Robinson Batters Basilio for Title

By BOB CONSIDINE
CHICAGO (INS)—Ray Robinson picked up his option on the middleweight championship of the world for the incredible fifth time last night.

He beat Carmen Basilio in 15 hard rounds, on a split decision, to snatch back the 160 pound crown he yielded to the mashed and gnarled younger man last September.

The classic Robinson won almost as he pleased against a man who had to fight with the vision of a single eye for the final nine rounds of the brawl.

But referee Frank Sikora rewarded Basilio's brave aggressiveness by voting for him, 69 points to 66. Judge John Bray had Robinson ahead 71 to 64, and Judge Spike McAdams saw it as 72-64 in Robinson's favor.

That was enough to preserve Robinson's record of never having lost twice to a man, and cement his reputation as a man who has won titles more often than Barbara Hutton.

Robinson won at least 10 of the rounds (in the opinion of the writer) by avoiding Basilio's crude, rough-handed plunges and stabbing him like the death scene in a lesser Shakespearean drama.

Ray closed the poor man's left eye tighter than quarter past three, in the sixth round. From that point on, the brave bull named Basilio fought from memory and by touch.

Whenever he could, he'd feel his way in through Robinson's blinding jobs and occasionally rocking rights like a blind man crossing Times Square at high noon without benefit of a seeing-eye dog. Once in close he got in some good licks.

But the remnants of Ray's great talent prevailed. He backed off, stabbed, stuck, piled up points, turned Basilio's face into what looked like a head-on collision.

Robinson was a bit shaky on his legs from time to time, but, taking a good clear look at the clock, he knew when to pour it on. It didn't impress Sikora, the referee, but it sure persuaded McAdams and Bray, the judges.

He now has won the middleweight championship at the expense of Jake Lamotta, Britain's Randy Turpin, Bobo Olsen, Gene Fullmer and Basilio.

Speeding Up and Out

YPSILANTI — Flight take-off delays from Willow Run Airport have been cut by more than 75 per cent through installation of a new departure radar system, says Daniel M. Vucurevich, Civil Aeronautics Administration tower chief at the airport. Only three-minute intervals now are required between takeoffs, compared with a previous 10-minute interval.

THEATER TREAT — Carol Lawrence, star of "West Side Story," is one of the young actresses now making a brilliant name for herself on Broadway. "West Side Story" is a musical that's really unusual, and she handles a difficult role with great credit and honor. The Pontiac Press theater party will see Miss Lawrence in her current play.

Extra Benefits on Jobless Pay 'Not Enough'

House Dems Criticize Ike's Extension Plan; Want Package Deal

WASHINGTON — Key House Democrats described as inadequate today President Eisenhower's proposal for a temporary increase in unemployment benefits.

They termed the President's request for a one-year government-aided 50 per cent increase in jobless pay coverage a "minimum" proposal they said does not meet emergency needs of the recession.

At the same time, there was growing evidence that some Democrats were leaning heavily toward packing tax reduction, unemployment compensation and an increase in Social Security benefits into a single bill.

This "package" approach to the economic situation was being talked up increasingly among influential House Democrats.

The House Ways and Means Committee scheduled three days of hearings starting tomorrow on the administration jobless pay plan and on twin bills sponsored by chairman Mills (D-Ark.) and Rep. McCormack (Mass.), House Democratic leader.

The Mills-McCormack bill calls for federal financing of any additional 16 weeks of jobless pay benefits to workers who have exhausted their benefits under present state laws. It also would fix the rate of additional compensation at no less than half the worker's weekly wage.

President Eisenhower asked Congress to increase the period of added benefits by 50 per cent of that now set by the various state laws.

This would amount to as much as 13 additional weeks in states. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

City Acts to Aid Jobless Here

OKs Group to Arbitrate Debts, Calls on State, U.S. to Push Projects

City Commissioners last night took two steps aimed at helping the unemployed.

They voted to set up a seven-member citizens committee to arbitrate debts of unemployed persons, and urged action by Congress and the Legislature.

Appointments to the committee may be made before the weekend, Commissioner Philip E. Rowston said.

The citizens' group could legally act in an advisory and conciliatory capacity to prevent garnishments and foreclosures in cases involving partially employed or unemployed persons whose unemployment compensation is exhausted, said City Attorney William A. Ewart.

The commission acted on Ewart's recommendation that the committee be patterned after one already in operation in Flint.

Harold A. Grant, president of Fisher Body Local 596, UAW, elaborated last night on a statement he made when proposing the committee to the commission a week ago.

"I would agree to a moratorium on union dues only if there were moratoriums on taxes and everything else within the economy," he said.

Grant praised the commission for its "fast action" in approving the committee.

Copies of a resolution proposed by Commissioner John E. Carry urging lawmakers to "alleviate the problems created by unemployment in Pontiac" and elsewhere were sent to President Eisenhower, Gov. Williams and representatives in Washington and Lansing.

The resolution called for extension of unemployment compensation benefits and assistance in refinancing of mortgages and land contracts.

It noted that "road construction, road repairs and all types of public works are necessary during this period of unemployment."

SAC Bombers Alert to Strike Within Minutes

WALLA WALLA, Wash. — Hydrogen bomb-carrying planes of the Strategic Air Command could be airborne within 15 minutes to strike against any nation which launches a surprise attack on the United States, Maj. Gen. David Wade said yesterday.

Wade, commander of the Air Force's first missile division, said in a speech that one third of the SAC's bombers "are at the end of their runways, loaded with hydrogen bombs and ready to take to the air in 15 minutes."

GM and UAW Talk Seriously

Get Down to Business in 2nd Day of Contract Negotiations

DETROIT (INS) — General Motors and United Auto Workers bargainers got down to serious business in their new contract negotiations today after an opening day session marked by an exchange of friendly jibes.

More than 100 newsmen, photographers and television cameramen were on hand yesterday when the talks began at the General Motors Building in Detroit.

Photographers coaxed UAW President Walter P. Reuther and Louis G. Seaton, GM vice president in charge of personnel, to shake hands for pictures, prompting Seaton to remark:

"We'll probably both get fired for this."

"You won't," retorted Reuther. "You just got your bonus."

When the two men sat down across from each other, Reuther said, "Same old table, too."

"We can't afford a new one," Seaton replied.

THEY WON'T TELL

The parties already have agreed on one thing—neither side will disclose publicly what transpires at the negotiations without first giving the other at least 24 hours' notice.

Just before yesterday's session began, the union defended its demands, which include a profit-sharing plan, as non-inflationary and said they were based on economic facts and realities.

He said that tables will be reserved at the banquet for all GM executives and their wives.

A few tickets will be sold at the door, Hurlinger added.

Four other featured speakers are John A. Riley, chamber president; Rep. William S. Broomfield, City Manager Walter K. Willman, and Superintendent of Schools Dana P. Whitmer.

Cape Canaveral Loses Its Jitters

By JOE HAAS

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla.—This area no longer is jittery, as it was when it first climbed on the map as our nation's second largest date line maker—next after Washington.

When our armed forces began the missile-making business here, there was a considerable exodus of the population, even for many miles inland, and both ways on the coast.

For a time it even exceeded the number brought here for missile purposes. It was felt that it would be the first target in case of war. But with the assurance that it would have a protection better than any other area in the United States, not excepting Michigan's great industrial district (the center of which is Pontiac), confidence was restored, and the boom started.

Now the affected territory of around 5,500 square miles (about six times the size of Oakland County), claims to be the fastest growing area in our nation. It has doubled in population in the past two years.

The missile launching site itself covers an area only equal to that within the Pontiac City limits.

And, combined with its "feeders," only about 8,000 people are employed in the work. Nearly all of these were brought here from highly technical jobs in other states, many from Michigan, some from Pontiac.

But, with the employment in (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Sunny Skies to Stay at Least 'til Sunday

Sunny skies are predicted for Pontiac and throughout the state tomorrow. Tonight will be clear with a low of 30 degrees.

Thursday's high will be near 50 with only minor changes in temperature during the next five days. Precipitation throughout the period will total around one or two-tenths of an inch with possible rain Sunday and showers Monday.

The lowest reading preceding 8 a.m. was 30 degrees. The thermometer registered 47 at 1 p.m.

State's Jobless Pay Proposals Still Up in the Air

LANSING — Proposed changes in the state's jobless pay law were left up in the air today by Senate-House differences plus the likelihood of Congressional action in the field.

With Michigan unemployment at about 400,000 and idle workers exhausting benefits at the rate of over 10,000 a month, the issue promised to develop into one of the hottest facing state lawmakers.

It appeared doubtful that any agreement would emerge on a plan for extended emergency benefits, or other major revisions, until the legislative session's closing days.

For one thing, some kind of legislative enactment seemed certain to be required if Michigan is to come under the extended benefit proposal advanced by President Eisenhower.

Revenue Bond Financing Seen as Aid to City

Proposal on Lake Huron Project Routed Back to Senate for Final OK

A plan smoothing the way for Lake Huron water to be pumped to Pontiac and northern Oakland and Macomb counties has passed the House in Lansing and today needed only Senate approval of minor amendments.

The measure would clear the way for individual communities, such as Pontiac, to enter into contracts with the Southern Michigan Water Authority without diminishing their bonding capacity.

It amends the three-year-old act setting up the authority, which plans to build the pipeline from an intake north of Port Huron to a pumping station near Auburn Heights. As revised, it provides for revenue bond financing of the project, with user communities paying off the bonds.

The current act, calling for general obligation bonds, is being changed for the benefit of the participating communities, said Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson (R-Waterford Township), a co-sponsor of the Senate-approved bill.

"With revenue bonds, it's also expected the authority will have an easier time getting financial backers at lower interest rates," he added.

Elizabeth Taylor Ranks as Major Contender for Best Actress Award

HOLLYWOOD — It's Oscar time in Hollywood tonight and the movie capital will roll out its glamor for the award-conferring occasion.

But the somber note of tragedy—death of producer Mike Todd in an airplane crash Saturday—hangs over the festivities.

Todd's widow Elizabeth Taylor is one of the major contenders for the best actress award.

"I don't care whether I win or not," she said last night while flying home from her husband's funeral in Chicago. "I only care what Mike would have thought if I had won."

Miss Taylor has long been a top favorite in the actress division because of her performance in "Raintree County." Her strongest competition will come from Deborah Kerr "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison" and Joanne Woodward "Three Faces of Eve."

A longshot is Lana Turner, up for her first nomination on her performance in "Peyton Place." Anna Magnani, a previous winner, is the fifth nominee for her role in "Wild Is the Wind."

Another makes minor limitations in the bonding powers of the authority. It also was designed as a "safeguard" measure, Anderson said.

"Under the new measure, contracting communities won't have to go into debt to get water," Anderson said. "In addition, by using revenue bonds, the community can get the money." (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Pastor Sure of Heaven Since He Believes in God

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles on Heaven, written by local residents and compiled by Mary Anglemier, Pontiac Press church editor.)

By DR. WILLIAM H. MARBACH

I believe in life after death because I believe in God who is living and who has created man as an eternal being.

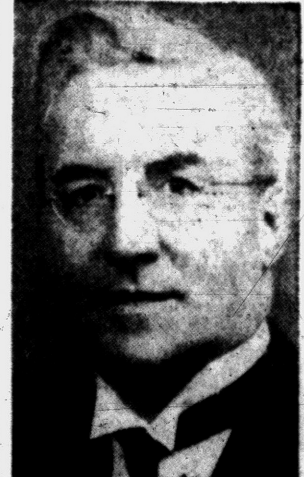

I believe that no obligation is worth anything that does not include a belief in life eternal. Nor is it worth much, if it cannot prove itself more than a match for death.

As Don Hankey put it "True religion is betting one's life that there is a God." It is more than that. "It is the victorious answer to Job's question 'If a man die, shall he live again?'"

It is an affirmative answer to Abraham's question "Shall not the judge of all the earth do right?" After death as in life, we shall still be in the hands of a God of justice and mercy.

Because I believe that Jesus Christ is the most illuminating and best interpreter of God, I believe in the Resurrection of the dead who die in the Lord, assured that whatever form the next life takes, it will be under the providence of God who loves, forgives, and places us where He wills. That belief satisfies and inspires me.

With the apostle Paul, I believe that God will clothe us with such (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

County to Set Up CCC-Type Plan

Will Provide Program of Rehabilitation Camps for Needy Juveniles

At a meeting Tuesday at the Oakland County Children's Center, law enforcement officials from about 25 Oakland County police departments agreed to work out a program for needy juveniles similar to the old Civilian Conservation Corps.

The department heads enthusiastically endorsed a program to use the county's several thousand acres of forest, camps and parks for rehabilitation camps, proposed by Oakland County Probate Judge Arthur E. Moore.

A group of boys from the County Children's Center have already participated in a similar program, with much success, Judge Moore said.

"These youngsters are members of a winter camp at Camp Oakland and are mentally retarded wards of the court," said Moore.

"Their program is half work and half reading instruction. If we can succeed in helping these children, then there is reason to believe we can help those heading for trouble or already in it," he asserted.

The program will be two fold. One part will be for school dropouts, youths who cannot get jobs and need assistance before they get into trouble.

The other part will be for youths who have already gotten into trouble with the law.

"With the current lack of opportunities to work, we have decided it is time to work on such a project to prevent juvenile delinquency before it starts," explained Moore.

Department heads plan to send requests for implementation in such a program to authorities in Lansing.

Anti-Billboard Senators Predict Favorable Vote

WASHINGTON — Advocates of billboard control along the new federal superhighway network predicted success today as the Senate reached the voting stage on an anticirculation bill to speed up roadbuilding.

The first key roll call was scheduled on an amendment to knock out a provision carrying a potential 200-million-dollar bonus to states that agree to regulate billboards on the 41,000-mile interstate system.

Both Senators Neuberger (D-Ore.) and Kuchel (R-Calif.), co-sponsors of the provision, predicted it would be retained by a substantial vote.

There was a possibility the Senate would finish voting on the bill and pass it by tonight. Some legislators, however, thought that the final votes would be put over until tomorrow.

The bill would provide an increase of approximately $1,800,000,000 in federal-state funds over what would be apportioned to the states under present schedules.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.), the bill's chief sponsor, said that over-all it would make possible a 5½-billion-dollar highway program in 1958, although much of this would involve construction in later years. He said it could mean as many as 520,000 new jobs.

Under the billboard section, states would be paid a one-half of 1 per cent bonus based on their portion of the cost of the inter-

First Scoutmaster Here for City Scout-O-Rama

The Grand Old Man of Scouting, "Uncle" Otto C. Hornung will be a featured guest at the Scout-O-Rama to be staged Saturday at Pontiac Central High School by Pontiac District Boy Scouts.

"Uncle" Otto was the original scoutmaster of Troop 1, Auburn, N. Y., when in 1910 the Boy Scouts of America was officially formed.

Scout-O-Rama is an action-show in which more than 30 area troops and cub scout packs will man booths where they will demonstrate various scouting skills and achievements.

Among the cub scout participants will be: Pack 8 of Crofoot School, "Adventures With Puppets"; Pack 28 of Owen School, "Exploring Alaska"; and Pack 22 of Whitfield School, "Handicraft."

Scout Troop 5 of the First Congregational Church will demonstrate pup tent making, while Troop 51 of the Donelson School will show lashings done with homemade rope.

Other troop exhibits will demonstrate: "Outdoor Camping" by Troop 29 of Weaver School; "Fire by Friction" by Troop 46 of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; and "Hobbies" by Troop 10 of the Loyal Order of Moose.

The scouting show will run continually from 1:30 to 9 p.m. in the gymnasium and will include outdoor features as well as the school grounds.

Provincial authorities said the dead in the Szprotawa grave included some Canadian and British air force men as well as Italians, Russians, Greeks, Poles, Czechs and Yugoslavs.

Authorities said the deaths were not the result of massacres.

City Appropriates $5,000 for Improvement of Park

BIRMINGHAM — The Birmingham City Commission has appropriated $5,000 to begin work on improvement of Shain Park. This amount is being added to the more than $2,000 remaining in the city's park improvement fund. The money will be used to begin work this summer.

City Commissioner Carl Ingraham, in opening discussion of the matter at Monday's Commission meeting, said he did not approve of "pressure" tactics in trying to influence the Commission. He added, however, that he felt the numerous letters received urging work on the park were an indication of civic interest.

Plantings, grading, walks and lawn will be the first step. Commissioners did not commit themselves on the proposed beautification plan which includes a reflecting pool, statuary and other "luxuries," as they termed them.

Commissioner Florence Willett, representing the city on the Park Improvement Board, said the work here was just another step in the beautification of the three-block area including the municipal building, Shain Park and Baldwin Library.

"Luxury" items, she said, may be arranged at some future date through popular subscription by residents.

Big things are in store for Birmingham children—and the Easter Bunny—as the City Recreation Board makes plans for an Easter egg hunt at Springdale Park.

The collection will start at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon, when youngsters attending the matinee at the Birmingham Theater are asked to bring cooked, decorated eggs.

Prizes will be given for the most creative, funniest, most unusual, largest and smallest eggs entered.

Children may enter as many eggs in the contest as they wish.

The following Saturday the eggs will be hidden at Springdale Park for the big hunt. Areas will be roped off for 4-6, 7-9 and 10-12 age groups.

Robert Girardin, recreation director, is being assisted by members of the Birmingham Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A. Glenn Wing, 57, of 1350 Haynes Ct., Birmingham, who died yesterday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, will be held at 1 p.m. Friday at Bell Chapel of William R. Hamilton Co. Mr. Wing in 1948 established the Wing Power Tools Co., of which he was co-owner.

Surviving are his wife, Carolyn H.; a son, Robert F. of Chicago; a brother, LaRue of Flint; and a sister, Mrs. Robert F. Reese of Birmingham.

Mrs. Irene Gillett, 86, of 621 Henley Dr., Birmingham, who died this morning after a long illness, will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday.

munities won't limit their ability to borrow money for other projects.

"This is an important consideration, since some of the communities that are eyeing the water project are quite small and might be forced to use up most of their credit to borrow money on obligation bonds."

The bill was passed by the House to have immediate effect (with Senate approval) instead of the usual 90-day waiting period, so that the authority could proceed immediately with contracts among potential water users, Anderson said.

Originally, the project was designed to serve fast-growing communities in Oakland and Macomb counties, the two areas that set up the authority and financed its $116,000 engineering study.

Other communities in St. Clair, Genesee and Wayne Counties, including Detroit, have shown interest since then.

The cost would depend on the number of participating communities and the size of the network. It has been estimated at $100 to $200 million.

Authority Chairman Howard K. Kelley, of Royal Oak has said the pipeline could be in operation as early as late 1960.

The launching site and connecting industrial work, as well as that done at other points (some in Pontiac), are veiled in a profound secrecy that profits by past lessons. Nobody is permitted outwardly to know anything.

The workers themselves are largely confined to a single task on one part, and do not know what its function may be. It is only at the final assemblage that the workers see the entire product. And very few of them then are present.

As a rule, the men do not want to know what they're making. They're satisfied in the knowledge that they have been considered good enough for such an intricate and expert job.

They wish to be immune from any accusation or temptation where they might be accused of participating in a "leak" to their friends or otherwise. They're ultra close-mouthed, and appreciate the reasons for it.

Government assurance of the permanency of such a base here is shooting real estate values sky high for many miles. They sometimes double overnight.

They call themselves "bird watchers," and assert that every day is like the Fourth of July, as the next rocket is always in expectancy.

Fire on Waterford Hill Scorches 120 Acres

More than 120 acres of land and pine trees on Waterford Hill on Dixie Highway was devastated by a raging fire yesterday.

Easterly winds up to 40 miles an hour whipped the flames through some 3,000 pine trees, in a new housing development, as Waterford and Independence firemen fought the blaze all afternoon.

Origin of the fire has not yet been determined, but firemen said that it had a good start long before the alarm was turned in.

There are no accessible roads on the west side of the historic hill, and firemen found that equipment could not reach many of the flaming trees in time to keep the fire from spreading.

Because the wind was sweeping from the east, the 12 new homes in the development, along with several old farm buildings, were not in danger of being destroyed.

There was some danger that the fire would get started in a cedar swamp bordering state-owned land covered with thousands of pine trees. Concentrated efforts in that area brought the fire under control at the swamp's edge.

This is the second time that the scenic Waterford Hill pine trees have been ravaged by fire, according to Robert Van Marter of Waterford who planted the trees on the hill some 40 years ago.

Careless burning of rubbish was the cause of the first fire, and firemen say that this was probably the origin of yesterday's blaze.

Why is red called the sky color and blue called the earth color—as far as observing the weather is concerned?

Red is the sky color because it denotes distance and dryness—and gives us valuable clues. It denotes dryness and dust in the air at sunset, or sunrise—when the sky is red. Red-colored clouds far away in the sky are known to be distant, also, because in the sky distant things take on a reddish hue.

Blue, on the other hand, denotes distance on the earth. Objects seen at great distance on the earth's surface appear bluish—such as far away mountains.

Bluish colored clouds, or dark colored clouds, are not distant and the more the color is pronounced the nearer the clouds are likely to be. A very dark cloud is probably very close.

That two-time Oscar winner in the supporting division, Anthony Quinn, is up for "Wild Is the Wind."

The other nominees are Anthony Franciosa for "Hatful of Rain" and Charles Laughton for "Witness for the Prosecution."

The best picture award parallels the best actor race. It is between "Bridge on the River Kwai" and "Sayonara" with "Peyton Place," "Witness for the Prosecution" and "12 Angry Men" also contenders.

Oakland County's Family Service Watches Play at Annual Meeting

"Broken Circle," under the direction of Dr. Jack Hassberger (left), was presented Tuesday evening for the eighth annual meeting of Family Service of Oakland County. The players in the drama included Mrs. William Spinning Jr. (standing), Mrs. Theodore F. Etter and Stanley Gilen. Little Theater of Birmingham High School was the setting for the meeting.

Dear Abby.... Ask Doctor to Check Facts

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I find myself full of hate for my own father. He put my mother away in a state mental institution and all her relatives say she could have stayed home and recovered with the proper love and care if only he had given it to her.

She died in the mental institution and my father has remarried, but now I can't even shake his hand without feeling soiled. Is this wrong?

A SON

DEAR SON: The "relatives" could be very much mistaken. Your mother was not "put away" in a mental institution without the recommendation of several competent examining doctors. If you want to check the medical facts, ask your family doctor to get them for you.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine sold me her set of rings when she separated from her husband. I have worn them about two months and have gotten very attached to them. Now my friend and her husband got back together again and she wants her rings back. She says her husband would be very mad if he knew she had sold them to me. Should I sell them back to her or tell her to go fly a kite?

GYPPED

DEAR GYPPEE: You friend does not deserve to have the set of rings back—but under the circumstances you would be wise to sell them back to her.

DEAR ABBY: We met at the home of a mutual friend. We were immediately attracted to each other and he asked to take me to dinner Saturday night.

An hour before he was to pick me up he telephoned, saying he was ill and asked could he send a friend instead to take me to dinner with his compliments so I wouldn't waste the evening.

I was so furious I told him NO. I haven't heard from him since. My friends at the office say I made a mistake. Did I?

EMILY

DEAR EMILY: Any man who was considerate enough to arrange a substitute date deserved better treatment than you gave him. You made a lousy job.

DEAR ABBY: One of the girls in our office is going to have a baby. She is married so there is nothing wrong with that, but she had some x-rays taken and she was showing them all over the office. I was shocked speechless. Where is this young woman's pride, modesty and common sense, I ask you?

UPSET

DEAR UPSET:—The young woman was obviously so thrilled about her coming baby that she wanted to show it to everyone in black and white. It wasn't in the best of taste, but hardly an incident to become upset over.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and a junior in high school. I am over this guy named Gary who is in my English class. I know he likes me because I catch him looking at me when I'm not looking at him. I keep hoping that he will ask me out, but he never does. Can you tell me WHY he doesn't ask me out?

APE OVER GARY

DEAR APE: He is, either bashful or broke—or maybe a little of both.

For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of the Pontiac Press. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

City WCTU Unit Conducts Meeting

The trio visited New Zealand, Australia, the Fiji Islands and the Philippines. Mrs. Habel listed Singapore, Bangkok, Hong Kong and Tokyo as four of the most exciting Oriental cities covered on the trip.

Mrs. Brown was amazed at the way the Japanese people have forged ahead since World War II, and commented on the immaculately clean cities and homes found in Japan. Photographing the scenery for producing slide pictures took up a good deal of Mrs. Eames' time.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Compton of West Ironquois road holidayed in Nassau, Bahamas, and shopped for bargains in the native straw markets. They were guests at Hotel Prince George. The Comptons flew from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to Nassau.

Students Deserve Praise Broadway Comes Here With PCH's 'Oklahoma'

By GRETTA PORTER

Rodgers and Hammerstein's long-run Broadway musical, "Oklahoma," opened at Pontiac Central High School yesterday with a matinee performance.

The familiar words and music of the smash New York hit echoed from the high school auditorium and will do so through Wednesday, Friday and Saturday evening performances and a Thursday matinee.

DOUBLE CAST

Under the supervision of Garth Errington, production director, and George Putnam, musical director, "Oklahoma," as produced by PCHS, was double cast.

On Tuesday and Friday, one cast will put on the show, and for the Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday performances many of the parts will be sung by a different cast.

Certain aspects of this production deserve special attention.

"Oklahoma" music was played by a 12-piece orchestra. This small group did an amazing job of accompanying the players. At times, however, the orchestra overwhelmed the singers' voices.

UNUSUAL EFFECT

It was quite obvious that a great deal of work had gone into scene design for the show. An unusual effect was a room, which represented the smokehouse, built as an extension off the stage. Transition by Jud and Curley to this portion of the stage was done smoothly.

Lighting for the show was down to an art with few exceptions. In several scenes lighting was important to the mood of the play and here the lighting crew, headed by William Bank, excelled.

A ballet sequence performed by Gail Gibson, Alan Higgins and Chuck Syers was well executed. Portraying a dream, the actions were well worked out and performed with finesse.

Dianne Beach, as Laurey, should be loudly applauded for her lovely, clear voice. Her solo, "Many a New Day," revealed true tones and a fine vocal range. When she joined Tom O'Brien (Curley) in lamenting "People Will Say We're in Love," the duo's voices blended harmoniously, creating a nice effect.

ROLE MASTERED

Aunt Eller was well performed by Leah Berg. Portraying a somewhat cynical, yet kindly old woman is not the easiest task for a young lady; however, Miss Berg mastered her assignment with facility.

Special mention must also go to Chuck Syers who portrayed Ali Hakim, the Persian peddler who has a fondness for the ladies. As the wispy, washy Hakim, who evades marriage like poison but finally gets caught, Chuck is a sure thing.

It is not easy for a young group to tackle a Broadway production and these students must be commended for their diligent work and enthusiasm, which certainly are evident in the PCHS performances of "Oklahoma."

Bride-to-Be Entertained at Shower

Bride-elect Elizabeth Klingler was honored Tuesday evening with a dinner party and miscellaneous shower at Park Inn. Coworkers of the honoree were hostesses for the pre-nuptial event.

Pink and white floral arrangements centered the table.

Among the guests were Mrs. Frances McCue, Mrs. Walter Babb, Mrs. Thomas Vradenburg, Mrs. Earl Demond, Mrs. Raymond L. Cole, Mrs. Charles Griggs, Mrs. Clyde Cronover and Mrs. Dean Hampshire.

OTHER GUESTS

Others were Mrs. Jack Bailey, Mrs. Alfred Koop, Mrs. Robert Burmeister, Mary Lou Carr, Norma Ainley, Joni Allen, Doris Manuel, Sue Meisner, Donna Moody, Mrs. Janet Gill, Mrs. Mary Wathern and Mickey Tersigni.

Completing the list were Mrs. William Hartman, Mrs. Kenneth Hoard, Mrs. James Owens, Mrs. C. A. Tompkins and Mrs. William Joyce.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley P. Klingler of Ortonville and her fiancé is Kenneth Auten, son of the John Autens of Ortonville. The couple will be married April 12.

Hobby of Making Planters Grows Into Real Business

LYONS, Colo. (INS) — A Lyons, Colo., man turned his hobby of making planters into a small but thriving business.

Otto Brown makes planters and false fireplace facings with the famous Lyons sandstone found in abundance where he lives.

The planters and fireplace facings are made in similar fashion. The stone—which can be cut into thin slabs and shaped—is cemented to a frame to form a beautiful, textured, pink stone surface.

Brown picks up much of his stone at large Lyons stone contracting yards where the thin slabs and scraps often are wasted.

Working alone, Brown can complete three large planters a day. But he is planning to hire three to five men in order to keep up with the current demand for his products.

Childhood Poverty

The French religious painter Georges Rouault came from a family so poor that when he was young, he could not even afford to buy drawing paper. Yet, from the age of 4, he dreamed of being an artist. His first pictures were done in chalk on the kitchen floor.

Showing Your Age

Many times it is not the calendar years that "date" us but the little gestures we use that give age signs.

What others see will convince them more than what may be said of our age. Often age can be an illusion, why not make yours one of youthfulness (not to be confused with girliness)?

Many "signs of age" are simply signs of neglect.

For a start, check the following: dry skin, eye circles, hair style, figure, posture while sitting, standing and walking. Next week we will start a spring review of each.
