Reuther Sees Progress

Note Optimism in Auto Talks

Draft End Now Would Cost Billions – LBJ

President Comments on Barry's Statement About Conscription

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson suggested today that a quick end to the military draft might cost several billion dollars.

Johnson was asked to comment at an impromptu news conference on a statement by Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate, that ending the draft would be one of his goals. The President then brought up the question of cost.

He said a distinguished member of the Armed Services Committee, whom he did not name, had told him that stopping the draft "would cost several billions more if we acted precipitately."

Johnson went on to say that a preliminary statement on an administration study of the draft system will be available in a few weeks and final conclusions can be expected in early spring.

Much of the 35-minute session with reporters was devoted to a recital by Johnson of his governmental and political philosophy.

TELLS PHILOSOPHY

Johnson deplored any effort to pit class against class and group against group, religion against religion or race against race.

"That must not happen here in either party," he said.

What the country needs most, Johnson said, "is unity and understanding." And he said that all Americans should resist with dedication "the spiritual cancer of hate."

When a questioner suggested that Johnson in making his statements might be jabbing at Goldwater, the President interrupted to assert:

"They were completely without reference to Sen. Goldwater or anybody else in the country except me."

Strike Remains a Possibility on Wednesday

No New Proposals Made; Bargaining Is to Continue Today

DETROIT (AP)—An air of optimism hovered today over contract negotitations between the United Auto Workers union and Chrysler Corp., which faces the possibility of a strike next Wednesday.

UAW President Walter Reuther emerged from a late night meeting of bargaining subcommittees yesterday and told newsmen he detected hopeful signs in the form of a "give-and-take" atmosphere at the sessions.

Both sides insisted, however, that no final decisions had been reached in major matters. Most of the talks yesterday centered around non-economic issues.

Reuther told reporters at the end of a day of morning, afternoon and evening meetings that he was more encouraged than he had been previously over the progress being made in the subcommittees. They are doing "some meaningful work," he explained.

★ ★ ★

John Leary, Chrysler vice-president heading the company's bargaining team, said there were no new proposals from either side, however.

MORE BARGAINING

Reuther announced he was prepared to begin much more intensive and extended bargaining at the main negotiating table today.

Unless the pace is stepped up, he said, "we will have reached the point of no return where there will be a strike—and the time element will be against us. If we don't start Saturday, it will be too late."

The union has singled out Chrysler as its strike target in this year's negotiations with the Big Three auto makers, fixing 10 a.m. Wednesday as the deadline for reaching an agreement at the bargaining table if a walkout is to be prevented.

★ ★ ★

Contracts with Chrysler, General Motors and Ford would have expired Aug. 31, but have been extended by mutual agreement until Sept. 9.

DAILY BASIS

After that date, the Ford and GM pacts presumably would be extended on a day-to-day basis during negotiations — but some 80,000 Chrysler workers would walk off their jobs.

Asked if the union is prepared to spell out its economic demands in specific detail, Reuther replied:

"We are always ready to bargain . . . our willingness is there, if the company's willingness is."

Quiet City Cobbler Lived Frugal Life

By JOE MULLEN

The Oakland Avenue shoemaker was buried today.

Frank Liachomski, 69, who came to this country from Russia in 1932, quietly operated his small shop at 159 Oakland for 30 years.

He died Tuesday. There were no relatives—no real friends.

Liachomski lived in a barren one-room apartment at the rear of his store as though each day was a renewed struggle for a basic existence.

His clothing was tattered and the food supply was skimpy. There was no refrigeration in the small room and an ancient coal stove provided the warmth on winter nights.

Pontiac Press Photo

POVERTY? — A huge kettle, black from use, and a skimpy food supply indicate the poverty-like existence of the Oakland Avenue shoemaker, Frank Liachomski, 69, of 159 Oakland. Nearly $15,000 in assets were found in the same room.

But, it didn't have to be this way.

ASSETS FOUND

Elmer C. Dieterle, appointed administrator of Liachomski's estate by Oakland County, has located nearly $15,000 in assets.

Dieterle, a West Bloomfield Township attorney, said that the deceased shoemaker had approximately $2,500 in cash and $1,800 in postal savings certificates in his apartment.

Six different bank accounts contained over $10,000, Dieterle said.

★ ★ ★

Liachomski had long been a critic of American government. Acquaintances in the area of his shop recall that he often would lash out at governmental operation.

SAID LITTLE

Otherwise, Liachomski, who spoke little English, had few things to say.

★ ★ ★

To date, no relatives have been located. If none turn up, the money will go to the state.

Of Negro Educator

Whites Acquitted in Slaying

DANIELSVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Two white men have been acquitted in the night rider slaying of Washington, D.C., Negro educator Lemuel Penn. However, they still face federal conspiracy charges under the new civil rights law.

Joseph Howard Sims, 41, and Cecil William Myers, 25, heard the verdict last night after a jury of white men deliberated slightly more than three hours.

A gasp and murmur arose from relatives and friends. Superior Court Judge Cary Skelton rapped for order. Relatives of the two men wept. Sims and Myers hugged their wives. They were surrounded by well-wishers.

★ ★ ★

The FBI has identified Sims and Myers as Ku Klux Klansmen.

Sims and Myers now face federal charges of conspiring to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate Penn and two companions.

Penn was killed July 11 by a shotgun blast fired from a passing car. Penn, an Army Reserve lieutenant colonel, and two other Negro officers were en route home to Washington from reserve duty at Ft. Benning, Ga.

The state contended the killing was a senseless deed.

Sims and Myers will remain in custody of the Madison County sheriff until they can be turned over to federal officers. Both are under bonds of $25,000.

★ ★ ★

"We think the bond is unreasonable since the fine for the charge is only $5,000."

MAXIMUM PENALTY

The maximum penalty on the federal charge in addition to the fine is a 10-year prison term. They must be indicted first, however, by a federal grand jury which normally would not meet until early next year.

Asked by newsmen how they could meet the bond, defense attorney James Hudson said, "These boys got a lot of friends, and we do, too."

★ ★ ★

Prosecuting attorney Clete Johnson, who asked for the death penalty, said after the verdict: "I'm disappointed. We left no stones unturned but the jury had the last say."

Deaths Climb Over Holiday

Five Young Persons Die in Oregon Crash

By The Associated Press

The count of deaths in traffic accidents rose with quickening speed today on the first full day of the long Labor Day weekend. The toll climbed to 103.

★ ★ ★

The final holiday of the summer season found clear weather across most of the nation. The pleasant conditions encouraged travel. And heavy traffic increased exposure to danger.

Most of the accidents resulted in multiple deaths.

Five young persons died early today in the head-on crash of two automobiles on US-30 one mile west of Rufus, Ore.

Two men and two boys were killed in a three-car, head-on crash near Ironton, Ohio, early today. One of the vehicles was moving in the wrong direction on four-lane US-52.

★ ★ ★

The National Safety Council estimated that between 490 and 500 Americans will lose their lives in motor vehicle accidents between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday.

Accident Totals
Traffic	103
Drowning	5
Miscellaneous	8
Total	116

A majority of the nation's 83 million motor vehicles are expected to log about 8.6 billion miles during the period, the council estimated.

A year ago, 557 traffic deaths were a record for Labor Day. The lowest recorded toll for the weekend was 246 in 1946.

City School Problem: Keep Quality, Quantity

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final installment in a three-part series outlining Pontiac School District progress and growth, financed by an 8.75-mill tax levy which voters will be asked to renew next month.)

By L. GARY THORNE

Presenting a balance sheet of school operating expenses for the past decade, Pontiac school officials seek renewal Oct. 2 of an 8.75-mill tax levy for another ten years.

The balance sheet, according to Supt. Dana P. Whitmer, reflects "quantity with quality" in local schools.

Quantity comes from the added enrollment — up 5,124 pupils over 1954; added teachers —up 302; and all-around added costs—up from $309 per pupil in 1955 to $477 last year.

The matching quality, he explains, comes not only from new programs, services and facilities, but also from increased teacher salaries and new equipment.

Whitmer points to the changing expenditures of the last decade by showing how the 8.75 mills have been spent.

★ ★ ★

When the extra-voted levy was first spread, the need was for "quantity" changes. Schools were overcrowded, classes were larger, and the need was for more space.

NEW CONSTRUCTION

Thus, the school district constructed 12 new schools, including Pontiac Northern High School, and constructed additions to 12 existing schools.

All this was to update substandard facilities and meet the space requirements of a rapidly increasing school enrollment.

In 1954, Pontiac schools enrolled 16,917. This figure had jumped to 22,041 by 1963.

More students caused other expenditures to rise. For example, the district added 302

Nice Tomorrow; but Rain Due on Labor Day

It'll be pleasant tomorrow, but not so nice on Labor Day. Fair with a high of 75 to 82 is forecast, followed by scattered showers and thundershowers with little temperature change Monday.

The low expected tonight is 45 to 52 with fair skies.

Winds today are west-northwest at 10 to 15 m.p.h. They'll be light and variable tonight and southerly at 15 miles tomorrow.

Today in downtown Pontiac the low mercury reading was 56, at 2 p.m. it was 73 in the area.

Chileans Elect 'Moderate'

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Pro-Western Eduardo Frei, a moderate leftist, rode to a landslide victory last night in Chile's presidential election. His success set back a serious Communist threat to the copper-rich Latin American republic.

Frei, 53, a reform-minded Christian Democrat, trounced Communist-backed Socialist Salvador Allende, who has pledged to nationalize nearly $2 billion worth of U. S. property in Chile and restore diplomatic relations with Cuba.

★ ★ ★

"We have obtained a truly immense victory. I receive this mandate of the people with humility," Frei told cheering thousands.

"Revolution! Revolution!," enraged followers of Allende shouted. They charged that President Johnson and Pope Paul VI had contributed money to defeat Allende, a plump 56-year-old physician who has lost three times in a bid for the presidency.

Allende's opponents said Moscow and Havana had smuggled money into the country for his campaign.

Heavily armed police moved into the streets to prevent clashes between the rival groups. There was no violence.

★ ★ ★

Frei followers celebrated into the night, singing and dancing in the streets. Frei, a senator, will take the government reins Nov. 4 for a six-year term.

Leaders Join Quiet Service for Sgt. York

PALL MALL, Tenn. (AP) — Military and government leaders mingle with other mourners today in simple civilian services for the man whose feats in war made the name Sgt. Alvin C. York a symbol of heroism.

York, a conscientious objector at the beginning of World War I, put aside his aversion to fighting and in the battle of the Argonne Forest killed 25 Germans and captured 132 others.

★ ★ ★

He was given the Medal of Honor, decorated by the French and Italian governments and promoted to sergeant.

Still a legend, he died Wednesday in a Nashville hospital of old age and multiple illnesses.

MOURNERS

The mourners include retired Gen. Matthew Ridgway, representing President Johnson, and Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement.

The family declined offers for state and U.S. Army facilities and made room here for dignitaries to join neighbors and them for services in the Church of Christ's York Chapel where the old soldier once taught Sunday School.

★ ★ ★

The simple rites were believed to be York's wishes.

Singapore Rioting as War Threatens

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — New race rioting flared in Singapore today as Malaysia and Indonesia moved closer to open war.

The rioting, blamed by some Malaysian officials on Indonesian agents, has left nine dead.

The king of Malaysia signed a decree today which proclaimed the entire country a national "security area." The decree permits local authorities to impose curfews and ban unlawful assembly and gives police sweeping powers.

In Indonesia, President Sukarno, who has vowed to "crush" Malaysia, held another emergency meeting with his top advisers. The official "Indonesian news agency Antara said he will make an important announcement soon about the 'present critical situation.'"

SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of the U.N. Security Council will be held in New York next Wednesday to consider Malaysia's charges that Indonesia is committing aggression against the federation. Malaysia has accused Indonesia of backing recent small-scale invasion attempts.

Indonesia's armed forces have been placed on a state of alert.

★ ★ ★

In Singapore, just across the Malacca Straits from Indonesia, Malaysian officials battled against more rioting which some suspected was inspired by undercover agents from Indonesia.

The Singapore rioting, involving Malays and the sizeable Chinese community, erupted during a brief break in the curfew clamped on the city Friday.

15 INCIDENTS

Ten automobiles were set on fire and the government radio reported 15 incidents during the 3½ hour riot. Tear gas was used to break up one clash.

More than 60 persons were listed as injured and 160 arrested since the rioting began Wednesday.

Miller Begins Campaign, Labels Humphrey Radical

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller, formally opening his campaign for the vice presidency, charged today that Democratic vice presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey has a record that is "clearly one of the most radical in Congress."

★ ★ ★

Miller devoted much of his speech to an attack on Humphrey's connection with Americans for Democratic Action, which he termed "unquestionably the most influential organization in our nation's capitol attempting to subvert and transform our government into a foreign socialistic totalitarianism."

Humphrey was one of the founders of ADA, which backs what it considers liberal causes. He served as its chairman in 1949-50 and has been a vice chairman since then.

Presidential nominee Barry Goldwater headed the list of Republicans invited to this western New York city for the hometown kickoff of Miller's campaign.

Goldwater is flying 3,800-miles from Phoenix, Ariz., to appear with Miller. He was to return to his home in Phoenix afterwards.

★ ★ ★

Miller quoted President Johnson's statement that Humphrey is "the best man in America" to be vice president and added: "If Hubert Humphrey, with the program he advocates and supports is the 'best man,' then Lyndon Johnson is the 'worst.'"

'191 TIMES'

Miller said that during Humphrey's 15 years in the Senate, "he has voted the official ADA line on 191 occasions and has bolted on only three occasions."

He said the ADA advocates "diplomatic recognition of Red China," "the admission of Red China to the United Nations," "a total abandonment of the Panama Canal," "that we recognize the permanence and legitimacy of communism in East Germany," "that we re-admit Cuba to the Organization of American States and welcome Cuban Premier Fidel Castro into the Alliance for Progress" and "that we must repeal every single piece of internal security legislation" and "abolish the House Committee on Un-American activities."

★ ★ ★

Miller said the Johnson-Humphrey ticket "advocates programs which would repeal our great American history." He accused the Democratic administration of failure to live up to promises it made four years ago.

No. 1 Leader of U.S. Reds Dead at 74

MOSCOW (AP) — Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, chairman of the American Communist party, died here today after a brief illness, Tass announced.

The official Soviet news agency gave this account:

"An outstanding figure in the American and international labor and Communist movement, Elizabeth Flynn was born in 1890 in the town of Concord, N.H.

★ ★ ★

"At the age of 16, Flynn joined the industrial workers of the world and from that time on she devoted her entire life to the labor movement. At the end of the 30s, she was elected member of the National Committee of the U.S. Communist party and was elected chairman of the Communist party in 1961."

3RD TO DIE

She was the third leader of a foreign Communist party to die this summer. Palmiro Togliatti, chief of Italian Reds, died in Yalta Aug. 21. Maurice Thorez, French party chieftain, died of a heart attack on a Soviet cruise ship crossing the Black Sea toward Yalta six weeks before.

City Schools Seek Balance

OTHER INCREASES

Other cost increases provided added secretaries, custodians, equipment, supplies, libraries, cafeteria kitchens and multipurpose rooms.

Meantime, the cost of living index has risen more than 14 per cent in the 10-year period.

"This has meant that each year it has cost more to do just what was done in the previous year — without any changes or enrollment growth," Whitmer said.

The school chief shows the cost of living hiké through the cost of textbooks.

1954 COST

The 1954 price for a fifth grade arithmetic text was $1.53, while the 1962 price was $2.34. An 8th grade history book cost $2.79 previously and in 1962 cost $3.90.

Since teacher salaries make up about two-thirds of school operating costs, the added teachers and salary increases are big factors in hiking school costs, Whitmer states.

An instructor with a bachelor's degree netted $3,700 in 1954, while in 1963 he received $5,000.

★ ★ ★

"Competition among school districts for good teachers is very keen," says Whitmer, "so Pontiac has to keep teachers' salaries that are competitive.

NOT THE BEST

"Pontiac's salaries are not the best, but they have kept pace with trends."

Another "quality" increase has been added instructional materials and equipment. The amount spent per pupil has jumped from $10.98 in 1954 to $18.55 in 1963.

While costs have increased, local taxpayers have also had to assume a larger portion of school costs. State aid has dropped from 47 per cent ten years ago to 36 per cent in 1963.

★ ★ ★

Despite increased operating costs, Pontiac taxpayers have enjoyed a relatively stable tax rate from 1954-64, Whitmer said.

RATE DECREASED

In fact, he said that the 1964 tax rate of $19.58 is less than the 1959 rate of $19.68.

Since the 8.75 mills is about 45 per cent of the total tax rate for schools, it produces an essential part of the total school income each year, Whitmer concluded.

Police said the cars, which included a 1965 Cadillac, four 1964 Cadillacs and two 1964 Oldsmobiles, were driven around at high speed inside the building and deliberately smashed up sometime between 6 and 6:30 p.m. No estimate of the total damages was available.

One More Witness Remains

Little New in Cuba Travel Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities has completed two days of hearings that produced a spurt of violence, endless harangues and very little new information about student travel to Cuba.

★ ★ ★

The committee's work is not done. It still has to question a witness who was hospitalized after a follower of the American Nazi party had attacked him despite the host of police and marshals in the big committee room.

The United States does not recognize Cuba and prohibits all but officially sanctioned travel to the Communist-governed island.

So far the committee has interrogated a participant, the leader and an organizer of the trip that 84 young people made to Cuba this summer, defying a ban by the State Department.

SAME STORY

All three repeated the same things they had said many times before in news conferences in Havana, New York and elsewhere and continually refused to say much else.

When asked to discuss the intricacies of the trip's financing, their own personal finances, or the part other people played in the trip, each witness invoked the 5th Amendment to the Constitution which provides protection against possibly self-incriminating testimony.

★ ★ ★

On one occasion Friday, however, Albert Maher, 22, of Houston, who the committee said had been described as a millionaire's son, dropped the 5th Amendment protection to answer one question about his personal finances.

Rep. George F. Senner, D-Ariz., asked the young man if he had contributed any money to incite a street riot after the passage of the civil rights bill.

INSULTING QUESTION

"That's a ridiculous question," Maher said, "just like this committee. The answer is no, but I consider this an insulting question."

Maher, who said he was a member of the executive board of the Student Trip To Cuba Committee and had taken part in a similar excursion last summer, denied he was either a member of the Communist party or the Progressive Labor Movement. The committee says the Progressive Labor Movement is an offshoot of the Communist party but tends to follow the Chinese Communist line rather than that of the Soviet Union.

Burglar Nonchalant; Bandits Nonplussed

A burglar with more than a touch of daring broke into the Shamrock Bar in Utica yesterday morning, taking $300 from a cash register.

Utica police said that sometime between 3:30 a.m. and 5 a.m., entry was gained into the building by breaking a rear window.

★ ★ ★

With unusual nonchalance, however, the thief spurned his clandestine entryway and left the scene of the crime by walking out the front door.

The Shamrock Bar is located at 7700 Auburn, almost next door to the Utica Police Department.

Two masked men, armed with a pistol and a sawed-off rifle, walked in the back door of the 48 Club, 848 Woodward at 1:45 this morning.

★ ★ ★

George W. Killinger, club owner, and all but one person walked out the front door before the bandits had a chance to hold up anyone.

They tried to clean out the cash register. The machine jammed.

The disgusted bandits left without sampling the merchandise or paying any attention to the lone remaining customer, said Pontiac police.

Typhoon Rips Hong Kong

HONG KONG (UPI) — Typhoon Ruby smashed into Hong Kong with killer winds up to 120 miles an hour today, leaving behind a vast toll of dead and injured and extensive property damage.

At least 16 persons were killed, 303 were injured and 25 were missing in the storm which dumped at least 7 inches of rain on the city in 24 hours and caused considerable flooding.

Casualty figures mounted hourly.

Ships in the harbor were tipped from their moorings and et adrift.

★ ★ ★

At least two sank from the battering winds and another 10 ran aground. One of the sunken ships was described as a "large essel."

ADDITIONAL CRAFT

An additional 120 junks, achts and "pleasure craft" also were reported to have gone down. Most of those missing were from the sunken ships.

Weather bureau officials said the center of Typhoon Ruby passed 20 miles south of Hong Kong and was roaring off towards the coast of Communist China in the area around the Pearl River.

Minneapolis Will Welcome Humphrey

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey returns to the city he once served as mayor to open his campaign tonight for the nation's second highest elective office.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee will speak at the University of Minnesota, where he was graduated in 1939 after 10 years of Depression-interrupted studies.

It will be the senator's first visit to his home state since last month's Democratic National Convention, where he became the first Minnesotan to win a place on a major national political ticket.

Garner Miller

Service for Garner Miller, 90, of 1007 N. Woodward, Birmingham, will be 1 p.m. Tuesday at the Manley-Bailey Funeral Home, with burial in White Chapel Cemetery, Troy.

Mr. Miller died today after a brief illness. He was a former Troy Township supervisor and clerk, a member of the Pontiac Elks Lodge, Senior Men's Club of Birmingham and Pontiac Historical Society. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are a son, Robert T. of Royal Oak and two sisters, Mrs. Seymour Adams of Birmingham and Mrs. William Willever of New Jersey.

Romney to Visit Opening of New Area GOP Office

The opening of a new Republican headquarters in Union Lake Village Tuesday will be highlighted by a visit and address by Gov. Romney.

★ ★ ★

Romney is expected to arrive in Union Lake at 5 p.m. in a motorcade from Wixom, where he will meet workers at the Ford Lincoln plant.

The new GOP office, located at 1515 Union Lake, will be headquarters for the White Lake-Commerce townships Republican party.

Arrangements have been made for Romney to speak outdoors at the Union Lake Shopping Center.

State GOP Women to Begin Campaign

"Pattern of Victory" is the theme of a massive luncheon program scheduled for Tuesday in Lansing to launch 1964 Republican Women's Division election campaign activities.

Featured speakers will be Mrs. George Romney, Michigan's first lady.

★ ★ ★

Also on the program, Mrs. C. E. Haynes, 33475 Leisure Lane, Farmington Township, will discuss "Grass Roots Organization of Women."

The luncheon is slated to begin at 11:30 a. m. at the Jac Tar Hotel and will feature a style show.

'65 CONTINENTAL — Two models, a four-door convertible and a four-door sedan (above), are offered by Lincoln Continental in its 1965 line. Front-wheel disc brakes are standard. The '65 model sports improvements in engine, chassis and body.

Lincoln-Mercury Unveils '65 Continental

The Lincoln-Mercury Division of Ford Motor Co. today unveiled the 1965 version of its Lincoln Continental.

Boasting a host of engine, chassis and body improvements, including front-wheel disc brakes as standard equipment, the new models will be introduced to the public at Lincoln-Mercury dealerships Sept. 21.

In the Pontiac area, the new Lincoln Continental will be displayed at Lloyd Motors Inc., 1250 Oakland.

The Continental sports a new hood with slightly raised center panel, flush-mounted parking lights and turn signals, and slightly recessed grille with the center portion thrusting forward, giving a new front-end appearance.

★ ★ ★

REFINEMENTS

Engineering refinements incorporated in the '65 model include improved radiator cooling, a new oil filler cap, and a new six-blade, variable-speed aluminum fan for air-conditioned cars.

Transistorized ignition is optional for 1965.

Another refinement is a new integral steering gear. Also, the Continental claims improved riding comfort through use of new front suspension strut bushings which reduce harshness.

★ ★ ★

Lincoln Continental again offers many convenience and luxury features as standard equipment that are extra cost options on other cars.

STANDARD ITEMS

Standard on the Continental are automatic transmission, power steering, power brakes, 6-way power seat, power windows, seat belts and retractors, trip odometer and whitewall tires.

In addition, AM radio with fully retracting power antenna and rear seat speaker also is standard.

'I Think He Wants Us Out'

Pink House Not Pleasing

CARLISLE, England (AP) — Imagine Robert Hodgkins's surprise when he discovered his house had turned a shocking pink overnight.

"I walked out the front door, and there it was, all painted pink," he said.

Hodgkins, 63, called police.

The police investigated and said the house had been painted by John Heaton, 58.

★ ★ ★

Heaton told newsmen, "I painted it pink at 5 o'clock in the morning. It's my house — I mean I own it — and I can do with it what I want to."

WILLED TO HIM

Heaton said his mother, who died last August, willed him the house. He added that he offered to sell it to Hodgkins, but Hodgkins refused.

"As he won't buy it, I've asked my solicitor to put the rent up."

Said Hodgkins: "I think he wants us out so he can sell the house. Now that I know he did the painting there's nothing more I can do. It is his house."

★ ★ ★

Hodgkins and Heaton are brothers-in-law.

Aftermath of Congo Strife

Albertville: Ravaged City With a Dim Future

ALBERTVILLE, the Congo (AP) — In the aftermath of three months of rebel occupation and the vicious battle in which the Congolese Army regained control, his once bustling trade center on Lake Tanganyika is a ravaged city with a dim future.

The lake fleet that hauled thousands of passengers and brought imports from the Indian Ocean for the Congo's interior is sunk or damaged except for two boats reported in Bujumbura. Hulks clutter the harbor.

★ ★ ★

Cotton crops in North Katanga are unpicked and rotting.

Many of the textile mills are damaged. Those that escaped pillaging or battle damage are geared to produce more than one million yards of cloth a month but are producing barely one fifth that much.

Civilians, under the impassive eye of Congolese soldiers, have started looting the railway station.

TRUCKS STOLEN

Arnold Defalques, manager of a building firm, said all of his 38 trucks were stolen. There are only two private vehicles left for the approximately 150 Europeans, mostly Belgians and Greeks. The roads are littered with wrecked cars and trucks, abandoned when they broke down.

★ ★ ★

Many of the Africans who worked in the various industries fled into the bushlands when the rebels captured the city. It is estimated 40 per cent have returned but most of the men are being used to clear debris or build coffins for the dead.

Groups of bodies are still lying in grotesque positions along the dusty roads. The body of a Mulelist warrior, a spear through his heart, serves as a warning to rebels still in hiding. Two other bodies are still tied to a tree.

★ ★ ★

Europeans said countless Africans were executed by the rebels, led by Gaston Soumialof. But the Europeans did not suffer too much until the last few days of the occupation.

AIR RADIO

After an air raid and a mercenary commando attack Aug. 26, 28 Belgian employes of the Filtisaf Textile Co. were taken prisoner and told they were to be shot in reprisal.

★ ★ ★

Marcel Romain, 42, a Belgian who has spent 18 years in the Congo, described the two days he was in prison as "hell." He said 14 men were shut in a 12-foot square cell.

While the rebels sharpened their machetes to scare the whites, Romain said, their leaders organized sporting events between the Europeans. Romain said he was forced to fight a 200 pound man "who beat me up."

★ ★ ★

The Belgians said two friendly rebels helped them escape Saturday, only minutes before the firing squad was to arrive. A short time later the rebels fled as the Congolese Army, under the command of Lt. Col. Etienne Kakudji, arrived.

PRIEST STRIPPED

A Catholic priest, the Rev. Paul Van de Brugge, said the rebels stripped his father superior to his undershorts, lashed him and made him hold a bucket on his head while performing a dance.

★ ★ ★

Maj. Michael Hoare, 44, British-born commander of the South Africa-recruited mercenaries, told of his earlier attack on Albertville.

Hoare said his men set out by boat from Baudouinville, 80 miles to the south. Some of the motors broke down and then the remaining boats ran out of fuel. The men rowed for two days, he said, and landed at the wrong spot.

★ ★ ★

The major said his men met a band of about 50 youths who attacked them with knives, bows and arrows. The attack continued until all of the youths were dead, he said.

★ ★ ★

The mercenaries reached the Albertville Airport early Saturday and in an engagement killed about 30 rebels. Hoare said two of his men, one Italian and one British, were hacked to death. Not knowing Kakudji and his army forces were nearing the city, Hoare retreated for more ammunition and supplies.

When He's Steamed Up

Teen Will Really Roll

LITTLE DOWNHAMN, England (AP) — "What do you want for your 16th birthday?" asked Thomas Mott.

"A motor scooter," replied son Tommy.

"Too dangerous," said Dad.

So Tommy's father gave him a steamroller.

★ ★ ★

"The traction engine's top speed is well under 15 miles an hour. Tommy won't even need a crash helmet for that," the father said.

700 ACRES

Tommy's journeys are confined to their 700-acre farm because you have to have a driver's license for a traction engine just as you do for an automobile. Tommy can't get a license until he's 17.

Trying out his seven-ton toy, Tommy philosophized:

"It's going to be a lot of fun, and after all, anybody can own a scooter."

★ ★ ★

Hunt Jungle for Survivors

39 Aboard Aircraft Down in Brazil Wilds

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Rescue parties hacked their way through the jungle 125 miles north of here today in the hope of finding survivors among the 39 persons aboard a Brazilian airliner that crashed yesterday.

Thus far there have been no reports of Americans aboard the downed plane.

The jet-prop Viscount, operated by Brazil's Vasp Airline, was on the way here from the provincial capital of Vitoria on the coast north of Rio, when it crashed and burned in the New Caledonia Mountains.

An airline spokesman said the plane carried 34 passengers and a crew of five.

★ ★ ★

The scene of the crash was about five miles from the mountain resort of Novo Friburgo, but the jungle in the area was so dense that rescue teams were unable to reach the wreckage yesterday.

STANDING BY

Nine ambulances and a fleet of jeeps from Novo Friburgo were standing by at the nearest point to the wreck that could be reached by road.

Scores of citizens donated blood to the local hospital for possible emergency use.

"We are hoping for survivors," said a spokesman for the mayor of the resort town.

Medical Research Team Links Stroke, Heat Wave

CHICAGO (AP) — An upsurge in the number of deaths from strokes occurs during heat waves, a Michigan medical research team reported today.

★ ★ ★

Because the rise has been noted only in recent years, however, they speculated that modern diuretic drugs which promote the excretion of salt in high blood pressure patients, may play some role.

★ ★ ★

The study was made by Drs. Stanley H. Schuman of Ann Arbor and Charles P. Anderson of Detroit and James T. Oliver of Detroit.

They compared deaths from strokes in Detroit during the hot weeks of May 18, 1962, June 29, 1963, and July 6, 1963, with such deaths during normal summer weather.

FATAL STROKES

They found that fatal strokes rose from an expected average of about 10 per cent of all deaths to an average of 15 per cent during the hot spells.

On a national basis, their report showed, more than 4,600 such deaths above the computed prediction occurred in June and July 1963. These above average deaths were recorded during heat waves in cities along the eastern seaboard and in Kansas City, Chicago and Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Persons 65 and older, representing less than 10 per cent of the general population, accounted for 38 per cent of the excess deaths.

Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, they gave this account:

An analysis of the Detroit figures showed a greater proportion of the excess deaths occurred among the elderly who had been under reasonably long medical care.

LOWER RATIO

But when deaths from strokes were tabulated for the summers of 1953 and 1955, it was found that the ratio was lower than in recent years. Athough July 1955 was very hot with 18 days of 90-plus temperatures, the ratio was a normal 10 per cent. In August it was 1 per cent lower.

The reason, the authors concluded, probably concerned "elements of medical diagnosis, therapy, and reporting which can strongly influence vital statistics."

They pointed out that use of diuretic drugs has been on the increase since the mid-50s, with total prescriptions estimated at 751 million in 1963.

Diuretics and other drugs to control high blood pressure undoubtedly have saved many lives, the doctors concluded. On the other hand, they said, sudden or prolonged periods of heat may require modification of medication that is designed to rid the body of salt.

Couldn't Blame Steel If Inflation Resulted

The Administration well knows that President KENNEDY'S swift action against the steel industry on the occasion of a price increase shook business confidence considerably. It seriously raised the question of Federal impartiality in the free enterprise system, as the steel companies rolled back the increase under government pressure.

★ ★ ★

Now there are murmurs that steel again contemplates a price rise — one to which it is historically entitled and justified by present imbalance between gross revenue and net profit.

The Administration, this time, has moved to head off the advance by letting it be known ahead of time that it would be displeased were the boost to eventuate and thereby, in its opinion, contribute to inflation.

But there is one basic fact about inflation that should not be lost sight of. In the main, governments create it. Governments have complete control over the money supply, and governments create the conditions under which business and labor operate. Further, our government directly regulates wages and prices to a great extent.

★ ★ ★

Yet the Administration has not even reminded the union of its own "non-inflationary" guidelines for permissive wage increases.

Although a rise in steel prices would be reflected in added cost of automotive production, a more severe jolt to the auto industry is inherent in the heavy increases in wages and fringe benefits now being sought by the UAW-CIO in contract negotiations now under way.

Yet the Administration has not even reminded the union of its own "non-inflationary" guidelines for permissive wage increases.

If the Administration is indeed concerned about the possibility of inflation, how does it explain this — and the all-time record pay increase just granted for Federal employes?

Yankee Sale Alarms Professional Viewers

The sale of the Yankees to the Columbia Broadcasting System is providing material for professional viewers with alarm, many of whom are discovering more than a decade too late that baseball may be a sport but it is also in all realism a business, and quite a big business at that.

★ ★ ★

For all the paternalism of the U. S. Supreme Court, the pattern of franchise shifts in the 11 years since the Boston Braves moved to Milwaukee — the first relocation of a major league in half a century — has made it pretty clear that gate-watching owners rule the sport.

The sale does not become final until November. That leaves plenty of time for public discussion, for the review of the transaction asked by CBS, for a once-over by the U.S. Department of Justice, and even congressional intervention, Rep. EMANUEL CELLER (D-N.Y.), has questioned whether show business might replace baseball, day and night.

There, of course, is the rub. Not the size nor the secrecy of the deal. Fans have seen what television has done to wrestling, where not even the pretense of honesty is maintained, and to boxing, which has been ground into the dust. They see what television is beginning to do to golf. Even the most innocent sports enthusiasts remember the rigged television quizzes.

And these fans will be asking, between now and November, whether, in self-protection, CBS's television rivals won't have to buy into baseball. The next inevitable question is: Can baseball be sold into the hands of ratings-hungry programmers who wouldn't know a Texas leaguer from a Baltimore chop?

★ ★ ★

Television excuses violence and hillbilly nonsense by saying it only gives the viewers what they want. What if CBS decides that what the public really wants is Chinese home runs?

Why Was Dodd Called by LBJ?

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — That Alice in Wonderland summons of Sen. Thomas Dodd and Hubert Humphrey to the White House just before the nominating speeches last week is getting curiouser and curiouser.

Published speculations to the contrary, the conservative Connecticut senator was offered neither the attorney generalship being vacated by Robert Kennedy, nor the post of Senate majority whip now held by vice presidential nominee Humphrey.

RUTH MONTGOMERY

This is the word from Dodd himself, who told this correspondent: "The President made no offers to me of any kind, either at the White House last Wednesday, or at any time before or since. In fact, he's never even asked my advice about filling the vacancies."

President Johnson's dramatic summons of Dodd and Humphrey from Atlantic City gave rise to reports that LBJ had offered Dodd the chance to succeed Kennedy in the Cabinet, or Humphrey as Senate whip next January.

Dodd, who first made a name for himself as a trial counsel at the Nazi Nuremberg trials, says the reports are false. A long-time friend of Johnson's, the lawyer-senator said he is as mystified as everyone else about why the President stage-managed that eleventh-hour drama.

★ ★ ★

He said neither he nor Humphrey knew that the other had been instructed to go to the Atlantic City airport, where a presidential plane was waiting to fly them to Washington for a presidential conference.

ASKED THE OTHER

When the two met at the plane, each asked the other if he had been selected as Johnson's running mate. Both replied in the negative.

Johnson kept them waiting a half-hour outside the White House in a parked limousine. He then saw Dodd first, for 45 minutes. What happened during that interval while Humphrey nervously cooled his heels in an adjoining room?

According to Dodd, "the President talked a little politics, but spent most of the time showing me those polls which had him leading Barry Goldwater by a landslide. Then he told me he was still trying to decide who his running mate should be, and hadn't yet made up his mind."

★ ★ ★

Strangely enough, this seeming dalliance by the President occurred only 15 minutes before he told Humphrey that he was it.

AWARE OF SOME BACKING

Dodd said he was aware that some of his backers had been pushing him for the No. 2 spot, but that he told LBJ that he was not, and had never been a vice presidential candidate. He is up for reelection this fall.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

"Three things are necessary for the salvation of man: to know what he ought to believe; to know what he ought to desire; and to know what he ought to do." — St. Thomas Aquinas

St. Thomas Aquinas would never have become the great theologian and philosopher of the Middle Ages had he not lived by that which he wrote. Born in 1225 into a noble family in southern Italy, he studied at the University of Naples and there came to know the Dominicans, a newly founded order of preachers and teachers. So impressed was he with their work that he himself became a Dominican, to the horror of relatives who thought it a disgrace for the son of a nobleman to wear the habit of a poor friar.

His mother and sisters tried to dissuade him, and his brothers took even more forceful methods. They abducted him and took him to the family castle where he was stripped of his habit and imprisoned in a tower for almost two years. They even sent a beautiful girl to destroy his virtue.

His sisters, finally realizing their efforts were in vain, helped Thomas escape by lowering him from the tower in a basket to waiting Dominican monks who escorted him to safety. Going to Paris, he became a great scholar and a man dedicated to the love of God and the eternal search for the divine truth.

Days of All Faiths:

Jews to Observe Rosh Hashanah

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Rosh Hashanah (literally "head of the year") is called A Day of Memorial, but it is really two days. It falls on Monday and Tuesday this year. The Jews, being a little afraid of their astronomical calculations after they left their homeland, decided that to be on the safe side they had better set aside two days for their greater festivals.

(Yom Kippur, which falls ten days from now, is so strict a fast that almost no one could observe it for two days without damaging his health — so it has been kept at one day.)

★ ★ ★

Now that the positions of the sun and moon can be determined with accuracy right down to the split second, one would think it would be easy to go back to one-day observances. And so it would — mechanically. But old customs are not easily abandoned, even when the reasons for them are gone.

★ ★ ★

Rosh Hashanah is the first day of the month of Tishri, which makes it New Year's Day, for Tishri was, in Palestine, the beginning of a new agricultural year. All harvests, fruit and grain were over, and the next seedtime was at hand. And since the Jews in those days lived by farming, the agricultural year was the economic year. This is a realistic way of looking at things. The way a man makes a living is what determines his year-round schedule.

ALL JUDGED TODAY

As a Day of Memorial, Rosh Hashanah is the day on which man remembers his Creator and his creation. Today every person in the world passes before the Creator for judgment, as sheep pass before the shepherd for examination. So it is also a Day of Judgment.

The good are sealed for a happy New Year, the wicked are blotted out of God's book, and those in between are given ten more days (until Yom Kippur) to make amends and reform their lives.

You may also hear Rosh Hashanah called "a day of blowing." This refers to the blowing of the great ceremonial horn, the Shofar, today.

THE SHOFAR

The Shofar is the ancient Jewish ceremonial horn, made from the horn of a ram or a wild goat. Originally, it had to be quite unadorned, but as time went on it could be tipped with silver or gold, and could be carved, even richly, but never painted.

The Shofar was used throughout the year, when its blast announced either the new moon or some solemn festival. But its most important use comes in connection with Rosh Hashanah.

Every day for the past month (the month of Elul) it has been blown, for Elul leads up to Tishri and the new year's beginning, and today it is heard in the multiple blasts that accompany the Rosh Hashanah services.

NEW YEAR CUSTOMS

Greeting cards have gone out to friends by now, expressing the wish that they be "inscribed for a good year" — much as Christians exchange greeting cards at Christmas, though the Jewish cards carry a much deeper religious tone than present-day Christmas cards do.

In ancient times Jews dressed in white.

★ ★ ★

As to foods, the custom is "to eat the fat and drink the sweet," both fat and sweet symbolizing prosperity and happiness for the coming year.

An older custom was to eat meat from the head of an animal, symbolizing the hope that during the next year the family might be in the forefront of good things to come. "That we may be ever the head and never the tail" was the way they said it.

★ ★ ★

Prayers today are, of course, for a good year.

Voice of the People:

'Monetary Ends Aren't Only Reason for College'

"Why bother getting a college education?" There are many valid responses that can be given.

★ ★ ★

"Sympathizer" suggests that since a college education does not result in monetary rewards that are equal to or better than individuals who quit school and go to work in factories or on construction jobs, it is not worth it.

There are also college graduates that have become professionals in the fields of law, medicine, or education, who could boost of even higher wages.

★ ★ ★

The value of a college education does not rely upon the money received by the individual. Such an end is one that may be sought and considered by some people to be the ultimate goal of any education. The wider perspective identifies the value of an education as a process of transformation. In such a process, the individual is changed into a "whole" person.

The formal process of education is a continual widening and broadening of the individual's experiences in order that he might better adjust to our day and age. It furnishes him with the means by which he can launch himself into a lifetime career in which he honestly enjoys his work.

★ ★ ★

I doubt that we will see a steady decline in college enrollments because many individuals still realize that there are goals in life that are greater than mere monetary rewards.

Letters Rebukes Race Fights in Nation

After reading about the fracas at the state fair grounds in Detroit, the trouble in Philadelphia and the various trouble spots in the nation, it occurs to me that the American Negro, while demanding his rights is slowly but inexorably losing his place in the sun that he has fought so long and hard for.

★ ★ ★

There was little to be gained and much to be lost when the young Negro boys allowed themselves to be drawn into or to start the fight at the fair.

Intelligent men and women are working hard to absolve the ancient animosity between the colored and the whites. Therefore, what was accomplished?

★ ★ ★

Instead of rioting around like a bunch of ill-mannered children the Negro might do well to take a tally of the enormous strides made thus far, such as the Bill of Rights, the high places in industry, entertainment, medicine, science, etc. he now occupies. Then, he can sit back and enjoy that place in the sun.

THE PONDERER

Republican 'Interprets' Humphrey Speech

In his acceptance speech at the Democratic Party's convention, Humphrey said that the Democratic Party was the party of hope—hope that the people don't realize a collectivist noose is being cleverly and slowly put around their neck by socialistic ideas (which the Democratic Party supports) until it is too late?

Humphrey stated the Republican Party was the party of memory—memory which remembers the growing scandal, waste, indebtedness, fiscal irresponsibility, bureaucracy, and general immorality of the Federal government since it has been enlarged by the socialists these past 30 years? (No wonder the elephant is the Republican Party's symbol!)

California Dems Plot Revenge

By WASHINGTON STAFF

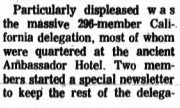

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Miscellaneous notes from the Democratic convention in Atlantic City:

In a convention which lacked even the most rudimentary elements of suspense, delegates spent a good deal of time swapping complaints.

Major topic was hotel accommodations. Stories of outmoded bathrooms, decrepit furniture, high prices, a lack of room service and no air conditioning were plentiful.

Particularly displeased was the massive 296-member California delegation, most of whom were quartered at the ancient Ambassador Hotel. Two members started a special newsletter to keep the rest of the delegation informed of the latest "victims claimed by the hotel."

The Californians blamed their predicament on the Texas delegation, which drew the excellent Haddon Hall hotel.

"Those Texans cooked up some kind of a deal to stick us in a lousy hotel," explained one member, "They claimed we did them dirt in the 1960 convention in Los Angeles.

"We're going straight home and start arrangements to land the 1968 convention for California. We've got to do something to get even with Texas."

★ ★ ★

In a ballroom used for major meetings, newsmen at green baize tables were quietly studying part of the Democratic platform. The silence was broken only by the rustling of turning pages.

★ ★ ★

Suddenly, from a side entrance, came the sound of shuffling feet and babbling voices. Former Pennsylvania Gov. David Lawrence, surrounded by a posse of state troopers and followed by 25 or 30 reporters and photographers, swept through the room at a fast pace.

Blue curtains held up by metal stanchions toppled over and disappeared beneath trampling feet. A television camera swung around to catch the urgent scene.

When it was all over a startled reporter in the room asked: "What was that?"

It was merely Gov. Lawrence, head of the Credentials Committee, on his way to the telephone.

★ ★ ★

Also a prime topic of conversation was the dedicated band of 200 New Jersey state troopers sent to Atlantic City to guard all approaches to Convention Hall.

In their zeal to keep the spectators within the prescribed limits set by the fire marshal the troopers barred several dignitaries from the hall on Monday's opening night.

The troopers' "bag" of dignitaries increased Tuesday night, including Rhode Island Sen. John Pastore, Monday's keynoter.

With President Johnson due Wednesday night, the troopers took no chances. After the start of the session about 8 p.m., no one was admitted, whatever his credentials.

One of the few exceptions was a young man who shoved his way up to one blue-shirted trooper, pushed an identification card into his face and shouted: "Read it, buddy! Secret Service!"

A clue to the eventual choice of Hubert Humphrey as vice presidential nominee was noted by newsmen early in the convention — at the Credentials Committee hearings of the Mississippi delegation dispute.

Committee Chairman David Lawrence acknowledged that Humphrey played a key role in the final compromise resolution. Reporters were well aware of this role.

"When things were going good, it was always called the 'Humphrey compromise,'" noted one newsman. "But when events took a turn for the worse, it became the 'David Lawrence compromise.'"

May Give Gambling Foothold

New Card Game 'Pan' Is the Craze of Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AUP) — This city of fads has a new craze: an easy-to- learn card game which offers the house a take of $10,000 a day. Police fear it may give organized gambling a legal foothold in California and many other states.

The game is called pangulingue (pang-ging-gi), an import from the Philippines via Las Vegas, Nev. Its fans usually shorten the name to pan.

* * *

Pan clubs have sprung up in seven cities and several unincorporated areas of Los Angeles County this summer, and vice-squad officers so far are powerless to stop them.

Two court rulings this week opened the door even wider to pan club operators.

POLICE ACTED

Superior Court Judge Harold F. Collins issued temporary injunctions preventing Los Angeles and Santa Monica police from arresting members of clubs where the game is played.

His reasoning: Pan, never before widely played in this state, is not listed among the games specifically banned by California law. Courts have ruled repeatedly that the state has pre-empted jurisdiction in the field of vice control, and local ordinances can't go beyond state laws and specifically outlaw pan.

* * *

Collins did point out that a Los Angeles club did not have a card club permit from the police.

Appeals are under way, but in the meantime police expect pan clubs to mushroom, reaping millions of dollars pending final determination.

EIGHT DECKS

Pan uses eight decks of cards, with each of five to eight players being dealt 10 cards per hand. The object, as in rummy, is to meld or lay down runs of cards. Each player antes a chip worth 50 cents or more, depending on table rules, and the pot goes to the player who lays down all cards first.

The house does not take a percentage of the pot — this is prohibited by state law — but does collect one chip from each pot as table rental.

* * *

The take is staggering.

Capt. Harry Nelson of the Los Angeles Vice Division says each hand lasts only two to three minutes, and thus one club can collect as much as $10,000 a day, or more than $3 million a year.

CRIME ELEMENTS

"It's obvious that this kind of money is bound to attract criminal elements," Nelson says. "Some people known to have been associated formerly with organized gambling are now known to be associated with some pan clubs.

* * *

"The game, which has been played in Las Vegas casinos for years, recently spread to Los Angeles and probably will spread to other cities and states if permitted."

* * *

Why is pan, an ancient Tagalog game with limited appeal in this country, suddenly catching on in Los Angeles?

"It seems fairly clear that somebody is promoting it," says Nelson. "Operators have found out that it is very attractive to housewives. It requires little if any skill and goes very fast."

MAKING SURE

Who makes sure the house gets its take? The dealer. He's the house man. He doesn't take part in the game; he just sits there collecting chips, dealing and arbitrating disputes.

Operators of pan clubs have insisted in court that it is a game of skill, not chance, and that the clubs therefore are eligible for permits from the Los Angeles Police Commission, which does license clubs playing other games such as bridge.

* * *

Police are expected to oppose any pan-club application for a card club license, but how successful they will be is questionable. Commission rejection can be fought through the courts, taking a long time.

Pontiac Press Photo

CALIFORNIA FAD — The card game 'Pan' has suddenly developed a huge following in the Los Angeles area, causing concern to police over the rise in gambling. The game is won by the player who can lay down rummy-type runs and get rid of all his cards first. The game has been held to be legal by California courts, so far.

U.S. Reevaluating Viet Aid Program

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI) — The United States' multimillion dollar aid program to shaky South Viet Nam is undergoing a critical reexamination.

The new director of the U. S. Operations Mission (USOM), James S. Killen, told UPI that he and other officials were going into the past and present programs "to considerable depth."

In an exclusive interview, Killen said he was not prepared to make any final judgments after being on the job for only six weeks.

But, he said, "if a shift of emphasis is indicated, we will undertake appropriate action."

Killen said he would go over "all major aspects" of the program when he and American Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor fly to Washington.

LATEST DEPARTURE

Their latest departure is scheduled for tomorrow night.

The USOM director, a tall, lean veteran who headed aid programs in Pakistan and South Korea, declined to comment on how last week's governmental upset would affect the current $250-$300 million a year assistance program to South Viet Nam.

"Any American resources put into this country must be extended for productive purposes and must be matched by appropriate action and policies on the part of the Vietnamese government itself," he said.

"Any aid we extend to Viet Nam must be spent on targets and goals that advance the United States' interest, with that of the Vietnamese government —to counter insurgency and to develop a stable and viable country.

CHECK ALL FACETS

"In the short time I've been here, we have been exploring all facets of the American economic program in Viet Nam to ascertain that the program does in fact make a positive contribution to further American objectives."

If Killen's record in South Korea is any indication, the Vietnamese program may be slimmed down, at least in the distant future.

* * *

During his three years in Korea, the aid mission reduced its American employes by about half and cut back local workers from more than 1,200 to about 350.

Need Calcium Diet for Proper Nutrition

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

In a piece about the part played by calcium in nutrition, I said some quondam colleagues would have you think my teachings about this and other aspects of nutrition are pipe dreams, unscientific or quackish.

Years ago many readers informed me that leading physicians or medical authorities (unidentified) warned that "too much" calcium was dangerous — might lead to "calcium deposits" in arteries, heart, joints. Rarely if ever does a physician of standing utter such a warning today. The doctors are beginning to learn about nutrition.

It is not just my notion or theory but the consensus of nutrition and medical authorities that the diet of most Americans provides insufficient calcium to maintain good health.

In the booklet, "The Calcium Shortage," I mention a dozen common complaints which are the manifestations of calcium deficiency and recommend (1) high calcium diet and/or (2) supplementing the everyday diet with adequate rations of calcium and D. Vitamin D is essential for good assimilation and utilization of calcium, no matter whether the calcium is in the form of milk, nuts, cheese or greens or in the form of calcium capsules.

* * *

Please don't tell me you have "tried" high calcium diet and/or taken the daily ration of calcium and vitamin D for three months. If you choose to take calcium tablets without vitamin D you are not following my advice.

NUTRITION

The calcium and D I recommend is nutritional, not medicinal. Leave the administration of medicinal calcium in the hands of the physicians who know what ails you.

"According to Meltzer, the best way to deprive the body of calcium is to give magnesium, and Mendel and Benedict and others have shown that magnesium forces calcium from the system . . ." — I'll name the source of this statement for physicians only. I quote it here to indicate that the frequent use of Epsom salts (magnesium sulfate) or milk of magnesia (magnesium hydroxide) is not as harmless as the old timers thought it was.

To indicate how useful calcium (chloride, gluconate or lactate) is in medicine, a single dose injected directly into a vein may give immediate relief to the pain of lead colic, the colic of black widow spider bite, renal (kidney) colic, biliary (gallstone) colic or the pain of inoperable cancer.

Worth remembering is one of the physiological functions of calcium: it regulates neuromuscular irritability, that is, it moderates or controls excitability of nerve fibres and nerve centers. Thus an adequate daily ration or intake of calcium (and vitamin D) is not only a tonic to the heart but minimizes the likelihood of angina or other coronary accident.

Now if you begin to see what I'm driving at, send me 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and I'll send the booklet above mentioned.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 150 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady. If a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Frisco Wharf Hit by Blaze

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A five-alarm fire hit San Francisco's famed Fisherman's Wharf Friday night and destroyed two restaurants and a marine supply house. Thousands watched.

* * *

About 300 patrons fled the restaurants safely.

Many diners left without paying their bills. A wax museum, which did not burn, evacuated many of its wax effigies for fear they would melt.

* * *

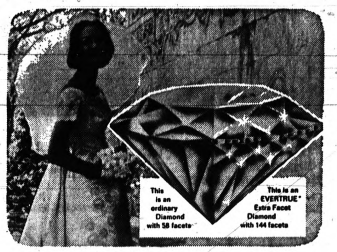

The restaurants which burned were in a single building, A. Sabella's and the Capri Room. Cause of the fire, estimated to have done $500,000 damage, was not immediately determined.

Can't Say I Ever Met You, but the Substitute's Familiar

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — We are truly living in a vicarious society. Ghost writers substitutes, alternates, understudies, proxies, stand-ins and other types of supernumeraries flourish and abound these days.

WEST

I would not hazard a guess as to how far this trend might go, but something happened to me this week that may have reached the perimeter.

A lady press agent called from Hollywood and asked would I like to interview Cara Williams, a television actress who is about to be launched in a new situation comedy series.

As you may be aware, the networks frequently send actors and actresses around the country to talk with television columnists and otherwise publicize new shows.

I don't happen to be a television columnist, but I don't stand on technicalities if I have reason to believe an interview will be culturally and intellectually stimulating.

★ ★ ★

"Is Miss Williams pretty?" I asked.

BEAUTIFUL REDHEAD

"Yes, indeed," the press agent said. "A beautiful redhead."

"Okay," I said, "I'll do it. when will she be in Washington."

"I was coming to that," the press agent said. "This is a different kind of personal appearance tour. Miss Williams herself won't be there."

"How's that again?"

★ ★ ★

"Miss Williams doesn't like to fly, so she is staying here in Hollywood. We have arranged for another redhead to represent her in all the cities she would have visited if she had been making the tour herself.

STAND-IN CALLS

"We will have a redhead in Washington call on you and you can ask her the same questions you would have asked Miss Williams."

"That sounds wonderful," I said. "It should be almost as much fun as peeking through a keyhole with a glass eye."

True to the script, a red-haired young woman came to call on me.

★ ★ ★

"I'm Jackie Parsons," she said, "and I'm here for your Cara Williams interview."

SHE MOONLIGHTS

It turned out that Miss Parsons is employed at the local gas works. She moonlights occasionally, and landed this job through a secretarial agency.

Miss Parsons is not as pretty as Miss Williams' picture, but I doubt that Miss Williams is as pretty as Miss Williams' picture either. In fact, Miss Williams may not be as pretty as Miss Parsons' picture.

A Junior Editors Quiz About FINGERPRINTS

QUESTION: How do our fingerprints tell us apart?

ANSWER: The ancient Chinese knew something of the value of fingerprints, because the Emperor used to sign documents with a pressure of his thumb.

But it was a long time before it was realized that fingerprints were the only certain and absolute ways of identifying people. People may have the same measurements and tatoo marks may be imitated, but the fingerprint record is infallible.

One can't rearrange the ridges of skin on a person's fingertips, and it's a remarkable fact that no two sets of fingerprints have been found which are exactly alike.

Realizing the value of this to identify people, the FBI has made a collection of more than 150 million fingerprints. Servicemen, government workers and others have their prints taken.

To do this, printer's ink is spread on glass, the person's fingertips pressed on this, then rolled from side to side on paper. In criminal cases, unseen prints are frequently left on guns, safes and so on.

Using powders and chemicals, detectives can get clear pictures of such prints, which can be checked against the prints of suspected persons.

There are three main patterns. The "arch" (A) has lines going across; "the whorl" (B) has lines which go around a center and the "loop" (C) has lines making a horseshoe shape.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: If you can borrow a bit of lipstick, you can make your own fingerprints. Spread it on your fingertips and roll the finger on paper.

To Consider Trustee Slots

Waterford Board May Fill Vacancies

Appointment of two trustees to fill board vacancies will be considered Tuesday night by the Waterford Township Board.

The regular weekly board meeting will be held Tuesday instead of Monday because of the Labor Day holiday.

Township Supervisor James E. Seeterlin has suggested the names of Allen Olson, a pharmacist, and Ted McCullough, a real estate man, for the vacancies created by the resignations of John Coleman and Kenneth Preston.

Both Coleman and Preston resigned recently with 2½ years remaining in their terms of office.

Coleman has accepted an administrative school post in New Mexico and Preston is executive secretary of the Saginaw Education Association.

LIBRARY BIDS

In other business Tuesday, the board will receive a report from the library advisory committee on bids for library equipment opened recently.

Also slated for board attention, is the establishement of a salary schedule for members of the township's board of canvassers.

Building Takes Drop in August

Estimated cost of new construction in Pontiac during the month of August dropped more than half a million dollars from July estimates.

There were 185 building permits issued last month for an estimated $499,388 in new construction and alterations, according to Carl F. Alt, city building inspector.

During July, 188 permits issued for $1,164,538, more than $500,000 above the August total.

Of the total for August, $47,000 came through seven permits issued for family dwellings.

The largest single item in August building statistics came from two permits issued for church construction. The cost was estimated at $164,000.

83 HOME CHANGES

Some 83 residential alterations and repairs accounted for $79,947. Six new commercial buildings totaled $93,100, while three commercial alterations and repairs registered $4,000.

A year ago, 157 permits were issued for $454,073 in new construction in August.

There have been 1,285 permits issued through August this year, compared to 1,149 for the same period last year.

However, total valuation for eight months is $7.6-million this year, compared to an eight-month total of $9.7-million in 1963.

Colonies of Society's Lost People

New Kind of Treatment for Addicts

WESTPORT, Conn. (NEA — The neighbors complained at first. Few persons relished the idea of narcotics addicts living across the street.

That was five years ago in Santa Monica, Calif. A man named Charles Dederich rented a house and attracted about him a colony of society's lost people —mostly dope addicts.

He called his hostel Synanon House, a place where men could shake their habit and help each other to pull themselves on their feet.

Nobody really knows what the word Synanon means, but that is not important.

★ ★ ★

What is important is that the idea has grown to include nearly 500 "residents" in five locations.

RECEPTION STATION

These are all in California with the exception of the Synanon in Westport, which is largely an Eastern reception station, from where newcomers are flown west every few weeks.

What goes on in Westport is not unlike what happens at the other locations.

About 90 per cent of the "residents" admitted to Synanon look back on lives shattered by the dope habit. The rest are as badly off. Their careers may have been wrecked by gambling alcohol or other addictions.

★ ★ ★

One 44-year-old man, who we will call Frank, explained what happens:

"The first thing you are made to realize at Synanon is that everyone there has been through what you have been through. So that whoever you meet has sympathy but, at the same time, no patience with your problem. You can't kid anyone.

"You're encouraged to be just what you are. You air your gripes but you don't talk about what a big man you are.

"One thing is understood. To get into Synanon if you are on dope you must kick the habit cold turkey." ("Cold turkey" means instantly, no gradual withdrawal.)

"It does no good to cry and thrash around hoping for a fix," Frank continued, "because someone will just tell you to knock it off. You soon realize that it won't get you anywhere.

"Then you start on the road back."

EVERYBODY WORKS

Everybody works at Synanon doing what he is best equipped to do.

Sometimes a man's special aptitudes are channeled into unexpected directions.

One resident when he was on narcotics paid for his expensive habit by working in a car theft ring. His job then, to spot through binoculars cars with keys left in the ignition or with their windows open.

★ ★ ★

His job at Westport is that of "scrounger." Instead of collecting automobiles he collects food donated by friendly local merchants for the Synanon residents.

NOBODY WASTED

Nobody's talents are wasted.

Some men wash dishes as they may have done "on the outside." Others clean windows.

Frank's regular job was a bridge painter, high above New York City's great rivers. The white paint on Synanon's windows never looked so fine, they said, as when Frank finished painting them.

All who enter Synanon do so voluntarily. However, they are cautioned that once they are in they must make a go of it.

EASY TO LEAVE

"They warn you," said Frank, "that it's easy to leave Synanon but very hard to get back.

The people—both men and women—realize that this is probably the last chance they'll ever have in life. They have to make it work."

For many, the family atmosphere at Synanon is the first they really have ever known. The funds to run this family all come from private donations. It costs about $2.50 per resident per day.

★ ★ ★

After its first five-year test, the Synanon idea seems to be working.

If the plan continues to flourish and if its residents continue to emerge successfully into society, Synanon's methods may supply the answer to one of the nation's greatest problems, dope addiction.

Yet benefits from such programs as Synanon have a way of filtering outward to include those beyond the immediate Synanon family.

As an indication of such widespread benefits, Frank was accompanied by his 15-year-old son, Johnny, as he talked about his "second family," Synanon, in a small room.

Frank was proud of his progress, but his son seemed even more proud.

"Synanon is great, isn't it, dad?" asked Johnny.

Most People Were Dazed, Nervous, Grieving

Psychology Report Describes Reactions to Kennedy Killing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Less than two hours after it happened, 92 per cent of Americans had heard of President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

Of 1,400 adults interviewed, nine of 10 experienced one or more of 15 physical symptoms during the four days climaxed by the funeral.

Two-thirds "felt very nervous and tense."

A majority felt "sort of dazed and numb."

At some period most people — men and women — cried.

REPORT HIGHLIGHT

These are highlights of a report, "Assassination! — how the American public responded," given Friday to the annual meeting of the American Psychological Association.

★ ★ ★

It was prepared by Drs. Paul B. Sheatsley and Norman M. Bradburn of the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago.

"The vast tide of public grief which welled up upon the assassination of President Kennedy — among rich and poor, friend and foe, in all parts of the country — was probably unprecedented in history," they wrote.

They said they regard the public's response to its grief as "a remarkable demonstration of the political maturity and fundamental good sense of the American people."

POSSIBLE RESPONSE

The U.S. public could have responded "in a number of undesirable ways," the researchers suggested. Political opponents could have shown satisfaction. A violence-sated public could have shrugged off the tragedy. Or, "would we have been surprised, when the alleged assassin was revealed as an active leftist with a Russian wife, if the public had responded to the event with a vast wave of anti-Communist hysteria?"

★ ★ ★

The psychologists said, however, "It is gratifying to be able to report that none of these reactions was characteristic of more than a very tiny fraction of the American public."

Most persons said they dropped whatever they were doing to listen to radio-television reports, discuss the assassination or quietly grieve. Less than one in five could carry on normal activities.

LONG FOUR DAYS

In the four days between assassination and funeral, nearly half of the people interviewed reported trouble sleeping. About the same number had a loss of appetite.

"The first reactions of nine Americans out of 10 were of sympathy for Mrs. Kennedy and the children, and deep feelings of sorrow that 'a strong young man had been killed at the height of his power,'" the researchers said.

★ ★ ★

A "great majority" also expressed regret over the slaying of the accused assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald. The report added: "About one-third specifically stated their sorrow that he had been deprived of a fair trial."

Anna Dispenses Last Charm

Sorceress Put Out of Business

MOSCOW (AP) — Anna Shalygina's sorcery business was booming until dissatisfied clients began complaining to the law.

Anna's dealings are described in a law journal. It does not say where she plied her trade, but it indicates her racket is too common in the Soviet Union.

★ ★ ★

Anna during the day was a textile factory worker who always fulfilled her work norms 105 per cent.

After working hours, she dispensed charms, potions and magic incantations. Gullible friends and neighbors paid fancy prices.

SEEKS TREATMENT

Last April, a woman came to her for treatment of assorted aches, pains and hearing difficulties.

Anna demanded 105 rubles, officially worth $112. That is a month's salary for most Soviet workers.

"Isn't that quite a bit?" the patient protested.

★ ★ ★

Anna said she didn't think so and then peered into a nearby bucket of water and predicted her visitor was marked for death.

"Hearing this, the woman wasn't going to argue about prices," the journal relates. "She went home, took the money — all her savings — out of her trunk and gave them to the witch."

POURS WATER

The magic treatment consisted of pouring water all over the naked woman through a religious ikon — all the time muttering mysterious incantations.

After this chilling treatment in Anna's drafty shack, the woman went to bed with a fever. Her sister went to the medicine woman and got her money back.

★ ★ ★

Getting wayward husbands and boy friends to return to loved one was complicated — six treatments with the payment of a fee each time.

Shalygina also accepted payment in kind, vodka — she liked 40 per cent alcohol — flour, sometimes hard to get in the Soviet Union, tea and delicacies.

At her trial, she told the court:

"I, of course, don't believe in sorcery and I have all my witnesses treated at the polyclinic."

Despite her plea that "it would never happen again," Anna got two years.

Nikita Tells Czechs Chinese 'Wreckers'

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Premier Khrushchev, in another scathing attack on Peking, says Red Chinese leaders deliberately are trying to keep the Communist world divided.

In a speech here Friday night, he repeatedly referred to the Chinese as "wreckers" and accused them of "playing into the hands of the imperialist forces."

★ ★ ★

"It is well known," he thundered, "that the leaders of the Chinese Communist party do not want to remove differences."

This was uttered in connection with a statement which chided certain other Communist leaders reluctant to attend a worldwide communist conference in Moscow to settle the Peking-Moscow feud.

ITALY INDICATED

His statements were regarded by political observers as being partially directed at the big Italian Communist party, which Friday released a manifesto of Independence.

The manifesto was written by Italian Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti just before he died last month in the Soviet Union. Togliatti suggested that the world's Communist parties should have the freedom to make their own policies. He also expressed reservations about any showdown conference on the Moscow-Peking quarrel.

★ ★ ★

In an apparent reply, Khrushchev noted that some Communist parties are "expressing doubt as to whether a conference of Communist and workers parties would be useful under the present conditions."

He added: "They are sincerely trying to prevent a schism in the Communist movement and to seek ways to unity. These intentions are good, but to put them into practice it is necessary to get together."

ACCUSES CHINESE

But, Khrushchev declared, the Chinese do not want to end the Moscow-Peking feud. And he accused them of attempting to form some kind of magic circle and blackmail the fraternal parties by threatening them with the rift. Quietly, for some time, they have been preparing a conference of the representatives of the wrecking groups and making every effort to slander the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries.

★ ★ ★

"Things have gone so far that the Chinese leaders are making territorial claims (on the Soviet Union) and one wonders that they do not suggest the dismemberment of the Soviet Union."

Khrushchev also said the Communist rift has encouraged the United States to commit "aggressive actions" against Communist North Viet Nam and affairs of Laos."

Khrushchev spoke on the eve of his departure after a 10-day visit to Czechoslovakia.

Simulated Moon Tests Astronauts

CRATERS OF THE MOON, Idaho (AP) — Three astronauts are making passes at an earthbound namesake of their real desire.

★ ★ ★

It sounds almost like a publicity stunt—picking a lava flow formation on earth called Craters of the Moon to practice landing approaches that will be used when the United States puts a man on the real moon.

But the astronauts say the area in southern Idaho which is a national monument is similar to the terrain on the moon.

★ ★ ★

These three astronauts — civilian Elliott See and Air Force pilots Capt. David Scott and Maj. Edwin Aldrin — are not necessarily the ones who will make the first landings. But what they learn will be utilized.

DARK GOGGLES

They wear dark goggles which are adjusted to simulate various degrees of light. Sometimes the moon is in direct sunlight. The rest of the time the surface is illuminated by the reflection of sunlight from the earth — earthshine.

★ ★ ★

The intensity varies and the goggles simulate this variation. They use T33 jet trainer airplanes with the begoggled astronaut in the front seat.

Somewhere above the moon's surface the astronaut will take over the automatic controls of the rocket.

★ ★ ★

How high above?

That's one of the questions being investigated during the Craters of the Moon project which started Thursday and ends this weekend.

Asks Review of MD Checks

Kelley Action Stirred by Reported Fraud

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley called Friday for "a sweeping review of registration and policing procedures which he said permitted an unlicensed Michigan man to masquerade as a physician for four years without being discovered.

Kelley said he had learned from the State Board of Registration in Medicine that it has only one investigator in the entire state, which has more than 8,000 medical physicians.

Kelley reported Thursday that Thomas M. Novak, 29, of Livonia, had earned $85,000 during four years while posing as a physician.

Novak had no medical degree and apparently picked up his medical knowledge while visiting different medical schools "and simply putting on a white coat to walk into a hospital," Kelley said.

NO CHARGES

No charges yet have been placed against Novak but William P. Long, an assistant Wayne County prosecutor, said he expected to request a warrant next week.

Kelley said Novak might be charged with practicing medicine without a license.

Kelley said the lone investigator employed by the board of registration in medicine traveled 8,286 miles in the last fiscal year conducting scores of investigations.

STILL QUESTIONS

He said there are still some questions remaining to be answered, listing these is:

1. What are the procedures for checking to determine if those who hold themselves out to be physicians are in fact registered?

2. Are the investigating staffs of the proper state agencies adequate in size and training?

3. Are the proper state agencies receiving adequate appropriations for services, other than investigations, or are we exposing our citizens to such hoaxes through false economy?

4. Do the statutes regulating the profession and dispensing of drugs and the punishing of violations need eightening?

Plot to Kill LBJ Was a Hoax

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Puerto Rican narcotics addict who told of a plot to kill President Johnson, triggered an assassination scare at the Democratic National Convention, it has been disclosed.

Although the plot turned out to be a hoax, security measures for the President were unusually strict at the convention. Johnson gave up his usual practice of stopping in crowds in the streets to shake hands.

The first public word of the episode came from Frank Irwin, the Texas Democratic chairman. He spoke before the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Austin, Tex., Thursday and said the incident was "a terrible scare on the last day of the convention."

Irwin apparently did not realize that the alleged assassination plot was a hoax. He said he understood it was discovered when New York City police arrested a Puerto Rican who said he was on his way to Atlantic City to take part in the plot..

A spokesman for the New York police department said the Puerto Rican — who was unarmed—was an addict arrested on a charge of grand larceny last Aug. 11. Eight days later he mentioned the assassination plot.

SECURITY FORCES

Police quickly called the Secret Service and the FBI.

Before the incident was branded phony, it brought memories of an attempt to kill President Truman on Nov. 1, 1956.

Two fanatic Puerto Rican members of a nationalist movement tried to shoot their way into Truman's residence at Blair House in Washington.

Griselio Torresola of New York, was wounded. One guard, Pvt. Leslie Coffelt, died in the gun battle and two other guards were wounded. Truman was not harmed.

A police spokesman in Atlantic City said his department did not hear of reports of the alleged plot until shortly before Johnson was to deliver his speech accepting the nomination. That was Thursday, Aug. 27.

On patrol, wary scout keeps alert for signs of enemy while supply elephant lumbers along.

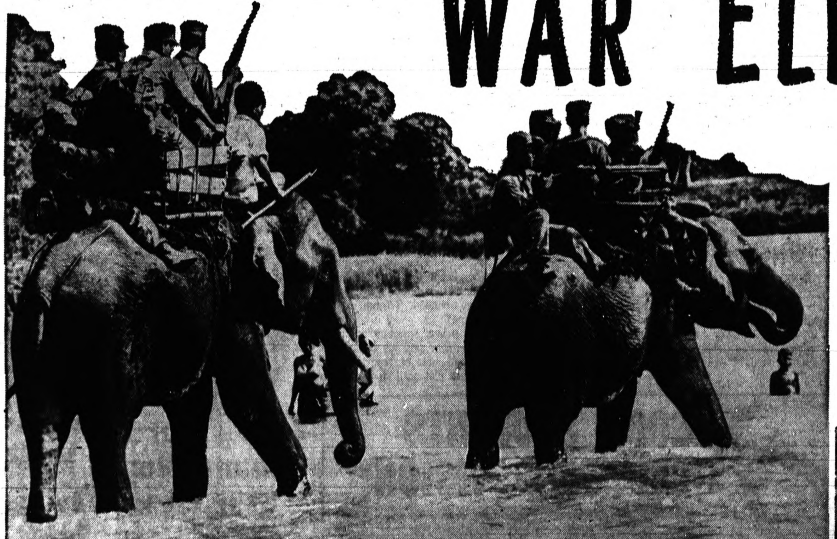

Vietnamese soldier saves footsteps by hitching ride on swaying elephant.

Preparing for week-long jungle patrol, troops load supplies into cargo baskets.

WAR ELEPHANTS

Two thousand years ago, Hannibal crossed the Alps with a vast army and a secret weapon—elephants.

In Viet Nam today, elephants still are being used although the other implements of war have changed.

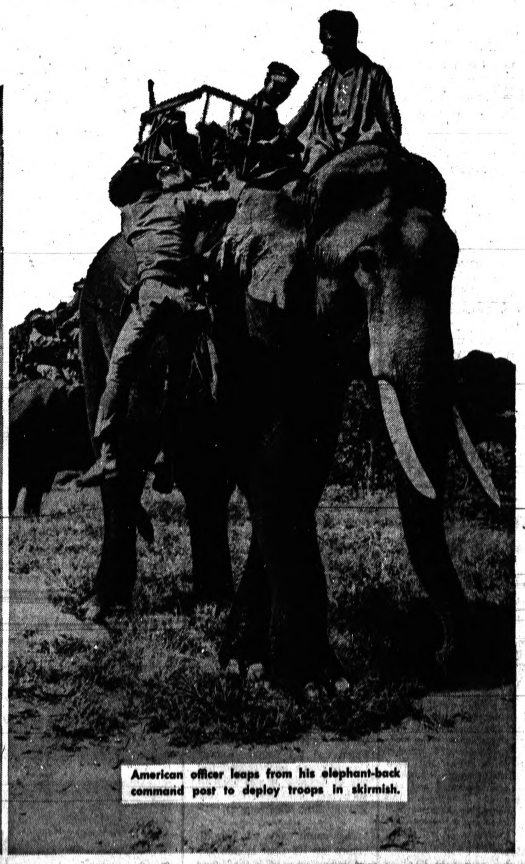

Hannibal used his elephants to advantage in engaging the enemy in close combat. Since an elephant is worth upwards of $300 on the primitive Vietnamese market, they are used only to transport supplies for government troops on patrol near the Cambodian border. The elephants are rented by the government from Vietnamese merchants for $2 per day. The price includes a civilian elephant driver.

Each elephant can carry up to a ton of supplies. This is far cheaper than using helicopters to supply the small patrols. The elephants are valuable from a military standpoint because they do not get bogged down on the muddy narrow jungle trails.

Neither are they grounded by bad weather during the rainy season. Native to the area, they forage for themselves, so their packs contain only supplies and ammunition. Four elephants can carry supplies to maintain a small unit for a week of border patrol.

In the field, the elephants are kept well back in the line of march. In event of ambush, they are trained to kneel. But even a kneeling elephant presents a sizable target and there is reason to believe the Viet Cong avoid aiming in their direction. The enemy is apparently aware of the bad propaganda among villagers if they killed an elephant and a dead elephant is pretty hard to hide—even in a jungle.

The huge beasts have faults, too. They are slow and cumbersome and sometimes temperamental. No doubt the Carthaginians were aware of the drawbacks, too. But in an emergency, elephants can rush in any direction and get through. They proved this in the Alps 20 centuries ago.

American officer leaps from his elephant-back command post to deploy troops in skirmish.

Senator Urges Survey to Probe Decline of U.S. Fisheries

By TOM NOLAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Every second fish reaching American tables today is imported from abroad.

The odds are that this "second fish" was caught in waters traditionally, although not legally, under the control of American fishing interests. It was processed and packed by foreign labor, shipped to the United States and sold for American dollars which then went back overseas.

These facts were cited by Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., as he urged a survey of American fishing grounds, methods, markets and prospects, including a study of fishing covered by domestic Indian treaties. He has launched legislation to investigate the problem.

The resolution was unanimously passed by the Senate and now awaits action by the House.

★ ★ ★

A comprehensive study of the U.S. fishing industry, coupled with a "long overdue international conference on fisheries could go far toward improving our fisheries program," Magnuson says.

EASE BALANCE

At the same time, it could help ease the balance of payments deficit created by U.S. dependence on imported fish.

During the past 10 years, the dollar deficit resulting from the disparity between imports and exports of fishing products by the United States amounted to $3.2 billion.

"Whether we view this problem from a standpoint of our national propriety, pocketbook, or only pride," says Magnuson, "we should find out why every 'second fish' on our tables today must come from abroad."

★ ★ ★

Equally disturbing to the senator is the fact that Russia, with a commercial fishing fleet roughly the same size as that of the United States, is now pulling in an annual catch larger than America's.

LARGER, FASTER

Experts note that the difference is mainly due to Russian trawlers being larger and faster. Sleek Soviet fishing fleets patrol international waters off both the U.S. Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

★ ★ ★

Since 1950, there has been a continual decline in the number of Americans employed as fishermen and in the number of U.S. fishing vessels. In 1950, 161,000 Americans manned a fleet of 92,000 vessels. In 1962, there were 126,000 fishermen and 75,000 vessels.

This is particularly significant because there has been no change in gear and fishing methods, except in the tuna industry, where employment has remained constant.

★ ★ ★

U.S. vessels are being retired for age or obsolescence far more rapidly than they are being replaced by new craft.

LAST SURVEY

The last survey of the fishing industry authorized by Congress was undertaken in 1944. It resulted in better equipment being developed and larger catches made through the early 1950s.

The U.S. record for production of edible fish — 3.3 billion pounds — was set in 1958.

Since 1951, the U.S. catch of food fish has in no year reached 3 billion pounds, and in four of the last five years, it has been below 2.5 billion pounds.

★ ★ ★

But the drop in American production of food fish has not been accompanied by any decline in consumption. "Demand has been constant," Magnuson notes. "In fact, for many products, such as shrimp and tuna, there has been a spectacular increase."

TOTAL CATCH

The United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) reports that since 1954 the total fishery catch in North American waters by all nations has more than doubled. The 1963 U.S. catch was lower than in 1954.

"The presence of massive foreign fishing fleets in nearby waters is proof that these fishing grounds are among the richest in the world," Magnuson says.

Fishery experts attribute the decline in American fisheries to many factors. Among them:

★ ★ ★

- Depletion of traditional and preferred edible fish species.
- Obsolescence of U.S. fishing craft and gear.
- Reluctance by some in the industry to adapt to advances in production, processing and preservation.
- Archaic laws and regulations which restrict some domestic fisheries.
- Failure to develop sufficient market appeal in the United States to warrant competition with foreign countries in the production of some fish species.
- Contamination of coastal waters and construction of structures which hamper the movement of some species upstream to spawn.

Etna Eruption Breaks Quite Sicilian Summer

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — Mt. Etna burst into a new eruption today after a quiet summer.

Explosions were heard for miles along the tourist-filled east coast of Sicily. Volcanic ash and flaming rock spouted up nearly 2,000 feet from the volcano's huge central cone.

There was no immediate sign of lava flowing out of the crater.

Colonial Built On Marl Lake

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

The charming home of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Clarke, of Lanecon Drive combines advantages of both ranch and colonial. Located on Marl Lake in Holly Township, it offers a novel split - bedroom design, two downstairs and two up.

"We wanted enough room to entertain our four granddaughters," said Mrs. Clarke. "But we didn't want the space where it would need daily maintenance when the girls weren't here." The girls, Jennifer, 12, Anne, 9, Christina, 6, and Nancy, 9 months, are daughters of the James Clarkes Jr., of Rochester.

The Clarkes explained needs to designer Lynn Hallowell of Birmingham, and the existing floor plan evolved. John Voorhees of Drayton Plains built the house.

The upstairs includes two bedrooms, a sitting area and bath. It can be completely closed off when not in use.

Carpeted in violet, the "old fashioned bedroom" on the top floor is furnished with family heirlooms. A Victorian chair, upholstered in shocking pink velvet, adds color spice to the muted blue walls of the room.

Hanging above the chair, is a floral etching drawn by Mrs. Clarke's grandmother, Mrs. Louisa Downing Meade. Dated 1862, the etching is framed in gold.

On the main floor, a central foyer provides direct access to the formal dining room, the living room, kitchen and both the upstairs and downstairs bedroom areas.

The dining room is regally furnished in a French Provincial suite of weathered cherry. Repeating the avocado green of the mural are the carpeting and antique satin draperies.

Louvered folding doors on the pass-through counter between the dining room and kitchen facilitate serving and clearing the table.

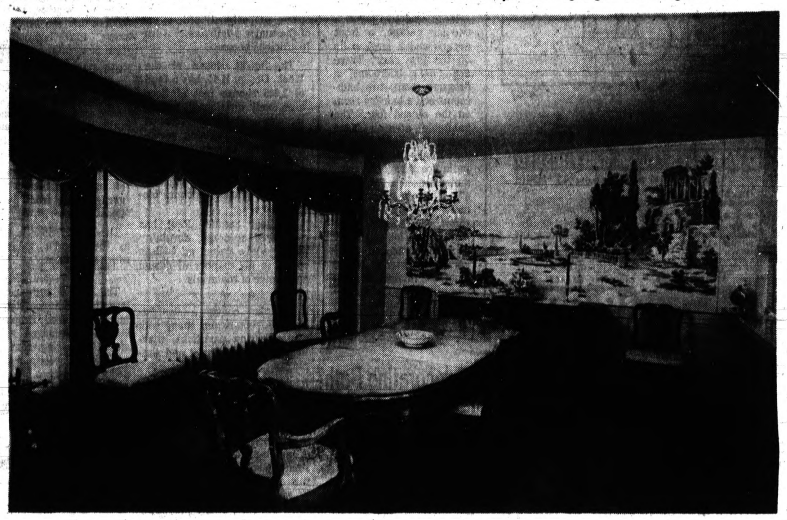

Leading from the dining area into the kitchen are carriage doors. The kitchen work area has a double, eye-level oven and counter stove. Ample counter space is covered with a champagne plastic laminate.

Open grillwork is used on the peninsula cupboard dividing the kitchen from the breakfast nook to better display a portion of Mrs. Clarke's French glassware collection. It was the cerulean blue of the glassware that prompted her to select the kitchen's accent colors.

Both the kitchen and formal living room overlook the lake.

Tones of candlelight and white blend in the black marble hearth and facing of the fireplace. The painted sidewalls repeat the candlelight of the marble and the ceiling, the eggshell of the draperies.

A grouping of three colored etchings in smoke glass frames are arranged above the fireplace. Tall frosted glass vases and a royal blue glass jewel box with gold and white enamel overlay; antiques handed down through the Clarke family, are exhibited on the mantel.

ROOMY COLONIAL—There are nine and one-half rooms, three baths and all sorts of unusual features in this two-story Colonial, with a rectangular shape and center-bearing partitions to make its construction direct and simple.

Colonial Promotes 'Gracious Living'

"Gracious living" is a popular phrase often quoted in the home building industry, yet seldom actually realized; the most common reason for failure plainly rest in a lack of sufficient "elbow room."

There are a number of things that go to make up gracious living, but there is no doubt that space, properly utilized, is one of the major attributes of a truly gracious home.

The latest House of the Week, Design H-47, has a total of 2,825 square feet of floor area well distributed among its nine and one-half rooms, three baths, imposing reception foyer, gallery and upstairs laundry room.

We'll have more to say later about that unusual upstairs feature.

Architect Samuel Paul has considered economy, durability and resale value, as well as space, in his manner of design and choice of materials.

★ ★ ★

The plan boasts a straightforward, rectangular shape with center-bearing partitions, making construction direct and simple.

RESALE VALUE

The tasteful combination of brick veneer, wood shingles and an arched portico, together with the necessary accompaniments of small-paned windows, with shutters and flower boxes, give this colonial home a distinctively mellow personality, enhancing its resale value for many years to come.

Gracing the reception foyer is a grandiose sweeping staircase curving up to a second-floor gallery, a most impressive entrance.

To the right is the formal living room, with a dining room behind it and reached via a pair of folding doors.

★ ★ ★

To the rear of the main foyer is the entire daytime area, composed of a good-sized family room, a kitchen and an informal dinette.

A fireplace serves as the focal point of the family room. There are windows overlooking the side and rear patios, and a door leading to the rear patio.

A floor-to-ceiling decorative screen serves to divide the family room from the dinette.

★ ★ ★

A large bay window makes this dinette space an attractive rival to the formal dining room.

MODERN KITCHEN

What lady of the house wouldn't love this kitchen? It runs the gamut of today's features and appliances.

There is an island worktop which contains the range top.

There's a built-in barbecue under a large metal hood.

★ ★ ★

And there is convenient bulk storage as well as storage for serving trays.

The surrounding counter area contains a built-in double oven and dishwasher, a built-in refrigerator and freezer, a wood chopping block and a pantry closet.

The double bowl sink is located under a pair of windows overlooking the rear yard.

★ ★ ★

To the left of the reception foyer and dominated by another large bay window, is an extra room which can serve as a library, fifth bedroom, guest room or even as a maid's room.

FULL BATH

Alongside this extra room and directly opposite the rear entrance is a full bath (the third in this house) ideally convenient to the first floor and the outside.

Adjoining are a double closet and a side entry two-car garage, with front doors optional.

The second floor is as lavish as the circular gallery from which it radiates.

★ ★ ★

The master suite contains a large bedroom, complete with a marble - faced fireplace and built-in bookshelves, a walk-in closet, a dressing room with two additional closets and a vanity, and a full bath.

The three other bedrooms are well-sized with ample closet space.

All are entered from a separate common foyer, which gives access to the spacious main bath.

★ ★ ★

UPSTAIRS LAUNDRY

The upstairs laundry room has begun to show its face in some custom homes.

Why? Because most dirty wash originates on the second floor — and this arrangement saves steps.

While it is true that a laundry chute can send the wash downstairs, there is no chute to bring it back upstairs.

The second-floor laundry, like its predecessor, the ground-floor laundry in a ranch house, saves wear and tear on the housewife. Any one object to that?

Quality Construction Stressed by Builders

Each year, according to experts, some 30 million Americans move. That's about 10 million families. Many of the moving families are upgrading their present housing and at the same time seeking higher quality.

The desire for better quality is leading many home builders to emphasize quality construction, such as "real ceramic tile baths," in an effort to lure home buyers.

The Industrialist of the Year award, made annually by the Society of Industrial Realtors, will be presented Nov. 9 in Los Angeles during the annual convention, Nov. 8-12, of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Painting House Exterior Need Not Be Too Difficult

Painting the outside of your house? Or one of the rooms? Here are 10 things to keep in mind:

★ ★ ★

- Preparing the surface properly is at least 50 per cent of the final result. This includes the removal of dust, dirt and grease; scraping away loose paint; filling cracks and holes; dulling glossy areas, and building up low spots.
- If you apply the final coat before the undercoat has dried thoroughly, it will be only a few months before fine hairline cracks develop.

This condition, known as "checking," occurs because the undercoat remains elastic and so begins to move as the wood underneath contracts and expands.

- There are probably more paint failures in the kitchen than anywhere else, usually caused by not removing all the grease that has accumulated over the years.

- Forget about an all-purpose paint which will be best for all conditions. Such a paint usually is very effective for some surfaces, fair for others and just adequate for still others. For the best result, get a paint designed to be very effective for the particular project you are undertaking.
- The ceiling in a room should be painted first. Don't make the mistake of deciding only to paint the walls, then discovering later that the ceiling, which appeared to be all right before you started, suddenly seems to be dingy.
- Remember that color seems deeper when applied to large surfaces, such as walls. Select a color one shade lighter than you want it to be.

★ ★ ★

- Two thin or ordinary coats of paint usually will wear better than one thick coat.
- Most amateur painters get only about one-tenth as much wear out of a brush as is built into it. The chief reason; failure to clean the brush properly immediately after it has been used.
- Don't paint with a brush previously used for varnish. It has a tendency to give the paint a cloudy appearance.

★ ★ ★

- There isn't much difference between quality paints and cheap, inferior paints immediately after the application. The difference shows up weeks and months later when failures begin to develop in the inferior paint.

A detailed booklet, "Paint Your House, Inside and Out," by Andy Lang can be obtained by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, envelop to Know-How P.O. Box 954, Jamaica, N. Y., 11431.

Southern pine lumber is primarily produced in 12 states: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Household Insects Controlled

There are many kinds of flies, but if anyone collected the pesky insects from a variety of buildings in any locality he's find most of them to be houseflies, asserts Walter Haldeman of The Pennsylvania State University. They are a never-ending nuisance.

Houseflies are filth lovers. According to a Penn State correspondence course on household insects, fresh animal manures are their favorite breeding haunts. But they also delight in depositing eggs in decaying garbage.

Most householders can reduce fly population by eliminating breeding places. Scalding the inside of garbage cans weekly, effectively removes fly maggots. And tight lids on the cans prevent flies from entering.

Screening doors and windows is the most important single control in homes. Screens with at least 14 wires to the inch are needed to exclude houseflies.

★ ★ ★

Where smaller insects such as gnats, leaf hoppers and small mosquitoes are prevalent, a mesh of 18 strands to the inch should be used. Window screens should fit well and doors should open outward.

SPACE SPRAYS

Sprays applied as mists into the air are called space sprays. Droplets must contact flies to kill. Mist sprays give quick, but temporary control.

Surface or residual sprays are coarse applications, rather than mists, made to walls and ceilings. When the spray dries, a layer of toxic crystals remains.

Surface sprays of lindane or methoxychlor on screens and porches provide slow knockdown of flies, but usually give long-lasting control.

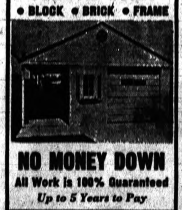

★ ★ ★

Learn more about control of household insects as the summer season comes. Enroll in the Penn State correspondence course. Send your name and address with $1.00 to Household Insects, Box 5000, University Park, Pennsylvania.

'Unhandy Man's' Dream

Home Maintenance-Nil

By JACK QUIGG
Associated Press Writer

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. — They've finally built a house for the guy who hates maintenance work.

A gleaming structure of pure white concrete and stainless steel, it rests on a hill south of here overlooking the sea.

The concrete, used both for walls and roof, will never need paint, the makers say.

The stainless steel, used for exterior trim, interior hardware and for columns that support the roof, likewise requires almost no maintenance.

★ ★ ★

The bath — walls, floors and ceilings — are one-piece plastic, cleaned easily with a cloth.

STAINLESS STEEL

Kitchen surfaces are stainless steel or gloss-finished wood for easy care.

Called "Olympia Pacifica—The House of Excellence," it is the project of a group of materials producers who wanted to show how long range ownership costs could be minimized in a house that was both permanent and flexible.

The permanence arises from solid construction and long-lasting materials.

The flexibility arises from the construction: with the roof supported by columns, the nonload bearing walls can be located without regard to roof support.

LIVING AREA

Bedrooms, for instance, can be added or removed . . . any living areas changed.

The house has 3,500 square feet and is luxury construction throughout. Costs are not disclosed but, because much of the work was of a pioneering nature, the tab must be well over $100,000.

There is a large kitchen, oversize living room, big master bedroom and four smaller bedrooms, a large children's playroom, two baths, huge swimming pool and three-car garage.

★ ★ ★

The concrete walls are in the form of stacked pure white blocks laid in pure white mortar. The 150-ton roof is white lightweight aggregate and silica sand.

CONVENTIONAL HOUSE

The conventional house uses about 15 pounds of stainless steel. This one uses more than a ton — in framing windows and sliding glass doors, roof facia, deck and pool railings, counter tops, sinks and lavatories, locks, hardware, even table settings and cookware.

The location is Laguna Niguel, 55 miles south of Los Angeles, 7,000 acres that bills itself as the nation's largest planned community.

So what does such a house save over the years, besides elbow grease?

A minimum of $18,000 in maintenance costs in just the first 30 years of its life, says architect-designer John Galbraith of Pasadena.

And it's built to last for centuries.

LOW MAINTENANCE — New structure on a California hillside is built of concrete and stainless steel to minimize cost and time of maintenance.

Burn Trash Conveniently

Thousands of home owners are now are enjoying the convenience of smokless gas incineration.

★ ★ ★

The new incinerators automatically consume all burnable trash, including string, bones and wet garbage.

Incinerator installations should be made in basements or utility rooms.

When a Sink Wasn't a Sink

The plumbing contractor got an urgent call. From the other end of the line came the plea, "Come over quick, the thing under my sink is leaking like crazy."

The contractor rushed to the scene of "disaster" and entered the house carrying tools and parts to repair a kitchen sink. But he was immediately led to the bathroom to find water streaming from a supply valve beneath the lavatory.

Like many folks, the homeowner thought "a sink was a sink," and consequently the contractor arrived with the wrong equipment and parts. But since "sink" isn't always a sink, take note of the definitions below.

★ ★ ★

● SINK — A fixture usually installed in a kitchen to provide water for food preparation and washing of dishes. Not to be confused with lavatory.

● LAVATORY — A fixture usually located in bathroom or powder room for washing hands and face.

● WATER CLOSET — Toilet.

● FITTING — Device used in connection with fixture, such as faucet, drain control and valve.

● FIXTURE — Any water-using product, such as sink, lavatory, water closet and tub.

● SUMP — A tank or pit to collect water seepage from a basement floor — equipped with pump to eject water collected.

● TRAP — The "extra bend" in drainage pipe beneath fixtures that retains enough water to prevent backup of sewer gas.

● VENT SYSTEM — Piping; to provide air circulation for the drainage system. Allows release of gas and protects traps against siphonage and back pressure.

Checklist Simplifies Residence Change

Whether you're planning to move to a nearby city or town — or trek completely across the country — you'll want to know the many things to be taken care of in your old neighborhood well in advance of moving day.

The following checklist — prepared by Mrs. Margaret Linzer, customer service supervisor for Fernstrom Moving System — will help you to organize the many details involved in moving.

★ ★ ★

● Transfer your accounts to the bank of your choice near your new home. Be sure to remove valuables from your safe deposit box.

● Cancel your charge accounts, either by letter or telephone.

● Call the electric company and tell them when to disconnect your service. You probably have a deposit that will be returned.

● Contact the fuel service — if you have contracted for regular calls at your home — to discontinue service. Also, don't forget to inform your gas company of your moving date.

● Call for discontinuation of such services as laundry pick-up and delivery, milk delivery, newspaper delivery, bakery service, and water softener.

● If you're satisfied with your present insurance coverage your insurance company will probably transfer your fire and liability policies to your new home. Inform your life insurance agent of your change of address.

● Ask your doctor and dentist for any pertinent records, and find out if they can recommend someone in their professions for you in your new city.

● Make arrangements with a mover immediately. The mover you select will send an estimator to your house without charge. According to experts, your actual cost will come out just about the same as the estimate — providing you don't add a lot of extras to the load.

★ ★ ★

● If you're a member of any military organization or reserve group, be sure to fill out a change-or-address form supplied by the force to which you're attached.

● The Department of Motor Vehicles will also want to know your new address. Make the correct changes on your license and registration form.

● Prepare a change of address card for the postman so that there will be no major interruption in mail delivery.

● The Post Office has a change-of-address form for notifying magazines, newspapers, book and record clubs, or other groups from whom you get mail regularly.

● Call the telephone company's business office to have your telephone disconnected.

● Notify the water company when you wish service discontinued and request an up-to-date bill.

● Don't forget your friends, notify them of your move and include your new address.

If you take care of this list of details well in advance of the day you plan to move, you'll save yourself a lot of emotional chaos and just plain embarrassment. Moving can be made easier with a little planning.

Convenience Important to Oldsters

Each day approximately 3,000 Americans reach retirement age. Most sell their homes and head for milder climates, where they take up residence in a retirement community; many purchase a small home.

★ ★ ★

Builders of senior citizens' projects concede that while the retired folks like the climatic change, they also want the conveniences they've long been accustomed to.

For example, they prefer durable, easy-to-maintain materials such as ceramic tile in their new surroundings. They know, as they have known for years, that ceramic tile used on bathroom walls and floors and kitchen counters and backsplashes will mean less work for them. That's because tile requires no maintenance other than an occasional quick wipe with a damp cloth.

The 65-and-over-set naturally prefers one-story construction to the two-story or split-level type, because stairs are not popular with this group. The environmental preference is a location near to shops and recreational facilities.

With the nation's senior citizens, it seems, the emphasis is on convenience. And why not? After all, they've earned it.

Fold-Up Tubes Filled Through Bottom End

Many people wonder how a collapsible metal tube can be filled through the small opening where the cap is. Actually it is filled from the other side, with the cap already in place.

Ingredients are put in through the open bottom, which is then crimped to a tight seal.

Advantages in Heating Electrically

Electric heat is the fastest-growing home heating system today. As recently as 12 years ago, only a handful of homes were heated electrically, but by 1962 the figure had risen dramatically to more than 1.3 million.

By 1970, an estimated 5,200,000 families will be enjoying the advantages of electric heat.

There are sound reasons for the increasing use of electric heat for replacement in older homs as well as original equipment in new homes:

★ ★ ★

● It's clean. Because there's nothing to burn, there's no smoke, soot or fumes to soil ceilings, draperies, carpets and other furnishings. This cuts down on housework and cleaning bills.

● It's a space - saver because there's no need for a bulky fuel tank or chimney.

It's extra quiet. Several types of electric heating systems have no moving parts.

● With room units, themostats make it easy to vary temperatures from room to room.

● Electric heating equipment is so simple that maintenance problems are virtually eliminated.

● It's usually less costly to install electric heat than other heating systems because it doesn't require a chimney or fuel storage tank.

Natural gas now accounts for 98 per cent of all gas sold by utilities.

GI Mortgage Loans

VA Answers Questions

Many queries lately from veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict in regard to house mortgages have been received.

Thanks to the Veterans Administration office at Roanoke, Va., some authoritative, detailed information about aspects of the loan program has been obtained.

Here are 10 facts intended to cover the large majority of questions veterans are asking:

★ ★ ★

● —The Veterans Administration generally does not make loans, although there are a few exceptions to that.

What it usually does (and this is what is meant by a GI loan) is to guarantee or insure loans made by private lending institutions.

● —The protection of the VA guarantee permits the veteran to get loans with a smaller down payment (in some cases, no down payment) and at a lower interest rate, — 5¼ per cent — than is generally available.

● —Children of deceased veterans cannot obtain a VA-guaranteed mortgage or other loan.

★ ★ ★

● —While the Veterans administration will appraise the property to be sure the veteran is getting it at a fair price, it cannot say what the resale value might be at a future time, nor can it decide whether the veteran is doing the right thing in making a purchase.

But it does advise every veteran to be sure the mortgage will be a benefit and not a burden to him.

★ ★ ★

● —If a veteran decides that he would like to buy a two-, three- or four-family home, he can obtain a GI loan on the property.

But the total number of separate units cannot be more than four if he is the sole purchaser.

However, if he and another qualified veteran buy residential property together, they can get a mortgage on property with as many as eight residential units.

★ ★ ★

● —A VA-guaranteed mortgage may be partially or fully paid at any time without penalty.

● A veteran who obtains a GI loan for the purchase of a house must certify that he intends to live in the house.

● —GI loans can be obtained for other purposes than the purchase of a home, but there are certain limitations.

A veteran can get a reply to a specific question about this from his nearest regional VA office.

★ ★ ★

● —Veterans of World War I are not eligible for GI loans.

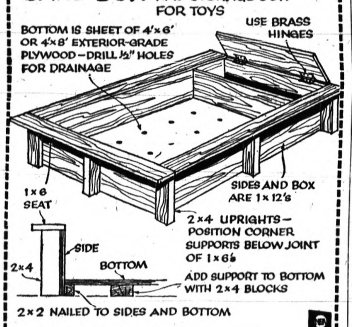

● —The delimiting date for GI loan benefits is computed by adding 10 years to the veteran's date of discharge plus one year for each full 90 days of active duty.

★ ★ ★

For World War II veterans, 1967 will be the terminal date. The expiration date for Korean veterans will be 1975.

Countertops Need Efficiency Also

Counter surfaces in the bath and kitchen should be efficient as well as colorful.

The efficient countertop should be surfaced with a durable material such as ceramic tile that will withstand even the hardest household treatment.

A kitchen countertop should be impervious to hot pots and pans and stains from foods.

Real ceramic tile fits perfectly since it is both fireproof and stainproof.

STEEL DOOR — A product of modern research and manufacuring methods, the steel door above represents the first significant change in door design in decades. In addition to providing more design versatility, steel doors won't warp, shrink or crack like their predecessors. Unique insulating and weather-stripping techniques used in their manufacture eliminates the need for storm doors in many areas.

First Used in Prehistoric Times

Doors Play Role in History

"I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved," said Jesus (John 10:9) —and this is only one of many mystical references to doors in the Bible.

Doors, in fact, have played a key role in both history and folklore for thousands of years. From ancient gold ones to modern steel ones, they have told the story of man and his progressing civilization.

Anthropologists label the door as a child of necessity, estimating its origin more than 25,000 years ago.

Some prehistoric cave dweller, tired of protecting his refuge from wild animals, must have pushed or pulled a solid object—probably a rock—across his entrance, sealing off the outside world . . . and the door was born.

VITAL COMPONENT

Since then, doors have been a vital component in every building design.

They have been constructed of innumerable materials in all sizes and shapes from simple animal skins to the magnificent entrances of the Roman Pantheon of the Second Century A.D.

They have been as light as Persian tapestries, as heavy as the immense boulders sealing the pyramids.

Religion, justice, government, business, practically every phase of man's life has been affected by the door. Martin Luther nailed his history making 95 Theses to the church door in Wittenberg; the Jewish Passover feast evolved from the "passing over" of the ancient Hebrews' homes by the Angel of death, their mark of security being blood of a lamb sprinkled on the door.

The Rothschilds, celebrated European family of bankers, got their name from a red shield on their door in Frankfurt, Germany.

Secret doors have also played a large part in the past. Such doors, made to look like part of a wall, saved the life of many a fleeing tyrant, permitted political refugees safe escape, and even contributed to extra-curricular love affairs of the more enterprising kings.

* * *

In the United States, the history of doors reflects the vital story of our young country.

PLANKED DOORS

The charm of the simple planked doors of the colonists, stained from the weather, today still depicts the crude yet ambitious character of the early Americans.

Later, through development of architectural styles common to periods in American life, such as provincial, the door revealed the vitality of the growing country. Then, suddenly, it failed to keep pace with the times.

While most other things were being revolutionized — manufacturing methods, communications, transportation, construction—the door remained unchanged.

* * *

Only recently, through the introduction of steel doors for homes, has the door assumed its traditional role as a trademark of the times. Precision manufacturing techniques, coupled with the design versatility of steel, now bring the ultimate in door performance, safety, and design, to homeowners.

STEEL DOORS

The new steel doors for homes are produced to exacting specifications possible only through mass production.

Research conducted by manufacturers and United States Steel has developed steel doors that are dimensionally stable, won't warp, shrink or crack.

With ordinary carpenter tools, pre-hung steel doors can be installed in just 20 minutes. In addition, they're fire resistant and provide excellent insulation.

According to R. J. Ritchey of United States Steel, "Big new developments are still to come in steel doors.

* * *

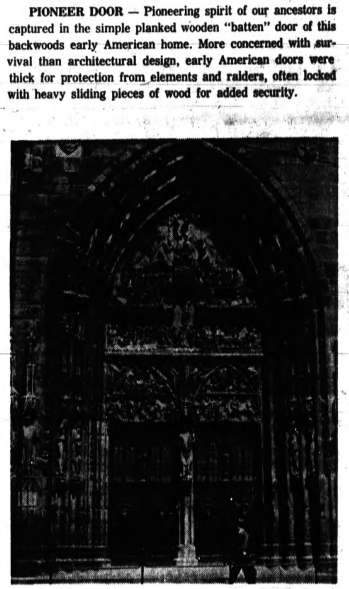

Steel's versatility and economy are bound to make certain the door industry will never lag behind the times again."

10TH CENTURY DOOR — Ravaged by plague, tormented by constant warring, concerned with the changing tide of religion, individuals of the Dark and Middle Ages had little time for creativity. Their futility is mirrored in this 10th century period door, voll of decoration and studded for durability, designed to provide security and relief from the problems of the outside world.

PIONEER DOOR — Pioneering spirit of our ancestors is captured in the simple planked wooden "batten" door of this backwoods early American home. More concerned with survival than architectural design, early American doors were thick for protection from elements and raiders, often locked with heavy sliding pieces of wood for added security.

CATHEDRAL DOOR — Preserved in the doors of this magnificent 16th century Western European cathedral is all the beauty and splendor that came of age in the Renaissance. The elaborate door panels, surrounded by intricately carved figures, tell the story of man turning his back on the problems of preceding centuries in an attempt to recapture the spirit of the golden age of classical Rome and Greece.

Caulk Cracks Immediately

You can save money this winter by caulking now.

Crevices and cracks show up in every house regardless of how new or well built. They usually appear at construction joints, and each one left unmended can be trouble.

A crack will allow moisture in, and rot will result. Cracks and gaps are the source of drafts that boost heating bills, insects seeking warmth and just plain dirt.

A caulking compound is the answer. It can be squeezed from a special gun or from a convenient, king-size metal collapsible tube.

* * *

For average use, where there are not a great many large cracks to fill, the tube is handier and less wasteful. It can be re-capped to save the caulking compound for future use.

Preventive caulking is good medicine. Wherever a crack appears to be forming, caulk to prevent future trouble. If the opening is large, pack it with oakum and then caulk.

Try Counting Them

A 4' x 8' panel of Masonite Peg-Board has 4,608 holes.

Insert handy plastic or metal fixtures to hold storage and display items.

Panels and fixtures are available at lumber yards.

Do-It-Yourself Job

Install Roll Roofing

There's one sort of roofing the homeowner can install himself and that's roll roofing. This is the sort you use on roofs that are too flat for shingles.

Roll roofing is durable and not bad looking, can do a good job on garages, sheds and carports.

There are various grades of the material. For a permanent structure — a garage or porch —skip the thinnest roll roofing.

The thinner roofing is cemented on. The thicker is held with nails with a small amount of cement used at the seams.

* * *

The exception is a special roll roofing, called half-lap, which is used on roofs with very little pitch, roofs that are practically flat.

Cut strips of roll roofing about 10 feet long. Don't attempt to just unroll it to the length of the roof. This may be simpler to install but will give you grief later. The longer lengths are more likely to buckle, especially on a hot day.

Don't cut straight across. A cut that is made at a 45-degree angle will shed more water.

* * *

Before you install the new roofing, examine the old. If it is buckling at any point, repair it before installing anything over it. Cut the edge of the bulge, smooth it out and cement it down.

STAGGER JOB

As you lay the strips of roofing, make certain that adjoining joints do not line up with the old. Stagger them.

Make joints with care. Cement down the lower piece of roofing first. Then extend the next piece over it two inches. The nail should go through the center of the lap joint and catch both pieces.

If you miss the lower piece there will be a slight depression that will hold water. If the nail is too close to an edge the material may tear loose.

* * *

Nail your nails straight and just hard enough so that the head is flush with the material, not in too far nor sticking up.

RAIN RUN-OFF

The roofing should not only be taken up to the edge of the roof but also should come down over the side. Rain then should run off without getting up under the roofing.

The material should cover the entire edge of the wood underneath. Nail to the edge to hold it in place.

It's best to work during warm weather. The roofing then will be fully expanded.

Also, avoid walking on the roofing. Footsteps can ruin joints, cause cracking.

* * *

Make sure to use regular roofing nails. Nails with smaller heads will tear through.

Brighten Fireplace— Resurface in Color

If your present fireplace reminds you of the "Dark Hole of Calcutta" it can be turned into a colorful focal point for the living room or den. One way is to resurface it with colorful ceramic tile.

Real ceramic tile is available in more than 250 colors and an infinite number of designs. Ceramic tile is also fireproof, and a wipe of a damp cloth will keep it soot-free.

Save Money; Buy Carefully

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (UPI)— Homeowners can save money if they shop for their insurance with the same care they use in shopping for a house, according to a leading insurance executive.

Walter H. Vernier, executive vice president of State Farm Fire and Casualty, advises homeowners to review their current home insurance periodically with a qualified insurance agent.

"Too many people think that all home insurance policies are pretty much alike," Vernier said. "In fact, there is a wide range of available coverages at varying rates."

Vernier cited the case of a young suburbanite who was paying $83 a year for fire and extended coverage on his $19,000 house. The policy was one he had signed along with a stack of other papers at the time he purchased his home, and the premium was paid as part of his monthly mortgage payment.

It was several years before he discovered he could get a homeowners policy including liability and other additional coverages for $41 a year, less than half of what he had been paying.

"One out of two homeowners today has only fire and extended coverage insurance on his home," Vernier said. "Although this is the one type of coverage most mortgage holders require, it is a very minimal type of protection, hardly adequate for today's needs."

Homeowners policies combine a number of coverages formerly sold as separate items into one package policy.

* * *

The "package" price is generally from 15 to 25 per cent lower than the price for coverages purchased separately.

Kitchen Renovation— Remodeling Favorite

The home improvement tab in this country is running about $15 billion annually. Of this amount, the U.S. Bureau of Census estimates that Americans will probably spend in excess of $5 billion for major additions and alterations.

One of the top items in remodeling is the addition of a ceramic tile bath; another is kitchen renovation, including ceramic tile countertops and backsplashes.

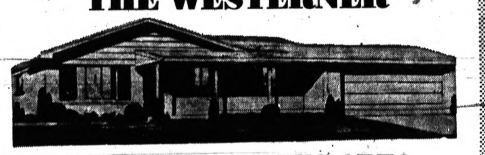

Retaining Wall Wood Needs Creosote Bath

You can use wood in retaining walls providing you first treat it with creosote or other chemicals to prevent rot.

Douglas fir timbers when treated make good retaining walls.

Wall Finish Helps to Assist Decorator

By MARGERY McELHENY
United Press International

CHICAGO — If you plan to decorate or remodel the rooms in your house, these pointers on wall finishes may help.

★ ★ ★

Clara Dodson, University of Illinois extension home furnishings specialist, said plaster and wallpaper, the long-time favorite wall finishes, still are the most common choices.

But wood paneling, brick and stone may also be used. Any one of these finishes will be an asset if it complements your decorating scheme.

Plaster can be painted to give a plain-color background, or it can be papered to bring design into the room.

★ ★ ★

One disadvantage of plaster is that it tends to crack. If a wall is in such bad condition that painting won't conceal the cracks, and a solid color is desired, consider using solid-color wallpaper.

SAME EFFECT

The effect is the same as paint, and since the newer wallpapers come with heavy backing, they conceal fine cracks in the wall.

Wood paneling is expensive to install, but it has a low upkeep cost. It is a good insulator and ages well.

Mrs. Dodson offers these suggestions to help select wall finishes:

● Tailor the finish to the use of the room. For example, in a bathroom or kitchen you will probably want a finish that will stand up under steam.

★ ★

If you have plastered walls in the kitchen, you will want a washable finish. You may want a softer color in a bedroom than in the living area, and something gayer in the dining area than in the living area.

● Sometimes you can make the space seem larger by finishing all rooms in the same color. This gives the effect of one room "flowing" into the other.

● Harmonize the wall finish with the furnishings and personality of the room. For example, if you have a decorative carpet, you will probably want a plain wall to bring out the beauty of the carpet.

If you have many accessories or pictures, a plain wall will show them off better than a patterned wall. But if you have a room with few furnishings, a patterned wall will give a cozy atmosphere. And, in an old house, a patterned wall tends to disguise poor plaster and architectural changes.

● To make sure the wall color will harmonize with your room furnishings, take samples of carpet with you when you shop.

It's important to remember that colors look different in large areas than in small samples. This is particularly true of paint chips.

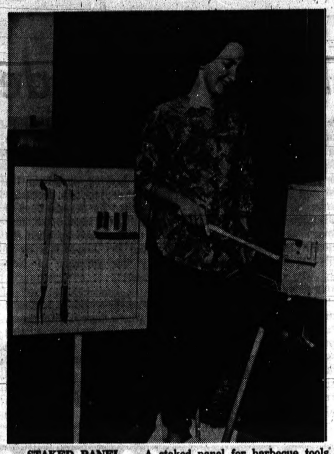

● Consider wall color in relation to the light in rooms—both natural and artificial.

Try out wallpaper or paint samples in your home in daylight and artificial light to see whether the colors are satisfactory under both conditions.

● Let each member of the family have a voice in choosing wall finishes.

Since walls represent the largest area in a room, all family members will be affected by the choice.

STAKED PANEL — A staked panel for barbecue tools makes outdoor cookery easier. This one, designed by Masonite Corporation, was built of materials costing less than $2. It consists of a pointed stick fastened to a framed panel of the perforated hardboard.

Staked Utensil Panel Makes Cookouts Easier

A staked utensil panel near your outdoor barbecue outfit will make cookouts easier. It can be built of readily available materials for less than $2, according to John Concord, Masonite Corporation's handyman counsellor.

The "barbecuer's helper" essentially is an 18x24-inch panel of Peg-Board framed in 1x4-inch pine lumber and staked to the ground with a 1x2-inch board.

Barbecue tools are suspended from hooks, and the salt and pepper shakers fit neatly on plastic shelves. All fasteners are held firmly in the perforations of the board.

★ ★ ★

For neatest appearance, insert the panel in grooves made in the center of the miter-cornered framing, using waterproof glue and brads. An even easier way is to fasten the perforated hardboard to the back of the framework with screws.

Fasten the pointed stake in the center of the back framing with two No. 8 flathead screws 1½ inches long. Prime and paint your "helper" with two coats of exterior quality paint.

Soon after the stake's in, the steak's on!

Fold-Up Tubes Take Less Space

Sick and tired of dried-out containers of putty, wood fillers and similar home repair items?

You can prevent this by getting the items in fold-up metal tubes, whose contents stay fresh and won't leak or spill as long as the cap is on.

Metal tubes take up less space as they are used because you roll them up.

Membership in the National Association of Real Estate Boards consisted of 77,725 realtors at the end of June, 1964, with California having the most members of any state.

Be Safe, Not Sorry

Home Buyers Investigate

If you have been in the practice of making your own home repairs you are in a good position to inspect the next home you buy.

★ ★ ★

Even if you haven't you can prepare a check list of things to look for.

Obviously there are things that you cannot see and even an expert couldn't see them for you. Finished walls can hide rotten timbers.

Assuming the location, architectural style, price and general appearance suit you, you can concentrate on condition and the amount of money you may have to add to the price of the home to make repairs or changes.

★ ★ ★

Remember that it costs more to add features or replace items in a used home than one that is under construction.

MORE DIFFICULT

Wiring and plumbing are more difficult to place in finished walls, foundations, more of a job to repair on a completed house.

The exceptions are: Painting both inside and out costs about the same whether the house is new or old.

Repairing or replacing a roof is also about the same regardless of the house underneath.

★ ★ ★

Take a good long look at the outside. If the roof line sags it indicates a structural defect and one that might be costly to cure. Are the gutters rusty and in poor condition?

Carry a pocket knife. Poke it into the sill where framing meets foundation. Check for signs of rot or termites. If the sill isn't level, incidentally, the house probably has settled.

Check outside steps and porches for sagging or signs of rot. Check mortar joints in brick work. Probe for crumbling mortar.

★ ★ ★

Next place to check is the basement. If the air smells musty you can suspect dampness. This could be from condensation or from leaks through floor or walls.

If the walls have been painted recently the paint may hide repairs.

Is the floor bridged with crisscross strips of wood? Such bridging can prevent floor sagging and also indicates that the builder didn't take shortcuts.

Check to see if the flooring is really double. If it is, it will be indicated by sheets of lumber for the sub-floor or flooring that runs in the opposite direction from the floor above.

★ ★ ★

The basement may be the only place that you will be able to examine exposed plumbing and wires.

Signs of rust and corrosion will give you a clue to the condition of the rest of the plumbing. Look at the wires.

Are there many patched on circuits? Does the fuse box indicate a number of separate circuits, not just one or two?

★ ★ ★

Upstairs check the water pressure by turning on a number of faucets. Is there still plenty of pressure on the top floor?

Do floors and stairs squeak when you walk on them? Check exposed floors. Floor boards that separate indicates that green lumber may have been used and has since dried out.

Cracks in plaster due to structural weakness generally start at the corners of door and window openings.

★ ★ ★

Try windows and doors to see that they open and close easily. If there is an unfinished attic you have another chance to check exposed wood. Looking down at the top edges of the outside walls also will show you if the house is insulated.

Remember, no house is perfect.

New Fixture Adds Glamour

Cleaning the bathroom floor is a pain in the neck. Just when you get going with the mop — bang — its the water closet (toilet).

Then you have to clean behind it the best you can, and while you're at it, you notice that the base is dirty.

So you get a sponge and try to clean it off, but even that's not easy because those darned bolt caps are in the way. Phooey!

You can say "phooey" to that routine and good riddance, too, with a new wall-hung water closet.

★ ★ ★

This off-the floor fixture, long used in restaurants, schools and theaters, is being installed more and more in the home. (Actually the fixture is not merely mounted "on" the wall, but firmly secured to a "carrier" anchored to the studding behind it.)

NEW ERA

With it comes a new era in bathroom beauty, convenience and cleanliness. Units available today come in both white and colors that enable homeowners to mix or match bathroom decor. Modern design and a variety of shapes and styles make the fixture a glamorous addition to any bathroom.

With today's trend toward carpeting in the bathroom, a rug can be laid in a single intact piece — no need to cut a hole for the water closet base. And because they remain uncut, carpets, linoleum or tile will last longer and be easier to clean, too.

The modern off-the-floor water closet can be installed in a new home or as part of a remodeling project.

★ ★ ★

An experienced plumbing contractor can acquaint the homeowner with the best model to suit any particular need.

The United States imported $1.4 billion worth of goods per month in 1963, says the Census Bureau.

New Range-Heaters Chase Morning Chill

Some gas ranges have a built in vented heater for supplementary heating in homes as well as cabins and vacation homes.

These appliances provide a practical way for eliminating morning chill and dampness from the kitchen, and they have the newest cooking features, too.

Interior Decorator Solves Problems

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

As we sit on our wish brooms waiting for some great genie to turn our homes into glorious edifices such as those pictured in books and articles, we might face one important fact: These beautiful pictures may have taken an awful lot of effort from a great many people.

You can't put a beautiful home together over night.

For one thing, a remodeled room from planning stage to published color photos may have taken a year or much longer. That's why our amateur efforts do not seem to scratch the decorating surface.

It takes more than one pick-up—paint, slipcovers, draperies, rug, accessories usually to do the trick. To get a new look, you must contemplate the project on an over-all basis.

★ ★

It may be far better to wait until you can afford to do an entire room than to do a little at a time unless you are an expert at decorating — or keep the same basic color scheme.

It is not like remodeling structurally. That can be done piecemeal to last.

There are fashions in decorating. And if you decide to paint this year and slipcover next year, perhaps nothing will come out even.

A properly coordinated room will last for many years because the patterns will fall in place and mellow together.

There is a lot of waste motion in piecemeal decorating. And it can be more expensive than doing the room over completely. A good decorating plan should last five years.

You might brighten the walls with spint or decide you'd rather have paper another year, but the basic color scheme will be followed.

Many stores have free decorating services so that you can get complete advice in coordinating colors, fabrics, paint, papers.

Tell them your favorite colors, whether you like color in large or small globs and they will make suggestions on how you can best put your own preferences into the home.

Some decorators take color accents from dramatic paintings, in fact, build a whole room around a great painting, particularly modern art.

A contemporary room often is done as simply as this: White walls are used as the background for modern art that is often strong in colors.

Then those colors are used in furnishings and accessories. Often the paintings may be the only real color in a room, with black, white or neutral shades going into upholstered pieces.

Traditional homes may use color schemes from the period of the furniture.

Or if the furniture is mixed traditional, requiring soft colors like the Louis style or gay colors to perk up Victorian styles, these may all be noted by decorators to make the job of redecorating easier for the amateur.

Some people never change a good color scheme once it is evolved. They may change fabrics, but they always keep the same range of colors.

It can't be said too often that an interior decorator is well worth the small investment required to do the job when you can afford to redo an entire room. And you'll be set for a long while, if you pick a good decorator.

U.S. Plunges Into Quadrennial Ritual—Presidential Campaign

By The Associated Press

The conventions were over, the summer was waning, the kids were coming back from camp, and mothers were preparing for a new school year. And the nation formally plunged into its quadrennial ritual — the presidential campaign.

Barry Goldwater fired the first shot, without waiting for Labor Day.

★ ★ ★

Standing on the spot in Prescott, Ariz., where he previously launched two successful fights for the Senate, the GOP presidential candidate — in the shadow of a Goldwater store — declared that if elected he would move gradually to change the face of government in domestic and foreign policy.

His speech Sept. 3 sounded as if designed to counter Democratic party claims that he was impulsive, reckless and inclined to shoot from the hip, and that these traits might plunge the world into war.

PROCEED WITH CARE

"I do not intend to be a wartime president," Goldwater said. And: "We must proceed with care in our task of cutting the government down to size."

He pledged he would end the draft; "never abandon the needy and aged;" and claimed the policies of the Johnson administration had led to violence in the nation's streets.

On the other side of the fence, Lyndon Baines Johnson took his runing mate off for a weekend on the President's Texas ranch. There he and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota put on a dazzling show for newsmen, touring the ranch, stampeding a herd of cattle for photographers and shouting "Yahoo" over the landscape.

★ ★ ★

Back in Washington, Johnson and Humphrey withheld campaign fire during the week, giving Goldwater the spotlight. The President, preparing to speak in Detroit, was still not ready to admit he was campaigning.

His press secretary, George E. Reedy, said, "I'm not labeling this a campaign trip. He's going to Detroit to make a Labor Day speech."

★ ★ ★

Another campaign got under way, promising to be one of the most colorful Senate fights in the nation. Robert F. Kennedy roared into New York City Tuesday and easily won the nomination at the state Democratic convention, despite cries of "carpetbagger" from some critics.

The next day he began his campaign for his first elective office.

'DEAR BOB'

Then he resigned as U.S. attorney general and received a "Dear Bob" letter from President Johnson, who wrote: "You will soon be back in Washington where I can again call upon your judgment and counsel."

If the President is correct, come Nov. 3, some observers see a Kennedy victory as the first step for a try at the White House.

Elsewhere on the national scene:

Henry Krajewski, 52, erstwhile pig farmer of Secaucus, N.J., who organized the Poor Man's party in 1949, announced he would again run for president "against two millionaires."

Stan Musial, 43, the nation's physical fitness director, collapsed from overwork in Milwaukee and was ordered to a hospital for a rest.

The Senate voted to combine health insurance for the aged with increases in Social Security, but the bill was given little chance of passage in the House this year.

At a hearing closed to the press, Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller testified for several days in her fight to regain the four children she gave up when she divorced Dr. James Murphy to marry the governor of New York.

Across the world, in Southeast Asia, where there is little peace, war spread to Malaysia. Rioting broke out again in Singapore and the Malaysian government contended that paratroopers from Indonesia had dropped onto the Malay Peninsula north of Singapore.

The Malaysian government in Kuala Lumpur said it was all a plot by Indonesian President Sukarno to crush Malaysia. In the Singapore riots between Malays and Chinese, at least eight persons had been killed and 60 injured. The government contended Communists and Indonesia elements were fomenting the riots, playing on ill feeling between the ethnic groups.

After five days of "temporary retirement," Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh returned to Saigon and tried to resume the government of South Viet Nam. He said he and the army group around him would stay on for the time being, but would step down once democracy was established.

While the war in Viet Nam continued to take its toll of Vietnamese and Americans, one life it didn't take was that of Navy flier Lt. Charles F. Klusmann.

Shot down over Laos while on a reconnaissance mission June 6, Klusmann was captured and imprisoned by Communist Pathet Lao forces. Tuesday it was revealed he had escaped into neighboring Thailand and was flying home.

En route to his home in San Diego, Calif., Klusmann stopped in Honolulu and declared simply: "It's a pleasure to be here." The Navy kept him under wraps, but his parents disclosed his ordeal had caused him to lose 30 pounds.

Gen. Taylor Coming Home for High-Level Talks on Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor is expected to return next week from South Viet Nam for consultation with President Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and others.

The ambassador had planned to come home last week for a four-day visit, mainly to attend to some personal affairs, but his return was put off by political upheavals in South Viet Nam.

Henry Cabot Lodge, Taylor's predecessor, also is expected in Washington next week.

He recently completed a trip to explain U.S. policy in Viet Nam to this nation's Western European allies.

COPENHAGEN (AP) — The Danish defense ministry has authorized the first company of a permanent Danish contribution to the U.N. peace keeping forces.

★ ★ ★

According to the authorization issued Friday one company will be established every two months. The force is to be completed in one year.

The first company may go to Cyprus.

BRUSSELS, Belgium AP) — A worldwide meeting of Socialists has unanimously adopted a resolution restating what they described as the ideals of their movement.

The resolution calls for meaningful controls on means of destruction and their eventual elimination; the end of dictatorships; abolition of all discrimination based on race, creed or sex; equal distribution of material wealth for the common good and the end of exploitation and enslavement of man by man or one people by another.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department refused Friday to produce for a civil damage suit against Bobby Baker documents it has compiled in its investigation of the former Senate official for possible violation of criminal laws.

★ ★ ★

The department claimed executive privilege in a motion filed by its civil division in U.S. District Court.

Acting Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said the department's records were obtained "through a continuing investigation of possible violations of criminal laws." He said premature exposure "could only result in prejudicing such a proceeding before it is commenced."

At the same time, the department sought to quash subpoenas against Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, Space Administrator James E. Webb, and Walter W. Jenkins, a special assistant to President Johnson.

★ ★ ★

Counsel for the Capitol Vending Co., which seeks $300,000 in damages from Baker, had the subpoenas issued Aug. 17.

The Justice Department said the three officials have no knowledge of the case and there is no apparent necessity for testimony which would interfere with their official duties.

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet trade officials are complaining that some clothing and shoes imported from abroad are shoddy.

Criticism was leveled at the manufacturers who shipped the goods and the Soviet official trade organizations which ordered them.

A shipment of 10,000 British-made lightweight coats for men had holes under the sleeves, were badly stitched and had stains. The Soviet Union is suing the firm, it was reported.

A shipment of 22,000 women's shoes from Austria was rejected and sent back because the sizes were so big that few women would buy them, the trade officials claimed.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The week beginning Oct. 4 is both National Highway Week and National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week by proclamation of President Johnson.

Safe, efficient and economical highway transportation is vital to continued national growth, Johnson said in one proclamation Friday.

The death of 43,600 persons in traffic accidents in 1963 emphasizes the need for highway improvement, he said.

In a separate handicapped proclamation, the President said "time and again the handicapped have demonstrated determination in their struggle to overcome their limitations, their capacity to work being strengthened by their zeal to succeed."

Korea Withdraws Press Sanctions

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The government has withdrawn retaliatory measures against newspapers opposed to a controversial press law passed last month.

Pro Football Squads in Exhibition Finals

By The Associated Press

This is the last pre-season week for the NFL, but all 14 teams will be in action, 12 tonight.

Baltimore and Pittsburgh will play Sunday at Canton, Ohio, in the annual Hall of Fame game. CBS will televise that one nationally.

In the American Football League, six of the eight teams will have their final tune-ups tonight. Kansas City beat Houston 27-17 Thursday night.

The Minnesota Vikings, only unbeaten NFL team in exhibitions, takes its 4-0 record against the Philadelphia Eagles, 1-3, at Hershey, Pa.

The Dallas Cowboys, 1-3, and defending champion Chicago Bears, 2-2, meet at New Orleans, and St. Louis, 3-1 faces Washington, 1-3, at Norfolk, Va.

★ ★ ★

Green Bay, 3-1 and in high gear after an opening loss, and the Browns, 3-1, should have a real bruising battle. All the seats in the big Cleveland park were sold weeks ago, in anticipation.

Baltimore is 2-1-1 with John Unitas still in fine form, but the Steelers, who made a real run at it last year, are only 1-2 and haven't jelled yet.

Pittsburgh owner Art Rooney is among the seven who will be inducted into the Hall of Fame before the Sunday game.

Jim Conzelman, former, coach and club owner, and five players, George Trafton, Clark Hinkle, Ed Healey, Mike Michalske and Roy Lyman complete the list.

★ ★ ★

In the AFL, Jacky Lee, Denver's new quarterback, will play his first game before the home fans, against the Boston Patriots. The Pats, Eastern winners last year, have lost all four exhibitions this year. Denver is 1-3.

Buffalo, 2-2, goes against the revitalized New York Jets, 3-1, in a game at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The champion San Diego Chargers, 3-1, lost to the Jets last week, and will be trying to get back on the winning road against the Oakland Raiders, also 3-1, at San Diego.

Trades Rumored as Season Nears; Club Signs McElhenny

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

CLEVELAND — The $6 per game part of theseason comes to an end tonight for the Detroit Lions and New York Giants when they engage in the first game of a football exhibition double-header on Cleveland.

★ ★ ★

The $6 is the per-day rate for the players while in training camp and it does not change for the exhibition games.

"Ye'll be glad when this exhibition season is over and we start playing and getting paid for real," offered a couple players after yesterday's workout at Cranbrook.

With the season only one week away, the uneasiness which encompasses a training camp because of releases and trade talk is simmering as the Lions near the 40-player limit due by Tuesday.

Hugh McElhenny, one of the outstanding halfbacks of the NFL, was officially signed to a contract today, and to make room for him the Lions put an unidentified player on waivers.

★ ★ ★

To further dwindle the squad a trade announcement is expected this weekend. The report circulated is that Larry Vargo, a defensive back and offensive end, and Mike Bundra, a defensive tackle will go to Minnesota, presumably for draft choices.

★ ★ ★

Before the Lions leave next week for the West Coast where they met the 49ers and Rams on successive weekends, one more trimming will take place.

Speculations are that Pat Batten may be placed on the injured reserve list in view of McElhenny's presence, and that one more player will be released or a trade could involve two players for one.

HUNGRY TEAM

At any rate, it will be a highly experienced ball club which faces the Giants tonight and which goes to the coast next week hungry for its first title since 1957.

★ ★ ★

Lone rookie in the starting lineup will be cornerback Bobby "Diesel" Thompson who is taking over Dick "Night Train" Lane's post, while the 13-year veteran is recuperating from a leg operation.

Thompson, injured early in the Eagles' game two weeks ago, did not play against the Browns last week, Bruce Maher and Dick Compton filled the post and were subjected to a barrage of Frank Ryan passes.

Maher, a rugged hard-nosed player, used on kickoff and punt teams, held down the safety position much of last year when Gary Lowe was hurt and was lauded for a first-class performance at that spot.

★ ★ ★

Tonight, the defensive secondary may have even fewer moments to relax than it did against Ryan, John Unitas, George Izo or King Hill.

The NFL's highest percentage passer of the past two years, Y. A. Tittle will start for the Giants, although his understudy, Gary Wood, is expected to see most of the action.

★ ★ ★

One thing the Lions will have to be alert against is the kickoff returns of Clarence Childs, a former track star from Florida A&M who has four long TD runs on kickoffs to his credit this year, including 108, 99 and 90-yarders.

Both Milt Plum and Earl Morrall will probably see action tonight and if they can pull out a victory, they will be able to share the privilege of having beaten the Giants for the first time in either of their careers.

★ ★ ★

Game time is 6:30 p.m. in Cleveland, but the hour time difference will bring the contest back to the Pontiac area at 5:30 p.m.

Bengals' Wickersham Has 17th Win

Tiger Pitching Nips Senators

Washington Handed 3rd Shutout in Row

WASHINGTON (AP)—Detroit pitcher Dave Wickersham is one step nearer the magic 20-victory mark today.

He won No. 17 Friday night in a 1-0 shutout over the Washington Senators, although he needed relief help from Fred Gladding.

★ ★ ★

It was the third straight shutout loss for the Senators.

Wickersham, the third American League pitcher to win 17 games, has another five games to shoot for the 20 marker. He has 10 losses.

In Friday night's game, Wickersham allowed only three hits in eight innings, struck out four and walked four.

The Tigers' winning run came in the second inning.

SACRIFICE FLY

Don Demeter doubled down the left field line, Bill Freehan dropped a single in short right which sent Demeter to third and Demeter went home after Don Locke caught Norm Cash's sacrifice fly.

The Senators' Claude Osteen was again the tough-luck loser—failing for the fourth time to win his 13th game.

★ ★ ★

Osteen had the Senators' only extra-base hit. He had doubled down the right field line in the sixth inning. He was out at third on Ed Brinkman's sacrifice bunt to Wickersham, who threw to Wert.

The Senators have scored only one run in their last four games and are scoreless through 28 innings.

Mickey Lolich (14-7) will pitch for Detroit today against Buster Narum (9-11).

Boston Possible Site Next Clay-Liston Bout

TORONTO (AP) — Sonny Liston and Cassius Clay probably will meet in a rematch — probably in Boston Nov. 16 — despite the World Boxing Association ban against the fight, the new president of the WBA said Friday night.

"I feel that the rematch will be made somewhere," Merv L. McKenzie said. "I hope it isn't held in a territory governed by the WBA."

He said he did not know where or when the fight would be held, but guessed Boston Nov. 16. A date and a site for the fight has not been announced officially.

Manager's Post Awaits Al Dark

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don't worry about Alvin Dark because he's going to be back managing somewhere in the majors next year although if he lives to be 100, he'll never forget how they torpedoed the ship from under him in San Francisco Bay.

★ ★ ★

Dark knows he's all through with the Giants. So do all of his players.

What isn't generally known is that two clubs already are interested in him for next year, the New York Mets and the Minnesota Twins.

Dark had received some earlier consideration as Houston's manager for 1965, but one faction there turned thumbs down and Lum Harris, presently a coach with the Colts, probably will get the job instead.

Regardless where he winds up next season, Dark won't shed any tears about leaving San Francisco, where once he was the apple of Horace Stoneham's eye and now the Giant owner hardly speaks with him.

There are still some players on the Giants who swear by Dark, cite the numerous problems he has had to contend with and claim it's a shame that he won't be back.

There are others, however, who feel like celebrating over the prospect.

"The only time I ever let my manager go is when I find he no longer has the players' respect," says Cleveland president Gabe Paul.

That's the time most owners decide to fire a manager, and while it would not be at all accurate to say Dark has lost the Giant players' respect, it is certainly true a number of them have become disenchanted with him.

Publicly, Willie Mays says he likes Dark, but the Say Hey kid has grown a bit peevish with him lately over the question as to when he should play and when he should be entitled to a rest.

NEED REST

Other Giant players, like Willie McCovey, seem to need frequent rest, too, and Dark, a pretty shrewd fellow, is beginning to wonder whether some of his men are physically tired or merely tired of him.

To his credit, Dark has tried everything from being tough to being passive.

He even did a truly unprecedent thing for a manager when he called a team meeting, shut the door to all outsiders, and told his players he should be managing better than he had.

Unbeaten 11s in Top Game on UFL Slate

By The Associated Press

The United Football League heads into its second weekend of regular season action with the game between two unbeaten teams—Grand Rapids and Canton—getting top billing.

★ ★ ★

The Blazers, who surprised eveyone with a convincing 27-21 victory over two-time champion Wheeling last week, visit Canton, which is a newcomer, Monday night.

Saturday night Indianapolis goes to Joliet and Quebec is at Toledo.

The only game scheduled Sunday brings together Charleston and the Ironmen at Wheeling.

Grand Rapids defeated Canton in a pre-season game but the surprising Bulldogs, paced by quarterback Bob Brodhead, seem to have jelled their attack since then.

★ ★ ★

Brodhead, former Duke Star, hit on 19 of 31 passes for 324 yards and one touchdown in the Bulldogs' opening victory over Quebec. Bob Chlebek, ex-Western Michigan quarterback, was equally as effective in the Blazers' triumph over Wheeling. He completed 17 of 27 passes for 221 yards and two scores.

American Davis Cuppers Struggling With Form

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Three weeks before the Davis Cup Challenge Round, the U. S defenders are beset by problems and the challenging Australians are bursting with fresh confidence.

But Vic Seixas, the U. S. captain, is pushing no panic buttons yet.

"We have 21 days to go and we move to a new place and a new surface," the 41-year-old Cup veteran said today, referring to the shift from the grass of the National Championships to the slow clay in Cleveland Sept. 25-27.

"We hope we'll be ready when the time comes."

The major problem surrounds Dennis Ralston who, which Chuck McKinley, helped wrest the silver trophy from the Aussies last year in Adelaide.

STRUGGLING

Ralston has a bum right ankle and is struggling to regain his lost touch.

"I'm playing lousy," the second-seeded Bakersfield, Calif., youth said after getting a third set default Friday from Terry Ryan of South Africa while leading 10-8, 6-3. "I just don't have my timing. If I don't improve, I won't last long."

Ryan quit because he said he was choking from the intense heat. He was given first aid and sent to the locker room.

The other U.S. hope, McKinley, opened his bid for the national crown today against Francios Godbout of Canada. His play will be watched closely since he has had a rather disappointing season, so lack-lustre that he was seeded fourth behind australian Roy Emerson, Ralston and defending champion Rafael Osuna of Mexico.

Emerson, the man capable almost single-handedly of winning back the cup, also made his first tournament appearance, facing 42-year-old Jaroslav Drobny, the self-exiled Czech.

★ ★ ★

In a gruelling all-day program in suffocating heat which caused three players to default, advances were made by Osuna, seeded third, and Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy, No. 7. Osuna beat Claude De Grunckel of Belgium, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2. Pietrangeli won over Alain Bresson of France, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

Maria Bueno of Brazil, the defending women's champion, became the first to gain the third round when she trounced Jenny Morris of Southern Rhodesia 6-2, 6-1.

Golf Rookies Continue Push

DALLAS (AP) — The big names of golf continue to have to fight off rookies like bumble bees.

What is considered to be the strongest class of first year men on the PGA tour is giving them plenty of trouble. Several are in contention every week, either winning the tournaments or grabbing off big checks.

Chuck Courtney of La Jolla, Calif., a 23-year-old who has been a pro less than a year, has won one tournament — the St. Paul Open — and today he is in position to take his second.

Courtney putted his way to a five-under-par 65 Friday for the first round lead in the $40,000 Dallas Open.

Tied for second with a 66 is George Archer of Gilroy, Calif., while still another rookie, Tony Evans of Columbus, S.C., was just two strokes back of Courtney.

Huron-Airway Eyes Revenge

Special to The Pontiac Press

BATTLE CREEK — Pontiac's Huron-Airway had to get by the team that elinimated it last year as it bid to advance in the winners' bracket of the state recreation baseball championships.

Huron-Airway met Flint, a 2-0 victor Friday over Jackson, in a 1 p.m. contest at Bailey Stadium. The Pontiac team had topped host Battle Creek, 4-1, Thursday night.

Other games yesterday saw Detroit's Pepsi-Cola nine edge Dearborn, 5-3, and Kalamazoo slip by Saginaw, 4-1.

Randy Adams' two-run double in the eighth inning and Jim Blight's three-hit hurling carried Flint to its win over Jackson.

Huron-Airway met Flint in regional play last year and dropped two straight at Pontiac's Jaycee Park.

★ ★ ★

Manager Paul Parks had right-hander Bob Bogert and southpaw Tom Walters available for starting duty today. The one not used will likely get the call tomorrow in the third round of the double-elimination tournament.

Other games today had Detroit playing Kalamazoo, Dearborn opposing Saginaw and Jackson meeting Battle Creek.

Three Red Wings Ink '64 Contracts

DETROIT (AP) — Gordie Howe, Alex Delvecchio and Doug Barkley are the first Detroit Red Wings players to agree to contract terms for the 1964-65 National Hockey League season, Manager- Coach Sid Abel announced Friday.

★ ★ ★

Salary terms of the contracts were not revealed, but a team spokesman said "it is generally assumed that Howe's pay is in the $30,000 bracket, which makes him the highest paid player in the league."

The Red Wings training camp opens Tuesday at Olympia Stadium. The Wings will play two pre-season games at home before starting their regular schedule against the Toronto Maple Leafs Oct. 15.

Phillies' Pilot Pulls Right Strings

By The Associated Press

Gene Mauch didn't need an edge — his flying Phillies have been giving him plenty to work with. But the National League leaders' canny pilot has come up with a new 'slant anyway. He's become clairvoyant.

Mauch must have had it figured beforehand when he dropped Johnny Callison, the Phils' most valuable veteran, to seventh in the batting order for Friday night's series opener with San Francisco.

What else but a carefully contrived script could have made Callison Johnny-on-the-spot with the key hit in a four-run eighth inning rally that stunned the Giants 5-3 and increased the Phils' first place margin by another big length.

LESS PRESSURE

Mauch may explain that a left-hander — rookie Dick Estelle — started for the Giants, that Callison would feel less pressure in the lower part of the order, etc. But any pennant-crazed Philadelphian will tell you the manager had the outcome up his sleeve all the way.

★ ★ ★

Callison delivered his tie-breaking single moments after Frank Thomas had tied the count with a two-run homer off lefty Billy O'Dell. Mauch probably had that one figured last month when the Phils spirited Thomas away from the New York Mets for the express purpose of hitting home runs against southpaw pitching.

★ ★ ★

While the Phillies were kicking the Giants into fourth place, 7½ games off the pace, Milwaukee's Tony Cloninger dropped runner-up Cincinnati 6½ lengths back with a three-hit 2-0 victory over the Reds.

St. Louis topped the Chicago Cubs 8-5 on Ken Boyer's three-run homer in the ninth and took third place, one percentage point up on the Giants. Pittsburgh shelled Houston 10-2 while the Mets nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5 for a doubleheader split after losing a 3-0 three-hitter to Don Drysdale in the opener.

Eddie Mathews' two-run homer off Joey Jay in the sixth gave Milwaukee's Cloninger all the runs he needed. The Braves right-hander didn't allow a runner past second base in boosting his record to 15-12.

Jay worked eight innings, giving up five hits and fanning 12, but lost his 10th game when Rico Carty singled in the sixth and Mathews clubbed his 22nd circuit.

Don McMahon of the Cleveland Indians has pitched the Chicago White Sox to within one percentage point of first place in the hectic American League pennant race.

* * *

It took him only about 33 minutes and three pitches Friday night as the White Sox nipped the Indians 6-5 in 10 innings.

Baltimore, meanwhile, lost to Los Angeles 7-1, giving the Orioles a .600 to .599 lead over Chicago.

McMahon, a veteran relief hurler, made his 60th appearance of the season, coming on at the start of the eighth inning with the Indians leading 4-3. In his first 59 games the 34-year-old right-hander had given up only three homers.

FEW HOMERS

At the same time, the White Sox were one of the weakest home run hitting teams in the league, having connected only 89 times.

* * *

Ron Hansen, Chicago's leadoff batter in the eighth, promptly clouted his 16th homer into the lower left field seats for a 4-4 tie.

McMahon sailed smoothly through the ninth inning, and the Indians rallied for a 5-4 lead on Leon Wagner's run-scoring single in the top of the 10th.

Then came the White Sox 10th.

* * *

Pete Ward, the team's leading slugger, led off and powered his 19th homer into the center field bullpen. No sooner had Ward reached the dugout when Bill Skowron connected for his 16th, a drive into the right field sets

The White Sox remained last in team home runs, but they all agreed McMahon did his best to move them up front in the league race.

In other AL games, New York defeated Kansas City 9-7 in 10 innings, Minnesota crushed Boston 14-3 and Detroit edged Washington 1-0.

* * *

Joe Adcock led the Angels onslaught against the Orioles hammering two homers and a single, batting in four runs Willie Smith and Adcock slugged successive homers of reliever Chuck Estrada in th fifth, and Adcock drilled a two run shot, his 20th, in the sev enth.

Fred Newman, 11-8, held the Orioles scoreless until the ninth inning when Charlie Lau doubled and eventually scored on Jerry Adair's infield out.

* * *

A four-run 10th inning outburst, capped by Joe Pepitone's two-run double, brought the Yankees their victory over the Athletics. Nelson Mathews came back with a two-run homer in the bottom of the 10th. Ken Harrelson hit two homers for Kansas City while Mickey Mantle and Elston Howard connected for the Yankees.

LOSERS TAKE A SWIM—Crewmen of the British America's Cup challenger Kurrewa V jumped overboard yesterday after giving a cheer for their rival Sovereign, chosen to make the 19th attempt to win back the 113-year-old silver cup. Sovereign will sail against Constellation of the United States Sept. 15.

Rally Saves Ring Rating

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Jose Torres needed a strong rally in the closing rounds Friday night to protect his No. 4 welterweight ranking against Gomeo Brennan, a game 3-1 underdog.

* * *

The Puerto Rican from New York won the eighth and ninth rounds to pick up the margin of victory over his smaller opponent from the Bahamas in the next to last of the television fights.

Judge Barry Pearlman thought the hard-punching Brennan earned a draw, 96 all. Referee Sy Gottfried called it 96-95 in favor of Torres and judge Gus Jacobson voted for the vavorite 97-94. It was 98-96 Torres on The Associated Press card.

Golf Tourney on Sunday at Rochester

A field of 100 teams is expected to tee off Sunday in the opening round of the third annual George G. Sadowski Memorial best ball golf tournament at Rochester Country Club.

The two-man teams will play 18 holes Sunday and wrap it up with 18 on Monday.

* * *

Returning to defend their 1963 crown are Mike Andonian of Pontiac and John Law of Rochester, who won the title in a sudden-death playoff with Wally Smith and Jay Law (no relation).

* * *

The tournament is held in the memory of the late George G. Sadowski, a member of the U.S. House of Representatives for 25 years and owner of Rochester Country Club. His wife, Eleanor, now operates the club.

Call for X-Country

All those interested in the cross country team at Pontiac Central should be at the school at 3:00 p. m. next Tuesday to pick up their equipment.

It is advised that physicals be taken prior to this.

Sailor Finally Reaches Top

Olympic Divers Chosen

NEW YORK (AP) —It has taken a long time, but Frank Gorman, a 26-year-old Navy lieutenant from New York, has finally made it to the top in springboard diving.

Gorman, a red-headed, freckled, 155-pounder, has competed in diving for 13 years, but until Friday he'd never won a national title.

* * *

Frank came through with flying colors in the finals of the U.S. Olympic three-meter springboard trials though, topping a field of eight and winning a berth on the team that will compete in Tokyo next month.

"I can't begin to say how great a thrill this is," he said after chalking up 841.95 points. "People must have been thinking that I'm not really much of a diver because I never won anything. I came close lots of times, but I never got the gold medal.

"Now I'd like to get that gold medal in Tokyo and then retire."

EASTERN TITLE

Gorman's top previous achievement in diving was winning the Eastern Intercollegiate title while at Harvard. He has been runner-up four times in National AAU tournaments.

* * *

Making the men's three-meter team along with Gorman were Larry Andreasen, 18, from Los Altos, Calif., and Ken Sitzberger, a 19-year-old University of Indiana sophomore, who finished second and third. Sitzberger won the National Indoor AAU springboard title this year.

* * *

Jeanne Collier, a petite 18-year-old blonde from Phoenix, Ariz., Sue Gossick, a 16-year-old blonde from Los Angeles, and Patsy Willard, 23, from Phoenix, won positions on the womens' three-meter diving team.

Miss Collier, a pretty blue-eyed Arizona State co-ed who won the outdoor three-meter national title in 1963, topped the women's trials with 737.50 points.

* * *

The diving trials will wind up Sunday with trials and finals in the men's and women's 10-meter platform event. Bob Webster, the 1960 Olympic champion, heads the field of 37 men. The women's event has drawn 19 competitors, headed by Miss Willard, also a 1960 Olympican.

Soviets Hear Statement Envisioning Russo-Sino War

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Moscow radio has quoted a pro-Chinese Communist, evidently British, as speculating on the possibility some day of war between Red China and the Soviet Union.

The quotation was tossed off in passing, in a rather offhand way, by one of the participants in a regular Moscow radio roundtable on current events.

The roundtable member, named Malevsky, attributed to a Communist named Evans the remark that he could envisage Red China at war in Indochina, against the United States, against India and "lastly war against the Soviet Union."

The remark, broadcast this week in the Russian language to Soviet citizens, comes at a time when the Chinese-Soviet argument is moving out of the realm of ideological debate and reaching proportions of a head-on clash between the Peking and Moscow governments.

★ ★ ★

In the background are sweeping Chinese territorial claims against Moscow, and Western intelligence reports of a Red Chinese terror campaign in at least one Chinese province against Communists sympathizing with Moscow.

The idea of war between Red China and the U.S.S.R. seems distant, despite their battle for influence over Asia and over the world Communist movement. But the fact that it has been mentioned to the Soviet citizenry indicates it is a nagging future possibility.

★ ★ ★

Malevsky's identification of the course of the war prediction seemed vague. It came during discussion of what he called the "splitting, base actions of the Chinese lackeys and their masters from Peking" during a recent Tokyo antinuclear conference. Malevsky said he was there at the time and was relaying this story to illustrate the policy "which the Chinese leaders are now conducting."

"To show this convincingly and clearly, let me quote this example. Let us say that as a delegate from Britain in the Hotel Diamond in Tokyo, where the so-called Tokyo conference took place, there turned up the adventurist Evans, expelled from the Communist parties of Britain, the United States and Australia," Malevsky said.

"Now, on Chinese money, he publishes the gutter paper Vanguard. He said to me: 'Just wait. The Chinese will make their own atomic bomb. They will blow the imperialists into powder and you at the same time.'

OPEN AVOWAL

"Soviet correspondents heard the open avowal of the Chinese program against imperialism, as he put it, which can envisage a war by China in Indochina, a Chinese war against India, against the United States, and lastly a war against the Soviet Union."

Even a mention that war is vaguely possible between Red China and the U.S.S.R. would jolt Russians. For years before the split became apparent they had been told that China was their staunch ally, bound to them by "unbreakable bonds of friendship."

★ ★ ★

For a year the Soviet people have had time to get used to the idea that Chinese might shoot at Russians. There were troubles on the border of China's Singkiang Province, where the Chinese accused the U.S.S.R. of coercing Soviet citizens to leave. The Kremlin in turn accused the Chinese of firing upon border crossers.

There is other tension in north China, against the background of a Red Chinese claim that Moscow illegally dominates Mongolia. Just south of Mongolia is the province of Kansu, where Peking recently reported in progress "a violent class struggle."

★ ★ ★

Intelligence reports received in Hong Kong say a savage campaign is in progress in Kansu to wipe out any pro-Moscow elements.

Baby Boom Raises Prosperity Hopes

NEW YORK (UPI)—The prospect of another baby boom in the United States raised business hopes this week for a continuation of the present long wave of prosperity.

The hope was raised by the Health Insurance Institute, which said the decline in the birth rate in recent years—which caught demographers by surprise—is turning out to be temporary. The Health Insurance Institute predicted an early rise in the baby crop.

If this happens, long range business and industrial planning could take on a more optimistic bend—not that business thinking is pessimistic now.

On the contrary, government agencies have just made another upward revision of their estimates of this year's increase in expansion and other capital outlays. The latest estimate is that capital outlays for 1964 will total $44.21 billion, up 13 per cent over last year.

★ ★ ★

Otherwise, business news was rather on the quiet side this week. The auto companies said that unless Chrysler is struck, their production this month should break all records and hit 695,000 vehicles — almost 90,000 more than last September.

ORDERS RISE

Factory orders rose 4 per cent in July over June, to a record seasonally adjusted $39.39 billion. A government report disclosed, factory shipments were up 3 per cent.

Steel output gained for the fourth week in a row since the normal seasonal summer decline.

Machine tool orders rose 45 per cent in July over a year earlier but this wasn't as good as the gains earlier in the year. For the first seven months, machine tool orders were up 66 per cent.

★ ★ ★

The improvement in the employment rate that has cheered the Johnson administration and Americans in general so much this year suffered a slight setback in August. The seasonal unemployment rate increased to 5.1 per cent of the working force, compared with 4.9 per cent in July. However, the August rate still was below the 5.5 per cent of a year ago.

GOLD STOCK UP

The government also announced that the total U. S. gold stock rose about $4 million in July and has gained $30 million on the year.

This includes gold in the currency stabilization funds. The treasury's stock of monetary gold, which has been stable for weeks, is down $50 million on the year.

The cost of living index rose slightly in July, the government reported, mainly due to rises in the cost of fresh meats, fruits and vegetables.

Bidding for the assets of Pure Oil Co., worth at least $700-million, was intensified when it was learned that a group led by Armour & Co. has offered the equivalent of $75 a Pure Oil share for them. Pure Oil officials said they have four possible deals in all. Only three have been disclosed.

RAILWAY EXPRESS

Directors of REA Express made a counter proposal to Greyhound Corp's offer to buy the Railway Express Company. The directors suggested that REA issue enough new shares to sell the big bus operator a 20 per cent interest in the company, which presently is owned by 60 railroads.

Another echo of Lowell Birrell's financial manipulations in the 1950s came up when trustees of Swan Finch Oil Co., one of the firms Birrell drained, recommended acceptance of an $837,500 settlement from the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. of New York in their $8-million suit against the bank.

The trustees had charged the bank with serious laxity in handling accounts of Birrell and Swan-Finch.

★ ★ ★

First National Bank of Boston embarked on an unusual method — for commercial banks — of raising money. It announced it would sell its unsecured notes, probably in multiples of $1 million, in much the same way industrial and financial corporations sell prime commercial paper, to big investors.

General Time Corp. proposed to buy Hamilton Watch Co. of Lancaster, Pa., for stock.

RECORD EARNINGS

A number of corporations continued to report or forecast record earnings, among them Westinghouse Electric, J. C. Penney, Interstate Department Stores, Holiday Inns and James R. Beam Distilling. However, Montgomery Ward reported lower earnings in spite of a 13 per cent sales gain for the first half of 1964. The explanation: Ward has been spending money heavily to open new stores and refurbish older stores.

Violence Predicted From Farm Holdback

Violence, not higher prices, is the predicted result of the current withholding action of the National Farmers Organization (NFO).

That's the candid opinion of one livestock marketing expert, Larry Ewing of the Market Development Division of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

According to Ewing, the attempt to hold cattle off the market to force higher prices has done little more than create ill-will between neighbors.

"The number of livestock marketed has been going up and packers are rehiring employes to handle the increasing volume.

★ ★ ★

"Prices are now at about the same level as before the holding action started. Tempers rise," Ewing said, "pitting neighbor against neighbor.

"Unkind statements are made. Truckers and farmers fear for their personal safety and that of their property."

"Fear to market," not support of the NFO program, has been the greatest factor in the slight shifts in marketing patterns and livestock prices that have occurred, Ewing said.

"Any group should have the right to demonstrate peacefully, but threats, intimidation and violence are not legitimate means to gain an objective.

★ ★ ★

"The cattle truckers are just trying to do their jobs for farmers. When they are stopped with 20 to 50 persons swarming around in mob fashion, sometimes unexpected things can happen."

STATE LAW

He reminded farmers that Michigan law forbids the hindering of any vehicle transporting farm products by force, or intent to hinder the loading or unloading of any such vehicle.

These are offenses punishable by fine and imprisonment.

He advised farmers marketing livestock to be "as courteous as possible" if stopped.

★ ★ ★

"The pickets should be asked if they are actually preventing the progress of the vehicle. If the answer is 'no' then the motion may be resumed. If 'yes' the farmer should return home and contact the sheriff or State Police for an escort."

Togetherness in Learning Aids Children

Take the loneliness out of learning and children will learn more, according to a reading specialist.

Dr. Helen Murphy, director of the Boston University reading clinic, told 80 Oakland County teachers and principals this week that mutual aid improves learning.

Allowing children to work in pairs or in small groups can consistently aid learning, claims Dr. Murphy.

One study where children worked alone at the preprimer level showed that even at the earliest level pairs of children learn faster.

Dr. Murphy cited the study where children worked alone with the teacher correcting their workbooks. A second group worked in pairs, correcting their own books.

HIGHER AVERAGE

At the end of the preprimer state, the children working in pairs had learned an average of seven more words.

"This is significant when you realize that only 17 words are taught at this stage," she said.

Dr. Murphy further said that some kinds of work are best done in groups of five.

Also, intelligence does not seem to be related to elaborative thinking, so the slowest child can contribute in a small group.

Dr. Murphy has been conducting a week-long course in reading at Oakland Schools for first grade teachers.

Michigan Bar Approves Minimum Legal Charges

The State Bar of Michigan has for the first time, approved a suggested statewide minimum legal fee schedule, Nathan B. Goodnow, president, announced.

According to Goodnow, the purpose of the schedule is to encourage uniformity in fees throughout the state and to enable lawyers, in the face of growing office and home maintenance costs, to obtain proper compensation for their professional time and efforts.

Goodnow pointed out that the fee schedule is not mandatory, but will be issued shortly to the 72 bar associations in the state, including the Oakland County Bar, for review and consideration.

"The new state schedule," said Goodnow, "is in no way intended to predjudice the rights of local bar associations to create any modifications, additions or deletions which they feel necessary to meet specific local problems."

★ ★ ★

Goodnow noted that costs for legal services set forth in the schedule are minimums and not maximums.

FACTORS INFLUENCE

He explained that the importance of the particular legal service, the difficulties to be encountered, the special skill or experience required and many other factors influence the fee.

Decision of the State Bar to act in this area stemmed largely from the results of a statewide economic survey of he bar last year.

The study showed that the average Michigan lawyer earns $13,000; that 18 per cent earn less than $7,500, while 23 per cent earn $20,000 a year or more.

★ ★ ★

"The survey supported the belief of many lawyers," said Goodnow, "that economically the profession in the state has not kept pace with other professions."

Fire Truck in Lost Cause

MIDDLE WALLOP, England (UPI)—First came the fire truck to put out the fire in farmer Charles Trueman's barley field. Then came more firemen to put out the fire in the fire truck.

Neither succeeded. Both the field and the fire truck burned to a crisp.

★ ★ ★

Trueman said the first truck had just arrived when a fireman knocked on his door. "Can we ring for another fire engine?" He asked. "Our engine is on fire."

"I just couldn't stop laughing," Trueman said later. Officials said the fire truck was parked in the barley field and caught fire when the wind changed.

Dream Home Within Reach of Most Women

Dorothy Draper's Dream Home, unique building-within-a-building in The Better Living Center at the World's Fair is an original architectural design right off the drawing boards of her firm, Enterprises, Inc.

Mrs. Draper and Gary Pizzarelli, president designer of Dorothy Draper Enterprises, have worked together for a dozen years, and where color, scale and design are concerned they are totally "en rapport."

★ ★ ★

So this house is not a vague concept of how we may live in some airy future, but a lovely, livable home that can be fulfilled to fit today's budget.

Its enchanting look has a great deal also to do with the fact that its components were personally selected to go together. Handsomely crafted furniture by one of the country's top manufacturers, Henredon Furniture Industries was chosen exclusively to furnish the interior.

The charming fabrics, which were a special design by Mrs. Draper for Bloomcraft, Inc., are used as curtains, bedspreads and for upholstery. These fabrics bring an air of sunshine into the entire house. Like the furniture, they are sold in retail stores throughout the country.

Lighting by Westinghouse was especially created to be an integral part of the total environment.

Mrs. Draper worked from the inside out to create this dream home. First she decided on the size and shape of each particular room and thoughtfully planned them in practical relationship to each other.

The resulting floor plan is unusual — a fan shape surrounding a glass-enclosed garden that includes a tree growing right up through the roof — but it is a plan that works.

★ ★ ★

The components include a master bedroom of extreme elegance with its own sitting-room area; a "dual" room with folding doors that divide it into a bedroom and a guest sitting room, a formal living-room that is reached from both the big, well-equipped kitchen and the handsome square dining area, and the recreation room with plenty of seating space, a big television, and a grand piano for family music-making.

The plan is completed with two bathrooms—one for each bedroom — plus a powder room for guests, a circular hall with a staircase spiraling to the roof garden, and a number of tall closets.

The result is a perfect home for a married couple with one or two children, or for a retired pair who enjoy having space to accommodate visitors—family or friends.

As well, it is a house of ideas that could be adapted for comfortable living by families in any number of situations or geographical areas—even, in fact, by designers of apartment houses, who might have to forego giving each tenant a roof garden but could well adopt the idea of an enclosed "green" area.

Constructed of white brick, large-windowed and with floors of vinyl tile and marble in the uncarpeted areas, the home has its own heating and air-conditioning system.

★ ★ ★

All the style and flair for which Dorothy Draper is noted is evident in the design and decoration. Colors are vibrant and spring-like throughout the house.

By BEE SCHENKEN

NEW YORK (UPI) — You don't have to trump your husband's ace to start a war at the bridge table.

You might suggest that he could have made a contract by finessing the other way or playing trump first. But these seemingly innocent words could be the fuse to set off a bomb.

★ ★ ★

I have been at many tables where this has occurred and I know. With the exception of a few grade "A" players who can weather this nonsense, these players are "losers."

★ ★ ★

When any remark other than a complimentary one is made at the table the mate of the "big mouth" sits and waits as a vulture might, to find an error.

This generally occurs on the next hand or two, as there is too much tension at the table to think coherently.

Just try to win at anything under three circumstances!

Now you take my fella. In Toronto this summer at the nationals, we were leading the mixed team going into the second session and on one hand I misjudged and lost this board for our team.

Believe me. It was not an error in judgment. I just misplayed the miserable hand.

When I completed this performance, in front of an audience of 30 kibitzers, Sir Howard —you would call him "Sir Howard," too—asked me if I cared for some water.

I started to say I wasn't thirsty when he nodded affirmatively in his own innimitable way. We walked to get our water—and my lecture.

The lecture went like this: "Baby, you know I love you and I would rather play bridge with you than with anyone in the world."

GETS PEP TALK

He terminated the preachment with a pep talk and a hug and a kiss. Now I ask you. How can you go back and not play good bridge?

Two years ago, on the S. S. United States, we were participating in a bridge cruise. There was a couple who behaved so disgracefully I was embarrassed.

Later that evening they approached us in the bar and marveled that we were holding hands. They seemed quite attractive away from the bridge table.

★ ★ ★

I gave her the same advice I give all married couples. It goes like this:

"If an error is made, minute or glaring, force a smile and say—'tough break, honey'. The hands that follow now seem less difficult to play."

And when the bridge game is over you must follow this rule: No trouble hands are to be discussed until such a time when all tension of the game has subsided.

And my parting words to you wonderful enthusiasts:

"If you don't make it this way, with this advice, you ain't gonna make it."

Ahern-Koren Rites Held Friday Evening

Reception in Oakland Hills Country Club followed the vows of Mary Jo Koren and Owen C. Ahern, Friday evening in Holy Name Church, Birmingham.

Holy Name Church, Birmingham, was the setting for the Friday evening vows of Mary Jo Koren, daughter of the Joseph Korens, South Cass Lake Road and Owen C. Ahern, son of the John J. Aherns of Bloomfield Village.

MRS. OWEN C. AHERN

Daughter of the Joseph Korens of South Cass Lake Road, the bride appeared in a gown and train of ivory silk peau de soie with Brussels lace appliqué. A rhinestone tiara cradled her illusion veil.

The bridegroom's gift of cultured pearls and a cascade of white roses and orchids completed her ensemble.

With Janet Ahern, honor attendant, were bridesmaids, Mrs Dexter Walz, Mrs. James March, Mrs. Lawrence Loehne, Mrs. Ronald Chamberlain and Mrs. Joseph Phelps.

The bridegroom, son of the John J. Aherns of Bloomfield Village, had Charles Middleton for best man. Ushers were Daniel Bearden; Robert Ahern, Chicago; Gary Rosenberger, Ann Arbor; Spike VanNorwich, Detroit, and Charles Matthews, Birmingham.

After graduation from Oakland University, the bride received her master's degree in teacher education at University of Michigan where her husband attended law college. He is an alumnus of Michigan State University.

Greenback Shower All Wet

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: I received an invitation to a greenback shower and since I believe them to be in very bad taste, I refused to give money; instead I brought a gift for the bride-to-be.

I was the only one of about 40 guests who did not bring money and I must say I was a little embarrassed.

★ ★ ★

However, I felt that if I gave money it would indicate that I approve of this type of shower, and I think someone has to take a stand against them.

Was I wrong not to have given money since the invitation specified it?

★ ★ ★

A: I agree with you wholeheartedly that a greenback shower is in very bad taste. However, since the invitation specified this, you should have complied or else declined the invitation.

Q: Is it proper, when eating a sandwich, to hold it in the left hand while picking up a drink in the right, or should the sandwich be put down when you wish to take a drink?

★ ★ ★

A: If you have a plate, you should put your sandwich down on it before picking up your drink.

If at a party where a tray of sandwiches is passed around, you may of course hold a sandwich in one hand and a drink in the other.

Repentant Hubby Advised to Stop Paying Blackmail

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I had an affair with a woman who left her husband and children to live with me.

ABBY

I left my wife and children too, but I couldn't stay away from them so I finally broke up with this woman. After I left her, she claimed the last child she had was mine.

It could be, so I have been giving her money. I've been hiding all this from my wife, but we have been having so many arguments over money lately that she suspects me of keeping this woman.

If I stop giving her money, I'm afraid she'll take me to court and the mess will be known. If I keep giving her money, I'll lose my wife.

I want to save my marriage because I could never be happy with this other woman. I've already hurt my wife so much, I don't want to hurt her any more.

Please answer in your column. I can't get mail at home. Thank you.

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: You need a lawyer. To submit to blackmail for the rest of your life is unnecessary.

If she does take you to court and the mess "becomes known," it shouldn't shock your wife too much because she knew you left her to live with another woman.

Let the law decide how much, if anything, the other woman is entitled to. And pay up like a man, if you must.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were at our club recently, and while dancing with an eligible bachelor who has been a hunting friend of my husband's for years, something he said left me with mixed emotions.

He said, "If anything ever happens to your husband, I want you."

I confess I was both flattered and disturbed. How would you have taken that remark?

OVERWHELMED

DEAR OVERWHELMED: As a warning. Don't let your husband go hunting with this "friend" any more.

Mystery, Irony Surround The Story of Four Pearls

LONDON (UPI) — The modern history of one of the world's greatest gem treasures began 45 years ago on the top of a double-decker bus on Whitehall Street.

Young Ernest Chapman was sitting with his fiancee, Mary O'Donnell, when she nudged him and asked in her soft Irish voice: "What do you think of these pearls, Ernie?"

★ ★ ★

It was the first time Chapman had seen the O'Donnell family heirloom, four iridescent shells each containing a large, perfectly balanced pearl with silver-gray and cream-rose hues.

For Ernest Chapman, it was the start of a lifetime search into the past.

16TH CENTURY

But Chapman, so far, only has been able to trace the pearl's history back to the 16th century — when Queen Elizabeth I was on the throne and the O'Donnell family was one of the most powerful in Ireland.

Hugh O'Donnell, whose exploits are recorded on English state papers, had, on Elizabeth's order, been jailed in Dublin. One night he escaped.

In quest of vengeance, he ordered forts to be built throughout the land.

His men looted neighboring settlements and killed all who could not speak the native Irish tongue — Gaelic.

EXCHANGED GIFTS

O'Donnell and the King of Spain, also an avowed enemy of England, frequently exchanged costly gifts.

When the Spanish Armada foundered in 1588, O'Donnell brought shipwrecked sailors ashore and gave them shelter and safety.

★ ★ ★

As a gesture of appreciation, King Philip II of Spain gave the four pearls, known as the "Spanish Armada Pearls," to the O'Donnell family.

But Queen Elizabeth decided to deal with her troublesome neighbor and marched 20,000 men against his army.

IRISH DEFEATED

The Irish were defeated. O'Donnell fled to Spain where he was hospitably received by King Philip.

O'Donnell died in exile, but his heirs maintained the family court on the barren island of Arranmore on the northwest coast of Ireland.

★ ★ ★

The pearls were handed down for more than 300 years. They came to Mary O'Donnell in 1911.

Her father, when he gave them to her, said: "Take care of them. They will help you on in life and give you joy and happiness.

PEARL LEGEND

"Legend says that anyone who possesses them will have good luck afterwards."

Chapman talked recently of his first meeting with Miss O'Donnell on Clapham Common in 1918.

★ ★ ★

"She was having an argument about the Irish question," he said. "Tempers were running high and I went to her rescue."

After that the couple saw a lot of each other. Then Miss O'Donnell showed Chapman the pearls.

ASTONISHED

"I was astonished," he said. "I got Mary off the bus as soon as possible and into the nearest teashop where I could have a good look at them."

Miss O'Donnell had kept their existence secret for years.

★ ★ ★

"They were in perfect condition," said Chapman. "We took them to the Empire Exhibition in 1924 where experts said they were immensely valuable."

Latest estimates of the pearls' value is about 1 million pounds ($2.8 million).

MAKES INQUIRIES

Chapman immediately began making inquiries at museums about the pearls' origin.

Meanwhile, he and Miss O'Donnell were married and settled at Clapham Common.

She died there a few years ago.

It was not until Dr. A. Morley Davies, professor of paleontology at London's Imperial College, examined the pearls recently that the first concrete theory began to develop about their origin. His findings caused a world-wide stir.

Davies said he believed the pearls were products of the obscure Miocene Period of 35 million years ago.

EXPLANATION

Other experts have since cautiously accepted this as a possible explanation. But the truth is yet unknown.

In June, 1957, a Danish expedition discovered a living mollusc, thought to have been extinct about 350,000 years ago, in 11,000-foot depths off Mexico.

Chapman hopes that this discovery will provide some clue to the Armada Pearls' origin.

★ ★ ★

Several geologists have suggested that, many centuries ago, the pearls must have been used for personal adornment; their size and beauty are ideal for this purpose.

SIZES

The largest is about the size of a quarter and the smallest the size of a dime.

Chapman personally believes they came originally from a Far Eastern temple where such jewelry often was connected with pagan religions.

Until early this year, the pearls had been viewed only by about 100 persons, mostly scientists.

But in February, Chapman appeared on British television with the priceless heirlooms before millions of viewers.

Oriental Furniture Designed

Straws in the wind of furniture design are pointing to the Far East.

The resurgence of interest in the Oriental is illustrated by the introduction of "Lotus Song," a new Far East bedroom grouping by Basic-Witz.

★ ★ ★

The highly unusual introduction of a new group between furniture markets indicates how important Basic-Witz feels this trend to be.

The authentic flavor of the Orient is achieved in "Lotus Song" by black lacquer bases standing on Chinese spoon feet, by custom-made cast brass hardware, by cane accents — and the clean, spare design that emphasizes beauty of line.

Designer Sanford Wallack has chosen a gunstock oil-type finish walnut for the group. A bright jewel among the walnut and ebony lacquer is the three drawer bachelor's chest (about $106) finished in red crackle with satin gold trim.

The pulls are slightly bowed open squares of satin brass. Cane panels that can be reversed to walnut decorate headboards and a mirror. Some are bordered in the ebony lacquer.

★ ★ ★

"Its restrained design gives 'Lotus Song' a classic look. It fits admirably in either a strongly Oriental decor or in a home that's strictly American contemporary," said Designer Wallack.

The artistry of the orient is captured in the design of "Lotus Song," new Far Eastern bedroom group by Basic-Witz. The dresser rests on an ebony lacquer base with Chinese spoon feet. Black lacquer also frames the pair of mirrors, trimmed with caned panels, reversible to walnut. Specially designed, cast brass pulls with classic oriental flavor trim the doors, which conceal a band of tray drawers. Sanford Wallack designed the group in gunstock walnut. Dresser about $184 and mirrors $40 each.

Program Given at Harvest Luncheon

Mrs. H. H. Savage was the principal speaker Friday at the Wayside Gleaners Harvest Luncheon at First Baptist Church.

Also appearing on the program were Judy Brien, Jill Hicks, Mrs. Robert Shelton and Dr. Amy Stockton.

The engagement is announced of Marilyn K. Virostek to James L. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith of Potomac Street, Avon Township.

Meeting of WCTU

Sixty members of Pontiac Federation Woman's Christian Temperance Union heard Judge Philip Pratt talk on problems of home and family at a recent meeting. The Joseph Green home on Gale Road was opened for the group.

Picnic Held in Home of President

Twenty members of Zeta chapter, Alpha Delta Kappa sorority, gathered at the home of Faye Donelson on Voorheis Road, Thursday, for picnic dinner. Helen Voss assisted the hostess.

★ ★ ★

Miss Donelson, incoming president, announced committee chairmen for the year: Mrs. Sam Hale, Janice Marquis, Mrs. Alton Madden, Mrs. Ruth Wright, Miss Voss, Mrs. Thomas Metzdorf and Mrs. Francis Schell.

★ ★ ★

Others are Mrs. Eugene Carey, Mrs. Mary Wagner, Elizabeth Halsey, Margaret MacKenzie, Mrs. John Borsvold and Mrs. Walter Bennett. Mrs. Elmer Thorpe is parliamentarian.

STATE CONVENTION

Delegates to the state convention, Sept. 19, at Kellogg Center, East Lansing, will be the president, with Mrs. Mildred Berthelson, alternate.

Mrs. Thorpe, as chairman of the state bylaws committee, will attend the two-day meeting, as will Mrs. Borsvold.

★ ★ ★

The Pontiac area council, composed of presidents, past presidents and vice-presidents of the eight local ADK chapters will meet Thursday at the Waldron Hotel. Plans for the fall Founders' Day banquet, Oct. 1, will be completed.

Art Institute Will Increase Viewing Time

Beginning Tuesday, The Detroit Institute of Arts will introduce extended museum hours, according to director, Willis F. Woods.

★ ★ ★

Tuesday through Friday, the museum will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. On Saturday and Sunday, museum hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The museum will be closed on Mondays and holidays.

★ ★ ★

"This extended schedule should offer greater convenience to the constantly increasing number of visitors to The Detroit Institute of Arts," Woods commented. "Additional evening and morning hours will accommodate persons employed on various shifts or attending irregularly scheduled classes."

English Visitors

Two Pontiac couples were recently hosts to English visitors.

★ ★ ★

Entertaining the Britishers were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Toohey and Mr. and Mrs. William Marshall, all of Hillcliffe Street.

★ ★ ★

Guests were Mrs. Toohey's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lee of Yorkshire, England.

This is a "Jiffy Jitney" convertible, made by Thayer, Inc. It's a three-way jitney, stroller and car bed (or bassinet) that converts easily and quickly. Boxed-edge stroller body is poly-foam filled and serves as a carriage pad when not in use as stroller. Jitney body and hood are embossed leather-grain fabric or vinyl-backed woven plaid. Stroller canopy is awning type, detachable.

MRS. J. O. VANDERVER

Vows of Frances Louise Scott and James Odis Vanderver were heard today in the Evangelical United Brethren Church before Rev. Dwight Reibling.

The daughter of the Billy R. Putmans of West Hopkins Avenue wore white chantilly lace over taffeta with chapel train. The finger-tip illusion veil was made by the bride's mother.

Red roses centered the bridal bouquet of white carnations.

Sharon Scott attended as honor maid with bridesmaids Jackie Scott, Kathy Vanderver and Mrs. Jack Putman. Nanet Putman was flower girl.

On the esquire side were Phillip Scott as best man and ushers Stephen Scott, Troy and Roy Blackwell.

After a reception in the Curwood Street home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law the George Scotts, the couple left for a honeymoon in Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mrs. Oscar Vanderver of Dexter Road and the late Mr. Vanderver.

MRS. W. N. WHITE

For her vows to William Niles White, Friday evening in the First Methodist Church, and the church reception, JoAnn Seaman chose a gown of imported Chantilly lace over white satin.

★ ★ ★

Skirt inserts of pleated tulle fanned into a chapel train. A lace crown held her silk illusion veil and white orchids centered her bouquet of pale pink roses, shattered carnations and Stephanotis.

★ ★ ★

Parents of the couple, wed before Rev. Carl Adams, are the Leon C. Seamans and the Elbert N. Whites, all of Sylvan Lake.

SISTER

With Marjorie Seaman, maid of honor, were bridesmaids Mrs. Ronald Barnard and Theresa Wooly. Debra and James White served as flower-girl and ring-bearer.

★ ★ ★

After a Maine honeymoon, the couple will reside in Springfield, Mass. She attended the Centenary College for Women and her husband was a former student at Olivet College and Springfield College.

MRS. J. J. MULLEN

St. Colman's Church was the setting today for the marriage of Susan Eileen Parkins to Joseph James Mullen of Lanham, Md.

Rev. Edward F. Konopka performed the nuptial rite which was followed by luncheon - reception in the Northwest Sportsmen's Club.

★ ★ ★

Wearing white silk organza and Chantilly lace with pearl and crystal tiara securing her French illusion veil the bride carried white glamellias and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Richard Campbell attended her sister as honor matron. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Parkins of Eastman Road, West Bloomfield Township.

THREE MAIDS

Susan Hamilton, Mary Ann Luffman, East Lansing, and Mrs. Wilfred Niederreither of Detroit were bridesmaids.

David Mullen stood as best man for his brother. They are the sons of the Emery Mullens of Owego, N.Y. Edward Convey, East Lansing; Jack Harvey, Irving, Pa., and Wilfred Niederreither were ushers.

★ ★ ★

After a honeymoon, the couple will reside in Washington, D.C. where the bride will interne in medical technology at Providence Hospital. She attended Michigan State University where her husband received his degree in June.

MRS. A. B. TREGENZA

Receiving guests in Plum Hollow Golf Club after their marriage Friday in the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, were the Arthur Robert Tregenzas (Karen Dee McHalpine).

Rev. Theodore Wuggazer Jr. performed the candlelight ceremony in the Birmingham church before some 200 guests.

A Bianchi gown of white silk peau de soie for the daughter of the Herbert F. McHalpines of Gilbert Lake Road, was styled with side drape and chapel train.

Her French illusion veil fell from a Swedish tiara and white gardenias, Stephanotis and ivy comprised her bouquet.

With honor attendant, Katherine Moon, were bridesmaids Mrs. James H. Scott, Royal Oak; Nancy Lynn Fournier; Anne Shaul, and Mrs. Lawrence Chenault. Amy Jane Thurston of Southfield was flower girl.

Donald C. Tregenza was his brother's best man. They are the sons of Dr. and Mrs. William K. Tregenza of Bloomfield Hills.

Ushers were Bruce Billings, William K. Tregenza Jr. of Lombard, Ill., Charles Mayne and Glenn White, Grandville, Ohio.

After a honeymoon in Canatend DePaul University at Greencastle, Ind. The bride was a former student at Olivet College.

VP Candidate's Family Suddenly in Limelight

A Congressman is an important person in his own home district, but in Washington, where there are other Congressmen and innumerably higher dignitaries, his children go to school like other people's children. His wife copes with the usual problems of finding household help, living on a budget, and chauffering the children.

★ ★ ★

That is why the whole family of Congressman William E. Miller, Republican candidate for Vice President, is somewhat amazed to be suddenly surrounded with the sizeable staff necessary to conduct a national campaign for the Vice Presidency.

★ ★ ★

GIRLS HELP

The conference, held on the lawn overlooking the lake, found daughter Libby, 20, listening with fascination to all the political talk swirling around her.

Mary Karen, 17, was busy copying recipes from her mother's files, needed by Mrs. Miller's newly acquired press secretary to send out to the many people who write to Mrs. Miller for her favorite recipe.

Occasionally a boatload of local youngsters called to the girls from the lake, and they returned the greetings.

★ ★ ★

When the meeting was over, Mrs. Miller waved the group on its way with a twinkle of suppressed excitement and a cheery, "Good-bye staff — see you tomorrow."

"It hasn't always been like this," Mrs. Miller confessed the next day as she received her second bouquet of roses during a preliminary "shakedown" tour. The Millers and their two elder daughters visited four towns and made appearances before eight different groups in one day.

★ ★ ★

Everywhere they went, the Miller girls attracted young people.

★ ★ ★

The girls and their mother haven't yet solved the problem of how to ride in an open car and arrive ready for a platform appearance.

At one point, after a brisk ride from Olean Airport to the town's square, where a band and officials were waiting, Mrs. Miller attempted to smooth Mary Karen's hair right there on the platform. Nor were they ruffled when press photographers attempted to catch this homey touch.

WHOLE FAMILY

The public will have their first chance to view the entire Miller family, including the two younger children, William Jr., 5 and Stephanie, known as Teffie, 2½, when Congressman Miller formally kicks off his campaign for the Vice Presidency in Lockport, New York, today.

Senator Goldwater, his wife, and children will also attend the Miller kickoff.

Polly's Pointers

Get Tots Scoopers

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Those who have had trouble getting their small tots to pick up things after dumping a big box of tiny toys on the floor will love my hint.

We bought two small plastic dust pans at the supermarket. They cost 10 cents each.

Now our small grandson loves to get his "scoopers," push them from opposite directions into the pile of toys and scoop them up in no time. He loves it and so do I.—MRS. J. H. M.

DEAR POLLY—When giving a home permanent, use a toothbrush to apply the waving lotion to each section of hair before putting on the curlers. It takes the place of a comb to straighten out the hair and also saves the hands, as the fingers never get into the lotion — MAUDE

DEAR POLLY—I place an ordinary clothespin in the lower part of a kick pleat in a skirt or dress.

It is placed underneath the top part of the pleat when the dress is taken off and left there until it is worn again. The pleat stays in place much better and the skirt hangs better.

This is especially good for garments made of heavy fabrics.—S.H.B.

DEAR POLLY—I like pretty table settings but do not like to splurge on expensive cloths. At sales, I buy inexpensive flowered or striped sheets.

I use them to match glass and china that I own and do have the loveliest tables. After a few washings, they revert to their original purpose and go into the linen closet.

Then I go on a new binge. I really get my money's worth plus plaudits for ingenuity. — C. M. S.

DEAR POLLY — After doing the dishes, if your rubber gloves are still hot and hard to remove, run a little cold water over them. Off they will come with the greatest of ease. — MRS. J. C. P.

DEAR POLLY — By mistake, I bought a new cake pan which was a fraction larger than the two I already had. It turned into an advantage when making three-layer cakes.

I put the larger layer at the bottom and it catches any icing, coconut, etc. which might drop down the sides. The layers stay in place better and they look the same size after the cake is iced.—MRS. E. B. K.

Spraying Hair Is Tricky Job

NEW YORK (UPI) — With the cosmetics industry turning out 225 million cans of hair spray a year, no wonder some of it is getting in madame's orbs.

Watch direction of the nozzle when putting the finishing touches on a coiffure, suggest Murine researchers.

If spray does get in the eyes, wash them with plain water immediately. If irritation still results, try an eye wash.

Early Marriage Is Short on Love

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Early marriage, long love," says an old German proverb. "Early marriage, short love," say the statistics.

In nearly half of the couples that end up losers in the game of love, the wife was in her teens when she married. The odds are even worse when both the bride and bridegroom are teen-agers.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

I mentioned recently that the well-known novelist, Max Erlich, thinks that writing is an ideal occupation for women who are lonely or those who have too much leisure on their hands. This is rewarding even if you never sell anything.

The following advice from Mr. Erlich is directed toward writing a novel, but most of it can be applied to writing a story or an article. "It is not necessary to write about things you know. People have the same basic motivations everywhere. I didn't know a thing about submarines before I started 'Deep is the Blue' (his new book published by Doubleday) but I sure do now.

"Ideas for a book (or story or article) can come from an overheard fragment of conversation, a person with unusual characteristics or a special event." Mr. Erlich's previous book "The Takers" was suggested by a little three-line item in a newspaper.

Mr. Erlich continued, "Writers are always too critical of their own work. Don't be afraid to submit what you've done to a recognized agent or publisher and don't be discouraged if your first effort doesn't find a taker. There are plenty of famous authors whose first two or three manuscripts got nowhere.

★ ★ ★

"If you are sending a manuscript through the mail put it in the box your paper came in and include return postage. Don't be impatient for an answer. Publishers are swarmped with manuscripts to read.

"If you are never sure when to put 'i' before 'e' it doesn't mean you can't write. Many well-known writers can't spell either. That's why editors go grey."

Here are some more tips for the budding writer. It is vital to "hook" the reader on page one in a novel and in the first paragraph or so in an article or short story.

Be acutely aware of the people and the world about you. As Mr. Erlich says, you can get ideas from something you read, something you see, an experience you have, an unusual person you meet, something someone says, an unusual situation, a line in a play, or literally out of thin air, IF you are keenly aware.

If you would like to have my long list of hobbies send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 66 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Your Neighborhood Pharmacist
A "SECRET" MESSAGE
Upon receiving a prescription from your physician, what is the first thing you do? Of course, you try to read it. Most often you don't understand all of the words. Why the secrecy in a prescription?
There is none, really. What you are looking at is simply the language of medicine — the expression of your physician's decision on what drug you require, how much you need, and how it should be taken. Your prescription is a brief, accurate note of all of this priceless information.

Star Isn't Straitlaced; Doesn't Use Underwear

By EARL WILSON

WILSON

NEW YORK — "I eat backwards," beautiful Dana Wynter said, with a shrug and a smile. "The chocolate mousse first . . . then the filet of sole . . ."

It's part of her new policy of throwing away the rules and living as she wishes, explained the fashionably slender wife of Atty. Greg Bautzer.

"I've also given up underwear," she announced. "'No underwear' is the latest thing. I've given up everything underneath except panties."

★ ★ ★

Miss Wynter dropped this remark at the Colony at lunch, and I looked around at nearby tables quickly to see if she'd been overheard. She hadn't.

"Don't you think women who don't wear underwear are more interesting?" she asked.

"When Marilyn Monroe had that policy, people were shocked," I said trying to avoid answering her question.

★ ★ ★

"Marilyn kept standing over subways," Miss Wynter retorted. "You must avoid that . . ."

"People are forced into eating what they don't want by certain rules," Miss Wynter theorized. "In the nursery, you saved the good things to the last, they gave you the dessert last to get you to eat your vegetables. I've changed the rules and have the good things first.

Miss Wynter's new policy includes a plank to prove that English girls, like herself, are not cold and do not lack sex appeal.

"It's because of our accent that they think that," she said. "In Hollywood, we have to fall down on the floor and stand on our heads to prove we're all right.

"How can the English girls be cold and stuffy? I think it's been proved that no woman can carry a picture except Liz Taylor, and remember, Liz is ours, England's, and not yours!"

"Do you have any other rules you've thrown out?" I asked.

"I was brought up in a convent," she said. "I learned 10 pretty good rules . . . I don't believe you really need any more."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

Shelley Berman's happy with his new comedy record, "The Sex Life of the Primate, and Other Bits of Gossip." He says kiddingly, "It may be the first album to be turned into an Italian movie" . . . Comic Jackie Mason, working in Atlantic City, took Sen. Pierre Salinger to lunch in a Kosher restaurant . . . Melina Mercouri refused to pose for publicity pictures with a fortune in jewelry for "Topkapi," because, "I'm not a model or a starlet — I'm an actress" . . . Paula Wayne's "Golden Boy" role is being built up.

When Sir Alec Guinness missed a "Dylan" performance last week, it was only the fourth show he's missed in a 30-year career . . . Sophia Loren wears a tattered dress in "Judith"; it was created by famed Roman designer Gia Raminini . . . Robert Preston showed up at Shine's with a shaved skull (for his "Ben Franklin" role) and asked, "Have I got 5 o'clock shadow upstairs?" . . . Paddy Chayefsky saw the film "The Luck of Ginger Coffey" and called it "this year's 'Marty' " . . . Henny Youngman's scheduled to get a pie in the face on a Soupy Sales TV'er.

ADVICE FROM THE MASTER — Konstantin Sergeyev, artistic director and choreographer of the Leningrad Kirov Ballet, assists young dancers in rehearsal in New York. The best child ballet dancers of the New York area will perform with the Kirov company in its American premiere of Prokofiev's "Cinderella" Sept. 11.

By Russian Master

U.S. Ballerinas Praised

NEW YORK (AP) — The 52 tiny New York ballet dancers, ranging in age from 6 to 14, hit a high note in international harmony, winning praise from a Soviet who knows the score.

The youngsters warmed the heart of Konstantin Sergeyev, artistic director and choreographer of the visiting Leningrad Kirov Ballet, with a one-hour rehearsal Thursday of Prokofiev's "Cinderella."

★ ★ ★

"I am most pleasantly surprised to find such young children so proficient in an art form that is not native to your land," Sergeyev said through an interpreter.

The dancers, 38 girls and 14 boys; will perform with the Kirov company's 100 members in the American premiere of "Cinderella" at the Metropolitan Opera House Sept. 11.

THRILL OF LIFETIME

The children were recruited by Simon Semenoff, a ballet master who has been working with them for a month. Their role will be only about 10 minutes in the 2-hour, 40-minute ballet, but to them it will be the thrill of a lifetime.

Recruitment and training of young American dancers, all from the New York area, will be duplicated in 15 cities on the Kirov tour. The New York group was picked from 500 who auditioned.

★ ★ ★

Impresario Sol Hurok is sponsoring the Kirov company on its American tour.

He spoke of American youngsters dancing with Soviet ballet masters: "Twenty-five years ago it would not have been possible. In 1919, when Anna Pavlova came here, there was only one ballet class in New York City.

"Now there are 6,000 to 7,000 ballet schools across the country."

★ ★ ★

At the conclusion of the youngsters' rehearsal, Sergeyev said: "Very, very well!" and planted a loud kiss on Semenoff's cheek. He shook Hurok's outstretched hand.

"Dancing — it is stronger than the atomic bomb," Hurok said.

To Discuss Services in Waterford

Progress and problems of Waterford Township's water and sewer systems will be topics of discussion at Tuesday night's meeting of the Greater Waterford Community Council.

Waterford Supervisor James E. Seeterlin; Kenneth Squires, director of the Township Water Department; Donald Ringler, assistant director of the Oakland County Department of Public Works; and engineer Felix Anderson will speak.

★ ★ ★

Among the specific topics to be discussed will be construction plans, financing and fees in connection with the two projects.

The meeting is slated for 8 p.m. at Pierce Junior High School. The public is invited.

Pinc was arrested after an exchange clerk identified him as the robber.

No Longer Real McCoy

Kathy Nolan Is Shipshape for New Role

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—You'd scarcely recognize those scroungy "Real McCoys" in their new shows for the coming television season.

THOMAS

Grampa McCoy — Walter Brennan — has changed his overalls for the fancy duds of a millionaire financier in "Tycoon."

Luke McCoy—Richard Crenna—will be playing a clean-cut, Ivy league-clothed state legislator in "Slattery's People."

And Kate McCoy—Kathy Nolan — will be shipshape and clean-tailored as a wartime Wave in "Broadside."

SLENDER 97

Our subject today is Miss Nolan, and the difference in her is more than a change of costume. For one thing, she has dropped 35 pounds from her top "McCoy" weight, down to a slender 97. And there's a new exuberance which she didn't possess during the latter stages of her five-year run in "Real McCoys."

★ ★ ★

Kathy plays a Navy lieutenant, leader of a group of Waves sent to a Pacific Island to take over a motor pool. It has been called the female counterpart of "McHale's Navy," from the same Universal City stable, and share same backgrounds. Kathy is carrying the heaviest load of the show on her slim but sturdy shoulders.

★ ★ ★

"I am just about in every page of each script except for about seven-eighths of one page," she said. "I was talking to Dick Crenna on the phone the other day and we both had to laugh.

"When we were in the 'Mc Coys,' we were always complaining about how we were always in the background and how we never got the laugh lines. Now he and I are doing shows in which we're in every shot, and we're looking for ways to get less to do!"

NOT COMPLAINING

But she's not really complaining. Even though she has been in and out of the hospital and the divorce court, she has worked at a steady clip. The fact hat she has a share of the series' profits helps maintain her enthusiasm.

ABC has indicated more than the usual preseason optimism about "Broadside," and Kathy is hopeful of a long run. She'll be grateful if it helps erase her image as Kate McCoy.

★ ★ ★

Yet even though she left the bucolic series a year before its end, she is grateful to it.

★ ★ ★

"Certainly it was good for me," she agreed. "I had done 300 television shows before it, including one series, but the public didn't know who I was until the 'Real McCoys.' It was invaluable experience for me to work with fine actor like Walter and a brilliant comedian like Dick.

★ ★ ★

"But I finally decided it was time for me to branch out on my own. I hope 'Broadside' proves that I was right."

More Teens Secking Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are three times as many unemployed teen-agers as there are any other classification of job seekers and they are largely responsible for a rise in unemployment in August to 5.1 per cent.

For the first time in 54 months unemployment had dropped in July to below 5 per cent. But the decline to 4.9 per cent was wiped out when the usual drop in teen-age unemployment in August failed to materialize last month.

★ ★ ★

Heads of families and other adults continued at the lowest level of joblessness in seven years. And the number of unemployed actually dropped by 160,000.

What sent the seasonally adjusted jobless rate up again was that teen-age joblessness usually declines 200,000 in August — 40,000 more than the case this year.

PROBLEM GETS WORSE

Harold Goldstein, a spokesman for the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the rising influx of teen-agers in the labor market is likely to heighten the unemployment problem in the next few years "if there isn't an offsetting increase in demand."

Khanh Visits Catholic, Buddhist Graves

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Khanh visited Catholic and Buddhist graves today in a move to consolidate the caretaker government he has promised to dissolve in two months to make way for civilian rule.

As the political crisis of Communist-threatened South Viet Nam appeared to ease, five Americans were wounded Friday night when a terrorist bomb exploded in a movie house 40 miles south of Saigon. The explosion at Ben Tre killed one Vietnamese and wounded 25 others.

In other developments, a U.S. Army helicopter crewman became the 191st American to die in combat in South Viet Nam since December, 1961. He was killed by Communist guerrilla fire 34 miles southeast of the capital.

Three other Americans were injured in two aircraft crashes and two U.S. Marines were wounded in a Communist Viet Cong mine field.

SAID PRAYERS

Khanh, dressed in civilian clothes, prayed before coffins of Buddhists who died during last week's antigovernment demonstrations and bitter Buddhist-Catholic street clashes. He saluted monks and gave money to survivors of the dead. Later, he placed wreaths on the Catholic graves and spoke with priests.

Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh another member of the ruling triumvirate, again reassured the nation that the military government intends to step down. He made separate radio appeals for unity to the people, the armed forces and the students.

★ ★ ★

Minh said all military officers in the government would "go back to the fighting front" as soon as a civilian government was established.

"I solemnly declare I will never act counter to the highest interest of the nation. I am determined to fight the Communists, those who would neutralize South Viet Nam, colonialists and all forms of antidemocratic dictatorship."

COUNTERS CHARGES

Minh's remarks were aimed at countering opponents' charges that the military government intends to remain in power indefinitely as a dictator ship.

Buddhist and student opposition to the U.S.-backed regime remains a potentially explosive element. Khanh's visit to the Buddhist compound came after speeches there Friday night denouncing him and the United States.

★ ★ ★

Khanh told a news conference Friday that the triumvirate of generals, organized at the height of the crisis last week, will remain in operation as a steering committee. With its approval, he said, he proposes to create a council of lawyers to draft plans for a new government in two months.

Rebel Bomb Kills Woman; 5 Yanks Hurt

SAIGON (UPI) — A bomb planted in a movie theater by Communist terrorists killed a Vietnamese woman yesterday and wounded 30 others, including five Americans, it was reported today.

The bombing occurred at Ben Tre, 40 miles southwest of Saigon.

A U.S. military spokesman said the wounded Americans included three Army officers and two civilian aid administrators. Two officers and one civilian were flown to the U.S. where they were reported in good condition.

The other two Americans were not wounded seriously enough to need hospitalization.

The wounded Vietnamese included seven men, eight women and 10 children.

PILOT KILLED

It had been announced earlier that a U.S. Army helicopter crewman was killed by Communist ground fire yesterday. He was the 82nd American killed in South Viet Nam this year.

Talks May Set Tone for Telephone Workers

DETROIT (AP) — The Communications Workers Union brought up matters of wages and reclassifications Friday in negotiations which could set a pattern for some 750,000 telephone workers across the nation.

Talks with Michigan Bell Telephone Co. are being conducted under a reopening clause in the contract, which provides for negotiations during the life of the contract.

A modern family of four persons requires about 3,212 gallons of petroleum a year directly or indirectly in the manufacture of personal goods.

School Desegregation in Mississippi

Rights Rebuff to Bring U.S. Court Suit

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — Civil rights leaders planned today to take legal action to force desegregation of white grade schools here after school officials turned down the first Negro enrollment attempts.

A spokesman for the Council of Federated Organizations, which sponsored Friday's desegregation move by two dozen Negro children, said it would file a federal suit.

★ ★ ★

The Negroes — including Ben Chaney, 12, brother of slain civil rights worker James Chaney — tried to enroll at five white schools. Authorities at each of the schools met them and read a written statement: "I cannot accept you in this school."

Meridian schools are not under specific federal court order to desegregate. Four other public school systems in the state are, and three of them are desegregating. In the fourth, Clarksdale, no Negroes tried to enroll.

NOT UNDER ORDER

The Meridian attempt was the third in recent days at schools not under desegregation orders.

School officials at Canton's Junior-Senior High School in rural Madison County and at Marks' Junior-Senior High School in Quitman are processing applications from Negro students seeking transfers into those white schools.

★ ★

Police and FBI agents kept a close watch on the Meridian schools. No incidents were officially recorded. However, COFO said three white men attempted to block Negroes at one.

The house next to young Chaney's home was shotgunned and firebombed Tuesday. Damage was slight and no one was injured.

COFO also reported that a Negro fifth grader attempted to enroll at St. Patrick's Catholic school here, but was turned away by officials because the bishop's order affects only first grades.

★ ★ ★

Mississippi Bishop R. O. Gerow this summer asked all parochial schools in the state to end segregation, beginning with the first grade this fall, on a voluntary basis.

Two Negroes registered Friday without incident for first grade at St. John's, a Roman Catholic grade school in Gulfport, and a spokesman said the two would begin classes Tuesday. It marked the first announced integration of Catholic schools in the state under the bishop's request.

STAINED GLASS Art

Towering stained glass windows serve as backdrop for Mrs. Tinney as she matches glass colors for a new window.

Painstaking detail work goes into painting facial features in metallic stain for a window in the Tinney shop.

The Harold B. Tinneys of Providence, R. I., like to think of themselves as producers of colored light. The four-member family corporation operates one of the few remaining shops making stained glass windows from the original artist's sketch to the finished product.

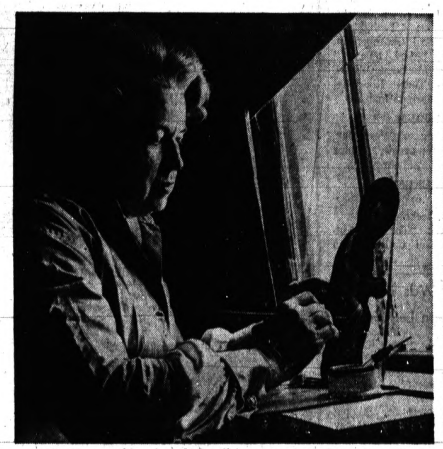

The elder Tinney is president of the firm and does most of the glass cutting and window assembly. His wife, Ruth, and son, Donald, draw the sketches for the window patterns and paint figures and detail on the colored glass. Donald's wife, Harle, helps on the production line.

The Tinneys became interested in stained glass when they bought a 52-room French Gothic castle in Newport. The castle, their present home, has wide expanses of decorative stained glass windows which had to be repaired.

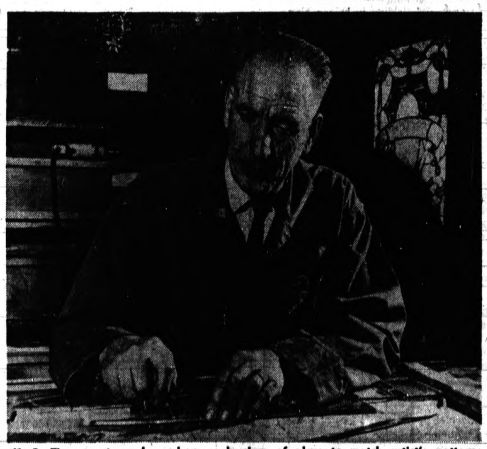

The work was done by J. Gilbert Dudley in the Providence shop he opened in 1895. When he retired two years ago, the Tinneys bought his shop and began commercial production of the stained glass windows.

Before they bought their castle, the Tinneys were art restorers. The stained glass business is a natural extension of their prior work.

Aside from the restoration of the stained glass in their castle-home, now opened for public tours, the Tinneys restore and build new windows for churches, public buildings and private homes.

Mrs. Tinney adds color which will fuse into glass under intense heat.

H. B. Tinney cuts and numbers each piece of glass to match artist's pattern.

Donald Tinney pours molten lead into forms for one of shop's projects.

Working as a team, Donald and Harle match pieces of glass to sketch for window while elder Tinney solders them into place.

The shop's most delicate operation is kiln-firing metallic stain into glass.

This Week's PICTURE SHOW by AP Staff Photographer J. Walter Green.

STROLL GROUNDS — James Roy of Detroit stops to chat with Rev. Bernard J. Wernert S.J. as he roams around the grounds of the Manresa Jesuit Retreat House, Bloomfield Hills. Mr. Roy, a teacher in Detroit Public Schools, is making a retreat with the Detroit Professional Sodality of the Queenship of Mary. Father Wernert is director of Manresa House.

Pontiac Press Photos by Phil Webb

IN CHAPEL — Praying in the chapel of Manresa Jesuit Retreat House, Woodward at Quarton, Bloomfield Hills are several members of the Professional Sodality of the Queenship of Mary from the Detroit area. The white walled chapel with arched leaded glass windows seats more than 50. The afternoon sun streaming in from the windows back of the altar shines on the cross above the ciborium. Both men and women were at the retreat over the weekend. Flowers from the gardens are on the altars.

At Manresa Jesuit House

Catholic Men, Women Make Retreat

For the first time in the history of Manresa Jesuit Retreat House in Bloomfield Hills high heels could be heard clicking down the corridors as a sodality group from Detroit made a retreat last week.

★ ★ ★

The professional Sodality of the Queenship of Mary, composed of both men and women, has sponsored many retreats since its founding 10 years ago.

Past retreats were held as far away as Petoskey and the Upper Peninsula.

"This will continue to be a men's retreat house," said Rev. Bernard Wernert SJ, director. "But we will plan to make a couple of exceptions. One for this group at a time when we used to close down the house for general repairs and cleaning, and perhaps another."

"The rest of the year we are booked solidly with men's groups which have been coming for years, and there are no plans for changing the schedule," he added.

Father Wernert said there are still some evenings when the facilities of the retreat house are not in use, and here he hopes to expand the schedule of Evenings of Recollection for men, women, youth groups.

★ ★ ★

To think straight young men must get away from the distractions of teelvision, radios, telephones, motor cars, newspapers, magazines, family problems, especially from the powerful influence of the crowd, Father Wernert said.

The sodality comprised mostly of public school teachers, seeks by prayer and consultation with Father Wernert, ways to teach character development.

Among subjects are courtesy, obedience, gratitude, charity, responsibility, patriotism, honesty, cooperation, scholarliness and sociability.

★ ★ ★

The purpose of a retreat is to make one's life more successful as God rates success. The retreat studies the great eternal truths and discovers what bearing they have on his own life. He comes to realize God has a plan for each man. The secret of success of a retreat lies in its power to build up courage in the soul of man, Father Wernert said.

SPEND DAY IN SILENCE

The program consists of prayer, reading, discussion, individual conferences with the retreat master, Mass, Holy Communion, Confession, and in strolling about the well shaded lawn and winding brook. The day is spent in silence and at mealtime reading is provided.

★ ★ ★

Manresa is not endowed, nor is it subsidized by outside sources. It must support itself. There is no fixed fee for making a retreat. The retreatant privately makes a fer iweloeffIr vately makes a free will offering at the close of the period.

"Young and old, rich and poor—men from every walk of life—may make a retreat at Manresa. The retreat here is designed for Catholics but non-Catholics are welcome, and will find the experience most helpful," were comments by the director.

FOUNDED BY JESUITS

Manresa takes its name from a small town near Barcelona, Spain where the founder of the Jesuits, St. Ignatius Loyola, formulated in 1952 a plan of spiritual exercises for a retreat. Manresa was organized in 1922 by the Laymen's Retreat League under the spiritual direction of the Jesuit Fathers.

★ ★ ★

The retreat house is located on 38 acres in Bloomfield Hills on the W. H. Murphy estate, formerly known as "Deepdale."

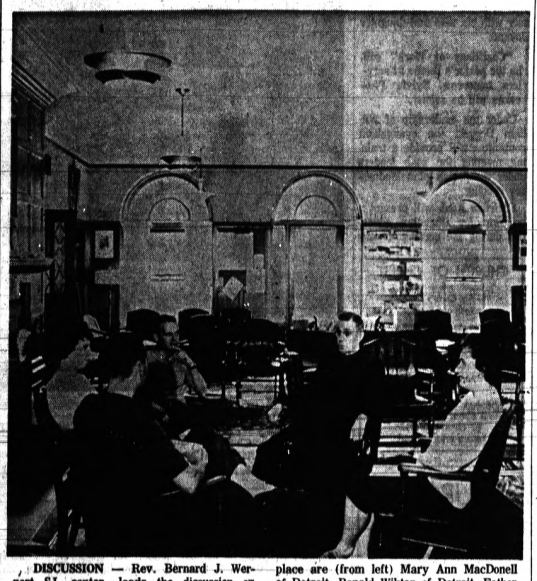

The first retreat was held on Sept. 23, 1926. They continued until the building was destroyed by fire in March 1934.

★ ★ ★

The present retreat house was finished in 1956—a stone, fireproof structure, a single room for each retreatant, modernly equipped.

Manresa was the first retreat house for laymen in the State of Michigan. The grounds contain many shrines, among which are the 14 Stations of the Cross.

The retreat last week was the 1,722nd held at Manresa.

Mexican Youth at Orchard Lake

Thirty young men who are senior and graduate students in the National Polytechnical Institute of Mexico will be guests in homes of the Orchard Lake area Tuesday through Friday.

The students are visiting educational and industrial installations in the United States and Canada on a tour that includes St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, New York, Washington, D. C. and Oak Ridge, Tenn.

★ ★ ★

In Canada they will visit Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal.

It was the Rev. Edward D. Auchard, pastor of Orchard Lake Community Church, Presbyterian who helped the students arrange the trip when he was in Mexico during the summer with his wife and daughter Joanne.

"Christians at Work" will be the pastor's theme at services tomorrow. Sylvia Pascouau will be soloist.

Under the leadership of William Doggett the evangelism committee will provide a training meeting for zone leaders under the parish plan Wednesday evening.

Christian Koch will present a program for Christian education during the coming months at the Tuesday session led by Carroll Appel.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

Rev. Eugene Pattison ordained to the ministry by the Presbytery of Detroit Sunday afternoon in First Presbyterian Church will preach in his home church tomorrow.

"Godliness and Gain" will be the theme of his Labor Day message. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Pattison of 5960 Pontiac Trail.

Mrs. Richard Harris will present the offertory solo, "In My Father's House Are Many Mansions" by McDermid.

PONTIAC UNITY CENTER

Gordon Moats will serve as Sunday School superintendent at Pontiac Unity Center during the coming yaer. "Break Through" will be the theme of Everett A. Dell's sermon at 11:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Sunday School is at the same hour.

The Metaphysical Bible Study Class is set for 7:45 p. m. each Wednesday.

Sunday School Attendance Last Sunday 1403

Mt. Hope Lutheran Starts Schedule

The fall schedule of worship and Sunday School will begin Sept. 13, at Mt. Hope Lutheran Church, 517 West Walton, according to Rev. Donald E. Helland, pastor.

Church school instruction has been offered to the congregation's youngsters on Wednesday mornings since the church was opened last June.

★ ★

The new schedule will be as follows: 9:30 a. m. — family worship, 10 a. m. — Sunday school for children in sixth grade and below, and 10:30 a.m. — Bible classes for junior and senior high school students and adults.

The sermon will be delivered during the first half-hour of the Sunday School hour, Rev. Helland said. All classes will end at 11 a. m.

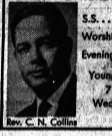

Weekly attendance is numbering close to 100 at the new church, which was opened without benefit of previous organization, Rev. Helland said.

CALL TO CONSCIENCE — Rabbi Israel Goodman, spiritual leader of Congregation B'nai Israel, blows the ram's horn as he will at sunset tomorrow to herald the Jewish New Year. The service will be held in the synagogue, 143 Oneida.

For Jews Throughout World

Sound of Shofar Ushers in New Year

One of the world's most ancient New Year's observances begins at sundown Sunday when the solemn sound of the shofar (ram's horn) ushers in the year 5725 for Jews throughout the world.

The occasion will be celebrated with public prayer in every synagogue. The feast begins a period of meditation and self-examination leading to acts of repentance and charity.

The blowing of the horn is to stir the conscience of Jews and remind them of the trust which God placed into the hands of Abraham, the ancestor of the Jewish people.

Services at Temple Beth Jacob, 79 Elizabeth Lake will be held at 8:30 p.m. with Rabbi Ernst J. Conrad, spiritual leader, speaking on "Blending Two Civilizations."

On Labor Day morning he will deliver an address entitled "The Saga of 4,000 Years." The choir will be directed by Charles Wilson. Soloists include Doralene McNeily, James Rosenthal and Duncan Sells.

★ ★ ★

Jacob Meyer will sound the shofar.

Services for the children of the Religious School will be in the Temple at 2 p.m. by members of the Temple Beth Jacob Youth Group.

CONGREGATION B'NAI ISRAEL

Services will be conducted at Congregation B'nai Israel at 6:45 Sunday and Monday evenings.

At 8 a.m. Monday Rabbi Israel Goodman, spiritual leader, will preach on "The Inner Voice" and at the same hour Tuesday he will speak on "Beyond Escape."

★ ★ ★

Cantor Isaac Katz, formerly of Mt. Clemens, will chant the liturgy.

The Junior Congregation will meet for service on both days in the small chapel of the synagogue at 10 a.m. David Utley will preside.

SHABBAT SHUVA

The Sabbath following the New Year, or Rosh Hoshana; is known as Shabbat Shuva, the Sabbath of repentance. It is marked with special prayers.

At Temple Beth Jacob regular services will be resumed at 8:30 p.m.

★ ★ ★

On this occasion Lee S. Perrin, son of Mrs. Elinor Perrin, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Horwitz, will observe his becoming a Bar Mitzah. He will conduct the Sabbath evening service and receive a special blessing from the Rabbi.

Rabbi Conrad's sermon will be "The Quest for Standards."

Dr. Pearson to Fill Pulpit at 2 Services

The Rev. Dr. Roy Pearson, dean of Andover Newton Theological School, Newton Centre, Mass., will occupy the pulpit at the Kirk In The Hills at both the 9:30 and 11:30 a.m. services tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Pearson became dean of Andover Newton Theological School and president of Andover Theological Seminary in 1954.

He won the Churchman's Award for "The Sermon of the Year" which was dramatized on a nationwide program by Frederic March, Florence Eldridge, Ralph Bellamy and Arthur Kennedy.

In addition to being an outstanding preacher and educator, Dr. Pearson is a well known author. Some of his books are: "Here's a Faith for You," "Do This and Live," "The Hard Commands of Jesus" and "His Purpose and His Practice."

★ ★ ★

Dr. Pearson is the last guest preacher of the summer series which featured some of the leading preachers of the country in the pulpit at the Kirk In The Hills.

Labor Day Sermon at Aldersgate Church

Pastor Horace G. Murry will speak at Aldersgate Methodist Church at the 9:45 a.m. service. His topic will be, "We Are Laborers Together."

Acolytes for the month are Anne Allison and Vicky Norberg. The Women's Society of Christian Service is meeting at the church Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Hostesses will be Mrs. Wayne Harrison and Mrs. Ralph Norberg.

For Easy Living at Sundown

Cook in the Cool of the Morning

Top: Frozen Raspberry Mousse in cones, Summer Vegetable Medley and Chicken-in-a-Basket for wonderful hot-and-cool eating. Right: Beef-Eater Pie and Corn-on-the-Cob with herbed butter. Cheese and fresh fruit top off this menu for hearty appetites.

Foreground: Olive-Cheese Fondue and Serve-Yourself Salad enhance burgers and franks served with iced tea. For dessert: Frosty Fruit Bowl.
A trio of do-ahead menus ideal for dining by sunset!

For a change from routine, many people dine by candlelight from time to time. But have you explored the pleasures of dining by sunset?

The soft glow of lingering daylight evokes a mood of contemplation and relaxation that can be captured only at this period of transition between day and night. All too often, however, we're so busy getting dinner ready that this lovely time of day has come and gone before we know it.

Here are three menus with time guides to launch you on a program of "easy living at sundown." Once you get in the swing of advance planning and preparation, your imagination and ingenuity will bring forth a limitless variety of family and company meals for sunset dining enjoyment by a window or out-of-doors.

Mainstays of these menus are casserole dishes prepared in the morning and finished in the oven just before dinner. Simple salads and desserts provide flavor and texture contrasts.

Convenient Casseroles

Menu #1 offers variety as well as appetite appeal with only a few dishes. Summer Vegetable Medley is a hearty combination of canned, fresh and frozen vegetables and ripe olives in a smooth sauce that's a breeze to make. Bread or rolls may be heated with the casserole. Serve fried Chicken-in-a-Basket cold. Light and refreshing Frozen Raspberry Mousse, scooped into ice cream cones, is a treat for all the young-in-heart. It can be whipped up quickly, put into the freezer and forgotten until dinner time.

Menu #2 teams two all-time favorites, Beef-Eater Pie — a ground beef mixture using convenience products in the sauce and the fluffy potato topping — and Corn-on-the-Cob. Relishes complete the main course. Pears or grapes with blue or Edam cheese make a delightful easy-do dessert. Beverages, hot or iced, depend on the weather and personal preference.

Menu #3 features Olive-Cheese Fondue, a make-ahead, bake-later casserole of bread squares, cheese, ripe olives, evaporated milk and eggs. To go along are grilled burgers and franks with a Serve-Yourself Salad. (Toasted buns are optional since there's bread in the fondue.) Slices of tomato, avocado and cucumber are the basis for the colorful salad; cooked vegetables may be added. Serve it with a mayonnaise dressing thinned with evaporated milk and lemon juice and sparked with mustard and dill weed. For a refreshing dessert in sunset colors — Frosty Fruit Bowl.

MENU #1

DO AHEAD: Fry chicken. Prepare, but do not bake, Summer Vegetable Medley. Butter bread; wrap in foil. Refrigerate chicken and casserole. Make Frozen Raspberry Mousse. Set table.

BEFORE DINNER: Heat casserole in oven (about 30 minutes). Heat bread in oven (about 15 minutes). Scoop Mousse into cones; return to freezer until serving time. Arrange chicken in basket. Make coffee or tea; pour milk.

SUMMER VEGETABLE MEDLEY

3/4 cup pitted ripe olives
1 can (1 lb.) cut Blue Lake green beans
1 cup water
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
1/4 teaspoon dried tarragon, crushed
1 package (10 oz.) frozen peas
1 cup thinly sliced carrots
1 cup thinly sliced cauliflower
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup flour
1 large can (1 2/3 cups) evaporated milk

Cut olives into rings; drain beans. In large saucepan, bring water to boil with salt, onion and tarragon. Add peas, carrots and cauliflower; cook, covered, just until vegetables are tender-crisp — 3 to 5 minutes from time of second boil. Add butter; stir until melted. Remove from heat; blend in flour, then evaporated milk. Cook and stir over low heat until thickened. Stir in olives and beans. Cover, cool, then refrigerate. About 30 minutes before serving time heat in 350-degree (moderate) oven about 30 minutes until mixture is thoroughly hot. Makes 8 servings.

FROZEN RASPBERRY MOUSSE

1 small can (2/3 cup) evaporated milk
1 package (10 oz.) frozen raspberries, thawed
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg white
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Chill milk in refrigerator tray to ice crystal stage. Sieve raspberries; add 2 tablespoons sugar. Beat egg white with salt until foamy; add remaining sugar gradually; continue beating until soft peaks form. Whip chilled milk with lemon juice until stiff. Fold in raspberries and egg white. Turn into refrigerator tray; freeze until firm. To serve, scoop into ice cream cones. Or if you wish serve in dessert dishes with crisp cookies. Makes 1 1/2 quarts mousse.

MENU #2

DO AHEAD: Prepare Beef-Eater Pie for baking. (If you prefer, prepare only meat mixture; add potato topping later.) Husk corn; place in plastic bag. Prepare radishes or other vegetable relishes; wrap in plastic. Make herbed butter for corn. Refrigerate all these. Set table.

BEFORE DINNER: Place meat pie in oven. (Add potato topping if you prepared only meat mixture in advance.) Heat about 30 minutes. Place corn in oven to roast (30 minutes), or in water to boil (5 or 6 minutes). Arrange relishes on tray. Set up dessert tray. Take herbed butter from refrigerator. Make coffee or tea; pour milk.

BEEF-EATER PIE

2 slices bacon, cut into 1-inch strips
1/2 cup coarsely diced onion
1 1/2 lbs. ground chuck
1 cup hot water
1/3 cup bottled barbecue sauce
1 tablespoon quick cooking tapioca
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
Potato Topping

Potato Topping:

1/2 cup ripe olives
1 envelope (4 servings) instant mashed potatoes
1 small can (2/3 cup) evaporated milk

Fry bacon in large skillet until almost crisp. Add onion; cook until tender-crisp. Add chuck, a little at a time; cook until browned. As meat browns push to one side of skillet and add more chuck until all is browned. Combine remaining ingredients except Potato Topping; add to meat mixture. Bring to brisk boil, stirring. Turn into 1 1/2-quart baking dish. Prepare Potato Topping; spoon over meat. Refrigerate. About 30 minutes before serving time remove from refrigerator. Heat in 400-degree (hot) oven 25 to 30 minutes until meat is thoroughly hot and topping is lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

Potato Topping: Cut ripe olives into wedges. Prepare mashed potatoes as package directs, but use evaporated milk in place of measure of milk called for and omit butter. Stir olives into potatoes.

MENU #3

DO AHEAD: Season and shape burgers; slash franks for grilling. Wrap burgers and franks. Butter buns; wrap in foil. Prepare cooked vegetables for salad; wash fresh vegetables. Make salad dressing. Prepare Olive-Cheese Fondue for baking. Make fruit bowl. Refrigerate all except buns. Set table.

BEFORE DINNER: Bake casserole (about 45 minutes). Make coffee or tea. Set up salad platter. Grill burgers and franks — indoors or out. Toast buns. Place fruit bowl on table with dessert dishes for help-yourself service, or serve later as you wish. Pour milk.

OLIVE-CHEESE FONDUE

1 cup ripe olives
6 slices day-old bread
3 eggs
1 tall can (1 2/3 cups) evaporated milk
1/2 cup water
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups (6 oz.) grated Cheddar or process American cheese

Cut olives into large wedges. Cut bread into 1 1/2-inch squares. Beat eggs lightly; blend in milk, water, onion and salt. In 1 1/2-quart baking dish arrange bread, olives and cheese in alternate layers until all have been used. Pour egg-milk mixture over all. Place in refrigerator for several hours. About 45 minutes before serving time place baking dish in pan of hot water to 1-inch depth. Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 45 minutes, or until top is golden brown and custard is almost firm in center. Remove from oven; leave in pan of water a few minutes. Makes 6 servings.

FROSTY FRUIT BOWL

Drain a can of fruit cocktail. Combine fruit in serving bowl with fresh melon balls. Mix with frozen orange juice concentrate, undiluted. Garnish with fresh mint leaves. Chill.

North's jump to six spades was what might be called a crapshooter's bid. He had no idea if his partner could make six spades, but he felt that his non-vulnerable opponents would save at seven diamonds and North was willing to settle for whatever he could get from the set.

JACOBY

East and West failed to rise to the bait and South had to struggle with his contract.

He won the first trick with dummy's ace of diamonds and led a trump to his ace. Then he finessed the queen of hearts and promptly cashed the ace of hearts.

He continued by ruffing out the last diamond and leading his ten of hearts. West was in with the king and forced to lead a club into South's ace-queen or to give South a chance to ruff a diamond in dummy and get rid of his queen of clubs. Either way it was sure death and South showed his hand.

If West had really been alert he could have kept out of the end play by dropping his king of hearts under dummy's ace.

He would look rather silly if South held the jack, but in that case he would have had no way at all to set the hand, so the king of hearts play really was indicated.

The CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

A—If you play this four no-trump as Blackwood bid five diamonds to show one ace. If you play it as a raise in no-trump simply pass. You have nothing extra to show.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Will You Please Send Me 1 Large 8-Legged Frog?

NUTLEY, N.J. (AP) — Want to buy an eight-legged frog? They're for sale here.

Youngsters have caught a couple of three-leggers, and a five- and six- and eight-legger in the past 10 days in a mudhole in Memorial Park.

★ ★ ★

Wayne Marmorstein, 12, bagged the first freak frog — a five-legger — a week ago Monday with an ordinary fishing pole.

"I showed it to all the kids," said Wayne, "and then I took it home to my mother. She told me to try to sell it."

★ ★ ★

A few days after a newspaper story appeared, Wayne got his first customer — Dr. Stanley Baker, professor of zoology at Drew University in Madison, N.J.

FIRST CUSTOMER

Baker bought the tiny five-legged creature for $3 — though Wayne now thinks he should have gotten more for it.

Freakish frogs continued showing up in the same mudhole — a couple of three-legged ones and an eight-legger which Wayne caught himself.

★ ★ ★

Baker described the discoveries as rare. A Cornell University medical school student, who is writing a research paper on frog mutations, plans to make a trip here to buy Wayne's eight-legged frog.

"But this time," says Wayne, "it'll have to be more than $3."

2,000 Periodicals Said Available to Russians

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass says that during the coming year Soviet citizens will be able to subscribe to more than 2,000 periodicals. Tass said West European and American scientific and technical journals were included, but it gave no names. Ordinary Russians may not, however, subscribe to regular Western magazines or newspapers.

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR

For Tomorrow

"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Emphasis is on your ability to make DOMESTIC ADJUSTMENT. This is not the time to be stubborn. Gain most by exhibiting sympathetic attitude. One who has helped you now requires aid.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Creative spark is ignited. Give of yourself. Put thoughts on paper. Share interests, loyalties. Day of activity which results in PSYCHIC INCOME. Be satisfied with what you do.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20): Responsibilities "catch up." Means — take a look at past — and perceive future trends. Don't carry more than you can handle. Get rid of "excess baggage." Attend church of your choice.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22): Be willing to "bend" in order to rebuild. Don't be tied to the past . . . look to future. Welcome suggestion from relatives. Show your keen sense of humor. Key is FORWARD MOVEMENT.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22): Perfect day for getting affairs in order. Clean away "debris." Includes emotional conflicts as well as physical possessions. Time for "mental house-cleaning." Concentrate on being SELECTIVE.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Your personality "shines." You can attract favorable attention. Fine for entertaining . . . seeing people in "command." Good to combine business with pleasure. Member of opposite sex can aid cause.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Your judgment many not be correct. Uncover "hidden meanings." Persons who previously were shy . . . now speak up. Analyze what you see and hear. Be suspicious of one who gossips.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Evaluate hopes, wishes. Be sure they coincide with plans made by loved one. Frank discussion is in order. Don't be defensive — talk — and discover. There is much to celebrate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): You now have facts you needed. Move ahead with confidence. Includes making business appointments. Call, write — make known your views. Obtain valuable hint from today's TAURUS message.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Finish projects. Be satisfied with job well done. Don't demand perfection. Includes expectations from loved ones — encourage them. Tie up "loose ends." Get ready for exciting week ahead!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Be concerned with the PRESENT. Don't speculate about what "might be." Be practical — especially where partnerships enter picture. Make this a day of relaxation. You've earned a brief rest!

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Do some reading. Obtain facts which have proven so elusive. Then make a FINAL decision. You know what is right. Stop swinging like a pendulum. Attend church of your choice.

★ ★ ★

IF TOMORROW IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you have artistic ability — and can charm your way into almost any "inner circle!"

★ ★ ★

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Unusual amount of bickering among public officials. Much of the news doesn't "break" until later this week. Note the seeds are being planted today!

For Monday

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): If you demand the best — you will receive it. No time for being excessively sympathetic. Others around you may not possess your high ethical principles. Be alert and EXCEPTICAL.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Slow pace. Review current situation. What you want to do — and what you CAN do — may not be the same. BE REALISTIC . . . utilize this day as a "breather." Catch emotional breath!

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20): Surprises due. Some come from members of opposite sex. Much will occur to chase worries. Creative forces are evident. Stay in tune yourself . . . and to make some BASIC CHANGES.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22): Attend to details. You may be challenged with regard to facts. Have them at hand! If you wish to put one point, see person at top. Don't waste time battling with "underlings."

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22): Good lunar aspect emphasizes writing, special reports, short journeys. Apply creative touch. Utilize charm, sense of humor. GEMINI individual appears involved in day's activities. Be sheleton.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Confer with responsible individuals. Spotlight on family affairs — and security. Important to strive for harmony. There is one close by who is not satisfied. You can clear the air with frank talk.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Cycle high. You can "star" in circle of business associates. Ideas are plentiful — and "sparks." Fight tendency to worry over minor matters. Exude confidence. Greater harmony indicated!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Concern over recent investment only natural; but to allow yourself to be unhappy would be foolish. Your cycle moving up nicely. You are going to succeed. Stress LOGICAL APPROACH . . . greater SELF-CONFIDENCE.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Your appeal is "universal." You get ahead today by being magnanimous. Appeal to as many persons as possible. A time when your confidence is "catching." Be LOVING . . . be GIVING.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): If you are sure you know what you are doing — it is well. Otherwise, there could arise embarrassing questions. Be SPECIFIC. Make up your mind. Carry through on program. Inspire CONFIDENCE.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Favorable lunar aspect highlights journeys, intellectual exhilaration through written word. You are capable of perceiving future. Act on INTUITIVE INTELLECT. Be aware of your ability to "see."

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Spread your wings. Be available for various assignments. Be anxious to learn, to try — to experiment. Time when you can make friends, break new ground. Significant day . . . with much to be revealed.

★ ★ ★

IF MONDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are introspective, often quite critical of your own efforts — capable of improving almost anything, which doesn't always make you popular with your contemporaries! Next year your life will be filled with new vigor.

★ ★ ★

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for LIBRA, SCORPIO, SAGITTARIUS. Special word to ARIES: Be realistic and make sure loved ones are doing their utmost to help themselves. Stop being a leaning post!

Grain Futures Close With Only Mild Changes

CHICAGO (AP) — Net changes in the grain futures market were generally only moderate this week, although some commodities posted rather broad daily gains in active transactions on the Board of trade.

After starting off the week under pressure and with two successive declines, soybeans attracted a revived speculative support and finished with gains of a cent or so from last week. Corn also closed about a cent higher but wheat, under pressure of late liquidation, posted a loss of more than a cent on all deliveries.

Week's Rise Best in 2 Months

Mart Gains in Face of Uncertainties

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite many uncertainties this week, the stock market made its best gain in two months.

The question of whether current auto labor negotiations would be successful and avert a walkout before next Wednesday's deadline overhung Wall Street but investors seemed optimistic. All Big Three auto stocks advanced.

The rise was irregular and halting at times, but it was there as the final statistics proved.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average advanced 9.22 to 848.31.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 3.5 to 318.2, its biggest gain since the week end ed July 4 when it advanced 4.8

In any year, the Labor Day weekend is a period of soul-searching in Wall Street, because the trend of business and the stock market is frequently set immediately thereafter. This year the auto labor talks, a presidential election and many sore spots in the foreign situation caused additional uncertainty.

Without any great furor, the stock market demonstrated its underlying confidence in the immediate future. Of 1,512 issues traded this week on the New York Stock Exchange, 901 advanced and 419 declined, a thumping verdict on the optimistic side.

Chrysler and General Motors made historic highs during the week's trading although the course of both stocks was erratic at times. Chrysler ended with a net gain of ¼ and GM with a rise of a point.

For the month of August the popular stock market averages took a slight loss, but the market as a whole was hardly worse than irregular.

Market for Steers Held Firm Trend During Week

CHICAGO (AP)—The market for slaughter steers maintained a firm trend this week as a result of reduced marketings and higher prices for dressed beef at wholesale outlets.

Slaughter steers were up as much as $1.25 a hundredweight from a week ago.

Cattle supplies were the smallest here in five weeks and for the 12 major terminals they were the smallest since March.

The market for butcher hogs was steady to 25 cents higher compared with a week ago, largely because of reduced supplies at all markets.

Little Change on Bond Mart

Prices Steady, Lower in Pre-Labor Day Lull

NEW YORK (AP)—The bond markets drifted in pre-Labor Day doldrums during this week. Prices were unchanged to slightly lower.

U. S. Treasury bond prices edged lower during the first half of the week, improved slightly, then declined at the close. Intermediate and long-term bonds drifted downward about 4-32s.

* * *

Among factors affecting the federal bond market were strong demand for bank credit, upward price pressures in some key commodities, the accelerated pace of business expansion and labor wage demands.

Corporate bond prices remained firm. Some recent issues declined 4-32s on average

LOW MONTH

The week saw the end of August, durin gwhich $150 million in corporate bonds were offered—the lowest monthly volumes for such issues since September, 1961.

Of 458 issues traded during the week 194 advanced, 164 declined, 100 were unchanged. Of the group, 43 bonds hit high for the year while eight set 1964 lows.

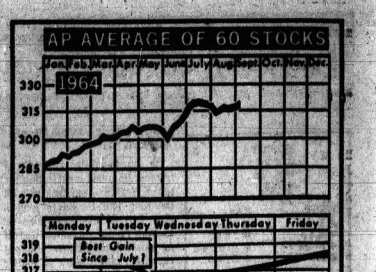

* * *

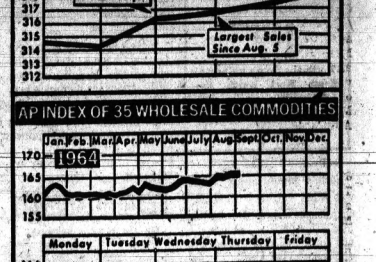

Municipal bond prices remained virtually unchanged for the fourth consecutive week. The volume of new financing was light, with less than $100 million in new issues. Volume during August was $750 million, including a negotiated $316 million Columbia Storage Power Exchange issue.

The total compares with $884 million in July and $726 million during August, 1963. Weekly volume in the next few weeks will increase to $200 million, one dealer reported.

IN FUTURE

During the month that will end Oct. 10 a total of $308,277,800 in corporate bonds will be offered. A total of $1,002,556,800, including municipal bonds, will be issued during the month.

AP Photofax

STOCKS UP, COMMODITIES LEVEL — For the first time in three weeks, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced, closing yesterday at 318.2 from 314.7 of a week earlier. The commodity index remained unchanged this week at 165.5. Gains and losses were mixed on the average.

Six Courses in Evening for Credit

Oakland University will increase its offering of evening credit courses to six during the fall semester, according to Donald O'Dowd, dean of the university.

The evening program will include for the first time two courses in education, along with two introductory courses and single courses in English and history.

Each will carry four semester hours of credit and will begin the week of Sept. 14.

An education course on the teaching of reading will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 6:30 -8:20 p. m., and another on social and philosophic issues in education on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the same hour.

* * *

A class in Western literature and an English course on the novel will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7:00-8:20 p.m.

INTRODUCTORY COURSE

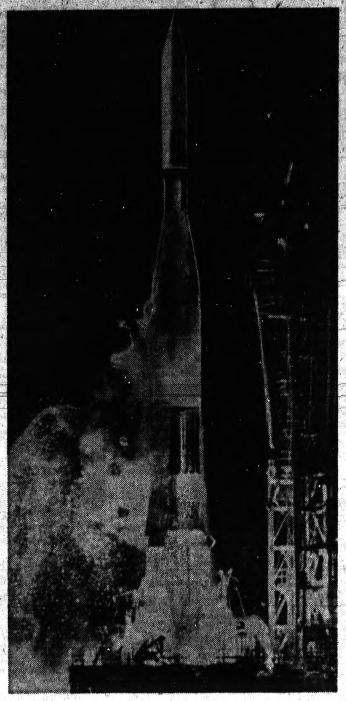

The introductory course on Western institutions will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8:30-10:20 p. m., and an English history course on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:30-8:20 p.m.

Persons interested in enrolling should contact the Oakland University admissions office.

Fall semester classes begin Sept. 14 and end Dec. 22.

AWAY GOES OGO — An Atlas-Agena rocket lifts a U.S. scientific satellite named OGO into space yesterday. The craft was to carry on some 20 experiments. Some malfunctions were noted after orbit, however.

OGO Orbited OK; but Some Parts Fail

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — OGO I swept away from earth on a perfect orbital path today, while space agency scientists tried to learn why two key experiments and the main radio antenna failed to work properly.

OGO's job is to measure potential hazards to man's space flight.

* * *

The malfunctions turned up as the 1,073 - pound spacecraft passed over the Rosman, N.C., tracking station Friday night — less than three hours after blastoff.

Scientists promptly put the OGO (Orbital Spacecraft Observatory) in a "hold" position, leaving it whirring through space until they believed the experiments could be tried again. Officials emphasized that none of OGO's 20 experiments had been turned on.

METAL MONSTER

Earlier, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported that OGO, an oddly shaped metal monster with protruding antennae, jets and eyes, had whirled into a giant oval orbit — extending from 177 to 93,313 miles, close to its planned path.

A single trip around the earth will take OGO 63 hours.

* * *

OGO is the most advanced scientific satellite yet launched by the United States. Packed into its dragonfly-shaped frame are instruments for sophisticated experiments devised by scientists from seven government laboratories and nine universities.

Besides the radio antenna, the experiments that failed to work were a magnetometer experiment on a 22-foot boom and an ion-electron measurement experiment on a 4-foot-boom.

RADIO TINKERING

By tinkering by radio with OGO as it rockets through space, scientists hope to bring the experiments to life.

Meanwhile, they analyzed telemetry data in an effort to find the cause of the malfunctions.

Difficulty with the experiments came after what the space agency called a "flawless" launch via an Atlas-Agena rocket. The second stage of the rocket injected itself into orbit as a flying launching pad and, after it coasted through space for 44 minutes, it kicked OGO into its orbit.

This was the first of six scheduled OGO launchings.

SOLAR FLARES

Among the satellites' experimental benefits would be better knowledge of potentially dangerous solar flares that could threaten upcoming astronaut flights to the moon.

Other data hoped for would provide a better understanding of the origin of cosmic rays;

More knowledge of the origins of radio noise in space.

— Data on how the solar wind interacts with the interplanetary magnetic fields, and — The actions which create the earth's magnetic fields and cause magnetic storms.

State Awards Record Project

LANSING (AP) — The Highway Department Friday announced the awarding of the largest single project in department history, for construction of the superstructure of a bridge to carry I-75 over the Rouge River near Detroit.

Joint low bidders on the project were Allied Structural Steel of Chicago and R. C. Mahon of Detroit, $8,392,125. It was the lowest of three bids.

* *

The bridge will be 1.7 miles long and will carry eight traffic lanes plus refuge lanes. The department said more than 40 million pounds of steel will be needed to build the superstructure. The bridge will cost $28 million before it is opened to traffic in 1966.

PREVIOUS LARGEST

The department said the largest previous single project was the $5.9 million award for the superstructure of the Houghton-Hancock lift bridge in the Upper Peninsula.

Reds to Build N-Powered Icebreakers

GENEVA (AP) — A Russian atomic scientist said today the Soviet Union plans to build a fleet of nuclear-powered icebreakers that will keep the Arctic Ocean open to shipping the year round.

* * *

A. M. Petrosyants, head of the Soviet delegation to the third International Atoms for Peace Conference, told a news briefing the second Soviet nuclear icebreaker will be commissioned in 1971. He said there are plans for a third ship but did not say when it is expected to become operative.

TWO REACTORS

He said the second icebreaker will have two reactors and will be an improvement on the current Lenin, which has three reactors. The Lenin has been in operation for five years in the Arctic.

Paying tribute to the American nuclear-powered merchant ship Savannah, Petrosyants said: "The Savannah has clearly shown the possibility of the construction of surface atomic merchant fleets."

* * *

Petrosyants reported that work has begun on a nuclear power plant on the shores of the Caspian Sea which by 1968 is expected to produce electricity and at the same time convert sea water into fresh water.

NO MAJOR ACCIDENTS

He said there have been no major nuclear accidents in the Soviet Union. He said safety standards are so high that nuclear power plants have been and will continue to be built within the boundaries of large towns, if these prove the most economical sites.

Petrosyants hinted that the Russians have made advancement in designing a compact reactor to power spaceships. He said Soviet scientists have been working a considerable time in this field and have come up with "interesting results."

Political Pioneer Dies

DEEP RIVER, Conn. (AP) — Mrs. Laetus Jennings, 78, one of the first women delegates to a national political convention, died Friday. She was a delegate-at-large to the 1920 GOP convention in Cleveland.

Chicago Mayor Beats Over Beatles

CHICAGO (UPI) — The forces of Mayor Richard J. Daley, victor in many skirmishes with Republicans, today scored at triumph over the Beatles.

But it was too early to determine if the City of Chicago had won unconditional surrender against the English invaders.

The scrapping surrounded the problem of getting the entertainers into Chicago from Milwaukee, where last night they left their usual wake of turmoil.

Daley had his top officials working out detailed plans to minimize the bedlam of the Beatles' appearance tonight at the International Amphitheatre.

The amphitheatre, site of many national political conventions, is not far from Daley's home.

UNDER CONTROL?

Police and fire officials thought they had the amphitheatre site under control.

They had not given much thought to the problem of throngs of frenzied fans greeting the Beatles' private plane. The officials assumed the arrival time and place would be secret.

But yesterday a public relations man told the United Press International the Beatles would land at O'Hare Airport today at 4:30 p.m. "We want a big crowd there," he said. "The Beatles themselves have asked for a big turnout."

Col. Jack Reilly, Daley's director of special events, greeted this explosively. He said he had not been able to find out himself when and where the Beatles were coming and couldn't understand why he had to get the news second hand.

"The City of Chicago is not going to spend thousands of dollars protecting them," Reilly said.

"This is just cheap publicity," Reilly added. "Chicago's not a kick town."

Night came and there were telephone calls and with dawn there was an announcement from a spokesman of the firm promoting the Beatles' Chicago appearance.

"They aren't coming to O'Hare," he said. "Col. Reilly called them up and they changed their plans."

The Beatles, he said, would land at Midway Airport. He added, "I'd better not tell you the time they're landing because I don't know what the situation is with the city."

Local Instructor Is Honored at Fair

Charles Cheng, instructor at Washington Junior High School, was among 31 educators honored yesterday during annual Teachers' Day at the Michigan State Fair.

Cheng is vice president of the Pontiac Federation of Teachers. He received a bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University and has attended the University of California.

* * *

Teachers from all sections of the state received plaques at presentation ceremonies yesterday at the fair grounds.

News in Brief

James Teets, foreman at Great Lakes Hardware, 427 Ferry, reported theft of an 8-mm Mauser rifle and shells from the firm yesterday.

Willie A. DeBoes told police someone took clothing and jewelry valued at $350 yesterday from his home at 268½ Prospect.

A radio, typewriter, electric drill and public address speaker, with a total value of over $230, were taken from the Five Points Community Church office, 3411 Walton, Pontiac Township, sometime Thursday night.

Utica Cyclist Hurt in Crash

Larry H. Phillips, 24, of 2560 Durham, Utica, is in satisfactory condition at Avon Center Hospital in Rochester today after hitting a car while riding a motorcycle.

According to Oakland County Sheriff's reports, Shirley E. Harlow, 29, of 5530 Livernois, Troy, stopped her car at the intersection of Auburn and Gerald roads and then proceeded across Auburn.

* * *

She said she did not see the motorcycle, which was traveling west on Auburn when it hit her car broadside. She was not injured.

FIVE WHEELS:

An automobile is inanimate, a thing of moving grace and beauty until a human being uses that fifth wheel (steering) then all too often it is a juggernaut of destruction.

J. L. VOORHEES

M. E. SIPLE

Cars glide along a Freeway like ants on a trail, 99% of them obey the rules of the road, one obeys an impulse, twists that fifth wheel and there is a jumble of twisted metal and a scream of pain. It is the fifth wheel we think least about yet it is the fifth wheel that causes 99% of our accidents.

There is a fifth wheel in the personal affairs of men, too. All human relations from domestic to national reach a climax when our fifth wheel is turned to a shattering thought; a politician twirls his fifth wheel, we hear picture-words, surprises, disgust, or endorsement and we go whirling into space to land on our feet or with a dull thud.

One poorly conceived twist of a fifth wheel is lethal to an army and one sudden twist of our mental fifth wheel may be as fatal to civilians. Watch the fifth wheel. Control it! We are responsible for what happens.

ELIGIBLE TO VOTE — Former Vice President Richard Nixon and his wife register at a downtown board office in New York, making him a voter in that state. Nixon said he intends to work for the Republican ticket "12 hours a day."

Acheson Back From Talks

Will Tell LBJ of Cyprus Danger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dean Acheson will tell President Johnson next week that while the Cyprus crisis can be permanently settled in time, as matters stand now war could break out at almost any moment.

The former secretary of state will see the President Tuesday. He returned Friday from a negotiation mission to Geneva with word that "a great deal" of progress was made toward resolving Greek and Turkish differences over Cyprus.

At the same time, he said publicly what officials here have been saying privately for weeks — that the policy of Archbishop Makarios, the president of Cyprus, created serious difficulty for Acheson's mediation efforts.

"The archbishop didn't go out of his way to be helpful," Acheson said. "He threw monkey wrenches into the machinery."

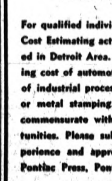

Acheson, secretary of state in the Truman administration, drew a sharp distinction between the immediate situation on the island, where Greek and Turkish Cypriot forces are arrayed against each other, and the longer range prospect for a permanent settlement giving the Mediterranean island some new status in relation to Greece and Turkey.

On Cyprus, Acheson said, the situation is so critical that "war could break out in 25 minutes." But he said he is confident "if we get a period of peace and tranquility" the Cyprus crisis can be solved.

His mediation efforts were stalled early this week because, after what officials here described as encouraging and very considerable progress, the Greek and Turkish governments were confronted with a need to make concessions that neither was willing to make now.

"We came a long way and covered a vast territory," Acheson said on arriving here after two months in Geneva, "and we have greatly removed the differences between Greece and Turkey. Now we have come to a point where it is necessary to see where we are and where we are going from here."

The question of what to do next for a settlement is the principal question he will discuss with Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other policymakers.

Kentucky Town Tries to Forget Brush With Race Violence

MOUNT STERLING, Ky. (AP)—Like a brave little boy who has skinned his knee, this quiet town on the edge of the Appalachian foothills is trying to forget its brush with racial violence.

There is little emotion to be seen among its 5,500 citizens and at least some of them would just as soon pretend it never happened.

The dispute broke out last week when the board of education, after announcing schools would be integrated this year, revised itself and said only the sixth and ninth grades would be affected. The board said there was a shortage of classroom space.

Shortly afterwards the city's all-Negro school and a Negro Masonic lodge were leveled by fire, apparently the work of arsonists.

* * *

Another fire yesterday leveled a vacant house in the Negro district and came less than 24 hours after the board changed its mind again and announced that the students and faculty would be integrated on Sept. 8.

FIRST VIOLENCE

The Mount Sterling dispute was the first flare-up over school integration in Kentucky this year.

Negro parents had threatened a school boycott and hired an attorney who has announced a possible suit in U.S. District Court to force integration of schools.

But only a few days after the first fires, the subject had been dropped from curbstone discussions and some officials declined to discuss it even when asked.

* * *

"I'd rather not say anything now — for the good of the community," the Rev. David H. Zaumeyer, former head of the city human rights committee, said.

'I'M BUSY'

"I'm busy with other things and haven't got the time to talk," said school Supt. Jack Miller when asked for an interview.

Father Zaumeyer, pastor of the Roman Catholic Parish here, added, however, that he might willingly have discussed the matter before the violence flared.

"I'd have talked about it then. And I would have said plenty. But now, I just can't go into it," he said.

* * *

Father Zaumeyer resigned from the human rights committee last month, saying city and county officials had "demonstrated complete lack of interest in lack of desire to cooperate with . . . the . . . committee."

MOST QUIT

Since the committee's formation a year ago, most of its members have quit and those who are left haven't met for months. One member, the Rev. Hayward Henry, says it never took any action.

Formation of the committee came as a surprise to some. So did an announcement a few weeks ago that complete integration — the first in Montgomery County — would take place this fall.

"I said why take any of them Negro children. We didn't ask you to integrate," W. D. Banks said of the integration announcement.

* * *

Banks, a Negro undertaker and head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Mount Sterling, believes the integration plan was fostered by a fear the city might lose school funds.

RIGHTS ACT

The new Federal Civil Rights Act calls for suspension of some school aid to those communities that have made no integration advancement. The state has reminded Kentucky communities of this.

India has set a goal of establishing 8,200 family planning clinics by 1966. The country has already established more than 1800.

Reuther Sees Progress

Note Optimism in Auto Talks

Strike Remains a Possibility on Wednesday

No New Proposals Made; Bargaining Is to Continue Today

DETROIT (AP)—An air of optimism hovered today over contract negotiations between the United Auto Workers union and Chrysler Corp., which faces the possibility of a strike next Wednesday.

UAW President Walter Reuther emerged from a late night meeting of bargaining subcommittees yesterday and told newsmen he detected hopeful signs in the form of a "give-and-take" atmosphere at the sessions.

Both sides insisted, however, that no final decisions had been reached in major matters. Most of the talks yesterday centered around non-economic issues.

Reuther told reporters at the end of a day of morning, afternoon and evening meetings that he was more encouraged than he had been previously over the progress being made in the subcommittees. They are doing "some meaningful work," he explained.

★ ★ ★

John Leary, Chrysler vice-president heading the company's bargaining team, said there were no new proposals from either side, however.

MORE BARGAINING

Reuther announced he was prepared to begin much more intensive and extended bargaining at the main negotiating table today.

Unless the pace is stepped up, he said, "we will have reached the point of no return where there will be a strike—and the time element will be against us. If we don't start Saturday, it will be too late."

The union has singled out Chrysler as its strike target in this year's negotiations with the Big Three auto makers, fixing 10 a.m. Wednesday as the deadline for reaching an agreement at the bargaining table if a walkout is to be prevented.

★ ★ ★

Contracts with Chrysler, General Motors and Ford would have expired Aug. 31, but have been extended by mutual agreement until Sept. 9.

DAILY BASIS

After that date, the Ford and GM pacts presumably would be extended on a day-to-day basis during negotiations — but some 80,000 Chrysler workers would walk off their jobs.

Asked if the union is prepared to spell out its economic demands in specific detail, Reuther replied:

"We are always ready to bargain . . . our willingness is there, if the company's willingness is."

Chile Elects a 'Moderate' as President

Vote Termed Victory Over Communists in Bitter Ballot Fight

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Pro-Western Eduardo Frei, a moderate leftist, rode to a landslide victory last night in Chile's presidential election. His success set back a serious Communist threat to the copper-rich Latin American republic.

Frei, 53, a reform-minded Christian Democrat, trounced Communist-backed Socialist Salvador Allende, who had pledged to nationalize nearly $2 billion worth of U.S. property in Chile and restore diplomatic relations with Cuba.

"We have obtained a truly immense victory. I receive this mandate of the people with humility," Frei told cheering thousands.

"Revolution! Revolution!," enraged followers of Allende shouted. They charged that President Johnson and Pope Paul VI had contributed money to defeat Allende, a plump 56-year-old physician who has lost three times in a bid for the presidency.

Allende's opponents said Moscow and Havana had smuggled money into the country for his campaign.

Heavily armed police moved into the streets to prevent clashes between the rival groups. There was no violence.

Frei followers celebrated into the night, singing and dancing in the streets. Frei, a senator, will take the government reins Nov. 4 for a six-year term. He succeeds Jorge Alessandir, barred by the constitution for seeking reelection.

Nearly complete unofficial returns:

Frei —1,463,535
Allende — 975,690

Julio Duran, candidate of the Centrist Radical party, was far behind with 128,350.

Of Negro Educator

Whites Acquitted in Slaying

DANIELSVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Two white men have been acquitted in the night rider slaying of Washington, D.C., Negro educator Lemuel Penn. However, they still face federal conspiracy charges under the new civil rights law.

Joseph Howard Sims, 41, and Cecil William Myers, 25, heard the verdict last night after a jury of white men deliberated slightly more than three hours.

A gasp and murmur arose from relatives and friends. Superior Court Judge Cary Skelton rapped for order. Relatives of the two men wept. Sims and Myers hugged their wives. They were surrounded by well-wishers.

★ ★ ★

The FBI has identified Sims and Myers as Ku Klux Klansmen.

Sims and Myers now face federal charges of conspiring to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate Penn and two companions.

Penn was killed July 11 by a shotgun blast fired from a passing car. Penn, an Army Reserve lieutenant colonel, and two other Negro officers were en route home to Washington from reserve duty at Ft. Benning, Ga.

The state contended the killing was a senseless deed.

Sims and Myers will remain in custody of the Madison County sheriff until they can be turned over to federal officers. Both are under bonds of $25,000.

★ ★ ★

"We think the bond is unreasonable since the fine for the charge is only $5,000."

MAXIMUM PENALTY

The maximum penalty on the federal charge in addition to the fine is a 10-year prison term. They must be indicted first, however, by a federal grand jury which normally would not meet until early next year.

Asked by newsmen how they could meet the bond, defense attorney James Hudson said, "These boys got a lot of friends, and we do, too."

★ ★ ★

Prosecuting attorney Clete Johnson, who asked for the death penalty, said after the verdict: "I'm disappointed. We left no stones unturned but the jury had the last say."

Deaths Climb Over Holiday

Five Young Persons Die in Oregon Crash

By The Associated Press

Holiday deaths mounted slowly today as the Labor Day weekend got in full swing.

With less than a full day gone, 84 persons have died on the nation's highways. But the National Safety Council warned that the holiday's first 24 hours are the most dangerous. The council estimated that 490 to 580 traffic deaths would occur between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday (local times).

Today's worst accident occurred near Rufus, Ore., where five young persons died in a head-on crash on US-30.

State police said identities of the victims, all believed less than 21 years old, were not immediately available.

Four of the victims were in one crash which occurred shortly after midnight.

Accident Totals

Traffic	84
Boating	1
Drowning	2
Total	87

A majority of the nation's 83 million motor vehicles are expected to log about 8.6 billion miles during the period, the council estimated.

A year ago, 557 traffic deaths were a record for Labor Day. The lowest recorded toll for the weekend was 246 in 1946.

An Associated Press comparative survey on a recent non-holiday weekend counted 506 deaths — 456 in traffic, 20 in boating accidents and 30 in drownings.

Drownings and boating accidents tend to decrease during Labor Day holidays than over periods when the weather is warmer.

City School Problem: Add Quality to Quantity

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final installment in a three-part series outlining Pontiac School District progress and growth, financed by an 8.75-mill tax levy which voters will be asked to renew next month.)

By L. GARY THORNE

Presenting a balance sheet of school operating expenses for the past decade, Pontiac school officials seek renewal Oct. 2 of an 8.75-mill tax levy for another ten years.

The balance sheet, according to Supt. Dana P. Whitmer, reflects "quantity with quality" in local schools.

Quantity comes from the added enrollment — up 5,124 pupils over 1954; added teachers —up 302; and all-around added costs—up from $309 per pupil in 1955 to $477 last year.

The matching quality, he explains, comes not only from new programs, services and facilities, but also from increased teacher salaries and new equipment.

Whitmer points to the changing expenditures of the last decade by showing how the 8.75 mills have been spent.

★ ★ ★

When the extra-voted levy was first spread, the need was for "quantity" changes. Schools were overcrowded, classes were larger, and the need was for more space.

NEW CONSTRUCTION

Thus, the school district constructed 12 new schools, including Pontiac Northern High School, and constructed additions to 12 existing schools.

All this was to update substandard facilities and meet the space requirements of a rapidly increasing school enrollment.

In 1954, Pontiac schools enrolled 16,917. This figure had jumped to 22,041 by 1963.

★ ★ ★

More students caused other expenditures to rise. For example, the district added 302

Clouds Coming to Cast Shadow Over Holiday

It'll be pleasant tomorrow, but not so nice on Labor Day. Increasing cloudiness with a high of 75 to 79 is forecast, followed by scattered showers and thundershowers with little temperature change Monday.

The low expected tonight is 70 to 75 with fair skies.

Winds today are west-northwest at 10 to 15 m.p.h. They'll be light and variable tonight and southerly at 15 miles tomorrow.

Today in downtown Pontiac the low mercury reading was 56. At 1 p.m. it was 72 in the area.

Quiet City Cobbler Lived Frugal Life

By JOE MULLEN

The Oakland Avenue shoemaker was buried today.

Frank Liachomski, 69, who came to this country from Russia in 1932, quietly operated his small shop at 159 Oakland for 30 years.

He died Tuesday. There were no relatives—no real friends.

Liachomski lived in a barren one-room apartment at the rear of his store as though each day was a renewed struggle for a basic existence.

His clothing was tattered and the food supply was skimpy. There was no refrigeration in the small room and an ancient coal stove provided the warmth on winter nights.

But, it didn't have to be this way.

ASSETS FOUND

Elmer C. Dieterle, appointed administrator of Liachomski's estate by Oakland County, has located nearly $15,000 in assets.

Dieterle, a West Bloomfield Township attorney, said that the deceased shoemaker had approximately $2,560 in cash and $1,800 in postal savings certificates in his apartment.

Six different bank accounts contained over $10,000, Dieterle said.

★ ★ ★

Liachomski had long been a critic of American government. Acquaintances in the area of his shop recall that he often would lash out at governmental operation.

SAID LITTLE

Otherwise, Liachomski, who spoke little English, had few things to say.

★ ★ ★

To date, no relatives have been located. If none turn up, the money will go to the state.

POVERTY? — A huge kettle, black from use, and a skimpy food supply indicate the poverty-like existence of the Oakland Avenue shoemaker, Frank Liachomski, 69, of 159 Oakland. Nearly $15,000 in assets were found in the same room.

Miller Blasts Humphrey

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—Rep. William E. Miller, formally opening his campaign for the vice presidency, charged today that Democratic vice presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey has a record that is "clearly one of the most radical in Congress."

Miller devoted much of his speech to an attack on Humphrey's connection with Americans for Democratic Action, which he termed "unquestionably the most influential organization in our nation's capitol attempting to subvert and transform our government into a foreign socialistic totalitarianism."

Humphrey was one of the founders of ADA, which backs what it considers liberal causes. He served as its chairman in 1949-50 and has been a vice chairman since then.

Presidential nominee Barry Goldwater headed the list of Republicans invited to this western New York city for the hometwon kick off of Miller's campaign.

Goldwater is flying 3,800-miles from Phoenix, Ariz., to appear with Miller. He was to return to his home in Phoenix afterwards.

★ ★ ★

Miller quoted President Johnson's statement that Humphrey is "the best man in America" to be vice president and added: "If Hubert Humphrey, with the program he advocates and supports is the 'best man,' then Lyndon Johnson is the 'worst.' "

Leaders Join Quiet Service for Sgt. York

PALL MALL, Tenn. (AP) — Military and govevrnment leaders mingle with other mourners today in simple civilian services for the man whose feats in war made the name Sgt. Alvin C. York a symbol of heroism.

York, a conscientious objector at the beginning of World War I, put aside his version to fighting and in the battle of the Argonne Forest killed 25 Germans and captured 132 others.

★ ★ ★

He was given the Medal of Honor, decorated by the French and Italian governments and promoted to sergeant.

Still a legend, he died Wednesday in a Nashville hospital of old age and multiple illnesses.

MOURNERS

The mourners include retired Gen. Matthew Ridgway, representing President Johnson, and Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement.

The family declined offers for state and U.S. Army facilities and made room here for dignitaries to join neighbors and then for services in the Church of Christ's York Chapel where the old soldier once taught Sunday school.

★ ★ ★

The simple rites were believed to be York's wishes.

Singapore Rioting as War Threatens

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — New race rioting flared in Singapore today as Malaysia and Indonesia moved closer to open war.

The rioting, blamed by some Malaysian officials on Indonesian agents, has left nine dead.

★ ★ ★

The king of Malaysia signed a decree today which proclaimed the entire country a national "security area." The decree permits local authorities to impose curfews and ban unlawful assembly and gives police sweeping powers.

In Indonesia, President Sukarno, who has vowed to "crush" Malaysia, held another emergency meeting with his top advisers. The official "Indonesian news agency Antara said he will make an important announcement soon about the 'present critical situation."

SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of the U.N. Security Council will be held in New York next Wednesday to consider Malaysia's charges that Indonesia is committing aggression against the federation. Malaysia has accused Indonesia of backing recent small-scale invasion attempts.

Indonesia's armed forces have been placed on a state of alert.

★ ★ ★

In Singapore, just across the Malacca Straits from Indonesia, Malaysian officials battled against more rioting which some suspected was inspired by undercover agents from Indonesia.

The Singapore rioting, involving Malays and the sizeable Chinese community, erupted during a brief break in the curfew clamped on the city Friday.

15 INCIDENTS

Ten automobiles were set on fire and the government radio reported 15 incidents during the 3½ hour riot. Tear gas was used to break up one clash.

More than 60 persons were listed as injured and 160 arrested since the rioting began Wednesday.

Reds Play Down, Ignore Declaration by Italians

By The Associated Press

Initial reports from Communist parties inside and outside the Iron Curtain indicated today that a virtual declaration of independence from Moscow by the late Italian Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti was either played down by official newspapers or simply ignored.

★ ★ ★

Communist Hungary and Bulgaria maintained official silence concerning the maifesto, which Togliatti wrote just before his fatal illness last month. Hungarian and Bulgarian parties support Premier Khrushchev's plans for a Communist summit conference in Moscow to discuss the Soviet-Red Chinese dispute. Togliatti opposed the meeting.

NO MENTION

The Communist-controlled radio and press of East Germany made no mention of the memorandum. East Germany is probably Moscow's staunchest supporter.

Czechoslovakia, another Khrushchev supporter, was silent on Togliatti's memorandum.

★ ★ ★

Even the Romanian party, whose reservations about the risks involved in an early summit meeting match those of the Italian party, had nothing to say. Western experts, however, believe that the Romanians will not hesitate to publish Togliatti's ideas whenever they see fit.

FIRST TO SPEAK

The Romanians were the first to speak out for autonomy for Communist parties, as urged by Togliatti. Last April, the Romanian party launched a strong appeal for equality between the Soviet and the other Communist parties and bluntly told the Russians that the days of Soviet domination are gone.

There was no immediate comment from Red China, which has said a summit meeting would split the world Communist movement. This was Togliatti's view.

★ ★ ★

In Western Europe the French Communist party took issue with the Italian party's stand by saying there is a need for an international unity conferece. The French party is also a faithful backer of Khrushchev in his conflict with the Red Chinese.

The French Communist party organ, L'Humanite, published substantial extracts from the memorandum. The extracts were placed on page three under a story reporting Khrushchev's renewed call in Prague for a world meeting of Communist leaders.

No. 1 Leader of U.S. Reds Dead at 74

MOSCOW (AP) — Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, chairman of the American Communist party, died here today after a brief illness, Tass announced.

The official Soviet news agency gave this account:

"An outstanding figure in the American and international labor and Communist movement, Elizabeth Flynn was born in 1890 in the town of Concord, N.H.

★ ★ ★

"At the age of 16, Flynn joined the industrial workers of the world and from that time on she devoted her entire life to the labor movement. At the end of the '30s, she was elected member of the National Committee of the U.S. Communist party and was elected chairman of the Communist party in 1961."

3RD TO DIE

She was the third leader of a foreign Communist party to die this summer. Palmiro Togliatti, chief of Italian Reds, died in Yalta Aug. 21. Maurice Thorez, French party chieftain, died of a heart attack on a Soviet cruise ship crossing the Black Sea toward Yalta six weeks before.

LOSER IN GAME OF 'DODGE-'EM'—The 1964 Cadillac shown above is one of seven new cars damaged by vandals yesterday afternoon at the Jerome Motor Sales storage garage, 675 S. Saginaw. Police said the cars, which included a 1965 Cadillac, four 1964 Cadillacs and two 1964 Oldsmobiles, were driven around at high speed inside the building and deliberately smashed up sometime between 6 and 6:30 p.m. No estimate of the total damages was available.

One More Witness Remains

Little New in Cuba Travel Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities has completed two days of hearings that produced a spurt of violence, endless harangues and very little new information about student travel to Cuba.

★ ★ ★

The committee's work is not done. It still has to question a witness who was hospitalized after a follower of the American Nazi party had attacked him despite the host of police and marshals in the big committee room.

The United States does not recognize Cuba and prohibits all but officially sanctioned travel to the Communist-governed island.

So far the committee has interrogated a participant, the leader and an organizer of the trip that 84 young people made to Cuba this summer, defying a ban by the State Department.

SAME STORY

All three repeated the same things they had said many times before in news conferences in Havana, New York and elsewhere and continually refused to say much else.

When asked to discuss the intricacies of the trip's financing, their own personal finances, or the part other people played in the trip, each witness invoked the 5th Amendment to the Constitution which provides protection against possibly self-incriminating testimony.

★ ★ ★

On one occasion Friday, however, Albert Maher, 22, of Houston, who the committee said had been described as a millionaire's son, dropped the 5th Amendment protection to answer one question about his personal finances.

Rep. George F. Senner, D-Ariz., asked the young man if he had contributed any money to incite a street riot after the passage of the civil rights bill.

INSULTING QUESTION

"That's a ridiculous question," Maher said, "just like this committee. The answer is no, but I consider this an insulting question."

Maher, who said he was a member of the executive board of the Student Trip To Cuba Committee and had taken part in a similar excursion last summer, denied he was either a member of the Communist party or the Progressive Labor Movement. The committee says the Progressive Labor Movement is an offshoot of the Communist party but tends to follow the Chinese Communist line rather than that of the Soviet Union.

Burglar Nonchalant; Bandits Nonplussed

A burglar with more than a touch of daring broke into the Shamrock Bar in Utica yesterday morning, taking $200 from a cash register.

Utica police said that sometime between 3:30 a.m. and 5 a.m., entry was gained into the building by breaking a rear window.

★ ★ ★

With unusual nonchalance, however, the thief spurned his clandestine entryway and left the scene of the crime by walking out the front door.

The Shamrock Bar is located at 7700 Auburn, almost next door to the Utica Police Department.

Two masked men, armed with a pistol and a sawed-off rifle, walked in the back door of the 48 Club, 848 Woodward at 1:45 this morning.

★ ★ ★

George W. Killinger, club owner, and all but one person walked out the front door before the bandits had a chance to hold up anyone.

They tried to clean out the cash register. The machine jammed.

The disgusted bandits left without sampling the merchandise or paying any attention to the lone remaining customer, said Pontiac police.

more teachers to its payroll, giving a total of 923.

OTHER INCREASES

Other cost increases provided added secretaries, custodians, equipment, supplies, libraries, cafeteria kitchens and multipurpose rooms.

Meantime, the cost of living index has risen more than 14 per cent in the 10-year period.

"This has meant that each year it has cost more to do just what was done in the previous year — without any changes or enrollment growth," Whitmer said.

The school chief shows the cost of living hike through the cost of textbooks.

1954 COST

The 1954 price for a fifth grade arithmetic text was $1.53, while the 1962 price was $2.34. An 8th grade history book cost $2.79 previously and in 1962 cost $3.90.

Since teacher salaries make up about two-thirds of school operating costs, the added teachers and salary increases are big factors in hiking school costs, Whitmer states.

An instructor with a bachelor's degree netted $3,700 in 1954, while in 1963 he received $5,000.

★ ★ ★

"Competition among school districts for good teachers is very keen," says Whitmer, "so Pontiac has to keep teachers' salaries that are competitive.

NOT THE BEST

"Pontiac's salaries are not the best, but they have kept pace with trends."

Another "quality" increase has been added instructional materials and equipment. The amount spent per pupil has jumped from $10.98 in 1954 to $18.55 in 1963.

While costs have increased, local taxpayers have also had to assume a larger portion of school costs. State aid has dropped from 47 per cent ten years ago to 36 per cent in 1963.

★ ★ ★

Despite increased operating costs, Pontiac taxpayers have enjoyed a relatively stable tax rate from 1954-64, Whitmer said.

RATE DECREASED

In fact, he said that the 1964 tax rate of $19.58 is less than the 1959 rate of $19.68.

Since the 8.75 mills is about 45 per cent of the total tax rate for schools, it produces an essential part of the total school income each year, Whitmer concluded.

Typhoon Rips Hong Kong

HONG KONG (UPI) — Typhoon Ruby smashed into Hong Kong with killer winds up to 120 miles an hour today, leaving behind a vast toll of dead and injured and extensive property damage.

At least 16 persons were killed, 303 were injured and 25 were missing in the storm which dumped at least 7 inches of rain on the city in 24 hours and caused considerable flooding.

Casualty figures mounted hourly.

Ships in the harbor were ripped from their moorings and set adrift.

★ ★ ★

At least two sank from the battering winds and another 10 ran aground. One of the sunken ships was described as a "large vessel."

ADDITIONAL CRAFT

An additional 120 junks, yachts and "pleasure craft" also were reported to have gone down. Most of those missing were from the sunken ships.

Weather bureau officials said the center of Typhoon Ruby passed 20 miles south of Hong Kong and was roaring off towards the coast of Communist China in the area around the Pearl River.

Minneapolis Will Welcome Humphrey

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey returns to the city he once served as mayor to open his campaign tonight for the nation's second highest elective office.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee will speak at the University of Minnesota, where he was graduated in 1939 after 10 years of Depression-interrupted studies.

It will be the senator's first visit to his home state since last month's Democratic National Convention, where he became the first Minnesotan to win a place on a major national political ticket.

MOTORCADE

After flying to Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport, Then he was to go to Minneapolis.

Gov. Karl Rolvaag proclaimed the day "Hubert Humphrey Day" and headed the airport welcoming contingent.

Democratic leaders, worried by distractions of the Minnesota State Fair at St. Paul and the usual Labor Day weekend exodus from the Twin Cities, placed newspaper advertisements calculated to help fill the university auditorium.

Sailor Killed, 8 Hurt on U.S. Ship Off Italy

TRIESTE, Italy (AP)—A sailor was killed and eight were burned or overcome by fumes in an engine room accident last night aboard the U.S. Navy's missile carrying frigate MacDonough.

The MacDonough, of the U.S. 6th Fleet, has been at anchor here for several days. An oil line broke, spraying oil on a boiler, which gave off smoke that filled the room.

Adult Classes Added for Coming School Year

BIRMINGHAM — More and more adults are joining children in making back-to-school plans here.

★ ★ ★

Birmingham Public Schools' department of added education offered a total of 196 classes during the 1963-64 school year. They attracted more than 3,400 adults.

The 75 classes to be available this fall include those which have proven successful in the past — languages, bridge, sewing, psychology and others.

Added to these will be humanities, flower arranging, IBM data processing machines, family mental health, religion and social conflict, expository writing and 20th century music.

★ ★ ★

Registrations for the fall term will be taken from Sept. 8 to Sept. 18 in the department of added education office of the Hill Building, Chester and Martin. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

BEGIN SOON

Most classes will begin during the week of Sept. 21 and continue for 10 weeks. A complete listing of the fall program has been sent to each Birmingham school district resident.

New course offerings are based on inquiries and requests from prospective students.

★ ★ ★

Classes can be offered in any subject area where facilities and instruction are available, according to Howard L. Malwitz, added education coordinator.

Burley Laurimore

'65 CONTINENTAL — Two models, a four-door convertible and a four-door sedan (above), are offered by Lincoln Continental in its 1965 line. Front-wheel disc brakes are standard. The '65 model sports improvements in engine, chassis and body.

Lincoln-Mercury Unveils '65 Continental

The Lincoln-Mercury Division of Ford Motor Company today unveiled the 1965 version of its Lincoln Continental.

Boasting a host of engine, chassis and body improvements, including front wheel disc brakes as standard equipment, the new models will be introduced to the public at Lincoln-Mercury dealerships Sept. 21.

In the Pontiac area, the new Lincoln Continental will be displayed at Lloyd Motors Inc., 1250 Oakland.

The Continental sports a new hood with slightly raised center panel, flush-mounted parking lights and turn signals, and slightly recessed grille with the center portion thrusting forward, giving a new front end appearance.

★ ★ ★

Taillamps are superimposed with horizontal grillework over the lenses, while the Continental emblem is centered on the broad rear deck.

REFINEMENTS

Engineering refinements incorporated in the '65 model include improved radiator cooling, a new oil filler cap, and a new six-blade, variable-speed aluminum fan for air conditioned cars.

Transistorized ignition is optional for 1965.

Another refinement is a new integral steering gear. Also, the Continental claims improved riding comfort through use of new front suspension strut bushings which reduce harshness.

★ ★ ★

Lincoln Continental again offers many convenience and luxury features as standard equipment that are extra cost options on other cars.

STANDARD ITEMS

Standard on the Continental are automatic transmission, power steering, power brakes, 6-way power seat, power windows, seat belts and retractors, trip odometer and whitewall tires.

In addition, AM radio with fully retracting power antenna and rear seat speaker also is standard.

Most People Were Dazed, Nervous, Grieving

Psychology Report Describes Reactions to Kennedy Killing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Less than two hours after it happened, 92 per cent of Americans had heard of President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

Of 1,400 adults interviewed, nine of 10 experienced one or more of 15 physical symptoms during the four days climaxed by the funeral.

Two-thirds "felt very nervous and tense."

A majority felt "sort of dazed and numb."

At some period most people — men and women — cried.

REPORT HIGHLIGHT

These are highlights of a report, "Assassination! — how the American public responded," given Friday to the annual meeting of the American Psychological Association.

★ ★ ★

It was prepared by Drs. Paul B. Sheatsley and Norman M. Bradburn of the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago.

"The vast tide of public grief which welled up upon the assassination of President Kennedy — among rich and poor, friend and foe, in all parts of the country — was probably unprecedented in history," they wrote.

They said they regard the public's response to its grief as "a remarkable demonstration of the political maturity and fundamental good sense of the American people."

POSSIBLE RESPONSE

The U.S. public could have responded "in a number of indesirable ways," the researchers suggested. Political opponents could have shown satisfaction. A violence-sated public could have shrugged off the tragedy. Or, "would we have been surprised, when the alleged assassin was revealed as an active leftist with a Russian wife, if the public had responded to the event with a vast wave of anti-Communist hysteria?"

★ ★ ★

The psychologists said, however, "It is gratifying to be able to report that none of these reactions was characteristic of more than a very tiny fraction of the American public."

Most persons said they dropped whatever they were doing to listen to radio-television reports, discuss the assassination or quietly grieve. Less than one in five could carry on normal activities.

LONG FOUR DAYS

In the four days between assassination and funeral, nearly half of the people interviewed reported trouble sleeping. About the same number had a loss of appetite.

"The first reactions of nine Americans out of 10 were of sympathy for Mrs. Kennedy and the children, and deep feelings of sorrow that 'a strong young man had been killed at the height of his power,'" the researchers said.

★ ★ ★

A "great majority" also expressed regret over the slaying of the accused assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald. The report added: "About one-third specifically stated their sorrow that he had been deprived of a fair trial."

Anna Dispenses Last Charm

Sorceress Put Out of Businses

MOSCOW (AP) — Anna Shalygina's sorcery business was booming until dissatisfied clients began complaining to the law.

Anna's dealings are described in a law journal. It does not say where she plied her trade, but it indicates her racket is too common in the Soviet Union.

★ ★ ★

Anna during the day was a textile factory worker who always fulfilled her work norms 105 per cent.

After working hours, she dispensed charms, potions and magic incantations. Gullible friends and neighbors paid fancy prices.

SEEKS TREATMENT

Last April, a woman came to her for treatment of assorted aches, pains and hearing difficulties.

Anna demanded 105 rubles, officially worth $112. That is a month's salary for most Soviet workers.

"Isn't that quite a bit?" the patient protested.

★ ★ ★

Anna said she didn't think so and then peered into a nearby bucket of water and predicted her visitor was marked for death.

"Hearing this, the woman wasn't going to argue about prices," the journal relates. "She went home, took the money — all her savings — out of her trunk and gave them to the witch."

POURS WATER

The magic treatment consisted of pouring water all over the naked woman through a religious ikon — all the time muttering mysterious incantations.

After this chilling treatment in Anna's drafty shack, the woman went to bed with a fever. Her sister went to the medicine woman and got her money back.

★ ★ ★

Getting wayward husbands and boy friends to return to loved one was complicated — six treatments with the payment of a fee each time.

Shalygina also accepted payment in kind, vodka — she liked 40 per cent alcohol — flour, sometimes hard to get in the Soviet Union, tea and delicacies.

At her trial, she told the court:

"I, of course, don't believe in sorcery and I have all my illnesses treated at the polyclinic."

Despite her plea that "it would never happen again," Anna got two years.

Nikita Tells Czechs Chinese 'Wreckers'

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Premier Khrushchev, in another scathing attack on Peking, says Red Chinese leaders deliberately are trying to keep the Communist world divided.

In a speech here Friday night, he repeatedly referred to the Chinese as "wreckers" and accused them of "playing into the hands of the imperialist forces."

★ ★ ★

"It is well known," he thundered, "that the leaders of the Chinese Communist party do not want to remove differences."

This was uttered in connection with a statement which chided certain other Communist leaders reluctant to attend a worldwide communist conference in Moscow to settle the Peking-Moscow feud.

ITALY INDICATED

His statements were regarded by political observers as being partially directed at the big Italian Communist party, which Friday released a manifesto of independence.

The manifesto was written by Italian Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti just before he died last month in the Soviet Union. Togliatti suggested that the world's Communist parties should have the freedom to make their own policies. He also expressed reservations about any showdown conference on the Moscow-Peking quarrel.

★ ★ ★

In an apparent reply, Khrushchev noted that some Communist parties are "expressing doubt as to whether a conference of Communist and workers parties would be useful under the present conditions."

He added: "They are sincerely trying to prevent a schism in the Communist movement and to seek ways to unity. These intentions are good, but to put them into practice it is necessary to get together."

ACCUSES CHINESE

But, Khrushchev declared, the Chinese do not want to end the Moscow-Peking feud. And he accused them of attempting to form some kind of magic circle and blackmail the fraternal parties by threatening them with the rift. Quietly, for some time, they have been preparing a conference of the representatives of the wrecking groups and making every effort to slander the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries.

★ ★ ★

"Things have gone so far that the Chinese leaders are making territorial claims (on the Soviet Union) and one wonders that they do not suggest the dismemberment of the Soviet Union."

Khrushchev also said the Communist rift has encouraged the United States to commit "aggressive actions" against Communist North Viet Nam and affairs of Laos."

Khrushchev spoke on the eve of his departure after a 10-day visit to Czechoslovakia.

Simulated Moon Tests Astronauts

CRATERS OF THE MOON, Idaho (AP) — Three astronauts are making passes at an earthbound namesake of their real desire.

★ ★ ★

It sounds almost like a publicity stunt—picking a lava flow formation on earth called Craters of the Moon to practice landing approaches that will be used when the United States puts a man on the real moon.

But the astronauts say the area in southern Idaho which is a national monument is similar to the terrain on the moon.

★ ★ ★

These three astronauts — civilian Elliott See and Air Force pilots Capt. David Scott and Maj. Edwin Aldrin — are not necessarily the ones who will make the first landings. But what they learn will be utilized.

DARK GOGGLES

They wear dark goggles which are adjusted to simulate various degrees of light. Sometimes the moon is in direct sunlight. The rest of the time the surface is illuminated by the reflection of sunlight from the earth — earthshine.

★ ★ ★

The intensity varies and the goggles simulate this variation. They use T33 jet trainer airplanes with the begoggled astronaut in the front seat.

Somewhere above the moon's surface the astronaut will take over the automatic controls of the rocket.

★ ★ ★

How high above?

That's one of the questions being investigated during the Craters of the Moon project which started Thursday and ends this weekend.

Asks Review of MD Checks

Kelley Action Stirred by Reported Fraud

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley called Friday for "a sweeping review of registration and policing procedures which he said permitted an unlicensed Michigan man to masquerade as a physician for four years without being discovered.

Kelley said he had learned from the State Board of Registration in Medicine that it has only one investigator in the entire state, which has more than 8,000 medical physicians.

Kelley reported Thursday that Thomas M. Novak, 29, of Livonia, had earned $85,000 during four years while posing as a physician.

Novak had no medical degree and apparently picked up his medical knowledge while visiting different medical schools "and simply putting on a white coat to walk into a hospital," Kelley said.

NO CHARGES

No charges yet have been placed against Novak but William P. Long, an assistant Wayne County prosecutor, said he expected to request a warrant next week.

Kelley said Novak might be charged with practicing medicine without a license.

Kelley said the lone investigator employed by the board of registration in medicine traveled 8,286 miles in the last fiscal year conducting scores of investigations.

STILL QUESTIONS

He said there are still some questions remaining to be answered, listing these is:

1. What are the procedures for checking to determine if those who hold themselves out to be physicians are in fact registered?

2. Are the investigating staffs of the proper state agencies adequate in size and training?

3. Are the proper state agencies receiving adequate appropriations for services, other than investigations, or are we exposing our citizens to such hoaxes through false economy?

4. Do the statutes regulating the profession and dispensing of drugs and the punishing of violations need eightening?

Plot to Kill LBJ Was a Hoax

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Puerto Rican narcotics addict who told of a plot to kill President Johnson, triggered an assassination scare at the Democratic National Convention, it has been disclosed.

Although the plot turned out to be a hoax, security measures for the President were unusually strict at the convention. Johnson gave up his usual practice of stopping in crowds in the streets to shake hands.

The first public word of the episode came from Frank Irwin, the Texas Democratic chairman. He spoke before the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Austin, Tex., Thursday and said the incident was "a terrible scare on the last day of the convention."

Irwin apparently did not realize that the alleged assassination plot was a hoax. He said he understood it was discovered when New York City police arrested a Puerto Rican who said he was on his way to Atlantic City to take part in the plot..

A spokesman for the New York police department said the Puerto Rican — who was unarmed—was an addict arrested on a charge of grand larceny last Aug. 11. Eight days later he mentioned the assassination plot.

SECURITY FORCES

Police quickly called the Secret Service and the FBI.

Before the incident was branded phony, it brought memories of an attempt to kill President Truman on Nov. 1, 1956.

Two fanatic Puerto Rican members of a nationalist movement tried to shoot their way into Truman's residence at Blair House in Washington.

Griselio Torresola of New York, was wounded. One guard, Pvt. Leslie Coffelt, died in the gun battle and two other guards were wounded. Truman was not harmed.

A police spokesman in Atlantic City said his department did not hear of reports of the alleged plot until shortly before Johnson was to deliver his speech accepting the nomination. That was Thursday, Aug. 27.

Star Isn't Straitlaced; Doesn't Use Underwear

WILSON

NEW YORK — "I eat backwards," beautiful Dana Wynter said, with a shrug and a smile. "The chocolate mousse first . . . then the filet of sole . . ."

It's part of her new policy of throwing away the rules and living as she wishes, explained the fashionably slender wife of Atty. Greg Bautzer.

"I've also given up underwear," she announced. "'No underwear' is the latest thing. I've given up everything underneath except panties."

★ ★ ★

Miss Wynter dropped this remark at the Colony at lunch, and I looked around at nearby tables quickly to see if she'd been overheard. She hadn't.

"Don't you think women who don't wear underwear are more interesting?" she asked.

"When Marilyn Monroe had that policy, people were shocked," I said trying to avoid answering her question.

★ ★ ★

"Marilyn kept standing over subways," Miss Wynter retorted. "You must avoid that . . ."

"People are forced into eating what they don't want by certain rules," Miss Wynter theorized. "In the nursery, you saved the good things to the last, they gave you the dessert last to get you to eat your vegetables. I've changed the rules and have the good things first.

Miss Wynter's new policy includes a plank to prove that English girls, like herself, are not cold and do not lack sex appeal.

"It's because of our accent that they think that," she said. "In Hollywood, we have to fall down on the floor and stand on our heads to prove we're all right.

"How can the English girls be cold and stuffy? I think it's been proved that no woman can carry a picture except Liz Taylor, and remember, Liz is ours, England's, and not yours!"

"Do you have any other rules you've thrown out?" I asked.

"I was brought up in a convent," she said. "I learned 10 pretty good rules . . . I don't believe you really need any more."

ADVICE FROM THE MASTER — Konstantin Sergeyev, artistic director and choreographer of the Leningrad Kirov Ballet, assists young dancers in rehearsal in New York. The best child ballet dancers of the New York area will perform with the Kirov company in its American premiere of Prokofiev's "Cinderella" Sept. 11.

By Russian Master

U.S. Ballerinas Praised

NEW YORK (AP) — The 52 tiny New York ballet dancers, ranging in age from 6 to 14, hit a high note in international harmony, winning praise from a Soviet who knows the score.

The youngsters warmed the heart of Konstantin Sergeyev, artistic director and choreographer of the visiting Leningrad Kirov Ballet, with a one-hour rehearsal Thursday of Prokofiev's "Cinderella."

★ ★ ★

"I am most pleasantly surprised to find such young children so proficient in an art form that is not native to your land," Sergeyev said through an interpreter.

The dancers, 38 girls and 14 boys, will perform with the Kirov company's 100 members in the American premiere of "Cinderella" at the Metropolitan Opera House Sept. 11.

THRILL OF LIFETIME

The children were recruited by Simon Semenoff, a ballet master who has been working with them for a month. Their role will be only about 10 minutes in the 2-hour, 40-minute ballet, but to them it will be the thrill of a lifetime.

Recruitment and training of young American dancers, all from the New York area, will be duplicated in 15 cities on the Kirov tour. The New York group was picked from 500 who auditioned.

★ ★ ★

Impresario Sol Hurok is sponsoring the Kirov company on its American tour.

He spoke of American youngsters dancing with Soviet ballet masters: "Twenty-five years ago it would not have been possible. In 1919, when Anna Pavlova came here, there was only one ballet class in New York City.

"Now there are 6,000 to 7,000 ballet schools across the country."

★ ★ ★

At the conclusion of the youngsters' rehearsal, Sergeyev said: "Very, very well!" and planted a loud kiss on Semenoff's cheek. He shook Hurok's outstretched hand.

"Dancing — it is stronger than the atomic bomb," Hurok said.

To Discuss Services in Waterford

Progress and problems of Waterford Township's water and sewer systems will be topics of discussion at Tuesday night's meeting of the Greater Waterford Community Council.

Waterford Supervisor James E. Seeterlin; Kenneth Squires, director of the Township Water Department; Donald Ringler, assistant director of the Oakland County Department of Public Works; and engineer Felix Anderson will speak.

★ ★ ★

Among the specific topics to be discussed will be construction plans, financing and fees in connection with the two projects.

The meeting is slated for 8 p.m. at Pierce Junior High School. The public is invited.

About one per cent of the total land area of the 50 states and the District of Columbia together is controlled by the nation's military departments.

No Longer Real McCoy

Kathy Nolan Is Shipshape for New Role

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—You'd scarcely recognize those scroungy "Real McCoys" in their new shows for the coming television season.

THOMAS

Grampa McCoy — Walter Brennan — has hanged his overalls for the fancy duds of a millionaire financier in "Tycoon."

Luke McCoy—Richard Crenna —will be playing a clean-cut, Ivy league-clothed state legislator in "Slattery's People."

And Kate McCoy—Kathy Nolan — will be shipshape and clean-tailored as a wartime Wave in "Broadside."

SLENDER 97

Our subject today is Miss Nolan, and the difference in her is more than a change of costume. For one thing, she has dropped 35 pounds from her top "McCoy" weight, down to a slender 97. And there's a new exuberance which she didn't possess during the latter stages of her five-year run in "Real McCoys."

★ ★ ★

Kathy plays a Navy lieutenant, leader of a group of Waves sent to a Pacific Island to take over a motor pool. It has been called the female counterpart of "McHale's Navy," from the same Universal City stable, and share same backgrounds. Kathy is carrying the heaviest load of the show on her slim but sturdy shoulders.

★ ★ ★

"I am just about in every page of each script except for about seven-eighths of one page," she said. "I was talking to Dick Crenna on the phone the other day and we both had to laugh.

"When we were in the 'Mc Coys,' we were always complaining about how we were always in the background and how we never got the laugh lines. Now he and I are doing shows in which we're in every shot, and we're looking for ways to get less to do!"

NOT COMPLAINING

But she's not really complaining. Even though she has been in and out of the hospital and the divorce court, she has worked at a steady clip. The fact hat she has a share of the series' profits helps maintain her enthusiasm.

ABC has indicated more than the usual preseason optimism about "Broadside," and Kathy is hopeful of a long run. She'll be grateful if it helps erase her image as Kate McCoy.

★ ★ ★

Yet even though she left the bucolic series a year before its end, she is grateful to it.

★ ★ ★

"Certainly it was good for me," she agreed. "I had done 300 television shows before it, including one series, but the public didn't know who I was until the 'Real McCoys.' It was invaluable experience for me to work with fine actor like Walter and a brilliant comedian like Dick.

★ ★ ★

"But I finally decided it was time for me to branch out on my own. I hope 'Broadside' proves that I was right."

More Teens Seeking Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are three times as many unemployed teen-agers as there are any other classification of job seekers and they are largely responsible for a rise in unemployment in August to 5.1 per cent.

For the first time in 54 months unemployment had dropped in July to below 5 per cent. But the decline to 4.9 per cent was wiped out when the usual drop in teen-age unemployment in August failed to materialize last month.

★ ★ ★

Heads of families and other adults continued at the lowest level of joblessness in seven years. And the number of unemployed actually dropped by 160,000.

What sent the seasonally adjusted jobless rate up again was that teen-age joblessness usually declines 200,000 in August — 40,000 more than the case this year.

PROBLEM GETS WORSE

Harold Goldstein, a spokesman for the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the rising influx of teen-agers in the labor market is likely to heighten the unemployment problem in the next few years "if there isn't an offsetting increase in demand."

STROLL GROUNDS — James Roy of Detroit stops to chat with Rev. Bernard J. Wernert S.J. as he roams around the grounds of the Manresa Jesuit Retreat House, Bloomfield Hills. Mr. Roy, a teacher in Detroit Public Schools, is making a retreat with the Detroit Professional Sodality of the Queenship of Mary. Father Wernert is director of Manresa House.

Pontiac Press Photos by Phil Webb

IN CHAPEL — Praying in the chapel of Manresa Jesuit Retreat House, Woodward at Quarton, Bloomfield Hills are several members of the Professional Sodality of the Queenship of Mary from the Detroit area. The white walled chapel with arched leaded glass windows seats more than 50. The afternoon sun streaming in from the windows back of the altar shines on the cross above the ciborium. Both men and women were at the retreat over the weekend. Flowers from the gardens are on the altars.

At Manresa Jesuit House

Catholic Men, Women Make Retreat

For the first time in the history of Manresa Jesuit Retreat House in Bloomfield Hills high heels could be heard clicking down the corridors as a sodality group from Detroit made a retreat last week.

★ ★ ★

The professional Sodality of the Queenship of Mary, composed of both men and women, has sponsored many retreats since its founding 10 years ago.

Past retreats were held as far away as Petoskey and the Upper Peninsula.

"This will continue to be a men's retreat house," said Rev. Bernard Wernert SJ, director. "But we will plan to make a couple of exceptions. One for this group at a time when we used to close down the house for general repairs and cleaning, and perhaps another."

"The rest of the year we are booked solidly with men's groups which have been coming for years, and there are no plans for changing the schedule," he added.

Father Wernert said there are still some evenings when the facilities of the retreat house are not in use, and here he hopes to expand the schedule of Evenings of Recollection for men, women, youth groups.

★ ★ ★

To think straight young men must get away from the distractions of teelvision, radios, telephones, motor cars, newspapers, magazines, family problems, especially from the powerful influence of the crowd, Father Wernert said.

The sodality comprised mostly of public school teachers, seeks by prayer and consultation with Father Wernert, ways to teach character development.

Among subjects are courtesy, obedience, gratitude, charity, responsibility, patriotism, honesty, cooperation, scholarliness and sociability.

★ ★ ★

The purpose of a retreat is to make one's life more successful as God rates success. The retreat studies the great eternal truths and discovers what bearing they have on/his own life. He comes to realize God has a plan for each man. The secret of success of a retreat lies in its power to build up courage in the soul of man, Father Wernert said.

SPEND DAY IN SILENCE

The program consists of prayer, reading, discussion, individual conferences with the retreat master, Mass, Holy Communion, Confession, and in strolling about the well shaded lawn and winding brook. The day is spent in silence and at mealtime reading is provided.

★ ★ ★

Manresa is not endowed, nor is it subsidized by outside sources. It must support itself. There is no fixed fee for making a retreat. The retreatant privately makes a f er iweloeffir vately makes a free will offering at the close of the period.

"Young and old, rich and poor—men from every walk of life—may make a retreat at Manresa. The retreat here is designed for Catholics but non-Catholics are welcome, and will find the experience most helpful," were comments by the director.

FOUNDED BY JESUITS

Manresa takes its name from a small town near Barcelona, Spain where the founder of the Jesuits, St. Ignatius Loyola, formulated in 1952 a plan of spiritual exercises for a retreat. Manresa was organized in 1922 by the Laymen's Retreat League under the spiritual direction of the Jesuit Fathers.

★ ★ ★

The retreat house is located on 38 acres in Bloomfield Hills on the W. H. Murphy estate, formerly known as "Deepdale."

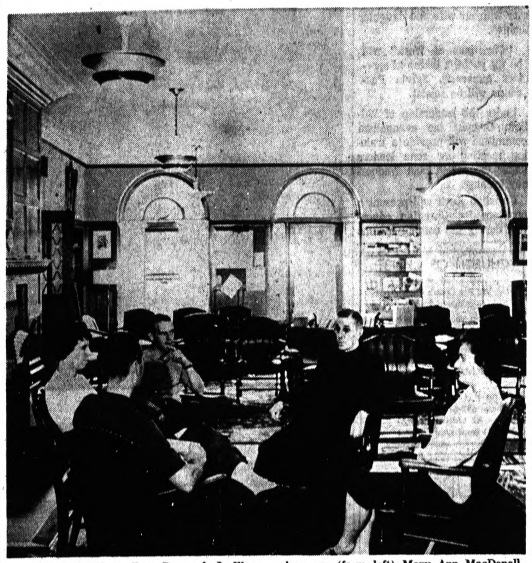

The first retreat was held on Sept. 23, 1926. They continued until the building was destroyed by fire in March 1934.

★ ★ ★

The present retreat house was finished in 1956—a stone, fireproof structure, a single room for each retreatant, modernly equipped.

Manresa was the first retreat house for laymen in the State of Michigan. The grounds contain many shrines, among which are the 14 Stations of the Cross.

The retreat last week was the 1,722nd held at Manresa.

Markets, Business and Finance

Grain Futures Close With Only Mild Changes

CHICAGO (AP) — Net changes in the grain futures market were generally only moderate this week, although some commodities posted rather broad daily gains in active transactions on the Board of trade.

After starting off the week under pressure and with two successive declines, soybeans attracted a revived speculative support and finished with gains of a cent or so from last week. Corn also closed about a cent higher but wheat, under pressure of late liquidation, posted a loss of more than a cent on all deliveries.

Week's Rise Best in 2 Months

Mart Gains in Face of Uncertainties

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite many uncertainties this week, the stock market made its best gain in two months.

The question of whether current auto labor negotiations would be successful and avert a walkout before next Wednesday's deadline overhung Wall Street but investors seemed optimistic. All Big Three auto stocks advanced.

The rise was irregular and halting at times, but it was there as the final statistics uncertainly.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average advanced 9.22 to 848.31.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 3.5 to 318.2, its biggest gain since the week ended July 4 when it advanced 4.8.

In any year, the Labor Day weekend is a period of soul-searching in Wall Street, because the trend of business and the stock market is frequently set immediately thereafter. This year the auto labor talks, a presidential election and many sore spots in the foreign situation caused additional uncertainty.

Without any great furor, the stock market demonstrated its underlying confidence in the immediate future. Of 1,512 issues traded this week on the New York Stock Exchange, 901 advanced and 419 declined, a thumping verdict on the optimistic side.

Chrysler and General Motors made historic highs during the week's trading, although the course of both stocks was erratic at times. Chrysler ended with a net gain of ⅞ and GM with a rise of a point.

For the month of August the popular stock market averages took a slight loss, but the market as a whole was hardly worse than irregular.

Market for Steers Held Firm Trend During Week

CHICAGO (AP)—The market for slaughter steers maintained a firm trend this week as a result of reduced marketings and higher prices for dressed beef at wholesale outlets.

Slaughter steers were up as much as $1.25 a hundredweight from a week ago.

Cattle supplies were the smallest here in five weeks and for the 12 major terminals they were the smallest since March.

The market for butcher hogs was steady to 25 cents higher compared with a week ago, largely because of reduced supplies at all markets.

Little Change on Bond M...

Prices Steady, Lower in Pre Labor Day Lull

NEW YORK (AP) The bond markets drifted in pre-Labor Day doldrums during this week. Prices were unchanged to slightly lower.

U. S. Treasury bond prices edged lower during the first half of the week, improved slightly then declined at the close. Intermediate and long-term bonds drifted downward about 4-32s.

* * *

Among factors affecting the federal bond market were strong demand for bank credit upward price pressures in some key commodities, the accelerated pace of business expansion and labor wage demands.

Corporate bond prices remained firm. Some recent issues declined 4-32s on average.

LOW MONTH

The week saw the end of August, during which $150 million in corporate bonds were offered—the lowest monthly volumes for such issues since September, 1961.

Of 458 issues traded during the week 194 advanced. 164 declined, 100 were unchanged. Of the group, 43 bonds hit high for the year while eight set 1964 lows.

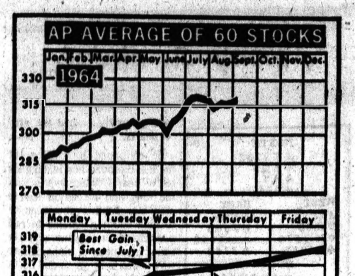

* * *

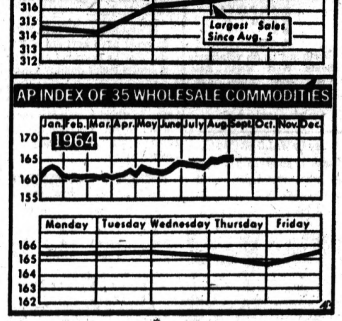

Municipal bond prices remained virtually unchanged for the fourth consecutive week. The volume of new financing was light, with less than $100 million in new issues. Volume during August was $750 million, including a negotiated $314 million Columbia Storage Power Exchange issue.

The total compares with $884 million in July and $726 million during August, 1963, Weekly volume in the next few weeks will increase to $200 million, one dealer reported.

IN FUTURE

During the month that will end Oct. 10 a total of $308,277,800 in corporate bonds will be offered. A total of $1,002,556,800, including municipal bonds, will be issued during the month.

AP Photofax

STOCKS UP, COMMODITIES LEVEL — For the first time in three weeks, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced, closing yesterday at 318.2 from 314.7 of a week earlier. The commodity index remained about even with that at 165.5. Gains and losses were about evenly divided.
