

Lindsay, Cavanagh Are Winners

Detroit Mayor Easy Victor in 2nd Term Bid

2-to-1 Margin Follows Most of Predictions; Turnout Tops Forecast

DETROIT (AP) — Incumbent Jerome P. Cavanagh lived up to most of pre-election predictions and overwhelmed challenger Walter C. Shamie by a margin of more than 2-1 in Detroit's mayoral race yesterday.

Complete but unofficial returns from the city's 1,000 precincts gave Cavanagh, who won his second term, 236,400 votes against Shamie's 144,852.

Shamie, a printing firm executive, conceded defeat in a congratulatory telegram to Cavanagh headquarters shortly before midnight.

The jubilant Cavanagh thanked Detroit's electorate in a statement "for the opportunity to continue to make this city forward to an even finer hour."

Vice President Hubert Humphrey phoned Cavanagh even before Shamie's concession to congratulate the mayor.

More than 440,000 of Detroit's 800,000 registered voters turned out in generally warm and sunny fall weather.

The turnout was slightly higher than the forecast of 425,000, made by election officials. In the last 12 years, voter turnout had averaged only 44.6 per cent.

In the Common Council race, former mayor Louis C. Miriani returned to city politics. Ousted in 1961 by Cavanagh, Miriani ran on 237,186 votes, in third place behind incumbent Council President Ed Carey with 264,756 and James Brickley with 242,649.

The Rev. Nicholas Hood, front runner of four Negro candidates among the 18 candidates for nine seats, was the only Negro elected. He will be only the second Negro to serve on the council.

Ousted was incumbent Thomas L. Poindexter, author of a so-called homeowners' rights ordinance, who had sought support from Protestant ministers at the only white Protestant in the council race.

Poindexter ran 10th. Another incumbent, Anthony J. Wierzbicki, also failed in his bid for reelection.

Detroit Voters OK Fluoride

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit voters in effect approved addition of fluoride to their water supply yesterday. The unofficial vote was 191,203 to 185,593.

The wording of the proposed charter amendment was such that a "yes" vote was a vote against fluoridation. Returns tabulated before midnight indicated an anti-fluoridation force were winning.

The Metropolitan Detroit Committee to Retain Fluoridation described the vote as "an early Christmas present for the children of Detroit."

The approval of fluoridation would allow the Common Council to carry through on its 1963 vote ordering fluoride to be added to the city water supply. More than 48,000 signatures had been gathered by opponents of fluoridation to force the issue on the ballot.

Pontiac Aide: No Conflict Anticipated

Despite an ordinance intended to prevent it, water drinkers in Pontiac will likely end up drinking fluoridated water.

At least, this is the initial response to the vote yesterday in Detroit approving fluoridation of that city's water.

Pontiac gets its water from Detroit through a contract signed before Detroit officials initiated action to fluoridate.

Despite Pontiac's anti-fluoridation ordinance, City Attorney Philip E. Rowston said he saw no conflict in Detroit fluoridating.

However, what to do with Pontiac's ordinance remains a question. Rowston said the ordinance would have to be studied and reevaluated.

Approved in a 1965 referendum, Pontiac's ordinance stipulates that "no person... shall add fluoride or any compounds of fluorine or cause fluoride or any compounds of fluorine to be added to the water supply of the city."

Rowston said the "no person" stipulation would probably be restricted to those within the city of Pontiac, namely city officials.

Thus, Detroit water officials would not be in violation of Pontiac's ordinance.

Event Tomorrow Luncheon Will Close UF Drive

A general victory luncheon is planned tomorrow to wrap up the 1965 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign.

Optimism is the word as volunteer workers prepare to gather at noon at the Pontiac Elks Temple to hear results of the drive to raise a record $875,000.

Yesterday a progress report made at the Women's Victory Luncheon disclosed that $682,289 had been raised so far, leaving $192,711 to reach the goal.

The breakdown on contributions secured to date by the various UF divisions includes: $404,922 industrial, $86,728 advance gifts, $151,455 commercial, $35,911 women's and special gifts of $3,275.

Mayor Loses in Sylvan Lake

Sylvan Lake Mayor E. V. Geizer was defeated in his bid for one of the two city council posts decided by voters yesterday.

Ousting the incumbent was Fred Crossman of 2461 Renfrew.

Retaining his council seat for another three-year term was John M. Hanson. He led the field of three candidates with 378 votes.

Crossman, an unsuccessful candidate in the November 1964 election, received 311 votes, while Geizer polled 261 votes.

ROYAL OAK FIRM

Geizer, 48, of 2714 Island Court, is president of Tech-Matic Specialties Inc., Royal Oak.

Earlier this year, Crossman, 45, attempted to unseat Councilman John D. McKinlay by challenging his eligibility in a circuit court suit.

The suit was dismissed in April by the late Circuit Judge Stanton G. Dondoro on the grounds that there was no cause for action.

Crossman contended that McKinlay didn't meet the residency requirements of the city charter. McKinlay had placed second in the election and Crossman third among the five candidates seeking two council posts.

A city resident for 16 years, Crossman is employed as an estimator with the Lorne Co., Inc.

Triumph Vaults GOP Liberal to Fore in Party

Tops Foe by 135,000 in NY; Governorships at Stake Go to Dems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican John V. Lindsay vaulted today to the front rank of the party whose campaign banner he shunned in winning election as mayor of New York City.

But while the liberal Lindsay was winning by a 135,000-vote margin in heavily Democratic New York City, Democrats were crushing Republican hopes with gubernatorial victories in New Jersey and Virginia.

After seven years as a Manhattan congressman and seven months as a mayoral campaigner, Lindsay triumphed over Democrat Abraham D. Beame — and became one of the Republican party's top officeholders.

Returns from all 5,908 election districts gave Lindsay 1,166,915.

See Stories, Pages B-6, B-7

Beame 1,039,721, and conservative candidate William F. Buckley 339,127.

Even before the New York election, there was talk that victory or narrow defeat would make Lindsay a man with presidential credentials in the GOP.

PULLOUT CHARGE
Beame charged that was Lindsay's aim, and said the Republican would not serve a full four-year term. Lindsay said he would—and seek reelection too.

In general, yesterday's scattered, off-year elections offered comeback-minded Republicans little help in their hunt for answers to the dilemma that was the legacy of 1964 presidential nominee Barry Goldwater.

Lindsay, who had refused to back Goldwater, seldom mentioned his GOP mayoral nomination.

He had the Liberal party's endorsement, too.

His running mates — both beaten by men on the Beame slate — were a Liberal and a Democrat.

Beame got a campaign hand from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and a last-minute endorsement from President Johnson.

Meanwhile in New Jersey, Gov. Richard J. Hughes, a Democrat, built the most massive gubernatorial landslide in state history crushing Republican

Youth, Shot in Head, Goes After Assailant

A 19-year-old Orion Township youth, struck in the head by a shot from a 22-caliber rifle, jumped from his parked car on Drahrner Road last night, wrested the gun from a man behind the car and chased the assailant down the road before losing him.

Robert O'Connor of 669 N. Long Lake told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies he was in the car with Josephine Zamora, 18, of 99 S. Johnson when the shot smashed through the left rear window about 11 p.m.

He was listed in satisfactory condition this afternoon at Pontiac General Hospital.

Deputies said the car was parked just off Drahrner in Addison Township about three tenths of a mile from Barr Road.

After the attacker fled, O'Connor drove off for assistance, but struck a tree off Drahrner near the Benedictine Novitate.

Sheriff's deputy Roy Earp said the girl was thrown through the windshield in the crash.

Father John from the Novitate took the two to the Orion Medical Center.

Both were transferred to Pontiac General Hospital where O'Connor was to undergo surgery this afternoon for removal of the bullet. She was treated for facial lacerations and released.

O'Connor described the assailant as about 5-foot-8, weighing 150 pounds and around 26 years old.

He said the attacker was struggling to reload the single action gun when O'Connor grabbed it.

Earp said deputies found an undischarged bullet 15 feet from the car, indicating the gun — said to be at least 20 years old — jammed when first fired.

The second shot entered the window at point-blank range, according to Earp, opening a hole one-half inch wide.

Cooling Trend Due Over Area Later Tonight

The sun will dart in and out among clouds in partly overcast skies tonight and tomorrow.

Temperatures will cool off somewhat tonight, the low falling mostly in the 40s. Highs will register 47 to 56 tomorrow. Partly cloudy and cool is Friday's forecast.

Morning westerly winds at 5 miles per hour will increase to 15 to 20 miles late today and shift to west to north-west tonight, then diminish slowly late tonight and tomorrow.

The low, prior to 8 a.m. today in downtown Pontiac, was 45. The mercury reading at 2 p.m. was 72.

HOPELESS CAUSE — Firemen from three departments yesterday afternoon were unable to stop this wind-fanned blaze which destroyed the home and possessions of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Booth at 4900 Baldwin, Orion Township. (See story on page B-10).

'Had to Do It,' Says Victim

"I didn't have any choice — I had to go after him."

In those words, a 19-year-old former football player and wrestler from Lake Orion Community High School told of his reaction last night when an assailant shot him in the head through a parked car window.

Robert O'Connor, a steamfitter's apprentice for a Rochester mechanical contractor, jumped from the car and wrestled the 22 single-shot rifle from the attacker.

"If that gun had been an automatic instead of a bolt action, I'd be dead," O'Connor said. "He was trying to load it again when I grabbed the gun."

The youth spoke from a hospital bed shortly before he was to undergo surgery for removal of the bullet.

His companion — 18-year-old Josephine Zamora — said the couple had heard "a sound" moments before the 22 slug ripped a half-inch hole in the left rear window of the car and slanted down into O'Connor's head.

"We thought it was just the leaves and the wind," she said.

"Then there was the shot and Bob said 'My God, No, No' and pushed open the door and grabbed the gun."

He chased the assailant on foot down Drahrner but was unable to catch him.

O'Connor's face bore the marks of a crash shortly after the shooting when his car slammed into a tree.

An ugly red-black bruise had swollen up around his right eye. Below it ran a line of black stitches.

Killing Suspect Still Is Sought

DETROIT (AP) — Police today sought 21-year-old Najeb Kadri for questioning in the fatal stabbing Monday of Julie Pasanen, 18, his estranged wife's baby sitter.

The Homicide Bureau said Kadri, a busboy, had not been seen since he left his Dearborn place of employment Monday at an hour prior to Miss Pasanen's slaying.

Miss Pasanen, stabbed at least a score of times, had been sitting for Mrs. Eileen Kadri's baby, Michael, 18 months, in the mother's apartment. Mrs. Kadri, 23, was at her job as a cafe hostess.

Police said that judging from the wounds suffered by Miss Pasanen, a Highland Park girl, the knife used to take her life was at least nine inches long.

Several young men acquaintances of Miss Pasanen were questioned and released. Police said there was no evidence against any of the group.

Cuban Refugee Flow

Rough Seas, Slow Talks Stall Exodus

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Stormy seas and sluggish U.S. Cuban negotiations slowed the progress today of the Cuban refugee exodus through Fidel Castro's sugar cane curtain.

Small craft warnings were flying over the 50-mile wide Florida Straits. Weathermen said 25 knot winds whipped up 10 foot seas today in the so-called "freedom channel."

The Coast Guard said it had reports of only two small boats enroute here today, one of them carrying only two people.

About 375 Cubans landed here yesterday, including two litter and two wheelchair cases. This brought the number of refugees fleeing their homeland since the open-door exodus began Oct. 7 to about 3,000.

In Washington, meanwhile, the U. S. State Department said negotiations for a refugee airlift were progressing, "but we have not yet completed an agreement."

be concluded some time soon," McCloskey said. He added the necessity of conducting the talks through the Swiss Embassy in Havana was time consuming.

Cuban exiles and some U.S. officials hoped an airlift agreement would be reached early this week, possibly curtailing the dangerous and haphazard small boat exodus from the Cuban port of Camariaca.

New arrivals estimate there are 3,500 Cuban malcontents awaiting at Camariaca to board 200 small boats ready to cross the treacherous straits.

Skippers of the small boats that have been ferrying refugees to freedom reported Castro militiamen "forced" them to take waiting refugees aboard and would not let them return to the Cubans they had come to rescue.

Traffic Heavy in Mosherville Post Office

MOSEHVILLE (AP) — A collision between a school bus and a car Tuesday started a chain reaction involving two more cars and the post office, police reported.

Six persons suffered minor injuries and were treated and released. The school bus and the first car, plus a parked car, wound up inside the post office of Mosherville, southwest of Jackson.

This is how officers said it went:

The school bus, driven by Mrs. Betty Jean Hamrick of Litchfield, collided with the car driven by Claude Chamberlain, 50, of Mosherville.

THROUGH WINDOW The bus smashed through the post office's front window. Chamberlain's car hit a parked car, bounced off and also crashed into the post office.

The parked car in turn hit another parked car which also was pushed into the post office. Chamberlain was charged with failure to yield the right of way, police said.

Even the Cautious Find Death Near in Viet Nam's 'Sick War'

By TOM TIEDE
DA NANG, Viet Nam—(NEA)—The Marines called her the soda water girl. Each afternoon, she was there peddling cold drinks to the soldiers near her village.
She'd giggle and blush and steer her way into a group saying, "You buy? You buy?"
About nine years ago, they figured. And such a cute kid.

Drive Begun for Dog-Sitters

Canine League Plans for National Register

LONDON (AP)—The National Canine Defense League has opened a drive to round up dog-sitters.
Said a league spokesman: "The demand for dog-sitters is tremendous. We've decided to set up a national register."
"We'd like to see suitable dog-sitters in every city in the country. In the suburbs too, for that matter."
"Charges will be a matter between the sitter and the dog owner."

"Dogs get lonesome just like human beings," the spokesman explained. "When owners are away they often want to be let out and let back in."
IST VOLUNTEER
One of the first volunteers was Mrs. Joyce Hill of nearby Chessington.
She got work immediately, sitting up with Kim, a yellow Labrador, whose owners are in London, and Tuffy, a Corgi whose owners went off for the weekend.
Mrs. Hill did the sitting at her own home, but she's willing to go to pet lovers' homes when she can.

Dog-sitters must be over 18. The league spokesman said that some early recruits have indicated that they will send their fees to the league to help needy or homeless dogs.

Fall Gales Block Scandanavia Ships

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Autumn gales paralyzed coastal shipping in Denmark and southern Sweden last night and flooded several towns in Jutland.
A man was killed when a gust of wind hurled him in front of a car at Esbjerg, Jutland.
Dikes broke at several points along the North Sea Coast of Jutland and waves tore down part of a cliff and pulled a life-saving station into the sea.

One hot day, as eight thirsty men clustered about, the child tossed her rich tresses and began to finger something tied to her waist.
HOMEMAKE BOMB
It was a homemade bomb. She purposely blew herself up. And six Americans went with her.
They die daily like that here. In jungles. In bars. And in vain.
It is a cruel death, without chance to defend and without dignity.
BOTTLED ACID
A bottle of Coca Cola may contain acid. Fresh fruits may be injected with snake venom. Ice from drinks may be filled with silvers of glass. A babe in arms may be roped up with TNT.

The men call it "sick war." Sadistic. Sneaky. But effective.
Not long ago, a Marine walking on a footpath near here was cut down by the steel jaws of a giant bear-trap.
It was two feet wide; the teeth three inches long. Four companions were unable to pry open the rusted and rancid pincers.
SHOT IN STOMACH
Another time, a trooper was shot in the stomach by a common rat trap. A thin trip wire was the trigger and the snapping of the spring struck the head of a 30-caliber shell aimed high.

No one is safe. No time is safe. Even the cautious can die.
And they do.
An infantryman walking into a cave in the central highlands was feeling his footsteps, wary of the variety of dirt traps the Viet Cong plant.
FEELING ON NECK
Suddenly, something from above lashed at his cheek. Something else at his shoulder. A third something at his neck.
He had walked into a curtain of snakes tied, like sinister stalactites, from the cave's ceiling.

Hungry, angry, frustrated, they bit the soldier furiously. Bamboo kraits, they call them. Deadly poisonous.
Yet, what's a man to do?
MALAYSIAN GATE
Had the snake victim explored only the roof of the cave, the possibility is that he may have been skewered by the snapping of a "Malaysian gate"—razor-sharp bamboo stakes fastened to a bent branch which whips out savagely at the tugging of a trip wire.
Or he may have stepped on any one of a hundred designs of spike traps. The "crow's foot," for example; a four-pronged affair which, no matter how placed, has one jagged stilettos sticking straight up.

Other stakes and nails are buried in earth holes and covered with unspeakable poison. One particularly nasty breed is designed to spread when it enters a foot and tear bone and flesh apart.
Then there is a wide variety of bullet mines—ingenious devices which, when stepped on, will push a cartridge onto the point of a nail and explode.
DUGOUT TRAPS
And, to be sure, there are the dugout traps... small holes in the earth with punji stakes or larger holes with spears.

A man who fell into a six-foot-deep "tiger trap" here died agonizingly when he landed on a stake which entered his body at the thigh and protruded a foot above his shoulder.
They spread small fish hook gaffs which require major surgery to remove. They build large crossbows with eight-foot arrows which, when triggered by force of wind, can knock down a helicopter.
They concoct mines out of old batteries, poison out of human

2 House Hearings on Ionia Are Slated

LANSING (AP)—The House Mental Health Committee Tuesday announced it will hold public hearings at Lansing Nov. 30 and Dec. 7 on operation of the Ionia State Hospital.
Present laws on commitment of mental patients also will be reviewed, said Rep. F. Charles Raap, D-Muskegon, committee chairman.
The investigation of the hospital was touched off by several suicides there recently.

Deadline Extended for Tornado Victims

DETROIT (AP)—Victims of the Palm Sunday tornadoes in eight southern Michigan counties have another six months to apply for federal disaster loans, the Small Business Administration announced Tuesday.
The deadline for persons who suffered damage to their homes, businesses or other properties was extended until next April 30.

CRUDE IMPLEMENTS OF WAR — The inventive Viet Cong have devised the most fiendish of Oriental traps into which Americans often step. A sampling, (from the left), includes (1) a trap which operates when the foot is withdrawn; (2) an American-made rat trap which triggers a bullet waist-high; (3) the Malaysian Gate — bamboo spears swing down from hut or cave and skewer the victim; (4) common nails coated with urine; and (5) the Crow's Foot — one of the prongs will jut straight up.

Road-Building Program OK'd

7-Year State Plan
Calls for $1.3 Billion

LANSING (AP) — The Highway Commission Tuesday approved a seven-year road-building program calling for the spending of $1.3 billion in Michigan by the end of 1972.

Director Howard Hill said the construction, schedule calls for the completion of the current five-year program at the more than $250-million-per-year spending pace during the next two years.

This would be followed, Hill said, by a third five-year program to cost $750 million, starting in 1967.

The department's initial five-year program, announced in 1957, set a spending goal of $1.25 billion. The second five-year program called for the spending of $850 million.

Hill said the over-all program calls for the spending of $175 million more than estimated revenues will provide.

Hill said he cannot recommend trimming the program to fit the revenue estimate because the growing Michigan population and car census clearly indicate the need for highway improvements.

"I trust those charged with the responsibility of providing the revenue needed to meet these needs will face the problem squarely and keep Michigan's road-building program on the move," Hill said.

Massachusetts Has

Only Signal on I-95

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts operates the only highway traffic light on Interstate 95 from Bangor, Maine, to Virginia.

The one traffic light had to be installed after completion of an interchange to get northbound travelers over into parts of Peabody west of U.S. 1. Once the traveler hits Massachusetts 128 he can drive to the Massachusetts Turnpike entrance at Weston with a clear way south to Petersburg, Va.

New Royal Commission a Rhodesia Face Saver

There is nothing to indicate that the establishment of a Royal Commission to work out a compromise between Britain and Rhodesia for the African colony's independence is little more than an act of sweeping under the rug one of the most explosive issues that has plagued what is left of the British Empire.

The agency just formalized by British Prime Minister HAROLD WILSON and Rhodesia Premier IAN SMITH heads off the immediate threat of unilateral withdrawal by Rhodesia from the British Commonwealth.

Back of the crisis is a long history of development by a white minority of the present 150,000-sq. mile area in southern Africa into one of the most prosperous and progressive enclaves on that continent.

Still a British dependency, Rhodesia has enjoyed self-governing status since 1923, and in 1961 structured a constitution that through an intricate voter-qualification procedure enables the present white population of 250,000 to rule 4 million blacks.

While Britain is not averse to Rhodesia's ambition for complete separation from the mother country, it does strongly oppose an independence that perpetuates a governmental establishment that in effect restricts citizenship rights for the vast majority of the native population.

In this position Britain is supported by the United States and additionally a recent United Nations General Assembly vote of 107 to 2.

What repressive measures would Britain take should Rhodesia defiantly elect to declare independence on its own terms? Since military constraint is beyond the scope of the issue, the alternative is economic sanctions to be applied by the generality of nations opposed to Rhodesia's proposed course.

But the socio-economic repercussions and divisive effect of such strictures would be most far-reaching, with a concrete pattern of consequences and accomplishment impossible to foresee.

The impasse would seem to reduce itself as to just how long the 'autocratic government' of Rhodesia can run counter to the tide of racial democracy now in its ascendancy.

Auto Licensing Taxes States' Adaptability

One of the small annoyances confronting many motorists is that of changing license plates every year. In addition to the chore of making the switch, it occasions mental effort in memorizing the new number—if indeed it ever is. The obvious solution would seem to be the use of "multiple-year" plates.

Seventeen states have adopted plates lasting more than one year. Beginning this month still another—New York—will issue an enamel plate designed to last six or more years.

Despite the trend toward the semi-permanent plates, many motor vehicle administrators harbor grave doubts about them. While the states may save money on the plates themselves, for example, they must spend more on record-keeping.

A real problem, moreover, arises in enforcement of registration. The little plastic sticker that is added from one year to another is easily forged and confusion among police is great—especially when expiration dates are staggered. The suspicion is that thousands of motorists are evading their renewal fees.

Also, many motorists want a new set of license plates when they buy a new car. A few even will go to the trouble of mangling their old ones so they can apply for replacements. Again, administration expenses mount.

It is significant that nearly every state at some time or another has experimented with multiple-year plates but that the majority have gone back to the annual plate plan.

"One way to solve the over-population problem would be to crop the stork's wings," says a woman columnist. "That would be working from the wrong end, sister. The thing to do would be to take the bow and arrows away from Dan Cupid."

Eye for Details Is LBJ's Forte

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — One of the keys to Lyndon B. Johnson's presidency, besides his energy, is his attention to details about government and people. While a president's concern and help for an individual may not influence him, it certainly won't antagonize him, and this, by itself, is no mean political benefit.

Johnson has so much energy, probably more than any president except perhaps Theodore Roosevelt, that he recently disclosed he has been taking relaxing tranquilizers ever since his heart attack in 1955.

He recently said something else which fits in handily with his job: "In 56 of my 57 years, I probably haven't gone to sleep before 1 a.m. any morning. I seldom sleep past daylight."

For his nighttime reading when he goes to his bedroom the President always has four or five big envelopes with memoranda and cables from the State and Defense departments and the Central Intelligence Agency, plus information from his economic advisers on government spending and the national economy.

In addition, there are recommendations from his staff for action on problems that need decisions, with summaries and background, and down in the right-hand corner the words "yes" and "no" for him to mark.

PLENTY OF WORDS
If he is not satisfied he scribbles, "See me" or writes specific suggestions. One aide figures this kind of reading comes to 100,000 to 150,000 words a week.

What he doesn't finish at night, Johnson can finish in the morning before he gets up. He goes to his office about 10 a.m.

Before then he has been telephoning from his bedroom or conferring with members of his staff or government officials. Every morning his aides present him with daily schedules and discuss them with him.

About 10 feet from his White House desk, enclosed in wooden boxes to deaden the sound, are the endlessly clacking machines of the news services. In this way Johnson keeps on top of the news, either by walking over to read the stories on the machines or having his aides tear them off for him.

SENDS FLOWERS
When he hears of a member of Congress laid up in a hospital, he sends flowers and a note. Johnson and his wife do the same with many others who are ill.

Johnson and his wife work in tandem. She drops notes to the wives of members of Congress, invites them to tea, and spends a lot of time going around the country to focus attention on the President's programs.

When Secrets Have Secrets!

David Lawrence Says:

Congressional Election Big Test

WASHINGTON — Just about a year from now, there will be another election — far more significant than any of the local contests decided this week.

It will be national in scope so far as the House of Representatives is concerned, as candidates for every seat will LAWRENCE.

While only one-third of the Senate members face next year an expiration of their six-year terms, several of the senators who are up for reelection come from some of the larger states.

If the Democratic majority, which is in excess of two-thirds in both houses now, should be substantially diminished and the Republicans take control of either one or both houses, this would be regarded as a repudiation of the Johnson administration by the voters.

Already the issues are shaping up for next year's election.

The Congress, which adjourned a few weeks ago, dealt with some of the most important questions that have come before the national legislative body in all its history. Many laws were passed the full effects of which will not become clear to the voters until next year's congressional campaign.

CENTRAL FACTOR

The central factor, however, on which the judgment of the voters will turn is the economic condition of the country as a whole.

Up to now, unemployment has been referred to as minimal and prosperity has been the boast of the Democratic politicians. But the truth is that there are many signs of economic instability and social discontent.

For one thing, the big cities are in turmoil over racial questions as they relate to alleged "imbalance" in the public schools. The merits of the civil rights issue itself have been to a large extent brushed aside in the bitterness of feeling that has emerged over the handling of public-school enrollment.

Federal intrusion, either through the withholding of public funds or the threat of control of the school systems, is producing antagonism to the Johnson administration among many voters who are normally Democratic.

ECONOMIC ISSUES

It is on economic issues, however, that the 1966 congressional campaign will be fought. The steepest living is rising. Within that next year, it is expected that interest rates will be increased, which in turn will have an effect on business operations.

Fundamental changes may be expected as the long period of what has been called "stability" approaches its climax.

The 1966 election campaign may prove to be similar to that which happened 29 years ago. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who had won a substantial majority in both houses in a landslide victory in 1936, saw his administration rebuked in the congressional elections of 1938.

The Democratic majority was considerably reduced in both houses, due to the economic discontent in the country and a widespread feeling that relief measures had not accomplished their goals.

The congressional campaign indeed will be a test of administrative strength. The 1966 contest promises to be almost as spectacular as a presidential campaign.

Capital Letter:

U.S. Recruiting Drive On for 'Foster Grandparents'

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — A recruitment drive is on for 1,100 older citizens who are willing to shower tender loving care on kiddies in exchange for federal pay checks.

To date only 38 "foster grandparents" have been hired for the nation's first such experiment. Montgomery in San Antonio, but 52 hospitals and institutions in 19 states should soon be ringing with cheerful squeals of "Granny" or "Grams."

The $10-million program officially came into being Aug. 29, when President Johnson announced the first 22 projects as part of the new administration on aging.

Director Bernard E. Nash says all the sponsoring agencies have agreed to avoid segregation, so that while youngsters may possibly have "Negro" foster grandparents and vice versa, "unless therapeutic reasons demand otherwise."

Because of the language barrier, however, Puerto Rican and Mexican-American moppets will probably have matching granies.

On this day in history: In 1783, Congress ordered the Continental Army demobilized.

FONDNESS FOR CHILDREN

To qualify as a dispenser of love and affection, the senior citizen must be over 60 and have an income of less than $1,800 a year, or $3,000 if married.

It doesn't matter whether he or she has ever been a parent, let alone a grandparent, so long as a fondness for little children exists.

Uncle Sam is providing an X-ray, blood, heart and vision tests for applicants, and project managers will be expected to weed out those with "serious" police records or emotional instability.

In San Antonio, where 150 applied for the 38 available jobs, the first trainees are now being taught how to read to a sick child and hold his hand in the orthopedic ward of Bexar County Hospital.

2 HOURS DAILY

Foster grandparents will visit each of their two assigned "grandchildren" two hours daily, for a total of 20 hours a week. Another "grandparent" of the opposite sex will substitute on weekends and holidays.

In some institutions where children are neglected or retarded rather than physically ill, the older adults will be expected to participate in games and take their little charges by bus to downtown stores, museums or zoos; in other words, to give them the kind of outings that a real grandparent might plan as a treat.

Certainly it is the most unusual experiment in the nation's relations yet launched by the something 89th Congress, which has already set a new record for social legislation.

By next June 30, when the fiscal year ends, Congress will undoubtedly be debating its pros and cons on the basis of actual performance.

Until then we can only wait and see... and wish it well!

'Our Educational System Should Be Run by States'

Ever since Russia put up her first Sputnik, education has become a political football. Now the Federal government is sticking its nose into our educational system with various programs. To those who think this is a great thing, for every dollar you get from the Federal government, you will pay two dollars in taxes.

I think this education act is unconstitutional because the Constitution is very clear that the Federal government has only the right to do things for the states that they cannot do themselves.

Local school boards have done a real job for years without any help from the Federal government, and the local citizens have always had their say about how their schools would be operated and have never had to take any textbooks that are politically inclined by powers to be in Washington.

'Con Men Prey Upon Lonely Older Women'

Con men invaded the dance studio business and designed high-pressure sales programs aimed especially at lonely older women. They sell lifetime memberships. A small bank of itinerant con men constantly prey upon older people. There are the gutter repairmen, the chimney repairmen, the roofing expert, the siding expert and the promoter of lightning-protection devices that are not only worthless but may be harmful.

One woman signed up to pay $5,800 in monthly installments for aluminum siding. The job was later estimated at $600 by a local contractor. Three roving swindlers bilked an 80-year-old woman of nearly $4,000 over a few months, posing as city sewer, roofing and wiring inspectors.

What can be done to thwart the con men and the quacks? The best advice is these common sense rules:

- Beware of "miracle" cures. Take medical problems to your physician.
- Beware of the man who rings the bell and says he "just happened to be in the neighborhood with his home repair equipment."
- Secure quotations from firms of established reputation on home repairs.
- Check "amazing" bargain offers before any money is spent.
- Read and understand all written agreements and contracts. Better yet, take them to your lawyer.
- Seek information from local Better Business Bureaus or Chambers of Commerce on unknown firms and individuals.

Calls Attention to Illegal Turns by Drivers

Answers Letter on Required Turn Signals

In reply to the letter regarding required turn signals, the law of Michigan does require you to use your hand for right, left and stop signals. Since we have automation of a lot of things, we do get careless and do not drive as we should. As a chauffeur and commercial driver I follow these laws because I am carrying a human cargo.

'Offenders Make Traffic Checks Necessary'

A recent letter calls an electronic car-speed timing device a "speed trap." This is not true. A speed trap is typically a section of a highway or street where the speed is inconspicuously posted at a much lower limit than on either side, solely to "trap" the otherwise law-abiding motorist.

Last year almost 48,000 people were killed in traffic accidents. If everyone drove within the law and his own physical limitations and maintained his car according to manufacturers' instructions, most of these people would never have been killed.

Our police are charged with the almost impossible task of seeing that everyone drives within the law. Unfortunately, the most dangerous and violent offenders are usually the sneakiest. Thus, we have radar units and unmarked cars, neither of which causes the law-abiding driver any concern whatever.

Signs Point to Rough Going for Ivan

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

This coming Sunday, Nov. 7, the Soviet Union will observe with suitable fanfare the 48th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

As usual, there will be glowing promises of the economic future of the Soviet citizen.

The fact is, however, that NEWSOM for the average Soviet citizen all the signs for now and the foreseeable future point to fairly rough going.

It was back in 1961 that the then-premier, Nikita Khrushchev promised that "in the current decade (1961-1970) the Soviet Union will surpass the strongest and richest capitalist country, the United States, in production per head of population."

Reading from the Communist party program, Khrushchev also declared: "WILL IMPROVE" "The people's standard of living and their cultural and technical standards will improve substantially; everyone will live in easy circumstances; all collective and state farms will become highly productive and profitable enterprises; the demand of Soviet people for well-appointed housing will, in the main, be satisfied; hard physical work will disappear; the USSR will become the country with the shortest workday."

In 1961 Khrushchev also declared that demands of Soviet heavy industry generally had been met and that henceforth light industry, i.e., consumer goods, would receive equal priority.

Khrushchev's promises only were to prove the patience of the long-suffering Russian people.

In Soviet planning the one overriding factor has been the determination to catch up to the United States economically.

GROWTH RATE In the 1950s, it appeared they might do it. The Soviet growth rate was running at 6% per cent, nearly double that of the United States. But even as Khrushchev spoke, the Soviet economic machine was running down.

In the intervening years, dust bowls appeared in the virgin lands where Khrushchev had foreseen a golden harvest of wheat. Khrushchev's successors now virtually have abandoned the virgin lands program.

The incessant demands of the Russian military and of the Soviet space program placed still heavier burdens on heavy industry and delayed by that much more the production of consumer items to make life easier for the Soviet citizen.

Even to meet partially the demands of a growing population, the Soviet planners found it necessary to turn more and more land over to the private initiative of the peasants for the production of meat, poultry and dairy products.

LEAD WIDENED Instead of catching up to the United States, it has been estimated that since 1960 the U.S. economy actually has widened its lead by $60 billion.

The need to purchase huge quantities of grain abroad in 1964 gave the Soviets their greatest trade deficit with the West since World War II.

This is the picture over which on Nov. 7 the Soviet propagandists will try to cast a rosy glow.

Social Security Lack Is Rapped

License Plate Branch Workers Speak Out

LANSING (AP) — Managers and employees of branch license plate offices under the secretary of state complained Tuesday they are "left out in left field" as far as Social Security is concerned.

Secretary of State James Hare appears with a dozen spokesmen for the group before the State Administrative Board.

"I realize there is little the board can do about it," Hare said. "But I wanted the board to understand their plight."

The federal government has ruled these employees are state workers and ineligible for Social Security benefits as independent contractors, Hare said. The state attorney general's office has held they are independent contractors, he said.

500 EMPLOYEES

Some 500 employees in more than 200 branch offices are caught in the mix-up, Hare said.

"We're left out in left field," complained Pete Lucas, branch manager of the Lansing Park office. "I cannot come under Social Security so there is no one to take care of my family or myself upon retirement."

Lucas said the question had been "kicked around in Washington" without ever being resolved.

Frank Cherven, former manager of the Holland office, now retired, said he had paid money into Social Security in hopes of getting some benefits back. Some of the money was refunded but he is receiving no benefits from his license office employment, he said.

ATTEMPT FAILED

Deputy Atty.-Gen. Leon Cohen asked if the legislature ever had been asked to resolve the problem. Hare said an attempt was made in 1956, but failed.

Cohen promised a check of the legal issues involved. He said he was sure the situation was not unique in Michigan but must also involve similar employees in other states.

Consumers Holds Course in Economics

Employees of Consumers Power Co. and their families are learning about the American economic system in a six-week course being held at the Consumers' main Pontiac office building, 28 W. Lawrence.

The company is providing the course free to adults and teenagers to "help provide a fundamental understanding of common monetary problems from the family to the international levels."

Pontiac Division Manager Charles F. Brown said 60 people are taking part in two classes already under way. Two more classes will be added in January.

He said that throughout the company's Michigan service area, more than 2,000 people are enrolled in the course.

This is four times the number that the company expected when it decided to offer the course.

INSTRUCTORS

Instructors for the Pontiac division sessions are R. C. Lincoln, assistant gas distribution superintendent, and K. C. Dale, commercial electric sales consultant of the Pontiac division staff.

Subjects include budgets, life insurance, credit, interest rates, Social Security, Medicare, international financial matters, including balance of payments and the gold flow.

Other subjects covered include the federal reserve system, how free enterprise works and the profit system.

Irish Place Import Levy on Consumer Goods

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — The Irish Republic has placed an immediate import levy of 10 to 15 per cent on many classes of consumer goods, including automobiles and radio and television sets.

A government announcement said the levy was necessary to combat a balance of payments condition that has been worsening since 1964.

U.S. Policy Inadequate ---Romney

TOKYO (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan said today that the United States is carrying out inadequate policies of "containment and survival" while the Communists "still have the initiative."

Speaking at the Tokyo Foreign Correspondents' Club, the Republican governor accused the Johnson administration of a policy of "guns abroad and butter at home."

Romney said he fully supported the U.S. military position abroad, including in Viet Nam, but he called other efforts in foreign policy "grossly inadequate."

Although considered by many a potential presidential candidate in 1968, Romney said he had "no presidential ambitions."

FOREIGN POLICY

His speech was centered on American foreign policy. He called the American Revolution "authentic—politically, socially and economically. But it was not meant for us alone."

"The present policies and programs of containment, survival, military alliances, restriction of foreign investment and all-out private and public spending at home are inadequate," he declared. "What happens outside the United States can shape our future."

Referring to the Communists, he said America is "still reacting more to their plan and actions than carrying out our own."

"They still have the initiative," Romney declared.

Romney came to Japan two weeks ago with other U.S. governors for the U.S.-Japan Governors' Conference and a tour of southern Japan. The governors are going on to Hong Kong and South Viet Nam.

Milliken Hits Viet Protests

LANSING (AP)—Acting Gov. William Milliken Tuesday said he "deplores" the actions of college students "who are attacking U. S. policy in Viet Nam or even offering aid to the Viet Cong."

"Nevertheless," Milliken said, "we must not forget the vital difference between honest protest against our nation's policies and disloyal assistance to our nation's enemies."

"It is precisely when our anger and disgust are most intense that we must guard against the suppression of legitimate dissent in the name of patriotism."

Milliken said the actions of a fringe minority reflect unfairly on the 80,000 draft-age men on Michigan college campuses.

IMPROPER PROTESTS

The colleges and universities will deal with the students making improper protests, Milliken said.

"Investigations are under way to determine where they may be violating state or federal laws, particularly in burning draft cards and in offering help to those we are fighting," he added.

Funds Given to Start Hydroelectric Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army engineers will get $800,000 to start surveys and plan for a $27-million hydroelectric and flood control project on the upper St. John River in Maine. The project would be the first federal hydroelectric project in New England.

Bid Rejected on East Wide Track Pedestrian Overpass

City Commissioners voted last night to reject the single bid received for construction of a pedestrian overpass across East Wide Track near Whittemore.

City Engineer Joseph E. Neippling recommended that the bid be thrown out and the project be readvertised for bids with broader specifications.

Neippling felt the city should be able to get a better price on the proposed bridge.

The city engineer also reported last night that talks have proceeded with representatives of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad for a pedestrian overpass over railroad tracks between Sheffield and Walton.

TO SPLIT COST
Estimated cost of the railroad walkway is $40,000, according to Neippling. The cost is to be split 50-50 between the city and the railroad.

Final details for the overpass will be worked out at a future meeting, the city engineer said.

In other business last night, the commission approved changing the parking lot at the north-west corner of Pike and East Wide Track to an all-day lot with 10-hour meters, instead of the three-hour limit.

The change was recommended by City Manager Joseph A. Warren, who said that use of the lot is down and more use might be encouraged with the 10-hour meters.

A petition to vacate Douglas

between Mount Clemens and East Huron was referred to the City Planning Commission last night.

The petition came from the Oakland County Drain Commissioner. The vacating is sought in connection with work in that area on the city's Clinton River Drain No. 2.

Neippling reported that much of the frontage on Douglas was owned by various governmental agencies.

However, some arrangements would have to be made to accommodate some properties that are still in private ownership.

DRAIN PROJECT
Neippling also reported last night that the Clinton River Drain project, the second undertaken in the city's behalf by the county drain commissioner, was ready to get under way this week.

He said the construction timetable calls for full-scale construction by December if the state approves the bond issue promptly.

A pair of construction contracts was approved last night by the commission. A $3,433 contract with Stanley Figursky of Pontiac for construction of a sanitary sewer on a portion of Bloomfield, south of Luther, was approved.

Also approved was a contract for $71,238 with Mole Construction Co. of Detroit for construction of a relief storm sewer on Norton, State and Huron.

Final payment, previously delayed for commission study, was approved last night on a contract for 1964 R20 site improvements.

The final payment had to be adjusted to include a $9,000 change in the contract, which was approved by Stanley B. Jones of Pontiac.

2-YEAR LEASE
The two-year lease is for $50 per year.

Also last night, a resolution to the State Land Board for permission to demolish a sub-standard house at 1149 Stanley was okayed.

A public hearing was held on intention to construct a sanitary sewer on Telegraph, between the Michigan Atrine Railroad tracks and Orchard Lake Avenue.

The commission also approved a lease with Samuel Elliott for city-owned property at 92 Irene.

The commission referred to the City Planning Commission a petition to rezone to residential property on the west side of Highwood, between Sheffield and Lehigh.

PUBLIC HEARING

A public hearing was ordered for Nov. 16 on a petition for a water main on portions of East Boulevard and Balboa.

Estimated cost of the main is $6,000.

The city's share will total $4,423 with the balance of $1,667 being assessed abutting property.

Money Woes Are Cited in Rail Overpass Talks

Just past the first anniversary of the City Commission's ill-fated attempt to enact a city income tax, discussion centered last night on the city's financial condition.

The tax proposal passed the commission on Oct. 20, 1964 but was later defeated at the polls.

Last night a local union leader requested that efforts begin toward eventually providing an overpass for the railroad tracks on Johnson.

"Where are we going to find the money?" replied Commissioner John A. Dugan. "It was just a year ago we tried to find the funds and we didn't get very much support."

His comment was echoed by other commissioners. Donald H. Johnson, president of Fisher Body plant Local 896, UAW-CIO, urged that "something get started."

Johnson offered to do what he could, asking if a petition might be circulated to institute action.

City Commissioners Dugan, Leslie H. Hudson, Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. and City Manager Joseph A. Warren replied to Johnson's suggestion.

Warren indicated that a petition would probably not serve any useful purpose.

He added that he, in a year's tenure as city manager, had found nobody opposed to such a grade separation.

Mayor Taylor said the total cost of such a project was the main problem.

The three commissioners pointed out that the commission was aware of the problems at the Johnson crossing and similar problems on West Huron when the income tax was proposed.

Said Dugan, "We stuck our necks out and are well aware of the problems. We were going to solve some of these problems."

Hudson pointed out that nonresidents, who are partially responsible for the traffic congestion, would have helped pay for part of the improvement with the income tax.

Johnson, who said he had opposed the tax issue, said he thought a short-term money proposal could be approved by voters.

Warren explained that funds normally used for improvements to major streets from the city's share of gas and weight tax monies have been spent or allocated for major projects, such as Wide Track, the M59 relocation and Square Lake Road improvements.

Fire Put Out to His Chagrin

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bobby Joe Crabtree was a bit provoked when a passerby summoned firemen to extinguish a blaze in his yard.

For three days he'd tried to thaw his water pipes. As a last resort he built a trash fire around exposed pipes on the outside.

When the firemen left, the pipes froze again. Crabtree had to build another fire.

Details Sought by City

To Act on Poverty Office Bid

The City Commission will act next Tuesday on a request for office space in the city for the county's antipoverty program.

However, the commission will take action only after a thorough briefing from county officials on what the projected antipoverty program is, and its cost now and for the future.

This was the reply read last night by Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. to the request for local office space to house a projected antipoverty community action center here.

Taylor offered the city's reply in a letter to James M. McNeely, executive director of the Oakland County Office of Economic Opportunity.

The mayor asked that details on a projected lease for local facilities be presented prior to the commission's action and an account be made to fully explain the antipoverty grant and the local financial participation.

Taylor said the commission had given no indication of what action it might take on the request for office space.

Junior Editors Quiz on HARD WATER

QUESTION: How can hard water be made soft?

ANSWER: Although not actually hard, hard water is hard to use. It contains minerals from the earth, such as calcium and magnesium, which tend to prevent soap from making bubbles and doing a full job of carrying dirt away.

In contrast, soft water, such as rainwater, has no dissolved mineral salts: it feels soft to the hands, making the soap bubble splendidly. Water, coming from far underground, is usually pure but often hard.

One way to soften it is to add soda ash and lime to a water tank. The chemicals in the hard water combine with these and sink down, letting soft water flow off above. Another method is shown in the picture.

Hard water is filtered through the tank at left, which contains minerals called zeolites. Ions (electrically-charged atoms) from this substance then exchange themselves for ions of the minerals in the hard water, so it becomes soft.

After awhile, the zeolites are covered up by the minerals taken from the hard water and the exchange stops.

Then salt pellets are put in the tank to the right, making brine, and this is allowed to flow into the left-hand tank. The brine washes the zeolites clean, so they can start their job of softening the water over again.

FOR YOU TO DO: Wash your hands with soap. Does the water seem easy to use, with many bubbles on your hands as you lift them out of the basin? Then your water is soft. But if the water seems to drag and there are few if any bubbles, your water is hard.

GREAT PEDIGREE,

OF GOOD WEAR, AND IS REASONABLY
PRICED AT 79.95.
WE HEARTILY RECOMMEND IT

Maybe you don't buy a suit very often (or maybe you do). Maybe you want every dollar to count (or maybe you couldn't care less). The interesting thing about this Botany 500 is that it gives you so much, whatever you want out of a suit. From a value standpoint, it couldn't be a sounder one. The fabric is pure, choice wool: firmly woven and with a hard finish, for good solid wear. But it's also luxurious looking: smooth, lustrous, and very much in fashion. The tailoring is careful, attentive to every detail. Yet there's no compromise in style—for the models are beautifully cut, in both two- and three-button styles. And the high fashion look is carried out in rich iridescent solid shades and quietly muted Glen plaids. Some men buy a suit purely for style. Some buy it purely for value. Isn't it nice to know you can get both in one suit, without settling for anything less than exactly what you want.

It's a remarkable suit for 79.95.

Fair weather smiled on the Pontiac area Tuesday for the United Fund's annual victory luncheon at Elks Temple, and the excitement of the occasion was reflected in the faces of these four workers. From

Women Celebrate Their UF Victory

Between 400 and 500 women gathered for the Pontiac Area United Fund Women's Victory Luncheon Tuesday in the Elks Temple. They came to hear the good news that they had exceeded their goal of $35,075.

With a few scattered reports still to come in, the total Tuesday was $35,911.

Pontiac chairman, Mrs. Victor Sutt, reported a total of $11,533. Waterford Township with Mrs. John Wilson as chairman turned in $10,768.

Mrs. Odes Case, Lake Orion, announced a total of $3,210. Mrs. James Cowen of Independence Township added $6,986 to the fund.

Lake Angelus was not represented by its chairman, but has collected $4,414, with more to come.

About 100 Indian Oscars were presented to chairmen who exceeded their goals. Special recognition was paid to Mrs. Sol Newhouse, Mrs. Gilbert Adams and Mrs. Russell Brown for outstanding performances. William Belaney was toastmaster at the luncheon sponsored by Austin-Norwell Agency, Consumers Power, Detroit Edison, Michigan Bell Telephone and Lawyer's Title Insurance Corporation.

"So that's how you went 10 per cent over your goal," Mrs. M. G. Baker, Howard McNeill Street (left) and Mrs. William Stafford, Holland Street, Orion Township, compare notes across the luncheon table.

Women's Section

"Nobody came to my house for a donation to the Pontiac Area United Fund," says Mrs. Robert C. Jones, Wealthy Street, Independence Township. "So I just dashed down to turn it in before the final day." The attractive Mary Ellen Jones took part in a skit which announced totals from Independence Township.

Margaret Steward, State Street (right) and Mrs. Robert Butler, Rivard Street, get a laugh from a stubborn salad dressing bottle. Over 400 women attended the Victory Luncheon Tuesday in the Elks Temple.

The little boys came to the ladies' luncheon to hear their daddies play in the band. (The Executives). From the left are Mrs.

David Riemer of MacIntosh Lane with Mark, age 1½, and Mrs. Eldon Marwee, also of MacIntosh Lane, with Leif who's 10 months.

Home Rites for Couple on Tuesday

Marsha Jane Gorsline and Richard A. Kappler were married Tuesday afternoon in the home of his parents, the I. R. Kapplers on Pon Valley Road.

A dinner at Bedell's followed the ceremony performed by Rev. Harry Clark of the Pine Hill Congregational Church, before members of the immediate families.

SHORT DRESS

The bride, daughter of the William H. Gorslines of North Johnson Avenue, chose street-length white lace over satin with back panel of satin.

A Chanel bow of satin held her shoulder-length illusion veil.

She held a white Bible topped with pink and white Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Dennis Meagher of Oak Park was matron of honor and Robert Kappler of Dearborn was his brother's best man.

The couple will reside in Mexico City for several months.

Sorority Has a Dinner

Members and guests of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority's Xi Beta Theta Chapter met for a smorgasbord Monday in the Nichols Drive home of Mrs. Wendell Doolin.

Guests included: Mrs. Jack Koyl, Mrs. Robert Kugler, Mrs. Richard Lund and Mrs. Paul Ross.

The next meeting will be a Christmas bazaar at the Kohler Drive home of Mrs. Daryl Donaldson.

Where To?

Mary Wants to Write

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Every year I receive several Christmas cards from friends of long-standing with little notes written on the bottom saying, "Why don't you ever write to us and let us know something about you?" This is frustrating to say the least because, much as I'd like to, I can't! These people have moved from their last addresses, have left no forwarding addresses, and nowhere on their envelopes are their NEW addresses so, consequently, the cards and letters I send them are returned to me.

It takes only a moment to jot down one's address on the corner of the envelope. Please, Abby, won't you remind people to write their return addresses on their Christmas cards this year?

JUST MARY
DEAR JUST: Yes - but why only on Christmas cards? If you could see the mountain of mail (not to mention packages) that are "all addressed up" and no place to go because of insufficient or careless addressing, and NO return address, you'd weep.

DEAR ABBY: Siegfried and I have been married for 16 years and all of a sudden he has become a problem.

He gets very fresh with me, even in the presence of our children. Siegfried is 44 and I am 36. I have never refused his advances at the proper time and place, but he is getting ridiculous!

When he is home he doesn't leave me alone a minute. He is always following me around, whispering intimate suggestions in my ear, putting his arms around me, and so on.

I am not a cold woman, Abby, but when Siegfried acts this way in front of other people, I get very nervous and upset. What could be wrong with him? He never carried on this way before.

I have heard that men go through a "change" at a certain age just like women do. Could that be it?

SIEGFRIED'S FRAU
DEAR FRAU: There is a possibility that there is something physically wrong with Siegfried, and he should have a thorough check-up by a competent physician. If your husband is found to be physically fit, and only his judgment is out of focus, lecture him privately, and practice your footwork in public.

DEAR ABBY: I read your column every day, but that letter signed "SNIFFY" hits an all-time high.

The very idea of that woman saying she can tell the minute she walks into a room if there are any dog owners present! I have owned dogs all my life, and they are as clean as I am! If anyone ever told me he could tell I was a dog owner by the way I smelled, that would be the end of our friendship.

I have worked for, with, and supervised people who have needed a deodorant far worse than any dog I've been near. In fact, I used to give a girl a ride to work, and had to drive with all the windows down in the middle of winter. I have never found it necessary to do this because I've had a DOG in the car.

BURNED-UP IN ILLINOIS

DEAR ABBY: Several weeks ago I started having a series of baking failures. First a cake which I had made successfully dozens of times "ran over" and it took me an hour to clean up the mess it made in my oven. (Perhaps I should mention that the recipe called for 1/2 cup oil.)

Then my favorite cookies, which I had made for years, came out so dry I had to throw them out. Thinking my oven was off, I had it checked only to find out it was perfect. I couldn't for the life of me figure out what was wrong.

Finally, I remembered that I had bought a one-cup measuring cup at a neighborhood supermarket. I carefully compared its capacity to that of my standard measuring cup, and to my utter amazement discovered that my "new" cup held ONE-FOURTH CUP more! Pass this on to your readers, Abby, for whatever it's worth.

Problems? Write to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Got the Message

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) - "Clank-clank. Clank-clank. Clank-clank" scrawled across an envelope addressed to Mayor Louie Welch got his immediate attention.

In the letter, Mrs. W. B. Welford complained of a loose manhole outside her bedroom window which rattled every time an auto passed. "Would you like to try to get to sleep each night with that clank-clank, clank-clank, clank-clank" ... and so forth clear across the letter.

The mayor instructed the Public Works Department to take care of the problem immediately.

Why Grow Old?

by JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many readers are puzzled about just what sort of care they should give their complexions. They are told to do this and that for an oily skin, and thus and so if your skin is dry. Many women have what I call a combination epidermis. Some portions of the face may be dry while others may be extremely oily. Well, you just have to treat them as you would two different people, who are decidedly not alike.

I think that many women have dry cheeks and very dry skin under the eyes but a nose which is quite oily. This is no at all unusual. In such an instance you must treat the two areas differently because they present entirely different problems. This is really not complex.

Use a cleansing cream and a lubricating cream on the dry portions but leave these off the nose, and also the chin, if that is oily. Pat an eye cream about your eyes before going to sleep at night.

SOAP AND WATER

On the other hand, wash your nose and any other oily areas with soap and water several times a day. Use an astringent generously on the oily portions but not on the dry parts. It would be helpful if you would ask your doctor or dermatologist for a prescription for a drying lotion. Apply this to your nose at night when you pat on the eye cream. Put a little powder over the nose. Eye creams almost disappear.

You do not have to look like a clown in order to give your skin this care, or like someone having a treatment for sunburn.

There has always been disagreement about how long lubricating creams should be left on to be most beneficial. Some authorities say that 15 minutes is all that is required for best results. I myself do not agree with this. I think that an hour or so is much better for softening our outer coating.

BE FAITHFUL

Brunettes usually have oilier skins than lighter complexioned women. In either case if you hope to avoid lines and that faded look you will have to be faithful about daily lubrication if you have a dry skin. In most cases even a normal epidermis will need some lubrication as a woman grows older because the natural oils in the skin decrease and must be replaced.

If you would like to have my leaflet about skin care send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Miss Taylor, Mr. Richards Wed

The Sanderson Street home of the John D. Taylors was the setting for the recent marriage of their daughter Lena Jane to Raymond Allen Richards.

A home reception followed the evening rite performed by Rev. G. J. Bersche, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church.

Richards of Briarcrest Knoll, Farmington Township.

worn with illusion veil and a pearl tiara.

Lavender-tipped carnations centered her bouquet of white shattered carnations.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (P) — A woman here has filed for divorce, claiming her husband had deceived her. Her petition says her husband claimed he had only been married twice previously, but she later found he had been married five times.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Thanks for sending your opinions of the electric scissors in answer to the letter written by Mrs. B. A. Most all of the letters praised the scissors, and very few found them unsatisfactory. It seems they are great for cutting several thicknesses of fabric, even fairly heavy fabric, but not too good for cutting very sheer, pully or stretch fabrics. We are warned to practice with them before using them as they are a little difficult to control because of the speed in which they operate.

They are extremely easy on your hands and for this reason are especially good for women with arthritis or any weakness in their hands. Be cautious, be accurate, and most of all, be alert because you can't change your mind once you have cut!

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I have two teenage girls and it seems that I am constantly taking in or letting out their skirts. Everytime I have to alter them I have to remove and replace the zipper. Surely there is a better way of altering the side seam of a skirt. Please help!

Mrs. J. K.

Dear Mrs. J. K.:

I will share the solution I used when I was sewing for my girls and, as you say, "spending all my time altering." Once they know how a skirt should fit, they aren't satisfied with anything else. Try putting the zipper into the center back seam instead of the side seam. The procedure is just the same and the seam will be free to take up or let out without having to replace the zipper.

Dear Mrs. R. W. B.:

When you requested letters about things that annoy seamstresses, I decided to write to you. I would gladly pay twice as much for the thread I use if I could only depend on the quality. I have so much trouble with thread breaking I told my local store and got the reply, "the thread just isn't the same as it used to be." What an answer! If anything, it should be better. It is the THREAD and not the sewing machine because I just had the machine put into perfect order.

Mrs. R. W. B.

Dear Mrs. R. W. B.:

Yours is not the first letter I have received about the quality of thread. I have checked with the thread companies and they do claim that the quality is better than ever, so who knows where the problem is. If enough of you write to me and tell me the problems you are having concerning thread, I will be more than happy to be the middle man and take them to the proper sources for immediate action. WRITE ME and let's see what can be done!

If you would like my leaflet "TWENTY Most Asked Questions" send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Sew Simple, in care of The Pontiac Press.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Faye Hulet (16 years old) Waco, Texas, is this week's winner of a Tailor Trix pressing board for the following idea:

"If you are putting in a 22-inch zipper that must have two colors because of the two-toned dress, here is the way to do it. I took a 22-inch white zipper and inserted it into the seam. The bottom half of my dress was black so I used a felt-tipped pen and made the white zipper tape black where it might show. There are so many colored felt-tipped pens that this could possibly work for other colors as well."

Antique Watches Donated

Recall Napoleon's 'Time'

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (UPI) — If Napoleon and Marie Antoinette were late for their social engagements, it wasn't because they didn't know the time.

Both owned beautifully crafted watches, handmade and chain driven. These watches as well as timepieces for a 17th century Russian grand duke, an 18th century Danish prince and French watches noted for their fine gold works, are part of a collection recently acquired by the University of Santa Clara.

The 32 watches date from the 16th to the 19th century and were collected at private and public sales over 15 years by Frank Gentles, a San Francisco investor.

Gentles donated the watches to de Saisset Art Gallery and Museum at the university.

John Lindsay, Tall, Boyish and 43, Emerges on the Plateau of National Politics

NEW YORK (AP) — John V. Lindsay, tall, boyish and 43, won the big town's city hall and emerged on the plateau of national Republican politics.

It had been said that even if he lost a close race in this metropolitan area where Democrats outnumber Republicans by 7-to-2, he would still have to be considered "presidential timber."

His chief opponent, Democrat Abraham D. Beame, charged that Lindsay was really running for the Republican nomination for president and would not serve his four-year term.

"If elected I'll serve the full four years and hope to do a good enough job for the voters to reelect me," Lindsay said. Lindsay pledged that his primary interest was to "make New York City the city of tomorrow, a healthier, better, safer place to live."

Last year Lindsay refused to endorse the Republican presidential nominee, Barry Goldwater. In his campaign for mayor, Lindsay told state and national Republican leaders he didn't want their help.

He campaigned at a pace that would have tired an athlete. But John Vili Lindsay is an athlete.

The 6-foot-3 congressman is an expert horseman and swimmer and a tennis and ski enthusiast. He also sails, bowls, rides a bike and is an ardent baseball, football and soccer fan.

"I thrive on exercise," he said after one grueling 18-hour day of campaigning. Lindsay is a former chain-smoker who can't understand why others don't quit the habit. He is a confirmed clock-watcher. Waiting annoys him and meaningless conversation irritates him.

He walks and talks quickly. He was the mastermind, timekeeper and chief morale-booster of his own campaign.

During 150 days of campaigning, Lindsay wore out four pairs of shoes in walking an estimated 475 miles. The car he used to drive him around the city registered 11,122 miles.

The sandy-haired mayor-elect is a careful dresser. He prefers solid color suits, striped ties and white shirts, but often wears blue shirts in his campaign because of television. He buys his suits ready-made. "I'm lucky," he says, "don't need alterations. I'm a perfect 44, long, of course."

Lindsay has a sense of humor and never hesitates to use unprintable language in a give-and-take with reporters and campaign aides. He has piercing blue eyes, highlighted by his sun-lamp tan, and looks directly into the eyes of the person to whom he speaks.

Lindsay is a lawyer, but says his practice is nil. He has a small apartment on West 88th Street, near Fifth Avenue, where he lives with his wife, Mary, 38, who is also his partner in politics.

They own a small house in Washington, D.C., where three of their four children attend private Episcopal schools. The oldest, Kathy, 14, attends a boarding school in Connecticut, stars in the Mediterranean and South Pacific areas, and returned to Yale for his law degree. Ten years later, in 1958, he made his first bid for the silk-stocking congressional seat in Manhattan's post East Side. He won a primary and the election. Then he won again and again.

As mayor, the congressman will more than double his salary. The mayor's job pays $50,000 a year and has unloved fringe benefits, including a chauffeured limousine, a cook, valet, bodyguards and rept-free Grace Mansion.

Conservatives in NY Elated

Sizable Vote Linked to Buckley Magnetism

NEW YORK (AP) — The party that didn't expect to win last Tuesday night in its bid to capture New York's city government.

But the loss by New York's Conservative party was viewed by party leaders as a victory. Anything more than 150,000 votes, they said, was a victory for them in this homeland of liberal Republicanism.

Political observers attributed the sizable vote — 339,127, or 13½ per cent of the complete returns — to the personal magnetism of the conservative candidate, William F. Buckley Jr.

Buckley, 39, Roman Catholic, Yale graduate, former college debater and editor, and now editor of the conservative National Review, is not even a member of the Conservative party. He is a Republican.

HOME OWNER VOTE
Political observers say that with a lesser candidate, the Conservative vote would have been smaller.

Conservative party officials prefer to believe that many also voted for the party. They say the party attracted many home owners, particularly those who live in less urbanized middle class sections of Queens and Staten Island.

"Basically," says State Chairman J. Daniel Mahoney, "we represent the people who pay the costs of the liberal social measures, and the people who are disturbed at the kind of trends in this country that have resulted in outlawing school prayer and have resulted in Viet Nam war protests."

"We represent people who are not so far up the ladder in income, in sophistication, that they can afford to hire a tax consultant and get out of the way of the costs of the legislation that's pushed through."

BORN IN 1962
The party was born in 1962, the baby of a group of 23 who decided — as Mahoney puts it — "to get some honesty and realism into New York and national politics. We're trying to make sure that there's a meaningful two-party system."

In its first year the party ran a political unknown for governor — Syracuse industrialist David H. Jaquith — and polled 141,887 votes.

In 1964 the New York Republican party refused to allow the Conservatives to place Barry Goldwater on their line on the election ballot. Despite the lack of a head man on the ticket, the Conservatives got 212,000 votes — 120,000 from New York City — for another political unknown, Henry Paolucci, history and political science professor at Iona College, who ran for U.S. Senate.

Today, the New York State Conservative party claims 20,000 registered voters, 8,000 of them in New York City. It says it has about 150 clubs throughout the state.

Conservative party chieftains apparently hope their organization will become the New York Republican party what the Liberal party is to the New York Democrats — a lever. Much the Liberals seek to influence the Democrats, the Conservatives hope to exert pull on the GOP.

The Conservative party says it has nothing to do with extreme right-wing groups, including the John Birch Society. "We have cleared clear of any organizations who are represented by irresponsible leadership. We regard the John Birch Society as falling within that description," Mahoney says.

Texans Nix Longer Terms; Money Issues Get Mixed Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas, in an apparent slap at Gov. John B. Connally, have rejected a proposal to extend the governor's term from two to four years, while voters in Florida, New York and Ohio turned down a variety of money-raising measures.

In Kentucky, North Carolina, Maine and Texas, however, large bond issues were approved. The biggest money measure on the ballot in eight states holding referenda Tuesday, a $1-billion New York bond issue to fight water pollution, received overwhelming endorsement.

Connally, who has already announced he will seek a third term next year, campaigned for a four-year term, while the state AFL-CIO fought it. When vote counting was stopped for the night at midnight, the tally stood 264,375 against, 217,032 for.

Woman Is New Mayor of Jackson

By the Associated Press
While voters in Detroit chose a city administration Tuesday, outstate residents decided the fate of millage proposals and bond issues — and one community elected a female mayor.

Kalamazoo voters approved a proposal to permanently peg allocation of a 15 - mill tax limit. At the same time, they defeated an alternate proposal for permanent allocation of a 16 mill limit.

The 15 - mill measure was approved 14,740-7,721. The other suggestion was defeated 9,881-5,201.

As a result, millage allocations for 1966 will be 9.0 mills for school districts, 4.8 mills for Kalamazoo County, 1.0 mill for townships and 0.15 mills for Kalamazoo Valley Intermediate School districts.

BACK INCUMBENT

Voters there also returned incumbent Dr. Raymond Hightower, 62, to a fourth term as mayor. Mrs. Margaret Machin was the first woman in the city's history to be elected as vice mayor.

Jackson voters elected their first woman mayor. She is Mrs. Mary Bennett, 49, mother of three, who is president of the Jackson League of Women Voters and a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. She defeated incumbent Bernard Magiera with an unofficial 4,621 to 3,333.

In Allegan County, voters approved a 16-mill proposal by a vote of 1,820-1,461. The proposal allows 5.7 mills of the total to the county, 1.07 mills to townships and 0.14 to intermediate school districts.

Allegan County voters also elected a new judge, attorney Dwight M. Cheever as probate judge. About 60 votes were scattered among various write-in candidates.

Find Bomb Near Dais After Talk by Canada Chief

MONTREAL (UPI) — A "fancy Molotov cocktail" was found last night near a speaker's platform only moments after Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson had stepped off of it.

A security guard found the incendiary bomb in a grocery bag that had been placed on a chair in the hall where Pearson's supporters were holding an election rally.

The guard found it just after Pearson, his wife and 3,500 people left the rally.

A police bomb squad took the explosive to the city dump and dismantled it.

representatives four-year terms instead of two.

Another Southern governor, Florida's Haydon Burns, also took a licking in the defeat of a $300-million highway bond issue for which he had campaigned vigorously. Returns from 2,232 of 2,496 precincts showed 386,507 votes against it and 252,201 for.

Burns insisted that the amendment was a vitally needed safety measure, while opponents contended the governor was using the proposal to pave the way for a try at reelection.

Two minor Ohio issues, to permit metropolitan areas to form service districts for such things as refuse disposal and to allow judges in small counties to serve on more than one court, also failed.

BOND ISSUES

New York voters rejected two bond issues to expand the state's public housing program and also turned down increased pensions for New York City of street cleaners. But they gave it a smashing 5-1 support to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's proposal for a $1-billion bond issue to finance a crash program to highways and the rest for other light the pollution in rivers and building projects.

In Kentucky, the administration of Gov. Edward T. Breathton voted to authorize creation of a $176-million bond issue to repay with revenues from the state's gasoline tax. They also state university.

In Texas, voters approved an amended 1967 $85-million bond issue to set up proposals exempting some private schools from occupational privilege taxes and permitting the state to set conditions for new buildings under which former judges can be assigned temporarily to court duty.

Learning to Write Is Big Task

Third-Grader Must Make Big Changes

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
For most youngsters in the first grade, school is especially exciting. They are making new friends, seeing new things, taking part in new activities.

But by the time these children reach the sixth grade the chances are that some of the fun has gone out of the schoolwork.

Many are no longer trying to learn. They are just trying to get by. Some where along the path, these children have tripped over some hurdle in the path of learning and are now running with a handicap.

Hazardous changes take place at about the third grade. The child is expected to switch from manuscript lettering to cursive writing. This requires effort and practice. Those who fail to make the change are less able to succeed in school than those who do switch. Cursive writing once learned takes less attention and is faster than manuscript lettering. Themes, class notes and examinations demand this speed.

Had their teachers or their parents insisted upon sufficient handwriting practice at the proper time, the transition would have been made completely.

COMPLETE CHANGE

Although the change can be made later, the longer it is put off, the more difficult it will be to take. However, the improved grades which result even at the college level make it evident and the more practice it will have been made back in the third grade.

The third-grader must also adjust to textbooks with smaller print, fewer pictures and more words to a page. Suddenly, many children have difficulty in reading. They no longer can get by just associating stories with pictures instead of actually reading the words.

Both teachers and parents need to be especially alert during this period and spot reading learned takes less attention and difficulties as they appear.

Someone with sufficient patience should immediately take time to see that such a child is given extra attention. This is the crucial time for action.

Proficiency in the three R's at this time, since there is a change of emphasis from learning just for personal satisfaction to competition among individuals. Grades become important.

HELP EACH OTHER

I have no objection to competition. It is a necessary part of our culture, but during this critical period when so many basic learning skills are developing, more encouragement should be given to the idea of children helping each other than to excelling in competition.

The third grade for many is a make-or-break period. It may take the combined efforts of parents, teachers and other pupils to help every child clear the hurdles.

Camera Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newscasters

A Photography Annual should survey the entire photographic world in any year and distill from it an authoritative record of its current advances, achievements, notable personalities and finest pictures.

In years past, annuals also offered photographic highlights of the year in news events, photojournalism and a science, significant photographic exhibitions and top winners of major photo contests.

In recent years, however, publication of annuals has been pushed ahead of such an early date that outstanding world events which occur later in the year can not possibly be included.

The historic visit of Pope Paul VI to America early in October, for instance, is a precedent-shattering experience that was magnificently photographed.

But it will not be seen in "Photography Annual 1966" or in "1966 World, U. S. Camera Annual" because both publications were in print before the Pope's early-scheduled peace mission took place.

IMPORTANT EVENTS

Other well-photographed important events of the year 1965 such as the "walk-in-space" by Maj. Edward White in the Gemini 4 orbits and U.S. involvement in Viet Nam's escalating war were covered in U.S. Camera Annual but barely shown or omitted, respectively, in the Photography Annual.

In the case of racial crisis pictures, a portfolio by nine photographers covering the Selma Freedom March was the lead picture essay in Photography Annual whereas the entire subject was skipped by U.S. Camera editors.

Both annuals have their quota of nudes, blurred and impressionistic pictures, international selections and portfolios by well-known photographers.

MAKES APPRAISAL

John Durniak, editor of Photography Annual, made a far more personal appraisal of photography's position today. Particularly interesting were his thoughts about an exhibition of pictures by an English artist, John White.

He visited America in 1955 and drew painstakingly detailed pictures of Indian life in the New World. "These were, to artist White, "... pictures of sundry things collected and counterfeited according to the truth..."

"White may be possibly the world's first picture-journalist," notes editor Durniak. "... This was the work of a man who was seeing more without a camera than many photographers do in a lifetime of image making. The phrase, "... counterfeited according to the truth" rings a bell. ... Was this not the story of all photography?"

Counterfeit or real, the annuals try to include something for everybody. With enough effort, a viewer can find pictures in them which can trigger ideas for photos in areas one might not have ventured into.

Others will leave you bewildered as to why they were published. That's the fun-and the value-of browsing through the annuals.

Arabs Curse, Kick When Car Is Balky

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (U.S. — Saudi Arabia's oil wealth has enabled it for years to afford the shiniest and newest automobiles this side of Detroit.

But drivers still treat them as if they were camels.

If a car breaks down, the driver is likely to jump out and curse it to get it going again. A judicious kick in the region of the gas tank is sometimes applied.

If this venerable method doesn't work, the tow truck is called in.

Cars are even dressed like camels. Taxis in Saudi Arabia and most bicycles and motor scooters — are upholstered with the most flashy imitation oriental tapestry available.

VIVID DESIGNS

Vivid designs in gold, green, blue and black on blood-red or yellow backgrounds cover seats, floors and side panels.

Windows are curtained with tasseled draperies which sway with the car's movement, just like the purdahs in the camel caravans of old.

Still Going Strong

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (U.S. — H. D. Tordin admits to being 105 years old — and to liking roses and women. He is out in the garden every morning at 6 working among his 135 rose bushes. For women, he's been married three times — the last time when he was 100 years old.

Bid for Censure by Indian Reds Suffers Defeat

NEW DELHI, India (U.S. — Communist members of Parliament tried to censure prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri today on the ground that he had accepted an invitation from President Johnson to visit the United States.

Hiren Mukerjee, Communist leader in Parliament, said the United States provided Pakistan with equipment to use in the war against India.

Under the circumstances, he said, a visit by Shastri to Washington would damage Indian "honor and interests."

Supporters of the prime minister pointed out that Shastri had declined to say whether any U.S. invitation had been accepted, and Speaker Hukam Singh refused to allow the censure motion along with several others raised to protest the government's food policy.

Focuses on 15 Alabama Counties

Negro Voter Sign-Up Plan Sketched

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A 45-day campaign of mass registration of Negro voters in Alabama's big cities and heavily Negro rural areas was outlined today by an official of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

"SCLC is moving all of its registration forces into Alabama in the first of a state-by-state campaign," said Hosea Williams, SCLC director of voter registration and political education. He said the campaign is already under way.

Williams said his plan was to restrict the scope of the SCLC voter drive in order to achieve better results. He said the success of the project would make possible election of eight Negro legislators in Alabama.

"We are cutting down to 15 counties and concentrating on mass registration," Williams said. His staff has been at work

More 'Good Morning' Starts Everyone Off

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — "Hi, there," said the man drilling on a safe. "Good morning," replied baker Frank Figueroa reporting for work at a store at 4 a.m.

Figueroa said he responded to the burglar's greeting automatically before he realized what was going on. Another burglar was crouched behind a counter. Everyone did a double take—and ran, the burglars to freedom and Figueroa to a telephone to call police.

in 37 Southern counties, he said. "We were spread too thin."

45-DAY PROJECT

If the Alabama project is successful, Williams said, he will give the staff a 30-day furlough and then move into another state — either Georgia or South Carolina — for another 45-day project.

The new approach will coincide with a planned campaign of marches and memorial services led by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., SCLC president, in a move for federal legislation protecting civil rights workers from assault or murder.

Some of King's staff and representatives of cooperating organizations have rescheduled a planning session for next Friday in Atlanta, Williams said. It had been set for today.

"I am going to prove that Negroes can be registered en masse, and that it won't take 40 years to do it," Williams said. His workers have gotten about 7,000 Negroes registered in three weeks in Montgomery, Ala., he said.

This means SCLC staff members in other areas will be pulled into the Alabama campaign, he said. A few staff members will remain in other states to operate offices. Williams said most of his workers already had been pulled out of northeast Georgia where they have been demonstrating recently.

Ben-Gurion, Bid Rejected

Israeli Voters Keep Coalition Control

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — which have ruled Israel for the 17 years of its existence.

LEADERS QUARRELED

Ben-Gurion, 79, quarreled with Eshkol, 70, over the running of the government and the so-called "Lavon affair," a security mishap that occurred 10 years ago in Egypt. Ben-Gurion wanted a judicial inquiry into the incident but the Mapai leadership led by Eshkol wanted to forget it.

Ben-Gurion stormed out of retirement to split Mapai, which he helped found, and to campaign against Eshkol as head of the new party. The voters rejected both Ben-Gurion and the unruly rightist bloc.

A little more than six hours after the polls closed at midnight, the Herut-Liberal bloc, called Gahal, conceded defeat and announced it would remain in opposition.

The Communists, who split into Arab and Zionist factions, made a worse showing at the polls than four years ago when they won five Knesset seats. The Arab Communists were expected to win two seats and the Zionists perhaps one.

The sect — called Nature's Kartia — does not believe in the secular government of Israel, claiming it violates the Bible's messianic vision of a theocratic state.

FORMER RUSSIAN PREMIER — Alexander F. Kerensky, 85-year-old former Russian premier, sees Russia aligning with the West in what he believes will be a worldwide racial confrontation. Kerensky helped overthrow the czarist regime in February 1917 and served as premier of the Russian provisional government for the 3½ months just before the Bolshevik revolution.

Ex-Revolutionary Eyes Russia Role

NEW YORK (AP) — Alexander F. Kerensky, former premier of Russia, stepped from a dimly lighted room in a friend's apartment off Fifth Avenue. He walked haltingly, the gingerly pace of the old.

His aged eyes peered at the newcomer, straining to make out the blurred image. The deeply furrowed face smiled. The greeting was courtly. It was a voice from the past.

DEMOCRATIC EXPERIMENT

Kerensky spoke of the men he has outlived — Lenin and Trotsky — the men who destroyed his democratic experiment in the October revolution of 1917.

He spoke of his life's meaning:

"A man who lives through a fateful turning point in the history of the world is blessed because he is given a chance to plumb the very depths of human history. He sees that the main course of human affairs is determined, not so much by economic laws, as by a clash of human wills, of people pitting themselves against each other in the attempt to create a new way of life out of the wreck of the old one."

Kerensky, 85, helped overthrow the czarist regime in February 1917, and served as premier of the Russian provisional government for the 3½ months just before the Bolshevik revolution.

The lawyer, then 36, was a moderate in a Russia besieged by extremists of the right and left.

POSSIBLE DEATH

Hiding from probable imprisonment and possible death for eight months after the revolution, Kerensky finally escaped in June of 1918. Disguised as a Serbian soldier, he sailed to England in an English boat across the Arctic Sea.

Kerensky's life has been spent in the emigre capitals of the world, finally settling in the United States in 1954. For many years, he worked among the Russian exiles and dreamed of the violent overthrow of the Communist regime.

The dream faded with the years.

"The possibility of an armed revolution is past," he said.

YOUNGER GENERATION

"Now there will be gradual transformation as the younger generation is brought into the Communist minority.

"We must move to the organization of social and political life in accordance with human freedom which was the essence of the revolution.

"The fight then was between the more and more absolute and irresponsible monarchy and the desire of the people to introduce a system of responsible government. Now Russia is ready to go back to those ideas. Some new system will be created and developed."

Kerensky sees Russia aligning with the West in what he believes will be a worldwide racial confrontation.

"All the future of Russia is much more bound with the future of the European people of Christian culture," he said.

"We are now beginning a new era," he said. "One of the most important results of the change is the race fight. It is more important than the division of the world between capitalist and Socialist camps.

"Now history is no longer just the history of Europe. The resurrection of the colored world will play more and more important a role.

"There is a new force — an independent force that participates in the international game. It is China.

"The liberation of the underdeveloped countries from the influence of Europe and the United States is a historical miracle. Even the Africans do not understand how it could happen so quickly.

"It is absolutely clear that all European people must understand that not only by numbers — but also by capacity — in the future they are in the minority and some kind of a new system of international relations must be devised in which the former lord and master must be based on some other means."

WORLD GOVERNMENT

Kerensky envisions a world government, one more powerful than the United Nations, forcibly establishing world order.

Kerensky declined to talk about his private life, aving aside inquiries with, "No, no, nothing personal."

He lives alone now while teaching at Stanford University. His first wife divorced him after he left Russia. His second wife died in 1946. His two sons are engineers in England. He was in New York on a visit.

Kerensky has just completed his memoirs, "The Book, 'Russia and History's Turning Point,' is an accounting of the critical period in his life and Russia's history.

Historians have blamed Kerensky for a lack of decisive action during the turbulent months before the Revolution. He answers the criticism and offers his explanation.

"The book is the story as I understand it," he said, obviously hoping to set the record straight.

PROFOUND EFFECT

The adrenal glands, whether in humans or rats, secrete among other things the hormone cortisone, which has a profound effect on the basic metabolic activity of all cells in the body.

"It appears to be essential for the efficient utilization of energy released by the breakdown of food material. Cortisone itself is essential to life," Dr. Suzuki explained.

Any unusual environmental circumstances, such as extreme cold and heat, or infection, or lack of oxygen in the air, such as encountered by mountaineers are additional stresses which the body has to resist by using additional energy.

"The taking of exercise is a stress," Dr. Suzuki said. "Worry and discontent and anger and resentment are stresses. They all call for cortisone, and the adrenal gland usually obliges by secreting the extra hormone required."

UNUSUAL DEMAND

However, when a prolonged and unusual demand is made upon the adrenals, they enlarge. If the demand is too great, metabolic disturbances result.

Dr. Suzuki's exercised rats were evidence that their adrenal capacity had been overstrained.

An editorial in New Scientist (Oct. 21) published in London, reviews the Tokyo experiments, saying that Dr. Suzuki had nothing proved nor claimed that exercise is harmful.

His experiments do suggest an interesting possibility on exercise stress in humans, however.

Pontiac, Dayton Probable Playoff Foes

Arrows Face Lansing in Tight Midwest League Race

After two straight defeats forcing a first-place deadlock in the Midwest Football League, the Pontiac Arrows must now fight off the tough Lansing Stars and hope for a Flint upset of Dayton this week to capture the MFL crown.

Lansing, a team the Arrows defeated 18-13 earlier this season, will visit Wmner Stadium in the regular season finale Saturday night, and another setback for the faltering Pontiac team would put Dayton in the driver's seat.

Flint, which pulled the big upset of the year in the league by downing Pontiac 19-14 last Sunday at Atwood Stadium, was sky-high for the game.

Dayton, meanwhile scored a 27-15 win over Milan, and Colts' coach Ed McCracken said he was "shocked at Pontiac's loss but happy."

"I know Flint has improved greatly since the start of the season and we will have to be on our toes this week when we play them," said the Dayton coach.

If both Pontiac and Dayton emerge with victories this weekend, the two will meet for the championship in a playoff game

Nov. 13 at Wmner Stadium at 8 p.m.

Wmner was selected as a site for the game by a flip of a coin yesterday between Pontiac and Dayton officials.

Should Pontiac take the playoff game, an All-Star game is tentatively scheduled for Nov. 20 at Wmner, a contest that would pit the Arrows against an All-Star squad made up of players from the other four teams.

If Pontiac and Dayton make it to a playoff outing, it would be the third meeting of the season between the two. Pontiac won the first encounter, 21-19, and Dayton grabbed the second, 14-7.

Pontiac's hope against Lansing Saturday night is endangered by the fact that two first-string players are out for the season with injuries and two others are doubtful starters.

The team's top lineman, Chico Johnson, who has played both offensive and defensive tackle, and fullback Mike Schott are lost for the game and even the playoff should it come about.

Johnson suffered a knee injury and Schott is out with a bad ankle. Defensive ends Mike Storms and Bill Yersick are also nursing bad legs but there is some hope they will play against Lansing.

A crowd of 4,000 is expected for the Pontiac-Lansing game at Wmner and tickets are now available at various locations including Osmon's, Griffith's, Bob-Ken's downtown and VFW on South Saginaw.

Midget football teams will play a pre-game program and the Pontiac Northern band will entertain at halftime.

Brother Rice Wins Crown

Harriers Place First in Catholic Meet

Brother Rice ran away with the Detroit Catholic League cross-country meet yesterday at Rouge Park's two-mile course as six of its runners qualified for the All-City team.

The Birmingham school had 32 points as its scorers took fourth, fifth, sixth, eighth and ninth places. The University of Detroit prep runners were a distant second with 85.

John Dziuba's 26th place finish helped Orchard Lake St. Mary take eighth place with 197 points.

Local dual meets found Waterford Township slipping by Oxford, 24-31, and Farmington trouncing North Farmington, 17-40. The Falcons' junior varsity also won, 23-34.

Jim Thornton's 9:55 clocking paced Brother Rice. He trailed winner Gary Powers of St. Anthony by 11 seconds. Dennis Hackett, Doug Blair, Buzz Szapczynski and Steve Scarrion also placed for the Warriors, while sixth man Rob Zielinski took 10th place—qualifying him for the All-City team though failing to score.

Bud Gerow won individual honors for Oxford with a 10:32, but Waterford's Tom Grabl and David Galloway tied for second at 10:53 and Terry Gilmore took fourth for the Skippers.

Bob Donovan and Bruce Anderson were one-two for Farmington and both broke the North Farmington course record with 10:06 and 10:13 timings respectively. Teammate Chick Terry was third.

Pontiac Northern won the Maple Lake Sophomore cross country meet at Birmingham School. Pontiac Central's Larry Hurst was the individual winner and PNH's Mark Kue was second. The young Huskies had 35, Redford Union 83 and PCH 86.

Muhammed Ali Hits Las Vegas

Clay Arrives, Sets Up Camp for Title Fight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The potential of boxing, Muhammad Ali doesn't answer to Cassius Clay, and his royal retinue were settled down today in their aptly-named headquarters, the El Morocco.

A motel (rather than a palace), the El Morocco is located directly across the highway from the Stardust Hotel.

That's where heavyweight champion Clay will do his training for the Nov. 22 bout with challenger Floyd Patterson.

Clay flew into Las Vegas Tuesday afternoon with his party of 14 persons after a stopover in Los Angeles where the champion in typical fashion told what he intended doing to Patterson when they get into the ring at the convention center later this month.

"I'm going to punish Patterson so completely he won't have any excuses," the champion said during the stopover on his flight from Miami, Fla.

"I want to see him cut, bruised, his ribs caved in and then knocked out. I'm going to punish him for seven or eight rounds."

Clay was irritated over Patterson's attacks on his affiliation with the Black Muslims sect and the ex-champion's declaration that he intended winning to "bring the crown back to America."

The champions only had one other scoring chance and were stopped at the 23.

Denny McDonald passed to Bill Krump for the key PAT after Jerry Olsen ran 80 yards to score with an intercepted pass, and McDonald hit Mike Ruch with a five-yard scoring aerial to set up the Offenders' upset win.

A 10-yard Mark Pomeroy to Darrell Lovell pass cut the McDonald Drive-In team's deficit to 7-4 at halftime.

PNH, Kettering Set for Annual Clash

Packers' Boss Still Not Sure of Team

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — boys, the Packers used an opportunistic defense to win.

You're a red-hot pro football fan. You've been told the team leading the National Football League at the season's halfway point still has something to prove.

Do you believe it? Of course not.

But you know it's true if you've been following the Green Bay Packers closely.

The Packers, who take on the resurging Detroit Lions Sunday at Lambeau Field, won their first six games this year before being trounced 31-10 at Chicago last Sunday.

The fans, however, were beginning to believe the wins were accomplished with mirrors.

In four of the seven games, the Packers were outgained decisively. Yet the only loss was to the Bears.

As a team, the Packers have been around the middle of the NFL's statistical standings all season — both offensively and defensively.

And, individual stars Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor, used to being among the league's leading runners and scorers, are far down in both categories this year.

NEW WAY Mirrors? Coach Vince Lombardi doesn't think so. Until last Sunday's game he was working each week on a new way to win ball games.

Against Pittsburgh in the opener and Detroit at the Lions' home field, it was sparkling second-half rallies that brought victory.

Intercepted passes keyed the win over the Steelers and Bart Starr took over with a sensational third quarter to beat the Lions.

Against the Bears for the first time the two teams played, the Packers looked like a powerhouse in the first half, but collapsed almost completely in the final 30 minutes and hung on for a 23-14 win.

Captains Hosts to Northern 11 Friday Night

3-1 Series Margin for Huskies; Predict High-Scoring Clash

Although the annual traditional finales with their arch rivals are the only games left for Pontiac Northern and Waterford Kettering, neither is ready to look past their own meeting Friday night.

Northern has finally begun to jell, after a string of reverses, with just Kettering and Pontiac Central remaining on its schedule.

Kettering, on the other hand, has slumped and must find its winning formula quickly if it wants to have a successful record with victories over PNH and Waterford Township.

The Captains dropped a tough, tie-deciding verdict to L'Anse-au-Croix Saturday when their defense failed them. That, plus a tie the preceding week, leaves them with a 3-2-2 log.

Two closing wins would considerably enhance that mark.

PNH lost its first five starts this campaign. Then, on a wet, Wmner Stadium turf, the Huskies suddenly put over two touchdowns and defeated the Township eleven.

Last Saturday night on the same field, they scored an almost unheard-of (for them) three times and withstood a rallying Port Huron attack for a second straight victory. Not since the 1963 season had PNH scored three touchdowns or bunched two wins.

If they can carry the success through the remaining two starts, the Huskies will have fine memories of the fall.

TOWNSHIP FIELD Both teams have strong points to display in the 8 p.m. contest on the Township gridiron.

The Northern defense against rushing has been its best weapon. In the two wins, quarterback Bill Curtis exhibited good judgment in guiding the offense.

The running of Dana Coin and Dan Couture, Tim Lorenzen's pass receiving and the offensive line's blocking have been instrumental in the recent surge. Bill Tippen has proven a valuable swing player between quarterback and tailback.

Kettering's Dick Miceli tossed four touchdowns passed last week and this just added to his rapidly developing reputation as one of the finer throwers around. Bob VonBergen is a fine target for Miceli's aerials.

This, more than anything else, could be the key to upending Northern since PNH has a small secondary.

The inebriating of Miceli and Clay McLean was one of the few bright spots last time in the Captains' defense.

However, if improvement isn't shown by the other WKHS leaders, Friday's game could develop into a high-scoring contest that would surpass all the other previous meetings.

HIGH SCORING The winning team in the four-year series has always tallied at least three times. Last fall, Kettering snapped the PNH

Viking Back Captures AP Grid Award

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Bill Brown discovered after the first two National Football League games this season that finesse made him an ordinary football player.

Today the Minnesota Vikings' fullback found himself voted the NFL Offensive Player of the Week by The Associated Press.

It was a big turnaround from early in the season, when Brown gained only 18 yards in 11 carries as the Vikings lost their first two games.

"I was finessing too much instead of running straight. I was picking holes. The hole isn't going to come to the outside."

A 10-yard Mark Pomeroy to Darrell Lovell pass cut the McDonald Drive-In team's deficit to 7-4 at halftime.

RIPPED BROWNS Brown ranned the Cleveland Browns for 135 yards in 26 carries in the Vikings' 27-17 victory Sunday.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Any Big Ten player in a three-year career.

Completing Illinois' running attack are Sam Price, Cyril Pinder, Ron Bess and quarterback Fred Custard who has netted 123 yards on the ground and 670 in the air on 57 completions on 111 attempts. He has tossed for seven touchdowns and has sophomore end John Wright nabbing three of them.

Rookie halfback Pinder, who has dashed 243 yards in 49 carries, and end Ken Micnee were on the injury list but are expected to play part time. Otherwise, the Illini are in top shape.

After blanking Purdue Saturday, giving Illinois a 4-3 season record, Pete said of his team: "These men are playing better now than we ever had a right to expect them to. Our players were great against Purdue."

Ingersen raved about the Wolverines after scouting them in their 50-14 romp over Wisconsin for a 3-4 season record.

Quarterback Wally Gahler "has made a lot of difference in Michigan during the last few games," he said. "He's really moves the team. He's a fine passer from the rollout and can hurt you running. He has fine receivers in Jack Clancy and Steve Smith. Carl Ward, Rick Sygar and fullback Dave Fisher give a sound running game. And you won't find many better lackies than Bill Yearby on defense and Tom Mack on offense."

Senate CMU Probe Stirring Grid Feud

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) — A Central Michigan University football coach told a State Senate committee today that he told his players they would be dropped from the squad if they signed a student government petition asking further investigation of faculty-administration relationships.

Coach Bill Kelley's testimony came as a committee, headed by Sen. Edward Robinson, D-Deerborn, reopened its probe into CMU.

The student petition, authorized last week by the CMU student senate, asked the committee to "do all within its power to implement a full and complete examination of the conflict."

The current series of four hearings is the second phase of an investigation which began last spring when some CMU faculty members told Robinson they were dissatisfied with administrative procedures.

The conflict heightened last month when four faculty members were denied normal pay raises, a fifth was not given tenure, and the CMU board of Control refused to hear their appeals.

Robinson had started the probe last spring after hearing some reports of faculty dissatisfaction with the administration.

headed by President Judson Post. Kelley said he told his players "If you want to sign the petition, go ahead, but don't plan on playing football here."

NOT BOUND

The 15-year CMU coach said the players "are not bound in any way by my prerogatives. They can do something besides play football if they want."

He continued, "I expect them to live by certain rules and regulations which I set up. I will not tolerate dirt, beads or beat-nike-type persons."

Robinson and Sen. Jan Vanderploeg, D-North Muskegon, each asked Kelley if he were not invading his players' minds with such a restriction.

"Isn't there duress here?" asked Vanderploeg.

"No, I don't think so," said Kelley. "I'm an instructor. I'm trying to tell these boys right from wrong. If I don't know more after 36 years, than these boys, I ought to be fired."

"They can sign a lot of petitions, but if it's one to overthrow the government, I don't want those boys on my team."

COACH, TEACHER

Kelley said that in addition to coaching football, he was teaching character and "teaching them to read what they're signing." He then told Robinson he had not seen the student senate petition.

Student Senator Earle Henry, a Dearborn senior and drafter of the petition, said "we don't consider it anti-administration. We're not taking sides."

He said 3,000 of Central's 8,200 students had thus far signed the petition, which is to be presented to Robinson Wednesday.

Seven other faculty members testified and gave general approval to administration policy. All said the percentage of dissatisfied faculty members was low.

Some critics of the administration will be called Wednesday, he said.

Further hearings are scheduled for Nov. 9 and Nov. 16.

HEAD MAN TO COACH — Dr. Gustave Weber, president of Susquehanna University in Selingsgrove, Pa., joined the university's football team for a pep talk yesterday after he took over the head coaching duties. Weber took the job following the resignations of head coach James Garrett and his assistants, who had watched the team drop seven straight games this season.

St. Louis Cardinals Owns Top Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — San Francisco is the total offense leader in the National Football League at the midseason mark, and St. Louis leads in defense.

For some strange reason, the league standings do not reflect these statistics. Cleveland leads the Eastern Conference but rates sixth in total offense and ninth in defense.

Baltimore and Green Bay are tied at the top of the Western Conference but the Packers are No. 10 in offense and No. 5 in defense. The Colts are No. 5 in offense and No. 3 in defense.

TOTAL UP A compilation by the NFL shows the average total scoring in a game has increased to 45.1 points this year compared to 43 per game at this stage last year.

Figures for ball control plays that include rushes, pass attempts and plays on which the passer was thrown, show St. Louis controlled the ball most on offense with 484 plays to 451 by Minnesota. The No. 2 team, on defense the Detroit Lions and Minnesota each have had to handle only 384 plays.

EAST LANSING (AP) — Fullback Bob Apisa, Michigan State's scoring leader with 56 points, will be the starter for only the second time of his career Saturday against Iowa.

Coach Duffy Daugherty doesn't like to put a sophomore ahead of a senior and has been starting Eddie Cotton at the position.

Last Saturday, against Northwestern, Apisa got the nod for the first time. He scored three of the touchdowns in the 49-7 rout of the Wildcats.

"Cotton was limping a little on Thursday so I started Apisa," Daugherty explained.

YEARS RECORD

Apisa's nine touchdowns now are approaching the season's record for MSU—a dozen.

Bisons Buy Wing

From Detroit Club

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Right winger Pat Hannigan returned today to the Buffalo Bills of the American Hockey League after his purchase for $15,000 from the Detroit Red Wings.

Hannigan, who was with the Bisons last year, was drafted in June by the Wings of the National Hockey League for $20,000.

He was the fourth highest scorer in the AHL last season with 92 points and 38 goals and was selected for the All-Star team.

French Runner Speedy

PARIS (UPI) — Michel Jazy of France was clocked in two minutes, 21.8 seconds over 1002 yards Tuesday at the National meet. Jazy was within two tenths of a second of his world mark set in Stuttgart, Germany, in Feb. 1962.

record is held jointly by Lynn Chanoines, 1948, and Sonny Gradelius, 1950. Apisa now only needs a touchdown a game to tie the record.

Daugherty, meanwhile, has rejected suggestions that he leave Apisa to cut and sweep more, seeking running room.

Gridders in Fund-Raiser

Two suburban Midget Football Conference units coming off productive victories last Sunday will collide in their annual season-ending Fund Raising game Sunday at Walled Lake High School.

The Walled Lake Beaver Organization's Red Devils, who blanketed Troy's Comets at all three levels of competition last weekend, are host to the Lakeland Lakers three teams.

The freshmen units will meet at 1:30 p.m. followed by the junior varsity and varsity games at approximately hour and 15 minute intervals.

Lakeland thumped Royal Oak's Raiders in two contests and tied them in another last weekend.

Walled Lake's Blue Devils, another unit of the Beavers, will visit Troy at 6 p.m. Saturday.

That also will be a Fund-Raising trio of games. Annually, the players and coaches sell tickets to the final games of the season to help finance the program.

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons will host the undefeated Philadelphia "76ers" leaders in the National Basketball Association's eastern division with a 3-0 mark, tonight.

Detriot, 3-5 for the season, will be trying to halt a two-game losing streak by stopping Wilt Chamberlain and crew.

Chamberlain stymied Detroit's rookie centers, Joe Strawder and Bill Buntin, in the teams' first meeting of the season two weeks ago.

Buntin, still a bit overweight from the practice he missed during his contract holdout, has been improving with each game while Strawder has been more aggressive on the backboards since his pummeling by Chamberlain.

Tulsa's Busy Passer Cracks Aerial Record

NEW YORK (AP) — If Tulsa's Bill Anderson showed up for practice this week with his throwing arm in a sling, nobody would be greatly surprised.

The former defensive half-back, who stepped into the shoes of record-setting Jerry Rhome, threw 65 passes against Southern Illinois last week and established himself as the busiest quarterback of all time.

The exhibition increased the number of passes the Hurricane sharpshooter has thrown to 348, the most anybody has ever tossed during a season, and he has three games remaining.

The old record for most passes thrown in a season was held by George Mira, of Miami, Fla., 335.

LEADS NATION

The latest statistics of the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau show that Anderson leads the country in almost every passing category.

He has had 205 completions, 20 touchdowns passes, 148 points scored through the air and 2,396 passing yards. Although he has lost 84 yards rushing, usually in being trapped while trying to get off a pass, he also is the total offense leader with 2,312 yards.

Anderson completed 42 passes, a record, for 477 yards and five touchdowns in the 55-13 victory over Illinois.

Pontiac Man Rates Current Season Poor

Paul Pace Takes Lead in Pheasant Contest; Son Holds Second

"This is the poorest pheasant season I can remember," said veteran hunter Paul Pace of 3713 South Blvd. East.

But Pace, who has spent plenty of hours in the field over the last 20 years, may find some profit waiting for him when the season closes Nov. 10.

He downed the current leader in The Press Pheasant Contest, a 43-inch ringneck last Saturday. His son, Colby, took over second place the same day with a 41 1/2-inch. A $50 bond will be awarded for first place and a $25 bond for second.

Pace, a former contest winner, said:

"Most of the birds we have taken are old ones. They have long spurs and a good dog is needed to get them off the ground. Compared with other years that I have hunted, I have to rate this one at the bottom of the list."

Hunting pressure was at a low ebb, with thousands of acres of good pheasant cover not being hunted. Hunters were even more scarce than game.

Hunter success varied from one bird per seven hunters in Macomb County to one bird in twelve hunters in Oakland County, which means hunter success was down from the first week of the season.

Northern ducks have arrived in the St. Clair Flats and Lake St. Clair. Duck hunters had a field day Saturday, when Canvashack Ducks were canoeing and the weather was "just right" for duck hunting. There was many a limit taken that day.

Budget Request Up $10 Million Over This Year

LANSING (AP)—The Conservation Department's budget request of $36.2 million for the next fiscal year, up $10 million from the current year, was explained to northern Lower Michigan legislators at Clare Monday.

The meeting was the first of several scheduled this fall between conservation officials and lawmakers.

Legislators will be asked to figure out new sources of revenue to finance a 10-year, $100 million state parks expansion and improvement program.

New fishing license proposals were a top item of discussion.

These include hiking the residential fishing license fee from $2 to $3 and requiring licenses of wives and Great Lakes anglers, now exempt.

Michigan's Season Opens Nov. 11

Quail Favorite Target in Other States

Nimrods who have never hunted quail are going to find out why this small bird is a favorite target in many other states when Michigan's five-day season opens Nov. 11.

This will be the first open season in this state since 1911 and the vast majority of those hunters who have been carefully marking covey flushes during the pheasant season are going to be in for a surprise.

It's a lot different just standing and watching the covey bomb-burst in all directions than it is when the same thing happens and a gun can be legally brought into action.

Flock shooting will only get an occasional bird down.

The hunters are going to learn in a hurry that it is best to concentrate on one target at a time. Then go after the singles.

Shotguns with improved cylinder bores preferred with No. 8 or 9 shot the best medicine. But a lot of hunters probably will rely on modified choked guns because they don't have any other.

Best hunting will be found in Lenawee and Monroe counties. But these counties along with Hillsdale and Macomb, two others rated very high in quail populations, are closed to Sunday hunting.

Harsen's Island is the best location in Macomb County.

Summer surveys in Oakland County showed the southern counts indicate this fall's season is going to be well timed. The birds' numbers are up some 20 per cent over the last five-year average.

Within the 15 counties open to hunting, the summer quail counts indicate this fall's season is going to be well timed. The birds' numbers are up some 20 per cent over the last five-year average.

WHERE TO HUNT — The picture above shows the 15 counties that will be open to quail hunting during the Nov. 11-15 season. Sunday hunting with firearms is prohibited in Lenawee, Hillsdale, Monroe and Macomb counties.

Good as the prospects are, the hunt is not going to be a "shoot 'em up" affair.

Compared to the state's pheasant and grouse seasons, hunting pressure on quail will not be nearly as heavy and kill will be rather modest, probably only a few thousand birds.

Part of the quail hunting code calls for sportsmen to hold their fire on each covey after it has been paraded to seven or eight birds.

The main idea behind this is to leave coveys with enough birds to insure adequate brood production the following spring.

Another reason is to help quail in their unique efforts to shield themselves against the rigors of winter. During the cold-weather period, these birds huddle in circles on the ground to ward off the elements.

If seven or eight quail are left in each covey, there are enough birds to form their feathery "buffer" against the weather.

In getting down to the basics of quail hunting, the Conservation Department points out that one big must is a good dog. Quail are hard enough to find with a dog and without one, the hunter's chances of getting much shooting are pretty poor.

As a rule, a good quail hunting combination is made up of a close-working dog and two to three hunters.

Best times are during early morning and late afternoon when it's easiest for dogs to pick up the scent of birds.

SIESTA TIME

In the morning, quail will be found moving out from their roosting places to feeding areas. During mid-day, they are not very active, so that's a good time for hunters to take a break, too.

Best places to hunt are close to heavy cover — along woodlots, swales, standing corn fields and fence rows.

The flight speed of quail is said to be about the same as pheasants. Because of their small size, they seem to fly faster than they actually do.

A small game license all that's needed to hunt quail. Bag limits for the five-day shoot are set at four birds per day, eight in possession and 12 for the season.

Proper Ventilation Aids Camping Safety

"The most important thing to remember when using a fuel burning heater or stove inside a tent or camper is to have proper ventilation—even when a stack or chimney is used."

Marvin Hartwig, Conservation Department fire officer for Oakland County, gave this advice when queried about safety measures that can be used by campers to avoid illness and possible death.

Three area hunters died and another became seriously ill last week as the result of fumes given off by a charcoal burner placed inside their tent.

"What most people don't realize," said Hartwig, "is that today's modern tents are made much more air-tight than the old ones. And campers for pickups are very air-tight."

Petoskey Assigned Supervisor's Post

Two high-level appointments in the reorganized information and education section of the Conservation Department were announced this week by its chief, William J. Mullendore.

Promoted as supervisor of the section's newly formed education and training unit is Merrill L. (Pete) Petoskey, superintendent of the department's conservation school at Higgins Lake for the last two years.

In a move timed with this change, Rodney R. Smith, regional education supervisor for the Upper Peninsula, was named as a member of Petoskey's staff.

"New campers—and we have a lot of them—don't understand the danger of using lanterns and gasoline stoves inside a tent or camper."

The officer pointed out that any gasoline consuming cook stove or lantern, can give off deadly fumes. He recommended against their use inside the tent or camper.

"Sportsmen have to be very careful about lanterns. Quite a few use them inside campers when no electric hookups are available."

BATTERY POWER He said that battery powered equipment would be a much safer method of producing light. He said that all bottle gas should be kept outside of the tent or camper and that all lines should be checked.

"The best method is to use soap and water and check for bubbles that will show a leak. Bottled gas is just as deadly as liquid and solid fuels when not handled properly."

The stack also should be checked for leaks, he said. Another reason for proper venting is to keep oxygen inside the tent or camper. Hartwig pointed out that any fire needs oxygen to burn and will consume a large amount.

"Thousands of campers have no difficulty, but each year, particularly during hunting season when it is colder, a few instances take place where people become ill or die.

"Just make sure the equipment is in good working order and a window is left open on a camper or the tent properly ventilated," he said, "and there should be nothing to worry about."

THANKSGIVING DINNER? — This Allegan County wild turkey could end up on somebody's Thanksgiving Day dinner table. The season opens Nov. 6. The Conservation Department issued 400 permits for Michigan's first season since 1887.

Herd Remains Same Size

Decline in Elk Kill Predicted

Although surveys indicate there probably are as many elk this last year.

This is not a matter of last year's hunters having "shot off" the herd by any means, according to Bartlett.

"Our studies last season showed that about 75 per cent of the cows taken were carrying calves. When we apply this figure to cows that weren't shot, it means this year's calf crop should have more than offset the 1964 harvest."

GOOD PRODUCTION

Latest department field checks also point to good elk production and survival this year. Game men report their fall sightings show a better calf-to-cow ratio than in 1963; comparable figures are not available for last year.

Also, their field observations indicate that the herd's makeup of bulls, cows and calves has changed very little the last three years.

"I think hunters culled out enough 'tame' elk last season to make it somewhat more difficult to encounter animals along main roads," reports game research biologist Richard J. Moran, who has kept a close watch over the herd in recent years.

He adds: "Both hunters and elk watchers probably are going to have to go a little farther afield in the future to be successful."

Wild Turkey Hunters Poised for Opening Day

The 400 wild turkey hunting permit holders are expected to be in the woods of Allegan County Saturday and Sunday.

Michigan's first wild turkey season since the turn of the century gets under way Saturday, Nov. 6, and will continue through Nov. 14. The Conservation Department expects about 200 gobblers to be bagged.

Game experts report that about 400 turkeys in the Allegan area are lost each year to predators, disease and poaching. The special season is designed to give hunters a chance to harvest some of these surplus birds.

Only shotguns with No. 2 shot or smaller will be allowed.

There is talk that if this special season proves successful, the department will consider opening portions of Lake and Oscoda — Ogemaw counties for special hunting seasons, possibly by next year.

These two areas hold more turkeys than Allegan County, but unlike Allegan, have not reached range capacity.

Several local and area residents received permits in the special drawing conducted last month. They include:

Everett Denton, 1181 Edison; Ronald W. Averill, 1022 Canal; Milford; Harold Howcroft, Utica; Oliver R. Heth, 2370 Alexander, Brandon Township; Alex Motolign, Almont; Angelo DiCicco, Utica.

R. C. Martin, 212 Redruth, Clawson; Martin A. LaPointe, 1400 Shaw, Walled Lake; John R. Ireland, 1140 Michelson, Rochester; Harry Woolley, 7409 Sweetbriar, Orchard Lake; Peter Lis, Utica; and Paul Strobel, 1280 Mauer, Pontiac.

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's SOLUNAR TABLES. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that day may have to offer.

COCKTAIL DIP — Here's a different dip to serve at your next cocktail party. It has a sour cream base, but the unusual ingredient in it is wheat germ. Guests who taste it will be puzzled but pleased.

Unusual Dip for Apples Has Wheat Germ, Nuts in It

Dips and/or spreads have become a must at pre-dinner cocktail sessions where they serve the double purpose of sparking the appetite and fortifying the ravenous among those who arrive early and have to await the late-comers.

Package dips are available, of course, but they never have the fresh-taste appeal of the homemade. If you agree, make up the recipe offered below.

The ABC Spread (almonds, bacon and cheese) qualifies as gourmet fare. We'll bet guests will ask for the recipe.

ABC Spread

- 1 cup (½ pt.) commercial sour cream
- ½ cup mayonnaise
- 1 cup (about ¼ lb.) shredded American cheese
- ¼ cup wheat germ
- ¼ cup finely chopped toasted almonds

- 2 strips crisp-cooked bacon, crumbled
 - 1 tablespoon chopped green onion
 - ¼ teaspoon salt
 - Paprika, if desired
- Measure all ingredients into bowl. Stir well to blend. Sprinkle with paprika before serving, if desired. Yield: 2 cups.

Westerns Require These Vegetables

For a Western sandwich, sauté minced onion and green pepper in butter; add the vegetables to slightly beaten eggs along with finely diced ham and salt and pepper.

Scramble the mixture (as you would for firm scrambled eggs) and use as the sandwich filling. Serve with chili sauce.

Color This Salad Pink and Pretty

This jellied salad tastes good with poultry.

Ruby Salad

- 1½ cups bottled cranberry cocktail
 - 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
 - ¼ cup sugar
 - ¼ teaspoon salt
 - ½ cup finely chopped sweet red pepper
 - ½ cup finely chopped celery
- Heat 1 cup of the cranberry juice to boiling. Soften the gelatin in the remaining ¼ cup cranberry juice; add the sugar, salt and heated cranberry juice; Stir until gelatin dissolves.

Chill to egg-white consistency; fold in the red pepper and celery. Turn into six ½-cup size individual molds; chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with salad greens. Makes 6 servings.

Old-Fashioned Taffy Is Still in Demand Here

A reader has requested a recipe for old-fashioned taffy.

VINEGAR TAFFY

- 2½ cups granulated sugar
- ¼ cup water
- ¼ cup cider vinegar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine sugar, water, vinegar, salt and butter or margarine in heavy sauce pan. Place over heat, stirring constantly until sugar dissolves. Wipe crystals from side of pan with damp cloth.

Cook without stirring to 270-272 degrees or soft crack stage. Remove from heat; add vanilla.

Pour candy onto buttered platter. Cool, turning edges toward center as necessary to prevent hardening. When cool enough to handle, dust hands well with cornstarch. Gather taffy into ball and pull with the fingertips until it holds shape well.

Divide in two parts; pull and twist each part into 1-inch rope. Place on waxed paper.

Cut 1-inch pieces with kitchen shears. When hard, wrap each piece in waxed paper or plastic wrap. Keep in airtight container. Makes about 70 pieces or one pound of taffy.

Onion Soup Mix Is Part of Spicy Sauce

Here's a barbecue-type sauce for chicken that is cooked in doors.

Barbecued Skillet Chicken

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1 large clove garlic, minced
- 2 pounds chicken parts
- 1 can (1½ ounces) dry onion soup mix
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ cup water
- ½ cup ketchup
- 1 tablespoon honey
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

In a large skillet, melt the butter with the curry and garlic. Add chicken and brown; remove chicken. Into the drippings, stir the soup mix and flour; gradually stir in the water; stir in remaining ingredients. Return chicken to pan. Cover and cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until chicken is tender — about 5 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Chutney and Nuts for Chicken Spread

Ever add chopped, toasted almonds and chopped drained chutney to minced chicken and mayonnaise for sandwiches? This is an especially delicious combination.

Make up this filling just before it is to be used so the almonds will not get soggy.

80 Degrees to Rise

For best flavor in the resulting loaves let yeast-bread dough rise in a warm place whose temperature is nearer 80 degrees than 85 degrees.

Frost Meat Loaf With Potatoes

You probably have the makings of a meat and potato roast right on your kitchen shelf! Open two cans of luncheon meat and place the contents end to end on a rack in an open roasting pan.

Spread with sweet potatoes or mashed potatoes made from the instant variety. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until heated through.

If you wish, sweet potatoes may be seasoned to taste with brown sugar or drizzled with ¼ cup of dark corn syrup after the loaf is frosted.

Life in Safari Land Still Ideal for Romanticist

By JOSEPH MACSWEN

Canadian Press Writer

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) —

"Put out the leopard bait. Come back to the tent. Leopard in the tree. George took a shot after about 10 minutes. Leopard fell off tree heavily, ran into bush grunting."

"Went out at 5:30 a.m. to spot where George shot at leopard. Found no blood. Inspected all bushes where he must be hiding. Had a medical box in the Land Rover and thought that if I have to be done up by a leopard at all, I hope it's now with two doctors along. Disappointed at not finding leopard."

That's an excerpt from the personal record of one of Nairobi's white hunters. His name, appropriately, is Chris Lyon. He combines a lively business sense with a thirst for adventure.

The white hunters of Kenya still are a romantic breed — as in the novels of Hemingway and Ruark — and they still roar up to the new Stanley Hotel in their Land Rovers, often in the company of lovely long-legged ladies in big dark glasses and short skirts.

IMAGINATIVE?

But Lyon, who is 32, and good-looking, says Hollywood has been a bit overimaginative in portraying white hunters as Lohengrins of the savannah — men who seek tender game in safari tents as well as tough game in the wilds.

"Generally speaking, that story has been grossly exaggerated," said Lyon, picking his words carefully.

It may be significant, however, that when the easy-going bachelor rifled through snapshots of "trophies," they included not only rhino, elephants, greater kudu, buffalo and warthogs but also long-legged ladies in big dark glasses and short skirts.

Even so, the story that emerges from Lyon's records is one of extremely hard living and hunting in the bush, with an occasional thrill of pride and excitement at a good kill.

"Quite satisfied with the elephant," is one comment on a Tuesday's work. "We saw three fair bulls, decided on the best which I think will weigh 70 pounds each" — that is, the tusks would weigh 70 pounds.

"Nicely curved and good trophy ivory. Four and one-half feet sticking out but very thin toward the end."

"The first easy gift we've had on the whole safari. Back to camp at 5 where we had a drink and a much-needed shower. Saw the tracks of a lion near camp."

Then came Wednesday: "Call in for 5, looked for warthog, eland, lesser kudu. Saw none — went to elephant and turned it over with help of truck and Land Rover. Tusks weighed 72 and 80, nice trophy ivory. Shot an ox in the afternoon and put him up for lion bait, also prepared another lion bait near camp."

Lyon roams as far as 2,500 miles at a time, through Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania or even to Bechuanaland, bordering South Africa. Safaris cost a client $3,350 for one white hunter for 30 days, including the services of skilled African staff, cooks, drivers, gun bearers, camp equipment, food, medicine chest and snakebite outfits. Drinks, tobacco and game licenses come extra.

Lyon wanted to be a white hunter. He came to Kenya to join the police during the Mau Mau rebellion 11 years ago. "I became a stooge, or apprentice, in the hunting business, greasing the trucks, doing things like that. I was helped by a game warden to get my first elephant."

There are no African — black — professional hunters in the same sense as Lyon. Educated Africans do not turn to this type of work. Uneducated trackers who are perfectly capable of hunting the animals may not be adept at drinking with and "cheating up" the clients.

In neighboring Tanzania, white hunters have been "nationalized" and a government agency oversees their operations. Some say the old-time personal relationship between the hunters and the clients has been harmed.

NOT THE SAME

Other critics have maintained that the white hunters are not what they used to be. One Tanzanian source said they once were a breed who accepted clients only because it enabled them to indulge their love of the wild. Now they are businessmen. Lyon, for his part, says he is eager to hunt anywhere at any time, "regardless of rainy season or anything else."

Camera safaris are growing in popularity and these are welcomed by Lyon and his colleagues. The white hunters, who number nearly 100 in Kenya, have an association and boast that not one client has been injured by an animal while in their care in more than 30 years.

Elephants are among Lyon's favorite prey but "I enjoy going after anything at all that fights back." He's happy to see a sophisticated hunter wants to seek out the more elusive and hard-to-find game, such as the bongo, antelope which live deep in the bush.

Is he often frightened?

"Some of the book writers seem to face far more charges from rhino and the like than I

Ordinance Blocks Mining Lead Vein

JOPLIN, Mo. — A vein of free lead said by engineers to be one of the richest ever discovered in this lead and zinc area has been found — but it cannot be "worked."

The vein of pure lead is only five feet below the surface, is four feet wide and 18 inches thick and is near a mine which operated 65 years ago.

The discovery was made when a crew was digging footings for a building foundation.

Man's Stuck on Job;

Soap to the Rescue

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. — One of the jobs of L. A. McGuire is to service an 1897-model locomotive on a narrow-gauge railway which is on a tourist train near here.

One night, he got stuck in the boiler as he was inspecting it, and could go neither forward nor backward. Firemen from Santa Cruz slicked him with soap and freed him after two hours.

Cow Whale No Company

SEATTLE, Wash. — The cow whale corralled to keep company with Namu, the world's only captive killer whale, departed with a monumental splash yesterday.

She and her calf were being towed in a floating pen from an inlet in Puget Sound to a cove a few miles away where Namu is fenced in on his winter range.

The cow saw her chance when the backwash from a boat forced the rear log of the pen under water. The calf didn't follow.

Seattle aquarium owner Ted Griffin hasn't decided whether he'll keep the calf.

It's GMC Diesel, for Those Who Think Performance

Let's play slogans. "Drinking and Driving Don't Mix." That's an old but proven adage. "Diesels and Soft Drinks Do (mix)." That's a new one, currently being proven by GMC Truck & Coach Division.

A recent order for 51 new GMC Truck diesels by one of the nation's leading bottling companies illustrates a trend toward diesel powered trucks in the soft drink field.

According to Frank Harris, national vice president of Lease Plan International which supplied the trucks for Pepsi-Cola General Bottlers, Inc., of Chicago under a full maintenance lease arrangement, the GMC Toro-Flow diesels were selected because of their proven performance in stop-and-go operations.

"This order," he said, "is indicative of what's happening throughout the soft drink field: Operators seeking increased economy are switching from gasoline to Diesel powered trucks."

Harris said his organization is convinced that diesels are better suited for soft drink delivery.

'IDEALLY SUITED'

"We feel they are ideally suited for three basic reasons: fuel economy, longer life and maintenance economy."

Before selecting the Toro-Flows, General Bottlers conducted an intensive study to determine its specific needs.

New bottle sizes and packages together with changing pallet and truck sizes magnified the need for more flexible trucks to handle multiple items.

The solution, General Bottlers concluded, lies in the selection of a good diesel powered chassis, a 10-bay aluminum body, and a 3-foot by 3-foot pallet.

CONSIDERABLE STUDY

"We gave both the gasoline and Diesel chassis a good deal of study, but the combination of an aluminum body and the inherent economies of the diesel, plus added features found in the Toro-Flow, persuaded us to go Diesel," explained A. M. Olsen, senior vice president of production for General Bottlers.

"We chose the GMC Model DBVH-5016, six-cylinder Toro-Flow diesel primarily because it provides improved mileage and general operating economies."

"The Toro-Flow's heavier design strength and engine simplification mean greater life expectancy from vehicles assigned to stop-and-go operations."

LESS WEIGHT

Of prime importance are the special beverage bodies. Made of aluminum, the body weighs 3,520 pounds less than a comparable steel body, resulting therefore in a bonus payload of 88 cases per load and easy care handling by the salesman.

Combinations of economical chassis and bodies as represented by the 51 new GMC's, Harris and Olsen contended, mean diesels will continue making similar inroads in the soft drink field and other applications formerly dominated by gasoline engines.

Abortion Case Given Over to Circuit Court

A 45-year-old Alma woman charged with administering an abortion with intent to produce miscarriage was bound over to Circuit Court at her preliminary examination yesterday before Waterford Township Justice Kenneth H. Hempstead.

Mrs. Lillian T. Gee will appear in Circuit Court for arraignment at 9 a.m. Nov. 17.

She is accused of performing the abortion on her 19-year-old daughter, a resident of West Bloomfield Township.

Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital officials reported the abortion to State Police when the daughter was admitted to the hospital in serious condition.

She was later released.

Conviction on the charge is punishable by a maximum of four years imprisonment.

MARQUETTE, Kan. (U.P.) John Akers was marooned by floodwaters at his farm home near here for several days.

18th District Dems Schedule Dance

The 18th Democratic Congressional District Committee will sponsor a dance Nov. 12 at Cobo Hall, Detroit, featuring the music of Woody Herman. Tickets for the 9 p.m. dance are on sale at Grinnell's, and will be available at Cobo Hall the night of the dance.

"We've decided to forego the usual Congressional dinner this year," said general chairman Dr. Leon Fill of Huntington Woods.

"This year, we'll give everybody a respite from the rubber chicken and cold roast beef."

Waterford May Seek U.S. School Grant

The Waterford Township Board of Education tomorrow night will consider a recommendation of the administration to apply for a $122,983 federal grant under the elementary and secondary education act.

The funds would be used to establish a program under Title I of the act.

School officials disclosed previously that the money would be earmarked to establish a program geared to children experiencing a problem in learning and adjusting to school.

A building to house the program is currently being sought. It is hoped the program will be launched by Jan. 1.

The amount of money sought is the maximum that the school district is entitled. This is based on 516 students whose families have an annual income of less than $2,000.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business tomorrow, the board will consider a recommendation on an option to purchase an elementary school site in West Bloomfield Township.

The site is located south of

Also tomorrow night the board will act on a proposal to appoint an architect designate to work on preliminary planning of facilities for a projected third high school.

THE HEAT'S ON—Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, drapes a handkerchief over his ear and rubs his lips as he watches a three-hour Saigon parade in the scorching heat. The parade was held Monday on the second anniversary of the overthrow of the Ngo Dinh Diem regime.

Marines Training Sniper Teams to Keep Viet Cong Out of Range

DA NANG, South Viet Nam and 12 with the division's recon (AP) — Taking a page from the naissance unit.

Viet Cong's book, the U.S. Marines are training some of their Leathernecks in Viet Nam to be snipers. The aim is to keep enemy snipers outside effective range of Marine infantrymen.

Combat experience has indicated a requirement for the employment of sniper teams to deny the enemy movement through the area of operation," said Capt. Robert A. Russell of Vista, Calif., in charge of the 3rd Marine Division's sniper project.

"The Viet Cong have been effective against us," Russell said, "and now we are going to deny them the capability of getting so close to us."

The Marines plan a total of 92 snipers — 20 attached to each of the division's four regiments.

Oil Well Pumps Money Into School System

IRVINE, Ky. (AP)—There are no classes at the Granny Richardson School—but there is an oil well. Classes ended at the one-room school early in 1964. But the property has continued to pump money into the Estill well dug in the 1920s, provides rived from selling the property.

Supt. Douglas Miller said the well dug in the 1920s, provides more money than would be derived from selling the property.

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Supreme Court's ruling Tuesday accomplished some of the things unique in the long and sometimes bitter history of legislative apportionment—substantial unanimity among all combatants.

Most partisans on both sides of the issue feel that their position will be justified when the apportionment commission completes its reconsideration of the districting question.

Without necessarily overturning the present Democratic-backed plan, the high court, on a 5-3 vote, ordered the commission back to work.

Republicans felt vindicated and Democrats appeared unruffled, pointing out that "one man-one vote" is still the law of the land.

Any new districting plan is still going to have to adhere to the U.S. Supreme Court's decree that population must be the overriding factor, spokesmen said.

August Scholle, president of the state AFL-CIO and one of the oldest veterans in the apportionment fight in terms of years of service, said:

"We now have one man-one vote, and regardless of the resistance and howling of the diehards, the commission will have to come up with a plan that meets the demands of the U.S. Supreme Court."

Democratic State Chairman Zoltan Perceny added: "The decision does nothing to disrupt the law of the land which calls for legislative districting on a 'one man-one vote' basis."

"As long as legislative districting is done on a fair and equitable basis, giving full weight to each voter's ballot, we are confident that any fairly apportioned legislature will be responsive to the needs of the people — and no one can ask for more than that," he added.

IN PUBLIC INTEREST

His Republican counterpart—Mrs. Elly Peterson—called the court's action "definitely in the public interest and good for the people of Michigan."

"We can now look forward to a new and sensible reapportionment that will do away with gerrymandering and bring the people back into adjoining districts which have more in common with one another," she added.

The current districting may have contributed to strong Democratic laws, Mrs. Peterson said, "but I am sure that under a more reasonable apportionment, 1966 will be a different story."

Gov. George Romney was on a tour of Asia, but acting Gov. William Milliken said he was pleased that the court has seen fit to undertake a final decision in this most important matter of apportionment.

"I am hopeful that an equitable plan will be forthcoming from the commission on legislative apportionment," he added.

Detroit accountant Richard Austin, who collaborated with Robert Kleiner in drafting the present plan, was "reluctant to comment," beyond saying that "we'll just have to study the court's opinion."

Former Gov. Wilbur Brucker, one of the chief Republican draftsmen on the commission, called it "a fine decision."

He expressed "reasonable hope we are going to be able to agree on some plan or plans to submit in time for the 1966 election."

Dr. James Pollack, University of Michigan political science professor, one of the 34 petitioners in the suit and an adviser to the Constitutional Convention, said:

"I'm very gratified at the decision, and also that the decision is not a partisan one. Clearly something had to be done to give Michigan a fair and equitable apportionment of its legislature."

If the state court had not done it, he said, "I feel that it would have been done by the U.S. Supreme Court."

Because of its strict adherence to one man-one vote, he said, the Austin-Kleiner plan resulted in a "series of inequities and very bad gerrymanders. These, I think, can be corrected by allowing more leeway in the population of the districts and following existing political administrative lines more closely."

SOME VARIATIONS
He said it seems clear now that the U.S. Supreme Court is "quite willing to admit...some variation."

Other petitioners and their reactions included:

East German Conflict

Cowboys, Indians vs. 'Plain' Reds

By LEON DENNEN
NEW YORK (NEA) — East Germany's dictator Walter Ulbricht currently is conducting a strong campaign against the "Cowboy and Indian Clubs" mushrooming all over his Red domain.

Official newspapers constantly complain about the "unprecedented rise" of such clubs sparked by the American movie "High Noon" which East German theaters were "imprudent" enough to show.

The late Gary Cooper, who played the brave sheriff, belatedly has captured the imagination of East German youngsters.

They clamor for more westerns and have even started to carry toy pistols. A cowboy song entitled "On My Ranch I Am King" has become the biggest hit in East Germany.

The Marxist-Leninist fathers do not like this at all. But they do not know how to cope with the situation.

OLD GAME

To be sure, kids throughout the world have been playing cowboys and Indians for decades. But Ulbricht and his ideologists suspect the hidden hand of American capitalism behind the popularity of westerns in East Germany.

How is one to counteract this sinister American influence? Comrade Winkler, one of Ulbricht's top propagandists, believes that he has found the right solution.

"Why not organize Siberian clubs instead of cowboy and Indian clubs?" he recently asked a group of East German youngsters. "After all, Siberia is a wider frontier than Texas. It is also a progressive region and much closer ideologically to Communist East Germany."

But it seems that Winkler's suggestion that young Germans should "dream of the treasures and secrets of Siberia" (he never mentioned the old concentration camps) and not of the covered wagons of the American West fell on deaf ears.

DESIRABLE THINGS
It is cowboy and Indian clubs and western movies that the young Germans want.

Communist propaganda against the redskins and the cowboys is thus continuing with an ever-mounting crescendo. Junge Welt, the official newspaper of the Young Communist League, even warned that it was illegal and "an offense against the socialist state" for young Germans to carry toy Colts.

According to Junge Welt, the Colt is a symbol of dying capitalist society. It is not a symbol of bravery.

There might, of course, be other reasons why the Red rulers are so vehement in their propaganda against toy pistols.

THE REAL THING

Is it that they fear the restless East German population might turn from toy pistols to the real thing?

Nevertheless, to appease the demand for more westerns, East Germany's state controlled film company has decided to produce its own pictures about Indians.

It will be called "Dakotas—Sons of the Great Bear." According to the Communist press, the movie will give the real Marxist-Leninist interpretation of the Indian problem in the United States.

But will German youngsters be appeased by this fraud? The main character in "Dakotas—Sons of the Great Bear" will be played by a "sports student" from Yugoslavia and will not be an Indian.

It will be shot, of all places, in Communist Czechoslovakia—not even in Siberia.

Annexation Bid Loses at Polls

FARMINGTON — A proposal for annexation of a 560-acre parcel from Farmington Township to the City of Farmington was defeated at the polls yesterday. Annexation required a majority.

55 negative votes to 40 affirmative.

Some 27 per cent of the city's 118 registered voters cast ballots and virtually all the eligible township electors went to the polls.

The triangular parcel considered for annexation is bounded by Grand River, Gill, Freedom and Halstead.

PETITIONED FOR VOTE
A group of over 500 city and township residents petitioned for the vote last summer.

Except for Woodcroft subdivision, much of the area is undeveloped.

City officials seeking annexation approval had advised township residents in the area under consideration that city living would be cheaper.

But Township Supervisor Curtis H. Hall countered with the statement that the city was "promising something to the people which it can't deliver."

SERVICE COST
City Manager John Dinan prior to the election said that for a 100-foot lot the combined cost for extension of city sewer and water service to the township area would be $1,175.

He compared this to a total cost of $2,338 for similar service provided by the township and attributed this figure to estimates of township officials.

Hall said Dinan's figures were not authentic and not even realistic. "We don't claim them," he said.

In a pre-election appeal to city residents to vote for annexation, Dinan projected that the 560-acre area would produce upwards of $18 million in assessed valuation upon its ultimate development within the next decade.

A request to borrow a like amount for a fire station was turned down 517 to 403.

Township Clerk Mae Stecker said 927 of the township's 8,800 registered voters turned out.

The bond issues were put on the ballot at the last minute in place of two requests for millage in order to avoid a delay in obtaining tax monies.

FIRE HALL PROPOSAL
Supervisor Lorin E. Evans said the defeat of the fire hall proposal was "the worst of the two."

"It is the much more needed of the two facilities," he said. "I don't know what we'll do about it now unless we decide to have a subsequent election during the general election next August."

He said money from the defeated proposal probably would have been used to build two fire stations. One would have been built now to take care of present needs and funds would have been set aside to construct a second station in the future.

The township now has two fire stations.

HALL TO BE ALTERED
Evans also said there "will be no doubt be alterations made now to the present township hall facilities."

"We'll just have to crowd together a little more," he said.

Wind-Fanned Flames Destroy Couple's Orion Twp. House

ORION TOWNSHIP — Fire, fanned by high winds, roared through the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Booth at 4900 Baldwin yesterday afternoon, destroying the four-room building and its contents.

Although the interior of the structure was ablaze almost instantly, according to Booth, the young couple escaped without injury. They have no children.

Gingellville Fire Chief Keith Strine estimated damage to the house at $5,000 and $2,000 to the contents.

Booth, employed at GMC Truck and Coach Division, said he had no insurance on his personal possessions.

The house, also uninsured, was one of a group of small, frame homes located just north of the I-75 interchange on the west side of Baldwin. All are owned by Carl T. Sundquist of 4910 Baldwin.

FAULTY WIRING?
The fire was apparently caused by faulty wiring. Booth said he ran outside when a neighbor warned him that smoke was coming through the roof.

The Gingellville department returned to the scene late last night when the smoldering ruins flared up again, Strine said.

Hearing Slated on Annexation

Bruce Twp., Romeo Residents Affected

ROMEO — Reasons for and against the proposed annexation of a portion of Bruce Township to the village will be aired at a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Romeo Junior High School.

Property owners will be asked to indicate their feelings through a secret ballot to serve as a guide for the Macomb County Board of Supervisors, who must make the final decision.

Earlier this year, several township home owners, in an attempt to obtain sewer service, petitioned the village for annexation.

Village officials then petitioned the board of supervisors for annexation of 1,000 acres, a move which brought protests from other residents who opposed annexation.

The Village Council maintained it needs the 1,000 acres to properly service the area with sewers and drainage.

HALT SEWAGE FLOW
One resident, who "just wants to stop the sewage from flowing," is William Bishop of 70510 Mellen, Bruce Township. Bishop claims raw sewage flowing onto his property creates a health problem.

He says he has appealed to both the Macomb County Health Department and the prosecutor's office, but that both claim they can do nothing about it.

He said "it appears annexation would help the problem."

Macomb County Drain Commissioner Tom Welsh suggests that through an agreement, the village could provide sanitary sewer service for the township and charge the residents of the township.

Village Clerk Norman Engel, on the other hand, says such an electronic computer, there are agreement is not being considered at this time. If the annexation fails, he said, other arrangements might be investigated.

Despite widespread use of the electronic computer, there are agreement is not being considered at this time. If the annexation fails, he said, other arrangements might be investigated.

Wants U.S. to Help Industry Clean Up Water

LANSING (AP) — A paper company official suggested Tuesday that government help industry pay for costs of cleaning up polluted water.

Ford T. Shepherd, a vice president of Mead Corp., spoke at a conference on water pollution law enforcement, attended by nearly 300 representatives of government and industry.

Shepherd said it had been indicated that pollution problems were caused about half by municipalities and half by industry.

A massive government attack on pollution would leave out half the problem if only municipalities were involved, he said.

CHIEF ITEM

Finances quickly became the chief item of discussion at the conference called by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, who said much resistance to water pollution law enforcement "is caused by a lack of understanding concerning this problem."

Industry's position at the conference was typified by the statement of John A. Moeckle, an associate counsel for Ford Motor Co., that enforcement "hasn't been a matter of combat but of reasoning and cooperation."

STATE LAWS

Ford has no objections to Michigan's water pollution control laws, strengthened at last spring's session of the legislature, Moeckle said.

But, he said, government could help industry by allowing tax exemptions on pollution control equipment and allowing rapid amortization of such facilities.

Chester C. Pierce, attorney for the Wayne County drain commissioner, also urged such tax relief.

He suggested local government units could raise money for pollution control equipment by raising water and sewerage rates and, if the Constitution permitted, by issuing bonds backed by the full faith and credit of the state.

SEN. O'BRIEN

Sen. Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac,

a major backer of the water pollution legislation passed last spring, said the legislature's work in this field is far from done.

"We must go further in assisting local governments in both the areas of financing and planning," he said. "Industry and municipalities are faced with a great challenge and it is incumbent upon the legislature to chart the course with which to give aid to those faced with this monumental problem."

so vital to the future of our state."

Murray Stein, chief enforcement agent for federal pollution law, felt enforcement was needed to "give new stimulus to solving financial and technical problems."

"I don't think this country can afford not to clean up its wastes," he said.

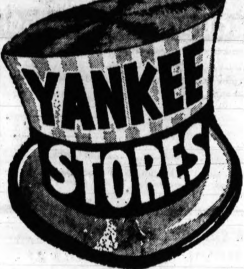

But, Stein said, "I don't think the object of pollution control is to close any factories or put the clamp on municipal growth."

Put This Dough in Square Pan

Sesame Squares

1 1/4 cups warm water
1 package active dry yeast
1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted and cooled
3 tablespoons nonfat dry milk solids
2 eggs
3 1/2 cups unsifted flour
1/2 cup sesame seeds

Dissolve the yeast in the warm water; stir in sugar, salt, butter, dry milk solids, eggs and half the flour; beat until smooth. Beat in remaining flour to make a slightly stiff batter. Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled — about 1 hour. Stir down; spoon into two greased 8-inch square pans; spread evenly.

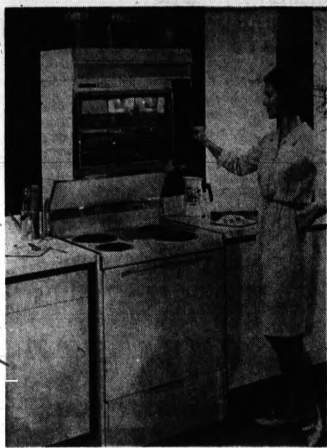

Brush with extra melted butter and sprinkle with sesame seeds. Cover; let rise in a warm place until doubled — about 45 minutes.

Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven for about 25 minutes. Turn right side up; when still warm, cut in squares and serve at once.

From "Sop" to Soup Is History of Word

Why is "soup" called "soup"? During the 10th century, according to the National Broiler Council, stewed chicken was a favorite. The chicken was eaten separately and one dipped hunks of bread in the broth; this was called "sop."

It took two centuries before it dawned on people that the chicken broth tasted great in its own right. Then the term "sop" or "soupe" was transferred to the broth itself.

TWO OVENS — Lower oven on this 1966 two-oven, 30-inch Flair range has controls to tenderize meat, cook and keep oven meals warm for serving hours later, and to clean the oven automatically when desired. Upper oven at convenient sight height has large glide-up glass door with stylish filigree pattern. Free standing Frigidaire range gives kitchen built-in look without remodeling expense.

Oatmeal Layers Hold Cranberries

Serve Cranberry Squares a la mode on dessert plates. They're both different and delicious. Mix together 1 cup sifted flour, 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar and 2 1/2 cups quick rolled oats, uncooked. Cut in 1 cup shortening until the mixture is crumbly. Reserve half the crumbs and pat the other half on the bottom of an 8-inch square cake pan.

Stir a pound can of jellied cranberry sauce with a fork until smooth. Spread over crust and top with a peeled diced apple. Sprinkle remaining crumbs over top and bake in hot oven (400 degrees) about 30 minutes. Cool and cut into squares. Excellent served with scoops of vanilla ice cream. Six to eight servings.

For Flavor Change

To vary the flavor of macaroni and cheese, you may want to choose Edam or Gouda Cheese instead of the regular cheddar.

WORKS ALONE — While the homemaker's been shopping, this new 1966 electric range has been minding the oven meal automatically. Frigidaire engineers designed meal-minding control to cook and keep oven meals ready for serving without danger of overdone. Tender-matic control on this range produces more tender, juicier, tastier roasts.

Spoon Chili Con Carne Into French Bread

Arouse new interest at lunch time with a Chili Boat Sandwich. Hollow out the center portion of a small loaf unsliced French bread, leaving a shell. Brush inside with melted butter and sprinkle with garlic powder. Fill the shell with a hot chili con carne and top with grated cheddar cheese. Wrap the sandwich in aluminum foil and bake for 40 minutes in a 375 degree oven. Serve hot ... garnished with sprigs of fresh parsley.

Small Fry Salad

Your small fry will love a black-eyed susan salad. To make it, arrange mandarin oranges for the petals of the flower; add a dot of mayonnaise to the center and cover with sliced ripe olive. Make the stem and leaves from salad greenery.

Cheese Cubes Fortify Salad

Here is a variation on cole slaw that is certain to please your family and gourmet-type friends.

The special flavor is provided by sharp American or cheddar cheese cubes, which are mixed in with the shredded cabbage and other ingredients. Try this easy-to-prepare, decorative cole slaw the next time you want to serve a special salad.

Cheese Cole Slaw

3 cups finely shredded, chilled cabbage
1/2 cup cubed (small) sharp American or cheddar cheese
1/2 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 teaspoons horseradish
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash cayenne

Mix finely shredded cabbage and small cheese cubes. Combine sour cream, vinegar, prepared mustard, horseradish, salt, and cayenne, and pour over cabbage-cheese mixture. Toss lightly. Sprinkle with paprika. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Test Yeast Dough in This Manner

When an old-fashioned recipe for yeast bread, directs you to allow the dough to rise until "light," make this test: poke the dough with your finger — if the impression remains, the dough is ready.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — Police were surprised to find the prisoners in the City Hall lock-up whooping it up. Empty whisky bottles were all over the place.

The whisky had been confiscated by officers and stored in the dungeon as evidence.

Teamsters OK Oil Firm Pact

First Break in Chicago Area Gas, Fuel Cutoff

CHICAGO (AP)—The Standard Oil Division of American Oil Co. said today it had reached agreement with the Teamsters Union on a new contract—the first break in a strike which has cut off deliveries of gasoline and fuel to the Chicago area.

Eight other major oil companies and about 100 independent companies continued to negotiate with the union in an effort to end the strike which since Monday has caused a mild crisis for motorists from Lake County, Ind., to Illinois' northern border with Wisconsin.

It was learned that 10 independent oil companies also agreed to terms of the Standard Oil contract which covers deliveries for 20-25 per cent of the area.

Chief Teamster negotiator Louis M. Peich said deliveries for the firms that signed the contract would resume later today to the six-county area.

T. G. Hanlon, employer relations manager for Standard, said the division agreed to a new contract "in order that it could keep its Chicago-area customers supplied with petroleum products so vital to their physical and economic well-being."

Terms of the contract were not disclosed pending a vote by the union membership.

About 3,500 drivers went on strike at 12:01 a.m. Monday in a dispute over loading and unloading their trucks.

The drivers refused to perform these functions, which had previously been done by other workers.

Other union demands include a 25-cent hourly wage increase over the next two years, revised vacation schedules, and a boost in insurance and pension payments.

PARTICIPANTS
Major oil companies participating in the talks were Standard of Indiana, American, Citgo, Humble, Mobil, Phillips, Sinclair and Texaco.

About 155 firms were involved, the smaller ones represented by the Chicago Gasoline Marketers Association and the Burning Oil Distributors Association.

During the walkout, many service stations ran out of gasoline and were forced to shut down. Other stations rationed gasoline, allowing customers to purchase a maximum of $2 worth or refusing to serve any but credit card customers.

The union promised to continue supporting schools, hospitals and the U.S. Post Office during the cutoff.

Negro Star of 'I Spy' Series Merely Trying to Do a Job

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—One of the apparent hits of the new television season is an offbeat adventure series, "I Spy," which features a pair of on-the-beat stars, Robert Culp and Bill Cosby.

They combine well, Culp with his crisp but sensitive style, Cosby with a wise humor. Both are studiously athletic, which comes in handy when required to race across scenery on Hong Kong and Japan locations.

"TREMENDOUS GAIN"
He considers the show an advance for Negro actors in general and himself in particular.

"The series has been a tremendous gain for Negro actors in general and myself in particular."

DOING A JOB
It happened, and Cosby is now merely trying to do a job regardless of his race. That has been true throughout his fast-rising, three-year career. His comedy routines in nightclubs, concerts and television have largely concerned the joys and sorrows of urban living.

On "I Spy," itself, race is neither stressed nor ignored.

"There is little reference to race, except the kind of comment that one Italian might say mendous gain for my career," about another Italian," Cosby he said. "I'm losing money, explained. "We certainly don't compared to what I would be do any racial jokes. There's no making as a comedian, but I occasion for it between Bobbie will make it up next year. The important thing is that film producers are already thinking of me as Kelly Robinson and Alexander Scott, not as a white man and a Negro."

Only three Deep South television stations refused to accept the Wednesday night NBC show, according to Cosby. "Apparently we had no problem getting sponsors," he added. "In fact, I understand they are now standing in line."

Cosby has an agile face and a frame that attests to his career as an all-around athlete at Temple University. He was a Philadelphia boy who attended on an athletic scholarship and might have become a gym teacher except for his ready wit. He excelled it as a bartender, then got a job in a Greenwich Village night spot for $60 a week in 1962.

He continued playing saloons until the following year, when Allan Sherman put him on a "Tonight" show. Then his price and his fame began ascending.

Jim asks his father: "Practically all bridge books today discuss the raise to two and a half of partner's major suit when your hand calls for a limit raise. You start by responding two in a minor and then raise your partner to two. I learned that bid when I started to play bridge in 1950. Who invented it?"

Hole's Worth Looking Into

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP) — Patrolman Sherman Hill was sent out to investigate a report of a large hole in one of the streets.

A short time later he radioed back to headquarters: "Found hole. I'm in it."

Hill explained he drove up to an intersection, stopped and got out to examine the break in the highway. When he did, the front wheels of the cruiser dropped into the crack — caused by a leaking sewer.

Youth Freed in Killing Case

Alibi Is Verified for Time Father Stabbed

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Scott Edward Banish, 18, once reported to have admitted killing his soldier father, was freed Tuesday by a judge who ruled testimony showed the youth was aboard a tuna fishing boat in the Pacific Ocean the night his father was stabbed in his home near here.

Young Banish and his mother, Mrs. Loretta Banish, were served immediately with subpoenas to appear before the St. Joseph County grand jury Nov. 17.

A long hearing before Municipal Judge Philip C. Potts on a second-degree murder charge was highlighted by testimony of an Oregon fishing boat captain and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vines, that young Banish sailed on Vines' boat from near Charleston, Ore., Aug. 18 and docked at Newport, Ore., Aug. 23.

Staff Sgt. Edward V. Banish, 49, was stabbed to death in his home Aug. 22.

PRESUMED DEAD

The Vines knew young Banish as "Danny McFarland." He had been presumed dead at the time because some of his personal belongings had been found on a Michigan beach June 3.

He explained he had been classified 4-F by Selective Service officials and hoped to enlist in the Army under an assumed name. He was picked up Aug. 30 at a Fort Wayne, Ind., recruiting station.

Sheriff William J. Locks of St. Joseph County announced Oct. 21 that Banish had admitted the killing after being confronted with evidence that his fishing trip alibi had been exploded. The youth—testified, however, that he made the statement only because he was threatened with life imprisonment for first-degree murder.

Two Arizona state flags have been sent to Lt. Col. Frank Borman, at his request, to be carried aboard the Gemini 7 spacecraft.

Borman, whose home is in Phoenix, Ariz., and astronaut James Lovell are due to be in Gemini 7 when a rendezvous with Gemini 6 is attempted in space.

The flags were sent yesterday after Gov. Sam Goddard's office in Phoenix received a telephone call from Borman requesting the flags.

Soviet Chiefs Attend Raul Castro Dinner

Cuban Deputy Prime Minister Raul Castro, brother of Prime Minister Fidel Castro, gave a dinner in Moscow last night and among the guests were Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Raul Castro arrived in the Soviet Union Oct. 7 for talks with Soviet leaders. The dinner was the first time he is known to have met Brezhnev and Gromyko. He had met earlier with Defense Minister Rodion Malinovsky.

Actor's Marriage Plans Said Canceled

A spokesman for Sidney Poitier says the actor's plans to marry Singer Diahann Carroll had been canceled.

The reason, he said yesterday, in Hollywood, was that Poitier's estranged wife, Juanita, had not consented to the divorce decree granted him in Juarez, Mexico, earlier this year.

Such consent apparently is necessary under laws of New York State, of which the Poitiers and Miss Carroll are residents, the spokesman said. Poitier left Hollywood Monday for a Utah film location.

Burglars Break Into Peter Sellers' Home

Burglars have broken into actor Peter Sellers' country home and stolen two fur coats belonging to his wife, Britt Ekland, police in Elstead, England, reported today.

Two pieces of Dresden china also were missing. Police said the burglars entered the house while Sellers and his wife were asleep.

Soviets Orbit Hefty Satellite

MOSCOW (UPI) — Another huge Russian satellite orbited earth today on what may be a trailblazing mission for establishment of a permanent manned space station.

The unnamed shot, named Proton 2, weighed almost 27,000 pounds, tying its predecessor, Proton 1, for the orbital heavy-weight record.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Proton 2 was launched yesterday with "a powerful carrier rocket."

The launch vehicle was believed similar to the "new booster" which orbited Proton 1 last July 16.

There was speculation that other rockets of the same type are being used by the Soviets in their current test program in the Pacific.

TEST RANGE

Two separate programs are being carried out in the Soviets' Pacific test range.

The Russians are expected to use these powerful rockets, which they claim can develop more than 60 million horsepower, to launch multimanned spaceships and space stations.

In Washington, U.S. officials said the launch of a second Proton spacecraft seems to be another rehearsal for an ambitious attempt to eventually ferry crew members from earth to a roomy space station awaiting them in orbit.

Proton 1, which fell out of orbit on Oct. 11, was crammed with scientific instruments and had no room for human habitation.

SPACE STATION

But Soviet scientists at an international astronomical meeting in Athens last September told American delegates that Proton 1 was the prototype of a space station which would be manned by crews launched separately from earth.

American observers believe the Russians intend ultimately to send up cosmonauts to rendezvous and dock with orbiting craft like the Protons.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Fallen Bladder Condition Is Correctable

Q — I am a housewife. I have a fallen bladder. Several times a day I have to push it back in place. What causes it and can it be successfully treated?

A — Protrusion of the bladder into the birth canal, a condition known as cystocele, may be the re-suit of a weakening of the floor of the pelvis following one or more difficult deliveries or it may occur after the menopause as a result of a general wasting of body tissues.

Fortunately, the condition can be corrected by surgery and this should be done soon to prevent the development of infection in the bladder.

Q — A specialist found red blood cells in my urine.

He suggested a cystoscopic examination, which I am told is a painful procedure.

Our family doctor suggested that I have a urine examination for malignant cells.

Which examination would you recommend?

A — Blood in the urine is not to be taken lightly.

The doctor who can give you the best advice is the one who has the most information about you.

Your kidney specialist would undoubtedly want to have both tests, and possibly others, before making a final diagnosis.

Full cooperation with him would be for your own benefit.

Although a cystoscopic examination is no picnic, a gentle operator can perform this test without causing you much discomfort.

Your friends are trying needlessly to scare you. The alternative is to shut your eyes and hope your kidney problem will go away.

Q — I am a housewife, 45,

My doctor tells me I have a calcium deficiency.

What symptoms would this produce? Why can't it be controlled by drinking lots of milk?

A — A mild calcium deficiency might produce no symptoms.

If, however, it is linked with a deficiency of the parathyroid glands, this would cause muscular spasms in your hands and nervous irritability.

A calcium deficiency may also be seen in pancreatitis and other conditions

Football Hero's Jury Is Picked

Kansan Accused of Killing 3 in Holdup

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI)—Opening statements are to be offered today in the trial of a college football hero accused of slaying three persons and wounding a fourth in a $1,500 bank holdup last summer.

A jury of two women and 10 men was picked yesterday to consider the charges against Duane Earl Pope, a 22-year-old Kansan accused of the bloodiest bank robbery of modern time.

Most of the jurors are middle-aged. They include three real estate salesmen, two marketing specialists, two farmers, two telephone company managers, one janitor and two women, both housewives.

Pope, whose life is at stake, has pleaded innocent to six federal indictments. His court-appointed attorneys have indicated insanity will be the core of the defense.

Both sides have said they will call mental experts as witnesses, including specialists from the famed Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., and the Menninger Clinic in Topeka, Kan.

MENTAL CONDITION
Former Nebraska Republican Gov. Robert B. Crosby, chief defense attorney, has pictured Pope as a young man blameless for the crimes as charged because of his mental condition at the time.

Pope, who starred for tiny McPherson (Kan.) College's football team, is charged with killing the president of the Farmers State Bank at Big Springs, Neb., and two other employees last June 4. He is also accused of seriously wounding the president's nephew, who is scheduled to be a prime prosecution witness.

The killer shot each person twice with a silenced .22-gauge pistol and walked out with the loot.

Moody Leads Court Winners

DETROIT (AP) —

Attorney Blair Moody Jr., son of a former U.S. Senator from Michigan, was the front runner among four men who gained new seats on the Wayne County Circuit Court in Tuesday's elections.

With all 1,736 county precincts reporting, the unofficial count was 213,364 for Moody, 250,750 for Thomas J. Foley, 218,756 for Charles S. Farmer, and 212,444 for Harry J. Dingeman Jr.

Among the four losers was controversial Dearborn Mayor Orville L. Hubbard, who was found innocent last summer in federal court on civil rights violation charges.

It was the first attempt at political office for the 37-year-old Moody. He refused to speculate on his political future after his victory, commenting: "I don't think this is any time to use this as a springboard to any other office."

University Billed for Viet March Cost

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Alameda County is billing the University of California for $15,982 — to pay the expense of halting Viet Nam protest marches.

The County Board of Supervisors, voting approval for the bill Tuesday, said the money had been spent in overtime pay for sheriff's deputies who blocked marches Oct. 15 and 16 at the Oakland city limits.

The bill was sent to the university in Berkeley because the protest march was spearheaded by a group centered on the campus.

Say Williams Plans to Quit African Post

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The Johannesburg Star reported today that G. Mennen Williams, U.S. assistant secretary of state for African affairs, plans to resign in February to seek a U.S. Senate seat from Michigan.

The Star's correspondent in the United States reported from New York that he had learned on the "highest authority" that Williams' current tour of Africa is his farewell visit to the continent.

The Star's correspondent said it was understood Williams is no longer running U.S. African policy and that Undersecretary of State George Ball and Ambassador-at-Large Averell Harriman are having a lot to say about it.

The report said one obstacle to Williams' senatorial candidacy was that the Democratic incumbent, 71-year-old Pat McNamara, does not want to quit his state trade unions in Michigan had brought strong pressure on Williams to return to politics in the state where he was governor for 12 years.

McNamara, State Dems to Confer

DETROIT (AP)—A group of metropolitan Detroit area Democrats is going to Washington Friday to try to talk Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara into running for governor of Michigan as a Democrat next year.

It's to be done despite a rejection already of the invitation by McNamara.

The group's endeavor has the blessing of at least one top Michigan Democrat — National Committeeman Neil Staebler. "I wouldn't," said Staebler, "think it likely that he (McNamara) would leave his Cabinet post to run. But it is an excellent thing to be thinking about."

TRIP PLANS

The plans for the Washington trip developed Tuesday after correspondence between freshman State Sen. Carl W. O'Brien of Pontiac and the secretary.

McNamara, who gave up the Ford Motor Co. presidency to become secretary of defense in the Democratic administration, rejected, with gratitude, a proposal from O'Brien to run for Michigan governor.

O'Brien had written McNamara asking him "in all seriousness" to consider the possibility.

O'Brien said McNamara replied:

"Although I see no possibility of returning to Michigan to run for governor, I shall be happy to visit with you when you come to Washington."

CONFIRMED

A McNamara spokesman at a Washington confirmed that McNamara "expressing gratitude for the compliment," had so written.

Making the trip to Washington will be William B. Elmer, Grosse Pointe attorney who ran unsuccessfully for Congress in 1964, and his wife, a Democratic precinct worker.

Elmer indicated belief he did not regard McNamara's rejection as a flat refusal.

"I'm invited up to Washington and I think that means he is leaving the door open," Elmer said.

Insurance Firm Seeks Rate Hike

DETROIT (AP)—

State Farm Mutual-Automobile Insurance Co., Michigan's second biggest car insurer, has asked for a rate hike, the Detroit Free Press said Tuesday.

The Free Press said it had learned State Farm had asked the Michigan Insurance Department to approve the increase.

Insurance Department officials in Lansing declined to comment.

The company has refused to say how much of an increase it is seeking, the Free Press said.

500,000 IN STATE

State Farm, with headquarters in Bloomington, Ill., provides coverage for about 500,000 Michigan motorists.

It stepped up its Michigan rates in May by an average of 5.9 per cent.

The company has increased rates in 26 states this year by amounts varying between 5 and 20 per cent, a State Farm official told the Free Press.

The Free Press quoted a State Farm spokesman as saying that his company lost $1.5 million last year on liability insurance and, "Our losses for the first nine months of 1965 are $1.4 million."

The Automobile Club of Michigan is the state's largest car insurer.

The fire Marshall Russell See estimated damage at $1,000 to contents and $700 to the building.

The building, owned by Rex Egges, 7410 Locklin, West Bloomfield Township, is insured.

White House Confab Opens

Urge Better Use of Medical Manpower

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first White House conference on health opens today with a call by two doctors for new steps to make better use of American medical manpower at all levels — from specialists to nurses' aides.

But they said the education of more doctors is not necessarily the key solution to the nation's health needs.

The two — Dr. John M. Weir, director of the Rockefeller Foundation's Medical and Natural Sciences Division, and Dr. William N. Hubbard Jr., dean of the University of Michigan Medical School — gave their views in remarks prepared for the opening session.

The conference, called by President Johnson, is being held at a midtown hotel.

Dr. Weir said the United States has a much higher ratio of doctors to population than either Great Britain or Sweden, yet continues to have higher infant mortality rates than those two countries.

He told the conference: Since the quality of training of physicians is high in the United States, Great Britain and Sweden, and since the same knowledge of disease is available to the physicians in each country, the inevitable conclusion is that we are not using the available medical manpower as efficiently as they are.

He also voiced some doubts about the value of Johnson's program to establish new centers for treatment and research on cancer, heart disease and cerebral strokes. He said such centers would place greater stresses on the medical manpower under available current patterns of utilization.

Dr. Hubbard said Sweden has only 83 physicians per 100,000 population while France, Great Britain and Wales have 105 — compared with the American average of about 120.

'LITTLE DIFFERENCE'

He said the ratio in the United States varies from 188 per 100,000 in New York to 98 per 100,000 in Wisconsin — "with little difference in general health status of the two states."

President Johnson, in a pre-conference message issued Tuesday night, recalled that he had called the conference some months ago "to bring together the best minds and the boldest ideas to deal with the pressing health needs of this nation."

"The urgency of those needs is undeniable," Johnson declared, adding:

"Nearly 15 million people suffer from heart disease;

"Forty-eight million people, healthy today, will become victims of cancer;

"One-fifth of our children under age 17 are afflicted with chronic ailments."

In effect, the chief executive challenged the 850 conference participants — government and private experts in the health and medical fields — to help "launch a new era for medicine — an era even more dramatic than the last two decades" and meanwhile to set new goals along these lines.

To increase the life expectancy of Americans; to achieve a healthier environment; to decrease the infant mortality rate in the United States; to improve understanding and care of the mentally ill; and to eliminate such diseases as tuberculosis, measles, whooping cough.

"Ours is a great opportunity," the President said, "to advance ideas which will contribute not only to a healthier America, but to a better world."

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

"Please help me plan a financial program for my husband and myself. He is 65, retired, and in poor health because of arthritis. I am 58 and own my own business which supports us. We have $20,000 in cash savings, and some land from which we derive no income. I want to retire at 65, but our problem is income to retire on. What do you advise?" W. L.

A) Since your land produces no income, why not sell and give yourself the expense of carrying nonproductive property, unless it has definite prospects of increasing in value over the years? I believe you should invest no more than $15,000 of your savings, and that this should go into high grade stocks which have excellent prospects for continued long-term growth.

I suggest Eastman Kodak, General Foods, Standard Oil of Indiana, Eli Lilly & Co., and Honeywell. These should enhance your capital over a seven-year period and help your retirement.

Q) "I have $10,000 in savings. I am 41 years old, have a house paid for and an income of more than enough to live on. I know I am not protected against inflation. I would like your suggestion of really good stocks in which you feel there is positively no chance of loss. Please advise me as to stocks I don't have much time." J. D.

A) There are No stocks which are immune from all possibility of loss. By their very nature, stocks fluctuate, sometimes widely. Furthermore, if you can give your stocks no supervision, your money belongs in a savings institution.

I will, however, suggest two issues which are very strong financially, require a minimum of attention and should continue to grow. These are General Telephone & Electronics and Corn Products, and they should supply you with some inflation protection.

ATTACKER'S GUN—Oakland County Undersheriff Donald M. Francis holds the 22-caliber rifle used in the shooting last night of a 19-year-old Orion Township youth, Robert O'Connor of 669 N. Long Lake. O'Connor is in satisfactory condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

Youth, Shot in Head, Goes After Assailant

A 19-year-old Orion Township youth, struck in the head by a shot from a 22-caliber rifle, jumped from his parked car on Drahn Road last night, wrestled the gun from a man behind the car and chased the assailant down the road before losing him.

Robert O'Connor of 669 N. Long Lake told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies he was in the car with Josephine Zamara, 18, of 99 S. Johnson when the shot smashed through the left rear window about 11 p.m. Deputies said the car was parked just off Drahn in Addison Township about six-tenths of a mile from Barr Road.

After the attacker fled, O'Connor drove off for assistance, but struck a tree off Drahn near the Benedictine Novitiate.

Sheriff's deputy Roy Earp said the girl was thrown through the windshield in the crash.

PAIR TRANSFERRED

O'Connor and Miss Zamara were transferred to Pontiac General Hospital early this morning. He is scheduled to undergo head X rays today.

The girl was still under observation in the emergency department.

O'Connor described the assailant as 5-foot-8, weighing 150 pounds and around 26 years old.

He said the attacker was struggling to reload the single-action gun when O'Connor grabbed it.

Earp said deputies found an uncharged bullet 15 feet from the car, indicating the gun — said to be at least 20 years old — jammed when first fired.

The second shot entered the window at point-blank range, according to Earp, opening a hole one-half inch wide.

Detroit Mayor Is Reelected by 2-to-1 Margin

Vote Follows Most Preelection Forecasts; VP Early on Salute

DETROIT (AP) — Incumbent Jerome P. Cavanagh lived up to most of preelection predictions and overwhelmed challenger Walter C. Shamie by a margin of more than 2-1 in Detroit's mayoral race yesterday.

Complete but unofficial returns from the city's 1,099 precincts gave Cavanagh, who won his second term, 256,409 votes against Shamie's 144,852.

Shamie, a printing firm executive, conceded defeat in a congratulatory telegram to Cavanagh headquarters shortly before midnight.

The jubilant Cavanagh thanked Detroit's electorate in a statement "for the opportunity to continue to move this city forward to an even finer hour."

Vice President Hubert Humphrey phoned Cavanagh, even before Shamie's concession to congratulate the mayor.

440,000 VOTED
More than 440,000 of Detroit's 800,000 registered voters turned out in generally warm and sunny fall weather.

The turnout was slightly higher than the forecast of 425,000, made by election officials. In the last 12 years, voter turnout had averaged only 44.6 per cent.

In the Common Council race, former mayor Louis C. Miriani returned to city politics. Ousted in 1961 by Cavanagh, Miriani ran up 237,166 votes, in third place behind incumbent Council President Ed Carey with 364,756 and James Brickley with 242,649.

The Rev. Nicholas Hood, front runner of four Negro candidates among the 18 candidates for nine seats, was the only Negro elected. He will be the second Negro to serve on the council.

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit voters in effect approved addition of fluoride to their water supply yesterday. The unofficial vote was 181,203 to 185,582.

The wording of the proposed charter amendment was such that a "yes" vote was a vote against fluoridation. Returns tabulated before midnight indicated the anti-fluoridation forces were winning.

The Metropolitan Detroit committee to Retain Fluoridation described the vote as "an early Christmas present for the children of Detroit."

The approval of fluoridation would allow the Common Council to carry through on its 1963 decision.

PONTIAC AIDE: No Conflict Anticipated

Despite an ordinance intended to prevent it, water drinkers in Pontiac will likely end up drinking fluoridated water.

At least, this is the initial response to the vote yesterday in Detroit approving fluoridation of the city's water.

Pontiac gets its water from Detroit through a contract signed before Detroit officials instigated action to fluoridate.

Despite Pontiac's anti-fluoridation ordinance, City Attorney Philip E. Rowston said he saw no conflict in Detroit fluoridating.

However, what to do with Pontiac's ordinance remains a question. Rowston said the ordinance would have to be studied and reevaluated.

1955 APPROVAL
Approved in a 1955 referendum, Pontiac's ordinance stipulates that "no person... shall add fluoride or any compounds of fluoride or cause fluoride or any compounds of fluoride to be added to the water supply of the city."

Rowston said the "no person" stipulation would probably be restricted to those within the city of Pontiac, namely city officials.

Mayor Loses in Sylvan Lake

Sylvan Lake Mayor E. V. Gelzer was defeated in his bid for one of the two city council posts decided by voters yesterday.

Outing the incumbent was Fred Crossman of 2461 Renfrew.

Retaining his council seat for another three-year term was John M. Hanson. He led the field of three candidates with 378 votes.

Crossman, an unsuccessful candidate in the November 1964 election, received 311 votes, while Gelzer polled 261 votes.

It was the first election campaign for Gelzer who had been appointed to the council in August 1963 and elected mayor the following November by fellow councilmen. He had replaced Frank Dickie.

Flames Claim Pacifist in Viet Protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — A pacifist sacrificed himself in flames in front of the Pentagon.

His widow said he gave his life "protesting our government's deep military involvement" in Viet Nam.

Norman R. Morrison, a Baltimore Quaker, clutched his 1-year-old daughter Emily in one arm late yesterday as he began to burn.

Screams of "Drop the baby" from onlookers may have saved her life, for she fell unharmed to the ground.

Morrison, 31, drenched himself in kerosene and kindled himself as a human torch in full view of hundreds of Defense Department workers and military men.

PILLAR OF FIRE
Military officers who have witnessed the violence of battle shook their heads in disbelief after seeing Morrison turn himself into a pillar of fire.

The Pentagon has seen many protests against American policy in Viet Nam — silent vigils, placard-carrying marchers — but never any (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Victory Luncheon Will Close UF Drive

A general victory luncheon is planned tomorrow to wrap up the 1965 Pontiac Area United Fund campaign.

Optimism is the word as volunteer workers prepare to gather at noon at the Pontiac Elks Temple to hear results of the drive to raise a record $875,000.

Yesterday a progress report made at the Women's Victory Luncheon disclosed that $682,289 had been raised so far, leaving $192,711 to reach the goal.

The breakdown on contributions secured to date by the various UF divisions includes: $404,922 industrial, $86,726 advance gifts, $151,455 commercial, $35,911 women's and special gift of $3,275.

Final reports from the four major collection divisions will be made tomorrow to Calvin J. Werner, 1965 campaign chairman.

CHAIRMEN
Reporting will be chairmen Thomas F. Wietorn, industrial; Bruce J. Annett, advance gifts; James P. Dickerson, commercial; and Mrs. William G. Wright, women's.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. will preside as master of ceremonies at the victory luncheon.

Special entertainment will be provided by the Fenby Carr Quintet featuring vocalist Belinda Blanchard.

The luncheon will be sponsored by General Motors Corp. in behalf of Pontiac Motor Division, GMC Truck and Coach Division.

Court Ruling Revives Legislative Question

LANSING (AP) — Members of the State Legislative Apportionment Commission were sharpening their pencils, digging out their old maps and heading back to their drawing boards today in the wake of a State Supreme Court ruling reviving the legislative districting question.

On a 5-3 split that saw two Democratic justices join with three Republicans on the technically nonpartisan bench, the court told the commission to spend another 60 days on a job that many thought was done a year and a half ago.

With ruling on its merits, the court ordered reconsideration of the present districting plan — which helped put Democrats in control of the legislature for the first time in a generation.

The court approved the present districting setup in June, 1964, just five days after the U.S. Supreme Court handed down its landmark "one man one vote" ruling on apportionment of state legislatures.

In so doing, it overturned its own earlier provisional approval of a Republican-backed plan that met the 80-20 population-area formula of the State Constitution for Senate districts and the mathematical formula set for House seats.

Triumph in NY Boosts Stature of GOP Liberal

Tops Foe by 135,000; Two Governorships at Stake Go to Dems.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican John V. Lindsay vaulted today to the front rank of the party whose campaign banner he shunned in winning election as mayor of New York City.

But while the liberal Lindsay was winning by a 135,000-vote margin in heavily Democratic New York City, Democrats were crushing Republican hopes with gubernatorial victories in New Jersey and Virginia.

After seven years as a Manhattan congressman and seven months as a mayoral campaigner, Lindsay triumphed over Democrat Abraham D. Beame — and became one of the Republican party's top officeholders.

Returns from all 5,098 election districts gave Lindsay 1,166,915.

Beame 1,030,771, and conservative candidate William F. Buckley 339,127.

Even before the New York election, there was talk that victory or narrow defeat would make Lindsay a man with presidential credentials in the GOP.

Road-Building Program OK'd

7-Year State Plan Calls for $1.3 Billion

LANSING (AP) — The Highway Commission Tuesday approved a seven-year road-building program calling for the spending of $1.3 billion in Michigan by the end of 1972.

Director Howard Hill said the construction schedule calls for the completion of the current five-year program at a more than $250-million-per-year spending pace during the next two years.

This would be followed, Hill said, by a third five-year program to cost $758 million, starting in 1967.

The department's initial five-year program, announced in 1957, set a spending goal of $1.25 billion. The second five-year program called for the spending of $850 million.

Hill said the over-all program calls for the spending of $175 million more than estimated revenues will provide.

Hill said he cannot recommend trimming the program to fit the revenue estimate because the growing Michigan population and car census clearly indicate the need for highway improvements.

"I trust those charged with the responsibility of providing the revenue needed to meet these needs will face the problem squarely and keep Michigan's road-building program on the move," Hill said.

Junior Editors Quiz on HARD WATER

QUESTION: How can hard water be made soft?

ANSWER: Although not actually hard, hard water is hard to use. It contains minerals from the earth, such as calcium and magnesium, which tend to prevent soap from making bubbles and doing a full job of carrying dirt away. In contrast, soft water, such as rainwater, has no dissolved mineral salts; it feels soft to the hands, making the soap bubble splendidly. Water, coming from far underground, is usually pure but often hard.

One way to soften it is to add soda ash and lime to a water tank. The chemicals in the hard water combine with these and sink down, letting soft water flow off above. Another method is shown in the picture.

Hard water is filtered through the tank at left, which contains minerals called zeolites. Ions (electrically-charged atoms) from this substance then exchange themselves for ions of the minerals in the hard water, so it becomes soft.

After awhile, the zeolites are covered up by the minerals taken from the hard water and the exchange stops.

Then salt pellets are put in the tank to the right, making brine, and this is allowed to flow into the left-hand tank. The brine washes the zeolites clean, so they can start their job of softening the water over again.

FOR YOU TO DO: Wash your hands with soap. Does the water seem easy to use, with many bubbles on your hands as you lift them out of the basin? Then your water is soft. But if the water seems to drag and there are few if any bubbles, your water is hard.

Greenbacks Still Aiming for 'Change'

Coins Proving City International Port

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The Greenback party, born as a midwestern monetary-reform movement in 1876, now numbers about 3,000 dues-paying members, according to national chairman Fred C. Proehl.

Although the party has nominated candidates for president in nearly every election this century, the last Greenback political splash came in 1932, when more than 5,000 votes were cast for its nominee.

The party demands a return to the use of United States Notes, or "Greenbacks"—government-controlled currency backed at face value by U.S. gold reserves.

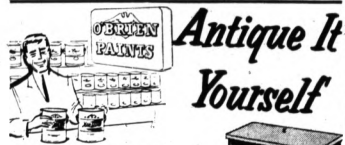

Greenbackers also urge replacement of the Federal Reserve System with a central, government-controlled bank.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Coins from 21 countries have turned up in Jacksonville parking meters in two months.

That's the report of Harry Nearing, inspector of the city parking meter department, who decided to save the coins after meter collectors reported more and more foreign coins.

What he discovered left no doubt in his mind as to Jacksonville's importance as an international trade and shipping port.

Coins have appeared from Argentina, Brazil, Cuba, Mexico, Spain, the Dominican Republic, Panama, England, France, Canada, Italy, Greece, Turkey, East Africa, Arabia, the Philippines, Germany, Japan, Korea, Israel and Ireland.
