

UAW Okays Minority Veto Power in Contract Voting

DETROIT (U) — New United Auto Workers voting procedures open the way for a small minority of union members to vote results of this summer's UAW contract negotiations with the big three auto makers.

The UAW disclosed today it has authorized skilled workers to vote separately from production workers on new national contracts in all union units at Ford and Chrysler, and has extended the privilege to 113 of 134 units at General Motors. The UAW indicated the other GM units could vote separately if they ask.

Separate voting also has been approved for some 9,000 union-represented white-collar workers at Chrysler.

If any segment — production, skilled or white-collar — turns down a contract, the pact is killed for all workers within that company.

Auto makers fear such a ratification procedure heightens chances of a major strike. Current contracts expire Sept. 5. Bargaining begins in 12 days.

Production workers within the big three outnumber skilled tradesmen more than 5 to 1. Chrysler's white-collar workers are less than one-tenth of the UAW's membership within that corporation.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther is on record as saying if skilled, production or white-collar workers vote against ratification, "then there is no contract — it is as simple as that."

Auto makers fear if skilled tradesmen turn down a contract which production workers approve and the companies sweeten it for the skilled, the production group then will demand more, too.

Tradesmen have shown growing militance in recent months, and the UAW tried unsuccessfully last summer to get the big three to reopen contracts ahead of time to give the skilled an immediate increase of at least 50-cents hourly.

The skilled within auto plants contend workers with similar skills employed elsewhere are paid more.

The independent International Society of Skilled Trades has attempted to lure tradesmen from UAW ranks, contending that industrywide unions such as the UAW are dominated by production workers and wants of the skilled are overlooked.

LOOKING FOR KIDS — Ginny Fry and Don Castle of the Waterford Township Recreation Department scan the horizon in search of youngsters who might want to play in the recreation department's unique portable playground created by dismantling the interior of a school bus. Today was the official opening of the movable playground which will be visiting schools without playgrounds and housing subdivisions throughout the summer. On rainy days there are facilities inside the bus for children to play games or read books.

GOP Offers Tax Compromise

LANSING (AP)—Republican tax negotiators offered Democrats a new compromise proposal yesterday at the end of another noisy day of talks that raised some new issues and didn't settle the old ones.

Gov. George Romney, who has hosted the four days of negotiations in his office, charged meanwhile that Democrats are deliberately stalling — with no intention of helping House Republicans pass a state income tax.

Dealing with House Democratic leader William Ryan, Romney said, is like trying to catch a hat in the wind. "Every time you reach for it, it moves a little further. Every time, you say, 'Give me a little more.'"

Democrats raised two new issues yesterday — whether the House would give two-thirds approval to a measure asking voters to legalize a graduated income tax, and whether the negotiators should consider appropriations as well as taxes.

Romney exploded when Ryan suggested discussing appropriations items.

A LOOSE BOARD

"He can still say when we get all through with taxes that we aren't done yet," Romney charged. "He's keeping this as a loose board, so he can duck out at any time."

"I'm not foolish," Romney said. "I'm not a kid, I've been through negotiations like these, and tougher than these. I know when I see loose boards and an endless situation."

Replied Ryan: "I think the governor, with his childish suspicion, is impairing these negotiations."

At one point the governor stood up and snapped. "I'm so fed up with listening to this delaying stuff that I can't tell you how fed up I am."

NATIONAL IMAGE

Later he repeated his contention that his national image would be improved if Michigan adopted a budget-cutting "austerity program."

"The people of this country are looking for somebody who would slash the national spending," Romney said. "It would have been perfectly logical for me to come in and make reduction of the budget my primary object."

Ryan said the new Republican plan meets some — but not all — Democratic aims. He added Democrats would submit a new proposal of their own today.

The GOP program would levy income taxes of 2 1/2 per cent on individuals, 5 per cent on corporations, increase the cigarette tax three cents per pack and give each taxpayer a sales tax refund of $12 a year.

It would repeal the business activities tax, cut the intangibles tax, give $42 million a year to local governmental units, and provide relief from property and city income taxes along a graduated scale worked out in negotiations Friday.

Burglary Is Alarming

Burglars struck the VFW Hall at 96 Churchill, Pontiac Township, late yesterday, making off with an undetermined amount of beer and cigarettes. They also stole the building's $150 burglar alarm.

Rain Is Possible Tonight, Thursday

Umbrellas and raincoats will be the fashion for tonight and tomorrow.

The weatherman forecasts considerable cloudiness with occasional showers or thundershowers likely today, tonight and a chance of showers tomorrow.

Temperatures will register a high of 78 to 84 and low of 68 to 68 through tomorrow. Friday's outlook is partly cloudy and a little cooler.

East to southeasterly morning winds at 10 to 18 miles per hour will be briefly higher during showers.

Measurable precipitation probabilities in per cent are: Today 70, tonight 60, tomorrow 30.

The low temperature in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 62. The mercury reading at 2 p.m. was 62.

Money Plan for City Expected

A proposed solution to the city's financial plight is expected to emerge tonight from a meeting of the Citizens Finance Study Committee.

The meeting, slated to attract the full membership of the advisory group, is being called for 7:30 p.m. at City Hall to consider a possible recommendation to the City Commission as to how the city can best solve its money problems.

The study committee has been meeting regularly in the past few months and reviewing alternate proposals for raising money for next year's budget.

Among those being considered are a city income tax and a possible boost in the property tax rate.

The city is presently operating on a budget that calls for expenditures of some $500,000 in excess of what will be taken in this year.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren has said that it is possible to operate under a "deficit budget" for only one year.

Unless new sources of income are gained, he said, services will have to be cut.

Russia's Tass Hints Kosygin, Fidel Split

HAVANA (U) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Prime Minister Fidel Castro have disagreed in their talks, the official Soviet news agency Tass indicated today.

Tass reported from Havana that the two leaders had "a frank exchange" of opinions yesterday on a number of questions of mutual interest.

Use of the word "frank" in such announcements normally means disagreement. There was no mention of "identity of views" or any other phrasing indicating accord, although Tass called the talks "friendly."

Tass did not disclose subjects discussed, but the makeup of the Cuban delegation meeting with Kosygin indicated military matters were covered. Four of the nine top Cubans listed by Tass as participating in the talks were military leaders.

They were Defense Minister Raul Castro, Fidel's brother; First Deputy Defense Minister Juan Almeida, and Deputy Defense Ministers Sergio Del Valle and Guillermo Garcia.

RAUL'S RETURN

It was the first report of Raul Castro's return to his defense post since an announcement March 24 that he had stepped down temporarily. Fidel had said earlier in the year that Raul planned to take time off to study military, political, economic and technical subjects.

Disagreement between Kosygin and Castro had been expected. Diplomatic sources said they believed Kosygin's chief aim was to get the Cuban leader to mute his demands for the overthrow of Latin-American governments with which the Soviet Union is seeking to trade and that Castro was certain to refuse.

Kosygin, who arrived in Havana from New York Monday, is expected to continue his talks with Castro until Friday, then fly to Paris to see President Charles de Gaulle again.

Despite City Ordinance

Water Fluoridation Nears

Will Pontiac residents receive fluoridated water? City officials say yes.

Residents in Pontiac, Pontiac Township, Bloomfield Township, Birmingham and Troy, like some 3-million-plus other users of the Detroit water system will begin receiving fluoridated water Aug. 1.

In Pontiac, this will happen despite the fact that voters in 1955, by a 5,775 to 4,311 margin, voted in favor of an ordinance—still standing—which prohibits the city from adding sodium fluorides to the water supply.

At the City Commission meeting last night, two commissioners grumbled

Joseph A. Warren, city manager, said the city has no control over the Detroit water supply and cannot dictate what type of water it will receive.

Pontiac until 1964 relied on a system of wells for its water supply. When the city began receiving Detroit water, Pontiac abandoned all but three wells.

These wells could produce up to 13 million gallons a day indefinitely. Joseph E. Nejdling, director of public works and service, said, but the quality of the water is inferior.

The amount that could be produced is not enough to meet the city's industrial and home consumption — about 22 million gallons per day — and some rationing would have to be put into effect if the wells were to be the city's supply, he said.

CITES ENDORSEMENTS

Dr. Richard M. Henderson, director of the dental division of the Oakland County Health Department, said today that fluoridation has been endorsed by every official health agency and will prevent, in children, 65 per cent of all tooth decay.

Plans of the Detroit Water Board call for fluorides to be added by licensed chemists at a new $550,000 building in Detroit's Water Works Park.

City Threatens Ban on Siren

Bothered by what was termed "indiscriminate use" of a certain type of ambulance siren, City Commissioners last night threatened an ordinance to ban their use in Pontiac.

District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin objected to hearing a "whoopie siren" at 10:45 a.m. Sunday on East Huron when traffic, he said, was so light a cannon could be shot down the center of the street.

He suggested writing to the ambulance companies to have drivers instructed to use sirens only during legitimate emergencies.

Irwin's complaints were quickly echoed by other commissioners and, after hearing a four prediction by City Manager Joseph A. Warren that the companies would be slow to cooperate, they decided unanimously to begin drafting an ordinance.

Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson, District 4, said the companies "had better cooperate or an ordinance will be passed no matter how expensive the equipment."

PROBLEMS ENVISIONED

Warren said cost of the sirens was considerable. He envisioned problems in enforcing any siren ordinance.

Cooley Lake Claims White Lake Boy, 2 1/2

A 2 1/2-year-old White Lake Township boy was found floating face down in three feet of water near the shore of Cooley Lake here yesterday.

Township volunteer firemen administered mouth to mouth resuscitation and used a mechanical resuscitator in a futile attempt to save the life of Johnny Rybarczyk, son of Sgt. Richard and Mrs. Rybarczyk of 9135 Hutchins, police said.

The boy was pronounced dead on arrival at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital at 4:42 p.m.

Police said that the child was spending the day with friends at Cooley Lake which is approximately a mile from his home.

B52s Rain Bombs on Infiltration Routes

SAIGON (AP) — B52 bombers unloaded a rain of bombs today on Communist positions in two provinces where U.S. ground troops face threatening enemy buildups.

The bombers plastered 180,000 pounds of bombs on Red infiltration routes in Quang Tri Province adjoining the demilitarized zone—where a heavy Red rocket and mortar barrage killed nine Marines and wounded 125 Tuesday—and unleashed a similar attack in the highlands of Kontum Province where infiltrating Red troops recently decimated an American paratrooper company.

Ground fighting reported by U.S. military headquarters also centered in the DMZ and high-land areas.

A sweeping force of more than 300 U.S. paratroops from the 173rd Airborne Brigade jumped about 50 paratroopers early today. In a sharp skirmish in the jungles of Kontum Province the paratroopers killed six North Vietnamese and took one prisoner. Two Americans were killed and eight wounded.

WESTERN FLANK

In Quang Tri, around the isolated western flank outpost of Khe Sanh, U.S. Marines kept up continual patrols to thwart Communist assaults. Ten Marines were killed in clashes

Tuesday and 27 were wounded, but the Leathernecks said they killed 28 North Vietnamese regulars.

South Vietnamese military headquarters also reported a series of clashes with guerrillas in the Mekong Delta in which 49 of the enemy were killed. In one savage fight Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, a band of about 20 militiamen suffered heavy losses while beating off a five-hour attack with the aid of circling American gunships that raked the attacking Reds with their fire.

North of Saigon, the toll from a mine that demolished a bus Tuesday rose to 40 South Vietnamese civilians killed as U.S. troops searching at dawn found 17 more bodies. Ten others were wounded in the explosion. The number killed was one of the highest in a single terrorist attack in the war.

Despite cloudy weather over most of North Vietnam, American pilots flew 126 strike missions Tuesday with no reported losses. Two Communist MIG-17s were sighted but made no effort to fight.

The major effort was again directed at the northeast and northwest rail lines connecting Hanoi to Red China.

Air Force jets reported bombings and shooting up 49 rail cars of various types and blasting one puffing locomotive in a yard 39 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Waterford Board Sets Hearing on School Budget

A public hearing on a proposed $9,837,235 school budget for 1967-68 is scheduled tomorrow night in conjunction with the meeting of the Waterford Township Board of Education.

The budget compares with one of $8,854,315 submitted for the public hearing a year ago.

Final action on the proposed new budget probably will be taken in August or September when the school district's state aid allowance is known and when negotiations on teacher salaries are completed.

In other business, the school board will award contracts on additions to Cray and Pierce junior high schools and Pontiac Lake Elementary School.

The board also will consider construction alternatives on projects at Covert, Leggett, McVittie, Monteith, Grayson, McVittie and Cooley elementary schools.

Purchase of a site additional to Lakes Elementary School also is slated for board action.

MOSCOW (AP) — The head of the Soviet government-controlled trade union organization, Viktor Y. Grishin, has been named head of the Communist Party's Moscow city organization.

The form of the announcement suggested that Yegorychev was not being demoted, at that time protested an agree-

NEW LOCATION — Connolly's Jewelers has relocated in the corner store of the building on the northwest corner of Huron and Saginaw. The 2,700-square-foot store has been divided into a series of departments to help provide more privacy and individual attention to each customer, according to owner Norman L. Pattison.

Stay in Downtown Area

Jewelers Move to New Site

Connolly's Jewelers has a new location — the northwest corner of Huron and Saginaw, Norman L. Pattison, store owner announced today.

The jewelry store was formerly 16 W. Huron, down the block from the new site.

Pattison, who recently bought the entire National Building, expressed his desire to stay in the downtown Pontiac area.

"Pontiac has been good to me. I think a lot of merchants underdate Pontiac. The more Connolly's seems to stress quality, the more business we seem to do."

"If we have a successful store here, why should we move out? I feel that whether it's the Taubman plan or the U. of D. plan, something is going to happen downtown," he said.

COMING BACK

Pattison also said "Downtown seems to be coming back all over the U.S., and if this happens, we feel that this area will be the most prominent corner in Pontiac."

The owner announced plans to eventually remodel the entire building. The remainder of the ground floor is currently being renovated to house one, or possibly two, as yet unannounced stores.

The building foyer and the hallways are already or will be remodeled very shortly, according to Pattison. He added that the suites are being renovated to suit individual tenants as the rooms are leased.

Connolly's deals in gems, precious metals, watches and silver.

High Bids Slow Down Sewer Building Project

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Faced with a high bid response to a proposed sewer construction project, the Township Board has decided to slow down on building.

Estimates on building sewer facilities for a project for the south district of Colonial Estates for 18 sites had been set at $20,800.

Lowest bid returned was for $32,750. This changed the per-site price from $1,155 to $1,819.

The board rejected the bids and decided to start all over in forming the assessment district and calling for hearings.

It is planned to call for new bids when construction has slowed somewhat. Board members revealed bids have been coming in high because construction firms have all the business they can handle at present and are deliberately bidding high without really expecting to win the contract.

It was the third incident aimed at LeFlore.

"They never notify you when they plan something like this," he said. "I expect things like this, but I had relaxed. This caught me completely off guard."

Police Lt. Donald Riddle said the blast, which knocked the six-room frame house off its foundation and left a hole about two feet deep and three feet across, occurred about 1:20 a.m.

ODOR OF DYNAMITE

Police, who were hoping to obtain clues from car tracks across a nearby vacant lot, said there was a typical odor of dynamite at the scene.

LeFlore said he was sleeping in a middle bedroom on the opposite side of the house from where the explosion was set.

"If they had put it on the other side, it would have gotten me," he said.

The retired postal employee said a bomb had been placed alongside his home—in which he has lived with his wife, 60, for 40 years—in 1959 but the fuse burned out. A shot was fired into the house in 1964, but it did not hit anyone, he said.

LeFlore said a small metal mesh which he had placed along an opening underneath the house prevented the bomb from going under the building today.

U.S., Russia to Offer N-Treaty Draft Soon

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The weekend between President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, apparently finished the last phase of the summitry of the Geneva Disarmament Conference shortly a joint proposal for a treaty to curb the spread of nuclear weapons.

When the treaty draft goes before the 17-nation disarmament group, probably within the next few days, it may still be minus a provision for safeguards against violations.

U.S.-Soviet negotiators have been unable for months to agree on the safeguards, or inspection, clause. But U.S. diplomats are hopeful of reaching Big Two accord on this soon after submitting the proposed treaty at Geneva, if not by then.

This became known today following a dinner meeting last night between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at the headquarters of the Soviet U.N. mission.

The Rusk-Gromyko session, a follow-up to the conferences last weekend between President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, apparently finished the last phase of the summitry of the Geneva Disarmament Conference shortly a joint proposal for a treaty to curb the spread of nuclear weapons.

Rusk had no further appointments with Gromyko scheduled. He arranged to return to Washington to report to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the Cabinet today and to the House Foreign Affairs Committee tomorrow.

Gromyko, who arrived June 17 with Kosygin, was reported considering returning to Moscow around the end of the week if the U. N. General Assembly decides to recess its emergency session on the Middle East. Kosygin went to Havana Monday.

No Tax Action Likely Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite prodding this week from two influential administration figures, Congress is unlikely to begin the income tax surcharge President Johnson proposed six months ago.

Chairman William McCleskey Martin Jr. of the Federal Reserve Board renewed Monday the call for a surcharge, saying he would support a steeper increase than the proposed 6 percent if needed to combat inflation.

Then yesterday, Chairman Gardner Ackley of Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers again urged congressional consideration of the surcharge, saying no figure lower than 6 percent would do the job.

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — South Korean President Park Chung-hee today named his new cabinet and except for two posts kept the same lineup he had during his first term of office.

The South Korean cabinet resigned en masse yesterday to allow Park a free hand in reshuffling the ministers for the beginning of his second term as president.

Park also added one portfolio to the cabinet.

INSTALLMENT No. 15

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
Reno Davis, a prize-fighter who was in Paris with a woman named writer, was employed as a tutor and bodyguard for Claude de Villomont. Paul, the boy was the son of the widowed Anne Villomont. In living at the de Villomont mansion, Davis came to know the de Villomonts in 1948 and brother-in-law of Anne, and Bernard Bourdon, de Villomont's son, and gave Davis a gun to protect the boy and made him promise to help her. Davis secretly to the United States. Davis was mulling over the development and newly acquired knowledge that Paul's former tutor, Sidney Scott, died under questionable circumstances, when he met an editor, Charles Leichenhaut, who promised to look at his manuscript and had a disturbing encounter with the editor. Davis wondered if the editor could have had anything to do with Scott's death.

CHAPTER 15
NOTHING induces sleep like the determination to stay awake. Eventually I dozed off. I was brought suddenly awake by the churning of a car motor in the courtyard below. Then the motor was cut off, and in the silence that followed I made out the sound of muted voices and the clicking of women's heels over cobblestones.

I got out of bed and opened the door to the corridor an inch or two, no more than was necessary to see Anne when she passed by on the way to her room. Waiting there in the darkness, I heard the whine of the elevator ascending and the small clash of its gate opening and closing. There was a muttered colloquy at the elevator—the Vosters and Anne making their farewells to each other, I supposed—and then footsteps approached.

My hand was on the knob of the door when I saw the flicker of light from the jewelry Anne wore at her throat, but the hand froze on the knob, the door remained as it was. Anne was not alone. There was a man with her, handsome and blond as a Viking, swinging her evening bag from his forefinger in time with the tune he was silently whistling through pursed lips.

They passed by; the door to Anne's bedroom opened and closed; Morillon did not reappear on his way back to the elevator. I counted seconds, counted minutes, then finally gave up counting.

At break of day, I watched Morillon depart, ruffled and sleepy-eyed, knotting his tie as he strolled along the corridor.

I strolled into the cafe where I had asked Anne de Villomont to meet me. Anne was at a banquet in a far corner, her face a pale oval in the darkness, her hands clasped before her on the table.

"As for the news," I said, "Leichenhaut called me to say he'll take a couple of my stories if I work them over with him next weekend. I'm afraid, our little jaunt to New York will have to be postponed until that's cleared up."

"Postponed?" Anne said unbelievably. "You mean, even after what's happened you'll still get Paul and me to New York?"

"Strictly as a business proposition, and my price is twenty thousand dollars cash before we leave. If you're wondering how I came I heard that's how much you've been dropping at Spinoza's every time you're there for the fun and games. How'd you make out last night, by the way? Win for a change? Is that what you were celebrating with Morillon?"

"Oh, please. If you're trying to punish me by talking this way—"

"I'm only trying to let you know how we stand with each other. Under one condition. The trip can't be postponed. We must leave Friday."

"Why?"

"It doesn't matter why." Her voice hardened. "You'll do what you're paid to do without asking questions, or we forget the whole thing."

I had the feeling she wasn't pulling a bluff. In that case, Leichenhaut would just have to stand by until I had her and Paul safely conveyed across the Atlantic.

"All right," I said. "We'll leave this Friday."

"And no one is to know about it. Absolutely no one." Leichenhaut for a couple of people who are supposed to help me with the arrangements, I pointed out.

"You don't have to tell them too much, either."

"Oh, come on," I said. "You're making this sound like Eliza getting ready to cross the ice. Maybe you don't know it, but only airport is only half an hour down the road, and I've never yet seen a bloodhound in Paris."

"Don't be funny about it! I just listen and try to understand what I want done on Friday. Paul already knows his part. I've taken him shopping in the Galeries Lafayette a few times to get him ready for it."

"At the Galeries Lafayette?"

"Yes. Georges always parks at the rue Mogador entrance from the Random House novel. Copyright © 1967 by Stanley Ellin. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

and goes in with us. This time Paul will slip away once we're inside and meet you at the rue de la Chaussee entrance where you'll be waiting. You'll have a car, a rented one, and you'll drive straight to Orly and board the plane with Paul. I'll join you soon as I can get away from Georges. If I can't, don't worry about it. Somehow I'll get a letter to you in New York that'll explain everything."

It took me a few seconds to grasp the significance of this.

"Are you serious?" I demanded. "Do you really expect me to smuggle Paul out of the country by myself and try to keep him hidden away from his own family?"

"All I expect you to do is go ahead without me if anything goes wrong. Doesn't it mean anything that I trust you so completely? Doesn't it prove that no matter what you think of me—"

"The price is still twenty thousand dollars, cash in advance," I said. "But now it's a real bargain."

I called Leichenhaut from the cafe as soon as Anne left. When I told him I wouldn't be able to keep the appointment with him he seemed to think I was pulling his leg.

"Impossible!" he snorted. "Surely Madame couldn't be so unkind. What reason could she possibly offer for such willfulness?"

When, without divulging Madame's reason, I convinced him that I was serious, he expressed his opinion of rich, psychotic, female Philistines in brutally frank language.

"And to be the slave of such a type," he concluded. "No, my friend, you need more spirit, more iron in the soul. If you want to be a creative force, you can't let any woman lead you around by the nose, no matter how well she pays for the privilege."

That was uncomfortably close to the mark.

"Monsieur Leichenhaut," I said, "in a few weeks—"

"No, no, young man. A few weeks, then a few more weeks, and meanwhile I'm supposed to sit like a fool waiting for you to favor me with your presence. I want none of that, thank you. I'll return your manuscripts tomorrow. And give my regards to Madame. She may have saved both of us a great deal of wasted time."

It gave me a perfect score for the weekend. I had misjudged him almost as badly as I had misjudged Anne de Villomont.

NEW AUDITORIUM — School officials are hopeful that construction work on the new auditorium for Rochester High School will be completed in time for the opening of the second semester of the coming school year. The auditorium is part of a $1,153,596 building program which includes a swimming pool and a building bridge for the school.

Wolverine Lake Hires Village Manager

WOLVERINE LAKE — It's official. The village now has a full-time paid administrator.

At a special meeting recently, the council hired Clifford Cottrell, who has been holding the position off and on since January, for the post. The salary was set at $10,000 a year.

Cottrell said there was only one other applicant for the position, which was advertised for a week, and that he did not have the necessary qualifications.

The ad specified that the administrator must have building experience, preferably by a licensed builder, have experience in the operation of a municipal water system, knowledge of road construction, assessing, general office procedure and bookkeeping.

Cottrell, 52, of 1030 Wakito, has served as road commissioner for the past year and a half. As owner of Cottrell's Wood Products and Construction Co., he has been a builder for 35 years.

FIRST PRESIDENT

He was the first village president in 1954-55 and served as councilman from 1954 to 1958.

The creation of the position has caused a great deal of dissension among village residents.

CLIFFORD COTTRELL

When the position was set up in the budget, adopted two weeks ago, a number of citizens claimed the post was unnecessary and that the salary was too high for a village with a population of about 2,500.

Cottrell said the actual salary is $8,000 with $2,000 a year for car expenses. Of this amount, $5,000 comes from the building department, $3,000 from the road department, and $1,000 each from the water and assessor's departments.

ACTION RESCINDED

Cottrell was first named to the position last January to serve on a temporary basis until June. One week later the council rescinded its action in creating the position and Cottrell resigned.

He was reappointed when a new council took office in April.

All village departments will be under Cottrell's administration, including the police department, whose members had threatened to quit some time ago if it was under his rule.

He said they now appear satisfied with the arrangement.

New Principal of Milford High Named by Board

MILFORD — The Huron Valley Board of Education last night appointed Eldon D. Vanspybrook as new principal of Milford High School.

Presently a high school principal in the DeWitt School System, Vanspybrook was named to replace James C. Druce, now serving in the Rochester School System.

Beginning his career as a teacher and coach with the Mason Public Schools, Vanspybrook later served as a teacher consultant in Hazel Park.

He earned his Bachelor of Arts degree at Michigan State University in 1960, his Master of Arts degree in guidance and counseling two years later and his Educational Specialist's degree in general administration in 1965 from Wayne State University.

Vanspybrook has participated in numerous professional and civic organizations including the Michigan Education Association, Lions Club and Jaycees.

STUDY TOUR

He is training in the community school concept and recently made a study tour of the British educational system.

In four other appointments, the board named Kenneth J. Harper as new assistant high school principal; Jack Vince, as an assistant junior high school principal and Walter C. Domalske and Philip D. Conklin as principal interns.

Harper has been as administrative assistant in the Division of Instruction in the Detroit Public School system.

Presently an industrial arts teacher at Muir Junior High School Vince earned his Bachelor of Science degree from Central Michigan University in 1961 and a Masters degree from Eastern Michigan University in 1963.

Domalske presently teaches fifth grade at Baker Elementary and Conklin is a fourth grade teacher at Johnson Elementary.

White Lake Zoning Format Is Picked Apart at Meeting

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — The township's proposed zoning ordinance and map were again picked apart by residents last night but no conclusions were reached.

Township officials promised the 30 to 40 citizens attending the meeting that their objections on several minor points would be taken under consideration by the planning commission for possible revisions.

The planning commission and the Township Board will meet again July 11 at the Township Hall to discuss items brought up last night.

The meeting with the Township Board and the planning commission was held "to give us a chance to talk this thing out and try to settle it," according to Supervisor James Reid.

He noted that technically, now that the planning commission and the Oakland County Coordinating, Zoning and Planning Committee had recommended it for approval, any objections should be made by registered letter but that he decided to waive the regulation.

FUTURE GROWTH

Asked to explain the reasoning behind the proposed ordinance, Reid said the purpose was to upgrade it to fit the future growth of the township.

"Zoning that fit the township in 1955 won't fit it in the next five years," he said, "We have to have something to regulate the growth."

Gerald E. McNally, township justice of the peace and a member of the planning commission, compared the township to a growing child.

"Ten years ago it was a small child," he said, "and now it is an adolescent. We want it to grow in a predicted pattern."

'MUST ACT NOW'

"Unless we do something now, we'll have a wild, unruly kid."

Controversy has surrounded the proposed ordinance for three months. A number of changes have been made at the request of the residents.

The major change was made three months ago when the planning commission agreed to leave the suburban farms classification as it is under the existing ordinance rather than make it suburban estates.

The Township Board last night also accepted the resignation in a 3-2 vote of its attorney Paul Mandel.

Clerk Ferdinand Vetter said that Mandel, who has been attorney for eight years, "has served well and to the best of his ability."

Troy Project Dropped

Back Street Repairs Costly

TROY — Residents on older unpaved back streets face a stiff financial problem, it was pointed out by the City Commission recently.

The older streets were not built to present specifications and, in some cases the actual road bed has greatly deteriorated.

To bring them up to present specifications — or even to reestablish a gravel surface — would prove costly at today's prices, said commissioners.

Residents on Lanereng, north of Paddington, changed their minds about improving their street when they discovered it would cost over $10 per front foot.

For some lots this would mean $1,700 for a road mix paving job.

CHEAPER PROCESS

Turning out almost en masse Monday, the residents asked that the request be dropped unless a cheaper process involving $4 per front foot could be offered.

Commissioner Wallace B. Hudson pointed out the biggest cost factor on an old street was regrading and replacement of drainage systems.

Doing a patchwork job only delays the inevitable, he indicated, as with poor drainage and natural erosion, cheaper surfacing deteriorates in a few years and home owners are right back where they started or worse.

"The longer you put it (proper roads) off, the more it will cost," he said.

UNANIMOUS VOTE

The Lanereng project was dropped by unanimous vote.

Commissioners explained the city's position on paying for all or part of paving projects. On streets used by the whole community the city is participating, but on side streets used mostly by property owners themselves, the entire cost is assumed by residents.

Consideration of two other street projects was delayed until July 10.

It was pointed out residents along the two streets may not be aware of the total cost involved.

CONCRETE SURFACE

The city engineering department was directed to prepare alternate estimates for better surfacing on the basis that if the residents were willing to pay for a road-mix surface, a concrete surface may raise total costs only a slight percentage.

Requests for road work were made by residents of Virginia, John R. to Milverton and Hurst, Livernois to Montclair.

The Virginia job cost estimate is $38,640, or $20 per lot. On Hurst cost was put at $33,240 or $755 per lot. The possibility that the city would help pay for these programs was considered. However, commissioners said they were reluctant to use city funds.

Commissioner Hudson pointed out voters supplied five mills for operating the city and five mills for capital improvement.

Macomb Accidents Claim Avon Man, Ray Twp. Boy

The Macomb County traffic death toll has risen by two today with the deaths of a 12-year-old boy last night and an Avon Township man this morning.

Romeo State Police said that David Palumbos, of 17090 32 Mile Road, Ray Township, died in an automobile following a bicycle accident on 32 Mile Road just east of Romeo Plank Road in Ray Township about 9:45 p.m. yesterday.

The boy, police said, was riding west on 32 Mile when he turned left into the path of a car driven by Michael Sada, 48, of 460 N. Main, Romeo.

He apparently was turning into a driveway when the accident occurred.

Sada had also been traveling west on 32 Mile.

Injuries received in an accident June 17 in Shelby Township claimed the life this morning of William L. Force, 71, of 2800 Gerald, Avon Township in Mount Clemens St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Force had collided with a car driven by James A. Thompson, 39, Sterling Township at the corner of Auburn and Dequindre roads.

Friends of Library Slate Story Hours

ORION TOWNSHIP — The Orion Township Friends of the Library will sponsor a story hour every Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 3 today through Aug. 16.

Two sections are planned. One will be for children in grades one to three and another for those in grades four to six.

All students in the Lake Orion School District are eligible for the program, which will be held at the Orion Township Library.

Retiring Director of Science Institute Cites Role of Museum

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Dr. Robert T. Hatt, director of Cranbrook Institute of Science, points out the importance of the museum in this day of increasing specialization of science studies as he prepares to retire at the end of this week.

"The fields of study have expanded enormously and are so complicated as to be frightening to young students," he said.

Stressing the importance of a student finding an aspect of science to concentrate on, he said, "There can be no learning without the spark of interest. Our museum can set off the spark that can lead to a career."

Dr. Hatt is retiring as director after a long, distinguished career and 32 years of directorship in which he saw the Cranbrook Institute grow to international fame.

He intends to "catch up on a considerable backlog of writing," he said, but will stay in close contact, retaining his post as a member of the board of trustees.

'VAST AREAS'

Seeing great challenges ahead for students in the fields of science, he said, "Vast areas are opening in all directions."

The age of the "generalist" in science is apparently over, he indicated.

"Life is just not long enough to learn it all," he said.

Along with increasing specialization, Dr. Hatt foresees a growing trend for "science interpreters" to correlate work in various fields.

Dr. Hatt said he is proud of his successor, Dr. Warren L. Wittry, who came to the institute in 1962. He will take over his duties as director on July 1.

"The survival of the Cranbrook Institute of Science is in doubt without greater community support," said Dr. Robert T. Hatt, director.

He said a financial crisis is forthcoming "with the increased use of the facilities without increased income," because the institute has no tax support and is dependent on grants for its existence.

COLLEGE BACKGROUND

Born in Lafayette, Ind., July 17, 1902, Dr. Hatt attended Purdue University, earned his Sc. B. from the University of Michigan (1923) and his M.A. (1925) and Ph.D. (1932) both from Columbia University.

From 1923 to 1928 he was instructor of biology at New York University and for the following five years was assistant curator of mammals at the American Museum of Natural History, New York.

When Dr. Hatt arrived at the Cranbrook Institute site on Lone Pine Road in 1935, it was a one-story building housing chiefly mineral, bird and plant collections and an observatory.

In 1937 a four-story building was completed. Among the features added since then are the Robert R. McMath Planetarium in 1955, Michigan's first planetarium and still operating to capacity; the three-story Skillman Wing for the Physical Sciences in 1962 which contains the Atomarium; and the Thomas Alva Edison House.

QUALITY, ORIGINALITY

Under Dr. Hatt's leadership the institute has grown to be respected in museum circles for the quality and originality of its exhibits.

It is unusual among museums for organizing exhibits around subjects rather than objects, a pattern that has been widely copied.

The institute carries on a broad research program in biology, classes and field trips for adults and children, research in anthropology and bird banding.

Dr. Hatt has been involved in the planning of many museums, six in Pakistan and two in Texas, and has been a consultant for others including some in Iraq, Hawaii and Canada.

OTHER DUTIES

He has served as president of the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters, Detroit Academy of Natural Sciences, Arts and Letters, the Detroit Academy of Natural Sciences, chairman of the U.S. National Committee of the International Council of Museums, and as vice president of the American Association of Museums.

He has completed many well-known studies including "Island Life in Lake Michigan" and has submitted over 250 scientific and educational reports.

On retirement, Dr. Hatt and his wife, Suzannah, herself a prominent author-scholar, will move to Littleton, N.H. They will retain a residence in Farmington, however.

Dr. Hatt will take with him a gold replica of the institute building, presented to him at a recent testimonial dinner.

Mississippi Negroes Get Meredith Challenge

GRENADA, Miss. (AP) — Climaxing a grueling marathon hike of 24 miles in a day, James H. Meredith challenged Negroes in Grenada to flex their political muscles this fall.

"Negroes are going to be politically effective," Meredith said Tuesday night at a church meeting—the first in a planned series of political orientation sessions along his highway march route. Negroes can decide every important political race in this state and the white man knows it," he said.

"I think we can have an effective political vote in this election." AUGUST PRIMARY He referred to the August primary in Mississippi for state offices, including the governorship.

Meredith, setting a foot-blistering pace under a broiling sun, plodded into Grenada after 10 hours of walking that covered 24 miles and stretched to 75 miles the distance he has marched since last Saturday.

He renewed the march "as a matter of conscience," returning to U.S. 51 at the spot near Hernando where a roadside assailant's gunfire cut him down June 6, 1966. The shooting brought Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and other Negro leaders into Mississippi to take up the trek, with Meredith rejoining it near Jackson, the termination point.

Meredith said he felt compelled to resume the march in order to finish what he started.

IN THE BACKGROUND

Answering questions at the Grenada church meeting, Meredith said he has no personal ambition for political office in Mississippi, his native state.

"I believe I can do more good in the background," he said.

Meredith had told reporters after his graduation from the University of Mississippi in 1963 that he might eventually enter politics in the state.

He said Tuesday night he plans to seek admission to the practice of law in Mississippi and will get an application blank when he reaches Jackson. He is now a law student at Columbia University.

"I don't know if I could ever get admitted, because the bar is sort of a personal club for lawyers," said Meredith.

BEFORE LONG

He said he believed a Negro could be elected president "before too long."

He led 45 marchers, the largest number of the 1967 trek, into Grenada, which had violent racial outbreaks after last year's march.

After his brief speech Tuesday night, 240 Negroes marched from the church to the city square and paraded around, singing, yelling and clapping their hands. Meredith did not take part.

Meredith set out on the march last year to help Mississippi Negroes get rid of fears, he said, and to encourage them to take part in voting and political activities.

City Scrapes Money Barrel Bottom

The day isn't far off when the City Hall treasury, like Mrs. HUBBARD's cupboard, will be bare.

As money matters now stand, the City is expected to wind up the year with an operating deficit of half a million dollars. But because of commendable budgetary management during the past three years a cash surplus of nearly $700,000 had been accumulated.

After deducting the projected 1967 deficit from that figure the municipality would still have left a cash balance of approximately $175,000.

So what is wrong with this picture?

Plenty.

Because it is foreseen that the revised budget for next year just approved by the City Commission will meet the same fiscal fate as this year's, with income falling short of spending by a similar $500,000. But with a significant difference. There will then be only $175,000 left in the cash surplus to cover it.

There is still more woe to come. The $8,290,331 general fund section of the budget (wherein lies the spending) does not reflect salary raises of city employees now clearly indicated.

This could add another half a million dollars to the 1968 operating deficit — bringing it to a round $1 million.

And in case your cup of woe is not yet running over, this should do it: the moment of truth is imminent when the manpower of two of the City's major departments — police and fire — will have to be increased to effective numerical standards.

An increase of 30 men for each department would do no more than that — with another $700,000 a year added to the City's cost of doing business.

What are the answers to Pontiac's fiscal future? There are two:

(a) Drastic cutbacks in municipal services.

(b) Increased tax revenue to keep pace with rising costs of local government.

The first alternative has little substance. Many services have already been eliminated, others curtailed, and the remaining areas would represent but peanuts in expense cutting.

The second solution is the realistic one and must be squarely faced. The Pontiac Finance Study Committee, appointed last year, is expected to report on this vital question tonight.

Ethnic Hate Keeps Mideast in Stew

With the announcement of Israel that it lost 679 killed and some 2,500 wounded, as against Egyptian, Jordanian and Syrian losses estimated in the tens of thousands, the Arab-Israel war of 1967 looms as the most astounding military exploit since ALEXANDER the Great's 40,000 routed DARIUS' one million Persians.

To be on the losing side of such a lopsided victory would seem to be almost a distinction — like being able to brag that you were kayaked by JOK LOUIS.

No Arab, of course, finds anything to be happy about in those six days that shook the world and turned the military and political realities of the Middle East completely upside down.

NASSER's Big Lie about American and British air intervention on the side of Israel has been eagerly swallowed by a population ready to believe anything that will help salvage its severely bruised pride and honor.

Radio Cairo and Radio Damascus still fill the air waves with strident messages of hate against America, dire warnings of Arab retaliation and shrill exhortations for a continuation of the holy war.

It is as if nothing had happened, nothing were learned.

The Middle East has been bedeviled since World War II by squabbling between the Arab states and Israel and by divisions among the Moslems, WALT W. ROSTOW told a commencement audience at Middlebury College in Vermont the other day.

The real hope for a solution to the Middle East's "multiple splits and quarrels," said the President's special assistant for national security affairs, is that out of frustrations and tragedies of postwar Middle Eastern history "we might see emerge a new desire to achieve dignity, stability and progress for all through regional cooperation."

Three wars and 19 years ought to be frustration and tragedy enough.

Latest Round of Diplomacy Dizzing

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — You can get dizzy sitting down, just reading the papers to keep up.

There were those few days in the life of Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. And then there was King Hussein. Al-ba Eban, little Albania, MARLOW Red China, Fidel Castro, and the long pronouncement from Moscow on 50 years of the revolution.

After almost 10 hours head-to-head, over two days in Hollywood, President Johnson and Kosygin came out all smiles, shaking hands, saying pleasant things.

Kosygin was hardly back in New York before he went on television again, this time before a news conference, to denounce the United States as an aggressor in Vietnam and Israel as an aggressor in the Middle East.

Since he had said all that about the Middle East before, you got the feeling that maybe he felt compelled to say it again because he knew the Arabs were watching.

And since he had said before the United States was the aggressor in Vietnam, you got the feeling that maybe he felt compelled to say that again, too, because the Communist world was watching to see if he had made a deal with Johnson.

'VICIOUS DEAL'

The Red Chinese, who used to be a Soviet ally, said it away off in Peking, accusing Kosygin of making a "vicious deal" to do Red China in, Red China is not a member of the United Nations.

But her only Communist European ally, little Albania, is and just in case anyone was hard of hearing what Red China said, Albania got up in the U.N. General Assembly, denounced Kosygin as a traitor to the Arabs, accused him of plotting with Johnson for American-Soviet domination of the world, and announced, "We will beat you."

Just about this time in Moscow the Communist party put out a document to show how well communism was doing 50 years after the 1917 revolution.

FLABBERGASTING

Then it said something which must have flabbergasted the Albanians and the Chinese and everybody else, since everybody else knows better. It talked of the need for Communist unity and at the same time denounced the Chinese leadership.

Meanwhile, King Hussein of Jordan, a country left in tatters by the short war with Israel, journeyed to the United Nations to ask the General Assembly to condemn the Israelis.

To not be outdone, Israel's Foreign Minister Abba Eban, exercising the right of reply, told the assembly, in effect, that what Hussein said was all baloney, that Jordan attacked Israel first and got what was coming to her.

If you can make sense out of this you're what the world is looking for and badly needs — a magician.

You'd Think He'd Get Discouraged

David Lawrence Says:

Kosygin Cuba Trip Is a Blunder

WASHINGTON — What they need in Moscow is a few "public relations" men to keep the Kremlin from making such a colossal mistake as it did in ordering Premier Kosygin to visit Fidel Castro, head of the dictatorship in Cuba.

For just as LAWRENCE thought were turning toward a peaceful relationship between the Soviet Union and the United States, the premier's special trip to Havana reminds the American people of the bases established in Cuba in 1962.

From territory only 90 miles away, missiles with nuclear warheads could be launched to kill millions of Americans in the southeastern section of this country.

The Kosygin-Castro conference also focuses attention on the guerrilla activities being constantly instigated in various Latin American countries by the Communist-controlled regime in Cuba.

Recent reports indicate that, while there have been some differences between Havana and Moscow, Cuba is still the principal base of the Communist apparatus in this hemisphere. This is a blatant defiance of the Monroe Doctrine.

Unwittingly, the Kremlin has aroused the feeling here that the emphasis given Cuba at this time is part of a Soviet policy of threatening the United States that, if it doesn't stop supporting governments of other continents, the Communists will step up their infiltration and subversion in Latin American states.

SUBVERSION TROUBLES

Nearly every country in this hemisphere is troubled by Communist undergrounds.

All this increases the friction between Moscow and Washington which has been steadily growing in the Middle East and in Vietnam.

Someday there could emerge in the Soviet Union an aroused public opinion to insist that a real peace be established with the United States.

The Russian people have suffered huge losses in war. In the First World War, more than 76 per cent of the 12 million men in their mobilized forces were killed or wounded or listed as missing.

In the Second World War, 7 million men in the Soviet armed forces were killed, and at least 14 million others were wounded. These figures do not include the casualties among civilians, which ran into the millions.

The people of the Soviet Union don't want war, but they don't yet know that their own government is today sowing the seeds of another world war.

East Germany's Ulbricht a Badly Frightened Man

By LEON DENNEEN

Foreign News Analyst

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

East Germany's aging boss Walter Ulbricht is a badly frightened man these days.

Fourteen years ago this June the East Germans rose in revolt against their Communist rulers. The uprising, like the Hungarian revolt three years later, was mercilessly crushed by Russian tanks while Ulbricht hid for his life. But it will always be a grim anniversary for this last of the die-hard Stalinists in East Europe.

Perhaps Ulbricht is frightened less of the kind of uprising that took place in 1953 than of the creeping isolation of East Germany even in the Red bloc.

Despite his vigorous protests, there is every indication that the Communist countries of East Europe, East Germany's partners in the Warsaw Pact organization, are eager to follow Romania's lead and come to terms with "capitalist" West Germany.

Nowhere was Ulbricht's isolation and the disarray in the Soviet bloc more evident than at the recent "summit" meeting of Red parties in Karlovy Vary, Czechoslovakia.

The meeting was summoned by Russia's Communist chief Leonid Brezhnev to bolster Ulbricht's declining prestige. But Romania, Yugoslavia and even the small Scandinavian Communist parties failed to show up at the conference.

History has clearly bypassed East Germany's Stalinist. In most East European Communist countries, gradually and reluctantly, the Red rulers are relaxing their stranglehold on the people.

But Ulbricht must continue to hide behind his "wall of shame" that divides East and West Berlin. For were he to make even a small hole in the wall he would probably lose the cream of East Germany's youth in a matter of days.

To be sure, there have been considerable economic improvements in East Germany. When I visited there recently the people seemed better fed and dressed than they were two years earlier, when I was last in East Berlin. The bread lines were gone, the police terror much less in evidence.

But spiritually East Germany remains a Marxist-Leninist desert. Ulbricht fears the influence of the "decadent" West. He tries to keep East German youth in a spiritual and cultural no-man's land.

Even Western "songs of protest" with an anti-American tinge are verboten in East Germany. Not that Ulbricht has any tender feelings for "imperialist America." He is simply afraid of protests.

After all, an anti-American protest song could be adapted to East German conditions.

On the other side of the wall, in West Berlin, long-haired youngsters sing and play pop music without seeming to endanger society. But in East Berlin the "Free German Youth Council" recently decreed that songs must emphasize "the construction of socialism and friendship with the Soviet Union."

'Changing Clocks Ahead Put Michigan Out of Step'

Why does Michigan have to be the sucker state and use double daylight saving time? We're the only saps out of 50.

Michigan is geographically in the central time zone and was so placed from the beginning. But when some stupid Detroit businessmen went on eastern time 20 years ago, the rest of the State was dumb enough to follow. So, we have daylight saving time all year, anyway.

When our dumb legislature put us on this extra daylight savings time on top of our permanent daylight savings, it makes us two hours out of step with the sun and the universe. The other 49 states show normal intelligence, but we have too many nincompoops in Lansing.

Look at the mess they're making of our tax situation. Let's clean house at the next election.

When I asked if this was a John Birch Society project, I was told, "Of course, what other group has the patriotism, courage, determination and humility to do this job?"

The answer now comes to me: Our guys fighting in South Vietnam without adequate supplies might take on a job like this. They are getting used to no support.

No, according to Mr. Woodruff of the Prosecutor's office. You are considered a "gratuitous bailee," legally holding them because you agreed to have them placed in your care. The law requires they be held a "reasonable" length of time, which might vary with different items. Mr. Woodruff suggests you consult a lawyer, or you could call Legal Aid, 335-8163, before you use or dispose of them.

If the talks at Holly Bush prove the forerunner of a lasting improvement in Soviet-American relations, much of the credit will belong to the people of Glassboro.

The spontaneity with which they took Premier Kosygin to their hearts and the manifest genuineness of their interest in peace and international cooperation obviously had not made it an ideal half-way point for the summit sessions, has given the men of power everywhere a reminder that people can always be friends when they Gold Backing...

The (Oklahoma City) Daily Oklahoman

This pending bill to remove the gold backing from Federal Reserve notes is a sequel to the earlier action removing the gold backing from Federal Reserve deposit liabilities.

If congress agrees with the sponsor, Rep. Vance Hartke, the nation then will have a fiat currency backed domestically by nothing more substantial than the government's assertion that it's legal tender.

Rep. Hartke argues that nearly $10 billion of the treasury's remaining $12.8 billion of gold is immobilized by the reserve requirement, leaving less than $3 billion to meet the demands of foreign dollar claims.

But repeal of the reserve requirement would amount to a confession that the remaining gold was approaching extinction and undoubtedly would cause still more foreigners to convert their dollars while the converting was good.

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — When a truck driven by Harvey La Sasso hit a railroad viaduct near here, he apparently failed to see a "caution, low bridge" sign. It was a sign La Sasso himself had recently painted.

Buffalo Police Patrol Area After Rampage

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Police armed with tear gas and riot guns patrolled a large section of a predominantly Negro section of Buffalo today after an outbreak of fires, vandalism and looting.

Police said at least 15 persons were arrested and seven injured.

Stones and bricks were thrown at buses and automobiles, police said, and some gasoline bombs were tossed into business places.

A gun store was entered and some weapons taken.

Late Tuesday night, a police car radioed headquarters, "They're shooting at us." No one was reported wounded.

About 40 policemen sent to the scene were greeted by rock-throwing youths, police said. Three policemen were hit by rocks but none required hospitalization.

At the height of the violence, Tear gas was fired.

Shortly after midnight, Police Commissioner Frank Felice said the "rampage was slowing down" and that he did not need help from other police agencies.

He Can't Afford Her

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My girl friend is a brilliant college graduate with a Master's degree, and she earns $20,000 per year. I never went past high school, and I earn $5,000 per year. We go out three times a week and she likes to go to all the most expensive places, and she being sort of the leader, that is where we invariably go.

I could have just as good a time at a less expensive place, but I don't want to look cheap by making an issue of it, so we always end up going to the expensive places.

Naturally, I pay the tab. I am supporting my aged mother and a child by a previous marriage, and these dates are more than I can afford. My girl friend supports no one but herself and apparently doesn't realize my situation.

I'm afraid if I tell her she will either have to go to less expensive places or help pay the tab. I will lose her. What is your advice in this case?

POOR MALE

DEAR MALE: Tell her that you enjoy her company, but you can't afford her tastes, and that if she wants to continue to enjoy your company, she will either have to adjust to your standards, or help foot the bill. And if you lose her before you go broke, it'll be a break for you.

DEAR ABBY: I am tired of people who insinuate that "working wives" have it made. They tell me, I GET to go out to work every day; I don't have to work in the house all day; the kids don't run me nuts, etc. Please inform them that I don't GET to go to work every day, I HAVE to.

I work in an office all day and then go home to do what the non-working wife has all day to do. I am dog tired, but I still have the same duties to perform. And get this — if any of my non-working relatives telephone me on Saturday morning and find me still asleep at 9 or 10, and make some remark about how "lazy" I am, I'll let them have it.

When I call them from work on my lunch hour the line is busy or I wake them up. I'd like all non-working women to know that the working woman really works!

ON THE JOB

Women's Section

Less than a month after the curtain fell on the final production of Oakland University's Meadow Brook Theatre, area women are busy with the 1967-68 season. Earlier this week, a meeting was held at OU to outline promotional activities. Present were, from left, Mrs. James R. Jenkins, Wenonah Drive; Mrs. Richard Huttenlocher, Clarkston; Mrs. James Howlett, East Iroquois Road; Mrs. Louis Schimmel Jr., Sylvan Lake and Mrs. Lester G. Carlson Jr., Union Lake.

New York 'Pro Musica' Presents Concert

By BERNICE ROSENTHAL

Far back in the dim eras of time, in Early France and Flanders, in the century which produced Christopher Columbus, great music flourished under the pen of composers like Dufay, Frye, Ockeghem and Des Prez. From this fertile ground emerged the form and matter of the music which was to culminate, more than two centuries later, in the compositions of Johann Sebastian Bach and his contemporaries. A few dedicated groups throughout the world bring this music to the general public.

Perhaps the best of these is the New York Pro Musica, which opened the new summer season last night at Meadow Brook. To students of music and harpsichord, (precursors of the organ and piano), and lute, (early guitar).

These instruments which have a soft, thin tone to our modern ears are played without vibrato or overtones. When voices are added, the singing technique also calls for purity of tone without vibrato or overtones.

The instruments are treated like voices, each carrying one part only, and at no point does voice or instrument predominate. The total effect is like an intricately woven tapestry in muted colors and varied patterns which delights the ear and challenges the mind.

This is great music in a rarified form which should be heard by everyone interested in growth of music from ancient days. Others are sackbut, (early brass) portable organ, regal

Wed. Saturday evening at Waterford Community Church were Sandra Kay Mastick and James W. Guinn. With her bouffant gown the bride wore pearls that were worn by her great grandmother. Karen and Janet Guinn, sisters of the bridegroom, were maid of honor and bridesmaid respectively. Willard Simmons was best man with ushers Gary Mastick, the bride's brother, Michael Latham, the bride's cousin and Barry Henson. Following a reception at Guinn's Banquet Hall the couple left for Northern Michigan. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Mastick of LaSalle Street and Mrs. William Guinn of Hospital Road and the late Mr. Guinn.

It is perfectly performed by the New York "Pro Musica," whose directed attention to every detail of interpretation and style is a major contribution to music history.

At next Tuesday evening's performance, they will be heard in English music from the time of Henry VIII. The concert begins at 8:30 p.m. in the Meadow Brook Theatre.

Finds Textbook Bought in 1915

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Louise Orr, principal of Avondale School, went to the storeroom to look through the discontinued textbooks placed there once a year. Teachers may select any they wish to keep.

In looking at the huge pile, Miss Orr picked up one volume remarking, "This is just like the one I studied in the fourth grade." It was. Her brother's name was on the flyleaf. It proved to be the English book she bought about 1915 and passed on to a younger brother. She took it home again.

Package Factor in Sales Trends

TOLEDO (UPI) — Packing influences strongly a woman's choice in purchases.

A survey conducted for National Family Opinion, Inc., which keeps tabs on women's buying habits, shows that 61 per cent of the women questioned would willingly pay more for packaging they preferred.

The package does more than contain the product; it helps create it. This fact showed in homemakers' preference for frozen dinners that come in ovenproof containers ready to heat and serve and for vegetables in boilable plastic bags, ready to use in minutes, the researchers reported.

Carol Dodge Is Married in Farmington

An afternoon ceremony in St. Colman Church, Farmington, united Carol Lynn Dodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice C. Dodge of Birmingham, and Eugene Henry Maurer Jr. of Milwaukee, Wis.

A luncheon in Devon Gables followed the rite after which the couple left for a honeymoon trip through northern Michigan.

The bride was gowned in full-length ivory taffeta in Empire style with A-line skirt. A detachable train flowed from the high waist. Her veil was a shoulder-length lace Mantilla.

She carried a spherical bouquet of orchids and pompons. Sisters Martha, Mary Ann and Julie Dodge served as maid of honor and bridesmaids with other attendants. Cathlyn Wagner of Milwaukee, and Gayle Brehm of Plymouth, Wis., were bridesmaids. Thomas Maurer was his brother's best man. Ushers were Paul Maurer and Dennis Meyer of Waukegan, Ill., Steve Frozina of Manitowoc, Wis., and Andrew VandeVen of Green Bay, Wis.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Maurer of Waukegan.

Former Pontiac area residents, the Donald McRaes now of Grand Rapids, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a trip to the Hawaiian Islands. Children of the pair, wed in Detroit on June 30, 1917, gave their parents this gift instead of the usual anniversary party. New City Chapter

Help for Single Parents

By JEANNE NELSON

"... and all the king's horses and all the king's men ... Still, among his mourners are those who insist his fate was only just."

They argue, "Didn't he, after all, fall prey to smugness in his years on that lofty, if not precarious perch?"

Others of the group excuse his death as accidental and remind the rest that he was only the victim of his own naivete.

Whatever the real reason for his now non-existence, the finality of it is true.

Unlike Humpty Dumpty, human beings who find themselves split apart by death or divorce can and must salvage the remaining bits and pieces. For scattered among them are the children.

What becomes of them is the real key to the path job. The problems of single parents are at once the same and separate from those of the complete family.

A group has been formed now that exists for the sole purpose of helping individuals caught in this one-parent position.

"Parents Without Partners, Inc." has chapters throughout the United States.

The Pontiac area will now have its own chapter with the first meeting scheduled at 8:30 p.m. in the First Federal Savings of Oakland Building Friday.

Membership or attendance without obligation is not just limited to the parent whose children live with him or her, but also to the parent with only visitation rights.

THIS IS NOT A LONELY HEARTS CLUB.

The prime concern is education.

Parents who attend will hear experts speak on a variety of subjects geared to help guide their children in this one-parent rule.

Subjects will range from money management to remarriage.

There will be some social events too for parents because this in itself, or at least the lack of it, is also a problem.

Fun activities for the children and their parents will play an important role. Included among them are skiing, canoeing, picnics, hayrides and the like. Special rates will be available to the group.

Following each meeting there will be an afterglow, giving each the opportunity to express and "talk out" individual ideas.

After this meeting and the next which is slated for some time in July at The Pontiac Mall, succeeding meetings will be held the second and fourth Wednesdays of the month.

Friday's meeting will be in the form of an introductory look at the aims and goals of the group and will explore the real needs of the Pontiac area chapter.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stafne of Pingree Drive, announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet Ruth, to John Lee Cocking. He is the son of the Irving Cockings of Putnam Street. She is a graduate of Pontiac Business Institute.

Boosts U. S. Clothes

"It is time that American-made clothes are recognized as professional," says New York designer Adele Simpson. "They're neither 'with it' nor 'without it,' they are 'it.'"

Mark, 8, and his dad, C. Mark Harper of Bloomfield Village, take a look at picture slides in the Birmingham Public Library. Activities throughout the year for the children are at the top of the list for Parents Without Partners, Inc., Pontiac Area chapter.

It doesn't take just a rainy day to discover all the wonderful things in books. When this particular shower broke during an outing in Birmingham's Shain Park, shelter also meant entertainment. Mrs. Joanne Campbell of Mill Street, White Lake Township, shows small daughter, Kari, colorful animal pictures. Helping his younger brother, Fred, 6, choose a book is Clark Harper, 10, at extreme left. Parents of the children belong to the newly formed Pontiac chapter of Parents Without Partners.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I will be using a print fabric for a dress and since several of the large flowers are spaced at random, I am wondering how I can plan just where this print will appear on me. I don't want to accent my hips which are already too large!

MRS. M.M.E.

Dear Mrs. M.M.E.:

We have devised a very successful method for checking out the spacing of any design on your fabric, whether it's abstract or conventional. Take a clear bag that comes from the cleaners; cut across the top so that it will be wide and flat. Take your actual pattern and recut the pattern out of the clear plastic.

Now you can place the pattern on your fabric, using the right side of fabric on top, and you can shift it wherever you please in order to achieve the look you want.

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I want to make my swimming suits this year and so do my girl friends. We don't know what to put in the top to give them the shape that the ready-made suits have.

Judy N.

Dear Judy N.:

To you and all the rest of the girls who have written me, this is a perfect year for making those bathing suits. First, they require hardly any fabric, and most of them are made of cotton. You can make matching jackets or cover ups and they should cost you a mere fraction of what they cost at the stores.

The shaping is rather difficult to achieve by yourself with no experience. I have found that if you take an old bra and build the front part of it into the bra-top of your suit, you will be most satisfied.

It has already been shaped and washed many times and won't require altering. Make the darts in your fabric fit the shape of your bra smoothly. If the pants part of your suit calls for a separate jersey pantie, I would use a pair of cotton panties and just tack them at the waist in several spots.

This isn't costly and will save lots of time. I bet you'll never go back to buying swimsuits again. Be sure to shop around first and get some ideas from the ready-made suits. Don't make anything you wouldn't buy!

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. J. L. Stratton, Schenectady, N.Y. is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

In answer to your recent query about keeping metal buttons from cutting the thread I have found that putting a few strands of yarn through the hole and tying it securely, then sewing the button on as usual with the yarn cushioning the thread, works quite well. Even though the hole seems to be filled, there is still room enough to squeeze a needle and thread through.

Another trick I learned years ago is to sew buttons on children's clothes with two separate threads. If one gives way, you have a chance to catch it before the button is lost. On a four-hole button, sew two holes only, fasten thread, and start over again on the other two. I have even used two colors to make a cute decorative effect on play clothes!

Wear Children Out

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-564: Lonnie P., age four, is full of vim.

"Dr. Crane, my weary mother began, 'we live in a little four-room city apartment, back.

"So Lonnie doesn't get out to play, though I let him walk with me to the supermarket once a day.

"Lonnie gets into mischief almost constantly, so what can I do?"

"For his daddy is irritable, due to office worries so he scolds Lonnie unnecessarily."

DR. CRANE

If you busy modern parents want an "A" grade for the way you deal with child problems, then take this test:

Let your child run, romp, ride a tricycle, etc.

For "leg" action drains off far more energy per minute than mere "arm" action at a desk.

"Lonnie needs a tricycle so he can at least ride back and forth the full length of the apartment."

Since he is too young to roam the streets, his parents must try to take him out more often.

If daddy is too tired to stroll with Lonnie around the block, buy a little express wagon.

Then let Lonnie pull daddy! This will fatigue Lonnie faster!

Parents often make the mistake of pulling the child in the wagon.

Don't do so! For that further tires you already weary adults and rests the child, though you are already fatigued before you start, while your kiddies are bubbling over with unused energy!

Plastic Pouches for Pills Prevent Child Poisonings

NEW YORK (UPI) — An associate professor of pediatrics reports a major victory in the battle of wits with two and three-year-old children prone to mistake family medication for candy. More than 60,000 poisonings a year happen through such mistakes.

"Medical Tribune," reports Dr. Alan K. Done, of the University of Utah Medical Center, put pills in strips of sealed plastic envelopes. They were candy pills but they looked like medicinal pills. After trying to get the candy out most of the children in an experiment just gave up. All abandoned the effort before ingesting the equivalent of a dangerous dose.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — When Mrs. Nora Solina awakened one recent morning, she went to the kitchen as usual to prepare breakfast. After setting the table and preparing the pancake batter, she called her daughters, Bernice and Debbie.

The girls slipped on their robes, sleepily ate their pancakes and had a cup of coffee. As they headed for their rooms to dress, Bernice happened to look at the clock. It was 1:15 a.m.

Pencil Sharpener

Make the children's home study easier by providing them a sharpening block which will enable them to keep a point on their pencil no matter how much writing they do.

Just glue sandpaper to the sides of a block of wood, that has been well sanded with sandpaper to remove all splinters. A few strokes of a pencil over a sandpaper block gives a good point.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Service for John G. Turton, 18, of 844 Fairfax will be 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Donelson-Johns Funeral Home, Pontiac.

Mrs. Wayne Coons of Pontiac

Wound Fatal to Teen-Ager

Warrant to Be Sought Against Area Man

A Bloomfield Township teenager who was shot in the stomach early Saturday died this morning at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Waterford Township Detective Gerald Smith said he would seek a manslaughter warrant today against Leo Placencia, 47, of 1030 Menominee, Waterford Township.

The victim, John Turton, 18, of 844 Fairfax, was wounded as he raised the hood of his mother's car parked outside of Placencia's home.

Placencia was charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm following the shooting.

He is held in the Oakland County Jail in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Turton's mother, Mrs. Arce Coons, was visiting at Placencia's house when the shooting occurred, according to police.

Tools Stolen

Drills and other tools valued at some $270 were stolen from the home of Azei Knight, 1149 Cloverland, Pontiac police were told yesterday.

Officers said they found no sign of forcible entry.

Sheriff's Dept. Will Join Auto Club Traffic Study

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department and 45 other Lower Peninsula police agencies have joined the Automobile Club of Michigan for a probe into the causes of bodily injury traffic accidents.

Harold Neumann, Pontiac division manager of the Auto Club said Monday the study covers Memorial Day weekend and will continue through July and August and Labor Day weekend.

The probe will parallel an investigation last year of 363 traffic fatalities, which represented 20 per cent of the 1966 total.

Neumann cited two main reasons for comparing this year's findings with those of 1966:

• To determine the relationship, if any, between fatal and injury accidents.

• To gain additional information about the relationship between human behavior and accidents.

He said human error was involved in 99 per cent of the accidents studied last year.

WILL FILL OUT FORM

Sheriff's deputies and local police officers will fill out a form for the study, in addition to their usual reports at the scene of accidents.

"We hope," Neumann said, "to get answers clear-cut enough that we can recommend specific steps to the Michigan Legislature, police agencies, the courts and anyone else involved."

Grant for Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $300,000 federal grant has been approved to help five intermediate school districts in northern Lower Michigan develop programs to enrich cultural education of students.

The districts are Manistee, Mason, Lake, Mecosta, Oshtemo and Westford-Missaukee.

His daughter, Jeanmaggie, arrived yesterday from Los Angeles and Camera managed to locate, smile and talk briefly with her, a doctor said.

Crash Injures 2 in Milford Twp.

In fair condition in Pontiac General Hospital is Donald Lee Russell, 26, of 2521 Rose Center, Highland Township.

Reported in serious condition in the hospital's intensive care ward is Mrs. Edward M. Young, 32, of 1300 W. Maple, Milford Township.

Russell was driving north on South Hill, Mrs. Young west on West Maple, when the accident occurred, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Deputies said neither driver was able to make a statement at the scene.

Job Equality Unit Gets New Head

WASHINGTON (UPI)—White House Aide Clifford L. Alexander, a 33-year-old Harvard graduate, is taking over as chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission next week.

President Johnson yesterday named Alexander to succeed Stephen N. Shulman as commission chairman. Shulman's term expires Saturday. Alexander, who has been a presidential advisor on civil rights since 1964, was expected to continue in his White House post.

Police Clear 4 City Teens in Robbery

Four Pontiac area teenagers arrested yesterday in connection with a service station robbery have been cleared by police.

Released from custody yesterday were Gary Wilker, 18, of 780 Kenilworth; David Midkiff, 18, of 505 First; John Elmy, 18, of 992 Emerson; and Keaney Meyers, 19, of 865 Merritt, Lake Orion.

Pontiac detectives said the four "were not involved at all" in the early morning robbery of an attendant at the B and J Gulf station at 684 N. East Blvd.

Police revealed that a suspect in the case may be arrested today.

Clothing Stolen From City Store

Pants and a suit valued at $180 were taken from the Robert Hall clothing store at 200 N. Saginaw, it was reported yesterday.

Witnesses told Pontiac police two men walked out with the clothing about 2 p.m. and fled the scene in a car.

British Send Force to Aden

LONDON (AP) — The British government began airlifting 550 more troops today to reinforce its hard-pressed garrison in Aden against terrorist attacks.

The airlift is scheduled to be completed Thursday.

The Defense Ministry said the extra battalion "is to protect base facilities and installations and help relieve the strain on the force there."

Guarded by automatic rifle-men poised on cliffs, British soldiers and Arab police made a foray into Aden's hostile Crater District Tuesday to take an estimated total of $11 million out of a British bank.

'67 Freedom Award Goes to Goldberg

DETROIT (AP) — Arthur J. Goldberg, U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations, has been named the recipient of the 1967 Freedom Award of the Detroit-Windsor International Freedom Festival.

The award to Goldberg, recognizing outstanding contributions to the quest for world peace and improvement of international understanding, will be made Friday at a luncheon in Windsor's Cleary Auditorium.

It was not known today whether Goldberg would be able to attend the luncheon because of commitments at the U.N. which is discussing the Mideast situation.

The International Freedom Festival, which begins tomorrow, is a combined annual observance by citizens of the two cities commemorating Canada's Dominion Day, July 1, and American Independence Day, July 4.

Other recipients of the award in past years include the late President John F. Kennedy; Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson; Paul Hoffman, managing director of the United Nations special fund; and Paul Martin, Canadian secretary of state for external affairs.

State Outlines Dropout Plan

Program Designed to Cut Delinquency

LANSING (AP) — A 10-point program designed to cut school dropouts and juvenile delinquency was proposed to the State Board of Education Tuesday night by James F. O'Neil, a board member.

Contending that delinquency runs at a 1000 per cent higher rate among dropouts or "push-outs" than among those who continue their education, O'Neil proposed that:

- Basic health and socialization needs be provided for neglected children to ensure that all beginning schoolchildren have an equal start.
- Parents become more involved in the education of their children.

- More meaningful educational opportunities be provided to allow children to relate to "the world of work and the world we live in."

"This would include assisting students to develop self-respect, respect for each other and respect for those in positions of responsibility and authority," O'Neil said.

MARKETABLE SKILLS

More opportunities should be provided for students to develop marketable skills that 80 per cent of them will need since only 20 per cent will ultimately earn college degrees, he added.

- Potential dropouts be identified early and provided with incentive to continue their education.

- The legal dropout age be raised from 16 to 17.
- The legal driving age be raised from 16 to 17.

O'Neil said studies indicate that "as the driving goes up, grades go down."

- Change be made from three-year to four-year high schools.
- "This would insure that the 16-year-old would at least see the inside of a high school before he dropped out or was pushed out," O'Neil said.

- School facilities and programs be made more available for youth and community activities.
- "We must direct our efforts to educating the whole child and the whole community and make the school system the center of community activities," he said.
- Teacher talent and "the potential of our schools" be utilized on a year-round basis.
- All segments of society be called on to increase their volunteer efforts.

Warren Report and Its Critics Explored

Commission Made a Mistake: It Had Compassion

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third article in a five-part series on the Warren Commission Report, the body of men that collected the data, and the critics of both. The second part of the series introduced the famed "single-bullet theory" which leads to Lee Harvey Oswald as the assassin.)

Bullet 399 had already been fired, unknown to Gregory, when he said this. It was discovered shortly after 1 p.m., when the president was pronounced dead, on a stretcher in the corridor near the ground floor emergency rooms.

At first, it was thought this bullet came from the president's stretcher. And that fit in with the speculation that the bullet had hit the president in the back and exited through external heart massage. But the autopsy was to show that this didn't happen.

CONNALLY'S STRETCHER
The commission determined that the bullet came from Connally's stretcher.

Epstein here goes back to Col. Finck, saying his testimony "cannot be dismissed merely because it collided with the hypothesis that Bullet 399 was found on Connally's stretcher. Since Finck's categorical statement that this bullet could not have caused Connally's wrist wound was never challenged, disputed, or corrected, it can only be concluded from the evidence that Bullet 399 did not come from Connally's stretcher."

Epstein should turn to Vol. V, page 90, where he will find the testimony of Dr. Alfred G. Oiler, an expert on bullet wounds.

This exchange took place: "Q: Do you have an opinion as to whether, in fact, Bullet 399 did cause the wound on the governor's wrist, assuming it was found that it was the missile found on the governor's stretcher at Parkland Hospital?"

"Dr. Oiler: I believe it was. That is my feeling."

DOCTORS CONCUR
There also was testimony from Drs. Shaw, Shires and Gregory that they thought one bullet caused all of Connally's wounds. Shires testified that Dr. Robert McClelland, Charles Baxter and Ralph Don Patman concurred.

The critics each say that because of the movement of the stretchers it could not be determined to a certainty that the bullet came from Connally's stretcher or didn't come from the president's stretcher. Darrell Tomlinson, the Parkland Hospital engineer who found the bullet, could not identify the stretcher positively. There were two stretchers in the corridor where the bullet was found.

Epstein says, "Since all stretchers were eventually returned to this area to be remade, the key question was: Was Kennedy's stretcher returned before or after the bullet was found? This question was never answered."

Not so. Tomlinson had testified he had come to the elevator area at around 1 p.m. and found a stretcher which had some sheets on it. He pushed this stretcher from the elevator into the corridor. Then he took the elevator to the second floor, brought down a man who picked up two pints of blood, and returned with him to the second floor where Connally was in surgery. He then made several trips between the ground floor and second floor before discovering the bullet.

SHEETS REMOVED
Nurse Diana Hamilton Brown testified she was in Trauma Room 1 with the president until his body was taken off the stretcher and placed in a casket. The stretcher, she said, was stripped of its sheets and then wheeled into Trauma Room 2, which was empty.

Nurse Margaret M. Henchcliffe gave similar testimony and was asked:

"Is it possible that the stretcher that Mr. Kennedy was on was rolled with the sheets or it down into the area near the elevator?"
"No sir."
"Are you sure of that?"
"I am positive of that."

ANOTHER WITNESS
Nurse Doris Mae Nelson testified she was standing near the entrance to Trauma Room 2 when the president's stretcher, clear of sheets, was moved into it.

and parts of evidence from the Warren report. Some of it has been clever—and some absurd.

OPEN TO ALL
Several agreed with the idea expressed by one former assistant counsel:

"I think they should be open to any qualified expert who wants to see them whether he is chosen by a college president or Mark Lane himself."

While the autopsy X rays and photographs were not introduced formally, it does not mean that they were not seen—and that they did not show the wounds as described in the autopsy report. The critics make the point that the photographs were handed undeveloped to the Secret Service and that they were transmitted that way eventually to the care of Robert Kennedy.

Albert Jenner, an assistant counsel now in Chicago, says he saw some of the autopsy photographs. Arien Specter, currently medical photographer at the National Naval Medical Center, who took the photographs. They also were examined and authenticated last Nov. 1 by four men intimately connected with the autopsy:

Cmdr. James J. Humes, senior pathologist at Bethesda Naval Hospital; Cmdr. J. Thornton Boswell, chief pathologist at Bethesda; Capt. John Ebersole, the radiologist who took the X rays, and John T. Stringer Jr., a district attorney of Philadelphia, has stated having seen at least one purported color photograph. They were examined and authenticated last Nov. 1 by four men intimately connected with the autopsy:

mean that they were not seen—and that they did not show the wounds as described in the autopsy report. The critics make the point that the photographs were handed undeveloped to the Secret Service and that they were transmitted that way eventually to the care of Robert Kennedy.

A Dot Placed on an X Ray Becomes a Back Wound

CONFISCATED?
Then on Page 62, he refers to them again, saying "...federal police agents confiscated the crucial photographs and X rays..." Confiscated? Seized? Humes testified they were "turned over" to the Secret Service, but nowhere does he say they were demanded or that he objected to releasing them. Lane need not have been so evasive or uncertain as to why the photographs were made—"ostensibly to assist him (Dr. Humes) and the other doctors," as he puts it. By his construction, it would seem the photos were taken to help the doctors that night of the autopsy.

But Humes is clear about it in his testimony on Page 373, Vol. II:

"The X rays were developed in our X-ray department on the spot that evening, because we had to see those right then as part of our examination, but the photographs were made for the record and for other purposes."

Lane, Epstein and Weisberg see something highly suspicious in the statement of Humes that there was an autopsy "draft" personally burned in the fireplace of his recreation room."

"DRAFT" DROPPED

In two of three references to this, Lane drops the word "draft." On Page 66, it becomes "his admission that he destroyed original notes relating to the autopsy." On Page 385, Lane says: "Destroyed evidence included the original notes prepared and then turned by Commander Humes after the autopsy."

Epstein says Humes "destroyed by burning certain preliminary notes relating to the autopsy." "Draft" was dropped. Epstein then later raises a question about the original autopsy report.

Weisberg writes: "If the commission had any questions about the burning of any kind of historic papers, especially undated 'preliminary draft notes,' the transcript does not reveal 'ostensibly to assist him (Dr. Humes) and the other doctors,' as he puts it. By his construction, it would seem the photos were taken to help the doctors that night of the autopsy."

No one seems to wonder why Humes need have told anyone about it since he did it while he was alone in the privacy of his home. If he wanted to conceal something, would he raise suspicion by certifying that he burned a preliminary draft he had written of the autopsy report?

AUTOPSY NOTES
The critics make this draft seem part of the autopsy notes themselves. Those notes are identified as part of commission's Exhibit 397. And if the commission wanted to hide any revisions in the autopsy report that it published, why then would it have published the autopsy report in Humes' handwriting which shows those revisions?

There apparently was one corroborating piece of evidence which was inexplicably left out of the autopsy report, the writers learned. That was the result of a microscopic examination of tissue removed from the rear neck wound.

"We conducted microscopic examination of tissue removed from the neck wound area and found some material with it into the neck."

This would further show that the bullet which made the holes in Kennedy's jacket and shirt carried some material with it into the neck.

Why wasn't this in the autopsy report?

"AN OVERSIGHT"
"It was an unfortunate oversight. It was not intentional," Boswell says. "I would say that three years ago we didn't presume that it would have been necessary to substantiate our findings."

Boswell contributed to the controversy regarding just what the autopsy sketch shows because it was he who had placed a dot—indicating the entry of a bullet—in an inexact spot. It is below the shoulder and to the right of the spine.

The critics treat this sketch as a star exhibit. And it is on this dot they have stood pat. They claim it as proof that there was a shallow back wound, and not a neck wound. And that would mean that the throat wound was an entrance wound. And THAT would mean another firing position and another assassin.

The sketch which Lane, Epstein and Weisberg refer to is the "Autopsy Descriptive Sheet," which is part of Commission Exhibit 397, the written draft of the autopsy report. This sheet is a standard form—NMS PATH 8 (1-63)—and has the outlined anatomical form of the male body in front and rear views. It was one of the working papers during the autopsy.

Lane, Epstein and Weisberg each are in error in saying that the marking on the outlines were made by Humes. On what is this based? Humes did not testify he made the marks. In fact, he testified, regarding this sketch and another hand-drawn sketch: "I notice now that the handwriting in some instances is not my own, and it is either that of Cmdr. Boswell or Col. Finck."

Boswell has since cleared up this question. He made the marks. He admits the dot is not precise.

"The dot was just meant to imply where the point of entry was," he explains. "The notes describing the point of entry are near this mark and give precise measurements giving the exact location of the wound."

It is a hallmark of the critic's general scholarship that in any place where the point of entry was, "he explains. "The notes describing the point of entry are near this mark and give precise measurements giving the exact location of the wound."

on a man of Kennedy's size, is at the base of the neck. And so the critics plunge ahead constructing their case against the Warren report.

Here's Epstein, handling the descriptive sheets: "The fact sheets show front and back diagrams of the president's body." (Wrong. They are outlines of a human male—not specifically the president.)

"On the front diagram, the throat wound is just below the collar line; on the back diagram the entrance wound is much farther below the collar line. Thus, although Commander Humes testified in March that the entrance wound was above the throat wound, during the autopsy he marked the entrance wound below the throat wound."

WRITTEN DETAILS

(Wrong. Humes didn't make the mark. And Humes' testimony conformed exactly with the written descriptive details on the diagram.)

Weisberg refers to this same material as "suppressed." He points out that the sheets were not published in the Warren report, which was a summation of evidence. But they are in Vol. XVII, Page 45 of the supporting volumes. Suppressed?

To Mark Lane that errant dot is proof of a below-the-shoulder back wound. He constructs a conclusion that the commission recognized this but had to evade it because it would upset the lone-assassin conclusion. "A back entrance wound was therefore inconvenient, and, therefore evidently corroborated beyond doubt by the Humes autopsy diagram and corroborated by the holes in the jacket and shirt, it disappeared," Lane contends. But as the report says, it was never there—except to such scrutinizers as Lane.

"NO ERROR"

Weisberg goes further. Insisting that the error admitted by Boswell is no error at all, he says:

"Unless the commission is prepared to prove that this original working paper of the autopsy is wrong—not just a little wrong but grossly and inexcusably wrong—in a manner that can never be expected from such eminent experts in both pathology and forensic medicine, its entire report is a monstrous fake!"

By the same logic, showing the errors and wrongs of "Whitewash"—as the writers are doing here—would amount to proving Weisberg is right in his charges.

Lane also saw something else in the autopsy diagrams. There is an arrow on the back of the head, which is very plain. Lane sees it this way:

ARROW POINTS

"The diagrams... show that Humes apparently believed a bullet to have exited at the left side of the president's skull, for he placed an arrow pointing to the left upon a mark evidently signifying a bullet entry wound."

How could he know what Humes "apparently believed"? No such stated belief is to be found in Humes' testimony. And Lane has admitted in a published interview that he wrote Humes but received no reply.

Boswell made the arrow.

What does it signify?

"The arrow is meant to imply that this wound of entry went from external to internal in an upward and inward slanting direction," says Boswell. Epstein says there is no evidence that a bullet never went through the president's neck from back to front. For this conclusion, he turns to the autopsy itself.

BULLET PATH

"The fact that the autopsy surgeons were not able to find a path for the bullet is further evidence that the bullet did not pass completely through the president's body," Epstein says.

One of the things on which he bases this is Humes' testimony that pathologists were unable "to take probes and have them satisfactorily fall through any path at this point." But Epstein leaves out Humes' statement that "attempts to probe in the vicinity of this wound were unsuccessful without fear of making a false passage."

The probe was determined during the autopsy through recognized pathological procedure in which it was discovered there was bruising of the apex, or tip of the lung, bruising of the parietal pleura, or membrane lining the lung cage, and bleeding near the strap muscles behind which the bullet passed. The hole at the back of the neck was characteristic of an entry wound. The hole at the throat did not then have the characteristics of an exit wound because it had been used in Parkland Hospital for a tracheotomy when doctors were trying to give the mortally wounded president an air passage.

But Lane, Weisberg and Epstein won't buy that, not when they have the FBI summary report of Dec. 9, 1963, to play with.

IN AUTOPSY ROOM

Two FBI agents, James W. Sibert and Francis X. O'Neill, were in the autopsy room. So were some Secret Service agents.

The FBI summary report, which was not published in the Warren report or its supporting volumes—thereby providing other fodder for the critics—said, in part:

"Medical examination of the president's body revealed that one of the bullets had entered just below his shoulder to the right of the spinal column at an angle of 45-60 degrees downward, that there was no point of exit, and that the bullet was not in the body."

Lane says this report had to be the correct version of the autopsy finding.

"Clearly Hoover (FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover) would not presume to summarize the medical examination of the president's body—the autopsy report—in so vital a document unless the autopsy report had been studied carefully. The undated autopsy report (Continued on following page) prepared by the military physicians and published in the commission, however, does not permit the conclusions offered by the FBI. Indeed it flatly contradicts them."

Some Saw Smoke on a Grassy Knoll

Was the report updated? In a certificate dated Nov. 24, 1963, which is part of the commission Exhibit 387, containing the written autopsy report, Humes certifies that "all working papers associated with Naval Medical School Autopsy Report A63-272 have remained in my personal custody at all times. Autopsy notes and the holograph draft of the final report were handed to commanding officer, U.S. Naval Medical School, at 1700, 24 November, 1963."

Also, the FBI did not receive the autopsy report until Dec. 23, 1963. So the FBI couldn't have given it careful study, as Lane says.

And when the FBI did see it and turned out a supplemental report, Jan. 13, 1964, no change was made because of the FBI practice and tradition of reporting what its agents say.

This Jan. 13 report said, "Medical examination of the president's body revealed that the bullet which entered his back had penetrated to a distance of less than a finger length."

As J. Edgar Hoover was to explain later:

ORAL STATEMENTS

"The FBI reports record oral statements made by autopsy physicians while the examination was being conducted and before all the facts were known. They reported that Dr. James J. Humes, chief autopsy surgeon, located what appeared to be a bullet hole in the back below the shoulder and probed it to the end of the opening with a finger. The examining physicians were unable to explain why they could find no bullet or point of exit. Unknown to agents, the physicians eventually were able to trace the path of the bullet through the body."

One technique which the critics use to discredit the autopsy report is what might be called reverse English.

In a usual medical situation, if a person died during an operation, say for removal of a wart on the finger, the cause of death would be determined by an autopsy. If the autopsy attributed death to heart failure, critics such as Lane, Weisberg and Epstein—if they are judged by their performance—would say ignore the autopsy, look at the wart.

This is what they've done on focusing on what happened when the president was taken to Parkland Memorial Hospital. Again, they show how they pick and chose to get what they did—an entrance wound at the throat.

KNOLL THEORY

Lane needs this to support his argument that there was a shot (or shots) fired from the grassy knoll—the greensward parallel to the presidential motorcade—rather than solely from Oswald's perch on the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository.

"Although every doctor who had seen the throat wound prior to the tracheotomy and expressed a contemporaneous opinion had said that it was a wound of entrance," Lane says on Page 53 of his book, the commission chose to dismiss these as erroneous conclusions stemming from a doctor's observations to the press.

Let's see. Dr. Charles J. Carrico. Lane doesn't name him as one of the doctors saying there was an entrance wound at the throat. But Carrico was the first doctor to see the president. In a written report dated at 4:20 p.m. on the day of the assassination, Carrico described the wound as a "small penetrating wound of the neck in the lower 1-3." "Penetrating" in medical terminology can mean either entrance or exit. In his testimony, Carrico further said that "not having completely evaluated all the wounds, traced out the course of the bullets, this wound would have been compatible with either entrance or exit wounds depending upon the size, the velocity, the tissue structure and so forth."

Dr. Malcolm Perry. He performed the tracheotomy, so he saw the wound before it had been touched. In a press conference in which he had the burden of trying to answer most of the questions ("It was bedlam," he later testified) he was noted as saying the throat wound was an entry wound.

Asked about what questions he was asked and what replies he made, Perry testified:

"Well, there were numerous questions asked, all the questions I cannot remember of course. Specifically, the thing that seemed to be of most interest at that point was actually trying to get me to speculate as to the direction of the bullets, the number of bullets, and the exact cause of death."

"The first two questions I could not answer, and my reply to them was that I did not know if there were one or two bullets, and I could not categorically state about the nature of the neck wound, whether it was an entrance or an exit wound, not having examined the president further—I could not comment on other injuries."

HALF QUOTED

Dr. Charles R. Baxter. He helped with the tracheotomy. On Page 52 of his book Lane writes: "Dr. Charles R. Baxter told commission counsel that 'it would be unusual for a high velocity missile' to cause an exit wound possessing the characteristics of the president's throat wound." But Lane left out most of the sentence on Page 42, Vol. VI, which was a reply Baxter made to a question. It says: "Although it would be unusual for a high velocity missile of this type to cause a wound as you have described, the passage through tissue planes of this density could have well resulted in the sequence you outline; namely, that the anterior wound does represent a wound of exit."

Dr. Ronald C. Jones. His report described the wound as an entrance wound. He testified as to his reasons for this belief, and Lane quotes his testimony from Page 55, Vol. VI—up to a point, an important point. In Lane's book, Jones says in part "You'd expect more of an explosive type of exit wound, than this appeared to have." Three words were then dropped after "have." They were "...on superficial examination."

DIDN'T KNOW

Lane doesn't mention that none of the doctors knew there was a wound at the back of the neck.

Lane and Weisberg also emphasize that the little entrance hole on the back of the president's skull was not seen by the doctors. Lane's treatment of this deserves a close look.

"These eight physicians examined the right occipital-parietal area; each testified that he did not see a bullet hole which the commission said was there," Lane writes. Then he gives this version of the questioning of Dr. William Kemp Clark, director of neurological surgery at Parkland Memorial Hospital:

"Q: Now you described the massive wound at the top of the President's head, with the brain protruding; did you observe any other hole or wound on the president's head?"

"Dr. Clark: No, sir; I did not."

And that is where Lane stops. But not Clark. His answer was:

"No, sir; I did not. This could have easily been hidden in the blood and hair."

None of the seven other doctors saw such a hole. But none said there was no such hole. And there is good reason—a reason the critics elect to ignore:

The president remained on his back, with great care taken not to move his head, all the time he was at the hospital.

Why wasn't the president turned over at Parkland?

Carrico testified: "This man was in obvious extreme distress and any more thorough inspection would have involved several minutes—well, several—considerable time which at this juncture was not available. A thorough inspection would have involved washing and cleansing the back, and this is not practical in treating an acutely injured patient. You have to determine which things, which are immediately life threatening and cope with them, before attempting to evaluate the full extent of the injuries."

LOOK AT BACK?

"Q: Did you ever have occasion to look at the president's back?"

"Dr. Carrico: No sir. Before—well, in trying to treat an acutely injured patient, you have to establish an airway, adequate ventilation and you have to establish adequate circulation. Before this was accomplished the president's cardiac activity had ceased and closed cardiac massage was instituted, which made it impossible to inspect his back."

Was this done after the president died? No. Not one doctor ever said this was done. Why not, Carrico was asked.

"I suppose nobody really had the heart to do it."

The assassination happened in a small park called Dealey Plaza, named in honor of a famous Dallas publisher. Its central landmark used to be a bronze statue of that citizen, George B. Dealey. Now there are others: the yellow brick mass of the Texas School Book

Depository and, close by, an embankment now called "the grassy knoll."

Some saw a rifle in a building window. The Warren Commission decided it was from there the assassin fired.

Some saw a puff of smoke on a grassy knoll.

Critics have decided it was from there an assassin fired.

Several men on the overpass saw smoke near the fence as the president fell. If the smoke came from the assassin's rifle, Kennedy could not have been shot in the back, as the autopsy doctors decided. It is as simple as that: he was facing obliquely toward the knoll.

The grassy knoll is a slope of greensward running southwestward away from the Texas School Book Depository. There is an arcade on its ridge, then a picket fence, shoulder high. The knoll runs along the north side of Elm Street on which Kennedy was slain. It ends at a railroad overpass which Elm Street goes beneath.

SOME PRESS BOX DITTOS . . .

To offer a few comments on some of the sports items which came into the forefront during our absence in the sick bed.

Someone asked for a comment on the new realignment of the Saginaw Valley Conference with the two division setup.

GOOD LUCK MR. STALEY

One of the finest gentlemen we have had the privilege of knowing in local high school ranks is Francis Staley, who recently retired as PCH principal to accept an elementary school position.

Here's one guy who didn't let the love of PCH athletic teams come ahead of the scholastic responsibilities he demanded from the athletes at the school.

It wasn't the heart attack, which put him out of action a few years ago, which broke his heart more than the fact he had to stay away from the excitement of Central athletic events.

Yet, despite his loyalty to his athletic teams, he often had to make the unfortunate decision to disqualify a player for failure to meet scholastic requirements.

If there's to be any happy note with respect to his leaving Central, it's only that he will still be in the Pontiac school system.

WELCOME JOHN WIECK

The appointment of John Wieck as swimming coach at Groves High School is a welcomed addition to county coaching ranks.

No one has promoted the sport of swimming by his cooperation with the press media more than Wieck during his many years at Fitzgerald High School in Macomb County.

We're happy to have his talents closer to home.

FORE! FOR JOE WATSON

Once one of the top amateur golfers and club invitational players in Michigan, who now barely plays nine holes a week is Joe Watson of Rochester.

Joe's absence in competition started when he moved into the area a few years ago from the western side of the state.

The hard thing to figure out is why he now plays less even when he comes into a county which is the state's capital of golf.

It may be a matter of invitation to get back on the invitational track again and any member at Forest Lake, Birmingham or Orchard Lake looking for a partner with the tournaments coming up. Joe might not take too long to consider.

ROCHESTER ROTARIAN GOAL

The Rochester Rotarians have set a $5,000 goal for their Crittenton Hospital out of the exhibition game August 12th between the Pontiac Firebirds and Ypsilanti Vikings.

Bill Lukens, vice-president at Rochester Twist and Drill and chairman of the fund game, is so optimistic he thinks all the hot dog and concession proceeds alone will put the goal over the top.

A THOUGHT . . .

For graduated high school athletes and future graduates going on college we suggest they remember an expression by Henry Ford: "You can't build a reputation on what you plan to do in the future."

Wimbledon Fans See Red

Gals Skirt Rule in Net Tourney

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Every tennis fan at Wimbledon saw red Tuesday.

There's a long-standing rule that girls playing in this center of tennis must deck themselves out all in white—and even avoid a colorful fringe to the panties that peek from beneath miniskirts.

But the girls of 1967 got around the rule with buttons, red buttons.

Said Australia's Jan O'Neill:

"I have three delightful little red buttons on my skirt and I don't see why they should upset my opponent or anyone else."

Newsmen whistled their assent. Britain's Virginia Wade produced

Tigers Lose Game, All-Star

Kaline Injured as Bengals Fall to Indians, 8-1

DETROIT (AP)—All-Star outfielder Al Kaline, who never attended or played in a World Series Game, might have killed the slumping Detroit Tigers' chances for an American League pennant Tuesday night when he smashed his right hand on the bat rack in a rare fit of temper.

The 32-year-old right-fielder, who polled 242 of a possible 247 votes from AL players to lead the All-Star voting, fractured the hand and probably won't be able to play in the July 11th game at Anaheim. He will be lost to the team for two or three weeks.

"We haven't thrown in the towel yet," said Tigers Manager Mayo Smith, obviously disturbed as Detroit lost its fourth straight game, an 8-1 decision to Sam McDowell of the Cleveland Indians.

The loss was Detroit's 14th in its last 19 games and left them 5½ games behind league-leading Chicago and only one half game ahead of the surging Boston Red Sox.

MAKE SWITCHES

When Joe Sparma faces Cleveland's John O'Donoghue tonight, Smith most likely will use light-hitting Mickey Stanley in center field, switching Jim Northrup to right, with Willie Horton, who has a slight calf injury, in left.

The injury to Kaline was coupled with news of severe chest colds to pitchers Hank Aguirre, Fred Gladding and Johnny Podres, plus a hip injury suffered by Earl Wilson, 8-7, who started against Cleveland Tuesday.

"Kaline suffered a fractured metacarpal bone behind the little finger in his right hand," said team physician Dr. Russell Wright. "He will be out two or three weeks."

He said Wilson, injured while covering home plate in the second inning following a wild pitch, suffered a severe bruise on his right hip and right knee.

"But I think he'll be able to pitch," said Wright.

9 STRIKEOUTS

McDowell, who hasn't won since May 30th, boosted his record to 4-6, striking out nine, including Kaline twice.

Kaline, an All-Star selection 13 straight years, injured his hand in the sixth inning when he slammed his bat into the bat rack after striking out.

Yank on Upset Trail

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Charlie Pasarell, America's dark horse at Wimbledon, was aiming today for his second big upset victory in three days.

The 23-year-old tennis star from San-turce, Puerto Rico, knocked out reigning champion Manuel Santana of Spain in the first round Monday. This time he was to face Bob Hewitt, the powerful Australian who is now a member of South Africa's Davis Cup team.

Hewitt is unseeded, but is one of the fancied players here following South Africa's Davis Cup triumph over France in the semifinals of European Zone B Davis Cup competition. Hewitt shared South Africa's singles with Cliff Drysdale.

The biggest red revolution of all. Here she was, at Wimbledon, wearing bloomers trimmed with red.

"I may surprise people with my bloomers but I'd rather surprise myself with my tennis," she said.

SECOND ROUND WIN

Virginia, a 21-year-old brunette, defeated Willie Hall of England in the second round of the women's singles—and not a murmur of protest came about her red fringed bloomers from the officials of the austere All-England club which runs the Wimbledon championships.

Another top tennis girl, Annette Van Zyl of South Africa, wore a dress with red buttons—also without any hostility from Wimbledon's umpires.

Canadian Loot, Title Lure Top Linksmen

MONTREAL (AP)—The Canadian Open Golf Championship, carrying a beefed up value of $200,000 and increased prestige, begins Thursday with Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus the co-favorites.

The site is the Montreal Municipal Course, 6,800-yard, par 71 layout and one of the very few municipal courses the pros see on their regular tour.

It has been refurbished and toughened for the tournament but remains flat and waterless and should pose few problems for the elite field.

TWO TITLES

"The course seems to be in good shape, but it could be better," said Jim Ferrier, a former PGA champ, long-time campaigner in this tournament and the last man to win consecutive Canadian titles, in 1950-51.

The field of 156 will cut to the low 70 and ties for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday. If a playoff is necessary it will be over 18 holes Monday.

County Open at OU Courts

Tennis Tournament Nears

The eighth annual Oakland County Open Tennis Tournament co-sponsored by The Pontiac Press and the City Recreation Department will be held over two weekends, starting July 14 at Oakland University courts.

Five divisions of play will be held in the tournament including men's singles and doubles; junior singles and doubles and senior men's singles.

The first phase of the tournament will begin Friday evening July 14 and continue on Saturday and Sunday July 15-16.

The quarter-finals, semifinals and finals are slated for the OU court July 21-23.

Defending men's doubles' champs are Paul Young and Ray Shearer of Birmingham who defeated Bruce Gould and Rick Watson in the 1966 finals.

GAINS TWO TITLES

Young was also the men's singles champion as he defeated his doubles' partner Shearer.

Junior champions in 1966 were Jim Long and Norb Parent of Northville, while Watson took the junior singles championship.

The senior men's crown for men over 35 went to Leon Hibbs who defeated his one time doubles partner in city men's doubles play, Ralph Alece.

The tournament is open to all tennis players within the age groups: 17-under for juniors; 18-over for men's play and over 35 for senior men's.

Before the game, the Pittsburgh Pirates put on an act for Walker, Matthews and Jack Lemmon. During the game, they put on an act worthy of Abbott and Costello.

The first act proved more profitable. At least several of the Pirates earned $100 each for it. They didn't get anything for the second act except a lot of confusion and a 5-2 loss to the New York Mets.

In the pre-game festivities, the Pirates and Mets acted out a triple play for a scene in the movie, The Odd Couple, which stars Matthew as a sloppy sports writer and Lemmon as his roommate who is obsessed with cleanliness.

temporarily. Hal Lanier struck the big blow, a two-run double with the bases loaded in the fifth inning.

Hank Aaron smashed his 19th and 20th homers, a grand slam and a two-run blast, for Atlanta.

Houston starter Wade Blasingame, a Brave until recently, walked three men before Aaron connected in the third.

How did the scorebook happen to be wrong? It seems a Pirate broadcaster asked Walker before the game for his line-up, and Walker reeled off a batting order with Pagan following Alley.

The broadcaster, in the course of conversation, relayed the line-up to the man responsible for putting it on the scoreboard. So there it was.

Met coach Sheriff Robinson caught the discrepancy, but Westrum let it go through the first two innings when the reversal of Alley and Pagan did the Mets no harm.

Pitchers on Hitting Spree in Pontiac Junior Leagues

A couple of the younger hurriers in the city junior baseball program Tuesday morning campaigned against the adage that pitchers can't hit.

The Class F Auburn Heights Boys' Club Preps downed the Columbia Avenue Recreation Association, 10-1, as moundsman Randy Rose hurled a two-hitter and rapped a triple, plus a pair of doubles.

Larry Walker of the Giants in the Widgeo B circuit blasted three doubles while holding the AH Boys Club's Patriots to two hits in a 20-4 conquest.

In Class E, meanwhile, it was score or else. Rick Walker of the AHBC Patriots and Daryl McConner of the House of Barbers Yankees each won two-hit shutouts, while Tom Ashbaugh of Felice Market blanked his opposition on four safeties.

Rochester trimmed Bloomfield Hills, 7-1, to remain unbeaten in Class D. Le Littlejohn's first-inning grand slam homer featured a fast 5-0 Rochester lead.

RECORD PACE — Ron Clarke of Australia closes his eyes during his record run in the two-mile event yesterday near Stockholm. Clarke, holder of six world marks, set a world record by covering the two miles in 8:19.8. The old mark was 8:22.6 held by Michael Jazy of France.

8:19 Record for 2 Miles 'Surprising'

VAESTERAAS, Sweden (AP) — Ron Clarke, Australia's durable track star, set a world record of 8:19.8 here Tuesday night. Now he plans to attempt to break his world mark of 3:16.4 for the 5,000 meters at Stockholm next week.

Clarke, a lean 29-year-old Aussie who was the first to crack the 28-minute barrier for the 10,000 meters and the 13-minute barrier for the three miles, was surprised after he learned of his record time in the two mile.

Clarke's remarkable last lap of 59.8 seconds enabled him to break the listed world mark of 8:22.6 set by Michael Jazy of France in 1965. He finished far ahead of Lars Bergqvist, the runnerup timed in 8:56.59.

Nears Record Speed

GUNTERSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — The Hustler almost, but not quite broke the world's water speed record Tuesday on Lake Guntersville after clocking a top speed of 276.170 miles per hour in one of six runs.

'A' Defending Champs Surprised by Talbott

Talbott Lumber surprised the Teamsters 614 last night, 5-4, to keep the defending city baseball champion from gaining a share of the top spot in the Class A League at Joyce Park.

The loss dropped the lumbermen (6-3) into a fourth place tie. Talbott, in gaining only its second win of the season, moved into a ninth-place tie with its 2-7 log.

Peace Talks Slated by Rival Circuits

By The Associated Press
Peace may be breaking out in the world of professional soccer but word hasn't yet reached Baltimore or Pittsburgh of the National Professional Soccer League.

The Bays and the Phantoms, 1-2 in the Eastern Division race, fought to a 2-2 tie Tuesday night at Baltimore, thus remains three points in front.

A peace feeler between the National League and the United Soccer Association was confirmed Tuesday by Dick Walsh, commissioner of the United league who said the expansion committees of the two leagues would meet today.

In United league action Tuesday, New York beat Dallas 4-1 and Houston beat Cleveland 2-1. The Bays trailed 2-0 at half-time, but caught the Phantoms on goals by Shimon Cohen and Fernando Azevo. Dieter Perau and Ronnie Cocks scored for Pittsburgh.

New York won its second straight game, with Sergio Silva scoring twice. Houston beat Cleveland for the second time, the winning goal coming on Norberto's goal at 25:56 of the second half.

ning put the lumbermen into a lead they never relinquished. Bill Pappas' two-run single was the big blow.

He also had a single and scored the winners' final run in their two-run fifth.

Two steals of home comprised the Teamsters' attack until the last inning when Mike Marcum singled, Gary Fisher tripled and pinchhitter Al Barkeley doubled to put the tying run on base.

Reliever Larry Walker then fanned Bob Bogert for the final out. Tonight Pass Excavating (4-3-1) hopes to keep its playoff hopes alive against first-place M. G. Collision (7-2).

Miss Wright Looks for 5th Women's Open

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Mickey Wright is playing less and loving golf more and she thinks she has a wonderful chance of winning her fifth Women's National Open Championship, starting here Thursday.

"I am playing perhaps the best golf ever in my career," she told Dallas, Tex., veteran of 11 years as a professional said today. "I am crazy about this golf course. I really think I have a good chance to win."

Mickey, who replaced the late Babe Dickson-Zaharias as the queen of golf and then suddenly cut down on her tournament schedule, is one of 99 players who will compete in the Women's Open over the 6,191 yards, par-71 Cascades course here.

Forward Accents Pact With Pistons

DETROIT (AP) — Forward John Tresvant has signed a 1967-68 National Basketball Association contract with the Detroit Pistons becoming the sixth player to sign for the season.

The 6-foot, 7-inch Tresvant came to the Pistons in a trade with the St. Louis Hawks in December, 1965.

He made the starting lineup for the last two months of the 1966-67 season and averaged 9.7 points and seven rebounds a game.

New Formula to Settle Tie

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Pacific—8 has turned to mathematics to select its Rose Bowl representative and eliminate changes in provincial voting. Members have been picking their color bearer for decades.

Under the new system, UCLA would have played Purdue in the Pasadena classic last New Year's.

UCLA trounced USC, 14-7, spurred by the hope that victory would lead to the Rose Bowl. Its record was 9-1 over-all and 5-1 in the Pac-8.

SECRET VOTE
Was chosen, 4-1 in the conference by a secret vote of faculty representatives.

UCLA fans screamed robbery. They added choice explosives a week later when USC fell 51-0 before Notre Dame to end the season 7-3 over-all.

Their feelings were assuaged when Purdue beat USC in the bowl, 14-13.

The new point system would have put UCLA in the bowl, 30-25.

It was approved by the American Association of Western Universities Pac-B Council, ratified by the members' presidents and chancellors, and announced Tuesday by AAWU Executive Director Thomas J. Hamilton.

A conference champion automatically goes into the Rose Bowl.

Weekly Golf Event Taken by Mrs. Hume

Mrs. John Hume of Birmingham was a week late in sharpening her golf game in the Women's District Golf Association.

Last week, Mrs. Hume finished second to Mrs. T. M. Warner of Indianapolis in the WDGA 54-hole medal play tournament. It was the fourth runner-up finish in the event for Mrs. Hume.

She would have taken the title if she were playing then the way she played yesterday.

In the WDGA's weekly outing at Bloomfield Hills Country Club, Mrs. Hume had her game tuned to fine form as she carded a 37-41-78 to win the event by two strokes over Mrs. Anthony Koustas of Dearborn.

Included in Mrs. Hume's round was an eagle, one of three carded for the day. Mrs. Koustas picked up one of the eagles and the other went to Mrs. John Kelchner, who played in the third flight.

Mrs. T. M. Warner of Indianapolis, who took the medal play title last week, wound up third yesterday with an 82.

Grilled Meat Has Special Appeal

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

A barbecue on the Fourth of July seems like a good way to entertain. Just hope for nice weather.

If you are tired of hamburger and steak and don't care for hot dogs, consider a leg of lamb for your grilled meat. One weighing eight or nine pounds will feed a large group.

For perfect cooking, use a meat thermometer and allow about 30 minutes a pound.

It's a good idea to fashion a drip pan from aluminum foil. This catches the juice and prevents fat spattering.

HICKORY BARBECUED LEG OF LAMB

Leg of lamb
Salt and pepper
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
½ cup hickory flavor catsup
1 tablespoon light brown sugar
1 tablespoon salad oil
¼ cup coarsely chopped onion

ents; brush on lamb frequently, while continuing to roast for a total of 30 minutes per pound or until meat thermometer registers 175 degrees for medium doneness.

Less exotic, faster to prepare and equally good grilled meats are Cheese-Striped Franks and Red, White and Blue Burgers.

CHEESE-STRIPED FRANKS
10 (1 pound package) franks
4 slices Cheddar cheese, cut into ½ inch strips
¼ cup chili sauce
10 frank buns, split and toasted

Split franks lengthwise, but not clear through. Insert 2 strips of cheese in the pocket of each frank. Spoon 1 tablespoon of chili sauce between the cheese strips.

Grill split side up 5 minutes until cheese melts and becomes bubbly. Serve in toasted bun. Makes 10 sandwiches.

RED, WHITE, AND BLUE BURGERS
10 (1 package) frozen beef burgers
Salt and pepper
5 hamburger buns, split and toasted

Lettuce
2 medium tomatoes, sliced
2 medium onions, sliced
2 packages (4 ounces each) blue cheese

Pan-fry or grill frozen beef burgers 1 to 2 minutes per side. Season.

To Assemble Each Sandwich: Place lettuce on bottom half of toasted bun. Add tomato slice, beef burger patty, onion slice, and another beef burger patty. Sprinkle with crumbled blue cheese and cover with toasted bun half. Serve hot.

HERBED CARROTS FOR THE GRILL

1 lb. young carrots (7-8 carrots)
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dried thyme
2 tablespoons butter

Wash and scrub carrots. Cut in ¼" long angle slices. Put in disposable foil broiler pans or divide ingredients for 4-5 foil packets.

Put butter on bottom, add

Put Fruit Cocktail Into Coffee Cake

Cooks often look for new ways of preparing mixes. Here's one that may appeal to you.

Coffee Cake

1 package (10½ ounces) coffee cake mix (with mixing bag and baking pan)
¼ cup well drained canned fruit cocktail
¼ cup finely cut pecans

Make up coffee cake mix and turn into pan according to package directions. Halve the fruit cocktail pieces and gently fold into batter right in pan. Mix pecans with topping (from coffee cake mix package) and sprinkle over batter. Bake according to package directions.

Cheese Soup Dip

Use rye crackers or cubes of rye bread as "dippers" for this luscious fondue:

In saucepan, blend 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup and 1 tablespoon flour until smooth. Stir in 1 tablespoon light cream, ¼ teaspoon prepared mustard, ¼ teaspoon paprika, and 1 small clove garlic (minced). Cook over low heat until thickened; stir constantly. Serve as dip. Makes about 1½ cups.

carrots and sprinkle with salt and thyme. Seal the top of broiler pan with a sheet of foil.

Shake pan frequently while over the hot charcoal grill. Makes 4-5 servings, and require 20-30 minutes cooking time, depending on the fire.

White Sauce, Cheese Topping Go on Hominy

Baked Hominy

1 can (1 pound, 13 ounces) white hominy
1 cup hot white sauce (see Note)
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons fine cracker crumbs

1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons grated cheddar cheese

Drain hominy and turn into well-buttered oblong heatproof glass baking dish (10 by 6 by 1½ inches). Pour and gently spread white sauce over hominy but not quite to edges.

Pour milk around edges to flow down and under hominy as much as possible. Sprinkle with salt and cracker crumbs; dot with butter and cheese.

Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 60 minutes. Remove and allow to stand for 10 minutes; serve at once. Makes 6 servings. (Milk will whey — this is as it should be.)

Note: In making the white sauce use 3 tablespoons each flour and butter, ¼ teaspoon salt and 1 cup milk.

Good Addition

Ever add strips of leftover cooked ham to that macaroni-and-cheese dish? Along with a tossed green salad and a plate of sliced tomatoes, this makes a satisfying main course for lunch.

Fruit Garnishes Dessert Mold

One of the pleasantest aspects of summer is the relaxed, informal brand of entertaining it brings.

Instead of laboring long over a hot stove, we count our minutes in the kitchen carefully planning salad menus for luncheon and refrigerator desserts for our kaiserschmaches.

When it comes to cool desserts, the molded gelatin dessert is ever-popular, for many reasons. It makes its appearance always looking its very best, then cuts nicely into any number of servings you desire.

But the flavor is the most important matter, of course, and this Bavarian Cream is delicately and deliciously flavored with coffee. For added drama, it is garnished with pineapple and banana slices.

The accompanying coffee knows no season. Particularly in summer, it provides a refreshing lift.

But be sure it's freshly brewed, prepared just moments before serving, so that your coffee is always at its flavorful best.

Coffee Bavarian Cream
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
Pinch salt
6 tablespoons granulated sugar, separated
2 eggs, separated
1½ cups milk
3 teaspoons instant coffee powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream

Combine gelatin, salt and 2 tablespoons sugar in top of double boiler. Stir in egg yolks; combine milk and instant coffee; stir in slowly.

Cook over boiling water, stirring until mixture coats spoon. Remove at once. Add vanilla. Chill until consistency of unbeaten egg whites.

Beat egg whites until they form moist peaks; add remaining 4 tablespoons sugar gradually, beating until stiff. Fold into yolk mixture with whipped cream. Spoon into 1½-quart mold.

Chill until set. Makes 8 servings.

You Waste a Bit

Dressed whole fish may be cheaper per pound but it is wise to remember they contain considerable waste. Fish fillets and fish steak come higher but there is no waste in the fillets and very little in the steaks.

Corn Fritters

A thick batter, to which whole-kernel corn is added is often used for deep-fat fried corn fritters; to vary this dish, omit the corn and use chopped shrimp.

COFFEE BAVARIAN CREAM — This beautiful summer dessert is light as a cloud. Anyone who enjoys coffee will like a Bavarian cream flavored with instant coffee powder.

Strawberry-Nut Mixture Is Ice Cream or Pudding

Making homemade ice cream is a project generally undertaken by only a few extra-ambitious homemakers or perhaps an occasional class of primary school children.

Usually it's quite a process!

But delicious "Strawberry Fields Ice Cream" is different. It's easy to make with strawberry topping, whipped cream, egg yolks, corn syrup and flavorful toasted slivered almonds.

You can serve "Strawberry Fields Ice Cream" as a pudding if you wish — just refrigerate instead of freezing it. Either way, it's delightful. Be glad that the recipe makes almost a half-gallon. Family and guests will most likely come back for seconds.

Strawberry Fields Ice Cream
1 cup whole natural almonds
2 cups whipping cream
2 egg yolks
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup light corn syrup
1 jar (12 oz.) strawberry topping

Chop almonds medium-fine, place in shallow pan and toast at 400 degrees, stirring often, for 8 minutes.

Whip cream until stiff; set aside. Beat egg yolks with salt until thick and lemon-colored.

Bring corn syrup to full boil in saucepan; pour into egg mixture, beating all the time and continue beating 2 to 3 minutes longer until mixture is thick and very light colored.

Beat in strawberry topping. Fold in almonds and whipped cream.

Turn into ice cream mold, loaf pans or individual paper baking cups. Freeze until firm. If you wish, garnish with fresh strawberries and mint when you serve.

Alternate: Butterscotch flavor — omit strawberry topping. Substitute 1 package (6 oz.) butterscotch pieces, melted with 2 tablespoons water over low heat in saucepan. Add 2 or 3 tablespoons cream de cacao if desired. Makes 10 to 14 servings.

Exercise Care on Substitutes

It's best to use the exact ingredients called for in cake recipes; for example, butter and shortening cannot always be successfully switched in these rules.

To be on the safe side, when butter is called for in a cake formula, use butter; when shortening is recommended, use shortening.

Garrison Says Killers Made Oswald Decoy

NEW YORK (AP) — New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison contends the real assassins of President John F. Kennedy set Lee Harvey Oswald up as a decoy, hoping he would be shot down by Dallas police.

Garrison explained his theory Tuesday night during an interview with Mike Wallace in the third of a series of telecasts on the Warren Report by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The district attorney has charged previously that five anti-Castro Cuban guerrillas killed the president. In the interview he said the conspirators plotted the death of Patrolman J. D. Tippit "to get rid of the decoy in the case, Lee Oswald."

Garrison said the conspirators "had what I think is a rather clever plan" to get rid of Oswald "so that he would not later describe the people involved in this."

REACT VIOLENTLY

"It's well-known that police officers react violently to the murder of a police officer," he said. "All they did was arrange for an officer to be sent out to Tenth Street, and when Officer Tippit arrived there he was murdered, with no other reason than that."

"After he was murdered," Garrison continued, "Oswald was pointed to, sitting in the back of the Texas Theater where he'd been told to wait, obviously." He said the apparent plan was that the police would come and avenge the death of a fellow officer.

"But the Dallas police, apparently, at least the arresting offi-

RUBY'S ROLE

"That's where Jack Ruby comes into the picture," Wallace asked, referring to the nightclub operator who subsequently shot Oswald as he was about to be transferred from the Dallas city jail.

"That's right. It was necessary for one of the people involved to kill him," said Garrison.

CBS said its own investigation had concluded that Oswald shot Tippit and that there was no evidence to indicate the two men knew each other or were involved in a conspiracy together.

Further, the report said, CBS believed the killing of Oswald by Ruby "still appears to have been not a conspiracy, but an impulse—meaningless violence born of meaningless violence."

Paving Bids Accepted by Commission

Bids totaling $267,900 for the city's 1967 street paving and pavement repair program were accepted last night by the City Commission.

The A & A Asphalt Paving Co. was lowest of three bidders with $111,850 for the new paving, using bituminous concrete, and the Ann Arbor Construction Co. and Cook Construction Co. submitting a joint bid, were the lowest of two for $155,850 worth of repair work, also using bituminous concrete.

Final costs of the contracts would fall within the amount appropriated for the projects, said Joseph E. Nelping, director of public works and service.

Commissioners also:

- Set July 11 public hearings for construction of water mains on Woodward from East Boulevard to the southern city limits, expected cost, $12,785; and on Northfield, Cameron to Arlene, and on Arlene, Walton to Northfield, expected cost, $25,309.

- Authorized a contract for reconstruction of intersections at Paddock and Osmon, and Franklin Road and South Boulevard.

- Accepted the resignation of James Howlett from the Citizens Finance Study Committee and Melvin S. Norberg from the Plan Commission.

- Named the city manager as civil defense director.

Michigan Bell's Proposal for Land Swap Is Received

City commissioners last night received a proposal to trade a city-operated parking lot on Mill below East Huron for comparable land to allow expansion of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

The company's offer calls for it to purchase land bounded by East Lawrence, Mill, East Pike and Perry and raze a bowling alley, bar, diner and sport shop, then trade the land to the city.

The city would give 25,000 square feet for 27,000 square feet more convenient to South Saginaw and businesses along Pike and Lawrence, said Joseph E. Nelping, director of public works and service.

A proposal was also received to sell a 300 by 200-foot tract of land in Aaron Perry Park on Montcalm across from Pontiac Motor Division to allow construction of an electric power substation.

structed by General Motors Corporation and Consumers Power Co. — would transmit 120,000 volts for operation of electric melting furnaces in the foundry operation.

Although final construction would not be until 1969 or 1970, this would cut down smoke dust and dirt from the foundry operation, officials said.

Plans call for cables to reach the foundry by overhead lines across Montcalm.

Both proposals were turned over to the administrative staff for study.

Senior Citizen Project Funded

Funding of $63,253 to the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO) for Project Find was announced today by U.S. Rep. Jack McDonald, R-19th District.

The grant contract is from the National Council for the Aging in New York and is one of only 12 issued in the nation.

OCCEO Executive Director James M. McNeely said that most of the funds will be used to hire 16 senior citizen aides whose job will be to find isolated senior citizens who need some form of help or companionship.

McNeely was in New York last weekend to negotiate the contract with the National Council for the Aging which receives both private and public funds.

The funding is for a period of nine months, according to McNeely, who said he was hopeful that an additional contract can be agreed upon when this one expires.

McNeely said that future goals of the senior citizen program would be establishment of centers in Pontiac and in the western part of the county.

Japanese End Midwest Tour

DETROIT (AP)—The seven-member Japanese Economic Mission to the Midwest today wound up its tour of the central states and headed for Washington, D. C.

The group's chairman, Kazutaka Kikawada, president of the Tokyo Electric Power Co., said Tuesday that discussions with business and political leaders in the Midwest "have laid the foundation for a much closer relationship between this area and Japan."

"Japan's imports from the Midwest amounted to $683 million last year and are expected to reach $1.5 billion in 1975," Kikawada said. "Michigan's exports to us totaled $54 million in 1966, with your advanced machinery topping the list at $30 million."

The mission's purpose is to discuss with American leaders and business leaders means of expanding economic relations between the Midwest and Japan.

Three Children Going Dutch to Promote Understanding

While their friends are playing at home or traveling in the United States, three children who attend school in the area will spend four weeks in the land of wooden shoes and windmills.

The Netherlands — as part of a program to improve relations among countries.

Selected to visit near Amsterdam from July 22 through Aug. 19 as part of a program sponsored by the Greater Detroit Chapter of Children's International Summer Villages (CISV) are:

Elaine Carlis, 692 Franklin, Pontiac, a fifth grade student at Whittier Elementary School; John Bellaimey, 13450 Fairway, Detroit, a sixth grader at Roeper City and County School in Bloomfield Hills, and Wendy Wierner, 3485 Sutton, Birmingham, sixth grader at Bloomfield Village School in Birmingham.

Also accompanying the group will be adult adviser Louise Talbot, 2379 Dorchester, Troy, and fifth-grader Tom Mecsey of Warren.

"The four United States delegates will work to promote close friendships with other delegates from Austria, Denmark, Japan, Poland, Netherlands, Mexico, France, Great Britain and the Philippines," said Everett E. Baggerly, 3855 Wabek, Bloomfield Hills, chairman of the chapter.

Last year the newly formed Detroit chapter sent a delegation to a camp in the Philippines. It is part of an international organization directed toward improving relations among all countries.

Delegates must have a good school record, give evidence of having had experiences which would indicate he would not be homesick and have a real desire to know and understand children from other lands and make friends easily.

Children must also be 11 years old, a United States citizen and a resident of Greater Detroit.

As part of her interview prior to selection, Elaine Carlis was asked what she would wish for if she could be granted three wishes. She replied:

"I wish I could live long and Plane Damaged in Air Collision

—With a Pigeon

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP)—A Navy transport plane flying at 9,400 feet collided with a 12-ounce pigeon the night of April 20. The collision 50 miles south of here near San Jose put a six-foot puncture in the plane's skin and two heavy bulkheads.

The mangled bird "stopped next to my foot," said the pilot, Lt. Joseph Rozic of Butler, Pa.

"My first assumption was that we'd had a collision with another plane. There was a loud, slightly muffled explosion. The whole plane shuddered, but there was no decompression. The damage to the plane was terrific."

Club Gets Grant

DEARBORN (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. Fund has granted $25,000 to the People's Community Civic League of Detroit, Benson Ford, fund president, announced Tuesday. He said the grant will be used to finance a vocational training center for Detroit's unemployed.

have good health, get a good education and go to college and help those people who are less fortunate than I."

She is the daughter of Mrs. Susan H. James.

Bellaimey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bellaimey, was asked what kind of delegate he would like to have represent the United States in the Netherlands Village.

"One who is kind, considerate and interested in world peace," he said. "He must know what America stands for and model himself accordingly."

Wendy Wierner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Wierner, had this answer on her three wishes:

"I wish that all the world could find peace, that I could travel around the world and help all the people and that I could live forever and see all the fantastic changes that people say will be made in the world."

Cosa Nostra Said Involved

Drug Stronger Than LSD Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—An official of the Food and Drug Administration says his agency is investigating the reported use of a new drug called STP which supposedly is more powerful than LSD.

The report came from John Pinlator, director of the FDA's drug abuse control bureau, in testimony Tuesday before a House Government Operations subcommittee.

Pinlator also indicated the criminal organization known as Cosa Nostra is becoming involved in the distribution of LSD, the so-called mind-expanding drug.

Pinlator said that the only word his agency has on STP consists of rumors that the drug is being circulated on the West Coast and in New York.

However, a San Francisco doctor said Tuesday night he and another physician were given a dense capsule of STP by its principal underground distributor.

FIVE HOSPITALIZED

Dr. David Smith, physician in charge of the drug abuse screening unit at San Francisco General Hospital, said the distributor gave away 5,000 capsules of STP at the June 21 "Summer of Love" gathering of hippies in San Francisco. He said that five users of STP were hospitalized.

Dr. Sidney Cohen, chief of psychosomatic medicine at Wadsworth Veterans Hospital in Los Angeles, told newsmen that "underground contacts have told me it's around."

Cohen called STP "a very nasty drug—the side effects are highly undesirable."

Debbie Packs Persian Room, but Not as an Entertainer

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Debbie Reynolds and husband Harry Karl phoned the Plaza Persian Room that they just loved Jack Jones and wanted to come over in a half hour for the supper show with a party of 16.

John the maitre d' had just been wondering how he was to squeeze the crowd he already had, without them. He set up special tables on the dance floor, without even using one of Harry Karl's show horns.

Jack's been doing such great business — so has Trini Lopez at Basin St. E. — that we hear the Waldorf's hoping to burgle both ... for next season.

Has NBC worked Frank Sinatra and his TV special away from CBS with the help of his friend Bennett Cerf whose Random House is linked to RCA? Or is it just trying? Sinatra's visiting Cerf's home at Mt. Kisco, working on his autobiography that Cerf'll publish.

A London paper asked me to help track down a rumor that Marion Brandt would give up his citizenship in protest against Vietnam. Brandt's Hollywood attorneys quickly discounted it. Though Brandt was lazing in Tahiti with girl or girls unknown, an attorney said, "It can't be true. Marion is very loyal to America. He goes back to the aborigines." (That may mean he likes Indian girls.)

Believe it or not, but when Lee Marvin was here for the premiere of "The Dirty Dozen," he visited a private club where — quite removed from him — there was a fatal shooting. Leaving the club in a hurry, Marvin was heard to remark:

"I thought we finished this picture three months ago."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Barbra Streisand's been offered $100,000 a week, probably tops of all time, by the new Miami Beach Statler Hilton Plaza but doesn't hanker to do personal appearances any more. She and Omar Sharif's first filmed scene in "Penny Girl" July 10 will be "Don't Rain On My Parade," to be shot in a New Jersey closed railroad station.

A prominent ballplayer's due to court to explain why he hasn't paid for his wife's ring. — Wanna rent the big N.Y.C. apt. Sammy Davis is giving up? The rent's about $1,000 a month. — WISH I'D SAID THAT: There's talk of selling N.Y. lottery tickets in subway stations, and a passenger asks, "What's first prize — a seat?"

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "I do not believe in that word Fate. It is the refuge of every self-confessed failure." — Andrew Soutar.

EARL'S PEARLS: "I figured out what's hurting our economy," says John Whyte. "It's people who refuse to live beyond their means!"

Bob Hope told of the days he was broke and often hungry: "Finally one day a friend brought me a steak — and I'd forgotten whether you cut it with a knife or drink it out of a spoon." — That's earl, brother.

UAW Okays Minority Veto Power in Contract Voting

DETROIT (AP) — New United Auto Workers voting procedures open the way for a small minority of union members to vote results of this summer's UAW contract negotiations with the big three auto makers.

The UAW disclosed today it has authorized skilled workers to vote separately from production workers on new national contracts in all union units at Ford and Chrysler, and has extended the privilege to 113 of 134 units at General Motors. The UAW indicated the other GM units could vote separately if they ask.

Separate voting also has been approved for some 9,000 union-represented white-collar workers at Chrysler.

If any segment — production, skilled or white-collar — turns down a contract, the pact is killed for all workers within that category.

Auto makers fear such a ratification procedure heightens chances of a major strike. Current contracts expire Sept. 5. Bargaining begins in 12 days.

Production workers within the big three outnumber skilled tradesmen more than 5 to 1. Chrysler's white-collar workers are less than one-tenth of the UAW's membership within that corporation.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther is on record as saying if skilled, production or white-collar workers vote against ratification, "then there is no contract — it is as simple as that."

Auto makers fear if skilled tradesmen turn down a contract which production workers approve and the companies sweeten it for the skilled, the production group then will demand more, too.

Tradesmen have shown growing militance in recent months, and the UAW tried unsuccessfully last summer to get the big three to reopen contracts ahead of time to give the skilled an immediate increase of at least 50 cents hourly.

The skilled within auto plants contend workers with similar skills employed elsewhere are paid more.

The Independent International Society of Skilled Trades has attempted to lure tradesmen from UAW ranks, contending that industrywide unions such as the UAW are dominated by production workers and wants of the skilled are overlooked.

Soviet Radio Hints Kosygin, Fidel Split

HAVANA (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Prime Minister Fidel Castro have disagreed in their talks, the official Soviet news agency Tass indicated today.

Tass reported from Havana that the two leaders had "a frank exchange" of opinions yesterday on a number of questions of mutual interest.

Use of the word "frank" in such announcements normally means disagreement. There was no mention of "identity of views" or any other phrasing indicating accord, although Tass called the talks "friendly."

Tass did not disclose subjects discussed, but the makeup of the Cuban delegation meeting with Kosygin indicated military matters were covered. Four of the nine top Cubans listed by Tass as participating in the talks were military leaders.

They were Defense Minister Raul Castro, Fidel's brother; First Deputy Defense Minister Juan Almeida, and Deputy Defense Ministers Sergio Del Valle and Guillermo Garcia.

RAUL'S RETURN

It was the first report of Raul Castro's return to his defense post since an announcement March 24 that he had stepped down temporarily. Fidel had said earlier in the year that Raul planned to take time off to study military, political, economic and technical subjects.

Disagreement between Kosygin and Castro had been expected. Diplomatic sources said they believed Kosygin's chief aim was to get the Cuban leader to mute his demands for the overthrow of Latin-American governments with which the Soviet Union is seeking to deal and that Castro was certain to refuse.

Kosygin, who arrived in Havana from New York Monday, is expected to continue his talks with Castro until Friday, then fly to Paris to see President Charles de Gaulle again.

U.S., Russia Plan to Submit Joint N-Treaty Plan Soon Congress Won't Act Fast on Tax

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union plan to submit to the Geneva Disarmament Conference shortly a joint proposal for a treaty to curb the spread of nuclear weapons.

When the treaty draft goes before the 17-nation disarmament group, probably within the next few days, it may still be minus a provision for safeguards against violations.

U.S.-Soviet negotiators have been unable for months to agree on the safeguards, or inspection, clause. But U.S. diplomats are hopeful of reaching Big Two accord on this soon after submitting the proposed treaty at Geneva, if not by then.

This became known today following a dinner meeting last night between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at the headquarters of the Soviet U.N. mission.

The Rusk-Gromyko session, a follow-up to the conferences last weekend between President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, apparently finished the last phase of the summitry of Glassboro, N.J., the site of the Johnson-Kosygin parley.

Rusk had no further appointments with Gromyko scheduled.

He arranged to return to Washington to report to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the Cabinet today and to the House Foreign Affairs Committee tomorrow.

Gromyko, who arrived June 17 with Kosygin, was reported considering returning to Moscow around the end of the week if the U.N. General Assembly decides to recess its emergency session on the Middle East.

Kosygin went to Havana Monday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite prodding this week from two influential administration figures, Congress is unlikely to begin considering until late summer the income tax surcharge President Johnson proposed six months ago.

Chairman William McCleskey Martin Jr. of the Federal Reserve Board renewed Monday the call for a surcharge, saying he would support a steeper increase than the proposed 6 per cent if needed to combat inflation.

Then yesterday, Chairman Gardner Ackley of Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers again urged congressional consideration of the surcharge, saying no figure lower than 6 per cent would do the job.

But the congressional timetable appears to rule out hearings at least until August, even if Johnson were to send to Capitol Hill legislation spelling out his tax proposals — which he has not done.

There were indications Johnson, who originally asked for an increase effective Saturday, might be happy to have one six months later.

Proposal to End City's Financial Plight Expected

A proposed solution to the city's financial plight is expected to emerge tonight from a meeting of the Citizens Finance Study Committee.

The meeting, slated to attract the full membership of the advisory group, is being called to consider a possible recommendation to the City Commission as to how the city can best solve its money problem.

The study committee has been meeting regularly in the past few months and reviewing alternate proposals for raising money for next year's budget.

Among those being considered are a city income tax and a possible boost in the property tax rate.

The city is presently operating on a budget that calls for expenditures of some $500,000 in excess of what will be taken in this year.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren has said that it is possible to operate under a "deficit budget" for only one year.

"Unless new sources of income are gained, he said, services will have to be cut.

Burglary Is Alarming

Burglars struck the VFW Hall at 96 Churchill, Pontiac Township, late yesterday, making off with an undetermined amount of beer and cigarettes. They also stole the building's $150 burglar alarm.

Cooley Lake 'Claims White Lake Boy, 2 1/2

A 2 1/2-year-old White Lake Township boy was found floating face down in three feet of water near the shore of Cooley Lake here yesterday.

Township volunteer firemen administered mouth to mouth resuscitation and used a mechanical resuscitator in a futile attempt to save the life of Johnny Rybarczyk of 9135 Hutchins, police said.

The boy was pronounced dead on arrival at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital at 4:42 p.m.

Police said that the child was spending the day with friends at Cooley Lake which is approximately a mile from his home.

LOOKING FOR KIDS — Ginny Fry and Don Castle of the Waterford Township Recreation Department scan the horizon in search of youngsters who might want to play in the recreation department's unique portable playground created by dismantling the interior of a school bus. Today was the official opening of the movable playground which will be visiting schools without playgrounds and housing subdivisions throughout the summer. On rainy days there are facilities inside the bus for children to play games or read books.

GOP Offers Tax Compromise

LANSING (AP) — Republican tax negotiators offered Democrats a new compromise proposal yesterday at the end of another noisy day of talks that raised some new issues and didn't settle the old ones.

Gov. George Romney, who has hosted the four days of negotiations in his office, charged meanwhile that Democrats are deliberately stalling — with no intention of helping House Republicans pass a state income tax.

Dealing with House Democratic leader William Ryan, Romney said, is like trying to catch a bat in the wind. "Every time you reach for it, it moves a little further. Every time, you say, 'Give me a little more.'"

Democrats raised two new issues yesterday — whether the House would give two-thirds approval to a measure asking voters to legalize a graduated income tax, and whether the negotiators should consider appropriations as well as taxes.

Romney exploded when Ryan suggested discussing appropriations items.

A LOOSE BOARD

"He can still say when we get all through with taxes that we aren't doing yet," Romney charged. "He's keeping this as a loose board, so he can duck out at any time."

"I'm not foolish," Romney said. "I'm not a kid. I've been through negotiations like these, and tougher than these. I know when I see loose boards and an endless situation."

Replied Ryan: "I think the governor, with his childish suspicion, is impairing these negotiations."

At one point the governor stood up and snapped: "I'm so fed up with listening to this delaying stuff that I can't tell you how fed up I am."

NATIONAL IMAGE

Later he repeated his contention that his national image would be improved if Michigan adopted a budget-cutting "austerity program."

"The people of this country are looking for somebody who would slash the national spending," Romney said. "It would have been perfectly logical for me to come in and make reduction of the budget my primary object."

"If I was only concerned about George Romney nationally," he said, "I would have gone for the austerity budget and I would have started out that way."

Ryan said the new Republican plan needs some — but not all — Democratic aims. He added Democrats would submit a new proposal of their own today.

The GOP program would levy income taxes of 2 1/2 per cent on individuals, 7 per cent on financial institutions and 5 1/2 per cent on corporations, increase the cigarette tax three cents per pack and give each taxpayer a sales tax refund of $12 a year.

It would repeal the business activities tax, cut the inheritance tax, give $42 million a year to local governmental units, and provide relief from property and city income taxes along a graduated scale worked out in negotiations Friday.

Despite City Ordinance

Water Fluoridation Nears

Will Pontiac residents receive fluoridated water? City officials say yes.

Residents in Pontiac, Pontiac Township, Bloomfield Township, Birmingham and Troy, like some 3-million-plus other users of the Detroit water system will begin receiving fluoridated water Aug. 1.

In Pontiac, this will happen despite the fact that voters in 1955, by a 5,775 to 4,311 margin, voted in favor of an ordinance — still standing — which prohibits the city from adding sodium fluorides to the water supply.

At the City Commission meeting last night, two commissioners (R) pushed ahead plans of the Detroit Water Supply System to add fluorides and questioned whether Pontiac had to receive the fluoridated water, or if the fluorides could be taken out of the water once it reached Pontiac.

The answers: Yes, Pontiac would have to receive fluoridated water unless it wanted to resort to some other source of supply. No, the fluorides can't be taken out because the cost is prohibitive.

Joseph A. Warren, city manager, said the city has no control over the Detroit water supply and cannot dictate what type of water it will receive.

centered in the DMZ and highland areas.

A sweeping force of more than 300 U.S. paratroopers from the 173d Airborne Brigade jumped about 50 patrolling Reds early today. In a sharp skirmish in the jungles of Kontum Province the paratroopers killed six North Vietnamese and took one prisoner. Two Americans were killed and eight wounded.

WESTERN FLANK

In Quang Tri, around the isolated western flank outpost of Khe Sanh, U.S. Marines kept up continual patrols to thwart Communist assaults. Ten Marines were killed in clashes Tuesday and 27 were wounded, but the Leathernecks said they killed 28 North Vietnamese regulars.

South Vietnamese military headquarters also reported a series of clashes with guerrillas in the Mekong Delta in which 49 of the enemy were killed. In one savage fight Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, a band of about 20 militiamen suffered heavy losses while beating off a five-hour attack with the aid of circling American gunships that raked the attacking Reds with their fire.

North of Saigon, the toll from a mine that demolished a bus Tuesday rose to 40 South Vietnamese civilians killed as U.S. troops searching at dawn found 17 more bodies. Ten others were wounded in the explosion. The number killed was one of the highest in a single terrorist attack in the war.

Despite cloudy weather over most of North Vietnam, American pilots flew 126 strike missions Tuesday with no reported losses. Two Communist MIGs were sighted but made no effort to fight.

The major effort was again directed at the northeast and northwest rail lines connecting Hanoi to Red China. Air Force jets reported bombing and shooting up 49 rail cars of various types and blasting one puffing locomotive in a yard 39 miles northwest of Hanoi.

U.N. Assembly Is Far From Mideast Accord

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. The assembly is expected to recess after the general debate of the U.N. General Assembly, for perhaps as long as a week, while the private consultations continue.

Soviet sources said the Soviets are sticking by their resolution. It calls for condemnation of Israel as the aggressor against Egypt, Jordan and Syria, with the withdrawal of its troops from the Arab territory it seized in the six-day war that began June 5 and payment of reparations for Arab property destroyed.

The U.S. resolution also calls for Israeli withdrawal but in the context of a broader settlement of the basic issues underlying the Arab-Israeli dispute.

STILL UNCLEAR

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Tuesday that "a good many delegations think well of our resolution." But he added that "a lot of consultations" are still going on and it is not yet clear what form the final resolution would take.

3 RESOLUTIONS

The assembly has before it three resolutions—one from the United States, the Soviet Union and Albania. Nine is given a chance of obtaining, in its present form, the two-thirds vote necessary for approval.

Jewelers Move to New Site

Connolly's Jewelers has a new location—the northwest corner of Huron and Saginaw, Norman L. Pattison, store owner announced today.

The jewelry store was formerly at 16 W. Huron, down the block from the new site.

Pattison, who recently bought the entire National Building, expressed his desire to stay in the downtown Pontiac area.

"Pontiac has been good to me. I think a lot of merchants underdressed Pontiac. The more Connolly's seems to stress quality, the more business we seem to do."

"If we have a successful store here, why should we move out? I feel that whether it's the Taubman plan or the U. of D. plan, something is going to happen downtown," he said.

COMING BACK

Pattison also said "Downtown seems to be coming back all over the U.S., and if this happens, we feel that this area will be the most prominent corner in Pontiac."

The owner announced plans to eventually remodel the entire building. The remainder of the ground floor is currently being renovated to house one, or possibly two, as yet unannounced stores.

The building foyer and the hallways are already or will be remodeled very shortly, according to Pattison. He added that the suites are being renovated to suit individual tenants as the rooms are leased.

Connolly's deals in gems, precious metals, watches and silver.

Crime News Control Plan Revised to Block Dangers

LANSING (AP)—A tentative plan to restrict information released to news media in criminal cases has been revised to guard against the dangers of secret arrests and secret law enforcement.

The changes were made in recommendations drawn up by a special committee of the State Bar of Michigan studying the suggestions from media and bar issue of freedom of the press sources.

Another meeting between representatives of the groups involved has been tentatively scheduled for July 21-22 in Ann Arbor, Edlmann said.

The change, designed to guard against the dangers of secret arrests and secret law enforcement, had been urged strongly by news media spokesmen. As revised, the rule would place greater emphasis on the appropriateness of the release by law enforcement agencies of essential information about arrests, newspaper, radio and television charges and evidence seized.

MEDIA OBJECT

They followed a hearing last month in Lansing at which trial information about arrests, newspaper, radio and television charges and evidence seized.

Top HUD Official Due for Citizen Unit Meeting

A meeting scheduled for tomorrow by the Citizens Committee for Pontiac's Positive Progress (CCPP) is expected to be attended by the Department of Housing and Urban Development's top Western official on urban renewal.

City officials were surprised when the CCPP announced that A. Dean Swartzel, the regional administrator of urban renewal, would be there.

Although commissioners and administrators have flown many times to Chicago to discuss matters related to Pontiac's downtown urban renewal program, they most frequently deal with Swartzel's subordinates, City Manager Joseph A. Warren said.

The conference is expected to last from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, 1801 S. Telegraph.

Donald H. Frayer, CCPP president said the session was called to discuss a formal protest the committee made to the urban renewal office in late February.

LONG DISCONTENT The group, long discontent with the plans of A. Alfred Taubman, designated by the city as developer of the downtown urban renewal program once certain commitments are met, at that time protested an agreement made between the City Commission and Taubman.

The CCPP has invited city commissioners and 43 business and civic leaders to attend. The public has not been invited.

Delegates will give final approval to bylaws, budget and membership fee schedules, and a temporary executive committee will be selected.

The COG is a voluntary association of local governments with a potential membership of 345 cities, villages, counties, townships and school districts in the six-county area of Oakland, Wayne, Macomb, St. Clair, Washington and Monroe.

To date, 142 local jurisdictions have declared intent to participate in the organization whose main function will be to solve common problems through mutual cooperation.

High Bids Slow Down Sewer Building Project

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—Faced with a high bid response to a proposed sewer construction project, the Township Board has decided to slow down on building.

Estimates on building sewer facilities for a project for the south district of Colonial Estates for 18 sites had been set at $20,800.

Lowest bid returned was for $32,750. This changed the per-site price from $1,155 to $1,819.

The board rejected the bids and decided to start all over in forming the assessment district and calling for hearings.

It is planned to call for new bids when construction has slowed somewhat. Board members revealed bids have been coming in high because construction firms have all the business they can handle at present and are deliberately bidding high without really expecting to win the contract.

TRIPLE BID Another sewer project and one for water are pending in the Colonial Estates subdivision and it is hoped that if all three are advertised at the same time later in the year, one contractor would be willing to lower his estimate considerably.

A hearing was held on a water main project in the Franklin, Long Lake Road area. No opposition was voiced to establishing an assessment district for 30 sites at $1,055 per site, $31,665 total.

Final hearing on the project was set for July 9, 8 p.m.

A boat ordinance for the township was discussed. Some residents have been asking for a ban on all power boats on township lakes.

Most homes have deed restrictions which prohibit power boats, it was pointed out. The going under the building today.

board decided to study a possible ban and perhaps call for hearings.

"They never notify you when they plan something like this," he said. "I expect things like this, but I had relaxed. This caught me completely off guard."

Police Lt. Donald Riddle said the blast, which knocked the six-room frame house off its foundation and left a hole about two feet deep and three feet across, occurred about 1:30 a.m.

ODOR OF DYNAMITE Police, who were hoping to obtain clues from car tracks across a nearby vacant lot, said there was a typical odor of dynamite at the scene.

LeFlore said he was sleeping in a middle bedroom on the opposite side of the house from where the explosion was set.

"If they had put it on the other side, it would have gotten me," he said.

The retired postal employee said a bomb had been placed alongside his home—in which he has lived with his wife, 60, for 40 years—in 1959 but the fuse burned out. A shot was fired into the house in 1964, but it did not hit anyone, he said.

LeFlore said a small metal mesh which he had placed along an opening underneath the house prevented the bomb from going under the building today.

Mississippi Negroes Get Meredith Challenge

GRENADA, Miss. (AP) — Climaxing a grueling marathon hike of 24 miles in a day, James H. Meredith challenged Negroes in Grenada to flex their political muscles this fall.

"Negroes are going to be politically effective," Meredith said Tuesday night at a church meeting—the first in a planned series of political orientation sessions along his highway march route. Negroes can decide every important political race in this state and the white man knows it," he said.

"I think we can have an effective political vote in this election." AUGUST PRIMARY He referred to the August primary in Mississippi for state offices, including the governorship.

Meredith, setting a foot-blistering pace under a broiling sun, plodded into Grenada after 19 hours of walking that covered 24 miles and stretched to 75 miles the distance he has marched since last Saturday.

He renewed the march "as a matter of conscience," returning to U.S. 51 at the spot near Hernando where a roadside assailant's gunfire cut him down June 6, 1966. The shooting brought Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and other Negro leaders into Mississippi to take up the trek, with Meredith rejoining it near Jackson, the termination point.

Meredith said he felt compelled to resume the march in order to finish what he started.

IN THE BACKGROUND Answering questions at the Grenada church meeting, Meredith said he has no personal ambitions for political office in Mississippi, his native state.

"I believe I can do more good in the background," he said. Meredith had told reporters after his graduation from the University of Mississippi in 1963 that he might eventually enter politics in the state.

He said Tuesday night he plans to seek admission to the practice of law in Mississippi and will get an application blank when he reaches Jackson. He is now a law student at Columbia University.

"I don't know if I could ever get admitted, because the bar is sort of a personal club for lawyers," said Meredith.

BEFORE LONG

He said he believed a Negro could be elected president "before too long."

He led 45 marchers, the largest number of the 1967 trek, into Grenada, which had violent racial outbreaks after last year's march.

After his brief speech Tuesday night, 240 Negroes marched from the church to the city square and paraded around, singing, yelling and clapping their hands. Meredith did not take part.

Meredith set out on the march last year to help Mississippi Negroes get rid of fears, he said, and to encourage them to take part in voting and political activities.

MRS. T. L. BODELL

Plastic Pouches for Pills Prevent Child Poisonings

NEW YORK (UPI) — An associate professor of pediatrics reports a major victory in the battle of wits with two and three-year-old children prone to mistake family medication for candy. More than 60,000 poisonings a year happen through such mistakes.

"Medical Tribune" reports Dr. Alan K. Done, of the University of Utah Medical Center, put pills in strips of sealed plastic envelopes. They were candy pills but they looked like medicinal pills. After trying to get the candy out most of the children in an experiment just gave up. All abandoned the effort before ingesting the equivalent of a dangerous dose.

Early Breakfast

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — When Mrs. Nora Solina awakened one recent morning, she went to the kitchen as usual to prepare breakfast. After setting the table and preparing the pancake batter, she called her daughters, Bernice and Debbie.

The girls slipped on their robes, sleepily ate their pancakes and had a cup of coffee. As they headed for their rooms to dress, Bernice happened to look at the clock. It was 1:15 a.m.

Pencil Sharpener

Make the children's home study easier by providing them a sharpening block which will enable them to keep a point on their pencil no matter how much writing they do.

Just glue sandpaper to the sides of a block of wood, that has been well sanded with sandpaper to remove all splinters. A few strokes of a pencil over a sandpaper block gives a good point.

Second One Hurts

Bucs Star in Two Comedies

By the Associated Press

Before the game, the Pittsburgh Pirates put on an act for Walter Matthau and Jack Lemmon. During the game, they put on an act worthy of Abbott and Costello.

The first act proved more profitable. At least several of the Pirates gained $100 each for it. They didn't get anything for the second act except a lot of confusion and a 5-2 loss to the New York Mets.

In the pre-game festivities, the Pirates and Mets acted out a triple play for a scene in the movie, The Odd Couple, which stars Matthau as a sloppy sports writer and Lemmon as his roommate who is obsessed with cleanliness.

Hydro Champ Garners Berth in Rich Race

DETROIT (AP)—Chuck Hickling, driver of Harral's Club, defending National and Gold Cup hydroplane champion, could take it easy today as qualifying trials for the $44,000 World's Championship race continued.

Hickling whirled the Reno-based unlimited class powerboat around a three-mile Detroit River course at 106.93 miles an hour Tuesday to become the 10th qualifier for Sunday's race.

UNBUMPABLES
Billy Schumacher in Miss Bardahl also made the field of 105.675. Schumacher and Hickling join Jim McCormick in Notre Dame and Bill Sterett in Chrysler Crew as the "unbumpables."

The two fastest boats in the field in the first two days of qualifying automatically made the field.

Ten boats have qualified so far, but there are eight boats waiting to try for a berth in the 15-foot field and some bumping is sure to take place. McCormick still leads the qualifiers with a time of 114.164, a 75.

In the scene, Bill Mazeroski—subbing for Roberto Clemente—who rejected the $100 role—hits into the triple play.

FESTIVITIES

In the game, the bizarre festivities centered around the part of the Pirate line-up that followed Mazeroski, the No. 5 hitter in the batting order.

In less than National League games San Francisco blanked St. Louis 6-0, Atlanta clobbered Houston 13-5, Los Angeles whipped Cincinnati 9-0 and Philadelphia stopped Chicago 4-2.

The odd incident in the Pirates' Met game came in the third inning after Jose Pagan cut the New York lead to 5-4 with a two-run double. As Jim Pagliarini stepped into the batter's box, Mets' Manager Wes Westrum emerged from the dugout.

"That man batted out of turn," Westrum told plate umpire Al Barlick.

"He did?" Barlick asked, somewhat surprised.

"Yes," Westrum coolly replied.

Indeed Pagan had batted out of turn. So had Gene Alley, who preceded Pagan with the second out in the inning.

eled, the participants learned that in the official line-up handed Barlick and Westrum before the game, Pagan was listed as the sixth batter and Alley the seventh. But in the line-up listed on the scoreboard, Alley was No. 6 and Pagan No. 7.

And, unfortunately for the Pirates, they were following the scoreboard even though the correct, official line-up was posted in their dugout.

How did the scoreboard happen to be wrong? It seems a Pirate broadcaster asked Walker before the game for his line-up, and Walker reeled off—as it turned out, incorrectly—a batting order with Pagan following Alley.

The broadcaster, in the course of conversation, relayed the line-up to the man responsible for putting it on the scoreboard. So there it was.

Met coach Sheriff Robinson caught the discrepancy, but Westrum let it go through the first two innings when the reversal of Alley and Pagan did the Mets no harm.

Mike McCormick scattered seven hits as San Francisco cooled off St. Louis, at least.

temporarily. Hal Lanier struck the big blow, a two-run double with the bases loaded in the fifth inning.

Hank Aaron smashed his 19th and 20th homers, a grand slam and a two-run blast, for Atlanta. Houston starter Wade Blasingame, a Brave until recently, walked three men before Aaron connected in the third.

Child Must Be Taught Number Concepts

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
University of Southern California

Children do not learn to count through ordinary conversation; number concepts must be taught.

A child entering the first grade should be able to count 10 objects. The real crux of the situation is that the child gets into the habit of giving instantaneous answers.

Counting is not the only test of a child's readiness to handle numbers in the first and second grades.

Can he count actual objects? Can he recognize a group of four objects as four without counting?

He cannot be getting into wrong habits of thinking.

MUST BE TRAINED

To avoid this a child must be trained in instantaneous recall and response.

He must know the answers, not figure them out.

Parents should test their children out occasionally by asking how many chairs there are at the table.

If the child of five hesitates long enough to count when there are no more than four chairs at the table he should be given some drill in instant recognition of the numbers of things.

If there are three boys and four girls in a group, ask him—how many boys?—how many girls? And then perhaps—how many altogether?—or how many children.

The game need not become complicated with large numbers. The real crux of the situation is that the child gets into the habit of giving instantaneous answers.

Sue is the oldest of three sisters, all pretty girls loved and adored by their parents and grandparents. All appear to have superior intelligence.

LOVES TO SING

In most categories Sue's accomplishments have been outstanding. She seems to have perfect pitch, loves to sing and has a fine sense of rhythm.

plays games with agility and now in the second grade writes remarkably well.

But Sue does not handle numbers easily.

If someone holds up five fingers on one hand and two on the other, Sue rapidly counts one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, while her younger sister at a single glance instantly says "seven."

EXPLAINS PROBLEM

This explains Sue's difficulty with arithmetic.

The habit, once established, of figuring number facts out instead of KNOWING the answers, may remain a handicap throughout life.

Elsie, a college freshman took an unusual length of time in coming up with 54 as the answer to nine times six.

She explained, "I have never told anyone this before but I did learn all the multiplication tables. I know nine times five is 45 and I count from there."

STARTED EARLY

This habit, like Sue's, probably started in preschool years.

No wonder Elsie couldn't keep up with her class. By the time she figured out answers she should have known automatically and instantly, the teacher was already one or two steps ahead in the solution of a problem.

In training your child, don't go on to larger numbers and complex ideas too fast.

Make sure that enough practice is provided to develop the habit of instantaneous response through knowing the answers.

This is the key to future success in arithmetic.

Number games can be combined with the recognition of shapes and sizes.

Having drawn an appropriate group of figures on a large piece of paper, ask the child how many small circles? How many large circles? How many triangles? How many sides has the triangle?

Parents should seize opportunities as they occur to associate numbers with things and make their meanings real to their children.

Remember: Establishing the right attitudes.

Detroit Police Are Up in Arms

Say Mayor Reneged on Strike Settlement

DETROIT (UPI)—The 10-day truce period between the city and its policemen appeared shaky today as patrolmen charged Mayor Jerome Cavanagh of reneging on the agreement that ended a six-day "sick call" strike.

The police charged the mayor with withholding the pay of 184 policemen suspended during the strike, the first against a major American city since the Boston strike in 1919.

The Detroit Police Officers Association (DPOA), which represents most of the city's 2,688 patrolmen, said the agreement called for suspended patrolmen to be paid pending the outcome of negotiations in the dispute, mainly over wages.

The DPOA went into court yesterday and asked that the city be made to pay some $25,000 to the officers who had been suspended.

"The city has violated both the letter and the spirit of the interim settlement reached by the parties in an effort to resolve the labor dispute without jeopardizing the rights of either party or the general public," the DPOA suit said.

Police Commissioner Ray Girardin said a city law stipulates no pay for nonservice and a ruling by the city controller's office said the pay must be withheld pending the outcome of the negotiations.

Norris Goff, who played the part of Lum on the old Lum 'n' Abner radio show, is a city councilman now in Indian Wells, Calif.

He was one of five persons elected yesterday to the first City Council of Indian Wells whose voters decided to incorporate.

The community, 11 miles east of Palm Springs, is one of the richest in the United States. Its assessed value of $14,000 per capita compares with $5,000 for Beverly Hills.

Within its 5½ square miles, the town has two well-known golf clubs—Indian Wells Country Club and Eldorado, winter home of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

There is no business or industry except for two hotels in the town with a population of 855.

Eisenhower Visits His Exhibition in NY

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower visits his exhibition "The Memorable Eisenhower Years" for the first time today in New York City.

The show of photographs, memorabilia and his paintings opened May 16 at the Gallery of Modern Art but he was unable to attend at the time because of illness.

He was to be accompanied today by John Rosenkrans, president of Eisenhower College in Seneca Falls, N.Y., which benefited from his show's opening night party.

The exhibition remains on display through EISENHOWER Sept. 4.

Lennon Sister Weds Clarinetist With Welk

Kathy Lennon, one of the singing Lennon sisters, has been honeymooning at Lake Tahoe, Nev., after marrying a clarinetist with the Lawrence Welk orchestra.

Miss Lennon, 23, and Mahlon B. Clark, 44, were married Monday in a brief ceremony in Carson City, Nev. There were no attendants.

Tonight they were to rejoin the Welk orchestra as it opens an engagement at Harrah's Club.

Miss Lennon is the second youngest of the singing sisters who have been featured with Welk for years. All the others are married.

Clark doubles as an arranger with the orchestra. He has one previous marriage.

Debt-Ceiling Boost Goes to President

WASHINGTON (AP)—

Congress has sent to the White House for President Johnson's certain signature a bill to raise the national debt limit on Saturday to $356 billion, highest ceiling in history.

The measure, which Johnson asked for and is certain to sign into law by Friday—when the current $336-billion temporary ceiling expires—would raise the limit another $7 billion to $356 billion on July 1, 1968.

In practical terms, the proposed over-all increase in the ceiling represents the amount of cash it would take to buy 9 million cars costing $3,000 each, or more than 1.2 million homes priced at $22,000 each.

The Senate cleared the legislation to the White House late Tuesday on a 60-40 vote after an afternoon of debate in which administration forces narrowly beat off several amendments.

Had any of these been adopted, the bill would have been forced into conference with the House, causing uncertainty as to whether it could have gone to Johnson before Congress begins its 10-day July 4th recess Thursday.

IMMEDIATE INCREASE

The measure will bring an immediate $20-billion increase in the debt ceiling.

The temporary $336-billion limit expires Friday midnight. Without the bill, the ceiling would revert on Saturday to the permanent debt limit of $285 billion, established in 1959.

Jewel-Rich Pie

NEW ORLEANS, La. (U)—A shopper in a supermarket here lifted a pie he found a bag of jewels underneath it. Police officials identified the jewels as some which had been stolen in New Orleans. No one, however, reached the supermarket.

Murder Arraignment Set for Two Brothers

Two brothers, one of them arrested in the killing of Ann Sue Collins are James and Isaac Perkins, both of Madison Heights.

James, 34, was taken into custody by State Police from the Pontiac post a home on Linda Vista about 7:30 p.m. yesterday.

Isaac, 18, was arrested at the Madison Heights home Monday night.

Mrs. Collins' body was found two weeks ago in Stoney Creek Park in Macomb County.

Macomb County Prosecutor George N. Parris said that Mrs. Collins had agreed to testify against James Perkins in the investigation of a check-passing ring.

She was originally charged as a member of the ring, but charges were dropped when she agreed to testify, according to Parris.

State Police said that the older Perkins was at the home of some friends of his wife. Police were led there on information received from another party.

Ex-Agent Opens Railway Museum

BURLINGAME, Kan. (U)—

Charles Gobel Jr., former agent at Atchison, Kan., has retired from the Santa Fe Railway, but he has not retired from railroading.

He has opened a railway museum at the Burlingame station, where he began his career as a cashier in 1917.

Memorabilia on display includes the 48-pound rail Santa Fe used when the first train crossed the town in 1889, with a sample of the present 136-pound rail for comparison.

There are telegraph keys used around the turn of the century, the first passenger tariff issued by the line in 1870, timetables, old handcars, hundreds of historical photographs and books.

License Lapsed

LUCK, Wyo. (U)—Richard Pfister, president of the Wyoming Highway Commission, got so busy he forgot to renew his drivers license before its expiration date. One of his friends had to drive him to the highway patrol office in order that he might take an examination to qualify for a new license.
