Prospective MBA students can learn more about a challenging, convenient program at OU

Rochester, Mich. – The Executive MBA (EMBA) at Oakland University's School of Business Administration is an intense program designed to prepare highly motivated professionals to be successful leaders in a dynamic global business environment.

The program is one of very few in the country and the only one in Michigan to offer two different but complementary concentrations in Health Care Management and Information Systems Leadership.

Students learn both from outstanding School of Business faculty members and business leaders, engage in hands-on learning methods that include analysis of real business cases, and have access to a variety of special courses created around business issues, execution of strategies and delivery methods. Biweekly weekend program delivery and online support offer students a great deal of scheduling flexibility.

The Executive MBA program will hold an information session for prospective students at 5:30 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 20. For more information, contact Monica Milczarski at (248) 370-2059 or milczars@oakland.edu. To learn more about the program, visit www.emba.oakland.edu.
