

Greater Than Panama Canal

Completion of New Seaway to Be Felt Around the World

DETROIT (UP)—Completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway will have more impact on world economy than the construction of the Panama Canal, the nation's waterways experts agreed today.

The seaway will add 2,400 miles of coast line to the heart of North America, opening the way for some of the world's largest sea-going freighters to reach Detroit, Chicago and at least a dozen other major "inland ports."

A recent report by the Windsor, Ont., Junior Chamber of Commerce said, "Construction crews, steel, cement and giant bulldozers are moving along the St. Lawrence River . . . it appears that by 1961 this new source of electrical power and international commerce will have been tapped."

"Optimism has reached its peak and every small community along the Great Lakes coast dreams of salt-encrusted ships tying up at its harbor docks."

Since that report was prepared in January, other sources have predicted the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway as early as 1958. On March 3, Martin W. Oettershagen of Chicago, deputy administrator of the Seaway Development Corp., said the new waterway may open within the next three years.

Oettershagen said the New York State Power Authority has urged joint United States and Canadian dam and locks construction along the St. Lawrence River to permit flooding behind the dams on July 1, 1958, to allow trial runs of generators. This would open the seaway for navigation, he said.

Bert Robb, director of the Michigan Waterways Commission, recently said the St. Lawrence Seaway "is already in operation" because last year, 71 foreign vessels made 254 visits to Michigan ports.

However, the seagoing vessels now able to negotiate the narrow channels and the shallow locks of the St. Lawrence River are necessarily small.

Most of the ships are about 250 feet long, with a 40-foot beam, and have between 1,500 and 2,000 tons cargo capacity.

When the seaway is completed, vessels of nearly twice that size will be able to make their way into the Great Lakes. Several motor ships of 2,500-ton capacity are now under construction in Hamburg, Germany, in anticipation of the opening of the seaway. One shipping firm has ordered five of these at a cost of $800,000 each, according to reliable reports.

America's share of the seaway calls for expenditures of about $105,000,000 for St. Lawrence River development—only one-third of the total cost of the project, and all on a self-liquidating basis.

The twisting, shallow St. Lawrence River poses a bottleneck about 140 miles long. The United States is responsible for 46 miles of this, including three locks 800 feet long, 80 feet wide and 30 feet deep, and two canals, both 11 miles long and 27 feet deep.

Canada is building four similar locks and some longer canals and must deepen the present Welland Canal.

Many cities along the route have already begun extensive preparations to compete for international trade by deepening their harbors and enlarging their dock and warehouse facilities. Most notable among these are Toronto and Hamilton, Ont., and Milwaukee, Wis.

Other ports have been severely criticized for failing to take any steps to make ready for an influx of foreign vessels.

In a recent report issued by a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee, grain was listed as the biggest item to be shipped through the seaway when it is completed. A table prepared by the subcommittee shows that 12,100,000 tons of grain may be expected to move down the new waterway in 1959, while the predicted iron ore tonnage moving from Labrador up the seaway is 10,500,000 for the same nine-month season that the lakes are usually open each year.

The subcommittee fixed 35,500,000 tons of cargo as the business expected to be done during the first year the deepened seaway is in operation, with the tonnage eventually rising to 52,000,000 a year.

All the Canadian and United States waterways experts agree that, ton for ton, the St. Lawrence Seaway will represent larger savings in shipping costs for both exporters and importers than does the Panama Canal.

One firm estimates that organizations now shipping grain to the east coast by rail, unloading the grain there, and re-loading it on out-bound ships, could save three-cents a bushel in shipping costs by loading the ships in Great Lakes ports.

As Mayor Claude Ver Duin of Grand Haven, Mich., put it: "We must remember that London to New York is no closer than London to Erie, Pa., which is already a considerable distance toward the great midwest cities on the Great Lakes Waterway."

See Elder Statesman
Role After Quitting Job
as Prime Minister

LONDON (AP)—Britons took it for granted today that Winston Churchill is stepping down as prime minister within weeks. But no one expects him to go into retirement by the fire-side.

Only the 80-year-old statesman's political enemies seemed to harbor any suspicions the impetuous Churchill might change his mind at the last minute.

The authoritative, independent Times—which seldom deals in political speculation—said today:

"It now seems increasingly likely that he (Churchill) will resign about Easter" and that Queen Elizabeth II will call on Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to form a new government.

But the anti-Conservative Daily Mirror, which for two years has been calling Churchill too old for the premiership, said people "will not believe he has gone this time until they see the back of him."

Churchill supporters talked of his becoming a sort of "elder statesman of the free world," speaking out on vital issues.

There was talk in parliamentary lobbies that Churchill also would keep his seat in the House of Commons. This would give him a platform and an official status, and would leave him available for any assignment as a special government emissary.

The Churchill Conservative government has until October 1956 in office but can call an election any time before then.

If Churchill does step out, the 57-year-old Eden may hold the dual jobs of prime minister and foreign secretary for a short time. Eventually he is expected to turn the foreign affairs post over to Harold Macmillan, a veteran administrator who is now defense minister.

Doctors to Appear

Anti-Fluoridation Group
Plans Meeting Tuesday

The Rev. Robert Garner announced that a panel of prominent dentists and physicians will speak on the hazards of fluoridation at a public meeting of the Citizens Fair Government League at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the Pontiac High School Auditorium. The Rev. Mr. Garner heads the league which has been formed to oppose fluoridation of Pontiac's water.

He said various questions will be discussed such as:

1. Exactly what happens to teeth when fluorine has been added to the water?
2. What proof has been offered that there is no harm from drinking fluoridated water?
3. What is the attitude of individual dentists and physicians regarding fluoridation?
4. Why aren't fluorides administered individually by dentists?

Ralph T. Keeling, Pontiac attorney, will preside at this meeting to which the public is invited. This is to be the first of two meetings arranged by the league for public information on the highly controversial subject of adding sodium fluoride to Pontiac drinking water," Mr. Garner said.

A second meeting, March 31, will have speakers from Saginaw. They will discuss the reasons why Saginaw discontinued fluoridation after using it for three years."

Spring Fever
Dampened by Rainfall Here

Spring arrived officially this morning at 4:38, but the U.S. Weather Bureau said it probably would seem more like the arrival of winter in most sections of the state.

Rainfall, along with a forecast for more, put the damper on spring fever in this area.

Pontiac will get colder weather and rain turning to snow today, tonight and tomorrow. The mercury will drop to a low of 30-34 degrees tonight, rising to only 35-41 tomorrow. Thermometer readings tomorrow night will dip to 20-24.

Traffic officials said thousands of motorists crowded Michigan highways during the weekend and many of them carried equipment for summer cottages and resorts.

Balmy weather also lured many to the state's lakes and streams while others thronged to golf courses or other spring diversions. However, the weather bureau said the next two days will probably make a lot of people forget about spring temporarily.

Communities along the shores of Lakes Erie and St. Clair were warned that high winds may drive lakes to the flood stage. The weather bureau said easterly winds between 20 and 30 miles an hour would cause the lakes to rise.

Weekend temperatures in downtown Pontiac ranged from 20 to 42 Saturday, rising to a low of 31 and high of 56 on Sunday. Today at 8 o'clock the mercury stood at 41 degrees, rising to 47 by 1 p.m.

House Vote Due
on Postal Raise

Ike Warns Against Any Additions to Bill Asking
7.5 Per Cent Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 150-million-dollar pay raise for postal workers headed toward a House vote today.

In advance of House action, President Eisenhower said he would view with "grave apprehension" any further additions to the 7½ per cent average increase provided by the postal pay bill.

He noted that the post increase will set the pattern for 1,200,000 civil service employees. This bill is still in committee.

The President's views, contained in a letter Saturday to Chairman Murray (D-Iowa) of the House Post Office Committee, clearly implied a probable veto of any bigger increase.

They also underscored a statement last week by Chairman Philip Young of the Civil Service Commission that the government cannot afford more. It already faces the need of financing government-wide employee benefits totaling more than a billion dollars a year, he said. These are raises and other benefits proposed and pending.

But as the bill came before the House, strong opposition developed among members favoring among other things a 10 per cent figure approved by the Senate Post Office Committee.

The Senate, in recess today, will consider its own proposal later in the week.

Four Stand Mute
on Rape Charges

Four men, charged with kidnapping and raping a 21-year-old Pontiac mother March 6, stood mute in Circuit Court today and Judge George B. Hartrick entered an innocent plea for them.

Returned to Oakland County Jail under $10,000 bond to await trial were Oscar Chavers, 26, of Gary, Ind.; his brother, Richard, 25, of 28 Lake St.; Joe Williams Jr., 23, of 23 Lake; and Winston Johnson, 25, of 212 Hughes St.

They are accused of forcing the mother of three into a car after dragging her from a mud-mired auto near South Blvd. while her escort was absent summoning a tow truck.

The woman testified at a lower court examination that the four criminally assaulted her during a 1½-hour ride through Bloomfield Hills and Pontiac before they were cornered by Sylvan Lake and Bloomfield Hills police.

DEATH CAR — David Widing, 16, of Holly, was killed and five other teenagers were injured when car, Sibera D. Thorne, 29, of Holly, was listed in their car (above) collided head-on with another on Dixie Highway Saturday night. Driver of the car was in critical condition at Flint's Hurley Hospital.

Three Killed in Automobile
Wrecks in Area Saturday

Two men were killed in a 3-car collision on Dixie Highway and a 17-year-old youth died in a head-on crash Saturday night.

The dead are: Richard M. Warner, 49, and William Toll, 29, both of Flint, and David Widing, of Holly. Toll's wife, Dorothy, 29, was listed in critical conditions at Pontiac General Hospital with broken legs, ribs and a broken arm.

Troopers William Dreger and Paul Witt, of the Pontiac Post said Warner, driving south on Dixie, apparently dropped off the pavement on a curve near Deer Lake Road. They said he lost control in regaining the road, crossed the center line and crashed into two other cars.

The first car he hit was driven by Gerald Marchand, 26, of Clarkston, who was treated for back injuries after his car overturned several times.

Toll was driving the second car struck by Warner's car. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Senate Market Study
Member Hurls Charge
at Harvard Professor

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new squall of controversy rocked the Senate stock market inquiry today. This one stemmed from the political views of John Kenneth Galbraith, the Harvard economist whose testimony is said by some to have triggered the recent break in stock prices.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) declared a 1949 pamphlet by Galbraith "praises communism." Capehart said he would demand today that Galbraith be called back to the witness stand.

Galbraith, recuperating from a broken leg in Cambridge, Mass., replied that his 1949 pamphlet actually "warns of the dangers of communism." He said Capehart knew this perfectly well when he aired the charge on an NBC television program yesterday.

Prof. Galbraith injured his leg while skiing. He said the injury would not prevent his going to Washington.

The dispute was the latest to arise between Capehart and the Democrats, particularly Chairman Fulbright (D-Ark.) in the Banking Committee's about-to-end public hearings on the state of the stock market.

Capehart contends the "friendly study" announced by Fulbright has turned into a political attempt to "harass" the Eisenhower administration.

Billy Graham

Huge Crowd Expected
for First Evangelistic
Effort in Glasgow

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—Glasgow, sunny after a blizzard, was keyed up today for the impact of Billy Graham.

The American evangelist prepared to launch his six-week all-Scotland crusade with a rally at Glasgow's great Kelvin Hall tonight.

The building has room for between 13,000 and 14,000, but not big enough for the expected opening-session crowd. The Glasgow Police Department went on a round-the-clock basis to control the traffic jams.

On the Scottish highways, slushy from Sunday's snow, scores of buses were converging on Glasgow. About half of Kelvin Hall has been reserved for those coming from a distance.

Graham was alone in his room in the North British Hotel most of the day. He was locked up, his testaments said, "with about 100 religious books" he was preparing with prayer.

Glasgow already was aware that Graham does unpredictable things. Among the unscheduled events yesterday were unannounced visits to two Glasgow churches.

One, the Downhill "Kirk" was half empty, and there Graham, a Baptist who believes in total immersion, reverently watched a Presbyterian baptism accomplished with a mere sprinkling of water.

Last night Graham attended and spoke briefly at Springburn Hill Presbyterian Church. Several hundred worshippers prayed for the success of the crusade at a session lasting until 1:30 a.m. A dozen women served tea in side rooms and relay teams carried on the prayers.

Wreckage of Convair

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—An American Airlines plane threading its way through darkness and rain toward a landing field crashed last night, killing 12 persons and injuring 23.

The twin-engine Convair crashed in a pasture about two miles north of the Springfield airport. Wreckage was scattered more than 300 feet.

The plane carried a three-member crew and 32 passengers. All the survivors were injured. Jack Fripish, of Chicago, the pilot, was the only member of the crew to survive. Stewardess Rita Madaj and copilot Glenn Walker, of Chicago and Los Angeles, died.

The airport control tower had given final clearance for the landing. As the craft approached Carl McCarty in the tower saw a flash. Then the plane disappeared and he gave the alarm.

Sheriff Glenn Hendrix, one of the first to reach the scene made muddy by an all-day rain, said:

"There was no fire. In the darkness I found it hard to find the plane, and I lost my shoes in the mud as I crossed the farm field."

"Then I heard a woman call and I found her sitting on the ground. I gave her my coat and then I saw three persons walking around dazed. I finally could see the plane in the darkness."

"Its wings were sheared off but the fuselage was intact, except for the nose."

"The nose was crumpled up like cellophane."

"Two ambulances came near the scene but got stuck in the mud. We started taking out the injured as other ambulances arrived but (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Yalta Interpreter
Calls Conference
'Drunken Brawl'

RIVERA, Calif. (INS)—A Rivera insurance man who served as an interpreter at Yalta has asserted that the conference was "one of the biggest drunken brawls I've ever seen."

Andrew Sawchuk, 33, said yesterday:

"All the way through Russia had us where it wanted us."

Sawchuk learned Russian from his parents, who were born in Russia. He was one of six Navy men who worked with the Communists for three years during World War II. The Yalta conference was one of his numerous assignments.

The former interpreter declared: "President Roosevelt had no business at the conference. He looked sick, he acted sick and he talked sick."

Sawchuk related: "The Reds weren't stupid at Yalta. As hosts they always kept the tables loaded with wine, champagne, and vodka. I saw more than one state department official carried out after passing out."

Asks Michigan
Death Penalty

Prosecutor's Aide Calls for Return to Capital Punishment

Chief Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor today called for Michigan to reconsider capital punishment as a means of checking the increase in first degree murder and rape cases.

"From 1948 to 1953 we've had about 28 per cent increase in murders in Oakland County," said Taylor.

"I think the threat of capital punishment would make those with homicidal leanings think twice before deliberately planning a murder."

(First degree murder is charged when it is thought the accused person planned the act.)

"When a person knows he could have his own life taken as result of committing a certain anti-social act, he is more apt to hesitate."

The current first-degree punishment is life in prison without chances of parole.

"Some have advocated a review of all such sentences after 17 years with a chance of parole," the prosecutor stated, "I think this would only make it easier for a person to decide on a murder attempt."

The rape penalty is now any number of years up to life. "This violent type of crime disrupts society perhaps even more than premeditated murder and should be punished severely."

4,000 Oakland County Teachers to Meet
for Institute Thursday in Birmingham

Oakland County's 4,000 public school teachers will meet Thursday in Birmingham for their annual institute and to hear Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, treasurer of the United States, and Lawrence Spivak, Washington newspaper correspondent.

All county schools will be closed for the day. Teachers will convene from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Birmingham High School auditorium.

William Shuck, superintendent of Waterford Township Schools, will preside at the morning session and introduce Spivak, who will conduct an interview on current political problems with several Michigan college professors.

Represented on the panel will be the University of Michigan, Dr. N. M. Elinenco and Dr. George Peck; Michigan State College, Dr.

Joseph LaPolambara, and Wayne University, Dr. Ira Polley. These men are associated with the political science departments of their schools.

In the afternoon, Mrs. Priest will address the teachers on "Federal Monetary Policies and Their Effect on Domestic Economy."

She will be introduced by Hazel A. Trumble of the Pontiac Press, who will preside at the second session.

Serving as a county-wide committee planning the 1955 meeting are Ralph E. Meek, Avondale School; James Mitchell, Berkeley; Robert Richards, Birmingham; Kathleen Flint, Bloomfield Hills; Maxwell Berry, Brandon; Charles B. Haynes, Carver; Rosalind Blier, Clarenceville and Tim Keough, Clarkston.

Others assisting with the program are Arthur Larson, Clawson; Alda Cox, Dublin; Gladys Buell, Farmington; Audrey Filson, Ferndale; Elsie Baunier, Hazel Park; Marietta Mackey, Holly; Nellie Brewbaker, Lamphere.

John Schoenbach, Madison; Bronwale Elliott, Millford; Celia Sharpe, Novi; James Hester, Oak Park; Leslie Reynolds, Lake Orion; Paul B. Ambrose, Oxford; Henry Kling, Pontiac; and Velma Lusk of Rochester.

Richard Walsh of Royal Oak has been named to the committee, along with William Greenman, Southfield; Richard Snyder, South Lyon; Gladys Bradford, Troy; Frank Wigent, Walled Lake; Arthur Lake, Waterford; and Terence Murphy, West Bloomfield.

Pat Ward Back on Stand Today

Call Girl May Finish Testifying; Prosecution Plans More of Same

NEW YORK (INS)—Former call girl Pat Ward returns to the witness stand in the Mickey Jelle trial today for what may be her concluding and toughest hours. The 21-year-old brunette takes the stand for the fifth day to face a searching cross-examination by Jelle's chief defense attorney, George W. Herz.

Herz says he will examine Pat closely on her activities during the two years since the first Jelle trial.

At that time, the 25-year-old actress had been convicted of conspiracy to commit prostitution but a retrial was ordered because press and public were barred from part of the trial.

Herz gave a significant clue to the approach he would take today when he said Pat "hasn't been leading a good life" since the first trial.

Meanwhile, a parade of play-for-love ladies was expected to troop to the stand once Pat and a few minor witnesses had completed their testimony.

The girls will be used by the prosecution in an effort to confirm Pat's story of being forced into prostitution by Jelle.

The string of beauties probably will begin with red-haired Virginia Dee and blonde Barbara Harmon.

Virginia will be called to support Pat's testimony that they kept a Jelle-arranged date together. Pat has stated that the clients were angry because "they didn't like Virginia."

Barbara's testimony probably will support Pat's contention that she (Barbara) tutored Pat at Jelle's urging.

Following Virginia and Barbara likely will be Peggy Sands and Erica Steel, alleged madams of the cafe society vice ring.

it was close to 1 a.m. before we got them all out."

The plane crashed about 10:30 p.m.

Robert Browning, 15, of Chappaqua, N.Y., an injured passenger, said there was a "terrible vibration" before the crash.

Mrs. O. W. Peebles, who lives near the scene, reported hearing an explosion just before the crash.

I was on a dinner plane last summer and I read some instructions on what to do in case of a crash," Browning related. "They said to put your head down between your knees. And I did that when I felt the vibration. The next thing I knew I was lying on the ground about 15 feet from the plane."

Young Browning was en route to visit relatives at Harrison, Ark.

Bill Bowers of radio station KTTS said when he reached the plane an elderly man, whose legs appeared to be broken, was lying beside the plane.

"Don't bother about me," the man said, "Get the others out first." Bowers said he didn't know the man's name.

B. H. Mays, of Cushing, Okla., another passenger, said he didn't know what happened.

"The first thing I knew I was on the ground," Mays said.

The dead included Stanley Grankowski, 64, Detroit, assistant Wayne County prosecutor for 18 of the last 20 years. He was en route to Springfield on private business.

ing auto. Warner was dead at the scene and Todd died a few minutes after arrival at the hospital at about 6:15 p.m.

Widing was killed when his car collided head-on with one driven by Siders D. Thorne, 29, of Holly. The accident took place at about 8:10 p.m. on M87, according to Holly Patrolman William Wood.

Thorne was listed in critical condition at Flint's Hurley Hospital where five other teenagers riding with Widing were taken. They are Earl Trimball, 17, good condition; Philip Barnard, 18, fair condition; Sharon Rodes, 16, good condition; Diane Dabler, 16, good condition; and Darlene Webber, 16, good condition.

Sheriff's deputies, Donald Wright and Lyle Walmsley said the two cars met on a blind curve about 1 1/2 miles west of Holly. The teenagers were driving into a Fenton.

Meanwhile three men narrowly missed death when their car ran off Oakwood road east of Ortonville at 6 a.m. Sunday, rolled over into a ditch and caught fire.

The driver, James F. McCurdy, 19, of Flint, was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for bruises while his passengers, Gerald Laidlaw, 21, of Oxford, was reported in good condition with first and third degree burns to the legs, back and arms; and Henson T. Steward, 25, of Flint was treated for a broken collar bone.

Deputies Earl Beason and Leonard Evans said the driver apparently was going too fast to negotiate a sharp curve in the road.

Reward Awaits Man Who Found, Returned Wallet

The Pontiac Press today was asked to help locate Mr. "One-in-a-Million."

If you're the anonymous gentleman who returned a lost billfold Saturday, there's a "liberal reward" awaiting you in return for your honesty, according to Lemuel J. Nipper, 32 of 94 Mt. Clemens St.

Nipper, a Pontiac Motor division employee, happily walked into the Press' city room Saturday, holding his faded, red wallet which contained $100.

"I want to give a liberal reward to the man who returned my billfold this morning. He dropped it off at a barbershop (730 Glenwood Ave.), but none of us know who he is or how he knew I would come in there."

Nipper said he lost the billfold on Lowell St., near Glenwood. "I had $100 in the wallet and only one man in a million would return it, I'll bet," he said.

Thinking it was their friend Eugene Wilkins inside his Tri-Angle Service Station as they walked by last night, Nancy and Pat Kannel, of 1172 E. Ruffner, moved in closer and called hello. The man inside took off.

The sisters told police that when they realized he was a stranger, they asked if Mr. Wilkins knew he was there. The thief then jumped out a side window he had broken to gain entry to the station at 1181 S. Woodward, and ran north.

Police said the culprit took with him over $20 in quarters from a cigarette machine he had jimmied. The entire building was ransacked.

Vows No Letup in Commie Hunt

Senate Group Reveals F. D. R.-Knox Decision to Keep Reds on Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—New investigations have been pledged by the Senate internal security subcommittee to expose any Communists who penetrated the government. "It cannot be said in any sense that we have learned the names of all the secret Communists who infiltrated the government service," the subcommittee said last night. "It cannot even be said that we have learned all about those whose names we have brought to light."

Calling "the exposure of these individuals and their works" one of its continuing projects, the subcommittee made public a 74-page report on the investigations conducted in the last Congress while Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) was chairman.

Sen. Eastland (D-Miss), Jenner's successor as chairman, said in a statement the subcommittee has a number of new projects under consideration. He did not elaborate but he said two of them "seem reasonably certain to involve a series of public hearings."

The unanimous report turned in by the subcommittee included these principal findings:

1. That President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Frank Knox, his secretary of the Navy, weakened the Navy's security program in World War II by permitting Communist radio operators on merchant ships.

The subcommittee heard testimony in 1953 that this policy was put into effect over the strong protests of high naval officers.

2. That "communists and pro-Communists infiltrated into controlling positions" in the Army's information and education program during World War II and that the program "gave aid and comfort to the cause of world communism."

3. That the magazine China Weekly Review, formerly published in Shanghai by John W. Powell of San Francisco, "was used extensively in the Chinese Communist effort to brain-wash American prisoners of war under inhuman conditions of indoctrination, starvation, torture, and death."

In San Francisco, Powell said: "It's the same old stuff—really it's just nonsense . . . if they want me, they can subpoena me."

4. That, "in terms of present knowledge," the most important underground Communists who infiltrated the government were Alger Hiss, former State Department aide who recently completed a prison term for perjury, and the late Harry Dexter White, a Treasury Department official. Both denied any subversive activity.

The subcommittee published for the first time message exchanged by Roosevelt and Knox, both now dead, relating to their decision against barring Communists from jobs as radio operators on merchant ships.

6 Nations Agree to Russian Aid

Reds Find Subscribers for $2 Million Worth of Technical Assistance

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia finally has found takers for two million dollars in aid she has offered for the last two years through the U.N. technical assistance program.

Six countries were reported today to have accepted Soviet help this year in improving their economies. They will be sent Russian technicians or equipment, or will send their own experts to Russia for training.

Three of the nations were identified as Burma, India and Indonesia. Two others were understood to be in the Middle East and the third in Latin America.

Some 10 projects were reported involved. They include machine tools and technicians for an electronic calculating machine factory in India, equipment for water development in the same country and a low-cost housing exhibit in Latin America.

Russia gave the technical assistance program four million rubles for 1953 and another four million for 1954—the equivalent, at the official rate, of two million dollars all told.

She first attached strings to the money. Then they were untied, and she waited for somebody to show interest. Now the leftover 1953-54 rubles are going fast, and the Soviet government has pledged another four million for this year.

Augustana Choir Internationally Famous Group

When the Augustana Choir steps onto the concert stage at Pontiac High School Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. March 30th, members of the audience will hear a group of internationally known singers.

Augustana Choir upholds a music tradition begun ninety-five years ago at Augustana College in Rock Island, Illinois. Although primarily a liberal arts institution, the Lutheran college has had a school of music for many decades and has been a Midwest center for the presentation of the world's great oratorios ever since its founding in 1860.

The Jenny Lind is a fitting name for the women's voices of the choir, for it was Jenny Lind, the famous singer known as the Swedish Nightingale, who was among the first to contribute to the founding of Augustana College.

The Handel Oratorio, a 350 voice community-college chorus, in December presented the 74th Messiah concert on the college campus.

This giant choral group, which is accompanied by the college orchestra and has as guest soloists the leading artists of the country, Veld, the director of Augustana College Choir.

Each year Mid-westerners converge on Augustana to hear the chorus. The nationwide distribution of recordings has helped to spread the fame of Augustana Choir throughout the country.

Television fans saw the group when they appeared on a coast-to-coast telecast of the Ed Sullivan show Sunday.

Though Augustana Choir has never left the United States and Canada, its reputation is internationally known in all countries because of its radio broadcasts and recordings. The Choir is perhaps the only non-professional choir in the nation which is currently receiving royalty payments from two commercial recording firms at the same time.

More than eighty radio network broadcasts have been made by this distinguished group. The Choir's most memorable television performance was an hour long program over the ABC-TV network in 1952.

Augustana Choir each year attracts outstanding young singers to the college. At least six or seven students are on hand each fall to try out for each choir vacancy. There are no scholarships earmarked for choir members as it is a voluntary organization.

The concert here is being sponsored by St. John's Lutheran Church of Pontiac and Christ Lutheran Church of Waterford and tickets may be obtained from members of the churches or by phoning FE 4-3404 or OR 3-1811.

Adopts Japanese Orphan

Adds Daughter to Family of 4

Detroit Plant Worker Relies on Candy, Sons to Abet Language Gap

DETROIT (UP) — A 37-year-old father counted heavily on his three young sons and chocolate bars today to bridge the gap between himself and an adopted daughter who cannot speak English.

But the language barrier wasn't the only problem bothering Richard Ploski. His wife gave birth to her fourth son Saturday, four hours before the arrival of the adopted girl.

Doctors said Mrs. Ploski would not be released from the hospital until tomorrow or Wednesday.

The girl, Susan Yamada, 4, arrived here by plane from a Japanese orphanage.

The little girl stepped bravely from the plane but her composure collapsed and she broke into tears when Ploski walked up and took her in his arms. His sons, Richard, 6, Dennis, 5, and Terrance, 21-months, looked on.

Richard offered her his ice cream cone. It seemed to quiet her some, Ploski said.

"She didn't sleep too much the first night. She cried, probably lonely."

Ploski said he took the girl out of her bed and gave her some chocolate bars.

"She grinned a little. She does not speak English and I don't speak Japanese. But that seemed to make us buddies," he said.

Ploski is finishing the attic of his two bedroom home so Susan can have a bedroom of her own. The attic will be a dormitory-type bedroom for the boys.

The Ploskis first thought of adopting a girl when Terrance was born. They wanted a girl. Ploski and his wife read an article about Japanese children who needed homes. The idea was temporarily set aside while attempts were made to adopt a girl here.

"Agencies wouldn't listen to us, not with three children of our own and a fourth on the way. So we applied for a little girl and a nun at the Sister of Lourdes baby home in Yokohama picked Susan for us," he said.

Ploski, who works in the Fisher Body plant of General Motors Corp., said friends urged he and his wife to give up the adoption proceedings since the wife's expected child "might be a girl."

Ploski, who was raised in Europe, said the proceedings had already started and "I wasn't going to cancel even if my wife had triplets."

"You know," he said as he bounced the black-haired girl on his knee, "some of my friends dislike the Japanese because of the war. But none of it was this little girl's fault."

Ploski said he wasn't bothered too much by the language problem. He said he could "get to Susan" with chocolate bars and his three sons "get along with her well."

"Kids just seem to understand each other by motions or something," he said.

HUNGRY FOR KISSES — Herman, the rabbit at left, has discovered that the only way he'll get fed is to stay on the good side of the nameless bunny (the one on the right). By kissing the plastic rabbit on the nose, Herman completes an electrical contact which releases food into his hutch. All Herman knows is it requires about 15 kisses to set his table for every meal. Herman lives in Ann Arbor, and is the subject of experiments.

Gleason's $7 Million Buick TV Contract Criticized by Congressman, FCC Member

WASHINGTON (U) — The $7-million contract which television comedian Jackie Gleason recently signed with the Buick Division of General Motors came in for some congressional criticism, according to testimony released today.

The comment came from Rep. Phillips of California, ranking Republican member on a House Appropriations subcommittee which is looking over budget requests from the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

Miss Frieda B. Hennock, a member of the FCC, told the congressional groups she believes television programs are going to get worse.

Pranksters Ring Wedding Bells for Area Seaman

TAMPA, Fla. (U)—A courtship by mail that started as a gag has ended in a wedding for a Pontiac-area seaman.

Chief Machinists Mate Claud Burr Austin, 40, of Hazel Park, married Marie St. Laurent of Tampa Saturday night after corresponding with her for five years. The bride is in her 30's.

Five years ago Austin's Navy buddies, for a prank, wrote an appeal to a Tampa newspaper asking for mail for Austin. They described him as "a lonely seaman."

Stardom Flight Slow for Most Songbirds

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — They're asking one question about the current record sensation—can she repeat? Joan Weber made one record, the fabulously successful "Let Me Go, Lover." It was an immediate smash, made her a star, made her enough money to run out and buy a new station wagon. And it may have made it so tough to follow that she never has another hit. That's happened.

But very few of the top thrushes hit stardom that fast. With most of them, it's a case of years of working in nightclubs, on small radio stations, with bands, on small record labels.

Patti Page is a case in point.

Then, in October, 1950, she cut a Christmas record. It was called "Boogie Woogie Santa Claus," and it was quite a boogie-woogie failure. But there was a song on the other side—the "flip" side, record men call it—with the name, "Tennessee Waltz." That sold more than 3,000,000 copies and was the biggest record hit in 20 years.

So Patti Page arrived. And she stayed arrived—she had nine straight hits after "Tennessee Waltz," capped by the fabulous (shudder!) "Doggie in the Window."

Now the Tulsa girl, an ex-art student and one of 11 children of a railroad section foreman, lives in an apartment on Park Avenue. She employs a publicist, two secretaries (one for her fan clubs), a record promoter, a musical arranger and a pianist and she retains a lawyer and an accountant. But it took her six years to get from Tulsa to Park Avenue.

Six years doesn't seem like such a big obstacle to the thousands of hopefuls who yearly try to become big-time thrushes. The record field is still one of the most likely-to-be-cracked. All it takes is one record—or 13. Or maybe hundreds, and still no Park Avenue.

But every year they try. And every year somebody makes it. In 1954, there were three who became stars—

There was Joan Weber, a little 18-year-old from New Jersey. She'd been singing with small combos in little nightclubs around New Jersey spots. Her discovery led to that first record, "Let Me Go, Lover." Everyone is watching to see how her second, "It May Sound Silly" and "Call Me Careless," does.

And there was Betty Madigan, who won all the polls as the outstanding new girl singer of 1954. Her big record was a fragile little minuet-like song called "Joey."

Betty is one of the most beautiful of all the girl singers, which hasn't hurt her career one decibel. She's from Washington, D. C., and had gone to Catholic University before she turned singer. Then there were quite a few appearances in dingy nightclubs and small hotels before a New York publicity man, Arthur Pine, heard her and turned manager on the spot. He brought her along slowly.

But it took her several records before "Joey," and she still isn't in the Page class. Time will have to judge whether she makes it for keeps.

The third of '54's best new singers was Jaye P. Morgan, who made it despite the corny name. (She thinks it helped her.) She grew up in a family of singers, and the "Morgan Family" trekked throughout the west and mid-west singing anywhere there was an audience. When she was 13, her father died, the act broke up and she went back to school.

But she kept up her singing, on small radio stations and little clubs, and then joined Frank DeVoi's band and sang with him for three years. Restless, she quit and headed for New York.

Her pretty blonde looks and trim figure — coupled with her unique style — won her a TV job. And she made a few records with a small label. Then one of the large companies signed her, and she made her first big record,

House Subcommittee Set
to Explore Dairy Situation

WASHINGTON (INS)—A House subcommittee plans to start hearings about the middle of April for what its chairman calls an exploratory look into the whole dairy situation.

Rep. Thomas G. Abernethy (D) Miss., who heads the dairy subcommittee, said it is his purpose to make a thorough study of what is involved in the so-called "dairy problem."

Presumably the House group will make use of a report submitted to Congress earlier this year in which the Agriculture Department discussed the dairy price situation in considerable detail but made no recommendations.

Substance of that report, backed up by subsequent statements from Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, is that the present government program is working pretty well and that consumption is picking up.

Abernethy's unit may be expected also to use an exhaustive study recently completed by the National Grange and summed up in a report entitled "Barriers to Milk Consumption."

The chairman pointed out that there are complaints of many years' standing about inter-state roadblocks against the movement of milk to urban markets.

He said: "I think the committee and the Congress should know how widespread restrictive regulations are and what real damage, if any, they do in the dairy industry before we begin to consider specific legislation."

Benson has set support levels for dairy products in the marketing year beginning April 1 at the same dollar-and-cent rate in effect for the current year.

In 1954-55 this amounted to 75 per cent of parity. Legislation now before the House, but given little chance of passage, would raise the minimum support level to 80 per cent of parity.

Abernethy said his group will

Selling Splurge Tumbles Grains

CHICAGO (U-P)—A heavy selling splurge sent grains reeling downward on the Board of Trade today. Large declines were run up at or shortly after the opening, during which time both wheat and soybeans recorded losses running to around 5 cents. Feed grains and rye were very weak. After the heavy selling, the market staged a substantial recovery.

All soybean contracts except March tumbled to new seasonal lows. July, September and December wheat also were at their lows since trading in these contracts started.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was 1 1/2 to 2% lower, March $2.12; corn 1/2 to 1% lower, March $1.42; oats 1/2 to 1% lower, March 72 1/2; rye 1 1/2 to 1% lower, March $1.03; soybeans 2% to 3% lower, March $2.27 1/2; and land 8 to 10 cents a hundred pounds lower, March $11.92.
