

The tremendous advance in our technology as symbolized by the progress from the smithy to the vast complex of today's steel mill is dwarfed by the giant step taken by labor in less than 100 years.

Labor Day was unheard of prior to 1882, and it was not until 1894 that Congress passed a bill making Labor Day a national holiday.

UAW Strike Deadline Ominously Near

Federal Mediator Joins Talks

DETROIT — The federal government's No. 1 mediator joined Ford Motor Co. and United Auto Workers negotiators at the bargaining table today as the deadline for a strike drew ominously near.

With less than three days to go until the Wednesday midnight strike deadline, the two sides remained deadlocked in negotiations over a new contract for some 160,000 UAW members on Ford's payroll.

After seven hours of apparently fruitless bargaining yesterday, UAW President Walter Reuther announced that William Simkin, director of the U.S. Mediation and Conciliation Service, would sit in on the talks as an observer.

Reuther said Ford joined the union in extending the invitation to Simkin. President Johnson told a news conference last week that he hoped a strike could be averted because any walkout costs the nation's economy something. Just what Simkin's role will be was not made clear, but Reuther said he did not regard the step as government intervention in the negotiations.

Malcolm Deane, Ford vice-president for labor relations, said he "found nothing to nourish my inherent optimism" in yesterday's talks.

And Reuther declared that there was still time to avert a strike but it will require "a high measure of will which at present is not there."

The UAW strike strategy would be to continue on the job at Ford's chief competitors among the automotive Big Three — General Motors and Chrysler — while shutting down Ford assembly lines just as 1968 models are scheduled to appear in showrooms.

PLANS VIRTUALLY COMPLETED

Plans have virtually been completed to close up Ford's giant River Rouge manufacturing complex Thursday.

James Rooney, financial secretary of UAW Local 600, said planning for the walkout was completed yesterday at a meeting of staff members of the local.

It is presumed that the shutdown would last six to 10 weeks, he said.

51 Linked to Plot on Nasser

CAIRO — Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, Egypt's former vice president and army commander, is under arrest and headed for court-martial along with 50 other army officers accused of plotting against President Gamal Abdel Nasser, the semi-official newspaper Al Ahran confirmed today.

Amer, 47, helped overthrow King Farouk in 1952 and had been Nasser's closest associate for years.

Former Defense Minister Shams Badran was among those arrested, the newspaper said in confirming rumors that the arrests were made Aug. 25. No date for the military trials was given.

Egyptian authorities have refused any official comment.

A. Ahran indicated all those arrested had been fired from the army after Egyptian forces were routed by Israeli troops in the Sinai Desert in the June 5-6 war. It added that Amer was deprived of both the vice presidency and the army command, although at the time it was officially stated that he resigned.

REINSTATEMENT DEMANDED

Amer insisted that he should be reinstated to both posts, Al Ahran said, whereas Nasser was prepared to reinstate him only to the vice presidency. Amer was replaced as army commander by Lt. Gen. Mohamed Fawzi on June 11.

Al Ahran reported that Amer had sheltered wanted senior officers at his villa and was plotting to force Nasser to reinstate his top followers and release all army and air force officers under arrest since the Egyptian defeat. Amer is confined to his villa in the Cairo suburb of Giza.

Although rumors of the plot and the arrests had circulated for a week, life continued normally in Cairo and the rest of Egypt. There was no sign of increased force since the June war, which included the station of armed guards on all public buildings, bridges and other key points.

The Pontiac victim, Charles W. Rash of 58 E. Putnam, was killed yesterday when his car, parked along New Haven Road in Macomb County's Lenox Township, was hit by another car.

Some 420 persons were dead early today as the result of auto accidents across the nation.

But cool weather has apparently kept people out of the water, and only one drowning death has been reported so far in Michigan.

The Associated Press count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight tonight.

The traffic victims include: James D. de Guire, 18, of Riverview and Mary Elaine Theresa Marienette, Ronald Lee Allen, 30, of Dearborn, Heights, whose motorcycle collided with a car Saturday night on Ford Road at Artesian in Detroit.

Sheila Jones, 9, of Detroit, who was hit by a car Saturday night on Detroit's East Side.

Viet Military Gets Only Third of Vote in Win

SAIGON — South Vietnam's military ticket won the presidential election yesterday as expected, but 10 civilian slates were holding Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky to only a third of the vote as the count neared completion.

Thieu, the soft-spoken, 44-year-old lieutenant general who has shared power for the past two years with Air Marshal Ky, had said he would be satisfied with 40 per cent of the vote.

Thieu's flamboyant vice presidential running mate, who will be 37 next Saturday, had expressed confidence that the military ticket would get more votes than all the civilians combined.

Thieu and all the civilians except one campaigned for new peace overtures toward Hanoi.

Thieu's strongest opponent proved to be the most outspoken pleader for peace and critic of the military regime. Truong Dinh Du, a dynamic 30-year-old lawyer.

FRAUD CHARGED

Dzu charged the election of Thieu and Ky was a fraud. He said he would present his allegations to the Constituent Assembly Friday.

SPOKESMAN REPLIES

There was no comment from Thieu and Ky, but a spokesman in the premier's office said: "If there had been fraud we would have had a bigger margin."

"During the campaign Mr. Dzu has made several charges, but none of them were true."

With 90 per cent of the vote unofficially tabulated, Thieu had 1,435,136 votes, Dzu 693,252, ex-Premier Tran van Huong 454,121, speaker of the Constitution Assembly Phan Khac Suu 355,213 and another 1,163,000 were cast for the other seven presidential candidates or were ruled invalid.

Bridge Is Laid to Block Blaze

By The Associated Press

The U.S. Army and Forest Service workers are laying a 400-foot pontoon bridge across the Kootenai River in north Idaho in an effort to head off a roaring forest fire in the northwest.

Yesterday, a blaze, some 38 miles long and covering 78,000 acres stopped about 10 miles south of the Canadian border as winds shifted and turned it back into already burned areas.

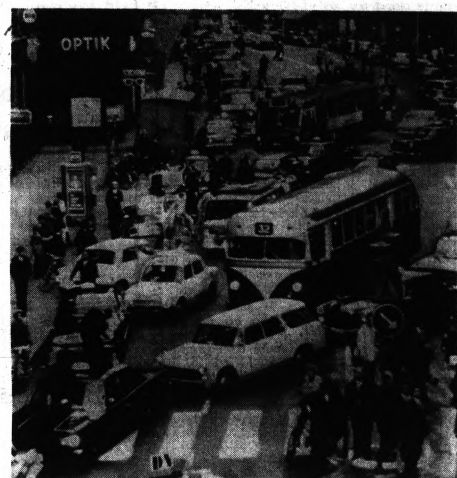

Pockets of missed timber were quickly destroyed.

The fire had come within three miles of Bonners Ferry, Idaho, a community of 2,000 persons, when the strong winds changed its direction.

The bridge will be used to aid mobilization in the fire fighting work, supplementing cross-river traffic which now is handled by a sidewheel ferry boat.

REINFORCEMENTS ORDERED

The Forest Service has ordered 1,900 experienced fire fighters from around the country into the Idaho Panhandle to bolster a force of 1,500 men already on fire lines.

ALL RIGHT, EVERYBODY! — It's 5 a.m. yesterday and the setting is Kings Street in downtown Stockholm, the very minute Sweden made its long-awaited change from driving on the left to driving on the right. Swedes turned out by the thousands on highways to test their country's new driving regulations. The resulting traffic jams had a holiday flavor.

House in Waterford Scene of Fatal Fire

Fire at a home on Cass Lake, rented by a group of young persons from Detroit, killed one of them early this morning.

Waterford Township police said the blaze started about 2:30 a.m. at 4693 Charest, Waterford Township, when some of the group tried to feed a fire in a fireplace with gasoline.

Dead is Eugene J. Gray, 24, of Detroit. He was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital.

In satisfactory condition with burns on the legs and arms is Timothy O'Callaghan, 24.

Police said some members of the group were pouring gasoline out of a can and into a glass to feed the fire. The flames flashed back and started the car burning.

CAN DROPPED

O'Callaghan apparently tried to carry the burning can out of the building but it dropped and spilled in a front room, police said.

Damage to the building was confined, mainly, to the front room area.

Gray was killed when others tried to awaken him and lead him out of the building. He apparently became confused and dashed into the flaming part of the building, police said.

The home is owned by Jared Vorhees of 4685 Charest.

There were five men and two women occupying the building last night, according to police.

School Delay Sees for Many Districts

By The Associated Press
Summer vacation may run a little longer for more than half a million children in 56 school districts across Michigan as their teachers and the school boards strive to agree on new contracts.

With most schools scheduled to open this week, delays appeared almost inevitable in many districts, including Detroit.

The negotiations involve 21,017 teachers and a total of $84,623 students.

Officials of the Michigan Education Association and the Michigan Federation of Teachers listed 17 school districts in Wayne and Oakland counties as "critical areas."

NO WORK

Most of the teachers in these districts have voted "no contract, no work."

Many of the negotiations worked through the weekend.

Ronald W. Haughton, a state-appointed fact finder, said of the Detroit situation, "The prognosis is of success of a mutual agreement at this time is very bad."

He called both the Detroit Federation of Teachers and the school board to a meeting at his office Monday.

Money was the prime consideration in most instances, although the length of the school year, class sizes and other matters figured strongly in some areas.

The Bedford Public School District, Monroe County, announced an agreement Sunday with the Bedford Education Association on new teacher contracts. The teachers will vote Tuesday on the agreement. Schools are to open Wednesday.

There are about 6,300 students and 280 teachers in the district.

The new bombing attacks followed a police raid that netted 56 persons in a sweep of a Communist-controlled union headquarters suspected of hiding four men who attacked a Chinese police inspector and stabbed him 15 times. The inspector was hospitalized.

Killed in the terror attack yesterday was Aslam Khan, a Pakistani assistant station officer at the Wanchai fire station on Hong Kong Island.

He was struck by shrapnel when a bomb exploded in front of the fire station.

INJURED IN BLAST

Khan's wife, six firemen and two pedestrians were injured in the blast.

A European passerby was wounded in the same area later when a bomb was thrown from the rooftop of a building.

At almost the same time, a private car ran over a bomb planted in the center of a street in the consular area near the Hong Kong Island. It wounded two persons in the car, a man and a woman.

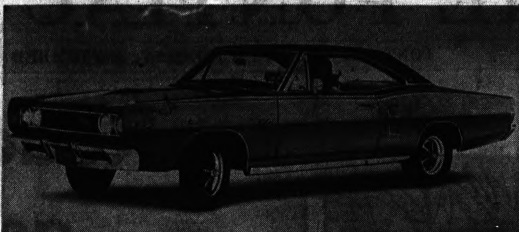

Terrorists also threw a bomb in front of a restaurant wounding two pedestrians.

Jet Mishap Being Probed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Federal aviation officials today sought the cause of an airline mishap Sunday which tied up air traffic for seven hours after a jetliner snapped its front landing gear and veered off the runway.

The National Airlines jet-propelled Electra, on a flight to Pensacola, Fla., carried three crewmen and two stewardesses. No one was injured.

The four-engine jet came to rest just off the runway. However, it was near enough to block use of the strip.

1968 CORONET — The Coronet R-T (Road and Track) features rally-type suspension and a 440 cubic inch engine. The new Coronets are 200 inches long on a 117-inch wheelbase.

Coronet Jockeys for Lead

Dodge Lineup Sleek and Racy

The Dodge Coronet series is expected to provide the bulk of Dodge sales again this auto year and Dodge officials are hopeful that it will capture even more of the automobile market.

"Coronet, which totaled 36 percent of all Dodge sales when it was introduced in 1965, accounted for 38 per cent in 1967. We expect this car will account for even more sales in 1968," Dodge general manager Robert B. McCurry said.

The 14 models in the Coronet series will go on display in dealer showrooms Sept. 14.

Local dealers are Spartan Dodge, 555 Oakland, Pontiac; Hunter Dodge, 499 S. Hunter Blvd., Birmingham; and Kessler Auto Sales, 10 N. Washington, Oxford.

The series introduces a new two-door coupe with hardtop roof styling to replace the two-door sedan. Station wagons have tread tires, either red or white side wall.

The R-T also has an optional instrument panel with tachometer and gauges canted to the driver. A choice of the 440-cubic-inch Magnum or optional 426-cubic-inch Hemi is available.

STANDARD FEATURES

Standard on this model are heavy duty brakes, suspension and sway bar and bucket seats.

Other Coronet engines are the 225-cubic-inch six cylinder, 273-cubic-inch V8, the 318-cubic-inch V8 with two or four barrel carburetion.

The Coronet is available in six interior and 12 exterior colors.

Green, black or white vinyl roofs are optional for the Coronet Deluxe Coupe, two-door hardtops and four-door sedans. Convertible tops are available in the same colors.

Longer lower silhouettes and new roof lines are featured. Gull-wing backlights, lower wheelhousings and fast angle roof lines contribute to the sleek silhouettes.

The grille is deeply recessed and larger bumpers with cooling slots are a change.

The R-T has a simulated high rider hood scoop which identifies this sporty member of the Coronet family. In addition, it has humpie bee racing stripes across the deck and quarter panels and standard F-70 wide

HONG KONG (UPI) — A fire department assistant chief was killed and 28 other persons, including his wife, were injured in the worst day of Communist terror bombing in the four-month-old campaign to undermine British rule here, officials said today.

At least four persons were arrested yesterday in the wake of a half-dozen bombing incidents in the slumped-off left-hand-run tactics that have plagued the colony since May.

The new bombing attacks followed a police raid that netted 56 persons in a sweep of a Communist-controlled union headquarters suspected of hiding four men who attacked a Chinese police inspector and stabbed him 15 times. The inspector was hospitalized.

Lockout Peril as Radio-TV Talks Continue

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Federal mediators continued meeting today with negotiators for a broadcast technicians' union and two radio-television networks as a union spokesman in New York told members the companies might try to lock them out.

A spokesman for the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians, AFL-CIO, at the negotiations in a Miami Beach hotel said the mediators were shuttling between the parties "trying to narrow down the areas of disagreement."

The unions are asking for a three-year contract including a base pay of $275 a week. Members receive between $215 and $230 weekly.

Spokesmen for NBC and ABC networks were not available late Sunday night to comment on the statement of Arthur Kent, a New York spokesman for NABET.

Kent said the possibility of a lockout existed as networks would benefit in case of a walk-out by having it at the time they were ready with supervisory workers to man the jobs.

The contract for NABET expired March 31 and was extended to Aug. 31.

City Man Charged With Wife's Murder

Police have charged Otto Tyson, 35, of 298 Crystal Lake with murder in the death of his wife Irma, 32, Saturday.

Officers said a neighbor reported a shooting about 10 p.m. Saturday.

Patrolmen called to the scene said Tyson told them he had shot his wife after an argument.

"Tyson said he was lying in bed in his pajamas when his wife began an argument and began striking him."

He said he drew his 22-caliber revolver from a dresser drawer and walked after her into the kitchen where she shot her once.

Basset Hound Has Run of Texas Hotel

DALLAS (AP) — Samuel Sylvester McDuffy has a fancy name, the top floor of the Adolphus Hotel. But his shape is not so fancy — he's a 75-pound, 3-year-old dog, Basset Hound type.

"How'd he punch the button?" asked a taken-aback guest the other day when McDuffy calmly walked off an elevator onto the plush lobby rug.

McDuffy was alone on that 25-floor elevator ride.

McDuffy knows his way around the Adolphus. He's a permanent guest.

His owner is Mars, Jo Fischer.

er, the blonde resident manager of the big hotel.

Other members of the family are Edward (the man of the house), an aircraft engineer, and teen-age daughter Cynthia.

McDuffy's ample supply of bones comes from room service. He hides them among the plants in the open-air garden on the 25th floor.

When the weather's right, Sam, as he's called by people who haven't seen his full name on the registration papers, does on a lounge chair near the rooftop wading pool amidst sunbathing airline stewardesses.

Hotel life seems to agree with him. He's become "sophisticated, in a country sort of way," said Mrs. Fischer.

Panel Cites Plans for Radio Astronomy

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — A blueprint for the next decade in radio astronomy has been drawn by an eight-member panel and presented to the National Science Foundation.

If all of the proposals for radio telescopes were adopted, the cost would be only $115 million, less than the price of two day's war in Vietnam. However, because of both budget and scientific considerations, the panel recommended proceeding immediately with only two of the five proposals it considered, at a cost of $20 million.

Of this, $1.7 million has already been granted to the California Institute of Technology for building the first of a proposed array of eight antennas, each 120 feet in diameter.

The panel strongly recommended that at any large radio telescopes built or improved with government funds at least 50 per cent of the observing time be made available to qualified scientists on a national basis, not limited to those connected with the administering institution.

The panel's second recommendation was for "upgrading the 1,000-foot spherical dish in Arecibo, Puerto Rico, to permit observations at 10 centimeter wavelengths or shorter."

The proposed improvements in the Arecibo telescope, built into a natural hollow, consist in part of replacing the present wire mesh surface of the dish with a surface of solid or nearly solid construction.

Rhino Is Born at Zoo in D. C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Showing none of his breed's near-sighted irascibility, Dillon the rhinoceros was reported getting along nicely three days after birth.

Scene was the National Zoological Park, where Dillon Friday became only the 37th rhinoceros in captivity—and the National Zoo's first.

We weighed in at an estimated 60 to 70 pounds—mammoth by human standards, but minute compared to his 2,000-pound African-born mom, Thelma.

Dillon was named for S. Dillon Ripley, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution which runs the zoo. Ripley's wife did the christening.

Oysters Keep Standard Tide
MIAMI (AP)—Marine biologists know that oysters open and close with the tides while feeding.

Now biologists at the University of Miami marine laboratory report that oysters moved inland to Illinois and Missouri eventually open and close on what would be the tide phases in those locations although there is no tidal action to affect them. The biologists haven't figured out why.

Chance for Elms Seen in Hybrid Tree

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — American elm trees, facing almost certain extinction from the rapidly spreading Dutch Elm disease, are being given a second chance for survival.

For the first time since the disease was found in this country in 1930, scientists believe they can produce a hybrid elm tree that will be both beautiful and resistant to the killer disease.

After three years of tedious attempts to manipulate the genetic makeup of disease-resistant but ugly Siberian elms, Department of Agriculture plant scientists have succeeded in producing what they hope will be good "mates" for the American elm.

All previous attempts to cross American elms with their disease-resistant cousins have failed because American elms have twice the usual number of chromosomes in their cells. Chromosomes are assemblages of genes, the microscopic blueprints for life present in all living cells.

In order to make the Siberian elms compatible with American elms, the USDA's Agricultural Research Service scientists had to double the number of chromosomes in the Siberian elms cells.

They recently shipped a dozen such modified Siberian elms from their Beltsville, Md., plant to the Industry Station to the ARS's Delaware, Ohio, experiment station. There, the Siberian seedlings will be tenderly cared for as they grow to maturity.

It will take a minimum of five years, says Dr. August E. Kehr, chief of the vegetable and ornamentals research branch at Beltsville, before the elms will flower. Only then can they be crossed with American elms.

When the big day arrives, he admits, the plant scientists are still not certain what sort of hybrid elm will result. It could just as well be ugly and diseased as beautiful and immune. Some of the trees, however, should show both the gracefulness of the American tree and the disease resistance of the Siberian elm.

If the experiment is successful, it will be due to the effects of a drug called colchicine, which is also used in treatment of gout.

DOUBLES CHROMOSOMES
Colchicine, when applied to growing cells, allows them to grow to the point of doubling the numbers of chromosomes within them, but stops them from dividing into two cells. The cells are thus left with double the usual number of chromosomes.

If special care is taken of seedlings treated with colchicine, entire plants can be grown with doubled chromosomes. These, Dr. Kehr says, will produce seeds that, in turn, will grow into plants with double the usual chromosome count.

The treatment of the Siberian elms was done by Dr. Haig Dermen and Dr. Curtis May at the Beltsville laboratory.

Dr. Dermen had previously successfully applied the same technique to cranberries, producing a disease-resistant variety that could be grown commercially.

It Seems to Me . . .

America Leads the World as Most Prosperous Nation

Once again the most prosperous nation on earth celebrates "Labor Day."

This country leads the world. There should be rejoicing.

Our labor conditions have pointed the way most of the time for the past two centuries in the matter of wages, hours and circumstances. This includes Fred-eric G. Donner, Chairman of the biggest corporation in the world, and the humblest beginner in the whole U.S. industrial complex.

Never since the beginning of time has any country showered as much material prosperity on as many. Of course, we face marginal cases. Some 3% are "without jobs" but a part of those suffer physical disabilities. Another percentage is mentally disqual-ified. And, we always have those classified as "unemployed" who are temporarily "between jobs." Then there's a definite feminine contingent that steadily leaves the ranks because of marriage and children. And al-ways, some in early retirement are placed in the lists of "unemployed."

However, the balance enjoys the best all-around working con-ditions that exist. Perhaps we give insufficient attention and recognition to this challenging circumstance. We are inclined to accept it as a matter of fact and rather assume it exists everywhere. But the United States of America stands forth as the all-round champion.

We're without parallel. We possess a grand record. Our average wages command re-spect and attention all over the globe. Nations are universally envious. Some of them even dislike us as the all-round champion. Envy is a dubious taskmaster.

Most of us simply accept our good fortune as a matter of fact and never stop to realize how lucky we are. We're the "fa-vored few," and that's for sure. There are over three billion people in the world and our 190,000,000 back easily in the top smiles of good fortune. We should stand at attention on Labor Day and accord our Na-tion proper recognition.

Let's salute together. We lead the pack.

Russia 'Protests' War . . .

In some respects, Russia is dancing along a very tight wire in the Far Eastern situation, but she is doing it with consummate skill as far as her own designs are concerned.

She "protests" our war in Vietnam but does it so adroitly no one can make anything out of it. With a pious and sanctimon-ious face she asks for "peace"—and doesn't mean a word of it. In any event, it would have to meet with Russian approval.

You see, at the present time we are spending from 10 to 12 times as much in money as the Russians are in Vietnam. And they suffer no loss of life. Hence, the present situation is quite a comfortable thing and a jim-dandy arrangement that they'd like to continue for the better part of the next two centuries—or until we were bankrupt or overwhelmed with battlefield deaths.

Without doubt, the current Russians are the greatest inter-national opportunists and im-postors in history.

Disappointing Returns . . .

New York State's first lottery re-turns have been disappointing. Originally, they expected to gross $360 million a year, of which $200 million would go directly to edu-cation. But early returns suggest that a gross of $63 million will be more likely, with education receiving $34 million.

Proponents blame the restric-tion that has been placed on sell-ing locations. Also, they charge that they are not allowed to ad-vertise sufficiently. However, the greatest deterrent may have been the fact that the prizes were not exempt from income taxes. Each of the three win-ners who received $100,000 apiece face government and local levies.

This infant is only reporting for the first two months of life and should accelerate in the times ahead.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic re-porter:

In 1960, the school dropout rate was 25% and in 1966 it has de-creased to 18%. A nationwide cam-paign must continue. . . . Candy sales for 1967 will pass the three billion mark for the first time. . . . Overheard: "The best stock market tip today is to buy stock in the makers of plate glass win-dows." . . . Our country has provided the greatest attendance at Expo '67 but the trash we've scat-tered leaves the neat Canadians aghast. It runs more than 200 tons a day.

Personal nomination for one of the at-tractive young ladies in the area: the new Mrs. Ronna Romney. . . . If they ever award a prize for men left on bases, the Tigers will win without a runner-up. Otherwise, they'd be eight games in front. . . . Harold I. Smith, top Grey-hound driving instructor says U.S. drivers generally do a very poor job of using their left hand turn signal. . . . Listen to this and sizzle: Some 83% of the persons acquitted in 1963 or who had their cases dismissed, were re-arrested within the next 30 months. This must bring con-sideration to the courts.

London is beginning to get uneasy over the possibility of race riots. The problem is new but increasingly in-tense. . . . Insider's News-let-ter says JOHNSON's thousand-dollar-a-year President's Club has been revived very quietly and under different names. It raised more than $2 million last month. . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: The C's HAROLD EULER and Pontiac General Hospital for service to law enforcing officers when trouble threatened re-cently; the J's—CHICAGO'S PICASSO sculpture.

SOMETHING TO CELEBRATE!

Private Diplomats Hurt U.S.

Logan Act Ignored by Meddlers

By LEON DENNEN
Foreign News Analyst
NEW YORK (NEA) — The Logan Act adopted by Con-gress as long ago as 1799 prohibits private American citizens from engaging in diplomatic negotiations with foreign nations without official authorization.

Yet each generation of Americans produces its own private meddlers in international diplomacy who violate the law with impunity.

In 1915 it was Henry Ford who was convinced that by launching his "peace ship" he would bring a speedy end to World War I. He was dis-couraged by President Wil-son. But the automobile mag-nate was arrogant enough to believe that he could succeed where the president of the United States failed.

The fantastic story of "Ford's folly" has just been recreated vividly by the veteran journalist, Burnet Her-shey, in his new book, "The Odyssey of Henry Ford and the Great Peace Ship."

It is a fascinating account, often hilarious and sometimes sad, of a bit of true-blue Amer-icanism that has long been for-gotten.

Ford's odyssey, as was in-evitable, ended in failure. But it caused considerable dam-age to American interests. For many years it was also a rich source for diplomatic jokes.

With the current crises in the world and the mushroom-ing of private peace negotia-tions in Russia, North Viet-nam, Cuba and elsewhere, Hersey's book has more than its share of relevance to the present day.

Consider the activities of Cy-rus S. Eaton, another wealthy American industrialist who, ironically enough, has long been a great admirer of Rus-sia's Communist leaders.

TRUE STATEMENT?

He recently informed the press that Soviet Premier Ko-sygin feels there can be an agreement to settle the war in Vietnam without the con-sent of Red China. This, if true, is news that Americans will welcome. But is it true?

Kosygin, we are to be-lieve, gave this extremely important information to Eaton in a conversation that lasted four hours. Yet dur-ing a two-day conference with President Johnson in Glasboro, N.J., the Soviet premier never hinted such that Russia was ready to act as peace broker in Viet-nam.

It is possible that the Soviet premier said one thing to his friend Eaton and quite another thing to Johnson. But it is also possible — and much more likely — that the Soviet pre-mier was using the pro-Rus-sian American industrialist as a sounding board for com-munist propaganda.

Capital Letter:

Sweet Song of Spring Turns Sour for Johnson

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — The polls which sang so sweetly of President Johnson's popu-larity in the spring have turned dis-cordant with the waning sum-mer, and the same nations which once carolled of the need for allied har-mony now hoarsely croak: "Let John do it."

John is Uncle Sam, and the tune from Western Europe these days strikes the same off-key notes as those in the Far East chants.

Our German friends, under the baton of Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger, want our brass, string and per-cussion sections to remain at current pitch in the Euro-pean orchestra, while they drastically re-duce their own players and de-cline to contribute to the support of ours.

Prima Donna Charles de Gaulle can afford to stage tantrums and flirt with his Commie suitors as long as Uncle Sam underwrites the NATO production which keeps French virtue intact, and Mother England can feel free to supply Red China, North Vietnam and Cuba with beau-tiful music while we chape-ron her security.

In Southeast Asia Marshal Ky is thoroughly in tune with the Johnson administration's assessment that more troops are essential, provided they're American troops.

REFUSE TO HELP
The Philippines, Japan, Thailand and other neighboring nations also like our for-tissimo band music in South Vietnam, but when we remind them that the clashing sym-bals and strident drum-beats cost money, they refuse to help pay the piper.

Our domestic roadshow is faring little better. Entre-preneur Johnson is trying valiantly to provide a diver-sified program featuring both guns and butter, but instead of drawing rave re-view, the critics are taking potshots at him.

To add to entrepreneur Johnson's woes, some pow-erful angels on Capitol Hill who have been generously underwriting both his foreign and domestic productions are beginning to tighten the purse-strings.

TROOP CUT DEMANDED

And some 40-odd senators operating under the ordinary gentle baton of Majority Leader Mike Mansfield de-mand that we substantially re-duce our performing troops (troupes?) in Europe.

They are unkind enough to point out that France has cut her own troops by nearly two-thirds, that Britain has sharply reduced hers, and that Germany is pre-viding only half as many uniformed performers per capita and gross national product as we are.

And the more troops John-son sends to big city ghettos, the louder are the boos and catcalls.

An old adage warns, "You're damned if you do and damned if you don't." The puzzle-maker is why anyone else would want to take a thankless job of entrepreneur, if L. B. Johnson decides to take his final curtain call next year.

Voice of the People:

Indian Student Discusses India's Shortage of Food

I was interested to read "Solution to Starva-tion" in your recent editorial. As an Indian student who is here to continue my studies, I wish to make a clarification. If, as you say, all life in India is held sacred, how do you explain the fact that four-fifths of the population in India are nonvegetarian? Beef only is not eaten by Hindus.

The cow is held sacred because it can be more useful when alive rather than dead. The milk and butter can nourish countless starving children and can be converted to buttermilk (a staple diet) and "ghee" (in which most Indian food is cooked). This economic issue has been misinterpreted as a religious issue by those who do not know that in the past the Hindu religion covered both the spiritual as well as the socioeconomic aspects of a man's life.

Recently there was agitation for "cow protec-tion" in India. The people wanted the central government to allocate funds to the Indian states to implement a nationwide program to keep the cows healthy and thereby increase the yield of milk and feed more people over a greater period of time. What we need in India is a long-term solution, not a temporary relief which is what your "solution" amounts to.

Student Favors Sex Education in Schools

I am a senior attending one of the area high schools. The lady who wrote that she was "shocked by Pontiac Press article about the sex education program for Pontiac schools" was not thinking about the children and teen-agers who have never been told about venereal disease, etc. Maybe it should be handled in the home, but parents don't explain these things to their kids.

I'm all for sex education in all schools, starting in the last few years of grade school and continuing through high school. I would have been thankful to learn about those things through teachers and adults instead of mostly from my friends. After teachers have been instructed how to teach and discuss these things, it wouldn't be any different learning about sex than it would be for history, English and math.

Replies to Comments on Governor's Action

In contradiction to Mr. Moyers' statement that "Mr. Johnson fiddled while Detroit burned," the President could not send aid without a request from our Governor. Mayor Cavanagh did not request aid until after seven hours of rioting and looting. When the troops arrived Mr. Romney stored them for hours at the State Fairgrounds while he pondered his popularity. Even then, Mr. Romney made the statement that he did not think troops would be necessary. Mr. Cavanagh, meek as it was, did contradict him.

Put the blame where it lies and admit you are and Mr. Johnson. You should thank God our President's name wasn't Mr. Romney and this wasn't a national crisis of an invasion of foreign troops. If this were the case you can bet our country would be flying a Red flag and you wouldn't be here to sound off. For some startling facts, I suggest you listen to Lou Gordon. Mr. Romney will be a guest this Sunday.

DeGaulle Paid

L'Express, Paris
General de Gaulle paid for the way in which he directed French policy in the Middle East. Many of his ministers withdrew into themselves, the U.N.R. (Gaullist Party) was split, the executive branch of Government — including the key strongholds of Foreign Affairs and Defense — was in partial revolt, and his assistants in the Elysee were divided.

Most striking was the readi-ness with which many of the people, some of them close to the Elysee, revealed their doubts. The only thing that kept them from expressing their disagreement publicly was a remnant of admiration for the head of state.

Strange as it may seem, the spectacle of France voting with the U.S.S.R. in the United Nations shook the General's assistants more than his decision in 1965 to pull France out of NATO. They believed that the 1965 decision was the result of a policy they had watched develop step by step, whereas the 1967 vote marks the beginning of a new policy and they cannot yet tell where it's going to take the country.

De Gaulle thinks there is only one superpower in the world today, the United States, and that each U.S. success intensifies the international dis-equilibrium. He believes France's interest commands him to oppose American policy every-where even if he has to sup-port Soviet policy to do so. "Faced by American strength," he recently con-fided to a visitor, "there are only two possibilities—one can say 'yes' or 'no.' The General has chosen the no, and it is in this way that he devoted his energies during the Middle East Crisis.

Not once, during six weeks of crisis, had General de Gaulle gathered his associates around him. He talked with many, but only in private. He demanded numerous notes, but the officials charged with writing them did not know but what others had been as-signed similar tasks.

The president of the Republic was resolute. France must take a "moral" stance, that is, demand the unconditional evacuation of the territories occupied by the Israelis. Not that the Israeli record was bad, he specified, but there was no lack of countries throughout the world with good records, especially allies of the United States.

France joined with the U.S.S.R. and voted for the Yugoslavian resolution. In this France was alone among the Western powers. What is more, she managed to drag in her wake only four African countries. It was the greatest defeat for French diplomacy in sev-eral years.

World reaction was im-mense. American diplomats rejoiced. European Govern-ments felt themselves slip-ping still further from de Gaulle; Israel was relieved, but bitter toward France.

Three hours later, another gun-wielding thief did not own the land on which got away with $12,630 from the proposed addition was to be erected.

Rose Cutting Tips Are Given

By EARL ARONSON
(AP Newsfeatures)

In making cuttings of rose bushes, be sure you select the right rose branches at the right time and keep the cuttings moist while they are taking root. The time to take cuttings is shortly before the dormant season ends. The branches should be about a half-inch in diameter, roughly eight inches long, healthy and moderately young.

The cut should be on a slant, at the top of a branch just above a bud or where a new leaf may be sprouting.

Just below a bud, or node, at the bottom of the branch, make another slanting cut. The slant is intended to expose as much of the cambium layer of the branch as possible. This is the area where new roots will sprout.

Cuttings may be put into the ground where you intend them to grow or in containers, but if you permit the roots to dry, the roots will not survive.

A simple method is to poke the cutting into the soil and put a glass jar over it to hold in moisture. But glass jars are easily tipped or broken. Plastic bags make excellent miniature greenhouses for rose cuttings.

Keep the bag circular in shape perhaps by inserting a tin can. Heavy plastic will become more pliable if soaked in hot water.

A rose cutting generally will root in one growing season. Don't remove the protective tent until there is considerable growth of leaves.

The director of the New York Botanical Garden says that man's absolute dependence on green plants provides an urgent challenge for increased botanical research.

Dr. William C. Steere says conservation-minded people must emphasize "the dramatic fact that as man continues to destroy the plants upon which all life depends, he simply destroys himself."

An almost shocking state of affairs exists when so few members of the general public realize the fundamental necessity of green plants for the existence of life itself. Without them neither man or other animals could exist.

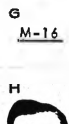

In various states, certain wildflowers are protected by law because many species are in danger of extinction. If you enjoy them, don't pick them. Leave them for others to enjoy. If you intend to pick unprotected wildflowers, do it if there are fewer than six plants. Let them flower and produce seed.

Young Author Heading for O'Hara Fame

NEW YORK (UPI) — John D. Spooner, a young Harvard-educated stock broker, is setting out to become the John O'Hara of the "trust fund generation."

Author of one recently published humorous novel, "The Pheasant-Lined Vest of Charlie Freeman," Spooner already has completed a second and begun work on a third which he calls "my big book, the one that will really hit."

The hero of the first book is a young Harvard-educated stock broker-in-training who, after a brief exposure to post-graduate life in New York City bolts back to Harvard and graduate school.

His second book, Spooner says will be about the men of "the six-month army" who were too young for World War II and Korea but too old to be drafted for Vietnam. This book, "Three Cheers for War in General," has a squash hustler named Eros Winter for a hero.

Then comes the big book, "The Country Club," which Spooner says is about an "old Boston and Jewish mixed marriage — my theory is that it can't work." Unlike his heroes, who are aflounder in adult life, the 29-year-old Spooner says flatly: "I know where I'm going."

"O'Hara did it for his generation and I'd like to do it for mine."

Like O'Hara, Spooner writes about his more affluent contemporaries. He sees them as "the graduate school generation" afraid to go out into the world. "We've been coddled," he says. "We're almost the trust fund generation."

At present he works full time as a stock broker in Boston, where he grew up, for H. Hentz & Co. He says he has almost 900 clients and publication of his book "has done wonders for my business."

CELEBRITY STATUS

"People are fascinated with what they think is a celebrity," he says.

Spooner also devotes enough time to his writing, in a studio in his Beacon Hill home shut away from his wife and two small children, to turn out 10 finished pages a week.

He started writing in school and was a member of the Lampton, the Harvard humor magazine. But it took a visit from his cousin, Richard Frede, author of the best selling novel "The Interns," to turn Spooner into a novelist.

FILM VERSIONS

Show business is part two of the Spooner plan. Spooner, a veteran of Hasty Pudding Club theatricals at Harvard, hopes to see his first novel made into a movie and learn enough from watching to produce his own film versions of the following books.

"I don't think it will take too long," he says. "In another three years, when 'The Country Club' comes out, I should be able to retire and devote all my time to writing and movie-making."

Okinawa: Army Isle of Supply

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI)—Half a million American soldiers in Vietnam eat a mountain of C-rations, shoot up millions of bullets and wear out a sea of jungle boots.

Back in the rear echelon someone has to unload, store, inventory, ship or transship every can of pork and beans, every bullet and every pair of boots.

That someone is the U.S. military's Second Logistical Command on the island of Okinawa.

In keeping with the modern tone of the war, the biggest portion of the brainwork and paperwork is borne by computers humming and whirring in air-conditioned rooms.

But the Second Log Command has to supply a lot of muscle to move the 277,000 tons of incoming and outgoing war supplies every month.

More than 9,500 U.S. civilians Okinawans and military men feed the computers and muscle the cargo that keeps the massive war machine moving.

'Sex IS Ridiculous, So Teachers Blush'

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Critics of the press are fond of asserting that while newspapers generally do a good job of reporting "hard" news they are weak on background and interpretation.

This may be so, but the complaint can be applied with equal force to the other popular media, namely magazines and television. Permit me to cite a few examples.

I have at hand a couple of recent magazine articles on sex education, which is certainly a topic that demands complete background and full interpretation. Yet both omit, or ignore, the key point.

One article says that sex "is ridiculous" when described to children before they are ready to understand it. The other says that schools have difficulty finding teachers who can teach the subject without being embarrassed themselves.

What these articles fail to point out is that sex "is ridiculous" even after you are old enough to understand it. In fact, the better you understand it the more ridiculous it becomes.

And that — not embarrassment — is the real reason why schools have trouble finding sex education teachers. It is almost impossible for a teacher to discuss the subject and still keep a straight face.

When a sex education teacher turns red, he or she is not blushing from embarrassment. He or she is merely trying to suppress a giggle.

So much for the failure of magazines to grasp the true significance of a situation. Now let's examine television, which is equally adept at missing the point.

A good illustration was the recent program dealing with the controversial question: "Is it true blondes have more fun?" Certainly that question deserves a penetrating analysis. Yet many viewers found the program vague, contradictory and confusing.

The reason is that the question cannot be answered satisfactorily without first answering two related questions: "More fun than whom?" and "More fun doing what?"

Events Slated for Teachers in Waterford

A busy day is in store for teachers of the Waterford Township School District tomorrow. Starting at 7:30 a.m. the Waterford Education Association (WEA) will hold its traditional breakfast for new teachers at Waterford Kettering High School.

There are about 130 new teachers employed in the district at the outset of this school year, according to school officials.

From 8:45 to 9:30 a.m., all teachers are to gather at Kettering for a coffee and get-acquainted session.

A districtwide staff meeting for the system's 805 classroom teachers, special service teachers and administrators will follow from 9:45 to 11:15 a.m. in Kettering's gymnasium.

Supt. of Schools Dr. Don O. Tatroe will welcome the staff and deliver the beginning-of-the-school message at the staff meeting.

Also, announcements will be made by teachers responsible for various activities.

At 11:15 a.m., elementary teachers will meet in grade level groups at Kettering to do preliminary planning for inservice improvement projects.

At the same time, secondary teachers will report to their respective school buildings for meetings.

Following lunch, all teachers are to return to their respective buildings for staff meetings.

At 3:15 p.m., all new teachers are to report back to the Kettering gym for an interpretation of the new teacher contract by WEA officers.

Wheat on Lawn for India Crisis

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's backyard has provided 185 pounds of wheat for famine-stricken Bihar State.

Last fall, Mrs. Gandhi ordered the lawn ploughed up and wheat planted. It was cut recently and the crop rushed to Bihar.

A process has been developed whereby red blood cells in donated blood can be frozen and preserved indefinitely. Before this, the blood had to be used within three weeks.

Linguist Greet Visitors in Indonesia

BOGOR, Indonesia (U)—Americans driving through this pleasant town outside Jakarta are always startled to hear someone hail them in a strong Texas twang with "Howdy, podnah."

Russians, French, Arabs, Africans and South Americans also crane their necks when they hear greetings in their own tongue.

A bearded Indonesian revolutionary fighter — who goes simply by the name Jack — takes great delight in surprising the passersby. A self-taught linguist who speaks fluent English, German and Dutch, he can also about greetings in more than 18 tongues.

Jack, 52, passes much of his time on a shaded bridge just outside Bogor.

As his tiny wife presents visitors with tea on the porch, Jack solemnly warns the men, "Don't touch my wife." He is not expecting advances, but only cautioning newcomers of the Moslem custom that men must not touch Moslem women.

Cats laze near the radio given to him by an American businessman. He checks the time on a watch given him by a Mexican ambassador.

Jack, who has been the unofficial greeter for seven years to foreigners passing through Bogor avoids politics.

But he does recall with certain self-satisfaction that ousted President Sukarno used to pass by in his long limousine without a glance for Jack. Now that Sukarno's power has waned, Jack often sees for former dictator slouching in the seat of his jeep. Sukarno recently acknowledged him with a wave.

Jack sums up his philosophy: "A million friends are not enough; one enemy is too many."

An inventor has patented a method of locating underground oil by measuring the fluorescence of soil samples.

Odds Are Against Senators Who Want U.N. to Act on War

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.
(AP) — The odds are against the U.S. senators who want the U.N. Security Council to deal with the war in Vietnam. The U.S. government has tried that. The council discussed the war in 1964, but North Vietnam shunned the debate and nothing further happened. In 1966 a U.N. resolution for a new Geneva conference was shelved for fear of a Soviet or French veto.

One reason it's hard to accomplish anything here to stop the fighting: none of the Vietnamese regimes or groups participating is a member of the United Nations although South Vietnam has the status of observer. Since North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front are outside the United Nations, they insist that the war be settled outside. Red China, which helps arm Hanoi, also is not a member.

The Soviet Union and France insist that any settlement be reached "within the framework of the Geneva accords" of 1954 and 1962. They contend that the United Nations lacks even the right to consider the subject.

GENEVA CONFEREES

The Geneva conferees that produced those accords included North Vietnam, South Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos, France, Red China, the Soviet Union, the United States and Britain in 1954, when the agenda was for all of French Indochina, and those nine plus Burma, Thailand, India, Canada and Poland in 1962, when it was limited to Laos.

The 1964 conference ended the war between France and the Vietnamese. It left Communists governing North Vietnam and anti-Communists governing South Vietnam on the understanding that elections to unify the country would be held within two years. South Vietnam, with U.S. backing, refused to discuss election arrangements with North Vietnam. War broke out again between the Vietcong and South Vietnam. North Vietnam and the United States became increasingly involved. In August 1964 the United States reported that North Vietnamese motor torpedo boats attacked American warships in the Gulf of Tonkin and that U.S. planes hit back at the boats and their shore bases. It asked for an urgent meeting of the Security Council "to consider the situation" created by the attacks. The U.S. complaint seemed aimed at heading off any complaint from the other side. When the council put the question on the agenda, U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson gave the American version and said, "Our mission in Southeast Asia is peace." He made no proposal. COUNCIL AGREES

The Soviet Union introduced a resolution to invite North Vietnam to the debate. The United States replied that South Vietnam should be invited, too. The council agreed to invite both.

Later events showed that the Soviet Union had acted without knowing the North Vietnamese position. Hanoi's brusque reply was that the council "has no right to examine this problem."

The council held no more meetings on the issue. Later, the United States stopped bombing North Vietnam for 37 days in the announced hope that the Communists would slacken their attack and North Vietnam would negotiate.

RESUMED BOMBING

Then, declaring the response unsatisfactory, it resumed the bombing. In a more calculated move to allay criticism of that step, it moved Jan. 31, 1966, for another urgent council meeting.

At the same time, the United States submitted a resolution calling for discussions "among the appropriate interested governments to arrange a conference looking toward the application of the Geneva accords of 1954 and 1962 and the establishment of a durable peace."

The council held three meetings but the Soviet Union and France objected to putting the question on the agenda. U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg lobbied for the necessary nine-vote majority and finally lined up the crucial ninth vote from Jordan.

The Soviet Union could not vote adoption of the agenda because this was a procedural decision. It could have vetoed the U.S. resolution. This never came to a vote.

Instead, Council President Akira Matsui of Japan consulted council members and circulated a letter reporting "a feeling that the termination of the conflict in Vietnam should be sought through negotiations in an appropriate forum in order to work out the implementation of the Geneva accords."

Four of the members — France, the Soviet Union, Bulgaria and Mali — disavowed any such feeling and argued that the president had no right to put forward any such conclusion.

Goldberg said later that "the inability of the Security Council to act must be ascribed not to the organization itself but to certain powerful members in which possess the veto power and which have been unwilling to see it act."

Mexico Puts Sea Turtles Under Guard

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The government has put sea turtles under its direct protection in a move to prevent their extinction.

Officials said turtle hunters are devastating supplies along both coasts in their quest for skins for shoes, handbags and other goods.

As a first step, a totally closed season was ordered, until Aug. 31 on the Gulf of Mexico coast and Sept. 26 on the Pacific coast.

The ban applies not only to the adult turtles but also to their eggs, as the hatching season is now under way.

The prohibition on taking turtle eggs may be made permanent.

SUPPLY NECESSARY

The fisheries division of the Federal Industry and Commerce Department said large supplies of turtles will be needed for a program aiming at processing practically every part of the reptiles.

Turtle hides have been in great demand in recent years in the leather industry, trade sources said. They have been replacing alligator, crocodile and other more commonly used hides.

Exports of Mexican turtle hides have been increasing, following upturns in demands from Europe, especially Germany, it was said.

For further protection of the species, the National Fisheries Biology Research Bureau has set up mobile "turtle stations" to protect eggs and put them under artificial incubation.

'TURTLE GUARDS'

Special "turtle guards" have been assigned to coastal areas to keep away egg gatherers.

Fishermen have complained to the government about the "raids" of the hide hunters. They said hundreds of turtles were left to rot on the beaches after being skinned. Whereas many fishermen make their living from the reptile's meat.

The navy has been asked to assign some coastal patrol vessels to help in the big scale turtle protection operation.

During recent months the government granted some permits for exports of turtle eggs to the United States, but in view of the new policy no more such permits will be issued, officials said.

Nurse Returns Home

Two Years in Far East in Review by Nurse

NEW YORK (UPI) — Capt. Verna M. Lorette knows first hand about the "dirty war" being fought in Vietnam.

The flight nurse from Limestone, Maine, has spent two years duty in the Far East, much of it on missions to remove the wounded from Vietnam hospitals and take them to other medical centers in the Orient.

"She has seen men die, men lose limbs and eyesight, men severely burned, men victims of another enemy, malaria, men suffering bites of the poisonous snakes the Vietcong use as weapons, men with massive infections from the Vietcong's nasty trick of "mining" roadside ditches with sharp "punji" sticks coated with human excrement.

"It is a dirty war," she said, "you don't know who your enemy is. He might be at work in the fields by day, making war at night."

"But it is my personal feeling," she said, "that we are needed there, we are slowly winning. If we got out now, we would lose what we've already accomplished. And I'm not talking in terms of money, so much as in lives.

"Our men must feel we're winning, or their morale wouldn't be so high. And their morale is excellent," she said.

But the nurse spoke sadly of the mounting casualties. "In the first six months of last year, our group the 901st Air evacuation Squadron moved 10,000 men," she said. "In the first six months of this we moved 43,000."

Captain Lorette, in the Air Force four years, has finished her tour of duty in the Far East where she participated in 228 "Aeromedical evacuation missions," 76 of which were in Vietnam often in battle zones.

From her home base at Tachikawa, in Japan, she also helped move personnel to Korea, Okinawa, Thailand, the Philippines and inside Japan. The plian to make their home in Washington, D.C.

The couple were married in Grace Lutheran Church during a ceremony in which the bride wore a modified Empire styled dress of candlelight peau de soie with rose Alencon lace. Her floor length veil ended with scattered appliques of matching lace.

BRIDE'S FLOWERS

A bouquet of cream colored roses with gardenia leaves and ivy was carried by the bride.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Julius Koprince of West Ironquits Road and the John A. Seberts of Prospect Heights, Ill.

Mrs. Timothy Graul of Alton, Ill. was matron of honor with Frederick M. Woodruff Jr. of Glendale, Mo. as best man. Ralph Koprince, Ronald Sebert and Thomas Swaney were ushers.

A reception in the Forest Lake Country Club took place after the nuptials.

flight nurse's next assignment is at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California.

En route from the Orient, she visited her widowed mother, Mrs. George Lorette, in Limestone, and stopped off in New Orleans for the convention of the ladies auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars VFW. She is the 1967 "unsung heroine," a service woman honored annually by the auxiliary with a citation and a $500 check. Recommendations for the honor come from the servicewomen's commanding officers.

Maj. Louis H. Architect, USAF, cited Captain Lorette for her "devotion" to duty and her "patient, unflinching professional composure even under long mercy missions." Once without hesitation, she revived by mouth to mouth resuscitation a victim of an infectious disease. "He had just stopped breathing," she said.

On missions, there is rarely a doctor, and two flight nurses and two medical corpsmen care for 50 to 60 patients in one of the big cargo planes fitted with stretchers, emergency oxygen, resuscitation equipment intravenous fluids. "We even pack metrel for the wounded unable to chew," she said.

Pilot Club Visits Seminole Home

Patients at Seminole Hills Nursing Home, Orchard Lake Road, were entertained recently by the Pilot Club of Pontiac, Inc.

Games and refreshments were arranged by Mrs. Chester Richert and her committee.

Mrs. Edgar Arnold reported on the Pilot International Convention held recently in New Orleans.

Plans were made for a Sept. 18 card party at First Federal Savings of Oakland building. Proceeds will be used for community service projects.

Mrs. John Reineck was initiated as a new member.

Marry Her First

Gives Sound Advice to Marine

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am scheduled to leave Vietnam in three weeks, after 13 months duty. I wrote my girl and asked her to meet me in Hawaii for the weekend, and we'd come home together. (We plan to marry soon after I get home.)

When I wrote my parents about Sue's meeting me, here's the letter I got from my father: "Dear Son. Mother and I have no objections to Sue's meeting you in Hawaii if her parents approve. She's a sweet girl and we know how you two kids feel about each other. But if you decide to meet in Hawaii, get a chaplain or a Justice of the Peace to marry you right after you kiss her hello. Keep it a secret if you want to, but put that ring on her finger, son. You've waited a long time. Don't spoil it now. Love, dad."

Well, Abby, there it is. What is your advice?

DEAR MARINE: With a Dad as smart as yours, you don't need any advice from Dear Abby.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a father who refuses to go to his own son's wedding because he doesn't want to get dressed up?

I feel just terrible for my son's sake, and I'm so embarrassed for the girl's people. My husband has always had such pretty weird ideas, but this is one of the worst. He says he won't get dressed up for anybody. I've begged him and begged him, but it hasn't helped.

His attitude is turning a time of joy into a time of tension for all of us. The wedding is a month off. Any suggestions?

NERVOUS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes. Quit begging him. He's either stubborn or sick. If he's stubborn, you won't persuade him in a year. If he's sick you won't cure him in a month. Let him stay home. With his attitude he might embarrass you more if he did you a favor and went to the wedding.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a dime store. This morning I sold 10 tubes of plastic model glue to one boy who looked to be about 16 or 17 years old. I'm sure he wasn't gluing a "Boeing 707" together. This isn't the first young kid who has bought an unusual quantity of glue lately.

I understand "sniffing glue" is "in" with the teen-agers now. It is supposed to give the sniffer a "cool sensation" — a pleasant light-headedness, and in some cases, hallucinations. I have also heard that it could have some very serious after effects. If you know anything about this, please put it in your column. I am sure some youngsters don't realize the seriousness of what they're getting into.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DEAR BIRMINGHAM: Glue sniffing.

Bride-Elect Is Honored

Marcia McNutt who will be married to David Johnston on Sept. 9 was honored at a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening.

Hostess was Mrs. James Morrissey of Sylvan Lake. Assisting her were Mrs. William Almos, Mrs. Larry Kendall and Mrs. Dorothy Hatfield.

Among the 40 guests were the bride's mother, Mrs. Merlin McNutt of Ayon Township, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Irene Johnston of Birmingham.

The John C. McCarrys of Bloomfield Village announce March vows for their daughter, Gayle Patricia, and Grafton Curtis Keyes, son of the late Grafton H. Keyes of Rochester, N.Y. The bride-elect is a senior at Michigan State University and her fiancé a Parsons College graduate.

has been known to cause serious brain damage. And some fatalities have been reported.

DEAR ABBY: Although I am only 21, and "young" in your eyes, I am a mature man, having lived fully and seen a great deal of the world.

There is so much said about "sex" these days. Can you tell me what is wrong with sex for sex's sake if I do not harm anyone?

DEAR MATURE: The answer is obvious. It harms YOU. Promiscuous sex will gradually transform you into a selfish, pleasure-seeking creature, incapable of loyalty or of loving another.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PINKY: The proof of the pudding is not always in the eating. It's whether he comes back for seconds. A lot of very mediocre pudding has been consumed for lack of choice.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THE TALL ONE." Go ahead and wear the wedding ring. There are no accurate statistics (nor shall there ever be) but according to my mail, I would say that 99 out of 100 American men who wear wedding rings do so because their wives want them to.

Troubled? Write to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Love Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Evening Nuptials at Cranbrook for the Jeffrey Robert Fishers

Christ Church Cranbrook was the setting for evening nuptials uniting Andrea Louise Stickel and Jeffrey Robert Fisher.

Mrs. Brian Kluck of Waterloo, Ont. and William Purdy of Birmingham were honor attendants at the Saturday ceremony.

The bride wore white peau de soie in princess styling with a cathedral train. Her sleeves and hemline were trimmed in French lace. A re-embroidered Alencon lace cap held her shoulder length tulle veil. She carried a crescent of gardenias and Stephanotis.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Joseph Page, Nancy Christian, Janet Fisher, Cynthia Stickel and Mrs. Lawrence Seck.

Bruce McMillen of New York City, Thomas Gualtieri of Brooklyn, N.Y., David Stickel, Coleman Hicks of Indianapolis, Ind. and Alan Steere of New York City were ushers.

Parents of the couple, who greeted guests in the Village Woman's Club following the service, are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Stickel of Troy and the Robert Fishers of Bloomfield Village.

The couple will honeymoon in Bermuda.

Consumer Is Partly to Blame

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Part of the high cost of feeding the family lies directly with thoughtless shopping habits.

Extension service specialists at the University of Nebraska say that the highest single cost item in the retail merchandising of food is shoplifting and pilfering.

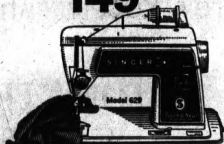

This national problem can account for as much as two per cent of a store's total product turnover, says Mrs. Clara W. Leopold, of the university.

Also adding to food costs are those shoppers guilty of scattering foods onto shelves where they don't belong, handling fresh fruits and vegetables carelessly and adding to the spoilage problem, and sampling products right from the shelves.

Washington—No. 1 Training Ground

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Long hair or short, male or female, it isn't the thinking college student who looks at Washington's job opportunities and goes "blah!"

For certain professions—notably law — this is the place to come when schooling is over. Today Washington is perhaps the country's greatest post-degree training ground for lawyers, engineers, computer programmers, journalists and even doctors and chemists.

It wasn't that way 20 years ago when the top students were snapped up by private businesses and firms. But now the young are pouring off the campuses waving degrees and high averages and suddenly the federal government is competitive.

"It's more than just competitive," said a Harvard Law School grad and Supreme Court clerk. "I began here at about what I might start with at a private law firm. But you'd be amazed at the bargaining power one year in the court has given me. I turn down offers practically every week."

The point is, government and private industry rub elbows more and more.

ANNUAL RAIDS

Private firms raid Washington annually in search of promising youth who have gained good government experience.

An aircraft company, for example, looks at a young engineer who has had two years with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration or the Navy Department as a prize and will pay for it.

Young lawyers come from all over the country — not just Washington's two first-rate law schools (Georgetown and George Washington U.) — to work a couple of years for the Commerce Department and elsewhere and then leave for a private firm to specialize.

Medical students interested in research and more training — not to mention good pay — head for slots in the vast medical complex which is the National Institute of Health.

Government journalism is wide open, especially for women. All the federal agencies daily put out reams of booklets, or as aides in the Justice Department.

"We're like baseball bonus babies," said one Supreme Court clerk who is knocking down $9,614 less than a year out of law school. The median income for all practicing lawyers in 1966 was $13,000.

CAN GET MORE

"During this experience, I've turned down offers for $13,000 because I know I can get more in another six months," the University of Michigan law grad added.

Said another Supreme Court clerk, fresh out of UCLA: "We all know that almost any job after this one is disappointing, though we don't like to admit it. I wonder whether anything will approach it again except for actually sitting as a justice."

He could ask Justice Byron White, who is the first ex-clerk to reach the highest bench in the nation.

STEPPING-STONE TO SUCCESS—Duty in the Supreme Court building (shown above) often proves an opening wedge to better career opportunities. Today Washington is perhaps the country's greatest post-degree training ground for lawyers, engineers, computer programmers, journalists and even doctors and chemists. Behind this is the fact that government and private industry are rubbing elbows more and more nowadays.

Cooperation Part of College Game

PORTLAND Ore. (AP)—The trouble with games, Donald McKinlay decided, was that for one person to win, another had to lose. So he persuaded Reed College to give him a scholarship for creating games of cooperation rather than competition.

"I was riding in a train with lots of time to think," he said of his plan's origin, "and I began thinking about games. It seemed to me the total dominance of competitive play was a moral inadequacy."

McKinlay says he wants to create board games which would involve the players in situations comparable to those of real life.

He said a start in that direction has been made by commercial games in which players buy stock or sink battleships.

McKinlay, 22, a tall, husky, bearded Reed College graduate from Encinita, Calif., said he wanted to go beyond that.

'THE RISING DEATH'

One of his games is already at the playing stage. Called "The Rising Death," it requires men living in four cities to build paths and reach a central point before a plague called the Rising Death rises to its peak. If all are not at the goal, all will die; each must help the other.

The game is played on a large map-like board and cards drawn in turns provide information on paths to take and messages of danger. Men are lost, or advance in given numbers, or are transferred from one city to another when two cities build paths to a crossroads.

At the crossroads the players may exchange information. It is this communication, as well as proper movement of men along the paths, that brings victory.

"Copies may eventually be sent to the United Nations," McKinlay quipped. There are no plans now for making his games available commercially.

Other games he has outlined include one in which a player starts with some power over each other player. As the game goes along, he must decide whether to seek absolute control over all or to destroy all controls, including those he has over others.

"I hope it may develop into a game of temptation or moral decision-making," he said.

Site of A-Bomb Development

Founder Returns to Oak Ridge

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — The stocky, mustached general stood on the barren hillside, surrounded by more cars than people, threw his swagger stick to the ground and declared that the spot would mark the center of a new town.

The year was 1942 and, in that tranquil scene, Oak Ridge was born to produce the first atomic bomb, the weapon that ultimately brought an abrupt end to the World War II.

Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves was the officer, named by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, some months earlier to head the top secret "Manhattan Project." It was under his direction that Oak Ridge and the bomb were developed.

Now 70 and retired, the Army general returns today to take part in the city's 25th anniversary celebration. Ironically, the head of the wartime nuclear project will be given a tour only of unclassified sections of the plants which were built under his direction.

UNDERSTANDS SYSTEM

"He is so very security conscious I'm sure he understands the system, so to speak," said Dr. Clarence Larson, president of the Union Carbide Nuclear Division, which operates the facilities.

The town, nestled in the East Tennessee hills, is a little different than it was in September 1942, when 58,000 square acres were purchased for $2.6 million as the location for "Clinton engineering works." The name was picked, Groves has said, because it was innocuous and "wouldn't attract attention."

Buildozers tore into the peaceful valley farmland and transformed it into a city where 70,000 persons were employed, and only a handful knew what they were doing.

Guarded by six-foot-tall fences and sentries, surrounded by piles of dust and streets of mud, scientists set about producing the enriched uranium which went into the 10-foot-long bomb.

MODERN CITY

Today, Oak Ridge is a bustling, independent, incorporated city of 30,000 persons, the largest city in land area in Tennessee with 94 square miles.

Almost all of the 30,000 residents are turning out to celebrate the 25th birthday of what they call the "youngest world city."

Focal point of the celebration is an outdoor pageant which recounts incidents in the city's history, including the time Groves "borrowed" 15,000 tons of silver from the Treasury Department for use in conducting

Honored Grave for Custer Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Marcus Reno will rejoin his fallen comrades on the battlefield of the Little Big Horn in Montana next Saturday, 78 years after the massacre known as Custer's Last Stand.

Reno was accused and later cleared of charges of cowardice in that legendary fight. But he was later dishonorably discharged from the Army for conduct unbecoming an officer.

This summer—acting on a petition by Maj. Reno's grandnephew—an Army board of review exonerated him and made it possible for him to be buried with honor in Custer National Battlefield, with Custer and more than 200 of the soldiers who died with him.

Reno's remains will be removed from an unmarked grave in Washington's Glenwood Cemetery and transferred to Montana.

Junior Editors Quiz on SMOKE

QUESTION: What is in smoke?

ANSWER: We all know that when fuel, like wood (left) or coal (upper right) is burned, smoke results. Since warm air rises, most smoke is carried up into the atmosphere, as in the left-hand picture.

Smoke is dark because it contains millions of minute particles of carbon which have not been burned in the fire. Such particles are soot. Carried far above the boys' campfire, such soot particles can do them no harm.

However, there can be weather conditions where there is little upward movement of the air. When this happens, smoke from factories, furnaces, cars and so on can settle over cities and towns in a haze often called smog.

This can dirty buildings and make air unpleasant to breathe. As cities have grown in our industrial times, smoke problems have grown with them. Scientists and engineers are working out ways of handling the smoke problem.

One is to use burners which consume the soot in the first place. Another to have electric rather than coal-burning trains enter the cities. Many more solutions will undoubtedly appear.

Israel May Resume Jordan River Project

By Science Service

TEL AVIV — Israel, still entrenched on the Jordan River in the wake of the Six-Day War, is considering reviving original plans for diversion of the Jordan River. The project has for years been a sore point between Israel and her Arab neighbors, Jordan, Lebanon and Syria.

More than a decade ago, Ambassador Eric Johnston, personal envoy of President Eisenhower, tried to negotiate unified water scheme for the four nations. But the three Arab states then, as now, refused to cooperate with Israel. Each state then went ahead with its own plan.

Israel proposed on its own to tap the water of the Jordan above Lake Kinneret, near the Baot Ya'acov bridge. At this level, the water would flow southwards by gravity and even power a hydro-electric plant.

The salinity of the Jordan River is 20 milligrams a litre; that of lake Kinneret is 380 milligrams a litre; since both the shores and bottom of Lake Kinneret are dotted with mineral hot springs.

But due to Syrian refusal to allow Israel to work in what before the war was the demilitarized zone, the original scheme of tapping the relatively salt free Jordan river near the Gnot Ya'acov bridge above Lake Kinneret and letting the water flow southwards by gravity to the thirsty Negev, had to be abandoned for pumping the water from Lake Kinneret itself, at Edessa, Kinneret, in the northwest side of the Lake.

RUNS TO RESERVOIR

This meant pumping the water nearly 850 feet high, i.e., from 700 feet below sea level to the conduit which is 150 feet above sea level.

From here the water runs to the operational reservoir more than 20 miles away at Belt Netola in Lower Galilee.

From there, through a series of open and closed conduits, it is borne southwards. The lake Kinneret-Negev project can carry 320 million cubic meters each year a distance of 150 miles.

Reverting to the original plan, to tap the Jordan above the lake, would give Israel excellent sweet water and will allow her to set up the hydro-electric plant.

The high cost of pumping the water upwards from the lake will be eliminated. And since Israel has control of all the disputed demilitarized zone, constructing the original link in a straight line will sharply reduce the cost.

However, a considerable part of the water will still have to be returned to the Kinneret to reduce the salinity of the Lake. At present its salinity is growing, and the Jordan River below the Lake has such a high salinity content that the settle-to have water pumped down to plants along the Jordan have them.

Senate GOP Set to Meet on Special-Session Plans

LANSING (AP) — Senate Republicans will draw up agenda plans for the October special session of the Legislature at a Mackinac Island meeting Wednesday and Thursday.

The 20 Republicans will spend about half a day going over the so-called good roads tax package and another half-day on plans for lower court reorganization, said Majority Leader Emil Lockwood of St. Louis.

Lockwood said no other items are on the Mackinac Island agenda at present, but added that this did not rule out additional sessions of the Legislature at a Mackinac Island meeting Wednesday and Thursday.

The good roads package, expected to bring in an additional $80 million a year in revenue, involved a proposed one-cent hike in the gasoline tax plus a boost in auto and commercial vehicle license taxes.

Lower court reorganization is required in the 1963 State Constitution, but action was postponed until the special session, expected to start Oct. 10.

The package was approved by the Senate during the regular session earlier this year, but was turned down twice by the House, apparently because of addition of a proposed $8 million appropriation designed to lower Mackinac Bridge tolls.

Lower court reorganization is required in the 1963 State Constitution, but action was postponed until the special session, expected to start Oct. 10.

Drivers' Files Are Being Fed to a Computer

LANSING (AP) — If you're one of Michigan's "problem drivers," there's a computer in Lansing that knows all about you.

And by 1970, adds Secretary of State James Hare, it will have all 20 million of the driving records in Hare's central files stored in its electronic memory banks.

As of Aug. 25, Hare said, some 5,101,571 records had been fed to the computer—about a quarter of the total in the secretary's files.

"We're averaging around 150,000 records weekly," Hare said. "These include accident records, conviction records, records of problem drivers who have received warning letters, and some general driving records."

MASTER PLAN
All accident records are being fed to the computer as they are received, Hare said.

"Our master plan calls for complete mechanization by 1970 of all records pertaining to drivers and the vehicles they drive," he said, adding:

"When our records are complete, there will be very little information that we will not be able to ferret out of our files on Michigan's driving population."

High frequency sound waves are combined with a laser beam to replace the cathode ray tube in a new experimental television system.

Silver Rush Stir
Cover of Alene
New-Breed Prospector
Stakes Mining Claims

WALLACE, Idaho (UPI)—The bulldozer has replaced the burro for today's prospector, but there is still plenty of work to be done by Alaska's more as a new silver rush area the Cover of Alene Mining District of North Idaho.

Silver was big item in the district even before a jackpot was struck on the Idaho's rich Thunder Butte claim in 1965. It has remained so, but over the years the big catches have been made and, to some extent, sold.

In the past 10 years the dramatic increase in the world for silver and sharply rising industrial uses of silver have deeply into the supply held by the government and used for the economy to keep the price pegged at $13.20 an ounce.

The government quit putting more than a trifling amount of silver in its coals. Even so, it has been reported more than a year ago that the Treasury would run out of silver to sell at $13 an ounce and the price, therefore, must rise.

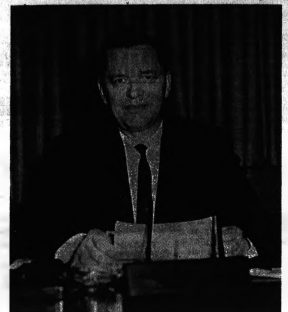

Thus a boom was born.

It has some aspects of an old-fashioned lead rush like those of the 19th century when the whippers of "gold" and "silver" were mining claims in the Alene. But it has even more aspects of the 19th century, with many of the same problems and the same results.

BURST PLACES
The two biggest places in the Alene district are the Idaho, Washington, and Nevada. The Idaho district is the largest, with the Nevada district being the second largest. The Nevada district is the largest, with the Idaho district being the second largest.

The stock exchange has not yet opened its doors to the new silver rush. The stock exchange has not yet opened its doors to the new silver rush.

SPECIAL MESSAGE TO ALL DRIVERS

It's time again for motorists to readjust their driving habits. School days are here and that means extra alertness to protect children against injury or death. And don't rely on the children to be alert for their own safety. They've been relaxed during the summer vacation and are not likely to quickly recognize the caution they've been taught in school to observe—when they have been school students.

For those who say starting school for the first time the danger is even greater. They're not accustomed to this type of traffic, may not know safety rules, and even if they know them—and this goes for the older ones, too—they often forget when something else engages their attention.

So the big job goes to the driver.

Please remember that the kids are around again. Particularly when they're going to or returning from school. They'll start their traffic from between parked cars. They'll run into the stream to chase a ball—they'll do the unexpected. So watch for them.

And another reminder. School buses will be operating again and on the highway you must stop in either direction when a school bus is stopped to take on or discharge passengers. There'll be 8,500 of these buses carrying 750,000 children.

No driver wants to strike a child, of course, but it can be easily done unless there's unremitting vigilance.

So do your best to save the youngsters.

Texas Dem Won't Back From Fight

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Wright Patman looks like everyone's candidate for grandfather of the year. He's 79 years old. He's a congressman and the 18th century abolitionist who was ready to take on the whole country by his seat to advance a righteous cause.

Patman holds strong views and believes in fighting hard for them.

"I'm not to join them but to fight them relentlessly, to fight them without mercy or quarter," he told the House in the midst of his latest battle — "The man who keeps a stiff back and a stiff moral code can defeat the forces of evil."

As chairman of the House Banking and Currency committee, the retired Texas farm demagogue has established himself as the country's foremost critic of high interest rates and the credit-backed establishment, as personified by Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin.

SYMBOLIC WINDMILLS
Patman's own critics — and some of the more prominent ones — say his determination to out the vested interests and stand fast for the small man is a somewhat naive and unrealistic merchant and farmer's fantasy.

But calling Patman a "fearless" man is not a compliment. It is a criticism. It is a criticism of his determination to out the vested interests and stand fast for the small man is a somewhat naive and unrealistic merchant and farmer's fantasy.

Patman's chosen field of battle, the highly-technical area of monetary policy, monetary policy, and fiscal management, has been a battlefield for a long time. But he has recently had an opportunity to demonstrate that he is willing to take on the world on his own terms.

The question was legislative, and Patman, a Republican and a member of the House, was in a position to do it. He was in a position to do it. He was in a position to do it.

There is something in this country to be true, and some of it is done legally, but that does not mean it is wrong to do it. It is wrong to do it. It is wrong to do it.

"There is something in this country to be true, and some of it is done legally, but that does not mean it is wrong to do it. It is wrong to do it. It is wrong to do it."

Patman took, almost alone, the position that gambling is a vice and must be kept out of the country. He was in a position to do it. He was in a position to do it.

Military Acts on Housing Bias

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.
Executive Director National Urban League

An Army officer was assigned to Vietnam. He tried to find an apartment for his family before leaving for the war zone. He couldn't. Dozens of realtors turned him down because he is Negro.

An Army sergeant recently returned from a front-line tour of duty in Vietnam, where he integrated dozens of foxholes without complaints from his "neighbors." He too, couldn't find an off-base apartment for his family. Again, it was racial discrimination that forced him into an overpriced apartment in a run-down building in the ghetto.

These are examples of the disgraceful conditions facing Negro GIs. Finally, the Defense Department is doing something about it.

Secretary of Defense McNamara, issued orders forbidding military personnel in certain bases to lease or rent in any segregated building or trailer court within a specified distance from their base. He said the orders were issued because "thousands of servicemen are being subjected to humiliating discrimination by the refusal of landlords to rent them apartments because of race or creed."

The first base to which the order applied was Andrews Air Force Base where over half of the white servicemen live within 3 1/4 miles of the base, but only one of every hundred Negro servicemen live so close.

ORDER OVERDUE

This order is long overdue, and it should be extended to cover every base in the country. It appears to be the only way to get many landlords and realtors to stop discriminating on the basis of race. If they are willing to have their lives and their property protected by the sacrifices of Negro servicemen, they should be willing to rent to them.

This order must be strictly enforced. A report issued last week indicates that landlords are complying, but we all know that many will try to avoid it whenever possible. This is one order which should get top priority from every base commander.

The order is significant because it will enable thousands of Negro GIs to find decent homes for their families. But it is also important for the example it sets. Private industry should especially take it to heart.

Large companies should make sure that their Negro employees will be allowed to live wherever they wish and not be restricted to the ghetto. They should let it be known that they will not build in a town which will not treat its employees equally.

SHOULD USE POWER

For most American towns the arrival of a new industry or plant means the difference between growth and prosperity and a slow decline. Big corporations know this and use it to get favorable terms for land and taxes. They need to use this power to assure equal treatment for their employees.

U.S. Loses 27 in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has listed 27 servicemen killed in action in the Vietnam war.

The list included 11 Army men, four from the Navy and 12 Marines. Two other Marines died of wounds and one missing Army man was declared dead.

ARE PEOPLE WHO USE PONTIAC PRESS WANT ADS REALLY PENNY PINCHERS?

Just because a person is smart enough to realize that he can do a big advertising job with a very small investment, would you call him a penny pincher?

Just because he takes advantage of an opportunity to send his advertising message into over 72,000 homes at a cost of as little as $1.01* per day, would you call him a penny pincher?

Just because he knows that it isn't always necessary to pay a big price, to get a big value, would you call him a penny pincher?

N-Scientist Warns of Future Reactor Hazards

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Nuclear scientist Dr. Edward Teller warns that advanced nuclear power reactors being planned for the future may be too hazardous and not worth the risk.

Writing in the current issue of Nuclear News, Dr. Teller claims that reactors now being built are safe enough, but the second-generation breeder reactors have much greater hazard problems. Fast breeder reactors are now getting the most attention from nuclear development experts, both here and abroad.

These are the kind that manufacture nuclear fuel as they consume it, often making more than they burn. Teller says that an efficient power reactor of the fast breeder type will need more than a ton of fissionable plutonium to operate, and this is a dangerous amount.

"I do not like the hazard involved," he says.

Present-day reactors use fissionable uranium, U-235, to produce heat for electric power generation. After a time, the uranium fuel is used up and the plant has to be refueled. Since U-235 makes up less than one percent of natural uranium, and since uranium is not the most common element in the world, energy specialists feel that the U-235 burners aren't the long-term answer to the world's power problems.

ALTERNATIVE

The breeder looks like a better solution. By speeding up the problem will probably continue.

neutrons that cause fission, nuclear engineers can make use of the other 99 per cent of uranium, U-238. That isotope can absorb fast neutrons and change plutonium, which can be used as a nuclear fuel.

The breeder produces plutonium faster than it uses up U-235. This self-production of nuclear fuel is the really promising aspect of nuclear power, in the view of most nuclear engineers.

But Dr. Teller feels the safety and radiation would be continued together the fast breeder has resisted the head-on attack of our best technological people for 20 years," he says. "I doubt that it will become a success very soon."

Slow reactor, says Dr. Teller, are inherently safe because they are constructed so as to be just barely functioning. In an accident, which could happen, the nuclear reaction would stop, and radiation would be contained.

"But, if you put together two tons of plutonium in a breeder, one tenth of one percent of this material could become critical," leading to an uncontrolled chain reaction and massive release of radioactive material.

Dr. Teller contradicts estimates about the shortage of uranium — a major goal to breeder development — contending that a big and systematic exploration for the element has never been undertaken.

Techniques Advance Stem Cell Studies

By Science Service

Cancer researchers studying leukemia have found new techniques for examining stem cells, which regulate the production of red and white blood cells.

When viruses, including those that cause leukemia, invade these stem cells, a control mechanism is upset so that in a few days time, only leukemic white cells are being manufactured.

In experiments with mice, Dr. Gaspare Mattioli and his colleagues at the University of Southern California at Los Angeles successfully transplanted stem cells from a normal to a diseased animal where they began producing red and white cells in proper balance.

However, few of the stem cells survived in the second animal very long. Dr. Mattioli expects, though, that when further studies of stem cells reveal precise information on blood cell repopulation, totally successful transplants will be possible.

He and his associates are able to partially isolate stem cells by a gradient technique in which centrifuged stem cells rise to the top of a test tube because they are lighter than any surrounding cells.

The scientists also are in the final stages of perfecting an electrical separator that will further isolate stem cells for study. Their goal is to design a method of isolating and examining pure stem cells so the control mechanisms can be analyzed with great precision.

"YOUR HEALTH"

PINCHED NERVES
By Dr. H. H. Alexander

If you are nervous, irritable, suffer with frequent headaches, dizziness, experience pain in your neck, shoulders, arms, back or legs or often feel a tightness and pain in your chest and in between your shoulder blades — the chances are you have pinched and irritated nerves.

Often falls, sprains and faulty posture cause misalignment of the spine, which results in pressure on nerve roots. Any pinching of these nerves as they leave the spine can cause trouble in the organs and limbs served by them.

Chiropractic has specialized in the study of spinal disorders and misalignment of vertebrae that cause pinching and irritation of nerves. Consult your chiropractor in cases where nerve pain are suspected. Treatment is directed towards lasting correction by removal of the spinal misalignments.

New Orleans Wins 4th Exhibition

Green Bay Packers Rout Browns Without Bart Starr, 30-21

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Green Bay Packers proved they can win without Bart Starr when they trimmed the Cleveland Browns, 30-21, Saturday night before the largest pro football exhibition crowd this season.

With Zeke Bratkowski at the helm, the world champions came from behind in the second half on two long runbacks—by Dave Robinson and Elijah Pitts—before a standing room throng of 84,236 at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium in the second game of a National Football League doubleheader.

ROOKIE SHINES

Rookie quarterback John Hankinson of Minnesota led the Vikings to a 16-3 victory in the opener against the Atlanta Falcons.

Bratkowski filled in for quarterback Starr, who has bruised ribs, and completed 12 of 22 passes for 179 yards, including a 64-yard touchdown pass to Carroll Dale.

That was the two runbacks that settled the issue. The Browns had a 14-13 halftime lead when Don Chandler's third field goal, a 21-yarder, put the Packers ahead for the first time.

Then Robinson, a linebacker, grabbed a first-hop bounce after Green Bay blocked Lou Groza's 37-yard field goal attempt and raced 62 yards for a touchdown.

That made it 23-14 and Pitts applied the clincher with an 85-yard punt return.

Frank Ryan threw touchdown passes of 15 and 20 yards to Cleveland's Falcons (21-1).

The Falcons' deepest penetration came in the fourth quarter when Wade Traynham kicked a 37-yard field goal.

Bill Brown plunged one yard for the first Viking touchdown and rookie Clinton Jones circled right end for seven yards and another.

OTHER GAMES

In other Saturday night exhibition games, the New Orleans

Saints, newest team in the NFL, made it four in a row with a 30-17 edge over the A.C. Miami Dolphins at Charleston, S.C. Dallas of the NFL whipped Houston of the AFL 30-7 and Pittsburgh of the NFL turned back San Diego of the AFL 16-7.

Philadelphia topped New York 24-15, in an all-NFL clash at Princeton, N.J., in the afternoon.

Don Meredith and Craig Morton split the quarterbacking chores for Dallas in the Cow boys' easy victory over Houston, completing 34 of 58 passes between them. Meredith passed for one touchdown, while Morton connected for another and ran for a third.

Gary Cuzzo pulled New Orleans from behind in the final seven minutes, hitting Tom Barrington with a 15-yard touchdown pass that won it for the Saints.

Norm Nessel passed for three touchdowns for Philadelphia, connecting on tosses of five, 20 and three yards, and guided the Eagles on a 90-yard march for the winning score.

Mike Clark booted three field goals of 38, 34 and 16 yards as the Steelers built a 16-0 lead and then withstood a comeback by the Chargers. Bill Nelsen threw an 11-yard pass to Marsh Cropper for the Pittsburgh TD in the third period.

John Brodie's six-yard touchdown pass to Dave Parks with 11 minutes and 18 seconds remaining clinched a 13-10 inter-league football victory Sunday for the San Francisco 49ers over the Oakland Raiders.

The game, for which Bay Area fans had been clamoring for years drew a sellout crowd of 53,254 despite a strike against the Coliseum in which it was played and pickets at all entrances.

Even the 49er players had to hike the final mile en masse after the bus bringing them from their training camp was halted by a picket.

F-Bird Next Foe, Ypsilanti Defeats Dayton, 7-0 night, scored in the final 23 seconds on a pass from Steve Judy to Tom Grunder to defeat the Dayton Colts at Ypsilanti Saturday night.

In the only other Midwest Football League game of the night the Lansing All-Stars defeated the Detroit Downriver Steelers, 13-6 in Detroit.

The game between Ypsilanti and Dayton was a defensive battle between two huge defensive lines, and Dayton was handicapped by the absence of all-league quarterback Pete Mikolajewski who has been serving his two weeks reserve duty in the Army.

Dayton made the most serious threat of the night with four minutes left on the clock by picking up big chunks of yardage on the ground and gaining a first down on the Ypsilanti four.

Reserve quarterback Bob Gaines, however, instead of staying on the ground and using up the clock for the final four yards tried three incomplete passes.

A field goal attempt failed and Ypsilanti took over on the 20. Judy hit on sideline passes moving to the Dayton 48, where an interception was nullified by off-setting penalties.

With 23 seconds on the clock, Judy had plenty of time and he hit Grunder at about the 10, hit 6-4 and going into the end zone for the tally.

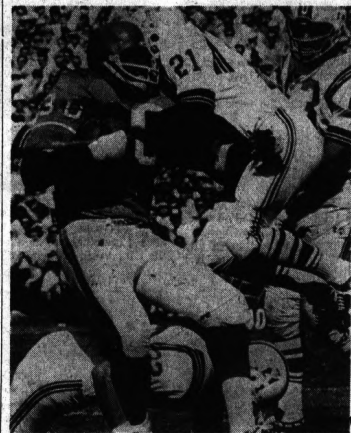

In Detroit, all the scoring was done in the first period. Lansing quarterback Dave Percival, on a broken pass play, scampered 24 yards for the first touchdown.

After a 55 yard punt return, Detroit's Steelers scored on a short burst to tie it 6-6.

Late in the period halfback Tom Elfert went the final 18 yards to make it 13-6.

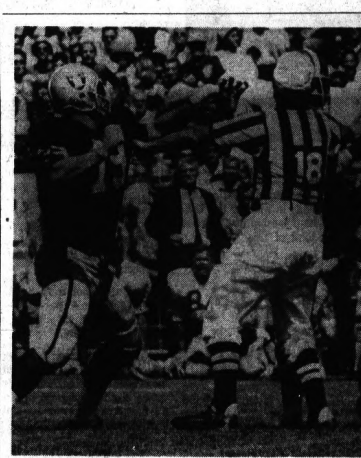

Four times in the second half, Lansing was inside the Detroit 10 but failed to score after penalties and fumbles stopped the drives.

The game between Pontiac and Flint was rescheduled earlier to be played in Flint, Wednesday, Nov. 4. Mt. Clemens was not scheduled Saturday. Next Saturday night's game will be the home opener for the Firebirds at Winer Stadium.

Denver's Win Opens AFL Play

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Re-58-yard throw that set up an important field goal early in the fourth period.

Boston's last desperate bid for victory died when Nemiah Wil-son grabbed his second interception of the game on the Denver 10 and carried it back to midfield.

Denver shaved Boston's lead to 21-19 with 9:30 left on Kroner's nine-yard field goal after a 58-yard Tensi-to-Denson pass moved the Broncos to the nine, where the Patriots held for three downs.

Defensive back Goldie Sellers, saved the Denver victory by lunging in front of Gino Cappaleto, stealing a Parilli pass and racing 29 yards to put Denver back in front 26-21 with 8:12 left.

The six Denver interceptions were the most ever against Parilli in AFL play.

GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS:

Passes Musial in Swat Race

Aaron Climbs on Homer List

By the Associated Press
When Hank Aaron's number went up on the board, Stan Musial got caught in the count down. But Musial isn't complaining. The St. Louis slugger-turned general manager is having too much fun keeping his own count down in the National League pennant derby.

Aaron blasted the 47th homer of his 14-year career Sunday, leading the Atlanta Braves to a 7-1 victory over Los Angeles and moving past Musial into ninth place on the all-time home run list.

Musial's Cardinals, meanwhile, while, continued to run rampant in their drive for the NL flag by trouncing Houston 13-1 behind the four-hit pitching of rookie ace Dick Hughes.

The Cardinals' fifth straight triumph gave them an 11½ game bulge over the Chicago Cubs, who climbed into second place with a 4-0, 6-3 doubleheader sweep over the New York Mets. Elsewhere, San Francisco blanked Cincinnati 4-0 and Philadelphia whipped Pittsburgh 7-2.

Aaron's 34th homer of the season, a two-run shot in the seventh inning, left the Braves' super-star 17 behind the No. 8 man on the all-time list—former Yankee great Lou Gehrig.

LEADING SLUGGERS

Babe Ruth is the leader with 714, followed by Willie Mays, 559, Jimmy Fox, 534, Ted Williams, 521, Mickey Mantle, 518, Mel Ott, 511, Ed Mays, 505, and Gehrig, Musial poled 475 homers in 22 years with the Cardinals.

Jack Jones also homered for Atlanta and knuckelballer Phil Niekro stopped the Dodgers on six hits.

Orlando Cepeda, who stroked four hits, and Dal Maxvill each drove in three runs with bases-loaded doubles as the Cardinals hammered the Astros, who have lost five in a row. A five-run first inning burst started Hughes on the way to his 14th victory in 10 decisions.

Successive homers by Billy Williams and Ron Santo in the fifth inning backed the seventh-pitching of Bill Hands in Chicago's first game victory over the Mets. Santo drove in two more runs with sacrifice flies in the nightcap and unbeaten Ken Holtzman, on weekend pass from the Army, gained his eighth victory with relief help from Chuck Hartenstein.

Leaders See Tight AL Race

asked if having a one-game advantage in the loss column held any significance now.

"No, I don't think so," the Twins manager said. "It might be important when you have a game left, but we have 27. The only time the loss column is important is when you're ahead three games with two to play."

The does the schedule favor any of the contenders?

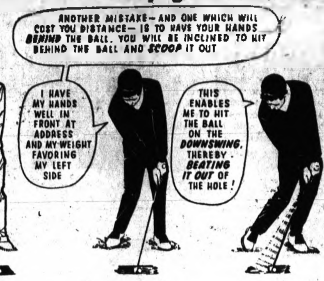

LITTLE DIFFERENCE

"Not enough to make any significant difference," Smith replied. "Look at Boston. The Red Sox lost three out of four at home to the White Sox."

In games involving the leaders, Minnesota and Detroit do not meet again. Despite Sunday's loss, the Twins took the season series with the Tigers, 10 games to 8. Chicago and Boston also have finished their season series, the White Sox gaining a 10-4 edge.

The Twins play a four-game series at Chicago this weekend, and take on Boston at home Sept. 18-19 in two games.

Bays' Booters Edge Oakland

First Playoff Game to Baltimore, 1-0

BALTIMORE (AP) — A goal by Dennis Viollet with 17:59 to play gave the Baltimore Bays a 1-0 victory over the Oakland Clippers Sunday in the opener of a series to decide the inaugural National Professional Soccer League championship.

The second game of the home and home series will be played in Oakland next Saturday, with total goals deciding the title. If the score is knotted at the end of the second game and a 30-minute overtime, the tie would be broken by penalty shots.

Responding to the rhythmic clapping of a record Baltimore soccer crowd of 16,619, the Eastern Division champion Bays scored with suddenness against Oakland's spectacular goal keeper Mirko Stojanovic.

Viollet, a 32-year-old Englishman who once played with Manchester United, rammed the shot into the upper right corner of the net after an assist from team captain Juan Santis-teban of Spain.

Red Sox Buy Pitcher From Eastern Loop

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox purchased the contract of left-handed pitcher Ken Brett from Pittsfield of the Eastern League Sunday.

Brett, 18, was Boston's No. 1 draft choice of 1966. He joined the Red Sox Sunday. At Pittsfield he had a 16-7 record and 1.25 ERA, striking out 142 in 125 innings.

The Red Sox also recalled catchers Russ Gibson and Jerry Moses and pitchers Cecil Robinson and Bill Farmer from Pittsfield and pitchers Bill Rohr, Pete Magrini, Gary Waslewski, Hank Fischer and Garry Regn-genbuck from Toronto of the International League.

Skier Retains Crown

SHERBROOKE, Que. (AP) — Dany Dufoit-Privat of France successfully defended her women's figures title Sunday at a 10th world water ski championship.

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Francis Ouimet, a slight, shy, obscure caddy who astonished the sports world with his victory in the United States Open in 1913, was eulogized Sunday as the father of American golf.

Quimet, the first amateur to win the U.S. Open and the man generally recognized as popularizing the game in this country, died Saturday at the age of 74.

"He was one of the finest sportsmen and greatest gentlemen of all time," said Joe Day, executive director of the U.S. Golf Association.

Cardinals Aiding Ex-Bullpen Ace

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Barney Schultz, one of the heroes in the St. Louis 1964 National League pennant drive, was activated Sunday by the Cardinals to qualify him for a major league pension plan.

Schultz, a knuckball pitcher, has been serving as a roving instructor in the Cardinals' farm system. He needs 32 days on a major league roster to qualify for the pension plan.

Famous Men Have Their Say

Work: a Curse or Blessing?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If there is any subject more mystifying to man than woman, it is the subject of work.

Man has had to labor for a living ever since Adam got him self and Eve heaved out of the Garden of Eden.

"In the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat bread," says the Old Testament.

Over the centuries man has kept up a running battle with himself as to whether this fate is a curse or a blessing.

Some men hate their jobs, but would be lost without them. Some men love their jobs so much they take the jobs home with them.

Some men are afraid of work. Others, as the follow said, can lie right down beside it and go to sleep. They don't fear it at all.

BORING LEISURE
Would you be glad if automation, as some scientists predict, cut the average work week to 20 hours? Or would you find the extra leisure boring?

Here are what some of the great minds of the past have said to say about both the virtues and disadvantages of work:

"When a great many people are unable to find work, unemployment results."—Calvin Coolidge.

"The more one works, the more willing one is to work."—Lord Chesterfield.

"I go on working for the same reason that a hen goes on laying eggs."—H. L. Mencken.

"Wanting to work is so rare a merit that it should be encouraged."—Abraham Lincoln.

"I like work; it fascinates me. I can sit and look at it for hours."—Jerome K. Jerome.

"It is the first of all problems for a man to find out what kind of work he is to do in this universe."—Thomas Carlyle.

"There is no trade or employment but the young man following it may become a hero."—Walt Whitman.

"But till we are built like angels—with hammer and chisel and pen, we will work for ourself and a woman, for ever and over, Amen."—Rudyard Kipling.

HAS A CHANCE?
"Work is something you want to get done; play is something you just like to be doing."—Harry Leon Wilson.

"Any man who has a job has a chance."—Elbert Hubbard.

"For men must work, and women must weep, and there's little to earn, and many to keep."—Charles Kingsley.

"The more we work, the more we may; it makes no difference in our pay."—British war song.

"Great is work which lends dignity to man."—Babylonian Talmud.

"Work is the inevitable condition of human life, the true sources of human welfare."—Leo Tolstoy.

"There is no real wealth but the labor of man."—Percy Shelley.

"It is only by the labor of workmen that states grow rich."—Pope Leo XIII.

"All work, even cotton-spinning, is noble; work is alone noble."—Carlyle.

"Work is for the birds."—Popular saying.

"The workers are the saviors of society, the redeemers of the race."—Eugene V. Debs.

"Laboring men count the clock oftenest."—John Webster.

"My destiny is solitude, and my life is work."—Richard Wagner.

"He who labors as he prays lifts his heart to God with his hands."—St. Bernard.

"The laborer forgotten when the sweat dries."—Japanese proverb.

"There is no real wealth but the labor of man."—Percy Shelley.

Road Toll Hits 22 as City Man Dies

By The Associated Press

Twenty-two persons, including a 50-year-old Pontiac man, have been killed on Michigan highways over the Labor Day weekend. The state is running up the second highest traffic death toll in the nation.

The Pontiac victim, Charles W. Rash of 58 E. Rutgers, was killed yesterday when his car, parked along New Haven Road in Macomb County's Lenox Township, was hit by another car.

Some 409 persons were dead early today as the result of auto accidents across the nation.

But cool weather has apparently kept people out of the water, and only one drowning death has been reported so far in Michigan.

The Associated Press count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight tonight.

James D. de Guire, 18, of Riverview and Mary Elaine Theresa Martenette, 19, of Wyandotte, whose car was hit broadside while making a left turn off U.S. 24 in Wayne County's Brownstown Township yesterday.

Patsy Robinson, 39, of Detroit, who was hit by a car Saturday night on Detroit's Northwest Side.

Gary Lynn Locke, 18, of Albion, who was drowned Saturday night after his car left a road in Eaton County's Brookfield Township and plunged into Narrow Lake.

Ronald Lee Allen, 30, of Dearborn, Heights, whose motorcycle collided with a car Saturday night on Ford Road at Artesian in Detroit.

Sheila Jones, 9, of Detroit, who was hit by a car Saturday night on Detroit's East Side.

Matilda Hefty, 63, of Detroit, who walked in front of a car Saturday in Livonia.

Frank V. Crimi, 51, of Flint, in a head-on collision with another vehicle on Dort Highway in Flint Saturday.

Jimmy C. Stewart, 22, of Madison Heights, when struck by a car on 175 in Monroe Friday night.

Other highway fatalities were: Robert Eckheart, 27, of Muskegon. William Frederick Koenig, 54, of rural Hillsdale.

Keith Trimmer, 6 months, of Holland. Ludwig Rosenthal, 68, of northeast Grand Rapids.

Chester Dobler, 55, of rural Sterling. Richard Weaver, 14, of rural Homer.

Robert Seger, 17, of Hastings. Clifford Carlton, 23, of Manistee.

Chester Perry Jr., 29, of Grass Lake. Auralee Johnson, 3, of Churchbridge, Ont.

Thomas E. Sharp, 25, of rural Rapids. John L. Marr, 16, of Grass Lake Township.

Benton L. Taylor, 40, of Flint, drowned when he either stepped into a hole or was toppled by the strong current while fishing in the Flint River yesterday 10 miles northeast of Flint.

LABOR DAY

The tremendous advance in our technology as symbolized by the progress from the smithy to the vast complex of today's steel mill is dwarfed by the giant step taken by labor in less than 100 years.

Labor Day was unheard of prior to 1882, and it was not until 1894 that Congress passed a bill making Labor Day a national holiday.

UAW Strike Deadline Ominously Near

Federal Mediator Joins Talks

DETROIT (AP) — The federal government's No. 1 mediator joined Ford Motor Co. and United Auto Workers negotiators at the bargaining table today as the deadline for a strike drew ominously near.

With less than three days to go until the Wednesday midnight strike deadline, the two sides remained deadlocked in negotiations over a new contract for some 160,000 UAW members on Ford's payroll.

After seven hours of apparently fruitless bargaining yesterday, UAW President Walter Reuther announced that William Simkin, director of the U.S. Mediation and Conciliation Service, would sit in on the talks as an observer.

Reuther said Ford joined the union in extending the invitation to Simkin.

President Johnson told a news conference last week that he hoped a strike could be averted because any walkout costs the nation's economy something.

Just what Simkin's role will be was not made clear, but Reuther said he did not regard the step as government intervention in the negotiations.

Malcolm Denise, Ford vice-president for labor relations, said he "found nothing to nourish my inherent optimism" in yesterday's talks.

And Reuther declared that there was still time to avert a strike but it will require "a high measure of will which at present is not there."

The UAW strike strategy would be to continue on the job at Ford's chief competitors among the automotive Big Three — General Motors and Chrysler — while shutting down Ford assembly lines just as 1968 models are scheduled to appear in showrooms.

PLANS VIRTUALLY COMPLETED

Plans have virtually been completed to close up Ford's giant River Rouge manufacturing complex Thursday.

James Rooney, financial secretary of UAW Local 600, said planning for the walkout was completed yesterday at a meeting of staff members of the local.

It is presumed that the shutdown would last six to 10 weeks, he said.

Viet Military Gets Only Third of Vote in Win

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's military ticket won the presidential election yesterday as expected, but 10 civilian states were holding Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky to only a third of the vote as the count neared completion.

Thieu, the soft-spoken, 44-year-old lieutenant general who has shared power for the past two years with Air Marshal Ky, had said he would be satisfied with 40 per cent of the vote.

Thieu's flamboyant vice presidential running mate, who will be 37 next Saturday, had expressed confidence that the military ticket would get more votes than all the civilians combined.

Thieu and all the civilians except one campaigned for new peace overtures toward Hanoi.

Thieu's strongest opponent proved to be the most outspoken pleader for peace and critic of the military regime, Truong Dinh Dzu, a dynamic 56-year-old lawyer.

FRAUD CHARGED

Dzu charged the election of Thieu and Ky was fraud. He said he would present his allegations to the Constituent Assembly Friday.

SPOKESMAN REPLIES

There was no comment from Thieu and Ky, but a spokesman in the premier's office said: "If there had been fraud we would have had a bigger margin."

"During the campaign Mr. Dzu has made several charges, but none of them were true."

With 90 per cent of the vote unofficially tabulated, Thieu had 1,435,136 votes, Dzu 689,322, ex-Premier Tran Van Huong 454,121, speaker of the Constitution Assembly Phan Khoe Sun 365,213 and another 1,163,000 were cast for the other seven presidential candidates or were ruled invalid.

Bridge Is Laid to Block Blaze

By The Associated Press

The U.S. Army and Forest Service workers are laying a 425-foot pontoon bridge across the Kootenai River in north Idaho in an effort to head off a roaring forest fire in the northwest.

Yesterday, a blaze, some 38 miles long and covering 78,000 acres stopped about 10 miles south of the Canadian border as winds shifted and turned it back into already burned areas.

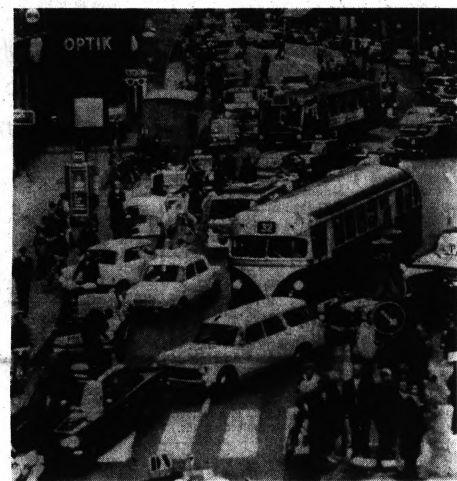

Pockets of missed timber were quickly destroyed.

The fire had come within three miles of Bonners Ferry, Idaho, a community of 2,000 persons, when the strong winds changed its direction.

The bridge will be used to aid mobilization in the fire fighting work, supplementing cross-river traffic which now is handled by a sidewheel ferry boat.

REINFORCEMENTS ORDERED

The Forest Service has ordered 1,900 experienced fire fighters from around the country into the Idaho Panhandle to bolster a force of 1,500 men already on fire lines.

ALL RIGHT, EVERYBODY! — It's 5 a.m. yesterday and the setting is Kings Street in downtown Stockholm, the very minute Sweden made its long-awaited change from driving on the left to driving on the right. Swedes turned out by the thousands on highways to test their country's new driving regulations. The resulting traffic jams had a holiday flavor.

House in Waterford Scene of Fatal Fire

Fire at a home on Cass Lake, rented by a group of young persons from Detroit, killed one of them early this morning.

Waterford Township police said the blaze started about 2:30 a.m. at 4693 Charest, Waterford Township, when some of the group tried to feed a fire in a fireplace with gasoline.

Dead is Eugene J. Gray, 24, of Detroit. He was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital.

In satisfactory condition with burns on the legs and arms is Timothy O'Callaghan, 24.

Police said some members of the group were pouring gasoline out of a can and into a glass to feed the fire. The flames flashed back and started the car burning.

CAN DROPPED

O'Callaghan apparently tried to carry the burning can out of the building but it dropped and spilled in a front room, police said.

Damage to the building was confined, mainly, to the front room area.

Weather Will Stay on the Sunny Side

Sunny skies will complete the holiday and are expected to continue the next few days.

The forecast is for temperatures ranging between the normal highs of 74 to 79 and the normal lows of 52 to 57.

The outlook for the latter part of the week is cooler.

Gray was killed when others tried to awaken him and lead him out of the building. He apparently became confused and dashed into the flaming part of the building, police said.

The home is owned by Jared Vorhees of 4685 Charest.

There were five men and two women occupying the building last night, according to police.

51 Linked to Plot on Nasser

CAIRO (AP) — Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, Egypt's former vice president and army commander, is under arrest and headed for court-martial along with 50 other army officers accused of plotting against President Gamal Abdel Nasser, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram confirmed today.

Amer, 47, helped overthrow King Farouk in 1952 and had been Nasser's closest associate for years.

Former Defense Minister Shams Badran was among those arrested, the newspaper said in confirming rumors that the arrests were made Aug. 25. No date for the military trials was given.

Egyptian authorities have refused any official comment.

A. Ahram indicated all those arrested had been fired from the army after Egyptian forces were routed by Israeli troops in the Sinai Desert in the June 5-10 war. It added that Amer was deprived of both the vice presidency and the army command, although at the time it was officially stated that he resigned.

REINSTATEMENT DEMAND

Amer insisted that he should be reinstated to both posts, Al Ahram said, whereas Nasser was prepared to reinstate him only to the vice presidency. Amer was replaced as army commander by Lt. Gen. Mohamed Fawzi on June 11.

Al Ahram reported that Amer had sheltered wanted senior officers at his villa and was plotting to force Nasser to reinstate his top followers and release all army and air force officers under arrest since the Egyptian defeat. Amer is confined to his villa in the Cairo suburb of Giza.

Although rumors of the plot and the arrests had circulated for a week, life continued normally in Cairo and the rest of Egypt. There was no sign of increased force since the June war, which include the station of armed guards on all public buildings, bridges and other key points.
