Unseasonable Heat Wave Continues

Thundershowers Slated Tonight Promise Relief

Possible High of 90 Degrees Forecast for This Afternoon

Another day of sizzling spring heat was expected today, with a possible high of 90 degrees.

Yesterday's high of 88 degrees cracked a record of 85 which had stood since 1949 and established a new high for the last 83 years.

Today's high will have to pass 89 to set another new record. That temperature was registered on May 4, 1949.

Thunderstorms and high winds struck parts of the upper peninsula early today following a tornado alert last night. No damage was reported.

The weather bureau alerted the Manistique area at 11 p.m. against the possibility of an isolated tornado. An all-clear was issued at midnight.

Meanwhile, the weather bureau promised some relief for Pontiac tonight. A cold front that sent the mercury skidding as much as 34 degrees in the northern plains states is expected to bring scattered thundershowers tonight.

Partly cloudy skies and continued warm is the immediate forecast. Mostly fair and cooler weather is seen for tomorrow, with a high near 80.

Tonight's low should be 62-66 and tomorrow night's low 53-57.

A year ago today, a light snowfall was recorded and the day's high was 42 degrees.

At 8 a.m. the temperature in downtown Pontiac stood at 70 degrees, rising to 85 degrees by 2 p.m. Low this morning was 66 degrees.

House Advances McCollough Bill

Van Dusen Amendment Proposal Is Defeated by Legislators

LANSING (AP)—A bill giving cities and villages the power to prevent the proposed Flat Rock-Saginaw Turnpike from crossing their boundaries was advanced by the House today.

Rep. Lucile McCollough (D-Dearborn), who introduced the measure, said it would "return the home rule rights to cities and villages."

The House defeated a proposed amendment offered by Rep. Richard Van Dusen (R-Birmingham), which would have given local units the power to appeal the turnpike route to the state administrative board.

Under the amendment, however, they could not have "veto power" over the route.

Van Dusen charged that Mrs. McCollough's plan would kill the turnpike. He said the Michigan Turnpike Authority's public relations had "bordered on arrogance," but that the turnpike was a good project and should not be killed.

The turnpike would swing seven miles out of its way to cut through the city of Dearborn, Mrs. McCollough said.

Rep. Hiram McNeeley (D-Inkster) offered another amendment to extend the veto power to townships as well as cities and villages. He withdrew the amendment, but said a revised version would be offered when the bill comes up for a vote this week.

Social Security for Municipal Workers Gets Tentative Approval in State Senate

LANSING (UP)—A plan to integrate municipal employes' retirement programs with federal Social Security benefits — boosting the average employe's benefits by more than 50 per cent—had preliminary approval of the state Senate today.

But senators held up a final vote on the plan to permit more debate.

The combined plan would pay a municipal employe who retires after 30 years 50 per cent more savings and pension benefits than he now receives.

An employe earning $3,000 a year could retire after 30 years at nearly two-thirds of his salary. Employes earning $4,200, $6,000 and $7,200 a year could retire at more than half their salaries.

The legislation would permit municipal employes to decide by a majority vote whether to come under Social Security.

However, the retirement age would be raised from 60 to 65 for any municipal employe joining a retirement system after the new law goes into effect. This would bring the municipal retirement age in line with the federal provision of age 65.

Employes already covered by municipal plans still could retire at 60.

The new plan also would raise the maximum annual wage on which to base retirement benefits from $4,800 to $7,200.

Some senators objected that increasing the retirement age and fixing a maximum salary base would be a "backward step" in retirement benefits.

Sen. Lewis Christman (R-Ann Arbor) argued that now would be a good time to bring the age in line with federal provisions.

He also said 95 per cent of all municipal employes would be covered by the $7,200 maximum and that to go any higher than that "might prove to be too costly" for municipal governments to handle.

He said municipal employes, who already contribute five per cent of their earnings to municipal retirement plans, would continue to pay five per cent under the integrated plan.

Three per cent would go into the present retirement plan and two per cent would be matched by two per cent from local governments to be paid into federal Social Security.

Sees Meteors as the Reason for Continents

WASHINGTON (AP)—A theory that continents result from a collision between the earth and a giant meteor was advanced yesterday by Dr. B. F. Howell, of Pennsylvania State University.

He told the American Geophysical Union a meteor about one hundredth the size of the earth, or a group of meteors, may have struck near the North Pole a couple of billion years ago and splattered southward.

He called attention to the "southward pointing fingers of the continents."

Wagonwheel Ouster

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— The City Civil Service Commission abolished three jobs yesterday—wagon shop foreman, wheelwright and wheelwright helper. It took the action after learning that Philadelphia now has only three horse-drawn wagons remaining in service.

Report U.S. Recommends Monarchy for Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The United States today was reported recommending that a constitutional monarchy be established for strife-torn South Viet Nam.

As authoritative sources revealed this current American position, local and provincial Vietnamese leaders flocked to Saigon for a special congress called by Premier Ngo Dinh Diem to act on the National Revolutionary Committee's demand for the ouster of chief of state Bao Dai, the ex-emperor of Annam.

From his luxurious villa on the French Riviera, Bao Dai denounced the congress—or "states general"—as illegal.

The American position was said to be that because of South Viet Nam's political immaturity, the stabilizing influence of a monarchy with only limited powers is needed to give continuity and avoid chaos.

The sources said that should local sentiment prove so great against Bao Dai, his son Bao Long or some other member of the former royal house could be designated ruler with tightly circumscribed powers.

Sentiment against the playboy ex-Emperor increased in Saigon today. Newspapers appearing a few hours before the states general assembly gathered carried violent attacks against him.

Some published photographs of him crossed by large black marks. One displayed a picture of Bao Dai with his bulldog and asked, "Which is the more interesting?"

The Vietnamese move to oust Bao Dai followed his attempt last week to supplant Premier Diem with Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, a supporter of the chief of state. The army refused to follow Vy, who fled to the hill resort of Dalat.

Diem's success in routing the rebel Binh Xuyen society, which attempted to overthrow his government by armed force last week, apparently has brought him at least tacit support from the French.

Division Makes 13,202 Units During April to Set New Record

Some 13,202 units were turned out in April by GMC Truck & Coach Division — a one-month production record, according to P. J. Monaghan, vice president of GM and division general manager.

The former high was 12,680 trucks and coaches produced in March, 1951.

"Unprecedented demand for our 1955 'Blue Chip' truck models has made necessary this volume production," said Monaghan.

"Never in GMC's history has there been such a nation-wide electrifying reaction to a new line of truck models. Complete new styling and more than 500 major engineering changes in our 1955 GMCs have given truck users an entirely new perspective in what to expect from a truck."

Monaghan congratulated GMC employes for their part in the new production record.

"This record was achieved while placing emphasis on building a truck of 'Blue Chip' quality," he stated. "Every employe played his part well in a job of teamwork of which we are all proud."

Food Prices Fall to Two-Year Low

NEW YORK (AP)—Wholesale food prices as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet index declined this week to the lowest level in more than two years.

The index stood at $6.38, the same as on April 21, 1953. A week ago the figure was $6.42 and a year ago $7.38.

The index represents the total cost of one pound each of 31 foods in general use. Dun & Bradstreet said the decline this week was due to small drops in prices of a good number of these items.

Lower were flour, wheat, corn, rye, oats, hams, lard, butter, milk, coffee, cocoa, eggs, steers and lambs. Higher were barley, sugar, cottonseed oil and hogs.

Royal Oak Man Heads Airport Planning Group

Metropolitan Aviation Authority Is Revived Under Hudson

Oakland County Supervisor William C. Hudson, of Royal Oak, was elected president of the newly revived Detroit Metropolitan Aviation Authority yesterday.

The group will attempt to work out a master airport plan for Oakland, Wayne and Macomb Counties.

Mt. Clemens Mayor Harold Lindsay was named vice president. Glenn C. Richards, Detroit DPW commissioner, was elected secretary-treasurer.

A 5-year undercover fight between proponents of the proposed northeast airport and the Detroit Wayne-Major Airport came into the open at the meeting.

The planned northeast airport would be an expansion of the existing Warren Airport located 18 miles from Pontiac by car. It would be bounded by Twelve Mile, Ryan, Fourteen Mile and Dequindre roads in Macomb County.

An Oakland County citizens' committee for the northeast site has asserted it would serve 65 per cent of the metropolitan area more conveniently than Willow Run Airport, the present airlines base. Willow Run is 40 miles from Pontiac.

The northeast-Wayne Major dispute yesterday threatened to disrupt the authority's reorganization, but the factions agreed they would revive the authority in an effort "to get something done for needed airport facilities."

Richards said he thought Wayne

Traffic Charge Mushrooms Into 10 More Counts

Alvin Johnson, 30, of 45 Hibbard Ct., was stated only for a speeding ticket this morning when Pontiac Patrolman James L. Ockerman signaled him to stop at Saginaw and Warren Sts.

But Johnson later was charged with reckless driving and 10 other traffic violations after a 2-mile chase. The officer gave this account:

Johnson waited until Ockerman approached his car, then sped away. During the chase Johnson jumped a curb at School street, bounced back on Saginaw, narrowly missing other cars and two pedestrians and then proceeded to drive on the left side of the street.

Attempting to make a right turn on Montcalm near Saginaw street, Johnson's car overturned and rolled over twice, landing against a wire fence at Pontiac Motor Division. Ockerman said Johnson had not been injured.

In addition to the original speeding charge, Johnson also will answer to the following in Muncipal Court today: Driving on wrong side of street, didn't have the right-of-way, passing on a hill and curve, improper turn, disregarded stop sign and red light, disobeying an officer and reckless driving.

Ockerman also said Johnson had no operator's license.

Federal Vaccine Control Is Firmly Opposed by Ike

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower stood firm today against mounting congressional pressure for federal controls over distribution of Salk polio vaccine.

He declared he still thinks voluntary methods will do a better job of assuring fair distribution.

The chief executive also said that there is a question of the safety of the vaccine. He said we must be absolutely sure that whatever actions are taken are completely safe.

He told a news conference that medical authorities may decide against any use of the vaccine during a certain period of this year.

Eisenhower said some scientists suspect the Salk vaccine may have what he described as a provocative effect on some children.

In such cases, he said, there is a possibility that puncturing the skin for inoculation might be harmful.

He referred to children who have latent polio virus which could possibly be activated by the vaccine, but emphasized there is no proof that this could occur.

The President pledged that there will never be a child in the United States denied protection against polio because of inability to pay for the vaccine, adding that the administration believes the present voluntary system the very best for distributing the vaccine to the nation's children fairly and equitably.

Under the present plan, he noted, an advisory council allocates vaccine to the states on the basis of the number of children between the ages of five and nine.

It is properly the responsibility of the states, Eisenhower said,

TB Sanatorium Bill Near Vote

Proposal Asks Howell Institution Transfer to Hospital

A bill proposed by Oakland County Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore, which would transfer the Howell Tuberculosis Sanatorium into a hospital for mentally-retarded children, is nearing a vote in the state House.

Introduced by Albert Horrigan (D-Flint), the measure was advanced yesterday in the face of stiff opposition.

Motions to refer the bill back to committee were smashed after Horrigan insisted the House act on the measure to ease what he termed a critical lack of facilities for mentally deficient youngsters.

A survey last December showed over 1,000 beds vacant in tuberculosis hospitals, said Horrigan.

Horrigan called mentally deficient children who don't receive proper care "a menace to society."

Opponents argued there are enough victims of tuberculosis to fill the vacancies if they could be found and committed.

Rep. Harry Phillips (R-Port Huron) said he would ask the legislature to set up a committee to determine if the state could get possession of Percy Jones General Hospital at Battle Creek for use as a mental hospital. It now serves as Federal Civil Defense headquarters.

Chinese Aims to Be Yardstick for Isle Defense

President Would Study Purpose of Any Attack on Quemoy, Matsu

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that at the moment the United States is in a sort of wait-and-see position with respect to possible talks between this country and Red China on a cease-fire in the Formosa area.

He added there are a number of countries—apart from the United States—which are interesting themselves in the prospect of a cease-fire. There is nothing new on the subject, he said.

As for the highway program, he said he still is standing by his plan for a 101-billion-dollar highway construction program, and added that so far as he knows the governors of the states still are standing by it, too.

Asked what the yardstick will be if he should be faced with a decision whether to defend the Chinese Nationalist offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu, Eisenhower indicated that he would try to decide whether any attack by the Chinese Reds was aimed exclusively at those islands or, in the long run, at Formosa itself.

The Reds, Eisenhower commented, never have made any assertions that they intended to conquer Quemoy and Matsu, their claims have been that they are out to take Formosa.

He said there has been no further correspondence between himself and Marshal Georgi Zhukov, Russia's new defense minister.

The President disclosed last week that he and Zhukov had been in confidential correspondence which, Eisenhower said, held out some slim hope for improvement of relations.

Eisenhower also said emphatically that he still is for the administration's program to create a new military manpower reserve.

Progress is being made toward creation of the proposed reserve, the President said, noting that the bill is scheduled to come out of a congressional committee soon.

Eisenhower avoided saying whether he will veto a bill to increase the pay of postal workers an average of 8.8 per cent. He indicated a few weeks ago he would refuse to sign any bill providing for a greater hike than 7.6 per cent.

But to questions today, Eisenhower said only that he looks for the bill to be on his desk shortly and he will give it careful study.

MIAMI BEACH (INS) — This is the name of a paper to be delivered today before the American Pharmaceutical Association convention:

Farm Price Support Bill Nearing Showdown Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Northern big-city Democrats with large numbers of consumer constituents appeared to hold the balance of power today as the House neared a showdown on farm price supports.

It was a repeat performance of last year's farm battle, save that the House this time is being asked to reverse last year's administration victory establishing a program of flexible price supports on basic crops.

Both sides concentrated their attention on the consumer and members from large city districts in the debate preceding a final vote scheduled for late today. Democrats generally supported the bill; Republicans were mostly lined up against it.

Before the House was a bill which would scrap the administration program of supports ranging from 82½ to 90 per cent of parity, and substitute for it a program of rigid supports at 90 per cent of parity in effect until this year.

Parity is a legal standard designed to afford the farmer a fair return on his crops in relation to his costs.

To assertions that farm income was down 22 per cent since 1951, Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts replied that "these depressing conditions all come about while price supports were rigidly pegged at 90 per cent of parity."

Rep. Cooley (D-NC), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said it is not true that farm state members are in "some kind of a vicious coalition" with organized labor.

Cooley hotly rejected suggestions that farm leaders plan to repay organized labor for its support by voting later for an increase in the federal minimum wage.

Murder Trial Continues Here

Witness Recalls Seeing Herron Fire Revolver at Victim

A witness testified yesterday that she saw Charley R. Herron fire a shot at Lawrence Freeman shortly before the latter collapsed in the back yard of a home at 29 Iowa St. last Sept. 25.

Freeman, 28, of 476 Ditmar Ave., died later in Pontiac General Hospital. Herron, 37, of 357 Rockwell Ave., is charged with second degree murder in the shooting.

Mrs. Rita Roberson, who was visiting Freeman's estranged wife, Dorothy, 27, at the Iowa street address, said she heard one shot, turned and witnessed another seeing Freeman flinch.

An argument had developed, police said at the time, between Herron and the victim, over Freeman's attempts to get his wife to rejoin him. The fatal bullet came from a .38 revolver. Another slug was found in the kitchen wall.

Assistant Prosecutor Homer G. Gerue said he will call more witnesses in the case continuing today before Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland.

Commissioner Raps Ticketing of Dog Owner

Commissioner John A. Dugan (District 5) was hopping mad at last night's City Commission meeting. A constituent had told him she was given a $5 violation ticket for letting her dog run loose.

"That wasn't my understanding of the new dog ordinance," Dugan fumed. "The way I got it, there was a $2 fee when the dog was impounded, plus boarding charges.

"Now in this case, the policemen came to this woman's door and gave her a ticket because her dog was running loose in a big field.

"They didn't take the dog to the pound. In fact, the woman told them she was busy with her baby and the officers even tied up the dog for her. But it cost $5 when she went to pay the ticket."

Police Chief Herbert W. Straley said the $5 fine has been charged for dog violations under an ordinance passed in the 1930s.

After it was explained that the recently passed dog ordinance brought canine violations onto a year-around basis instead of just six months a year, City Attorney William A. Ewart was ordered to study the old fine ordinance for possible change.

Road Commission Planning Building

The Oakland County Road Commission expects to have plans completed within two weeks for its new quarters on Pontiac Lake road just west of the farmer's produce market.

Right-of-way for the planned Telegraph Rd.-Orchard Lake Ave. grade separation will include the present commission headquarters at 550 S. Telegraph forcing the move, according to commission member Robert O. Felt.

The portion of the buildings to be constructed this summer will cost an estimated $460,000.

One building 92 feet by 300 feet will first be used for a repair shop and later as an equipment storage building. A 100 by 150 foot wing to be added to the first structure will include a stock room plus offices for supervisors, foremen, radio dispatchers and timekeepers, said Felt.

"We hope to have the work done by fall," he added.

St. Clair Is Honored

Robert J. St. Clair, manager of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce, last night was awarded a certificate of commendation by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce at the organization's 43rd annual meeting in Washington.

The award was made "for work in behalf of the free enterprise system."

City Postpones for Week Action on Peddling Law

After an hour's argument over what to do about the city's peddling ordinance following a Circuit Court decision voiding it, the City Commission last night postponed action on the matter one week.

During the debate, Commissioner Harcourt S. Patterson (District 3) roasted City Attorney William A. Ewart.

Patterson's barbs came after Ewart said he believed there would be little value in carrying the case to the State Supreme Court and suggested writing a regulating—not a prohibiting—ordinance.

Ewart cited a similar lower court decision which was upheld by the Ohio Supreme Court, and also decisions by the Wayne County Circuit Court in like cases.

"In view of all precedents," Ewart said, "I predict the Supreme Court would not reverse this decision."

He added, however, he would be "perfectly happy and thrilled" to take the case to the high court if the commission instructed.

"We pay the city attorney to draw up a good, water-tight ordinance," said Patterson. "If it is, we shouldn't fall with the first punch; we should carry it on further and let someone else decide if it's water-tight . . .

City commissioners breathed a sigh of relief and hummed a few bars of "Auld Lang Syne" as they filed out of the Municipal Court room which has been their official meeting place for many years. Starting next week, meetings will be held in the new City Hall.

"If the attorney drafts what he thinks is a good, sound regulation, then gets 'knocked down' and agrees with the judge, I wonder if his heart is in an appeal.

"Would the city attorney like a co-counsel to test it out (before the Supreme Court)?"

City Manager Walter K. Willman joined Patterson and Commissioner Floyd P. Miles (District 4) in urging the matter be put up to the Supreme Court. Ewart's position was backed by Commissioner Roy V. Cooley (District 1).

Ewart said a case exactly like this one has never been brought before the state court.

Ike Opposes Control of Vaccine by U.S.

to assure that their share of vaccine is apportioned fairly to all youngsters.

He said he has been assured that there is sufficient vaccine, without the production of the Cutter Laboratories, to inoculate all children in the five-to-nine age group before Aug. 1.

Eisenhower opened the vaccine discussion at his news conference without waiting for questions. He noted that it was a subject close to all of our hearts.

He said some people assume the entire problem is distribution and declared this is not true, pointing out there also is the question of safety.

The President said in reply to a question that, despite some concern over the vaccine, it is still considered wise to go ahead with the inoculation of the nation's children.

Eisenhower said Welfare Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby is preparing a detailed report on the whole problem for submission to him this week.

Hudson Heads Group on Airport Planning

Major should be the central airlines base, "and the northeast airport should be designated as a general purpose airport."

C. V. Burnett, manager of the Detroit City Airport, took exception.

"The Detroit Aviation Commission," he said, "is committed to provide the northeast airport. Surveys have shown that metropolitan Detroit is too vast an area to be serviced by a single major airport . . . We are not against Wayne Major getting this designation as long as the northeast airport gets it, too."

Arthur J. Miller, supervisor of Warren Township and an opponent of the northeast airport, interposed that he would continue his opposition. The group will meet again June 3.

"I hope we have less debate and more constructive suggestions for our airport needs," said President Hudson.

Milford Man Injured When Auto Rams Tree

Gaylord F. Rhodes, 40, of Milford, was treated for face cuts and bruises Tuesday at Pontiac General Hospital after his car rammed a tree on Benstein road in Commerce Township, Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said.

Rhodes, a salesman, said he lost control of his car on the gravel road after he was blinded by headlights of an oncoming car.

Alban's Gets 15-Day License Suspension

BIRMINGHAM—For the second time in six months, the Michigan Liquor Control Commission handed a 15-day suspension of the sale of alcoholic beverages to Alban's Party Food store on Hunter boulevard, it was learned today.

The order went into effect Sunday and was issued because of sale of alcoholic beverages to minors, Birmingham Police Chief Ralph Moxley said the suspension was issued on "our complaint."

Moxley said some juveniles were picked up with alcoholic beverages in their possession and claimed they made the purchase at Alban's. The commission suspended Alban's license for 15 days and also assessed a $150 fine.

A similar suspension and fine were issued against the store.

Plastic Surgery OK for Infants

Detroit Doctor Tells How Face Operations Can Be Performed

WASHINGTON (UP) — Surgical operations for some facial deformities can be safely performed on infants when they are only about a week old if local anesthesia is used, Dr. Richard E. Straith of Detroit said today.

He said in a paper prepared for a meeting of the American Assn. of Plastic Surgeons that a "local" — in which only a specific area is numbed against pain—is safer, cheaper and more convenient than general anesthesia in facial operations performed on infants.

He mentioned such congenital defects as harelip, hairy moles, "blood tumors" and others.

Recommending surgery when the child is 6 to 10 days old—provided the infant weighs at least six pounds, is eating well and is otherwise normal—Dr. Straith said:

"The treatment of congenital deformities in the newborn is often postponed much longer than necessary, causing unnecessary embarrassment and heartache to the parents."

At Straith Memorial Hospital Clinic, he said, more than 1,000 infants have been given local anesthesia without a single death due to the anesthetic itself.

And, during the past year, he added, 40 babies born with harelips have been successfully treated following a procedure in which a pain-killer and a sedative are used prior to the operation, and a local anesthetic during surgery.

2 Minors Arrested on Alcohol Charge

BIRMINGHAM — Birmingham police last night arrested two Detroit minors for the second time in less than a month on a charge of possession of alcohol.

Police said they found liquor in the car of Charles Williams, 20, and Thomas Bryant, 18, when they stopped them at Arlington and Maple streets. The pair was stopped because the car in which they were riding had no taillight, police said.

The two were picked up by Birmingham police April 17 on a similar charge. That time Williams was fined $35 including court costs and Bryant $50.

They will appear in municipal court on the charge today.

New Era for Europe Opens With German Sovereignty

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

A new period in European history will open tomorrow when the Federal Republic of Germany becomes a sovereign nation.

West Germany, as it is called, will become an ally of the United States and the other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

It will start to raise an army of 400,000 men, an air force of 80,000 men and a navy of 20,000 men.

Russia will have suffered a momentous defeat in the cold war.

At the same time, West Germany's allies will be faced with some new problems.

One will be to make sure that Russia does not succeed in the desperate attempt it is sure to make to keep German rearmament from becoming a realty.

Another will be to keep Germany, with its militaristic tradition, from becoming a danger instead of a safeguard to democracy.

The new German army — the "streikraefte" or fighting forces — will be strictly limited by treaty.

But so was the Wehrmacht of the years between the two world wars. Adolf Hitler just tore up the treaty.

For the present, however, and for the foreseeable future, Soviet Russia is the threat.

Every step which West Germany takes in the process of rearmament will make the danger of a third world war more remote.

Russia has shown how deeply it fears West German rearmament.

It fought every step of the long, painful process of writing and ratifying the rearmament and accompanying treaties.

It has denounced its treaties of alliance with Great Britain and France.

It is about to form a joint military command with its European satellites as a retort to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

At the same time, the Kremlin is now trying a new tack — the treaty to restore to Austria the sovereignty it lost when Hitler seized it in 1938.

Dispatches from Vienna, where treaty negotiations are being conducted, say the Allied delegates are most hopeful that Russia will agree to an acceptable treaty.

If that happens, it will be merely another indication of Russia's desperation over the German situation.

Russia's sole reason for even thinking of concluding an Austrian treaty is the hope that it will sabotage German rearmament.

If an Austrian treaty is signed, Russian occupation troops will leave. The Kremlin's idea would be to use the treaty as bait, telling West Germans that the Red army would leave East Germany, and the country could be unified, if only the Federal Republic turned its back on the West.

Birmingham 'Y' Allocated $100,000 of Area Fund

BIRMINGHAM — The YMCA branch here will benefit by $100,000 from the Metropolitan Detroit Building Fund campaign, it was announced today.

William E. Roberts, chairman of the MDBF's permanent building committee, said in a prepared statement: "The local Y is cooperating with the MDBF and praying for the success of its campaign. Just as soon as funds are made available from that group, we will start our building program."

The MDBF campaign, for $16,500,000, got under way in Detroit last week with a kickoff luncheon. It was expected to continue until sometime this fall.

Birmingham's Y, located at 400 E. Lincoln, presently has a lounge, game room and offices. Preliminary expansion plans would cost in excess of $1,000,000 and would include a swimming pool, gym, locker rooms and living quarters, it was learned.

Based on Roberts' statement that construction would get under way as soon as funds from the MDBF were made available, it was believed "limited" construction might start next year.

Although officials of the local Y declined confirmation, it was reported revised plans, with additional expansion later, might start in 1956. The revised plans, it was believed, would provide for a swimming pool, gym and locker rooms.

Trade Bill Vote Due by Tonight

Sponsors Sure Senate Won't Hobble Plan With Amendments

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate begins voting today on President Eisenhower's foreign trade bill with its sponsors confident they can beat any crippling amendments. Final passage was expected by tonight.

Eisenhower has called the bill one of the most vital in his 1955 program and has said enlightened trade policies among free world nations can be the key to peace.

Nevertheless, it met considerable opposition in Congress because of fears that any new tariff concessions would seriously harm certain American industries.

The bill would extend the 21-year-old reciprocal trade law three more years, and give the chief executive new authority to cut tariffs another 15 per cent in exchange for trade concessions from other nations.

It passed the House after several narrow escapes on roll calls. In the Senate, the Finance Committee worked eight weeks and finally came up with a version which appears to have averted an expected close floor fight.

The committee's version preserves the key features of the President's bill. It also gives the President some added authority to curb imports of specific products if he decides they might affect national security.

Man Waives Exam on Exposure Count

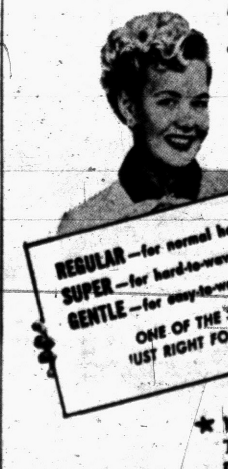

Albert Urbaniak, 27, of 3300 Elizabeth Lake Rd., Waterford Township, waived examination on an indecent exposure charge Monday when he appeared before Waterford Township Justice Willis D. Lefurgy.

He was scheduled to be arraigned today in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Urbaniak, who was free on bond pending trial on a similar charge, was arrested yesterday by Waterford Township Police Chief Frank Van Atta and Detective Millard Pender.

He reportedly committed the second offense before a Waterford Township woman Monday. She gave police a description of the man and the license number of his car.

Old Folks Will Find Haven in Hotel That Once Sheltered Mobsters

DETROIT (UP) — The scarlet-tinged history of the Detroiter Hotel neared its end today as a group of Carmelite nuns moved in to help convert the 12-story building into a rest haven for the aged.

The 750-room structure that once served as headquarters for many members of Detroit's infamous Purple Gang was recently purchased from a Detroit-Chicago syndicate by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit for use as an old people's home.

"We're not interested in the past history of the building," the Rev. Wilbur F. Suedkamp, a Catholic charities fund worker, said today. "We're only interested in the future."

But the past was so sordid that the hotel twice changed its name in an effort to erase the stigma. It was built during the heyday of prohibition and gangland wars, and only after the old Purple Gang was finally broken up was it able to take its place among the Motor City's respected hostelry.

"Now it will be a haven of loving care for old folk with no other home to go to," Father Suedkamp said.

The Detroiter was built at a cost of $4,000,000 at the northern edge of Detroit's downtown business district in 1927. Patterned in Italian renaissance style after the Savoy Hotel of London, the Detroit structure was also called the Savoy.

Later the name was changed to the La Salle, and after at least one gangland murder in its rooms and a "questionable" suicide, the name was again changed to the Detroiter.

Jerry Buckley, a newscaster who conducted a one-man crusade to stamp out the Purple Gang, was found riddled with bullets in an 11th floor suite in the 1930s. A gangster's girl friend who figured prominently in a gangland murder trial later met death by either jumping or being pushed from the top-most floor.

In recent years, the hotel's history has been nearly forgotten by all but the cab drivers, the police and the newspapermen who still recall that the building was once surrounded by "blind pigs" and gambling establishments.

As a Catholic charity institution for aged men and women of all faiths, the hotel will soon be operated by a group of 25 Carmelite sisters for the aged and infirm.

The first of 650 men and women will move into the new home by June 1 while work still proceeds to convert many of the rooms into recreation halls, infirmaries, kitchens and offices.

"This is only a partial answer to Detroit's problem of caring for the aged," Father Suedkamp said. "We can provide for 650 men and women, but there are many, many more for whom we can't provide.

"What the 'retired' people of our city need more than anything else is a place they can call home, a decent diet, medical care and legal help.

"Those that become residents of the Detroiter will have all of these."

Austria Frets About Growing Pill Addiction

VIENNA (UP)—Top doctors, psychiatrists and social workers are trying to halt a growing addiction to medicines in Austria.

Health insurance statistics published recently show that Austria's seven million population consumed more than 320 million pills during 1954. The number of prescriptions for medicines climbed from 5,600,000 in 1950 to nine million last year.

* * *

A publicity campaign pointing to too much medicine as an evil is to be started soon.

Dr. Hans Hoff, head of the city's psychiatric clinic, says:

"Millions of city dwellers are becoming medicine addicts and are worse off than those taking narcotics. A narcotic addict is quite normal when he has taken his drug, but the health of a medicine addict is soon completely undermined and he becomes incapable of leading a normal life.

"On feeling a slight headache, mild indigestion, or sleeplessness, more and more people reach to the medicine cabinet for quick relief.

"They try to cure themselves by following the advice of advertisements, instead of consulting a doctor. That is nearly always a grave mistake, for although the pain disappears, its cause—maladjustment—remains and after some time the symptoms return. This causes people to take more medicine and, in time, they become medicine addicts."

Police Called Collect

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UP)—The California Highway Patrol has initiated a service allowing motorists to make emergency calls to the patrol free of charges by telephoning ZEnith 1-2000. California is the first state to have such a system for fast and efficient reporting of auto accidents and other highway emergencies.

Nehru Leaves June 5 for Russian Visit

NEW DELHI, India (UP)—Prime Minister Nehru plans to leave Bombay June 5 for his long-projected visit to the Soviet Union and other East European nations, a government spokesman said today.

Disclosing the first definite dates for the trip, the spokesman said Nehru would arrive in Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 6. On June 7 he will fly to Moscow for a two-week stay.

The spokesman said the balance of the Prime Minister's itinerary, including visits to Poland and anti-Soviet Communist Yugoslavia, had not yet been settled.

Laid-Off Worker Goes Berserk

Wounds Wife and Two In-Laws, Then Kills Self in Battle With Police

SOUTH RIVER, N.J. (AP)—A 20-year-old discharged laborer shot and seriously wounded three women relatives early today and then killed himself during a gun battle with police.

Alex Miedzwiadok was found dead on the floor of his mother-in-law's house with his unharmed 10-month-old daughter by his side.

His mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Kucharik, 43; sister-in-law, Margaret Kucharik, 50; and wife, Sonya, 18, lay wounded in the teargas filled home. They all were in fair condition at Middlesex General Hospital.

* * *

Miedzwiadok exchanged shots with police on two occasions during the night, when finally trapped and surrounded in the house. He shot the three women while exchanging shots with police.

Miedzwiadok was separated from his wife.

Police Chief Matthew Zaleski gave this account of events leading to the shootings:

Miedzwiadok was laid off recently at the Peter J. Schweitzer plant in nearby Spotswood.

He went to a union meeting late last night at Sayreville to seek to get the union to try to gain his reinstatement.

The union rejected his case.

He went home, and came back to the union meeting, brandishing a revolver. Union members called Sayreville police. When police arrived, Miedzwiadok had vanished.

South River police were notified. They began a search for the man, locating him near his home.

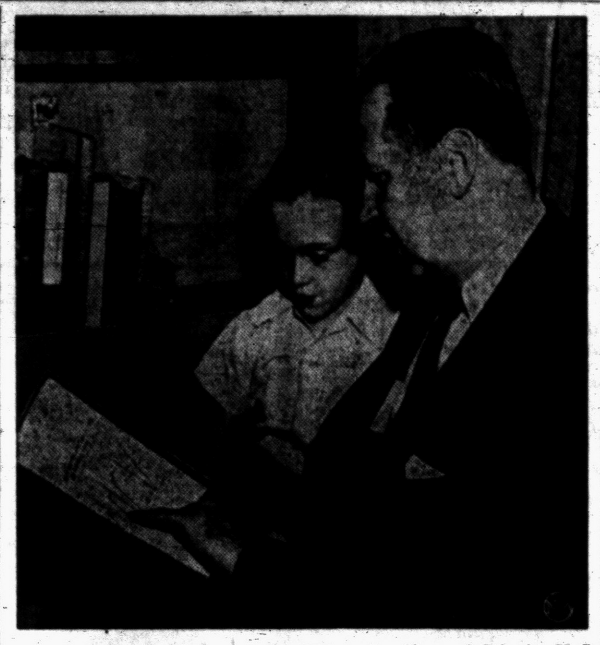

* * *

Patrolmen George Cerekwas and Steven Vass approached Miedzwiadok, and he opened fire on the two officers. They returned fire, and he fled.

Police surmised that he would head for his mother-in-law's house. Reinforcements were summoned. As the police arrived in front of the house, they were met with shots.

About 15 shots were exchanged between police and Miedzwiadok. Police Chief Zaleski tossed a tear gas bomb into the room where Miedzwiadok was doing the shooting.

Miedzwiadok then shot himself in the head.

Japanese Sign Red Trade Pact

$84 Million Contract May Be Disapproved by Government

TOKYO (INS)—A group of Japanese businessmen signed an $84 million private trade agreement with Red China today.

Negotiations leading to the agreement were brought to a hurried close when the Japanese Foreign Office refused to extend the visas of the Red delegation which arrived in Tokyo March 28. The visas, already once renewed, expired on April 26.

The Foreign Office in effect told the Communists to come to terms and leave the country.

The Chinese thereupon withdrew a demand that funds be exchanged through the central banks of each country. The Japanese felt that this might be interpreted as recognition of the Red regime and refused to go along with the idea.

The agreement calls for export to Red China of heavy machinery, copper, aluminum, ships and other items which are embargoed by the United Nations.

Any export of such items by the Japanese businessmen will require government approval and whether this would be forthcoming was problematical.

The Chinese will send iron ore, manganese, coal, soybeans and rice to Japan under the agreement.

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — Relatives of 10 youths about to be released from state training schools have been enrolled in a part-time school here. Faulkner Still Prefers Farm

Pulitzer Winner Says He's Not Literary Man Despite Fame

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — He has just won the Pulitzer Prize for fiction but William Faulkner prefers farming.

"I'm not a literary man," he declared, then began expounding on a subject that intrigues him—horses.

"I've always liked horses. I raise them at home and use them a lot." He lives somewhat aloofly from the world on an Oxford, Miss., plantation.

* * *

Faulkner paused long enough to admit he was "very flattered" by the Pulitzer award for "The Fable" yesterday but added:

'It's not better because it won this prize. I'm surprised the book was being considered," he said during the interview.

The mustached author, who took the Nobel Prize for literature in 1949, is here to write a story on the Kentucky Derby for a national sports magazine.

* * *

What will he look for at Churchill Downs?

'I ain't a reporter," he replied. 'I came not just to write about what happens, but to explain why it should have happened. That is, what all went on before that should bring the attention of the United States to Churchill Downs."

This will be his third derby and Faulkner finds it interesting when an "animal bred to do one thing right, does it."

* * *

Will he incorporate his derby observations in a novel?

"That's difficult to say. Any writer's a scavenger. He uses everything that comes within his notice. No novelist has morals. He'd steal from his best friend."

In between talks of horses, he had these further observations:

On segregation—'It will take a long time. It can't be done by force. People will have to come to accept it. My own opinion is that the Negro race will vanish in time and be absorbed into the white race."

On the South's current big strikes — "I like the telephone strike. I hate telephones."

Just Standing Around Wins Election for Man

BOONEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Carl Bovender wasn't running for anything. He just kinda was standin' around and the first thing he knew he was elected mayor of Booneville.

It seems that no one filed for the office. What with Carl being a familiar figure around Booneville, the voters took things in their own hands. Bovender got 73 write-in votes. He had served as mayor three years ago and he's going into office again—whether he really wants to or not.

OK Ordinances at Walled Lake

City Acts to Restrict Disorderly Conduct; Rules on Peddling

WALLED LAKE — The Walled Lake City Council last night adopted two ordinances, both to come into effect May 24.

One concerns restrictions, drunk and disorderly conduct, and the other hawkers and peddlers.

Also read at last night's meeting was an electrical code. Action will be taken on it at the next meeting.

Attorney Albert Herzog was instructed to draw up an ordinance creating a zoning board of appeals.

Council members voted to ask Farmington City Manager James O. Tennant to screen the applicants for the position of Walled Lake city manager. The council will make the final choice from Tennant's recommendations.

In other action, the council voted to furnish flags for the graves of veterans on Memorial Day. This was formerly done by Commerce Township.

Dr. W. R. Rech, appointed city health officer, discussed his duties with the council, and suggested the creation of an ordinance regarding food handlers.

Mike Roth, attorney for St. Williams Church, asked the council to consider vacating O'Flarity street, between Pontiac Trail and Commerce Rd., as a safety measure for students at the church school.

A special meeting will be held May 9, to consider the city budget. The meeting will be open to the public.

May Solve Carver School Trouble

Tenants Set to Buy Oakdale Units

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP — A possible means of changing the political climate of the George Washington Carver School from its charged atmosphere to a more peaceful one is in the making.

Sale of the housing project in which most of the school district lives could create a gigantic change in the turbulent history of the district, which has seen fist-fights at board meetings, teacher strikes, parents picketing the school, and court battles since its formation in 1945.

If the individual residents purchase the project, they will become property owners, and eligible to run for school board positions. At present, those without property can merely vote in the elections.

Approximately 65 residents out of the population of 8,000 are eligible for the board at present, due to the property owning requirement.

Tenants of the Oakdale Gardens Housing Project, anticipate buying the project from the U.S. Housing Administration by approximately May 20, Eugene R. Henderson, manager of the project, said today.

Henderson said that initial $50 deposits on shares in the cooperative ownership association had been paid by 390 prospective tenants, and only five more were needed to complete the minimum number necessary to purchase the project.

The $325 balance required for down payments on the housing units are now being collected, he added.

"We should have the five buyers we need by tonight," Henderson said. "They're coming in at the rate of 10 or 20 a day.

"We expect to have over 443 shares sold by the May 20 tentative date for signing the purchase agreement—that will cover the $144,873 total down payment, plus the tax pro-ration, personal property, insurance and operating capital for one month."

Eventually 590 shares in the $1,443,875 housing project will be sold, to cover the 590 dwelling units.

Mortgage payments will equal the present rent for each dwelling unit. Buyers, who must live in the project, will be given a permanent lease on a dwelling unit with the purchase of a share in the cooperative, at a cost of $375 down.

Henderson said that a contract already had been signed retaining him as manager of the project, and that the majority of the present staff would be kept on if the sale goes through.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

WEDNESDAY, MAY 4, 1955

Morgan D. Douglas

Pontiac and Oakland County lose a great citizen in the death of Morgan D. Douglas.

Long with Chevrolet, Mr. Douglas spent five years as General Manager of the GMC Truck and Coach Division here, following Irving G. Babcock. He resigned as a result of ill health and never really regained his strength.

Mr. Douglas had an unusually wide circle of friends and acquaintances and he long stood as one of the best known men in automotive circles. Affable, agreeable and always pleasant, he was a universal favorite.

★ ★ ★

Towards the end of his period with the Truck Plant, "Doug" as he was affectionately known, became active and interested in civic affairs here in Pontiac. He was a staunch supporter of the United Fund and served one year as chairman of the annual drive. He took on this burden in addition to his tremendous responsibilities at the Truck Plant because of his interest in community projects and in people in general.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas had been very active until Mr. Douglas' recent illness. They divided their time between here and Florida and were prominent in most of the activities in the Bloomfield Hills area.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Douglas was a keen analyst of general economic factors and followed world and American political situations closely and with an avid interest. Blessed with an unusually kindly nature and friendly disposition, he made friends rapidly and held them securely without the slightest conscious effort on his part. Until illness asserted itself, Mr. Douglas enjoyed golf and cards as hobbies.

★ ★ ★

Pontiac, Oakland County and mankind in general have lost a valuable asset.

State Senate Should OK New Job Insurance Bill

A Republican sponsored bill to liberalize Michigan's unemployment compensation law has reached the Senate with the unanimous approval of the House.

Democrats in the lower chamber argued that the measure isn't generous enough. But when it came to a showdown they hopped aboard the GOP bandwagon and the final vote of approval was 106-0.

★ ★ ★

A major provision of the bill is that the compensation of an unemployed worker with five or more dependents would be increased from the present $42 a week to $54. In general, the increases written into the bill run from $1 to $12 weekly depending on the size of the family.

Single men or men with working wives would continue to receive a maximum of $30 weekly. In all cases, however, the length of coverage would remain at 26 weeks.

★ ★ ★

Another proposed change would make the liberalized law applicable to all employers of four or more persons. At present coverage is required only of employers hiring at least eight workers. The bill also extends coverage to meet standards of the Federal law and in most cases provides compensation equal to 50 per cent of the worker's average earnings.

The Senate should follow the House example and give this bill overwhelming approval. It would make Michigan's job insurance law one of the most liberal in the Nation.

An interested listener is far more popular than an interesting talker.

Ike's Farm Message

In a special message President Eisenhower has asked Congress to launch a many sided attack on the problem of low income farmers.

Accompanying it was a 15 point program suggested by Secretary of Agriculture Benson after a searching study requested by the President. The message emphasized the urgency of early legislative action. It also reminded the lawmakers that a quarter of the Nation's farmers, or 1,500,000 families in 1,000 counties have cash incomes of less than $1,000 a year.

Among other things Secretary Benson advocated a $30,000,000 lending authority to aid these farmers and the very sensible idea of strengthened off-the-farm job opportunities.

In a letter to the White House he pointed out that parts of this program are now or have been operating but have not been developed fully. He therefore recommendd pilot operations in not less than 50 of the low income counties during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

★ ★ ★

This is a complex and difficult human as well as economic problem. Remedies proposed stress self help and co-operation and, according to Sen. Aiken, wouldn't require much legislation.

Certainly in a country with the world's highest per capita incomes it should be possible to minimize if not solve this problem. Congress owes it the study asked in the President's special message.

Capital Punishment

David Lawrence Says:

Spanish-U. S. Cooperation Setting Pace for All Allies

MADRID—If all Allies on this side of the Iron Curtain worked as cordially together and as understandingly and as enthusiastically as Spain and the United States do today, the chances of preventing a third world war would be immeasurably improved.

For only after surveying the wonderful strategic set-up and the plans for an even bigger build-up in the future does one realize that here in Spain a relatively inconsequential investment of funds by the United States already has brought results far in excess of what the American people may ever get out of the other countries into which billions of Marshall Plan aid were poured in the last several years.

To understand the strategic value of American bases in Spain it is necessary to take into account two possibilities. One is that, due to internal political pressure, some day neither Britain nor France will — unless there is a direct attack on their cities—permit American airmen to retaliate with atom bombs flown from bases on their soil even though some American city may have already been destroyed by bombs.

The other is that American airplanes starting from Spanish bases can carry on strategic air missions into the heartland of the enemy areas and refuel or come to rest at points in the eastern Mediterranean and the Middle East.

But what is also important is that Spain is to our bases in England what Texas is to our forward units in Montana and the Canadian defense line. Here in a sunny climate, where all-year-round operations are possible, the big supply and support depots of the future will be available to the American air forces operating throughout Europe.

But, in addition to the tremendous value of Spain to the U.S. Air Force and the Strategic Air Command, there is another advantage, which the ports on the long Spanish coast lines at the western end of the Mediterranean give to the U.S. Navy whose aircraft carriers must refuel and take on supplies by convenient locations. The opportunity presents itself for joint tactical operations in the Mediterranean, with the U.S. Air Force and the Navy working in cooperation.

As American military missions become firmly established here—and they have moved in quietly and efficiently—there is a sense of real security achieved for the American people. The planning began when the late Adm. Forrest Sherman, under the Truman administration, came here to lay the groundwork for what has since become perhaps the most successful piece of two-nation cooperation on a military level that the modern world has seen.

Spain, of course, is not a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and sometimes one wonders whether fate has not, after all, decided for us that under a two-nation partnership there would be less red tape and less opportunity for the injection of what are sometimes frustrating problems of a political nature than might be the case under the cumbersome set-up of a nineteen-nation group.

Americans can breathe easier because Spain has opened up big areas of land for airfields and has generously bestowed military advantage after advantage to make possible a real defense operation, ready for instant action.

It has cost Spain more than has been received here, and this is something that ought to engage the earnest attention of the Washington authorities. Here economic aid, for example, is reckoned in terms of thirty millions — not billions — and the annual amount should really be at least twice that sum, because there is no question but what America got far the better of the bargain in the way the military agreements were set up.

The Spanish officials are much too proud to make a point of it, but many Americans feel the United States could well afford to pay fully for the many tangible things that have been given here. This, for instance, the American Military Mission occupies a lot of office space rent-free. One wonders in what other Allied country any such generous gesture has ever been made by a government.

There is little talk of war here, and the newspapers lately have been publishing dispatches from America and elsewhere about the hopes being expressed that world war three is more remote. But it is a fortunate thing that no effort of a defense nature has been relaxed in this enormous base. It is precisely because the communists know what can be done by America with airpower based in this country that they may never risk provocation to a major war.

In face of all the criticism that our Chief of Police Herbert Straley is getting, we pledge at this time, our support and cooperation for the efficient way the police and vice squad have run their respective departments. 'Improvement, Progress Goal of Equality of Sexes'

It is a peculiarity of human nature that the question occasionally, and eventually, does rise about the superiority of either sex in various lines of endeavor.

Perhaps one might assume that politics were entered into as a challenge by the weaker sex. Perhaps one might concede the resultant effects of women's suffrage was a challenge with the many questions and responsibilities falling to the lot of the weaker sex.

Looking at their achievements in the past, we might know women made their abilities known in the realm of music before they received the privilege of ballot. And the writing ability of women of the past is without question.

Equality of living and working privilege cannot be confused with competition between the sexes. Rather than competing for what either sex may achieve, let us value the common ground, the unblemished field of knowledge.

Then the performance is only improvement, not just 'myself,' but 'you and I', 'they,' a happy thought to know it is a melody. Beauty is in production, any kind of production in working together. Competition is the least important word. Progress, civilization . . . satisfying words.

'Dogs Aren't Problem in Preserving Flowers'

In answer to 'Lover of Flowers,' it is too bad the dogs spoil your flowers with garbage. Why don't you put up one of those one-foot fences?

I am an old lady and have had a dog all my life. I would not be without one, and he never spoiled my flowers. We paid over $500 at a time for flowers. You want to be sure it's not the grubs that kill your flowers, and rabbits as they do with me.

We have rats running all around and they are the garbage carriers, not dogs, unless it is a little puppy. And it would take a lot of them to carry as much garbage as you say.

As for shrubs and lawn, no dog can destroy them so badly as you say. But if you have children around, they can jump over your shrubs and destroy them fast. I had that experience myself for years and finally put up a fence. Then there was no more trouble.

You should be thankful you have a neighbor that takes care of his dogs. He deserves credit. When you live in a neighborhood and see them abused, you would fight for the dogs just the same as I'm doing. Why buy a license if they have to be chained the year 'round? Put it up to a vote.

Premature Deaths Mean Great Economic Loss

By MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Every time a constructive leader succumbs prematurely, there is national economic waste. Executives, who insist on elaborate maintenance of physical assets, too often overlook the desirability of applying concepts of "preventive maintenance" to the care of the human body.

It would be a great service if the mores of the land included a widespread recognition that it is manly to utilize the human body intelligently rather than wastefully.

This occurred to me the other day as commuters at the lower level at Grand Central were scurrying for steps and ramps to get them up two stories to the street level.

Only a small select group was deliberately avoiding heart strain by taking an elevator on the Vanderbilt avenue side.

Decades ago while still a student at Columbia University, my day off during a summer newspaper job was on Mondays. On Monday two classmates and I visited Coney Island, which, compared with the Sunday rush, was almost empty. We found that we got infinitely more attention and much better service.

This suggested a principle. It's better not to stretch for stocks and real estate when too many are competing with you.

It's more in the nature of a public service to stick in a bid when others are momentarily seized with pessimism.

Men of heavy responsibility, who are under strain, should overcome false pride, and put a couch in their office.

Every so often, we read of an executive dying during a platform appearance. Wise professionals avoid such hazards by a routine of taking a tepid bath and a rest period before speaking. Likewise, many professionals eat lightly, if at all, before making a speech.

As an offset to inevitable tensions, wise persons budget their time and finances to permit a frequent weekend and other vacation interludes.

Instead of apologizing for such self-indulgence, mature persons should recognize that it is based on sound economics.

The most effective way to reduce the devastating effect of worry is through foresight and timely planning.

And, with the ambition to succeed, should be the courage to accept temporary reversals. Too many make themselves nervous wrecks by gearing their happiness to a pace which may not be a lifelong gait.

The wealthy and successful Orlando F. Weber used to say half facetiously: "Why worry? I can always go back to soda jerking."

And, in addition to good work and rest habits, the prudent person, thrifty with his main asset in the form of his own human energy, submits as a matter of routine to periodical health examinations, including electro-cardiographs, chest and teeth X rays, and other techniques for minimizing wastage of human assets.

To paraphrase Macy's phrase, "it's smart to be thrifty," it's also smart to be sensible with your own body.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Overcome a Terror 3 Different Times and You Will Become the Master of It

Dads, your big pay check doesn't help your son at Timmy's age as much as a little personal attention. So play with your kids. Teach them to swim and bat a ball. Play catch with them literally thousands of times for practice not only makes perfect but it banishes fears and inferiority complexes like Timmy's.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case O-321: Timmy L., aged 11, is a shy little boy with a high I.Q. but with little athletic skill.

"Dr. Crane, I'm a coward," he finally confessed, shamefacedly, "I am a 'fraidy cat.

"The other kids at school call me 'chicken.' But I never had any brothers or sisters to play with. So I don't know how to play games very well. I can't even bat a ball for I usually strike out.

"And I can't catch a fly, either, for I am what they call 'butter fingers.' But I don't want to be this way.

"Could you please show me how to get over being afraid?"

This is the type of case on which I spend an extra amount of time. And many of my letters to such youngsters are longer than those I may write to adults.

For at the age of 9 to 12, this problem is acute and can spoil a youngster entire future career.

So I told Timmy that everybody is a coward at the start. We are all born with fear but not with courage. That is a psychological fact.

All of our leading psychologists have listed fears as inborn or innate but they don't put bravery in that same category.

No, we must learn to be brave, just as we must learn to play the piano or add and subtract, for those accomplishments are acquired instead of instinctive.

"But how can I learn to be brave?" Timmy asked with pathetic eagerness.

"By making yourself do what you know is right," I replied, "even though your knees are shaking and your hands tremble and you feel as if you'll faint because of terror."

Then I explained that a person who isn't afraid, can't possiibly be brave. For courage demands that we be fearful but that we force ourselves to go on, anyway.

People who don't appreciate the seriousness of a situation, are not brave. They are simply stupid or ignorant.

"Fools walk in where angels fear to tread," describes them.

If a toddler walked over to a shiny, coiled rattlesnake to pet it on the head, that would not be bravery, for the child would be ignorant of the danger.

You folks who shake when you get up to make a speech or sing a solo, can thus take heart. As long as you keep forcing yourself to do your job, then you are brave, despite your quaking knees.

We also have a "Rule of Three" in psychology, which states that if you overcome a terror three different times, then you are master of it.

The first time you may actually feel that you will die in the attempt. But you don't. And the second time, you may also feel as if you'll die, but you do have the slight reassurance that you lived through it once before.

By the third victory over your fear, you begin to realize that you are master instead of slave to it. Then your confidence rises fast.

If your fear is based on lack of muscular skill, as was true of Timmy, then get somebody, as your Daddy, to pitch the ball to you while you learn to bat.

Or play catch. Join the Scouts, too, and the YMCA. Skill at anything is based on thousands of repititions, so take advantage of every chance to practice.

And always remember: If you go through the proper motions, you'll soon begin to feel the corresponding emotions.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.

Nutrition Experts Agree on Cause of Degeneration

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

It happened long, long ago, but I still feel red in the face when I think of it. I had just hung my shingle on the doorway leading to my office over Tower's clothing store on the four corners in Penn Yan — last time I saw Penn Yan the store was run by a handsome fellow named Boyd who was Walter Tower's errand boy in the golden days when Topsy was a colt.

Some nice people were kind enough to invite the new doctor to their home for a card party — euchre, what else? Everybody was so intent on the game and the crowded room was so quiet that I was under no strain at all. Suddenly a ponderous gentleman, leaning back in his chair to study his hand leaned a bit too far and fell on the floor.

Everybody else gasped, but the new doctor—oh, well, I guffawed. The man suffered nothing more than loss of dignity, but few if any of the guests at that party ever engaged my professional service.

I don't guffaw but I do get many a quiet chuckle from the ponderous "literature" ground out these days on the subject of "arthritis," chronic joint trouble, that is. The credulity, yes, the gullibility of "clinic" and trick specialist customers with such trouble is marvelous, and whenever the customers begin to lose interest a brand new miracle medicine arrives. The new medicine, according to Uncle Pete or Aunt Polly, promises to conquer the scourge which has so long baffled etc.

Now you poor souls know I'm no authority on joint trouble or any other ailment. But since I took to quacking it in the papers I have had more time to study what I call chronic rheumatiz and the trick specialists and "clinic" racketeers call "arthritis" — more time than most real doctors have, I mean. And the conclusion I have drawn from this study, which may or may not interest you, is that in most cases chronic joint disability (trouble of over a year's duration) is not inflammation at all, nor arthritis, but physical degeneration.

If this offends you, I'm sorry—not that I said it, but that anybody who can read can be so —

Never mind. Consult Webster for the medical meaning of degeneration.

I am sure any nutrition authority or any pathologist will tell you that malnutrition (nutritional deficiency) is the principal cause of physical degeneration, nutritional deficiency through periods of months or years.

A pathologist will tell you that there is precious little inflammation involved in most cases of chronic joint disability. So it seems to me that the fast-buck operators who exploit popular credulity with ever changing wonder drugs and funny treatments for "arthritis" are just exploiting popular credulity.

How many friends or acquaintances of yours have been cured of their "arthritis"?

Let there be no misunderstanding about this. I know of no cure for chronic rheumatiz. But from hundreds of reports — very well, then, testimonials — received from readers I believe the suggestions I offer do no harm in any case and do much good in many cases. Send me a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for the pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatiz.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

Baltimore Votes for D'Alesandro

Mayor Caps Comeback by Leading the Dems to Sweep of Offices

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro Jr. capped a long comeback from a sickbed by leading Democrats to another sweep of city offices in Baltimore's municipal election yesterday.

The 51-year-old mayor, extending his victory string to 22 races ranging from the State Legislature to Congress, defeated Republican Samuel Hopkins.

A record 214,335 voters turned out. The previous high was 202,000 in 1931.

Among the 21 Democrats elected to the City Council was Walter T. Dixon, 61-year-old head of a business school and the first Negro to gain that office since 1931.

* * *

Unofficial returns from all of the city's 531 precincts gave D'Alesandro 119,450 votes to 94,885 for Hopkins, 41-year-old bank official and former member of the Legislature.

D'Alesandro campaign strategy emphasized his efforts to get the Baltimore Orioles into the American League last year almost as much as the civic improvements under his administration—streets and street lighting, schools and construction of the Friendship International Airport.

* * *

Hopkins emphasized the dangers of one party being long in office in his campaign. Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin personally stumped for Hopkins, and his supporters included the Baltimore Sunpapers, which backed D'Alesandro both times previously.

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP) — Teenagers in New Mexico might have grounds for a cordial dislike of New Mexico lawmakers. A new juvenile code calls them "children." It says anyone under the age of 18 is a child and anyone over that age is an adult.

Although no one was injured by the heavenly aggies, hundreds of windows were broken and extensive damage inflicted on the citrus crops in the area.

Sugar Cleanser Washes Bath Ring Down Drain

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — The ring around the bathtub is on its way down the drain, says Dr. H. B. Hass, president of the Sugar Research Foundation, Inc., an organization which looks for new uses for sugar and its by-products.

Hass says detergents which eliminate the bathtub ring will be on the market this summer. They're called "Sucrose Monofatty Acid Esters."

Makes Good Match

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Matching coat and pants sent Michael Henry Williams to prison for 10 years. Officer E. L. Kennedy testified he found a capsule of heroin in the pocket of a black-and-red coat hanging in Williams' home. Williams was wearing the matching pants at the time, the officer said.

Chiang Envoy Scoffs at Talks

Says Reds Will Insist U. S. Leave Formosa in Truce Terms

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Nationalist China's ambassador predicted today Red China would insist in any direct talks that the United States clear out of Formosa as the price of peace in that embattled area.

The ambassador, Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, said in a speech prepared for the Foreign Policy Assn. that the Communists "are not ready yet to wage war with the free world" either in Asia or Europe.

"But the Formosa area presents the greatest danger to peace," he said.

He said the Communists would not risk war or "a deadly defeat" as long as it is made clear Nationalist China will defend the offshore islands of Matsu and Quemoy "at all cost."

Even so, Koo said, these islands are "of secondary importance and even insignificant" compared with the Chinese Reds' main objective of Formosa and the Pescadores. The United States is sworn by treaty to help defend these headquarters islands of Nationalist China.

* * *

Koo argued that, as long as the Reds hold to these objectives, any direct talks with them by the United States "will be fruitless."

"The Chinese Communists have no intention to seek a peaceful settlement of the so-called Formosa problem except on their own terms," Koo said.

Italian-American Throws Party for 300 to Honor U.S.

DETROIT (UP)—Alfred P. Adamo is giving a party today in honor of his friend of 50 years standing—the United States of America.

Adamo, 67, has invited 300 friends to join him in celebrating the 50th anniversary of the day he arrived in this country as a penniless Italian immigrant.

Each guest will receive a printed booklet, written by Adamo, on "What America and Freedom Has Meant to Me."

* * *

It tells the story of an Italian boy who grew up on a farm in the province of Catanzaro, where beauty abounded but where opportunity was strictly limited.

At 17, when he was working as a bricklayer's assistant at 4 cents a day, Adamo persuaded a cousin in Pittsburgh to advance him the boat fare to the United States. He landed in this country May 4, 1905, and obtained his first job in Pittsburgh, working on the city streets at $1 a day.

* * *

During the next 10 years he worked as a foundry worker and dishwasher in Pittsburgh, a miner in West Virginia, a day laborer, railroad section hand and janitor in Denver. He became a U. S. citizen in 1913.

In 1915, lured by reports that Henry Ford was paying $5 a day to his auto plant workers, Adamo came to Detroit. Here, he successively became a foundry worker, auto worker and grocery owner before starting his own real estate and insurance office, a business he still runs.

* * *

Adamo has this to say in his booklet paying tribute to his adopted country:

"America is the only country in the world that has given man justice, freedom and equality."

Vets Lack Cash for Russia Trip

Ten of Elbe Linkup Group Stranded; Ask Funds for Flight

NEW YORK (AP)—Ten American veterans today still were seeking funds for a trip to Moscow for a reunion with the Soviet soldiers they met at the Elbe River during World War II.

The 10 were stranded here yesterday after it turned out they hadn't sufficient funds to reach Paris. Transportation from Paris to Moscow was assured them by the Soviet government.

The Moscow reunion, part of the Soviet celebration of the 10th anniversary of victory over Nazi Germany, is set for May 9. The Americans were invited by the Soviet government.

* * *

Joseph Polowsky, of Chicago, head of the group, appealed for funds. He said he is determined to make the trip, even if the others cannot.

The group canceled reservations on a Trans World Airlines flight last night after it became apparent they hadn't enough money.

"We thought we had a commitment for the money but it didn't materialize," Polowsky said.

Midland Youth Gets Prison Sentences

MIDLAND (AP) — Lloyd Andrews, 19-year-old Midland youth captured Saturday after an 18-hour manhunt through a wooded swampland, today begins prison sentences on charges of auto theft and violating probation.

Andrews was sentenced in Circuit Court yesterday to serve 5 to 15 years in Southern Michigan Prison for the probation charge and from 3 to 5 years for the auto theft.

Mrs. Doris Sersaw, who fled with Andrews into the swampland north of Midland Friday night, pleaded guilty to breaking into a rural Midland County school last Feb. 8. Her case was referred to a probation officer for pre-sentence investigation.

Andrews was on three years probation for breaking and entering the same school.

A posse that grew to about 150 officers and men blocked off a mile square area near Midland early Saturday after Andrews and Mrs. Sersaw abandoned a stolen car and ran into the woods. Mrs. Sersaw surrendered about noon but Andrews eluded the posse until early Saturday night.

Paratroopers Hit Too Hard; Nurse Injuries Today

PANAMA (AP)—Twenty-four U. S. Army paratroopers were recovering today from injuries suffered in a mass drop during a war games exercise. The most serious injury was a broken nose.

Gusty winds which dragged the men over the ground were blamed for the mishap.

A total of 480 men of the 11th Airborne Division from Ft. Campbell, Ky., took part in the mass jump, staged at Rio Hato, 75 miles from Panama City.

The names of the injured were not disclosed.

Thousands of spectators and 250 Latin-American observers watched as the paratroopers jumped in waves of 120 each from six Globemaster transports.

BLIND EX-MARINE AWARDED CARNEGIE MEDAL — Charles B. Vines, 22, former Marine who was blinded in Korea, smiles at his home in Mobile, Ala. when told by newsmen that he had been awarded a silver medal by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission. Last June 27, Vines rescued two girls from drowning near Merrill, Miss. Guided by their cries for help, Vines fought to the point of exhaustion to pull them from the swift stream. Vines' wife, whom he married last Oct. 22, shares his joy.

Lasting Immunity to Polio Seen With Live Virus

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A Cincinnati scientist looks forward to long-lasting immunization against polio through the use of vaccine containing live virus.

Dr. Albert E. Sabin, who conducted experiments in which live-virus vaccine was swallowed by 30 volunteer reformatory prisoners, told the Association of American Physicians yesterday it might be a long time before a workable vaccine of that type can be achieved.

In his report to the association, Sabin said the prisoners who received the vaccine containing live polio strains developed virus-blocking antibodies.

* * *

The news came on the heels of the success of the Salk antipolio vaccine, which used a killed germ and must be injected.

Dr. Hart Van Riper, medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which financed Dr. Sabin's work, said it is still too early to determine effectiveness of the new vaccine.

Thus, he said, there could be no comparison of the Salk and Sabin vaccines.

* * *

Sabin conducted experiments for many years but in latter months gave the live vaccine to 30 volunteer prisoners in the federal reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio. Ages of the prisoners ranged from 21 to 30.

He said he used three strains of live polio virus and fed minute quantities—about a 50th part of a drop—to each prisoner in a teaspoonful of milk. He said the prisoners did not show symptoms of polio.

He emphasized much work remains to be done before it can be said with certainty that a vaccine taken by mouth is practical.

Bob Considine Says:

Heavyweight Fight Ends as Tear-Jerker

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (INS) — The greatest tear-letting since "Stella Dallas" took place here the other night at the conclusion of a 15-round fight between Archie Moore, a portly old soul who may be the first to collect on his social security while still fighting, and an outsized Mexican named Nino Valdes.

Senor Valdes, as of that moment the No. 1 challenger for the heavyweight championship which is held by Rocky Marciano, was standing in his corner with one eye in full eclipse waiting for the verdict to be announced.

His purple robe had been put on him by loving handlers, who regard him with all the tender warmth of hungry men eyeing a steak.

Over in another corner, James J. Braddock was wetting a stubby pencil to his lips, looking reflectedly into the late afternoon sky, and adding up the score of the fight.

By slide-rule and a quick subtraction of 3.1416 from energy equals MC square, Jim arrived at the conclusion that Moore had won 8 of the 15 rounds to Valdes' 5, with 2 as even as an 8 the hard way.

Jim, who has picked up a little lard himself through the years, waddled over to the blimp-like Moore and raised the man's tired arm, designating him as the winnah of what Jack Kearns had billed as "the real heavyweight championship of the world."

Instantly, Valdes did something that Moore had been vainly trying to make him do all afternoon. He fell to the canvas, flat on his stomach. Then he got up and walked about with a look of stunned grief, and he burst loose with a long arm-waving, aggrieved speech in Spanish.

When a microphone was put in front of him he let go like a leak in Hoover Dam. The announcer, ducking the cascading tears, kept telling him to dry it up a bit, not only in the interests of coherence but to avoid short-circuiting all the electric slot machines in town.

Valdes wept bitterly up the aisle and into his undressing shed. There the accoustics were considerably better. The place shook with sobs, imprecations in tongues and dialects from below the border, and somber threats from the manager.

The manager had some hard things to say about a fine old philanthropic society named the International Boxing Club, owned by famed humanitarian Jim Norris.

"Valdes should of never fought Moore," said the manager, Bobby Gleason. "He should have fought Marciano. This fellow Moore can take anybody, including Marciano.

"The IBC double-crossed me because I wouldn't sell it half my contract on Valdes."

He looked at his sob-stricken tiger whose eye apparently had just stopped a full brassie shot at two yards.

"My boy's not hurt," he said, with the show of valor which only fight managers can summon. "The worst he should of got was a draw."

Fight writers from the East winced a bit beforehand when, instead of the usual parade of former and future champions, a group of strictly powder-puff punchers was introduced. The climax came when Liberace climbed into the ring, preceded by his teeth. He was stunning in a shocking pink jacket.

The only old champ who made it into the ring was Henry Armstrong, who held three titles and hit skid Row after blowing his dough.

Henry made a little pitch for the home for wayward boys he's now running in L.A., along with some salvation shouting he does.

Oddly enough, the one celebrity on hand that the Las Vegas cops most wanted to see, Jack Dragna, the L.A. hoodlum and former associate of Bugsy Siegel, was not given a bow to take—though he sat prominently in the third row of a ringside.

There was so much "paper" in the house the fire marshal wouldn't permit smoking.

Hudson's Huge Flag Ready for Showing

DETROIT (AP)—The world's largest flag is ready for its annual appearance on Flag Day, June 14.

The huge flag weighs three quarters of a ton and measures 235 by 105 feet, roughly half the size of a football field. The J. L. Hudson Co. department store had it made for once-a-year display on the front of its 14-story downtown store.

Students at the University of Detroit yesterday unfurled the gigantic banner on the school's football field while barefoot ROTC cadets gave it a dry-cleaning.

The average U.S. service station is open 100 hours a week.

Capehart Stays Neutral as Jenner, Craig Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Capehart maintained a neutral position today in a sizzling exchange between two other Indiana Republicans, Sen. Jenner and Gov. George N. Craig.

Craig brought with him to a governors' conference the Hoosier GOP dispute, saying in a statement that Jenner had engaged in "neurotic" criticism of the foreign policies of President Eisenhower.

Jenner promptly fired back with a statement referring to Craig as "a monkey."

Capehart, a candidate for re-election to the Senate next year with the promised support of both Jenner and Craig, carefully read the statements and then said:

"I have absolutely no comment."

Craig, a former national commander of the American Legion and a strong supporter of Eisenhower, won election to a four-year term as governor in 1952 by a margin wider than that by which Jenner won Senate re-election.

A year ago the governor claimed victory over the combined forces of Jenner and Capehart in a struggle for control of the Indiana Republican State Committee.

Craig touched off the fireworks yesterday with a statement criticising a recent Senate speech by Jenner saying officials of the Eisenhower administration were engaged in "appeasement" of communism.

He said Jenner was a "Johnny come lately" on foreign affairs and the "spectacle of Sen. Jenner second-guessing President Eisenhower is not unlike an elementary school pupil second-guessing Einstein."

Jenner attributed Craig's statement to "a small ruthless group of power-seekers inside our government" who "want to make President Eisenhower a captive" and so used Craig as "the great mouthpiece."

Jenner said this group he called "the palace guard" was planning "a sell-out at Quemoy," one of the islands held by the Nationalist Chinese off the Red China mainland. He named no names.

SEATO Army Plan Reported Scrapped

BAGUIO, Philippines (AP)—French sources said today the eight-nation military planners conference here has agreed not to establish a permanent military headquarters under the Southeast Asia Defense Treaty.

This apparently rules out a SEATO army, said these sources, who asked that their names not be used.

Thailand and the Philippines have been asking for a permanent headquarters and an army patterned after the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces.

* * *

The United States has opposed a complex SEATO military setup, favoring a system based on highly mobile American forces in this part of the world.

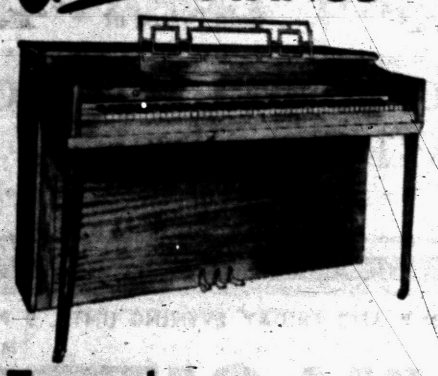

Represented at the conference on strengthening the SEATO area are Australia, Britain, France, New Zealand, Pakistan, Thailand, the Philippines and the United States. Steps to counter Red subversion and infiltration have been high on the agenda.

Tent Jail Closed Up

MARTIN CITY, Mont. (AP)—The jail has been closed, for a lack of need, money and an officer to run it. The jail was a tent with board sides and floors that served as Martin City's first church. When the log church now in use was built, the temporary church was converted into a jail.

Holland Lady Loses Weight Praises Tonic In Rennel

"Rennel Concentrate to me is a health promoter," writes Mrs. C. W. Starr, 141 Coolidge Ave. "I am 52 years old and weigh 120 lbs. In the past I have reduced at least three lbs. per week with Rennel, but at present I am using it as a health builder. I am recuperating from major surgery and on arriving home from the hospital had to take enemas every day. It sure was a relief to start taking Rennel again. It insures good elimination and gives me a satisfied feeling of well being. I keep my weight under control eating quite normally, less on sweets and starches. I take Rennel after meals, in fact it takes the place of dessert with me. I eat what I like, only less of it, and am never hungry after taking Rennel."

Just another satisfied user of Rennel Concentrate who has made it do for her what she wanted it to do. If not pleased with the very first bottle return it to the manufacturer for your money back. Priced at $1.40.

(Special)—Science has now developed an odorless, greaseless cream that acts in a new way to bring a new kind of relief from pains of arthritis, rheumatism, and muscular aches and pains. This new cream relieves these pains without the need of taking pills and other internal medicines that may only upset the system.

Gently rubbed into painful areas, this cream penetrates so deep and completely that it actually vanishes. Quickly a comforting feeling of warmth develops and the whole painful area takes on a pleasing glow. This is striking evidence of the power of this cream to penetrate quickly and stimulate the circulation of the blood. Mayor Issues Appeal for Pontiac Foundation

Acrobatics in Auto Race

Thrill of dirt-track auto racing at least for the spectator, is the unexpected. In Vallejo, Calif., Richard Forbes, of Richmond, Calif., driving car 49, was leading on the first lap of the first heat hardtop race when he blew a tire on the right rear wheel. Sequence pictures below show what happened in seconds as other racing cars roared safely past.

The leader flips over, in the path of following cars . . .

Then stands on its nose, apparently waiting to drop on the car close behind . . .

AP Wirephotos

. . . But drops safely to the track, front end smashed as the last of the pack, (67) skids by on two wheels to avoid a crash. Forbes suffered only minor cuts and bruises. Pictures were made by Oakland Tribune photographer, Russ Reed.

Support Move, Citizens Urged

Open Letter Asks City Residents to 'Chip In' for Project

Mayor William W. Donaldson last night issued an open letter to the people of Pontiac urging them to "chip in" for the Pontiac Foundation so a civic auditorium can be constructed in time for the city's 100th birthday celebration.

"On March 15, 1961, the city of Pontiac will be 100 years old," the letter begins.

"It has been suggested by Joe Haas of the Pontiac Press, that plans be started now to properly celebrate 100 years of progress in Pontiac. This is a very excellent and timely suggestion.

"In recent years there has been a public clamor for a civic auditorium and community activities building to serve not only the needs of this city, but also the surrounding area.

"Two years ago the Pontiac Foundation was set up to accumulate funds for such a building. To date, nearly $30,000 has been raised without any kind of a formal drive.

"This movement deserves the active financial support of every man, woman and child in this area. Each person would find such a building useful many times a year for cultural and sporting events and meetings of all kinds.

"Mr. Haas has given us a definite date to shoot for. We have less than six years to finance and construct such a much-needed community building.

"It could be dedicated during the celebration of our centennial.

"The General Motors Corp. has recently indicated it would support such a project 'providing the people show a local interest.' If such an active interest develops, I am confident that men of means will go all out to insure its eventual success.

"Has Pontiac been good to you? If so, won't you right now send a bill or a check addressed to the Mayor, City Hall, Pontiac.

"All monies received will be turned over to the Pontiac Foundation immediately and placed in the auditorium fund."

Donaldson's letter closes with the confidence the fund will have $100,000 by Memorial Day.

The appeal so moved Commissioner John A. Dugan (District 5) that he immediately endorsed his $25 check for April Commission meetings to the foundation.

The other commissioners, Donaldson included, followed in rapid order and the mayor left the Commission meeting with $175 for the fund.

Unsuccessful Candidate Tells Why GOP Is Losing

Editor's Note: This is the second and last of two articles in which Editor Dale Stafford tells some of his experiences and conclusions as a candidate for the State Board of Agriculture in the recent Michigan election. It was his debut in politics and although he lost by some 2,000 votes, he found the campaign an educational experience. Stafford is a former Pontiac Press Sports Editor

By DALE STAFFORD
Editor, The Greenville News

GREENVILLE (AP)—What's wrong with the Republican Party in Michigan?

The ailments of the Republican Party are too numerous to list here. But some of them stand out above the others. They include:

1. Lack of leaders.
2. Lack of money.
3. Lack of creativeness in a program that will appeal to the voters.
4. Lack of unity.

Because of the experience of having been one of its candidates, we know a great deal more about the flaws in the Republican armor than we did six months ago.

Normally, the governor or the party's last candidate for governor is titular head of the party. That would be Donald S. Leonard. Apparently he has retired from politics, because we never heard his name mentioned as the spring GOP campaign was planned and executed.

Likewise, Michigan doesn't have a Republican national committeeman. David Kendall took a job in Washington some months ago. To date he hasn't been replaced.

The ranking Michigan Republican politician in the country is Arthur Summerfield, the postmaster general and former chairman of the Republican National Committee.

At the Feb. 19 Republican State Convention there is no doubt that he was a prime mover in the effort to get a new state chairman in place of John Feikens of Detroit. His candidate was Arthur J. Iverson, also of Detroit.

Feikens won rather easily. Since that time there has been evidence that Summerfield's view of Feikens is no different than it was on Feb. 19.

In fact there are some observers who think a certain small element of the party wanted the Republicans to lose the spring election so that the loss might be used as a springboard to pitch Feikens.

At least one large segment of industry where Republicans used to get considerable money is "sitting on its hands." And it will probably follow the same procedure as long as Feikens is state chairman.

Feikens is a sincere young lawyer and a fighter. He directs all of his waking hours and probably a portion of his dreams to the Republican cause. The same energy directed to his law business would make him a comfortable fortune.

Unfortunately there is a large group in the party who don't like him. Politics is no place where losers are wanted, and Feikens hasn't been winning of late.

During the campaigning we talked to hundreds of Republicans. Without intending to belittle Feikens, we can say that a large percentage of those folks want new leadership and new faces as candidates.

John B. Martin Jr. of Grand Rapids put his political life on the line by serving as chairman of the spring campaign for the Republicans.

He is liked by many rank-and-file Republicans and, in our opinion, could have had the state chairmanship hands down had he opposed Feikens or Iverson.

But Martin isn't popular with some of the party's old guard. For one thing he hasn't kowtowed quite enough to suit them. For another they resent the fact that he possesses the brilliance to have been a Rhodes scholar.

The 1956 election is only 19 months away, but if the Republicans have a candidate who might win the governorship and who is willing to take the chance on trying he isn't on the horizon.

Any candidate who can beat either Gov. Williams or his heir-apparent, Phil Hart, needs to have all kinds of personality, television poise, plenty of money behind him and the time to go out into the hinterlands and get acquainted with the voters.

And he's got to have courage enough to knock heads together once he gets in command. Party discipline is completely lacking in the Republican fold today.

Heads need to be rapped and a few bloody noses would be desirable if they came from a real leader.

Williams has party discipline and he exercises it.

What strategy should the Republicans try in order to win an election in Michigan?

We shall list a few components that make sense to us:

First of all, the party needs a leader on a white horse to run for governor. He must have real voter appeal.

Second, he must have a program.

Third, he must talk in language the average citizen understands.

Fourth, he must have plenty of money behind him, because it takes fortunes to win elections in this day and age.

His program must consist of something more than stating that the opposition's offering stinks.

There are two schools of thought on strategy. One is that all of the emphasis should be put on outstate Michigan, where the Republicans live in quantity. The other is that new efforts should be made to develop Republicans in Wayne and other industrial counties.

Personally, we think there can be a successful mixture of the two.

One other point should be made. There are numerous outstate Republicans, but few working ones. This is particularly true of supervisors who should be active in Republican affairs. They aren't and this hurts at the grass roots level.

We don't think the two-party system is headed for extinction but it is going to take new people with fresh ideas to bring alive the Republican organization in this state.

Now, lastly: Too many politicians indulge in flights of oratory the voter doesn't comprehend. They should read Rudolf Flesch's book on "The Art of Plain Talk."

No More Stripes

Short Income Tax Forms?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Revenue Service is considering a number of plans for new tax forms next year, but it is all in the thinking and planning stage right now.

Just one thing has been firmly decided—no more color stripes, like this year's, on mailed tax forms identifying over $10,000 and under $10,000 incomes.

* * *

Two other changes, however, are pretty sure to be made:

Some shorter basic taxpayer's form will probably emerge, perhaps having just two pages.

The $5,000 ceiling on the use of "Short Form 1040" will probably be lifted to somewhere around $8,000 or $10,000.

This year the Internal Revenue Service had only two months after the revised 1954 tax code was signed by President Eisenhower in mid-August to revise nearly 500 income tax forms, and write instructions for their use.

* * *

Printing tax forms and instruction pamphlets each year is the world's single biggest printing job.

The Revenue Service is thinking in terms of getting up a new basic tax form which would serve the needs of the majority of people who do not have the special kinds of income that now complicate the form—retirement pay, dividends, rents, interest, capital gains, and so on.

One presently developed plan contemplates a two-age affair, consisting of about what is now on Pages 1 and 3 of Form 1040. A study of past returns turned up the finding that about 60 per cent of some 47 million taxpayers who use Form 1040 showed virtually no income aside from salaries and wages.

These 28 million personal income taxpayers, in other words, had no need for the other two pages now in the basic form, for reporting other income.

The abbreviated form would continue to allow taxpayers to accept the standard deduction for personal expenses or to itemize their deductions, as they wish.

The present check-size punch-card form for the use of taxpayers having less than $5,000 total income which is virtually all wages and salary and who want the revenue service to figure out their tax for them, would be continued. This is an estimated 11 million taxpayers.

* * *

Also, under this plan, a separate "other income" schedule would be included in the package with the new two-age form. This would get these complications out of the basic form but would keep a form for handling them easily available to taxpayers who need it. Others would just throw it away.

At present, only taxpayers with less than $5,000 adjusted gross income (total income less business-connected expenses) are allowed to find their tax in a table printed in the instructions pamphlet. This ceiling was put on in 1943, and the Revenue Service feels that persons with incomes of $8,000 — perhaps up to $10,000—should now be given the advantage of this simplification.

Churchmen Oppose Sale of Racetrack

Top Michigan church officials have vigorously expressed opposition to a proposal to allow a corporation to buy the Detroit Race Course in Livonia.

Dr. Kenneth G. Neigh, president of the Michigan Council of Churches, said at an executive committee meeting in Lansing Monday that his group would fight the sale of the track to a private group, which presumably would operate it for "charitable purposes."

CORUNNA (UP) — A spider wrecked Frank S. Berry's car yesterday. Berry told police he was trying to kill the spider when his car crashed into a tree.

Kansas Fireman Hot to Avert Car Blaze

ELLINWOOD, Kan. (AP)— This town of 3,000 has gone five months without a fire alarm and the volunteer firemen are trying to stretch the streak.

Harry Gaughan, motor car dealer and fireman, displayed the right spirit the other day.

He traded for an old car ,which began to smoke as he drove it toward his shop. Instead of heading for the fire station, he aimed for the city limits, hoping to get the car out of town before it burst into flames.

Then he learned the motor was just overheated.

Labor Eyes Politics, but Shuns New Party

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—Organized labor—15 million strong—is going deeper into politics, but the high command is strongly opposed to a political labor party such as that in Great Britain.

Labor's top chiefs say that after the coming merger of the AFL and CIO, unions will remain an independent political force. But they concede that Democratic candidates are far more likely to benefit from labor's political action than Republicans.

* * *

Some labor leaders imply that if unions cannot achieve their goals through the two-party system, they may have to turn in another direction.

AFL President George Meany, who will head the merged AFL-CIO organization, gave these views in an interview:

"As long as I have anything to say about it, the AFL will not tie itself to any political party. I don't believe in a labor class or a labor party along class lines such as the British Labor party. I don't believe in it just as I don't think there should be a political party in this country along denominational lines.

* * *

"There will be increased political action by labor in 1956. But political action by organized labor doesn't mean we will tie ourselves to any party. There is talk that labor is going to join forces with the Democratic party. Well, I'm not going to tie the AFL to any party, anytime, anywhere.

"That doesn't mean, of course, that we won't support more Democrats than Republicans because that probably will be just the way it works out. The facts are, that more Democrats have favorable records from our point of view than Republicans."

The merged unions will make their political drive through a single organization which will be formed with the merger of the AFL's Labor League for Political Education and the CIO's Political Action Committee.

The AFL and CIO set up these political action groups after passage in 1947 of the Taft-Hartley law, which forbids unions from taking dues money out of union treasuries and spending it in support of any candidate for federal office.

These groups accept voluntary contributions from workers, and since it is not dues money, there are no strings on spending it in direct support of any candidate.

But won't the effect of such political action actually mean drawing labor into closer working arrangements with the Democratic party, which now gets most of labor's support?

Meany replied:

"I will say this. If the time should ever come when we are forced to do such a thing—tie ourselves to any party—then it will be our own party.

"We are going to try to achieve our aims on a nonpartisan basis. But if the nonpartisan effort fails, then we'll go somewhere else. We'll go where we must go. And we'll go as far down that road as it is necessary to go."

It is known that Walter Reuther, president of the CIO, and John L. Lewis, chief of the United Mine workers, both share Meany's misgivings toward a national labor party in the United States.

* * *

Thomas Kennedy, vice president of the UMW, whose views often reflect the thinking of Lewis, had this to say:

"There is no need for a labor party in the United States. The American labor movement is essentially an economic movement and if it fails to realize this and to continue to act in behalf of its own membership to win better wages and working conditions through economic action, the UMWA feels that it will suffer the fate of much of the European labor movement."

Lewis reportedly thinks Meany and Reuther are going too far into politics even with their present plans for more vigorous political action.

But there are some who think labor should have its own state labor parties if not a national party. The viewpoint of this group was voiced last December in the CIO convention by Mike Quill, president of the Transport Workers of America.

To Quill's argument, Reuther replied:

"Building third parties will get no one anywhere. Every try has failed miserably, not because the motives or the reasons or the morality behind it was wrong, but because we are dealing with a structure in America that does not lend itself to the creation of third party movements . . ."

* * *

"Basically what we are trying to do is work within the two-party system of America and bring about within that two-party system a fundamental realignment of basic political forces so that political parties can become responsible . . ."

Meany himself believes the coming AFL-CIO merger, with the creation of a single political action department, will take labor farther away from the idea of a national labor party.

Tomorrow: The role of John L. Lewis.

Probe of Donations by Unions Launched

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Kavanagh, a Democrat, today opened an investigation of Republican charges that labor unions were not reporting their political contributions to the Democratic party.

Kavanagh asked all county prosecuting attorneys to send him within three days photostatic copies of all political contributions reported by Democrats and Republicans in each county after the November general election.

Feikens demanded action by Kavanagh before the April 4 spring election, but the attorney general said he had waited until the spring election so that his actions could not be considered to have "political overtones."

Each year a spring tea is given at Oakland County Convalescent Hospital, when patients proudly display their handicrafts—articles like aprons and ceramics, which brings them not only pin money but reassurance that they, too, serve a useful purpose in the world. The tea and exhibits are made possible by a group of Birmingham and Bloomfield area women, who volunteer their time and services on a year-round basis. The group is sponsored by the social service department of Christ Church Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills, but welcomes outsiders. One of those who spearheads work of the volunteers is Mrs. William Alfs of Bloomfield Hills, who is shown adding a finishing touch to flowers contributed by the horticultural group of St. James Episcopal Church in Birmingham. On her left are Mrs. Howard R. Estes and Mrs. B. F. Robeson, both of Birmingham. Co-chairmen Mrs. Franklin McDonald and Mrs. Gordon Daugherty, both Birmingham residents, are standing at the right.

Bride-Elect Tells Plans for Wedding

June 25 has been chosen by Nancy Irene Burgess for her marriage to Dr. Thomas Stedman Torgerson of Ann Arbor.

She is the daughter of Mrs. M. M. Burgess and the late Mr. Burgess of Bloomfield Hills. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Emil Torgerson of St. Petersburg, Fla.

The double ring ceremony will take place at 4:30 in the afternoon at Christ Church Cranbrook, with a garden reception to follow at the Burgess residence.

Officiating at the ceremony will be the Rev. William C. Norvell, assisted by the Rev. Irwin C. Johnson of St. John's Episcopal Church in Detroit.

Nancy has asked Joan Gruschow of Birmingham to be her maid of honor. Her bridesmaids will be Mrs. Charles E. Frey, Julie Sullivan, Joan Hadley, Carol Cobane, Shirleann and Jo-Ann Reynolds, cousins of the bride-elect.

Dr. John M. Wakevainen of Birmingham will serve as best man. Ushers will be Alfred J Macksey Jr., cousin of the bride-elect, and John J. Gorman Jr., Dr. Myron Ataman and Dr. Myron Kaufman, all of Detroit.

Coming from Ann Arbor to usher will be Dr. James R. Hayward, Dr. Lee Stroia, Dr. Robert Hoek and Dr. John Pascoe. Gerald Somers and Neil Gleason will come from Kalamazoo.

Janey and Johnnie Wakevainen will act as flower girl and ringbearer.

One of the staunchest of volunteers, and one who has done much to keep up hospital morale, is Mrs. Adele Davis, of Bloomfield Hills, ceramicist, who shares her knowledge and equipment in teaching her profession to residents of the hospital. Here she admires some of the fruitful results, with her assistants, Mrs. Ronald Muir and Mrs. E. Lee Carless, both of Birmingham.

PHS Cooperative Students Are Awarded Certificates

Students in the Pontiac High School cooperative training program in office work and retailing held their annual banquet Tuesday evening at Hotel Waldron.

The event honored the 12 students who are completing their program this year, and the employers who participate in the program. The more than 50 students attend classes half a day and put their study to practical use by holding jobs in their chosen fields during the afternoons.

Twelve students were presented with certificates last night by John Thors, Jr., high school principal.

E. C. Russell, director of vocational education, Thors and L. L. Smith, coordinator of the office training program were made honorary members of the PHS chapter of the Retailing and Office Club. Monroe Osmun, of Osmun's Men's store, who represents the local group in the state organization, made these presentations.

Coordinator of the retailing program at PHS is Grace McLaughlin.

Speaker at last night's dinner meeting, attended by all the students enrolled in the course, was Howard VanDusen, manager of Waites.

Learn to Live Each Day to Fullest

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

A Massachusetts reader sent me a clipping in which a woman tells a story that she said comforted her when she had just heard her husband had only a 50-50 chance to live.

The story: A farmer, busily plowing his fields, was approached by a stranger (a surveyor, I suppose) who asked, "What would you do if someone informed you that you might die in the next two hours?"

"I'd keep on plowing," replied the farmer over his shoulder and rounded the next corner with his tractor.

My Massachusetts reader said, "Pass this on. It gave me courage in the midst of a worry that seemed too much to bear."

And I should like to pass on, also, the story of the late Father Daniel A. Lord who wrote so calmly and peacefully about his incurable lung cancer that men and women all over the world were strengthened and inspired.

"Can I go on with my normal life and work?" he asked the doctors.

"Absolutely," he said they told him. "In fact that is precisely the thing to do. If you come to regard yourself as an invalid, you'll hamper treatment and speed up the disease."

"The doctors kept me in the hospital for a bit," he wrote, "and then turned me loose. In a sudden spurt of energy and a determination to use time to the best advantage, I found that I was itching to be at my typewriter and to write some of those books that I had long planned."

Then he "hit the road back" in a routine of talks and meetings which took him, among other places, to Denver, Milwaukee, Detroit, Boston, St. Louis and Canada.

"God knows His business, and I think He can handle this without too much worry from me," he told an inquiring reporter.

He counted himself lucky to have been warned in advance, he added, for the realization that his time on it was probably short made "the earth more beautiful, the sky a little clearer and every moment of the day precious."

If we could only realize it, we have all had the warning. Our time, too, on this exciting, tantalizing earth is short. Yet we waste the precious moments under the impression that we have enough to be reckless with. We procrastinate, fret futilely, worry uselessly, adopt negative attitudes stubbornly.

I think it was Maria Mitchell, philosopher as well as our nation's first woman astronomer, who advised her Vassar students to live each day as if it were their last yet work as if they were going to live forever.

And it was writer Pearl Buck who, in thoughtful mood, once told me, "More and more I try to live every day so that it is complete—an entity — and I can say, 'This is the best day I have ever spent'."

If you can do it, the rewards are great.

Guest Artists to Appear on Tuesday

A guest artist string trio and the Tuesday Musicale Workshop Vocal Ensemble will provide entertainment Tuesday at an annual luncheon given by the Tuesday Musicale. Devon Gables will be the setting for the 12:30 affair.

The trio is composed of Jean Elder Hohmeyer, violinist; Ruth Saunders, cellist; and Luella E. Elder, pianist.

Mrs. Hohmeyer studied violin at Oberlin Conservatory and at the Juilliard School of Music. She also studied with Samuel Antek, director of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, of which she was a member.

For many years she was a member of the Highland Park Musicale and has been active in the Metropolitan area of Detroit as a soloist.

She has done an extensive amount of ensemble work and is currently president of the Birmingham Musicale.

Mrs. Saunders was formerly first violin-cellist with the Des Moines Symphony Orchestra and studied with Raymond Stuhl at the University of Kansas.

She received a superior rating at a National Music Federation concert. She has been playing the cello since the age of 11 and is presently a member of the Birmingham Musicale.

Before moving to Birmingham Mrs. Elder was an active pianist in music circles in Newark, N.J. She was organist for one of the New York churches for many years and accompanied members of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Mrs. Elder was the first woman to broadcast to Europe over Station WOR and has done two-piano work and a great deal of ensemble work in addition to solo piano.

The vocal ensemble is directed by Mrs. George Putnam and will be accompanied by Mrs. Howard Heldenbrand.

Members of the ensemble are Mrs. W. S. Furlong, Mrs. J. J. Wiley, Mrs. D. V. White, Mrs. V. M. Lindquist, Mrs. D. B. Hogue, Mrs. E. D. Foley, Mrs. Rebecca Gould, Mrs. Clyde Marshbanks and Mrs. H. G. Woolcock.

Hostesses for the day will be Mrs. H. B. Euler and Mrs. Helen Teitgen. Social chairmen for the luncheon are Mrs. Howard C. Marsh and Mrs. J. C. Walker.

Members may invite guests and can obtain their tickets from Mrs. O. H. Lundbeck, Mrs. C. J. Strang or Mrs. B. B. Kimball.

The Rev. Lawrence Graves (second from left) was welcomed at a recent reception given by members of the Congregational Church at the church. Mrs. Dora Dawson of Tilden avenue poured at the tea service when Mrs. D. R. Wilson (center) of Oneida road and the Rev. Malcolm K. Burton of Mary Day avenue were photographed. The Rev. Mr. Graves is the new associate pastor.

Girls Should Not Worry About Changes in Looks

Other People Won't Be Overly Aware of Teenagers' Altered Appearance

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

It's checking up on their reflection in the glass continuously that gets some girls in trouble with themselves.

The more they examine their own raw material the more discouraged they become. The more they appraise the results of their camouflaging efforts the more hopeless they feel.

In the process of growing up it's normal to take stock occasionally of the changes in one's appearance. But there's no point in feeling discouraged and hopeless when it's certain that each change will be followed by another. And when it's equally certain that none of the changes are so obvious to other people as they are to you.

Which thought should give a lift to the spirits of this girl who is terribly conscious of the fact that she's growing up faster than the girls she runs around with. But she writes:

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'm fairly pretty, very active in school, church and Girl Scout activities, and I have many good, loyal friends. But I'm fat! I weigh 101—and that's just too much for a girl my age.

"I continually get invitations to spend the night at my girl friends' houses, but I never accept because I'm developing sooner than they are and it makes me feel funny.

"They can't seem to understand that it bothers me. I've tried everything—diet, no candy, etc.—what else can I do?"

You might try to stop being so horrified by what you see in the mirror, and learn to accept yourself as you are. You can't help it if the girls you know are slower about growing up than you are. And what you can't help shouldn't bother you so much.

With your mother's help and your doctor's suggestions, you can learn to curb your appetite. You can slice off the poundage that's not doing you any good while at the same time getting enough of the proper things to eat for good growing.

When you have yourself convinced that the way you look is normal for you (and not because you're a greedy glutton) you'll stop worrying about your looks and start having all the fun possible.

* * *

"Dear Miss Woodward: The extremely thick glasses I have to wear make me very self-conscious. I'm a freshman in high school and have lots of girl friends but no boy friends.

"I'm in every activity possible. But isn't there something I can do to make myself more attractive and popular?"

Obviously, you couldn't go out for anything without your glasses, so why not consider them a means to an end and forget about them while you concentrate on making your complexion glow, your hair shine and your personality radiate good humor and happiness?

Your friendliness, helpfulness and gaiety matter more to everybody else than your glasses do!

BLONDING

Want to be a blond? Perhaps you can remember when your hair was that gleaming shade you so admire. Has it darkened with the years? If your hair was light in your childhood it would still be attractive on you. If not we would not recommend blonding it now. Hair can now be lightened to a soft blond shade that looks very natural. This process not only brightens and adds highlights to the hair but gives soft fine hair more body. Hair properly lightened may be successfully permanent waved.

Next week we will discuss red heads.

Chicken Bits Dress Up Baked Corn

Mrs. Louis Smith Adds Diced Poultry to Souffle-Like Dish

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

A charming senior homemaker has given us today's recipe for a corn casserole with chicken. Mrs. Louis S. Smith recommends this recipe highly for use with left-over chicken.

Mrs. Smith says she didn't know a thing about cooking when she was first married. But in the years since then she has become a good cook and really enjoys preparing food now. She uses a cookbook for basic recipes, then changes them to suit herself.

Mrs. Smith's chief hobby is stamp collecting, and she'd like to get in touch with fellow philatelists.

CHICKEN-CORN PUDDING
By Mrs. Louis S. Smith

2 eggs
1 cup canned corn
½ cup rolled cracker crumbs
2 cups diced chicken
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
2 teaspoons sugar

Beat eggs; add corn, cracker crumbs and chicken. Mix salt, pepper, sugar and milk. Stir in. Pour into lightly buttered casserole and dot with bits of butter. Bake in a slow oven (about 300 degrees) an hour, or until firm in the center. Serve at once. Makes 5-6 servings.

Slacks Are Shorter

Who says men's styles don't change? When women get hold of them, theyd do. Slimly tapered slacks are definitely shorter this year, clearing the anklebone by a couple of inches. They're worn with a shirtwaist jacket, shirttails out.

Tile Protects Wall

When kitchen clean-up time comes, the most overlooked area is often the wall right behind the stove. This should be wiped clean every day; an excellent idea is to install a splashback of stain-proof ceramic tile which can be cleaned with just a damp clean cloth.

MRS. ERNEST A. PEARSON

Mrs. Ernest A. Pearson was installed as grand royal matron of Esther Court 13, Order of the Amaranth Saturday evening. The installation was part of a three day convention held at Saginaw. Other officers are Mrs. Harley Bowers, grand marshal; Pierre Shaver, grand prelate; Edward Pritchard, grand sentinel; Mrs. Roy Wilton, grand fraternal correspondent; Mrs. William Pfahlert, grand charity; and Catherine McCrindle, grand assistant lecturer.

Hot Soaking Helps Get Clothes Clean

Studies show that soaking clothes longer than 10 or 15 minutes permits the water to cool and hinders the cleansing action of soap.

Hot water opens the fabric mesh in most materials, permitting soapsuds to circulate and loosen dirt, at the same time helping the soap to emulsify oil and grease.

Brush With Death Opens Her Eyes

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Marjorie O'Shaughnessy, of Montclair, N. J., is a girl who gets around. Everywhere she goes, she keeps her eyes open for women whose stories might be of interest to my readers.

Yesterday she told me one about a woman she met at a tea.

"She was an attractive woman in her late 30s," Marjorie reported, "and she had a kind of calm serenity which was quite unusual. I asked her what kind of job she had and I got quite a story!

"She told me," Marjorie continued, "that she had always worked for a certain company, beginning as secretary and working up to office manager.

"She never liked it too much, but it wasn't too bad, so she stayed. She felt she was indispensable, that the company could never get along without her.

"But one day, this young woman was in a bad automobile accident. She came out of it all right but for a long time she was on the critical list.

She told me that, when she got well, she realized a great many things—first, that she had nearly died, that if she had died, the company would have had to get along without her; second that if she had died, she would never have fulfilled her big life dream, been wasted.

"What was that dream? She had always wanted to be in the field of religious education.

"Well," Marjorie concluded, "this woman decided then and there to do what she had always wanted to do. She had a nest egg, so she resigned from her job as office manager and enrolled in a theological seminary.

She loves her studies, and she can hardly wait to get into teaching in the religious field.

"But she told me how much she wished she had done it sooner, and how silly it had been to wait until she had a brush with death before she did what she had always wanted to do."

If you have always harbored a secret dream, maybe you'd better haul it out right now and start making it a reality.

Garbo: The Legend and the Lady

Irving Thalberg Recognizes a Great Star—Greta Stays

VII

By JOHN BAINBRIDGE

Greta Garbo was officially entered on the MGM payroll on Sept. 10, 1925, but the studio showed no signs of being in a hurry to try to make something of her. Nor were Metro officials hasty about putting Stiller to work.

After a month of enforced idleness, Stiller began a campaign of polite but steady harassment of MGM to secure a part for Greta Garbo and a directional assignment for himself. His dealings at the studio were mainly with Irving Thalberg, the brilliant and hard-driving "boy genius" of the film industry, who, at twenty-six, had zoomed from an office boy at Universal to production manager at MGM.

From the beginning he and Stiller didn't get along well. Stiller was not pleased to take orders from a man sixteen years his junior, whose film experience, Stiller felt, was a drop in the bucket compared to his. Thalberg, on his part, considered Stiller loud, overbearing and unreasonably demanding.

Furthermore, Thalberg had not developed unlimited enthusiasm for Greta Garbo from his one perfunctory meeting with her and from looking at the screen tests made in New York. In an effort to whet his interest Stiller supervised the making of another series of tests. When these were viewed by Thalberg and Mayer, they were quite favorably impressed, though they complained about her hair and teeth.

Mayer suggested that she have the necessary dental work done immediately and that she also visit the studio's chief make-up man, who would create a more attractive coiffure. Stiller saw to it that both steps were taken. Then, ten weeks after her arrival in Hollywood, Greta Garbo was given her first part.

She started her American career close to the top, having been cast as the female lead opposite Ricardo Cortez in a moderately ambitious picture calles The Torrent. The studio assigned Monta Bell to direct it. This was a disappointment as stunning and profound to Greta Garbo as it was to Stiller, for both had confidently assumed that he would be selected to direct his protegee in her first American film.

Had they known this would not be the case it is doubtful if either would have come to Hollywood. She was so frightened at the prospect of working with a strange director, in a huge studio where she felt lost and among people whose language she did not understand, that she told Stiller she preferred to give up the part and go home. He rejected this notion instantly; she undertook the role.

Though Monta Bell directed the picture, Stiller was responsible in large measure for Greta Garbo's performance. Except for the first day, Stiller did not appear on the set, but every evening he rehearsed his protegee in the next day's scenes, coaching her in every movement and every expression. As a result of this careful preparation, Greta Garbo unfailingly reported on the set ready to act the scene as she, and Stiller, felt it. Though staying away from the set, Stiller delivered Greta Garbo to the studio every morning and called for her every night, continuing to keep her securely under his wing.

As shooting of The Torrent progressed, Metro officials began to show keen interest in the young actress they had so reluctantly acquired. Several of them, including Irving Thalberg, made a practice of dropping in to look at the "rushes" (each day's shooting run off in a projection room at the studio), and their comments were uniformly enthusiastic. Slowly and dimly they began to sense that they had stumbled upon something quite out of the ordinary.

In itself Greta Garbo's first American film was something less than monumental. It was based on a rather stringhalted story by Blasco-Ibanez, the prolific Spanish novelist who enjoyed a great vogue in the twenties. Several of his works had already been filmed with phenomenal success, in particular The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse, which had the result, among others, of raising Rudolph Valentino from obscurity to stardom.

Greta Garbo made a good impression on the other members of the cast and on the crew that worked on the picture. Her inability to speak English prevented her, even if she had wished, from mixing easily with the other people on the set. In spare moments at the studio she was being tutored in English by the interpreter, Svend Borg, who had been assigned to translate for her.

She also practiced her English with the chief cameraman, William Daniels, with whom she struck up a pleasant and lasting acquaintance. "I didn't teach Garbo to speak English," Daniels has remarked, "but we used to talk a lot, and I would correct her on certain things. The first time I heard her speak English was when we were making The Torrent.

"Garbo was sitting in a sleigh on the back lot. She suddenly said, 'I'm important.' 'Why, you're the most important person around,' someone replied. Then she said, 'Important Garbo—important sardines—just the same.' The word she was trying to use, of course, was 'imported,' but she thought she had made a fine sentence."

The Torrent was completed two days before Christmas, in 1925. Among the interested spectators at the preview, held soon after the first of the year, were Greta Garbo, Stiller, the Victor Seastroms, the Lars Hansons and other members of the Scandinavian colony. "We all thought the picture was a flop and that Garbo was terrible," Lars Hanson recently remarked. "In our opinion it didn't amount to anything. Stiller was raving mad, he thought it was so poor."

The picture did perhaps contain a few imperfections, such as Greta Garbo's costumes. These were a sight, as Joseph Alsop, the thoughtful syndicated columnist, observed in 1935, after having seen the film again.

"Miss Garbo was clothed in a series of the most improbably hideous garments conceivable by the human mind," Alsop remarked.

Scarcely losing her place, she bids her drenched caller step into the next room and put on some dry clothes. He returns wearing one of her ermine and moleskin coats. With Don Rafael looking like a displaced Eskimo and Leonora in a modified Mother Hubbard, the star-crossed lovers roll their eyes and heave their chests to indicate mutual affection."

Even in 1926, scenes like that struck some perceptive film-goers, including most of Greta Garbo's Swedish friends in Hollywood, as implausible. In addition, her countrymen were inclined to be critical of her acting. "We thought her very clumsy, the way she walked and handled herself," a well-known Swedish actress who was then in Hollywood with her husband has said. "But the Americans found her movements attractive. "Ah," they said, "she walks like an animal."

Pleased with the critical and box office success of The Torrent, MGM decided, in the familiar Hollywood fashion, to repeat the formula. With one expection, the ingredients in Greta Garbo's next film were the same as before: Another improbable Blasco-Ibanez story, this one laid in South America and called The Temptress; another popular sexy Latin lover as the hero, this time Antonio Moreno; and another exotic and implausible role for Greta Garbo, this one being the part of Elena, a beautiful, worldly and heartless woman whose slavish admirers range from bankers to bandits. There was to be one difference in this confection, however. Stiller was assigned to direct it.

Modern Shadow Boxes Camouflage Wall Niches

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

The builder's idea for room-trimming in your middle-aged house may not suit your plans at all.

Those arched niches, for example, may look all wrong now and have become a problem.

They can be played down by painting them the same color as the walls — they're far less conspicuous that way than with contrasting linings; and arrangements on shelves can be made so interesting that architectural lines dim.

But to disguise the niches so much that their original shape is lost entirely, turn them into shadow boxes.

This is easy enough to do with wide picture moldings, perhaps in an interesting wood such as wormy chestnut.

The size and shape of the niches can be changed by covering the arched tops and part of the opening. The shadow box cover-up can be used on niches of any size, but the larger the finish, the more striking they'll be.

Brief Kisses at Terminals Not Banned

It's More Romantic for Sweethearts to Embrace Privately

By EMILY POST

The following question is from a young woman: "Will you please express your opinion of couples, who are engaged, kissing in public?

"My fiance lives out of town and comes to see me every few weeks.

"Upon his arrival and departure either at the bus or railroad station, we naturally kiss each other, and mother says this is in bad taste anywhere in public between people who are obviously sweethearts and that our kissing should be done at home."

Answer: Putting propriety aside, I agree with your mother that it would be much more romantic to be kissed in a less public place than a railroad station or a bus terminal, although it is quite true that brief welcome and farewell kisses are about the only ones not under public ban.

Dear Mrs. Post: My 14-year-old son has been invited to go with a young girl to her junior prom. I understand the girls are going to wear long party dresses. Will you please tell me what my son should wear?

Is a navy blue suit a must, or could he wear unmatching trousers and jacket? He wears this type of clothes all the time and I hate to have to go out and buy him a navy blue suit which I know he will not wear later.

Answer: A navy blue suit is best taste, but I agree that it would be very foolish to buy a suit to be worn only once.

I do think, however, that a suit of matching color would be better than unmatching slacks and a jacket at a dance—unless, of course, all the other boys wear the same thing.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: The wedding dress I have chosen has short cap sleeves and I had planned to wear short white gloves with it. My sister insists that short gloves are wrong with a short-sleeved dress and that I should wear long gloves. Will you please tell me which is correct?

Answer: I agree with your sister that long gloves should be worn—if possible. Bare arms on a bride do not seem quite right.

Coeds Swap Finery

The young lady who splurges her college clothes budget on evening gowns is foolish. One is fine, for in most dormitories, there are tremendous swaps before each dance so no one ever need wear her only gown twice.

Big Ben Slated for Overhauling

Huge London Clock Due for First Rest in Century

LONDON (AP)—Big Ben is going to take a rest after having taken note of each passing hour for more than a century.

The great four-faced clock high in one of the towers of the Houses of Parliament is going to be stopped for major repairs late this month. Its voice, the deep boom of its 15-ton bell, is familiar around the world because it is heard daily in introducing British Broadcasting Corp. programs.

* * *

Big Ben's voice will be silent about two months. Another thoroughly masculine clock, Big Tom in St. Paul's Cathedral, will take over the radio programs temporarily.

Big Ben is 101 years old. The overhaul on the clock and its tower is a major engineering operation which will cost about $112,000.

Big Ben's works are in fairly good shape, but the structure surrounding the clock was damaged by German bombing 14 years ago when knocking out Big Ben was an incidental mission of many Nazi planes. Despite the hammering, Big Ben's voice never failed to announce the BBC's 10 o'clock evening news to the tens of thousands in occupied Europe who surreptitiously listened in.

* * *

Broadcasting corporation officials have frequently denied recordings were ever used during the war. Big Ben's broadcasts have always been "live," they insist.

The words "Big Ben" are a memorial in the language to Sir Benjamin Hall, commissioner of works when the clock was built.

Says Lighting Able to Double Size of House

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A lighting specialist for one of the nation's largest electrical manufacturing concerns says most American home owners can "double" the size of their homes at an average cost of $100.

The trick is in installing a more efficient electrical system, and extending new wiring to hitherto unused portions of the home.

"Home lighting is the new American hobby," said E. W. Beggs, lighting specialist for Westinghouse Electric Corp. "Spend $100 and double the size of your house."

Beggs explained that many home owners "are putting in basement recreation rooms, made possible, of course, because of lighting. Others are lighting their gardens and enjoying outdoor living in the cool of the evening. The rest of us are at last getting around to lighting our homes better so we can live more fully in them."

About 25,000 new school buses will be needed in the U. S. each year for the next three years.

American farm yields have increased more since World War II than in the previous 60 years.

An average motorist in the U. S. in 1929 used 550 gallons of gasoline, while an average motorist today uses 700 gallons and drives more than 30 per cent farther per gallon.

SOMEONE REALLY LAID AN EGG! — One of C. W. Knittle's hens can be mighty proud of laying the egg at left. Broken open, the oversized egg yielded not only a normal white and yolk, but also another complete egg of normal size. Trouble is, Knittle, of Bethel, Kans., doesn't know which hen laid it. At right is an average-sized egg.

Gives Up After Holding Off Police 12 Hours With Rifle

BETHEL, Vt. (AP)—A barrage of tear gas has ended the holdout of gun-toting Justice of the Peace Manuel Miller, 47, who stood off federal and state authorities for 12 hours yesterday in a futile attempt to keep his wife out of a mental hospital.

Miller and his wife, Lucille, 44, parents of three children, surrendered last night in their gas-filled home—she to face confinement in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D.C.; he to face as yet undetermined federal charges.

* * *

The mild-mannered Miller, a school committeeman and former selectman, began the siege at 10 a.m. EST, when he refused admittance to U.S. Marshal Dewey H. Perry bearing a federal order for Mrs. Miller's commitment.

Mrs. Miller, publisher of a mimeographed anti-Communist leaflet called The Green Mountain Rifleman, was adjudged insane in Federal Court at Burlington April 18 as the outgrowth of an indictment charging her with influencing young men to evade the draft.

* * *

Throughout the day, Miller, armed with a rifle, defied all efforts by authorities to remove his wife from their two-story frame home. He ordered out Vermont Public Safety Commissioner William H. Baumann at gunpoint.

After 12 hours siege authorities fired tear gas shells through downstairs windows of the Miller home. Ten minute later, the couple appeared at an upstairs window.

Miller crawled through the window onto a porch roof.

"All right, fellows," he called.

He threw his rifle to the ground. State troopers swarmed on the roof and handcuffed him.

Mrs. Miller collapsed across the window sill, overcome by gas, and was taken unconscious from the roof.

After doctors revived her on the lawn she smiled at her husband. He smiled back.

Mrs. Miller was taken to Rutland Hospital where Dr. L. Crawford Russell said she had suffered no ill effects from the gas barrage.

Miller was taken to Windsor County Jail. U.S. Marshal Perry said charges probably would be lodged against him.

Although no shots were fired during the 12-hour siege, Miller repeatedly told besiegers:

"I will prevent any intruder from crossing my threshold."

Two hours after the siege began, the Miller children, Dayid, 11, and the twins, Helen and Josephine, 10, came home from school, ate lunch and went back.

When school was through for the day, however, authorities sent the youngsters to nearby private homes, where they remained for the night.

Mrs. Miller spent the siege making and answering phone calls.

She talked willingly over the telephone with newsmen, telling one caller that her husband "has got a lot of ammunition. We can hold out a long time."

When Mrs. Miller appeared to answer the indictment charging her with influencing young men against the draft, Federal Judge Ernest W. Gibson ruled her courtroom behavior indicated a psychiatric examination.

She was sent to Brattleboro Retreat, a mental hospital in Brattleboro, where psychiatrists adjudged her insane.

Sniper, 12, Kills Boy in 'Scare' Try With Rifle

DALLAS (AP)— Tommy Rendon Jr., 9, was walking home from school in an area of west Dallas where outlaws Sam Bass and Clyde Barrow roamed in other generations.

A rifle bullet kicked up dust in front of little Tommy.

A second shot sent him pitching backward. Doctors said he died instantly, a .22 slug through his heart.

* * *

Officers who investigated yesterday spied a second-story window screen ajar about two inches. In the apartment they found a 12-year-old truant with a rifle. At the police station he said he played hooky from school and watched a television show. Tiring of the TV, he searched out a rifle he had been forbidden to touch and loaded it.

He fired out the window at a utility pole, he told police, and later saw Tommy, whom he didn't know, walking across a nearby field. He said he decided to frighten the younger boy by firing as close to him as possible. He said he didn't intend to hit him.

Police turned him over to juvenile authorities. Tommy's funeral was to be planned today.

"Bonanzagram"

Have Fun! Win $100!

"Bonanzagram" is an exciting new puzzle in which the Pontiac Press offers both fun and a $100 cash prize. BUT before you try your hand at "Bonanzagram" be sure and read the rules at the bottom of this page. Solution will appear in the Press May 13.

Claim Check

Below is a duplicate of the "Bonanzagram" entry you send in to contest headquarters. It is ESSENTIAL that you fill it in and save it until the correct solution to "Bonanzagram" No. 9 is published Friday, May 13. Unless you do so, you will be unable to collect the prize if you should send in a winning solution. Check the rules below for further details.

Bonanzagram No. 9

During the war, a strange letter came across the censor's desk. It bore the postmark of a city in North Africa and had been neatly written on a typewriter. However, holes had been cut out in certain places, and the paper appeared to be a grille into which letters could be fitted by the recipient. By deciding what letters to insert in the spaces, the censor was able to reproduce the message of a spy at work. Can you, too, fill in the gaps in the mysterious message?

How To Play 'Bonanzagram'

Solve the "Bonanzagram" by filling in all the missing letters, as indicated by the underscores, in the message. Insert only one letter above each underscore. Many clues to the missing letters are hidden in the story, or anecdote, accompanying the message. Clues may also be found in the message itself, and, in a few cases, the contestant's general knowledge should provide the correct letter. The contestant will note that the message is unpunctuated. Punctuation as well as words must be correct for a perfect solution.

However, if no perfect solution (all missing letters and punctuation) is submitted, a solution with all letters correct and only one punctuation error will be declared a prize winner.

When properly filled in, the "Bonanzagram" will spell out a clear message that will conform in every way with the clues. In many cases it will seem that more than one word would be the correct one. That's part of the fun! You should weigh the clues and select the BEST possible word in each case.

How to Submit Entries

1. After solution is completed, "Bonanzagram" should be clipped and pasted to a two-cent postcard with your name and address.

2. Entries will be received at the Pontiac Press office, 48 W. Huron St., until 5 p. m. Tuesday, May 10. Mail entries must be postmarked before midnight Tuesday, May 10 for Bonanzagram No. 9. Address "Bonanzagram, %, Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

3. Entries may be mailed in envelope but contestant's full name and number of puzzle must be printed in upper left corner of address side of envelope.

4. Copies of the Press need not be purchased to enter. Facsimiles made by hand and corresponding as closely as possible to the original "Bonanzagram" printed in the Press will be accepted but are limited one to a family. Mimeograph, duplicator or other unofficial mechanical reproduction is forbidden.

How to Collect the Prize

The entrant must work out and keep duplicate solution as a claim check. When the solution is published in the Press, he should compare his "claim check" with the published solution, and, if his claim check is identical, he should call in person with his claim check at the Press office, 48 W. Huron St., before 5 p. m. on the Monday following publication of the solution.

If a winner cannot call at the Press office in person, he should mail his solution to "Bonanzagram Editor." Postmark on this letter must be not later than 5 p. m. the Monday after publication of the answer. Correct answers are void unless the contestant reports his claim by the deadlines listed here.

About Eligibility, Information, Etc.

1. Anyone is eligible for the "Bonanzagram" contest except employes of the Press and members of their immediate families. (Immediate family means all those living in an employe's household.)

2. No question as to winners will be answered by phone.

3. The Press will award a prize of $100 to the winner of each weekly "Bonanzagram." If more than one winning answer is received, the prize will be divided equally among the winners. If no correct solution is received, the $100 will be added to the next week's prize. If the winner is a subscriber of record to the Press a $20 bonus will be added to the $100.

4. Only one winning entry from a family will be eligible for the prize, but there is no limit on number of entries.

5. The Press retains the right to correct typographical errors.

6. Judges' decision will be final and contestant's submission of entries indicates acceptance of these rules.

7. No liability is accepted for entries that fail to reach us.

8. The Press reserves the right to alter rules and/or discontinue the contest at its discretion.

Linda Christian Sheds Tyrone

Dodges Arrest on Plea From Gem Firm After Winning Settlement

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—As a prelude to her departure for Spain for a movie, actress Linda Christian divorced Tyrone Power yesterday and obtained a million-dollar property settlement from him, then beat efforts of a New York jewelry firm to cause her arrest.

Van Cleef and Arpels, the jewelers, asked for Miss Christian's detention on the representation that she has steadfastly refused to disclose the whereabouts of $132,500 worth of jewels the firm sold to Robert H. Schlesinger, of Milwaukee.

* * *

The concern says Schlesinger has refused to pay for the gems and Miss Christian says Schlesinger gave them to her, that they are hers, unequivocably, and that she gave no consideration to Schlesinger and did not promise to marry him.

The actress stated that the jewelry is in a safe place with "full precautions against loss or theft," in anwer to the jewelers' indication through its lawyers that it fears Miss Christian might dispose of the gems abroad.

Presiding Superior Court Judge Clarence L. Kincaid, after hearing arguments for an hour, decided there had not been sufficient showing "for such a drastic remedy as civil arrest."

Power was in Boston with a stage play yesterday when his wife obtained the divorce decree and custody of their two minor children. They were married in Rome in 1949.

London Buses Halted by Wildcat Walkout

LONDON (AP) — A wildcat bus strike fomented by Communists threw London's transport system into confusion today. Subways were heavily taxed.

Another unofficial work stoppage in coal mines around Doncaster, halted the flow of coal from that Yorkshire region—Britain's largest coal-producing area. More than 44,000 miners were off their jobs in a piecework pay dispute.

The London strike involved nearly half the city's 30,000 bus drivers and conductors. Almost 3,000 of the 5,744 red doubledeckers were crewless. The stoppage was called to protest new summer working schedules which will cut down overtime earnings.

Survivor of Hiroshima

ABILENE, Kan. (UP) — The atom bomb that devastated Hiroshima nearly a decade ago destroyed a Japanese temple but left intact a 300-year-old blue bowl of Imari porcelain. The bowl is the latest addition to the Eisenhower Memorial Museum, presented by Mrs. Walton H. Walker, widow of General Walker, who was killed in Korea.

Ex-Columnist Tries Chorus Line

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS)—When New York's expansive-legged showgirls sidle into a spotlight with a blinding flash of sequins, it is a signal for lady guests to powder or twitch their noses and for the men to liven the conversation with a devilish remark such as "Hey there now this more like it, hey."

When the girls sidle off again, there is wild applause, with the ladies democratically joining in.

Then comes the analysis, in which all parties concede that these long-stemmed beauties are surely magnificent dolls to look at—but personally, everybody says personally, I'd rather have brains.

This is traditional procedure among guests in night clubs. They assume that because a girl is statuesque, luscious and smiling, there is a cavity in her cranium. Obviously, this is a dodge to flatter their own egos.

They have forgotten, purposely, that Gypsy Rose Lee wrote a book.

The other day, into the Copacabana (a night club noted for its spangled palmetto leaves and small but tasty chorus line) came a good example of beauty plus brain cells. Her name is Marguerite McDonell and she is an ex-newspaper columnist.

"A girl in the line doesn't mind being looked over artistically," she said, "but she hates being overlooked mentally. You know, it's very difficult to keep smiling, as you're asked to do, and look intelligent at the same time.

"So you try to give the audience a pleasant smile, and a nice alert look in the eyes. And it obviously comes out as a silly grin with two vacuous holes in the head below the eyebrows . . ."

Marguerite, one of those creamy faced lovelies with soft brown eyes and soft black hair, had never had a chorus line job till now so she is extra-sensitive about the reactions. After being looked upon with respect as well as relish in two newspaper jobs—the latest as radio-TV columnist for the St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times—she would rather like people to observe that she, and her fellow temptresses, have more tucked away in their pretty heads than ostrich feathers.

Undoubtedly, it's her news background that makes her want to get the facts straight.

Actually, Marguerite is smarter than most of us. Records show that girls in the Copa line, like show girls in other snitzy New York nighteries, not only get paid better than girls in other professions.

They also marry millionaires, win movie and Broadway roles and have a great deal of free time to attend to other ventures. Some write books. Some become fashion designers, interior decorators, opera singers, store owners — all because they were bright enough to make good money at night for the privilege of improving themselves by day.

"I'm spending my days studying singing and writing," Marguerite said, those big eyes glistening like the costume she wears in her tango number. "But I don't know what's going to happen from here on.

"Perhaps I'll even save enough money, doing this, so I can afford to go back into the wonderful newspaper business."

If that doesn't show that chorus girls are smart, then the world is from Missouri!

Police Arrest Extortionist

Portland Man Admits Threatening to Bomb Grocery Chain

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Glenn Colgan, 26, who said he needed the money because he was sick and out of work, admitted yesterday trying to extort $10,000, police reported.

He was trapped by chemicals which had been placed on a dummy package, Chief of Police James Purcell said. These chemicals glow under a special light. Colgan admitted the extortion attempt when his hands glowed in the test, Purcell said.

* * *

Purcell, quoted him as saying he telephoned the offices of Fred Meyer, Inc., a grocery and variety chain, Monday threatening that one of the stores would be bombed unless $10,000 was left in a package at a suburban street intersection.

A package filled with cut paper was left as directed. Somehow Colgan managed to pick it up and get through a line of police who had surrounded the area, Purcell reported.

Colgan, fearing one of the police had seen him at the scene, walked into the police station yesterday, hoping he could explain away his presence in the area, Purcell said. He quoted Colgan as saying his car had run out of gas.

* * *

But after six hours of questioning, Colgan broke down and admitted he had telephoned the extortion demand, picked up the package and burned the contents when he found it was only paper, Purcell said.

He was booked on a charge of attempted extortion under $10,000 bail.

MY DRUGGIST SAID:

O-JIB-WA BITTERS IS AS GREAT AS THEY CLAIM

"When my druggist told me that O-JIB-WA BITTERS was every bit as good as the claims made for it, that was enough for me," says Mr. Joseph W. Lawrence, 505 E. Roosevelt Ave., Battle Creek.

"It was about six years ago that rheumatism and arthritis settled in my shoulders, knees and legs. I had read so much in the papers about O-JIB-WA BITTERS, that it was the first thing I thought of trying. I asked my druggist if it was as good as its claims, and he assured me that from all he heard, it certainly was, so on his recommendation, I decided to try it. My knees and shoulder were stiff and pained me terribly. I often woke up in the middle of the night, and the pains kept me from going back to sleep. If it got any worse, I knew I would have to quit work. I was very nervous, and my stomach was upset too. Well, after using O-JIB-WA BITTERS only three weeks, the pains began to leave, and in about a month, I was all better. I sleep well now, and feel better in every way, as my nerves are steady and my stomach has improved greatly. Personally, I think that O-JIB-WA BITTERS is a good blood conditioner and a wonderful spring tonic. People getting on in years usually need a tonic like this to pep them up, so I highly recommend to all who suffer from rheumatism and arthritis and to those needing a good tonic to get a bottle of O-JIB-WA BITTERS from their druggist."

Woman Artist Key Figure at UM Hospital

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UP) — A woman who never studied medicine is one of the key figures in major cancer operations at the University of Michigan Hospital.

Mrs. Carlos Lopez, 43, is called in by surgeons every time a major cancer operation comes up at the hospital. With her paint brush, she fills an important role in their cancer research.

Mrs. Lopez is a medical artist. She is one of the new medical art experts in the nation, which has only 25 to 50 who are top-flight.

Wearing a sterile cap and gown, she leans against operating surgeons, peers over their shoulders and rapidly makes notes. When the operation is finished she transcribes the notes into minute sketches. She has drawn sequence pictures of operations which lasted seven hours from memory.

Mrs. Lopez turned to medical art work from necessity. When her husband, Carlos, a nationally renowned artist died in 1953, she needed a job to support herself and her two children. The job of medical artist at the university opened and she took it.

She said she was apprehensive at first that the emotional strain would bother her, but adds "it never bothered me once."

Mrs. Lopez studied art at the old Detroit Art Academy in the early 1930's. She met her husband while there and married him when he became director of the school.

After her marriage she devoted most of her time to housework while he gained a national reputation. One of their friends, a Puerto Rican doctor, interested them in medical art and they dabbled with it for a time, but then dropped it.

She became a ceramicist and gained a national reputation in this work before the death of her husband.

The drawings of a medical artist are used to complement the work of cameras.

The artist can be selective, highlighting areas and details the surgeons wish to study more closely.

The only medical knowledge she has came from what she picked up from friends and books. But the details she puts into her drawings amaze surgeons at the university who say she captures details of minute nerves and tissues which many trained in medical school miss.

Mrs. Lopez said she finds her job "terribly exciting."

Her nerves have proved steadier than that of men, even her late husband. Once when they both were sketching an advanced heart operation, in which the entire heart was laid bare, he became too upset and had to back away. But she finished the job.

"I can't bear to see people suffer," she said. "But on this job I don't have too. They're under anesthetic."

U. S. Chaplains Marking 200th Anniversary in '55

WASHINGTON (UP)—Army and National Guard chaplains throughout the world celebrate the bicentennial of the establishment of military chaplains in American armed forces this year.

Two hundred years ago, in 1755, town clergymen joined the troops taking part in the French and Indian War, not to fight but to minister to the spiritual wants of their fellows.

New York Police Hunt for Planter of Bombs

NEW YORK (AP) — Authorities pressed a hunt today for a "mad bomber" believed to have planted about a dozen crude bombs found in various parts of the city in the past two years.

Additional detectives have been assigned to railroad stations, bus terminals and large theaters.

The police order last night followed the discovery on Monday of a crude cylinder bomb in Radio City Music Hall.

Hal Boyle Says:

Chances Are, You'll Never Die Laughing

NEW YORK (AP)—If you are worried about your health, here is a consoling thought—you probably won't die laughing.

Laughter never has been a leading cause of death in any civilized country, and the danger of it knocking you off in this country is diminishing every year.

"We're a sober lot—and getting soberer," said Charles Morton, a thoughtful humorist who never lets the foibles of a confused world disturb his own wry good cheer.

* * *

"It is becoming more difficult for us to laugh at ourselves. Everybody's terribly cautious. They're afraid of offending someone. As the money stakes get higher and our enterprises larger, everything seems to become desperately serious.

"This is too bad. There is enough that is upside down in this world to warrant anybody having a good big belly laugh."

* * *

Morton, associate editor of the Atlantic Monthly, is one of the few remaining masters of the light article, a deft humor form brightened by such predecessors as Stephen Leacock and Robert Benchley. After surving the feminine indignation aroused by his book on "How to Protect Yourself Against Women and Other Vicissitudes," Morton has come out with a new and equally funny guidebook to current "stuffed-shirtisms" called, "A Slight Sense of Outrage."

Among other things Morton is outraged by are V-necked men's pajamas ("men with their collars off look like picked chickens") and writers who describe bananas as "the elongated yellow fruit" and billiard balls as "the numbered spheroids."

* * *

He has a theory on how a sense of humor develops and how a humorist differs from normal people.

"Assuming a child is ordinarily intelligent and has a sense of proportion," he said, "he tends to believe what grownups tell him. He realizes they are older and have lived longer.

"But at some point he discovers that an enormous amount of what they have told him is baloney—pure moonshine—and that they don't know what they are talking about.

* * *

"This seems amusing to him and excites his sense of comedy because it is funny to see people actually believing the ridiculous things they say. It also seems funny for him to reflect they had him believing this guff, too.

"Thus humor is an awakening, a discovery. But, unfortunately if he is normal, in time this sense of comedy evaporates. He no longer is excited or amused by the crazy things people do or say. He himself becomes one of the older people who say and do things that are manifestly absurd.

"The wheel has turned full circle.

* * *

"But there are a few people who never get over it, who never grow up. Thus it could be interpreted that a light writer is a case of arrested development."

Morton lit up a cigar and cheerfully admitted that he was in no hurry to grow up himself.

In an age of speed everything comes and goes faster. The lightning wisecrack and the one-line cartoon gag now characterize the nation's comedy. The leisurely light humorous essay is slowly dwindling.

* * *

"There are few markets left for it," said Morton, who says he wouldn't advise any mother to try to raise her boy to be a light writer.

"She couldn't do it anyway," he added. "No one who writes a good piece knows exactly how or why he was able to. All he knows is that it warms him in a strange way."

Kindergarten Handbook to Aid Waterford Parents

PTA Delegates Study Defense

40 Schools Represented at Waterford Meeting to Plan CD for Students

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — A Civil Defense study program for the school area was inaugurated last night when some forty PTA representatives and principals met at Waterford High School with Superintendent of Schools William Shunck.

Emphasis was placed on evacuation in case of a warning instead of what to do when a blast occurs.

Arthur Johnson, school principal of the Oakland County Children's Home, has been named Civil Defense director for Waterford Township Schools.

The group was briefed on the alert", which shall be sounded on the township fire sirens as a continuous rising and falling signal, and the all clear", which also will be sounded on the township fire sirens. This will be one minute straight blasts repeated with 30 second silent periods.

Under discussion was the part of the proposed program which stated "In case an alert is sounded, lal pupils shall remain in their school buildings unless their parents call for them and request that their children accompany them home." Teachers would also remain at school.

Further discussion centered on the many facets of communication and transportation in case an alert is sounded.

If a school bus is loaded and is in the process of returning pupils to their homes, it will continue until all pupils in the bus have been left at their regular points of return.

If a bus is loaded and is in the process of taking pupils to their school, when an alert comes, it shall reverse its course and re turn its load to the points at which its pupils would normally be re turned at the close of a school day.

No decisions were made on any part of the program. Individual PTAs are to discuss the program and the results are to be turned over to Johnson.

Approves Extending Doctor-Dentist Draft

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee has voted 27-5 for a two year extension on the controversial military draft for doctors and dentists.

The measure would extend until July 1, 1957 the law making all doctors, dentists and veterinarians liable for two years' active duty until they are 51 years old. The law is now due to expire June 30.

The measure, which will go to the House soon, also includes a new peacetime provision, permitting the federal government to subsidize some medical and dental students who are willing to accept active duty in the services.

Sheppard Case Arguments Due

Defense Attorneys Will Plead for New Trial Today in Court

CLEVELAND (INS)—Oral arguments on a motion for a new trial for convicted wife-killer Dr. Sam Sheppard on the basis of "newly found evidence" will be heard by Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin in Cleveland today.

The 70-year-old judge who sentenced Dr. Sam to life imprisonment after a jury convicted him last Dec. 21 of slaying his wife, Marilyn, is expected to take the motion under advisement after the arguments.

The defense contention of "newly found evidence" is based on an investigation by California criminologist Dr. Paul Kirk, who charged that the state's case against Dr. Sam is "superficial, incomplete and completely erroneous in interpretation."

Kirk contends that Marilyn died at the hands of a left-handed sex-killer, not at the hands of her handsome husband.

Pamphlet by Area Teachers Smooths Way for Beginners

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

How important is kindergarten?

The staff of the Waterford Township Schools believes it is the most important year in a child's school experience. Cooperatively the the kindergarten teachers representing all of the elementary schools in the district have written a handbook, "A Joyful Adventure," which will be given to the parents of prospective kindergartners.

Illustrated with clever sketches of children and their new "adventure" in the beginning school year, this handbook will serve as a guide for parents in helping to orient five-year-olds to their school life.

William Shunck, superintendent of Waterford Township Schools, has written the foreword in the form of a message to parents.

"Your child will be introduced to his formal program of education in the kindergarten. His adjustment to that program, his ability to work with others, and his initial success in 'getting along on his own,' are vital to a successful career in school and in life," states Supt. Shunck.

The handbook, to be used in conjunction with pre-kindergarten visits to school by parents and next-year's beginners, urges school tours for parents and pre-kindergartners.

"It helps to acquaint them with their new surroundings," says the book.

Chapters on regulations and policies explain that the state law provides that a child to be eligible for September school entrance must be five years of age on or before Dec. 1 of the same year.

Other sections cover the characteristics of a typical kindergartner, safety and health factors of importance and an explanation of the new adults who will enter a child's life in the first school year.

Objectives of the kindergarten, explain the five-year-olds' teachers, are to help a child become acclimated to school which will later on include reading, writing, spelling, artithmetic and many other subjects.

They also point out that just as important as these desired skills are the attitudes and interests which will enable a child to get along well with his fellow man.

Ways in which parents can supplement school learning experiences, says the handbook, include visits to the zoo, the park, library, farm, fire station, the airport and a ride on a train.

"A child rich in experience is a joy to himself and to those about him," relates the handbook.

Schedule for a typical school day is included with two pages devoted to a list of books—one for the new kindergartner's reading and another for the parents.

Fleeing Thieves Leave Two-Block Trail of Pennies

Two thieves who had just broken into a grocery store at 203 Lake St. this morning left a trail of $100 worth of pennies behind them as the store keeper blasted twice from his 12-gauge shotgun, but failed to hit either burglar.

William Jones of 175 Lake St. was awakened about 2 a. m. by Mrs. Rebecca Woods who lives across the street from the store. When Jones arrived at the store, two thugs had fled from the building running east.

The shotgun blast, Jones believes, scared the thieves enough to cause them loss of control of a paper box which contained the pennies.

Neighbors later helped Jones recover the 2-block trail of 10,000 pennies, aided with flashlights.

Garden Group to Meet

To Meet at Waterford

Fresh Reports of Buildup Filed

Chiang Source Claims Reds Patrolling Coast in Fast Torpedo Boats

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist China today produced fresh reports of a Red buildup near the offshore islands and said its planes damaged three Communist gunboats in the Quemoy area.

The air force said its pilots sought out the gunboats, described as between 300 and 400 tons, on the landward side of Quemoy in western Amoy Bay. The area is 120 miles west of Formosa across the strait.

Pilots said one of the gunboats caught fire and suffered heavy damage.

The Communist buildup threatening the offshore islands continues both near Quemoy and in the area opposite the Matsu group 175 miles up the coast, the Tatao News Agency reported.

Carnation Sale Slated

United Spanish War Veterans and Auxiliary 23 will be on the streets of Pontiac Saturday for their Mothers Day sale of carnations.

Proceeds from the annual "Carnation Day" sale will benefit needy veterans and other charitable organizations.

MARIE L. PRIMEAU

The engagement of their daughter Marie L. Primeau of Rochester has been revealed by Mr. and Mrs. Leon Primeau of Marlette. Her fiancee is M. Andrew Repic, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Repic of North Branch. A September wedding is planned.

Residents Can Seek Repairs on Roads

A little known state law passed in 1954 allows groups living in residential areas outside incorporated units to petition their township for street improvements which are paid for by special assessment of benefitting property owners.

"The move must be supported by 65 per cent of property owners with frontage on the street to be improved," explained Lee O. Brooks, chairman of the Oakland County Road Commission.

Installation of sidewalk, paving, drainage, curb plus grading and graveling all can be petitioned for, he stated.

"It is up to the township to hold a public hearing at which any objections can be aired," Brooks said. Assessments can be spread over any period up to ten years, he added.

Pontiac City Affairs

City Sewage Treatment Plant Will Be Erected

The City Commission last night authorized City Manager Walter K. Willman to draw up a land contract for purchase of some 60 acres of land at Opdyke and Auburn Rds. for another city sewage treatment plant.

The land will cost $1,100—less than its appraised value.

Construction of an auxiliary sewage treatment plant on the site will permit extension of sewer lines through sections of the north and east sides not now served by the present plant.

The controversial rezoning of Glenwood Estates Subdivision died a quiet death after the petitioners for the change to residential classification withdrew their request.

In other action, the Commission authorized City Clerk Ada R. Evans to advertise for bids for removal of houses on two parcels of city-owned property on Parke street and the city hall annex on Hill street.

The three buildings are adjacent to the new City Hall, set to open for business Monday morning.

A resolution was passed supporting a State Senate bill calling for water resource surveys by the State Water Resources Commission.

First reading was made of a new taxicab ordinance and a setback line agreement for land on Baldwin avenue was approved.

Approval also was given to moving an alley at Sanford and E. Pike Sts. 40 feet north to provide land for expanding a supermarket.

Postponed were appointment of a member to the Police and Fire Trial Board and action on renewal applications for club liquor licenses for the Eagles Lodge and Mellow Lane Club.

Mayor William W. Donaldson proclaimed next week "Safety Check Week."

Withdrawn from the 1955 improvement program was a curb, gutter and drainage project on Colorado street from Franklin road to Bagley street.

Engineer's estimates were presented and public hearings set for next Tuesday for the following projects:

Curb, gutter and drainage on Peggy avenue from Voorheis to Hazel.
Curb, gutter and drainage on Fourth avenue from Joslyn to Fuller.
Curb, gutter and drainage on Gerdon street from Oakland to Corwin.

Public hearings were held on eight public improvement projects and special assessment rolls confirmed for four other projects previously approved.

Woman Suing U.S. for A-Bomb Cancer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—A $75,000 suit on file today charges that the Atomic Energy Commission's 1953 atomic tests subjected Mrs. Martha Sheahan to radioactivity which caused a cancer to grow on her face.

Mrs. Sheahan and her husband Daniel previously filed a suit seeking $450,000 from the government and charging that their home at the Groom mine, 25 miles from Yucca Flat, had been made uninhabitable by radiation and Air Force bombs.

The Groom mine is located at the borders of the Nevada Air Force gunnery range. Since the 1953 AEC tests the Sheahans have moved to Las Vegas.

Miss Hepburn Agrees to Do 'Twelfth Night'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Excitedly waving a cablegram, Joe Mankiewicz stopped work on "Guys and Dolls" to tell me that Audrey Hepburn has agreed to do "Twelfth Night" for him.

Audrey will play the dual role of Viola and Sebastian, her brother — the first time the same person has played the two roles.

Said Joe, "As soon as I finish "Guys and Dolls" I am going to work on the script. We'll make it in England in February 1956. I haven't decided whether I'll use the traditional Elizabethan score or get new music. It will be, in a way, a musical."

James Stewart took off for Morocco today. He'll meet Doris Day and director Alfred Hitchcock there to start "The Man who Knew Too Much." Gloria (Mrs. Stewart) went along with him — "just because she speaks French," Jimmy laughed.

Alfred Hitchcock told me before he left that as soon as he finishes his current thriller he's going to make "Flamingo Feathers," a suspense drama by Laurens Van Der Post.

"Paramount bought it," he said, "and it's about a white planter in Africa who quells a native Communist-inspired uprising. It's got a lot of suspense."

Hitch will make some of the scenes in Africa, but he doesn't expect to get started until next spring.

I had a chance to ask Marisa Pavan about Anna Magnani and she said: "When Anna Magnani is making a picture she becomes the person she is playing. She forgets everything else. It's strenuous but, believe me, I'd be glad to make another picture with her.

"She taught me a lot. I think she's one of the greatest actresses I've ever met."

"Then you didn't mind all her roughness in 'Rose Tattoo'?" I asked.

"No, because I don't think she meant to be rough. She was just playing the role of the mother," said Marisa.

Marisa told me that her twin, Pier Angeli, is so much better that she is looking for a house, all on one floor, for herself and Vic Damone.

Louis B. Mayer and Lorean sail on the SS United States May 26 for Europe. They'll be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Brown and go directly to Montecantini, a famous spa near Florence.

There they'll meet L. B.'s daughter, Mrs. Irene Selznick, in London where she is working on her new play, "The Chalk Garden," which Irene, herself, will direct.

Suzanne Mayer will not accompany her family because she returns to summer school at Stanford University. More than anything in the world Suzanne wants to be a doctor. That would have made Suzanne's godfather very happy.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: At Chasen's where I had dinner with George Delacorte, Mona Freeman and Bing Crosby were seated at a table for two.

Mrs. Guy Madison and Bridget, called "Wee Belle Hickok" by her doting pa, go home this week.

At the baby shower June Havoc gave for Mrs. James Mason, Portie had more fun than anyone opening the packages. Pamela is expecting the baby a week from Thursday, May 12 — and she wants another girl.

Joan Bennett brought Steffie who has grown to be a tall girl. Mrs. Nunnally Johnson, Mrs. Ray Stark, Mrs. Kirk Douglas (who is also expecting a baby), Mrs. Henry Hathaway and Freddie de Cordova's ma, who leaves for Honolulu, toasted the expected baby in pink champagne.

Faith Domergue is home from Good Samaritan Hoopital where she underwent plastic surgery on her eye lids — her third operation of this kind.

Mae West, completely surrounded with handsome young men, plays her first local night club date at Ciro's starting May 12.

Good to see the big lines outside the theater showing "Strategic Air Command." In two days they took in over $18,000.

Bergman to Be Editor

Hooky Fatal for Boy

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. (UP)— James Donald Moss, 11, playing hooky from school, gashed his thigh and bled to death as he took a dip in the old swimming hole yesterday. He was cut on a sharp piece of metal.

Voters Elect Mayor, Void Town's Charter

KILL DEVIL HILL, N. C. (UP)— Mrs. Emily Mustian, elected mayor of Kill Devil Hill yesterday, would take office today—but today this town ceases to be a town.

Voters, while electing a mayor, repealed their town charter.

Property owners, peeved because tax rates had jumped 200 per cent since incorporation in 1953, led the fight to kill the charter.

Kill Devil Hill is the site of the Wright brothers famous first powered flight.

Billy Hoeft Survives 2nd Inning Jam to Win No. 3

DETROIT (UP)—Southpaw Billy Hoeft beat the heat, a stomach disorder and the Boston Red Sox yesterday to keep the Detroit Tigers only a half-game out of the American League lead.

The 22-year-old lefty notched his 3rd victory of the season 4-2 by shackling the Red Sox with only six hits while teammate Al Kaline boomed a two-run homer, his 6th of the year, to lead the punch from the plate.

Hoeft revealed in the locker room that he had been bothered with stomach trouble the morning of the game but didn't tell Tiger manager Bucky Harris because "I didn't want to miss my turn."

He added that his stuff wasn't working against the Red Sox, but you'd have a hard time convincing them of it.

* * *

They collected five of their six hits in the 3rd and 4th innings but were held to one single in the seven other frames. Boston scored both of its runs in the 3rd on a double by Ted Lepcio, a single by pitcher Ivan Delock and another two-bagger by Jim Piersall.

Their advantage lasted only until the bottom of the 5th after the Tigers got one run back in the 4th when Bill Tuttle's double scored the walking Jim Delsing.

Leadoff man Harvey Kuenn opened the 5th with a single and waltzed in ahead of Kaline, who clouted one of Delock's offerings into the left field upper deck.

Tigers added their final run in the 8th off George Susce Jr., on a walk and singles by Ray Boone and Delsing.

The victory, played under a record-breaking 88-degrees temperature, gave Detroit a temporary share of 1st place but they lapsed back a half-game off the pace when Cleveland beat New York 7-4 last night.

Kuenn hit two for three to draw within 12 points of Kaline's .409 average which is 3rd in American League. Kuenn leads the league in hits with 29, two more than the other half of the "K-Kids" has made, but has been at bat 73 times compared with 66 for Kaline.

Rookie Frank Lary will try to end Willard Nixon's domination over the Tigers tonight in the 2nd game of a three-games series against the Red Sox. Nixon won only 11 games last year, but five of those victories were at the expense of Detroit.

Lary will be seeking to fatten his 2-1 record and keep his starting role with the Tigers. Boston is riding a six-game losing streak going into today's contest and is holding down 6th place, five and one-half games off the pace of front-running Cleveland.

Field Records Tumble as PHS Wins 6th Test

FLINT — Pontiac High School's thinclads are still rolling, but their latest engagement was a much tougher test than had been anticipated.

On Tuesday afternoon, at Flint Northern, Chiefs ran into a sizzling hot Viking crew that forced the eventual victors to set, or compel the setting of, seven field records, and four PHS school marks in order to win 61¾ to 47½ points.

It was the closest track meet of the season for Pontiac, but it produced the 6th straight dual and meet victory for the unbeaten PHS outfit.

Result caused some eyebrow lifting, too. It may scale down Pontiac's overwhelming rating for Friday's Saginaw Valley meet at Saginaw. But the Chiefs are still top-heavy favorites.

A delay in arrival at the field, some 20 minutes after the dual test was set to start, could have had something to do with the performance of the PHS squad as a whole although it did all right in the end. The bus carrying the team broke down.

With broken marks flying about, Coach Wally Schloerke reported the meet "was the most specacular dual prep event I ever saw."

Pontiac didn't wait long to break the 1st mark. Hayes Jones skipped over the high hurdles to set a 14.8 mark to break the old field and PHS record of 15.1 seconds.

Third new mark was the high jump figure set by Hudson Ray. Ray cleared 6 feet 2 inches, an inch over the previous mark.

Fourth record for the Chiefs was in the medley relay where Archie Brooks, E. J. Harris, Charles Spann and Jim Shorter ran it in 2:32.3, a new mark for both Northern's field and PHS. Former mark was set by Pontiac at CMC Saturday at 2:33.9.

A surprising Frank Whitlock shared the 4-way tie in the pole vault with a tremendous 11 foot 7 inch leap. George Thrasher, and Ted Munger of Pontiac all got over the height, as did Vikings' Norm Boulton.

Willie Wilson's 100 yard dash 2nd place was a fine job, less than a step back of Northern's ace Ernie Lansdown, who hit 10 flat, to win.

Perry Williams also was on the heels of the mile winner, Doug Garwins of Flint, who turned in a 4:42.6 effort.

Pontiac's point winners:
120 yard high hurdles—Hayes Jones, 1st; Jim Taylor 3rd. Time 14.8 (new FN field record, new PHS school record) old mark PHS, 15.1 this year.
100 yard dash—Willie Wilson 2nd (10.05 seconds).
Mile—Perry Williams 2nd; E. Cretal 3rd. Williams' time 4:42.7, winner's time, 4:42.6.
440 yard dash—Robinson 2nd; Jackson 3rd. Time for Robinson, 52.9. Winner 52 seconds.
180 yard low hurdles—Wilson 1st; Jones 2nd. Time 20 seconds flat (new field and PHS school record).
220 yard dash—Spann 2nd. Winner time 22.3.
880 yard run—Douglas 1st; Treals 3rd. Time 2:05.
Pole vault—Thrasher, Whitlock, Munger tied 1st at 11 feet 7.
High jump—Ray 1st. Jones 2nd; Barge, White tied 3rd. Height 6 feet 2 inches (new field and PHS record).
Broad jump—Barge 3rd. Winner distance 21 feet 4 inches.
Shot—Butler 2nd. Winner distance 47 feet 7⅛ inches.
880 yard relay—Won by Pontiac, Wilson, Robinson, Shorter, Spann. Time 1:32.
Medley relay—Won by Pontiac. Brooks, Spann, Harris, Shorter. Time 2:32.3 (new field and PHS record).

Errors in 6th Give PHS Win Over 'Jacks 9

Chiefs Chalk Up 5th Victory in Upstate Test, 4-3

SAGINAW — Pontiac High School's baseball team Tuesday afternoon made the most of several errors in the Arthur Hill infield, in the sixth frame of the Valley contest on the Lumberjack field, to win a close one 4-3.

Walt Poe singled to get a life. Jerry Vallad followed with another safety and Bob Johnston got on by an overthrow that sent Poe home with the winnig tally.

Chiefs had scored in the 1st frame with Dick Slade and Don Daniel getting home on a combination of errors and hits. They added another in the 2nd when Johnston singled, stole 2nd and was out on a fielder's choice play on Bob Smith. Smith then scored on Daniel's grounder.

Hills counted in the 2nd with Garcia making the tally. They added another in the 3rd with Krogman scoring on his triple and a double play try that missed. Final Lumberjack score came in the 6th on three Chief errors, Rosengren making the count.

Chiefs meet Arthur Hill here Thursday in a return engagement with Ted Wharry the hurler.

Prof Suggests Possibility of a 3:40 Mile

U. of California Man Says Fantastic Time Not Impossible

BERKELEY, Calif. (UP)—Clip 18 full seconds off the world record for the mile run? Impossible.

"I wouldn't say so," contradicts Dr. Franklin M. Henry, puffing calmly on his pipe in his cluttered office on the University of California campus.

"A 3:40 mile is not at all impossible, although I'll admit it seems improbable. But if you look at the background of the event you'll find it's within the realm of possibility."

Dr. Henry has done just that and come up with some interesting data. He is professor of physical education and research associate in medical physics at California and keeps in close touch with track activities, in which he has an avid interest.

Macadaeg came from behind to defeat Al Hendricks, 3-6, 6-1, 7-5. The doubles team of Gary Wylie and John Harrington puts forth a strong bid before losing to Ken Catlin and Bill Spencer, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. All other matches were lost in straight sets.

Annual Green-White Tilt Slated Saturday

EAST LANSING (UP) — Michigan State's 1st and 2nd teams will be thrown against each other at the annual Green and White intersquad game staged as a windup of the spring football practice Saturday.

The contest will be a replica of a regulation full game complete with a half-time show, printed programs, a crew of game officials and with the score board and public address system in operation.

The more than 600 high school and college coaches to attend the MSC football clinic will be special guests at the affair.

Assistant coaches Bob Devanny and Burt Smith will direct the Green team and Everett Grandelius and Lou Agase will run the White team while coach Duffy Daugherty observes from the sidelines."

The Green team will have what has been considered the starting eleven so far this season. The lineup has John Lewis and Jim Hinsley, ends; Embry Robinson and Carl Diener, tackles; Buck Nystrom and Norm Masters, guards; Joe Badaczewski, center, Pat Wilson, quarterback; Gerry Musetti or Clarence Peaks, left half; Walt Kowalcyzk, right half, and Gerry Planutis, fullback.

TIGER IS SAFE — Nom Zauchin (3), Boston Red Sox first baseman from Royal Oak, handles a bad throw by shortstop Owen Friend and falls as he tries to tag the bag ahead of the leaping Bill Tuttle as the Tiger outfielder is safe on his grounder to Friend in the 2nd inning. Umpire Nestor Chylak calls the play.

Knows He Is Big Shot

Nashua Obliges Photographers With Many Poses as He Shows Off in Stall

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP) — Nashua may be unresponsive and strong-headed when he is racing as claimed by jockey Eddie Arcaro and trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons but he's quite an actor around the stable.

A half-dozen photographers crowded around his stall yesterday before a workout, hopeful of getting a shot of the big colt yawning or laughing. Nashua obliged not once but a half-dozen times. And he did it each time as the cameramen pointed their lenses in his direction.

"He's not dumb," remarked exercise boy William McCleary. "He knows he is the big shot and just wants to show off."

* * *

For a horse that has earned $477,440, Nashua sure hasn't won his races by any big margin.

"Throw out his maiden race and the betless affair in Florida and you'll find that the total margin of his wins in his eight other victories is less than five lengths," said owner William Woodward.

* * *

"If it come up mud Saturday, it'll just about ruin our chances," said Lloyd Gentry, trainer of Racing Fool and Flying Fury. "Neither likes an off track."

* * *

But at least two other trainers, Johnny Kermath (Blue Lem) and Bill Finnegan (Jean's Joe) are hoping for anything but a fast racing strip.

"Mud maybe will make the big horse (Nashua) come back to us," said Kermath.

* * *

Two trainers are here as substitutes. Kermath took over Blue Lem March 1 when owner Harvey C. Fruehauf decided to leave the colt in Florida for the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park while head trainer French Lamoureaux headed north with the remainder of the string. After the Kentucky Derby, Blue Lem will be shipped back to Lamoureux in New England.

Head trainer Cecil Wilhelm sent Joe Enzlone, 43-year old ex-jockey, here to handle Honeys Alibi. Joe doubles in brass. He both trains and exercises Harry Warner's colt.

'Forgotten Men' Lollar and Nieman Spark Pale Hose

CHICAGO (UP)—Long known as a "good field, no hit" team, the Chicago White Sox have turned on the power with little respect for American League pitchers.

Leading their devastating attack which includes 24 home runs in 17 games are a couple of forgotten men—outfielder Bob Nieman and catcher Sherm Lollar.

* * *

Lollar is the same guy who hit seven home runs all last year and knocked in 34 runs with a .244 average. His showing prompted the Sox to deal with Baltimore for Clint Courtney last winter.

Nieman was the "throw in" in the deal which sent first baseman Ferris Fain to Detroit in exchange for Walt Dropo.

After making the Dropo deal, General Manager Frank Lane said: "If Dropo gets us 25 home runs and 100 RBI's, we'll give everybody a run for the pennant." Lane mentioned Nieman only hopefully saying "he might help us. You know he hits a long ball."

Dropo hasn't discouraged Lane's pennant hopes. Walt has hit five home runs and knocked in 13 runs while batting over .300. With Detroit last year he had four homers and 44 RBI's.

But Nieman, the man who didn't show enough in spring training to break into the starting lineup on Opening Day, has done even better. Nieman has five home runs and has driven in 19 while batting .340. With Detroit last season, Nieman hit 8 homers and batted in 35 runs in 91 games.

* * *

Lollar has been even more of a surprise. In last night's White Sox 5-3 victory over Washington, Lollar slammed his seventh home run, equalling last year's total, and knocked in his 15th run, slightly under his 1954 output.

GMC Opens State Baseball League Season on Saturday

General Motors Truck & Coach, Pontiac's entry in the Michigan State Baseball League, will open its season Saturday afternoon in a home game with Dearborn Heating at Wisner Field at 2:30.

Manager Paul Parks of the Coach nine has nominated Herman Bishop, who figures to be the ace of the GMC staff, to pitch the league opener.

Pontiac will play a return game at Dearborn on May 12, then go to Battle Creek for a twi-night double header May 14. The Coachers' 2nd appearance at home is not scheduled until May 29, when Battle Creek comes to Pontiac for a double header.

Mike Rogan, secretary of the MSBL and manager of the Dearborn entry, will bring a strong team in for the opener. His foremost pitcher is Alex Ropek, a "refugee" from the Brooklyn Dodger system, but Rogan expects to use either Bob Rock, an ex-Michigan Normal hurler, or Willis Hill, both right handers, against GMC.

Teams in the six-team state circuit include Saginaw, Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo, in addition to the three previously mentioned. A 20-game home and home schedule is set after which the leading team, percentagewise, from the eastern and western division of the loop, will meet in a title playoff.

In addition to Bishop, Parks has Dan Keating, Don Ernst, Dick Goldsworthy and Don Stone on his mound staff. His probable starting infield has Les Stone at 1st base, Bob Fell at 2nd, Bob Swindell at short and Grant Hefferman at 3rd.

Daryl McGlashen, Terry Thomas and either Ernie Zubliak or Jack Farms are the likely outfielder starters. Wes Roberts and Jim Berg will handle the catching chores for GMC.

Milford Looms as Favorite in W-O Track Test

Beat Wolves' Squad; Keego Wins; Reid Paces Viking Victory

Milford stood as a clear-cut favorite to add the Wayne-Oakland track title to the basketball crown the Redskins won last winter after Tuesday's triangular victory over defending champion Clarkston and Clarenceville.

Russ Gabier's thinclads scored 66½ points to 51 for Clarkston and 19½ for Clarenceville. Three other W-O schools hooked up in a triangular with West Bloomfield winning with 48 points to Brighton's 44 and Northville's 9.

Milford's only loss of the season was in its first meet to a strong Walled Lake team. Lee Averill set the pace Tuesday with firsts in both dashes and the broad jump and an anchor leg on the winning half-mile team.

Don Perkuchin won the shot and tied for first in the high jump. Clarkston's Gordon Campbell won the high hurdles and pole vault. Fifteen West Bloomfield boys accounted for points as superior balance gave Don Bradford's team its first victory of the season.

Walled Lake, which is hoping to regain its Inter-Lakes championship from Waterford this spring, downed another I-L rival, Southfield, in a dual meet, 62-47 Tuesday. John Reid led the Vikings by winning the high jump and 100-yard dash as well as running on the winning 880-relay team.

Gordon Hart won both hurdle events for the Bluejays. Conference champion Bob Quirk of Southfield showed that he'll be tough to beat in his specialty by checking in with a shot put of 46 feet, 10 inches.

Michigan Gridders in Good Condition

ANN ARBOR (UP) — University of Michigan football coach Bennie Oosterbaan said today his football squad appeared to be in "surprisingly good physical condition" at the halfway point of the spring drills.

Grand Rapids halfback Terry Barr continued his scoring rampage yesterday by sprinting for four touchdowns in an intra-squad scrimmage.

Bill Kolesar, a junior left tackle candidate from Mentor, Mich., was absent from scrimmage. Kolesar suffered a knee injury but was expected to return to the practice field in several days.

Kaycee Already Surpasses A's Philly Crowds

Draw More Fans in 14 Dates Than Team Did in 77 Last Year

KANSAS CITY (UP)—The Kansas City Athletics, a Philadelphia baseball firm for more than half a century, needed only 14 playing dates to attract more fans than the same club did in the Quaker City all last season.

Last night's 15,953 fans who watched the Athletics' 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles brought the home attendance to 306,474. That's 1,808 more than the 304,666 who paid to see the A's in Philadelphia for 77 games last year.

What's the attendance goal for Kansas City's venture into the modern major leagues? It hasn't been set, but the front office say the club will draw well over a million this season.

* * *

Park Carroll, business manager and vice president of the club, says the A's will be even more attractive on the second go-around. The Athletics wind up their first long home stand against Baltimore today then head East for a stretch that lasts Until May 24.

Carroll reasons there'll be hundreds of "first timers" from Westward points that will come in for the next A's home stand. Unfortunately, he says, many fans who would have liked to have been present for the first showing of such teams as the New York Yankees, Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox couldn't be supplied with tickets.

"Interest in cities and communities throughout the surrounding states continues at a high pitch. We'll do well over a million. Don't worry about that."

Athough Carroll didn't say it, the immediate goal is the 1,060,910 drawn by Baltimore last year. The Orioles, one year removed out of St. Louis, got in all their 77 games last year. They've lost three to the weather already this season.

Race Measure Dies in House

Bill Would Replace Inglis With a Three-Man Commission

LANSING (UP) — The house has killed a bill to replace the present racing commissioner with a three-man, bi-partisan commission.

Rep. Ed Carey (D-Detroit) said the bill would accomplish "absolutely nothing," then pushed through a motion to have it referred to committee "for the purpose of killing it."

Opponents argued racing commissioner James Inglis was doing a good job, and that there was no indication or irregularity in the management of Michigan race tracks.

Before the bill was killed, Rep. Herb Clements (R-Deckerville) amended it to prohibit track officials from handing out free passes.

Bears Lead I-L; Falcons Blank Avon, 1-0

Berkley won the first Inter-Lakes baseball showdown of the season Tuesday by pasting Southfield, 14-7, for undisputed possession of the first place in the conference.

Waterford, meanwhile, stumbled into a 3rd place tie with Van Dyke by absorbing a 10-1 licking at the hands of the Abes. Ther Berkley-Southfield game was marred by many errors and walks as the Bears scored 6 times in the 2nd inning on only 2 hits.

Bob Blackwell and Herb Duncan both saw action for Berkley, yielding 6 hits.

At Van Dyke, Bob Gordon spaced 7 Waterford hits effectively, while his mates were combing 3 Skipper hurlers for 9. The Abes tallied 6 runs in the 3rd inning on 3 hits. Waterford's lone run came on Tom Bryce's triple and a pinch single by Jerry Harnack.

In the other Inter-Lakes contest, Walled Lake evacuated the cellar by beating Farmington, 10-5. It was the Falcons' 4th straight loss, and the 1st win in 4 games for Walled Lake.

In one of the season's finest pitching duels, Rochester's Billy Henderson hung up a one-hit 1-0 shutout of Avondale as he bested the Yellowjackets' Lyn Wright.

Wright gave only 3 hits and whiffed 12. The Falcons' run was unearned in the 2nd inning as Rochester scored on an error, wild pitch, and John Burkhardt's sliced triple to left.

* * *

Toby Aldrich spoiled Henderson's no-hitter in the 4th with a single. Henderson fanned 7 and walked 2.

Oxford bowed to Clawson, 5-1, despite good pitching by Mike Benedict, but the Wildcats could gain only 2 hits. Their lone run came in the 5th on Dave Sweeney's triple and an infield out.

Tribe Beats Yanks to Keep Edge on Tigers

The Associated Press

In the American League, the Cleveland Indians whipped the New York Yankees 7-4 in their first head-to-head clash of the season. The Indians thus managed to hold their slender half-game league lead over the pressing Detroit Tigers, who topped the Boston Red Sox 4-2 on a two-run homer by the 20-year-old rookie sensation Al Kaline.

Billy Hoeft won his third straight for the Tigers.

The Kansas City Athletics beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-3 on a three-run homer by Bill Wilson in the eighth inning. The Chicago White Sox trimmed the Washington Senators 5-1.

Branch Rickey's Pittsburgh "Fuzz Kids" are now the "Nuisance Kids" of the National League.

While the haughty New York Giants and Milwaukee Braves are trying to maintain complete calm in the face of continuing reverses, the beardless Pirates are kicking up sawdust all over the place.

They have won three games in a row, and four of the last five. They're playing as if they really believe in Rickey's "five-year plan," which had 1955 fixed as the date for the pennant.

Of course, nobody seriously expects a pennant from Pittsburgh this soon. But they can expect surprises. The Pirates are young and brash—and winning.

* * *

Last night, a 29-year-old Baltimore castoff, Dick Littlefield, shut out the Milwaukee Braves on seven hits 4-0, stretching the Braves string of scoreless innigs to 22.

The Braves dropped seven full games back of the idle Brooklyn Dodgers and their only comfort was that the champion New York Giants were still another full game farther back.

* * *

The Giants were whitewashed by the Chicago Cubs' Bob Rush, who fashioned a tidy four-hitter. Bob Speake and Dee Fondy, with three triples between them, battered the Giants' ace Jim Hearn. The score was 6-0.

* * *

In the only other National League game, big Ted Kluszewski hit two of Cincinnati's home runs to down the Philadelphia Phillies 7-5.

Littlefield gave the Pirates their third straight top-flight pitching performance in beating the Braves. Ronnie Kline and young Bob Purkey did a similar workmanlike job on the St. Louis Cardinals earlier this week. There's not a player in the regular Pittsburgh lineup who has reached 30 years old.

* * *

Bob Rush kept the Cubs on Brooklyn's neck, but 5½ games back in second place, with a masterful pitching performance. Don Mueller, with a double and a single, and Monte Irvin, with two singles, were the only Giants to hit him and Mueller was the only one to get as far as second—with his double in the ninth.

Catcher Yogi Berra proved the "goat" of the Yankees loss to Cleveland. With the score tied 4-4 as the result of homers by Cleveland's Al Smith and Ralph Kiner and the Yanks' Mickey Mantle, Yogi muffed a throw-in which led to three unearned runs. Mike Garcia was the winning pitcher, Ed Lopat the loser.

At Kansas City, Wilson's three-run homer in the eighth saddled Irv Palica, Baltimore right-hander, with his third defeat.

Breaks Falling for Pirate Nine

Luck Finally Going to Bucs; Pitching Has Been Good Right Along

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Fred Haney, the long suffering manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates isn't particularly surprised that his youthful Pirates have won three consecutive games.

"It's just a matter of getting the breaks, "Haney said today. "We're getting great pitching lately, of course, but we're getting some of the breaks we didn't get when we lost our first eight games. We had some good pitching then, too, but it wasn't so much better than in our last few games."

* * *

In the last three games the Pirates have given up just one run and that was unearned. They now have a 6-11 record.

Dick Littlefield, castoff American League southpaw, pitched the Pirates to their fourth win in their last five starts last night as he gave up just seven hits, hurling a 4-0 shutout over the Milwaukee Braves.

Shamrocks, Rams in SCL Argument

Intra-city rivalry will furnish added interest for Thursday afternoon's Suburban Catholic League baseball game between Pontiac's two loop members, St. Michael and St. Frederick. The game will be played at Columbia-Joslyn's north end field with St. Mike as the host club.

* * *

Shamrocks have gained two victories while losing one, the spoiler being Highland Park St. Benedict. St. Fred has dropped three straight decisions. Dave Smith will hurl Thursday's encounter for St. Michael and the Rams will send Ed Kast to the hill in quest of their 1st win of the season.

Winning Close Game Is Keeping Cubs in Race

NEW YORK (AP)—What's keeping the Chicago Cubs in the first division?

"A new attitude and a new spirit," said Manager Stan Hack, whose surprising Cubs were breathing the rarified air of second place in the National League today on the wings of a four-game winning streak.

"I guess the boys just got tired of being doormats for the other clubs," he said. "You can take so much and no more. They just made up their minds to hustle a little bit more, to give that little extra college try and it's shown results.

* * *

"One of the big differences between this and last year's club is that we are winning the close ones. Last year we had nearly all of the one-run decisions go against us. Again, it's that little extra that has changed the one-run decisions to our favor."

Hack pointed to all-around performance of his dazzling second base combination of Ernie Banks and Gene Baker as a prime factor in the Cubs' early season success.

"I'd say that Banks and Baker form the best combination in the league right now," he said. "They were plenty good last year but now they are even better because of the added experience and because of more familitarity with each other's style."

* * *

Hack also heaped praise upon outfield rookies Bob Speake and Jim Bolger and sophomore catcher Harry Chiti for instilling new life into last year's seventh place club.

Purdue 9 Beats Irish for Athletic Cleanup

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers, who handed Notre Dame its only football defeat last fall, completed an athletic sweep of the Irish for the school year yesterday with a 3-2 baseball victory. Purdue beat Notre Dame in basketball, 78-58.

Pike Fishing Best From Morning to Mid-Day

By MORT NEFF

At the recent "Fisherman's Clinic" for Michigan anglers, staged at the University of Michigan Yost Field House some remarkable facts were revealed by fish biologists which will undoubtedly make life more hazardous for several species of fish this season.

Typical of the fine talks delivered to a large group of "student" anglers came from John E. Williams of the Institute for Fisheries Research. Williams ventured to offer a few methods of bettering your luck while pike fishing.

The great northern pike, considered one of our most sought-after game fish in Michigan, does practically all of his feeding during daylight hours. At night he's sulking or sleeping deep in the weeds, and succulent minnows can swim inches from his pugnacious nose without danger of extermination. Come the dawn and he's on the prowl for food—food that must be obtained in large quantities, for the well-fed pike may grow as much as 20 inches in his first year of life!

The peak of his feeding activity may be almost at mid-day, according to Williams, when other fish seem to be only slightly interested in food or bait of any kind. Getting up before sunrise to fish for pike, or lingering in the lake after sunset is a waste of time, the giologist pointed out.

A hungry pike feeds viciously. While some fish will trail their prey for some distance in the chase before striking and taking it tail first the pike delivers a lethal blow with a rush.

Chrome-plated spoons have taken more than half of the really big fish in the pike family according to contest records, and the hooks must be very sturdy.

Because the pike probably has the spoon crosswise in its mouth at the moment of the strike, the angler must set the hooks with an extra hard surge of the rod tip.

10 Horses Possible Starters in Derby

Sam Snead's Golf School

Welcome, new golfers! And let me say beginners—and many others—are apt to grip the club as shown in the left illustration. That's wrong! To grip the right way, move the thumb over until it is opposite the tip of the forefinger. Then, when the right hand closes over this left hand the two are properly locked and that left thumb provides important support for the shaft by being under the shaft at the top of the backswing. You will find by experimenting that there is actually a big difference when you swing the club with the thumb in the wrong position as compared to swinging it in the correct position. Try it. I am dwelling on the left hand work in the grip because, while the grip of both hands is extremely important, the left predominates.

Rosen Is Shelved by Pulled Muscle

CLEVELAND (UP)—The Cleveland Indians lost the services today of their slugging 3rd baseman, Al Rosen, for at least 10 days with a pulled muscle in his left leg.

Rosen suffered the injury in the 2nd game of yesterday's double header victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Manager Al Lopez said he would use the veteran Hank Majeski, a steady utility infielder, in Rosen's spot until he returns to action.

The 1955 Indianapolis Speedway race will be the 39th annual.

Classic Race Might Gross Over $150,000

Nashua Makes Friends After Brisk Workout at Churchill Downs

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The field for Saturday's running of the $125,000 added Kentucky Derby today stood at eight definite and two probable starters after Flying Fury's thrilling but unimpressive victory in the Derby Trial.

On the definite list, as they have been all week, are Nashua, Summer Tan, Swamps, Racing Fool, Flying Fury, Jean's Joe, Blue Lem and Honeys Alibi. The two probables are Nabesna and Trim Destiny.

* * *

Should all 10 start, the race will gross $152,500 with the winner taking down a net of $108,400. Thanks to an increase of $25,000 in added money by Churchill Downs, the race is the richest in its 81 years.

Post time is 4:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time. From 4:15 to 4:45 the race will be carried on 212 radio and 163 television stations by CBS.

There was nothing in the result of the Trial yesterday to jar any of the followers of Nashua and Summer Tan.

* * *

Pari-mutuel officials predicted the big bay from William Woodward's Belair stud will open at 4 to 5 and possibly go off at even shorter odds. Nashua picked up additional supporters, both among horsemen and laymen, yesterday when he stepped a mile in 1 minute 37.6 seconds and worked out the full Derby distance of a mile and a quarter in 2 minutes 5.6 seconds. The Derby record of 2:01.4 is held by Whirlaway. It was set in 1941.

* * *

Summer Tan, carrying the hopes of Mrs. John W. Galbreath, of Galloway, Ohio, was quoted at 2 to 1 with Rex Ellsworth's Swaps, choice of the West, third in line at 6 to 1.

One needs only to look at Flying Fury's time in the trial to see that neither he or any of those in back of him figure to menace the favorites. Flying Fury was clocked in 1:38 as he beat the Murcain Stable's Jean's Joe by a nose. That time was two fifths of a second slower than Nashua worked.

PHS' Linksmen Decide Lineup for Port Huron

Pontiac High School's golfing will face Port Huron today in a non-conference encounter at Port Huron. It will be the 1st of two straight days of action for the Chiefs.

Coach John Maturo called for an intra-squad playoff Tuesday afternoon to determine today's lineup. Tom Jacobson fired 41, Jerry Richards shot 42, and Truman Hammett posted a 44, enabling them to join Bill Martin and Tom Cross. Martin and Cross had the 1st two positions already secured.

Port Huron could very well be a sound warmup for Thursday's Valley engagement with Flint Northern at Pontiac's Municipal course. The Chiefs will be seeking revenge against Northern after losing a close one to the Vikings last Thursday.

'Sugar' to Battle Panter in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson's comeback campaign completes its 1st full circle tonight and the former middleweight champ still is trying to get it straightened out on the road to another title shot.

Robinson is scheduled for 10 non-televised rounds against Garth Panter of Salt Lake City, a familiar TV performer who has lost six of his last seven starts.

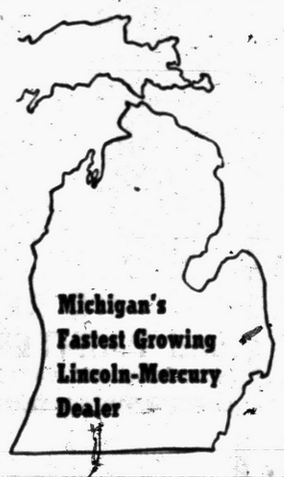

In his heyday Robinson could have whipped Panter with one hand. The result tonight is a little less certain.

Robinson opened his comeback at Detroit's Olympia Stadium in January with a six-round kayo of Joe Rindone.

Keego Golfers Win

West Bloomfield High School's golfers toured Davisburg Golf Club in 239 strokes Tuesday to win a 5-man match from Holly, 239-260. Dick Murphy led the Keego links squad with a 45, a score matched by Rollie Harmes of Holly.

Youngsters Aid Park Cleanup

Grand Haven Youths Do Fine Job in Only Three Hours

LANSING—Five hundred youngsters sailed through Grand Haven state park recently, bent on doing their bit to help put the popular Lake Michigan park in shape for the summer season.

The youthful clean-up, fix-up army removed 3,000 feet of snow fence and posts, 40 drum-loads of trash and a truckload of logs from the beach in about three hours.

Then they devoured 1,400 hot dogs, 600 cups of ice cream and 40 gallons of orange drink, provided by the Grand Haven Chamber of Commerce.

Park manager Louis Haney said the whirlwind work project helped considerably to relieve the springtime work load facing his park crew. Already, the park has entertained about 100,000 visitors this year, but considerable more effort is needed for the million-plus visitors expected this year.

House Puts OK on Small Game Bill

LANSING (AP) — A bill shortening the small game season in Southern Michigan passed the house yesterday.

Introduced by Rep. Walter Nakkula (R-Gladwin), the bill changes the opening date on small game in zone 3 from Oct. 1 to Oct. 20. Cosing dates would remain the same.

The bill also provides for changing the boundary between zones 2 and 3 for purposes of small game management.

Under the measure, zone 3 would be that area lying south of M55. At present, the boundary between zones 2 and 3 is M20.

The measure now goes to the senate.

Rainbow Trout Are Popular With Early-Season Anglers

By JACK PATTERSON

Perhaps because it is our only native trout (except the lake trout, which doesn't count) the brook trout, or "speck" or squaretail — whatever one wishes to call him — is the top favorite with early season anglers.

PATTERSON

Not so smart as the brown, nor so spectacular a fighter as the rainbow, the brookie makes up for it with a constant willingness to tangle with the fisherman under any and all circumstances. He eats better than other trout, too.

Although many of Michigan's "name" streams offer fair to good brook trout fishing, the real stronghold of these little fighters is in the small, clear streams not too readily accessible to the highways.

If suitable water temperatures, feed and spawning conditions are present in such a stream, an astonishing annual harvest of fish can be taken without fear of depletion, and without artificial restocking.

On such a stream, the other day, after enough fish were caught to suit our purpose, we tried a variety of lures to find something that the fish wouldn't take.

* * *

Dry flies, wet flies, nymph, wet flies and streamers fished dry, dry flies fished wet, spinners and everything else handy were tossed to the trout and they took everything with equal abandon. Guess they were just hungry.

Learned again the usefulness of a stationary streamer, held in one spot downstream, with maybe just a bit of a wiggle now and then. We have noted in the past that this dodge works well on browns and rainbows, too.

After fishing a beaver pond without result and then later hashing over pond fishing in general with Dr. Vern Abbott, we concluded that there are more arguments in favor of knocking out beaver dams, where improvement of trout fishing is the aim, than in allowing them to remain.

It is true that waters impounded by a beaver dam will provide good fishing for a few years after formation, but silting, in time, makes the pond suitable only for chubs. And, more important, impounded waters are apt to warm up to the point where marginal conditions for trout survival will exist for a considerable distance downstream.

* * *

In cleaning fish we noted a heavy proportion of females to males—about three to one. This same lopsided apportionment was noted by the Clarke-Voorhees-Gatley "axis" at the Woodland Springs Club.

Presence of so many egg-laden fish might be alarming to the conservation minded were it not for assurance by competent authority that brook trout are autumn spawners. Maybe some of these fish forgot to check with the authorities.

Oakland County rainbow fishermen are getting in some licks on the 'bows. Realtor Charley Wood took a two-plus pounder from Maceday Lake a day or so ago, and Joe Bennett advises that some of his conferers in the eengineering section at Pontiac Motor Division have been taking some good fish from Clarkston's Deer Lake.

Pontiac Press Photo

HIS RECORD FISH — W. F. Johnstone, 4960 Estes drive, RFD 4, Pontiac, here displays the biggest fish he ever caught. The lunker was a northern pike, taken from the AuSable river at Camp 10 bridge, near Mio, Sunday. It weighed 13½ pounds, was 29½ inches long and gave the angler a rough time before being landed. Johnstone had to bring the fish in eight times before it jammed between two logs. He's going to have the prize mounted.

Powerful Bait Explodes

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Tony Heine, operator of a sporting goods store, noticed an odd, fishy odor and investigated. A bottle of catfish bait had exploded.

Now he is telling his fishermen friends to be careful with the bottled bait, since it is powerful and definitely aromatic.

NEW YORK — The 1954 Giants were fifth in hitting and sixth in fielding but they came through with the National league pennant.

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP)—Basketball officials completed a neat triple-play during a girls' game at the College of Charleston.

Coed Shirley Irwin injured her ankle. Official R. B. Halsall picked her up to carry her off the floor. Official Mouse Halsall rushed up and took over R. B.'s burden to the edge of the court, where a 3rd official gathered her in and carried her to the dressing rooms.

"It's all in a day's work," shrugged Howard Burmeister, the 3rd official.

Wild Turkeys Might Come Back in State

LANSING (AP) — Wild turkeys may be on the comeback in southwestern Michigan, conservation officials said Tuesday.

The state conservation department released 200 of the big birds in the Allegan area last year. Employes report finding a nest with 12 eggs in the area where the birds were released.

It didn't take Harry Snure long to show the pros how to do it.

YOUR SPRING FLOWER GARDEN—3

The Tulip

The bold-colored tulip, which people generally associate with Holland, came originally, 400 years ago, from Constantinople in Turkey. The name tulip itself comes from a Turkish word meaning turban.

This beautiful blossom grows tall and straight. It may be pink, orange, yellow, bright red, white or nearly black. There are thousands of varieties of tulips.

At one time, the flower was so popular in Europe that individual bulbs sold for huge prices. People invested money in the "tulip market" just as a man today would invest in steel or oil.

Growing tulips is an important industry in Holland today, as well as in many parts of this country.

Alice is measuring the flowers in her garden and finds they are about a foot and a half tall.

Color the tulips in different shades. Then add the drawing to your spring flower collection.

Tomorrow: The flower named for a boy.

Army Tests Ice Subways in Glaciers of Greenland

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army is experimenting with subways dug into the ice as a means of travel across Greenland's eternal arctic icecap.

If the experiment is a success, presumably there would be a network of subways through the 700,000 square miles of ice, dozens of feet deep.

Experimental tunnels and corridors have been maintained by the Army several years. One goes down to a depth of more than 150 feet.

An advance party of 940 men left Ft. Belvoir, Va., recently to conduct additional tests and experiments to see if subway networks would allow defense forces on strategic Greenland to move about under the icecap instead of trying to overcome virtually impossible arctic surface conditions.

* * *

First a trench will be plowed 25 feet deep and 12 feet wide. This will be covered with frozen blocks of snow to make a subway.

One objective of the expedition will be to chart paths for the subway system, and to build experimental roads and airfields on the snow surface at various important points.

The engineers will also construct experimental undersnow storage areas, warehouses, garages and aircraft hangars.

To Begin Building Y

SAGINAW (AP)—Officials of the Saginaw YMCA say they will begin construction of a new $1,150,000 building in August. That amount was raised in a building drive aimed at $1,500,000, spokesmen said.

The 18 per cent of U.S. highways that get federal aid carry 42 per cent of the traffic.

New Kelvinator Head Named by AM Corp.

DETROIT (AP)—Appointment of J. W. Lelivelt to the newly created post of manager of manufacturing for American Motors Corp.'s Kelvinator Division has been announced by B. A. Chapman, vice president and general manager.

Lelivelt has been works manager of the company's Grand Rapids plant for the past seven years. He will head manufacturing and procurement operations in Kelvinator's Grand Rapids and Detroit appliance plans as well as plastics operations in Wisconsin and Michigan. His headquarters will be in Detroit.

Lelivelt named George H. Beld, now assistant Grand Rapids works manager, to succeed him.

In England, alfalfa is called lucerne.

Stocks Working Slightly Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market worked its way a little higher today in early dealings.

Most changes in either direction were small, but gains ran to between 1 and 3 points while losses extended to between 1 and 2 points.

Steels were somewhat lower at the opening and then turned higher and a few key stocks sold off. The coppers were higher along with aircrafts, oils, radio-televisions and utilities. The rest of the market was mixed.

Today's turn upward reversed the sharp fall experienced yesterday when the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down $1.80 at $163.00. Near the close yesterday, a recovery movement appeared to get under way, and that swing was apparent today at the start.

A block of 1,000 shares of American Airlines went at 26⅝ off ¼, and among other blocks were U.S. Steel 1,000 off ⅛ at 85⅞, Anaconda Copper 1,500 up ⅝ at 60½, General Motors 1,500 off ½ at 97⅛, Pan American World Airways 1,500 up ½ at 18⅞, Boeing 2,500 up ¾ at 61¾, and RCA 2,200 up ¾ at 43⅝.

Small Town Boy Picks Up Reins of Corporation on Fairless Retirement

NEW YORK (AP)—The affairs of "big steel" today were in the hands of a small-town boy turned history teacher and corporation corporation lawyer — Roger M. Blough, 51.

Blough picked up the reins of United States Steel Corp., biggest steel producer in the world, from Benjamin F. Fairless who retired yesterday upon reaching his 65th birthday.

The man who heads the $2,350,000,000 complex of steelmaking facilities was described by associates as a studious man, with simple tastes and a quick wit.

He has an apartment on Park Avenue but his permanent residence is a country home near Hawley, Pa., in the Pocono Mountains. In his early days he taught history and became supervising principal of the high school there.

Asked about hobbies, Blough said:

"I like to work in the garden at Hawley. And golf and reading. I'm no card player, though."

He is married and has twin daughters, Jane and Judith Ann, both attending Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass.

He is the sixth board chairman in the company's history. His predecessors, in order, were Elbert H. Gary, Myron C. Taylor, Edward R. Stettinius Jr., Irving S. Olds and Fairless.

U.S. Electrical Output Tops Same Week in '54

NEW YORK (AP) — Electrical energy distributed in this country last week totaled 9,699,000,000 kilowatt hours, up 15.6 per cent over the 8,390,000,000 kilowatt hours distributed in the same week a year ago, Edison Electric Institute reported today.

Last week's output also topped that of the week before, which was 9,697,000,000 kilowatt hours.

All sections of the country showed increases over the year-ago period: New England was up 12.7 per cent, mid-Atlantic 9.7, central industrial 20, West Central 5, Southeast 22.6, South Central 10.5, Rocky Mountain 7.6, Pacific Northwest 13, and Pacific Southwest 12.3.

Ore Tonnage Rising

CLEVELAND (AP)—Iron ore cargoes brought downlakes topped the two million ton mark in the week just ended. It's the first time the weekly total has been that high this year. The 2,044,959 tons which the Lake Superior Iron Ore Assn. reported the fleet had hauled brought the season total to 4,116,371 tons. In 1954 up to May 2, the total tonnage of ore was not quite half that figure.

GM to Pay $1 Dividend

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp. has declared a dividend of $1 on the common stock, payable June 10 to stockholders of record May 12. It paid the same amount in March.

College Teacher Need in 15 Years Set at 50,000

NEW YORK (INS) — Delegates to the National Association of State Universities were told in New York today that 50,000 new university teachers will be needed in the next 15 years.

The delegates heard that this figure represents the lowest estimate of teachers that will be required by the institutions of higher learning by 1970.

President Deane W. Malott of Cornell University warned, however, that present trends indicate that, instead of recruiting the 50,000 teachers required, universities will lose 100,000 from their present staffs by 1970, and thus will be 150,000 short of faculty strength.

The big reason for a fall-off of teachers in training, Malott said, is financial. Teachers have lost five per cent of their purchasing power since 1940, he said, while industrial workers have gained 48 per cent. He conceded that the problem is serious, in view of swollen budgets and inflationary costs encountered by city, state and federal governments.

A-Union Leaders Eye Ending Strike

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Leaders of 12 unions picketing the strike-bound Sandia base atomic center have called meetings for tonight to decide whether the nine-day strike should end.

Two union spokesmen, who met with President Eisenhower's atomic labor - management relations panel headed by Cyrus Ching, will place before the 2,650 members of the striking unions a request from the government for an end to the strike.

The strike against Sandia Corp., a subsidiary of Western Electric, began April 26 over higher wages, bargaining powers and other benefits.

775,000 on Schedule for May, as Demand Continues Strong

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP) — The three millionth passenger car to be built this year rolled from the auto industry's assembly lines today.

Its appearance emphasized the sizzling production pace the car industry has maintained so far this year. In the record year of 1950 it was the last week of June before the three millionth car was completed.

But in 1950 more cars were built in the second half of the year than in the first six months. Whether the industry can maintain its present production rate over into the third quarter of the year is somewhat debatable.

Nevertheless projections for the current month indicate another 775,000 cars will be built. That would bring the 5-month total to about 3,671,000 assemblies. Last year that figure was not achieved until near the end of August.

If you take the word of the major car makers for it, there is no present indication that new car demand will level off for several months. They are not presently talking about a reeession in demand until well after mid-year.

Most recent figures indicate the new car retailers are delivering more than 22,000 cars a day. The factories, meanwhile have been producing more than 30,000 units daily. That, of course, means inventories are mounting.

If mounting inventories worry the retailers they are not making much fuss about it. Many apparently are proceeding on the assumption that as long as they continue to cut prices high demand for new cars will hold up.

Whether that thinking is correct, of course, will not become apparent until after mid-year. That's the time when retail demand normally levels off.

Some car makers insist seasonal factors no longer have a vital part in the car market. In support of this view they point to the large sales volume recorded in the latter part of the last several years, notably 1950, 1952, 1953 and 1954.

Some sales executives say this year's July-December sales volume will closely match that of the year's first six months. Of course, this year's July-December sales will include a substantial number of 1956 models.

Some of these models will be on the assembly lines in September. Others will reach that stage in October. Generally the 1956 model introductions will be about 3 to 4 weeks earlier than their immediate predecessors.

Counted upon also to stimulate retail demand during the weeks immediately ahead are the new 4-door hardtop sedans. Buick and Oldsmobile are stepping up their output of these newest models and other manufacturers have 4-door hardtops in their planning for 1956.

Mediators Expected to Enter Mine Strike

CALUMET (UP)—Federal and state mediators today were expected to enter the dispute between striking CIO United Steelworkers and the Calumet Division of Calumet & Hecla, Inc.

The division's 1,848 hourly rated and 400 salaried workers left their jobs Monday.

So far there has been no disturbance of any nature around the mines.

Officials still have not determined whether the workers should man the pumps used to keep water out of the mines. But one union official said the pumps probably would be manned so the workers could return to their jobs after the strike is settled.

Engineers estimated that the mines would fill with water at the rate of 40 feet per day unless pumps operate.

Change of Pace Holds Audience

Each Show of Series Has Star in Different Role and New Plot

By WAYE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Loretta Young is nearing the end of a second successful season on television with a show that ignores the formula of the usual film series.

Other TV stars appearing on a weekly basis stick to one role for the star and the same basic situation, Loretta plays a different role and uses a different situation each week, with no effort at continuity. Each of her Sunday night shows is complete in itself.

* * *

One result is that the viewer is less apt to tire of the show. He may not like this week's episode but can tune in next week knowing it will be entirely different.

Fact is, some of Miss Young's programs are oversentimental and sticky sweet. But she has change of pace and frequently turns in challenging performances, as in her recent "Dateline Korea" in which she played the role of a hard-boiled woman newspaper correspondent.

* * *

She also has played schoolteacher, nurse, woman executive, office girl, test pilot's wife and many other roles. Inevitably there have been two or thre strongly reminiscent of her Oscar-winning part in the movie "Farmer's Daughter" in 1947, in which she took the part of a maid of Swedish ancestry.

Miss Young, 41, is one of the most successful former movie stars to come into television. Her show last Sunday completed the new episodes filmed for the current season, which ends in early June. However, she will resume production in late June to accumulate a backlog for the new season, starting in late August.

Postal Pay Hike of 8.8 Pct. OK'd

House-Senate Group Risks Ike's Veto With Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Risking a possible presidential veto, a Senate-House conference committee has agreed on an 8.8 per cent pay increase for half a million postal workers.

The conference group yesterday settled on a figure below the 10 per cent salary increase voted by th Senate but higher than the 8.3 per cent passed by the House.

* * *

Sen. Olin D. Johnson (D-SC) of the conference committee said afterward, "It is believed that the agreement is one which can be passd immediately by both the Senate and the House and approved by the President."

But President Eisenhower has indicated he would not accept any postal pay boost bigger than 7.6 per cent. Some Congress members said it is doubtful a veto of the compromise bill could be overriden.

The House may act on the postal pay compromise Friday. The Senate may get to it next week.

* * *

Under the compromise, each postal worker would get a minimum 7 per cent pay hike. A reclassification of salaries would account for the additional 1.8 per cent. The administration has urged such a reshuffling to do away with inequities.

It was estimated the pay increase would cost about 178 million dollars a year. The raise would be retroactive to March 1.

Scars Too Well Hidden for Even Doctor to Find

OMAHA (AP) — Doctors following the modern trend of putting vaccination marks where they won't show on little girls who later will wear formal gowns or swim suits, created a problem. A school nurse sent a first-grader home with this note:

"Our records show your daughter vaccinated twice. I can't find them. Please inform me of location of vaccinations."

Realistic Stage Toupee Grows, Sheds Dandruff

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—One of the big laughs in "The Honeys," the new farce comedy, concerns a bald man (played by Hume Cronyn) who has toupees of various shades and lengths—one of them quite long so that the wearer looks like he needs a haircut. To make it more realistic, he sprinkles some Epsom Salts on his collar—that's the real convincer—his "dandruff."

Romanian Maestro Dies at 73 in Paris

PARIS (AP)—Georges Enesco, 73, Romanian composer, conductor and violinist, died today after a long illness. A stroke last July left him partly paralyzed.

Enesco made several visits to the United States, making his last a concert tour in 1946.

He lived in France more than 50 years but never acquired French citizenship. The Romanian Embassy in Paris appealed vainly to him several months ago to return to his Communist homeland.

Enesco is survived by his widow, Marie Rosetti-Tescano, a former Romanian princess. They married in 1936. There were no children.

The Library of Congress in Washington was burned by the British in 1812 and other fires in 1825 and 1851 destroyed much of the collection of books.

Foreign Trade Appears Rosy

Commerce Department Official Gives Optimistic Report to C. of C.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A gathering of American businessmen today received an optimistic forecast of "buoyant," growing foreign trade in the next year for the United States and most of its free world partners.

This forecast was given by E. E. Schnellbacher in remarks prepared for a breakfast arranged by the American Chambers of Commerce Abroad, a division of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which ends its 43rd annual meeting here today. Schnellbacher is intelligence director for the Commerce Department's Bureau of Foreign Commerce.

* * *

Schnellbacher said he foresaw increased export and import volumes as well as lowering of foreign trade barriers.

If the present "upsurge of industrial activity" in this country continues, Schnellbacher said, the United States may very well enlarge its raw material purchases from Latin America, Canada and other areas.

* * *

The outlook is further improved, he said, by the fact that most nations bolstered their dollar reserves in 1954 and now may be ready to stop building those reserves.

"If dollar earnings (of foreign countries) continue to increase in the year ahead," Schnellbacher said, "foreign nations may well open up their markets further to U.S. products, rather than increase the rate of accumulation of their dollar assets."

* * *

But he emphasized that competition is becoming keener and that U.S. sales probably will require "large doses of good old-fashioned trade promotion efforts."

Beulah VFW Supports Hoover Report on VA

BEULAH (AP)—Edward Robinson, commander, said Tuesday Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 7544 in Beulah has gone on record in favor of the Hoover Commission report on medical services for veterans.

This stand is at variance with that of national VFW which is highly critical of the report. Robinson said the post members were asked to support the position of the national organization but, after a discussion, agreed they would endorse the Hoover Commission report.

Grandmother Finds Uranium

Woman Offered Million for Claims Staked Out in New Mexico

FARMINGTON, N.M. (AP) — A grandmother who started two years ago with a Geiger counter and a notion to give her ill husband some air is contemplating an offer of more than one million dollars for one block of uranium claims.

Mrs. Jeanette V. Martin, said her claim is in the Sabinosa area in northeast New Mexico, about 40 miles west of Las Vegas.

"Yes, we've had several offers for our claim and we've really only dug into one-third of them," she said.

Mrs. Martin and an Army colonel who is a "weekend prospector" are partners in the venture. The colonel, Benjamin E. Thurston, a career soldier, is at Camp Chaffee, Ark., as a training inspector. He has been in the Army 29 years.

Mrs. Martin said she and Thurston had 500 claims of 20 acres each on federal land.

Mrs. Martin and her husband, who was "a roughneck on an oil rig," came to this booming oil and uranium center from Los Angeles seven years ago.

"At first I started going out with a $30 Geiger counter to give Vearle some outings," she said. "Then one thing led to another and here we are. Now we've got a major project."

Mrs. Martin's husband suffered from a head, back and neck injury.

Thurston is a native of Minneapolis.

House Group Supports Cut in GI Strength

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Appropriations subcommittee has rejected a move aimed at avoiding a planned cut of 75,000 in Army strength during the coming fiscal year.

Rep. Flood (D-Pa) disclosed today he had failed in an effort to get the subcommittee to add about 750 million dollars to funds for the Army during the year starting July 1. He told newsmen he would try again tomorrow when the full Appropriations Committee meets to consider a multibillion-dollar bill to finance the armed services.

If necessary, he said, he will carry his fight to the House floor.

The administration's defense policy—based on greater reliance on air power and new weapons—contemplates scaling down all of the armed services except the Air Force. Plans call for the Army to be down to 1,102,000 men by June 30, 1956.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff, has opposed the Army cut, contending atomic age warfare calls for more, rather than fewer, fighting men.

Flood paralleled Ridgway's argument in saying "I cannot agree that atomic warfare presppose the need for fewer ground troops."

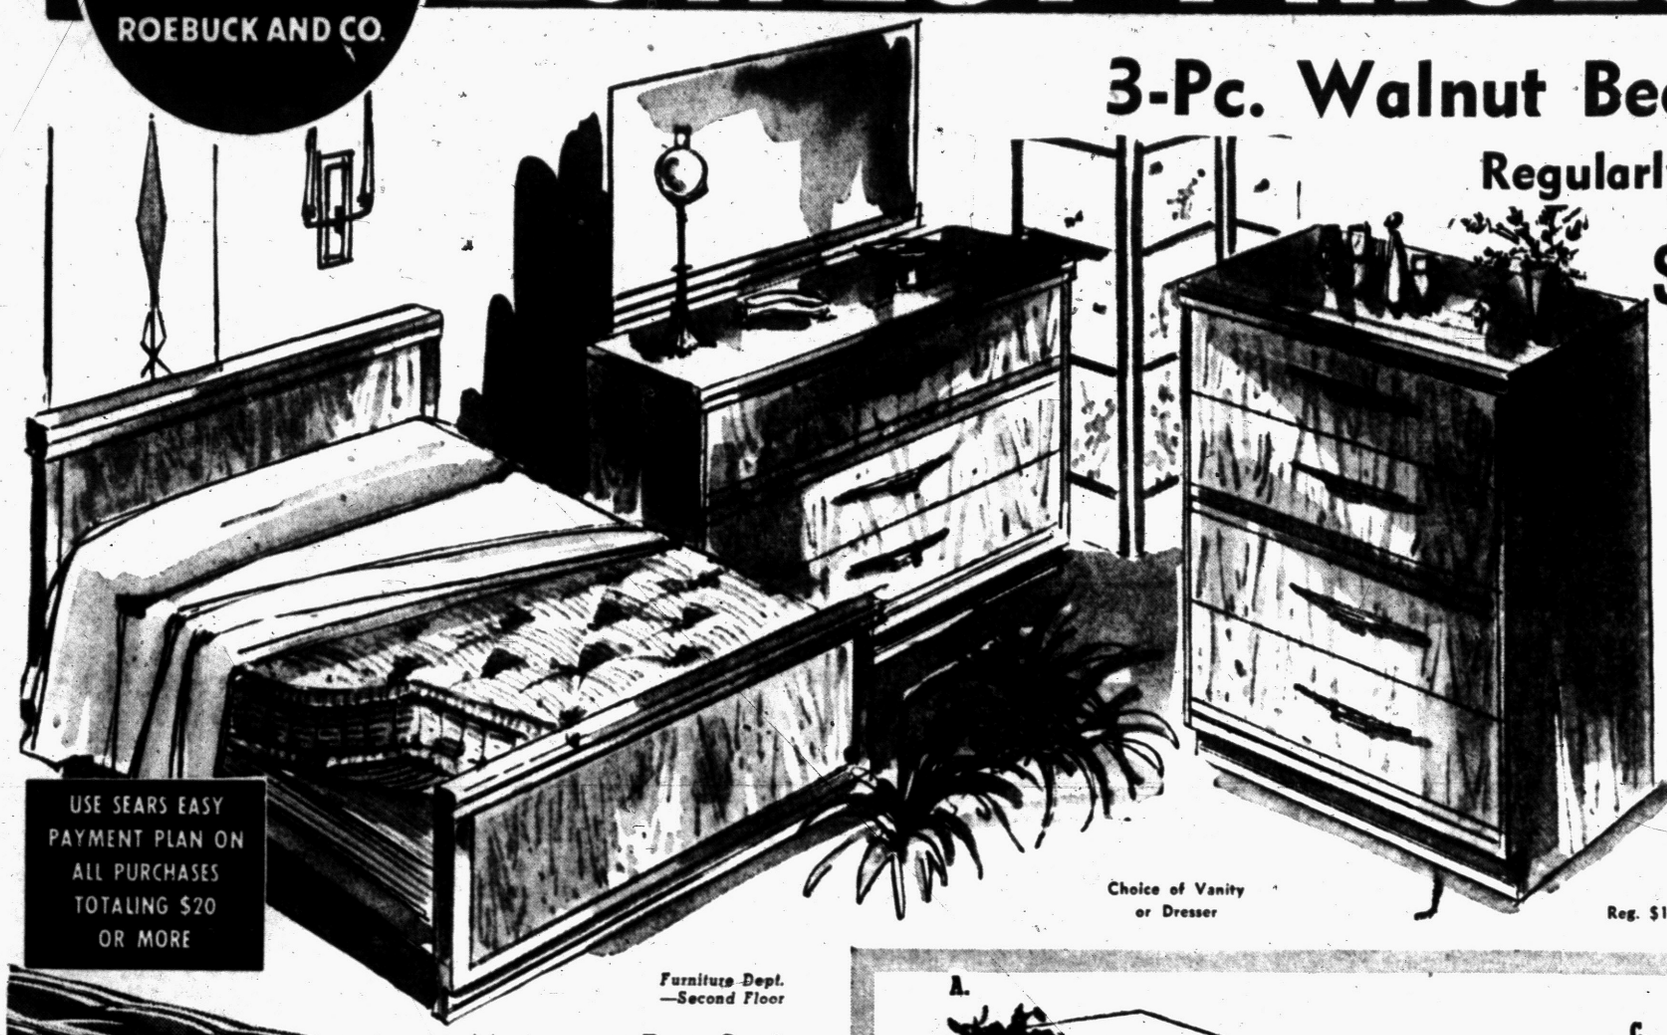

And So There You Are

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's National Railway Corp. today explained why it plans abolishing first-class coach service in June. First-class coaches, little better but twice a costly, operate at only 30 per cent capacity "and most of those are corporation and government officials riding on free passes."
