Lebanese Rebels Show Newsman Beirut Stronghold

EDITOR'S NOTE — Wilton Wynn of The Associated Press has been a reporter in the Middle East for seven years. This week he was invited to be an overnight guest of rebel leader Saeb Salam in Beirut. He returned with this picture of life in the rebel quarter of the Lebanese capital.

By WILTON WYNN

BEIRUT (AP)—"Put up your hands."

It was so dark in the street that I could not see the rebel guard. But I heard the click of his gun. I put my hands up.

"One of you walk forward."

My comrade moved ahead, his hands still in the air.

"Say the password."

"Abou halmous."

That was enough. We moved up to the barricade

Idle Pay Probe Opens Tuesday

Legislator Says Local Office Not Involved in Investigation

Pontiac is not listed as a target of a legislative probe into the alleged scope of union influence in the activities of the Michigan Unemployment Security Commission, Rep. Farrell E. Roberts said today.

Roberts, West Bloomfield Republican, is one of five members of the investigating committee scheduled to open its first hearing Tuesday in Grand Rapids.

"So far there has been no mention of irregularities in the operation of the Pontiac commission office," said Roberts.

Rep. Walter G. Nakkula (R-Gladwin), chairman of the committee, has charged that unions, particularly the AFL-CIO, exercise undue influence over the second largest state agency, which is currently paying out more than a million dollars a day in unemployment benefits.

Nakkula said the committee will look into complaints that AFL-CIO members get preferred treatment in applications for benefits and in promotions when on the commission payroll.

The committee, given a $10,000 appropriation by the Legislature, also will move into Detroit, the Upper Peninsula and several other areas where big unemployment money is being dispersed, Nakkula said.

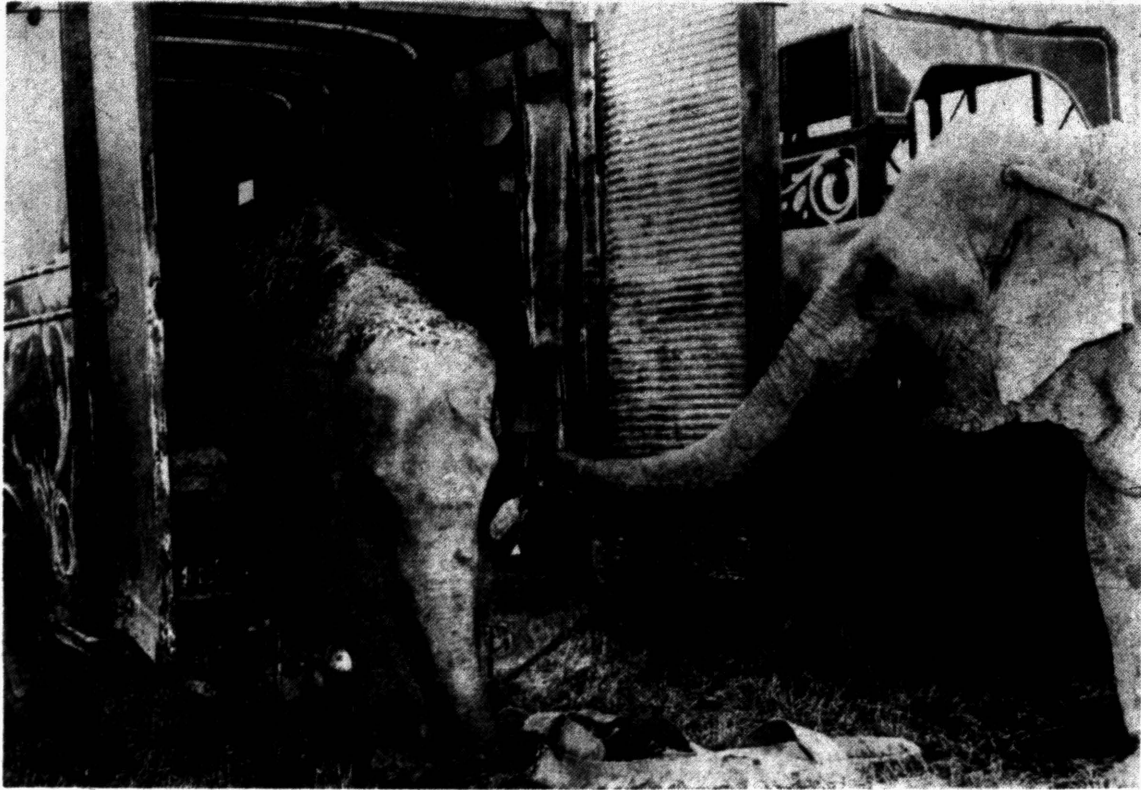

Cloudy and Warm, Showers Tomorrow

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicts partly cloudy tonight, with variable winds mostly southerly at 4-8 miles an hour. Tonight's low will be near 64 degrees.

Continued cloudiness is expected tomorrow with scattered afternoon or evening thundershowers. The high will reach around 82-86, the low about 65.

In downtown Pontiac, the lowest thermometer reading preceding 8 a.m. was 65. The mercury rose to 85 at 1 p.m.

Elephants Herald Arrival of Circus

HURRY, HURRY, HURRY — They're here. Two hundred wild animals, including 15 elephants like this one being unloaded early this morning from one of many vans. It's all part of the Clyde Beatty Circus being sponsored here today by the Pontiac Lions Club. Performances for this one-day event are scheduled for 2 and 8 p.m. in the big tents at Pontiac Lake and Telegraph roads in Waterford Township.

No Trace of Thor Cone, Space-Traveling Mouse

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force said today that initial attempts to locate a Thor-Able rocket nose cone and its mouse rider have been stymied, but the search is still on.

More than a dozen specially equipped telemetry ships and planes pressed their hunt for the small nose cone near Ascension Island, 1,000 miles off the African coast.

The report on search progress came some 15 hours after the mouse named Wickie was blasted aloft in an air-conditioned chamber inside the nose cone of a Thor-Able rocket.

The mouse could tell man a lot about the perils of travel in outer space.

The rocket, said the Air Force, performed satisfactorily. That meant that it climbed 600 miles above the earth, then angled over into a horizontal flight that reached 6,000 miles to the vicinity of Ascension Island near the African continent.

If the rocket's nose cone was found after its plunge from space, it could solve many secrets.

Military men wanted to know if the cone could withstand the great friction heat encountered in its dive back into the earth's atmosphere. If so, it could be depended upon to shield a hydrogen bomb in intercontinental flight in case of war.

Space scientists who hope someday to send men to the moon and beyond were especially interested in how the mouse fared in the 12,000 m.p.h. journey to space and back.

If Wickie survived, it would be the first known time that a living animal had gone into space and returned alive.

A spokesman disclosed yesterday that Wickie's predecessor, another Albino female named Laska, lived for 32 minutes after she was blasted into the heavens.

That is the period required for the return of the Thor-Able nose cone to the earth's surface in a 6,300-mile journey. It was believed the last recovery effort failed either because the nose cone's parachute did not open or the balloon, designed to suspend the package just below the water, failed to inflate.

Hits Timetable on Drain Work

Barry Calls Schedule of State Health Dept. 'Unrealistic'

A suggested timetable for completion of three large drain projects in southern Oakland County, as set up yesterday by the State Health Dept., was termed "unrealistic" today by Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry.

"I don't see how anybody can come in here and tell us when these projects should be started and finished without even consulting with the designers of the projects," Barry declared. "I think they were overoptimistic."

Top state health officials met in Royal Oak yesterday afternoon, along with representatives of the county and most communities in the southern part of the county, to outline the time schedule.

The state has ordered immediate action to stop what it calls health hazards brought about by inadequate drains in the heavily-populated part of Oakland County.

A suggested completion date of 1960-61 was set Wednesday by the state for the $45-million Twelve Towns drain project. The $4.5 million Dequindre Road Interceptor should be started in November of this year and completed by Jan. 1, 1960, the state suggested.

"We'll study their timetable," Barry promised. "When I have had it thoroughly studied by consulting engineers and our department I will submit recommendations when we believe the projects can be started."

Barry said the Twelve Towns project is pending because of appeals to the Supreme Court, the Dequindre project is ready for submission to the Board of Supervisors after participating communities return contracts, and that the smaller Red Run Inclosure is still on his department's drawing boards.

Revised Pentagon Bill Set for House Passage Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Swift House passage was expected today for a compromise defense reorganization bill hailed by President Eisenhower as meeting most of his specifications.

The Senate was set to act soon afterwards, sending the bill to the White House and almost certain approval by Eisenhower.

The bill approved yesterday by Senate-House conferees, embodies much but not all Eisenhower sought in the way of authority to reorganize the Pentagon.

In a statement issued shortly after the conferees approved the bill, Eisenhower said:

"Except in relatively minor aspects, the bill adequately meets every recommendation I submitted to the Congress on this subject. It is my conviction that the armed services committees of both houses have done a praiseworthy job . . . and that the result for America will be a more efficient and more economical national defense."

Essentially the bill accomplishes what Eisenhower advocated to clarify the command of the President, through the secretary of defense, over Army-Navy-Air Force-Marine task forces in the field.

But Congress, traditionally insisting on preserving the identity of the separate services, did not give the defense secretary all the peace-time power Eisenhower advocated to tighten organizational control over the services. Moreover, Congress wrote in some provisions which it described as safeguards but which Eisenhower has criticized as possibly obstructive.

The measure does reduce the powers of the service secretaries and the individual military chiefs.

The bill provides a clear-cut command system for the kind of forces most often used in modern wars—teams composed of selected elements of one, two or more services. Once a service committed units to such a force it could not withdraw them without approval of the secretary of defense. And task force commanders would report to the top, without going through individual service secretaries.

On the other hand, Congress declined to give the defense secretary authority to transfer or abolish the military roles of the services. To calm fears that the Marines, the Navy's air arm or the National Guard might be abolished or drastically changed, provisions were written into the bill to require congressional approval of any major change.

President to Demand Clear Ground Rules

Suggestion of Red Boss to Open Session Monday Leaves West Cool

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower began writing a new message to Premier Khrushchev today insisting that the ground rules be spelled out clearly in advance of a United Nations summit conference.

U.S. officials said it seems certain that the meeting will be held. But here, and in other Western capitals, the view was that the opening day suggested by Khrushchev, next Monday, is much too soon.

Diplomats estimated it would take two or three weeks of negotiations to determine exactly what countries should be included and what procedures should govern discussions.

Nothing quite like the proposed historic conference has ever been held at the U.N. Security Council in New York. Important precedents will be set.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles were at work on a reply to the Soviet premier's conditional agreement to meet with the West at the United Nations in New York.

Hagerty would give no hint as to the draft's contents. He said he did not expect "any immediate answer" to Khrushchev because this country intends to consult its allies, principally Britain and France, before dispatching a message to the Kremlin.

The President and allies conferred on the reply to Khrushchev by telephone before attending a National Security Council meeting.

It was assumed that the Council also discussed the reply.

Hagerty said he did not know whether the reply would be completed and the necessary consultations held in time to transmit it to Moscow today.

Other developments elsewhere:

LONDON — Britain welcomed Khrushchev's acceptance of the West's summit invitation. But it said Monday is too soon. A government statement said "we are prepared to meet as soon as a special meeting of the (U. N.) Security Council can conveniently be arranged."

PARIS — Premier Charles de Gaulle, who had objected to a summit meeting in New York, was expected to announce his final decision later today.

NEW YORK — Khrushchev in answers to questions submitted by Kingsbury Smith, United Press International vice president, said he is willing for the meeting to be in New York, Geneva, or "any place."

NEW DELHI — Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru said he will attend the summit conference "only if both parties" (East and West) invite him.

CAIRO — President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic was prepared to fly to (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Lowell Perry, former star of the Michigan football team, announced his retirement as a player today and was signed immediately as a full time scout by the National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers.

U.N. Plans Conference Safeguards

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—The United Nations has begun working on security and protocol problems connected with a summit conference in the Security Council, and it was reported U.S. Marines may be asked to guard a 15-block approach to the building.

A source close to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said the United Nations would be ready by Monday to play host to President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, and other government chiefs invited to attend.

But some sources doubted security arrangements could be completed in time. It was expected that anti-Communist organizations in New York, particularly remnants of the Hungarian Freedom Army who escaped the 1956 Soviet tank attacks, would give the Soviet delegation a sizzling reception when it arrived.

U.N. security officials said they were ready to cooperate with the U.S. Secret Service, Britain's Scotland Yard, the French Surete and Russia's security organization.

Khrushchev's sudden provisional acceptance of Eisenhower's bid to a summit meeting in the Security Council immediately touched off reports that a 15-block stretch of Manhattan's First Avenue may be closed off and patrolled by U.S. Marines. The glistening U.N. edifice fronts on First Avenue, while the East River flows behind it.

Making final security arrangements at this stage may be premature. French Premier Charles de Gaulle was reported opposed to a Mideast summit meeting here. He prefers a less publicity-conscious site like Geneva.

Name Louisiana Blonde as Miss U. S. A.

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Lovely Earlene Howell, blonde, blue-eyed Miss Louisiana, reigned today as Miss United States in the 7th annual Miss Universe pageant.

The sweetly-drawling coed from Bossier City, La., was chosen last night from five semifinalists to represent the United States in competition with 34 foreign beauties for the title of Miss Universe.

The four others in the final round were Miss Alabama, Judy Carlson; Miss Florida, Marcia Valibus; Miss Georgia, Diana Austin; and Miss Illinois, June Pickney.

Lads' Wrong-Way Trip to Tennessee Delayed by Lure of Inviting Lake

Two Detroit brothers, 10 and 15 years old, who were detained by sheriff's deputies late yesterday afternoon en route to Tennessee, are ready to tell the world that food at the Oakland County Sheriff's Department "is great."

The young adventurers stole bicycles near their home in southwest Detroit Saturday evening, and started out for Tennessee.

"We were going to see our two brothers and a sister," they told deputies.

After traveling two days (in the wrong direction) and sleeping on the ground at night, the boys spotted a one-room shack at 9580 Dixie Highway, in Springfield Township, Monday and decided to stop for a rest.

Described by deputies as "a couple of very mannerly, bright kids," the boys took a cot and blanket from a neighboring junk yard. East night they walked across the highway to a market and picked up some food after the market closed.

Their diet consisted of soft drinks, potato chips, and several watermelons. What made the boys decide to stay for more than one night was a nearby lake.

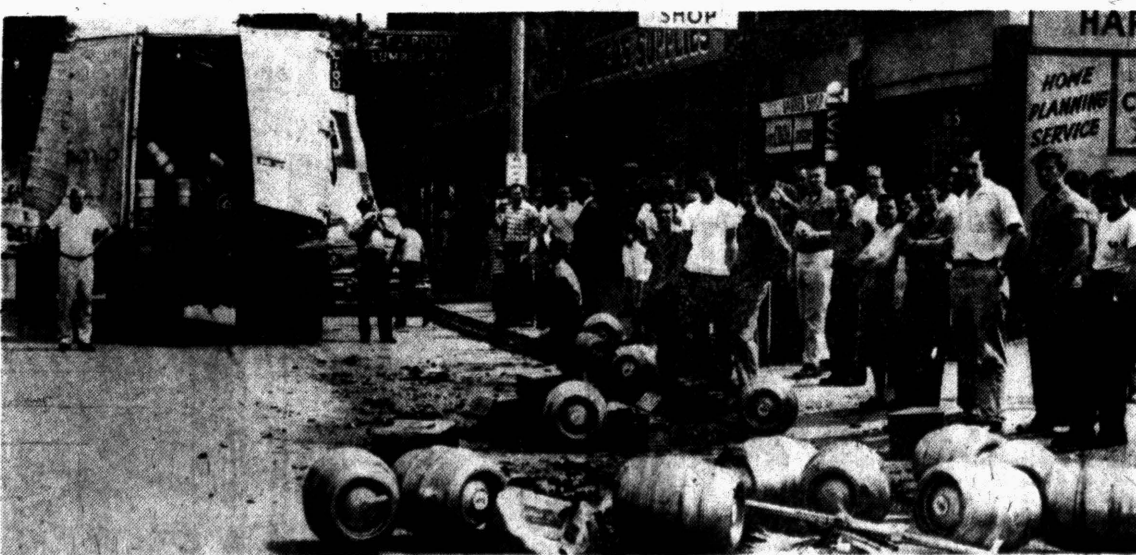

It seems the vacationing youths were wandering down to the old water hole several times daily for a dip, although, they admitted, the younger of the two had forgotten to bring his trunks along.

Deputies picked the carefree duo up after a neighbor put in a call that two runaway boys were living alone in a shack.

"The first thing we did when we got to the jail was eat a good hot meal," they said happily.

Deputies turned the two over to juvenile authorities for safe passage home.

Suds Fly as Train and Truck Tangle

BEER ON THE BREEZE—Kegs of beer rolled in all directions at 2:30 yesterday afternoon when a Grand Trunk Railroad train hit a beer truck at the crossing near Oakland and Sanderson streets. The truck driver, Richard L. Fuller, 23, of 5200 Pine Knob

Rd., Independence Township, told police he did not see or hear the crossing signals. He was uninjured. A flying keg damaged a car driven by Rosemary Spencer, 38, of 540 Amberwood, Pontiac Township, as she waited at the crossing. She too was not hurt.

UAW Revises Contract Terms

Ford Reply Expected to Rewritten Demands for Fringe Benefits

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. today was expected to give its answer to the United Auto Workers Union's rewritten demands on Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB).

The union broke the routine of the talks yesterday by revising the language of its SUB program "to fit into the contract."

It was the first indication that negotiators were seriously discussing any important issues in the lagging talks aimed at reaching new contracts between the auto industry's "Big Three" and the union.

It was believed likely the union would make similar changes in its proposals in talks with General Motors and Chrysler Corp. in the near future. GM and Chrysler both were scheduled to meet with the union again today, but "no progress" was reported by negotiators at either company yesterday.

Kenneth Bannon, director of the UAW negotiators at Ford, said the "new language" was drafted by the union during a recess in the talks yesterday. After several more hours of negotiating, the talks were broken off to give the company negotiators more time to look over the new language.

One company spokesman said the new language should not be taken seriously.

"It is just the same proposal in different language," the spokesman said. "The union apparently is just stalling for more time."

Bannon agreed it was not a "new proposal."

"This puts our SUB proposal into contract language," he said. "We are seeking changes to simplify the administration of the SUB program."

He refused to elaborate.

New Car Dealer Opens in Pontiac

Today, Friday and Saturday are being celebrated as the official opening of Russ Dawson Motors, 232 S. Saginaw St. The new local dealership will handle Lincoln, Mercury, Edsel, and English Ford.

Branch Manager of the distributorship is Anthony Brinza. Dawson has several other agencies in the Detroit area.

As part of the opening festivities, free pony cart rides for children will be offered today and Friday, from 3 to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Faces Hearing in Theft of Grandmother's Safe

Paul J. Carry, 19, of 194 Perry St., accused of stealing a safe from his grandmother, waived examination on a charge of burglary yesterday and was bound to Oakland County Circuit Court.

Carry is accused of taking the safe on the night of July 18 from the home of Susan Carry, 236 Judson St. It contained stocks, bonds and valuable papers.

Another suspect, Robert C. Woodham, 22, of 1942 N. Perry St., was cleared by police and released.

SECOND SET OF TWINS — Jim and Mary Lou Stelt, of 343 Tilmor Dr., Waterford Township, are convinced now that all good things come in pairs. The Stelts feel this way after Mary Lou delivered their second set of twins, this time baby girls, at Pontiac General Hospital Monday. In February of 1955 the Stelts greeted baby boys. clinging on a mattress with a tommygun on his lap.

He growled that the Americans had cost him heavily by sending troops to support President Chamoun.

"Why don't you let us end this thing instead of making it worse?" he asked. "You see that gasoline station there? That's mine. I used to take in $600 a month there. For 75 days now, I haven't made a penny."

"You see these boys with me? They are all taxi drivers. They used to make up to $10 a day. Now they get nothing."

"Each of us has five or six children, but we have to leave our families every night to come here and guard our homes."

The talk turned to the American forces in Lebanon. Someone mentioned that 16 American planes had been shot by small arms fire from rebels near Tripoli, in north Lebanon.

"Saeb Salam has ordered us not to shoot at those planes," one of the guards said. "Otherwise the Marines would soon learn that Basta boys can shoot too."

These men have cleared pro-government snipers out of their own area and have consolidated their positions. They have strict orders from Salam not to shoot unless absolutely necessary, both to save ammunition and to avoid provoking incidents. The area is much quieter now than during the riotous early days of the rebellion, when pitched battles were daily occurrences.

Just before the curfew, we heard an explosion a few hundred yards from Salam's house. Another sounded after midnight, and in the early morning came the sharp rattle of machine-gun fire. But compared with the early days of the revolt, it was a quiet night. As we talked to another group of guards near Salam's house, one wheeled around, pointed his gun toward the darkness and barked, "Halt!" We could barely make out a hooded figure cowering against the wall.

Two guards moved toward the spot.

"What's the password? Who are you? Speak or we'll shoot."

A woman sobbed. "Please don't shoot me," she pleaded, pulling her shawl across her face. "I was only bringing this jacket to Ali. I was afraid he might catch cold."

The guard named Ali brusquely yanked the jacket from his wife's hand and muttered something in embarrassment. The little woman trotted back into the darkness.

We moved on up and down stone staircases, through muddy alleys, in and out of houses, visiting barricades at every strategic point. At every turn the words "Abou Halmous" came in handy.

Contempt Vote Delay Rapped

Probers Want to Know Why No Action Taken Against Goldfine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some members of the House influence-investigating subcommittee today chafed at the delay in voting to recommend a contempt of Congress citation for Boston millionaire Bernard Goldfine.

Rep. John J. Flynn Jr. (D-Ga.) said he "can't understand" what is holding up subcommittee action against presidential assistant Sherman Adams' gift-giving friend.

Rep. John B. Bennett (D-Mich.) said Goldfine should be cited promptly. He said the subcommittee has "nothing left to do" in the case but vote.

At the same time, a House armed services subcommittee headed by Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) continued closed-door sessions on whether Adams brought improper influence to bear to get the Army to refund a $41,284 penalty on a cloth contract.

Hebert said hearings on the refund granted last year to Raylaine Wordestad, Inc., of Manchester, N. H., might run into next week.

Influence-Investigating Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) excused Goldfine as a witness last Thursday after giving him a final chance to answer 23 carefully-worded questions about his involved financial dealings.

The generous textile tycoon replied—as he had repeatedly in the face of contempt citation threats—that the questions were not relevant to the subcommittee's investigation of his alleged influence-for-favors relationship with Adams. Harris adjourned the hearings indefinitely.

The Day in Birmingham

Civil Air Patrol Cadets Will Greet Norwegians

BIRMINGHAM — Civil Air Patrol cadets of the Birmingham squadron will greet 12 guests from Norway tomorrow morning at Selfridge Field.

The young Norwegians are touring this country, visiting CPA squadrons and exchanging information on how the flying units operate here and abroad.

A busy schedule will open Saturday morning with a bus tour of Detroit. A dance at 8:30 p.m. in the Birmingham Community House will end the day.

Sunday the groups will be guests at the Naval Air Station, Grosse Ile, for church services, a tour of the base and lunch. Later, Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Granger of Walnut Lake, will host the group at a picnic and swimming party.

A Ford Motor Company tour and drive-in movie will highlight Monday. The visiting cadets will leave Tuesday to be guests of the Webberville unit.

Lt. Col. Richard Nelson is general chairman of the local program with Capt. William Teasel, Birmingham squadron commanding officer, in charge of placing guests with host families.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wright represent the Birmingham Cadet's Parents Club in the social and recreational program.

The Birmingham Community House will remain open during August. Although there will be fewer activities, house facilities will be available to all daytime groups.

Except for special requests, the house will be open for evening programs on Wednesday only, according to Mrs. Effie Schaffer, house director.

The Senior Women's and Men's groups will continue their weekly sessions. The ladies, however, are dropping their Red Cross sewing program until fall.

Robert Girardin, Birmingham recreation director, has asked John O'Gorman, W. Coit Ale and Norman Wolfe to serve on the advisory budget committee for the recreation program.

O'Gorman, commission representative to the Recreation Board and committee chairman, said the group is making weekly surveys of all activities as they are related to the budget.

"As much as we hate to do it, any program that is not pulling its own weight financially will have to be discontinued," he said. "Our budget has been cut and we can't continue any activity in the red through lack of interest."

Grover Serenetz, Birmingham's city engineer, said today bids for the 1958 sidewalk repair program will be sought early next month. The city will be responsible for approximately 11,520,000 square feet of sidewalk replacement with an additional 7,630 square feet assessed against property owners.

The Engineering Department is making a study of areas without walks to determine their needs. In some sections, Serenetz pointed out, construction costs will be almost prohibitive. He said high banks adjacent to the sidewalk area would make the additional expense of retaining walls necessary, throwing the cost far out of line.

Mrs. Charles C. Wright Service for Mrs. Charles C. (Elizabeth) Wright, 81, of 341 Westwood Dr., Birmingham, will be held Friday at the Ross & Son Funeral Home, Brownsville, Pa. Burial will be in the Bridgeport Cemetery, according to the Huntington Funeral Home.

Mrs. Wright died Tuesday in Pontiac of arteriosclerosis.

Surviving are a son, Joseph F. of Birmingham; a daughter, Mrs. Richard Skales of Birmingham; and three brothers, all in Pennsylvania.

Elementary Grades Bus Policy Same

There will be no change in last year's Waterford Township Board of Education policy concerning bus transportation of children in kindergarten and the first six grades, who live more than a mile from school.

Though an error yesterday, it was reported that there would be a change in the policy which provides that these children be transported to school.

A change was made in the transportation policy concerning pupils in grades 7 through 12, and now only pupils outside a mile and one half radius will be picked up. Formerly the radius was one mile.

St. Joseph Changes Hospital Visiting Hours

Due to the crowded conditions at St. Joseph's Hospital, visiting hours have been temporarily changed to 2 to 4 and 7 to 8 p.m. daily effective today. They were 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. previously.

A spokesman for the hospital said the old hours would be restored when patient occupancy lowered from the present 104 per cent capacity.

School Board to Pass Budget

Expect Group to OK Austerity Plan Proposed by Superintendent

The Pontiac Board of Education will adopt its 1958-59 budget at its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

The board is expected to adopt an austerity budget presented to it this spring by the superintendent.

A major item on the agenda will be a discussion on how to finance the next step in its school construction program.

Planned for the next year are additions to two junior high schools, a new elementary school and an addition to another elementary.

The budget allows very little money for new construction and the board is expected to consider borrowing up to $2 million.

Another item will be a progress report on Northern High School now under construction.

Vocal Program Slated by Waterford Church

The Claiborne Brothers Quartet of South Gate, Calif., will present a vocal program at the Donelson Baptist Church, Elizabeth Lake at Tilden, Waterford Township, tomorrow night beginning at 7:30.

The foursome which makes recordings of Gospel songs on the Corner Stone label, all are captains by rank in the Sky Pilot organization.

The program is open to the public free of charge.

ROMEO — The Second Baptist Church Chorus, directed by Sherman South, will sponsor a religious music festival at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Romeo Community Youth and Civic Center.

Vocal groups and soloists from Detroit, Port Huron, Windsor and Romeo will participate. Special features will include piano solos, recitations and choral numbers.

Vocalists coming from Detroit to take part in the concert will be the True Light Baptist Church Chorus, the Allen Bradley Singers, the Bulah Comforters and the Masadonia Male Chorus.

Solos will be sung by Ernest Bates of Port Huron, Arthur McDowell of Windsor, Ida Johnson of Detroit and Aubrey McKenzie and Karen K. Brooks, both of Romeo.

Miss Marie Clark of Romeo, will be featured in several selections, including a recitation, a piano solo and a poem.

The children's group of the Second Baptist Church will sing several numbers, and Michael and Sherryl South, both of Romeo, will be featured in a vocal duet.

The concert is open to the public.

Firm Says It Will Move If Incorporation Passes

By JOEL RIFFA
Suburban News Editor

Amid threats by the National Twist Drill & Tool Co., the Rochester area's largest employer, that it will move out if the people vote to incorporate as a city, more than 350 persons showed up at the Rochester Community High School gymnasium to hear the issue batted around by two panels, pro and con, in a public information forum.

The debate was sponsored by the Rochester Junior Chamber of Commerce. It pitted three speakers against incorporation and three in favor of it.

Voting will take place Aug. 5, at which time the electorate will decide whether to incorporate four and one-half square miles of Avon Township and the slightly more than one square mile village of Rochester as a city. There are approximately 6,200 people in the area, with about 4,900 to 5,000 living in the village.

The opposition to incorporation comes mainly from residents of the township area involved, or the fringe area, as it is called. Their main objections is fear of higher taxes.

Overshadowing the debate last night was the announcement by Twist Drill President Howard L. McGregor Jr. that his firm would move its plant out of the city if the incorporation proposal is adopted.

Expected higher tax rates levied by the city would make operation at its 6841 N. Rochester Rd. site, in the present township, prohibitive, he said.

Twist Drill normally employs about 2,000 persons.

The discussion, moderated by Donald Hays, Jaycee president, and designed to answer questions in the minds of the voter, led off with 5-minute opening remarks by each member of the panels. An audience question-and-answer period followed.

Taking the affirmative were Roscoe R. Martin, village attorney; James C. Hill, village councilman, and Dr. Glenn Brooks, a Rochester dentist and candidate for the Charter Commission.

They were opposed by John O'Donnell, Ford Motor Co. industrial relations representative, who is a resident of Rochester; Joseph A. Parisi Jr., of Lansing, director of the Michigan Township Assn., and Clarence Cadieux, chief accountant for Twist Drill and a member of the Area Fact Finding Committee organized to fight incorporation.

Martin, the leadoff speaker, said the incorporation proposal was made following a study by the J. L. Jacob's Co. of Chicago, a municipal consulting firm hired by the village.

The firm's 34-page report recommended incorporation, Martin said. The only exception to its recommendations in the present petition is the exception of the South Hill area from the proposed city, he said.

This area, which extends just past Avon road, was dropped because of very strong opposition from residents living in it, he stated.

Martin also said cost of providing water and sewage facilities to these residents was prohibitive.

In answer to critics who have complained that the city wouldn't give them their money's worth in services, Martin presented a charter comparing the present village's operating expenses to those of the township.

Under the 1958-59 fiscal year budget of $332,290, the village has 28 full-time employees, he said. The township, on the other hand, has a budget of $206,000 while employing six full-time people, he said.

Cadieux, who spearheaded the opposition, also presented a series of charts to show comparisons between taxes on a village home and those on a similar one in the township.

Village residents are taxed at the rate of $17 per each $1,000 of assessed valuation compared to the $2.13 per $1,000 in the township, he said.

On a $5,000 home in the village the present tax would be $85, he said, while in the township it would be $10.65.

Cadieux pointed to tax charts on two "well run" cities, Royal Oak and East Detroit, showing that city rates are even higher than those of a village.

After incorporation, fringe area homes would be reassessed to bring them up to those in the present village, he said. The anticipated tax increase on a fringe area home is 44 per cent, Cadieux stated.

Hill pointed out that the township residents would benefit by equipment already owned by the city, which would be able to handle the expanded area with few additions.

Parisi said in almost all cases of city incorporation, the new city has raised taxes. The people should get all the facts, he said, to determine whether their area would be better off as a city.

They should try to determine whether incorporation would scare off industry and whether the proposed city area has enough industry to form a tax base capable of supporting a city form of government.

The panelists answered questions from the floor for more than an hour before the forum was adjourned.

man. They were opposed by (bottom, from left) Clarence Cadieux, chief accountant for the National Twist Drill & Tool Co.; Joseph A. Parisi, executive director of the Michigan Township Assn.; Rex Bebout, attorney for Avon Township, and John O'Donnell, Ford Motor Co. industrial relations representative and Rochester resident. Bebout acted as adviser to the opposition group.

94th Annual Session to Open July 31

Interdenominational Camp Meeting Set

ROMEO — The 94th annual session of the Interdenominational Simpson Park Camp Meeting will open July 31 at the park, at Camp Ground road, near Romeo.

It will be in operation through Aug. 10, according to the Rev. Rex M. Dixon, camp president.

There will be three preaching services daily, conducted by noted ministers from all parts of the world. One of them, the Rev. Samuel Bortorian, called the "Billy Graham of the East," is a native of Lebanon who was converted in Jerusalem. He speaks four languages and preached extensively in Egypt before coming to America.

Dr. C. Philip Hinerman of the Park Avenue Methodist Church in Minneapolis, Minn., also will preach daily as will the Rev. Ford R. Philpot, a dynamic young evangelist from Kentucky.

Howard Whitmore will be song leader and soloist and Dan Greer will be organist. His wife, Jean, will play the piano. Greer is a minister of youth at the First Methodist Church in Fairfield, Ill.

Miss Gertrude Cooper will direct the children's work program, which attracted more than 200 between the ages of 12 and 23 last year. Study sessions will feature the ABC's of holiness and a forum of stated topics.

High point of the camp meeting will be missionary day Aug. 5 in which three interdenominational missionary societies will be represented.

At 10 a.m. the Kentucky Mountain Holiness Assn. will have charge of the service, and at 2 p.m. the World's Gospel Mission will preside. The Oriental Missionary Society will conduct the 7:30 service.

A new girl's dormitory to house 48 girls was built this year. Two dormitories which can house 44 boys were completed four years ago.

Another new addition this year is the spacious book store to be operated by Dickson Bible and Book House of Ferndale.

Animals will be ready for judging by 11 a.m. Bulls will be exhibited first.

A picnic lunch from 11:30-12:30 will precede the showmanship classes for boys and girls.

O. S. Foster, former Lakeland farm manager, will be the judge.

Skin Divers in Area, Flag Warns Boats

Boat operators should pay special attention to this flag. It may save a fine, or even a life.

Red, with a white stripe running through it diagonally, the flag means that a skin diver is down in the area. It's usually mounted on a small buoy or the mast of a boat.

Michigan this year became the 17th state to adopt the flag, recognized internationally as the skin diver insignia, when the Legislature amended the state's motor boat law, enacted in 1957, to read:

"Any person diving or submerging in any waterway with the aid of a diving suit or other mechanical diving device may place a buoy in the water near the point of submergence.

"The buoy shall bear a red flag, not less than 14 inches by 16 inches with a 3 1/4-inch white stripe running from one upper corner to a diagonally lower corner. The buoy shall be in place only while actual diving operations are in progress."

Anyone who has ever participated in the fast-growing sport of skin diving will appreciate this law, says Bill Periard, chief diving instructor at the Pine Lake skin diving center in West Bloomfield Township.

The roar of a boat overhead is a frightening thing to a submerged diver, he said.

Boat operators should stay at least 90 feet away from the flag, according to Periard.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE FLAG — Dick Beckman, a member of the Michigan Aqua Squadron, of Oakland County, and pretty Sharon Moshier, student skin diver, hold official diver's flag used to warn boats that diver is down. The flag was adopted this year by the Michigan Legislature, making it unlawful for boats to go in areas where it is displayed. Beckman, 28, is a diving instructor for the West Bloomfield Boys' Club skin diving class at Pine Lake. Sharon, 19, of Keego Harbor, is taking diving instructions so she can teach girls the art of skin diving.

Hal Boyle Writes:

'I'll Never Speak to You Again'-She Didn't

NEW YORK (AP)—It's a wise woman who avoids positive declarations and an all-or-nothing attitude.

The other day I overheard my young daughter, in a fit of pique, tell a small neighbor, "All right then, I won't be your friend—and I'll never play with you again."

Well, I had to laugh. It always makes me chuckle when I see a member of the feminine sex get up so high on a horse she doesn't know how to get down.

It reminds me of the sad fate of Mrs. Barnes.

The story begins about 40 years ago. Mrs. Barnes and her husband had eight children.

Barnes was a cheerful soul, just this side of shiftlessness. His wife, who came from what she claimed was a better family, was prideful and ambitious. She was always after her husband to get a better job and make more money so they could live in a finer neighborhood. Morning and night she scolded him.

One night Barnes, who had stopped for a couple of beers on the way home, suddenly interrupted her in the middle of a long complaint:

"You got a mouth like a buzz saw. Don't you ever give it a rest?"

Startled, Mrs. Barnes glared at him. Her lips firmed in a thin line.

"Unless you apologize for that unkind remark, Mr. Barnes," she said sternly, "I'll never speak to you the rest of my life."

"Well, I ain't about to apologize, Mrs. Barnes," he replied. Mrs. Barnes was a strong-minded woman, and her word was her bond. Day after day went by—and she spoke to her husband not at all. And he didn't speak to her.

At the start of this strange duel of silence Barnes felt uneasy and repentant. Several times he was on the verge of apologizing. Then one night it dawned on him how much more peaceful and restful his life had become. All at once he realized what a good thing he had—and from then on he was determined never to lose it.

Barnes, knowing he was safe from rebuttal, took to baiting his wife. Whenever he found a derogatory story about women in the newspaper, he would read it aloud, then say to one of the children (in time there were 11 instead of 8):

"Jim, no woman in this world is worth the powder to blow her out of it."

And Mrs. Barnes, hearing, would stab a needle viciously into her sewing. But pride held her helpless.

After 10 years Barnes caught pneumonia one winter's day. On his deathbed, surrounded by his 11 weeping offspring with his wife hovering in the background, Barnes reared up and said loud and clear:

"These are your pa's last words, young'uns. Tell your ma the last 10 years have been the happiest of my life, and I sure am grateful to her."

Then he fell back on the bed and died, smiling.

Mrs. Barnes had the undertaker lay him out in the house. According to neighborhood gossip, she talked to him for three days and nights without stopping. But Barnes never heard a word and still had the smile on his face when they buried him.

Moral: It's terribly unsatisfying to try to punish someone and then find out you've actually done him a favor.

Lebanon Heat Weighs Heavily on Idle GIs

By RUSSELL JONES

BEIRUT (UPI) — It can get hot in Lebanon. Even in the shade of an olive grove, while the guns are silent.

"Hey, mister newspaperman, tell my Congressman to get me outta here. It's too damned hot."

The speaker was Sgt. S. E. Waldon of Washington, D.C., and Delta Company, 187th Airborne Infantry Division.

He squatted in the meager shade of an olive tree south of Beirut Airport. Although it was still morning, the temperature was over the hundred mark.

"What are we doing here anyway?" the sergeant asked. "This sitting still is a job for straightlegs (infantry). Jump guys are supposed to jump and not just sit around sucking our thumbs."

Waldon's gripe was a typical reaction of men of this crack outfit, most of whom are professional soldiers and combat veterans. They arrived here Saturday after being pulled off maneuvers in Germany, have been on the go ever since and are ready to go somewhere else.

A real expert on heat, Sgt. Flapito Avegallo, of Leone, Samoa, agreed with Waldon.

"I thought Samoa was hot, but it ain't anything like this," said Avegallo as he cut this correspondent's hair. He doubles as company barber.

Fifty per cent of this company had pulled guard duty, but so far no one had seen anything more menacing than troops of Lebanese kids pulling at sleeves and bayonets and crying, "Gimme cigarette for papa."

The other half of the company was off at the beach. "It's cooler at the beach," said Company Commander Capt. Robert S. Cook, of Tacoma, Wash.

"The only trouble is that it takes the men an hour to get there and an hour to get back. And they come back as hot as when they started."

Cook, a twice-wounded veteran of Korea fighting, has two major preoccupations, aside from carrying out his mission here: To keep his men from getting sunstroke and to make sure they follow anti-fraternization orders.

First Lt. Thomas R. Finley, of Bandana, Ky., Cook's executive officer, helps keep the company operating normally. Every man of Delta Company, like every man of the 187th Division, carries ammunition, iron rations, personal gear and other equipment for three days of fighting and marching without support.

Arcade in Vienna Center for Shops, Aids Pedestrians

VIENNA (UPI) — One of the most popular spots in Vienna is an underground arcade called the Opernpassage (opera underpass). It is in the heart of the city, beneath the busy Ringstrasse thoroughfare and next to Vienna's famed State Opera House.

The circular arcade beneath the bustle of the capital shows signs of a strong American influence.

It is served by seven escalators, and contains among other things an American-style snack bar run by an Austrian who lived for some years in the United States. There also are liquor and candy stores, a hairdresser's establishment, numerous shops showing women's clothes and accessories and the office of a bus line.

The Jonas-Grotte — named for Mayor Franz Jonas of Vienna — is a favorite rendezvous not only because it's centrally located, but also because it is warm in winter and cool in summer.

An estimated 200,000 persons use the underground passage daily, to shop, date or just get across the intersection above it. Before it was completed recently, police said about 80,000 persons crossed the "Ring" on the surface, snarling traffic.

The arcade is becoming so successful that the city council has ordered work to start on a second.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, IN THE Probate Court for the County of Oakland, Juvenile Division.

In the matter of the petition concerning Howard Keith and Mary Ruth Green, minors. Cause No. 19587.

To Howard Green, father of said children.

Petition having been filed in this Court alleging that the present whereabouts of the father of the said minor children are unknown and said children are dependent upon the public for support, and that said children should be placed under the jurisdiction of the Court.

In the name of the people of the State of Michigan, you are hereby notified that the hearing on said petition will be held at the Oakland County Service Center, in the City of Pontiac in said County, on the 19th day of August, A.D. 1958, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, and you are hereby commanded to appear personally at said hearing to make personal service hereof, this summons and notice shall be served by publication of a copy of one week previous to said hearing in The Pontiac Press, a newspaper printed and circulated in said County.

Witness, the Honorable Arthur E. Moore, Judge of the Court of said County of Pontiac in said County, this 21st day of July, A.D. 1958.

ARTHUR E. MOORE, Judge of Probate, GEORGINA E. MCINTOSH, Probate Register, Juvenile Division, July 24, 1958.

NOTICE: The Zoning Board of Independence Township, Oakland County, Michigan, will hold a Public Hearing on August 12, 1958, at 7:30 P.M. at the Township Hall, Clarkston, Michigan, to consider the following change in Township Zoning District:

To rezone the following described areas to Residence-1:

Commencing at the NW corner of Sec. 4; th Ely on N Town line to the NE cor of Sec 5; th S on the E line of Sec 4; th E on the E and W line of Sec 16 to the E line of Sec 16; th S on the E line of Sec 16 and E1 to the SE cor of Sec 11; th W on S line of Sec 21 and Sec 20 to the SW cor of Sec 20, except that portion of Sec 20 within the limits of the Village of Clarkston; th S on the E line of Sec 20 to the center line of US-10 HWY; th NWly along the center line of US-10 HWY to the W line of Sec 18; th N on the W line of Sec 18, E1 and E2 to point of beginning, except such areas in said described land as presently zoned Commercial and are shown on the Zoning Map of the Township of Independence as revised May 8, 1956.

And also to consider the repeal of Sub-section 4, 5 and 6 of Section 6.1 of Section 6, Ordinance 1 District, and the adoption of the following amendment thereto:

The provisions of this section may be waived by the Board of Appeals, and use of land in a Residence 1 District for Public Hospitals (but not including institutions for the care of the feeble minded or insane), community buildings, private country clubs (operated on a restricted membership basis only), fraternal lodges, or other similar community organization buildings, may be authorized, provided there is filed with the Board of Appeals the written consent of 65% of the owners of the land area within 2000 feet of the external land boundaries of said proposed site, not including the owners of said site, and 80% based on area of land of the owners of abutting property, and provided further that public notice of hearing of intention to grant said waiver, to be given in a newspaper circulated in said township not less than 7 days before final action thereon be taken by the Board of Appeals.

Ancient Battle Making News

Italy Starts Digging at Site of Hannibal's Victory Over Rome

WASHINGTON—After more than 2,000 years, the Battle of Cannae is still making news and influencing people.

The Italian government has lately started digging at the site of Hannibal's overwhelming defeat of the Romans in 216 B.C. It is hoped the extensive excavations will establish the exact location of the classic battle and bring to light more details on the period.

Such information would not only be of keen interest to historians and archeologists. It would provide a fresh sightseeing goal for visitors who are beginning to discover the appeal of classical scenes in Italy's long-neglected southeastern provinces.

The Cannae site lies about 10 miles west of the Adriatic seaport Barietta, in Apulia Province, says the National Geographic Society.

Authorities agree that the battle took place beside the river known as Aufidus in ancient times, and now called the Ofanto. The question as to which bank is still unsettled, however, with an added complication. The river has since shifted its course.

The Cannae engagement was a nearly decisive one in the second of the three Punic Wars fought between Carthage and Rome. The prologue opened in 218 B.C., when the Carthaginian general, Hannibal, crossed the Alps to carry the war into northern Italy. After winning a succession of victories there, he moved down the peninsula and met Rome's massed legions on the plain of Cannae.

As historians reconstruct the event, Hannibal planned his strategy with the weaker Gallic and Spanish troops in the forward center and veteran African forces making up the powerful wings extended toward the rear.

Rush Increase in SS Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP)—An across the board increase in Social Security benefits moved rapidly toward election year action in Congress today.

The House Ways and Means Committee reached all but final agreement on a flat 7 per cent boost in old age and disability payments, with a minimum $3 increase for all persons now receiving retirement checks.

For those workers not yet at retirement age, it would mean deduction of up to $25.50 more a year from their take-home pay because of a one-quarter per cent hike in the Social Security tax and enlargement of their taxable wage base from $4,200 to $4,800.

The committee reached informal agreement on the benefit hike and an accompanying tax increase after rejecting a proposal for a flat 10 per cent raise in benefits.

Some members, however, were hopeful the Senate would change House figures to bring the increase near the 10 per cent level. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark) said he hoped to have a completed bill ready by Monday for presentation to the House, where passage was regarded as certain.

The benefit increase probably would take effect next year along with the accompanying hike in the tax rate.

The committee plan also calls for a speedup in the schedule of periodic tax increases now provided under present law. It would move up from 1975 to 1969 the date when the maximum tax on workers and employers alike fall due, and raise the final tax rate from 4% to 4 1/2 per cent.

MAINE STUDIES IDEAS FOR SCHOOL CURRICULA

AUGUSTA, Me. (UPI) — The curriculum committee of the Maine State Principals' Association has proposed that traditional high school courses of study be abandoned.

The committee recommended that new categories be substituted for the traditional general, commercial and college entrance courses.

The new classifications would put high school students into three groupings: gifted students; average students, and slow learners.

The plan was taken under advisement by the association for further study. The committee said the change would "gear courses to the abilities of students."

Rise of Homicide in Ceylon Brings Call for Gallows

COLOMBO (UPI) — An alarming rise in Ceylon's homicide rate since the suspension of capital punishment two years ago has roused a loud cry for the return of the gallows.

In the first 120 days of this year, 212 persons were murdered in Ceylon. A new high in homicide was reached in April when 78 murder cases were reported, compared to 68 the previous April.

Ceylon's homicide rate climbed from 1.2 per day in 1952 to 1.44 per day in 1957, with part of the rise blamed on the suspension of capital punishment.

On the crest of a wave of agitation for abolition of capital punishment two years ago, the Ceylon government submitted a bill to the House of Representatives to suspend the death penalty for three years.

The House passed the bill, but it was turned down in the Senate. The justice ministry, however, issued special orders to carry out the decision of the lower body and the bill became effective.

The bill was reintroduced into the House this April and was passed. It then went to the Senate where it was passed by four votes.

During heated debate in the Senate it was pointed out that during the two years the death penalty had been suspended, Ceylon's homicide rate had actually increased greatly rather than dropping as some had predicted.

'Non-Sparking' Tools Do Spark, Navy Finds

NEW YORK — United States Navy researchers have found that explosions from sparks can be caused just as easily by tools made of "non-sparking" materials — such as copper — as by tools made of steel.

Their study shows also that metallic sparks can be caused by contact between non-sparking and sparking metals, and that impact is more dangerous as a source of ignition than is friction.

Hollywood Headlines
Signs Vittorio Gassman for Role in 'The Miracle'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD — Vittorio Gassman, the Italian actor once married to Shelley Winters, is headed in this direction to go before the cameras in "The Miracle" at Warner Bros. July 28. The handsome Gassman, who gave Shelley so many heartaches, hasn't been near Hollywood since they parted after a tempestuous battle.

This isn't all the signing Jack Warner is doing for "The Miracle." He has put Roger Moore, dashing English actor, under contract as Carroll Baker's leading man. Moore is a swash-buckling type, something on the order of Errol Flynn, and he was in Hollywood to play opposite Lana Turner some time ago.

Speaking of Flynn, I saw him in an old movie, "Don Juan," a few nights ago, and he certainly was the charm boy in those days.

Obviously Sol Siegel, production head of MGM, is banking on Tennessee Williams' new play, "Sweet Bird of Youth" which goes into production on Broadway in March of next year being a top hit. He's bought the motion picture rights before the play so much as opens.

Paul Newman, who will star in the stage vehicle for producer Cheryl Crawford and director Elia Kazan, is also pencilled in as the star of the motion picture. Since the movie won't be made until after the run of the play which could be 1961, by that time Paul and Jack Warner should have ironed out their difficulties.

I hardly had my eyes open when Jerry Lewis telephoned to tell me that he has signed Frank Tashlin as his partner for three pictures. "Frank will direct and write, and I'll star and produce," said the effervescent Jerry. "He directed Top Math Students Have Class at 7 A.M.

WHEAT RIDGE, Colo. (UPI) — The traditional campus course, the 8 a.m. class won't seem so bad to whizzes when they enter college this fall.

For the past school year, these Jefferson County seniors appeared at Wheat Ridge High daily at 7 a.m. — voluntarily. The "A" math students crammed a normal year's to 6 per cent.

instruction in solid geometry and trigonometry into the semester. Mathematics instructors from Colorado School of Mines, Colorado University and Denver University then gave them college-level instruction.

Nearly half the class won college scholarships. Jefferson County school officials are so pleased with the success of the 7 a.m. class for exceptional students that the policy will be continued.

THE CASE OF
THE SUICIDE NOTE

Sixteenth of a series

By DONALD J. SOBOL

"I heard the shot about 9:30," said Mathews, the secretary. "I found Mr. Southworth in his den exactly as you see him."

The famous playwright and Broadway producer was dead of a bullet fired from close range into his left temple. His left hand clutched a .38 revolver, his right held a pen with which he had apparently written the suicide note lying on the desk in front of him.

Leaning over the dead man's shoulder, Dr. Haledjian read: "I no longer possess the health and strength to perform the labors which once brought me joy."

I found Mr. Southworth in the den exactly as you see him.

I have received all the honors and riches any man has a right to expect in one lifetime. Now, before I become a burden to my daughter, Alice, I wish to depart this worldly theatre."

"Is this in Mr. Southworth's handwriting?" asked Haledjian. "I'm not an expert, sir, but it does resemble his," replied Mathews.

"How many persons have keys to the house?"
"I do, sir, and cook. Then there's Miss Alice, and Mr. Arnold."

"Who is he?"
"Mr. Arnold Southworth, a younger brother. He arrived from England for a visit and occupies the guest bedroom."
"Did the brothers ever quarrel?"
"On the contrary, they hit it off first rate. Mr. Arnold wanted Mr. Vernon to accompany him back to England this summer. When their parents were divorced, Mr. Arnold was reared in London by the father. Mr. Vernon remained with his mother in America."

"Did Vernon say he would go to England?"

"I don't believe he'd quite made up his mind. They discussed it again tonight, just before Mr. Arnold left for a dinner engagement."

"I shall be interested to hear Arnold's alibi for this evening," said Haledjian. "Vernon never wrote the suicide note."

HOW DID HALEDJIAN REACH HIS CONCLUSION?

"Labor," "honors," and "theatre," "America," would have written spelling preference. Vernon, the revealed an invariable English "hour," "honours," and "theatre," "la-".

Trapped in Closet,
2 More Tots Perish

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Two more children died yesterday from being trapped in a stifling clothes closet, bringing the total deaths to four.

The children were trapped when the handle fell off the door of the closet in which they were playing. When the mother, Mrs. Cardie McDade returned home Tuesday she found the four children trapped in the closet. Debra Joyce Moore, 3, and Tommy Allen Carr, 4, children by former marriages, were dead.

Carolyn Moore, 2, and Cloyce Moore, 6, were unconscious. They died yesterday in a Dallas hospital.

Son Joins Campaign

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh, Democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, concluded an interview by announcing that his chauffeur during his campaign would be his 19-year-old son, Gerald.

Lilly Fallah
to Marry Iran's Shah?

LONDON (AP)—Raven-haired Lilly Myhra Fallah has been summoned back to Tehran from an exclusive English finishing school, leaving behind a buzz of speculation that she will be the Shah of Iran's next queen.

Friends of the beautiful 18-year-old Iranian girl say she will fly to Paris next week to choose a trousseau for her wedding to the handsome 38-year-old monarch.

The friends say the wedding may be sometime in October.

For weeks, Lilly's secret has been kept at the Paddock Wood Finishing School, which lies among rolling heathland and is surrounded by lawns and flowers. There are 48 girls—mostly foreign—at the school.

"Only a few of us knew about Lilly and we did not think it good for the other girls to tell them," said the matron last night.

Would Limit Pickets

DETROIT (AP)—Attorneys for the Aurora Gasoline Co. Wednesday sought a circuit court injunction limiting pickets at the firm's struck Detroit refinery to five. Picketing was peaceful at the refinery Wednesday after cars of non-striking supervisory employees were stoned Tuesday.

Ernie Ford at Fair

DETROIT (AP)—Headline entertainers at the 109th Michigan State Fair, Aug. 29-Sept. 7, will be Tennessee Ernie Ford and Ricky Nelson.
