RECIPE FOR REVIVAL — Go soak your head is sage advice in these sweltering days, and Mary T. Samson, 20, of 1254 Atkinson St. goes the saying one better, by soaking all of her.

Blast-Furnace Heat Won't Let Up for Day

12 m.	77	6 a.m.	73	11 a.m.	82
2 a.m.	75	8 a.m.	76	12 m.	80
4 a.m.	74	9 a.m.	80	1 p.m.	82

Although the first bit of cooling news came from the Weather Bureau today, Pontiac area residents were warned that they could expect at least another day of sweltering weather.

This area was gripped in its third day of torrid temperatures which had most of eastern half of the nation panting also.

The first sign of some relief from this first summer heat wave is predicted for tomorrow night, after Wednesday's mercury soars around an expected 90-94 mark.

Accompanying this hot, sticky and stifling weather, the bureau predicted, will be showers or thunderstorms tonight and tomorrow.

Another night of no-blanket sleeping was promised for this area as tonight's low was predicted to stay around 75.

JUST SHORT OF RECORD

Monday's high of 94 degrees at 2:20 p.m. was one degree shy of a June 17 record of 95 reached in 1921.

★ ★ ★

Two persons drowned in Michigan yesterday and a 25-year-old mother of three was killed by lightning. The drowning victims were Al Castle, 22, of Benton Harbor, and Robert Pihaylie, 14, of Twining.

Mrs. Wanda Baird was struck by the bolt while she was removing washing in the back yard of her Byron Center home.

Many sections of the nation yesterday experienced record temperatures for June 17. Chicago baked in a 1887-record breaking 96, while Philadelphia had 98, New York City, 93, and Newark, N. J. 97.

A tornado did $10,000 damage to Marshalltown, Iowa. No injuies were reported.

Michigan State Police reported no funnels touching the ground in the state.

In downtown Pontiac the lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. was 73. At 2 p.m., the mercury read 84.

Schimmel Wins by 22

Adds 11 Votes to First Tally in Edging Ludy

Recount Affirms Seat on City School Board for Incumbent

Louis H. Schimmel doubled his vote margin over Lloyd R. Ludy in last night's recount of the Pontiac School Board election of June 10 to retain his board seat.

Schimmel wound up with 1,340 votes to Ludy's 1,318, a gain of 11 over the results of the election night tally. His victory margin now stands at 22.

The election recount began at 9 p.m. last night and concluded at midnight. The four largest precincts, Bagley, Jefferson, Washington and Webster were counted first. Schimmel gained three votes in Bagley while Ludy lost one.

NOT AFFECTED

The other candidates were not affected by the recount results. William H. Anderson, front runner, lost 10 votes, but continued as the pacesetter with a total of 1,558.

Robert B. Oliver came out with the same count as earlier, 1,127 votes.

Other precincts in which there were changes were: Crofoot, LeBaron and Wilson, but they were minor.

★ ★ ★

Less than a half dozen ballots were challenged all night by the watchers appointed by both Schimmel and Ludy. Ludy himself was present all through the recount.

At the end Ludy said he was well satisfied with the outcome as an expression of the people's wishes, and he thought the recount was well handled and perfectly fair.

Harold W. Dudley, board attorney, instructed the recounters in how to recognize an improperly marked ballot, although any questionable ones were decided by the board of canvassers consisting of Mrs. Lola B. King, chairman, and Dr. Walter L. Godsell, Glenn H. Griffin and Monroe M. Osmun.

Businessmen Hear About City:

Bright Industrial Future Seen

"Never has the manufacturing future of this city been so bright," Fitzgerald told a group of 125 businessmen who had gathered at the City Hall commission chambers.

They were told by Alfred C. Girard, president of the group, of the two-step program of the association with an aim to "revitalize downtown Pontiac."

The first will be an immediate program of promotion by downtown merchants, with an eye toward new ideas in cooperative merchandising. The association is seeking $35,000 in membership dues to finance this phase.

The second step, Girard outlined, will be to launch a "long range program of planning relative to transportation, rehabilitation and parking."

The association proposes to join with the city in financing a study to be made by a nationally recognized transportation engineering firm under the supervision of Geer Associates, planning consultants hired by the city this year.

TWO-FOLD PURPOSE

The purpose of this study will be two-fold. The first will be a survey of transportation and parking, while the second will focus on the redevelopment of the "loop area."

This long range program will require upwards to $50,000 to carry out, Girard said. Of this amount, $35,000 has been pledged to date.

In his talk to the group, Fitzgerald, publisher of The Pontiac Press, looked over future expansion plans of Pontiac's three General Motors plants—GMC Truck & Coach, Fisher Body, and Pontiac Motor Division.

★ ★ ★

He urged that the city and people move out ahead and join with this optimistic industrial expansion.

In Field of Communism

Congressional Criticism Hits at Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two new Supreme Court decisions in the field of communism today set off congressional criticism of recent rulings of the high court.

Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va) said the 1940 anti-subversive law which bears his name is "perfectly clear" in its intent. He suggested there is no use trying to amend the statute so long as the law turns into "whatever the present court interprets it to be."

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) said he is afraid the court has "put us back where we were 20 years ago" in the legal battle against Communists.

Smith and Jenner referred in interviews to yesterday's Supreme Court decision overturning, 6-1, Smith Act convictions of 14 California Communists. Five were freed and new trials ordered for the other nine.

In a second ruling, the court struck down the contempt of Congress conviction of labor official John T. Watkins. Here too the vote was 6-1, with Justice Clark dissenting in both decisions.

Watkins had been convicted of contempt of Congress for refusing to tell a House Un-American Activities subcommittee in 1954 the names of former Communist associates. Watkins said he was not a Communist but he acknowledged having worked with some Communists in the labor movement.

Japan Can't Try Girard, Rules Judge

WASHINGTON (INS) — U. S. District Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy ruled today that GI William S. Girard cannot be turned over to the Japanese government for trial.

The federal judge declared in an historic decision that "the threatened action" by the United States "is illegal and in violation of the Constitution and laws of the United States."

Sec. of State John Foster Dulles stated that the decision made by him and Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson to have Girard tried by a Japanese court in the firing range death of Naka

Job Gone

FRANK VAN ATTA

Waterford Township Chief of Police found himself without a post on the force after the township board made a second slash in the force last night, as an economy measure. The position of chief was eliminated.

U. of M.-MSU Game Sold Out

ANN ARBOR (AP) — With the temperature a steamy 90, Michigan today announced a sellout of next fall's football game with Michigan State University. The two teams meet Oct. 12.

It was one of the earliest sellouts on record for the cross-state rivalry. It came a month earlier than last year, when the game was sold out by July 17.

All individual tickets have been sold for the game but there are still some season tickets left for the 101,001-seat Michigan Stadium.

Department Cut to Five Persons in Economy Step

Township's Supervisor Elmer Johnson Says He'll Head Force

Waterford Township's financially-stricken police force lost its chief and two patrolmen last night.

Chief Frank Van Atta lost his $7,100 post, and two patrolmen were also without jobs after the township board eliminated the positions, after deciding they could not afford the salaries.

Supervisor Elmer Johnson said he would take over Van Atta's administrative duties, starting Saturday.

Van Atta, long a controversial figure in the township, would not publicly comment on his dismissal.

The latest cut in the police force reduces the number of patrolmen to three.

Figuring the township could afford only a $32,500-a-year force, the board also reduced the one remaining senior officer from the rank of captain to detective, and put off naming his salary.

The department's woman radio operator-typist was retained.

TO SEEK VOLUNTEERS

Johnson believed police protection would not suffer as the result of the cut in personnel. However, he announced his intention to recruit volunteer policemen to serve without pay on night patrol duty.

Johnson and three other board members voted for the change after a heated one-hour hassle over how to bring it about. Trustee Charles Pappas favored the action, but refrained from voting because he was opposed to the board's method of eliminating the three positions.

The change was brought about by a resolution newly describing the police department and leaving out Van Atta's and the two patrolmen's positions.

In April, the force had been reduced by six officers and two civilian employes.

★ ★ ★

The cutbacks came about, Johnson said, because the township has lost revenues from justice court profits that last year netted more than $100,000, all but enough to run the former $103,000-a-year department.

LOST COURT COSTS

The justice court profits were eliminated in March when Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem backed up the Attorney General's opinion that they were illegal.

Johnson said the only revenue left for police enforcement now is $14,500 a year from sale of liquor licenses by the state.

He said the reduced department will need about $28,000 this year from tax money and in normal years about $18,000.

He said the three patrolmen will be used for nighttime duty, with volunteers as helpers. The township will have to rely on sheriff's deputies for daytime patrol, he said.

On Dixie Highway, where cries of "speed trap" brought about an investigation of the township's justice court profits this spring, state police will be the main traffic enforcement officers.

Van Atta and his officers had been accused of nailing speeding violators on the busy highway so that profits from tickets could go into the township's coffers.

Coast Guard Ice Patrol Is Only Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Want to beat the heat? Join the Coast Guard.

Sailors on Coast Guard patrol boats in the North Atlantic are cruising through iceberg-studded seas. They are keeping an eye on ice that might threaten shipping.

The Coast Guard said ice conditions are still severe in the North Atlantic. About 150 icebergs and hundreds of smaller chunks have been spotted off Newfoundland in recent weeks.

DETROIT (INS) — Dr. Joseph G. Molner, Detroit health commissioner, warned today against overexertion during the heat wave and reminded "alcoholic beverages only make you hotter." Dr. Molner urges Michigan residents to eat light foods, drink plenty of water and use salt pills during hot spells.

The metropolis baked in 90-degree heat for the third day in a row. The city's sweltering millions faced more of the same today.

Thousands of air conditioners were switched on as the temperature soared. That helped boost the power load toward the breaking point.

LONDON (INS) — The heat wave was blamed today for causing a train wreck last night on the London-to-Glasgow line in which one person was killed and five injured. A preliminary investigation indicated that heat had expanded the rails causing an express train to jump the track and smash into a freight standing in the station at Uddington, Scotland.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Telephone Co. turned on its own emergency diesel power equipment at 106 exchanges to ease the load yesterday during the heat.

Sections of Brooklyn and the Bronx suffered power cutoffs varying from 15 minutes to an hour. More than 30,000 homes were affected in Brooklyn.

Earlier, the appeal for a power curtailment led to a shutdown of escalators in Rockefeller Center.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fire weather — hot, dry and windy — has come to stay.

A brush fire burned stubbornly through thick watershed at Lake Elsinore today and firemen throughout Southern California girded for another bad day.

The forecast is for 100-degree temperatures again today. Desert winds are expected to continue, rushing through mountain canyons to fan sparks into fires like the scores which struck Southern California yesterday.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Empire State Building stopped nonessential motors and pumps, cut elevator service and asked tenants to switch off as many office lights as possible during the heat yesterday.

Pipeline Study Awaits Approval

Board of Supervisors Gets $58,000 Request on Water Plan Monday

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors will be asked Monday to approve $58,000 for the county's share of a study of a proposed $70 million water pipeline project from Lake Huron.

The already-appropriated funds have been earmarked for release by the Ways and Means Committee.

Oakland and Macomb Counties, through the Southeastern Michigan Water Authority, are jointly determining feasability of the project to relieve water shortages developing in Pontiac and the northern sections of both counties.

Macomb yesterday voted its $58,000 share of the $116,000 study which is expected to take four months.

A nationally-known pipeline firm, Bechtel and Co., of San Francisco, has said the pipeline project is feasible. It will conduct the study.

Widow Vanishes During Bus Trip

DETROIT (AP) — Police widened a search today for the 77-year-old widow of a Detroit fire department officer who vanished at the Cleveland, Ohio bus depot four days ago while making a cross-country trip.

Mrs. Henrietta Gagnier, formerly of Grosse Pointe, was last seen by a bus driver who drove her from Chicago to Cleveland.

Mrs. Gagnier has lived for 3½ years with a daughter at Eveleth, Minn., and left there by bus Thursday, bound for Detroit to visit a sister-in-law, Mrs. Henrietta Hamilton.

★ ★ ★

However, when she arrived at Chicago she changed plans and decided to go to Moddus, Conn., to visit another daughter. Traveler's Aid Society said she was enroute to New York when she disappeared.

She had no luggage, only a strongbox containing personal papers. The box was found at the unclaimed parcel office in Detroit and was routed from Eveleth.

Mrs. Gagnier is the widow of Fred Gagnier, a battalion chief who died in 1948.

Do high radio and television towers have a tendency to draw lightning and thereby lessen the danger to lower structures and trees nearby?

Yes, high metal towers will often draw electrical discharges from clouds passing low overhead. So will especially tall buildings. Since the electrical charges of clouds are attracted by the nearness of high grounds, like transmission towers, these towers often pull the lightning that would otherwise discharge later, elsewhere.

If you live in the vicinity of very tall buildings or high metal towers, therefore, these structures will act as the old lightning rods were supposed to—draw the lightning and ground it harmlessly.

The tendency of these tall towers to attract lightning is recognized to an extent that builders install special lightning devices to carry off the frequent bolts that strike them. In a lightning storm, then, stay away from such structures, tall trees and any other high objects which might suddenly become a ground for electrical discharge from the clouds.

Blast Sets Fire to Mail Truck on Expressway

DETROIT (AP) — A United States' mail truck, vintage 1948, caught fire yesterday when the gasoline tank blew up in the middle of heavy traffic on the John C. Lodge expressway in Detroit.

The driver, Harry Nadolski, 25, drove the truck to the side of the road and jumped out uninjured. The truck left a trail of burning gasoline for some 200 feet along the expressway. The flames were extinguished quickly.

Postal officials said only one package was destroyed and several damaged.

A post office spokesman said the truck's drive shaft apparently snapped and struck the tank, causing the blast.

Postal workers said all mail trucks had been ruled off the expressways because it was feared some of the more ancient vehicles couldn't stand up under high speed driving. The Detroit expressway system has a 45 mph speed limit for trucks.

Trace Slim Clue in Child Slaying

Police Ask Help in Identifying Twine Used to Tie Mary deCaussin

DETROIT (AP) — A piece of twine figured as a slim clue today in the search for the slayer of 6-year-old Mary deCaussin.

Police asked the public if anyone recognized the six-foot length of butcher twine which was used to bind the child's wrists in the mutilation sex slaying.

Detectives also continued a house-to-house search of the Ecorse Township area where the child was abducted last Wednesday. Ten teams of officers made the check, on the theory that the slayer lived in the neighborhood and knew of the obscure wooded area where the body was found last Thursday.

Detective Sgt. John Ware of the Detroit police homicide bureau, who is helping in the case, noted that 90 per cent of child sex slayings are committed by neighbors of the victims.

CHECK PHOTOS

Police also checked photographs taken at the funeral chapel and at the child's funeral yesterday. They sought to learn whether any known sex deviates or other child slaying suspects attended.

★ ★ ★

Plainclothesmen mingled with the mourners in a search for any trace of morbid interest by onlookers but found nothing.

Heat and the strain of the investigation was blamed for the collapse yesterday of Ecorse Township Police Chief Bentley J. Galloway. Doctors said he apparently was suffering from exhaustion.

Ex-Pontiac Resident Improves in Russia

An ex-Pontiac resident, Mrs. Margaret Tremper, now of Grand Rapids, who was seriously injured in a plane crash near Moscow last week, is steadily improving, according to Soviet doctors.

Her daughter, Michelle, 14, is reported in satisfactory condition. Dr. Lawrence V. Tremper is en route to Moscow today to be with his wife and daughter, who were two of three Americans to survive the crash that killed nine persons.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Beuker, also of Grand Rapids, were flown to Warsaw today en route to the United States.

Haiti Workers, Peasants Threaten to Burn Port

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Haiti's military junta deployed troops and police with orders to shoot today in reply to threats by followers of ousted President Daniel Fignole to burn down Port au Prince.

Worker and peasant followers of Fignole vowed to use the torch unless Fignole is returned from exile in New York. Workers began evacuating their huts near the harbor yesterday as they made the threat.

★ ★ ★

The three-man junta refused to consider the demand for Fignole's return. It countered with orders to shoot arsonists on the spot and to arrest any shop owners who tried to close down in protest against Fignole's exile and military rule.

The junta issued a decree forbidding any general strike. It also curbed electioneering by the eight remaining presidential candidates by banning political broadcasts.

The ruling military group warned it would enforce operation of essential services and food supply lines. Commercial air lines resumed operations last night for the first time since the latest violence erupted Saturday.

The junta made it plain it stood ready to use again the armed force that quelled the weekend riots. At least 50 Haitians were killed and 200 injured in that violence, which followed Fignole's overthrow by army leaders Friday.

About 1,000 rioters were reported jamming the city's already crowded jails. Army sources said many prisoners were being released after screening.

Fignole told newsmen in New York that four army officers had arrested him at gunpoint. He said he and his wife had been put aboard a Haitian army plane bound for the United States. They left behind seven children.

Fignole said he still considered himself a candidate "if free presidential elections are held."

Oliver Commended by Education Board

Robert B. Oliver, defeated in seeking re-election to the Pontiac Board of Education last week, received the plaudits from board members when they commended him for "his unselfish service to the community."

The board unanimously passed a resolution which read in part: "He has contributed much of his time and effort so that the educational opportunities for the children of the school district have been developed to a high level."

Light Fallout Reported

Explode 4th in A-Series

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) — Atomic scientists exploded the fourth shot in the current atomic test series at 4:45 a. m. today. Then they fled.

The Atomic Energy Commission said "light fallout" from the blast forced evacuation of the test site control point.

LIT UP SKY

The device—detonated from a balloon hung 500 feet above the desert floor—lit up the dawn sky.

Five minutes later the billowing mushroom cloud, rising almost six miles, began to sift radioactive contamination toward the control point.

The order to evacuate was given. In 30 minutes the point was empty. It is some eight miles from Ground Zero.

★ ★ ★

An AEC spokesman said the upper part of the cloud headed north of due east at 30,000 feet. The stem drifted north of due west at 20,000 feet.

TESTS CONDUCTED

More than 50 diagnostic tests were conducted as a part of this morning's test. Live pigs and mice—with recording instruments on their bodies—were used in studies of radiation.

The blast today was estimated by observers as the same size as the 10 kiloton shot which launched the test series earlier this month. A kiloton is the equivalent of 1,000 tons of TNT.

Police said Gerald J. Larson, 20, of 215 S. Marshall ST., told them he was waiting in a parking lot driveway about 50 feet north of Tacoma Court on Baldwin Ave., ready to pull out into traffic. As he crossed the sidewalk, the boy ran into him with his bicycle, Larson said.

OK Work Plan With Engineers

Board Members Also Block Rezoning Request in Waterford

Waterford Township Board created a township engineer department, turned down a commercial zoning request and bought 16 traffic control signs last night.

The board formally accepted the Johnson & Anderson Inc., engineering firm, of Pontiac as the township's engineers, carrying through an unwritten policy of the previous board.

The firm will do all checking and inspection of work in the township's water, road and sewer systems, except where Oakland County has jurisdiction.

A proposal to rezone a lot on the corner of Maceday road and Williams Lake road from residential to commercial was rejected.

CITES POSSIBILITY

The board cited the possibility of a traffic problem and danger to students attending the new Schoolcraft Elementary School, scheduled to open this fall.

The board approved expenditure $157.36 for traffic control signs for several locations where residents had asked for them.

The preliminary layout of the Pleasant Lake Woods subdivision was tentatively approved pending changes in four plots and the public utility easement of several plots.

★ ★ ★

An application by the ice cream vending company was tabled until a company representative can appear before the board. Complaints of too many vendors in the township prompted the action.

Congressmen Hit at Supreme Court

Activities group dealt unfairly with Watkins. At another point he said there is no congressional power to "expose for the sake of exposure." And he criticized as loosely worded the resolution under which the Un-American Activities Committee was set up.

Attorneys for Arthur Miller, playwright husband of actress Marilyn Monroe, promptly expressed the view that the Watkins decision had application to Miller's contempt of Congress case. They said they would move in U.S. District Court here today for reversal of Miller's conviction.

Miller was convicted of contempt of Congress May 21 for refusing to tell the Un-American Activities Committee the identity of Communist writers he acknowledged knowing in New York in 1947. He has not been sentenced.

In the case involving the California Communists, the 14 were convicted under the Smith Act in 1952 of plotting to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the U.S. government.

In San Francisco, the House Un-American Activities subcommittee opens hearings today, assertedly undeterred by the suicide of a witness and by three Supreme Court decisions which may affect congressional investigations.

"Not a bit of it," repeated Walter.

About 50 witnesses have been subpoenaed. The committee will probe possible Communist influence on the professional and entertainment fields.

The Day in Birmingham

Detours to Be Seen Soon as Maple Widening Starts

BIRMINGHAM — The detour season will open soon as crews begin the East Maple avenue widening project. Police and city engineers have designated Woodward avenue, Adams road and Bowers street for the main routes as follows:

Eastbound will go south on Woodward to Bowers, east to Adams and north to Maple to a point beyond the construction area. In reverse, this will hold true for westbound travel.

Hunter boulevard traffic that would be turning on Maple will continue south and use the Bowers-Adams route. This is planned to avoid an overload on Oakland avenue where paving is not heavy enough to carry commercial loads.

The temporary routes, expected to be in effect about six weeks, will necessitate the removal of several parking spaces on Woodward avenue because of the increase in turning traffic, Police Chief W. Moxley said. He added that proper signs will be erected at all detour points to direct out-of-town traffic.

The Maple project will involve the complete removal of existing paving because of sewer lines and other underground facilities being replaced. No date has been established for the start of the construction.

During the past week the tree removal works has proceeded under the direction of Charles Gale, city forester.

The Birmingham Chamber of Commerce survey of the past nine weeks campaign to boost Friday night shopping here shows that 67 per cent of the customers were from the city. The balance of the shoppers came from Detroit, Pontiac, Rochester and Ferndale, as well as bordering communities.

"The test period has been rated by merchants ranging from 'fair' to 'excellent'," said Charles Mortensen, Chamber of Commerce secretary.

"There is no question, however, but what Friday night shopping is improving here," he commented.

Mayor William Roberts asked commissioners last night to give thought to the appointment of two new members to the City Planning Board.

They will replace Bennett Root, recently elected to the Board of Education, and W. H. Burgum who has resigned because of business demands.

"It is most unfortunate that Burgum is leaving us," Roberts commented. "He has rendered the city an exceptional type of faithful service and has done an excellent job as a planning board member."

Waterford Reduces Police Force Again

from his job for allegedly "meddling in politics," vigorously denied the speed trap charge, saying that strict enforcement reduced accidents and saved lives.

The police chief recently announced that as a result of personnel cutbacks in his force, accidents have risen 25 per cent.

Clearing out his desk at police headquarters this morning, the 44-year-old law enforcement officer said he had no immediate plans for the future.

Loss of his job recalls the stormy summer of 1954, when Van Atta was fired and then rehired two months later. Charges that he was supporting a political candidate for the sheriff's office were dropped after several hundred residents protested his removal.

Van Atta, of 62344 West Eight Mile road, near South Lyon, became chief of the Waterford department when it was formed in 1953.

Once a farmer and a factory superintendent, he joined the sheriff's department as a deputy in 1947 and rose to the rank of captain.

Johnson refused to comment on the question whether Van Atta, an appointee of the previous Republican board, was out of favor with the present Democratic regime.

Saying that Van Atta had done "a terrific job" as police chief, Johnson said his elimination from the payroll was strictly for financial reasons.

Van Atta last night argued that he was entitled to a hearing, but the board claimed this was not so.

The police chief then said he should be given a chance at the one detective's position left on the force, but the board inserted specifically in the resolution that this job belonged to the present detective, Millard Pender.

Sheriff Frank W. Irons today declined to comment on whether his department has enough deputies available to take on the job of day time patrol in Waterford Township.

"Nobody's approached me on the question so far," Irons said. "The question will take some study before we can find an answer."

Waterford Township's mushrooming population, now estimated at about 40,000, means that it is the largest unincorporated area in Oakland County, presenting a big burden to the sheriff's department if local law enforcement can not be mustered.

However, the township's former 16-man force far overshadowed the law enforcement agencies which other townships have been able to support, chiefly because Waterford took the most advantage of justice court revenues.

This system had been approved by the county as a big step in the direction of "home rule." However, it floundered this spring in the face of charges that out-of-town drivers were in effect making township law enforcement possible.

Canada to Get New Cabinet

Conservatives Asked to Form Government After Liberals' Defeat

Gov. Gen. Vincent Massey last night asked Diefenbaker to form a new government after the Liberal Cabinet of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent resigned.

The Conservatives upset the Liberals in last week's elections but did not win a ruling majority. They have 109 seats and the Liberals 104 in the 265-member House of Commons.

St. Laurent met for 50 minutes with Massey last night before the governor general called in Diefenbaker. The 75-year-old Liberal chief later told reporters he will continue to serve as a member of Commons from his constituency of Quebec East. He also said his Cabinet will remain in office until a new administration is installed.

Diefenbaker's promise to call Parliament into session in September may be upset by the scheduled Canadian visit of Queen Elizabeth II.

He said there had been an announcement that the Queen will visit Canada Oct. 12-14 and "tentative arrangements had been considered to the effect that she might officially open Parliament."

U.S. Is Rolling After Purchase of Red Carpet

WASHINGTON (AP) — At last, we taxpayers own a red carpet of our very own, to be used for rolling out purposes whenever foreign dignitaries arrive.

The new red carpet will be used for the first time Wednesday, for the Prime Minister of Japan, Nobusuke Kishi.

Two especially picked soldiers from a ceremonial battalion will be at the airport for the carpet detail, and they're bound to do a good job because they'll take a practice roll shortly before the President's plane, bearing Kishi, comes in.

A lot of big shots come visiting us nowadays. And one little known fact is that, up to now, this rich, powerful country didn't have a portable red carpet it could call its own.

The State Department rented a carpet, from a firm in New Jersey each time it needed one, which was frequently.

Finally someone at the State Department figured out that the carpet would pay for itself within the space of six or eight dignitaries.

So negotiations were begun with a local rug salesman. The deal was completed, and the carpet, 4½ feet wide and 50 feet long of the finest Wilton weave construction, was turned out by Archibald Holmes & Son, Philadelphia rug makers.

Vote Overrides Southern Bloc

House OKs 'Rights' Bill

The vote was 286-126.

Just before final passage, the House defeated, 251-158, the Southern bloc's fourth and final attempt to drive a jury trial amendment into the measure. The vote insured passage of the bill essentially in the form Eisenhower recommended and the Republican, Northern and Western Democrats backing such legislation agreed on.

Voting for the jury trial amendment were 45 Republicans and 113 Democrats. Against it were 139 Republicans and 112 Democrats.

The bill now goes to the Senate, where a bipartisan coalition is trying to rush it on to the calendar for action, thus depriving Southern senators of one of their opportunities to filibuster.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California said he is prepared to take "whatever steps necessary" to get Senate action on the message this session.

The bill would authorize the U. S. attorney general to take into federal court the cases of persons whose voting or other civil rights were violated or threatened.

Without first going to state courts, the attorney general could seek a federal injunction against such violations. If it were granted, the court then cold punish for contempt anyone who violated the injunction, but proponents of the bill have argued that the granting of the injunction itself would often eliminate the difficulties.

The bill also would provide for a bipartisan commission to make a two-year investigation of civil rights complaints and for a special division of the Department of Justice, under an assistant attorney general, to handle civil rights matters.

The vote on the jury trial amendment was the first during long House consideration on which House members were recorded by name.

★ ★ ★

House passage sent the controversial measure to the Senate where Knowland and some other proponents of civil rights legislation plan an attempt to by-pass the Senate Judiciary Committee. A civil rights bill has been bottled up in that committee for months.

Sylvan Lake Warned to Shelter Cars, Pets

Sylvan Lake residents are warned to shelter automobiles and certain pets tomorrow morning as the annual aerial spraying to rid the city of insects takes place.

The DDT spray is not injurious to humans and most pets, City Manager Louis G. Barry reported. But fish in private ponds, as well as bird pets, should be protected during the spraying, he said.

The project is not expected to harm fish in Sylvan Lake because of the proportion of water, Barry explained.

The spraying will be citywide and will be the first of two applications costing the city $850 each year.

But Express Optimism on Soviet Proposal

U. S. Officials Cautious on A-Test Ban

LONDON (AP)—U.S. circles at the U.N. disarmament talks today reflected tempered optimism over the Soviet Union's proposal for an internationally supervised ban on nuclear weapon tests.

A U.S. spokesman said the Russian proposal could be a "major breakthrough of the disarmament log jam, but then again maybe not."

★ ★ ★

The five-power disarmament subcommittee talks were in recess until Thursday while delegates consulted with their governments on the new developments.

★ ★ ★

The American spokesman termed Russia's agreement to the principle of mutual inspection to enforce a ban on tests a "very significant development."

The Soviet subcommittee delegate, Valerian Zorin, last Friday proposed a two-or three-year suspension of all nuclear tests and said the Soviet Union would admit international teams of inspectors to insure the moratorium was respected.

The international teams would be stationed in the H-bomb countries—Russia, the United States and Britain—and in the Pacific test areas of the United States and Britain.

The United States and the three other Western subcommittee members, Britain, France and Canada, all hailed the Soviet plan officially as an important move toward a partial disarmament agreement.

★ ★ ★

UAW Attacks Retirement Problems

By RAY HENRY
Associated Press Writer

The United Auto Workers, a union of 1,350,000 people, long has felt that assuring an adequate pension to its retired members wasn't enough.

Sure, an adequate pension comes first. But, what about the other problems of the members after they've turned to retirement—problems like reduced income, failing health, loneliness, idleness and finding a decent place to live within the income available.

Six years ago the UAW set out to whip some of these "after retirement" problems.

Today, the core of the UAW program is 23 "Drop-In Centers" for retired workers. Three are in the Detroit area and the others are scattered around the country in cities where the UAW has membership. Nine are in Michigan, five in Indiana, two each in Illinois, Connecticut, and Missouri and one each in Ohio, Kansas and Ontario, Canada.

To get an idea of how these centers operate, take a look at the activities of the three centers in the Detroit area:

Each is open every weekday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and is directed by a paid social worker.

As might be expected, among the activities carried in the center are hobbies, parties, games, movies, handicraft, etc.

The UAW says it doesn't know how much these activities themselves help the older people. But, the activities do give them a chance to meet people, make new friends and gain a sense of belonging. To some degree they meet the problems of loneliness and idleness.

★ ★ ★

Besides these activities, however the older people give their time planning the centers' programs and making them work.

For example: Each center has visiting committees of retired workers who make trips to the homes of shut-in aged.

At first, these committees were mainly designed to cheer up the people they visited. But, the committee members soon found that the shut-ins had problems which they could help solve.

LOTS OF HELP

As a result, the home-bound older people have been given all kinds of help, including medical care and financial assistance from community agencies.

For those not shut-in, the centers have also become a ready source for help with health, housing and job problems and for counselling on personal problems.

The center directors spend much of their time meeting these individual needs. Often they're able to refer the retired workrs to other agencies in Detroit for help.

★ ★ ★

But, there are many situations which can't be referred, such as helping a retired worker judge his need for living arrangements, his financial needs, whether he needs medical care, etc.

★ ★ ★

Needless to say, the UAW is very pleased with its centers and is looking forward to expanding both in number and activity.

Caring for the newborn —year 1883

This 1883 engraving from the Bettmann Archive shows a 19th century incubator. Heated by warm water, it was used in caring for premature babies. This is a far cry from the scientifically controlled nursery of the modern Blue Cross participating hospital of today!

...thank goodness times have changed!

The 19th century incubator was considered quite remarkable in its time. Even so, early attempts to provide special care for fragile young lives were crude.

Of every 1,000 babies born in those days, more than 150 died . . . infant deaths today have dropped to 25 per 1,000.

Modern hospitals are equipped with incubators that supply life-saving oxygen as it is needed . . . automatically regulate temperatures to assure proper warmth . . . and even sterilize the air.

But isn't the cost of living worth it?

And isn't it comforting to know that as a member of Michigan Blue Cross you and your loved ones will have necessarily higher basic hospital costs like these paid for . . . automatically . . . whenever hospital care is needed? And with the companion plan, Michigan Blue Shield, you have help in paying for the finest doctor care in the world today.

MICHIGAN HOSPITAL SERVICE MICHIGAN MEDICAL SERVICE

Blue Cross. Blue Shield.

A volunteer police captain who also is president of his community's Youth Recreation Fund is congratulated in Lathrup Village, Michigan. He is Arley Van Meer, center, who has just received a plaque from the Standard Oil Company for 21 years of service to his friends and neighbors as a Standard dealer. Shaking hands with him is Police Chief Kenneth M. Farnham as Lt. Joseph J. Zafarana looks on.

How 2500 small businessmen won success!

What does it take to be successful in the keenly competitive business world of today?

Well, let 2,500 small, independent businessmen who found success in something they liked and stayed with tell you how they did it. They are all in the same business—all Standard Oil dealers for 15 to 20 years or more. Since their business is one of the most competitive in the world, they speak with particular authority.

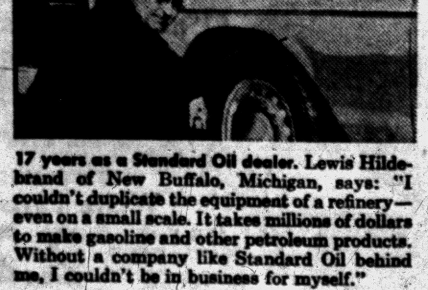

Here is their formula for success, and it applies to many other businesses as well—friendliness, helpfulness and efficient service. PLUS one other vitally important factor—high quality, always dependable products—products they are proud to sell to friends and neighbors.

One other thing. Their friendliness and helpfulness have never been confined to business alone. Of these 2,500 veteran businessmen, hundreds have served as mayors of their towns, as city councilmen, and in Red Cross, Boy Scout, Community Fund or some other community activity.

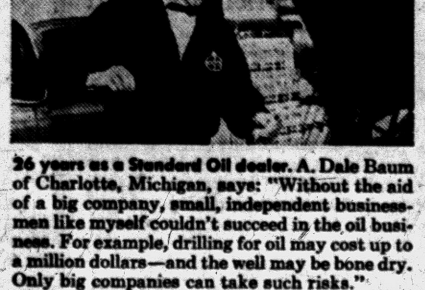

Just recently we at Standard Oil proudly presented plaques to these 2,500 successful small businessmen throughout mid-America. Now we are looking forward to the time when the 15-year mark will be reached by many more of our 16,000 dealers who are winning success as independent businessmen with their friendliness, efficiency and dependability.

Well, one gauge is a company's contribution to the economic stability of the communities in which it "lives" and "works". Business policies and practices that help other businessmen to grow and prosper are important steps in achieving that goal.

17 years as a Standard Oil dealer. Lewis Hildebrand of New Buffalo, Michigan, says: "I couldn't duplicate the equipment of a refinery—even on a small scale. It takes millions of dollars to make gasoline and other petroleum products. Without a company like Standard Oil behind me, I couldn't be in business for myself."

26 years as a Standard Oil dealer. A. Dale Baum of Charlotte, Michigan, says: "Without the aid of a big company, small, independent businessmen like myself couldn't succeed in the oil business. For example, drilling for oil may cost up to a million dollars—and the well may be bone dry. Only big companies can take such risks."

24 years as a Standard Oil dealer. Leo Lappo of Muskegon, Michigan, says: "There's more to the oil business than finding oil and selling it. Standard Oil, for example, invests millions annually in research to improve the products I sell and keep me ahead of competition. That's one of the big reasons my business keeps growing."

CONSTIPATED?

new laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks

without gag, bloat or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon. A "thrifty" colon is one that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

TO REGAIN NORMAL REGULARITY two things are necessary. First, the dry, shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it and so, excite its muscles to action; to a normal urge to purge.

ONLY A BULK LAXATIVE can 1) re-moisten this dry, shrunken waste and 2) supply vital bulk to re-create a normal urge to purge. And, of all bulk laxatives, COLONAID, the amazing new lavative discovery is so effective that it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, yet is so smooth, so gentle it has been proved safe even for women in the most critical stages of pregnancy.

SUPERIOR TO OLD STYLE bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONAID neither gags, bloats nor gripes; does not interfere with your absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; and in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other side reactions.

IT'S A PHYSIOLOGICAL FACT: Exercise tones your body! And COLONAID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Whether occasional, frequent or chronic, whatever your degree of constipation, get COLONAID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! The price, only 98c for the economical 60 tablet package, brings you positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

Plastic Treatment:

New Surgery Method to Aid A-Bomb Victims

HIROSHIMA (INS) — A new method in the plastic surgery treatment of a second group of 18 Hiroshima maidens is being used and a Japanese doctor today termed the operations "very successful."

The series was performed on six girls confined at the Hiroshima Atomic Bomb Hospital.

Dr. Tomin Harada told International News Service that the new method calls for X-ray treatment of affected areas before and after plastic surgery is carried out.

"The purpose of this," Harada explained, "is to prevent and control recurring growth of scar tissue."

He said the possibility odinarily exists of a 20 per cent recurrence of such tissue.

★ ★ ★

Harada, who accompanied the original 25 Hiroshima maidens to the U.S. to participate in plastic surgery at New York's Mt. Sinai Hospital, said a team of six Japanese doctors is aiding the work on the 18 girls.

80 OPERATIONS IN ONE YEAR

Most of the 18 are those who were unable to make the trip to New York. They will receive a total of 80 operations on the face, neck, forearm, hand, thigh and feet over a one-year period.

The first patient was 22-year-old Machiko Yoshimoto. Machiko, who received severe radiation burns in the atom-bombing of Hiroshima on her arms and legs, was operated on her forearm to remove ugly keloid scars.

Now a kindergarten teacher, she said, "I hate summer because the scars on my legs and arms show and I can't go swimming because people stare at me."

Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review, who originated the plan to have the 25 Hiroshima maidens receive treatment in America, recently sent $3,280 to care for the 18 girls being operated on here.

Harada said under a new law which became effective April 1, the Japanese government will foot the bill for treating atomic patients so that the funds sent from the U.S. will be used mainly to cover living costs of the girls.

He said the remainder of the money will be used for research purposes at the atom bomb hospital.

$1,500 IN INSTRUMENTS

The doctor said $1,500 worth of medical instruments donated by Japanese residing in New York are being used in the current operations.

Kahn will remain in Hiroshima for a three-week period and will act in an advisory capacity. He said if additional medical supplies are needed he will submit a further request through friends in the United States.

The Pontiac Area Has the Sites

Oakland County has plenty to offer the Michigan Historical Commission in its project to suitably mark sites in our state that have more than a purely local historical significance.

★ ★ ★

It is quite fitting and proper that they are to start this work in Oakland County June 26 with the erection of a marker at the end of the old canal at Rochester state park.

★ ★ ★

This canal marked the highlight of the biggest transportation industry in Michigan 125 years ago. It was to be the main artery of a statewide system of canals. They were to open up our state to the commerce of the nation. We had the inland rivers to feed them, with few locks.

The Erie Canal between the Hudson River and Lake Erie was about to be opened, and settlers in this area would use it in their migration.

★ ★ ★

But the railroad was an experiment, and it was felt that water transportation was the only hope of the interior of Michigan.

★ ★ ★

So it was that the stellar project in Michigan's system of canals would be one to start at Lake St. Clair and go to Lake Michigan.

★ ★ ★

It was to go through Pontiac, largely following the Clinton River from Lake St. Clair to a point west of Cass Lake.

The canal was built across Macomb County and into Oakland County to a point at the present site of the Rochester state park. Its course is still plainly evident, although the erosion of over a century has nearly eradicated it at some points. A Macomb County highway follows its banks.

★ ★ ★

Work on the whole canal system was discontinued on the advent of steam transportation and the inevitable coming of the railroad, which reached Pontiac in 1844.

★ ★ ★

Another local site surely worthy of one of the 49 that are to be so marked by the state commission is the Moses Wisner Home on Oakland Ave. in Pontiac, now owned by the Oakland County Historical Commission.

Elected 110 years ago this brick mansion of those days has been preserved for posterity by the good people of Oakland County, who subscribed the $15,000 for its purchase a few years ago.

With its four acres of valuable land, it represents a Michigan landmark unmatched by anything else in the state.

★ ★ ★

The home of Michigan's Civil War governor houses memories within its substantial brick walls that hark back to the very foundation of our state. No other county has anything like it.

Most of Detroit's historical spots now are occupied by filling stations and parking lots. Oakland County people had the foresight and value of sentiment to preserve this home.

★ ★ ★

We'd put it in first place when it comes to marking state sites in its category—and challenge anybody to contradict us.

Our Best Customer

A study made last year by the Battele Memorial Institute of Columbut, Ohio, brings to light some interesting facts regarding U.S. trade with Canada.

The study showed that Canada bought from Michigan alone in 1954 goods conservatively estimated at $74,657,148.

★ ★ ★

Sponsored by a group of companies, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce has published a pamphlet on the Battele survey titled "Our Trade with Canada." The study was analyzed by Dr. Henry C. Wallich, Yale University professor of economics. One of his findings is that large business may not profit as much from exports to Canada, proportionately speaking, as do small and medium sized businesses.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Wallich points out that Canadian raw materials would be topproprity in case of war and that enemy action coudl not disrupt their flow into this country and more seriously that it might disrupt trade within our own borders.

Our imports from Canada, he says, do not burden our economy by competing with domestic producers. "Canada supplies raw materials which our industrial machine devours in great amounts. As our domestic resources dwindle, we shall have to draw increasingly upon those of our northern neighbor," he said.

★ ★ ★

Canada buys more from us than the 20 Latin American republics put together and it imports more goods from us than from any other foreign country. Canada is our best foreign customer.

The Man About Town

Our Joe Is 80

This Time Orchids Go to Man About Town

Today marks the eightieth birthday of our own

Joe Haas.

For many years, this column has been Joe's offering of facts and whimsy, home spun philosophy and words of cheer and praise. Our Joe has never been mean or small. He never stoops to petty trivialities.

★ ★ ★

Always he is cheerful, optimistic, courteous and unfailingly of good humor. Our Joe lives a life of smiles, encouragement and three loud cheers for the good deeds of his fellow men.

Only a few of us are so happily blessed. Only a scant handful have been similarly endowed by the Unseen Power that manipulates all the strings backstage in the great Scheme of Life and makes heroes of so few and common folk of so many.

Everyone that has ever met our Joe has loved him. The great and the small, the mighty and the lowly, the talented and those of humble mien — these find a common denominator in their respect and affection for the First Citizen of Holly and probably the First Man of Oakland County.

Today your Joe and ours is eighty. He greets the advent of four score years unperturbed and with the same quiet dignity and aplomb that he faces all of life's offering.

Each succeeding day is a new delight for Joe. He loves the rising of the sun and sees it set at night confident that Tomorrow will again be another wonderful period with another wonderful adventure for him.

This has never ceased to be. Like all of us, the elder statesman has his own personal problems, but he relegates them to an unseen niche where they trouble not the rest of mankind. Joe will unfailingly share his delights and his pleasures with all but in meeting vexatious affairs of his own, he asks a hand from no one save his God.

★ ★ ★

And now Joe walks easily into the last laps of the long, long journey and looks ahead with love and thanksgiving in his soul and a song in his heart. All mankind is kinfolk. He himself is a part of all that's good and an unremitting foe of all that's even partly bad.

★ ★ ★

Tomorrow Joe will be back with you in this column. Unknown to him, we stole it for today. This message goes to him and to all the world from his affectionate associates here at The Press.

Joe, orchids to you, sir . . . orchids in profusion.

The Door Can Open Both Ways

James Marlow Says:

Court Now Controls Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has become for all practical purposes the American lawmaking body in the field of civil rights and civil liberties.

Its rulings have had the effect of law in the huge vacuum left by Congress, which has passed practically no civil rights legislation in the 20th century.

★ ★ ★

The court may turn out to be President Eisenhower's most memorable monument. He has appointed four of the nine members: Chief Justice Warren and Justices Harlan, Brennan and Whittaker. He may have to name more before his term is up, if there are further deaths and retirements.

Under Warren's leadership the court has become far-reaching in its decisions on civil rights—most notably its ban on segregation in public schools—and on civil liberties.

It has been roughly criticized—particularly by Southerners — not only on segregation but for its opinions on Communists and Fifth Amendment cases.

The court has made it tougher for the government to prosecute —or perhaps made it more cautious about beginning prosecutions —while giving defendants more constitutional protection than they've ever enjoyed.

A year ago the court knocked Eisenhower's federal employe security program into the bleachers. Under Eisenhower's program any government worker could be fired as a security risk.

The court said Eisenhower went too far under existing law: that only people employed in sensitive jobs could be ousted as security risks. There are other laws under which people otherwise undesirable can be fired.

★ ★ ★

Earlier this year the court threw out the conviction of a man who bought narcotics from a government agent never further identified except as "John Doe." The court said: No more of that.

The court said if the government wants to prosecute a man, he has a right to know who the government informer was, and confront him, if doing so is relevant to his case.

On June 3 the court went further: it said that if the government does use a witness against a defendant in a criminal trial—and in its secret files has information supplied by that witness against the defendant — the man on trial has a right to see that information.

★ ★ ★

This ruling has been erroneously interpreted as meaning the FBI will have to throw its files wide open. The decision is narrower than that. It's limited to written information by a witness against a particular defendant.

COUNTRY PARSON

"It might surprise folks who worry too much about what the neighbors think of them to find out that the neighbors don't."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Use of Iodin, Vitamin D Cuts Colds, Other Woes

I've been eating 0.2 milligrams of iodin daily, plus calcium with vitamin D, for about 3½ years. I am 49. Before I started consuming these, I averaged six or seven colds each year, with at least a couple putting me to bed.

DR. BRADY

Also considerable spinal, hip and knee disability which various medics called arthritis and rheumatism. Also started losing my hearing 10 years ago and was advised by two ear specialists I'd be stone deaf by 1960.

★ ★ ★

Now, I have not had a single CRI in the past two years.

My back went out on me just once in the past year, and then it was not serious — about two days of discomfort, and I worked right through it.

My joints are giving me no further trouble, I should say no trouble at all.

HEARING IMPROVEMENT

There has been 25 per cent improvement in my hearing, due partly, perhaps, to treatment by an osteopathic physician.

I sleep well now and wake refreshed in the morning. I don't hear the word "nerves" used by my wife and children any more.

Although the Connecticut correspondent doesn't mention iodin ration, that is the form of iodin he eats daily, I think. It contains 0.1 milligrams of iodin, the minimum amount of this element every man, woman or child must get daily to prevent manifestations of iodin deficiency. The pamphlet, The Iodin Ration, describes these common signs, symptoms, ailments or indications. For a copy send stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It is a compromise with the vacillating estimates of medical and nutrition authorities of yesteryear. For instance, one iodin compound "accepted" by old medical merchants came in candy-coated tablets, for prevention of goitre in school children —each tablet containing 100 times as much iodin as nutrition authorities now estimate the school child requires.

Getting enough iodin (iodine) from food, water or dietary supplement to maintain optimum nutritional condition can do no harm and frequently seems to bring about a happy change for the better, both physically and mentally.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Accentuate Positive With Children

Donnie was scolded by his dad, yet Donnie might very properly have turned the tables. If you kids want some surefire ammunition to use on your fathers, then scrapbook this case record. And urge your mother and dad to rate themselves on the "Parents Tests" below.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

"What's the matter with your report card?" his go-getter father inquired.

CRANE

"Here you've been tardy four times and also have a 'D' grade in one of your school subjects.

"You are a bright boy, so you ought to make straight 'A' grades."

SAUCE FOR GANDER

Although I am prejudiced in favor of go-getter types of personality, for they are the human spark plugs that make civilization zoom ahead, I must warn such dads as Donnie's.

Go easy on sensitive boys and girls. And please accentuate the positive by stressing their good points more than their faults.

In the above case, you will see that Donnie did not receive a single word of praise for all his good marks or the many days he got to school on time.

We adults are too prone to scold and look for negative items like the tardy marks and 'D' grades.

It is right and proper to mention them, if we also are liberal with proportionate praise for the child's virtues.

Dads, as another means of widening your horizon and thus lessening your tendency to jump all over the child verbally, check on your own school behavior.

WHAT ABOUT PTA?

We fathers are supposed to be at every PTA meeting where our son or daughter is in school.

Many of us are not only tardy: In fact, we may not even show up at all, except on the special Father's Night which the PTA holds in April.

So our children could very properly indict us for being absent on many occasions from the school sessions which we are expected to attend.

★ ★ ★

There used to be a saying that a husband often carried his religion in his wife's name.

And too many of us dads still let our wives carry our PTA obligation!

The mail input which comes to me via this "Worry Clinic" column is the heaviest in American journalism.

And it divides into 60 per cent from women vs. 40 per cent from the male sex.

"Do women have that many more problems than men?" is thus a common question.

But part of the reason for that higher input of letters from the female sex, is the fact that most fathers leave their child rearing dilemmas to their wives.

So I obtain the normal input of letters from girls and women about their own personal dilemmas, but also receive the queries dealing with child psychology, usually signed by mamma.

So dads should be cautious about getting themselves out on a limb when they reprimand their children over low school marks and absenteeism.

"People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones," is an adage that applies to every father who doesn't attend PTA or church services regularly.

To perk up your batting average as parents, send for my 200-point "Tests for Good Parents," enclosing a stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

These Rating Scales have helped Mrs. Crane and me on many occasions, so I recommend them to you PTA Program Chairmen as discussion material, especially on Father's Night.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

North End Resident Makes Plea for Sewers, Paving

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

We live just a stone's throw from Madison and even closer to the proposed high school. Yet during rains during tornado warnings this week I discovered my utility room was ankle deep in sewage and filling more. Our shower stall was also full.

I had to call my husband home from work to try to remedy the situation or move us to higher ground. A neighbor dug a trench from the back door to the side of the house so the stuff could run out the back door.

Visitors in the neighborhood will find beautiful lawns and well-kept homes. The people work constantly to maintain homes they can be proud of. Yet a gas mask would be very handy in this vicinity. We are taxpayers. Just how long will it be before we get sewers and paved streets? Let's hear from other Northenders and let's get some action.

Woman Praises Park Attendants

Saturday while visiting Marshbank Metropolitan Park I lost my purse from the car as we drove away. When I returned, an attendant had already found it, gathered up the things that had fallen out and was ready to report it to the state police, because I live out of town. I appreciate the fine service and courtesy. I'm sure it isn't high salaries but a genuine courtesy which causes these men to do such a fine job. Your city is to be congratulated for having such fine attendants.

Offers Criticism About Announcer

Van Patrick was spanked in a national magazine for not announcing the score often enough in baseball broadcasts. What bothers me is the fact he fails to let you know the past record of each batter.

When Kaline comes up in the seventh, everyone wants to know that he singled the first time, fouled out the second and walked the third. Van Patrick does it when he thinks of it, which isn't often.

The point just raised and the failure to keep announcing the score are purely mechanical. A beginner could be letter perfect on these two things.

Says Vacations Aren't Too Long

Some think school vacations are too long. How about those who work to pay their way through?

One That Did

'Who Says That Chivalry's Dead?'

They can talk all they want about chivalry being dead, but it's far from it. Every day I see men offering seats to women on buses, opening doors for old ladies with packages and allowing women to precede them in lines and through entrances. It's rarely that you see a woman drop something on the sidewalk when a man doesn't retrieve it for her.

Women appreciate these things and most men enjoy doing them, so I don't think we need to worry about the "lost art of chivalry."

Has Comment About Weather

The weather on graduation day of 1957 will be remembered. They say a bad start is a good ending. God loves those that understand the weather, rain or shine, especially the graduates. They are most wonderful.

Would Discard 'Tests' on TV

Why doesn't TV outlaw those silly, so-called tests advertisers use to show their products are best? The gadgets for showing whiteness, the perspiration tests, dirt they can soak up with their cleaner, the lipstick smear tests, liver bile tests and the like are about as inane as anything I've ever seen. Without half a brain you can tell they're nothing but trick gimmicks. Do advertisers really think people fall for that sort of thing?

Stupid, But Not That Stupid

Impatient Waiting for Window Wash

I know they do it just to be nice, but why can't filling station attendants ask drivers if they want their windshields washed? There's almost nothing worse than being in a terrific hurry and having to wait while the man cleans your window that isn't very dirty anyway. Usually he has the spray all over the window before you can tell him not to bother. It would save everyone time if he would ask first.

After That, England's Not Bad at All

Reporters in London Drink Warm Beer in Cold Room

(Some British correspondents stationed in the U.S. recently struck out at "The American way of Life"—one described the U.S. as a "great, swarming ant-heap of a country." The following article tells what American correspondents stationed in London think of the "British way of life.")

By CHARLES KLENSCH

LONDON (INS) — Once an American correspondent gets used to the idea of drinking warm beer in a cold room, he rates London at the top of the list of his favorite foreign assignments.

You've got to get used to the drip, drip, drip of the gritty, gray English climate; the catch-as-catch-can heating, and the couldn't-care-less attitude services an American takes for granted back home.

FOUND IN POLL

Moans Yale Newman of the American Broadcasting Company:

"The services are appalling. You have almost as much as you can do to keep one room warm — with gas, electric and kerosene heaters. It's good basic training for the Maine backwoods."

Bill Coughlin of the McGraw Hill publications suspects a deep strain of masochism in the British character:

"They like to be cold. They rejoice in the fact that trains run late. They place all the water pipes outside so they're easier to repair when they freeze."

REAL REASON

On the other hand Coughlin suggests that the real reason behind the founding of a British Empire in sunny climates had nothing to do with "the white man's burden" — the English were just trying to get warm.

The Chicago Tribune's Arthur Vesey, due to return for a summer vacation in the Midwest, is looking forward to the things he'll be leaving behind, including:

A "couple of million Englishmen" who either belong to or cater to "the so-called upper classes;" eating places which are either "sloppy and cheap or meticulous and gold-plated;" trains "designed in the last century," and the House of Commons where he hears "people who should know better belittling and scoffing at my country."

ON BALANCE

On balance, however, London's pleasures outweigh its creature discomforts. And it's the charm of the British people — breaking through their proverbial reserve —which gets the biggest vote of confidence from resident U. S. newsmen.

Don Cook of the New York Herald-Tribune finds Britons delightfully "intelligent and civilized people to deal with" after six years working in London since the war.

Another veteran U. S. newsman, Julius W. Cohn of Fairchild Publications adds warmly: "Nice people . . . terribly polite . . . they don't push you around."

After 10 years' of reporting from Britain, he's settled into the gentler pace of English life (though he still hasn't got used to slowpoke English repairmen).

For example, take a good old-fashioned traffic jam. London motorists "don't just blow their horns and get excited," says reporter Cohn. A Bobby ambles up and quietly goes about unscrambling the mess of taxis, double-deckers, Austins and Rolls-Royces.

In New York, he recalls, "the cabbies would be cussing each other and horns would be hooting — but New York probably doesn't untangle its traffic jams any faster than London."

BIG HIT

There are plenty of theaters. Tickets are reasonably priced. And, as Ed Newman of National Broadcasting Company notes:

RACING BUG

Ernie Hill of the Chicago Daily News has become a racing bug as well. He points out it would be a real project for an American fan to catch three such classics as the Kentucky Derby, the Belmont Stakes and the Santa Anita Handicap in one season.

But the English Derby, the Oaks and Royal Ascot are all run within a few furlongs of London Bridge.

He claims the Bobbies "are the only police I know in the world I can approach on the street without a guilty conscience. They're really on your side."

★ ★ ★

All-in-all, it's a fine country to work in — if you can learn to accept the weather, the heating and the other inconveniences as "natural conditions," like sandstorms in the Sahara, say, or boll weevils in Mississippi.

Knocks Down Regular Rockets

Calls New Missile Deadly

ABOARD U. S. S. LEXINGTON (INS)—A carrier pilot who regularly patrols off Red China with the U. S. Seventh Fleet said today the new "Sidewinder" missile his jet now carries is so fast it easily overtakes and knocks down conventional rockets.

This is the deadly air-to-air missile that Seventh Fleet Commander Vice-Admiral Wallace Beakley told INS would shoot down "three times" as many enemy planes as conventional warplane weapons.

Lt. Commander Paul E. Payne, er of night fighter squadron VF-124 35, of San Diego, Calif., commandaboard the carrier Lexington explained it was "like throwing a can in the air and then shooting it full of holes."

Payne, a veteran pilot whose squadron of F3H "Demon" jets packs the Sidewinder guided missile, related its performance, while cruising through Far East waters:

"Sometimes we fire a rocket, hold off for a second, then fire the Sidewinder and watch it catch the rocket. The Sidewinder is so fast I would say there is no airplane that could survive it."

He said his broad-winger all-weather jet can carry both the rockets which were used extensively during the Korean War, and the Sidewinder missile, although fewer weapons are needed now "because the Sidewinder is so deadly."

★ ★ ★

The Sidewinder, a Navy-developed missile, has been put into general use in the Seventh Fleet.

In his enthusiasm for the nine-and-a-half foot long missile, the naval aviator declared:

"It's the greatest thing that has come our way in a long time, there is no question about it."

He said the missile, which can operate at altitudes from sea level to 50,000 feet, misses its target "sometimes."

★ ★ ★

He explained this was because it has "range limitations" and because it is a "mechanical device which has a certain amount of failure."

Many druggists in England are closing their stores because they can earn more as employees, whose jobs pay from $2,200 to $2,800 a year.

Some Cigarette Brands Facing Five-Cent Hike

DETROIT (INS) — Detroit and the rest of Michigan may face a three-cent-a-pack cigarette price hike on July 1 instead of the anticipated two-cent increase.

Several tobacco vendors in Detroit indicated today they will pass on to their customers a seven-cent-a-carton increase announced Saturday by American Tobacco Co.

The carton-price increase will be on Pall Mall, Lucky Strike and Herbert Tarrington (regular) cigarettes.

This would amount to almost one cent a pack in addition to the two-cent increase already due July 1 to provide added tax money for schools.

Canadian-U. S. Relations to Change After Election

OTTAWA (NEA) — America will have a more aloof neighbor on its northern border as a result of the upset Canadian election which ended the 22-year-old Liberal Party control of the government.

John George Diefenbaker, the tall, intense leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, masterminded the Liberal defeat with a restrained but effective exploitation of growing anti-U.S. sentiment among Canadians as one of his campaign issues.

The shrewd, quick-thinking Diefenbaker fathomed the average Canadian's feeling toward America better than to promise any quick moves antagonistic to diplomatic or business relations with the U.S.

Rather, he laced his campaign with quiet promises that he would adopt a less subservient attitude to America than he claimed the Liberals had developed. He also promised to take a hard, critical look at the results of the invasion of U.S. investments into Canada.

These general problems of U.S.-Canadian relations have been gnawing at Canadians, he realized. And Diefenbaker did a neat job of tying this feeling to his No. 1 issue. This was his charge that the Liberals were flouting the authority of the House of Commons and that Canada was overdue for a change in administration.

Diefenbaker used his deep understanding of basic Canadian conservativeness, plus his great skill at turning a dramatic situation to political advantage—developed as a trial attorney—to capitalize on the Norman affair.

BLASTED PEARSON

Diefenbaker quickly blasted Liberal External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson for not having quashed the Norman charges permanently when they were first made by the U.S. Senate group several years earlier.

Then, in a wild House of Commons session Diefenbaker cleverly badgered Pearson into admitting that Norman had had associations with Commies as a young man. This shocked Canadians.

Diefenbaker quickly claimed that this holding back of information was typical of the evils of keeping one party in power too long.

Observers think that Diefenbaker may have won the election then. During the campaign he referred to the Norman case only enough to keep it fresh.

The 61-year-old Diefenbaker, from Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, is a Canadian's Canadian.

His heavy thatch of kinky, iron-gray hair and solemn face give him a look of strength. His hobbies are hunting and fishing, which he likes to do alone.

MORE WOODSMAN

There's more of the Canadian woodsman than polished politician in his manner. He's referred to as the "prairie lawyer."

He doesn't smoke, and drinks little.

He's not what you'd call genial, but he's on friendly terms with members of the House of Commons press gallery and most of the people with whom he does business.

Although Diefenbaker talked about raising the tariff on U.S. goods and turning more toward Britain for economic ties, there is nothing basically anti-American about Canada's new No. 1 political leader. He has even defended the U.S. on occasion.

He Used to Have an Extra Wife; Now Has None

★ ★ ★

Yesterday Superior Court annulled the Harmon marriage, then granted a divorce to Mrs. Hurst. The reason: Both were married to the same man.

★ ★ ★

The court ruled that when Hurst-Harmon married Mrs. Harmon, 46, in St. Louis, Mo., in 1942, he already was married to Mrs. Hurst, 47.

What about Hurst-Harmon, a 59-year-old chinchilla breeder?

"He has disappeared into thin air," says Mrs. Hurst's attorney.

Had Marijuana, Faces Sentence

Resident Pleads Guilty, Another Will Stand Examination

Robert E. Evans, 32, of 486 Elm St., will be sentenced June 24 on a charge of possessing marijuana.

A second man similarly charged as a result of the raid at the Progressive Jazz Society, 337 S. Saginaw St. Thursday night was ordered by Judge Holland to stand examination in Pontiac Municipal Court.

Harry H. Hurt, 37, of 103 Fairgrove Ave., had waived examination at preliminary arraignment following the discovery, police say, of bulk marijuana and cigarette paper in his and Evans' homes.

Both men are free under $500 bond apiece.

Virginia Sailors Just Don't 'Dig' Errant Missile

ERICA, Va. (AP) — After three days of digging that produced nothing except a yawning hole in the ground, the Navy has yet to unearth the one-ton missile that landed in a back yard here last Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

Workmen using a heavy power shovel have excavated a crater 36 feet wide and 30 feet deep behind the cottage where the non-explosive 16-inch shell fell. The projectile apparently was still deeper in the sandy soil.

Repeated cave-ins and the tendency of the crater to fill with water discouraged the Navy, which indicated it might give up the search as a bad job.

★ ★ ★

City to Fill 4 Board Vacancies

Appointments to two boards will be made by the Pontiac City Commission tonight as commissioners convene to tackle a public improvement packed 31-point agenda.

Three positions on the Board of Trustees of Pontiac General Hospital have expired. Commissioners also will fill the vacancy on the Zoning Board of Appeals left by the resignation of W. Allen Booth.

Other business slated for action this evening will include a report from the city manager that costs for the installation of water services should be increased.

Oscar Eckman, director of finance for the city, is expected to recommend a new water and sewer billing and collection system.

ACTION ON SEWER DUE

Authorization is expected to be granted to proceed with construction of a $75,000 sanitary sewer for the city hospital. Funds will come from Pontiac's capital improvement fund.

City Attorney William A. Ewart will give a summary of a recent hearing before the Civil Aeronautics Board, at which time he and two other city representatives appealed for commercial airline service for the city airport.

A large share of the agenda includes several engineer estimates, receipt of special assessment rolls, and confirmation of nine rolls.

★ ★ ★

Included in the estimates are two for concrete paving of Featherstone road and Columbia avenue. Both projects total more than $216,000.

Initial steps in two rezonings to Commercial 1 will be taken by commissioners to wind up the weekly slate.

Mousey Move Gives Free Room and Board

MILL VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Susan Gaines, 13, rescued a field mouse from a cat. But while she was lecturing the cat, the ungrateful mouse bit her finger.

Susan's doctor gave her a tetanus injection and said the mouse would have to be impounded two weeks at the Humane Society shelter to see whether it is rabid.

Susan will have to pay the mouse's board bill — 25 cents a day.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actress Terry Moore has filed suit for divorce, accusing her husband of numerous acts of infidelity.

★ ★ ★

In her complaint charging mental cruelty, filed yesterday in Superior Court, she said her husband, Eugene Charles McGrath, "had illicit relations with numerous and various women in Las Vegas, Nev." She also accused him of "extensive gambling."

Optional factory-installed frame reinforcements.

You drive your rig like a bucko mate, up those winding mountain roads, through storms of dust or seas of mud. The loads it can handle, the trips it can make, decide your income.

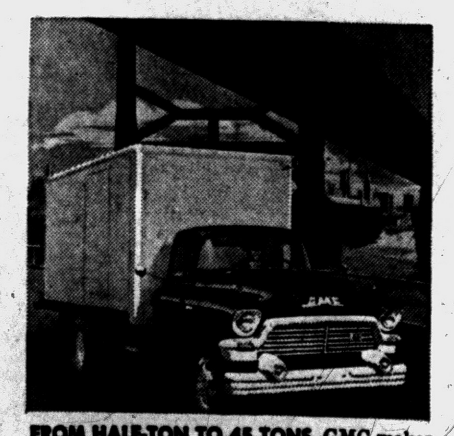

Around the coal center of Clarksburg, West Virginia, the truck you see most is the GMC W500. And its owners count on it earning around $100 each working day.

The W500's thrive on it. The repair shop sees little of them. Their operating costs are low. And, add the owners, they're good for 6 to 8 years of this kind of beating.

This is no rare case. Wherever tough jobs are being done, you see GMC's of every size carrying king-sized loads over seemingly impossible roads.

The odds are you will never subject your trucks to such grueling service, but experience like this is your assurance of stamina and reserve strength far beyond normal requirements.

What kind of truck do you need? Your GMC dealer can give you exactly what you want—and more truck for the money! Call him.

FROM HALF-TON TO 45 TONS, GMC makes the full family of trucks. Both gasoline and Diesel engine models, every one a Blue Chip GMC MONEY-MAKER!

Can Man Adjust to Plastic World?

This pleasant age-old pastime has an awesome quality today, however. For peering into the future is no longer mere guesswork as it was in the past, when most of the seers were obvious quacks or parlor entertainers.

The forecasters today are generally scientists, and presumably their pictures of the future are painted with facts rather than conjectures.

Not long ago Dr. W. R. G. Baker, a vice president of General Electric, prophesied that 50 years from now we would be confronted by such marvels as electronic automobiles, automatically controlled airplane traffic and "telephone television," which would allow people conducting a telephone conversation to see as well as hear each other.

This last-named mechanical marvel, a dubious blessing if ever we have heard of one, has already reached a practicable stage. But, except for people calling long distance on Mother's Day, who really yearns to see the other over the telephone? Only teen-agers.

In his predictions Dr. Baker speculated that in the closing years of this century man's long hunger for material well-being may well be tempered by an increasing concern for spiritual satisfaction.

Unfortunately, of this there is no guarantee. Barring an atomic world war in which the entire human race might be offered up on a hydrogen-heated blueplate as a sacrifice to the gods of battle, it is certain that science will develop new gadgets to make our life more efficient, hurried and insecure. But there is no certainty that it will make our way of life happier or satisfying.

★ ★ ★

The prospect is that the brave new toys of the future will make us more dependent upon each other — not more self-reliant as individuals. We may not be our brother's keeper, but each of us will surely be one another's crutch. And the question of whether the machine serves man or man has become the slave of the machine will grow more pressing.

★ ★ ★

The mechanisms that spring from man's agile mind multiply with the speeding years to bring him more and more creature comforts. But the mechanism of man's heart remains largely untouched and unimproved.

The man of the future may well dwell in a plastic home heated by solar energy and surrounded by plastic grass that never needs to be cut by a lawnmower. But unless he himself can be power-tooled out of plastic, how well will he fit in this plastic world a-coming?

We live already in an homogenized world in which our clothing is half-synthetic—and our pleasures even more so.

The undone task of science is to find, not vaster formulas to improve the world outside the heart, but techniques to improve the world inside the heart. When will science come up with a foolproof human being?

Until it does the great danger of the future, as it has always been in the past and is in the present, will be that man, pursuing his old dreams, will be destroyed by his equally ancient nightmares.

Junior Editors Quiz on KING OF BEASTS

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Most hunters who know lions and tigers will say that the lion probably is not the king. They say that the lion would probably be beaten by the tiger in a fair fight. Still, the lion looks like the king with his great flowing mane and his proud face.

The chances are that the lion and the tiger would never meet anyway, except in a cage. The lion lives mostly in Africa, the tiger in India.

For hundreds of years, lions were considered the most powerful and bravest of beasts. Many brave knights had pictures of lions painted on their shields. Sometimes we hear the expression "the lion's share," meaning the largest share. Strangely enough the male lion is usually quite lazy. The female lion does most of the hunting. But both the male and female lions are very strong, capable of breaking a horse's back with one blow of a forepaw.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Look through books, magazines and newspapers to see how many times you can see the lion used as the idea of power or strength or courage. You may also color this picture of the lion waiting in tall grass for his dinner to come along.

★ ★ ★

New York Curbs Power Consumption

Big users of power were asked today by Consolidated Edison Co., to cut down on nonessential services.

★ ★ ★

The utility said that a "multitude of little headaches" caused by the heat has cut the power output of several generating stations, while at the same time increased use of cooling equipment has added to the power load.

The company said there was "no major problem" yet.

As the city sweltered through its sixth straight day of over-80 degree heat, a number of firms took steps to cut consumption.

Rockefeller Center, the city's chief tourist attraction, cut off 18 moving stairways, curtailed elevator service and lighting in 15 buildings.

Department stores and big manufacturing installations were also asked to reduce power usage.

Uncover Ancient Studio

NEW YORK (AP)—French archeologist Jean Perrot has reported finding the complete studio of an artist who carved in ivory some 6,000 years ago. It was uncovered near Israel's desert city of Beersheba.

Hair Styles Capture Cool, Casual Look of Summer

The tropical tempo of Caribbean rhythms is caught in "The Calypso." Starting from a smooth center part, fluid waves fall forward on the temples, then curve back to swirl gently over the ear, ending in a wisp cheek curl.

Cut short for summer fun is this "Voo-Doo" hair style. The front hair sweeps off the face and is caught into fanciful fly-away wings. And for added dash, a wisp of a curl is pulled forward over the forehead.

Something new under the sun . . . the "Jamaica Cooler" for the swim 'n' fun season. The hair is cut in controlled tapered layers so that it never strays, then is softly molded into wide fashion-right waves.

Seldom Conveys Happy Thoughts

'At Our Age' Is Unpleasant Phrase

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I do not see how life can be vital and exciting if we measure it in years. Those who are busy and happy seldom think of their age unless it is called to their attention. Unfortunately there is usually someone to say, "At our age," etc.

★ ★ ★

You know, I cannot remember ever having heard that phrase used with a happy connotation.

Did you ever hear a woman say, "Isn't it wonderful to be our age? I am having the time of my life doing things I never had time for before;" or, "You know how I love my children, and of course I miss them, but I feel downright giddy it's so much fun to be able to get into a car or in a plane or train and go for a trip, on a moment's notice, since I no longer have to plan for their care during my absence."

Did you ever hear a woman say; "Isn't it marvelous to be our age? Our values are all straightened out and we live with more taste and understanding and art. We know what we want. We have more time to be merry because we have dropped most of the silly worries which used to haunt us." Or—"Being our age is great! I have so much more energy since the menopause."

★ ★ ★

Usually "at our age" is brought forth in connection with something like creaking joints, fallen arches, a protruding abdomen or the idea that it is inappropriate to do something we enjoy doing, like dance the calypso for instance.

FORGET ABOUT AGE

It is not a matter of pretending that we are younger than we are but a question of forgetting age and planning our lives and activities according to our interests and likes rather than the number of years we have lived.

★ ★ ★

The whole attitude of "at our age" is unsound anyway, because it is actually possible for one person to be 10 or more years younger physically than another of the same age, depending on the original inheritance and the care they have given themselves.

So, if on some dim day your age catches up with you temporarily, just relax until the mood passes. And in the meantime don't stand in someone else's light with a dreary "at our age."

Tomorrow: "Losing Excess Pounds Gradually Is Best Bet."

Atlantic Pilot Rides the Jet Stream

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

EN ROUTE-NEW YORK (INS) — Some men yearn for money some men yen for girls. But all Capt. Bernard Frost wants out of life at this moments is a vapory white cloud that looks like a long, sure chalk stroke against the night sky.

★ ★ ★

"That would be," says Capt Frost, "a jet stream. Give me a good jet stream and I'll be getting you t'home before you can whistle the second stanze of 'Racing With the Moon' . . . "

Bernard is one of those droll, poetic men you so often see in the king-sized cockpits of today's big transatlantic planes, but with tion in the airlines business for a difference. He has the reputa- being the "architect of the air- course over the Atlantic with all ways." That means he plots his the precision and artistry of a builder of superstructures.

"There are about 60 commercial and military planes flying the Atlantic every night — 60 going each way," he says matter of factly, ever peering through the round nose of the ship in search of that chalky cloud he knows is somewhere about.

★ ★ ★

"Each of us has our own altitude of course, and we're given somewhat a choice of flight patterns before take-off. Shall you elect to take the shortest route from London to New York, or shall you take a longer route with the prospect of tail-winds? You plan it as you see the weather map, to the best of your ability."

THOROUGH STUDENT

The thing is that Capt. Frost's best is reputed to be better than most any other pilot's, partly because he's been flying for British Overseas Airways Corp. for nearly 20 years; but mostly becuase he's a thorough student of pace, as a good jockey is.

★ ★ ★

In order to beat the competition to the punch — or rather the destined runway — he peruses the weather map carefully, seeking out jet streams. In a jet stream, the speed of a plane easily can be doubled. The captain has "picked up," in other words increased speed, as much as 197 knots (227 M.P.H.) by discovering a jet stream.

"The way you can be almost certain they're there is to look for a warm mass of air linking up with a cold mass," he says, putting it in terms I could understand. "Now at the very edge of that warm air mass — that's where you have your very strong winds."

You can't usually see the jet stream until you are in the air — you can only calculate where it may be. But once up, amid all he other spectacular sights nature provides in the night sky, you can see it. Even the passengers can see it, if they'll stop drinking champagne for a moment and take a look.

★ ★ ★

It's the streak of whiteness, as described, with two entirely different looking skies on its either side. "On one side, the air is blue and cold and celar; on the other it's usually misty and heavy with humidity. A fantastic sight. Watch for it."

'SLIGHT TURBULENCE'

When the passegner sees such a vision, as he likely will if he's flying with Capt. Frost, he can expect soon to feel a "slight turbulence" as he enters that slim but speedy vapor interior. And then, suddenly, he will be flying infinitely smoother and faster than before.

★ ★ ★

The motto of the British national airlines is "BOAC Takes Good Care of You," and from the lush cabin interior of its DC7Cs and Stratocruishers, you might judge that this meant only luxury service in matters of passengers comfort.

Talking to Frost, however, you realise it's also a business of trying to skim home the early bird.

Some time ago, the captain swept into enough jet streams to set a west-east transatlantic record of 8 hours and 28 minutes. Since exceeded, he believes, by one minute.

Herter Backs American Aid

Says Poor Countries Would Otherwise Turn to Russia for Help

EVANSTON, Ill., (AP)—Undersecretary of State Christian A. Herter today said without U.S. aid the underdeveloped nations of the world "inevitably" would turn to the Soviet Union for help.

Herter, former Republican governor of Massachusetts, said economic assistance to these nations "is not 'foreign aid' but an essential part of our own military defense."

★ ★ ★

In a prepared commencement day address at Northwestern University, his alma mater, Herter said: "We are today the only nation outside the Soviet orbit which can afford to help in supplying that degree of capital which would give these nations an opportunity to make a real beginning toward raising their standards of living."

★ ★ ★

Herter said that without U. S. assistance programs and our various defense alliances with 42 nations "the less developed countries could not achieve the economic growth which will help them remain free."

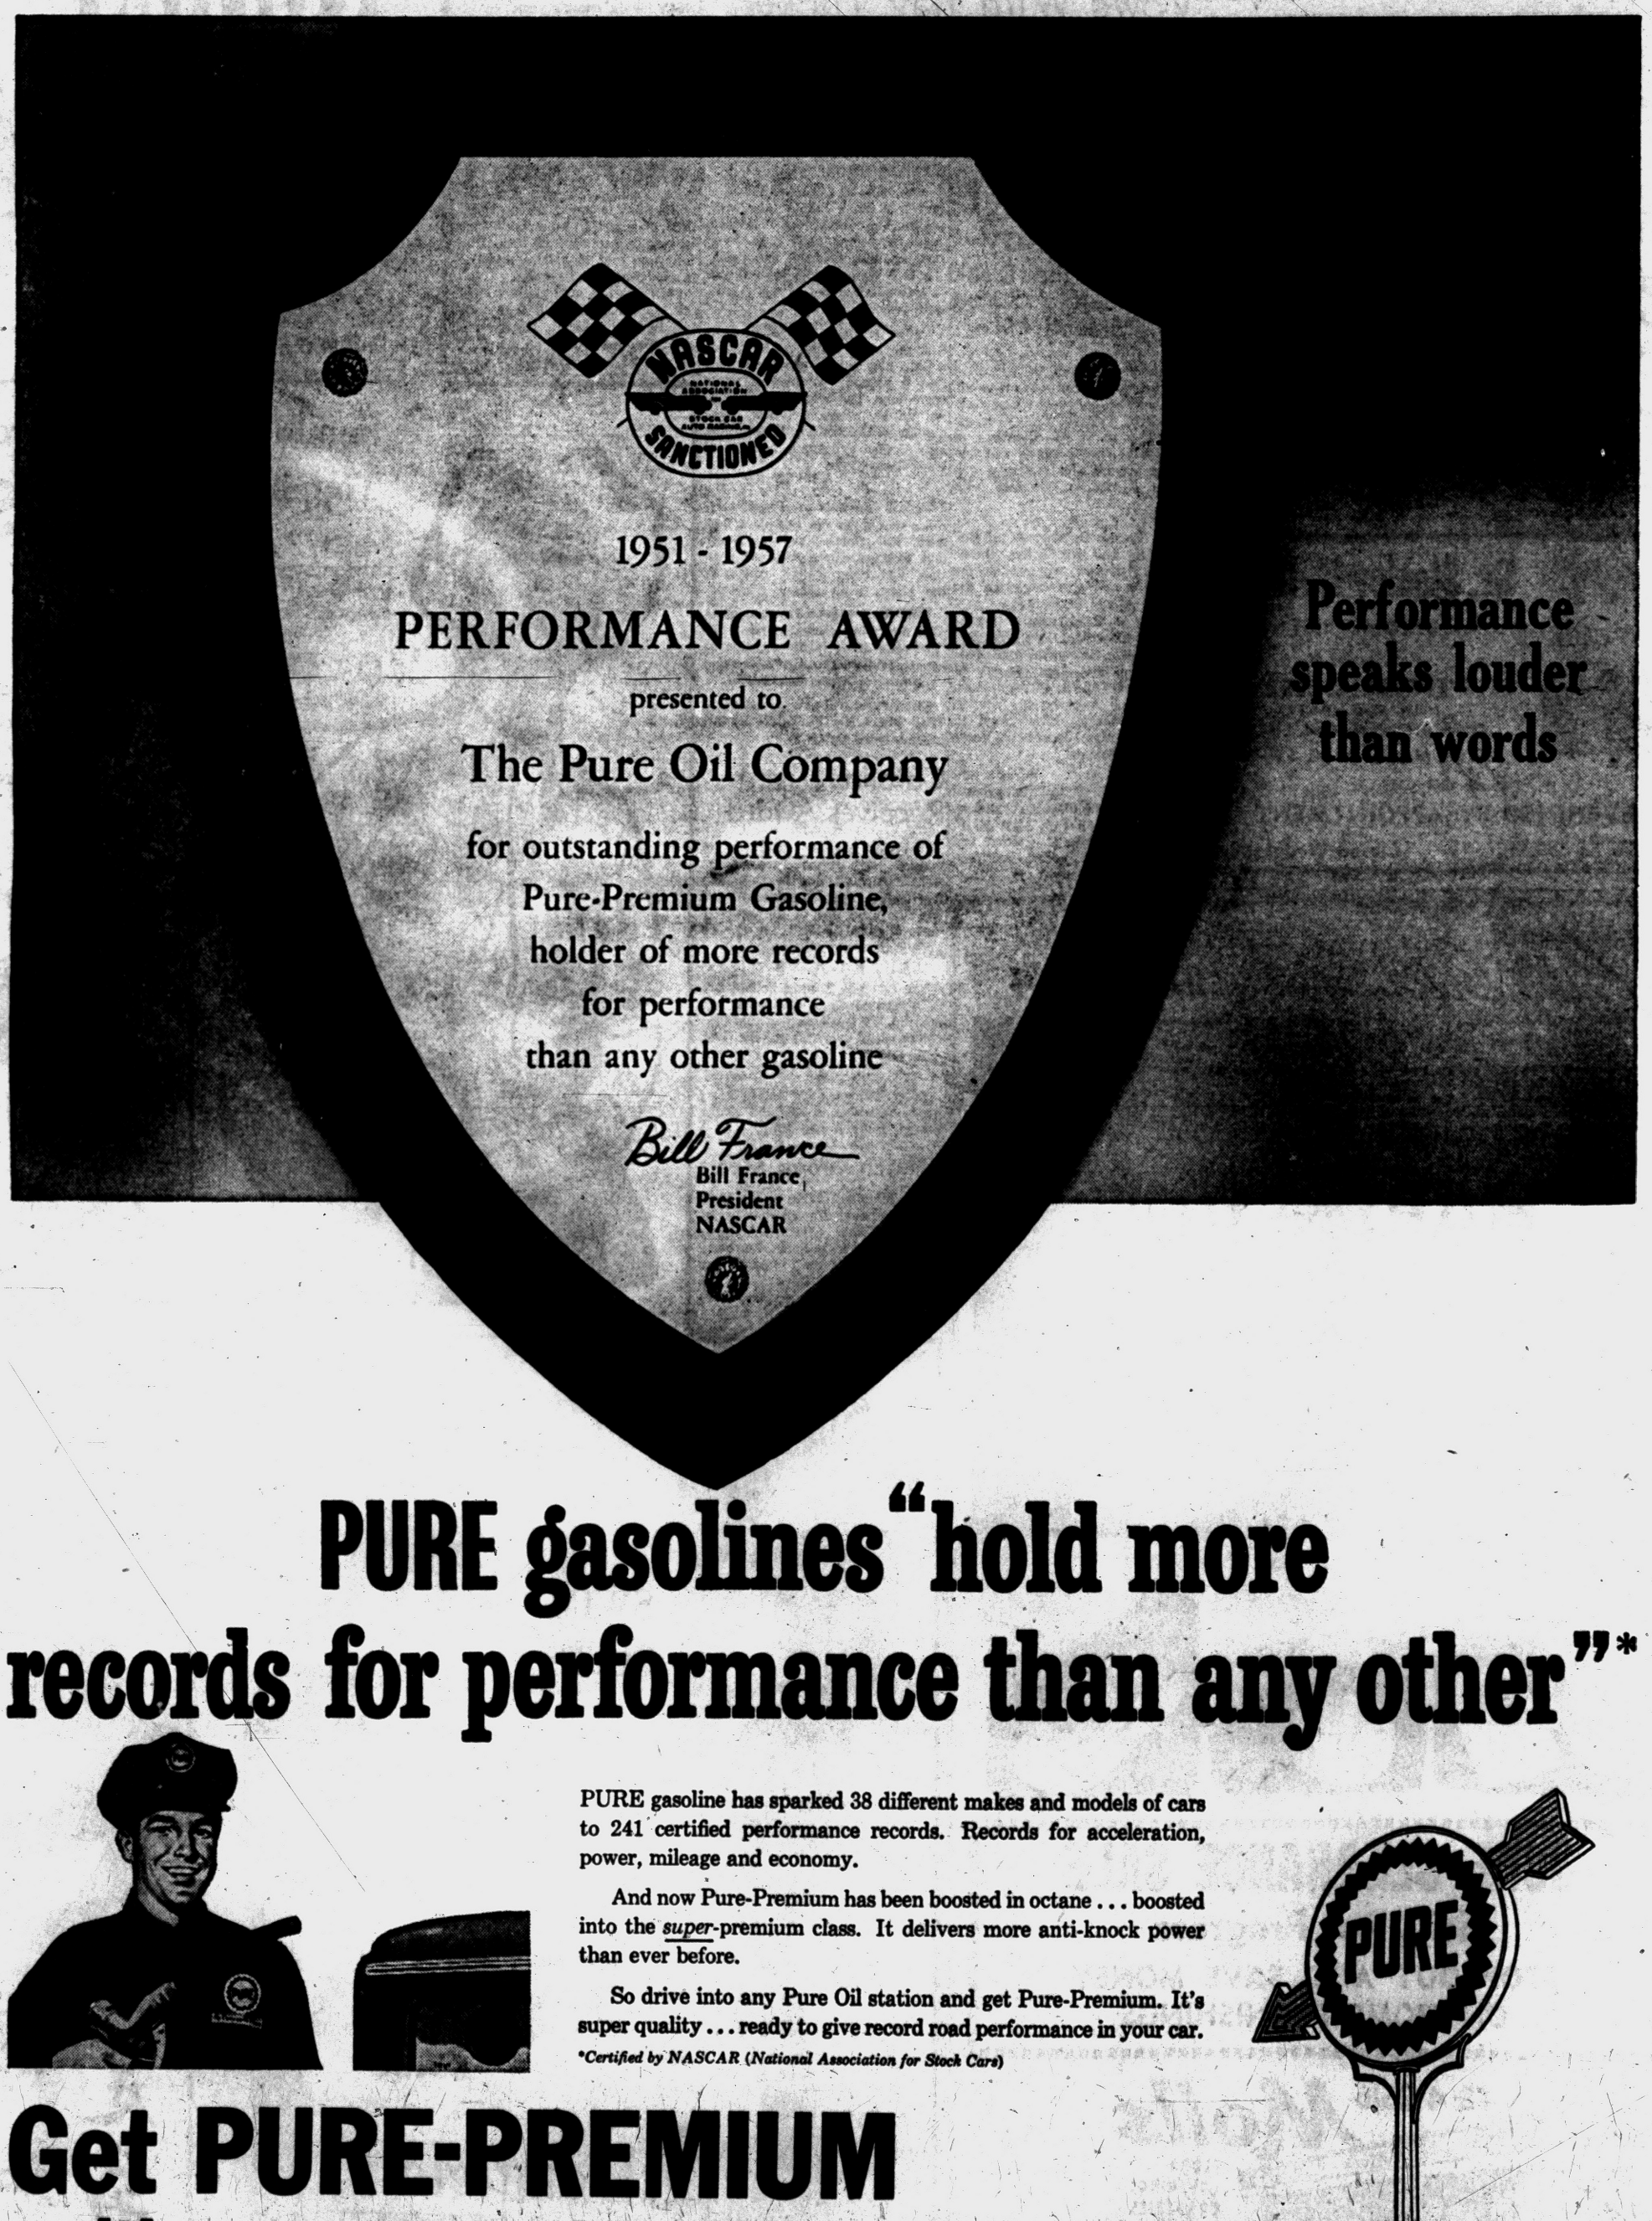

★ ★ ★

Herter was awarded an honorary doctor of law degree at the commencement exercises. It was the university's 99th commencement. Diplomas were awarded to 2,583 students.

THE PONTIAC PRESS

TUESDAY, JUNE 18, 1957 PONTIAC, MICHIGAN FIFTEEN

Why Can't Pontiac Keep Youngsters in School?

How do you keep youngsters in school until they graduate?

That problem is of growing concern in all school districts, but particularly in Pontiac, which has a higher than average rate of drop-outs.

A committee of teachers and administrators of the Pontiac School System recently completed a statistical study of the question and drew up a list of implications and recommendations which could have a wide-reaching influence.

Using school data on 936 students (490 girls; 446 boys) the group found that only 58 per cent graduate from Pontiac High School, even when subtracting those who drop out for illness, moving away or other reasons beyond their control.

PUNCHES DATA

The committee, through the courtesy of Pontiac Motors, punched its data on IBM cards which came up with the statistics in a fraction of the time manual figuring would have taken.

They found that more boys than girls drop out voluntarily, with only 63 per cent of the girls and 54 per cent of the boys graduating from high school, minus the involuntary withdrawals.

Of the total group of 936, only 42 per cent graduated in Pontiac. The study showed 84 per cent of the involuntary withdrawals were due to moving outside the school district, or 225 students.

★ ★ ★

The study was based on the high school graduating class of 1955 and covered their careers in Pontiac from the seventh grade.

The Holding Power Study was made by a group consisting of Mrs. Edna Forman, chairman, Joyce Sweet, Gerald Hunt and Ruth Dennis.

It was sponsored by the Holding Power Committee of Paul Allison, Clark Balch, Mrs. Elise Best, Russell Curtis, Vern Duffy, Mrs. Forman, Grace McLaughlin, Harold Smead, Miss Sweet and Elma Waterman.

TOOK IMPLICATIONS

The committee, meeting with the Senior High Steering Committee, then took up the implications of the study.

They were particularly concerned with the fact that a state study showed a Michigan average of 71.6 per cent of students graduating, compared with Pontiac's figure of 61 per cent.

They found that while the study, tabulated from records, showed the "official" reasons for voluntary withdrawals, they did not in many cases know the "real" reasons.

★ ★ ★

They also found that in many cases, teachers could predict as early as the seventh grade which students would never graduate.

A "typical leaver" had the following characteristics:

1. More likely to be a boy.
2. Of normal or near normal age when he entered the seventh grade.
3. He did much "D" work in the 7B and increasingly thereafter.
4. He failed at least one subject in the 7B and increasingly thereafter.

5. His attendance was poor.

6. His curriculum choice was "General," (for a girl, "Business").

7. His wage-earning parent was somewhat more likely to have been a semi-skilled or unskilled worker.

★ ★ ★

8. He is somewhat more likely to come from a broken home.
9. He frequently gave "left to work" as his official reason for leaving.

The committees felt that there could be more challenge to the students who were potential drop-outs in terms of their own abilities, rather than class averages.

★ ★ ★

In his area, the schools today are offering reading improvement courses and testing the students to find their personal level of achievements, interests and potential.

MORE TESTING

More regular testing, and discussion of the results with students in general terms, was recommended.

The committees stressed that parents need to understand that pupils enter school at different levels of ability to learn due to age and this difference persists often throughout school.

But it noted that in many cases little useful purpose is served in holding back a student in grade, if he has learned all he can.

Perhaps the grading and promotion ideas need change, they said. Smaller class sizes, too, would help teachers to get to know pupils better and stimulate them in terms of their abilities.

The groups decided, too, that they need far more information about the students' background and personal and home life, and that this information, together with grades and test results, should be available to all teachers and counselors.

The use of more varied material in the classroom was found needed, to enable the students to study with profit regardless of whether they were above, below or average for their age and grade.

Working with potential drop-outs was emphasized. More facilities and opportunities for counseling were recommended and visits, when necessary, to the home as well.

It was pointed out that the study showed too many taking "college prep" courses who later dropped out of school.

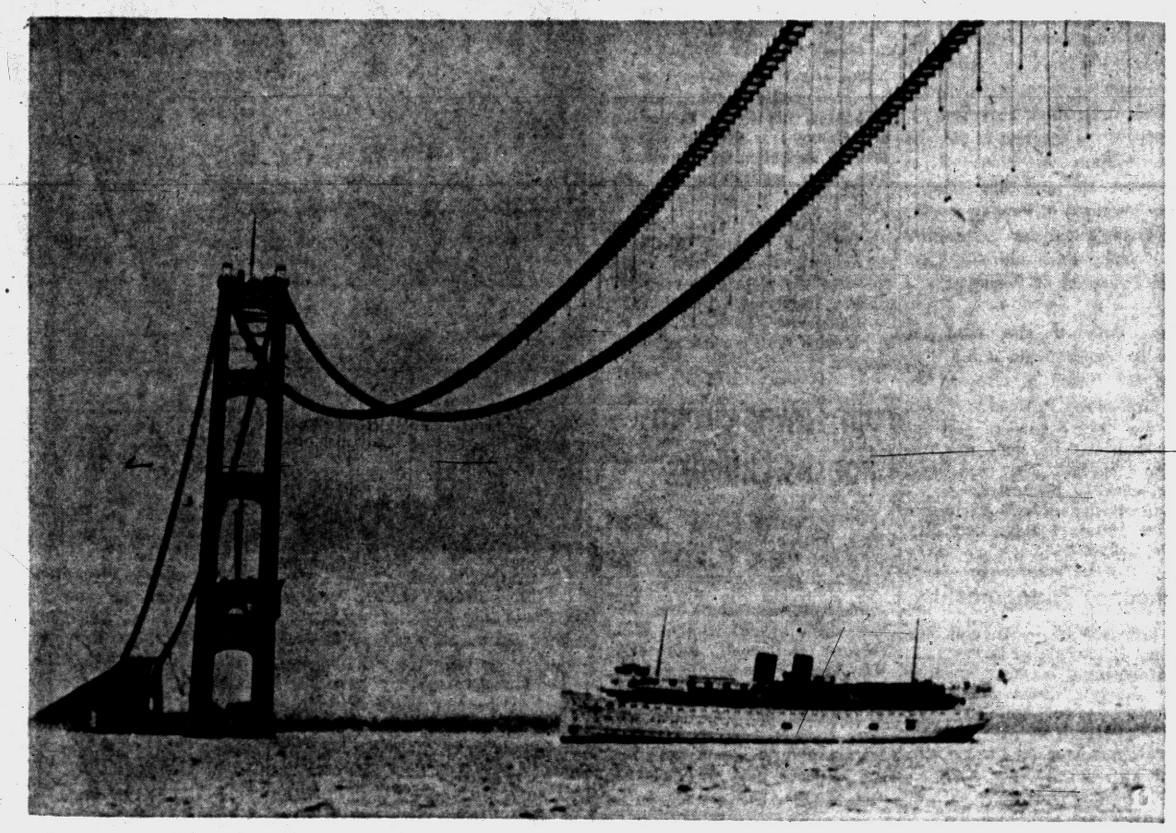

Early selection of a tentative vocation was suggested to give the pupil a goal for his studies.

Special classes for potential drop-outs was thought desirable in which close attention could be given their problems and needs.

Beyond the specific recommendations, are wide areas of educational philosophy which asks questions about the type of school that will solve the basic dilemma of public education: How to provide the most individual training for each student; while imparting the general basic knowledge the community wants its youngsters to have.

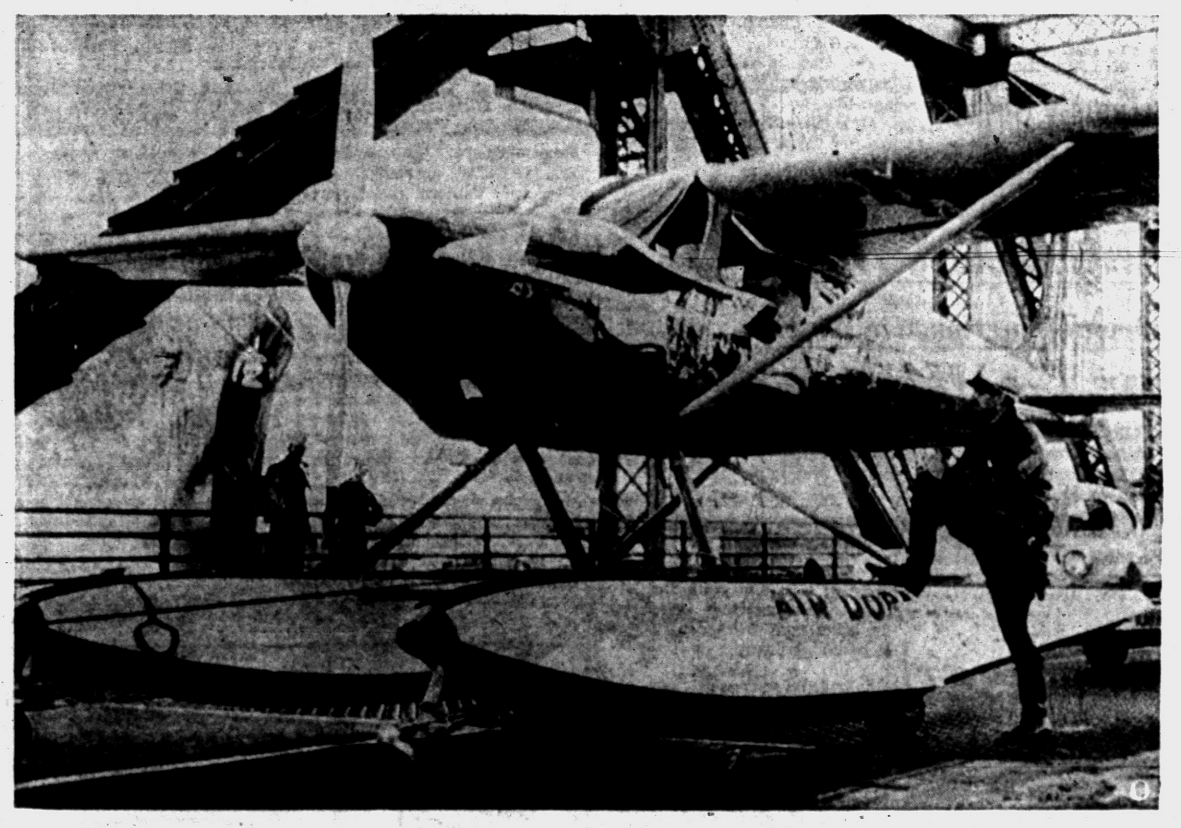

★ ★ ★

To do this means a thinking through of the problem by teachers and the community and a willingness by the latter to provide the personnel and facilities that such a large job demands.

East Germany, Poland Eye 'Cease-Fire'

Red Bosses Meet to End Feud

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

BERLIN (AP)—Polish leader Wladyslaw Gomulka today opened talks with East Germany's Stalinist rulers aimed at working out a cease-fire in one of the bitterest feuds inside the Soviet bloc.

Top party and government delegations of the two Red nations opened a three-day secret conference shortly after the Polish visitors got a red-carpet welcome at East Berlin's railway station.

Gomulka told his hosts "we believe in cooperation among all countries regardless of the order of their societies and we believe this sort of cooperation is of importance for the future of Germany and Europe."

The talks, he said, would deal with "important problems of mutual interest involving the development of socialism and safeguarding of European security."

★ ★ ★

Since the independent-minded Gomulka broke away from tight Moscow control last October, Polish and East German politicos have never stopped sniping at each other. Apparently only Russian intervention has prevented the quarrel from flaring into an open rift in relations.

★ ★ ★

Differences have ranged from biting official newspaper criticism of each other's brand of communism to East German interference with the travel of Polish citizens, including journalists and students.

★ ★ ★

Heading the East German delegation is Walter Ulbricht, Stalinist secretary of the East German Communist party and Gomulka's bitterest ideological foe among the satellite leaders.

Polish sources said Gomulka intends to warn Ulbricht that his police repression may result eventually in East German uprising that could rock all Central Europe.

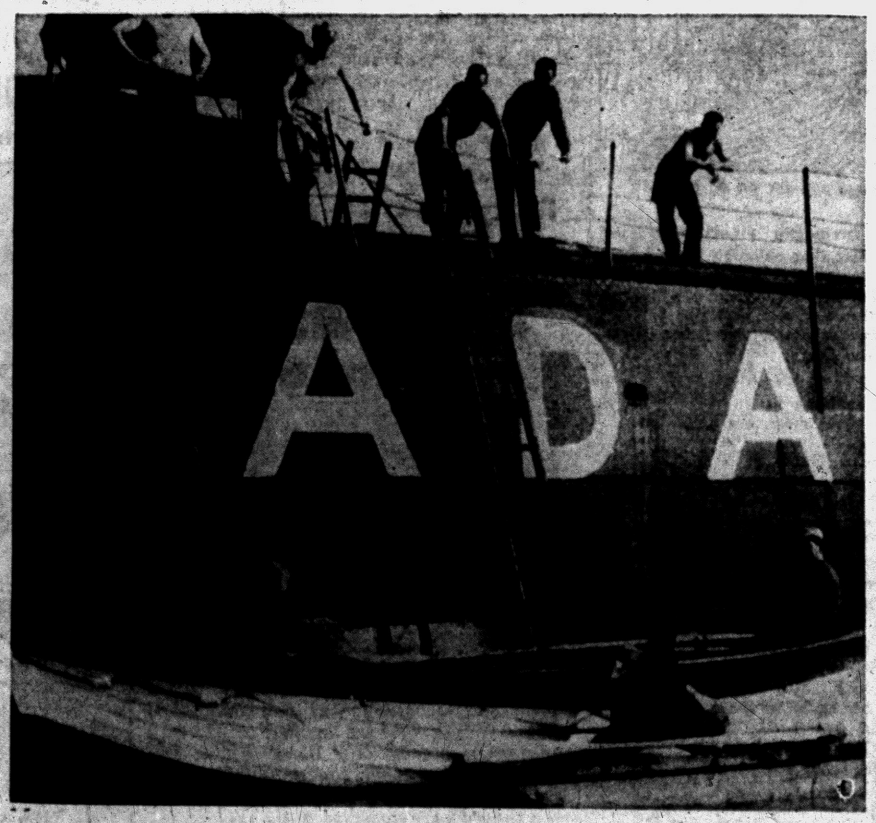

However, Gomulka was pictured as not overly optimistic that he would be able to sway Ulbricht on any important ideological questions.

Voters Doubt Ike Can Alter GOP

From their vantage points across the U. S., six top editors and publishers have taken the measure of the President's current stature with the public as a special report for NEA Service. Here's what they found, told in the second of two roundup dispatches coordinated by NEA Service political writer Bruce Biossat.

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

NEW YORK (NEA)—Soundings made by a half-dozen top U. S. editors indicate most voters doubt President Eisenhower can stamp his image on the Republican Party and don't seem deeply concerned whether he does or not.

NEA queried distinguished editors in representative major sectors of the country in an effort to put a brand new yardstick on the President's popular standing today, with especial reference to attitudes on peace, the budget, his handling of Republican affairs, and his frequent trips to Gettysburg and Georgia.

High on the list is the President's attempt to reshape and control his party. According to White House sources in 1956, his desire to achieve this goal was an important factor in his decision to run again.

In the view of those editors who took part in NEA's survey of sentiment, Mr. Eisenhower hasn't impressed voters that he will bring off this task. Yet this does not appear to affect their overall judgment of his presidential stewardship, which is overwhelmingly favorable.

Nor do the voters, in the editors' opinion, register annoyance or disapproval because the President takes a good deal of time away from his White House office to visit his Gettysburg farm and his vacation lair at Augusta, Georgia.

An editor in the Southwest found an exception to this pattern, reporting that people in that area wonder how Mr. Eisenhower "can find so much time to spend away from his job."

There is a general feeling, however, that people want him to take care of himself, and think the nation will be safe enough while he is doing so. Evidently many remember that when he announced for a second term early in 1956 he cautioned that he would have to take special measures to guard his health.

The editors' comments on these issues:

REPUBLICAN PARTY CONTROL

David M. Beetle, editor, Albany (N. Y.) Knickerbocker News:

"With the third term ban and all, there's a feeling the President's party-impact days are over, that he has taken the Republicans about as far into the welfare state as they will go, that without Mr. Nixon's crusading help (which he ma not get fully) he's engaged in a Maginot line (defensive) operation."

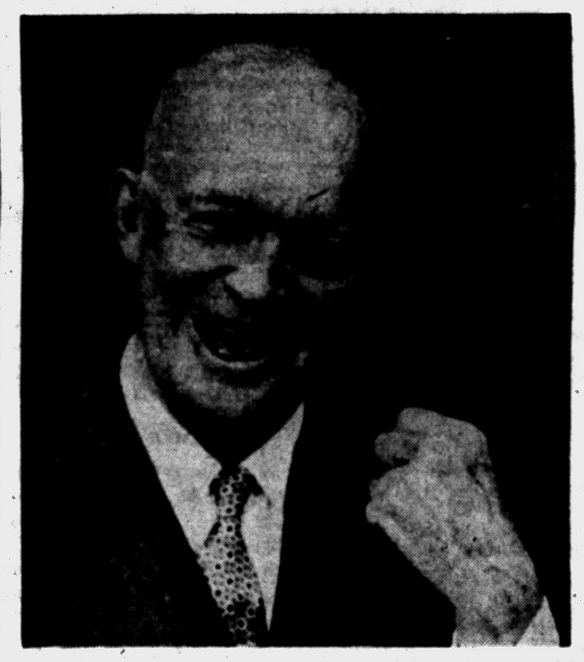

★ ★ ★

"The public, after four and a half years, has decided that even Ike can't remake an elephant. Apparently Mr. Eisenhower has just as much trouble as F.D.R. had before him in trying to impart his popularity to a candidate, or to defeat him with a blast."

Jack Foster, editor, Rocky Mountain News (Denver): "Politically speaking, the public out here is not very much concerned about whether Ike can impress his image on the Republican party. They know he cannot. For he is not going to run again. If they think about politics much at all at this stage, they are interested in who will run in his place."

A. T. Burch, associate editor, Chicago Daily News: "The Republican party in Illinois has always been more conservative than the national average. It is not very 'modern' today and will not be easily 'reshaped.'"

AP Wirephoto

STANDS FIRM — President Eisenhower gestures at his news conference as he resumes the fight for his budget by declaring he does not see how an honest cut of 2½ billion dollars can be made in the 38½ billions earmarked for defense. The President said the country is going to be in trouble if Congress trifles with defense spending.

LITTLE INTEREST

Edward M. Pooley, editor, El Paso (Tex.) Herald-Post: "We are little interested in the Republicans, except every four years. Then we take a look at the candidate, rather than the party."

Ralph McGill, editor, Atlanta Constitution: "There is a hard core of dedicated Eisenhower men in the Southeast, but the southern business and commercial interests which flocked to Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956 still are more in the old Taft image and will remain so. The President's modern Republican policy is being sabotaged by the old line Dixie Republicans."

EISENHOWER AND GOLF, Georgia and Gettysburg.

Foster (Denver): "I find very little public criticism of Ike's frequent trips to Georgia and Gettysburg. Not even many jokes. The public recognizes the heavy burden of his job, and relies on him to establish his own routine."

Beetle (Albany): "Easterners, by and large, go along with the President's golfing and his Gettysburging. 'I wish my husband played golf more,' observed a housewife."

Pinkley (Los Angeles): "Locally, there is little talk about Ike's spending too much time playing golf, as there once was. Most people want him to relax and take care of himself so he will be in good shape to make the really important, top level decisions."

Pooley (El Paso): "People like Ike personally but they wonder how he can find so much time to spend away from his job. Personally, I wish he would tell. My foursome would like to do as much golfing and traveling as he does. It is all right for him to get out and relax, but it is a bad example."

★ ★ ★

McGill (Atlanta): "There seems to be no real objection to Ike's playing as much golf as he wishes. Although there are those who object to his playing because they think it injurious to his health."

Burch (Chicago): "Nobody but Democrats seem to be angry about the time Ike spends in Gettysburg and Georgia. The use of the telephone is widely understood in Illinois and the people of this state assume they have such things in Georgia and Pennsylvania."

Bakers Union:

Resume Scandal Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rackets Committee resumes its hearings today on alleged scandals in the Bakers Union.

Lining up five witnesses from the 160,000-member union, the committee announced it would explore charges of collusion between some union officials and employers with whom they bargain collectively for union members.

Mann was forced to resign as president of the local when the union's national president, James G. Cross, placed Local 100 under trusteeship in January 1955 and installed George L. Stuart as trustee. It since has been absorbed into Local 1.

Stuart invoked the Fifth Amendment June 6 in refusing to tell the committee whether he had misused union funds. He had resigned as the union's national vice president after allegations of wrongdoing in its hierarchy had exploded into public controversy last winter.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy indicated it may be tomorrow before Cross is called to the witness stand for questioning on prior testimony that the union president channeled large sums from the union's treasury to a convicted Los Angeles prostitute and provided her with cars at the union's expense.

Elect Heads at Conclave

Chippewa Lodge No. 29 of the Order of the Arrow celebrated its 30th anniversary and reelected Paul Heil of Milford as lodge chief during the group's annual spring conclave over the weekend at Boy Scout Camp Agawam.

...Frank Breza of Utica and Jerry Badaluco of Farmington were reelected vice chiefs. Tom Stringer of Green Lake is now secretary and John Poponea of Pontiac is the new treasurer.

Seventy-four candidates were initiated into the Order, a national society of Boy Scout honor campers and camp leaders.

A highlight of the event was the elevation of two members to the Vigil Honor, third and highest degree in the Order which is awarded only after approval by the National Lodge. Named to this select honor were O. D. Bostwick, ranger at the camp, and Frank Breza, who has been a lodge officer for several years

★ ★ ★

Providing an international flavor to the conclave was a Boy Scout troop from Windsor, Ont.

As a service to the camp, the members set up tent sections and made other preparations for the summer season which begins next week.

It Needs Circulation

Even Hair Can Be Exercised

By ELMER WHEELER

Now Elmer brings you to another sensible theory on keeping your body, including your hair, alive—exercise.

It stands to reason, says my doc, if a guy lives all day long in a hot office, then goes home in a stuffy bus, or enclosed car; then sits in an enclosed house, movie, or at a card table, he lacks exercise.

In lacking exercise he lacks stimulation—circulation.

Lack of exercise, it seems, can affect the scalp and hair in at least two ways:

1. There is no blood circulation which you get from physical activity.

2. A sedentary person doesn't eat as well and as much as an active person, so gets little vital food values.

You see exercise makes us hungry. We eat more. We get more valuable hair-saving ingredients.

THAT SHAGGY HAIR

Maybe that is why the pioneers all seemed to have shaggy hair, not so much from lack of barbering facilities, but due to their active lives and the fact they ate the food off the land around them.

You'd perhaps sleep through the day if you ate three heavy meals like your grandpa, but you'd get rest and relaxation, anyway, and perhaps not "worry your hair off" or "tear it to shreds" mentally.

Today, look at the college boys. So many are balding or on the way. In a few years they'll surely need the psychosomatic treatment for permanent bald boys that doc promised to reveal to me later on.

One final item called to my attention on washing the hair is the need for complete rinsing.

Soap is fine to cleanse the hair of dirt, grime and the same stuff that collects on your car; but soap left on the car or the scalp defeats the job.

Wash no less than twice a week, says the dermatologists!

The natural oil that is washed off can be replaced by mild hair dressings and by brushing the hair, which stirs up the oil sacs and gives the hair the luster you had in high school.

Remember, too, it is normal to lose some hair. Everybody loses some, my doc says. It is only when you begin to lose an abnormal lot that you should drop in and see a good M.D.

He'll tell you what to do. Who to see. What to use.

One other bit of information I garnered was that chronic constipation is a contributing cause of dandruff and scalp diseases, because the body is failing to remove poisonous wastes and all parts of the body, including the scalp, are naturally affected.

Massaging by the barber is good. His modern-day tonics are stimulating, but are not designed to cure scalp troubles or make hair grow.

Tonics serve their purpose well in making you look less like a nanny goat, providing you don't overdo them and look like one of those ducktail juvenile delinquents with the leather coats who are found in police stations.

NOT AN 'OIL CHANGE'

Just don't walk into a barber shop, as you do the service station, and ask for "an oil change."

Lanolin is the latest discovery for the hair. The properties of lanolin approximate the natural oil of the human skin and are declared good in hair dressings.

But lanolin won't grow hair.

"Don't walk into the barbershop and ask for an oil change."

Eventually experiments may show that chlorophyll may help the scalp. This is not known yet, but the doctors are working on the various benefits of this "green stuff" that nature puts into plants.

Alfalfa seems to have lots of chlorophyll in it; so if you want to experiment, eat alfalfa.

In the main, I'm told, keep the scalp pliable. It is tightly drawn over the head like a drum, which is why perhaps you see business men today "beating their heads."

Get a mechanical massager if you can't borrow your wife's hands. Many are on the market. They loosen up the scalp and make you feel good.

But none will put hair back on the head.

If all else fails, there's that horrible dome doily I'm trying to avoid. But, if, for esthetic reasons, you want one, get it.

Just don't rely on it if you are drowning.

Singing Stool Popularity Pleases Connee Boswell

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Connee Boswell, who has been singing from a stool for umpteen years, laughs when she comments, "This is the stool age."

★ ★ ★

And surely it is. It may have started when Mary Martin and Ethel Merman did their famous duet on the Ford golden anniversary spectacular. Now they all use them on TV.

Connee can afford to laugh now. But there were times when selling the stool was a tough and often losing battle.

"People don't realize how tough it is to have to make your way in show business with something like this," she remarked.

Connee had to make allowances for her inability to walk from the start of her career. Then she was singing with her two sisters. There was no problem when they appeared on radio. For theater dates they could open the act with the curtains parting on her at the piano with her sisters around her.

Eighteen years ago, the Boswell sisters split up.

"With me, it was a real thrill to get out and sing," Connee explained. "My sisters were never like that. They were just as happy to settle down and get married."

"It wasn't always easy," she commented. "There was an immediate resistance of many night club owners the minute they saw the wheelchair. They just wouldn't book me. And there were some comedians who wouldn't have me on their shows."

The stool was the solution to her problem. If she worked from a wheel chair in a night club, she couldn't be seen in the back rows. But the stool put her up high enough to be seen. The stool is mounted on a platform with wheels, so she can be brought onstage during a blackout and placed in position quickly.

Former Iraqi Premier Seeks New Cabinet

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Former Premier Ali Jawdat cast about today for a new Cabinet to succeed the government of strongman Nuri Said, who quit because of ill health.

King Faisal issued the mandate to Jawdat, a senator who twice headed the government of this pro-Western Arab nation.

Although Jawdat is a supporter of Said, some observers doubted he would follow the same policy as his predecessor. Informants said that as soon as he forms a new cabinet, Jawdat would suspend Parliament, where Said has a large majority.

Jawdat, 70, was premier in 1935 and again in 1950.

Said resigned 10 days ago. He wants to go to Germany for a physical checkup and will be away most of the summer.

'Sarah' Is Just a Jailbird

MCALESTER, Okla. (AP) — A 52-year-old escaped convict told McAlester officers his name was "Sarah" but his ruse didn't work. Police Capt. Jess Henson said that Ben J. May, who escaped from the Oklahoma State Penitentiary here, was attired ina dress, scarf and cotton stockings when they captured him in a chicken pen.

Reprieved Bear in Zoo

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Lincoln Park Zoo will welcome today a 300-pound grizzly bear which owes its life to Gov. Raymond Gary. The governor was given the animal last week by Yellowstone National Park rangers, who had planned to shoot it.

CHICAGO (AP) — Gerald Smith, 17, was testing the motor of a jalopy in a junkyard when the radiator fan snapped off. A section of the blade pierced his stomach, killing him.

Flash Floods Raise Problem

Many Forced to Flee From Their Homes After Heavy Rains

"A local flood which rises and subsides rapidly"- is the United States Weather Bureau's official definition for these meteorological freaks of spring and summer.

NO FORECAST

Unpredictable as lightning but dangerous as runaway locomotives, flash floods cannot be forecast in advance or controlled by man-made devices, the National Geographic Society says.

Yet these and the inundations from seasonal conditions on the flood plains of rivers cause damage estimated to range from $200,000,000 to $500,000,000 each year.

MUCH RAIN

At times an astonishing amount of rain falls. One of the severest rainstorms ever observed in the United States struck Cambridge, Ohio, in July 1914. Seven inches fell in 30 minutes. The air was so full of water that a party of persons caught in an open car found it almost impossible to breathe.

When the runoff from a sudden onslaught of rain is heavy, the soil cannot absorb the flow; drainage and sewage systems cannot carry it off fast enough.

Then cascades of water roar down hillsides. Streams and creeks swell to torrents. A wall of powerful, muddy water races unchecked through lowlands.

DISAPPEARS QUICKLY

Often the wave of water disappears as suddenly as it came. But left behind are washed-out roads, devastated crops, denuded farmland and ravaged communities.

Typical of the flash flood's power was a catastrophe at Stokesville, Virginia, on June 17, 1949. In a few minutes Stokesville's 195 residents lost not only their homes, possessions, and livestock—but the very land beneath them.

A three-day rain had thoroughly soaked the forest floor on near-by mountains. When a cloudburst struck, rains stripped the earth from the mountainsides. Swollen streams bulldozed new channels through the fertile valley.

TORN AWAY

All topsoil was torn away from the valley floor, leaving it covered with a deep layer of rock.

What causes a cloudburst? It goes through several phases. At the onset, a bulging cumulus cloud is formed by an updraft reaching perhaps 40,000 feet. As racing currents build the cloud higher and higher, vapor starts condensing. Heat—thus more energy—is added to the updraft.

Tiny droplets form and begin falling, only to be lifted by the strong updraft. The droplets break into more droplets. The process is repeated on increasingly high levels until the cloud's water content has become too great to bear. Then it releases its burden in a violent flow, accompanied by thunder and lightning.

Editor Pickets, Fasts, to Protest Atom Tests

★ ★ ★

Ammon Hennacy, associate editor of the Catholic Worker in New York, said yesterday he will not eat until June 28, the date scheduled for the testing of one of the biggest nuclear devices ever exploded in the United States.

★ ★ ★

Hennacy said that every year since 1950 he has fasted Aug. 6, anniversary of the drop of an atomic bomb on Hiroshima.

Rules FBI Files Can Remain Secret

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge here has ruled that FBI don't have to be made available to the defense before trial of a criminal case.

On June 3 the high court ruled that once the government calls FBI informants as prosecution witnesses in criminal cases it must make the pertinent FBI files available to the defense or drop the case.

Palmieri's decision was the direct opposite of a ruling last Saturday by Federal Judge Burnita S. Matthews in Washington. Judge Matthews ruled that counsel for Midwest Teamsters Union boss James R. Hoffa was entitled to examine certain FBI documents before trial. Hoffa is charged with bribery and conspiracy.

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Comments and criticisms came this way after the couple articles on Pontiac High School, and it is interesting to note just how few people there are who realize where the downfall has been in the Pontiac sports and recreation scene.

One person connected with a junior high setup claimed there was no basis for the articles and they were written without thorough investigation.

We beg to differ in both instances. The records of past Pontiac athletic teams is the simplest and best reason for bringing the situation into the open.

And as far as going through the facts carefully, for two months we checked every condition and alternative in pro and con of the current athletic setup and in the final result common sense dictated where the faults lie—in early organization and in present facilities.

We looked into the athletic programs of other communities, and found the most successful to be those which turned away from the kind of junior high and elementary program which now exists in Pontiac.

Those planning to develop lower level programs made it clear they would not copy Pontiac's type of system.

ABOUT THOSE 7 COACHES

The point about the seven coaches in the Pontiac football organization has been brought up quite often.

In fact, in the recent school board election one of the candidates in his campaign circulars made a point of objection of the waste of taxpayer's money by having seven coaches.

This is ridiculous and it would frighten me to think that such a person running for a responsible position in the school system would make such a rash statement without carefully checking the facts.

★ ★ ★

First of all, Pontiac High does not have seven varsity coaches. In the past there have always been six faculty men given extra duties in football to handle the entire Pontiac High program, including the varsity, junior varsity and reserve teams.

NO ADDED FINANCIAL BURDENS

Adding another man to the staff did not add any additional financial burdens on the school system. The new head football coach Jesse MacLeay asked the addition of the 7th man and in turn he offered to serve as assistant track coach without compensation.

The assistant track coach ordinarily would receive small compensation, therefore that amount now would be used for another reserve coach, and MacLeay would receive nothing additional to help in track.

In the two-part series of articles we pointed out the difficulties which the high school coaches must face in getting only a small number of boys from junior high who have been versed in any kind of fundamentals.

A great number of the boys going out for football in senior high have had nothing in fundamentals, therefore rather than eliminate them because of this, the manpower is needed to keep as many boys as possible on the various squads.

Remember also that Pontiac High is the second largest school outside of Detroit in the state, actually the size of two class A schools with a staff, which by fair proportions, is doing a job of 10 or 12, if there were two schools here.

It also is very obvious that if the coaches weren't in the senior high program, they would have to be had in the junior high to make any kind of new program successful. And as yet, no reorganization to accommodate more boys in junior high school has been made.

Could Make It by Sweeping 3 From Yankees

Hoeft Expected to Be Today's Starter for Detroit Club

NEW YORK (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, on the road again after one of their more successful home stands in recent years, tonight go against the team they need most to beat right now — the New York Yankees.

★ ★ ★

The Yankees are in second place, two games in front of the third-place Tigers.

A sweep of the three-game series would lift the Tigers into second place behind the Chicago White Sox. A 2-1 split of the series would leave the Tigers one game behind the Yankees.

The starting pitcher for the Tigers in the first game with the Yankees is expected to be Billy Hoeft, a southpaw who won 20 games last season. His mark so far this eason is not so impressive — one victory, three losses, and only one complete game in nine outings.

On the hill for the Yankees will be Bobby Shantz (7-1).

★ ★ ★

The Tigers so far this season have found the world champion Yankees to be easy pickings. They have trimmed the Yankees six times in eight games.

In falling three times in a four-game series at Detroit, the Yankees made their contribution to the Tigers' recent successful home stand. Boston's Red Sox fell to the Tigers three straight.

All told, the Tigers won 10 games and lost three in their home stand, boosting themselves from fifth place to a strong third.

A 2-1 decision over Boston Sunday — the result of Jim Bunning's three-hit pitching and Harvey Kuenn's 10th-inning homer on a 3-2 pitch — gave the Tigers a five-game winning streak. That's their longest of the season.

There were no games in the American League yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The Tigers will be on the road two weeks and will play 13 games three at New York, four at Baltimore, three at Washington and three at Boston.

Shaw Leads Jaycee Golfers

Five Pontiac area boys, led by Jon Shaw of Green Lake road, qualified for the state Junior Chamber of Commerce golf tournament Monday afternoon in the Waterford Jaycee tourney at Pontiac Country Club.

Shaw fired 39-37—76 in the 18-hole tournament to capture medalist honors. Sam Coleman, Pontiac High golfer, finished 2nd with 36-41—77 and missed a chance to be medalist by taking an eight on the 510-yard 18th hole. Coleman was even par up to that time.

Joe Anderson, Charles Canterbury and Jerry Kelly complete the list of state qualifiers. Anderson shot 37-41—78, Canterbury had 41-41—82, and Kelly posted 42-45—87.

The Waterford tourney was the 1st of three Jaycee-sponsored golf events this month for Oakland County youths who are not 18 years old by Aug. 15 of this year.

Pontiac's Jaycee chapter holds its outing tomorrow morning at City Municipal Golf Course. The top three shooters earn a trip to the state tourney.

All contestants are requested to report to the 1st tee a 8:30 a.m. to take part in a driving contest. The 18-hole rounds will start immediately following the driving competition. Entries will be accepted until tee-off time, co-chairman Bernard Buck has announced.

Birmingham's Jaycee tournament is scheduled next Monday at Birmingham Country Club. A total of 10 boys will represent this area in the state tourney at Grand Rapids July 8-9.

Cheating Charge Denied by Grid Ace at Stanford

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Football star John Brodie denies he cheated and says he's going to fight a ruling that prevented him from graduating with the rest of his Stanford University class.

★ ★ ★

"I know I didn't copy anything," said Brodie, 22, who topped the nation last year in both passing and total offense. He commented yesterday from Las Vegas, Nev., where he is honeymooning.

Alston Gets Suspended

CINCINNATI (INS) — Walter Alston, manager of Brooklyn's National League champions, has been suspended for three days and fined $75 "for the language he used" in his dispute with umpire Frank Secory at Ebbets Field Sunday.

League President Warren Giles also informed shortstop Pee Wee Reese last night that he was being fined $50 for the same incident although he was not being suspended.

Brown, Zulueta Ready

DENVER (AP) — Champion Joe Brown and Orlando Zulueta, both superbly conditioned, loafed today after three weeks of stiff training for their lightweight title fight tomorrow night.

★ ★ ★

The scheduled 15-round bout in the Denver Coliseum will be televised nationally over ABC at 9 p.m. EST.

★ ★ ★

Brown, 30-year-old titleholder from Houston, Tex., and Zulueta, 28, who says this country needs more hand made cigars from his native Cuba, will weigh in at 1 p. m., EST tomorrow at the Coliseum.

For the benefit of sportswriters they stepped on the scales yesterday at the windup of their training grind. Brown was right on the limit—135 pounds. Zulueta weighed 134½.

★ ★ ★

"If I'm not ready now I'll never be," Zulueta said. "This is the chance I've been waiting for." The slender Cuban holds victories over four champions but none was in a title match.

Advance ticket sales have been slack and most observers figure there'll be less than 5,000 fans in the 11,000-seat Coliseum.

Toronto Routs Tiger Rookies in 16-4 Waltz

Lee, Tsitouris Hit Hard by International League Club

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League pasted Detroit rookie pitchers Don Lee and John Tsitouris for 14 hits, including a trio of three-run homers in a 12-run sixth inning, to defeat the Tigers 16-4 in an exhibition game last night.

The Leafs were behind 2-0 going into the bottom of the sixth. Then they sent 16 men to the plate, scoring a dozen times. Nine of the runs were accounted for by four-baggers hit by Russ Rac, Stan Jok and Lew Morton.

Lee, who started for Detroit, had a one-hitter going into the horrendous sixth when he was driven to cover on seven more safeties.

Tsitouris was tagged for another six hits and the last half dozen runs.

Pirates Rally to Beat Braves

Dodger Rookie Wins Debut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Brooklyn's pitching staff, trouble free just a couple of weeks ago but a battered bunch of late, may have found an added starter to take up the slack in Danny McDevitt — a kid southpaw who couldn't make the grade in class A ball a year ago.

★ ★ ★

The Dodgers, who skidded from the National League lead to fifth place while winning only two of their last 10 games, threw the lefty against Cincinnati last night and came off with a 7-2 victory as they started their second western invasion of the season.

★ ★ ★

McDevitt, 24, fresh from St. Paul, struck out 11, spaced seven hits and had only infrequent troubles while gaining a complete game in his Major League debut.

The victory pushed the Brooks up to fourth, while the Redlegs slipped from third to fifth, as the perplexing Pittsburgh Pirates defeated first place Milwaukee 7-5 with four ninth-inning runs in the only other game scheduled in the majors.

McDevitt, a 5-11, 175 pounder born in New York but now a Greenwood, Miss., resident, started out with Macon in the Sally League last season, but was sent down to Cedar Rapids of the Class B Three-I league with a 1-4 record and a 7.46 earned run average. At Cedar Rapids he was 5-8, with a 3.53 ERA. He had 127 strikeouts for the year, but walked 135.

This year he was 6-4, striking out 73 in 87 innings, and had a 1.86 ERA at St. Paul of the American Assn. He was called up last weekend.

★ ★ ★

The Dodgers tagged loser Johnny Klippstein for three runs in the second inning, opened by Gino Cimoli's home run and capped by McDevitt's squeeze bunt. Brooks Lawrence, fourth Redleg pitcher, was touched for three runs in the ninth as Cincinnati continued its skid with a 12th defeat in the last 16 games.

★ ★ ★

Gene Freese was 4-for-4 for the Pirates and scored the tying run after socking his second double to get the ninth-inning rally under way against losing reliever Dave Jolly. The Bucs, outhit 17-10, pulled two squeeze bunts in the frame.

★ ★ ★

The American League race finds the first place Chicago White Sox carrying their 3½-game lead into Baltimore tonight. New York's second place Yankees, who made up a game and a half on the White Sox with a 9-4 record on their western trip, are home to the third place Detroit Tigers. Cleveland's at Boston, Kansas City at Washington.

Management Waits on Sidelines

Solons Call Time Out in Sports Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress took time out today in its investigation of pro sports enterprises while the big names of baseball management waited on the sidelines.

★ ★ ★

Only one witness, Rep. Harris (D-Ark), got to plead his case in person when the House antitrust subcommittee opened hearings yesterday.

And by the time the lawmakers finished putting teammate Harris through the paces, there was no time left for anyone else.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Victor R. Hansen, head of the Justice Department's antitrust division, did slip in a prepared statement advising the subcommittee to study hard before deciding to grant professional sports immunity from federal antitrust laws. Then the subcommittee recessed until tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

The Supreme Court has ruled that baseball is exempt from the antitrust statutes, but that pro football is not.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, who watched among the spectators as Harris went to bat, will be called tomorrow. He and George M. Trautman, president of the minor leagues, will be preceded, however, by witnesses who had to take a rain check yesterday.

★ ★ ★

These include Rep. Byrnes (R-Wis) and Earl Kintner, general counsel of the Federal Trade Commission. Byrnes' testimony—in which he backed the reserve clause in sports contracts and pro football's player draft — already had been made public but he faces questioning by committee members.

★ ★ ★

Harris spoke for his own bill, which would declare baseball, football, basketball and ice hockey exempt from antitrust jurisdiction. This would immunize such commercial activities as dealing for television and radio broadcast rights, as well as exempting the reserve clause binding a player to his club, and other practices.

★ ★ ★

Bobo Meets Maxim in Comeback Scrap

PORTLAND, Or. (AP) — Carl "Bobo" Olson, who says he's just as durable now as when he held the middleweight boxing championship two years ago, tries a comeback tonight.

Breezes Fail, No Races

When light winds, during the weekend races for Watkins Lake Yachting association dropped to a whisper, only one event was completed. Guy Duffield and wife Nancy, in the snipe, G-Wiz, were first and Byaes, skippered by Frank Fleck, with Chuck Morris crew finished 2nd. Both the thistle and lightning divisions were over time limits.

Richards Talks of Retirement

The vaulting parson was referring to the record jump of 15 feet, 9¾ made by Bob Gutowski in Austin, Tex., Saturday and made the comment in reply to a question on whether he might retire from competition.

He conceded he has given thought to retiring and commented desire is a must for a champion. Richards said, "Boxers call it hunger. You've got to want something real bad. I can remember a time when I was that way."

First Baptist Beaten After 54-Game Streak

A 54-game winning streak which had extended over 2½ years came to an end last night when First Baptist bowed to Christian Missionary Alliance 3-1 in the Church Softball League.

Three unearned runs produced the win for D. Badder as loser F. Hicks allowed only two hits. St. Luke's Methodist increased its 1st place lead with a 4-2 victory over Social Brethren aided by D. Earnest's home run, and Columbia Ave. Baptist made five double plays in nipping Church of Brethren 3-2.

MONDAY'S STARS

PITCHING — Danny McDevitt, Dodgers, struck out 11, spaced seven hits for a 7-2 victory over Redlegs in major league debut.

HITTING—Gene Freese, Pirates had four hits in four trips and triggered a winning four-run rally in the ninth with his second double for 7-5 victory over Braves.

Lucky anglers were Henry Paddubny (above), 837 Gibson, Oxford, and Garland G. Hale, 160 Auburn, Pontiac. Hale's entry was one and a half inches longer, at 20½ inches. The pair was the 3rd and 4th entries of The Press contest.

Hall Twirls 2nd No-Hitter as Jeweler String Hits 54

Shaw's Jewelers played their 9th game of the 1957 City League softball season last night at Beaudette Park and added another glorious chapter to their fantastic success story.

Although it marked a continuing milestone for Shaw's, it was the same old story for the opposition — goose-eggs.

Doug Hall, who pitched a perfect game for the Jewelers early in the season, made his 2nd appearance of the year Monday evening and hurled another no-hit, no-run masterpiece as Shaw's trimmed Stadium Inn, 8-0.

This performance was not flawless like the 1st chore, but the result was the same. Hall walked the 1st batter to face him, then walked another man and hit one in the 5th inning. But there were still no hits.

Hall's gem zoomed to 54 the number of consecutive scoreless innings hurled by the Jeweler mound corps. Shaw pitchers have given up only six hits in eight games and Hall's no-hitter was their 3rd of the year. Victory No. 9 was won by forfeit.

Pitcher Bob Harris won his own ball game with a 7th-inning single as Pontiac Select-a-Drink edged Oxbow Pavillion, 5-4, and Richard's Tavern scored two unearned runs in the bottom of the 8th stanza to nip Drive-In Cleaners, 5-4.

Flint Is Next for 'Open' Pros

Tourney Starts Thursday With Leading Names

International Matches Today Feature U.S. and Canadian Teams

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

FLINT—The excitement of the National Open may have died down, except for champion Dick Mayer who claims it is still hard for him to believe his victory, but today many of the top pros and amateurs have gathered at the Flint Golf Club for $37,000 Flint Open.

Six of the top finishers at Toledo over the weekend are committed to play in the tourney which actually gets underway Thursday and lasts through Sunday.

Today, in pre-tourney activity, the Carling International match is being played. A team of four pros and four amateurs from the U. S. is matched against a similar squad of Canadians.

The lineup has Jimmy Demaret and Chuck Kocsis versus Al Balding and Eric Hansen; Doug Ford and Glenn Johnson versus Stan Leonard and Done Doe; Julius Boros and Doug Blom versus Gordy Brydson and Nick Weslock; Dow Finsterwald and Bob Shave versus Gerry Kesselring and Gary Cowan. Tee-off time was set at 1:00 p.m.

A total of 152 entries have been accepted for the tournament and officials have decided against holding qualifying rounds. On the list are 42 Michigan pros but only seven amateurs. Some of the local entries include Wally Burkemo, Gene Bone, Max Evans and Mike Dietz.

★ ★ ★

Officials were still hoping for word from Dick Mayer, Open champion, on whether or not he will be here.

'Red' Helps at 2nd

★ ★ ★

In the weeks preceding the announcement Saturday night the Braves had acquired Schoendienst in exchange for leftfielder Bobby Thomson, second baseman Danny O'Connell and righthanded pitcher Ray Crone, the National League leaders had two things in mind.

One was to strengthen their hand at second, which they did. Schoendienst has few, if any, peers at the position although at 34 he has slowed a step or two. The other was to bolster leftfield, which they didn't.

As late as Saturday night, it was learned that John Quinn, Braves' general manager, tried to get Walt Moryn from the Cubs or Gus Bell from Cincinnati. In the last few weeks, he also was reported to have tried to land the Pirates' Frank Thomas, the Giants' Don Mueller and Del Ennis of St. Louis.

So with Thomson back in his old Polo Grounds haunts, the question before the house is, "Who is going to play leftfield for our Braves?"

The answer, apparently, must be given in plural form — just as it has been given most of the time since the season began.

Wes Covington, 25, a lefthanded power-hitter who was a disappointment in the first month of the season and was farmed out, and veteran Andy Pafko, who swings from the right side of the plate, probably will divide the duties, depending on the opposing pitcher.

Detroit Players Leading Voting

Kaline and Kuenn Head All-Star Tilt Hopefuls in Local Poll

Detroit Tiger players hold good leads at four of the eight starting positions on the American League All-Star team after three weeks of voting in the Pontiac area.

Local voters have one more week to turn in their ballots in the national poll which ends at noon, June 25. The annual battle between the two Major Leagues is scheduled for July 9.

Al Kaline and Harvey Kuenn continued to be the biggest vote getters in the entire poll for this sector with 125 and 122 votes, respectively. Mickey Mantle has also topped 100 with 104. Ray Boone and Reno Bertoia are other Tigers leading the race at their positions. Stan Musial has dominated the NL ballots being named 94 times.

Every part of Oakland County and some surrounding towns have been represented in the voting thus far. Besides Pontiac, entries have come in from Auburn Heights, Keego Harbor, Bloomfield Hills, Birmingham, Rochester, Clarkston, Lake Orion, Holly, Milford, Ortonville, Oxford, Drayton Plains, Metamora, Imlay City, Clyde, Almont and several townships. Have you voted yet?

Webb, Joseph Meet in Top-Draw Battle

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The middleweight division, one of boxing's most popular and crowded with promising contenders, lures another big gate tonight when third-ranked Spider Webb of Chicago meets Charley Joseph of New Orleans.

★ ★ ★

Matchmaker Bonny Geigerman of the Louisiana Boxing Club said he expects a capacity crowd of slightly more than 9,000 and a gate of $20,000 for the 10-rounder at the Municipal Auditorium. It will not be televised or broadcast.

Hoad, Althea Gibson Wimbledon Favorites

LONDON (AP)—Wimbledon officials agreed with the gamblers, fans and the tennis players themselves today and named Lew Hoad of Australia and Althea Gibson of New York as top seeds for the June 24-July 6 championships.

Hoad has been the overwhelming choice to defend his title successfully and become the first two times winner of the world's premier tournament since Don Budge won in 1937-39.

Ward Quits Golf Tourney

DALLAS (AP) — Harvie Ward, National Amateur champion who's in the USGA's doghouse over expense money, plays a practice round while the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament is going on today. And to hear him tell it, practice will be about all the golfing he'll do for the next 10 months.

★ ★ ★

The handsome young man from San Francisco is under one-year probation because his boss, Eddie Lowery, a former USGA committeeman, paid his expenses to golf tournaments. He had just played in the National Open at Toledo under his "application for reinstatement."

Bob Goldwater of Phoenix, Ariz. president of the Trans-Mississippi, didn't tell Ward to withdraw but he left it up to the two-time amateur king, saying "we made a mis-

Then, when Ward withdrew "rather than cause any embarrassment to the Trans-Mississippi or the USGA due to a misunderstanding about my amateur status," Goldwater praised him for being "the great sportsman that he is."

College Star Leads Trans-Mississippi

DALLAS (AP) — Collegian Jack Moore of Durant, Okla., topped the Trans-Mississippi Golf tournament today as another batch of more than 100 players attempted to take medalist honors away from him.

He was two strokes ahead of Willard Crenshaw, 42, Dallas, who was two strokes to the good over Cy Northrup of Owatonna, Minn., Rocky Thompson of Wichita Falls, Tex., Dick Whetzle of Dallas, and Bill Eschenbrenner of Fort Worth.

Opening of Bass Season Speeds Press Fish Derby

By H. GUY MOATS

Pontiac Press "big fish derby" got off to a flying start, last weekend, with opening of the state's black bass season. While pike and bluegills have been legal prey for some time, they were still not yet eligible for the summer-long angling contest, until the bass season opened.

Now, the 3-way "derby" is in full swing, with the heaviest fish in each classification winning a $50 U. S. Savings Bond. There are two important regulations—only full-time Oakland County residents are eligible, and all fish must be taken by hook and line from an Oakland County lake.

Just now the bass (both large and smallmouths) are in the forefront. Many good entries have been received in the few days since start of the season. Biggest are two of exactly the same heft, 4-pounds-10-ounces. But they probably will not hold up very long, for many 5-pounders have been taken from Pontiac Lake (open waters) before the regular season began. Never has a fish of less than 5¾ pounds won this contest.

Bluegills and pike also are beginning to hit well in area lakes, and some good entries are anticipated in these classes.

Leaders first of the week were entries by Henry Paddubny, 837 Gibson, Oxford, and Garland G. Hale, a Grand Trunk signalman, 189 Auburn, Pontiac. Paddubny used a red-eyed white jitterbug to hook his fish in a private lake near Indianwood lake. It gave him a five minute battle. His brother William, of Metamora, was with him.

Hale's entry was taken from Seymour Lake, near Ortonville, in Brandon Township. It hit a green jitterbug on a light (3-pound test) nylon line (light spin rig) and put up a terrific 15-minute fight. It was boated without a landing net, too, when it was seen to have been hooked lightly on a cheekplate. Mrs. Hale was along, reported the bass "looked like it was 5-feet long."

Among others who took nice bass was Bill Pittman, 3975 Motorway drive, Elizabeth Lake, who took a 4-pounder from Elizabeth Lake, and Don Williams, 510 North Saginaw, with a 10½-inch 'gill landed at Elizabeth Lake. Warren Dishman, 1357 Locke Street, Pontiac, fishing with his buddy, John Tysick 659 Boyd, took a battling 4-pound-6-ounce largemouth from Galloway Lake. It was 19 inches long and the boys' only bass of the day.

GOP Establishes 'Hall of Fame'

Six State Republicans Included in First List of 61 Members

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republicans now have a "Hall of Fame" for party members who did well early in life in the GOP.

Six Michiganders, including Sen. Potter and five congressmen, are in the first list of 61 to be entered in the "Hall." The young Republican National Federation set up the "Hall of Fame" Sunday.

The Federation holds its 10th annual convention this week and portraits of the 61 will be on display.

To be eligible to the "Hall of Fame," a Republican must have been 38 years old or younger when elected or appointed to high office. He could also be eligible if he had been an active member of the young Republicans.

The Federation said its purpose in setting up the "Hall" is to show that "The Young Republican movement has become the number one training ground for political leadership in the Republican party." It said the "Hall" also is intended to show that the national leadership of the GOP includes many young people.

Caution Noted in Grain Action

CHICAGO (AP)—Caution keynoted early trading in grain futures on the Board of Trade today as prices eased off slightly from yesterday's bulge in wheat.

Many traders preferred to await the outcome of Thursday's referendum, in which a quarter of a million wheat farmers will decide whether or not to adopt government acreage allotments, before heeding the upward tendency in prices prompted by continued damp weather on the farms.

The stimulus which caused an upswing of around three cents a bushel in wheat contracts yesterday was absent today, with the local longs apparently liquidated and no inclination for speculative pressure on crop damage reports. Corn, oats and soybeans kept step with wheat.

Near the end of the first hour, wheat was ½ to ¼ lower, new style July $2.05; corn ½ to ⅜ lower, July $1.29⅛; oats ¼ lower, July 64⅝; rye ¼ higher to ¼ lower, July $1.19¾; soybeans unchanged to ¼ lower, July $2.31¾; and lard two to ten cents higher, July $12.52.

State Utilities to Pay Over $20 Million

LANSING (AP) — Public utilities in Michigan will pay $20,841,188 in state property taxes this year, an increase of $1,597,639 over 1956, the state board of assessors said today.

The board said assessed valuation aggregated $635,372,000, compared with $598,982,000 for last year, an increase of 6.1 per cent.

The 1957 tax rate is $32.80 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation. In 1956, it was $32.13 a thousand.

One hundred twenty-two telephone and telegraph companies bore the biggest share of the increase, rising 10.9 per cent. Car loaning companies increased 13.2 per cent.

Assessed valuations for sleeping car companies declined 2.9 per cent while those for express companies remained unchanged.

Rolling Car Strikes Boy Riding Tricycle

★ ★ ★

Mercer told police he had parked the car in the driveway of his home and left it in parking gear with the emergency brake on. Evidently, he told police, one of his children got into the car and released the brake.

The car rolled into the street, striking Steven B. Rosseau, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Rosseau, of 235 Longfellow Ave., as he rode his tricycle down the sidewalk.

He was taken to Pontiac General Hospital where he was treated for cuts and bruises and released to his parents.

Market Decline Led by Metals

Key issues were down from fractions to two points or so. A few selected issues made gains.

★ ★ ★

Trading was moderately active and there was no particular selling pressure.

Coppers and nonferrous metals generally were the worst sufferers. Steels also were lower as were aircafts.

The coppers were continuing to react to the news of lower world prices for the red metal while nickel producers were hit by the growing supply, which is tied-in with the easing of government stockpiling.

Both Anaconda and Kennecott fell more than two points apiece. International Nickel dropped more than three. American Smelting was off a major fraction. But Phelps Dodge remained steady.

★ ★ ★

As the rate of steel output dipped, U.S. Steel and Bethlehem were fractionally lower. Youngstown Sheet and Allegheny Ludlum were off about a point each. Lukens was off fractionally, then posted a gain of a point or so.

United Aircraft was down a couple points. Boeing and Douglas lost a point or more.

Humphrey Will Defend Ike's Spending Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey goes before the Senate Finance Committee today to defend Eisenhower administration fiscal and monetary policies.

The committee is probing the nation's financial condition. The inquiry is expected to run many months, probably into 1958.

The committee's investigation resolution is broad in scope, ranging from taxes and credit to the national debt and interest rates.

Some Democratic committee members plan to center their fire on what they call a "tight money," high interest rate policy followed by the administration.

They contend this has added more than a billion dollars to the federal budget in higher interest charges on the debt, hurt small business firms which must borrow money, and hit hard at the individual who makes purchases on time or buys a home with a mortgage.

PROSPERITY POLICY

The general Republican answer to this has been that the administration's policies have continued the nation's unprecedented prosperity, and that inflation would have been much worse without monetary restraints.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), committee chairman, said in his statement prepared for the opening session that the investigation "will be the first full-dress examination of our fiscal and monetary policies" in half a century.

"The immediate occasion for this study," he said, "is the existing credit and interest situation and, more important, inflation which has started again with its ominous threat to fiscal solvency, sound money and individual welfare."

★ ★ ★

Among the things he was concerned about, Byrd said, were these:

The federal government, he said has abandoned a pay-as-you-go fiscal basis and has made no progress in reducing the World War II debt.

Public, private and corporate debt has soared from 600 billion dollars to 793 billions in the last four years.

WARTIME RATES

The dollar lost 47 cents of its value between 1940 and 1952, then was stable for about three years, but now has lost an additional two cents in the last year.

★ ★ ★

Interest on the federal debt has become so high it now takes 10 cents out of every dollar of the federal budget.

Officials Attack Water Trouble

Promises, to Remove Dirt, Given at Meeting in Waterford

Waterford Township officials last night promised "all possible effort will be made" to clear up the dirty water problem in the township subdivisions, particularly Huron Gardens.

★ ★ ★

Addressing a group of protesting Huron Gardens residents, Clerk James Seeterlin said hydrants will be flushed "as often as necessary" until the trouble is cleared up.

Seeterlin said high iron content in the water and a brief hookup with the Pontiac water system were major causes of the trouble. The Waterford system was hooked to Pontiac's while a tank was being cleaned last month. Resulting pressure changes stirred up the water, the clerk said.

Seeterlin said complaints have dropped in number since flushing began Saturday, following a rush of calls last week.

He told protestors that a township fireman would be assigned to flushing hydrants all this week, or until the trouble is cleared up.

Need $160,000 to Keep Campaign Going

Pinched for Money to Pay Cost of Graham Crusade

NEW YORK (AP) — Sponsors of evangelist Billy Graham's crusade have raised about $500,000 from donors and will need an estimated $160,000 more to sustain the Madison Square Garden meetings through July 21.

★ ★ ★

Roger Hull, chairman of the crusade sponsoring committee and head of the Mutual Insurance Co. of New York, said yesterday to continue the meeting schedule. "We'll get the money all right."

★ ★ ★

Hull said groups of businessmen and others were being called together at meetings this week and next to outline the needs.

But with the offerings at the meetings covering only a fraction of the overhead, the evangelist's extended New York crusade still has some financial problems.

Hull said that continuation of the weekly network telecasts next month depends on whether the money is available. The crusade proper and the telecasts are being budgeted separately.

★ ★ ★

It is estimated that the total budget may run nearly 1½ million dollars—about one million for the crusade itself and about half a million for Saturday night telecasts of the meetings.

★ ★ ★

The nightly collections, so far averaging less than 50 cents a person, won't quite cover a third of the over-all costs at that rate.

★ ★ ★

Human Changes to End Cancer?

Scientist Says Testing of Ducks Points Way to Stop Disease

PARIS (INS)—One of the world's leading biologists believes a new breed of French ducks may show the way to a cancer-free, long-living future for a renovated race of humans.

INJECT DUCKS

The ducks, originally of the "Pekin" type, had been injected right after birth with DNA, a substance extracted from the reproductive organs of a dissimilar breed called "Khaki."

At maturity, the ducks resembled neither breed but a type completely different from any known to science.

The researchers who performed the experiment, Father Pierre Leroy, director of France's National Center for Scientific Research, and Jacques Benoit, Professor of Histophisiology at the College of France, claim it is the first time in history that man has successfully induced genetic changes in vertebrate animals.

By extracting DNA from the blood-cells of healthy, cancer-free, oldsters between the ages o 80 and 90 and injecting it into healthy, young men, Rostand said, the normal aging process might be slowed down.

RACIAL TENSION

Blaming most racial tension on visual evidence like color, Rostand says that colors could be changed with DNA.

By injecting a Negro embryo with DNA from a white person, for example, Rostand said it was not too far-fetched to imagine that the child might experience imme ate changes in pigmentation that would ordinarily take generations of exclusive white breeding to accomplish.

★ ★ ★

DNA, an acid found only in the nucleus of living cells, had been isolated over ninety years ago but it was only ten years ago that its genetic properties were first suspected.

A Strasbourg couple, Drs. Roger ane Colette Vendrely, have done most of the recent research on DNA. Professor Benoit called on them for assistance in his "ducks experiment."

Mother Cares for Son

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. James T. Parker is official hostess at Miami Valley Hospital. It's getting so she greets her son more often than any other patient.

David, 10, her son, is the victim of a rare disease called osteo genesis imperfecto. It's more commonly called "brittle bones." Ever since the boy was four days old, he has been in and out of casts and tractions as the result of 20 fractures.

Crusader Stays Cheerful After Many Bad Breaks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A spunky little woman and her campaign in behalf of other handicapped have been temporarily sidetracked.

But Gertrude Smith has so much cheerfulness and drive, you decide after meeting her, nothing can keep her down very long.

Now a divorcee of 50, she used to be, she says, "high-powered Girl Friday type."

Then, at her office job nine years ago, her right leg started to drag. The impairment gradually grew worse; she began tripping and stumbling over things. Finally she could lift neither leg.

Doctors said she had multiple sclerosis, a disease that causes degeneration of nerve tissue and brings paralysis. She took to a wheelchair and got along on county aid.

★ ★ ★

It wasn't a very cheerfull existence for a woman who had been active. She joined the Rebounders, a club of 120 handicapped who help other afflicted, and found a need.

UNNECESSARY HANDICAP

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Smith launched a solitary campaign. She wrote to a motel magazine suggesting that doors, to spare the knuckles of wheelchair occupants, should be at least 30 inches wide. Her letter, published, brought replies of commendation. Some motels wrote her that they could accomodate wheelchairs, others said they'd revise building plans to do so.

Then she thought of a bigger idea:

Why couln't there be wheelchair ramps up library entrances? The branch library nearest her had two steep, concrete flights. And Mrs. Smith — like many wheelchair occupants, she says — loves to read.

And how about ramps into university buildings so afflicted could take night courses?

Couldn't supermarkets have railings that would lift to admit wheelchairs? And wide, uncluttered aisles so wheeled shoppers could pick out their own groceries?

She wrote to legislative bodies, building authorities and others, suggesting her ideas.

"It all could be done easily," she smilingly told a reporter. "It's simply in the why- haven't-we-though-of-it-realm"

She was interviewed in the small, drab cottage she rented out of her $75 a month county assistance.

Mrs. Smith had improved to the point where she had discarded her wheelchair and could get hesitantly about her house. She was full of eager plans for her campaign.

SECOND TRAGEDY

"The doctors say I have tuberculosis," she said. "I've got to go to a sanitarium for six months or so. Another of those milestones in my life! Doggone it, the hard part will be to keep idle!"

Meanwhile, she said, she's turning over campaign to others in the Rebounders. She still sounded cheerful.

NEEDLESS OBSTACLE — Gertrude Smith, who started a campaign for making things easier on persons in wheelchairs, surveys the steps which prevent her from entering a public library unassisted. Why not install a ramp, she asks?

Cleveland Reporter Writes Book on History of Violins

CLEVELAND (INS) — A Cleveland newspaperman with a penchant for collecting rare fiddles has written the first book in almost 50 years on the history and romance of violins.

He is William A. Silverman of the Cleveland News, whose newspaper career started at the age of 16 and has carried him to such papers as the Detroit Times, Detroit Free Press, Baltimore, Md. Post and Buffalo Times.

★ ★ ★

Silverman who has amassed a collection of some 30 violins over the past 20 years, has based his first book, "The Violin Hunter," on the life of Luigi Tarisio, the most famous violin collector in history.

"Every good violin has a pedigree — a pedigree that tries to trace its ownership," Silverman explained. "This is one of the things that helps to establish the value of the violin."

"I had seen a great many of these pedigrees. At some point in many of them I would run across the name of Tarisio. I began to wonder who was this fellow Tarisio and started digging around.

★ ★ ★

"I read memoirs of violin collectors of 100 years ago. That plus correspondence I carried on throughout the world enabled me to construct Tarisio's life."

By the year 1750, most of the great violin makers of Cremona, Italy — Stradivari, Guarneri, Bergonzi and others — were dead.

The actual worth of their creations was not understood in Italy at the time, and by 1800, most of them were gathering dust in attics and other out of the way places.

★ ★ ★

Tarisio, whose hopes of becoming a violinist were shattered because of injury suffered to his fingers, vowed he would bring back these masterpieces.

He dug through the attics, monasteries and neglected villas of Italy until he had two sacks full of the violins. Then he set out — on foot — for Paris to sell them.

His finds were welcomed by the Paris collectors, touching off a 27-year era in which Tarisio became the master collector of all-time.

★ ★ ★

Before he died, Tarisio — at one time or another — handled most of the instruments made by the great Stradivari — instruments that some day were to be played by performers such as Paganini, Elman, Kreisler, Francescatti, Milstein and Heifetz.

Truth outdoes fiction in Silverman's book as he tells how and where Tarisio fund the oft-times priceless violins.

Silverman, a one-time detective story writer, estimates that he wrote more than 1,000 letters to countries throughout the world, including Russia, to gather information for his book.

Most of the answers were received in foreign languages and for six years he kept Cleveland interpreters busy deciphering the contents of the letters.

Mails to Honor Steel Birthday

Print Special Stamp Denoting 100th Year for Industry

NEW YORK — America's steel industry is observing its Centennial this year with 120 million "billboards in miniature."

Steelways, official publication of American Iron and Steel Insitute, said the Post Office Department is honoring the steel industry's anniversary with a 3-cent postage stamp that will be in one of the Federal picture galleries of national glory.

The publication said the eagle and ladle on the stamp were selected to show the joint growth of America and steel, an industry that now employs 675,000 persons in 270 communities over 31 states and produces 40 per cent of the world's supply.

Strangely, steel inself helped the postal department to develop the engraving plates that provide the durability needed to permit economic and efficient printing to the billions of stamps demanded in this country annually.

Steelways said that prior to the introduction of modern steel in engraving, a run of 5,000 to 10,000 sheets was considered quite satisfactory. Today, a run of 500,000 is normal and runs as high as a million are not uncommon.

★ ★ ★

"Last year we printed about 24 billion stamps worth almost a billion dollars. You can figure out where we would have been if we had to change plates every five to ten thousand sheets."

IN MEMORY OF EDWARD J. Bragan: Who passed away June 18, 1954.
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
Sadly missed by wife, son and family.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF George Todoroff who passed away June 18, 1955.
Those whom we love go out of sight,
but never out of mind;
They are cherished in the hearts of those

Just to the end of his days;
sincere and true in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.

There Are Two Sides to This Squabble, Too

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Wowee wow, it looks like I touched off a big war between Jack Barry, m.c. of TV's "21" show, and the executive producer of "The $64,000 Question."

★ ★ ★

I wrote an interview with Barry in which he said the producer was "unethical" when he fired him a year ago as quizmaster of "The Big Surprise."

Denying that he alone fired him, the producer says, "One sponsor became dissatisfied with Jack almost from the start . . . couldn't get rid of Jack fast enough . . . was willing to replace Jack with practically anybody.

"At the end of the first 13-week cycle, Jack's contract was not picked up at the insistence of the dissatisfied sponsor. We went to bat for Jack, insisted that he be rehired. During the second cycle we auditioned Mike Wallace.

"Both clients liked him better than Jack. We then gave Jack his notice. For 15 weeks we were looking for a replacement. He knew all about it. Yet he continues to paint this picture of poor little Jack in a sailor suit whose lollypop was stolen from him.

"Jack says I was unethical because he read about his dismissal in a newspaper three hours before he got his notice. Why blame me? I didn't release any news to the press, nor did any person in our office.

"Losing a job is never pleasant," concludes the producer. "Yet it has happened to all of us. How successful must Jack get before his ruffled ego is soothed, and he is willing to forget a painful incident?"

★ ★ ★

And now, having told both sides at equal length, I propose we forget it and go to happier subjects.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

★ ★ ★

Our heart went out to "Mom" Dorsey, whose loyalty to her sons' horn-blowing was great. Of a rival musician, she once said scornfully, "He hasn't got enough wind to dust a fiddle" . . . Ethel Waters had a great reply when asked if she's a success singing for Billy Graham. "God has no flops," she said.

SHIRLEY VINCENT

EARL'S PEARLS: Sign in store window: "Try our easy payment plan. 100 per cent down, nothing more to pay."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Joni James and husband, Tony Acquiviva, house-hunting, told the real estate agent, "We want the kind of home Ed Murrow would be happy to visit." . . . That's earl, brother.

Claims Camera Freezes People

Veteran Radio Emcee Still Going Strong With 'Nightline' Show

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Radio is still very much alive—and so is Walter O'Keefe. This is demonstrable if you turn on NBC radio's "Nightline" on a Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday evening between 8:30 and 10 p. m.

★ ★ ★

The test of a true radio fan used to be one who recognized and enjoyed O'Keefe. It seemed he was all over the dail: "Magic Carpet," "The Rudy Vallee Show," "Town Hall Tonight," "Music Hall, "Double or Nothing.' He's as good on "Nightline' as he was 25 years ago.

Over lunch the other day he presided at brief memorial rites for the demise of the true ad lib show, which is extinct on television with the single exception of Groucho Marx, he was saying.

★ ★ ★

"It's the camera," said O'Keefe (who nevertheless has a TV show of his own up his sleeve). "People are terrified of it. They freeze."

Reminiscing about the days of "Double or Nothing" on radio, O'Keefe said that such ad libs as these just never appear on television:

Boy: "I just went."

O'Keefe (commenting on the hat of a lady guest): "I wish you people at home could see this lady's beautiful hat. It looks like the pattern on the rug in Hedy Lamar's bedroom."

Lady: "Well, lucky you."

Name just about anything you wish and O'Keefe has done it. He has even appeared on television.

"His hobby now (says O'Keefe on O'Keefe) is learning how to be a father, and with one son 22 and another 19, he is only in the first grade of his problem."

Boy Shoots Up Town, Medics to Find Out Why

CANONSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Psychiatrists will try to learn what caused a 10-year-old boy to frighten a small mining community by taking pot shots at everything that moved.

Joey Coleman, who went on a rampage in nearby Muse Sunday night, has been ordered committed to the Allentown State Hospital. Juvenile authorities took the action yesterday.

State police still don't know where Joey got two pistols and a large supply of ammunition with which he held people at bay. No one was wounded.

Robin Is Friend in Need When a Fella's Down

Guy is immobilized by a broken leg, suffered in an automobile accident. The bird, too young to fly, fell from its nest during a tree removal operation.

Mrs. Dorothy Kolb, a cousin of the boy, found the bird and brought it to him. The bird has a cage beside Guy's bed, but it perches for hours daily on the boy's head, shoulders or leg cast.

One Added Day of School Worth a Million Dollars

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — San Juan Union School District is off its million-dollar hook today and its 4,300 students are on summer vacation at last.

★ ★ ★

Most of the students showed up for school yesterday along with teachers and employes for the one day needed to make the 175 minimum for state aid amounting to a million dollars.

Supt. William T. Mooney had a hunch late last week, counted schooldays during the year and came up with a total of 174 through last Friday, which was the scheduled final day of the semester.

License Feud Erupts in Michigan, Illinois

LANSING (AP) — Michigan truckers involved in a hassle with Illinois authorities over truck license laws will be asked to air their grievances before the state reciprocity board.

The board yesterday agreed to call a meeting with truckers this week or next, then meet with Illinois officials in an effort to settle the dispute.

Secretary of State James M. Hare, board chairman, said truckers claim they have paid out some $82,000 for Illinois plates since Jan. 1 in violation of reciprocity agreements between the two states.

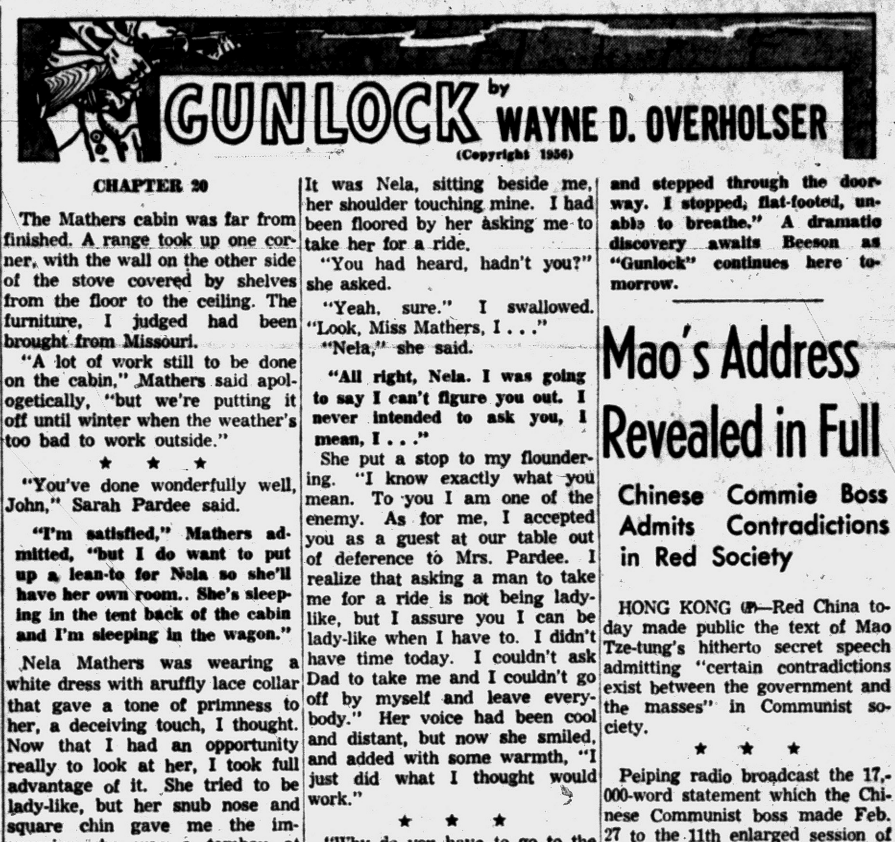

Under the agreement, Michigan truckers making deliveries in Illinois, or vice versa, are not required to buy license plates in the neighboring state.

Former Army Counsel Plans to Wed Soon

HARWICHPORT, Mass. (AP) — Joseph N. Welch, 66, Boston attorney who served as chief counsel for the Army in the McCarthy-Army hearings, announced yesterday he plans a summer or fall wedding.

Welch, a widower, will marry Mrs. Agnes Rodgers Brown of Chestnut Hill, a long-time family friend. Welch was a pallbearer at the funeral of her husband in 1956, the same year Welch's wife died.

GUNLOCK by WAYNE D. OVERHOLSER

CHAPTER 20

The Mathers cabin was far from finished. A range took up one corner, with the wall on the other side of the stove covered by shelves from the floor to the ceiling. The furniture, I judged had been brought from Missouri.

"A lot of work still to be done on the cabin," Mathers said apologetically, "but we're putting it off until winter when the weather's too bad to work outside."

★ ★ ★

"I'm satisfied," Mathers admitted, "but I do want to put up a lean-to for Nela so she'll have her own room. She's sleeping in the tent back of the cabin and I'm sleeping in the wagon."

Nela Mathers was wearing a white dress with aruffly lace collar that gave a tone of primness to her, a deceiving touch, I thought. Now that I had an opportunity really to look at her, I took full advantage of it. She tried to be lady-like, but her snub nose and square chin gave me the impression she was a tomboy at heart. Even when the conversation was serious, her gray eyes held a twinkle of laughter.

She was prettier than I had first thought. Her face had lost the peeled look and was smoothly tanned; and I liked the speed with which she put a good meal on the table.

She caught me staring at her and winked boldly at me. I lowered my head, my face hot with embarrassment. She looked down, too, laughing silently, and I wished I had her outside alone where I could deal with her properly.

The colony probably had some single men who were interested in her, and I could name at least six eligible cowboys who would be camping in front of Mathers' cabin from now on until one of them got her roped and tied. As far as I was concerned, I'd go after her so hard my tracks would be smoking if she hadn't been John Mathers' daughter.

★ ★ ★

Nela rose the instant we finished her three-layer cake. "Dad, will you help Maria do the dishes? I'm going to ask Mr. Beeson to take me for a ride."

"It strikes me you're a little presumptuous," Mathers said. "You don't know Mr. Beeson will take you for a ride, and asking a guest to do the dishes—"

"Of course Maria will do the dishes," Sarah broke in. "I can dry. You won't have to help, John." She nodded at me, "Will, you go ahead."

"Sure," I said, and, getting up, whirled my chair around like a showoff. "Come on, Miss Mathers. You want a ride. You'll get one."

★ ★ ★

By the time I brought the rig to the front door of the cabin, she was waiting. Clouds boiling up over the Sangre de Cristos had turned the day cool. Nela had put on her coat and a wool cap. She jumped into the seat beside me, saying, "Don't get any wrong ideas in your head; I want to go to the ranch, but being subtle isn't one of my talents."

"The ranch?"

"Anchor," she said impatiently. "You heard we bought it, didn't you?"

I drove up the road, staring straight ahead. I had forgotten all about Mathers buying Anchor, but that wasn't what bothered me. It was Nela, sitting beside me, her shoulder touching mine. I had been floored by her asking me to take her for a ride.

"You had heard, hadn't you?" she asked.

"Yeah, sure." I swallowed. "Look, Miss Mathers, I . . ."

"Nela," she said.

"All right, Nela. I was going to say I can't figure you out. I never intended to ask you, I mean, I . . ."

She put a stop to my floundering. "I know exactly what you mean. To you I am one of the enemy. As for me, I accepted you as a guest at our table out of deference to Mrs. Pardee. I realize that asking a man to take me for a ride is not being lady-like, but I assure you I can be lady-like when I have to. I didn't have time today. I couldn't ask Dad to take me and I couldn't go off by myself and leave everybody." Her voice had been cool and distant, but now she smiled, and added with some warmth, "I just did what I thought would work."

★ ★ ★

"Why do you have to go to the ranch?"

"Merle Turner's running it for Dad." She looked squarely at me. "Last week Turner hired Gene Dillingham. I want to see what they're doing."

I was shocked, but only for a moment. I realized at once it was a natural alliance, with Dillingham and Turner old friends and both having practically the same grudge.

"If Dillingham's there," I said finally, "you'd better stay outside. Or don't you know what will happen when we meet?"

"Nothing will happen today," she said. "At least, I don't think so. Turner and Dillingham aren't ready."

"Ready for what?"

"I'm not sure. Maybe to steal everything they can. Will, I want to know why you're so sure we'll fail. Don't give me the standard arguments. I know all of them, and they aren't good enough."

"What are the standard arguments?"

"You know them if anyone does," she answered tartly. "This is cattle country. Short growing season. Crops won't mature."

"All facts," I said.

"Maybe, but there's more to it than that, isn't there? I mean, with you. You're afraid, so you'll fight and perhaps die because you're afraid."

"I'm not afraid." Then I realized what she had said was true. "Well, maybe I am. I'm afraid your dad will make Sarah hate me. I'm afraid your people will move in on us regardless of what your dad can do. I'm afraid they'll destroy the valley by plowing up fields that should be left in grass. Is that enough things to be afraid of?"

★ ★ ★

"Yes," she said, "and I'm afraid, too. I love my father. That's why I left a comfortable home to come with him. He owned a hardware store that was giving him a good living, but he got this harebrained scheme and he just had to come. I know he'll fail as well as you know it, but for different reasons."

"I turned off the road and started up the steep slope that led to the Anchor buildings. I looked at her, feeling common ground between us for the first time.

"What are your reasons?" I asked.

"I know Dad," she said. "But on this colony project, he thinks in terms of how he wants it to be, and he gets carried away so completely he can't see conditions as they actually are."

★ ★ ★

She nodded. "But it was the people I had in mind. Because he was sure everything would be just as he planned, a well rounded community. Most of the folks signed up because he was paying for their passage out here. I don't think they ever intended to stay with the colony."

"I thought the people in church looked pretty solid."

We drew up in front of the house, and I wrapped the lines around the brake handle and stepped down, wondering what Mathers would eventually do with Anchor. If his ignorance of the cattle business didn't break him, Merle Turner would.

I crossed the front porch and stepped through the doorway. I stopped, flat-footed, unable to breathe." A dramatic discovery awaits Beeson as "Gunlock" continues here tomorrow.

Mao's Address Revealed in Full

Chinese Commie Boss Admits Contradictions in Red Society

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China today made public the text of Mao Tze-tung's hitherto secret speech admitting "certain contradictions exist between the government and the masses" in Communist society.

Peiping radio broadcast the 17,000-word statement which the Chinese Communist boss made Feb. 27 to the 11th enlarged session of the Supreme State Conference.

Portions of the speech, leaked to the Polish Communists, attracted wide attention in the Western world because they brought Mao into ideological conflict with Russia's leaders. Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev and other Russian leaders claim no such contradictions between government and masses exist under communism.

Mao declared that any attempt to deal with such contradictions by "coercive measures will not only be ineffective but harmful."

"We cannot abolish religion by administration orders, nor can we force people not to believe in it," he said. "We cannot compel people to give up idealism, no more than we can force them to believe in marxism. In settling matters of controversail issues among the people, we can only use democratic methods, methods of discussion, of criticism, and not coercive nor high handed methods."

Jordan Official Denies Hussein Divorce Report

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—A Jordan government spokesman has denied a Cairo newspaper report that King Hussein divorced Queen Dina last week.

The Jordanian royal couple have several times been rumored on the verge of divorce since she went to Cairo in September 1956 to visit her "ailing father" and did not return to Amman.

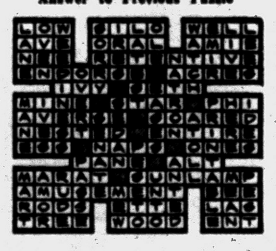

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

A member of Dina's household in Cairo said she was in Alexandria. She and Hussein were married in April 1955, when he was 19 and she 26. They have one daughter, born in February 1956.

For Mayorship:

New York GOP Ticket May Sport a Roosevelt

By International News Service

"It certainly doesn't handicap me to have outstanding Democrats in the family," recently remarked a young Republican who may run for mayor of New York City this fall.

The "outstanding Democrats" to whom he referred include a congressman, a former congressman and a member of the Democratic National Advisory Committee. Like the possible candidate, they are all named Roosevelt.

This Roosevelt is John A., the youngest of five children born to the late President and Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt and the only one to ally himself with the GOP.

Tomorrow, the 41-year-old "renegade" is expected to announce whether he will run for mayor against Robert F. Wagner, another son of a famous Democrat. But Wagner, whose late father was a U.S. senator, has loyally remained within the party fold.

SUPPORTED IKE IN 1952

Roosevelt broke, politically, with the rest of his family in 1952 by supporting the Republican presidential ticket. In 1956, he once again was active on behalf of President Dwight Eisenhower and made good use of the Roosevelt charm in winning votes for Ike.

Since then, however, his biggest political fight has been taking place within the GOP. He is trying—with noticeable lack of success so far—to wrest control of the Republican party in Manhattan from the "Old Guard."

As a result, he may have to run for mayor, if he chooses to make the race at all, as an independent Republican. Party leaders, while they like him personally, do not seem ready to accept Roosevelt as their own candidate.

These "bosses" may even get him ruled out on technical grounds. Since he has voted from his home at Hyde Park, N.Y., where he lives with his wife and four children, there is a serious question as to whether he is legally eligible to seek office in New York City.

In any event, Roosevelt definitely would not be allowed to vote for himself in the Republican primary in New York. He is registered as a member of the GOP in Hyde Park and registration cannot be transferred.

All of which does not bother this "Modern Republican" at all. His aim, he says, is to "combat pessimism" in the GOP.

* * *

Nasser to Create New Assembly

Step Near Democracy, but Egyptian Leader Can Back Out

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt is about to take a tentative step toward democracy. But President Nasser will be able to draw back if the road ahead looks tortuous.

Elections are to be held July 3 for a National Assembly, the country's first Parliament since King Farouk dissolved the old Assembly in 1952 after rioting by street mobs.

* * *

Nasser, who was elected to a six-year term as president by a 99.9 per cent of the total vote in an election June 23, 1956 (he was the only candidate), has made sure that there will be no candidates strongly opposed to his revolutionary regime.

* * *

Whether the Assembly turns out to be purely a rubber stamp body still remains to be seen. There appears little chance of effective opposition boiling up. The constitution, also adopted in 1956, empowers Nasser to dissolve it and call new elections at any time.

The coming elections fulfill, at least in part, a promise the 39-year-old President made to his people to take the new Egyptian republic along the road toward constitutional parliamentary democracy.

* * *

Three hundred and fifty Assembly members are to be elected. They all must be passed on by the National Union, the only political party countenanced by the present regime. Extremist leaders under the monarchy overthrown in 1952, Communists and relatives of exiled ex-King Farouk are all disqualified.

Also ineligible are persons who have been arrested, confined to a restricted residence or put under police surveillance by the military clique headed by Nasser, which threw out Farouk.

Old Refrigerator Traps 2

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — An abandoned refrigerator in a vacant lot next to their home turned out to be a death trap for Alice and John Harvey, 4 and 3. The tots were found suffocated in the box yesterday after a two-hour search by their half-sister Margaret Rudisill, 12. She had been baby-sitting while the parents were away.

Medics, Pharmacists Schedule Golf Outing

On Wednesday the Oakland County Medical Association and the Pharmaceutical Society will hold their annual golf outig at Glen Oaks Country Club, 13 Mile road at Orchard Lake. The affair will begin at noon and continue through the 7 p.m. dinner.

'Hot' Time Predicted at Church Conference

REDLANDS, Calif. (AP) — Bishop Gerald H. Kennedy was asked about the outlook for the 107th annual meeting of the Southern Church Conference.

"I think it's going to be hotter than hades," he said.

* * *

Grinning, he explained he was referring not to the agenda of the meeting, which opened yesterday, but the 97-degree weather.
