

Enough Funds for City Raises

Revenues Will Cover This Year's Pay Hike

Existing revenues are expected to cover the cost of implementing new wage scales for Pontiac city employees this year, according to a report last night by City Manager Joseph A. Warren.

Warren said that the total cost of $44,010 to fully implement the new wages for the remainder of the fiscal year (to Dec. 31) could be handled from present revenues.

He reported to the City Commission that sales tax revenues this year are exceeding budget estimates by $70,000.

Other revenues are also exceeding expenditures.

Cost of the pay plan for all general fund departments for the balance of the year was put at $77,813. The sales tax revenues were to cover this portion of the pay increases.

PAY CHANGES

Pay adjustments for employees in sanitation and waste collection, sewerage treatment, public housing, water works and water collection departments will come from revenues produced by those departments or special millage over and above general fund levies.

Broken down by departments, the increases amount to $5,450 for sanitation and waste collection; $1,850 for sewerage; $1,850 for public housing; and $5,580 for water works and collection.

While revenues are exceeding expectations this year, a problem will arise when the budget for 1965 is prepared, according to Warren.

Calculated for 1965, the total cost for all funds was set at $287,560 by the city manager. Cost to the general fund will be $140,000, he said.

STARTS SEPT. 6

The new pay plan, expected to go into effect Sept. 6, will be reflected on pay checks issued Sept. 25.

A public hearing to amend the 1964 budget to allow for implementation of the pay plan was set for next Tuesday by the City Commission.

City employees generally appear enthusiastic about the new pay scales, Warren added. However, some questions and objections have been filed. These mostly involve classifications.

Warren said that the commission might want to consider a similar study of classifications during 1965.

The pay plan, covering 77 city employees, was recommended by the Michigan Municipal League (MML).

Judge Says End 'Shadowy Definition'

Move Fast on Acting Chief, City Told

Pontiac city officials were told yesterday to move briskly in determining whether acting Police Chief William K. Hanger was chief of police or not.

Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer urged city officials to move "with alacrity" in determining Hanger's present status.

"That shadowy definition of acting chief of police should not endure," said Judge Beer. "Either he is chief of police or he is not chief."

The designation of Hanger as chief or not was suggested to City Attorney William A. Ewart yesterday at the opening of a trial that challenges the validity of Hanger's promotion from lieutenant to inspector.

Hanger is currently acting chief with the rank of inspector. He was appointed inspector last December, a rank second only to that of chief.

NO OBJECTION

Judge Beer said that there is no legal objection to the action making Hanger acting chief.

In stating that Hanger should be designated police chief or not, Judge Beer said, "... not an in-between, shadowy thing referred to as an acting chief of police."

City Manager Joseph A. Warren, who admitted he had talked to attorneys for two hours yesterday about the case, said he had no comment on the trial.

Filed in June by Pontiac police officers Lt. Raymond E. Meggitt, Capt. Donny Ashley and Capt. George T. Scott, the suit charges that competitive examinations for the inspector's job were not offered, which they claim is in violation of city personnel rules.

Setting Sept. 8 for resumption of the trial, if the issue has not been settled, Judge Beer said that his decision would determine if policies exist for promotion and discipline within the police department.

OU officials said Renato Fuchs and Amparo Castaneda will arrive here in time for the fall term.

Miss Castaneda is a third-year humanities student, while Fuchs is a fourth-year electrical engineering student.

Meantime, Miss Hannah, who received her degree in teacher education '61, will continue her studies in her Spanish major.

A history major at OU, Parie will study Latin American history, political science and philosophy during his stay in Colombia.

Tuition scholarships and automatic admission to the Call University were arranged for the Alliance for Progress students.

No definite date has been set for the arrival of the Colombian students.

His duties as lieutenant governor will require at least two visits during the year to each of the 18 clubs in the division to keep members informed on state and national Kiwanis programs.

State Kiwanis Post Goes to Area Man

George L. Stout, 4437 Forest, Waterford Township, has been elected lieutenant governor for the 5th Division of the Michigan District of Kiwanis.

Active in the Kiwanis organization for several years, Stout is the immediate past president of the Pontiac Kiwanis Club.

His duties as lieutenant governor will require at least two visits during the year to each of the 18 clubs in the division to keep members informed on state and national Kiwanis programs.

'GOP Frontlash Worse Than Racial Backlash'

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman considers Republican "frontlash" a more potent force than racial "backlash" in undermining America's future.

"The backlash deals with civil rights, but I consider that the frontlash is the destructive reaction by (Sen. Barry) Goldwater to the farm program and rural America," Freeman said in urging the South Dakota delegation to become rural Americans for Johnson.

All was not sweetness and light. The credentials committee report was read and motion made for adoption.

Somewhat, members of the Mississippi Freedom party got into the hall, and sat down in the seats of the regular Mississippi delegates.

TUG-OF-WAR A gentle tug-of-war began, and it looked like New Year's Eve in a nightclub for awhile, with everyone in that area jammed together.

The platform committee report — another potential source of agitation for those who like things to proceed with order and dispatch — was also passed with a dissenting voice.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, one of Michigan's two members on the committee — read the concluding section of the platform.

Our own Neil Staehle was again honored — this time as the introducer of the permanent chairman of the convention — Speaker of the House John W. McCormack of Massachusetts.

GOOD JOB

The chairman delivered the address of the evening, and did a good job, winning over the castigation of the Republican party and extolment of the Democratic, that his predecessors at the rostrum had cooked up.

So ended the second convention day.

City Locals

Vote to Strike GM

Members of UAW Local 594 at GMC Truck & Coach Division and Local 653 at Pontiac Motor Division have voted overwhelmingly in favor of a strike, it was reported today by local union officials.

The tabulation at GMC Truck showed 2,103 votes in favor of a strike and 147 votes against.

Pontiac Motor workers voted 5,237 for and 344 against. The balloting was conducted Monday and yesterday.

Similar balloting is scheduled for completion tomorrow by Local 596 at Fisher Body.

The strike vote, termed "precautionary" by union officials, is being taken in case General Motors is named the "target" company in a nationwide auto strike.

Negotiations between UAW officials and representatives of the three major auto companies for a new three-year contract currently are in recess. The present contract expires Monday.

UAW President Walter Reuther is expected to announce tonight which of the three companies will be struck if no settlement is reached by Monday.

Registration

This Week and Next for Public System

Pontiac area public schools are slated to begin registering students for another school year this week and next, with parochial schools following suit the second week of September.

Secondary pupils — junior and senior high — new to Pontiac public schools can register all this week. New students and transfer pupils who did not register last spring can sign up until Friday, Sept. 4.

Students in grades 1-4 who are going to a new school this year may register Monday through Friday of next week. This would include students who are new to the Pontiac district or have moved within the district since June.

Two weeks, Aug. 31 to Sept. 14, remain to register kindergarten pupils. Registration is necessary only if a student was not registered last spring in the district's annual kindergarten roundup.

Registration for parochial (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3) schools in the Pontiac area can be made the first day of classes on Sept. 8, according to the Archdiocese of Detroit.

Plans Near Completion for Hall, Fire Station

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—Plans now are being completed for a new $100,000 master fire station and $80,000 addition to the township hall.

Supervisor Homer Case and Clerk Mrs. Deloris V. Little have been authorized by the Township Board to advertise for bids on the two projects.

Case said he hoped construction could be started this year.

Specifications on the fire station are being prepared by Tarrapata MacMahon Associates, Inc. of Bloomfield Hills.

Architects for the Township Hall addition are those who planned the original building, Swanson Associates, Inc. of Bloomfield Hills.

FINAL PHASE

The master fire station, to be constructed west of the hall, will be the final phase in the township's fire department building program.

The project was initiated seven years ago with the approval of a half-mill levy for 19 years.

Present stations are on Eastover near Adams, Maple at Woodbank and Franklin at Square Lake Road. Headquarters are at the Township Hall.

The new station will provide room for six trucks. The upper level will contain offices for the fire chief, fire marshal and station officer.

CONTROL CENTER

There also will be a complete control center.

"Eventually we will have separate telephone numbers for the police and fire stations," Case said.

Completing the upper level will be a day room, dining room, kitchen, apparatus room, hose storage and repair shop, a hose drying tower and 18-bed dormitory.

Beneath these facilities will be the storage areas, mechanical repair shop and large meeting and instruction room.

TRAINING AREA

Also planned is a blacktopped training area at the rear of the building.

When the fire department's master station is moved from the Township Hall, the police department will be enlarged and the courtroom moved down stairs.

The 20-foot addition to the south side of the building will provide for enlargement of the supervisor's, clerk's and treasurer's offices.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS

Local police are seeking state help in the case of the sickly raccoons.

That something is ailing a good share of the city's protected pests is a certainty, according to Capt. Walter Sluiter.

"We've had to kill 5 or 10 of them in the last week," he said today.

Sluiter's department has been receiving frequent calls about raccoons that just won't be chased away from doorsteps.

"We got two calls yesterday," he said. "The coons look sickly — like they were having a fit."

EAST SIDE

Most of the reports, he noted, have been coming from the east side of the city. Last week,

12-year-old Jeff Campbell of 160 Canterbury was bitten by a raccoon and now is receiving rabies antitoxin shots.

Police were able to capture one of the raccoons alive yesterday. Today it was to be picked up by a Michigan State Conservation Department officer and taken to the state health laboratory in Lansing for analysis.

Meanwhile, Sluiter warned residents to keep their distance from raccoons and to notify police if they sight one.

Chauncey M. Sanders Service for Chauncey M. Sanders, 74, of 2100 Woodward, Bloomfield Township will be 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Beebe Funeral Home, Ithaca. Burial will follow at Emerson Cemetery, Gratiot County.

Mr. Sanders died yesterday after a long illness. He was a retired horse trainer at the Fred Winegar Stables.

Survivors are five daughters, Mrs. Chris Tralcoff, Mrs. Truman Brady and Mrs. Ronald Wilson, all of Pontiac; Mrs. Margaret Briggs of Breckinridge and Mrs. Alfred Smith of Midland; three sons, Robert of Wheeler, R.V. of St. Louis and Burton of Shepherd; several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Two Honored for Service to Hospital

Two retiring members of the board of directors of Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital were honored last night with a dinner at the Fox and Hounds Inn, Bloomfield Hills.

Feted for their service were Harold W. Kruger, 4180 Midland, Waterford Township, and Harry Park of Detroit.

Kruger, a past president of the board, has served 10 years. Park is an eight-year member.

Principal speaker for the occasion, Dr. Donald Fraser, president of the board of directors, praised Kruger and Park for their service to the hospital.

They were presented wristwatches as a token of appreciation.

Dr. Donald Evans of Detroit has been appointed to fill one of the board vacancies. The other appointment is yet to be announced.

Promptly the only three members of the all-white group who had agreed to go along with Johnson — and thus had been seated — vanished in the crowd.

Two April OU Grads Head for Colombia

Another phase in the Alliance for Progress program pairing Oakland County with the Call region of Colombia literally got off the ground today.

Two April graduates of Oakland University departed by airplane for a year of study at the University of Valle in Cali.

Selected last spring by a three-man committee, honor students, Marjorie Hannah, 21, of 414 W. 13 Mile, Royal Oak, and Dennis Parie, 21, of 244 S. Tilden, form OU's half of an exchange plan between the two universities.

OU and the South American University are Partners of the Alliance for Progress program conceived in 1963 after an exchange of delegations between Oakland County and the Cauca Valley in Colombia.

The student exchange will be completed this fall with the arrival of two University of Valle students.

OU officials said Renato Fuchs and Amparo Castaneda will arrive here in time for the fall term.

Changed U.S. Prison System

Renowned Penologist to Retire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-five years of government service and this week for James V. Bennett, renowned penologist and director of the Bureau of Prisons — a post he has held since 1937.

The gentle, blue-eyed reformer who changed the shape of the American prison system while he strove to change the hearts of its inmates retires Friday on his 70th birthday.

He takes with him the gratitude of hundreds of convicts who found in Bennett more a humanitarian than a custodian. He saw the danger of idle hands and gave them useful jobs to do.

A REMINDER

He reminded them that they were still human beings by replacing lock-step-mess hall lines and bucket feedings with informal table arrangements.

He befriended many and became an easy mark for some who, out of prison, needed a small loan for a grubstake.

"I think I can say modestly that I'm leaving the federal prison system in good condition as it's ever been," Bennett told a visitor to his pleasant office, with its picture-window view of Capitol Hill.

"We've overcome a lot of

problems. We've got a good program. Every prisoner who wants a job has a job. We're running economically, and the Federal Prison Industries is turning out a good profit. Our personnel are well-trained and improving."

A CONSULTANT

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has said Bennett will continue to be a consultant to the Bureau of Prisons under its new director, Myrl E. Alexander, a former assistant director.

Why didn't he seek a waiver of the compulsory retirement age, such as President Johnson extended to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover?

"I believe a fellow ought to move on and give his juniors a chance," Bennett said. "You can't hang on indefinitely. This is a hard administrative job; every day there's a crisis. I think perhaps it will be most useful if I take my experiences and make them available to others."

Bennett is working on a book "dealing with the kinds of prisoners I've known, and their problems, and the general problems of trying to deal fairly with a defendant."

MAY TAKE CASE

Given enough free time, Bennett added, "I'm still a lawyer, and I might take on a case or two to help put across my point of view."

That point of view, which appears time and again in Bennett's prolific writings, is that prisoners must not stop at being jailed.

He speaks with the authority of long years of service in the field. The son of a minister, he was born Aug. 28, 1893 in Silver Creek, N.Y., and was graduated from Brown University in 1918. The following year he entered government service as an assistant investigator of government efficiency.

DRAFTS REFORM

Working with a congressional investigation of federal prisons in 1929, he drafted the reform legislation which set up the Bureau of Prisons as a branch of the Justice Department. He was named assistant director when the bureau was established in 1930.

He instituted Federal Prison Industries, Inc., an inmate-staffed organization which yielded sales of $40 million last year alone. He was in charge of that until he became director of the bureau of prisons in 1937.

"No man is ever really satisfied with the job he's done," Bennett said. "There are always new things to do. But I leave with no regrets."

Grand Jury Indicts Three in Negro Educator Death

DANIELSVILLE, Ga. (UPI) —

A grand jury in this rural Georgia county said 362 people yesterday indicted three former Ku Klux Klansmen for murder in the night—riding sailing of Negro educator Lemuel Penn.

A judge said when their trials come up, possibly next week, decorum will be so strict that he will tolerate no "chewing of gum or chewing of tobacco, drinking of soft drinks or eating peanuts" in the courtroom.

Courthouse sources said Negroes are on the jury lists.

Named in the indictments returned yesterday after four hours of deliberations were Cecil William Myers, 25, James A. Lackey, 29, and Joseph Howard Sims, 41, all of nearby Athens, Ga.

A fourth suspect, Herbert Guest, 37, was not indicted. Guest was listed as a conspirator in the slaying in the original FBI civil rights warrant under which the four were arrested.

FEDERAL CHARGE

Solicitor General (prosecutor) Cleve Johnson said no case against Guest was presented to the grand jury. Guest is being held under $25,000 bond on a federal charge.

Penn, of Washington, D.C., was killed by a blast from a shotgun fired from an automobile as he and two Negro companions drove along a highway in the early morning darkness of July 11 en route to Washington from a training stint as Army Reserve officers at Fort Benning, Ga. Penn held the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Johnson said last night that "all trial cases will be called next week and the calendar set after we hear pleas."

A court-appointed attorney for Lackey, John W. Willford, said yesterday he intended to file a federal suit to keep FBI agents from appearing at the trial. He contended that such an appearance would violate the civil rights of his client.

NO MERT

Johnson said he didn't think much of that. "I think the suit has no merit," he said.

President Johnson ordered FBI agents into the investigation of Penn's murder, and the four former Klansmen were arrested on Aug. 6. They were charged under the civil rights law, but the State of Georgia subsequently filed state charges against the four and federal authorities agreed to hold up their plans for prosecution.

The FBI described all four men as members of the Ku Klux Klan when they were arrested, but the Klan later disavowed them.

Switch Site of 'Lunar' Space Tests

BEND, Ore. (AP) —

Space scientists moved their simulated moon walk today to a field of volcanic ash, softer than the rock lava bed on which astronaut R. Walter Cunningham took a spill Tuesday.

The site had nothing to do with the fall, which neither injured Cunningham, nor surprised scientists. The schedule called for another site change Thursday so engineers could measure man's ability to perform tasks on various surfaces believed to resemble the moon.

THE ash on which the National Aeronautics and Space Administration team worked today was spewed from Mt. Mazama more than 7,000 years ago. It lies in a great blanket over a remote area 50 miles south of the central Oregon town of Bend.

Light-colored cinder pumice is piled more than 60 feet deep in some spots.

QUITE A JOB

Cunningham found out Tuesday that climbing a 50-foot slope at an angle of 30 degrees is quite a job for a man burdened by a pressurized space suit and a 30-pound back pack.

After seven minutes of careful stepping over the jutting uneven lava he had moved to within 10 feet of the top, then he lost his balance and fell backward.

Cunningham was not hurt, although a glove puncture caused a slight pressure loss in the suit. After complaining that his space mask was foggy and that a walking staff did not help much he climbed to the top.

Charge Viet Violation

LA Sighs Its Relief as Beatles Depart

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Today was D-day for the British Beatles. They depart for Denver, and hundreds of exhausted law enforcement officers and newsmen breathed a collective sigh of relief.

The mop-topped entertainers capped a wild appearance in Hollywood Bowl before 18,700 screaming fans with three days of rest at a "secret" Bel Air mansion.

But the "secret" got out and for the final 24 hours of their stay in Southern California, teen-aged fans turned swank Bel Air into a gigantic playground full of girls playing hide-and-seek.

Three of the Beatles visited a nightclub last night in the company of a blonde believed to be actress Jayne Mansfield.

Fans lifted the Beatles bodily above their heads and passed them over the crowd to a corner booth where they immediately were engulfed by admirers.

UNHAPPY SITUATION

The Beatles couldn't see the show and became unhappy with the situation. They also asked that photographers refrain from taking too many pictures.

One photographer, a sheriff's deputy and actress Mame Van Doren assertedly were sprayed by liquid from a glass allegedly wielded by one of the lute Britons.

"I raised my camera and he (one of the Beatles) saw me. He had a glass in his hand. 'Oh, that's the one,' he said, as he hurled the contents of the glass at me," the photographer said.

The Beatles stayed about 15 minutes in the nitery and then left.

ENDS WEEK

The Southern California visit culminated a week of hectic appearances which began in San Francisco. Then the Beatles moved to Las Vegas, Seattle, Wash., Vancouver, B.C. and Los Angeles.

Still ahead were such cities as Denver, New York, Chicago, Dallas and Montreal and Toronto in Canada.

The number of red-haired orangutans of Borneo and Sumatra now is less than 5,000.

Robert Y. Moore

ROBERT Y. MOORE, who died Sunday, could properly be termed Mr. Oakland County. He had spent more than half his life in the service of his County. His years of devoted service had been most productive in the growth of Oakland County. It can be said that Mr. Moore was a successful man in all the ways one can think of.

MOORE

As a member of the County Board of Auditors for 34 years and as chairman of the board for 24 years, he was responsible for the outstanding financial position of our County.

He had a well developed business sense, but never allowed any selfish interest to interfere with what he took to be the right policy to support. Above all he was loved by his friends and associates. He created the impression of a leader.

Robert Young Moore had received many formal honors, but the real honor that he earned in his 78 years was universal respect from his associates.

His passing leaves us poorer, but his career should be an inspiration to everyone.

Let's Pet the Pets — Not the Children

It's no news, of course, that a dog's life—once considered the nadir of existence—is something that many a man should have as good as.

Does a French Poodle have to worry about making his sales quota or meeting the payments on the family car or putting Junior through school?

For that matter, have you ever heard of any Siamese cats cracking up from overwork?

And now they say that there are 750,000 pet monkeys in the United States—all of them no doubt living just as poshly as the pet dogs and pet cats.

Before we grow morose over this, let's hang on grimly to the brighter side.

It seems to be the nature of people to spoil those they love. And if this tendency can be confined to animal pets, maybe there will be fewer spoiled children.

So let's keep on with the pet monkey business, go to the dogs with our excess indulgence and give the kids a chance to grow up unspoiled.

This will please everybody but the kids.

Japs in Deep Trouble—Water Supply a Trickle

When five years ago Tokyo successfully bid for the 1964 Olympic Games, it is improbable that the city listed Water as one of its attractions. Doesn't every city have water?

Well, it looks as though the Nipponese metropolis will be hard put to keep itself in that vital element as the games get under way eight weeks hence.

For the world's largest city (10.6 million) has been drying up.

Taxed by an exploding population, deteriorating water mains and an unprecedented lack of rainfall, the city's reservoirs have been emptying for three months. Water rationing, mild at first but increasingly severe, did little to plug the drain. By last week, there were only 4.8 million tons of water left—less than a normal two-days' consumption.

But heroic efforts are being exerted to keep the Olympics from being a dry run. Two new canals to bring in more than 1.3 million tons of water daily from nearby rivers will be operative within weeks, and crews are frantically drilling four emergency artesian wells at the super-modern Olympic Village.

Japanese Self-Defense Force planes carrying dry ice have been assaulting every vagrant cloud in hopes of losing a little desperately needed rain. And a Shinto priest in the mask of a scarlet lion writhed through a ceremonial dance, praying to the gods for rain.

The Olympic gods, no doubt.

Platform, Speech Show Dem Aims

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — The Democrats have laid down, in a speech and a platform, the main lines they will pursue in the 1964 campaign.

But the platform showed the controlling hand of President Johnson, even though he was still in Washington, as much by what it left unsaid as by what it pinpointed.

It's a compromise document intended to prevent party-shattering splits. Particularly it tries to avoid alienating Negroes or Southerners, city-dwellers or farmers.

The platform was finished last Monday. The speech was by Sen. John O. Pastore of Rhode Island, who made the keynote address at the opening session of the Democratic convention Monday night.

Yet, the very conscious, and apparently successful search for harmony here is going to make the Democrats' get-together even duller than last month's Republican convention, where the forces of Sen. Barry Goldwater completely dominated the show.

Here are those main lines voters can expect the Democrats to follow:

1. Americans never had it so good, and were never militarily so strong, as under the Kennedy-Johnson administrations. The Democrats claim the longest and strongest peacetime prosperity in our history.

PERSISTENT DEM TARGET

2. Extremism will be a persistent Democratic target.

The platform condemned it, specifically naming the Communist party, the Ku Klux Klan and the John Birch Society. Pastore said the Republicans have been taken over by reactionaries and extremists.

The Republican platform avoided repudiating extremism and, while Goldwater later said he did not want the support of the Ku Klux Klan, he did not do the same about the Birchites.

3. The platform promised new programs—such as expanded aid to education and broader health facilities, to name a couple—which would mean even broader participation of the federal government in American life.

BASICALLY DIFFERENT

The Republican platform promised some new programs, too, but because of its heavy emphasis on less government help and participation it is basically different from the Democratic document.

It was on some very sore subjects that the Democratic platform was most cautious. For instance, civil rights.

It promised "fair, effective enforcement" of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. This is the least it could do without alienating Negroes and Northern liberals. Because it was a minimum, it would not infuriate the South.

The best evidence that this was the language of political compromise is that Northern and Southern members of the Platform Committee acclaimed their work as a "unity" platform and a winner in November.

Unmarked Cars Punitive

The Motor News

Unmarked police cars assigned to traffic enforcement have been branded punitive rather than protective by Russell Singer, AAA executive vice president. He called well-marked patrol cars "living safety posters," and described them as one of the most effective deterrents to traffic violations. Singer admitted there are some drivers who are potential killers, but he noted there are also killer roads, killer traffic laws, killer signs, signals and markings which do not conform to uniform standards and which contribute directly to accidents. We thoroughly agree with that and with his further comments calling for more research into basic causes of highway mishaps.

Wrong Idea of Cuba

Flint Journal

The Canadians must have short memories.

Our eye was caught the other day by editorial comment in the Toronto Globe and Mail about the United States' attitude on Cuba and the threat of a Communist dominated government within 90 miles of our shores.

The Globe and Mail said in part:

"What form of government Cuba has is Cuba's business. That is one of the cardinal rules on which the United States rests, and it cannot be thrown overboard because the United States has a phobia about communism in this hemisphere."

The Globe and Mail should know that our feeling about communism is no phobia but rather an awareness of the great threat communism poses to our way of life.

The Globe and Mail should remember, too, that not too many years ago, Canada was rocked by the famous Gouzenko spy case in which Canadian and United States secret atomic energy and radio-location data were stolen and turned over to Russian Communist agents.

The disclosure of infiltration of spies working for the Communists so rocked the Canadian government that a royal commission was appointed to investigate. Its report was a lengthy document revealing wide activity of spies and agents working for the Russian Communists.

We wonder if the Globe and Mail at that time pooh-poohed the efforts of the Canadian government to solve the Gouzenko case as a Canadian "phobia about Communist activity."

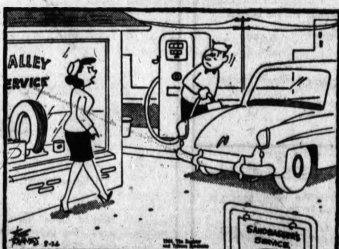

We doubt it.

County 5-Year Program

Bus Driver Job Improvement

Job improvement for school bus drivers is the aim of the county's five-year program of driver instruction.

Classes for bus drivers will get under way this week and run until March, according to Edwin J. Hendershott, transportation consultant for Oakland Schools.

"We believe the school bus driver is a professional person," explains Hendershott. "And he is interested in job improvement."

Hendershott builds upon this interest. The county offers an extensive driver education program, employing the latest methods and equipment.

He has a collection of over 300 slides of buses in operation, showing hazardous railroad crossings, curves and intersections throughout the county.

In addition, Hendershott makes "movies" of school bus operation. The films show ordinary bus operation, desirable and undesirable safety practices and even role playing with a script, plot and actors.

The transportation consultant said the effect is similar to a football coach showing movies of the last game.

Next on the list of efforts to improve bus driving is experimental use of a movie camera mounted on a bus in take pictures of the bus route as well as pupil behavior.

Formal education for bus drivers is not new, according to Hendershott. It was established in 1959 in Michigan by the field services departments of state colleges.

However, Oakland County began its own program in 1960.

It is nearing the end of its first five-year cycle.

The five-year training program begins with a course in basic principles, geared to the beginning bus driver. It is presented three times a year — before school opens, just after school opens and about midyear.

Oakland County has 532 bus drivers. More than half of these drivers are women, and 90 percent are part-time employees of their school district.

Hendershott feels this does not detract from the need for quality individuals.

"We recognize that the quality of the bus driver determines the effectiveness of our training program," he said.

Other subject matter taught includes the psychology of safety, emergencies and responses, defensive driving and human relations.

BUS MOVIE — Edwin J. Hendershott, transportation consultant for Oakland Schools, takes movies to be used in classes for bus drivers. Equipped with camera, Hendershott takes films of school buses in action. Later, the films are used in the county-run courses of driver instruction.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Fight Against Disease Endless Battle

Man has had a long battle with disease germs. Some of these germs have been vanquished. Others have merely gone into hiding and will strike again whenever we let down our guard.

Meanwhile, our success over many killers has made it possible for an increasing proportion of the population to reach an advanced age.

With old age, many persons become afflicted with chronic diseases; as these diseases weaken them they become more susceptible to infections.

One of the factors that can upset the equilibrium is the attempt to eradicate certain infectious diseases from the population.

Except in a few instances, this is virtually impossible. When antibiotics are used they kill the weaker strains of disease germs and leave a clear field for the growth of more resistant strains.

As these resistant strains spread throughout the population they cause infections against which the old antibiotics are powerless. Hence the continued search for new antibiotics.

A more rational approach is seen in the use of the Sabin oral polio myelitis vaccine, now widely used and shown to be 100 per cent safe. Unlike the killed vaccine, the new vaccine confers a lasting immunity.

The live but harmless virus used has the happy faculty of overgrowing and crowding out the disease-producing virus and at the same time building up antibodies against the latter in the blood of those who take it.

Instead of the eradication of polio myelitis, this accomplishes a replacement of one virus strain by another one with which man can live in harmony.

In other words germs are here to stay. Man must learn to select and encourage the ones he can live with.

Q — What is a neuroblastoma? Is it a fast spreading tumor? How is it caused? Has anyone ever been cured?

A — Neuroblastoma is a malignant tumor that is seen in early childhood. It starts in the adrenal gland and spreads rapidly to other parts of the body.

The cause is unknown. If it is recognized early and completely removed and if this is followed by deep X-ray treatment, about 25 per cent of these unfortunate children can be saved.

Warn Against Gas Sold as Fuel Oil

DETROIT (AP)—Fire officials issued another warning today to people who purchased gasoline which was mistakenly sold as fuel oil at a service station last week.

Officials said possible serious explosions could result if the gasoline were used in space heaters or in any way fuel oil would normally be used. About 100 gallons of the fuel oil was sold at the Quaker gasoline station Friday.

The error was discovered Monday.

Malaysia Orders Curfew in Bid to Trap Raiders

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Authorities slapped a 24-hour curfew on a 200-square-mile region of Malaysia's main island today in an effort to trap Indonesian invaders who may have escaped the cordon drawn around their landing zone.

The new curfew area is along the southwest coast of Johore State, north of Pontian where 100 armed raiders reportedly slipped ashore Aug. 17.

Police warned residents they will need special written permits to move out of doors.

So far 14 invaders have been killed by government troops, and more than 40 captured.

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — A group of Buddhist monks has started a campaign against a government bill which would establish a press council to control newspapers.

At their first public meeting last night, a speaker told the crowd: "If anybody gives his consent to muzzle the press that is because he wants to cover up his ill-doings."

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — The robber introduced himself by handing the woman bank teller a check signed Jesse James.

When the teller looked up, she found herself staring at a pistol. The robber demanded all of her $5 and $50 bills.

She gave him about $5,000 and he made his getaway. The check was made out for only $2,000.

MOSCOW (AP) — A flying instructor recently crashed with a student pilot aboard while stunting over his fiancée's house near Minsk, the newspaper Sovetskoy Patriot said today.

The report said both the instructor and his student were killed.

An investigation disclosed that flying club personnel had broken air safety rules on many occasions. The head of the club was fired and the group now is under the firm control of picked Communists, the paper said.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — More than 1,000 scientists from 22 nations gathered in Prague today for the third European regional conference on electron microscopy.

Thant Cautious in Congo Crisis

By JOHN D. PARRY

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Secretary General Thant is handling the latest Congo crisis with extreme caution.

But reports that the government of Premier Moise Tshombe is recruiting white mercenaries to put down Communist-inspired rebellion in the central, and eastern Congo are causing misgivings among some high-ranking members of the U. N. Secretariat.

And ambassadors of several African nations have made it clear in private conversations that the hiring of mercenaries can only deepen the gulf which already separates Tshombe from many other African statesmen.

U. N. spokesmen have been cautious in their comments on the reported arrival of mercenaries in the Congo. The U. N. still gets daily reports from its technical assistance mission in Leopoldville on goings on there, but spokesmen have so far declined to say how much information on the reported arrival of mercenaries has reached here.

Press reports that Tshombe is recruiting white South Africans, Southern Rhodesians and Britons to put down the rebels have caused concern however. The men involved are, in many cases, the very mercenaries who fought the U. N. in the protracted Katanga campaign, which ended with the collapse of Katanga secession in January 1963.

Thant himself has made no public comment on the measures being taken by Tshombe to put down the rebellion. His only comment, in fact, on the assumption of power in Leopoldville by a man who less than two years ago was the U. N.'s arch-enemy, was a remark that "A country gets the kind of government it deserves."

Since then Tshombe and Thant have been in touch by letter. Tshombe asked for U. N. assistance in halting what he termed "subversive activities" directed from across the borders of the neighboring states of Burundi and the former French Congo.

Thant has already replied—but his reply has not been made public. It was understood he had promised to pass on Tshombe's request to the two governments, but gave no guarantee of any further U. N. involvement.

NOT PREPARED
The secretary general has made it clear the U. N. is not prepared to intervene again militarily in the Congo. This sentiment is shared by his senior advisers, particularly Maj. Gen. Indarjit K. Rikhye of India, his military aide, who is understood to feel nothing short of a major military intervention would pacify the country.

There is no chance of such intervention coming about. The U. N. is still deep in the red as a result of the last Congo operation, and any further involvement would only increase the debt.

U. N. sources feel, however, that the arrival of mercenaries would kill any chance Tshombe has of enlisting the aid of other African states militarily.

The world organization therefore is adopting a strict "hands-off" policy while awaiting developments.

Boycott Paying for Farmers?

Meat Price Rise Laid to Holdback

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Scattered reports of increases in consumer meat prices dotted the picture today in the National Farmers Organization livestock market boycott.

The NFO drive to withhold animals from market in an effort to get higher prices from processors was in its seventh full day.

Wholesale and retail outlets in cities of the Midwest and the East say they are feeling the effect and have raised prices.

Choice cuts of beef were raised four or five cents a pound in parts of Ohio and at Louisville, Ky.

HIGHER PRICES

A meat packer at Baltimore predicted that housewives will be paying 12 to 15 cents more a pound for meat this weekend or early next week.

Stores at Boston and Portland, Maine, said they expect a boost in prices later in the week.

NFO headquarters at Corning, Iowa, claimed that increasing retail prices is unwarranted and that some dealers "are taking advantage of the situation."

Supplies of hogs going through the Chicago Terminal Market bounded upward Tuesday and forced a drop of 50 cents per hundredweight from Monday's high of $30 a hundred.

LIST RECEIPTS

Chicago listed receipts of 10,000 hogs, highest since Jan. 6. Receipts also were up at other major markets.

NFO President Oren Lee Stanley of Res, Mo., charged that it was "an organized selling day by those who don't want the farmers to receive fair prices."

On the retail side, one store at Columbus, Ohio, jumped the cost of a pound of bacon from 39 to 70 cents a pound. But at Chicago, the Jewel, National and Kroger chains said they had not raised meat prices.

The American Meat Institute said in a statement: "Any temporary reduction in supply and increase in price from a withholding action must be followed later by an offsetting increase in supply and decrease in price."

SENDS BULLETIN

At Indianapolis, Kroger Co. sent a bulletin to Indiana stores telling managers to expect a "sharp increase" in meat prices but officials refused to blame the NFO directly.

Back Seat Role for Champions in Ladies' Golf

Only one of the seasonal leaders managed to excel in her class as the Tuesday Silver Lake Ladies golfers concluded league play yesterday.

Jean Looney led with lot putts (13) yesterday and she also emerged as the season's average leader for putting.

Shirley Frederickson's 36 was low net in the first flight Tuesday, Irene Daniel's 38 led the second group, and Wanda Ziem's 40 was best in the third flight.

Seasonal leaders in each flight were Madeline Cesteberry (first), Helen Thayer (second) and Mary Turner (third).

The ladies will have their annual tournament Friday and an awards luncheon is slated for Tuesday at Pontiac Country Club.

Low Water Level Said Area Disaster

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—Raymond Clevenger, Democratic candidate for Congress in Michigan's 11th District, said Tuesday the Lake Michigan-Huron basin should be declared a national disaster area.

Under such a designation, persons who suffered losses on account of low water levels could apply for a disaster loan from the Small Business Administration, Clevenger said.

"This program has been especially designed to make federal help available when an area's economy has been adversely affected by natural causes such as drought," Clevenger declared.

Loses Foot in Escape to West

NAILA, Germany (UPI) — An East German refugee, his foot blown off by a Communist mine, crawled to safety in the West today.

Police were alerted to the refugee's plight by his children, Hella, 13, and Gerd, 12, who ran into this border town shortly after midnight pleading with everyone they met to help their father.

Police rushed to the border, where they found the screaming refugee entangled in Communist barbed wire.

Communist border guards on the other side of the mine-infested death strip, were shouting at the man: "Don't move or we'll shoot!" police said.

The East Germans apparently did not dare cross the mine-sown "death strip" for fear of their own mines.

NOT AIMED
They fired several shots near the injured man, but they were apparently not aimed at him, Western police said.

The West Germans said they cocked their rifles and aimed them at their opponents behind the barbed wire.

The refugee began to crawl, police said. Inch by inch, he moved to the West, while the state police kept their rifles pointed at the Reds.

Finally he reached the demarcation line, and the Western police pulled him across. He was taken to a hospital where he was said to be in critical condition.

Police identified the refugee only as a technician.

Goldwater on Carefree Vacation

AVALON, Catalina Island, Calif. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater cruised the Catalina Channel today, assured of at least one sure catch: a school of newsmen.

The Republican presidential candidate said he would meet reporters today aboard his borrowed yacht, an 83-foot converted PT boat, at Avalon harbor.

Goldwater's craft left the Balboa Bay Club dock at Newport Beach Tuesday soon after he arrived here for a six-day vacation "to fish and to not shave and have a good time."

His wife, Peggy, had flown in earlier and greeted him when his jet-powered plane touched down at Orange County Airport. Mrs. Goldwater is with the Arizona senator on the yacht Sundance.

VACATION PLANS

His vacation plans were as free as the whims of winds and tides — not even his landlocked aides at Newport Beach knew where the Sundance would take the Goldwater party.

His secretary told a newsman: "All I know is that I'm supposed to see him Sept. 1 on an airplane heading east."

Two other couples and a professional crew were aboard the Sundance, joined Goldwater by a Beverly Hills real estate investor. The twin-engine boat is powerful enough to outstrip almost everything afloat.

"No politics this week" is the way Goldwater envisioned his vacation — perhaps his last real rest before the heavy campaigning of the fall.

THAT'S NEWS

A reporter shoved his way through admirers reaching to shake the candidate's hand Tuesday and asked him what he thought of the Democratic convention.

"The Democrats?" said Goldwater. "Are they having a convention?"

Death Takes Senator's Wife

BERRYVILLE, Va. (AP) — Anne Douglas Beverley Byrd, wife of Virginia's Sen. Harry F. Byrd, is dead at the age of 77.

A quiet woman who chose and accomplished almost total anonymity, Mrs. Byrd died Tuesday of a heart attack at the Byrd home, Rosemont, near this northern Virginia community.

Though she had been in ill health much of the time since a heart attack in 1932, her death was not expected. Byrd was in Maine on a brief vacation and her nearest son, State Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., was at work at the Winchester Evening Star, which he publishes.

Condolences have poured in from state and national political figures, including President Johnson and Gov. Albert S. Harrison Jr.

LBJ AT FUNERAL?

There was no confirmation from the White House on whether President Johnson would attend the funeral at 11 a.m. Thursday in Christ Episcopal Church, Winchester.

Mrs. Byrd was confined to a wheelchair the past few years. She and Byrd traveled together in an ambulance on trips to and from Washington for sessions of Congress. She lived with Byrd in a Washington hotel in the winter and spent summers at home near Berryville.

Other survivors are two other sons, Bradshaw Beverley Byrd and Richard Evelyn Byrd, both of Clarke County; a brother, J. Gray Beverley of Charlottesville, Va.; and eight grandchildren.

Thief Steals Clothes in Front of Witnesses

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — A thief broke the side window of a station wagon and stole $6,000 worth of clothing in broad daylight while three persons watched, police reported Tuesday.

None of them reported the theft, and officers quoted one of them as having said later he did not want to get involved.

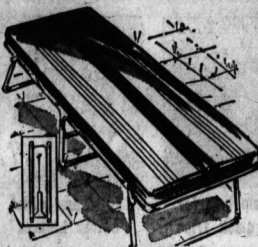

The clothing, suits and topcoats, belonged to a salesman.

Commission Hears Housing Blight Report

Blight caused in several neighborhoods by repossessed Federal Housing Administration (FHA) and Veteran's Administration (VA) homes was discussed last night by the Pontiac City Commission.

An investigation by City Manager Joseph A. Warren disclosed that certain real estate dealers are responsible for the upkeep of the repossessed houses.

Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson had requested that the city manager look into who was responsible for maintaining these vacant houses.

Warren said that two VA representatives responded to his letter, detailing complaints on certain homes.

The VA spokesmen outlined the program for maintenance of repossessed homes up for sale.

ASSIGNED TO DEALER

Each home is assigned to a particular real estate dealer, who is required to inspect it once a month, according to the spokesmen.

Funds are provided to keep the grass cut, replace windows and make other repairs.

Warren added that money is also available to repaint the exterior of these vacant houses during the resale period. In fact a contract has just been let by the VA for exterior painting of 80 repossessions in Pontiac.

Warren said that the job of improving maintenance of repossessed houses would be easier now that the city knew which real estate dealers to contact.

WE MEAN BUSINESS

"The idea is to get across that we mean business," Warren told the commission.

Warren said that if FHA officials did not respond to his letter, he would contact them by phone.

In other business last night, the City Commission debated possible legal action against Sam Allen & Son, Inc., 22 Congress, a local scrap metal dealer.

City officials have been in the process of negotiating an agreement with the junk yard owners to abate the noise of the operation.

RESIDENTS COMPLAIN

Residents of the area have complained about the noise and dust.

Scientist Predicts Frozen Human Suspended Animation Near

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON—A pioneer in kidney transplants forecast today that victims of organic ailments may eventually be frozen in suspended animation and later returned to life when replacement organs are available.

Dr. Richard Lillehei of the University of Minnesota said that might be possible when top statesmen, scientists, humanitarians, athletes and other outstanding persons die from diseased hearts or other organs.

He said such a concept would raise ethical questions as to who should be so preserved, but expressed a belief such problems might be worked out.

He also envisioned the day when space voyagers could be kept in controlled cold storage in their spaceships for trips beyond the solar system lasting as long as 300 years.

FUTURE POSSIBILITY

He said that might be possible not long after the turn of the century.

It's conceivable, he said, that such deep-frozen astronauts could be so preserved that the bodies would not age, and could be automatically thawed out and be ready for exploration when they reached their interstellar objective.

The freeze technique conceivably would also protect them from potentially lethal radiation hazards of space travel.

These seemingly science-fiction concepts, he declared, actually appear to be within science's ultimate reach.

REPORTS MADE

He and a number of associates told about the developments in technical reports to the first annual meeting of the Society for Cryobiology, an organization devoted to studying the preservative effects of applying extreme cold to living tissues.

Lillehei in an interview said recent advances have been made at the University of Minnesota in taking kidneys from human corpses, preserving them for up to 11 hours after the patient's death at temperatures just above freezing, and then transplanting them into patients facing death from kidney ailments.

One 16-year-old girl has now survived a year with a corpse's kidney, he said.

Only last week, Lillehei reported, he and other surgeons transplanted both kidneys from the corpse of a 20-year-old youth into a 50-year-old man, who is "so far doing fairly well."

The surgeon said various studies, together with animal tests, raise hopes that whole or-

Freak Mishap Kills Woman

ROCKTON, Ill. (AP)—Police say a bizarre chain of circumstance yesterday led to the death of Marjorie Harrison of Joliet.

As Mrs. Harrison walked toward the Red Roosters antique shop, delivery truck driver Dudley C. Alexander drove down the same street with the same destination.

Robert P. Kennedy, Rockton police chief, said Alexander mistook another shop several doors away as the Red Rooster.

He parked his truck about 110 feet up the hilly street and got out to make his delivery.

The truck rolled forward and smashed into the antique shop just as Mrs. Harrison reached it. She was struck and killed.

Alexander, who lives in South Beloit, was ticketed for operating a truck with faulty brakes.

Says He Understands New York

Kennedy Opens His Campaign

NEW YORK (AP) — Democrat Robert F. Kennedy has opened his campaign to become a senator from New York, saying he is equipped "to understand New York's problems and to do something about them."

Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating reacted to Kennedy's formal announcement of his candidacy Tuesday by offering the attorney general maps and guides to the state "which any sojourner would find helpful."

Kennedy said President Johnson would campaign for him. Accompanied by his wife and two dogs, Kennedy read his statement of candidacy in front of Gracie Mansion, Mayor Robert F. Wagner's official residence, while Wagner looked on.

SOME MISGIVINGS
"I recognize," Kennedy said, "that some voters have misgivings about considering a man for high office who has left the state and who has only recently returned."

He said his parents have maintained a home in New York since 1928, that he attended New York schools for six years, and that he has again established residence in the state.

"But I do not base my candidacy on these connections," he said.

"I base it on the conviction that my experience and my record equip me to understand New York's problems and to do something about them. I base it on the fact that the greatest state in the union must play a leading role at the federal level in solving these problems. And I wish to play a part in that effort."

Kennedy votes in Massachusetts and has been living in Virginia, near Washington, D.C.

There were seven pickets on the sidewalk with signs saying "Bobby Go Home," "New York or New Yorkers," and "RFK — Candidate of the Bosses."

Newsmen asked Kennedy if President Johnson would campaign for him and he replied, "Yes."

Kennedy, his wife, Ethel, who is expecting their ninth child, and the two dogs flew to Atlantic City to attend a reception for New York delegates to the Democratic National Convention, given by Mayor Wagner.

Hundreds of persons mobbed the Kennedys on their arrival, and crowded around them at the reception.

VOTE CONCEDED

Kennedy generally is conceded the Democratic nomination at a state convention next Tuesday. He says he will resign as attorney general when he is nominated.

But Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Amsterdam, N.Y., still plans a floor fight.

George Palmer of Schenectady, Stratton's manager, said Kennedy's nomination will be fought "before the state committee, at the state convention, before the secretary of state and in the courts."

In Albany, Fred A. Young, Republican state chairman, said he would recommend a state law barring persons who can't vote in New York from running for public office. A year's residence is required for voting.

of Mayor Robert Wagner, announced he would seek the Democratic nomination for New York senator.

Civil Rights Movement Launched on Montgomery, Ala., Bus

DETROIT (AP) — In the rash of headlines over passage of the Civil Rights Act, over deaths in Mississippi and riots in Harlem, over sit-ins and stall-ins and the white backlash, perhaps few people today, white or Negro, remember a December evening on a Montgomery bus.

And yet the American Negro may have traveled farther and faster that night in Alabama than he did on the long road up from slavery or on the short dramatic march down Pennsylvania and Constitution avenues in Washington, D.C., last summer.

Even today, nine years later, the details of that evening are so lacking in drama and emotional content as to seem hardly the stuff of which history is made.

It was shortly after 5:30 p.m. and getting dark when seamstress Rosa Parks put aside a pile of new suits waiting alterations at her work bench in the Montgomery Fair Department Store and walked a weary half-block to the bus stop on Court Square.

TAKES SEAT

She boarded the bus and took a seat about halfway down in the first seat behind the forward section reserved for white people. As was the prevailing custom and law at the time, Negroes yielded their seats and moved progressively toward the rear as more seats were needed to accommodate white patrons.

Rosa Parks paid no attention that particular evening to the other passengers. The white section wasn't full yet and her thoughts were of home, 15 minutes away, where her husband, Raymond, a barber, was busy getting together dinner.

The first stop brought an influx of passengers who dutifully sorted themselves out in the bus, the Negroes crowding into the cluster of standing at the rear and the whites filling in the last seats in the section marked reserved for them.

Rosa Parks' thoughts were still miles from that crowded bus aisle when a white man came aboard at the next stop and stood behind the driver. The next thing she can remember is the heavy-set driver twisting around and addressing her and the other three Negroes in the first seats of the colored section. "Let me have those front seats."

OTHERS SILENT

For a moment, no one moved. Maybe, like her, the others weren't listening too attentively. "You better make it light on yourself and get up," the driver advised.

Then two Negroes across the aisle retreated to the rear, and the Negro at the window seat next to Rosa Parks stood up and she let him go by.

Even today, Mrs. Parks doesn't know exactly why she didn't move, why she kept her seat and set off the Montgomery bus strike that, in reality, launched the activist civil rights movement.

SAME AS NOW

"I simply didn't think I should have to get up and stand in the back after I was there already," she said. She recalled the incident with a lingering trace of awe, as if it had happened to someone else. "It was one of those things that grow on you. They were killing people and burning churches, same as now."

A slender woman with grey-flecked hair, Mrs. Parks lives in Detroit now, many miles away from Montgomery, Ala., but not so many days distant from that Dec. 1, 1955, evening when she refused to move to the back of the bus.

From her defiant stand sprung the Montgomery bus boycott, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s famed "walk to freedom" and a whole series of non-violent demonstrations that swept northward and westward across the nation.

Two years after that incident on the Montgomery bus, Mrs. Parks moved to Detroit to be with her mother, Leona McCauley, and her brother, who works in an automobile factory. The decision, she said, had nothing to do with the Montgomery boycott. Soon after she arrived, her husband found a job as a barber. She did sewing and alteration work at home for a time, but recently found a dressmaking job in a small factory.

NO DIFFERENCE

"I don't feel a great deal of difference here, personally," she said in an interview. "Housing segregation is just as bad, and it seems more noticeable in the large cities. There is so much gradation; I'm in favor of any move to show that we are dissatisfied and still haven't received our rights as citizens."

In reference to the recent racial violence in New York, Chicago, Paterson, N. J. and Rochester, N. Y., Mrs. Parks said she regretted that "the young people are not conservative enough to think these rights can be obtained with good manners."

Mrs. Parks, 51, has not given up the fight. She is vice president of her block club, which is dedicated to cultural and neighborhood improvements and planning a youth program that includes recreation and job guidance.

Looking back now, at that December evening in the bus and her subsequent arrest, on how the Negro ministers flocked behind Dr. King and rallied the Negro community with thousands of pamphlets, on how the majority of Montgomery's Negroes walked to work for 81 days until the bus segregation system collapsed. On the $10 fine and court costs that she never paid, Rosa Parks had no regret whatsoever.

"It brought change," she said. "And any change is better than none at all."

And even if there are only two white families living on the block that she is working to improve in Detroit, the obscure seamstress who wouldn't give up her seat in the bus can take some satisfaction in the part she has played in the history of her race.

Convention Secretaries Are Executives

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

To do secretarial chores for three major convention committees the Democrats are drawing on the experience of an intellectually formidable feminine trio: a nationally known lawyer, a college instructor in political science, a chancery court official.

They are Mrs. Constance Baker Motley, civil rights attorney and first Negro woman to be elected to the New York State Senate; Dr. Mildred Otensek, who teaches at Notre Dame College in Baltimore; Mrs. Ruth Russell, one-time Business Woman of the Year in Gallatin, Tenn., and a deputy court clerk.

NEW TO POLITICS

Mrs. Motley, a handsome, quiet-spoken woman of 42, has been a lawyer with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) for 18 years.

She led the legal fight to get James Meredith into the University of Mississippi.

"I'm new to politics really," she says.

WON ELECTION

Then she won a special election as state senator and became not only the first woman of her race but of the Democratic Party to win a seat in the state senate.

In the senate she was an unusually active freshman, introducing 25 bills and speaking twice on the floor.

By now imbued with the well-known political fever, she plans to run for re-election this fall.

Mrs. Motley's husband, Joel, an insurance and real estate agent, is proud of his wife's activities and keeps a scrapbook on her.

STACKS OF PAPERS

"That means that we have stacks of papers that never get clipped," she laughs.

Her son, Joel Jr., 11, got out of an update New York camp in time to come to the convention.

Mrs. Motley, who was born in New Haven, Conn., one of 12 children, attended Columbia University Law School in New York and started with the NAACP as a law clerk.

Says a colleague: "If a case is important or tough, one that requires a major undertaking, then Connie gets it."

WOMEN ACTIVE

Dr. Mildred Otensek, who is secretary of the Committee on Credentials, has been a national committeewoman from Maryland for eight years.

She served on the convention site committee, which selected Atlantic City. "I'll let you know later if we did the right thing," she jokes.

In Baltimore Dr. Otensek, who got her Ph.D. in political economy, teaches both economics and political science.

"It's my 25th year of teaching," she admits.

For 20 years she has been active in Democratic Party work and she finds that "women are a more important force than ever."

"Both parties realize that today, and both parties will make a pitch for the women's vote."

COURT REPORTER

Mrs. Ruth Russell, 5 foot 4, with gray-green eyes and hair she describes as "practically gray," is secretary of the Committee on Resolutions and Platform.

Her job, as she sees it, is to call the roll of committee and help the chairman any way she can.

"I was court reporter in Sumner County and in an adjoining county for a long time," she says. "It might come in handy. But it will be so exciting."

"If I'm called on to take notes I hope I won't get so interested I forget to take it all down."

DEPUTY CLERK

Mrs. Russell has been deputy clerk of the chancery court of Sumner County, Tenn., since 1945.

Her husband, Oscar, is clerk, plus serving as master of the chancery court and title attorney.

Consequently, the Russells, who have no children, are a study in togetherness. Working in the same office "he always knows where I am," she laughs.

But Mrs. Russell, who attended the 1960 convention as a delegate will make this trip alone. "My husband is not coming," she says. "Someone in the family has to work."

Wife Winning Nerve War

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a wife who keeps asking her husband, age 64, when he is going to retire?

The husband is a successful business man who enjoys being in business, is in good health, and never thinks about retiring until his wife brings it up.

Also, what would you think if this wife took out TWO additional policies on her husband's life while she was his bookkeeper and was authorized to sign his checks? (This wasn't discovered by the husband until several years later.)

This same wife reads every magazine article she can find on things a widow should know.

SOMEBODY'S HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: Your wife's waging a war of nerves — and winning! Relax, or you'll accommodate her sooner than you both think.

DEAR ABBY: I am mad! I just returned from a friend's house and she slyly accused me of having amorous feelings about my doctor!

What's with people? They think the milkman, postman, salesman and repair men are all the secret lovers of every woman who looks at them sideways.

Some people can't forget sex for one minute! Why can't people be motivated by art, music, world peace or something else?

"VIVA LA SENSE" IN FT. WAYNE

DEAR VIVA: Some people ARE! What's with you?

Miss Elliott Wears Silk for Vows

The Silvercrest Baptist Church was the setting for the recent vows of Jessie Elaine Elliott to Robert William Scott.

Parents of the couple are the Rufus L. Elliotts of Charest Drive and the Eugene O. Scotts of Island Park Drive.

For the ceremony performed by Rev. Lee LaLone, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white silk organza over taffeta and an illusion veil with pearl and lace tiara.

BRIDAL BOUQUET

She held cascading white roses and lily, surrounding a white orchid.

Mrs. George McClure attended her sister as honor matron along with Mrs. James Fish, who was bridesmaid.

Debra Lynn McClintock was flower-girl and Kevin Bertram, ring-bearer.

On the esquire side were best man, Rodney Scott and ushers, Rufus Elliott Jr. and Ronald G. Elliott.

The bride was graduated from Oakland University where her husband is a senior.

Altrusa Club Grooms Three

New members of the Altrusa Club of Greater Birmingham are Dr. Nanette J. Jagnow, Mrs. Walter Reason, and Mrs. Harry Heutter. They joined the club at its recent semi-monthly meeting in the Birmingham Community House.

The group also discussed plans for the performance of Franz Lehár's "The Merry Widow" featuring Patricia Munsell. Altrusa Club is sponsoring the event which will be held Sept. 21 in the Fisher Theater.

Honor Parents

Among the parties preceding the wedding of Ann Marie Hodges and Richard Brown was a buffet supper Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dailley of Packer Road honored the couple's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Vere Hodges and the Norman B. Browns. Mr. and Mrs. Brown have just returned from their summer cottage at Higgins Lake.

Breakfast in Church After Vows

A chapel ceremony followed by wedding breakfast in the First Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, marked the recent vows of Barbara Ritter to Robert William Hawley of Oak Park, Ill.

Hand-clipped Chantilly lace highlighted the bride's princess-line gown of imported white silk organza over taffeta styled with organza-bordered lace chapel train.

A veil of imported illusion and bouquet of white orchids and miniature carnations completed her ensemble.

Attending the daughter of the Howard D. Ritters of Birmingham were honor matron Mrs. Ronald Reinking, and bridesmaid Marcella Witvoet, both of Chicago.

Gilbert Hill was best man and Donald Ritter seated the guests.

After a Canadian honeymoon, the couple will live in Oak Park. She is a graduate of University of Michigan. Her husband holds a master's degree in social work.

Barbara Ritter, daughter of the Howard D. Ritters of Birmingham and Robert William Hawley of Oak Park, Ill., son of the Mathew J. Hawleys of Newport News, Va., exchanged recent vows in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church, Birmingham.

Part of Food Dollar Spent on Packaging

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

"Can you tell me how much of my food dollar actually goes for food — and how much I pay for packaging?" asks a reader in Chicago. "When I look at all the paper, boxes, bottles, and cans I bring home, I wonder what I'm really buying!"

A lot of women trying to economize right up to the hilt, FEELEY undoubtedly wonders the same thing. However, it's not an easy question to answer.

The best estimate is that 30 percent of the food dollar goes for packaging cost included. Or, figure that about 5 percent to 10 percent of the food dollar pays for what the food comes in.

INCLUDE EVERYTHING The confusing thing is that, when you talk about "packaging," you have to include labor, materials, and overhead. But just to give you an idea of what you might be paying per item, I asked Paul Shaffer, of the Transportation and Facilities Research Division of the Agricultural Research Service of the USDA, for a few specifics.

He offers these estimates: In a dollar's worth of meat, approximately 6 cents goes for packaging. In 55 cents worth of cheese, approximately 4 cents goes for packaging. In 48 cents worth of luncheon meats, approximately 4.7 cents goes for packaging.

Whether packaging is an expense or a blessing depends on how you look at it. If it weren't for efficient packaging, some foods wouldn't even be available in your local markets. Packaging can save time when time is more important than money.

The sanitary and health benefits of good packaging are obvious. So it's only fair to assume that the packaging industry has grown to be a $14-billion giant only because we're willing — and even eager — to pay for all the paper, boxes, bottles, jars, and cans.

But the shopper still has considerable freedom of choice in what she pays for packaging. She can choose the powdered milk in the box that provides 6 quarts, or the one that provides 8 quarts — and for the same price or within a few cents of it.

The difference is that the 8-quart package is premeasured in individual envelopes for convenience and accuracy — and there won't be any spilling of milk powder in the mixing. She can buy the condiment in the plain bottle or pay a little more for the bottle with the convenient spout and handle.

She can take the unwrapped lettuce or pay a bit more for the nice looking head in the transparent film. She can grind her own coffee at the market or choose the vacuum packed container.

She can buy sour cream in a pretty cocktail glass or in a cardboard penny.

When every penny of your grocery money has to do the work of two, it's wise to take time to analyze your food selection habits. Be sure you're spending your money for what's most important to you.

It's the shopper's right to challenge every purchase she makes — in terms of its contribution to nutrition, speed of preparation, convenience and eye appeal. The item that provides the most of what you want and need is the real bargain.

TURNER-SJOBLUM

Wearing a white satin sheath gown and tulle veil with floral crown, Doris June Sjoblom became the bride of Barry Lowell Turner in the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church. Rev. Theodore Allback performed the recent ceremony. The Van A. Sjobloms of Commonwealth Street, and the Rilla J. Turners of Herrin, Ill., are parents of the couple. Attendants were Shirley Cox, Theda Sjoblom; Donald Gray, St. Anne, Mo.; Burt Lindsay, Jack Souman and Kenneth Stearns, all of Herrin. After the church reception, the couple left for a honeymoon at East Tawas.

McCALL-CHAPEL

Norma Jean Chapel chose a white organza over lace gown with sequin trim for her recent marriage in Emmanuel Baptist Church to Arthur Lee McCall. Dr. Tom Malone performed the candlelight ceremony as the bride carried a cascade bouquet of baby yellow roses with white pom poms. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Chapel of Shanan Street and Robert L. McCall Sr. of Buick Street. Attendants included Ruth Fenner, Evelyn Keith, Janet Morrow, Lisa Kittles, and Terry Frizzle, Ralph Groves, Floyd Chapel and Mike Clarno. Ushering some 150 guests were Harvey Keith, Randy Bunce and Gary Hudson.

SEW SIMPLE By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice: I am an avid knitting fan, but can't resist reading your wonderful hints on sewing. I am hoping you can tell me just which kind of lining to use in a knitted skirt to avoid that baggy look.

Mrs. P. E.

Dear Mrs. P.E.: You will find very little lining in most knitted garments, probably because the lining won't keep the shape entirely. As a lining, I would suggest a firm, lightweight silk, a drum-type lining would be best.

The most successful knit skirts we have found, have been worn over a taffeta-type slip. This will not give in any way and will probably control the give in the knit more than anything else. Try it!

When knitting sweaters with many contrasting colors, add a little vinegar in the cool water you use before blocking. This will help make the colors fast.

Always remember to roll your sweaters in terry cloth towels immediately after washing to remove all the excess moisture before putting into place. This will also keep the colors from running into each other.

Dear Eunice: I have so much cotton lace left from summer clothes. Can I use this in any way for fall or is it definitely a summer material?

Mrs. R. T.

Dear Mrs. R. T.: Your question was very appropriate and I think I can give many of you ideas for those extra scraps of lace you have left over. You can make many types of collars, vest-type fronts, ruffled cuffs, etc.

These are so wonderful because they can change plain corduroy, cotton prints, plaids, or solid colors into party dresses. And what little girl doesn't love to dress up? I would suggest making these collars detachable.

Since most party dresses don't get worn enough to wear out before they are outgrown, here's another suggestion. Rip the hem out of a dress that is too short, fold it back, right sides together, and sew a scalloped edge. Clip, turn and press the hem flat.

Make a separate skirt out of left over lace, attach it to the upper hem of the dress itself. Some of the newest dresses of the season are made this way.

The four are (from left) Arthur Cox, Rochester village attorney and acting village manager; Elen V. ## School Books in Rochester Will Go on Sale Monday

ROCHESTER — Books — the tools of education — will be on sale to junior and senior high school students beginning Monday, according to Supt. Dr. William J. Early.

The schedule for purchase of books for the 1964-65 school year will be as follows:

Seventh and 10th grade books will be available at the bookstores Monday.

Eighth and 11th grade books will be sold Tuesday.

Ninth and 12th grade books are to be purchased Wednesday.

Books for all students who have been unable to purchase them on the days scheduled can be bought on Sept. 3 and 4.

Bookstore hours will be 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Parents who have children in more than one grade in junior and senior high school may purchase books for all their children on the earliest day scheduled for any of those grades.

Because of road construction on Old Perch Road, Dr. Early said that parents should approach the school from Walton, turning at Wimpole and following Wimpole to Ansel, across Old Perch Road to the school.

Orientation for 7th and 10th graders into junior and senior high school, respectively, will be held Sept. 9 at both West and Central Junior High Schools and the senior high school.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL.

Elementary school, from kindergarten through 6th grade, will begin on Sept. 9. Secondary grades will begin school on Sept. 10.

Teachers new to the Rochester system will have meetings on Sept. 3, and all teachers will report to their respective schools Sept. 8.

Cars, Appliances Catch Public Eye

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many Americans plan to buy automobiles and appliances in the next few months, but there has been a slackening of interest in new homes, a Census Bureau survey showed today.

More than 16 per cent of the consumers interviewed in July said they intend to buy automobiles within the next 12 months. This is virtually unchanged from responses a year ago, but interest has shifted from used.

The canvass of households showed that only 1.9 per cent plan to purchase new homes within the next 12 months, compared to 2.1 per cent in a similar survey a year ago.

On Master Plan

Oxford Hearing Set

OXFORD — Village of Oxford citizens will get their first chance to be heard and ask questions about the new master plan Sept. 29.

The first public hearing on the new master plan was set for that date last night at the regular meeting of the village council.

In describing the master plan accepted by the planning commission from consultants Vilcan-Leman and Associates, Southfield, Village Manager Michael M. Kilgore this morning said that it stressed current land use as a guide to future use.

Kilgore said that land use, population, the economic base (commercial and industrial use) community facilities and thoroughfares are the key factors integrated in the plan.

Calling the plan "a guide for decision-making, not a decision-maker," Kilgore said that it calls for a reduction of commercially-zoned land from the present 97 acres to an eventual 54 acres.

This would maintain a centralized business district, he said, and would probably result in the rezoning of some land now commercially-zoned to either single-family or multiple-dwelling residential zones.

Kilgore termed the master plan "a long-range, comprehensive and general guide for the development of the land in and around the village."

"It's the result of an orderly process of survey and study by the planning commission," he said, "and is a land-use plan which is the physical representation of what the planning commission thinks the citizens of the village desire."

He and his wife have three daughters and a son. They will be making their home in the parsonage at 13137 Andersonville Road.

Rev. Hazen is replacing Rev. Jack McCurry.

Eighth graders should go to their study hall for enrollment directions.

The first full day of classes for Junior high youngsters will be Sept. 9, when they will arrive at 8 a.m. and be dismissed at 3:45 p.m.

There will be an assembly for all students in ninth through 12th grades at 8 a.m. Sept. 8. Following the program at the Holly Area High School, the students will attend shortened class periods until 11 a.m.

Their regular 8 a.m.-2:50 p.m. schedule will begin Sept. 9.

ENROLLMENT DEADLINE

Students who have not enrolled in the school system should do so by Monday. Information about elementary enrollment stations is available at the Holly Elementary School.

Brother-Killer Is Sentenced

A Royal Oak man was sentenced yesterday to 3-15 years at state prison in Jackson for the fatal shooting of his brother in their home June 21.

Paul R. Farley, 38, had pleaded guilty to killing his brother Andrew, 30, both of 1518 W. Windemere, at his hearing in Circuit Court last month.

Royal Oak police said Andrew was shot with a rifle about 7:40 p.m. following an argument. Farley was ordered to prison by Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem.

Michigan's gigantic agricultural industry stretching from the Upper Peninsula to the Ohio-Indiana border produces more than $2 important food crops.

Cleanup Still On in Paint Creek

Get out those waders, chain saws and power equipment and be ready to work again Saturday.

The job of removing debris and obstructions from Paint Creek is not yet completed.

But it will take only one or two more Saturdays to finish "Operation Clean-Up," according to Rochester Village President John O'Donnell, project chairman.

Even if volunteers have no special equipment, their services nonetheless will be most acceptable, said O'Donnell.

This will be the third Saturday crews have worked on clearing the entire length of the stream as it winds through five area villages and townships from north of Lake Orion to south of Rochester.

The project is the first in the Paint Creek Citizens Conservation Committee's program to restore the stream to its original state of natural beauty and purity.

Team captains are supervising the work in each of the five areas. They can be contacted by volunteers wishing to offer their services.

The captains are Irvine Unger, Lake Orion; John Lessiter, Orion Township; C. H. Williams, Oakland Township; Ed Alward, Avon Township; and James McCarthy, Rochester.

Troy Schools Open on Sept. 10

TROY—Schools in the Troy District will be open for business Sept. 10.

New students are to register next week at their respective schools between 8:30 and 11:30 a.m. or 1 and 3:30 p.m. All principals and secretaries will be in their buildings that week to register new students.

Further information regarding registration of new students can be obtained by contacting the Troy Board of Education, 129 Hart.

Troy High School classes will begin at 8 a.m., with school bus pick-ups beginning at 7:15 for those who live more than 1½ miles from the high school.

Commercial buses will operate on Livorno for those who wish to use them.

Baker Junior High School classes will start at 8:30 a.m., with school bus pick-ups beginning at 7:45 for those outside the 1½-mile limit or south of 1-75 in the Rochester-Stephenson area.

Leonard School will begin classes at 8:30 with school bus pick-ups starting at 7:45 for all students except those on Eckford.

Niles, Colerain, Union, Poppleton, Morse and Big Beaver elementary schools will begin classes at 9 a.m., with bus pick-ups beginning at 8:15 for the students outside the walking areas.

PARENTS ASKED

Parents are asked to provide transportation for their kindergarten students on their first day of school, and are asked to bring a certified record of birth if they have not already done so.

Outside the walking areas, same bus routes will be the same as those used last year, most of them staying on the mile roads with no more than five stops per mile.

Noon kindergarten deliveries and pick-ups will continue as in the past, with frequent stops closer to the children's homes.

All walking students are urged to make use of future probable sidewalk locations near the edges of the public rights-of-way, usually from 33 to 60 feet from the center of the mile roads and from 25 to 30 feet from the center of the side-roads and subdivision streets.

AREA NEWS

Tourist Query Is Project Job

LANSING (AP)—If a college student stopped you this summer to inquire about your Michigan vacation, then you've become a statistic in a $78,000 project exploring economic aspects of the state's tourist industry.

It's too early to reach conclusions yet, say project officials, but the summer staff of nine interviewers is accumulating a mountain of facts.

A preliminary report on the study was presented Tuesday to the Michigan Department of Economic Expansion, which is financing the program under an appropriation designed to help spur the state's economy.

Interviewers are asking how much tourists spend on food, beverages, vehicle expenses and lodging, and inquire into general tourist experiences.

Spokesman Charles R. Owens of Central Michigan University's center for economic expansion said the study seeks to pinpoint the economic impact of the tourist on the economy, to identify tourists and to learn areas of potential new attractions.

Dems Say Campaign 'Lashes' Will Sting Barry Most

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Almost all Democratic leaders say they harbor no fears about any white voter "backlash" in the November presidential election.

Instead, they confidently say they hear what they call the much larger crack of a moderate Republican "frontlash" against Barry Goldwater on Nov. 3.

These views came in an Associated Press survey of the party leaders at the Democratic National Convention. They were asked whether they thought there is a backlash, and, if so, how the Democrats should meet it.

Most did not agree on how to handle it. At the same time, they didn't seem disturbed about their disagreement. The backlash, in their view, was not so great as some people supposed.

2 LASHES

In the white imagery that has become a cliché of the 1964 election, the white backlash signifies votes by white Democrats and independents against Lyndon B. Johnson because of their resentment over the Civil Rights Act and Negro demonstrations; the Republican frontlash signifies votes by moderate Republicans against Goldwater because of his conservative views.

There were some sharp dissonances from the prevailing views in the survey. Gov. Albert S. Harrison of Virginia, for example, said, "People are getting fed up with the sit-ins, wade-ins, kneeling, and what have you. I think unless the situation changes it will be very harmful for Democratic chances."

But most leaders agreed with the presidential candidate of 1962 and 1966, U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson.

"If we respect the law, if we don't tolerate violence and disorder, if we practice what we preach about equality, if the strong help the weak and the rich the poor, there won't be any lashing," Stevenson said.

PARTY PRINCIPLES

"The Democratic party has proclaimed these principles again and again; and again here in Atlantic City. I believe the great majority of Americans understand and support what the President and the Democratic party are trying to do."

The different views on how to deal with the problem were revealed in contrasting statements from Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

"We're not going to deal with it at all," said Brown.

"Much of the effects of any white backlash on civil rights will be dispelled if we explain exactly what is in the bill," said Humphrey.

Brown, elaborating on the strategy of forgetting the backlash, said, "We're just going to deal with the positive aspects of what the administration has accomplished. We think there is a frontlash. The righteousness of our position was shown by the many Republicans voting for the civil rights bill."

Humphrey, elaborating on the strategy of meeting the issue head-on by explaining the civil rights bill, said, "For instance, it does not affect housing, it does not affect job security, and yet it is in these areas where the fears arise."

Here are other Democratic views on the lash, back or front:

Sen. Philip Hart of Michigan — "The backlash to civil rights will fade as people realize that they can grant human rights to others without diminishing themselves."

DEM VIEWS

Gov. John N. Dempsey of Connecticut — "We're going to be talking about a frontlash and not a backlash. The word backlash will be replaced by the word irresponsibility."

Gov. John B. Connally of Texas — "I think we ought to get this backlash talk in perspective. If the Democrats have a backlash, looks to me like the Republicans have a frontlash that is about double the Democrats."

Gov. John Dalton of Missouri — "The best defense is a good offense, in football or politics, so we will take the fight to Goldwater. He is irresponsible and would be dangerous to trust with the button."

Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey — "The white backlash will be more than outweighed by the sensible backlash of the independents and moderate Republicans who can't take the irresponsibility of Goldwater."

"OVEREMPHASIZED"

Gov. Endicott Peabody of Massachusetts — "This issue has been overemphasized. People should begin considering how much the Democrats, particularly in the Northeast, are going to benefit from Republican defections."

Gov. Carl E. Sanders of Georgia — "I think the platform that has been submitted and will be adopted will do more to eliminate the white backlash all over the country than any other thing. It sets forth clearly and precisely the position of the average citizen."

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma — "The platform and Democratic campaign tone 'can do more to allay ill feeling among white and colored than anything else.'"

Sen. John O. Pastore of Rhode Island — "This is a non-partisan responsibility and we've got to meet it head-on and explain to our people how un-American it is to treat one segment of our population with less equality than others."

Say Mississippi Action Ends Party Ties

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — State political leaders say the walkout by the Mississippi regular delegation from the Democratic National Convention severs the state's connections with the national party.

"There can be little question of how Mississippi and her sister states of the Deep South will cast their ballots this November," said former Gov. Ross Barnett, obviously predicting that Republican nominee Barry Goldwater would carry the state.

Barnett, who had earlier said he leaned toward Goldwater, did not mention the Arizona conservative by name Tuesday night as he commented on the refusal of the state's regular delegation to accept the compromise worked out over the challenge by the largely Negro Mississippi Freedom Democrats.

Mississippians, said Barnett, "can forget about working things out within the party of our fathers and begin to chart a realistic course of political action."

The convention credentials committee called for the state's all-white, regular delegation to sign a loyalty pledge to support President Johnson in November and accorded a lone delegate status to two Freedom Democrat leaders.

The regular delegates balked at the loyalty pledge and walked away from the convention.

The Freedom Democrats, said Democratic State Chairman Bidwell Adam of Gulfport, "could not carry one box (precinct) in the state."

Adam, a former lieutenant governor, said: "I glory in the courage of our Mississippi delegates in having the guts to take this stand representing Mississippi and the South."

STAYED AWAY

Barnett, Adam and Gov. Paul B. Johnson, titular head of the party in Mississippi, all stayed away from the convention.

Gov. Johnson, in announcing he had asked for the walkout, said he would not support President Johnson's bid for election under any circumstances.

The state Democratic party holds another convention Sept. 9 to chart its course in the presidential election and many observers believe it will endorse Goldwater.

Mississippi bolted the 1948 Democratic convention and the state was carried by the District ticket headed by South Carolina's J. Strom Thurmond, now a U.S. senator. Fiebeling Wright, then governor of Mississippi, was the vice presidential nominee of the Dixiecrats.

Four years ago, Barnett led Mississippi into the unpledged elector camp and the state's Electoral College votes went to Sen. Harry Byrd, D-Va.

At Greenville, Miss., Tuesday, a special three-judge federal court upheld Mississippi's unpledged elector law.

Adherents of the Freedom Democratic party had filed suit contesting the constitutionality of the law.

LBJ, Wagner in Confab on Bob Kennedy Strategy

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

That folksy White House weekend recently enjoyed by the Johnsons and the Wagners seems now not to have been so folksy after all.

Rather it appears to have been a strategy meeting between the President and Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York to plan some cold war or cold water treatment for young Robert F. Kennedy.

The treatment has begun. On his part, the attorney general announced yesterday that he was a candidate for New York's Democratic senatorial nomination.

The announcement was sponsored by Wagner, himself, in a doubtful spirit of sweetness and light such as politicians so often create to disguise their real feelings.

The consensus on Robert F. Kennedy is that he is a young man of ruthless determination and of infinitely aggressive ambition. He is accustomed by reason of money, family position and brains to having his own way.

WHITE HOUSE AIMS?

It is reasonable, at least, to assume that Kennedy seeks to establish himself with a New York State political base which might be useful in another Kennedy thrust for the White House.

It is impossible to know the motives of men. But the foregoing is a reasonable interpretation. Good politicians as they are, LBJ and Mayor Wagner could not miss the implications of Robert Kennedy's grab for the New York Democratic senatorial nomination.

To make New York his own useful political base, Kennedy would need to dispose of Wagner as New York state Democratic leader.

To obtain the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972, Kennedy also would need to impose his will on President Johnson. It is not unreasonable to believe that LBJ expects to be ending a second White House term in that year.

It is necessary to assume (1) that LBJ will want to be free in 1972 to name his own successor, (2) that he could not at this time make a choice and (3) that under no circumstances would his choice be Robert F. Kennedy.

ADOPT CAUSE

Powerful New York State county leaders adopted Kennedy's senatorial cause as their own. This was bad for Wagner who has kept himself aloof politically by fighting bossism in the Democratic party.

But Wagner flunked the basic test of good political operation. He had handy no one to oppose Kennedy for the senatorial nomination. The mayor had forgotten that you can't beat somebody with nobody.

Wagner was compelled to endorse Kennedy for the Senate, thus assuring his nomination.

The old pro in the White House moved hard and fast on Aug. 22 to protect Wagner against an ultimate Kennedy takeover in New York State.

PROTECT SELF

LBJ, of course, was moving also to protect himself against the threat of a powerful new Kennedy political axis stretching from Massachusetts where brother Ted is a U.S. Senator to New York where Bobby plans to move in and all the way to California where Kennedy associate Pierre Salinger won a U.S. Senate seat by appointment and seeks to hold it by election.

BATHER GREETED — Ready to shake hands on the beach at Atlantic City is Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy warming up for his campaign for the Democratic nomination for senator from New York. Kennedy and his wife (right) paid a visit to the site of the party convention yesterday.

UNINVITED GUEST — Roy D. McCord, Gadsden member of the Alabama delegation to the Democratic National Convention, talks to newsmen outside a hotel in Atlantic City yesterday. McCord was one of four Alabamians who signed a loyalty oath and were not invited to sit in on a caucus held by their delegation.

Rift Leaves Alabamians Eying Barry

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Some Alabamians say they probably are going to vote Republican in November because of the fight over seating the state's delegation at the Democratic National Convention.

"What do they mean, changing the rules now?" said James Wilson. "Trying to make us sign a loyalty oath. Why, that's a disgrace and an insult."

Wilson, a hotel clerk, said he planned to vote Republican.

Charles Coleman, a druggist, said he wasn't a member of either party but that he would vote Republican because of the loyalty oath dispute.

"I think they (the Democrats) should give us a few concessions if they are interested in Alabama," he said Tuesday night.

VOTE FOR BARRY

Others, asking that they not be identified, said they also would vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater.

"The Alabama and Mississippi delegations were legally elected by the people of their states," said one. "Now, we have groups of so-called delegates picked by one man or a group of men claiming the right to take their seats."

"Why can't you and I say we're unhappy with the delegation and run up there and say we want to take their place?" he asked.

"I'm tired of being kicked around and taken advantage of for purely political gain," said another. "The Democrats can go hang."

LOYALTY OATH

The convention credentials committee wants the delegates to sign an oath of loyalty to the party.

One of those refusing to sign the oath is former Birmingham Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor, who led a walkout from the 1948 convention in a dispute over a civil rights plank.

Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers of Alabama says Connor already has signed such an oath — four years ago when he ran for his post as national committeeman.

Gov. George C. Wallace, directing the delegation's maneuvers from his office at Montgomery, urges the Alabama delegates to defy the convention officials.

COMPLY WITH REQUEST

But former Gov. James Folsom says the delegation should comply with the request to sign the loyalty oath.

One of the Alabama delegates, John F. Britton of Montgomery, returned home yesterday. McCord was one of four Alabamians who signed a loyalty oath and were not invited to sit in on a caucus held by their delegation.

"I've been a loyal Democrat all my life, and I see no reason why I should be singled out to take a pledge to that effect," he said. "If they weren't going to let me take my seat, I see no reason to stay."

2 Tots Rather Fight Than Switch From LBJ

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI) — Two tots for Johnson with simulated black eyes, riding on the boardwalk, sported a sign on their tandem stroller saying: "I'd rather fight than switch."

The youngsters, Raymond Engler, 4, and sister Alicia, 2, are children of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Engler of Springfield, Pa., nondelegate Democrats attending the party's National Convention.

Makes Vote Prediction

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI) — James A. Farley, who predicted accurately in 1936 that FDR would carry all but two states, Maine and Vermont, says that both will go to President Johnson this year. But the former postmaster general concedes that Johnson may lose two or three or four other states.

Appeal to Youth

Solon Speech Stirs 'New South'

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI) — Youth called to youth at the Democratic National Convention last night.

Youth responded with the convention's first "spontaneous demonstration" — a demonstration celebrating not only youth but what the marchers and bell-ringers, and Confederate flag wavers called "the new South."

The spokesman for youth and the "new breed" of Southerners was Rep. Charles L. Weltner of Atlanta who was elected to Congress in 1962 when he was 34.

Weltner is the great grandson of Gen. James Longstreet, a soldier who fought with more than considerable courage and conviction for the South in the Civil War.

In his turn, Weltner demonstrated more than considerable courage and conviction when, alone among representatives of the hard-core South, he spoke out in Congress and voted for the civil rights bill of 1964.

In other days, this could have killed Weltner's chance of political advancement. Maybe it will be held against him in this year's campaign. But last night, at the invitation of the national party, he spoke again.

Of the party he espouses he said: "We have tried to view things as they are."

To the "new generation" he said: "Come with us . . . We are going somewhere . . . The verdict of history shall be ours!"

Weltner said nothing specifically about the South or any new directions it may be traveling. But when this trim, earnest, intense young man stopped talking, others took up his theme and enlarged upon it.

'NEW BREED'
They, too, were young. They boiled onto the arena floor and, marching behind the flag of Gen. James Longstreet, brandished hand-lettered placards which read:

"The New Breed, the New South."
"Ahead with Georgia and all Weltner."

"Dixie on the Move."
"The New Georgia."
"Charlie IS New."
"Charlie's Our Boy."

The demonstration didn't last long. It obviously was not well endowed as many another in the history of political conventions. But the marchers were young and they looked happy. Charlie grinned "his thanks."

When the brief hubbub was over, and Charlie turned to leave the podium, a long arm restrained him for a moment while young and middle-aged and old in the big hall applauded again.

The restraining arm on his shoulder belonged to House speaker John W. McCormack, the convention's 72-year-old permanent chairman. McCormack's gesture was friendly and gracious.

It was age saluting youth.

WADES IN SURF — Luci Baines Johnson, 17-year-old daughter of the President, is accompanied by a coterie of young blades as she wades through the surf off Margate, near Atlantic City yesterday. The occasion was an ocean-front clam bake for members of the President's Club who have kicked in $1,000 each for Johnson's campaign fund.

A DELEGATE — Mrs. Ted Kennedy, wife of the Massachusetts senator suffering from a back injury incurred in a plane crash, is a delegate at the Democratic National Convention from Massachusetts. She sits next to Gov. Endicott Peabody (foreground). Mrs. Kennedy was named a delegate to replace her brother-in-law, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for senator from New York.

SPEAKER SPEAKS — John McCormack, speaker of the House of Representatives, is permanent chairman of the Democratic National Convention and used his opportunity to speak yesterday in Atlantic City to blast the Republican party. He said the Republican party has been captured by extremists who use methods of totalitarian movements.

Convention Hall Noteworthy

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND
ATLANTIC CITY — The 50,000 could be accommodated.

For this meeting of minds, Convention Hall, is something to write home about — and that's just what your news ferret is doing.

CHILD'S PLAY
Built in 1929, it is approximately the size of Rhode Island and, needless to say, the largest such facility in the world.

Could Cheops, the ancient pyramid specialist, take a gander at the mammoth structure that towers above the Atlantic, he'd indubitably turn green — from jealousy. Not seasickness.

Twenty-five thousand persons can be comfortably seated, and in a pinch, the entire population of Atlantic City (more than 50,000) could be accommodated.

The delegates were still trying to reconcile the developing facts of political life with their initial unqualified delegate recognition of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party, as opposed to the regular state party.

For those who take their semantics straight: "C's u c u r" comes from an old Indian word — "Kaw-Kaw" — meaning "to talk."

Imagine the silent, stolid red-men having a word for it instead of the Greeks.

I always thought their complete vocabulary consisted of two words: "how" and "ugh."

Incidentally, the Indian connotation of caucus isn't exclusively oral. It's been the scene of a bit of scalping too.

CIRCLE GROWS — The ring of civil rights demonstrators sitting on the boardwalk in front of Convention Hall where the Democratic convention is in progress swelled considerably yesterday just prior to the start of the second session. The group has been here for several days, directly in front of the hall's main entrance.

PHONE CALL FROM LBJ? — Texas Gov. John Connally receives a phone call on the floor of the Democratic convention during a flare-up of the Alabama seating rift. Connally is credited with cooking up a demonstration, pledging support for President Johnson, which Alabama delegates contend qualifies them as loyal Democrats, since the entire delegation participated in it.

Had Key Role in '48 Crisis

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Mississippi and Alabama, the two delegations embroiled in the only controversy of the 1964 Democratic National Convention, were the key actors in the crisis that struck the party's convention 16 years ago.

In the 1948 Philadelphia convention, which nominated Harry S. Truman, the adoption of a strong civil rights plank in the platform prompted the Mississippi and Alabama delegations to walk out. Their walkout led to the formation of the States Rights party for the 1948 election.

Now, Mississippi is withdrawing from the Atlantic City convention, after most of the state's delegates refused to sign a pledge of loyalty to the party. The Alabama delegation, most of whose members also refused to sign the pledge, is staying on, but it is officially unrecognized by the convention.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota also had a role in both incidents.

In 1948, he proposed the strong civil rights plank that irked the Mississippi and Alabama delegates. In 1964, he played a major part in working out a compromise in the Mississippi seating dispute. The compromise included the loyalty pledge that most of the Mississippi delegation has refused to take.

DIXIE DELEGATES HUDDLE — Eugene (Bull) Connor (left), Alabama national committeeman, confers with two members of the Arkansas delegation on the floor of the convention. Connor was back in the big arena in defiance of an edict from the credentials committee that he and other Alabama delegates sign a loyalty pledge in order to keep their seats. He said he pledged party fidelity in response to remarks made by House Speaker John McCormack, permanent chairman of the convention, during last night's session.

CHECK SIGNALS — Down in the center of this huddle on the Democratic convention floor last night is Eugene (Bull) Connor, who is an Alabama national committeeman. He is

Khanh Fails to Talk Viet Nam Leaders Into Resigning

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh failed today to convince fellow members of the ruling revolutionary military council that they should quit politics to prevent new riots.

"We are not even close to a decision," said Lt. Gen. Tran Tien Kien, one of the most powerful officials on the 60-man junta.

Fresh bloodshed in the north attended deepening of the political crisis that led Khanh to resign Tuesday as president, junk a controversial constitution, and pledge a new deal for this Communist-menaced republic.

CLOSE SOURCE

A source close to the junta said the decision of electing a new national leader—part of an arrangement with the leaders of student and Buddhist demonstrators was not even discussed.

Before the five-hour meeting broke up, student leaders threatened new mass demonstrations unless the military men returned to fighting the war, opening the government to civilians.

KHANH TIRED

Khanh appeared tired and tense. Speaking alternately in Vietnamese and English, he said: "The situation is very serious. We men in Vietnamese Army must take time to think about the problem."

Buddhist rioters thronged in and around Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon, for the third straight day and South Vietnamese troops intervened for the first time to check their antigovernment, anti-Catholic and anti-American demonstrations.

The troops fired over the heads of the crowd. The toll of the riots rose to 11 dead and 61 wounded. Two of the dead were Vietnamese soldiers. Da Nang police arrested 40 of the rioters for looting. Catholic-owned shops were sacked and burned.

Demonstrations also flared again in Hue, 50 miles north of Da Nang and 40 south of Communist North Viet Nam's frontier. Students commandeered the Hue radio station. Police and local officials joined 4,000 demonstrators in a street parade.

As the junta—of revolutionary council—went into the meeting, resigned as president, was Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, who ported assured of resuming control but under a new title.

KEEPS CONTROL

Although Khanh bowed to Buddhist and student mobs by giving up the presidency and scrapping the new constitution Tuesday, he clung to power as head of the junta.

Also present today were four generals—including three suspected of favoring neutralization of South Viet Nam—who old Khanh as confident he could weather the storm.

The 60 generals and colonels of South Viet Nam's U.S.-backed armed forces met under heavy guard at general staff headquarters near Saigon Airport.

GENERAL MINH

Among them was Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, the popular Buddhist who directed the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem last November. Minh was ousted as figurehead chief of state in Khanh's Aug. 16 shake-up, which precipitated the current crisis.

Minh did not attend the junta session 10 days ago when Khanh moved up from premier to president and received dictatorial powers under the new constitution.

Also present today were four generals—including three suspected of favoring neutralization of South Viet Nam—who were placed under house arrest after Khanh seized power last Jan. 30.

Although student leaders in Saigon promised to accept the decision of the military revolutionary council, turmoil continued in at least two cities.

HEAVY FIRING

Reports from Da Nang, told of heavy firing around the government communications center. The center was evacuated.

A small Roman Catholic settlement at the edge of Da Nang lay in ashes after Buddhist mobs burned 60 houses Tuesday. The Catholics, many of them refugees from Communist North Viet Nam, sought safety on nearby piers or in sampans offshore.

The riots began Monday when 1,000 Buddhists stormed a U.S. enlisted men's barracks 100 yards from the Catholic village. The Americans fired shots into the air to ward off the rioters.

Reports from Dan Nang told of heavy gunfire near the barracks again Tuesday night, but there was no word of new casualties. During the night mobs sacked and burned six shops owned by Catholics and set fire to several cars and trucks.

STAYING OUT

Col. John H. Wohner of Canton, Miss., senior U.S. Army adviser in Da Nang, telephoned Saigon for instructions, but American officials apparently were staying out of the turmoil.

A terrorist grenade exploded at a bridge near the U.S. Embassy in Saigon Tuesday night. No one was injured by the blast—the third in the capital in five days—not was there significant damage to the bridge.

The blasts were believed to be the work of Communist agents.

A communique issued before the junta's meeting said it would be dissolved. The junta hinted at increased participation by civilians in the government, saying the new leader would summon a national convention to rebuild the nation in freedom and democracy.

NEW CHIEF

In Washington, State Department officials said Khanh appeared to be in control but anticipated Minh's return as chief of state or in some other titular capacity.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor held a postmidnight conference with Vietnamese officials before Khanh announced his stepdown to a crowd of 50,000 Tuesday. Taylor conferred with Khanh later in the day.

So far Taylor has made no change in his plans to return home Sunday for conferences with President Johnson.

The Soviet Union described the political maneuvering in Saigon as "only a trick designed to gain time."

Full Hurricane Watch in Effect

'Cleo' Aiming Straight for Florida Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Cleo boiled off the north coast of Cuba today, regained strength rapidly and picked up speed on a path toward the southeast coast of Florida and the western Bahamas Islands.

The Miami Weather Bureau placed the Florida coast from West Palm Beach southward to Key Largo on a full hurricane watch, and warned residents of this heavily populated area to be ready for quick safety measures.

While the eye of the 35-mile-an-hour storm was expected to pass between the Florida coast and Bimini Island, 60 miles to the east, forecasters said only a slight westward turn would bring hurricane conditions to South Florida.

Cleo's top winds were expected to wind up to 100 m.p.h. as the storm passes Miami early this evening.

Reconnaissance aircraft located the storm center at noon at latitude 23.5 north, longitude 79.5 west, about 160 miles south-southeast of Miami. It was moving north-northwest at 12 miles an hour.

GALE FORCE

The Miami Weather Bureau said winds would rise to gale force in squalls in this area this afternoon and would reach hurricane force tonight on Bimini Islands.

Gordon Dunn, chief storm forecaster at Miami, said the eye of the hurricane probably would pass east of Miami early tomorrow, closer to Bimini than the Florida coast.

Gradual intensification of the storm was expected as it moved over the Florida Straits, building energy from the warm subtropical waters.

During the time the hurricane was over Cuba, U.S. reconnaissance aircraft were unable to fly into the storm.

Sharp change

When it crossed the northern coast of the Communist island this morning, a sharp change in its forward path was noted.

A more definite track, and a better idea of Cleo's strength, will be available when it has moved far enough from Cuba to allow Navy hurricane hunter penetration.

Cleo was moving toward the north-northwest at about 10 miles an hour. She was expected to swing to a more northerly course and gradually build up forward speed.

Small craft sailors in South Florida and the Bahamas were warned to seek safe harbor as the hurricane, with 64 dead in her wake, approached.

TURN IN DIRECTION

The turn in direction took Key West, at the end of the Florida Keys, out of the danger zone.

Miamians made preparations to board up and rushed to stores to lay in supplies of food and other necessities in the event of a power loss.

A businessman in Les Cayes on Haiti's southern peninsula radioed to Port au Prince that a hospital had been destroyed by the storm and 50 bodies found. Les Cayes was still rebuilding from the effects of Hurricane Flora which devastated the island and took thousands of lives.

More than 10,000 persons were evacuated from exposed areas on Cuba's southwestern coast. There were no reports of casualties.

Hurricane Flora, which lashed Cuba for four days last year, caused an estimated 1,500 deaths in Cuba and hit the Cuban economy a staggering blow.

Cuban military shortwave frequencies were kept busy throughout the night relaying hurricane damage reports to Havana.

MILLS DAMAGED

One station, monitored by The Associated Press in Miami, reported that a number of sugar mills in Oriente Province were heavily damaged by the storm. One was the mill at Pilon, center of a Cuban exile hit-and-run attack last May which caused an estimated $2.5 million in damages.

The Pilon station called for medicine, doctors and food for those evacuated to safer places. No deaths were given as to the number injured or killed.

Car Can't Keep Pace

PATTON, Pa. (AP)—Henry Myers, 66, wants to sell his 1959 Model A Ford sedan because "they're speeding for glory, and I don't feel safe on the road any more. There's too much traffic, and it moves too fast."

Myers said he had bought the car new and paid $600 for it. He said it has been 65,000 miles—never over 50 miles per hour—and is in good condition.

"The fastest I ever drove was 45 miles an hour—and is in good condition because I was in a funeral procession and I had to keep up with the other cars," he said.

High Court to Get Civil Rights Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to hear on Oct. 5 an appeal questioning constitutionality of the public accommodations sections of the new Civil Rights Act.

The court's action was announced by its clerk, John F. Davis. The tribunal is now in summer adjournment.

Davis said the argument will concern only the Heart of Atlanta Motel Corp. The Pickrick Restaurant, also of Atlanta, Ga., was involved in preliminary steps in the case but will not be concerned directly in the Oct. 5 argument.

FEDERAL DECISION

The motel and restaurant were principals in the decision by a special three-judge federal tribunal in Atlanta. The special court upheld validity of the public accommodations section. The case was the first in which a ruling was given under the New Civil Rights Act.

Oct. 5 is the first day of the Supreme Court's new fall term, and ordinarily the tribunal does not hear arguments or transact other than routine business on that day.

Requests for a speeded hearing of the motel case were filed by the motel and the Justice Department. The motel has agreed to file its printed appeal with the tribunal by Sept. 21. The Justice Department will file a reply brief by Sept. 28. The Oct. 5 argument will cover at least two hours with each side being granted one hour.

Justice Hugo L. Black of the Supreme Court on Aug. 10 refused to stay enforcement of the special court's order requiring admission of Negroes to the motel and restaurant.

DOORS SHUT

Later, Lester Maddox, operator of the restaurant, shut the doors and said he was closing it for good.

Black, in declining to block enforcement of the public accommodations section, said he agreed with the motel and the Justice Department that it would be wise to have the constitutional issues decided by the Supreme Court as quickly as possible.

Solicitor General Archibald Cox, in a memorandum to the Supreme Court on Aug. 7, said that any delay in enforcement of the public accommodations section "might well encourage motels and restaurants" in other parts of the South to refuse service to Negroes.

For Astronaut Jaunts

Plan 6-Wheel Moon Bus

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Plans for a six-wheel vehicle capable of taking two astronauts for a 14-day, 250-mile jaunt on the surface of the moon were disclosed yesterday by the Boeing Co.

Boeing, which is heading a nine-month study for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration on payloads for the Apollo logistics support system, calls the moon vehicle Molab, short for mobile laboratory.

The vehicle would be sent to the moon aboard an Apollo spacecraft. If radio signals showed it landed safely, the astronauts would follow in another Apollo.

The wheels of the vehicle would be five or six feet in diameter, wire-wrapped and covered with steel mesh to cope with jagged rubble on the moon's surface.

Dear Mr. Jones:

I have just reviewed the results of our Sidewalk Sale in the Miracle Mile Shopping Center in Pontiac, and I am very pleased with the results achieved during this sale. This was the most successful Sidewalk Sale that we have had in Pontiac.

A great deal of the credit for the success of the sale must be given to the staff of the Pontiac Press for their excellent work in the layout of the ads announcing the sale. The fact that all of the merchants in the Shopping Center participated in this event was another contributing factor in its success, and we are looking forward to another Sidewalk Sale next year.

Please convey my thanks to your staff for a job well done.

Thank You Mr. Megdell!

The surest way to bring customers and merchants together is through newspaper advertising. It gets into the home where the 'family purchasing agent,' mother, can read it thoroughly at her leisure. In this area it's The Pontiac Press she relies upon for local, state, national and inter-national news. It's her newspaper. It is where she looks for shopping information too!

Mr. Merchant if you want your message, about the values you offer, to reach the buyers... do as Yankee Stores do... use The Pontiac Press advertising columns.

He Trimmed Fat and Finances, Too

LONDON (AP) — John Martin weighed 350 pounds and kept losing jobs, so he went on a diet. He also took up gambling, and now he has a new problem — bankruptcy.

"I couldn't get a job because I was too fat," Martin, 39, testified in bankruptcy court Tuesday. "Employers would take one look at me and say: 'Sorry, but your weight puts you out.'"

Martin said he used to be a truck driver. But when his waistline reached 60 inches he couldn't squeeze behind the wheel. Then he took over a toy shop. He couldn't bend down to pick up boxes, so he had to hire assistants.

"When you're fat," he said, "you can't travel by bus. You get so many ignorant people staring at you because you take up two seats."

All this put him into debt. His money trouble really became serious, he said, when he tried gambling to get out of hock.

CAB DRIVER

Martin's diet knocked off 76 pounds and 20 inches from his waistline. This enabled him to get a job as a cab driver — his present occupation.

The bankruptcy examiner asked how he managed to reduce so drastically.

"Partly by cutting down on starch and liquids — and partly by worrying over money," Martin said.

Arrests in Red Protest Are at 3,000 in India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Arrests in a nationwide Communist protest against food shortages and high prices passed 3,000 today when about 100 Red demonstrators tried to invade the Food Ministry.

Police met them at the gates and, after a brief scuffle, loaded them aboard paddy wagons. There were no injuries reported. The third day of Red demonstrations began with a street march of about 500 persons in New Delhi.

Bard Has Immortal Longings

Alas, Poor Humphrey! I Knew Him Well!

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the 400th anniversary year of William Shakespeare's birth, I have been doing a series of "interviews" with the Bard on selected contemporary subjects.

Another situation has arisen which would appear to lend itself nicely to some of Shakespeare's well turned lines. And so, without further ado, we switch you to:

Q. Mr. Shakespeare, you have been actively seeking the Democratic vice presidential nomination. Would you mind telling us why?

A. "I have immortal longings in me."

Q. I assume you are aware that you have a number of rivals?

A. "They say we are almost as like as eggs."

Q. What usually happens when a person is mentioned as a vice presidential prospect?

A. "Today he puts forth the tender leaves of hopes; tomorrow blossoms, and bears his blushing honours thick upon him; the third day comes a frost, a killing frost."

Q. The frost already has hit one of the persons who was prominently mentioned. Do you know what his reaction was?

A. "Big round tears coursed one another down his innocent nose in piteous chase."

Q. It is widely believed that President Johnson will pick a member of the Senate as his running mate. Would you comment on that?

A. "Of expectation falls, and most oft there where most it promises."

Q. Do you think any of us can tell at this point who the nominee will be?

A. "If you can look into the seeds of time and say which grain will grow and which will not."

Q. Has the President given you any reason to think he might choose you?

A. "Such stuff as dreams are made on."

Q. But he did not make any definite promises, did he?

A. "The best in this kind are but shadows."

Q. Do you think he has given any of the other prospects more encouragement than he has given to you?

A. "They are as sick that surfeit with too much as they that starve with nothing."

Q. What will your feeling be if you are nominated?

A. "Why, then the world's mine oyster, which I with sword will open."

Q. And what will your reaction be if someone else gets the nod?

A. "A good mouth-filling oath."

Q. Thank you, Mr. Shakespeare.

4 Youths Tour 273 Miles for Only 30 Cents

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A bus fare costs 30 cents in Portland, and four youths paid that price Monday to ride 273 miles.

The four, all in their upper teens, boarded a Rose City Transit Co. bus at 8 a.m. and rode for 14½ hours.

Bruce Tracewell Corvallis, said "I guess we made 76 transfers without being caught." He said the trip took a month to plan.

"If you've never seen Portland, this is the cheapest tour I can recommend," Tracewell said.

The youths said the trip was a protest against physical fitness programs, but admitted "It was just an excuse to have a little fun, watch a lot of people and see a lot of Portland before going back to school."

Most tractor accidents occur when the machines are driven too fast.

Atlantic City's Residents Lost in the Shuffle

Convention Social Whirl Keeps Democratic Feet Aching

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
ATLANTIC CITY — Democrats are on the march — every aching foot of them — from one party to another in Atlantic City's donkey party social whirl.

Resident society is virtually all here. But so many imposed hosts have taken over this seaside resort that the height of culture is having one's imbibing elbow joggled by a potential vice presidential candidate.

slippers are bound to smile sweetly at whoever upsets the scotch mist on his shirt front.

Madame Perle Mesta's cozy little buffet-dinner for 200 last night may have been more selective. But for sheer magnitude, munificence and muscle, the Texas delegation's wingding for Gov. John Connally had her beat.

The handsome Texan who was baptized in politics as a congressional aide to LBJ stood in a steaming reception line with his pretty, dimpled wife, Nellie, while seemingly all the world passed by with outstretched hand.

BUFFET BOUNTY

The raw bar featured oysters and clams on the half-shell, lobster, shrimp and crab fingers. The more serious diners lined up for rounds of beef, turkeys and hams. The consumers, running the gamut from one-time Truman cabinet members like Treasury Secretary John Snyder to LBJ kitchen-cabinet staffers like Horace Busby, stamped the 10 bars and buffet tables.

All seemed to agree that if this represented the Johnson anti-poverty program, they should make the most of it.

Madame Mesta, who is making an effort to live up to LBJ's new slogan about "The Great Society," valiantly kicked off with the first of her five soirees at a rented mansion in nearby Ventnor.

Front-running Vice Presidential Candidate Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey was held in reserve for her second buffet party Monday night, but Sunday's featured such do-or-die hopefuls as Sens. Eugene McCarthy, Mike Mansfield and Edmund Muskie and Mayor Robert Wagner.

This was one party at which three senators and a mayor outshone Cabinet officers like Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges and HEW Secretary Anthony Celebrezze, whom Perle had also thoughtfully snagged, along with Adlai Stevenson and the three Democratic Roosevelt sons — Franklin D., James and Elliott.

One of the days more intriguing parties was tossed by wealthy, beamtown Mary Reebing, whose heart belongs to Barry Goldwater of Republican-land.

The Trenton lady banker is nonetheless upholding her end of the bargain as a member of the nonpartisan New Jersey host committee, by winning and dining hungry Democrats.

Her party on the solarium roof of the Claridge Hotel drew such a fascinating cross section as President David McDonald of the Steelworkers' Union, Undersecretary of State Averell Harriman of the railroad multimillions, Perle Mesta of the Mesta steel fortune, and the sister-team of Elena and Bertha Debellesbranth, famous portrait artists who live year-round in Ventnor and have painted or sculptured practically everyone of renown since William E. Borah and "Princess Alice" Roosevelt Longworth.

HARRIMAN IS HOST

Harriman, whose social antecedents outline the Mestas, Connallys, Johnsons and Kennedys, will host one of the two top parties of this party-packed week.

Just before the acceptance speeches write fins to the convention tomorrow night, he will receive 5,000 delegates in honor of Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy, widow of the slain president.

Tonight Madame Mesta is entertaining with a "small" supper dance for 750 intimates at the Claridge Ballroom. So eager are the gate-crashers that a small army of guards has been hired for both the Harriman and Mesta parties to separate the men from the boys.

Since Mrs. Mesta temporarily walked out of the Democratic party four years ago to avoid helping John F. Kennedy's election chances, neither Perle nor Jackie are likely to meet at the other's shining hour.

Are Sexes Alike? Yes, Sir (Oops!) Ma'am

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It is a truism of our times that the sexes are getting more alike in America.

As a matter of fact, it is getting harder and harder to tell them apart.

In the Middle Ages there was no such problem. If a creature had long hair and wore a long dress, it was a woman.

If it had on a BOYLE suit of metal and clanked when it walked, it was a man. Each could tell the sex of the other on sight.

But since knighthood no longer is in flower, the identity of the sexes has become more puzzling. The spread of the equal rights movement and the rise of the togetherness cult have so intermingled the historic roles of men and women that both have become somewhat confused.

SAME JOBS

Women and men now work at the same jobs. They play the same sports. They dress alike, particularly in their youthful years, and they talk about the same things.

As an inevitable result, they look more alike. As a matter of fact, teen-agers now look so much alike that only their own parents can tell which is son, which is daughter.

But it is almost as hard to tell Pop from Mom when both put on slacks to go golfing, or Grandpa from Grandma when they dress up in old clothes to go fishing.

What we need is a king of Baecker of Sex to tell the genders apart. Here are a few ways it still can be done:

If it smiles when you address it as "Ma'am," it is feminine. If it grunts and growls, it is masculine.

IT'S A HIM

If it strikes a kitchen match on the seat of its trousers, it's a him. If it waits coyly for you to light its cigarette, it's a her.

If it takes off its shoes at the movies, it's a woman. If it gets down on its hands and knees and starts looking for the shoes, it's a man.

Does it do its fair share of pushing while going through a revolving door? It's a gentleman for sure. Does it leap in front of you and grab the taxi you just flagged down? It's a lady — every time.

If it brags about the steaks it cooked in the backyard, it's a man. If it dimples when you praise the roast it cooks indoors, it's a woman.

DUCKTAILS

If it wears a red ribbon in its hair, it's a lass. If it combs its hair like the north end of a duck going south, it's a lad.

If it says it has given you the best years of its life — "and for what I ask you" — it is a wife. If it asks for lunch money before going to work, it's a husband.

If two go to the supermarket, the one that pushes the loaded cart is the mister. The missus is the one that holds up the line at the checkout counter as she fumbles through the wilderness of her purse.

If it likes to dine by candlelight because this is romantic, it's the Mama Bear. If it grumbles, "I can't see what I'm eating," it's the Papa Bear.

WHICH ONE

If it would rather go dancing than do anything, it's a her. If it would rather shoot pool, it's a him.

If you open the door to it and it tries to sell you a box of cookies, it's a Girl Scout. If it helps old ladies across a street, it's a Boy Scout.

Does it bring its paycheck home in its mouth? It's a man.

Pope Issues Peace Appeal

Recalls World Wars; Urges Arms Race End

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Paul VI, in a peace appeal recalling the tragedies of two world wars, urged nations today to avoid an arms race.

The Roman Catholic pontiff said there was a return to the "illusory concept that peace can only be based on the terrifying power of extremely homicidal weapons."

Speaking to his regular weekly general audience at his summer residence just south of Rome, Pope Paul expressed concern at the "acute disagreements, already stained with blood and pregnant with menacing omens, existing today between various countries."

He said his thoughts were stirred by the current anniversary commemorations of the start of World Wars I and II.

NEW SYMPTOMS

"New symptoms are noted of a regrowth of divisions and oppositions between peoples, between the various races and different cultures: this spirit of division is guided by nationalistic pride, by prestige politics, the armaments race, social and economic antagonisms," the Pope said.

"There returns the illusory concept that peace can only be based on the terrifying power of extremely homicidal weapons; and, while on the one hand noble but weak discussion and efforts are made to limit and abolish armaments, on the other the destructive capacity of military apparatus is being continually developed and perfected."

David Lawrence Says:

People Kept in the Dark About Election Issues

ATLANTIC CITY — The American people really don't know what's going on here or how it can affect their destiny—their lives, their property, their freedoms in the communities where they live or their opportunities to conserve the value of their hard-earned money.

The people do LAWRENCE not know what is back of the political chicanery, boastful phrases and artificial glamour that surround a national convention, whether it is a Democratic or a Republican affair.

Still the people are asked to choose one or the other of the men nominated by two unrepresentative gatherings.

The Democratic Convention this week unfortunately presents the image of an organized show, lacking in dignity, lacking in respect for the delegates, and lacking in regard for the electorate itself.

For the objective seems to be to find the best way to fool people. This involves palpable showmanship and repeated assurances to voters that all their worries are over, that there is to be an unending prosperity, and that their sons will not be drawn into any war.

The exuberant phrases of pride in the administration's activities, reflected in the speeches, are matched only by vehement denunciations of opponents.

These utterances, of course, are characteristic pieces of demagoguery evident in all political conventions. One wonders how long the American people are going to stand for such manifest nonsense.

Even outdoors around the convention hall, there are "rallies" designed primarily to attract television cameras and the press so that they can report, for instance, what was said by Adam Clayton Powell, Negro clergyman, who is the Democrat representing the Harlem district in Congress and chairman of the all-important Committee on Education and Labor of the House of Representatives.

He told a cheering crowd that Sen. Eastland and Stennis of Mississippi, Democrats are "the number one hoodlums of the nation."

But there were no resolutions adopted by the convention denouncing this as "extremism." Nor was there any denunciation by name of those organizations which incited violence and "hooliganism" in Harlem recently and in other cities of the country.

This "extremism," of course, was not confined to spoken epithets or innuendos but extended to acts of violence that cost several lives and caused injury to many innocent persons as well as millions of dollars of damage to private property.

BEHIND CAMERAS

Inside the Convention Hall itself, the scene is unlike that of any other convention. Hundreds of delegates are seated behind three huge stands, each rising 20 to 30 feet to a wide wooden platform on which newscasters, TV and other cameramen are stationed.

These delegates cannot see the speaker or others on the rostrum or the state delegations seated in front of the obstructive carpeting.

In this kind of conclave, perhaps it isn't necessary to worry at all about whether delegates themselves can see anything.

The whole game is to reach television audiences across the country and to give them the illusory idea that this is a well-ordered meeting of highly intellectual persons engaged in the solemn task of nominating a president and vice president of the United States.

CONTRIVED METHOD

If this is the contrived method whereby presidents are always nominated, it can hardly impress a visitor from abroad that the system is much different from the way the Communist party is run in Moscow.

For delegates at party conventions in this country also are told what to do by a small clique of leaders.

Not only has the party platform here been written in advance, but it is jammed through by a single convention roll call.

AMERICAN VICTIMS

There is no dissent. Even selection of a vice presidential nominee is carried out very much as Mr. Khrushchev would pick his second in command.

One wonders how long the American people will continue to be the victims of such unrepresentative processes.

Strangely enough, only millionaires often seem to be regarded as fitting candidates for the highest office in the land, and the competition this time appears to be centered on which candidate has accumulated the most money.

The "affluent society" in the Atlantic City convention, moreover, is conspicuous.

One wonders also what has become of the rights of the "common people"—those who earn their own living and want others to do likewise so that the taxpayers' money will not be wantonly appropriated for the shiftless or for the benefit of the politically shrewd.

The adroit politician inevitably scoffs at intellectual honesty. He concerns himself primarily with finding ways to channel public funds to areas where votes aren't exactly bought but where members of Congress claim nevertheless they can obtain for a state or city more public funds than the candidate of the other party can possibly get for his constituency.

This is the essence of American politics today. Incidentally, representatives of the Russian Communist press are here to observe what's going on.

2 Bids Entered on Lake Work

Only two bids were submitted to the Oakland County Drain Commission yesterday on a project to raise the level of Commerce Lake in Commerce Township.

The apparent low bidder was O'Laughlin Construction Co. of Detroit which offered to do the construction work for $26,400. The other bid was $29,475.

Included in the project will be a reinforced concrete lake level control structure, miscellaneous steel and concrete work, erosion control of ditch banks and installation of 116 feet of chain link fence.

Assessment review is scheduled for Sept. 1 at the drain commission office, 550 S. Telegraph. The contract will be awarded 10 days after the assessment review.

The project is designed to raise the level of Commerce Lake from its present reading of 905.9 feet above mean sea level to the legal level of 906.8.

Cycle Crash Injures Man

Russell Foote Jr. of 1911 Kinmount, Orion Township, is in fair condition at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital with injuries suffered when his motorcycle left the road early today in Pontiac and turned over.

Foote, who was traveling east on Auburn near Eastway when the 5:30 a.m. accident occurred, told police his motorcycle hit the curb and went off the road. He suffered facial and arm cuts.

An average American consumes less than three bushels of wheat during an average year.

would be like signing his own death warrant.

King was given a 10-year sentence Nov. 28, 1962, for the robbery of the Webbers Falls, Okla., state bank. The State Pardon and Parole Board voted last month to parole King, an AWOL soldier, so he could be kept in custody of federal authorities.

King doesn't want that. His reason is simple. An Army court-martial which found him guilty of murder in the death of a fellow soldier sentenced him to death.

King was released temporarily from civil custody for the trial at Ft. Gordon, Ga., in the slaying of Pvt. Joseph J. Pope of Miami, La. The order called for him to be returned to Oklahoma after the trial.

ELIMINATE NEED

The parole would eliminate the need for his return to Oklahoma. But King refused to sign the parole papers as required.

The Parole Board decided to consider recommending a year's suspension of civil custody, which would permit the Army to keep King. During that time, he might be executed.

King claims that such an action would violate his civil rights. If the suspension of civil custody is approved, King says he will go to court to demand that he be returned to prison.

MOLDING A PRESIDENT

Wig of human hair is fitted to model of President's head. Single strands are implanted to give it natural appearance.

Figures of President Johnson and Lady Bird get finishing touches before going on display at wax museum.

President Lyndon B. Johnson's career has marked another milestone: He and Lady Bird are immortalized in wax and are the latest additions to the exhibits at the National Historical Wax Museum in Washington, D. C.

The word "wax" is used only figuratively in this case. The figures of the Johnsons and the others on display at the museum are made of a vinyl plastic instead of the wax substance used in the famous European museums.

The idea to start a "waxworks" museum was fostered by Frank Dennis, a former Washington newspaperman, who became impressed by Madame Tussaud's in London and the Grevin in Paris. When he returned, he prevailed upon Earl Dorfman, a Baltimore designer, to help him. They had planned to import the figures from Europe but it was Dorfman who made their first figure seven years ago.

Four sculptors are now employed to make the models of heads and bodies from which casts are made. The facial characteristics for each figure are carefully detailed from photographs and historical documents. A small staff does the research.

The molds are designed and made in the same shop and are heated before the plastic is poured into them. The formula of the plastic is such that it only coats the mold, so that the figures are hollow when removed from them. The heads and figures are then filled with plastic foam so they will retain their shape.

The heads are fitted with wigs of human hair. Additional hair is implanted, a strand at a time along the forehead and sides to give a natural appearance. The same implanting of hair is also done around beards and eyebrows.

President Johnson and Lady Bird have joined a distinguished group of Americans in the museum. The list includes all the famous men in American history from Christopher Columbus and Capt. John Smith through Davy Crockett at the Alamo down to the astronauts.

Sculptor works from photographs to make clay model of Lady Bird for museum.

Hands are mass produced, spray painted, and saved for future use.

Liquid vinyl plastic has replaced wax for museum figures.

Heavy molds are heated to high temperature to make castings of museum figures.

Hot Time Is Scheduled for Sunday School

Beatles Answer Questions

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—The news conference was scheduled for 7:15 p.m., and at precisely 7:15 the Beatles walked through the door.

A couple hundred newsmen crowded onto the floor of the Cinnamon Cider, a San Fernando Valley night club for teen-agers, while a hundred or more young girls stood atop platforms and booths on the periphery. One of these was a close relative, blonde and 16, posing as my assistant.

The Beatles, smoking cigarettes and looking world-weary, disappeared in a mass of photographers.

"George has the prettiest hair," observed my assistant.

QUESTIONS BEGIN

After minutes of shooting, the photographers were admonished to sit down so the news conference could start. It was more minutes before this was accomplished. Then the questions began.

S. Rhodesia Emergency State Called

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — The Southern Rhodesian government declared a state of emergency today in Salisbury's African Highfield Township and called out a battalion of white troops to help police enforce order.

The government sealed off this major township and declared a ban on two major African nationalist political parties.

A government broadcast said the state of emergency would last three months and said it had been applied because of persistent lawlessness, violence and intimidation in the township.

Desmond Lardner-Burke, minister of law and order, said members of the two nationalist parties had intimidated other Africans. The situation was endangering public safety, he said.

Police immediately began screening every person in the township.

The two parties banned are Joshua Nkomo's Peoples Caretaker Council and the Zimbabwe African National Union of the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole. Both leaders are restricted by government order from attending or holding public meetings.

HOLLYWOOD — Joan Crawford says she cried for nine hours straight after hearing — from newsmen — that she was being replaced in a movie for the first time in her career.

Complicated Motives of Turk, Greek Bathe Cyprus in Blood

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Years of battle and backslapping between Turk and Greek have turned this ruggedly beautiful island into a threatening cauldron of hate and fear.

The 800,000 Greeks and 100,000 Turks on Cyprus think of little else. They are bundles of sensitive, self-centered nerves.

Facing isolation, military defeat and possible starvation, the Turkish Cypriot thinks only of survival. Socially, he hopes the Turkish government in Ankara will save him. He is willing to listen to Ankara's advice.

The Greek Cypriot is more complicated.

DREAM OF UNION

He dreams of a union with Greece which will somehow weave together a tapestry of conflicting desires. He wants union with "the motherland" but no part of the North Atlantic Alliance, which Greece values. He wants union, but no lessening of the heady role now played by his tiny island.

There is a genuine fear among responsible diplomats that the volatile Greek Cypriot—in the absence of a settlement—may make of their island a Mediterranean Cuba.

No Greek Cypriot voice is raised publicly to point out the contradiction in President Makarios, a bearded Greek Orthodox archbishop, asking for military aid from the jolly atheist Nikita Khrushchev.

It isn't thought the least odd, either, when the Greek high commissioner in London says a third world war would be preferable to making concessions to Turkey.

MILITARY ASSAULT
Greek Cypriot approval seemed equally universal when

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS

SPECIAL REPORT

Makarios threatened military assaults on every Turkish village—which would have resulted in a massacre.

In Nicosia, where fortified houses, slit trenches and sandbagged gun positions divide the city, both sides maintain diligent "information" services. On the walls of each office are gruesome atrocity pictures—which taken together sadly prove that both Greeks and Turks are still sometimes capable of Byzantine savagery.

The unreality of Cyprus strikes an outsider almost as soon as he steps from the plane. A machine gun burst rattling in the distance causes hardly a head to turn. Beardless youngsters with burning eyes poke guns about with unerring seriousness.

The island has taken on a seemingly permanent embittered character since practical civil war broke out in December. It includes, between gurglers, peculiar touches of business as usual. The doorman at the Leda Palace Hotel will arrange for newsmen's tours to fighting areas as casually as his Paris counterpart sets up an evening at the Bergere.

UNREALITY WRITTEN

Unreality is almost written into the island. It nestles along the Turkish coast but is and has long been 75 per cent Greek—though peopled by many Mediterranean migrations.

Its present difficulties date from a warm August day in London four years ago. With restrained enthusiasm, Britain, Turkey and Greece reached an agreement granting the former British colony independence—of a sort. Turkey and Greece would maintain troops on the island, the Turkish minority would have a veto over certain legislation and a constitution wrapped it all up neatly.

Gen. George Grivas, whose Greek Cypriot guerrillas had harassed the British for years, went home in bitterness and disgust, charging Makarios with treason for accepting less than full union with Greece—enosis is the Greek word for it.

Grudgingly accepting the restraint placed on him, Makarios almost immediately again raised the banner of enosis and unswervingly kept it high. Vice President Fazil Kuchuk, a Turk who was once the archbishop's personal friend, now rails at him bitterly and says Makarios never intended to make independence work.

The inevitable blowup came when Makarios' determination to change the constitution, thus permitting a "self determination" vote for union with Greece, precipitated the present civil war.

In the succeeding months, many personal friendships between Greek and Turk were drowned in blood. Athens and Ankara, getting along uneasily in NATO despite centuries of strife, were brought to the brink of war.

Though Turkey is resigned to seeing the island united with Greece it is determined not to leave the Turkish minority unprotected.

Makarios, flirting with Russia, is equally determined to get self determination with no restraints.

The question is whether he will succumb to the appeals of Athens, Washington and London or continue his single minded, perilous course.

Cyprus Aid Vowed by Order of Ahepa

Several area residents attended the recent Order of Ahepa Supreme Convention in Toronto at which delegates resolved to pledge the organization's financial support to the people of Cyprus.

The Order of Ahepa, consisting of some 50,000 members, is the largest organization of Americans and Canadians of Greek descent.

Among the local delegates to the convention were John Lidoz, William Gregory, Dr. Stephen Socrates, Charles Bab, Gus Furtick, Nick Sekles, John Tsatsanis and Paul Theodore.

Visitors to the convention included the Socrates Sekles family of Pontiac who met Miss Corinna Topel, while there. Sekles is chairman of the board of trustees of the Order of Ahepa.

Spots Stolen Shoe on Foot of Boy, 14

PARK FOREST, ILL. (AP)—A policeman took one look at a 14-year-old boy Tuesday and concluded he was wearing a shoe stolen 12 days ago from a local department store.

The shoe, which the youth was wearing on his regular shoe, was a display model—size 25D, weighed three pounds, was 20 inches long and had a sole 4 inches thick. He said another boy gave it to him.

Junior Editors Quiz on MONA LISA

QUESTION: Why is the Mona Lisa so famous?

ANSWER: This picture was painted by the great Italian Leonardo da Vinci, who lived between 1452 and 1519. It is a portrait of the wife of a merchant, Francesco del Giocondo, and is often called La Gioconda.

Up to that time, pictures had mostly been of events or religious ideas: This was one of the unusual portraits of a real human being, of special interest because she seems so warm and human; we can almost see her thinking.

What is she thinking about? Perhaps this is the secret of La Gioconda's fame—everyone is trying to guess her secret. The faintest of smiles plays over her lips—but again, what is she smiling about?

Everyone has his own idea. Here is our artist's special theory: "Most people in portraits," he says, "give me the feeling they are thinking about themselves."

But this wise, lovely lady looks deeply into your eye and seems to think about you rather than herself.

Somewhere, she seems to have guessed your secret. And she gives the impression that even if she shares my secret, she will keep it in confidence."

FOR YOU TO DO: Find a color reproduction of the Mona Lisa and look deeply into her eyes. See if you agree with our artist. If not, work out your own explanation of that wise but tantalizing smile.

Refrigerator Has 2 Tiers

A Lazy Susan of a refrigerator, hanging oven, rolling range, and even a dishwasher and dry cleaner are among fresh ideas in home appliances on display at the New York World's Fair.

They are gas appliances in startling shapes and novel design developed by the Norge Division of Borg-Warner Corp. for the Festival of Gas pavilion.

The refrigerator is actually a three-in-one food and beverage center, and completely leaves behind traditional refrigerator design.

Combined with the refrigerator are a freezer with an automatic ice maker and a dispenser for coffee, tea, fruit juice, or other beverage made from instant concentrates.

The circular refrigerator-freezer-liquid dispenser is mounted on a pedestal and has two separate tiers. Each tier rotates on a central shaft. The interior compartments can be brought around to where you want them.

A circular work surface forms the top of the lower freezer level. Compartments can be reached through an access door in the work surface. In the upper level liquid dispenser, either heated or cooled water is directed through concentrated powders or fluids.

Current for the thermoelectric power unit of the food and beverage center is furnished through gas conversion in a fuel cell.

Perky Sauce for Veal

An interesting innovation on the week's menu proves a welcome sight to slightly jaded appetites. Going along with this line of reasoning, you might try a delightful Veal Paprika with Tomato-Vegetable Sauce.

A package of tomato-vegetable soup mix cuts the chef's chores in half. It provides the base for a delicious sauce for the meat.

The soup mix goes into one and a half cups of boiling water, and is simmered for ten minutes. After cooling a bit, blend in a cup of sour cream.

Veal Paprika With Tomato-Vegetable Sauce

1 package tomato-vegetable soup mix
1 1/2 cups boiling water
1 cup sour cream
2 pounds veal steak, cut into 2-inch squares
2 tablespoons shortening
1 4-oz. can mushrooms
1/2 teaspoon salt
Pepper
1/2 teaspoon paprika

Stir tomato-vegetable soup mix into boiling water in saucepan. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Cool slightly and blend in sour cream.

Brown veal in shortening then remove to a 2-quart casserole. Add mushrooms and seasonings. Pour sauce over browned veal. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 hour or until meat is tender. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

New Food Experiences Fun

BY JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Three weeks of a rambling vacation in the eastern part of the country brought us a few firsts . . . . .

Our first fresh ripe fig
Our first soft pretzel
Our first Maryland crab meat
Our first shoofly pie

It was a real vacation — no camping, no cooking — just swimming, reading, hiking and sightseeing in the part of the United States where history was made in the 17th and 18th centuries.

The fresh fig came from Williamsburg, Va. In that restored colonial town we had breakfast at Williamsburg Inn where they serve apple fritters and hominy for the first meal of the day.

We first encountered soft pretzels in Philadelphia where a street vendor was hawking them.

We first tasted them in Atlantic City where we went to parade on the boardwalk and to peek into Convention Hall ahead of this week's convention.

PRETZEL BENDER

Last week in Sturgis, Pa., we became an official pretzel bender with a signed certificate to prove it.

The little Sturgis pretzel factory — granddaddy to all such factories in the U.S. — encourages visitors to try twisting a pretzel. These also are the large soft ones, not the crisp ones you buy in packages.

In Pennsylvania, too, we visited a company that makes the famous Lebanon sausage. Containing only beef and spices, this sausage is not cooked, just smoked over seasoned oak logs.

Our third and final plant tour was of the giant Hershey corporation. It was interesting, but the route was backward.

We started seeing the candy bars wrapped and put into packages (they were filling "Trick or Treat" packs for Halloween). The last stop on the tour was seeing the chocolate mixer.

In Lancaster, Pa., which is Pennsylvania-Dutch country we had a dinner that only a Paul Bunyan could do justice to. Fortunately, we had only coffee that morning — in anticipation — and we didn't eat again until 9:30 that night.

Plain and Fancy Farm in Bird-in-Hand, Pa., is a show-place Amish farm, restaurant and gift shop run by the Menonites. They serve dinner family style from just before noon until early evening. We went the Felix Weidlers of Sylvan Lake there.

Although there weren't seven sweets and soups for the first course, we did have chow-chow, corn relish, apple butter, a meat salad and homemade bread.

The main course included ham, meat loaf, fried potatoes, buttered noodles, green beans, stewed dried corn and apple sauce.

Dessert started with pineapple-apple pie and concluded with cherry or shoofly pie, ala mode or plain.

SHOOFLY PIE

1 1/2 cups flour
1 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup lard or butter
1/2 cup molasses
1/2 cup hot water
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 unbaked pie shell.

Line pie tin with unbaked crust. Mix flour, sugar and shortening to make crumbs. Dissolve soda in hot water and add molasses.

Four molasses mixture into pie shell. Top with crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees 25-30 minutes, or until firm.

To Put in Salads

A rice salad is fun to prepare for lunch because you can pick and choose (from what's available) to add to it. Here are suggestions: cooked shrimp and ham; cooked green peas and green beans; celery and green onion.

Toss the cold cooked rice with the additions you choose plus an oil-and-vinegar dressing; serve on crisp salad greens and garnish with tomato.

Boiled Dinner Is Summer Quickie

Summer is the season for lazy living. A boiled dinner is a good choice for this time of year because the meal can be cooked quickly.

For instance, ground beef patties require only 12 to 15 minutes to broil. Tomato halves topped with grated cheese, and cooked potato slices brushed with butter when the meat is partially cooked and ready to turn. The entire meal comes out hot and savory after only 15 minutes total cooking time.

Baked Tomatoes

Cut large tomatoes in half; sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven for about 15 minutes. Serve with sweet potatoes and creamed spinach for a delicious vegetable plate. Add a few sticks of celery and carrot for crisp texture.

Salami Will Do

No ham in the house and you feel like having a chef's salad? Use thin strips of salami with the usual julienne cheese (Swiss) or cheddar) and the mixed greens. For large hamburgers, shape a pound of ground chuck into three patties.

Please the Eye

A fresh fruit salad looks attractive if the fruit is left in large pieces: pared cantaloupe rings, watermelon wedges, whole strawberries, apricot and peach halves make a fine combination. Blue eyes tire faster than eyes of darker colors.

Coffee Cooler

For a summer refresher, combine cold strong coffee with milk and add scoops of coffee or vanilla ice cream. No need to sweeten the coffee!

Ever use bacon drippings as the fat when you are frying apples?

SERVE IN CONES — This Cherry Dream is good enough to make anyone ignore calories. It's a smooth combination of sweetened whipped cream and tart cherry pie filling.

Fill Crisp Ice Cream Cones With Luscious Mixtures

"Nice and easy does it." That is the byword on these warm, summer days. Well, here are two couldn't be easier to make treats, good to serve for dessert or mid-afternoon to the backyard pool crew.

Both treats start with crisp cuplets. These flat-bottomed cones make wonderful holders for ice cream, sherberts, and any thick creamy desserts from rice puddings to cream chiffons. They're fun to serve and fun to eat. And just think! No dishes to wash afterward.

This time the cones are filled with cold and creamy fruit concoctions. Either one can be whipped up an hour or two ahead of time. No need to use precious freezer space, they'll keep firm in the refrigerator.

Cherry Creams
1 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1 (1-lb. 6-oz.) can cherry pie filling, well chilled
12 cuplet cones.

Whip cream until quite stiff; fold sugar. Fold in cherry pie filling. Refrigerate until serving time. Spoon into waffle cuplets. Makes 12 servings.

Pineapple Fluff Cups
2 (8-oz.) packages cream cheese, softened
2 cups marshmallow topping
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

1 can (8½-oz.) crushed pineapple, well drained
12 cuplet cones
12 maraschino cherries, with stems

Blend together cream cheese, marshmallow topping and grated lemon rind. Stir in crushed pineapple. Chill 1 hour or longer. Just before serving, spoon into 12 waffle cuplets. Top each cuplet with a maraschino cherry. Makes 12 servings.

Liver Pate Is a Treat

A gourmet treat is made with canned onion dry soup mix is an elegant liver pate. Serve it with crackers as an appetizer.

Liver and Onion Spread
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
½ cup milk
1 can (1½ ounces) onion dry soup mix
1 package (8 ounces) frozen chicken livers, cooked and finely chopped

Blend cream cheese and milk. Add soup mix and chicken livers. Chill. Serve as spread with crackers.

Quick Confection for Small Fry

Here's a wholesome homemade butterscotch confection for kids out of school and rarin' to go.

Melt over hot (not boiling) water one 6-ounce package (1 cup) butterscotch morsels. Stir in ¼ cup peanut butter. Mix together in a large bowl 2 cups chow mein noodles and 2 cups miniature marshmallows. Add the butterscotch mixture, and mix thoroughly.

Drop by heaping teaspoons onto cookie sheet lined with wax paper. Chill till set. Makes 30 "hopscotchers."

Cook Ahead Kabob Base

A good base to prepare ahead for outdoor kabobs...

Almond Pilaf
¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup vermicelli, broken in short lengths
¼ cup chopped blanched almonds

1 cup uncooked rice
2 cans (10½ oz.) undiluted onion soup
Melt butter in saucepan; add vermicelli, almonds and rice and brown over medium heat. Heat soup to boiling and add to rice mixture. Cover and simmer for 35 minutes or pour into baking dish; cover and bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Garnish with parsley. Makes 6-8 servings.

Vegetable Skillet—Quick and Easy

Vegetables cooked in sufficient boiling water to cover were milder in flavor and greener than those cooked in just the water clinging to them after washing or in a pressure saucepan, according to a University of Minnesota study by Joan Gordon and Isabel Noble. They also found that broccoli and cauliflower, but not cabbage or turnips, cooked in the pressure saucepan were milder in flavor than comparable samples cooked in the "waterless" saucepan. The percentage of ascorbic acid retained during cooking was greater in the pressure saucepan than in either of the other two methods.

PRIZE-WINNING—Beef liver fillets encircled with bacon are a barbecue specialty invented in Colorado. This prize-winning recipe in the Kaiser Foil Cookout Championship "for men only" is quick, easy and tasty. The fillets are accompanied by summer squash, also cooked on the grill in foil packets, and dotted with butter and herbs just before serving.

Liver and Bacon Skewer-Grilled

Liver has never been the greatest mealtime serving to come down the pike, but an unusual recipe for the dish won a major prize at America's Cookout Championship recently in Hawaii.

In preparing the recipe for the Kaiser Foil national barbecue competition "for men only," Leland C. Ellis, the mayor of Dillon, Colo., cut a two-pound piece of liver vertically into thick slices and then into small servings resembling steak fillets. A strip of bacon was encircled around each of these.

He then placed the skewers on the grill, rotated them occasionally, and cooked the bacon until it was brown.

When the skewers are removed, the liver again separates into fillets. These are cooked about five minutes on each side and served immediately—brown and succulent.

Barbecued Liver 'N Bacon
2 lbs. beef or calves' liver
½ lb. bacon
½ cup bottled barbecue sauce

Slice liver vertically into 1½-inch thick slices. Cut slices into serving sized pieces. Wrap each piece with a slice of bacon, securing with toothpicks. They will resemble small steak fillets.

Line firebox with quilted aluminium foil; let coals burn down until covered with gray ashes.

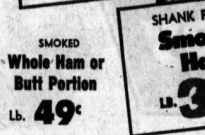

Brush each fillet on all sides with barbecue sauce. Place fillets on edge so that they resemble a rolled roast; secure them all together by means of skewers inserted through their centers.

Place on grill; rotate occasionally and cook until bacon is browned. Remove skewers and cook liver on flat sides, about 5 minutes on each. Do not overcook.

Mix together well the buttermilk, sugar, corn syrup and vanilla; turn into an ice-cube tray. Freeze until almost firm. Turn into bowl of electric mixer. Add unbeaten egg whites; beat until fluffy. Fold in peaches. Freeze until firm.
About 10 minutes before serving, remove from freezer to soften slightly. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Put Fresh Blueberries in Custard, Then Bake

Blueberry pies, cakes and muffins. Blueberry tarts, edged with whipped cream. Blueberries right out of the box over the morning cereal and the evening ice cream.

Blueberries in big bowls on the table on the patio, where old and young can grab a healthful handful any time during the afternoon and evening.

And the truly beautiful berries, here, in a new recipe for an old-fashioned dish. Baked blueberry custard will bring back memories of grandmother's cooking and make memories for today's young people to carry with them all their lives.

Baked Blueberry Custard
1 cup fresh cultivated blueries

1 quart milk
5 eggs
5 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1½ teaspoon vanilla

Wash and drain fresh blueberries, being careful not to crush or break berries. Dry on paper towel.

Scald milk. Break eggs into a bowl and beat well. Add sugar, salt, nutmeg and vanilla. Pour in the scalded milk and stir well with spoon. Pour into custard cups.

Capitally arrange fresh blueberries on top of custard (some will sink). If desired sprinkle additional nutmeg on top. Place cups in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 15 to 20 minutes. Test with silver knife.

When knife comes out clean, custard is done. Do not overcook, as custard will then turn watery. Remove custard cups from water and cool, then chill in refrigerator. Serve ice cold. Yield: 8 servings.

Molasses ranks second to liver as a source of available iron.

Grill in Safe Spot

When grilling don't place your portable grill under valuable shrubs or low-limbed trees. The heat may cook your specimens as well as your spareribs.

Smokey Says

Be sure and extinguish the fire when you are through cooking. Small sparks left burning can cause a grass or brush fire.

Seafood Filled Pineapple Is Cool Summer Entree

Want to give a tangy lift to a very special summer dinner party? Albert Bonelli, executive chef of Chicago's Hotels Ambassador suggests a Pump Room Pineapple and Seafood Boat, an elegant entree that's simple to make and refreshing to eat. As a specialty of the Ambassador's world famous Pump

Pump Room Pineapple and Seafood Boat, whole fresh pineapple (each pineapple serves two) cooked jump shrimps (six shrimps per serving) fresh lobster chunks (six chunks per serving) toasted almonds kumquats

your favorite dressing

Cut the pineapple lengthwise in half, keeping the fronds and head on each half. With a grapefruit or paring knife scoop out the center of the pineapple.

Save all pineapple meat, except the tough core.

Dice the pineapple meat and mix with lobster chunks. Fill the scooped out center with the mixed pineapple and lobster. Drape three whole shrimps over each side of the shell. Sprinkle the top with almonds. Garnish the pineapple head with a whole kumquat.

Chef Bonelli suggests serving the Pump Room Pineapple and Seafood Boat with a dish of your favorite dressing on the side.

Safety Warning

Never heat canned foods in an unopened can. It might burst and cause serious injury.

Rings Do Not Slip
if Shank Is Used

The ring can't slip off the finger, says the manufacturer of a hinged expanding shank which can be affixed to any lady's ring as part of the ring mounting.

The shank expands to slip over knuckles and then closes to hold the ring in a non-slip position.

Test May Indicate New Life for U.P. Mines

LANSING (AP)—An iron ore improvement project that could bring rehabilitation to Upper Peninsula mining operations has passed its first test, say researchers.

The project object: to develop a method of improving the quality of conventional Michigan iron ores, thus making them more competitive with foreign ores and other domestic materials.

A report on early phases of the research was presented Tuesday at a progress meeting of the Michigan Department of Economic Expansion, which is supporting the program with the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. M. E. Volin, of Michigan Technological University's Institute of Mineral Research, said preliminary laboratory work indicates a successful process can be developed.

IMPROVE ORE

The process would improve the grade and structure of ore which is now shipped as mined.

The result would be a so-called pellet. The pellets would be of uniform size and physical characteristics, would be highly porous and would contain approximately 80 per cent iron.

Such pellets are currently the preferred feed for blast furnaces in metal production, he said.

This, said Volin, would compete with pellets now produced from the ore of open pit mines. Until now, no efficient process has existed for producing pellets from the so-called "soft" variety of ores which have been shipped for years from Upper Peninsula underground mines.

Preliminary work now indicates the desired pellets can be produced from "soft" ore by use of fine-grained solid carbon and heat.

Volin said it appears that the process time and fuel requirements are considerably less than in other iron ore reduction processes.

Tests, he said, now must move from a laboratory to a continuous shaft reactor which is being built.

Rep. Gilbert E. Bursley, R-An Arbor, chairman of the House Economic Development committee, said the projects have generated an additional $1 million in research funds from other sources.

Bursley said he planned to propose an additional $1 million state grant in the 1965 legislature and expansion of the program to private colleges and technical institutions.

He suggested a division of research sponsorship and coordination be established in the proposed Michigan Department of Commerce and said the Economic Expansion Department might establish a priority list of suggested research projects in addition to accepting project suggestions from researchers.

Goldwaters Not Barry's

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)

— There's a Goldwater at the Democratic convention. In fact, there are two, one from New York and one from Nevada.

Neither claims relationship to the Republican presidential candidate, Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Bert M. Goldwater, a delegate from Nevada, says he is taking a lot of kidding about his name, but he figures it won't last past November.

The New Yorker is Monroe Goldwater, 78.

Iced Coffee - Hits the Spot

A tall glass of frosty iced coffee sure hits the spot on a sweltering day.

Best way to make it? The Coffee Brewing Institute gives rules for three methods:

• Start by making some extra hot coffee at breakfast time. Cool the coffee, pour it into a refrigerator ice tray and turn up the controls for quick freezing.

When you want an afternoon cooler, fill a tall glass with the coffee ice cubes and pour in regular-strength hot coffee. You'll have a full-flavored frosty beverage without dilution.

• Here's another easy method. Brew a potful of extra-strength coffee. (Use 3 level measuring tablespoons of coffee to each ½ measuring cup of water.) Pour hot into tall ice-filled glasses.

• The easiest and fastest way to make iced coffee is the instant method. Into each glass, spoon about twice as much instant coffee powder as you would use for a cup. Dissolve the coffee by stirring in a little warm water.

Add ice cubes to the top and enough cold water to fill the glass within half an inch of the top.

A simple sugar syrup is recommended for iced coffee because it goes into solution immediately.

To make the syrup, boil together equal amounts of sugar and water for five minutes. Cool and store in the refrigerator.

If you use cream in iced coffee, get the best cream available. It makes a real difference in the flavor. For those who don't take cream, use a twist of lemon peel or a bit of mint.

Onions Add Fine Taste to Meals

A green onion is exactly that — an onion that's harvested green, or young. These slim, summery vegetables usually are early white or bulbous varieties of onions, the U.S. Department of Agriculture explains.

Green onions are on the market all year, but are most abundant from May through August. For the best quality green onions, choose bunches that have green, fresh tops and medium-size necks that are blanched (white or pale) for 2 or 3 inches. They should be young, crisp and tender.

Contrary to the cool, dry storage necessary for dry onions, green onions should be kept cold and moist. Store them in plastic bags in the refrigerator and use within two days.

Green onions offer a way to add zest to your summer meals. They are a savory morsel eaten plain or chopped and added to a tossed salad. The tops add both flavor and color when chopped and added to cottage cheese also.

Do you think of green onions only as a relish or salad vegetable? Why not cook them, and serve like asparagus. Tender green onions-on-toast are a real delicacy.

Onions on Toast

Allow 6 or 7 finger-size green onions to each serving. Cook, green tops and all, in lightly salted boiling water until tender, about 20 minutes if onions are young and fresh. Season with melted butter or margarine and serve on toast.

For variety, pour cheese sauce over onions on toast.

Raw Cauliflower Good in Salad

Cauliflower is good now. Enjoy the sweet nutlike flavor it has when eaten raw.

Raw Cauliflower Salad

Three-quarters cup ground nut meats

¼ cup ground raw carrots

¼ cup ground raw cauliflower

2 tablespoons lemon juice

¼ cup mayonnaise

Salt and pepper to taste

Lettuce cups

Mix together ground nut meats, carrots, cauliflower and celery. Add lemon juice. Combine with mayonnaise, salt and pepper.

Pack tightly into 6 or 8 individual molds. Chill thoroughly. Turn out in lettuce cups and garnish with ripe olives, if desired. Makes 6-8 servings.

Golf's Greatest Challenge 'Monster' Tomorrow

7 A.M. Tee-Off for Huge Field in World Open

281 Course Record Facing Onslaught; Venturi Shoots 67

By FLETCHER SPEARS
The greatest array of golf talent ever assembled on one course tees off tomorrow morning in the opening round of the $200,000 Carling World Open Championship at Oakland Hills Country Club.

And some of the top names quietly predict that the "Green Monster" will be whimpering after the star-studded field ends the 72-hole round Sunday.

Included in the 155-man field are golfers representing 14 countries. Canada's Nick Weslock is the lone amateur in the field.

"The course is in ideal condition for a new record," host pro Al Watrous commented. "The greens are soft now. When they're hard, it's often the difference between a par and a bogey. And it would take 'em 10 days to firm up now."

The 6,907-yard, par 70 course is in-top condition and the 72-hole record of 281 is expected to tumble when the pros start maneuvering for a slice of the richest golf tournament purse ever.

The winner will have a $35,000 payday with the runner-up picking up a $17,000 check.

Gene Littler set the 281 Oakland Hills mark in winning the 1961 U.S. Open, but the La Jolla, Calif. pro is expected to take a back seat this year to such names as Ken Venturi, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus.

HOT SWINGER
Venturi is currently the hottest swinger on the pro circuit, and he established himself as a favorite with an unofficial three-under-par 67 in his first practice tour yesterday, equalling the official competitive course mark shared by Ben Hogan and five other players.

"I am playing so well; I am so sure of myself on shots to the green that it startles me," the 33-year-old Venturi remarked after the practice round.

"I'm hitting the ball so good I'm cuttin' it in half," he quipped.

Venturi, wallowing in near obscurity in 1962 and 1963, started his comeback with a dramatic victory in the U.S. Open in June and followed it up with a record-breaking performance in winning the American Golf Classic with a 275 at Akron Sunday.

Ken will tee off tomorrow at 12:32 p.m. along with Gary Player of South Africa and Wesley Ellis of West Caldwell of New Jersey.

First off the tee will be Wilfred Homenuk of Canada and Bill Martinella of Texas at 7 a.m.

Nicklaus, the Ohio belter whose earnings are nearing the $100,000 mark for 1964, thinks the winner will crack the course mark. "Somewhere around 278," he estimates.

Palmer joined Nicklaus for a tour of the course yesterday and both finished "around par."

Nicklaus has an 8:44 a.m. tee date for the first round along with John Bulla of Arizona and Marty Furgol of Missouri.

Palmer, trying to calm a nervous putter, will leave the tee at 1:16 p.m. with Billy Casper of California and Butch Baird of Texas.

Hogan, the sentimental favorite in the field, recorded one of his greatest triumphs at Oakland Hills in winning the 1951 U.S. Open. He will join "Chi Chi" Rodriguez of Puerto Rico and Jerry Barber of California on the tee at 9:24 a.m.

The field will be cut to the low 75 plus ties after 36 holes for the final rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Every player surviving the 36-hole cut is assured of $629. Every professional who evets a ball off the first tee will make $400.

Tickets for the tourney are available at most area golf courses. Prices are $5 for the first two rounds and $6 for Saturday and Sunday rounds. A tournament ticket is available at $20.

Nature's Golf Pride Is Oakland Hills

"We didn't build this course, nature provided it for us."

Course Still Monster for Jim Ferrier

Robert Trent Jones designed it, and Jim Ferrier gave Oakland Hills golf course its unsavory name, "The Monster."

It was in 1951, when Ferrier walked to the first tee as one of the most confident players in the National Open.

Two days later the transplanted Australian packed his baggage and admitted he was beaten by Jones' creation, called it a "monster" and left town at midpoint of the tourney.

In 1961 he returned and in the practice round of the National Open he came in from the course holding the head of a wood in one hand and the shaft in the other.

Asked if he had broken the club on the course he said, "You're darn right I did. It's still a monster."

And he stalked into the clubhouse.

He made the cut this time with 146 and finished in 22nd place for the tournament with 292.

Thursday, Ferrier tees off at 9:00 a.m. in the "monstrous" course with the "monstrous" $200,000 purse.

"I am playing so well; I am so sure of myself on shots to the green that it startles me," the 33-year-old Venturi remarked after the practice round.

"I'm hitting the ball so good I'm cuttin' it in half," he quipped.

Tickets for the tourney are available at most area golf courses. Prices are $5 for the first two rounds and $6 for Saturday and Sunday rounds. A tournament ticket is available at $20.

This was the historic remark of the late Joseph Mack, the pioneer founder of Oakland Hills Country Club, organized in 1916 with the Miller farm as a club house and the Miller's hen house as the pro shop.

Head pro in the converted hen house in 1918 and 1919 was Walter Hagen. Open champ of 1914, who found he could not keep the job because of the demand to play in tournaments around the country.

The chartered 140 members at the new club were happy with their farmhouse, electric piano and juke box, and lodging at $1.50 per night while bids were being let for the beautiful colonial structure which now stands.

In 1920 Mike Brady, who lost the 1919 Open playoff to Hagen, took over as head pro and it was the same year which officially opened the new clubhouse.

Mack and the club board of directors engaged Donald Ross to design the course and the architect pointed out that the entire course was laid out to center around the 10th and 11th holes, "two of the greatest holes in a row on any course in any place."

In 1923, Ernie Ford an Englishman succeeded Brady as host pro and in 1924 Oakland Hills was host to its first Open tournament, won by Cyril Walker.

FAMOUS CLINCHER
Walker clinched the tournament on the famous No. 16 hole. His second shot cleared the trees and lake and landed within club length of the pin.

He birdied the hole and defeated Bobby Jones by three strokes 297-300.

The first prize for the victory was $500. Walker gave the check to his caddy.

WATROUS PRO
In 1930, current pro Al Watrous took over as head

pro and under his reign, Oakland Hills has seen three more exciting Opens.

In 1937, Ralph Guldahl closed with a 69, defeating a 25-year-old rookie named Sam Snead from West Virginia, 281-253.

Guldahl startled the crowd gathered around the 18th green by casually walking to the edge of a trap and carefully combing his hair.

He knew he was in. He slowly walked up to his ball, putted it in from four feet and raised his hand a champion.

Oakland Hills, they said, was softening, so Robert

Trent Jones was called in to rearrange the course.

He did so such an extent that only two golfers were able to break par in a single round during the 1951 Open at the course.

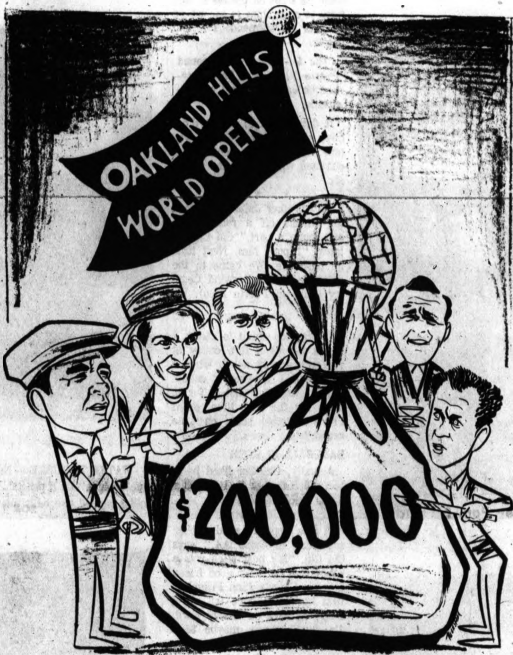

Ben Hogan brought the "monster" to its knees coming from 15th place at mid-point to 5th after three rounds and a 32 back nine finish for 67 and a 287 total.

The year 1952, however, was the year of celebration for Oakland Hills. A profit of $69,000 from the 1951 Open ended 35 years of indebtedness and a mortgage burning party set the final $124,000 note in flames.

In 1961, the Open returned for the 4th time and Gene Littler proved that the course wasn't made strictly for the big boomers off the tee.

His 73-68-72-88—281 was one stroke better than Doug Sanders, whose chip shot from 75 feet rolled dead center over the cup. The bird would have forced a tie.

Starting tomorrow, 155 of the world's best will be out to see if the "monster" had mellowed.

Littler's 281 in '61 Tops

Oakland Hills UnPARdonable

When the 154 professionals and one amateur tee off Thursday morning in the opening round of the $200,000 Carling World Open Golf Tournament, they will be tackling one of the toughest courses in the world—Oakland Hills.

Oakland Hills isn't the longest tour, but it's 6,907 yards of green grass are loaded with trouble.

No player has ever broken par (280) in a 72-hole tournament there. Gene Littler came the closest with a 281 in winning the 1961 U.S. Open.

No. 1—A 435-yard par 4. Fairway traps 230-275 yards off tee. Left side of heavily-bunkered green is slightly elevated.

No. 2—A par 5, 510-yarder. Slight dogleg to left, trapped on both sides 220-270 yards off tee. Bunkers in front prevent rolling shot onto green which has a center crown, preventing easy approach to the hole.

No. 3—A 260-yard par 3. The green and trapping are on a diagonal.

No. 4—A 448-yard par 4. Slight dogleg to the left with a nest of traps at the dogleg. Green well guarded with traps. With pin at back, putting is more difficult.

No. 5—A 437-yard par 4. Players need a 220-yard drive to clear a crest in fairway and take advantage of a downslope. High second shot over fairway ditch needed to rolling green. Trapped left and right.

No. 6—A 350-yard par 4. Shortest par 4 on course. Traps guard fairway on left from 230-260 yards out. A large oak tree guards the right side 250 yards out. Second shot is slightly uphill to a severely trapped green. Contours and an elevation in rear of green.

No. 7—A 380-yard par 4. Pond and trees to the right 230 yards from tee and bunker guards left side. Green is heavily trapped.

No. 12—A 556-yard par 5. Pond and trees at right of fairway. Fairway bunker 50 yards short of green. Rolling, well-trapped green is slightly elevated.

No. 13—A 169-yard par 3. Tee and green are slightly elevated. The green is almost surrounded by traps. Green has a pronounced hollow in front center.

No. 14—A 447-yard par 4. No fairway bunkers but two long shots needed to carry green, which falls away from front to back. Green trapped left and right.

No. 15—A 392-yard par 4. Dogleg left with a bunker in middle of fairway 250 yards out. Heavy woods protect left side of fairway. Small opening between traps to rolling green.

No. 16—A 405-yard par 4. "The water hole." Called one of world's great golf holes. Lake makes a dogleg with second shot going over water to a long-narrow-green extending into the lake, two-thirds protected by water, the rest by four traps at the back.

No. 17—A 194-yard par 3. The green is plateaued, 20 feet higher than the tee at a protected on all sides by traps. The large green has pronounced contours with the left front slightly crowned.

No. 18—A 459-yard par 4. A dogleg right with bunkers jutting into the fairway at the corner, about 200 yards out. Second shot must carry green because of the severe bunkering in front. Mound in center of green complicates putting.

No. 9—A 203-yard par 3. Green contouring is severe. Bunkers on right and left of green.

No. 10—A 448-yard par 4. Bunker at left on rolling fairway 260-270 yards out. Right traps cut into edge of fairway. Second shot uphill to contoured green.

No. 11—A 407-yard par 4. Carrying a knoll 240 yards out gives player added distance. Fairway bunker lies to the right

Money, Course Have Talkative Pros' OK

Some of the top players entered in the $200,000 Carling World Championship at Oakland Hills agreed that they face one of the year's most severe competitive tests, but they express it in different ways.

Some of their comments:

Julius Boros: "It's going to take a long, straight driver and a good putter to win this one. I think the greens at Oakland are as severe as we'll play all year long."

Gary Player: "I just hope I'm putting well. That's the most important thing in winning the big money nowadays. I tell you, there will be a lot of swallowing the apple as it comes to that last hole with $35,000 first prize at stakes."

Arnold Palmer: "Pretty near every player in the field will have a chance to win. The best player this particular week will be it."

Jack Nicklaus: "I think it's only fitting that a golf course of this caliber should be used for this $200,000 tournament in our country. All the players are looking forward to it, and I think it's going to be a great tournament."

Asked what score he would settle for on Sunday, Nicklaus quipped, "One stroke less than the runner-up."

Tony Lema: "I'm looking forward plenty to playing at Oakland Hills for $200,000. I'd even look forward to going to Viet Nam to play for $200,000."

Jim Ferrier, playing the par 4, 456-yard No. 8, a converted par 5, said: "I can reach this green in two if there's no wind in front of me, or a hurricane behind me."

Jerry Barber, playing with Ferrier: "I've got a few comments too, but your wife's along."

'Monkey' Prevents Record by Venturi

A "monkey" kept U. S. Open Champion Ken Venturi from cracking the course record at Oakland Hills yesterday.

The 33-year-old pro carded an unofficial 67 over the 6,807-yard, par 70 layout, equalling a mark set by six other pros, including Bantam Ben Hogan who turned in a similar score in the final round in winning the 1951 Open.

And Ken's 67 isn't recognized since it came in a practice round. The others were scored during tournament play.

But a "monkey" kept Ken from a 66 or better. Venturi was four-under-par after nine holes.

He bagged a par on No. 10 and canned an eight-foot putt for a birdie on the 407-yard, par 4 No. 11 and dropped an eagle putt on the 566-yard, par 5 No. 12.

The eagle '3 pushed Ken seven under par with seven holes to go and the "monkey" showed up.

***

A record-breaking performance might have put a jinx on the Open champion and Venturi said, "I didn't want a 'monkey' on my back."

After the eagle, Venturi eased up and bogied three of the final six holes for a closing 67. He three-putted three of the final four greens.

Chi Chi Gets All 'Daylight' in Golf Game

Rodriguez to Show Driving Power Off Oakland Hills Tees

There is a good reason why Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez, the cocky, colorful little Puerto Rican, is one of the fastest players in golf as well as one of its longest hitters.

***

"I was so crazy to play golf in my caddy days, the pro would let me go out when he closed the pro shop," Chi Chi explains.

"There would be only 45 minutes of daylight left. I'd get in 18 holes by hurrying. It was a short course."

***

That's why spectators gallerying him in the $200,000 Carling World Golf Championship at Oakland Hills Country Club shouldn't take their eyes off him when he steps on the tee if they want to study him to see where he gets his tremendous hitting power.

The 5-foot-7½, 126-pound Puerto Rican has fewer preliminaries than most professionals.

It dates back to his caddy days which began when he was nine. However, he became acquainted with golf at the age of six.

***

"My brother Julio and I took the wheels off a roller skate and made a cart," Chi Chi relates. "I push him. Next time he push me. We came to the entrance of the Berwind Country Club (in Puerto Rico). We went in."

***

"I was too small to caddy. I got a job as a fore caddy at 15, cents per 18 holes. When I was nine I became a caddy. When I was 13 I shot 72 for 18 holes for the first time, holed three wedge shots on the round."

BASEBALL PLAYER

Actually, Chi Chi liked baseball more than golf. His father was a baseball player.

***

"I was a pretty good pitcher one year in Class AA," says Chi Chi. "My best pitch was a submarine ball. My good friend Orlando Cepeda (San Francisco first baseman) once tell me I throw as hard as Whitey Ford. He say I throw maybe 55-60 miles an hour."

***

"Why did I quit? I was drafted in the U.S. Army. That wasn't the reason I quit baseball. One time Cepeda hit four home runs off me and I say I not going to pitch any more."

Chi Chi was a cannoner at Fort Sill, Okla. The other soldiers used to get mad when the general sent for him to play golf.

"There was a battery commander," recalls Chi Chi. "He never could beat me. Finally I said I'd play him nine holes, using only a putter. I beat him. He had me transferred."

***

Jockey Eddie Arcaro once told Chi Chi he should become a jockey. Then he played golf with Rodriguez. Chi Chi shot 64. Arcaro had a 75.

"You better stick to golf," Arcaro told Chi Chi. The 29-year-old Puerto Rican gained his first tour victory in the 1963 Denver Open.

***

The victory automatically qualified the colorful little clouter for a shot at the $200,000 Carling World purse, the biggest ever in the history of the game.

Best Amateur Now Safe Bet

The big bettors are putting their money on Nick Weslock of Canada to lead the amateurs in the Carling World Open which opens tomorrow.

***

And the show of confidence has nothing to do with Weslock's game.

Nick is in an unusual position: He's the only amateur in the tournament.

***

Nick, 46, the Canadian National Amateur champion, remained the only non-pro in the field after U.S. National Amateur titlist Deane Beman of Maryland pulled out to enter another tournament.

IT'S A LONG WAY — Arnold Palmer, on a practice tour of Oakland Hills yesterday, grabbed an iron for his second shot on the par 4, 450-yard No. 8, but he changed his mind. Arnie went to a No. 4 wood and rapped the ball on the green.

WATER TROUBLE — New Yorker Bill Collins spent some time "fishing" on a practice tour at Oakland Hills yesterday. Collins rapped two balls into the lake on No. 16.

TRAPPED — Bob Harrison of Nebraska, who got a chance at the top prize in the $200,000 Carling World Open when injured Sam Snead dropped out, found some of the problems on the Oakland Hills course during a practice tour yesterday. He's blasting out of a sand trap on No. 7.

WMGA Survivors Enter Tournament Semifinals

Survivors in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association match-play tournament entered the semifinal round today at Rochester Country Club.

Holding one of the semifinal spots was Mrs. Chris Miller of Farmington, Pontiac's Medal champ in 1961.

Mrs. Miller moved up when Misses forced her opponent, Mrs. Harold Walton of Detroit, out of action.

WBA Delegates Proposing Ban on Title Fight

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A majority of the early arrivals to the World Boxing Association convention this week favor outlawing the proposed Liston-Clay rematch.

Pre-convention talks with delegates also indicate there will be a floor fight over the WBA's suspension of Sonny Liston after he lost the world heavyweight boxing title to Cassius Clay.

James E. Deskin, executive secretary of the Nevada State Athletic Commission, said Tuesday he plans to take the floor at the convention Thursday and challenge the WBA's suspension of Liston. He maintains that the WBA did not have the authority to suspend Liston until a member boxing commission did so.

Winners of today's rounds meet in the finals tomorrow.

Argentinean Overcomes Expensive Slices, Hooks

To be a golfer in Argentina takes some dedication and, if an Argentinean wants to play American or English equipment, it takes straight shooting.

Banana ball slices and duck hooks can be expensive. A 277 per cent import duty on balls and equipment jumps the price of a $1.25 American ball to $4.71 and a lost ball is hunted with the fervor of an old western posse chase.

One Argentinean who doesn't have worries along that line is Leopoldo Ismael Ruiz, the Arnold Palmer-Jack Nicklaus combination of the South American nation who will be at Oakland Hills for the Carling World Golf Championship.

Ruiz hits them straight. He has been playing since he was eight — he's 37 now — and, like most of the American stars, began caddying when he was 12. From packing bags as a youngster at Buenos Aires' suburban Hindu Country Club, Ruiz has risen to head professional.

He's also found time to play. FOUR TIMES

Leopoldo, a 6-foot-4, 180 pounder, has won the Argentine PGA four times, the Open twice and Masters once.

Through South America he's won the Uruguayan Open three times plus the Chilean and Colombian Opens.

He hasn't restricted his tour to South America and will be in familiar international company in the Carling World, the United Nations of golf. Ruiz has played in five Canada Cup affairs, from Europe to Asia and stops in between.

The Argentine star finished fourth in the 1958 British Open firing a record-equaling 65 along the way.

It's been a long trip up, how ever. Argentina has only some 12,000 golfers, only 70 courses and just five of those public.

Ruiz won his place in the Carling by capturing the Argentine Central Open earlier this year. He is one of three South Americans in the field including fellow countryman Florentino Molina.

Wilfredo Uguinana, winner of the Peruvian Open, also qualified but recently broke his arm and will be replaced by Hugo Nari of Peru.

Harness Drivers Alone in Respective Fields

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Farrington and Stanley Dancer are drawing away from the pack in their respective bids to cop the most races won and money earned titles among the nation's harness racing drivers.

Farrington leads with 170 triumphs in 796 starts, while Dancer has amassed $67,005 in prize money.

Day With Chi-Chi at Oakland Hills

Practice rounds end today at Oakland Hills for the World Open, but it may not be the end of the zany tactics of 29-year-old Chi Chi Rodriguez the mighty-mite of the drivers. Fortunately, his Spanish words were not recorded, but his actions were in the adjoining picture sequence taken by Press photographer Ed Vanderworp yesterday.

Rakow Provides Tigers With Relief

BOSTON (AP)—Detroit Tiger pitcher Ed Rakow, who keeps his right elbow in shape during winter by tending bar in Kansas City, turned in a clutch relief performance Tuesday night in Detroit's 11-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Rakow entered the game in the fifth inning after Boston had shelled rookie Denny McLain for three homers to knot the score at 6-4.

He got the next two batters on infield grounders and scattered five hits over the final five frames for his seventh victory against nine losses.

The effort included getting out of a no-out, bases-loaded jam in the sixth, and a pair of two-on, one-out situations in the eighth and ninth innings.

Rakow fanned the red-hot Bob Tillman in the sixth and then got out of the inning by getting pinch-hitter Red Smith to hit into a double play.

INFIELD TAP

He got Eddie Bressoud and Tillman again after two were on in the eighth, and ended the game in the ninth with two men aboard by fanning Carl Yastrzemski and getting power hitting Dick Stuart on an infield tap.

The Tigers wrapped it up on Don Demeter's three-run homer in the sixth, and added two more runs in the seventh when Yastrzemski dropped Rakow's fly ball, followed by singles by Don Wert and Al Kaline, and an infield out.

Boston starter Dave Morehead gave up two runs in the first on three walks, a single and Bill Freehan's sacrifice fly. The Tigers chased Morehead with two more runs in the second with Kaline and Wert picking up the RBI's.

Dick McAuliffe's 22nd homer with Freehan aboard in the third made it 6-2. Boston's first two runs came in the first on a single by Dalton Jones, Yastrzemski's double and Stuart's single.

TIGER CHASED

The Red Sox chased McLain in the fourth with three homers. Stuart clubbed his 29th of the season; a walk to Frank Malzone was followed by Bressoud's 13th, and Tillman connected for his 14th before Rakow took over.

Demeter, who had two hits, including his 18th home run, and Kaline led the Tiger's 15-hit attack off four Red Sox pitchers. Kaline had four straight hits and drove in two runs.

The two teams will meet again tonight with Dave Wickesham (15-9) pitching for Detroit against Bob Heffner (6-4) of the Red Sox.

SPRING FLOP

Pizarro and the Milwaukee management suffered through four seasons with equally unimpressive results. The southpaw flopped each spring, was demoted to the minors — where he was virtually untestable — and finished each season in the Braves' bullpen.

Finally, in 1960, the Braves traded him to the White Sox and Lopez made him reclamation project No. 1. Pizarro has been a winner ever since.

Elsewhere in the AL Tuesday night, Cleveland upended league-leading Baltimore 5-3, third place New York topped Washington 4-1; Los Angeles defeated Kansas City 5-3 and Detroit slugged Boston 11-6.

Pizarro, 17-4, pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the top of the ninth before the White Sox broke through lefty Dick Stigman in the bottom of the inning.

Stigman checked the Sox on three hits until Jim Landis led off the ninth with a single. One out later, Floyd Robinson singled. Bill Skowron lined out before Ron Hansen broke it up with a run-scoring hit to left.

It was the 10th complete game and fourth shutout for Pizarro, who was a spring holdout until March 25, but got off to the best start of his career, reeling off five successive victories.

Chicago Mound Ace Showing 'Potentialia'

By The Associated Press
Juan Pizarro has been a potential 20-game winner since he started throwing rocks in Santurce, P.R., 11 years ago.

Al Lopez is betting a World Series ticket that the White Sox left-hander makes the charmed circle in 1964.

Pizarro pitched Chicago to within a game of first place Tuesday night when he blanked Minnesota 1-0 on a masterful five-hitter. The victory was No. 17, tops in the American League, for the 27-year-old fireballer and the shutout lowered his earned run average to a brilliant 2.00.

He has never been this close to the 30-victory mark before, though tagged "another Bob Feller" before he had thrown a pitch in anger in the major leagues.

As Dodgers Triumph

Infrequent Winner Stars

By The Associated Press
Howie Reed doesn't win very often. Not at all. In fact, his pitching victories are so well spaced out he might even pass for a Met.

But when the 27-year-old right-hander does get around to winning one, he does it in convincing fashion — and he makes the licking hurt.

Reed, who hadn't won in the majors since 1958, got around to it again Tuesday night. He fashioneed a six-hitter — with ninth inning help — for the Los Angeles Dodgers and beat San Francisco's struggling Giants 3-1.

The loss dropped the Giants into third place and left them 6½ games behind National League leading Philadelphia, a deficit that becomes more imposing each day.

SECOND PLACE

Cincinnati took over second place, rapping the New York Mets 7-2 behind the six-hit pitching of Bob Purkey while Philadelphia took a 7-5 licking from Milwaukee for the Braves' second straight over the league leaders.

Houston held off Chicago 5-4 and Lou Brock's 13th inning homer sealed St. Louis' 7-6 verdict over Pittsburgh in the other games.

Reed, whose last major league triumph was a 2-1 decision over the Chicago White Sox while pitching with Kansas City Sept. 23, 1958, was in top form against the Giants.

He allowed only five hits through the first seven innings, gave up another in the eighth, then weakened in the ninth.

With one out, he issued walks to Chuck Hiller and Matty Alou.

Ron Perranoski came on to get one out and Bob Miller was called in to strike out Willie Mays and end the game. It was only Los Angeles' fourth victory over San Francisco in 15 games this year, but it left the Giants with an overwhelming task in attempting to overtake Philadelphia.

State Wrestler Tries, but Is Ousted by Draw

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Barden of Port Huron gave it all he had but ended up losing out his Olympic wrestling bid by a draw Tuesday night.

Barden, who moved up in the 213.5-pound class by outpointing Larry Sciacchitano, of Union City, N. J., 7-4 earlier in the day, lost in a draw match with Steve Shippis of Ithaca, N.Y. Both Barden and Shippis eliminated themselves in the tie bout.

The 213.5 Olympic berth went to Gerry Connine of Tacoma, Wash., who pinned Joe James of Chicago, 1-2-35. Connine gained the finals by outing Russ Winer of Durand, Mich., 2-0.

OTHERS OUSTED

Other Michigan entries eliminated Tuesday included Okla Johnson of East Lansing, John Rollins of Lansing and Charles Ginther of Sturgis.

Johnson was outpointed by Keith Kestel of San Francisco 7-1 after an earlier 5-4 victory over Jim Hazewinkel of St. Cloud, Minn., in the 114.5 class.

Ginther won by default over Alfred DeLoon of Britt, Iowa, in the 138.5-pound category before being outpointed by Bob Douglas of Norman, Okla., 7-5.

Rollins also was eliminated in a draw bout in the same class. He tied Lou Giani of Huntington, N.Y., after an earlier pin over Richard Leonardol in 8:15.

EAST LANSING (AP)—Three former Michigan State pitchers who graduated into big time pro baseball are scheduled to hurl once again in the old timers game Oct. 10 at the MSU campus.

Scheduled for the appearance are Robin Roberts of the Baltimore Orioles, Dick Radatz of the Boston Red Sox and Ron Ferranoski, of the Los Angeles Dodgers. They'll be supported by other former Spartan baseball greats.

The old timers will play the variety in a game to benefit the memorial fund for former athletic director Ralph Young.

State Hospital Plans

1st Teen-Age Olympics

The Pontiac State Hospital will have its first Parade of Olympics beginning 1 p.m. tomorrow for teen-age inpatient competitors.

Both boys and girls at the hospital will be eligible to compete for prizes in track and field events.

This will be the first time such competition will be attempted for patients in Michigan State hospitals.

Joe Marsh Has 16 Wins

Leisure Rare for Sulky Driver

Harness racing driver Joe Marsh Jr. is not a man of leisure. His goal is to train horses and then win races — and that's exactly what he's currently doing at Hazel Park Harness Raceway.

After the first 15 nights of the track's meeting, Marsh is ahead of last year's pace when he set a Hazel Park record by winning 49 races.

He did it in 45 nights in 1963, but this year's meeting has been extended to 53 nights and doesn't end until October 3.

The 30-year-old native of Findlay, Ohio, already has 16 victories in his career, in addition to 18 second places and 11 thirds.

A much-sought-after driver,

Marsh runs a private stable at Hazel Park. He trains and drives 40 trotters and pacers for a variety of owners and also drives for others.

BUSY DAY

His day is a busy one. The 120-pounder trains the horses from 6 a. m. until noon, tends to blacksmith, veterinarian and other business in the afternoon, and drives at Hazel Park in the evening.

For the past four years, Marsh has been in the top 10 among the nation's drivers who won 100 or more races.

Only four reinsmen have recorded five consecutive 100-plus-victory seasons and Marsh has an excellent chance to become the fifth.

Marsh considers Butch Harmony "my favorite horse." The pacer, owned by Bertha Alexander of Detroit, has won many races under Marsh's whip.

Butch Harmony has been clocked in the fastest time this season at Hazel Park when he paced the mile in an even two minutes on Aug. 8 to win a $5,000 race.

Ex-MSU Griddler Cut

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP)—Safety man Dewey Lincoln from Michigan State was one of four rookies cut from the squad of the Kansas City Chiefs pro football team Tuesday to bring the number of players down to 43.

Borg Warner Water Closets

Lions to Give Browns' Offense Big Test

Is the Cleveland Browns aerial attack as potent as shown in their two most recent outings, against Los Angeles and Pittsburgh? Can this air arm, coupled with their traditional rushing game, carry the Browns toward the heights in the Eastern Conference race?

The Detroit Lions defense may give all or part of these answers to pro football fans when the two clubs meet Friday night, August 28, in Tiger Stadium in the fourth, and next to last, pre-season game for each team. Kickoff is set for 8:00 p.m. EST.

Cleveland has scored 98 points in its last two games, with both of its quarterbacks firing strikes all over the field. The Browns have scored from all corners, including a 91-yard TD against Los Angeles and a 98-yard against Pittsburgh, in racking up a 56-31 victory over the Rams and a 48-7 decision over the Steelers.

Both Frank Ryan and Jim Ninozaki have had ample time to throw the ball in these two outings and the results have been on the sensational side. Ryan accounted for four touchdowns against the Rams, and while Ninozaki was even sharper against Pittsburgh, completing 12 of 20 for 338 yards and five TD passes.

PRESSURE NEEDED
The Lions hope to change this pattern by forcing the Browns passers to throw under pressure so the Lions big four, Darris McCord, Roger Brown, Alex Karras, and Sam Williams, are key men in Detroit strategy to bring down the Browns.

Karras, the Lions All-Pro defender who is returning to duty, played another standout game against the Philadelphia Eagles, twice making key tackles and pressuring the passer in crucial situations. In this department, there are none better in football.

The Browns air arm has come to life because Coach Blanton Collier has assembled some of the speediest receivers around as pass targets.

Paul Warfield of Ohio State, Clifton McNeil of Grambling, and Walter Roberts of San Jose State, are all sprinter-type receivers, all well under the 10-0 second mark.

McNeil, a taxi squad member in '63, caught a 91-yard TD pass against the Rams, and came back with a 99-yarder against Pittsburgh. Roberts, a 175-pound jack rabbit, caught four for 147 yards against the Rams, including a 74-yard scoring number.

While the Browns have been moving so effectively in the air, they have been keeping Jimmy Brown pretty much under wraps so chances are all keys will be pulled this week as Cleveland would like to get even with Detroit for a 30-10 shelling suffered in the next to the last game of the 1963 season. That loss knocked the Browns out of contention in the East.

Indications are that both teams will be in good physical condition for the game. Rookie defensive back Bobby Thompson, who suffered a slight concussion against the Eagles, is expected to be able to play.

Lions ticket office manager Maurice Schubert advises that both upper deck and lower deck reserved seats in good locations are available as well as bleacher seats in advance.

Shotgun Championship by Hoosier With 275

VANDALIA, Ohio (UPI) — A runner missed a target in the final 25 of the shoot-off.

Others who had perfect scores and entered the shoot-off with him were Johnny Stenberg, Trotwood, Ohio; Dan Orlich, Reno, Nev.; C. E. Barnhart, Kansas City, Mo.; Army Lt. Bill Morris, Ft. Benning, Ga.; James De Filippi, Oglesby, Ill., and professional Larry French, Bellevue, Wash.

In 1960 he broke 600 consecutive targets in three 200-shot programs and lost all three shoot-offs. The next year he and Orlich broke 500 in a row each over a three-day period before officials called it a draw.

De Filippi, a 17-year-old who will enter Notre Dame next month, broke 200 in a row to win the junior title. He had never knocked down more than 100 straight from 16 yards in his life previously, although he won the doubles championship last year and is a 27-yard handicap shooter.

Eulalie Higgins, Duluth, Minn., brought down 193 of 200 targets to win the women's crown.

The state team championship went to the Iowa squad of Marvin Driver, Bob Allen, Lee Hoksberg, F. M. Ballard and Merle Stockdale with 984 out of 1,000.

Tittle After Pass Marks

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (NEA)—Y.A. Tittle broke two of Bobby Layne's National Football League records last season and he could break two more this year.

Tittle has a good chance to surpass the records for most passes attempted and for most yards gained. He needs just 166 passes to break Layne's mark of 2,700 and just 227 yards to crack the other record of 26,768.

Last season Tittle became the leader in touchdowns (202) and total completions (1,971).

Boy Ends Role of Bridesmaid in Putt-Putt

Kerry Kammer finally left the bridesmaid class — and that condition would be amazing for any Auburn Heights Boys' Club member.

Kerry of 2300 Old Salem, Pontiac Township, is a 16-year-old Pontiac Press carrier who makes a science out of miniature golf.

In 1962 and 1963 he was senior division runner-up in the boys club's annual Miniature Golf Tournament, and he also finished second in this summer's Press Carriers' Putt-Putt tourney.

Monday, though, the world turned golf-ball bright. He won the third annual club competition by edging 16-year-old Dave (Duke) Renschow, 981 Grey, Auburn Heights, in the 18-hole final match.

Kammer posted a 36, four under par, to beat Renschow by eight strokes. They had survived a starting field of some 63 players in the two division tournaments.

The junior title went to 12-year-old Craig Medlen, 573 Squirrel, Auburn Heights, who nipped Floyd Ramsey (11), 3153 Willett, Pontiac Township, by four strokes.

'Second' Clay in Redskin Camp

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rookie Ozzie Clay's first workout with the Washington Redskins was featured by his loud claims that he could cover Bobby Mitchell, followed closely by Mr. Mitchell faking Mr. Clay out of his uniform.

Like his "tisticuff" namesake, the setback didn't bother Ozzie. "I'm the greatest!" Clay is the slightest.

He continued to needle such stars as Mitchell and end Angelo Coia, even while they were giving him lessons on how to make brass rookie halfbacks look inept.

For awhile, Clay's mouth appeared to be in reverse proportion to his ability. But after three exhibition games, the Redskins are beginning to wonder if "I'm the greatest" isn't just that.

LATE DRAFT CHOICE

Clay was only a 17th draft choice, which in pro football is something like settling for Marjorie Main after you get turned down by Kim Novak. A six-foot, 190-pound Negro, he came to the Redskins from Iowa State with a fair reputation as a defensive back, although he also played on offense.

The Washington coaches frankly gave him little chance to survive the exhibition season, and for the first two weeks of training camp he showed little except a tendency to pop off to his "elders."

But head coach Bill McPeak liked the kid's spirit — and there has been too little of that commodity around the Redskins for too many years.

Clay didn't look like the answer to a defensive coach's prayers, but he had one thing — speed. McPeak decided to try him out as a kickoff and punt return specialist.

Ozzie's first real test was against the man-eating Chicago Bears, and it almost was his last.

The rookie, apparently figuring that a fair catch was a mark of abject cowardice, insisted on trying to run back punts with a half-don't Bears breathing into his face.

A couple of times, Bear leaders almost hammered him three feet underground. But he got away once — through five Bears — for a 14-yard gain and McPeak liked what he saw.

GETS LONG RETURNS
Against the New York Giants last week, Clay took a second-period kickoff and went 65 yards. In the third quarter, he took another kickoff, bumped into a teammate, bounced off four Giants and went 72 yards before a tackler got an angle on him.

In both cases, he showed amazing takeoff speed. Clay runs as if his feet were equipped with gears. He seems to lunge at the start, then suddenly accelerates. Thus far, Clay has returned five kickoffs 239 yards — a whopping average of nearly 47 yards per carry.

"It's too early to predict anything about this kid," says McPeak, "but he's showing us stuff we didn't know he had."

McElhenny Looks for Football Work

High McElhenny can't recall the last time he went job-hunting in August.

The King has had steady autumn employment for almost 20 years, the last 12 as a living legend in the National Football League.

Today, however, 36-year-old McElhenny heads a group of disappointed griders faced with a professional dead-end. The one-time All-America and All-Pro halfback was among some 50 veterans and rookies sliced from National and American League squads Tuesday.

The NFL clubs trimmed their rosters to 45 men, the AFL to 43. Both leagues have until Sept. 8, a week before their season kickoffs, to make the final limits of 40 NFL and 34 AFL.

McElhenny, who has gained over 10,000 yards since his Rookie of the Year debut with the San Francisco 49ers in 1952, was surprised when the New York Giants made his release part of a wholesale shake-up.

LAST SEASON

"I'm in better health now than in the last two years," he said. "I had intended to make this season my last one. Now, I'm not sure what I'll do, but if the right offer comes along . . ."

The big breakaway runner, who underwent knee surgery after the 1962 season but was prominent in New York's drive

Maury Wills Claim Brings NL Denial

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — Maury Wills' claim that National League umpires are under orders not to enforce the balk rule this year drew a scoffing denial today from league president Warren Giles.

"No umpire was deprived of a Christmas bonus because such bonuses are not paid by the National League to its umpires," said Giles in reply to the Dodger base-stealing whiz's comments of last Sunday.

Wills had charged an umpire told him he lost his Christmas bonus because he refused to obey a league order not to enforce the balk rule. He said he understood another umpire's salary was cut for the same reason.

to the Eastern Division title last year, was one of three ball-carriers discarded by the Giants, already short of tested running talent.

A second King, Vanderbilt alumnus Phil, was traded to Pittsburgh for a future draft choice while Joe Don Looney, the Giants' No. 1 draft pick this year, went to Baltimore in a five-player swap. The Colts also got tackle Lou Koricus and a future draft selection. The Giants received two veterans — pass catcher R. C. Owens and defensive back Andy Nelson.

Whether King, New York's top ground-gainer in 1963, would report to the Steelers was in doubt. Pitt coach Buddy Parker said King told him he planned to retire. A Giants' spokesman said the fullback-halfback likely would join the Steelers or some other club.

The Giants cut five other players, including Glynn Grifing, last year's No. 2 quarter-back, and returned former All-Pro defensive end Andy Robustelli to their active roster. Tackle Frank Lasky, one of the casualties, was claimed on waivers by the 49ers.

Sighting on Does, Fawns

LANSING (AP) — Claims of serious crop damage and an alarming increase in car-deer accidents were advanced by the State Conservation Department today as justification for extending the area for hunting of antlerless deer.

The department has proposed addition of nine areas in the southern Lower Peninsula and some 774 square miles in central and southern Menominee County to the regions where hunters could take a limited number of does and fawns.

In the southern third of the state, special seasons were proposed for parts of Muskegon, Ottawa, Kent, Ionia, Berrien, Van Buren, Kalamazoo, Calhoun, Eaton and Livingston counties and a 100-acre area in the southeastern corner of Barry County.

The joint legislative committee on administrative rules has called a hearing for Friday in the Senate chamber on the proposals.

The committee meanwhile suspended regulations adopted by the State Conservation Commission adding the areas to the any-deer hunting program.

Play Set to Resume in State Softball

The rain-delayed Michigan Softball Association's Class A and B district tournaments have been rescheduled for Friday and Saturday at Port Huron.

Two Pontiac squads are entered in the tourney — 300 Bowl in Class A and Arro Realty in Class B.

Two other city nines, Sam Reeves (D) and UAW No. 594 (C), open district play in Owosso.

In the A bracket at Port Huron, Shoffner Appliance will take on Top Hat Tavern of Flint at 7 p.m. Friday at Memorial Field with the loser meeting 300 Bowl at 9 p.m. at the same field.

A win for 300 would put the team in the finals set for 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Arro gets its first taste of action at 7 p.m. Friday against Flint Sport Shop at Pine Grove Field. The loser meets Malow Excavating at 9 p.m. Winners of both games will meet Saturday at 6 p.m.

At Owosso, Sam Reeves tangles with Mueller Brass of Port Huron at 7 p.m. Friday at Bennett Field.

WINNER PLAYS
The winner plays Sunset Bar of Owosso at 1 p.m. Saturday. Losers in the first two games play at 7 p.m. Saturday. Finals are scheduled for 1 p.m. Sunday.

Remember when grapefruit was just for breakfast?
How dull.

Grapefruit never had a night life before, but wait'll you see how this one mixes at a party. Canada Dry Grapefruit Drink's no timid little breakfast-table type. It's sassy, and sophisticated, and smooth enough to tame any liquor in the house. That's because it's got Special Sparkle—a blend of costlier ingredients and pinpoint carbonation.

Want to raise your spirits? Go ahead and pick a number from one to four.

1. Salty Dog Add ice cubes to a highball glass. Add 1½ ounces of vodka or gin. Fill with Canada Dry Grapefruit Drink. Dashes of salt to taste.

2. Rabbit Punch In a large punch bowl, over ice, pour 1 bottle (28 oz.) each of Canada Dry Grapefruit Drink, Ginger Ale, Club Soda, and Hi-Spot Lemon. Add ¼ cup powdered sugar, small jar (8 oz.) Maraschino cherries and juice, sliced oranges and lemons, and 2 fifths of your favorite liquor (gin, rum, bourbon, or vodka). Makes about 45 servings.

3. Mad Mad Russian Add ice cubes to a goblet. Add 1½ ounces of vodka. Fill with Canada Dry Grapefruit Drink. Decorate with Maraschino cherry.

4. Tropical Twister Pour 2 ounces of rum over ice cubes in a tall glass. Fill glass with Canada Dry Grapefruit Drink.

Pontiac Lake Site of New District Offices

Pontiac Lake recreation area will be one of the three sites for new district offices being organized by the Conservation Department.

The others will be at Grand Rapids and Rose Lake.

Warren Shapton, Region 3 manager, said the Pontiac Lake office will be temporarily housed in the fire office, 1811 Williams Lake Road.

The new district will cover all of Oakland, Macomb and Wayne Counties and parts of St. Clair and Monroe Counties. The office will open about Oct. 1 with the appointment of a district parks supervisor.

"We have been delayed appointing a parks supervisor," explained Shapton, "because the necessary civil service examinations are being revamped."

The new Southeastern Michigan district, known by the organizers as the Metropolitan district, probably will become No. 14 when the office opens.

It has been the southern part of the district controlled by the Inlay City office. The Inlay headquarters will continue to operate, directing operations from Lapeer County to Saginaw Bay.

"The formation of three new districts will make it possible for the department to get more supervisory personnel into the areas they direct," said Shapton.

OTHER OFFICES

The new areas are part of the department's reorganization program. Other district headquarters are at Jackson and Plainfield.

A fire supervisor, who will have charge of the eastern half of Region 3 will move into the Pontiac Lake office after the parks supervisor. Then will come law, game and fish supervisors.

An education supervisor will be assigned to the Detroit office. There will be no change in the forestry setup at this time, according to Shapton.

A new headquarters building will be constructed, said the regional manager.

"We have no money for construction at this time," he said, "but a new building will be included in the proposed 1965-66 budget."

Five to seven persons will be hired as secretarial and clerical help. These positions will be filled by area residents through civil service procedures.

"We don't anticipate having a full work force until the fish supervisor is appointed some time early next year," Shapton pointed out.

He said the new building will be located either adjacent to the fire office or on Gale Road near the recreation area's headquarters.

"We may have to split up the office space between the fire office and the recreation area buildings until the new structure is complete," he said.

No additional firefighting equipment will be transferred to this area.

300 Permits for Season

Romney Starts Elk Drawing

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George W. Romney pushed a button at Lansing this morning to start the wheels whirling on Michigan's elk lottery.

There are 3,339 applications for hunting permits during the special elk season late this year. But only 300 of the army of would-be elk hunters will be successful.

An electronic computer in the state process division of the State Revenue Department will pick the winners.

The special season, authorized by the last session of the legislature, is set for Dec. 5-13 by the State Conservation Department. Game biologists estimated the 300 hunters will harvest some 200 elk.

EARLY RETURN

Winners will be notified as soon as possible. All applicants for the special license had to send in checks for $25 each in self-addressed envelopes. The losers are promised an early return of their checks.

The hunting will be allowed in 600 square miles of Presque Isle, Montcalm, Cheboygan and Oshtemo counties. Each hunter is limited to one elk.

The elk herd, centering in the Pigeon River State Forest, currently is estimated at about 3,500 animals. The herd grew from an original eight elk planted there in 1918 and 1919.

The elk have never been shot at legally and this will be the first elk hunt in Michigan since the last of the native animals were killed off before the turn of the century.

ALONG ROADS

The elk, which often can be seen grazing along the sides of roads in the northern Lower Peninsula area, have become a tourist attraction.

Conservation Department game experts say, however, that the elk population is exploding so fast the big animals are overrunning their range and also competing with deer for forage. Some farmers and orchard owners also have complained of damage by the elk.

The December season was set to avoid conflict with the regular deer season. The late date also was selected so the mating season would be well over and to increase the possibility of snow for tracking.

BEAR HUNTING TIME—The black bear hunting season gets under way in the Upper Peninsula Sept. 1, for a 15-day run. Dogs can be used under the special license and many scenes such as the one above will be repeated. An Oct. 3-5 season will be held below the Straits. Bear will be legal targets during the regular archery and rifle seasons for deer.

Conservation Office Eying Extra Funds

The Conservation Department is trying to come up with a preliminary recreation plan for the state which could put Michigan in line to receive more than $1 million in federal funds early next year.

The money would be provided under the Land and Water Conservation Fund Bill which reportedly is an odds-on choice to pass Congress in the next few weeks.

It calls for making funds available to states on a matching basis to underwrite their planning, acquisition, and development of recreational lands.

To qualify for these funds, each state must formulate a comprehensive plan which will document its leisure-time needs and spell out ways to meet them.

In shaping such a plan for this state, the department has made a $75,000 grant to Michigan State University for carrying out a needs-and-demands study which will project future trends in recreation.

Also, the department will soon undertake an inventory of all publicly-owned water frontage in the state to measure and pinpoint the quality and potential of these holdings for recreation. It will supplement a survey already completed which classifies some four million acres of state forest lands according to their uses.

STAFF INCREASE

With the prospect of more federal money in the offing, Director Ralph A. MacMullan has cited the need for increasing the department's recreational staff as part of its "be prepared" approach to handling the expansion of recreational facilities.

He reports the department will soon bring before the Conservation Commission a proposed policy statement describing its responsibilities in recreational programming.

As for the department financing its share, MacMullan indicates existing programs and services could be used to match a large part of the federal grant which is expected under the bill pending in Congress.

Broadhead Archery Starts This Week

A four-week broadhead archery league will get under way tomorrow at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club in Waterford Township.

Two daily sessions of the league are on the schedule—11 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Cost of joining the league is $1 for Sportsmen Club members and $1.25 for non-members. Persons interested in the league may sign up at the club.

Solunar Tables

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

Bow Permits Have Deadline

Archers May Apply Until Sept. 15th

Archers have until Sept. 15 to register through the Conservation Department for hunting deer this fall at the Fort Custer Military Reservation near Battle Creek where whitetail concentrations are the highest known in Michigan.

Pre-registration is required to hunt there on weekends and during the first 10 days of the general Oct. 1-Nov. 5 archery deer season.

For each of these days, free hunting permits will be issued by the department to the first 500 sportsmen who apply for them.

To spread sport among as many hunters as possible, each permit will cover one day only. During the balance of the season, up to 300 archers a day will be able to get onto the reservation without permits.

Permit applications can now be picked up at license dealers in the Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Grand Rapids and Jackson areas and department field offices in the Fort Custer vicinity.

Anyone asking for these forms through the department's Lansing office should send pre-stamped, self-addressed envelopes with their requests.

4,131 Boats Are Exported

NEW YORK — The United States exported a total of 4,131 pleasure boats valued at a record $9,186,748, over $1 million more than in 1962, according to a compilation of figures made by the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers from statistics of the U.S. Department of Commerce. The 1963 figures were 4,467 units valued at $7,828,012.

The largest foreign customer for American boats is Canada, which last year imported 1,733 American boats valued at $1,835,580. This was a new six-year low for boat exports to Canada, a condition attributed generally to a Canadian boat tariff rate that is much higher than American rates.

Imports of foreign craft also rose in 1963 to 8,106 units valued at $4,862,349, up from 4,781 units valued at $4,868,909 in 1962. The rise in units imported was mainly due to the influx of lower priced Japanese craft which more than tripled that country's export unit volume, but increased the Japanese export dollar volume by little more than 12 per cent.

The average value of American imports from Japan dropped from $441 in 1962 to $133 in 1963.

The NAEBM compilation does not include statistics for marine engines because of a revision in the tariff classification effective August 31, 1963. This information will be included in the report for 1964.

Key to Success

Students Need to Gain Self-Confidence

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
Self-confidence goes right along with success in school.

Lack of self-confidence and a tendency to underrate their own abilities is present almost universally among underachieving students.

While self-confidence is an attitude to be nurtured and encouraged practically from birth, self-discipline is a behavior acquired through training. Self-discipline leads to self-confidence.

At the start, parents must set the standards and establish the controls. As children learn the boundaries of accepted conduct, they can begin to use self-discipline.

As they are able to accept the responsibility for their own actions within these limits, their parents can gradually relax controls and allow them to gain practice in self-discipline.

The wise parent watches for evidence, helps build self-confidence and tries to keep that difficult but rewarding relationship with their children in which self-discipline is being developed although over-controls still are in force.

Too much permissiveness or too tight control maintained too long is disastrous.

Much has been written recently about the effects of too much permissiveness but the effects of the other extreme are often overlooked. Here is an example:

TYPICAL TEENS

John, Jim and James are three teen-agers typical of the results of prolonged detailed control—each is near the edge of failing in high school.

All three have mothers who still get them up in the morning, remind them to eat their breakfast, hurry and get dressed and off to school.

Their after-school activities are run on schedules set up by their respective mothers. The homework that through the grades was done under mother's direction now is seldom completed in spite of almost constant nagging.

EACH EXPLAINS

Each of the boys explains his failure to study by the statement "I can't make myself study"—my mind wanders off to other things."

Along with self-discipline, what these boys lack is self-confidence. They have become so accustomed to having their mother's direction that without someone to start them, they do nothing.

This tendency was concealed in the elementary school since the teacher acted as a substitute mother. But in the junior and senior high schools, their failures to be self-starters showed up.

Development of self-discipline and the maintenance of self-confidence are successfully achieved by parents who recognize the need for such behavior.

When you use any bid as an artificial demand to partner to tell you how many aces he holds, you can't use that bid with a natural meaning at the same time.

The Gerber four-club convention never became popular because players found too many aces that they needed natural four-club bids.

The Blackwood four no-trump has become popular because you can afford to use an artificial four no-trump call most of the time.

The North hand is the only one you have to see today. It is a rather unusual hand and when partner opens the bidding with one spade all you need to know is the number of aces he holds in order to bid to the right contract.

It is possible that he has no aces! In that case you should be able to make four no-trump. If he has just one ace you can make five clubs, but if you use Blackwood to ask for aces you will be at five diamonds and there is a chance that you will be overboard.

If he holds two or three aces Blackwood works perfectly. You play six if he has two and a grand slam if he has three.

Part of the Jacoby slam method is to use the jump response of four clubs to an ace request so that you can respond four clubs with this hand and keep out of all trouble.

If partner shows no aces by a bid of four diamonds you close the bidding at four no-trump. If he shows one ace you settle for five clubs as the final contract. If he shows two or three aces you bid the appropriate slam.

CARD Sense

Missionaries Urged to Flee

U. S. Embassy in Congo Radios Report

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (UPI) — The U.S. Embassy radioed warnings today to the more than 200 American missionaries in the northeastern Congo to take refuge in neighboring Uganda because the Communist-backed rebellion is spreading.

"The embassy said the situation is 'getting serious,'" Most of the missionaries in the northeastern region are evangelical Protestants and Roman Catholics.

There were fears that the rebels were massing for a new attack on Bukavu, capital of Kivu Province, which government forces recaptured last week. According to reports from Bukavu, rebels were engaging in the neighboring republic of Rwanda.

RWANDA TOWN
Rebels were reported to have attacked Bugarama, a Rwanda town near Bukavu, and to have been repulsed by Rwanda government forces.

Further south, government troops supported by 29 white mercenaries and air cover were reported to be on the rebel-held city of Albertville on Lake Tanganyika.

The mercenaries were said to be led by a former British Army captain and to include Germans, Italians, Greeks, South Africans and Britons.

Tshombe sent Health Minister Andre Lumbaya to Ghana for talks with President Kwame Nkrumah. Lumbaya was expected to visit other African countries as well.

Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia sent Vice Premier Mammo Tadesse to Leopoldville.

'Tops' Soaring Around Earth in Search for Data

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — "Tops", America's 97-pound Explorer 2 satellite, soared around the earth today in a near-perfect orbit. It sent back valuable information to scientists trying to learn why the ionosphere reflects radio and radar signals from space.

"Right on the button," was the way the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) described "Tops" launch from this Pacific missile range base.

The orbit carried "Tops" and its scientific instruments 625 miles and 540 miles from earth at its farthest and nearest points. The orbital period of the satellite was placed at one hour, 44 minutes.

Jokers at Atlantic City Make Conventional Gags

By EARL WILSON

VERY BORED WALK, ATLANTIC CITY—The jokes are flying and some are about the newspaper's hotel space. That's where some of their rooms are located. In Space.

"I've got a room with a wonderful view," a London correspondent was boasting.
"Of the Boardwalk?" he said.
"No, of Baltimore," he said.

Atlantic City has some of the greatest hotels in the world . . . and also other kinds. A couple of Red Skelton's lines about hotels are quoted. "Every other day," Red says, "a maid comes in, and dirties."

"The walls are so thin you can see right through them," Red claims to have said to the maid, who replied, "That's the windows."

But the jokesmiths are concentrating on President Johnson and giving Barry Goldwater a slight rest.

"LBJ's picked his Vice Presidential candidate . . . Arthur Murray," alleges comedian Jackie Mason, who at the Black Orchid. "Johnson says his wealth is only $3,841,098. He's trying to win the sympathy of the poor people . . . This is the year of the topless bathing suit. At the White House swimming pool, President Johnson invented the bottomless bathing suit."

Any jokes are welcome. One that Buddy Hackett uses at the Las Vegas Sahara is around. "I kinda hope Goldwater wins," Hackett says. "I miss the Army."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

The Beatles will live in nine rooms (half a floor) at the new Lincoln Square Motor Inn when they come Aug. 28-29 . . . New hot singer Morgan King (of Mr. J's) was signed by Joe Glasser for the Hollywood Bowl Sept. 6 . . . "Motivated" prostitutes now cruise midtown looking for drunks in the early hours just as it's done in Paris . . . Karen Jensen, a 40-chester from Palm Beach, TV-debuts on the Vaughn Meader ABC special Sept. 17.

Eddie Fisher chose the Delmonico this trip . . . The Imperial Hotel in Tokyo, Frank Lloyd Wright's masterpiece, is reported due for demolition, like the Savoy Plaza . . . Harriet Anderson, Ingmar Bergman's favorite, will be among stars arriving for the Lincoln Center film festival Sept. 14-26 . . . Louis Domingue, Ava Gardner's bullfighting ex-beau, went to the Copa to see sexy Fran Jeffries.

Maybe she was kidding, but Liliane Montevecchi of the Folies Bergere was heard saying backstage that she wouldn't undress like the nudes: "I am much too beautiful to, and have too much talent to go on stage wearing nothing."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "Sen. Goldwater's been painting such a depressing picture of how things are in this country," says Vaughn Meader, "that some Americans are tuning in Radio Free Europe to get their confidence back."

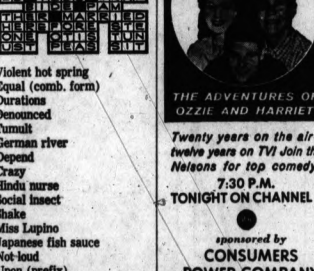

WISL TV SAID THAT: "When my wife gets angry (says Rainbow Grill maestro George Cort), she becomes a jack of all trades."

EARL'S PEARLS: With all the politicking going on now, we're reminded that a speechmaker is a man who talks in other people's sleep.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: People are growing taller, but they're still up to their necks in hot water—Arnold Glasow.

Washington (according to Don Miner) is where half the people are waiting to be discovered and the other half are afraid they will be . . . That's earl, brother.

Romney Waging Campaign of Silence Against Higgins

By The Associated Press

In the first hurdle toward winning a second term as Michigan governor, Gov. George W. Romney goes into the Republican primary election next Tuesday without having campaigned at all.

In fact, Romney has ignored completely his opponent—George N. Higgins, a Ferndale auto dealer and former state senator.

The governor was asked at a recent news conference to confirm that he has not mentioned the name of his opponent since Higgins became a candidate.

"That's right," said Romney. "Who is he?"

Romney, 57, and Higgins, 54, are neighbors in Oakland County. Romney, a former president of American Motors Corp., is a resident of Bloomfield Hills, about five miles north of Ferndale.

POSITIONS VARY

But their positions vary widely. Higgins, for example, says, "I will work to prevent the imposition of a state income tax."

A state income tax was a major feature of the fiscal reform package Romney offered to the legislature. The package was defeated.

Romney, already looking ahead to the Nov. 3 election when the Republican nominee will oppose Democratic Congressman-at-large Neil Staebler says he will campaign "on the Republican record" in Michigan.

The nationwide Republican position is something else. Romney has indicated reservations concerning the positions of the Republican presidential nominee, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

NO REASON

He has said there is no reason why he and Goldwater should agree on every issue.

Higgins also has said, "I may disagree with the senator on certain points."

But in his platform, Higgins says, "I unequivocally support Sen. Goldwater's candidacy and platform."

He has challenged Romney to do likewise and some Republicans have suggested Romney should run as a nonpartisan.

NEVER CLAIMED

When Romney took office Jan. 1, 1963, the state still had an operating deficit of $80 million. At the end of the 1963-64 fiscal year, its operating surplus was $48 million.

The governor never has claimed all the credit for this recovery, but contends a return to "fiscal integrity," a central theme of his 1962 campaign, has played some part in it.

More importantly, he says, business confidence has been restored in Michigan and this has had a major effect on industrial and commercial activity in the state.

Main reason for Michigan's economic comeback, he says, have been the resurgence of the auto industry, with its three big sales years in a row, plus so-called "nuisance taxes" passed by the Republican-controlled legislature in 1963.

CAN DO BETTER

Higgins insists state government can do better.

"I will work toward streamlining government to eliminate unnecessary bureaus and agencies and put the administration of state government on a business-like basis—a promise the present governor made but did not keep," Higgins says.

He adds, "I will try to bring sanity in spending to our government, recognizing that during the present governor's term state costs have increased 120 million dollars over the last Democratic governor's (John B. Swainson, 1961-62) term."

In addition to opposing a state income tax, Higgins promises, "I will take the sales tax off food consumed in the home."

OTHER PLEDGES

Among Higgins' other campaign pledges:

—"I will further the development of community colleges to improve the educational standards of our young people."

—"I will bring unity to the two major divisions of the state by lowering tolls on the Mackinac Bridge."

—"I will do something to provide safety on Michigan highways and cut the slaughter now existing. I will shake up the Michigan Safety Commission and force them to do something or I will get a new commission."

Romney has said he will be "working governor" until the final several weeks before the November election. Then, he says, he will wage a concentrated campaign.

But citizens' groups have been at work for the governor. And Higgins has charged that Romney was using high-salaried state employees to bolster his campaign.

Higgins said he had a copy of a letter "from the Romneycontrolled headquarters telling the people around Michigan how they can get in touch with the right people so they can do more to advance the glory of Romney.

"The crowning insult to us—the taxpayers—comes on the second page of this letter," he went on.

"There is listed the telephone numbers—not the home phone numbers, nor even a private business phone... but a state telephone number that is part of the cost of state government."

Romney aides immediately said that Romney's campaign activities were not costing Michigan taxpayers a cent.

UAW Faced With Decision on Strike Issue

Union Meets Tonight to Select Target for Auto Firm Shutdown

DETROIT (AP) — This is the day of decision for the United Auto Workers Union. Will it strike next Monday to support new contract demands or not? UAW President Walter P. Reuther, supported by a $66 million strike fund, has called his international executive board for a meeting tonight to pick a contract target.

Some sources, however, are anticipating that this may become alternative day instead of put-up-or-shut-up day on the part of the union.

The alternative would be a suggestion by the UAW that no progress has been made toward settlement or new contracts, and therefore negotiations should be knocked off until the turmoil of the national election is out of the way.

But the auto makers have been anticipating the alternative move for months, and none showed a disposition last night to run current contracts beyond their expiration dates of next Monday midnight.

TERMINATION NOTICE

Both the union and the Big Three—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—have served termination notices on each other.

Under present three-year contracts, the Bureau of Labor Statistics figures the average hourly wage of auto workers at $3.01, excluding fringe benefits.

Reuther has asserted that unless the companies sweeten an economic offer they made a week ago Monday there will be a strike against at least one—just when 1965 models are getting to dealer showrooms, and when none wants to get left at the post in a model-year sales race.

On the other hand, some sources insist Reuther would not want to embarrass his friend Lyndon B. Johnson, by calling a crippling strike in the midst of Johnson's reelection campaign.

Customarily, after picking a target, the UAW presses to a contract there, by strike or otherwise, and then demands the other two meet or beat the original agreement.

The UAW's international executive board was summoned tonight to fix a target.

UNOCCUPIED SEATS — Seats assigned to Mississippi's delegation are unoccupied last night just before the start of the convention's second session. The regular all-white delegation announced it was going home rather than accept a compromise in the fight over whether it or a predominantly Negro delegation should be seated. The rival group also rejected the compromise.

Mississippi Unit Boycotts Convention; Alabama Stays

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Mississippi's delegation is boycotting the Democratic National Convention, declaring it "did not leave the party — it left us."

The Alabama contingent is staying on, despite a ruling it can't participate without signing a party loyalty pledge. Although it got to its feet with other delegations last night when those who support the party were asked to rise, National Chairman John M. Bailey said as far as he was concerned the Alabamians still were not official participants.

As developments involving the two Southern delegations ticked off last night, hundreds of supporters of the predominantly Negro Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party demonstrated at the Convention Hall after only five of its delegates had gained entrance.

By the time the session recessed, some 30 of the Freedom Democrats were in seats in the section reserved for the Mississippi delegation, although only two of the contesting group were entitled to be on the floor.

THE COMPROMISE

The credentials committee recommended — and the convention approved — a compromise proposal in the Mississippi contest which would have seated the regular Mississippi delegates, provided they signed a loyalty pledge, and which also would have seated as at-large delegates two of the Negro group.

The regulars balked. In an angry statement drafted in a two-hour caucus, the Mississippi all-white group said that never before had a legally constituted delegation been required to sign such a loyalty pledge.

They also protested that the proposal would seat an outside pressure group with no legal claim to delegate status.

Three of the regulars — Doug Wynn, Fred Berger and Randy Halladay — signed the loyalty pledge and, after being given credentials, sat down in the Mississippi section.

ARRISE, DEPARTS

However, after the first group of five Negroes arrived, the three regulars arose and departed.

Arrival of the Negroes was the signal for a rush on the Mississippi section by reporters and television and radio crews. Newsmen struggled to interview with newsmen in a crush that continued for the rest of the session.

Actually, only two of the group—Aaron Henry of Clarkdale and the Rev. Edwin King of Tougaloo — were entitled to seats under the convention decision.

State Dems in Bitter Row Over Seating Controversy

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND
ATLANTIC CITY — A rip-shorting two-hour Michigan delegation caucus preceded the boring preliminaries of platform reading here last night.

Beginning at 6 p.m., the Michigan crew met while still trying to reconcile the developing facts of political life with its initial all-out delegate recognition of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party, as opposed to the regular state party.

After many days' wrestling with the dilemma, Congressman Charles S. Diggs of Detroit, one of Michigan's two members on the credentials committee gave a majority report adopted by the committee.

Under it, delegates of the established Mississippi party would be seated on condition of signing a loyalty pledge to the party and its nominees.

The Freedom party would be seated as honored guests of the convention, and two of its leaders given delegate-at-large status with one vote each.

The debate over the proposed compromise, if it could be called that, was long, bitter and at times unruly. In the end, it passed 70-35, and the fatigued delegates rushed for a snack (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4.)

Humphrey Seen as VP Nominee

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Democrats turn from convention battles to the loud but peaceful ritual tonight of acclaiming President Johnson as their nominee and hearing finally his choice of a running mate.

All hands — including Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy — pointed to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, the bustling quick-talking party whip in the Senate as the man Johnson wants for vice president.

McCarthy, who had been another favorite in the vice-presidential derby, declared today in favor of Humphrey, a fellow Minnesotan.

McCarthy sent a telegram to Johnson this morning, acknowledging he had been interested for several weeks in the job but concluding:

"It is my opinion the qualifications that you have listed or which you have said to have listed as most desirable in the man who would be vice president with you would be met admirably by Sen. Humphrey."

"I wish therefore to recommend for your primary consideration Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey."

Sometime in the next few hours, Johnson will — one way or another — make his choice known.

But no one professed in advance to know just how or when.

READY FOR SHOW

Delegates who eddied around this football field-sized hall had gone through all of the characteristic motions of a Democratic convention and now were ready for the big show.

They had adopted a platform giving the Republicans what-for but carefully tailored to fit Johnson's prescription for a consensus party within which Southern conservatives could labor alongside Northern liberals in the campaign vineyard for the President's election in November.

They patched up a compromise nobody liked over the question of seating a Mississippi delegation not pledged to support the national ticket.

This brought on last night probably the most unpublicized walkout in history.

GAINED ENTRANCE

Five members of the predominantly Negro Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party gained entrance to the hall and sat down in the all — but — empty seats under the state's banner, where they weren't supposed to be.

Promptly the only three members of the all-white regulars who had agreed to go along with Johnson — and thus had been seated — vanished in the crowd.

Alabama delegates who had refused to take the loyalty pledge, but had filled up the seats in that state's sector shouted a loyalty yell when House Speaker John W. McCormack, who took over as the convention's permanent chairman, asked for it.

The Alabamians said this made them legal delegates.

'Unprecedented Charge'

Guilty of Beating Animal

A Pontiac man pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of "cruelly beating and killing a dog" and was sentenced to 10 days in the Oakland County Jail by Municipal Judge Cecil McCullum.

The charge, which court workers said is unprecedented, was levied against Jay Wisterner, 36, of 471 S. Edith, who repeatedly struck his small mongrel dog with a broom handle.

Wisterner explained that he didn't want the dog anymore, according to police.

Cruelly beating an animal is a violation of state law.

State's Dems Unite, Divide

Have Mixed Emotions on Mississippi Issue

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — Michigan Democrats were united today behind a party decision, but divided among themselves, as the result of a compromise settlement of the Mississippi credentials fight at the Democratic National Convention.

Michigan, which 24 hours earlier had unanimously agreed to seek a minority report and force a floor fight on the issue, fell swiftly in line when the show down came yesterday.

There were a few shouted protests, but nothing more, from the Michigan delegation when the convention adopted the credentials committee's majority report, calling for seating the all-white regular Mississippi delegation and two representatives of the Mississippi "Freedom Democratic" Party.

The regulars left the convention to protest over the compromise but two "Freedom Democrats" — although not the two named by the credentials committee — wound up as guests of the Michigan delegation on the floor.

U.S. Rep. Charles Diggs, a member of the credentials subcommittee which labored three days over the compromise, indicated in a Michigan caucus yesterday that the final terms had been dictated by President Johnson.

"Participating in this was a line of authority that went all the way to the top," the Negro Congressman said. "I hadn't intended to say anything about this but the news reports have indicated that intervention finally came from Pennsylvania Avenue."

"It was finally out in the open that this has the stamp of our President. I would characterize this as the official stamp of the administration."

Left unanswered by Diggs and everyone else, however, was whether the key role in the final settlement was taken by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, reported to be President Johnson's personal

Film Provides Leads in Cass Lake Death

Detectives working on the hit-run boat death of a Cass Lake swimmer Aug. 3 are seeking to contact the occupants of three boats sighted near the accident scene a few hours before it occurred.

The boats were shown in an 8mm color movie strip taken by a Pontiac man about 7 p.m., two hours before Alan L. Akerley was struck by a power boat and killed.

Police believe that persons on the boats, filmed off the Dodge Park No. 4 swimming area, may be able to provide information on the boat that rammed Akerley while he was swimming.

Shown in the background of the film taken from the beach of persons on a small sailboat were two inboard boats and an outboard.

The outboard is described as a 14-footer, believed to have a white exterior, aqua deck and powered by a black motor.

One inboard is described as a Chris-Craft from 15 to 17 feet long with a white stripe at the water line.

4 OCCUPANTS

This boat contained four men, one wearing dark swim trunks and the other three lighter colored trunks. Two of the men appear heavily tanned while the other two are lighter skinned, according to detectives.

The other inboard is described as 16 to 17 feet long with exhaust located in the center of the rear of the boat. Its coloring appears to be brown and white.

Both inboards had open rear cockpits.

The boat that killed Akerley was described generally as about 26-feet long with an inboard motor.

Rewards for information leading to the conviction of those responsible for Akerley's death now total $2,900.

Added to the previously announced total of $2,700 are new rewards of $100 each offered by the Oakland County Boat Club, 2330 Ferndale, Sylvan Lake, and the Loafers Club of Keego Harbor.

Clouds will form and drift over the area tomorrow with the mercury rising into the high 70s. Scattered showers and a warm is the prediction for Friday.

Rainfall will total about one-fourth inch in showers Friday or Saturday.

The low thermometer reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. was 51. By 1 p.m., the mercury had climbed to 73.

Changed U.S. Prison System

Renowned Penologist to Retire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-five years of government service end this week for James V. Bennett, renowned penologist and director of the Bureau of Prisons — a post he has held since 1937.

The gentle, blue-eyed reformer who changed the shape of the American prison system while he strove to change the hearts of his inmates retires Friday on his 70th birthday.

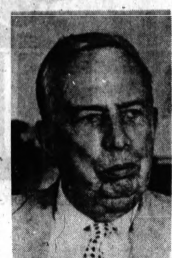

He takes with him the gratitude of hundreds of convicts who found in Bennett more a humanitarian than a custodian. He saw the danger of idle hands and gave them useful jobs to do.

A REMINDER
He reminded them that they were still human beings by replacing lock-step march lines and bucket feedings with informal table arrangements.

He befriended many and became an easy mark for some who, out of prison, needed a small loan for a grubstake.

"I think I am very modest that I'm leaving the federal prison system in as good condition as it's ever been," Bennett told a visitor to his pleasant office, with his picture-window view of Capitol Hill.

"We've overcome a lot of

problems. We've got a good program. Every prisoner who wants a job has a job. We're running economically, and the Federal Prison Industries is turning out a good profit. Our personnel are well-trained and improving."

A CONSULTANT

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has said Bennett will continue to be a consultant to the Bureau of Prisons under its new director, Myrl E. Alexander, a former assistant director.

Why didn't he seek a waiver of the compulsory retirement age, such as President Johnson extended to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover?

"I believe a fellow ought to move on and give his juniors a chance," Bennett said. "You can't hang on indefinitely. This is a hard administrative job; every day there's a crisis. I think perhaps it will be most useful if I take my experiences and make them available to others."

Bennett is working on a book "dealing with the kinds of prisoners I've known, and their problems, and the general problems of trying to deal fairly with a defendant."

MAY TAKE CASE

Given enough free time, Bennett added, "I'm still a lawyer, and I might take on a case or two to help put across my point of view."

That point of view, which appears time and again in Bennett's prolific writings, is that prisoners must not stop at being jailed.

He speaks with the authority of long years of service in the field. The son of a minister, he was born Aug. 26, 1893 in Silver Creek, N.Y., and was graduated from Brown University in 1918.

The following year he entered government service as an assistant investigator of government efficiency.

DRAFTS REFORM

Working with a congressional investigation of federal prisons in 1929, he drafted the reform legislation which set up the Bureau of Prisons as a branch of the Justice Department. He was named assistant director when the bureau was established in 1930.

He instituted Federal Prison Industries, Inc., an inmate-staffed organization which yielded sales of $40 million last year alone. He was in charge of that unit when he became director of the bureau of prisons in 1957.

"No man is ever really satisfied with the job he's done," Bennett said. "There are always new things to do. But I leave with no regrets."

Johnson said last night that "all trial cases will be called next week and the calendar set after we hear pleas."

The FBI described all four men as members of the Ku Klux Klan when they were arrested, but the Klan later disowned them.

Grand Jury Indicts Three in Negro Educator Death

DANIELSVILLE, Ga. (UPI)

A grand jury in this rural Georgia county seat of 392 people yesterday indicted three former Ku Klux Klan members for murder in the night riding slaying of Negro educator Lemuel Penn.

A judge said when his trials come up, possibly next week, decorum will be so strict that he will tolerate no "chewing of drinking of soft drinks or eating peanuts" in the courtroom.

Courthouse sources said Negroes are on the jury lists.

Named in the indictments returned yesterday after four hours of deliberations were Cecil William Myers, 25, James E. Lackey, 29, and Joseph Howard Sims, 41, all of nearby Athens, Ga.

A fourth suspect, Herbert Guest, 37, was not indicted. Guest was listed as a conspirator in the slaying in the original FBI civil rights warrant under which the four were arrested.

FEDERAL CHARGE

Solicitor General (prosecutor) Cleve Johnson said no case against Guest was presented to the grand jury. Guest is being held under $25,000 bond on a federal charge.

Penn, of Washington, D.C., was killed by a blast from a shotgun fired from an automobile as he and two Negro companions drove along a highway in the early morning darkness of July 1 on route to Washington from a training school as Army Reserve officers at Fort Benning, Ga. Penn, held the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Johnson said last night that "all trial cases will be called next week and the calendar set after we hear pleas."

The ash on which the National Aeronautics and Space Administration team worked today was spewed from Mt. Mazama more than 7,000 years ago. It lies in a great blanket over the remote area 50 miles south of the central Oregon town of Bend.

Light-colored cinder pumice is piled more than 60 feet deep in some spots.

QUITE A JOB
Cunningham found out Tuesday that climbing a 50-foot slope at an angle of 30 degrees is quite a job for a man burdened by a pressurized space suit and a 30-pound back pack.

After seven minutes of careful stepping over the jutting uneven lava he had moved to within 10 feet of the top, then he lost his balance and fell backward.

Cunningham was not hurt, although a glove puncture caused a slight pressure loss in the suit. After complaining that his space mask was foggy and that a walking staff did not help much he climbed to the top.

Engineers then moved the tests to another field where Cunningham had no trouble with a 20-degree slope; a 600-foot walk and a test of the baby walker, a mechanical device that surrounds the astronaut and aids his balance.

Refrigerator Has 2 Tiers

A Lazy Susan of a refrigerator, hanging oven, rolling range, and even a dishwasher and dry cleaner are among fresh ideas in home appliances on display at the New York World's Fair.

They are gas appliances in startling shapes and novel design developed by the Norge Division of Borg-Warner Corp. for the Festival of Gas pavilion.

The refrigerator is actually a three-in-one food and beverage center, and completely leaves behind traditional refrigerator design.

Combined with the refrigerator are a freezer with an automatic ice maker and a dispenser for coffee, tea, fruit juice, or other beverage made from instant concentrates.

The circular refrigerator-freezer-liquid dispenser is mounted on a pedestal and has two separate tiers. Each tier rotates on a central shaft. The interior compartments can be brought around to where you want them.

A circular work surface forms the top of the lower freezer level. Compartments can be reached through an access door in the work surface. In the upper level liquid dispenser, either heated or cooled water is directed through concentrated powders or fluids.

Current for the thermoelectric power unit of the food and beverage center is furnished through gas conversion in a fuel cell.

Perky Sauce for Veal

An interesting innovation on the week's menu proves a welcome sight to slightly jaded appetites. Going along with this line of reasoning, you might try a delightful Veal Paprika with Tomato-Vegetable Sauce.

A package of tomato-vegetable soup mix cuts the chef's chores in half. It provides the base for a delicious sauce for the meat.

The soup mix goes into one and a half cups of boiling water and is simmered for ten minutes. After cooling a bit, blend in a cup of sour cream.

Veal Paprika With Tomato-Vegetable Sauce
1 package tomato-vegetable soup mix
1½ cups boiling water
1 cup sour cream
2 pounds veal steak, cut into 2-inch squares
2 tablespoons shortening
1 4-oz. can mushrooms
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
½ teaspoon paprika

Stir tomato-vegetable soup mix into boiling water in saucepan. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Cool slightly and blend in sour cream.

Brown veal in shortening then remove to a 2-quart casserole. Add mushrooms and seasonings. Pour sauce over browned veal. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 hour or until meat is tender. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

New Food Experience Fun

BY JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Three weeks of a rambling vacation in the eastern part of the country brought us a few firsts.

Our first fresh ripe fig
Our first soft pretzel
Our first Maryland crab meat
Our first shoofly pie

It was a real vacation — no camping, no cooking — just swimming, reading, hiking and sightseeing in the part of the United States where history was made in the 17th and 18th centuries.

The fresh fig came from Williamsburg, Va. In that restored colonial town we had breakfast at Williamsburg Inn where they serve apple fritters and hominy for the first meal of the day.

We first encountered soft pretzels in Philadelphia where a street vendor was hawking them.

We first tasted them in Atlantic City where we went to parade on the boardwalk and to peek into Convention Hall ahead of this week's convention.

PRETZEL BENDER
Last week in Sturgis, Pa., we became an official pretzel bender with a signed certificate to prove it.

The little Sturgis pretzel factory — granddaddy to all such factories in the U.S. — encourages visitors to try twisting a pretzel. These also are the large soft ones, not the crisp ones you buy in packages.

In Pennsylvania, too, we visited a company that makes the famous Lebanon sausage. Containing only beef and spices, this sausage is not cooked, just smoked over seasoned oak logs.

Our third and final part tour was of the giant Hershey corporation. It was interesting, but the route was backward.

We started seeing the candy bars wrapped and put into packages (they were filling "Trick or Treat" packs for Halloween). The last stop on the tour was seeing the chocolate mixed.

In Lancaster, Pa., which is Pennsylvania-Dutch country we had a dinner that only a Paul Bunyan could do justice to. Fortunately, we had only coffee that morning — in anticipation — and we didn't eat again until 9:30 that night.

Plain and Fancy Farm in Bird-in-Hand, Pa. is a show-place Amish farm, restaurant, and gift shop run by the Men-nomies. They serve dinner family style from just before noon until early evening. We went the Felix Weitzas of Sylvan Lake there.

Although there weren't seven sweets and sours for the first course, we did have chow-chow, corn relish, apple butter, a meat salad and homemade bread.

The main course included ham, meat loaf, fried potatoes, buttered noodles, green beans, stewed dried corn and apple sauce.

Dessert started with pineapple apples and concluded with cherry or shoofly pie, also made or plain.

SHOOFLY PIE

1 cup brown sugar
¼ cup lard or butter
¼ cup molasses
¼ cup hot water
¼ teaspoon soda
1 unbaked pie shell
Line pie tin with unbaked crust. Mix flour, sugar and shortening to make crumbs. Dissolve soda in hot water and add molasses.

Rice Is Excellent to Put in Salads

A rice salad is fun to prepare for lunch because you can pick and choose (from what's available) to add to it. Here are suggestions: cooked shrimp and ham; cooked green peas and green beans; celery and green onion.

Toss the cold cooked rice with the additions you choose plus an oil-and-vinegar dressing; serve on crisp salad greens and garnish with tomato.

Broiled Dinner Is Summer Quickie

Summer is the season for lazy living. A broiled dinner is a good choice for this time of year because the meal can be cooked quickly.

For instance, ground beef patties require only 12 to 15 minutes to broil. Tomato halves topped with grated cheese, and cooked potato slices brushed with butter can be popped into the broiler when the meat is partially cooked and ready to turn. The entire meal comes out hot and savory after only 15 minutes total cooking time.

Golf's Greatest Challenge 'Monster' Tomorrow

7 A.M. Tee-Off for Huge Field in World Open

281 Course Record Facing Onslaught; Venturi Shoots 67

By FLETCHER SPEARS

The greatest array of golf talent ever assembled on one course tees off tomorrow morning in the opening round of the $200,000 Carling World Open Championship at Oakland Hills Country Club.

And some of the top names quietly predict that the "Green Monster" will be whimpering after the star-studded field ends the 72-hole route Sunday.

Included in the 155-man field are golfers representing 14 countries. Canada's Nick Wieseck is the lone amateur in the field.

"The course is in ideal condition for a new record," host pro Al Watrous commented. "The greens are soft now. When they're hard, it's often the difference between a par and a bogey. And it would take 'em 10 days to firm up now."

The 6,807-yard, par 70 course is in top condition and the 72-hole record of 281 is expected to tumble when the pros start maneuvering for a slice of the richest golf tournament purse ever.

The winner will have a $35,000 payday with the runner-up picking up a $17,000 check.

Gene Littler set the 281 Oakland Hills mark in winning the 1961 U.S. Open, but La Jolla, Calif. pro is expected to take a back seat this year to such names as Ken Venturi, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus.

HOT SWINGER

Venturi is currently the hottest swinger on the pro circuit, and he established himself as a favorite with an unofficial three-under-par 67 in his first practice tour yesterday, equaling the official competitive course mark shared by Ben Hogan and five other players.

"I am playing so well; I am so sure of myself I shot to the green that it startles me," the 33-year-old Venturi remarked after the practice round.

"I'm hittin' the ball so good I'm cuttin' it in half," he quipped.

Venturi, wallowing in near obscurity in 1962 and 1963, started his comeback with a dramatic victory in the U.S. Open in June and followed it up with a record-breaking performance in winning the American Golf Classic with a 275 at Akron Sunday.

Ken will tee off tomorrow at 12:32 p.m. along with Gary Player of South Africa and Wesley Ellis of West Caldwell of New Jersey.

First off the tee will be Wilfred Homenik of Canada and Bill Martindale of Texas at 7 a.m.

Nicklaus, who's nearing the $100,000 mark for 1964, thinks the winner will crack the course mark. "Somewhere around 279," he estimates.

Palmer joined Nicklaus for a tour of the course yesterday and both finished "around par."

Nicklaus has an 8:44 a.m. tee date for the first round along with John Balla of Arizona and Marty Furgol of Missouri.

Palmer, trying to calm a nervous putter, will leave the tee at 1:16 p.m. with Billy Casper of California and Butch Baird of Texas.

Hogan, the sentimental favorite in the field, recorded one of his greatest triumphs at Oakland in winning the 1951 U.S. Open. He will join "Chi Chi" Rodriguez of Puerto Rico and Jerry Barber of California on the tee at 9:24 a.m.

The field will be cut to the low 75 plus ties after 36 holes for the final rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Every player surviving the 36-hole cut is assured of $620. Every professional who swats a ball off the first tee will make $400.

Tickets for the tourney are available at most area golf courses. Prices are $5 for the first two rounds and $6 for Saturday and Sunday rounds. A tournament ticket is available at $20.

Famous Site of Tournaments

Nature's Golf Pride Is Oakland Hills

Course Still Monster for Jim Ferrier

Robert Trent Jones designed it, and Jim Ferrier gave Oakland Hills golf course its unassuming name, "The Monster."

It was in 1951, when Ferrier walked to the first tee as one of the most confident players in the National Open.

Two days later the transplanted Australian packed his baggage, advised his creation, called it a "monster" and left town at midnight of the tourney.

In 1961 he returned and in the practice round of the National Open he came in from the course holding the head of a wood in one hand and the shaft in the other.

Asked if he had broken the club on the course he said, "You're darn right I did. It's still a monster."

He and he stalked into the clubhouse.

He made the cut this time with 146 and finished in 22nd place for the tournament with 292.

Thursday, Ferrier tees off at 9:00 a.m. in the World Open on the "monstrous" $200,000 purse.

"I am playing so well; I am so sure of myself I shot to the green that it startles me," the 33-year-old Venturi remarked after the practice round.

"I'm hittin' the ball so good I'm cuttin' it in half," he quipped.

This was the historic remark of the late Joseph Mack, the pioneer founder of Oakland Hills Country Club, organized in 1916 with the Miller farmhouse as a club house and the Miller's hen house as the pro shop.

Head pro in the converted hen house in 1918 and 1919 was Walter Hagen, Open champ of 1914, who found he could not keep the job because of the demand to play in tournaments around the country.

The chartered 140 members of the newborn club were happy with their farmhouse, electric plant and juke box, and lodging at $1.50 per night while birds were being let for the beautiful colonial structure which now stands.

In 1920 Mike Brady, who lost the 1919 Open playoff to Hagen, took over as head pro and it was the same year which officially opened the new clubhouse.

Mack and the club board of directors engaged Donald Ross to design the course and the architect pointed out that the entire course was laid out to center around the 10th and 11th holes, "two of the greatest holes in a row on any course in any place."

In 1923, Ernie Foredan an Englishman succeeded Brady as host pro and in 1924 Oakland Hills was host to its first Open tournament, won by Cyril Walker.

FAMOUS CLINCHER

Walker clinched the tournament on the famous No. 16 hole. His second shot cleared the trees and lake and landed within club length of the pin.

He birdied the hole and defeated Bobby Jones by three strokes 297-300.

The first prize for the victory was $500. Walker gave the check to his caddy.

WATROUS PRO

In 1930, current pro Al Watrous took over as head

pro and under his reign, Oakland Hills has seen three more exciting Opens.

In 1937, Ralph Guldahl closed with a 69, defeating a 25-year-old rookie named Sam Snead from West Virginia, 281-283.

Guldahl started the crowd gathered around the 18th green by casually walking to the edge of a trap and carefully combing his hair. He knew he was in. He slowly walked up to his ball, putted it in from four feet and raised his hand a champion.

Oakland Hills, they said, was softening, so Robert

Trent Jones was called in to rearrange the course.

He did to such an extent that only two golfers were able to break par in a single round during the 1951 Open at the course.

Ben Hogan brought the "monster" to its knees coming from 15th place at mid-point to 5th after three rounds and a 32 back nine finish for 67 and a 287 total.

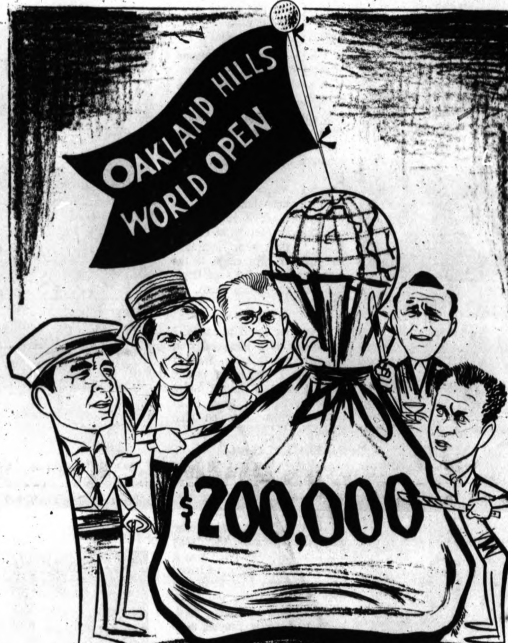

The year 1952, however, was the year of celebration for Oakland Hills. A profit of $69,000 from the 1951 Open ended 35 years of indebtedness and a mortgage burning party put the final $124,000 note into flames.

In 1961, the Open returned for the 4th time and Gene Littler proved that the course wasn't made strictly for the big boomers off the tee.

His 73-68-72-68—281 was one stroke better than Doug Sanders, whose chip shot from 75 feet rolled dead center over the cup. The bird would have forced a tie.

Starting tomorrow, 155 of the world's best will be seen to see if the "monster" had mellowed.

Oakland Hills UnPARdonable

When the 154 professionals and one amateur tee off Thursday morning in the opening round of the $200,000 Carling World Open Golf Tournament, they will be tackling one of the toughest courses in the world—Oakland Hills.

No. 1—A 435-yard par 4. Fairway traps 230-275 yards off tee. Left side of heavily-bunkered green is slightly elevated.

No. 2—A par 5, 510-yarder. Slight dogleg to left, trapped on both sides 230-270 yards off tee. Bunkers in front prevent rolling shot onto green which has a center crown, preventing easy approach to the hole.

No. 3—A 290-yard par 3. The green and trapping are on a diagonal.

No. 4—A 448-yard par 4. Slight dogleg to the left with a nest of traps at the dogleg. Green well guarded with traps. With pin at back, putting is more difficult.

No. 5—A 437-yard par 4. Players need a 220-yard drive to clear a crest in fairway and take advantage of a downslope. High second shot over fairway ditch needed to rolling green. Trapped left and right.

No. 6—A 359-yard par 4. Shortest par 4 on course. Traps guard fairway on left from 220-260 yards out. A large oak tree guards the right side 250 yards out. Second shot is slightly uphill to a severely trapped green. Contours and an elevation in rear of green.

No. 7—A 330-yard par 4. Pond and trees to the right 230 yards from tee and bunker guards left side. Green is heavily trapped.

No. 8—A 458-yard par 4. Slight dogleg to the left. Tee slightly elevated but shot is still uphill with a steeper grade for second shot. Green trapped left and right. Fairway bunkers about 250 yards from tee.

No. 9—A 203-yard par 3. Green contouring is severe. Bunkers on right and left of green.

No. 10—A 448-yard par 4. Bunker at left on rolling fairway 290-270 yards out. Right traps cut into edge of fairway. Second shot uphill to contoured green.

No. 11—A 407-yard par 4. Carrying a knoll 240 yards out gives player added distance. Fairway bunker lies to the right 240-260 yards out. Well-trapped green has two levels.

No. 12—A 566-yard par 5. Pond and trees at right of fairway. Fairway bunker 50 yards short of green. Rolling, well-trapped green is slightly elevated.

No. 13—A 169-yard par 3. Tee and green are slightly elevated. The green is almost surrounded by traps. Green has a pronounced hollow in front center.

No. 14—A 447-yard par 4. No fairway bunkers but two long shots needed to carry green which falls away from front to back. Green trapped left and right.

No. 15—A 392-yard par 4. Dogleg left with a bunker in middle of fairway 250 yards out. Heavy woods protect left side of fairway. Small opening between traps to rolling green.

No. 16—A 405-yard par 4. "The water hole." Called one of world's great golf holes. Lake makes a dogleg with second shot going over water to a long-narrow green extending into the lake, two-ditch, protected by water, the rest by four traps at the back.

No. 17—A 194-yard par 3. The green is plateaued 3 feet higher than the tee and a protected on all sides by traps. The large green has pronounced contours with the left front slightly crowned.

No. 18—A 459-yard par 4. A dogleg right with bunkers just into the fairway at the corner, about 200 yards out. Second shot must carry green because of the severe bunkering in front. Mounds in center of green complicates putting.
