of all take long naps after work.

(The latter is a source of some conflict in our household.)

★ ★ ★

Upon her return, my woman inquired as to how the week went.

It was far from glorious. I did inform her that I ventured on Maceday Lake in a craft powered by sails. Unfortunately, a lack of wind forced use of a motor to return to shore.

HER: "Well, what else did you do?"

ME: "I broke the power mower again and had to cut the grass with the hand mower."

HER: "Wonderful."

ME: "The well pump has acquired a heart murmur."

HER: "Great."

ME: "Two tiles fell off the bathroom wall."

HER: "Swell."

HER AGAIN: "But, what did you do all week?"

ME: "Nothing really. I just went to work, came home, ate and slept."

What is perhaps more tragic is that this is true.

Reader States Opinion on Furor Over Firing

All the furor over the firing of the PGH administrator has been rather ridiculous. I believe the administrator was only a figurehead while the associate administrator did the work in building up the hospital and maintaining adequate control of personnel and the everyday problems that arose. The associate administrator managed the hospital in an excellent fashion and worked hard at his job. He did not lack the ability to communicate with the employes. They all came to him with problems and received straight answers. I can't understand why they did not rebel when he was told to find another position.

★ ★ ★

It would seem the board members, with such diversified backgrounds, could not be wrong in their action. They are aware of what is going on and know what they need to do. The employes are paid by the hospital, or taxpayers, and not by the adminstrator. If there were no patients or no medical staff, they would not have a job. They can really prove what they can do in the way of good patient care by doing the work they are hired for and not rabble-rousing.

Question and Answer

I have a one-page edition of the October 1760, London Gazette. It bears edition 10043, and has a half-penny seal on the back. It appears to be authentic. Could you please advise me whom to contact to find out if it has any value?

ARTHUR ALLARD
WALLED LAKE

REPLY

The librarian in the rare books section of the Detroit Library says old newspapers are usually valued because they contain news of some very important event. London Gazettes from 1726 and 1727, containing significant proclamations by King George, have been priced at $4 a copy by one dealer, so even collector's items aren't worth very much. However, Daniel J. Kelly, 619 N. St. Louis Blvd., South Bend, Ind., is a dealer in old newspaper editions, and he could probably tell you more accurately if yours is of any value.

Question and Answer

My fiance injured his back in an automobile accident, and is unable to work at any job that requires lifting. He's interested in going to barber school, but we don't know if there are any in this area. Where would the closest one be located?

SUSAN GIBSON

REPLY

There are several in Detroit, but one closer is LaMar's Barber College, 12951 Woodward Ave., Highland Park, 869-4690. However, if Flint is closer to your fiance's home, try Flint Institute of Barbering, 118½ E. Water St., Flint, 234-2741.

School-Reform Hearings End

LANSING (AP) — A mammoth job of sorting out stacks of testimony and almost as many ideas as witnesses faced the Governor's Commission on Educational Reform today following the windup of public hearings.

Eliminate the property tax . . . Try for a state income tax . . . Allow a local district income tax.

* * *

These were some of the suggestions for financing elementary and secondary school education.

Help the migrants . . . More stress on vocational training . . . Give students more voice in school administration.

PAROCHIAID ISSUE

Every group had an idea for education emphasis.

The debate also continued on the hot issue of state aid to nonpublic schools.

The commission wound up the last of three public hearings at Lansing Wednesday with more than 40 witnesses offering advice.

There were 77 witnesses heard from at two similar public hearings at Detroit and Marquette.

The commission now has the chore of preparing a set of educational reform recommendations for Gov. William Milliken by Sept. 30.

Milliken, in turn, will present a master plan for the state's educational future to the often balky and independent Legislature.

Wilbur J. Cohen, dean of the School of Education at the University of Michigan, suggested elimination of the property tax as a means of financing education.

Transfer responsibility for all industrial and public utility taxation to the states instead, the educator advocated, since business is the greatest benefactor from increased education.

* * *

"Alternatively," Cohen said, "levy a special corporate income tax for education purpose."

William Shunck, Wayne County Intermediate School District superintendent, said the state must assume the greatest share of the task of providing funds for education.

"A state income tax is the most equitable way to meet this obligation, but property taxes as a source of income for education should remain to some degree," he said.

FAVORS PARTNERSHIP

Thomas Walsh, treasurer of the Lansing Board of Education, said the pattern of partnership of state and local financing should continue — but with an increase in state participation.

He asked for the option of a low district income tax.

"Full state funding of public education must be seriously considered," said Dr. Ira Polley, state superintendent of public instruction.

* * *

"The federal government will also need to be encouraged to make massive increases in its investment in education.

Antipoverty Aid

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has approved an antipoverty grant of $24,499 for the Jackson-Hillsdale Area Commission on Economic Opportunity. The funds mostly will be used to help find jobs for school dropouts and other disadvantaged youths.

Census to Demand 'Exact' Relationships

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An unmarried couple will be required to admit any illicit relationship under plans drawn up for next year's national census.

But the director of the Census Bureau, A. Ross Eckler, believes any couple so involved "will find a rationalization to answer" that particular question — such as reporting a common-law marriage.

* * *

The issue came up in a closed budget hearing for the Census Bureau by a House appropriations subcommittee last May. A transcript of the testimony was released yesterday.

* * *

Rep. Charles S. Joelson, D-N.J., wondered about a question that asked for the "exact relationship" between two people living together who are not related.

'CONFESS OR ELSE'

"If a person is living in what we call a meretricious (illicit) relationship, he would have to confess to that on this form or face prosecution," commented Joelson.

* * *

"We know there are many kinds of arrangements in units where they will find a rationalization to answer that," said Eckler. "If a couple has entered into some kind of relationship, they could report it as a common-law marriage."

* * *

The penalty for failure to answer the question is 60 days in jail, a $100 fine or both. Eckler said that in his memory no one had been jailed under the law and only two persons had been fined.

* * *

Rep. Mark Andrews, R-N.D., suggested that about the time the census-taking starts, "maybe the best thing is to get out a press release and say that everybody should hurry back to where he belongs."

At the biomedical facilities of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory studies are under way seeking answers to these questions and others related to animal survival, longevity and the capacity of individuals to fight off disease, infections and other "insults" to the system.

Dr. James Liverman, a laboratory spokesman, suggests that each individual is born with a relatively fixed potential for fighting off attacks on his system from disease, viruses or other shocks.

Dr. J. E. Albright said that, if this is true, it might be possible to establish bone marrow banks — the bone marrow being a source of antibody production — on which individuals could draw to increase their disease-fighting capacity as they grow older.

TESTS ON MICE

It has been found, in experiments here with mice, that an injection of spleen or bone marrow cells (both are antibody producers) into an experimental mouse can affect the length of his life.

* * *

For instance, if the mouse receives cells from a younger mouse, the recipient's life can be extended. But if the mouse receives cells from an old mouse, the length of his life will tend to be shortened.

* * *

A very young child might have bone marrow removed from his system, then frozen and kept dormant for years, Albright says.

Mexico Orders Baths, Cuts for Hippie Tourists

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Immigration officials in Nuevo Laredo announced Wednesday that hippies will be refused tourist cards to enter Mexico unless they take a bath and get haircuts.

Gilberto Cazarez, chief of Mexican immigration in Nuevo Laredo, said authorities in Mexico City, Acapulco and other popular tourist spots have registered complaints about "dirty, long-haired hippies using peyote, marijuana and other drugs."

* * *

He said all long-haired Americans will be told to return to the United States, take a bath and get a haircut before he issues a six-month tourist card to them.

The tourist card ban is not applicable to those only entering border towns but applies to cities in the interior.

Viet-War Lull Spreads; U.S. Military Mulls Impact, Moves

SAIGON (AP) — The lull in the Vietnam war spread today as top American military officials met to consider the significance of the slowdown and prospects for more withdrawals of U.S. troops.

Emphasizing the lull, the U.S. Command announced that the number of Americans and enemy killed in combat last week was the lowest since the first week of the year, while the number of South Vietnamese soldiers killed was the lowest in six months.

★ ★ ★

U.S. headquarters said 148 Americans were killed in action, well below the weekly average for the year of 243. Enemy dead totaled at least 2,051, the command said, and 352 government troops were reported killed.

Americans wounded last week totaled 1,612, slightly above the recent average. This was believed to be the result of a 30 per cent increase in the average daily number of contacts by small American units, but a predicted increase in battle deaths because of this did not materialize.

15 ENEMY SHELLINGS

Military spokesmen reported 15 enemy shelling attacks Wednesday night and today, with 10 of them causing damage or casualties. Two American installations were targets, including the U.S. 9th Infantry Division base at Dong Tam, but there were no American casualties.

In one of the few American ground actions reported, troops from the Americal Division's 11th Light Infantry Brigade killed six enemy Wednesday in an attack near Quang Nai City, 300 miles northeast of Saigon. U.S. casualties were two wounded.

★ ★ ★

Armored troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division reported killing nine enemy, with no casualties of their own, in a skirmish 35 miles northwest of Saigon.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported government troops killed 78 enemy in a series of small fights in the last day and a half, most of them in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, opened his first full day of conferences and briefings at U.S. headquarters at Ton Son Nhut Airbase outside Saigon.

Conferring with Wheeler were Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, and Adm. John S. McCain Jr., U.S. commander in the Pacific.

★ ★ ★

Wheeler, who arrived Wednesday on a trip that apparently was hastily arranged, is scheduled to spend part of the next three days visiting field locations and conferring with subordinate commanders.

It was believed that the top secret briefings here were concerned with two subjects: the fighting lull that is nearing the end of its fourth week and plans for additional troop withdrawals beyond the 25,000 covered by President Nixon's order.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Command reported Thursday that slightly more than 5,000 Americans have left South Vietnam since Nixon's order, with another 750 slated to leave Friday.

There was much speculation that the commanders were discussing reduction in the number or size of field operations being conducted. This was based on Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's comment to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that current strategy is under review.

Apollo Located for Telescopes

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Amateur astronomers might be able to see the Apollo 11 spacecraft tonight if their telescopes are strong enough to pick out the tiny craft against the black background of deep space.

Manned Spacecraft Center officials offered the following celestial coordinates — declination and right ascension — where the spacecraft is expected to be located. All are Michigan times.

★ ★ ★

9:32 p.m., declination 4.50N, ascension 170.88E; 10:30 p.m., 4.39N-171.06E; 11:32 p.m., 4.29N-171.24E; 12:32 a.m., 4.18N-171.41E; 1:32 a.m., 4.08N-171.58E; 2:32 a.m., 3.98N-171.74E; 3:32 a.m., 3.89N-171.89E; 4:32 a.m., 3.80N-172.04E.

The data tells how a telescope should be aimed, at the times specified, in order to get a fix on the spaceship.

The moon will not be visible in certain parts of the country during the Apollo 11 flight, officials said, because a launch time had to be selected which will place the astronauts at their landing site with the sun at the correct angle.

★ ★ ★

While on the moon, whose day is approximately 14 earth days long, the astronauts will be in an area close to the lunar dusk. The sun's angle is expected to be about 15 degrees above the horizon.

Camera Designed for Space Handling

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The tiny television camera Apollo 11 carries to the moon's surface is small and light, but it was designed for men with space suits on to handle

The camera weighs 7.25 pounds and draws 6.5 watts of 24-32 volts direct current power. Its scan rate is 10 frames per second at 320 lines per frame.

The camera body is 10.6 inches long, 6.5 inches wide and 3.4 inches deep. The lens mount permits a crewman in a pressure suit to switch between the two different lenses carried.

Pat Collins, wife of Apollo 11 command module pilot, Michael Collins, and their children, Mike, 6; Ann, 7; and Kathleen, 10, gather on the lawn of the family home near the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex., after the successful launch of Apollo 11 yesterday.

AP Wirephoto

"Pretty wonderful" is the expression registered by Joan Aldrin, wife of Apollo 11 lunar module pilot Edwin E. Aldrin, as she chatted with newsmen at the family home near the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex., yesterday.

AP Wirephoto

"I was very excited," relates Mrs. Neil Armstrong as she described watching the launching of Apollo 11 at Cape Kennedy yesterday. Her husband is scheduled to become the first man on the moon. She returned to her home near the Houston Space Center last night.

Janet Armstrong Feels Thrilled, Not Historic

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — It was almost dark in suburban El Lago where every lawn looks freshly mowed when Janet Armstrong and her deadtired sons arrived home Wednesday after a long, long day.

"I don't feel historic," she said.

Husband and father Neil traveled some 50,000 miles toward the moon in the Apollo 11 spaceship while his family spent five hours in a private plane flying 1,040 miles from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

★ ★ ★

Hardly had the car bringing them from the airport stopped when 12-year-old Eric and 6-year-old Mark piled out to go inside and to bed.

Eric, better known as Ricky, had planned to play in an allstar baseball game.

"I think you're too tired," said Janet Armstrong, as mothers will. Ricky didn't argue.

★ ★ ★

Early in the morning they had been aboard a friend's boat on the Banana River near the Cape Kennedy launch center, where the view is fine and the viewing is private.

"It was a tremendous sight," the wife of the command pilot said. "I was just thrilled."

She once summed up her philosophy about Armstrong's work as "what we can't understand, we tend to fear." She understands flying and the extremes to which her husband is taking his skill.

★ ★ ★

"For me, there won't be any celebrating until they splash down," Mrs. Armstrong said. She had good reason for holding off.

Armstrong was the pilot of Gemini 8, which had to make an emergency return three years ago when the spacecraft and the Agena rocket it had docked with began spinning wildly 100 miles above the earth.

Because she is one of the most publicity-shy astronaut wives, a protective screen has been thrown around Mrs. Armstrong. Space agency officials, who sent a protocol officer to meet her plane, told newsmen at the same time that they did not know when she was arriving.

The families of Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., Armstrong's fellow pioneers, stayed home at nearby Nassau Bay to watch the launch on television.

Friends and neighbors, almost all of them involved in the space program, dropped by with good wishes.

One visitor at the Aldrin home, Miss Mary Campbell, is a long-time associate of Joan Aldrin in the Clear Creek Little Theater.

She brought a big white "mission candle" mounted on a base of greenery.

It will burn for eight days, she said.

Until their husbands come back to earth.

Dear Mrs. Post: When a person is invited to attend a private funeral, is he free to take a spouse or other family member with him when no specific mention of such persons has been made? — Miriam Tucker

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Tucker: If the spouse of the person invited was also acquainted with the deceased, he or she might also attend the funeral service. If they had never met, however, the one invited should go alone. In no event should other members of the family attend without being specifically invited.

Balmy Weather Catches Hills Residents Relaxing

By SHIRLEY GRAY

Ah, those lazy, hazy days are here and the mood hereabouts is definitely low-key. The younger set, of course, is dashing about with the usual verve, but the folks seem to be very much in a book-and-hammock mood.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Perron of Bloomfield Hills, for example, are doing the next best thing to getting away from it all — staying home and relaxing and letting the kids do the getting! The two oldest, Frank, who will be 12 next week, and Peter, almost 11, are away at Camp Charlevoix. Day camping at nearby Roeper are Jeffrey, six and a half and Michelle, five.

CATCH BREATH AGAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Mills are also in a mood to just relax now that all the wedding fuss is over with. Ben Jr. and his bride of about a month are back from the honeymoon at Sea Island, Ga. and getting settled in a Troy apartment. Other son Robert is home for the summer — "just loafing," says Mrs. Mills.

The William J. Tehoys of Bloomfield Hills are homebound for the summer. Daughter Diana is getting all caught up on her socializing before going back to Oakland University this fall as a junior. Son William is putting everyone to shame with his regimen of summer school plus library work at the University of Michigan.

★ ★ ★

The Tony Spinas of Bloomfield Hills are keeping their noses to the grindstone while their three children follow various and sundry pursuits. Son Costan is in Russia, practicing his Cyrillic script and touring. Daughter Kathy is "candy striping" at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital. Her sister, Julie, after a trip to the Bahamas, is teaching an elementary group at Cranbrook's Summer Theater.

Abby Consults Her Hubby; Doesn't Offer His Services

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a faithful reader of your column and always enjoy it when you make a reference to your husband. Does he help you with your work? And if he does, I would like to ask a favor of you. Would you mind very much if I wrote a letter to him seeking some advice on my problem?

I do so need the help of a kind, gentle, intelligent man. With your permission of course, I could have a box number so we could correspond. I would appreciate this so much.

NEEDS A MAN'S ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: Occasionally I'll consult my husband for a man's viewpoint, but I'm careful not to overdo it lest I kill the goose that lays the golden eggs. Sorry, I can't offer you his services, but I'll be glad to serve as "Mrs. In-Between."

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 19, and Gloria is beautiful; but not just because she is mine. She was Homecoming Queen and got several other honors because of her looks. Well, Gloria got an engagement ring from Rick in May and they plan to be married, although no date has been set.

Gloria has been hearing that Rick has been running around with other girls, so she has been crying her eyes out. When she asked him if it was true, he said, "Sure, I just want to get it all out of my system before I get married."

Do you think Gloria should let him get away with this, or is this what men do nowadays. BIRMINGHAM

DEAR BIRMINGHAM: A man who is serious about marrying a girl gets everything "out of his system" BEFORE he becomes engaged. Gloria should give Rick the gate, and tell him not to come back until his system is drained.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I received two identical, lighted make-up mirrors as graduation gifts, but I didn't need even one, as I received one for Christmas last year.

A friend of my mother's KNEW I had a lighted makeup mirror because my mother has a big mouth, but she sent me one anyway.

Now I am wondering what I should say to this lady in my "thank you" letter? I would feel so insincere and fakey saying, "Thank you very much for the lovely gift. I will certainly enjoy using it, etc. . . ." knowing all the time that I will take it back and exchange it for something else the first chance I get. Also, this lady will probably know that I exchanged her gift. Can you help me?

GIRL GRADUATE

★ ★ ★

DEAR GIRL: Simply thank the lady warmly for remembering you so generously at graduation time, and make no mention of your plans for exchanging her gift.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: This might help that newlywed woman whose husband keeps making remarks about how pretty other women are, and what terrific figures they have.

I am a husband who used to do the same thing, and much as I hate to help out the other sex, I'll tell you how my wife cured me.

Whenever I made remarks about the desirable qualities of other girls, she would ignore them. But as soon as a goodlooking, well-built man would pass us on the street, she would rave on and on about how handsome he was. She'd do the same thing when she saw a good-looking man on television. Tonight and Friday at 8:30 p.m., the Meadow Brook Music Festival will introduce an amazing young Korean cellist, Myung-Wha-Chung, who will play the Tchaikovsky Variations on a Rococo Theme for both performances.

The program will include Mozart's Symphony No. 35 in D Major (K.385), the "Haffner" Symphony, Anton Webern's "Im Sommerwind," and Kodaly's "Peacock" Variations.

WEEKEND PROGRAM

On Saturday at 8:30 p.m., and Sunday at 6:30 p.m. pianist Maurizio Pollini will play the Prokofieff Concerto No. 3 in C Major. Ehrling has also programmed Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 2 in F Major and Carl Nielsen's Symphony No. 4 ("The Inextinguishable").

Create a colorful decor around the zodiac sign of the guest of honor. Stylists at International Silver Company chose the zodiac sign of Taurus the Bull for their gold electroplate pattern, Golden Navaho. The 23 Karat gold electroplated pattern symbolizes the Taurean's love for gold and his natural instinct to seek a bargain.

Rose patterned china and a bouquet of daisies complement the deeply carved roses and daisies of the new 1847 Rogers Bros. stainless pattern, Dubonnet, creating a Good Morning greeting to be remembered throughout the day. The Dubonnet pattern is also available with a 23 Karat gold electroplate finish for more elegant entertaining, known as Golden Dubonnet.

Silverware Patterns Reflect Many Eras

Newlyweds have to eat. In this more or less civilized land, they have to use utensils for eating.

There are various ways of obtaining said utensils. Some get hand-me-downs from parents. Some may assemble a set of silver-ware with coupons from box tops or trading stamps. Others patronize the nearest variety or discount may store. For all we know, a few do their buying at the currently popular garage sales.

Most young couples do make some sort of decision about their tableware. Manufacturers take advantage of this by introducing new patterns frequently, patterns that are geared to the times.

SIGNS OF TIMES

If the rage is all for Early American, you will see copies of Paul Revere designs and other colonial patterns. If Victorian is the big thing, tableware will reflect its fussy patterns. There was a period of stark modernism that brought out some rather ungraceful designs.

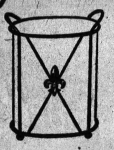

The current fad is goldware. It certainly isn't solid gold, but gold plated. By the same token, silverware is the term used, even though the pieces may be plated or even some other metal. Stainless steel, used frequently and beautifully by Norwegian designers, has become an acceptable type of tableware.

★ ★ ★

This week at the National Housewares Manufacturers Association Chicago show, new flatware is on display. Three of the patterns are shown here, reflecting the different trends in furnishings. All are available in jewelry stores and department stores.

Recommended for gourmet enthusiasts and weight-watchers alike, the European tradition of fruit, nuts and wine is coming into popular favor with contemporary American diners. Table stylists at International Silver complete the picture with their new stainless Mediterranean pattern, Romanesque. Deeply arched scrolls, each with a florentined finish, are silhouetted against a heavily oxidized background, bringing a dramatic interpretation of Mediterranean living into today's world.

Static Grounded by Newest Idea

Are you easily shocked? Well, here's good news for you. The old bugaboo of static electricty in your carpets has been grounded with a new technique of running stainless-steel fibers through the yarn which are indistinguishable in the finished carpet.

Another advantage resulting from reduced generation of static is the carpet doesn't attract or hold airborne dust to the same degree as ordinary carpet. It's easier to vacuum and shampoo.

It also increases the wear-life because abrasive particles are not ground into the face fibers where they cut and damage them.

Financial Tips for Prospective Boaters

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

If you're thinking about shopping for a boat this year — and for the first time — you may be wondering how to figure the cost of weekend fun for the summer. Commercial boatyards and Coast Guard Auxiliary veterans agree that the prices of small boats are up this year. They only disagree on how much the ante has been raised.

You'll hear that it's anywhere from 25 per cent to six per cent. When you simmer it down by checking around, it turns out to level at about seven per cent. Which means you'll need about $2,000 for a small boat with electric starting motor included, and 40 h.p. If you plan to do some water-skiing, better figure on more power — 55 h.p., says one vet — which could run up the price by about $300. This applies to a small boat, such as a 16-foot outboard, and generally fiber glass.

One boat yard which does a brisk business in a big metropolitan area says it handles only fiber glass because that's the demand these days. But there are still good wooden boats available. If you want to extend yourself to a 24-foot inboard-outboard, then you'd better plan for an outlay of about $2500.

GAS PRICES

Then comes the cost of the trailer if it's a small boat which you pick up and put down. One estimate is $300 to $400 for a new trailer. The theory is, the cost is worth it because it's best to take your small boat out of the water when you go home Sunday p.m., instead of leaving it to get its hull fouled, even if you park in fresh waters.

★ ★ ★

One experienced boatman, fresh and salt, has found that the family can have a summer afloat for less than $500 in operating charges. This includes gas — you might use from six to eight gallons per hour, and maybe at 35 cents per gallon, though it could cost you 45 cents. If you're buying gas along the way, you never know till you get there exactly what you're going to pay.

If you're in a high cost area, you could pay as much as $200 for a slip for the summer. If you're in a less expensive locale, it could cost half as much or less. Figure an extra $75 for insurance as tops, plus a few dollars for a license.

Coast Guard Auxiliary and U.S. Power Squadrons give free instructions in boat handling in classes held all over the country. Locate the one nearest you and take advantage of it. According to Past Division Captain E. I. Lewis of the Coast Guard Auxiliary, the best money-saving devices a boat owner can rely on are these: know how to handle your boat and keep it out of trouble — and keep it clean!

If you're wondering how risky it might be to pile your young teen-agers into a small boat for their first summer, let this reassure you: Past Division Captain Warren Hopp of the Coast Guard Auxiliary says a 14-year-old can prove to be one of the best boatmen on the water.

★ ★ ★

A sense of responsibility seems to come out in a youngster when he's had the proper training. So it could be that your summer vacation money also pays for a form of higher education.

Titus, painted by Rembrandt between 1655 and 1660 depicting the teen-age Titus as a Biblical shepherd or perhaps evangelist, is a bequest of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence P. Fisher left to the Detroit Institute of Arts. The prized painting has been newly cleaned for its special showing in the Great Hall of the museum through Labor Day.

Sitter Gives Advice

DEAR POLLY — I am a veteran baby sitter (six years) and would like to offer some suggestions to newcomers. To reassure a very young and apprehensive infant slip his mother's house coat or soiled blouse over your own clothing during his feeding. Often the scent is familiar and reassuring.

★ ★ ★

To gain interest of a protesting toddler do not press yourself upon him. Appear friendly but busy yourself with one of his toys. His natural curiosity will soon overcome any fear of hesitancy and he will seek you out. Sitters who are too pushy and overfriendly tend to scare or arouse a bit of stubbornness in a tot. Build up his trust and friendship gradually but firmly.

When sitting with the two-through-five group be sure you have gotten from the mother the usual bedtime routine. Disrupting the usual procedure causes insecurity.

There is no surer way to kill a child's trust than to threaten to report any misbehavior to the parents. If the youngster is unduly concerned over his parents' departure, take time to assure him they will return soon.

Such jobs can be obtained by distributing cards, through your church, and when you get one job the word will travel fast as good baby sitters are very much in demand. I have cared for over 66 children in 26 families. — TEEN READER

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — How does one remove a large blood stain from a mattress? The mattress and box springs were expensive and are less than six months old. In the past when I have tried to remove spots from things that could not be washed, they smeared and looked worse than before I started. — Mrs. F. J.

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — I use a juice can opener to de-vein shrimp and find it excellent because it is beveled correctly, is quicker and easier than a knife. — MAXINE

Sun Umbrellas Should Be Hosed

Sun umbrellas provide a dramatic impact of color and pattern for terrace, patio, beach, and poolside. Hammocks, one of the earliest accessories for outdoor living, permit lazing in shade or sunshine.

Easy care attends both. According to the Summer & Casual Furniture Manufacturers Association, sun umbrellas can be hosed with a detergent solution, rinsed, and then dried in open position. They should be closed during windstorms.

Hammocks can be machine-washed and then stretched on their own metal frames to dry wrinkle-free. Sun umbrellas are available in sizes from the small ones that clamp on chair backs, to large sizes, from 6 to 12 ribs.

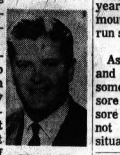

When refinishing furniture remember that hot vinegar will remove old glue. The same will remove paste from woodwork after paper hanging.

Dental Health

Use of Artificial Teeth Not Dental Utopia

By DR. HOWARD E. KESSLER

From the many letters sent in concerning denture problems, I feel that a large number of people have some false notions about artificial teeth.

KESSLER

Some individuals expect too much from dentures. They mistakenly imagine that once they get a full set of artificial teeth, they will be living in a dental utopia.

★ ★ ★

They think that they can sort of kiss their dentist goodby in a grateful way and never visit his office again. Usually this is far from being true.

★ ★ ★

Yes, modern dentures are wonderful. When properly worn, they act as if they are part of the person's body. However, the living body is in a state of constant change and this, of course, includes the tissues which support the dentures.

RISKS

Denture wearers who go for years without ever having the mouth checked by their dentist run several risks.

★ ★ ★

As the boney ridges shrink and change, the dentures sometimes dig in and chronic sore spots develop. As with any sore in the body, it is certainly not a good idea to leave the situation unattended.

Appearance can suffer too. Even when there are no sore areas, a new set of full dentures sometimes must be made in order to restore the patient's youthful appearance.

As the years go by, the boney ridges supporting the dentures sometimes settle to the point of bringing the person's nose too close to the chin. This often results in a witch-like appearance.

Sometimes the denture material itself will wear from years of constant, heavy use. People who expect their dentures to last forever would not expect other things, such as their shoes or their automobiles to last indefinitely.

★ ★ ★

Yes, denture wearers should return for regular checkups at whatever time intervals their dentist suggests.

Not All Are Workers

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE K-529: Betsy, aged five, entered kindergarten last term.

Her mother is Dr. Ursula Mitman, a physician located at Indianapolis, who is married to a cousin of mine.

DR. CRANE

Betsy attended school the first afternoon.

Next day her mother prodded Betsy into getting ready for kindergarten again.

"What!" exclaimed Betsy. "Don't I get a day off by this time?"

Betsy's attitude made her older brothers and sisters smile.

But Betsy's juvenile outlook is still shared by millions of adult workers who are proving headaches to American employers.

On a recent lecture tour of Michigan, I met one of the personnel directors of a large motor corporation.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "we try to cooperate with Uncle Sam's insistence that we offer jobs to all the people we can.

"But many a worker, after just one day at the plant, will then stay home just because he doesn't feel like working. And many can't even tell time!

"Or, if he finally lasts till payday, then he plays hookey, for he figures, 'I have money in my pocket, so why go back to work?'

"Taxpayers are thus being burdened with millions of dollars spent trying to teach simple mechanical proficiency to these people, yet much of the money is wasted.

"For they are either too stupid in I.Q. or too indolent and childlike even to get to work on time!

Or too juvenile to avoid Sunday night drunken sprees that produce absenteeism on Monday."

* * *

Along the same line, a prominent Ohio editor informed me that though his newspaper tries to distribute jobs on an impartial basis, there is a class of worker who remains chronically immature.

"For example," he began "an elevator operator may fail to show up on Monday morning, though there is a rush of other workers needing that elevator.

"Such an indolent operator will not even telephone us in advance so we can get a substitute.

"Again, some of the handlers in our mailing room will just stay home and tell their wives to phone us that they are sick.

"But it is strange we have never seen one of them sick on payday!

"These same workers who have hangovers on Monday from childish drinking parties or carousing on Saturday and Sunday nights never miss pay day!

"It is often costing far more money from taxpayers to try to train these untrainable men and women than it is worth.

MSU Frosh Allowed 'to Pledge' in Fall

EAST LANSING — Freshmen entering Michigan State University this fall will be able to take advantage of new regulations permiting early entry into Greek life, Mabel Petersen, assistant director of student affairs announced.

Beginning in September, she explained, freshmen may rush and pledge the fraternity or sorority of their choice in the fall, rather than waiting for winter term.

* * *

The fall rush will be the first since 1946. In that year, winter rush was instituted to give freshmen a chance to establish a good gradepoint before entering social life.

"However," Miss Petersen said, "Greek houses have a strong commitment to academics, and can offer tutoring, junior academic advising, and general support to the new freshmen. Greek life should not interfere with his studies."

She also hopes that early entry into Greek activities will help new students make a commitment to community service. Many sororities and fraternities work in community service projects, such as aiding blind students and contributing to arthritic and heart clinics.

"Greek life is more than social," Miss Petersen said, "but is an academic, socially-concerned organization."

Future freshmen girls may register for fall rush by writing Miss Petersen at 106 Student Services Building, MSU. Men should contact Mr. Edwin Reuling, 102 Student Services Building.

Says Tantrums Are Symptom of Disturbance

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — The kindergarten-age child who keeps throwing tantrums and beating up his playmates is exhibiting the tendencies of a future problem adult, according to Melbourne psychologist Dr. Isla Stamp.

Dr. Stamp said tests on the mental health of all kindergarten-age children were necessary because one young child in every four suffered from some sort of emotional problem.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Stamp, speaking at a World Psychiatric Association Symposium on Anxiety, said: "Children's problems range from serious emotional problems to minor psychological disorders. But many children will carry these into adult life when treatment will be more difficult."

★ ★ ★

Dr. Stamp discounted that the tantrum-throwing, fighting youngster was just an old-fashioned "naughty boy." He said the kindergarten class marked a vital stage in a child's life. It was here that the child had to meet the challenge of mixing with others and learning in a group.

May Lead to Father-Son Struggle

Franco Expected to Pick Heir

MADRID (AP) — Gen. Francisco Franco is expected to name Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon as his heir next Tuesday, setting the stage for a father-son struggle for the Spanish throne.

The 76-year-old chief of state announced Wednesday night that he was calling an extraordinary session July 22 of the Cortes, the Spanish parliament, "in relation to Article 6 of the Law of Succession of the chieftain of state."

* * *

Article 6 gives Franco the right to propose his successor—and to rescind the proposal at any time. He is expected to ask the Cortes to approve his nomination of the 31-year-old prince to become king and chief of state upon Franco's death.

* * *

Immediate approval of whatever Franco proposes is expected from the parliament.

GROOMED FOR DUTY

For 21 years the Franco government has groomed Juan Carlos to be king—since the prince's father, the Count of Barcelona, agreed to allow his son to be educated in Spain.

But Don Juan never relinquished his claim to the throne last occupied by his father, Alfonso XIII, who fled Spain in 1931 under pressure from the republicans and died in exile.

* * *

A source close to Don Juan, the 56-year-old dynastic head of his branch of the Borbon family, said recently that the father planned to fly to Madrid from his home in Estoril, Portugal, "within an hour" of Franco's death to make a personal bid for the crown.

* * *

Many Spanish experts see the expected nomination of Juan Carlos as a way of avoiding a politically perilous situation in the hours after Franco's death, but it may only set the stage for a family fight.

RIVAL BRANCH

The selection of either man also is expected to raise an outcry from the Carlists, who support the claim to the throne of Carlos Hugo de Borbony Parma, the pretender from a rival branch of the Borbon family.

Although Alfonso XIII abandoned his throne, Spain has never ceased to be a monarchy. But unlike other monarchies, the Spanish crown does not necessarily pass according to primogeniture, to the eldest son of the reigning monarch. It is handed on by the Cortes, and the only requirements are that the king be at least 30 years old, a Roman Catholic and of royal blood and must swear allegiance to the principles of the National Movement, Spain's only legal political organization under the Franco regime.

Parochiaid Foes to Push for a State Vote

LANSING (UPI) — A group strongly opposed to state aid to parochial schools has promised to put the question of parochiaid on the Michigan ballot in 1970 for the state's voters to decide.

* * *

Jay Wabeke of Grand Rapids, representing the Citizens to Advance Public Education (CAPE), yesterday revealed the group's plans for a petition drive to the governor's Commission on Education Reform.

* * *

The commission was holding the third of a series of three public hearings on education in Michigan.

* * *

Wabeke said the issue would be put on the ballot in the form of a constitutional amendment to specifically bar any state aid to parochial schools.

'65 PCT. OPPOSED'

"Our polls in Michigan now show about 65 per cent of the people are opposed to state aid to parochial schools," he said. "If we place it on the ballot, we will win with a majority which would be as high as three to one."

* * *

Wabeke said it would take some 400,000 signatures to place the issue on the ballot and that "nearly every professional education organization in the state has volunteered to help" secure them.

* * *

Wabeke said if parochiaid is placed on the ballot it would become "the one issue that every candidate will have to fish or cut bait on.

"They'll have to speak on this," he said, "and I think it would be a good, healthy thing, politically."

Spreen: 1st Year 'a Near Waste'

DETROIT (AP) — Johannes Spreen was quoted Wednesday as saying his first year as Detroit police commissioner was "almost wasted."

Spreen complained in an article in the Detroit Free Press of "all the time spent fighting for things that are needed for a professional police force."

"This city," he said, "can't get off the ground to give the police what they need."

* * *

He said the Detroit Common Council, for one, "didn't listen to me" on requests about improving the police department.

"Why? I'm appointed by the mayor and the council hates the mayor so much, maybe they have transferred it to me."

* * *

He also criticized New Detroit Inc., an organization begun after the 1967 Detroit riot to ease racial tensions. He said New Detroit refused the police department "$10,000 for 30 lousy scooters" for his neighborhood scooter patrol.

Elusive Actress Gives Rare Self-Profile

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Your life is its own epitaph," said Claire Bloom.

"Your work isn't. I'm afraid acting has no longevity. It ages and gets out of date in 10 years. It's like an echo you leave with other people. When they die, then you're dead."

* * *

This was a surprising admission from the British-born performer, to whom acting has been a lifelong passion since at the age of 5 she quit playing with dolls because she preferred to recite Shakespeare.

But trying to figure out Claire is like trying to work a Chinese puzzle blindfolded. She has been an enigma since she played Ophelia as a teen-ager and at 20 startled the film world by being picked over hundreds of other girls by Charles Chaplin to appear with him in "Limelight."

CLAIRE BLOOM

RECENT DIVORCE

She has retained a typical reserve about her recent Mexican divorce from Rod Steiger with whom she starred in her latest picture, "3 Into 2 Won't Go."

* * *

"I'm interested only in what the public thinks of my work," she said. "I couldn't care less what they think of me as a person."

* * *

Strikingly comely rather than arrestingly beautiful, the dark-haired actress was unusually self-revelatory during a recent luncheon at the 21 Club. Necks craned to watch her as she showed up in a French blue jumpsuit.

Under questioning, she said:

"I like to work in Hollywood, but don't like to live there. I'm too young to die."

BETTER AS NEUROTIC

"I've never played comedy except in Shakespeare. I'm better at playing neurotic women. But I'd love to do a romantic comedy film role."

* * *

"No, I don't think I'd really like to be in a Broadway musical. I don't feel I have that good a voice. I like to do things I can do best."

* * *

"My philosophy? I know it's very popular to have one, but I don't. I wouldn't dare call my disordered thoughts a philosophy.'

* * *

"When you're very young, you have terribly specific goals. Now I'd just like to take things easier and enjoy life more. It's terribly hard to find good things to do, but I like to think that the time between isn't wasted. There are so many things that enrich life. Every second is valuable."

NEVER GIVE UP

"My best quality? It's probably perseverance. I never give up on a thing once I start it."

* * *

"When I criticize myself, it's for my inhibitions. I won't tell you what they are, but their name is legion."

"My fears? I have periods when I'm afraid of everything, and periods when I feel strong enough to cope with anything. When I was a young girl and read Sinclair Lewis' 'Main Street,' I was afraid that I might be trapped in a situation I couldn't get out of. But I'll never feel that way again, because I've gotten so many things I've wanted.

"The things I like? People who are aware of what happens around them, who are open to anything, and who are good at their jobs—the color yellow because it's like the sun and makes me happy—mornings, before you start going downhill—reading, the greatest pleasure in life—baroque music—just plain quiet, the sound of silence—placid waters—the smell of herbs growing wild in Sardinia—the taste of white truffles cooked in Italy — shopping for soft, casual, comfortable clothes—the gleam of mellow gold jewelry—and men who are brighter and quicker than I am."

* * *

"The things I dislike are intolerance, because I'm intolerant but try not to be—fried foods, root beer and weak tea—the dreary smell of cabbage being boiled to death, because it symbolizes to me a whole sad way of life—the sound of street generators on a hot day—hack writing and semiclassical music—Christmas New Year's and birthdays—pompous people."

* * *

"If I live to be 90, I'd like to be staggering across a stage playing a nurse in a play by Chekhov."

Program of Mutual Help

AA Spells Understanding to Alcoholic

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second of three articles on alcoholism in Oakland County.)

By DIANNE DUROCHER

Twelve members of Alcoholics Anonymous sat at a long table in the basement of a church drinking coffee and talking about things of the past — the double scotches before breakfast, near escapes with death and trips to mental hospitals.

The room was cloudy with smoke when the talking ended. And each man appeared grateful for the knowledge that his problem was not unique. There was a relaxed feeling—a spirit of togetherness.

Some had been members of AA for many years, others had only been in the program for several days, but all exhibited a sincere desire to stop drinking, stay sober and help other alcoholics achieve sobriety. That is the only requirement for membership in Alcoholics Anonymous.

There are about 750 AA members in Oakland County. AA meetings are scheduled every night of the week in churches, community buildings or at the Alano Center, 1143 Joslyn.

COMMON PROBLEM

Members are from all occupational and social levels. They come together and help each other as humans with a common problem, say AA spokesmen. Each, however, has his own personal problems and reasons for excessive drinking.

Many members are able to stop drinking and never allow themselves the risk of taking one drink; others fool themselves into thinking that they can have just one — then regret it.

* * *

And the mutual help extends to others.

An affiliate of the AA program is Alanon, for the wives and husbands of alcoholics to help them understand the disease they have come to live with.

ATTRACTIVE BLONDE

"I began coming to Alanon meetings to help myself," said Shirley, an attractive blonde in her late 30s who is married to an alcoholic. Her husband, Bob, is an advertising executive and AA member.

"There have been times when he would come home drunk, after being out late, or gone for several days, that I actually wished he were dead," she said, speaking about her husband.

* * *

"At times, I contemplated killing him because I was so fed up," she added.

Now she regularly attends Alanon meetings and open AA meetings in West Bloomfield Township. During closed meetings, restricted to alcoholics, she talks with other Alanon members about the welcome changes in her husband and in herself since joining the AA program.

MANY PROBLEMS

Mrs. Francis Kessler, director of the alcoholism information center, said the spouses and children of alcoholics have almost as many problems as the alcoholic.

Wives can't understand why their husbands can't keep a job or occasionally becomes violent—and ask, "If he loves me, how can he behave this way?"

* * *

Mrs. Kessler refers them to Alanon.

The wives that really don't want to help an alcoholic husband will divorce him, she said. Occasionally men go to the center because they want their wives back and she suggests Alcoholics Anonymous to them.

ALTERNATIVE TO JAIL

Some area doctors and social agencies suggest Alcoholics Anonymous to heavy drinkers. A local district court judge recommends Alcoholics Anonymous to known alcoholics as an alternative to jail by putting them on probation and stipulating that they join AA and attend a specified number of meetings.

"We live alcoholism 24 hours a day and are available day or night to help anyone who expresses a desire for sobriety," said a local AA member.

Sometimes AA members are called by doctors or authorities to advise heavily intoxicated individuals or transport advanced alcoholics to hospitals for medical attention.

Since no hospital in Oakland County will admit an alcoholic under the diagnosis of alcoholism, AA members are forced to locate them in hospitals outside the county including St. Joseph's in Mount Clemens, Hurley Hospital in Flint and Brighton Hospital in Brighton. All have facilities for treating alcoholics.

TREATED, RELEASED

In cases where an alcoholic is physically ill because of excessive drinking, local hospitals will admit him on the diagnosis of the physical ailment. He is then treated and released.

AA members have a list of about five area physicians who will treat alcoholics without cost or for what they can afford.

In addition there are a handful of other doctors who have taken he time to treat alcoholic patients in the county.

A doctor at the Oakland Medical Clinic who treats alcoholics said, "I can treat an alcoholic who comes to my office because he is sick and maybe the next week, he'll return in the same condition."

'FRUSTRATING'

He added, "It is frustrating, but I consider it a challenge. I am always perplexed by the fact that some people can stop after having a few drinks and the alcholic cannot."

Alcoholism has been a little understood subject, but that's changing.

* * *

People no longer visualize a down-and-out bum when they hear the word "alcoholic" because statistics show that less than 3 per cent of America's 5 million alcoholics fall into that category, say experts in the field.

An alcoholic is just an average person with a super drinking problem who needs help.

The resources available to alcoholics in Oakland County—with an estimated 25,000 alcoholics—are the Oakland County Alcoholism Information Department; Alano Center in Pontiac; and Pontiac State Hospital, serving alcoholics who are mentally ill in nine counties.

For a Landing Sight

Here's Litter-ary Moon Marker

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For a long time I had some misgivings over spending $24 billion to land a man on the moon. But I no longer feel that way.

WEST

My reservations about the lunar program were swept away by this week's announcement that the Apollo 11 astronauts planned to deposit on the moon's surface a silicon disc bearing the names of 77 members of Congress and Vice President Agnew.

* * *

Even if nothing else were accomplished, this somehow would make it all seem worthwhile.

There remains, however, a sliver of doubt that the artifacts which the astronauts will leave behind when they return to earth are entirely adequate for the occasion.

TERRESTRIAL SOUVENIRS

In addition to the disc immortalizing the aforementioned lawmakers, the terrestrial souvenirs will include an American flag and a peace plaque.

I'm not suggesting these items aren't appropriate. But when you are planting evidence of man's first visit to the moon, you should make certain that future moon visitors will recognize it.

BEAT TO PUNCH?

What I'm leading up to here is the possibility that Russia may try to steal the credit from the United States with the unmanned vehicle it sent to the moon earlier this week.

That vehicle may well have contained a Soviet flag, a peace plaque and silicon disc bearing the names of 77 members of Soviet presidium.

* * *

Not knowing they were transported in an unmanned vehicle, future lunar explorers who discover these items could easily conclude that Russia beat the United States to the moon.

Now ask yourself this: When you go somewhere, how can you always tell whether someone else has been there already?

GUM WRAPPER

Answer: If man has been in that particular spot before, there will be a chewing gum wrapper lying around some place.

Very well. In order to make America's space feat unmistakably clear to posterity, NASA should have arranged for Neil Armstrong to drop a gum wrapper when he descends from the lunar module.

America's claim of having achieved the first moon landing could have been further protected by having Col. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. flick a cigarette butt into a nearby crater.

And just to be on the safe side, it might also have been wise to have equipped the astronauts with a popsicle stick and to have changed the wording on the plaque to read: "Kilroy was here."

Manager Named for Firm in Japan

DETROIT (AP) — Robert B. Whinrey, vice president of administration for the Warner Gear - Warner - Motive Divisions of Borg-Warner Corp. will assume duties as managing director of Aisen-Warner Ltd. in Japan early in August.

* * *

Aisen-Warner is a jointlyheld company formed by Aisen Seiki Co. Ltd. and Borg-Warner. The new company will produce automatic transmissions in central Japan.

'Emancipator' of Men: Women Okay, if...

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Kahlil Samra, the founder of SEAM, thinks women are okay, as long as they stay in their place.

SEAM? The Society for the Emancipation of the American Male. Some 100 strong, according to Samra.

* * *

Samra brought SEAM into being last April, after, he said, observing countless instances of family disorders that he believes were directly attributable to the increasing dominance of the female.

Samra admits to the adoption of a humorous approach in spreading the word of the founding of SEAM, but he adds:

"I think at the basis of most humor there's a good deal of seriousness.

STIMULATE DISCUSSION

"What we're basically trying to do is stimulate some discussion and to get people to think about this thing in terms of the family.

"We feel the family is worth preserving and if the feminists have gone too far then possibly this is one of the reasons why the family is being torn apart."

Basically, Samra says he believes that if there were more father-oriented homes there would be fewer problems with the children raised in them.

* * *

Samra, 38, who grew up in a Lebanese family where he said father was definitely boss, says SEAM has some female adherents.

"But," he added after a long pause, "they joined our ladies, auxiliary. We'd better make that clear. However, they pay the same, $5."

* * *

Samra apparently has failed, to some extent, in ridding his own home of feminine influence.

When a newsman asked him if he would permit his attractive wife, Kathleen, to be interviewed, he quickly replied:

* * *

"Just a minute an I'll ask her."

3 Given Posts by Milliken

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken Wednesday announced three appointments to the State Mental Health Advisory Council and State Employes' Retirement Board.

Mrs. Thomas J. Mudge of Marquette and Dr. Stuart M. Finch of Ann Arbor were named to the Mental Health Advisory Council for terms expiring May 6, 1973.

* * *

Mrs. Al Pickett of Lansing was appointed to the retirement board for a term ending July 31, 1972.

Electronics Firm Tells Appointments

JACKSON (AP) — Dr. W. Frank Cartwright has been appointed director of engineering for Sparton Military Electronics. George W. Cotter has been named the division's director of program management.

Donald N. Frazier will serve as director of industrial relations for the division of Sparton Corp.

William Lawrence, vice president of Sparton Corp. and acting president of the Military Electronics Division of Sparton said these appointments mark an important shift of the division's Jackson facility from a manufacturing-oriented plant to an advanced research and development center.

GOAL OF APOLLO 11 ASTRONAUTS — This oblique photograph of the moon looks generally northwest into the Sea of Tranquility, projected landing site for the Apollo 11 astronauts. The lower (nearest) linear feature is the Cauchy Scarp. The upper linear feature is the Cauchy Rille. The prominent crater Cauchy lies between the rille and the scarp. This picture was made from the Apollo 8 spacecraft last year.

Orbit Seen Likely for Moon Station

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once it has enough moon rocks for its scientific sandboxes, America may place a station in permanent orbit around the moon, ferrying explorers to the lunar surface for 14-day visits—rather than put a scientific base there.

And after the 10 trips now scheduled in the Apollo program, it may emphasize development of reusable space shuttles to reduce the cost of orbiting a vehicle from $500 a pound to $50 or even $5.

* * *

There also may be a few 28-day missions around the moon.

These, and other forecasts, come from Dr. Thomas O. Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Paine, 47, is a member of President Nixon's Space Task Group, charged with recommending by Sept. 1 what the nation's space goals should be in the next decade.

INTERVIEW EXCERPTS

Here are excerpts from an interview:

Q. What priorities will be recommended by the Space Task Group?

A. I think the space program we finally come up with has to emphasize both the immediate return to mankind here on earth in the form of applications, new science and new technology. And the further explorations of man's environment through the solar system.

The real question we're facing is what the ultimate moon program should be beyond the first 10 trips to the moon. Should we be thinking in terms of a space base on the moon, should we be thinking in terms of astronomy facilities on the surface of the moon, should we be thinking perhaps of a space station in permanent polar orbit around the moon?

It is a very difficult set of tradeoffs and decisions.

* * *

Q. Do you think something will come out of it, perhaps, like President Kennedy's space goals for the 1960 decade?

A. I think that the decisions that President Nixon announces will inherently be different because the times are different.

* * *

Q. What about progress on means of getting around on the moon, such as the pogo sticks that have been talked about?

A. It's very important that we develop the capability to travel on the surface of the moon. However, one of the things we feel would be very important here is to examine the possibility of locating a space base not on the surface, but about 50 miles above the surface.

Such a space station would cover every spot of the moon over a 14-day period. It would make it possible for us to descend to any spot on the moon, stay there for 14 days and wait for the base to come back overhead again.

A lunar base in orbit around the moon is a much better way of achieving mobility than a space haven on the moon, one actually located down at the surface.

Q. NASA has scheduled four moon landings this fiscal year and has hardware ordered for six more. Since the operational cost of each launch is about $69 millions, is there any possibility you won't want all the other six?

A. I think the only way we might be tempted to that is if the judgment should be a very sharply curtailed program combined with results of the first four trips to the moon which essentially indicated to us that we already fully understood the moon, that we found nothing of any surprising nature and that further trips would do no more than to confirm the suppositions we already have. To me this possibility is extremely remote.

* * *

Q. How long will the Apollo program last after the moon shot?

A. The Apollo program will last for several years. At the present time, we're planning between two and three launchings a year, and we're planning on the basis of ten round trips to the moon . . . This would take us up to about three years.

* * *

Q. You have more command modules than lunar landers. What do you expect to do with the others?

A. In doing the lunar missions we are looking at the possibility of some special flights. For example, one of the things we might want to do is a repeat, with much greater capability built in, of our Apollo 8 mission where we went into orbit around the moon.

This time, however, we may want to be in orbit a long enough time to cover the entire surface of the moon, maybe a 28-day mission. In doing this we would greatly increase the number of sensors that we carry along, so we would be able to have a lunar orbit mission without a landing mission which would give us a great deal of scientific return.

* * *

Q. On the drawing boards are earth orbit missions in which there will eventually be some 100 men and women working in a laboratory. Will these people be scientists, or pilots or both?

A. You are talking about our longer-range program, one under consideration. In our Apollo applications program we will take up three astronauts and have them joined by three more. Actually there would be a maximum of six men up.

But when we look forward to a space station, which could be brought on into launch status as early as 1975 or 1976, it seems clear that this would be a program that might start out with a dozen men in orbit, but as we added new modules to it over the next decade it would grow eventually into a space station that could by 1985 have as many as 100 men working.

SCIENTISTS INCLUDED

These would not be astronauts. These would be people who in my opinion would be some of the world's foremost scientists carrying on experiments in astronomy, in high-energy physics, in materials and processing under weightless conditions, very strong programs of biology and medicine under weightless conditions, programs looking back onto the earth studying the weather, the oceans, the atmosphere, resources, geology.

In addition it would be a way station for unmanned satellites which would be carried back and forth by a low-cost, earth surface-to-orbit shuttle. The vehicle would be piloted by astronauts, but it could carry perhaps as many as 10 passengers who would not be astronauts and not have to have astronauts' training. They would be scientists and engineers from all over the world best qualified to carry out the work there. They would be men and women and they would be American and European and other scientists.

* * *

Q. Will the Space Task Group have any recommendation on studies for lower cost per pound of putting a man into space?

A. Absolutely. One of the fundamental points of the second decade of space has got to be innovations that will drastically bring down the cost of space operations. And the space shuttle vehicle that I mentioned, capable of going from the surface of the earth into orbit and back again as a reusable vehicle, is one of the keys to low cost.

At the present time the lowest cost we have of putting a vehicle into orbit is a giant Saturn 5, and the cost of that is about $8,500 per pound. Now we're looking to the possibility with a reusable vehicle of getting this down to $50 and eventually possibly as low as $5 a pound although that seems somewhat remote.

The key to this is the ability to fly this vehicle up and back, refuel it and use it over again. And this is quite an engineering challenge to us.

How Will History See Apollo 11?

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — When the Apollo astronauts walk the surface of the moon, leaving the first mark of mankind in the dust of another celestial globe, what place will they take in the roster of the great explorers?

Will their feat be remembered as more daring than that of Christopher Columbus, who sailed into the terrors of an unknown sea and found a new world?

* * *

Will they rank higher in esteem than the many other brave men who faced fear, hunger and disease and succeeded against appalling odds in solving the secrets of far-flung corners of the world?

Only history can judge.

Certainly, when the boot of astronaut Neil Armstrong touches the lunar surface, it will mark one of the great evolutionary advances of life.

LIKE 1st STEP

"It will be like the first great step forward, when we came up out of the sea, learned to live on the land, and explored the earth," says Dr. Kurt Debus, the scientist who runs the Kennedy Space Center.

Many historians agree there is no accurate means of comparison between the astronauts and the heroes of a time when the earth concealed mysteries as intriguing as those now hidden in space.

* * *

With little support from their peoples and governments, with only their dreams to sustain them, these men sailed out across uncharted seas and disappeared for months, even years, into the void of the unknown. Many did not return.

But as the Apollo 11 astronauts left the earth, the whole world was with them in spirit every foot of the way.

COLLECTIVE EFFORT

And a team of many thousands who paved the way for this great odyssey is in almost constant contact with the spacemen, helping, advising, sweating out every maneuver.

"It is not a flight into the unknown," Armstrong said. "If achieved, it will be the end result of a staggering number of successes, one upon the other—the collective effort of a nation."

Astronaut Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., who will follow Armstrong in stepping down from the lunar module, adds that the spacemen cannot be compared with Columbus, who conceived the idea of his own personal saga and carried it out with his own drive, imagination and seamanship.

* * *

"My own opportunity came because I happened to be in an opportune situation," Aldrin says.

* * *

But the fact that the astronauts know where they are going, how to get there, and the precise point of the intended landfall does not mean that unknown perils do not lie ahead of them.

Moon Made of Green Cheese? You've Just Scratched Surface

(EDITOR'S NOTE — "O, swear not by the moon, the inconstant moon," said Shakespear, "that monthly changes in her circled orb." But America is banking on its constancy, planning on it for mankind's first human visit. Other poets have had other views such as Shelley, who called it "that orbed maiden with white fire laden, whom mortals call the moon.")

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Hey diddle-diddle, the cat and the fiddle, what on earth is the Moon?

A puzzlement.

Poets, high priests and piano pounders on Tin Pan Alley all have taken stands on the moon with notable lack of agreement. Only dogs seem to know what to make of the moon. They bay at it.

* * *

The moon, variously, has been something to change tides by, something to cure warts by, to worship pagan gods by, forecast weather by, dance in the light of by, compose sonatas by, go mad by, make love by, become a vampire by, skinny-dip by, make whisky by and wonder how it ever got so high in the sky by.

Back before Apollo was a spacecraft, back even before Apollo was a naked lyre-strumming god, man has gazed at the moon and wondered. How, for instance, did it get there?

FROM OLD SHOE?

The African bushmen think the moon belongs to the praying mantis who made it out of an old shoe. The Bomitaba tribe of the Congo dissent. They believe the moon once was a sun. Together they made earth too hot, so one day the sun suggested it and the moon go bathing. The sun faked a dive, the moon plunged in and was ever after quenched.

The story among Admiralty Islanders in the Pacific has been that the earth's first two inhabitants created the sun and the moon by throwing two mushrooms into the sky which, at that, seems better than lolling around eating poisoned apples.

Well, why is the moon spotted? More dissent. Scientists say it comes from light striking the craters and seas of the lunar surface.

Legend on New Guinea has it, however, that the moon was first hidden in a pitcher. Some curious boys, being boys, peeked inside, and the moon escaped. The spots came from the boys' handprints as they clutched vainly at the moon rising into the sky.

STOLE SOME LIGHT

The Zambezis of Africa believe, on the other hand, that the moon once stole some feathers of light from the sun which got even by throwing mud, causing the spots. The moon retaliates with occasional surprise attacks, which account for eclipses.

When Neil Armstrong becomes the first mortal to step on the moon, he will find a number of gods and lesser types have been there before him. According to Chinese myth, Hare lives on the moon in a large palace. So does the goddess, Ch'ang-o, wife of I the Excellent Archer who shot down nine suns one day with his bow and arrow when 10 of them turned up at once and threatened to shrivel the earth.

* * *

And Armstrong might find that the moon has dallied more than just turning on once a month. Under her name Myesyats in Slavic legend, she was a beauty who mated with the sun to produce the stars. When the couple didn't hit it off, there were earthquakes. And Henry Wadsworth Longfellow let it be known that the moon had a daughter, Nokomis, who lived in wigwam by the shore of Gitche Gumee which is light years away from the Sea of Tranquillity.

Apollo is only the latest in a long line of gods who have made the lunar trip. In ancient Egypt there was Thoth, pictured as a dog-headed ape or an ibis, who played draughts with the moon and won one-seventy-second of its light, wisely putting it to use by creating five extra days. Sin, an Assyro-Babylonian moon god, was a wise old man with a turban and a beard who rode through the heavens at night on a crescent, foiling evildoers with his light.

OTHER MOON GODS

Besides Sin—no composer so far has written "Shine On, Harvest Sin"—there have been such moon gods as Pah (Pawnee), Terah (Phoenician), tsuku-Yomi (Japanese), Mama Quilla (Incan), Hina, (Hawaiian) and Varuna Hindu who directs the circulation of water, the physical and moral world and is king of the dead because the moon is where the dead go.

While a Turkish tale says the moon is dark because its mother got tired of it trailing her around and threw a dishrag in its face, Americans seem to have these moon thoughts pretty much to themselves:

- A maiden who drinks white wine and rose water and looks through a silk scarf at the moon will see her husband-to-be.

* * *

- If a husband leaves his wife while the moon is waning, he will not be seen by her again.
- For good luck, bow nine times to the moon while shaking silver coins in the pocket.
- Kiss the first person you meet after you see the new moon and you will get whatever you wish for, but if you see the new moon over your left shoulder, you're in for trouble.

* * *

John Heywood, an Englishman, may have been one of the first to say, in 1546, that "the moone is made of a greene cheese" but it is thought he referred to the shape and color of a new, or green, wheel of cheese.

And Englishmen, not American mountaineers, apparently were the first to make hooch while the moon shone. Moonshine is a word listed in 1785 to describe brandy smuggled into Britain by the dark of the you-know-what.

A'LOT TO SAY

And that wordy Englishman, William Shakespeare, probably has had as much to say about the moon as anyone prior to Apollo Control. From his vantage on earth he landed hard on the moon, calling it "inconstant," "cold," "fruitless," "pale-faced," and "an errant thief" that "makes men mad."

Yet another English poet, William Blake, came out for the brighter side of the moon, telling posterity it "sits and smiles on the night." Thus does lunar opinion wax and wane.

* * *

Such moonologues bored Mark Twain. "War talk by men who have been in war is always interesting," he said, "whereas moon talk by a poet who has not been in the moon is likely to be dull."

Twain also wrote: "Everyone is a moon and has a dark side which he never shows to anybody." This modesty doesn't apply to America's songsmiths who have written enough moon music to reach there and back including:

"— Glow," "— River," "— over Miami," "How High the —," "By the Light of the Silvery —," "Shine On Harvest —," "That Ol' Devil —," "I Wished on the —," "What a Little — light Can Do."

Spread Biscuit Roll Up to Bake

Hungry for old fashioned chicken a la king? Whip up its classic flavor with this modern recipe. Use the convenient ones . . . tasty chicken spread, quick biscuit mix, a la king sauce, and slivered almonds for speedy preparation.

Wrap the flavorful chicken spread in an easily made biscuit dough, jelly roll style. Seal edges, slit top, and bake for 25 minutes.

CHICKEN-IN-A-BISCUIT ROLL

2 cups biscuit mix
⅔ cup milk
2 4¾-oz. cans chicken spread
2 2-oz. pkgs. a la king sauce mix
Slivered almonds

Prepare biscuit mix according to package directions for rolled biscuits, using ⅔ cup milk. Roll into 10x12-inch rectangle on floured board. Spread with chicken spread.

Roll up, beginning at wide side. Seal by pinching edge of dough into roll. Place sealed side down on greased baking sheet.

★ ★ ★

Make slashes on top about every ¾-inch to let steam escaped and to indicate where roll will be sliced to serve. Bake at 425 degrees F. for 25 minutes.

Prepare sauce according to package directions. Slice roll at slashes and serve with hot sauce, sprinkle with slivered almonds. Makes 12-14 ¾-inch thick slices and 2 cups of sauce.

Fill All Cups

If a muffin recipe does not fill all the cups in your muffin tin, put a few tablespoons of water in each of the empty cups. This helps prevent the pan from warping from uneven temperature. The water keeps the rest of the muffins moist.

Seasoning Mix Flavors Salads

Seasoning counts especially in an oil and vinegar salad dressing. Have you ever found yourself saying, "That's just the right amount of seasoning."?

Then, when you try to find out what that right amount is, you're disappointed. Someone else's seasoning always seems to taste better than your own.

Believe it or not, it is possible to find that right amount of seasoning. The secret is a subtle blend of flavors found in Rich Brown Seasoning and Broth. Add this to the usual amount of oil and vinegar. Shake well and serve on a salad.

★ ★ ★

A seasoned oil and vinegar dressing can be the foundation for many types of salads; such as: a tossed green salad, cold German potato salad, or vegetable salad.

The only flavor variation you might find will come from the type of oil used.

SEASONED SALAD DRESSING

½ cup oil
3 tablespoons vinegar
3 packets Rich Brown Seasoning and Broth
1 tablespoon instant minced onion

Mix all ingredients together in a jar and shake well. Pour over tossed greens, or potato salad.

Cold German Potato Salad

4 lbs. tiny new potatoes cooked, sliced
2 cups celery, sliced
Seasoned Salad Dressing

★ ★ ★

Mix potatoes and celery together in a bowl. Optional — add 2 grated carrots and 3 diced hard cooked eggs. Pour seasoned salad dressing over ingredients and toss thoroughly. Serves 6 to 8.

Tossed Green Salad

1 head endive lettuce
1 cup cherry tomatoes, cut in half
1 cucumber sliced
2 onions sliced

Mix lettuce, tomatoes, and onions together. Toss with seasoned salad dressing. Serves 6 to 8. Optional — add sliced radishes, ½ cup chick peas, ¼ head of shredded red cabbage.

Poached Plums Are Summer Specialty

If you like the tart flavor of Santa Rosa plums, you'll enjoy this dessert.

Poached Plums

6 Santa Rosa plus, about 1 pound
½ cup sugar
¼ cup dry red wine (burgundy)
¼ cup water

Wash plums. In an 8-inch skillet with a dome cover, over moderately low heat, stir together sugar, wine and water until sugar dissolves; bring to a boil. Add plums; cover and simmer until half cooked — about 8 minutes.

★ ★ ★

Turn and simmer, covered, until plums are very soft but still keep their shape—about 8 minutes. (Skins will crack.) Chill. The plums will taste tart and the syrup sweet. Makes 3 servings.

CHICKEN-IN-A-ROLL — Create an old fashioned classic! Pair the moderns . . . delicious chicken spread and quick biscuit mix to bake a tasty Chicken Biscuit a la King with ease.

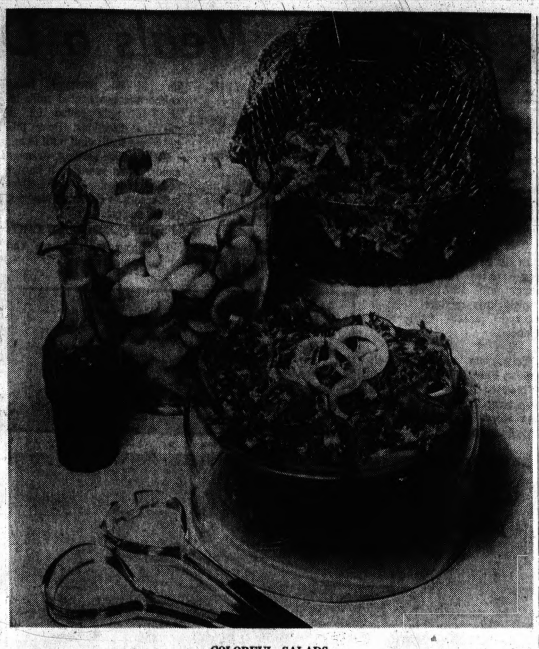

Work Less to Buy More Food Today

Fifty years ago, the average factory worker earned 47 cents an hour. Since then, wages have risen 542 per cent.

In the same period, the total cost of a basic food market basket of a dozen items has risen only 68 per cent.

Put another way, an hour's work today buys four times as much butter or bacon as in 1919.

Slighty dryish tuna or salmon salad with no salt is delicious dished up between big potato chips, and it, too, travels well.

COLORFUL SALADS

Sliced Beets Are Part of Zippy Gelatin Salad

Like borscht? Then you'll like this molded salad that's just right for a warm night.

Jellied Beet Salad

½ cup cold water
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 can (1 pound) sliced beets
¼ cup red wine vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup diced celery
Salad greens and sour cream

Into a medium mixing bowl, pour the cold water; sprinkle gelatin over it and allow to soften. Turn beets into a strainer set over a pint measure to drain. Dice beets there will be 2 cups.

★ ★ ★

To beet liquid (about 2-3 cup) add add enough water to make 1 cup. Heat beet liquid until almost boiling; add to gelatin; stir to dissolve. Stir in vinegar, sugar and salt. Chill until slightly thickened; fold in beets and celery.

Turn into six ½ cup molds or custard cups. Chill until set. Unmold; garnish with greens and top with sour cream. Makes 6 servings.

Smash a hard peanut toffee candy bar in its wrapper, fold into whipped cream and spoon over halved fresh nectarines in dessert dishes.

Spoon Relish to Suit Taste

Here's a party for the young and young-at-heart alike. As today's parties stress informality and little work, this one starts at the local drive-in where cheeseburgers and French fries are bought and then rushed home for the party. Keep them hot until the crowd storms your front door.

★ ★ ★

To accompany the carry-out cheeseburgers whip up an assortment of relishes.

For example: Hawaiian which features pineapple and bacon with a bit of soy sauce; Ole! which teams sliced stuffed olives and chili sauce; and Americana which is a perfect blend of onions, mustard and pickle relish.

HAWAIIAN RELISH

½ pound bacon
1 cup drained crushed pineapple
½ teaspoon soy sauce
½ teaspoon vinegar

Cut bacon into small pieces. Fry until crisp. Drain and crumble into small bits. Combine with other ingredients. Makes 1½ cups.

AMERICANA RELISH

½ cup chopped onion
½ cup yellow prepared mustard
¼ cup sweet pickle relish
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine ingredients to make 1 cup.

OLE! RELISH

¾ cup chili sauce
½ cup sliced stuffed olives
½ cup sliced green onion tops

Combine ingredients to make 1¼ cups.

Soak First

If you use garlic in your cooking, try soaking the garlic buds in cold water for several hours. You will find you can peel off the skins easily without getting odor on your hands.

Summer Pies Give Meals a Delicious Finale

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor,
The Pontiac Press

To conclude a summer meal, you want something cool and light. Certain kinds of pie fill that requirement. Light fruit pies, or frozen creamy ones will do. Ice creams are delicious.

Sample one or more of the recipes here and repeat your favorites often.

* * *

A fine dessert to start with is creamy and lucious Frozen Lime Pie. The recipe makes two pies.

Foil pie plates and pans, sold in food markets are excellent for use with all desserts intended for freezing since aluminum speeds freezing by quickly drawing the heat from the food.

* * *

Serve one of these desserts the same day and keep a second on hand in th freezer for a special occasion.

FROZEN LIME CREAM PIE

Crust:

22 graham cracker squares or 1 cups graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup softened butter or margarine
¼ cup granulated sugar
⅔ cup finely chopped pecans
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Butter two 9-inch foil pans.

Crush crackers with rolling pin or in the blender. In bowl, blend crumbs with softened butter and sugar, then add nuts and cinnamon.

* * *

Divide crumb mixture into two 9-inch pie pans (about 1¼ cups in each). Pat mixture evenly on bottom and sides. Set an 8-inch pan on top of crumbs and press firmly.

Remove smaller pan and bake crusts at 325 degrees for 10 minutes. Cool.

Filling:

6 eggs, separated
1 cup granulated sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons grated lime rind
½ cup fresh lime juice
1 pint heavy cream, whipped

Place egg yolks in top of double boiler, add ½ cup sugar, salt, lime rind and juice. Beat until blended; then cook over hot water until mixture coats metal spoon and is smooth and thickened. Chill thoroughly.

* * *

In large mixing bowl, whip egg whites with remaining sugar until stiff. Fold in the cooled lime mixture, then the whipped cream until well blended.

* * *

Turn into the two cooled crusts. Freeze until firm (about 4 hours). If not served same day, wrap in foil, sealing tightly and store in freezer. May be kept 6 weeks.

COFFEE CREAM PIE

2 packages (3¼ oz. each) vanilla pudding and pie filling mix (not instant)
2½ cups strong cold coffee
1 tall can (1⅔ cups) evaporated milk
1 baked 9-inch pie shell
Candy coffee beans (optional)
Whipped cream (optional)

Prepare pudding-pie mix as directed on package, using coffee and evaporated milk instead of milk called for in package directions. Pour into baked pie shell; chill until firm.

Right before serving, arrange candy coffee beans in a border around edge of pie. Swirl whipped cream in center, if desired. Makes one pie.

PINEAPPLE SUMMER TART

1 (1-pound 4½-ounce) can pineapple tidbits
1½ tablespoons arrowroot*
2 tablespoons sugar
Dash salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon almond extract
1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese
¼ teaspoon vanilla
Butter Crumb Crust
Strawberries for garnish
1 tablespoon chopped macadamia nuts

Combine undrained pineapple with arrowroot, 1 tablespoon sugar and salt. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture boils and clears. Remove from heat and stir in lemon juice and almond extract. Cool.

* * *

Blend softened cream cheese with remaining 1 tablespoon sugar and vanilla. Spread in bottom of Butter Crum Crust. Turn pineapple mixture over cheese. Garnish with halved strawberries and chopped nuts. Makes (9-inch) tart.

BUTTER CRUMB CRUST: Blend together 1 cup unsifted flour, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar and ½ cup soft butter with hands until mixture holds together. Pat evenly on bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate. Prick well with fork.

Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 10 minutes until lightly browned. Cool.

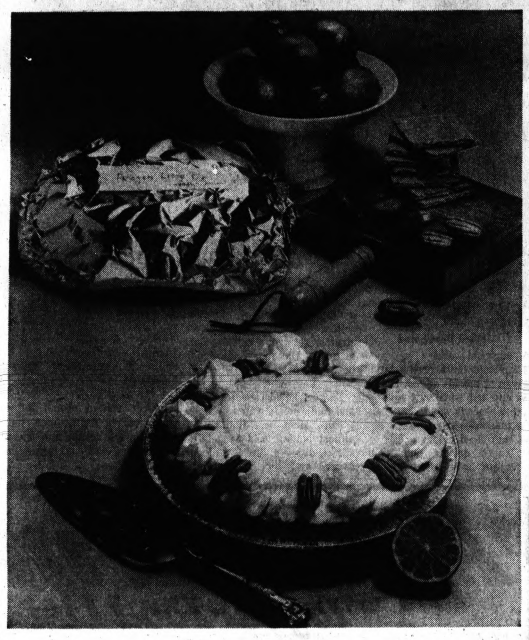

*Arrowroot is a thickening agent. You can find it with spices. If you wish to substitute use 3 tablespoons of flour.

FROZEN LIME CREAM PIE

Use Pretzels for Crust of Frosty Pie

Ever use pretzels to make a pie crust? Sounds dizzy but tastes great — crunchy, not too sweet and certainly different.

PRETZEL-CHOCOLATE-ICE-CREAM PIE

One pakage semisweet chocolate pieces,
5 marshmallows cut in bits,
¾ cup pretzel crumbs,
1 tablespoon shortening,
2 to 3 pints vanilla ice cream,
½ cup chocolate syrup

Melt chocolate pieces in top of double boiler over rapidly boiling water. Add marshmallows and stir until blended. Add pretzel crumbs. Blend. (To make crumbs roll pretzels with rolling pin between two layers of waxed paper).

* * *

Grease and 8 or 9-inch pie plate with shortening. Pack pretzel-chocolate mixture firmly to bottom and sides of pie pan and let stand until firm.

* * *

When ready to serve, fill with ice cream and top with a drizzle of chocolate syrup.

PRETZEL CRUMB PIE

One package semisweet pretzel crumbs,
¼ cup granulated sugar,
¼ cup melted butter or margarine.

* * *

To make crumbs, roll pretzels between two layers of waxed paper. Stir in sugar. Add melted butter and mix thoroughly.

* * *

Press mixture firmly on bottom and sides of lightly greased 9-inch pie plate. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 12 minutes. Cool. Fill with lemon pie filling and top with meringue.

Summer Relish Comes From Jar

Everyone's summertime favorite is a cool delicious cucumber but perhaps you'd like a new variation. Combine 1 cup peeled, diced cucumber with one 4½ oz. jar baby strained cottage cheese with pineapple.

* * *

Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon chopped onion and a dash of salt then chill. Voila! A relish that will complement any summer menu.

Vegetable Relish Is Popular Item

Here is a new version of the popular bean salad. It calls for carrots too.

TWO-BEAN AND CARROT RELISH

½ cup each sugar, salad oil and cider vinegar
1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon white pepper
2 medium-small onions, finely chopped (½ cup)
1 small green pepper, finely chopped (½ cup)
1 can (1 pound) dilled green beans, drained
1 can (15 ounces) red kidney beans, drained and rinsed in cold water
1 can (1 pound) julienne carrots, drained

Into a shallow container (at least 1½-quart size) turn the sugar, oil, vinegar, salt, pepper, onion and green pepper; with a fork, beat well.

Add green beans, kidney beans, carrots; mix gently but well. Cover tightly and refrigerate for 6 hours or overnight to allow flavors to blend. With a slotted spoon, remove to serving dish.

Makes about 5 cups — 8 to 10 servings.

An ordinary vegetable parer, such as you use to peel potatoes, is an ideal tool for grating chocolate or cheese.

GAZPACHO — "With garlic to taste," is the advice for good Spanish cold soup given by Mrs. Joseph Urla of Parkinson Street. Mrs. Urla has been volunteering her services to Reading for the Blind, Inc. for the past three years.

Spanish-Born Volunteer Shares Cold Soup Recipe

With five children to raise, an engineer-husband to look after and a large tri-level house to keep, Carmen Urla still finds time to teach Spanish at Oakland University and read for the blind as well.

Most of her reading is for the benefit of university language students, but she is the kind of person who's interested in everything.

Don't ever get her started on politics or Spain, 'else you might find yourself outclassed on the issues.

And, as for the lack of recognition given Spanish cultural achievements, well, it's best to steer clear of that subject entirely. She is also pretty verbal on the lack of teaching Spanish as a second language here in spite of the fact that we are such close neighbors to South America and Mexico.

Forced by the lack of money and opportunity in Spain, she and members of her family left Granada, Spain in the '40's and came to Mexico. Later, she was offered a teaching assistant position at University of Illinois where she met her husband.

Following a year or so in Detroit, the family moved to the Pontiac area.

Most of the "Readings" she works with are Spanish literature plays, novels and the like. One young woman she has taped for during the past three years will begin teaching this fall in an area high school.

Mrs. Urla shares a favorite recipe with readers of The Press. This is perfect weather for cold soup and her Spanish version is a good one for a starter.

GAZPACHO

1 clove garlic
½ teaspoon salt
½ green pepper
1 medium tomato
½ cucumber
¼ onion

Blend in blender for 5-10 seconds. Then add:

½ cup olive or other salad oil
2 cups dried bread crumbs

Then add:

½ teaspoon vinegar
water to taste

Potato Chips an Asset to Ramekin Eggs

One type of entertaining which is often overlooked by many people, and yet which offers an opportunity to ask your friends to come and bring the children, too, is the "Brunch."

This kind of hospitality, most of us remember from our own childhood, makes us feel very much at home. This is true for the children as well as the adults. Letting your children play host to their own guests teaches them the social graces, and permeates families with a wonderful feeling of warmth and security.

★ ★ ★

The Potato Chip Institute International feels that entertaining should be fun for everyone involved . . . even the cook. Therefore, from their kitchens here's a family-pleasing brunch recipe that can be prepared at a moment's notice with staples from your cupboard:

EGGS ENCOCOTTE

Potato Chips
Butter
Stuffed Olives
Eggs
Heavy Cream
Cream of Celery Soup

Line individual well-buttered ramekins with overlapping potato chips and brush with melted butter. Put large buttered chip on bottom.

★ ★ ★

Beat 2 chopped stuffed olives, 1 whole egg, 3 tablespoons of heavy cream into an undiluted can of cream of celery soup. Spoon a little into each ramekin. Slip an egg onto the sauce and cover with more sauce.

Sprinkle thickly with finely crushed potato chips. Bake at 375 degrees for about 8 minutes.

Pastry Circles Hold Zippy Ham Filling

Deviled Ham Tarts make a delicious after-school snack or may be served as an accompaniment to soup or salad or both.

Mix one can (four and one-half ounces) deviled ham with one package (three ounces) cream cheese, one teaspoon prepared mustard, and one-half teaspoon horseradish.

Prepare enough pastry for a two-crust pie, then chill. Roll to one-eighth inch in thickness and cut into three-inch circles. There should be 48.

Place one teaspoon of the deviled ham filling on each pastry circle, then fold pastry in half and crimp edges. Prick pastry with a fork.

Place on an ungreased cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown.

Lots of Tomatoes in Mexican Dish

Serve a green salad with this quick Mexican-inspired dish. Remove parchment from tamales in a 15-ounce can; cut tamales into 1-inch pieces. Combine tamale pieces with 2 cans (8 ounces each) or 1 can (15 ounces) tomato sauce with tomato bits, 1 can (15 ounces) chili with beans and 1 package (10 ounces) frozen corn. Simmer 30 minutes.

Garnish with 1 cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Opening lead—♠8

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

A letter from Florida reads in part: "My partner opened the eight of spades against the six-heart contract. I covered dummy's 10 with my queen as a rather hopeless false card. South won the trick with the ace, drew trumps and led the nine of spades through me.

I covered with the jack, whereupon he won that trick with the king. He noted that my partner's seven had dropped.

★ ★ ★

"South went back to dummy, led another spade and finessed the four against my five. He discarded dummy's queen of diamonds on the six of spades and wound up with an overtrick. What do you thing of my partner's opening lead?"

Our answer is that it was most unfortunate. It handed South the slam and overtrick on a silver platter. South might still have handled the spade suit that same way without the spade opening but we doubt it. We must conclude that the spade lead cost East and West over 1,500 points.

It is our considered opinion that it was a bad lead. The bidding again in the box is as given by our correspondent and West should have realized that South's spade bid was really showing spades and not designed to stop a spade lead. Furthermore, West had a fairly natural trump lead. He really couldn't be hurting his partner and for all he knew any other lead might.

♠♥CARD Sense♦♣

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	1♥	Pass	2♣
Pass	3♣	Pass	3♥
Pass	4♥	Pass	?

You, South, hold: ♠AK984 ♥Q65 ♦AK104 ♣2

What do you do now?

A—Bid five diamonds. Your partner is showing no enthusiasm but your hand is worth another bid.

Red Turns Pink, Raises Hue at Jokes off-Color and Blue

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Red Skelton recounted in 21 how he staggered out of Toots Shor's one night, astonishing his wife, Georgia.

"But Red," protested his wife, "you don't drink—you weren't drinking."

"I don't want to give Toots' bar a bad name," said Red.

Red prefers that humor to the filth that's getting common.

Red's New York visit enlivened our town. Soon to be starting his 19th year on CBS-TV, he denied Enzo Stuarti's claim that he has seven Rolls Royces.

"Dirty rat! it's only five," he said. "We know a lot of people that visit Palm Springs and we let 'em have a car to drive."

★ ★ ★

He gets up at 5 a.m. daily, writes his wife a love letter, composes some music (he has copyrighted 50,000 compositions), paints and reads—"We're on a Thackeray kick now," he says.

★ ★ ★

Red's against smut and blue material. He remembers that when he was in burlesque and only 17, he discovered that a joke that he'd been doing for weeks was dirty.

"I quit. I never went back. Maybe I'm a prude. Maybe I'm too Indiana. I don't know."

Jacqueline Onassis' 40th birthday is coming up July 28. Several of my clever readers are suggesting gifts for the woman who has almost everything . . . Pro football circles are gasping about rumors of a wife-borrowing by one of its already marrieds . . . Restaurateur Artie Schindler said at a birthday luau for his year-old daughter that in a few years there'll be no more individually owned restaurants. They'll all be chains . . . Discount Peril of 'Moon Bug'

ABOARD THE USS HORNET (AP) — The only two men to be exposed to the Apollo 11 astronauts after they return to earth say the possibility of contamination by "moon bugs" is negligible.

Dr. William Carpentier, 33, Lake Cowichan, B.C., Canada, and John Hirasaki, 28, Vidor, Tex., are the National Aeronautic Space Administration men assigned to spend three weeks quarantined with the spacemen.

The isolation is to be sure the Apollo men did not pick up moon organisms that could threaten earth's inhabitants.

"The risk of bringing something back is very small," said Carpentier, the physician who will conduct tests on the astronauts.

"I consider the risk low enough," said Hirasaki, project engineer who helped design the quarantine facility and will operate its systems during the quarantine period.

Rights Hearing Is Adjourned

A Circuit Court hearing in the case of a black Pontiac fireman suspended for four weeks because his moustache is too long was adjourned yesterday until 9 a.m. Tuesday by Judge Arthur E. Moore.

The fireman, Frederick Milton, seeks in a writ of mandamus to be reinstated and charged Police Chief Charles D. Marion enforced a grooming code against him for racial reasons. Milton said the chief acted after a complaint was lodged about an "Impeach Judge Crockett" petition which had been posted in the main fire hall.

Chief Marion has admitted he signed such a petition, but denied knowledge of it being posted on the bulletin board. The chief was away on business at the time.

The other black fireman on the 147-man force, Daniel Sowell, also moustachioed, was suspended Monday.

HOUSING LITERATURE

Chief Marion said today he was not the person accused of having participated in distributing literature opposed to fair housing before last June's election.

The accusation was made at Tuesday's City Commission meeting by an official of the Pontiac Firefighters Association speaking in defense of the two black firemen.

Firefighters Treasurer Allen Watts had told the commission an assistant chief, but not the chief, had used a fire vehicle to haul the literature and had brought it into the station, Marion pointed out.

U.S. Says Marine Deserter Planned Miniwar on Haiti

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Charles Smith is a U.S. Marine who has spent most of his time of late in jails and jungle camps. The U.S. government says he has been trying to launch his own miniwar.

In the past five months, Smith has been a deserter twice, charged with murder once, arrested in a secret jungle training camp and accused of trying to invade his homeland—the Caribbean island nation of Haiti.

★ ★ ★

The Marine Corps says Smith—still a private first class after four years in uniform—has deserted three times.

Now he is in the Dade County Jail at Miami, charged with conspiracy to launch a military expedition against a friendly country—Haiti.

Smith and eight other men are charged with attempting to invade Haiti, the country where Smith was born 21 years ago. And Haiti has been connected with all of his recent brushes with the law.

The latest episode began when a carbine-carrying posse followed a dead man's trail deep into the Florida Everglades last March 13. Monroe County Sheriff Robert Brown said the officers found 12 heavily armed men training with live ammunition in a jungle camp.

★ ★ ★

A day before the raid, Florida Highway Patrol troopers, answering a telephoned report of a shooting 50 miles deep in the swampy wilds of the Everglades, stopped a car carrying Gerald D. Baker, a Haitian who had been shot in the chest. He was dead on arrival at a Miami hospital.

★ ★ ★

Deputies swarmed into the area. Smith and the 11 other men surrendered without a fight. The posse seized 16 pistols, 16 rifles and a collection of knives.

'KILLER UNKNOWN'

A coroner's jury empaneled in the Florida Keys ruled Baker was killed "by a gunshot wound by a person or persons unknown."

Monroe County Detective Sgt. A. C. Vidal testified at the hearing that Baker was shot during a practice skirmish at the exile guerrilla training site.

★ ★ ★

Smith was handed over to the Marine Barracks at the naval air station in Key West. He traveled through a series of brigs to Camp Lejeune where he had been missing since February. Smith arrived at the camp at 5:40 p.m. last April 10. Less than eight hours later he was gone again.

"He was in handcuffs and he dove through a window," Capt. Steve Illes said.

"He took off running through the swamps and woods. We've got 110,000 acres of swamps and woods. It's pretty hard to find anyone. The base does not have a fence around it."

DID CIA HELP?

A source close to the Haitian exile colony in this country said he was told the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency helped Smith escape.

In Miami an agent of the CIA, when asked about reports Smith was involved with the American spy agency, responded: "That's something you're likely to hear at any time about anybody about anything. But I can make no statement."

★ ★ ★

At Lejeune, the Marine Corps' principal recruit training depot, Illes found nothing unusual about the incident.

"They just let him go," he said of the guards. "They'd just holler halt, halt, halt and at that time of night—especially without a weapon—they wouldn't even pursue."

Smith disappeared from public view until June 4 when he and nine other men—all garbed in flying suits—strode from a bullet-riddled plane that landed at an American missile tracking station on Grand Bahamas Island. The plane was almost out of fuel. The men were arrested.

The shot-up plane that landed in the Bahamas was similar to a four-engine Constellation that a few hours earlier dumped six barrels of gasoline with burning fuses on Port au Prince, Smith's home town. Only one of the drums exploded. The Haitian government said two adults and a 6-month-old child were killed.

★ ★ ★

One of the barrels landed in the courtyard of President Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier.

A source close to the raiders said the plane began its mission from Miami, landed on South Caicos Island at the southeastern tip of the Bahamas and then made its run on Port au Prince.

ONLY DRY RUN

The source said the raiders were only on a dry run to prove to unidentified financial backers "that it could be done."

Officials at the U.S. missile tracking site said the plane which landed there was riddled with rifle bullets and scarred by antiaircraft fire.

★ ★ ★

The plane carried eight rifles, two submachine guns, pistols and hand grenades.

A federal grand jury in Washington indicted Smith and six others on conspiracy charges July 9.

Efforts to unearth Smith's background met resistance.

Marine Corps records show Smith enlisted at Macon, Ga. May 28, 1965. In August of 1967, records show, he departed without benefit of pass. He was listed as absent without official leave for a month.

"After 30 days," an officer explained, "you're officially declared a deserter and a regular form goes out to the FBI and everything."

The following March, Smith turned himself in to the U.S. naval attache at the U.S. Embassy in Port au Prince. He had been in jail in Haiti for six months on a charge of conducting activities against the Haitian government, the records show.

A special court-martial sentenced Smith to two months at hard labor and loss of pay for being AWOL and visiting Haiti without authorization.

STARTED TOUR

The 6-foot, 175-pound Smith started a Vietnam tour, but it ended prematurely with a medical evacuation to a New York hospital. The Marine Corps does not explain his injuries, but a spokesman said they were not combat wounds.

Smith did a brief hospital tour and then was shipped to Camp Lejeune last August. Six months later he went over the hill toward the Florida Everglades and the jungle camp.

AP Wirephoto

IN CUSTODY AGAIN — Marine deserter Charles Smith precedes a pair of plainclothes deputies from a Florida Everglades camp, reportedly a training center for a group planning to invade Haiti. The day before the camp was raided, a man had been killed there in a live-ammunition practice skirmish.

Dade County authorities say Smith's running days are over, at least for a while.

Lt. William Armstrong of the jail staff said: "We're a maximum security jail. As long as he's in here he's not going anywhere."

A recent survey indicates that less than 2 per cent of all students are actively involved in destructive rioting on campuses.

U.S. Looking Hard at Its Oil Policies

By WILLIAM B. MEAD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time in years, Congress and the administration are taking a hard look at national oil policies which, critics allege, cost the U.S. public about $7 billion annually.

The petroleum industry, one of the nation's biggest and richest, is mounting a counteroffensive. It contends that national security requires more rather than less government help for oilmen.

Involved in the controversy are three basic government policies.

One requires that imports of foreign oil be limited to 21 per cent of total U.S. consumption. This insures that 79 per cent of the oil used in America comes from American wells — which sell oil for $3.10 a barrel compared to $1.50 to $1.75 a barrel for oil importe d from the Middle East and Venezuela.

PRO-RATIONING

The second policy is called "pro-rationing." Its effect is to limit the output of each operating oil well in the principal producing states — Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma. The level of output is geared to market demand, to guard against any domestic overproduction which might drive down the price.

The third policy is special tax treatment — notably the famous "depletion allowance" under which oil producers pay no taxes on 27.5 per cent of their income from oil wells.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., contends that import quotas and pro-rationing together cost American consumers $5 billion a year in the form of higher prices for gasoline and heating oil. The tax breaks cost another $1.6 billion to $2.25 billion, Proxmire says.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., replies that the three programs benefit national security. He says import quotas are needed to maintain oil production at home, which would be vital in case of war, and to keep the United States from becoming dependent on Middle Eastern oil and the "whims of Arab monarchs."

'CONSERVATION DEVICE'

Long defends pro-rationing as a conservation device which helps maintain U.S. oil reserves and maintains production from smaller wells which couldn't survive unregulated competition but might be needed in time of emergency.

The depletion allowance and other tax breaks are designed to encourage exploration for more oil reserves. Without them, Long contends, U.S. oil firms never would have invested in the hunt which turned up huge new oil reserves on Alaska's northern slope.

★ ★ ★

But Proxmire and other critics are challenging the rationale behind all three policies.

"Surely Congress can devise some much cheaper way to provide for a secure source of oil during emergencies," Proxmire says.

'RELATIVELY INEFFICIENT'

The Treasury Department, in a report to congressional tax-writing committees, called the pletion allowance "a relatively inefficient method of encouraging exploration and the resultant discovery of new domestic reserves of liquid petroleum."

Oil's depletion allowance has not changed since 1926, but price trends have. Seven years ago, U.S. oil cost $1 a barrel more than the prevailing world price. The gap is now $1.25 to $1.40 a barrel. While world prices have declined, the U.S. price has risen 15 cents a barrel since January.

★ ★ ★

The Oil and Gas Journal, a leading trade magazine, recently reported that the average retail price of regular gasoline, not counting taxes, rose 5.9 per cent between last December and April.

President Nixon has appointed a commission headed by Labor Secretary George P. Shultz to conduct a thorough study of the oil-import quota system, which President Dwight D. Eisenhower inaugurated in 1959.

EYED BY REFORMERS

The House Ways and Means Committee meanwhile is considering tax reform proposals, with depletion allowances high on the agenda.

Harold M. McClure Jr., president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, told the committee the price of U.S. oil should go up, not down, oil import quotas should be hardened into law, and Congress should "improve the effectiveness of percentage depletion and other provisions of the federal income tax laws."

He said the United States is using up more oil than it is finding in reserves and the government should give the industry more incentive for exploration.

Glue Firm Adds an Extra Wallop —Just for Sniffers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Testor Corp., a leading manufacturer of quick-drying plastic glue for hobbyists, has added mustard oil to its product to make it obnoxious to sniffers.

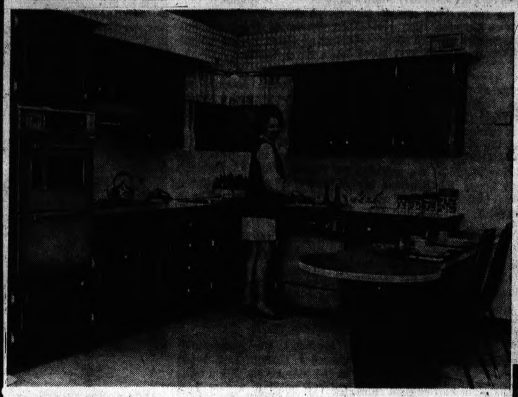

The oil, the company says, wallops the nasal area with the impact of a mouthful of mustard or horseradish.

Charles D. Miller, president of the Rockford, Ill., corporation, told a news conference here Wednesday the company had worked for several years to find a way to make sniffing disagreeable. Testor will provide other companies its research information without charge or royalty.

The cost of the oil is insignificant, he said.

Lady Ghost Continues to Chill Belle Isle Youngsters

DETROIT (AP) — Policeman Furman Thompson reports the lady ghost of Belle Isle is walking again—in the minds of the young.

★ ★ ★

And, he says, some youngsters still are getting their chills at "the hanging tree."

Both island playground myths, according to Thompson, have been scaring youngsters for years.

MURDER VICTIM

"When I came to work out here five years ago," Thompson said, "the lady ghost was already an established legend. Every year, though, there's a fresh crop of kids to be scared."

The story goes that a woman was murdered elsewhere and her body dumped in the woods off Tanglewood Drive. A bridle path comes out of that woods at this point, and the blonde ghost supposedly appears walking from the path.

"We don't mind the kids waiting for the ghost to appear," Thompson said, "but a lot of time they drink beer while they're waiting, so we have to break it up. They're too young to be drinking beer."

When they're chased away, Thompson reported the youngsters usually head for "the hanging tree."

The tree is a grubby old poplar on the edge of the Belle Isle golf course. And the story goes that a man was found hanged there many years ago.

SOME PANIC

"I don't know whether the kids expect to see the guy or what," Thompson said. "Some hang around waiting, but others get panicky and just zoom by."

The two myths will draw their biggest crowds just before school starts in the fall and then they'll be left to themselves for the winter.

★ ★ ★

"But," Thompson adds, "Kids will be back again in spring."

Ex-Lion Star's In-Law Seeks to Host Blacks

ONTONAGON (AP) — When Roger Brown, former Detroit Lions Negro football star, married a white girl from this Upper Peninsula community, the bride's family and friends were admittedly shocked.

The marriage "was a traumatic event for the community," recalls Mrs. Huron Harkless, a personnel officer for the Archdiocesan Opportunity Program in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

At first, the 1967 wedding in Detroit of Jacolyn Lindner to Brown, now with the Los Angeles Rams, was resented here.

But later, the bride's mother, Mrs. Donald Lindner, changed her mind and decided something should be done to promote understanding.

NEGRO CHILDREN

She conferred with other Ontonagon residents and they contacted Mrs. Harkless in Detroit, inviting Negro children to stay in their homes during summer vacations.

"We realized we must live with all people," Mrs. Lindner said.

★ ★ ★

A one-week trip to the Upper Peninsula was organized last year for 30 inner city youths. Another group of 22 children and four adults was scheduled to leave Detroit this Saturday, but a lack of funds threatens to cancel the trip.

A Detroit businessman told Brown last year he would finance the trip this year, but Mrs. Harkless said she learned Monday the man has had financial problems and won't be able to help.

'VERY WILLING'

Fourteen Ontonagon families are "very willing to accommodate" the Detroit visitors again, Mrs. Lindner said.

Mrs. Harkless said some strained relations were evident last year in this town with a population of some 2,500—there are only a few Negroes in the western Upper Peninsula — but she added, "How tragic it would be for those people to never live with any blacks." She made a public plea for funds to raise the required $1,300 for bus transportation and another $500 for expenses.

Insecticides Are Killing Off Fish Hawks

By National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — One of the world's most majestic birds, the osprey, is becoming an innocent victim of man's war against insects.

Sometimes called the fish hawk, the osprey is a tireless hunter, dramatically dive-bombing the water for its dinner. But insecticides in the fish are sterilizing the bird's eggs and causing overly thin cells.

★ ★ ★

The osprey is a world citizen. Its great nests of sticks perch atop trees on Japanese islands, on sea cliffs near Gibraltar, on Swedens's spruce-covered Baltic shores, on pinnacles in Yellowstone National Park, and on the headlands of Mexico's west coast.

Sadly, persistent insecticides already have wiped out whole colonies, according to ornithologist Roger Tory Peterson. Near his home at Old Lyme, Conn., the number of nests decreased from 150 in 1954 to 10 in 1968.

MICHIGAN TOLL

Across Long Island Sound, a great colony of ospreys on Gardiners Island — once perhaps the world's largest — dropped from 300 pairs in 1945 to 35 in 1968.

Army Suspends Training Use of Poison Gas at a 2nd Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor announced today a suspension of the use of poisonous gases in defensive training at Ft. McClellan, Ala.

He confirmed also that open air testing of lethal chemical agents has been suspended at Edgewood Arsenal, Md. That action was disclosed Tuesday by Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md.

* * *

The suspension follows considerable congressional criticism about the Army's use of lethal nerve gases in the open at military bases.

Resor said that in the meantime a committee of civilian scientific experts will be appointed to review procedures used in the Edgewood tests as well as Ft. McClellan's training program.

MUSTARD GAS

A Pentagon spokesman said an example of the Alabama base's defensive training with lethal agents involved trainees decontaminating artillery shells filled with mustard gas.

* * *

The Army recently reported to a House government operations subcommittee that it was conducting the open-air tests at the Maryland and Alabama facilities as well as the Dugway Proving Ground in Utah, where 5,000 sheep were accidentally killed last year by nerve gas.

* * *

Resor's statement made no mention of the Dugway activities.

* * *

The Army said all other testing at Edgewood and training at Ft. McClellan using nonlethal chemical agents will continue.

Resor's review committee will check the procedures, equipment, facilities and regulations to make sure that open air tests and training with lethal agents are conducted in a safe manner.

* * *

"It is anticipated because of the comprehensive safety data available that the study will be completed expeditiously," the Army said.

The temperature of the human body varies during any 24-hour period from the normal 98.6 degrees. It is lowest in the early morning and highest in the late afternoon.

Borman Will Join Service at White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon plans special religious services at the White House Sunday, with astronaut Col. Frank Borman participating in the worship as Apollo 11 prepares for the moon landing.

Members of Congress, diplomats and government officials have been invited to the 10 a.m. (Pontiac time) services in the East Room, where a Quaker minister will deliver the sermon and two Baptist members of Congress will participate.

* * *

The three astronauts of Apollo 11 will be preparing for the Sunday afternoon descent of the landing module to the lunar surface.

The White House announced that Borman will read the biblical passages from Genesis, chapter 1, verses 1 to 10, that he and two fellow astronauts read from their space capsule for worldwide broadcast while they orbited the moon on Christmas eve.

TO DELIVER SERMON

Dr. Paul S. Smith, president of Whittier College, Nixon's alma mater, and a member of the Society of Friends (Quakers) will deliver the sermon at the services, which will be the 10th held in the White House since Nixon launched the practice shortly after taking office.

The program includes opening remarks by the President, an opening prayer to be delivered by Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., a Baptist; the singing of the Navy Hymn, including a stanza that refers to protecting fliers from peril, and a benediction by Rep. James Buchanan, R-Ala., also a Baptist.

* * *

Organ music will be played by Marine M. Sgt. James Basta of Milwaukee, Wis.

Mission Planned to Probe the Sun

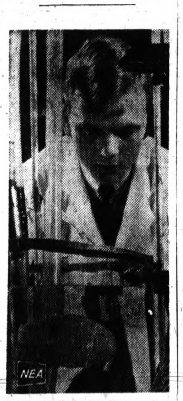

By Science Service

Agreement has been reached on an advanced international mission to take a pair of solar probes closer to the sun than any other spacecraft.

The spacecraft, to be built by the Federal Republic of Germany and launched by the U. S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration in the period of 1974-75, will be sent to within 28 million miles of the sun.

* * *

Known as Project Helios, the mission is designed to produce a better understanding of solar processes and of solar-terrestrail relationships. The craft will study the solar wind, magnetic and electric fields, cosmic rays and cosmic dust.

U.S. Allies in Vietnam Planning No Withdrawal of Troops

SAIGON (AP) — While the United States has begun gradual withdrawal of its forces in Vietnam there has been no sign—so far—that allied nations who contribute 70,124 men plan similar cutbacks.

Informed officials say that such plans have been discussed on an informal basis, but that none of the allied nations has made any official moves toward a troop cut.

★ ★ ★

The biggest contributor is South Korea with 50,343 men. Their commander, burly Lt. Gen. Lee Sae Ho, recently told newsmen that there were no plans at all to reduce his forces.

Meanwhile, the troops of the allied nations are conducting operations at the same rate as in the past. If anything, their role has grown larger, although because of the recent lull in the war this has not resulted in increased casualties.

Nations contributing combat troops are, in addition to South Korea: Thailand, 11,612; Australia, 7,617; New Zealand, 552. The Philippines has 1,503 soldiers in Vietnam engaged solely in civic action projects.

The Koreans have two infantry divisions, a Marine brigade and a special construction unit spread mainly over the 200-mile stretch of central coastland of the 2nd Corps Area. Their troops are mainly in the coastal areas, but they have recently expanded their operational areas inland as pacification progressed. They are now mainly responsible for pacification in four coastal provinces.

"They are good and they are methodical," a staff officer reported. "They are now getting a kill ratio of almost 20 to 1 with their tactics — night saturation patrols and hard work."

The Koreans say they have lost 2,314 men in action since they came to Vietnam in late 1965.

The 1st Australian Task Force, which includes the New Zealanders, operates in largely pacified Phuc Tuy Province on the coast east of Saigon.

★ ★ ★

With their area of operations only infrequently active; the Australians have recently taken on the role of attempting to upgrade the South Vietnamese 18th Infantry Division, one of the least efficient in the country.

★ ★ ★

One battalion of the 18th, about 450 men, completed a six-week training and joint operation period with the Australians early this month. A second battalion is now undergoing the same program.

The Australian task force commander, Brig. C.M.I. Pearson, congratulated the first battalion at the end of the exercise and said, "You have passed every test."

250 KILLED

More than 250 Australian soldiers have been killed in action.

The Thai Black Panther Division, which recently replaced the initial Queens Cobra Regiment, has taken over an old American camp called Bearcat about 25 miles east of Saigon.

It is in an area where there has been little recent fighting. But in two battles in March and June, the Panthers, aided by U.S. artillery and gunships, reported killing 380 Vietcong against the loss of eight Thais killed and 26 wounded. The Thais do not announce over-all casualty figures for the war.

These allied battles have often been peripheral to the war because Vietcong and North Vietnamese units have concentrated on the Americans and the South Vietnamese.

HELP IN PACIFICATION

However, U.S. authorities point out that the Australians, Koreans and Thais now contribute largely to the pacification of about eight provinces of the 44 in South Vietnam.

Current Books

WHEN THE SAINTS GO MARCHING OUT. By Charles Merrill Smith. Doubleday. $4.95.

The author of "How To Become a Bishop Without Being Religious" presents here a slangy, flippant, irreverent and often biting satire on the pious figures of ecclesiastical history.

Ecumenical as all get out, he devotes the first part of the book to spoofing the saints (many of them obscure) of the Roman Catholic Church, and the second part to a series of acid portraits of "Stalwart Christians" on the Protestant — long a Methodist minister, recently he became a Congregationalist minister.)

★ ★ ★

As a humorist he splashes around in the common argot, some of it a bit dated, and some of it current. He has a lot of fun with the device of adding footnotes containing smart cracks.

The author's attitude is that organized religion is full of pomposities and absurdities, and he attacks them with scorn and ridicule. His writing carries a lot of sting.

Miles A. Smith (AP)

THE DAY OF THE DOLPHIN. By Robert Merle. Simon Schuster. $5.95.

Is it so fantastic to believe that dolphins might become a factor in the game of international upmanship?

Merle has based a thriller novel on this possibility. His central figure is Prof. Henry Sevilla who, with his small staff, finally succeeds in getting a pair of dolphins, Ba and Fi, to talk.

The scientist and his dolphins become pawns in an international incident of traumatic proportions because the dolphins could be used as perfect naval sabateurs, capable of doing atomic destruction to enemy nations.

Merle is a good storyteller. But he has an irritating stylistic trick of running 10, 20 or 30 sentences together with comma splices. This makes for rough reading.

Miles A. Smith (AP)

NIHILISTS. By Ronald Hingley. Delacorte Press. $3.95.

"It was by external signs that the New People first attracted attention, one of these being their extreme youth . . . They had quirks of dress and manner, the men going about with huge beards and long hair flopping to their shoulders, while girls . . . renounced such frivolities as combs . . .

★ ★ ★

"Both sexes favored blue-tinted spectacles and high boots . . . Dirty, chewed fingernails, untidy clothes and an unwashed appearance was claimed by ill-wishers to be part of their style."

★ ★ ★

A vignette of contemporary America? No. The passage refers to the Russian Nihilists of a century ago. They were the student rebels of their time — militant, self-righteous, dedicated, and a puzzling outrage to their elders.

★ ★ ★

Turgenyev gave them their name in his classic novel of generational conflict.

★ ★ ★

They accepted it with pleasure, though most of them were not nihilists in the true sense; they believed in science and progress and the order they vaguely envisaged after the overthrow of Czarism embraced some liberal values.

Hingley, in this admirable short study, offers swift sketches of the principals showing obvious and intriguing parallels between the Nihilists and some of today's student radicals.

★ ★ ★

The author tells this adventurous story of generosity and malevolance exceedingly well, and his book gives a concise picture of this strange and prophetic sect.

Replacement of Draft of Doctors Is Pushed

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON — An answer may have been found to the vexing problem of relying on the draft — or threat of it —to replace the 4,000 doctors who leave military service each year. That's about one-fourth of the 16,600 doctors now in uniform.

BAULCH

People have been proposing solutions since the doctor draft was created by Congress in 1950, but none has overcome objections raised by the medical profession and the military services.

But with demands growing for an all-volunteer military service and President Nixon pushing the idea, the heat has been turned up.

Dr. Louis M. Rousselot, assistant secretary of defense for health and medical services, feels that Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., who has been pushing unsuccessfully since 1953 the idea of a U. S. Military Medical Academy, has come up with a good modified plan this year.

However, Rousselot has been circulating a "talking paper" going even further, urging creation of "a National University of the Health Sciences" to serve all federal medical services. And he's encouraged with the response from medical groups and the military.

MAIN OBJECTIONS

The main objections have come from the Association of Medical Colleges which fears that it may drain off some of their fund sources. But Rousselot counters that this is a baseless concern because the proposed university would be financed by Defense Department funds even though other government agencies would share the benefits.

The plan is not an official recommendation yet, but may be by the time Hebert's House Armed Services subcommittee tackles the problem this month.

Even if Secretary of Denfense Melvin R. Laird and Congress do go along with the idea it will take years to actually build the facilities and faculty and open the door to students. And it may be only a partial solution to doing away with the doctor draft.

At present about half the 4,000 doctors brought into military service each year come in under the direct draft system. Most of the others come in under the Reserve Commissioning Program, which succeeds under pressure of the draft threat.

AFTER INTERNSHIP

Under the Reserve Commissioning Program a doctor is allowed to delay his military service by agreeing to serve right after his internship, or a year later or after he completes his military specialty.

There are also military intern and residency programs that up until recently were especially popular, because the pay was better than in comparative civilian programs. But with the pay in civilian medicine up and since the young doctors acquire a pay-back military obligation, spaces in these programs are going begging.

Among plans aimed at reducing the draft is a proposal by Air Force Maj. William D. Tribble, Ph.D, for $5,500 annual undergraduate medical scholarships as well as scholarships in established medical schools ranging from $7,200 to $9,000.

As under the Hebert and Rousselot plans the students would be active-duty reserve officers and agree to pay back with time in government service.

TRYING TO SELL PLAN

Tribble, a medical administrative officer at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio, Tex., has been making the rounds in Washington at his own expense trying to sell his plan, which is included in his new book, "Doctor Draft Justified?"

He has put his career on the line by sharply criticizing the military medical corps, saying it is using doctors inefficiently, with up to 2,500 in jobs that could be filled by administrators.

Rousselot said Tribble's book contains factual material, but he disagrees with many of the major's conclusions. The doctor preferred not to get into a point-by-point rebuttal of his areas of disagreement.

The Pentagon medical chief does agree with Tribble that some want out of military service as quickly as possible because of inadequate housing compared with their civilian counterparts, frequent moves and greater separation from families.

ATTRACTIVE ASPECT

On the other hand, Rousselot says, the nomadic Army life is one of the most attractive aspects to some young doctors and their families.

Rousselot agrees that better career incentives are needed and says the problem is being worked on. For instance, doctors—like all career military men—must retire after 30 years service at that point most have reached a peak of professional experience but are lost to further military service.

Except for a few who balk and are drafted as recruits, doctors facing the draft normally volunteer to come into service as Army and Air Force captains or Navy lieutenants and they get extra pay of $100 to $300 a month, depending on length of service.

Tribble feels the bonus pay is wasteful and should be used to finance his scholarships and instead faster promotion opportunities should be offered to doctors.

Japan Abortions Exceed Births

TOKYO (UPI) — There are more abortions than births in Japan.

Two million of the estimated 3.6 million pregnancies in Japan each year are aborted, according to Dr. Hiro Muramatsu, writing in the Keizai Hyoron (Economic Review).

Female Mosquito Still Rates as Public Enemy No. 1

By National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — A fragile, bloodthirsty, long-legged female persists as public pest No. 1.

Undaunted by sprays, chemicals and repellants, the female mosquito spreads more distress throughout the world than any other insect.

Bites are only a nuisance in some countries, but in others they may carry diseases such as malaria, yellow fever and encephalitis.

Though the insects live partly on plant juices, the females of many species need blood to mature their eggs.

A female mosquito stabs her victim with a complex proboscis equipped with six piercing organs.

CAUSES ITCH

She injects a saliva that breaks down the boood. This fluid not only causes the itch that accompanies the bite; it transmits any disease the insect may be carrying. A strong suction pump at the head of the large proboscis tube then draws up the thinned blood.

Mosquitoes apparently are lured to people by carbon dioxide, warmth and moisture. Thin persons are favorite targets, because they tend to have a higher metabolic rate and thus release more heat than heavier people.

Only female mosquitoes bite. The male of most species is, as an entomologist put it, "an inoffensive little insect whose diet is nectar and about whose only function is propagation."

145,000 people were killed in road accidents in 1966 in 27 countries.

Drug Statistics Only Account for the Visible Abusers

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third in a series on drug use and abuse by Dr. Stanley Einstein a clinical psychologist, executive director of the Institute for the Study of Drug Addictions and editor of the International Journal of Addictions.)

By STANLEY EINSTEIN Ph.D.
(Written for NEA)

NEW YORK — A report by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration indicated that approximately one-third of our fellow citizens at one time or another take drugs that weren't prescribed for them.

★ ★ ★

Add these 75 million to the millions of social drinkers and the estimated million problem drinkers.

And for dessert let's add the overweight and the obese. Have we left out anyone you know

Not so long ago parents stayed up late at night waiting for their children to return home from dates.

BIG CONCERN

Now the concern is: Does he or she or doesn't he or she? And it's not sex that we are concerned about.

The under-30 generation is misuing a variety of drugs. The over-30 generation seems to prefer alcohol, although they aren't averse to misusing tranquilizers, aspirins and sleeping pills.

★ ★ ★

But we don't really know how many youngsters or adults are misusing drugs.

The statistics we have only account for the visible drug abuser who comes to the attention of the court, the jail, the federal, state or municipal treatment center.

NOT INCLUDED

This is a selective group — generally of the lower socio-economic groups.

The person treated for misues of tranquilizers or pep pills by his family doctor is not included in the statistics, and of course, many people never seek treatment. They feel they have no problem.

★ ★ ★

We know about the teen-aged middle-class child who is picked up at a pot party by the police, who call the parents, who promise that their child will never do this again. There is no arrest and no increase in statistics.

We are also becoming concerned about the young girl who is misusing aspirins. She works at a sewing machine in a factory. She has a sensitive employer. He has bottles of 1,000 aspirins in different parts of the plant, to ease the problems associated with "that time of the month."

SERIOUS PROBLEMS

The misuse of aspirins causes serious medical problems lasting longer than those few days; "that time of the month."

There is no arrest and no increase in statistics of drug misues.

★ ★ ★

Some adults may take comfort in thinking that their children will grow out of the drug phase. It is a false comfort.

Should we hope that our marijuana smoker will be better off by turning to alcohol after 30?

MEDICAL SAFETY

The younger generation, in turn, should take little comfort in its argument about the apparent medical safety of marijuana compared to alcohol misues, or by pointing to their parents' daily drinking.

This problem is too serious on a personal level and a national one for us to get involved in oneupmanship.

★ ★ ★

We should remember simply that drugs make sick people healthy and healthy people sick.

Often we are asked to believe that the increase in drug misues is a result of the generation gap.

A COP-OUT

This is a cop-out. Generation gaps have existed since Adam didn't understand why Cain killed Abel. And drugs have been with us since the first grape fermented: since the first cactus was eaten: since tobacco was smoked.

Adolescence is a period of upheaval in which a person begins to find himself and come to terms with himself. He often needs support and acceptance from his friends.

★ ★ ★

Today his friends may be using drugs — and he may follow suit.

A sensitive parent may best help his maturing child by pointing out that the misuse of drugs may indeed be a sign of lack of independence.

The support the child wants and needs from friends does not mean copying their behavior.

You might ask your child to consider whether the friends will drop him if he begins to act independently on some issues, and ask him whether finding himself, which is a lifetime job, is helped or made more difficult by drug use.

Junior Editors Quiz on GLASS BLOWING

QUESTION: How is glass blowing done?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Glass is fascinating because of its bright, sparkling beauty. Yet it is mostly made of plain drablooking sand, to which certain other materials are added such as soda ash, limestone and borax.

These materials are melted together at great heat. They fuse into a syrupy liquid structure, so that it is usually transparent.

The glass is then quickly cooled. It retains its transparent qualities as it hardens. Colors in glass are the result of chemical impurities and are often deliberately added.

Many kinds of glass are made to produce many different objects. Liquid glass may be pressed in a mold, drawn out in sheets (window glass) or cast.

Anancient method of working glass liquid was to blow it out on the end of a long pipe, and then, rolling the pope on side arms, to shape the hot glass with various tools. This process is still being used for making art glass. We illustrate it in the picture.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Tourists Discover Explorer Displays

By National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — In a city where outstanding attractions abound, Explorers Hall in the National Geographic Society headquarters building draws more than its share of visitors.

Almost a half-million people annually enjoy the adventure-filled museum that spreads over the first floor of the 10-story building in Washington, D.C.

★ ★ ★

Schoolchildren, clubs, and professional groups arrive by the busloads. Movie stars and other celebrities, visiting Washington in response to an invitation to a White House dinner, make it a point to see Explorers Hall before returning home.

Texas high school seniors and vacationing families from Illinois record their names in the Hall guest book next to the signatures of kings, emperors, and shahs.

UNMOUNTED GLOBE

The world's largest unmounted globe — about 1,000 pounds in weight and 34 feet around the equator — stands in a fountain-fed pool as the centerpiece of the hall.

For special demonstrations, the huge sphere rotates in any direction and slides are projected on its surface from a console. A slide of a space capsule, projected on the rotating orb, traces the flight paths of past and future space shots.

Three world maps on 10-by-15-foot panels greet visitors. The maps alternately turn into view as a recorded narration describes features.

A diorama shows Dr. Louis S. B. Leakey walking in Olduvai Gorge, Tanzania, where he found the skull of an early form of near-man who lived 1,750,000 years ago. The famed British anthropologist has been aided by National Geographic grants since 1960.

DIVING SAUCER

A model of Capt. Jacques-Yves Cousteau's ingenious diving saucer highlights an exhibit describing the underseas pioneer's work. His explorations have been supported by the Society for more than a decade.

Two antique globes, made in 1831 by America's first globemaker, James Wilson, mark the entrance to a map-making display.

Record Field in Tennis Tourney

The Oakland County Open Tennis Tournament will turn loose a record field of entries on the courts at Oakland University tomorrow evening when the 10th annual competition will commence with 19 matches.

Eight senior singles battles will open the action at 5:45 p.m. Five more will follow at 7 p.m. In addition, three men's doubles matches will start at 6 p.m., and another one plus two junior doubles clashes are scheduled for 7 p.m. starts.

★ ★ ★

The first full day of activity will begin at 8:30 a.m. Saturday with six junior doubles, four junior singles and a senior singles. More junior matches will follow at 10 a.m. and the new mixed doubles event will debut at 11:15 a.m. along with more men's doubles.

★ ★ ★

The men's singles will commence at 12:45 p.m. Saturday. All contestants should check in 15 minutes before their scheduled starting time. The pairings for Saturday's matches will be listed in tomorrow's Press, and Sunday's times will be published Saturday.

100 MORE

The unprecedented deluge of entries in all events this week has boosted this year's total to more than 270 entries, or 100 more than participated last year.

Although eight new courts have been added at Oakland University, the heavy turnout — including many of the finest players in Southeast Michigan — will necessitate a strict schedule of events.

It is doubtful if two rounds will be completed in all events by Sunday evening. Men's singles players can expect some 8 a.m. matches Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Because of the scheduling problems, no post entries will be taken at the courts. Players are reminded they must provide a new tennis ball for each of their matches through the quarter-finals.

ONE CHAMPION

Only one defending champion is returning, senior singles titlist Bob Neff of Northville. The other top-seeded players are 1968 runner-up Don Pierce of Birmingham in men's singles, runners-up Ian Wilson and Neff in men's doubles, Todd Beel of Birmingham in junior singles along with Birmingham's Rob Cowin in junior doubles.

The mixed doubles favorite's role goes to Wilson and his wife, though the event could produce many surprises before the 26 entries have finished battling.

The biggest field is the men's singles where 82 players are vying. The men's doubles has lured 59 twosomes, while 49 junior singles and 35 senior singles have turned out.

There are 25 junior duos set to battle for the trophies sponsored by The Press and The Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department.

★ ★ ★

The city's representatives to the Michigan Recreation Association Tournament also will be picked from the tourney field.

Lolich Joins '13-Win' Plateau

Tigers Defeat Senators, 3-0 on Horton's Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mickey Lolich has joined five other All-Star pitchers for the American League lead with 13 victories but the Detroit Tiger lefthander thinks things might be different if he hadn't been out of action a month.

★ ★ ★

"It might have been real interesting at this point in the season," Lolich said after he scattered four singles as the Tigers defeated Washington 3-0 Wednesday night. "Who knows what my record might be now?"

OUT 4 WEEKS

Lolich spent two weeks in the service beginning April 16 and was out of action for another two weeks when he was hit by a line drive off the bat of Danny Cater in Oakland May 27.

Willie Horton drove in the three unearned runs with a two-out bases loaded double in the eighth inning that broke up a pitching duel between Lolich and Senators pitcher Dick Bosman.

★ ★ ★

The victory was Lolich's 13th against 2 losses and put him with All-Stars Dave McNally of Baltimore, 13-0, Blue Moon Odom of Oakland, 13-3, Denny McLain, a tiger teammate, 13-5, Ray Culp of Boston, 13-6, and Mel Stottlemyre of New York, 13-2.

Lolich called the game "an average pitched" one because "I didn't have a breaking ball. I pitched the whole ball game with my fast ball."

★ ★ ★

When it was pointed out that the victim of three of his eight strikeouts was home run hitter Frank Howard, who went down on a wide curve, Lolich said he didn't consider that a good breaking pitch.

He said he lost eight pounds in the hot, humid weather and went to his fast ball exclusively in the eighth and ninth innings.

"I switched to nothing but fast balls," he said. "I decided to let it all hang out until the cork popped."

IN TROUBLE

Lolich ran into trouble in the ninth when Brant Alyea singled to open the inning and went to second on a wild pitch. Ken McMullen walked on four straight pitches.

Lolich then struck out Sam Bowens but Tim Cullen hit a long fly ball to right center that fell in and right fielder Al Kaline was charged with an error he later disputed.

★ ★ ★

"It just dropped in," he said. ' No one had it. We couldn't hear each other (referring to center fielder Mickey Stanley). "We're not used to having people in this ballpark."

★ ★ ★

And with the bases loaded and one out, Lolich got Paul Casanova to fly to Kaline and Del Unser to pop up to third baseman Don Wert to end the game.

"He's a real bulldog out there," said Washington manager Ted Williams. "He showed me something tonight. I'm impressed with him.

★ ★ ★

"He's proved to me he's a little better pitcher than I thought he was. There are periods when he wants to pitch and then he certainly does that."

FLY HIGH, LITTLE GUY — Big Joe Carter (78) who stands 6-5 and goes 290 pounds shows scatback George Price (23) what could happen to him on the football field. Price stands only 5-5 and weighs just half of Carter at 145 pounds. They both are playing for the Pontiac Firebirds who will meet the Detroit Cowboys in an exhibition game Saturday night at Wisner Stadium.

F-Birds Have Sorts and Sizes

The big, the small and the in-between are the shapes and sizes of the football players practicing with the Pontiac Firebirds who make their 1969 debut in an exhibition game Saturday night in Wisner Stadium against the Detroit Cowboys.

The smallest and fastest Firebird is George Price, a 5-5 and 145 pounder from Bogalosa, La., and the biggest in size is 6-5 and 290 pounder Joe Carter who comes to the Firebirds after several years experience in the Continental League.

Carter will be at defensive end for Pontiac.

Short in size but big in body is 5-10 300 pound Mike Cunningham who joined the Firebirds from the Ypsilanti Vikings.

Game time Saturday is 7:30 p.m.

Jockey Hartack Spilled by Horse

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Veteran jockey Bill Hartack, who has won the Kentucky Derby five times including this year, escaped serious injury Wednesday when thrown from a horse which never had won a race.

Hartack, 36, was thrown from Talking Barberob shortly efter the fourth race started at Hollywood Park. He was rushed to Centinela Hospital.

Xrays showed he had suffered no fractures, only bruises and contusions.

Talks Heated Over Salary of Lions' End

BLOOMFIELD HILLS (AP) —The possibility of legal action involving the Detroit Lions and their veteran defensive end, Larry Hand, appeared closer today after Hand's attorney and Lion general manager Russ Thomas had a heated and unsuccessful salary discussion.

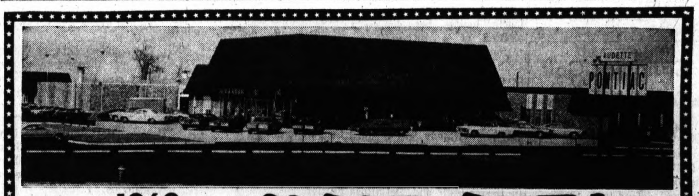

The two were shouting so loud Wednesday they could be heard in the pressroom next to Thomas' summer office at Cranbrook School, where the Lions hold summer training.

Hand, a free agent, is technically free to sign with another team, but any team signing him would have to give Detroit a player of equal value.

The attorney, George Dakmak, said he would wait a few more days to see if he could talk with pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle, then seriously consider going to court.

"There is something very strange going on here," Dakmak said. "We just don't think they are negotiating with Hand seriously."

Although the club claims the two sides are far apart, Dakmak maintains it is only a matter of a few thousand dollars.

White House Reception

Baseball Greats Invited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon revealed Wednesday that she and President Nixon plan to go to the All-Star baseball game in Washington next Tuesday night, after all.

The Nixons are leaving that night on the first leg of their round-the-world trip and the White House had said the President would not go to the game. But Mrs. Nixon said that is changed now.

The White House is giving a 4 p.m. reception July 22, preceding the game, for the All-Star players, members of baseball's Hall of Fame and sportswriters, to mark the 100th anniversary of baseball this year.

An invitation to attend the White House reception was received last week by former Tiger All-Time great southpaw Hal Newhauser.

Newhouser received the invitation at his office at Community National Bank.

The President is a baseball fan, so is his son-in-law David Eisenhower, and Mrs. Nixon added herself to the fan list Wednesday.

AL All-Star Team Reserves Selected by Mayo

List of Subs Is Impressive

Killebrew, Yastrzemski and Fregosi Picked

BOSTON (AP) — Three members of the East Division leading Baltimore Orioles and the Minnesota Twins, the West pace-setters, are among the reserves named to complete the American League All-Star team.

Third baseman Brooks Robinson, second baseman Dave Johnson and outfielder Paul Blair were the Orioles' reserves selected Wednesday by Mayo Smith of the Detroit Tigers, who will manage the AL team against the National League Tuesday night in Washington.

First baseman Harmon Killebrew, outfielder Tony Oliva and catcher John Roseboro were the Twins' players picked as subs and announced through the league office here.

OTHERS PICKED

Shortstop Jim Fregosi of the California Angels was the other infield reserve named. Ellie Rodriguez of the Kansas City Royals was chosen as the other spare catcher.

Reggie Smith and Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox, Carlos May of the Chicago White Sox and Mike Hegan of the Seattle Pilots complete the outfield alternates.

Robinson will be playing in his 13th consecutive All-Star Game, tops among this year's AL squad members. Killebrew will be making his 11th appearance.

The Orioles have the most representative, six. Boston and Minnesota have four each, Detroit and Oakland three apiece, Washington two, and each other team the minimum of one.

The starting team, chosen by vote of the players and announced earlier, consists of Bill Freehan, Detroit, c; Boog Powell, Baltimore, 1b; Rod Carew, Minnesota, 2b; Sal Bando, Oakland, 3b; Rico Petrocelli, Boston, ss; and Reggie Jackson, Oakland, Frank Robinson, Baltimore and Frank Howard, Washington, of.

The eight pitchers, picked by Smith and also announced previously, are Denny McLain and Mickey Lolich from his own Detroit staff; unbeaten Dave McNally of Baltimore; Ray Culp, Boston; Mel Stottlemyre, New York; Sam McDowell, Cleveland; John "Blue Moon" Odom, Oakland; and Darold Knowles, Washington.

Manager Smith followed the voting in his selections of Roseboro, Killebrew, Robinson, Blair, Oliva, Yastrzemski and Smith, but deviated from it in the other cases—partly due to the rule making it mandatory to pick at least one player from each team.

The 28-player squad, boosted this year from the former 25 players because of the addition of two expansion teams, breaks down to 17 from the East Division and 11 from the West Division.

Orioles Salvage Split of Pair

BALTIMORE (AP) — It was only fitting that Brooks Robinson drive in the winning run and salvage a split for the Baltimore Orioles in Wednesday's twi-night doubleheader.

Between games, the Baltimore third baseman was honored on the 10th annual Shrine of Immortals night as the "Greatest Oriole Player" since the team joined the major leagues in 1954.

* * *

Robinson, who singled during a futile three-run rally in the ninth inning of the opener as Cleveland won 6-4, rapped a two-out bases-loaded single off Stan Williams after fouling off five 1-2 pitches in the ninth inning of the nightcap.

* * *

Curt Motton, who whacked two doubles in a late-inning reserve role in the first game, hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning of the second game for a 5-3 Baltimore lead.

SOLO HOMERS

But Cleveland tied it 5-5 in the eighth on doubles by Lou Klimchock and Richie Scheinblum and a single by Jose Cardenal. Tony Horton hit two solo homers earlier in the game.

* * *

Winning reliever Pete Richert, 4-3, throttled a Cleveland threat after the first two batters singled off Eddie Watt in the ninth, and then singled to launch the winning rally.

* * *

Chuck Hinton and Ken Suarez each drove in two runs for Cleveland in the opener, won by Dick Ellsworth, 5-5, with relief help from Williams and Mike Paul in the ninth.

Gets 4 Hits

Yaz Belts Yankees, 6-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski ripped four hits including a homer and rookie Mike Nagy fired a five-hitter as the Boston Red Sox defeated the New York Yankees 6-2 Wednesday night.

George Scott got the Red Sox off in front with a two-run homer in the second inning. The Yankees got one run back in their half of the second but the Sox made it 3-1 in the next inning when Joe Lahoud walked, moved to third on Yastrzemski's single and scored on an error by Horace Clarke.

Roy White's double drove in another Yankee run in the third and then Yastrzemski walloped a tape-measure homer into the upper deck in right field in the fifth. It was his 28th homer of the season.

Twins Trim Chisox Twice for 8 in Row

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — The rampaging Minnesota Twins swept Chicago 9-8 and 6-3 Wednesday night and stretched their winning streak to eight games after withstanding a 17-hit White Sox assault in the opener.

Rich Reese drove in five runs in the first game with two home runs and a single and Rod Carew swiped two bases, including home for a seventh time to break the American League and tie the major league record set in 1946 by Brooklyn's Pete Reiser.

The Twins, winning 17 of their last 19 games, wound up stealing eight bases in the doubleheader. Even slugger Harmon Killebrew got into the act with a steal in each game. Cesar Tovar also stole twice.

Carpentry, meanwhile, came up with another of its last-inning victories in a late-season surge that has earned them four triumphs in a row. Fred Koby again was the hero, driving in the game-winning run with a ninth-inning two-bagger for a 6-5 win.

Sackett Hurls One-Hitter

A late plate spree by his teammates made veteran Class A baseball pitcher Don Sackett of Teamsters-614 a winner for the second time this summer Wednesday.

Sackett, who pitched a no-hitter only to lose earlier this season, limited Oakland Community College's Highland Lakes to a solitary lead-off single by Dan Greig in the fourth inning, but wasn't assured of a win until his teammates posted a four-run sixth inning to set up a 6-1 decision.

Shortstop Tony DeLaRosa broke the 0-0 tie with an RBI single and Randy Sutt doubled in another and scored on Art Kale's baseHit. Bill Bennett's two-bagger plated another run in the seventh and DeLaRosa drove him in with another single.

Angels Romp Over Royals' Rookie Rooker

ANAHEIM (AP) — Andy Messersmith stopped Kansas City on six hits and doubled in the tying run as California defeated the Royals 4-3 Wednesday night, tying their longest 1969 winning streak set during the first week of the season.

The Angels broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning when Aurelio Rodriguez led off with a walk, went to third on a single by Joe Azcue and scored when Jim Spencer forced Azcue.

Losing pitcher Jim Rooker, 1-7, slugged a solo home run in the third inning, the only run off Messersmith until the ninth. Rooker, who entered pro baseball as an outfielder, has hit three home runs and a triple this season, his first in the majors.

Site of the baseball action is to be the Pony League Field in Dodge Park on Beverly Road in Beverly Hills.

★ ★ ★

To kick off the series, a special ceremony will be held to dedicate the Pony League Field, and change the name to the Brian Gromek Memorial Field at 3:30 on July 24.

HONOR ACCORDED

Brian Gromek who died last spring, played in the District 2 Pony League several years ago. He was the son of former Detroit Tigers' star Steve Gromek.

Leading up to this tournament, the two Birmingham teams held their "World Series" to determine the Area Champions.

The "Wildcats," Division A Champions with a 13-4 record and the "Longhorns" Division B Champions with a 14-win and 3-loss record played their first game last Thursday. Greg Bloss pitched a shutout for the Longhorns, with the final score reading 3-0. In the second game of the series, held last Saturday, the Longhorns again trounced the Wildcats 6-1. Winning pitcher in the second and deciding game was Mike Ryan.

DOUBLE ELIMINATION

The District Tournament, a 2-loss elimination series, will begin at 1:00 p.m. with Farmington playing Southfield-Lathrup.

The second game at 5:00 p.m. will see the Birmingham All-Star team play against Garden City East.

In the third game, the two losing teams will play and the loser will be eliminated from further play. The three remaining teams will advance until one is left.

The finalist advances to the State level on July 31.

Cards Stirring as Mets Wallop Cubs Again

By the Associated Press

Slowly, almost surreptitiously, the St. Louis Cardinals are starting to stir.

★ ★ ★

While the Chicago Cubs and New York Mets have created a diverting commotion at the top of the National League's East Division, the Cards methodically have gone about the business of reversing half a season of mediocrity.

★ ★ ★

St. Louis has won 11 of the last 13 games including Steve Carlton's 5-0 five-hitter over Philadelphia Wednesday night. Combined with the Mets' 9-5 decision over the first-place Cubs, it left the Cards 9½ games back of the leaders.

That's not an insurmountable bulge with half a season still remaining.

OTHER GAMES

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday, Pittsburgh rallied to beat Montreal 8-7, Cincinnati bombed Atlanta 10-7, Los Angeles edged Houston 3-2 and San Francisco nipped San Diego 4-3.

★ ★ ★

Lou Brock provided the batting support for Carlton against the Phillies. The fleet outfielder drove in four runs with a homer and a double.

★ ★ ★

The Mets, meanwhile, crept within 3½ games of the Cubs, using home runs by Tommie Agee, Al Weis and Art Shamsky to beat Chicago ace Ferguson Jenkins.

★ ★ ★

Weis, who had hit four homers in eight big league seasons, connected for the second time in as many days against the Cubs after New York had knocked out Jenkins building an early 6-0 lead. Shamsky's two-run shot in the eighth added some breathing room after reliever Cal Koonce had halted a Chicago comeback.

★ ★ ★

Pittsburgh rallied for three runs in the ninth to beat the hapless Expos. Roberto Clemente's, bases-loaded, two-out single drove in the Pirates' tying and lead runs. Then Richie Hebner singled another run across, giving Pittsburgh a cushion to stand off Adolfo Phillips' homer in the bottom of the ninth. Rusty Staub, Coco Laboy and Bob Bailey also homered for the Expos while Willie Stargell connected for the Pirates.

HITS PAIR

Jimmy Stewart, who had hit only one homer all year, jolted a pair in successive innings, driving in five runs to lead Cincinnati past Atlanta. Bobby Tolan also homered for the Reds.

★ ★ ★

Clete Boyer hit a pair and drove in three runs for the Braves.

★ ★ ★

Willie Davis, who had hit an inside-the-park homer an inning earlier, tripled home Los Angeles' winning run against Houston as Claude Osteen pitched a five-hitter.

Jimmy Wynn whacked his 22nd homer accounting for the Astros' runs, but it was his error on Willie Crawford's liner that allowed the Dodgers' tying run to score and set the stage for Davis' winning hit.

★ ★ ★

Bobby Bonds hammered a three-run homer and Gaylord Perry scattered 11 hits as San Francisco got past San Diego. Van Kelly had a two-run homer for the Padres.

Auto Tracks Plan Merger

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Officials of four of the South's major auto racing tracks today announced plans for a merger, subject to stockholder approval.

They are the Charlotte Motor Speedway, the North Carolina Motor Speedway at Rockingham, Darlington (S.C.) International Raceway, and Bristol (Tenn.) International Raceway and Dragway.

★ ★ ★

It would be the second big amalgamation of stock car speedways within months. Earlier this year, directors of the new Michigan International Speedway near Detroit gained control of the Atlanta Speedway and a major road course facility at Riverside, Calif., through a purchase-merger agreement.

★ ★ ★

The Michigan group also is building a major new track in Texas and has land under option for still another in the New Jersey-New York area. It reportedly is dickering with television networks for packaged deals for the live showing of auto racing.

Conn's Wins, 5-4

Revenge for Slowpitch Team

There's nothing quiet about the redhot city men's slowpitch softball rivalry between Conn's Clothes and The Pontiac Press in the A League American Division.

For the third time this season an enthusiastic noisy crowd last night saw the two teams battle down to the final out in a tense struggle. For the second time, Conn's pulled out a narrow nine-inning victory.

The Clothiers' 5-4 victory last night at Northside Park avenged their only loss of the season, a two-run loss to the Pressmen Sunday evening.

★ ★ ★

The defeat dropped The Press out of second place in the circuit when J. A. Fredman topped Local 596 in the nightcap game, 5-1.

★ ★ ★

A two-run homer by Gary Acker and two RBI's by Tom Davis were enough to offset Joe Rainge's solo circuit clout for the unionmen and give Fredman's (16-3) a one-game edge on the Press (15-4).

BACK-TO-BACK

Conn's (18-1) took a 2-0 lead on back-to-back homers over the right field fence by Jackie Thomas and Felix Brooks in the second.

LONGEST GAME

An unearned run also snapped the deadlocked at Beaudette Park when Miracle Lounge defeated Designers Cabinets Shop, 5-4, in 13 innings, the season's longest game.

★ ★ ★

Oddly, the luckless losers scored all four of their runs in the opening inning and then were shutout for 12 frames. Lee Saunders' two-run homer knotted the score in the fourth.

★ ★ ★

In a Class B American contest, Dick Lewis had one of the season's bet hitting nights as he led Grubb's Kennels to a 20-9 rout of Eagles Lodge 1230. The slugging third sacker blasted three home runs and two doubles to drive in nine runs and scored five times.

Scare for Fastpitch Leader

Milbur Industries threw a scare into league-leading Spencer Floor before losing a 5-3 heartbreaker in a Waterford Township Men's Fastpitch contest lest night.

Each team scored a single tally in the fourth inning, and battled evenly until the top of the ninth when Milbur gained the upper hand by scoring two runs on a muffed fly to center field.

But Spencer Floor came back with their own spectacular inning scoring all their runs with two out.

Jerry Hesse led things up with a two-run scoring triple that was almost turned into brilliant out by Milbur's Holcumb.

Charley Graves then followed with a home run for the game-winning run.

With the victory, Spencer edged into a ½ game lead over Day's Sanitary with a record of 16-2. Milbur Industries is 6-12.

In another game, Weedon Construction won the sixth of its last eight games to move into a tie for fourth place by bouncing Colonial Village, 9-3.

Weedon Built up a 6-0 lead in the first three innings and were never challenged.

Tom McMahon, Jack Stoddard and Chuck Burtch each had two hits for the winners. Winning pitcher was Vern Hovis.

* * *

Weedon's record is now 9-9 and Colinial Village fell to 3-15.

In Junior Baseball in the 11 and Under Division, Lakeland Hardware beat Waterford Plaza, 9-7; Highland Chargers charged over P.P.O.A., 13-3; Tru-Bilt Redi-Mix dumped Squire Cleaners, 10-3; and F.O.P. shut out Lake Oakland in a runaway, 16-0.

In the 13 and Under Division, it was Waterford Police 3, McDonald's Hamburgers 1 and F.O.P. No. 1 stopping Perry Drugs, 6-2.

E.L.I.A. squeezed by F.O.P., 5-4, in the 15 and Under Division and the Teamsters took a 7-2 victory over Lakeland Optimist.

Favorites Fall in Trans-Miss

NCAA Champ Among Those Eliminated

DENVER (AP) — Favorites fared poorly Wednesday as 62 golfers began match play in the 66th Trans-Mississippi Amateur Golf Tournament.

* * *

Among the well known amateurs to fall was Bob Clark, this year's NCAA champion from California State at Los Angeles, an easy loser to Jerry Adams of Kansas City at 4 and 2.

* * *

Ed Hopkins, a Dallas stockbroker and runnerup to last year's champion, Bill Hyndman, was ousted 3 and 1 by Les Fowler, coach of the University of Colorado golf team.

* * *

Also among the losers was Bill Carey, the co-director of the tournament at Denver's Cherry Hills Country Club, and Monday's leader in qualifying scores. Gregg Harmon of nearby Golden, Colo., ousted Carey 1-up on the 18th hole.

KC Takes Soccer Lead

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Spurs vaulted back into the North American Soccer League lead Wednesday night by defeating the Dallas Tornado 3-2.

Palmer Needs Points for Ryder Cup Play

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Time is running out for Arnold Palmer in his quest of a spot on the U.S. Ryder Cup team, but the big belter was a relaxed, joking guy today when he set out in the first round of the $150,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

"I don't know whether I can make it or not," the 39-year-old charger said. "Sure, I'd like to. I want to make the team. There's how many, five, yeah, five tournaments left. That may be enough . . . "and he let the sentence trail off.

* * *

He started digging through his locker and found a notice announcing that fittings for the Ryder Cup uniforms would be held at such and such a time at such and such a place.

"I think that was yesterday," someone said.

Arnie grinned and tossed the paper back in the locker.

"That's me and the Ryder Cup—a day late," he said.

Palmer has been a member of every team since 1961 and captained the squad in the biennial competition with a team of British professionals in 1963.

* * *

But he hasn't won a tournament in more than a year, ranks 15th in the competition for the 12-man squad and faces a very stiff test if he is to make the team for the fifth time.

Points are awarded through the PGA Championship Aug. 14-17. They are won on the basis of standings in the various tournaments with 70 for first place on a sliding scale down through 10th place.

Frank Beard now leads with 323.85 points, followed in order by Lee Trevino, Billy Casper, Jack Nicklaus and Gene Littler.

The 12th spot, the last place on the team, is held by Ray Floyd with 170.88 points. He is followed by Ken Still, 167.20; Julius Boros, 160.65, and Palmer, 146.74.

Pitcher Whiffs 8 for U.A.W. 'B' 9

Bill Sowerine (2-0) tossed two-hit ball and whiffed eight as U.A.W. Local 653 thumped the Auburn Hills Town House team, 7-1, in the men's city Class B baseball race last night.

Willie Hilton singled home one run and scored another on a sacrifice fly to give Sowerine all the runs he needed in a two-run second inning. Five more tallies in the third put the contest out of reach.

Now 7-1, the U.A.W. team had doubles by Hersh Osentosky, Frank Richmond and Jerry Hensley in the big third-inning outburst.

Coast Golfer on Win Streak

OAK PARK, Ill. (AP) — Petite Jane Bastanchury, of Whittier, Calif., has won every golf event she has entered this season and this sensational streak could well extend through the Women's Western Amateur.

* * *

The girl that she defeated in the finals of the National International Intercollegiate, Dorothy Germain of Southern Illinois University, via Blytheville, Ark., is among the quarter-finalists in Thursday's Western Amateur action.

If Dorothy and Jane win they will tangle in the semifinals Friday.

Coach on Mend

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan State basketball coach John Benington, who suffered a heart attack in early April, has recuperated to the point where he can "jog a bit and play some golf," the school reported Wednesday.

Stock Mart Holds Onto Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's rally ran up a strong early gain and held on to much of it in fairly active trading early this afternoon, with the popular averages up and gains well ahead of losses.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 5.88 at 855.22. The Dow had been up 6.92 at 10:30 a.m.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up 1.8 at 303.0, with industrials up 3.7, rails up .8, and utilities up .2.

Gains led losses by better than 500 issues.

LARGELY TECHNICAL

The market's advance was regarded as largely technical in nature by some analysts. They said that during the market's recent sharp slump the prices of many issues had dropped to levels which made them attractive to bargain hunters.

They added, however, that the spurt of selective buying could fade as quickly as it began.

Some of the companies connected with the Apollo 11 moon shot—which one analyst said "seemed to give the psychology around here a bit of a boost"—moved higher.

Grumman Aircraft was up ⅛ at 29⅜; McDonnell Douglas, up 1⅛ at 29¾; North American Rockwell, up ⅞ at 31⅜; Boeing, up ½ at 37⅛; and General Electric, up 1¼ at 87⅝.

Steels mostly were fractionally lower. Motors all gained fractions. Utilities and chemicals had a higher tone.

Two Key Dems Switch Focus to Earth's Ills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's two leading Democrats say any U.S. effort to put a man on Mars by the end of the century should take a back seat to a national commitment aimed at meeting the earthly needs of this world.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and his assistant, Edward M. Kennedy, reacted vigorously Wednesday following the suggestion by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew that the next major U.S. space goal be Mars.

★ ★ ★

Both senators said the nation should make its top priority solving earthly problems—hunger, housing, poverty and education — before undertaking more costly space ventures.

"The needs of the people on earth, and especially in this country, should have priority," Mansfield said.

"We have important and demanding needs here on earth that demand early attention," said Kennedy, who suggested that after reaching the moon the space program "ought to be fitted into our other national priorities in an orderly manner."

Significance was given to Agnew's statement, made at Cape Kennedy, Fla., following the launch of the Apollo 11 moon ship, because he heads a presidential committee on reevaluating the nation's long space range space goals.

Mansfield and Kennedy, the latter considered a potential 1972 Democratic presidential candidate, speak for a group of liberals already working to cut military spending in favor of increased funds for domestic projects.

The Senate Space Committee, heavily weighted with Pentagon supporters, has approved a $3.715-billion space program — exactly the amount the Nixon administration prooposed—for the current fiscal year. It cut $250 million from the authorization previously approved by the House.

OTHER FIGURES

This figure does not include, however, $2.21 billion allocated to the Defense Department, $102 million to the Atomic Energy Commission and smaller amount to other agencies, bringing the over-all space program to $5.88 billion for the year.

This figure is likely to come under heavy attack from the senators who question the value of further major manned probes into space after scheduled additional moon explorations over the next two years.

★ ★ ★

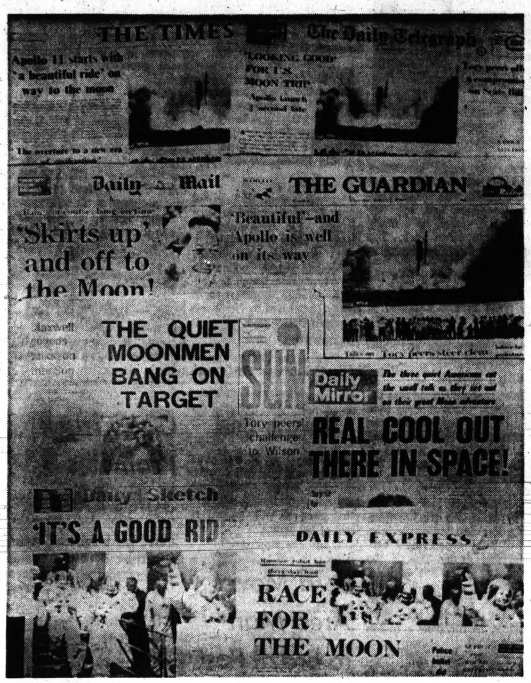

However, the Mansfield-Kennedy position wasn't entirely accepted by other Democrats. Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the House Democratic whip, said it "would be like telling the Wright brothers to stop after they flew a couple of hundred feet," to go slow now on the space program.

The space committee mentioned only a "low-cost mission to the planet Mercury in 1973" as a likely future project.

NUCLEAR ROCKETS

It joined the House in boosting the requested $36.5 million to $50 million funds for development of nuclear rockets "to provide advanced space propulsion capability for future national needs."

Depending on the successes of the Apollo 11 mission, the Senate committee said subsequent visits to the moon will be made at the rate of about three a year.

WELL-DONE, BLOKES—London's morning dailies splashed the news of Apollo 11's launch and progress across their front pages today.

NASA Hosts Pioneer in Space Medicine

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Quietly following the progress of Apollo 11 is a man who began laying medical groundwork for such a flight before the moon-bound astronauts were born.

Dr. Herbertus Strughold, 71, regarded here as the "father of space medicine," watched the start of the voyage this week as a guest here of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

★ ★ ★

As he hears the voices of the crew on the way to the moon, the spry space expert can recall the days when he conducted crude tests of weightlessness by stunting in early airplanes.

Or he'll remember how he spent hours scanning the heavens as a boy in his native Germany, keeping his eyes "more on the sky than on the earth."

FIRST LECTURES

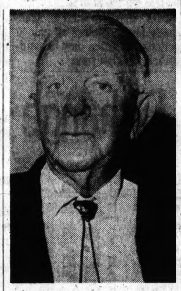

Or his thoughts may go back to 1927, when he delivered his first lectures on flight physiology.

Strughold retired last year as a top scientist at Brooks Air Force Base in San Antonio, Tex., after 21 years of civilian service with the Air Force.

★ ★ ★

During the late 1920s, he began studying the physiological effects of aviation.

He conducted some of the first simulated altitude experiments at Wuerzburg, Germany, in 1927, staying inside a "metabolic chamber" for as much as an hour in an atmospheric pressure corresponding to 21,000 feet.

DR. HERBERTUS STRUGHOLD

MORE EXPERIMENTS

Two years later he was aboard a plane again for more experiments with weightlessness. This time he numbed his hips with an anesthetic, cocaine, to get the full effect.

"I felt unsafe. I had no feeling," he recalled.

★ ★ ★

Except for a brief visit to the United States to conduct research, he remained in Germany until after World War II.

★ ★ ★

He accepted an invitation to join the School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Field, San Antonio in 1947. Eleven years later he and his associates conducted a simulated eight-day flight to the moon with an Air Force volunteer in a tiny pressure chamber.

VIVID MEMORY

Strughold remembers vividly when the Soviet Union sent Sputnik into orbit.

"It didn't scare me," he said, "but I just did not like it."

Moon Shot: Rave Reviews

LONDON (AP) — Europe is moonstruck by the Apollo 11 mission.

Newspapers throughout the continent filled their pages with pictures of the Saturn 5 rocket blasting off to forge earth's first link with its natural satellite, and headline writers taxed their imaginations for words to hail the feat.

★ ★ ★

"The greatest adventure in the history of humanity has started," declared the French newspaper Le Figaro, which devoted four pages to reports from Cape Kennedy and diagrams of the mission.

The tabloid Paris-Jour proclaimed, "The whole world tells them 'Bravo.' "

LOTS OF SPACE

The Communist daily l'Humanite led with a launch picture and devoted its entire back page to an enthusiastic moon report, describing the countdown and launch, the astronauts' wives and families and backgrounding lunar activities.

Britain's five-million circulation Daily Mirror used two-inch high type to herald the launch. "Real cool out there in space—the three quiet Americans cut the small talk as they set out on their greatest moon adventure," it declared.

★ ★ ★

Most British newspapers stressed the relaxed attitude of the spacemen in their radio contact with mission control.

"The quiet moonmen bang on target," said the Sun.

'OFF TO THE MOON'

"Bang on course, bang on time—'skirts up' and off to the moon," said the Daily Mail. "Beautiful," said the Guardian and the Times. "Looking good," said the Daily Telegraph.

The Communist Morning Star refused to give the story first prominence but conceded: "The challenge of Yuri Gagarin's immortal pioneer orbit and the shame of the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba was being expunged in the rocket's fire."

★ ★ ★

There was some sniping.

The Daily Mail cartoonist portrayed two starving children in Biafra gazing at the moon and saying: "Maybe they'll discover it is made of cheese and bring some back for us to eat."

Daily Mirror columnist John Pilger wrote from Cape Kennedy, "The people who gave us Vietnam are giving us the moon."

Huge front-page headlines marked the adventure in major Yugoslav newspapers, which devoted three to six pages to Apollo. One newspaper issued a special edition.

★ ★ ★

In Rome, both the pro-government Il Messagero and the Communist party organ l'Unita hailed the moon shot and dedicated special sections to the mission.

Romans were excited and impressed by Apollo 11.

'FANTASTIC THING'

"It's a fantastic thing that shows how strong is the push of man to enlarge his confines," a taxi driver said.

"We are making history," said a storeowner.

★ ★ ★

In Manchester, England, two song writers composed a number called "On the Face of the Moon," which will be broadcast over the British armed forces network in Germany throughout the mission.

★ ★ ★

Although in most other countries, including Poland, the launch was shown immediately on television, the Soviet network waited four hours and 12 minutes before showing a four-minute tape recording of it.

WATCHED ELSEWHERE

In other parts of the world, the mission also attracted attention.

The U.S. Embassy in Seoul put up a 20-foot-square television screen to show the launch, and about 50,000 South Koreans gathered to watch. Apollo programs will be presented every night until splashdown next week.

★ ★ ★

Technical complications prevented a live telecast of the launch in Brazil, but Brazilians listened to accounts on radio and bought out special newspaper editions covering the moon shot. The television station promised to have the trouble fixed in time to present progress of the flight and coverage of the moon landing.

In Hong Kong, three Communist newspapers attacked the mission as a cover-up for the Americans' failure to win the Vietnam war and charged that the moon landing mission was an effort to "extend imperialism into space."

Guard Is Called Out in Tense Ohio Town

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — National guardsmen were ordered into Youngstown streets early Thursday after racial violence erupted on the city's south side for the second straight night, spreading to an estimated eight to ten blocks.

Scattered fire-bombings and lootings were reported by police in violence which began late Wednesday in a two-block area which was the scene of disturbances in April 1968.

★ ★ ★

Mayor Anthony Flask said other National Guard units in nearby Ravenna and Canton had been placed on standby alert. The number of men involved was not immediately known.

Six persons were reported injured, including one policeman hurt by flying glass and another injured by a thrown rock. None of the injured were believed seriously hurt. Eleven persons were arrested, most on charges of resisting arrest or curfew violations, An 11:55 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew for all persons was in effect in the disturbance.

INTO THE STREETS

Flask said the 150 National Guardsmen were ordered onto the streets at 3 a.m. to help police guard city cleanup crews.

The exact number of fire-bombings was not immediately determined, and city officials said several false alarms had been sounded.

★ ★ ★

Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered the first National Guard call-up after he was contacted at a White House dinner in Washington.

Dials Wrong Number and Saves a Life

NEW YORK (AP) — A 15-year-old girl dialed a wrong number that became the first step in saving the life of an elderly Queens woman.

Patricia Dunne of Manhattan tried to telephone her cousin Tuesday night. But she reached a wrong number, and Marie Cahill, 75, answered.

★ ★ ★

"Please help. Help me. Someone has to do something for me," Mrs. Cahill told Patricia. After a few more words, the phone dropped, and Patricia was worried.

She notified the telephone company, which traced the call when Patricia remembered the number she dialed by mistake. The girl's mother, Mrs. Margaret Dunne, returned home, heard the story and notified police.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

Police broke into Mrs. Cahill's apartment in Queens and found her unconscious on the floor. She had been stricken by a heart attack. Her hands still clutched the phone.

She was rushed to Elmhurst General Hospital, where she was in fair condition today. Mrs. Cahill was visited today by Patricia and her mother.

★ ★ ★

"It must have been God," she said, when she heard of her rescue.

Geology Study Was Stressed for Astronauts

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The motivation inside geology classrooms at the manned spacecraft center was good, says one astronaut who went through the course.

The astronauts are given intensive training sessions in lunar geology since they must make final decisions on what samples are brought back from the moon's surface.

★ ★ ★

"They always told us the best geologist would be the first man on the moon," quipped scientist-astronaut Dr. Don L. Lind.

He said some of the guys really "studied hard."

Job-Training Aid

LANSING (AP) — The U.S. Labor Department has announced the award of grants for the training of disadvantaged Michigan workers. The United Auto Workers international union, with headquarters in Detroit, will receive $789,000 to train 200 workers. Michigan Standard Alloys Inc. of Benton Harbor will receive $16,100 for the training of 20 workers.

Charlie Brown Says:
"There's nothing so devastating as having a cherished belief clobbered"

AND IF YOU HAVE CHERISHED A BELIEF that you could live in the newer homes for a large family you're about to have that belief clobbered. Come see this older house. The house was built over 129 years ago and shows it. On the old stage coach route from Pontiac to Lansing. First settlement west of Pontiac. There was a blacksmith shop, post office, old hotel and stable, stage coach barn for changing of horses on the route. Has been in the winds of time except this house — standing like a rock, with its — whirlpools of change swirling around its old solid feet. Retaining its beauty with old fashioned lilac hedges, gorgeous roses, peonies, irises, petunias, geraniums, tulips — a riot of color in spring, the summer — a vegetable garden of asparagus, rhubarb, strawberries, corn, lima beans, peas, blackeyed peas, radishes, turnips, onions and beets. Solid and well kept in a modest small community. A delightful small farm with room for 2 cars and playhouse under the shade trees. Lot 126 ft. front and rear by 134.70 on the side. Zoned residential small farms — no asphalt here. Rewired up to code 5 years ago. Well. Gas. 3 approximately 4 large bedrooms, 2 bath and room for another. Modern kitchen — large living room and dining room. 2 car garage. Asbestos siding 4 years ago. In excellent condition. Price $40,000 with $15,000 down. Balance to per cent land contract. Diaries kept by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson during her five years as the nation's first lady will be published in 1971, the New York publishing firm of Holt, Rinehardt & Winston reports.

The company, a subsidiary of the Columbia Broadcasting System, said yesterday it had obtained the rights to publish the diaries. The amount paid for the rights was not disclosed.

The same publishing house obtained the rights to the memoirs of former President Johnson for a reported $1 million and plans to bring out the first volume next spring.

Bomb Threat Cancels Gina's Trip

GINA

Actress Gina Lollobrigida canceled a trip to Moscow on the Soviet airline Aeroflot after the plane she was to have taken was delayed in Rome four hours by an anonymous bomb threat.

Even though police searched the craft and found nothing after the telephoned threat yesterday, Miss Lollobrigida said she decided against the trip to Moscow Film Festival because of a "premonition."

Schedule of TV From Apollo 11

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) —The Apollo 11 astronauts, with an unscheduled program already beamed to earth, are to make their second telecast from space at 6:32 p.m. (Pontiac time) today.

Today's 15-minute colorcast is the first of eight scheduled transmissions, including one showing Neil A. Armstrong setting foot on the moon.

In Wednesday's 16½-minute telecast, the astronauts kept their camera focused on the brilliant, green-white earth from 60,000 miles away. It was the day's second attempt to beam the view back to earth. The first failed, apparently because of a reception problem on the ground.

The schedule, Pontiac time:

Today, at 6:32-6:47 p.m. — from Apollo command ship. Color.

Friday, July 18, at 6:32-6:47 p.m. — from command ship. Color.

Saturday, July 19, at 3:02 p.m. — from command ship in lunar orbit. Color.

Sunday, July 20, at 12:52-1:07 p.m. — from the command ship, showing the undocking and beginning of descent of the lunar module. Color.

★ ★ ★

Monday, July 21, at 12:57-1:07 a.m. — from command module in lunar orbit. Color. At 1:12-3:52 a.m. — from the moon, showing Armstrong setting foot on the moon and the lunar activities of Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. Black and white.

★ ★ ★

Wednesday, July 23, at 6:02-6:17 p.m. — from the command module as the Apollo is en route back to earth. Color.

Girl, 15, Drowns

HOUGHTON (AP)—A 15-year-old Detroit girl, Debora Czurzynski, drowned Wednesday in the north end of Houghton Lake in Roscommon County. Police said the girl had been swimming with three companions when she stepped into a hole in the lake bottom.

Joan Collins Nixes 'Look' of Swimsuit

LONDON (AP) — Film star Joan Collins has refused to wear a swimsuit that becomes see-through when wet in her latest movie "The Executioner."

"I'm no prude," she said, "but the suit practically disappears when it's wet. I honestly think the love scenes are hot enough without this costume."

★ ★ ★

Joan costars with George Peppard in the movie, now on location in London. The love scenes will be shot on an athens beach this summer.

Serious crime in the United States was up 17 per cent in 1968 over 1967.

A Look at TV

Lift-Off Coverage Great

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — The television networks, like the astronauts and the space technicians at Cape Kennedy, have the Apollo launches down pat.

Coverage Wednesday went as smoothly as the lift-off of the Apollo 11 for the voyage to the moon.

In essence, it was a dress rehearsal for television's marathon coverage of the landing on the moon.

CBS and NBC will devote 31 hours of continuous coverage and ABC 30 hours to this critical phase of the mission Sunday and Monday.

SAME OLD WORDS

Amid the superlatives unfurled for this flight, NBC's Chet Huntley put his finger on a bothersome fact. "I have the feeling," he said, "that what we need is a new vocabulary. We're using the same words to describe this journey as we did to describe the voyages of Columbus and Magellan."

Eric Sevareid was thinking along similar lines on CBS. "Ours is not a romantic era," he said. "We don't have a language to adequately describe this event. How do you say 'as high as the sky' now?"

★ ★ ★

Actually, the pictures did quite well.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, seeing his first launch in person, described it as an "awesome sight," and said, "I don't know of anything with a greater potential for peace than the space effort."

INTERVIEW PLANNED

He will discuss the space program in an interview with Walter Cronkite during CBS' weekend coverage.

ABC, which is supplying the international pool coverage, estimated that 528 million people in North and South America, Europe, Asia and Australia saw the launch by means of satellite television.

★ ★ ★

Alaska also received by satellite its first live pictures of a launch.

More people—at least one out of every four persons on earth according to one estimate—will see some phase of the Apollo 11 mission than have witnessed any event in history.

ONE-HOUR TRANSMISSION

The one-hour transmission of the launch went to a number of Iron Curtain countries, including the Soviet Union. Thirty-three nations in the non-Communist world took the transmission, and a number relayed it to other countries without antennae.

★ ★ ★

Many countries sent correspondents to provide voice commentary with the pool pictures.

The cost of supplying the pool, which also is used by the three American networks, is estimated at $1.5 million.

Will Smog Come to Coronado?

Bridge Is Up—So Is Their Ire

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — "We know it's there, but we hate it," says Mrs. Ralph Pray of the spectacular new bridge linking picturesque Coronado with California's mainland.

"Three times we voted it down, and they shoved it down our throats."

★ ★ ★

The $47-million bridge over San Diego Bay will carry its first cars Aug. 2 after Gov. Ronald Reagan and other state officials dedicate it. Soon, the bridge-haters expect 20 million cars annually and say they'll bring smog and traffic problems.

The era of semi-isolation may be over for Coronado, an 18,000-population retirement-tourist community now linked to the modern world only by rustic ferry boats and a two-mile strand of beach.

In trying to resolve the bitterness, Mayor W. Paul Vetter issued a proclamation Wednesday designating Aug. 2 as bridge opening day.

Coronado didn't ask for the bridge, he said, but "inexorable pressures" brought it. Bridge opponents generally blame former Gov. Edmund G. Brown, who pushed the state's bridge plans during his administration.

★ ★ ★

"It is imperative," said the mayor, "that the citizens regard this new facility for access to our city as a challenge to achieve greater enjoyment of living rather than as a threat to tranquility . . .

"Any controversy over what is now an accomplished fact must subside."

BUILDING BOOM

A building boom for Coronado is forecast by E. R. Foley, chief engineer for the state Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

★ ★ ★

"Coronado may become one of the most popular high-rise resort communities of the nation," Foley said.

★ ★ ★

He sees the bridge as giving access to Navy facilities and cutting commuting time for San Diego workers. The speed limit on the two-mile bridge will be 55 miles an hour. The toll per car will be 60 cents.

"I think everybody is going to accept this thing," a businessman said. "Maybe it will take a little time."

A Snake Tale

GROBLERSDAL, South Africa (AP) — Spotting a short length of snake's tail protruding from a haystack, Mrs. Marie Gotan went after it with a stick.

★ ★ ★

A second later she was battling 17 feet of angry python. A farm worker rescued her by smashing the snake with a fence post.

Unerring Apollo Halfway to Moon

MAKE OVER PAGES

From Our News Wires

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Apollo 11 sped its astronauts unerringly on a space odyssey toward the moon today and a rendezvous with history Sunday in the Sea of Tranquility.

The command ship and lunar module, linked nose-to-nose, this morning were about 120,000 miles from earth, halfway to the moon and moving at about 3,000 miles an hour.

Spacecraft commander Neil A. Armstrong and Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins reported having slept seven hours last night. Air Force Col. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. said he slept 5½ hours. This morning the crew plunged into checks of the spacecraft systems on which their adventure depends.

Related Stories, Pictures, Pages A-10, B-1, D-8, D-17

Their launch atop a 36-story Saturn rocket yesterday was so accurate that they skipped a scheduled course adjustment last night, giving them an extra two hours of rest.

COLLINS FIRST ASLEEP

Their tasks completed, they began their rest about 8 p.m. (Pontiac time) after a bedtime snack. Collins was asleep 30 minutes or an hour before Armstrong and Aldrin who are to land the "Eagle" lunar module on the southwest edge of the Sea of Tranquillity.

Armstrong and then Aldrin will take man's first steps on the moon starting at 1:21 a.m. Monday if the epic mission continues as smoothly as it started.

Several governors and mayors have already honored a request yesterday by President Nixon's request that they declare a holiday Monday to celebrate man's first landing on the moon.

Nixon signed a proclamation declaring Monday a national day of participation hours after he watched the liftoff on television.

His action gives Monday off to all federal employes except those in national security and public service areas.

The spacecraft yesterday developed only minor trouble spots mission controllers said posed no threat.

★ ★ ★

A flow indicator in an oxygen vent used to force waste water into space was giving a low reading. A test today will determine if the sensor was at fault. Alternate systems are available.

Collins reported some difficulty making star sightings. Controllers attributed this to the attitude of the spacecraft in relation to the stars.

★ ★ ★

When the Apollo command ship cut loose from the Saturn's third state and turned to nose the bug-like lunar module, communication with the ground was lost for several minutes.

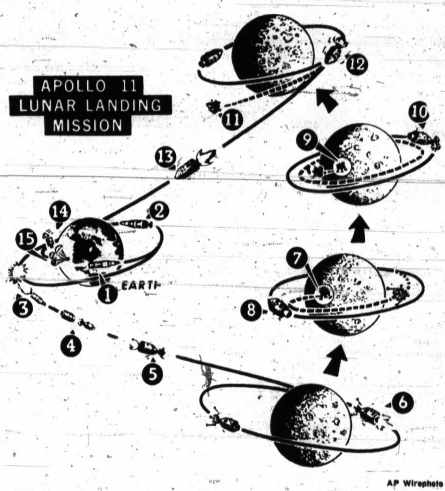

Collins later explained he maneuvered a further away than he planned from the third stage and got his radio antenna out of alignment with earth.

MCOM-State Link Seems Doomed

By ED BLUNDEN

The Pontiac location for a new college of osteopathic medicine is excluded in a revised version of a bill which cleared the Legislature yesterday.

The new version encompasses a request from Gov. Milliken's office which specifies that the school be located at "an existing campus of a state university with an existing school or college of medicine."

★ ★ ★

The original bill had cleared the Legislature July 2. It stated that the State Board of Education would determine the affiliation of the school.

Under that wording, the state board could have designated Oakland University or Wayne State University as the affiliation and had the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine (MCOM), now under construction in Pontiac, as the location.

'COMPROMISE MEASURE'

State Rep. Loren D. Anderson, R-Waterford Township, told the Press from Lansing today that the bill passed as a compromise measure — allowing the osteopathic college, but denying it separate entity.

A statement from Gov. Milliken's staff today said money for a Pontiac site "was definitely excluded" in the new measure. Reasoning was that existing state colleges have buildings which could contain the college, and separate buildings in Pontiac "would be a duplication of funding."

★ ★ ★

Anderson said the Pontiac facility could still be utilized as part of whichever state institution is awarded the college.

He termed the new measure "half a loaf," and said he and other representatives from the Pontiac area had fought hard to try to bring the facility to Pontiac.

He said the new measure indicates a continuing power struggle between state medical doctors and osteopaths. The new wording would bring osteopaths more directly under a board of trustees which also has jurisdiction over a medical doctorate program.

State osteopaths long have fought for the Pontiac location. They have begun building their school at the Auburn-Opdyke site. MCOM is to open in fall, with private funding.

★ ★ ★

The bill awaits only Gov. Milliken's signature or tacit approval before becoming law. He has 10 days in which to veto the measure, but this is not likely since the bill contains the wording he wanted.

The State Board of Education decision could come before the new school year and funding period begins.

TWO FEDERAL GRANTS

MCOM in the last few weeks has received two grants from the office of Housing, Education and Welfare totaling $61,700.

Grand Jury Bill Is Before Senate

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's unique one-man grand jury system — called both a "political guillotine" and a "necessary law enforcement tool" — faced a possible life or death sentence in the Legislature today.

In a preliminary vote during debate on a grandy jury bill yesterday, the Senate narrowly defeated a House proposal to kill the one-man system.

★ ★ ★

The vote was 17-16. A 20-vote total, necessary to pass on legislation, is not required until final-vote stages.

Final vote on the measure, which sets up a 13-17 member grand jury that the House wanted to replace the one-man system, was expected today.

LEFT DEFENSELESS?

"I don't believe this state should leave itself without an effective crime fighting tool before it knows what the alternative (the larger jury) would be," said Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Robert Richardson, R-Saginaw.

★ ★ ★

Repealing the one-man system would be a "rotten" move, charged Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford Township.

Lodge maintained that "repudiation" of the one-man system could jeopardize workings of the newly named Oakland County one-man grand jury, sought charged with digging into alleged corruption.

Goal for PAUF: $1.24 Million

A record goal of $1,240,000 has been set for this year's Pontiac Area United Fund drive, PAUF President Fredrick J. Poole announced today.

The goal, the highest in the history of the Pontiac Area United Fund and a 15 per cent increase over the amount raised last year was decided on after months of deliberation by UF officials.

★ ★ ★

In 1967 for the first time in 10 years the PAUF failed to reach its set goal of $1.13 million by about 10 per cent. Last year a goal of $1.13 million was again set and contributions fell about 6 per cent below the figure.

Poole explained "Agency services and needs have increased proportionately with the area's rapid increase in population. This, coupled with the inflationary trends everyone has been experiencing, has created the necessity for this year's increase."

GIRL SCOUTS REJOIN

He added that a sizable sum was included in the figure because of the Northern Oakland Girl Scouts rejoining te PAUF. The group had previously split from the PAUF in a dispute over budgeting policies.

PAUF general campaign chairman, Warren H. Eierman, executive vice president of the Community National Bank, spoke optimistically about the coming drive:

"This year's campaign theme, 'Reach Out and Care,' expresses my feelings and hopefully the feelings of the community, regarding this vital campaign."

"If we are to meet the challenges in our community, it is time to reach out to those in need."

GMC Truck Tells of Expansion Plans

Plans for a new GMC Truck and Coach Division building and plant modernization program were announced today by Martin J. Caserio, a vice president of General Motors and divisional general manager.

Pontiac coach-assembly facilities at the main manufacturing complex will be expanded. And in Ypsilanti, a new service-parts warehouse and distribution center will be constructed on an 80-acre site, just north of Willow Run Airport, eventually replacing the Pontiac parts warehouse.

★ ★ ★

The entire project is expected to be completed in the summer of 1971.

Pontiac coach-assembly plans revealed by Caserio include a new 135,000-square-foot manufacturing addition and extensive modernization of facilities used currently for intercity coach manufacturing. Construction is set to begin immediately.

When the program is completed, all coach-building operations will be consolidated in one location here. Presently two separate areas are utilized for coach assembly.

Caserio said the new parts center will consist of 1,077,600 square feet of floor space and incorporate the latest in warehousing and shipping techniques including applications of computer technology.

Construction is scheduled to begin this fall. Industry sources estimated the program involves about $40 million. GM disclosed no cost estimate, but said it would be the division's biggest single expansion and improvement project ever.

Replacement of the Pontiac parts warehouse by the Ypsilanti operation is expected to result in little, if any, decrease in local employment, Caserio explained.

TRANSFERS AVAILABLE

The more than 500 persons employed at the Pontiac warehouse, located at South Saginaw and W. South Boulevard will be offered jobs either at the new Willow Run location, about 40 miles away or in other Pontiac GMC operations.

The new coach-building facility and parts center are the latest in a series of expansion and modernization programs adopted at GMC Truck & Coach since early-1968.

★ ★ ★

PGH Trustees Meet Tonight

The Pontiac General Hospital Board of Trustees is expected to have plenty of company at its regular meeting at the hospital at 7:30 tonight.

A group of employes has indicated they will attend to ask again why former administrator Harold B. Euler was fired last month. Some 835 employes signed a protest petition after the firing, but have thus far been given no reply.

Soviet Craft Orbits Moon; Briton Predicts Landing Try

JODRELL BANK, England (AP) — The Soviet Luna 15 probe orbited the moon today. Jodrell Bank astronomers said they expected an attempt to land the unmanned craft on the moon by tomorrow morning.

★ ★ ★

Observatory director Sir Bernard Lovell said Luna 15 was in an eliptical orbit two hours long and taking the craft from 600 to 1,200 miles above the moon.

Lovell said his radio telescope, the West's main listening post for Luna 15 since it was launched Sunday, that it was sending back "heaps" of data.

★ ★ ★

The official Soviet news agency Tass said in Moscow Luna 15 had become an artificial satellite of the moon, a statement interpreted in the Russian capital as possibly meaning no landing attempt would be made. Lovell said he did not believe this.

'NO SENSE OTHERWISE'

"It simply doesn't make sense to create another lunar satellite at this stage of the Soviet program," Lovell declared.

"In my opinion, this is not the end of the exercise but probably the beginning," he added. "I think it will stay in orbit probably for the rest of the day and then an attempt will be made to land the whole spacecraft, or part of it, and collect some rock."

Lovell conceded he was speculating on the purpose of Luna 15, although similar predictions had been made by unofficials Moscow sources that the Russians would try to steal some of the thunder of the American manned Apollo 11 flight and bring back lunar samples first.

3½ Hours to Orlando

Logjam at the Cape

By HARRY J. REED
Editor, The Pontiac Press

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. — For a while after the moon-shot yesterday, we began to wonder if the three astronauts would be back on earth before we reached our motel in Orlando, 50 miles away.

Predictions of a massive traffic jam when the estimated 800,000 spectators left the launch area were quite accurate.

The poor people's mule train along one of the expressways was making better time than our bus.

As it was, the astronauts had made several orbits around earth, relighted the third-stage rocket, and put themselves on the way to the moon well before we had completed our 3½-hour trip to Orlando.

Pontiac Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. and I thought we were going to ride the bus all the way home, at one point. Heading north along the Florida coast, our driver was unable to make a left turn, and we had visions of going up to the Carolinas before we could head inland.

Memories of the flashing orange flames of ignition and the terrific rumbling as the spaceship lumbered up toward history were recalled again and again as the brief seconds of launching were reexamined by the visitors trapped on the motionless bus.

★ ★ ★

The overwhelming emotion of pride in the accomplishments of our space program, and awe of the powerful rocket, carried the day.

Scattered Showers May Cool Us a Bit

The weatherman says scattered showers or thundershowers are due in Pontiac tonight and again tomorrow.

They are expected to bring temperatures to a low of 63 to 68 tonight. The high will reach 80 to 86 tomorrow.

Scattered thundershowers also are possible Saturday.

Probabilities of precipitation are 30 per cent through tomorrow.

A muggy 76 was the low in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. By 12:30 p.m. the mercury had climbed to 88.

Nixon Rules Out Wage and Price Controls for Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, moving to stamp out speculation fed by his own treasury secretary, has all but ruled out wage-price controls as a weapon against inflation.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, after conferring with Nixon, said yesterday "The administration has ruled out wage and price controls as a way of dealing with inflation under conditions that are now foreseeable."

★ ★ ★

Lest anyone conclude that the "foreseeable" reference was intended to be a loophole, Ziegler added:

★ ★ ★

"Looking into the future with the knowledge and experience that this administration has, and projecting the various alternatives that could be used in the future, wage and price controls would not be considered."

SPECULATIVE STATEMENTS

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy has on several occasions made statements resulting in speculation the President might put a ceiling on wages and prices, something not tried since the Korean war.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy always indicated he did not favor such controls, but refused to state flatly they wouldn't be imposed, particularly if Congress refused to extend the income surtax.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy's latest statement on the matter, along with the sequence of the White House pronouncements on the matter indicated the confusion over the issue.

★ ★ ★

Ziegler at a morning news briefing made the first reference to presidential opposition to mandatory wage-price restraints. This was followed by a Kennedy news conference about 1 p.m., when the spectre of controls was again raised.

★ ★ ★

This in turn was followed by the strong statement issued about 3:30 p.m. by the White House at a regular afternoon press briefing.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy told newsmen regarding wage-price controls, "I close no doors on any kind of possibility." He emphasized, however, he considered it an academic matter being discussed only as a possibility if all other anti-inflationary moves failed.

LEFT DOOR OPEN

In spite of all the disclaimers over the word "foreseeable" being a loophole, the White House statement did leave open the possibility, however unlikely, the administration's knowledge and experience might be altered with the passage of time and that controls conceivably could be revived as an option in dire circumstances.

★ ★ ★

It seemed apparent the administration, which looked upon the Treasury chief's remarks with something less than favor, apparently hope to clarify the situation and place potential controls in the category of the virtually unthinkable.

NEW ADDITION — A 135,000-square-foot building addition to GMC Truck & Coach Division's coach-building facility will consolidate in Pontiac all coach-manufacturing operations — transit, suburban and intercity — under one roof with a single assembly line. Construction is set to begin immediately.

Conditions Set for Cease-Fire in Latin America

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Honduras and El Salvador each agreed to a cease-fire in their three-day-old war last night, but each nation attached conditions, which delayed an end to the fighting.

★ ★ ★

A peace committee of the Organization of American States had asked the warring Central American neighbors to agree to a peace plan which unofficial sources said called for:

- A return to territorial conditions that existed before the fighting broke out with each nation's armed forces pulling back three miles behind its borders.

★ ★ ★

- Respect for the citizens of one country living in the other.
- Neutral military observers to see that the cease-fire is observed.
- An end to hostile radio and press propaganda in both countries.

CONDITIONS TO CEASE-FIRE

Honduras agreed to the plan on condition that El Salvador withdraw its troops.

★ ★ ★

El Salvador also agreed to the plan but on condition that the OAS provide machinery adequate to enforce the agreement. It demanded particularly that more than 275,000 Salvadoreans living in Honduras be protected against "persecution."

★ ★ ★

Diplomatic sources in Washington said after an OAS council meeting the Honduran government had agreed to allow an OAS committee to inspect its territory to check on the treatment of the Salvadoreans living there.

Meanwhile, troops of the two countries continued to shoot at each other. Honduras announced today its forces had struck an area about five miles inside El Salvador and that enemy troops were abandoning their arms and fleeing.

City Rights Unit Probing Incident

The Pontiac Human Relations Commission (HRC) yesterday officially stepped into the case of charges of brutality made against two members of the City Police Department.

Samuel Baker, HRC chairman and personnel officer for the city, said an emergency meeting was called last night and an investigation begun.

★ ★ ★

HRC is probing the forceful arrest last Thursday of two black community workers outside the Hayes Jones Center.

Arrested after a struggle were Kenneth Walker, 27, of 97 S. Jessie, an employe of Harambee Inc., and Elick Shorter, 25, of 529 Judson, social director for the Pontiac Area Urban League.

TRIED TO INTERVENE

According to the reports a struggle began when police attempted to arrest Walker on a charge of creating a disturbance. Shorter was arrested when he apparently attempted to intervene. Both men face charges in District Court.

Urban League officials have protested Shorter was only attempting to act as peacemaker but that he was beaten, arrested and jailed anyway. He was hospitalized briefly with a head wound. Police brutality in both arrests has been claimed. The two patrolmen accused were Raymond C. Hays and Clarence Yuill.

★ ★ ★

HRC will begin by getting police reports and statements, Baker said. Following this, statements by the arrested men and witnesses will be taken.

"After all the evidence is gathered, the commission will evaluate it and decide on a course of action," Baker said.

15-20 CITIZENS

The HRC was formed in 1966 and is made up of 15 to 20 citizens appointed by the City Commission.

Area Auto Workers Laid Off for '70-Model Changeovers

Several thousand area workers are affected by model changeovers at local automotive assembly plants.

Production of 1969 models ended yesterday at Pontiac Motor Division's home plant. Company officials said the majority of the division's 16,500 production employes will be laid off for a short period.

During the layoff, inventory and plant rearrangement activities are expected to be carried on.

Fisher Body plant employes were furloughed earlier this week for the annual two-week changeover period. Company officials said about 3,800 employes were affected.

GRADUAL START

After completion of the inventory and plant rearrangements, production of parts for the 1970 models will begin on a gradual basis.

Pontiac Motor expects to be assembling 1970 models at the home plant by Aug. 11, officials said.

Divisional offices noted that production of 1969 Pontiac models will continue for several days at plants in Fremont, Calif., Baltimore, Md., and Framingham, Mass.

Senate Panel Mulling Fate of Surtax, Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee was called behind closed doors today to chart a course for dealing with extension of the income surtax.

The position of Republicans on the committee, at a 10-7 disadvantage, was that the panel immediately start drafting its version of the House-passed measure without waiting to consider any tax reform riders.

★ ★ ★

But the Democratic powers in the Senate-Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and his assistant, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts — went into the session holding out for accompanying major tax reform even if it takes two more months to complete work on the legislation.

The Democratic leadership has announced it will not call the surtax bill up for debate unless a tax reform bill is also ready.

The sources said the meeting will be opened by Nixon on July 29, one day after his arrival.

Grand Jury Bill Is Before Senate

Opponents, who contended repeal of the system would in no way affect the Oakland County probe, termed the one-man system "an archaic form of investigative pursuit."

'POLITICAL GUILLOTINE?

"It's a political guillotine," said Sen. James Gray, D-Warren, pointing at secrecey provisions binding all such investigations.

"There's been no evidence presented at any time to justify the existence of the one-man grand jury, regardless if it is replaced by anything," he said.

★ ★ ★

"I've seen a grand jury destroy people who never had had an opportunity to defend themselves," offered Sen. William Faust, D-Westland.

Sen. Garland Lane, D-Flint, said he had voted to do away with the one-man system as far back as 1949. "It was a facist court and gave no protection to anybody," he said.

CONDEMNATION

Sen. Michael O'Brien, D-Detroit, condemned the one-man system that he said generally failed to indict anyone but the "little man." "The minute you indict somebody" that's somebody," he said, "It's thrown out" of court.

Sen. George Fitzgerald, D-Grosse Pointe Park, a former prosecutor and defense attorney in cases involving one-man grand juries, said he believed the system "has in a sense outlived its usefulness."

★ ★ ★

The bill, without the repealer, would permit citizens jury panels of 13-17 members, instead of the 23 now required.

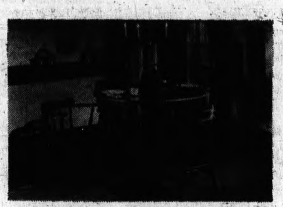

As amended in the Senate, it also would allow use of grand jury records in connection with charges lodged against elected officials, increase of the life of the one-man grand jury from six months to two years with a possible one-year extension, increase penalties for contempt and require the judge to file a full report with the governor.

May Lead to Father-Son Struggle

Franco Expected to Pick Heir

MADRID (AP) — Gen. Francisco Franco is expected to name Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon as his heir next Tuesday, setting the stage for a father-son struggle for the Spanish throne.

The 76-year-old chief of state announced Wednesday night that he was calling an extraordinary session July 22 of the Cortes, the Spanish parliament, "in relation to Article 6 of the Law of Succession of the chieftain of state."

★ ★ ★

Article 6 gives Franco the right to propose his successor—and to rescind the proposal at any time. He is expected to ask the Cortes to approve his nomination of the 31-year-old prince to become king and chief of state upon Franco's death.

★ ★ ★

Immediate approval of whatever Franco proposes is expected from the parliament.

GROOMED FOR DUTY

For 21 years the Franco government has groomed Juan Carlos to be king—since the prince's father, the Count of Barcelona, agreed to allow his son to be educated in Spain.

But Don Juan never relinquished his claim to the throne last occupied by his father, Alfonso XIII, who fled Spain in 1931 under pressure from the republicans and died in exile.

★ ★ ★

A source close to Don Juan, the 56-year-old dynastic head of his branch of the Borbon family, said recently that the father planned to fly to Madrid from his home in Estoril, Portugal, "within an hour" of Franco's death to make a personal bid for the crown.

★ ★ ★

Many Spanish experts see the expected nomination of Juan Carlos as a way of avoiding a politically perilous situation in the hours after Franco's death, but it may only set the stage for a family fight.

RIVAL BRANCH

The selection of either man also is expected to raise an outcry from the Carlists, who support the claim to the throne of Carlos Hugo de Borbony Parma, the pretender from a rival branch of the Borbon family.

Although Alfonso XIII abandoned his throne, Spain has never ceased to be a monarchy. But unlike other monarchies, the Spanish crown does not necessarily pass according to primogeniture, to the eldest son of the reigning monarch. It is handed on by the Cortes, and the only requirements are that the king be at least 30 years old, a Roman Catholic and of royal blood and must swear allegiance to the principles of the National Movement, Spain's only legal political organization under the Franco regime.

Parochiaid Foes to Push for a State Vote

LANSING (UPI) — A group strongly opposed to state aid to parochial schools has promised to put the question of parochiaid on the Michigan ballot in 1970 for the state's voters to decide.

★ ★ ★

Jay Wabeke of Grand Rapids, representing the Citizens to Advance Public Education (CAPE), yesterday revealed the group's plans for a petition drive to the governor's Commission on Education Reform.

★ ★ ★

The commission was holding the third of a series of three public hearings on education in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Wabeke said the issue would be put on the ballot in the form of a constitutional amendment to specifically bar any state aid to parochial schools.

'65 PCT. OPPOSED'

"Our polls in Michigan now show about 65 per cent of the people are opposed to state aid to parochial schools," he said. "If we place it on the ballot, we will win with a majority which would be as high as three to one."

★ ★ ★

Wabeke said it would take some 400,000 signatures to place the issue on the ballot and that "nearly every professional education organization in the state has volunteered to help" secure them.

★ ★ ★

Wabeke said if parochiaid is placed on the ballot it would become "the one issue that every candidate will have to fish or cut bait on.

"They'll have to speak on this," he said, "and I think it would be a good, healthy thing, politically."

Spreen: 1st Year 'a Near Waste'

DETROIT (AP) — Johannes Spreen was quoted Wednesday as saying his first year as Detroit police commissioner was "almost wasted."

Spreen complained in an article in the Detroit Free Press of "all the time spent fighting for things that are needed for a professional police force."

"This city," he said, "can't get off the ground to give the police what they need."

★ ★ ★

He said the Detroit Common Council, for one, "didn't listen to me" on requests about improving the police department.

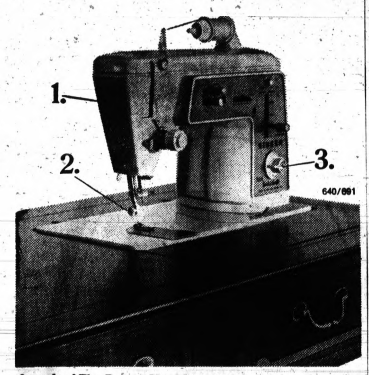

"Why? I'm appointed by the mayor and the council hates the mayor so much, maybe they have transferred it to me."

★ ★ ★

He also criticized New Detroit Inc., an organization begun after the 1967 Detroit riot to ease racial tensions. He said New Detroit refused the police department "$10,000 for 30 lousy scooters" for his neighborhood scooter patrol.

Drug Statistics Only Account for the Visible Abusers

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third in a series on drug use and abuse by Dr. Stanley Einstein a clinical psychologist, executive director of the Institute for the Study of Drug Addictions and editor of the International Journal of Addictions.)

By STANLEY EINSTEIN Ph.D.
(Written for NEA

NEW YORK — A report by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration indicated that approximately one-third of our fellow citizens at one time or another take drugs that weren't prescribed for them.

★ ★ ★

Add these 75 million to the millions of social drinkers and the estimated million problem drinkers.

And for dessert let's add the overweight and the obese. Have we left out anyone you know

Not so long ago parents stayed up late at night waiting for their children to return home from dates.

BIG CONCERN

Now the concern is: Does he or she or doesn't he or she? And it's not sex that we are concerned about.

The under-30 generation is misuing a variety of drugs. The over-30 generation seems to prefer alcohol, although they aren't averse to misusing tranquilizers, aspirins and sleeping pills.

★ ★ ★

But we don't really know how many youngsters or adults are misusing drugs.

The statistics we have only account for the visible drug abuser who comes to the attention of the court, the jail, the federal, state or municipal treatment center.

DRUGS, MYTHS AND ADDICTIONS

NOT INCLUDED

This is a selective group — generally of the lower socio-economic groups.

The person treated for misues of tranquilizers or pep pills by his family doctor is not included in the statistics, and of course, many people never seek treatment. They feel they have no problem.

★ ★ ★

We know about the teen-aged middle-class child who is picked up at a pot party by the police, who call the parents, who promise that their child will never do this again. There is no arrest and no increase in statistics.

We are also becoming concerned about the young girl who is misusing aspirins. She works at a sewing machine in a factory. She has a sensitive employer. He has bottles of 1,000 aspirins in different parts of the plant, to ease the problems associated with "that time of the month."

SERIOUS PROBLEMS

The misuse of aspirins causes serious medical problems lasting longer than those few days; "that time of the month."

There is no arrest and no increase in statistics of drug misues.

★ ★ ★

Some adults may take comfort in thinking that their children will grow out of the drug phase. It is a false comfort.

Should we hope that our marijuana smoker will be better off by turning to alcohol after 30?

MEDICAL SAFETY

The younger generation, in turn, should take little comfort in its argument about the apparent medical safety of marijuana compared to alcohol misues, or by pointing to their parents' daily drinking.

This problem is too serious on a personal level and a national one for us to get involved in oneupmanship.

★ ★ ★

We should remember simply that drugs make sick people healthy and healthy people sick.

Often we are asked to believe that the increase in drug misues is a result of the generation gap.

A COP-OUT

This is a cop-out. Generation gaps have existed since Adam didn't understand why Cain killed Abel. And drugs have been with us since the first grape fermented: since the first cactus was eaten; since tobacco was smoked.

Adolescence is a period of upheaval in which a person begins to find himself and come to terms with himself. He often needs support and acceptance from his friends.

★ ★ ★

Today his friends may be using drugs — and he may follow suit.

A sensitive parent may best help his maturing child by pointing out that the misuse of drugs may indeed be a sign of lack of independence.

The support the child wants and needs from friends does not mean copying their behavior.

You might ask your child to consider whether the friends will drop him if he begins to act independently on some issues, and ask him whether finding himself, which is a lifetime job, is helped or made more difficult by drug use.

Junior Editors Quiz on GLASS BLOWING

QUESTION: How is glass blowing done?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Glass is fascinating because of its bright, sparkling beauty. Yet it is mostly made of plain drablooking sand, to which certain other materials are added such as soda ash, limestone and borax.

These materials are melted together at great heat. They fuse into a syrupy liquid structure, so that it is usually transparent.

The glass is then quickly cooled. It retains its transparent qualities as it hardens. Colors in glass are the result of chemical impurities and are often deliberately added.

Many kinds of glass are made to produce many different objects. Liquid glass may be pressed in a mold, drawn out in sheets (window glass) or cast.

Anancient method of working glass liquid was to blow it out on the end of a long pipe, and then, rolling the pope on side arms, to shape the hot glass with various tools. This process is still being used for making art glass. We illustrate it in the picture.

Tourists Discover Explorer Displays

By National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON — In a city where outstanding attractions abound, Explorers Hall in the National Geographic Society headquarters building draws more than its share of visitors.

Almost a half-million people annually enjoy the adventure-filled museum that spreads over the first floor of the 10-story building in Washington, D.C.

★ ★ ★

Schoolchildren, clubs, and professional groups arrive by the busloads. Movie stars and other celebrities, visiting Washington in response to an invitation to a White House dinner, make it a point to see Explorers Hall before returning home.

Texas high school seniors and vacationing families from Illinois record their names in the Hall guest book next to the signatures of kings, emperors, and shahs.

UNMOUNTED GLOBE

The world's largest unmounted globe — about 1,000 pounds in weight and 36 feet around the equator — stands in a fountain-fed pool as the centerpiece of the hall.

For special demonstrations, the huge sphere rotates in any direction and slides are projected on its surface from a console. A slide of a space capsule, projected on the rotating orb, traces the flight paths of past and future space shots.

Three world maps on 10-by-15-foot panels greet visitors. The maps alternately turn into view as a recorded narration describes features.

A diorama shows Dr. Louis S. B. Leakey walking in Olduvai Gorge, Tanzania, where he found the skull of an early form of near-man who lived 1,750,000 years ago. The famed British anthropologist has been aided by National Geographic grants since 1960.

DIVING SAUCER

A model of Capt. Jacques-Yves Cousteau's ingenious diving saucer highlights an exhibit describing the underseas pioneer's work. His explorations have been supported by the Society for more than a decade.

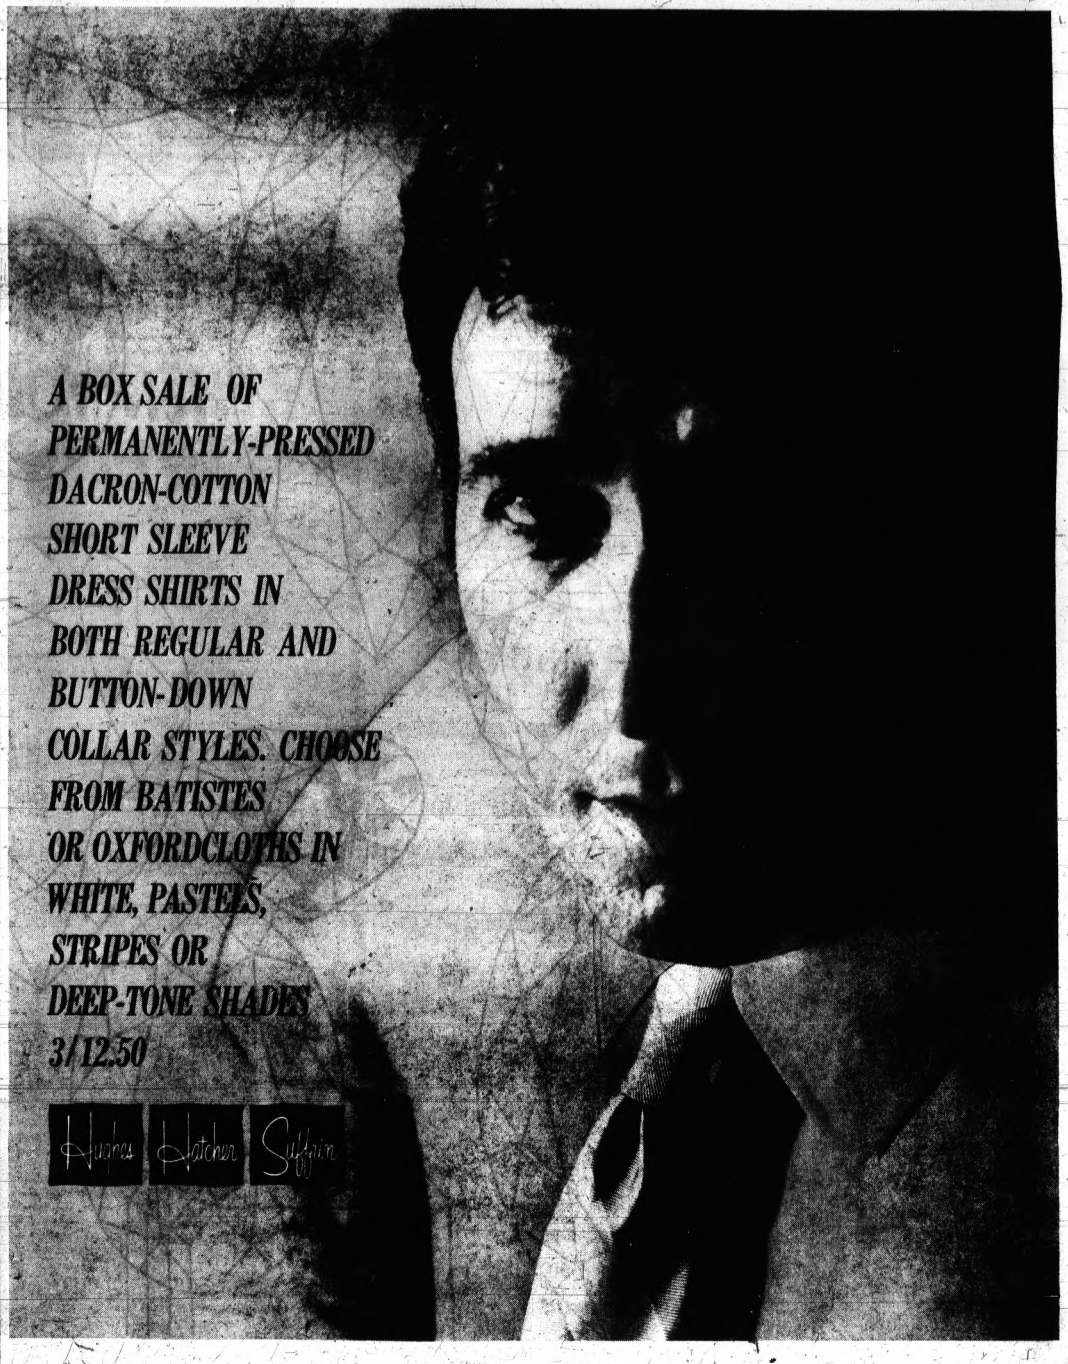

Two antique globes, made in 1831 by America's first globemaker, James Wilson, mark the entrance to a map-making display.

SURE THING? — Don Wert of the Detroit Tigers races toward the line after a line drive giving it the appearance of a perfect catch. But the photos to the right show what happened on the play. Wert dropped the ball, a line drive by Washington's Ed Brinkman, but he picked it up in time to throw to first for the putout. The Tigers won, 3-0, over the Senators.

Tigers Defeat Senators, 3-0 on Horton's Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mickey Lolich has joined five other All-Star pitchers for the American League lead with 13 victories but the Detroit Tiger lefthander thinks things might be different if he hadn't been out of action a month.

★ ★ ★

"It might have been real interesting at this point in the season," Lolich said after he scattered four singles as the Tigers defeated Washington 3-0 Wednesday night. "Who knows what my record might be now?"

OUT 4 WEEKS

Lolich spent two weeks in the service beginning April 16 and was out of action for another two weeks when he was hit by a line drive off the bat of Danny Cater in Oakland May 27.

Willie Horton drove in the three unearned runs with a two-out bases loaded double in the eighth inning that broke up a pitching duel between Lolich and Senators pitcher Dick Bosman.

★ ★ ★

The victory was Lolich's 13th against 2 losses and put him with All-Stars Dave McNally of Baltimore, 13-0, Blue Moon Odom of Oakland, 13-3, Denny McLain, a tiger teammate, 13-5, Ray Culp of Boston, 13-6, and Mel Stottlemyre of New York, 13-2.

Lolich called the game "an average pitched" one because "I didn't have a breaking ball. I pitched the whole ball game with my fast ball."

★ ★ ★

When it was pointed out that the victim of three of his eight strikeouts was home run hitter Frank Howard, who went down on a wide curve, Lolich said he didn't consider that a good breaking pitch.

He said he lost eight pounds in the hot, humid weather and went to his fast ball exclusively in the eighth and ninth innings.

"I switched to nothing but fast balls," he said. "I decided to let it all hang out until the cork popped."

IN TROUBLE

Lolich ran into trouble in the ninth when Brant Alyea singled to open the inning and went to second on a wild pitch. Ken McMullen walked on four straight pitches.

Lolich then struck out Sam Bowens but Tim Cullen hit a long fly ball to right center that fell in and right fielder Al Kaline was charged with an error he later disputed.

★ ★ ★

"It just dropped in," he said. "No one had it. We couldn't hear each other (referring to center fielder Mickey Stanley). "We're not used to having people in this ballpark."

★ ★ ★

And with the bases loaded and one out, Lolich got Paul Casanova to fly to Kaline and Del Unser to pop up to third baseman Don Wert to end the game.

"He's a real bulldog out there," said Washington manager Ted Williams. "He showed me something tonight. I'm impressed with him.

★ ★ ★

"He's proved to me he's a little better pitcher than I thought he was. There are periods when he wants to pitch and then he certainly does that."

Record Field in Tennis Tourney

MAKE OVER PAGES

The Oakland County Open Tennis Tournament will turn loose a record field of entries on the courts at Oakland University tomorrow evening when the 10th annual competition will commence with 19 matches.

Eight senior singles battles will open the action at 5:45 p.m. Five more will follow at 7 p.m. In addition, three men's doubles matches will start at 6 p.m., and another one plus two junior doubles clashes are scheduled for 7 p.m. starts.

★ ★ ★

The first full day of activity will begin at 8:30 a.m. Saturday with six junior doubles, four junior singles and a senior singles. More junior matches will follow at 10 a.m. and the new mixed doubles event will debut at 11:15 a.m. along with more men's doubles.

★ ★ ★

The men's singles will commence at 12:45 p.m. Saturday. All contestants should check in 15 minutes before their scheduled starting time. The pairings for Saturday's matches will be listed in tomorrow's Press, and Sunday's times will be published Saturday.

100 MORE

The unprecedented deluge of entries in all events this week has boosted this year's total to more than 270 entries, or 100 more than participated last year.

Although eight new courts have been added at Oakland University, the heavy turnout — including many of the finest players in Southeast Michigan — will necessitate a strict schedule of events.

It is doubtful if two rounds will be completed in all events by Sunday evening. Men's singles players can expect some 8 a.m. matches Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Because of the scheduling problems, no post entries will be taken at the courts. Players are reminded they must provide a new tennis ball for each of their matches through the quarter-finals.

ONE CHAMPION

Only one defending champion is returning, senior singles titlist Bob Neff of Northville. The other top-seeded players are 1968 runner-up Don Pierce of Birmingham in men's singles, runners-up Ian Wilson and Neff in men's doubles, Todd Beel of Birmingham in junior singles along with Birmingham's Rob Cowin in junior doubles.

The mixed doubles favorite's role goes to Wilson and his wife, though the event could produce many surprises before the 26 entries have finished battling.

The biggest field is the men's singles where 82 players are vying. The men's doubles has lured 59 twosomes, while 49 junior singles and 35 senior singles have turned out.

There are 25 junior duos set to battle for the trophies sponsored by The Press and The Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department.

★ ★ ★

The city's representatives to the Michigan Recreation Association Tournament also will be picked from the tourney field.

2 State Boys Take Medals

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Two Michigan boys and two Californians paced the American squad to a surprising third place finish in the Greco-Roman division of the Junior World Wrestling Championships at the University of Colorado in Boulder Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

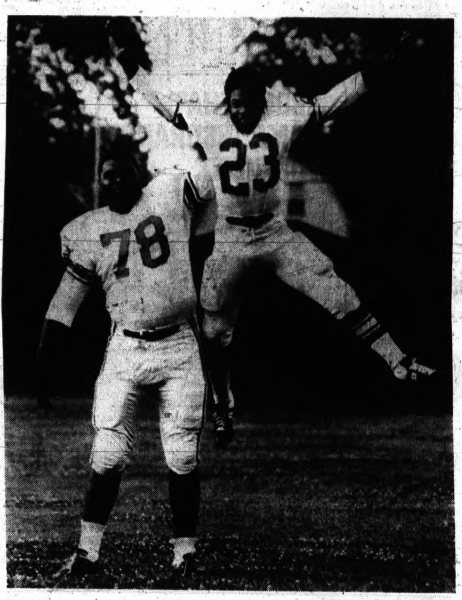

The Soviet Union edged out Bulgaria 54 to 50 to take first place. The U.S. team had 31 points and Japan was fourth with 18.

The two Michiganders, Bill Davids of Hazel Park and Bill Elsenheimer of Madison Heights took bronze medals in the 105 and 143 pound classes, respectively.

Another Michigan boy, Doug Willer of Berkley, was eliminated Wednesday in a 6-2 decision to Bulgarian Stoyan Lazarov.

Freestyle competition starts today.

FLY HIGH, LITTLE GUY — Big Joe Carter (78) who stands 6-5 and goes 290 pounds shows scatback George Price (23) what could happen to him on the football field. Price stands only 5-5 and weighs just half of Carter at 145 pounds. They both are playing for the Pontiac Firebirds who will meet the Detroit Cowboys in an exhibition game Saturday night at Wisner Stadium.

F-Birds Have Sorts and Sizes

The big, the small and the in-between are the shapes and sizes of the football players practicing with the Pontiac Firebirds who make their 1969 debut in an exhibition game Saturday night in Wisner Stadium against the Detroit Cowboys.

The smallest and fastest Firebird is George Price, a 5-5 and 145 pounder from Bogalosa, La., and the biggest in size is 6-5 and 290 pounder Joe Carter who comes to the Firebirds after several years experience in the Continental League.

Carter will be at defensive end for Pontiac.

Short in size but big in body is 5-10 300 pound Mike Cunningham who joined the Firebirds from the Ypsilanti Vikings.

Game time Saturday is 7:30 p.m.

Jockey Hartack Spilled by Horse

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Veteran jockey Bill Hartack, who has won the Kentucky Derby five times including this year, escaped serious injury Wednesday when thrown from a horse which never had won a race.

Hartack, 36, was thrown from Talking Barberob shortly after the fourth race started at Hollywood Park. He was rushed to Centinela Hospital.

Talks Heated Over Salary of Lions' End

BLOOMFIELD HILLS (AP) —The possibility of legal action involving the Detroit Lions and their veteran defensive end, Larry Hand, appeared closer today after Hand's attorney and Lion general manager Russ Thomas had a heated and unsuccessful salary discussion.

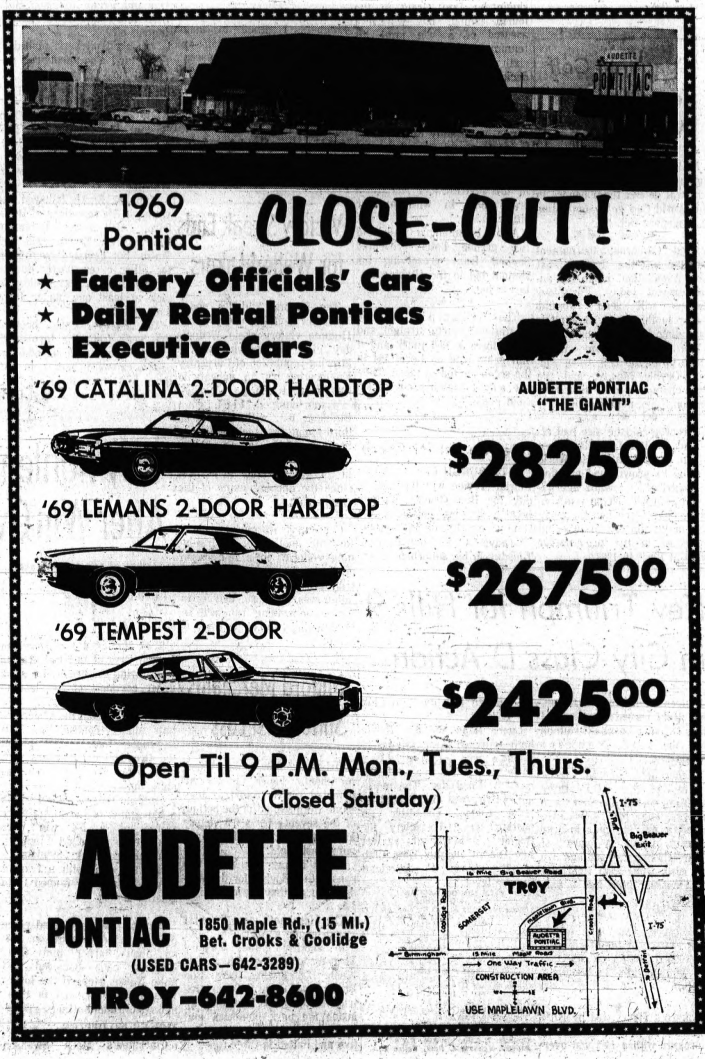

The two were shouting so loud Wednesday they could be heard in the pressroom next to Thomas' summer office at Cranbrook School, where the Lions hold summer training.

Hand, a free agent, is technically free to sign with another team, but any team signing him would have to give Detroit a player of equal value.

The attorney, George Dakmak, said he would wait a few more days to see if he could talk with pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle, then seriously consider going to court.

"There is something very strange going on here," Dakmak said. "We just don't think they are negotiating with Hand seriously."

Although the club claims the two sides are far apart, Dakmak maintains it is only a matter of a few thousand dollars.

Good News Helps It Along

Mart in Second Day of Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to rally for the second straight session early today in active trading, with the Dow Jones industrial average up nearly 7 points in the first half-hour of trading.

Analysts said the advance apparently was a result of the market's oversold condition, with favorable news developments helping it along.

* * *

They listed among these a report that industrial production continued to gain sharply last month.

The Dow industrial at 10:30 a.m. was up 6.92 at 856.26.

Gains led losses by better than 400 issues.

Early blocks included:

Florida Power Corp., 54,900 shares at 47⅞, off ⅛; Parke, Davis & Co., 50,000 shares at 32, up 1; AMK Corp., 22,600 shares at 24, unchanged; and Caterpillar Tractor, 16,900 shares at 47, unchanged.

Some of the companies connected with the Apollo 11 moon shot were again showing gains.

Grumman Aircraft was up ¼ at 29¾; North American Rockwell, up ⅛ at 30⅝; McDonnell Douglas, up ⅜ at 30; Boeing, up ⅜ at 37¼; and General Electric, up ⅝ at 86¾.

Opening prices included:

Budd Co., up ⅝ at 18¾ on 27,100 shares; Benguet, up ⅜ at 25½ on 18,900 shares; Reading & Bates Offshore Drilling, up ¼ at 35 on 18,500 shares; Occidental Petroleum, off ⅛ at 34⅛ on 12,600 shares; and Anaconda, up ⅛ at 30⅞ on 11,500 shares.
