$800,000 Grant OK'd for Hospital

ROCHESTER — The construction of the proposed 311-bed Rochester Unit of Crittenton General Hospital received added impetus today with formal approval of an $800,000 federal grant.

Senators Patrick McNamara and Philip A. Hart officially notified the trustees of the parent institution in Detroit yesterday that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has authorized the grant under the Hill-Burton program.

The Hill-Burton program provides federal funds for public and nonprofit agencies for construction of health facilities.

A. Riley Allen, hospital administrator, said the approval of the grant will enable planning to proceed "as rapidly as possible" on the proposed medical facility.

GMTC Sales Set May High

Second Month in Row
for Record Deliveries

GM's Truck & Coach Division announced today that the sale of 9,429 units in May set a record for that month.

Cavin J. Werner, general manager, said it was the second month in a row that domestic retail deliveries of trucks and buses have set a record monthly high.

The April and May selling rates, he said, were the highest since 1951, with 377 trucks and buses being sold each day.

May deliveries were 9.5 per cent ahead of May 1963. Pontiac and Tempest sales of 322,223 during the first five months were a 22 per cent increase over the same period in 1963, when 263,591 cars were sold.

May sales for the division totaled 40,052, down about 200 units from the same month a year ago.

E. M. Estes, Pontiac general manager, said, however, that sales of 22,720 cars from May 21-31 surpassed the previous record for the 10 day period in May 1963.

U. S. automakers sold a record-breaking 739,083 new cars last month.

It was the second 700,000-plus month in a row and marked only the seventh time in industry history that the figure was attained.

CHEVY HIGHS

Chevrolet reported it sold 234,027 cars last month for an all-time high for any month and also chalked up its biggest first five months in history—596,615 units.

LBJ Quiet on Stepup in Asian Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson kept tight secrecy wraps today on what, if any, new moves he is planning to make to step up the fight against Communist forces in Southeast Asia.

A White House statement issued yesterday gave some indication, however, that Johnson and his advisers have decided to soft pedal talk of drastic action such as enlarging the war in Viet Nam, at least for the time being.

Johnson received a report from Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara on the results of two days of intensive policy review which they conducted at a conference in Hawaii earlier this week.

Several days ago officials had indicated that the conference would very likely result in presidential decisions to deal with what they appeared to be a serious crisis in Southeast Asia due to Communist advances pre-

Red Party Split Seen by Russia's Pravda

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda indicated today that the Kremlin may be thinking of formally severing ties between the Communist parties of the Soviet Union and China.

"The threat of a split is a reality which the world Communist movement must reckon with," said an article in the party newspaper.

Won't Warm Up, but Sky Will Clear

Generally fair and a little warmer is the prediction for the Pontiac area tomorrow.

Tonight will be fair and cool. The thermometer will record a low in the 50s tonight and a high tomorrow in the 60s.

Western diplomats in Moscow do not believe a break in party relations would mean a break in relations between the Soviet and Chinese governments.

The diplomats believe the Soviets want to keep some lines of communication open.

The article said a split between the Soviet and Chinese parties would "seriously weaken the struggle of the world Communist movement against imperialism."

The article urged conviction of a world Communist meeting and said the "majority of the world Communist movement in all regions of the world is going on record for its early convocation."

Romney Signs State Pay Hike

Legislators Receive
Increase in Salaries

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George W. Romney today signed into law a $32.9-million general government spending bill in which a pay increase for legislators is included.

The raise, boosting legislative salaries from $7,500 to $10,000 and expenses from $1,250 to $2,500, was voted by lawmakers with Romney's endorsement.

The bill also includes a hike in the governor's salary from $27,500 to $30,000—not recommended by Romney — and boosts for several other officials.

Announcing the signing of the bill, Romney said he believes "the vast majority" of Michigan's legislators are "hard-working, conscientious individuals who are worth much more to the state than the salaries the state has been paying them."

The total appropriation for general government was less than one per cent off the governor's own recommended figure.

Also signed today was a bill appropriating $12.5 million for the state's regulatory agencies in the 1964-65 fiscal year. It left only one budget bill yet unsigned.

The governor said today the plan was allowed to reopen (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

New Talks Set by Union, Firm in 97-Day Rift

Governor Asks Legal Aid on 'Deplorable
Hillsdale Condition'

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George W. Romney, saying the firm is "guilty of unfair labor practices and worse," said today he was looking for a new legal means to shut the strike-bound Essex Wire Corp. plant at Hillsdale.

Romney, in a request followed quickly by action, also asked state labor mediators to arrange for resumption of contract talks between the firm and the striking International Union of Electrical Workers (IUEW).

Both parties agreed to start contract talks again at 4 p. m. today, said Malcolm Lovell Jr., chairman of the State Labor Mediation Board.

"We expect to exert every means at our disposal to bring about the end of this strike and this deplorable condition at Hillsdale," Romney said.

He said he expects the strike situation will prevent him from attending the entire session of the National Governors Conference which opens Saturday at Cleveland, Ohio.

The governor revealed his intentions to close down the plant a second time in a letter to Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, in which he asked for advice "at the earliest possible date, whether there is any legal basis on which I can close the Essex Wire Corp. plant at Hillsdale."

SIMILAR ADVICE

Romney said he also had asked the office of the U. S. attorney for Western Michigan in Grand Rapids for similar advice on legal alternatives open to him, including a way of shutting down the plant.

Essex Wire's factory was reopened early yesterday after Romney modified his original order declaring a public emergency which sent National Guardsmen and state police into the strike-torn city.

Rocky Concedes— but Won't Give Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says present indications are that Sen. Barry Goldwater will win the Republican presidential nomination on the first or second ballot at the national convention — but "I'm staying right in this to the end."

"There's a long time between now and the convention in San Francisco and it's hard to tell what is going to happen," he said.

At a news conference yesterday, Rockefeller discussed his loss of 86 delegates to Goldwater in Tuesday's California primary election campaign.

Related Stories, Pages A-5, A-15, C-11 and looked ahead to the Republican National Convention opening July 13.

In addition to declaring he will continue his campaign for the Republican nomination, Rockefeller reiterated that the GOP convention must adopt a "forward-looking" platform. He said he intends to fight for such a platform.

Rockefeller, in campaigning against the conservative senator from Arizona, has said this year's Republican platform should be similar to the liberal platforms of 1956 and 1960.

BARRY SUPPORT

He said at the news conference that he thinks every Republican would support Goldwater if he ran on a "forward-looking" platform.

Rockefeller said he hopes public opinion will bring Goldwater into "the mainstream of American thinking," and added: "The senator said last night he was in the mainstream of American thought, and all I can say is that we've got a meandering stream. There are hazards in that river."

Rockefeller said he believes the Republican platform should be drafted first, and a candidate then selected to run on it.

Goldwater, the conservative, would strive to offer "a choice, not an echo," to Johnson's professed liberalism.

The senator described himself to California audiences as "the only Republican who has the ghost of a chance of beating Lyndon Johnson."

LEJ WELCOME

All signs indicate that Johnson would welcome Goldwater as his opponent.

The President, an experienced performer on the stump might even be tempted into a television debate with Goldwater, who has been accused by critics in his own party of firing carelessly from the hip in some statements on major issues.

Because of the limitations on what a president can say publicly, Johnson has not indicated if he will debate his opponent on TV.

SUPERMARKET CIRCUIT

However if Goldwater is the Republican nominee, he probably would have to campaign on the supermarket circuit.

In his California campaign, the senator laid out the pattern of the attack he could be expected to make on Johnson in a general election contest.

Voters Decide Monday

Community College Issue Explored

(This is the first of a two-part series explaining the community college proposals on June 8 school election ballots.)

By L. GARY THORNE

The fate of the proposed Oakland County community college will be in the hands of the voters Monday for the second time in a year.

Last year, voters approved establishment of the college, elected a six-member board of trustees, but then rejected a one-mill tax levy to finance the institution.

Consequently, the whole issue failed.

A similar "all or nothing" three-part package is presented this time. If one proposal is defeated, the entire college question fails.

POINT TO NEED

Advocates of a community college first point to the need for the two-year school. Second, the advantages of an Oakland County community college are expounded.

Community colleges in Michigan have grown from a total enrollment of 49 students in 1914 to 29,266 in 1963-64.

The Michigan Citizens Committee on Higher Education states that the "community colleges seem destined to play an increasingly important role in the educational system of the future."

By 1969, the anticipated enrollment of community colleges now in operation, and in just five years, is expected to reach nearly 71,000. This would be almost double the enrollments of all colleges of a county community

Hillsdale Sharply Divided on Effects of Violent Labor Row

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an account—gathered in on-the-spot interviews—of the reaction of Hillsdale's citizens to the violence and to Gov. Romney's public emergency order which sent 1,000 National Guard troops and scores of state police into the small northern Michigan town.)

By ED MARKAITZ

HILLSDALE (AP) — Disappointment, chagrin and resentment over an unsought role as Michigan's black sheep because of a violence-torn labor dispute marked Hillsdale's mood today.

Some insist that the news media have "blown it up out of proportion."

Hillsdale was ending its first week under the governor's public emergency order which had added 1,000 National Guard troops and scores of state police officers to the population.

All of Hillsdale County experienced Wednesday night the first imposition of a curfew (10 p. m. to 6 a. m.) as part of Gov. George W. Romney's maximum security order.

The curfew does not affect commencement exercises at Hillsdale High School tonight. Nor does it rule out any "normal activities."

But it put a damper on enthusiasm for an open house planned by 17-year-old Elaine Tanner who graduates tonight. Her home is near the struck Essex Wire Corp. plant's main gate.

"This is supposed to be a happy time," she said. "But after the violence of last week we jump up every time we hear a car go around the corner."

"Why do we have to suffer for this? They are acting like a bunch of juveniles."

MOTHER'S WISH

Her mother, Mrs. Kathryn wished her home were somewhere else.

"Because of this trouble you don't sleep much around here," Mrs. Tanner said. "It's tough to bring up kids in this atmosphere. I think Hillsdale is a beautiful city but every time you think of it it's from now on you'll be reminded of this."

Neighbor Don Vanaken, 71, looked at the plant where he worked for 23 years prior to retirement and said: "It makes me so damn mad to see this going on."

"I don't think Romney did right by ordering it reopened," Vanaken said. "It's no good for the community at all."

ORIGINAL PLANT

Vanaken worked for Alamo Engine Co., original plant occupant, until shortly after World War I and later was employed by Steel Products Co., which took over the building.

"They were too damn good companies," said Vanaken. "We never had any trouble and made good money."

Alice MacNeil, a waitress in a downtown tavern, had plenty of opinions on Romney's reopening order but said "you couldn't print them, though."

She said the tavern draws patrons from throughout the county and their talk denounced the plant reopening.

'DIRTY DEAL'

"They don't like it. They think it's a dirty deal. Many of them say Romney won't be elected next time because of it. His order to close the plant (last Thursday) was a good deal. But it should have been left closed until the strike is settled," she said.

Arthur Gambill, a barber shop owner, believed the situation was a crisis manufactured by news media and "blown up all out of proportion."

He said he didn't know many things it involved until he read about them, heard radio news broadcasts or saw television accounts.

Car-Death Penalty Delayed One Year

Sentencing of a 17-year-old Detroit who pleaded guilty to negligent homicide in the death of a passenger in his car last November has been delayed one year.

Circuit Court Judge Arthur E. Moore ordered the postponement Tuesday in the sentencing of Gerald J. Batton, 1961 Buffalo, under a state law allowing such a delay.

Bratton's behavior during the year will be taken into consideration before a final judgment.

The youth was driver of a car which struck a tree and rolled north of Scripps, Orion Town, over several times on Joslyn ship, last Nov. 27.

Killed in the accident was James L. Hall, 15, of 536 S. Hospital, Waterford Township. Bratton and three other youths in the car were injured.

Gambill also believed the plant should not have been reopened. "But, legally, it had to be done according to a couple of lawyers among my customers," he said.

LITTLE EFFECT

He said presence of National Guard and extra police troops in town appeared to have little effect on the daily routine here. He agreed, however, that his own business had dropped a little "because some of the boys used to come in here every two weeks for a haircut—but now it's every four since they don't have much money."

A visitor from nearby Pittsford, Mrs. Alice Stewart, didn't approve of Gov. Romney's allowing Essex Wire to reopen.

"I was just disappointed at first," she said, "but I changed my mind when he let the plant open with scab labor."

A retiree living with his husband "on a small farm," Mrs. Stewart explained she was "not associated with or touched by" the strike situation but spoke merely as an observer.

IN DOUBT

"I don't know how the situation has bettered by what Gov. Romney's done. Maybe he knows something we don't. I wonder and fear what's going to happen before it's over. I don't approve of people going outside the law and taking it into their own hands," she added.

Supermarket operator-restaurateur Peter Saravino was a man in the middle.

His place of business is situated across from the Essex plant and is cordoned off by troops and police to all except holders of press or official credentials.

The store was closed Wednesday for the first time in 18 years of seven-day-a-week operation. Its 33 employees are idled.

COURTESY ACT

Saravino, 53, opened the restaurant as a courtesy to newsmen and others required to be in the plant area. The affable businessman and his wife visited their children in Ann Arbor and Flint in the meanwhile. Before leaving, he said:

"So it cost me a few bucks to shut down. But if it can help restore order and not cost anyone else, I'm for it."

"Essex Wire company workers and their families are among my best customers. The boys came in for coffee and sandwiches. I knew and served some of their fathers.

PEACE-LOVING

"These workers are peace-loving people. They are just looking for a fair wage. Why then and the company can't get together, I don't know. I think there's a little hot-headedness and when it cools off we'll get along fine."

Hillsdale officials claim that the strike has not dimmed the picture of their city as a fine place to live and do business.

They point to a $500,000 plant under construction by the Bob Evans Farms, Inc., newly entered into Michigan in a branch out from two Ohio locations. Jim Holes, executive secretary of the nonprofit Hillsdale County Industrial Development Corp., confirmed that a new industrial concern has been inspecting sites here this week for possible location of a new plant.

Johnson Seems to Like Idea of Barry as Election Foe

WASH. (AP)—The victory of Sen. Barry Goldwater in California's Republican presidential primary seems to have pleased at least one Democrat—President Johnson.

The Chief Executive hasn't reacted directly to Goldwater's narrow win over Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. However, a couple of straws in the wind, as it were, seemed to point up the response in the administration camp.

1. Johnson aides, who normally mirror the President's attitudes, declined today to reject suggestions that Goldwater's triumph was pleasing to them. Quite the contrary, "they beamed."

2. The President himself took another indirect swipe at Goldwater—something he obviously delights in doing—in a speech Wednesday at New London, Conn. Many observers saw this as further evidence that Johnson would relish an autumn encounter with the Arizona senator.

JFK PREFERENCE

Before he was assassinated, President John F. Kennedy left little doubt that he wanted Goldwater as his 1964 opponent. He obviously felt he could fare best campaigning against someone who could be counted on to offer voters a sharp alternative to Kennedy policies.

Johnson lieutenants, in private conversations, seemed to leave little or no doubt that the new President, too, would delight in campaigning against Goldwater. And perhaps the most convincing evidence of this can be found in Johnson's own public remarks.

During the past six months, Johnson has said little or nothing that has been critical, even directly, of such potential Republican opponents as Rockefeller, Gov. William W. Scrantom Lodge or Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

PRaises LODGE

In fact, the President has heaped praise on Lodge, the U.S. ambassador in Saigon.

Two Republicans have been placed by Johnson in a somewhat different category. They are Richard M. Nixon, the former vice president, and Goldwater.

In itself, this suggests that Johnson considers Goldwater and Nixon the most promising targets.

In New London Wednesday, Johnson said the United States must have varied strength to meet varied dangers.

'SUIT THE THREAT'

He added, pointedly: "The response must suit the threat. Those who would answer every problem with nuclear weapons, display not bravery but bravado, not wisdom but a wanton disregard for the survival of the world and the future of the race."

Goldwater had recently discussed the possible use of low-yield nuclear weapons to strip the leaves from jungle trees in Viet Nam so Communist guerrillas could be exposed from the air.

And Johnson's statement was reminiscent of those he has made on half a dozen public occasions when he has jibed at Goldwater's suggestion that the United States should have sent Marines to Cuba when water for the Guantanamo Naval Base was cut off.

On several occasions, the President has suggested that Goldwater's proposed response to the water cutoff was most unsuitable to the threat. Johnson has said he found it much wiser to send one admiral to shut the water off by cutting the pipeline than to send in Marines to turn the water on.

DIFFERENT FRONT

A month ago, in Knoxville, Tenn., Johnson jabbed Goldwater on a different front. Talking about 1956 opponents of the Social Security program, the President said, "If those men had had their way, the 'for sale' sign would be on TVA this very hour."

Goldwater had once suggested a "for sale" sign for the Tennessee Valley Authority.

In that same Knoxville speech, Johnson also took indirect issue with Nixon. Without mentioning names he scoffed at those who had labeled his anti-poverty program "a cruel hoax."

That phrase had been used by Nixon a week earlier.

NIXON JABS

On other occasions, the President has found apparent enjoyment in making fun of Nixon—particularly after the former vice president returned from a globe circling tour on behalf of the Pepsi-Cola Co. Johnson was quick to suggest that Nixon doubtless had been so busy fostering the best interests of the company that it was doubtful he had really gained much information during visits to such places as Saigon.

Goldwater has been Johnson's target more often than Nixon, however—even in impromptu remarks.

On one occasion, the President made light of a Republican-inspired campaign to collect pennies to pay the White House light bill. He said Goldwater had outdone most Republicans by contributing a whole nickel, "a wooden nickel."

Royal Rig Is Wrong

YEOVILTON, England (AP)—Prince Philip was positively dazling, no doubt about it.

There he stood wearing the full dress uniform of an admiral of the fleet—blue frock coat, gold braid everywhere, medals flashing, sword at his hip.

Trouble was he had the wrong uniform for the Golden Jubilee parade of the Fleet Air Arm at Yeovilton.

All the 70 senior officers present were wearing what's known as the No. 5 rig, i.e. no medals. Philip's rig was No. 1.

The question was, and is, who goofed? The prince? Oh, perish the thought, said a palace spokesman. "He was definitely advised to wear uniform No. 1."

The Navy perhaps?

"It was common knowledge here for several days that officers would be wearing No. 5 dress on the parade," said Capt. Terence Percy, commander at Yeovilton.

Prince Philip salvaged his dignity, and that of the others. He changed into civvies.

Barry's Primary Win Poses GOP Unity Issue

In California's primary election Tuesday, voters gave political pollsters and analysts another trouncing with an upset victory for Sen. BARRY GOLDWATER of Arizona over New York Gov. NELSON A. ROCKEFELLER.

With the solid first-ballot commitment of about 540 delegate votes Goldwater had previously piled up, California's additional 86 should send him to the GOP convention with 626 of the 655 needed to nominate.

His backers feel that enough more delegates can be won during the next 40 days in the normally conservative Midwest to put Goldwater over in San Francisco.

The Senator's surprising progress toward the nomination has been something of an anomaly. A consistent trailer among other candidates in nationwide popularity polls, he has nonetheless shown payoff strength where it counts most—among grass roots elements and at party conventions and primary elections—of the various states.

GOLDWATER

With the Republican party seemingly headed for conservative control for the first time since the Coolidge era, Goldwater will have his work cut out for him in attempting to close GOP ranks by winning over the liberal wing of the party.

Significantly, a California poll showed that 40 per cent of the state's Republican voters would vote for President Johnson if Goldwater were the party nominee.

On the Democratic side, there was a speculative touch to the nomination of former White House press secretary, PIERRE SALINGER, for U.S. Senator.

Running with the blessing of the Kennedy family, his victory could well be interpreted as reflecting the strong influence of the name. This in turn focuses attention on the vice presidential prospects of Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

California's was the last of the major primaries before the opening of the Republican convention July 13. Although meanwhile the political pot may seem to simmer down a bit, there will be no lessening of behind-the-scenes heat as GOP chiefs wrestle with their hot potato in the fourth of BARRY GOLDWATER.

Judge Has Adult View of Youth Delinquency

At a time when authorities the Country over are groping for effective measures to cope with the alarming increase in juvenile delinquency, one state has taken what might appear to be a most revolutionary and contradictory step. But the results have been surprising and noteworthy, in gratifying reversal to the national trend.

Two years ago, Montana closed down its juvenile courts as such, and began dealing with all offenders, regardless of age, in open court.

The protective anonymity so prevalent in judicial procedures involving juveniles was scrapped, and the full force of publicity was loosed upon the culprits. Their identity, that of their parents and nature of lawlessness were reported in the newspapers.

With juvenile felony cases in Montana down 49 per cent and traffic cases 75 per cent, the judge who introduced the "adult treatment" credits the publicity in large part for the reduction experienced.

He points out that offenders and parents are lectured in open court, with responsibility passed on to the parents who can no longer hide behind the secrecy customarily maintained in juvenile courts.

We render an admiring salute to the Montana jurist on his initiative and forthrightness, and suggest that his plan is worthy the earnest consideration of law-enforcement agencies and judiciary in the Nation's other 49 states.

U.S. Can't Rest as SE Asia Boils

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—A quietness has settled over the Johnson administration on the subject of Southeast Asia. Yet, it can't afford to sit and rock.

President Johnson himself has said the whole area is at stake. And the situation has been going from bad to worse. Tuesday there was a double vengeance.

1. Johnson had ordered some of his top people to a Honolulu conference on what to do. It ended Tuesday with no recommendations announced. This was to be expected.

2. Johnson told his news conference nothing new Tuesday. He did say the United States "cannot fail to do its full share to meet the Communist challenge."

This studied "obscurity may mean Johnson himself will announce it if this country has decided on a more vigorous and far-reaching policy in Southeast Asia.

The United States could take a definitely new step by bombing the North Vietnamese supply depots. But what would the Red Chinese do in that case?

The Johnson administration not only didn't know that but it didn't know what the reaction in this country might be to enlarging the war.

HONOLULU MEETING
It was at this point that Johnson ordered the Honolulu meeting.

After the meeting, U.S. officials hinted military action might be taken against North Viet Nam if it and Red China continue to help the fighting in South Viet Nam and Laos.

Yet, at the same time they said neither McNamara nor Rusk proposed a plan "to enlarge the war." And here in Washington, Johnson said he knew of no plans like that.

Nevertheless, Rusk on May 22, before going to Honolulu hinted, at the possibility of enlarging the war. "If the Communists persist in their course of aggression."

Whether this was intended more as a psychological deterrent to the Reds than as a reality still isn't clear.

WON'T ABANDON
About all that seems positive at the moment is that the United States—Johnson said Tuesday about meeting the challenge—has no intention of abandoning Southeast Asia to communism.

There's another good but unexpressed reason for not walking out. It would wreck American influence in all Asia and perhaps with its allies, too.

All this makes up the biggest foreign test to hit Johnson yet. He's a comparative newcomer to foreign affairs. His specialty was always Congress.

GOP Nomination Not Locked Up

WASHINGTON—Though there were four ways that the presidential primary election in California could come out, the over-all impact on the campaign strategy of the would-be candidates in the next six weeks before the Republican national convention would have been changed, irrespective of Tuesday's voting in the Golden State.

If Gov. Rockefeller had won, whether by a large or narrow margin, the Goldwater supporters would still have pointed to his lack of delegate strength and would have continued their efforts just the same.

If Sen. Goldwater had won by a large margin, this would by no means have diminished the efforts of the Rockefeller forces, for they realize they have been far behind in delegate strength right along.

Even if it had been known that Sen. Goldwater would win by a narrow margin, the Rockefeller campaign strategy would have been to continue the battle as vigorously as before on the assumption that if the New York governor himself cannot win the nomination, he might succeed in bringing about a stalemate.

This could force the selection of either former Vice President Nixon or Gov. Scranton or Ambassador Lodge, each of whom has a substantial strength inside the Republican party today.

The public opinion polls didn't clarify the problem in advance of the voting.

POLLSTERS HIT
In fact, there are many persons who now are criticizing the pollsters for having predicted that the California primary would result in a substantial victory for Gov. Rockefeller.

But while these forecasts were by no means pleasant reading for the Goldwater supporters, if the polls had forecast a victory by a wide margin for Sen. Goldwater, there might have been a lag inside his own campaign.

The effect, indeed, of the discouraging percentages for Goldwater noted in the polls may have been the very thing that caused his supporters to intensify their efforts in the last few days.

If the entire scene is surveyed from the standpoint of its influence on the final selection of a nominee at the convention, it is clear that the California victory gave the Goldwater cause a timely stimulus.

IDEA SPREAD
For the anti-Goldwater folks, were constantly spreading the idea that the Arizona senator would be all washed up and out of the race if he lost.

There is a depth of feeling between the Goldwater and anti-Goldwater forces which doesn't augur well for the future of the Republican party.

fact that the Republicans who are behind Sen. Goldwater feel that he is dedicated to the cause of a "conservative liberalism" in America, and that his opponents have been wrongfully trying to picture him as impulsive in foreign policy and ultra-conservative in domestic policy.

The big question is whether there is a chance to reconcile the two groups, and whether either former vice president Nixon or Gov. Scranton of Pennsylvania could do that job in the event Sen. Goldwater doesn't make the grade.

While Sen. Goldwater has an even chance of winning the Republican presidential nomination, he is still a long way from assuring himself of a majority of the delegates.

The latest tabulation by the United Press International shows that he has approximately 433 pledged votes, and he, of course, needs 655.

There are small blocs of votes committed to Messrs. Lodge, Nixon, Rockefeller, Scranton and "favorite sons," but there is a large bloc of 238 uncommitted votes.

U.S. Indians Lost War and Missed Foreign Aid

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — For nearly two decades the grim joke has persisted that the only sure-fire ways to get money out of Uncle Sam are to lose a war against him, or threaten to go Communist.

Unfortunately for American Indians, this "policy" did not become fashionable until after the First World War, and did not hit its stride until we began pouring billions of dollars into Germany, Italy and Japan after defeating them in World War II.

Now, some 140 years too late, the Seminole Indians have been given a similar grimy of hope.

Fourteen years ago, the Redskins who once owned most of Florida used Uncle Sam to recover 32,000,000 acres which they were forced to cede, after losing three wars against the conquering palefaces in the decade of the 1820s.

American Indians, who have obviously not learned many lessons from the foreign hand-out brigade, are requesting only $126 an acre for land which in some instances is now worth more than that per square foot.

MODEST REQUEST
The modesty of the Seminole request is dramatized by the shopping list which an Indian from the other side of the globe has just brought to Washington including 70 F-104 supersonic jet fighter-bombers at $2 million each.

This is the top item on a list that also includes many millions of dollars worth of army, air force, logistics and production equipment.

Although India has never been our ally, and has frequently been found on the other side of the fence when the showdown comes, "we have poured more than $7 billion into that not-so-friendly country since 1945."

Uncle Sam's Indian Claims

Commission has cautiously told the Seminoles that it will decide "at a later date" how much money they can hope to recapture from their lands seized in 1820. They should live so long!

RED THREAT
Since this is the only Indian tribe which has never signed a peace treaty with us, it might threaten to go Communist if we don't pay up.

Design Plane Suited for Viet Nam

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The reason the United States doesn't give the men in South Viet Nam better planes for their guerrilla fighting is simple:

We don't have them. The United States has developed some pretty hot fighters, cargo planes, bombers.

These are sophisticated types for conventional or nuclear wars. Defense men say they're not suited for South Viet Nam.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces are using older planes because they're the best we have on hand for this kind of fighting, even though some of these aircraft are "tired," even when reconditioned.

The hot new planes are too complicated for South Vietnamese to maintain. They land too fast and require super runways not generally available in guerrilla territory. They're too specialized for all-round guerrilla war requirements.

The United States hasn't been heavily involved in a guerrilla war in some time. Air Force strategists say privately they're not sure what the air role is.

So Secretary of Defense

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The reason the United States doesn't give the men in South Viet Nam better planes for their guerrilla fighting is simple:

These are sophisticated types for conventional or nuclear wars. Defense men say they're not suited for South Viet Nam.

The United States hasn't been heavily involved in a guerrilla war in some time. Air Force strategists say privately they're not sure what the air role is.

So Secretary of Defense

Robert McNamara's planners are not certain what kind of a plane they want. Nevertheless, development of a compromise guerrilla-war plane is now proceeding.

Defense strategists specify the aircraft must be suitable generally for areas of Asia; Africa and Latin America where guerrilla wars may be likely.

The plane must be one native troops in backward countries could quickly learn to operate and repair.

It must be able to take off on a short, relatively unimproved runway, be highly maneuverable and able to fly at 50 miles an hour and at 300. It should be usable for reconnaissance, ground support, bombing and for transporting six to eight soldiers to some hot spot.

It should have two propellers and two pilots; if one propeller or one pilot is knocked out the other can bring the plane home.

The plane would not be capable of handling enemy air power or sophisticated anti-aircraft fire. If the enemy brought in strong air or anti-air power, the conflict would immediately change its character, we'd bring in sophisticated equipment.

McNamara's men are working on two approaches to the plane problem. They're experimenting with modifications of two types of training plane which already have a number of the good qualities sought — simplicity, versatility, ability to use short runways.

These planes are being fitted with better engines and capsules or "pods" which can be attached to the wings for a particular mission, then detached when the plane is assigned another task.

One pod would carry photo and other reconnaissance equipment; other pods would contain rockets, cannon or machine guns.

If one of these training plane modifications work out, the guerrilla version could be ready in some quantity in 16 to 18 months.

Six aircraft companies are submitting concepts for a new guerrilla plane. Some of these offer considerable promise, officials here say. But quantity deliveries would be more than two years in the future.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese war goes on.

Whistler Painting Tour Set

Famous Mother to Visit U.S.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Mrs. George Washington Whistler, one of the world's most famous mothers, is coming to America after a 92-year sojourn in Europe.

For about a year, beginning June 10, the painting by James Abbott McNeill Whistler called "Arrangement in Gray and Black, No. 1" will tour the nation.

It stops first at the National Gallery in Washington, then on to Philadelphia, New York, Toledo, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Buffalo and Boston.

"Arrangement," of course, is better known as simply "Whistler's Mother," and has been hanging in the Louvre Museum, Paris, since the last century.

Whistler's mother herself might resent being stared at this way.

TIGHT-LIPPED

As the painting shows, she was a tight-lipped sharp-nosed woman with a stubborn chin.

And modern historians have described her as a narrow-minded, "power-grasping individual," puritanical, critical and inclined to be overly moralistic.

Be that as it may, in Whistler's own opinion, "My mother was an old-fashioned gentleman—fine, fine!"

While Whistler was a boy, his father accepted jobs with a number of railroads, among them the old Paterson and Hudson, and the Baltimore & Ohio.

BIG CHALLENGE

Then, when the boy was 8, came the biggest challenge of all: Czar Nicholas decided to build a railroad between Moscow and St. Petersburg.

Major Whistler, a military engineer, accepted the $12,000-a-year job, took his family to Russia and drew up plans for the 420-mile road which would take $40 million and eight years to complete.

As time passed, the Whistlers fell in love with their adopted country.

Mrs. Whistler, "a preacher in skirts," did her best to create a more moral atmosphere in the carist society of St. Petersburg.

SOUGHT REFORMS

She worked for church reforms and a stricter observance of the Sabbath.

To the Russian man in the street she distributed religious pamphlets and was encouraged on seeing how eagerly they were accepted.

What she did not realize was that most Russians were unable to read the pamphlets and merely wanted to stuff the paper into their shoes or roll it into cigarettes.

Whistler's mother wanted him to become a preacher, but the youth showed an early interest in painting, and began spending time at the Imperial Academy of Fine Arts.

NOT ENCOURAGED

Instead of encouraging this inclination to paint, she tried to sidetrack his ambition.

Discussing young James' artistic talent with a friend, Mrs. Whistler declared, "His gift is being cultivated as an amusement only."

"I am obliged to interfere with it, or his application would confine him more than we approve."

Nevertheless, the boy adored his mother. He tried to follow his father's footsteps, too, by attending West Point.

But after three years he was expelled for dawdling at art instead of doing his military lessons.

This time Whistler's mother approved his seeking an artistic career and he became an art student in Paris for two years, later settling in London.

At 38, after showing his paintings in the salons of London and Paris, Whistler offered for exhibition at the Royal Academy his "Arrangement in Gray and Black, No. 1."

At first, the academy jury called this painting crude and refused to exhibit it, but eventually it was accepted, awarded a gold medal and purchased for the French National Museum.

SOME LAUGHED

Some people laughed at the painting for its severity and sentimentality.

Accused of making his

'Arrangement in Gray and Black, No. 1'

mother look overly sweet, Whistler replied: "One does like to make one's mummy as nice as possible."

For years, Whistler had been poor, forced even to borrow money in order to visit his beloved mother.

But his work won more and more acceptance and the last dozen years of his life were spent in financial ease and even-growing fame — thanks in large measure to that portrait of his mother.

Animals that hunt, and animals that are hunted, differ markedly in physical features. For example, a hunting animal's eyes are placed well in front on its head, as in dogs and foxes, while those of its victims, such as rabbits, are placed on the side for better visual protection.

Bather Overstayed Rent-a-Tub Limit

LONDON (AP) — In 17th Century Europe, bathtubs were rented on a regular basis, according to the British Cleanliness Bureau. The tub was delivered at an appointed hour, and then picked up to be moved to the next client.

One woman is reported to have sued when two tub-movers arrived to remove the tub while she was still in it, thus "outraging her modesty." The court decided she had overstayed her limit, modesty or no modesty.

And No One's Talking

Bridegroom Says 'No'

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — David Swindells, 27, said "No," he wouldn't take Diane Garden to be his wedded wife and walked out of the Congregational Church yesterday.

Blonde Diane burst into tears. The minister shepherd the weeping bride and her father into the vestry and then ran after the bridegroom.

After a while the minister came back and told the guests: "There will be no wedding today."

"I don't want to talk about it," said David at his home later.

Diane's parents took her home. "We don't want to talk about it," said a relative.

Junior Editors Quiz on INSULATION

QUESTION: How does insulation keep out summer heat?
ANSWER: A number of different kinds of insulation are used in modern homes to keep them cool in summer and warm in winter. In our picture, the father of the family is fixing the attic roof so it will keep cool and enable him to fix up a fine workshop and playroom for his son.

He is putting "blanket insulation" between the rafters of the roof. These blanket pieces can be easily stapled against the roof. Then Dad will apply wall board and have a fine ceiling.

Inside the blanket will be some kind of fibrous, fire-proof material like wood fiber treated in various ways, hair felt, flax fiber or even eel grass.

All these materials work because air gets trapped inside the fibers of the materials, so the blanket holds a mass of "dead" air. Heat, vibrating through the air, can't get all these little air sacs vibrating enough to pass itself along, so the inside of the house keeps cool.

"Rigid insulation" is composed of panels of similar material which are one-half to seven-eighths inch thick. When insulation is poured or blown between the floor or wall beams, this is "loose-fill".

"Batts" are like blankets only in small sections. In winter, the insulation won't let the heat pass out, so it helps keep the house warm.

FOR YOU TO DO: Remember, from last winter, how comfortable a wool coat was on a cold day. Can you figure out why this was? Was the wool acting in much the same way as does the insulation between the roof rafters?

Court Okays Right to Oust West Pointer

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI)—

Cadet John H. Dunmar was dismissed from the U.S. military academy within minutes after a federal court certified the Army's decision to expel him, it was disclosed yesterday.

A West Point spokesman said Dunmar, who would have graduated yesterday, was "separated from the military school Monday."

The spokesman said that Dunmar, from Anaheim, Calif., left the campus promptly.

Dunmar, 21, was ordered dismissed from the academy on May 13 for receiving a medical officer to obtain credit for being present in his barracks when he actually had checked into the infirmary.

He went to court to block the action and force the Army to graduate him and give him a commission as a second lieutenant.

The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled yesterday that West Point was free to dismiss him and rejected his claim that he was entitled to extraordinary and immediate remedies because the dismissal would result in irreparable damage.

More Adult Than Hopscotch

Game for 'Primary' Students

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—In the past decade, there has been a trend toward increasing realism in parlor games for adults.

A few birthdays ago, someone gave me a game called "diplomacy" in which creating was not only permitted but encouraged. And, as might be expected of diplomacy, it ended in disaster.

WEST

More recently, I have run across magazine advertisements that recommended playing hopscotch with real scotch. Which also can end in disaster.

The latest true-to-life game with which I am familiar was sent to me by Paul Theis, public relations director of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee. It is called "Hat in the Ring."

In this game, which was invented by Theis and an associate, the players, or "candidates," must deal with situations that frequently arise in an actual presidential campaign.

They must decide whether to enter the presidential primaries and, if so, what type of campaign they should conduct. Once that is settled, the outcome is determined by drawing cards.

LOGICAL WINNER

That may not be as realistic as the ballot-casting method, but in some instances the outcome is more logical.

There are a number of ways that a player can win or lose delegates. The cards bear such tidings as:

"House-to-house canvass by supporters gains 10 delegates."

BOOK SELLER

"Your book is a best-seller; collect $20,000 royalties and gain 40 delegates."

"Poll shows you are most popular candidate with news-men; gains goodwill but no delegates." This one is too realistic for comfort.

The game stops short of total realism, however. It makes no provision for a player to win delegates while in Viet Nam on a diplomatic mission.

Nor do any of the cards mention anything about losing delegates through divorce.

FAMILIAR PATTERN

Although "Hat in the Ring" was meant to be nonpartisan, the pattern of play develops along lines that have certain similarities to this year's Republican presidential contest.

I think the game would be more balanced if Theis and his associate had included Democratic overtones.

One player, for example, could be designated the "incumbent." He would draw from a special set of cards marked something like this:

"Makes nonpolitical trip to West Coast; gains 3,000,000 votes."
"Lifts beagle by ears; loses 500,000 votes."

Only 1 Tortoise Farm in All of South Africa

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP)—Midway between the Wilderness and George, about 200 miles west of here, is South Africa's only tortoise farm.

The owner of the farm, 65-year-old Bertram Cairncross, has studied tortoises since childhood. Among his collection are four giant tortoises from the Seychelles, in the Indian Ocean, which wander in Cairncross' back garden. The biggest weighs 320 pounds, and children and adults love to ride them.

The 52nd Congress was the first to surpass $1 billion in appropriations during its two sessions from 1891-93.

Soviet Fishermen
Have Longest Line

MOSCOW (AP)—Fishermen who use a long line should try handling one as long as Soviet fishermen have been using in the Indian Ocean—12 1/2 miles or more long.

The Soviet research ship Orlik cast such long lines more than 400 times in experimental fishing for tuna and swordfish.

Twister Aid Is $46,427 by Red Cross

MOUNT CLEMENS (UPI)—The local advisory committee of the American Red Cross announced yesterday that Red Cross assistance to victims of the Anchor Bay tornado last month totals $46,427.51.

Kenneth O'Connor, Red Cross disaster director, emphasized that the assistance was an outright gift, not a loan, and no repayment is expected or would be accepted.

In addition to mass care expenditures, assistance included individual family aid of $10,254.02 for food, clothing and maintenance; $13,565.20 for building and repair of owner-occupied homes; $12,708.72 for household furnishings; $7,143.18 for medical, nursing and hospitalization expense, and $1,523 for occupational supplies and equipment.

The Red Cross said it expects to close the disaster office in the Green School next week, and leftover matters would be handled by the Macomb County chapter office in Roseville.

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The University of Michigan's new Lawrence D. Buhl Research Center for Human Genetics will be dedicated June 11. The facility was made possible through a gift from the Buhl Foundation of Detroit and matching funds from the federal government.

From 750 to 1,000 people are killed each year in accidents caused by cars hitting, or swerving to avoid, pieces of litter on highways, Keep America Beautiful, Inc., estimates.

N. Y. Readies Pupil Transfers*Negroes, Whites Hit Desegregation Plan

NEW YORK (AP)—The Board of Education—assailed by both Negro civil rights leaders and by organized white parents—voted at 2:30 a.m. today to adopt an additional integration program providing for the transfer of 10,000 pupils in 33 elementary and 10 junior high schools.

The board held a public hearing on the plan as about 1,500 demonstrators milled outside board headquarters. Twenty policemen barred the demonstrators from the building.

Almost all the pickets were white members of the Parents and Taxpayers Coordinating Council, which opposes busing children to remote schools to help achieve racial balance.

Before the meeting, civil rights groups had threatened the board with the possibility of more school boycotts unless it adopted "the beginning steps" of an integration plan recommended recently by a committee appointed by James E. Allen Jr., state education commissioner.

OPPOSE PLAN

The groups—the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Congress of Racial Equality—oppose the plan the board approved.

The plan was recommended last week by Calvin E. Gross, superintendent of schools.

The board acted after a six-hour hearing at which more than 100 proponents and opponents of the transfer plan were heard. Opponents charged that Gross' program would not actually further integration.

Sharp Greek, Turk Words Dim Cyprus Peace Hopes

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Hopes for a peaceful settlement of the bitter Cyprus dispute appeared dimmed today by sharp words exchanged between Greek and Turkish Cypriot leaders.

Vice President Fazil Kuchuk, leader of the island's Turkish minority, challenged President Archbishop Makarios yesterday to hold a meeting of the full Cyprus Cabinet, including Turkish Cypriot ministers.

Makarios, leader of the Greek Cypriot majority, rejected the demand and charged it was made "exclusively for propaganda purposes." He said Kuchuk "abandoned the office of vice president last December and has since led an insurrection aimed at the destruction of the state and the partition of Cyprus."

He said Kuchuk had stated repeatedly that the Cyprus government no longer exists and that "the Republic of Cyprus is dead."

The constitution granting Cyprus independence from Britain in 1960 provided for a Greek Cypriot president and Turkish Cypriot vice president with veto over foreign affairs, defense and security matters.

CABINET DIVISION It provided for a cabinet of seven Greek Cypriots and three Turkish Cypriots.

The Cyprus government has been run by Greek Cypriots on a de facto basis since fighting broke out between the two groups last December over constitutional amendments proposed by Makarios.

The Turkish Cypriots said the amendments would restrict their rights.

Western diplomats said the unexpectedly sharp tone of Makarios' response appeared to end the chances for resumption of relations between the two leaders. They last met Dec. 24 shortly after the first fighting.

Stevenson Son May Make Race for Illinois House

CHICAGO (AP) — The state Democratic chairman says that Adlai E. Stevenson III, son of the United Nations ambassador, is among those mentioned as possible candidates for the Illinois House of Representatives. The chairman, James A. Roman, said Wednesday night that placed on a list of 210 persons who will be considered for the 118-man slate for the at-large election in November.

Stevenson, 33, a Chicago lawyer, indicated that he is available. His father was governor of Illinois and twice Democratic nominee for president.

Canadian tourists spent $392 million in the U.S. last year.

Dearborn Set to Drill for Oil

DETROIT (UPI) — The City of Dearborn is excited about the possibility that it may be floating on oil.

The Ford Motor Co., recently announced it will sink a test well on its property near the Edsel Ford-Schaefer interchange.

Yesterday, Mayor Orville Hubbard of Dearborn said he has picked out a city-owned parking lot one block from city hall, and wants drilling on a test well to start as soon as possible.

The Dearborn council asked City Attorney Ralph B. Guy Jr.

to start negotiations with oil exploration firms.

Hubbard said a salt vein in the city's southern sector is evidence of oil. And a further indication is a pocket of sulphur discovered during construction of a bridge last year. Geologists say oil often is found in the presence of salt and sulphur.

Australian Minister Suffers With Influenza

CANBERRA (AP) — Sir Robert Menzies, prime minister of Australia, is suffering from influenza and has been ordered to bed.

Aides said, however, that the illness probably wouldn't stop Sir Robert from starting an overseas trip on schedule. He is to leave July 14 — two days after his 74th birthday — for Israel, Washington and London.

Today in Washington

No Rescue From Gemini?

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

NO EXIT? A Republican "space task force" accused the National Aeronautics and Space Administration today of failing to provide rescue means for Gemini spacecraft.

The task force said "the haphazard planning of the Gemini program and the apparent lack of interest in assuring a reasonable level of safety for our astronauts is highly irresponsible and merits further investigation by Congress."

Rep. Charles S. Gubser, R-Calif., task force chairman, noted that Dr. Edward C. Welsh, acting chairman of the National Space Council, has said the United States must be prepared to accept casualties on space flights.

Gubser said this could be accepted only if every possible step has been taken to prevent such tragedies by developing adequate safety gear and space rescue equipment, and by improved manufacturing methods. There was no immediate comment from the space agency.

ANOTHER LOOK: A second Senate inquiry into the impact on the nation's business of defense spending shifts and cutbacks was announced today by Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala.

He said the Small Business Committee, which he heads, will open hearings June 24, concentrating initially on military relocations in New Jersey. Problems affecting other areas involved in military economies will be aired at hearings later this year, Sparkman said.

Sparkman noted in a statement that much has been said and written about the impact of defense reductions on big business. But, he said, there is a need for his committee to start assessing the effects on small business.

French-Canadian Moderates Serve to Curb Separatist Moves

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the third of a four-part series on French-speaking Quebec's struggle with the rest of Canada and with itself.)

By JERRY SHEEHAN
MONTREAL, Quebec (NEA) — The fat Montreal telephone directory contains five columns of Joneses.

But in the same volume there are 15 columns of Desjardins and 20 devoted to Gauthier.

Montreal is the world's largest French-speaking city after Paris.

The heavy overbalance of French-Canadians here and in the province constitute a political bloc which would make Tammany's Boss Tweed shake with envy.

The fierce pride of the French in their language and culture is now being courted by extremist groups, whose voice is growing.

FIERCE PRIDE
Although these radical elements — who speak of separation from Canada through violence — are loud, a moderate group still holds the tiller of the ship.

Responsible members of the French community here also seek change: better jobs, more respect, a stronger role in federal government.

But these people want to live within the framework of the Canadian nation.

The danger is, as among the American Negro, that the moderates will be driven by mass frustration into the background.

REAL DANGER
The danger to Canada — and perhaps to the United States — is real.

"I see the problem exploding on all sides," said Mrs. Therese Casgrain, veteran Canadian socialist leader.

Mrs. Casgrain, who is also active in the anti-bomb organizations, is representative of old French society in Canada. Her family has been here since the 1600s.

Her home looks like an antique furniture museum.

IT'S DRAWBACK
"To be French is to be a second-class citizen in Canada," said Mrs. Casgrain.

"An English-Canadian friend of mine once remarked, not meaning to be rude, 'My dear, I only speak French with the help.'"

"And in Ottawa," said Mrs. Casgrain, "I tried to make a travel reservation in French, but the agent spoke only English. I asked him why he didn't learn to speak at least some French."

"He said, 'Why should I?' "The Americans and English course. To them the French are quaint."

NEW TACTIC
"Well, I'm tired of being 'quaint.' From now on I'm going to be a pain in the neck."

"You see, it's a problem of

communication. The government has lacked understanding. The English have lacked understanding."

"And the French themselves are often too quick to blame the English for everything that goes wrong."

Mrs. Casgrain's words echoed those of a French-Canadian waitress in an Ottawa restaurant:

BLOWS TRADED
"Sometimes it seems that the English and French are just giving each other a blow for a blow."

Mrs. Casgrain, however, does not see Quebec splitting from Canada in the early future. The main reason: too costly to the French themselves.

But would it be?

At the University of Montreal, a great pile of yellow brick overlooking the city, young Prof. Charles Taylor drew a slightly different picture.

ECONOMIC ANGLE
"There are some who say that it would be economically impossible for Quebec to break away," said Taylor.

Well, nothing is economically impossible in this world. It just depends on whether you're willing to pay the price."

Taylor made it clear that the cost of separation would be borne largely by the workers of Quebec — not the intelligentsia and students who now seek it most strongly.

"Everybody talks about Separatism," said Taylor, "but nobody talks about AFTER separation."

BUSINESS ASPECT
"Would the English and American-owned companies be permitted to carry on as normal?"

"With independence would come probably a massive cry to 'throw the rascals out' and 'end colonialism.'"

"The workers of Quebec would probably watch their jobs packed up in crates for shipment out of the country."

Taylor sees the real threat to Canadian society in sort of a "creeping Separatism," a slow transfer of power to Quebec — which would appeal to French pride but not alarm people with the ferocious image of secession.

Real Cautie, leader of the confusing and mysterious but popular Social Credit party has already asked for Quebec control over immigration, direct taxation, tariffs and the issue of money. "This," said Taylor, "is Separatism under a different name."

It is a further symptom of the Separatist climate that Quebec Premier Jean Lesage's Liberal party is considering withdrawal from the national party.

The most grim result of creeping Separatism, as Taylor sees it, is that Quebec would suffer a polarization of power as it became more divorced from Ottawa.

Can you name the 6 reasons Martini devotees prefer the glorious Gordon's Martini?

1 To this day, the ancient pot still method is used in distilling Gordon's Gin. 2 Only gin from the heart of the run is bottled for Gordon's. 3 Gordon's uses only juniper berries and other choice botanicals aged to the peak of maturity. 4 Gordon's is extraordinarily dry. 5 Gordon's has a distinctively delicate flavour. 6 Gordon's maintains its exceptional quality because it still harks back to Alexander Gordon's original formula created in England in 1769. Reasons enough for enjoying a Glorious Gordon's Martini soon, wouldn't you say?

Clear Sailing for Barry's Bandwagon? Some Sour Notes Heard

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many Republican press believe Sen. Barry Goldwater's California primary victory started his bandwagon rolling and there's nothing in sight that can keep him from the presidential nomination.

The view is not of course, universal in the party and some opponents of the Arizona senator still hope to stop his drive before the GOP convention starts July 13.

But there is little argument about the momentum involved. Goldwater needs 655 delegates to win the nomination. He has, by Associated Press tabulation, a minimum of 438 after winning California's big block of 86 delegates.

In addition to the simple arithmetic, there is the bandwagon mood that some GOP leaders think was stirred up by Goldwater's victory in the Golden State.

OTHER STATES

For example, Washington's Republican state chairman, W. Y. Walter, said Wednesday that all of the state's 24 delegates—the last of them to be picked June 13—will back Goldwater because of California.

"I think Goldwater can't be stopped," said Walter, "so we will go along with the winner."

Goldwater's aides, who figure that 454 delegates are publicly committed to the senator, had not had any Washington delegates counted in that tabulation.

Goldwater's campaign director, Denison Kitchel, predicts that Goldwater will win on the first or second roll call, but he concedes the prize won't be won easily: "I'm sure there will be a stop-Goldwater movement of some sort right up to the very end."

SEES DIFFICULTY

But former Sen. William F. Knowland, who managed Goldwater's California campaign, said "it is going to be very difficult for the opposition to put together any coalition because they don't have the delegate votes."

So is the end only a hoot and a holler away?

"It very much looks like Goldwater is on the way to the nomination," said Rep. Leslie Arends of Illinois, the GOP whip in the House.

Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, who will be the Republican convention keynote, thinks California clinched it for Goldwater. Hatfield isn't personally committed to any candidate, although he is a member of the Oregon delegation instructed to vote for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as the result of the governor's victory in the state's primary.

NOT GIVING UP

Rockefeller, who saw Goldwater upset him in California, says he is far from giving up. "I shall continue to fight," he declared. "The convention is a month off and a lot can happen between now and then."

Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts who has presided over five GOP conventions, said Goldwater's California victory "wasn't a very good showing. If he had won it big, then you'd have to say it was all over, but he didn't. I don't think this assures him of the nomination. But they can't just pass over him."

This was pretty much the view, too, of Sen. Frank Carlson, R-Kan., who declared "the closeness of the vote indicates there will be some soul searching in San Francisco."

IS IT DECISIVE?

Neither of New York's liberal Republican senators said they considered Goldwater's victory decisive.

"The choice of the Republican nominee can't be determined by a margin of a few thousand votes in a contest which did not include many of the party's prospective candidates," said Sen. Kenneth B. Keating.

His colleague from Rockefeller's state, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, said, "The victory is, of course, very important, but I do not consider it to be decisive in regard to the Republican presidential nominee or to the 1964 Republican national platform."

Rep. Robert Taft Jr., whose late father went into the 1952 convention with strong delegate backing but lost out to Dwight D. Eisenhower, said "Sen. Goldwater has the edge, but his nomination is certainly not assured."

There was little such restraint expressed by Goldwater boosters.

One of them, Arthur E. Summerfield, President Eisenhower's postmaster general, and now once again a Flint, Mich., automobile dealer, said: "I think this means his nomination on the first ballot. It may be lost on some people, but to any thinking, knowledgeable person, this means there's no point in the argument that a Republican can't carry a big city. Goldwater did it (carrying Los Angeles) and he did it as a conservative."

Gas Eruptions Ruin Farmland

NASH, Okla. (AP)—Gas eruptions have turned an 80-acre tract of land in north-central Oklahoma into a quagmire, a farm couple said Wednesday.

"It just blew up and we had to move our cattle out," said Neil Wilkins.

On cow died and a veterinarian said it was gassed, Wilkins said.

The land is about one mile from a half dozen gas wells. Mrs. Wilkins said since the eruptions, the ground had become like quicksand and dangerous to walk on.

Craters ranging from inches to 50 yards in length and 30 yards in width quickly filled with water, Wilkins said.

World Tells Social Class by Licenses

WASHINGTON—The automobile license plate remains unchanged as a cherished status symbol round the world.

Motorists connive, plead, and sometimes steal to get the low numbers that reflect high position. Even royalty gets into the game.

The Maharana of Udaipur, for example, disdains mere numbers for the royal Rolls-Royce. Instead, his car carries a brilliant gold sun disk, the family symbol for centuries.

In the tiny Himalayan kingdom of Sikkim, the royal family's tags simply bear the word "Sikkim," the National Geographic Society says.

Spaniards recently have taken to displaying Virginia and Florida tags, obtained from the United States quite legally. According to reports, the plates command respect from policemen, who are lenient to tourists, and give a certain social status.

BRITISH LAW

British laws permit a car owner to hold the same license number for life, but he may transfer it at will. A British car dealer who holds "A" is refused $50,000 for the number. The late actor Tyrone Power bought "TP 1" for his luxurious English car. The previous owner of the tag drove a garbage truck.

In protocol-conscious Washington, D.C., an audacious thief scored an automotive, if not a social, coup when he stole plates numbered 1 and 3. These came from the cars of two of the city's three commissioners, the men who head the municipal government.

Court Won't Oust Liz, Eddie's Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A federal judge on Wednesday denied a motion by 20th Century-Fox studios for dismissal of a suit brought by actress Elizabeth Taylor and ex-husband Eddie Fisher over proceeds from the movie "Cleopatra."

Miss Taylor and Fisher own 85 per cent of MCL, a Swiss corporation, which in turn owns 35 per cent of the $40 million movie. The firm's attorneys have asked that all prints and negatives of the film be placed in receivership, contending distribution has been mismanaged.

—itis' Ending Gets Widespread Misuse

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

In a sensational murder trial many years ago, the attorney for the defense got a lot of publicity for himself and maybe some sympathy for his clients by ascribing their criminality to "Americanitis," a peculiar derangement due to the stress and strain of modern life.

Like the "brain fever" of heroines in mid-Victorian novels, "Americanitis" was a silly notion, and besides there were no "science writers" to expatiate on it.

The first "itis" (the ending means inflammation) to achieve wide popularity was appendicitis. In the early years of the century, appendicitis was quite fashionable — at one time a group of American surgeons advocated appendectomy (removal of the appendix) in childhood as a prophylactic measure against the occurrence of appendicitis in youth or early adult life!

ing physician was Dr. A. L. Behan—the first in western New York to treat appendicitis surgically. When Auntie Binnell heard about it, she was fit to be tied. "That butcher!" she began.

I, a sophomore medical student, horned in to say that immediate operation was the best treatment for appendicitis. Auntie Binnell paused long enough to look me over and remark: "Maybe you'll know more when you get a little older."

GRIEVOUS MISUSE

The most grievous misuse of the "itis" ending, I think, is arthritis instead of rheumatoid arthritis. Arthritis means joint inflammation, and it is properly applied to the acute painful inflammation of a joint or joints which occurs as a complication of streptococcal septicemia, staphylococcal septicemia (acute blood poisoning), typhoid fever, pneumonia, tuberculosis, scarlet fever, brucellosis or gonorrhea.

Rheumatoid arthritis occurs usually in youths or young adults.

Rheumatiz, on the other hand, is the joint disability which comes on insidiously in persons past middle age and goes from bad to worse month after month and year after year if the victim is content to drift along under the pretense that the trouble is "arthritis."

From the content of the voluminous newspaper copy released by the Arthritis and Rheumatism foundation, one might imagine nobody who is anybody has the rheumatiz any more. The quaint term "rheumatism" is kept in the title in case some unsophisticated victim of degeneration of joint tissues happens to have a lot of mazuma.

But the foundation cunningly avoids telling the public the nature and cause of "arthritis."

It was not long after Dr. Osler's departure that the "clinic" racketeers and trick specialists discovered the magic in the new term "neuritis."

probably had a remedy for it, although it was before the merchants of medicine conceived wonder drugs and miracle medicines.

Real nerve inflammation (neuritis) happens, of course, but it is rare in comparison with nerve ache or pain (neuralgia). As long as the trick specialists and "clinic" racketeers do not call every neuralgia "neuritis," this little vanity does no great harm but merely helps the charlatans to exploit patients with language the poor souls do not quite understand but haven't the courage to question.

Signed letters, not more than one page by 100 words, long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not distributed by the St. Lawrence, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, M.D., at the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan. (Copyright, 1964)

Argentina Puts Limit on Meat

Watered-Down Amendment Is Proposed

School Prayer Backers Revise Tactics

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The government has decreed meatless Mondays and Tuesdays in Argentina, traditionally one of the world's major beef producers, in an effort to build up the nation's herds.

A decree published yesterday forbids the sale of meat either in butcher shops or restaurants on Mondays and Tuesdays. Since butcher shops here normally close Sundays, an Argentine family that does not plan ahead could find itself facing the prospect of a long meatless weekend.

There is no provision in the decree, however, to prevent foresighted housewives from stocking up their refrigerators on Saturdays.

The decree also forbids the slaughter of pregnant cows or of any animal weighing less than 450 pounds. Veal is expected to disappear temporarily from the market, and there probably will be a shortage of canned beef.

F. W. Woolworth opened his first five-and-ten cent store Feb. 22, 1879, in Utica, N.Y.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts were under way today to write a compromise amendment permitting prayers in the public schools less sweeping than the major one now being proposed. The effort is being undertaken by proponents of the original measure, who now feel there is little chance for winning approval of it in the House Judiciary Committee.

The committee completed six weeks of hearings on all proposed amendments Wednesday and will get down to deciding what action to take in two or three weeks. But the chief supporters of an amendment don't intend to wait idly until then.

They hope to come up next week with a lightened version of the amendment sponsored by Rep. Frank J. Becker, R-N.Y., that will meet some of the objections raised at the hearings.

THREE SECTIONS

As it now stands the proposed amendment has three sections. The first declares that nothing in the Constitution shall prohibit voluntary prayers or Bible reading in public institutions.

The second extends the prohibition against constitutional interference to "belief in, reliance upon, or invoking the aid of God or a supreme being, in any governmental or public document, proceeding, activity, ceremony, school, institution, or place, or upon any coinage."

The third declares that nothing done in connection with the first two sections shall constitute an establishment of religion, which is expressly outlawed now by the First Amendment.

At the conclusion of the hearings Wednesday Becker told newsmen he would not object if the committee should eliminate the second section of his amendment. This is a significant concession.

The section is aimed at preserving a variety of traditional practices such as prayers opening legislative session, and at presidential inaugurations, oaths of office, recitation of the pledge of allegiance—all of which proponents of an amendment have said are endangered by future Supreme Court rulings following up the decisions banning required school religious exercises.

Will Give Tank Center to Detroit School Board

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Harold M. Ryan, D-Mich., said yesterday the $2 million U. S. Army Tank Automotive Center in Detroit soon will be given to the City Board of Education to be used as a permanent vocational training center.

The board's application for the building previously had been turned down by the government. The decision was reconsidered at Ryan's request.

Rhode Island is 48 miles long, 37 miles wide, with 400 miles of coastline.

Report Set on Program in Waterford

Waterford Township Board of Education members will hear a report tonight on the growth of the school system's adult education program.

Byron Merritt, adult education director and a counselor at Waterford Township High School, will present the report.

In other business at the board meeting, members will discuss proposed changes in pupil transportation.

Also slated for board attention will be recommendations from the superintendent pertaining to teaching staff appointments and the investment of $25,000 of Debt Retirement Funds.

Plans for location of school signs and crossing stripes also will be discussed.

The board is expected to act on a proposed calendar for the 1964-65 school year.

Reds in Laos Demand Voice

Conditions Are Listed for Talk Resumption

TOKYO (AP) — Red Prince Souphanouvong insisted again today that he will agree to peace talks only if Premier Souvanna Phouma throws out leaders of the rightist coup of April 19 and restores the Communist Pathet Lao to its former role in the Laotian coalition government.

The New China News Agency said the Pathet Lao leader listed these conditions for talks with the neutralist premier: Repeat of the order assigning officers to cabinet posts formerly held by Pathet Lao ministers and dissident neutralist ministers.

RIGHT-WINGERS
Dissolution of the revolutionary committee which staged the right-wing military coup April 19.

Severe punishment of the coup leaders.

Restoration of the situation to the status quo before the coup. Souvanna agreed Wednesday to Souphanouvong's request that he arrange for the departure of the last two remaining Pathet Lao government officials and their 100-man bodyguard from Vientiane.

ARRANGE FLIGHT
Souvanna notified Souphanouvong, who is his half-brother, that he would ask the International Control Commission to arrange to fly the Pathet Lao party to Hanoi, capital of Communist North Viet Nam, "in the shortest possible time."

Gen. Kong Le, commander of Souvanna's neutralist army, conferred in Vientiane today with the chief of staff of the right-wing army, Gen. Ouane Rattikone.

In Saigon, Denis W. Healey, defense expert of the British Labor party, said neutralization of Laos and Viet Nam was a difficult objective "except from a position of military strength." "When we talk of neutralization, we talk of the neutralization of both parts of Viet Nam, including Communist North Viet Nam," said Healey.

Copilot's Last Words: 'Skipper's Shot'

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Skipper's shot, we're bin shot. I was tryin' to help."

Those were the last words spoken by Raymond E. Andrews, copilot of a Pacific Airlines F27 just before the plane plunged to earth 30 miles from San Francisco May 7, killing all 44 aboard.

The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) yesterday released an electronic translation of the final communication from the flight.

Prepared by the Bell Telephone laboratory in Murray Hill, N.J., it confirmed almost beyond all doubt that 43 of those who died were victims of a mass murder — the 44th being the passenger who shot both pilots.

The translation of what was almost gibberish in the original tape was achieved by use of a spectrograph, which literally makes a visual recording of the human voice.

NOT EXACT WORDS
Even this scientific process, however, was unable to decipher the copilot's exact words.

The determination of which pilot spoke the final message was made by comparing previous recordings of Andrews' voice and that of pilot Ernest A. Clark with the tape from the fatal flight.

Electronic filters eliminated all other noises and traced each word syllable by syllable.

The "we're bin shot" apparently was "we're being shot," although the CAB would not go beyond the official Bell analysis.

EDUCATED GUESS
The "I was tryin' to help" also was not totally clear. "I was," Bell admitted, was an educated guess. The "ta" probably was "to."

The final sentence did not indicate for sure whether Andrews was trying to help pilot Clark, or may have been attempting to aid somebody else in grappling with the killer.

The translation did show that Clark apparently was shot first. It also added solid evidence that the crew was shot deliberately.

The cockpit construction of an F27, with a baggage and radio equipment area acting almost as a buffer zone between the flight deck and cabin, is such that it is a one-in-a-million chance that stray shots from the latter area would enter the cockpit.

FBI INVESTIGATES
The CAB's release of the deciphered tape closed the books on its own part of the investigation. The FBI still is checking the criminal aspects — principally the background of one passenger, formerly Philippines Olympic athlete Frank Gonzalez, who was established as owning a high-powered revolver found in the wreckage.

Gonzalez was carrying insurance variously estimated at from $45,000 to $105,000. His gun, ballistics tests showed had been fired recently.

The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) has ordered all airlines to keep cockpit doors locked, effective Aug. 6, giving the carriers time to install any necessary locks, or in some cases the doors themselves. A few airlines are said to be considering a lightweight armor-plate.

Soviet Delegation at Spain Film Fete

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (AP) — The Soviet hammer and sickle flew here today on the eve of the opening of the 12th San Sebastian Film Festival.

The flag, displayed here publicly for probably the first time since the Spanish Civil War, appeared with those of 17 other countries with entries in the festival, which opens tomorrow and runs through June 14. Festival directors said seven Russians would head a delegation of 20 from behind the Iron Curtain. This is the first year in which a Soviet entry and delegation have been welcomed.

Costello Arrested for Vagrancy

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Costello, one-time symbol of the underworld, gained his freedom but lost a certain amount of dignity in the latest episode of Costello vs. the law.

He was arrested on a vagrancy charge Wednesday while dining at an expensive Broadway restaurant with a man described by police as a bookmaker who does business with socialites.

Detective Donald Smith said Costello "seemed a little disgusted when we told him he was being charged with vagrancy. He felt it was beneath his dignity."

The charge was dismissed by Judge Neal P. Bottiglieri a few hours later.

GAMBLING CHARGES

But Costello's host, Jeremiah Kelly, 57, who was carrying $7,400 in $100 bills, was held in $7,500 bond on gambling charges. Costello, 73, had $6 in his pocket, not enough to buy a sirloin ($7) at Dinty Moore's Restaurant, where he was arrested.

He said he didn't know whether Kelly was a gambler.

"All I know," he said, leaving the police station, "is this is the toughest town in the world to get a beat down. I wouldn't be with a bookmaker."

Jet Lands Safely After Crash Scare

NEW YORK (AP)—An Eastern Air Lines jet, which had radioed that it had landing gear trouble, landed safely at Kennedy Airport today.

An airlines spokesman said a faulty light apparently indicated falsely that the gear was inoperable.

The plane arrived from Philadelphia with 46 passengers.

Weather Bureau Probes Possible Hurricane Center

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Weather Bureau ordered its research plane to investigate a tropical depression 600 miles southwest of Miami today for possible intensification into a tropical storm or hurricane.

The Weather Bureau said Wednesday the tropical depression was not likely to develop into a storm until noon today, if at all.

The disturbance, with winds up to 35 miles an hour, was moving toward the northeast at three miles an hour. It was last located off Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula.

The 1964 hurricane season officially started Monday.

Bad-Luck Savannah Called Trail-Blazer Ship

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "I declared the Maritime Administration official.

"She has done her job by opening the door to progress for the American Merchant Marine."

Many problems lie ahead for the sleek, white, 22,000-ton vessel as she clears Sandy Hook in New York Harbor on her maiden transatlantic voyage June 8.

But the jinx-ridden N.S. (Nuclear Ship) Savannah already may have provided a vital shot in the arm for America's decaying merchant marine industry.

A commercial nuclear scientist agrees: "If the Savannah weren't on the seas today, the obstacles to fitting cargo ships with nuclear power would be so great that no one would ever tackle the problem."

POINT THE WAY

Although the Savannah—cost, $82 million—will never turn a profit here, enthusiasts hope she will point the way to a commercially feasible nuclear-powered merchant marine.

The American Merchant Marine currently is in need of revitalization. Ominous warnings have been sounded by such men as Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

Some bad signs:

- Since 1960, U.S. flag ships have carried less than 10 per cent of the nation's ocean-borne commerce.

This compares to over 40 per cent in 1925, 35 in 1933 and 23 just before World War II.

NONE BUILT

Not a single bulk (coal, grain, etc.) carrier for foreign trade has been built in American shipyards since the war.

During the last nine months of 1963 in Japan alone, foreign owners have placed orders for the construction of six ships of over 20,000 tons capacity.

Countries such as Liberia, with easy tax laws, far outstrip the U.S. in the size and newness of their bulk fleets.

Low construction and operating costs available to foreign owners have virtually killed the U.S. foreign trade tanker fleet.

CARGO LINERS

Only America's large cargo liner fleet — government subsidized to the extent of about 20 cents out of the steamship operating dollar — is able to compete favorably with foreign maritime powers.

Nuclear-powered ships such as the Savannah might elevate other branches of the merchant marine to this status.

Because their reactors require less space than conventional oil-

burning equipment and fuel tanks, nuclear ships can carry larger cargoes.

ATTRACT SHIPPING

"If we had a fast nuclear fleet, we'd attract many cargoes that would otherwise go in foreign ships," predicts a Maritime Administration official.

A prohibitive factor, so far, is the cost of outfitting a vessel with nuclear power.

A merchant ship of similar size to the Savannah's 22,000 tons equipped with conventional power can now be built for about $11 million.

To convert such a vessel to nuclear power would require an additional outlay of $8-to-$12 million.

WOULD DECREASE

But officials at such nuclear equipment companies as General Electric and Babcock & Wilcox note that this cost would substantially decrease as more nuclear-powered ships are built.

Best current guesses put the future cost of the reactor hardware and installation at about $3.5 million.

The Savannah's reactor — which generates 20,000 horsepower — is too small to provide substantial savings in fuel costs.

But scientists predict that 66,000 h.p. reactors — which, although 3.3 times larger than the administrative costs and research.

Almost eight years have passed since former president Eisenhower first proposed the Savannah project shortly after he received word that the Russians were working on a nuclear icebreaker.

Born as a device for achieving national prestige, the Savannah has been truly unlucky.

From the drawing board to the shipyard, from the dockside to the open sea, the ship has been both cause and victim of bureaucratic squabbles, labor strife and maddening delays.

Hardly a single sea trial was held without mishap.

The reactor broke down on the Savannah's maiden voyage. For almost a year, she sat useless at her dock in Galveston, Tex., after her engineers quit in disgust over wages and job status.

BEHIND SCHEDULE

When the Savannah sails Monday on its demonstration voyage to Bremerhaven, Hamburg, Dublin and Southampton, she will be almost three years behind schedule.

The Russian nuclear icebreaker Lenin sailed in 1959.

Viet Cong Overrun Government Outpost

SAIGON, Viet Nam (U) — A Communist Viet Cong platoon overran and seized a small government outpost, 17 miles northwest of Saigon, yesterday morning, military authorities here announced today.

The outpost, at My Hanh, was manned by 26 paramilitary self-defense corpsmen. Initial reports said one of the defenders was killed and 15 were captured. Viet Cong casualties were not known.

Says Boy Started Lumber Firm Blaze

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (U) — Fire Chief Jess Hunter says a 6-year-old boy playing with matches accidentally started a $125,000 fire that destroyed the Cedar Rapids Lumber Co. last Monday evening.

Hunter said the unidentified boy admitted last night that he ignited a corner of old mattresses in the garage of a home, but blew the fire out and ran away.

The fire erupted, destroyed a house, nearby lumber yard and an electric shop. "We don't want to discipline the boy because he is too young to understand," Hunter said.

The population of the United States is fourth largest in the world, exceeded only by China, India and the U.S.S.R.

There's Safety in Numbers

KRALJEVA SUTJESKA, Yugoslavia (AP) — On the first Wednesday in February, all the engaged couples from 24 nearby villages were married in one big ceremony in this Bosnian town. It has been happening here on that day for the past 500 years. This year only 32 couples were married in the mass ceremony. Some years there are as many as 90.

The custom originated in medieval times when travel to town was hazardous because of highway bandits and the marriage parties preferred to wait and all go together.

Romney Signs Bill on Religion Study

LANSING (AP)—A bill allowing public school students time to attend religious instruction classes was signed into law Wednesday by Gov. George W. Romney.

The measure allows any child enrolled in a public school to receive voluntary religious instruction not more than two hours a week.

The measure specifies that the student must first receive permission for the instruction from his parent or guardian.

Also signed were bills providing additional Circuit Court judges for Kent and Kalamazoo counties, to be elected for a six-year term in November. The election measure was given immediate effect.

The judges will start serving on Jan. 1, 1965.

Four more bills making up next year's state budget were signed by Romney.

VALUABLE WORK — Artist Pablo Picasso spent no more than five minutes making this sketch of William Shakespeare, with use of only 14 lines. A British art patron valued the drawing at $2,800.

Picasso Waves Pencil —Presto, Masterpiece

LONDON (AP) — A 14-line drawing of William Shakespeare by Pablo Picasso was hailed today as a magnificent work of art.

"I can only describe it as magnificent," said Dr. Roy Strong, deputy keeper of Britain's National Portrait Gallery. "It's a remarkable piece of art, all right."

British art patron Roland Penrose said he was visiting the noted painter last November and suggested that he do a portrait of Shakespeare for the festival this year celebrating the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth.

Picasso asked for several pictures of the playwright-poet to work from. He knocked off three quick sketches, spending no more than five minutes on each.

"I thought his second effort the best," said Penrose. "In it he's made Shakespeare the great observer to life."

$2,800 VALUE

Penrose values the sketch, on a piece of paper 10 by 8 inches, at $2,800.

The sketch will be photographed, enlarged to 5 by 4 feet, and hung in the Shakespeare exhibition at Stratford-on-Avon, the bard's birthplace.

College Board Revamped

Ole Miss Eyes Negro Case

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — A revamped state college board was expected today to take up the case of a Negro student seeking entrance to the all-white University of Mississippi next week.

Cleveland Donald, 18, student at nearby Tougaloo College, has been tentatively accepted for enrollment at the summer term beginning June 10, pending action of the college board.

Four new members, appointed by Gov. Paul Johnson, were to meet with the Board of Trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning for the first time here today.

The group, including administration floor leader Sen. George Yarborough, was expected to give segregationists a firm majority on the board, with most members named either by Johnson or by former Gov. Ross Barnett.

There were reports at the capitol that state officials were working behind the scenes on the application which Johnson announced two weeks ago when he said the Negro had been "temporarily" enrolled.

The application first became general knowledge when the Senate approved a bill sources said was aimed at blocking Donald's admission to "Ole Miss."

The bill would allow state officials to examine the secret juvenile court records of any individual. The bill, passed by the House yesterday, was sent back to the upper chamber for concurrence in minor amendments.

Officials want to examine Donald's juvenile court record, which reportedly includes several arrests stemming from racial demonstrations.

Researchers Working

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Cornell University researchers are in the "early stages" of designing a mechanical cabbage picker.

Preliminary work is said to indicate that the most practical type would pull the cabbage from the ground, root and all, then convey it past a cutter to remove roots and bottom leaves.

The head would then go to a truck or bin.

Subway Ride Marked by Wariness

(EDITOR'S NOTE — New York subways recently have been the scene of teenage violence and vandalism. Last weekend there were four separate incidents on the underground transportation system. UPI reporter David M. Alperin spent several hours last night traveling through "trouble" sections of the sprawling city. His report follows.)

By DAVID M. ALPERIN
NEW YORK (UPI) — A ride on the city's subways these nights is marked by a bit more wariness, than usual perhaps, and by a little less ease — if there ever was ease on the subways.

But by and large it means the same impersonal brushing of shoulders and sharing of seats with a conglomeration of fellow human beings that it has for years.

Despite the violence that flared on subway trains this weekend — with rampaging Negro teenagers beating, robbing and terrorizing passengers and vandalizing the cars — people still were riding the subway last night as the simplest, cheapest (15 cents) and quickest way to get where they wanted to go.

I started at Coney Island, the amusement park at the tip of Brooklyn where the weekend violence apparently began. I rode the IND line north to Manhattan, then changed several times to ride through Harlem.

There were no assaults and no attacks. There were a few drunks, some rowdy youngsters and a subway Romeo or two.

Mostly there were clean-up women going home, night workers going to their jobs, respectable couples ending a night out and teen-agers in the midst of their endless nightly roamings.

NIGHT WAS YOUNG

At Coney Island there were just a few homebound teen-agers at 10:30 p.m. The night still was young. Some of the boys and girls wore the funny hats sold by concessionaires or given away as prizes for victorious hat tossing or milk bottle busting.

Young couples sat together and talked and laughed. A group of white youths hung from the stanchions, and then ambled down the car, swinging around the poles in the center aisle.

They, too, were laughing. Several riders followed their progress with discreet glances over the tops of newspapers.

RESIDENTIAL SECTION

A little farther north in the residential sections of Brooklyn we were joined by some railroad trackmen who had finished their day's work in the tunnels.

They read newspapers — sports section first — and kept their lanterns and other gear on the floor between their legs. The red lantern lights were lit and looked eerie on the car floor.

Everyone who wanted a seat to himself had one until we neared Manhattan. In the downtown section after 11 p.m., groups of women, cleaners and switchboard operators and others, entered together and shared the long seats whose backs are flush against the sides of the car.

GENERALLY UNCONCERNED

They also were generally unconcerned with the other riders, although they did cast quick, sidelong glances down the car when five Negro youths entered singing and joking with their female companions.

Two elderly women looked disparagingly at a couple of boys who got on in the Green-Wich Village section.

The boys obviously were not interested in the elderly ladies, or in several younger ones in the car.

At 42nd Street and 8th Avenue a pretty girl with long brown hair and carrying books under her arm — a college coed most likely — got on. She kept her nose buried in a newspaper.

REEKED OF LIQUOR

She dropped into an empty seat without really looking and minutes later moved discreetly to another, leaving the side of a mumbling and disheveled drunk. "He just reeked of liquor," she confided to the person she sat next to.

Going uptown on the east Side IRT line we had nearly a full car from the midtown area because of a late night theater crowd.

Quiet, well-dressed couples with programs in their hands or jutting from their pockets discussed their night's entertainment.

Sitting near the theater crowd were several Puerto Rican youngsters, apparently a brother and two older sisters, immersed in Spanish-language, soft-cover paperbacks of romance or derring-do.

IGNORED THEM

When the well-to-do couples got on, they looked briefly at the poorly-dressed Puerto Ricans, then ignored them. The kids looked up from their books, noted the older couples, and returned to their books.

Past the fashionable sixties and seventies on the east side, the look of well-being thinned out.

The riders filled only about a quarter of the car. They were mostly Negroes or Puerto Ricans. We headed into Harlem.

Wednesday night is a slow night in Harlem. It is almost payday again — almost but not quite. And there are fewer people who spend the night in a big or noisy way.

SHOVED EACH OTHER

There was a group of boisterous teen-agers. They sang and shoved each other a little. One of them made a few "forward" remarks to a pair of pretty girls sitting together. He was ignored.

Another asked me for a cigarette. I gave him one. He said "thanks" and smoked it. Near-by was a "No Smoking" sign.

The few whites in the car were men, apparently laborers.

They made a point of reading their newspapers and looking around, you don't catch anyone's eye. And if you don't catch anyone's eye, hopefully, you don't catch any trouble.

Despite racial tensions and fears of rampaging teen-agers, this psychology seems to work, most of the time. At least it did last night.

CHIC QUEEN — Britain's Queen Elizabeth II wears a blue and white hat as she leaves London for Epsom where she watched the Epsom Derby yesterday. Santa Claus won, with two U.S. horses placing second and third.

The second law passed by the first Congress of the United States on July 4, 1789, was "an act laying a duty on goods, wares, and merchandise imported into the United States." The fifth act of that Congress on July 31, 1789, set up machinery for collecting the duty and, in effect, established the Customs Service.

NY Adds 700 Policemen to Curb Growing Violence

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York's emergency crime-stopping plan went into effect today with 700 extra police assigned to work overtime to strengthen patrols on violence-plagued streets and subways during peak crime hours.

In addition to the actual police reinforcements, the nation's largest city had the appearance of having put thousands of additional patrolmen on the streets.

The 26,000 city police, most of whom had formerly gone to work in street clothes, were under orders to be in uniform and under arms while commuting to and from their station houses.

It was hoped that the extra show of force, ordered by Mayor Robert F. Wagner, along with the police overtime, would act as a deterrent to gangs of youths who participated in a recent wave of murders, rapes, muggings, robberies and other terror tactics on the streets and transit system.

The growing violence, some apparently racially motivated, hit its peak last weekend when young Negroes terrorized passengers on subways and a ferry boat in five separate incidents. In addition two women were raped and one was slain in the troubled Crown Heights section of Brooklyn.

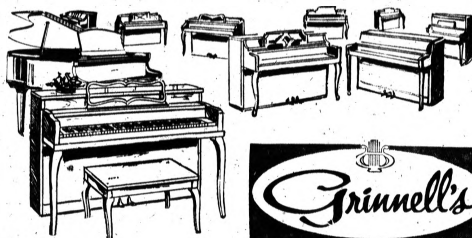

Beginning today, 200 Transit Authority (TA) police will be on overtime duty daily during evening and night hours to help maintain order on subway trains and platforms, which have become special targets of the teen-age hooligans.

The 972-man TA force, one of the largest police departments in the state, is separate from the regular city police force.

From 6 p.m. to 2 a.m. daily, another 500 city patrolmen will be on overtime duty on the streets in high-hazard areas.

The various moves in progress to upgrade law enforcement were of little comfort to a 19-year-old Chinese-American girl, a waitress at the World's Fair, who was abducted and raped at knife-point by two Negroes early yesterday.

325 Women Brave Rain to Attend Auxiliary Tea

Pontiac Press Photos by Phil Webb

Typical of guests arriving at the Marcus Freud home on Nakomis Drive, Orion Township, Wednesday afternoon is Mrs. Jerome Fink, Quanton Road. The occasion was the annual membership tea of the Women's Auxiliary to Pontiac General Hospital.

By JANET ODELL

An uncooperative weatherman dumped torrents of rain on the Pontiac area Wednesday afternoon and spoiled plans for the tea held at the lake home of Mrs. Marcus C. Freud on Nakomis Drive.

Members and guests of the Women's Auxiliary to Pontiac General Hospital had to bypass the bright fuchsia umbrellas set up in the garden. Matching blooms scattered in the greenery were sodden.

But they came, despite the weather and crowded the rooms of the Freud home. More than 300 women were there.

Hostesses wearing bright pink hats circulated among the guests, steering them into the dining room for tea, tiny sandwiches and cookies.

Taking turns at the tea and coffee services were Mrs. E. M. Estes, Mrs. Harold B. Euler, Mrs. Zac Endress, Mrs. John J. Marra and Mrs. Philip Pratt.

Others presiding in the dining room were Mrs. Arthur E. Moore, Mrs. Howard Huttenlocher, Mrs. D. B. Varner, Mrs. F. R. Wood, Mrs. B. B. Roush, Mrs. Arthur R. Young and Mrs. E. W. Spohn.

No one served punch in the garden.

The purpose of this yearly tea is to honor present members and to recruit new ones. Any woman in the area may join the auxiliary.

"Isn't it a shame we can't be outdoors?" Mrs. Forest R. Wood, South Tilden Street, president, of the auxiliary (right), and Mrs. J. P.

Mrs. Marcus Freud (left) opened her lakefront home to PGH auxiliary members. With her are co-chairmen of the tea, Mrs. Cecil R.

Fox and Hounds Setting for Unit Installations

New Kappa Chi Alpha sorority officers were installed in a candlelight ceremony Tuesday evening at the Fox and Hounds.

Mrs. Ernest Hadash will lead group activities for the coming year. Assisting her with the projects will be Mrs. Jerry Proctor, vice president; Mrs. James Altard, secretary and Mrs. Ronald Holland, treasurer.

New committee chairmen include Mrs. Edward Doyle, Mrs. Richard Jones, Mrs. Richard Henke, Mrs. Thomas Ragusso, Mrs. Clare Johnson, Mrs. Mark Beltz, Mrs. Roscoe Hendry and Mrs. Richard Lundgren.

Plans are being made for the annual children's picnic July 8. The couples picnic will be July 25.

They'd like to serve tea in the garden, but the rain and wind drove them inside. Hostesses, Mrs. James Clarke, Holly (left), and Mrs. Leo Donaldson, Sylvan Lake, hang onto their flower-bedecked hats.

Mrs. Arthur Young, Hammond Lake, helps relay coats up the stairs in order to prevent a traffic jam.

Pontiac Panhellenic Closes Another Year

Pontiac City Panhellenic's final meeting of the year was a cooperative dinner Monday evening in the North Lake Angelus Drive home of Mrs. Charles Kuhn.

Although the meeting was primarily a social gathering, new president Mrs. Stuart Jeske announced her committee chairmen for the 1964-65 year.

Assisting her with various club projects will be Mrs. Don E. Kennamer, Mrs. Wayne Pyke, Mrs. Raymond Wilhelm, Mrs. William L. Belaney, Mrs. Robert Alexander, Mrs. Richard Brozier, JoAnn VanTassel, Mrs. Robert Settelind, Mrs. Richard Kuhn, Mrs. N. Henry McCandless, Mrs. Glen Dick and Mrs. Francis Webster.

Next meeting of the Panhellenic will be Sept. 14.

Any area woman who is a member of a national college sorority is eligible for membership in the group and may attend a meeting by contacting the club president, Mrs. Charles Kuhn.

Junior Group Slates Picnic for League

A real picnic plus "fun only" singing is slated for members and their husbands when the Junior League of Birmingham gets together for a "League-nanny" Saturday.

Mrs. Kinsman Bramson has organized numerous activities for the afternoon and evening scheduled to start at 3 p.m. at the Ivory Farms on Cooley Lake Road.

Assisting Mrs. Bramson in her arrangements have been: Mrs. Karl B. Zint, Jr., Mrs. Charles G. MacGregor, Mrs. Robert D. MacGregor, Mrs. Richard M. Wickham, Mrs. Henry M. Hogan, Jr., and Mrs. Joseph L. Hardig.

Members met Wednesday for their last regular meeting and a luncheon at Oakland Hills Country Club. Participating in the program were Mrs. Robert Seiler, Mrs. James Dickerson, Mrs. John Bones, Mrs. Helmut Heuser.

During the meeting outgoing president, Mrs. Sidney W. Smith Jr. turned over the gavel to Mrs. Phoebe Otter Mathews.

Fashionette's Newcomer

Mrs. Loren Hartzell was received as a new member of the Fashionette club at a Tuesday evening meeting in the Adah Shelby Library.

Included in the program for the evening was a silent white elephant sale.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: There is a very attractive bachelor living in my apartment building. I am single, too.

We have become quite friendly of late, and have invited each other in for a drink, conversation and television.

I drink nothing but ginger ale, but whenever he serves it to me I have had the feeling that it was spiked.

When I accused him of this he became very indignant and swore he never did.

I've watched him carefully but haven't been able to catch him at it, yet I continue to get that high, exhilarated feeling when we're drinking together.

Could it be my imagination? FEELING HIGH, DEAR FEELING: If he is not spiking your ginger ale, he is even more dangerous because he is intoxicating you with his company.

Stay out of his apartment.

DEAR ABBY: I always believed that honesty was the best policy, but it cost me a friend.

You see, my best friend bought a dress and asked me what I thought of it. I told her I thought it was too short, too tight, and the color was wrong for her.

I told her in a very nice way, but she got mad and now she won't even speak to me.

Should I have told her the dress was nice even if it wasn't? Please print this, Abby.

I know a lot of people who have the same trouble.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: When a woman asks a friend what she "thinks" of something after she has already bought it, she doesn't want an honest opinion—she wants a compliment.

If your best friend quit speaking to you on this account, it couldn't have been much of a friendship.

Let's Knit

A Space Age Fashion

By URSULA DuBOIS
Cramped for space when traveling? Even the first woman astronaut could fit this garment into her capsule.

It is knitted on a very large needle and a set of small needles. Two or three weeks see completion of this garment.

Then the fun begins, snapping and unsnapping the different sections. Included in the instructions are shown a total of more than 20 variations of this garment.

The different pieces make it possible to own daytime and evening dresses and several shells of varying lengths.

Approximate yarn cost for this "Interchangeable Hocket Dress No. 50" is $20.00. Instructions are for sizes 8 through 18. All sizes are included on one pattern.

To obtain Hocket Dress No. 50, please send 50 cents in coin, check, or money order to: Ursula duBois, Pontiac Press Pattern Dept., Box 3307, Van Nuys, Calif. 91407.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The idea that a person is old or an older than the age of 65 is absurd. Age is an entirely individual matter. Many men and women 50 years old are older, not only in outlook, but in physical condition, than others 65 years old.

Yet the conception that one is old at 65 years is fixed in minds of many because this age group is so often referred to in that manner. I think this is too bad because it creates age consciousness which will make one old at any age. Today there are famous and glamorous women who are approaching the supposedly fatal birthday.

You are not young one day and then suddenly old the next just because you have had a birthday, but the general attitude may cause you to succumb to age consciousness. This does more to take the joy out of life than almost any other outlook I can imagine.

Many women become victims of this disease quite young in life. The fortieth birthday is dreaded by them. They even begin worrying about it in their early 30s. Their entire outlook, what they do, how they think, what they wear, is dictated by what they feel is right for their age. Even their mannerisms and posture may reflect age consciousness.

Some people just seem to be born old, while others age rapidly under the impact of the attitude and remarks of their contemporaries. Group thinking gets them!

With all the information about nutrition, exercise and health, and all the know-how about skin care and all the cosmetic aids, a woman should be able to be lovely most of her life. Add to that a youthful spirit and you have a winner!

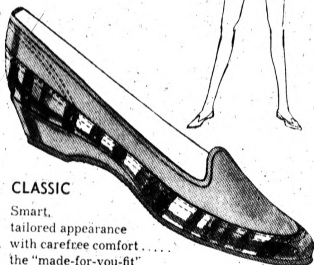

So often women fail to take up new interests because they feel it would be silly at their age. There is no age limit on learning and one of the surest ways to remain youthful is to constantly add new interests and new activities to your life. Don't let age consciousness get you at any age.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Pep" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 56 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Separate Two Sisters to Stop Quarreling

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: My daughter, 4, is so domineering and hostile to her little sister that it provokes me.

She tells the younger one what to do and if the little one doesn't obey her, pushed her or grabs away the toy or whatever else she is playing with.

I have sent her to her room time and time again and even tried the soft approach by telling her how God wants little sisters to love each other.

ANSWER: Separate the children. Place one in one room and the other in another room with a barrier of chairs between them which you call the Pacific Ocean, the Sahara Desert.

Or use some other geographical name which you can tell them stories about as it, at the same time, creates for both of them a sense of safe distance from each other.

However, to rear this barrier between them so that it provides both fun and reassurance, you will have to be a lot more determined than you are now to get the protection you want from harassment by their quarreling.

Instead of organizing your own protection, you have been begging your older daughter to give it to you.

WRONG METHODS

Instead of arranging her outward circumstances so that her belligerence can't harass you, you have been trying to rearrange her inward circumstances — to alter her "hostility" toward her little sister, into "love."

You have not only tried to compel this inward alteration by punishing her but by using the authority of God to serve your own convenience.

No child and no adult effort will long stand this kind of effort at forcible reformation.

If there is one thing human beings will not take, it is other people's attempts to cajole, punish or threaten us out of what we feel.

IT'S OPPOSED

It is these efforts you have been making to reform your 4-year-old's feelings that have made her so resentful.

Next time the quarreling begins, take responsibility for your own convenience instead of asking her to take it.

Set up the chairs between your living room and dining room and make them into the Pacific Ocean with all its fascinating creatures — its whales, strange fishes and mysterious islands.

As your older one begins to discover that you have stopped trying to "domineer" her resentful feelings out of her and replace them with ones which convenience you, she may begin to lose some of this "hostility."

Much of our helplessness to ward children's quarreling derives from our distrust of our own wish for peace.

December vows are planned by Marilyn Sue Wagner, daughter of the Lloyd Wagners of Woodbine Drive and Vernon P. Hovis, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hovis of Calvert Street.

Invitation Not Sent Personally

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: My husband and I belong to a club. One couple who also belong and who are personal friends of ours have a daughter who is going to be married shortly.

They sent a blanket invitation to the club but none to us personally.

Don't you think that as personal friends we should have been sent a separate invitation addressed to our house?

A: As personal friends of the bride's parents, an invitation should have been sent to you at your house.

However, it is hardly serious enough to make a fuss over.

Q: A cousin's wife is in a sanatorium and won't be able to come to my wedding.

I'm not sure whether to include her name just the same on the invitation sent to the cousin. What is the proper thing to do?

A: Even though she will be unable to come to the wedding, it is nevertheless correct to include her name on the invitation.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Your weight depends on the balance between the energy you get from food and the energy you use in activity, U. S. Department of Agriculture nutritionists report.

When food gives you the same amount of calories as you use, your weight stays the same. When it gives you less than you use, you lose weight.

When it gives you more, you gain a pound. For every 3,500 calories you don't use in activity, you gain a pound. Just an extra 100 calories a day adds up to 10 pounds gain in a year.

Among Western Allies

Hard Feelings Will Cloud Celebration of D-Day Anniversary

PARIS (AP)—Western Allies will celebrate Saturday the 20th anniversary of the most formidable military landing in history—under a little cloud of hard feelings.

The chief of state of the host country, the first to be liberated by the troops who swarmed over the Normandy beaches on D-Day, 1944, will not attend.

Nor will President Charles de Gaulle send his premier, Georges Pompidou, although both plan participation in celebrations of the south coast landings by French troops Aug. 15 and the liberation Aug. 25 of Paris.

French officials point out that no other heads of state will attend the Normandy observances, but many Frenchmen express belief that de Gaulle should make a more generous effort to express true French gratitude.

Speculation arose that his attitude may be his way of pointing out that neither Britain nor the United States considered him a chief of state until more than a month after the landing. Nor did they tell him the invasion was imminent until two days before it took place.

It is well-known that his treatment by Sir Winston Churchill and President Franklin D. Roosevelt has stuck in his craw ever since.

In effect, de Gaulle has never attended a D-Day anniversary, although three times he saluted the French Tricolor in ceremonies near the spot where he personally came ashore on D-Day plus eight. Those celebrations were in 1945, 1946 and 1952.

Churchill has not attended a D-Day observance, French officials point out, and the highest ranking American to do the honors was Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, while commander of Allied forces in Europe.

Pompidou recently blamed the absence of top French participation on a press of other business.

The French delegation this year will be led by Jean Sainteny, minister of veterans affairs; Raymond Triboulet, minister of cooperation and chairman of the arrangements; and Gen. Charles Ailleret, chief of staff of the armed forces.

From the United States will come Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chief of the American D-Day troops and now President Johnson's representative; Cyrus R. Vance, deputy secretary of defense; Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who parachuted behind the beachhead; and many other general officers and diplomats.

Britain, Canada, Belgium, Holland and Norway also will send delegations of high officers and diplomats. They will begin the ceremonies Friday, in the Sword and Juno beachhead areas, moving on to Omaha Beach the next day.

Wreath layings, flag raisings, and monument dedications were planned for the first day for the British cemetery at Douvres-la-Delivrande; Colleville-Montgomery; Hermanville-sur-Mer; Lion-Sur-Mer, and Hermanville-Colleville, where a night military ceremony will take place on the sandy beach under spotlight.

On Saturday, the official party will first go to Bayeux, then Omaha Beach and the nearby American cemetery.

At Sainte Mere Eglise, where American paratroopers floated down in the dark, a museum will be dedicated. Other ceremonies were planned for Utah Beach and the Canadian cemetery.

Ford Rarin' to Go as Mustang Gallops Toward Sales Jackpot

By CHARLES C. CAIN
AP Business News Writer
DETROIT — Introduction of a new car: always is a costly and risky business. Among the latest to make the multimillion dollar gamble was Ford Motor Co., which brought out its Mustang on April 17. Reports from across the country indicate Ford hit the jackpot. As of May 31, some 29,000 Mustangs had been delivered and there was a heavy backlog of orders.

That was happy news at Ford, where some officials remembered only too well the misfortunes that befell the company in 1957 when it brought out another new car—the Edsel.

The Edsel never really got off the ground and, when Ford abandoned it two years later, the firm had sunk an estimated $50 million into the project.

'SOUND CONDITION' Allan Nevins said in his history of the Ford Co. "that Ford took the (Edsel) adventure in stride is proof of its sound financial condition."

The Mustang has proved—thus far—to be a far less costly and much more successful program. Estimates are that it cost Ford $40 million to develop and tool up for the Mustang. Another $10 million went into the advertising campaign which marked its debut. That made it a $50 million package.

Ford spent over two years in moving the Mustang from the drawing board to the sporty looking vehicle which has been the talk of the auto industry in recent weeks. Two models—hardtop and a convertible—are available now. A third, fastback model, will be added in the Fall.

One of the tests of a new car is the response it draws from people in the field. It matters not whether company officials, technicians or stylists like a new car—the buying public which puts its money on the line is the ultimate judge.

Ford, for instance, has received over 2,000 letters from U.S. car buyers—real or prospective—since the Mustang was introduced. In addition, it held meetings in 16 cities to ask Mustang buyers their reactions to the new car.

This close contact with the pulse of the buying public has become a standard operation in Detroit in recent years, but no one has followed it more closely than Ford with its Mustang.

Each letter, whether addressed to Henry Ford II or a subordinate, gets equal treatment and a prompt answer.

One letter came from a foreign embassy official in Washington who asked whether he could get a courtesy discount on a new car (he could not); another was from five college seniors suggesting Ford give each of them a Mustang as a graduation present and thus set a pattern for graduation gifts which fathers could give their offsprings. (Ford said no).

Auto companies, probably patched to the customer with more than any other industry, suggestions on how his particular question could be solved.

One letter from a happy Mustang owner in St. Louis said he had bought the Mustang as a second car for the family but had been using it himself. "My wife keeps asking to drive it, but I tell her it is going through a breaking-in period and she can not touch it until then... it's going to be a long breaking-in period," he wrote.

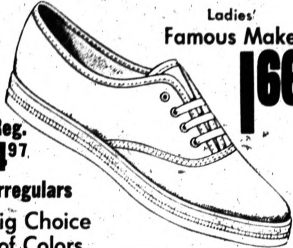

More than 74 out of every 1,000 children have some form of allergy.

Hunt Causes of Death for Mother, Son

LUDINGTON (AP) — Laboratory tests were being conducted today as health authorities sought to determine what caused the deaths of a pregnant woman and her infant son.

The bodies of Mrs. Brenda Horowski, 20, and her 18-month-old son, Gordon, were found in the family home Wednesday by her husband, Thomas.

Horowski also discovered that his sister-in-law, Sherin Lynn, 18, was ill at her home near Custer. Police said she may be suffering from food poisoning. Miss Horowski said she became ill after eating dinner Sunday.

Horowski said he found the bodies of his wife and son after returning from a two-day job search in Saginaw. Corner Benjamin Doll said laboratory tests were needed because autopsies failed to disclose the cause of death.

A RARE ITEM — These proud parents at the Philadelphia Zoo exhibit the latest addition to a select family. The animals, closely related to the American buffalo, are European bison. The animals once inhabited the forest of Europe but have been virtually extinct since World War I. Some 200 exist in zoos.

There were 15,782 business failures in 1962, a reduction of 8 per cent from 1961.

The number of malaria cases has been reduced from 350 million the last 15 years as the disease.

Rarity for Mays, Drops Fly

By The Associated Press

Willie Mays has dropped another fly ball for an error. Why 10 years ago he did the same thing.

San Francisco's great center fielder made the error Wednesday night, but it was harmless as the Giant blanked Pittsburgh 3-0.

Donn Clendenon was the recipient of Mays' rare generosity with two put in the seventh inning. Mays ran back for Clendenon's fly ball, turned around and waited, ready to eat up the ball with his famous basket catch. His teammates already had started leaving the field when the ball fell into his glove. They came back when the ball fell out.

The last time that happened was on Sept. 9, 1954, in the Polo Grounds against the Chicago Cubs. Ernie Banks was the batter.

A ground ball hit by Willie McCovey in the sixth and called foul by the umpires struck Mays, who was at third base after hitting a triple. Murtaugh contended Mays should have been called out under the rules governing a runner hit by a batted ball.

While Mays was being hit, Philadelphia was having trouble getting hits but still nipped Los Angeles 1-0 in 11 innings. In the other NL games, Milwaukee edged Cincinnati 3-2 and St. Louis defeated Chicago, 7-5. Houston at New York was postponed by rain.

Allowed to remain at third in the disputed sixth inning, Mays scored minutes later as Orlando Cepeda slammed his fifth home run. Cepeda later drove in Mays with a sacrifice fly.

Ron Herbel limited the Pirates to four hits in winning his third game in four decisions. Don Drysdale held the Phillies to three hits until Cookie Rojas opened the 11th with a double. Ron Ferrarini relieved Drysdale with one out, walked Johnny Callison purposely, then got a force at second as Rojas moved to third. Rojas scored when Jim Gilliam fumbled Tony Gonzalez' grounder and threw wild to first.

Jim Bunning struck out 11 Dodgers before leaving in the 10th for a pinch hitter.

Denny Lemaster won his seventh game against two defeats, stopping the Reds on six hits. He struck out 10. One of the hits was Vada Pinson's home run in the sixth. But homers by Lee Maye in the sixth and Denis Menke in the seventh halted the streak.

The Cardinals stopped the Cubs' four-game winning streak and held Billy Williams hitless. Williams' league-leading average dropped 10 points to .412. Ken Boyer cracked a three-run homer for St. Louis in the third, offsetting Ron Santo's three-run blast in the eighth.

ROAD WORK — America's top collegiate miler, Tom O'Hara of Loyola of Chicago, doesn't let the auto traffic in Los Angeles bother him as he runs between the hotel in Los Angeles and Southern Cal University field. He is on the coast for the Compton Relays.

Argentina 'Socks' Foo

Santa Claus Brings Gloom to Bookies

LONDON (AP) — Bookies counted the money they lost on Santa Claus' storming victory in the Epsom Derby and looked forward with dread to Friday's Oaks.

Many paid out hundreds of thousands of dollars after Santa Claus won Wednesday's Derby — the 1½ mile classic for 3-year-old colts.

It's the fillies' turns in the Oaks—and the bookies face another gigantic payoff to bettors who succeed in coupling the winners of the two races in doubles.

William Hill, one of Britain's leading bookmakers said "We have a client in Mauritius who stands to win $539,792 if La Baha wins the Oaks."

"He had a 3 pounds—$8.40—accumulator on four horses. Santa Claus was the third of the four."

Scobie Breasley, 50-year-old Australian jockey who rode Santa Claus to victory, explained that he knew he was going to win even before Tattenham Corner, when his horse was near the back of the field of 17.

Ugh.

This is an awful picture of a Volkswagen. It's just not us.
We don't go in much for trading bees or sales jamborees or assorted powwows.
Maybe it's because we don't quite understand the system.
We've never figured out why they run clearance sales on brand new cars.
If there are cars left over every year, why make so many in the first place?
And how come the price goes down, even though the cars are still brand new?
How does the poor guy who bought one last week feel about this week's prices?
How can a dealer keep enough parts on hand when they all keep changing?
How can a mechanic keep track of what he's doing?
It's all very confusing.
Either we're way behind the times. Or way ahead.

Four Prep Teams Play Tonight

No Clear-Cut Choice in Tourney

For the first time in three Pontiac High School Baseball Tournaments the semifinal round will not have a clear-cut favorite.

Royal Oak Kimball, Walled Lake, Waterford Kettering and Milford will enter the second round tonight with equal chances for the championship, generally.

Previously, Northville in 1962 and Kimball in 1963 entered the eight-team Pontiac Press-Parks and Recreation Department tournament as favorites based on their season performances.

Only Kettering now might be considered a darkhorse entry; and the Captains' could greatly enhance their chances by defeating Milford in the 8:30 p.m. tilt.

Defending champion Royal Oak Kimball probably rates a slight edge among the other three squads due to its outstanding battery of Kim Hillstrom and Dan Sherman.

Hillstrom, the right-hander fireballing pitcher, will be after his 31st high school career victory against only three losses. Sherman is rated among the top prep receivers in the county.

GOOD BALANCE

They'll have to overcome a well balanced Walled Lake outfit in the 6 p.m. opener at Jaycee Park. The Vikings have a strong defense and hitting attack to back up the solid one-two mound work of Don Rickard and John Thomas.

Right-hander Rickard tossed a two-hitter in blanking Pontiac Central, 5-0, in last Friday's tournament opener.

Kimball will be working to survive the fate that befell Northville, the 1963 tournament's returning titlist. The Mustangs dropped their semifinal round contest (on a finalizing rally by the Knights).

The Royal Oak entry has a problem similar to Milford. Both are basically one-pitcher teams; and the finals are planned for Friday night, weather permitting.

Also, no hurler can throw more than 14 innings in three days during the tournament.

Both Hillstrom and the Red-skies' Ed Sparkman are strong-armed moundsmen; but the respective coaches will be hoping for big leads tonight that will permit use of relief hurlers.

Kettering, like Walled Lake, has two dependable pitchers and could use either Bob Bogert or Rick Pankey and not suffer on the hill.

Milford could be the top hitting team among the four. The Redskins beat a strong pitcher in Pontiac Northern's Roger Hayward Saturday, 4-2, and figure to be difficult for most of the hurlers.

Tomorrow there will be a 6 p.m. consolation contest among tonight's two losers, and an 8:30 p.m. championship contest.

Tickets will be on sale at the Jaycee Park entrances both evenings. They are $1 per adult and 50 cents per student for each session.

Korea Unrest Another Threat to U.S. Prestige

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent

The United States has a big backlog of popular eastern in South Korea. This can be displaced by the current mounting unrest. Americans may find themselves with another throbbing headache in Asia.

What's going on in the Republic of Korea? Why are students so violent against President Chung Hee Park's government?

A slogan chalked on an abandoned truck in Seoul gets to the meat of the question. "We are hungry!" it said. "We cannot live on it!"

Rampant inflation and fiscal woe, sometimes by-products of massive U.S. aid, plague South Korea. If the trend is not checked, mounting political trouble will follow. Much blame eventually could be turned against the now popular Americans.

CRUEL INTERRUPTION

South Korea became a republic in 1948, but its development was cruelly interrupted from 1950 to 1953 by Communist invasion. Today South Korea, though a nation of only 27 million, supports the fifth largest army in the world because the Communist threat remains.

In April, 1960, an eight-day revolution sparked by students overthrew President Syngman Rhee. In July, 1960, free elections were held and for a year the country was relatively quiet.

In May, 1961, a bloodless coup overthrew the elected government and Gen. Chung Hee Park headed a military government. He was not popular with the students, who considered the coup a betrayal of their hopes.

Park took over from an irresolute government which had done little to check corruption or attack economic problems. A soldier turned politician, he abruptly instituted a currency reform to curb inflation, but it was an utter failure. Drought and storms caused bad crops and sent grain prices skyrocketing. Unemployment rose, too.

Park legitimized his rule last fall by being elected president, but there are lingering suspicions about the election.

Park, claiming to aim at South Korean self-sufficiency, may have tried to prove his point too quickly. Heavy budget deficits complicated the inflation.

To the students, all this has meant frustration. As one told me in Seoul not long ago, "the government educated us to be unemployable."

The students last March turned their anger on the government's negotiations with Tokyo to normalize relations with Japan. Koreans remember the

BITTER ELECTION

But there was much more to student anger than that. There was the bitterness over the elections. There were complaints that the United States concentrated so heavily on a military wall against the Communists in the North that it neglected to train the civilian side.

It would be difficult to sell communism to South Koreans, who have little reason to welcome it. But unquestionably there are North Korean agents busy in South Korea today, trying to take advantage of widespread discontent among the younger generation.

Snow accumulation on the heights around Mt. Olympus, Wash., reaches an astonishing total of 200 to 250 inches a year. (Unusually heavy falls are caused by the deflection of moisture-laden winds from the Pacific to the massive peaks.)

May Impose Martial Law to Halt Rioting Students

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Students staged antigovernment demonstrations in four Korean provincial cities today and President Chung Hee Park's cabinet threatened to place the entire country under martial law.

More than 4,000 students overran police lines in a rock-throwing riot in Kwangju, 150 miles south of Seoul. Police tried to scatter the students with tear gas, but they squatted in front of the provincial government building and shouted for Park's resignation and the lifting of martial law in Seoul.

Many students and policemen were reported injured. Less violent demonstrations broke out in Incheon, Pusan and Chunchon. More than 2,000 high school and college students were involved.

MARTIAL LAW

Heavy troop reinforcements kept Seoul quiet, enforcing martial law proclaimed by Park in the capital after 30,000 students and adults rioted Wednesday. More than 600 police and demonstrators were injured and 91 persons were arrested.

After an emergency cabinet meeting today, a cabinet spokesman said martial law would be extended to the rest of the country if the demonstrations continued.

Dust-covered trucks moved troops into the capital during the night. Troops with fixed bayonets patrolled major streets. Gen. Min Ki-shik, chief of staff of South Korea's 600,000-man army, took personal command of the city under the military decree.

PAPERS CENSORED

Military censors blotted out some stories and photos of the rioting in Seoul newspapers. Dispatches abroad were delayed for a time, but officials said the censorship applied only within the country.

Police arrested Lee Choon-keo, publisher of the newspaper Kyanghyang, at his home at dawn. Lee has criticized some of Park's policies.

Consider Two for Episcopal State Bishopric

NEGAUNEE (AP) — Candidates for Phoenix, Ariz., and Detroit will be considered for bishop of the Northern Michigan Episcopal Diocese in an election here June 13.

The Rev. G. Burton Hodgson, director of Christian Education for the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, and the Rev. George R. Selway, dean of Trinity Cathedral at Phoenix, have been nominated with the understanding that they will accept the post if elected.

Two other clergymen have turned down the post left vacant by the retirement of the Rt. Rev. Herman Page, 72, May 3. The Northern Michigan Diocese, with 14 clergy and 36 parishes, is one of the smallest Episcopal dioceses in the nation. The bishop's salary has been raised from $6,000 to $8,000 and a housing allowance added.

City, Area Voters Eye School Posts Monday

4 Seek Waterford School Posts

Two incumbents and two newcomers will vie for the two vacancies on the Waterford Township Board of Education in Monday's school election.

Candidates are incumbent President Robert E. Field, incumbent John D. Boardman, Mrs. Dora D. White and Dean A. Salley.

JOHN D. BOARDMAN

John D. Boardman, 57, of 4413 Forest is a four-year member of the school board, having outpolled seven opponents in the 1960 school election.

A right-of-way buyer for the Oakland County Road Commission, Boardman is married and has two daughters.

A life-long resident of Waterford Township, Boardman attended Pontiac Junior College.

Boardman was a member of the Hudson Covert Parent Teachers Association while his daughters attended that elementary school.

He was associated with the Waterford Township High School Parent Teacher Student Association when they were in high school.

In a statement regarding his candidacy, Boardman said:

"My chief concern is that our children obtain the finest education obtainable. I feel our administrative staff is doing excellent work in striving for this goal.

"I hope my past performance on the board will warrant support in Monday's election," he concluded.

ROBERT E. FIELD

Robert E. Field, 48, of 147 S. Aven is elected to a four-year term on the board of education in 1960 and has been president of the board the past two years.

Assistant chief engineer in charge of trucks at GMC Truck & Coach Division, Field served as treasurer of the school board during his second year in office.

Field, a General Motors Institute graduate, is married and the father of three children. A life-long resident of the Pontiac area and a 12-year resident of Waterford Township, Field joined GMC T and C as a draftsman after his graduation in 1937 from GM Institute.

Following is his statement.

"I am extremely interested in providing the best possible teaching and school facilities without frills for all Waterford Township children at the lowest possible tax dollar.

"I believe that we have one of the best school systems in the state and that continued improvement will keep on top.

"If reelected, I will continue in my efforts to interpret and anticipate the desires of Waterford Township taxpayers to achieve the above aims."

Married and the father of six children, Salley is president of Allstate Credit Bureau, Inc., of Ferndale. The family lives at 6229 Jameson.

He attended Waldorf College in Iowa.

Salley currently serves—on two citizen's committees—the Employment-bound Youth Committee and the School Use Committee. He was active in the Waterford Citizens Action Committee for Incorporation last year.

"With the unskilled and semiskilled jobs rapidly decreasing due to automation, I am deeply concerned about the 45 per cent of our students who leave school with no salable skill," Salley said.

He added that he believed it was the duty of the school board to encourage elected officials—both state and national—to eliminate wasteful spending and direct more funds to education.

"The state bears only 42 per cent of the education cost now compared to 58 per cent in the late 40's," Salley said.

Earl M. Anderson, 56, of 30152 Palmer, Madison Heights, is employed by the Michigan AFL-CIO.

He is a high school graduate with two years of college. He was elected to the Madison Heights Charter Commission in 1955 and served one year.

Anderson is married and the father of two children.

ANDERSON

ARSEN

A Waterford Township teacher and counselor, Donald H. Arsen, 39, of 6675 Wellesley, has been active in the Jaycees and other professional, civic and fraternal organizations.

A Central Michigan University graduate, Arsen has a master's degree from the University of Michigan.

He is married and has three children.

BERRY

Daniel T. Berry, 33, 5437 Sunnyside, Independence Township, is employed in the selling of plumbing and building materials. He was an unsuccessful candidate for Oakland County drain commissioner.

Active in Wayne County Eastern Seal campaigns, Berry is a member of AFL-CIO Plumber's Local 88.

He is married with four children. Berry was a 1963 community college candidate.

Currently chairman of the Bloomfield Township Planning Commission and a member of the township's zoning board of appeals, Frederick A. Chapman, 34, of 4726 Pickering, Bloomfield Township, has been active in community service for over five years.

He was twice elected township highway commissioner for two-year terms. He has a journalism degree from Wayne State University and a master's degree from the University of Detroit.

Chapman is married and the father of two children.

Dr. Paul L. Connolly, of 347 Karen, Bloomfield Hills, practices optometry. He is a graduate of Cranbrook School, and received his doctorate from

CONNOLLY COOLEY

Pennsylvania State College of Optometry.

He also attended Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio and the University of Zurich in Switzerland. He is a member of Kirk in the Hills Presbyterian Church, and the board of Marygrove College Library.

Married he is the father of two children.

Dr. Roy V. Cooley, 44, of 224 Asterwood, is a general practitioner. He was elected to the Pontiac City Commission in 1952 and served three terms.

He also served on the Oakland County Board of Supervisors from 1962 until April 1964. He belongs to several professional groups and the Neopolitan Club of Pontiac and Newman A.M.E. Church.

Married, he has one son, who is attending the University of Michigan.

A candidate in the 1963 election of the board of trustees, Roscher C. Eaves, 38, of 1406 Edgewood, Royal Oak, is employed as a salesman.

A member of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers, Eaves is a college graduate.

He has been in business 15 years.

Jay Eldred, 49, 132 Woodward, Rochester, is assistant principal of Rochester High School. He has held previous positions at Big Rapids, St. Joseph and Yale.

Foreign Papers Rip Barry's Coast Win

Most European newspapers reacted with dismay today to the victory of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in the California primary election.

In London, the Guardian described Goldwater as an "eighteenth-century individualist strayed by mistake into the wrong epoch, a sort of Rip Van Winkle who has been asleep since about 1776."

The Times of London, under the headline "Shack from California," said the thought that Goldwater had even the faintest chance of reaching the White House would be enough to shake faith in the maturity and stability of American politics.

Moscow radio said last night Goldwater's victory proves U.S. rightists "are trying to mount an open offensive."

The Finnish Socialist organ called Goldwater a "dangerous man," and said it is "ever more important that the Democratic party retain its power in the United States."

SLOW PROGRESS

The Swedish daily newspaper Hufvudstadsbladet said nomination of Goldwater "might slow the positive progress which since Eisenhower's presidency has dominated policy in the United States."

The Swedish liberal newspaper Dagens Nyheter said Goldwater's win was "a victory for the stupidity and the massive ignorance of the Republican voters."

The Independent newspaper Combat described Goldwater as "a personality dangerous to world peace."

The Frankfurt newspaper Allgemeine said many Goldwater followers "harbor ideas out of the 19th century . . . the senator has expressed himself irresponsibly in the field of foreign policy, arousing great doubt of his capacity for calm judgment."

In Copenhagen, the Conservative newspaper Berlingske Tidende described the California primary as "the election nobody won," adding that, while Goldwater has some kind of charm, "he is not a charming politician."

Sees Car Output of 12 Million by '70

DETROIT (AP) — A University of Michigan economist predicted Wednesday that the auto industry may turn out 12 million cars a year before 1970.

"This is not wide-eyed optimism," Paul McCracken told the Forum for Detroit Area Metropolitan Goals.

He said that if production keeps pace with the expected growth of the gross national product, 12 million new cars would be possible in a peak year. Production currently is running about 7 million units annually, he said.

An Icelandic saga relates how Leif Ericson, in about 1000, discovered a strange new land he called Vineland, or Vinland. Leif's Vinland has been variously located at many different places along the coast. Most scientists say it is in Cape Cod and Rhode Island, where wild grapes grow.

Shah of Iran, Empress Leave for Washington

TEHRAN (AP) — The Shah of Iran and Empress Farah left Tehran today for the United States.

The Shah's plane is due in Washington late this afternoon. He has a meeting scheduled with President Johnson at the White House tomorrow morning.

Agriculture, Pennsylvania's largest industry, provides all or part of the income of 43 percent of the state's population.

Picture of a man perfectly tuned in

In his own good time, any time in the day, almost anywhere, a man can enjoy his newspaper. He can read the headlines, make up his mind when to read further and when to skip on to the next item. He can read his favorite columnists, catch up on sports or whatever interests him, read the ads, agree with the editorials or not, and laugh at the comics or not. He can even find out when he wants to turn on TV. He can lay the paper aside... pick it up later and still get the whole story. Nothing waits on his personal convenience like a newspaper in his pocket. No wonder newspapers are the primary advertising medium. No wonder advertisers invest more of their dollars in newspapers than in all other major media combined.

Marching Band Will Graduate Long-Distance

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Seniors in the Choctawhatchee High School marching band will receive their diplomas almost 1,000 miles away from their graduation exercise — but won't miss a word of the commencement.

The 15 graduating band members are putting in a week-long stay at the Florida Pavilion of the New York World's Fair. They were concerned about missing the commencement Friday night.

A long-distance telephone line in the pavilion easily solved the problem. Band Director James Leonard will hand out the diplomas in New York when Principal H. A. Bruner reads off the pupils' names along with the rest of the class.

The first "dark horse" to receive a presidential nomination was James K. Polk, the nation's 11th president. His name was unmentioned in the first seven ballots at the Democratic convention of 1844 in Baltimore.

Romney Launches New State Indian Affairs Commission

By BOB VOGES
Associated Press Writer

LANSING (AP)—Big chief Gov. George W. Romney, although a nonsmoker, accepted a peace pipe from the friendly Indians.

Then the usually conservative Romney, wearing a beaded headress, stomped in a dance to the beat of drums in the executive office here Wednesday.

After the ceremonial dancing was over, Romney's new Commission on Indian Affairs seriously got to work and came up with some recommendations.

Romney told the Indians that he wanted those economically depressed "to know a much better life than you now know."

FIRST FUN

But the ceremonies that went on first were much more fun.

Romney apologized to Lemie Stevens, of the Chippewa tribe at Mount Pleasant, that he was a nonsmoker.

"I smoke pure air," he explained.

The governor said he would try the peace pipe out with the legislature for a year, then advised: "Next time bring a tomahawk, and maybe I'll try that."

The governor suggested that the tourist industry focus more attention on the Indian tradition in Michigan.

MORE PROMOTIONS

There are only a few Indians left who know how to make birch bark canoes, he commented. More promotion is needed for local Indian pageants, he said.

Romney advised, however, that his commission should not get into areas of legal conflict such as land settlements.

"That will have to be settled by lawyers and courts," he said. More than 50 Indians and their supporters crowded into the governor's office for the first meeting of the new commission. Many were in ceremonial dress.

HIGH OVATION

The chairman of the new commission, Herman Cameron, a Chippewa Indian from Brimley, received the highest ovation from the crowd.

Cameron, who formerly worked for the U.S. Department of Indian Affairs, said he had been on both sides of the fence as an Indian and a government man working for the Indians.

"Many Michigan Indians have moved into the stream of society and are part of your industry," he told Romney. "But the Indians in Michigan still supposedly under the jurisdiction of the Department of Indian Affairs receive no benefits.

"Our first concern," said the hawk-nosed, imperial looking man who attended in a conservative business suit, "should be to help the people who need it most. We should be concerned with their economic plight—and in some cases it is desperate."

SIOUX COMPLAINS

Among the Indians attending was Herbert Welch, of L'Anse-a-Sioux, who complained that Chippewas had eight members on the commission. The only representatives of other tribes were John Winchester of Belleville, a Potawatomi, and Robert Dominic, of Petoskey, from the Northern Michigan Ottawa Association, an Ottawa-Chippewa.

"Sioux and Chippewas used to be blood enemies," he said. "Now we are working together. Besides, I'm outnumbered."

Rep. Walter Nakkula, R-Gladwin, met with the commission in an afternoon, long meeting. Nakkula, chairman of a legislative committee on Indian Affairs, advised them the legislature wanted to work very closely with the group through out the summer to come up with some solid ideas for helping Michigan's Indians, particularly those living in poverty on reservations.

Michigan has four Indian reservations, at Mount Pleasant, near Brimley, at L'Anse and near Escanaba.

Preliminary recommendations from the first powwow included:

—Calling on the Federal Bureau of Indian Affairs to see how it might help Michigan's Indians.

—Asking the Michigan State University extension service if it can help train Indians in their native crafts.

—Querying the U.S. Area Redevelopment Administration, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and Department of Public Housing on what aid they might offer.

—Asking the state's colleges and universities what scholarships are available for Indians.

Saigon Police Nab Terrorists

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Saigon police nabbed four Communist terrorists today and said one admitted planting a grenade at a Saigon bar Feb. 1 that killed one American serviceman and seriously injured another.

That terrorist was Pham Van Tu, 36, police said. He and two others arrested today posed as taxi drivers.

Their arrest followed the apprehension of Senior Viet Cong Agent Nguyen Van Cu, 38, who was waiting for other agents at Gia Dinh village for a secret meeting.

Police said Van Cu's assignment was to enlist boys and girls into the underground movement.

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Anita Gillette, featured in "Mr. President" and several other Broadway musicals, gave birth to a 6-pound, 12-ounce boy, Christopher John.

Miss Gillette, 25, and her husband, Dr. Ronald Gillette, also have another son, Timothy, 3.

Learn Buttermilk's Good Qualities

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Because June is Dairy Month you're going to read a lot about dairy products on these pages. This week we'll discuss buttermilk.

As you know, buttermilk is a by-product of butter making. But today, buttermilk is made with a culture. And unless it is otherwise stated on the label, skim milk is the base. This keeps the calorie count of buttermilk down to 85 calories per 8-ounce glass.

But buttermilk is more than a low-calorie refreshing drink. It is a highly desirable ingredient of many recipes. It gives extra tenderness to the foods with which it is combined.

And it's so versatile.

It can be put into a noodle casserole.

Buttermilk Noodle Bake

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup finely chopped onion
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1/4 cup flour
2 1/2 teaspoons salt
Dash of pepper
1/2 cup catsup
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

1 can (4 oz.) mushroom bits and pieces
2 cups buttermilk
1 8-oz. package medium noodles

Melt butter in heavy skillet, add onion and cook until transparent. Do not brown. Add meat and cook until it has lost its color.

Remove from heat, blend in flour, salt and pepper. Add catsup, Worcestershire sauce, mushrooms with liquid and buttermilk. Cook until smoothly thickened, stirring constantly.

FLAKY BISCUITS

Cook noodles according to package directions. Drain and rinse with hot water. Combine noodles and meat mixture and pour into 2 1/2-quart casserole. Bake 45 to 60 minutes at 350 degrees or until thoroughly heated and lightly browned on top. Makes 6 servings.

Buttermilk makes wonderfully tender biscuits.

Buttermilk Biscuits

2 cups sifted flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 cup shortening
3/4 cup buttermilk

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and baking soda. Cut in shortening. Add buttermilk and blend lightly until well mixed. Knead gently 1/2 minute on a floured board, roll until 1/4-inch thick and cut with a floured biscuit cutter.

Bake on a cookie sheet 15 to 18 minutes at 425 degrees. Makes 1 1/2 dozen biscuits.

Buttermilk makes tempting desserts.

Florida Orange Sherbet

1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup

2 cups buttermilk
1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange undiluted
1/4 cup coarsely chopped candied ginger*

Beat eggs in large bowl. Slowly beat in sugar, then corn syrup. Mix in buttermilk and orange juice concentrate. Pour into metal pan; place in freezer. Freeze until almost firm, about 1 hour.

Turn into large mixer bowl; break up into small pieces and beat smooth. Add ginger. Return to freezer pan or serving dishes and freeze until firm about 3 hours. Yield: 1 quart.

*If desired, candied ginger may be omitted and 1/4 teaspoon to 1/2 teaspoon powdered ginger may be substituted. Add powdered ginger with sugar.

Avocado Dressing Full of Olives

Next time you are entertaining guests, dress up crisp lettuce or sliced tomatoes with "Olive-cado Dressing." It's a flavorful and eye-catching made-in-moments mixture of salad dressing, ripe olive wedges, mashed avocado and seasonings.

Olive-cado Dressing

1 avocado
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup salad dressing
Dash Tabasco
1/2 teaspoon salt
Cut olives into wedges. Mash avocado with fork; combine with all remaining ingredients except olives. Stir in olives. Serve on lettuce or tomato slices. Store tightly covered in refrigerator.

Fancy Toast for Salads

Try this easy, flavorful hot bread accompaniment for a chicken salad luncheon.

Cream together 1/4 cup soft butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon grated orange peel and 2 teaspoons celery seed. Toast 8 slices of enriched white bread on one side only under the broiler.

Spread the untoasted side with the butter mixture. Return to the broiler to toast until lightly browned. Cut into strips or triangles for serving.

Cucumber Spread

Grate a pared cucumber and add it to cream cheese for a delicious sandwich spread. You can season the mixture with plain or seasoned salt.

Broil Cheese Top of Fish Sandwich

Broiled Shrimp Sandwich

6 slices buttered toast
1 1/2 cups chopped, cooked shrimp
1/4 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped cucumber
1 pickle
Mayonnaise
Salt to taste
6 large slices American cheese

Combine shrimp, celery, pickle, and enough mayonnaise to bind the ingredients together. Add salt to taste. Spread about one-third cup of salad mixture on each slice of toast, top with a slice of cheese, place under moderate broiler heat. Broil until cheese is beginning to melt and brown lightly. Serve at once.

EAST-WEST SHERBET

Honey Peach Topping Good on French Toast

When the alarm sounds a call to rise and shine, working wives can't waste a minute's time. Breakfast, unfortunately, has to be one of the speediest of meals, prepared in an instant, and after the meal is through, cleared away as quickly as possible.

One method of serving breakfast that makes service easy for working wives is a breakfast buffet arrangement on the kitchen counter, with equipment set in place. Keep it ready for early risers to prepare, serve and clear away their own breakfasts.

A carafe on a warming stand keeps a potful of coffee, steeped and ready for self-service.

Small appliances, such as an electric skillet in an easily accessible spot can be operated by most members of the family.

Paper service conveniently set out on the counter can eliminate the need to wash dishes after the meal, and used paper juice cups, cereal bowls, paper plates and coffee cups can go into the waste basket.

In addition to the virtues of easy service, time-saving combinations of fruit and main dish items have great appeal. French toast served with a topping of canned cling peach slices and honey is a fine sample, having nutritive benefits, as well as taste appeal.

The egg and milk mixture for coating bread to make toast can be prepared ahead and kept in a covered dish in the refrigerator, then used as needed for French toast.

The peaches and honey make a perfect topping, and no more than a beverage is needed to make a quick and happy ending for the meal.

French Toast With Honey Peaches

1 egg, slightly beaten
1/2 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
6 slices bread

Combine slightly beaten egg with milk and salt. Dip each slice of bread in egg-milk mixture and saute in butter or other fat until browned, turning to brown on both sides. Drain on absorbent paper. Top with Honey Peaches.

Drain 1 can (No. 2 1/2) sliced peaches and combine with 1/4 cup honey and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Chill until ready to serve.

Spice Bread Is Casserole Type

Nutmeg and cinnamon spice this casserole bread. Made by the quick 'n' easy batter method, its flavor will be twice as good if you use new spices - freshly grated at the last minute.

Creole Casserole Bread

1 cup milk
3 tablespoons dark brown sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons margarine
1 cup warm water (105-115 degrees)
2 packages or cakes yeast, active dry or compressed
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
4 cups unsifted flour

Scald milk; stir in sugar, salt, and margarine. Cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture, cinnamon, nutmeg and flour. Stir until well blended, about 2 minutes. Cover.

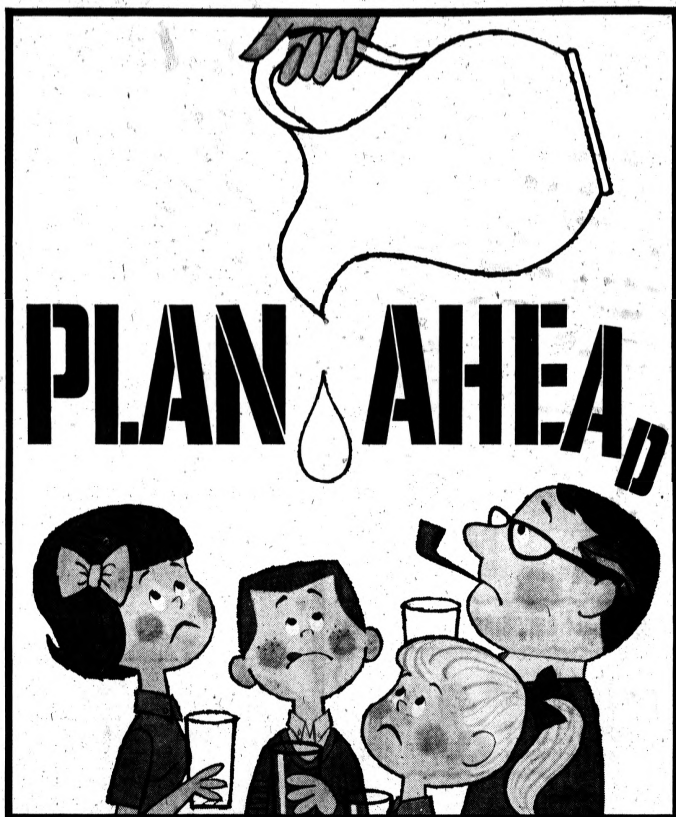

Let rise in warm place, free from draft, until more than doubled in bulk, about one hour.

Stir batter down. Beat vigorously, about 1/2 minute. Turn into greased 1 1/2 quart casserole. Bake immediately, uncovered, in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for about 1 hour, or until done. Makes 1 loaf.

Milk Won't Curdle if Treated Right

When you cook with milk, U.S. Department of Agriculture home economists suggest, remember that when heated with certain foods, milk may curdle. Asparagus, snap beans, peas, carrots and other foods that contain acids, tannins or salt may do this.

To help prevent curdling, thicken the milk first, then add other ingredients gradually and avoid overheating.

With Shrimp, Mushrooms

Artichokes Center Cold Plate

Many restaurants in addition to hot main courses, offer a variety of cold plates — fruit, cold cuts, sea food, salads.

This cold plate is a combination of an interesting vegetable, the California artichoke, with shrimp, which is the most popular sea food, canned, broiled-in-butter mushrooms, and a savory dip, which has been popular as a dip for appetizers. Here it is used as a flavorful dip for the artichoke leaves, the shrimp, and the mushrooms.

California Artichoke Cold Plate
6 medium-sized artichokes
1 pound medium-sized frozen shrimp
1 can (6-oz.) broiled mushroom crowns
1 pint sour cream
1 can (1½-oz.) onion soup mix
3 tablespoons sweet pickle relish

Wash artichokes; then, with scissors, snip off top inch of center leaves. Place artichokes upside down on table and press down firmly. Then pull back center leaves and remove the choke (fuzzy portion) in center with a sharp knife and metal spoon.

Place artichokes in 1-inch boiling water; add 3 tablespoons vinegar. Cover tightly and cook 20-40 minutes (depending on size of artichoke), or until stems can be pierced easily with a fork. Turn artichokes upside down to drain immediately.

Cook shrimp according to package directions and chill thoroughly in the refrigerator. Chill can of mushrooms in the refrigerator and open when ready to use.

Blend together the sour cream, onion soup mix, and pickle relish, and chill thoroughly.

Place cold artichoke on large plate. Arrange 5 or 6 shrimp in center of the artichoke. Place several broiled mushroom crowns on plate and an individual custard cup or ramekin filled with ½ cup of sour cream dip.

Serve with cocktail picks for dipping the shrimp and mushrooms into sour cream dip. Pull out artichoke leaves and dip. Makes 6 servings.

Tomato Lettuce Salad Gets Hearty Touch

Core 1 head iceberg lettuce; rinse in cold water; drain and tear into bite-sized pieces. Core, quarter and add 4 tomatoes. Add ¼ pound Muenster or Swiss cheese, cut in julienne strips, 2 frankfurters, sliced; 1 cucumber, sliced; ¼ cup sliced radishes; and 2 or 3 green onions. Chopped.

Blend 1 or 2 tablespoons chili sauce with ½ cup bottled French dressing and pour over salad. Toss and serve to 6.

When you are conceiving champagne punch for that summer bridal party, pour in the champagne gently so you have a bubbly brew.

Ice Cream Keeps Best Stored at Zero Degrees

Ice cream is such a popular food with every member of the family that "keeping it" may be a supply rather than a storage problem in most households.

However, there are some tips regarding temperature which are well worth knowing. For example, ice cream should be stored at 0 degrees or colder. Ice cream dips best at 12 degrees.

After part of the ice cream is used, aluminum foil may be placed next to the ice cream surface to prevent dehydration. The remainder of the ice cream should be used within 4 days.

Storage of unopened half gallon cartons should be limited to 30 days. The pints should be used within 20 days. For longer storage the ice cream cartons may be placed in tightly closed plastic bags and kept at 0 degrees up to 90 days.

Corn Meal Mush Goes Elegant

Corn meal casserole is a fine partner for poultry.

Parmesan Polenta

1 cup yellow corn meal
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup cold and 3 cups boiling water

½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon butter

In a heavy medium saucepan, stir together the corn meal, salt and 1 cup cold water. Stir in the 3 cups boiling water.

Cook and stir over low-heat until thickened. Cover and cook, stirring often, until very thick — about 20 minutes.

Turn into a buttered 8 by 8 by 2 inch heatproof glass or other baking dish; cool, cover and chill — overnight if you like.

Sprinkle with Parmesan; dot with butter; bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven about 20 minutes. Serve at once in baking dish. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Failure of Dial System Nets Woman 197 Calls

SHELDON, Iowa (AP)—Within a half hour Wednesday night, Mrs. L. D. Fogarty got 37 telephone calls, including long distance calls from people she did not know.

Mrs. Fogarty complained. The telephone company said trouble in the dial system was being traced. But, said Mrs. Fogarty, she got 100 more local calls before she took the receiver off the hook and went to bed.

Modern stamps came into use in 1840 when Great Britain started using small adhesive labels to seal letters.

Cargo on Seaway Sets Monthly High

OTTAWA (AP)—Cargo tonnage shipped through the St. Lawrence Seaway in May reached 5,175,000 tons, an all-time record for any month and 32 per cent above the tonnage for the same month last year, president R. J. Rankin of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority announced Wednesday.

Both upbound and downbound cargoes on the Montreal-Lake Ontario section showed a heavy increase in bulk shipments of 27 and 36 per cent, respectively. Upbound traffic increased to 2,330,000 tons from 1,830,000 in May, 1963, while downbound cargoes totaled 2,845,000 tons against 2,065,000 a year earlier.

Swedish scientist Axel Fredrick Cronstedt, discovered the element nickel in 1751. But it was not produced on an industrial scale until 1824.

Fine Service for Violators

LONG BEACH, N.Y. (AP)—A college teacher is offering—for a $3 fee—to go to court and pay traffic fines for violators unwilling to take the time to do it themselves.

Guy Corriero, 28, an art instructor at the Long Island Agricultural and Technical Institute, says he has placed about 3,500 cards advertising his services on automobile windshields in Nassau County in the past month.

Name Temporary Exec

BAY CITY (AP)—Donald J. Carlyon, 39, business manager at Delta College, has been named temporary administrator to replace Dr. Samuel D. Marble, the college announced Wednesday. Dr. Marble recently was named president of the new Saginaw Valley College.

Robert Taylor, Barbara Stanwyck Star

New Film Pairs Couple Divorced in '51

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

THOMAS

Nearby Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor were seated next to each other, engaged in friendly conversation with director William Castle.

"How old were you when you made 'Camille'—30?" Castle inquired of Taylor.

"No, I was 25," the actor replied.

LAUGHED HEARTILY

"I was the one who was 30," said Stanwyck, and all laughed heartily.

That is the tone of things on the set where Bob and Barbara are making their third film together, the first since their 1951 divorce. She has remained single, he married German actress Ursula Thiess.

Their previous costarings were "His Brother's Wife" and "This Is My Affair," both before their 1939 marriage. Their reunion has caused a considerable stir in Hollywood, which is not easily stirred. Both refuse to recognize the fuss.

"A job is a job," reasoned Miss Stanwyck, ever the pro.

Both rose immediately when the buzzer sounded notice that the camera crew was ready. They hurried to the set and took their positions in a chapel scene.

The scene called for Miss Stanwyck, newly widowed, to express concern to Taylor, the family lawyer, over dreams that seemed close to reality. The rehearsal was letter-perfect, but she wasn't satisfied.

HER COMPLAINTS

"It's too pat," she complained to Castle. "I played it very bad. As a matter of fact, it stunk."

She rehearsed it once more, finally striking the spark of spontaneity she was seeking.

The makeup crew moved in for final touches on the famous pair. Miss Stanwyck's silver hair was coaxed into place. Taylor ran a comb through his locks, still widow's-peaked and luxuriant. The players hit their marks and the scene began.

"Cut—print it!" announced Castle when it was over. He sighed to a bystander. "This is how movies should be made."

The one-take stars sat down for another breather while the crew lit the scene for their closeups.

"I like to work this way," remarked Taylor. "When you today of the waste on some movies—it's incredible."

After some more talk, the buzzer sounded. Both Taylor and Miss Stanwyck were on their feet immediately. Off they went to the set like a pair of fire horses.

'TOGETHER' AGAIN — On the set of the movie, "The Night Walker," actress Barbara Stanwyck and actor Robert Taylor rehearse a scene. The pair was divorced in 1951, and the film is their third together, first since the divorce.

Strike Threat on Broadway

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway's musicals and plays were under an actors' strike threat today, said Mayor Robert F. Wagner won a partial agreement to submit the contract dispute to fact-finders.

Four years ago, when the current contract was negotiated, Broadway was blacked out for two weeks before a settlement was reached.

Representatives of the League of New York Theaters and the AFL-CIO Actors Equity Association met with Wagner and in separate caucuses from midnight to 5 a.m. today.

ACCEPT PROPOSAL

The league accepted his fact-finding proposal, which would put off today's 5 p.m. strike deadline for two weeks. But the union representatives said they wanted to consult with their governing body before making a decision.

An actors' strike would close 23 Broadway shows, including "Funny Girl," with Barbara Streisand, "Hello, Dolly!" with Carol Channing, "Oliver!" and other hits plus the Lincoln Center Repertory Theater and the New York State Theater, where Britain's Royal Shakespeare Company is appearing.

NOT REVIVALS

It would not affect the City Center's revival of "My Fair Lady," the "Folies Bergere" on Broadway, or any off-Broadway productions.

The union seeks a wage increase of $15 spread over a four-year agreement. Present weekly minimums are $117.50. The producers' offer was reported to be a $5 increase over the four years.

The four-year contract expired last Sunday midnight, but Wagner won an extension to 5 p.m. today.

Cops Guard The Burtons as Crowds Steal a Look

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Crowds, crowds . . . crowds! . . . A couple of thousand people jostle each other off the sidewalks on W. 46th St. each night for a look at Richard Burton and Liz Taylor.

and Liz and Richard are using up about 20 cops a night for their protection.

"With a police shortage . . . with rapes and holdups and murders . . . couldn't Liz announce she's not going to the theater any more . . . and free some of the cops?" I'm asked.

"Wouldn't matter," says an expert. "Many in the crowd are women there to see Burton, now as big a celebrity as Liz."

Burton indeed is mentioned in a flock of absurd new rumors nightly. Last is that Lauren Bacall slapped him at Danny's Hideaway.

"What!" howled Lauren Bacall when I asked her about it. "That's the silliest thing I ever heard. We've been friends for 15 years, and still are. I'm not the type that-slaps. I might get slapped back."

Mrs. Richard Nixon had a big kick the other day. She went "wholesaling" (buying dresses wholesale) . . . Understand she wishes her husband wouldn't stick his neck out to have it chopped off by the Demos again.

Allan Sherman's new song title: "Hello Young Lovers, You're Under Arrest" . . . Also the Harold Stassen Song: "It Seems to Me I've Stood and Talked Like This Before" . . . Bobby Rydell came within 14 people of equaling Frank Sinatra's single show crowd record at the Copacabana . . . Eartha Kitt's been terribly worried about Judy Garland. "Now's the time she needs a friend," agonizes Eartha . . . Long John Nebel, the WOR oracle moving over to NBC, uses a pseudonym in his private life to duck the crackpots.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Hotelier Neal Lang was at the chic Little Club, and the socialite Frank Rand Jr. were at the elegant Voisin—all listen to the marathon Mets game on transistor radios . . . Gary Moore's final TV show, already taped, will include his touching farewell speech—made in his empty dressing room because he thought someone might get weepy.

Waiting in line to see "Bridge on the River Kwai" at a Broadway theater: Sam Spiegel, who made it seven years ago . . . Joan Sutherland's scheduled to open the new Metropolitan Opera House at Lincoln Center . . . Christine Paoletti, the bar-theatrical contessa, makes her acting debut on the "Mr. Broadway" TV program, portraying a socialite.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The only thing to do with good advice is to pass it on. It is never of any use to oneself." . . . EARL'S PEARLS: This is the time of year when it's easier to get a doctor than an air conditioner repairman . . . The FBI finally found one of its Most Wanted Men, reports Bob Orben. He hadn't been hiding out—he'd been waiting in line at the Fair's General Motors exhibit. — That's earl, brother.

Hospital Says Ringo Better

LONDON (AP) — Hospital officials said today Ringo Starr, the musical Beatle with tonsillitis, was "a little better."

"He is managing to be quite cheerful," a spokesman said.

Starr, the Beatles' drummer, was taken ill yesterday, his mop-haired group left for a Copenhagen appearance today with Jimmy Nicol, 24, as the substitute drummer.

Ringo, the Beatle who rarely sings, has tonsillitis and pharyngitis—inflammation of the tonsils and throat. He was taken to University College Hospital after he collapsed at a photographic session.

A hospital bulletin said, "Ringo had a comfortable night and is improving. His condition is not serious and he should be discharged in a few days."

MISSUS TOUR

The 23-year-old drummer will miss a three-day tour of Denmark and The Netherlands. His replacement, Nicol, 24, is a "session man"—a musician who stands in at rehearsals.

Next week, the Beatles are scheduled to start their first tour of Australia.

British Arrest Yanks, Cubans

Caught in Bahamas With Arms and Boat

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Identity of six Cubans arrested along with two American photographers by British authorities who seized their boat and arms remained a mystery today.

Police Commissioner Nigel Morris said the eight would be arraigned on illegal entry charges.

Runners flew from Nassau to New York that anti-Castro leader Manuel Ray, whose recent whereabouts have been a mystery, was one of those held. But Andrew St. George of New York, free lance news photographer, one of those held, told newsmen Ray was not among them.

The other American held, was identified as Mirta Barras.

SEA CHASE

Five of the group, authorities said, were arrested aboard a 30-foot boat after a 14-mile chase from Anguilla Bay. The other three, they said, were taken on land on that Bahamas island, 30 miles north of Cuba.

An officer aboard the HMS Decoy, which brought the prisoners to Nassau, said authorities seized 1,000 rounds of ammunition and much photographic material from the party.

PETER WAS HERE — British actor Peter Sellers, accompanied by his wife, actress Britt Ekland, puts his handprint in the concrete at Grauman's Chinese Theater in Hollywood yesterday. Recently hospitalized for a month after a heart attack, Sellers plans to return to London this weekend.

Armetieres Discovery

Grave of Mademoiselle?

LILLE, France (AP)—A group of British Tommies of 1914 have found the grave of the woman they believe was the original "Mademoiselle of Armentieres." They plan to raise a monument in her honor.

Coming on a pilgrimage in the 50th anniversary year of the outbreak of World War I battles along the French-Belgian border, the delegation looked the grave in the Armentieres cemetery.

The veterans told newsmen the woman, Marie Leconq, was an independent and proper barmaid in a small cafe when the British Expeditionary Force arrived. An officer who became too familiar got a resounding slap.

The officer was Harry Carlton, who later wrote the famous song that began "Mademoiselle From Armentieres, Parlez-vous?"

The veterans said the story was found in Carlton's personal papers.

Miss Leconq died in 1945 at the age of 55. She was said to have received a British pension for life for having worked as a contact agent.

Plane Crash Kills 2 Men

LANSING (AP)—Two Lansing area men were killed Wednesday when their light plane nosed over and crashed in a field near DeWitt, about eight miles north of here.

Killed were Harold Dobrick, 44, of DeWitt, owner and pilot of the single engine Taylorcraft, and Lawrence Hoornstra, 37, of East Lansing. Both were employed by the Oldsmobile Division of the General Motors Corp.

Dobrick lived a short distance from the scene of the crash. State police quoted witnesses as saying the plane was flying at about 200 feet when it nosed over.

The Civil Aeronautics Board, the Michigan Department of Aeronautics and state police will investigate to determine the cause of the crash.

The United States purchased the Virgin Islands from Denmark.

'Barry's Winner—Now'

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says present indications are that Sen. Barry Goldwater will win the Republican presidential nomination on the first or second ballot at the national convention—but "I'm staying right in this to the end."

There's a long time between now and the convention in San Francisco and it's hard to tell what is going to happen," he said.

At a new conference yesterday, Rockefeller discussed his loss of 86 delegates to Goldwater in Tuesday's California primary and looked ahead to the Republican National Convention opening July 13.

In addition to declaring he will continue his campaign for the Republican nomination, Rockefeller reiterated that the GOP convention must adopt a "forward-looking" platform. He said he intends to fight for such a platform.

Rockefeller, in campaigning against the conservative senator from Arizona, has said this year's Republican platform should be similar to the liberal platforms of 1956 and 1960.

BARRY SUPPORT

He said at the news conference that he thinks every Republican would support Goldwater if he ran on a "forward-looking" platform.

public opinion will bring Goldwater into "the mainstream of American thinking," and added: "The senator said last night he was in the mainstream of American thought, and all I can say is that we've got a menacing stream. There are hazards in that river."

Rockefeller said he believes the Republican platform should be drafted first, and a candidate then selected to run on it.

Asked if he believes Goldwater would run on the kind of platform he has in mind, Rockefeller said: "He will have to determine where he stands."

The senators' "meandering mainstream might get into the main channel," said Rockefeller.

Scranton Says Any VP Race Rests on 'If'

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton said today he would reject any offer to run for the vice presidency made by a Republican presidential candidate.

He repeated that he would not agree to run for either the presidency or vice presidency unless there was a "sincere and honest draft."

He said he would consider an endorsement from the convention floor if such a draft is not dictated by the party candidate or "manipulated" by party leaders.

LBJ WELCOME

All signs indicate that Johnson would welcome Goldwater as his opponent.

The President, an experienced performer on the stump might even be tempted into a television debate with Goldwater, who has been accused by critics in his own party of firing carelessly from the hip in some statements on major issues.

Because of the limitations on what a president can say publicly, Johnson has not indicated if he will debate his opponent on TV.

But Johnson has shown a yen for the kind of crowd hopping and individual handshaking that Goldwater gives every sign of detesting.

The fate of the proposed Oakland County Community College will be in the hands of the voters Monday for the second time in two years.

Last year, voters approved establishment of the college, elected a six-member board of trustees, but they rejected a one-mill tax levy to finance the institution.

Consequently, the whole issue failed.

A similar "all or nothing" three-part package is presented this time. If one proposal is defeated, the entire college question fails.

GMTC Sales Set May High

Second Month in Row for Record Deliveries

GMC Truck & Coach Division announced today that the sale of 9,429 units in May set a record for that month.

Caivin J. Werner, general manager, said it was the second month in a row that domestic retail deliveries of trucks and buses have set a record monthly high.

The April and May selling rates, he said, were the highest since 1951, with 377 trucks and buses being sold each day.

May deliveries were 9.5 per cent ahead of May 1963.

Pontiac and Tempest sales of 322,223 during the first five months were a 22 per cent increase over the same period in 1963, when 263,391 cars were sold.

DIVISION TOTALS

May sales for the division totaled 69,652, down about 200 units from the same month a year ago.

E. M. Estes, Pontiac general manager, said, however, that sales of 22,720 cars from May 21-31 surpassed the previous record for the 10 day period in May 1963.

U. S. automakers sold a record-breaking 739,083 new cars last month.

It was the second 700,000-plus month in a row and marked only the seventh time in industry history that the figure was attained.

CHEVY HIGHS

Chevrolet reported it sold 234,027 cars last month for an all-time high for any month and also chalked up its biggest first five months in history—996,615 units.

Red Party Split Seen by Russia's Pravda

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda indicated today that the Kremlin may be thinking of formally severing ties between the Communist parties of the Soviet Union and China.

"The threat of a split is a reality which the world Communist movement must reckon with," said an article in the party newspaper.

"Marxist-Leninists do not want a split, but unity cannot be attained through concessions on matters of principle, nor does it come by itself."

It was one of the strongest Soviet statements yet on the Moscow-Peking feud. But Western diplomats in Moscow do not believe a break in party relations would mean a break in relations between the Soviet and Chinese governments.

The diplomats believe the Soviets want to keep some lines of communication open.

The article said a split between the Soviet and Chinese parties would "seriously weaken the struggle of the world Communist movement against imperialism."

The article urged convocation of a world Communist meeting and said the "majority of the Communist parties in all regions of the world is going on record for its early convocation."

G. V. Larsen, chief of the homicide squad, said the chauffeur fired at least five revolver shots at Agade and that at least two bullets hit him—one in the shoulder and one in the abdomen. The 41-year-old diplomat was rushed to the Seraphim hospital.

The incident took place in Agade's second-floor office.

Federal Funds Spur Work on Rochester Unit

Planning to Proceed 'Rapidly as Possible' After Announcement

ROCHESTER — The construction of the proposed 311-bed Rochester Unit of Crittenton General Hospital received added impetus today with formal approval of an $800,000 federal grant.

Sensors Patrick McNamara and Philip A. Hart officially notified the trustees of the parent institution in Detroit yesterday that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has authorized the grant under the Hill-Burton program.

The Hill-Burton program provides federal funds for public and nonprofit agencies for construction of health facilities.

A. Riley Allen, hospital administrator, said the approval of the grant will enable planning to proceed "as rapidly as possible" on the proposed medical facility.

It will be built on a 31-acre site on the south side of Walton, just east of Livernois.

PROPERTY GIFT

The property was a gift of Howard L. McGregor Jr., local industrialist who is a member of the hospital's board of trustees.

A public fund drive conducted in 1961 resulted in gifts of over $1.1 million towards construction of the proposed hospital.

It is anticipated that the balance of the financing of the $4-million facility will be provided through additional gifts and by a mortgage loan of approximately one-third the cost.

In February, hospital officials were promised "not less than $800,000" from the Hill-Burton Fund. The definite figure was confirmed yesterday.

LBJ Quiet on Stepup in Asian Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson kept tight secrecy wraps today on what—if any—new moves he is planning to make to step up the fight against Communist forces in Southeast Asia.

A White House statement issued yesterday gave some indication, however, that Johnson and his advisers have decided to soft pedal talk of drastic action such as enlarging the war in Viet Nam, at least for the time being.

Johnson received a report from Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara on the results of two days of intensive policy review which they conducted at a conference in Hawaii earlier this week.

Several days ago officials had indicated that the conference would very likely result in presidential decisions to deal with what then appeared to be a serious crisis in Southeast Asia due to Communist advances primarily in Laos.

Voters Decide Monday Community College Issue Explored

rollment of community colleges is expected to reach nearly 71,000. This would be almost double the enrollments of all community colleges now in operation, and in just five years.

One of the foremost advocates of a county community college, say its proponents, is that it is locally controlled. Curriculum is designed to meet local needs, both the needs of students and the rest of the community, they say.

And what courses would the new school offer? Who would take them?

Of course, like most specifics concerning the community college, final plans will be drawn up by the board of trustees.

However, recent studies have concluded that a community college with strong emphasis on technical-vocational training was an urgent need in Oakland County.

'-itis' Ending Gets Widespread Misuse

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

In a sensational murder trial many years ago, the attorney for the defense got a lot of publicity for himself and maybe some sympathy for his clients by ascribing their criminality to "Americanitis," a peculiar degeneration due to the stress and strain of modern life.

Like the "brain fever" of heroines in mid-Victorian novels, "Americanitis" was a silly notion, and besides there were no "science writers" to expatiate on it.

The first "-itis" (the ending means inflammation) to achieve wide popularity was appendicitis. In the early years of the century, appendicitis was quite fashionable — at one time a group of American surgeons advocated appendectomy (removal of the appendix) in childhood as a prophylactic measure against the occurrence of appendicitis in youth or early adult life!

To Auntie Binnell of Chapel street, it was "appendiceetis." When Chappy West, a dapper young man, had it, the attending physician was Dr. A. J. Behan—the first in western New York to treat appendicitis surgically. When Auntie Binnell heard about it, she was fit to be tied. "That butcher!" she began.

GRIEVOUS MISUSE

The most grievous misuse of the "-itis" ending, I think, is arthritis instead of rheumatiz or rheumatism. Arthritis means joint inflammation, and it is properly applied to the acute, painful inflammation of a joint or joints which occurs as a complication of streptococcic septicemia, staphylococcic septicemia (acute blood poisoning), typhoid fever, pneumonia, tuberculosis, scarlet fever, brucellosis or gonorrhea.

Real arthritis occurs usually in youths or young adults.

Rheumatiz, on the other hand, is the joint disability which comes on insidiously in persons past middle age and goes from bad to worse month after month and year after year if the victim is content to drift along under the pretense that the trouble is "arthritis."

From the content of the voluminous newspaper copy, released by the Arthritis and Rheumatism foundation, one might imagine nobody who is anybody has the rheumatism any more. The quaint term "rheumatism" is kept in the title in case some unsophisticated victim of degeneration of joint tissues happens to have a lot of mazuma.

But the foundation cunningly avoids telling the public the nature and cause of "arthritis."

It was not long after Dr. Osler's departure that the "clinic" racketeers and trick specialists discovered the magic in the new term "neuritis."

A good many persons with neuralgia thought it was a new discovery, and that the doctors disease and that the doctors who called neuralgia "neuritis"

probably had a remedy for it, although it was before the merchants of medicine conceived wonder drugs and miracle medicines.

Real nerve inflammation (neuritis) happens, of course, but it is rare in comparison with nerve ache or pain (neuralgia). As long as the trick specialists and "clinic" racketeers do not call every neuralgia "neuritis," this little vanity does no great harm but merely helps the charlatans to exploit patients with language the poor souls do not quite understand but haven't the courage to question.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Many Problems Still Lie Ahead

Bad-Luck Savannah Called Trail-Blazer Ship

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "I don't care if the thing sinks in the middle of the Atlantic," declared the Maritime Administration official.

"She has done her job by opening the door to progress for the American Merchant Marine."

Many problems lie ahead for the sleek, white, 22,000-ton vessel as she clears Sandy Hook in New York Harbor on her maiden transatlantic voyage June 8.

But the jam-ridden N.S. (Nuclear Ship) Savannah already may well have provided a vital shot in the arm for America's decaying merchant marine industry.

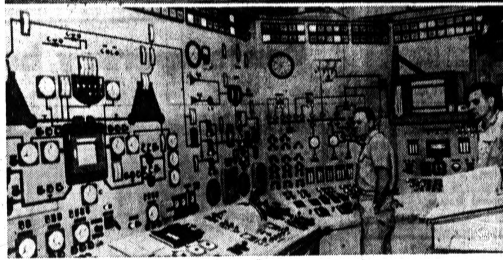

A commercial nuclear scientist agrees: "If the Savannah weren't on the seas today, the obstacles to fitting cargo ships with nuclear power would be so great that no one would ever tackle the problem."

POINT THE WAY

Although the Savannah—cost, $82 million—will never turn a profit herself, enthusiasts hope she will point the way to a commercially feasible nuclear-powered merchant marine.

The American Merchant Marine currently is in need of revitalization. Ominous warnings have been sounded by such men as Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

Some bad signs: • Since 1960, U.S. flag ships have carried less than 10 per cent of the nation's ocean-borne commerce.

NONE BUILT

• Not a single bulk (coal, grain, etc.) carrier for foreign trade has been built in American shipyards since the war.

During the last nine months of 1963 in Japan alone, foreign owners have placed orders for the construction of six ships of over 20,000 tons capacity.

• Countries such as Liberia, with easy tax laws, far outstrip the U.S. in the size and newness of their bulk fleets.

• Low construction and operating costs available to foreign owners have virtually killed the U.S. foreign trade tanker fleet.

CARGO LINERS

Only America's large cargo liner fleet — government subsidized to the extent of about 20 cents out of the steamship operating dollar — is able to compete favorably with foreign maritime powers.

Nuclear-powered ships such as the Savannah might elevate other branches of the merchant marine to this status.

Because their reactors require less space than conventional oil

burning equipment and fuel tanks, nuclear ships can carry larger cargoes.

ATTRACT SHIPPING

"If we had a fast nuclear fleet, we'd attract many cargoes that would otherwise go in foreign ships," predicts a Maritime Administration official.

A prohibitive factor, so far, is the cost of outfitting a vessel with nuclear power.

A merchant ship of similar size to the Savannah's 22,000 tons equipped with conventional power can now be built for about $11 million.

To convert such a vessel to nuclear power would require an additional outlay of $8-to-$12 million.

WOULD DECREASE

But officials at such nuclear equipment companies as General Electric and Babcock & Wilcox note that this cost would substantially decrease as more nuclear-powered ships are built.

Best current guesses put the future cost of the reactor hardware and installation at about $3.5 million.

The Savannah's reactor — which generates 20,000 horsepower — is too small to provide substantial savings in fuel costs.

But scientists predict that 66,000 h.p. reactors — which, although 3.3 times larger than the administrative costs and research.

Almost eight years have passed since former President Eisenhower first proposed the Savannah project shortly after he received word that the Russians were working on a nuclear icebreaker.

Born as a device for achieving national prestige, the Savannah has been truly unlucky.

From the drawing board to the shipyard, from the deck-side to the open sea, the ship has been both cause and victim of bureaucratic squabbles, labor strife and maddening delays.

Hardly a single sea trial was held without mishap.

BEHIND SCHEDULE

When the Savannah sails Monday on its demonstration voyage to Bremerhaven, Hamburg, Dublin and Southampton, she will be almost three years behind schedule.

The Russian nuclear icebreaker Lenin sailed in 1959.

Viet Cong Overrun Government Outpost

SAIGON, Viet Nam (U) — A Communist Viet Cong platoon overrun and seized a small government outpost, 17 miles northwest of Saigon, yesterday morning, military authorities here announced today.

The outpost, at My Hanh, was manned by 26 paramilitary self-defense corpsmen. Initial reports said one of the defenders was killed and 15 were captured. Viet Cong casualties were not known.

Says Boy Started Lumber Firm Blaze

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (U) — Fire Chief Jess Hunter says a 6-year-old boy playing with matches accidentally started a $125,000 fire that destroyed the Cedar Rapids Lumber Co. last Monday evening.

Hunter said the unidentified boy admitted last night that he lit a corner of old mattresses in the garage of a home, but blew the fire out and ran away.

The fire erupted, destroyed a house, nearby lumber yard and an electric shop. "We don't want to discipline the boy because he is too young to understand," Hunter said.

The population of the United States is fourth largest in the world, exceeded only by China, India and the U.S.S.R.

There's Safety in Numbers

KRALJEVA SUTJESKA, Yugoslavia (AP) — On the first Wednesday in February, all the engaged couples from 24 nearby villages were married in one big ceremony in this Bosnian town.

It has been happening here on that day for the past 500 years. This year only 32 couples were married in the mass ceremony. Some years there are as many as 90.

The custom originated in medieval times when travel to town was hazardous because of highway bandits and the marriage parties preferred to wait and all go together.

A new machine is now able to manufacture butter without churning and is said to be satisfactory.

Why Grow Old?
by JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The idea that a person is old or older from the age of 65 on is absurd. Age is an entirely individual matter. Many men and women 50 years old are older, not only in outlook, but in physical condition, than others 65 years old.

Yet the conception that one is old at 65 years is fixed in minds of many because this age group is so often referred to in that manner. I think this is too bad because it creates age consciousness which will make one old at any age. Today there are famous and glamorous women who are approaching the supposedly fatal birthday.

You are not young one day, and then suddenly old the next just because you have had a birthday, but the general attitude may cause you to succumb to age consciousness. This does more to take the joy out of life than almost any other outlook I can imagine.

Many women become victims of this disease quite young in life. The fortieth birthday is dreaded by them. They even begin worrying about it in their early 30s. Their entire outlook, what they do, how they think, what they wear, is dictated by what they feel is right for their age. Even their mannerisms and posture may reflect age consciousness.

Some people just seem to be born old, while others age rapidly under the impact of the attitude and remarks of their contemporaries. Group thinking gets them!

With all the information about nutrition, exercise and health, and all the know-how about skin care and all the cosmetic aids, a woman should be able to be lovely most of her life. Add to that a youthful spirit and you have a winner!

So often women fail to take up new interests because they feel it would be silly at their age. There is no age limit on learning and one of the surest ways to remain youthful is to constantly add new interests and new activities to your life. Don't let age consciousness get you at any age.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Pep", send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 56 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Balance Diet for Weight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Your weight depends on the balance between the energy you get from food and the energy you use in activity, U. S. Department of Agriculture nutritionists report.

When food gives you the same amount of calories as you use, your weight stays the same. When it gives you less than you use, you lose weight.

When it gives you more, you gain. For every 3,500 calories you don't use in activity, you gain a pound. Just an extra 100 calories a day adds up to 10 pounds gain in a year.

Great Play Scenes Set at Will-O-Way

Scenes from great plays will be presented at three weekend open houses marking the close of Will-O-Way Apprentice Theatre's current term and the opening of summer classes, June 22 through August 16.

Local apprentices appearing in the Saturday and Sunday performances are Kurt Walters, Patty Dell, Cheryl Dell and Virginia Beeman.

Performing June 12 and 13 are localities Barbara Humphries and Patty and Cheryl Dell.

Certain time for the free performances on June 6, 7, 12, 13, 19 and 20 is 8:30 p.m. with additional matinees at 2:30 p.m. Saturday and June 13.

Also at Will-O-Way, auditions are now being held to select the winner of the Alexandra Grange scholarship, awarded annually to an individual 16 or over with outstanding vocal or acting talent.

Applicants for the scholarship, providing a summer of study at Will-O-Way, may make appointments for auditions through June 15 by contacting Celia Merrill Turner, director of the dramatic trade school.

Summer apprentices at Will-O-Way will present a five-week repertory season on weekends, opening July 10.

Advanced Will-O-Way courses open this summer to adults and college students lead to senior and master certificates and prepare apprentices for professional stage work.

Singers preparing for careers in musical comedy and opera are offered a course in vocal drama combining acting, choreography and voice techniques.

The engagement is announced of Kathryn Louise Mitchell, daughter of Mrs. George R. Mitchell of Bedford Road and the late Mr. Mitchell, to William Alfred Close, son of Mrs. Alfred J. Close of Royal Oak, and Mr. Close. Both families were former Pontiac residents.
