Don't Let Zero Weather Rob You of Suntan

WHY GO SOUTH? — A roll or two of aluminum foil can equip your back porch to provide tanning sun rays and warm temperatures despite near-zero weather. Proving that you don't have to go South or use a sunlamp to get rid of that mid-winter pallor is 18-year-old Donna Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Robinson, of 9096 Cooley Lake Rd. All it takes is a sunny winter day, and screens covered with sun-reflecting aluminum foil. You can even get a good sunburn right here in Pontiac in mid-February.

County Calls on State to Split Welfare Costs

Area Officials Back House Bill to Share Burden

Increased Expenditures Threaten Oakland With $1 Million Deficit

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

LANSING — Faced with increased drains on the county treasury from soaring welfare costs, Oakland County supervisors meeting here yesterday placed top priority on a bill which would increase the state's share of welfare costs to 50 per cent.

House Bill No. 30 — with 23 sponsors, including five Oakland legislators — calls for Michigan to resume this 50 per cent share, with counties picking up the other half.

Officials in Oakland County say a $1,000,000 deficit might confront the county, mostly because of the increased welfare costs.

Since the state began paying its 50 per cent share, the county has had to pay roughly $337,000 over and above what it expended under the earlier state aid split.

One of the major reasons for the deficit, supervisors say, is a bulging number of welfare aid cases which are higher now than anytime since 1937.

The cost proportion, since last July, has been 30-70, with counties carrying the heavier load.

GREAT HARDSHIP

County officials in Oakland say this slice from a previous 50-50 split has caused a great hardship on the county treasury because of a soaring number of welfare cases.

★ ★ ★

Looming here yesterday was the possibility that a compromise of 40-60 would have to be settled on.

"We'll take anything we can get," declared William C. Hudson, Royal Oak supervisor and chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Board of Supervisors.

From a flood of more than 900 bills introduced to the 69th legislative session, members of this committee, with the assistance of Normand R. Barnard, clerk of committees, have weeded out about 40 which they feel would affect Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

Bank Reserve Cut Authorized to Fight Slump

Expect ½ Pct. Reduction to Boost Business by Freeing $3 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a new anti-recession move, the Federal Reserve Board has acted to increase the lending capacity of its 6,400 member banks.

The board did this yesterday in lowering the reserve requirements of the banks by one half of 1 per cent. For some banks, the action is effective a week from today. For others, it takes effect March 1.

The reduction will release about 500 million dollars from reserves which the banks are required to hold against demand deposits.

This is expected to broaden their lending capacity by about three billion dollars under a banking theory that each dollar freed from reserve generally yields six dollars in lending capacity.

According to this reasoning, money loaned by a bank usually is redeposited eventually either in that bank or another institution. Much of the deposit can be loaned again, with the process being repeated.

Officials said the reserve requirement reduction could push down interest rates by making more money available for lending.

Under the new action, the reduction in New York and Chicago banks is from 20 per cent to 19½ per cent. This will free about 125 million dollars in reserves in these "central reserve" cities.

In other large cities, called "reserve cities," the reduction will be from 18 to 17½ per cent. This will release about 195 million dollars in banks there.

The change for these two groups of cities is set for Feb. 27. On March 1, the reserve requirement in "country banks" in smaller communities will drop from 12 per cent to 11½ per cent. This will release about 180 million dollars.

'UAW Planned Trap With TV Invitation,' Potter Said Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Potter (R-Mich) said today the United Auto Workers (UAW) meant to entrap him by inviting him to appear on the union's radio-television program. He said the union wants a refusal to use against him.

Potter, in a speech for the senate, implied he will turn down the invitation but asked for a face-to-face meeting with the UAW members.

"I want to discuss my views with workers but Reuther and Williams have done their level best to black out my record from UAW members," he said.

Potter's speech was one of his most bitter denunciations of Walter Reuther. He accused the union leader and Governor Williams of aggravating Michigan unemployment by "evil tax methods and strongarm strike tactics."

The UAW is certain to oppose Potter's bid for re-election this year and back Lt. Gov. Philip Hart, virtually certain to be Potter's Democratic opponent.

Potter said last week an invitation for him to address the Ford Rouge employes federal credit union was withdrawn after pressure from Ford UAW Local 600.

The UAW then issued a broadside against the senator, accusing him of turning down an invitation to appear on the union's radio-TV program. Potter said he had acknowledged the invitation from Guy Nunn, UAW broadcaster, but had given no positive answer.

"They wanted me to refuse," Potter said today. "Reuther hoped I would turn them down and give him something to harp about. He intended to harass me for the rest of the year or until such time as a candidate of his own choosing is elected to the senate to do Reuther's personal bidding with a 'people-be-damned' attitude."

BULLETINS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Nathan Leopold, surviving member of the Loeb-Leopold thrill murder team of 1924, was granted a parole today.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)— An Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile blasted off at 12:48 p.m. today but apparently blew up about two minutes after leaving its firing pad. The "Big A" roared straight up for about 30 seconds, then arched slowly over toward the east, leaving a vapor trail. There was no immediate confirmation from the Air Force on what happened.

Program Sponsorship Lost on Many TV Fans

HARRISBURG, Pa. — A check of TV audiences here revealed that out of 474 completed phone calls between 8 and 8:30 p.m. on the evening of the check only 147, or 30 per cent were tuned to the President's missile message.

CBS claimed that 100,000,000 people viewed the "Cinderella" spectacular. Out of 600 completed phone calls, 269 persons or 45 per cent were tuned in but 232 (or 86 per cent of the listening audience) could not identify the product sponsored. Multiple sponsors paid $250,000 each.

UAW Will Ask Chrysler to Provide 40-Hour Work

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union today sought a meeting with Chrysler Corp. officials to demand that the auto firm provide high seniority employes with 40-hour work weeks.

The union demanded yesterday that the firm close some of its plants, if necessary, to insure full work schedules at others and threatened to sue Chrysler for breach of contract for carrying on what the UAW called "guerrilla warfare."

The demand and charge were contained in a resolution passed at a conference of the union's 208-member Chrysler Council, representing 74,000 workers.

Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, accused the company of scheduling 11 and 20-hour work weeks in an attempt to lessen its liability for state unemployment compensation and company layoff benefits.

★ ★ ★

Mazey also charged that Chrysler had hiked production standards at the huge Dodge Main in Hamtramck in an effort to provoke a strike so the company could cut its inventory of unsold cars.

SENT HOME EARLY

Dodge Main workers have been sent home early for 17 straight days and have averaged about 11 hours of work each week for the past two weeks, Mazey said.

★ ★ ★

Chrysler spokesmen had no immediate comment about the UAW demands but blamed the Dodge Main shutdowns "on the failure of some trim department employes to perform regular work assignments."

"The company had no recourse but to send the workers home," a company spokesman said. About 5,000 workers have been affected daily.

In threatening court action, Mazey said the company itself set a precedent several years ago by suing a Detroit local of the UAW for breach of contract.

Mazey said the union had no intention of striking Chrysler plants although the UAW's executive board has authorized a strike at Dodge Main in a dispute over work standards.

NEW SCHEDULES

The UAW official said the union will demand that new production schedules be drawn up which would guarantee high seniority workers a full week of work. In some cases, he said, this would mean closing plants for specified periods.

★ ★ ★

The UAW leader estimated that Chrysler now has 74,000 employes compared to 130,000 hourly and salaried employes in 1956. He estimated the firm has laid off more than 40,000 workers since last fall.

Mazey said a worker getting 11 hours of work a week is worse off than a worker who is unemployed. He said a worker on an 11-hour week gets $24.75 gross pay as against a laid-off worker's $58.50 in state and company benefits.

Treat Churchill for Pneumonia

Sir Winston, 83, Also Battling Pleurisy but Is in Good Spirits

ROQUERBRUNE - CAP - MARTIN, France (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill, battling pneumonia and pleurisy, spent a "fairly comfortable night," his secretary said today.

The 83-year-old former British Prime Minister, a warrior in military and political campaigns since the turn of the century, seemed to have the upper hand in his new bout with illness.

"Sir Winston is in good spirits," his private secretary, Montague Browne, said. "He passed the day reading papers, talking to his family and dealing with correspondence." He smoked two cigars, Browne noted.

The diagnosis of pneumonia at the base of the lung and pleurisy was given by Lord-Moran, Churchill's personal physician who flew down from London, and Dr. David M. Roberts, his doctor on the Riviera.

Churchill came to the Riviera Jan. 15 for his annual winter visit. Monday he visited the yacht of Greek millionaire Aristotle Onassis. Browne said Sir Winston apparently suffered a chill during the visit. He was put to bed Tuesday and Moran was summoned.

Churchill had pneumonia in February 1943 in London and again in December of that year after meeting in Cairo and Tehran with President Roosevelt, Chiang Kai-shek, and Marshal Stalin.

He has suffered two strokes—in 1951 and 1953.

Lenten Meditations

By ROBERT L. DIFFENBACHER, D.D.

We distrust people because we think they have let us down in the past. They have done something which went against the grain. They have said things which were not quite fair. They have made false accusations. There are so many things which have hurt our feelings.

★ ★ ★

This distrust of people we transfer to God because we do not know Him. We have prayed to Him in some of our emergencies. He has not always answered us in the way we desired.

We did not notice His answer. We did not hear Him speak. And so it is that we distrust God.

Before we classify God along with some of our untrustworthy companions we ought to try out His fellowship.

★ ★ ★

We need to study about Him. In time we should talk to Him. In time we can tune in on His replies, and observe His daily acts in our behalf. God is a trusty companion if you give Him a chance.

Expert Expects Manned Moon Within 5 Years

DETROIT (AP) —One of the Army's missile experts says there is little doubt that a manned satellite will be placed in orbit within the next five to 10 years.

Dr. Gilford G. Quarles, scientific and technical consultant to Gen. John B. Medaris, chief of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, made the statement last night in a talk to the Engineering Society of Detroit.

Dr. Quarles added that "sometime within the next 25 or 40 years interplanetary travel will be accomplished."

He did not elaborate on what country would be first with either accomplishment.

12-Hour Downpour of Rain Floods Los Angeles Area

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A hit-and-run storm dumped 2.32 inches of rain in 12 hours, swamped cars, flooded homes and streets, closed more than 100 schools and caused widespread damage yesterday.

Drying out and mopping up under partly cloudy skies today, soggy Angelenos beheld up to 24 inches of new snow visible at 3,500 feet on nearby mountains.

Damage was estimated at perhaps a million dollars to a partly built, 85-million-dollar city power generating plant.

At least eight automobiles and two trucks were submerged in 10 feet of water on the Santa Ana Freeway at Atlantic Blvd.

A bridge under construction at suburban Torrance washed out.

Nine Inglewood factories were closed.

At least 20 families were temporarily evacuated from flooded homes in Manhattan Beach, Hermosa Beach and Torrance, in many cases by skiffs plied over streets turned into deep lakes.

GMC Truck Official Discusses UAW Demands:

Says Profit-Sharing Bid Hides Real Issues

The United Auto Workers' recent profit-sharing proposal has obscured the inflationary aspects of the union's basic economic demands, a GMC Truck & Coach Division representative said last night.

Earl A. Maxwell, division personnel director, stated the UAW announcement in January of its earnings distribution plan has diverted public opinion away from the union's previously announced plan to obtain 'the biggest wage increase in the history of the union.'

"The union obviously wanted the public to believe the program adopted was a major shift of its 1958 demands," Maxwell said in an address before the Pontiac Manufacturers' Association.

Economic demands, including wage increases, higher pension benefits, increased insurance, more supplemental unemployment pay and "many other potentially costly economic and working agreement changes" are included in the union "Package No. 1" of the two-part plan. The profit-sharing scheme is "Package 2," he declared.

Package No. 1, Maxwell declared, "represents no moderation of the union's previously indicated demands and it represents nothing new.

A three-year agreement between General Motors and the UAW can be terminated in late May of this year. Negotiations are expected to begin about April 1.

"Lest anyone here has the notion that the UAW's Package No. 1 is intended only for General Motors or only for the automotive industry, he should examine the record."

He quoted from a transcript of UAW President Walter P. Reuther's testimony before the Kefauver Committee Jan. 29, during which the Senate group was told the basic minimum demands (Package 1) "'represents that measure of improvements, of economic progress, that every worker in the economy is entitled to and that is what we say.'"

"It is crystal-clear that the union is interested in 'ability to pay' only when the employer is able to pay and he must meet Package No. 1 whether he can afford it or not."

Maxwell reviewed testimony of Harlow H. Curtice, GM president, before the Kefauver Committee explaining that total unit costs rose $125 for the 1958 GM "composite" passenger car between 1957 and 1958 models, a year later, while the average increase in the wholesale price of this 1958 "composite" car is only $74 over its 1957 counterpart.

Thus, Maxwell declared, "40 per cent of our increased costs—about $51 per unit—are not being recovered in price."

"Payroll and related employment costs have accounted for an increase in cost of $52, which is (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

'Union Trap' Seen by Senator Potter

aganda mill . . . made another of its vicious and untrue attacks" because Potter's "philosophy in preserving the free enterprise system happens to disagree with the socialist views of certain union bosses."

CITES PURPOSE

One purpose of the invitation, Potter contended, was to "involve me in a violation of the intent of the Corrupt Practices Act" by appearing on a program he said is "paid for by mis-using union funds."

A Detroit federal jury last year acquitted the UAW of violating the act's prohibition against political contributions by unions and corporations. The union contended the money was spent for educational purposes on the radio-TV programs.

REPEATS CHARGES

Potter today repeated his past charges that Reuther and Williams are primarily responsible for Michigan's 320,000 jobless workers.

"It is strange and frightening to see certain labor bosses who draw their livelihood from the free enterprise system—who even grow fat on it—bending every effort to strangle it and replace it with their personal brand of socialism," the senator said.

"Working hand-in-glove with his hand-picked governor . . . ruthless Reuther is killing off jobs in my state and working special harm in Detroit. They are waging a joint destructive effort composed of evil tax methods and strongarm strike threats."

Potter recited what he considered a legislative record in behalf of the working man and said:

"Let Reuther and Williams set up a meeting for me to address the workers face-to-face on any of my open dates, and I'll be there. I am proud of my record in behalf of the American laboring man."

Potter also attacked the UAW for beaming its broadcasts from station CKLW in Windsor, Ont.

"They (Reuther and Williams) should be turning every stone to see that residents of Detroit and surrounding areas find jobs," he said. "Instead, Reuther is favoring Canadians over our own people."

Potter said the Canadian station is outside the jurisdiction of the Federal Communications Commission but did not explain the significance of this.

Supervisors Back Welfare Cost Bill

and the county's six representatives, "so they'll know where we stand," members agreed.

The state is reluctant to resume the old 50-50 agreement since it would cost $6,000,000 annually, state officials say.

Because of this, the bill now rests with the Ways and Means Committee of the House. It has the prior approval of the Welfare and Social Aid Committee.

With the present financial situation in mind, the supervisors' Legislative Committee members here voiced strongest opposition to a bill to require counties to bear half the costs of caring for and treating the mentally ill.

Another bill which got a "no" vote was one to create township planning commissions.

BILLS ENDORSED

Among those that were endorsed by the Oakland delegation meeting at the Porter Hotel here were the following to:

(1) Make county road commissions subject to the control of the Board of Supervisors.

(2) Allow townships to issue general obligation bonds to finance water and sewer projects. Sponsored by Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson (R-Waterford Township).

(3) Stretch out payments for revenue bond acts. Also sponsored by Anderson.

(4) Allow for the collection of school taxes despite any appeals to the State Tax Commission. Sponsored by Rep. Donald A. Brown (R-Royal Oak).

(5) Prohibit hunting in West Bloomfield Township. Rep. Farrell E. Roberts (R-West Bloomfield Township) sponsored this proposal.

HIGHER JURY FEES

(6) Raise jury fees from $3 to $6, in addition to increasing four other trial fees. Sponsored by Rep. Theodore F. Hughes (R-Berkley).

(7) Permit justices of the peace to collect 50 cents in each convicted criminal case. Money to county treasury to defray costs.

(8) Allow departments of public works to take over failing drain projects at request of drain commissioner.

(9) Allow existing township zoning to remain intact one year following annexation of one political subdivision to another.

Besides these, supervisors from Oakland County previously approved 10 other proposed bills, including five to hike certain county clerk's fees as suggested by Clerk Lynn D. Allen.

Says Profit-Sharing Plan Not Real Issue

42 per cent of the total increase of $125 per composite car.

"What the UAW's distribution of earnings scheme would mean to the free, competitive enterprise system becomes clearer," he suggested, "when we consider the functions of profit.

"The hope of profits induces investors to assume risks and provides the stimulus to efficient performance. Profits provide funds for technological progress and to finance the facilities required to serve the needs of a growing population, thus to keep our economy progressive and strong.

"Such funds for investment in the progress of an enterprise . . . are derived from two sources: the savings of investors available under the right conditions in the capital markets; and profits retained for use in the business.

"However, if the hope of profits is not realized these sources of investment funds will dry up. Investors will not risk their funds when the outlook for a return is not reasonably attractive.

"What this means is clearly illustrated by GM's own experience since World War II. GM has expended in the United States alone over $4 billion to improve its facilities to assure capacity to serve the requirements of our customers.

"It is unlikely that the $4 billion required to make these investments would have been available to us had a profit-throttling scheme, such as the union now proposes, been operative in the postwar period.

"But because the funds were available, GM has been able . . . to provide 135,000 additional jobs over the past 10 years, and additional employment for thousands has been provided in the plants of our 26,000 suppliers . . ."

Maxwell produced a copy of the August, 1949, issue of "Ammunition," former official publication of the UAW for their thought-leaders, which denounced profit-sharing schemes.

The article, he said, answers the question "What's Wrong with Profit Sharing Plans?" by charging " 'They undermine purchasing power when you need purchasing power most, they make workers pay for company mistakes, and they don't work.' "

He summarized his views toward consideration of the 1958 bargaining issues as:

1) "We must follow a sound economic policy."

2) "We need to promote, not hamstring efficient production."

3) "We must work for higher living standards."

4) "We must preserve the rights associated with private ownership and the inherent benefits of a free, competitive profit system."

Senate Group OKs Hike in Debt Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee approved today the full five billion dollar boost in the debt ceiling asked by President Eisenhower effective until June 30, 1959.

It did so after rejecting, by a vote of 10-5, a proposal by Chairman Byrd (D-Va) to limit the increase to three billion.

The committee acted on a bill passed by the House a month ago, 328-71, to raise the amount of the debt 5he government can have outstanding.

The increase is from 275 to 280 billion dollars.

Ingle Seeking Seat in State Legislature

Allen C. Ingle, Farmington Township Justice of the Peace, announced his candidacy today for Oakland County representative in the Legislature on the Republican ticket.

Ingle, president of the State Association of Justices and first president of the Oakland County Judicial Assn., will vie for the fourth district seat now occupied by Republican Theodore F. Hughes, of Berkley.

Ingle was an unsuccessful candidate for the seat in 1954.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Post Office Committee voted today to raise postal rates by about 750 million dollars a year, including a five-cent charge for non-local letters for the next three years. The committee voted to recommend to the Senate a considerably higher total rate boost than passed by the House last year.

Miami Shivers as Mercury Dips to 42 Degrees

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The overnight temperature in this normally tropical city dipped to 42 degrees, the coldest Feb. 20 in 23 years.

The old record of 50 degrees for the date was set in 1935.

Forecasters had few words of real encouragement for the chilled populace and frost-bitten agriculture.

Paul Moore, a forecaster at the Miami Weather Bureau, advised there is little permanent improvement sighted.

Know the Weather

By E. H. SIMS

If you see fire or electrical "fingers" dancing on the windshield of your aircraft what does this indicate?

Despite the fact that this is an ominous sign to most people, and a highly disturbing sight to most of us, who are not familiar with this weather trick of Mother Nature's, the appearance of these fire fingers is not of great significance or importance.

In an aircraft they signal no danger and merely show that the aircraft is probably positively charged and entering a cloud or air mass with a negative charge. Usually the dancing electrical fingers will be seen on the windshield, but ocasionally they will appear on side windows of passenger planes.

This occurrence is, for all intents and purposes, a display of St. Elmo's fire, the electrical trick that terrorized many a sailor in the old days. A tall ship's mast or a tall tree in the swamp or any tall structure, might throw out a finger or two of fire.

It is nothing more than a positively-charged object balancing its electrical content with a negatively-charged object, such as a cloud layer.

License Plate Rush to Be One of City's Worst

Next week will see one of the worst last minute license plate rushes in Pontiac history, Willis M. Brewer predicted today.

Brewer, manager of the secretary of state's Pontiac office, said that with only eight working days left for his bureau, sales of 1958 license plates are more than 6,000 behind last year's.

Offices at 53 N. Parke St. and in Waterford Township Hall will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. this Saturday in an attempt to offset the final rush, he said.

Both offices will be open the same hours next week and as late next Friday as necessary to serve waiting customers, he said.

Deadline for driving on 1957 plates is midnight Feb. 28.

Secy. of State James M. Hart said the situation statewise was just as bad.

He said yesterday that 1,886,555 Michigan motorists were still driving with 1957 plates.

Welding Items Stolen

Thieves took welding equipment valued at $150 from General Fabricating Co., 551 Going St., Ivan Hulliberger, owner, reported to Pontiac Police Department yesterday.

The burglars broke a padlock from a front garage door to gain entry. Missing are a set of oxygen and acetylene gauges, 50 feet of hose and a cutting torch.

'History of Art' Lectures to Open Monday Morning

BIRMINGHAM — Continuing its policy of bringing top-flight art programs to the area, the Bloomfield Art Association will present Virginia Harriman, Detroit Institute of Arts lecturer, in a series on "History of Art."

The first talk, "Medieval Vista," will be given at 10 a.m. Monday at the Gallery, 361 N. Woodward Ave. Future lectures will be delivered March 3, 10 and 17.

Mrs. E. E. Hammonds, in charge of the series of talks, said Miss Harriman has been with the Detroit Institute for 10 years. Educated at Cornell and Columbia Universities, she is one of the better known art lecturers in the Detroit area.

She also has written several articles, made two films and directed educational department exhibitions for the Detroit institute.

With the vacation of Buckingham road between Eton road and the Grand Trunk Railway, the way has been cleared for the construction of five new multiple-family residences of eight units each.

Building permits were issued this week by City Building Inspector Andrew F. Butt to the Buckingham Building Co. of Royal Oak for the $375,000 project.

Butt's January building report showed a total of 15 permits for construction valued at an estimated $443,100.

A Pontiac man, John Burnham, teamed with E. V. Clarke to win the Howell game at the Duplicate Bridge Club's session at the YMCA Wednesday evening.

Runners-up were Mrs. Pollie Pound and her father, Harry Brown, both of Bloomfield Hills. The group meets weekly at the Y. Persons wishing to play may call Clarke to arrange for partners.

Young Adults group of the Birmingham YMCA will hold a "Court Whist" and box social at its meeting Feb. 28 in the Y, 400 E. Lincoln St.

Those planning to attend have been asked to bring a box lunch which will be auctioned to the highest bidder. Pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters will be used.

Service for Mrs. Arvin C. (Mamie) Webster, 75, of 7200 Parkhurst Dr., Birmingham, will be conducted at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co. The Rev. John E. Rose of Lathrup Community Church will officiate. Burial will be in Summitville, Ind.

Mrs. Webster died Tuesday at her home after a long illness.

A resident of Birmingham for four years, she was a member of Kilwinning Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, and the Women's City Club of Detroit.

She leaves her husband; a son, George W. of Birmingham, and a sister, Mrs. Perry Beck of Alexandria, Ind.

Mrs. Milo B. Ritter

Private service for Mrs. Milo B. (Lola) Ritter, 80, of 1049 Chapin St., Birmingham, will be held at 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Manley Bailey Funeral Home. Burial will be in Acacia Park Cemetery, Southfield Township.

Mrs. Ritter died Tuesday at Pontiac General Hospital following a lengthy illness.

A native of Indiana and a former teacher there, she had been a resident of Birmingham seven years.

Mrs. Ritter was a member of the Holmes Memorial Methodist Church, Detroit.

To Dedicate Ice Rink

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Kalamazoo will dedicate its new $200,000 artificial ice skating rink Friday night. It is slated to operate 47½ hours a week.

12-Hour Downpour Floods Los Angeles

ly dry or nearly so, flowed mightily. Two boys rode a raft of inner tubes six miles before police pulled them out as they neared the ocean at Long Beach.

Temperatures continued to moderate in most areas from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast today but more snow in parts of the storm-stricken Northeast slowed cleanup operations.

Light snow fell on the white-blanketed areas of the northern and central Appalachians, the upper Ohio Valley and western New York.

There was a little relief from the severe cold which has hit most of the Eastern half of the country for nearly a week as the core of the Arctic air mass moved eastward into the Atlantic.

However, temperature drops were reported in the upper Great Lakes region as skies cleared.

Rescue operations continued in the hardest hit storm sectors, including upstate New York and northern Indiana. Many rural families remained isolated.

Ford Planning to Close Plant in Massachusetts

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP)—Ford Motor Co. will shut down its assembly plant here March 14, idling about 1,000 workers.

T. R. Reid, a Ford executive, said the plant is not suitably located for distribution and its restrictive size does not provide space or flexibility to produce the various models in Ford's line.

Reid said the company will try to absorb the laid-off workers in other plants.

U.S. to Import Vaccine?

TOKYO (AP)—The Welfare Ministry said today it may buy Salk-type polio vaccine from Canada or Australia rather than the United States because theirs is much cheaper. Ministry officials said the Australian vaccine costs about $3 for a full treatment, the Canadian about $4.50 and the American about $8.

Security for You

Important to Notify of Address Change

By RAY HENRY

George Haugen was a proud and patient man. And, it probably cost him his life.

Last August, as Haugen had asked, his Social Security check was mailed to "general delivery" at the Ogden, Utah, post office.

He usually picked up his check shortly after it arrived. He had to He was 69, crippled and needed the money to live on.

But, for some reason, Haugen didn't call for that August check. After holding it for several weeks, the post office sent it back to Social Security.

It wasn't until October that Social Security heard from Haugen again. He wrote from Cheyenne, Wyo., gave his new address and explained why he hadn't called for his August check in Ogden.

On Nov. 3, his October check was sent to Cheyenne along with a letter telling him how he could claim the other checks due him. Again, the check was returned to Social Security, unclaimed.

Then, a few days before Christmas, Haugen visited the Ogden Social Security office and asked about his missing money. He filled out a form claiming the back checks.

Friends, knowing Haugen had run out of money, offered him some. He refused to take it. When he couldn't pay the rent on his hotel room, he moved out.

His body was found Jan. 26 in a crude shelter on the bank of a river. He had frozen to death some two or three weeks earlier in a bed of grass and old newspapers.

At the Ogden post office, a check for four months Social Security had been waiting for him.

Although Haugen's story is the kind no one likes, there's a lesson to be learned from it.

With little trouble, he could have made sure his Social Security checks followed him wherever he moved. Filling out a change of address form at the Ogden office was all that was necessary and there probably would have been no check delay.

That's about all that's required of anyone who moves.

But, if you're getting Social Security and you move, you should give as much advance notice as possible of your new address.

Government checks aren't supposed to be forwarded. This, incidentally, is for your protection so the check doesn't get lost or stolen in being shunted around the country.

If you give notice during the first two weeks of the month before you move, there'll be no delay. You should notify your local Social Security office or the office from which you get your checks. You may do so either by letter or with a special change of address postcard which you can get at any Social Security office.

If, in moving, you miss payments be sure to notify the nearest Social Security office so it can trace their whereabouts. The sooner you do this, the sooner you'll get the missing checks.

Unless the check has been stolen and forged, it usually takes from two to three weeks to replace a check which has gone astray because of an improper address.

★ ★ ★

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service.)

Fly Crocodiles, Leopard to Chester Zoo, England

LUSAKA, S. A. — Sixty animals, birds and reptiles recently traveled by air from Lusaka, Northern Rhodesia, to Chester Zoo, England — a record shipment from there. It included three pythons, a leopard, eight monkeys, three small crocodiles and a number of antelopes.

Some of the animals were confiscated from people who held them illegally; others had been found injured or maimed in the brush. The consignment had been collected at various times by the staff of the Northern Rhodesia Department of Game and Tsetse Control in the central province.

It was the second consignment to be sent to Chester Zoo within a year.

New Arab Federation Blocks Nasser's Plan

The new Iraqi-Jordanian Arab Federation embracing some 210,000 square miles, was created as a direct result of the union of Egypt and Syria proclaimed a couple of weeks ago.

Kings FAISAL of Iraq and HUSSEIN of Jordan, second cousins of the Hashemite dynasty, have agreed to merge their countries' economies, finances, British trained armies and foreign affairs. They will retain separate local governments and their thrones and are expected to continue their strong pro-Western, anti-Communist policies.

The Egyptian-Syrian union is something else again. President Nasser will run the show from a highly centralized government in Cairo. Leaders of this government look to Russia for military, political and economic aid.

It now seems likely that Iraq will withdraw from the Baghdad Pact which failed in its object of keeping Russia out of the Middle East. This would open the way for King SAUD whose country borders the federation in the south, to join and could be the deciding factor in the withdrawal.

★ ★ ★

Saudi Arabia has large oil revenues from sales to Western Europe and the king naturally would oppose the curtailing of that flow. He has reason to distrust NASSER because of an Egyptian inspired attempt to assassinate him last year. King SAUD, who opposes the Baghdad Pact, is well aware of NASSER's desire to destroy the three Arab kings and create an Arab federation run from Cairo.

Should Iraq withdraw from the Baghdad alliance leaving Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and Britain, the action could not be construed as hostile. It could be balanced by a a stronger Arab defense against Russia.

Iraq is an oil rich country in contrast to poverty stricken Jordan which, in the past, had been subsidized by Britain. The merger, bringing together 5 million people, could open fertile valleys in Iraq for settlement of Palestinian Arab refugees, many of whom, so far, prefer to live in miserable camps and be fed by the United Nations.

Investigation of FCC Should Be Thorough

The current probe of the Federal Communications Commission, which regulates radio and television and assigns channels, should provide information for the enactment of wise legislation to end careless or dishonest practices in such agencies.

While there may be many regulatory laws now on the books, from the evidence so far it would appear there is none to stop Commissioners from accepting gifts or loans of equipment needed in the performance of their duties.

FCC Commissioners decide who gets the right to use television channels and radio frequencies. Though these are owned by the Government, private concerns are granted licenses to use them. These licenses grow to be worth millions and any sale has to be approved by the FCC. Pressure on Commissioners is readily understandable.

Charges made before a House Subcommittee that five FCC members accepted expense money to a broadcasters' convention and for addressing it are serious. Even worse is the testimony that some Commissioners collected duplicate expense money from the Government.

★ ★ ★

Sensational statements by Dr. BERNARD SCHWARTZ both before and after his dismissal as chief counsel for the committee, should be given a thorough airing. The House subcommittee itself, now under the chairmanship of Rep. HARRIS, Arkansas Democrat, (the first chairman, Rep. MOULDER, Missouri Democrat, resigned in protest after Dr. SCHWARTZ' ouster) had so much friction that the need for a complete and thorough investigation is evident. The Senate is discussing an independent committee and the FBI has started looking into the mess.

★ ★ ★

Outside Offenders

They're in the Big Majority Violating Speed Laws

Egoist: A person who when he meets another egoist develops an I for an I conversation.

Outside drivers continue to make up most of the offenders on Oakland County's main highways. In a 20-mile drive on the 4-lane Dixie Highway within our county, northwest from Pontiac, the other day our speedometer was kept exactly on the prescribed figure in the various speed zones. Of course, a great majority of the cars were from our own county.

In that distance we were passed from behind by 53 cars, all exceeding the speed limit. Of these, 26 bore Genesee County licenses, 20 were from Wayne County, four were from other counties or outstate, and only three were from Oakland County.

This seems to give proof to the rather unique claim that most of us drive faster when we are away from home, and are not fully conversant with road conditions or speed restrictions. Do You?

Michigan has two Huron Rivers, the one that has its source in Oakland County's Big Lake in Springfield Township and drains a large area of our county, and the other in the Northern Peninsula.

David Lawrence Says:

Ike Stresses Value of Aid Funds

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has endeavored in his latest message to Congress to get away from the phrase "foreign aid" and to emphasize "mutual security" as the basis for an appropriation of $3,942,100,000 to help fight the "Cold War."

LAWRENCE

Lots of people have gotten the impression, largely from critics of the program, that the main purpose of the funds is a sort of "giveaway" to foreign countries. The President, in recommending essentially the same component parts as he did last year, spells out in greater detail the significance of the project in terms of American life.

LISTS CONSEQUENCES

Thus he outlines what could happen to the people of the United States in the event the "mutual security program" is not adopted. If the program were discontinued or "sharply" reduced, he says the consequences would be as follows:

"A severe dislocation and basic impairment of free world power.

"A certain crumbling, under Sino-Soviet pressures, of our strategic overseas position; and a forcing of these positions progressively back toward our own shores.

"A massive increase in our own defense budget, in amounts far exceeding mutual security appropriations, necessitating increases in taxes.

"A heavy increase in inductions of American youth into our own armed forces.

"And ultimately a beleaguered America, her freedoms limited by mounting defense costs, and almost alone in a world dominated by international communism."

Eisenhower does not mention the vast sums being spent by the Soviet Union, which is denying her own people essential things in order to win over the governments in vast territories where poverty-stricken peoples are anxious to get aid at almost any terms from the outside.

There are various estimates of what is being expended by the Communists, some of them running into sums far larger than anything the President recommended.

But there is a phase of self-interest other than defense and security to which the President draws attention as follows:

"We also have an economic interest in promoting the development of the free world. In the years to come, the increased economic strength of less developed countries should prove mutually beneficial in providing growing markets for exports, added opportunities for investment, and more of the basic materials we need from abroad."

In explaining the allocation of funds, the President points out that, in the "defense support" category which requires $835,000,000, about 70 per cent would be used in Korea, Formosa, Viet Nam and Turkey. These funds support the "front lines" of the United States in the Far East and in the Middle East, but there is also an item of $1,800,000,000 for "military assistance" which goes to allies and associated nations participating in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Baghdad Pact and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

There are, in addition, "special assistance" funds of $212,000,000 to handle contingencies in Libya and Morocco, where America has bases for the Strategic Air Command, and for health aids in Latin America.

Only $142,000,000 is earmarked for technical aid and special projects generally in various countries.

★ ★ ★

There is a special "contingency fund" of $200,000,000 for emergencies that cannot be foreseen but which "with the turbulent state of the world today," as the President expresses it, might require overnight action without waiting for Congress.

★ ★ ★

The big question now is whether partisan politics will ruin an essential program. For Eisenhower was really understating the consequences that might follow if the United States withdrew her support on the defense fronts of the world and let the Communists gain an easy victory in the "Cold War."

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

This is the day which the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it. — Psalms 118:24.

★ ★ ★

The green oasis, the little grassy meadow in the wilderness; where, after the weekday's journey, the pilgrim halts for refreshments and repose. — Charles Reade.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Bellows-Breathing Boosts Flow of Stagnant Blood

In the piece about bellows, belly, diaphragmatic or natural breathing, I mentioned benefits derived from regular practice of the B.B. exercise (as described in the pamphlet on BELLY BREATHING, available on request if you provide a stamped, self-addressed envelope).

DR. BRADY

But probably the most important effect one can get from six inflations three times, perhaps four times a day, is IMPROVEMENT IN THE CIRCULATION.

In fact the purpose of belly breathing is to prevent or relieve stagnation of blood in the veins, especially SPLANCHNIC STASIS —the medical term for idling of blood in the splanchnic pool, the vast network of veins in the abdomen.

In persons who get little exercise, as much as one-fourth of all the blood in the body may stagnate in the splanchnic pool. Belly breathing pumps some of this slacker blood back into circulation.

Few laymen have sufficiennt knowledge of anatomy to understand how each inflation "sucks" blood from the outer veins into the veins within the thorax; or how each inhalation presses or forces blood from the veins in the abdomen (splanchnic pool) along toward the heart; or how the "aspiratory action of the thorax" speeds the return flow of blood through the veins.

The freer, speedier return flow of blood through the veins of one who practices belly breathing faithfully night and morning, or perhaps three or four times daily, is a boon for (1) hemorrhoids (piles) or (2) varicose veins. Stagnation of blood in the veins is a factor in both conditions. Belly breathing pumps this stagnant blood back into circulation.

Each inflation tends to "suck" blood from the veins back toward the heart. At the same time the contraction of the tarpaulin - like diaphragm presses downward upon the contents of the abdomen, forcing blood in the network of veins in the abdomen on through the vena cava to the right side of the heart.

Most veins have valves which prevent or minimize backflow of blood during deflation (expiration). During inflation (inspiration) contraction of the tarpaulin-like diaphragm lowers pressure within the chest cavity, and thus "sucks" blood from the great veins on into the right aurical or atrium of the heart.

Well, now, this may be as clear as mud to the untutored, but I do hope readers will be sufficiently interested to have a go at belly breathing anyway.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Michigan Senator Outlines Ike's Ideas on Red Talks

In regards to your Feb. 5 editorial, as you know, the President has repeatedly stated that he is always ready to negotiate with the Soviet Union in the interest of peace but that a summit conference should be preceded by meetings of appropriate diplomats in order for the Soviet position to be clarified both as to subjects for discussion and the possibility of some hope of an agreement.

★ ★ ★

Negotiations undoubtedly will take place at such time as the Soviet Union demonstrates that its overtures are not merely self-serving propaganda.

★ ★ ★

I have been pleased to transmit your editorial to the President so he may know the sincere feelings of our people on this subject of such vital concern to all of us.

'Man Is Punished for Getting Mumps'

Can someone please straighten me out? Why is it a person with a family of eight is expected to exist on air when he's laid off, simply because he came down with mumps? My husband has been laid off since Dec. 4 and just recently contracted mumps. When he called about his compensation check, they told him as long as he had mumps he couldn't draw, but after he got up and around again, he could. Living on $55 a week is hard enough for this size family, let alone living on it for three weeks. Is he supposed to be punished for getting mumps?

'Here's Chance to Stop Cruelty'

The House has just voted overwhelmingly in favor of a humane slaughter bill which requires animals be rendered insensible before killing. The bill must pass the Senate before becoming law.

For nearly 30 years people have protested the barbaric cruelties existing in our slaughterhouses. Now we have a chance to eliminate them.

To assure passage, it is important that we all write our senators urging them to vote favorably for Bill S. 1497. Albert Schweitzer said: "When so much brutality prevails in our slaughterhouses . . . we all bear the guilt of it."

Answers Letter by 'Unworried'

Unworried, I am one of the worrieds with no bank account, who wants no strike. We have no new car or fine clothes. We do have a few things the Joneses have that we worked hard for one at a time. We also share with God, yet we have no savings for a rainy day.

You didn't mention children in your letter. They are wonderful gifts, but not free. Do you know what it costs to feed, clothe and care for one child, or how medical, dental and school expenses can add up in a year? I have four lovely children, all healthy. Their care is first, regardless of cost. Our income last year for six was $4,000. Could you, Unworried, build up a bank account on that? If so, let the worried ones like me know how.

But one child is worth more than any bank account in the world.

RETIREMENT PAYS

Retirement can pay you a savings on income tax. If you received compensation such as wages, or other amounts for personal services actually rendered, in each of any 10 prior calendar years, you may qualify for retirement credit. If your deceased husband (or wife) would qualify for this credit, you may claim the credit even though you did not meet the earnings test. You may qualify if under 65 years of age, your retirement income is only that income received from a pension or annuities uder a public retirement system and included in gross income, or, 65 years of age or over, your retirement income includes pensions, annuities, interest, gross rents, and dividends included in gross income.

If both spouses have retirement income, both could qualify and then each is entitled to the credit.

What do you think will thus do the most good for the most people for the longest period of time? Scrapbook this case for discussion.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case X-334: Nora N., aged 17, is a lovely high school senior.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I have been going steady with the most popular boy in our senior class.

DR. CRANE

"And we have had many good times. But in the last two months he has been different.

"It all started when he became friendly with a fellow who had just got out of the army.

"Anyway, my boy friend has begun to demand that I give myself to him. And when I refused, he told me I didn't love him.

★ ★ ★

"But I protested that I did, so he said I should prove it by letting him have his way.

"And he threatens to jilt me if I don't surrender to him tonight. Dr. Crane, what should I do? I don't want to lose him!"

HOW LAWS DEVELOP

Premarital sexual relations are wrong. And that is a fact that does not depend on an edict of your clergyman or your parents.

For morality is simply based on mathematics!

That which does the most good for the most people over the longest period of time, is automatically right.

And that yardstick has been used by the Christian churches, as well as by Moses, Hammurabi and other great lawgivers of antiquity.

Dissect Nora's problem analytically. Imagine that you are weighing all the pros and cons on the two pans of a scales.

What does she gain by giving in to her boy friend's sexual demands?

Well, she may buy his favor for 25 more dates between now and the end of the year, although even that is not 100 per cent certain, for he might turn to another girl.

But let's assume, for sake of argument, that she gains those 25 additional dates.

What price does she then pay for them? In short, what must she place on the other pan of the scales.

First, she loses her spunk or independence of spirit the moment she surrenders.

Even in ancient times this fact was noted, for the Bible itself says a girl is thus "humbled."

And her spunk is one of woman's greatest charms. In fact, when a girl does submit to her sweetheart's sexual demands, she often loses him thereafter to another girl who doesn't.

For men are intrigued by the spirited personality of a girl who is still a free agent and not "humbled."

PRICE OF FOLLY

Second, Nora may contract venereal diseases. There are two classical sexual maladies and a person can suffer from both of them simultaneously.

They are syphilis and gonorrhea. The first, even in this modern age of scientific medicine, is still a dreaded scourge which attacks heart and blood vessels, as well as the brain.

Gonorrhea also produces sterility and blindness, as well as crippling arthritis.

Third, Nora might get pregnant.

She thus would break the hearts of her doting parents who have slaved and sacrificed for 17 years just to see her happily married.

★ ★ ★

And if she does bear a baby out of wedlock, she will endure a lot of pain at letting it be adopted, or will handicap it the rest of its life by trying to keep it.

So what should any intelligent girl do in Nora's case? See tomorrow's follow-up. And discuss this problem in Sunday school.

PONY-TAILED PONY GAL — Although she's only 42 inches tall, five-year-old Shirley Ann Miller bends to whisper into the ear of a colt at summer pony sale in Harrisonville, Mo.

Find Profitable Hobby

Children Making Money Riding U. S. Pony Boom

HARRISONVILLE, Mo. (NEA) — Pony tails mean more than hairdos to lots of young girls over the country. They're a business end of a profitable hobby.

Riding the national pony boom along with millionaires are youngsters who are bypassing Mom and Pop's pocketbook for a bank loan to finance their own pony raising.

Many of the kids fingling with the great and near-great of the pony world at the sixth annual Heart of America summer pony sale here inspected Shetlands in rows of pint-sized stalls with an eye to business as well as pleasure.

"Children make more on ponies than any other animal," commented attractive Mrs. Clifford Adams, 41, of San Jose, Calif., whose husband was top buyer at the nation's first 4-H pony sale in Perry, Okla., last April. Some of the youths realized as much as $1,000 profit on a single pony at the sale.

Mrs. Adams, a Choctaw Indian who is an expert pony breeder, has noted a rising demand for ponies in suburban areas. In her city a pony is considered a pet and can be kept in the back yard —or even the garage.

Upkeep on a pony is low, she pointed out, and there's even a usable byproduct — "fertilizer to keep the flowers beautiful."

★ ★ ★

Among parents who have gotten into the pony raising act are Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Mela of Raytown, Mo., who said they "got the fever" to raise ponies as a hobby after buying two yearling colts four years ago for their son, Jimmy, now nine. The couple have sold two ponies and now have three including "Fashion Jewell Larigo," a registered mare.

From the bleachers during a sale in the Holder auction barn here, Clyde Smith of Ontario, Ore., who has acquired 200 ponies in 15 months, predicted a bright future for the spiraling pony business.

"You can feed 10 ponies on the amount of feed one cow would require," he explained. "And ponies are fun to have along with bringing high and even fantastic prices."

In the fantastic category is a national champion stallion, C-Jo's Topper, owned by C. C. Teague of Sherman, Tex., which is valued at $50,000.

★ ★ ★

Asa Hutchinson, an Ada, Okla., jeweler, started raising ponies as a hobby and now shuns his jewelry business to devote full time to ponies. A member of the national board of directors of the American Shetland Pony Club, Hutchinson paused in the auction barn to discuss the role of youth in the pony business.

"Many youths are earning their way through college by raising and selling Shetland colts," Hutchinson observed. He travels to many sales reading and explaining pedigrees of registered ponies to buyers.

"Most people have love for an animal and there's just more room for a pony — literally and figuratively — now," Hutchinson reflected.

"Look at all the little people here," Hutchinson continued with a sweep of an arm. "You wouldn't expect to see them at a livestock sale but at a sale of this kind—they belong."

One of those little people, Shirley Ann "Sammy" Miller, five was exclaiming over a pair of Shetland ponies just purchased by her father, Everett L. Miller, of Centerview Farm, Lenexa, Kan. Miller admitted he's getting the pony hobby fever so probably will keep Sammy's frisky gray stallion, "Wee Willie," along with the newcomers.

Miller paid under $400 for the new ponies. To his little daughter, the sum was a fabulous amount and the most impressive part of the transaction.

"Money—that's the only thing she doesn't understand about ponies yet," Miller reflected with a smile as Sammy adjusted the ribbon holding her stawberry blonde pony tail.

In the early days of the automobile, the closed cars or "sedans" were relatively rare because they were expensive to build and were high-priced.

Marries Navy Man Via Telephone Call

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Lora Cutrer has a new name and a $12 telephone bill today.

She is now Mrs. George R. Blakeman. The $12 is what it cost for her telephone marriage to the 31-year-old Navy machinist based at Adak, Alaska.

The 23-year-old Gulfport, Miss., bride was married in a proxy ceremony performed yesterday by City Clerk Byrd Sims. Her husband is from Red Rock, Ariz.

★ ★ ★

The 15-minute ceremony went off beautifully after an earlier attempt Tuesday night had failed because of poor circuits to Alaska.

The pretty, brown-haired bride came to Pensacola for the ceremony because Mississippi does not recognize proxy weddings.

Not Unusual 'Shift in Jet Stream'

Cause of Extreme Cold?

WASHINGTON (AP)—"A shift in the jet stream"—not really unusual—is the Weather Bureau's explanation of what's causing extreme cold over the Eastern two thirds of the country, while the Far West enjoys a relative warm spell.

There's no real hope for warm weather for much of the Eastern area for the next 30 days.

The jet stream over the United States is also known as "the prevailing westerlies"—the normally west-to-east wind currents of the upper air at about 10,000 to 40,000 feet. But it seems these winds have become northerlies, blowing north to south over the central part of the country.

★ ★ ★

About this time of year, cold arctic air builds up over Canada. Normally, this icy air would be pushed out to the Atlantic by the westerlies without too much trouble.

But now, there's a neat ridge on which the cold air can slide right down through the Plains states to Florida and the Gulf, bringing the freezing temperatures.

On the fringes of this cold air mass, low pressures or stormy areas develop such as the one that dumped huge amounts of snow along the Atlantic Coast last Friday through Monday.

While the arctic air has been sliding down the north-south air ridge, west of the Rockies warm air is being forced up from the south and southwest to fill in a trough there.

★ ★ ★

Usually this jet stream shift occurs a few times every winter. But it has been worse this year and of longer duration.

Says Men Reluctant to Teach Youngsters

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The teaching of young children is almost exclusively a woman's job because men think kindergarten and grammar school teaching is sissified, says a prominent educator.

Dr. James L. Hymes of the University of Maryland college of education told a recent meeting of nursery school teachers that many men would like to teach young children "but the feeling it's a sissy job, a waste of a man's brain keeps them from it."

Bill Would Require Safer Automobiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill designed to require the manufacture of safer automobiles has been introduced in Congress by Rep. Roberts (D-Ala).

★ ★ ★

The measure would prohibit manufacturers from shipping across state lines any auto not equipped with safety devices to be prescribed by the U.S. Bureau of Standards.

Roberts, chairman of a special House subcommittee on traffic safety, said in introducing the bill yesterday:

"There is especially a need for greater use of padding in the interior of the car in order to reduce head injuries for all persons."

★ ★ ★

The lawmaker said experiments have shown many injuries could have been prevented by "proper packaging of the passenger," particularly in interior areas most likely to come in contact with the head, neck and chest.

Roberts said there also was need for improved construction of seats, cushions, knobs and steering wheels and for an overhead structure of greater strength.

FEPC Successfully Solves 410 Claims

LANSING (AP) — The Fair Employment Practices Commission has successfully disposed of 410 of the 454 claims of discrimination in employment made to date, the commission was told yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Of the remainder, 31 are still under investigation and 13 are in conciliation, it was reported.

Successful meetings giving information on the workings of the commission were held in Pontiac and Port Huron during the past month, the commission was told. A similar meeting is planned for April in Jackson.

★ ★ ★

Other meetings scheduled include a luncheon for executives in Grand Rapids March 5, a trade union conference in Kalamazoo March 8 and a citywide management meeting in Muskegon in April.

Tax Break Voted for Nursing Homes

LANSING (AP) — If Gov. Williams agrees, Michigan's 500-plus privately operated nursing homes and homes for the aged will get a tax break.

By a 78-15 vote, the House yesterday okayed a Senate-approved bill to classify such homes as consumers rather than retailers in computing their sales tax.

The measure will cut in half the state's $135,000 yearly sales tax return from affected homes. However, Rep. James N. Folks (R-Horton) said state revenue officials claimed they could recover the lost revenue by assigning auditors now tied up with nursing home accounts to more lucrative fields.

Coal Costs $2 Billion

ROME — The highly industrialized countries of Europe, which recently formed the Euratom agreement — Italy, France, West Germany, and the Benelux nations — are importing 100,000,000 tons of coal a year at a cost of two billion dollars. And unless a new source of energy is developed in the Euratom countries, they will have to triple their coal imports by 1975.

No Nagging Backache Means a Good Night's Sleep

Nagging backache, headache, or muscular aches and pains may come on with over-exertion, emotional upsets or day to day stress and strain. And folks who eat and drink unwisely sometimes suffer mild bladder irritation... with that restless, uncomfortable feeling.

If you are miserable and worn out because of these discomforts, Doan's Pills often help by their pain relieving action, by their soothing effect to ease bladder irritation, and by their mild diuretic action through the kidneys—tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

So if nagging backache makes you feel dragged-out, miserable, with restless, sleepless nights, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. Ask for new, large, economy size and save money. Get Doan's Pills today!

Bob Considine Says:

Ike's Letter to Soviets: Put Up or Shut Up

NEW YORK (INS) — In his latest letter to the Kremlin the President has written down what must be a majority of the points he would raise vocally in any face-to-face meeting with Nikita Khrushchev.

Reading it, it is as if one was present again in Khrushchev's office, with Lenin staring down beadily from the wall, and we had just heard the President list where he stands. The pause before the reply is precisely as it is when the bright young interpreter at the end of the table swiftly takes shorthand notes, tensely transmuting the gutteral response into English.

Had he pounded the table, or put his hand on the shoulder of the thickest little boss of all the Russias, Eisenhower could hardly have been more eloquent or emphatic than when, in his letter, he wrote:

"Our two nations are both now exploring and seeking to learn the truth about outer space. But is it not more important to learn the truth about each other?"

The Eisenhower letter was to Premier Bulganin, but if there is a true summit meeting between the leaders it will be populated by Eisenhower and Khrushchev.

Dapper, sad-gray-eyed, goateed Nikolai Bulganin is what amounts to the Grover Whalen of the Kremlin hierarchy. Apparently, he has no political ambitions for himself and no taste for joining with any of the little factions which might conceivably oppose Khrushchev on minor points.

The miner's boy, Khrushchev, waddling, cocky, witty, rough-and-tumble survivor of 40 years of jungle warfare in the Communist Party is No. 1. The last big ones to question that ranking were Molotov, Malenkov and Zhukov. Where are they now?

Competent observers have known for a long time that a soft answer has the opposite effect on turning away Russian wrath. Eisenhower talked like a general in his letter. He said, in effect, put up or shut up — and don't bother writing again unless you've something concrete to say. In a dozen places he put the blame for the cold war at the feet of the Reds. And looking beyond our earth, he wrote, in connection with the use of space for only peaceful purposes:

"The world will have only the Soviet Union to blame (if space peace is imperiled) just as it has only the Soviet Union to blame for the fact that atomic and nuclear power are now used increasingly for weapons purposes instead of being dedicated wholly to peaceful uses as the United States proposed a decade ago."

The President was his open-handed self when he invited more Russians to come to the U. S. and see that this land is not populated with leaders and peoples recklessly determined to wage a preventive war against the U.S.S.R. He gave the invitation new scope.

"Would it not be well if leaders of thought and influential citizens come to visit the U. S. to learn at first hand the feeling of our people toward peace and the working of our popular institutions as they affect our conduct of foreign relations?

★ ★ ★

"Most of the Soviet citizens who exert an influence are strangers to this country with, I fear, totally false conceptions."

In Moscow, the following day, the censors passed a story stating that Khrushchev might visit the U. S., as he sometimes says he wants to. We can't see it going that far that quick.

He would feel, or be urged to feel, that it would not be safe. If great crowds picketed the Waldorf when Shostokovitch visited New York, how would the dictator himself be greeted? Even in mannerly England in '56 a tabloid front-paged him "The Butcher of the Ukraine," and he would not ride alone with Elizabeth II.

If any members of the hierarchy visit the U. S. in the foreseeable future they will be persons of the level of, let us say, Mikoyan, who, on his last trip, many years ago, took home a great U. S. secret, the plans for making ice cream.

Poachers in Scotland Use Poison on Salmon

EDINBURGH — Hundreds of men now poaching salmon for a living create a menace that has been growing ever since the war along the rivers of Scotland, Edinburgh reports. The poachers, operating in the dead of night, have taken to using poison to increase their catches, the authorities say, and the campaign against them is being stepped up.

Early in the year poachers can get $1.40 a pound for the salmon they steal. One, who has several times been caught, has earned as much as $170 a week. Authorities are trying a rocket system: When a poacher is caught a warning is given to police 18 miles away that poaching is going on.

Dangerous Work Doesn't Draw Many

NORTH BORNEO — One of the world's most death-defying jobs is being threatened by a lack of agile daring young men as volunteers, Sandakan learns. This is "harvesting" edible nests from the precipitous walls of the great limestone caves of North Borneo.

The nests are built by species of cave - haunting swifts which glue them hundreds of feet high on the walls. Thousands of the nests — a rare delicacy in the Far East — are built annually, formed from a glutinous substance produced from the birds' slivary glands.

★ ★ ★

The right to collect nests is vested in a few native families, but despite good money the post-war generation prefers safer jobs on the ground.

Harvesters must perch on flimsy laddens 400 to 500 feet above ground hooking down nests with four-pronged spears, as they sway dizzily in midair.

The great docks in Seattle, Wash., can handle 120 ocean going vessels at one time.

Lake Michigan is the only one of the five Great lakes which lies wholly within the borders of the United States. Its surface is about 21 feet below that of Lake Superior.

Don't Take It for Granted!

Electronic Brains to Ease Problems at World's Fair

BRUSSELS (INS) — Electronic "brains" will find lodgings and parking space for visitors to this year's Brussels' World's Fair.

Intricate push-button machinery will seek out instantly all available vacant space in the thousands of various types of accommodation that will be offered in and around the Belgian capital when the Fair opens April 17.

★ ★ ★

Fair officials are confident this will enable them to direct a tourist to a suitable lodging within three minutes after he has filled out his application at a "Logexpo" billeting office.

The task will be enormous.

Estimates place at 175,0000 persons the average number of daily visitors to the Fair, with peak attendance rising to 700,000 daily.

Experience has shown that this means 20,000 beds will be required in Brussels on normal days, with up to 50,000 needed when the visitors' flood reaches high tide.

The accommodations will be provided in hotels, motels, private homes, youth hostels and other institutions, as well as in a tent and trailer village.

Prices will range from 685 francs (About $14) per person a day in a luxury hotel to 35 francs (about 70 cents) in a tent with a camp bed.

★ ★ ★

Electronic controls also are being set up to guide Fair motor traffic to vacant parking lots.

Space has been set aside close to the fairgrounds to accommodate up to 24,100 automobiles, 1,000 busses, 3,500 motor-scooters and 7,500 bicycles at a time.

Lighted panels will direct incoming traffic to parking lots where vacant space is available. There will be five areas to park motorcars.

This will be the first time that accommodation and parking space will be allotted electronically at a World's Fair.

When it opens, the 1958 Brussels Universal Exhibition will resume a century-old tradition of world fairs that had been interrupted since the New York fair in 1939.

It was in London in 1851 that the first world exhibition was held. It attracted six million visitors to the Crystal Palace that was built to house it.

The British pavilion at this year's Brussels fair will recall this history. Its main structure will consist of 70-foot high crystal shaped spires.

★ ★ ★

The boldest and most advanced in design will be the French pavilion. It will be a glass house resting on a unique base in the form of a crystal.

Forty-two states ranging from the U. S. to the tiny Vatican are taking part in the Brussels Fair.

Historical Lore of Mexico Makes Nation Paradise for Hunters of Treasure

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Buried treasure. Gold, silver, emeralds, jade, pearls, forgotten mines, pieces-of-eight, doubloons, ancient coins.

Mexico has them all, well hidden but waiting some smart—or lucky—adventurer willing to gamble.

FORTUNES GREAT

Mexico's very past makes it a natural breeding ground for lost treasures:

The Aztecs and Mayans with fantastic fortunes accumulated before America was discovered; the Spanish conquistadors who looted and sometimes lost their loot; the galleons with cargoes of gold, silver and jewels sailing for home but sinking off the country's treachero[illegible] coastline.

Later, the hectic says of the Revolution when the wealthy hid their fortunes and died before telling kin where to find them; the bandit era during which even Pancho Villa is believed to have buried fortunes.

And throughout these centuries, men found rich mines, jealously guarded their locations—and died or disappeared. The mines are still there.

TREASURES LISTED

The magazine "Mexico This Month" recently devoted almost an entire issue to lost treasures. Here are just a few:

MOCTEZUMA'S LOST TREASURE—Axayacatl, father of the last Aztec emperor, accumulated the fantastic hoard. Moctezuma sealed it up in his palace. When the Spaniards invaded Mexico and took the Aztec capital, they found the treasure, stole much of it.

Fleeing before frantic aztecs, the Spanish soldiers lugged all they could carry. But many were so greedy their loads were more than they could handle, and they drowned in the surrounding canals. The Aztecs recovered much of it, buried it. This hoard, and more of the Aztec treasures never discovered, is still there. Somewhere.

Some say in the Valley of Toluca.

★ ★ ★

QUETZALCOATL'S FORTUNE—This dates back into legendary days before Moctezuma. Quetzalcoatl was an Aztec God whose wealth could not be estimated. It was buried in a place described as Atecpanamochco, to this day a mystery. But it is thought to be near Tula.

★ ★ ★

THE CONDOY TRIBAL TREASURE—The powerful chief Condoy buried his tribe's fortune in a cave during a major battle with the Zapotecs. He lost, the treasure was lost, too. It is in Oaxaca, somewhere in the mountains known as Zempoaltepeque.

★ ★ ★

THE SACRED WELL OF CHICHEN ITZA—To appease the Rain God, the Mayans hurled human sacrifices carrying valuable ornaments and jewelry into a deep sacred well. Some of this treasure has been found, and is in the Peabody Museum of Harvard University. Much remains undiscovered.

Treasure is believed to exist near all the old ruins—and many ruins have not even been found in Mexico's jungles and isiated mountain areas.

But not all of the nation's hidden wealth dates back to archaeological or conquest days.

Pirate chests exist, and many have been found. During the Revolution, wealthy men buried their possessions, dropped them in wells, or sealed them in the thick walls of their haciendas.

More definite, and easier to find but harder to recover, are the treasures that went down to the sea in ships—and then sank.

Tunisian-French Rift Widens

Arab Nation Charges Kidnaping of Official, Soldiers at Remada

lations took another turn for the worse today. The Tunisian government charged French soldiers invaded a government building in southern Tunisia and kidnaped a Tunisian official and two soldiers.

The French government said the Tunisians were only sought out for questioning after the blowing up of a French military jeep by a land mine. The French Embassy added that the Tunisians were released this morning and it considered the incident closed. Two French soldiers were reported injured in the jeep explosion.

★ ★ ★

The incident occurred yesterday at Remada, a town of about 400 in southern Tunisia, where a small French post is located. It came as the Tunisians and the French appeared to be backing away from the crisis caused by the French bombing of a border town. Both nations have agreed to let the United States and Britain use their "good offices" in an effort to smooth relations between France and her former North African protectorate.

★ ★ ★

The Tunisian Foreign Ministry termed the Remada incident "extremely serious." It charged in a communique that the French troops — officially restricted to their bases throughout Tunisia since the air attack on Sakiet Sidi Youssef—invaded the local administrative buildings and carried off the local governor and two soldiers.

Mexicans long have eaten dahlia roots because of their starchy content. Dahlias are a tuberous rooted herb which blossoms into a lovely flower.

Oxen Plod Through Ban on Hoof-Mouth Area

VEREENIGING, South Africa — A costly oversight may have occurred in an infected hoof-and-mouth disease area in South Africa.

A native applied for a permit to take an ox to the nearest abbatoir to be slaughtered. The beef was for a wedding.

The applicant got the permit subject to the usual condition that the animal would not be driven on foot—the thought being that it would be taken by motor vehicle.

The native loaded the animal on a water cart and after the killing he loaded the meat on the cart. But one glaring irregularity had escaped everybody. The water cart had been drawn by two oxen on foot.

Natural gas is often less poisonous than manufactured gas, according to recent tests. The manufactured gas often contains carbon monoxide.

Tobacco Auctioneer Now Chants Ballads

PARIS, Ky. (AP) — James W. Thompson, a tobacco auctioneer for 35 years, has a new chant.

He's just recorded two ballads for a Cincinnati record firm.

Thompson, who has a range of one-half an octave, first records his songs on a tape recorder at home, then sends the tape to Skeets Brannon in Lexington. Brannon writes the notes for the sheet music and returns it to Thompson, who again records the song on tape.

His accompanist on the piano usually is Police Judge Thomas Johnston.

The songs recorded by Thompson are "Popoh House" and "Headin' Home."

Halley's comet on its most recent visit was under observation by American astronomers for approximately two years, beginning in September, 1909 and ending in July, 1911.

Sees Prejudice Damaging U.S.

Back From California, Nixon Reports Nation Needs One Philosophy

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Vice President Nixon says the nation "cannot afford the cost of prejudice and job discrimination."

He discussed the subject during yesterday's meeting of the President's Committee on Government Contracts, of which he is chairman.

★ ★ ★

Concluding a five-day southern California visit, the vice president and Mrs. Nixon left aboard a military plane for Washington.

Nixon said that nothing is "more damaging to the United States abroad than for us to practice one philosophy at home and preach another when we go abroad."

★ ★ ★

The committee was formed to work for elimination of racial and religious discrimination in hiring for work done under government contracts. The committee held several sessions here and announced it is opening a regional office in Los Angeles.

Nixon said southern California has a good record in the field of racial and religious relations, but added that "we want to make it better."

"Too often," he said, "we southern Californians assume prejudice and job discrimination exist only in other parts of the country."

Secretary of Labor Mitchell, speaking at the same meeting, said the committee has made substantial progress but "must recognize that we cannot change patterns of human action overnight by government edict." Mitchell also is a committee member.

Dancing Tunes Played at Joe Frisco Funeral

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— "Darktown Strutters' Ball" and "Beautiful Baby" were played at the funeral of stuttering comedian Joe Frisco.

★ ★ ★

These were some of the songs he danced to during a career that took him from bootblack and bus boy to vaudeville fame, Broadway and Hollywood.

Frisco, 68, died Sunday after a long illness.

The 250 mourners included Pat O'Brien, Wallace Ford, Jack Pepper, Julius Tennen, Walter Catlett, Alan Mowbray and Cecil Kellaway.

Returns $10,750; Judge to Decide Proper Reward

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—How much reward should a man get for finding $10,750 in cash and returning it to its owner?

Superior Judge Jay L. Henry expects to answer that question for Everett D. Nibbelink on Feb. 28.

Nibbelink, operator of a safe company, purchased an old safe for $80 from the estate of the late Peter J. Huth, wealthy rancher.

★ ★ ★

In it, he found $10,750 in currency. He turned it over to Thomas E. Marchand, executor.

Marchand asked the judge to decide the amount of Nibbelink's "reasonable reward," as authorized by state law.

Denies Slaying Japanese Girl

Detroit GI Being Tried Says He Didn't Commit Nov. 17 Murder

YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP)— GI Gregory J. Kupski of Detroit today denied slaying a Japanese girl after viewing the scene of the crime during his Japanese court trial for murder.

★ ★ ★

Prosecutor Toshio Aoyama pointed to the chalked outline of a human form in a narrow alley and asked the 23-year-old Army specialist, "Do you have any knowledge that on the morning of Nov. 17 the corpse of a woman was lying here?"

"No," replied Kupski. Standing by him was his pretty black-clad Japanese wife Utako, 21.

★ ★ ★

"All I can say is that I didn't kill the girl," Kupski told newsmen later. He is charged with murdering Kazue Eikawa, 25-year-old wife of a U.S. Navy man now in the United States. Her nude body was found strangled with her own brassiere, her panties stuffed in her mouth.

★ ★ ★

U.S. Army officials said last November Kupski had confessed slaying the woman. Japanese prosecutors said he made a similar confession to police and the investigating prosecutor. The GI pleaded innocent when his trial opened Feb. 7.

Russia Holding Czechs Fast

Little Likelihood of Open Resistance, Say Those Who Have Fled

PARIS (INS) — Communist control appears more secure in Czechoslovakia than in any other Soviet satellite.

This realization has come as a shock to Western diplomats and others who once thought the Czechs would be the most difficult for the Reds to tame.

But now French and other Western diplomats say that the Czechs are the least likely of all the satellite peoples to cause trouble for their Red rulers.

And even the claims of Czech emigre leaders are modest.

The emigres say there is little likelihood of open resistance, even of a passive variety. And they add that Communist police and army control is so strong in the country of 13,000,000 that they hope nobody does try anything foolish.

★ ★ ★

The only apparent problem is absenteeism from factories. Czeck newspapers complain about it. But a French diplomat who said absenteeism is "endemic" in communist countries said his information is that the problem is not too serious for the Czechs. And an emigre leader said the problem is about two years old and there is no evidence of any increase.

There are several reasons for the firmness of the Red hold on the Czechs, once known as the most "western" and freedom loving of all the Middle European peoples.

Most important, perhaps, is that the Czechs are more prosperous than any other communist people. It is said that even the Russians envy them.

French diplomatic reports say there is an industrial boom and a manpower shortage. Emigre leaders say letters from Czechoslovakia report the regime is trying to make things easier for the people and food has become more plentiful, but is still reported as not enough.

Scotsmen Wage War on 'Nuisance Birds'

EDINBURGH—Scotland is campaigning to persuade more hunters to war on predator birds, which are seriously threatening crops.

The Government has set up a plan to pay half the cost of ammunition for the shooting of "nuisance birds," described as wood pigeons, geese, and rooks. There is a law forbidding the use of poison of any kind in the field, and, despite an open season on most game birds, flocks continue to increase each year.

Sweetheart's Flight Upsets Soldiers' Wives

LONDON — British Army headquarters in Singapore were flooded with protests because the Army flew 18-year-old Janet Jennings out from England to wed her soldier sweetheart in Malaya.

★ ★ ★

The protests came from servicemen's wives who have not had Janet's good fortune. They were angry, lonesome or embittered wives who wondered why women with children didn't get travel priority over fiancees.

★ ★ ★

Some have had to bring up children alone, on shoestring allowances, or live unhappily in hotels, their marriages nearly broken by long separations.

★ ★

Janet and Corporal Roy Tyrrell had been waiting 18 months to be wed, but the wives had been waiting longer than that to see their overseas husbands, they said. "Maybe the Army has a heart," one said, "but shouldn't it apply it more intelligently?" The Army said it was "giving consideration" to complaints.

Mexican Railroad's Condition Improved

GUADALAJARA, Mexico—Northwestern Mexico now is beginning to reap the benefits of a three-year $82,000,000 rehabilitation program for its railroad, Ferrocarril del Pacifico of Mexico, Guadalajara reports.

Transformation from the state of near abandonment which existed when the road was acquired by the Mexican Government six years ago has been completed in 1½ years less than the time originally estimated. The 1,095 miles of track connecting Nogales and Guadalajara have been replaced with new 100-pound rails of Canadian origin and 63 diesel-electric locomotives and 1,394 new freight cars have replaced old equipment.

The railroad serves about 20 per cent of Mexican territory including part of Lower California, Sonora and Sinaloa, and parts of Jalisco, Chihuahua and Durango.

U.N. Figures Indicate Inflation Now Mounting

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — A roundup of figures compiled by the United Nations indicates inflation is mounting throughout the world.

Since the start of 1956, for example, living costs have risen 2 per cent each in Germany and Switzerland, 3 per cent in Canada, and 4 per cent each in Belgium, the Netherlands, Great Britain,

Serves U. S. Personnel in Asia

Embassy Has Odd Airline

BANGKOK (INS) — 'Embassy Run" is a magical term in Southeast Asia.

For American diplomatic and military personnel in numerous countries in the long tropical stretch under the bulge of Red China it is the one sure link with civilization.

The "embassy run" is courtesy of the U.S. Navy. It is the single airline flown by the Military Transport Service to countries ranging from the Philippines to Saudia Arabia.

It is the only means by which needed supplies, household furnishings, special mail and travellers on order can reach these tropical countries without great outlays of money for commercial facilities.

Once a week, every week, great Super Constellation R7V's make the long trek all the way west from Travis Air Force Base in California clear across to Dhahran, Saudia Arabia. And once a week they return.

★ ★ ★

Cmdr. Fred H. Gage, Jr., of Pensacola, Fla., aircraft commander who makes these flights occasionally, explained:

"The primary purpose is to provide a communications link between Dhahran and Clark Field (in the Philippines.)"

★ ★ ★

The "embassy run" meets similar MATS planes at Dhahran coming around the world the other way, originating in Charleston, S. C.

An average flight of the "embassy run" totals 105 hours in the air. Commander Gage said. This includes scheduled stops at Hickham Field in Hawaii, Wake Island, Tokyo, Clark Field, Saigon, Bangkok, Calcutta, New Delhi, Karachi, and finally Dhahran.

A flight originates at Travis Air Base every Monday, and a return flight is begun from the U. S. air force base at Dhahran every Monday—the two huge planes crossing paths in opposite directions about mid-way.

Up to Clark Field the "embassy run" flight compete with several other military flights in all directions. But from Clark Field on, the MATS flight is all alone.

★ ★ ★

Gage explained that four pilots and 10 crew members are normally carried aboard, giving the men opportunities to take turns flying or resting.

Aviation Machinist Mate third class Robert E. Anderson, 24, of Almena, Wisc., who has just made his first trip, said he liked the flight, explaining:

"It's a pretty steady grind, but all in all it is very interesting. What work we do on the trip pays for itself by what we see. It is a very good experience, learning how other people live by actually seeing firsthand."

Texan Ends Argument by Eating 31 Quail

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—For 10 years Byron Lockhart and Dr. J. Gordon Bryson argued over the legend quail are so rich you'd kill yourself in 30 days if you ate one a day.

★ ★ ★

Lockhart, 40-year-old Austin attorney, ate his 31st quail in 31 days yesterday. He had them broiled, for breakfast.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Robert Morrison, medical adviser to the committee of cronies who sat on the sidelines of the demonstration, examined Lockhart and announced: "He's no worse shape than when he started."

He'd gained six pounds, however.

Mom Returning to Australia—Without 2 Girls

OROVILLE, Calif. (AP) — War bride Florence Doering will be returning to Australia soon but without her two daughters.

In a pretrial hearing yesterday the 36-year-old Australian agreed to give her American husband a divorce and grant him custody of the couple's children.

She got permission to visit the girls, Carole, 13, and Lorraine Kay, 5, duing summer school vacations. John Doering, the husband, was directed to pay for her round-trip ticket every other year until the children reach 18.

The agreement granting Doering, 45-year-old contractor, a divorce on grounds of cruelty came just six days before the case was scheduled to come to trial. It appeared to end the Doerings' contest.

★ ★ ★

They were married in Australia in 1943 while he was stationed in Brisbane with the U.S. Army. After the war they moved to the United States.

On her third visit home with the children two years ago, Mrs. Doering decided to stay. Her husband followed her a year later and spirited the children back to the United States.

★ ★ ★

An Australian court had awarded Mrs. Doering custody of the oldest daughter and her husband custody of Lorraine Kay, but the order was not enforceable here.

Top-Level Talks Fail to Solve Sudan-Egypt Dispute in Cairo

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)—Egypt's dispute with Sudan over two border areas was headed for the U.N. Security Council today after top-level talks in Cairo broke down.

Foreign Minister Mohamed Mahgoub reported from Cairo that negotiations with Egyptian President Nasser had been fruitless. The Sudanese Cabinet decided to appeal to the Council

Egypt claims all territory north of the 22nd Parallel and would yield a small area south of the line.

One portion of the disputed territory sought by Nasser is a 6,000-square-mile desert triangle along the Red Sea. It has been run by Sudan to unify administration over the 10,000 wandering tribesmen in the area who move back and forth across the parallel.

The other is a finger extending north from the parallel along the Nile Valley for about 25 miles.

The Egyptians claim that the people in the disputed areas have a right to vote in tomorrow's plebiscite to approve the new United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria and to elect Nasser as its president.

Sudan holds parliamentary elections a week later. For either nation to permit the territories to vote in the other's election might effect its claim to them.

★ ★ ★

The dispute broke into the open Monday when troops were reported moving into the areas from both sides. Sudan and Egypt denied the troop movements, although Egypt admitted sending in policemen to protect polling places.

An Egyptian source said the plebiscite would be held tomorrow in the two areas as planned. He discounted the possibility of violence.

About one-half of all farm work done in the U.S. is still done by hand.

Many Trade Stamps

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.— Trading stamps were issued for about 35 billion dollars' worth of retail sales during 1956, with about 20 per cent of the nation's retail sales being made by retailers using the stamps. At least 50 per cent of the nation's families are saving trading stamps, according to a survey by the marketing department of Indiana University's School of Business.

THE HUB'S Washington's Birthday Hatchet Days

If this is your first Hatchet Days at The Hub, there are a few things that you ought to know. First! Be good natured. There will be a crowd and you may not get the service you are accustomed to. Second! Remember, these are odds and ends, broken lots, left-overs, soiled items and some just plain "buyers' mistakes." Some of the lots are small and will sell out immediately. Whatever is here WAS once considered good. Whatever it is worth now is something different. No one will be admitted until 9:30 A. M. Everything advertised will be marked and ready when the doors open. It's kind of like a big good natured treasure hunt. Lots of fun and people seem to enjoy it. Good luck and may the best man (or woman) win.

New Emphasis in Psychiatry

Probe Why Sane People Stay Sane

PARIS (INS) — How do people stay sane? Why isn't everyone mentally ill? Could it be the healing power of love?

More and more, psychoanalysts are asking themselves these questions.

NEW EMPHASIS

"And this represents a new emphasis in psychology and psychiatry," said Dr. Frederick J. Hacker, of Los Angeles. "A generation ago, analysts concerned themselves primarily with techniques of curing the mentally sick. They paid little attention to the healthy. Now, though, we want to know more about the nature of mental health.

"This is part of general trend away from interest primarily in the sick side of things," he continued.

"Earlier, we studied most thoroughly why people break down, why they develop inhibitions and other symptoms, why they hate and feel hated.

"Now, we're increasingly interested in how people stay well, how any of us remain sane. We want to learn more about how each of us can relate himself lovingly to his environment and to himself."

Dr. Hacker is one of 750 analysts from 25 nations who assembled in Paris recently for the 20th International Congress of Psychoanalysis. This autumn he will alma mater, the University of return — for eight days — to his Vienna. There, he will occupy the same academic position held by Freud many years ago.

Dr. Hacker is at home on both sides of the Atlantic. A student also at Columbia University and the famed Menninger Clinic in Topeka, Kan., he has for the past 12 years headed the Hacker Clinic in Beverly Hills, Calif. Besides treating many film stars, the clinic provides free mental-health care to 20 per cent of its patients.

He feels that psychiatric studies are more advanced in the United States than anywhere else.

"Many Europeans," he said "still won't admit that mental illness exists in their part of the world. They point to the speed of American life and to its large numbers of mentally ill. In doing so, they overestimate their own mental-health situation.

"The big fact behind the high American mental-illness figures is that in the U. S. more mental illnesses are recognized as such. Often they exist unrecognized in Europe."

★ ★ ★

But Dr. Hacker thinks that Americans might learn something from Europeans about accepting some facts of life—particularly, death.

"Americans," he said "must learn that by admitting the existence of suffering and death they are not resigning themselves to inactivity.

Request Halt in Integration

Leaders of Little Rock Want Stay in Federal Court Order

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A group of business and civic leaders yesterday asked the Little Rock school board to seek a stay in a federal court's order for integration of Central High School.

★ ★ ★

If such a stay is granted, it apparently would mean withdrawal of eight Negro pupils now attending the big school which has been the center of an integration dispute since last September.

The 24-man committee of citizens did not indicate whether it wanted the stay to be temporary or permanent.

Specifically, the group asked the school board to petition U.S. District Court "for a stay of compliance with the adopted schedule of integration."

★ ★ ★

In a letter to the board, the committee said that "in the light of our experiences of the past several months," the school board's plan of gradual integration at Little Rock should have further court review.

★ ★ ★

This obviously referred to a series of clashes between white and Negro students at Central High. Several white students have been suspended. Minniejean Brown, one of the nine Negroes who started attending Central High Sept. 25 under federal troop protection, has been expelled for the rest of this semester.

★ ★ ★

Gov. Orval Faubus, informed of the group's letter, said its contents sounded "pretty much in conformity with what I have urged in the past. I think it is a very good statement."

School Supt. Virgil Blossom said he saw nothing wrong with the group's suggestion for going back into federal court. Wayne Upton, president of the school board, declined comment.

Israel Claims Soldier Killed in Border Clash

JERUSALEM (AP) — One Israeli soldier was killed in a clash yesterday on the Jordanian border, the army said. His body was recovered today.

The army charged three Jordanian outposts opened fire on an Israeli patrol on routine inspection well within Israeli territory near Mt. Gilboa. The patrol returned the fire in a 90-minute battle.

New Europe to S. Africa Flight Opens

COPENHAGEN — "Globtrotter" tourist-class service between Europe and South Africa now is being operated for the first time with direct connecting flights from the United States, Copenhagen reports. Flights are by the Scandinavian Airlines System. They are operated with 300-mile-an-hour DC-6Bs.

Each airliner carries 45 passengers, 25 in tourist configuration and 20 in sleepers and first-class dormette seats.

Starting shortly, the route will be flown by Scandinavia's new 350-mile-an-hour Global Express DC-7s. Once-a-week flights leave Copenhagen on Thursdays and Johannesburg on Saturdays.

Scandinavian Airlines System has operated an all first class Royal Viking service between Europe and South Africa since January, 1953.

Ride in Police Car Short, Not Sweet

CHICAGO (AP)—Three men took a short, hectic—and probably costly—ride in a police car today, without a policeman.

★ ★ ★

Policemen Raymond Latimer and Wendell Jones said the three men drove away in the car as they were nearby checking a complaint.

The policemen fired at the car. Another police car arrived at the scene and started after the three men. The chase ended quickly as the stolen car crashed into a light pole. It was demolished. The passengers were not injured.

★ ★ ★

The three men, William Cherry, 27, William Gammel, 35, and his brother Claude, 33, were held for arraignment in Stolen Auto Court.

Charles Mendl Wills $500,000 to Friends

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sir Charles Mendl's will leaves $500,000 worth of property to friends and relatives.

★ ★ ★

He died Feb. 14 in Paris at age 86. His will was filed for probate here because he considered himself a California resident. It sets up a $100,000 trust fund for his stepdaughter, Baroness Lydwine de Heeckeren, payable to her 21 years hence.

★ ★ ★

Sir Charles' first wife, Lady Elsie de Wolfe Mendl, died in 1950; his second, Baroness Yvonne Steinbach, in 1956.

Ground 200 SAC Bombers for Lack of Trained Men

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
INS Correspondent

WASHINGTON (INS) — Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) stated that 200 B47 medium jet bombers worth approximately half a billion dollars are currently grounded for lack of crew and servicing personnel.

★ ★ ★

The high ranking member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said he has discovered that the Strategic Air Command is in "a very deplorable state."

He said he understands that 20 per cent of all B47 take-offs "abort" on the field or immediately after becoming air-borne, as a result of inadequate ground servicing.

"The value of keeping our Strategic Air Command up to date cannot be over-estimated," Mansfield said, "because it is not only our major deterrent to war, but also our actual keeper of the peace."

Mansfield urged that special status be given officers and men of the Strategic Air Command, and their pay increased to a level commensurate with the "extra-ordinary difficulties of their job."

Such a move, Mansfield explained, would reduce the temptation for airmen to take higher paying civilian jobs at the end of their three year hitch.

The senator said a private survey discloses that an "appalling" turnover in SAC personnel has cost the taxpayers 500 million dollars in lost training costs during the past 18 months.

Revealing that the turnover of incoming young officers flying B-47s has now reached 40 per cent, he said most of the pilots still on the job are in their late 30s or early 40s.

"It is safe to assume," Mansfield warned grimly, "that the age limit beyond which a man cannot fly jet bembers is 40 to 45. In other words, our professionals will soon be grounded without younger men to replace them, unless prompt action is taken to raise the pay of SAC personnel."

Stressing that the B47s will be our strongest defense weapon for some time to come, he declared: "The cost of training pilots for the B47 is in excess of $300,000 dollars each. As a consequence, it is madness for us to make the service so unattractive that we lose these valuable airmen at the end of their hitch."

Mansfield said SAC is such "hard duty" that after the three-year enlistment period, the expensively trained young men turn in their uniforms for civilian jobs paying four to six times as much as their military service.

"It approaches a national calamity," he stressed, "when a man trained at a public cost of several hundred-thousand dollars can earn five times as much salary even as a television repairman in civilian life.

Mansfield said he has determined to throw his full support behind the Cordiner Report which would pay military officers and men according to their value and the national need, rather than for longevity of service.

"Otherwise," he insisted, "we are throwing the taxpayers' money down the drain and endangering our national security."

Misconduct Charged to Officer in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold has filed formal charges of grave misconduct against Povl Bang-Jensen for refusing to surrender a secret list of Hungarian revolt witnesses.

The charges were filed with a three-member U.N. disciplinary committee after Bang-Jensen, a U.N. political affairs officer from Denmark, asked whether he still had a job. If upheld, the charges could bring Bang-Jensen's censure, demotion or dismissal. He has two weeks to reply to them.

Bang-Jensen has been under suspension with pay since Dec. 4 for refusing to turn over to Hammarskjold a secret list of 81 Hungarian refugees who testified before the U.N. committee investigating the Soviet suppression of the 1956 Hungarian revolt. He said he feared the Communists would get hold of the names.

★ ★ ★

Bang-Jensen accepted the recommendation of a special investigating committee that he burn the list in front of a U.N. secretariat witness. Hammarskjold agreed with another committee finding that the Danish diplomat was irresponsible in his handling of the list and had exceeded his authority in withholding it.

Junior Bride's Parents Placed on Probation

ROLLA, Mo. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ellwood have been put on probation for letting their 12-year-old daughter marry James Harris, an old-age pensioner who is 67.

Harris and Patsy Ellwood were wed Jan. 8. The marriage was annulled subsequently. Patsy was made a ward of the state and placed in a foster home. Harris was sentenced to six months in jail for conspiring to falsify her age on the marriage license, which said she was 18.

Patsy's parents pleaded guilty to charges of falsifying her age and were sentenced to six months in jail but the sentence was suspended and they were put on probation for a year.

New York Harbor Ice Delays Ship's Docking

NEW YORK (AP) — Ice in New York Harbor yesterday delayed the docking of a Navy ship back from the antarctic. The craft had to wait for overworked tugs—far behind schedule because of harbor floes.

France to Reinforce Troops in Algeria

PARIS (AP) — France is sending 50,000 more troops to Algeria to fight the rebellion the French government periodically annouces is on the wane.

★ ★ ★

The French Cabinet yesterday approved the reinforcements for the 480,000 army, navy and air force men already in the North African territory.

★ ★ ★

The new troops will go to eastern Algeria, the weakest French position because of rebel infiltration across the Tunisian border.

★ ★ ★

The Defense Ministry today denied speculation that the new troops would be withdrawn from French NATO forces in West Germany.

Dry Tomato Juice Seen

WASHINGTON — A continuous vacuum-drying process developed by the Agriculture Department may make production of powdered tomato juice possible soon.

Parties Wary Over Economy

Both Retreat on Issue of Date for Upturn in Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and Republicans appeared to be retreating in opposite directions today on the politically potent issue of when a business upturn will occur.

An administration spokesman described as a "mistaken impression" the general interpretation that President Eisenhower, in a statement last week, predicted a business upturn in March.

Meanwhile, congressional Democrats got some private estimates that "real" unemployment may be considerably less than the government's 4½ million figure—perhaps less than half that, with the remainder merely changing jobs or otherwise temporarily out of work. The advice was based on reports from Leon Keyserling, former Truman economic adviser.

Some party leaders were cautioning colleagues not to get out on a political limb with too much talk about a slump that might be offset rather quickly by increased government spending.

Dr. Gabriel Hauge, special White House assistant for economic affairs, told a meeting of state broadcasting association presidents that Eisenhower's statement of last Wednesday had been "misread by some people."

At that time, Eisenhower said: "Every indication is that March will commence to see the start of a pickup in job opportunities. That should mark the beginning of the end of the downturn in our economy..."

Glass Furnaces Huge

BOSTON—Glassmaking furnaces in the United States have a total capacity of more than 6,000,000 tons — more than 10 times the weight of all the buildings in New York City's Rockefeller Center.

Bodies of 16 Recovered

Taken Off Mt. Vesuvius

NAPLES, Italy (AP)— Stretcher teams today began carrying down the bodies of 16 U.S. servicemen killed when an Air Force transport slammed into the side of Mt. Vesuvius.

Battling ice-coated lava topped with more than foot of snow, the stretcher-bearers brought the bodies to a little column of cars that waited by the roadside two miles from the crash site.

The burned and scattered wreckage of the twin-engine C47 was spotted only a few hundred feet from the top of the 3,891-foot volcano. There were no survivors.

The plane had taken off in bad weather from Naples Saturday night en route from its home base in Germany to Istanbul.

U.S. servicemen and Italian carabinieri and soldiers fought up the volcano's slope through fog, sleet and high winds for four hours to reach the wreckage.

American military doctors aided in identifying the dead. Fifteen victims were Air Force officers and men from Ramstein-Landstuhl Air Base in Germany. The 16th was a sailor from the USS Tripoli who boarded the plane when it made a refueling stop here.

★ ★ ★

Planes of three nations, meanwhile, searched today for a four-engine British civilian plane missing with three persons aboard. It last reported from over the storm-swept Ionian Sea last night as it approached the south Italian port of Brindisi. The plane was bound from Athens to Rome.

Gyroscope Is Rugged

BOSTON — A high-performance, miniature - rate gyroscope, designed specifically for use where smallness, lightness, and ability to withstand the most severe environments is needed, has been introduced by a Boston firm.

Blames Unions, Reuther for Business Slump

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Hiestand (R-Calif) today blamed the current business slump on union-negotiated wage increases which he said have forced prices beyond the reach of some buyers.

He called it a "Reuther recession" and predicted "we'll soon be out of it." Walter Reuther is president of the United Auto Workers Union.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, Rep. Moss (D-Calif), in a separate statement, urged an immediate plan to pull the nation out of its economic doldrums. He said the two-billion-dollar post office construction program advanced by the President will not turn the trick alone.

Change of Gum Instead of Coin Hits Legal Snag

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The case of the copper centavo has supermarkets, lawyers and the Ministry of Economy in a snarl.

The centavo is worth so little it's ignored as change. But some say it's the most valuable coin in Mexico.

There are 100 centavos to the peso, which is worth only 8 cents. But experts say the button-sized, beautifully minted centavo costs the government two cents to make. Last year, before the price of copper sagged, it cost three cents to mint.

There are plenty in circulation —more than 132 million were made between 1950 and 1957—but they won't buy anything, and supermarkets make change with small sticks of chewing gum instead.

★ ★ ★

This chicle-for-centavos deal aroused two attorneys who claim it's a fraud against the public. They admit the low value of the centavo. But they claim — probably with tongue in cheek — that supermarkets are practicing fraud when they tell customers they don't have centavos and dish out the gum.

"Furthermore, they claim, the supermarkets make money on the deal.

"A fabulous profit annually," they say, "an illicit profit."

The controversy got into the newspapers, which may have started the whole thing anyway, and the Ministry of Economy was forced to say it would study the situation.

No decision yet.

Claims Failure to Lead World

Gov. Williams Assails Federal Policy in Talk at Nashville, Tenn.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The federal government is failing to give this country and the world the leadership it needs, Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams said in a talk at Vanderbilt University here last night.

"In the last five years, the role of the federal government in giving leadership has been diminished," the Democratic governor said.

"The concept that the presidency should be a force to imbue people with a sense of mission for great achievements has been dropped.

"We have lost our unquestioned military pre-eminence," Williams said. "In almost every domestic area, cutbacks have been sought or achieved."

Williams called for "a program of national revival."

"Such a program, I think," he said, "would be welcomed by the American people. We have always responded to great challenges, and we will again. The American vitality is too great to be subdued for very long by small programs and timid policies."

Such a program for national revival, Williams said, must begin at home.

"It cannot, however, be isolated from a concurrent revival of American prestige and leadership abroad," he added.

Such a program, Williams said, "must be big enough to fire the imaginations of the American people and the people of the world."

★ ★ ★

"It must give direction to the warm idealism of our people, and channel it to the betterment of people everywhere," said the Michigan governor. "It must be based on the selfless concepts of the common brotherhood of man under the common fatherhood of God."

GOP Senators Oust State Labor Chief

LANSING (AP) — Majority Republican senators have ousted Russell White, a former UAW-CIO official, as state labor commissioner, and Gov. Williams promptly called it a "shabby performance."

White pulled only 11 of 18 favorable votes required for Senate confirmation yesterday. Nineteen Republicans lined up against him, holding he was an agent of Walter P. Reuther, UAW chief.

It was the second major appointment by the Democratic governor upset at the 1958 legislative session. There appeared a possibility others might follow.

Senators last month rejected John Spoelman, State Farmers Union president, as a member of the State Agriculture Commission. Both he and White were named last November and had been serving in office.

★ ★ ★

A question mark arose late yesterday about Thomas H. E. Quimby for another term as state workmen's compensation director. Quimby doubles politically as a member of the Democratic National Committee.

After interviewing Quimby, the Senate Business Committee, headed by Sen. Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville), deferred a vote on whether to recommend his approval.

Thousands Busy Repairing China's Great Wall

PEIPING—Thousands of Chinese are handling the vast job of repairing some sections of the Great Wall of China, Peiping reports. This — one of the wonders of the world — is 25 feet thick at its base, 15 feet thick at the top and 1,500 miles long.

Most sections of the wall are intact, even today, and there are watch-towers every few hundred yards. The builder was Emperor Shi-Hwang-ti who hoped to keep out the Tartars.

Millions of men built the wall. One of every three alive in China at the time worked like a slave on it. Thousands died, or were cruelly executed and their bodies entombed within it. Through 1958 the wall - repairing will go on.

Many of these 20th century workers know the legend that Shi-Hwang-ti, fearing death, had a place built within the wall by the forced labor of 700,000 men.

Beck, Son Slated for Sentence Today

SEATTLE (AP)—Dave Beck, ex-president of the powerful Teamsters Union, and his son Dave Jr. were scheduled today for grand larceny. Maximum possible sentence is 15 years.

★ ★ ★

The elder Beck was found guilty last Dec. 14 of misappropriating $1,900 from the sale of an auto owned by the union. Young Beck had been found guilty three weeks previous of misappropriating $4,650 from the sale of two union-owned cars.

Head of Police Lab to Quit Permanently

LANSING (AP) — Detective Lt. Leroy H. Smith, head of the State Police Scientific Crime Laboratory, will retire for the second, and final, time March 9.

Smith, who has 34 years of service with State Police, will reach the mandatory retirement age of 56 on that date.

Smith previously retired on Oct. 1, 1949, after completing 25 years of service. State Police were unable to find someone with his experience to head the crime laboratory and he was asked to come out of retirement to resume direction of the laboratory.

Smith joined State Police in 1924 and served as department photographer and fingerprint expert before becoming commanding officer of the scientific crime laboratory with its establishment in 1932.

★ ★ ★

State Police credit his laboratory work with cracking numerous difficult cases and Smith has appeared many times in court in the capacity of an expert witness.

Woman Dies in Blaze as Rescue Try Fails

DETROIT (AP) — A woman died in her burning apartment last night after horrified viewers watched her futile attempts to break through a window.

Spouting flares barred the efforts of two unidentified men who tried to get into the apartment and rescue her.

The body of Mrs. Anna Jane Cole, about 40, a commercial artist, was found on a sofa in her burned-out four-room apartment on the second floor. The fire was confined to her apartment.

Customers in a restaurant across the street said they saw the woman trying to break a window.

Cause of the fire was not known.

Smoke Makers Reported 'Liars'

House Committee Finds Filter Brands Produce More Nicotine, Tar

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee has reported that the cigarette manufacturers have deceived the American public through their advertising of filter-tip cigarettes.

Although the giant industry has denied health hazards from smoking, the Government Operations Committee said, it has made these charges appear true by implying filter tips remove alleged causes of cancer and heart disease.

"Actually, most filter cigarettes produce as much or more nicotine and tar as cigarettes without filters," the committee added.

The committee rapped the Federal Trade Commission for what it said was a failure to police against deceptive advertising while the public became "brain-washed that filters would furnish health protection."

The committee spoke by adopting a report made by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Blatnik (D-Minn) following hearings last year. The report had not previously been made public.

The committee quoted public statements from medical experts but advanced no conclusions itself on any relationship between smoking and cancer.

★ ★ ★

The report did say the tobacco industry apparently conspired to boycott subcommittee hearings though invited to testify. "It is reprehensible that the tobacco industry should so shirk its responsibilities to the consumer," the committee said.

Welding Firm Building Burns in Waterford

Waterford Township firemen answered a call at 10 a.m. today when a fire broke out at the Long Welding Co., 3730 Elizabeth Lake Rd.

The building is occupied by Robert Long and owned by Stanley Jones.

The front end of the building was burned, and firemen said the blaze was caused by an overheated chimney. Damage was estimated at $200.

Car Crash Kills Airman

RUDYARD (AP) — Airman Walter Roeckel, 31, was injured fatally Tuesday in a two-car collision north of this Chippewa County community. Roeckel was stationed at nearby Kinross Air Force Base in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Art of Growing Old

Actor Ed Wynn Believes to Stay Young You Must Always Think, Act That Way

(If you want to stay young, actor Ed Wynn thinks, you must think and act young. Wynn has certainly done that—but he had to overcome moments of despondency when, nearing 70, he felt that life had shouldered him aside. This is the first of four articles by prominent people on the subject of old age.)

By ED WYNN

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It isn't given to many people to start a whole new, exciting career after the age of 70, but I have been so blessed.

★ ★ ★

For 54 years, I thought that God put me on this earth to make people laugh. I never worked at any other profession.

As I neared my 70th year, I was told I could not get work as a comedian. The men who run the television shows said the trend was against comedy, that the people wanted drama for their entertainment.

This was hard for me to take. I had never been anything but a star. I had produced and owned my own shows on Broadway. I had starred in the golden days of radio as the Fire Chief. I had won top awards in television, which I pioneered on the West Coast; mine was the first show to go across the country from west to east.

I was depressed; I felt that I had been passed by. But my son Keenan and others urged me to keep active. I was offered a serious role in the movie, "The Great Man." I was hesitant because I had never played a dramatic role in my life. But I did it.

The results were beyond my wildest dreams. I found myself being hailed by the critics as a dramatic find, and I was sought by many film and TV producers for serious roles. I was also in demand as a comedian, earning as much money as a guest star on TV as I had ever been given.

Naturally, this has been highly gratifying to me as an artist. But I have enjoyed even more the inspiration that my example has apparently given to other mature citizens.

I have been asked by several organizations and governmental groups for my ideas on such matters as growing old and retiring, and I have been happy to oblige. One of the most recent came from the New York State Legislative Committee on Problems of the Aging.

Some of my ideas are strictly personal. I may be unique in that I feel I have always had a Peter Pan mind. I have thought of myself as young all my life, and I still feel that way at 71. This latest boost to my career has been so exhilarating that it takes me back 25 or 30 years in outlook.

This is corroborated by my doctor, who says that I am in the physical condition of a man much younger than my years. I feel that if you want to stay young, you must think and act young.

I don't mean that you must kick up your heels at a night club, though I do enjoy late parties if the company is stimulating. The important thing is not to let yourself be caught in the aging process. I have no desire to sit around and talk about the old days with my contemporaries. I'd much rather discuss the present and the future with younger people.

I remember with great fondness the party Keenan gave for me on my 70th birthday. Out of a sizable crowd, not one guest was over 40.

I believe there are great dangers in retirement. No one should retire or be forced to retire on the basis of age alone. Disability should be the basis for retirement, especially in hazardous occupations where age might impair coordination.

All Americans can be heartened by the example of President Eisenhower. Despite three attacks of serious illness, he is still going strong at 67 and will not retire.

If you must retire, I feel the most important thing is to keep your mind active. Find new interests, new activities, new friends to keep your mind alive.

I believe it's a good idea for retired people to move to a new neighborhood instead of living where they have for many years. The reason is that your younger, unretired friends may be too busy to spend time with you and you are liable to become a very lonely person.

Move to some other town where there are retired people and you will have companionship. One of the dreadful things about old age is loneliness. It can be avoided if you remain an interesting person yourself.

Another danger of old age is exaggeration. If your mind isn't active, your fears can be blown up beyond all proportions. You begin to worry that each ache and pain is a portent of death, that your children don't want you any more. You worry about your financial status, even about crossing a street.

★ ★ ★

I've found a formula for avoiding these exaggerated fears of age: YOU take care of every day; let the calendar take care of the years.

My only other advice for a long life is just this:

2 More Sailors Found Alive

5 of Italian Freighter's Crew Now Rescued; Bodies of 21 Recovered

NORFOLK, Va. (INS)—Five of 27 crewmen have been rescued after the Italian freighter Bonitas was abandoned and sank in the storm-lashed Atlantic 200 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C.

The Navy said that 21 bodies have been recovered and one crewman is still missing.

Most of the stricken freighter's crew lost their lives when their lifeboat capsized in 20-foot seas within sight of a rescue ship, the liner President Adams.

Two survivors were picked up yesterday afternoon by the Navy destroyer escort Lester. They are now en route to Norfolk. Their condition was listed as "fair."

The men were identified as Albo Cardilo, chief officer, of Trieste, and Giuseppi Valinti, machinist, of Mole-de-Bari.

Earlier yesterday, the President Adams lowered a lifeboat and plucked three others to safety.

The Bonitas sent out its first distress signal at 2:30 p.m. EST Tuesday, saying she had sprung a leak in the forward hold. Shortly before 6 p.m., the ship was abandoned. It sank at 1:34 a.m. EST today.

Pleads Guilty of Giving Liquor to Minors Here

Elizabeth Williams, 19, of 621 E. Tennyson St., pleaded guilty today at her arraignment on a charge of furnishing liquor to minors.

Police aid she gave drinks to 16 and 17-year-old girls and boys on Feb. 12. Municipal Court Judge Maurice E. Finnegan fined her $15 or five days in jail and placed her on 90 days probation.

Banquet Spawned in Burglary of Grocery

Seattle Citizens Buy Meal to Aid 9 Boys

SEATTLE (AP) — Several hundred Seattleites invested 75 cents or more last night in a good meal and the future of nine young Negro boys.

The meal was served by the boys, cooked by their mothers, sisters and friends and spawned in the burglary of a local grocery store last November.

The boys all were among some 30 participants in a raid on the store; they were identified and turned over to Juvenile Court. Judge William G. Long sentenced them to the State Training School for Boys, then suspended the sentence for 30 days in which they could prove they wanted to be good citizens.

Being good citizens meant paying the grocer $100 to cover the cost of goods lost, damaged or consumed in the raid. The boys, all members of a group called the King Cobras, investigated their lean club treasury and decided on a money-raising dinner.

Tickets were sold for 75 cents and a dollar (for a plain or deluxe ham or fish dinner). Many persons who couldn't come just sent a donation — some as big as $10.

Early yesterday afternoon, the boys and their helpers reported for work. From 1 p.m. until late last night they were peeling spuds, preparing peas, slicing fish, watching the kettles and the ovens and waiting tables.

About 250 persons came for the dinner. They got deluxe service as well as meals. No head waiter could be more polite.

Representatives of the Juvenile Court, the State Department of Institutions, social agencies came, ate and went away pleased. They all paid. There were no free tickets. The boys made much more than they needed, although the exact amount was not known.

After it was all over, the tables cleared, dishes washed and the floor of the housing project gymnasium mopped, Richard Bailey, 16-year-old member of the group, wiped some soap suds from his arms and said: "Yessir, I made my mistake. I'm not going to make it again."

It looked as if the first returns on the investment were in.

'Shocking Revelation'

Report Shows State Care of Delinquents Inadequate

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan provides far less adequate care and treatment for delinquent children than for adult criminals, a study of court services to delinquent children reported.

★ ★ ★

The report, termed "a shocking revelation," resulted from a survey of juvenile divisions of Michigan Circuit Courts made by the Michigan Crime and Delinquency Council of the National Probation Association at the request of a joint legislative study committee.

The study was released at a council meeting yesterday in Detroit.

John B. Martin, chairman of the council's projects committee, summed up findings.

"So far as our children are concerned," Martin said, "most judges today have to act on wholly inadequate pre-hearing studies and without any carefully developed plan of treatment.

★ ★ ★

"Skilled and close supervision by trained personnel of those children placed on probation is in most cases non-existent. On the present basis of operations it is impossible to expect our courts to so handle these children that they will not get into further and more serious trouble.

"In a state like Michigan," Martin said, "this is a shocking revelation."

Martin said that from the report it appeared clear that, particularly in the smaller counties and in certain of the larger counties as well, some supplemental assistance to the courts must be given by the state under a program similar to that now established in the State Corrections Department for adults.

★ ★ ★

"If we wish to halt the steady rise in crime," Martin said, "we must attack it where we can be most effective—with the children who have just begun to wrong."

The report noted that delinquency complaints received by courts have risen 100 per cent nationally since 1948.

Mumps, Measles Decrease Sharply

Mumps and measles cases in Oakland County both decreased sharply and chicken pox increased slightly compared to the previous week, according to Dr. John D. Monroe, health director.

The reported mumps cases decreased from 204 to 81 during this period while measles slumped from 41 to 29. Sixteen more cases of chicken pox were reported last week than the previous week.

The following is a comparative breakdown of the communicable diseases reported last week to the city and county health departments.

Leprosy Bacillus in Test Tube Is Step Forward

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese bacteriologist claimed today that he has successfully cultivated the leprosy bacillus in the laboratory for the first time, a possible step toward elimination of the disease.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Norio Ogata of the Nippon Dental University said he would report on his findings at the Japan Leprosy Conference May 20-21.

He said it required four months for him to cultivate the bacteria at first but now he can do it in three weeks.

★ ★ ★

"Success of the cultivation does not mean an immediate road toward diagnosing and treating leprosy has been opened," the 71-year-old scientist said. "However, with the cooperation of others in the medical world, the time may come for eventual eradication of this difficult disease."

Alcohol Crash Factor

CHICAGO — According to the National Safety Council, more than a fourth of the drivers or adult pedestrians killed in traffic had been drinking. It said a study found that 26 of every 100 drivers and 25 of every 100 pedestrians involved in fatal accidents had been under the influence of alcohol.

CHAPTER 43

Lucy went out of the room again and Mr. Crackenthorpe was introduced to Miss Marple and Mrs. McGillicuddy.

"Like my meals on time," said Mr. Crackenthorpe. "Punctuality and economy. Those are my watchwords."

★ ★ ★

"Very necessary, I'm sure," said Miss Marple, "especially in these times with taxation and everything."

Mr. Crackenthorpe snorted. "Taxation! Don't talk to me of those robbers. A miserable pauper—that's what I am. And it's going to get worse, not better. You wait, my boy," he addressed Cedric, "when you get this place ten to one the Socialists will have it off you and turn it into a Welfare center or something. And take all your income to keep it up with!"

Lucy reappeared with a tea tray, Bryan Eastley followed her carrying a tray of sandwiches, bread and butter and cake.

"What's this? What's this?" Mr. Crackenthorpe inspected the tray. "Frosted cake? We having a party today? Nobody told me about it."

A faint flush came into Emma's face.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Quimper's coming to tea, Father. It's his birthday today and—"

"Birthday?" snorted the old man, "what's he doing with a birthday? Birthdays are only for children. I never count my birthdays and I won't let anyone else celebrate them either."

"Much cheaper," agreed Cedric. "You save the price of candles on your cake."

"That's enough from you, boy," said Mr. Crackenthorpe.

★ ★ ★

Miss Marple was shaking hands with Bryan Eastley. "I've heard about you of course," she said, "from Lucy. Dear me, you remind me so much of someone I used to know at St. Mary Mead. That's the village where I've lived for so many years, you know. Ronnie Wells, the solicitor's son. Couldn't seem to settle somehow when he went into his father's business. He went out to East Africa and started a series of cargo boats on the lake out there. Victoria Nyanza, or is it Albert I mean? Anyway, I'm sorry to say that it wasn't a success, and he lost all his capital. Most unfortunate; Not any relation of yours, I suppose? The likeness is so great."

"No," said Bryan, "I don't think I've any relations called Wells."

"He was engaged to a very nice girl," said Miss Marple. "Very sensible. She tried to dissuade him, but he wouldn't listen to her. He was wrong of course. Women have a lot of sense, you know, when it comes to money matters. Not high-finance, of course. No woman can hope to understand that, my dear father said. But everyday L.S.D.—that sort of thing. What a delightful view you have from this window," she added, making her way across and looking out.

★ ★ ★

Emma joined her.

"Such an expanse of parkland! How picturesque the cattle look against the trees. One would never dream that one was in the middle of a town."

"We're rather an anachronism, I think," said Emma. "If the windows were open now you'd hear far off the noise of the traffic."

"Oh, of course," said Miss Marple, "there's noise everywhere isn't there. Even in St. Mary Mead. We're now quite close to an airfield, you know, and really the way those jet planes fly over. Most frightening. Two panes in my little greenhouse broken the other day. Going through the sound barrier, or so I understand, though what it means I never have known."

★ ★ ★

"It's quite simple, really," said Bryan, approaching amiably. "You see, it's like this."

Miss Marple dropped her handbag and Bryan politely picked it up. At the same moment Mrs. McGillicuddy approached Emma and murmured, in an anguished voice—the anguish was quite genuine—since Mrs. McGillicuddy deeply disliked the task which she was now performing:

"I wonder—could I go upstairs for a moment?"

"Of course," said Emma.

"I'll take you," said Lucy.

★ ★ ★

Lucy and Mrs. McGillicuddy left the room together.

"Very cold, driving today," said Miss Marple in a vaguely explanatory manner.

"About the sound barrier," said Bryan, "you see, it's like this—Oh, hullo, there's Quimper."

The doctor drove up in his car. He came in rubbing his hands and looking very cold.

"Going to snow," he said, "that's my guess. Hullo, Emma, how are you? Good lord, what's all this?"

"We made you a birthday cake," said Emma. "D'you remember? You told me today was your birthday."

"I didn't expect all this," said Quimper. "You know it's years—why, it must be, yes, sixteen years since anyone's remembered my birthday." He looked almost uncomfortably touched.

"Do you know Miss Marple?" Emma introduced him.

"Oh yes," said Miss Marple, "I met Dr. Quimper here before and he came and saw me when I had a very nasty chill the other day and he was most kind."

★ ★ ★

"All right again now, I hope?" said the doctor.

Miss Marple assured him that she was quite all right now.

"You haven't been to see me lately, Quimper," said Mr. Crackenthorpe. "I might be dying for all the notice you take of me!"

"I don't see you dying yet awhile," said Dr. Quimper.

"I don't mean to," said Mr. Crackenthorpe. "Come on, let's have tea. What're we waiting for?"

"Oh, please," said Miss Marple, "don't wait for my friend. She would be most upset if you did."

They sat down and started tea. Miss Marple accepted a piece of bread and butter first, and then went on to a sandwich.

"Are they—" she hesitated.

"Fish," said Bryan. "I helped make 'em."

Mr. Crackenthorpe gave a cackle of laughter.

"Poisoned fishpaste," he said. "That's what they are. Eat 'em at your peril."

"Please, Father!"

"You've got to be careful what you eat in this house," said Mr. Crackenthorpe to Miss Marple. "Two of my sons have been murdered like flies. Who's doing it—that's what I want to know."

★ ★ ★

"Don't let him put you off," said Cedric, handing the plate once more to Miss Marple. "A touch of arsenic improves the complexion, they say, so long as you don't have too much."

"Eat one yourself, boy," said old Mr. Crackenthorpe.

"Want me to be official taster?" said Cedric. "Here goes."

He took a sandwich and put it whole into his mouth. Miss Marple gave a gentle, ladylike little laugh and took a sandwich. She took a bite and said:

"I do think it's so brave of you all to make these jokes. Yes, really, I think it's very brave indeed. I do admire bravery so much."

She gave a sudden gasp and began to choke. "A fish bone," she gasped out, "in my throat."

★ ★ ★

Quimper rose quickly. He went across to her, moved her backwards towards the window and told her to open her mouth. He pulled out a case from his pocket, selecting some forceps from it. With quick professional skill, he peered down the old lady's throat. At that moment the door opened and Mrs. McGillicuddy followed by Lucy, came in. Mrs. McGillicuddy gave a sudden gasp as her eyes fell on the tableau in front of her, Miss Marple leaning back and the doctor holding her throat and tilting up her head.

"But that's him," cried Mrs. McGillicuddy. "That's the man in the train . . . "

With incredible swiftness Miss Marple slipped from the doctor's grasp and came towards her friend.

★ ★ ★

"I thought you'd recognize him, Elspeth!" she said. "No. Don't say another word."

U.S. Tourists Hit Peak.

WASHINGTON — The Immigration and Naturalization Service reports that the number of United States citizens departing for Europe by air and sea reached a postwar high in 1956 of 576,108, an increase of 9.6 per cent over 1955. There was a 3.3 per cent rise in sea travel and a 15 per cent gain in air travel.

Neither Cute Nor Lovable

Penguins Called Stupid

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

WILKES STATION, Antarctica (AP)—At least one expert doesn't think the penguin is the cutest, most lovable bird in the antarctic.

★ ★ ★

The penguin is dumb, primitive, noisy and at times unspeakably dirty, says Carl Eklund of the U.S. Fish and Wild Life Service station at Atlanta, Ga., who has just completed a term as leader of the Wilkes International Geophysical Year station.

★ ★ ★

For Eklund, the real glamor bird of the frozen continent is the south polar skua, a gull-like creature that lives on the ice, preys on the penguin, and is related to the jaeger, an eagle-like fighting bird.

★ ★ ★

Old explorers denounced the skua in strong terms, mainly because it preys on the penguins and discharges its droppings from the air at intruders, with great accuracy. Various antarctic pioneers called the bird callous, greedy, vulturous, disgusting and a pirate of the air.

Eklund contends the skua is a noble bird, the "eagle of the antarctic who fears nothing."

★ ★ ★

"In eating penguin eggs and baby penguins," Eklund continues, "the skua helps to keep the penguin population within bounds. It takes only the weak young penguins, leaving the stronger ones to perpetuate the breed. This is the old law of natural selection and survival of the fittest.

★ ★ ★

"The skua is without doubt the cleanest bird on the Antarctic Continent. It bathes more than any other. The penguin spends a lot of time in the water but it is fishing, not bathing. The skua has no parasites, no characteristic disease. It does a better job of defending its nest than any other antarctic bird.

★ ★ ★

"Skuas are smart too. To get penguin eggs they work in pairs. One will divert the attention of the penguin while the other dives in and carries off an egg.

"And the skua can soar like no other bird except the albatross."

Junior Editors Quiz on LEGENDS

QUESTION: Where did "Davy Jones' Locker" get its name?

Answer: Most of you know that "Davy Jones' Locker" is a mythical place at the bottom of the sea where the souls of drowned sailors are supposed to go, Davy's original name is said to have been "duffy Jonah." A "duffy" is a kind of West Indian negro ghost, and in some mysterious and unknown way this word became linked to the name "Jonah," which had become a symbol of bad luck. Although Davy Jones is spoken of as a sea-devil, seamen are apt to regard him as more kindly than evil.

"Locker," in sailor talk, means a small space aboard ship used to store supplies. It is not difficult to imagine why oldtime seamen thought of Davy Jones as watching over his collection of souls in some underwater hideout, or "Locker." Sailors had all they needed of wind and water on deck, and were glad to get down to their cramped quarters when it was time to go below. No doubt they felt that to spend eternity in a cozy locker was more attractive than being washed around in the open spaces of the sea. At any rate, we will find references to Davy Jones back to the year 1718.

Inflation Catches Up With First Airplane

CHICAGO (INS) — Like most everything else, the airplane too has gone up in the last half a century.

Whereas the plan which the Wright Brothers used to inaugurate air flight 54 years ago cost only about $1,000, a plastic model of that rickety ship is costing a toy manufacturer some $25,000.

★ ★ ★

The firm (Monogram Models, Inc.), which is producing the first plastic model ever built of the Kitty Hawk plane to mark the anniversary of Wilbur Wright's solo, said the $25,000 will be spent in making 64 molds of parts to be cast.

Farmington Schools Try to Match Increasing Demand

Swelling Ranks Makes Problem

Student Enrollment Up From 1,560 to 6,070 in Past Ten Years

By MARY CELINSKE
Farmington Correspondent

FARMINGTON—The entire complexion of Farmington has changed in the past decade, and nowhere is this change more evident than in its schools.

Ten years ago many students attended one, two and three-room country schools. Bond school on Orchard Lake road, built in 1926, was the only modern elementary school in the district.

The present Farmington Junior High, which was built in 1918, housed all grades, 1 through 12. At that time, value of all school buildings in the district, exclusive of land and equipment, was $571,384.

Today, kindergarten classes are still being held in Fairview School, built in 1836. The first school in Farmington Township, it is the last one-room school still in use.

Now there are eight modern elementary schools, a new high school and a junior high. And two new elementary schools are under construction.

Nine of these buildings are being enlarged, and sites have been purchased, or are being negotiated for, for eight more. All but two of the 11 schools now in use were opened since 1951.

The district's buildings are now valued at $4,250,000. Voters in the district have approved bond issues totaling $8,458,000 in the past seven years, and the school board expects to ask them for $1,500,000 more next month.

Enrollment in the district has increased from 1,560 in 1947 to 6,070 in 1957—or enough students to fill 107 classrooms.

During this decade of mushrooming growth, school officials have repeatedly projected future enrollment. Their accuracy in predicting district growth has been almost uncanny.

If most recent projections are as accurate, there will be 14,221 enrolled for the 1963-64 school year, and classrooms must be ready for them.

★ ★ ★

In 1949, Middlebelt and Ten-Mile elementary schools were built. In 1951, a new senior high school was constructed. In 1952, with most elementary students on half-day sessions, new classrooms were added to Middlebelt, Ten Mile and Bond Schools.

In 1953, more rooms were added to the senior high school. The following year, the district borrowed $1,500,000 more and in 1955 opened Eagle, Gill and Shiawassee elementary schools.

During 1956, with $2,000,000 to spend, the board began seeking new sites and building more schools, and in 1957 opened a new junior high and two new elementary schools. Construction also was started on schools and additions to all existing schools in the district, with the exception of the three new ones opened in this school year.

School members say they now are looking ahead toward the construction of another junior high school in the northeast section of the township, as well as six more elementary schools.

Their battle is not yet won, they say. Most first and second graders are still on half-day schedules, and at the beginning of the year, even junior high students were on half days until their new school was opened.

Farmington's tremendous growth and its problems are no isolated instance. School boards and other governing bodies throughout the metropolitan area are facing the same problems.

The rural areas have become Suburbia.

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL — Construction of the new Farmington High School in 1951 lifted a great burden from overcrowded facilities. More rooms were added in 1953. This is the way the school looks today.

FIRST SCHOOL — Who said the one-room school is a thing of the past? The Fairview School (above), built in 1836, was Farmington Township's first school. It is still in use today.

Banquet to Feature Flint's 'Singing Cop'

ROCHESTER — Flint's "Singing Cop," Lt. Wilburn Le Gree, will be the featured entertainer for the Father-Daughters-Sons Banquet to be held at 7 p.m. today in St. Paul Methodist Church.

★ ★ ★

Lt. Le Gree has been with the Flint Police Department for 23 years. He is in charge of the Child Safety Division, with supervision over traffic safety for public and parochial schools. As a consecrated Christian, he uses his musical ability by singing gospel songs on radio and TV, coast to coast, in churches, community sings, youth rallies and such affairs as tonight's banquet.

★ ★ ★

He averages 85 churches a year, and 100 to 150 religious programs, in addition to his police safety work.

Miss Gail Bogart Speaks Vows at Imlay City

IMLAY CITY — Gail Marie Bogart and Donald Manns spoke their nuptial vows Saturday in an evening ceremony at Congregational Church here, with the Rev. John H. Balfour officiating.

★ ★ ★

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bogart of 260 River St. Mr. and Mrs. Alva Wannermaker of Brown City are the parents of the bridegroom.

Gail wore a white floor-length gown of lace and net, with bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil was of lace, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and red rosebuds.

Patricia LePard was the maid of honor, and Bonnebelle Withum of Lapeer, a cousin, was the bridesmaid.

Theodore Wannermaker served his brother as best man. Ushers were Larry Bogart and Walter Richards Jr.

★ ★ ★

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the VFW Hall.

JOYCE ANN SIDERMAN

Mr. and Mrs. Norval Hartman of Roscommon, formerly of Pontiac, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Joyce Ann Siderman, to James D. Lake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cady of Center street, Holly. No wedding date has been set.

Work on Station Set for Spring

Plan Three Studios for Colored Video at Site in Southfield

SOUTHFIELD TOWNSHIP — Construction of station WXYZ's four million dollar quarters at 10-Mile road west of Northwestern highway will begin early in the spring, station president, James G. Riddell, said today.

The Austin Company of Detroit, which has constructed similar buildings for WXYC in New York and Chicago, expects to complete the job in about a year, Riddell said.

Plans call for three color television studios, three radio studios, a 1,000-foot antenna and complete adminstrative facilities in a colonial setting on the new site.

WXYZ's present station in the Maccabees Building, Detroit, will be abandoned, Riddell said.

Approximately 40 acres of the 104-acre tract of land on 10-Mile road will be used by the station for its studios and antenna. The remainder will be subdivided.

The property was recently rezoned from residential to commercial use.

Remand Youth in Fatal Stabbing

Plea of Innocent Entered

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP — A 17-year-old Royal Oak Township youth will stand trial for second-degree murder in the fatal stabbing this month of another youth following a teen-age dance in the township.

Standing mute yesterday to counts of second-degree murder and assault with intent to kill was Robert Burnside of 10441 Fanwood Dr.

Township Justice Delbert W. Hunt entered a plea of innocent and remanded Burnside to the township jail without benefit of bond. Examination for the youth was set for Feb. 27.

A John Doe and Richard Roe were named in the warrant as Burnside's companions when William C. Johnson, 17, of 8112 Cloverdale, Royal Oak Township, was stabbed outside the Township Community Building, 21075 Wyoming.

★ ★ ★

Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor LeRoy W. McIntee said the identities of the two have not been determined.

Aid for Hickey Family

ORTONVILLE—A kitchen shower will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Brandon Grange for the Virgil Hickey famly whose home burned to the ground Sunday. Everyone is invited. Refreshments will be served.

Exchanging Uniforms

ORTONVILLE — A Girl Scout Uniform Exchange has been instituted by Mrs. K. B. Faust, neighborhood chairman of Girl Scouts. She asks that both Girl Scouts and Brownies having outgrown uniforms they wish to sell, trade or donate get in touch with her.

Cubs to Hold Banquet

ORTONVILLE — Cub Scout Pack 135 will hold its fifth annual banquet tonight at the Brandon School cafeteria. Some 250 persons are expected. A film of the Valley Forge Jamboree will be shown, and four Weblos will receive graduation certificates.

The fur seal in Antarctica is almost extinct due to uncontrolled slaughter by whaling ships.

AUDREY LEE STEPHENS

Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Stephens of 3186 Margaret St., Auburn Heights, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Audrey Lee, to Richard T. Gronski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gronski of 6821 Westaway St., Rochester. A fall wedding is being planned.

Glacier National Park is in a mountainous region in northwestern Montana. It contains over 200 lakes fed by glaciers.

School Vote Totals Approved by Board

WALLED LAKE — The Walled Lake Board of Education has canvassed and approved the vote totals in Monday's special school election in which a two million dollar bond issue won approval of the electorate.

The board also decided to accept bids on the purchase of four 60-passenger school buses at its regular meeting March 10.

Bids were awarded to the International Venetian Blind Co. to furnish curtains for six rooms at Wixom at a cost of $898, installed.

The National Time and Signal company won the bid for an automatic bell system at Wixom.

★ ★ ★

The board secretary was instructed to write a letter to the Save Our Schools Committee thanking it for its support of the bond issue.

Plans for the proposed junior high school will be submitted to Oakland Housing, Inc. for its approval as per agreement when the site was purchased.

Kids Adore Icing of Peanut Butter

Little people usually like cake, they practically always like peanut butter, and they're all cowboys at heart. So a cake frosted with peanut butter frosting, with little toy cowboys riding around it, is sure to make them shout with glee.

★ ★ ★

The easiest things are often the best; peanut butter frosting made with sweetened condensed milk is one of those things. Spread it between and on top of layers made from a mix or by your own recipe. It is creamy smooth and spreads in beautiful swirls, and it really adds distinction as well as good taste to the cake. Grown-ups as well as children will like it.

Magic Peanut Butter Frosting

1½ cups (15-oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
2 tablespoons cream style peanut butter

Gradually stir sweetened condensed milk into peanut butter in top of double boiler; mix well. Cook over rapidly boiling water, stirring constantly, until thick, about 15 minutes. Cool. Spread on cooled cake.

Taffy Flavored Cheese

When serving cottage cheese as a dressing or accompaniment to fruit salads, add a tablespoon or two of unsulphured molasses to a cup of the cheese. The sweet and "taffy" flavored molasses gives a new taste interest to this bland cheese.

Muffin Cups for Eggs Do Away With Dishes

Eggs baked in English muffins rate a double entry in the good idea file. Here's a tasty dish and gone are hard-to-wash baking pans. Cut centers from muffins almost to the bottom, using a cookie cutter. Spread muffin centers and rimmed muffins with melted or parsley butter.

Break an egg into center of each muffin. Cover with a spoonful of cream and a generous sprinkling of grated process cheese. Bake in a moderate oven for about 15 minutes, or until eggs are soft-cooked and set. Serve toasted centers, too.

Add thyme to the water in which you simmer spareribs before broiling them.

Gov't Booklet Gives Hints on Heart Diets

People with heart trouble should avoid over-eating by cutting down on foods high in calories, says Publication No. 537 of U.S. Public Health Service.

★ ★ ★

The booklet suggests: "You can perhaps substitute fruits for rich desserts and limit starchy and fatty foods to one moderate serving each meal."

★ ★ ★

The booklet, published in 1957, is 5c from Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C. (Reference: The Food You Eat and Heart Disease, Publication No. 537, Public Health Service).

Fill Cornbread With Cheese Tuna Mixture

In the mood to bake a main dish? Try this one!

Baked Tuna Squares

1⅓ cups sifted flour
¼ cup enriched yellow cornmeal
3 teaspoons double acting baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅓ cup shortening
⅔ cup milk
1 can (7 ounces) grated tuna fish (drained)
¼ cup finely chopped sweet pickles
¼ cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons minced onion

Sift together the flour, cornmeal, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening until fine. Add milk; mix lightly with a fork until dry ingredients are dampened; add a little more milk if necessary to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or prepared pastry cloth and knead gently a few seconds.

Divide dough into 2 parts. Roll each part to form a 6 by 9 inch rectangle. Mix tuna, pickle, cheese and onion together; spread over 1 rectangle of dough. Fit remaining dough over filling. Cut into six 3-inch squares. Place on greased cookie sheet.

Bake in hot (425 degrees) oven 12 to 15 minutes. Serve with a well-seasoned white sauce to which diced pimiento is added. Makes 6 servings.

Cherry pits of several species have been found in the Stone Age deposits of Swiss lake-dwellings, and in the mounds and cliff-caves of prehistoric inhabitants of America.

Peas Add Taste, Color to Fish-Rice Casserole

Uncle Sam's agricultural people are hopeful that your family will eat its extra cans of peas real soon, so the canners will contract for usual acreage, and so there won't be a shortage of canned peas a year from now.

One way to enjoy your extra can of peas is in a Fish 'n Casserole. Make a white sauce of melted butter, milk and flour; add a cup of grated cheese if you like; then add 2 cups of flaked fish, such as whiting; 1 cup of canned peas; 2 cups of cooked rice. Place the mixture in a well greased casserole; sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and bake at 375 degrees until brown. Serves six happy people.

Tart Cherries Brighten

Who cares whether Washington really cut a cherry tree? With Michigan's cherry orchards we have enough cherries for every month of the year.

★ ★ ★

If you need color to encourage winter appetites, serve cherries suggests the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. You may choose canned tart cherries packed in water, with a sugar syrup or made into pie filling. Frozen cherries are packed with sugar or sugar syrup.

Look again at the can size. Most cherries are packed in the 303 size can which makes a 6-inch pie. Choose two of these cans for a 9-inch pie. If you buy cherries in a No. 2 can, this will make an 8-inch pie.

Fruit Stuffing Fills Chops

Pork is on the list of plentiful foods for the month of December and therefore is also on the economical list. Succulent, wonderfully tasting pork is a real treat any meal, any time for many people.

Here is a recipe for Fruited Pork Chops that we think will prove to be a favorite for all pork eaters. There is the tanginess of apricots . . . the savour of onion and celery . . . the fine texture of cream of rice.

Fruited Pork Chops

½ cup finely chopped onion
½ cup finely chopped celery
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon cream of rice
¾ cup finely chopped dried apricots
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
6 rib pork chops, 1 inch thick with a pocket
2 teaspoons kitchen bouquet

Saute onion and celery in butter in skillet, over moderate heat until just tender, about 5 minutes. Add cream of rice, apricots, salt and pepper and mix well. Place stuffing in pocket of each chop, fastening with a small poultry pin. Brush entire surface of each chop with kitchen bouquet.

Place in shallow roasting pan and bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 1½ hours or until thoroughly cooked. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

Use seasoned meat tenderizer to spark your salad with a chef's blend of herbs and spices.

Meat Eaters Can Relax at News of '58 Production

If you measure good living by the amount of meat you eat, you will be interested in meat predictions for 1958.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture says the average person ate 159 pounds of meat during 1957 compared to 166 pounds per person in 1956.

This year, we will probably have as much beef during the early months as we did during last year, but by fall there will not be so many cattle coming to market.

The pork situation will be reversed says the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. Our pork supply in early 1958 will be about like it was early in 1957. By fall there should be considerably more pork coming to market than there is now.

In 1958 we are expected to eat about the same amount of meat as we did in 1957 — an average of three pounds a week.

Fruit Juice Varies Gelatin

Gelatine salads can be as varied in flavor as there are fruit juices. Start with the basic salad recipe given on the envelope of unflavored gelatine, and then substitute the fruit juice of your choice for the liquid called for in the printed recipe. One envelope of plain gelatine will gel up to two cups of liquid, and always count any sugar used as part of the two cups liquid total as sugar goes into solution.

Lamb Chops Sport Spicy Tart Topping

Here's a stylish meat serving priced just right for budget-wise homemakers. The meat cut in vogue in this recipe is lamb shoulder chops, a less-demanded cut.

But in this case the chops are crowned by a colorful combination — an onion and lemon slice surrounded by a dainty green pepper ring.

For this recipe, braising is the method of meat cookery used even though all lamb chops are tender and can be prepared by broiling.

Lamb Chops — Tart Topping

6 lamb shoulder chops, cut ¾ to 1 inch thick
¼ cup lard or drippings
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
6 onion slices
6 lemon slices
6 green pepper rings
½ cup tomato juice

Brown chops slowly in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season. Top each chop with an onion slice, a lemon slice and a green pepper ring. Pour tomato juice over chops. Cover tightly and cook in a slow oven (300 degrees) or simmer on top of range for 45 minutes, or until done. Yield: 6 servings.

Prunes Are Just Plums

A prune is a variety of plum which can be dried without fermenting when the pit is left in. Prunes grown in California are mostly dried, while prunes grown in Washington and Oregon are sold fresh—usually as "Italian prunes."

Friday Fare With Rice

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a saucepan. Stir in 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon black pepper. Cook several minutes, stirring. Slowly stir in 1 cup milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens slightly. Stir in ½ cup condensed cream of mushroom soup, ¼ cup water and 6 hard-cooked egg whites sliced. Serve over the hot fluffy white rice. Garnish with the egg yolks which have been put through a sieve.

Place poached eggs on toast rounds in shallow baking dish, pour over a rich cheese sauce and brown quickly under broiler; serve immediately.

Go Dutch With Crumbs

If you mix one-half cup of butter with one-half cup of dry bread crumbs and brown it lightly, you'll have a Dutch crumb garnish for your vegetables. That golden brown color and good butter flavor make vegetables tickle the taste buds of most every member of your family. Asparagus, broccoli, green beans and cauliflower taste good served au gratin or topped with Dutch crumbs.

Colorful dessert salad: alternate orange and grapefruitt sections side by side; arrange two or three pitted cooked prunes stuffed with cream cheese at the side; garnish with sliced stuffed olives.

HOLIDAY LOG — A new kind of log that you can eat to honor George Washington's birthday is this cereal log. Shape it around a rolling pin and serve it filled with your favorite ice cream. Listen to the ohs and ahs of your guests.

Salute George With Cereal Log

Who chopped down the cherry tree? Little George, so the story goes, but we know for sure he did not have an ice cream filled cereal log to enjoy. Here is a new, honey-flavored wheat cereal dessert that looks gay, tastes delicious; and makes a party sweet for all ages.

The cereal, combined with a syrup, shapes easily into a log. After it is well chilled, it can be filled with ice cream and stored in the freezer or it can be served immediately. For a bright holiday touch, serve it with a cherry sauce.

Holiday Log

1 cup firmly-packed brown sugar
1½ tablespoons light corn syrup
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3½ cups honey-flavored wheat cereal
1½ pints vanilla ice cream
½ cup heavy cream, whipped
5 maraschino cherries

Wrap a rolling pin in waxed paper; grease well. In a quart saucepan mix together sugar, corn syrup, milk and butter. Cook, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved. Continue to cook, stirring occasionally, until mixture reaches the soft ball stage or 238 degrees on a candy thermometer.

Meanwhile, place honeys in a large bowl. Add cooked syrup and mix quickly until all cereal is coated. Turn out on greased waxed paper; pat out to 8x10½" rectangle. Shape around rolling pin; seal edges. Cool until firm. Pull away outer waxed paper. Chill until firm. Remove rolling pin and inner waxed paper.

Fill cereal log with favorite ice cream. Garnish with whipped cream and cherries. Makes 6 servings. Serve, if desired, with a cherry sauce.

Lenten Food Bargains High in Protein Content

The Lenten season brings changes in the kitchen, changes in the market basket. Seafoods, cheese and eggs assume an even more important role in the menu.

LENTEN CHOICES — Frozen FISH represent one of the wise protein choices any time. A pound of fish fillets or steaks will serve three at low to moderate cost compared to most red meats.

Perch, cod, halibut and smelt are among the thrifty fish selections reports the MSU Marketing Information Agent.

While the flavor, texture, appearance and size may vary, the fundamental rules for cooking most fish are few and easy to follow. Avoid overcooking. Keep in mind the difference in fat content. Baste lean fish with some fat or steam it. Handle fish as little as possible during and after cooking.

Canned tuna is always a popular fish item. Six-ounce cans of grated tuna are available for as little as fifteen cents. The flaked and chunk styles are also specially marked at this season.

Cheese will add real appeal to Lenten meals. Cheese ranks as one of the least expensive protein-rich foods reminds Mrs. Lawyer. A pound of cheese contains more protein than a pound of meat.

If you compare the price of a pound of cheese with a pound of meat, you will find in many cases that the pound of cheese will cost less. Buy a pound of cheese, you have a pound to eat. No waste. No shrinkage during cooking.

Helpful to food budgets and Lenten meals are the current low prices for eggs. If large Grade A eggs sell at about 50 cents a dozen, it means they are thirty-three cents a pound. How many high protein foods are available at this price today?

OTHER PROTEIN FOODS—Extreme cold weather has been causing smaller supplies of meats to reach market. This has caused considerable price fluctuation at wholesale level. Retail prices have remained fairly stable.

Shoppers with thrift in mind will check beef chuck roasts and ground beef; pork loin roasts, ham, boston butt, picnics and sausage; frozen veal rolls.

Generally, fryer prices are a few cents more per pound than last week. Turkey continues to give the most meat for the money in the poultry department.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES — Most fresh vegetables are light in supply and high in price this winter largely because of freeze and rains in Florida. Economical fresh vegetable choices are few. Among the better choices are white potatoes, head lettuce, carrots, spinach and cabbage.

Supplies of canned and frozen vegetables are most adequate Supplies of canned peas are about one-fourth greater than average. Frozen peas are at record levels. The supply of canned beans is 13 per cent above average.

Citrus prices are unchanged. Valencia oranges are arriving in this area. This variety was the least hurt by the freezes.

The weather outside is frightful, but inside your family can be warm and cozy and happier if you serve snacks of cold crisp apples and cheese warmed to room temperature. You'll find good supplies of Michigan Delicious apples of very good quality, so good for snack time.

Grapefruit prices vary from about 10 to 20 cents each. Sizes make the difference. Fine quality grapefruit are heavy for their size, with thin smooth skins.

Toasted Bread Is Best

A tangy twist accents this popular casserole of Deviled Oysters. Over layers of toasted bread cubes, oysters and celery, alternated in a casserole, pour a tangy sauce. Season a medium white sauce with paprika, dry mustard, a generous amount of horse-radish, worcestershire sauce and enough lemon juice to sharpen the flavor.

When you are using fresh herbs, chop them very fine to extract flavor.

Fish, Cheese, Eggs Join Forces in Lenten Menus

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Lent began yesterday. For the next six weeks a large number of families will have their eating habits altered. Less meat will be on the menu. Fish, eggs and cheese will take on added importance.

How lucky we are to have such a large variety of fish available in our favorite stores. Try this way of baking fillets the next time you serve them.

Place fillets in a shallow greased casserole. For each 8 ounces of fish pour over this mixture: ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons melted butter, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ ounce chopped onion and 2 bay leaves. Bake about 30 minutes at 375 degrees, or until golden brown.

* * *

Canned salmon makes a hearty loaf. Ever use lemon juice right in the loaf itself?

Lemon Salmon Loaf

1 pound can salmon
Milk
1 egg
2 teaspoons soft bread cubes
2 teaspoons bottled lemon juice
1 teaspoon chopped onion
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1 hard cooked egg, sliced

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Drain liquid from salmon into measuring cup. Add milk to make ¾ cup. Flake salmon, removing bones and membranes. Blend in egg; stir in remaining ingredients.

Spoon lightly into greased loaf pan, 9x5x2½", or 1 qt. baking dish. Bake 45 minutes. Unmold on platter. Slice hard cooked egg and place around edge of loaf. Serves 4.

One of the quickest ways of getting a meal is to dress up an already prepared food, for example baked beans. The cheese sauce in this recipe gives added amounts of protein.

Beans With Spicy Cheese Sauce

1 (15 ounce) can baked beans in tomato sauce
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded sharp cheese
1 tablespoon butter
½ teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash of tabasco
¼ cup milk
Paprika

Heat beans in saucepan. Melt cheese in double boiler; blend in all other ingredients except paprika, and heat thoroughly, stirring constantly. Serve beans topped with the cheese sauce. Sprinkle lightly with paprika.

* * *

With a package of stuffing mix you can have an unusual casserole to serve with a sauce of creamed tuna. Raisins also add interest to this dish.

Mosaic Egg Casserole

¼ lb. or ½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup boiling water
1 package (8 ounces) prepared stuffing
½ cup raisins
4 hard-cooked eggs
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon water
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning, if desired
Creamed tuna

Melt butter or margarine in the boiling water. Add stuffing and mix together lightly. Add raisins. Chop two of the hard-cooked eggs, coarsely, and add. Reserve two eggs for garnish. Blend beaten eggs and water, add stuffing mixture, and mix all ingredients thoroughly but lightly. Place in greased one-quart casserole. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F) 30 minutes.

Garnish with remaining two hard-cooked eggs, cut first in eighths lengthwise, then each eighth in half crosswise. Serve hot with creamed tuna as a sauce. Makes six servings.

Glaze Your Own Sinkers

Store-bought doughnuts benefit from home-kitchen treatment. Heat them in a hot oven and then dip them in a glaze made by mixing a third cup of boiling water gradually with a cup of confectioners' sugar. Flavor the glaze with vanilla.

Food supplies in the new year are expected to be large—almost as large as those in 1957.

Flag Cake Honors Washington

PATRIOTIC CAKE—Two-year-old Joey holds a knife over the beautifully decorated cake his mother, Mrs. Franklyn Corella of Fox boulevard, made to celebrate George Washington's birthday. The layer cake is topped with blue frosting with a white fluted border and 48 dark blue stars. The flag has the proper number of stars and stripes in the proper colors. Festoons of red and blue decorate the white sides with a chocolate tree stump and hatchet in front. Mrs. Corella took a night school course in cake decorating and thoroughly enjoys practicing what she learned.

Time was that only bakeries put out beautifully decorated cakes. But in the past few years classes in cake decorating have become popular all over the country. We know that in the Pontiac area the night school classes are always full.

Recently we talked with a graduate of one of these classes, Mrs. Franklyn Corella of Fox boulevard. She is most enthusiastic about decorating cakes. We asked her if she would like to decorate a cake in honor of Washington's birthday.

How well she succeeded is apparent in the above picture. Not only does the cake have a flag on it, but also a small hatchet and tree stump (cherry tree, of course).

There are two schools of thought about cake decorating. One says to put a basic covering of frosting over the cake before you do the decorating. This is done with wedding cakes. The frosted cake is then allowed to stand until the next day when the ornamental frosting is put on. The other school of thought uses just one kind of frosting and does the whole job at once.

Here is a recipe for a Snowy Cream Frosting to be used for basic covering.

Snowy Cream Frosting

- ⅔ cup shortening
- 2¼ cups sifted confectioners sugar
- ⅔ cup milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons vanilla

Combine all ingredients in a large bowl. Beat until smooth and creamy. If made with a hand beater, beat the shortening first, then alternate additions of sugar and milk. Beat in salt and vanilla. Thorough beating overcomes the raw taste of the sugar.

★ ★ ★

This recipe for decorative frosting is a little different in that it calls for melted cocoa butter. Purchase that at the drug store.

Decorative Icing

- 2½ to 3 cups sifted confectioner's sugar
- 1 egg white, slightly beaten
- ⅓ cup softened butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons melted cocoa butter
- 2 teaspoons top milk or cream

Add 1 cup sugar to the egg white and blend. Add butter, flavoring, salt and cocoa butter and blend thoroughly. Add remaining sugar and milk alternately. If mixture is too stiff for use in pastry tube, a few more drops of milk may be added. Decorative motifs may be prepared a few days ahead of time and placed on a sheet of waxed paper and allowed to dry out on the surface.

Even an amateur can make simple but effective motifs by using star tubes and pressing out desired designs. Motifs may be pressed onto the frosted cake or made ahead of time on paper and transferred to frosted cake. Color may be added if desired.

★ ★ ★

Snowy Frosting

- 4 tablespoons butter
- ⅔ cup (⅓ 15-oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
- 1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind
- 3½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 to 2 tablespoons lemon juice

Cream butter. Gradually stir in ⅓ cup sweetened condensed milk. Add lemon rind, mixing well. Add sugar gradually alternating with milk, beating until smooth. Add 1 remaining sweetened condensed to 2 tablespoons lemon juice and beat well. Spread on cooled cake.

Quick topper for chicken pie: slice corn muffins into thirds or cut slices of bread with 2-inch round cutter; brush with butter and bake in hot oven until golden.

Zippy Hamburgers Highly Seasoned

Delicious way to season hamburgers.

Grilled Hamburgers

- 1 pound ground lean chuck beef
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 clove garlic (crushed)
- 1 teaspoon wine vinegar
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 2 tablespoons tomato catchup
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley

Mix beef, salt, pepper, crushed garlic, wine vinegar, olive oil, catchup and parsley. Shape into 4 thick patties. Grill to desired doneness. Makes 4 servings

Processed white rice retains a large percentage of the natural vitamins and minerals of the whole grain; regular white rice, polished or unpolished, has entire outer coating of the bran removed.

Spanish Style Chuck Cooked Without Water

Here's how a Spanish friend cooks chuck steak.

Chuck Roast Pilar

- 2 tablespoons (about) cooking oil
- 2 medium-sized onions (sectioned)
- ½ of a green pepper (coarsely chopped
- 1 large clove garlic (crushed)
- 3 pounds chuck steak (cut about 2 inches thick)
- ½ teaspoon paprika
- ½ teaspoon thyme
- 2 tablespoons mixed dried vegetable flakes
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Pepper
- 1 bay leaf
- 6 small whole carrots (pared)

Heat oil in Dutch oven or heavy skillet; add onions, green pepper and garlic and cook gently until wilted; remove from skillet with slotted spoon. Brown chuck steak in skillet, adding a little more oil if necessary, on both sides; use high heat if necessary to brown rapidly.

★ ★ ★

Sprinkle meat with paprika, thyme, vegetable flakes, salt, pepper to taste and bay leaf. Add carrots and onion mixture to pan. Cover tightly and cook slowly about 1 hour; turn meat and cook slowly another hour, or until meat is tender.

No liquid is added in this recipe, but if you find it necessary to add some, use the smallest amount possible. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Glazed Vegetables Good

Surprise your family by serving them candied or glazed vegetables. Make a sirup using two parts of brown sugar to one part of water. Place the vegetable in a heavy pan or casserole and pour the sirup over it. Baste and turn it occasionally as you bake it at 350 degrees until it is tender.

Bay scallops may be a creamy pinkish color; fresh sea scallops are white.

Tropical Spice Gives Soup Distinctive Flavor

The trick that lifts soups and stews into the out-of-the ordinary class is, of course, the seasoning. The creative cook's strongest seasoning ally is her spice shelf from which she selects the spices that add distinctive flavor allure and the qualities of deliciousness and satiety. The spice allspice — actually a single spice although it tastes like a heady blend of cloves, nutmeg and cinnamon — is particularly well suited to the role of glamorizing soups and stews.

In Hot Pot Soup, which combines beef shin, fresh carrots and turnips, allspice provides the intriguing flavor highlight that will bring plates back for "seconds."

In Jamaica, West Indies island from which most of the world's supply of allspice comes, the spice has myriad uses — from preserving meats to providing the basis for a pungent liqueur and an exotic perfume.

In America we've learned almost as many ways to capitalize on allspice's adaptability and charm. Included are such ideas as adding the whole dried allspice berries to long cooking dishes and using ground allspice to spike vegetable dishes, in baked delectables and as pick-up for fresh or stewed fruit desserts.

Hot Pot Soup

5 pounds beef shin
Cold water to cover
1 teaspoon whole allspice
¼ teaspoon whole black peppers
3 whole red peppers
2½ tablespoons salt
2 cups diced turnips
1 cup snap bean, cut in 1-inch lengths
2 cups canned tomatoes
1½ tablespoons instant minced onion
¼ cup flour
½ cup water

Combine first 6 ingredients in a 5-quart saucepan. Cover and simmer 3 hours. Remove meat from soup and strain stock. Cut meat from bones and return to stock along with vegetables and instant minced onion. Cook until vegetables are tender, about 20 minutes.

Mix flour with the 1/3 cup water until smooth and free from lumps. Add to soup and cook until slightly thickened, about 5 minutes. Serve at once. Yield: Approximately 20 servings or 6 quarts.

Bar Cookie Shaped First Then Baked

Easy way to make rolled cookies.

Rolled Sugar Bars

¼ pound butter or margarine
1½ cups sifted confectioners sugar
1 egg (separated)
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1¾ cups flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon water
1 teaspoon confectioners sugar
¼ cup finely chopped or rotary grated pecans or walnuts

Cream butter and 1½ cups confectioners sugar. Reserve 1 tablespoon egg white; add remaining egg white and the yolk with vanilla and grated lemon rind to creamed mixture; mix well. Add flour and salt; mix well and shape dough into a ball; divide in half.

Place one half between two pieces of waxed paper dusted generously with flour or on a well-floured pastry cloth. Roll out to a rectangle about 7½ by 10 inches. Dip cutting edge of knife in flour and cut into bars, each 1½ by 2½ inches.

Mix 1 tablespoon reserved egg white with water and 1 teaspoon confectioners sugar. Brush over tops of bars. Bake on greased cookie sheet in moderate (350 degrees) oven 12 to 15 minutes. Roll cut, glaze and bake other half of dough the same way. Makes 40 cookies.

Wonderful Soup for Cold Nights

Cream of fresh potato and carrot soup is not only something a little different in the way of a combination, but it's easier to prepare than the number of ingredients would at first indicate. You'll need:

2 medium potatoes
2 medium carrots
¼ cup minced onions
2½ cups water
½ teaspoon salt
½ tablespoon flour
1 cup milk
1¼ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
1 tablespoon bacon fat
3 slices crisp bacon

Peel and dice the potatoes and carrots and place in a saucepan with the next three ingredients. Cover and cook 10 minutes or until tender. Put through a sieve, saving the vegetable stock.

Mix the flour to a paste with two tablespoons of the milk and then add the remaining milk. Blend with the vegetables and vegetable stock. Add the salt, the ground black pepper and the bacon fat. Cook until hot and slightly thickened.

Just before serving, crumble half a slice of crisp bacon over each bowl. A rib-sticking dish for six persons!

Frosty Banana Slices

A new frozen dessert suggestion. Slice banana flips from your grocer's ready-to-eat cake department ¼-inch thick. Spread slightly softened vannilla or chocolate ice cream ¼-inch thick in bottom of pan. Cover with a second and third layer of ice cream and banana flip slices. Freeze. To serve slice and serve plain or top with a chocolate or fruit sauce.

Delicate Treat Italian Made

Among the treasured desserts of Italy, the amaretti or macaroon is considered one of the most typical, in these United States. The delicately almond-flavored crunchy goodness of the amaretti is no doubt, well known to you, and probably it's one of your favorite treats.

★ ★ ★

This version of the Italian specialty which has been developed by Sugar Information, Inc., is rather easy to prepare. The only ingredients you need are almonds, sugar, salt, egg whites and almond extract. The only real effort is chopping the nutmeats, and this can be handled easily if you use an ordinary nut chopper.

They're wonderful to serve with afternoon tea or as a delectable accompaniment to fruit compote dessert.

Amaretti (Macaroons)

½ pound blanched almonds
1 cup sugar
Dash of salt
2 egg whites
½ teaspoon almond extract

Chop blanched almonds until they are reduced to a powder. Add sugar and salt and mix well. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold almonds and sugar into egg whites. Add almond extract and blend.

Drop by teaspoons onto buttered and floured cookie sheet. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Allow to stand 2 hours before baking. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) or until golden brown. Yield: 32 macaroons.

Easy Doughnuts for Dunking Quickly Made

The gang will appreciate these homemade doughnuts — not too sweet, fine for dunking.

Dunking Doughnuts

3½ cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons double acting baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs (separated)
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons corn oil
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup milk
1 quart corn oil (for frying)

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Beat egg yolks with rotary beater (hand or electric) until thick and lemon colored. Gradually beat in sugar until very light in color. Beating constantly, add 3 tablespoons oil and lemon juice alternately. Stir 2 cups of the sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk into mixture.

Beat whites until stiff but not dry; fold in. Then fold in enough of the remaining sifted dry ingredients to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly-floured board; knead lightly until smooth.

Pat or roll out to ¼-inch thickness. Cut with floured doughnut cutter. Heat 1 quart oil in 3-quart heavy kettle to 375 degrees (on dep-fat thermometer) or until a 1-inch bread cube browns in 40 seconds.

Fry doughnuts about 2 minutes or until golden brown on one side; turn and fry 2 minutes longer to brown other side. Drain on absorbent paper. Roll in confectioners sugar if desired. Makes about 1½ dozen.

Try Molasses Barbecue

A spicy and golden glaze for barbecued chicken is easily made by combining two tablespoons each of unsulphured molasses, prepared mustard, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice and butter, and 1 teaspoon of Tabasco. Brush the chicken twice with the barbecue sauce during the broiling or baking period.

Sauted bologna slices (without the casing removed) will curl up into cup shapes that make appetizing holders for hot baked beans.

Fifty years ago, this beloved blending of richest chocolate wafers and velvety vanilla cream filling was born. Folks are still celebrating, and you're invited to be delighted, too!

Dill Adds Piquancy to Salmon Stuffing

An enticing, pungent-tasting dill stuffing will make your Lenten standby entree — baked salmon steaks — doubly popular. Choose only medium thick salmon steaks.

On half the steaks, spread a bread stuffing seasoned with chopped celery and dill pickle. Top each salmon steak with another the same size. Fasten the stuffed steaks with toothpicks and brush with melted butter. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 45 minutes.

Dill Pickle Stuffing

Melt 2 tablespoons of butter and pour over 3 cups of soft bread cubes, ¼ cup each of chopped celery and dill pickle. Add a few spoonsful of hot water to moisten. Season with 1 tablespoon lemon juice and ½ teaspoon each of crushed basil, salt and crumbled dry dill or dill seeds, and a dash of pepper.

Few Make the Grade

There are around 7,000 named varieties of apples but only 17 are listed by U.S. Department of Agriculture as usually having yields of more than 2,000,000 bushels a year. These are the Gravenstein, Grimes Golden, Jonathan, Wealthy, Baldwin, Ben Davis, Cortland, Delicious, Golden Delicious, McIntosh, Newtown Pippin, Northern Spy, Rhode Island Greening, Rome Beauty, Stayman, Winesap and York.

Pork Shoulder Goes Oriental With Pineapple

You can save money at any time of the year by buying a shoulder cut of pork, and if you use a little imagination, pork shoulder can be made into a dish just as mouth-watering as the most expensive chops.

The Chinese know how to do it, and the Hawaiians have added some tricks; they're combined in Hawaiian pork, which is pork with pineapple, served over fried noodles or rice.

Ask your butcher to bone a pork shoulder and cut the meat into chunks of about one inch. Coat the bits of pork with a batter of flour and egg. Brown the meat on all sides in a frying pan. Then cover and cook slowly for 30 minutes.

* * *

Cut three green peppers into one-inch squares; boil for 10 minutes and add the peppers and a half cup of pineapple chunks to the meat; simmer for 10 minutes.

* * *

Make a sauce of 2½ tablespoons of cornstarch, 2½ tablespoons of soy sauce, ¼ cup sugar and ½ cup of pineapple juice. Stir while cooking until the sauce is clear. Pour over the meat and simmer five minutes.

To estimate the yield per acre of cranberries, Cape Cod growers toss a hoop into a bog, count the berries within the hoop and multiply the berries by the number of hoops to the acre.

Cherry Recipes February 'Must'

A "natural" for February is this Quick Cherry Bread. Add chopped nuts for crunchy goodness, if you like.

Sift together 2½ cups sifted enriched flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1½ teaspoons salt and ½ teaspoon soda. Cream together ½ cup shortening and 1 cup sugar until light and fluffy. Add 1 egg, mixing well. Add 1 cup chopped, drained maraschino cherries. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with ½ cup milk. Stir in 1 cup chopped nuts, if desired.

Bake in greased loaf pan, 4½x8½ inches, in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour and 15 minutes. Makes 1 loaf.

Fill Grooves of Coffee Cake With Jam

During February and March your key words in food are "better breakfasts." These are months designated as time to repair your nutritional status by checking the important beginning meal of the day.

And breakfast is a pleasure, too, when you've baked a Marmalade Scone Whirl.

Sift together 2 cups sifted enriched flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon sugar. Cut or rub in ¼ cup shortening until mixture is crumbly.

Mix 1 egg, beaten, and ¾ cup milk. Add liquid mixture to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Spread in greased 9-inch round pan.

With spoon or floured fingertips, make circular grooves in dough, making the first one about an inch from edge of pan. Fill grooves with ¾ cup marmalade or preserves. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 1 9-inch coffee cake.

Use Pancake Servers

When you're filling thin pancakes with creamed chicken for a fancy lunch, you'll need a cup of cream sauce and two cups of cubed chicken for the filling. An extra cup of the sauce, flavored with grated Parmesan or Romano cheese may be used for the topping.

Takes Only 8 Minutes for Breakfast Biscuits

You can perk up morning appetites with these hot fragrant breakfast biscuits — a combination of oven-ready refrigerator biscuits, crowned with a golden pineapple topping. They can be on the table in 8 minutes. The biscuits come eight-to-the-can and are convenient to keep on hand ready to use.

Combine 1 cup drained crushed pineapple with 2 tablespoons butter and ¼ cup brown sugar. Place this mixture in the bottom of an 8-inch pie plate. Arrange the 8 refrigerator biscuits close together on top of pineapple mixture. Bake in a hot (450 degree F) oven for about 8 minutes, or until biscuits are golden brown. Turn upside down on a plate to serve.

Norwegians Ate Cake for Hearty Breakfast

Old recipes are always fascinating — especially when they sound utterly delicious and reflect an age of roomy, open-hearth kitchens and immense outdoor appetites. Such is this hundred-year-old Scandinavian recipe for Mocha Raisin Cake.

Believe it or not, this rich, firm, chocolatey cake was originally a breakfast cake, eaten by Norwegians after a hearty breakfast of porridge, fish, potatoes, bread and plenty of steeped coffee. Now, however, the recipe has been refurbished just for our use.

The cake itself has been cut down to the proper size for the smaller American family. Modern ingredients replace some of the old hard-to-gets and it's been carefully tested and retested in a shiny, new oven.

★ ★ ★

Mocha Raisin Cake is so wonderfully sweet that it doesn't need a bit of icing for extra flavor. However, for a lovely final touch, confectioners sugar sprinkled through a paper doily does the trick.

Mocha Raisin Cake

2 cups strong coffee brew
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons breakfast cocoa
1 cup seedless raisins, cut up
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs, unbeaten
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg
½ teaspoon cloves

Combine coffee, sugar, cocoa and raisins in saucepan. Bring to boil and simmer 10 to 15 minutes. Cool. Cream shortening and add sugar gradually, creaming until light and fluffy. Add vanilla. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Mix and sift remaining ingredients. Add, alternating with coffee mixture and stir thoroughly. Bake in greased, floured pan 10 x 10 x 2 inches in moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 1 hour. When cool, place lace paper doily on top. Sift confectioners' sugar on doily; lift off carefully. Cut in squares to serve.

Less Work to Eat

We often forget or are not told that while food prices have been increasing the hours required to earn enough to purchase a given quantity of food have been declining. Between 1940 and 1956, the hours of work required to purchase the weekly market basket declined from about 13.2 to 9.4 hours. The same amount of food in 1929 would have required 21 hours of work.

Meatballs Conceal Fruity Treasure

Surprise! A tangy center of cranberry sauce in each meatball. Makes leftovers seem like new again.

Chicken Pompons

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons minced onion
¾ cup diced celery
5 cups saltine cracker crumbs
½ cup chopped walnuts
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning
½ teaspoon marjoram
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups cooked or canned chicken in small pieces
½ cup melted butter or margarine
¼ cup hot water
10 ¾-inch cubes jellied cranberry sauce

Saute onion and celery in butter or margarine and mix with 3 cups crumbs, walnuts, salt, poultry seasoning, marjoram, pepper, chicken, butter or margarine and hot water. Form into 10 balls around cubes of cranberry sauce. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 15 minutes. Serves 5 or 6.

★ ★ ★

Sauce: Combine 1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup, ½ cup milk and ¼ cup chopped walnuts. Heat, and pour over chicken pompons.

In a hurry? Frozen fishsticks can be ready to serve in eight minutes; take right from the package without defrosting, place in shallow pan and broil about four minutes on each side.

Apples, Bananas Plentiful for Mid-Winter Eating

Citrus supplies are shorter than we expected this season, but both supplies of apples and bananas are larger. Along with Michigan's apple varieties, you will find western Delicious and Winesap.

The banana plantings which survived the May '57 blowdowns are back in full production and new plantings since the blowdown have also come into production. This recovery is a little earlier than was expected for predictions in December were for short supplies until as late as April or May.

Plenty of apples and bananas is good news for the mid-winter fruit bowl.

Quick Cheese Sticks Made of Pie Crust

Prepare enough packaged pie crust as directed on package. Add 1 cup of grated cheese. Mix thoroughly, and, if a little stiff, add just a few drops of milk. For easy handling, separate dough into two parts. Roll out as you would for a pie crust to about ¼ inch thick. Cut with a pastry wheel, or sharp knife, into ribbons about ½ inch wide and 4 inches long. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) about 10 to 12 minutes, on a greased cookie sheet.

The ice cube section of the refrigerator is not cold enough to freeze meat or keep it frozen for more than three or four days.

An integral part of Mrs. Everett Labadie's life involves plants—that is one of the reasons she is a member of Dirt Gardeners Clyl. Here Mrs. Labadie works with a planter in her Westacres home.

'Night Out' Also Appeals to Them

Clubwomen Develop Interests

By GRETTA PORTER

Chances are, if you're an average woman, you belong to at least one club and are probably active in that organization.

Just what is an average clubwoman? We conducted a small - scale survey to determine why a woman joins a club, how it affects her family and how much time it requires.

Pontiac Press Photo

Gone are the days when hubby must starve or eat a peanut butter sandwich the night his wife's club meets. Now, housewives such as Mrs. Neil Nelson of South Marshall street can pop a TV dinner into the oven before she leaves for Child Culture Club meetings and her family will get a balanced meal.

STUDIES CHILDREN

Mrs. Neil Nelson of South Marshall street has two young daughters and has been a member of Child Culture Club for eight years. She will be vice president of the group until new officers are elected in March.

★ ★ ★

"A night out" is one of the reasons Mrs. Nelson joined the club. Meeting with women who have the same problems in raising a family, however, was the important reason Mrs. Nelson became a member of Child Culture Club.

Mr. Nelson, unlike many husbands, was instrumental in getting his wife to join this particular club. He suggested that she do so and she has never been sorry.

★ ★ ★

An active member, Mrs. Nelson presides over meetings in the absence of the club's president, is often chairman of committees and serves as hostess at joint meetings.

YULETIDE BAZAAR

Child Culture Club members stage a Christmas bazaar to finance such projects as helping a needy child or family, sending a child to camp or perhaps donating a wheel chair or clothing to a needy person.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Park Nique of Chamberlain street (her husband is a policeman) joined her club because of her spouse. Mr. Nique is a member of Metropolitan Club Spirit Six, which is composed of postal, fire and police employes. He was a member of this club long before Mrs. Nique joined the auxiliary.

Since her family is grown, Mrs. Nique has much time to devote to club duties. At present, she is financial secretary, which means writing many reports and collecting dues from 126 active members.

★ ★ ★

A rummage sale netted the auxiliary money to donate to a nursery and an individual Christmas basket.

A NIGHT OUT

Mrs. William Woodruff of Prospect street also admits that her club gives her "a night out to meet other women." President of Fashionette Club, a weight - reducing organization, Mrs. Woodruff feels the group has given her added self - confidence.

As for her duties as president, Mrs. Woodruff meets with the Fashionette Club for two hours each week and often has committee meetings which take two or three hours. Her position also requires some telephoning.

Although the club's main purpose is to induce members to lose weight, it has many other projects, including a Valentine party to which each member brought an extra Valentine to be sent to the Children's Home. Members also hostess dances at Nike bases, give Easter baskets to needy families and sew cancer pads.

★ ★ ★

President of Dirt Gardeners Club, Mrs. Everett Labadie of Westacres enjoys the company of fellow gardeners, as well as working in her garden, and so she joined her club.

AN ACTIVE MEMBER

Being president naturally means Mrs. Labadie is an active member of the group. For a week after each monthly meeting she prepares for the future meeting. Then, of course, she has board meetings, occasional district meetings, flower shows and field trips.

★ ★ ★

Each month the Dirt Gardeners discuss a new topic. For instance, at one meeting they may talk about birds, at the next preparing your garden, fertilizers or any one of many topics of interest to gardeners.

Mrs. Labadie points out that the club tries to benefit members in their own gardens.

It's quite obvious then that there is no such thing as an average clubwoman, just as no one can really define the average person. It all depends on what one brings as a member of a club—attitudes, goals, hopes and problems.

A clubwoman's life is always busy, even when she's relaxing. Mrs. William Woodruff of Prospect street, president of Fashionette Club, spends a spare moment doing a little crocheting.

Mrs. Park L. Nique, wife of a policeman, is busy phoning members of Metropolitan Club Auxiliary that their dues are now being accepted.

Mrs. Nique, who lives on Chamberlain street, is financial secretary of the group.

Food Pump Explained to Nurses

Dr. Arnold Brown spoke to members of the Oakland County District Nurses Association concerning the Barron food pump when the group met Tuesday evening at the Baldwin Library in Birmingham.

The Barron food pump provides the only controlled method of alimentary ingestion of natural foods in patients unable to accept whole foods by the normal digestive process.

The pump is the result of five years of study in patient feeding problems conducted by Dr. James Barron of Henry Ford Hospital. Both Pontiac General and St. Joseph Mercy Hospitals are equipped with the Barron pump.

Pupils Sing of Country and Faith

By SYLVIA DE STEIGER

One of the most pleasing sounds to one's ear is that of children singing . . . about their religious beliefs and their love for their country, as well as humorous folk tales.

★ ★ ★

CHRISTIAN FAITH

Appropriately, the first three numbers on the program by the massed chorus consisting of eighth grade students and members of the ninth grade vocal music classes were of the Christian faith. It was the first day of Lent, Ash Wednesday.

Outstanding among the numbers presented by the boy and girl massed chorus was the spiritual, "We Are Climbing Jacob's Ladder." Under the direction of George H. Putnam, supervisor of secondary vocal music, the chorus sincerely sang each word with its fullest meaning.

The bouncy "Looytoodum," a folk song arranged by Bell, brought a loud applause for the Eastern Girls' Glee Club under the direction of Margaret Snyder.

★ ★ ★

The Washington Ninth Grade Chorus under the direction of Gordon Wilder sang with contentment the well-known spiritual, "I've Got Shoes," arranged by Cain.

POPULAR SELECTION

The smallest group to participate in the singing program was the Madison Boys' Glee Club consisting of 24. Under the direction of David Stimac, the boys chose the now popular hit, "A Light in the Window" by Roberts-Jacobson, as one of their presentations.

★ ★ ★

The mellow tones of the Lincoln Choralines, directed by Sue Eckley, also captured the audience with a rendition of another hit parader, "Old Cape Cod" by Rothrock.

A typical man's song, "Battle Hymn of the Republic" by Julia Ward Howe, was sung with depth by the Jefferson Boys' Glee Club under the direction of Eleanor Pyles.

★ ★ ★

Dance routines accompanied five of the songs sung by the massed chorus. These included: A sailor tap routine by eight girls to "Over the Waves;" an Indian scene with the frontier song, "Out Among the Redmen," sung by the Boys' Massed Chorus, and the Chicken Reel by eight girls to "The Erie Canal."

SPANISH DANCING

The colorful Mexican folk song, "El Manton de Manila," directed by William Coffing, was attractive with four couples dancing an appropriate Spanish number.

★ ★ ★

The entire chorus really livened up when the young vocalists clapped their hands and sang the pop tune, "At The Hop," by R. Singer.

The concert began and ended with a patriotic song, the National Anthem and "Your Land and My Land," by Sigmund Romberg.

Fashion Your Figure Club of Pontiac invites all women interested in weight reducing into membership of the club.

Sponsored by the Pontiac Department of Parks and Recreation, the group meets Thursday evenings at 7:30 at Adah Shelly Library.

Social Worker Presents Talk to Pillar Club

Mrs. Earl Floyd, child welfare worker of Oakland County Juvenile Court, spoke to members of Pillar Club Tuesday evening in the West Iroquois road home of Mrs. Robert B. Tarr.

★ ★ ★

She gave an outline of the facilities of the Oakland County Children's Home, clarifying policies underlying care and training of children under the supervision of the Juvenile Court.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Frank Kirby will open her Cherokee road home for the March meeting.

More to Entertain at Benefit Bridge

Mrs. Vivian Tubbs of Tubbs road and Mrs. Paul A. Kern of Long Point drive have added their homes to the list of those being opened for a benefit bridge Friday.

Proceeds will go to the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra, Inc., according to Richard Poole, president.

Noel Buckner Assumes Post

Noel Buckner was named board chairman of Oakland County Child Guidance Clinic. Also named at the Wednesday meeting at the clinic were Mrs. Clarke Andrae, vice chairman; Mrs. John F. Naz, secretary, and Fred Haggard, treasurer.

Because requests for service have doubled since January 1957, means of definite financing were discussed. State law prohibits fee charging at the clinic.

Form Study Club

Mrs. Chester Grammer has been announced as temporary chairman of Wever Pre-School Study Group. This newly formed group meets the third Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Wever kindergarten room.

Control of Party

A successful business keeps control of her party, so that a bore doesn't take over and ruin the evening, talk doesn't become dull and dispirited, or a discussion turn into a heated argument.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Stinson of Birmingham announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Jean, to Dan Cornila Jr., son of Mrs. Leona Cornila of Birmingham and Dan Cornila of Dearborn. He attended Central Michigan College. An August wedding is planned.

Dear Abby . . . .

Not Pained by Broken Panes

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR MISS VAN BUREN: It's very easy for you (an old maid) to sit back and tell the rest of us to let the boys play baseball on our lawns. Have you ever had to replace a broken window because a wild baseball happened to go through it?

JUST WONDERING

ABBY

DEAR JUST: I'm NOT an "old maid." And I have replaced broken windows on BOTH SIDES of my house. My 13-year-old son is a switch-hitter.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I disagree with you when you said "when that man takes his hair down, tell him to leave it down" — meaning his ill-fitting hairpiece. My husband is bald and I would give anything if he would get himself a hairpiece.

Men would not want to look at their wives with no hair so why should women have to look at men without hair?

It doesn't mean a man is vain, either. It is just like putting grass or shrubs in because it is better looking than bare earth. People replace their teeth, arms and legs if something happens to them. Why not hair?

FOR HAIRPIECES

DEAR FOR: The woman who said she preferred to see the man's bald head complained because the hairpiece was artificial looking. I am also for hairpieces, but unless they're natural looking, they're ridiculous.

DEAR ABBY: I belong to a church that forbids divorce. I have been married for two years to a man who told me before we married that he had insurance, owned his own home, clear and free, and had no debts.

I was a widow and he was a widower before we married. I now discover that he has no insurance, his home is mortgaged to the hilt, and he is up to his neck in debts (gambling and others). Please advise me?

ROPED-IN

DEAR ROPED: Talk to your priest. You were "roped-in" all right by a man who misrepresented himself. This is fraud. An annulment might be in order in your case.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: More than once my husband has had a poker game going in our kitchen at 8:30 in the morning so I couldn't get in there to get our three children their breakfast and off to school. He says he is losing and can't quit so what am I going to do?

In order to keep the kids from knowing, I just let them oversleep and tell them it was an accident. This is happening too often and I am very ashamed and unhappy over it. Have you any suggestions?

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: There ought to be a new deal around your house. Tell your husband he can't have the "boys" over for cards unless they quit at a reasonable hour.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I wrote to you a while ago and told you I was going to have a baby and I thought it wasn't my husband's. You told me to stick to my husband — that I could be wrong. Well, that's just what I did.

The baby was a boy and there is no doubt about it. It is my husband's. The baby is the image of him. I just wanted to thank you for our happiness. I won't ever forget you.

SO HAPPY NOW

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ERMO": Did this man put the ring on your FINGER or through your NOSE? You are engaged and should be led only one place — down the aisle.

★ ★ ★

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Why Men Leave Home

'I Just Didn't Know How to Handle Her'

(This is the fourth of six articles telling through case histories why thousands of American men each year leave their wives and children to seek new lives under new identities. The articles are based on the files of the Tracers Company of America. Only the names have been changed.)

By JOSEPH R. MARSHALL
INS Staff Writer

Johnny B. opened the door and listened.

The kitchenette was dark, but he could see a thin band of yellow light under the bedroom door.

★ ★ ★

"Suzi," he called out. "Honey, you home?"

He heard her jump off the bed. The door opened, and she came into the hall. "You're early," she said.

"Things were slow in the salesroom," he replied.

"When you got home," Suzi complained, "I was going to be dressed up to go out. I'm sick of this dirty old apartment. Let's go out, Johnny."

★ ★ ★

He scuffed off his rubbers and slipped out of his raincoat. "We've been out every single night this week. That's why we talked about staying home tonight, remember."

SOMETHING SERIOUS

"I mean really go out, Johnny, for dinner, a nice place. If we have to talk about something serious, we can do it at dinner."

Johnny stepped around her and went into the little living room.

He waited until his young wife followed him. "Look, Suzi," he said, "We've been married two years. I've been out of the Army a year. We got married to have a family, to have a home, not to spend our time gallivanting around.

"This place hasn't been decently cleaned in two weeks. We go out every night. We'd just as well not be married."

Susan snapped out her words. "You talk like an old man," she said. "You're just 21. I'm 19. We've got all our lives to get serious and have children and a family. I want to live, like we used to live, and have fun while we still can."

★ ★ ★

"You don't understand," he said. "Yes I do. You want me to stay home all the time and slave for you and cook all day. All right, I'll cook, I'll fix your dinner, and you eat it." She turned into the kitchenette, and slammed a frying pan on the stove.

Johnny ate his dinner.

THEN HE LEFT

The next day he disappeared.

Dan Eisenberg, head of Tracers Company of America, said that the first years of marriage are one of the critical times, when husbands may find themselves unable to adjust their new situation to to adjust to their new situation to their ambitions and desires.

Jacob T. Zukerman of the Family Location Service, a welfare-type agency specializing in family desertion, has said that in cases of young people, the root cause of the husband's disappearing is often a lack of preparation for "the assumption of family responsibilities."

Susan called her mother-in-law, who insisted she did not know where Johnny was.

Finally, she went to a welfare agency.

John had been an automobile salesman, and, fortunately, when he went to work again he used his old boss as a reference. The agency soon found him living and working in a Southern city.

There the agent of a corresponding agency talked with him in an attempt to help Johnny clarify his own feelings. He went back over all the things that had happened in their marriage, the quick romance, his year overseas during the Korean War when Susan stayed with her family, his return, their settling in a furnished room, his job as a salesman and their moving into the apartment.

A LOT OF FUN

"Things were going pretty good up till then," he said. "We had a lot of fun. You couldn't spend all your time at home in a one-room apartment.

"I figured of course we'd have a child as soon as my job took hold. That's when it started. She didn't want a baby. She didn't want to clean the house. I tried to tell her . . . but I guess I just didn't know how to handle her."

John agreed to return to his home city, where the local agency talked with him and Susan separately. Her point was quite simple.

"Look at me," she said, "I'm just 19. I don't want to be stuck away at home like some old hausfrau. I want to live when I'm young, but he wants me to have a whole ream of kids."

★ ★ ★

Zukerman said, "They were helped to appreciate what was involved in a mafriage . . . the need for sharing, the need for appreciating one another's strengths and weaknesses, the importance of giving and taking."

Both discussed with social workers the ability to adjust their own needs and interests to those of the other.

WILLING TO WORK

Johnny was willing to work and help Susan in her need for an active social interest. Susan came to acknowledge Johnny's viewpoint that the wife must make a home and raise a family.

Six months after their reconciliation, the agency learned Johnny and Susan had become active in a number of community groups. The case was closed when an agency worker made the final followup, and talked to Johnny.

"Everything's fine," he said, "Great. Suzi's going to have a baby."

(Tomorrow: The "other woman")

Yvonne M. Giroux and Charles A. Weir were united in marriage Saturday. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Giroux, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Weir are the bridegroom's parents.

MR. and MRS. CHARLES A. WEIR

Yvonne M. Giroux Weds

White carnations, gladioli and snapdragons banked the altar of St. Michael Church for the Saturday morning wedding of Yvonne M. Giroux and Charles A. Weir of James road. The Rev. William A. Immel performed the ceremony before 100 guests.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Giroux of Walnut road are parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Weir of Lapeer are the bridegroom's parents.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of white nylon lace over satin and carried an arrangement of white carnations.

As her sister's maid of honor, Berna Giroux was gowned in pink nylon chiffon and organdy. Her bouquet was of pink carnations.

★ ★ ★

Bridesmaids Dorthoy Zablocki and Sally Weir wore orchid gowns of nylon chiffon and organdy. They carried orchid and white carnations.

The bridegroom's brother, Jack Weir of Lapeer, acted as best man. Earl and Thomas Weir of Lapeer, brothers of the bridegroom, seated the guests.

For a reception at a hall on Baldwin avenue Mrs. Giroux chose a beige dress with a brown silk jacket and yellow carnation corsage.

The bridegroom's mother wore a red wool knit dress with a corsage of red and white peppermint carnations.

The couple will live on Lincoln avenue.

Bride-to-Be Entertained at Shower

Ann Marie St. Charles, whose marriage to John McGaffey will be an event of April 12, was honored with a shower given by Mrs. C. A. Gill and Mrs. John F. Keesling in the Lorberta lane home of the latter.

★ ★ ★

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest St. Charles of Chamberlain street. John's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald McGaffey of Birmingham.

Among the guests for the Tuesday evening shower were Mrs. St. Charles, Mrs. McGaffey, Mrs. Richard Schaeffer, Mrs. William Hotchkiss, Mrs. Duane Kline, Mrs. Gerald Schell, Mrs. Louis Fairbrother, Mrs. Glen Blust, Mrs. Maynard Ramin and Mrs. John P. Bookie.

★ ★ ★

Concluding the guest list were Mrs. Thomas Powers, Mrs. Paul Holbel, Mrs. Gerald Green, Mrs. John Novess, Alice Hayes and Mrs. Dale Groat.

Circles Sew Pads for Cancer Society

Dorcas Circle of First Christian Church met Tuesday morning with Elizabeth Circle to sew cancer pads for the American Red Cross.

Luncheon was served and the two groups joined together for the program in which Mrs. Lowell Mount and Mrs. Allan Hersee participated.

Bridal Gift Exchanged Too Soon

It's Better to Wait Until After Rite to Trade Presents

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: The daughter of a friend of mine was married recently and my husband and I were invited to the wedding. After the ceremony everyone was asked to the house for a little collation and also to look at the wedding presents.

"I looked for my wedding present but could not find it. However, after carefully looking over all the presents again, I found my card attached to an entirely different present from the one I sent. I was very much put out over this and felt that the bride was very unappreciative of my wedding present.

"My husband tells me there is no cause to feel hurt as it is the bride's privilege to exchange wedding presents if she wants to. Even so, don't you think she should have at least waited until after the wedding to do this? I would very much like to have your opinion on this matter."

Answer: While your husband is right about it being the bride's privilege to exchange wedding presents, I certainly think that she should have waited until after the wedding to do so. Putting your card on something that you did not send was entirely wrong.

"Dear Mrs. Post: We are members of a Protestant church and our minister stands at the door to shake hands with the departing members after services each Sunday. We feel some of his sermons are very inspiring and would like to tell him so. Would this be proper, and how do we go about telling him this?"

Answer: When he is shaking hands with you, it is entirely proper to make a comment on his sermon.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When I have two or three couples in to dinner, is it necessary that I tell each guest where to sit, or would it be proper to just let them seat themselves wherever they like? I would very much appreciate hearing from you on this."

Answer: Correctly the hostess tells her guests where to sit because otherwise it is usually awkward for them.

Adopt Relaxed Attitude Toward Life

Tenseness Creates an Older You

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Do you have a youthful attitude? Do you approach daily living with optimism and zest? Do you laugh as much as you used to? Do you find as many reasons for stimulation and interest and laughter in every day as you once did? If not, you have changed, not the world.

★ ★ ★

It is easy to do. Strains and stresses and disappointments and unhappiness will nip at the bloom of life and transform your outlook into a grim, tense one if you allow them to.

Does your temper catch fire at the least spark of irritation or heetiCness, or frustration? Are you intolerant of situations which you once would have found humorous? Do you go after each day with the sledge hammer of tenseness? If so, the world may be waving at you, but the world and those who love you do not have a chance!

★ ★ ★

I often have made the observation that women who remain youthful looking are usually happy women. Of course one reason for this is the fact that negative emotions are destructive to health. Also, a tense, grim approach to life actually molds our facial contour into lines of age.

★ ★ ★

Sit in front of a mirror. Think unhappy thoughts. Scowl at yourself. Feel tense and worried and look at what it does to your face. Your entire contour pulls downward. The corners of your mouth sink toward your jawline. There is a pull from the crners of your nose to your mouth. Frowning etches a deep line between the brows.

Now lift the corners of your mouth. Relax your facial muscles. Stop frowning and notice the great difference. Lines disappear. Contour lifts. You look, and feel, years younger.

That is the danger of allowing oneself to tense up. Without realizing it, hour after hour, you are not only injuring your health but you are creating an older looking you.

★ ★ ★

I believe it to be extremely important to check ourselves periodically as to our approach to daily life. A hectic, tense attitude can slip up on us unless we do.

Tomorrow: "For High Forehead, Try Wearing Bangs."

Mrs. Donald E. Newman (right) of Perry street and Mrs. Glenn Valance of West Huron street meet to make final preparations for the George Washington dinner at 6:30 p.m. Friday in the home of Mrs. Valance. The dinner will benefit the Women's Group of Unity Church.

Honored at Linen Shower

Betty Soper, bride - elect of Charles E. Hauser Jr., was honored Monday evening with a linen shower given in the Gateway drive home of Mrs. James E. Powers. Cohostesses for the event were Mrs. Harvey Kerr and Mrs. David Bickerstaff.

A blue organdy cloth covered the table, which was centered with a blue and white floral arrangement. Blue tapers on either side carried white cherub climbers.

Mrs. Eugene Soper, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. Charles Hauser, mother of the prospective bridegroom, poured.

Guests included Mrs. George Horsley, Mrs. Frank Harper, Mrs. Nick Palmer, Mrs. Alford Bell, Mrs. Stanley Barker, Mrs. William Fournier, Mrs. Barney McKevitz, Mrs. Robert Miller and Mrs. Marie Carson.

★ ★ ★

Also on the guest list were Mrs. Henry Milligan, Mrs. Charles McIntosh, Mrs. James Beall, Mrs. Wallace Mayer, Mrs. Robert Keglovitz, Mrs. Robert Anderson, Mrs. William Conarty, Mrs. Chanel Fournier and Mrs. George Berz.

St. Benedict Catholic Church will be the setting for the April 12 wedding.

Scouts Name District Head for Waterford

Mrs. J. G. Peck was named district chairman for Waterford Township when board of directors of Northern Oakland County Girl Scout Council met Tuesday in the CAI Building, Waterford.

Named neighborhood chairmen were Mrs. Howard Kieft of Lakeview, Mrs. George Cavenee of East Commerce road, Mrs. Cyril Davis of Edison road and Mrs. Silas Sadler of Silver Lake road.

Theresa Burleigh of Chicago, regional adviser for Girl Scouts of U. S. A., attended the meeting.

MOMS Unit Meets With Mrs. Rathbun

The Hillfield road home of Mrs. Bert Rathbun was the scene of the MOMS of America Unit Two meeting Tuesday.

Members were served a school-girl luncheon followed by social activities. Two guests for the affair were Mrs. L. R. Naugle of the Auburn Heights Unit 19 and Mrs. John Miller.

To Spend $1.9 Million at Selfridge AFB

CINCINNATI (AP) — Headquarters of the United States Air Force has released approximately $1,900,000 in construction funds for Selfridge Air Force Base, Mt. Clemens, it was announced today.

Col. Joseph Friedlander Jr. Air Force installations representative for the Ohio River region, made the announcement.

He said projects include two airmen's dormitories of 400 men capacity each, and one 800-man dining hall.

★ ★ ★

The building will replace facilities built during World War II and earlier, Col. Friedlander said.

Selfridge Air Force Base is a main installation of the Air Defense Command and houses two fighter interceptor squadrons.

The contract will be advertised, awarded and the construction supervised by the Detroit District, U. S. Army engineers.

Superstition Saves Man From Bad Beating

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)— Superstition saved a man a possible beating and 30 pounds sterling (84 dollars) in cash when he was held up by three natives in a lonely suburb of western Johannesburg.

While he was walking through the street, the trio suddenly emerged from an alley and seized him. As the robbers wrestled to get the man's jacket off, suddenly his artificial arm came loose and fell to the ground. The robbers, panic-stricken, fled into the surrounding darkness.

Exemptions May Be Expensive but They're Taxpayers' Friend

(Fourth in a series of eight articles, this story tells how you can make sure you are getting credit for every exemption you are entitled to on your income tax return. Be sure to save it for reference when you make out your return.)

By G. K. HODENFIELD
Associated Press Writer

Exemptions are wonderful things.

Every exemption you claim knocks $600 right off the top of your gross income, making it tax free. Since the amount for each exemption is so large, the rules are precise and rigid. Within those rules, however, you should claim every exemption to which you are entitled.

There are three types of exemptions: for yourself, or for yourself and spouse if you are filing a joint return; for your children, and for "others."

That's the order in which they appear on your income tax forms, so that is the order in which they'll be taken up here.

EVERYBODY GETS ONE

Each taxpayer gets at least one exemption for himself. He is entitled to another if he is 65 or over (even if he reached his 65th birthday on the last day of 1957). And he is entitled to still another if he is blind.

The same rules apply to married couples who file joint returns.

If both are 65 or over they are entitled to four exemptions; if one is 65 or over and the other is under that age, they get three exemptions.

Now, about the children. The big thing here is that — to be claimed as an exemption — they must have received more than half their support from you during the tax year.

You can claim one exemption for each child, stepchild or legally adopted child who was not more than 18 years old at any time during the tax year.

Within this age group it doesn't matter how much income the child had, so long as you paid more than half of his or her support.

If the child reached age 19 during the tax year or is even older you may still claim an exemption if he or she is a full-time student or had a taxable income of less than $600 for the year — and still providing that you paid more than half the support costs.

Your Income Tax-No. 4

Requirements Stiff

In addition to exemptions for yourself, your spouse and your children, you may claim other dependents whether or not thhey are related to you.

These dependents, however, have to meet some pretty stiff requirements.

To qualify as exemptions for you these dependents must:

1. Have received less than $600 in total reportable income during 1957;

2. Have received more than half their support from you;

3. Have not filed a joint return for 1957 with their spouse;

4. Be a citizen or resident of the United States or a resident of Canada, Mexico, the Republic of Panama or the Canal Zone; and

5. Either have been a member of your household for the entire taxable year, or be related to

you. If you are filing a joint return, they may be related to either husband or wife.

Relatives who may qualify under these provisions are: mother, father, mother-in-law, father-in-law, brother, sister, step-brother, stepsister, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, stepmother, stepfather, grandparents, grandchildren or when related by blood — aunt, uncle, niece or nephew.

Note that rule 5 above says they must either have been a member of your household for the entire tax year, or must be related to you. Thus, a foster child would not qualify as a relative, but might qualify if he or she had spent the entire year in your household and met the other provisions as to income, age, support, etc.

And the Internal Revenue Service warns you not to try to list the maid or the butler — servants are not considered part of the household.

You may have noted above that one of the provisions for claiming an exemption is that the dependent does not have a reportable income of $600 or more during the year. We'll go into this in greater detail in the next article, but it might be well to point out here that not all income need be reported.

Social security payments, for instanbe, are tax-free and need not be reported, and so are most inheritances and death benefits from insurance policies.

Suppose you have a child aged 19 or more who had taxable income of less than $600 for the year, but who received $1,000 in death benefits from an insurance policy. That $1,000 wouldn't count against the exemption but you would still have to show that you paid more than half the support costs during the year. If the child used the $1,000 to pay his or her own support costs, you lose the exemption regardless of whether the $1,000 is tax-free, unless you contributed more than $1,000 additional to the support costs.

There is one more thing to be considered while we're discussing exemptions — the case where several persons together contribute more than half the support of an individual during the year, but no one alone contributed more than half. That might be the case where four brothers chipped in equally to support a widowed mother.

Cooperation Pays

One of the taxpayers concerned may claim the supported person as an exemption if:

1. The supported person meets the requirements for a dependent (as outlined above);

2. The person claiming the exemption contributed more than 10 per cent of the dependent's support; and

3. Each other person in the group files a statement with the IRS declaring that he or she is not claiming the same exemption for the same tax year.

★ ★ ★

In this way, each member of the group may take his turn in claiming an exemption to which none of the group would ordinarily be entitled.

The next article will outline the income you have to declare, that which is tax-free, and the exclusions you may claim.

Julia is a Latin name for "soft-haired."

Ancient Joke Supplies Name for New Play

NEW YORK (AP) — An old joke has supplied the name for an upcoming Broadway comedy.

The play by Norman Krasna was originally entitled "My Wife and I," but Producer Leland Hayward has switched now to calling it "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?"

The show, starring Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy, is due in February.

Case of Missing Burro Solved by Mail Order Firm

CHICAGO (AP)—A company that sells live animals by mail today solved the mystery of who is to get a burro classified as lost at the Wenatchee, Wash., Railway Express office.

The burro ate his shipping tags.

★ ★ ★

Spiegel, Inc., Chicago mail order firm, said the burro was shipped Feb. 13 from Laredo, Tex., to Charles E. Preston, Wenatchee.

★ ★ ★

The company said the animals are shipped with plenty of feed but they somehow consider shipping tags a special delicacy. It has happened before.

The U.S. has about 29 per cent of the world's railway mileage on about 5 per cent of the earth's land surface.

Walk of Fame Omits Tribute to Chaplin

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Charles Chaplin isn't among 1,500 names to be embedded in bronze stars on the sidewalks of Hollywood Boulevard.

★ ★ ★

Immortalizing a host of stars in the paving of a "Walk of Fame" is an improvement project planned by movieland merchants.

Chaplin, the great, silent-screen comic, went to Europe after being accused in this country of Communist sympathies.

Asked why his name was omitted, Harry M. Sugarman, head of the improvement group said, "His name could be added later. Opinion on him was divided. . . ."

Her Camera Records Many Famous Faces

LONDON (AP)—A shy young man walked into Dorothy Wilding's photographic studio one day and had his picture taken.

The day was 30 years ago. The young man later became the Duke of Kent, who died in a World War II plane crash.

★ ★ ★

Looking back, Dorothy Wilding mused: "That was my first royal portrait. Some years later he came in for a picture with his fiancee, Princess Marina of Greece."

Plump, dynamic and in her late 50s, Miss Wilding has spent a lifetime making pictures of the world's famous faces.

★ ★ ★

At her discreet Mayfair studio the telephone may ring anytime from Buckingham Palace. Seven times she has been summoned to photograph Queen Elizabeth II.

The first time was a family picture at Buckingham Palace on the coronation of King George VI in 1937.

And when she acceded to the throne, the Queen commissioned a Wilding portrait to adorn Britain's postage stamps.

The Duke of Windsor in his brief reign as King Edward VIII gave up the throne before a sitting could be arranged.

Some years later he kept the appointment at Miss Wilding's studio in New York.

"Sitting alone in front of the camera he seemed quite sad," Miss Wilding said.

★ ★ ★

"But as soon as the duchess walked into the studio his eyes lit up like magic."

Elder statesman Bernard Baruch was the only sitter who ever went to sleep before Miss Wilding's camera.

"Such a charming old boy. He came along feeling drowsy after lunch. While I was adjusting the lights he dozed off. His secretary nudged him gently and he woke up and apologized."

Author Somerset Maugham was firm on one point. "Don't take the wrinkles out of my face," he ordered.

Truman Plans to Tour for Human Fellowship

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman says he plans to embark soon on a speaking tour in behalf of human fellowship.

★ ★ ★

The ex-President, here last night to receive an award from the Golden Slipper Square Club, a Masonic-affiliated group, said he will make a series of speeches on the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God. He did not say when he planned to start.

The basin of the Great lakes is about 248,500 square miles, according to estimates of the U.S. geological survey.

Luin Duck, an 83-year-old Chinese resident of Victoria, B.C., explained his youthful complexion with "No smoke, no drink, and read the Bible every day." He added that he did not retire from hard work on his farm until he was 76 years old.

DIVISION INSPECTION—Electrician's Mate-Power 2.C Robert Criss, of 900 Gunn Rd., Rochester stands at attention during inspection by Capt. Richard Hayes, Commander of the U. S. Naval and Marine Corps Training Center, Detroit. He was one of the members of the Pontiac Naval Reserve Training Center taking part in the annual division inspection yesterday.

Inspect Pontiac Navy Center

Reserve Training Center, located at 469 S. East Blvd., shined up their brass and stood at strict attention yesterday as they went through the annual division inspection.

Heading the local unit, Surface Division 9-104 (L), was Cmdr. Robert T. Welch, of 975 Brooklawn St., Birmingham, and Lt. Cmdr. Bernard A. Woessner, who commands the local training center.

Throughout the day various aspects of life at the center were under the close scrutiny of Capt. Richard Hayes, commander of the U. S. Naval and Marine Corps Training Center in Detroit, and his assistants, Lt. Cmdr. A. A. Dutton, of the Dearborn Naval Reserve Training Center, and Lt. Cmdr. K. E. Lord, of the Jackson Naval Reserve Center.

During the morning hours, the inspection committee centered its interest around administrative personnel and materials. They got a first hand glance at how the local center is run and maintained on a day-to-day basis.

In the afternoon, training records were gone over to see how efficiently the local unit is in preparing personnel for possible future conflict.

★ ★ ★

The personnel inspection took place shortly after 7:30 p.m. when the men mustered at the 469 S. East Blvd. center. Following this, the visiting officers sat in on classes in session.

Inspection marks will be compared with the showing of other divisions in the Ninth Naval District, which covers 13 states in the Midwest.

The top 10 centers will then be chosen to compete in the national championships. Eventually, sometime this summer, one outstanding Naval Reserve Center will be chosen as winners of the 1958 Forrestal Trophy.

Pontiac reigned in the top 10 from their district last year and were 73rd in the nation. They hope to improve on this record during the current year.

Hollywood Headlines

Old Time Cowboy Star Makes Comeback on TV

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's a safe bet that Bob Steele has led and been chased by more posses than any other Westerner ever.

Steele represents the middle period of the American Western movie, when Hollywood ground out dozens of low-budget horse operas yearly to satisfy the public's craving for outdoor adventure. He started in films when he was 14, starred in 180 Westerns, has appeared in dozens of others.

★ ★ ★

Now, still trim and handsome at 51, he is enjoying new activity, thanks to TV. He's playing roles in the new crop of adult Westerns, the latest being as a killer in "The Californians."

★ ★ ★

"Oh, we really turned them out in the early talkies, we could grind out a feature in six to eight days for $18,000 to $20,000. Once I did two five-reel features in five days! The star would get $3,000 to $5,000, which wasn't bad pay considering the times."

Then came the period of the singing cowboy, which pained most of the old-timers.

"We all thought it couldn't last," said Steele. "It didn't make sense; the whole action stopped while the hero played a guitar and sang a song."

Music may have contributed to the death of the program Western. Certainly TV was a contributing factor. The channels were flooded with old Westerns, and Hopalong Cassidy became a national hero.

"The program Westerns just stopped," Steele recalled. "There weren't any more."

When Westerns came back on TV with a bang, he decided to join 'em.

Now he keeps busy playing heavies and good guys in the new medium.

Tomorrow: The Western's earliest days.

Board to Study Leopold Appeal

Slayer's Parole Plea Will Be Considered in Illinois Today

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois Parole and Pardon Board considers thrill-slayer Nathan Leopold's plea for parole today.

The 53-year-old convict, who has served more than 33 years in Stateville Prison for the 1924 kidnap-murder of Bobby Franks, 14, in Chicago, made his latest bid for freedom before the five-man board Feb. 5.

He pleaded: "Gentlemen, I beg you to show me the mercy I did not show. Give me the chance to try to be useful and to justify my existence."

This is Leopold's fifth attempt to win release from Stateville. He and Richard Loeb entered the prison Sept. 11, 1924, after pleading guilty to the crime. They were sentenced to life for muder and 99 years for kidnaping. Leopold was 19 and Loeb 18 at the time. Loeb was slain by another inmate in 1936.

★ ★ ★

Leopold and Loeb, sons of wealthy South Side Chicago families, were brilliant scholars and were graduate students at the University of Chicago. Both set about a twisted scheme to commit the perfect crime, to get $10,000 ransom and to examine coldly and intellectually their own reactions to their crime.

Radio Runs Long Time

ORANGEBURG, N. J. — A new portable radio - phonograph powered by ordinary flashlight batteries has been developed by an Orangeburg concern. The tubeless, 6-pound set needs no aerial, according to the manufacturer, and will play 6,000 records or 750 hours of radio without a battery charge.

Lemon Belief Altered

ROME — A recent discovery has altered filstorians' belief that the lemon was first introduced to Europe by Arabs in the 12th Century. A very clear wall painting of a lemon tree has been unearthed in the ruins of Pompeii, the Roman city that was buried in 79 A.D. by Mount Vesuvius' eruption.

Reds Uniting to Push West

Seek Summit Confab on Communist Terms, Using Pressure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union and Red China apparently are working on a concerted plan to put maximum pressure on the Western powers to hold a summit conference on Communist terms.

U.S. officials found evidence of this today in the timing of two widely separated but remarkably similar actions within the past two days:

★ ★ ★

1. Communist China's announced decision to withdraw troops from North Korea this year.

2. An announcement by the Soviet commander in East Germany of plans to reduce the Soviet forces there by 41,000 men.

In the United States view the Soviets and Red Chinese can take these actions at little cost to themselves—indeed they may be necessary for reasons unrelated to a summit conference—yet make a show of relaxing tensions.

Much the same thing happened before the 1955 summit conference, when the Soviet Union suddenly agreed to unification of Austria after years of stalling.

By such means, as well as by the letters which Soviet Premier Bulganin has been writing to President Eisenhower, the Reds can hope to build up worldwide pressure for summit talks.

Chinese Cooking Admired by Lady Editors

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — It has long been a curiosity to many American housewives, as they broil their beef until it is well dead, how the Chinese live so long and stay so slim.

All that rice. And everything boiled in oil. Not to memtion eight courses on weekdays and 16 on Sundays and holidays.

SURE YARDSTICK

"A sure yardstick of the health of a civilization," said the Chinese cooking teacher in explanation, "are how that civilization eat."

The audience, all lady editors with chicken salads under their belts, was rapt.

Mrs. Dorothy Lee, who gives a course in cooking at the China Institute, continued. She pointed out that most vegetables require two to three minutes cooking, and meat in tidbit form takes about the same amount over high heat. The audience could not help but be conscience struck, recalling last night's home cooked American meal — those limb globs of broccoli brought back to life with rich hollandaise; the frozen candied yams adhering first to aluminum foil, later to newly discovered cavities; the beef patty parched for ketchup.

KNIVES APPALLING

"Chinese," Mrs. Lee went on, "believe that a dining table is a very pleasant and social place. The sight of knives on the table is just appalling. This is one season we cut up vegetables and meats into little pieces, and the meats are cooked so tender they can be broken up with chopsticks."

★ ★ ★

She grinned prettily, rubbing soy sauce into the wounds. "The vegetables also are cut up small to hasten cooking, and this preserves all vitamins and makes colors and textures vivid and crisp."

She demonstrated — turning out, in four minutes over a towering gas flame a meat-vegetable dish that was fit for a Ming. Or a magazine illustration.

★ ★ ★

"It is with this fast cooking that Chinese banquets used to have 64 courses. Now they have only 16."

Yet the Chinese are slim people, seldom overstuffed; they live to riper ages than nationalities which eat less but heavier foods.

"Funny thing," Mrs. Lee explains, "the chief difference between American and Chinese vegetables cooking is that oil — vegetable oil — is the Chinese cooking medium while you favor water in the U. S. Yet fat makes up less than 10 per cent of the Chinese diet, and over 40 per cent of the average American food intake is fats."

LITTLE OIL USED

The secret: They use very little oil — just enough "to marry up the vegetables and meat" — while most other nationalities glob butter on everything after it is cooked.

Mrs. Lee created a magnificent culinary concoction in honor of the Chinese New Year, which is currently being celebrated in New York's Chinatown.

Called "Wu Liu Yu" (meaning "five-willow fish"), which consists of a steamed carp overlaid with a leafy pattern of pungent sauce containing shreds of bamboo shoots, mushrooms, ham, green and sweet pepper and scallions.

"This is a celebration dish, and takes a long time," she said.

It took 20 minutes.

The audience already green with envy at her cooking technique, turned green with typical American stomach timidity as she laid the fish on the platter, with "The Chinese," teacher said softly "believe that everything should have a beginning and an end."

Isolated Four Days, Town Gets Supplies

PATTON, Pa. (AP) — Thanks to hard-working railroad and highways crews, enough food and fuel was on hand today in this western Pennsylvania mountain community to supply the 3,000 residents who had been isolated four days by deep snow drifts.

★ ★ ★

All approaches to the town had been sealed off since Sunday by one of the winter's worst storms. One road finally was opened to one-way traffic.

Last night a supply train of two boxcars and a tank car battled its way through. All the power of five diesel units was used to grind 18 miles from Cresson to Patton in two hours. The trip normally takes an hour.

★ ★ ★

Happy townspeople met the train and staged an impromptu celebration under floodlights.

Fear 200 Indians Dead in Coal Mine Explosion

NEW DELHI (AP)—Two hundred Indians were feared dead today after an explosion in the Chimakur coal mine near Calcutta.

★ ★ ★

Labor Minister Gulzarilal Nanda told Parliament 180 persons were missing since the explosion last night. He said a neighboring mine was flooded and 20 other miners were drowned.

★ ★ ★

Nanda said he was flying to the scene.

Press reports said rescuers pulled 17 miners to safety before a fierce fire drove them back.

U.S. Chief Consumer

CHICAGO — The United States, with little more than 6 per cent of the world's population and less than 7 per cent of the world's land area, produces and consumes well over one third of the world's goods and services. In factory goods alone the United States turns out close to half the global total.

British Roads Paved

LONDON — Almost the entire highway mileage is hard-surfaced in the United Kingdom and Belgium. About three fourths of the highways in France are paved, as are about half in the United States and more than half in New Zealand.

Arguing about which is harder to get — a hole-in-one in golf or a "300" game in bowling?

Most sports people will agree, and there are some who will not, that the "300" game is tougher to accomplish.

It is generally accepted that there has to be more luck in getting the ace and it is accomplished by a single stroke and not a series of strokes.

The target in golf is smaller and the distance is greater thus the common objective is the green.

In bowling the distance is shorter and target bigger with the objective being the head pin. The bowler however has to accomplish his feat with a consecutive series of 12 "pars" or strikes.

The pressure of the ace is very seldom present as most golfers shoot for the green and not strictly the cup.

The pressure is greater in bowling when a string of strikes has been accumulated.

★ ★ ★

"THE BIRDIE" SEZ:

Unofficial statistics say that, today with greater numbers participating in each sport, the odds for the "ace" are 10,000 to one and 350,000 to one for the "300" game.

As far is this writer goes the odds for the "ace" would probably be hundred-million to one and in bowling ten-trillion to one.

We can only imagine what pride a person can feel when he gets one or the other. Amen, we don't even want to argue.

★ ★ ★

Can't even get a hot "worm-plate special" these days so our friend the "Birdie" decided to head South, but not until after he left his choices for this week on the area cage front.

It was a frigid forecast last week as he hit only seven of 12 games to bring his season total to 69-22. This is the birdie's last effort of the season and the "Worm plate specials" see East Detroit upsetting Ferndale, Clarkston to sneak by at Holly and St. Fred to make it two for the season Sunday against St. Mike.

MacPhail Favors 4 Big Leagues

Former Baseball Executive Cites Woes of Majors

Sees Obsolete Parks, Night Games, TV Top Trouble Makers

NEW YORK (INS) — Larry MacPhail, who built himself a reputation for what passed as "genius" during his years as a baseball executive, has gone on record in favor of four major leagues.

MacPhail says that baseball is going through one of the three most serious crises in its history. The others, he says, were the Black Sox affair in 1919 and the courts' challenge to the reserve clause in 1946.

Baseball survived both of those, but MacPhail finds the owners' complacency "astonishing" in the latest time of trouble.

MacPhail points out, in an article in the current issue of Life magazine, that baseball has been losing out — if attendance is any criterion — to both pro basketball and pro football in fan appeal.

He ticks off obsolete parks, unlimited night baseball and television as the three causes of all the trouble. He charges that TV revenue is an "anesthetic which has put the clubowners to sleep and made them complacent about the loss of attendance."

"The way things are going," he adds, "we will soon have studio baseball. Instead of being a sport, baseball will be in the entertainment business in competition with movies, giveaway shows, wrestling and theatricals — and baseball will be putting on the poorest show."

One of the symptoms of decay cited by MacPhail is the decline of the minor leagues. This cannot be denied. But is it any solution to take what formerly were minor league teams and simply call them "major?"

6 Tigers Still Must Be Signed

Harvey Kuenn Reaches Agreement but $4,000 Less Than '57

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Harvey Kuenn picked up his mitt and jogged into centerfield for the first time in his Major League career today..

"I ought to be able to run real fast," grinned the Detroit Tigers player as he worked out at the club's early training camp. "I sure won't be carrying as much money as I did last year as shortstop."

Kuenn came to terms with Gen. Mgr. John McHale yesterday after trying vainly to convince his boss he shouldn't have to take a $4,000 cut from the $30,000 he got last year.

★ ★ ★

Still among six players as yet unsigned is pitcher Frank Lary who is resisting efforts to cut him down from the $22,000 he received last year. Lary had an 11-16 record last year after leading the American League with 21 victories in 1956.

Today's scheduled game with a team from the St. Louis Cardinal rookie camp was called off because of cold weather.

Pistons Gain Playoffs

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The unpredictable Detroit Pistons have two events to look forward to as the National Basketball Assn. season nears a close.

One is a berth in the NBA's Western Division playoffs. They clinched that last night when they defeated the Minneapolis Lakers 117-115 in overtime.

The other event is the possibility that their George Yardley will break the all-time league scoring mark set by George Mikan of the Lakers in '1951. The lanky Pistons star dropped in 43 points last night, bringing his career total to 1,716 points, 216 short of Mikan's record.

BONUS CASUALTY — Jackie Davis, $40,000 bonus prospect of the Philadelphia Phillies, is an early casualty at Clearwater, Fla., where the Phils are training. The former Baylor University football star is helped by trainer Frank Wiechee and farm team manager Frank Lucchesi after Davis injured his ankle.

Detroit's newly found flair for close finishes showed itself in the last 40 seconds last night when Chuck Noble and Bill Kenville scored fast break layups to tie the score at 107-all in regulation time.

The Lakers had led 100-86 with five minutes to play.

Two free throws by the Pistons' Walter Dukes tied the score at 115-all in overtime and Gene Shue sank a jump shot in the last two seconds to wrap it up for the Pistons.

Philadelphia slammed Boston 123-103 and Syracuse tripped New York 116-110 in a doubleheader at Syracuse in the other loop action last night.

★ ★ ★

The Celtics dropped below .700 in losing their 2nd game in the last four. Woody Sauldsberry tallied 24 and Paul Arizin 23 as Philly dominated play all the way. Bob Cousy and Bill Russell had 15 apiece for the Celtics who lead the Eastern Division by 6½ games.

New York dropped to two games behind Philly by losing in their battle for the final Eastern playoff berth. Johnny Kerr hooped 31 for Syracuse while Carl Braun hit 29 for the Knicks.

Two Squads Set to Roll in Championship Round

The stage is all set for championship series of the 1958 Bowlerama with two squads of bowlers ready to battle for the big prize pot.

The first squad will begin rolling at 11:30 a.m. at Huron Bowl Saturday and the second squad will go at 1:00 p.m.

A total of 32 will comprise the first squad, including one 6-player team of women.

The afternoon squad will have 44 bowlers, 34 men and 12 women. The alley teams have been placed in categories according to average so as not to have 190 bowlers competing on the same alley with 120 average bowlers.

★ ★ ★

Most of the teams are made up of six players on a pair of alleys.

The bowlers will pay their bowling fee for the finals as soon as they register at Huron Bowl. All bowlers are requested to be at the site at least half an hour before designated time.

The one game roll-off between Frank Roosen and Harold Hintz will be held between squads at 12:30. The pair tied for high actual series honors with 663 in qualifying which has a bowling ball as a prize.

★ ★ ★

Any roll-offs as result of the championship round will be held immediately following the last squad.

Feature Match of Bowlerama at Huron Bowl

It may not be the match of champions as far as bowling goes, but a feature game of the Bowlerama will take place Saturday at 1:45 p. m. at Huron Bowl when a pair of "youngsters" face each other.

Mrs. Anna Winters, 76-year-old Birmingham bowler with an average of 64 and a one-game handicap of 95 has agreed to challenge the oldest male entry, Walt Carpenter, who is 79, to a one game match.

Carpenter has a 140 average and 42 handicap for one game. Each had their respective cheering sections in the qualifying round but they failed to make the grade.

St. Michael's Only 'Home' Tilt

St. Rita Tests Shamrocks

By H. GUY MOATS

One contest tonight, two on Friday and another "big one," Sunday afternoon at PCH, offer a crowded weekend for area parochial fans. Tonight's game, pitting St. Michael against the Irish of Detroit St. Rita will be the only contest of the season to be played on Shamrock's own floor. All other "home" games for Bob Mineweaser's club have been held in Pontiac Central High, or at Madison Junior High gymnasiums.

★ ★ ★

Game time is 7 p.m. for the reserves and 8:15 for the varsity.

Shamrocks' mentor figures this could be a close battle. "We had to hustle to beat the Ritas in the first meeting," says Mineweaser. "We were behind at halftime, but finally came out on top, 53-51, in the last two minutes. I think we'll do all right if we play as well as against St. Mary on Tuesday night."

Mineweaser will start freshman Art Robak, sophs Don Mountain, Tom Dabbs and Pat Campbell and his lone senior, Bob Mineweaser. Mountain was a first starter at Orchard Lake, Tuesday, came through with 13 points.

★ ★ ★

Rita starters will be headed by Mike Young, who hit 21 points against Shamrocks, but couldn't pull his club through. Jerry Latra, who had 12 in that game will also start along with probables Al Sleyter, or Johnny Dion, Pat Opipari and Chet Grabinski.

Shamrocks have a 6-7 season mark, St. Rita 2-11.

Friday's tilts bring St. Cecilia to St. Freds in the first encounter between these schools, and O.L. St. Mary will entertain Detroit St. Hedwig.

Sunday's tilt is the 2nd meeting between the two Pontiac parochials. From the records of the clubs, and result of the first game (won by Rams 54-25) Rams are favored.

Venturi Labeled 'Golfer to Beat'

But Strong Wind Favors Jim Demaret as Houston Tournament Begins

HOUSTON (AP) — The oddsmakers favored Ken Venturi but the weather seemed to favor veteran Jimmy Demaret today as a field of 133 players began the $30,000 Houston Classic Invitation Tournament.

Venturi, a pro only 15 months but the 1958 champion at Palm Springs and Phoenix, was the favorite to beat the winter tour's longest course and grab top money of $6,000 for the 72-hole tournament.

Weather forecasts indicated no change in the biting cold and strong wind for the past four days. Some rain was expected today. Demaret often is at his best in bad weather and at times plays brilliantly in a wind of the type that has whipped across the 7,200-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course all week.

Other favorites include Arnold Palmer, the defending champion, and Jack Burke Jr., another Houston native who, like Demaret, is thoroughly familiar with the sprawling municipal course.

Palmer admitted having a sub-par score on his final practice round yesterday and said he believes he has an excellent chance of repeating as champion.

Hope Clinches Title Tie

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP) — Hope assured itself of at least a share of the MIAA basketball crown with an 88-47 victory over Adrian last night.

Northern Beats Tech

HOUGHTON (AP) — Northern Michigan stretched its record to 12-2 in defeating Michigan Tech 77-55 in a basketball game last night.

Wolverines Seeking Respectable Finish

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Respectability is the sole lingering aim of Michigan's basketball team.

★ ★ ★

Nothing else is left now that a three-game losing streak has shot the Wolverines' chances for a Big Ten title. Michigan gets an opportunity to become respectable at .500 Saturday afternoon in an encounter with Northwestern.

The game will be regionally televised (CBS - 4:30 P.M.).

Victory would boost seventh-place Michigan's season mark to 5-5.

NL Slates Record 274 Night Games

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National League has scheduled an all-time record high of 274 night games for the 1958 season.

Actually, that's the same number of night tilts that were played last year but in 1957 only 261 were scheduled originally and the others came about by reason of postponement of day games to later dates.

The league's schedule — the second one to be drawn up — shows the Philadelphia Phils as the most frequent night workers at home. They have 47 tilts scheduled under the lights.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have 46, the Cincinnati Redlegs 45 and the St. Louis Cardinals 44. Then there is a dropoff to 38 night contests carded by the championship Milwaukee Braves, 33 by the Pittsburgh Pirates and 21 by the San Francisco Giants.

The Chicago Cubs, only team in the majors without lights, of course play no home games at night.

Under the original schedule the Dodgers had only 35 night games.

Because of conflicts with affairs previously scheduled for the Coliseum, some unusual changes in the National League's program were necessary.

A league rule against the regular scheduling of twi-night double-headers was waived and the Dodgers were given permission to arrange four of those affairs — against St. Louis on July 3 and Aug. 17, against Milwaukee on Aug. 19 and against Chicago on Sept. 28.

The Dodgers will not play at all on the usual big holiday date of July 4 and they won't have a game on the final Sunday of the season, Sept. 28. That sort of an arrangement also will cause St. Louis to be idle on July 4 and Chicago on the last day of the season.

Feels He Can Help Giants

Thomson Fights Back

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Bobby Thomson, who capped the Giant's "miracle run of '51" with a pennant winning homerun in a playoff game against the Dodgers, is out to prove he isn't washed up at 34.

"I got plenty of exercise this winter and did a lot of work back in New Jersey," Thomson said. "I feel great and my weight is just about where I want it to be."

★ ★ ★

Thomson had seven full years with the Giants when they traded him to Milwaukee in 1954. He was a consistent long-ball hitter and drove in more than 100 runs four times.

The Braves traded Thomson back to the Giants last summer for Red Schoendienst.

Giant Manager Bill Rigney thinks the Scot can still run. "I invited him to camp early to work the tightness out of his arm," he said. "His ankle seems to be all right.

"We feel he has a couple of good years left or we wouldn't have brought him back in the trade last summer."

Rigney said he plans to use Thomson every day this spring.

CLASH FOR TITLE — Richard Heymen (left) and Perc Secord will collide for the championship of the city handicap singles table tennis tournament Friday night at 9 o'clock in the Pontiac Central High girls' gym. Heyman reached the finals by defeating Howard Heckman, 21-19, 18-21, 21-19. Secord won his semifinal match over Dick Bartow, 21-17, 14-21, 21-16. This is the first tourney of its kind in the city.

Tighten Grip on 2nd Place

Rangers Nip Chicago, 3-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

His New York Rangers had just tightened their hold on second place in the National Hockey League, but Coach Phil Watson, never known as a calm guy anyway, puffed nervously on a cigarette.

"The hard way," he exhaled. "We always have to do things the hard way."

Watson puffed and protested his Rangers' habits as he stood in the Madison Square Garden press room last night after New York built, then almost blew a three goal lead in a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks. It was the only game scheduled.

It was the third straight success for the Rangers and lifted them past the .500 mark for the first time in more than a month. Better yet, it gave them a three-point lead over third place Detroit — and third place is where no one wants to be at the finish.

★ ★ ★

The first four clubs get a crack at the Stanley Cup playoffs next month, but the No. 3 outfit has the job of facing Montreal's runaway Canadiens in the semifinals. That means they get a ticket to the playoffs, but they won't be going anywhere.

Montreal, 22 points ahead of New York, gets mighty Maurice "The Rocket" Richard back tonight against Boston. The all-time ace has been out since mid-November with an injury to a tendon in his heel.

★ ★ ★

Red Sullivan triggered what offense the Rangers had, setting up two goals although officially credited with but one assist. It was Sullivan's pesty pursuit that trapped Chicago in its own ice, in the first period and gave the Rangers their first goal. Parker MacDonald scored it, batting in Harry Howell's rebound off the pads of Chicago Glenn Hall.

Manchester Has 'New Look'

Soccer Team Rebuilding

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — This was a city proud of its soccer heritage today — proud of the players who carved their own memorial to Manchester United's killed and injured in the Munich plane crash, Feb. 6.

Manchester's new-look team stirred the imagination of the soccer world with its crushing 3-0 victory over Sheffield in an English Cup match last night.

★ ★ ★

It was the United's first match since that tragic day in Munich when seven of the team's stars were killed and others seriously injured.

"I told my players to go all out and give all they had," acting manager Jimmy Murphy said. "Youthful enthusiasm and team spirit made up for lack of experience. I am proud of them."

★ ★ ★

Manchester, too, was proud. And Manager Matt Busby, lying injured in a Munich hospital, would have been equally proud had he seen the youngsters he discovered taking the place of his world-famous stars.

The Manchester team included only two of the original squad that made Manchester United a world-famous name — crash survivors Goalkeeper Harry Gregg and Fullback Bill Foukes.

★ ★ ★

They were the inspiration behind the teams victory. Ernie Taylor, 32-year-old inside forward signed from Blackpool, and Stan Crowther, 23-year-old halfback signed from Aston Villa only 75 minutes before the kick-off, threw their experience into the United team.

The other players were untested youngsters.

The crowd of 60,000 went wild with excitement over the result they had hoped for but scarcely expected.

Hoad Whips Pancho 6th Straight Time

PHILADELPHIA (INS) — World pro tennis champion Pancho Gonzales is still playing second fiddle to rookie hotshot Lew Hoad.

Hoad, Australia's 23-year-old dynamo, defeated Gonzales, 6-4, 9-11, 6-4, last night before a crowd of 3,049 at the Philadelphia Arena.

It was Hoad's sixth straight win over the 29-year-old Californian, and it gave the Aussie a 15-7 lead in their 100-match tour.

College Tourney Time Rolling Around

Cage Fives in Stretch

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Temple and Duke, a couple of basketball stretch runners, are driving toward the post-season college tournaments with the stamp of a champ—winning even when the ball's a balloon and the hoop seems half its normal size.

Both Temple, No. 2 nationally, and Duke, No. 7, were off stride in road games Wednesday but straightened out in the late going to keep their winning streaks intact.

Temple's, longest of the majors, went to 18 with a 61-49 victory over Wake Forest, although the Owls hit a mere 20 per cent of their first half shots.

Duke, winning its 10th straight for a 15-5 record, needed a 16-point streak midway of the second half to wrap up Navy 77-63 at Annapolis after the Middies led by eight with 12 minutes left.

★ ★ ★

LaSalle and Villanova were winners in a doubleheader at the Philadelphia's Polestra. Sub Tom Garberina came off the bench after LaSalle sputtered for five minutes and scored 20 in leading an 86-60 rout of Scranton. Villanova, with 6-8 soph John Scott hitting 19, downed Penn 73-61 although the winners scored only from the foul line in the last 11 minutes, bagging 13.

Sophomore Darryle Kouns set an Army season scoring record of 492 points with 25 in a 100-81 victory over Williams, and Niagara, warming up for the National Invitation Tournament, bounced the Quantico Marines 86-66.

Bowling Green beat Kent State 53-43 and Toledo outscored Western Michigan 102-87 in Mid-American Conference games.

Steubenville, winning its 22nd straight for a 23-1 record, whipped St. Francis (Pa.) 65-45.

Once mighty Seton Hall was slugged again, this time 79-59 by Iona (NY). Buckenell upset Penn State 63-56, the Bisons' first victory at State in a decade.

Jean Claude (Feets) Lefebvre, the 7-3¼ French frosh who set a school record with 50 points Tuesday night, sat out 10 minutes after four quick personals, but still scored 23 as Gonzaga whipped Western Washington 94-53.

Northern Faces Central in SVC Title Showdown

Clarkston-Holly Battle, E. Detroit vs. Ferndale Other Prep Features

By BILL CORNWELL

Pontiac Central's basketball team travels to Bay City Friday night for a Saginaw Valley Conference duel with the Wolves, but the real SVC battle will take place at the Flint IMA where Northern and Central square off.

The Valley crown will be at stake in the Northern-Central clash on the huge IMA floor. Both teams are deadlocked for 1st place in the tense league race with 7-1 records.

Anything can happen and usually does when Flint's two city rivals collide. A last-second basket gave Northern an 46-45 victory in their 1st meeting.

★ ★ ★

Each school will have one conference game remaining after tomorrow's duel. Central has an overall record of 12-1 while Northern is 10-2.

Pontiac seeks its 2nd conquest of Bay City, the Valley doormat coached by Bill Ullenbruch, former Walled Lake mentor.

Bay City's performance against Northern Tuesday night, however, indicates that the cellar-dwelling Wolves will be harder to handle than they were when the Chiefs conquered them here earlier this season.

The Wolves led Northern on a couple of occasions and trailed by slim margins during the 4th quarter before losing, 63-60, in their top showing of the year. And furthermore, the game was played at Flint.

Third place is the most the Chiefs can hope for now. They currently hold 4th place with a 4-4 record while Saginaw, which meets city foe Arthur Hill tomorrow, occupies 3rd spot on a 5-3 mark.

Clarkston, leading the Wayne-Oakland Conference race by a game and a half, invades Holly to tackle the dangerous Broncos, who almost knocked Northville out of the title picture last week with a 66-63 triumph.

Walled Lake and Waterford, going nowhere in the Inter-Lakes campaign, stage a return match on the Waterford court in a game of intense local interest. The Skippers won the 1st clash at Walled Lake.

A showdown for the Eastern Michigan League championship looms at East Detroit where the defendng champion Shamrocks face front-running Ferndale. The Dales have a 7-0 loop mark and East Detroit stands 6-1.

Audubon Society Will Organize Pontiac Chapter

Opportunity for the many bird-watchers in Pontiac and environs to become affiliated with the Michigan Audubon society, meeting ground for naturalists and conservationists, will be provided by a conference at Pontiac Central High, Room 109, March 5.

It is hoped at this meeting to organize a Pontiac chapter of the society. The meeting will be under auspices of the Parks & Recreation Department and executive director of the state society, William Perry, will discuss the aims of the organization.

"All bird-watchers, naturalists, educators, bug-collectors, rock-hounds, nature photographers, hikers, or any one interested are invited," Perry says.

New Box Score Adopted by AP

Wire Services to Use RBI Column in Major League Scoring

NEW YORK (AP)—The shift of the Giants and Dodgers to the West Coast and sundry changes in the minor leagues will not be the only new features of the 1958 baseball season.

★ ★ ★

A new baseball boxscore will also make its debut this year.

The revised box will have four columns of information—at bats, runs, hits and runs batted in. Individual putouts and assists have been eliminated.

★ ★ ★

Another change making for easier reading occurs in the summary where the pitching performances have been put in tabular style.

Wings Get Defenseman

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League traded defenseman Pete Goegan to the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League for Gordon Strate, also a defenseman, and an undisclosed amount of cash today.

The announcement was made by the two clubs' general managers, James Hendy of Cleveland and Jack Adams of Detroit.

Sets Swim Record

MELBOURNE (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Ilsa Konrads won the Australian women's 880 yards freestyle swimming title last night in the world record time of 10 minutes 16.2 seconds.

Jones Decisions Kid Gavilan

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Ralph "Tiger Jones, a tough-skinned boxer from Brooklyn, sidetracked Kid Gavilan's comeback attempt with a split decision last night and the Cuban admitted afterward "he good fighter—better than I expect."

★ ★ ★

Jones claimed Gavilan butted him over the eye in the ninth. The Kid denied this, saying "I feel right hand land real good—bang on the eye." There were no knockdowns in the 10-round bout.

Jones said he thought he won going away, until it was announced that Judge Fred Aaronson's card had it for Gavilan.

★ ★ ★

"Then I was sure I was gonna lose aother split decision," said Ralph.

The other judge, Carl Gardner, and Referee Billy Reagan saw it for Jones as did The Associated Press, all by narrow margins. Gavilan weighed 154½, Jones 154¾ pounds.

Strength Has Not Improved in Three Weeks

Campanella's Future Cloudy

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (UP) — The future of Roy Campanella remained clouded today.

Time loomed as an all-important factor in determining whether the Los Angeles Dodgers' catcher will recover from a broken neck, which he suffered in an auto accident Jan. 28.

★ ★ ★

The 37-year-old athlete, a patient in the Glen Cove Community Hospital, still is paralyzed from the hips down. Campanella's condition is unchanged and his muscle strength has not improved since his admission three weeks ago.

A statement issued yesterday by Harry C. F. Gifford, administrator of the hospital, said, "The longer the paralysis remains unchanged, the less one can expect for the future."

The bulletin was issued after consulation with the various doctors who have been associated with the case. No mention was made about the likelihood of Campanella ever playing baseball again.

There was no hint whether further improvement was expected but the statement disclosed, "We are still hopeful that the patient's paralysis will improve."

★ ★ ★

The report also stated, "The consensus remains that specific predictions cannot be made at this time as to the degree of neurological improvement."

The ominous note in the bulletin points out that the slight improvement shown in the first week has tapered off.

The statement said: "His sense of feeling had improved during the first week, dropping to the level of the mid-chest. There were some fleeting sensations down to left knee. This has receded to the area of the groin. The past two weeks have not shown any further improvement."

★ ★ ★

Campanella's general medical condition was termed "satisfactory." The likable, roly-poly baseball player with the squeaky, high-pitched voice was showing a great deal of interest in his surroundings. He has been listening to the radio and soon will be able to watch television.

★ ★ ★

Roy's wife read the hospital bulletin carefully at her home and said she's not discouraged by its contents. "I think it's just going to take time. Anything to do with nerves takes time."

Mrs. Campanella thought that her husband showed improvement yesterday when she visited him at the hospital. She said his arms were improved, but that his hands were not quite as improved.

Roy eats the hospital breakfasts, but Mrs. Campanella says she brings him lunch and dinner "because he likes my cooking."

St. Peter's Joins Trio in Tourney

NEW YORK (INS) — Eight berths remain to be filled for college basketball's National Invitational Tournament at Madison Square Garden, March 13-22.

St. Peter's College (17-2) of Jersey City, N.J., last night became the fourth team to accept a bid to the post-season tourney.

Others in the NIT field are Dayton, St. Bonaventure, and Niagara.

Toms Golf Favorite

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UP) — George Toms of Durham, N. C., became a strong favorite to win his second straight title in the tournament of golf club champions when he took medal honors yesterday. Toms equalled par 71 on the second day of qualifying, putting it with an opening 69 for 140 and a four stroke advantage over the field.

Merchants Win 1st Game in City Loop

The Merchants finally won a City League basketball game. After failing to dent the win column 11 times, the Merchants rallied for a 57-50 victory over the Boys Club last night in a Class B contest at Pontiac Central High.

Three Merchants hit double figures with Al and Bud Hayward leading the way on 17 and 14 points respectively. Jerry Nosek tallied 11 for the losers.

In a scheduled Class A game, Southfield was unable to field a team and had to forfeit to Shaw's Jewelers.

The Pontiac Boys Club, paced by Gene Gidcumbe's 13 points, gained a 48-37 decision over Whiter's Electric in Class D at Lincoln. Central Christian bowed to the Westsiders, 28-26, in a "D" exhibition contest.

Japs Highly Tolerant of Tipplers

TOKYO (INS) — If you like a highball before dinner, after dinner or just any old time — you'll like Japan.

You can drink to your heart's content in this oriental nation and if art heady pleasures of the bottle cause deviation from your normally quiet behavior no one will lift an eyebrow.

If you should get into an accident while drunk or commit a crime, the law will go easy on you because in Japan a man under the influence of intoxicants is not held responsible for his actions.

As a result Japan has gained the reputation as a "drinker's paradise."

The Japanese are highly indulgent of those who have tippled too much and have reached the state of "honorable inebriety."

In the United States one can become ostracized for imbibing too heavily at a party and requiring assistance home. But in Japan a person — especially a foreigner — can pin a feather in his wobbing cap if his friends must escort him home.

The inebriate has become "one of the boys" and has shown how friendly he is. Rambunctious actions are often overlooked.

To be drunk in Japan is understood to be under the guiling influence of sake — Jauan's ancient rice wine beverage.

The Japanese consider sake the favorite beverage of the gods and its first manufacture was attributed to one of them, Hikona, a deity versed in the medical arts.

Hikona is also identified with Ebisu, the god of wealth and good luck, who is depicted with a happy, smiling face.

Many other gods were also drunk in legendary tales and thus the idea has come down to modern times that human drunkards are believed to be protected by the gods and should be given a helping hand by their sober comrades.

* * *

But disapprobation — never.

Whereas in the United States, religious beliefs run direcely counter to boozing, the Japanese find rationalization for that "extra nip" in their array of religions.

Buddhism, as interpreted liberally by the Japanese, allows sake as a "blood warming" medicine. For religious Buddhists it is drunk as a "medicine" from a teapot.

* * *

Confucius, whose teaching are popular in Japan, said the only imbibing limit "is the keeping of one's sanity."

Hear Katzentine in FCC Probe

Loser in TV License Bid Brings Kefauver, Nixon Into Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators today recalled A. Frank Katzentine, whose testimony has brought the names of Vice President Nixon and Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) into hearings on alleged pressures in a Miami TV channel contest.

Katzentine, a stocky Miami Beach radio station owner, was a loser in the four-way contest for the Channel 10 license.

Chairman Harris (D-Ark) told newsmen his subcommittee hoped to finish with the TV contest before calling Federal Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack.

★ ★ ★

Mack is a Miami Democrat appointed by President Eisenhower to the comission in July 1955. Mack voted with the majority when the FCC decided 4-2 last year to give Channel 10 to Public Service Television, Inc., a subsidiary of National Airlines. An FCC examiner had recommended that Katzentine get it.

Mack has termed "distortions" charges that he accepted money in the case and that he was pledged in advance to vote for Public Service.

Katzentine told of two visits to Mack in Washington before the final FCC decision. But he said he never asked Mack to vote for him.

★ ★ ★

All he wanted, he said, was a vote on the merits of the application. He said he never tried to influence anybody to vote for him.

The names of Kefauver and Nixon were brought into the hearing through letters referred to in the testimony.

In one letter, Nixon was described as the "right man" to approach on behalf of Katzentine. The letter, dated Oct. 1, 1955, was written by Downey Rice, a Washington attorney and friend of Katzentine, to Daniel P. Sullivan, another Katzentine friend in Miami.

In California, Nixon declined comment. A spokesman said, "The vice president never comments on things like this."

In another letter introduced, Katzentine wrote Kefauver on June 6, 1955, saying "I am troubled that politics may intervene" between the examiner's recommendation of March 30, 1955, and the final FCC decision.

★ ★ ★

Katzentine told Kefauver "your offer to help could be useful now" and asked if Kefauver would let it be known "that you are my friend and I am not a rascal and scoundrel" as he said had been charged.

In a reply dated June 13, 1955, Kefauver said he had been waiting for Katzentine's "go-ahead" and said he had talked with three commissioners "by letting them bring up the subject in some way and I think this is the best way to be helpful."

May Link Theft to Sailor Killing

Slain Detroit Seaman Might Have Witnessed Stealing on Carrier

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP)—A possible link between the slaying of a Michigan sailor and the theft of $200 from the aircraft carrier Bon Homme Richard's post office is being investigated by authorities.

★ ★ ★

The $200 shortage was discovered after John Edward Ruttan, 18, of Detroit was found strangled in a paint locker on the carrier Sunday.

Coroner Al Segerquist said Ruttan, an apprentice seaman, may have witnessed the robbery after returning to the ship at 2 a.m. Sunday from a weekend visit with a Bremerton family.

The coroner said Ruttan could have recognized the thief and been killed to silence him. Segerquist said the sailor apparently was strangled with a knotted rope after climbing down the paint compartment's ladder.

His body was in a sitting position on the floor when found.

The Navy declined to connect the slaying with the robbery.

Ruttan's body is scheduled to arrive in Detroit Friday with an honor guard.

Cleveland-Cliffs to Hold Line on Ore Prices

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. one of the major suppliers of iron ore, announced today it would hold the line on ore prices during the 1958 season in spite of increased freight and wage costs.

J. S. Wilbur, vice president of Cleveland-Cliffs, said a 5 per cent increase in upper lake rail freight published last Saturday and wage increases effective next July 1 under the United Steelworkers contract will be absorbed by the iron ore firm.

With the exception of 1954, ore prices have risen each year since the end of World War II.

Hospital Board to Get Petitions

Mrs. Kenneth Pawley Seeking Reinstatement of Dr. Sullenberger

A move for reinstatement of Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger, suspended Pontiac General Hospital staff surgeon, will be attempted before the hospital board of trustees tonight.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Kenneth W. Pawley, of Drayton Plains, said today she intends to show up at the board's 7:30 p.m. meeting at city hall with petitions bearing more than 2,100 signatures of persons who want the surgeon readmitted to practice at the hospital.

"If the board refuses to reinstate Dr. Sullenberger, I intend to go to the governor with the petitions," said Mrs. Pawley, of 4725 Oakvista Rd. "I have already been advised by one of the governor's aides that we can have an appointment whether the board takes action or not."

Mrs. Pawley describes herself as a patient and friend of the Pontiac surgeon, ousted from the hospital last Nov. 13.

She explains that her petition movement is independent of Dr. Sullenberger's suit against the hospital and city for reinstatement and $250,000 damages.

'ON PATIENTS' BEHALF'

"The petitions are in behalf of Dr. Sullenberger's patients, who want him readmitted to the hospital so he can treat them there," she said.

The board meeting is in the city hall's second floor conference room, next to the City Commission chamber.

U.S. Car Production Dip of 7 Pct. Seen for Week

DETROIT (INS) — Automotive News said today U. S. car production this week will dip seven per cent to 94,547 completions.

The trade paper said it will be the lowest weekly total, except for the Christmas and New Year's periods, since the week ended last Oct. 19.

Manufacturers turned out 101,632 cars last week.

Automotive News said truck production will total 17,721 units this week as against 18,620 last week.

Business Notes

Pontiac Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. representative Robert W. Weir, 18625 Negaunee St., has returned from a two-week training course in advanced life underwriting techniques and practices, held in New York City.

Stocks Boosted by Bullish News

NEW YORK (AP) — The Stock Market stepped ahead firmly in moderate trading early today on the heels of bullish news.

Key stocks rose fractions to around a point on a broad front.

The upturn was sparked by the Federal Reserve Board's long-awaited step toward expanding credit. It announced late yesterday it was lowering the reserve requirements of member banks in an anti-recession move.

Steels, motors, base metals, aircrafts, rails and some oils joined in the general advance. Tobaccos recovered slightly from their setback yesterday. Fractional gains were made by American Tobacco, Philip Morris, Liggett & Myers & U.S. Tobacco.

Youngstown Sheet rose more than a point. Lesser gains were made by Chrysler, U.S. Steel, American Telephone, Anaconda, General Electric, Chesapeake & Ohio, Royal Dutch and Sinclair. Paramount was a 1-point gainer.

Opening blocks included U.S. Steel up ⅝ at 58⅜ on 5,000 shares; Wilson & Co., up ¼ at 17¼ on 2,500; Pepsi-Cola up ⅜ at 21⅜ on 3,000; and Curtiss-Wright up ½ at 25⅞ on 2,200.

Whirlpool dropped 1⅜ at 17¾ on 5,500 shares following its cut dividend.

Ford, UAW to Begin Negotiations March 31

DETROIT (AP) — Contract negotiations between Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union will begin March 31.

Ford is the first of the big three auto companies to set a date for talks. The announcement was made in a joint company-union statement yesterday.

The UAW's present contract with Ford expires at midnight, June 1.

Dividend of 25 Cents Declared by Whirlpool

CHICAGO (AP) — Whirlpool Corporation Wednesday declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on common stock to be paid March 10 to stockholders of record at the close of business March 3.

The company has been paying quarterly dividends of 35 cents a common share since September 1955.

Trying to Hold Budgets Within Bounds

Costly Food Plaguing Many Families

By SAM DAWSON

Second In Series

NEW YORK (AP)—Costly food today plagues most folk trying to hold the family budget within bounds. The cost of growing, processing, distributing and merchandizing food worries the industry. It is seeking new means of holding cost within bounds.

★ ★ ★

Much has been done. The National Assn. of Food Chains says increased warehouse efficiency has cut these costs 76 per cent in 10 years, and store operating efficiency has cut receiving and storage costs 50 per cent. At a recent national meeting, food chain executives swapped experiences in slicing pennies here and there off distribution costs.

Food industry leaders insist that despite higher food prices, the rising costs—largely of late in transportation and labor—trimmed the net return on the dollar of food sales last year.

Like many other industries, food processors and merchandizers alike have tried cutting overhead by such devices as mergers and cooperative buying. Some of the other things they're trying:

Bakeries are going in for more automation — such as conveyor belts that take pans in and out of ovens, in and out of coolers, carry the loaves to slicing and wrapping machines and finally to the shipping platforms.

★ ★ ★

Meat packers are consolidating operations and looking for cheaper distribution. They seek savings through new antibiotic and even nuclear processing experiments for preserving meat and through chemicals that tenderize less choice cuts.

The Produce Packaging Assn. says that now supermarkets sell 80 per cent of fresh fruits and vegetables unpackaged. It thinks a trend toward packaging will put half the produce under wraps within two years. This is expected to cut the cost of retail handling by a seventh.

★ ★ ★

The Folding Paper Box Assn. foresees more packaging of meats and produce at point of production, aimed at insuring quality, reducing spoilage and saving cost of packaging operations at the store.

The cost of packaging itself is also being tackled.

★ ★ ★

Packaging costs average 20 per cent of sales of grocery manufacturers, according to Donald Deskey, industrial designer. The food processors look to the designers for a double-barreled attack on the profit squeeze problem. To cut packaging costs they are calling for more efficient materials, processes and techniques—accenting the competitive battle between the makers of boxes, jars, squeeze bottles and tubes. To boost sales—and cut the cost per unit through sales volume — they are seeking the most arresting and appealing designs.

★ ★ ★

Industry leaders planning cost-cutting drives include: Porter M. Jarvis, president of Swift, who looks to consolidations and modernization to aid meat packers beat rising costs; Joseph B. Hall, president of the Kroger food store chain, who says closing of smaller outmoded stores and opening of larger outlets with adequate parking facilities will let the groceries get the most out of the sales dollar; and Ralph W. Burger, president of the Atlantic & Pacific chain, who says stores must cut costs because the housewife is keeping a sharper eye on the 25 per cent of the family budget which usually goes for food.

Tomorrow: Who is minding the store and how?

Cigarette Stocks Decline on Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Cigarette company stock prices declined on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday after charges by a House committee that cigarette manufacturers have deceived the American public in filter-tip advertising.

American Tobacco was off $1.12 at $76.25; Lorillard off $2.75 at $37.75; Philip Morris off $2.87 at $48.12; Reynolds Tobacco "B" off $2.12 at $66.62; and Liggett and Myers off $1.87 at $67.25.

Lorillard, with 99,100 shares traded, was the volume leader on the exchange. Other stocks were mixed, mostly a little lower.

Commenting on accusations by the House Government Operations Committee were Lewis Gruber, president of P. Lorillard Co. and Bowman Gray, president of R. J. Reynolds Tobaco Co.

★ ★ ★

Said Gruber: "Our advertising has been and is scrupulously honest and truthful. Our claim has been the simple statement of fact —Kent filters best of all leading filter brands.

★ ★ ★

Said Gray: "We attach no significance to the measurable quantity of solids (tars) and nicotines reported to have been found in the smoke of cigarettes."

Other cigarette manufacturers withheld immediate comment.

House OKs Bill on Bond Issues

Would Help Townships to Finance Both Sewer, Water Systems

Townships in Oakland and other counties will be able to issue full faith and credit bonds to finance water and sewer systems under a bill passed this week by the Michigan House of Representatives.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson (R-Waterford Township), now goes to the Senate committee on municipalities.

Presently townships are restricted to financing such projects by revenue bond acts.

"This will give the townships different alternatives in installing sewer and water," declared Anderson. "Some of the townships find it quite difficult to finance by revenue bonds," he added.

If the measure meets approval in the Senate, townships will be permitted to issue general obligation bonds not to exceed five per cent of the assessed valuation of the issuing township.

Such projects would need the approval of the supervisors of the county in which the township is situated, and also that of the electors.

Another provision of the bill would allow the township, with three-fourths approval of the electors, to override disapproval of plats by supervisors.

Reports Jobs for 2,600

DETROIT (AP) — John J. Considine, superintendent of parks and recreation, has reported to Detroit city council his department could provide jobs for 2,600 by Monday if it wants to use them to reduce unemployment.

53 Killed, 19 Injured

British Freighter Explodes

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP)—A British freighter that put into this Persian Gulf oil port on fire and with 150 tons of explosives aboard exploded at her anchorage last night.

The ship's agent said 53 persons were killed and 19 were injured.

★ ★ ★

The fire and explosion caused no damage to oil tankers nearby and did not endanger harbor installations.

The 7,440-ton Seistan, one of the most modern ships in the British merchant fleet, was burning when she entered the Persian Gulf three days ago, en route from Liverpool with the explosives and other supplies for the Iraqi oil fields.

★ ★ ★

The Welsh skipper of the year-old motor ship, Capt. W. A. Chappell, dropped anchor at Manama to put out the fire. About 80 tons of explosive gelignite had been unloaded and the ship was being moved to shallow water for flooding when the explosion rocked the harbor.

The Seistan sank by the stern, but parts of her superstructure still smoldered above water.

★ ★ ★

The ship's owners, the Strick Lines of London, said it carried a crew of 14 Britons, 50 Indians and a Chinese.

It was not known how many Bahrainis were aboard unloading. Four men alongside in a small boat were among those killed.

Rochester Churches Plan Joint-Meeting

ROCHESTER — World Day of Prayer will be observed tomorrow by five Rochester churches. The service will be in the First Congregational Church at Walnut and W. Third streets.

The opening session will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. with Mrs. Bessie Gilmore of the Congregational Church as welcoming hostess.

★ ★ ★

"The Bread of Life" will be the theme of the round table discussion monitored by Mrs. Harvey J. Toles. Participating will be Mrs. Harry Tripp of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Mrs. Robert F. Hermanson of the new Presbyterian Church of Rochester, Mrs. T. C. Riddle of the Nazarene Church, Mrs. Miles S. Charlton of St. Philips' Episcopal Church and Mrs. Gilmore of the First Congregational Church.

★ ★ ★

A luncheon will be held from 12:15 to 1:15 p.m. Those attending are asked to bring a sandwich. Coffee will be served by a committee from the host church.

'True Worship' Subject of Bible Study Tonight

ROCHESTER — The meaning of true worship and its effect upon fellowship in the church will be subjects of Bible study at 7:30 tonight in First Congregational Church hall. The meeting is the first in a Lenten series of six weekly classes, sponsored by the church's Board of Christian Education.

All adults are welcome, and quarterlies for study will be provided, the Rev. E. John Yuells, pastor of the church, said.

A colored film, "Major Religions of the World," will follow the study period. The movie, produced by Encyclopedia Britannica, portrays forms of worship of the Moslem, Hindu, Buddhist and Christian faiths. A discussion period will follow.

To Show Yellowstone for Adult Education

ROCHESTER — "Yellowstone," by Alice and Arthur Dewey, third in the Hiawathan Wildlife Tours series, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the gymnasium of Rochester Junior High School.

Spectacular photography and stereophonic sound are promised in the movie, which depicts wildlife over the four seasons in Yellowstone National Park. The Grand Tetons, tremendous geysers, mountains are all included in the film.

The program is sponsored by the Department of Adult Education of Rochester Community Schools. The Rochester Branch of Michigan Audubon Society will have a display of bird books and packaged sunflower seeds.

First Aid Course Opens in Avondale Saturday

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Avondale First Aid Class, sponsored by the American Red Cross, will hold its first meeting at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the Avondale Fire Hall on Auburn road.

★ ★ ★

This is a standard five-week, 10-hour course. Standard first aid cards will be issued by the Red Cross to those who complete the course.

Interested persons may call Victor Camp, FE 7-0741, or James Angus, FE 7-0744.

Gas Station Burglarized; $63 Taken From Safe

Harlow's Service Station, 425 Osmun St., was burglarized, it was reported yesterday to the Pontiac Police Dept.

The thieves pried open a steel safe and took $63, plus an undetermined amount of change from a pinball machine.

About 150,000 U.S. children are born out of wedlock each year.

City Eases Up on Police Rank

Sgt. Hanger Promoted, but Willman Claims Freeze Still On

The city manager's freeze on Pontiac Police Dept. promotions thawed a little last night with the promotion of Sgt. William K. Hanger to lieutenant.

Manager Walter K. Willman announced the promotion by letter to the Civil Service Commission.

Willman said that the promotion did not violate his principal of no promotions or new hirings for the police department until the public administrative service report is in.

The PAS study due by May will include manpower recommendations and Willman repeated he would not make new promotions until the report's recommendations are reviewed.

However, he said, a vacancy for a lieutenant on the second uniformed platoon existed and this post could not be affected by the PAS report. On this basis he authorized the appointment.

★ ★ ★

The commission voted to certify Hanger and recommended his promotion be made retroactive to Dec. 18, the date the post became vacant.

The move came as a surprise to Police Chief Herbert W. Straley who told the commission he had no prior knowledge of it.

The manager's decision resulted from a meeting last week with Hanger and Sgt. Fred Goines, who placed one and two respectively on the lieutenants' eligibility list following civil service examinations.

★ ★ ★

Under the manager's new rule, a second lieutenancy may be available tomorrow. Acting Lt. John DePauw's case against the city may be decided then.

DePauw's attorney has until 5 p.m. today to further contest in circuit court DePauw's reduction to the rank of sergeant. Judge George B. Hartrick set the deadline.

★ ★ ★

In other action, the Civil Service Commission voted to meet with the rule committee Wednesday, at 4 p.m., to see if agreement on new rules for the police and fire departments cannot be reached.

Gingellville Prayer Group Will Emphasize Lent

GINGELLVILLE — The Gingellville Baptist Church will place special Lenten emphasis on its Wednesday Bible study and prayer services which begin at 7:30 p.m.

A youth program for teenagers, 14 years of age and older will begin today, from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Recreation, refreshments and a devotional period will be included. All young people of the area are invited.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO construct two-inch asphaltic concrete surface course on Tregent Street.

You are hereby notified that at a regular meeting of the Commission of the City of Pontiac, Michigan, held February 18, 1958 by resolution it was declared to be the intention of the City Commission to construct two-inch asphaltic concrete surface course and related work on Tregent Street from Baldwin Avenue to Saginaw Street at an estimated cost of $5,788.20, and that the plan, profile and estimate of said improvement is on file for public inspection.

STATE LAND SALE — NOTICE IS hereby given, that pursuant to the provisions of Section 131 of Act 206, P. A. 1893, as amended, state lands in Oakland County will be placed on the market by offering same for sale at public auction, Wednesday, March 19, 1958, at 10:00 A.M., E.S.T., in the county courthouse, Pontiac, Michigan.

Pursuant to Section 6, Act 155, P. A. 1937, as amended, any person (former owner) who at the time of the tax sale had an interest in lands so sold, shall have the right for a period of thirty days after the public auction to meet the highest bid. For this reason, successful bidders at the sale will receive a thirty-day purchase certificate. If the former owner does not redeem, deed will be issued to highest bidder at the expiration of thirty days, or in the event the former owner does redeem, the high bidder will receive a refund of the purchase price. Former owners, under the provision of this sale, do not acquire mineral rights.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Further particulars and list of property to be offered are available at the County Treasurer's office, Pontiac, Michigan, Conservation District Headquarters, Imlay City, Michigan, or Lands Division, Lansing, Michigan.

Calls on Phone Using No Hands

Polio Victim Employs Own Special System for Dialing Numbers

PORTLAND, Ore. (INS) — Although almost completely paralyzed by polio, Ross Mudge is able to dial a special telephone with his foot.

The Portland man, unable to use his hands because of his illness, has made more than 1,500 calls with the aid of a system designed by Loreman Harris and Harry Banks of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

Mudge himself gave the two telephone men the idea by suggesting a motor-driven dial.

They came up with a device which is placed at the foot of the rocking bed in which Mudge must lie all day. The rocking motion is required to enable him to breathe.

★ ★ ★

The dialing device consists of a loudspeaker case, a 10-volt motor, the components of a telephone dial and a plastic case that simulates the dial face.

Mudge activates the device by pressing a pedal with his foot to start the motor.

The motor turns the dial until the number he wants appears in a lighted slot. Then he releases the pedal and the dial rotates back to its original position.

He presses the pedal again until the next desired number comes into view, and he repeats the process until all the digits of the telephone number he wants are dialed.

★ ★ ★

Connected with the dialing mechanism are a microphone, through which he talks, and a loudspeaker, through which he hears the person with whom he is talking. Both the loudspeaker and microphone are at the head of the bed.

Milton Berle's Dramatic Role Draws Praise

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) Milton Berle gave an outstanding performance in a straight dramatic role on television last night when he played the lead in "Material Witness" on NBC-TV.

★ ★ ★

A suspenseful drama by Henry Denker on Kraft Theatre cast Berle in the role of a man whose placid life suddenly was shattered after he became the only witness to a gangland murder.

There were excellent performances by Richard Kiley, Nancy Marchand and Tim Hovey in the well-produced drama. Soundly motivated psychologically, "Material Witness" developed an absorbing theme without the melodramatic gimmicks that mar so many TV "suspense" dramas.

★ ★ ★

It is more than a year since the home audience has seen Berle as a comedian, and never before has it seen him as a straight dramatic actor.

The fine restraint and authority he demonstrated in dramatic performance last night were memorable.

★ ★ ★

Like many highly talented comedians, Berle has suffered from the curse of all television comics overexposure. Interestingly, many TV comedians who have endured this fate have demonstrated great talent as straight actors. Ed Wynn, Jacke Gleason, Art Carney, Eddie Cantor—the list is long.

Bill Would Broaden City Taxing Powers

LANSING (AP) — The Legislature was asked today to broaden city taxing powers as a hedge against irresistible demands building up for new or higher state taxes.

Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings (R-Holland), Senate Taxation Committee chairman, introduced a bill to allow municipalities, with prior voter approval, to levy a broad assortment of specific and excise taxes.

He said his proposal would open the way for local taxes on automobiles, theater tickets and utilities — "on almost anything you please."

Whether it could be applied to payrolls was a question for the courts to decide, Geerlings said. He was joined in sponsorship of the bill by Sen. Lewis G. Christman (R-Ann Arbor).

★ ★ ★

Under the proposal, 50 per cent of new revenues received would have to go for support of schools.

Geerlings said concern over rising expenditures for state aid to schools prompted him to offer the plan.

Indonesia won its independence from The Netherlands in 1949. This vast area in the former Dutch East Indies has a population of 83 million people of a dozen Oriental and Pacific races. At least 40 languages are spoken.

HE'S ALWAYS WORKING — Lindsey Nelson (right), NBC-TV's assistant director of sports, never has a day off — he's too busy keeping up with America's continuous round of sports events. Nelson, shown here with football great, Red Grange, attends business conferences when he isn't reporting games for television.

Always Busy at Some Game

Also Serves NBC-TV as Assistant Director of Athletic Events

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — Lindsey Nelson is always working. This poor guy, NBC-TV's ace sportscaster, hasn't had a day off in a couple of years. And as for a vacation, that's as much of a dream as telecasting the first moon-and-back regatta.

In between reporting games, he's the network's assistant director of sports, so on days when he isn't out at some stadium or basketball court, he's in conferences or working on contracts or something. When he says he hasn't had a day off, he means NONE—not even a stray Saturday or Sunday.

NBC-TV has at least one sports event a week, generally more. And Nelson is always there. When he's doing a football game, he takes two days to get prepared, watching movies of the teams, memorizing numbers, checking over plays with the coaching staff. Basketball and baseball take less time, of course, but there's usually a day or so in travel, and perhaps a half-day getting ready.

★ ★ ★

He travels so much to and from his assignments — about 200,000 miles in '57 — that he's gotten to know the airline stewardesses fairly well.

On one recent flight, the stewardess greeted him with "Haven't we flown together before? To which Nelson, in his Tennessee drawl, said, "Ma'am, I wouldn't be at all surprised."

NOT DISENCHANTED

All this work and travel doesn't leave him disenchanted with sports telecasting, however. He loves his work, down to the last stewardess. He's the original happy man, with no ambition other than to keep on doing exactly what he's doing.

★ ★ ★

Nelson, whose Tennessee drawl somehow evaporates over the air, comes from Columbia in the Volunteer State.

By the time he was 11, he was committed to a career of reporting sports in some manner or other; at that age, he was writing high school sports for his home town newspaper.

By the time he went to college at the University of Tennessee; he was well on his way. He was the tutor for the Tennessee football team and many of his pupils have since become college coaches.

★ ★ ★

He's in solid with most coaches, as a matter of fact. He reports that several have called him for advice, some pro coaches ask his opinion on possible college stars to draft, college athletic directors have been known to come to him when seeking a new coach.

Similarly, Red Sanders, coach of UCLA and an old friend, once said Nelson was one man he'd let coach his team.

HE DOESN'T LOSE

But Nelson has no desire to coach himself. He says one thing about being up in a broadcast booth—"no matter what happens, I don't lose."

★ ★ ★

He works with Leo Durocher as his co-broadcaster during the baseball season, and Durocher, according to Nelson, will never go back to managing—"As a broadcaster, you can never get fired because you blow a game."

Nelson served, for a time after the war, as promotion director of the Knoxville, Tenn., News-Sentinel. He'd watch jealously as the paper's sports writers would go off to cover football games, "while all I had to do was work on a spelling bee."

So he went back into radio working in many stations before he got his present spot.

★ ★ ★

As one of the nation's top sportscasters, the slender Tennesseean gets many offers to make speeches. He's turned down all except one, figuring he's got enough to do as it is. That one that he accepted was from a Florida club. He'd said no to the invitation four years running.

Finally, the club got Florida's Gov. Leroy Collins to write to NBC's president Robert Sarnoff, requesting Nelson to appear.

★ ★ ★

Sarnoff's office called Nelson. "You want to go?"

"No," said Nelson.

"Well, take any plane you want to."

He went.

Multimillionaire Wants Paar, Maxwell Barred

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Multimillionaire J. Paul Getty wants the Jack Parr TV show killed, and Elsa Maxwell barred from the air, because of cracks about him. His attorneys are muttering that they have "damaging evidence" and alleging "premeditated malice" — and adding that they've been told by the boss to "spare no expense." (So why doesn't he buy the network and fire it?)

WILSON

Rita Hayworth and Jim Hill—due here this week on the first leg of their honeymoon — called it all off, including a 3-week trip to Europe. Rita's got extra scenes to do in "Separate Tables," and on a honeymoon a girl doesn't like to be hurried . . . Lena Horne's got mononucleosis, which she says spells worse than it is . . . Shapely Tina Louise, who exercises with 20-lb. weights, overdid it and sprained her chest.

Strangest love story yet, is from Hollywood starlet Roxanne Arlen, who says a Philadelphia playboy's using voodoo to break her up with an oilman. He told her he'd made a "doll image" of her boy friend and stuck pins in his eyes and chest. Roxanne, who's in the show, "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" in Philly, reports that her beau has had chest pains, 104 temperature, two teeth pulled and murderous headaches. She's talking of getting an injunction, at least.

TINA

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . . . . .

Denise Darcel's beau, Bob Eaton, got a screen test . . . Batista's reported unhappy 'cause so many Cubans are losing in the Havana gambling spots; they were supposed to be for the tourists.

Actress Gene Rowlands and her husband, John Cassavetes, are looking for a play in which to co-star. Ricardo Montalban's an early choice for Father of the Year title . . . More than 500,000 pay-TV theater seats have been sold for the Basilio-Robinson fight.

EARL'S PEARLS: Jack Herbert tells of the bow-legged girl who took an aptitude test—and learned she should be a cello player.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Some of the new cars are so long that a guy was hit—and was fully recovered by the time the rear wheels got to him . . . That's earl, brother.

Ike Starts Last Week of Southland Vacation

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower started the second week of his Southland vacation today.

He still hopes for a weather break to open the way to some quail hunting before he flies back to Washington Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Ever since arriving Feb. 13, he has spent the time indoors for the most part at the plantation estate of his host, former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey.

The weatherman forecast a high of 52 degrees for today, which might mean the President would get a chance to hunt for quail, or perhaps get in a round of golf.

★ ★ ★

Yesterday, with the temperature in the mid-40s, he went for another automobile ride—his second since coming to Thomasville.

He toured Humphrey's sprawling estate for about 1½ hours during the afternoon.

Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, White House physician, reports that the President's cold continues to improve each day. His voice still is a bit husky but his sore throat has about cleared up.

Snyder is understood to feel the week's stay at the Humphrey place has given the President his best rest since he took office more than five years ago.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, told newsmen Eisenhower has been getting in a lot of bridge at the plantation, and also has been working an average of about four hours a day on government business.

Student Gets $65,000 in Steamship Suit

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mark Smith, 22, a freshman at Western Michigan University, has been awarded $65,000 by a U. S. district court for back injuries suffered while employed on a Great Lakes freighter.

Smith, who lives in Chicago, testified he was crushed against a dock by the steamship Robinson of Kinsman Transit Co. while working as a deckhand in the summer of 1956.

He said the accident happened at Rogers City, Mich. Smith sued Kinsman for $200,000 but accepted a settlement proposed by company attorneys.

British Girls Too Shy to Live Up Leap Year

LONDON (INS) — British girls don't take advantage of their traditional right to pop the question during Leap Year.

At least, that's what the marriage figures for 1956 indicate, and match-making experts agree that the British miss is still more afraid of losing her dignity than winning her heart's desire.

The government's annual Abstract of Statistics show Britain's marriage rate dropped during Leap Year — there were 406,274 marriages in the 366 days of 1956 compared with 410,630 in the 365 days of 1955.

The apparent failure of British womenhood to snaret an altar-shy boy friend was explained by the National Marriage Guidance Council. A spokesman told INS:

"There is a simple answer. Girls of today still think it undignified to propose marriage. Anyway, they can usua y manage to get the young man to do it for them without him ever knowing it. Girls like to let the fellows think they are the masterful type."

Several of London's feminine marriage brokers discreetly declined to comment, but one or two admitted there had been "rather more" inquiries for husbands during 1956 than usual.

Talented young British actress Janette Scott suggested that fashion dictates might have had something to do with the decline in marriages.

The lovely 18-year-old Janette, who is playing lead in the panto m i m e, "Cinderella," explained:

"In Scotland when we go a'wooing during Leap Year the girls must wear red or scarlet to give the boys fair warning.

"Perhaps red was unfashionable during 1956."

A quick survey showed that at least one young lady had no feminine scruples about proposing marriage.

Curvey and attractive Mary Phandin, 18-year-old stenographer candidly said:

"My boy friend was so shy, he never would have asked me. So I boldly told him 'I think we ought to get engaged.' He was terribly relieved I had asked him and agreed at once."

The Annual Abstract of Statistics is one of the Government's "best seller" publications. Its 349 pages give a complete picture of every social and industrial facet of life in Britain.

For the record, divorce decrees made absolute were lower during Leap Year than other years. They totaled 25,718 during 1956 against 26,262 in 1955.

Venezuela to Pipe Gas to Industries

CARACAS—Venezuela has started construction on a nationwide pipeline system to carry natural gas to homes and industries.

Natural gas is about the cheapest fuel in the country, but at present only 30 per cent of production is used; the rest is flared.

Only Maracaibo among Venezuela's large cities has direct gas facilities for home consumption. Elsewhere it is distributed in cylinders, a system twice as expensive as pipeline-supplied gas.
