Could Land Crippled-Craft in the Pacific

Fuel Cell Pressure Drops; Planes Sent to Possible Landing Spot

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The Gemini 5 astronauts rocketed into orbit today for an eight-day mission but almost immediately encountered a problem in the power system that threatened to shorten the mission.

Planes were ordered out from Hickam Field in Hawaii to an area where the mission would be ended after six orbits if that is deemed necessary.

Mission Control Center said no orders had been given to end the flight, but it was apparent that they were being seriously considered.

If the astronauts land after six orbits, it would come at 6:07 p.m. EST. Recovery would be in the northern Pacific some 490 miles north of Hawaii. An oil tanker is stationed in that area.

The problem involved a pressure system which converts liquid oxygen to gaseous form to feed into two fuel cells which provide electrical power for the spacecraft.

GRADUAL DROP

Early in the flight, L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr. noted that the pressure in the oxygen tank was dropping gradually.

It had risen to a peak pressure of about 800 pounds per square inch, then dropped back to about 180 pounds.

It seemed to stabilize at that point, and flight control officials were hopeful that the astronauts could conduct a rendezvous with a satellite they had ejected during the second orbit. Then the pressure dropped again.

However, left unresolved by the Mission Control Center announcements was the fact that to function properly the oxygen should be under a pressure of 900 pounds.

Tass Announces Event 5 Minutes After Lift-Off

MOSCOW (AP)—Tass reported the orbiting of Gemini 5 today five minutes after launching.

The Soviet news agency's dispatch said: "The two-seat Gemini 5 spacecraft, piloted by astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad, was launched at Cape Kennedy, United States, today on an orbit around the earth."

Giant Team of Servicemen Is Deployed for Recovery

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Ten thousand servicemen have taken up stations around the world to see that the Gemini 5 astronauts get home safely from their record-seeking journey.

With 28 ships and 135 aircraft strategically stationed beneath the planned flight path, the armed forces are set to recover the two-man capsule—whether in the Atlantic splash-down zone or in some remote unscheduled landing area.

If all goes well, the astronauts will be taken aboard the aircraft carrier Lake Champlain in eight days—after landing 500 miles southwest of Bermuda.

The 42,000-ton Champlain is the flagship and prime recovery vessel of a 10-ship fleet deployed in the target landing area and in alternate zones stretching across the Atlantic almost to Africa.

A secondary recovery force of five ships is in the Pacific in case a mishap should force the Gemini 5 out of orbit prematurely.

Aircraft with parachute-rescue men are on alert status at bases around the globe.

FEWER MEN

Although Lt. Col. Leroy Gordon Cooper and Lt. Cmdr. Charles Conrad were slated for history's longest space voyage, experience and improved organization have enabled the military services to guard the flight with 5,000 fewer men than were assigned to the 4-day Gemini 4 mission in June.

Directed by Air Force Lt. Gen. Leighton I. Davis, commander of U.S. missile test ranges, the recovery operation starts with the orbiting of the spacecraft and doesn't end until the capsule has been recovered.

Rain Forecast for Weekend

It looks like a damp weekend is in store for Pontiac area residents.

The weatherman predicts light showers this evening and a chance of occasional showers to night and tomorrow.

A low of 60 was recorded from 2 to 6 a.m. today. The thermometer reading at 2 p.m. was 74.

Says N. Viets Drop Peace Talk Proviso

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Communists may be willing to back down on some of the conditions they set for peace talks on Viet Nam, a visiting Laborite member of Britain's House of Lords indicated last night.

Lord Brockway, a left-wing member of Britain's Labor party and the head of "The British Council for Peace in Viet Nam," said he conferred yesterday with the ambassador from Communist North Viet Nam and Moscow representative of the Vietnamese "National Liberation Front."

The front is the political arm of the Communist Viet Cong.

Brockway said while Ambassador Nguyen Van King told him North Viet Nam would not demand a complete American military withdrawal, he continued to insist on a halt to bombing raids over his country.

Each of them is to have six hours of sleep each day plus a two hour nap. Their eating times and sleeping periods are laid out.

The flight plan gives these instructions: "Both eat. Pilot up. Command pilot eat. Flight plan update for U.S. passes. Medical data plot."

Here in brief are some of the things they will do: SPACE RENDEZVOUS — In the early orbits, the astronauts will eject a radio-equipped pod. They will deliberately change their orbit to lose the beeping satellite. Then they will try to maneuver close to it again, perhaps as near as 20 feet. This attempt comes in the fourth orbit.

Inflight exercises—Each astronaut will use an electric cord with 40-pound pull as an exerciser. Each performs 30 pulls, 4 times a day. It isn't much exercise, but it is an effort to make the heart work harder in the easy-living space environment of weightlessness and inactivity. Pneumatic cuffs — Conrad wears a pneumatic cuff around both thighs, and they inflate two minutes out of every six throughout the flight. This is (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

'Fighting Real War in Viet Nam, Mom'

To many Americans, the fighting in Viet Nam may seem too distant to be a real "war." To Paul Bowsher, it is real.

To his mother, Mrs. Florence H. Bowsher, of 4359 Hatchery, Waterford Township, it is real.

By the calendar, this 19-year-old soldier will cease to be a "teen-ager" with the last rays of the August sun. Writing home to "Mom," he brings the reality and despair of war close to all Americans.

The following, in part, is his letter . . . the writings of a youth who is already a man.

August 16, 1965
Viet Nam

Dear Mom:

Well, I'm still alive, thank God. The V.C. (Viet Cong) hit us hard last night. We lost 20 men from mortar rounds. The first round came ripping through the tents at 11:30 p.m.

Mom, I'm not ashamed to admit it, but I was scared.

If you only could have seen those mortars bursting in tents where our buddies were sleeping, and heard them screaming and yelling for help! You could hear the shrapnel ripping through everything, even sandbags.

After the last round went off, a small squad of V.C. tried to break through our perimeter, but they never made it. They were all laying out there, shot in half; heads gone. I'll never forget last night as long as I live!

It's almost funny now. When the rounds started to come in, I ran to my tent to get my rifle and cartridge belt. I had my rifle tied to the tent flaps and I couldn't seem to untie it.

Here I am, fighting to get my rifle untied and 81mm mortar rounds going off! But, I'm still here, so . . .

Say, thank you for the fudge. It was awfully good. Of course, any fudge is good when you make it. All the guys in my platoon said to tell you thank you and that it was very good.

Well, in 20 days I'll be 20 years old. Mom, have you seen any transistor record players? If so, do you think that maybe you could pick one up for me? I'll pay you back, if it's too much. I've just got to have some music.

Well, Mom, I've got to get back to work, so take care of yourself and tell grandmother thanks for answering my letter.

All my love,
Paul

P.S. 10 months to go.

Hospital Fund Given $50,000

Trust Subscription Listed by Chairman

A subscription of $50,000 from the Lula G. Wilson Trust to the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Building Fund was announced today by E. M. Estes, general chairman of the building fund campaign.

Estes thanked the trustees for "the generous gift" and remarked, "This is another inspiring example of the recognition of the real need that exists at St. Joseph."

At the same time, Estes announced that the campaign has now passed the $1 million mark, exclusive of the General Motors matching grant.

"Our committees have been quietly at work all summer," he said, "and the progress has been most encouraging." He reported that the memorial gifts committee, with Ernest A. Jones and John W. Fitzgerald as co-chairmen, had secured 27 subscriptions, totaling $428,566; R. M. Critchfield's corporations committee, 148 subscriptions for $243,282; and 181 members of the medical staff have pledged $345,140, for a total of $1,014,988.

"With this amount in hand, we have qualified for $451,000 of the $1 million pledged by General Motors," Estes pointed out. "Which brings our total to $1,465,988."

Soon after the building fund program was announced, GM offered to match with $1 each $2.25 raised from other sources.

Also commenting on the subscription from the Wilson Trust was Norman Weston, vice president and trust officer of the National Bank of Detroit.

"Because of Mrs. Wilson's long and happy association with the Sisters of Mercy and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital," Weston noted, "the trustees of her estate are pleased to make a contribution to this important project."

Deputy Held in Killing at 'Bama Store

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP)—A part-time deputy sheriff described by friends as "an easy-going, good fellow," was held today on murder charges in the slaying of a white theology student.

The student and a Catholic priest, both here for summer civil rights work, were shot down with an automatic shotgun yesterday on a gravel lane outside a weather-beaten grocery store.

The priest was hospitalized in "very critical" condition.

Police said Tom Coleman, about 35, a grandfather and the father of a highway patrolman, turned himself in a short time later and admitted the slaying.

He was charged with first-degree murder and jailed without bond. A county official said a grand jury probably would consider the charge in September.

The two clergymen were shot a few minutes after they were released from the Lowndes County jail. They were arrested last week during a civil rights demonstration at Fort Deposit, a nearby community.

The dead man was Jonathan Daniels, 27, who had completed two years of a three-year course (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Ask Another Raise for County Deputies

Oakland County Sheriff Frank Irons yesterday asked for a $500 per year raise for deputies to make his department's pay scale competitive with other police agencies.

The request to the salaries committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors came just two months after the county gave deputies a $500 yearly pay boost.

Irons said that the raise granted in June helped stem

the tide of resignations by deputies seeking more attractive work in factories or with other police departments.

"It still left our pay scale below many other police departments," Irons said yesterday. "We stand to lose more men in the future if it isn't improved."

Pay for deputies presently ranges from a minimum $6,000 to a peak of $6,700. Relief sergeants receive $100 more and sergeants $300 more.

The salaries committee heard appeals from six other county departments yesterday as it concluded hearings in preparation to setting the pay structure in the 1966 budget.

Most asked both for salary increases and more personnel.

Probate Court Judge Donald S. Adams, who spoke in behalf of improvements for the court staff, didn't ask for a specific pay boost for the court's two judges.

He requested, however, that the probable judges be given comparable consideration to that given the county's circuit judges.

HIKE ASKED

A week ago the circuit judges asked for a salary hike from $26,000 to $30,000 to compensate for their heavy work load.

Adams pointed out to the committee that he and Judge Norman R. Barnard also carry a heavy case load. Both now receive a salary of $23,500.

Prosecutor S. Jerome Brown asked for three additional assistant prosecutors rather than the single new assistant specified in the county's tentative 1966 budget.

In asking for staff pay hikes, Brown requested a $1,000 boost, from $13,300 to $14,300 for his chief assistant.

POST VACANT

He said he planned to name James Finn to this post which is presently vacant due to the illness of Robert D. Long.

The salaries committee will meet Thursday to review recommendations prepared by the County Board of Auditors on the basis of the departmental hearings.

She said in a statement released by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee that they had stopped at the store to get some food.

TOLD TO LEAVE

"A man we assumed to be the proprietor looked at us with a shogin in his hand and told us, 'Get off my property,'" she said. "He shot before we had a chance to turn around."

Alabama Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers promised a full-scale investigation and vowed, "If this is murder, it will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

President Johnson instructed Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to begin a "vigorous and immediate" investigation and the Justice Department ordered an FBI probe.

"The President has ordered that he be kept informed of progress made in identifying and apprehending those who are responsible for the heinous acts," said a White House spokesman.

TIGHT-LIPPED

Lowndes County officials were tight-lipped after talking at length with Coleman and three Montgomery County attorneys, Vaughn Hill, a state senator, Joe Phelps and Robert Black, Coleman's nephew.

Gemini Flight Trouble

power on almost all systems within the spacecraft that were not critical.

These included radar sets, computer, and some of the environmental control systems.

The problem started developing shortly after launch when Cooper reported the declining pressure.

Late in the second orbit, Cooper said readings in the spacecraft showed the pressure had dropped to 130 pounds. But ground monitors said the pressure was 180 and seemed to have stabilized at that point. Then there appeared to be another drop.

COOPER MESSAGE

Shortly before the apparent stabilization, Cooper said: "We've decided we're going to have to either re-enter early or else power down."

Mission Control Center at Houston agreed with him and ordered him to shut down as many power-using systems as possible.

Then Cooper asked if it might be possible that they could power up some systems to try the rendezvous.

"We're working on a new flight plan for you," the center said.

FIRST FOR U.S.

If the flight is terminated early, it would be the first time in 10 U.S. space flights that one has not gone to completion.

The trouble in the oxygen tankage could have one of several origins—an electrical short, a leak, or a failure of the heaters to bring the temperature up and off gas from its stored state of deep frozen snow.

If the spacecraft is ordered to return to earth, experts said, the answer may never be known. The tanks of oxygen and hydrogen are in the adapter section of the spacecraft which is jettisoned before re-entry.

Weather was reported satisfactory for a landing in the Hawaii area. Winds were light and waves running one to four feet.

The control center reported that the problem seemed to be in a heating system which converts liquid oxygen to a gaseous form to be fed into the fuel cell power system.

Gaseous oxygen and hydrogen are combined in the fuel cells to provide electricity to run the spacecraft system.

The control center said both the automatic and manual control systems connected with the oxygen tank were not functioning and "they must be functioning so the fuel cells can remain operative."

Therefore, it added, "We have temporarily suspended any maneuvers involving the Radar Pod Exercise."

HIGHER ORBIT

A maneuver had been scheduled at 11:59 a.m. EST in which the spacecraft was to have been shifted into a higher orbit so that it could begin backing away from the satellite that the astronauts launched 32 minutes before.

The satellite, which the astronauts called "Little Rascal," was flying in formation with the Gemini 5, about a mile to the north of it, to the left of the astronauts.

The fuel cells caused a series of problems in the weeks before the launch.

During a launch rehearsal last July 23, a water leak developed and there was some excessive boiloff of hydrogen gas. This set of cells was replaced by the set now in the spacecraft.

DELAY CAUSED

Problems associated with hydrogen pressurization caused a three-hour, 18-minute delay in the countdown when Cooper and Conrad originally were to have been launched on Thursday, and contributed to the two-day postponement.

There are two fuel cells in the Gemini 5, each weighing 68 pounds.

Connected to them are two basketball-sized spheres which contain the liquid oxygen and hydrogen which are converted to gas and mixed in the cells.

This is the first time a fuel cell has been flown. It replaces heavier, bulkier storage batteries used on previous flights.

More than 700 pounds of storage batteries would be required to support power demands for an eight-day flight. This is a weight luxury the tiny ship cannot afford.

BACK AWAY The astronauts planned to back about 52 miles away from the satellite — called REP for Radar Evaluation Pod.

Then they were to use a radar system, a computer, jet thrusters and a spirit level to clear within 20 feet of the flying target during the fourth orbit — at about 2:36 p.m. EST.

After achieving rendezvous, they planned to circle the REP for more than an hour before speeding on in a weightless world in which they were to circle the earth 12 times, on the longest flight ever attempted.

The flight, if carried to completion, will eclipse by three days the present five-day record held by Russian cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky.

LAUNCH TIME The launching of the "Little Rascal" presumably occurred about 11:07 a.m., two hours, seven minutes after Cooper, the veteran astronaut making his second space voyage, and Conrad, his rookie partner, thundered away from Cape Kennedy atop a Titan 2 rocket.

Mrs. Lula G. Wilson, widow of Charles B. Wilson, a long time resident of Pontiac, died at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in February, 1961.

School Building Program Proceeding Successfully

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Students here soon will see where their elders' room went when they start to use the classrooms built with a portion of last year's bond issue.

Scheduled for completion this fall is $1,237,287 worth of construction, the first portion of a $7.6-million building program.

The work includes 10 projects, highlighted by a new elementary school, a 16-room addition to East Hills Junior High School.

While some of the construction has fallen behind schedule, contractors have assured school officials that the academic rooms will be ready for the first day of school Sept. 7.

Some of the other areas, like multipurpose rooms, will take a little longer.

SMALL PROBLEM

"This doesn't create too much of a problem," Assistant School Supt. Irving E. Menucci said. "Until the multipurpose rooms are completed, we can hold outside gym classes."

The youngsters attending the new Traub Elementary School will carry their lunches for the first few weeks until the all-purpose area is finished.

This two-unit school, costing $542,860 to build, will have 12 classrooms and two kindergarten rooms.

Additions at existing schools include East Hills Junior High, 16 teaching stations, $341,940; Pine Lake Elementary, seven classrooms, $153,846; Booth Elementary, seven classrooms, $139,626; and Hickory Grove Elementary, four classrooms and a library, $134,898.

OTHER PROJECTS

Others are Bloomfield Hills Junior High, four teaching stations, $71,338, and Conant Elementary, six classrooms, $143,793.

Tennis courts and a track have taken $35,898 of the $255,000 set aside for athletic facilities.

Renovation and the addition of all-purpose rooms to Wing Lake and Vaughan elementary schools are costing $53,790 and $149,574 respectively.

A new $158,585 administration building under construction across Anderson Street from the high school is expected to be opened a month or so after school starts.

TIME LOST

Menucci noted the timetable for that building was disrupted by the steel strike.

Faced with rising construction costs, the school board rejected all bids on a new bus garage.

Also yet to be built with funds from the 1964 bond issue are a new senior high school, a swimming pool West Hills Junior High School and an elementary unit.

The board also plans to buy a new $158,585 administration building under construction across Anderson Street from the high school is expected to be opened a month or so after school starts.

State to Stay GTW Cutback

Force Reconsideration of ICC Authorization

LANSING (AP) — The Public Service Commission (MSPC) is setting wheels in motion to keep Grand Trunk Western Railroad passenger trains rolling between Detroit and Durand.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley Friday authorized commission attorney Hugh Anderson to file a petition for reconsideration of an Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) decision to permit ending of the rail service.

Anderson had been notified just hours before that the ICC had authorized a stoppage of trains 22 and 57, which it said have been losing more than $72,000 a year.

Train number 22 goes through Pontiac to Detroit at 6:35 a.m. The other, number 57, goes through Pontiac toward Durand at 11:44 p.m.

AT LEAST TEMPORARILY The petition would stay the ICC order and keep the trains running, at least temporarily.

Anderson says he wants the matter aired before the entire commission. The stoppage recommendation was made by the federal commission's three-man finance division. Under normal ICC rules of operation, the commission can approve such a recommendation and give it the force of an administrative ruling.

Anderson said the commission has asked the railroad to ask for a rehearing of the case. If it does not make such a request and if its petition for a review is granted, the ICC would make its decision on the basis of facts already presented.

In appraising the discontinuance application, the ICC said the railroad's 1963 deficit of $7.7 million and a 1959-63 deficit of more than $53 million, saying the railroad "is in no way capable of absorbing the severe financial burden imposed on it by the operation of these trains."

REQUEST DENIED The railroad first asked the state commission for permission to abandon the service in the fall of 1963, Anderson said. The request was denied and an appeal was made to the federal commission.

ICC hearings examiner John Messer ruled against the railroad in May 1964, "stating that he could not determine whether the railroad was operating at a loss or not, and pointing out that there would be increasing need for this rail service in the future as the highways north of Detroit become more congested," Anderson said.

The railroad filed objections to Messer's findings. It was on the basis of these and the state commission's answers that the ICC made its ruling.

Anderson contends that the financial picture of the case and did not rule on future need — "except to say that other means of transportation now exist in this area."

At least 100 acres of trees and farm crops were devastated, witnesses said.

"Not a green thing is in sight," reported Jerry Ryan of radio station WERT.

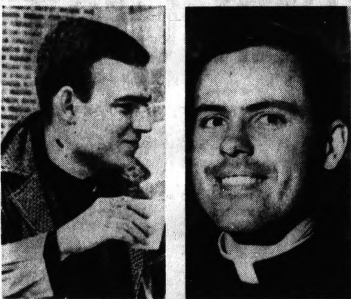

POSSIBLE SPARK WERT employees said the gas line blew up, possibly ignited by a spark, while a train passed. The Erie Lackawanna freight was damaged but remained on the tracks.

Killed was Nancy Anna May Rigidon, 5, who was asleep with her family in their home about 300 yards from the blast.

In Van Wert Hospital is her mother, Priscilla Rigidon, her 8-month-old brother, Timmy, her twin brothers, David and Daniel, 1; a sister, Esther, 5, another sister, Rachel, 3, and a third sister, Anna Marie, 7.

Keith Hadrill, 6766 Almond, was riding north on Almond when he was struck by a car driven by Lawrence W. Paul, 22, of 940 Lakeview, Waterford Township.

Paul told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies that the youth swerved in front of the car.

Sheriff Frank Ryals said he understood the two were shot after Coleman went to the store, a one-story frame structure about 500 yards from the county courthouse, to check a report of a disturbance.

Ryals said he was out of town at the time and could not give a detailed account.

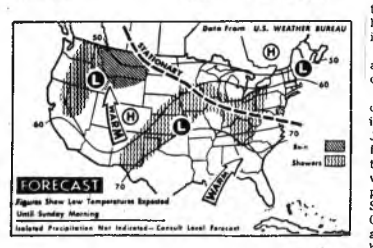

However, a Negro girl, Ruby Sales of Columbus, Ga., said she and three other Negroes had been released from jail with the two men and were with them when they were shot.

Claim 'Racket' Fostered Riot

11 Reported Hurt at Job Corps Site

MORGANFIELD, Ky. (AP)—A Job Corps spokesman says trouble at the Camp Breckinridge center — which fostered a 45-minute riot among 80 trainees — began with a claim that "a certain protection racket (that) has been in operation for about two weeks."

At least 11 persons were injured.

Charles Preston, camp public relations director, said that the "protection racket and a rash of burglaries" have brought FBI agents onto the post several times in the past few weeks.

D. L. Coleman, 18, Oakland, Calif., president of the student government of the federal anti-poverty camp in western Kentucky, said he had talked to many of the 500 corpsmen about the "protection racket" report several times before the riot broke out Friday.

"WANTED TO FIGHT" "But they didn't want to talk about the racket — they wanted to fight," he said.

A mob of about 75 attacked a firetruck they apparently thought was coming to settle fighting which began between sticks and belts.

He was taken to a hospital in nearby Evansville, Ind., where he was reported in fair condition today.

FALSE ALARM

It was determined later that the firetruck had arrived because of a false alarm.

Ten job corpsmen were treated at a camp hospital. Most of them had stab wounds, many had cuts and bruises, authorities said.

Names of the injured were not announced by Job Corps officials.

Team of corps officials, including three from Washington, is investigating the incident. Dr. John Kennedy, project director for the Urban Job Corps centers; Sam Yetts, special assistant to Office of Economic Opportunity Director Sargent Shriver, and Harry Stuck of the Office of Economic Opportunity arrived at the camp about six hours after the riot.

"The disturbance was a combination of impatience with the program and dissatisfaction with living conditions," Kennedy, Yetts and Stuck said in a statement.

State Tax Talks Set Next Week

Two Alternatives Will Be Further Refined

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney and legislators who agreed last week that Michigan needs a 4 per cent income tax will resume their tax talks next Thursday.

Romney announced Friday that a series of meetings on fiscal reform, begun early this year, will continue in his office.

Romney and a bipartisan group of House and Senate members narrowed the field down to two possible tax plans in a conference at Romney's summer home at Mackinac Island Aug. 12 and 13.

The alternatives include a statewide personal income tax at a maximum rate of 4 per cent and a corporation and financial institution income tax at a 5 per cent maximum. Each would net the state about $200 million in new revenue by June 30, 1968.

FURTHER REFINING
The plans will be further refined at Thursday's meeting — and at other meetings if needed — and presented to the Democratic and Republican legislative caucuses.

The legislature is scheduled to return to Lansing Sept. 14 to take up the subject of fiscal reform. But Romney says it would take a "political miracle" to get tax reform this year. Several key legislators oppose tax action this year.

Senate Majority Leader Raymond Drendzel, D-Detroit, attended the two-day conference but would not commit himself at the time as to the plans' chances in the Senate Democratic caucus.

House Speaker Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, said he could not attend the Mackinac Island conference because of conflicting personal business.

He said Friday he is studying the proposals and probably would not comment on either until he receives a report from the House General Taxation Committee, whose members have been working on the proposed plans.

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistan and the Soviet Union signed an agreement Friday enabling Pakistan to buy on credit $3 million worth of machinery to build an airport in Karachi.

The countries also signed a contract for importing Soviet drilling equipment for an oil drilling operation about 90 miles west of Rawalpindi.

Ex-Friends Cash In on Kennedy Memoirs

The rash of disturbing memoirs appearing this summer were obviously conceived shortly after the Dallas tragedy of November 1963.

Mass circulation magazines have already hit the newsstands with cover photographs of the late President JOHN F. KENNEDY. It must be comforting to the family to see all these memoirs rushed into print by former White House intimates and friends.

Cashing in on royalties are historian Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., Theodore C. Sorensen, and personal secretary Evelyn Lincoln, all bursting with hitherto unpublished words and whims of the 35th President of the United States.

Probably never before in history has there been such a heated sprint to broadcast the confidences of a dead president. Other assassinations came well before the time when a single book could earn a fortune. The death in office of FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT was followed by a shelf of memoirs from FDR's friends and confidants, but not with such breathless haste.

It is all quite legal and perhaps ethically defensible. Somehow it is disturbing to us to see Mrs. LINCOLN discuss her former boss.

According to a recent quote, Kennedy is supposed to have said, "It is not a very pleasant feeling when you know you have eight people around you keeping diaries."

Apparently five more books are due from former White House insiders.

Personally, we would classify these ex-friends as money grubbers in the same category with some of the area twin double winners.

Long-Hairs Short View Our Viet Nam Goals

An attempt is being made in some circles to paint the United States as the villain and color in the Communist invaders as the good guys in Viet Nam.

In Washington most Republicans and Democrats have supported President JOHNSON's policy in Southeast Asia along with the majority of the population.

Much of the protest seems to come from a shrill and articulate minority of college professors and students, spurred on by "hard left" leaders. They suggest that the intellectual elite of this country is opposed to the American cause in Viet Nam. How can a sensible dialogue be carried on with students who openly threaten to resist the obligation of military service with such slogans as "I won't fight even if drafted?"

Those misty-eyed peace merchants are fired with idealism. But they forget that understanding is a two-way street.

They are shocked by the killing of Asians, but only mildly moved by the rising toll of American casualties.

There was no praise from the firebrands for the President's proposal for unconditional discussions and there were no demonstrations in protest of the Hanoi-Peking rejection of this proposal.

This negativism has caused a marked split in the intellectual camp in this country. Where is our national unity in time of crisis? Our foreign policy may have erred or hesitated, but must we drift aimlessly in some kind of existential quandary?

Communism spends much time and energy winning converts to its causes who are blinded to reality—and danger.

No Ike-Johnson Split Developed

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — It's the spirit of the thing, not the words, so what might have looked like a split between President Johnson and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower turned out to be anything but.

In his eight White House years, Eisenhower said and wrote many things about Viet Nam. At news conferences, in speeches, in messages to Congress, and in letters to South Viet Nam's President Ngo Dinh Diem who was ousted and killed in 1963.

In a now-famous letter to Diem on Oct. 26, 1954, Eisenhower promised American aid, saying:

"The purpose of this offer is to assist the government of Viet Nam in developing and maintaining a strong, viable state, capable of resisting attempted subversion or aggression through military means."

Johnson quoted from that letter this year in explaining his actions in ordering a big buildup of American forces in Viet Nam and their direct involvement in the war. He wanted to show that helping Viet Nam was not a new policy.

THE PICTURE

But this week Eisenhower was asked about Johnson's use of his 1954 letter to Diem and said: "We were not talking about military programs, but foreign aid."

It was this statement which some people perhaps took for a split. But Eisenhower didn't let the impression last long. He said Thursday he was behind Johnson, adding: "We must follow the President."

Yet the picture might still look muddy without some additions.

This writer went through the eight volumes of Eisenhower's published statements over eight years and could find not one instance in which he promised to send American troops to Viet Nam to take direct part in the war.

685 ADVISERS WERE SENT

But in 1954, the year of his letter, he sent 685 military technicians into Viet Nam to help train its army and kept about that number there all through his presidency.

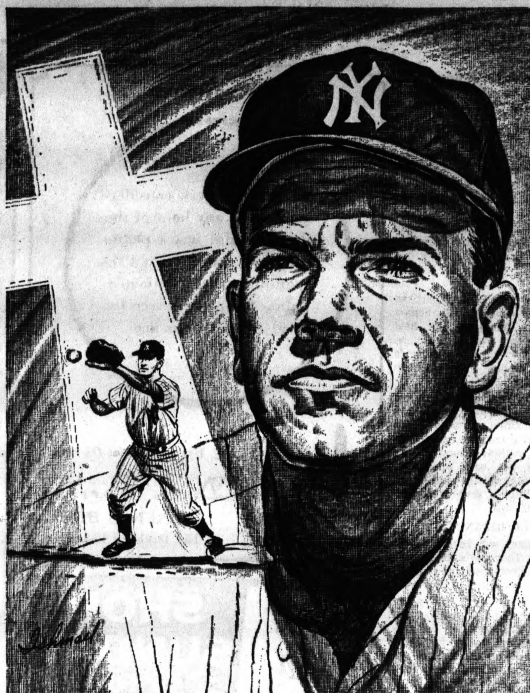

And he continued to give economic and military aid.

American aid now has gone over $5 billion. But there was a good reason why American combat troops were not needed in Viet Nam during most of Eisenhower's presidency.

From 1964 until 1969 the Red guerrillas lay low. In that later year, they perked up on a small scale. Guerrilla activity slowly increased in intensity. Then in 1961 Diem wrote President Kennedy, saying Viet Nam couldn't win without more assistance. Kennedy sent in 2,000 men. That number has been increasing since.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODIE ISHMAEL

Bobby Richardson, second baseman for the New York Yankees, has a staunch faith felt by all who meet him.

During a discouraging period early in his career, a former coach wrote him, quoting Matthew 6:33: "... seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." He took that as an article of his faith.

Every year he talks to literally thousands of young people. Three years ago he spoke in Japan, traveling 25,000 miles in eight days. He works with YMCA's, conducting baseball clinics. He is a director of three youth organizations. All of this he does with one purpose in mind—to give boys and girls the faith for a fulfilled and useful life.

Bobby says: "I enjoy the sport I am in, but only because I feel that this is where God would have me serve Him."

Days of All Faiths:

St. Augustine, Our Oldest City

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

It was on August 28, 1565, that Spanish Admiral Pedro Menendez De Aviles, sailing from Spain to bring the Gospel to the Indians, sighted land. The place was Cape Canaveral, Florida, now called Cape Kennedy. The admiral cruised up the coast like a man in an automobile looking for a place to park, and after 11 days he entered an inlet and landed at the present site of America's oldest city, St. Augustine, Florida, and there founded the town.

One might expect that since he landed on September 8, and September 8 being the Virgin Mary's birthday, Menendez would have named his community St. Mary or Nativity or something of that sort. But apparently the day on which he first saw the New World was uppermost in his mind, and St. Augustine it was and still is four centuries later.

The ancient city is celebrating its quadricentennial with a vigorous and intelligent program not just of festivities and tourist attractions, but of restoration of old buildings and landmarks, a deepened historic consciousness and a new civic pride.

Augustine is called "the great of the church fathers." No one who knew him in his youth would have predicted that he would ever earn such a title. Rather, they would have given good odds that he would end up in a desert's grave. Augustine was a champion playboy, an expert in riotous living. This went on until he was 30 years old.

He was born in Africa in 354 in the city of Hippo. Augustine was on the Mediterranean. Because of his African birth many people have assumed that he was a Negro and many Negro churches have been named for him. But it is generally agreed that he was white.

Augustine's father was a pagan, but his mother was a deeply devout Christian woman. She is now in the Christian calendar as St. Monica (May 4). She worried and prayed over her wayward son, and the happiest day of her life came in 387, when she heard that he had been converted and baptized in Milan, where he had gone to be a professor of rhetoric. The conversion had come as a result of his friendship with the great St. Ambrose, who was Archbishop of Milan.

Once a Christian, Augustine worked as hard at his new vocation as he had at being a rake. He returned to Africa, to a town called Hippo, and for three years went into a sort of monastic seclusion with eleven other men. When he came back out into the world he became a priest (381) and in five years had so impressed everyone with his learning and his godly life that they made him Bishop of Hippo.

A bishop's administrative duties are large and strenuous, but Augustine handled them well and still was able to write almost incessantly. When he died he left 232 books and treatises, plus complete expositions of the Psalms and the four Gospels.

In 430 the Vandals besieged the city of Hippo. Augustine, then 76, prayed that he might die before the city fell, and his prayer was answered. He died of a fever on August 28.

The Almanac —

By United Press International
Today is Saturday, Aug. 21, the 233rd day of 1965 with 132 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

Princess Margaret of England was born on this day in 1930.

On this day in history:

In 1940, a group of English children arrived in U. S. to seek temporary haven from Nazi air attacks.

In 1940, Leon Trotsky, one of the main builders of Soviet Communism, was assassinated in Mexico City.

In 1950, the United Nations moved into its permanent building in New York City.

In 1951, the U. S. ordered construction of the world's first atomic submarine.

In the third month of the siege.

When the pagans finally took Hippo they followed their usual custom of burning everything in sight, but someone was able to save the bishop's vast literary output and we still have it today.

Probably Augustine's best known work is his "City of God" but the one that has made him everybody's saint is his "Confessions," in which he tells with sometimes shocking candor the story of his mispent youth and then of his growth in Christ.

LBJ Signs Bills in Novel Spots

By WASHINGTON STAFF
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Critics are having fun with President Johnson's search for novel places to sign bills passed by Congress.

Johnson journeyed to Independence, Mo., so that Harry Truman could witness the signing of the Medicare bill, and then chose the Capitol room where Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation as the site for signing the voting rights bill.

Says one Republican legislator: "I've got a great idea as to where he can go to sign the next oceanography bill!"

Postmaster General John Gronouski's latest economy idea is to lease a fleet of 31,000 automobiles — one for each rural letter carrier in the United States.

The rural carriers currently use their own cars and are reimbursed at the rate of 12 cents a mile. Gronouski figures that the Post Office can lease autos at a cost of slightly under nine cents a mile, thereby saving some $20 million annually.

The National Association of Rural Letter Carriers — one of

Voice of the People:

Disagrees With Letter on Streamlining Religion

I was surprised that Mr. Borden would sign his name to the letter on streamlining religion. If our Lord had taken such an attitude, I am sure there would be many pleasures we would be without. God spends all His time taking care of all our needs.

It seems that of 168 hours a week it's not asking too much that at least one of these be spent saying "Thanks" for the blessings God has bestowed on us. Many times I feel I haven't taken enough time for the Lord, but never have I felt I'd spent too much time.

The taverns haven't become streamlined with their time. In fact, through legislation they want to arrange for more time—and this they wish to take from the Lord's Day.

MRS. GLEN FERRELL

'Need More Records to Awaken the People'

Mr. Olague implies that the record "Eve of Destruction" will harm the youth of today. In my opinion this is a record of fact and unless we do something soon to prevent this "Eve of Destruction" we will find ourselves in a complete destruction.

Viet Nam and other trouble spots around the world are going to get even worse. Recent events in Los Angeles show that destruction is coming from within as well as without.

I only wish more records of this nature were on the market and maybe we would all wake up.

Opposes Proposed Property Zoning Change

As a resident of the affected area, I oppose zoning changes proposed in Waterford Township of property on Elizabeth Lake from agricultural to apartments and town houses.

To justify the profits that would be realized by a few people, it is argued that the development will be attractive, increase the tax base and in "progress." Progress of this nature, when measured in terms of depreciated property values for hundreds of home owners and increased crowding of the lake with the attendant safety problems, is not really progress.

I urge all residents of Elizabeth Lake to attend the zoning hearing at Waterford Township high school August 24, at 7:30 p.m.

Replies to Editorial on Riotous Outbursts

In Tuesday's editor's column you maligned the Negroes who protested so violently. The insolence of the enfranchised to vilify the disenfranchised and the arrogance of the bourgeois white man is repugnant to any intelligent man who is not blinded by prejudice.

"How are such vicious social phenomena to be explained?" On page three one of the rioters himself answers the question: "The riot is not over, it's just a quietness . . . the causes have not been removed—poverty and hopelessness."

Finally, your editorial states: "The escutcheon of America has been indecently stained by the riotous outbursts that have held Los Angeles terror-stricken for six days." It is my opinion that America's escutcheon could be no more stained than it has been by the almost two hundred years of double standard justice for the whites and colored in these United States.

PAUL LANDRUM
LAKE ORION WHITE MAN

(Editor's Note: Probably as many—or more—whites are afflicted by poverty than Negroes. Neither instance can be corrected by 75 deaths, 1,000 injuries and $175 million worth of property destroyed by lawless fires. All responsible Negro leaders deplore this whole situation. You speak for a small minority.)

The 15 postal employees union—bitterly opposes this proposal. Therefore, it came as a surprise when the union asked Gronouski to deliver a speech and answer questions at their national convention. It was even more surprising when Gronouski accepted.

"That's like re-enacting Daniel's venture into the lion's den," remarked an aide.

"I don't think the comparison is valid," replied Gronouski. "Daniel emerged from the den unscathed."

Making his way to Gronouski's office recently was a complaint to the Post Office Department from the University of Michigan which operates an astrophysical observatory on the island of Maui in Hawaii.

Copies of the university's latest staff newsletter sent to faculty members at the observatory had been returned. They were stamped:

"Return to sender. Bulk rate mail permits void to foreign countries."

House Banking and Currency Committee chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., released a recent survey which showed that the average bank robber hauls in a "take" of $3,000 and spends 15 days in jail.

Calculates Patman: "This works out to $202 a year or about 10 cents an hour—slightly under the minimum wage."

Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., Senate minority leader, tells the story of a farmer who asked his lawyer to file a slander suit against his neighbor.

"What did he do?" asked the lawyer.

"He called me a rhinoceros," came the answer.

"When did he do that?"

"About 15 years ago."

"Why have you waited so long to sue him?" asked the lawyer.

Answered the farmer: "I never saw a rhinoceros until yesterday."

LBJ Gives Sidelight to
'60 Move

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson has disclosed new details about the role of the late Speaker Sam Rayburn in the chief executive's decision to accept the 1960 vice presidential nomination.

The President told a Senate luncheon yesterday that Rayburn changed overnight his opinion that it would be "idiotic" for Johnson to take the nomination to endorsing the offer from John F. Kennedy.

Johnson, who went to Capitol Hill for the luncheon in honor of Sen. George D. Allen, R-Vt., told the guests that since "everybody's writing about it" he might as well contribute his own account of what happened at the 1960 Democratic convention.

He said Rayburn, a fellow Texan and counselor, "called me indignantly" and reported there was a "rumor" circulating that Johnson was going on the Democratic ticket with Kennedy, who had just been nominated for president.

"That would be the most idiotic thing you could do," Johnson recalled Rayburn said. "Don't you think of leaving the majority leadership (of the Senate)."

NOT MENTIONED

Johnson said he assured Rayburn "no one had mentioned it" to him and that if it came up he would first talk to the speaker.

The next morning, he said, Rayburn came by and said he had "talked with Senator Kennedy" and added: "I rather think the thing for you to do is to go on the ticket."

The President said he asked Rayburn in surprise how he could say that in view of his previous statement.

"I'm a damn sight smarter now than I was last night," he said Rayburn replied.

GENERALLY UNDERSTOOD

While Johnson did not elaborate, it has been generally understood Kennedy told Rayburn that Johnson was needed on the Democratic ticket to prevent wholesale defections in the South.

HEALTH SERVICES
Why is America the healthiest nation in the world? There are many reasons, but here are two of the most important:
With only about 4% of the world's population, the United States has approximately 25% of the world's trained physicians!
And, we have about one-fourth of all the world's pharmacies!
This means that health services and products are more available to Americans than in any other major country on earth.

Fired Instructors Leave Negro School

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Thirteen white instructors fired two days ago at predominantly Negro Bishop College finish leaving today, in accordance with their contracts.

They were dismissed after a demonstration Thursday which college President Milton K. Curry Jr., a Negro, called "stirring up the students."

The instructors were a mix of 23 hired for 10 weeks to teach remedial English and mathematics to high school graduates planning to enter college in September. Their jobs were to end today, but most already had departed Friday night.

5 Already Slain in Italy Vendetta

Blood Oath Haunts Survivors of Clan

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (AP) — The chill winds of fear are blowing today through the bleak streets of the little village of Drosi in the Aspromonte (Bitter Mountain) country of Italy's far south.

The dread 22nd of the month is near. Despite a special police guard, 22 members of the Stillitano family wait in terror.

Five of the family already have been slain, each on a 22nd of the month, under a five-year-old blood vengeance oath that they all will die.

Crippled young Martino Seva has come back by train after almost five years in hospital with a back broken by a pistol shot in a duello rusticano — duel of honor.

His mission was one of mercy. He came home to plead for clemency for Antonio Stillitano, convicted of having shot him in the duel, involving a woman.

IN THE HILLS

But out in the hills there still is Demonic Maisano, young Seva's uncle, with the blood oath on his lips, three million lire ($5,000) in police reward money on his head, and 22 of the Stillitano clan still living.

Police say the blood vengeance began in 1960 when Martino Seva was shot in the duel of honor with Antonio Stillitano.

Young Seva was his uncle's favorite. Maisano, then quiet-living, 40-year-old farmer, had laid aside money to assure Martino a better education than most boys in the Bitter mountainlands ever can afford.

When the bullet crippled young Martino, Maisano took his blood oath. Police say he swore to kill every man, woman and child of the Stillitano clan.

Police say he strikes only on the 22nd of the month — the day young Martino was shot.

Maisano is charged with slaying five members of the Stillitano family, including two of Antonio's sisters. Several others were wounded.

Some members of the family fled to France for safety.

Others remained here under guard of a special carabinieri — national police — detail assigned to the village for their protection. Those police now are on special alert for Sunday is the 22nd.

Although young Antonio came back on a mission of mercy, police said the mere fact of his presence here might bring his uncle raging down again from the Bitter Mountains.

Inside News for Prisoners

EDDYVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The monthly mimeographed magazine published by inmates of Kentucky State Penitentiary always carries reports on various prison departments, some of them quite candid.

This one showed up in the "Shop Column."

"Paul tells me he was a terrible exterminator on the outside and had a successful business. He always carried a bottle of termites with him just in case he couldn't find any in the house to be treated."

State Rights Unit Summons Lawman

SAGINAW (AP) — Vern Clark, police chief of Saginaw Township, has been ordered by the Michigan Civil Rights Commission to appear before the group to answer charges of police harassment, the commission said Friday.

The request stemmed from the arrest of Louis Oates, 18, a civil rights worker who was picketing a Saginaw Township home protesting alleged housing discrimination.

Oates had been charged with disorderly conduct, but Saginaw County Prosecutor Robert Currie indicated Friday this and several other charges would be dismissed.

Politicians Skirmish Over LA Riot Solution

CHECKING THE 'LOOT'—Joseph Aube, an officer in the Los Angeles Police Department's property room, checks one of the guns recovered from looters in last week's Los Angeles riots. More of the recovered loot fills racks and is stacked on the floor and tables of the storage area.

LBJ Pushing for Million Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson, convinced that work for a flood of teen-agers coming into the labor market this summer, the session with Humphrey and the cabinet members was Johnson's only scheduled appointment for the day.

Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers said there was a possibility the President might decide to fly to Camp David in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains in the afternoon.

The chief executive set the theme for his meeting with the Youth Council in his speech yesterday to a White House Conference on Equal Opportunity.

He said the aim of the blue-ribbon cabinet task force under Humphrey's leadership had been to find work for deprived youngsters, "most of whom came from broken homes, a good many of whom slept with the rats every night — if they slept at all — all of whom were without jobs, without education, without food."

The President praised Humphrey's performance in twice exceeding goals of 500,000 and then 750,000 jobs this summer for the young persons and disclosed he was raising the target once more.

He planned to follow up that statement today with a call for increased efforts to further reduce unemployment among unskilled young persons.

The President was scheduled to meet with members of the cabinet — level Youth Council, headed by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, which has

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The slow, painful process of social and material reconstruction ground along in low gear today in riot-devastated Watts. Political leaders still sparred over many questions of how to do what and when.

A special commission appointed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown sought the cause of six days of violent rioting in which 36 persons died. Three thousand National Guardsmen remained on duty.

Mayor Samuel W. Yorty blasted the commission, and religious leaders demanded action.

Yorty complained bitterly Friday about Brown's blue ribbon commission, saying an appointed Negro minister "was among the first to blame the police for the riots."

RAPS SELECTION

Yorty declared that the Rev. James Edward Jones, a member of the Los Angeles Board of Education, "will be given a forum to attack the police department."

In Sacramento, an aide to the governor said "it's ridiculous to think you could find any eight people in Los Angeles without any opinions about last week's riots. The governor chose these commissioners because he knows they have the integrity to make fair judgments based on fact, not on any opinions they may hold."

In Washington, President Johnson told a conference on equal employment opportunity Friday that "a rioter with a Molotov cocktail in his hands is not fighting for civil rights any more than a Klansman with a sheet on his back and a mask on his face."

"They are both more or less what the law declares them, lawbreakers, destroyers of constitutional rights and liberties that would ultimately destroy a free America. They must be exposed and dealt with," Johnson said.

ENTERS FRAY

The City Council entered the fray Friday in a heated dispute over its own role in investigating the riot. When the shouting subsided, two resolutions asked a committee to suggest what the council might do.

The Board of Rabbis and Council of Churches of Southern California and the Catholic Human Relations Council of Los Angeles issued a joint statement, which read in part:

"The mayor, the police commission and the police chief (should) initiate consultations with skilled human relations personnel and community leaders for development of a broad program . . . to improve community-police attitudes."

Earlier estimates of damage were scaled down from $300 million to slightly more than $45 million.

DAMAGE LIST

County Assessor Philip A. Watson said damage included $25 million in buildings destroyed and the remainder was in trade fixtures, personal property and inventories affected by looting.

Loot recovered in the last few days was piling up at police stations.

The city's courtrooms, patrolled by National Guardsmen, were busy processing persons arrested in connection with the riots.

Officers said 80 per cent of the defendants were adults, with charges running from murder to misdemeanors. Almost 3,000 of the prisoners were charged with felonies.

Leading Flutist Dies

LONDON (AP) — Gordon Walker, 61, a leading flute player with British symphony orchestras for many years, died Thursday night after a short illness. For many years he was principal flutist of the Royal Opera House Orchestra and the Royal Philharmonic.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban exile broadcast reported that anti-Castroites burned a central Cuba school where children were being indoctrinated into communism.

The fire, in Yajuyaj, Las Villas Province, burned an entire block except for a soft drink plant, said the broadcast, beamed to Cuba.

Dream House Is Setting for Antiques

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press
Mr. Blanding may have built his dream house but the Paul Droegges of Fairway Drive, Birmingham, didn't have to.

They found theirs already built.

"I just knew it had to be our house," said Mrs. Droegge, "from the first moment I looked at it."

Pink roses trained to climb the white picket fence of the dooryard add to the Early American charm of the white frame home.

ARCHED DOORWAY

An arched doorway leads from the foyer into the comfortable living-dining room.

Wallpapered in a white provincial print on forest green, the room features braided rugs in shades of green, brown and black.

On the white fireplace mantel is a walnut clock which belonged to Mr. Droegge's grandmother. Bright red geraniums mask the fire basket for the summer months.

Near the entrance way stands an ash washstand made by Mrs. Droegge's grandfather. Magazine prints in antique-walnut frames complete the grouping.

An oval mirror is hung over the fruitwood piano on the same wall.

I tried hanging it the way it should be," said Mrs. Droegge. "But it didn't look right, so I just turned it sideways."

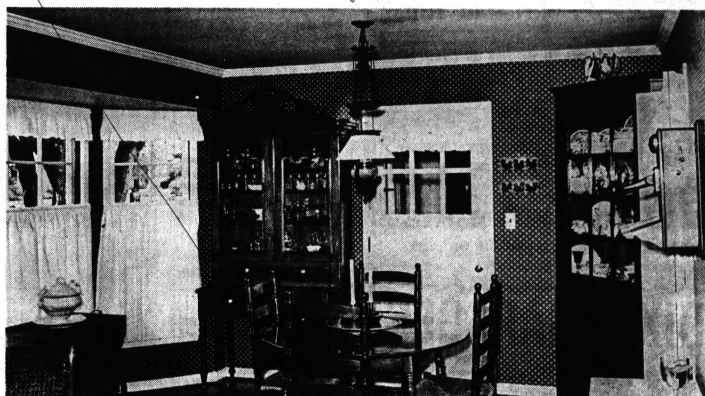

Flanking the white-on-white sofa, are cherry end tables centered by matching electrified coffee grinders.

The drop-leaf coffee table of maple, ash and cherry was discovered at an auction.

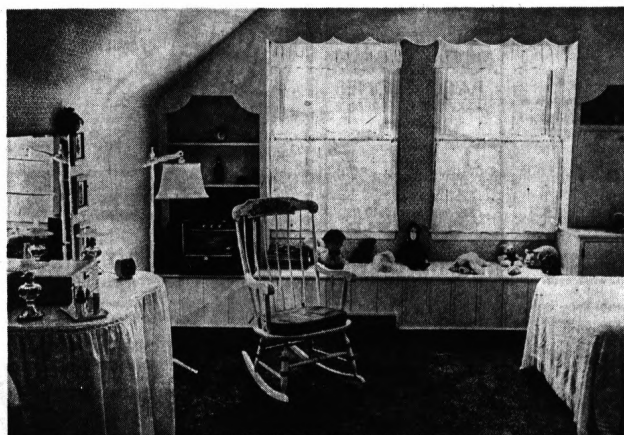

In the dining portion of the room an old-fashioned telephone, mounted on hinges, swings open to reveal a modern telephone.

Ladder-back chairs with rush seats surround the round fruitwood dining table.

Lighting the area is an antique kerosene hanging lantern of black wrought iron and milk glass.

Modern Touches Update Two-Story

There has been a great renewal of interest in two-story houses in recent years.

Many of these homes have

Others have borrowed from these traditions and adapted them to the contemporary way of life.

The newest House of the Week is of the latter type. It utilizes much of traditional detailing and exterior styling, but incorporates these into a home that has a subdued contemporary tone, both inside and outside.

The floor plan, in particular, is as modern and up-to-date as can be, with a bit of individual excitement.

LIVING LEVELS

Most interesting of all is the unusual disposition of space, whereby the living room is raised to a level by itself and the ground floor contains a den or spare bedroom, plus a spacious family room, in addition to the normal complement of kitchen, dinette and formal dining room.

There is a touch of split-level design in this arrangement. Architect Samuel Paul intended it to be so.

The result is a home with the best characteristics of both two-story and split-level planning. For instance, there is the opportunity to utilize a small basement under the living room only, thus cutting costs.

Note that a full basement can be had if desired. The living room is one of the most dramatic features of Design H-97.

There is a continuous cathedral ceiling, a husky brick fireplace, windows at both the front and the rear, and an attractive screen along the stair to the second floor.

Down four steps in the flagstoned reception foyer is a lovely stone planter backed up by a paneled wall — a striking interior arrangement.

There's fine planning on the ground floor, too. Note the formal dining room with its beamed ceiling and the adjoining, fully-equipped, efficient U-shaped kitchen along with an informal dinette space.

WIDE OPEN

This is wide open to the comfortable family room, in effect visually expanding the entire area.

Immediately behind the family room is a laundry room with windows facing the front, an adjoining lavatory and the inside garage entrance.

Finally, to round off the ground floor, is an extra room located right off the foyer.

It is ideally suited for a den, fourth bedroom or guest room. It has its own large closet and a private entrance to the lavatory.

The bedroom floor has three comfortably-sized bedrooms, including a master suite.

This suite encompasses a large walk-in closet, a windowed dressing table area with another closet, and large bath with a recessed, squarish-style tub, generally considered the roomiest tub on the market.

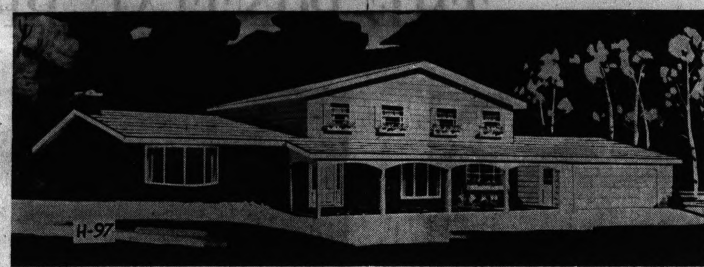

The other bath is extra spacious and includes a towel closet.

LARGE CLOSETS

The closets in the second and third bedrooms are oversized, and there are twin linen closets in the bedroom foyer.

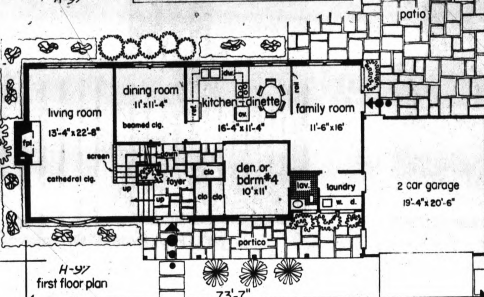

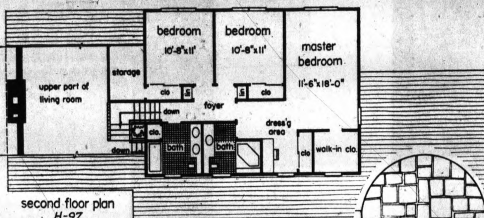

Behind the two-car garage is a flagstoned patio which extends around in back of the family room.

A door in the family room leads to this outdoor living area. Architect Paul has made it convenient to park the car and go into the house from the rear of the garage to the family room or through either of two other doors, one leading to the wash-up area, the other to the covered front portico.

OLD AND NEW—Architect Samuel Paul has added modern design features to this traditional two-story house, giving it an up-to-date look on the outside and providing the kind of good traffic circulation demanded by home owners these days.

FLOOR PLANS—Cathedral ceiling in living room, beamed ceiling in dining room, excellent kitchen-dinette arrangement and convenience of rear patio to family room are among the many features incorporated into design of this two-story house.

Rust Manual Is Available

When Old Man Rust gets the upper hand, the result can strike at the pocketbook, according to a survey of realty firms just released by the Rust-Oleum Corporation.

The report indicates that the average home may suffer as much as a seven per cent lower resale price where unsightly rust has gone to work.

Chief targets in the nine point rust attack on the home are gutters and downspouts, porch railings, steel sash, metal fences, patio furniture, pipes and fittings, air conditioners, children's swing sets, and outdoor light fixtures.

Now is the time to undo damage by stopping rust, the company advises.

A complete how-to-do-it manual "101 Rust-Stopping Tips," is available free of charge from the Rust-Oleum Corporation, 2799 Oakton Street, Evanston, Illinois.

Rattling Plumbing Blamed on Pipe Size

Noises in the plumbing system can usually be traced to water rushing too rapidly through pipes that are too small. Understated piping can also cause starved faucets, vacuum formation and possible back-siphonage of wastes into fresh water supply.

TRADITION — When a bride is told across the threshold she envisions a romantic life ahead but, according to tradition, her husband is really showing that she's now property to be carted home. Once there, he can keep her from straying by burying a lock of her hair under the door-step. And the happy couple can ward off evil with a cross outlined on a six-panel wood door.

Traced to Asia

Carrying Bride Over Threshold

Possibly the most important steps taken this summer will be those which bring a bride into her new home.

If she has married a traditional-minded (and muscular) husband, his lady will be swooped up in his arms, carried across the threshold, and set gingerly down on the other side.

This will signify, according to traditional beliefs about doors, that the bride is entering a new life in which she will be dependent on her husband.

Actually, the custom stems from ancient Asian lands, where a man kidnapped the lady of his choice and literally carried her into his house as property.

Whether formal doors preceded formal weddings is a wide-open question, but sure as a shot-gun ceremony, both are rooted in folklore and myth.

SYMBOLIC ENTRANCE
As protection against "outside" dangers and as the symbolic entrance to another world, doors are imbued with superstition and religious significance.

Outward signs of old-world beliefs still exist today in modern wood panel doors as well as summer weddings.

The traditional six-paneled door, for example, goes back to early Christian times, when the crucifix was considered the most effective way to ward off evil. By positioning two small panels over two larger ones, the center stile and rails form a vertical cross.

The significance may have faded, but these same panel doors are still popular today in colonial-style homes, as well as more contemporary styles.

Unlike older times, however, today's panel doors are precision-made of ponderosa pine in factories and are available in stock sizes.

The superstitious beliefs regarding love and marriage that revolved around doors are both far-fetched and fascinating.

For instance, it was believed that if you pined for a lady who did not return your affection, you could win her love by burying a lock of her hair beneath your doorstep.

What the day's reaction might be to your snipping a hole in her coiffure was apparently overlooked.

If after capturing your prize you wanted to keep her from straying, another lock of hair slipped under the door-step was the best device.

This worked equally well with dogs and cats who would stay close to home if hairs plucked from their tails were buried near the door.

Since doors were so thoroughly imbued with supernatural meaning, they were designed, made, hung and treated with great care.

RELIGIOUS SYMBOLS

Carpenters decorated doors with religious symbols to invoke the blessing of household gods, hung them with hinges shaped like "H" and "L" (for Holy Lord) to ward off witches, or painted them in red to scare away demons.

Today it is no longer practical to turn out decorative wood doors individually, but traditional designs are reproduced faithfully using modern factory techniques.

Rituals regarding doors naturally led to a host of taboos about their use. Under no circumstances were trades to be made through a doorway, nor was anyone allowed to sit or linger there.

If you stumbled on the doorstep, it was a good idea to cancel the trip or business deal you were planning. And, if you sneezed by the door, it was an omen of exceedingly bad luck.

It was good luck, however, to build an altar to a household god in the doorway, to sprinkle salt and pebbles on the doorstep, or — in very religious cultures — to kiss the threshold before it was crossed.

It was also a sign of good fortune for a bride and groom to enter the door of their first home together.

And any man who was anxious to marry but couldn't convince his love to say "yes" could take advantage of the following magic formula.

He could lure the lady onto ground muddy enough to retain her footprint, cut out the print, tie it in cloth and hang it over his doorway.

Before long, the lady in question — muddy feet and all — would step over the threshold and into his arms.

When, after they had set up housekeeping, it was time for his wife to deliver a child, a considerate husband eased the birth by throwing open all doors to welcome the new baby's soul.

Conversely, if someone were dying, doors were left open to ease the soul's passage, and no one was permitted to stand or kneel between the sickbed and the door.

Because they symbolized entrance to another world, doorways were also the place where ghosts were likely to be seen. If it is an ancient belief that if you sat on an evening inside your doorway and gazed into the darkness beyond, you might see a ghost who had just entered or was trying to leave the other world.

Brides tempted to test this belief today are advised to hold onto their husband's hand.

Unattached ghosts have been known to steal unchaperoned husbands. And there you'd be — single again.

Meter Aids in Saving City Water

A small bronze instrument in nearly every home is playing a major role in water conservation — a current topic on the parched lips of nearly every American.

It's the water meter, a device to which no one consciously gives much thought, until perhaps the meter reader comes around or a city water bill is received. However, meters have proved to be substantial water conservers, a fact especially noticed in those areas such as the Northeast, which is in its fourth year of a drought.

"It has been estimated that metered cities average a 30 per cent water saving," William C. Flanders, president of Gammon-Calmet Meter Division of Worthington Corporation, points out.

"Meters, besides being an equitable means of allocating a city's water costs, subconsciously make people save water. Faucets are not left open, leaky faucets are repaired and the lawn sprinkler is not left running all day," said Flanders, a 40-year veteran of the water industry.

Also, checks by meter readers can quickly point out unnoticed leaks in pipes and mains which can waste large amounts of water if unchecked. For example, a leak through just a 1/2 inch hole under 40 pounds of pressure amounts to a water loss of 3600 gallons a day.

"Conservation of water is probably the greatest single achievement the meter industry has," he added.

Water-Base Paint Easy to Clean-Up

Versatile latex or water-base paints have made cleaning, painting and washing up easier than ever before.

If the surface to be painted is only dull or dirty, just clean with soap and water.

No need to wait until the surface is dry. Latex paints can be applied over a slightly damp surface with success. When it's wash up time—just wipe away splatters with a damp cloth and clean your brush in warm soap and water.

Lt. Crowell Leaves Area

Assigned to Detroit, Starts Work Sept. 1

After almost four years in Pontiac at the Salvation Army Citadel Lt. and Mrs. Gary B. Crowell and family will leave for an assignment with the Salvation Army at Brightmoor Corps in Detroit.

The Crowells will report to Detroit Sept. 1.

Lt. and Mrs. Crowell were commissioned from The Salvation Army Training College, Chicago, in June 1960. They are both from Salvation Army families.

It was Lt. Crowell's great-grandmother who opened the work in America. The Crowell children are sixth generation Salvationists.

In 1878 Amos Shirley migrated from England to the United States to work in the mills of Philadelphia. During this time his daughter Eliza, still in England, heard the preaching of Gen. William Booth in England and decided "this conversion" was for her.

When Amos Shirley was prepared, he sent for his wife, Annie, and daughter to come to America and "bring the Salvation Army."

Eliza had joined the ranks of Salvation Army officership. She petitioned Gen. Booth for permission to take The Army to America.

After much persuasion and prayer he consented.

Gen. Booth had opened the work in the east end of London only 14 years earlier—1865.

ARRIVE IN 1879

The Shirleys arrived in America Oct. 5, 1879 and had very little success in their first attempts to establish the work of The Salvation Army.

One night some ruffians started a fire and the whole town turned out. This was the Shirley's great opportunity and they immediately commenced a street meeting (called open air in the Army).

"Nothing significant seemed to take place," was the cry of the local papers, according to Lt. Crowell. But something significant did happen.

LIFE CHANGED

The town drunk knelt down at an old bass drum on the street, and asked God to change his life. He became a changed man—converted, Lt. Crowell said.

Down the street they marched—Amos carrying the Army flag, Annie beating the drum and Eliza arm-in-arm with the first American convert. Half the town followed to see what this new Army was going to do with the new convert.

To everyone's surprise, that night and every night afterwards, the old chair factory was crowded with throngs of people. In three months the work had so grown that another corps was opened in Philadelphia.

"This," Lt. Crowell says, "was the beginning of The Salvation Army in America."

This year marks the 100th anniversary of the worldwide Salvation Army, and the 75th anniversary of the Salvation Army in Pontiac.

MARKS BIRTHDAY

To mark this diamond birthday, the local Salvation Army will celebrate Oct. 30-31 by presenting the world famous Earls-court Toronto Salvation Army Brass Band in concert at Pontiac Northern High School.

Col. and Mrs. Douglas E. Norris, former officers of the local corps, will be present.

Lt. Crowell said of his work here, "This has been a wonderful four years. My wife and I certainly have felt the warm response of the community to the work of The Salvation Army."

BERNADETTE AT LOURDES—Appearing in a tableau scene as Bernadette Soubirous at Lourdes in 1858 is Yvonne Stokes, of 36 Putnam. Carol Stokes portrays Mary, mother of the Christ. The scene will be a part of the Living Rosary program at St. Joseph Catholic Church tomorrow night. The church is located at South Boulevard at Bagley.

IN PARIS—According to the teaching of the Roman Catholic Church it is believed that Mary, the mother of Jesus of Nazareth, appeared to Catherine Laboure in Paris in 1830. Portraying the scene at St. Joseph Catholic Church at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow will be Carol Stokes (left) of 36 Putnam taking the part of Mary, and Marlene Tanka of 212 Edison, the part of Catherine. The tableau is one of five to be presented in the Living Rosary program.

Former Oakland Park Methodist

St. James Church to Break Ground

Ground breaking ceremonies for the congregation of Oak and Park Methodist Church will take place at the new church site on West Kennett across from the Louisa Alcott Elementary School at 1:30 a.m. tomorrow.

The ceremony will follow the regular 10 a.m. worship in the present church on East Montcalm at Glenwood.

Ground will be broken in the name of the St. James Methodist Church, the original name given to the church when it was first organized in Pontiac in 1920.

The name was changed to Oakland Park in 1928.

In calling the new church St. James, the congregation felt it would be in keeping with the older traditions of Oakland Park, Pastor James W. Deeg said.

The present church site was purchased by Pontiac Motor Division for plant expansion.

A down-to-the-last-lap battle today between the perennial champion, Forest Hills Swim Club of Birmingham and C. B. Swim Club of Livonia in the finals of the Northwest Suburban League championships.

C. B. was unbeaten in dual meets during the season and has 32 individual qualifiers and five relay teams in the 36-event finals.

Forest Hills has 29 swimmers and all six of its relay teams in the finals. Battling for third place, well behind the leaders, are Cranbrook and Pleasant Ridge.

Today's finals begin at 1 p.m. in the Birmingham Groves' pool. Medals will be presented to the top three individual finishers and a trophy will go to the championship team.

Forest Lake has won it each of the first three years. The flood of record-setting times in Thursday's preliminary qualifications continued last night. Kathy Stidwell of the Farmington Glen team set two marks Friday.

Kroll-Kukes Team Still Pro-Am Champ

MIDLAND (AP) — Defending champions Ted Kroll and Mike Kukes of Franklin Hills repeated as winners Friday in the Michigan section of the PGA's pro-am golf tournament at the Midland Country Club.

The Detroiters tied in regulation play with the team of John Barnum and Hermie Miller Sr. of Grand Rapids' Blythefield CC, then swept to victory in a sudden death playoff.

Kroll and Kukes parred the first extra hole, while Barnum and Miller had to settle for a bogie. A record field of 72 players participated in the annual event.

(Continued from Page C-1) putout and scored as Dalton Jones grounded to Wickersham. Willie Horton was charged with a three-base error when he dropped Jim Gosger's long fly in right. Gosger scored on a double by Carl Yastrzemski which drove Wickersham from the mound in favor of Pena.

Detroit picked up two runs in the second. Demeter doubled off the left field wall and scored on a single by Norm Cash. Freehan sacrificed and was safe on an error which also sent Cash to third. Cash scored as Dick McAuliffe forced Freehan at second.

The winning run came in the sixth on a single by Jerry Lumpe, an error on Brown's grounder and a wild pitch by Earl Wilson after Lumpe moved to third as Willie Horton hit into a double play.

Wilson (9-10) took the loss. The two teams clash at Jerry Lumpe, an error on Brown's grounder and a wild pitch by Earl Wilson after Lumpe moved to third as Willie Horton hit into a double play.

She bettered the old record for the 50-yard butterfly in the girls' 15-17 class with a :30.4 timing. Earlier, her :27.4 50-yard freestyle eclipsed the old standard by more than a second and half.

Heart of the Hills' Erica Sawhill set her second mark with a :37.5 timing in the 50-yard breaststroke for girls 13-14.

Forest Hills' swimmers set four combined-age relay marks. Almost three seconds were clipped from the 52-year boys'

100-yard medley with their :53.9 pace.

In the girls' 64-year combined-age 200 freestyle race, they hit 1:59.1 which is 3.1 seconds better than the old standard.

Hundreds of Tickets Found

DETROIT (AP) — Investigators Friday found some 200 to 500 tickets marked "void" or "canceled" in the home of Wayne County sheriff's road Patrol Sgt. Paul Paciorek, chief assistant prosecutor Samuel Bremner said.

Three Wayne County sheriff's deputies and a former deputy charged a week ago that Paciorek was a key figure in an alleged traffic ticket fixing operation.

Bremner said Paciorek voluntarily turned the tickets over in a brown shopping bag when the investigators, who had gone to Paciorek's farm home near Flat Rock, asked for them.

"There is evidence that all of the tickets found at the sergeant's home had never reached the justice courts for which they were intended," Morris B. Gruskin, chief investigator for the prosecutor's office, said.

NOT QUESTIONED

He said Paciorek was not questioned about the tickets at the time. "It will be done later," Gruskin said.

OPERATION MUU-MUU SUCCESS — Sixteen-year-old Tamson Feeney of San Diego looks at a previously bikini-clad statue that is now wearing a muu-muu. The teen and her friends objected to the statue and tried to cover it, using a bow and arrow tied to a sheet. These efforts failed, but the California Liquor Board stepped in and ordered the statue to be more suitably draped.

Paper Raps LA Cardinal

DETROIT (AP) — An editorial in the Michigan Catholic, Detroit diocesan newspaper today criticized the stand of James Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles on racial matters.

The editorial said a Catholic press release containing "a bland statement by Cardinal McIntyre" and a report that two Catholic churches escaped damage in the recent riots "isn't worth the ink" it was printed with.

The editorial said Cardinal McIntyre is an "able administrator" and a "kind, sensitive man with an increasingly difficult job."

"But neither can it be denied that the Archbishop of Los Angeles is saddled with a policy that divorces it from any meaningful involvement with today's racial crisis," it said.

FOOLISH CLAIM

"It would be foolish to claim, even admitting such a policy, that this has caused the inexcusable excesses of rioting in Los Angeles."

"But they have reduced Catholicism in that area to a church of silence. The voice of Christ is dumb when there are no lines of communication," the editorial said.

Broad Study on Crime Due

Commission Plans 17-Month Research

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson's new crime commission will begin a massive federal effort next month to find "really significant" remedies to the nation's soaring crime rate.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach announced yesterday the commission would meet Sept. 8 and 9 to open a broad 17-month study to find ways of cracking down on criminals.

Tentative plans call for the 19-member commission to split up into seven panels to study various aspects of crime and make recommendations for congressional action, Katzenbach said.

He added that the study might include hearings around the nation.

The attorney general, chairman of the commission appointed in July by the President, appeared at a White House news conference.

APPOINTMENT

Johnson announced at the conference the appointment of James Vorenberg, 37, a Harvard law professor, as executive secretary of the commission.

Vorenberg has served for the past year in the part-time job of director of the federal office of criminal justice.

The President said that crime is one of the "principle subjects with which this administration will be dealing," adding that it has no "easy answers" and requires a "study in depth."

Hearing Set for Monday on Sidewalks

Waterford Township Board will conduct a public hearing Monday night on the special assessment roll for the proposed $7,477 Cass Lake Road sidewalk improvement project.

Property owners involved would pay $6,729 for the project with the township paying the difference.

Rose Construction Co. is general contractor for the 2,000-foot sidewalk endeavor. The East Detroit firm submitted a low bid of $5,724.

The sidewalk would be built on the west side of Cass Lake Road between Pontiac Lake Road and Cray Junior High School.

In other business, the board will set a public hearing date for the proposed street lighting district on Athens Street and consider hiring Curtis Rossow as township assistant planner.

RECOMMENDED
Rossow, 23, of Bloomington, Ind., a graduate at Indiana University, was recommended for the post by the Township Planning Commission.

The board will consider the commission's request to hire Rossow on a six-month probationary period.

Some Children in Alaska Antipoverty Project Already Have a 'Head Start'

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Operation Head Start, one facet of the Johnson administration's War on Poverty, has some unprivileged participants in Alaska, a survey showed today.

One child taking part is the granddaughter of a U.S. senator

Some others are children of state officials.

A project official explained that some children not from low-income families were taken in after public registration had failed to fill the available places.

Operation Head Start is designed to prepare children from low-income families for entry into the first grade of school this year.

HIGH POVERTY

"Federal assistance (at a federal-local matching ratio of 90-

10) is available for programs which serve neighborhoods with a high rate of poverty," says the official booklet from the Office of Economic Opportunity.

It adds that "family income need not be a specific requirement for admission as long as the program is primarily reaching the poor within the neighborhood."

In Alaska approximately 2,000 children are enrolled in Operation Head Start classes.

In Juneau, the state capital, the project manager, Willis A. Williams, said 12 of the 62 enrolled are from families which could not be classed as low income.

Among those taking part here were children of Warren C. Colver, state attorney general; E. N. Courtney, commissioner of commerce, and Burke Riley, chairman of the Interior Department's Alaska Field Committee and son-in-law of U.S. Sen. E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska.

Williams said the children not from low income families were enrolled after public registration lagged.

S. Viet Unit Joins Yanks in Mop-Up of Cong Sector

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, (AP) — Elements of a Vietnamese Marine battalion clashed today with Communist guerrillas on Van Tuong Peninsula where U.S. Marines were mopping up after the biggest American battle of the war, a U.S. military spokesman said.

The Vietnamese unit joined the Americans today in another sweep of the area, 12 miles south of Chu Lai.

Four Viet Cong were killed in the clash and four enemy weapons captured, the spokesman said. Vietnamese losses were termed "very light."

The engagement occurred on the western edge of the area where American Marines fought the Viet Cong earlier this week. No contact was reported today between Americans and the Viet Cong.

LISTS LOSSES
Lt. Gen. Victor Krulak, Marine commander in the Pacific, said today that about one per cent of the U.S. Marines who took part in the Van Tuong operation were killed and about three per cent were wounded.

He said about three-quarters of those wounded suffered light injuries.

He gave no numbers, but said: "We can say, though, that by Korea or World War II standards, the casualties were light, but I don't want to take it lightly," he said.

"A dead Marine is a tragedy."

Feel Trio Got Look at a 'Form'

POSTORIA, Ohio (AP) — Did the residents of Monroe, Mich., really see a "monster" that had been in a tire last week?

Met Murray, manager of radio station WFOB, Postoria, thinks they really did see "something" and he said today a lie detector expert he hired thinks so too.

Murray said he and the expert administered polygraph tests to three persons, Christine Van Aker, 17; her mother, Mrs. Ruth Owens, 43; and Mrs. Rose Bush, Mrs. Owens' mother, and the tests showed they "definitely saw something" and are telling the truth about what they saw.

They had reported that a "monster"—a furry beast about eight feet in height and resembling a large gorilla, had approached their car, reached in and hit Christine about the head.

PONDER HOAX
Some early investigators believed the sighting of the "monster" was a hoax—which is the reason Murray said he and the expert decided to investigate.

The expert said since he does industrial work with his polygraph he would prefer to remain anonymous.

Meanwhile, two long black hairs said to have come from the "monster" were given to state police investigators Friday.

Cpl. Lambert Rayner of the Flat Rock state police post said the strands of hair will be given to Detective Patrick Lyons, who, Rayner said, probably will order laboratory tests.

Reflections
MAKE FRIENDS:
Most everyone likes friendship. I think Pontiac is the most friendly place I've ever seen, strangers, though, might think otherwise.

One who is shy, or diffident, is inclined to shrink within himself and be the most lonely person on earth; if that person would only realize that others are equally lonely and all that is needed is that mutual spark to bring them together as friends both person would gladly extend a hand, a smile, a greeting to make friendship possible.

To the lonely person I commend the church of your choice; these people will take you to their bosom, that spark of friendship will flash with the first hand-clasp and loneliness will disappear like steam in a wind. Or smile at everyone you meet as you walk down the street, attend a political rally, any group that invites the public and before a week has passed you will have found a friend.

Bullets, Car Crash Fail to Hurt Runaway Youth

A 16-year-old Commerce Township youth smashed the car which he was driving into a clump of trees in Orchard Lake last night as he attempted to dodge police bullets at a road blockade.

The youth, who told Oakland County Sheriff deputies he escaped from the Boys Training School at Whitmore Lake on Wednesday night, walked away from the total wreck with only minor facial cuts.

The boy also told deputies that he had stolen the car from a home in Commerce Township and that he had broken into Lusk Auto Service at 7500 Willow, West Bloomfield Township, and had taken about $15.

Deputy Ted Robinson said he first saw the youth on Commerce Road near Green Lake Road. He said the youth was having trouble driving the car.

When Robinson attempted to stop the car and investigate, the youth sped away. Robinson said he used every means possible to stop the car without injuring the boy, but the youth refused to pull over.

ROAD BLOCKADED
The deputy radioed Orchard Lake police and requested them to set up a blockade at Old Orchard Trail and Pontiac Trail.

When the youth reached the blockade he gave no indication of stopping, according to Robinson.

Officers James Barling and Jeffrey Warner of the Orchard Lake Police Department fired two shots at the car, in an attempt to hit the tires.

The car, Robinson said, went out of control and struck the trees.

After treatment at Pontiac General Hospital, the youth was turned over to Oakland County juvenile authorities.

They Loved the Beatles in Chicago

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — The Beatles' harmonizing tour of America moved to the Twin Cities today with a promise of more frantic fans and hard cash.

The Beatles — John Lennon, George Harrison, Paul McCartney and Ringo Starr — flew here from Chicago where they played two concerts in Comiskey Park and produced more noise than the White Sox scoreboard.

The scoreboard, which explodes in music and fireworks whenever a Sox player hits a home run, was more than equalled by 60,000 screaming teenage fans who attended both concerts.

A possible reason was that they pocketed an estimated $160,000 for the hard day's night of work.

SECOND BASE
They emerged, in conservative black suits, from the White Sox dugout and ran to their concert platform at second base.

Fans screamed and a vendor selling pennants announced in a Chicago-Cockney accent, "Direct from Liverpool. Touched by Ringo's mother."

News in Brief
Pontiac firemen were called to a frame home at 367 W. Newport yesterday afternoon to extinguish a blaze which erupted in a ventilator fan causing damage estimated at $3,500 to the one-story home and its contents.

Junior Editors Quiz on DOGS

DIG FAST, WILD DOG, SOMEONE MIGHT BE WATCHING...

THOUSANDS OF YEARS AGO

HURRY—MIGHT BE A CHEETAH IN THE HOUSE...

QUESTION: Why does a dog bury his food?

ANSWER: Our domestic dogs are descended from wild dogs which once had to depend entirely on themselves. There was no kind master around those dogs to open up a can of delicious food if a wild dog got hungry.

Wild dogs developed certain ways of caring for themselves. Although they were good fighters and had sharp teeth, they were no match for the larger predators, such as the big cats.

Working together, a group of wild dogs could bring down a medium-sized game animal; but then they might be driven away from their kill by a lion, tiger or leopard. Wild dogs developed certain ways of meeting this situation.

They gobbled up their food in a tremendous hurry before anything could drive the away. And if there was something left over, wild dogs buried it so that later on they could come back and have another feast.

In our picture, an ancestor of our modern dogs is shown digging a hole in which to place a leftover meat supply. He may not be in time. A long-legged cheetah is about to spring out and steal his food. Modern dogs have inherited these habits.

They still gobble their food in a hurry and try to bury a bone under the living room carpet or elsewhere. They love and trust their masters; but these ancient habits are too deeply ingrained for them to resist.

FOR YOU TO DO: Watch your dog. Notice how he gobbles up the food even though there is no reason for haste.

'Der Bingle' Reminisces Talking of Sinatra Rumors

By EARL WILSON

HOLLYWOOD—"Sinatra . . . boy, he's pretty hard to coop up." Bing Crosby chuckled softly on the "Goodson-Todman" set here as the interviewer said, trying to get a question mark in his voice. "Do you think he should . . . ?"

"Sure, if they're in love." Bing rubbed his hand around the beard he wears in his role of "Doc" Boone, a drunken doctor, or as Bing calls him, "a bit of a madman."

"I've certainly been happy!" he said. "Mia must be a great little girl, she's got a wonderful mother and her father was a fine guy . . ."

Bing and his wife Kathryn (whom he married when she was 23 and he was 53) have an active life with work on both sides.

"After this picture's finished I'll pick Kathryn up in Chicago—she's playing in 'Arms and the Man' at the Drury Lane—and we'll go to England to see our race horse Meadow Court run in the St. Leger Sept. 8."

Then Bing and Kathryn will go to Spain for some bird shooting—pheasants—with Honeychile Wilder, her husband Alex Hohen, and other convivals.

Bing looked off in the distance when I mentioned his World War II days as "Der Bingle" when his songs were sung for the GIs in Europe. Now perhaps he are about to repeat those days.

"Most of it was done with Glenn Miller," he said. "They were beamed to the troops. And the name 'Der Bingle' was a kind of a gag that hung on."

"Do you think you'll be going this time?" "I'd like to go," Der Bingle said. "I'm sure we'll all be over there . . ."

Director Sidney Lumet, shooting "The Group" in Washington Sq., imported water from L.I. for a rainy street scene . . . Jerry Lewis and Buddy Rich joined Lionel Hampton on the drums at the Vegas Showboat.

Rumors persist that some World's Fair pavilions may close early to beat the rising demolition costs of winter . . . Dancer Juliet Prowse'll play a movie-star Army wife in the TV series, "Mona McCluskey" . . . Columbia's getting ready to launch singer Bobbie Norris—"another Streisand," they say.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "It's hard for most folks to reconcile their net income with their gross habits."—Scandal Sheet. EARL'S PEARLS: "My wife complains so much, I wonder if I'm a man or a mouse," said Bobby Ramson at Danny's Hideaway. "Then I say, 'I must be a man because she's afraid of mice.'"

Reader Ruby Fisher liked this one on a shoe shop: "We doctor shoes, heel them, attend their dying and save their soles" . . . That's earl, brother.

Ex-Truman Aide Gets Pardon

WASHINGTON (AP) — T. Lamar Caudle, an official in the Harry S. Truman administration who served six months in a tax conspiracy case, has been pardoned by President Johnson. Caudle served his time in a federal correctional institution in 1960. The pardon, among other things, wipes out a $2,500 fine he had not paid and means he can practice law again before federal courts.

The outgoing head of the Justice Department's Tax Division said he is very happy about it.

The pardon was announced Friday by the Justice Department. The White House had no immediate comment.

Truman dismissed Caudle for outside activities incompatible with his government duties.

Five years later, in 1956, during the Eisenhower administration, Caudle and Matthew J. Connelly, Truman's appointments secretary, were convicted on charges of accepting oil royalties in exchange for using their influence to block prosecution or ease the sentence of a St. Louis shoe wholesaler convicted of federal income tax evasion.

Caudle said when he was released that "I was a product of a vendetta that Sherman Adams and Herbert Brownell had toward Mr. Truman."

Adams was assistant to the president and Brownell was attorney general during the Eisenhower administration. Caudle repeated Friday that "Sherman Adams was behind the whole thing. Mr. Eisenhower didn't need my case to win the election in 1956."

State Road Dept. Revenue Is on Rise

LANSING (AP)—State Highway Department revenues, mostly from gasoline and weight taxes, jumped 5.9 per cent this year over the previous fiscal year.

The highway department revenue division said revenues for the period added up to $25 million, compared with $23.6 million the previous fiscal year.

The increase compares with a 2.5 per cent average over the past 20 years, said Alfred Lawrence, department finance director.

Athens Riot Is Quelled at Dawn

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Nightlong rioting which Greece's new premier called "revolutionary action" was quelled at dawn today with fires still burning in some parts of Athens.

The capital looked like an armed camp under guard of police and armored cars.

The battle between massive police forces and rioters, whom police described as "leftists and diehard Communists," raged for six hours and left some sections of the city in shambles.

Police said that 340 persons were taken into custody. Many were released after questioning.

SHOUTED INSULTS

The rioters, most of them supporters of fallen Premier George Papandreu, shouted insults against King Constantine, his mother, and Constantine's new premier, Elias Tsirismokos.

Papandreu left the capital early today for central Greece on his promised "march to the people" to tell his side of his dispute with the 25-year-old king.

He had a major speech scheduled for tonight in Volos and is to speak Sunday in the central square of Larissa.

At least 157 persons were hurt Friday night in a wild one-hour battle between 15,000 demonstrators and 5,000 police. Hours later, police hurled tear gas bombs at scattered outbreaks of rioting.

A police official said it was the worst rioting in the Greek capital since the 1947-48 civil war.

Since July 21, riots by supporters of fallen Premier George Papandreu have caused more than 500 injuries and resulted in the death of one student.

The street disorders started after the 25-year-old king fired Papandreu July 15 over a dispute on control of the armed forces.

Catholic Priest Is Wounded in Shooting at Alabama Grocery

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP)—A part-time deputy sheriff described by friends as "an easy-going, good fellow," was held today on murder charges in the slaying of a white theology student.

The student and a Catholic priest, both here for summer civil rights work, were shot down with an automatic shotgun yesterday on a gravel lane outside a weather-beaten grocery store.

The priest was hospitalized in "very critical" condition.

Police said Tom Coleman, about 56, a grandfather and the father of a highway patrolman, turned himself in a short time later and admitted the slaying.

He was charged with first-degree murder and jailed without bond. A county official said a grand jury probably would consider the charge in September.

The two clergymen were shot the minutes after they were released from the Lowndes County jail. They were arrested last week during a civil rights demonstration at Fort Deposit, a nearby community.

Estes thanked the trustees for "the generous gift" and remarked, "This is another inspiring example of the recognition of the real need that exists at St. Joseph."

At the same time, Estes announced that the campaign has now passed the $1 million mark, exclusive of the General Motors matching grant.

"Our committees have been quietly at work all summer," he said, "and the progress has been most encouraging." He reported that the memorial gifts committee, with Ernest A. Jones and John W. Fitzgerald as cochairmen, had secured 27 subscriptions, totaling $428,586; R. M. Critchfield's corporations committee, 148 subscriptions for $243,282; and 181 members of the medical staff have pledged $343,140, for a total of $1,014,988.

"With this amount in hand, we have qualified for $451,000 of the $1 million pledged by General Motors," Estes pointed out. "Which brings our total to $1,465,988."

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Communists may be willing to back down on some of the conditions they set for peace talks on Viet Nam, a visiting Laborite member of Britain's House of Lords indicated last night.

Lord Brockway, a left-wing member of Britain's Labor party and the head of "The British Council for Peace in Viet Nam," said he conferred yesterday with the ambassador from Communist North Viet Nam and Moscow representative of the Vietnamese "National Liberation Front." The front is the political arm of the Communist Viet Cong.

Brockway quoted both Communist officials as saying they would not insist on the withdrawal of all American troops from South Viet Nam before peace talks could begin.

This appeared to be a step down from North Viet Nam's original stand that no negotiations were possible until the United States pulled its forces out of South Viet Nam and stopped bombing the Communist north.

Brockway said while Ambassador Nguyen Van King told him North Viet Nam would not demand a complete American military withdrawal, he continued to insist on a halt to bombing raids over his country.

"But the ambassador said this might be part of a general ceasefire," the British Laborite told newsmen.

UNOFFICIAL WORD

Brockway stressed he was in Moscow in an unofficial capacity.

Cooper and Conrad reported everything was working smoothly and they were ready to launch the satellite as they passed over their Cape Kennedy launching site at the end of Orbit No. 1—100 minutes after a perfect countdown and the 9 a.m. liftoff after a Titan 2 rocket.

HEARTS TIMED

Cooper indicated that space flight was getting to be a routine thing with him when his heart rate reached a peak of only 135 beats a minute during launching, 33 beats slower than on his first orbital trip in 1963.

Cooper obviously was more excited, registering 145 beats and exclaiming:

"What a beautiful view!"

As the spacecraft approached the North American continent after the first go-round, the astronauts talked to the pilot of an airplane.

"I bet our flight is more fun than yours," Cooper said.

Conrad added: "I just changed my mind. Space flight is better than flying."

'Viet Nam a Real War, Mom'

To many Americans, the fighting in Viet Nam may seem too distant to be a real "war."

To Paul Bowsher, it is real.

To his mother, Mrs. Florence H. Bowsher, of 4359 Hatchery, Waterford Township, it is real.

Dear Mom:

Well, I'm still alive, thank God.

The V.C. (Viet Cong) hit us hard last night. We lost 20 men from mortar rounds. The first round came ripping through the tents at 11:30 p.m.

Mom, I'm not ashamed to admit it, but I was scared.

If you only could have seen those mortars bursting in tents where our buddies were sleeping, and heard them screaming and yelling for help! You could hear the shrapnel ripping through everything, even sandbags.

After the last round went off, a small squad of V.C. tried to break through our perimeter, but they never made it. They were all laying out there, shot in half; heads gone.

NEVER FORGET

I'll never forget last night as long as I live!

It's almost funny now. When the rounds started to come in, I ran to my tent to get my rifle and cartridge

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The Gemini 5 pilots successfully launched a satellite from their orbiting spacecraft today and prepared to chase it across the sky and attempt a rendezvous.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The Gemini 5 astronauts swept around the earth today on their planned eight-day space flight and prepared to launch their own private satellite for a game of chase in space.

They completed their first orbit at 10:40 a.m.

L. Gordon Cooper Jr., the veteran making his second space flight, and his rookie partner, Charles Conrad Jr., were to fire the satellite out of an equipment section at the base of the spacecraft early in the second orbit.

The astronauts planned to use it as a target for man's first attempt to rendezvous with another orbiting object.

The experiment was the most important planned on the marathon flight, which could push the United States past a significant milestone on the road to the moon.

Cooper and Conrad reported everything was working smoothly and they were ready to launch the satellite as they passed over their Cape Kennedy launching site at the end of Orbit No. 1—100 minutes after a perfect countdown and the 9 a.m. liftoff after a Titan 2 rocket.

Well, I had my rifle tied to the tent flaps and I couldn't seem to untie it.

Here I am, fighting to get my rifle untied and 81mm mortar rounds going off! But, I'm still here, so . . .

Say, thank you for the fudge. It was awfully good. Of course, any fudge is good when you make it. All the guys in my platoon said to tell you thank you and that it was very good.

20 YEARS OLD

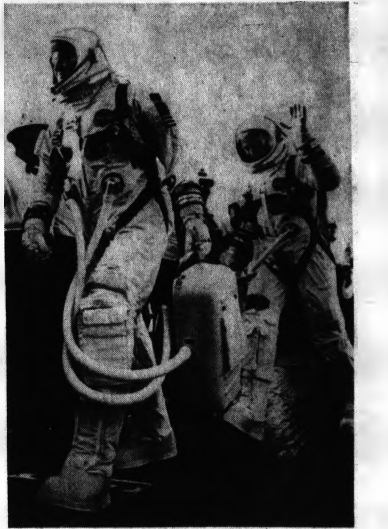

Well, in 20 days I'll be 20 years old.

Mom, have you seen any transistor record players? If so, do you think that maybe you could pick one up for me? I'll pay you back, if it's too much. I've just got to have some music.

Well, Mom, I've got to get back to work, so take care of yourself and tell grandmother thanks for answering my letter.

All my love,
Paul

GOODBYE EARTH—Astronaut Charles Conrad (right) waves goodbye as he and Gordon Cooper walk up the ramp to the Gemini 5 launching pad at Cape Kennedy this morning.

Giant Team of Servicemen
Deployed for Recovery

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Ten thousand servicemen have taken up stations around the world to see that the Gemini 5 astronauts get home safely from their record-seeking journey.

With 28 ships and 135 aircraft strategically stationed beneath the planned flight path, the armed forces are set to recover the two-man capsule—whether in the Atlantic splash-down zone or in some remote unscheduled landing area.

If all goes well, the astronauts will be taken aboard the aircraft carrier Lake Champlain in eight days—after landing 500 miles southwest of Bermuda.

The 42,000-ton Champlain is the flagship and prime recovery vessel of a 10-ship fleet deployed in the target landing area and in alternate zones stretching across the Atlantic almost to Africa.

'Beautiful,' Says Ecstatic Mrs. Conrad

TIMBER COVE, Tex. (AP)—Still jumping with joy, Mrs. Charles Conrad Jr. told newsmen today: "It was the most beautiful lift-off I have ever seen. I am happy as I can be."

She and her four children and other members of the family watched the launching of Gemini 5 on a color television set in a bedroom.

Mrs. Conrad, wearing a green shift trimmed in blue, bounced out the front door of their suburban house minutes after the spacecraft went into orbit carrying her husband and astronaut Charles Conrad.

Her obvious excitement was in contrast with her disappointed and worried look Thursday when the first scheduled launch was postponed.

Aircraft with parachute-rescue men are on alert status at bases around the globe.

FEWER MEN

Although Lt. Col. Leroy Gordon Cooper and Lt. Cmdr. Charles Conrad were slated for history's longest space voyage, experience and improved organization have enabled the military services to guard the flight with 5,000 fewer men than were assigned to the 4-day Gemini 4 mission in June.

Ask Another Raise for County Deputies

Oakland County Sheriff Frank Irons yesterday asked for a $500 per year raise for deputies to make his department's pay scale competitive with other police agencies.

The request to the salaries committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors came just two months after the county gave deputies a $500 yearly pay boost.

Irons said that the raise granted in June helped stem understood the two were shot, after Coleman went to the store, a one-story frame structure about 500 yards from the county courthouse, to check a report of a disturbance.

Ryals said he was out of town at the time and could not give a detailed account.

However, a Negro girl, Ruby Sales of Columbus, Ga., said she and three other Negroes had been released from jail with the two men and were with them when they were shot.

She said in a statement released by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee that they had stopped at the store to get some food.

TOLD TO LEAVE

"A man we assumed to be the proprietor looked at us with a shogun in his hand and told us, 'Get off my property,'" she said. "He shot before we had a chance to turn around."

Alabama Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers promised a full-scale investigation and vowed, "If this is murder, it will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

President Johnson instructed Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to begin a "vigorous and immediate" investigation and the Justice Department ordered an FBI probe.

"The President has ordered the tide of resignations by deputies seeking more attractive work in factories or with other police departments.

"It still left our pay scale below many other police departments," Irons said yesterday. "We stand to lose more men in the future if it isn't improved."

Pay for deputies presently ranges from a minimum $6,000 to a peak of $6,700. Relief sergeants receive $100 more and sergeants $300 more.

The salaries committee heard appeals from six other county departments yesterday as it concluded hearings in preparation to setting the pay structure in the 1966 budget.

Most asked both for salary increases and more personnel.

Probate Court Judge Donald E. Adams, who spoke in behalf of improvements for the court staff, didn't ask for a specific pay boost for the court's two judges.

He requested, however, that the probate judges be given comparable consideration to that given the county's circuit judges.

HIKE ASKED

A week ago the circuit judges asked for a salary hike from $26,000 to $30,000 to compensate for their heavy work load.

Adams pointed out to the committee that he and Judge Norman R. Barnard also carry a heavy case load. Both now receive a salary of $25,500.

Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson asked for three additional assistant prosecutors rather than the single new assistant specified in the county's tentative 1966 budget.

In asking for staff pay hikes, Bronson requested a $1,000 boost, from $13,300 to $14,300 for his chief assistant.

POST VACANT

He said he planned to name James Finn to this post which is presently vacant due to the illness of Robert D. Long.

The salaries committee will meet Thursday to review recommendations prepared by the County Board of Auditors on the basis of the departmental hearings.

TIGHT-LIPPED

Lowndes County officials were tight-lipped after talking at length with Coleman and three Montgomery County attorneys, Vaughn Hill, a state senator, Joe Phelps and Robert Back, Coleman's nephew.

Coleman, a gray-haired resident engineer for the State Highway Department, often worked without pay as a part-time special deputy sheriff.

He is married and the father of two children. He is a native of the Hayneville area and comes from a family active in civic affairs.

His son, Tom Coleman Jr., is a state patrolman stationed at Montgomery. A brother, Joe L. Coleman, is chairman of the Montgomery city water works and a sister, Hilda Coleman, is superintendent of Lowndes County schools.

He is respected in the community," said a deputy sheriff. "He laughs and jokes a lot. I'd call him a friendly person." "He was mild-mannered," said another deputy. "He didn't show his temper usually."

Claim 'Racket' Fostered Riot

11 Reported Hurt at Job Corps Site

MORGANFIELD, Ky. (AP) — A Job Corps spokesman says trouble at the Camp Breckinridge center — which fostered a 45-minute riot among 80 trainees — apparently stems from "a certain protection racket" (that) has been in operation for about two weeks.

At least 11 persons were injured. Charles Preston, camp public relations director, said that the "protection racket and a rash of burglaries" have broken out since the riot on the post several times in the past few weeks.

D. L. Coleman, 18, Oakland, Calif., president of the student government of the federal anti-poverty camp in western Kentucky, said he had talked to many of the 800 corpsmen about the "protection racket" report several times before the riot broke out Friday.

'WANTED TO FIGHT'

"But they didn't want to talk about the racket — they wanted to fight," he said.

A mob of about 75 attacked a firetruck they apparently thought was coming to settle fighting which began between "swirling knots of boys," said Seymour Bryson, director of student security.

Fireman Stuart Lovell, 30, Morganfield, was pulled from his truck by the rioting youths who hit him with tire chains, sticks and belts.

He was taken to a hospital in nearby Evansville, Ind., where he was reported in fair condition today.

It was determined later that the firetruck had arrived because of a false alarm.

Ten job corpsmen were treated at a camp hospital. Most of them had stab wounds, many had cuts and bruises, authorities said.

Names of the injured were not announced by Job Corps officials.

A team of corps officials, including three from Washington, investigates the incident. Dr. John Kennedy, project director for the Urban Job Corps centers; Sam Yetts, special assistant to Office of Economic Opportunity Director Sargent Shriver, and Harry Stuck of the Office of Economic Opportunity arrived at the camp about six hours after the riot.

the radiometric experiment. It looked like a snowstorm."

During the first orbit, the astronauts reported that the spacecraft began yawing by itself—turning to one side, but the abnormal movement stopped.

Over Cape Kennedy, at the end of the first orbit, Conrad reported he had activated pneumatic cuffs attached to his thighs. These exert pressure for two minutes of each six to help the heart blood pumping system react more normally in weightless flight.

The cuffs were to operate throughout the flight, or as long as Conrad did not find them uncomfortable. Cooper did not wear the cuffs.

Asked how they felt, Conrad replied: "real good."

Before parachuting to a landing in the Atlantic Ocean a week from Sunday, Cooper and Conrad are to circle the globe 121 times and travel a record 1.21 million miles.

Medical experts were confident the flight will erase any lingering doubts about man's ability to survive long enough in space to rocket to the moon and return.

Early in the flight, during the second orbit about two hours after liftoff, the astronauts planned to launch their own satellite, ejecting it with explosive devices from an equipment bay at the base of the capsule.

The satellite, which Cooper and Conrad have dubbed "Little Rascal," will be used in man's first attempt to rendezvous with another orbiting object. The technique must be perfected before man heads for the moon.

The pulse-pounding flight started at 9 a.m. EST after the first perfect countdown in the U. S. man-in-space program.

A nine-story tall Titan II rocket thundered upward from Cape Kennedy and drilled the 7,700-pound spacecraft into an orbit ranging from 100 to 216 miles high.

This was very close to the planned altitudes of 100 to 219 miles.

PILOTS READY

As the great booster lifted the astronauts into the sky, the pilots monitored systems, ready in case of trouble. They reported everything in order. The only hitch in the 5-minute, 34-second rocket burning time was a brief loss of communications at the control center after second-stage separation.

Communications were restored quickly.

Six minutes after blastoff, the Mission Control center reported Gemini 5 was in orbit. At that point, direction of the flight shifted to the Mission Control Center at Houston.

Cooper fired two jet thrusters to provide the final push and maneuver to place the spacecraft in orbit.

INTRICATE STEPS

To perform the rendezvous maneuver, Cooper, as command pilot, was to execute a number of intricate maneuvers to first back about 52 miles away from the satellite and then to chase it across the skies, using a radar system, a computer and jet thrusters to hopefully approach to within 20 feet during the fourth orbit, and then to circle it.

If there were no hitches, the satellite was to be ejected at 11:07 a.m. and the rendezvous would occur at 2:36 a.m.

Ground stations closely monitored medical and other data from Gemini 5 as it whizzed overhead at more than 17,500 miles an hour.

The United States now has sent 10 different men into space, two of them — Cooper and Virgil I. Grissom — twice for a total of 12. The Russians have launched 11 cosmonauts, including one woman, but none has made a repeat trip.

RUSSIANS INACTIVE

Russia has not had a manned space shot since last March 18, when Pavel Belyayev and Alexei Leonov, collaborated on Leonov's historic walk in space, a feat matched later by America's Edward H. White II.

Successful rendezvous today would lead to an attempt to dock the Gemini 6 spacecraft with another satellite launched separately in another maneuver, which would be developed before moon journeys.

The docking flight, which will be piloted by astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Tom P. Stafford, presently is scheduled for Oct. 25, but the date could be advanced if today's shot is successful.

Gemini 5 is to stay aloft 191 hours, 53 minutes, just seven minutes shy of eight days, and splash to a landing in the western Atlantic about 500 miles southwest of Bermuda about 6:53 a.m. EST Aug. 29.

School Building Program Proceeding Successfully

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Students here soon will see where their elders' money went when they start to use the classrooms built with a portion of last year's bond issue.

Scheduled for completion this fall is $1,937,287 worth of construction, the first portion of a $7.6-million building program.

The work includes 10 projects, highlighted by a new elementary unit and a 16-room addition to East Hills Junior High School.

While some of the construction has fallen behind schedule, contractors have assured school officials that the academic rooms will be ready for the first day of school Sept. 7.

Some of the other areas, like multipurpose rooms, will take a little longer.

SMALL PROBLEM

"This doesn't create too much of a problem," said Kelly F. Schools Supt. Irving E. Menucci said. "Until the multipurpose rooms are completed, we can hold outside gym classes."

The youngsters attending the new Traub Elementary School will carry their lunches for the first few weeks until the all-purpose area is finished.

That two-unit school, costing $452,800 to build, will have 12 classrooms and two kindergarten rooms.

Additions at existing schools include East Hills Junior High, 16 teaching stations, $341,940; one Lake Elementary, seven classrooms, $153,846; Booth Elementary, seven classrooms, $139,628; and Hickory Grove Elementary, four classrooms and a library, $134,898.

OTHER PROJECTS

Others are Bloomfield Hills Junior High, four teaching stations, $71,358, and Conant Elementary, six classrooms, $143,793.

Tennis courts and a track have taken $55,509 of the $25,800 set aside for athletic facilities.

Renovation and the addition of all-purpose rooms to Wing Lake and Vaughan elementary schools are costing $53,790 and $140,974 respectively.

A new $158,585 administration building under construction across Anderson Street from the high school is expected to be opened a month or so after school starts.

TIME LOST

Menucci noted the timetable for that building was disrupted by the steel strike.

Faced with rising construction costs, the school board rejected all bids on a new bus garage.

Also yet to be built with funds from the 1964 bond issue are a new senior high school, a swimming pool West Hills Junior High School and an elementary unit.

LBJ Tunes In for 7 Minutes of Space Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson watched the Gemini 5 spacecraft launching for five minutes today on television.

The telecast was in color and for the first time there was a color pickup from the White House.

The President was not looking at a regular network show, but at a direct television feed from Cape Kennedy that branched out to the networks and also to the White House.

Sitting in the White House Fish Room, a small reception room near his office, Johnson intently watched the screen. One he looked around and thrust out a hand to Dr. Ed Welch, executive director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

When the word came that "Gordon" Cooper has just checked in he says everything is going fine. Johnson grinned widely, got up from his armchair and strode back to his office.

State to Stay GTW Cutback

Force Reconsideration of ICC Authorization

LANSING (AP) — The Public Service Commission (MSPC) is setting wheels in motion to keep Grand Trunk Western Railroad passenger trains rolling between Detroit and Durand.

Atty. Gen. Fred C. Kelley Friday authorized commission Attorney Hugh Anderson to file a petition for reconsideration of an Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) decision to permit ending of the rail service.

Anderson had been notified just hours before that the ICC had authorized stoppage of trains 22 and 57, which it said have been losing more than $2,000 a year.

Train number 22 goes through Pontiac to Detroit at 6:35 a.m. The other, number 57, goes through Pontiac toward Durand at 11:44 p.m.

AT LEAST TEMPORARILY

The petition would stay the ICC order and keep the trains running; at least temporarily. Anderson says he wants the matter aired before the entire commission. The stoppage recommendation was made by the federal commission's three-man finance division. Under normal ICC rules of operation, the commission can approve such a recommendation and give it the force of an administrative ruling.

Anderson said the commission has not decided whether to ask for a rehearing of the case. If it does not make such a request and if its petition for a review is granted, the ICC would make its decision on the basis of facts already presented.

In approving the discontinuance application, the ICC cited the railroad's 1963 deficit of $7.7 million and a 1959-63 deficit of more than $5 million, saying the railroad "is in no way capable of absorbing the severe financial burden imposed on it by the operation of these trains."

REQUEST DENIED

The railroad first asked the state commission for permission to abandon the service in the fall of 1963. Anderson said. The request was denied and an appeal was made to the federal commission.

ICC hearings examiner John Messer ruled against the railroad in May 1964, "stating that he could not determine whether the railroad was operating at a loss or not, and pointing out that there would be increasing need for this rail service in the future as the highways north of Detroit became more congested," Anderson said.

Anderson contends that the finance division considered only the financial aspects of the case and did not rule on future need — "except to say that other means of transportation now exist in this area."
