Government Establishes Germ Warfare Defense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has set up a nationwide plan to deal with a possible enemy attack against America with germ warfare and chemical weapons.

It warned that such an onslaught could come without the American people even realizing the danger.

The Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization (ODM) said an enemy might use this strategy to lessen this country's ability to retaliate and defend itself.

A germ warfare attack might precede a nuclear attack, accompany it, or even follow it, the agency said. Its plan to meet the threat calls for state and local governments to play a vital role in action to be taken on the homefront.

ODM said it must be assumed an enemy can produce a variety of effective biological and chemical weapons. They could be directed against the civilian population by a number of means, it said.

Examples included the contamination of water supplies, food and farm lands by bacteria and toxic substances.

It said these agents "may be used against humans to produce death and illness, impede defense actions, impair morale, reduce the will to resist and minimize production capacity either for the conduct of war or for recovery and rehabilitation."

One of the major difficulties, it said is that the effects of such attacks "may not be immediately recognized or differentiated from naturally occurring epidemics."

As a result, farmers and local health authorities were urged to keep a sharp eye out for any unusual plant and human disease outbreaks or other contamination.

To local governments were given responsibility for education and training, advising and warning their populations and reporting to state officials.

ODM said it would allocate biological and chemical warfare defense equipment to federal, state and local agencies and also provide financial help for recruiting and training of personnel.

The government said it also would encourage the development and manufacture of such equipment so that private citizens could buy it from commercial dealers.

U.S. Files Suit Over Steel Bars

Accuses Western Trade Group of Monopoly in Seven States

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Western steel processors today studied a government civil suit charging they conspired to eliminate competition in steel bars for concrete in seven Western states.

The U.S. government filed suit Monday in U.S. District Court here, accusing an Oakland trade association, six steel companies and 12 fabricating firms with getting control of 75 per cent of the market in 1958 in Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington.

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers asked that the Western Reinforcing Steel Fabricators Assn. of Oakland be dissolved and that it and 18 other defendants, including Bethlehem and U.S. Steel, be declared conspirators in violation of antitrust statutes. The complaint said they conspired to restrict foreign imports and impede small fabricators, and used non-competitive and collusive bids to control the market in the rough reinforcing steel used in concrete known as rebars.

Steel companies sometimes make these rebars themselves out of smooth bars, but also sell smooth bars to fabricators for processing into rebars, or even directly to contractors for processing on the job.

The suit charges that the fabricators induced the steel mills to refuse to sell rebars directly to contractors and to channel bar stock through the 12 accused processing firms.

Spokesmen for the defendants, where reachable for comment, said they would have none until they had studied the complaint thoroughly.

Also Says Press Against Him

Taft Memo Blames Loss to Ike on High Finance

NEW YORK (AP) — A confidential analysis left by the late Sen. Robert A. Taft blamed his loss of the 1952 GOP presidential nomination on New York financial interests and a majority of the press.

"Second, four-fifths of the influential newspapers in the country were opposed to me continuously and vociferously, and many turned themselves into propaganda sheets for my opponent."

In Cincinnati, Robert A. Taft Jr. said, "There has never been any attempt to suppress this memo. My father wanted those who backed him for the presidential nomination in 1952 to know that he did not blame them for the loss of the nomination."

The Washington Evening Star said in a story Tuesday that appearance of the memo became the subject of discussion in some GOP circles because of a prospective battle between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

"In some respects," the Star story said, "Mr. Nixon's position at this time is regarded as somewhat similar to that of Sen. Taft at a comparable period before the 1952 convention. Now, as then, there is a challenger having powerful but so far unrevealed support among the Eastern interests. It was such a challenger — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower — who blocked the Taft nomination."

Taft gave these causes of his defeat:

"First, it was the power of the New York financial interests and a large number of businessmen subject to New York influence, who had selected Gen. Eisenhower."

Bardot Banter Too Unfunny for Her Mate

PARIS (UPI) — Army officials said Tuesday that crude barbs jokes about his wife Brigitte Bardot made actor Jacques Charrier so nervous in the service he was forced to undergo psychiatric care.

The officials said drafted Charrier, 23, just couldn't bear the leering taunts of his fellow soldiers. It all started from the very day he went off to the Army—and found his barracks festooned with naked photographs of his shapely wife.

Charrier went straight to the hospital with a "case of nerves" and for the past two weeks has been on leave with Brigitte or in Army hospitals, being stuffed with tranquilizers.

Nelson Eddy 'Too Racy' for Vegas?

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What are things coming to? Even singer Nelson Eddy fears his act is too racy for reform-minded officials in the gambling resort of Las Vegas.

County commissioners in the Nevada city are lowering the boom on stripper Candy Barr and bare-chested chorus lines. They're shaking fingers at female impersonator T. C. Jones.

The commissioners say they want to raise the moral tone of the gaudy gambling casinos' floor shows.

Now Eddy, a baritone bulwark of conservatism, has rejected an invitation to take Miss Barr's place at El Rancho Vegas.

Why? Because his act features a scantily clad young lady — so scantily, in fact, that the Coconut Grove in Los Angeles made her put on a cape over her costume. She wears a jewel in her navel and little else.

"I'm afraid my act might be too spicy for them," Eddy said. "I'd hate to be the cause of the El Rancho Vegas jumping from the frying pan to the fire, since our act does have its provocative moments," he said.

"I believe the act is in good taste, or I wouldn't perform it. But a certain squeamish element might object to some of the burlesque routines done with my partner, Gale Sherwood, even though we are only kidding."

Wilson Words Wasted When Women Unwind

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The walkie-talkies (meaning the girls) were talking it up on my beat this morning. Jayne Meadows, the queen mother walkie-talkie, had flown from Hollywood to do some TV, and her sister, Audrey Meadows, had been attempting, so she claimed, to sneak even a one-syllable word into a conversation for three days.

"Our baby," announced Jayne, in private life Mrs. Steve Allen, "is just two years old—and looks three."

"He looks like an old three or a young four," amended Audrey, smiling in triumph at having made it.

Since the Allens moved to California last July, Mrs. Allen has flown to New York about 10 times to do TV. Mr. Allen hasn't flown here once. Nor does he plan to. We understand he is busy doing the dishes.

The famous quiz show witness, Xavier Cugat, announced that he is opening a Casa Cugat in Rome for the Olympics. "Are you going to appear there?" I asked his wife, Abbe Lane who replied:

"If he can afford me."

"To think, I used to pay her $100 a week!" Cugat glanced at her milk coat worth several G's and her emeralds which, she lamented, were last year's.

"And you overpaid me," she smiled. "But I have grown up since—artistically." Abbe added. Mr. Cugat took her home—because she was hungrily eyeing a diamond display case.

Merman Shatters Ears Without 1 'Live' Effort

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ethel Merman, a healthy woman with a healthy voice, assaulted the sound barrier 22 times last night.

That was the number of songs she unleashed during the hour-long Ford Starnight Special on NBC-TV.

The hour was so shapeless and ear-shattering—except for a next-to-closing cavalcade of tunes Miss Merman made famous—that even the four ballads in the batch of 22 were blasted off like Jupiter rockets.

The cavalcade segment saw Miss Merman stroll across a large stage that was tastefully and simply decorated and, in color, exceptionally attractive.

Apar from this stylish display, Miss Merman's show-stopper style was apparent only in her "Blow, Gabriel, Blow" number, when she stood before a small jazz band and belted out her prerecorded song.

There were many drawbacks to the hour but the complete reliance on prerecorded numbers was the biggest.

Since I'm certain Miss Merman's Broadway stage appearances are not prerecorded, I can't understand why she couldn't favor us TV free-loaders with at least one spontaneous "live" song.

The recordings also provided another unfortunate distraction—an other-world echo chamber effect.

Miss Merman's three male guests, Tom Poston, Fess Parker and Tab Hunter, also were prerecorded, making the abuse complete.

Public Favors Toledo's Malls

No Significant Change in Habits of Shoppers, Survey Reveals

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Toledo's experimental malls, in general, produced a favorable attitude on the part of the public but made no significant change in shopping habits, a survey indicated Tuesday.

The four downtown malls were turned back into normal street blocks last weekend after a 3½-month test.

Peter W. Rogers, president of Rogers National Research, said his study indicated problems outside of retail sales should be considered. He said parking and traffic still are basic problems.

According to his survey, 64 per cent of the public felt the malls made shopping more pleasant, 65 per cent felt they were good for Toledo in general and 64 per cent felt they had boosted the city's morale and civic pride.

On the question of whether malls should be continued, 17 per cent responded with "make them permanent." Forty-eight per cent advised, "continue the trial into the winter months before you make a decision." Only 23 per cent felt the malls should be discontinued.

This cautiously hopeful view was expressed by Herter at a news conference Tuesday when he struck back at criticism of the administration's Berlin attitude voiced by former Secretary of State Dean Acheson in a speech last week.

Acheson contended that an effort to make a Berlin deal with the Soviet Union would result simply in a defeat for the West. Negotiation, Acheson said, "is only a polite, misleading phrase for a retreat and an acceptance of Russian terms."

Herter told questioning reporters that what Acheson had done "was to build up a number of straw men and then knock them down."

Movie, Lecture Set by Kiwanis

Finland to Be Topic of Familiar Karl Robinson in Adventure Series

The Downtown Pontiac Kiwanis Club's Travel and Adventure Series will continue next Tuesday night, featuring Karl Robinson, a man who has lived and worked in foreign lands some 25 years.

Robinson, who has made 1,500 personal appearances in recent years, is no stranger to Pontiac audiences.

"Portugal, Madeira and the Azores" was his topic here in the 1957 series.

Tuesday night he will present his most recent film, "Finland." The film-lecture starts at 8 at the Pontiac Central High School auditorium.

It is the third of seven travel-ogues. No tickets will be available at the door.

Robinson's spectacular photography will show many scenes of Finland's 1,000-mile seacoast.

His narrative will include facts about this little nation, rich in history, which paid its war debts to the United States at a time when other countries defaulted on their foreign obligations.

Acheson assumed, he said, that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is standing on the same position he proclaimed a year ago when he exploded the Berlin crisis by threatening to force the United States, Britain and France to pull out of West Berlin.

Actually, Herter said, the Soviet position has moved "a very long way" from that.

Furthermore, Herter said, Acheson lacked "any grounds for assuming that we were necessarily going to make concessions which would be detrimental (to the preservation of West Berlin's freedom)."

The people of Finland call their country "Suomen Tasavalta."

Detroit-Steel Mills Hitting 91.1 Pct.

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit area steel mills will reach near-capacity production this week, Iron Age magazine said today.

A total of 138,612 tons of steel are scheduled for production, equalling 91.1 per cent of capacity. Last week's production was 117,938 tons, 77.8 per cent of capacity. A year ago the mills produced 141,650 tons, or 96.4 per cent of capacity.

The first women students were admitted to Pennsylvania State University in 1871.

Topped Current Cranberry Rhubarb

FDR Tried to Shift Thanksgiving

By LEON BURNETT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twenty years ago Tuesday there already had been one Thanksgiving Day, and there was about to be another.

The nation seethed with dissent. An American custom, with roots reaching as deep into history as Plymouth Rock and the Pilgrims, had been tampered with.

In 1939, President Franklin D. Roosevelt decided, in the interest of merchants around the land, that Thanksgiving Day should be observed on the third Thursday of November, instead of the traditional fourth Thursday.

Loud protest rent the autumn air. Many Americans refused to abide by the President's proclamation. The country's already vehement anti-Roosevelt bloc was fired to a white heat of temper.

This year, there is a cancer scare because of contaminated cranberries. But the current controversy is a serious one because the national health is involved.

In retrospect, the rhubarb of 1939-40 has its funny side. When it was raging, though, few citizens were able to find a trace of humor in it.

Americans had been celebrating Thanksgiving on a national scale since 1863, when President Lincoln gave it official sanction as a holiday. And it had consistently been falling on the fourth Thursday of November.

Roosevelt felt there was an insufficient interval between Thanksgiving and Christmas. Merchants had barely emerged from one big mash of shoppers until another, much bigger one bore down upon them.

Also, with Thanksgiving a week earlier, citizens would have one extra payday to build up their Yule shopping funds.

FDR had reckoned without his countrymen's resistance to change. The usage of years had made sacred that fourth Thursday.

For one thing, there were all those football games—traditional matchings, in most cases—scheduled on Thanksgiving Day. Under Roosevelt's proclamation, the day no longer was a holiday, so how could the fans get out to the stadium?

Many people—Republicans, notably—believed fiercely that national institutions should be immune from the whims of a mere President.

Because of all the fuss, a num-

Deny Petition to Force Balanced Wayne Budget

LANSING (AP) — A petition seeking to force Wayne County to submit a balanced budget was denied without comment yesterday by the State Supreme Court.
Detroit attorney Stanley E. Beattie filed the petition on behalf of John W. Taylor, Christian H. Hecker and Chester J. Morse, all connected with the Detroit Citizens League.
The Detroit taxpayers contended the unbalanced Wayne County budget about $4,500,000 in the red this fiscal year, was illegal. They asked the court to order the County Board of Supervisors to submit a balanced budget.

Would Be Illegal for N.Y. Youths to Carry Knives

NEW YORK (AP)—The City Council has passed a measure that would make it illegal for persons under 21 to carry knives.
There were no votes against the bill Tuesday but one councilman abstained. He said such a law couldn't be enforced.
The measure would apply to knives of any size. It would exempt Boy Scouts, members of similar organizations and some other persons.
Punishment would be a $50 fine or 30 days in jail or both. It is aimed at the city's teen-age crime problem.
Mayor Robert F. Wagner is expected to sign the measure into law shortly.

Fires Reporters in Bribe Hoax

One Admits Charges Made on Air False Under Questioning

NEW YORK (AP)—Two reporters who aired false charges that a city official tried to bribe them have been fired by their newspaper.

The New York World-Telegram and Sun Tuesday fired Fred J. Cook, 48, a top newsman on the paper for 15 years, and Eugene Gleason, 32, a staff reporter for four years.

Cook said on a television program Sunday night that Gleason had told him four years ago that a high city official had offered a bribe to halt an investigation they had started into the city's slum-clearance program. Gleason said on the program the official was still in the city administration.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan called Cook and Gleason to his office Monday. After questioning, Gleason admitted the story was false. He said he had lied to Cook "because I was exuberant and was carried away." Gleason said Cook was blameless and had only repeated on the TV show what Gleason had told him in 1956.

In dismissing the two, the World-Telegram and Sun noted that Cook had said on the TV program that the bribe had been reported to the city desk of the newspaper. The paper denied this.

Flow of Steel Tops Prediction

But Magazine Claims Major Relief Will Not Come for Weeks

NEW YORK (AP) — Reopened steel mills are turning out shipments of finished steel faster than expected, Iron Age magazine said today.

Nonetheless, the national metal-working weekly stated, steel users cannot expect real relief from the steel shortage for several weeks. Industrial plant shutdown and workers layoffs, moreover, will persist for a while, Iron Age added.

"Full industrial production is not expected to be reached much before February," the magazine said. "By then, consumption will come very close to total steel production and inventory buildup will be negligible."

Right now, according to Iron Age, steel consumption is moving at the rate of five million tons a month. Earlier in the year, consumption was close to seven million tons a month.
"As steel starts to move," the magazine said, "consumption should reach six million tons in December. Steel use in January is still expected to be less than normal while consumers fight to bring their inventories back into balance."

HOW DO YOU FIND A BROKEN TELEPHONE LINE IN A HUNDRED STORM-SWEPT MILES?

It happened when the first severe winter storm of the season roared down from Canada to blanket the Upper Peninsula.

Phone lines were hard hit. All the long distance lines from Escanaba to Manistique were broken—cutting off direct telephone communication to the northeast.

The break lay somewhere in the storm-swept hundred miles between the two cities, but how to pinpoint it in that brutal weather? Escanaba repair foreman Fred Barrett chartered a plane which took off into the storm and soon located the damage.

The spot was inaccessible by truck so foreman Louis Dwyer promptly hired a railroad speeder—a small, gas-powered rail car—and rushed to the scene with a four-man team. By evening they had cleared away a big tree and repaired the broken lines.

Initiative and fast action are shown every day at the telephone company. So are the less dramatic forms of service—the friendly, considerate, everyday helpfulness you'll notice every time you talk with telephone people.
