Stern Warning Is Issued Against Hoodlumism Here

Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum issued a stern warning that he "would not tolerate hoodlumism, gang fights or bullying by teenagers" Saturday when he arraigned a 17-year-old youth on two counts of disorderly-fighting and assault and battery.

Accused with a 16-year-old boy of "terribly beating" another 16-year-old, Gerald N. Hortick of 48 Bennett St., demanded examination and was released on bond, pending the hearing Mar. 17.

"Parents shouldn't allow this condition to exist; someone should stop it. It ought to be stopped before it gets out of hand like in other cities," said McCallum.

"If no one does, I'll stop it, myself, even if I have to get down from this bench to do it," he added.

Fire Damages Township Plant

Blaze Levels Portions of Christopher Building on Stabley Road

A fire of unknown origin leveled two sections of the Christopher Industries Inc. plant at 415 Stabley Rd., Pontiac Township Sunday afternoon.

Pontiac Township Fire Department fought the blaze for 2½ hours, and three walls fell in the sheet metal and frame building before the fire was extinguished. Damage has not yet been determined, but a rough estimate put it at between $10,000 and $15,000.

The plant, where used oil drums are cleaned and repainted, contained some 15 to 20 machines, about half of which were destroyed, according to John Christopher of Lake Orion, co-owner of the business with William Christopher of Royal Oak.

Pontiac Township Fire Chief Carl Schingel said that neighbors turned in the alarm about noon Sunday when they saw smoke issuing from the building. He said the dry cleaning fluid used in reconditioning the oil barrels was not inflammable, but about 100 gallons of lacquer burned, along with spraying equipment and machinery.

The 60x60 foot, one-story building was constructed in three sections, and two of these sections were leveled, Schingel said. There was no indication of the cause of the fire, but much of the blaze was centered around the boiler room area.

Three women told police that Hortick and Bill Wilson, 16, of 83 Putnam St., threw Keeler to the ground and started kicking him in the ribs, face and head.

When one of the women stopped her car and attempted to stop the fight, she said Hortick yelled profanities at her and hurled a rock smashing her car window. She said Hortick threatened, also, to beat her up. The women signed a complaint against Hortick, charging him with disorderly-fighting. Wilson was turned over to juvenile authorities for further action.

Keeler was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for injuries to the head, chest and face after police transferred the boy to the hospital.

Police said they captured Hortick and Wilson at a nearby hangout corner following a brief chase on foot.

Millard Choice for Army Post

Wilson Says Stevens Wants Ex-State Official for Adams' Job

DETROIT (AP)—Defense Secretary Wilson says former Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank G. Millard has "the inside track" to succeed John G. Adams as Army general counsel.

Adams, a central figure in the Army-McCarthy hearings last summer, has resigned effective March 31.

"I'm not sure whether he (Millard) actually has been appointed or not," Wilson said yesterday, "but I do know that Army Secretary Stevens has talked to him about it."

Stevens refused to comment when reached in Washington.

Defense and Army officials, however, said they understood Millard was one of a number of men "under consideration." They said Millard had visited Washington last week to discuss the matter, but no decision had been reached.

Millard said at Flint, before departing with his wife for a Florida vacation Sunday, that likelihood of his appointment came as "a surprise" to him.

Millard, a Republican, was defeated in his bid for a third term as state attorney general last fall by Democrat Thomas M. Kavanagh.

Millard is 63 years old. He is a native of Corona and a graduate of the University of Michigan. He served in both world wars and was Flint city attorney from 1927 to 1934.

GM Leads Industry in Automobile Sales

DETROIT (AP)—The trade paper Automotive News reported today that 5,335,464 new passenger cars were sold at retail last year.

The tabulation shows General Motors accounted for 2,806,595 and Ford 1,706,617 of the retail deliveries. This was an increase of 5.63 per cent for GM and 5.68 per cent for Ford over 1953 deliveries.

The extent of the Chrysler decline is shown in 714,347 deliveries for 1954 against 1,165,357 in 1953.

In percentages the report credits GM with 50.70 per cent of 1954 retail deliveries; Ford 30.83 and Chrysler 12.50. In 1954 the percentages were GM 45.07; Ford 25.15; Chrysler 29.30.

By individual makes the report shows this standing of the first 10: Chevrolet, 1,417,453; Ford 1,400,440; Buick 513,497; Olds 407,150; Plymouth 381,078; Pontiac 358,167; Mercury 269,526; Dodge 154,789; Cadillac 110,328; Chrysler 101,741.

GM, Union Map Plans for Parley on New Contract

Guaranteed Wage Issue May Be Toughest Goal for UAW Negotiators

DETROIT (AP)—CIO United Auto Workers officials sat down today with General Motors Corp. to outline negotiations for what could be the UAW's toughest goal—a guaranteed 52 weeks pay each year.

With some 600,000 workers from the auto industry's big three hanging in the balance, the UAW has threatened to strike if necessary to gain the guaranteed annual wage (GAW).

With General Motors' contract expiring first today's meeting was set up to determine the size of negotiating teams, where and when meetings will be held and countless details.

Both sides are aware that 350,000 GM workers could leave their jobs anytime after May 29.

A similar Ford-UAW meeting will begin Wednesday in Detroit. Ford's union contract, involving 135,000 workers, expires June 1. Chrysler, with 115,000 workers, rides on its contract until Aug. 31 and hopes the strife may be over by then.

The union has indicated it will hand details of its GAW demand to the big three this week. However, actual bargaining with GM is expected to start April 11—a week after Ford opens formal negotiations.

As a prelude to actual contract talks, the UAW will hold its annual convention starting March 27 in Cleveland. There, delegates are expected to overwhelmingly approve a 25-million-dollar strike fund.

Rejects First Challenge

Satan senses defeat as Christ rejects his first challenge.

The Life of Christ

Satan Faces First Defeat, Turns Attack to Jesus' Soul

(In yesterday's installment Bishop Sheen pointed out the lesson for our world today, in the way Christ resisted temptation. The Bishop also stressed the difference between Satan's temptation of man and of Christ. Man's three temptations are those of the flesh (lust), the mind (pride), and of things (avarice). To Christ's first temptation, to become a social reformer by giving bread to the multitudes, Our Lord replied in detachment, "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by the word of God." And because Satan suspected Jesus of being God's son, he prefaced each of Jesus' temptations with the conditional "If thou be the Son of God..." etc.)

By BISHOP FULTON J. SHEEN

Our Lord does not deny that men must be fed, or that social justice must be preached, but He asserts that these things are not first. He is saying to Satan: "You tempt Me to a religion which would relieve want; you want Me to be a Baker, instead of a Saviour; to be a social reformer, instead of a Redeemer."

"You are tempting Me away from My Cross, suggesting that I be a cheap leader of people, filling their bellies, instead of their souls; you would have Me begin with security instead of ending with it; you would have Me bring outer abundance, instead of inner holiness."

"You and your materialists say: 'Man lives by bread alone,' but I say to you: 'Not by bread alone.' Bread there must be, but remember that even bread gets all of its power to feed from Me. Bread without Me can harm man, and I refuse to hold any theory about security, apart from the Word of God, even though I must go hungry."

"If I give bread alone, then even dogs shall come to My Banquet. Those who believe in Me must hold (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

County chairman for the past two years, Wilson said he felt it necessary to resign the position in order to have adequate time for the regional function.

Ritchie is a former Birmingham mayor and has been assistant chairman and treasurer of the county group the last two years.

Petitions Aim to Block New Developments

Pontiac Voters League Action May Necessitate Special Election

The Pontiac Voters League, a recently formed organization comprised chiefly of Pontiac property-owners, yesterday began circulating petitions for an ordinance to ban additional public housing developments in the city.

Attorney John W. Bell, spokesman for the organization, today said 1,400 signatures were obtained yesterday.

Should the required number of valid signatures (roughly 2,100, based on last spring's municipal election) be obtained, the City Commission would be obliged to 1) put the proposed ordinance up to a vote at a special election, or, 2) pass the ordinance.

If the commission decides to put the proposal to a vote, a special election would be necessary because the deadline to put the proposal on the April 4 ballot has passed. The city charter requires an election be held within 30 days after the Commission acknowledges such petitions.

The proposed ordinance states, in part: "Neither the City Commission, city manager, Pontiac Housing Commission... shall establish or in any manner negotiate, assist or cooperate in the establishment of additional public housing rental units in the City of Pontiac..."

Bell said the league, formed four weeks ago, opposes further public housing for these reasons: "1—it seriously affects property values wherever it is placed. "2—it discourages home ownership by the tenants. "3—it puts a premium on low wages."

The group decided to circulate the petitions after last week's City Commission meeting because "no definite site for a new public housing development was mentioned," Bell said.

He added that "continued surveying and other activity at East Blvd. and Michigan Ave." were also factors in the move.

Membership runs well into the hundreds and the league's organizational committee is comprised of 87 persons from all seven city districts, the attorney said.

He said that although the group first formed in opposition to erecting a public housing development at East Blvd. and Michigan, it now stands opposed to public housing in any section of the city.

"As Commissioner (Harry W.) Lutz said, no commissioner wants it in his district. This committee, made up of members from every district, feels the same way," Bell said.

"If the purpose of public housing is slum clearance, they aren't going to do it with this. The Lakeside Homes project has resulted in no slums being torn down, as far as we have heard."

Bell said the voters league will (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Gunman Invades British Embassy

Soviet Guard Wounded Before Aides Disarm Intruder in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—A husky gunman shot his way into the British Embassy last night, seriously wounding a Russian police guard who tried to stop him.

The fur-hatted Russian intruder was overpowered and disarmed by two unarmed British Embassy attaches after he had forced his way upstairs to the living quarters of Ambassador Sir William and Lady Hayter.

Sir William and Lady Hayter were in the country skiing at the time. They returned just as the gunman was being handed over to Russian police.

No motivation for the armed invasion of the embassy could be learned.

This dispatch was telephoned from Moscow to London. The call was broken at this point by an operator who said in Russian: "There will be no more on this call for the present."

Prepare for Salk Polio Immunization in County

Plans for administering the Salk polio vaccine to some 33,000 Oakland County children were revealed today by Dr. John D. Monroe, county health director.

Pending a report from the University of Michigan on results of last year's tests of the vaccine, all plans for the project are on a contingent basis.

If the vaccine is found to be of value in preventing polio, Dr. Monroe said these steps will be taken:

1. Request forms, along with letters to parents explaining the vaccine program, will be given to all Oakland County children in the first and second grades. Parents who wish their children to have the vaccine will fill out and sign the request cards, returning them to the school.
2. Clinic dates will be set up, staffed by the county health department, volunteer physicians and workers of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Three shots are required for immunization; the second one week after the first, and the third four weeks after the second.
3. The clinics will be scheduled during school hours in outlying districts, but Saturday clinics are planned in more heavily populated areas.

Dr. Monroe outlined a huge program now under way which includes procurement and sterilization of supplies, packaging of materials needed at the clinics, and arrangements for doctors, nurses and volunteer workers to aid in the immunizations.

The vaccine is being supplied by the National Foundation, the health director explained. The program will be available to virtually every first and second grade pupil in the county, with the exception of children whose parents decline to give their permission.

Approximately 33,000 children are in this group, excluding some 8,000 who received the vaccine in last year's tests. The other half of last year's test group, who received shots of sterile water to provide a control for the experiment, will also be eligible to receive the vaccine.

Although no official report on last year's test of nearly a half-million children across the nation has been issued, most of those working on the tabulations are optimistic.

In Oakland County, one of 16 Michigan counties in which tests were conducted last year, the health department, medical society, school boards and polio foundation are cooperating in preparations for the vaccinations.

"We only hope," Dr. Monroe said, "that the report is released soon. Unless we can begin giving the shots by April 25, we will be seriously handicapped because of the fact that children will be out of school before the final shots of the series are administered."

'Doctor' Is Held for Arraignment

St. Clair Shores Man Impersonated MD for Theft Spree

A 26-year-old St. Clair Shores man, who told Pontiac Police he used his acting experience to foster a theft spree while impersonating a doctor was held today for circuit court arraignment March 21.

Held under $2,500 bail is Peter M. Roark of 22909 Gary Lane. He was caught by a St. Joseph Mercy Hospital orderly Friday as Roark was leaving the surgical room.

In police custody, Roark admitted to Dr. James Bale that he took $145 from a doctor's pocket book at the hospital. He gained entry to the room after he announced "I'm Doctor Patterson from Detroit."

In less than an hour, Bale drew admissions of thefts, committed by Roark from four other hospitals. Police in Detroit and Grosse Pointe ordered "holds" on Roark after reviewing their records of reported thefts from Receiving, Harper, Deaconess and Bon Secours hospitals.

Roark, who also models for several advertising agencies, gave his occupation as bank teller with the Detroit branch of the Michigan State Bank. He told Bale he had spent a long period in hospital corridors studying a "perfect" system in which he would not be caught. Police figure the thefts involve some $3,000.

From his cell in Oakland County Jail, Roark declared, "I'm just a ham at heart."

Distribution of Food to Needy Planned

A program of government surplus food distribution to needy persons will begin here soon, Hubert Earl, supervisor of the Oakland County Social Welfare Commission, said today.

"While the program is not yet in operation, it is being worked out by the welfare department in conjunction with the state, and we hope to see it started in mid-April," Earl stated.

He said the project is similar to the one now operating in Detroit. Government-stored foodstuffs such as canned meat, butter, cheese, shortening, beans, potatoes and dried milk are now included on the welfare menu, but this is subject to change, he said.

If program procedures here parallel Detroit's, Earl said food will be distributed to designated stores where it can be picked up once each month by those entitled to assistance.

Needy persons will receive identification cards, enabling them to obtain the groceries.

Among 100 persons initiated into the Order of Alpha here yesterday was Lt. Gov. Philip A. Hart, of Birmingham.

"The order is an American Hellenic organization dedicated to the purpose of promoting a better understanding of the American ideals and aims among the Greek people in this country and abroad," stated Socrates V. Sekles, supreme treasurer.

Mrs. Philip Hart will be taken into the woman's auxiliary, known as the Daughters of Penelope, said Sekles.

Southern Area Buried in Hail; 2 Persons Die

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A violent hailstorm failed a five-county area in South Carolina last night, killing a 60-year-old man and a 3-year-old girl who were trapped when a concrete-block house was blown in.

The storm, which dumped 5 inches of hail at Batesburg and 4 inches at York, occurred on the leading edge of the cool air mass which brought seasonal normal temperatures back to most of the country today.

The violent wind caused extensive property damage and the blanket of hail blocked several miles of U.S. Highway No. 1.

The cold air lowered temperatures 10 to 20 degrees from yesterday in the East and over the Rocky Mountains; scattered showers and snow flurries over the Northwest, northern Great Lakes and New England; and numerous thunderstorms and showers in the South and East. Generally precipitation was light, but Charlotte, N.C., got .52 of an inch and Pulaski, Va., .33.

Jesus Turns Down Devil's 1st Challenge that faith, even when they are hungry, starved, weak, in prison, scourged, and even rotting in your Soviet prisons.

"I am hungry! I have not eaten for forty days, but I refuse to become a mere ethical reformer by catering to the economic and to pleasure and satiety. Say not that I am disinterested in social justice, for I am feeling now the hunger of the world. My stomach groans with the starving, crawling wrecks of humanity. That is why I fasted, that they can never say God does not know what hunger is. Begone Satan! I am not like some well-fed reformer who says: 'By bread alone.' I refuse any plan which will make me richer without making them holier. Remember! I, who say: 'Not by bread alone,' have not tasted bread in forty days!"

Satan, having failed to win Our Lord away from His Cross and Redemption by turning Him into a Communist commissar promising bread, now turns the attack upon His Spirit and His Soul. Seeing that Our Lord refuses to subscribe to the belief that man is a stomach, as he is for some economists, Satan now tempts Him to pride and egotism. As a symbol of that vanity, the devil takes Him to a lofty pinnacle of the temple and says to Him:

"Cast Thyself down from this to the earth."

Then, quoting Scripture, he continues:

"For it is written He shall give His angels charge concerning Thee, to keep Thee safe."

And they will hold Thee up with their hands, Lest Thou should chance to trip on a stone."

Satan is here saying: "Why take the long and tedious way to win mankind, through the shedding of blood, the mounting of a Cross, through being despised and rejected, when you can take the short cut by a prodigy? You have affirmed Your trust in God. Very well! If you really trust, do something heroic!"

"Prove faith, not by going to a Cross in obedience to God's Will, but by flinging Yourself down. You will never win people to Yourself with sublime truths about Your Divinity preached from church steeples and pinnacles."

"The masses cannot follow You; they are too far below. Clothe Yourself with wonders! Throw Yourself down from the pinnacle and then stop just before You hit bottom! It is the spectacular that people want, not the Divine. People are bored! Relieve the monotony of life and their jaded spirits, but leave their guilty consciences alone!"

Flier Disowns Wedding Rumor

Townsend Denies Hint Margaret Has Decided to Marry Him

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UP)—Group Capt. Peter Townsend said today that as far as he knows Princess Margaret has made no decision to marry him.

The 40-year-old divorced air hero issued his statement through the press section of the British Embassy here, where Townsend is air attaché.

In the statement Townsend referred to a previous report quoting him as saying he and a "certain lady" would accept exile if necessary.

"This implies that Princess Margaret has decided to marry me," his statement continued. "The princess has made no such decision known to me, nor have I any reason to believe she has made such a decision."

Townsend yesterday repudiated the "exile" comment as "pure invention." It was first published in the Sydney (Australia) Sun-Herald, which announced it had fired the correspondent who reported the interview with the man who has been widely rumored as the vivacious princess' choice for her husband.

In Britain, meanwhile, Anglican Bishop Alfred Blunt, who two decades ago warned King Edward VIII against marrying a divorcee, urged yesterday that Margaret abandon any plan to wed the divorced RAF officer.

At ceremonies yesterday, the Public Housing Ban Sought Here

"watch the Commission like a hawk" and if further action is attempted on public housing, an injunction will be sought to block it.

The Commission in January unanimously passed a resolution declaring a need for additional public housing units existed and instructing the Housing Commission to negotiate with the Federal Housing Authority for reopening an old contract for a 300-unit development.

The Commission kept for itself the decision as to site. At an informal meeting with the Housing Commission about a month later, three potential sites were suggested.

One was reportedly on East Blvd. and Michigan, another on Franklin Road and a third on Kennett Road. No action has been taken on any site.

Last week, a motion by Commissioner Floyd P. Miles (District 4) to kill additional public housing lost by a 4-3 vote. Supporting Miles were Commissioners Lutz (7) and Harcourt (2).

Voting to keep public housing alive were Mayor William W. Donaldson (3) and Commissioners John A. Dugan (5), Roy V. Cooley (1) and John E. Carry (6).

Following the vote, the matter was tabled indefinitely for further study.

Here's Another "Bonanzagram" Have Fun! Win $100!

"Bonanzagram" is an exciting new puzzle in which the Pontiac Press offers both fun and a $100 cash prize. BUT before you try your hand at "Bonanzagram" be sure and read the rules at the bottom of this page. Solution will appear in the Press March 25. (Solution to "Bonanzagram" No. 1 will be published March 18).

Claim Check

Below is a duplicate of the "Bonanzagram" entry you send in to contest headquarters. It is ESSENTIAL that you fill it in and save it until the correct solution to "Bonanzagram" No. 2 is published Friday, March 25. Unless you do so, you will be unable to collect the prize if you should send in a winning solution. Check the rules below for further details.

Bonanzagram No. 2

The spy was caught red-handed with state papers of a highly secret nature concealed inside a specially constructed belt. With the papers was a strange note, in some sort of code with missing letters. It indicated the existence of a spy ring. The FBI man who studied this note was able to reconstruct it and to arrest the jaunty and ingenious ring-leader that very evening. Can you, too, figure out the information by filling in the missing letters in the note?

Clues may also be found in the message itself, and in a few cases, the contestant's general knowledge should provide the correct letter. The contestant will note that the message is unpunctuated.

ated. Proper punctuation is one of the important keys to a correct solution.

When properly filled in, the "Bonanzagram" will spell out a clear message that will conform in every way with the clues. In many cases it will seem that more than one word would be the correct one. That's part of the fun! You should weigh the clues and select the BEST possible word in each case.

Mimeograph, duplicator or other unofficial mechanical reproduction is forbidden.

How to Collect the Prize

The entrant must work out and keep duplicate solution as a claim check. When the solution is published in the Press, he should compare his "claim check" with the published solution, and, if his claim check is identical, he should call in person with his claim check at the Press office, 48 W. Huron St., before 5 p.m. on the Monday following publication of the solution.

If a winner cannot call at the Press office in person, he should mail his solution to "Bonanzagram Editor," Postmark on this letter must be not later than 5 p.m. the Monday after publication of the answer. Correct answers are void unless the contestant reports his claim by the deadlines listed here.

4. Only one winning entry from a family will be eligible for the prize.
5. The Press retains the right to correct typographical errors.

Nehru Attacker in Mental Ward

Police Testing Sanity of Rickshaw Puller; Seek Associates

NAGPUR, India (U)—A 32-year-old rickshaw puller charged with attempting to murder Prime Minister Nehru was reported under observation today in a mental hospital.

Babu Rao Laxman Kachale leaped on Nehru's automobile here Saturday with a six-inch knife. The 65-year-old Prime Minister pushed the man away and police arrested him at once.

Officials said further action would be decided after the mental report.

One newspaper reported Babu Rao had told police his action was "the only way" to draw attention to his own personal difficulties. It did not say what he meant by this. Police also were reported seeking past associates of Babu Rao. He is a native of western India's Maharashtra region. A man from the same region was hanged for having a part in the assassination of Mohandas K. Gandhi in 1948. Nehru was untroubled by the occurrence, which he termed of "no significance." He flew back to New Delhi yesterday in high spirits.

Railroad Blast Slows Shriners

Switch on NYC Tracks in Indiana Dynamited; to Quiz Union Officials

YORKTOWN, Ind. (U)—A trainload of Indianapolis Shriners was delayed several hours today on the homeward trip from Detroit by the dynamiting of a switch.

The chartered New York Central train of nine cars, rolling at 10 miles an hour after a warning from an automatic device, was halted after the engine and four cars passed over the 2½-foot break in one rail. No one was hurt.

The rail was blasted at a switch leading from the main line to a strikebound warehouse at 11:02 p.m., 13 minutes before the train was due.

Sheriff W. Pete Anthony of Delaware County said he planned to question officials of the AFL Teamsters Union, which struck the warehouse of Marsh Foodliners, a retail grocery chain, two weeks ago.

There was no comment from the union immediately.

The engine and the four cars which passed over the break continued on to Muncie, nine miles away, several hours later, with all the passengers.

Hopes Reds Will Aid in Disarmament Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U)—Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. says the United States still hopes the Soviets will cooperate in the disarmament negotiations now under way "but it is a hard road."

Lodge, chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations, returned last night from the five-power arms talks going on in London since Feb. 25. His deputy James J. Wadsworth remained.

Lodge's brief statement, issued by the U. S. delegation, did not say whether the talks are making any progress. The Soviet Union at the U. N. Assembly last fall had joined the West in sponsoring the proposal that the negotiations be held.

Says Reducing Helps People Live Longer

DALLAS (U)—A professor says reducing can help people live longer too.

Dr. Eugene Stead Jr., Duke University professor of medicine, said yesterday eating is one of the ways of reducing emotional tension. When emotional tension is not relieved by eating, symptoms of anxiety will develop, he said. Stead was here to address the Dallas Southern Clinical Society annual conference.

The Greek ship messaged last night that she was going down off Stilo Cape. That was the last word from her.

Lloyd's Register lists no Greek ship of the name Jason.

Ty Power Recaptures Fan

By PHYLIS BATTELLE
 NEW YORK (INS) — Between the years 1936 and 1938 a select group of male movie stars, including Messrs. T. Power, E. Flynn and B. Crosby, received a number of rapturous letters from an impressionable girl — not one gushy line of which they found worthy of response.

I was downright hurt. Being at the age of incision, however, I let them cut me. And kept asking for more. Finally I issued an ultimatum to Mr. Flynn to the effect that either he replied to this letter, or I wasn't writing anymore. He didn't, and I was broken up, but through!

That day, Errol, I became an adult. All this is leading up to the fact that I slipped back 17 years the other gloomy afternoon and paid a call on the youngest of the once-idolized triumvirate, Tyronne Power.

Standing before the skinny five-story house he is renting here while his new play "The Dark is Light Enough" runs on Broadway, I resolved not to bring up the touchy subject of why he didn't write, not at once. Get him to feel relaxed and easy first, I thought. Talk about the estranged wife and kiddies.

"How do you do?" The words were amiable and gently-spoken, but the man himself looked strangely sinister. Unlike the gangling clean-shaven boy of my (and his) youth, he now has a black beard under his brooding eyes.

"Tough to grow?" I inquired and, being an intuitive man, he knew immediately what I referred to.

"No, I grow them easily," he said and went on to explain that he sprang this one in two weeks, out of necessity because greasepaint beads tend to come off in kissing scenes. People often ask if it tickles, and I always say, "Well it doesn't tickle me."

The subject of his wife came up quite naturally at this point. She is Linda Christian, the curvaceous, controversial figure who latched onto some gift jewels worth about $130,000 and is fighting legally to hold them, although the young man who gave them to her is in hock.

"Well," said Ty, paling slightly under his bristles, "I hate to see anybody get themselves mixed up in any trouble. But I'm afraid I can't assume any responsibility for Linda's problems. We are separated, you know, and she hasn't asked for help or advice — so I haven't offered any."

Having disposed of the homier topics, we turned to movies. "Oh, undoubtedly the best film I've ever made is 'The Long Gray Line,' now showing at the Capitol Theater, Broadway and 51st street," he said. And at other theaters, coast to coast? I asked. "Yes, indeed," said Mr. Power and grinned.

Confessing I hadn't seen "The Long Gray Line" yet, I said my favorite Power production was "Lloyds of London" in '36. He glowed. "Imagine, you remembering that," he said. "I wouldn't have thought you were allowed to go to movies yet."

This man, readers, is a sharpie. He may be a poor correspondent. He may not be totally honest, and he may have silver threads among the black in his beard — but he's awfully likeable.

I decided then and there not to advise him of my deathly-worried, unanswered fan letters. I would only embarrass him and, after all, that's Linda's job. My duty, as a recaptured fan, is only to bring solace to other unrequited Power admirers of the 1930's. He would have written, honest. Only he was very busy.

(Tomorrow: Miss Battelle reveals an annual spring phenomenon in New York: The big town goes small town.)

Four Killed, Three Hurt as Tank Truck Hits Car

SEAGRAVES, Tex. (AP) — An empty butane-propane truck and a car crashed on a straight stretch of highway near here yesterday. Four were killed and three hurt.

The dead, all in the car: D. L. Reed, Tahoka, Tex.; Charles Wayne Hensley, 19, Levelland; Mrs. Wilma Raye Carrigan, 20, Levelland, and her sister-in-law Mrs. Bonnie Lenore Thompson, 22, Levelland.

Truck driver James Gober, Lubbock, was hurt. His truck skidded 150 feet and jackknifed.

Sweden Jails 10 as Spy Suspects

5 Natives Among Group Believed Working for 2 Communist Countries

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Sweden held 10 persons in jail today in a roundup of the country's third Communist spy ring in four years.

A government announcement said the 10 were suspected of spying for two East European Communist countries. Reliable sources said the countries are Czechoslovakia and Romania.

Under arrest were five Swedes, three Czechs, a Romanian and a German, public prosecutor Werner Rhyninger reported. The prosecutor is expected to ask for the arraignment of some of them early next week.

One of the Swedes was reported to be a worker at the big Karliska armament factories, which are turning out an improved model of the World War II 40mm. Bofors antiaircraft gun.

Informed sources said the Romanian legation was deeply involved in the alleged spy plot and might be closed as a result.

Czechoslovakia's military attaché in Sweden, Cmdr. Frantisek Nemecek, was reported to have left for Prague last Friday.

Rhyninger said the ring was alleged to have participated in "gross military espionage" and in spying on East European refugees in Sweden. Seven persons connected with two previous rings have been sentenced to prison terms in Sweden for postwar spying.

Shortage of Engineers Causing U. S. Concern

Our Government rightly is concerned over the relatively small number of engineering students graduating in the Nation each year.

This year there will be about 27,000 such graduates. Of these 24,000 will win degrees from the 150 institutions with accredited curricula. Among them will be 6,150 mechanical engineers, 5,650 electrical, 4,600 civil, 2,800 chemical and 1,600 industrial.

A chief cause of concern is the fact that the country's engineering force numbers only 500,000, or 100,000 more than the estimated 400,000 in Soviet Russia.

According to the Office of Defense Mobilization, "in the event of an emergency our resources of highly trained manpower will probably be the ultimate factor in our capacity for mobilization."

The Manpower Resources Committee warns "the margin of skilled manpower for expanded war production is extremely narrow in the light of modern requirements."

Another cause of concern is the fact that as many as 50 per cent of high school graduates seeking entrance to engineering schools are found unqualified. One reason for this is the scarcity of good science teachers in high schools from which many able men have been diverted by the higher financial rewards in industry.

What appears to be a shortage of scientists, Secretary of Labor Mitchell says, is in reality a shortage of scientists and of skilled workers needed to back up the scientists.

Addressing the New York Economic Club he emphasized that "upon the depth, breadth and scope of the skills of American artisans may depend the hope of the free world."

Dr. John F. Spring

Few men live 90 years and even fewer practice dentistry for more than 60 years and at the same time acquire wide renown in the field of ornithology.

Yet, that doesn't fully measure the achievements of Dr. JOHN F. SPRING, who until a year ago was one of the country's oldest practicing dentists.

A native of Roseburg, Dr. SPRING was an educator before he was a dentist. After earning a life certificate at the University of Valparaiso, he taught for five years in the rural schools of Sanilac County and at Comber.

From education he turned to dentistry and in 1893 won his DDS degree from the University of Michigan Dental College. Dr. SPRING moved immediately to Pontiac and had practiced here continuously until his retirement in March of last year.

Though he was widely known professionally, Dr. Spring in his later years was able to devote increasing time to the study of birds. His home at Watkins Lake is ideally situated for such study with the result that his illustrated lectures on our feathered friends soon were in great demand.

Besides his profession and hobby, Dr. Spring took an active interest in the work of Central Methodist Church of which he was a charter member. He also was a member of Pontiac Lodge 21 F&AM, the Michigan Dental Society and the Audubon Society.

The passing of this distinguished nonagenarian is a loss to the entire community.

President Asks Revival of Renegotiation Law

A report that President EISENHOWER has asked Congress to extend the renegotiation act for two years is good news for taxpayers.

We are heartily in favor of this proposal though it must be pointed out that the President technically is asking the lawmakers to revive the act in question. That is so because the law died December 31, almost without anyone noticing it.

Some figures go a long way toward explaining how renegotiations can cut the cost of defense contracts. Often when such contracts are let, cost estimates are hurried and sometimes prove to be too high.

During the Truman Administration renegotiation enabled the Government to recover $11 billion in excessive costs from defense contractors. Since then until the law lapsed, between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 a year has been recovered.

No one, not even contractors themselves, should object to a law giving the Government this control over defense costs. Congress should lose no time in re-enacting the renegotiation statute.

When a man asks his wife, "What have I done now?" he's trying to find out which of the many risks he has taken of getting into the doghouse she has found out about.

It TURNED cold so fast in several northern plain states recently that a number of heated arguments were frozen stiff.

The Man About Town $250 in U. S. Bonds

That's the Prize in Annual Baseball Contest; Now Open

Baseball: A spring fever whose temperature gets higher as the season advances.

The 1955 Man About Town Baseball Contest gets under way today. The prize is $250 in U. S. Savings Bonds.

The winner will be the person who submits the nearest correct answer to the following: What player who has been at bat at least 25 times will be leading the American League on the night of Saturday, April 30, and what will be his batting average?

It costs nothing to enter, and every member of your family is eligible to compete, but each entry must be on a separate piece of paper. Pontiac Press employees and members of their immediate families are barred from competing.

You don't have to buy anything, figure out a puzzle, write an essay, complete a limerick or do anything else except to write your prediction, and see that it arrives on time.

All answers must be received in the Pontiac Press office by noon on Saturday, April 9. Every entrant agrees to abide by the decision of the judges, which will be final.

The ladies have been very much in the majority among the winners in this annual contest. In the $1,750 in bonds awarded in prizes since 1948, they have won $1,375. And the winner of $250 of the $375 that went to the male sex admitted that his prediction was based on feminine advice.

Last year the $250 prize was divided between

Mrs. Bernice G. Jozwik of Drayton Plains, and

Robert I. McCormick of 76½ Newberry St. In 1953 it went to

Miss Betty Whitson of 495 Harper Ave. The 1952 winner was

Miss Joyce McQuaid of 129 Osceola Drive. In 1951

Mrs. Loretta Stricklin of 2500 Silver Drive got the bonds, and

Mrs. E. J. Peterman of 38 Murphy Ave., won the 1950 contest. In 1949

Donald Jo Lovse of 142 Cadillac Ave., proved that a mere male can win the whole prize, and in 1948

Mrs. Marie Eggert of 437 North Saginaw St., got the $250.

David Lawrence Says:

Allies' Trade With China Could Lead to Next War

WASHINGTON — Just as the League of Nations was wrecked by the lack of moral courage of its members in facing up to the ship-ment of oil by Mussolini to carry on a war of aggression in Ethiopia in the '30's, so today the United Nations stands before the world frustrated by the acts of its members who permit airplane fuel to be shipped to Red China—aggressor in the Far East.

Sen. John L. McClellan, Democrat, has just issued a statement which deserves world-wide attention. For the able and conscientious senator from Arkansas, speaking as chairman of the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations, emphasizes anew an important point that was also made by Sen. McCarthy, Republican, of Wisconsin, when he was at the head of the same committee last year.

Calling attention to the statistics of the rapid growth during 1954 of "trade between our Allies and the Communist world," Sen. McClellan declares:

"These figures take on even further significance when we note that at this very moment the Finnish tanker, Aruba, is on the high seas with a cargo of jet fuel for Communist China."

"The Finnish government has notified this country that because the vessel is chartered to a company outside its control, it cannot prevent the vessel from proceeding on its way to the Chinese mainland. The company which has chartered this vessel to carry the jet fuel is the Far Eastern Enterprises, Ltd., of the British crown colony of Hong Kong."

"The State Department announced on March 10 that this company is a Chinese Communist-owned company which has its place of business in British Hong Kong. Almost two years ago, during the Korean War, this subcommittee exposed the fact that a number of companies operating vessels out of Hong Kong, vessels which were using the protection of flags of our Western Allies, were companies that were owned and controlled by the Chinese Communists."

"One of the companies we named at that time was this same Far Eastern Enterprises, Ltd., of Hong Kong. Most of these same companies are still operating and this trip of the vessel Aruba dramatizes the price we are paying for the protection the British crown colony of Hong Kong is giving these companies and the failure of our government to do something about this most disgraceful situation."

"In this connection it should be pointed out that a majority of the vessels operated by these companies fly the British flag and thus receive protection from the British fleet in that area... the subcommittee intends to continue its investigation of this deplorable situation."

There are signs that the Department of State is not averse to the exposure as it has probably found itself up against a stone wall in trying to convince the British foreign office that American public opinion is bound to be estranged if the British government puts material interests above humanity and connives with the Communists to let them have fuel for jet airplanes. For this can be used to kill American youth who may be involved at any moment in a resumption of hostilities in Korea or elsewhere in the Far East.

For only an armistice and not a treaty of peace has been signed in Korea and the ban which the United Nations itself has placed on the shipment of strategic materials to the Red Chinese is still in effect. What is most disconcerting is the revelation of how this strategic trade has been carried on even during the Korean War by members of the U.N. who were called upon not to help the aggressor.

It is no wonder that the British government keeps talking about admitting Red China to the U.N. and about giving the offshore islands of Quemoy and the Matsu to the Communists. Many Americans have begun to wonder why,

C. T. Sundquist Would Be More Lenient With Tenants; Says 'They're People, Too'

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer requests unless the letter is critical to the nature.

In answer to Mr. Clark's letter I would like to ask, "Who's destroying your property?" After all, your renters must be paying their rent. The tenant has a right to a few privileges.

A lot of landlords are getting their rent without a certificate of complaint on their buildings and the tenants still pay the rent. After all, this is a free country. If you don't like to stay in the rental business, then get out of it.

Because renters are people, too. What would landlords do without them? I'm against giving tenants six months in the House of Correction for destroying a little bit of property. Who's going to pay the rent while they sit in jail?

Carl T. Sundquist
 66 W. Mansfield

The heading which the Press placed over my recent letter seemed to give the wrong impression to some readers. I was not trying to tell others what they must do. I was trying to find out if any others might provide a solution to my problem, how to avoid having my rental property destroyed. If anyone has any ideas along that line I would appreciate hearing from them.

Letters Disclose Fluoridation Interests

Here are some questions in regard to fluoridation that puzzle me: When anything that affects the city's water supply is so vital, why would any group want to go ahead with it, without a vote of the citizens?

How could all the organizations that were reported as favoring it ever have contacted their membership in so short a time? If it is just their leaders, why was it not so stated?

Why would Pontiac want to try something that has been turned down in other communities? Is there no limit to what taxpayers can pay? We do have several other projects.

Do we all know that the United States Dispensary 24th edition says fluorides are violent poisons?

Should we vote for anything that is so questionable?
 Mrs. Sadie Patten
 41 Augusta

Initially, I was quite impressed by the long list of national and state organizations endorsing this fluoride experiment. However, when an article about Dr. Wertheimer appeared in the Press, it stated that he was not only a member, but also an officer in four of the different organizations favoring treatment of people with fluorides.

No wonder these various groups endorse this project, obviously they are made up of many of the same men, only under different association names.

Claude Breeding
 383 Central Avenue

In 1953 when Cincinnati was preparing to vote on fluorine, Dr. Jonathan Forman opposed it. He was professor of medical history at Ohio State University, editor of the Ohio State Medical Journal, associate editor of the Journal of Geriatrics (dealing with diseases of the aged).

He is past president of the American College of Allergists, president of the "Friends of the Land," a conservation society, and a member of many learned and scientific societies.

With this it would seem that he is quite an important part of the medical world, of which it is claimed that the vast majority of it is so solidly behind this fluoridation.

Dr. Forman said there is not one iota of evidence that fluorine is an essential nutritional element for man, plant or beast.

Motorist Protests Impounding of His Car

On a recent morning my car was "stolen"—by the Pontiac police.

As I came out of my house to go to work, I saw my car going up the street on the back of a tow truck. The truck was within hailing distance, but the driver made a gesture of derision and speeded up, bouncing my car over the ruts and potholes.

I called the police. They informed me that my car was impounded because it was parked on the street for 48 hours.

I am certain there are many occasions when a person leaves his car on a street for more than 48 hours. If a person is sick for two days, what else can he do? But I just happened to be unlucky.

I am poorer by an impounding fee plus towing charge, and all I have to show for it is a mangled front bumper and a damaged transmission (according to factory recommendation, new Hydratics such as mine should not be towed without disconnecting the drive shaft).

My car was parked on a residential street with no posted parking restrictions. Why wasn't I warned, and given a fair chance to move the car?

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
 (International News Service)
 We recommend our present crop of senatorial inquisitors to the methods of Senator Kefauver.

We look back and realize that Estes was Estes and never the twin shall meet. He was smoother than two coats of enamel.

Estes never lost his temper or ruffled his stay-comb. He led 'em to slaughter like Swift and Armour's pet goat.

We don't blame Senator McClellan of Arkansas for getting sorer than a smashed thumb at that fellow Matusow the professional liar.

But Estes would have handled him different. He would have smiled like a fresh-oiled bear trap, asked him a couple of innocent questions and then pulled the string.

I thought you knew the way I felt... I thought you understood... That you were all I ever held... So beautiful and good... But I have heard the wagging tongue... And now I sorely find... That someone is deceiving you... And poisoning your mind... Please do not take for granted, dear... The gossip you have heard... Believe me when I say there is... No truth in any word... I love you, sweet, with all my heart... As always in the past... And I desire you as long... As time and tide will last... It does not matter what they say... The truth is in my heart... That I am yours forever, dear... And may we never part.

CHRIST AND THE THIEF
 "Lord, remember me when Thou comest into Thy kingdom"

Upon his cross The Good Thief's plea... Was merely, "Lord, remember me!"... He did not ask for Christ to save... His life that day from death and grave... Or that some miracle be wrought... To grant the favor that he sought... That simple prayer seemed to suffice... To get the thief to Paradise... Why not now close your eyes and pray... "Lord, please remember me this day."

Dr. Brady Scoffs at Ideas for Prevention of a Cold

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

One of the wisest things you can do to escape becoming a target for pneumonia is to take proper care of yourself when you have a cold... While winter is upon us (I'm quoting this ponderous gobbledygook from a January 1955 magazine), it is important to protect your general health... get all the sleep you need, eat a balanced diet and avoid exposure to severe weather unless properly dressed... your resistance to colds...

From the January 1954 number of the same magazine I quote a variation of the inanity: Build up your resistance. Respiratory infections are most likely to strike when a person is "run down" or "tired out." So, it is wise to get plenty of rest and sleep, take some exercise and dress warmly to avoid becoming chilled.

Every season since I was a boy in Canandaigua and we But- tend kids used to collect fine almanacs at the Barker and Simmonds drugstore, the almanac quacks, nostrum mongers, public health commissioners and the ever loving corporations have been giving this bunk about "resistance."

It will probably make no difference to the eminent authorities who tell you how to build resistance, but I iterate nevertheless that no physician or health authority has defined or can define "resistance," apart from immunity, for the simple reason that no such condition or state exists.

Moreover, there is no evidence that being tired out, "run down," wearing insufficient clothing or becoming chilled impairs in the slightest whatever immunity one has against any particular disease.

In one of the quaint preachments from which I quote, ("55) there appears a glimmer of light. "In addition" to eating a balanced diet and avoiding exposure to severe weather unless properly dressed, it says, "keep away from anyone already suffering from a respiratory ailment."

Some twentieth century doctor must have wormed his way into the conference room where the tycoons were composing the 1955 etude.

In 1951 the January number of the same magazine carried a page of advice about "colds" by the same corporation, including this: "Avoid people who cough or sneeze carelessly." January 1952 ditto. "Keep away from people..."

January 1953 ditto: "Stay away from people..." But the January 1954 number carried the usual page of "hints for winter health" and even alluded to the body's ability to continue to fight against the invading "germs," but that time I imagine the fuddy-duddies discovered the twentieth century intruder hiding under the table, indignantly roused him and released the annual pronouncement on "colds" without alluding to the prevention of such communicable disease.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 10 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to discuss diagnosis or treatment will be answered by Dr. William Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to the Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Mich.

Crest of Flood at Mississippi

Swollen Ohio to Dump
Water Into 'Big Muddy'
Today or Tomorrow

CAIRO, Ill. (U)—The Ohio River is expected to dump its floodwaters into the Mississippi River here today or tomorrow with little fanfare.

Weather Bureau officials reported the river was about 3 feet above flood stage here yesterday and should rise about 2 of a foot more by tomorrow.

"It has almost stopped rising," said meteorologist John Alden. He said some farm land in the area has been flooded, delaying planting of crops, but said there was no danger here from the waters.

William A. Steele, resident Army engineer, said the Mississippi was low and described it as a "reservoir for the Ohio to dump into."

The Mississippi, after receiving floodwaters from the Ohio, is expected to crest at New Madrid, Mo., the following day.

The Ohio caused an estimated 13 million dollars damage and forced thousands from their homes in Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia and Indiana.

Young Ballplayer Digs Deep to Pay Window Damage

EAST PATERSON, N. J. (U)—A young ballplayer showed real sportsmanship here this weekend—he busted a window and paid for it with his last pennies.

C. E. King returned to his home Saturday night to find a broken window and $1.12 in change on his doorstep for it.

The money was in an envelope which contained this note in a childish scrawl:

"Dear Sir,
"This is for the broken window. It is all I have. I am sorry and will not play ball again this year."
"Yours truly,
"A friend."

Lait Baby Arrives Too Late for Show

LONDON (U)—Television actress Betty Lait finally gave birth yesterday to the overdue baby that's had British viewers on tenterhooks for nearly a month. Mrs. Lait, 26, named her 7½-pound daughter Sarah Mary Catherine.

British Broadcasting Corp. cameras had followed the course of Mrs. Lait's pregnancy on the program Family Affairs. The baby was first expected around March 4, then doctors revised their estimate to Feb. 18.

By the time the baby arrived, the BBC's roving camera crew had a full schedule and couldn't accompany Mrs. Lait to the hospital. Sarah Mary Catherine will make her "live" debut April 6.

LITTLE RED CLOUD

Little Red Cloud is an Indian girl who loves to go paddling in her small birch bark canoe. Her boat is so light Red Cloud can ride close to the shore and weave in and out through the tall cattails that border the lake. You can help her.

Color the picture, giving Red Cloud a bright feather head-dress. Paste the page on stiff paper and cut out the circle along the dark line. Also cut along the dark line around Red Cloud and her canoe down to the dotted line.

Fold the top part of the circle back along the dotted line and you can set Red Cloud's canoe rocking on the water. If you would rather hang the picture up, put a string through the holes on the two side tabs. Tomorrow: Name the puppies.

30,000 Teenagers Take Pledges of Good Behavior

CHICAGO (U)—Thirty thousand Chicago teen-agers have pledged themselves "to serve God, be a credit to my country and to make my city a better place to live in."

They took the pledge yesterday at ceremonies in the International Amphitheatre marking the beginning of a campaign by Chicago's Youth to Combat Delinquency.

Speeches included those of a girl and boy who are inmates of state training schools.

The boy, who had stolen a car, said, "Living in an institution is tough... I don't have my freedom anymore."

The girl, a shoplifter, said, "I can tell you that to be a delinquent is no fun."

Bob Considine Says

Columbia Hosts Young Journalists

NEW YORK (INS) — Columbia University was nice enough to ask me to speak at its remarkable annual convention of high school journalists the other day. It is part of the continuing education of a reporter to talk to such embryo reporters. More of us should, for our own sakes.

Columbia does this annual convention on a scale that confounds lesser colleges and completely crows the average reporter, such as I. Thousands and thousands of youngsters determined to become writers, speakers on radio or television people are drawn from all 48 states for this one.

They fill a campus which is the butt of some derision from the Harvards, Yales and Princetons but which I find one of the most beautiful in the world, despite the plethora of macadam.

On the way to the speaking hall there was an unnerving experience. My bodyguard and I passed the outdoor board track which rests on the campus. Some of the child delegates to the convention were racing around it, their schoolbooks parked on a siding and flitting in the wind, their boisterous feet flying.

One distant future editor, grim, if that is not redundant, pulled up with a screech of sneakers as we passed. "Just did a mile," he said, hardly drawing a breath. It made me a bit faint and I said to Columbia's John Hohenberg, "Shoot that bum, he's setting an ugly precedent for a lot of working newsmen." Hohenberg unfortunately was unarmed.

So we went on, bounding in our tumblers, and neared the point where hundreds of young people were assembled to hear the poor old fellow reminisce. I kept thinking of my own days as a captive in journalism classes.

Prof. Chase, at George Washington University, used to lock the doors, so the athletic scholarship bums couldn't escape. There being comparatively few lock-pickers among us, we absorbed a considerable number of lectures, including one from some bloke who told us never to knock a theatrical production that cost the stockholders more than $250,000.

I kept thinking, too, of one of the last times I had appeared before a group of future reporters. In a demented babble, at the end of some carefully prepared extemporaneous remarks, I asked, "Any questions?" There was a ghastly pause of about a week, which would have distressed a lesser speaker, and then a jaded old editor who must have been 12 or 13, tops, and seemed very small for such a ripe age, stood up on a box he had brought along and said, "Do you sportswriters take many bribes on the side?"

Looking out over the audience at Columbia I wished I could have said what I always wanted our lecturers to tell us: How to get a job in this curious profession. Their dear, fresh faces said, silently, "Why don't this stiff tell us how to get a job in this curious profession?" I was of no help. I don't know two working reporters who got a job the same way. For all of our schools of journalism, this has not become an exact science—a bad thought for graduates but, somehow, a stimulating thought for those who made it.

I told them that they were headed toward a calling as important in these times as any other, including the cloth. In a free world, what tops the dissemination of honest, free, unlettered news? I told them to regard truth in news as sacred, and wished them well. But mostly I told them that there is more fun, sadness, interest in this business than any other—and that it is the best possible way not to earn a good living.

Average annual rainfall in Cuba is about 55 inches.

Senator Probing Post Office Ban on Red Papers

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies in Washington hasn't been getting its Russian-language newspapers lately, and Sen. Beall (R-Md) says he will investigate the situation.

Recently, the Post Office Department has been enforcing a 15-year-old regulation that forbids dissemination of foreign propaganda in the United States. Included are the Soviet newspapers, magazines and other publications used in the graduate school's courses in Soviet affairs.

Many of the school's graduates go into such government branches as the State Department or the Central Intelligence Agency.

The librarian at the school reports that only two copies of Pravda out of a scheduled 60 have been delivered since the first of the year.

Beall said he would "approach postal authorities on behalf of the university and try to get to the bottom of the trouble."

Judge Overruled on License Plates

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A policeman overruled a judge yesterday—out of court.

Judge Fred M. Warren, of neighboring Campbell County, motored into Kenton County to visit a friend. Covington police said the judge's recently purchased automobile carried 1954 dealer tags. New 1955 tags were due March 1. So officers started to tow the car away.

"I don't think you have the authority to impound my car," Warren objected. "You might be able to give me a ticket, perhaps, but what right have you got to impound a man's car?"

Lt. Ralph Kampson towed the car away anyway.

In change there is opportunity

Increasingly American families are showing self-reliance

Millions of American families, on their own, are achieving greater financial independence. In doing so, they are gaining peace of mind, greater confidence, stronger self-reliance. They are earning an added measure of independence, and are in a position to do many things they could not do twenty years ago. This is one of the most significant changes taking place in America today.

One indication of this trend has been the tremendous expansion of family protection plans. For example:

- Hospital, surgical and medical plans. About 100 million Americans are now covered by some form of voluntary protection against the cost of medical care. Only 12 million had such protection in 1940.
- Pension plans. More than 10 million people are now covered by pension plans—millions more than in 1940.
- Life insurance. More than 93 million people now have life insurance, compared with 65 million people in 1940.

Life insurance is by far the largest single element in the family's security program. It is bought to guarantee a financial backlog if the father were to die; and families are discovering other uses of life insurance—to cover the mortgage, to help pay for the children's education, to build an adequate retirement program.

As a result of the added peace of mind growing out of the expansion of family protection plans, more American families are living happier and more productive lives. They are able to plan their living, both for today and for the future, with greater confidence.

Millions of families can now chart their course with new confidence, new independence

Make your dream house come true! It's easy —through Payroll Savings!

If you think you can't own the home of your dreams because the down payment's too steep, chances are you've never tried the Payroll Savings Plan. Because this is the easy, automatic way to meet any down payment—for a house or any large purchase.

Just do this: Sign a Payroll Savings application at your pay office, naming a certain sum to be kept aside from your pay before you get it each week—a few dollars or as much as you want. After that, you're saving automatically—nothing to worry about, nothing to do. And, best of all, the money saved out of your pay each week is automatically invested for you in U. S. Series E Savings Bonds.

Because Savings Bonds earn solid interest—3% cumulative semiannually when held to maturity—the few dollars saved from your pay each week soon grow into big generous amounts. For instance, if you sign for $12.50 a week, in just five years you'll have $3,348.95 cash. And at the end of 9 years, 8 months, you'll have $7,217.20!

So don't let down payments get you down. Meet your needs for ready cash the way more than 8 million other Americans are meeting theirs—join the Payroll Savings Plan today. Or, if you're self-employed, invest in Bonds regularly where you bank. Start now to make your dreams come true!

If you want your interest as current income, ask your bank about Series H Bonds, which pay interest semiannually by Treasury check.

Hal Boyls Says

Career Girl Never Gives Husband Credit

NEW YORK (U)—In America it is taken for granted—by the ladies at least—that behind every successful man there is a woman.

No matter what he may think of her in private, the great man must publicly proclaim that everything he achieved he owes to his dear sparring partner at home. No famous figure I know of has ever had the courage to announce:

"The really remarkable thing about me is that I got so far in life despite the handicap of being tied to one of the dumbest wives who ever gnawed at a man's pay-check."

He wouldn't dare. On the other hand, successful women in America don't match the gallantry of successful men. Rare indeed is the career girl who admits, "I'd probably be a Bowery deadbeat if I hadn't been lucky enough to marry the right guy."

But chivalry in womanhood isn't altogether dead, boys—at least in France. Take Line Renaud, the latest imported chanteuse from Paris.

"Everting I am I owe to my husband," said the small sultry blonde singer.

Line, small, blue-eyed and vivacious, is the "Mademoiselle From Armentieres," second World War version.

"My grandmother she have zee cafe in Armentieres, an' I meet many Allied soldiers there," she said.

"Armentieres ees a small town. Eet have about zee same number of people as live in zee Waldorf Hotel here. But yet Armentieres is just well enough known in zee world that ever' time they have zee war eet gets knocked down—boom!"

At 16 Line came to Paris and met Loulou Gasté, a top song writer and pioneer French jazz musician. Gasté signed a 7-year contract to manage her. Before it ran out they decided to make it a lifetime contract. Under her husband's tutelage—he still writes many of her songs—she became a top singing and recording star. She also has been in five French film musicals.

Line has become something of a combined Dorothy Dix and Betty Hutton in her homeland, as the result of a widely popular weekly radio show in which she mixes songs and advice to the lovelorn. Her audience is largely feminine.

"Love problems zey are zee same in all countries," she observed. "The girl, she ees een love with zee man, but he dozesn't love zee man back. Zo zey write an' ask me should zey let heem know they are een love with heem."

"I tell zee, no, no, no! When a theng ees too easy for a man, he lose zee center."

Line says she fears French men tune in on her program only to laugh. They rarely ask her for advice.

"In France ever' man theenk he know ever'ting there ees to know about love."

Line, who returns to France next month after completing engagements here and in Hollywood, thinks American men stare less at women in public than men in Europe do. Whether this is good or bad thing, from a woman's standpoint, she didn't say.

But she expressed shock at the emphasis put in this country on leg art and the bustline.

"Ze American men are special-ists, and zey suffer from it," she remarked. "Een France a man admires zee ENTIRE woman."

Asked to compare American and French men on their relative charm, appeal, Line shook her head, smiled and said:

"Een love zey simply speak deefereent langweedges. Voila, zee deefereence. Tout est la!"

NEWARK, N. J. (U)—A middle-aged man—who claims to be a former hero policeman—held 30 passengers in terror at mock gunpoint for several minutes last night until their plane landed at Newark Airport.

His hand jammed in his pocket, the man gave the impression he was holding a gun. The "gun" turned out to be merely a piece of wood. And he surrendered quietly to policemen who had surrounded the Eastern Air Lines DC4 when it arrived at the airport.

Police said the man identified himself as Edward Koen, 51, South Braintree, Mass. He carried a retired Boston policeman's badge, plus a Medal of Honor from the force there.

Just five minutes before the Atlanta-to-Newark airliner landed, Koen shouted to purser Curtis Ivy of Newark: "Stand where you are!" It was loud enough for all the passengers to hear—and to draw their attention to his hand jammed in his pocket as if clenching a gun.

The pilot, Capt. A. L. Nelson, radioed the airport to tell what happened. When the ship landed, Koen told everybody to leave—and supervised their exit to the extent of saying "Watch your step."

Then he walked down the gang-plank, where the waiting police picked him up and found the piece of wood in his pocket.

Koen was held on a charge of threatening.

Oxford Partygoers Questioned in Death

OXFORD, England (INS)—Fellow students of Clement Zimmer, New Yorker who died mysteriously Saturday, were being questioned today about a party at an Oxford University college.

The body of the 23-year-old American youth was found on a stone walk. Authorities ruled out foul play.

Police questioned undergraduates who attended a party at Wadham College Friday night with Zimmer. He was believed to have escorted a girl undergraduate back to a women's college after the party.

Questioning of the partygoers was made difficult by the fact most of them had gone to their homes for the Easter vacation.

Ban Unmentionables

LITTLERLAND, England (U)—The Town Council notified housewives in a municipal housing development today they must stop hanging their panties in the front yard or move. "The flats face the main road," said Councilor R. W. Lloyd, "and many people are embarrassed by some of the things they see hanging on clotheslines."

McCarthy Favors War If Needed to Make Reds Release Prisoners

EVERETT, Mass. (U.S.)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) says that if necessary he would favor starting a war to win freedom of 526 American servicemen he claims are being held prisoner in Red China.

In a talk yesterday to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, he said: "If it were necessary to start a war to get those men back I would say yes, by all means. But we needn't start a war."

He suggested the United States tell "our so-called allies" that they "won't get one red cent of American money" until the Americans are freed.

McCarthy urged the 1,000 in his audience to write their congressmen asking, "How in heaven's name can you vote to draft American young men and send them to foreign shores if we've abandoned the men we've already drafted and sent them to sudden death and torture in blood-stained Communist dungeons?"

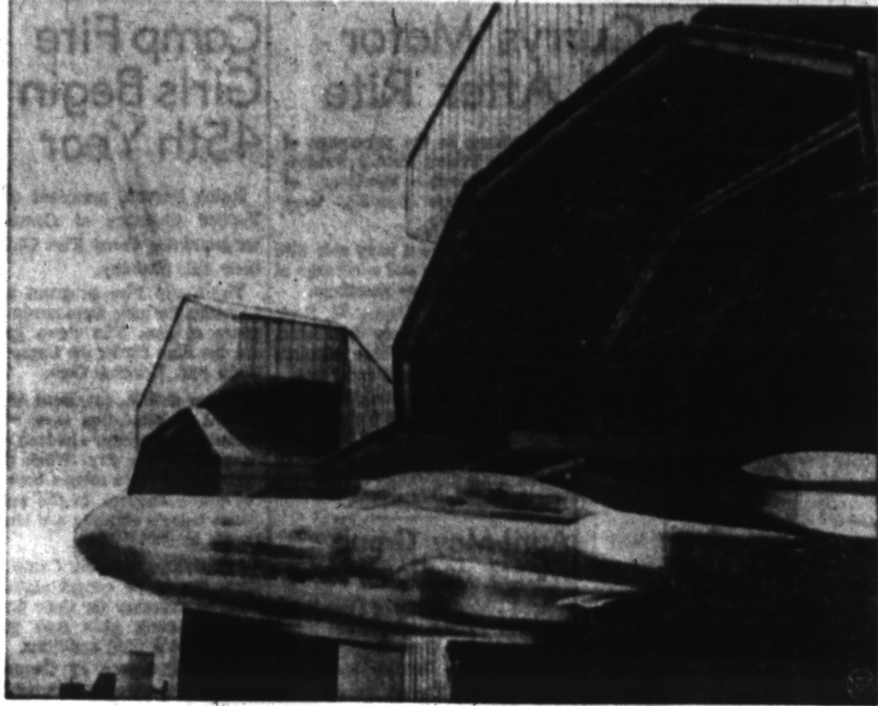

McCarthy sent a letter to President Eisenhower Saturday saying he "would like to hear from you as to what, if anything, you are doing or propose to do to secure the freedom of those young men."

In his letter to the President, McCarthy mentioned 944 Americans held by the Chinese Reds. In his talk yesterday, he set the figure at 526, explaining that the Defense Department says the others are dead.

McCarthy said that instead of "double crossing (and) double dealing . . . we should join hands and regain our national honor."

He said there is no possible "co-existence with the dirtiest fighters in the world."

When he finished his talk, he received a five-minute standing ovation.

FAST PICKUP FOR DEFENSE—Streaking out of a hangar at the New Castle County, N. J., airport is an F-94C Starfire jet fighter of the Continental Air Defense Command. Practice "scrambles" keep CAD pilots on the alert so they could be in the air within minutes after an actual attack.

Willman Tells Exchange Club:

Water, Drainage, Sewers 3 Major Problems of City

Water, drainage and sewage are the three major problems facing Pontiac, City Manager Walter K. Willman told an Exchange Club luncheon meeting at the Hotel Waldron Friday.

"A soft, potable supply of water from a surface source is basic to growth," Willman said.

As for drainage, Willman said he foresees the day "we will have to ask the people to give a fund of money through a bond issue to dredge the Clinton River and build a Pontiac Creek drain."

He underlined the expense of such projects by listing the cost of drainage tunnels "going through the heart of the city" at $300 a foot.

The answer to the sewage problem lies in an auxiliary sewage treatment plant to serve the north and east portions of the city, he said.

He said the auxiliary plant also would be connected with the present sewage treatment plant to handle overflow.

"We hope to buy the site this year and get the plans under way by the end of the year," he said.

Willman also stated that some of these basic problems are intertwined with the populous suburban areas now rapidly expanding just beyond the city limits on practically all sides. They will have to be worked out on an area basis, he said.

Conductor Collapses Leading Orchestra

SYDNEY, Australia (U.S.)—Symphonic conductor Eugene Goossens was reported improving today. He collapsed Saturday night while conducting the Sydney Symphony Orchestra.

Goossens, 61 and British-born, conducted orchestras in Rochester and Cincinnati before coming to Australia eight years ago from the United States.

Lace Cooky Is Fine One for Teas

Mrs. Mudd Says Oatmeal Dainties Please Growups

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Cookies that please children are not always the same as those which adults enjoy. Mrs. William Mudd of Westacres contributes a recipe for tea cookies that are perhaps a bit too sophisticated for the younger set. She says they're delightful.

Newcomers to this area, the Mudd family consists of four children, one pre-schooler, two medium sized, and one high school student. Mrs. Mudd is a former newspaperwoman. At present, she has no outside activities.

OATMEAL LACES

By Mrs. William Mudd

1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup sugar
Add:
1/2 cup quick cooking oats
2 tablespoons heavy cream
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
1 tablespoon vanilla

Mix well. Drop on an ungreased cookie sheet about 4 inches apart, using a 1/2-inch spoon for measure. Bake at 375 degrees for 6-8 minutes, or until light brown. Let stand a few seconds before removing from the pan with a spatula. Makes about 6 dozen 2-inch cookies.

These cookies are a bit difficult to handle, but the end justifies the means.

If there is no place to put your food tea spoon after you have used it to stir your tea—it is permissible to leave it in the glass. This may seem awkward, but it is better than laying it on a bare table, tablecloth or place mat.

One simple way of avoiding the problem is not to use the spoon for stirring if you see there is not going to be any place to put it.

Mrs. Chester (Judy) Reynolds opens her new bridal consultant shop at 1130 W. Huron St. Tuesday. The Little Courtesy ceremony.

Bridal Service Shop to Open Tuesday

A snappy, brown-eyed matron whose son's wedding four years ago launched her in the bridal consultant business opens her new shop at 1130 W. Huron St., Tuesday.

Mrs. Chester (Judy) Reynolds, owner and director of The Little Courtesy and Bridal Service will handle everything connected with the wedding ceremony from the invitations to checking "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue."

Recalling the wedding of one of her three sons, Mrs. Reynolds decided that the mother of the bride should not have to arrive at the ceremony exhausted from the maze of preparation details.

"It is the most interesting business in the world, and I find that each time I am as excited as the bride over the preparations for the great day," she states.

She has attended bridal consultant schools in Chicago and Detroit and follows the "book" to the most minute detail.

No obstacle is too great to be overcome by this attractive woman who a year ago found that a military wedding she was planning would have to be "swordless."

The bridegroom was Canadian and his military friends who were to be his attendants were not allowed to bring their swords across the border.

What happened?

Mrs. Reynolds contacted several friends and 12 shining swords crossed at the church while the new Mr. and Mrs. came through the triumphal arch of American swords.

The speed of modern transportation proves there's no such thing as a distant relative.

On her staff are three cooks and 11 girls who help with everything for the wedding from setting the tables to cleaning up afterward.

Mrs. Reynolds even goes through the wedding rehearsal with the bride and groom and rehearses them after the pre-nuptial performance at the church just to make sure no one forgets his lines.

The ring lost by a nervous, best man? Never. Mrs. Reynolds takes this home with her and presents it at the proper moment.

Realizing that many families who like to have their daughters married in lovely ceremonies do not have the resources to provide silver services and exquisite table cloths, Mrs. Reynolds has added these to her regular services.

She also handles the wedding anniversary, whether it be silver, gold or diamond.

A Pontiac woman, Mrs. Reynolds has had many years experience in the sales field.

Pioneer Social Worker Suggests Parental Ideal

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

The dictionary defines the word "ideal" as something that exists in our minds as the "perfect example."

The following is a social worker's first conversation with an incorrigible, delinquent boy. Behind what he says is an attitude that represents his ideal of parental attitude toward children.

Social Worker: Your father has told me what has happened and I'd like to help you.

Boy: It's no use.

Social Worker: Certainly it's no use if you don't want help.

Boy: You can't help me.

Social Worker: I know you don't have much confidence in me; we don't know each other yet.

Boy (hopeless, uncooperative): It's not that. But anyway, it's no use.

Social Worker: Are you willing to talk to me?

Boy: Why not?

Social Worker: I must ask you various questions and I'll make you a proposition.

Boy: What?

Social Worker: That you don't answer any questions you don't like.

Boy: Why do you say that?

Social Worker: Because I don't need to know everything. Any way you wouldn't tell me the truth if I asked questions you don't like.

Boy: How do you know that?

Social Worker: Because that's what everybody does and you are no exception. Lying to me isn't necessary because I don't want to force you to answer me.

The social worker was the great August Aichhorn, pioneer in modern clinical treatment of angry children. The dialogue is quoted from his classic study of delinquency, "Wayward Youth."

It is my ideal parental attitude because it maintains absolute respect for the child's integrity. It has been purified of all anxiety for altered conduct, all fear of the results of continued defiance.

It will have to remain an "ideal." For respect for a child's integrity is only possible to those who know their own.

However, because we fail an ideal is no reason to discard one. We can try to detach ourselves from absorption in our child's individuality, so that we can restore it to him as separate and free of our needs to make his individuality reflect credit upon us.

Country People Spot Spring Early, Live in Bright World All Their Own

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE

The approach of spring makes me nostalgic. I was thinking this morning how on a March Saturday on the farm, Papa would ask, "Want to go to town with me, Sis?" and without waiting for my rapturous "goody," would start for the barn to hitch up old Flint and Molly to the big wagon.

Then, while I put on my red-checked dress with the Peter Thompson collar, Mama would pack eggs and butter to trade for sugar and coffee at the store.

Out on the road the thaw would have begun, dirty snow and ice mixing with clay to form the meanest kind of mud. The heavy wheels would splash it on my best dress, the horses would get hot and steamy and my winter underwear would scratch.

At Uncle Cicero's store in town we'd find farmers like us—women and little girls already wearing sunbonnets and spring calicoes under worn coats, babies starting to fret from being dragged around by weary mothers.

"I'm so sick of meat and bread and potatoes day in, day out, I feel as if I never want to eat again," you'd hear Mrs. Smizer saying to Mrs. Jackson. "I'm just perishing for a taste of something good and green again!"

Country people can spot spring's first sign but in the city it's harder. So this is the time of year when I envy suburban gardeners who seem to be inhabiting a bright world all their own, full of special sights and smells.

These lucky creatures start perking up late in February when everyone else is huddled in furs and sniffling with head colds.

It snowed just after one gardener friend had announced importantly, "I smelled spring today—just a whiff at the corner of Madison Avenue and 43rd Street. I can't imagine how it got there."

The whole tribe relay bulletins in portentous tones: "The yellow crocuses have bloomed!"

"These are buds on the Payson's daffodils—just the ones against the wall where they're protected, of course," and "I planted sweet peas on Saturday!"

They brag about all the tiny evidences that winter's back is broken—the appearance of buds on the forsythia, the way the spears of the grape hyacinth, which looked like uncombed hair all winter, slowly begin to green up, the fertile feel under foot of grass and even mud.

I may have to remind myself that while I envy the gardener her nose for spring, I won't envy her when hot weather comes, and I sit enjoying her flowers while she, with broken fingernails, aching back and damp brow, pulls weeds.

And I'm not quite sure, for all my regretful sighs, that I would really relish Missouri spring mud anymore.

Reasonable Decisions Are Needed

Desires Keep Girls From Practicality on Boyfriend Issue

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

It's hard to keep your balance when you're all tangled up in emotions. Yet it always seems that it's when you're feeling the keenest that you're faced with a decision. A cold, hard, reasonable, practical decision.

Your wishes and longings keep your head in the clouds. The obstacles to their fulfillment merit only a passing glance. And the thought that fulfillment might not be good for you just never enters your head.

So let's be very realistic about these two girls and their two quite different problems. Let's come down out of the clouds and get the feet firmly planted on the ground.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'm 14 and I'm going with a boy who is 17 and in the Navy. We've been writing to each other constantly, and recently he wrote and asked me to come to see him. He is stationed several hundred miles from here."

My mother says I can't go. But I like him so much I'd love to see him, and he won't be home for another month. I miss him so much! I don't want to do the wrong thing. So what do you think?"

Answer: Offhand I'd think your mother's "no" would end the deliberating. She doesn't want you traipsing off alone on a long jaunt to a Navy Base. The idea doesn't appeal in any way to her.

To you, of course, it's different. You're yearning for your boy friend, and you figure this is a golden opportunity to see him.

I'd see nothing wrong in your going to see him, if somebody took you. If, for instance, his parents were going to make the trip and tucked you in the back seat to go with them.

Or if your own parents were willing to make the junket. But going alone isn't practical. You'd feel shy, and awkward, and out of place.

You'd have a lot of spur-of-the-moment decisions to make, and if your head's in the clouds you might decide unwisely. I think you should keep your feet on home ground and wait for him to join you there.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I like two boys and can't make up my mind which one I like best. I've never really gone with either one. One lives out of town. How can I decide which I like best, and how can I get a date with them?"

We girls are supposed to invite the boys to a dance that's coming up, but I don't seem to have enough nerve to ask one of them. What should I do?"

This dance invitation is made to order. Now, which boy to ask?

Answer: Get practical about it. If you invite the local boy you are more likely to have another date with him. He's handy and convenient, you'll be seeing him around.

Take him to the dance with you (if he'll go) and give yourself a chance to find out how much you really do like him. If it's no go, ask the other boy to the next big whing-ding that comes along and see how you both feel about each other. Be cautious and take your time over deciding which boy you like best. But busy with that bid.

Daughter's Marriage a Problem

Divorced Father Asks What Role Her Mother Plays

By EMILY POST

A father writes me: "Ten years ago my wife and I were divorced and as our children were quite young I thought it best for them to live with their mother, although I assumed all responsibility for their support."

My daughter's approaching marriage presents a problem under the existing circumstances. She still lives with her mother (who has not remarried). My present wife and I will give her her wedding and I will assume all expenses in connection with it.

We had planned on a rather large reception at the country club. How should the wedding invitations be worded? Who stands in the receiving line?

In other words just where does the bride's mother fit in at this wedding and what role does my wife play? I will be very grateful for your help."

Answer: As your daughter has been, and still is, living with her the invitations to the church should go out in her name and under the circumstances I think it would be best if she gave a simple reception at her house immediately following the ceremony for her own most intimate friends and relatives on her side of the family.

A second reception could then be given by you and your wife later in the day with invitations going out in both your names.

After leaving her mother's house, the bride, in her bridal dress and veil, and the bridegroom accompanied by all of their attendants would all drive to the country club for this second reception.

Dear Mrs. Post: My fifteen-year-old daughter has received an invitation to a stork shower that is being given for a cousin.

Perhaps I am old-fashioned but I think teen-aged girls have no place at a stork shower and that this invitation was in very bad taste. I do not think she should go. What is your opinion of this?

Answer: I agree with you that teen-aged girls have no proper place at a stork shower.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been invited to a birthday party (surprise) for a girl friend and given the privilege of bringing my own boy friend.

Should I write his name with mine on the card enclosed with that birthday gift I'm buying, or should he take his own? He doesn't know her.

Answer: Since he is a stranger to her, you alone take a present. He might, of course, take some flowers which he would give to her.

The Rio Grande supplies irrigation water for an estimated two million acres.

Is Parents' Love Enough
When Raising Baby Girl?By MARGARET LATROBE
"I can't give you anything but love, baby..."Will it be enough, little girl?
When we tiptoe in at night, pretending to arrange the covers, to brush away soft curls from cherub cheek, to see that all is well, those aren't the real reasons we are there beside your bed.It's then that the day's eagerness is stilled, when your perfect small hands curved in chubby fists are quiet and your whole baby self in pale blue sleepers is overtaken by slumber, movement suspended for the night.We marvel at a child's beauty
—the lashes, the gentle breath like flowers—a baby girl sleeping after a full-till scampering day. Standing beside you, we are half afraid the light will wake you, half hoping it will, because your next smile, the next bright words can't come too soon for us.A long time we look at the child, now ours alone, and wonder how long we can hold your hand, comfort and protect you—and how long we should. We wonder what we can give to strengthen and uphold you when that far-off time comes and you will go. When you must go—away from Dad and Mother."You'll never walk alone..."
And please, Lord, never let her walk alone. Let her fulfill the promise of a child's purity of soul, of directness and honesty, of smiles and generosity and the utter self-confidence she has now.
Let her always understand, as she does now, that the world is hers if only she wants it enough. Let herknow that life is hers if she always gives more, as she does now, than she takes.Can we protect her from cruelty, from crushing disappointment? Only by helping her develop some inner strength—to parry some blows, meet others, to weep but wipe away the tears. And then to smile again.
Yes, we will teach her, guide her as best we can, and some day we will let go the little hand. We will want her to see life both in its best and its worst terms, so she can compare and find her own way to what is good. We won't stack her cards against the cheap and vulgar and selfish. Even if we could—how would she know within herself what is real, what is false?Let her be ready for laughter, gaiety. Let her have sympathy and kindness and great faith. Let her have eagerness to learn, to know and love the world. Let her know Him in whom we have believed. Then she will never walk alone.Ah—the light has been too bright. She stirs, she smiles. Good night, baby girl. Please don't grow up too fast.

C. E. Wilson's Speech Refreshing Compared With Other Politicos

Oakland County's celebrated Secretary of Defense is the subject of an interesting article in the current issue of Look Magazine.

Entitled: "Everytime He Opens His Mouth He Says Something," Look compiles a list of C. E. Wilson's witty sallies and quips. The Secretary of Defense originated this habit-in press conferences when he was president of General Motors. Often the chief executive brought roars of laughter from a huge crowd of well seasoned newspaper men.

In Washington, he discovered that political opponents were eager and anxious to twist a remark against him and the administration. But he still speaks freely and always will. It's one of the happy parts of a great American.

The Look article says:

The cagey remark, the guarded reply, the verbal fence are not the forte of Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson. When he speaks his mind, this man bluntly speaks his mind, and his candor has been known to rattle political teapots. Yet, as the Wilson speeches and transcripts of his press conferences reveal, more often than not, he says things with salt and sensible brevity. Of Washington gobbledygook, he remains refreshingly free. These Wilson quotes bear witness:

On space platforms: "I have enough problems here on earth."

existence: "We all live on the same planet, don't we?"

"It's futile to talk too much about the past — something like trying to make birth control retroactive."

Referring to trade with nations behind the Iron Curtain: "I come from a long line of ancestors who believe you shouldn't sell firearms to the Indians."

"We all talk about our wonderful free competitive system, but lots of people don't like to compete unless they have to."

"If we just turned around and imagined we were the Russians and started to worry about what the United States might do to us, we'd be more scared than any Americans are now of the Russians."

On keeping world order by force: "Even good policemen aren't popular very long."

"Sins of omission don't get reported on anybody's fitness report."

Many Families in U. S. Expect Higher Income

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board reports that 39 of every 100 families expect to be making more money in another year while 6 per cent expect a drop in income.

These preliminary findings of the board's annual survey of consumer finances were considerably brighter than a year ago. In 1954, 29 per cent of consumers looked forward to bigger incomes while 19 per cent expected to earn less.

U. S. troops abroad? "It is like having some of your relatives come to visit you. You are pleased to see them to begin with, but if they come to stay, you get tired of it."

The necessary evil of red tape: "No inanimate thing will move from one place to another without a piece of paper that goes along telling someone where to move it."

"I don't see why a Democrat should be any more worried about this country than a Republican."

On Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery's blast at U. S. theories of defense: "He isn't any worse than some of the Americans I have to contend with."

"A man mustn't think he's sick when he sweats."

On answering hypothetical questions: "Just like trying to say how many children you will have when you get married."

How to deal with subordinates? "It's like making your children behave. You have a certain latitude of tolerance and you love them just the same."

"I am like the dog behind the iron curtain. It came across to West Germany one day and met another dog. They talked it over. Did he get enough to eat? Yes, he got enough to eat. Well, what was it he didn't like over there? He said 'Well, I would like to bark when I want to.'"

Comment on Americans abroad: "Americans all live about the same no matter where they go. They expect to, and they act like the world is their oyster."

"You have to try to understand what a man means and not what he says."

"An expert is a mechanic away from home."

Try to Contact Spirit Canceled by Illness

CHICAGO (AP)—Ill health forced Claude D. Noble to forego yesterday for the second straight year an attempt to communicate with the spirit of Clarence Darrow on the anniversary of the renowned criminal lawyer's death.

Before Darrow died March 13, 1936, he and Noble, an amateur magician, made an agreement to try to communicate. In past years, Noble, a 64-year-old Detroit businessman, has come to the Jackson Park lagoon bridge where Darrow's ashes were scattered, recited the Lord's Prayer, and called for a manifestation.

There never has been any indication that Darrow's spirit heard.

"I'm still impressed by a billion dollars."

On giving orders: "It's just like telling someone how to suck eggs. Let 'em suck at it their own way."

On the price rise in General Motors stocks: "No one seemed to pay much attention when the stock I was forced to dispose of was worth $25 a share more than when I had to dispose of it . . . and of course I didn't want to dispose of it anyway because I had a little sentimental attachment for it."

"We Wilsons don't scare at hoot owls."

"A little bit of aggression is like a little bit of pregnancy."

"We can't audit paperwork with more paperwork."

On political ethics: "There's an old political saying: 'If your political opponent accuses you of being a liar, don't deny it. Accuse him of being a horse thief.' I don't enthuse much over it."

On demoting personnel: "We'll try to do the job in a high-class way."

"I like afternoon press conferences better than morning ones. At least they give me a chance to catch up on what happened over night."

"Just because somebody calls it 'research,' don't think it's wonderful."

CHARLES E. WILSON has made statements that have rocked political Washington, but a magazine article considers his speech refreshing and brief compared with others on the political scene. He has managed to avoid Washington gobbledygook, says the article.

School Building Bond Plan Endorsed

The $1,000,000 "pay-as-you-use" state school building bond program which will appear on the April 4 ballot is being recommended today to the board of directors of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce for its unanimous endorsement.

State general affairs committee of the Chamber recently invited Louis Schimmel, originator of Proposal No. 3 which was introduced in the state senate by Senator William S. Broomfield (R-Royal Oak), to explain what the program will do for the state of Michigan.

Representing a cross-section of business and industrial leaders of Pontiac, the committee wholeheartedly endorsed the proposal and said it will ask its board to adopt a resolution supporting the constitutional amendment today.

Schimmel said that the amendment was received in the legislature two weeks ago by a 25 to 4 vote in the Senate and a 91 to 7 tally in the House.

"The shortage of school buildings is a problem of state and national concern," said Schimmel, "and the situation will become worse if school construction can not keep pace with growth."

He pointed out that too frequently the lag in school construction is associated with the idea that schools cannot be provided from present sources of income.

"Such a conclusion is not always true when applied to school building in Michigan," he cited.

He declared that the principal reason for the delayed building program is constitutional limitations on financing which forces the tax payer to pay in 8 to 12 years the entire cost of buildings that will serve the communities for 30 to 40 years or longer.

"A more realistic and reasonable basis for financing are provided for the Proposal No. 3," continued Schimmel.

The proposal facing the voters of the state on April 4 will:

1—Provide that the state may borrow a sum not to exceed $1,000,000 dollars for the purpose of making loans to school districts for the payment of principal and interest on school bonds.

2—Allow state loans to districts which:

(a) In any calendar year require more than 13 mills on state equalized valuation to make payment of principal and interest on their school building bonds (present and future). The state will provide the amount over the 13 mills and thus guarantee that the local taxpayer will not have to pay over that amount each year.

(b) Will agree to repay the state for the monies borrowed by holding their local levy at 13 even after their needs are met until they have repaid the state in full.

3—Provide that all school district bonds issued from May of 1955 to July 1 of 1962 can be floated for a 25-year period. This removes the tax restrictions imposed by the 15-mill constitutional amendment.

Schimmel answer 10 questions which cover the amendment as follows:

Q—Does the amendment pledge the full faith and credit of the state to the payment of school district bonds?

A—No. The faith and credit of the state is not pledged for the payment of any school district bonds.

Q—Will the state issue bonds for local school districts?

A—No. School districts will continue to issue their own bonds after such bonds have first been approved by the local electors.

Q—Will the state pay the bonds issued by local school districts?

A—No. Responsibility for paying the bonds of a school district will continue to rest with the local district.

SEN. WILLIAM S. BROOMFIELD

Q—What will the state do with the $1,000,000 fund authorized by the amendment?

A—It will lend any school district that finds it necessary to levy over 13 mills per year for payment of principal and interest the amount over the 13 mills until these loans reach the aggregate of the one million dollar fund.

Q—How will the state be repaid for its loans?

A—The local district agrees to maintain its levy at 13 mills even after its needs are met until it repays the state.

Q—How and when will the state borrow $1,000,000 to create the loan fund?

A—It will sell bonds from time to time to provide the funds necessary to make the loans. It will not be necessary to raise it at one time and each year it will only need to raise a small part of the $1,000,000.

Q—How will the state pay for the bonds it issues to create the loan funds?

A—Initially it may be necessary for the state to use monies from the general fund of the state.

Q—How does the amendment help all districts to finance school buildings including those that do not levy 13 mills to pay debt obligations?

A—The amendment provides that all school bonds issued after May of 1955 and prior to July 1 of 1962 which mature in not less than 25 years are not subject to the restrictions imposed by the present 15 mill limitation act. It will permit districts to finance buildings over a longer period of time. A wider market will result in more investors competing for school bonds and will bring lower interest rates.

Q—Does the amendment force school districts to finance buildings over a 25 year period?

A—No. The amendment is an alternate to the present method of financing.

Q—Is this a give-away program?

A—In no sense is this a give-away idea. The state under this amendment does not make gifts or grants to school districts. It is reimbursed.

Schimmel has been a member of the Pontiac Board of Education for nearly two decades. He is now director of the Municipal Advisory Council.

Parakeet Is Helping Mentally Ill

Here is the story of how one little parakeet today is helping change the lives of approximately 3,000 persons—and in time may affect the lives of thousands of others.

These 3,000 persons, who have come from 10 Michigan counties for treatment offered the mentally ill, live in various buildings on the 485-acre site of Pontiac State Hospital.

The parakeet, "Perry," was a pet belonging to Kathy LaCore, daughter of Dr. Ivan A. LaCore, Medical Superintendent of the hospital.

Kathy had a difficult time keeping the bird from her pet cats and so suggested to her father that the little fellow be given to a ward at the hospital.

At once the patients in the ward received him with open hearts. Some patients began to show an interest in life for the first time. Most wanted to help in the care of the bird. And all of them were unanimous in their thanks for the presence of the little pet and friend who was brightening the life that often seemed barren.

It was apparent that "Perry" had indeed, with its natural affection for many of the patients, helped to remove some of the nervous tension and fill a void in this ward.

Dr. LaCore, armed with this encouraging information, asked Richard Arthaud of the Social Service Department to try to procure other parakeets for the hospital so that patients in other wards might also benefit from the charm and chatter of the birds.

Since the hospital budget did not provide for the purchase of parakeets, Arthaud contacted a man known for his outstanding contributions to the unfortunate of the world.

He is Harry E. Smithson of Detroit, executive secretary of "We the Handicapped, Inc." Michigan non-profit organization which has for years helped materially in aid to the handicapped.

Smithson, a handicapped person himself, has earned the reputation of being one of the best breeders and sellers of parakeets in the United States.

His birds have time and again taken first prizes at shows for parakeets.

Naturally interested in the potential of these birds in the treatment of the mentally ill and having for years believed there is therapeutic value in parakeets for the handicapped and the lonely,

Smithson, through "We the Handicapped," donated five parakeets, complete with cages.

He personally selected the birds, working with them for two weeks before turning them over to the hospital for placement in various wards.

Smithson also coined the phrase "Budgies for Recovery." (Budgies is from the technical name of the bird Budgerigar).

And so it is that a tiny parakeet, the smallest of the parrot family — but with the largest brain of all birds in proportion to weight—is bringing hope and joy and laughter to many.

Dr. LaCore, in summing up the happy situation states, "We at the hospital hope that these birds will aid materially in the treatment of our patients. If they live up to our expectations, perhaps other organizations or other persons will help in securing other birds so that we can eventually extend this therapy to all the wards in the hospital."

Augustana Choir to Appear in Pontiac

Henry Veld, conductor and founder of the Augustana Choir which will present a full evening concert in Pontiac High School Auditorium March 30, was selected to conduct the 2,000-voice choir at the opening session of the World Council of Churches Assembly last August in Chicago.

This recognition by the protestant church world of Veld's ability as a choral conductor further enhanced the already distinguished reputation he has gained for himself and the choir during the 26 years he has been a member of the music faculty at Augustana College.

In addition to his teaching and conducting duties at Augustana, Veld is currently in his 4th year as director of the Apollo Musical Club of Chicago. He is the first conductor of the 84-year-old chorus who is not a native of Chicago.

One of two men selected by the army to conduct soldier choruses at the Army University Center abroad at the close of World War

HENRY VELD

II, Veld led a chorus of 80 voices which appeared with the London Symphony Orchestra at Albert Hall, London. He also spent some time organizing choral groups in the occupation units of Germany. Veld is a member of the American Academy of Teachers of Singing. Membership in this national organization is limited to less than 40 teachers who have proved themselves outstanding among teachers in the singing profession.

Numerous requests each year for the Augustana Choir conductor's services at university summer sessions and at music festivals and clinics throughout the country are additional testimony to Veld's reputation as an outstanding choral and voice teacher.

The concert by Augustana Choir in Pontiac is being sponsored by St. John's Lutheran Church of Pontiac and Christ Lutheran Church of Waterford. Rev. Carl W. Nelson and Rev. Arvid Anderson are the respective pastors of the two sponsoring churches. Tickets for the concert may be obtained from members of the two sponsoring churches or by telephoning the church offices.

Dryden Gets Double Surprise

Nary a Bank for Years—Then 2 Open in One Day

DRYDEN — After 23 years without a bank, Dryden (population 476) found itself with a surplus this morning—as two new banks, located within a block of each other on Main street, did a brisk business.

Residents, accustomed to traveling to nearby towns to deposit funds or simply stacking their savings in the old teapot, Saturday were startled to discover that the First National Bank of Lapeer had set up temporary branch headquarters in a room in the front of Carlos Sweet Shop.

A block farther down the street the Metamora State Bank also had opened offices on the main floor of the Staythue building. Meanwhile, Bert Evenson was busy preparing to move out of his tavern on Main street, to allow the Lapeer First National branch to move in. The tavern formerly the Dryden State Bank, still has the vaults from the old bank.

The Metamora bank, it was learned, has a lease on quarters in the Parker Building. Irvin Welton, in charge of the First National branch, said that the permission to open a branch in Dryden had come from controller of currency in Washington. Lyle Allen, who is handling the affairs of the Metamora branch, said his bank had received the authority to open a branch from the Michigan Banking Commission.

Dryden had been without a bank since 1932 when the Dryden State Bank was closed. Formerly, a Farmers Exchange Bank operated here, but it was dissolved around 1913.

Currently the Champion Home Builders, a trailer factory, is one of the main businesses of Dryden. Rumors that a new business is about to open, have residents speculating that this may be the reason for the sudden rush of banks.

Menzies Meets With Ike Today

Discussions Will Set Australian, U. S. Roles If Asian War Starts

WASHINGTON (INS) — The U. S. and Australia open top-level closed-door talks today to determine the part each country will play in free world defense if a major conflict flares in the Far East.

The discussions were lent an air of urgency by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' remark to Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, on his arrival, that "things in the Far East are looking none too good."

The Australian leader begins his defense talks with a private conference at the White House at noon with President Eisenhower.

He will meet tomorrow afternoon with Dulles to take a long look at the whole critical picture in the far Pacific.

Dulles has been back only a few days from his swing through Southeast Asia, Formosa and the Philippines, including the Manila Pact Conference at Bangkok.

Menzies, who has been attending the Commonwealth Prime Ministers Conference in London, has brought with him to Washington the key defense officials of his government, for an exhaustive overall defense discussion with U.S. officials.

Informed sources said that Menzies' immediate concern is to get a first-hand U.S. estimate of probabilities involved in Red China's threat to Formosa and the Nationalist-held offshore islands. These sources said the question of whether the U.S. intends to fight to defend Quemoy and Matsu is of immediate and vital importance to Australia.

John Hatfield, 41, of 220 S. Bellevue, Lake Orion, is reported in fair condition and his daughter, Eleanor, 15, in good condition, following a 2-car accident in Orion Township Saturday when both suffered broken left legs.

Lake Orion Township Police quoted Hatfield as saying he crashed with another auto, driven by Alfred P. Wirth, 43, of 568 Lakeview, Lake Orion, who was driving on the wrong side of the road. Wirth, who was uninjured, told police he was unable to avoid the accident.

Vote on Tax Cut Due Tomorrow

Small GOP Margin Seen in Close Fight Over Dem Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) said today the Senate must choose between "the American people or big business corporations" when it votes this week on a Democratic income tax cut proposal.

But another Humphrey — Secretary of the Treasury George M. — contended the Democratic plan "works against the making of new and better jobs." He called it "misleading to argue that (the plan) is really in the interests of the 'little folks.'"

Both sides spoke out in statements — the senator today and the secretary last night — as the Senate moved toward a showdown vote. The Senate itself scheduled its last day of unlimited debate on the proposal with voting to start tomorrow.

Both sides conceded the vote would be close, with the edge given to opponents.

Sen. Smathers (D-Fla), supporting the tax cut, said his side was "any four or five votes" yesterday. Administration leaders have said regularly that an almost solid corps of Republicans will be supported by enough Democrats to beat the tax cut.

The Democratic proposal would cut $20 from the income levy against the taxpayer plus $10 for each dependent except a spouse, effective Jan. 1 next year. It would be limited largely to those making less than $5,000 a year.

Focus of the program is not only understanding the concerns of the older generation but also beginning a recreational program for them in the township.

Troy Gains Quarter-Finals of Prep Tourney

Clarkston Defeated in 'B'; Bernards Win in Class C

By JACK SAYLOR

Midnight chimed for Clarkston's "Cinderellas" at Pontiac High Saturday night and Oakland County's hopes for a state basketball championship now rest squarely on the shoulders of the capable Troy Colts.

Troy burst Clarkston's tournament bubble, 44-34, in the Class B regional finals before a jam-packed crowd of 2,500 in the West Huron street gym, after St. Bernard of Detroit had taken the Class C title by upsetting Anchor Bay of New Baltimore, 64-59.

The county's only other two survivors, both from the south end, were ousted Saturday night as Berkley fell before Mt. Clemens, 63-58, and Hazel Park was drubbed by Highland Park, 70-38.

Two weeks of battling against superior height came to an end for Clarkston as Dem Mausti's Wolves were beaten by an excellent 5-man team effort. Clarkston's 24 per cent shooting from the floor was too poor to crack Troy's tightly-knit zone defense.

On the other hand, the Colts divided their scoring and hit 33 per cent overall. More important, they connected at a 40 per cent clip in the 2nd half to surge ahead and maintain a lead varying from 7 to 16 points.

The Wolves' best showing was in the last-moving, but low-scoring 1st half. Clarkston carved out a 7-1 lead, but Sim and Jack Acton cut it to 7-5 at the quarter.

Two free throws by Lanny Leak and Bob Yahnke's jump shot made it 11-5, and after Jack Acton's bucket, Yahnke hit again to keep Clarkston's lead at 6 points. Had the Wolves been able to add a little more to it just then, it might have been a different story what with the Clarkston talent for ball control.

But Peyton Goodwin's Troy club netted 7 straight points to take a halftime lead of 14-13 on Rex Moore's basket in the final 3 seconds. Clarkston never held the lead again.

Jim Murdock popped in a set and after Leak wished a jump shot, Floyd Bailey scored 3 points to make it 19-15. Leak added a pair of foul shots to pull the Wolves to within 2 points, but Troy, sparked by Murdock and Bailey, reeled off 10 straight points to take a commanding lead, which it never yielded.

The margin reached 16 points (40-24) with 4 minutes left and Clarkston rallied briefly on 4 points by Yahnke and a steal and basket by Dick Johnston. Sim Acton and Bailey kept the spread at 10 points with baskets in the final minute and a half.

Bailey and Sim Acton, not generally noted for their scoring, provided the big lift to the Troy cause with 12 and 10 points, respectively. Jack Acton, who had 23 points against OL St. Mary, was often double-teamed and netted only 6 points, but with Bailey's aid, gave the Colts' mastery of the boards.

Murdock sank 8 points and directed the floor play and Moore added 8 more, although playing with a sore back, incurred in a hard fall Thursday.

Leak was easily Clarkston's standout. He played well defensively and accounted for nearly half his team's points with 16.

Yahnke added 8, but Johnston was held to 4 (with much credit going to Bailey's defensive work). Freshman Leroy Parks, a sensation in the Wolves' last 3 games, was shut out. He didn't even get an attempt from the foul line, where he was batting .913 in regional play.

St. Bernard, enjoying a good shooting night, broke open the Class C finale in the last 6 minutes of play.

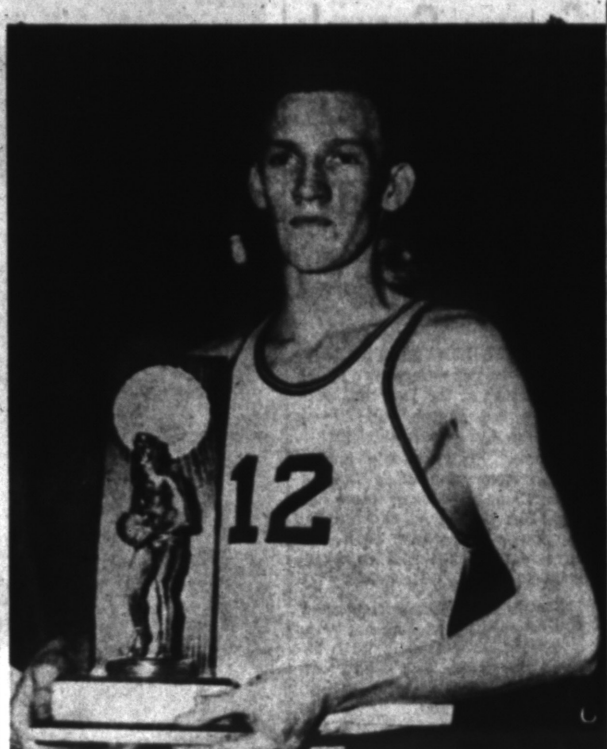

In contrast to the Class B game, the score after one quarter was the same as the halftime score in "C" with Anchor Bay holding a 14-13 advantage. Then the Ramblers' Tony Pecoraro took charge.

He personally held St. Bernard in the game by halting 9 of the Ramblers' 15 2nd period points. The New Baltimore Tars held a 28-26 halftime lead, but wasted away a 6-point margin in the 3rd quarter as Bernards' Bill Listman, the star of the semifinal win over St. Mike's, came to life.

Bob Tartoni battled in a rebound to tie the score at 47-47 with 6 minutes left and from that point it was the Ramblers' game. Following 3 foul shots, Listman and Don Sly hit from long range and the Detroit parochials had a 7-point lead.

The New Baltimore quint made a bid with a minute and a half left with the score 62-55. A jumper by Ray Natzke and Hubert Staffhorst's rebound cut the lead to 3 points, but the Tars fought trying to get the ball and free shots by Pecoraro and Sly ended the scoring.

Pecoraro collected 20 points and Listman added 19 for the winners. Staffhorst had 19, and Natzke, 16, for Anchor Bay.

COLTS' CAPTAIN—Jack Acton, captain of the Troy High School basketball team, displays the Class B regional championship trophy that the Colts won by tripping Clarkston, 44-34, Saturday night at Pontiac High. The high-scoring Acton was held to 6 points, but his rebounding played a vital role in the Troy victory.

Bathers Show Class

By H. GUY MOATS

While Saturday's Class A regional basketball tourney finale was almost a one man show, it also revealed a lot of real class on the part of the new champion. Mt. Clemens Bathers took home the fine MHSAA trophy as a visible symbol of their championship victory, 63-58, over a stubborn, never-quit-fighting Berkley five.

They also took with them the remembrance of the finest exhibition of point-making for the 4-day tournament.

After Bob Lockwood's club turned back the Birmingham Maples on Thursday night, 49-47, with a fine job by slim little Marv Uman, few observers believed it would be able to repeat the performance Friday, against Pontiac. But Bathers did just that, upsetting the Chiefs 60-53 in overtime. That win made them top-heavy favorites, and they performed in the final like real champions.

Smooth-moving Denny Schultz, who hit off 6 points against Pontiac, came through with a brilliant 30-point total. He collected 14 buckets, most of them layups or drive-in shots. His 30 points was the tourney's best game count. The figure was also a new Mt. Clemens school record, displacing one of 26 points set in 1931 by Denny's brother Riley, and equaled in 1933 by Roy Pointer. Riley was later killed in a sandlot ball game when hit by a batted ball.

Lockwood was blessed with boys who could come through when the chips were down. It was Uman against the Maples. Bob Brice got 21 against the Chiefs. Then came Schultz' big night.

It took nearly the entire 1st half for the Bathers to get moving. But when they did, Jim Randle's Berkley Bears had a battle on their hands, that got hotter as the game rolled on.

Mt. Clemens trailed in the opener 15-4 after the Bears' Louis Lemak banged in three straight drive-ins to end the period. Lemak looped another on the first play of the 2nd period. Berkley counted only five times, rest of the session while Schultz caught fire, and caged five buckets all alone. Brice, Uman, Nicolai and Joe Jones added others for a 24 point barrage to send the Bathers in front 32-27 at intermission.

From that point on there was very little doubt as to the outcome. Lockwood began using his sub near the end of the 3rd period which closed with Bathers 13 points to the good, 50-37.

Schultz had scored 22 points up to the end of the 3rd. He took a rest, then returned for the first 3 minutes of the finale. In that time the splendidly-muscled forward accumulated 8 more points for his school record. He then retired, getting a big reception from the Mt. Clemens bench and a fine round of applause from the spectators.

As the game neared the end Berkley fought back with a great rally, piling up 8 points with Bathers getting nothing.

Outside the better than 40 per cent shooting by the Bathers, it was only the failure of the Bears to convert their many free throws that kept them. Where Bathers converted 11 of 23 chances at the foul line, Berkley missed 16 of 22. Never a point did the Bears get by gift shots in the 3rd period while missing 6. They missed 7 of 12 in the 4th.

Berkley's Lemak turned in a fine shooting performance, eclipsed only by that of Schultz. He had 24 points.

Announcement was expected today regarding location of quarter-final game in this section.

5th Title for U. of M.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. —The University of Michigan hockey team added the 1935 National Collegiate crown today to an already crowded trophy case.

The Wolverines won their 5th championship, 5-3, over Colorado College Saturday night in one of the roughest games in eight years of tournament history. Last Thursday Michigan flattened Harvard's hopes, 7-3, in the semifinals.

3 Top Quintets Get Into NCAA Title Showdown

Iowa, Frisco, LaSalle Plus Colorado on Line; Dons Play Latter 5

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Three teams of high basketball pedigree—San Francisco, LaSalle and Iowa—plus a hardwood "commoner" of sorts, Colorado, plunge into the NCAA's championship showdown this week-end.

San Francisco's Dons, top-ranked in the regular season AP poll, seemingly appears destined to rack up 15th-straight victory in their 25th straight victory in Friday night's semifinal round.

However, which team will survive the other semifinal between third-ranked LaSalle, the defending champion, and fifth-ranked Iowa is open to debate.

The championship game will be played Saturday night after the Western and Eastern titles are settled Friday night at Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium.

San Francisco had a real scare in its regional final at Corvallis, Ore., Saturday night, shading Oregon State, 57-36, but tourney railbirds point out the Dons had to

Patty Wins Titleholders, Leads in Golf Earnings

AUGUSTA, Ga. — In addition to the prestige of winning her sixth Women's Titleholders Golf Championship, red-haired Patty Berg counted her material gain today and found herself pacing the greenback derby on the girls' winter golfing circuit.

Her record-breaking 291 for the 72-hole titleholders event made

Patty feel right at home when the time came to pick up the check. The St. Andrews, Ill., veteran, who turned 37 a few weeks ago, won the first three Titleholders in 1937-38-39, came back in 1948 for her fourth and annexed No. 5 two years ago.

Winner's portion of the $5,000 purse was $1,000. It enabled the mistress of putting to creep ahead of Mrs. Jackie Pung of Honolulu in the purse-grabbing stakes.

Miss Berg's take for eight tournaments this winter is $4,247. Mrs. Pung, the housewife from Hawaii, won only $107.50 for her 14th place finish and brought her tournament earnings to $4,187. In a fourth place tie with 26th Sunday's final round, Mrs. Pung soared to 36 and barely finished in the money.

Membership to Vote

NCAA TV Committee Proposes Plan of Compromise for Grid Telecasting

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Ass'n. TV committee Monday disclosed a compromise plan for telecasting 1955 football games which will allow eight national telecasts and five regional dates over a 13-week period.

It offers a compromise with the Big Ten Conference and other proponents of a regional setup for football television.

The plan was mailed Friday to the NCAA membership for approval. A two-thirds vote of the membership is needed for acceptance.

The 1954 program, which reserved all 13 dates for the national network show and limited a team to one appearance, would be relaxed under the new proposal to permit one national telecast and one intra-district appearance, or two intra-district appearances for each team in 1955.

Additional appearances would be possible under a stipulation that "sell-out games may be telecast in the home TV areas of the home and visiting team, also the area of the game if it is played off-campus, provided no damage is done to other collegiate games."

The plan, released Monday by NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers, at least partly answers demands of the Big Ten for free negotiations for TV sponsors and a regional deal that would provide for appearance of a team once at home and once away. The Pacific Coast Conference also has insisted on a program providing for regional telecasts.

Big Ten officials were scheduled to meet in Chicago Monday to decide whether to go along with the NCAA's 1955 program or take steps to televise its own games independently.

The eight "Game-Of-The-Week" dates will be distributed among the districts, if approved, on Sept. 17, Oct. 1, Nov. 24 and 26 and Dec. 3, plus three other Saturdays between Sept. 17 and Nov. 24 to be selected by the sponsors at the time the rights are awarded for the national program.

The restriction that no team may appear on the national network more than once would be continued.

Other important features in the new plan are:

1—A team playing more than 400 miles away from home may telecast the game back home to its TV area, provided there is no conflict with other games in the area.

2—A telecast not carried in the home district of one of the televised teams shall not count as an appearance against that team. Only one exception to this rule would be granted, however.

Enraged Woman Cuts Grappler With Broken Mirror

WASHINGTON (INS)—Hell hath no fury like a woman spectator at a wrestling match.

It happened at Turner's Arena where Mr. Moto and Brother Frank James met Freddie Blaine and Jack Witzig in a team match.

As the four grappled during the deciding 3rd fall, Eleanor Clements, 26, lunged from her ringside seat and scratched Mr. Moto on the leg with a piece of broken mirror, police said.

Mr. Moto was treated in the dressing room for a minor cut. He refused to continue the match and his outmanned partner was defeated.

Police booked Miss Clements on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Athletics Obeyed Rule

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Manager Lou Boudreau of the Kansas City Athletics was taking no chances of being fined for supervising a workout before spring training officially opened at Connie Mack Field.

Garver, Gromek Sparked in 6-2 Victory Sunday

Pitching Poor Saturday, Fain Tests Knee; Porter, Kuenn Hoimer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—From early indications, it's apparent the star of the Detroit Tigers' fortunes this season will rise or fall with the club's pitchers.

Saturday, Tiger rookie hurlers and Al Aber went down, 9-6, before a 13-hit Milwaukee Brave barrage. But yesterday, the Milwaukee power evaporated before the top talent of Ned Garber, Steve Gromek and Ray Herbert.

The three front-runners pitched Detroit to a 6-2 victory before a record crowd of 3,863 who filled the stands and spilled out along the foul lines of the Tiger camp at Lakeland.

Milwaukee outlasted Detroit 10 to nine. But the Tigers collected four extra-base hits—including homers by outfielder J. W. Porter and shortstop Harvey Kuenn—while Milwaukee was held to a double by third baseman Danny O'Connell.

Ferris Fain made his first appearance on a Tiger team yesterday. The 32-year-old first baseman turned in a spirited five-inning performance in the field, although he failed to hit in two times at bat.

Fain, whose batting potential the Tigers hope to exploit, was out of the first three Detroit exhibition games with an ailing knee.

Gromek and Garver gave up three hits apiece in six innings but held the Braves scoreless. Herbert, however, was nicked for two singles and O'Connell's double in the 8th when Milwaukee scored both of its runs.

Third baseman Jack Phillips began the Tiger scoring in the second inning, blasting a triple off Milwaukee starter Bob Buhl and coming home in the flurry of a double play.

A pair of walks, a single by Kuenn and Buhl's wild pitch gave the Tigers another run in the 3rd. Kuenn hit his circuit clout in the 5th and Porter, the Shawnee, Okla., prize export, repeated in the 6th. Al Kaline followed Porter in the 6th with a double and catcher Frank House scored him with a single.

Milwaukee rookie Bill Allen gave up the last Tiger run in the 8th on a walk, an error and a single by catcher Bob Wilson.

Victory left the Tigers at the 500 mark in four exhibition games in the Grapefruit League. Detroit was to play the St. Louis Cardinals today.

It's Spring Again!

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—George Freese, a slugging sensation with the Pittsburgh Pirates in last year's spring training camp, started off the same way on the 1st day of spring training this year. Freese hit a home run on his 2nd trip to the plate. A candidate for a third base job with the Pirates, Freese spent the 1954 season with New Orleans of the Southern Assn. where he hit .324 and had 23 homers.

Neil Sutherland, 10, of Tucson, Ariz., went quail hunting with his father and bagged a 35-pound bobcat instead of birds.

GROUND HOG—J. W. Porter, Detroit Tiger outfielder, burrows into 2nd, out on a force play in the 2nd inning of Sunday's exhibition game against the Milwaukee Braves at Lakeland, Fla. Second baseman Jack Dittmer of the Braves kicks up his right leg as he throws to first to complete the double play. Al Kaline hit to shortstop Johnny Logan, whose throw to Dittmer forced Porter.

Class D Tourney Tests Are Wild; BH Extended

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For sheer dramatics—and a touch of the fantastic—it would be hard to top the 1955 state high school basketball tournament.

From the opening game two weeks ago, drama has been the keynote in this dizzy, unpredictable three-week carnival.

Only 32 survivors are left, eight in each class: A, B, C and D. There were 625 hopefuls at the start.

The field will be cut in half

Soldier Is Victor in National Slalom Race

FRANCONIA, N.H. (AP)—Ralph Miller of Hanover, N.H., 22-year-old soldier stationed at Camp Hale, Colo., today held the National Slalom Ski Championship after speeding down a fast Cannon Mountain Trail during a light snowfall.

Announced times gave the lanky racer a total of 1:48.8 for his two runs Sunday.

Olympic skier Brooks Dodge, 25, of Pinkham Notch, N.H., who like Miller attended Dartmouth College, was second.

Too Much Advice

PITTSBURGH — Coach Dudley Moore of the highly successful Duquesne University basketball team says it is nice to have the games televised except that he gets more mail and advice.

Two days after Duquesne lost a 67-58 decision to Dayton University, Moore said he had received nearly a score of letters. All were from TV viewers who suggested various ways of stopping Bill Uhl, Dayton's high scoring center who led his team to victory over the Dukes.

In 1920 Babe Ruth hit 54 home runs to lead the major leagues. His nearest rival for the honors was George Sisler with 19.

and members of the "sweet 16" will converge on Lansing and East Lansing for the semi-finals and finals Friday and Saturday.

The tournament reached an emotional peak in Saturday's regional finals.

For example, Benton Harbor, considered a strong Class A power, was extended every second of the way before subduing Battle Creek 55-54 in overtime.

Benton Harbor trailed by as much as 14 points midway in the final period and needed a final goal by Jim Reynolds with 23 seconds left in the overtime to pull out the victory.

But the wildest party of all was staged by the little Class D schools. Four games were decided by two points, while one was decided by a single point and another by three points.

That's the way it went in the lower class. Things were more sensible among the Class A giants.

Muskegon Heights, defending Class A king, moved into the quarter-finals by whipping Grand Rapids South, 49-43.

Two other champions moved along the title path. River Rouge, defending Class B champion, handed Inkster its 1st setback of the season, 65-61. Lansing St. Mary, last year's "C" winner now playing the "B" ranks, scored its 37th straight victory—longest streak in the state—by defeating Battle Creek Lakeview, 61-50.

Spring Weather Lures Golfers to Area Links

The weather made like spring during the weekend, and many of the hard-bitten golfing clan couldn't resist the invitation to try out their old swings.

Characteristic of conditions at many courses around the area was the turnout at Edgewood Country Club. This western Oakland County layout reported some 60 hardy souls banging away in weekend rounds. Sunday's aggregation totaled 40, club officials reported today.

The club, along with others in the area has its flags up, in dry conditions.

U.S. Team Leads in Pan-Am Competition

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The United States and Argentina led the way into the second day of competition today in the Pan-American Games, and most observers looked for the team from north of the border to move further in front by tonight in this pre-Olympic struggle in the Western Hemisphere.

Starting out today, the United States had 46 points, based on a system of 10-5-4-3-2-1 for 6 places, while the Argentine had 34½. Trailing were Mexico, 20; Panama 15; Cuba 10; Chile 7; Brazil 4; Dutch West Indies, 3, and Puerto Rico and Canada, 2, among the 22 nations in the games.

The main show involved track and field. Argentina's star distance runner, Oswald Suarez, ran away with the 10,000-meter run, in the comparatively slow time of 32:42.6. The altitude here knocked out the lone hope for the United States, Gordon McKenzie of New York. The leader in the early running, and given a good chance to upset the favored Argentine, McKenzie had to leave the track with 12 of the 25 laps to go. Argentina's other first place winner was Igebor Pfuller, a miss with a mighty throw of the discus—43.19 meters, or 141 feet 8½ inches for the new Pan-Am record.

There was no question as to the stars of the afternoon in the big National University Stadium. They were two U.S. high jump-

Chiefs Finish 6th, Battle Creek Wins Swim Title

Pontiac High School's swimming team finished 6th in the Class A state meet at East Lansing Saturday, but the Chiefs had plenty to say about who won the event.

Battle Creek Central took the title with 50 points, nosing out Saginaw Arthur Hill, which had 47. Jackson was 3rd with 44, Royal Oak, 4th with 23, and Dearborn Fordson, 5th with 19.

Pontiac scored 17 points in its 6th place finish. A total of 27 school participated. Feature of the meet was a new state and national record in the 100-yard back stroke, won by Bob Nichols of Jackson in 59.1 seconds.

Report Shows Trade Boom Between Red Bloc Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (INS)—The Soviet Union has made important progress in developing trade among Communist bloc nations in Europe and the Far East. This conclusion was drawn today from a report on commerce behind the Iron Curtain prepared by the U.N. Economic Commission for Europe.

The study showed that almost four-fifths of the imports and exports of Russia and her satellites came from or were sent to other Communist states.

In five years from 1948 to 1953, turnover of trade increased about five times.

In contrast, there was a reported increase of only 22 per cent in Red trade with Western Europe during the first nine months of 1954.

The U.N. document was drafted on the basis of fragmentary reports from behind the curtain of silence drawn over most economic figures by the Communist governments.

It showed the Soviet rulers placed great emphasis—particularly under former premier Georgi Malenkov—on coordinating the national economies of Eastern Europe and Communist China with Moscow's new 5-year plan.

The overall result appeared to be an increase in Russian economic as well as political control over its satellites.

The Soviet Union, absorbing close to 40 per cent of the satellites' exports and providing them with the same percentage of their imports, rose from 16th to 6th place among the world's trading nations.

The report said that Red China became the leading trade partner of Russia and now accounts for more than one-fifth of the total trade turnover of the Soviet Union. East Germany's economy has been forced into the Soviet orbit and ranks second in turnover of trade with Russia. Poland was third, Czechoslovakia fourth.

The Communist attempt to industrialize the nations of Eastern Europe and collectivize their agriculture resulted, the report showed, in turning them into importers of food. All but Czechoslovakia were pre-war exporters of food. Russia, with its own agricultural shortages, was forced to export food to the satellites.

A full third of the Communist bloc trade was in machinery and industrial equipment. Russia supplied more than half the iron ore needs of the other Red nations, but took back much of the material in machinery and other finished products.

Seek 2 Abductors of County Attorney

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma City police today sifted through fingerprint files in an effort to apprehend the two men who abducted a 30-year-old assistant county attorney.

Carroll Freeman told police two men forced him at gunpoint to accompany them early yesterday on a three-hour ride. He was released unharmed but he said he felt the incident was a "carefully planned plot to intimidate me."

Two men came up to his car, Freeman said, and one pulled an old-type pistol and ordered him to move over. The other got in on the right side.

Police were checking fingerprints found in Freeman's car.

Cowboy Dies; Hurt Saving Life of Son

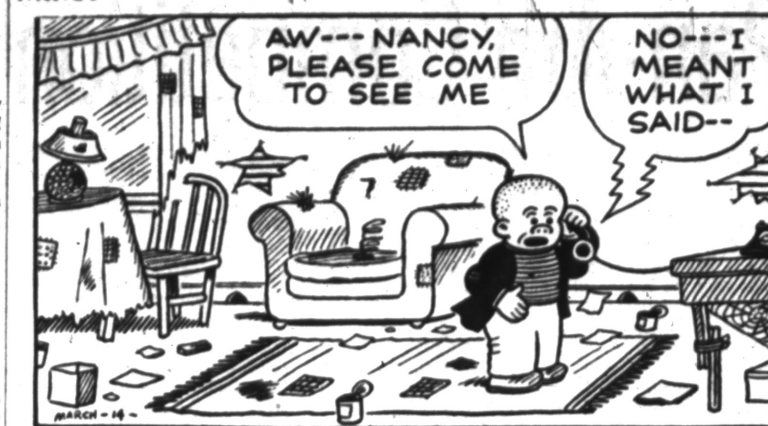

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Rodeo cowboy Carl Dossey, 36, died yesterday of a brain concussion he received in saving his 8-year-old son from a pair of runaway horses.

Dossey was riding ahead of his son Eddie in a Chandler, Ariz., parade yesterday when the horses bore down on them.

He swung his horse in front of his son's and took the impact. Both were thrown from their mounts. Eddie suffered a broken leg. They were taken to a hospital here.

Canadian production of tobacco in 1954 was 78,000 tons, a 30 per cent increase over 1953.

Legislature Set for Showdowns

House, Senate Facing Vote Tonight on Taxes, Soon on Highways

LANSING (AP)—Michigan's Legislature comes to two showdowns this week on taxes and highways.

A bill to extend the 1952 business receipts tax beyond its Tuesday expiration date is caught in a serious House-Senate dispute.

The Senate may vote tonight on highway expansion program substantially different from the one approved earlier in the House under a compromise agreement with Gov. Williams.

A House-Senate conference committee which has the tax bill in its lap planned to meet during the day in the hope of having an agreement ready for ratification when the two branches meet at 8 p.m.

Failure to reach agreement by tomorrow would mean expiration of the "experimental" tax, loss of about eight million dollars in revenues for the rest of the fiscal year and cancellation of any delinquent taxes owed during the past nine months.

The House has voted to extend the tax only until Dec. 31 so that it can be fitted into a new tax program being developed by the House Taxation Committee. The Senate has voted to extend the levy indefinitely and has shown little interest in any other kind of a tax program.

Advocates of a trunkline arterial system have had the major voice in shaping the Senate highway bill but their margin of victory on test votes has been so close that they will not know whether weekend lobbying back home has robbed them of final victory until tonight.

As it stands now, the Senate bill calls for a cent-and-a-half increase in the gasoline tax, 33 million dollars in new revenue to be split 75 per cent to the state and 25 per cent to local units, and both the state and local units authorized to issue revenue bonds for road construction under certain limitations.

Mamie's Health Won't Be Issue, Butler Declares

DETROIT (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler told Michigan Democrats over the weekend that the party has no intention of making the health of Mrs. Eisenhower a presidential campaign issue in 1956.

Republican criticism of his comment on Mrs. Eisenhower's health was termed "much ado about nothing" by Butler.

"I said nothing derogatory, disrespectful or embarrassing," Butler said.

He said the whole matter came up at a New York news conference when he expressed the personal opinion that President Eisenhower would not seek renomination.

"I mentioned a personal situation in the Eisenhower household," Butler said. "I said that I had read many reports from Washington correspondents that Mrs. Eisenhower's health was such that she did not want to spend another four years in the White House."

He viewed Republican attacks on him as "part and parcel of an effort to defile the occupants of the White House."

Dad Held in Murder of Wife; Son Injured

DETROIT (UP)—Police today held Fred Letreniere, 26, a truck driver, for investigation of murder in the slaying of his wife, Doris, 24, and wounding of their three-year-old son.

Letreniere's wife was dead on arrival at Receiving Hospital yesterday with a shot through her throat.

The couple's oldest child, Donald, who had three fingers shot from his hand, was treated at Providence Hospital.

Donald told police that his father had threatened to kill him and his mother because "he was mad."

"Daddy shot me. He said he was going to kill me and mommy," the boy told police.

Letreniere told police two different stories but insisted in both of them that his wife was shot accidentally while he wrestled with her for the gun.

A single cod fish may produce up to nine million eggs.

Roland Winters Plays Grouch

Six of His 35 Movies Were as Charlie Chan; Finds TV Hard Work

NEW YORK—Roland Winters became an actor because he liked to sleep late.

The grouchy boss of television's "Meet Millie" has hated to get up in the morning for as long as he can remember.

So when I learned that stage actors do most of their work in the afternoons and evenings and sleep mornings I knew that was the life for me," says Winters.

Born in Boston of German parents, the fun-loving youngster sampled "every school in New England" until his father lost patience and made him go to work. Always fond of water, Roland went to sea as an ordinary seaman for a while, then returned to Boston and obtained small parts in local stock companies there and in New York until the depression.

"In the early 1930s the bottom fell out of show business, but because I had gotten married, I took a job driving a taxi to support my wife," he recalls.

Then he caught on as a radio announcer and spent five years with a Boston station. In 1937, he went to New York and, for the next few years, worked on the Kate Smith Hour, the Philip Morris Playhouse and dozens of other shows.

Came the war, and the government, because of his facility with languages, sent him to Europe to do propaganda broadcasts in German. He also did a screening job later on German prisoners of war. When the war ended, he returned to the New York Stage.

"In 1947, I got the surprise of my life," he says. "The movies offered me the role of Charlie Chan. Here I am, six feet tall, blue eyes and blond hair and with a long nose and they ask me to portray Chan!"

Winters took the offer anyway, and made 35 movies, six of them Charlie Chan roles, between 1947 and 1953.

"I was lucky," he says, "in that I never typed. I played gangsters, Russians, Nazis, Englishmen and even Americans."

made his debut in television. swayed

Two years ago, the husky actor made his debut in television with Alan Young and a year ago he got his tracheal role of the senior Boone in "Meet Millie."

He likes television, but believes live television is the hardest possible work.

"After 10 hours of rehearsal, when you're completely exhausted, the show begins," he moans. "Meanwhile booms are moving, cameras are hopping around, people are muttering in the background, or snatching chairs out from under you for the next scene; perhaps even a whole wall moves in front of your eyes—and you're expected to concentrate."

"It's absolutely terrifying. And wonderful."

Probe Kentucky Crash of Jet From Selfridge

FULTON, Ky. (AP)—Government inspectors today investigated the crash of an F80 jet plane that smashed into a barn near here after its Detroit pilot bailed out over Lathan, Tenn.

Lt. Kenneth W. Underwood, based at Selfridge Air Force Base, escaped with minor injuries when he parachuted from the craft. The plane and barn burned but no one was injured.

Explorer Scouts in Area Vie for Jamboree Trip

Two explorer scouts from the Clinton Valley Council, which includes Oakland County, will win all-expense paid trips to the 8th International Jamboree in Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ontario, Aug. 19-28. This is the first time the outing of scouts from some 57 nations has been held on this continent.

Plans for a competition to select the two top explorers in the council were announced today by Edward Leland, council executive.

Any explorer, or senior scout, who was an active member of a Clinton Valley Council unit on Jan. 1, and who will be under 17½ years of age by Aug. 1, may apply to enter the competition.

He must also have attained the rank of first class, or ordinary sea scout, or explorer bronze-rank by the date of application.

Applications, together with a summary of the individual's qualifications and camping experience, must be in the hands of the council executive no later than March 31. Forms are available from the council office, 53½ W. Huron St., Pontiac.

The jamboree committee will choose the best-qualified explorers from the applications submitted, and arrange for competitions in scouting and outdoor skills for the final selection.

Leland said the two winners would be sent to a pre-jamboree training camp at Gary, Ind., Aug. 10-13, then on a tour to New York, Montreal, Quebec, Ottawa and finally to the site of the jamboree.

The dead girl is 5-year-old Sandra Zasowski. Her sister Linda, 4, was reported in fair condition today at Memorial Hospital.

Treated for shock was August Pengitore, who had attempted to move the car which was blocking a driveway. The vehicle, parked on a hill, coasted down out of control and into the Zasowski home.

Thief Steady Customer

ST. LOUIS — The Dutch Maid Grill has had a persistent customer three times in the past four weeks. The gunman escaped with $25 from the cash register early yesterday. A week ago he took $135 and on Feb. 20 between $40 and $50.

Pedals Fall Off Piano in Middle of Concert

BUFFALO, N.Y. — A 19-year-old New York pianist, making a guest appearance with the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra, was in the middle of Schumann's Concerto in

A Minor yesterday when the pedals dropped off the piano.

The pianist, Van Cliburn, waited patiently while Anthony Gillo, clarinetist with the orchestra and spare-time piano repairman, fixed the pedal unit. Then Cliburn started over again and finished the concerto to thunderous applause.

Turned In False Alarms to See Fire Engines

BALTIMORE — Suspicious after answering two false alarms in the same suburban area yesterday, firemen asked police to post a lookout.

They soon caught the culprit — a 4-year-old boy standing on his tricycle to reach a fire alarm box. Gently, they asked if he had done that before. "Yes," he said. "Why?" police asked. "I just like to see fire engines," said the boy.
