Prospective students to learn about OU's Executive MBA program

Oakland University's School of Business Administration will host an information session for prospective Executive MBA (EMBA) students at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, May 22.

The event provides an ideal format to learn more about the program directly from faculty coordinators, who can answer questions about the application process, program structure and more.

Students admitted to the EMBA program can specialize in Health Care Management or Information Systems Leadership. Prospective students are encouraged to apply early, as fall 2010 enrollment is limited to 30 students. For more information, those interested can visit the EMBA Web site at emba.oakland.edu.

The May 22 information session will take place in 238 Elliott Hall on the campus of Oakland University. To learn more or to confirm attendance, contact Monica Milczarski at (248) 370-2059 or milczars@oakland.edu.
