Kennedy Writes Sailors' Epitaph

Give Up Hope for N-Sub Lost With 129 Aboard

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy gave up hope today for the nuclear powered submarine Thresher and the 129 men who rode her down into a mile and a half of water 220 miles off Boston yesterday.

Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations, made the announcement more than 25 hours after contact was lost during a deep-diving test of the recently overhauled vessel.

"Very reluctantly I have come to the conclusion that the Thresher has indeed been lost."

And President Kennedy, in a statement expressing his deep distress over the disaster, wrote an epitaph for the ship's complement of officers, enlisted men and civilians.

He compared them with "their forefathers who led the advance on the frontiers of our civilization" and added:

"The future of our country will always be sure when there are men such as these to give their lives to preserve it."

Anderson said two main factors influnced his judgment:

The salvage vessel Recovery followed an oil slick detected Wednesday and found bits of cork used in internal construction of submarines.

Even if there had been a communications failure or the Thresher had gotten out of position in relation to its escort ship, the Skylark, "surely in the interim there would have been opportunity for the Thresher" to have re-established contact.

"I conclude with great regret and sadness that this fine ship with 129 souls aboard is lost," Anderson said.

He disclosed at the same time that orders had gone out to two other Thresher class submarines — the Permit and the Plunger — to limit the depth to which they may dive pending determination whether there are metal faults in the hull or other weaknesses.

The naval chief said a court of inquiry will investigate, among other things, work done on the Thresher during overhaul at the Portsmouth, N. H., Naval Yard since last July.

He noted that in the course of this overhaul and modernization, involving installation of new equipment, cuts as much as yard wide had been made in the Thresher's hull.

He said tests were made to find out if there were any weaknesses and the indications were there were none.

Anderson disclosed that the oil slick was sighted again this morning at 10:20 and this confirmed the position of the sub.

Anderson, asked if any occupants of the sub might be alive, said:

"In my judgement, no."

Asked how long the men in the sub might have lived, the Navy's top admiral said a "very, very short time," perhaps a matter of minutes.

SEARCH IN VAIN

At least up to the time Anderson made his announcement the Navy had been fighting against the longest odds, compounded by foul weather and the depth of the water, and hoping for a miracle.

Ships were concentrated over the area with the latest search and rescue gear and more were speeding to the point where the Thresher cocked its bow planes Wednesday morning and went down for a deep dive test.

But the admiral's words put all but the final seal on the Navy's worst peacetime submarine disaster, perhaps the worst of all time.

WILL SEEK WRECK

Anderson said the ocean bathyscaph Trieste, a deep-diving experimental craft, will be brought from San Diego by rail and sent down to try and locate the wreck to determine whether the Thresher collapsed and what might have happened to it. The Trieste is expected in perhaps a bit more than a week.

As he did Wednesday night, Anderson said he agreed with Vice Adm. Hyman Rickover, the Navy's leading atomic expert, that there is "no probability of any radiation contaminating the ocean" as a result of the Thresher disaster.

Anderson said the naval court of inquiry, meeting today in New London, Conn., will "certainly go into the possibility of sabotage." But he dismissed this possibility as remote.

He also said the court will consider whether there was any possible Russian action involved in the Thresher disappearance but he said "I certainly rule this out."

The area where the Thresher disappeared is one frequented by Soviet trawlers.

There were no Soviet submarines in the area "to the best of my knowledge" and no Soviet trawlers or other surface craft in the immediate area where the Thresher was test diving, the admiral said.

GOP Rebels See Plan Die

LANSING (AP)—A plan by four rebellious Republican "moderates" to rescue Gov. Romney's open occupancy bill from the House State Affairs Committee fizzled out today without ever getting off the launching pad.

The decision came in a hasty hallway conference between Rep. Gilbert Bursley R-Ann Arbor, and his three fellow-insurgents who had objected angrily last night to the committee's failure to report out the controversial bill.

Others in the group were Reps. Paul Chandler, R-Livonia, David Upton, R-St. Joseph, and Don Wismer, R-Port Huron.

They had notified the House they would move for discharge of the committee from further consideration of the bill, which would bar racial discrimination in real estate transactions.

The revolt would have been the second in less than 24 hours by GOP rebels against their leadership, but its collapse appeared to reaffirm the power of House Speaker Allison Green, R-Kingston, leader of the so-called conservatives, to hold the Republican caucus in line.

The most explosive head-to-head clash over political philosophies of the session yesterday produced a minimum wage bill previously declared dead, and set the stage for today's showdown that never came.

Bursley said he feared—after talking over the discharge motion with other House members—that insistence on it might destroy his own effectiveness and that of his fellow rebels and the party legislature.

FAKES CHARGE

Faced with getting his program out of committee ahead of the midnight legislative deadline, Romney took personal charge yesterday by paying a call on a House GOP caucus and pleading for the open occupancy bill and other measures.

"He hardly mentioned minimum wage," said Green. "It wasn't discussed."

The governor later indicated to newsmen he had abandoned virtually all hope for the wage bill upon which Democrats had been exerting pressure for him to demonstrate leadership and influence.

But when the smoke of the bat-

JFK Warns Steel Industry

Would Avoid General Increase in Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy called upon the steel industry and the steel workers union today to "avoid any action which would lead to a general across-the-board increase" in steel prices.

"I urge this in their own enlightened self-interest and in the public interest as well," Kennedy said in a statement.

But he held open the prospect of administration acceptance of selective, rather than broad price boosts.

The presidential statement followed a day and a half of intensive White House scrutiny of a selective price increase averaging $6 a ton on some items announced yesterday by Wheeling Steel Corp. No other company has announced a similar boost.

Kennedy postponed from yesterday, and delayed again today, his scheduled departure of an Easter vacation in Florida while he considered the steel situation with his top aides.

A year ago a $6 increase announced by U.S. Steel, the big gun in the industry, was followed by most of the rest of the industry. It was the signal for the President to muster the forces of government against the boost and force its cancellation.

The circumstances were somewhat different this time. And Kennedy was in a more conciliatory mood.

But he did say that his administration is watching closely the possibilities of a general increase.

Mild Temperatures to Sail In Friday

Skies will be partly overcast tonight and tomorrow, the weatherman said. But temperatures will be mild. The low tonight will drop to near 33 and rise to 53 tomorrow.

The forecast for Saturday is more of the same.

Thirty-five was the low recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The thermometer registered 46 at 2 p.m.

Arraign Case Monday

Circuit Court arraignment of Carl Case, charged with the bludgeon slaying of a White Lake Township teen-ager is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Case, 19, was bound over to the higher court after his preliminary examination today before West Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C. Dieterle.

The Green Oak Township youth entered a plea of not guilty. He was returned to the Oakland County Jail without bond.

Case is accused of fatally beating Leonard C. Reed, 16, 6290 White Lake Road, the evening of March 26.

Reed and sister Naomi, 16, were found beaten on McKeachie Road, a quarter mile from their home. Naomi remains on the critical list at Pontiac General Hospital.

Sons Aboard Thresher

3 State Families Fear Worst

DETROIT (AP) — The families of two Michigan men and one former Michigan man aboard the nuclear submarine Thresher waited in fear and anxiety today.

Aboard the underseas vessel—presumed lost in 8,400 feet of ocean depths — were their sons: Thomas C. Kantz, 27, of Ann Arbor; Marvin T. Helsius, 23, of Trout Creek, and the submarine's chief petty officer, Walter Jack Noonis, 33, who left Detroit to join the Navy in 1946.

At Ann Arbor, Mrs. Anna Kantz, who has borne the burden of the deaths of her husband and only daughter, waited for any optimistic turn in events.

Her husband, whom Thomas was named after, died of a heart attack in 1955. Her daughter Mary, 8, the only other child, was struck and killed by a car in 1945.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruno B. Helsius, the parents of Marvin, said they received a letter from their son just last week.

In the letter, Marvin had not made up his mind on whether to make a career of the Navy after serving for three years and seven months, Helsius said.

At the Kantz home, Thomas' aunt, Mrs. Margaret Dierkes, and his nephew, Norman Dierkes of Clawson, cared for Mrs. Kantz.

"She was very, very broken up about" reports of the missing submarine, Dierkes said.

RELEASE DUE SOON

"He was studying nuclear reactors and electronics and intended to pursue it after he got out," Dierkes said. Norman and Thom-

Back Edwards for Court Post

DETROIT (AP)—Ray Girardin, executive aide to Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, will become Detroit police commissioner if George Edwards, present commissioner, is named to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, Cavanagh announced today.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said today that Detroit's police commissioner, George Edwards, is being recommended to President Kennedy for appointment to the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Hart said at a news conference Edwards has the support of himself, Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., Rep. Neil Staebler, D-Mich., national committeeman for Michigan; Zolton Ferency, state Democratic chairman; and Mrs. Mildred Jeffrey, Democratic national committeewoman.

The top five Michigan leaders met a week ago in McNamara's office. One source said a decision was reached at that time to support Edwards for the post.

Edwards is a former Michigan Supreme Court justice, a former Circuit Court judge in Detroit, and a former Juvenile Court judge.

'Play' Fire Kills 6-Year-Old Boy

A 6-year-old boy, said to have told his playmate he knew how to build fires and put them out, was burned to death yesterday afternoon.

The body of Robert Wesley Higginbotham II was found in the ashes of a doghouse which had been consumed by fire.

Robert, known as "Buzzy," was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Higginbotham, 550 N. Glenhurst Dr., Bloomfield Township. He and his mother were visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred K. Nieman at 5781 Snowshoe Circle.

Robert was playing at the home across the street with 5-year-old Teddy Michaels when the fire broke out about 5:30 p.m., police said.

Teddy told Bloomfield Township police Robert had found some matches which he hadn't told his mother about. Warned by his friend not to do it, Robert climbed into the doghouse and set fire to a strip of paper in the doorway.

The youngster apparently panicked when the fire spread into the doghouse, the bottom of which was covered with straw. He crawled to the back of the doghouse rather than out of it, firemen said.

Teddy, who remained outside

Last Days of Christ to Be Observed

It was the year 33 A.D. Hundreds of Jews had flocked into the City of Jerusalem, mostly by foot, to celebrate the Feast of the Passover.

When Jesus of Nazareth arrived with His 12 disciples. He was welcomed with shouts of "Hosanna" by the multitudes. But Jewish leaders seeking political power who were fearful of His popularity and teachings immediately sought plans to put Him to death.

Christians throughout the world are holding services this week in commemoration of His last days on earth. It was at this Feast of the Passover that Christ instituted the rite of Holy Communion also known as The Lord's Supper.

Worshipers will gather in cathedrals, city churches, hospital chapels, vacant stores and homes tonight, tomorrow and Saturday as they observe centuries-old ceremonies commemorating the death of Christ on the Cross

ANNUAL SERVICE

The annual Good Friday service sponsored by the Pontiac Pastors' Association will be held from noon to 3 p.m. in First Presbyterian Church.

Several ministers of the association will speak on "The Seven Last Words From the Cross". Musical selections are under the direction of Lyndon Salathiel, choirmaster of First Presbyterian.

Rev. Wayne Brookshear, chairman for the day, said the order of worship is so arranged that people may come for a portion of the service at any time during the three-hour period.

Neighborhood services held in cooperation with the Pontiac pastors include the service from noon to 3 p.m. in New Bethel Baptist Church sponsored by the Oakland County Ministerial Fellowship.

More than 12 congregations will join with the Newman AME members who are serving as hosts. Meditations will be on "The Seven Last Words of the Cross."

CHRISTIAN TEMPLE

Rev. William Burgess of the First United Missionary Church will speak at the service in Christian Temple for north and east side churches. Worship will be from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Rev. Estel Moore of the Pike Street Church of God will also preach.

Participating congregations include Evangelical Temple, the First Church of the Brethren, Memorial Baptist, Friendly General Baptist, First Free Methodist, North East Community, Perry Park Baptist and Church of God in Andersonville.

Hopes for Federal Aid to Area Projects Rise

Hopes were restored today for more than $4.3-million in Oakland County projects following yesterday's action by the U. S. House of Representatives approving $450-million for President Kennedy's emergency public works program.

The House move overruled its Appropriations Committee, which had refused to grant any of the President's request for $500-million.

At the same time, Pontiac officials indicated renewed hope for a proposed $337,728 community center on the old water works site at Wessen and Walnut streets for which the city has asked $168,864 in matching funds.

If federal funds aren't made available, the center would be cut back in scope. City officials had all but abandoned hope of getting federal funds.

HOPES WERE DIM

Oakland County's hopes for federal matching funds to pay half the cost of three sewer projects, three Children's Village cottages and utility expansion and parking lots at the County Service Center had been dimmed by the appropriations committee action.

The committee cut was part of a Republican economy drive to trim the Administration's $98.8-billion budget.

The new developments, in which the House voted 228-184 to restore the $450 million, held little promise, however, for another $4.7-million in Oakland County water and sewer projects.

Federal aid for these projects was requested on the chance that Congress might provide even more than the $500 million.

Democratic party leaders in Washington were jubilant over the House action. The White House said, "Congress is to be congratulated for its action in the fight against unemployment."

There were some signs, however, that the Senate may balk at concurring in the House action.

The public works money was part of a $1.4-billion catch-all appropriation bill sent to the Senate by voice vote after two days of debate in which Republicans opposed the works program as a "political boondoggle" and Democrats defended it as an economic "must."

The $4.7 million in Oakland County projects which depend on even more federal money becoming available in the program includes a $2-million water supply system for Waterford Township and two arms of the Huron-Rouge sewer system.

Broomfield Hit by Dem Blast

Oakland County Democrat chairman Sander Levin asserted today that U.S. Rep. William Broomfield, R-Oakland County, had disregarded the interests of Oakland County in voting against a $450-million accelerated public works program.

Levin stated further that Broomfield's negative vote was even more objectionable because the congressman had told county communities that he would gladly assist them in processing federal assistance applications under the original public works project.

The frantic mother and the girl suffered minor burns on their hands in an attempt to turn the blazing shed over, according to police. Their effort was fruitless, for the doghouse was already enveloped in flames.

Robert was in the first grade at Quarton School. Besides his parents and maternal grandparents, he is survived by a sister Karin and grandmother, Mrs. Lon Nanney of Los Angeles, Calif.

Sailors' Kin Fear, Hope and Wait

By The Associated Press

"Waiting and praying." These three words sum up the hopes and fears of wives, parents and other kin of those aboard the nuclear submarine Thresher, reported missing Wednesday.

"I'm living in hope," said William Keller of Green Bay, Wis., father of crewman Ronald D. Keller, 22. The father said his son wrote two weeks ago that he expected to be promoted to petty officer first class next Tuesday.

"I hope, I wait," sobbed Mrs. Henry F. Zweifel of La Crosse, Wis., mother of Jay H. Zweifel, 22. The mother said another son, Lennis, 18, is in training at the Great Lakes Naval Station.

"We're just waiting and praying now," said Mrs. Aaron S. Gunter of Jacksonville, Fla., whose son, signalman Aaron Jade Gunter was aboard the Thresher. Waiting at Portsmouth, N.H., was Gunter's wife, Doris Mae.

"We are hoping and praying, we are not panicking," said Ralph E. Grafton of De Witt, N.Y., a suburb of Syracuse, father of Lt. (j.g.) John G. Grafton, 25.

The lieutenant is single. He has two teen-aged sisters and a brother.

HOPEFUL

Waiting hopefully in Spokane, Wash., were Mr. and Mrs. Everett B. Wiggins, parents of Lewis Wiggins, 29. Wiggins, a 12-year Navy veteran, has a wife and three children in Exeter, N.H.

It's been almost a year since Mrs. Frank Malinski Jr., of Phoenix, Ariz., has seen her son, Lt. (j.g.) Frank J. Malinski, 21. Mrs. Malinski tried vainly for several hours to get word to her husband, who had gone to Tucson. Young Malinski is single.

Kenneth Hayes, a retired Navy man now of Temple City, Calif., said his son, Norman, 24 electrician 1.c. was "a real navy man. Since I was with the staff of the commander of the submarine fleet at Pearl Harbor, he heard plenty."

"She's hoping for the best. All of us are hoping. All of us are praying."

To Head Arts Festival Slated for June 16-23

BIRMINGHAM—Robert F. McLean has been named chairman of the 1963 Birmingham Arts Festival, scheduled for June 16-23.

Robinson will serve on the festival advisory committee with Colin H. John, 783 Puritan Drive, chairman of the 1962 festival, and Robert B. Bender, 800 Covington Road, Bloomfield Township, past president of the BAA.

McLean has announced the following assistant chairmen:

Mrs. Robert B. Bender, Birmingham Arts Center (BAC) activities. She will supervise judging, awards, the BAC exhibition, artists' market display and sale. These events will take place at the center, 1516 S. Cranbrook Road.

James Bernardin, 6204 Eastmoor Road, Bloomfield Township, design. His assignment includes creation of this year's festival symbol and coordination of all graphic materials.

Festival secretary-treasurer is Charles Mortenson, 214 Gallogly Road, Lake Angelus.

Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley has issued a warning to area motorists to maintain cautious driving habits even though spring is here and driving conditions have improved.

"Exceeding a safe speed is the cause of approximately one-third of all accidents in Birmingham," he says. "This type of accident always rises sharply in the spring when the streets open up and atmospheric conditions improve."

In his traffic report for March, Moxley points out that 65 mishaps occurred, as compared to March 1962 when there were 60 accidents.

However, there were 36 fewer accidents last month than in February.

The accident report also shows that all but one of last month's accidents involved traffic violations.

GOP Wants State Bar to Investigate Conduct

LANSING (UPI) — A State Bar Association investigation was called for today on the conduct of Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley.

Kelley issued a press release blasting Republican Gov. George Romney attached to an opinion citing as unconstitutional Michigan's Aid to Dependent Children (ADC-U) Act.

In a lengthy debate just before the Senate adjourned for the weekend, Republican senators attacked as "patent untruths" and "bald-faced lies" Kelley's remarks about the effect of the recent enacted law.

Kelley said in his formal opinion that the act passed by the 1963 legislature violated both the state and federal constitutions.

"As an attorney I am incensed," said Senate Majority Leader Stanley G. Thayer, R-Ann Arbor, in reference to the news release.

"Attorney general's opinions are viewed as quasi-judicial opinions. They are cited where there are no court decisions to guide us.

"The issuance of a press release with an opinion is highly questionable conduct," said Thayer. "The State Bar Association should consider whether this is proper conduct. If it is not unethical it is certainly unbecoming to an attorney in this position."

Kelley's sharply attacked Romney's position on the legislation in the news release.

"Thirty thousand ill-fed, poorly clothed children are being deprived of assistance due to the cynicism of Gov. Romney in refusing to fight for what rightly belongs to Michigan," Kelley said in the accompanying statement.

Redistricting Bill Out

LANSING — The House Apportionment Committee headed by Rep. Henry M. Hogan Jr., R-Bloomfield Township, yesterday reported out a Congressional redistricting bill amid Republican controversy over the measure.

The bill is a Senate-approved measure sponsored by Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Oakland County, with a gimmick designed to give GOP legislators more time to resolve their differences over alignment of Thumb areas.

Hogan said the gimmick, a change in the division of Oakland County into two districts, would insure that the bill ends up in a House-Senate conference committee if it is passed by the House in its present form.

Hogan said Republicans may come up with the 56 votes needed for passage even if changes to resolve the dispute were not worked out by the April 24 deadline. But the Republicans would want an opportunity for further changes in a conference committee.

Hogan indicated that some changes may be made before the House approves the bill.

STAYS IN 18TH

It leaves the township in a reduced 18th district instead of putting it, as the Senate did, with most of Oakland County in a new 19th district with Lapeer and St. Clair counties.

Hogan said this change was designed to get Senate approval of a conference committee because it was assumed Roberts would object.

Roberts is a possible candidate for Congress from the new 19th district which Michigan received as a result of the 1960 census.

Hogan indicated that West Bloomfield Township would probably be put back in the 19th before the bill is finally approved.

He also indicated that changes in alignment of the Thumb area may put Livingston County in the 19th with most of Oakland instead of Lapeer and St. Clair counties, which are considered part of the Thumb area.

Some Republicans want all of the Thumb area in one district. One proposal for such received Democratic support because it would have made a separate Democratic district of Genesee County.

The bill would leave Bloomfield Township, Royal Oak Township, Southfield Township and Farmington Township and the cities they contain, plus Troy, in the 18th, which now encompasses all of Oakland County.

The final bill — and the Legislature is expected to resolve remaining disputes and pass one—will likely include the rest of Oakland County and Livingston County in the 19th, according to legislators.

The county's 1960 population of 690,603 is much greater than the "ideal" of 411,000 per district. The realigned districts in the bill would keep districts within 15 per cent of the "ideal."

For Retirement

Adenauer Confirms Plans

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has confirmed publicly a promise he made four months ago to leaders of his Christian Democratic party—that he will retire from office this fall.

The 87-year-old statesman said in a television interview at the Italian resort of Cadenabbia that he will step down in October or November from the post he has held for nearly 14 years.

Party leaders told the public of Adenauer's retirement promise last December, but he did not confirm it until yesterday.

Exiles Angered by 'Soft' JFK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Relations between Cuban exiles and the Kennedy administration are split from top to bottom and may be beyond repair, observers said here today.

Administration officials blamed the rift on the exiles' refusal to accept President Kennedy's orders to cease offensive action against Cuba.

The high Washington officials are deeply concerned that the anti-Castro revolutionaries and the U.S. public will draw the conclusion that the administration is "soft" on the regime of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

But of greater concern to these officials is that by submitting to exile demands for an early invasion of Cuba or supporting their hit-and-run raids, the administration would be placed in the position of letting the exiles dictate U.S.-Cuban policy.

The simmering dispute that began with Kennedy's order against exile raids from U.S. territory erupted last night when the administration made known it had rejected demands by Dr. Miro Cardona, president of the revolutionary council in Miami, for U.S. support of an early invasion.

Miro submitted his resignation during a night-long council session but the council rejected it in a predawn communique coupled with a denunciation of U.S. policy toward Cuba.

Officials acknowledged this created an embarrassing problem since Miro and the council had been the administration's chosen instrument to execute the Bay of Pigs invasion.

But they emphasized that the 60-year-old former premier of the Castro government may no longer hold a commanding position either in the exile movement or within Cuba should circumstances require a rallying figure.

"We must accept the fact that yesterday's leaders may no long-er be the leaders of tomorrow's battle," one official remarked.

U. S. Names Supervisor of Labor Dept. Branch

LANSING (AP) — William A. Price of Okemos was appointed Michigan supervisor for the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training of the U.S. Department of Labor yesterday.

To Modernize Plant of Michigan Firm

MUSKEGON (AP) — Kaydon Engineering Corp. announced yesterday a $2-million plant modernization and building program for its plant in Norton Township.

Of the total, $1.4 million is committed for the purchase of new machinery. The program is scheduled to start immediately.

Support Rallies for Castro Foe

MIAMI (UPI) — The Cuban exile colony, demonstrating unaccustomed unity of purpose, rallied today behind Revolutionary Council President Dr. Jose Miro Cardona in his break with the Kennedy administration.

The council unanimously rejected Miro's resignation, submitted in anger at the administration's decision to curb anti-Castro raiding parties and the apparent lack of a comprehensive plan to destroy the regime of Premier Fidel Castro and his Communist cohorts.

The council, heretofore recognized by the Kennedy administration as the voice of the 250,000 Cuban refugees in the United States, vowed to continue the fight to liberate their homeland from international Communism regardless of official U.S. policy.

Exiles here openly stated their belief that the U.S. government has decided to "coexist with Communist Cuba."

Exiles who formerly opposed Miro praised him for his firm stand against U.S. Cuban policy. A report from Washington that Miro presented his resignation because he failed to get $50 million from the United States to mount an invasion force appears locally to have backfired.

Spokesmen for the Cuban community, which now comprises one-tenth of this city's population, generally disbelieves the report and say it has helped to increase support for Miro, a 60-year-old former premier in the Castro regime.

Trial Board Session Slated for Officer

A Pontiac Police trial board hearing is scheduled for April 17 to review misconduct charges against suspended patrolman John Bridgewater.

Bridgewater, 33, of 5450 Tubbs Road, Waterford Township, was suspended March 30 by Police Chief Joseph Koren, who brought the charge.

There are no criminal charges against Bridgewater, Koren said.

Because of the McMahon line, separating India and Tibet, has never been surveyed, cartographers still regard the frontier as undefined.

Senate Approves JFK's Youth Corps

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has approved President Kennedy's program to put thousands of American youths to work on conservation and community projects.

But before the youngsters can be sent into parks and forests and into local hospitals and libraries, the House will have to give its approval. And this, administration lieutenants concede, is no sure thing.

Kennedy men in the Senate had promised to pass the youth employment bill before Easter. They made good Wednesday night, but it took a 12-hour session, longest of the year, before the 50-34 vote was rolled up.

Although the House Labor Committee has approved a bill close to the Senate version, House Republicans promise a stiff fight and Democratic leaders say they do not know if the bill will be passed.

DEBATE DELAYED

It won't be called up for debate until the holiday recess ends April 22 and floor consideration is unlikely before May, said administration leaders in the House.

The legislation deals with two programs which, proponents say, will eventually provide up to 100,000 jobs a year to those in the 16-21 age bracket.

One would send youths into camps in a federal conservation corps patterned after the old CCC of the 1930s. The other would establish a state and community force to work on local public service projects.

The measure was cleared to the House with votes of 43 Democrats and 7 Republicans. It was opposed by 20 Republicans and 14 Democrats, 12 of them Southerners.

Republicans centered their attack on the conservation corps section of the bill, its most attractive feature to many Democrats. GOP efforts to eliminate this failed by 47 to 41, the closest squeak for the bill in the floor fight.

GOP AMENDMENT

Managers of the bill accepted a Republican amendment to ban any exclusions from the program on racial grounds. But they rejected others to prohibit segregation in the camps and to bar discrimination in the facilities on which the youths work.

The bill would authorize $50 million each for the conservation camps and local public service projects in the first year of the program.

For the remaining four years covered by the bill, it would be up to the administration and Congress to decide how much money to go into it.

Canada General Rests After Mild Heart Attack

OTTAWA (AP) — A very mild heart attack has forced Canada's 74-year-old governor-general, Gen. George P. Vanier, to cancel official engagements for the next six weeks.

The announcement from Government House said that Vanier will be able to carry on his other duties. A member of his staff said he can receive visitors.

Arrest Police in Slaying

Chinese Reds Free Indian Prisoners

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Chinese Communists turned over 144 Indian prisoners of war to the Indian Red Cross yesterday at Batitung, in the Eastern Himalayas. The Indian government said between 30 and 40 were unable to walk.

They were the first of 3,123 prisoners Peking announced it would set free. The Chinese said they were all that remained of the Indian troops captured during the border war last fall.

Addition Is Approved for Isle Royale Park

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Interior Committee approved yesterday a bill to authorize a six-acre addition to the Isle Royale National Park in Michigan.

County Supervisors Select Strong Leaders

DELOS HAMLIN was the unanimous choice and he heads the important Oakland county governing board for the eighth consecutive year. Mr. HAMLIN shattered tradition several years ago for continuance in office and now each successive term merely means that he is extending his record.

HAMLIN

Fortunately for the taxpayers in Oakland County, Mr. Hamlin is an astute, capable and far-sighted chairman who understands business on the high level to which this county has moved. The current budget slips past the $17 million mark which falls under the general heading of "big business."

Few people have ever served the public with a more steadfast purpose or a greater dedication. DELOS HAMLIN has made friends all over the area and inspires widespread confidence.

The administrative fiber of the Board is strengthened by the election of Frank Webber, of Addison Twp. as vice chairman. A former successful Detroit businessman followed by many years of banking experience, he is now serving his fifth term as Addison Township Supervisor.

WEBBER

The elevation of Mr. WEBBER puts a man of well-rounded business and government experience in a position of county importance. The County is favored with a strong group of administrative leaders.

We Still Wish to Keep Peace and Harmony

This big Canadian vote really resulted in a no-decision contest, but certainly the outspoken critic of the United States lost more marbles than he won.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's opponent took a plurality of seats although neither party garnered a majority. Thus a certain amount of indecision must still reign. Lester B. Pearson and his pro-American Liberal Party are assured of a big voice in the new government, whatever happens. Since neither side has mathematical control, a coalition government will probably be the answer.

Mr. PEARSON believes in a cooperative military front in our hemisphere and his friendly attitude toward the United States is decidedly at variance with that of the Prime Minister. In fact DIEFENBAKER'S rebuke in the "no confidence" vote resulted in the election.

Few nations anywhere have existed as long and as peacefully as the United States and Canada. We believe that the bulk of the Canadians and the Americans devoutly wish for this understanding and belief to continue forever. Certainly, the bulk of the residents on this side of the border entertain nothing but the kindest and friendliest thoughts in regard to Canadians in general.

Diefenbaker's ill-timed remarks about the United States really hurt over here. He may have had some justification because of unfortunate block-headed bungling in Washington. That we concede. In fact The Chicago Tribune feels our own administration has fumbled the diplomatic ball badly and says specifically: "It would be hard to find a more inept example of handling neighborly relations than that of Mr. Kennedy and his associates in dealing with Canada."

This newspaper wants peace, harmony and concord with our good, long-time Canadian friends, now and forever.

The Man About Town

A Man About the World Tells the Man About Town

A visit with my friend

Mr. P., still on cloud nine over a recent 60-day round-the-world cruise, is pretty proud of the Silver Anniversary joint meeting of the Peninsular State Philatelic Society and Birmingham Stamp Club recently held there, of which he was general chairman.

The theme of the event, attended by 1450 with 400 members registered, was the Henry Ford centennial.

Going from stamps to scouts, my friend was one of the original group of "Lone Scouts"—so named because where there were too few to form a Boy Scout troop, the lad desirous of identifying himself with the scout organization could enter into its training and development programs as a "loner" . . And one of this pioneer scout's cherished possessions is his badge symbolizing such status, given him in 1910 . . . one of the few extant.

From our composing room,

who's a marriage counselor.

Yep . . . I bit. The counselor's a bachelor.

But a dyed-in-the-wool last-laugh man, your columnist upheld the prestige of his cult by wondering how many marriages have floundered because of lack O'Dea.

A couple of accounts of over-ambitious Amaryllis bulbs that grew two stems where only one's supposed to grow, brought forth a call from

Mrs. Alvin L. Caverly

Out of the 50-odd that she has reared, about one in twelve has been twin-stemmed . . . I'm sure it's not in any garden book, but how 'bout calling 'em "stem-winders"?

Maybe I'd better go and lie down for awhile.

David Lawrence Says:

Steel Price 'Tryout' Momentous

WASHINGTON—Another crisis in the steel industry is in the making. It could have effects that would spur the economy, but it could, on the other hand, turn the economy downward and bring an era of stagnation and frustration.

For almost five years the steel companies have not raised their prices, though their wage costs have gone up steadily. Meanwhile, profits have been squeezed, dividends have been reduced, and more than 100,000 steel workers have been deprived of jobs.

Much of this trouble, though not all of it, was intensified by President Kennedy's dramatic interference with the steel-price rise that several companies endeavored to put into effect in April 1962.

They found themselves threatened with loss of contracts by the Defense Department and publicized investigations by the Department of Justice, supposedly seeking evidence for antitrust suits which never materialized.

This constituted a form of "police state" pressure unprecedented in American history.

But economic facts cannot be erased by presidential threats or by coercive tactics of government departments. A new attempt to raise prices has just been made this week by the Wheeling Steel Co. of West Virginia, the eleventh largest producer of steel in the country.

The move has come as a surprise, even to steel men. Almost everybody expected that sooner or later some company would try a price rise, but nobody knew which corporation would do it, or when.

Now a propitious time has arrived, because demand for steel has lately been rising. It isn't clear yet whether this trend will be maintained, for much of the demand comes from inventory stockpiling due to the fear of another steel strike this summer.

If no strike occurs, the question is whether the price rise then would stick.

Roger Blough, chairman of the U. S. Steel Corp., expressed doubts about what the reaction to a price increase might have been if there had been no presidential interference a year ago. Mr. Blough said:

"Had they (steel prices) stuck at the time, it seems probable that in the case of some products and areas, the competitive forces of the market would later have compelled a reduction from the newly established higher levels. But there is little doubt that the general level of steel prices would now be higher than it is."

INTERVENTION UNWISE

Today, some of the steel companies are considering an experimental try at price raising. It would be unwise for the administration to intervene this time for a variety of reasons—mostly because the economy would sag and become depressed by any such step.

But a big uncertainty remains as to whether any general price increase would really prove effective now. There might be increases currently in the prices of selective items and among those products in which certain companies specialize and have little competition.

Then some upward price trend in the general list of steel products might later ensue.

Is the country ready at present, however, to pay higher prices for steel? Or has the saturation point on prices come for the time being?

If business expansion as a whole continues to be thwarted due to the failure of the Administration to do something about the labor union monopolies, then price increases to steel will fail to accomplish their purpose.

The larger companies would survive, but the marginal ones would go out of business and there would be more unemployment than before.

It's always a risky experiment to raise prices in a sluggish economy. But it is even riskier to let labor unions press for increased wage costs which materially reduce profits when a rise in prices cannot be absorbed by the buyers.

The experiment in the steel price change about to be undertaken is the most momentous development in the national economy in the last five years of rising wage costs without equivalent price increases.

If the steel price rise now can be absorbed without a drop in buying, it will be a sure sign that, to use the President's language, the economy is "moving again."

Bob Considine Says:

Heres' One '64 Candidate Who's Ready to Announce

NEW YORK — People . . . places . . . things . . .

Governors Rockefeller, Scranton and Romney, Sen. Barry Goldwater and others may be shy about announcing their intentions to run for the presidency in 1964.

CONSIDINE

But not my friend Symon Gould, perennial candidate of the American Vegetarian Party.

"I'm getting ready to announce," Mr. Gould writes, "personally, I think JFK is in for a lickin', if events continue to shape up agin him. After all, there are six big electoral states that are in doubt. The Repubs have elected their governors in three of 'em.

"JFK had better start doing something sensational to recapture the throb of the public. Thus far he's marking time, and not making history.

"He's relying too much on the rhetoric of his speech-writers and not enough on executive action.

"I could give him a few points if he asked me! They're in the platform of the American Vegetarian Party.

"One is a call for the appointment of a Secretary of Peace in the cabinet, someone of the stature of a Bertrand Russell (but an American, of course).

"Another thing I'd suggest is that he fly down to Greenville, Miss., and lead a Negro voter up to the registrar."

The nation is getting a bad rap overseas because of what is happening to Negroes in Greenville, Miss., and Birmingham, Ala.

A partial rebuttal, at least, would be to let the overseas critics know what is happening in the Virgin Islands, U.S.A., 85 per cent Negro.

There is full integration there. The president of the V. I. Senate is Earle B. Ottley, prominent Negro businessman, labor leader and newspaper editor.

There is 90 per cent literacy, a great expansion of industry and Gov. Ralph M. Paiewonsky has a balanced budget.

Tourism is booming, trade skyrocketing, and a middle class is emerging, as if to refute a growing belief overseas that it can't happen here.

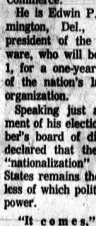
In Washington:

Views Nationalization Pushers

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A new set of devils — said to be responsible for the growing power of the federal government regardless of whether Democrats or Republicans run the White House and Congress — has been identified by the president-elect of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.



EDSON

He is Edwin P. Neilan of Wilmington, Del., chairman and president of the Bank of Delaware, who will be installed May 1, for a one-year term as head of the nation's largest business organization.

Speaking just after announcement of his election by the chamber's board of directors, Neilan declared that the impetus for "nationalization" in the United States remains the same regardless of which political party is in power.

"It comes," he asserted, "from a relatively small group of entrenched civil servants who use both parties to extend their power and social philosophy.

"They appear to be beyond any adequate control by the thin layer of political appointees at the top."

Neilan names no names, gives no specific examples, does not identify in what government agencies "the entrenched" are to be found.

But this is something brand new in the way of a charge from the business community as to who is responsible for all the big government programs businessmen object to.

Neilan's target isn't the Americans for Democratic Action, the favorite group to blame for what's wrong with the country. Neither does he make the Communists his whipping boy. Nor does he hold that new Washington policies are dictated by the labor bosses—though he does have some definite views on treating the monopoly power of labor unions the same as business monopolies.

Democratic new frontiersmen aren't blamed any more than the Republicans by Neilan. No, it's this unspecified little group of top grade civil servants — government career men barred from political activity by the Hatch act, bureaucrats if you will — who are now held up by him for indictment on charges of running the Establishment.

In this connection, it is recalled that when the Eisenhower administration came to town 10 years ago there was a definite effort to get government career men out of all policy-making jobs and appoint Republicans in their places.

The effort wasn't completely successful. But when the Kennedy administration took over it very definitely removed all Republican policymakers and replaced them with Democrats.

Most career civil servants, considered experts in their respective fields, stayed on in their nonpolicy - making jobs. The best of these people are usually singled out to get annual meritorious service awards for carrying out plans approved by the policy makers as authorized by acts of Congress.

But, says Neilan, "these federal officials are on the road selling their subsidy programs as painless panaceas for almost every type of community problem.

"They endeavor to convince business, civic and political leaders that shopping for money in Washington is like visiting the bargain basement. The next step will be to create a cabinet - level Department of Urban Affairs and turn our cities into federal dependencies."

This last point is what Neilan hopes to oppose most vigorously in his year as U.S. Chamber president. He is on sound ground here, although he probably is fighting a hopeless battle.

He admits it is easier for mayors to come to Washington for $100,000 grants or loans than to try to raise money at home.

Neilan identifies himself politically as a great ticket splitter. Born in Michigan, reared in the midwest and Texas, he voted for Al Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt — the first two times. The he became a registered Republican.

"I'm not sure I can qualify as a conservative," he says. "Some of my banking competitors say I'm not."

Voice of the People:

'Secret Agreement Made Between Russia and U.S.?'

There is a second Cuban crisis taking place.

The sudden order to stop all raids against Communist Cuba "by every means possible" was a shock and the first reaction among Cubans in exile was astonishment, and then indignation which spread throughout the frustrated, angry refugees like smallpox.

Latin Americans, too, were aghast.

The United States has shocked its hemispheric friends to the very core. This country preached to the world that it stands for freedom. Time and again, the United States has reiterated its total support for men who are fighting for the liberty of their country. Now, overnight, there is total negation.

The reason must lie in a secret agreement made between Washington and Moscow at the time of the October Cuban crisis. Nothing else can explain the powerful crackdown on those who fight against Castro and communism in the hemisphere.

Udall Attacked on Dunes Bill

Accused of Trying to Eliminate Safeguards

TRAVERSE CITY (UPI)—The Interior Department was under attack today for allegedly trying to wipe safeguards from a bill by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., to make Sleeping Bear Dunes into a national park.

Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall was accused of recommending that Congress eliminate "the very protective provisions in the bill that Sen. Hart is assuring property owners will preserve their rights."

The charge came yesterday from Ove F. Jensen, Glen Arbor, in a letter to Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., chairman of the subcommittee on public lands of the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee.

Jensen, chairman of the Citizens' Council for Sleeping Bear and Platte Lakes Area Association, said Udall also urged in committee hearings March 28-29 that the bill "delete any authority of the Michigan Conservation Department to control hunting and fishing in the park area."

Jensen referred to a copy of a statement introduced into the committee record by Udall "that was available to no one else."

He noted that Udall urged elimination of any reference in Hart's bill to inland lakeshore residential areas in Benzie and Leelanau counties.

"This provision was widely publicized by Sen. Hart as the answer to all property owners' problems, certainly with the inference that these provisions had approval of the park service. Obviously, this is not true," Jensen wrote.

He said the council here was under the impression that Hart's bill was drafted jointly by the senator and the park service "and that there has never before been prior indication of this disagreement."

Queen to Be Picked for CAI June Fair

New Ford Chief Woke Slumbering Giant

By The Associated Press

When R. J. Miller of Shelby, Neb., became the father of a son in 1916 he named him Arjay.

Yesterday, less than a month after his 47th birthday, Arjay Miller was named the seventh president of Ford Motor Co., one of the nation's largest corporations.

Miller and nine other Air Force statistical officers joined Ford in 1946 as Henry Ford II and Ernest Breech searched desparately for talent to reorganize the slumbering giant of Dearborn.

The group was one of the first of the new familiar management teams. And things happened so fast when they took over they automatically were dubbed the whiz kids.

It was from this team that Robert S. McNamara emerged to become president of Ford in November 1960, a job he held only five weeks before joining the Kennedy Cabinet as Secretary of Defense.

Like McNamara, he choses to live in the university atmosphere of Ann Arbor, rather than the Grosse Pointes or Bloomfield Hills areas where most of the auto executives congregate.

And also like McNamara, he is a westerner.

He received his early education in Nebraska and was graduated from UCLA with a degree in banking and finance.

Graduate work at the University of California followed, where he was a teaching assistant. Later he worked for the Federal Reserve Bank in San Francisco.

During his Air Force stint, he met McNamara while attending a statistical school at Harvard.

At Ford, he has been an "inside" man, closely connected with the staff organization of the growing company, but rarely exposed as a speech maker or at other public functions.

Finance has been his major field. He has served as assistant treasurer, assistant controller.

Two years ago, he was elected vice president for finance.

But the move which hinted a t today's election came Feb. 1, 1962, when he was named to a new job of vice president staff group and was given many of the jobs formerly handled personally by Henry Ford II.

His office has been adjacent to Ford's at the top of the "glass house," as the Ford central office building in Dearborn is most commonly called.

Although his first name is unusual, Miller is a rarity among Ford presidents in that he also has a middle name.

Henry Ford, his son Edsel and his grandson Henry II, had no middle names, and neither does Dykstra.

Miller's full name is Arjay Ray Miller.

Arjay Brings Firm Accent on Youth

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co., which returned to auto racing this year "to build a reputation with young people," will install a 47-year-old president May 1 to succeed 65-year-old John Dykstra.

He could be Ford's president for the next 18 years. It would take Miller that long to reach what Chairman Henry Ford II describes as "the mandatory retirement age" of 65.

Ford is 45 and two years younger than Miller. Thus, unless Ford stepped down before he's 65 there would be no place for Miller to step up to in the hierarchy of the nation's No. 2 automaker.

Ford, introducing Miller at a news conference yesterday, told reporters that his company had broken the racing ban of the Automobile Manufacturers Association to "build a reputation with young people."

Pointing out with obvious relish that Fords captured the first five places in the Daytona 500-mile race earlier this year, Ford said such performances "permeate the image of durability of product."

Both Ford and his new president told newsmen that while Ford's share of the total auto market had slipped from 27 per cent in 1962 to 25 per cent, its penetration now is on an upward swing.

Start Survey on U. S. 2

LANSING (AP)—The State Highway Department reports survey crews have started work on a $1-million modernization of seven miles of U.S. 2 at Isabella, Delta County. Contracts on the project will bet let in mid-1964, the department said.

Company Testing Apollo Moon Suits

Dr. William M. Helvey, chief of the Space Environment and Life Sciences Laboratory of the Republic Aviation Corp., said Wednesday the garment is being designed for use inside and outside the spacecraft.

Project Apollo crewmen will carry a back pack, plugged into outlets in the space suit, when they leave the space craft. The pack will provide a life support system, Helvey said.

Humidity warps wood and swells leather, rusts iron and spreads mold, as well as making people tired and tense.

Wedding Seats Dear

LONDON (UPI) — A London ticket agency said today it is selling $56 and $70 seats to the public to watch the processions to and from Princess Alexandra's wedding at Westminster Abbey April 24.

Abstract Political Murals Blend Into Latin Culture

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I believe it was Aristotle who said that American tourists go abroad mainly to look at other American tourists. Or maybe it was Cassius Clay.

At any rate, this jibe at our provincialism has a certain amount of validity. Many American tourists do fail to take full advantage of the cultural opportunities in the lands they visit.

But, having just returned from a trip to Venezuela, I am prepared to testify that there is another side to the coin.

"Getting away from it all" is not as simple as it looks in the travel flolders.

The first Venezuelan I met was a hotel barber who told me that anti-American sentiment was so strong he was afraid to drive around in his Cadillac. It turned out he was born in New York.

I might never have experienced any of the "true flavor" of the country had I not been fortunate enough to have as one of my traveling companions a veteran globetrotter named Myron Glaser.

Glaser, who writes a travel column for the Washington Daily News, steered me to the environs of Caracas where we discovered an original native art form.

At first, we thought it might be the handiwork of Indian aborigines who once inhabited the area.

But a local art critic, who doubles as a taxi driver, told us its origin was political rather than cultural. Here is how the mural was created:

A pro-Communist passed by with a paint brush and, noting that the wall was barren of slogans, painted "Yankee Go Home" upon the stones.

Then an anti-Communist came by, smeared fresh paint over the epithet and scrawled "Communism Stinks."

He was followed by a neutralist sign-painter, and so it went until the wall had become a masterpiece of impressionistic art.

In my opinion, this technique is far superior to the so-called "donkey tail" school of painting and I hope it catches on in other parts of the world.

HUMORESQUE

A few days later, Glaser and I organized a small expedition in the town of Macuto, our aim being to inspect the dwellings of the native Andeans who live on the mountainside.

Stumbling over rocks and rills, and an occasional templed hill, we made our way from ridge to ridge, pressing ever onward and upward. But we could find no sign of habitation.

Finally, we came to a pathway and in the distance heard the tinking of a bell.

Striking out in that direction, we broke through to a clearing and were almost run down by an ice cream wagon.

It was a triumphant moment and Glaser expressed it well.

"The sun never sets on a 'Good Humor' man," he said.

Each Exemption You Can Claim Is $600 Tax Deduction

EDITOR'S NOTE—There are many rules relating to exemptions for dependents in filing your federal income tax return. This article, fourth in a series, tells whom you can and cannot claim as a dependent.

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Exemptions are money saved in filing your 1962 income tax return. Each one you can claim means $600 subtracted from your income before what's left is taxable.

MARLOW

Besides the $600 exemption allowed each person filing a return, you get a $600 exemption for each dependent.

* * *

Husband-wife exemptions were explained in article No. 3 of this series. A wife is not a dependent. Who is? There are a lot of rules on that.

They differ for different kinds of dependents.

You would not, for instance, get an extra $600 exemption for a dependent because he was 65 or blind as you would for yourself or wife if you or she were 65 or blind.

You can claim your child as a dependent if he was born or died in 1962 (but not a stillborn child) if you contributed to more than half his support in that part of 1962 in which he was alive.

HALF OF SUPPORT

If he was under 19, and you paid more than half his support, you can claim him as a dependent no matter how much income he had.

If he was 19, and had $600 or more income, you couldn't claim him as a dependent, even though you contributed to more than half his support, unless he was a full-time student.

He's not considered a fulltime student if he had a regular or part-time job or went to night school or took a correspondence course.

But suppose your dependent under-19 child or your over-19 child who qualified as a student dependent had $600 or more income. Then what?

He'd file his own return, taking his own $600 exemption and paying any tax owed. But on your return you could claim a $600 exemption for him and you wouldn't have to report or include his income.

Suppose your dependent child won a school scholarship. That doesn't count in deciding whether you contributed to more than half his support.

You can't claim exemption for a married child who filed a joint return with his (or her) spouse, even if you paid more than half the child's support.

OTHER DEPENDENTS

You can — in addition to your child, stepchild or adopted child —claim the following relatives as dependents if they fit the rules given later:

Your grandchild, great-grandchild, and so on; your brother, sister, half-brother, half-sister; your parent, grandparent or great-grandparent, or other direct ancestor but not a foster parent; your stepmother or stepfather; your aunt or uncle, meaning a brother or sister of your mother or father; your niece or nephew, meaning a son or daughter of your brother or sister; your father-in-law, mother-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law.

None of these relationships ends through death or divorce. You can, for example, continue to claim your father-in-law as a dependent if he got more than half his support from you, even though your wife died or divorced you.

None of the relatives listed above has to live with you to qualify as your dependent. For instance: You may have been paying more than half the support of your mother who was living with your sister.

You can claim any of them as a dependent if he got more than half his support from you and did not have $600 or more of his own taxable income.

Say your sister — although she got more than half her support from you—earned $600 or more in odd jobs. You couldn't claim her as a dependent. She'd have to file her own return, taking her own $600 exemption.

Or say your father received non-taxable income—perhaps $800 in Social Security benefits—on which no income tax return is required. Could he be considered a dependent?

Yes, if he got more than half his support from you while he saved the $600, not using it to live on.

If he used the nontaxable $800 to live on, you couldn't claim him as a dependent unless you contributed to more than half his support.

But you can claim as a dependent a friend who lived in your house a full year if he got more than half his support from you and no income of his own amounted to $600.

If he had $600 or more income of course, he'd have to file his own return, taking his own $600 exemption, and you couldn't claim him as a dependent.

Next: Deductions.

Progress Razes Famous Settlement House

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS — SPECIAL REPORT

CHICAGO (AP) — Hull House, the fruition of a girl's dream and a world-famed monument to humanity, is being torn down in the name of progress.

The 74-year-old settlement just west of Chicago's Loop has been sold, after some dickering, to the city of Chicago for $875,000. It is to be razed to make way for a new four-year branch of the University of Illinois.

The work of Hull House will continue under a dispersed program in various areas of the city.

The Hull House complex of 13 buildings, covering more than a block, developed and became known the world over under the guidance of Jane Addams, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1931.

All but one of the soot-begrimed, red brick buildings in a densely populated, industrial neighborhood of many nationalities, will be torn down to make way for a modern university.

PRESERVE MEMORIAL

The university has agreed to preserve as a memorial to Miss Addams the original Hull House, the building in which she and her friend Ellen Gates Starr founded the settlement in 1889.

Miss Addams, who died in 1935, was born in 1860 in Cedarville, in northwest Illinois. The famous settlement she founded was patterned after Toynbee Hall in London.

Hull House was born of the compassion of the child Jane Addams.

When she was six and driving with her prosperous father through a poverty-stricken area of an industrial city, she saw children playing in dirty streets and dusty yards beside shabby little houses.

She was moved to comment: "When I grow up I'm going to have a big house and I'm going to ask all those children to come over and play."

Twenty-three years later, after graduation from Rockford College and travel in Europe, she returned to Chicago and found that big house at 800 S. Halsted St., one that had been the mansion of Charles Hull, an early citizen of Chicago.

ADULTS CAME, TOO

Not only children came to play, but adults came and found help in time of trouble, a place of recreation, beauty through art and music, and escape from grim surroundings.

Immigrants came to learn the language and ways of a new land.

The hungry were fed.

During the first year Hull House was open, 50,000 persons came. The next year, 2,000 a week, then 3,000 a week.

Those who lived and worked at Hull House have had no pride of class or birth but have been a part of neighborhood life. Miss Addams washed new-born babies, cared for children, nursed the sick and prepared the dead for burial.

On one occasion, Julia Lathrop, a Hull House resident and lawyer who later headed the U.S. Children's Bureau in Washington, officiated at the birth of an illegitimate child when the doctor was late and women of the neighborhood refused to help the unmarried young mother.

'NEST OF RADICALS'

The vision and work of Hull House extended beyond its neighborhood and the boundaries of Chicago. It came to be known by opponents as a "nest of radicals" for its many successful campaigns for social reform.

At a time when children 4 and 5 years old worked in home industry to help mothers sew, with the family's earnings totaling 25 cents a day, Hull House campaigned for labor laws regulating the hours of women and children.

It campaigned for factory safety regulations to reduce industrial accidents and deaths and for an antisweatshop law.

Through its efforts, Illinois became the first state with special legislation for women workers and the first to have a juvenile court.

Jane Addams, a pacifist, was an early advocate of arbitration as a means of settling differences among nations and was a founder of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

She was a friend of presidents and foreign statesmen and was decorated by foreign governments and honored by American universities.

Even before it was decided that Hull House property was needed for the new university, the trustees and staff—in Jane Addams' spirit of changing to meet changing times—were expanding the program to various parts of the city.

The settlement has been increasing its work with a growing population of the aged and in preventing delinquency among hard-to-reach youth.

AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT—'Tis spring and talk has turned from the trials of winter.

But whatever the season, automobiles, be they the family car or a significant economic symbol, are a favorite topic. Here are some things which have been said and written about cars and their use recently:

Miss Margaret Johnson, director of driver education at Glenbrook High School, Northbrook, Ill., writing about women drivers:

"Emotionally, women are blessed with qualities that ought to make them careful drivers . . . But it's not that simple . . . The individual woman driver wants to travel fast and far, yet have the rule of 'ladies first' apply at intersections and bottlenecks."

Both Chevrolet and Volkswagen have sent trucks on tests down the rugged Baja California Peninsula. Lecturer William Stockdale, who drove a VW camper unit over what he called North America's longest bad road, says "It's not all bad; only about 800 of the 1,000 miles qualify as extreme torture."

Volkswagen, incidentally, has been advertising recently for some new VW jokes. It laments that its "beetle" has become so familiar on American highways that no one thinks it funny any longer.

TEXAN JOKE

But the VW folks haven't run out of jokes entirely. They printed this one in the latest issue of their owner's magazine, Small World:

A tourist was astounded to meet a Texas millionaire who drives a Volkswagen instead of a Cadillac. Asked if the VW was air conditioned, the Texan replied, "No, but I always keep a couple of cold ones in the refrigerator."

Since 1959 VW has leaned heavily on humor in its American advertising. Now, another of the imports, Renault, apparently is going to try to cash in on smiles as well. In a current Renault ad is this line:

"What's that? What's that about service? Don't listen to what your brother-in-law said. There are over 500 Renault dealers."

Les Viland, an engineer for American Motors and winner of both the cross country Mobilgas Economy Run and the closed-course Pure Oil economy tests at Daytona Beach, Fla., made this observation about gas mileage—"The most economical car ment that can never be experi- given the best care will give poor enced by the speed jockey who mileage if driven wastefully. only makes himself appear ridic- Driving for top fuel economy is ulous and wastes gas." a highly developed art requiring alert planning and careful technique . . .

Two new plants open in Puerto Rico every week, according to Fomento, the Economic Development Administration.

India's holy city of Benares, where frightened multitudes gathered prior to the solar eclipse and lineup of planets, was old before Buddha preached his first sermon there in 500 B.C. Hindus believe that if they die in Benares they will not have to suffer the trials of reincarnation.

MR. CITIZEN—Sir Winston Churchill sits in his London home with a copy of the proclamation which makes him an honorary citizen of the United States. President Kennedy signed the document earlier this week in Washington.

Jaunty Churchill Off for Vacation on Riviera

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill packed away his new honorary American citizenship papers today and set off for a trip to the Riviera few persons thought he would ever make.

Almost no one then thought he would ever return. But Sir Winston, the prime minister who rallied Britain during the grim days of World War II, fought his way to recovery.

He was taking a private nurse and at least one aide for the flight to Nice, France. Lady Churchill, 78, is staying home.

Sir Winston was reported in a jaunty mood as he made last-minute preparations.

RECEIVES PAPERS

He received the U.S. citizenship papers in a brief, informal ceremony last night from U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce. President Kennedy proclaimed Churchill an honorary American citizen Tuesday.

Bruce gave Churchill a passport, a copy of the proclamation, two fountain pens used for the signing, and a personal message from Kennedy.

Then Churchill puffed on his usual long cigar and drank a champagne toast with the ambassador.

Antony Montague Brown, his secretary, said the American passport will be "placed among his many other precious documents in his archives." He said Churchill will not use it for traveling.

TV Praised on John Lodge Expressway

LANSING (AP) — "Terrific" is the way a state of Washington highway engineer sums up the experimental television control system on the John C. Lodge Expressway in Detroit.

"This television traffic control system is just what we need," said Kenneth Cottingham, traffic engineer for a 20-mile freeway being built in Seattle.

Cottingham spent two days in Detroit and Lansing studying the system, only one of its type in the nation.

Operators at a central control point watch a 3.2-mile section of the Lodge expressway on 14 TV sets and are able, by remote control, to close freeway lanes and change speed limits to avoid congestion and speed the traffic.

A similar control system will be installed on the $200-million Seattle Freeway next year, Cottingham said.

An acre of Antarctic sea water probably contains more animal and plant food than any other acre of water — or land — in the world.

Drive Begins on Rail Strike

Board Picked by JFK to Meet Both Sides

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government opens a new drive today for settlement of the long work rules battle between the nation's railroads and labor unions representing some 200,000 on-train employes.

A three-man emergency board appointed a week ago by President Kennedy called in both sides for a midafternoon start of formal hearings on the four-year dispute—in which the carriers are trying to lop off employes they call no longer needed "featherbedders."

INFORMAL SESSION

The board members arranged to meet informally this morning with representatives of the carriers and unions to try to decide on how they should proceed.

It was reported the board would prefer to make the formal hearings short, perhaps ending them Friday, to leave more time for the board to work with the disputants on some negotiated settlement formula.

STRIKE DELAYED

Kennedy's action in naming the board under terms of the Railway Labor Act also served to delay any strike or work rule changes for 60 days. This leaves until May 3 for the board to recommend publicly its proposed settlement terms, and 30 days thereafter for negotiations on those proposals.

Members of the board are Samuel I. Rosenman, 67, New York attorney and former counsel to former Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman; Nathan P. Feinsinger, 61, University of Wisconsin law professor, and Clark Kerr, 51, president of the University of California. Rosenman is chairman.

It was indicated that all concerned—the carriers, unions and board members — prefer to do away with lengthy public hearings and concentrate on exploring settlement possibilities through private negotiation.

Portugal Denies Territory Violation

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The Portuguese government denied Wednesday that Portugal violated Senegal territory Tuesday.

A foreign ministry man told newsmen that "following an investigation whose results we have just received, we can deny categorically that there was any violation of Senegal territory by Portuguese military planes."

you don't have to pay more than 54.50 for a really good 2-pant lightweight suit

witness our famous Van Carr 55% dacron-45% wool

In fact, you can shop around and compare it right down to the smallest stitch with other suits at a comparable price, and you'll find you're getting a whale of a value for your dollar. This suit is made just for us — to our precise specifications. We specified the fabric: an excellent blend of 55% Dacron and 45% wool famous for its press-retaining, wrinkle-resisting qualities; a fabric that is light in weight, but which drapes well and holds its shape. We specified the construction: fine stitching, smooth seams, carefully matched patterns. We specified the styling: two-button and three-button models, with two pair of pleated or plain-front trousers. And we asked for it in a good selection of patterns, stripes, plaids and solid shades . . . and in a complete selection of sizes from 34 to 50. All we wanted, really, was the best two-pant suit — by far — that it's possible to buy for 54.50. And we got it.

Roberts Busy on 'Slow Day'

AT DESK — Sen. Robert checks one of the many bills he sponsored this session as he selects it from a file containing all bills introduced in the Senate and House. The file is alongside his desk on the Senate floor for quick reference during debates and votes as bill-passing deadline approach.

WITH ROMNEY AIDE—Sen. Roberts talks over a bill in Gov. George Romney's program with the governor's legislative aide, Robert Danhof, in one of a typical day's many impromptu conferences in the hallways of the State Capitol, the Senate chamber, executive and State Supreme Court offices and committee rooms.

By JIM DYGERT

The idea was to visit Oakland County's state senator, Farrell E. Roberts, for a first-hand look at just what a senator does at the State Capitol in Lansing.

A day was picked that was supposed to be comparatively calm — a day sandwiched in between the Senate's annual rushes to meet bill passing deadlines.

But the careful timing was in vain.

Even a slow day is busy for Roberts, the busiest senator Michigan has — a legislator who has reached a pinnacle of prominence only a few short years after he almost quit politics in disgust.

Calm as it may have been for some senators, the day for Roberts was filled with meetings, committee hearings and impromptu conferences with colleagues on the Senate floor and in the hallways of the Capitol's second floor.

From the time he arose before 7 a. m. until he returned at 5:30 p. m. to the fifth floor hotel suite he shares with Sen. Stanley Thayer of Ann Arbor, Roberts was a hard man to keep up with.

DAILY CONFERENCE

And it was not over at 5:30. Then came the daily shirt-sleeve conference of Thayer, Roberts and other Senate GOP "moderates" who dominate the body's Republican majority.

Even if Roberts' day wasn't so calm, Roberts always was. He never looks hurried or harried, not even when he's dashing between committee rooms and floor votes when deadline times approach.

But the 39-year-old attorney also is one of the most effective and influential legislators in Lansing as well as the busiest, according to his colleagues.

"He gets more done with less effort than any other man I've known," says Thayer, who became Senate Republican caucus leader when the "moderates" wrenched control of the GOP majority this year from "old guard" Republicans.

PRAISED BY ROMNEY

"Roberts is a hard-working, conscientious senator," says Gov. George Romney. "He's given my program wonderful support."

Under Thayer's and Roberts' leadership, the "moderates" have carried out their pledge to get Senate approval of Romney's programs this spring and to undo the Senate's previous reputation as an ultra-conservative obstacle to needed legislation.

It was the ultra-conservative "veto bloc" in the Senate that led Roberts almost to quit politics a few years ago because he couldn't get anything done as a member of the House of Representatives.

Roberts represented Oakland County's 3rd Legislative District for two 2-year terms before winning his first term in the Senate in 1960. His current term is his second.

Roberts soft-spoken manner stays with him in Senate floor debates, but he "devastates the opposition with his logic," according to Sen. John W. Fitzgerald, of Grand Ledge, another of the "moderates."

And Roberts, an attorney with offices at 2057 Orchard Lake Road just west of Pontiac, does so with brevity.

He is one of five senators who served during retired secretary of the Senate Fred I. Chase's 38 years in the Senate chamber and who Chase credits with "the uncanny ability to express completely all that was to be said in the fewest possible sentences."

SPONSORS 32 BILLS

This session, Roberts was the primary sponsor of more bills than any other senator — 32, almost 10 per cent of the 383 measures introduced by all 34 senators.

Nearly 25 per cent of the 383—93 to be exact — were referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee which Roberts heads for study and recommendations.

The post, as are chairmanships of other key committees, is a powerful one. Committees can prevent a bill from being enacted into law by failing to report it out for a vote.

Roberts also is vice chairman of three other influential committees — labor, taxation and elections.

Most of the bills he introduced were of special importance to the county he represents.

These included measures to give the county two more Circuit judges, enable it to create a community college system, almost double the county's representation in the U. S. Congress, and establish a community-based mental health program in the state which the county endorses. All of these passed the Senate.

Roberts' quiet but effective style does not serve him as well during a campaign, but he won re-election last fall while urging support for Romney.

EX-DEMOCRAT

He's not sure exactly when he became a Republican, but it was not when he first entered politics 10 years ago. He was then a precinct delegate and state convention delegate in the Democratic party.

He had heeded the urging to get active "in your party" by his law partner then, Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, whom he was later to unseat as the county's senator.

Roberts says he canceled his Democratic affiliation because "the UAW was too much in evidence."

Probably the last person to represent all of Oakland County in the State Senate, Roberts may not be so busy after next year. By 1964, the county is expected to have three senators instead of just one.

On the other hand, he may be even busier. He may run for Congress, in which case he would be traveling back and forth from Washington instead of taking trips between Lansing each week for three or four months of the year.

* * *

Or he may seek a seat on the new state court of appeals to be set up under the new state constitution.

Roseville Forced to Cut School Operating Cost

ROSEVILLE (AP)—The Roseville Board of Education has voted to cut back school operations to save about $150,000 it had hoped to raise through a tax increase.

Under the new plan, bus service will be eliminated for junior and senior high school students and half of the district's second and third graders will go on half-day sessions on a five-month basis beginning in September.

Scouts to Tread Trail of Chief Pontiac

Chief Pontiac's conspiracy of 200 years ago will be observed by the Clinton Valley Boy Scout Council with a 12-mile hike over the trail bearing the name of the famous Indian.

The June 9 march, covering the last half of the Chief Pontiac Trail, will start at Kensington Metropolitan Park 9:30 a.m. and end at the scouts' Proud Lake campsite.

Council president John W. Hunt said that all participants must be registered scouts and all must be in uniform.

Each troop will hike as a unit and each unit must provide its own adult leadership.

All units outside the Clinton Valley Council will require tour permits, which are available from their respective councils. Reservations must be made with the Clinton Valley Council by May 1 for units wanting to joint in the hike.

Individual units will be responsible for water supplies, lunch, first aid supplies, poison ivy treatment and snakebite kits, Hunt said.

Emergency first aid transportation will be available at five locations along the trail. First aid stations will be at both ends of the trail.

Scouts completing the hike will receive a special anniversary award, a neckerchief slide bearing the Chief Pontiac Trail Medallion design.

A specially designed patch denoting the fifth anniversary of the hike will be available at a nominal cost.

A fee of $1 per hiker must accompany unit registrations to cover the cost of credentials, individual awards and unit award flag streamers.

Late registrations will be accepted at the start of the trail, according to Hunt, but no guarantee is made that awards will be available until a later date.

Protestant church services will be held at the Kensington Park campsite at 9 a.m. Catholic mass will be said in nearby Milford at 7 and 8:30 a.m.

The Pontiac uprising grew out of the chief's dissatisfaction with the way the British were treating the Indians.

Indian attacks on British forts in Michigan, Indiana and Pennsylvania ended in late October, 1763, seven months after they began. Pontiac agreed to a peaceful settlement after many unsuccessful attempts to capture Fort Detroit.

Planner Quits Pontiac Post

Pontiac's assistant planning and urban renewal director, Roland H. Bourke Jr., has announced his resignation to accept a similar supervisory post in the South.

Bourke will take over as director of an urban renewal program in Alexandria, Va., May 1.

He will leave his present post tomorrow. City officials have not yet named a successor.

Bourke, ot 61 N. East Blvd., is the second Pontiac urban renewal official to become director of another renewal project in the last six months.

Bourke, 31, joined Pontiac in 1956 as environmental sanitarian with the City Health Department.

He then became rehabilitation officer for the R20 urban renewal project, a position he held for 2½ years before being appointed assistant planning director in charge of the urban renewal division last November.

Under his leadership, the local rehabilitation program gained national prominence as one of the most successful in the country.

State's 'Week' to See Activity

Countywide activities for six of the seven specially designated days during Michigan Week, May 19-25, have been scheduled at this time, according to F. Gordon Davis, county public relations chairman for the celebration.

Leading off the events on Sunday, May 19, Spiritual Foundations Day, will be an afternoon choral presentation at Northland Center. Choirs from all church denominations will participate.

A mayor's exchange luncheon at Oakland University will highlight activities on Our Government Day, May 20, during which city, village and township officials across the state exchange positions.

"Woman's Place in This Perplexing Century" will be discussed by a panel of experts on our Livelihood Day, May 22. Leading the discussion, to be held at Oakland University, will be "pioneers" in this field from the University of Michigan and Michigan State University, as well as prominent psychologists and leading businesswomen.

The latest techniques in education will be explained at an open house program at Oakland County education offices May 23, Education Day.

Visitors may observe clinical practice on closed-circuit television and through one-way glass, sit in on seminars covering new reading, mathematics and social studies methods and watch scores computed on data processing machines.

Ceremonies marking the 100th anniversary of the Botsford Inn will highlight Our Heritage Day, May 24. Included will be displays of classic and antique cars, Michigan antiques and a Goodwill Industries "heritage" fashion show.

On Our Youth Day, May 25, county residents can watch local participants in Wayne County's boat parade on the Detroit River.

Plans for Hospitality Day, May 20, have not been completed.

Oakland County Michigan Week Chairman Robert Huber urged residents to set aside these days for participation in local and county Michigan Week activities.

Louisiana Governor's Race Splits Heirs of Huey Long

BACKGROUND — AP SPECIAL REPORT — OF THE NEWS

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Twenty-eight years ago, a bullet killed Huey Long, but his family remains a political power in the state.

Louisiana, where politics is even stronger than the coffee, is waiting to see which faction, if any, still has that old magic.

The widow of former Gov. Earl Long and two sisters of Huey are backing John McKeithen of Columbia, a public service commissioner.

POLITICAL APPETIZER

Still another Long, State Sen. Speedy Long of Jena, was the first to issue a formal announcement as candidate for governor.

This campaign gumbo, coming rapidly to a steaming simmer, may be a major test for Senator Long, 44, the nervous image of his father, Huey.

Both Russell and Gillis know a governor is the real political chief in the state, no matter whom the voters send to Washington.

The senator's endorsement, coming before Gillis even formally announced as a candidate, was viewed as an effort to unite the clan.

Gillis, a nimble-witted freshman congressman from the 8th district, tickled some of the Long lieutenants with a campaign voice that rasped in the file - tongued style of the late Earl, one of the most colorful speakers to ever grace a stump.

But Gillis faces the dilemma of a three-way split plus the threat of numerous and experienced foes moving carefully around the outside looking in.

McKeithen, 44, also a pleasing orator, was House floor whip for the gallus-snapping, tempestuous Earl.

"I think he has an excellent chance of winning," said Mrs. Earl Long.

Speedy, a freckled little legislator, learned his politics from Earl as a campaign aide.

If McKeithen and Speedy don't withdraw, and they show no sign of it, Gillis could have his problems.

There were unconfirmed reports that Gov. Jimmie H. Davis and some of his backers seem to be leaning toward Gillis — but in politics anything can happen.

LONG, HOT SUMMER

The field would jam up with high-stepping candidates if it looked as though the governorship might be up for grabs.

Any candidate would have to make a good showing in New Orleans, which has a fourth of the state's votes. Thus far, city politicos have remained mum.

Others making their plans include former Gov. Robert Kennon, the Eisenhower Democrat; deLesseps Morrison, the ambassador to the Organization of American States and four times mayor of New Orleans; Shelby M. Jackson, state education superintendent; Cap Barham, former lieutenant governor, and Claude Kirkpatrick, state public works director.

The first primary is Dec. 7. The campaign won't really get started until July. Politically, it's going to be a hot summer.

OK $150,800 for Street Projects

Commissioners gave their nod of approval to an estimated $150,800 street improvement program for Pontiac at Tuesday night's City Commission meeting.

The Commission approved a public necessity resolution covering some $102,400 in proposed black-topping projects on gravel streets.

Another public necessity resolution approved last night proposes an estimated $48,400 program of resurfacing paved streets.

The blanket resolutions will set in motion the procedure of preparing plans for public hearings on each project.

As the over-all public improvement program progresses this year, some proposed street improvements may be dropped and others added by action of commissioners or the public.

The proposed total black-topping and recapping program includes five streets to be black topped by private subdivision developers at a cost of about $13,300.

CITY'S SHARE $69,100

The total estimated cost excluding work by developers is $137,500, with $68,400 coming through special assessments to affected property owners and $69,100 the city's share of the cost.

There are 20 streets to be black topped by the city. Excluding those done by private developers, the estimated cost is $89,100 with the city's share set at $43,000 and the remaining $46,100 coming from special assessments.

Seven streets are tabbed for resurfacing at an estimated cost of $48,400. The city's share of recapping is estimated at $26,100 while the remaining $22,300 will come from special assessments.

Dewey Street, Kennett Road to Lots 265 and 281, Buena Heights Subdivision.

Hollywood Avenue, Kennett to Mansfield.

Howard Street, Johnson to Adelaide.

Columbia Avenue, Lot 21 to Arlene.

Emerson Street, Mount Clemens to Madison.

Fourth Street, Fuller to Arlene.

Madison Avenue, Perry to Emerson.

Robinwood Street and Scottwood Avenue, Perry to Manhattan.

Second and Third Streets, Fuller to Arlene.

SUBDIVISIONS

Boston Avenue, Delaware to Telegraph.

Owego Road, Huron to Genesee.

Mohawk Road, Huron to Spokane.

Dakota Street, Huron to Mohawk.

Illinois Street, Wenonah to Genesee.

Menominee Road, Genesee to Cherokee.

Foreign Cars Drop in State Registration

LANSING (AP)—Foreign car registrations in Michigan last month hit a new low while domestic-made cars continued to enjoy brisk sales, the secretary of state's office reports.

There were 757 foreign car titles processed by the department in March. This was 197 below the registrations in February and 608 fewer than in January.

A year ago in March, the office said, there were 1,228 such registrations. It was only the second time since such registration counts were started the office said, that they have fallen below 1,000 a month.

Junior Editors Quiz on STARS

ANSWER: Hold up your finger (1) about six inches from your face and look at it with one eye. Then close this and use the other eye.

Your finger will seem to move back and forth, because each time you look at it from a different direction. This will help you understand "triangulation" used in the measurement of the distance of objects.

You could measure the distance between your eyes and put it down like the dotted line in (2). Observing the different positions of your finger with each eye, you could work out the angle from each and put it down (dotted lines).

Your finger would be where these lines cross. You could draw a center line to this from between the two eye lines and find out how long it was by using the measurement between your eyes; this would tell what the distance is to your finger.

In (3) this principle is used to measure distance of moon from earth, and in (4) of stars close to earth. For more distant stars, astronomers use a system based on the variable stars seen in many parts of the universe.

By studying change in brightness of these stars, it is possible to estimate how far away these stars are from the earth.

FOR YOU TO DO: Memorize these useful distances: earth to sun, close to 93 million miles; to nearest star, not counting sun, 4.27 light years. A light year is the distance light travels in a year, about six million million miles.

Changes Minor in Canvass

Bartlett Has Biggest Gain in County Totals

Only minor changes from unofficial reports of Oakland County's vote totals in April 1 election contests for 10 state offices were reflected yesterday in the official tabulation announced by the county's board of canvassers.

The officials figures gave Democrat Lynn M. Bartlett 61,263 county votes in the race for state superintendent of public instruction. It was a gain of 110 votes from unofficial returns for Bartlett, who won re-election in the statewide vote.

The vote total of Bartlett's Republican opponent, Raymond N. Hatch, was dropped 116 votes to 82,692, giving Bartlett a net gain of 226 in the county.

A total of 144,604 county residents voted in the contest, the race in which most votes were cast. It was a record turnout for a spring election.

New totals in other races were:

State Supreme Court justices — Paul L. Adams, 58,561, a drop of 31; Eugene F. Black, 58,098, a gain of 25; Donald E. Holbrook, 46,376, a drop of 114; Richard G. Smith, 45,715, a drop of 23.

Michigan State University Trustees — Stephen S. Nisbet (R), 84,547, a gain of 87; Arthur K. Rouse (R), 83,396, no change; Don Stevens (D), 57,141, a drop of six; Jan B. Vanderploeg (D), 56,011, a drop of 150.

University of Michigan Regents —William B. Cudlip (R), 85,180, up 4; Ink White (R), 81,985, up seven; Eugene B. Power (D), 59,307, up four; Donald M. D. Thurbur (D), 58,627, down four.

Wayne State University Governors — Dr. Alfred H. Whittaker (R), 83,317, no change; Marshall V. Noecker (R), 81,809, up 2; Leonard Woodcock (D), 59,845, down 200; Michael Ference Jr. (D), 57,642, down 101.

State Board of Education — James F. O'Neil (R), 86,175, down three; Gerald Tuchow (D), 54,640, no change.

The previously reported official canvass of the county vote on the new state constitution showed 89,154 "yes" and 53,777 "no" votes, a net gain of 93 for the "no" votes over unofficial returns.

Engineers Wins Post as Boyne City Mayor

BOYNE CITY (AP) — Marvin Loding, an electric power cooperative's maintenance engineer, was named Boyne City mayor at the City Commission's organizational meeting this week. He succeeds Arthur F. Speltz who did not seek re-election.

Work on New Plant to Start in Michigan

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Work started this week on a new plant of 18,000 square feet to accommodate Conductron Corp. operations in suburban Paris Township within 90 days.

The plant is a branch of an electronics firm based at Ann Arbor. Its Grand Rapids operation now employs 30 persons in space being leased until the new quarters are complete.

Educator Suggests Way to Get Across Campus

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Citing the increasing size of high school plants, school board candidate Ben McKinney said, "the next thing we will need is a transportation system to get around them."

He suggested that perhaps a miniature railroad such as those used by large motels would be appropriate.

Broomfield's Birthday Fete Is Scheduled

Oakland County's Republican Congressman William S. Broomfield will be feted April 25 at a huge birthday party planned by his friends.

Broomfield, currently in his fourth term as representative of Michigan's 18th district, will be 41 years old.

The party is scheduled at 7 p.m. at Glen Oak Country Club near Farmington, according to the chairman of the event, an old friend of Broomfield, Chad M. Ritchie, Oakland County GOP treasurer.

The birthday party idea began four years ago as an impromptu gathering of Broomfield's friends, Ritchie said.

"The dinner is in no way a fund raising affair," Ritchie said, adding that the program would be kept short "so that everybody will have a chance to visit with Bill."

"DITES MOI, POURQUOI?" — Obviously enjoying a rehearsal for the Avon Players' forthcoming production of "South Pacific" are these three members of the cast of 45. Singing the French song are 9-year-old Barbara Lamb, Greg Halback, 14, and Robert Stoner, who portrays the French planter, Emile, in the musicale. It will be staged the first two weekends in May in Central Junior High School, Rochester.

'South Pacific' in Rehearsal by Rochester's Avon Players

The group is aiming to parallel the quality of the Broadway musical in six local performances to be staged May 2—4 and 9—11.

Cast in the leading roles are Mrs. John Solverson as the high-spirited nurse, Ensign Nellie Forbush, and Robert Stoner as the gallant French planter, Emile de Becque.

Also featured will be Philip Torrey as Lt. Joseph Cable and Joan DeBaene, playing the lovely Tonkinese girl, Liat.

"South Pacific" is based on two romantic themes, the stories of which are artfully wrapped in music.

Songs like "Some Enchanted Evening," and "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair," are just a few of the many which highlight the production.

Offering an appealing rendition of "Dites Moi," will be the four children in the play, Tina Cohoe, Barney Chapman, Barbara Lamb and Greg Halback.

Other players are cast as Seabees, nurses, sailors and the native islanders.

SCENE: 2 ISLANDS

The action of the Rodgers and Hammerstein production takes place on two islands of the South Pacific, during a brief lull in the war with Japan.

Anyone desiring ticket information should contact Mrs. H. R. Greenman, 428 Winry St.

All showings of the musical will be in the auditorium of Central Junior High School. Musical accompaniment will be provided by dual pianos, a bass and drums.

In its 15th year of play production, the Avon Players now numbers some 200 members, most of whom are residents of the Rochester area.

Eye Pay Raise in Walled Lake

Board of Education Also Wants Additions

WALLED LAKE—The board of education here is asking for a one-mill increase in next year's school allocation to be used for salary hikes, new teachers and school additions.

The proposed $2,874,391 budget, which would be $257,000 above this year's, would require a 17.4-mill tax levy, according to School Supt. Clifford H. Smart.

The current levy of 16.35 mills includes 8.35 mills allowed by the County Allocation Board and eight mills approved by the school district voters.

The Walled Lake School District budget which will be submitted to the County Allocation Board Monday includes a $2,045,103 salary schedule for the professional staff.

Of this figure, $870,534 would be used to pay 132 elementary school teachers and $790,809 for the 117 secondary school teachers.

Smart said 16 additional teachers will be required for the school year 1963-64. Enrollment is expected to increase by about 400, bringing the total number of students to 6,800.

New staff members also will be needed in the new elementary school building, two elementary school additions and high school addition, Smart said. All of these projects are now under construction and are to be completed by fall.

A public hearing on the closing of Agnes Street has been scheduled for April 23.

The school board has requested that a portion of the street, which has school property on either side, be closed to allow for construction of a new administration building.

Alternate Financing

To Erect Utica City Hall

UTICA—Even though the vote fell short of passing a $95,000 bond for a new city hall April 1, the Utica council is going ahead with the project.

City officials have decided on an alternate money-raising scheme, presented by their bonding consultants, Miller Canfield, Paddock and Stone of Detroit.

A second plan was necessary when the council learned the day after the election, that the seven-vote margin by which the issue had presumably passed wasn't enough. The vote was 206 to 199.

According to both a state statute and the city charter, a three-fifths approval vote is required in order to issue general obligation bonds.

Robert Hamill, representing the city's bonding firm, has recommended that the city establish a building authority.

This unit would issue revenue bonds to finance the city hall, and then build it. The city would pay rent to the authority for use of the building, which in turn would be used to pay off the revenue bonds.

"Property taxes will not go up to finance this project," City Attorney George Roberts said yesterday.

He said the revenue received from that portion of Shelby Township which was annexed by the city last June would pay the additional city expense.

Following the council's decision to move ahead with the project, the bonding consultants are presently working on the red tape involved in the formation of the building authority.

The firm is also preparing an application to the State Municipal Finance Commission for authority to issue the revenue bonds.

Two sets of plans are being considered by the City Council, one for a $95,000 structure, to be financed solely by revenue bonds, and the other an $182,000 city hall.

The larger facility would be financed by an $87,000 federal grant in addition to the revenue bonds.

Construction of the $95,000 city hall, however, can begin without a decision on the grant. Should it be approved, additional units would be added to the smaller building.

7 Walled Lake Stores to Display Art Works

WALLED LAKE — Seven local stores will be converted into exhibition halls where area artists will display their works April 19-23.

Sponsored by a group of local merchants, "The Walled Lake Brush Strokes" is believed to be the first art exhibit of its kind ever to be held in the city.

It will feature paintings, sculpture and pastels for which prizes will be awarded in two classifications, juniors (for 14-to 18-year-olds) and adults.

Entries should be submitted tomorrow from 1 to 3 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. and Saturday from noon to 4 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. at the building behind the Walled Lake Floor Covering Co.

A nominal entry fee will be charged to cover the cost of handling and to start a fund for next year's exhibit, according to Mrs. James Lodbell, general chairman.

Artists may enter up to four items for the fee. They will also have the opportunity to offer their work for sale. All work must be framed or mounted.

In both divisions there will be a $10 first prize, a $5 second prize and three honorable mentions.

Works will be displayed at Tom's Furniture and Appliances, Big Valu Market, the D and C Store, Campbell Shoe Store, Fitzgerald and Sons Hardware, Walled Lake Floor Covering and Lee Bodin Cleaners. Some of the artists will demonstrate their work from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 5 p.m. April 20 in the windows of four participating stores.

Judges for the event are Hazel Nauman of Hazel Studio and Art School; Stan Hench, teacher and artist; and Sandra Greniweckl.

AREA NEWS

School Bond Issue Sold

CLARENCEVILLE — School board officials here have sold a $1.5 million bond issue at an average interest rate of 3.39 per cent.

The rate, which a Clarenceville educator said was "lower than we have received before," will account for a net interest cost of $987,231.

The bonds, to mature in 1991, were purchased by Braun, Bosworth and Co. of Detroit, lowest of four bidders.

The bonds will finance construction at five of Clarenceville's six schools. A library and nine classrooms at Botsford Elementary School have received top priority and are to be ready for students by fall.

A multipurpose room will be built at Westbrook Elementary School and a gymnasium at Clarenceville Senior High School. The junior high school will also get new classrooms, including science laboratories and homemaking facilities.

Another part of the project is the conversion of Central Elementary School to administrative offices. A bus maintenance facility will also be built there.

School board members, who plan to open contractors' bids April 25, have set May 1 as the tentative date for construction to begin.

Get 14 Responses on Site for High School Building

LYON TOWNSHIP—The board of education here has received 14 responses to its request for possible high school building sites.

All of the 30-to 50-acre sites, in or near South Lyon, will be considered by the consulting architects, O'Dell, Hewlett and Luchenbach of Birmingham.

No prices were mentioned in the property offers.

The $834,274 propqsed school budget for 1963-64 is approximately $75,000 above that for this year. The largest increases are in elementary instruction, estimated at $294,020, and secondary instruction, $281,381.

Other major portions are operation, $103,580; transportation service, $63,451; administration, $27,475, and maintenance, $24,720.

VOTE FOR REQUEST

Board members voted to place on the June 10 ballot a request that the balance of the 1951 debt retirement fund which has been paid, be applied to another debt.

Two seats will be filled at the election, those of Donald K. Smith, board president, and appointee Sam Ballo. The former will be a full four-year term.

Ballo was appointed to fill an unexpired term after the resignation of Glenn Dail. This term has one more year.

Candidates' petitions, each with the signatures of 50 registered voters, are due at the board of education by 4 p.m., May 13.

Rename Galan to Romeo Post at Meeting

ROMEO—Councilman Tony P. Galan has been named village president pro tem for the fourth straight year.

The Village Council also has confirmed the reappointments of all other local officials and commission chairmen with one exception.

Matthew Koth will replace James F. Kleinhans as electrical inspector.

A hearing on proposed installation of curbs and gutters on East St. Clair Street from Main Street to the village limits has been set for 7:30 p.m. April 22 in the village hall.

Estimated cost of the improvement program is $12,457 to be assessed against property owners along the street.

Good Friday Service Slated in Davisburg

DAVISBURG — A community Good Friday service will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church.

The meditation of Rev. Jack A. McCurry will be "The People Around the Cross." John Pierce will be the soloist.

Church to Dramatize Its Sunrise Service

UNION LAKE — The Easter sunrise service of the Commerce Methodist Church will feature a dramatic presentation of Scripture by the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

JACQUELINE G. ANDERSON

A September wedding in Encino, Calif., is planned by Jacqueline G. Anderson and Donald G. Coad. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. William Gleeson of Encino, Calif., and Jack Anderson of Reseda, Calif. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Grant Coad, of 3550 Woodcrest St., Avon Township.

SARAH M. BAGGETT

June 1 vows are planned by Sarah Martha Baggett and Robert R. Ashbaugh whose engagement is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Baggett, 3648 Mildred St., Rochester. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ashbaugh, 9633 Susin Lane, Clarkston.

'63 Sales Topic of Apple Men

Processing apple growers from 12 counties will discuss the 1963 processing apple market at an 8 p.m. meeting April 18 in the Oakland County extension office.

Growers invited to attend are from Genesee, Huron, Lapeer, Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Sanilac, Tuscola, Washtenaw and Wayne counties.

They will investigate the possibilities of a three-point educational, promotional and price determining program for Michigan, coordinated with New York, the Virginias, Pennsylvania and other eastern processing states.

In other business, production costs for processing apples will be analyzed by Lane Rushmore, Macomb County horticulture agent.

Over 42 per cent of Michigan's 16-million bushel, apple crop two years ago was processed into such products as apple sauce, apple butter, juice, canned and frozen slices, and pies.

State OKs Water Bonds Near Utica

UTICA — The State Municipal Finance Commission has approved the issuance of $157,000 in special assessment bonds for water service to residents of a portion of Shelby Township annexed to the city last June.

The entire amount will be used for construction of a water system in that 300-acre area, most of which is in the Shelby Manor Subdivision.

Plans call for construction of the system to be completed no later than July 1.

This is another step toward fulfillment of the promise which Utica made to residents of the area before it was annexed.

Second Revolt Threatened by House GOP

tle cleared, there were these results:

—The $1 minimum wage bill was on the floor, salvaged over the fierce opposition of Green and other party leaders by three Republicans and three Democrats who pooled their votes in committee.

—The Romney administration's 1963-64 appropriations bills were out, nearly intact—among them the $1.7-million immediate effect capital outlay program, a "top-priority" item which earlier had been reported in jeopardy.

—A controversial bill which would require the furnishing of public school bus transportation to parochial and private schools was out on the floor.

—The open occupancy bill appeared to be dead, by virtue of the State Affairs Committee's failure to call for a vote among its members (six Republicans, three Democrats) that could bring it to the House floor ahead of the deadline.

Frisco Tickets Soaring

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco hired 28 meter minders to do nothing but give out parking tickets. They are doing just that —and how.

Wednesday the Supervisors Finance Committee estimated the three-wheeled motorcycle task force—created to free regular police for other duties and save the city money—would issue 40,000 tickets more a year than was the case before.

But, the committee said, it needs more money to reap this bonanza: $9,700 for the municipal court to hire more personnel to process the tickets; $7,800 for additional postage and $13,500 to cover, among other things, purchase of 1,000,000 more traffic tags.

Find Ex-Union Veep Guilty of Stealing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A U.S. District Court jury yesterday convicted former Bakery and Confectionery Workers Union President James Landriscina in embezzling $35,000 from the union in 1959.

Air conditioning, using gas, can now be metered to individual apartments.

GUATEMALA (AP)—Guatemala's military dictator has outlawed all Communist activity under penalties ranging from two years in prison to death.

TRAFFIC TROUBLE — Janet Winters, 15, looks at traffic citation charging she was "driving" on wrong side of the country road near San Diego on her horse, Peanut Butter, when she met a highway patrol car. Peanut Butter reared onto the car and dented it. Janet's defense is that her horse is not a vehicle, but livestock, and that under the law it was the patrolman's obligation to stop.

City, Detroit to Trade Chiefs

Mayor Robert Landry and Detroit's Mayor Jerome Cavanagh will trade jobs for one day next month as part of the annual Michigan Week celebration, May 19-25.

In a long ceremony yesterday, some 400 cities, villages and townships were paired for Mayors Exchange Day, May 20.

Gov. George Romney, who was scheduled to make the first drawing, rewrote the rules when he finally did arrive after a long press conference.

Making the 11th drawing, pairing Birmingham with Southfield, Romney noted "these cities are too close. How about throwing them back in the box?"

The purpose of the exchange day is to give mayors the opportunity to check mutual problems, visit a different area of the state and gain a new perspective on their own problems.

Birmingham was later paired with East Lansing and Southfield with Grand Rapids. Inkster, in the first drawing paired with Dearborn, was later assigned to swap with Norway in the Upper Peninsula, while its original partner, Dearborn, was paired with Mason.

GIVEN CHOICE

Participating chief executives were given the choice of being matched on a statewide basis or within a limited population grouping.

No objections were heard from either Pontiac or Detroit on their pairing.

Other pairings from the Oakland County area were Berkley-Albion, Utica-Armada, South Lyon-Auburn, Beverly Hills-Melvindale, Bloomfield Hills-Rockford, Troy-Cadillac, Clawson-Ludington, Holly-Constantine, Milford-Decatur, Walled Lake-Durand, Farmington-Huntington Woods, Ferndale-Roseville and Rochester-Grand Ledge.

Also matched were Orchard Lake-Houghton, Keego Harbor-St. Clair, Lake Orion-Olivet, Oak Park-Lansing, Lapeer-Petoskey, Lathrup Village-Newaygo, Royal Oak-Livonia, Oxford-Lowell and Madison Heights-St. Clair Shores.

Others were Novi-Trenton, Pleasant Ridge-Romeo, Warren-Port Huron, Wixom-Sparta, Clarkston-Owendale, Wolverine Lake-Breckenridge, Hazel Park-Southgate and Metamora-McBain.

Twin Coeds Pull Swap Unnoticed

AURORA, N. Y. (AP)—The Jones girls—blonde, blue-eyed identical twins — attend colleges hundreds of miles apart. They decided to switch schools for two days this week.

"We fooled all of the important people — the administration and the professors," said Leila Jones 20-year-old sophomore at Wells College in Aurora, N. Y., adding: "We fooled some of the students, too, but the word got around."

To Host College-Bound Girls, Mothers

College-bound senior girls and their mothers will be guests of Pontiac City Panhellenic Association at a tea from 2 to 4 p.m., Saturday, in First Federal Savings of Oakland club rooms.

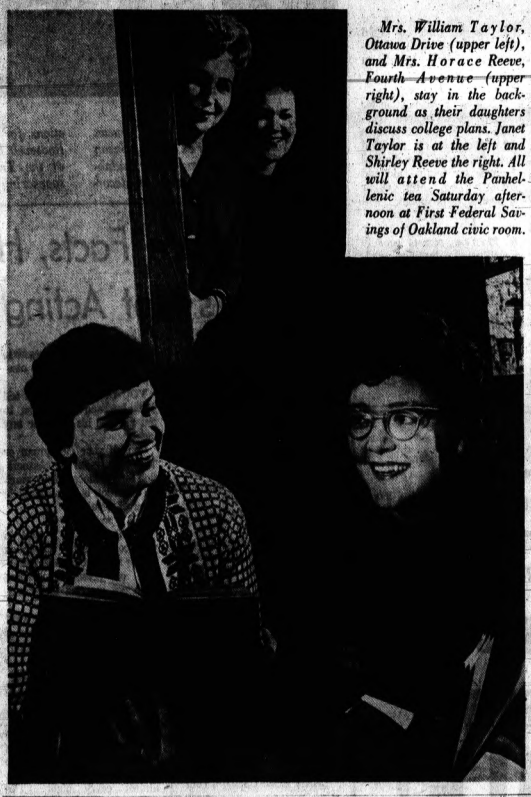
Mrs. Robert Crandall, general chairman, names her committee: Mrs. Wayne Fyke and Mrs. John Collison, sorority displays; Mrs. Glen Dick, refreshments and decorations; Mrs. Raymond Wilhelm and Betsy Carnall, name tags; Mrs. William Beleney, publicity; Mrs. Enar West and Sue Eckley, clean-up; Lynne Benter, invitations; Mrs. Richard Brosier, set-up.

TO ANSWER QUESTIONS

Former Pontiac high school girls will answer questions on sorority and campus life: Karen Bronoel and Sandra Wray, Michigan State; Barbara Griffin, University of Michigan; Sue Ann Hathaway and Judy West, Albion, and Barbara Alton, Hillsdale.

Sorority pins, posters and magazines will be displayed.

Any college-bound senior girl in this area, interested in this tea, may contact Mrs. Belaney.



Mrs. William Taylor, Ottawa Drive (upper left), and Mrs. Horace Reeve, Fourth Avenue (upper right), stay in the background as their daughters discuss college plans. Janet Taylor is at the left and Shirley Reeve the right. All will attend the Panhellenic tea Saturday afternoon at First Federal Savings of Oakland civic room.

Pontiac Press Photos

To Marry in June 29 Ceremony

A June 29 wedding is planned by Margaret Louise Johnston of Salmer Street and Merle Grant Hagerty of Alameda, Calif.

MARGARET LOUISE JOHNSTON

Margaret Louise Johnston, of Salmer Street, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Johnston, of Ben Avon, Pa., will wed Merle Grant Hagerty, of Alameda, Calif. He is the son of Grant A. Hagerty, Rapid City, S. D., and the late Mrs. Hagerty.

Presently coordinator of school food services for Pontiac School District, the bride-elect holds a degree in dietetics from Pennsylvania State University.

Completing Plans for Secretary Week

Final plans were submitted for Secretaries Week, April 21 through 27 by chairman Edythe Perry at the Wednesday evening meeting of the Pontioak Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) at Pontiac Business Institute.

This will be the twelfth consecutive year of nationwide observance of Secretaries Week. Governor George A. Romney proclaimed the dates, designating April 24 as Secretaries' Day.

The Pontioak Chapter will celebrate Secretaries Day with a dinner at Ted's Restaurant, honoring North Oakland County's Secretary of the Year. Anyone interested in attending may contact Miss Perry.

Applications for ideal secretary candidate may also be sent to Miss Perry, State Street, not later than April 15. To be eligible for nomination, the candidate must be nominated by her employer and be an actively employed secretary in North Oakland County.

Announcement was made of the National convention to be held July 17 through 20 in Denver, Colorado and the Michigan Division meeting May 17 through 19 sponsored by the Flint Motor City Chapter, for which president Mary A. Johnson was appointed delegate and Mrs. Julius Nurek alternate.

Mrs. Michael Kerensky was appointed chairman of the International Bazaar to be held at the Elk's Temple this month.

Audubon Members View Rock, Mineral Exhibit

Some 35 members of Pontiac Audubon Society viewed an exhibit of rocks and minerals presented by Mrs. Floyd Radabaugh, with commentary, Wednesday evening in Rochester High School.

Plans were announced for Saturday's field trip to the Bald Mountain Recreation Area.

The Pontiac club, as one of the sponsors of the Kirtland Warbler Management Area in Michigan, will accept the U. S. Department of Agriculture's invitation to attend the forthcoming dedication of the area at Mio.

University of Michigan faculty members will instruct a six-week course in ornithology beginning April 22, at 7:30 p. m. in room 121, Pontiac Central High School. The course is open to the public. Donald Nagel is registrar. Fee is $5.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rogers of Rochester.

Units to Share Proceeds of April Bazaar

Pontiac Federation of Women's Clubs has announced that proceeds from the International Bazaar to be held April 24 at the Elks Temple will be given to two local organizations.

The Pntiac Association for Handicapped Children and the Youth Assistance Program will share equally in the benefits.

The Pontiac Association for Handicapped Children consists of a group of parents with mentally retarded youngsters who have banded together for mutual aid and education. Mrs. Oscar Schneider is president.

The Youth Assistance Program, set up by Judge Arthur E. Moore, assists socially maladjusted families, children and youths at the local level. A committee of citizens and one of social workers steer the program. George Caronis is the director.

Twenty-nine member clubs of the Federation will be participating in the International Bazaar which is to be an all-day affair.

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I am married and have five children. I am 27 and have a sister who is 18.

She has lived with us for the past five years. My husband hasn't slept with me in two years.

He insists that he is not in love with my sister, but if a boy tries to see her he goes crazy.

He takes her places and I sit at home with the kids.

I am a good mother and want to be a good wife, but my husband is so busy looking at my sister he doesn't even see me.

I mentioned sending her away and he raised the roof. What should I do?

CONFUSED AND UPSET

DEAR CONFUSED: Your sister is old enough to have boy friends, and, if necessary, she is old enough to live elsewhere.

YOU raise the roof and tell your husband you refuse to put up with his behavior any longer.

Consult your clergyman or The Family Service Association for guidance. Your marital situation is desperately in need of repair.

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column some time back where some couples got married on horseback. Some even got married under water.

My boy friend and I want to know what you think about our getting married on motorcycles.

MOTORCYCLE CRAZY

DEAR MOTORCYCLE CRAZY: Not much.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a couple who drop in on us all the time. It used to be about once a week. Now it's almost eevry night. The woman has the loudest mouth in town. When she laughs or talks she scares my baby to tears.

She wears her clothes so tight there is no guessing about anything.

I have nothing in common with this woman and my husband has nothing in common with her husband.

We've never visited them or asked them to visit us. How can you tell people you don't want to socialize with them?

NOT THEIR TYPE

DEAR NOT: When they appear at your door, tell them you are sorry you can't invite them in because you have "plans." (You could have "planned" to be alone.)

I guarantee you that after you say these magic words three times, they will disappear.

DEAR ABBY: I just want to say that a woman has never been kissed until she's been kissed by a man with a mustache.

BEEN KISSED

With arms full of treasures and goodies to be sold at their bazaar April 18, women of St. Luke's Church meet to compare notes. From the left upwards are Mrs. Reon K. Baldwin, Third Avenue; Mrs. Glenn Noble, Nelson Street; and Mrs. Dennis Burtch, Walnut Road.

Church Women Elect

Mrs. Appleton, Mrs. Kain, Mrs. Brady Adams, Mrs. Lester Stanley and Mrs. Beam will attend the spring workshop Monday in Detroit.

"The Shadow of the Cross" was the theme for devotions presented by Mrs. Paul Colton and Mrs. Eugene Thompson. Mrs. Cameron Evans and Mrs. Harold Aeschliman sang vocal numbers with Mrs. William Tompkins, accompanist.

Participating in the pageant were Pamela Morgan, Terry and Kent Aeschliman, Lanny Thompson, Mrs. Ray Heyse and Mrs. Kain.

Plan Bazaar at St. Luke's

St. Luke's Church on Pontiac Road will be the scene April 18 of a smorgasbord and bazaar 5 to 8 p.m. The Women's Society for Christian Service is sponsoring the event.

Mrs. Glenn Noble and Mrs. Jack Coulter are cochairmen of the smorgasbord. Mrs. Dennis Burtch, Mrs. Glen Weiler and Mrs. Felix Maline have charge of the bazaar.

Baked goods, fancy pillows, handwork, aprons and toys will be featured.

Install Guide at Meeting

Mrs. Harold Schingeck was installed as worthy guide at the Wednesday evening meeting of Pontiac Shrine No. 22 Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem at the Masonic Temple.

Installing officers were Mrs. Donald Ely, Mrs. H. Wayne Reaves and Mrs. Orville Cummings.

It's Time for Spring Cleaning Your Make-up

Now that spring is here you should take inventory of your make-up provisions. First, make a list of what you have on hand.

Do you have some preparations for a long time which you have never used? You may have to discard them, but don't discard the idea of replacing them.

When they were bought, you had a very definite purpose in mind and you should see to it that it is fulfilled. After you see what you have, make a list of all basic requisites either missing or practically gone.

Mats Resist Heel Marks

The penetrating influence of high heels need no longer dent automobile floor mats. One manufacturer has come up with a new puncture-resistant floor mat designed to replace the conventional rubber mat.

Area Families Open Hearts to Ex-Hospital Patients

By LINDA LaMARRE

The people are the elderly, the convalescing, the needy — ex-patients of Pontiac State Hospital.

The homes are yours and those in the 10 counties served by the hospital.

Working in this program are two home-seekers and one people-seeker. This trio — Helen Hanley, Judy Warwick and Arthur Swartz—have helped place 110 hospital "returnees" back in the swim of society after as many as 40 years' confinement.

Only two returned to the hospital because they couldn't adjust.

The program originated last July through the Michigan Department of Mental Health and the State Department of Social Welfare.

Representatives of each got together to see what could be done to help persons over age 65 who were ready to leave the institution yet had little or no money, no relatives and no place to turn.

Actual operations got underway last September. Public interest was stimulated through the efforts of Miss Warwick and Mr. Swartz. They sent releases to 88 newspapers in the 10-county area, spoke to public officials and clergymen.

The response, said Mr. Swartz, "was tremendous." The two checked out 210 responses from home owners who wanted to house a returnee.

Miss Warwick said she drove well over 1,200 miles last October to interview home owners. Today, because of the great number of families wanting to help, she and Mr. Swartz average 400 miles a month.

Most householders, opening their homes to these people are in the 60- to 70-year age bracket themselves.

Many of them are widows, living alone in the family home and desiring companionship and somebody to cook and care for. Others, including those with children at home, merely want to help. Some are strictly interested in the monthly board and room payment.

Miss Warwick and Mr. Swartz screen each home owner thoroughly. They check into family relationships, health and location and observe minute details of the home, the room for the returnee, housekeeping standards and safety features.

In addition, they note the type of food prepared, the family's recreation habits and medical facilities.

She reports on where the returnee would like to live, what his hobbies may be, his religious affiliation, what language he speaks (a great many speak no English at all, she said), and whether he plans to see any relatives.

"We try and convince them so that they'll want to leave the hospital freely," she said.

"Many don't want to change, especially when the hospital's been their home for one to 40 years. Persons committed for under five years are usually anxious to leave, but after that time there's a tremendous reluctance to change."

When a returnee is placed in either a convalescent or boarding home, Miss Hanley checks after six days to see how everyone is adjusting. Constant contact is maintained.

Complaints register from promises to "go crazy again" if the returnee isn't moved to a more suitable location or back to the hospital, to requests for dentures "so I can eat peanuts."

BSA Assistant Supervisor Donald Czinder, who is also liaison worker between the hospital and the 10 counties, summed up progress to date:

"The four of us — the hospital, the welfare department, the public and the bureau — are in this work together. The first year's goal of 1,000 placements on a statewide level will be easily met."

Players Slate Cast Tryouts

A cast of 11 men and three women is sought, according to Mrs. William Aebersold, president of the theatrical group. Anyone may participate in the 8 p.m. tryouts, she said.

'Y' Mothers' Club to Aid With Easter Egg Hunt

Members of the "Y" Mothers' Club will assist youngsters Saturday at the third annual YWCA Easter Egg Hunt and program.

Starting at 10:30 a.m. the hunt will be climaxed by the awarding of a live rabbit to the child finding the golden egg. "Pete," the rabbit, has been

"Hunting licenses" are being issued by the YMCA Youth Department. Requests for them will be taken today and Friday between 3:30 and 7 p.m. (members 10 cents, guests 15 cents).

Hunting areas will be divided according to the age of the children.

Following the hunt, Julia Dalzell, a member of the Pontiac Story League, will tell "The Selfish Giant" by Oscar Wilde.

Marbach Group Received by Mrs. Pattison

Mrs. Richard Pattison was hostess to the Marbach Group of the First Presbyterian Church, Wednesday, in her home on Pontiac Trail. Mrs. John Collision and Mrs. John Irwin were cohostesses.

In a missionary study of East Asia, Mrs. Guy Duffield outlined the history and way of life in Okinawa. Mrs. Robert Anderson gave the Bible study.

Mrs. Glen Dick was received into active membership.

Egypt, Syria, Iraq Agree to Establish New U.A.R.

CAIRO (AP) — The rulers of Egypt, Syria and Iraq have agreed to unite their 38 million people in a new United Arab Republic with Cairo as the capital, but they are keeping most of the details secret.

After four days of unity negotiations, Egyptian Premier Aly Sabry announced Wednesday night that the new U.A.R. will have a single flag, a central military command and one nationality for all.

Sabry did not say who will head the unified state, but there seemed little doubt that Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser will hold the reins.

The three original states will be known as the Egyptian region, Syrian region and Iraqi region. Sabry's announcement indicated that the new U.A.R. will have a strong central government, controlling foreign affairs, defense, economic planning, currency, foreign trade, customs and taxes. But a source who was present at the negotiations said purely local affairs will be kept in local hands rather than under tight Cairo control as was the case in the previous abortive Syrian-Egyptian union.

CONTROL INFORMATION

Sabry said the new state will have central control of information and propaganda agencies and of education to insure "unified thought for the nationalist unionist trend."

With much still to be worked out the unity negotiators are continuing to meet in Cairo. Of major interest will be the provision for political parties. Egypt under Nasser is a one-party state, while control of the new revolutionary regimes in Iraq and Syria is shared by the moderate Ba'ath Socialists and Nasserites.

There was no indication when the new republic will come into being.

Sabry said the flag will be the present U.A.R. flag consisting of horizontal black, white and red stripes but with three stars instead of two.

The present stars represent Egypt and Syria. Their union, formed in 1958, fell apart in 1961 when the Syrians rebelled against Nasser's control. But Egypt retained the U.A.R. name.

YEMEN EYED

The flag some day may have more stars. Yemen, ruled by a pro-Nasser republican regime, is a likely candidate, and Cairo has made overtures to Algeria. King Hussein's regime in Jordan has been talking of unity lately, but Cairo has given it a cold shoulder.

The new republic covers about 630,000 square miles in Africa and Asia. It is divided by Jordan and Israel. The 38 million inhabitants are linked by Moslem faith, Arabic language and a common hatred of Israel.

On the heels of the unity announcement came a report that Egypt test fired two rockets last week from launching pads near Port Suez at the southern end of the 104-mile canal.

It was the first word of rocket firings since last July, when Nasser announced the presence of rockets in Egypt and allowed newsmen to witness launchings. Nasser said at the time that Egypt was working on two types of ground-to-ground rockets, the larger with the range of 380 miles.

Fired from Port Suez, the larger rockets could threaten all of Israel.

Woman, 4 Sons Picket for Claim in Mate's Death

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Leota Mason, 31, and four sons 9 to 13 picketed an Indianapolis insurance company office Wednesday demanding settlement of a claim for the death of their husband and father, Frank Lee Mason.

Mason was killed June 12, 1959 when his motorcycle collided with an Indianapolis city bus insured by Michigan Mutual Liability Co.

John Moffat, manager of the Michigan Mutual office, said the company's attorneys felt that there was no liability.

Mrs. Mason said she would keep on picketing "until we get a right and just settlement to raise my boys."

Want Drunken Drivers to Serve Terms at Night

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A proposal before a county courts committee would send persons convicted of drunken driving to "night" jail.

Senior Judge Frederick Barad, its sponsor, said Wednesday the measure would allow offenders to work during the day, thus reducing the use of public money to support their families. Under the plan, offenders would serve time also on their days off from work.

A large pulpwood firm is supplying Michigan tree farms with hawthorns, dogwoods, wild cherries, and other bird bringing trees to plant among reforested red pine trees, which offer little food for wildlife.

Top Dessert Pizza With Crushed Pineapple and Nuts

Pineapple Dessert Pizza isn't difficult to make, because the bread base results from an easily mixed batter. The golden cheese filling is topped with pineapple and nuts—an utterly irresistible combination served warm with coffee.

Pineapple Dessert Pizza

¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup (⅛ stick) softened margarine
¼ cup warm water (105 degrees to 115 degrees)
1 package or cake yeast, active dry or compressed
1 egg, beaten
1½ cups unsifted flour
Melted margarine
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
½ cup sugar
2 egg yolks
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 can (1 pound 4½ ounces) pineapple slices or tidbits
½ cup pecan halves or raisins

Scald milk; add 2 tablespoons of sugar, salt and margarine; cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture, egg and flour; beat until smooth, about 2 minutes.

Brush the top of the dough with melted margarine. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours. Meanwhile, combine softened cheese, remaining ½ cup sugar, egg yolks, lemon peel, lemon juice and vanilla. Drain the pineapple very well.

Punch dough down; turn out into greased 12-inch pizza pan. Press out with hands to fit pan, making edges slightly thicker. Spread dough almost to edges with cheese mixture; top with drained pineapple arranged in decorative design; sprinkle nuts or raisins over top.

Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 35 minutes, or until done. Cut while warm into 8 to 10 wedges.

Note: Dough may be pressed out into a 12-inch circle on greased cookie sheet.

Dumpling Math

When you are baking apple dumplings, you'll find that pie dough that is rolled about ⅛-inch thick and cut into 6-inch squares will enfold apples that are about 3 inches in diameter. The fruit for the dumplings should of course be pared and cored.

Deviled Ham Pancakes

A favorite these days with everyone is Pancakes! And what could be tastier than adding spicy deviled ham! Make pancakes according to your own special recipe and spread with deviled ham. Roll and place on heated platter. Serve with a dollop of sour cream.

Good Ham Loaf Has Variety of Uses

A good ham loaf provides so many menu ideas that many homemakers double the recipe. This one has apple butter and ground cloves mixed into the loaf to add just a touch of sugar and spice — a flavor that's very nice indeed.

As a spring dinner, ham loaf is delicious with creamed new potatoes and peas and a green salad. But that's only the beginning.

For cold meals, slice and serve it with potato salad. Or make delicious cold sandwiches with rye bread, lettuce and mayonnaise mixed with a little mustard.

Serve hot sandwiches made with the ham loaf, tomato and your favorite cheese toasted under the broiler. Or drop cubes of ham loaf into split pea soup.

Sliced and browned in butter, it's a happy thought for Sunday breakfast or brunch.

Apple or quince jelly, peach preserves, orange marmalade or pineapple preserves may be substituted for the apple butter for a change of flavor: It's a good idea to glaze the loaf with melted jelly when you take it from the oven.

Spiced Ham Loaf

1½ pounds ground smoked ham
½ pound ground pork
½ cup chopped onion
2 eggs
1 cup fine corn flake crumbs
½ cup catsup
½ cup apple butter
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1-3 cup melted jelly for glaze (apple strawberry, raspberry or currant)

Combine ingredients; mix well. Pack into loaf pan (9x5x3 inches). Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until done, about 1 hour.

Remove from oven, brush with melted jelly to glaze. Let loaf stand in pan 10 to 15 minutes before turning out and slicing. Yield: 8 servings.

Canned Foods Best if Cool

AP Newsfeatures

Do you store all your canned foods in a cool place?

A nutrition expert says you should.

Philip L. White, Sc. D., secretary of the Council of Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association, says that storage of canned foods at relatively high temperatures causes a slow deterioration of certain vitamins.

"The net loss of nutrients depends upon the food and the vitamins; some vitamins are more stable than others," he says.

Ham for Easter in Festive Dress

IN A CRUST—Ham En Croute is a gourmet way to fix a canned ham. Slice thinly and you'll be rewarded with rosy meat in a crusty frame. Serve, if desired, with glasses of California Napa Rose wine.

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

You've decided on ham for your Easter dinner and perhaps you have bought it already. But you're not sure how you'll prepare it or what garnishes you'll use. Maybe we can help.

No longer are cranberries limited to the winter holiday season. This fruit is such a natural with ham that it appears on the Easter table as well.

Cranberry Apricot Glaze

1 lb. can jellied cranberry sauce
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup drained canned apricots, sieved, or 1 can strained apricot baby food

Beat cranberry sauce with beater until "saucy" smooth. Add brown sugar and sieved apricots. Spoon over ham the last half hour of baking or heat and pour over ham slice just before serving.

Cranberry Cocktail Glaze

1 cup cranberry juice cocktail
1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
¼ teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon vinegar

Combine ingredients in saucepan. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes 'til thickened. Pour over slices of ham in casserole. Or use as gravy for baked ham. Makes about 1 cup glaze.

Try this Cranberry Pineapple Compote with the Easter dinner. A mildly spiced cranberry syrup is spooned over pineapple chunks and the dish is garnished with toasted almonds and grated orange rind.

Cranberry Pineapple Compote

1 1-lb. can pineapple chunks
1 cup cranberry juice cocktail
1 tablespoon cornstarch
5 tablespoons sugar
Dash salt
2 3-inch cinnamon sticks
5 whole cloves
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind
¼ cup toasted almonds

Drain pineapple reserving ¼ cup syrup. Combine syrup and cranberry cocktail. Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt in saucepan. Stir in cranberry cocktail mixture, add spices and orange rind. Cook over medium heat until clear and thickened, stirring constantly. Remove cinnamon sticks and cloves.

Pour hot syrup over pineapple in compote dish and chill. Garnish with toasted almonds and orange rind before serving. Serve with ham or pork.

When I was a little girl, my grandmother sometimes baked ham in a rye bread crust. When done, the crust was cracked off to show a ham tender and moist.

Tomato Cheese Crust
(For 9 lb. Ham)

6 cups all purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
2-3 cup shortening
3 eggs, beaten
1 cup tomato juice
Egg wash (1 egg beaten well)
1 9-lb canned ham

Combine flour, salt and cheese; cut in shortening until very fine. Add beaten eggs and tomato juice, stirring to make a stiff dough. Knead on floured board until very smooth; let rest for one hour.

Roll out dough into 22 inch square (about ⅛-inch thick). Place ham with all gelatin trimmed off in center, fold around ham like a neat package sealing with egg wash. Turn ham over. Cut off any excess dough and cut out decorations.

Brush egg wash over entire crust; arrange decorations and brush with egg wash. Insert chimney (see below). Let dry for about 15 minutes.

Place in 425 degree oven for 10 minutes; reduce heat to 300 degrees and continue baking for about 1 hour and 45 minutes. Serve warm or cold with Ruby Port Apricot Sauce.

Chimney: Make a small hole in center of crust and place a circle of dough around hole. Into hole, and held by dough, insert a "chimney" made of oiled brown paper rolled to make a chimney pipe. A chimney about 2" or 3" high will permit steam to escape.

Ruby Apricot Sauce

1 cup Ruby Port wine
1 cup apricot jam
4 teaspoons corn starch
⅛ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon ginger

Combine all ingredients in sauce pan and mix well. Bring to boil and cook until thick and transparent, stirring constantly. Serve hot or cold. Makes 2 cups of sauce.

CRANBERRY RED—Here are ways to brighten the Easter menu. A couple of shiny glazes for baked ham and a cranberry pineapple compote add a festive air to the special meal.

One Is Milder

Recipes sometimes specify that either grated Parmesan or Romano cheese may be used: as a rule, the former is milder in flavor than the latter.

New England Cooks Consider This Elegant

Indian Pudding

1 can (14½ ounces) evaporated milk
1 2/3 cups water
¼ cup white cornmeal
½ cup dark molasses
½ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon ginger

Scald undiluted evaporated milk and the water in the top part of a double boiler. Gradually stir in the cornmeal. Cook over boiling water, stirring occasionally, for 20 minutes.

Remove from heat and over water; mix in the molasses, salt and ginger. Turn into a buttered 1½-quart souffle or other deep baking dish.

Cover (with foil if necessary) and bake in a slow (300 degrees) oven for 1 hour; stir; continue baking, uncovered, 1 hour more. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

SPANISH STYLE — A ham and pimiento-stuffed olive filling goes well with an American puffy omelet. Spanish omelets, called "torfillas" are flatter and more pancake like than ours, and often have diced potato in them.

Little Bit of Meat Goes Far in Spanish Olive Omelet

Spain is egg country. The U.S. leans to beef; the Middle Eastern countries to lamb, but Spain relies on eggs, chicken and fish for its well-deserved reputation for setting a good table. In all of its dishes, from paella — the rice, chicken and seafood dish that's the country's national "anthem" — to the simplest supper dish of eggs, the pimiento-stuffed olive adds its distinctive flavor.

The thrifty Spanish even use olive pits for fuel. Since most of the olives for export are pimiento-stuffed, the pit is removed. These dried pits, known as orujo, make a hot but quick fire. This is another reason for the popularity of egg dishes like omelet, which cook in a short time, conserving the precious supply of charcoal, wood and orujo.

Spanish Ham and Olive Omelet

6 eggs separated
⅓ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon crushed basil
Dash pepper
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup milk
¼ cup sliced, pimiento-stuffed olives
1 can (2¼ ounces) deviled ham
Whole pimiento-stuffed olives

Beat egg whites and water until soft peaks form. Beat egg yolks, salt, basil and pepper until thick and light; fold into egg whites. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in 10½ inch omelet pan or skillet, tilting pan to grease sides. Add egg mixture; cook over low heat 10 minutes or until lightly browned on bottom (lift edge of omelet with spatula to judge color.)

Bake in 325 degree (slow) oven 10 minutes or broil 4-inches from broiler heat until omelet is dry.

Meanwhile, melt remaining 1 tablespoon butter in saucepan; stir in flour. Slowly add milk; cook and stir until thickened. Mix in sliced olives and ham; keep warm. Partially cut omelet in half; spread ham sauce over half. Fold over and slide onto heated plate. Garnish with whole olives. Makes 4 servings.

Hot Olive Cheese Puffs

2 egg whites
¼ pound grated Swiss cheese
⅛ teaspoon celery seed
12 to 16 whole pimiento-stuffed olives
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs
Hot oil for deep frying

Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; fold in cheese and celery seed. Using fingers, press mixture around olives. Roll in bread crumbs.

Just before serving, fry in oil 3 inches deep and heated to 350 degrees on deep fat frying thermometer, about 1 minute or until golden brown. Drain on paper towels; serve hot. Makes 12-16 hors d'oeuvres.

Egg Men Offer Cooking Hints

EAST LANSING (AP) — Two Michigan poultrymen, busy with Easter preparations, paused long enough yesterday to estimate that ten million Easter eggs will be colored in the state before Sunday.

Laid end to end, the eggs would make a colorful line 475 miles long, from the Ohio border to 100 miles above Sault Ste. Marie, the poultrymen calculated.

Ray Dewitt, secretary-treasurer of the Michigan Allied Poultry Industries, and George Scott, secretary of the Michigan Poultry and Hatchery Federation, also offered a method of "hard-cooking" the eggs which they said would reduce the possibility of cracking and would produce golden yellow yolks.

Here's how they do it:

—Have the eggs at room temperature.

—Put the eggs in water and then bring both eggs and water to a boil.

—Turn the burner off when the water boils and let the eggs sit for 12 minutes.

—Cool the eggs immediately by running cold water over them.

Before the poultrymen hurried back to work, they mentioned that some eight million eggs are consumed every day in Michigan, an average of an egg a day per person.

Dry Crumbs Coat Oven Chicken

Oven-Broiled Chicken

1 broiler-fryer (cut in 10 pieces)
¾ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs
¼ pound butter or margarine (melted)

Wash chicken and dry. Mix together the flour, salt, pepper, paprika; mix with crumbs. Dip chicken in flour mixture to coat on all sides.

Place chicken, in one layer and skin side down, in hot butter in baking dish (about 8 by 12 by 2 inches). Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven about 30 minutes; turn chicken; continue to bake until browned and cooked through —20 to 30 minutes longer. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

A Good Crust

If you want a loaf of yeast bread to have a good crust, don't let the dough dry during the rising. A "good" crust means one that is an even golden-brown color and has a smooth texture.

Neutralists Open Drive in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Neutralist troops under the command of Gen. Kong Le opened a strong drive on the Communist-held town of Xieng Khouang today in an effort to rescue neutralist soldiers trapped behind red lines.

Informed sources in Vientiane said the Kong Le forces had lost at least one man and one tank in the operation near the strategic Plaine des Jorres.

The trapped troops had been unable to flee Xieng Khouang when communist Pathet Lao forces took control of the town in renewed fighting with the neutralists last week.

Three Communist battalions were believed in the Xieng Khouang area, informed sources said, and the drive by the neutralists was aimed only at recovery of personnel and equipment rather than recapture of the town.

The Reds at Xieng Khouang were said to include Viet Minh troops from North Viet Nam in violation of the 14-nation Geneva accords guaranteeing Laos' peace and neutrality.

(In Washington yesterday, the United States said it would consider any request from neutralist forces in Laos for food or armaments in their fight against the Communists. A high U.S. official said the United States still hoped diplomatic efforts would restore peace to Laos).

Initial reports reaching Vientiane from Xieng Khouang said Kong Le was employing two battalions of his troops for the drive to rescue the trapped men.

Ease Limits on Seaway

OTTAWA (AP)—An increase of 6 inches in the maximum draft permissible for ships using the St. Lawrence Seaway between Montreal and Lake Ontario was announced yesterday. The new limit will be 25 feet, 6 inches.

This will permit vessels using the seaway to carry several hundred more tons of cargo. Seaway channels have controlling depth of of 27 feet.

In the case of the 730-foot lakers, largest ships able to use the seaway, the extra six inches will allow them to load an extra 20,000 bushels of wheat or 640 tons of such cargo as iron and coal.

Lady Lawyer Lives in 18 Courtly Styles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When a lady lawyer enters a courtroom, it should be in high style, attorney Barbara Warner contends.

And with 18 different styles and colors of briefcases to choose from, it's easy for her to match both her outfit and her mood each day.

She owns cases covered in tapestry, as well as more conservative shades—black and a variety of browns.

Mountaineers Now Trained to Hit Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mountain tribesmen — once a source of strength for Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam — are being trained to slash the Red manpower pipeline from North Viet Nam.

These mountain men, thousands of whom have migrated into government-controlled areas, are being prepared to return to their native highlands to ambush the Communists as they filter in from Laos along a network of footpaths and animal trails.

If the plan works, it could shorten drastically the job of stamping out Communist insurgents in South Viet Nam.

Vopos Capture Escapee

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist East Berlin police fired shots at a worker attempting to escape across the antirefugee wall to West Berlin and captured him yesterday.

Boiling Point Much Lower in Space

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — If an astronaut whirling around the earth in orbit were inclined to boil an egg for himself, he would soon discover that in space there's no such thing as a "three-minute egg."

It's likely a "three-orbit egg," even when traveling at 1,700 miles an hour.

Lack of air pressure is one of the many perplexities that man must face when he escapes from earth.

And it's lack of pressure that changes the cooking timetable because the temperature of boiling water depends on atmospheric pressure.

At sea level, water boils at 212 degrees producing enough heat to cook an egg in three minutes.

However, in space, where the pressure is near zero, water boils at a much lower temperature, so low it requires hours of boiling to produce a "three-minute egg."

Space engineers at Garrett Air Research have taken advantage of this lack of pressure to cool the astronaut in the Project Mercury capsule.

By using a pressure cooker, the space housewife of the future may increase the pressure, raise the boiling point of water, and once more enjoy a short-boiled egg, cooked in three minutes.

Summit Conference to Seek Africa Unity

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Emperor Haile Selassie said yesterday an African summit conference here next month will seek for the first time in history to lay the foundation for African unity.

The three-day conference begins May 23.

Selassie told a news conference the African government heads will discuss speeding up independence for areas still under colonial rule and the formulating of a universal African charter to embrace the unity ideals of various groups of African nations.

House Will Be Around Pool in Australia

PERTH, Australia (AP) — One of the biggest and most expensive houses built in western Australia since the end of World War II is taking shape at the suburb of City Beach.

The house will cover 8,000 square feet and cost around $112,000.

The house, being built for wholesale butcher Ray Williams, has been designed around a swimming pool, and the whole layout will cover an area 160 feet by 80 feet.

Features will include:

Loudspeaker for intercommunication because the last bedroom is 50 yards from the kitchen.

An interior garden at the entrance hall.

An underground garage to hold three autos and a motor boat.

The bedroom wing will comprise a main room, a spare room, and four rooms for Williams' five daughters, all under 13. Each bedroom will have a change room and bathroom.

Every bedroom will have easy access to the 36 foot by 20 foot swimming pool.

About 80 per cent of the wooden cigar store Indians of another generation were squaws according to the National Geographic society.

Win Over Chisox Builds 'Confidence'

Good Start for Aguirre

DETROIT (AP) — Hank Aguirre didn't spend the winter worrying about his hitting. He worried about his pitching because he was a 16-game winner and the earned run average champion.

"I was worried because I didn't know if I could do it again, that I might have been a flash in the pan," said the lanky Tiger left hander with the .027 batting average and 2.21 era. "It was a matter of confidence.. If I'd pitched that way for five years it'd be different.

"But I had just one good year and who knew if I could repeat. You've got to wonder, you've got to think about it a lot."

Aguirre's winter worries ended yesterday. His hitting was as feeble as ever and his pitching was as good as last year. He stifled the Chicago White Sox on seven hits as the Tigers recorded their first victory of the new season 2-1.

"This didn't hurt my confidence," said Aguirre. "Let's say I needed this one to prove something to myself."

Aguirre was given his 2-1 lead in the first inning and protected it the last eight innings.

ONLY 4 HITS

The Tigers supported him with only four hits, three as they scored their two runs off Eddie Fisher in the first. After that Fisher pitched hitless ball through the sixth and rookie Gary Peters gave up one hit in relief.

"But they sure helped me in the field, especially in the ninth," said Aguirre. "I didn't have anything left in the ninth."

AP Photofax

LAST OUT—Dick McAuliffe, Tiger second baseman, gets the ball away to first baseman Norm Cash after forcing pinch runner Al Weis of the White Sox. It was the final out of the game and the Tigers won a 2-1 decision at Tiger Stadium.

Ron Hansen singled sharply, leading off the ninth and putting Chicago's potential tying run on base. Pete Ward, home run hero of the Sox' opening day victory, dropped a bunt. But the sacrifice attempt backfired when third baseman Bubba Phillips scooped the ball and forced Hansen at second.

Phillips, on the next play, started a double play to end the game. The double play was accomplished only because of Dick McAuliffe's excellent pivot.

"Bubba made a great play and then another one," said Aguirre. "He saved me."

"Give McAuliffe credit for the double play," said Phillips. "I made a low throw and he handled it cleanly and still made the pivot."

LOSES SHUTOUT

Fox was worked around to score on singles by Dave Nicholson and Floyd Robinson.

Billy Bruton's double, the only solid hit off Fisher, started the Tigers' retaliation in the first. Al Kaline sent Bruton to third with a scratch single to short and Rocky Colavito brought in a run with a fly. Kaline stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored on McAuliffe's infield single.

That was the entirety of the Tiger attack. Aguirre struck out twice and grounded out once.

The Tigers start an 11-game road trip today at Cleveland with Don Mossi set for his first start. He was to be opposed by Dick Donovan.

$350 SMILES—These three Pro-Am competitors at 300 Bowl last night bowled on three separate squads with three different partners and three dissimilar handicaps, but their scores were all the same and so will the first place checks they collect Saturday. Allen Gauld (left), John Warner (center) and Jack Topham all rolled 1,299 with the pro partners last night and will be $350 richer when the prizes are handed out.

What's his fancy? There are checks and plaids and solids, in blues, tans, olives and browns. There are splendid lightweight fabrics that are easy to care for as well: Dacron-cottons, pure cottons, and pure Arnels. The styling is classic: natural shoulder, 3-button, with center vent. And it's a great time to buy a sport coat—for these are the sort of sale prices you usually find at summer's end.

Topham Leads Three Pontiac Area Amateurs

Two Six-Game Blocks Scheduled Today With 2 More Friday

By JERE CRAIG

The magic number Wednesday night at 300 Bowl was 13—1300 to be exact—and no one reached it.

The result was a three-way tie at 1,299 for first place in the Pro-Am event of the Professional Bowlers Association tour's second annual visit to Pontiac. The $23,400 event officially gets started today.

The amateur winners were Jack Topham, John Farner and Al Gauld, all from the Pontiac area. They will each collect a check worth $350 Saturday afternoon before the finals of the PBA Tournament which began this morning at 300 Bowl.

Topham teamed with Glen Blakesly, Warner had pro Jim St. John for a partner and Gauld was paired with George Howard. It was the second straight week Howard has bowled with a Pro-Am winner.

Based on 200 scratch and 70 per cent handicap, Gauld had the highest advantage — 156 pins. Warner had 90 and Topham only carried 60 pins handicap.

Topham rolled a 596 actual, including a 232 game, to set the pace among the three amateur leaders. His partner Blakesly also was high among the three pros with a 643 actual.

St. John's 640 proved valuable to Warner who bowled 569. Howard (599) and Gauld (544) needed the 156 extra pins to tie for the title.

3RD IN 1962

The lanes appeared to meet with the bowlers' approval with 600 series common among the pros. Topping the stars was slim Dick Weber with a 670 series to help Pontiac Mayor Robert Landry to a 1,279-ninth place finish.

In all, 15 places paid prizes to the amateurs. The last payoff of $75 will go to Wayne Mahoney who teamed with pro Jerry Hale for 1,251.

There were two other 1,290-or-better counts. A 643 by Ralph Brunt helped Ed Dunaj (590-60) to a 1,293 total for fourth place and $200. Larry Tate will receive a $150 check after pairing with Bud Schaibly for 1,290.

An oddity concerning the three-day first place tie was the fact all three 1,299s came on different squads.

The pros were relaxed and friendly, chatting with their partners and with the spectators. Nerves took a toll on many of the amateurs, although 15 of them managed to outbowl their illustrous partners.

Some of the big names who were outshone by the amateurs were Dick Hoover, Therm Gibson; Carmen Salvino (the defending Pontiac PBA Open champion only had 524) and Ed Bourdasse.

Two women cashed in the Pro-Am. Harriet Dismore will take home $125 for sixth place on a $1,289 with Al Thompson; while Mary Ann Christoff finished strong for 12th position ($75). She was paired with John Ruggiero.

The PBA Tournament, featuring 118 of the nation's top pro keg stars and 10 local amateurs, began its 24-game qualifying at 11 a.m. this morning.

Six games were slated for the early session, and six more will begin at 5:30 p.m. Two more squads of six games are slated for identical times tomorrow.

Skull Nurnberg Next for Rivers, Cousin

Zeke (Scufflin' Hillbilly) Rivers and his squirrel gun-totin' cousin Jody take on Skull Nurnberg in one of five pro wrestling bouts Saturday at 8:30 p. m. in the Pontiac Armory.

In the other matches, Ricki Cortez will meet Ali Bey, Great Mephisto will wrestle Gino Brito and midgets Fuzzy Cupid and Irish Jackie will tangle.

Mahovlich Out of Cup Game Tonight

Injured Knee Waylays Star; Howe Ready

Leafs Ahead, 1-0; Red Wings Confident, Vow Different Start

TORONTO (AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs, minus high-scoring Frank Mahovlich, go after their second straight victory over the Detroit Red Wings tonight as the National Hockey League Stanley Cup final resumes at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The Leafs won the opener of the best-of-7 series here Tuesday night 4-2, but lost Mahovlich with a sprained left knee. He'll definitely miss tonight's game but the Leafs—bidding for their second straight Cup championship—expect him back for game No. 3 when the teams switch to Detroit Sunday.

"You never know what I'm going to do," Coach Punch Imlach said when asked who would fill Mahovlich's spot on the No. 1 line with Red Kelly and Ron Stewart. "I don't know either."

After Wednesday's practice it looked like either Carl Brewer or Kent Douglas. Although Brewer is a defenseman, he has had considerable minor league experience as a forward.

The Red Wings, meanwhile, got a lift when ace winger Gordie Howe reported that he was feeling somewhat better. Howe was suffering from flu in Tuesday's game and has been under a doctor's care since.

He indicated he would play tonight and Coach Sid Abel said: "I guess he'll be all right."

The Wings, who eliminated Chicago in the Cup semifinals, are determined that they'll square the series before they return home.

"The players wanted to meet Toronto because they felt they could beat them—and they still do," said Abel. "We got off to a shaky start Tuesday and it beat us. We don't intend to let that happen again."

Wolverines Dumped by Arizona, 11-4

TUCSON (AP)—Arizona picked up an early lead and was able to expand on it Wednesday night as the Wildcats downed Michigan 11-4 in the third contest of a six-game baseball series.

Michigan, the nation's top ranked college team, took the first two games by overcoming early Arizona advantages.

The Wildcats scored twice in the first inning, added two more in the third and one in the fourth before Michigan could get a run across.

Battle of Unbeatens in American League

By The Associated Press

The American League pennant race is only three days old, and we've got a crucial series already.

The Baltimore Orioles and the New York Yankees, the only unbeaten teams in the league, square off today for the opener of a three-game set at Yankee Stadium. The Yankees were the preseason pennant pick, with the Orioles drawing a lot of support.

The Orioles kept their slate clean Wednesday with a 3-2 victory over the Washington Senators fashioned with the aid of some erratic Washington base running.

In other American League games, Detroit beat the Chicago White Sox 2-1, Minnesota topped Cleveland 5-3 and the Boston Red Sox toppled the Los Angeles Angels 4-1.

Claude Osteen for Washington and Robin Roberts for Baltimore hooked up in an 0-0 duel for six innings. Then Don Lock and Larry Osborne of the Nats hit successive doubles in the seventh and with two out, Ed Brinkman singled Osborne home. When Osteen singled, Roberts departed.

Pinch hitter Jim King hit a drive to right field off reliever Dick Hall which would have scored Brinkman, but Osteen failed to touch second base on his way by, and was out, ending the inning.

The Orioles got all three runs in the ninth. Jackie Brandt homered, and Osteen walked Brooks Robinson. Steve Hamilton, the loser, came on and gave up two singles and a walk and the score was tied. A sacrifice fly by Jerry Adair chased in the winning run.

Mantle and Elston Howard hit two-run homers for the Yankees, as Bill Stafford sailed along in fine style on the mound until he was forced to leave in the seventh with an elbow injury. The A's got all their runs in the ninth off his successors. Two walks, two singles and a sacrifice fly brought them in, but Jose Tartabull hit into a double play that killed the rally.

Harmon Killebrew, who led the league with 48 last year, weighed in with his first homer of the campaign, the key blow in the Twins' victory over the Indians. Left-hander Jim Kaat went all the way for Minnesota. Gene Green ruined his shutout in the eighth with a homer, and Mike de la Hoz doubled home the other two runs in the ninth.

Right-hander Earl Wilson, who threw a no-hitter against the Angels last season, set them down with six hits. Leon Wagner singled home the Los Angeles run in the first. Boston got all its runs in the third inning, with Carl Yastrzemski's two-run double the key blow.

3 Home Nines Triumph as W-O Race Starts

The Wayne - Oakland League kicked off its baseball season yesterday and three of the home teams posted victories.

Milford, Brighton and West Bloomfield were ungracious hosts, while Clarkston was a rude visitor at Bloomfield Hills. In a non-league game, Walled Lake handed Kettering a 10-5 thumping.

Johnny Williams threw a three-hitter, struck out eight and drove in two runs as Clarkston took a 4-2 win from the Barons. A four-run rally in the fifth inning was the only commotion the Wolves needed to grab the win.

Another Williams, Jay for West Bloomfield, dropped a perfect squeeze bunt to plate pinch-runner Doug Ash with the winning run as the Lakers took a 5-4 overtime win from favored Holly.

The visitors overcame a 3-0 lead by the winners with a four spot in the fifth inning but they allowed West Bloomfield to knot the count in the same inning. The winning run scored in the eighth frame.

Holly's Tom Fagan pounded out a two-run double and scored later in the big Bronco rally. Rick Hachi had a double and single for the winners and Larry Templeton had a two-bagger, also.

It was the Laker's first diamond triumph in two seasons.

Milford had three-hit pitching from southpaw Ed Sparkman; and sophomore second sacker Dave Moilanan had two doubles including run producers in the third and fourth innings to earn a 6-3 win over Northville.

Jim Jucey had all three Northville hits in the contest.

Walled Lake broke open a tight ball game with five runs in the final two innings for its victory over Kettering.

The other W-O contest ended 2-1 for Brighton against Clarenceville.

Appeal Play Helps Birds Top Senators

BALTIMORE (AP) —A rare appeal play by shortstop Luis Aparicio helped Baltimore defeat Washington Wednesday 3-2 in the Orioles' home opener.

This is what happened:

Pinch-hitter Jim King sent a drive into right field, sending Ed Brinkman across the plate with what appeared to be the third run of the inning. But Aparicio tagged second base and appealed to umpire Cal Drummond after the ball was returned to the infield. Drummond called Claude Osteen out for failing to touch the bag on his way from first to third base.

The play ended the inning, took a hit away from King and robbed Washington of a vital third run.

Scoring Hits Snag at WIBC Tourney

MEMPHIS (AP) — Scoring slumped in team competition at the Woman's International Bowling Congress Tournament as predominately local teams bowled Wednesday night.

The best score in division 1 was a 2,267 by Berclair Fashions of Memphis. But it was far off the pace of Kingham Delivery of Houston which took the lead three days ago with 2,716.

The first place in division 1 singles was captured by Nell Hilton of Minneapolis with a three game series of 601.

She rolled games of 214, 187 and 200 to pass Fran Dykstra of Grand Rapids, Mich., who had dominated the division for several days with a 599 series.

Mrs. Hilton also paired with Stalla Gates for a 1090 total and fourth place in division 1 doubles. They are members of the Lowry Lanes team of Minneapolis which took second place in the division 1 team event with 2,604.

Player Eyes Snead 'Spot'

Associated Press Sports Writer

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — When Sam Snead won the inaugural Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament back in 1938 Gary Player couldn't have cared less. He was two years old and lived in Johannsburg, South Africa.

But Today, Player and every other man in the field of 156 was arrayed against Snead as the 24th annual GGO, now carrying a minimum $35,000 purse, got under way.

Snead, who'll be 51 next month, has been here for 22 tournaments, winning seven from 1936 through 1960 and finishing no lower than tied for third on eight other occasions.

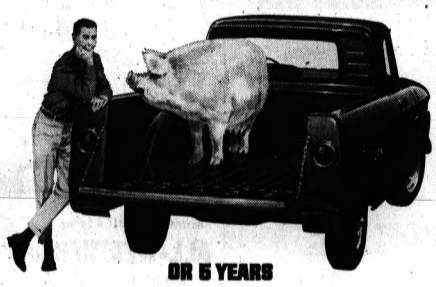
DODGE TRUCKS ARE WARRANTED FOR 50,000 MILES



OR 5 YEARS

A truck is a capital investment, another machine to help you make money.

So the tougher the machine is, the more money it will make over a longer time.

Dodge builds tough trucks, so tough in fact they're backed by the longest and strongest warranty on any American truck. A five-year or 50,000-mile power train warranty* issued by Chrysler Motors Corporation to its authorized Dodge Truck dealers.

Look around. Talk to other dealers. Give competitive warranties a careful reading.

Then talk to the man who sells Job-Rated Dodge trucks in your neighborhood.

He'll have the warranty that tops 'em all. And he'll tell you about a liberal new truck finance plan, too, as frosting for the cake!

*Your authorized Dodge Truck Dealer's warranty against defects in material or workmanship on 1963 trucks has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair, without charge for required parts or labor, for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on engine block, head and internal parts; transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings, provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Chrysler Motors Corporation Certified Truck Care schedules. Trucks are subject to additional limitations of 1500 hours operation if mileage does not accurately reflect the extent of actual use and operation of parts covered by the warranty. Coverage will not apply to trucks subjected to prolonged power-take-off or off-highway use.

Entry Fee for ABC Paid by Friends

A first-place total by a booster division team from Puerto Rico provided the other news as the 10-week ABC competition neared the end of its eighth week.

Richard Collier, who graduated from high school last June, Rolled 246-257-184—687 for seventh place in the classic singles Wednesday night. It was Collier's first ABC.

Collier, a manager at a bowling establishment in East McKeesport, Pa., learned Tuesday night that he would have to bowl his minor events in the classic division, because he recently had joined the Professional Bowlers Association.

His friends scraped together the $64 classic entry fee so he and his partner, Jim Borrasso Jr., could take part.

The Andrea five of San Juan grabbed the lead in booster division with 2,815. They replaced Ridge Lanes of Ridgeway Ont.

Table Tennis Loop Ends Regular Play

The Pontiac Table Tennis League, under the sponsorship of the Parks and Recreation Department, will conclude a successful regular season schedule tonight with seven matches in the PCH girls' gym.

Capitol Barber Shop has clinched the loop championship although a tight, three-way battle rages for third place.

Two of the contenders, Seaman's Manufacturing which is the dethroned league champion and Club 99, will tangle.

Following tonight's action, the city table tennis tournament play will occupy the spotlight for two weeks at the same site.

Sam Jones Practices; Boston in NBA Finals

BOSTON (AP)—Shortly before noon on Wednesday a lonely-looking figure was practicing on the Boston Garden basketball court. First he'd shoot a basket from 25 feet, then he'd walk to the other side, shoot again, then to another spot and shoot again.

Ten or 15 minutes later Sam Jones of the Boston Celtics, satisfied he had sharpened up his shooting eye, walked off the floor.

SHARP EYE

Some 10 hours later when Sam Jones next walked off the Boston Garden floor, a crowd of 13,909 howling, delirious Boston fans also was sure his eye was sharp.

For Jones had left behind him a prodigious 47 points — second highest output by a Boston player in Celtics history. More important those 47 points paced the Celtics to a 142-131 victory over the Cincinnati Royals and gave Boston the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division final playoffs, four games to three.

Boston's next foe as it hopes for a fifth straight world championship will be the winner of the Los Angeles-St. Louis series. That seventh and deciding game is set for Los Angeles tonight.

At one point, the 6-foot-4 backcourt player reeled off seven baskets in as many shots. Every time he went into the air to shoot, it seemed Boston racked up another two points. He ended with 18 baskets in 27 attempts for a personal floor average of .667.

Jones' contribution even overshadowed Oscar Robertson's 43 points for the Royals. But the "Big O" got 21 of his points at the foul line and went through the first quarter without an actual basket. He did get a two-pointer on a goal-tending call against Bill Russell.

PNH Thinclads Defeat Rochester

Ted Swoboda won three events for Rochester, but Pontiac Northern captured the dual track meet yesterday, 75½-33½.

Swoboda's firsts in both hurdle races and the high jump were the only taken by the Falcons. Larry Slater and Eddie Perry were double winners for PNH.

Slater took the pole vault and broad jump. Perry was first in the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

It was the first dual meet of the season for both schools.

A victory in the 880 relay, final event of the meet, gave Farmington a 56-53 win over Milford.

The Falcons swept the 100 and 220 with Russ Robinson (10.3) and John Lookwood (23.3) first, respectively. Farmington's Frank Patterson won the high hurdles in 16.1 and the lows in 20.6.

Farmington high jumper Pete Sartin broke the Milford field record with a 5-10½. Dennis Hunt of the Falcons ran a 4:38 mile.

FIRST PLACES

Milford winners were Jim Conzemius, broad jump, 19-6; Dan Mullins, pole vault, 10-6; Harry Johns, shot, 46-10; mile relay (Skinner, Flynn, Magher, Faught), 3:47; Harold Faught, 880, 2:07.3.

Milford's Steve Skinner and Farmington's Dick Moore tied in the 440 at 56.4.

Oxford won a triangular meet at home. The Wildcats scored 78½ points, Holly 50 and Millington 8½.

Winning for Oxford were John Singleton, shot, 43-¼; Mike Marshall, vault, 9-6; Sam Gingell, 100, 10.6; Larry Truba, 440, 57.3; Jack Farrell, 220, 23.5; Richard Evans, mile, 5:13.9; 880 relay (Gingell, VanFleet, Hoard, Farrell), 1:40.4.

For Holly it was Ray Rogers, broad jump, 19-½; Ed Turner, high jump, 5-4; Woody Pierce, high hurdles, 17.25; Ken Upcraft, low hurdles, 22.55; mile relay (T. White, B. White, Call, Lowe), 3:53.4.

There were no high jump or pole vault facilities, two events Waterford Our Lady of the Lakes is strong in, at Belle Isle yesterday and the Lakers suffered a 50-41 loss to Annunciation.

Terry Lilley won both dashes for the Lakers in 11.2 and 24.2. George Sharpe took the 440 in 57.2; Joe Petrucci, high hurdles; Bob Schaffer, low hurdles; and the 880 relay team.

Koufax Fans 10 as Dodgers Win

Bailey's Grand Slam in Pinch Saves Giants

Ed Bailey figures to play second fiddle with the San Francisco Giants, but when he picks up the pitch he can blast off like a tuba player.

The veteran Giants catcher, No. 2 backstop behind Tom Haller, got the call for a solo against Houston and crashed a pinch-hit grand slam homer that carried the defending National League champions from behind for an 8-7 victory over the pesky Colts Wednesday night.

Too valuable to be traded despite a desire to play regularly, Bailey figures in the Giants' plan both as a solid relief man for Haller and a long ball threat in pinch-hit situations. Last year he hit only .232 in 96 games, but collected 17 homers and 45 runs batted in.

The Giants trailed 7-4 going into the eighth but loaded the bases against reliever Don McMahon on walks to Willie Mays, Haller and Felipe Alou. Then Bailey lashed a 3-2 pitch to beat the band.

KOUFAX WINS

While Bailey was parading his talents, Los Angeles left-hander Sandy Koufax gave his finger its first fling of the regular season, struck out 10 batters in a game for the 41st time and allowed only five hits as the Dodgers edged the Chicago Cubs 2-1.

Elsewhere, Philadelphia erupted for eight runs in the seventh inning and walloped Cincinnati 10-7, Ray Washburn's four-hitter carried St. Louis to a 4-0 victory over the New York Mets and Pittsburgh edged Milwaukee 3-2 on Don Clendenon's homer.

Howie Goss stroked four singles as the light-hitting Colts tapped out 15 hits—only one for extra bases—and built a 7-4 lead going into the eighth. Bailey then won it for reliever Jim Duffalo, who followed Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry to the mound. Bob Bolin finished up for the Giants with two shutout innings. Felipe Alou also homered for San Francisco.

Koufax, who hadn't turned in a complete game since last July 4, pitched strongly, unhampered by the circulatory ailment that numbed his finger last year. The Dodger runs were donated by Cubs catcher Dick Bertell. Bertell threw wildly, allowing Willie Davis to score in the first inning, and permitted a Bob Buhl pitch to get by him for a passed ball that moved Dick Tracewski into scoring position in the fifth. Davis' single brought the run across.

The Phillies sent 11 men to the plate in the seventh, collecting six hits, including doubles by John Callison and Wes Covington and a two-run homer by Clay Dalrymple. Don Demeter's single snapped a 7-7 tie. Rookie Ray Culp was the winner in relief for his first major league victory. Bill Henry took the loss.

FOUR HITS

Washburn followed up Ernie Broglio's two-hitter against the Mets with his four-hitter, retiring 17 batters in order from the second to eighth innings. Julian Javier scored the only run Washburn needed in the fifth when he was hit by a pitch, took second on a balk by loser Al Jackson, moved to third on a sacrifice and scored ahead of Al Moran's wide throw home on Curt Flood's grounder.

Clendenon's homer against Bob Shaw in the eighth broke a 2-2 tie and got the job done for the Pirates. Shaw drove in both Milwaukee runs with a fourth inning single. Don Cardwell got credit for the victory with Bob Veale's ninth inning relief help. Cardwell allowed only five hits.

16-4 Mark Set in Pole Vault

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP)—Soaring John Pennel, whose 16-foot-3 pole vault last month is still pending as a world record, has added another inch to his vault.

The 5-foot-11, 165-pound track star from Northeast Louisiana State College cleared 16-4 Wednesday in a triangular cinders meet on the Northwestern, La., State College campus here.

NSC officials called in a surveyor to check the measurements and plot the stadium for submission of Pennel's vault to the International Amateur Athletic Federation, the body which governs world track standards.

Pennel, whose home is at Miami, Fla., easily cleared 16-4 on his second try. On his first attempt he knocked the bar off as he was coming down. Then he tried 16-6 but failed three times.

The handsome athlete vaulted 16-3 last month in the Memphis, Tenn., Relays to top the officially recognized standard of 16-2½ held by Finland's Pentti Nikula.

Nikula has soared 16-8¾ indoors, but only outdoor competition is recognized for official world standards.

Waterford, St. Fred, Hills Win on Links

In other area golf matches, St. Fred evened its dual record at 1-1 by downing Clarkston 274-280 and Bloomfield Hills scored a 219-227 win over Catholic Central at North Hills.

Waterford's Len Spies and Central's Dick Richards each posted 40's for medal honors. Ron Sutton, WTHS, had 41 as did Al Ryden and Joe Hinkley (PCH).

Tom Bradley led St. Fred with 39, followed by Chuck Dean's 43, Dean Morirs 43 and Ed Mareski 46. Glen Wilson had 43 for Clarkston.

Double Ace Reckley

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — One of golf's rarest feats — two holes-in-one during a single round, was achieved by E. V. Reckley of Tampa Wednesday.

Reckley aced the 85-yard par-3 sixth hole on the front nine of the Silver Lake course, then scored his second ace on the 135-yard, par-3 14th.

Red Papers Laud Encyclical

Pope's Letter Praised by W. Europe

LONDON (AP)—Virtually all political factions in Western Europe united in rare agreement today in praise of Pope John XXIII's new encyclical on peace.

The left-wing and Communist press was as quick to jump into print with favorable responses as conservative and Catholic newspapers and politicians.

L'Unita in Italy and L'Humanite in Prague — the organs of Western Europe's two biggest Communist parties — praised the Pope's views on peace and social change.

"It is an immense satisfaction," said L'Humanite, "to see the highest Catholic authority take notice of the forward movement of the largest masses and, by the same token, favor action toward peace."

L'Unita's front-page editorial pointed up parts of the message dealing with "a positive dialogue" between East and West.

Austria's Communist Volksstimme headlined the "Papal Message of Peace" and Drafeau Rouge in Belgium ran a full report stressing the Pope's remarks on nuclear weapons and tests.

"This encyclical," said the Belgian Communist paper, "is a testimony to the efforts undertaken to widen or adapt (Roman Catholic doctrine) to the social demands of our time."

In Yugoslavia, Politika, the Communist country's largest daily, headlined its report from Rome: "Pope John XXIII demands strengthening of U.N."

Soviet newspapers made no mention of the encyclical "Pacem in Terris" (Peace on Earth), possibly indicating that the Kremlin was studying it.

The Soviet news agency Tass carried a brief digest in its overseas service stressing the call for a halt in the arms race and the Pope's warning against accidental nuclear war.

Non-Communist opinion was struck by the encyclical's wide appeal "to all men of good will," the first time in history such a papal letter was addressed to non-Catholics as well as Catholics.

"Though the Pope speaks directly to those of his own obedience," said London's conservative Daily Telegraph, "his argument is framed to persuade men of all religions or of none."

Named UP Director of State Library Branch

LANSING (AP) — Albert Halci, presently in charge of the reference section of the state library at Lansing, has been named director of the Upper Peninsula library branch at Escanaba.

Halci, a native of Saginaw, is a former reference librarian at the University of Detroit and a former instructor at St. Therese High School in Royal Oak.

Bullet Misses Gen. Walker

DALLAS (AP)—An unseen rifleman fired through a back window and missed controversial ex-Gen. Edwin A. Walker by a scant inch in his home last night.

Police said a slight movement by Walker, at a desk working on his income tax report, apparently saved him.

"Somebody had a perfect bead on him," city detective Ira Van Cleave said. "Whoever it was certainly wanted to kill him."

The bullet, from a 30.06 rifle, was fired from an alley behind the Walker home in a fashionable north Dallas district, police reported. It went through wood framing the glass window.

A reporter asked if the former Army general had any idea who shot at him.

"There are plenty of people on the other side," he replied. "You don't have to go overseas to earn a purple heart. I've been saying the front was right here at home."

'Mama, Papa' Stores Exempted From Law

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley today ruled that so-called "mama and papa" stores are exempt from the state's new Sunday closing law, and that each branch of a chain retail store must remain closed on the same day.

The chain store provision would not apply to those branches which were less than 4,000 square feet in floor space, the attorney general said.

The law, which went into effect March 28, provides that certain types of retail stores, including food stores, must close on either Saturday or Sunday.

It has not gone into effect, however, in 12 counties including Oakland because of a temporary injunction by Wayne County Circuit Judge Joseph G. Rashid in court action by 61 department stores and 59 independent merchants challenging the law's constitutionality. The injunction extends until April 21.

The law provides that counties, by a two-thirds vote of their boards of supervisors, may exempt themselves from its restrictions. A hearing on the matter by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors has been set for April 18.

The attorney general said stores which have one or two proprietors and not more than one other employe working at the same time, or grow their own food for sale, are exempt under the law.

A store which hires two workers for three days a week each would still be exempt if the two employes did not work on the same days, Kelley explained.

This would embrace many of the small corner grocery stores, operated by individual families and which depend heavily on weekend trade—when other stores are closed—for business.

Regarding the chain-type stores, Kelley said:

"The selection of either Saturday or Sunday for one place of business is binding upon all other places of business within the state, owned or managed by the same entity."

Kelley said further that, in cases where some stores in a group owned by the same person or legal entity meet the size or staff provisions for exemption while others do not, the tests for exemption would have to be applied individually to each.

Former Charity Leader Takes Over UAW Post

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther yesterday named Melvin A. Glasser, 48, of Lexington, Mass., as the new head of the UAW's Social Security Department.

Glasser is the former executive vice-president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. He will begin his duties June 2.

Quiz Captain in Bomb Blast

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A U.S. Army captain was scheduled to be returned from Viet Nam today "for psychiatric investigation" in connection with a bomb explosion at San Francisco International Airport.

The bomb exploded in the airport post office March 18.

Postal officials in San Francisco announced yesterday that the bomb had been traced to the officer in Saigon. He was not identified.

Chief Postal Inspector John H. Van Meter said the officer, assigned to a quartermaster unit in Saigon, had admitted mailing the explosive device to his wife.

The blast injured two airport employes, blew out 12 windows and set fire to several stacks of mail.

Van Meter said that postal investigators painstakingly reconstructed the package containing the explosive in order to learn the identity of the sender.

Cossacks fought on both sides in the 1917 Russian Revolution. Thus the Communists distrusted them and finally suppressed them.

Road Loan Ban Being Lifted

LANSING (AP)— Effective as of noon Saturday, the State Highway Department has announced, truck weight restrictions will be removed from all state highways in the Lower Peninsula.

The weight restrictions will remain in force in the Upper Peninsula, the department said.

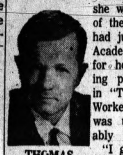
She Clutched Coke During Oscar Ballyhoo

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — During the tumult of the Oscar ball late Monday night, a perf blonde teenager sat happily sipping a coke. Her name is Patty Duke, and she was the girl of the hour. She had just won an Academy Award for her supporting performance in "The Miracle Worker." She was understandably all aglow.



THOMAS

"I got a great deal of help from Arthur Penn, who was marvelous," said Patty of the man who directed her as the deaf-blind-mute Helen Keller.

But she devoted her most lavish praise to John Ross, her manager, who escorted her to the awards affair, along with his wife. Patty seemed close to them; Mrs. Ross had designed the mint-green dress Patty wore on her big night.

"I owe Mr. Ross everything," said the young actress. "He discovered me when I was 8 and had a New York accent you could cut with a knife.

"He used to take this little blonde kid around and tell casting offices, 'She's another Shirley Temple.' Then they heard me talk and they said, 'Are you kidding?'

KILL ACCENT

"Mr. Ross worked with me to get rid of my accent. It was a whole year before he was able to get me a job."

Patty began getting roles in television, plays and a couple of movies. Then came "The Miracle Worker" with Anne Bancroft on the stage. It was hard, strenuous work for both performers. They engaged in a nightly knockdown fight to depict how the strong-willed Annie Sullivan finally subdued the animal-like child.

Fortunately, the same team that made the play a success converted it into a motion picture. The result: well-deserved Oscars for Misses Bancroft and Duke.

Patty remarked that her most memorable event in connection with the play was meeting Helen Keller herself.

"It was something I'll never forget," she said. "We were alone together at her house. I had no trouble communicating with her; I used the finger-talk I had learned in the play.

"She was gay and charming and delighted in showing me around her garden, describing each tree to me. She has a great number of Japanese things, being very fond of Japan. When I left, she gave me a doll of a Kabuki actor."

It is her fondest possession, that and the Oscar.

Trained Ike, Clark, He Succumbs at 86

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Maj. Gen. Walter C. Sweeney, U.S.A., Ret., a veteran of the Spanish-American War and former director of the Army War College in Washington, died Tuesday. He was 86.

As commander of the 3rd Infantry Division at Fort Lewis, Wash., between 1938 and 1939, he had helped train three young officers named Dwight D. Eisenhower, George Marshall and Mark Clark.

Gen. Sweeney, who served in both World Wars as well as the Spanish - American conflict, retired from the service after World War II.

Opposition to Apportionment Earns GOP Barbs for Kelley

LANSING (AP)—Republicans have attacked and Democrats defended Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley's decision to oppose the apportionment provision of the new constitution if it is challenged in court.

Three GOP senators said yesterday that Kelley should either resign from his post or disqualify himself and his department from taking part in any apportionment suit.

They were Sens. Frank Beadle of St. Clair, John Fitzgerald of Grand Ledge and Paul Younger of Lansing, all three of whom acted as defendant-intervenors in a suit filed against the Senate districting provision under the present constitution. The case is now pending before the U. S. Supreme Court.

But the governor told newsmen he did not agree with the senators' suggestion that Kelley resign or disqualify himself and his department.

The Republican attacks drew verbal fire from Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski, a Democrat, who said he was frightened by the GOP attitude.

"There is a totalitarian tone to threats of removal, public humiliation and professional character assassination of a public official just because they disagree with him," Lesinski declared.

He added:

"The rights of the people of this state supersede the whims and wishes of the officials of this state. Nor can the injured pride and ego of the author of the apportionment section, Gov. Romney, supersede the rights of the people of this state."

In announcing that he would support any suit to have the courts strike down the apportionment provision of the new constitution, Kelley said he was convinced that it violated the 14th Amendment of the federal Constitution.

The 14th Amendment guarantees equal protection under the law, which Kelley contends is not preserved in any apportionment plan for representation based on any factor other than straight population.

"The new constitution provides for senatorial apportionment on a formula based 80 per cent on population and 20 per cent on area.

In demanding that Kelley resign or disqualify himself, the Republican senators said Belley makes it "unmistakably clear that he is going to force the so-called 'one man, one vote' legislative apportionment concept on Michigan people — whether they want it or not."

Emergency Is Routine in Steel-Bound World of a Sub

(EDITOR'S NOTE —What's it like cruising under the sea in a nuclear submarine such as the Thresher? Elton C. Fay tells about it by drawing on his first-hand observations during three rides on atomic subs.)

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON—Whatever happened aboard the Thresher, there almost certainly was no panic.

Submariners have steel nerves. Years of training mean they react instantly and instinctively to orders, whatever the circumstance.

What is it like aboard a high-speed, deep-diving atomic submarine? Such a submarine as the Thresher, lost in the Atlantic, perhaps under hundreds of feet of ocean?

What is it like when a submarine goes down for hundreds of feet and then, for urgent reason, pushes past the "red line" marking on the depth indicator, beyond which mighty pressure builds up swiftly and dangerously?

You remember rides aboard nuclear submarines.

There is the calmness, the orderly way the ship (they used to call them "boats") is handled, the low spoken commands and responses.

Crewmen in the mess, drinking coffee, crewmen at the controls, crewmen in the machinery spaces, in the torpedo compartments. Submarines are quiet and nuclear submariners quieter.

There was the trip aboard an atomic - powered attack submarine Skipjack. A demonstration ride. Sailors came around and lashed tables and other movable furniture to secure holdings. You wondered why — until the order, "dive! dive!" sounded.

Then the submarine put her nose down. You hung on to keep from sliding into a bulkhead. Down, like an airplane.

Then sharp twisting turns, with the submarine banking for the turn. Planing upward sharply, then down again. No diminished speed, constant, surging power from the atomic power plant.

EMERGENCY!!

What about reaction in emergency?

There was another morning. The watch was changing, breakfast about to be served in the wardroom.

The collision alarm sounded suddenly, stridently. Suddenly you were alone in the wardroom. Behind the racing officers, watertight doors clanged shut, were dogged down.

Angle on the boat. More and more angle. Dishes slid off the table with a crash, chairs thumped against the forward bulkhead as the submarine planed down at acute angle.

But in the control room and in all the spaces there was swift and orderly haste.

The sonar had picked up something that, for the moment, could have been a ship just above the submarine which was cruising near the surface. As it turned out, the sonar was seeing things. There was nothing there.

SEA HUNT

Then there was the time aboard the Seawolf, second atomic submarine built.

The Seawolf had left Key West, Fla., headed on a routine trip to the New London, Conn., base. One day out and a message came to join in a hunt for a suspected unknown submarine in the area, off the Florida coast.

The tempo changed. This wasn't practice, a routine training operation; this was a hunt to see whether there was a foreign submarine (specifically a Russian submarine) hovering off the U.S. coast.

Hour upon hour, the submarine cruised, stopping now, moving then, listening on passive sonar, closing in toward an area in which planes and ships had reported the suspected presence of an unknown.

It was like stalking a deer, the quiet, methodical advance, the listening, the moving forward a little, then a halt.

The focal point of the search was reached. The Seawolf hunted and listened high up, near the surface, then down deeper. The active sonar was turned on. It sent out its pinging notes and listened for echoes from a steel hull — or something. What was that ahead, down below?

DANGEROUS DEPTH

Take her deeper. The diving officer, standing behind the planesmen at the controls, called off the depth . . ." passing one hundred" . . . "passing two hundred" . . . and more and more hundreds. The depth indicator needle crept steadily toward the red line, then passed it.

The submarine was below the depth for which its hull and fittings were tested. Submarines can do this. It is hard on the nerves, but it is done on occasions.

The captain had ordered: "rig for quiet patrol" and in a moment "rig for ultraquiet." A great stillness came. The ordinary white lights were off. The deep red of battle lights touched highlights on faces and instruments and control levers, let shadows in sable black.

If you watched closely, you caught crewmen stealing quick glances at rivets and hull fittings as the terrific pressure of deep water built up.

The understanding is that a submarine hull usually doesn't just crush inwards, although this probably has happened in some accidents. What probably happens in most instances is that an intake valve or other fitting through the pressure hull gives way suddenly.

A compartment floods and the pressure overwhelms the door and bulkheads into other compartments. Suddenly the boat is filled and the pressure equalizes. It goes on down and down, until it rests on the bottom.

Lost Craft Was Slated to Be Killer

By United Press International

The missing nuclear attack submarine Thresher was due to be fitted with the antisubmarine missile SUBROC, the deadly sting of the Navy's underwater hunter-killer force.

Much of the details of SUBROC are classified, but this much is known. The missile is designed to be fired underwater from a conventional 21-inch torpedo tube.

SUBROC then streaks to the surface and leaves the water in a ballistic trajectory. The missile re-enters the water several miles from the launching submarine.

Beneath the water's surface it becomes a deadly, submarine-hunting torpedo. The weapon is designed for either a high explosive or nuclear warhead.

The combination torpedo and ballistic missile has a range unofficially estimated at from 10 to 25 miles.

The keel of the nuclear-powered submarine Thresher, named for a vicious underwater killer, the thresher shark, was laid at the Portsmouth, N.H., Navy Yard May 28, 1958.

The sub scored a first in naval history when she was launched bow-first on July 9, 1960. Thresher was completed Aug. 3, 1961.

The 279-foot, 3,750-ton vessel was hailed as the lead ship of the world's most advanced class of nuclear attack subs.

The Navy said Thresher could dive deeper, run faster and travel more quietly than any other sub. Its motto is "vis tacita," Latin for silent strength.

3 Missed Sailing of Nuclear Vessel

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UPI) — Two enlisted men and one officer were scheduled to sail on the U.S. nuclear submarine Thresher yesterday, but missed the boat.

Destefano's wife said she was "very happy" that her husband was not aboard. She said the Navy had instructed her not to comment further.

Grew Up in Philadelphia

Thresher Commander Dedicated to Sea

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The skipper of the missing nuclear submarine Thresher was described by family and friends today as serious, studious, and dedicated to the sea.

And while an armada of ships and planes scoured the Atlantic Ocean where the Thresher disappeared Wednesday, the parents of Lt. Cmdr. John Wesley Harvey clung to the hope he would return safely.

"I have great faith in him, great faith in my son's ability," said the officer's mother, Mrs. Manning J. Harvey, Wednesday night.

"I have faith in God and I have faith that everything will be all right," Mrs. Harvey said, even as reports grew darker.

Harvey, 35, grew up in Philadelphia, attending high school and the University of Pennsylvania before entering the U.S. Naval Academy in 1946.

He was a first string guard on the Penn football team of 1945 and later played on the Navy eleven. "He was no star. Just a team player," his mother said.

WEDS SWEETHEART

Harvey married a childhood sweetheart, the former Irene Nagorski, after graduation from the academy. They have two sons, 11 and 8.

A fraternity brother at Penn, Al Cox, called Harvey "always an excellent student, serious about his work yet willing to help other students not as good as he."

The Naval Academy year book put it this way: "The selfless assistance to less savvy classmates won him many friends and an enviable reputation in the brigade."

Harvey joined the nuclear submarine service in 1953 when the craft were still in the prototype stage. Earlier he served aboard an orthodox sub and an aircraft carrier.

Selected for nuclear service, he was assigned two years of instruction including 18 months study of the Nautilus reactor.

SAILED UNDER POLE

He joined the Nautilus in 1955 and was aboard on its first and second missions under the polar ice cap. He served as first chief engineer and engineering officer of the submarine Tullabee, and as executive officer of the nuclear sub Sea Dragon. He took command of the Thresher last Jan. 18, the last time his mother saw him.

Harvey's brother, Manning Jr., a high school coach in Stratford, Conn., said, "he loved the Navy. He could have been out of it many times. He was offered plenty of jobs."

Harvey, interviewed in 1958 after the Nautilus' historic voyage under the pole, said "I feel a little bit guilty about being told I am a hero. It's much nicer under the water. We all like it better and feel at home there."

ADM. GEORGE W. ANDERSON

Announcement Was Delayed for 11 Hours

Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations, told reporters Wednesday night that the reason for the delay was that the Navy "did not want to unnecessarily alarm the families of the men aboard" while it tried to find out if the break in contact was due to a communications failure.

* * *

As this possibility diminished, Anderson said, it was decided to inform next of kin and then make the news public.

Waiting Submariners Note 63rd Anniversary

By United Press International

Members of the "silent service" today observed the 63rd anniversary of the Navy's submarine branch, while the search for the nuclear-powered Thresher continued.

On April 11, 1900, the first submarine, Holland, went into the service of the U.S. Navy.

Many Possible Causes of Sub's Disappearance

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nuclear submarine Thresher could have gone into a steep dive to the bottom of the Atlantic if her bow planes went awry.

Or, perhaps, water could have seeped into the hull if a fitting came loose—and water could have rushed into the vessel with such force as to burst through her interior bulkheads.

Then, too, there could have been a fire caused by electrical malfunction.

These were some of the possibilities considered by Navy officers casting about for an explanation for the disappearance of the 278-foot submarine in Atlantic waters a mile and a half deep.

These officers said it was impossible that there could have been a nuclear explosion in the sub's atomic engine.

The cause of the ship's disappearance may never be known.

If the Thresher became stuck in a sandbank somewhere above the ocean floor, her air-renewal gear could keep her 129 crew and passengers for 60 days or more.

The sub had been due to go to sea today after completing diving tests following overhaul. Thus, some officers suggested, she may have had on board enough food and water to sustain her occupants for 90 days.

If the Thresher is stuck in a bank she possibly could pull free by blowing her ballast tanks.

There likely is little the Navy can do to help her from the surface—she probably is down too far.

Diving bell rescue gear cannot operate that deep, officers said.

Considered the finest and most modern of the Navy's attack submarines, the Thresher is equipped with all manner of safety devices and safeguards.

But these may not have been enough.

Crewman's Wife Rips the Navy

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — Amid the shock and grief there was bitterness today as hope faded for the men of the nuclear submarine Thresher.

The wife of a crew member blamed the Navy for sending the Thresher through deep dive maneuvers shortly after leaving drydock at Portsmouth, N.H.

"Most of the fellows were a little leery," she said, asking that her name be withheld. "They thought the boat needed more time." She described the Thresher as an "experimental boat" and said the Navy "was always trying to do something new with her."

17 Civilians on Vessel Knew It Well

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (UPI)— Some of the 17 civilian technicians and other experts on the missing U.S. submarine Thresher helped build and design the vessel and "knew every nook and cranny aboard," a Navy spokesman said today.

Lt. Cmdr. Vincent Manara said the sub was making a sea trial, a usual practice after overhaul and somewhat similar to a shakedown voyage.

"The space was limited. Only the best of the civilian personnel went," Manara said.

"If anything went wrong they could put their finger on it," Manara said.

* * *

Among the civilians were design and test engineers, electronics and sonar technicians, representatives from firms which had installed equipment aboard, mechanics, and pipefitters.

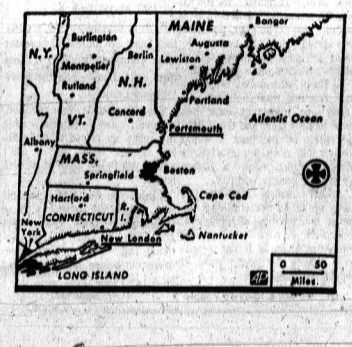
Sub Down Near Shipping Route

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The position given by the attack submarine Thresher before she vanished from sight — 41.44 degrees north, 64.57 degrees west — is just north of the Great Circle course used by transatlantic shipping.

It is about 170 miles south southeast of Cape Sable at the foot of Nova Scotia, 150 miles east of the Georges Banks and about 80 miles from Brown's Bank, major fishing areas for America, Canadian and Soviet trawlers.

The weather in the area of the banks generally is unpleasant, with fog, wind and at times heavy cresting seas.



ANOTHER UNDERSEA CRAFT RAISED — The Squalus bobs on the surface of the Atlantic off Portsmouth, N.H., on Sept. 13, 1939 after it was raised briefly from the bottom. The sub sank May 23, 1939 and 26 crewmen died; 33 others were saved by a diving bell. The two large objects attached to nose of the vessel are pontoons to keep it from sinking again. AP Photofax

Steel Among Leaders

Stock Mart Turns Upward

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market turned upward early this afternoon in the absence of developments on steel prices. Trading continued heavy.

Steel stocks were among the leaders with a number picking up major fractions to a point.

The improvement, after a mixed opening, came as President Kennedy prepared to leave Washington for his Easter vacation. Yesterday the market fell abruptly when the President put off his scheduled afternoon departure.

The market apparently decided there would be no Presidential statement or action now on Tuesday night's steel price increase by Wheeling Steel.

There were a few scattered one-point gains but most changes were limited to fractions.

OILS, METALS UP

Oils, metals and electronics edged higher while aircrafts dipped. Motors, rubbers, rails, utilities and tobaccos were irregular.

The business news background, disregarding steel, remained fairly good. March retail sales set a new high for the third straight month. Some caution was generally expected as the market prepared for a three-day holiday weekend. The Exchange is closed tomorrow, Good Friday.

Among the motors, yesterday's weakest section, GM, Ford and Chrysler posted tiny gains and American Motors and Studebaker were unchanged.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed in moderately active trading. Ford of Canada and Aerojet General gained more than 1. Up fractions were Zale Jewelry and Mead Johnson. Off fractions were Chromalloy and Syntex. Kratter was unchanged.

Bond Trade Quiet at Opening

The market continued to reflect the fact that about half of the new Treasury issue of $300 million in 31-year bonds has yet to be absorbed. They are priced to yield 4.08 per cent.

Colburn, Blue Shield Talk, Get Nowhere on Rate Hike

LANSING (AP) — State Insurance Commissioner Sherwood Colburn and spokesmen for Blue Shield met for two hours yesterday with no answer reached on the issue of a rate hike for the medical service.

"I think they were on a fishing trip," said Colburn. "I had expected them to come up with concrete proposals to solve some problems we have said existed. They didn't."

After being rejected last week on a 22.9 per cent rate increase proposal, Blue Shield (Michigan Medical Service) submitted a 22.9 per cent proposal. Colburn has said the most they will get is a 19.3 per cent increase.

"Starr told me he had no authority to discuss anything other than the rate proposal," Colburn said. "He said the rate proposal itself had been approved by the executive committee but not the full board of directors.

"We still need some positive answers to our questions," said Colburn. "The next step is up to them."

Colburn had demanded and Blue Shield had yielded on the insurance commissioner's insistence that any increase be across-the-board, not discriminating against the elderly or low income groups.

Chief among the problems still existing, Colburn said, is the Blue Shield practice of allowing payments to nonparticipating physicians and to physicians for services actually not rendered.

"Elimination of these conditions could change the rate structure," Colburn said.

Just 58 Letters

What's in a Name?

LLANFAIRPWLLGWYNGYLLGOGERYCHWYRNDROBWLLLLANTYS ILIOGOGOGOCH, Wales (AP) — The curator of the Welsh National Folk Museum says the legendary name of this town — proudly claimed by generations of Welshmen as the longest place name in Britain—is a phony.

Llanfair etc. has lived on its tourist trade. Sentimental Welshmen suggested that the railroad station, due to be closed under a railroad modernization plan, be rebuilt in the museum grounds.

Curator Iorwerth Peate laughed at the idea. The station's real name, he said, is Llanfairpwell, meaning St. Mary by the Pool.

In the 19th Century, Peate explained, a local tailor added 46 letters to the name to make it St. Mary's Church in the Hollow of the White Hazel Near to the Rapid Whirlpool of Llanty Silio of the Red Cave.

May Draft Will Call 39 From Oakland County

The state Selective Service office in Lansing has announced that 39 of Michigan's 563 May draftees will come from Oakland County.

All registrants, including 249 from Wayne County, will be at least 22 years old except for volunteers.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

BY OSWALD JACOBY

JACOBY

In the early days of contract the cue bid of an opponent's suit meant only one thing. First round control.

In modern expert usage it is used any time a player with a strong hand can find no better bid. Sometimes it does show first round control, sometimes it is an invitation to no-trump, still other times it merely is a general type slam try to show second round control.

South holds only 12 points in high cards, but his hand is strong in distribution so after his partner jumps to four clubs South has definite interest in a club slam. His problem is how to show this interest.

He can use Blackwood and if North shows two aces South can afford to bid six clubs, but if North shows only one ace South will have dug himself into a hole with no way out. North probably has two aces, but he could have a sound four-club bid with only one ace so four no-trump is a bad bid.

The right bid is four diamonds. It is possible that North will believe that South is showing first round control and jump to six with only one ace, but North has already bid pretty strongly and is unlikely to go slam crazy without two aces.

The four diamond bid makes things easy for North. He considers going to seven, but abandons that idea. He has bid a heart and jumped in clubs with only 13 high card points so he contents himself with the lay-down six clubs.

Auto President Predicts 7 Million Sales as Norm

KENOSHA, Wis. (UPI) — Roy Abernethy, president of American Motors Corp., said yesterday the auto industry is headed for an era when sales of seven million cars annually will be the rule rather than the exception.

This year, he said, the industry is headed for its second straight year when sales reach the seven million mark and in 1964 indications are that sales will be even better.

A new performance range will be established "in which a six-million sales year would appear as a "dip" and new peaks would approach eight million sales in the 1970's.

Speaking at a civic luncheon to celebrate the start of construction of a major Rambler plant addition, Abernethy said the continued market growth offers Rambler "future sales opportunities well beyond the present capacity of its—Wisconsin plants."

Wisconsin Gov. John W. Reynolds officiated with Abernethy and AMC Chairman Richard E. Cross at construction site ceremonies.

"The long-term prospects for the auto industry," Abernethy said, "indicated growth to an unprecendented 8 million car sales a year in the 1970's . . .

"The U.S. Bureau of Public Roads is projecting an increase of nearly one-third in the number of cars in use by the middle 1970's."

Abernethy said the compact plan for Rambler's future will hold up well in the future.

"Thirty-six per cent of the passenger car market is accounted for by cars generally of the Rambler type, regardless of how they may be described.

2 Launchings Successful at Canaveral

The series began in failure when the Navy had to destroy an errant Polaris A3 missile launched from a surface vessel off the coast.

Seconds after the afternoon lift-off, the missile veered sharply off course and had to be destroyed. The trouble-plauged A3 had compiled a record of three successes in 11 firings from land pads.

Almost six hours later, an Air Force-industry team fired a Minuteman "Instant ICBM" more than 4,000 miles into a target down the Atlantic missile range.

The solid fuel missile was fired from a concrete silo 85 feet under ground. The advanced Minuteman is being groomed to replace an earlier Minuteman model in hardened silos around the nation.

Ironton Ferry at Work 6 Days Earlier Than '62

CHARLEVOIX (UPI) — The Ironton ferry which carries vehicular traffic across the south arm of Lake Charlevoix was placed in operation yesterday. Six days earlier than the season opening last year.

The county road commission operates the ferry for the Board of Supervisors. The ferry's 500-foot channel crossing operation was halted last Dec. 22 when ice set in and traffic was routed around the lake.

Await State Bill on Mental Care

Proposal by Roberts Heads for House Floor

LANSING — A Senate bill by Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Oakland County, to overhaul the state's approach to mental health care was expected to appear on the floor of the House today.

The measure would authorize community-based mental health programs with the state sharing in the cost.

It was one of several bills with special significance for Oakland County that were reported out of House and Senate committees amid the rush to meet the midnight deadline last night.

Three Senate bills, however, died in the House as committees failed to release them.

These were measures to increase the state's share of circuit judges' salaries from $12,500 to $15,000, to prohibit racial discrimination by cemeteries, and to create two new circuit judgeships in Oakland County.

A House bill to create the new county judgeships has been reported out of Roberts' Senate Judiciary Committee, however, and is expected to pass the Senate.

The bill to prevent cemetery organizations to deny interment because of race or color was sponsored by Roberts and passed unanimously by the Senate. The measure also failed to pass last year.

A House bill to amend the Jury Commission Act changing the term of jury commissioners from six years to two years was reported out of a Senate committee.

And a Senate bill including amendments by Roberts to enable the county to set up a community college system was still alive in the House as it was among those reported out of committee.

Californian to Eye Area Government

A 26-year-old Californian is due in Oakland County Monday for an eight-week study of the county's politics and government.

He is James A. Lane, selected by the Coro Foundation of California to work with the nonpartisan Oakland Citizens League on a field assignment.

Lans is one of 23 chosen in the foundation's program to help outstanding college graduates prepare for positions in government and politics..

A 1958 graduate of Colorado State University, Lane will be headquartered at 191 Brady Lane, Bloomfield Hills, across from Kingswood School, and at Oakland Citizens League offices in the Birmingham Community House.

He will be assisted by Oakland University political science professors and the county's Democratic and Republican leaders in his study of the county's political structure.

Lane also is scheduled to help the Citizens League in its current drive to triple membership and expand its studies of fast-growing Oakland County's governmental problems and issues.

Lane will return in June to a Coro Foundation classroom in Los Angeles or San Francisco to report his observations.

HISTORY MAJOR

While here, he will live with directors and members of the Citizens League, which is responsible for his transportation, room and board.

A history and political science major in college, Lane served four years with the Fleet Intelligence Center of the U. S. Navy, which he left as a lieutenant junior grade.

Since his selection for the Coro Foundation program last fall, he has had field assignments with the Los Angeles City Fire Department, the California State Board of Equalization and other California groups including an oil firm and an engineers union.

Doctor Elected Mayor in Greenville Election

GREENVILLE (AP) — Dr. Charles Stevens, a physician, is Greenville's new mayor.

He was elected on the 12th ballot among city councilmen to succeed five-year Mayor Sydney L. Swanton, who was not a candidate for re-election April 1. Dr. Stevens is in his third council term.

Senators Confess on 'Shady Pasts'

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was a night for confessions in the Senate.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana disclosed he had been court-martialed in the Navy. And Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., related how he once had spent the better part of a day in a Mexican jail because of a bad throw.

It all came out last night over Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy's objection to a Goldwater amendment. The amendment, to the youth employment bill, would require persons entering the Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) to be of "good character."

But at Mansfield's suggestion Kennedy withdrew his objection after Goldwater explained he had no desire to bar youths who had minor brushes with the law just those with serious criminal records.

Once the amendment was agreed to, Mansfield said he hoped it would be applied "with compassion, understanding and tolerance." He explained he spoke as one who twice had been court-martialed before he was 16 while in the Navy.

In both instances, he added, they were summary court martials and he felt that with the help of friends he had been "rehabilitated."

"There are plenty of us in this body who had had brushes with the law," he said.

* * *

Goldwater said that since confessions were being made, he wanted to say he once had spent the better part of a day in a Mexican jail for hitting a Mexican policeman with a pot of mustard, although he added he wasn't aiming at the officer.

Make 2nd Try to Locate Car

Divers at Cass Lake Seek Sunken Auto

Three skin divers, working from an amphibious "Duck," are on Cass Lake today for a second attempt at locating a car that fell through the ice in January.

The car, a 1961 Corvair, plunged into the water at 6 p.m. Jan. 5. It submerged completely, bobbed up momentarily and then sank to a depth of about 75 feet.

All three of the teen-age occupants managed to jump from the car in the brief moment it surfaced.

They told police later that they had been riding around on what they believed was safe ice after approaching the lake from an area adjacent to Dodge Park No. 4.

VISIBILITY

Divers Medward Tessier and Ron Brewer of the sheriff's department and Larry Miller of the Pontiac state police were in the water all Tuesday afternoon but couldn't locate the car.

Visibility at the bottom of the lake was only 4 or 5 feet, according to the divers.

Roger Lee Knickerbocker, 17, of 3555 Brookdale, was driving the car owned by his parents. His passengers were Judy Schafer, 17, of 5904 Pontiac Lake Road, an Thomas Roberts, 17, of 4844 Elizabeth Lake Road.

Ownership of the auto has since been transferred from the insurance company to the sheriff's department. If retrieved, the car will be sold and proceeds will go toward additional diving equipment.

Kelley Okays Finance Bill

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has declared constitutional a bill which would allow municipalities to finance industrial buildings and sites with revenue bonds.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, passed in the House and is up for final consideration in the Senate. It is backed by Gov. George Romney.

House Minority Leader Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, had questioned the constitutionality of the bill under clauses of the 1908 state constitution which he said might prevent the state from aiding public or private associations or corporations.

In his advisory opinion, Kelley said the legislature would be serving the general welfare by authorizing communities "to acquire industrial buildings and sites through the borrowing of money and issuance of revenue bonds, thus encouraging work opportunities for its inhabitants without pledging the credit of the municipality or any of its taxpayers."

Thousands Go to Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — Thousands of West Germans poured into West Berlin by car, train and plane for an Easter weekend today in a demonstration of support for the isolated city.

Card of Thanks 1

WE WISH TO THANK EVERYONE who was so kind to us in thought word and deed in the sudden death of our beloved son and brother Todd J. Marks. Special thanks to Rev. David Dee, Rev. Jack McCurry, Rev. William Richards, the Sharp Coyville Funeral Home and the U.S. Air Force for pall bearers and honor guard. Parents, sisters and brother of Todd J. Marks.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF CHARLES Robert Young, who passed away April 11, 1960.
Pleasant thoughts of one so dear
Often bring a silent tear,
Thoughts return to scenes long past,
Time rolls on but memories last.
Sadly missed by sons and daughters and grandchildren.

IT'S TRUE WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT LIVING IN WATERFORD. They do have the most exciting kitchens and we have proven, artistically planned to meet the exacting needs of "your way of life." Massive baths look like a movie star's dressing room with their free form double vanity, beautiful tub, finished cabinets and gleaming colored ceramic tile. (You'll love it.) Your family room adjacent to the kitchen for togetherness. All Beauty Rite's are built with wet plaster, nice oak floors, marble ledges and storm and screens. You love the French Provincial decor and the soft colors used in this model. Furnished. Located off West Walton Blvd., on School House Lake. Mr. Bloomfield will be your host. OR 4-1788.

Chuck Connors Married Yesterday

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Actor Chuck Connors and actress Kamala Devi Amesur were married Wednesday night, then left for a short honeymoon in Palm Springs.

Connors, 41, is the star of television's "Rifleman" show. It was his second marriage, the first for Miss Amesur, 29.

Sam Levene Laments— 'All Awards Are Phony'

By EARL WILSON

"All awards are phony!

WILSON

"Otherwise, I'd have got some—and I never got one."

Star of "Seidman and Son," recipient of brilliant notices, Sam's celebrating his 37th year of not winning an award—he's beaten out Bob Hope in awards never received.

"I deserve a special award," Sam modestly remarks, "for making a living on the stage 37 years. I'm creating 'the Sam Levene Award' for the longest-working actor. I'll award it to me—my first award!"

Sam was handed a plaque "for all he's done for the National Hemophilia Foundation"—but he refused it—insisting "I've never done anything." But he told them to launch a raffle, he'd sell books, then he'd accept a plaque.

"Want to buy a raffle book?" Sam asked me.

Sam thinks the Tony Awards Committee was blind to ignore him and Gertrude Berg this season. "That's why I think all awards are nonsense," he said. "But if the committee wants to change its mind and nominate me, I'll change my mind."

Jack Benny came up with the right line when he presented the March of Dimes Humanitarian-of-the-Year plaque to Danny Kaye. "It was a case of either presenting a plaque to Danny or sitting out in front and paying $100 for my dinner!"

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "My wife has cooked so many TV dinners," sighs Herb Sherry, "that she thinks she's in show business."

REMEMBERED QUOTES: The late, great Fred Allen once described TV and radio ratings this way: "That's like the guy who bites into a loaf of rye bread and tells you how many caraway seeds there are in the loaf." That's earl, brother.

SMOLDERING RUINS—Smoke rolls up from the skeletons of Our Lady of Sorrows Church (center) and the abandoned Briggs automobile plant in Detroit yesterday. Nuns evacuated 200 children from the church half an hour before its roof collapsed. The plant had not been occupied for six years. (Copyright 1963 The Detroit News.)

Row Flares Over Fire Blame

DETROIT (UPI)—Sparks are still flying even though the flames are out in the wake of yesterday's five-alarm fire which destroyed an abandoned plant and a nearby Roman Catholic church here.

Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, mincing no words, started things going by angrily charging a private corporation and the state with creating and permitting a firetrap to exist in the Briggs plant.

Cavanagh said the plant's former owners, the Two and Two Corp. of Detroit, stripped the building bare before leaving. The property later went to the state for default of taxes.

He sharply criticized the state for not tearing down the building as a public menace. He added that there are still several other state-owned buildings in the city that can also be considered firetraps.

Cavanagh's words did not go long unanswered.

State buildings property manager, John Gafner, said today the mayor should be more specific in his charges that the state is not taking care of its properties in Detroit.

"The only two we have to take care of in the Detroit area are the Boulevard and Cadillac Square buildings and both of these are old but in good shape," Gafner said.

"The mayor should be more specific on the buildings he's talking about," he added. "If he's talking about these two he's way off base."

'HE'S WRONG'

Gafner said if Cavanagh is talking about institutional buildings or individual agency facilities, he's also wrong on that point because each of these is responsible for its own maintenance.

"The conservation department just got the Briggs building last year on a tax reversion," he said. "It was my understanding they wanted to sell it immediately, but city officials asked them to wait because the Common Council was considering purchasing it for the city."

Earlier yesterday Detroit Fire Chief Glenn Thom said he recommended a year ago to Cavanagh that the building be torn down. Thom said the building was a fire trap and once a fire got started, it could not be stopped.

A near-tragedy was averted in the early morning blaze when 200 children were led to safety from the nearby church. Minutes later, the fire spread from the plant to the church. Within half an hour the church was engulfed in flames and its roof had collapsed. More than 200 firemen fought the blaze and managed to save an adjacent parochial school.

Allies Set for Nuclear Command

PARIS (AP)—The Western allies have cleared the way for creation next month of a unified nuclear command with multinational air and U.S. sea strike forces.

Qualified sources said U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk has won allied approval for a North Atlantic Treaty Organization nuclear force in which France will participate on a limited basis. The plan could take concrete shape when the NATO foreign ministers meet in Ottawa May 22-24.

Rusk outlined the plan to the NATO Permanent Council at a meeting here Wednesday.

The force initially will consist of the American Polaris submarines now operating in the Mediterranean and planes of the United States, Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Canada, Belgium and the Netherlands. The planes will carry U.S. nuclear weapons.

The unified command for the force will be under U.S. Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, NATO's supreme commander in Europe.

French participation means only that two French air squadrons based in Germany will join the unified command. President Charles de Gaulle has made no commitment to put his own nuclear bombers and bombs, now being developed, into the NATO pool as the British have done with their V-bomber force.

De Gaulle also is standing firm in his refusal to buy American Polaris missiles, his decision to bar U.S. nuclear stockpiles from French soil and his determination to create an independent French nuclear force.

The NATO nuclear strike forces will go into action only on orders from Lemnitzer, who will get his instructions from the President of the United States. U.S. law requires the President to retain sole control over the use of the nuclear weapons the United States will supply the force.

Seek to Halt Race Marches by Injunction

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — County and state authorities today served Negro integration leader Martin Luther King with a temporary injunction aimed at halting a series of racial demonstrations here in which 141 Negroes have been arrested.

The injunction, signed by Circuit Judge William A. Jenkins Jr., was served on King as he sat with aides drinking coffee in an integrated restaurant operated by wealthy Negro A. G. Gaston at 2:15 a.m. EST.

It prohibits King and more than 40 other Negroes "from engaging in, sponsoring, promoting, or encouraging mass street parades, marches, picketing, sit-ins, and other actions likely to cause a breach of the peace."

Senate Clears Last Committee Deadline

LANSING (AP) — The Senate cleared its last committee deadline with ease and reported out a flood of bills yesterday, including parts of Gov. George Romney's legislative program.

Included in the more than 70 measures added to the calendar was a so-called Ford-Canton bill, which Romney hopes will settle a long-standing dispute over the payment of unemployment compensation to workers affected by strikes.

At the same time, Senate committees killed bills which would have required a popular vote before water supplies could be fluoridated, repealed the one-man grand jury system, and authorized the lengthening of auto transport trucks.

The Ford-Canton proposal appeared headed for a joint conference committee of the House and Senate to settle differences over a number of controversial and technical provisions in the amended bill.

Lawmakers have made several unsuccessful attempts in previous years to settle the questions raised when the State Supreme Court ruled in 1959 that Ford Motors Co. workers in Michigan idled by a strike at a plant in Canton, Ohio, were entitled to jobless pay benefits.

EMPLOYERS PROTEST

Employers protested that the court decision forced them, in effect, to finance strikes against themselves since they contribute to the unemployment compensation fund. Workers in Ford plants in Michigan and the strikers at Canton belonged to the United Auto Workers union.

In failing to report out the controversial water fluoridation bill, the municipalities committee explained the measure was killed because voters already have the right to start a referendum move and force a vote to reverse the action of municipal boards on fluoridation.

The House - approved bill would have made it mandatory for the board to put the question of fluoridation of water supplies to a vote before such a step could be taken.

"It was the feeling of the committee," said Sen. Milton Zaagman, R-Grand Rapids, "that a mandate from the legislature to require such prior vote would be an improper encroachment upon the legislative prerogative of such municipal board, council or commission."

Included in major bill reported to the floor was a measure designed to assist public port districts issue revenue bonds for expansion.

The bill touched off lengthy debate when it came up for a vote in the House and finally passed there, 82-23.

Supporters say the measure is needed because public financing of facilities—to be leased to private interests—is the best way for Michigan to compete adequately with other states in the St. Lawrence Seaway market.

Opponents have contended that private investment, not public, is what is needed for Michigan's seaway ports, such as Detroit, Port Huron, Muskegon and others.

Other bills appeared by Senate committees would:

—Reorganize the mental health department with a director and a six-member advisory commission. The measure, recommended by Romney, provides that the director must be a medical doctor and is to be appointed by the governor.

—Require safety belts in all automobiles produced after 1965.

The Adriatic sea is about 500 miles in length and its width averages about 45 miles. Total area is about 60,000 square miles more or less.

Alabama Law Cages Sale of Easter Pets

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A county humane society official has warned that it is against the law to sell or give away baby chicks, ducks or rabbits for pets in Alabama.

Executive Director George W. Looney, said Wednesday he wanted to call attention to the law because of the approaching Easter season.

Where Bills Stand in Legislature

ADC-U—passed by House and Senate; signed into law by governor. Question remains whether meets federal standards for aid.

Olympic stadium—passed by House and Senate; signed by governor.

Sunday liquor sales — died in Senate comittee.

Open occupancy — passed Senate; killed in House committee, discharge pending.

Construction safety — passed House; awaiting Senate action.

Public buses for parochial pupils—passed Senate; awaiting House action.

Ford-Canton — separate bills passed by House and Senate, probably headed for joint conference committee.

Fluoridation — passed House; died in Senate committee.

Economic development—passed House; awaiting Senate action.

129 Feared Doomed in Depths

Navy Gives Up Hope for Lost N-Sub

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations, announced today that "very reluctantly I have come to the conclusion that the Thresher has indeed been lost."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy fought against the longest odds, multiplied by deep water and foul weather, and hoped for a miracle of the sea today to save 129 men of the nuclear submarine Thresher which dived Wednesday and failed to come up.

If they are lost it would be the Navy's worst submarine disaster in peacetime and perhaps in history.

Even as hope flickered more ships with the latest search and rescue equipment were concentrated at the spot in the Atlantic where the Thresher cocktd it.s bow planes and dived at 9:17 a.m. Wednesday, for a deep dive test about 220 miles off Boston.

The operation was hampered by worsening weather that turned back a Massachusetts Air National Guard plane heading for the scene with newsmen and photographers.

A gale warning was issued and seas, already rough, ran higher.

And the sea itself 8,400 feet deep at that point, presented what naval officers conceded would be an impossible rescue problem even if the vessel could be found.

As an example of that problem, the Navy estimated water pressure on the hull of the Thresher, if she is at the bottom, would be about 3,696 pounds a square inch. That probably is more than three times the stress the hull was built to withstand.

Just how deep the Thresher was designed to go is a military secret, but the Navy doesn't even talk in terms approaching 8,400 feet. All it will say of the Thresher's dive capacity is "over 400."

Nevertheless the search fleet swelled to seven ships and submarines during the night, and seven more sped toward the area. The force included another nuclear submarine, the Seawolf.

NEW DEVICE USED

The searchers were using radar and sonar equipment, as well as relying on visual observation of the waters in case the Thresher might have surfaced.

Also, search aircraft were equipped with a device called magnetic anomaly detection which determines changes in the earth's magnetic field due to the presence of large metal objects.

The Navy reported at midmorning that winds in the search area were between 15 and 25 knots with predictions of possible gusts up to 40 knots.

The seas were reported running between 6 and 10 feet higher than Wednesday night when the Thresher's disappearance was announced.

Cloud cover was between six-tenths and eight-tenths, with a ceiling of 3,500 feet. Scattered showers were predicted with an accompanying lower ceiling.

"The weather system affecting the area is fairly stationary and improvement is predicted to be slow," the Navy said.

The probability appeared that the cause of the apparent disaster never will be known.

The last message from the Navy as operational — such pure routine that it was not even recorded. Just what it said had not been reported by the Thresher's escort vessel, the Skylark.

It was the Skylark that made the first report of trouble when the Thresher failed to resume contact after the deep dive test.

Announcement of the probable loss of the ship was withheld for 11 hours in the waning hope that there had been only a communications failure.

Word was relayed to President Kennedy, however, some three hours before the public announcement.

White House sources, however, said the apparent disaster was a matter of major concern to the President, himself a Navy veteran.

A naval court of inquiry was ordered to convene at New London, Conn., to try to determine what happened.

Boy, 6, Killed in 'Play' Fire

A 6-year-old boy, said to have told his playmate he knew how to build fires and put them out, was burned to death yesterday afternoon.

The body of Robert Wesley Higginbotham II, was found in the ashes of a doghouse which had been consumed by fire.

Robert, known as "Buzzy," was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Higginbotham, 550 N. Glenhurst Dr., Bloomfield Township. He and his mother were visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred K. Nieman at 5781 Snowshoe Circle.

Robert was playing at the home across the street with 5-year-old Teddy Michaels when the fire broke out about 5:30 p.m., police said.

Teddy told Bloomfield Township police Robert had found some matches which he hadn't told his mother about. Warned by his friend not to do it, Robert climbed into the doghouse and set fire to a strip of paper in the doorway.

The youngster apparently panicked when the fire spread into the doghouse, the bottom of which was covered with straw. He crawled to the back of the doghouse rather than out of it, firemen said.

Teddy, who remained outside the doghouse, summoned his 14 year-old sister Kathy when the fire broke out. Kathy in turn called Mrs. Higginbotham.

SUFFER BURNS

The frantic mother and the girl suffered minor burns on their hands in an attempt to turn the blazing shed over, according to police. Their effort was fruitless, for the doghouse was already enveloped in flames.

No Steel Move Hinted by JFK

Industry Watched for Further Price Boosts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy planned today to start a delayed Florida vacation trip at 12:30 p. m. EST. The White House left open the possibility of some sort of statement on the steel price situation.

WASHINGTON (AP) —Washington's ears were cocked for more steel price boosts today, and eyes were glued on the White House for any signal of another battle to hold the price line.

Hurried, worried, late-hour conferences gave ample evidence of President Kennedy's concern, but produced no word that he was ready to roll up the government guns that flattened last year's announced price hike in 72 hours.

However, another delay today in the departure of part of the presidential party on a Florida vacation trip indicated that possibly some action or statement might be forthcoming from the White House.

For the second straight day, newsmen and some of the White House party, scheduled to take off for Palm Beach ahead of the President, were called back from the airport and advised to stand by.

Some senators heard that Wheeling Steel Corp.'s price increase, which triggered the new uproar, was linked to the possibility of a round of wage increases for the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers of America.

'PAY ADJUSTMENT'

An influential Democratic legislator, who would not be quoted by name, said he understood that the continuing, informal talks in the industry's "Human Relations Committee" were pointing to an upward pay adjustment.

HELP, WEATHERMAN! — Moderate and strong winds, partly cloudy skies and 40 degree temperatures have been the prevailing weather conditions in the Pontiac area the past few days, much to the dismay of eager golfers. Here, a lonely golfer, warmly bundled, heads to a green of Pontiac Municipal course, braving the chill to get in his first swings of the season.

House GOP Revolts; Romney's Winner

LANSING (AP)—The second revolt by House Republicans against their leadership in less than 24 hours was stirring today, with Gov. George Romney reaping the benefits of a somewhat-amazed bystander.

The most explosive head-to-head clash over political philosophies of the 1963 session yesterday produced a minimum wage bill previously declared dead.

And it set the stage for a GOP drive to rescue the Romney-backed open occupancy bill.

Angered by the state affairs committee's failure to report out the open occupancy bill — which would bar racial discrimination in real estate dealings—four Republicans served notice they demand to have the committee discharged from further consideration of the measure.

The maneuver, led by Rep. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, promised to test again the power of House Speaker Allison Green, R-Kingston, and other leaders to hold the wavering GOP caucus in line.

Green said he would oppose the motion.

Democrats, who claimed some credit for bringing out the $1 minimum wage bill, were in the difficult position of being forced to expose their party's unity—or lack of it—on the controversial open occupancy bill.

TAKES CHARGE

Faced with getting his program out of committee ahead of the midnight legislative deadline, Romney took personal charge yesterday by paying a call on a House GOP caucus and pleading for the open occupancy bill and other measures.

"He hardly mentioned minimum wage," said Green. "It wasn't discussed."

The governor later indicated to newsmen he had abandoned virtually all hope for the wage bill upon which Democrats had been exerting pressure for him to demonstrate leadership and influence.

But when the smoke of the bat-

3 Michigan Families Await Word

DETROIT (AP) — The families of two Michigan men and one former Michigan man aboard the nuclear submarine Thresher waited in fear and anxiety today.

Aboard the underseas vessel—presumed lost in 8,400 feet of ocean depths — were their sons:

At Ann Arbor, Mrs. Anna Kantz, who has borne the burden of the deaths of her husband and only daughter, waited for any optimistic turn in events.

Her husband, whom Thomas was named after, died of a heart attack in 1955. Her daughter Mary, 8, the only other child, was struck and killed by a car in 1945.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruno B. Helsius, the parents of Marvin, said they received a letter from their son just last week.

In the letter, Marvin had not made up his mind on whether to make a career of the Navy after serving for three years and seven months, Helsius said.

Stunned Kin of Sailors Keep Up Hopeful Vigil

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Waiting and praying." These three words sum up the hopes and fears of wives, parents and other kin of those aboard the nuclear submarine Thresher, reported missing Wednesday.

"I'm living in hope," said William Keiler of Green Bay, Wis., father of crewman Ronald D. Keiler, 22. The father said his son wrote two weeks ago that he expected to be promoted to petty officer first class next Tuesday.

"I hope, I wait," sobbed Mrs. Henry F. Zweifel of La Crosse, Wis., mother of Jay H. Zweifel, 22. The mother said another son, Dennis, 18, is in training at the Great Lakes Naval Station.

"We're just waiting and praying now," said Mrs. Aaron S. Gunter of Jacksonville, Fla., whose son, signalman Aaron Jade Gunter was aboard the Thresher. Waiting at Portsmouth, N.H., was Gunter's wife, Doris Mae.

"We are hoping and praying, we are not panicking," said Ralph E. Grafton of De Witt, N.Y., a suburb of Syracuse, father of Lt. (j.g. John G. Grafton, 25.

The lieutenant is single. He has two teen-aged sisters and a brother.

HOPEFUL

Waiting hopefully in Spokane, Wash., were Mr. and Mrs. Everett B. Wiggins, parents of Lewis Wiggins, 29. Wiggins, a 12-year Navy veteran, has a wife and three children in Exeter, N.H.

It's been almost a year since Mrs. Frank Malinski Jr., of Phoenix, Ariz., has seen her son, Lt. (j.g.) Frank J. Malinski, 21. Mrs.

Would Head Sub Loss List

NEW YORK (AP)—The loss of the atomic submarine Thresher with 129 men aboard would be the worst peacetime submarine disaster in United States history.

Previously, the worst such disaster occured Dec. 16, 1927, when the submarine S4 rammed the Coast Guard destroyer Paulding off Provincetown, Mass. All 39 of the submarine's crew perished.

Other noncombat submarine disasters:

● September 1925—34 of a 37-man crew of the S51 were lost when the sub sank 14 miles east of Block Island, R.I., after ramming the vessel City of Rome.

● June 6, 1941—33 perished when the submarine 09 was lost in a test dive off the New Hampshire coast.

● Jan. 24, 1942—32 of the 35-man crew of the S26 were lost when the submarine collided with a naval vessel off Panama.

The worst peacetime submarine disaster in the world until now was the loss of 99 men when the British submarine Thetis sank in Liverpool Bay June 1, 1939.

Last Days of Christ to Be Observed

It was the year 33 A.D. Hundreds of Jews had flocked into the City of Jerusalem, mostly by foot, to celebrate the Feast of the Passover.

When Jesus of Nazareth arrived with His 12 disciples. He was welcomed with shouts of "Hosanna" by the multitudes. But Jewish leaders seeking political power who were fearful of His popularity and teachings immediately sought plans to put Him to death.

Christians throughout the world are holding services this week in commemoration of His last days on earth. It was at this Feast of the Passover that Christ instituted the rite of Holy Communion also known as The Lord's Supper.

For Retirement

Adenauer Confirms Plans

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has confirmed publicly a promise he made four months ago to leaders of his Christian Democratic party—that he will retire from office this fall.

The 87-year-old statesman said in a television interview at the Italian resort of Cadenabbia that he will step down in October or November from the post he has held for nearly 14 years.

Party leaders told the public of Adenauer's retirement promise last December, but he did not confirm it until yesterday.

County Supervisors Select Strong Leaders

DELOS HAMLIN was the unanimous choice and he heads the important Oakland county governing board for the eighth consecutive year. Mr. HAMLIN shattered tradition several years ago for continuance in office and now each successive term merely means that he is extending his record.

Fortunately for the taxpayers in Oakland County, Mr. Hamlin is an astute, capable and far-sighted chairman who understands business on the high level to which this county has moved. The current budget slips past the $17 million mark which falls under the general heading of "big business."

Few people have ever served the public with a more steadfast purpose or a greater dedication. DELOS HAMLIN has made friends all over the area and inspires widespread confidence.

The administrative fiber of the Board is strengthened by the election of Frank Webber, of Addison Twp. as vice chairman. A former successful Detroit businessman followed by many years of banking experience, he is now serving his fifth term as Addison Township Supervisor.

The elevation of Mr. WEBBER puts a man of well-rounded business and government experience in a position of county importance. The County is favored with a strong group of administrative leaders.

We Still Wish to Keep Peace and Harmony

This big Canadian vote really resulted in a no-decision contest, but certainly the outspoken critic of the United States lost more marbles than he won.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's opponent took a plurality of seats although neither party garnered a majority. Thus a certain amount of indecision must still reign. Lester B. Pearson and his pro-American Liberal Party are assured of a big voice in the new government, whatever happens. Since neither side has mathematical control, a coalition government will probably be the answer.

Mr. PEARSON believes in a cooperative military front in our hemisphere and his friendly attitude toward the United States is decidedly at variance with that of the Prime Minister. In fact DIEFENBAKER's rebuke in the "no confidence" vote resulted in the election.

Few nations anywhere have existed as long and as peacefully as the United States and Canada. We believe that the bulk of the Canadians and the Americans devoutly wish for this understanding and belief to continue forever. Certainly, the bulk of the residents on this side of the border entertain nothing but the kindest and friendliest thoughts in regard to Canadians in general.

Diefenbaker's ill-timed remarks about the United States really hurt over here. He may have had some justification because of unfortunate block-headed bungling in Washington. That we concede. In fact The Chicago Tribune feels our own administration has fumbled the diplomatic ball badly and says specifically: "It would be hard to find a more inept example of handling neighborly relations than that of Mr. Kennedy and his associates in dealing with Canada."

This newspaper wants peace, harmony and concord with our good, long-time Canadian friends, now and forever.

The Man About Town

A Man About the World Tells the Man About Town

A visit with my friend

Mr. P., still on cloud nine over a recent 60-day round-the-world cruise, is pretty proud of the Silver Anniversary joint meeting of the Peninsular State Philatelic Society and Birmingham Stamp Club recently held there, of which he was general chairman.

The theme of the event, attended by 1450 with 400 members registered, was the Henry Ford centennial.

Going from stamps to scouts, my friend was one of the original group of "Lone Scouts"—so named because where there were too few to form a Boy Scout troop, the lad desirous of identifying himself with the scout organization could enter into its training and development programs as a "loner" . . . And one of this pioneer scout's cherished possessions is his badge symbolizing such status, given him in 1910 . . . one of the few extant.

From our composing room,

He quickly followed (like Durante, he's got a million of 'em) with the intelligence that he has a bowling pal, name of who's a marriage counselor.

Yep . . . I bit. The counselor's a bachelor.

But a dyed-in-the-wool last-laugh man, your columnist upheld the prestige of his cult by wondering how many marriages have floundered because of lack O'Dea.

A couple of accounts of over-ambitious Amaryllis bulbs that grew two stems where only one's supposed to grow, brought forth a call from

of Clarkston, who's been raising the plants for four years and sending them to schools and churches.

Out of the 50-odd that she has reared, about one in twelve has been twin-stemmed . . . I'm sure it's not in any garden book, but how 'bout calling 'em "stem-winders"?

Maybe I'd better go and lie down for awhile.

David Lawrence Says:

Steel Price 'Tryout' Momentous

WASHINGTON—Another crisis in the steel industry is in the making. It could have effects that would spur the economy, but it could, on the other hand, turn the economy downward and bring an era of stagnation and frustration.

For almost five years the steel companies have not raised their prices, though their wage costs have gone up steadily. Meanwhile, profits have been squeezed, dividends have been reduced, and more than 100,000 steel workers have been deprived of jobs.

Much of this trouble, though not all of it, was intensified by President Kennedy's dramatic interference with the steel-price rise that several companies endeavored to put into effect in April 1962.

They found themselves threatened with loss of contracts by the Defense Department and publicized investigations by the Department of Justice, supposedly seeking evidence for antitrust suits which never materialized.

This constituted a form of "police state" pressure unprecedented in American history.

But economic facts cannot be erased by presidential threats or by coercive tactics of government departments. A new attempt to raise prices has just been made this week by the Wheeling Steel Co. of West Virginia, the eleventh largest producer of steel in the country.

The move has come as a surprise, even to steel men. Almost everybody expected that sooner or later some company would try a price rise, but nobody knew which corporation would do it, or when.

Now a propitious time has arrived, because demand for steel has lately been rising. It isn't clear yet whether this trend will be maintained, for much of the demand comes from inventory stockpiling due to the fear of another steel strike this summer.

Roger Blough, chairman of the U. S. Steel Corp., expressed doubts about what the reaction to a price increase might have been if there had been no presidential interference a year ago. Mr. Blough said:

"Had they (steel prices) stuck at the time, it seems probable that in the case of some products and areas, the competitive forces of the market would later have compelled a reduction from the newly established higher levels. But there is little doubt that the general level of steel prices would now be higher than it is."

INTERVENTION UNWISE

Today, some of the steel companies are considering an experimental try at price raising. It would be unwise for the administration to intervene this time for a variety of reasons—mostly because the economy would sag and become depressed by any such step.

But a big uncertainty remains as to whether any general price increase would really prove effective now. There might be increases currently in the prices of selective items and among those products in which certain companies specialize and have little competition.

Then some upward price trend in the general list of steel products might later ensue.

Is the country ready at present, however, to pay higher prices for steel? Or has the saturation point on prices come for the time being?

If business expansion as a whole continues to be thwarted due to the failure of the Administration to do something about the labor union monopolies, then price increases to steel will fail to accomplish their purpose.

The larger companies would survive, but the marginal ones would go out of business and there would be more unemployment than before.

It's always a risky experiment to raise prices in a sluggish economy. But it is even riskier to let labor unions press for increased wage costs which materially reduce profits when a rise in prices cannot be absorbed by the buyers.

The experiment in the steel price change about to be undertaken is the most momentous development in the national economy in the last five years of rising wage costs without equivalent price increases.

If the steel price rise now can be absorbed without a drop in buying, it will be a sure sign that, to use the President's language, the economy is "moving again."

Bob Considine Says:

Heres' One '64 Candidate Who's Ready to Announce

NEW YORK — People . . . places . . . things . . .

Governors Rockefeller, Scranton and Romney, Sen. Barry Goldwater and others may be shy about announcing their intentions to run for the presidency in 1964.

CONSIDINE

But not my friend Symon Gould, perennial candidate of the American Vegetarian Party.

"I'm getting ready to announce," Mr. Gould writes, "personally, I think JFK is in for a lickin', if events continue to shape up agin him. After all, there are six big electoral states that are in doubt. The Repubs have elected their governors in three of 'em.

"JFK had better start doing something sensational to recapture the throb of the public. Thus far he's marking time, and not making history.

"He's relying too much on the rhetoric of his speech-writers and not enough on executive action.

"I could give him a few points if he asked me! They're in the platform of the American Vegetarian Party.

"One is a call for the appointment of a Secretary of Peace in the cabinet, someone of the stature of a Bertrand Russell (but an American, of course).

"Another thing I'd suggest is that he fly down to Greenville, Miss., and lead a Negro voter up to the registrar."

The nation is getting a bad rap overseas because of what is happening to Negroes in Greenville, Miss., and Birmingham, Ala.

A partial rebuttal, at least, would be to let the overseas critics know what is happening in the Virgin Islands, U.S.A., 85 per cent Negro.

There is full integration there. The president of the V. I. Senate is Earle B. Ottely, prominent Negro businessman, labor leader and newspaper editor.

There is 90 per cent literacy, a great expansion of industry and Gov. Ralph M. Paiewonsky has a balanced budget.

Tourism is booming, trade skyrocketing, and a middle class is emerging, as if to refute a growing belief overseas that it can't happen here.

In Washington:

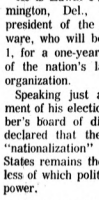
By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A new set of devils — said to be responsible for the growing power of the federal government regardless of whether Democrats or Republicans run the White House and Congress — has been identified by the president-elect of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.



EDSON

He is Edwin P. Neilan of Wilmington, Del., chairman and president of the Bank of Delaware, who will be installed May 1, for a one-year term as head of the nation's largest business organization.

Speaking just after announcement of his election by the chamber's board of directors, Neilan declared that the impetus for "nationalization" in the United States remains the same regardless of which political party is in power.

"It comes," he asserted, "from a relatively small group of entrenched civil servants who use both parties to extend their power and social philosphy.

"They appear to be beyond any adequate control by the thin layer of political appointees at the top."

Neilan names no names, gives no specific examples, does not identify in what government agencies "the entrenched" are to be found.

But this is something brand new in the way of a charge from the business community as to who is responsible for all the big government programs businessmen object to.

Neilan's target isn't the Americans for Democratic Action, the favorite group to blame for what's wrong with the country. Neither does he make the Communists his whipping boy. Nor does he hold that new Washington policies are dictated by the labor bosses—though he does have some definite views on treating the monopoly power of labor unions the same as business monopolies.

Democratic new frontiersmen aren't blamed any more than the Republicans by Neilan. No, it's this unspecified little group of top grade civil servants — government career men barred from political activity by the Hatch act, bureaucrats if you will — who are now held up by him for indictment on charges of running the Establishment.

In this connection, it is recalled that when the Eisenhower administration came to town 10 years ago there was a definite effort to get government career men out of all policy-making jobs and appoint Republicans in their places.

The effort wasn't completely successful. But when the Kennedy administration took over it very definitely removed all Republican policymakers and replaced them with Democrats.

Most career civil servants, considered experts in their respective fields, stayed on in their nonpolicy - making jobs. The best of these people are usually singled out to get annual meritorious service awards for carrying out plans approved by the policy makers as authorized by acts of Congress.

But, says Neilan, "these federal officials are on the road selling their subsidy programs as painless panaceas for almost every type of community problem.

"They endeavor to convince business, civic and political leaders that shopping for money in Washington is like visiting the bargain basement. The next step will be to create a cabinet - level Department of Urban Affairs and turn our cities into federal dependencies."

This last point is what Neilan hopes to oppose most vigorously in his year as U.S. Chamber president. He is on sound ground here, although he probably is fighting a hopeless battle.

He admits it is easier for mayors to come to Washington for $100,000 grants or loans than to try to raise money at home.

Neilan identifies himself politically as a great ticket splitter. Born in Michigan, reared in the midwest and Texas, he voted for Al Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt — the first two times. Then he became a registered Republican.

"I'm not sure I can qualify as a conservative," he says. "Some of my banking competitors say I'm not."

Voice of the People:

'Secret Agreement Made Between Russia and U.S.?'

There is a second Cuban crisis taking place.

The sudden order to stop all raids against Communist Cuba "by every means possible" was a shock and the first reaction among Cubans in exile was astonishment, and then indignation which spread throughout the frustrated, angry refugees like smallpox.

Latin Americans, too, were aghast.

The United States has shocked its hemispheric friends to the very core. This country preached to the world that it stands for freedom. Time and again, the United States has reiterated its total support for men who are fighting for the liberty of their country. Now, overnight, there is total negation.

The reason must lie in a secret agreement made between Washington and Moscow at the time of the October Cuban crisis. Nothing else can explain the powerful crackdown on those who fight against

Defends Northern's Choice of Plays

Shakespeare wrote better plays than "Crucible." He would laugh "Mugs" into oblivion if he urged the deletion of "damn" from Lady MacBeth's "Out! Out! Damned spot!" Nor would he understand Mug's concern that so simple a play as "Life With Father" destroy the holiness of baptism.

I wish parents, like you "Mugs," who would protect their offspring against honest books and honest plays would build their own English departments and let my children read and see honest, thought-provoking pieces of literature.

She Clutched Coke During Oscar Ballyhoo

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — During the tumult of the Oscar ball late Monday night, a pert blonde teenager sat happily sipping a coke.

Her name is Patty Duke, and she was the girl of the hour. She had just won an Academy Award for her supporting performance in "The Miracle Worker." She was understandably all aglow.

THOMAS

"I got a great deal of help from Arthur Penn, who was marvelous," said Patty of the man who directed her as the deaf-blind-mute Helen Keller.

But she devoted her most lavish praise to John Ross, her manager, who escorted her to the awards affair, along with his wife. Patty seemed close to them; Mrs. Ross had designed the mint-green dress Patty wore on her big night.

PATTY DUKE

"I owe Mr. Ross everything," said the young actress. "He discovered me when I was 8 and had a New York accent you could cut with a knife.

"He used to take this little blonde kid around and tell casting offices, 'She's another Shirley Temple.' Then they heard me talk and they said, 'Are you kidding?'

KILL ACCENT

"Mr. Ross worked with me to get rid of my accent. It was a whole year before he was able to get me a job."

Patty began getting roles in television, plays and a couple of movies. Then came "The Miracle Worker" with Anne Bancroft on the stage. It was hard, strenuous work for both performers. They engaged in a nightly knockdown fight to depict how the strong-willed Annie Sullivan finally subdued the animal-like child.

Fortunately, the same team that made the play a success converted it into a motion picture. The result: well-deserved Oscars for Misses Bancroft and Duke.

Patty remarked that her most memorable event in connection with the play was meeting Helen Keller herself.

"It was something I'll never forget," she said. "We were alone together at her house. I had no trouble communicating with her; I used the finger-talk I had learned in the play.

"She was gay and charming and delighted in showing me around her garden, describing each tree to me. She has a great number of Japanese things, being very fond of Japan. When I left, she gave me a doll of a Kabuki actor."

Pontiac Hairdressers Elect New Officers

Mrs. Orville Ely, 2504 Walce St., West Bloomfield Township, has been elected president of the Pontiac unit of the National Hairdressers Association.

Also elected were Randall West, 2510 Garland St., Sylvan Lake, vice president; Darlene Seveney, 6187 Lakeview Drive, Clarkston, secretary; Marie Wager, 1172 W. Maple Road, Walled Lake, treasurer; and Mrs. Rex Smith, 8790 Arlington Drive, White Lake Township, financial secretary.

Trained Ike, Clark, He Succumbs at 86

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Maj. Gen. Walter C. Sweeney, U.S.A., Ret., a veteran of the Spanish-American War and former director of the Army War College in Washington, died Tuesday. He was 86.

As commander of the 3rd Infantry Division at Fort Lewis, Wash., between 1938 and 1939, he had helped train three young officers named Dwight D. Eisenhower, George Marshall and Mark Clark.

Gen. Sweeney, who served in both World Wars as well as the Spanish - American conflict, retired from the service after World War II.

Opposition to Apportionment Earns GOP Barbs for Kelley

LANSING (AP)—Republicans have attacked and Democrats defended Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley's decision to oppose the apportionment provision of the new constitution if it is challenged in court.

Three GOP senators said yesterday that Kelley should either resign from his post or disqualify himself and his department from taking part in any apportionment suit.

They were Sens. Frank Beadle of St. Clair, John Fitzgerald of Grand Ledge and Paul Younger of Lansing, all three of whom acted as defendant-intervenors in a suit filed against the Senate districting provision under the present constitution. The case is now pending before the U. S. Supreme Court.

But the governor told newsmen he did not agree with the senators' suggestion that Kelley resign or disqualify himself and his department.

The Republican attacks drew verbal fire from Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski, a Democrat, who said he was frightened by the GOP attitude.

"There is a totalitarian tone to threats of removal, public humiliation and professional character assassination of a public official just because they disagree with him," Lesinski declared.

He added:

"The rights of the people of this state supersede the whims and wishes of the officials of this state. Nor can the injured pride and ego of the author of the apportionment section, Gov. Romney, supersede the rights of the people of this state."

In announcing that he would support any suit to have the courts strike down the apportionment provision of the new constitution, Kelley said he was convinced that it violated the 14th Amendment of the federal Constitution.

The 14th Amendment guarantees equal protection under the law, which Kelley contends is not preserved in any apportionment plan for representation based on any factor other than straight population.

The new constitution provides for senatorial apportionment on a formula based 80 per cent on population and 20 per cent on area.

In demanding that Kelley resign or disqualify himself, the Republican senators said Belley makes it "unmistakably clear that he is going to force the so-called 'one man, one vote' legislative apportionment concept on Michigan people — whether they want it or not."

Southern Bell Admits Dixie More Talkative

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Southerners seem to talk more than other people, the president of the Southern Bell Telephone Co. says.

The official, Ben S. Gilmer, said Wednesday that six phone calls per day is the average in the South compared with five for the nation as a whole.

There are 67 waterfalls in the world that are higher than Niagara.

Emergency Is Routine in Steel-Bound World of a Sub

(EDITOR'S NOTE —What's it like cruising under the sea in a nuclear submarine such as the Thresher? Elton C. Fay tells about it by drawing on his first-hand observations during three rides on atomic subs.)

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON—Whatever happened aboard the Thresher, there almost certainly was no panic.

Submariners have steel nerves. Years of training mean they react instantly and instinctively to orders, whatever the circumstance.

What is it like aboard a high-speed, deep-diving atomic submarine? Such a submarine as the Thresher, lost in the Atlantic, perhaps under hundreds of feet of ocean?

What is it like when a submarine goes down for hundreds of feet and then, for urgent reason, pushes past the "red line" marking on the depth indicator, beyond which mighty pressure builds up swiftly and dangerously?

You remember rides aboard nuclear submarines.

There is the calmness, the orderly way the ship (they used to call them "boats") is handled, the low spoken commands and responses.

Crewmen in the mess, drinking coffee, crewmen at the controls, crewmen in the machinery spaces, in the torpedo compartments. Submarines are quiet and nuclear submariners quieter.

There was the trip aboard an atomic - powered attack submarine Skipjack. A demonstration ride. Sailors came around and lashed tables and other movable furniture to secure holdings. You wondered why — until the order, "dive! dive!" sounded.

Then the submarine put her nose down. You hung on to keep from sliding into a bulkhead. Down, like an airplane.

Then sharp twisting turns, with the submarine banking for the turn. Planing upward sharply, then down again. No diminished speed, constant, surging power from the atomic power plant.

EMERGENCY!!

What about reaction in emergency?

There was another morning. The watch was changing, breakfast about to be served in the wardroom.

The collision alarm sounded suddenly, stridently. Suddenly you were alone in the wardroom. Behind the racing officers, watertight doors clanged shut, were dogged down.

Angle on the boat. More and more angle. Dishes slid off the table with a crash, chairs thumped against the forward bulkhead as the submarine planed down at acute angle.

But in the control room and in all the spaces there was swift and orderly haste.

The sonar had picked up something that, for the moment, could have been a ship just above the submarine which was cruising near the surface. As it turned out, the sonar was seeing things. There was nothing there.

SEA HUNT

Then there was the time aboard the Seawolf, second atomic submarine built.

The Seawolf had left Key West, Fla., headed on a routine trip to the New London, Conn., base. One day out and a message came to join in a hunt for a suspected unknown submarine in the area, off the Florida coast.

The tempo changed. This wasn't practice, a routine training operation; this was a hunt to see whether there was a foreign submarine (specifically a Russian submarine) hovering off the U.S. coast.

Hour upon hour, the submarine cruised, stopping now, moving then, listening on passive sonar, closing in toward an area in which planes and ships had reported the suspected presence of an unknown.

It was like stalking a deer, the quiet, methodical advance, the listening, the moving forward a little, then a halt.

The focal point of the search was reached. The Seawolf hunted and listened high up, near the surface, then down deeper. The active sonar was turned on. It sent out its pinging notes and listened for echoes from a steel hull — or something. What was that ahead, down below?

DANGEROUS DEPTH

Take her deeper. The diving officer, standing behind the planesmen at the controls, called off the depth . . ." passing one hundred" . . . "passing two hundred" . . . and more and more hundreds. The depth indicator needle crept steadily toward the red line, then passed it.

The submarine was below the depth for which its hull and fittings were tested. Submarines can do this. It is hard on the boat and tenses up the nerves, but it is done on occasions.

The captain had ordered: "rig for quiet patrol" and in a moment "rig for ultraquiet." A great stillness came. The ordinary white lights were off. The deep red of battle lights touched highlights on faces and instruments and control levers, let shadows in sable black.

The understanding is that a submarine hull usually doesn't just crush inwards, although this probably has happened in some accidents. What probably happens in most instances is that an intake valve or other fitting through the pressure hull gives way suddenly.

As compartment floods and the pressure overwhelms the door and bulkheads into other compartments. Suddenly the boat is filled and the pressure equalizes. It goes on down and down, until it rests on the bottom.

THRESHER LAUNCHING — The missing submarine Thresher is shown slipping into the water July 9, 1960, as it was launched at the Portsmouth, N.H., Navy Yard. The nuclear vessel was conducting diving tests about 220 miles east of Boston when contact with it was lost yesterday.

ADM. GEORGE W. ANDERSON

Thresher Commander Dedicated to Sea

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The skipper of the missing nuclear submarine Thresher was described by family and friends today as serious, studious, and dedicated to the sea.

And while an armada of ships and planes scoured the Atlantic Ocean where the Thresher disappeared Wednesday, the parents of Lt. Cmdr. John Wesley Harvey clung to the hope he would return safely.

"I have great faith in him, great faith in my son's ability," said the officer's mother, Mrs. Manning J. Harvey, Wednesday night.

"I have faith in God and I have faith that everything will be all right," Mrs. Harvey said, even as reports grew darker.

Harvey, 35, grew up in Philadelphia, attending high school and the University of Pennsylvania before entering the U.S. Naval Academy in 1946.

He was a first string guard on the Penn football team of 1945 and later played on the Navy eleven. "He was no star. Just a team player," his mother said.

WEDS SWEETHEART

Harvey married a childhood sweetheart, the former Irene Nagorski, after graduation from the academy. They have two sons, 11 and 8.

A fraternity brother at Penn, Al Cox, called Harvey "always an excellent student, serious about his work yet willing to help other students not as good as he."

The Naval Academy year book put it this way: "The selfless assistance to less savvy classmates won him many friends and an enviable reputation in the brigade."

Harvey joined the nuclear submarine service in 1953 when the craft were still in the prototype stage. Earlier he served aboard an orthodox sub and an aircraft carrier.

Selected for nuclear service, he was assigned two years of instruction including 18 months study of the Nautilus reactor.

SAILED UNDER POLE

He joined the Nautilus in 1955 and was aboard on its first and second missions under the polar ice cap. He served as first chief engineer and engineering officer of the submarine Tullabee, and as executive officer of the nuclear sub Sea Dragon. He took command of the Thresher last Jan. 18, the last time his mother saw him.

Harvey's brother, Manning Jr., a high school coach in Stratford, Conn., said, "he loved the Navy. He could have been out of it many times. He was offered plenty of jobs."

Harvey, interviewed in 1958 after the Nautilus' historic voyage under the pole, said "I feel a little bit guilty about being told I am a hero. It's much nicer under the water. We all like it better and feel at home there."

Announcement Was Delayed for 11 Hours

Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations, told reporters Wednesday night that the reason for the delay was that the Navy "did not want to unnecessarily alarm the families of the men aboard" while it tried to find out if the break in contact was due to a communications failure.

As this possibility diminished, Anderson said, it was decided to inform next of kin and then make the news public.

Waiting Submariners Note 63rd Anniversary

By United Press International

Members of the "silent service" today observed the 63rd anniversary of the Navy's submarine branch, while the search for the nuclear-powered Thresher continued.

On April 11, 1900, the first submarine, Holland, went into the service of the U.S. Navy.

Many Possible Causes of Sub's Disappearance

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nuclear submarine Thresher could have gone into a steep dive to the bottom of the Atlantic if her bow planes went awry.

Or, perhaps, water could have seeped into the hull if a fitting came loose—and water could have rushed into the vessel with such force as to burst through her interior bulkheads.

Then, too, there could have been a fire caused by electrical malfunction.

These were some of the possibilities considered by Navy officers casting about for an explanation for the disappearance of the 278-foot submarine in Atlantic waters a mile and a half deep.

These officers said it was impossible that there could have been a nuclear explosion in the sub's atomic engine.

The cause of the ship's disappearance may never be known.

If the Thresher became stuck in a sandbank somewhere above the ocean floor, her air-renewal gear could keep her 129 crew and passengers for 60 days or more.

The sub had been due to go to sea today after completing diving tests following overhaul. Thus, some officers suggested, she may have had on board enough food and water to sustain her occupants for 90 days.

If the Thresher is stuck in a bank she possibly could pull free by blowing her ballast tanks.

There likely is little the Navy can do to help her from the surface—she probably is down too far.

Diving bell rescue gear cannot operate that deep, officers said.

Considered the finest and most modern of the Navy's attack submarines, the Thresher is equipped with all manner of safety devices and safeguards.

But these may not have been enough.

Crewman's Wife Rips the Navy

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — Amid the shock and grief there was bitterness today as hope faded for the men of the nuclear submarine Thresher.

The wife of a crew member blamed the Navy for sending the Thresher through deep dive maneuvers shortly after leaving drydock at Portsmouth, N.H.

"Most of the fellows were a little leery," she said, asking that her name be withheld. "They thought the boat needed more time." She described the Thresher as an "experimental boat" and said the Navy "was always trying to do something new with her."

Lost Craft Was Slated to Be Killer

By United Press International

The missing nuclear attack submarine Thresher was due to be fitted with the antisubmarine missile SUBROC, the deadly sting of the Navy's underwater hunter-killer force.

Much of the details of SUBROC are classified, but this much is known. The missile is designed to be fired underwater from a conventional 21-inch torpedo tube.

SUBROC then streaks to the surface and leaves the water in a ballistic trajectory. The missile re-enters the water several miles from the launching submarine.

Beneath the water's furface it becomes a deadly, submarine-hunting torpedo. The weapon is designed for either a high explosive or nuclear warhead.

SUBROC, or submarine rocket, is designed to give the new Thresher class atomic subs a powerful weapon to make maximum use of their long range sonar.

The combination torpedo and ballistic missile has a range unofficially estimated at from 10 to 25 miles.

The keel of the nuclear-powered submarine Thresher, named for a vicious underwater killer, the thresher shark, was laid at the Portsmouth, N.H., Navy Yard May 28, 1958.

The sub scored a first in naval history when she was launched bow-first on July 9, 1960. Thresher was completed Aug. 3, 1961.

The 279-foot, 3,750-ton vessel was hailed as the lead ship of the world's most advanced class of nuclear attack subs.

The Navy said Thresher could dive deeper, run faster and travel more quietly than any other sub. Its motto is "vis tacita," Latin for silent strength.

3 Missed Sailing of Nuclear Vessel

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UPI) — Two enlisted men and one officer were scheduled to sail on the U.S. nuclear submarine Thresher yesterday, but missed the boat.

Destefano's wife said she was "very happy" that her husband was not aboard. She said the Navy had instructed her not to comment further.

17 Civilians on Vessel Knew It Well

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (UPI)— Some of the 17 civilian technicians and other experts on the missing U.S. submarine Thresher helped build and design the vessel and "knew every nook and cranny aboard," a Navy spokesman said today.

Lt. Cmdr. Vincent Manara said the sub was making a sea trial, a usual practice after overhaul and somewhat similar to a shakedown voyage.

"The space was limited. Only the best of the civilian personnel went," Manara said.

"If anything went wrong they could put their finger on it," Manara said.

Among the civilians were design and test engineers, electronics and sonar technicians, representatives from firms which had installed equipment aboard, mechanics, and pipefitters.

Sub Down Near Shipping Route

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The position given by the attack submarine Thresher before she vanished from sight — 41.44 degrees north, 64.57 degrees west — is just north of the Great Circle course used by transatlantic shipping.

It is about 170 miles south southeast of Cape Sable at the foot of Nova Scotia, 150 miles east of the Georges Banks and about 80 miles from Brown's Bank, major fishing areas for America, Canadian and Soviet trawlers.

The weather in the area of the banks generally is unpleasant, with fog, wind and at times heavy cresting seas.

ANOTHER UNDERSEA CRAFT RAISED — The Squalus bobs on the surface of the Atlantic off Portsmouth, N.H., on Sept. 13, 1939 after it was raised briefly from the bottom. The sub sank May 23, 1939 and 26 crewmen died; 33 others were saved by a diving bell. The two large objects attached to nose of the vessel are pontoons to keep it from sinking again.

Steel Market Watched

Stocks Mixed in Early Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed in early trading today as Wall Street watched for developments in the steel price situation.

Trading was fairly active at the start of the week's final session. The market is closed tomorrow, Good Friday.

The steel stocks, which dictated the market's movements yesterday, fell into the irregular early trend. Practically all changes on the list were fractional.

Market analysts anticipated that general prices will be linked closely with steel pricing moves for the next few days. Some thought the situation vastly different than a year ago when the administration forced leading steelmakers to pull back a posted price increase.

Wheeling was up a minimum fraction. Also slightly higher were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Jones & Laughlin. Republic and Youngstown Sheet and Tube were off a bit while Crucible was unchanged.

Rails, metals and oils had a slightly higher tendency. Aircrafts and motors dipped. Chemicals and electronics were mixed.

Bond Trade Quiet at Opening

The market continued to reflect the fact that about half of the new Treasury issue of $300 million in 31-year bonds has yet to be absorbed. They are priced to yield 4.08 per cent.

Chemical Blast Hits Muskegon

Plant Explosion 'Felt 40 Miles'; None Hurt

MUSKEGON (AP) — A thunderous chemical plant explosion, reportedly felt for 40 miles, rocked this area last night.

Windows of their shelter were shattered and an overhead door was ripped loose. But none of the men was hurt.

Company officials said the blast was a "vapor explosion" that resulted when hot liquid chemicals coming from a large vessel ignited excaping vapors.

A cooling pump which keeps down temperatures of the chemicals was said to have failed.

The pump controls temperatures during the "preliminarization process" of the chemicals, breakdown, officials said. They said no chemicals in themselves are explosive.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Harken was on patrol about a mile and a half from the plant.

Seaway Set for Opening on Schedule

MONTREAL (AP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway is expected to open for business Monday on schedule.

Seaway officials set the opening date with their fingers crossed after a tough, cold winter. But they said today ice conditions should be sufficiently under control to permit the start of another shipping season.

Normal maintenance work on the seaway's locks is progressing on schedule, officials said, and so far no major repairs have been needed.

Crews have been using steam pipes and bubbling air through pipes to free the lock machinery. An ice-breaker also has been sent into the sytem to break up thick concentrations of floes.

Upper Michigan Season for Boating Is Opened

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP) — A Coast Guard rescue vessel and the motor vessel Beaver opened the upper Michigan boating season when they became the first boats to make the trip between here and St. Ignace yesterday.

Ferry service between the two cities starts Monday. The Beaver is used by Moral Rearmament to transport its equipment.

State Pair Votes for Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)— Michigan Democrats Philip A. Hart and Patrick V. McNamara voted with the majority last night when the Senate passed the youth employment bill 50-34.

Units to Give Reports to Area Citizens Group

Waterford Township Schools' citizens advisory committee will hear final reports of its five subcommittees tonight at 7:45 at Pierce Junior High School.

Formed last month, the citizens advisory committee has been studying future needs of the school district. It will submit recommendations to the school board.
