Death Ends 19-Year Reign of Pope Pius; Body to Lie in State at Vatican in Rome

Three Policemen Win Promotions by Court Order

Judge Adams Rules Two City Officials Evaded Civil Service Law

A court writ ordering the promotion of three Pontiac police officers, who had been denied the higher ranks by two top city officials, today was granted by Oakland County Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams.

Judge Adams said the two, City Manager Walter K. Willman and Police Chief Herbert W. Straley, had attempted "to avoid" the Civil Service Act in not promoting the three.

"It was at best a piecemeal effort at a re-organization of the department in order to avoid the provisions of the act," the judge said in his opinion handed down this morning

When the actual court order is issued, it will mean the promotion of Sgt. Fred L. Goines to lieutenant, and Detectives Herbert C. Cooley and James F. Bale to sergeant openings.

Goines, Cooley and two other officers filed suit against the city in June saying they should have been promoted to vacancies on the force since they place on the top of civil service eligibility lists drawn up after written and oral tests.

City officials contended that positions they originally asked to be filled, were no longer needed.

Cloudy and Cooler Outlook for Friday

Mostly cloudy and cooler with scattered showers or thundershowers is the prediction for the Pontiac area tonight. The low will be near 52.

The U.S. Weather Bureau's forecast for tomorrow is mostly cloudy, windy and cooler with some light showers likely. Winds will be northwesterly at 20 to 30 miles an hour. Tomorrow's high will be about 62, the low tomorrow night 40.

The outlook for Saturday is mostly fair and quite cool with freezing temperatures likely in northern sections and some frost in southern Lower Michgan.

Sixty-one was the lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The reading was 70 at 2 p.m.

U.S. Cardinal Lands in Azores on Way to Rome

ANGRA DE HEROISMO, The Azores (AP)—Fraricis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, landed at Praia de Vitoria today from the cruise ship Olympia and prepared to depart for Rome.

Praia de Vitoria is a small port near Lagens Airfield, where the U.S. Air Force has a base. There is a possibility the Air Force will take the cardinal to Rome, but no official announcement has been made.

VATICAN CITY — (AP) — Benedetto Aloisi Cardinal Masella was elected by his fellow cardinals today as papal chamberlain, to administer affairs of the Roman Catholic Church until a new pontiff is chosen.

World Series Turnout Just Short of Record Set Last Year

From Our Wire Services

MILWAUKEE — A fourth straight crowd of 46,367 at county stadium for today's final game of the World Series will leave the total turnout for this year's Series games just short of last year's record.

The same turnout as at the three previous games in Milwaukee would make total attendance for the series 393,909. The record for a seven-game series is 394,712 — set last season when four of the games were played in the 70,000 capacity Yankee Stadium in New York.

Total receipts for this Series figures to come to about $5,400,000 against the all-time record of $5,475,978.94 of last year, which included $3,000,000 in radio and television receipts.

This is the day of decision for the New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves as they clash in the seventh and final game of the 1958 World Series.

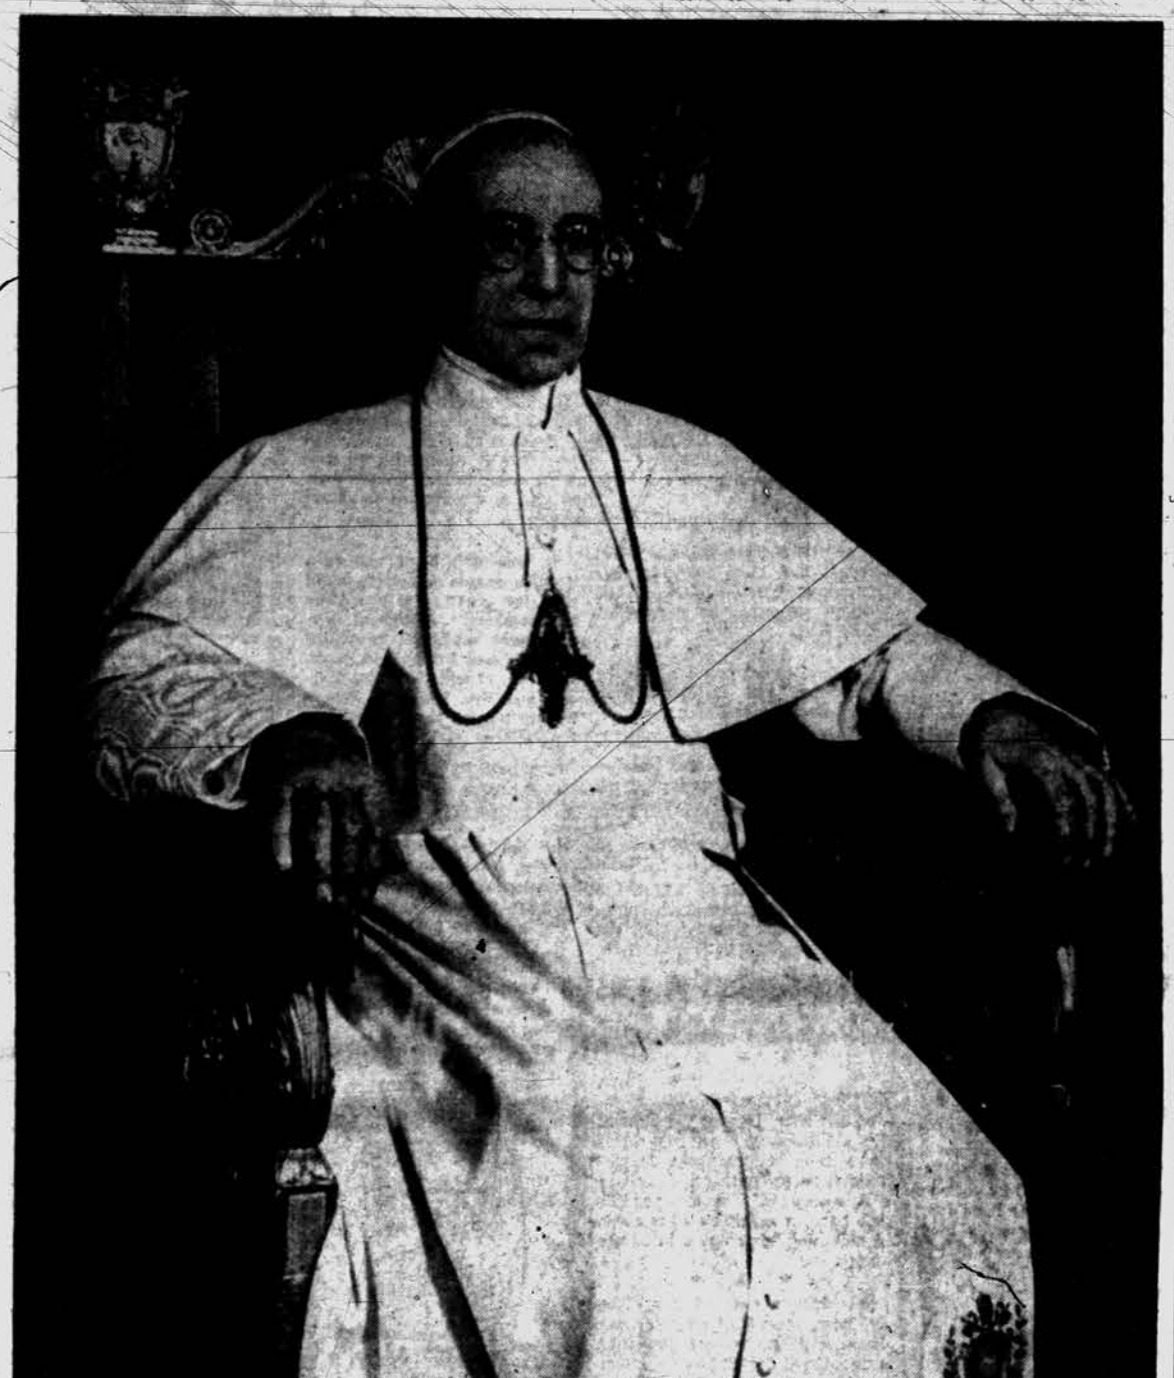

Today the Braves planned to start with right-hander Lew Burdette, who beat the Yankees three times in the 1957 series. His final victory came in the seventh and deciding game.

He beat the New Yorkers in the second game this year, but they finally drove him off the mound in winning the fifth game.

New York Manager Casey Stengel was not positively set on his starter, but it appeared it would be right-hander Don Larsen, who hurled seven scoreless innings and was credited with the third victory last Sunday.

The Yankees' 10th-inning rally was opened Wednesday by second baseman Gil McDougald, who hit a home run.

Pope Pius XII

World Mourns Loss of Catholic Leader

Begin Elaborate Rites Leading Up to Burial in St. Peter's Basilica

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Pope Pius XII died this morning at 3:52 (Rome time but at 9:52 Wednesday evening Pontiac time.)

The Pope will return in death Friday to his native Rome, to lie in state at the Vatican and be buried in St. Peter's Basilica.

His death, though anticipated for hours, sent a wave of shock around the world and brought widespread expressions of tribute from political and church leaders outside the Iron Curtain.

He was 82 and had served 19 years as the supreme leader of the Roman Catholic Church.

Pope Pius XII lay in his simple metal bed today in his bare chalk white bedroom at his summer palace.

DRESSED IN RED AND WHITE

The body had been embalmed and changed from the flannel pajamas he wore on instructions of his physicians in the last days of his illness.

Now he was dressed in the white pontifical robes and short red cape familiar to millions.

On his head the usual white biretta was replaced by the camaure, a medieval pontifical headgear in which traditionally popes are buried. His hands were folded in prayer over a big crucifix and a rosary.

GUARDS STAND WATCH

Four Noble Guards stood watch with drawn swords at the foot of the bed.

Although the fisherman's ring had been removed from the pope's hand, it was not revealed whether the ring had been already destroyed as required by Vatican rules.

But the door leading from the Pope's bedroom to his private study was closed and sealed with big red wax seals marked with his pontifical arms.

A very small number of high-ranking Vatican dignitaries were admitted to view the Pope's body. They knelt in prayer on special stools arranged around the bed. Finally, for the last time, they kissed his hand.

★ ★ ★

Among the first callers from outside the church hierarchy were Italian President Giovanni Gronchi and Premier Amintore Fanfani. They were escorted to the body of the Pope, knelt and prayed.

The princes of the Roman Catholic Church quickly set in motion the elaborate ritual for the nine days of mourning, the funeral and the election of a successor.

Eisenhower Expresses Sorrow

Bells Toll in Europe, Asia, America

By The Associated Press

The bells tolled for Pope Pius XII today throughout Western Europe and the Roman Catholic countries of Asia and the Americas.

Yellow and white papal flags flew at half staff from Catholic institutions.

Many thousands in somber, reverent mood flocked to cathedrals for masses repeated at half-hour intervals.

"His was a full life of devotion to God and service to his fellow men."

These words by President Eisenhower summed up tributes to the late Pope Piux XII by American leaders in government, religion and other fields.

In London, reverent demonstrations at Westminster Cathedral were of a marked cosmopolitan character.

Catholic refugees from Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union converged on the cathedral in masses.

Queen Elizabeth II, from Balmoral Castle in Scotland, directed the British minister to the Holy See to convey "an expression of the deep sorrow" of herself and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh.

Man Kills Wife, Takes Own Life

Daughter Hears Shots Through Barred Door of Lake Cottage

A White Lake Township man who finished a 30-day jail term 10 days ago, apparently killed his wife in a jealous rage last night and then took his life.

The body of Mrs. Clara M. Kiser, 37, was found crumpled on the kitchen floor of her rented five-room cottage, 9470 Thames Blvd. on the west side of Pontiac Lake, while that of her husband of five months, Thomas, 30, lay sprawled ten feet away in the living room.

A .32 caliber hunting rifle lay near Kiser's body. Mrs. Kiser was shot once in the neck, Kiser once in the left chest.

Climaxing a long quarrel, the shootings occurred shortly after 9:30 p.m., while Mrs. Kiser's two children by a previous marriage were out asking neighbors for help.

One of the children, Judy Frye, 14, told police that her stepfather was angry over attentions he thought were paid his wife by another man while he was in Oakland County Jail, serving time for possession of an unregistered pistol.

Judy ran for help to a neighbor's, Cas J. Cerwin, 9474 Thames, who called police, while a son, Carl Frye, 17, ran three blocks to the home of a White Lake Township patrolman, Louis Marsh, 2132 Kingston Rd.

Judy told Sheriff's detectives, who aided in the investigation, that the front door was locked when she returned home and all the lights but one were out.

Not tall enough to see through the window, the girl stood by the door and heard three shots ring out. The first shot was apparently a misfire, police said.

Church Leaders in Area Pay Tribute to Pope

Church leaders of all faiths in the Pontiac area today joined with the rest of the world to mourn the death of Pope Pius XII. Following are the comments given to The Press:

Father Michael J. O'Reilly, St. Michael's Church pastor: "In the passing of Pope Pius XII not only has the Catholic world lost a great leader, but all the world has lost a great humanitarian. Father Pacelli—Cardinal Pacelli—Pope Pius XII will go down in history as one of our greatest popes. His is one of the 'immortal names of the immortal names that was not born to die.'"

Dr. Richard H. Dixon Jr., pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church and president of the Pontiac Pastors' Assn.: "For his life dedicated to peace and equality for all men, regardless of race, creed or color, the death of Pope Pius XII is a loss to the whole civilized world."

Rabbi Israel Goodman, pastor of the Congregation B'nai Israel: "The passing of Pope Pius XII is a great loss not only to the Catholics, but to the entire world. He was a great liberal who preached the Word of God, coupled with the need of the day."

Dr. William H. Marbach, First Presbyterian Church pastor: "He represented such a great following the world over that his passing is a loss to all."

Rev. William C. Norvell, associate pastor, Christ Church Cranbrook: "He was a very great pope, devoted and a great man and one that did a great deal for the cause of peace."

★ ★ ★

Father Francis T. Stack, pastor of St. Hugo of the Hills: "A great man has gone to his rest. Pius the XII had borne for over the 19 years the burden of an incomparable spiritual responsibility. He was literally worn out by his unremitting devotion to the demanding tasks of his high office."

Schools Get Pontiacs to Train Drivers

Parade of Cars Opens Salute to Industry

Pontiac's gala "Salute to Industry" was launched yesterday afternoon by a sparkling procession of 26 new Pontiacs through downtown streets.

The motorcade, led by Pontiac Central High School's colorful bandsmen, marked the first time that the 1959 models—longer, lower, and wider—went on public display.

The new cars will go on display today throughout the rest of the nation.

Highlighting the festivities yesterday was the presentation of the keys to 26 new Pontiacs to the Pontiac school system for use in the driver training program.

Making the presentation in front of the Oakland County Courthouse was Semon E. Knudsen, GM vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division.

Accepting for the school system were Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of schools and Mrs. William Mihalek, a member of the Board of Education.

Next event in the celebration will be a special three-hour sale from 6 to 9 p.m. tomorrow by member stores of the Downtown Merchants Assn. of the Chamber of Commerce, featuring special prices on fall merchandise.

AT POPE'S BEDSIDE — Msgr. Frederic Calleri di Vignale, left, and Msgr. Mario Nasalli Rocca di Corneliano stand by body of Pope Pius XII in the Pontiff's chambers at Castel Gandolfo today after the ritual of dressing the body was completed. Pius is clad in silk, velvet and ermine. At far left is Noble Guard. Body will be moved to the Sistine Chapel in the Vatican; then carried to the Basilica of St. Peter's Cathedral.

World Mourns Loss of Pope

The weight of 82 years, two strokes since Monday and other illnesses at last wore down the stout heart of Pius after 19 years and 7 months of an energetic and brilliant reign.

For hours he hovered in death's agony. Then, while millions around the world prayed, he died at 3:52 a.m. (9:52 p.m., EST, Wednesday) in the papal summer residence in this hill town 18 miles south of Rome.

Eugenio Pacelli, the 261st pope, was the leader of the world's 500 million Catholics in one of the most burdensome times in the 2,000-year history of the church.

He wanted to be known as the "Pope of Peace" but when he was elected March 2, 1939, the world already was on the eve of World War II. Ahead were the years of onslaught against religion by communism.

* * *

Already all the 55 cardinals who are able were preparing for the nine days of ritualistic mourning, the funeral and the grand conclave that will elect the next pontiff.

* * *

The cardinals, princes of the church, will make the selection. Their choice most likely will be one of their number, though it could be a prelate not a cardinal.

Pius was the first pope to die at this papal summer residence and the first in 200 years to die outside Rome. Changes therefore are necessary in the traditional ritual.

But Pius already had provided for that contingency in a regulation issued in 1945 which said that if a pope died outside Rome he should be returned to Vatican City in dignity and decorum.

Later today cardinals in the Rome area were to meet to make arrangements for the motorcade which will bring the Pope's body along the Appian Way to Rome.

The time of the procession was not yet announced, but a reliable informant said it would be early Friday afternoon.

* * *

Msgr. Guido Dante, prefect of Vatican ceremonies, said the body would lie in state in Castel Gandolfo for three hours before its removal.

The Italian government ordered three days of national mourning. Italian flags were flown at half-staff and all theaters and amusement places were closed.

On the motorcade to Rome, the body will be taken first to the Basilica of St. John Lateran, the Pope's own titular church in his capacity as bishop of Rome. Then it will be removed in a solemn procession to the Sistine Chapel at the Vatican, where it will lie in state for three days.

* * *

The full mourning period is nine days and at the end—presumably next Friday Oct. 17—the body will be entombed in the grottos of St. Peter's, in a place of the Pope's own choosing. Pius XII had asked to lie alongside Pius X, whom he canonized as a saint in 1954.

The cardinals at their meeting today also will arrange for the "interregnum," the period between the death of a pope and the election of a new one. During this period the direction of emergency affairs of the church will fall largely on the shoulders of Eugene Cardinal Lisserant, 74-year-old dean of the College of Cardinals.

* * *

The secret conclave for choosing a new pope is to be held as soon as possible after 15 days following the death of a pontiff.

* * *

There are 55 living cardinals, 15 below a full complement of 70.

For the last 400 years an Italian always has been elected. For the first time in 600 years Italians are a minority on the College of Cardinals, but most church circles expect they will choose an Italian again.

AGAGIANIAN?

Most prominently mentioned of non-Italians is Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian, Russian-born patriarch of Armenia, an expert on Russia and communism. Pius XII called him to the Vatican last June to direct the church's worldwide missionary activities. He succeeded Samuel Cardinal Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, who died before he could fill the post.

Prominent among Italians is Archbishop Gionanni Bathista Montini of Milan, who turned down a cardinal's red hat in 1953 to remain close to the Pope as his pro-secretary of state.

The Pope's death was announced by the Rev. Francesco Pellegrino, a Jesuit priest, who had broadcast the deathbed developments from an antechamber throughout Wednesday.

"With soul profoundly saddened," he said, "we give you now, at 3:56 a.m., the following announcement: The Holy Father, Pius XII, is dead. Pius XII, the man most esteemed and venerated in the world, one of the greatest pontiffs of the century, passed away in saintly manner at 3:52 today."

* * *

Cardinal Tisserant ceremoniously lifted a white cloth that had been placed over the Pope's face and officially recognized his death in the presence of other cardinals.

Then the fisherman's ring, symbol of papal power, was removed from the dead hand.

At the other end of a tiny square from the 16th century papal palace, the bells of the local Church of Saint of Villanova tolled mournfully.

VILLAGERS PRAY

In minutes the square filled with villagers. Until past midnight they had prayed and kept vigil. Many had gone home, told by doctor and priest there was no hope for the pontiff. The tolling bells brought them back.

* * *

A heavy chain, placed between two concrete posts at the entrance of the palace, symbolically closed the residence, pending the election of a new pope.

The yellow and white Vatican flag was unfurled at half-staff on a small balcony of the palace.

Slowly other Vatican flags appeared, at half-staff from the windows of other Castel Gandolfo residences.

There was sadness on the faces of the villagers as they gathered in the square, usually a scene of joyous pilgrimage by tourists, and prepared to attend a funeral mass in the village church.

* * *

For an hour the bells tolled.

Their sound echoed across the countryside, and down the ancient Appian Way. There the early Christians buried their dead in nearby catacombs. The bells of Rome took up the toll, led by the boom of the Campanone, the master bell at St. Peter's.

* * *

In the Pope's last hours, expressions of hope for his recovery had come from around the world and from people of all creeds. These messages now turned to expressions of sorrow from the high and the low.

The Soviet news agency Tass, which had not reported the Pope's illness, reported his death in a brief dispatch.

The death of Pius XII, who guided the church through Nazi-fanned hot wars and Communist-chilled cold wars, did not deprive it of his guidance. He left behind scores of encyclicals, speeches and other documents which have become part of Roman Catholic heritage.

* * *

He literally worked himself to death, in the opinion of Vatican officials.

The last two months here were among the busiest of his busy reign, although Castel Gandolfo is supposed to be a place of rest. Almost daily during September he addressed large audiences.

As October started, he was clearly fatigued.

* * *

Gastritis and hiccups, which had brought him close to death four years ago, returned last week. His doctors suggested he reduce his work load.

* * *

He tried to compromise with the physicians, and refrained from addressing one audience.

SUFFERS STROKE

Early Monday he was stricken by a cerebral circulatory attack — stroke. He rallied slightly Tuesday. Early Wednesday there was a second stroke which left him in a coma and partially paralyzed.

In the afternoon he suffered a grave cardiac pulmonary collapse. A kidney block troubled him. His temperature rose to 107.6 degrees.

* * *

Roman Catholics around the world were asked to pray for the Pope in his last moments.

* * *

Cardinals and other high church prelates, gathered in his room, watched his labored breathing. His relatives and personal aides were there. In all about 30 persons were present.

A rosary was in the pontiff's left hand, a crucifix on his chest. A mourning mass was said for the dying.

* * *

His doctors watched him closely. Then, when his time had come, they notified Cardinal Tisserant, who entered the plain white chamber with its brass bedstead and performed the traditional service of recognition of death.

DRESSED IN SILK

The body was embalmed immediately and dressed in the pontifical robes familiar to millions — a white silk cassock, an ermine-trimmed crimson velvet cape and on his head a camauro, a medieval pontifical headgear.

* * *

Members of the Noble Guard, with drawn swords and golden breastplates, took stations in the room. High-ranking Vatican dignitaries began a mournful pilgrimage to the bier, to kneel in prayer and to kiss his hand for the last time.

2 Die in Fort Worth as Rains Flood City

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Two showers colliding over Fort Worth dumped torrents of water, drowned two women and sent floods surging into hundreds of homes Wednesday night.

* * *

Up to 6 inches of rain poured down within an hour. Flash floods swept across low areas in the south and east parts of the city.

* * *

Dozens of underpasses filled with water up to 16 feet deep. One street in the downtown district flowed four feet deep, easily floating a police rescue boat. The water ran off within a few hours, however.

* * *

It was in one of the underpasses that Mrs. Louise Allen, 43, and Mrs. Jessie Mae O'Neal, a Negro, drowned, apparently as they tried to escape the rushing water on foot.

* * *

Mrs. Allen had offered a ride after Mrs. O'Neal, laden with a sack of groceries, appeared at her front door during the wind-blown downpour and asked that someone call a taxicab for her.

The vicious storm struck about nightfall and moved on toward the south and east, also loosing up to 4 inches of rain around Waco, 80 miles south in central Texas.

The Day in Birmingham

See Need for Key Plan to Pace Area Growth

BIRMINGHAM — Agreement between the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce and the City Planning Commission on the need for a comprehensive master plan to keep pace with area population growth was announced today by Charles Mortensen, chamber manager.

* * *

A recent population survey of south Oakland County shows sharp increases in the Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills and Bloomfield Township areas since 1950.

Birmingham has had a 62.9 increase, Bloomfield Hills, 87.3, and Bloomfield Township, an astonishing 372.6.

While there is little chance of much greater increase in Birmingham, surrounding areas still offer much in the way of suburban development, Mortensen said.

The "Music Man Himself," Meredith Willson, entertained Birmingham Town Hall audience at the Birmingham Theater this morning with his program of "Mirth and Music."

Willson, composer of "The Music Man," and his wife, Rini, played, sang and spoke about music.

The Willsons replaced actress Peggy Wood, who canceled her appearance here.

Installation of fire hydrants and drainage facilities began this week at the Adams Fire Station. Fire Chief Park H. Smith said the work on the concrete slab for the training area is expected to be started soon.

St. Dunstan's Guild will open its 28th season tomorrow night with the comedy hit, "The Matchmakers." Additional performances will be presented Saturday and Friday and Saturday, Oct. 17 and 18. Roger Marquis and Mrs. Benjamin Brewster are playing the lead roles.

Bloomfield Hills School Superintendent Eugene Johnson is continuing his open door policy for parents.

He has scheduled Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 for private discussion with parents about their children's progress in school.

The plan has proved beneficial to both parents and school officials, Johnson said.

Mrs. Oscar S. Wagner

Service for Mrs. Oscar S. (Kate) Wagner, 90, of 880 Ridgedale Ave., Birmingham, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Manley Bailey Funeral Home. Burial will be in White Chapel Cemetery.

Mrs. Wagner died yesterday at her home following a long illness.

A resident of Birmingham since 1919, she was a member of the First Methodist Church and the Woman's Society for Christian Service.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Claude Morrow; two sons, Robert M. of Flint and Henry O. of Birmingham.

* * *

She also leaves two sisters, eight grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Pontiac Jaycees Elect Merkovitz to Board

Irving Merkovitz, 29, co-owner of Gresham Cleaners, last night was elected to the board of the Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce. Merkovitz, who lives at 864 Menominee Rd., fills the vacancy left by Leonard T. Buzz, who resigned for business reasons.

Report Expressways Will Benefit Millions

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's planned 900 miles of expressways and bypasses will work to the disadvantage of a few people but eventually will benefit millions, the Michigan Good Roads Federation said today.

The prediction was contained in a preliminary report of the impact of the expressway program upon bypassed communities and upon the entire economy of the state.

Frank W. Suggitt, head of the research development department of Michigan State University, made the study at the request of the federation.

"Results compiled to date," Suggitt said, "tell us that the construction program will result in a more rapid and more beneficial change to the state's people and enterprises than any other force has ever done in a comparable period of time.

"Some losses and dislocations will work to the disadvantage of a relatively few people, but gains will accure to millions."

PROTECT YOUR BASEMENT AGAINST LEAKAGE!
Rox Masonry Paint is Guaranteed

Water leaking through foundations or walls causes deterioration and, eventually, costly repairs.

But there is now an easy, inexpensive way to stop damaging water leakage. The answer is Rox Masonry Paint. Rox actually becomes part of the surface to which it is applied, gives positive protection against water leakage and adds enduring beauty to your home. Rox is guaranteed not to blister or peel.

Rox Masonry Paint is ideal for brick, concrete, stucco and block—inside or outside. Rox protects against leakage and transforms a damp, useless basement into a dry, cheerful recreation or work area.

Rox is economical . . . covers up to three times more than old fashioned masonry paints. It is available in white and in five decorator colors to harmonize with your home color theme.

Here's another fact! Rox cuts heating costs! Write today for literature on this important subject.

BEFORE: Valuable space is lost when water leaks in. A wet basement is a useless basement.

Broadway Newcomer Gets Lead in Musical

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ed Kenney, a 24-year-old baritone, will play the leading male role in the upcoming Rodgers and Hammerstein musical "The Fower Drum Song." His only previous Broadway appearance was the minor role he played in "Shangri-La."

A native of Honolulu, Kenney is said to be three-eighths Hawaiian, one-quarter Irish, one-quarter Swedish and one-eighth Chinese.

20 Decisions Per Mile for Average Driver

DENVER (UPI) — A driver makes an average of 20 decisions per mile and even a skilled motorist will occasionally be guilty of a major or minor error, according to Colorado Highway Patrol Chief Gilbert Carrell.

Carrell said a recent study showed skilled drivers may average one mistake of judgment for each 40 decisions, or one error for every two miles behind the wheel.

He added that for every 250 mistakes, there is one near-collision, and for every 122 near-collisions, one actual smash-up.

There are about 3,000 miles of toll roads in the U. S.

Rays Cut Cost of Fuel

DENVER — Some railroad researchers report they believe that crushed coal may be improved as a fuel by irradiating it with gamma rays and dispersing it in diesel oil. The rays are said to reduce particle size, making cheaper, better-burning locomotive fuel. One rail line's researchers say irradiated coal could cut its fuel bill $400,000 a month.

On an average day 650 Americans die of cancer.

Stop Complaining

COCHITUATE, Mass. (UPI) — So you think your weekly grocery bill is high? John F. Reagan, a contractor, foots a grocery bill that averages $100 a week. He and his wife have 15 children.

What's the Cause of This Attitude?

Perhaps there's a lesson to be learned from the slump in registrations for next month's election. But what is it?

Wise political observers all agree that the current campaign is the deadest in history. It's so dead that it doesn't even smell.

Nobody except the candidates (and not all of them) seem to give a faint whoop about Nov. 4.

Advance use of the political pulmotor is necessary for either party to arouse any enthusiasm in a meeting. And then its artificial respiration is obvious to any knowing person in attendance.

It usually is only the "ins" or the "want-to-get-ins" on the political pap who do any cheering—and that often is badly timed.

Some novices in the big game have tried to pull smears, but all they get is laughs and boomerangs. They're learning a lesson.

The registration fiasco is not pertinent to Pontiac. It was prevalent throughout the county and state. In Flint the shortage exceeds the 15,000 mark.

It proves that neither party is well organized. All that talk about a house-to-house canvass to get people registered was either without any business background or was pure hooey and went flooey.

Both parties are energetically raising campaign funds, as each accuses the other of having the most money. Who's getting it?

Does the thing all simmer down to the fact that the thinking people are satisfied, and have no ears for the political wolf cry?

One might think so when a recent national survey shows that the farmers who really farm never had it so good.

County Peat Bogs Are an Overlooked Asset

In Ireland, Scotland and other parts of the British Isles, as well as in many other countries around the world, peat is a standard fuel.

Around many of the numerous lakes in the Pontiac area are peat bogs that have untold possibilities.

★ ★ ★

Peat is such a crude fuel that it has no value in the modernized setup in which we live.

But its stored up fertilization puts out a beckoning hand.

Composed almost entirely of decayed vegetation, principally weeds and grasses, it is the residue of what came up after the glaciers scraped down through this area untold thousands of years ago.

Every year since then has added to the deposits until now they are several feet deep in many localities.

And in Oakland County alone they cover several thousand acres.

Worked in less than one per cent of the available area, Oakland County peat already is a staple article of trade.

★ ★ ★

It has the essentials needed to make some of our arid land productive and profitable.

Fair Weather Friends Give Layne Bum's Rush

How fickle can you get? One minute a hero, the next a bum. Some fans and the majority of the Detroit press corps have succeeded in giving BOBBY LAYNE the "bum's rush."

Perhaps this decision is right. We hope it works better than the same move engineered by this same group involving personable JACK TIGHE.

Now that the fans and sports writers have solved the Lions' difficulties, we can all sit back and watch the championship roll in.

★ ★ ★

In the meantime, Messrs. ROTE and the newcomer, MORRALL, along with the sidewalk engineers, will have their work cut out equaling LAYNE'S record.

We wish them all well.

The School Wasn't Empty

David Lawrence Says:

Political Parties Labeled Wrong

WASHINGTON—Maybe the time has come to change the names of the two major political parties in America. Speakers for the Republican Party, for instance, have lately reverted to the custom of their forefathers in resenting the idea that the opposite party may take unto itself exclusive possession of the word "democratic" with a small "d" when they feel it really has ceased in that respect to be "democratic." The Republicans are beginning again to refer to their opposites as "the party of the Democrats" or "the Democrat Party."

LAWRENCE

★ ★ ★

Conversely, the Republicans in large part, have ceased to be "republican" with a small "r." The Constitution explicity says that the federal government "shall guarantee to every state in this union a republican form of government." Nothing is said about Arkansas, or Virginia, or any other state being excluded from this provision. To ignore the rights of the states and to support the doctrine that a Supreme Court in Washington may alter at will the basic document that specifically provides its own method of amendment is, in the North, considered "democratic" with both a large and small "d," as well as "republican" with a large and small "r," but just the opposite in the South.

On economic issues, the Republicans like to think of themselves as "conservative," while the northern Democrats prefer to call themselves "liberals." An examination of the voting records in Congress would seem to indicate that most of the Democrats from the North are liberal spenders of the citizens' income and are not much interested in conserving the dollar's purchasing power, as is, for example, Senator Byrd, Democrat, of Virginia.

The Republicans would more fittingly be described as the "conservative party" were it not for the modern belief, propagated by the radicals, that to be conservative is to oppose all change and "progress."

What is "progressive"—the word that used to be proudly proclaimed in the slogans of the Republicans of Theodore Roosevelt's era? Today, under the still-powerful impetus of the New Deal and fair deal, the country is in the throes of a progressive inflation that everybody fears, but nobody prominent in either party seems willing to advocate the steps necessary to reverse the trend.

★ ★ ★

Today, "public spending" is supposed to be "popular," and there are in both parties those who actually believe that the bigger the federal deficit, the better off the country will be on the economic side.

In some countries they name political parties after individuals. Perhaps the hero of political science in America today is Machiavelli—the man whose name is associated with the doctrine that "the end justifies the means." Both parties, however, could qualify for the right to use that slogan.

The real names of the two major parties in the North ought to be "Conservative" and "Socialist," respectively, though neither party will admit that the predominant strength within it ranks deserves to be thus described. The central idea of socialism is government control or regulation of almost everything.

Senator Thurmond of South Carolina, Democrat, in a speech this week, says of the Democratic-controlled Congress: "The action taken in the legislative halls of the 88th Congress justifies the statement that in Congress, as well as in the Supreme Court, socialism is preferred."

Dr. William Brady Says:

Many Fear to Take Stand Against Social Drinking

"For the past four years my husband has been drinking on and off, and when he stops he is very sorry for what he has done. I know you will help me if you can. I have left him.

Still, when he's sick I come back to him and feel sorry for him, but it lasts only a few weeks and then he is drinking again. He is a veteran of World War 2. (Signed) Mrs. — ———."

DR. BRADY

This might be a composite of hundreds of letters I have received from wives, sisters, mothers or, sometimes, husbands, brothers or fathers of narcotic addicts, habitual users of alcohol, that is. For there's no blinking at the fact that alcohol is a narcotic, in any dose and in any circumstance.

★ ★ ★

In this instance my advice is:

(1) If the man, in a sober interval, will consent and can afford it, he should consult a psychiatrist, one his regular or family doctor will recommend:

(2) If he spurns the suggestion that he is a little insane or if he can't afford the service of a private psychiatrist (and I don't mean psychologist or psycho-analyst), then by all means let him telephone, write or visit the nearest Alcoholics Anonymous chapter or group in his own or any community, listed in telephone directory, under AA. And let him remember that anonymity is a prime factor of the success of AA in helping addicts to break the habit.

'PLEDGE' OUT OF DATE

I have repeatedly urged parents, grandparents, big brothers and sisters, teachers, doctors, coaches and even pastors to ask boys and girls under their supervision or tutelage to pledge themselves not to use alcohol or tobacco before they are 21. I have been grievously disappointed and a little frightened at the negative response to this appeal.

I believe there are two reasons why people today are so prone to dismiss the pledge as unworthy: First, because people who are fond of a nip themselves can't consistently teach their children total abstinence as a way of life. And second, because people who are total abstainers or at least temperate too often are afraid to stand up and be counted.

For example, the Washington politician who doesn't drink arms himself with a glass not quite full of pop, and circulates among the guests at a cocktail party without being pressed to fill her up. He hasn't enough character to say no thank you.

Before I surrender to the narcotic interests, however, I make this final appeal to drinkers, occasional drinkers, social drinkers, steady drinkers, periodic drinkers: Please tell me confidentially

1. When and why you started drinking, or at what age and under what circumstance did you take your first drink of beer, wine or liquor?

2. If you do not believe growing children should be asked to take the pledge, why not?

3. Confidentially, remember, tell me what you think of cocktail lounges, parties and amenities in social life?

★ ★ ★

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Sheriff's Deputy Clarifies City Drag Strip Situation

The idea of a drag strip and so-called "Hot Rod Club" has not, by any means, been dropped or forgotten. The Oakland County Timing Association, which was organized last year, is still very much alive and we are doing everything possible to obtain land and facilities to construct a drag strip.

★ ★ ★

The only reason the organization hasn't been active is because we don't have a place to meet big enough to house the members properly, nor do we have a place to hold activities. I would like to go on record that the money earned from dances last year is still in the bank and every penny can be accounted for.

★ ★ ★

We're now trying to negotiate for a piece of land big enough to build a drag strip in a well-known location. If we're successful in the negotiations, we hope to be able to announce construction plans soon.

★ ★ ★

Lack of interest in the organization has greatly impeded our progress, as well as lack of money. If we're able to obtain land, it will have to be on a pay-as-you-go basis to the members. If there are any people still interested in a drag strip, I would appreciate hearing from them and appreciate having their cooperation.

'Union Would Hike Salesgirls' Wages'

I work as a salesgirl and have often wondered why we have no salesgirls' union. If we did, we wouldn't be working for $30 a week and clearing $25. We wouldn't be working under some of the conditions we do, either, like pulling our own stock. (It's heavy.)

We put in as hard a 40 hours as anybody. I'm sure some other salesgirls feel this way, too. With a union, they'd have to pay us at least $40, a dollar an hour.

Mrs. L. T.

Urges All Parents to Check on Boys

This concerns a teenage boy and his parents, perhaps all parents. Maybe when the boy is older, as I am, he may have his vacation money, which was worked very hard for, snatched from his hands as mine was by him, as he came toward me face to face Saturday evening at Mohawk and Huron. The amount was $90.

I'm wondering how he's keeping the source of his spending money from his parents. So parents, take a check on your wandering boys' activities before one strikes again and gets into serious trouble.

I'm all for a nine o'clock curfew for all boys and girls under 16, seven nights a week, unless accompanied by parents or older responsible people.

Fearful Lady

'Why Should We Pay for Mistake?'

We recently received a letter from the Lapeer County sheriff stating a warrant for my husband's arrest was being held and that if we didn't appear before a certain date, authorities here would be notified.

★ ★ ★

Not having been in Lapeer in over two years, we phoned the sheriff's office and were told a traffic violation had occurred in December 1957. The license number was sent to the Secretary of State to ascertain the identity and ownership of the car.

★ ★ ★

After examining the registration, the judge told us we were definitely not the guilty parties. A mistake was made in the Secretary of State's office, and our 1958 license number was that of a 1957 number wanted.

We feel we're entitled to some reimbursement. Why should we pay for someone's mistake?

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

Yea, surely God will not do wickedly, neither will the Almighty pervert judgment.—Job 34:12.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Parents Aren't Always to Blame

Bella's case should make all of you teenagers sit up and take notice. And if you have real courage, then rate yourself per the test mentioned below. Until you attain the emotional level of true adulthood, don't try to pass the buck to Dad or Mother for your own lack of friends or poor grades or fat figures.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE Z - 340: Bella Z., aged 18, is rapidly becoming a problem.

"Dr. Crane, Bella is our youngest," her father informed me, "and maybe Mother and I gave too much attention to our two older children.

DR. CRANE

"At least, Bella says that is why she is going to the dogs. But our older children made good grades and studied faithfully.

"Bella always resented our suggestions. And she felt she had been cheated in life, apparently because she was the baby of the family.

"So she got belligerent and failed in two subjects. Then she grew cross and irritable, so she put on weight because of excess eating.

"Now I find that she has been subsidizing a no-count fellow in our town, and furnishing him money for liquor.

"They were arrested by the police last week for making a disturbance while drunk in an apartment some friend had lent them for the night.

"Dr. Crane, where did I make my mistake in rearing Bella?"

BASEBALL AVERAGES

Parents, don't chide yourselves too much for the failure of your kids.

You can't be expected to rate a 1.000 batting average. In fact, if you attain the 0.333 of a star outfielder, you deserve a gold star in this hectic modern age.

Besides, children are not clay tablets, passively waiting to have us imprint good habits thereon.

They can size people up and do a lot of sensible figuring, long before they leave grade school.

And by the age of 16, their brain reaches maturity so they are capable of adult thinking thereafter.

I say this because a lot of wonderful parents come up with "rotter" sons and daughters who then try to make those parents more miserable by charging them with being at fault for the children's crimes or illicit affairs.

FACE THE FACTS

Being a good parent is not a one-way street! You kids have an equal obligation to be a good son or daughter.

★ ★ ★

If your dad brings home a fair pay check regularly, then you should also bring home at least a fair grade ("C" or better) to show you are working equally well at your main job, too.

If your father furnishes you food and clothing, plus a warm home in which to live, then you should also furnish your parents evidences of your gratitude by helping with the chores and by giving verbal compliments to Dad and Mother.

True enough, some Dads stumble home drunk and beat up their wives, or curse at their children.

But did you kids ever realize you also get into a lot of jams, too, that cause shame and worry to your folks?

How many of you have been suspended or expelled from school? How many have brought home flunk notices?

How many have been arrested for reckless driving of the family car? How many of you still "sponge" off your parents for spending money, instead of earning your own funds?

Too long we have stressed the obligations of parents to their children.

It is high time we also emphasized the obligation of kids to their parents.

So send for my "Behavior Test for Teenagers," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

It will show you whether you are emotionally juvenile or a true adult.

And it will be a good companion Rating Scale to the "Tests for Parents" offered yesterday.

If you kids have courage, take this test and see how you rate, before you try to pass the buck to your parents for your own errors.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his phychological charts and pamphlets.

Knowland-Knight Rift Helps Dems

GOP Fights to Hold California

By SYDNEY KOSSEN

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (NEA) — Republicans and Democrats are fighting frantically for California. Next to New York, it's the juiciest political plum in the nation.

Both parties are pleading for votes from remote forest settlements at the Oregon line to dusty lemon groves along the Mexican border.

In this polyglot Western state, citizens have been lured out to hear the candidates by Latin-American marimba bands, a Chinese glockenspiel orchestra, Irish pipers, Spanish barbecues and potluck picnics.

To the candidates for governor and U. S. senator, this is the opportunity of a lifetime. Because of a grim game of Republican musical chairs, no incumbent is trying to get re-elected to either of those two offeces.

Solemn, deep-voiced William Fife Knowland is leaving the Senate at the peak of his career to run for governor.

His fellow Republican, Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, had announced he was in the battle for re-election to stay and that he did not have the "slightest interest" in trying for the Senate.

★ ★ ★

But as the Knowland bandwagon started rolling seven months in advance of the primary election, Knight turned up in Washington. After audiences with Presiden Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon, the governor announced that he would be a candidate for the Senate.

Knowland and Knight have always run in luck. But, after a poor GOP showing in the June primary, luck may run out on them on Nov. 4.

State Attorney General Edmund (Pat) Brown, a friendly, persuasive 200-pounder, is expected to be the first Democrat to occupy California's Executive Mansion in 16 years. In the primary, his combined two-party vote under the State's cross-filing system exceeded Knowland's by 662,000.

★ ★ ★

Knight's Democratic opponent for senator is Congressman Clair Engle, a peppery 47-year-old phrasemaker. For 15 years Engle has represented the mountainous second congressional district — the third largest in the nation.

★ ★ ★

One of Knowland's big handicaps is that the GOP is split in California. Many Republicans apparently blame him for the rift.

They're smiling here, but the rift between California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and Sen. William F. Knowland is damaging their efforts to trade jobs in the November election.

Attorney General Pat Brown may be listening for the sound of a Democratic landslide, but he's campaigning hard for the governorship.

Another drawback: Knowland's open espousal of a "right to work" law. Knight and other top-level Republicans consider this an albatross around the party's neck.

Caught in the crossfire is Vice President Nixon, whose political standing and power will be damaged if the state house and the senate seat of his home state fall to the Democrats.

The 53-year-old Brown has the politician's gift of winning friends at factory gates and pensioners' picnics. Knowland finds it difficult to carry off the common touch and even canceled a walking tour of San Francisco.

Goodie Knight, 62, has been an elected public official for 22 years and governor since Earl Warren resigned in 1953 to become Chief Justice of the United States. Knight obviously likes being governor of California's 14½ million. He has an attractive 40-year-old wife, whom he married in 1954, four years after the death of his first wife.

★ ★ ★

He calls himself an "Eisenhower modern Republican" and praises the President's domestic and foreign policy. Knight says his record in Sacramento proves that he knows the needs of California. He tries hard to cultivate Democrats and ally himself with labor.

Eskimo Life Uncovered

MSU Anthropologists' Expedition Is Success

EAST LANSING (AP)—Weeks of isolation in Canada's Arctic wastelands paid off for a Michigan State University anthropologist who dug up important new evidence of Eskimo life 1,000 years ago.

Moreau S. Maxwell came home with a new respect for the primitive but hardy race that inhabited the frigid areas of the north many centuries ago.

★ ★ ★

"The conditions under which some of their journeys were made were worse than the voyage of Columbus," he said.

With an 18-man party of Canadian scientists, Maxwell flew deep into the Arctic last May on an expedition contributing to Canada's role in the International Geophysical year.

Maxwell, the only American in the group, spent three months digging in Eskimo remains on remote Ellesmere Island. About 400 miles long. It lies several hundred miles from the North Pole and all but touches the northwest shores of Greenland.

The expedition, led by G. F. Hattersley-Smith, accumulated valuable facts and figures on weather, ice and topography in the northern Arctic. Maxwell worked almost entirely by, himself, spending as many as 24 straight days alone among Eskimo sites discovered 76 years ago by an American explorer, Lt. A. W. Greeley, who later helped organize the U.S. Army Signal Corps.

★ ★ ★

The sites, most near Hazen Lake, are situated farther north than any others so far discovered on the North American continent, Maxwell said. Others somewhat nearer the Pole have been found on Greenland.

With trowel and spade, Maxwell investigated six semi-subterranean sleeping platforms dug out by Eskimos and 27 rings or rocks which once anchored tents of caribou hides.

Careful digging yielded a wealth of artifacts, including strings of amber beads, dolls made of driftwood, a soapstone cooking lamp, an ivory needle case, sledshoes and a comb, both made of whalebone, and the remains of a man and woman. Once classified by Maxwell, they will be shipped to the Canadian National Museum at Ottawa.

From this and other evidence, Maxwell drew what he stressed are preliminary conclusions.

"No more than two or three families of probably no more than four persons each ever inhabited the island at one time," he said. "I doubt if any one group stayed more than two or three years at the most."

The oldest habitation, he said, apparently was erected close to 1,000 years ago. The last group he believes left about the 13th century.

Eskimos now on the island were transplanted there a few years ago by the Canadian government.

Girl, 10, Starts Out Well on Goal of 'Private Eye'

SYLVESTER, Ga. (UPI) — Mim Shell, 10, confides that her ambition is to grow up to be a lady "private eye."

Mim saw two men apparently trying to break into a filling station partly owned by her father, Carl Shell. Her father laughed at her but when later investigation disclosed a burglary Mim provided a close description of the culprits and they were quickly arrested.

Lighted Cigarette Lands in Bank Deposit Box

QUINCY, Ill. (UP)— There was "money to burn" in the Broadway National bank night depository box, but none was destroyed when a passerby deposited a burning cigarette.

Bank officials were called after Paul Wilmington noticed smoke coming from the depository. The blaze was doused with water.

Great Lakes Remain Below Average Level

DETROIT (UPI) — The Great Lakes remained below their average level for September, according to the lake survey of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Lakes Michigan and Huron, at 578.70 feet, were more than two feet below their average normal level for September.

All the lakes but Lake Superior normally drop in level during September. Michigan, Huron and Erie dropped at about normal rate, while Lake Ontario declined but less than normally. Lake Superior, which normally rises, rose at a greater than normal rate but was still below the average level at 602.40 feet. Normal is 602.66 feet. All the lakes are expected to decline in October.

Templehof Airport in Berlin is one of the few airports in the world located in the center of a large city.

27 U. S. Airports Set to Handle Jet Traffic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A total of 27 U. S. airports will be ready to handle all or some commercial jet traffic by Jan. 1, 1960 — target date for full-scale jet operations. These include:

San Francisco, New York International, Denver, Baltimore, Chicago (O'Hare), Los Angeles, Fort Worth, Detroit (Willow Run and Wayne Major), Miami, Seattle, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Boston, Philadelphia, Kansas City (new airport), Dallas, Cleveland, Atlanta, Memphis, Nashville, Tulsa, Albuquerque, Toledo, Tucson, Portland Ore., and Louisville.

Planes Halt Cameras

NEW YORK (UPI) — The location chosen for filming "Rough Riders," a new TV series set in the 1860s, was changed after just one day because commercial airliners kept passing overhead.

Wit Characterizes Signs of the Times

Some signs of the times: on a country store near Batesville, Miss.: "Ice cold ice." In a New York City book store: "Come in and browse but don't touch—the salesgirls." On a Chicago taxi: "Pass left—or pass on." In a Rochester, N.Y., toyshop: "Yes we have hoops—darn it!" In a Cincinnati supermarket during a rearrangement of the window display: "We trim our windows—not our customers." On a Volkswagen in Connecticut: "Help us, stamp out Cadillacs."

OK—All in the Family!

JAMESTOWN, Tenn. (UPI) — The belt buckle was missing from a dress Mrs. H. B. Lester Jr. got back from the cleaners. Three weeks later, H. B. Lester, her father-in-law, found the buckle in the lining of a jacket he had in the cleaners at the same time.

How Is Line Drawn Between Car, Home?

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — Policemen called by Andrew Goss, 26, to investigate theft from his automobile weren't sure the case shouldn't have been entered as house burglary.

The car was equipped with television, radio, record player, sliding trays for use as tables, cigarette dispenser and electrical outlets for such appliances as a razor, skillet and coffee pot. And a burglar alarm, linked to the horn, which warned Goss that someone had broken in.

Part of the loot was a cake. Asked where in the car that came from, policeman Gene McGovern replied:

"Gosh, I don't know. There might have been a kitchen in the back seat for all I know."

Portugal is a small country, but it has nine colonies in other parts of the globe.

New York Kids Ignore Grass, Want Paving

NEW YORK (AP) — Grass and shrubbery may be very pretty to look at.

But for playing games, a lot of kids think there's nothing like the good old sidewalks of New York.

★ ★ ★

Boys and girls from six to the early teens in low-rent housing projects have been chalking squares and circles on the paved walks to play their games. They have been skating around the project walks at dizzy speed that scare package-laden housewives.

★ ★ ★

So the City Housing Authority has decided to dig up grass and uproot shrubbery at some of its projects and pave the space. Then the kids can have a good hard surface for their hopscotch, top spinning, roller skating, and other traditional sidewalk fun.

Despite changing times, they'll be able to trip the light fantastic on the sidewalks of New York.

Tests Indicate Silica Can Control Roaches

LOS ANGELES — Experiments at the University of California at Los Angeles indicate that cockroach control may be greatly improved by use of inert, nontoxic silica dusts that kill faster and more consistently than chemical insecticides.

In the tests, a powdered form of silica aerogels of the Syloid group was sprinkled on the floor. It was found to absorb the water-retaining, protective coating of the roaches walking through it, and to kill them by dessication.

Since the powder's action is nonchemical, the researchers say it's highly possible that the roaches may not develop an immunity to it.

License Plates Ready

LANSING (UPI) — The state's new license plates go on sale Nov. 1 but already first supplies of the green and gold tags have been shipped to Secretary of State branch offices in the Upper Peninsula. Secretary of State James M. Hare said the plates were taken by truck.

Capacity of the U.S. steel industry is about 126 million tons per year.

Ice May Save Man's Brain After Heart Stops

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

CHICAGO (UPI) — Quick and skilled refrigeration will save a man's brain after his stopped heart has been restarted, the American College of Surgeons' 44th Annual Clinical Congress was told this week.

It was new proof of science's increasing ability to tip nature's balances toward life and away from death.

The heart stops beating and the flow of oxygenated blood to the brain stops. I has been believed that brain cells start dying almost at once and, if the flow of oxygen is stopped for five minutes, the brain is irreversibly damaged.

But it occurred to Drs. Jack M. Zimmerman and Frank C. Spencer of the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, that what was happening to the oxygen-deprived brain was what happened to a sprained ankle.

Both swell. But the brain is held in its rigid case, the skull. Swelling compresses it against its case and cells are damaged and killed by compression. This the doctors set out to prevent in 11 persons whose hearts had been stopped for four to five minutes before they were restarted. They sought to do it in the way a sprained ankle is prevented from swelling—by the application of cold.

This was done by encasing the unconscious patients in ice packs, reducing their body temperature seven to eight degrees and holding it there for some time. Seven of the 11 got well, and without any lingering damage to the central nervous system of which the brain is the master.

All 11 had been "dead" as the layman understands death—their hearts had been stopped by stab wounds in some, by drug reactions in others, and by shock and other heart stoppers in still others. Restarting stopped hearts, however, is almost a routine matter in today's advanced state of scientific know-how. But what good is it to save a man's heart for him if he thereby loses his brain to oxygen lack?

None, because that kills him, usually one to three days after the cerebral flood flow was interrupted. At autopsies these brains show a high amount of fluid content. No one has proven yet that oxygen lack causes the brain to swell, but Zimmerman and Spencer took the presence of fluid to mean that swelling had taken place and the resulting pressure of the brain against its bony case had produced the fluid by killing cells.

In making their report to the surgeons' congress, they emphasized this was theory, but they had their seven out of 11 recovered patients to make the "theory" impressive. They substantiated the "theory" further with experiments with 24 dogs.

Ex-Convict Seeks Job With Suspicious Tools

MODESTO, Calif. (UPI)—Christerfer Tegetmeyer, a 39-year-old ex-convict, was picked up by sheriff's deputies because they found him carrying a .22 caliber gun, a wooden "dummy" pistol, a knife and a make-believe hand grenade.

But Tegetmeyer insisted he had come to Modesto "looking for work."

The French Academy of Surgery was founded in Paris in 1731.

Lady Treasurer Writes Book

Ivy Baker Priest Tells of Combining Career With Homemaking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Never underestimate the power of a woman, at least in politics. That could well be the motto of Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest.

Mrs. Priest, who climbed the political ladder from a small Utah mining town to become Treasurer of the United States, has just written a testimonial to the effectiveness of women in politics.

Her newly published memoirs are also a testimonial to the career woman. The idea that "a wife and mother can, and should, have an active life outside her household" sounds almost commonplace these days.

But when the "wife and mother" is Ivy Baker Priest, when the "active life" involves holding one of the top jobs in the Eisenhower administration, and when the "household" includes three irrepressible youngsters, the theory takes on new meaning.

Those hoping for revelations of national political scandal from Mrs. Priest's autobiography had better look elsewhere.

"Green Grows Ivy" (published by McGraw-Hill Book Company, Inc., New York) is an informal, woman-to-woman account of how to combine the role of homemaker with that of politician.

Mrs. Priest, who writes that "my work in politics and in government has been secondary to my job as homemaker," frankly admits that she has often been somewhat in awe of her own success.

Leaky Valve Adds Fizz to Beach Club Shower

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — For weeks members of the Colony Beach Club had showers that seemed to "fizz."

Finally it was discovered that a valve in the club's carbonating room was defective, allowing carbon dioxide gas to escape into the water system. Now members are showering with plain old wet water.

Ions Can Clean Glass

SUSSEX, England (UPI) — Researchers at a Sussex plant have found that glass surfaces can be cleaned by bombardment with ions generated by an electric glow discharge. The action of the ions is mechanical; they knock contaminants off the glass. Ionically cleaned glass is said to be so free of surface contaminants that metal films readily adhere to it.

News About Social Security

Goal Is Better Care for Aged

By RAY HENRY
Associated Press Writer

The American Medical Assn.—with its 200,000 doctors—has just set up its No. 1 target for the year: Creating better care for the aged.

This should be welcome news for older people. The AMA, a powerful and potent organization, has done little so far as an organization to offer national leadership to help solve the problems of the aged. As a really active force, it has much to offer.

AMA President-elect Louis M. Orr named the target at a special meeting of 200 state and national AMA officials in Chicago recently. He told the meeting:

"You might ask why we as physicians and related professionals should concern ourselves with these people. The question can be answered simply. Ten years ago, life expectancy was 65 years. Today it is pushing into the lower 70's.

"Medicine and its related fields have been largely responsible for this expanding longevity. Therefore, medicine and its related fields have a responsibility of doing all they can toward solving any problems which they themselves helped to generate."

★ ★ ★

Orr ticked off six ways which the AMA—as a program—could attack the problems of the aging. And, the program was accepted by the meeting as a challenge for the AMA. They were:

1. Stimulation of a realistic attitude toward aging by all people.

2. Extension of effective methods of financing health care for the aged.

3. Expansion of skilled-personnel training programs and improvement of medical and related facilities for older people.

4. Promotion of health maintenance programs and wider use of restorative and rehabilitative services.

5. Amplification of medical and socio-economic research in problems of the aging.

6. Cooperation in community programs for senior citizens.

Of course, how successful the AMA's program will be only time will tell.

Orr told the meeting that "all the best plans will mean nothing so long as you and I think of our aging population as an abstract problem involving only a large number of faceless people. A plan develops meaning when you reduce that figure of 15 million oldsters to those dozen or so persons who are close personal friends of yours."

"There are now," he said, "15 million Americans or one out of every 11 over 65 years of age. By 1970, one out of every 10 Americans will be 65 or older. I trust that by then there will be no need for a meeting such as this on the problems of our aging population.

"Why? Because the problems of our aging population is so important that someone is going to solve it—indeed must solve it—in the next few years.

"We in the field of medicine have the special understanding needed to find the answers."

AF 'Falcon' Being Added to Air Defense of State

MOUNT CLEMENS (UPI) — A new fighter plane capable of going high enough and fast enough to knock down any airplane in the world, is being added to the Air Force defense in Michigan, it was announced today.

Colonel Glenn E. Duncan, commander of Selfridge Air Force Base, announced that the 71st Fighter Interceptor Squadron based at Selfridge Field will be equipped with the new planes within a week.

The new plane — called the "Falcon" — is the Convair F102A which, according to Duncan, can fly in any kind of weather, day or night.

Selfridge-based F102As could, according to Duncan, intercept attackers far up in Canada's wastelands, with minimal damage to people or industries.

The radical new interceptor carries two types of air-to-air guided missiles, as well as rockets —making hairline efficiency "part of the job."

The new plane is bigger than previous interceptors and is about the size of a World War II medium bomber. This is necessary because of space requirements for the J57 engine, plus more than 1,700 pounds of electronic eyes, muscle and brain — and the missiles and rockets.

Its swept-back Delta wing design provides stability and maneuverability. It flies faster than sound in level flight.

About 35 to 40 per cent of all cobalt produced is used to make alloys designed to withstand high temperatures.

Patient's Death Laid to Ailment

Ask State Police Aid After Autopsy Report Given at Coldwater

LANSING (UPI) — The death of a severely bruised patient prompted lawmakers today to seek state police aid in a probe of alleged brutality and mismanagement at a mental hospital.

These were the late developments:

—Two pathologists said death yesterday of a patient at the Coldwater State Home and Training School was caused by a chronic kidney ailment. The patient, Joseph Kibiloski, 45, Bronson, had cuts, bruises and three broken ribs when he died.

—Rep. Harry J. Phillips (R-Port Huron), chairman of a House committee studying operations of all state mental hospitals, said he would ask state police for a lie detector and detectives "to find out who's lying."

—Phillips claimed to have medical advice, pictures and recorded testimony which will show Kibiloski's death was "hastened by a sadist or sadists" among the hospital attendants.

—The Mental Health Commission was summoned to an emergency meeting today at Coldwater with Mental Health Director Charles E. Wagg and Hospital Superintendent Dr. E. J. Rennell, who was returning from a hunting trip in the western Upper Peninsula.

—Wagg said he was "somewhat critical" of the handling of Kibiloski's case but both Wagg and Phillips denied reports an immediate shakeup of the hospital staff would be sought.

Wagg insisted his own investigation disclosed no evidence of mistreatment.

Husband Slays Wife, Then Ends Own Life

ship police chief, arrived soon after, broke in the door, and discovered the bodies.

Sheriff Frank W. Irons and Det. Donald Francis labled the deaths murder-suicide.

Police said Kiser, a warehouse worker who has been unemployed since last December, shot his first wife to death accidentally while cleaning a rifle at their home in Charlevoix in 1953.

Married in May, Kiser and his second wife lived in Keego Harbor until three weeks ago, then moved to the Pontiac Lake cottage.

Mrs. Kiser had another daughter, Elizabeth Frye, 16, and Kiser had one son by his first marriage, Thomas Jr., 6, who lives with grandparents in Cheboygan. The bodies were taken to Pursley Funeral Home after examination by Dr. W. R. Rech, Walled Lake deputy coroner.

Good Bargain on Socks

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan's mental institutions are getting 91,000 pair of federal surplus socks at a real bargain, State Controller James W. Miller said today. The socks cost $50,000. The state will get them for $459.

Goldfine to Get That Carpet Back Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—That rug is going back to Bernard Goldfine.

What rug? The one that figured so heavily in congressional investigation testimony about the relations between Boston millionaire Goldfine and Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's chief aide.

★ ★ ★

An employe of rug cleaner Harold Mark Keshishian, who refused to identify herself, said the cleaning establishment had received the rug from Adams with instructions to clean it and ship it to Goldfine.

"We are just about finished with it. It will be sent today or tomorrow," she said.

She said "this beautiful rug was in wonderful condition" and needed only cleaning.

The rug, valued at $2,400 in testimony before a House investigating committee, figurd along with $3,000 worth of hotel bills and other gifts to Adams in building a storm of criticism which wound up with Adams' resignation from his White House job.

Goldfine testified the rug was only a loan. He said he needed one for his showrooms in Boston, bought this one and let Adams use it for the time being.

★ ★ ★

Presumably the removal of the rug means Adams is breaking up his Washington home where it graced the living room. Adams is still around the White House but is staying only long enough for an orderly shift of his job to Wilton B. Persons.

3 Pontiac Policemen Win Promotion Suit

placed first on the sergeant eligibility list. Detective James H. LaPonsie dropped out of the suit as it was being heard last month since he placed third on the two-vacancy sergeant list. Cooley was second.

Goines placed second behind William K. Hanger, who was the only one to get lieutenant bars based on the lists. Goines will get the only other lieutenant promotion open as the result of the suit.

Judge Adams said Willman violated his "clear legal duty" under the act to promote the men highest on the eligibility lists. Instead acting officers were placed in these positions.

"In this case we have an appointing officer (Willman), encouraged by his chief of police, attempting to avoid the provisions of the act by the obvious expedient of a change in the title of a position but without a change in the character of the duties performed," the judge said.

"Regardless of whether the public officials of the city like it or not, the law (civil service) must be obeyed," Judge Adams added.

Insects? 'Tis Nothing

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The state health minister made a personal investigation of a complaint by Madras state legislators that insects flowed out of water taps almost as freely as water. "A slight deterioration in the chemical quality of the water," the minister admitted.

Pope 'Dies' Many Times During His Final Hours

By BOB CONSIDINE

ROME —"What do you hear?" The man behind the desk at the Grand Hotel asked early Wednesday morning. I said that the last I had heard a few minutes before was that Pope Pius was hanging on to life in a most courageous and dogged way.

"Wrong," the man said, close to tears. "He is dead."

"That's not possible," I said, "unless you've heard the news within the last few minutes."

The man shrugged and said, "I heard it some time ago."

I snorted at the ignorance of the amateur journalist and went to the door of the hotel. A boy rushed in with an armful of "Il Tempos." The thick headline across the top read:

"Il Papa E. Morto."

A second paper, "Il Messaggero," said the same thing in a special edition minutes later. "Giornale d'Italia" came along with further confirmation. "Il Tempo" came back with a second extra edition which related that the Pope had died at 10:40 a.m. Another paper spoke of tearful scenes at bedside and so forth.

★ ★ ★

At 6 p.m. the semi-official Italian news service correspondent on the scene at Castel Gandolfo flashed "Pope dead," then related in the most miniscule detail the scenes that followed—the hanging out of a half-masted papal flag rimmed in black, the solemn closing of the old gate at the Pope's summer palace, the reaction of Signor Fanfani and his host of children, and so forth.

It was wrong in its gravest detail. Eugenio Pacelli still breathed.

At 11 p.m. Vatican Radio announced that it had a somber announcement to make at 11:30. That had to be it, some said, and so readied their flashes and stories. There was no announcement at 11:30 beyond a repetition that the Pope had received oxygen, penicillin and streptomycin.

★ ★ ★

One of the Roman newspapers which put out the death story this morning sent operatives into the streets offering 500 lire (80 cents) per copy, trying to buy them back. But police had seized the necessary papers and there may be prosecution of this and other papers under an Italian law which prohibits the printing of alarming false news.

★ ★ ★

Midnight came and with it the day of Thursday. The Pope, the Vatican Radio said, was in his death throes. Then, at 3 a.m., he who had been killed off so many times by typewriters and microphones the day before, lost his final struggle.

Waterford Township Cafe Robbed of $75

Someone familiar with Joe's Coney Island Restaurant, 3172 W. Huron St. carefully removed two panels from the back door early this morning, loosened protective iron bars and stole $75 from the cigarette machine, Waterford Township police said.

The owner, Joe Hebda, 5058 Westcomb St., told police he closed the restaurant at 3:30 a.m. Police discovered the breakin at 5:30 a.m. and are investigating footprints found near the door.

From 10 to 15 per cent of all deaths in the world are caused by cancer, medical authorities believe.

The world's largest shrimp fishery is in the South Atlantic and Gulf states of the United States.

School-bond sales in the first six months of 1958 totaled $1,300,596,000 compared with $1,243,967,000 in the like period of 1957.

GOP Investigators Charge:

Mackie's Blunder Cost State $155,125

LANSING (AP) — Republican investigators have fixed the price of a Democratic bond issue blunder last June at $155,125.

That was their conclusion yesterday after a special legislative committee sifting governmental waste heard the story of how a 100-million-dollar highway bond sale was handled.

"Incredible," said Sen. L. Harvey Lodge (R-Drayton Plains), committee chairman, during the recital by Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie.

Mackie and State Treasurer Sanford A. Brown, who also had a role in the transaction, disputed the Republican figure. Mackie contended the loss to the state was $44,575.

As he has before, the highway commissioner took the blame.

"I am responsible and I admit the mistake, regretfully," he said.

A hitch in the sale, to be completed June 23 in New York, developed when Mackie shared the bond signing chore with a deputy.

The purchasing syndicate refused to accept the bonds, and it was agreed that they would be reprinted—at a cost of $32,437, all signed by Mackie and that delivery would be taken on July 9. This was done.

* * *

The state was paid accrued interest from June 1, the date on the face of the bonds, through June 25 in the amount of $235,934. Lodge and Sen. Paul C. Younger (R-Lansing) insisted that the state should have demanded and received accrued interest of $358,621 —through July 8.

Repeatedly, Lodge and Younger asked Mackie, Brown and other participants in the sale who advised them they had the authority to accept the lesser sum. They implied such authority was lacking.

The nearest thing to a specific answer came from Brown, who said he was counseled by the attorney general's office. But he refused, without consulting records, to say whether it was Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams personally.

* * *

"You don't know the time, place or attorney who advised you although this was a matter in controversy almost since its inception?" Lodge asked, a note of incredulity in his voice.

Brown repeated that he would have to review his files.

Lodge read from the bond resolution a condition providing for payment of accrued interest by the purchaser to the date of delivery at the time of delivery. He came back to the provision time and again.

There was a hint that the senators might have in mind a move of some sort to recoup the loss. Lodge asked the amount of Mackie's surety bond, and was told it was about $100,000.

At one point, Lodge suggested that the Michigan officials might have been victimized by "sharpies" of the financial world.

Pope Pius XII: Above Everything Else, a Priest

No Man Could Match His Power, Prestige

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

ROME (NEA)—There is no man living who commanded the power, the prestige and the authority of Pope Pius XII.

There is also no man in the world who shouldered such overwhelming responsibilities. His task was both crucifying and harassing and, at the same time, incredibly solitary.

Twenty centuries of history and tradition and a long life's experience fashioned the mind and spirit of 82-year-old Eugenio Pacelli. While he represented religious aspirations as old as man, he was perfectly at his ease in an era which has seen the splitting of the atom.

The result was an extraordinary human being. Vicar of Christ and successor to Saint Peter, the supreme spiritual power over nearly 500,000,000 Roman Catholics and revered as such, Pope Pius XII was a man whose culture was so extensive that he often astounded his close collaborators.

The Pope was, above all else, a priest. But besides that he was statesman, administrator, humanist, astrologer, journalist, professor, orator and linguist. Pope Pius XII was also the man the Kremlin feared the most.

Anyone who has stood among the crowd which flocks to the great square facing the Basilica of Saint Peter in Rome on Easter Sunday could not help being moved by the emotion which swept over the faithful when the Pope, a small figure in white high up on a balcony, blessed his people.

The cry: "Evviva el Papa" gushed from thousands of throats. Mothers held up their babes to receive his blessing, children blew kisses to him. For the Italians, especially the more humble people, he was veritably a father and their affection came from the heart.

Before his illness, the Pope often worked long after the Vatican had gone to bed. Night workers whose path took them by the Vatican would cross themselves as they looked up at the small solitary light burning at a window on the third floor which they knew was the Pope's study.

There are many anecdotes regarding the Pope's human approach and simplicity.

STORY OF LITTLE BOY

There is the story of the little boy who, with his parents, had attended an audience at the Vatican. After the papal benediction, young Giovanni cried: "Holy Father, when I am grown up I want to be Pope."

The other pilgrims, including his parents, were horrified. But the Pope turned to the child with a sad smile and said: "Ah, my child, you do not know what you are wishing for."

This cry from the heart came from a man whose sole ambition was to be a good parish priest. His love for and inherent understanding of his fellowmen is evident to all who have approached him.

Protestants and non-Christians, even unbelievers, who have had the privilege of seeing the Pope, whether in private or public audience, were all impressed by the aura of spirituality and simplicity which radiated from him.

Not so long ago, hundreds of pilgrims went to Castel Gandolfo, the papal summer residence some fifteen miles south of Rome. The Pope welcomed them in Italian. But one of the groups cried: "We come from France, Holy Father." He spoke a few words in French.

Then the chorus was taken up by the crowd. The Pope spoke in German, Spanish, Hungarian, Polish, Portuguese and English. Finally a voice in a small group said. "We come from Ireland." The Pope smiled, and raising his hands: "Cead mile failte," he said in Gaelic—"May you be a hundred times welcome."

The Pope discussed church matters daily with priests of various nationalities but there was never an interpreter present. Pope Pius was not only a great linguist but his hobby was words. His favorite pastime was reading the dictionaries of a dozen languages.

★ ★ ★

Since the days when the first Popes fought for the life of the Christians, no other pontiff before Pius XII has ever had to mobilize the forces of Christianism to fight communism. The Holy Father, furthermore, had personal experience of Communist methods.

WITHIN RANGE OF FIRE

In 1919 when, as Cardinal Pacelli, he was appointed Papal Nuncio to Bavaria, the Communists took over the government in Munich. The Nuncio's residence was actually within the range of fire.

A few days later, during another attack, Monsignor Pacelli opened the door in person. With the utmost calm he faced his aggressors. Their leader pointed a revolver at his heart, ordered him off the premises. The two men looked straight into each other's eyes.

"I am here and I will stay here" said the Nuncio, after a few seconds of silence. "No human power will make me move." The Communist chief hesitated, then under the inflexible gaze of the priest, turned on his heels and left.

The Pope did not consider himself a pioneer in the struggle against communism for all that. He could cite from memory all the anti-Marxist declarations made by his predecessors since 1864. His memory was prodigious.

For most people, Pope Pius XII was a spiritual leader, an impersonal being hidden behind a facade of dignity, tradition and ceremonial.

★ ★ ★

Few people knew him as he was — a man with a charming sense of humor, a man who remained humble in the midst of his almost superhuman responsibilities, and that behind his urbane exterior he had his weak points and idiosyncracies — just like other men.

But unlike most men, he was absolutely alone, a solitary figure in the busy and vast Vatican City.

The spiritual leadership of nearly 500,000,000 souls is an overwhelming task. It means the daily study of dozens of reports from all over the globe. These reports are not mere formalities: the Pope insisted on being posted on the smallest details. His decisions were made immediately, his counsels and encouragements given without delay.

Besides this, his activities were far-reaching. Last year the Pope made some 20 speeches over the radio, over and above some 50 declarations on scientific, social and economic matters. He spoke on the theater, sports, and statistics, on agriculture, emigration, credit and journalism.

★ ★ ★

A few years ago, at a congress which brought together more than a thousand Superiors of women's convents throughout the world, he discussed with them the ways and means of keeping abreast of the modern world. His Holiness even found time to suggest a modernization of the nun's habit which

BEFORE CORONATION—Borne on his portable throne, Pope Pius XII enters the basilica of St. Peter's in Vatican City for Mass March 12, 1939, preliminary to his coronation.

'My Mission Is Peace, My Weapon...the Cross'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Pius XII was one of the 20th Century's greatest champions of peace and its most uncompromising foe of communism.

★ ★ ★

Known as "The Pope of Peace," Pius told the world:

"My mission is peace. The only weapon I carry is the cross."

And he warned all nations that communism had raised its "clenched fist of anti-Christ in menancing defiance against heaven," and that calamity was a certainty "unless the spirit of justice and love enters again into the hearts of men and unites them in brotherly love."

As Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church, the gentle-mannered Pius was the spiritual leader of the world's nearly 500,000,000 Roman Catholics, but his influence extended far beyond the confines of his faith.

★ ★ ★

Born Eugenio Pacelli in Rome on March 2, 1876, he was elected Pope just 63 years later—March 2, 1939—after the death of Pope Pius XI.

IN CHAOTIC TIMES

Pius' career in the service of his church and God spanned some of the most turbulent years in the history of mankind. They were years that saw the rise of fascism, nazism and communism, two world wars, the advent of the atomic age, the Korean War, unrest and change in the Soviet bloc and the Suez crisis.

His long years in the Vatican's diplomatic service proved invaluable during his papacy. From 1944, he served as his own secretary of state in an untiring effort to promote world peace.

Yet, despite the time and energy he devoted to international affairs, Pius, more than any pope in history, was a pope of the people. He held audiences for more persons than any other pontiff—hundreds of thousands of all races and creeds. Prince and pauper alike were made welcome on their pilgrimages to Vatican City.

Those who came saw a slender, frail man with an ascetic face. His mouth was delicately carved. On his strong, aquiline nose rested gold-rimmed glasses, behind them a pair of black, penetrating eyes.

HEALTH WAS DELICATE

All his life, Pius fought against delicate health. He helped maintain his strength with daily, early morning exercises.

★ ★ ★

But more important than the exercises was his iron will. When his doctors begged him to take life easier, he was quoted as saying:

"A pope must work until he dies."

The Pope looked upon his office primarily as that of teacher. He was Bishop of Rome, and the first duty of a bishop is to teach and preach. Pius took the duty seriously.

The topics on which he wrote and addressed people cover an unparalleled range in the history of the papacy. The subjects ranged from animals to astronomy to atoms. He could talk about them fluently in seven languages: Latin, Italian, Spanish, English, German, French and Portuguese.

The Pope's voice was never raised more loudly or more forcefully than when he spoke against communism. His life-long wish was that communism would be crushed by the time of his death. Although that wish was not to be fulfilled, the Pope fought the atheistic doctrine as long as he was able to take pen in hand or open his mouth to speak.

SWEEPING DECREE

He issued a decree of major excommunication against Communist leaders, active Communist propagandists and sympathizers who embraced and preached the Communist doctrine.

The decree, judged as the most sweeping decision in the modern history of the church, did not strike at small-fry Communists who through ignorance or some necessity were in the Red ranks. To them the church held out an inviting and forgiving hand.

'I Met the Man'

Wisdom, Kindness Characterized Pope

By J. M. ROBERTS
AP News Analyst

No sensitive man could talk with Pope Pius XII without realizing that he was in the presence of a great intellect, a great force, yet with it all sincerely human.

I met the Pope in his study at Castel Gandolfo under unusual and informal circumstances. He had been through a tiring season. He had just participated in the famous 1948 ceremony of the lighting of the candles at St. Peter's, when the entire edifice is outlined in light. He had then gone to the summer Vatican to escape all appointments.

He had, however, agreed to see Brig. Gen. Willard S. Paul, now president of Gettysburg College, and Mrs. Paul.

Frank Gowan, aide to Myron Taylor when the latter was President Truman's personal representative to the Vatican, was a personal friend of the Pope. Accompanying the general, he told me to come along and he would see what he could do about getting me into the audience chamber.

★ ★ ★

I waited in an anteroom without much hope.

But Gowan had interceded directly. He fell back at the door when the General and Mrs. Paul emerged, and crooked a finger at me. Quickly I was in.

★ ★ ★

I explained my understanding of the limitations against reporting the interview; that I was seeking information and opinion for guidance, not for quotation.

The Pope gave no sign of any feeling that I had intruded, or that he didn't have much time for me.

Noting from the absence of the outward displays of reverence to which he is accustomed from Catholics, he asked with what can only be described as very courteous diffidence if I would care to have one of his rosaries. Assured, he presented it with a blessing over and above the one give me, and all of the objects on my person, when I entered the room.

Then, for 35 minutes, I asked questions and he talked about affairs of the world.

There was no visible hesitation or equivocation.

Some of the answers would have started the world's news wires humming. Some did at later times, when he expressed the same ideas publicly.

After one or two such occasions I wrote, asking if because of public utterance I could be released from the original restrictions. Blessings on my work, was the reply, but he couldn't change the rule.

When I left the room I had only a vague recollection of what he wore, of what kind of desk he sat at, or how the room looked.

I remembered, however, and still do, the eyes, the mobile face, the ascetic hands, and above all the voice and the words spoken in perfect English.

I had visited with a mind and tongue which expressed ideas with crystal clarity.

★ ★ ★

I had felt wisdom and kindness, and seen diffidence in a man who for many stood next to God.

★ ★ ★

I still didn't understand why he at time seemed to place stress on the morality of matters which seemed to me of less than major consequence.

But I felt then, and I still feel, that I had talked with the greatest man who has lived during my lifetime.

Pope Paid Visit to U.S. in 1936 —as a Tourist

ROME (UPI) — During one decade when Eugenio Pacelli was cardinal, he traveled widely in Europe, Latin America and the U. S.

His trip to America in 1936 made history because it was the first time that a man in that office had visited the states.

The Cardinal arrived in the midst of a presidential election campaign, a fact which occasioned widespread comment.

He insisted he had come only for a vacation and to see the U. S. And he did all the things a tourist is supposed to do.

The Cardinal took an elevator to the top of the Empire State Building in New York, saw the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia and addressed the National Press Club in Washington.

On a whirlwind tour, he saw Cleveland, Chicago, St. Paul, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Hollywood, the Boulder Dam, Kansas City and Niagara Falls.

His appearance at New York's St. Patrick's Cathedral attracted the largest crowd in the history of that church.

On Nov. 7, he sailed for Italy and arrived home after covering some 16,000 miles.

Vatican Stamps, Coins to Note 'Vacant Seat'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — When Pope Pius XI died, the Vatican's postage stamps and coins were issued with the mark "sede vacante" (vacant seat) until Pope Pius XII was elected.

Presumably the same thing will happen now until a new pope is elected, probably within 30 days.

Normally Vatican coins and stamps carry the name of the pope in whose reign they are issued.

Pope's Words to Followers Dwelt Frequently on Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII spoke out often on the state of the world for the guidance of its nearly 500 million Catholics.

In allocutions to the Cardinals each June 2 (Feast of St. Eugene) and on Christmas Eve, and in frequent encyclicals, pastoral letters, radio messages and addresses, he gave his judgment on topics ranging from agriculture to war crimes.

But the theme to which he returned oftenest was peace.

Excerpts from his major pronouncements:

Atomic Bomb—"The most terrible arm that the mind of man has yet devised."—Address to Pontifical Scientific Academy, Feb. 8, 1948.

Church in Society—"The Church cannot, shutting herself up inert in the secrecy of her temples, desert her divinely providential mission of shaping the complete man, and thereby collaborating without rest in the constitution of the solid foundation of society." Allocution to new Cardinals, Feb. 10, 1946.

Communism—"The Church . . . cannot but tear the mask from the 'forgers of lies' who come forward as founders and pioneers of a new golden age. She cannot but warn the faithful not to let themselves . . . be deluded by fallacious promises."—Christmas Eve, 1947.

Family — "The family is the building of the creation."—Radio address to Bolivian Eucharistic Congress, Jan. 30, 1949.

Labor — "A busy life, whether employed in the fields, in the profitable trades or in the liberal arts, does not bemean the mind but elevates it, does not reduce it to slavery but more truly gives it . . . control over even the most difficult circumstances."—Encyclical letter to clergy, March 21, 1947.

Marriage and Divorce—"Marriage between baptized persons, legally contracted and consummated, cannot be dissolved by any power on earth, not even by the supreme ecclesiastical authorities."—Address to Roman clergy, March 16, 1946.

Peace — "Nothing is lost with peace. Everything may be with war. Let men return to understanding. Let negotiations begin." —Radio address, Aug. 24, 1939. "A fundamental postulate of a just and honorable peace is to assure the right to life and independence of all the nations, great and small, strong and weak." Dec. 24, 1939. "The first certain and resolute step toward a true peace has not been taken." — Address to Cardinals, June 1, 1946. "The present state of affairs will not improve unless all nations recognize the common spiritual needs of humanity, unless they help each other to attain them . . ."—Christmas Eve, 1953.

Pius Prayed and Bled for War Victims

ROME (UPI) — When Europe was hurtling down the road to a new and bitter war, Pius XII was untiring in his appeals to prevent the conflict. Undaunted by his failure, he turned his attention to helping the war's victims.

He created an organization of mercy which girdled the globe and brought solace to the helpless, the hungry and the homeless—regardless of their creed or the side on which they fought.

When the battle came to the gates of Rome, he disdained an offer by the Nazi government to transfer him "protectively" to Germany. Instead, the Pope bluntly told the Nazis that they never even should have suggested such a step.

When Rome was bombed on July 19, 1943, Pius was among the first to rush to the aid of the wounded. His driver sped him from the protective walls of Vatican City at the pontiff's insistence and Pius prayed in the rubble as he blessed the remains of the dead.

Pius virtually emptied the Vatican till of all its cash to bring help to the needy.

On Aug. 13, Rome was raided again. Heedless of falling buildings, Pius ministered to the wounded in front of the church of St. John Lateran, unaware that his shoes were cut by broken glass and his hands and clothing were smeared with blood.

When Gen. Mark W. Clark finally entered Rome in June of 1944 with liberating American troops, he apologized to the Holy Father, saying:

"I am afraid you have been disturbed by the noise of my tanks. I am sorry."

The Pope's face lit up with a happy smile and he replied:

"General, any time you come to liberate Rome, you can make just as much noise as you like."

The tide of war receded and the Pope intensified his relief work. He allocated millions of dollars to the assistance of displaced persons alone.

British Prime Minister Winston Churchill was received in private audience by the Pope shortly after the end of the war. Churchill told the Pontiff of Stalin's remark at Yalta: "How many divisions has the Pope?" The Holy Father replied:

"When you see our son Joseph again, tell him that he will meet our divisions in the hereafter."

Sister, Three Nephews Are Survivors of Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius XII is survived by a sister and three nephews.

The sister is Countess Elisabetta Pacelli Rossignani.

The nephews are the Princes Marcontonio Pacelli, 51, Guilio Pacelli, 48, and Carlo Pacelli, 55. All live in Rome.

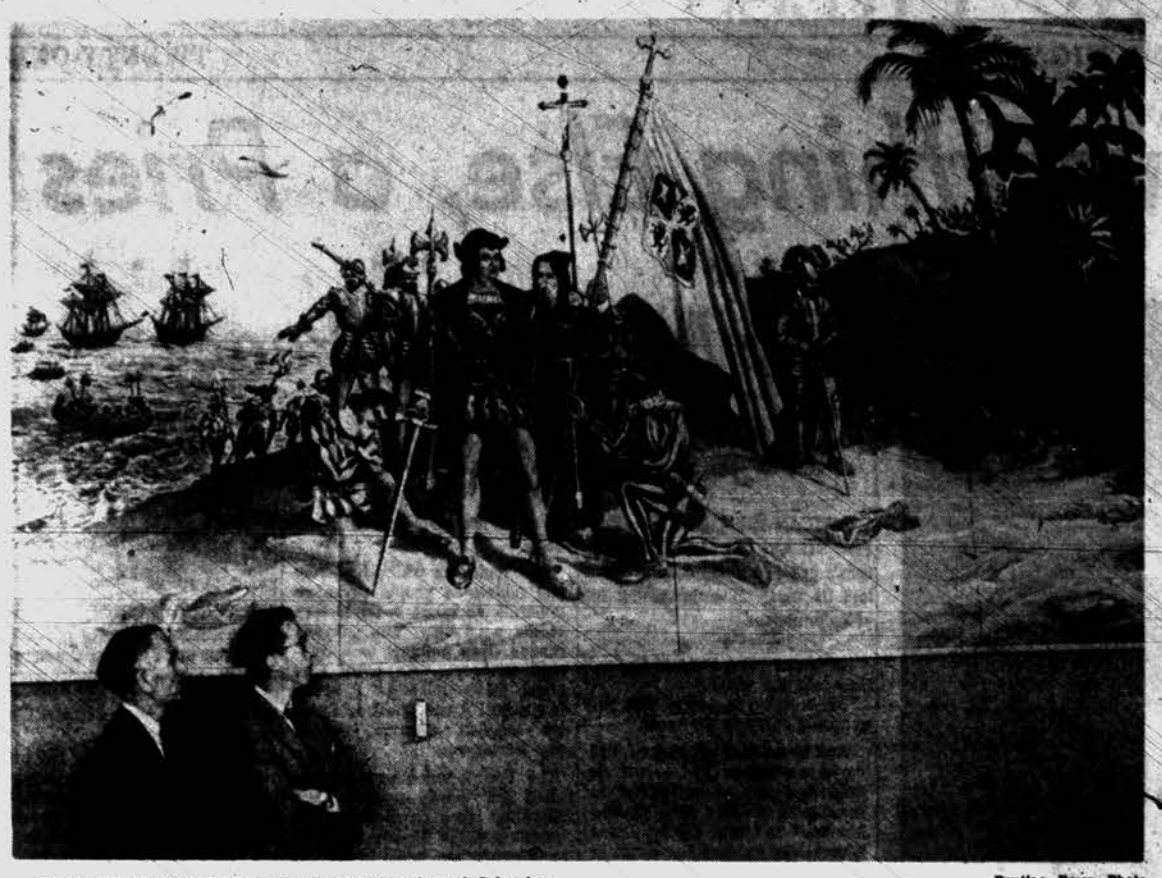

BLESSES CROWD—From a window at his residence in Castel Gandolfo, Pope Pius XII blesses a crowd that gathered to hear him speak.

K. of C. Member Paints Appropriate Mural

Have a Real Reason to Celebrate

By DICK SAUNDERS

When the Pontiac Knights of Columbus celebrate Columbus Day this Sunday they'll be doing it in a big way, thanks to a fellow member with a natural talent for painting.

The center of attraction this weekend, and for some time to come, will be a newly finished 8 by 16-foot mural now hanging in the main hallway of the Knights of Columbus Hall, 295 S. Saginaw St.

★ ★ ★

It was painted by a local K. of C. member, Edmund Smith, of 115 Alice St., who modestly admits, "I do some painting in my spare time."

The mural, painted in honor of the society's patron, depicts the landing of Columbus on the island of San Salvador.

Smith, with a wry smile, states that there was also a secondary motive behind the painting. "We had to cover up that blank wall with something," he said.

LITTLE FORMAL TRAINING

Actually, Smith has had little formal art training. Aside from two summer courses at Cranbrook back in the early 1940's, he is self taught.

His hobby rarely reaches the proportions of a mural this size, however. He researched the landing scene for about a month before beginning the job of getting it down on canvas.

"I took the rough design from a Portugese postage stamp," he said.

★ ★ ★

"Then I went over engravings in historical books to authenticate the costumes."

He has even studied documents to arrive at the right number of persons in the initial landing party.

"As far as I can find out, it is safe to assume that Columbus landed with two captains, a monk, page boy and probably two lieutenants in his immediate party.

"Another party carrying heavy armor followed," Smith explained.

The actual painting took about 50 hours, or about a month's worth of weekends. He did it all in his garage where he built a makeshift scaffolding to hold the four panels of canvas.

"I was quite the neighborhood attraction," Smith laughed. "Each weekend I had a bunch of neighborhood kids hanging around watching me work. I finally set up a regular grandstand out of boxes and wastebaskets for my curious audience."

★ ★ ★

According to John W. Lindgren, grand knight, "The members were amazed at the finished product and will be forever grateful to Ed."

Both the members and their wives will get a good look at the mural this Saturday night at their Columbus Day Dance beginning at 8 p.m.

Lodge Cautions U.N. on Tests

Wants Question of Ban on Atom Blasts to Be Settled at Geneva

UNITED NATION , N.Y. (AP) —The United States sought support in the U.N. Assembly today for a resolution countering Soviet and Indian demands for an immediate end to nuclear weapons tests.

The Americans worked privately as the debate in the Assembly's top Political Committee centered still on Russia's call for giving top priority to the question of ending tests.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge already had cautioned the U.N. to take no action that might endanger success of the big power talks starting in Geneva Oct. 31. He was the first speaker on the 81-nation committee's list.

The tentative U.S. resolution was getting a cold reception from some Asian-African countries who want an immediate and unconditional ban on nuclear tests.

The American draft was said to:

1. Voice hope for success of the Geneva parley which includes negotiations for an end to the tests and companion technical talks to begin Nov. 10 on methods of guarding against surprise attack.
2. Recommend that the Big Three use the services of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold in trying to reach agreement and make available to the U.N. the result of the Geneva talks.
3. Express hope the Geneva negotiations will lead to solution of such other tough disarmament problems as an end of production of nuclear weapons and agreement on an over-all inspection system.

In Geneva the Big Three will discuss methods of controlling an agreement on test suspension, mapped out the technical requirements for a control agency.

Van Cliburn Flies to Ailing Mother, Cancels Concert

DALLAS (AP) — Pianist Van Cliburn, who canceled a concert in Englewood, N.J., to be with his ailing mother, visited with his parents and relatives here today.

★ ★ ★

"Mother has been suffering from an infected tooth and it has caused a nerve disturbance in her face. We thought she would have to go to a hospital for oral surgery, but that will not be necessary," Cliburn told newsmen after flying here from New Jersey.

★ ★ ★

Cliburn, who won a Moscow music contest early this year, said his mother, Mrs. Harvey Cliburn of Kilgore, Tex., probably will accompany him when he returns to New York late this week.

Prince to Visit Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk, a former king who abdicated to become prime minister of Cambodia, was scheduled to visit Detroit Thursday. The prince plans visits to Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. plants. Cambodia was carved from Indochina in 1941. Prince Sihanouk stepped down from king to prime minister in 1955.

Science Draws Nearer to Cancer-Cure Pill

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Doctors may devise a pill that will allow radiation to damage cancer cells but protect normal cells, a visiting English researcher says.

"It is possible in principle, though we haven't been able to do it in practice," said Dr. Peter Alexander, staff member of the Ches s8no?J? Research Institute, Royal Cancer Hospital, London.

Principal use of radiation pills intended to protect men against rays from nuclear weapons, he said, is to help scientists learn more about radiation effect. Dr. Alexander is working on possible development of radiation pills to combat cancer.

Highlights of Pope Pius XII's Life From Coronation to His Death

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Highlights of the reign of Pope Pius XII:

March 2, 1939—On this his 63rd birthday, following the death on Feb. 10, 1939 of Pope Piux XI, he was elected Pope on the third ballot of the conclave of the Sacred College of Cardinals, receiving 61 of the 62 votes (all but his own).

March 12, 1939—Coronation as Pope Pius XII.

Sept. 1939—Issued first encyclical, "Summi Pontificatus," condemning totalitarianism and appealing for world peace.

June 2, 1944—Entrance of Allies into Rome.

Feb. 18, 1946—Created 32 new cardinals from 19 countries, ending the Italian majority in the Sacred College.

★ ★ ★

Oct. 14, 1946—Excommunication of Marshal Tito and other Yugoslavs who had any hand in the trial and conviction of Archbishop Alois Stephinac of Zagreb.

Dec. 28, 1948—Excommunication of all Hungarians who participated in the arrest of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty.

Feb. 12, 1949—Excommunication of all participating in the trial and sentencing of Cardinal Mindszenty.

July 13, 1949—Issued a pontifical decree stating that any Catholic who became a Communist or defended Communist doctrines incurred automatic excommunication.

Dec. 24, 1949—Opened 25th holy year of the Catholic Church and in a Christmas Eve message urged all Christians to unite under the Rome Church.

March 17, 1950—Excommunication of all Czechoslovaks connected with the house arrest and banishment of Archbishop Josef Beran.

June 29, 1950—Excommunication of all persons undermining legitimate Roman Catholic authorities and assuming high office without Vatican approval. This was aimed at those Catholic priests who were setting up so-called "national churches" in Iron Curtain countries.

Aug. 10, 1950—Issued encyclical "Humani Generis," which warned against distortion of Catholic truths and made it clear that the Church had no objections to qualified research into Darwin's theory of evolution.

Oct. 30, 31, and Nov. 1, 1950—While resting in the Vatican gardens, the Holy Father saw on three occasions the "Miracle of the Sun" that accompanied the vision of the Virgin Mary seen 34 years earlier by three shepherd children at Fatima, Portugal.

Nov. 1, 1950 — Proclaimed as dogma (truth) of the Catholic Church that the Virgin Mary was assumed bodily into Heaven after her death.

Oct. 6, 1958—Suffered cerebral stroke.

Oct. 9, (Rome time), 1958—Died following second stroke.

Teaching of Safety Belongs in Homes

DENVER (UPI) — A veteran police officer blames parents for not accepting the responsibility of teaching safety to their children.

"They are giving these responsibilities to the schools, churches and police," said Lt. Leonard Johnson, head of the Denver Police Safety Education Division.

"How can citizenship or respect of the laws be imposed without the responsibility starting at home?" he asked, adding:

"It certainly isn't the right of a policeman or teacher to spank a youngster when he disobeys, but that is something lacking in many homes."

Indians Using Narcotic Fighting Council Ban

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI)—Indian users of the narcotic drug, peyote, which grows from a species of cactus, have filed suit in federal court here against a Navajo Tribal Council ban on the drug.

The plaintiffs contend they use peyote in religious rites, and the tribe is trying to interfere with their constitutional rights.

Good Samaritan Jailed

PAW PAW, Ind. (UPI) — William Summit, 19, was jailed for letting his sympathies get out of hand. He told police he handed a hackshaw through a barred window of the county jail because he "felt sorry for" Ralph Williams, 18, an inmate.

Ohio's Bricker Faces Fight for Third Term as Senator

CLEVELAND (NEA) — Ohio Republican John W. Bricker, the senator who looks like a senator, is gunning for a third term against Democrat Stephen M. Young, the man from Puckerbrush Township, amid a big stir of voter interest.

The state's registration totals have hit record levels, surpassing busy 1952. The lists are especially swollen in the large industrial sectors where union workers with Democratic leanings congregate. Reports indicate that union brush-beaters really drove them out of the woods.

Observers say heavy registration in Ohio usually spells protest, though the late Senator Taft confounded that notion with a 430,000 vote victory under those conditions in 1950.

Young himself is with the veteran appraisers: "Nobody waits in line an hour or more to keep the 'INS' in."

If a protest is building, the feeling is much of it may reflect hostile worker response to a proposed right to work law, with a good mixing in of resentment against recession, easing now in Ohio's worst spots but still felt.

★ ★ ★

Yet even though the tide may run strong, nobody is daring to predict it will swallow up Bricker. Most professionals believe he would breast anything but a sweep that would deluge the GOP everywhere in the nation.

This tall, broad-shouldered man is a kind of Republican high water mark. At 65 he stands stately and trim, impeccably attired in banker's gray and starched white, with ruddy face and silver hair.

He's an inheritor of the old tradition of flowing word and flowing tie, an inspirational orator who can invest the flattest statistic with urgency and make the declaration "I'm for human freedom" sound like a bolt from on high.

Bricker's success in politics is almost unbroken. Few Ohio ballots in the last generation have not borne his name. He was three times governor, and he crashed through to the Senate by 320,000 in 1946 and 340,000 in 1952.

★ ★ ★

In the early 1940s he was the shining young Republican knight who roused conventions with his ringing phrases, most of all when he dramatically pulled out of the 1944 presidential race on opening convention day in favor of New York's Thomas E. Dewey. He became Dewey's running mate.

★ ★ ★

Walking six miles a day to and from his Senate office helps fuel him with the vigor he puts into his many avowedly conservative causes.

Bricker even pursues his weakness—cigars—with vigor. Three in a row at breakfast time isn't uncommon, and the puffing never lets up. Says an aide: "His wife is always on him to cut down."

A few moments after the aide said that, the senator waved a dollar bill toward him and hollored: "Kenny, I want some cigars."

Democratic candidate Young is by contrast short of stature, a genial man with a deep tan, whose smile creeps into his husky voice. He doesn't have to give Bricker any points on vigor. At a confessed 68, he's a year-round tennis hound ("doubles and we don't rush the net"), and an 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. clock-puncher at the office.

Young practically made a career out of running against George Bender for the now abolished Ohio post of congressman-at-large, taking four out of seven matches. Last time they dueled was in 1950.

★ ★ ★

Since their little world series ended, Young has practiced law in Cleveland. But he still bears some of the marks of his country upbringing in Norwalk and Puckerbrush Township, a farm area in Huron county west of Akron.

Despite the signs the Democrats today see as so promising, Young along filed for his party's senatorial nomination last May.

He calls Bricker the "darling of the reactionaries" and says he decided to run because he thinks the senator's votes against certain welfare measures and the St. Lawrence seaway and his alleged friendliness to real estate, oil, and utility interests make him vulnerable.

Young bangs hard on an old conflict of interest complaint that Bricker, a member of the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee which discusses rail freight rates, gets regular pay from his Columbus law firm which represents the Pennsylvania railroad.

Bricker's answer to that one at the time was: "Everybody knows I'm honest." Today his people dismiss the thing as "that old chestnut."

Basically Young believes he will have a smooth voyage on Nov. 4, riding a crest of protest against recession and the right to work proposal (which states that a man doesn't have to join a union to hold a job).

The Democratic and labor forces which drummed out the huge registration seem to have the money to keep things surging until voting time. Republicans here complain, as they do in neighboring Michigan, that the big dollar isn't coming their way.

Yet, with all the signs, Bricker stands as tough to beat. The feeling is that if he should go down, the Cleveland terminal building—tallest west of New York—surely would be next.

Amateur Radio Club Elects New Officers

Members of the Oakland County Amateur Radio Club last night elected Leon Grogg president for the coming year.

Also at the regular monthly meeting of the club, held in Pontiac, Albert Lewellen was elected vice president; May Frose, secretary, and Thomas Beale, treasurer.

The new president announced that novice amateur radio examinations for the public will be offered free by club members after all future monthly meetings of the organization.

Stymied by U.S. Courts:

School Segregationists Seek Individual Support

By The Associated Press

School segregation leaders, stymied by federal court orders in Virginia and Arkansas, appealed to individuals today for support in operating private all-white schools.

One thing is clear: any private school system will have to be operated without any kind of state support.

Not so clear is whether the federal government will help rebuild schools such as the bomb-ravaged high school in racially troubled Clinton, Tenn.

Virginia's plan for operating private white schools with public teachers was tossed out the window Wednesday by Federal Judge John Paul in Harrisonburg. He said the practice violates the U. S. Supreme Court's integration ruling.

Paul declined to rule an NAACP request to reopen Warren County High School and two Charlottesville schools because the state law which closed them is being tested in the Virginia Supreme Court.

After hearing the court order on publicly paid teachers, Atty. John S. Battle Jr. of Charlottesville indicated he would seek money from private sources to pay teachers and thus remove them from the court's prohibition. He said the money probably could be raised by tuition charges. "This is our only chance," he said.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas said he would start a nationwide appeal for contributions to help operate private, segregated schools. A federal judge has ruled in Arkansas that private classes cannot be held in public school buildings.

Pupils of Clinton's bombed high school were told to resume full-scale, racially integrated classes today in a vacant grade school building.

Three dynamite blasts Sunday caused an estimated $300,000 damage to the building.

Four Anderson County School Board officials conferred with two White House aides and U. S. Education Commissioner Lawrence Derthick on the possibility of obtaining direct federal aid in rebuilding the Clinton school.

Derthick sidestepped the issue by saying a survey will be made to determine whether new funds can be provided under a federal aid plan.

★ ★ ★

The integration struggle was brought up Wednesday in two resolutions at the Episcopal Church's triennial general convention in Miami. One defends segregation as being within the realm of Christian beliefs. Action on the resolutions will come later.

Courthouse Suit on Docket Soon

State High Court May Hear Oakland County Appeal Next Week

Michigan Supreme Court is tentatively expected to hear arguments in the appeal of the 1957 Oakland County courthouse suit decision next week.

Donald F. Winters, clerk of the court, said yesterday that justices might hear both sides "during the latter part of the week."

When the decision of the high court will follow depends on the outcome of arguments, he said.

It was back in August of 1957 when visiting Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke of Harrisville ruled that some $1,400,000 earmarked for the new courthouse had been secured without public approval and must be returned to a county general fund.

The Oakland County Taxpayers League filed suit Nov. 20, 1956, charging the Board of Supervisors with raising money indirectly after voters refused extra millage to finance the proposed building in the Service Center on Telegraph road.

Judge Dehnke agreed, saying the county accumulated illegally out of year-end budgetary surpluses, and was in excess of a .1 mill constitutional limitation on annual accruance of building funds.

The county denied this and other contested points in the League's suit, and appealed to the Supreme Court.

Pet Ocelot No Hepcat for Marine Corps Band

NEW YORK (UPI) — A three-month-old ocelot named Lancelot, the pet of a New Yorker named Stanley Sherman, ran away from home recently when his owner started playing a record with the music of a Marine Corps band.

Lancelot leaped from a window of Sherman's third-floor apartment and into a restaurant's cellar. Police spent an hour and a half before the ocelot was coaxed from its hiding place.

Lobstering Licenses Drop Sharply in Maine

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — The number of lobstering licenses issued to Maine fisherman this year has shown the sharpest season-to-season decline in 11 years.

State figures showed 6,068 of the licenses were issued last year and 5,316 this year, a drop of 752.

Rare Copies of Nursery Rhymes, Music Give Glimpse of Bygone Era

Two of the most important and rare literary items in the children's book field, the original autograph manuscript, illustrated by its author, of Old Mother Hubbard and the manuscript of Mary Had A Little Lamb, are part of a unique collection from the Broadcast Music, Inc. (BMI) Archives which will be exhibited at the Library of Congress in Washington during the 40th Children's Book Week, Nov. 2 to 8, and continuing through to the end of the year.

Among other rarities included in the BMI material being loaned to the Library are autograph manuscripts or first editions of The Death of Poor Cock Robin, What All the World Is Made Of (the "What are little girls made of?" poem of Robert Southey), Little Boy Blue, A Visit From Saint Nicholas and Now the Day is Over.

Items of musical interest include the extraordinarily rare first edition of Mozart's Sonatas for Harpsichord, K.6 and K.7, written when he was 7, the manuscript and first edition of The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers and lithographed sheet music covers of the mid-1800s dealing with children and children's songs.

ECHO OF ROMANCE

Old Mother Hubbard is not, as most people imagine, one of the Mother Goose rhymes, nor, indeed, is it of great antiquity, though it has attained the stature of folklore. It is instead the outcome of a broken romance in England some 154 years ago.

In the year 1804, Sarah Catherine, the pretty 18-year-old daughter of Admiral Sir Thomas Byam Martin, fell in love with an ensign serving under her father. Unfortunately, the young man was more than a mere ensign, he was Prince William, afterward William IV.

In order to break up a romance that seemed to be heading toward a marriage which would have been unacceptable to the royal house, Sarah Catherine was sent to stay at the home of her brother-in-law, John Pollexten Bastard, M. P. of Kitley, Devon. While there, Sarah Catherine whiled away the hours drawing illustrations and writing children's verses, one of which was the now immortal poem. Old Mother Hubbard was, according to family accounts, inspired by the family housekeepr.

Nothing more is known about the pretty Sarah Catherine Martin except that she died 22 years later. Although her verse became world-famous, the original manuscript was lost for a long time. In the mid-1930s it was found by a great-grandniece of the authoress among some old papers and letters.

The manuscript was eventually purchased by BMI to become a part of the BMI Archives which contain thousands of items of musical and literary interest.

Although she is best remembered for her poem about the sudden appearance of Mary's lamb at school one day, Sarah Josepha Hale's accomplishment in fields both literary and non-literary were tremendous.

That most famous poem, Mary Had a Little Lamb, based upon an actual incident, was written at the request of the famous musician and educator, Lowell Mason. Eager to experiment with the use of music in connection with shaping children's education, Mason suggested to Mrs. Hale that she create some simple verses suitable for setting to music. She wrote a series of such poems and Mason wrote the music.

Mary's Lamb, whose autograph manuscript and first published edition are a part of the BMI Archives, was one of four poems in her book Poems For Our Children, published in Boston in 1830, which gained wide popularity. By the following year the songs were fairly well circulated throughout New England. A true innovation, they represented the first step toward widespread education by music.

The material being loaned to the Library of Congress for display also contains the September-October 1830 issue of Juvenile Miscellany, the children's magazine in which the poem, signed with Mrs. Hale's initials, "SJH," first appeared, together with a copy of the 1831 Juvenile Lyre, in which it made its first appearance set to music.

★ ★ ★

Following these printings, the poem was published widely and, because of the then inadequate copyright laws, often without credit. In time, the lines went fully into the public consciousness unsigned. The 1857 edition of McGuffey's Second Reader, in which it was included anonymously, played a large part in bringing this about.

BECAME A FAD

During the years that followed, college and army songs and innumerable parodies were based on Mary Had a Little Lamb. In 1872, Godey's Magazine published the following, stating: ". . . they are selected from about 100 verses received and are all we intend to publish about Mary and Her Little Lamb . . .

Mary had a little lamb
'Twas subject to the gout;
At last she got disgusted
And put it up the spout."

Mrs. Hale's career in other fields was most remarkable. Born in New Hampshire and educated by her family, she taught private school for about seven years. The mother of five children in nine years of marriage, left penniless at the death of her husband, she began to write. After the publication of her first novel she was offered the editorship of a proposed periodical for ladies. She moved to Boston and became one of the greatest editors of her time.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Hale was responsible for the adoption of Thanksgiving as a national holiday. The first to advocate women as teachers in public schools, she helped to organize Vassar College together with her friend Matthew Vassar. National shrines were among her major interests, and she raised the money that finished the Bunker Hill Monument and rescued the movement to preserve Mt. Vernon.

An early champion of elementary education for girls equal to that of boys and of higher education for women, Mrs. Hale fought for mothers and wives, demanding the dignity of a profession for housekeeping. It was she who put the term "domestic science" into our language.

NOT SUGAR AND SPICE

Grown-up little boys who once smarted under the assertion that they were "made of puppy dog tails," while obnoxious little girls were said to be "made of sugar and spice and everything nice," may find some small comfort in the fact that Robert Southey, author of What All the World Is Made Of, really said that little girls are "made of honey dew and violet blue." (Editorial note to little boys: What a mixture!)

★ ★ ★

Robert Southey, the 19th Century British poet whose autograph manuscript of the poem is a part of the collection to be exhibited at the Library of Congress, maintained that "sugar and spice and everything nice" went into the composition of young women, an analysis with which grown-up little boys are more apt to agree.

The male sex in general took pretty much of a lacing in the Southey poem. As young men, they are "made of sighs and fears and crocodiles tears," progressing as husbands to "sour looks and stern rebukes."

The gentler (?) sex, on the other hand, as wives are made of "all that's good, if well understood," and as widows, "sipping of tea and fiddle de dee." Wowers, the manuscript reveals, are made of "powder and puff and all such stuff," while bachelors are "sour ale and vinegar stale." As hunters, men are "bluster and fluster and dogs all in a cluster."

It is with elderly ladies only that Southey was less than laudatory, for he characterized old maids as "this and that and an old Tabby cat" and old women as "brandy and prayer and taking the air."

A particularly rare item of interest in the autograph Southey manuscript is the addition of the following verse:

"What are some women made of?
Bell metal mouths and leathern lungs,
Goose's brains and parrots tongues."

The verse was probably extemporized for the person to whom the poet presented the manuscript.

The collection will be on exhibition at the Library of Congress beginning in early November and will be shown through the end of the year.

A Fine Complexion Important for Potato

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agricultural economists are trying to improve Irish potato sales by improving the color of their skins.

Louisiana State University experts say that it's no use improving the inside because most consumers judge a potato by the way it looks on the outside.

Does the public prefer a red or a white potato? A blocky, round or slender potato?

Agricultural specialists aren't quite agreed.

But one thing they're pretty sure of: "A fine complexion by the current standard of beauty is just as important for a potato as it is to Miss America."

Smashing Beer Bottles Loses Zest for 3 Boys

GRAND HAVEN, Mich. (UPI)—Three Grand Haven area juveniles recently retraced their steps along suburban Lakerhore Avenue, with brooms in hand and under the watchful eye of a deputy sheriff.

Ottawa county sheriff's officers apprehended the youths after they had smashed beer bottles along a one-mile stretch of the road. The boys were handed brooms. Two and a half hours later, they had swept all of the broken glass from the roadway.

There are 2.15 pounds of milk in a standard quart.

Deaths Elsewhere

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. George Benjamin Woods, 79, a former dean of American University, died Wednesday. He had taught at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, and Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., before becoming dean of American University's College of Liberal Arts in 1925. He was born in Morris, Ill.

★ ★ ★

GREENWICH, Conn (AP) — Yasha Frank, 55, a New York television producer, was found dead Thursday. A medical examiner called it a suicide. Frank, who was born in New York, spent most of his life in the entertainment business. His real first name was Nathaniel.

★ ★ ★

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donald Harold Dabelstein, 51, a federal specialist on vocational rehabilitation, died Wednesday of a heart attack. He was assistant director for programs of the Department of Welfare's Office of Vocational Rehabilitation. He formerly was director of special education and vocational rehabilitation for Minnesota. He was born in Winona, Minn.

RUTHERFORD E. BARRETT

SWARTZ CREEK — Service for Rutherford E. Barrett, 69, who died yesterday at his home, 6168 Ray Rd., will be at 2 p.m. Saturday from the Bowles & Son Funeral Home in Linden. His body will be taken to Ortonville for burial.

Surviving besides his wife, Olive, are a daughter, Mrs. Marguerite Johnson of Grand Blanc; a son, Ernest of Ortonville; six grandchildren; eight great-grandchildren; and two sisters.

WILBUR M. OSBORNE

MILFORD — Service for Wilbur M. Osborne, 73, of Durand, a former Milford resident, will be held at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Richardson-Bird Funeral Home, Milford. Burial will be in Oakgrove Cemetery.

Mr. Osborne died Tuesday in Hurley Hospital, Flint, following an illness of three weeks. He was a member of Milford Methodist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Julia; two sons, Donald of Detroit, and Dorland of Byron; and two daughters, Mrs. Austin Palmer Jr. of Milford and Mrs. Charles Flitcraft in New Jersey.

A sister, one brother, 16 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren also survive.

Reds Bouncing U.S. Newsman

All Because They Didn't Like Program on TV, 'Plot to Kill Stalin'

MOSCOW, (AP)—Paul Niven, Moscow correspondent of the Columbia Broadcasting System, packed to go home today because of Soviet government anger oyer the CBS-TV play "The Plot to Kill Stalin."

The Foreign Ministry informed Niven of his expulsion. It said the action was caused by dissatisfaction with some recent CBS programs rather than being directed against Niven personally.

Singled out was the recent play on Stalin's death which Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov protested in Washington Monday.

(The State Department in Washington accused the Soviet Union of indirect censorship by attempted intimidation of CBS. State Department press officer Lincoln White noted that "this comes on the heels of the expulsion of Roy Essoyan of The Associated Press. The charge by the Soviet Union in the case of Essoyan was that he had violated censorship. The expulsion of Mr. Niven constitues indirect censorship.")

Niven was the fifth American correspondent expelled from Moscow since April 1956.

John Day, director of CBS news, said in New York the network would seek to have the order rescinded.

Ruling at Girls' School Sets Boys on Survey

NOTTINGHAM, England (UPI) — Students at Hollygirt Girls' School here were told they could no longer talk to boys within a mile of the school.

This angered the girls until boys at a nearby school promised, "We shall soon find out where the mile radius ends."

Mail planes, when they began service 20 years ago, landed at dusk and transferred their mail sacks to trains for overnight transportation. Nevertheless, this fly-by-day system cut 22 hours off the coast-to-coast mail service.

Insurance Leaders to Fete Mrs. Jackson

Mrs. Marian M. Jackson will be honored for 25 years of continuous service with the Equitable Life Insurance Society Friday, with a noon luncheon at the Elks Club.

She will receive an award from M. J. Beckers Agency Manager Martin J. Beckers. Attending will be managers from Ann Arbor, Flint, Ferndale, St. Clair Shores, Owosso, Port Huron and the Pontiac office staff.

Mrs. Jackson, of 82 Mt. Clemens St., has been active in the community. She is a member of the Zonta Club, and has been active in organizational work in the American Red Cross.

Fire Ends Fire Parade

KINGSTREE, S.C. (AP) — Kingstree's annual fire prevention parade was interrupted by a fire at the County Prison Camp.

Overcome by Smoke

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — local firemen were overcome by smoke during an exhibition of fire-fighting and rescuing techniques.

Don't Be Surprised if Millionaire Race for Governorship of New York Is Tight

By JAMES DEVLIN
(Third and last in series.)

NEW YORK (AP) — The race between two civic-minded multi-millionaires for the New York governorship gives some signs of being closer than expected. The odds presently favor Gov. Averell Harriman's re-election bid.

Nelson A. Rockefeller, a new face before the voters, has been waging a spirited, personable, nonstop campaign that has encouraged Republicans.

★ ★ ★

They think Democrat Harriman is no longer the shoo-in he appeared to be before the August nominating conventions.

Manhattan bookies rate Harriman at this point as a 9-5 favorite in the Nov. 4 balloting.

Republican leaders insist that a poll conducted under GOP auspices in September showed Rockefeller and Harriman running even. They report that each polled 40 per cent and 20 per cent were undecided.

"Anybody can take polls to prove what they want," snapped Harriman. He predicted the Democrats would do far better than they did in the election he won four years ago.

Some top Democrats have counseled against complacency or against being lulled into a false sense of security by the Democratic landslide in Maine Sept. 8. One such warning came from Gov. Edmund Muskie, elected senator in that election.

Harriman is taking nothing for granted. He has been visiting every section of the state to speak and shake hands with the same fervor he did in 1954.

★ ★ ★

That year he won the governorship over Republican Sen. Irving M. Ives by the squeaky margin of 11,000 votes of more than five million cast.

Since then he has had ample opportunity to build his political strength.

The prominence of his office has kept him before the public for four years, in contrast with 1954 when he was appearing before the voters for the first time after years in federal appointive offices.

He was able to build the Democratic organization through patronage after 12 years of Republican state administration under Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, came what Harriman calls "The Eisenhower recession," the Sherman Adams case, some uneasiness over Eisenhower's Quemoy policy, and the Democratic triumph in Maine.

All added up to give the Democrats confidence that this is their year.

But New York Republicans contend the New York campaign will hinge on state issues—not Quemoy or Adams, although Rep. Kenneth B. Keating, their candidate for the Senate, was one of the GOP office seekers who demanded that Adams resign.

Although Rockefeller doesn't mention it, Republicans have been stressing quietly the difference in the candidates' ages.

Republican campaign literature notes that Rockefeller is 50 and that Harriman "becomes 67 on Nov. 15."

Rockefeller's activity in philanthropic work for minority groups long before his name cropped up as a possibility for governor may help him in strongly Democratic New York City.

★ ★ ★

He has contributed to low-cost housing in Puerto Rico and Israel and has participated in causes for Negro advancement.

Rockefeller himself appears increasingly confident.

"I think I've got a fighting chance to win," he said early in the campaign. Now, he tells his audiences "why the Republicans are going to win."

Tops in Republican optimism, probably, is L. Judson Morhouse, New York state GOP chairman. He interpreted Muskie's victory in Maine as a happy omen for Rockefeller.

★ ★ ★

"The outcome in Maine," said Morhouse, "actually was a personal victory for a vigorous young public figure—one, it can be said, with a knack of getting things done — . . . and augurs well for Nelson Rockefeller and the Republican ticket here in New York state."

Nuclear Blast Shakes Mount

Tons of Rock Tumbled by Small but Powerful Atomic Test

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) — Tons of splintered rock today blocked a long tunnel in which a small but powerful nuclear device was tested.

The device was in the one-kiloton range—equal to 1,000 tons of TNT. This is puny as nuclear weapons go. But when it was touched off Wednesday it made a mountain jump.

Observers watching from 2½ miles away saw a shudder pass over the rocky face of the flat-topped mountain in which the test tunnel was bored.

It will be weeks before the Atomic Energy Commission is able to get through the shattered, radiation-filled tunnel to the detonation chamber and evaluate results of the test. Safety engineers who approached the tunnel entrance within an hour after the shot said some radiation had seeped out, a development that had not been expected.

It was the first underground shot in the current series. The AEC set quickly to work setting up its next shot, scheduled for Friday. A tower shot, it will be the fourth of the 10 tests planned for the series.

Woman Dies in Storm

GRANT CITY, Mo. (AP)—Tornadic winds and heavy rain battered northwest Missouri Wednesday night, causing widespread property damage and one death. Mrs. Frank Porter was killed when the winds destroyed her farm home four miles southeast of here. Her husband was injured.

Not Much as Plumbers, but Good Company

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP)—A Jackson plumbing shop's advertisement in the Jackson Hole Guide read:

"Sink Backed Up? Toilet Clogged? Call us. We'll gladly sit with you while your husband fixes it."

Football Takes Over

HONOLULU (AP) —The shopping district of the town of Aiea became a football casualty for a few minutes. A ball from a sandlot game was kicked into the electric power system, disrupting service for the whole area.

SHOW PREVIEW — Bob Henwood (left) and Bill Goulet are preparing to install over-street banners in various sections of Waterford Township, announcing the Junior Chamber of Commerce's first minstrel show, to be held October 16 and 17 at the high school. If the Cotton Town Carnival, which is the title of the show is a success, the JCs plan on making it an annual affair. All proceeds are turned back into community projects, according to director of the production, Zaven Melkonian.

Under Rising Opposition

Lebanon's Premier Quits

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Rising opposition from supporters of former President Camille Chamoun reportedly has forced the resignation of Premier Rashid Karami after only 14 days in office.

President Fuad Chehab was reported considering appointing a military government. Chehab headed the army until he became president in September.

Karami, a 37-year-old Sunni Moslem, was a leader of the armed rebellion last summer against Chamoun. After Karami became premier, the Christian Phalange, a militant party supporting Chamoun, launched strikes and barricades. It became apparent Wednesday that Karami could not win a confidence vote in Parliament because of opposition from Chamoun supporters.

Although Karami himself told newsmen he had not yet quit, highly reliable sources said his resignation was in Chehab's hands but that the President had not yet acted on it.

In Washington, the State Department announced the approximately 7,000 U.S. troops still in Lebanon would all be pulled out by Oct. 31 "in view of the progress made toward stable international conditions."

The United States had said it sent troops to Lebanon because the country's independence was threatened by President Nasser's United Arab Republic. The State Department said that the "current unrest appears to have essentially domestic origins."

Karami once told newsmen he considered Nasser a superman. He said he favored federation with the U.A.R., but only "if all Lebanese agree."

Tension sharpened acutely in Beirut last night when between 100 and 200 Phalangists were reported kidnaped. Pedestrians and automobiles quickly disappeared from the streets.

Security forces moved into position between Moslem and Christian sectors of the capital after Saeb Salam, a Moslem leader of the earlier rebellion in Beirut, declared he was having difficulty restraining his followers. He said the kidnapings had been set off by the killing of two former rebels.

★ ★ ★

American tanks moved into Beirut also. A military spokesman said the tanks started patrolling U.S. military supply routes after a band in unidentified uniforms disarmed a group of American soldiers in a jeep. The soldiers were released.

Later, Salam said he had ordered the release of all the kidnaped persons and the situation calmed.

Karami's opponents have been demanding inclusion in his Cabinet of members of the Christian Phalange and other Chamoun supporters. The Cabinet included only former rebels and moderates who had taken no stand for Chamoun.

Memory is what tells man his wedding anniversary was yesterday . . . An old-timer is a man who remembers when an allergy was just an itch, and all you did for it was scratch it.—Earl Wilson.

Finding Diamond Among Peaches No Small Task

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — Finding a needle in a haystack is bad enough, but searching for a diamond in a boxcar, loaded with peaches, 1,600 miles away...

★ ★ ★

R. F. Taplett, Wenatchee fruit marketer, lost a two-carat diamond in a boxcar here about six weeks ago. He asked his fruit broker to spread the word of his loss to buyers receiving the shipment.

★ ★ ★

Today the gem rests snugly in its ring on Taplett's finger.

An employe of a concern in Moorehead, Minn., found the diamond on the floor of the boxcar and returned it.

Woman Receives Money Lost Ten Years Ago

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Mrs. Marie Pollock remembers losing her purse 10 years ago. Yesterday she received a $10 bill attached to an unsigned note which read:

"Quite a few years ago I found your wallet. I should have returned it to you then, but I had four small children and it was near Christmas, so I used the money, I hope you will forgive me."

Top Louisiana Dems Opposing Integration

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The Democratic party, which lost Louisiana to the Republicans in the 1956 election, learned again Wednesday how the state's party leaders stand on the segregation issue.

The Democratic State Central Committee voted 69-30 to oust Camille Gravel Jr., the state's national committeeman who had supported the national party's civil rights platform.

Gravel said the state group doesn't have the authority to remove him. He said he will carry the fight to retain the post to the National Committee in December.

Truman Visits Detroit Sunday

Cramming 3 Speeches, 2 Parades, Conference Into 7-Hour Stay

DETROIT (UPI)—Former President Truman will crowd three speeches, two parades and a news conference into a whirlwind seven-hour visit to Detroit next Sunday.

The 74-year-old ex-President will be guest of honor at separate Columbus Day and Pulaski Day celebrations.

He will be welcomed by Governor G. Mennen Williams and Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart on his arrival at Willow Run Airport Sunday morning. A motorcade will take the former President into Detroit for a news conference followed by a brief meeting with Democratic congressional candidates.

His first speech will be made at a wreath-laying ceremony at the Columbus monument following a Columbus Day parade. Then Truman will go to Hamtramck to participate in the Pulaski Day parade and speak again at the Veterans Park.

Later Truman will stop in at the International Institute and make a short address at ceremonies honoring the Yugoslav cardinal Stepinac. The observance is sponsored by seven Croatian organizations.

The ex-President is due to take off at 5 p.m. from Willow Run airport for Kansas City.

It's Time to Clobber the Young Intellectual

NEW YORK (AP)—I think it's time we dull old people struck back at the young intellectual.

I have in mind a particular kind of young intellectual. I visualize him lying around his room at college, for which his father was gauche enough to borrow the money. I see this young man lying there on his bed, smug, vague, contemptuous.

* * *

He wears sandals, khaki pants, and a white T-shirt. His room is studied disorder. A vigil light flickering under the Picasso print. Esoteric jazz records stacked in the corner. Elsewhere books on Zen Buddhism, Existentialism. On the wall, an African mask. On the floor, no chairs, just Japanese straw mats.

This is the young rebel who thinks he is history's first rebel. He has no idea what he's for, but he's against everything positive—like a decision about what he will do in life. In his mind, anyone over 30, who is married, who had kids and a job and a house and a routine is, at best, pitiful; at worst, a soulless, unimaginative clod.

* * *

Meet this young man, and he can throw you easily, if you happen to be over 30 and have a family and work for a living. He will whistle jazz tunes you never heard of, quote Kafka, Camus, Sarte and other authors you're vague about. He will order a vodka martini as if he invented it, with a brand you never heard of. In every way, he will make you feel drab, dull, old, old-fashioned, a creature of habit, conformity and fear.

If you're a doctor with a general practice, he thinks you should have found a cure for cancer instead of being greedy. If you're a lawyer, you should have defended Dreyfus instead of accident cases. If you're a reporter, you should have written the great controversial novel instead of covering the news. If you're a business man, you're the dullest kind of crawling, avaricious Babbitt there is.

* * *

He thinks all of us who make a living and support a family and follow a routine have somehow sold out. Somewhere along the line, he is convinced, the boss came to us one day and offered us a choice: Be honest and poor or dishonest and rich.

This is the kind of young snob I think we should clobber. Don't let him intimidate you. Let's hit him where it hurts. Let him know he is anything but original. Let him know you were once a rebel, too, until you had to start thinking and living.

* * *

Let him know that life seldom presents such easy black and white choices. Disabuse him of the idea that devils with dollars are lurking in the corners ready to buy his soul. Suggest to him that he, too, when he wriggles loose from the mire of his self-centeredness, may fall in love and want to get married and even may want to support the girl.

Let him know he's distinctly an amateur at life so far. Tell him to withhold his cracks, his disdain, his condescension until a later time. Come back, little rebel, when you've been a father and tried to find the wisdom to answer your son's questions.

* * *

Come back, little rebel, when you've had to deal with a waiting room full of frightened patients. Come baek, little rebel, when you have stayed up all night working on a brief. Come back, little rebel, when you've faced the stark terror of a deadline or searched your soul for the words to fire a man from his job.

Come back, little rebel, and make your cracks when you're dry behind the ears, when you're a professional. No one is so brave as the amateur because no one is so safe.

Oakland Red Cross Plans Nursing Course

A fourteen-hour home nursing course under the auspices of the Oakland County chapter of the American Red Cross will be held from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Thursdays, beginning Oct. 16.

The course will be taught by Mrs. A. H. Guiliani, former assistant director of nursing at Grace Hospital in Detroit. Classes will meet at chapter headquarters, 118 Franklin Blvd.

Among the subjects covered in the course will be taking temperatures, making hospital beds in the home, and improvising back rests and bed tray stands.

The course is free. Information on registration is available at the chapter headquarters.

Atomic Laundry Cleans Machine

Use Boiling Chemical, Deep Water to Reclaim Radioactive Equipment

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI) — Boiling chemicals, a 75-ton crane and a 28-foot-deep pool of water are some of the things engineers at the Hanford Atomic Works are using in a strange laundry operation to decontaminate and reclaim costly equipment that has become radioactive.

Formerly when such equipment broke down, it often was hauled into the surrounding desert and buried. It was cheaper to do this and replace it than to clean and repair it by existing methods.

New contaminated equipment in need of repair is disconnected, placed into big boxes and loaded onto a flatcar — all by remote control inside the separations plant in which it is used. A switch engine, separated from its radioactive freight by several empty rail cars, hauls it to the king-size laundry. There the equipment is lifted from its box and into one cleaning process after another by means of the remotely operated crane.

★ ★ ★

Some items are dunked into a special pool and repaired while under as much as 28 feet of water. Other pieces are submerged in a caustic solution heated to the boiling point. Railroad cars used to haul irradiated fuel elements from Hanford's reactors to the separations plants are steam-cleaned. Some contaminated equipment will continue to be buried because decontamination would be more expensive than replacement.

★ ★ ★

General Electric Company engineers say the cost of decontamination, inspection and repair often runs as much as 50 per cent of the price of the piece of equipment. But the savings are large when a $20,000 piece can be restored to service for a fraction of replacement cost.

Jet engines can go twice as long as piston engines before needing overhauls.

PROTECTIVE HALO — Newest Italain safety device for sleepy motorists consists of a metal ring which fits almost flush with the underside of the steering wheel. With a normal grip (drawing, top) nothing happens. But as the drowsy driver's hand relaxes (drawing, bottom) the metallic halo sets off the car horn and automatiacly engages the brakes.

Gauge Scratch Depth

NEW YORK — The depth of scratches on the surface of metals now can be measured by small, telescopelike instruments developed by an American aircraft manufacturer. In use, a beam of light is played on the scratch at a calculated angle; the instrument measures the length of the resulting shadow, makes trigonometrical calculations relating shadow length and light angle, and gives the depth of the scratch.

Army Bans Zoot Suits 'Adapted' From Khakis

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI) — Uncle Sam's soldiers can't use G.I. garb to affect zoot suits.

A recent post bulletin said: "The practice of some military personnel to 'form fit' or 'peg' items of military clothing is not authorized and will be discontinued immediately."

Wall Street Sponsors Courses at University

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Stock Exchange and the Investment Bankers Association of America will sponsor a special course in stock market operations this fall at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill.

Similar courses may eventually be offered at other colelges.

Headline Gets Attention

CHULA VISTA, Calif. (UPI) — This headline in the Chula Vista Star News startled some readers: ST. JOHN'S SCHOOL HERE TO BENEFIT FROM DAMN YANKEES. It referred to a local production of the musical show.

AVOCADO CHEESE SALAD — Avocados combine well with any tart food. In this interesting layered salad they are keeping company with a clear tomato aspic. Danish Blue Cheese is added to the avocado layer, along with sour cream. This is a rich and appealing salad. Garnish with thin slices of avocado.

Fruit, Cheese Blend in Smooth Layered Salad

When a success story relates to the culinary arts, almost everyone enjoys reading about it . . . so our story today offers double enjoyment as it describes two culinary successes which complement each other . . . Danish Blue Cheese and Avocado pears.

The sheer luxury of choosing a fruit whose origin was one country, a cheese from another country, and combining them into a delectable buffet supper dish is Americaine Culinaire at its best.

DANISH BLUE CHEESE AND AVOCADO PEAR SALAD

Avocado Layer

½ cup Danish Blue Cheese, crumbled
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup very hot water
1 large avocado
½ cup commercial sour cream
⅛ teaspoon tabasco
1 teaspoon worcestershire
1 teaspoon sugar
¾ teaspoon salt

Pour gelatine into glass container of electric blender. Add hot water, blend 20 seconds; scrape sides. Cut avocado in half lengthwise; remove seed; peel, and dice. Add to gelatine with cheese and remaining ingredients. Cover container; turn on blender, for about 1 minute. Stop to scrape down sides, if necessary.

Turn into an oblong mold (6 cup size); chill until almost firm.

Aspic Layer

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
3½ cups cold tomato juice (divided)
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon celery salt
⅛ teaspoon tabasco
2 tablespoons lime juice

Sprinkle gelatine on 1 cup tomato juice to soften. Place over boiling water, stir until gelatine is dissolved.

Add to remaining 2½ cups tomato juice; stir in remaining ingredients. Chill until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg white. Pour on top of almost firm first layer; chill until firm. Unmold, garnish with slender half circles of unpeeled avocado. Serves 8-10.

Bake Foil Wrapped Rolls Filled With Beef Mix

hand in hand as any Mother can testify. And, of course, the more original the sandwich the more they like them.

This oven-baked beef and cheese sandwich which is encased in a hollowed out roll has lots of taste-appeal. It is made with a handy package of onion soup mix which permeates all the other ingredients with its savory flavor.

The sandwich is made by sauteeing ground chuck and green pepper in butter, then stirring in the onion soup mix (right from the package), water and catsup. This is simmered five minutes and then you add a grated sharp cheese.

Heat all together until the cheese melts. This mixture is then spooned into the hollow of each roll, the top is replaced and the sandwich is wrapped in foil and baked for 15 minutes or so.

Serve this hearty sandwich to your youngsters when they come home from school for lunch. You will find it a perfect choice the crisp Fall days ahead.

Baked Beef and Cheese Sandwich

1 tablespoon butter
½ pound ground chuck
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons onion soup mix
¼ cup water
¼ cup catsup
1 cup grated sharp cheese
½ teaspoon chili powder (optional)
French or hard rolls

In skillet melt butter and saute ground chuck and green pepper until meat browns. Stir in onion soup mix, water, and catsup; simmer five minutes. Meanwhile, coarsely grate cheese then stir into beef mixture and heat until cheese melts. Add chili powder if desired.

Remove a thin slice from top of roll; hollow out roll and fill with beef filling; replace top. Wrap sandwich in aluminum foil and heat in a 400 degree oven 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Doughnut Faces

A package of cranberries, some chocolate bits and a box or two of powdered sugar doughnuts from your grocer's ready-to-eat cake department are all you need to make a new treat for the trick-or-treaters on Halloween. Doughnut faces are easy and fun to make. Just place chocolate bit "eyes" into place on a doughnut, the hole for a nose and a few bright red cranberries for the mouth.

Walnuts Are Treated

Department of Agriculture scientists have developed a safe chemical coating which can be used on walnut meats to keep them from turning rancid after shelling. The process is now being used by a large walnut grower organization in California.

For outdoor cooks: Soak wooden skewers in cold water before using them to impale meat, poultry, fish, vegetables or fruit to be cooked over the charcoal fire.

In your grocer's freezer

Food Buying Course Offered by YWCA

"Food and Fun" is the title of a series of lectures on buying food that began Wednesday morning, October 8, at the Pontiac YWCA. Scheduled to run for two hours each week for seven weeks, the classes are open to the public. Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, Consumer Marketing Information Agent, will be the instructor.

Homemakers will learn how to get the greatest possible food value for their dollars. Subjects to be discussed include Meat, Eggs and Poultry, Fruits and Vegetables and Dairy Products. The last meeting will be a tour of markets.

Michigan Offers Five Varieties of Fall Squash

Fall's horn of plenty is filled with golden squash. Five varieties most often found in Michigan are Acorn, Butternut, Delicious, Buttercup and Hubbard.

The small green acorn shaped squish is a very popular choice. Each half makes a generous serving.

Butternut squash is gaining favor each year as homemakers discover its excellent features. It is bell-shaped with light cream colored skin. It has a small seed cavity and is never stringy.

Buttercup squash has a small turban shape on top. It is very sweet and fine grained. Delicious squash is shaped like a child's top. The flesh is yellow orange, dry and fine to medium grained. This variety keeps very well.

★ ★ ★

Most everyone recognizes the large Hubbard squash. In most markets, it is cut and sold by the pound. This fall, why not try all types of golden squash?

Salmon's in the Pink

There is a short supply of red (Sockeye) salmon this year. Canned pink will cost considerably less in the same size can. Why not use pink?

Quick Lasagne Comes to Table in One Hour

Joining the bandwagon of "Americans for Italian cooking" and also adding its own quick trick for Italian lasagne is Ac'cent-International. In addition to a new recipe for lasagne, other new ground beef cookery ideas were talked about in the Ac'cent-International news room at the annual Newspaper Food Editors' Conference at the Waldorf Astoria recently.

★ ★ ★

Lasagne is one of those Italian dishes that have caught on in this country and whose popularity is spreading like wildfire. There are two schools of thought on lasagne—those that think it should have ground beef in it and those who are for noodles and cheeses alone. This recipe allies itself with the ground beef school of thought and even adds a twist of its own.

The ground beef is seasoned with MSG to bring out the good beefy flavor, and to blend the separate flavors of the cheeses, noodles and ground beef in one lusciously mellow combination.

It is so simple to make (only takes an hour from the time you enter the kitchen till it is on the table piping hot, and all forks are poised for the first delicious bite), and the dishwashing crew will certainly appreciate the fact that there is only one baking dish to wash.

Quick Lasagne

1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon MSG
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon basil
½ teaspoon oregano
1 small onion, sliced
2 tablespoons corn oil
2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce
1 cup water
8 ounces lasagne
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 pound cream style cottage cheese
4 slices processed Mozzarella cheese

Sprinkle beef with MSG, salt, pepper, basil and oregano. Toss gently with fork to distribute seasonings. Brown beef and onion in heated oil in skillet, breaking up with a fork. Add tomato sauce and water. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes.

Cook lasagne according to package directions. Alternate layers of beef mixture, Parmesan cheese and cottage cheese in a 9x13-inch baking dish, ending with beef. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 20 minutes.

During last 5 minutes baking time, cut Mozzarella cheese in half diagonally; arrange on top. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Crystallized Ginger

Crystallized ginger will keep for a long time if it is put into a jar with a light screwtop lid. When used in main dishes, it is a good idea to rinse the ginger in hot water to wash off the sugar.

Wine, Sour Cream Blend in Gingerbread Sauce

Make gingerbread a glamour dessert: While it is still warm, sprinkle the gingerbread with Spanish sherry, preferably an oloroso (cream) type.

★ ★ ★

Serve it topped with this hot sauce: Blend 1 tablespoon cornstarch with ½ cup sugar, add 1 tablespoon each lemon juice and oloroso sherry and 1 cup water. Bring to a boil, simmer until smooth and thickened. Take from stove and slowly beat into 1 cup sour cream. If sauce is made in advance, reheat just before serving, taking care not to let it come to the boil.

Marco Polo Gave Us Macaroni

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Marco Polo is credited with introducing macaroni to the civilized world after one of his voyages to China.

According to legend one of Marco Polo's handsome young sailors distracted a lovely Chinese maiden from her task of kneading dough. In his effort to rid the dough of leaves he forced it through a wicker basket and left the doughy strands to dry in the sun.

Taking some of the strands back to his ship, he tried to soften them in hot water. He hastened with them to Polo when he discovered how good they tasted. Polo took the new food back to Italy.

Now macaroni is a basic food throughout the world. Macaroni is understood to mean also spaghetti and egg noodles. Today, surprisingly enough, the United States has the largest macaroni industry in the world. About 150 different shapes are made here.

At one of our sessions in New York we heard a group of home economic students from New York University present a lesson on macaroni products. They reminded us that all macaroni products are made from coarse-grind semolina flour milled from durum wheat. Only water is added for macaroni and sphagetti, while eggs are the extra ingredient in noodles.

It is interesting to check the various shapes of this product you find on the shelves of your favorite store. We have yet to see some of the fancier shapes.

The students mentioned above had prepared a number of dishes to show the varied ways macaroni products can be used. One of the more colorful ones was the following salad. This is the type of salad you find on smorgasbord tables.

Swedish Macaroni Salad

1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
1 medium-sized apple, cored and diced
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 8-ounce jar herring fillets in cream
¾ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped sweet mixed pickles
1 cup commercial sour cream

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water; drain.

Combine apple and lemon juice; mix well. Combine macaroni, apple mixture, herring, celery, pickles and cream; toss lightly but thoroughly. Chill. Garnish with additional apples, as desired.

Everyone knows about spaghetti and meat balls or Italian spaghetti. There are, however, other ways of serving it. Take, for instance, this Creole style casserole.

Spaghetti Creole

2 slices bacon, diced
¼ pound onions, diced
½ green pepper, diced
½ pound ground beef
1 cup cooked tomatoes
1 cup cooked lima beans
1¼ cups cooked spaghetti
Salt and pepper

Fry bacon until crisp. Remove bacon and saute onions and green pepper in bacon fat. Fry beef until well browned and add rest of ingredients. Blend thoroughly.

When mixture starts to simmer, season well. Cook 10-15 minutes. Serves 4. May be poured into casserole for final cooking.

★ ★ ★

This third dish, one using noodles, is made like an upside down cake. Luncheon meat, placed in the bottom of the baking dish, comes out on top when the bake is served.

3 in 1 Upside Down Bake

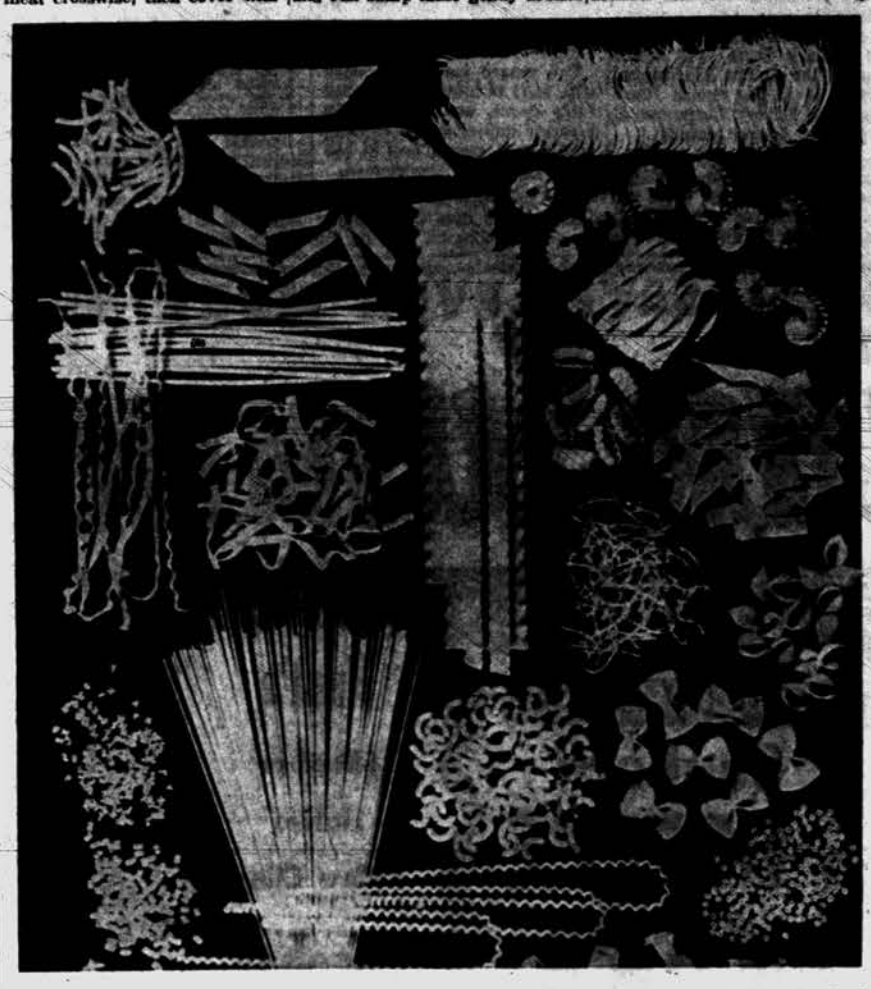

8-ounce package medium noodles (4 cups dry noodles)
½ cup evaporated milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup condensed tomato soup
½ cup shredded Cheddar cheese
2 teaspoons grated onion
3 tablespoons butter
1 12-ounce can luncheon meat, cut into 12 slices

Drop noodles into boiling water and cook just until tender, about 6 minutes. Mix evaporated milk, eggs, tomato soup, most of the cheese and onion. Stir in gently the drained noodles.

Melt butter in bottom of 9-inch square baking dish. Tip dish to grease sides. Place 6 slices of luncheon meat in bottom of dish. Cover with about half of the noodle mixture. Place remaining 6 slices of luncheon meat crosswise, then cover with remaining noodle mixture. Top with remaining shredded cheese.

Bake in slow oven (350 degrees) for 45 minutes. Remove from oven and run sharp knife gently around outside edges. Place serving plate on top of casserole and turn over. Serve like upside down cake.

Heat remainder of can of tomato soup and serve as sauce, if desired. Makes 6 liberal servings.

MACARONI SHAPES — Investigate the display of macaroni products at your market. Here are just a few of the many shapes you might find. Starting at upper left and reading across, they are: Folded fine egg noodles, creste di gallo, wide egg noodles, shell macaroni, egg noodle bow ties, stelline, riccini, folded medium egg noodles, cavatelli, fine egg noodles, curly-edged lasagne, malfalde, elbow macaroni, fusilli, rigatoni, manicotti rigati, mostaccioli, long macaroni, medium egg noodles, spaghetti, maccaroncelli, margherite, egg alphabets, tubettini, corkscrew macaroni.

Grapes a Surprise in Spicy Salad

Grape Sour Cream Ring

Soften 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin in ½ cup cold water. Add ½ cup hot water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add 1 cup sour cream, 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, 1 cup fresh orange juice, 3 tablespoons cider vinegar, 3 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon garlic powder, ¼ teaspoon powdered dry mustard, ½ medium cucumber (diced), 3 tablespoons chopped chives and 2½ cups seedless green grapes left whole or seeded grapes cut in half.

Turn into a 5-cup ring mold and chill until firm and ready to serve. Unmold and serve with your favorite fruit salad dressing or fill center with diced fresh fruits in season. Garnish with fresh mint leaves, if desired.

Avocado Sauce for Fish

From Caracas comes a recipe for a smooth, zesty sauce good with almost any fried or broiled fish. In a blender, beat together 1 large avocado, which has been peeled and cubed, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 3 tablespoons Spanish olive oil, ½ tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon black pepper. Beat until very smooth, the consistency of mayonnaise. Makes about 1½ cups sauce.

Prune Delectables: Dip 'em in honey, roll in crushed cornflakes, pop into mouth.

Fried Egg Tops Hamburger for New Lunch Idea

"Which came first, the chicken or the egg?" will always be a question, but the clever homemaker has solved the lunch and snack problem when she uses eggs.

New ways of using eggs are always welcome. "Egg Burgers," simply made from a hamburger-on-bun topped with a fried egg, meet the need for something new and nutritious.

Serve as a hearty sandwich with potato chips and relishes, for a family picnic or outdoor meal. For a quick noon lunch when Mom or the youngsters wonder what to make in a hurry, or for an "after school" snack with plenty of energy-packed protein, "Egg Burgers" are tops.

Sandwiches Put on Balloon Sticks

Fun to make and fun to eat are these sandwiches - on - a - stick that are just the kind of easy to make yet festive party treat that a teenage girl can prepare when it is her turn to be hostess.

Balloon sticks are used for skewers. You can get them in the 5 - and - 10, variety or hardware stores. Each sandwich has a different deviled ham filling, favorite of the teenage crowd.

Ham-Wheels on a Stick

2 loaves party rye round (36 slices)
2 family size (4½ oz.) cans deviled ham
6 small slices onion
6 small slices cheese
6 pieces lettuce
18 small chunks dill pickle
Mayonnaise
6 long skewers or balloon sticks

Spread deviled ham generously on 18 slices of bread. Place a slice of onion on 6, a slice of cheese on 6, and a piece of lettuce spread with mayonnaise on 6. Cover with the remaining 18 slices of bread.

Put one of each kind of sandwich on each skewer, separating and topping them with a chunk of pickle. Enough for six hungry teenagers.

Olive Oil Penetrates Dry Game or Meat

Frequently recipes for game specify that the meat should be larded. The old-fashioned way to do this was to insert strips of fat salt pork into the center of the meat, pushing the fath through with a skewer.

The Spanish have an easier, quicker way to lard game or any less-tender roast: simply punch holes all the way through the lean of the meat with a heavy skewer or an ice pick, then dribble Spanish olive into each hole. The oil, penetrating to the fibres of the meat, softens and tenderizes it and over-all roasting time may be considerably reduced. It's an economy trick because not only can a cheaper cut be used by by shortening roasting time, there is less meat shrinkage — and more meat for the table.

How They Rate

Most popular of all frozen potato products is the traditional French Fry, followed by Potato Patties, the Crinkle Cut French Fry, Mashed or Whipped, Potato Puffs and frozen Diced Potatoes. New specialty items recently introduced on the market are the Rissole Potatoes, the Frozen Stuffed Baked Potato, the Escalloped and the Au Gratin Potatoes.

Chicken and Apples Are Best Buys of Week

Foods for October take part of their cue from the weather, but meats take their cue from planning that may have started 10 or 12 months ago.

MEAT CUES—Pork prices are expected to drop during the month as the spring pig crop comes to market in full swing. There may be temporary changes in both wholesale and retail prices as the supply varies from week to week, but the trend is more pork at slightly less cost.

Beef prices are expected to stay about as they have been. Good supplies of better grade beef and scarce supplies of lower grade beef is the reason why the present price difference between the higher and lower quality is less than usual.

Hen prices usually hit their lowest level in October and this year appears to be no exception. Broiler prices are expected to continue at the reasonable rates available during September. Although the turkey crop is smaller than last year, this plus large supplies in frozen storage guarantee plenty at prices slightly higher than a year ago. Toms are the turkey value this week. At 39 to 49 cents a pound, a serving is 20 to 25 cents.

Fresh fish are more plentiful and prices are lowering accordingly. Fish fillets serve three people per pound while dressed fish serve only two. When buying whole fish, allow a pound for each person.

EGGS AND DAIRY—Checks in several markets this week show large size eggs ranging from 55 to 60 cents a dozen or 36¼ to 46 cents a pound. Medium size eggs are 33 to 39 cents a pound; small sizes are 31 to 35 cents a pound.

Need a copy of the Egg Buyer's Guide to help you quickly figure the best egg value of the week? Contact Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, 1260 West Blvd., Pontiac, for a free copy.

This is the season when some surplus milk is coming to market in the form of cheese. You may pick natural cheese made from whole milk. You may choose a processed cheese which is a natural cheese that has been ground and cooked with certain salts that prevent fat separation. Or you may select a cheese food spread in which cream, non-fat dry milk and mineral salts are added to processed cheese.

FROM THE PRODUCE COUNTER—Apples are the "Big Story" for October. Michigan's crop is estimated at 10.6 million bushels, 6 per cent larger than last year. Most will be harvested by the middle of the month, but shoppers can enjoy October fresh apples as late as June of 1959 due to improved storage facilities being used for approximately 500,000 bushels this year.

McIntosh is the apple variety in the October limelight. This is a good all-purpose apple with a soft flesh. Apple cider, served cold or hot, is about 69 cents a gallon.

October is the month for the greatest supplies of squash, cauliflower, carrots, table grapes and pears. Potato supplies are larger than a year ago, and prices are lower. These seasonal choices may mean savings in your market basket.

The first Florida grapefruit of the season appear in the market this week. You cannot expect the first of the crop to be high in quality and flavor.

OTHER FOODS—Canned vegetables, fruits and juices and frozen items are offered at special prices in some stores. Price varies among brands and quality of pack. If the brand is new to you, try one can first, then buy in quantity if it suits your needs.

FISH COOKERY — There is almost no limit to the ways fish can be cooked. The above picture shows (from top to bottom) fish steaks on a plank for broiling; pan-browned curried fish fillets; oven-fried fish cakes; and baked whole fish. Let your family make the decision on which they prefer.

Why Cod Liver Oil?

Do you know why fish oils are a source of Vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin? It because big fish, like cod and halibut, feed on smaller fish, which feed on plankton. And plankton, consisting of the minute animal and plant life on the surface of the ocean, is irradiated by the sun.

Popcorn Good to Dunk Into Nippy Dips

Next time you have the gang in, serve some of your favorite dips and use popcorn as the dip dunker. It's so easy to fix and really sets off the sharp, delicious flavor of some of the nippier cheese dips. Try sprinkling hot, buttered popcorn with curry or chili powder before dunking — wonderful!

The Popcorn Institute recommends these five simple steps in popping perfect popcorn:

1. Warm the popper, heavy pan or heavy skillet.
2. Put in one-fourth cup of your favorite cooking oil.
3. Let the oil get hot — about three minutes. Drop in three or four kernels. When they begin to spin in the hot oil, it's time to start popping.
4. Pour enough kernels to cover the bottom of popper or skillet.
5. Cover and shake gently. When you hear the last few pops, remove pan from heat and empty contents into a large bowl. Pour in melted butter and salt to taste. Serve immediately.

Cookies that contain a large amount of shortening often may be baked on ungreased cookie sheets.

Broil, Bake, Fry or Poach Whole Fish or Fillets

Someone once said, "I have a thousand favorite dishes, and they're just one thing — fish." The versatility of fishery products has been appreciated for centuries. Today the annual Fish and Seafood Parade (October 6 to 12) spotlights this very fact.

Of the thousands of species in the oceans, lakes and rivers of the world, there are about 200 kinds available in American markets—fish shops, grocery stores and supermarkets. Then when we consider the different forms of fish cookery, we realize that the ways to serve fish are practically limitless. We can broil, bake, fry and poach fish. We can serve fish whole, in fillets or steaks, in fish cakes or using other methods of preparation.

Here are recipes for four of the most popular.

Broiled Fish Steaks Paprika

Plan on 1 pound of fish steaks for 3 people. Place fish in preheated broiler pan. Brush with sauce made by mixing together 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce, and 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Place pan in broiler 2 inches from heat and broil 3 minutes. Turn steaks, brush again with sauce and broil 3 to 5 minutes longer, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Pan-Browned Curried Fish Fillets

Plan on 1 pound fish fillets for 3 persons. Let 1 pound fillets thaw on refrigerator shelf or at room temperature. Separate fillets. Mix together ¼ cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, and 1 teaspoon curry powder. Turn out mixture onto a piece of waxed paper. Dip each fillet into the flour mixture to coat both sides.

Melt ¼ cup butter or margarine in a frying pan. Add fillets and cook about 5 to 8 minutes, or until golden brown and fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Oven-Fried Fish Cakes

Combine 2 cups cooked flaked fish with 2 cups small soft bread cubes (lightly packed), 1 beaten egg, ¼ cup milk, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1 tablespoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon dried crushed thyme, 1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley (or 1 teaspoon dried parsley), ¼ cup minced celery, 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine.

Shape into cakes, using ½ cup mixture for each cake. Coat cakes in ½ cup dry bread crumbs and place on greased baking sheet. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Place in very hot oven (475 degrees) 10 minutes or until hot and golden brown. Makes 8 cakes.

Baked Fish with Lemon Slices

For serving 3 or 4 persons, you will need a 3 or 4 pound fish. Have your fish dealer dress it for you, which means scaling the fish, removing head, fins and insides. Sprinkle fish, inside and out, with salt and pepper. Place fish in a greased baking pan. Brush with 4 tablespons melted fat or other shortening. Preheat oven.

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 40 to 60 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Baste occasionally with drippings from the pan or with melted fat. Before serving, make 3 slits in side of fish and slip 1 lemon slice into each slit. Garnish with watercress or parsley.

Fresh Beets Join Blend of Soups

Just as hot soups have their appeal on cold winter days, a cold soup can be equally refreshing on warm autumn days. Here's a cold soup that has a tangy flavor and is hearty enough to be a one dish meal in itself for a luncheon or light supper.

Lemon-Beet Supreme Soup

2 cups shredded fresh beets
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 cups consomme
1 cup onion soup
1 cup water
½ cup tomato juice
2 cups shredded cabbage
¼ to ½ cup sour cream

Cook beets in butter over low heat for a few minutes. Add bottled lemon juice, cover, and simmer 20 minutes. Add soups, water, tomato juice, and cabbage. Cover; continue to cook over low heat for 10 minutes.

Serve hot or chilled with sour cream, as either a garnish or stirred in just before serving. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

Q. What is the name of this meat cut?

A. Lamb Shanks.

Q. Where do they come from and how are they identified?

A. They come from the front shanks of lamb and contain the two fore shank bones, elbow and part of the arm bone. Layers of meat surround the bones. A thin paper-like covering called "fell" covers the meat.

Q. How are they prepared?

A. They are cooked slowly by braising or in liquid. After cooking until tender, they may be boned, stuffed and finished cooking. This cut of lamb requires approximately 1 to 1½ hours for cooking.

Fresh Mushrooms Grown by Neighbors Next Door

Pontiac Press Home Editor

Those fresh mushrooms you bought last weekend to serve with the steak may have been grown right next door in Macomb County. Twelve growers in that area produce approximately 800,000 pounds of mushrooms, an annual million dollar business. About half are sold fresh and the other half put into cans.

Mushrooms are temperamental. We found that out the year we succumbed to an ad and bought a box of mushroom spawn. We just didn't have the right touch. Now we let the professionals worry about such things as non-acid soil, proper ventilation, an even temperature and sterilized soil.

There are two seasons for fresh mushrooms—spring and fall. The peak months are October, November, December, March and April. Michigan mushroom houses are not temperature controlled which prohibits a year-round industry.

The finest mushrooms are white and spotless with their tops tightly closed around the stems. If the tops are flattened out like an umbrella, they are perfectly good to eat, but less attractive. Mature mushrooms vary in size.

DON'T PEEL

All you have to do to prepare them for cooking is to wash them and trim the stem ends. Peeling is both unnecessary and wasteful. Keep fresh mushrooms refrigerated.

Canned mushrooms may be substituted for fresh ones any time the former are not available. Keep on hand cans of varying styles for different purposes. It is not economical to use whole button mushrooms for soups, casseroles or spreads.

One pound of fresh mushrooms will give you two cups of slices. Two six-ounce cans of sliced mushrooms will give you the same amount.

★ ★ ★

The American Mushroom Institute suggests using fresh mushrooms as hors d'oeuvres. Make these the day before you want to serve them.

Mushroom Hors D'Oeuvres

1 pound fresh button mushrooms
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
1 teaspoon tarragon
2 bay leaves
1 clove garlic, minced
½ cup olive or salad oil
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Trim, wash and drain mushrooms. Place in a bowl and add all other ingredients except lemon juice. Mix well and refrigerate 12 hours.

Turn into a saucepan and simmer 10 minutes. Chill thoroughly. Add lemon juice just before serving. Yield: 6 servings.

A main luncheon supper dish is easily made with spinach and fresh mushrooms.

Mushroom and Spinach Casserole

1 pound fresh mushrooms
3 cups cooked chopped spinach or 2 packages frozen cooked spinach
1 teaspoon salt
Little chopped onion
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 cup undiluted evaporated milk
1 cup freshly grated American cheese
Garlic salt

Wash and dry mushrooms. Slice off stems. Saute both caps and stems for several minutes, with round side down first, until brown. Line a flat baking dish with spinach that has been seasoned with salt, chopped onion and melted butter. Arrange sauteed mushrooms and stems over spinach.

Prepare sauce with evaporated milk and cheese. Bring to simmering point and allow to cook for 2-3 minutes. Let sauce stand about 5 minutes.

Sprinkle mushrooms with a little garlic salt. With a spoon pour sauce over them carefully. Bake about 20 minutes at 350 degrees. Then broil for several minutes until top is brown. Serves six.

Do you remember to read a recipe through, from beginning to end, before you attempt to follow it? If you do, you'll know what ingredients and utensils are needed; and most important, you'll know whether it is written clearly enough for you to make the dish successfully.

HAM ROSEBUDS—Little rosebuds of biscuit dough with a tantalizing ham filling come out of the oven delicately brown and oozing with goodness. This yeast dough is easy to make and the ham filling starts with a can of deviled ham. Do try them for summer eating.

Cereals Vary Molasses Taffy Cookies

Molasses cookies have been favorites with children ever since earliest colonial days. Modern ships now . . . as sailing vessels did then . . . bring a delicately flavored molasses called "unsulphured" from the West Indies to America.

This molasses is a popular sweetener and flavorer in cookies, and a wide range of cookie styles and flavor variations can be developed by using a favorite cereal as an ingredient.

Oatmeal cookies with the nutlike addition of the cereal and the taffy flavor of molasses can be fashioned into lacy, crisp cookies. A truly delightful macaroon can be achieved with molasses and bite-size shredded rice biscuits. These little cereal pillows give a chewy macaroon texture to the cookies.

Molasses and rice crispies or puffed rice become cookie balls . . . sort of a variation on the popcorn ball.

Molasses-cereal cookies are more than dessert treats. They actually help out on the daily nutritive needs. There is the energy value and rich supply of iron from unsulphured molasses. The cereal supplies protein and B vitamins.

Molasses Puffed Balls

½ cup unsulphured molasses
½ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons butter
2 quarts puffed rice cereal

Combine unsulphured molasses, sugar and butter in a 2-quart saucepan. Place over low heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved. Cook over medium heat until syrup, when dropped in very cold water, separates into threads which are hard but not brittle, or until candy thermometer reaches 270 degrees.

Pour syrup over puffed rice, stirring quickly to coat each kernel. When cool enough to handle, shape into large balls with lightly buttered hands. Yield: 1 dozen.

Note: To make miniature balls, cut recipe in half and substitute crispy rice cereal for puffed rice. Shape into 1-inch balls. Yield: 3 dozen.

★ ★ ★

Molasses Oatmeal Lace Thins

⅓ cup butter
¼ cup milk
¼ cup unsulphured molasses
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1 cup rolled oats
1 cup finely chopped nuts

Melt butter in large saucepan. Remove from heat; stir in milk, unsulphured molasses and vanilla. Sift in flour, baking powder, salt and sugar; mix well. Stir in oats and chopped nuts. Drop by level teaspoonfuls 2 inches apart on greased baking sheets. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 6 to 8 minutes. Cool about 1 minute; remove from pan. Cool.

Yield: Approximately 4 dozen.

★ ★ ★

Molasses Meringues

¼ cup unsulphured molasses
½ teaspoon cornstarch
½ teaspoon baking powder
2 egg whites
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon almond flavoring
½ teaspoon lemn flavoring
½ cup coconut
1 cup bite size shredded rice biscuit crumbs (2 cups shredded rice biscuits)

Combine molasses, cornstarch, and baking powder; reserve. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry; gradually add sugar and beat until very stiff. Carefully fold in molasses mixture; fold in flavorings, coconut and crumbs.

Drop by teaspoonfuls about 2 inches apart on baking sheets covered with brown paper. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) 30 minutes. Remove from paper when cool.

Yield: Approximately 2½ dozen.

Molasses Date Bars

1 egg, beaten
½ cup sugar
½ cup unsulphured molasses
¼ cup melted butter
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ cup whole bran cereal
1 cup chopped dates

Combine egg, sugar, unsulphured molasses, butter and vanilla. Sift together flour, salt and soda; stir into egg mixture. Stir in bran and dates. Turn into a lightly greased and floured 8-inch square pan.

★ ★ ★

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 minutes. Cool and cut into 1 x 2-inch bars. Yield: 32 bars.

Herbed Biscuits Top Hamburgers

Your trusty skillet, which was such a boon during hot summer days, also comes to fore this fall as a glamorous time-saver when you're entertaining friends.

★ ★ ★

For instance, this recipe for Hamburger Biscuit Puffs deliciously and quickly fills the bill for an after-the-football-game buffet. There's no oven to be heated and the meat and biscuits cook all in one skillet!

★ ★ ★

While the small hamburgers are browning in hot pure vegetable oil, biscuit dough is shaped into small balls, rolled in oregano and paprika and arranged on top of the 'burgers. Then, after about 20 minutes of cooking, the skillet entree is ready to go right on the table for serving—out of the skillet, of course!

Hamburger Biscuit Puffs

1 pound ground beef
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons pure vegetable oil
½ biscuit recipe or 5 canned biscuits
1½ teaspoons oregano
1 teaspoon paprika
1 large green pepper, chopped
1 large onion, chopped

Mix the meat with egg, salt and pepper; shape into 12 small hamburgers. Brown in hot oil. While meat is browning, shape biscuit dough into small balls, then roll in mixture of oregano and paprika. When meat is browned, add green pepper and onion; stir a bit to loosen browned bits.

★ ★ ★

Use Canned Onions

Summertime isn't the only time for picnics—get one in during the last warm days of fall. And, serve Crisp Topped Baked Beans. Combine a can of baked beans and a half can of French fried onions; mix thoroughly. Add catsup and mace to taste. Bake in a moderate oven about 20 minutes. Sprinkle with remaining onions; return to oven for 5 minutes.

Ham Filling Baked in Yeast Biscuits

This is a brand new treat, a yeast-raised roll with sandwich filling baked right in. It tastes just as good as it sounds. Though you can't tell by looking or tasting, these yeast specialties are quick-as-a-wink to make.

The dough is made using a brand new formula that has just 3 ingredients. So little to measure, but that's not all. The ingredients are mixed together in one bowl, kneading has been shaved to a few turns, and there's just one brief rising. All this and in addition you get the most flavorful home-baked rolls ever to tempt family and friends.

Ham Rosebuds

¼ cup warm, hot water (lukewarm for compressed yeast)
1 package or cake yeast, active dry or compressed
2½ cups prepared biscuit mix
*Ham Filling
Margarine or butter

Measure water into a large mixing bowl (warm, not hot, water for active dry yeast; lukewarm for compressed yeast). Sprinkle or crumble in yeast. Stir until dissolved.

Mix in biscuit mix and beat vigorously about 1 minute. Turn onto board dusted with biscuit mix and form into a smooth ball. Let stand 5 minutes. Roll into a rectangle about 12 inches square.

Spread with Ham Filling. Roll [illegible] for jelly-roll.

Cut into 1-inch slices and place cut side up in greased 2½-inch muffin pans. With a pair of scissors cut crosses about ½-inch deep across the tops of rolls. Cover, let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Bake at 350 degrees (moderate oven) 25 to 30 minutes. Brush with melted margarine or butter. Cool on rack. Makes 12 rolls.

*Ham Filling—Combine two 4½-ounce cans deviled ham, few drops of Tabasco, ¼ cup coarsely chopped pimiento and 3 tablespoons India relish.

Enrich Many Foods With Extra Dry Milk

Use larger amounts of nonfat dry milk in these preparations for more nutrition values. Meat loaf—6 tablespoons to each pound of ground meat. Soups and gravies — 6 tablespoons to each cup of liquid. Puddings and cocoa — 2 tablespoons to each cup of fresh fluid milk, or 6 tablespoons to each cup of water. Yeast rolls — 6 tablespoons for each cup of liquid called for in recipe.

You can mix two parts of unsalted vegetable shortening with one part of flour and use it to coat the inside of a pan in which a butter-type cake is to be baked.

Friday Burgers Use Rice Cereal

Here is a recipe for melted-cheese burgers which are popular always at these outdoor feasts. Prepared with flaked tuna fish, and seasoned with pickles and onions, these Friday Burgers are a treat any day of the week.

Friday Burgers

2½ cups oven toasted rice cereal
2 cups (2 7-oz. cans) tuna fish
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon minced onions
2 tablespoons chopped dill pickles
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon celery salt
6 hamburger buns, split, buttered
6 slices processed American cheese

Crush 1½ cups of the rice cereal into fine crumbs. Drain and flake tuna fish. Combine with cereal crumbs, mayonnaise, onions, pickles and seasonings; mix lightly. Shape into patties about 3 inches in diameter, using about ⅓ cup mixture for each. Coat with remaining rice cereal.

Put opened buns on grill rack and heat while patties are broiling. Broil until golden brown, about 5 minutes, and then top each patty with a cheese slice. When cheese begins to melt, remove from rack and serve at once. Yield: 6 servings.

Mrs. Barrett Opens Home for Meeting

Needlework Guild Leaders Plan 1958 Ingathering

Mrs. Edward P. Barrett (right) opened her Bloomfield Hills home for an executive board meeting of the Pontiac Branch of the Needlework Guild of America Wednesday afternoon. Attending the gathering were Mrs. Basil E. Brown of Mary Day avenue (left) and Mrs. Claire R. Gaukler of Franklin boulevard.

Refreshment time at the Barrett home gave members a chance to discuss the garments various sections of the guild are preparing for the annual Ingathering to be held Nov. 13 at First Presbyterian Church. From left to right are Mrs. William S. Isgrigg, Mrs. A. H. Harrington, president of the branch; and Mrs. W. Ross Thompson.

Concert to Have Guest Conductor

Guest conductor at the Fall Vocal Clinic to be held Nov. 3 at Pontiac Central High School will be Dr. John Raymond, director of music at Lafayette College. The clinic is under the general direction of George Putnam, head of vocal music for Pontiac High Schools.

Dr. Raymond has worked with the annual Fred Waring Youth Workshop and conducted all-state clinics in New Jersey, Connecticut, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Virginia.

★ ★ ★

He also has directed District Festival Choruses and Music Educators Conference festivals in Oklahoma, Texas, Nebraska Florida and Illinois.

1,000 TO SING

Some 1,000 singers from Central and Northern High Schools will be directed by Dr. Raymond in a wide variety of selections. Among selections are: "Dream," written by Johnny Mercer and arranged by Hawley Ades; "There's a Meeting Here Tonight," arranged by Harry Simeone; and Roy Ringwald's arrangement of Whittier's poem, "O Brother Man."

★ ★ ★

Other songs are "Blessing Glory and Wisdom," by Bach; "Plenty Good Room," a spiritual arranged by Smith, and "Go Song of Mine," by Cookson. "Johnny Schmoker," a Pennsylvania Dutch Folk Song, completes the massed numbers.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Raymond will have two rehearsals with the students participating in the concert, one on Sunday, Nov. 2 and the other Nov. 3.

The program will be held at 8:15 p.m. Nov. 3 at Pontiac Central High School. Special selected groups from the city's two high schools also will appear.

Ella Kuhn of Lake Angelus Too Busy to Retire

Runs Hospital and Home at 73

An urge to "get more done before it's too late," has kept Mrs. Ella Kuhn of Lake Angelus young and alert in spite of her 73 years of enthusiastic living.

Each morning this energetic woman, who has raised 11 children, arises at 6:30 a.m., straightens her 12-room home then drives to Detroit to supervise the operation of her private hospital.

Eight full hours later, she gets in her little car and drives home through heavy night traffic.

'52 MOTHER OF YEAR

Honored as Michigan's "Mother of the Year" in 1952, Mrs. Kuhn still maintains the position as chairman of the American Mothers Association. She has traveled to Alaska five different times, and has toured Europe.

★ ★ ★

From the day she married Dr. William K. Kuhn in 1902 and organized the Warren Diagnostic Hospital, Mrs. Kuhn has been an enthusiastic mother and successful career woman.

Soon after their first son, Charles, was born, came Edward — then nine other children in quick succession. When her husband died in 1935, Mrs. Kuhn continued to raise her family, operate the hospital, and educate her children one by one.

★ ★ ★

She says all her children worked and earned their own way through college. However, the record of their highly skilled professions is a living tribute to their mother who inspired them to "move up."

3 ARE DOCTORS

Of the eleven Kuhn children, Albert, Henry and Robert are medical doctors. John is a lawyer, Charles an undertaker and Edward a teacher.

Sons George and Paul are administrative executives and Richard owns a Pontiac business. Two sisters, Helen Grisby and Clara Graham, are housewives married to electronic engineers.

Three times a week, the energetic Mrs. Kuhn personally selects fresh food for her hospital and has fun shopping around for "good buys."

Located on a 10-acre tract of land facing Lake Angelus, Mrs. Kuhn's Swiss type home has a spacious entrance hall, open stairway and sunken living room.

BIG FAMILY SUPPERS

Padded window seats in the dining room and a huge table with seating capacity for 20 people is set up ready for weekly, Sunday night suppers for the entire family.

Outside, a cut-stone patio 15 feet wide surrounds the entire gingerbread-trimmed house, where umbrella tables and chairs lure family and visitors.

The front lawn drops down a big rolling hill to the lake's edge — and in the winter her 23 grandchildren use the area for a ski and toboggan slide.

★ ★ ★

For recreation, Mrs. Kuhn loves to putter around the house. She has just finished painting two walls of the guest room in the boat house — "and only two to go," she added.

Retire? From professional work someday, maybe — but not from life, says Mrs. Kuhn. "I've got a thousand things that I want to do when I get the time."

Pontiac Press Photo

Seventy-three-year-old Mrs. Ella Kuhn of Lake Angelus likes to wield a paintbrush after driving to and from her private hospital in Detroit every day. She has raised 11 children, and supervises her hospital in Detroit with energetic vigor that amazes her friends.

Oct. 27 Concert Set

Opening the Cranbrook Music Guild's new season Oct. 27 will be Pro Musica Antiqua, the virtuoso ensemble specializing in Renaissance music. The concert will be held at 8:30 p.m. at the Kingswood School.

Shower Honors Janet Fenlon

Janet Fenlon, bride-elect of Richard MacIntosh, was honored at a miscellaneous shower at the Coleman street home of Mrs. Thomas Ogden. Cohostesses were Mrs. Robert Edwards and Mrs. James MacIntosh.

Miss Fenlon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fenlon of Edison street, and her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert MacIntosh of Valencia drive. The couple will be married Oct. 18 at St. Michael Church.

Mental Health Topic for Whitfield PTA

Readers Give Cogent Reasons for Putting Wedding Ring First

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

"DEAR ABBY: You amaze me. A smart girl like you not knowing why the wedding ring goes on first. It's an old superstition that once the wedding ring is placed on the finger, it's bad luck to remove it. The engagement ring HAS TO be removed for cleaning (and frequently to remount the diamond in a more modern setting) so in order to remove the engagement ring without disturbing the wedding ring, the wedding ring must be placed on the finger first."

ABBY

BRODKEY (OMAHA)

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: The wedding ring goes on FIRST because it must always be closest to the heart of the wearer. I thought everybody knew that."

O'NEIL (CALIFORNIA)

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: I am sure the reason why married women wear their wedding rings on the inside is because many men can't afford an engagement ring until after they have been married about 10 years, so their wives wear their rings in the order in which they got them."

KELLY (MASS.)

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: You Americans seem to think that because a custom is observed in your country it is correct, and those who do not follow that custom are in error. I wish to state that in Australia the engagement ring is placed FIRST on the finger of the intended as a warning to all hopeful suitors that the young lady is spoken for. That ring is not removed unless the engagement is terminated. THEN, the wedding ring is placed on the finger, and both remain in place as long as the couple is married. Doesn't this make more sense to you?"

AN "AUSSIE"
(SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA)

"DEAR ABBY: If you'd like a minister's explanation for the reason the wedding ring is placed on the finger first, it is because when the bride comes to the altar to be wed, she comes with bare hands, free from adornment.

"If she has been presented with an engagement ring, she does not wear it during the marriage ceremony, but places it on her finger after the wedding band has been placed there. Most brides prefer to leave their wedding rings intact, once placed, hence the order. Very truly yours."

REV. LARSON (IOWA)

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: Who said there must be some involved or mysterious reason for wearing the wedding ring on the inside and the engagement ring on the outside? In my case, that's the way my husband put them on, and I've gained so much weight I can't get either of them off. Thank you."

SEGAL (BROOKLYN)

★ ★ ★

"DEAR ABBY: It is a pleasure to be able to give YOU some advice for a change. The engagement ring is strictly ornamental and has no spiritual or ceremonial significance. The wedding ring, being the more important of the two, needs protection against getting lost, so the engagement ring is slipped on the finger to serve as a guard for a woman's most precious possession, her wedding band."

Call Her to Make a Date

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I've just been given a job in a big city, where I know very few people. Naturally I'd like to meet some nice girls (and men) my own age. One possibility may be through an older woman I met a few weeks ago who has two attractive daughters. She said at that meeting, "Come and see us sometime", but nothing more definite. On this flimsy pretext would it be proper to go and if it wouldn't be considered presumptuous on my part, then what steps do I take?"

Answer: I think it might be well to telephone first. Tell her, "This is John Young. I met you at Mrs. Smith's house and you said I might come to see you sometime." If she remembers you and she names a time for you to come, or asks when you are free to come, then of course, you may go. However, if she doesn't, I'm afraid you will have to consider this door closed — at least for the present.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My parents died many years ago and I have been living at home with an older brother and sister. Both ar unmarried. We always got on very well together and I am devoted to both of them. I am going to be married in the not too distant future and I would like to know if it would be proper to have the names of both my brother and sister on the invitations?"

Answer: It will be proper to have the invitations read:

Miss Mary Smith
Mr. John Smith

request the honour of your presence at the marriage of their sister Elizabeth, etc.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I was advised that it is very improper to wear dark (sun) glasses indoors. I see no impropriety in keeping them on any more than ordinary glasses. Am I wrong?"

Answer: There is no impropriety in this, but dark glasses indoors give the impression that the wearer is trying to hide bloodshot eyes.

Night Owl, Don't You Know This?

A girl's best friend, if she wants to look good, is a sound night's sleep. Yet there are lots of night owls who don't seem to realize this.

They work up their energy by the end of the day to the point where they'll put off indefinitely going to bed. They putter. They wash out a pair of stockings, finish the latest mystery thriller, watch TV or gossip on the telephone.

All pleasant enough if you're in bed by 10:30 or 11 p.m. But it's merely cutting in uselessly on your all-important sleep to waste an evening.

The best way to break this habit is to plan your evenings for awhile. Have one evening in which you do personal lingerie, another in which you take care of beauty chores. This way, you won't wind up giving yourself a home permanent at midnight.

Lips May Become Weather-Beaten

A panel discussion on "How Parents and Teachers Can Work Together More Effectively," was held when Herrington School PTA met Wednesday in the school's multi-purpose room.

On the panel were teachers Mrs. Clinton Lefler and Mrs. Andrew Donnell. Parents were Mrs. Howard Malwitz, Mrs. Lester Davison and Edward Lenon. Mrs. Richard Tomkins, visiting teacher, was the moderator.

A special meeting, an "Opinionaire" on Michigan's education program will be held next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The recreation program will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday with men's gym. Thursday evening will be women's night and Friday evening will be for teenagers.

County Patients to Exhibit Crafts

Handwork of patients at the Oakland County Convalescent Hospital will be shown at the Detroit Historical Museum as part of the Senior Citizens Arts and Crafts Exhibit of Southeastern Michigan Oct. 10-26.

Phillip Sloan, a patient, won two second premium prizes at this year's Michigan State Fair for sheepskin slippers and a tooled wallet he displayed. Other patients made items including leatherwork, weaving, crocheting, knitting and woodwork, for the fair.

Six states do not specify a definite speed limit for automobiles. These six states say "reasonable." That should lead to some long arguments between traffic cops and motorists.

Newcomers Hold Show

A fashion show was held when Pontiac Newcomers Club met Wednesday evening at Selma's Smart Shoppe, Rochester.

Hostesses were; Mrs. Earl Atkinson, Mrs. Joseph Galardi, Mrs. Barnard Woessner and Mrs. Harry Meharg.

Modeling were Mrs. Harry T. Hahn, Mrs. John H. Holms, Mrs. Peter Dunn and Mrs. Galardi.

Mrs. John Irwin was welcomed as a new member.

Eunice Circle Plans Project for Oct. 18

Members of the Eunice Circle of the WSWS of Baldwin Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church met Tuesday evening at the church. Plans for a money-making project to be held Oct. 18 were made.

Mrs. Vergil Myers participated in the program. Hostesses were Mrs. L. A. Silvis and Mrs. Richard Hoban.

There's a brand-new look for blouses in one shown in Paris. It's an overblouse knitted of black satin ribbon.

What Young People Think:

Teenagers Inherit Hatreds of World War II

By EUGENE GILBERT
Gilbert Youth Research Co.

World War II has been over for 13 years but bitterness lingers on, even in the minds of those who were too young at the time to understand it fully.

"Nazis . . . war . . . concentration camps . . . persecution . . . Hitler . . . falling bombs."

Words such as those pop into the minds of four out of five American young people when the word "German" is mentioned.

"Barbarism . . . war . . . sneaks . . . fanatics . . . hari kari . . . untrustworthy."

Those are the sort of things that one out of three American teenagers told our poll takers they think of first when the word "Japanese" comes into the conversation.

On the other hand, another ex-enemy, Italy, came out very well in our survey. Less than one in 20 think of Italy in connection with war and Mussolini. Italians are viewed in terms of spaghetti, music and friendliness by four out of five.

TOO YOUNG TO KNOW

The oldest teenager in our poll was 6 years old when Germany fell and the Japanese surrendered aboard the battleship Missouri. The youngest was scarcely born.

★ ★ ★

Why, then, does the simple mention of these former foes turned friends and allies conjure up such a picture in the minds of our young folk?

Perhaps it's the influence of the movie industry, still turning out war pictures, or perhaps it's television with its old movies produced while the passions of wartime gripped the land.

Or, more probably, the kids are influenced by the still vivid recollections of parents and older friends who lived through those years of atrocities and propaganda.

★ ★ ★

Carol Yasner, 14, of Brooklyn, was a little more than a year old in 1945 when the fighting ended in Europe, but to her the word "German" is matched by the word "Nazi." Diane Brooks, 15, of Norwood, Ohio, thinks of "war."

To Arlene Hevener, 17, of Olean, N. Y., it's "concentration camps." Germany means "persecution of the Jews" to Catherine Bruda, 16, of Bayside, N. Y.

Alvin Stark, 14, of Jackson, Miss., a year old when the big bomb fell on Hiroshima, thinks of the Japanese as "fanatics — they were losing the war but would rather die instead of surrendering until the A-bomb."

But, on the other hand, American young people have a number of good things to say about the enemies of a decade and a half ago.

Three out of five think of the Japanese as quiet, soft-spoken and gentle folk. One out of three admires them for their art, architecture, gardens and cherry blossoms.

German intelligence impresses one in six. One in 12 thinks of Prussian strictness. The thoughts of one in 20 turns to products like beer, pretzels or cars when the word German is mentioned.

Japanese means:

"Cherry blossom trees and weeping willows," to Surella Bruckner, 13, of Dallas.

"Harmony of life, communion with nature," to Alida Phillips, 18, of Cincinnati.

German means:

"A smart, clever person," to Eugene Malale, 16, of Philadelphia.

"Sausage, dachshunds, Porsche, Mercedes Benz, beer," to Charles Irving, a 19-year-old from Corpus Christi, Tex.

"Stern, strict, rough, smart scientists," to 17-year-old Sandra Dee of Boston.

Officers elected when the American Gold Star Mothers, chapter nine met Tuesday evening at the DAV Home are; Mrs. Lola Erb, president; Mrs. Edward Ellifson, first vice president; Mrs. Edna Matheny, second vice president; Mrs. Mary Lee Hawks, secretary; and Mrs. Sybella Stevens, treasurer.

Others are Mrs. Daisy Langton, sargeant at arms; Mrs. Joseph Doyle, historian; Mrs. Lauretta Stockwell, chaplain; Mrs. Ruth Olson, banner bearer and Mrs. Daisy Hight, flag bearer.

Pontiac MOMS Unit Meets for Luncheon

Pontiac MOMS Unit Two met Tuesday at the Mathews street home of Mrs. H. A. Sibley for a luncheon. Seventeen members and guests were present.

Mrs. John Brewer, president, gave a report on the state MOMS convention held in Saginaw last month. Mrs. Inez Johnson of Hymera, Ind. a former member, was a guest.

Older Couple Can Live for Themselves

By RUTH MILLETT

They could be regarded as the "poor lonely Whites rattling around in that big house, with not a single one of their four children living in the same state."

But nobody could ever honestly feel sorry for the Whites. Because they aren't rattling around in that big, old house they lived in until the last child was married and gone from home.

They sold the big old, house and built themselves a house exactly right for two persons who want a home to have as much comfort and require as little care as possible.

And instead of being lonely, the Whites are having as much fun as anyone in town.

That is because the Whites are making use of the advantages that come with their time of life. They aren't wasting their new freedom on loneliness, or busy work, or fretting about the lives their grown children are leading.

PLAN TRIPS

They are using it to do at long last the things they have wanted to do for years. They can't travel as much as they would like to, but they make up for it by carefully planning the trips they do take. They study up on the places they are to visit, and enjoy each trip to the utmost—all the way from planning for it to looking back on it as having given them exactly what they wanted.

They are both busy with hobbies, some shared and some pursued without the other's participation. They have more time for developing friendships than they have had in years, so their house is often filled with friends.

They have more time for each other now, too. And they are using it to share ideas, talk over the books they read, and to plan their social life far enough ahead so that there is no time for feeling lonely or left out.

No two people who care about each other need dread the time when their children are grown and gone from home. It doesn't have to be a lonely time. Like the Whites, any couple can change from living for the children to living for themselves.

WCTU Has All-Day Meeting

Auxiliary Planning Fall Fair

Plans for a fall fair were discussed when the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church of the Advent met at the home of Mrs. Bernard Head of Bloomfield Hills Tuesday evening. Cohostesses were Mrs. Robert Miller and Mrs. Robert MacGonigal.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Hugh MacDuff, president of the auxiliary, announced that the fair will be held at the Holiday House on Middlebelt road Nov. 12 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Mrs. John S. Hart is chairman for the fair. Cochairman is Mrs. Clarence Suhr.

Low-Calorie Flavor

Extra Touch Makes Diet Less Grim

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Women are likely to feel so grim when they start on a reducing diet that they take it for granted that the foods they eat during this period must be dull. It is true that you have to leave off the exotic sauces, the luscious tidbits, hot buttered rolls, gravies, fried foods and so on, but you can add flavor in many ways to your reducing menus with out adding many calories.

Here are a few suggestions. Use skim milk or powered fat free milk or buttermilk. When you use butter make it whipped butter. This adds flavor and does not give you so many calories for the same amount. Also make use of the synthetic sweeteners during this time. If you do not like skim milk, add a few drops of vanilla and one or more of these sweeteners for a synthetic milkshake.

She's taking a good, long, "last" look at herself before starting to diet. She thinks it's a pretty grim affair, but Josephine Lowman advises that you can add flavor in many ways to your reducing menus without adding many calories.

Remember that sea foods are fine for you. They are low in calorie count and you can have a little catsup with a dash of worcestershire sauce or horseradish to give flavor. When you have a sandwich make it an open faced one; only one slice of bread. Use grated parmesan cheese as a seasoner on some foods. Unless you load this on, it adds only a few calories.

Use low calorie salad dressings. You can make these using tomato juice or sauce as a base and adding zest with garlic, onion and lemon juice. Always broil meats or chicken or fish. Never fry.

Celery and capers added to meat patties or to fish or chicken salad make them more enjoyable at little calorie cost. If you are sick to death of poached eggs, put a teaspoonful of chili sauce on top of them.

These simple changes in your diet will allow you pleasant and adequate meals and will result in a loss in pounds.

Of course one of our problems is the food we eat when at social occasions. Take what is offered but take smaller helpings and no seconds. When no one is looking scrape off the rich sauce. Take the roll but don't eat it. Take the dessert but eat only half of it or if it's a "help-yourself" affair, take a small amount.

When the canapes are passed — concentrate on the carrot strips, the cucumber canapes, the olives, celery and shrimp and avoid the cheese dips, the nuts and the creamy lovelies.

On of the best ways to prop up determination is to have someone take a candid picture of you BEFORE and then AFTER.

If you missed my 9-Day Reducing Diet which gives you a loss of from five to 10 pounds in nine days send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

India Movie Queen Hides From Public

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Sheila Ramani sizzled into town last week. And, although she is toothsome, tallish and tender-eyed, she more or less hid away in the home of a friend.

This seems quite odd, in view of the fact that Sheila is a movie star. Most visiting movie stars want to be seen. Oh, they may wear dark glasses occasionally, as when in the middle of divorce proceedings, or they may choose a dim corner of the Stork Club instead of lurking around the bar. But their polish is perfect, and their stocking seams are straight, and they are preened to delight the customers if de-goggled.

★ ★ ★

Sheila is different because she's from India. In India, she says, movie-making is more business than baloney.

You get to be a star—at least she and most of her fellow stars did—by answering a want ad in the newspaper.

"Usually," she said, "you are chosen for the expression of your eyes. As you may know, kissing is forbidden on the Indian screen. Sex appeal, as you call it, is from the nose up."

She pitched out a slow underlash curve. "We think it is a more healthy form of love dramatics, perhaps, than the western way."

The ban against kissing, it was explained, has caused realistic directors and producers in India a good deal of trouble in recent years. They've tried almost everything to get around it . . . from putting swords between the teeth of their heroes, to whipping up dust storms in the climatic moments of great romances.

Most common solution, however, is to bring the couple into one another's arms and then shift the camera delicately into a pan of the moon. India's pictures often do more justice to the moon than the stars.

Sheila, who has played lead roles for six years—since she answered the want ad at the age of 21—is also a producer. She explains that producers don't invest many of their own rupees in a film. Instead, they sign up big name stars on credit, then invite wealthy friends to what is called a "muhurut;" the purpose of which is earthly, but the performance of which is religious.

Amid prayers for the success of the upcoming film, the producer and friends are said to toss offerings into a bonfire for the goddess of wealth. What money is not consumed by the goddess is contributed to the picture.

"All is well," put in Sheila's New York hostess, "because astrology guides the making of Indian movies. That goes for the title, the starting date, the time of the muhurut, and everything. When I was over visiting Sheila, an astrologist said one movie had to be titled 'Mountain.' It put the producer in a difficult situation, since the plot and locale had nothing to do with mountains.

★ ★ ★

"They solved it, of course. Made the heroine's last name 'Mountain,' though she was a little thing.

"And so you see," supplemented Sheila, "the movie was a towering success."

NEW MOTOR VESSEL FOR ISLE ROYALE — Ranger III, the new motor vessel which will provide passenger cargo service to Isle Royale National Park from Houghton. The new vessel, which was christened and launched in July, is shown as it made a stop at Sault Ste. Marie. Ranger III is 165 feet in length, 34 feet in beam and has a draft of 10 feet.

Spaniards Promenade

MADRID — "People-watching" is a popular pastime in Spain. Every evening an informal parade is staged, even in the smallest towns, with husbands showing off their wives, wives showing off new clothes, and young people carrying on discreet flirtations. In some towns the unmarried men and women walk in opposite directions, the better to see and be seen.

TUNA SALAD ROLLS. Add diced celery, onion and capers to drained, flaked tuna. Moisten with salad dressing. Heap into split and buttered rolls. Let guests help themselves to Coke, served in an ice-filled plastic bucket (available at your grocer's). People do help themselves to Coke over 58 million times a day.

SNACK TRAY. A picnic standby—second only to Coca-Cola! Coke actually freshens up your taste between bites, makes every mouthful more delicious. No wonder Coke is a favorite with food. So treat guests to the real refreshment—Coca-Cola. They'll appreciate your good taste in serving Coca-Cola, ice-cold!

PICNIC STICKS. Place slice of American cheese between two slices of canned luncheon meat. Slice into sticks, fasten with picks. This easy "finger food" tastes so good with sparkling Coca-Cola. In fact, the cold crisp taste of Coke brings out the flavor of almost any dish you serve.

Remember— COKE and Good Taste go together!

Life of Pope Pius XII Told in Pictures

PIOUS MOTHER

Eugenio Pacelli, who was to become Pope Pius XII, had decided to be a Roman Catholic priest by the time he was ten years old. He might, like his father and grandfather, have been a successful Roman lawyer. But his early determination to become a priest pleased both his parents and they did everything possible to foster his interest in that direction.

Born in Rome March 2, 1876, Eugenio had an older brother and two sisters. Their mother, a pious woman, inculcated religious faith in her children as soon as they were able to understand her words. A studious boy, Eugenio donned the cassock for the first time when he was ten years old and became an altar boy at the parish church in the center of old Rome.

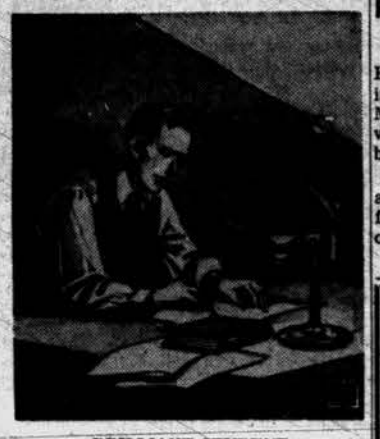

ALTAR BOY

NUNS' SCHOOL

He first attended a nuns' school, then the Royal Lyceum and then the Capranica College. Throughout his school career he lived at home with his parents. An exceptional student, he won many honors. Well versed in Latin and Greek, he also showed great aptitude in modern languages. This aptitude led to fluency in six languages — Italian, French, German, English, Spanish and Portugese. As Pope he often surprised visitors from remote countries by his fluency in their languages —a cultivated product of his studies.

At the age of 22 he was ordained a priest and said his first Mass in the Basilica of Santa Maria Maggiore. In reporting it, the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano predicted a "great future" for Pacelli. But it could not, naturally, forsee the steps that would lead the young priest to the Papacy.

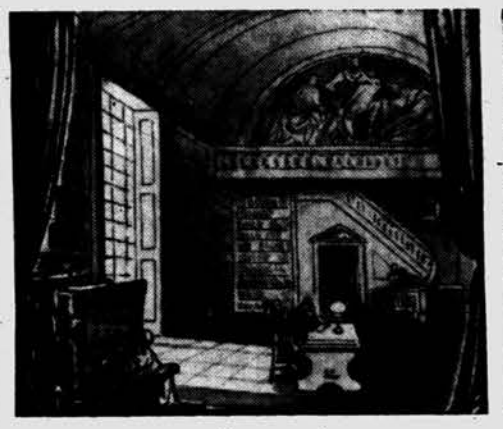

BRILLIANT STUDENT

VATICAN JOB

When Eugenio Pacelli was ordained a Roman Catholic priest at the age of 22, he accepted a post as instructor in canon law at the Apollinare Academy. But his teachers' accounts of his brilliance already had reached the Vatican — the place where he someday would reign as Pius XII. Thus, instead of going to the Academy, he was summoned to the Vatican to become an apprentice in the Congregation for Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs, which is a kind of investigation bureau for the Vatican Secretariat of State.

Pacelli aided Pietro Cardinal Gasparri in codifying canon law and became for a time, as he later said, "a library mouse." He never again left the shadow of the Vatican. Twice he accepted professorships in Catholic institutions, but each time Gasparri persuaded him to change his mind.

LIBRARY MOUSE

CORONATION TRIP

In 1901 he made the first of his many trips abroad as papal emissary when he carried to London a personal letter of condolence from Pope Leo XIII to Edward VII on the death of Queen Victoria. He returned for the London Eucharistic Congress in 1908. He made a third visit to England in 1911 for the coronation of King George V and received the Coronation Medal. Thus he was the only Pope in history with a British decoration.

He moved up to the post of Secretary for Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs in 1913. When Benedict XV became Pope in 1914, Gasparri became Secretary of State and Pacelli Undersecretary of State.

Clinton School Moves Pupils to Oak Ridge

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP)—A yellow caravan of school buses takes the white and Negro pupils of bombed Clinton High School to nearby Oak Ridge today where they will resume full-scale classes under guard.

A sign, "Clinton High School," was placed on Linden Elementary School at Oak Ridge, vacant for two years. The school was made available to Clinton officials by the Atomic Energy Commission, its owner.

Baby Girl Dies of Polio; Detroit's 17th Victim

DETROIT (AP) — A tiny 10-month-old girl is the latest victim of Detroit's polio epidemic.

Sharon Scott's death Wednesday was the city's 17th polio death of the year. She was one of six children. Her mother told health authorities none of the family had received any Salk polio vaccine shots.

Four new polio cases were reported in the city Wednesday to bring the total thus far this year to 553, compared with 173 cases and two deaths for the similar period of 1957.

Smoke From Sistine Chapel Will Signal Pope's Election

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A wisp of white smoke from a chimney thrust through a window of the Sistine Chapel will tell watching thousands in a few days that a new Pope has been elected.

The white smoke will signal the fact the ballots cast by a conclave of most of the 55 cardinals have given some candidate the necessary majority of two-thirds plus one.

A round of inconclusive balloting is marked by puffs of black smoke. This signaling system is an ancient custom.

To maintain secrecy, it has long been required that the cardinals' ballots be burned after they are tallied. Many ballots always have been necessary in the past for a decision.

★ ★ ★

Three centuries ago an attendant noted the smoke from the open fires along with that of candles, was smudging paintings in the Sistine Chapel among them Michelangelo's "Last Judgment."

STOVE INSTALLED

To remedy that, a small stove was obtained and its chimney thrust out a window. The smoke told the crowd in St. Peter's Square that a ballot had been completed. But it did not tell whether a pope had been elected.

Some kindly soul presumably with concurrence of the cardinals, got the idea of mixing a handful of damp straw with the ballots to produce black smoke in sign that a vote had been inconclusive. Putting dry twigs with the ballots made white smoke when a pope had been chosen.

In this age the Vatican Radio may scoop the smoke signals on the news. At the last election, they were about even. But there is always a chance the smoke will tell the story first.

CARDINALS RULE

The cardinals, princes of the church while the Pope lived, become its reigning sovereigns on his death. They will continue to rule until they named the new Pope.

In token of their temporary authority the members of the Sacred College traditionally wear saffron instead of purple during the interval.

Each also, in the congregations that handle church business and in the conclave itself will have a silken canopy over his throne. The canopies will be lowered after the election in token of obedience to the new Pope.

A wing of Vatican Palace will be given over to the conclave. The wing will be divided to make small apartments for the cardinals and some 200 aides.

Here, in the four stories of the section centering around the San Damaso courtyard, the conclavists will remain under lock and key, virtual prisoners, until they have chosen the successor to Pius XII.

Set aside are the apartments regularly assigned to the papal major-domo, the rooms below the papal apartment, the rooms around the Ducal Hall, the apartments along Raphael's loggias, and those of the pontifical almoner.

Each cardinal will have three or four small rooms in which to live with his conclave secretary and personal servant. Each apartment will be outfitted with beds, tables and chairs, and little more. They will be assigned by lot.

At their sessions in the Sistine Chapel, the cardinals will sit along the walls, under the silken canopies, before desks on which rest silver ink wells and quill pens.

★ ★ ★

The church's severest sanction, excommunication, may be visited upon any persons who violate the secrecy imposed on the conclave.

LIPS ARE SEALED

A long oath required of the cardinals and their aides seals their lips about its doings. Only the Pope may open them.

★ ★ ★

The entrance, from the bronze gate at the right of the Bernini colonnades in St. Peter's square to the courtyard of San Damaso, will be guarded by clerks of the Apostolic Chamber, apostolic pronotaries, bishops who assist at the pontifical throne, and other prelates.

For the cardinals, the monotony of their existence within the conclave walls will be broken mostly by the two or four ballots daily and visits back and forth in the evening.

They may receive letters, books and newspapers, but they are forbidden to send printed matter outside and letters they write are opened and read by conclave guards.

★ ★ ★

They may also receive visits, but callers must have special permission from the ranking conclave official and their conversation must take place through a small opening in a door with witnesses present to see the election is not discussed.

Pope Pius XII Priest Above Everything

dated from the Middle Ages and no longer suitable for this day and age.

COMPETENCE UNDISPUTED

His competence in such a variety of fields was undisputed because he happened to be one of the best-informed men in the world. The Pope collected his information from four principal sources:

His daily contact with prelates from all over the world.

Pius XII was his own Secretary of State and as such received the secret reports from the 46 embassies and legations accredited to the Holy See.

The Pope was a great reader. He read attentively and regularly no less than five important dailies from various countries, making notes and filing articles for future reference.

Besides these three sources, he could also call on some of the world's greatest scientists who, Catholic or non-Catholic, consider it an honor to be a member of the Vatican's only Academy, that of Science.

This association, which meets in Rome, includes such people as Sir Alexander Fleming, the father of penicillin, and several American members of the Atomic Energy Commission.

But the man who could refer to the most extensive documentation on human knowledge in existence remained nevertheless a simple priest at heart.

His private life was restricted to a few hours at the end of the day. It was then he received his intimate collaborators and his private physician, Dr. Galeazzi-Lisi.

A nun, Mother Pasqualina, with two assistants, all three Swiss and of venerable age, prepared the Pope's meals and looked after his apartment. Mother Pasqualina had done this for 30 years. Her main worry was to get him to eat more.

His breakfast, after having celebrated his daily mass, consisted of a piece of bread with coffee. The Pope stopped eating butter since the last war. Lunch consisted of soup, eggs or fish, vegetables and fruit. Supper was even more frugal: bread, eggs, cheese and chocolate. He drank one glass of white wine every day, red when the weather was cold.

ATE ALONE

Since he headed the Catholic Church, following a centuries-old tradition, the Pope ate alone. No human being sat with him at his marble table. The only creatures who ignored the rule were three birds — two canaries and a chaffinch — who are so tame that they perched on his shoulder and picked crumbs from his plate.

The six-room apartment which the Pope occupied is very sparsely furnished — in contrast to the splendors of the rest of the palace. In his bedroom, there is only an ordinary iron bedstead, a table, a chair and a large crucifix. The rest consists of a chapel, a study, a dining-room, a small salon and a library.

This modest apartment is in one of the oldest and most beautiful palaces in the world. The Vatican represents 2,000 years of Christian history, but Pius XII introduced the technical aids of his century. He was the first Pope to use a typewriter and he was very attached to his electric razor which saved precious time.

When the Holy Father decided to give up the daily visit of his barber, Luigi Evangelisti, the latter protested that the new-fangled instrument would never give His Holiness a perfect shave. "You are wrong" replied Pius XII. "Look." He then passed the razor a few times over his chin. "Si," said the barber sadly, "it is true."

As Envoy Extraordinary of the previous Pope, Cardinal Pacelli traveled extensively. He visited France, England, Spain, Hungary and the Argentine, nearly always by air.

When he became Pope, his travels ceased. He only left the Vatican to go to his summer residence, Castel Gandolfo. He traveled in a black Cadillac, a gift of American Catholics. Every Italian knows the number plate, S.C.V. No. 1.

The automobile was also used to take him to the Vatican gardens, which cover almost one-half of the Vatican city, for his daily solitary walk and meditation.

According to his own statement, the Pope's most memorable voyage was the one he made to the United States in 1936 as Pontifical Legate sent by Pius XI, during which he traveled some 10,000 miles by airplane. It was during this trip that the pilot lost his bearings in thick fog; Cardinal Pacelli, unperturbed, continued to type out his next speech on his portable.

Three years later he became Pope Pius XII.

Cardinal Hears News by Radio

Hungary Likely Will Not Let Josef Mindszenty Go to Rome

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Hungary's Roman Catholic primate, Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, today learned of the death of Pope Pius XII, Western sources in Budapest said.

★ ★ ★

Cardinal Mindszenty has been a refugee in the U.S. Legation in Budapest for nearly two years, since the Soviet army crushed the Hungarian revolution. The cardinal apparently heard of the Pope's death from the Vatican Radio.

★ ★ ★

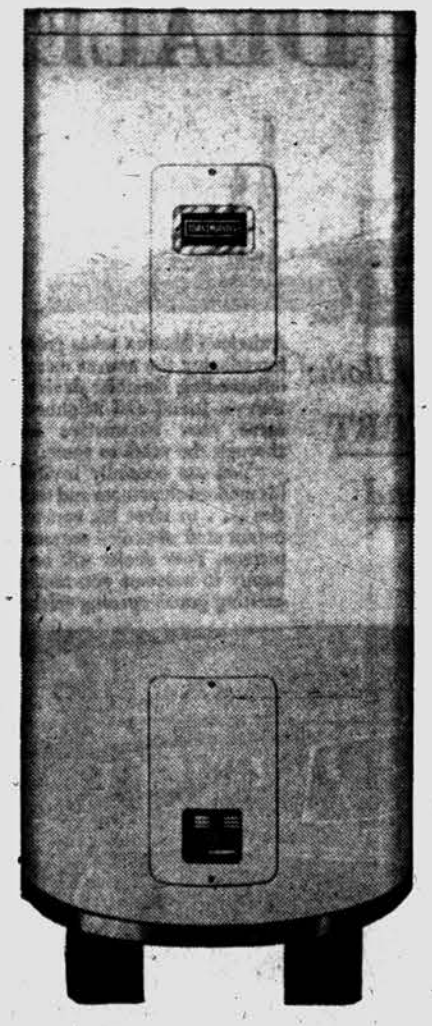

The Hungarian news agency MTI quoted a government spokesman as saying the government contemplates no offer to let Cardinal Mindszenty go to Rome to attend a College of Cardinals meeting for election of a new Pope. The possibility of such an offer was reported here Wednesday.

Trees Topple in Storm; Lightning Strikes House

A flash rain and hail storm, which darkened the sky shortly after 8 a.m. today, toppled trees, knocked out power and telephone lines and flooded streets in several northern Oakland County area communities.

In the Ortonville area, missed this morning by the storm, a house was struck by lightning last night, causing an estimated $4,000 damage.

The two-story dwelling is the home of the Clifford Nienow family, 45 Cedar St. It was struck about 9:40.

No one was injured, according to Fire Marshal William Buckingham, who estimated that damage to the house and its electrical wiring at about $3,000 and to contents at $1,000.

Many phones in the area, served by the General Telephone Co., were still out of order this morning.

Inch-thick hailstones pounded window panes in the Gingellville area in Orion Township shortly after daybreak today and heavy winds snapped trees, sending them across roads and power lines, the Oakland County Road Commission reported.

No serious damage or injuries were reported there or in Lake Orion, however.

Several streets in Romeo were completely flooded during the downpour, blocking many sewers.

Romeo State Police reported a large tree was blown across Rochester road, about two miles north of Rochester. Another tree struck a power line near the Bernard Desmond home, 450 N. Main St.

★ ★ ★

The brunt of the storm apparently bypassed south Oakland communities, according to reports from fire and police departments there. Rain fell hard for about five minutes.

Newly Married Couple to Live at Whipple Lake

CLARKSTON — Making their home at 9110 Evee Rd., Whipple Lake are newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Frank Devins, who have returned from a wedding trip in the West.

They were married at St. Mary's Church in Gatlinburg Tenn., by the Rev. John Baltz, pastor.

The former Mrs. Emma Hollis of Clarkston, the bride was given in marriage by her son, Edgar Hollis of Oxford.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Johnnie Conner, and serving his brother as best man was John Devins of Gatlinburg.

Following the double-ring ceremony a reception was held at the Mountain View Hotel in Gatlinburg for members of the couple's immediate families.

Night Classes Slated at Avondale High

AVONDALE — Adult education classes will begin Monday at Avondale Senior High School, according to Claude J. Wiseman, director.

The program will run for 10 weeks, starting next week. Each class will meet for one two-hour session each week.

Registration will be taken at 7 p.m. Monday in room 106 of the school, Wiseman said.

Classes being offered this year are shorthand, bookkeeping, beginning and advanced typewriting, square dancing, beginning and advanced cake decorating, Spanish, French and driver training for adults.

If enough persons are interested in a particular course not offered, Wiseman said he would attempt to have it included in the program. Each class must have at least 12 persons enrolled or it will be discontinued.

Club at Walled Lake Asks Women Employes From 80 Firms

WALLED LAKE — The Walled Lake Business and Profession Women's Club is sponsoring a "Know Walled Lake Night" at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Stonecrest.

Invitations have been extended to more than 80 business establishments in the area asking them to send a woman employe to the affair. For firms not having woman employes, it has been suggested owners send their wives. Each representative will speak briefly about her business.

A welcome will be extended by Mayor William Nixon and greetings will be given by Mrs. Emil Couture, club president.

Following the more formal part of the program, a reception will be held giving the ladies opportunities to become acquainted according to Mrs. Ted Christensen, general chairman.

Lock Doors in Order

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. — A Hempstead concern is marketing a new door-locking system which involves the use of locks actuated by a series of interconnected keys. The layout is said to make it impossible to forget to lock any of the doors involved when locking up for the night, since each door can be locked only in a preset sequence. The system prevents the locking of the final exit door until every other door has been locked.

Handling of machinery is top cause for most fatal accidents on American farms. Second cause for fatalities in the rural areas is drowning.

Marine Band to Play in Area

2 Performances Slated in Rochester High Gym

ROCHESTER — The 57-piece, red-coated U.S. Marine Corps Band will give two performances Wednesday in Rochester.

The nation's oldest military symphonic organization, the band is led by Lt. Col. Albert Schoepper. Its appearance here is being sponsored by the Rochester Tuesday Musicale.

First performance will be a matinee at 1 p.m. in the Rochester High School gymnasium for students. The second, open to the public will take place at 8 p.m. in the gym, which has a 2300 seating capacity. Eight-hundred reserved seats are being sold for the evening performance.

Acting as ushers for both shows will be members of the Rochester High School Band. Other area school bands have been invited to attend the concerts.

The afternoon performance will be aimed at pleasing students of all ages, according to co-chairmen Mrs. Sally Boeberitz and Miss Natalie Stevenson. The evening concert will consist of symphonic numbers, overtures, novelty tunes and martial airs.

The band is scheduled to arrive in Pontiac at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

White Lake CD Officers Picked

Classes in First Aid, Auxiliary Police Being Organized Now

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Appointment of several new officers has been announced by the White Lake Township Civil Defense unit.

They include: Clayton Walters, township engineering deputy; James Roy, assistant township police deputy; Sibyl Mohr, chief sector warden, sector 7; Gwen Powers, personnel officer, and Doris Foster, public relations.

It also was announced that first aid and auxiliary police training classes are being organized.

The first aid class will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the White Lake Township Hall. Meeting for two hours a week, it will continue for five weeks.

The police training class will start at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 23 at the Dublin Community Center on Union Lake road. It will run for eight weeks, with sessions being two hours.

Anyone interested in enrolling may contact Eleanor Vetter.

LOOPHOLES INTO SPACE — The recently discovered band of lethal radiation around the earth may not be a barrier to space travel as first thought. Dr. Herbert York, chief Pentagon scientist, says that there are radiation-free zones near the poles through which men could safely leap into space. Dr. York says that, except for these "holes," data from the Explorer IV satellite show the radiation belt apparently extends some 1,400 miles out.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES E. ROWAN

Rowan-Taylor Nuptials Solemnized at Rochester

ROCHESTER — First Baptist Church in Rochester was the scene Saturday afternoon of the marriage of Johnnie Irene Taylor to James E. Rowan. The candlelight rite was performed by the Rev. Donald Olsen.

★ ★ ★

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor of 2874 Woodelm St. Parents of the bridegroom are the Harry Rowans of 2879 Alexander St.

For her wedding, the new Mrs. Rowan chose a waltz-length gown of rose point lace over bridal satin. It featured a Sabrina neckline of scalloped lace and a fitted bodice.

Her fingertip veil fell from a headpiece of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white Chinese mums and white carnations.

★ ★ ★

Maid of honor was the bridegroom's sister, Jean. Bridesmaid was Wilma Cummings of Utica, and flower girl was Janey Kay Taylor, sister of the bride.

Robert Smith of Chicago was best man, and ushers were the bride's brother, Robert, Richard Smith and Elmer Close.

A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Following their honeymoon in northern Michigan the newlyweds will make their home at 2880 Alexander St.

Southfield Names 3 to Board of Review

SOUTHFIELD — Positions on all Southfield city boards have been filled with the appointments of three members to the Board of Review.

They are Hugh L. Joseph of Detroit, a veteran consulting engineer; Maurice R. Geisel of Birmingham, accountant and present treasurer and member of the Board of Directors of the Southfield Business Assn., and Alex J. Olshefsky of Cambridge Village, who has been employed for 25 years as auditor and supervisor by the Chief Audit Branch of the Michigan Office of the Department of Internal Revenue.

They will be paid at the rate of $25 for each day they work.

Faubus Tax Bill Leads to Probe

Internal Revenue Chief to Investigate Error Made by Subordinate

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—A five-state regional supervisor of the Internal Revenue Service begins today a personal investigation of an income tax bill sent to Gov. Orval E. Faubus "by mistake."

The regional superintendent, B? Frank White of Dallas, Tex., said he was making "a trip to Little Rock to see for myself what is going on."

Faubus got what is known as a "10-day letter" from the IRS, saying he had 10 days in which to protest the tax request. But most of the items the IRS said the governor owed back taxes on were rent on his executive mansion, servants and a gift automobile.

District IRS Director Curtis R. Mathis immediately said "somebody goofed," explaining that nothing which a state lawfully furnishes its governor is subject to such taxes.

Meanwhile, W. C. Brashears, the newly-appointed superintendent of schools of the Little Rock Private Schools Corporation, took a six-man committee on a tour of churches, lodge halls and rumpus rooms last night. The group talked over where to put in makeshift partitions and sized up places which might be used as emergency classrooms.

"Time is getting short," said Brashears, who came out of retirement to take the superintendent's job, "and we've got to get these buildings ready for students." Brashears retired last spring after 11 years as a grade school principal.

The Private School Corporation's President, Dr. TO. J. Raney, said the amount of money collected for the schools "won't be known until we get ready to release it publicly.

Kathleen Winkler Wed in Lake Orion

LAKE ORION — Marriage vows were exchanged Saturday afternoon at St. Mary's in the Hills Church in Lake Orion by Kathleen Gayle Winkler and Harry A. Julien. Performing the rite was the Rev. William C. Hamm.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Kathryn Winkler of 292 Lakeview Dr., Lake Orion, and William R. Winkler of Manchester, Mich. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Julien of 240 E. Flint St., Lake Orion.

The bride chose a floor-length gown of nylon tulle, featuring a fitted bodice, V-shaped neckline and long sleeves. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a headpiece trimmed with pearls and sequins.

She carried a white satin crescent bouquet of Amazon lilies, Johanna Hill roses and Iceland ivy.

Attending the bride were Joanne Blacka of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Adele Leslie of Frankenmuth.

MRS. HARRY A. JULIEN

Best man was James E. Jones Jr. of Pontiac, and ushers were Art Howland of Walled Lake and John Page of Lake Orion.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Lucas, 915 Orion Dr., Lake Orion. A buffet supper was served.

Trailer Plant Under Construction

New Industry for Ortonville

ORTONVILLE—A new industry is coming to Ortonville.

★ ★ ★

The Beemer-Grubb Enterprises, a house trailer manufactring firm now located in Mt. Morris, is being transferred to this village, according to Everett H. Grubb of Clarkston, owner of the company.

Work already is under way on the first unit of the plant at 255 Narrin St., site of the old ball diamond off Ball street.

Total cost of the plant is expected to be $25,000, Grubb said. This will include the mill, paint shed, assembly and finish buildings.

EMPLOY 19 PEOPLE

The company, which has been in operation for the past seven years in Mt. Morris, employs 19 people. The complete operation is being transferred to Ortonville, Grubb said.

Production is expected to begin here in the spring.

Main reason for the transfer, Grubb said, is that the company could employ local men, workers who live in the town where the plant is located. He also mentioned that the move will bring him closer to his home in Clarkston.

The transfer was made possible through cooperation of village officials and the Brandon Township Board of Education, which sold him the five-acre tract the plant will be located on.

Approval of the land sale was given by voters in a recent school district election.

★ ★ ★

The company presently turns out about a trailer and a half a day, Grubb said. They are the deluxe, self-sustaining type, designed for traveling, he said.

Air Force Tries Saturday to Fire Rocket to Moon

WATERBURY, Conn. (UPI) — Rep. James T. Patterson (R-Conn.) says the Air Force will try again Saturday to shoot a rocket to the moon.

Patterson, a member of the House Armed Services Committee said the shot is scheduled tentatively for 4:44 a.m., EDT. The missile will be the Thor-Able.

★ ★ ★

"Air Force scientists tell me that chances of a successful shot are about 50-50," Patterson said in a statement released at his office here Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

He said the Thor-Able will be equipped with infrared camers to photograph the other side of the moon. Pictures would be transmitted back to earth by coded signals.

The first shot at the moon fizzled last August when a missile blew up at Cape Canaveral, Fla., a few seconds after firing.

Lake Orion Board Announces:

School Loan of $150,000

LAKE ORION—The Lake Orion Community School Board last night announced the sale of $150,000 in notes to the Community National Bank of Pontiac at an interest rate of 1.75 per cent a year.

The loan was made against future state aid payments. It will enable the school district to meet its teacher payroll this week, although state aid, due in September, has not been received, the Board said.

In other action, the Board accepted an offer by the Lake Orion Motor Sales to provide a car for driver training. The Board agreed to replace tires on the car when it is returned. The car will be available Oct. 17.

★ ★ ★

Future meetings this year will be held at different schools throughout the district in order to give residents in outlying areas a better opportunity to attend meetings.

★ ★ ★

The Nov. 12 meeting will be at Proper School, and the Dec. 10 meeting at Carpenter School.

A report from the Lake Orion High School Library stated that 1,505 books, pamphlets and magazines were circulated during September.

Oxford FFA Teams to Aid Farm Safety

OXFORD — Members of the Oxford Chapter of the Future Farmers of America this fall are taking part in a statewide campaign to prevent corn harvest accidents.

FFA member teams will visit every farm family in the area, reviewing with the man in the family the safe operating rules for corn harvesting equipment and asking for his pledge of safe operation.

Those agreeing to follow the safety rules will be given a "safe operator" sticker to put on their equipment, according to Richard Daly, vocational agriculture instructor at Oxford High School.

City Center Gets Hotter

CHICAGO — Scientists studying heat have determined that temperatures often may vary as much as 20 degrees between a city's business district and its suburbs. They say the extra heat comes from the release of energy from gas, electricity, fuel oil, and coal and from the buildings' capacity to store solar energy.

U.S. Sells Turks Most

ANKARA — Although imports from most of Turkey's trading partners declined during 1957, imports from the United States reached a record high of $122,000,000, an increase of $36,000,000. The United import source, replacing West Germany, which had been the top supplier in 1956.

Balloon Flight Ends Before Reaching Goal

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — The Air Force's third Man High balloon flight to the stratosphere was at an end today, about 12 hours short of its goal.

The balloon was returned to earth, an Air Force announcement said, because "capsule heat and humidity rose to an extreme degree and could not be lessened," and to prevent the pilot from developing heat prostration.

Lt. Clifton McClure, 25-year-old jet pilot who turned to ballooning in order to help man try to find a way into space, was back on the ground, disappointed but none the worse for wear.

McClure's aim, when the three million cubic foot balloon and its 9x3-foot sealed metal cockpit capsule left the ground early Wednesday, was to rise to 100,000 feet—Roughly 20 miles—and stay there for a 24-hour day-night cycle.

★ ★ ★

While he was up there, he was to act as the eyes and hands of a panel of scientists on the ground. Like a remotely controlled relay, he was to pass to them the information they sought from the myriad of instruments which jammed him in the cockpit.

An Air Force spokesman explained that McClure's replies would have helped supply "clues on hundreds of questions that must be answered before man ventures further into space."

It was a perfect launch in the calm dawn, in contrast to the abortive attempt Tuesday.

The balloon climbed quickly over the western edge of the Sacramento Mountains. Then drifted northwestward over Tularosa, a few miles north of Alamogordo.

At that point and 11:05 a.m., McClure reached his peak altitude —99,600 feet.

In the first Man High flight in June 1957, Capt. Joe Kittinger rode to 96,000 feet. The second ascent was in August 1957 when Lt. Col. David Simons rode to 102,000 feet and stayed 32 hours.

About 4 p.m. McClure started his descent over Truth or Consequences to the west.

At 5 p.m., he was down to 73,000 feet. As he dropped lower, a west wind pushed him back to the middle of the big test and training range. He landed at 6:45 p.m. A helicopter brought him back the 25 miles to a hospital on the base for a physical check.

What the Air Force plans in the way of Man High tests now is all up in the air. An officers said it is "certainly too early to say."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Ever cuss the woman driver in front of you Listen to this story.

After trailing Mrs. Walter J. Burke for blocks, police ordered her to pull over to the curb. There she was told she had been chosen "safe driver of the day."

At about the same time, Mrs. Burke's husband, driving elsewhere in the city, also was ordered over to the curb. He was given a ticket for speeding.

Islanders Fear New Shelling

Quemoy Natives Stay in Ground Shelters Despite Cease-Fire

NANSAN, Quemoy (AP)—Hundreds of civilians in this Chinese Nationalist village scarcely five miles from Communist territory slept Wednesday night in waterlogged holes in the ground.

They plan to do the same again tonight despite the Communists' cease-fire in the Formosa Strait.

The islanders fear the Reds may resume shelling at any time. And few have homes left after the 44-day bombardment of Quemoy which ended at midnight Sunday.

The situation remained quiet although the Nationalist Defense Ministry said the Communists were strengthening their fortifications in the Quemoy area.

A Peiping radio broadcast heard in Tokyo said Communist gunners at artillery positions surrounding Quemoy on three sides "are standing at alert." It indicated they could resume firing at a moment's notice.

("During the past three days over 10 military transport vessels and escorting warships that dared not sail in the Bay of Quemoy for about a month docked at the wharf every day and unloaded large quantities of supplies to the island," the broadcast said tauntingly.)

There was no sign by midmorning of new Nationalist supply operations. Several amphibious vehicles laden with supplies were dispatched during the night from Quemoy to nearby Little Quemoy.

The U.S. State Department announced in Washington that American warships had stopped escorting Nationalist supply convoys to Quemoy but would start again if the Red firing resumed. Radio has promised a cease-fire only until Sunday midnight.

The 1,100 residents of Nansan took advantage of the respite to wash clothes and enjoy the weak fall sunshine after weeks in their dank, damp shelters. Few started rebuilding.

★ ★ ★

"I guess I should repair my home because I have no place to live," said a farmer. "But I have no confidence that it wouldn't be damaged again."

Nationalist officials said all but four of Nansan's 185 dwellings had been destroyed or damaged. Nansan is located in the part of Quemoy closest to the Red China mainland. It is surrounded by Nationalist gun positions.

Only one child and one adult were killed in the village and none were wounded because the people stayed underground, an official said.

Mrs. Ta Chai, 54, showed newsmen were she lived. It was an underground tunnel eight feet deep and about 15 yards long with dirt stairs at either end. Nearly a foot of water covered the floor of the narrow passageway. Thirty persons slept on burlap stretched across bamboo poles.

Veiled Prophet Parade Has 600,000 Viewers

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The 76th annual Veiled Prophet parade, with floats depicting "Great Discoveries and Inventions," drew a crowd estimated by Police Chief Jeremiah O'Connell at 600,000 Wednesday night.

Carolyn Lee Niedringhaus, 18-year-old burnette crowned as Veiled Prophet queen, rode in a plastic-enclosed float.

The Automobile Club of New York reports that 55 per cent of vehicle-miles driven in U.S. are connected with earning a livelihood and 13 per cent with shopping.

Office Buildings to Be Automatic

Skyscrapers Will Have Prefabricated Interiors, Electronic Gadgets

NEW YORK (UPI) — The office building of the future will have prefabricated interiors and will feature electronic gadgets from top to bottom.

Experts in the office building field said everything from the telephone to the elevator in the skyscraper of tomorrow will be radically different.

★ ★ ★

"Some day," according to a spokesman for Westinghouse, "you'll be able to get on the elevator and just call out the floor you want. The elevator will automatically stop at the floor and tell you to get off."

Norman Tishman, president of Tishman Realty & Construction Co., predicted that electricity in future buildings may be transmitted by ultra-high-frequency radio, eliminating the need for miles of wiring in walls, ceilings and floors.

"Some day, we'll see radio-television phones that will enable us to see whom we are talking to," he added.

Tishman, whose company built the first aluminum-clad building and the first fully air-conditioned office building, said "the total amount of leaseable space in the building will be increased by small electronic units for heating and cooling.

"Installations smaller than one foot square and less than one-half inch thick should provide sufficient heating and air-conditioning for as many as 12 office building floors. The heating and air-conditioning should be fully automatic, synchronized with outside temperature and humidity conditions."

Tishman said buildings will make more use of plastic in the future, both inside and out.

Lawrence Lerner, executive vice president of Michael Saphier Associates, industrial designers, said office interiors will be prefabricated at a factory as houses are today.

He said "it would be faster, better and cheaper to prefabricate office ceilings in standard sections, with built-in lighting, air-conditioning and acoustic fixtures."

Report Stepinac to Stay Home

Yugoslavian Cardinal Not Expected to Attend Ceremonies in Rome

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) —Roman Catholic Church sources in Zagreb today said it is unlikely Alojzije Cardinal Stepinac will try to go to Rome for the funeral of Pope Pius XII and the consistory to elect his successor.

The ailing, 60-year-old cardinal himself was unavailable for comment. He remained isolated from the outside world at his native village of Krasic, where the Yugoslav government has confined him since it paroled him from prison in 1951.

★ ★ ★

Church officials in Zagreb believed Cardinal Stepinac would again refuse to leave the country —as he has twice before—in fear that President Tito's Communist government would not allow him to return. Although the government does not allow him to function as archbishop of Zagreb and primate of Yugoslavia, he and the Vatican still consider that he holds those posts.

★ ★ ★

The prelate was convicted in 1946 of wartime collaboration with the Nazis and sentenced to 16 years in prison. In July 1950 the government offered to free him on condition that he left the country. He refused.

Again in 1952, when Pius XII elevated him to the rank of cardinal, the government offered to let him leave. Again he refused, and consequently he never received his red hat from the Pope.

★ ★ ★

The cardinal has been critically ill twice during the last year with a blood ailment but is now reported to be in good condition. A few weeks ago he resumed the reading of Mass at the parish church in Krasic.

Markets of World Brought to Buyer

Trade Show Boom Tallies Its Billions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Businessmen in the past 10 years have increased their spending on trade shows and expositions six-fold to more than three billion dollars.

Thse shows are patterned after county fairs and feature everything from flowers, fancy foods and antiques to plastics, heavy machinery and automobiles.

Growing competition in world markets, especially from the revitalized industries of Europe and Asia, has been the key factor behind the growth of trade shows.

Some of them, such as the motor boat, mobile home and automobile shows are open to the public. Others, such as the U.S. World Trade Fair and the Fancy Food & Confection Show, are open only to businessmen and buyers.

EXPECT 4,000

Arthur Smadbeck president of the Coliseum Exhibition Corp., operators of New York City's huge showplace, predicted that more than 4,000 expositions will be held in the United States this year, compared with 900 in 1940.

★ ★ ★

These are in addition to the 2,000 trade shows that will be held aboard, and to the 6,000 state and county fairs or permanent exhibitions and showrooms in this country.

The U.S. World Trade Fair held in the Coliseum in May drew exhibitors from 60 nations and was attended by more than 127,000 buyers, according to Charles Snitow, organizer of the giant exhibit.

"To cover the markets represented at the Fair," he explained, "a buyer would have had to travel around the world approximately two years. The Fair brought all these markets together in one place."

GOVERNMENTS JOIN

Various governments took part in the show this year, with some of them setting up expensive exhibits ranging from a Balinese temple to the recreation of a tropical island.

Trade shows frequently result in big orders for exhibitors. At a foreign car exposition this year a total of 12 Rolls Royces ranging in price up to $25,000 was sold right off the floor. Some of the buyers even paid cash.

The growth of trade shows was a key factor behind the construction of the Coliseum in New York two years ago. Since then, more than five million persons have attended the wide variety of shows held there.

The Coliseum has played host to shows featuring plastics, antiques, motor boats, automobiles, medicine, photography, pets, hardware, atomic energy, chemicals, home furnishings, outdoor sports and many others.

Hollywood Headlines

Few Stars Make Grade as Real Millionaires

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A revamp of movie economics has created a new breed of millionaire star.

Millionaires are nothing new in Hollywood. Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd, William S. Hart and Douglas Fairbanks made fabulous money and paid little tax on it.

But their breed died out with silent films and the rise of the major film studios. Most stars were paid weekly salaries, and rising income taxes dug into their take. It wasn't unusual for high-salaried — and high-living — stars like Errol Flynn and Orson Welles to end up in hock to Uncle Sam.

Now the movie power has shifted from the major studios to the stars, especially a scintillating male dozen. All 12 are either millionaires or well on their way. They are amassing their millions not by working on a straight salary.

Says Cary Grant: "I get dozens of offers to do pictures for $750,000. It's not difficult to get a million dollars for a picture. A fellow like Marlon Brando could probably make five million in a year if he wanted to work that hard. But what good would it do him? He'd lose nearly all of it in taxes."

Adds Frank Sinatra: "No matter how much I earn, 91 cents out of every dollar goes to the government. Out of that remaining 9 cents I've got to pay all of the living expenses for myself and my family. It's ridiculous for me to keep adding straight income to my total earnings. I've got to find ways to keep some money."

All the top stars have come to that realization. They are now not only actors but financial experts as well. They and their advisers have devised means of operation that are not tax evasions but perfectly legal ways of avoiding a salaried income. Here they are:

1. The production company. This is a throwback to the days when Pickford, Chaplin, Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith formed United Artists. It has become popular recently both as a means of earning and keeping more money and maintaining artistic control of a production.

★ ★ ★

Most of the golden dozen stars have tried their own companies. The most successful is Burt Lancaster's firm, which hit it rich with "Marty," "Trapeze," etc.

Others haven't fared so well. William Holden has yet to show a profit on his one production, "Toward the Unknown." His company is now inactive.

2. The coproduction deal. A studio or producer takes care of all the details. The star offers his advice and performance and becomes a partner in the deal. This system was pioneered by James Stewart, who made millions with his half-interest in such films as "Winchester .73" and "The Glenn Miller Story."

Stewart's earnings are strictly income, but he also owns half of the negative. With such films as "Rear Window" and "Vertigo," he and Alfred Hitchcock will end up owning the entire negative.

3. The net or 4. The gross. Producers prefer to share a percentage of the profits with the stars. But since a film must earn double its cost before it can show a profit, stars are beginning to prefer a percentage of the gross. By taking 10 per cent of every box office dollar for "The Vikings" and "Kings Go Forth," Tony Curtis expects to earn 1½ million dollars. Some stars prefer to take such earnings with:

5. The spread. Contracts can be phrased to limit payments of film income to so much each year. The most famous is Holden's "River Kwai" deal, which may pay him $50,000 annually for the next 50 years.

A BEAR TO REMEMBER — Just about able to reach the paw of this male Alaskan brown bear is three-foot Bruce Sherman of Beachwood Village, Ohio. The enormous bear, which stands eight feet tall, was recently placed on display at the Cleveland Museum of Natural History. It was killed in Alaska, the only place where bears of such size are found.

Year-Around Production Hinges on Sales Balance

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Production activity on a year-around basis would result from a "balanced" selling job, an executive of American Motors Corp. Kelvinator Division said yesterday.

★ ★ ★

B. A. Chapman, executive vice president, expressed the idea in his address before some 600 Kelvinator distributors concluding a two-day national sales convention in Grand Rapids.

"If we really try to do a balanced job on all our products," Chapman said, "we could practically eliminate a seasonal factor in production."

★ ★ ★

Kelvinator is centering all its appliance manufacturing at its Grand Rapids plant. The company unveiled its 1959 appliances Monday as a convention highlight.

The electrical system on a jetliner could serve the needs of 150 average-size homes.

Ike Wants Him to Spread the Word

Visit to Russia Opens Eyes of American

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—President Eisenhower has told a Philadelphia real estate man to share what he knows about the critical Soviet problem with others as a patriotic service. He said he, too, has been astonished at widespread apathy to the danger.

The realty dealer, Frank G. Binswanger, his wife and a son, Robert, an instructor at Deerfield Academy, Deerfield, Mass., recently returned from a 30-day trip to the U.S.S.R. and sorties Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Binswanger wrote the President: "We felt it was imperative to . . . compliment you on your present positive policy towards the Soviet Union.

"We feel very strongly that it is almost impossible for the United States to have the hope that any lasting, honest agreement can be reached with the present regime.

"We strongly feel . . . the American people have had it too easy, are too complacent and self-indulgent to appreciate the complete dedication that the Russian people in their slavery are giving to the goals their masters wish to attain."

Eisenhower replied that "I am often astonished, as you are, at the apparent apathy of so many Americans. At the same time, I never for a moment feel that the people of our country will fail to respond in time of crisis.

"May I remark that one service you can perform in this situation is to share your knowledge of this critical problem with your friends and associates.

"I am taking the liberty of referring your letter to the secretary of state."

Sue Judy Garland, Mate

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Judy Garland and her husband Sid Luft are defendants in a suit for recovery of $7,384 filed by the Flamingo Hotel. The suit alleges that sum was advanced the couple while Miss Garland was headlining a show at the hotel in 1957. She is appearing now at another hotel, the Sands.

Blasts Harden Metals

CHICAGO — Researchers at the University of Chicago investigating methods of hardening metals by use of explosives have found that shock waves from shaped charges harden metal more than cold-rolling processes now in use. The explosions are said to cause changes in the crystalline structure of brass, copper, and iron without changing the metals' dimensions.

Biggest, Fastest Mail Season Due This Christmas

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The 1958 Christmas mail season is expected to be the biggest and fastest on record, says Lowell Galbreath, president of the National League f Postmasters.

★ ★ ★

Galbreath told the league's convention that postmasters plan to make certain no Christmas mail is left undelivered in the nation's 36,000 post offices on Christmas day.

Galbreath said late arriving gift parcels will be delivered Christmas Day.

He remarked postmasters are concerned over the growing volume of obscene mail. Despite vigorous prosecution it has become a multimillion-dollar business, he noted.

Marilyn Monroe Sick

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A virus infection has caused Marilyn Monroe to interrupt work on a movie. The actress has been bothered by the infection for several days. She remained in her Bel-Air hotel suite Wednesday. Her doctor said she had a 102-degree temperature.

Braves Worried, Yanks Confident in 7th Game

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Many old timers may still remember the "grid-graph" play-by-play of football games which used to be watched in hotel lobbies or small auditoriums.

When home teams went on the road, local fans gathered to "watch" the play-by-play as the action came in on wire or ticker tape.

A large board was marked in shape of a football field and as each team moved up and down the gridiron hundreds of miles away, a small object in shape of a football would consequently be moved showing the play on the grid-graph.

The grid-graph was a big thing in those days. Hotels publicized their use just like taverns did when TV first came out, and fans would jam the establishments often cheering wildly as changes were made on the board.

The latest resemblence to the "grid-graph" could be the Naval Academy's "man-o-graph" which is produced by a "yella-vision" setup.

★ ★ ★

Thus, Saturday when Navy's football team visits the University of Michigan there won't be any Midshipmen attending the game but the gridders will still be getting the vocal support from 3,000 Middies at Annapolis right in Michigan Stadium.

A telephone hookup will be made between the fieldhouse in Annapolis and the Navy bench with loud-speakers.

In the fieldhouse, which will have a football field diagramed on the court, the Midshipmen will watch a Navy ball carrier and a Michigan ball carrier move the ball on the yardage markers.

Cheerleaders will lead the yells at the Annapolis "football field" and the loud-speakers will carry the cheering back into Michigan Stadium.

"The Middies are not required to attend the fieldhouse cheering session, but at one other game we had 3,000 of the 3,700 Midshipmen there," said Navy publicity director, John Cox. "This is what you would call 'closed circuit' cheering," he added.

Fritz Crisler, U. of M. athletic director who was in attendance at the football writers' meeting when Cox detailed the long distance cheering section for the Navy team, said as a jest, "With all that moral support, I might have to pull the plug on your speakers if those Middies get too high Saturday."

OOSTERBAAN NOT KEEN ON MORAL VICTORIES

Benny Oosterbaan, also at the writers' session, was was quite happy over his team's showing against Michigan State last week, but he says he doesn't care for "moral victories."

"They could have won, and we could have won," said Oosterbaan, "and although a tie isn't as painful as defeat, the best for morale is a victory."

★ ★ ★

Crisler, who fostered the two-point rule into college football this year, listened to Pitt publicist Carroll Cook relate how the rule was disliked by coach John Michelosen and the Panther quarterbacks.

"It puts too much pressure on the coach and the quarterbacks," said Cook, whose Pitt team plays at MSU Saturday.

★ ★ ★

"If the new rule is such a tax on coaches and quarterbacks, and it makes football too complicated for them, then maybe we should suggest that all defensive units be the same 6-2-2-1 and that all offensive plays should be only off-tackle," said Crisler shaking his head.

★ ★ ★

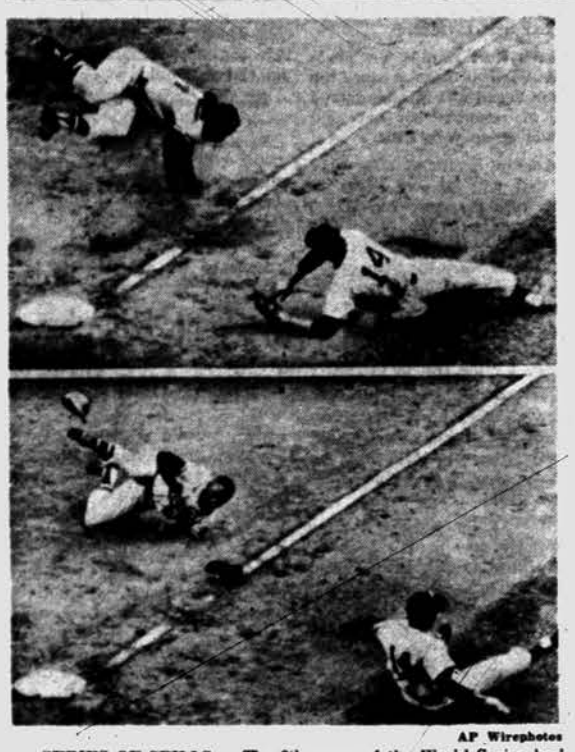

"We wouldn't have anyone watching college football by that token," he finished.

CONCERNED COACH — Coach George Wilson of the Detroit Lions watches in the background as his number one quarterback Tobin Rote works out in Briggs Stadium yesterday. Rote hands off to Gene Gedman. He caused great concern after injuring his leg in practice the day after Bobby Layne was traded.

SERIES OF SPILLS — The 6th game of the World Series had its series of spills when Hank Aaron of the Braves collided with first baseman Moose Skowron (14). The ball glances from Aaron's shoulder and both players go twisting to the ground as shown in sequence.

Coach Herman Gambled on Bad Throw

Dead Duck Pafko Was Surprised Baserunner

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Until he sent Andy Pafko lumbering for home in the second inning yesterday, Billy Herman was no odds-on bet ever to become the center of a World Series controversy.

But then, with two out for the Milwaukee Braves and the bases loaded and Elston Howard standing there in left field with Johnny Logan's fly ball in his hand, Herman told Pafko to go.

Pafko wouldn't have been out by much more if he'd walked in. But if he'd stayed he might have changed the course of the game that went to the New York Yankees 4-3.

"I wasn't going to send him in at first," Herman said. "Then at the last second I thought of that throw that Howard made in the second game, the one that went over Yogi Berra's head."

"I was a little surprised," Pafko said. "But I went. You have to take a chance on something like that. But Howard's throw was perfect."

★ ★ ★

Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney took a grimly diplomatic point of view.

"That's what we've got coaches for," Haney said. "I was not in a position to see the play."

The Braves dressing room was far from dreary, with Lew Burdette in fine fettle. The big right-hander, who whipped the Yankees four straight before they got to him in Monday's game, professed to find a bright side to the defeat handed his roommage, Warren Spahn.

"Now I get another crack at them," he said.

Down the hall the Yanks were full of praise for Spahn, who beat the Yanks in two previous 10 inning encounters — one last year, one last Wednesday—but finally met disaster in the 10th yesterday.

"I feel better now for my club and myself, said New York Manager Casey Stengel. "We finally got tough and broke up that one-man show of theirs—that Spahn."

★ ★ ★

But Casey was dissatisfied about a number of other things. For one thing, there was that sinking liner Wes Covington hit to center field. Second base umpire John Flaherty ruled it a trapped single.

"Sure I caught it," center fielder Mickey Mantle said. "But what's the use of arguing?"

Yankees Made Favorites

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees Wednesday night were made 11-10 favorites in man-to-man odds to win the World Series Thursday.

Broadway odds-makers made the Yankees "even-six" for the seventh and final game of the classic. That means if you like Milwaukee you put up five dollars to win five dollars. If you like the Yankees' chances, you must put up six dollars to win five.

Burdette Duels Larsen Today to Decide Title

New York 11-10 Choice After Getting Even Against Spahn, 4-3

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A suddenly tight, wofried Milwaukee team faced a suddenly carefree, confident New York club today in the seventh and final game as the World Series string finally ran out.

Lew Burdette and Don Larsen, opposing moundsmen in the seventh game of last year's World Series, were virtually certain to face each other again in the pay-off game for the world championship. Burdette won last year 5-0.

Despite Burdette's four victories over New York in five meetings over a two-Series span, and the fact that he was pitching on home grounds, the Yankees ruled a 11-10 favorite to gain revenge on the Braves.

Their spirits soaring because of their 4-3 triumph in 10 innings yesterday, which gave them two straight, three out of the last four, and enabled them to square the Series at three-all, the Yankees, from Manager Casey Stengel down, felt certain they would win. Not even a threat of rain failed to dim their enthusiasm.

★ ★ ★

"We're finally playing like we should," said Stengel. "The shoe is on the other foot. They're down and we're up. We've got them on the run. We won't let up now."

Casey's enthusiasm was shared by his players.

"Those guys were talking about four straight a few days ago," said Yogi Berra. "They'll be lucky to win it at all. We sure looked bad in the early games. Now they're the ones who are looking bad."

"This will be the sweetest victory of all," offered Gil McDougald. "They were counting us out a while back. But we proved we play harder when we're behind."

Stengel didn't say for sure that Larsen, who hurled seven shutout innings and was credited with the third game victory last Saturday, would pitch the decisive game. He just said "it looks like Larsen will go tomorrow."

Then he added: "It might be Johnny Kucks. You might consider Bob Turley also. And maybe Ryne Duren will be in there again."

★ ★ ★

Duren and Turley worked in yesterday's game, along with starter Whitey Ford and Art Ditmar. Duren took over in the sixth with the score tied 2-2 and pitched four scoreless innings before a walk and hits by Hank Aaron and Joe Adcock produced a Milwaukee run and forced his exit. Turley came in to retire pinch-hitter Franke Torre to end the game with the tying run on third, the potential winning run on first. The victory went to Duren, who fanned eight.

★ ★ ★

Their composure badly shaken by yesterday's defeat, the Braves were banking everything on Burdette just as they did last year. Fidgety Lew was making his third start in seven days and his second in three. He won the second game 13-5 but was shelled from the mound in a six-run sixth inning of the fifth game Monday, won by the Yankees 7-0.

★ ★ ★

The Braves were a crestfallen lot in the clubhouse after the game. For the first time in the Series, they appeared nervous, tense, dull and dispirited. They gave the impression that they had missed their big chance to make it two in a row over the American League champions.

LA Rams Found 2-QB System Unproductive

The Los Angeles Rams, who—like the Detroit Lions—have found that the two-quarterback system does not always work well, are favored to beat the Lions when the two clubs meet here Sunday.

The odds were posted before the people who make them learned of Tobin Rote's leg injury. But the Lions had good news today — that the muscle pull is not serious and that Rote should be ready for the Rams on Sunday. He may have some difficulty running as fast as he ordinarily does, but as for running the team — he will be fit.

In years past — in fact, in every year from the mid-1940s on — the Los Angeles club had two top-line quarterbacks. For years, they were Bob Waterfield and Norm Van Brocklin. Then Waterfield retired, and Van Brocklin had to share the job with fellows like Bill Wade and Rudy Bukich.

Now, the Rams have traded Van Brocklin to Philadelphia for his waning seasons and Wade is No. 1. So far, he has done a splendid job.

★ ★ ★

The Rams lost a tough game to Cleveland 30-27 and coach Sid Gillman of the Rams said emphatically "the better team did not win."

Then the Rams trounced San Francisco, and Wade never looked better.

The Rams are rated three points better than the Lions, who have yet to win in two league starts.

This is a very young, very capable Los Angeles team. The Rams added 10 rookies in 1957 and 10 more this year. Of the 20 newcomers, 18 still are with the club.

Detroit coaches said a year ago the Rams have one of the best teams — personnel-wise — in the National Football League, still. Los Angeles could win only half its games.

The only change in the team is that the personnel probably is better this season. The Rams have a strong running game, a defense that has not shown too many weaknesses so far, and Wade is a strong passer.

Britain Leads World Amateur

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) —Britain carried a six stroke lead into the second round of the world's first amateur golf championship today with the players from 29 countries hoping for better weather.

"The weather in St. Andrews in October has been known to be good," said Brigadier Eric Brockman, secretary of the Royal and Ancient Club. So far, this doesn't seem to be the right October.

The British team built up a six-stroke lead over the favored United States team yesterday as gale like gusts of wind up to 60 miles an hour and a steady wind of 35 swept across the ancient course.

"The wind was strong enough to move a ball as much as a foot after it rested on the greens," said Britain's Guy Wolstenholme, whose opening round of 76 placed him in a tie for fifth behind teammate Reid Jack (72), Charlie Coe of the U. S. (74), R. J. Charles of New Zealand (74) and Luis Silverio of the Philippines (75).

★ ★ ★

Raul Borges, of Brazil, chalked his disastrous 99 to the wind and said:

"Most of the time I was actually leaning backwards into the wind while I was putting."

But the player with the day's most serious problem was 18-year-old, 116-pound Francisco Reyes, of the Philippines, who explained his 87 score this way:

"I couldn't stand still to putt in that wind. It was so bad I felt I was being blown off balance all the way through the round."

Even old timers admitted that St. Andrews was acting up beyond its reputation for the first round in the first competition for the Eisenhower Trophy.

Trailing the British as the second round of the 72-hole competition got underway was the U.S. team with a total aggregate of 233.

Low first round scorer for the U. S. team was 34-year-old reigning American amateur champion Coe, of Oklahoma City.

Philadelphia's Bill Hyndman had 79; Billy Joe Patton of Morgantown, N. C., 80, and Dr. Frank Taylor of Pomona, Calif., had 81.

Coe played his round before yesterday's wind mounted to its full afternoon fury—and said he had no particular problems.

But Hyndman, who played later in the day when the cold wind was almost at its height, said he had to hold his putter off the green to avoid a penalty shot from having the ball blown against his club.

★ ★ ★

Later, Taylor drew two penalty strokes when the wind did just that.

Tied for third place were Argentina and New Zealand with 236.

Canada, with 240, France with 242 and India, tied with Australia with 244, rounded out the list of top teams as the second round opened.

Speedway Patsy Winner

JACKSON — Speedway Patsy was rushed up on the lead shortly after the start and was never seriously under pressure to win the featured Lansing Pace here Tuesday night before 2,565 trotting fans at Jackson Harness Raceway.

Speedway Patsy, owned by Cliff Hess, Liberty Center, Ohio, covered the mile in 2:07 1-5 to finish a length in advance of Lesota's Counsel and Clark's Mistery Boy.

Speedway Patsy returned $7.60, $3.80 and $3.20 in registering her sixth victory of the year.

Cardinals Head for Exhibition Tour of Orient

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals depart today for San Francisco and a month-long exhibition tour of the Orient.

The traveling party will include 20 players, Manager Solly Hemus, coaches Harry Walker and Johnny Keane, business manager Art Routzong and traveling secretary Leo Ward.

The club will play its first exhibition Saturday on the Hawaiian Island of Maui. The tour will include a lengthy exhibition swing through Japan against Japanese all-star and U.S. Army teams.

★ ★ ★

The Cardinals yesterday acquired the contracts of right-handed pitcher Gary Blaylock and Dick Ricketts from Rochester of the International League, which has a working agreement with the Cards.

No Decision in 1st Game

Rangers, Black Hawks Play to 1-1 Deadlock in Hockey Opener

CHICAGO (AP)—The New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks opened the National Hockey League season last night by battling to a 1-1 tie before 10,253 fans in Chicago Stadium.

The rest of the clubs get later starts. Boston is at Montreal tonight and the race blooms into full force Saturday night with Detroit at Montreal, Chicago at Toronto and New York at Boston.

★ ★ ★

The Black Hawks took a 1-0 lead in the opening period when defenseman Pierre Pilote angled a shot past Lorne Worsley from 30 feet out after taking passes from Bobby Hull and Lorne Ferguson.

★ ★ ★

Ferguson was in the penalty box in the second frame when the Rangers tied it. Camille Henry netted the puck after taking a rebound off the boards behind the Chicago cage. Andy Bathgate and Bill Gadsby got assists.

Worsley came up with a total of 33 saves, 4 more than the Hawks' all-star goalie Glenn Hall.

9 Straight for Wings

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings ended their exhibition season last night by trouncing the Cleveland Barons, 8-3. The Wings, who were undefeated in nine exhibition games, scored six times in the second period and never were threatened by the Barons.

Tribe's Move Seems Likely

MILWAUKEE (AP) — William R. Daley, chairman of the board of directors of the Cleveland Indians, said today the American League club may move out of Cleveland by next year.

Daley, who is the chief stockholder in the club, said:

★ ★ ★

"Within the next two weeks we will have a meeting in Cleveland and lay the facts before the stockholders. At that time we will decide whether to stay in Cleveland or move."

Under baseball laws a club has until Oct. 31 to make a request to move its franchise.

★ ★ ★

Daley did not indicate where the club might move, if it does, but there was a strong possibility the Indians might transfer to either Minneapolis or Houston, Tex.

Daley is known to be disappointed by attendance in Cleveland, which drew a major league record of 2,600,000 in 1948.

Off The Grapevine

Egad! As our friend Amos Hoople, a Major in the Swami Association of Grapevine Pickers would say.

Lucky for us Swamis there is such a thing as an upset, at least hypothetically. The Lions' tie, the M-MSU tie, Holly's defeat and Southfield's case of dropping the ball when the winning touchdown could have been scored, didn't figure in the sour grapes column.

But the Swamis pick 'em on paper and those creatures called football players sometime just don't follow the script.

Mathews Drops in Lineup

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The World Series troubles of the Milwaukee Braves' Eddie Mathews reached a peak today when he was removed from the third spot in the batting order and dropped far down the list.

"He isn't hitting a lick," said Manager Fred Haney. "I just can't bat him in the No. 3 berth any longer."

"Frank Torre will most likely be the third spot hitter against the right-hander we expect, or I may move Wes Covington up. I'm pretty sure I will have Covington bat fifth. Mathews will hit sixth or seventh."

His batting average is .167 on six hits in 24 trips. He has had four singles and a pair of doubles and drew three walks. He has three runs-batted-in.

Flint Central Invades Bay City

Valley Powers Clash

BAY CITY (AP) — When Bay City Central and Flint Central meet here Saturday night in the state's top high school football attraction of the season, more than 10,000 fans will be on hand.

Bay City must be rated a slight edge, if there is such a thing in this contest between two Saginaw Valley powers.

Elmer Engel's Wolves blasted Flint Central last year 47-6, but that was a strong Bay team and a weak Flint one. In fact, Flint Central has not had a powerful team since 1955. That season, the Flint eleven had an overall record of 7-1-1, winning 13-12 over Engel's team, losing to Saginaw Arthur Hill and tying Alpena.

The year before, the Indians had an 8-1 record. Their last undefeated season was in 1947 when Central won the mythical state championship and had a tackle, Don Coleman, who went on to All-America honors at Michigan State.

In Flint, there were 40 reserved seats available — and they were sold out quickly without an announcement being made of their availability.

Wrestling Date Set

DeKALB, Ill. (AP)—The second annual wrestling championship tournament of the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics will be held here at Northern Illinois University next March 20-21.

Arthur Hill 11 Threat to PCH

By BILL CORNWELL

A slow-starting Arthur Hill football team poses a distinct threat to Pontiac Central's perfect record when the two schools open their Saginaw Valley Conference campaign Friday night.

The Chiefs will have a decided edge in the won-and-lost column but probably little else when they square off against the speedy Lumberjacks in Arthur Hill Memorial Stadium at 8 o'clock.

Coach Jesse MacLeay's gridiron legions carry an unblemished 3-0 slate into the up-state city following victories over Waterford, Wyandotte and Ferndale. Only in the Ferndale game last Friday were they pressed to win.

Arthur Hill, on the other hand, has run into more than its share of trouble and shows only one triumph in three games for its efforts. But the Jacks have met a little stiffer competition than PCH.

★ ★ ★

They got off to a dismal start at Grand Rapids by taking a 26-6 thumping from Catholic Central, then improved considerably the next week at Midland in a 14-0 loss to the powerful Chemics. They finally broke into the winning column at home last week with a 30-0 conquest of Alpena.

Coach Kurt Kampe has made several lineup changes since the season began and injuries forced him to reshuffle his backfield for the scrap with PCH.

Tomorrow night's starting backfield unit will be completely different from the one which began the 1958 season.

Quarterback Phil Bird was playing halfback when the year began. Fullback Jim Bublitz switched from halfback when 210-pound Joel Garinger broke his arm in the Alpena tussle and went to the sidelines for the rest of the year.

Tom Mitchell moved into the halfback spot vacated by Bublitz and Joe Mason was demoted to 2nd string halfback in favor of Ray Cosby, a fleet-footed 165-pound junior.

So the Lumberjacks will throw an entirely new backfield at the Chiefs—Bird at quarterback, Bublitz at fullback and Mitchell and Cosby at halves.

Gary Hayman and Joe Gwiazdowski are a pair of rangy ends who give Arthur Hill good pass reception and Bird is talented enough to hit his receivers. The Hillites have fine breakaway strength at every backfield position.

Kampe makes very few changes on defense. The Arthur Hill mentor follows the "iron-man" routine defensively, replacing only his ends and Mitchell in the secondary.

The Lumberjacks are solid up front and their starting offensive line averages 198 pounds. The team weight average on offense is 185.

Arthur Hill is physically sound for this contest with the exception of guard Jack Mauro, who banged up his knee in the Alpena tussle and may see only limted action against the Chiefs.

West Bloomfield Meets Brighton

Key Game in W-O

Something will have to give among two of the three Wayne-Oakland League leaders on Friday night when unbeatens West Bloomfield and Brighton tangle at Brighton.

The winner will likely still have to share the top slot with Northville as the defending champions rate the edge at Milford.

Another interesting affair will be at Clarkston where the unbeaten but tied Wolves host a winless but highly-ranked Holly eleven.

Bloomfield Hills, scoreless in two defeats, launches loop play for the day again in a home afternoon tussle against Clarenceville.

The contest at Brighton may decide which team will give Northville the most competition for the top slot this fall.

West Bloomfield has been figured as the leading threat because of Holly's bad start but many league observers are now singing the praises of Brighton as a team capable of going all the way.

The Lakers are strong offensively sparked by quarterback John Lucadam, Jack Newton, Tom Bell good share of the work when the other team has it, also.

Brighton is just the opposite. The Bulldogs' defense has highlighted the BHS success allowing a total of only two TDs in three games and Wayne Ross but have left much to be desired on defense. Lucadam, who does everything well with the ball, has had to do a good share of the work when the other team has it, also.

Milford's offense has been improving. An inspired performance by the defense could make the Redskin-Mustang meeting interesting. Northville failed to show much championship form in blanking Bloomfield Hills last week and could be primed for an upset.

Clarkston was riddled by graduation and later hit by injuries and sickness but the charges of Ed Hintz have done well with a win and tie in loop play and a victory outside for a 2-0-1 slate.

★ ★ ★

Holly provides the stiffest test yet for the Wolves. The Broncos have played much better than their 0-3 overall record indicates.

★ ★ ★

Bloomfield Hills gave Northville trouble for one half and the Barons are confident they can snap their scoreless and winless drouth at the same time. Clarenceville has lost only two games so this shapes up as a battle to decide who escapes the cellar.

Top Spots Won by Pontiac Area Dogs

Competing in a field of more than 750 dogs, Pontiac area entries finished among the leaders in many divisions. Two completed their AKC championships in the weekend Progressive Dog Club show at the state fair grounds.

Best of show went to Ch. Arturo Hot Rod, an Ascob cocker (Mrs. A. H. Benhoff Jr., Catonsville, Md.).

Best of winners (longhair dachshunds), Ed-El-Fra's Can Do (Sumner L. Goss, Birmingham), and best-of-opposite-sex (shows), Mahoney's Sun-Ce (Eugenie Mahoney, Farmington) finished championships. Can Do's points included four majors.

Other top placements—best-opposite-sex (LH dachshunds) Bachofen's Queenie (Maria Hayes, Birmingham); best-of-variety (part-cocker) Norbill's Heavenly (Dick Beauchamp, Rochester); 3rd working, Feedee Pfieh of the Swale (Ger. shep.), Emma H. Kaufman, Walled Lake; 2nd hound group, Ch. Siefenjagenheim Lazy Bones (basset, Chris Teeter, Birmingham).

Soccer Saturday at McCabe Field

DETROIT — One of the most elaborate and colorful soccer programs of the year will be presented at McCabe Field this weekend.

The Michigan All-Stars, a select team from the Detroit Soccer League, will oppose the London, Ont., All-Stars in the feature game Saturday night at 7:30 p.m.

All Star teams of the Michigan Youth Soccer League play in the preliminary action starting at 6:30. One abbreviated game will pair a Detroit All-Star team under 14 years of age against a select squad from Cranbrook School and Allen Park.

Hollywood Park racetrack set a record for its course in 1957 when 1,705,306 persons attended.

Skippers, Vikings in I-L Struggles

Two Inter-Lakes Conference football games of grave importance are slated Friday night and a greater insight into the eventual outcome of the league race will ride on the results.

Waterford, Walled Lake and Farmington, which won their Inter-Lakes openers last week, and defending champion Southfield, which took it on the chin, are the central figures in tomorrow's gridiron drama.

It's homecoming at Waterford and the Skippers are playing host to unbeaten Farmington for the annual occasion. Southfield, with its back to the wall, invades Walled Lake for the other I-L headliner.

Whether or not the Waterford homecoming celebration is a happy one is strictly up to the Skippers. Needless to say, they will be decided underdogs against the touchdown-minded Farmington club.

The Falcons, with a fleet of fast-stepping backs and explosive scoring power, are hungrily sighting the I-L crown after last week's 20-14 conquest of favored Southfield.

Prior to their success against the Bluejays, they spanked Livonia Bentley and Rochester with little trouble. In contrast, Waterford absorbed decisive beatings from Pontiac Central and Lapeer before opening its league campaign a week ago with a 12-6 win over Van Dyke.

It's "do or die" for the Jays at Walled Lake and the Vikings of Dave Smith will do their darndest to make it the latter.

Walled Lake, also undefeated in three starts, will rely heavily on the dynamic running of Frank Fink and the arm of Bill Havel plus a rock-ribbed line to put the stops on the Jays, who were favored to repeat as I-L champs this fall.

Southfield comes into the game with a 1-1-1 record on a tie with Royal Oak Kimball, a victory over Ferndale and the loss to Farmington. Walled Lake has conquered Redford Union, Howell and Berkley.

With one league setback already on their record, the Jays cannot afford to drop another if they hope to gain even a share of the title. The Vikings, it can be safely stated, have their eyes sharply focused on the championship they won in 1956.

★ ★ ★

While Farmington will be heavily favored to take the measure of the Skippers, the Southfield - Walled Lake game looks like a toss-up from the word go. Breaks are likely to play key roles in the all-important struggle.

In Friday's other scheduled Inter-Lakes game, Berkley goes to Van Dyke for another outing between evenly matched teams.

Spartans Expect Another Busy Saturday vs. Pitt

Daugherty Hopes to Use Several Sophomores in East Lansing Game

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty indicated yesterday he would "play a lot of sophomores to see what they can do under game conditions" when the Spartans meet Pitt Saturday.

"Pitt is a good team," Daugherty admitted and said the Pennsylvania contingent would be hard to beat.

But, he said the Spartans looked a "lot better" after brief drills yesterday and the players were "coming out of the letdown they were in" after Michigan's rugged defense held the East Lansing squad to a 12-12 standoff Saturday.

The Spartans did lose a lot of prestige and self confidence, and then dropped from fourth to ninth in the AP poll, just a notch above unbeaten Pittsburgh, the opponent this Saturday.

No levity has been apparent on the Spartan practice field this week. Coaches have been grim and serious about the work on hand, concentrating on errors uncovered in the Michigan game and on position shifts to bulwark weaknesses.

Indications are that Michigan State will do some gambling on the sophomores in this third home game before the Spartans travel next week to meet also unbeaten Purdue.

Tommy Wilson of Lapeer, a sophomore who was out last year because of a leg injury, has been moved up as high as the second string at quarterback.

★ ★ ★

Another sophomore, Herb Adderly, has been tested at second team fullback in an attempt to remedy the unsatisfactory situation there.

The extra point failure — only one success in seven tries after touchdowns — has been another sore point, calling for a lot of rehearsals.

Navy's Tranchini to Throw Works at Wolverines

'Bold and Confident' Quarterback, Middies Invade Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR (UPI)—"He's bold and he's confident." That's how Michigan Halfback Al Groce described Joe Tranchini, a superb junior quarterback who will lead Navy's powerful middies into Michigan Stadium Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Groce knows Tranchini well. They teamed together as part of an undefeated Clairton, Pa., squad a few years back. Ironically, both will be members of unbeaten 11 when they reunite this weekend.

But the little wolverine halfback isn't the only one who knows about Tranchini.

Michigan scouts have warned their team to be prepared for the most dangerous quarterback to visit here since another junior Minnesota's Bobby Cox, singlehandedly stunned the Wolverines, 20-7, two years ago.

★ ★ ★

Tranchini is the key man in coach Eddie Erdelatz's pro-type offense. Michigan coach Bennie Oosterbaan calls it "A ham and eggs attack — that is half-running, half-passing."

The young pass master didn't see much action behind All-American Tom Forrestal last year although he did engineer the Middies first Cotton Bowl score.

★ ★ ★

But the stout, 187 pounds is leaving no questions unanswered after two games this year. He plunged for the initial TD in Navy's opening victory over William and Mary, then barraged Boston University for 221 passing yards and three TD's last week. The Boston game was one of the finest ever by a Navy quarterback.

'Back of Week' Honors Given to Middie Ace

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Joe Tranchini, Navy's rapidly developing quarterback, earned two accolades this week.

★ ★ ★

His teammates nicknamed him "Trigger Joe" after his bullet passes paced Navy to a 28-14 victory over Boston University and the Associated Press yesterday designated him "Back of the Week" for the same performance.

★ ★ ★

The honors for the 187-pound junior from Clairton, Pa., were earned in less than 30 minutes against Boston University. But he completed 18 of 27 passes for 221 yards and three touchdowns to put the Middies in a commanding lead.

Football Attendance Up

DALLAS (AP)—The Southwest Conference is 35,822 ahead of last year in football attendance.

To date this season 13 home games have drawn 401,600. For the same period last year the total was 365,778 for a like number of games.

Rice has pulled in 86,000 for two games to lead the way. The Owls had played only one home game last season and drew 54,000.

4th Annual Acorn Enduro on Sunday

The 4th annual Acorn Enduro Run sponsored by the Pontiac Motorcycle club will be held Sunday at Gingellville Community Center, 3575 Baldwin Rd.

About 100 riders are expected to compete with the first cyclist starting out at 10:01 a.m.

★ ★ ★

All riders have numbers assigned to them and are sent out at one minute intervals. They remain on a schedule of 24 m.p.h. throughout the run and points are lost when the riders are not on schedule at any of the 10 check points.

Turkey dinners will be served riders and spectators by the Gingellville Mom's Club.

Pythians Hold Hunters Banquet Next Thursday

Conservation department men, and possibly the grand chancellor of Michigan Knights of Pythias, will appear at the 18th annual Hunters' Banquet at Pontiac Lodge No. 19, Oct. 14. Event will take place at the Pontiac lodge hall, 18 West Huron St., starting at 6:30 p.m. It is expected that 200 will attend.

A sportsman program will be presented by a conservation department man. Toastmaster will be William Cowie, grand outer guard of Fellowship Lodge No. 227. Fanny Tompkins Temple No. 41, Pythian Sisters, will prepare and serve the dinner.

Cardinals Buy Two Pitchers

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals announced Wednesday night they have acquired the contracts of right-handers Gary Blaylock and Dick Ricketts from Rochester of the International League, with whom St. Louis has a working agreement.

★ ★ ★

The 6-foot-7 Ricketts, former player with the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Assn., is passing up basketball this winter to concentrate on baseball. The 24-year-old pitcher won 15 and lost 13 for Rochester this year and had an earned run average of 3.22.

Strikes and Spares

By Joe Wilman

Bowling courtesy is the thought for today. Courtesy in bowling is no different from courtesy anywhere, and it can contribute a great deal to the enjoyment you and your team-mates receive from the game.

For instance, do like our bowler in today's drawing. Stay within the confines of your own alley. Don't move over onto the next alley if anyone is bowling there.

Never annoy or distract a bowler when he's up on the approach getting ready to roll his ball. It can bother him just enough to make him miss his strike or spare. You don't want anyone to do it to you, so just use the same consideration for others.

Don't waste time yourself when you're up on the approach. Don't pose. Concentrate on your shot. Don't worry about any bowler except the one on your immediate rifht.

Don't stand too long at the foul line after your ball has struck the pins either. Remember, bowlers on adjoining alleys are waiting to bowl, and you are a distraction up at the foul line.

If you use common sense and the Golden Rule, your bowling courtesy will be an example to others.

Small Schools in Spotlight

By The Associated Press

None of the coaches will admit it, of course, but chances are good that two league championships will be decided this weekend in Michigan football circles.

The smaller schools are stealing the spotlight from Michigan and Michigan State who play non-conference games.

The two big games pit Hillsdale against Albion in a contest that might well decide the MIAA championship almost before the league campaign gets started while Eastern Michigan meets Central Michigan in a game that could wrap up the Interstate Conference title.

John Carroll comes to Wayne State for a Presidents' Conference game. The Cleveland team was the league titlist last year with a 6-1 record and beat Wayne State 19-6.

★ ★ ★

The University of Detroit goes to Villanova and coach Wally Fromhart still is shaking up his lineup. His biggest concern is getting more protection for his quarterbacks, who had a minus 42 yards against Air Force Academy and minus 39 against Quantico.

There's no denying that Hillsdale and Albion are the class of the MIAA. Each has won three games and Morley Fraser's Albion team has yet to be scored upon. The Britons have beaten Wabash 21-0, Kalamazoo 27-0 and Adrian 39-0, while Hillsdale has downed Lakeland 21-0, lost to Central Michigan 13-19 and walloped Olivet 44-0.

★ ★ ★

Hillsdale has won four straight MIAA titles and has gone 29 league games without a defeat. This is Homecoming for the Dales, who have not been beaten in the league since Hope gained a 28-7 triumph in 1953.

★ ★ ★

The last blemish on Hillsdale's league record was a scoreless tie with Albion on Nov. 7, 1953.

A year ago Hillsdale had two narrow escapes in the MIAA. The Dales had to come from behind to defeat Fraser's Albion team, 20-14, and barely got by Hope 7-6.

Albion has the MIAA's leading rushers. Don Van Gilder has picked up 142 yards on the ground in the Britons' two league games while teammate Dave Hurd, a fullback, leads the league with 201 yards.

★ ★ ★

The leading passer is Bill Klenk of Alma with 165 yards on seven completions. His team meets Adrian Saturday in another MIAA fray. Another top passer is Doug Perry of Kalamazoo who has thrown for 163 yards on seven completions. His team will be up against Hope this weekend.

Offers Feast for 35c

CHICAGO (UPI) — The oldest restaurant in Chicago, Henrici's, celebrated its 90th anniversary today by offering meals at 1868 prices, including: Sirloin of beef, madeira sauce, 35 cents; half a baked chicken or roast leg of spring lamb, also 35 cents; home-made pies, five cents a slice.

Business and Finance

Corn, Soybeans Move on Mart

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures prices were mixed in fairly active early transactions on the Board of Trade today.

Best action was in corn and soybeans, mainly on continued unfavorable weather for harvesting and forecasts of freezing temperatures over a large portion of the midwest farm belt tomorrow and Saturday.

There was some commercial buying of wheat futures at the start against export sales of the cash product. Trading in the bread grain, however, was generally light.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was unchanged to ⅜ lower, Dec. $1.96; corn ⅜ higher to ½ lower, old style Dec. $1.14½; oats unchanged to ⅛ higher, Dec. 64¾; rye ½ to 1¼ lower, Dec. $1.31⅛; and soybeans ⅜ higher to ⅛ lower, Nov. $2.17⅛.

Mart Continues Irregular Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued irregular in active early trading today. There was a slight tendency to the downside.

Key stocks showed changes of fractions to about a point.

The mixed pattern was asserted at the start. The ticker tape was behind transactions for four minutes.

Motors were down slightly; steels and rails mixed. Utilities, tobaccos and drugs leaned to the upside. Aircrafts, chemicals and rubbers were mixed.

The second day of irregularity followed the market's sustained climb to a series of record highs. The day-to-day advance halted at a level in the averages which Wall Street analysts anticipated would be a resistance point.

★ ★ ★

Studebaker-Packard was about unchanged in moderate dealings after being the most active stock yesterday.

Small gains were posted for Montgomery Ward, Boeing and Southern Pacific.

Among losers were Goodrich, International Harvester, United Aircraft, General Electric and New York Central.

Board of Education Studies Future Needs

Pontiac Board of Education will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the board offices, 40 Patterson St., for a review of building plans.

The need for the proposed addition to Bagley school and the Square Lake elementary school will be discussed in the light of 1958 enrollment, according to Dr. Otto Hufziger, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business.

The Board will also consider study sketches of the proposed addition to Washington Junior High before preparation of preliminary plans begins.

Chromium in Stainless

GARY, Ind.—To be called "stainless," a steel must contain at least 11½ per cent chromium. The addition of a minimum of 8 per cent of stainless steels to corrosion and nickel improves the resistance of stainless steels to corrosion and heat and increases their strength and toughness. The most popular type of stainless steel contains 18 per cent chromium and 8 per cent nickel.

Round Lake Association Still in Formative Stage

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP—Final details on the organization of the Round Lake Improvement Association still are being considered, according to George Roan who had been selected to head the organization committee.

It previously had been stated in The Press that the association was established.

Kierdorf Wants Case Dropped

Asks Hearing to Dismiss Charge of Possession of Pistol Silencer

Attorneys for Herman Kierdorf yesterday filed a motion to dismiss the charge against their client of possession of a pistol silencer.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty set Oct. 14 at 10:30 for a hearing on the motion. This is two days before the former Detroit Teamsters official was to stand trial on the charge.

★ ★ ★

The motion filed Wednesday charges Madison Heights Police Chief Robert E. Richardson with seizing the silencer and a gun "forcibly, unlawfully, and illegally" from a neighbor of Kierdorf's in Madison Heights.

Kierdorf's attorneys also say no search warrant or warrant for arrest was used Aug. 4 when the weapons and silencer were taken as evidence.

The court is asked to release the 67-year-old Kierdorf, once the major suspect in the still unsolved fatal burning of his nephew, Frank.

★ ★ ★

Chief Richardson discovered the homemade silencer, along with a German luger pistol and dynamite caps, at the home of John Tyler, of 29078 Spoon St. when he went to look for Kierdorf to inform him his nephew lay dying in a Pontiac hospital.

The elder Kierdorf has been free on a $15,000 bond since his arraignment on the silencer charge in July. Conviction could bring five years in prison and a $2,500 fine.

Traffic on Great Lakes Drops Sharply in '58

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Commerce on the Great Lakes dropped sharply in the first eight months of 1958.

In some cases, the drop ranged nearly to 50 per cent below a comparable period a year ago, according to the monthly newsletter of the Great Lakes Commission.

★ ★ ★

Total traffic through the Soo canals from January through August this year was down more than half, said the newsletter. In January-August 1957, 73,896,701 tons went through the locks compared to 31,722,195 for a like 1958 period.

Marvin Fast, executive commission director, said the decrease in traffic was due mainly to the recession.

★ ★ ★

Commission figures show iron ore traffic from Canadian and U.S. lake ports dwindled from about 69,500,000 tons during January-September 1957 to 39,800,000 tons for the same 1958 span.

The only cargo showing a 1958 rise in traffic was grain, the newsletter said.

★ ★ ★

It said 70 per cent of the lakes' iron ore fleet was in operation by mid-September after a gradual increase during the last three months. Last year at mid-September, 95 per cent of the vessels were in operation.

GM and IUE Okay Contract but Production Still Lags

DETROIT (AP) — Local disputes at General Motors and Chrysler held back 1959 model production today despite a new contract covering 25,000 workers at five GM plants.

General Motors and the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) reached agreement last night on a three-year pact covering IUE workers in all company plants except one at Dayton, Ohio.

★ ★ ★

The agreement, after a week's strike, followed the pattern of the United Auto Workers Union agreements with GM, Ford and Chrysler.

Local disputes continued to hit GM's 1959 model production with 111 plants closed. Some 36,500 UAW members have returned to work out of GM's 275,000 man work force.

Chrysler also was hit by disputes with 10,800 workers out at six plants.

Chrysler obtained a temporary injunction today preventing pickets at the company's Twinsburg, Ohio plant from interfering with workers continuing on the job. No hearing has been set for a permanent injunction.

★ ★ ★

Chrysler yesterday fired 26 employes at the plant on the grounds they had continued a walkout which International and Local UAW officials had ordered them to end.

The UAW, reporting 43 men fired, charged Chrysler with "reckless and irresponsible" action and trying to "exploit the good faith efforts of the union."

★ ★ ★

In a statement from international headquarters, the UAW said the company did not give the UAW time to implement its return to work order to the locals.

Chrysler did not state the number of men fired. However, John D. Leary, vice president of personnel, called the action "proper." He said the men were discharged for "obstructionist tactics—in defiance of their own union's orders."

Leary said continued shutdown of the Twinsburg auto parts factory could have serious effect on other Chrysler operations.

Prior firings had set off the strikes. The UAW, cracking down on the wildcatters Tuesday, said some of these firings had been settled and others were in grievance action. The international charged strike leaders with irresponsibility and said it could do nothing to defend the union locals against any charges the company might bring.

★ ★ ★

The GM-IUE settlement provided for a pay raise and improvements in pension and layoff pay plans, as well as including the new UAW severance pay arrangement for permanently discharged men.

Al Harnett, IUE secretary-treasurer, said the IUE wage increase is 25 to 38 cents an hour spread over the three years. The UAW's has been estimated at 24 to 30 cents.

Industry wages vary depending on job classifications. The production worker over all average is about $2.49 an hour.

The IUE workers are in Dayton and Warren, Ohio,; Chicago; Rochester, N.Y., and New Brunswick, N.J.

★ ★ ★

As General Motors worked to get back to normalcy, three local strikes were settled yesterday and overnight. One was at AC Spark Plug in Flint, Mich., another at Lagrange, Ill., Electromotive, and the third at Fisher Body Division in Willow Springs near Chicago.

Held for Manslaughter

YPSILANTI (AP) — Vincent J. Weisgerber, 44, has been ordered held for examination Oct. 16 on manslaughter charges in the auto-pedestrian death of 35-year-old Shirley Baker of Ann Arbor. He stood mute at his arraignment Wednesday.

Four out of 10 persons in America are handicapped in their work by some form of inadequate vision.

Andy Stewart Is Bright Boy

Little Tot Keeps Busy on 'Anybody Can Play' for $155 Each Show

By RON BURTON

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Andy Stewart, who just turned three a few days ago, gets paid $155 and a toy for each brief weekly TV appearance he makes. So far it's the toy and not the money that counts.

"I show him his check each week, and he's not at all impressed," said his mother, Mrs. Jacqueline Stewart. "Then we give him the toy, and he realizes he's earning something."

Andy is a bright boy with blond hair, blue eyes and the ability to say things like the Pledge of Allegiance, a German folk song and whatever his father says when his mother's tires hit a curb.

"He's listed as scorekeeper on the show," Mrs. Stewart said as Andy bolted away briefly to retrieve a dropped pencil. "He takes props around and has a few lines. One show he carried a bag with prize money and led in a dog. No one ever knows quite what he's going to do or say."

★ ★ ★

Andy appears Mondays on "Anybody Can Play." George Fenneman is the amiable master of ceremonies on the ABC-TV show.

"I like George," Andy said. "He asks me how I am. I say, 'Fine.' He's my friend. Once I made a lot of noise with my feet and he told me, 'Shhhhhhh.' I was kicking my feet against my high chair."

Andy slid back down under the table after the pencil again. His mother kept a wary eye on him. After all, it was in the Brown Derby.

The Stewarts met producer John Guedel and his wife, Helen Parrish, last summer at a dude ranch. Miss Parrish was intrigued by Andy, particularly by the allegiance routine he learned from his 11-year-old brother and nine-year-old sister.

Now Andy performs on a show-to-show basis. His father, Ronald, a Hollywood contractor, has objected only once to Andy's activities—when he was all set to play golf but had to be photographed instead with Andy.

★ ★ ★

So far Andy has been on about a dozen shows. His father gives him stage directions, pushing him toward a camera when it's his moment.

"I don't go to rehearsals anymore," Andy said.

"You bet he doesn't," his mother said. "He went once and listened to George's lines and then was coming out with all Fenneman's punch lines just as George was about to say them on the live show. Poor George had to ad lib most of the show. Andy remembers things."

"I help George," Andy explained.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Stewart said Andy really jarred them once when he told his neighborhood cronies that he was on "The Andy Stewart Show." He mentioned that a George Fenneman was on the show, too.

"He's been straightened out," she said.

Berle's TV Return Is Mixed Blessing

NEW YORK (AP)—Milton Berle returned with a new show on NBC-TV Wednesday night after two years absence as a television regular.

Berle defined his new program as an "adult comedy" in which "if you don't get laughs, you just keep going." He is going to keep going and he is surely going to get laughs.

★ ★ ★

He won his loudest laughs when he was being Milton Berle, stand-up comedian. He appeared weakest when he left his current video fate in the hands of a team of so-called television experts.

★ ★ ★

It is to be hoped that the new Berle show will not present another team of phony Russian Cossack dancers such as appeared in this one. Probably it won't, for in Berle's words, it was "the last time I'll ever buy an act from a Gypsy in an empty store."

On the other hand, the Dunhills, a trio of precision dancers, were fine as professionally accompanied by hoofer Berle.

Fire Engine Burns

PITTSBURG, Kan. (AP)—John Marietta and his son took a 1921 vintage fire engine into a field for a trial run. A broken fuel line caused a fire in the engine, and the flames spread to the dry grass of the field. The fire was put out with a hand extinguisher.

Minnesota leads in iron ore production. The ore was first discovered in this state in about 1850.

Crosby Boys Discuss Family Secrets Freely

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The Four Crosbys—and Phil's bride, Sandra—had supper around 1 a.m. the other day and freely discussed Bing's "latest exemption" and brother Dennis' new hairpieces.

★ ★ ★

I had a happy time listening to Gary ("the den mother") telling the honeymooning Phil and Sandra, and Dennis and Lindsay:

WILSON

"Yes, you put on shirts and ties here. This is New York."

They'd flown in—first time together in New York—to film the Phil Silvers "Sgt. Bilko" show—and Gary, so warm and a junior edition of his father, was at the piano.

"Want a little taste?" he asked. Everybody did, except Sandra, who doesn't use it. He gave the order.

"Which Crosby is getting married next?" I asked.

★ ★ ★

"I know which one ain't!" howled Gary. Phil then playfully kidded the prematurely-bald Dennis about his curls. Gary said Dennis acquired a couple of "divots" to make him look practically shaggy on TV.

"He's got a couple of the old man's rejects," Gary laughed.

Dennis — who married beautiful Pat Sheehan last summer (she's expecting in a few months)—nervously wondered whether this was news.

"Sure!" Gary waved away his objections. "Your picture was on Life. You come out looking like a grizzly bear and people are going to notice it."

Dennis, they said, "is now the power in the family—he's a disc jockey— he plays people's records—everybody loves him. I sent him my record and he lost it," beefed Phil (who's recorded "Ball of Love").

★ ★ ★

"Have you thought of singing as a quartet?" I asked.

"I've been thinking about it," Gary said, "but we'd have to wait till Slip-Out Louie gets out of the Army in about four months." "Slip-Out Louie" turned out to be Lindsay who hadn't attended a family dinner the night before with Bing and Cathy; he'd slipped out to see "Auntie Mame."

"When are you going to let your dad retire?" I asked.

"Not till he gets some more exemptions," one of the boys said, but Gary said, "He's losing one exemption—Lindsay'll be 21 Jan. 5—but he gained another one with the baby. I don't think he'll ever retire."

By the way, you may notice that Sandra didn't get a chance to say anything in this story. She didn't in the hotel suite, either.

Mason's War Clause Raises British Ire

NEW YORK (NEA)—The English are slightly angry with James Mason. He was supposed to star in a filmed series, "The Third Man," which is going to be made by the BBC and America's NTA, working together.

But Mason insisted on the inclusion of a "war clause" in his contract, a clause which stated that in the event he thought there was an emergency, he would be released from his contract. The series is going to be made partly in England, partly here.

The producers would not agree to such a clause, and word of this got out in England. Mason was roundly criticized for what the British consider "alarmist" tendencies.

The series will still be made and the producers are currently considering Trevor Howard, Jack Hawkins and Michael Rennie for the Mason part.

Room for Longer Cars

Russian Roulette Death Verified

Army Says Evidence Bears Out Story Told by Michigan Soldier

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)— Army spokesmen say that "evidence indicates Sgt. John W. Hammond died through playing Russian Roulette . . ."

"It looks very much like the wound that killed him was self inflicted," the spokesman added yesterday, referring to the shooting last Saturday night of the 37-year-old Ft. Ord solcier.

Army investigators still were questioning Cpl. James J. Brennan Jr., 27, East Lansing, Mich. He told military police Hammond shot himself in the head while playing "Russian Roulette."

★ ★ ★

Brennan said he and Hammond had been drinking togther and started playing with a Swedish revolver.

Brennan said he thought the revolver was unloaded when he handed it to Hammond. He explained that Hammond spun the cylinder, pulled the trigger and shot himself in the head.

Brennan, the army reported, had been demoted last Friday from sergeant to corporal because of "an accumulation of past incidents," including arrest for drunkenness in a car and carrying a concealed weapon.

The army said he also had been dropped as a student at the Army language school, Presidio of Monterey, because he did not meet the high standards required.

College Okays Smooch Lines After Protest

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Only an epidemic or the individual involved can stop the smooch lines at Kansas State College thanks to a committee of Associated Women Students.

K-State's traditional practice of congratulating girls announcing engagements or pinnings with a kiss was ordered stopped this year by Margaret Lahey, dean of women. Bad health practice, she said.

But the committee won a reversal of the ruling. The new policy, as set forth in the student newspaper:

★ ★ ★

"Smooch lines may occur during times of good health at the discretion of the individual present if conducted in a way to prevent the spread of infectious diseases."

Ike to Appear in Public at San Francisco Oct. 21

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—President Eisenhower will make two public appearances here Oct. 21, his first here since the 1956 Republican National Convention.

After arriving from Los Angeles, he will appear on a television coffee hour with 25 San Francisco housewives. The show will be carried on a Western regional Network.

After the TV show he will address a rally at Civic Auditorium.

Pleads 5th Amendment

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Petrina Cavataio, wife of a wealthy Grosse Pointe Park bakery owner, pleaded the Fifth Amendment Wednesday when called as a witness in the theft of $50,000 in a safe from her home. She acted on the advice of her attorney at the preliminary examination of James Salvato, 38, on a burglary charge.
