Valuation Appeal to Delay Tax Collection

Southfield Act Hinders City, School Levies

Aug. 16 Tentatively Set as Date for Payments to Begin

A tax equalization appeal by Southfield Township will delay 1954 Pontiac city and school tax collections and temporarily cut off revenue to both units.

If a change is ordered in the Southfield valuation, Pontiac's valuation may also have to be revised. This would change individual city taxpayer's assessments, Pontiac City Manager Walter K. Willman said.

Until the Pontiac valuation is known to be final, tax bills can't be compiled, according to City Assessor W. Raymond Ransom.

Tax collections usually start July 1, but due to the Southfield appeal a tentative date of Aug. 16 is the present goal, according to City Treasurer M. M. Ashbaugh.

The collections delay will in turn delay Pontiac's income and "is serious because we will have to arrange some sort of temporary financing," Willman stated. But he expressed confidence that the necessary funds could be found.

Vernon L. Schiller, Pontiac School Board treasurer, said the school system will not be hard-pressed if taxes start coming in by Sept. 1.

"We have no teacher payrolls to meet until mid-September," said Schiller. He said funds are available to carry through until teachers must be paid again.

Some $250,000 borrowed by Pontiac schools on tax anticipation notes must be repaid Aug. 1, Schiller stated. The money can be borrowed from the Department of Public Instruction which will take it back out of state aid payments due Pontiac schools during the 1954-55 school year, he said.

Although the bills will be issued late, residents will have the usual 30 days after the delayed collection date to pay without penalty, Ashbaugh stated.

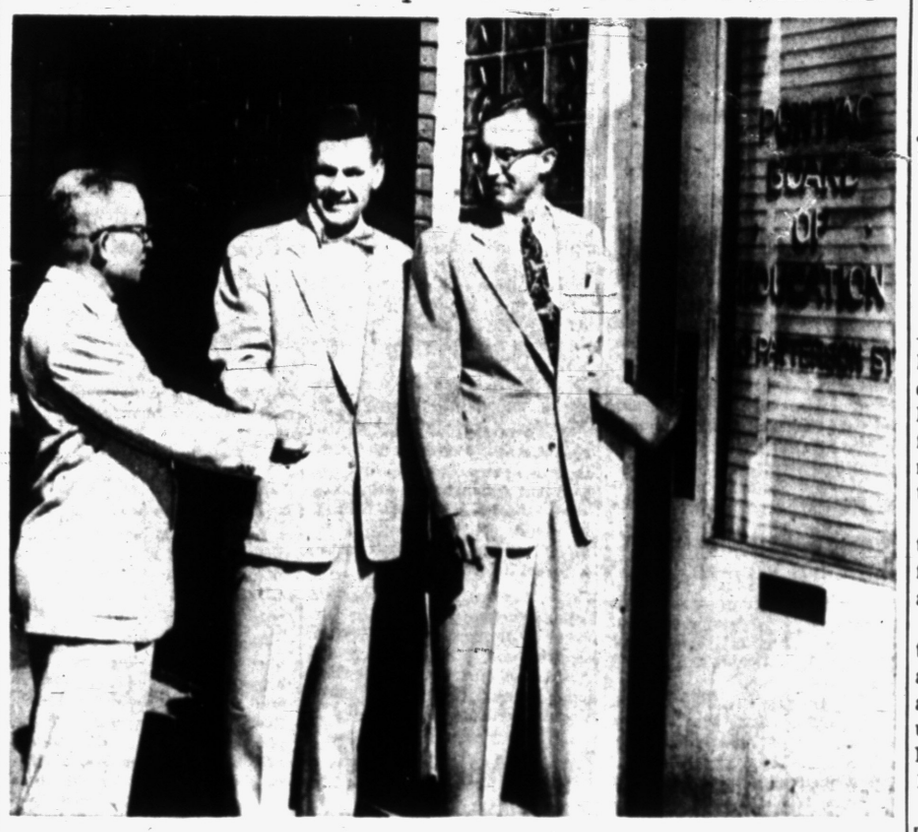

An equalized valuation of $80,162,007 was placed on Southfield Township May 26 by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

An immediate protest was lodged by township officials and the valuation was appealed June 1 to the Michigan State Tax Commission. It is not known when the tax commission will hand down a decision.

William Roeser, township supervisor, charged that the valuation figure was too high and that the township was a victim of discrimination.

Figures show that Southfield's equalized valuation this year is $16,931,485 higher than last year.

The Reasons Are Many and Growing

U.S. Completely Stymied in World Policy

(Editor's Note—How close is the free world to losing out in Southeast Asia?

Did Eisenhower and Churchill really settle British-American disputes?

Wht are the United States and Britain really trying to do about Indochina?

A week of frantic diplomacy in Washington produced more sparks than light, more words than information. In the following story, AP diplomatic reporter John M. Hightower looks behind the scenes of the White House meeting and its official statements to report what was really accomplished and what may be expected to happen.)

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Allied leaders are resigned to losing a great block of Indochina to the Communists.

The shooting war was around Hanoi and peace negotiations between French-led forces and the Communists have gone beyond the point where the United States can influence them decisively.

The issue of Red Chinese bids for recognition and for United Nations membership is expected to press hard upon the heels of any Indochina settlement.

With Moscow needling, this issue promises to make grave trouble among the United States, Britain and France in the fall.

Other forces, too, are working to pull the Western Allies apart despite the emphasis placed here this week on what Sir Winston Churchill called an "unbreakable solidarity."

It is exactly a week now since Churchill flew into Washington by his own request to talk, alongside Foreign Secretary Eden, with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

It has been an intensive week in other ways. Talks on the Southeast Asian crisis have been held by Dulles with Australia's Foreign Minister Richard Casey, New Zealand's Ambassador Leslie Munro and Thailand's foreign minister, Prince Wan Waithayakon. The situation has been touched upon in official British - American statements, in a Churchill talk and in an Eisenhower press conference.

The ability of the free world to meet the Communist threat inside Indochina appears not to have been materially increased. Dulles' efforts to get going at once on a collective defense for Southeast Asia remain frustrated and frozen —although some thought is now being given to trying to change this situation.

The situation may best be seen in the light of two or three recent incidents. On March 29 the American government, through a speech by Dulles, issued an emergency call for "united action" to halt Communist expansion in Southeast Asia. Privately, officials were talking in terms of intervention in the Indochina war.

France and Britain were cool. In mid-April Dulles flew to London and Paris. On his return home, he thought he had agreement to have a conference and begin drawing up a 10-nation Southeast Asian pact. A bitter controversy with

New Well Boosting City's Water Supply

One of three new Pontiac city water wells near Silver Lake began pumping yesterday at the rate of 740 gallons per minute, according to City Water Superintendent Joseph W. Gable.

Water pressure in the city's north end, which has been the trouble area, was noticeably improved, said Gable. Another of the new wells is expected to begin pumping next week, he added.

The added supply will probably bring Pontiac through the holiday weekend with no appreciable drop in water pressure, the superintendent stated.

Red River Delta Refugees Flock to Hanoi Today

City's Residents Fear Red Infiltration in Mass Immigration to Town

HANOI, Indochina (UP) —Refugees streamed into Hanoi today from the abandoned southern half of the Red River delta, raising fears among residents of a rebel fifth column move to take the city.

Because of the speed of the evacuation, security officials were unable to check all of the arriving refugees.

Saboteurs were believed to be among them, only awaiting the signal to stage a bloody repetition of the uprising and massacre of French citizens here in 1946.

The French High Command announced that the last French troops, an armored unit, pulled out of the once - thriving textile center of Nam Dinh, 45 miles southeast of Hanoi at noon Thursday.

Communist units entered the abandoned towns and villages in the rich delta country as soon as the French left. The French High Command said two full divisions now were occupying the southern delta.

Military sources said the two divisions, backed up by possibly two more, might launch an attack of Hanoi regardless of progress in negotiating a cease fire.

The high command announced Thursday that it had given up the southern half of the delta because it had been infiltrated heavily by conquerors of Dien Bien Phu.

All day Thursday hundreds of trucks loaded with military equipment, food and household belongings drove north to Hanoi on roads lined with protecting infantry.

From Nam Dinh, French covering forces pulled back to Mycoi, nine miles southwest toward Phu Ly near the Day River.

Temperatures Average 67.3

Month of June Is Normal Except for Violent Storms

June could well be titled "Thunderstorm Month of 1954."

Otherwise it was very commonplace.

At times June was colder than normal. At times it was hotter than normal. Sometimes it was even wetter than normal. But all the figures, averaged together, balanced out to just about normal.

June, 1954, had nine days of 90-or-over temperature readings—far above the normal quota of two days. But early June carried enough cold weather (temperatures didn't get over 56 degrees for three days) to drag down the average.

Temperatures for the month struck a day-in-day-out average of 67.3 degrees. Normal is 68, says the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Rainfall totaled 3.13 inches. The normal amount is 3.03.

But good old normal, non-neurotic June packed half-a-dozen real blingers of thunderstorms.

The month rode in on the heels of a May 31 thunderstorm that used 50-mile-an-hour winds to help it black out 700 Pontiac area homes.

Pontiac folks, cooled by a chilly May and chillier weather in the first few days of June, just weren't prepared for the muggy weather that was tossed at them later.

The mercury climbed to 88 degrees June 8 and stuck. It went back to 88 again the next day—and the humidity reading was just about as high. The Weather Bureau forecast cooler temperatures. The thermometer

Quake Kills 22 in Philippines

80-Second Jolt Does 'Enormous' Property Damage to City

MANILA (AP)—At least 22 persons were reported dead and scores were injured today in a strong earthquake which jolted the central Philippines.

The provincial capital of Sorsogon bore the brunt of the quake and a police official there reported 20 persons were dead and enormous property damage. Two others were killed at Legaspi City to the north.

Capt. Isagani Abella, commander of the Sorsogon constabulary garrison radioed police headquarters here:

"Twenty persons believed dead this capital alone. Property damage enormous. Concrete fence around our camp and our radio transmitter station totally wrecked. Our headquarters badly damaged. . . .

Eighty per cent of the old buildings in Sorsogon, a city of 26,000, were destroyed, Philippine News Service said. The towering steeple on a Catholic cathedral toppled.

Communications with the area, on the southeastern tip of Luzon, were disrupted. Meager reports were relayed here from a ship in Sorsogon harbor.

Rain Saturday; Rest of Weekend Expected Fair

Occasional thundershowers during the day Saturday is the only rain forecast in the Pontiac area over the long holiday weekend.

As to temperatures, the U. S. Weather Bureau predicts a sweltering high near 92 degrees tomorrow, and somewhat cooler weather Sunday with a slow warming trend Monday and Tuesday.

After Saturday's thundershowers, rain is not expected again until Wednesday.

Thursday the mercury climbed from a low of 65 to a high of 86 degrees in the city.

At 8 a.m. today the reading was 66, but by 1 p.m. in downtown Pontiac the temperature stood at 84.

This was the third time Drobny had gained the finals, and the first time he has been able to capture the biggest prize in tennis. It was figured a huge upset.

Rebel Leader, Chief of Junta Come to Terms

Monzon Gets Top Post on New 5-Man Council Being Formed

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Rebel chief Carlos Castillo Armas and government boss Col. Elfego Monzon signed a peace pact here today ending Guatemala's two-week-old civil war. They pledged a continuing fight to wipe out communism in that Central American nation.

The treaty provides for a new five-man military junta —Guatemala's fourth government this week—with Monzon as top man. The other members include Castillo and one of his aides and two ministers in Monzon's outgoing regime.

Authoritative sources said this arrangement would continue for 15 days, after which the junta will elect a "permanent" chief.

The agreement was signed at 4:45 a.m. in the ceremonial hall of El Salvador's presidential house before ambassadors and representatives of a dozen countries and the Vatican. It proclaims a total ceasefire in Guatemala.

Castillo's followers invaded their homeland from neighboring Honduras on June 18, vowing to overthrow the Communist supported government of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman. Arbenz resigned last Sunday and a cease-fire followed on Wednesday. The junta which replaced Arbenz after his resignation was in turn replaced by Monzon's group.

In addition to Castillo and Monzon, the new junta will be composed of Maj. Enrique Oliva, defense minister in Castillo's insurgent regime, and two other members of Monzon's government — Foreign Minister Col. Mauricio

Bingo Petitions Are Filed Today

Committee Head Says 325,000 Signers Seek Vote on Charity Game

Petitons containing over 325,000 signatures were filed in Lansing this morning, some 38,000 more than needed to assure a November vote on legalizing chairtable bingo in Michigan.

The announcement came from Robert C. White, Oakland County chairman of the Michigan Assn. of Non-profit Charitable Organizations, which has been working to secure the required constitutional amendment since last August.

"They're all good legal signatures too," said White, "but even if 10 per cent of them were declared invalid we would still have enough." A total of 287,000 valid signatures is required.

Officials of the Department of State in Lansing implied that the acceptance of the proposal for ballot position was virtually a certainty because of the surplus signatures filed and the care with which the sponsors had checked its 326,106 signatures.

However, Robert M. Montgomery, state elections director, said a final decision would not be made until some time next week after his staff had checked the petitions thoroughly.

Some 21 veterans, and sportsmen's groups, PTAs and other civic organizations joined in the local drive which contributed about 25,000 signers from Oakland County, White stated. Nearly every section of the county yielded supporters he added.

"We're not trying to open the state to commercial gambling," said White, "but to show how bingo can be licensed and controlled to supply money to charitable groups and license fees to the state. Now we've got to educate people to support us at the polls."

A majority of signers came from Wayne County, but 60 of the state's

May Wynn Tells Willie to 'Drop Dead'

Synopsis: Willie Keith, a Princeton youth, finds himself in the Navy in December 1942. During the previous year, he had found a job playing and singing original ditties in a New York hotel cocktail lounge, and later on at the Club Tahiti. There he met another singer, May Wynn, and he falls in love.

CHAPTER 3

May Wynn's job at the Club Tahiti lasted for three weeks. Willie soon obtained the telephone number of the Bronx candy store, and they continued seeing each other after May's engagement at the club was finished.

It was April. Their relationship advanced to include long walks in the blossoming new-green park, and dinners at expensive restaurants, and kisses in taxis, and sentimental presents like ivory cats and fuzzy black bears and a great many flowers.

Willie wrote some bad sonnets, too, and May took them home, read them again and again, and shed warm tears over them. Nobody had ever written poetry to her before.

Late in April Willie received a postcard from his draft board, inviting him for a physical examination. Upon the sounding of this tocsin he remembered the war, and forthwith went to a Navy officer-procurement station. He was accepted for the December class of the Reserve Midshipmen School.

This put him beyond the clutches of the Army, and gave him a long reprieve from service.

Mrs. Keith, however, took his enlistment as a tragedy. Discreetly inquiring among influential friends, she found a peculiar stoniness everywhere to the idea of getting Willie some safe duty in the United States. So she determined to make his last free months beautiful.

May Wynn was doing a pretty good job of that, but of course Mrs. Keith didn't know it. She was unaware of the girl's existence.

Willie and May never talked about marriage. He sometimes wondered why she didn't mention the subject, but he was very glad that she was content to leave their relationship in the realm of wild kisses.

His idea was that the sweetness would last to be enjoyed during the four months of midshipmen school; then he would go to sea, and that would be the convenient and painless end.

The Keith home in Manhasset was a twelve-room Dutch colonial house with heavy white pillars, high-arching black wood-shingled roof, and multitudes of large windows. It stood on a knoll in the middle of two acres of lawns set with soaring old beech, maple, and oak trees and bordered by flower beds and a thick high hedge.

Mrs. Keith's family had presented it to her. Her income from Rhode Island bank securities still went to keep it up. Willie believed such surroundings were normal.

• • •

He walked up the avenue of maples to the front door and entered upon a prepared triumph. His mother hugged him. Relatives and neighbors, flourishing cocktails, greeted the war hero.

Willie noticed for the first time when the party went into the living room that his father limped and walked with a cane. After a while Dr. Keith interrupted the question session.

"Time out," he said, "while a man has a few words in private with his sailor son." He took Willie by the arm and led him into the library. "How is it, really, Willie—the Navy?" Dr. Keith said, closing the door, and leaning on his cane.

"Fine, Dad. I'll get by. What's the matter with your leg?"

"Nothing much. Infected toe."

"I'm sorry. Bother you much?"

"Some."

Willie glanced at his father in surprise. It was the first time he had heard his father complain of an ailment. "Well—what can I say to a doctor? You've had it looked at?"

"Oh, yes. Nothing to be done. It will simply take time." Father and son looked into each other's eyes for a moment. "I shouldn't keep you from the company," said the doctor, limping toward the window. "But we've really never talked much, have we? I'm afraid I've let your mother do all the upbringing. And now you're off to the wars."

Willie did not know what to answer. It seemed that his father wanted to say something but could not find a way to begin.

"I never got overseas myself, Willie, in the first war. Maybe you'll be lucky, too."

"I'll take what comes," said Willie. "The Navy's spending a lot of time and work on me. Maybe I ought to go overseas if I'm good enough for it."

Dr. Keith ran his fingers across the small black mustache. His eyes searched Willie's face. "You're changing a little. What's doing it? The Navy?"

"I'm afraid I'm the same poor lug."

"Willie," said his father, "have you met a girl?"

Willie was too startled to lie. "Yes, sir."

"A good girl?"

"In her way, wonderful."

"Do you want to marry her?"

"No."

"Why not?"

"Well—it's not that kind of thing."

"Don't be too sure. Bring her out here to meet us."

New Licensing Ordinance Requires Drains, Paving for Parking Lots in City

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — One more obstacle was hurled this week in this city's efforts to provide adequate parking facilities when a licensing ordinance for all public off-street parking lots, or those charging a fee, was approved by the City Commission.

Some of Birmingham's existing school, church and other public lots will be affected by the ordinance, which states that no license will be issued at the end of a two-year period unless the lots have been paved, graded and drained by that time.

Owners or operators of new lots will also be given the two-year time limit to provide proper surfacing and drainage.

Meetings and an informal hearing were held by the Commission last month to consider possible city participation in an off-street lot which would serve the southwest section of the downtown shopping district.

As proposed, assessments would be shared equally by the city and surrounding business property owners.

Commissioners ordered a review of the Planning Board's proposed off-street parking ordinance, an up-to-date traffic survey, and detailed information sent to surrounding property owners before proceeding further with the plan.

10,755 Figures Double That Posted When Vans Were Here in 1952

Michigan Health Department will mail cards within five weeks telling 10,755 Pontiac people whether signs of tuberculosis showed up on their recent chest X-rays.

Cards will be sent all local men and women who visited two mobile chest X-ray vans now touring Oakland County in a drive to find hidden cases of tuberculosis. The units, which had worked in Pontiac since June 9, left the city Wednesday night.

A. R. Musson, executive secretary of Oakland County Tuberculosis Assn., said the number of Pontiac people who turned out for this year's free chest X-rays was almost double the 5,916 X-rayed during a similar visit here in 1952.

He added that in past surveys, only two per cent of the X-rays taken have shown any abnormal chest conditions.

The X-ray vans' tour is sponsored by the county tuberculosis association, medical society, and Michigan State, Oakland County, Ferndale-Pleasant Ridge and Pontiac health departments.

Police Mobilize for Traffic Jam

Hams, First Aid Crews to Join Road Patrols to Cut Holiday Toll

City, county and state highway patrolmen prepared today for extra duty over the long holiday weekend to handle what many believe will be the biggest July 4th traffic jam in history.

Spurred by the National Safety Council's estimate of a 430-person traffic death toll, Pontiac Police Department, the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and Pontiac State Police Post canceled all leave days.

Sheriff's deputies and Pontiac policemen will begin special 12-hour working schedules tonight to direct the mass exodus of holiday fun seekers.

Officials expect the flow of city dwellers to beaches, picnic grounds and resort areas to reach record proportions.

Clyle R. Haskill, chairman of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce Safety Committee, said Michigan's weekend death toll may go as high as 28 unless motorists obey all safety rules.

Speeders, reckless and drunk drivers "will be locked up during the three days," each department warns.

Sheriff Clare L. Hubbell, who has ordered all deputies to the weekend task, said, "No traffic violation will be overlooked, and we will be especially on the look-out for speeders."

Capt. Edward H. Shigley, head of Pontiac Police administration, said police reserves are being called to support the traffic squad.

For the first time this year, Oakland County Red Cross Chapter and the Amateur Radio League is joining the sheriff's department to lessen serious casualties due to auto mishaps.

Twenty of the league's autos, equipped with short-wave radios, will be hooked to the sheriff's department radio system to report any injuries resulting from accidents.

The Red Cross, according to Ralph S. Forman, first aid chairman, will furnish 40 first aid instructors to ride in the autos. They will administer first aid at accident scenes until ambulances arrive.

Hubbell said he hopes the new setup with the Red Cross and league will decrease the number of fatalities.

Lt. Joseph Koren, head of Pontiac Traffic and Accident Bureau, said the main congestion areas will be along Saginaw street, especially in the business district. He said patrolmen will be assigned to direct traffic at busy intersections.

Heaviest traveled highways, according to Hubbell and State Police, will be Telegraph road, U. S. 10 and M 15. Biggest volume of traffic is expected to flow north through Orion Township, Oxford and Waterford.

During last year's two-day Independence Day holiday, 261 persons were killed in traffic accidents, and 362 persons died during the last Memorial Day weekend, according to the National Council.

Police are urging motorists to cut their speed at least 10 miles per hour below their normal pace.

Motorists are advised to start early on trips, and return before highways are jammed Monday evening.

Fast Teamwork Traps Suspects

Saginaw, State Police Nab 2 in Pinconning Safe Crackings

SAGINAW (AP)—Some fast teamwork between Saginaw and state police nailed two of three youths in connection with two Pinconning safe cracking jobs yesterday.

It also gave some good clues toward the third.

State Police Detective Russell Aldrich of the Bay City post was telling Donald Berg, a Saginaw detective, about the youths, when the phone on Berg's desk rang.

Berg said the call was a tip on two youths, reportedly in some trouble. He said the tip described them in yellow sports shirts and new blue jeans, walking in downtown Saginaw.

Minutes later teams of police headed into the area. Berg spotted and arrested Steve Leroy Gerzeski, 17, and Robert James Patrick, 19, both of Pinconning. Berg said they told him their buddy, John A. Shaw, also of Pinconning, was next door getting his picture taken.

Shaw evidently saw them coming. He was gone when police entered, but on the floor was a freshly printed picture. Berg said the other two youths told him the three had committed the Pinconning burglaries.

They led police to an estimated $4,000 in cash and goods from the Pinconning thefts and a drug store burglary in Au Gres.

They were both turned over to state police and warrants were issued charging them with breaking and entering at night. Berg said the youths also told him they stole two cars in Saginaw.

They will be transferred to Arenac County for trial in the drug store burglary, the most recent.

Guatemala Peace Agreement Signed

Dubois and Defense Minister Col. Jose Luis Cruz Salazar.

Other terms of the agreement provided:

1. Castillo's rebel forces will be incorporated into the regular army ranks for a triumphal entry into Guatemala City.

2. The junta assumes all legislative and executive powers as well as supreme command of the army and will rule by majority decision.

3. The junta will consider whether to abolish or suspend in part the nation's present constitution and Castillo will cancel at once all decrees issued by his provisional regime.

4. New national elections will be called as soon as a new constitution is promulgated.

The new junta reportedly will fly to the Guatemala capital at 11 a.m. tomorrow to take over.

The signing ceremony climaxed two days and nights of negotiations that began early Wednesday. At its conclusion, Monzon and Castillo embraced under a large portrait of Gen. Gerardo Barrios, the George Washington of El Salvador.

The new junta faced difficulties at home. Communist supporters of deposed President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman were reported inciting peasants outside the capital to rise against the country's new rulers.

The Red leaders, who fled to the hills after Arbenz's downfall, were reported inflaming the peasantry with stories that the new regime would take away the lands the previous leftist government had turned over to them.

* * *

Army and police headquarters in Guatemala City acknowledged they were unable to meet demands for help against uprisings outside the capital.

The situation at Escuintla, a major Communist hotbed 30 miles south of Guatemala City, was reported serious.

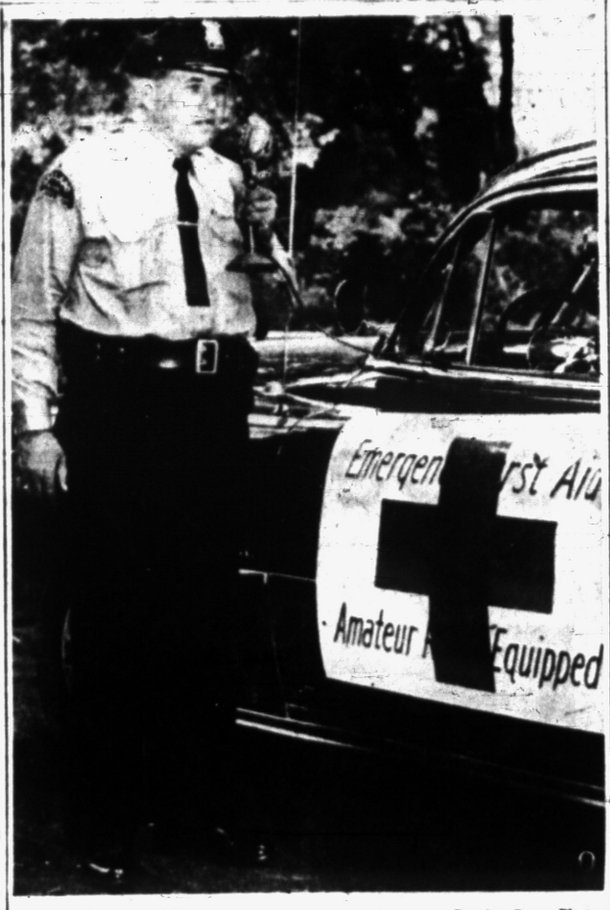

The agreement between Castillo and Monzon was reported only after the U. S. ambassador to Guatemala, John Peurifoy, flew here to help resolve the rival demands. Peurifoy had played a major advisory role in the lengthy conferences which resulted in Arbenz's forced resignation Sunday night, the establishment of a junta headed by Col. Carlos Diaz, the outlawing of the Guatemalan Communist party and the replacement of Diaz's junta by Monzon's group.

Castillo and Monzon met here first Wednesday, with Salvadorean President Oscar Osorio as mediator. Late Wednesday night their negotiations appeared to have broken down and they announced the cease-fire had been extended until 9 a.m. today. Yesterday, however, after Peurifoy's arrival, they resumed the negotiations and remained in session almost continuously until early today.

Teachers Fired by Detroit Board

Invoked 5th Amendment Before Un-American Activities Committee

DETROIT (UP) — Two public school teachers who invoked the Fifth Amendment when questioned about possible Communist affiliations by a congressional committee were out of jobs today. The Board of Education, in an unprecedented move, upheld the firings of Harold Rosen, 41, and Sidney W. Graber, 32.

Both had been suspended without pay May 5 by Superintendent of Schools Arthur Dondineau after a hearing.

Rosen, father of three children and a music teacher in Detroit elementary schools for 17 years, and Graber, a social studies instructor for seven years, both refused to answer questions May 3 at a Detroit hearing of the House Un-American Activities subcommittee.

They invoked the Fifth and other amendments in refusing to answer questions about alleged Communist affiliations.

The teachers appeared at Thursday's board meeting with their attorneys and argued they were being punished for using a constitutional guarantee. Both denied they are now or ever had been Communists.

But the board voted unanimously to uphold Dondineau's action and fire them.

Auto Tag Game Ends With Tragic Death

LANSING (AP) — A game of automobile tag ended in death for Richard Thocker, 26, of Lansing last night.

Thocker was chasing another car when it slowed for a curve. Thocker's car, traveling at about 60 miles an hour clipped it in the right rear, left the road and rolled over.

Thocker was thrown from the car. Two youths riding with him were shaken up, but unhurt. Thocker died later in St. Lawrence Hospital, Lansing, with concussion and a fractured skull.

The other car fled the scene and is the subject of a search by State Police.

Weather in June Turns Out Normal

defiantly went to 90. The weather bureau surrendered and forecast hot, sticky weather.

The revised forecast came true.

The mercury rose to 88, 92, 88, 91, 92 and 88 degrees for the following six days — and the air was loaded with so much humidity that sweltering Pontiac stayed damp and dripping the whole while.

June's thunderstorm siege got under way in earnest Saturday, June 12. That storm chased late-afternoon swimmers off beaches with 65-mile-an-hour winds and shut off lights and telephones at 300 homes.

Another thunderstorm June 15 brought rains so heavy they stopped rush-hour traffic on Woodward avenue and Telegraph road.

The next storm Saturday, June 19, stalked in under clouds so black they cast a mid-afternoon night over the city. This one blacked out three villages — Lake Orion, Oxford, and Goodison — with one falling branch that started a galloping short circuit on a 40,000-volt power line.

Winds that hit hurricane speeds of 75 to 80 miles an hour whipped another storm into Pontiac June 21. Lights went out in 1,150 homes. Pontiac Airport's wind recorder broke off, and summer arrived—officially—an hour later.

The last of the storms was a windless lightning blitz.

With scarcely a breeze to help, wild electricity mussed up power lines so thoroughly that it took Detroit Edison Co. two days to get everything running again. An Edison official called it "the messiest storm I remember." Lightning struck Pontiac's Huron theater, a downtown utility pole, and homes in Waterford, Birmingham, and other communities.

June tried to work up another thunderstorm Wednesday night to bow out on but didn't quite make the grade. A bank of clouds on the southern horizon flashed and flickered and shot out streaks of chain lightning for an hour, but the storm apparently fizzled out long before it neared Pontiac.

Won't Comment on Strike Effect

Out-of-Work Installers Might Alter Statewide Telephone Service

DETROIT (AP) — Union officials refused to say today whether a strike by 760 Western Electric Co. telephone installers in Michigan would effect statewide telephone service.

The installers, assigned to Michigan Bell Telephone Co. exchanges, were part of 16,000 CIO communications workers who struck across the nation yesterday when contract negotiations broke down.

The dispute over wage increases could idle 18,400 Bell employes in Michigan, and many more thousands over the nation. Bell Telephone operators and maintenance workers belong to the same union.

A union spokesman declined to say whether or when picket lines would be set up. "We don't want to give away our strategy," he said.

J. L. Galland, president of the striking Detroit local, said:

"Picketing will start at the discretion of our union in New York City. The installers expect other CWA members to honor any picket lines set up at strategic locations."

Western Electric workers reported to work as usual in the morning shortly before noon. There were 520 in Detroit and 240 over the rest of the state.

Michigan Bell workers have signed a new wage contract with their company. Union spokesmen said that although the new agreement contains a no-strike clause, it would not be construed to affect workers who won't cross a picket line.

The Western Electric workers install switchboards and other telephone equipment. Both Western Electric and Michigan Bell are subsidiaries of American Telephone and Telegraph Corp. The Western Electric contract expired May 2.

Circus Juggler Fights With Lion to Save Friend

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Eric Drosdsky is a circus juggler who is scared of animals. But last night he leaped into the lion cage and fought desperately for the life of trainer William Coetzee, his best friend.

Women screamed and fled from the tent when one of the six performing lions turned on Coetzee as he was putting the animal through its paces. As all six lions pounced, Drosdsky rushed into the ring. With a chair, he tried to draw the raging beats toward himself.

The lions clawed the trainer. Then they chased the juggler until ringmaster Dennis Wood joined him with a club. Together they held the beasts at bay and dragged Coetzee out.

The trainer, badly mauled, died three hours later. Drosdsky, meanwhile, had gone on with his own juggling act.

Arrest Suspect in Arson Cases

State and Fenton Police Catch Bachelor, 25, Igniting Boxes

A Fenton bachelor, seized Tuesday while igniting several cardboard boxes lying on a clothing store's porch, is under suspicion today of arson in nine other Fenton fires.

Hugh M. Dean Jr., 25, who lives with his parents at 108 S. West St., is being held in Genesee County Jail on $7,500 bond pending examination next Friday in Genesee County Circuit Court. He demanded examination on arson charges yesterday in Flint.

Dean denies setting any of the nine fires—including two lumberyard blazes causing $400,000 total damage. However Detective Jack Coltson of the Michigan State Police Department said he and Fenton Police Chief Orie Clark have trailed Dean off and on for the past four weeks and "when we didn't follow him we had the fires."

The detective, attached to the State Fire Marshal's Office, said they changed their procedure and nabbed Dean early Tuesday morning as he ignited cardboard boxes on the back porch of a clothing store at 110 S. Leroy St.

Meanwhile, Genesee County authorities are questioning Dean in connection with six barn fires over a 12-month period.

The Fenton fires occurred over the past three months.

The first major one broke out April 2 in the Fenton Lumber Co., causing an estimated loss of $150,000. Another fire at the Lee Lumber Co. yard 12 days later caused $250,000 damage.

Other Fenton fires ranged from tavern blazes to bonfires in barns.

Ex-Marine Kills Wife's Admirer

Puts 5 Bullets in Rival as 2 Daughters Watch; Calls Police Later

DETROIT (UP) — A 30-year-old ex-Marine who shot and killed his wife's admirer before his two terrified children was held for investigation of murder today.

Denny L. Craddock, who said he was given a medical discharge from the Marine Corps after service in Korea, admitted pumping five bullets from a .32 caliber automatic into Ernest A. Trullard, 29, but refused to make a formal statement.

Police said Craddock told them his wife, Julia, 26, wrote him that she wanted a divorce so she could marry Trullard.

The veteran came to Detroit four days ago from East Point, Ga., to look for his wife and their two daughters, Dale, 7 and Lydia, 5. He found Trullard and the two children at his mother-in-law's home Thursday. Mrs. Craddock was visiting a friend.

Police said Craddock told them he persuaded Trullard to take a ride with him while they talked things over. The two children went along.

At an intersection, Trullard started to leave the car. Craddock, police said, pulled out his pistol and started shooting. Trullard staggered along the street screaming as the bullets ripped into his body. He was dead on arrival at Receiving Hospital.

Craddock drove away with the girls and later telephoned police from a gas station, where he was arrested. He said he served in the Army during World War II and was medically discharged, hiding the fact to enlist in the Marines for Korean service.

Ax Opens 300-Pound Safe, Yeggs Get $92

Yeggs hacked open a 300 pound safe with an ax and pick last night and fled with $92 from the Detroit Creamery Co.'s Ice Cream Division, 370 Orchard Lake Ave., reported Pontiac Police.

Detective Sgt. John A. DePauw said deep ax and pick marks also were found on two other safes, but neither was opened.

Thieves also attempted to open a 500 pound safe at the Dixie Lumber Co., 831 Oakland Ave., last night.

DePauw said the thieves caused an estimated $350 damage in trying to enter a wall safe at the creamery by removing bricks from the wall. The yeggs entered the creamery through a window in the garage and crawled through a small refrigerated opening to get to the safes.

Entrance at the lumber company was gained by breaking a rear window, DePauw added.

Rebel troops and guerrillas submerged the entire southern delta, about 1,000 square miles of some of the richest and most densely populated land in the world, almost overnight.

The French admitted they were subjeting themselves to adverse public opinion in evacuating the southern delta without a fight but hotly denied making any deal with the Reds to end the war, now in its eighth year.

Uncle Charlie in Big Bare Trouble Over His $20,000 Pin-Up Ladies

By BILLY ROSE

Last month I took my Uncle Charlie to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The painting he admired most was a nude by Sargent.

"How much is worth such a picture?" he asked.

BILLY ROSE

"Twenty thousand or better," I said.

Two weeks later, my Aunt Frieda phoned.

"Is big trouble," she said. "In case you can come, come."

That evening, when I walked into their Rivington Street flat, I noticed a strong odor of linseed oil and turpentine. On the living room walls there were half a dozen paintings, all executed by the same unsure hand and all of the same unclad lady.

"Where did these come from?" I asked.

"Is coming from your Uncle Charlie," said Frieda. "You are telling him a picture of a naked lady is worth twenty thousand dollars, so he is right away fixing up a studio in the basement and buying paints, brushes and likewise weasels and pullets."

"Who's the model?" I asked.

"A widow, by the name Sarah Shapiro," said my aunt. "She is charging your uncle two-dollars-fifty a hour she should pose without."

"If Charlie wants to be an artist," I said, "I guess he has to have a model."

"Where is flesh," said Frieda, "is also the devil. Likewise, is Charlie. Besides, so much flesh is indecent. Also not quite kosher."

"Aren't you being narrow-minded?" I said. "Churchill paints. So does Eisenhower."

"Hitler also was painting," said my aunt.

Our art discussion was interrupted by the entrance of Charlie, decked out in smock and beret. "I am famishing," he said. "I could eat a dog."

"That's what you will eat," said Frieda. "Is tonight frankfurters and canned beans."

"Since when are you serving ready-mades?" I asked my aunt, who is probably the best cook since Escoffier.

"Your uncle says he is a artist," said Frieda. "Well, a artist has gotta starve . . ."

Yesterday Charlie phoned me. "Your aunt is making a scandal," he said. "She is posing for French postal cards."

"I don't believe you," I said. "Hold everything and I'll be down tonight."

All afternoon I chuckled at the idea of Frieda as an odalisk. She stands 61 inches in her carpet slippers, scales better than three pounds per inch, and her "altogether" would tax the photographic range of CinemaScope.

That night when I walked into their flat, it was Charlie who was smarting and Frieda who was smug.

"What's this about postcards?" I said.

"If the widow Shapiro can pose for your uncle," said Frieda, "I can pose likewise for a first-class artistic photographer."

My aunt gave me an elaborate wink.

"Looks like a standoff," I said to my uncle. "Why don't you two make a deal?"

"What kind deal?" asked Charlie.

"I'd suggest," I said, "that from now on you keep your eyes to yourself and Frieda keeps her clothes on."

"Is acceptable," said my aunt, "if all facsimiles of the widow Shapiro is removed from the walls and chucked out with the garbage."

"Agreed," said my uncle, "if Frieda is letting me tear in pieces all pictures of her already took."

"To Charlie I am not showing my pinup pictures," Frieda said to me. "But if you are wanting to tear them up, come in the bedroom."

My aunt and I went into her bedroom and from under the mattress Frieda extracted what she called a "vanilla envelope" containing a set of large negatives. When I examined them, I found they were X-rays of a fine set of vertebrae and several curvaceous ribs.

"What I am neglecting to tell Charlie," confided Frieda, "is that my high-class photographer is likewise Ben Schmulevitz, the family doctor. As usual each summer, he is X-raying me the chest."

"Bright girl," I said. "Now tell me what's for supper."

"Potted meatballs," said my aunt. "Also noodles."

"With cheese dressing?"

"On my table," said Frieda, "noodles is always with dressing. I run a respectable house."

Prisoner Fails in Law Attempt; Returns to Jail

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Gerald Mastracchio, 31, serving 15 years for attempted robbery, got a lesson in law yesterday from Judge Fred B. Perkins.

Serving as his own attorney, Mastracchio went before Superior Court with a petition for a writ of habeas corpus for his release from prison.

He said two other men had confessed the attempted robery for which he is serving time so he should be freed.

Judge Perkins explained to Mastracchio he drafted the wrong petition because he was not attacking the legality of the trial but was, in effect, claiming new evidence. What he should have brought, the judge said, was "a petition for a writ of error coram nobis."

Mastracchio went back to prison, presumably to draft a new petition.

Stevenson Also-Ran Man, Not Ike's Advance Man

DENVER (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, in obvious good spirits as he arrived late yesterday, addresses a $6-a-plate noon luncheon for Democratic workers today.

"I'm not the advance man for the President—I'm the also-ran man for president," quipped the 1952 presidential candidate, referring to President Eisenhower's prospective Colorado vacation.

Stevenson is stopping here for 26 hours en route to Alaska. He leaves by plane for Portland, Ore., late today.

Belton said there is still room for anyone interested in the course. Further information may be obtained by phoning the department office, OR 3-9152.

Belton also announced that registration for day camp in the Highland Recreation area is still open. The camp will begin next week and continue through Aug. 6. Buses will pick up and return the enrollees.

Mundt Opposes GOP Proposal

Says Possible Curb on One-Man Hearings Is Dangerous

WASHINGTON (INS)—Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD), opposed as "dangerous" today a proposal by Senate Republican policy makers to curb so-called "one-man hearings" in the future.

The second-ranking member of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's investigations subcommittee said he disagrees with this and one other of the nine changes recommended by the GOP Policy Committee.

Sens. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich) and Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash), who also are on the McCarthy unit, said they approve generally the proposed changes.

Jackson said "The problem still is enforcement" but he added: "The policy committee should be commended for their effort to find a solution."

Mundt objected to this group's suggestion that committees be authorized to hold hearings only if a quorum is present, with the option of voting to make one majority and one minority member a quorum.

He maintained this "would get a dangerous precedent and give a Russia-type veto to the minority" since by simply staying away the minority party could prevent a quorum and block a hearing.

The proposal, an apparent outgrowth of objections to a provision for a one-man quorum on McCarthy's and other committees, was described by Mundt as a step toward "government by absenteeism."

Mundt also opposed the policy unit's proposal that "no investigation shall be initiated unless the Senate or the full committee having jurisdictioin has specifically authorized such investigation."

He contended that if inquiries have to be announced in advance, "It would involve smearing a lot of people in public" before their innocence could be established in preliminary checks. Jackson agreed that this proposal "may be too stringent."

Flood Victim Never Thought It Could Happen

By ROBERT H. JOHNSON JR.

PIEDRAS NEGRAS, Mex. (AP) — Emilio Sandoval sat slumped in a straight-backed chair in the doorway of his ruined hotel. He rubbed the three-day stubble of black and gray on his jaw and glanced back at the bare room, at the warped boards cluttering the stone floor, at the five-foot water mark on the walls.

"You will forgive me, please, if I don't get up," he said.

* * *

His clenched fist made a circular motion over the pit of his stomach.

"I am upset by this," he said. "I have a bad feeling in here."

Monday night Sandoval had been hurrying to clear the lobby of his hotel before flood waters moved in. He was trapped in the hotel when the rising water took a sudden surge.

* * *

"I never thought to see it happen," he said. "Nothing like it ever happened before — to see the water racing down that street."

That is why Sandoval is like most of the living and the dead in Piedras Negras — they never thought to see it happen.

Now the border sun bakes the caked mud in the streets and shimmers off the foul waters still standing in many places. There is no water system left in the town of some 35,000 across the Rio Grande from Eagle Pass, Children squat and scoop water out of the streets to quench their thirst, and old women bending double to wash their clothing in the pools bring it up coated with slime.

* * *

Across the border south Texans have gathered up donations of food and a helicopter assigned to the Red Cross by Gary Air Force Base, San Marcos, Tex., brings it across, trip after trip. But the only distribution system is to pile the food in pickup trucks and drive it to camps that sprawl squalidly over the hills around town.

Mexican authorities bring in tank trucks full of pure water from inland towns but there isn't enough to go around.

Detroit School Head Given Salary Boost

DETROIT (AP) — Arthur M. Dondinau, superintendent of Detroit Schools, has a pay raise Thursday. His new three-year contract calls for a $5,000 increase to $25,000 a year. It matches the pay of Mayor Cobo, making them the two highest paid public officials in Michigan.

Wild Cherry Leaves Cause Cattle Deaths

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Wilted leaves from the wild cherry tree were named as the culprits in the recent death of three Hereford steers, on a nearby farm.

Dr. Ted Jackson, veterinarian, perfomed a post-mortem, and said death was due to the wilted leaves. He said the wild cherry leaves are not normally dangerous, but wilting causes a toxic effect.

He urged farmers to keep broken and low branches out of reach of cattle.

Sir Richards Says He Isn't Retiring

LONDON (AP)—Sir Gordon Richards, who at 50 has won more races than any other jockey in the world, will retire in November and become a trainer the London Daily Express said today.

Richards has ridden nearly 4,900 winners since 1921.

Later, however, Sir Richards denied he planned to retire in November. "This is fantastic," he said.

Young Brothers Drown in Lake at Vicksburg

VICKSBURG (AP) — Dickie Randall, 13, and his brother Paul, 6, drowned Thursday in Sunset Lake within the city limits. Police said the boys were fishing from a Grand Trunk Railway bridge when Paul fell into the water.

Dickie dived in after him, but neither could swim. Dennis, 7, another brother ran for help. Larry Clubb, 15, arrived too late to save the boys but recovered their bodies. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Randall.

Pontiac Area Reservists Training at Camp McCoy

ON FIRING LINE — Reservists of Pontiac's 703rd Tank Battalion man these tanks on the firing line at Camp McCoy, Wis. The civilian-soldiers have joined other Organized Reserve Corps units of the 70th Infantry "Trail Blazer" Division commanded by Brig. Gen. Clyde E. Dougherty. They started a two-week summer training program Sunday in the vast military camp near LaCrosse, Wis. Pontiac Press Photos

By WILLIAM H. THOMAS

CAMP McCOY, Wis.—The 703rd Tank Battalion with members from the Pontiac and Detroit areas stepped with enthusiasm into its first week of a two-week training program despite a tiring 20-hour train ride to this huge camp.

The civilian-soldiers joined other organized reserve corps units which make up the 70th Infantry "Trail Blazer" Division commanded by Brig. Gen. Clyde E. Dougherty.

Men of the 703rd completed the transition from civilian to military life with exceptional dispatch, said Lt. Col. Lloyd A. Gabler of Royal Oak, battalion commander.

The new recruits seem to be taking to military life with interest and anticipation. There are 18 recruits among the 84 officers and enlisted men, and the new men seem to have more energy when training finishes at night than they started with in the morning.

Locating barracks and training areas, the issuing of clothing and equipment, and the coordination of training have kept all of the reservists busy. Training started an hour after the men arrived Sunday, with a course in map and compass reading. Instruction also was given in the .45 caliber pistol and submachine gun and the men have fired both the .45 and .30 caliber machine guns.

Communications and tank driving will be taught as well as firing of the tanks' heavy guns.

Intensive training in this camp about 30 miles east of La Crosse will end at noon Saturday for the long Fourth of July weekend. Special programs to entertain the men have been set up. Men of the 703rd will take over a top-rated lake recreation area on the post for weekend relaxation.

A planning committee has a program ready for those who do not wish to travel to one of the many scenic spots which dot the surrounding countryside.

Next week the battalion will take to the field for maneuvers and tactics of the tanks, which have been nursed into good working condition this week by the maintenance section headed by Sgt. 1.C. Thomas Pappas of 229 Elm St., Pontiac.

Saturday morning the men will prepare for their first inspection which will be followed by a colorful dress parade to be reviewed by Gen. Dougherty. The Michigan minute-men wind up their training at Camp McCoy on July 10.

MACHINE GUN CLASS—Sgt. John E. Lupulm of 9120 Dixie St., Redford Township, a member of the 703rd Tank Battalion, teaches a class in machine gun assembly to a group of the reservists taking summer training at Camp McCoy. Instruction is given in various weapons during the two-week course.

CHECK MESS GEAR—Checking mess gear at the 703rd Tank Battalion's annual summer training program are (left to right) Pfc. Lyle E. Phillips of Grand Rapids; W. O. Harold J. Stepka of 486 S. Broadway, Lake Orion; Sgt. 1 C Frank E. Newman of 3113 Oakshire Ave., Berkley, mess steward, and Sgt. William D. Wingo of Mount Clemens. All are members of the 703rd except for Phillips who belongs to the 333rd Infantry Regiment.

ON TARGET—First Lt. Donald P. Robinson of 1815 W. Wattles Rd., Birmingham, instructs Cpl. Charles W. Peckham, 10 S. Sanford St., Pontiac, on use of the sighting bar. The sighting bar simulates the sights of a rifle and is used prior to actual rifle-range practice.

Law School Graduates to Take Oath

Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick will preside Tuesday at admission ceremonies for law school graduates from Oakland County who successfully passed the Michigan State Bar examinations in April.

Federal Judge Arthur F. Lederle of Detroit will also be present as representative of the federal court system, the first time a federal judge has been present at county swearing-in ceremonies.

Twelve county residents are eligible for admission, according to attorney Carl F. Ingraham, chairman of the qualifications and admissions committee of the Oakland County Bar, who is acting as master of ceremonies.

Ingraham said both judges and Gilbert H. Davis, president of the county bar association, will address the new lawyers.

Each attorney will take his oath of allegiance to the state constitution separately, beginning at 11 a. m., Igraham said.

Liquor Control Head Can't Start New Job

LANSING (AP)—George J. Burke, chairman of the State Liquor Control Commission, must wait a few weeks before he steps into the better paying job of business manager for the commission.

Arthur G. Rasch, State Civil Service Director, announced that Burke had placed first in Civil Service examinations for the $11,000 a year position.

The remaining two liquor commissioners were all set to appoint him, but Gov. Williams put on the brakes.

He asked Burke to remain as chairman at $9,000 a year until he could pick a successor on the commission.

The commission picked Burke as business manager on a provisional basis last May when Harold M. Kinder, former Flint city manager, resigned to accept a position with a distilling company.

Republican Sen. Hugh Butler Dies

By DONALD SANDERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Hugh Butler of Nebraska died at the age of 76 last night, the fourth U. S. senator and the second from his state to succumb this year.

Butler, who had been elected to his third six-year term two years ago, suffered a stroke Wednesday night. He was taken to the naval hospital at nearby Bethesda, Md., yesterday morning and died there about 11:30 p.m. last night.

* * *

The day before he had been active in the Senate, apparently in good health.

* * *

A former grain dealer, he was a strong campaigner who defeated several governors in his various campaigns for the Senate. He was active in Rotary and the Congregational Church.

His wife and two children preceded him in death.

Sen. Eva Bowring (R-Neb) announced his death in the Senate, working late on a big tax revision bill, and it immediately recessed out of respect. Mrs. Bowring is serving by appointment, filling the vacancy created April 12 when Republican Sen. Dwight P. Griswold died, also after a heart attack. Griswold was 60.

* * *

Two other senators have died this year: Clyde R. Hoey (D-NC), 76, and Lester C. Hunt (D-Wyo), 61. Hoey suffered a heart attack; Hunt shot himself.

* * *

And three Senate members of the 83rd Congress died last year: Willis Smith (D-NC), 65, Charles W. Tobey (R-NH), 65, and Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), 63.

Butler's death will not affect the Senate lineup, now 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats and 1 independent. Gov. Robert Crosby of Nebraska is a Republican and will appoint a Republican to serve until the November election.

Crosby, who said at Omaha that "all of Nebraska is shocked and saddened" by news of Butler's death, is a candidate for the GOP nomination for a full Senate term for which Griswold had planned to run. Mrs. Bowring is not a candidate.

* * *

The governor did not discuss possible choices.

Still another Nebraska senator, Kenneth S. Wherry, died in November 1951 and Griswold had been elected to serve out his term.

Butler, a quiet-spoken man with white and wavy hair, was a native of Missouri Valley, Iowa, and a graduate of Doane College at Crete, Neb. He had served as chairman of Doane's trustees.

As a young man, he was a construction engineer, later a miller, and then a partner in an Omaha grain firm. He was a former president of the Omaha Grain Exchange and of the National Grain Dealers Assn.

Among Senate Republicans, only two outranked him in seniority: Senators Bridges (NH) and Wiley (Wis). Butler was chairman of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee and served on the Finance Committee. He was also chairman of the group which assigns GOP senators to committees.

He played a major role in the campaign of Hawaii for statehood.

200 County Children Looking Forward gs at Camp Oaklandto Two-Week Outin

More than 200 underprivileged children in Oakland County can look forward to two-week summer vacations this year at Camp Oakland, about one mile south of Oxford, beginning next Thursday.

Formal opening of the camp is set for that date and 50 needy children will be transported to specially constructed cabins on the shores of 55-acre Handsome Lake.

James R. Hunt, director of Children's Services for Oakland County, said three 16-man cabins already have been erected for use by the youngsters from six to 15 years of age.

West Pontiac Kiwanians are also building another cabin which they hope to have completed before the summer's end, Hunt said.

Groups of 50 will receive two-week vacations during the summer and children from the Oakland County Juvenile Home will be brought to the camp daily to enjoy summer activities.

Oakland County service clubs are donating funds to operate the summer camp, Hunt said, and members of the Juvenile Court staff, college students, children's home personnel and other volunteers will act as supervisors and advisers throughout the summer.

Activities include swimming instructions three times daily, handicraft courses, archery, boating, fishing, nature study and overnight camping, according to Hunt.

In addition to this, the youthful vacationers will be asked to help with the daily chores which include washing their own dishes and working on police details to keep the camp clean.

Hunt said each group also undertakes a project during its stay which is designed to increase the camp's facilities and usefulness. Some of the projects already completed include outdoor fireplaces, clearing paths to the swimming areas and making bridges across ditches.

The summer camp facilities are located across the lake from the camp's main building which houses year - round occupants participating in a permanent farm program.

Most of the children cared for during the two-week periods are referred to the county group by social aid offices, visiting teachers, welfare and health departments, nurses associations and school districts, Hunt said.

License Appeal Board Set Up

Revocation Hearings Scheduled for 1st, 3rd Thursday Each Month

A three-man board has been set up in Pontiac by Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary to hear appeals on license revocations the first and third Thursday of each month, it was announced today by Thomas Range, chairman of the license appeal board.

Range said he and Charles Thomas, an attorney general's representative, hear the appeals with a member of the Pontiac Police or Oakland County Sheriff's Departments beginning at 9 a. m.

Range said the bureau was set up because of the increase in population in the county and because too many persons were appealing through Circuit Court rather than going to Detroit.

"This will make it a great deal easier for persons to request an appeal hearing," Range said, "and Cleary set the office up for their convenience."

Hearings are scheduled every 15 minutes and Range said the board could probably dispose of 35 hearings at a session.

Appeals are heard on the fifth floor of the Courthouse Annex at 1 Lafayette St. The next hearing date has been set for July 8.

Mrs. Armstrong, a resident of this central Michigan village for 70 years, reads only the headlines of the newspaper before she retires at 8 every evening. She reads the stories next day.

Mrs. Armstrong has four children, 19 grandchildren, 38 great-grandchildren, and 13 great-great-grandchildren.

Senators Vote Down Tax Cut

Bill Would Have Given $20 Reduction for All Taxpayers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Ferguson and Potter (R-Mich) Thursday voted against a tax bill amendment by Sen. Long (D-La) to provide a $20 reduction in income taxes for all taxpayers. The Senate rejected the amendment 50-33.

They also voted against an effort by Sen. Morse (R-Ore) to knock special depreciation provisions for business from the tax revision bill. The Senate defeated it 60-20.

They voted in favor of an amendment by Sen. Johnson (D-Colo) partially knocking out the administration's proposal to ease taxes on corporation dividends. The Senate approved the amendment 71-13.

Both Ferguson and Potter voted against an emendment to the tax revision bill that would have knocked out a section exempting life insurance proceeds from estate taxes under certain conditions. The measure failed 60-23.

Wheat Farmer Will Need Card

Crop Cannot Be Sold if Marketing Ticket Is Not Obtained

Farmers who have a 1954 wheat crop will need a marketing card before any of the crop can be sold, reminds Walter H. Cook, manager of the Oakland County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office.

Cook says the cards may be obtained in person at the office, 320 Hubbard Bldg., 18 S. Perry St., by calling the office, at FE 2-8533, or by sending in a signed letter of application.

Those eligible for the cards are those farmers who conformed to their acreage allotments or who have not planted more than 15 acres of wheat.

Farmers who have been informed that they have excessive acreage and those who exceeded the 15 acres, but have reduced their acreage by plowing down, mowing or pasturing excessive acreage may also apply for the cards, Cook adds.

Those who have not complied or who have not had fields of wheat measured must apply to the county ASC office to have the necessary papers filled out before they can sell any wheat from the 1954 crop, according to Cook.

HAPPY COMBINATION — Mrs. W. Ross Thompson of 25 Eileen Dr., Bloomfield Township, likes to combine flowers from her garden with the ceramics she creates. And abstract totem pole, which won her an honorable mention at a recent exhibition, forms a grouping with some of the roses she cultivates. She is a careful gardener, emphasizes quality rather than quantity.

Perfection Is the Keynote for Colonial Hills Garden

By WILMA GREENWAY

Perfection is the keynote for gardening at the Colonial Hills home of Mrs. W. Ross Thompson.

The garden area is not large in the half-acre plot which surrounds the home Ross Thompson built himself at 254 Eileen Dr., Bloomfield Township. That's because petite, tawny-haired Jane Thompson digs up just about as many plants as she grows.

"I'm ruthless," Jane admits. "I don't want a lot of flowers. But what I do have, I want just so. If they don't measure up, out they go!"

Mrs. Thompson, who combines gardening with a talent for ceramics, likes to use pottery she has designed herself to hold her lovely blooms.

"But I seldom pick my flowers," she says. "The house has wide, deep windows and the garden plots are located to permit a view of the flowers from every room. As long as we can enjoy them in their natural state, why cut them?"

Roses and iris are Mrs. Thompson's specialties, although a back patio boasts big double tuberous begonias in several varieties. And neighbors insist she has the largest castor - beans in the county, with leaves up to 24 inches in diameter and stalks like young trees.

Jane has a gentle smile for those who think iris are inexpensive.

"You can pay as much as $20 for a single rhizome," she says, but admits she hasn't tried her husband's patience by going quite that far. She does have over 20 varieties of iris though, many of them uncommon types. Currently she is playing with the idea of studying methods of hybridizing, and saving money by developing her own varieties.

The roses, now in full bloom, are of course taking top billing this month, Jane is eloquent on the care roses require:

"They must be fertilized three or four times a year, but if you fertilize at the wrong time, you're in for trouble. Roses are susceptible to a host of diseases, to chewing and sucking insects — and if they get a fungus disease such as black spot, watch out!

"If it doesn't rain, the buds blast. If it does rain, they get mildew. If you cut a bloom in the wrong place, the branch stops growing."

Still, she thinks they are worth the trouble. She uses a combination of three liquid sprays to guard against aphids, black spot and other diseases. Plants are sprayed weekly and 24 hours after each rainfall.

Her beds are rock - bordered and raised about four inches above the ground to keep the weeds out. Blooms are carefully cut just above a five-leaf grouping to maintain growth.

Jane defies tradition by planting new bushes in the fall. Other rose gardeners tell her it won't work, but she continues to do it and gets superior results.

"If they survive, I get earlier blooms," she says. "So far I've only lost one plant, and that was a bush my husband mulched for me. He mulched only with straw, and the mice took over and girdled the bark."

In the fall, old bushes are cut back and new bushes planted. They are protected with straw and covered over with a thick layer of dirt. This is done to keep the ground frozen, to prevent the destruction that alternate freezing and thawing can cause. In the spring the new bushes have their head start.

Mrs. Thompson purchases her roses by the number of petals, insists on 40 to 60 petals so that the opened flower will not show the seeds. She has many varieties, all hybrid teas with the exception of the Rosa Rouletti, a delicate miniature Swiss rose with flowers so small that a thimble could serve as the vase for its tiny blooms.

Jane's favorite is one she has never seen duplicated — a true gray rose with a seashell blush, appropriately named "Gray Pearl."

There is one thing Mrs. Thompson expects never to achieve, and that is the "professional touch." She's stubborn about it.

"A truly expert rose grower always winds up growing single petaled flowers," she says. "And I don't like them.

"Guess I'll remain just an amateur!"

Agent's 4 Tips to Better Lawns

Watering and Mowing, Control of Crab Grass, Weeds Important

Though most folks don't show too much concern about their lawns after the first frenzied months of spring activity, they really should.

That's this week's word from Edmond W. Alchin, Oakland County agricultural agent.

Agent Ed says summer care is important in determining just how big a job you'll have with the lawn next spring. He offers four hits guaranteed to help grow better lawns.

First, he says, put on enough water so that the soil is wet to a depth of four to six inches.

Second, apply water only once or twice a week. "Continual wetting in hot weather makes an ideal condition for the development of bacterial root rots and diseases of lawn grasses," Alchin says.

Third, he advises, don't overmow the lawn after July 10.

"Normally, grass goes dormant in July and August and will therefore not need mowing," he explains. However, he adds, moisture should continue to be applied during this period.

Fourth, control crab grass and weeds in the lawn. "Unlike the lawn grasses, they will thrive and grow well during the hot summer months," Alchin points out.

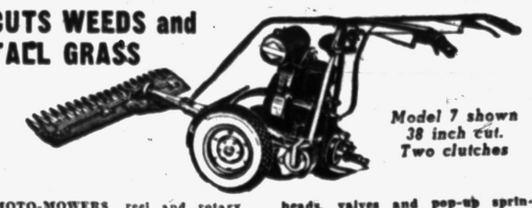

Of the several new carb grass control measurers now on the market Alchin recommends the chlordane-based variety. "Crab Herbicide-1 is another good product," he says.

"Above all else, remember that crab grass is an annual grass which reproduces each year from seed. Keep patches of crab grass clipped and remove clippings and burn them."

By following these recommendations, Alchin says home owners will find that their lawns will be more beautiful and more healthy annually.

2, 4-D Removes Lawn Weeds

For Best Results, Apply Once in Spring, Again in Summer

By RAYMOND C. KELLER
Parks and Recreation Dept.

How well I can remember spending long hours crawling about my father's lawn with a small weed digger digging up the dandelions, buckhorn, plantain, and other obnoxious weeds that wern't supposed to be there.

How lucky we gardeners of today are when in just a few minutes we can mix up a batch of 2, 4-D in water and spray it on the lawn doing the job it used to take hours to complete.

While it won't solve all your weed problems, 2, 4-D will overcome most of them. It will kill most of the broadleaf weeds without harming the grass.

If you like white clover in your lawn it will knock it down as it does weeds but under normal applications the clover will come back up from the roots.

Always remember that 2, 4-D will kill almost all broadleaf plants, and this means flowers, vegetables, shrubs, and small trees too, so be sure that no spray gets on plants that you want, for even in a light breeze, it will drift many feet.

For best results on the lawn a light application in spring and again in the fall will give good control. It kills slowly in cool weather and it may take a week before you see result of your work.

It kills completely, though, by traveling even to the small roots which cannot then sprout up again. For summer weeds or weeds in vacant lots, such as chicory, ragweed, cow parsnip, and dock, best results are obtained right now while the weeds are growing strongly or just before they bloom.

Even poison ivy can be controlled by doubling the dose without seriously harming the grass below. Too heavy a dose will turn your grass yellow and sickly for a while but it will come back later from the roots. This does not include the bent grasses which cannot be sprayed without grass damage.

The weed-killer, 2, 4-D, can be bought in either the ammine acid or the ester form. For most purposes the acid is the safest to use and will do the job. For special weeds the ester must sometimes be used but remember it is much stronger and potent if near valuable plants.

One last reminder—always read the container directions first and apply accordingly.

Poison Ivy Controlled

Poison ivy — ground plant, trailing vine or climber — can be controlled with ammonium sulfamate, 2, 4-D or 2, 4, 5-T or a mixture of the two esters.

Michigan is expected to harvest about 60,000 acres of potatoes in 1954 or nearly the same as 1953.

Yanks Sit Back, Watch Tribe, Hose Fight it Out

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sportswriter

The time has come for the New York Yankees to sit back and watch Cleveland and Chicago knock each other around long enough for the Yanks to slip into the American League lead.

It may not happen that way, but there never will be a better opportunity.

* * *

Here's the situation for the next 10 days in the American League.

Cleveland, now leading by three games, has to play the second place White Sox eight times between tonight and a week from Sunday.

During the same spell the Yankees will be meeting fifth place Washington in seven games. And right here may be the kicker. The Yanks should win most or all of those games, but there is no certainty that they will. So far, the Senators steadfastly have refused to play dead for the New Yorkers. In fact, they've won five of the nine times the two have met.

Cleveland and Chicago have met eight times with the White Sox winning five. If they maintain this average the Sox will gain only one full game on the Indians. They'll still trail Cleveland by two.

* * *

But the path would be open for the Yankees. If they could win their seven with Washington they'd shoot to the top, a game in front of Cleveland.

A year ago today Casey Stengel's crew had lost nine consecutive games, but still owned a six-game bulge over Cleveland and Chicago. The slide ended at nine and the Yankees coasted home to the easiest of their five consecutive pennants.

* * *

New York was the only one of the American League contenders that played yesterday. The Yankees jumped away to a 7-0 lead at Boston but had to struggle for an 8-7 victory. This left the Yanks 3½ games out of first place.

* * *

In the National League the New York Giants swept into a four game lead by whipping Brooklyn for the third straight day, 5-2. St Louis crushed Milwaukee 9-2 with Stan Musial and rookie Joe Cunningham hitting two home runs each.

No other games were scheduled in either league.

* * *

Johnny Sain, who has allowed only eight runs in 35 2-3 innings of relief pitching, came to the Yankees' rescue in Boston and shut out the stubborn Red Sox through the final three innings. Home runs by Mickey Mantle, Hank Bauer and Andy Carey were the big blows in the Yanks' 12-hit attack.

* * *

The Giants used another of their patented 'late-inning climaxes to hog-tie the Dodgers. After Brooklyn had pulled into a 2-2 deadlock in the seventh on home runs by Roy Campanella and Carl Furillo, the Giants came back with three in the eighth. The first two of the three came as pinch hitter Dusty Rhodes duplicated his game-winning single of the Tuesday night with the bases loaded.

Cunningham, brought up to the Cardinals Wednesday as a replacement for Tom Alston, hit one home run in his first major league game Wednesday night in Cincinnati and drove home four runs with his two blows into the right field seats at Milwaukee yesterday.

Musial's homers were his 25th and 26th of the season.

Football Will Be Continued at Wayne 'U'

DETROIT (AP) — A losing football team, which also lost $34,000 for the Wayne university budget last year, won a vote of confidence and continuance yesterday.

The Detroit Board of Education which governs the school, turned down a recommendation by university president Clarence Hilberry to abandon the intercollegiate football competition after next season.

Abandonment was the recommendation also of the university council, made up of faculty, and the council of deans.

Pre-vote counters said the board of education would vote 4-3 in favor of turning down the sport. But instead, on the vote of William D. Merrifield, the sport was upheld 4-3. Merrifield had previously indicated he was against the sport.

Bengals Visit Oriole Cousins

Hope to Add to Edge Over Second Division in Baltimore Series

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Detroit Tigers hope things are quiet in Baltimore so the wounded can heal and the margin over the 2nd division can grow.

If past history is any safe measuring stick, the Tigers are on safe ground. More than a quarter of their 31 victories this season have come from the Baltimore Orioles.

Tigers have beaten Baltimore eight times against two losses.

Now with two regulars hurt, the Tigers are concerned with expanding their lead over the 2nd division. They are currently in 4th place 16 games behind the league leading Indians.

Only 2½ games behind Detroit are the Washington Senators.

Tigers expect to use Al Aber against Baltimore in the 1st of the three games series tonight. He'll face Joe Coleman.

Jewelers Handed Worst Exhibition Loss of Season

General Motors, 2nd-place team in the City Men's Softball League, handed Shaw's Jewelers their worst defeat of the year last night in the 2nd game of an exhibition doubleheader at Northside Park.

GMC's batters pounded Shaw's Clell "Mutt" Morse for 10 hits, including four extra-base smashes, as they surprised the Jewelry nine 7-0.

Lynus Grant limited Shaw's to four singles, struck out six and issued no walks. Only four Jewelers reached base and only one advanced as far as 2nd base.

Shaw's defeated City Men's League leader Stadium Inn, 3-0, in the 1st game of the twin bill. Glenn "Wimpy" Johnson went the route for the winners, giving up three hits, striking out eight and walking two.

Giles Realty extended its undefeated skein to seven games in Girls' League action, dumping Avondale 5-1. Four players: Katherine McGowan, Learlie McCaughan, Effie Seay and Katy Boykins collected two hits apiece to pace Giles' 12-hit attack. In another girls' game, Shaw's routed Gingellville 17-4.

Tiger 'Farm Hand' Wins a Promotion

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers have announced the promotion of a 24-year-old righthanded Utica, Mich., pitcher in their farm system.

The pitcher, Duane Duke Maas, was transferred from Wilkes Barre, a Class A team of the Eastern League to Buffalo, a Triple A team in the International League. 16-Year-Old Setting Hot Pace as Top Hunt Rider

By H. GUY MOATS

There's a rising young star in the Metropolitan area's hunt club firmament, who has all the appearances of becoming an important figure in midwest and perhaps national horse show events of the future.

She is Mary Lou Wilson, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson, Birmingham.

Mary Lou has already cut quite a swath in show circles in this area, at Grosse Pointe and at Bloomfield Hills Open Hunt. She has been riding two years and is today taking part in the Battle Creek Hunt Club's show. Next week, Mary Lou, photogenic youngster, with an uncanny flair for getting top performances from her favorite mount, Tinka, goes to Milwaukee for a big show.

She will return home for the Metamora show July 25 and Sept. 5-6, at Castle Park and at Holland and Northville in September. After that comes the "big one," the national at Madison Square Garden.

Mary Lou and Tinka have won many events this year. She won hunter championship at Livonia; rode with Grant's champion equestrian team at Northville; won the working hunter class at Grand Rapids and the Michigan Perpetual Challenge cup; won the John L. Booth trophy in junior working hunter class at Grosse Pointe (her second victory in the event); won the American Horse Show Assn. medal class; handy hunter class; junior and senior hunt teams at Bloomfield Open Hunt.

Altogether she has participated in 25 classes and has won 10 of them. She placed in all other efforts she made.

Mantle Takes Over AL Home Run Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees has taken over the American League home run lead from Cleveland's Al Rosen.

Mantle homered in the Yanks' 8-7 triumph over the Red Sox yesterday for his second round-tripper in as many days against Boston pitching. The young center fielder now has 15, one more than Rosen.

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING—Joe Cunningham, St. Louis Cardinals, hit two home runs and drove in four runs in his second major league game as the Cards beat Milwaukee, 9-2.

PITCHING — Johnny Sain, New York Yankees, allowed only one hit in three innings of relief, salvaging an 8-7 victory for New York over Boston.

Memorial Race Rated as Gold Cup Preview

Wheat and Corn Backing Down

CHICAGO (AP) — Light selling entered grains, particularly wheat and corn, on the board of trade today and the market backed down for miner losses.

Soybeans moved against the main trend at the outset. The July contract opened five cents higher and small advances were recorded in the new crop months. But weakness in other pits soon caused selling in beans, cutting July's gain and sending some new crop months under the previous close.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ⅜ to ⅞ lower, July $1.93⅝, corn unchanged to ½ lower, July $1.58½ oats ¼ to ⅝ lower, July 71⅝, rye unchanged to ¼ lower, July 99, soybeans 1 cent lower to 3 cents higher, July $3.78 and lard 5 to 35 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $16.10.

Market Rallies, Up 1 to 4 Points

NEW YORK (AP)—A brisk rally turned the stock market around today after a quietly lower opening and by early afternoon gains in leaders ranged from 1 to as much as 4 points.

Du Pont, which has bounced up and down for a good part of the week, led the advancing shares wit ha gain of 4⅛ at 139. General Motors climbed 2¼ to 76¼.

Mostly higher groups included the steels, chemicals, motors, televisions and coppers. Aircrafts, rails, rubbers and electrical equipments were mixed.

Advancing stocks included Celanese, Western Auto Supply, U.S. Steel, Chrysler, U.S. Rubber, Boeing, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Santa Fe, Mathieson Chemical, Union Carbide, Raytheon, Alcoa, J. P. Stevens, General Electric and International Harvester.

The rally caught brokers by surprise. They had looked for a quiet pre-holiday market with possibly lower prices because of unfavorable Senate action on proposals to ease taxes on dividend income.

RUINS CAR FINISH—Aiding the average motorist to keep the showroom shine on the finish of the family car, General Motors Research Labratories have devised a machine which will age paints, enamels, and lacquers in one-twentieth of the time normally required under the most extreme outdoor test conditions. "Little Florida," as the machine is called, with the help of a 1200-watt mercury arc lamp to simulate the sun and artificial dew, allows researchers to check the durability of automotive finishes long before they are considered for use in production.

Price Support Verdict Today

Compromise Farm Bill OK'd by House Faces Roll Call Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—House forces backing another year of fixed high farm price supports sought to rally their forces today from a surprising initial setback in the battle over new farm legislation.

Both the House leadership and the rival fixed-support group predicted victory when yesterday's House action still tentative, comes up for a formal verdict today.

The House yesterday rejected both fixed high supports and the Eisenhower administration program of flexible supports, and voted for a compromise put forward by House leaders. But the standing-vote decision could be reversed in a formal showdown roll call scheduled before nightfall.

Ninety-two members didn't take part in the standing vote when the House yesterday approved 179-164 a compromise price support amendment to the farm bill offered by Rep. Robert D. Harrison (R-Neb) with the backing of GOP House leaders.

Instead of the administration's program of flexible supports at 75 to 90 per cent of parity, the compromise calls for flexible supports between 82½ and 90 per cent of parity.

Before voting on the compromise, the House shouted down an amendment by Rep. Heselton (R-Mass) which would have enacted the administration program in toto.

The contested price support feature of the bill applies only to six basic commodities—cotton, corn, wheat, rice, tobacco and peanuts—all of which are now supported at 90 per cent of parity.

Parity is a legally set price standard said to give farmers a fair return on their production in relation to their costs.

Still to be taken up by the House, among other things, are proposals to raise dairy price supports from their existing level of 75 per cent of parity to 80 per cent. Secretary of Agriculture Benson lowered the dairy support rate from 90 to 75 per cent April 1.

The standing vote yesterday went pretty much according to party lines, with only about 18 or 20 Republicans voting against the compromise and about as many Democrats favoring it.
