ANNUAL REPORT

1980-81

INTRODUCTION AND CONTENTS

Members of the library faculty and staff, as well as the chairperson of the Library Council, have prepared a number of information reports which comprise the library's 1980-81 annual report. The range of activities and thoughtful analyses covered in these reports is impressive and epitomizes the competency and dedication of the several units of the library. I continue to be flattered to work with this unusually talented group of people who bring much productivity, prestige and future promise to the University.

Beginning with personnel, fiscal and usage summaries, on pages 2-10, the body of the Report contains:

Personnel changes which occurred in the library included one resignation from the faculty and several from the clerical/technical staff. Barry Johnson resigned from the position of systems analysis in the fall to take a position with the Tollis Corporation in Southfield. The Provost disestablished this position for the balance of the year with the provision that "should the budget picture brighten after next year, I hope to be able to allocate sufficient salary dollars to you to reestablish this position."

Kathleen Audette (cataloging), Patricia Brooks (circulation), Mary Hipsher (acquisitions), Catherine Pugsley (serials) and Brenda Scribner (audio visual) resigned from the clerical/technical staff to advance their careers or to further their education for new careers. We wish all of them well. Helen Korhonen joined the library staff (interloans) from the Continuum Center; on several occasions during the year, Helen substituted for the Dean's secretary, for which we are most appreciative. The freeze on filling these several open positions caused a number of hardships in the library, an unhappy situation to which the staff responded well.

From January through March, 1981 the library loaned two clerical staff members for twenty hours each week to the Registrar's Office to assist that office in coping with its shortage of personnel. Again, through perseverance and ingenuity the staff responded to this additional challenge and, with the infusion of an additional eighty hours of student labor in April, began several new crucial projects, including the integration of government documents periodical files into the general periodical collection.

Members of the library faculty and staff presented the following papers and published the following articles and reviews during the year.

Clara DiFelice and Janet Krompart received a planning grant of $750 from the University Library to initiate a study of "Librarians on the Tenure Track, an Investigation of the Impact of Academic Librarians' Participation in the Faculty Review Process." Janet Krompart is the current Secretary of the Asian and African Section of the Association of College and Research Libraries, American Library Association. She chaired the University's Honorary Degree Committee this past year and served on the Michigan Library Association's Continuing Education Committee, the Nominating Committee of its Academic and Research Library Division and chaired the Committee on Staff Development and Communications of the Southeastern Michigan League of Libraries. Eileen Hitchingham received a $500 grant from the University Research Committee to identify libraries using online data-base searching to supplement traditional modes of responding to reference desk questions, and to ascertain costs associated with such use. With Joan Durrance of the University of Michigan, Robert Gaylor negotiated an $8,000 grant from Gale Research to help support the forum series "Issues and Challenges of the 80's, a Michigan Libraries Forum." He is Secretary Treasurer of the Public Library Trustee Association of Oakland County, the Michigan Library Association's representative to the Michigan Library Consortium, and a member of the Board of the National Committee for Libraries. Indra David is the current President of the Michigan Chapter of the National Librarians' Association and a member of the Association's Executive Board. She also had responsibility for planning and organizing the fall and spring programs of the Michigan Chapter of the Association and is chairing one of the Gale Research Forum Series "Issues and Challenges of the 80's: Marketing: The Ultimate Challenge." Lois Reilly continued her extensive service on the Reference and Subscription Books Review Committee of the American Library Association as a guest reviewer and she accepted a new two-year appointment as a regular reviewer beginning July 1, 1981. Elizabeth Titus was elected Treasurer of the Michigan Database Users Group, served on the Advisory Committee of the Libraries for an Oakland County Union List of Serials, and was a member of the Faculty Advisory Committee of the Presidential Selection Committee. George Gardiner has been appointed editor of the National Librarians' Association's Newsletter, the official organ of the Association, and is an ex officio member of its Board; he was also appointed to the Budget and Finance Committee of the Michigan Library Consortium; and he has been nominated to serve on the Board of the Michigan Poetry Resource Center.

Other personnel matters of importance are Alexis Salisz' completion of her second two-year review as an administrative/professional, the reappointments of William Cramer and Clara DiFelice as well as the reappointment with tenure of Daniel Ring in the faculty of the library; the appointments of Robert Burns and Alexis Salisz as the clerical/technical and the administrative/professional representatives to the library Faculty Assembly, respectively; and the applications of Elisabeth Brannstrom and Robert Burns for the prestigious University of Michigan research library fellowships. We congratulate Dan and the others on these noteworthy achievements.

Indra David conducted a staff audit during the spring term to assess workloads and workflow in relation to available resources and programmatic priorities. While her recommendations were sound, they have been set aside until the duration and impact of the elimination of the position of Assistant Dean of the Library is fully evaluated.

The elimination of the position, Assistant Dean, is the most grave of the personnel changes which occurred during the year. It is a shocking move since the library eliminated two of its four professional administrative positions three years ago. In terms of the administrative structure it will result in the transfer of Bernard Toutant from Budget Coordinator to the position of Assistant to the Dean and the transfer of David Gustner from Circulation Manager to Budget Coordinator; a member of the faculty will be assigned to the position of Circulation Librarian. Many of the duties of the Assistant Dean will be delegated to the Assistant to the Dean; some will be assumed by the Dean. A number of planned projects and routines will be held in abeyance until the individuals assuming these new roles have the opportunity of learning them or until the position of Assistant Dean is reestablished.

On the following pages are reports from various units of the library. They detail many of the library's outstanding achievements during the year. Among those achievements not highlighted in the departmental reports are the notification of the Elizabeth Hughes Gossett bequest of her personal library and $50,000 to "establish a fund for the University Library, to be known as the Charles Evans Hughes Memorial Collection of books, pertaining to history, government and the law"; the infusion of some $67,000 into the library's book budget at year-end; the provision of funding by the School of Human and Educational Services for continued subscription to the William S. Grey Collection; and the preparation of the Oakland University Libraries' Union List of Serials on the Wang word processor, a copy of which is enclosed.
