Rep. Ford Decries Budget 'Deception'

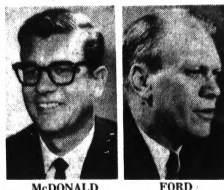

The financial crisis facing the U. S. is far worse than the public has been led to believe by the Johnson administration, House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford said today.

Ford, speaking at a $50-a-plate fundraising breakfast in Bloomfield Hills for Congressman Jack McDonald, R-19th District, said the administration has deliberately miscalculated the deficit in the national budget by nearly $25 billion. The program was held at the Kingsley Inn.

It was Ford's opinion that the $3-billion deficit built into the budget is nowhere near what can be expected because expenditures have been underestimated and revenue overestimated.

"This administration doesn't know how to tell the truth in talking about budget figures," the Grand Rapids congressman said.

The fiscal policies of the Johnson administration have led to the "tragic" monetary situations, Ford charged. He said that the last three years have been the worst inflationary period since 1951.

McDONALD FORD

"People involved in international finance are seriously concerned because they do not believe that administration will do anything to correct the problem."

Ford said that Johnson is following the same pattern of British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, who kept saying "over and over again that the pound would not be devalued."

U. S. in Giant Viet Push

SAIGON (AP) — At least 50,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese troops are sweeping between Saigon and the Cambodian border in the biggest operation of the Vietnam war, the U.S. Command announced today.

Elements of six divisions and two special task forces moved out Monday in an ambitious maneuver designed to regain the initiative seized by the Vietcong with their countrywide assault on Jan. 30.

The allied force has killed 215 enemy soldiers, seized 22 suspects and uncovered three huge arms caches, spokesmen said.

U.S. losses were reported as 11 killed and 94 wounded, while the Vietnamese Command said its troops suffered light casualties.

The vast operation—named Quyet Thang, or Resolved to Win—is anchored in Saigon and extends in a semicircle through five provinces north, west and south of the capital.

Fifty allied battalions have been committed plus support troops and national police units.

It is the first significant operation uncorked by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in South Vietnam, since Vietcong forces invaded Saigon Jan. 31 and turned the city into a battlefield.

First goal of the operation is to destroy enemy units continuing harassing attacks around Saigon. Second aim is to restore a sense of security and confidence among the civilian population, officials said.

For the first time in the war, sections of Saigon were included in the battle plan of an allied offensive. National police and units of the 5th Vietnamese Ranger

Group were assigned objectives in western Saigon and Cholon, the Chinese quarter.

The operation includes units of the U.S. 1st, 9th and 25th Infantry divisions, the South Vietnamese 5th and 25th Infantry divisions, Vietnamese paratroopers and marines, and Vietnamese Ranger group, and national police.

Vietcong caches containing tons of ammunition and weapons were discovered 10, 12 and 24 miles north-west of Saigon.

Elsewhere, Vietcong and North Vietnamese gunners shelled allied posts below the demilitarized zone, in the central highlands and in the Mekong Delta.

In the air war, U.S. Navy pilots flew over Haiphong to bomb a vital railroad-highway bridge and a power plant for the second day in a row.

U. S. Markets Remain Open; London Closed

NEW YORK (AP) — The price of gold reached $44.36 an ounce on the Paris market today, more than $9 above the $35 price guaranteed by the United States. Wild speculation in Hong Kong sent the price to $40.47 while the London gold market suspended operations under government decree.

Related Story, Page B-5

The New York Stock Exchange opened as scheduled today. There had been some speculation that the exchange might remain closed because of the gold crisis and the expectation of severe strains on stock prices.

The American Stock Exchange also opened as usual today.

France refused to go along with other major European gold-dealing nations in action to dampen buying. Normally, the Bank of France intervenes to keep the price just above the $35 dollar figure. But today, because the market did not receive fresh supplies from the seven-nation gold pool in London, the Paris price was allowed to find its own level in accordance with local supply and demand.

However, the Bank of France played a major role. It allowed the price to one kilogram—2.2 pounds—to rise to an unprecedented 7,000 francs or $1,400 from the outset of dealing in a bid to hold down demand.

Today's overall volume was $43.86 million compared with $52.6 million Thursday.

Periodic Tests Eyed for Private U. S. Pilots

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are 400,000 private pilots in this country and none of them has had to prove his flying skill since the day he got a license, no matter how long ago that was.

Now the government is proposing to require nonprofessional pilots to take periodic refresher courses and proficiency tests, and the proposal is raising their temps sky-high.

In 1966, the last year for which there are statistics, there were 5,712 aircraft accidents, involving 1,151 fatalities. According to the National Transportation Safety Board, "pleasure flying" accounted for 2,469 of the accidents and 712 of the fatalities.

Police Pinched on Enforcement---Chiefs

By BOB WISLER

In an era of increasing lawlessness and rising crime rates, law enforcement is getting to be a more difficult problem, three Michigan police chiefs agreed yesterday.

But they said stop-and-frisk laws provide no real answer to the problem of crime.

Police chiefs speaking at a regional meeting of the Michigan Municipal League at the Kingsley Inn yesterday were William K. Hanger of Pontiac, Frank T. Cribb of Clawson and James W. Rutherford of Flint.

Hanger said no stop-and-frisk law has been in effect long enough for a judgment to be made.

"I'm for anything that would increase the reasonable authority of police officers dealing with criminals . . . but I think it (stop and frisk) is in conflict with the Supreme Court ruling on admissibility of evidence," he said.

AUTHORITY EXISTS

Cribb and Rutherford were unequivocally against such laws. Cribb said police officers have all the authority they need now to search someone suspected of committing a crime or about to commit a crime.

BROTHERLY STROLL — The brothers Kennedy are deep in talk as they walk the Capitol grounds yesterday. Sen. Edward Kennedy (right), D-Mass., has been counseling his brother, Sen. Robert, D-N.Y., on whether the latter should seek the Democratic presidential nomination. (Story, page A-2.)

Crime Control Scrutinized at State Meeting in Detroit

By JIM LONG

Crime and its control came under close scrutiny in Detroit yesterday during the first statewide conference aimed at focusing attention on all aspects of the growing problem.

The all-day session at Cobo Hall was attended by about 750 persons, including judges, administrators, representatives of business and concerned citizens.

One point made clear during the numerous talks by leaders in various fields of combating crime was that while the public has become extremely aware of crime on the street much anxiety still exists in the area of organized crime.

Stressing this was Prof. Robert

Blakey, of the Notre Dame Law School, one of the chief speakers at the program sponsored by the Michigan Commission on Crime, Delinquency and Criminal Administration, and the Michigan Council on Crime and Delinquency.

"The major obstacle is that people tend to view things in very direct, personal terms," said Blakey, a former assistant U.S. attorney in the organized crime and racketeering section.

INDIRECT EFFECT

"Organized crime seldom rapes or robs people on the streets. Its effect is indirect," he said.

"We are all affected by bribery in a legislature or vice in a ghetto but not in direct or personal ways, so it is hard to work up much concern," he added.

"Bluntly, most of us do not care very much unless it is our wife or daughter who might be attacked or our pocket-book that is stolen."

He said that no matter what else is done this attitude must be changed, "for it lies at the heart of our failure to do what must be done about organized crime, and it seems clear that the time available to us to arrest and reverse the growth of organized crime seems to be running out."

CRIME SUCCESS

The success of the La Cosa Nostra criminal syndicate is symbolic of the general breakdown of law and order "which has become so characteristic of so many segments of our society," said Blakey.

Keynoting the program was James E. Fain, executive editor of the Dayton (Ohio) Daily News, who outlined his views on the National Crime Commission Report authorized by President Johnson and released about a year ago.

Flash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kennecott Copper Corp. announced today a tentative contract agreement providing 54 cents per hour pay increases, in the first major break in White House negotiations aimed at settling the eight-month-old copper industry strike.

Police Pinched on Enforcement---Chiefs

"This isn't anything new, we've been doing it for years," he said.

Rutherford said: "I personally doubt there is much validity to the need for stop and frisk." He said because of the questionable constitutionality of such laws court cases involving a stop-and-frisk law might negate prosecution of criminals.

"We are doing a good job now . . . If we got an ordinance we might eventually lose the cases we are now making."

ELBOW TO ELBOW — Inadequate facilities at Pontiac Central High School make it difficult for students to move from room to room in the halls, sometimes creating discipline problems.

School Building Needs Cited

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the fourth in a series explaining the recommendations of Pontiac schools' Finance Study Council for a 6.25-millage property tax increase and $23-million bond issue March 25. Today's story looks at facilities.)

By DICK ROBINSON

Construction of $23 million of school facilities as proposed on the Pontiac

School District ballot will not increase tax bills of property owners.

A major item in the plans is an $18.7-million educational park for three separate high schools on the Pontiac State Hospital grounds to replace Pontiac Central High School.

Approval of the bond issue would only continue the present 4-mill debt service now being paid for previous construction for 18 more years.

Pontiac's present school millage of 22.35 ($22.35 per $1,000 of assessed property value) is made up of 18.35 mills for operating expenses (6.25 increase is proposed) and 4 mills for debt retirement of bonds.

Remainder of the bonded funds would be to help construct an elementary school complex called the Human Resources Center, convert Central High into a junior high school, expand Northern High, Kennedy and Madison junior highs and elementary schools.

The Finance Study Council (FSC) of citizens and professional school administrators says these facilities will be necessary to house an estimated student enrollment of 35,440 in 20 years compared to 23,729 today.

Another suggestion of the council is to convert the current kindergarten-sixth grade, 7-9 and 10-12 school organization to K-5 for elementary schools, 6-8 for junior high (or middle schools) and 9-12 for high school.

"This change will mean we will need no new elementary schools," says FSC Chairman Francis Webster. "There will be 53 vacated classrooms available for libraries, special rooms and auxiliary services in all elementary schools."

"This also means smaller classes. In the school district now there are 140 elementary classes with over 30 pupils in a room."

McCarthy Expects Challenge by RFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, convinced Sen. Robert F. Kennedy plans to join the Democratic presidential race soon, is moving to head off the New Yorker in the remaining preference primaries.

"I think he will announce before Monday," McCarthy told reporters Thursday. "Unless the reaction is bad" to Kennedy's statement he is reassessing whether to challenge President Johnson.

McCarthy aides said the timing of his Thursday announcement that he will enter primaries in Indiana May 7 and South Dakota June 4 was prompted by Kennedy's statement and a desire to get into these states ahead of any possible Kennedy candidate.

"It certainly has that effect," McCarthy told a reporter.

EXPECTS CHALLENGE

The Minnesotan said he expected Kennedy to challenge him in Nebraska May 14, Oregon May 28 and California June 4.

Kennedy was faced with having to decide today about the Nebraska contest in order to meet the filing deadline.

McCarthy is due to undergo a test of his strength compared with Kennedy's this weekend at a meeting of the 30,000-member antiwar California Democratic Council.

The council spawned the McCarthy movement in California but there is an undercurrent of Kennedy sentiment within the membership. The group is expected to endorse McCarthy overwhelmingly at the close of the convention Saturday.

HE'S EARNED IT

"McCarthy has earned, through his courage and leadership, the right and duty to be supported," said Gerald N. Hill, council president and co-chairman of the McCarthy campaign in California.

At least one of Kennedy's closest political advisers meanwhile is urging him against risking his political future by making a race for the Democratic nomination this year.

"It's entirely possible," said the informant, who asked not to be identified, "that he will announce he has reassessed the situation and decided not to make the race."

"I, for one, don't think he can take the nomination from the President if Johnson decides he wants to stay in office," the adviser said, adding he expects Kennedy to make up his mind in two or three days.

McCarthy, indicating he was distinctly cool to the possibility of a Kennedy candidacy, said it might divide the bloc of opposition to Johnson's policies and help the President win re-nomination.

Budget 'Trickery' Hit

Each recommendation made by Johnson to ease the problem has only been a palliative, said Ford. "It's a hand-out on a cancer."

According to some economists, Ford said, the tax increases proposed by Johnson would act as a depressant rather than a stimulant to the national economy.

NO SUPPORT

Ford said that he has no intention of supporting a tax increase since it was the aim of Republicans to prevent a tax increase simply by reducing federal spending.

Commenting on other issues, Ford said that:

• It was likely that Robert Kennedy will enter the Democratic primaries as a result of the New Hampshire results.

"But he's at an awkward age. Too young to be president and too old for that haircut."

• President Johnson probably won't approach Congress for a declaration of war in Vietnam despite the administration's reassessment of its position.

• The House of Representatives would come up with a good civil rights bill, but not necessarily one that would be a rubber stamp of the Senate measure. "It would be unwise for the House to give its approval without a complete review of the bill in conference."

Ford said that while he is opposed to the president's proposal on a travel tax, there are at least two things that could be done that wouldn't be objectionable.

The alternatives, Ford said, would be an excise tax on foreign airline and a steamship ticket and a reduction in the value of goods that can be brought into the country.

DST Is Coming; No Fuss Seen

Changeover Set for Last Sunday in April

LANSING (AP) — Daylight Saving Time is just going to sneak up quietly on Michigan residents this year.

One minute after midnight on the last Sunday in April, everyone will push his clock one hour ahead.

They will lose an hour of sleep and gain an extra hour of daylight.

This is in marked contrast to the hours of debate spent on the issue last year in the Legislature, the confused round of court fights and the high-pressure propaganda from the fast-time and slow-time advocates.

Last year, the Legislature adopted the Federal Uniform Time Act and thought it could forget about that daylight saving business.

NOVEMBER 1968

But a powerful group of retail merchants circulated petitions to put the issue on the November 1968 election ballot.

The Michigan Farm Bureau and bowling alley and theater interests fought the issue up to the State Supreme Court.

They lost, and Michigan — later than the rest of the nation — went on Daylight Saving Time when the Board of State Canvassers ruled there were enough signatures to make time a ballot issue.

"We're not going to fight it in courts or legislature this year," said Dale Sherwin, a Farm Bureau spokesman.

'SAVING AMMUNITION'

"We're saving all our ammunition for when it goes on the ballot in November."

Police Are Pinched to Enforce—Chiefs

Hanger and Rutherford agreed that recent rulings of the U. S. Supreme Court have placed unreasonable restrictions on police officers.

Hanger said there is a glaring need for more police personnel in every city. He said steps should be taken to reestablish foot patrols in commercial areas and on streets where high crime rates are apparent.

"The motorized patrol is not effective enough," he said.

The Red Cross will conduct the blood drive at the Pontiac Elks Temple, 114 Orchard Lake, from 2 to 8 p.m.

Her doctor reports she has improved in the last month because of transfusions.

Teamsters Accept Detroit News Pact

DETROIT (AP) — Striking Teamsters at the Detroit News voted today to accept a new three-year contract which might be a key to settlement of the city's 121-day old newspaper strike.

The vote was 336 to 194 and came after the Teamsters had twice rejected a virtually similar offer from the Detroit News.

Teamsters at the Detroit Free Press, who were not on strike but claimed they had been locked out, accepted the offer last month.

Sources close to the negotiations to end the long dearth of newspapers in the city had expected the Teamster settlement of a $30 increase spread over the life of a three-year contract would provide a pattern for the settlements by a dozen other newspaper unions.

Detroit Confab Studies Crime

Reading the document, it was his conclusion that "pathetically little is known about crime."

The criticism, he emphasized was not aimed at the study committee, but at the lack of documentation due to the problem of reliable crime statistics.

INCREASING CRIME

"Crime is increasing but no one knows exactly why," said Fain. "But as unreliable as these figures are they are the only indication of what is happening."

He said that none of the recommendations made by the crime commission have any far-reaching effects, "except in the enactment of stricter gun laws."

Expressing hope that the report is only a beginning towards better crime enforcement, Fain said that suppression of crime will be a "long, tedious job," but one in which every effort should be directed because "We can not afford to live in fear."

Judge James Carter of the U.S. Court of Appeals in San Diego, Calif., speaking at one of the six workshops offered to participants during the session, said new methods in the courts must be implemented to eliminate the general dissatisfaction of the general public with criminal justice.

EXISTING TOOLS

Improvements can come about and be accomplished by better administration in the courts, and better use of the tools the courts have already, he said. Legislative bodies at both the state and federal level must also provide additional tools and procedures, the judge said.

"The real opportunity for progress in the field of law lies in improvements in procedures," said Carter. "Regrettably, the law has fallen behind medicine and the physical sciences."

Cost-Sharing Plan OK'd for Rubbish Group's Trip

BIRMINGHAM — The Southeastern Oakland County Incinerator Authority has agreed to share part of the cost of a trip to Seattle, Wash. for members of a committee studying the advisability of a rubbish transfer station in this city.

The composition of the committee has not yet been definitely determined, but Roberts suggested that it include three members of the commission and one representative each from two home owner groups who have protested against the transfer station.

In addition, Kronbach said, he and City Manager Robert S. Kenning might make the trip.

Local transfer sites to be visited are those in Dearborn, Lincoln Park, Trenton and Wyandotte.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The school justice committee of the Birmingham Unitarian Church, will sponsor a seminar on open occupancy Sunday at 4 p.m.

The seminar will take place at the church, 651 N. Woodward, and will include Birmingham City Commissioner Carl F. Ingraham; Alan Joslyn, of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Council on Human Relations; and the Rev. Stefanec, associate minister of the church.

The city scheduled a parking ban to take effect in March. Kren said that because of cold weather prolonging necessary work on the street and because of expected Easter time sales it was decided to delay the ban.

Parking will be eliminated from the street as part of an overall improvement program affecting M59.

Koren said new lanes will be painted on the street and parking meters will be removed in April. The new street will have five lanes with one being utilized for left turns.

Joseph A. Warren said.

Racial Panel's 1st Session Reset

An organizational meeting of a task force on race relations — set up recently by the Pontiac Area Planning Council — has been rescheduled for next Wednesday.

The meeting was to be held last night but conflicting schedules plus the fact that all members of the task force have not yet been appointed delayed the initial meeting. City Manager Joseph A. Warren said.

'PLUG GUN LOOPHOLES'

In discussing gun laws, Cribb said federal legislation should be passed to "plug loopholes in the firearms trade."

Hanger said he is for legislation which would prohibit dealers from selling to out-of-state citizens but against registration of rifles and shotguns.

He said if a citizen feels in need of a rifle or shotgun to be safe he should not be restrained from having one.

The regional league meeting — hosted by Pontiac — also featured a discussion on city income taxes, conferences and a report by Robert E. Fryer on impending state legislation.

Officers elected at the meeting for the next year were Roy Rowold, mayor of Rochester, as chairman; Lottie E. Chambers, councilwoman from Wixom, vice chairman; and Robert Smalley, village manager of Oxford, as secretary.

Some Viruses' Habitat Is Man Scientists' Discovery Adds New Complexity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Those strangely defective viruses which have been puzzling virologists for the past few years now turn out to be habitual residents in human bodies rather than mere laboratory freaks.

In the words of the three scientists who proved it, this adds "a new element of complexity" to the dealings between viruses and people, as though they hadn't been complex enough.

The defect of these viruses is their inability to reproduce themselves on their own. They must have the help of another virus. With them this other virus has to be adenovirus. No other will do.

Adenoviruses commonly infect human beings, causing running noses and eyes and other distresses resembling those of the common cold, only worse. Usually there is no shortage of adenoviruses among people.

In virology the freaks are called "adenovirus - associated viruses" (AAV) and so far four types have been isolated but always in laboratory dishes in which adenoviruses were being cultured.

NOT DEFECTIVE

They are not defective adenoviruses, however, because they differ from them in shape and chemical reactivity. Efforts to isolate them from human or animal tissues have been fruitless.

Drs. Neil R. Blacklow, M. David Hoggan and Wallace P. Rowe of the National Institutes of Health, Bethesda, Md., proved they commonly reside in human beings. They approached the puzzle obliquely.

By several elaborate techniques they tested blood from several score children and adults for the presence of antibodies to types 1, 2 and 3 of AAV. In about half of older children and adults the antibodies to one or more of the types were there.

This meant these persons had once harbored the viruses.

Court Denies a Rehearing on Novi Cityhood Ruling

NOVI—The most recent attempt of Novi Township to thwart the incorporation election of Novi Village has failed.

The State Court of Appeals has denied the request of the township for a rehearing on the court's Jan. 21 decision. That decision made it possible for the village to hold an incorporation election now set for May 20.

The decision was in favor of the Village Committee for City Incorporation in its case against Novi Village.

The latest action of the Appeals Court also denied the township's intervention in this case. If the township were a party in the case, it then could oppose in court the incorporation election.

The effect of this latest decision is that there will be an election, explained village attorney Howard I. Bond. The township can still try to prevent incorporation through court action after the election, informed the attorney.

The case of the village versus the committee was first ruled on by Circuit Court Judge James S. Thorburn. He stated that the village was exempt from a state law requiring 500 persons per square mile in areas desiring home-rule cityhood.

Thorburn exempted the village because it is an already incorporated entity and doesn't intend a boundary change with incorporation.

Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer reversed this decision last Sept. 19.

In late January, the state appeals court nullified Beer's decision. The court stated that one Circuit Court judge couldn't set aside the judgment of another Circuit Court judge.

Vocal Classes Set Song Festival

ROCHESTER — The vocal music departments of the Rochester Community Schools, featuring over 1,000 voices, will present their annual Festival of Song at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the senior high school gym.

A combined chorus composed of all vocal music students from the elementary, junior and senior high schools — with members of the high school bands supplying trumpet fanfares and drum rhythms — will present the grand finale, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Other selections include the high school men's chorus singing "Men of Harlech," portions of "Sounds of Music," "I Hear America Singing," and "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Directors for the program are Bernard Lesley, Carol White, Martha Marsh, Frank Irish, Kenneth Jackson, Gertrude Gregory and Thomas Marsh.

The program, an admission-free event, is planned as an expression of gratitude to the community for the newly-constructed high school auditorium.

WALLED LAKE — How does a parochial school work?

St. William's Catholic School, 135 O'Flaherty opens its doors Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. to show the public how.

A panel discussion will be presented by students, textbooks will be displayed and courses will be outlined.

Donkey Basketball Set for Orion JCs, Firemen

LAKE ORION — The Orion Area Jaycees will play the Orion Township firemen in a donkey basketball game at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Community High School gym.

Tickets are available from participants, at local businesses and at the door.

Bloomfield Hills District Cites Faculty, Equipment Need in 14-Mill Vote Plea

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — What will 14 mills buy for the residents of this school district?

More and better-paid teachers, additional student materials, more noninstructional personnel, and more buses and necessary utilities, according to Donald C. Hyde, board of education member.

In a special election April 1, the board will ask voters to approve a proposed boost of 14 mills for five years.

A combination of steadily increasing enrollment and rising costs has caught the district in a financial squeeze, Hyde said.

"We've cut every blessed dollar," the trustee asserted. "We've done everything but curtail services, cut back class size, and things of that type which we think the people will not want."

DEFICIT FACED

Despite economies effected, however, the district faces a deficit of $1.3 million at the end of this school year unless additional funds are approved, Hyde said.

A breakdown of the $2,362,000 which the proposed millage hike would provide, he added, shows that added pay for teachers, while a factor, is not the principal one in the board's request.

Nearly half the new money, according to Hyde, would go to pay for 122 new instruction positions. Allotted for that purpose is $1,136,000, or 6.9 mills.

The reason for this, he continued, is the district's rapid growth. From approximately 2,500 students at the beginning of the 1967-68 school year, enrollment has climbed to 8,766 this year.

EMPLOYMENT CLIMBS

What this has meant is a steady climb in the number of personnel employed by the district, Hyde said. Within the last two years, two new elementary schools — Traub and Way — West Hills Junior High School and Lahser High School have been opened.

In addition, new classrooms have been added to East Hills Junior High and Booth, Hickory Grove, Conant and Pine Lake elementary schools.

The district now has 135 more classrooms and 158 more certified personnel (teachers), than in Sept. 1965.

The sudden burst of growth, initiated with approval by voters of an $11-million bond issue for new construction in 1966, has been reflected in dollars and cents.

BUDGET UP $2 MILLION

This year's 1966 budget was $5,165,711; this year, it is $7,327,255—an increase of better than $2 million. Of this, said

Hadley Marine, 19, Killed in Vietnam

HADLEY — Marine Pvt. Fred C. McHugh Jr., 19, was killed March 6 in Vietnam, according to word sent his father, Fred McHugh, 3518 East.

A 1967 graduate of Lapeer High School, Pvt. McHugh had been in Vietnam since Jan. 10. The telegram said he died in the vicinity of Quang Tri, having sustained fragmentation wounds to the head and body from hostile artillery fire.

Surviving besides his father are two brothers, three sisters, two half-brothers and a half-sister.

Hyde, $1.3 million has gone for instructional increases alone — not including administrators, librarians and maintenance costs at the new schools.

The same pattern is visible in the board's latest money request. A total of 10 mills or about 71 per cent of the hike proposed, Hyde declared, will be used to pay for all costs related to staffing, maintenance, and services for new classrooms.

Besides the 6.9 mills for teachers, that total includes $172,000, or 1 mill, for additional student materials; $246,000, or 1.5 mills for 48 noninstructional positions; and $102,000, or .8 mill, for added buses and utilities.

Better pay for teachers accounts for $529,000, or 3.2 mills, 23 per cent of the total. All other increases amount to $177,000.

The district ranks 16th in Oakland County, Hyde said, with an overall operating millage of 22.10, plus 7.26 for debt retirement.

Advisory Vote Against Plant

Milford: Rusty-Water Cure Not Worth It

MILFORD—Rusty rings in the bathtub are apparently something residents are willing to scrub.

Voters have, for a while at least, wiped out any plans by the village to construct an iron-removal plant for the village's water system.

An advisory vote earlier this week indicated that rust rings aren't that much of a problem. How come?

People here just don't have the money to spend on such a plant, observed Village Manager Joseph S. Brophy.

He believes other reasons for the issue's defeat are that people don't want to spend what money they do have on the plant and that perhaps the rust isn't such a problem.

Defeat was by 431 no votes against 181 yeses in Monday's election.

As a temporary measure, the city plans to flush out some of the mains with extra water force in an attempt to remove the rust. "This is not a solution but may be a help," said Brophy.

"We've done it before, and it has worked in some areas," he said.

An iron-removal plant for the water system would have cost residents an estimated increase of $7.10 per quarterly water bill, said Brophy.

A new zoning category reducing the number of apartments now allowed in a multiple-zoning comes up for a public hearing April 1 at 8 p.m. in the Village Hall.

The new zoning, RM-1, would allow no more than 13 units per acre. The density limit for the proposed RM-2 classification would be 21 units per acre, which corresponds to the village's present multiple zoning.

The two classifications are proposed and recommended for council approval by the planning committee.

Brophy explained that the village could have open-space problems in the future if apartment density isn't limited.

Wolverine Lake Village's Try for Cityhood Declared Invalid

WOLVERINE LAKE — This village's first try for home-rule cityhood is dead.

But another attempt is to be pondered by the Village Citizens Committee, which circulated petitions last fall.

Those petitions have been declared invalid by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, acting on the recommendation of the boundaries committee.

Invalidity was based on the absence of certain words on the petition. The specific words are:

"The territory described contains not less than 2,000 inhabitants and an average of not less than 500 inhabitants per square mile."

Words on the petition implied these population requirements for incorporation were fulfilled. The areas to be incorporated — the village and 3 1/2 square miles of Commerce Township west of the village — do have the required populations, asserted Clifford Cottrell, village manager and president of the Village Citizens Committee.

AMENDMENT FILED

An amendment to the petition specifically stating the absent words was filed with the county clerk by Cottrell the morning of the supervisors' meeting.

No action has been taken on this amendment, said Philip Mastin Jr., chairman of the Boundaries Committee.

Clarence Malburg Joins Almont School Board

ALMONT — Clarence Malburg, 15300 Almont, has been appointed as a member of the board of education to replace Donald D. Bowman, who resigned recently.

Malburg's appointment will terminate June 30. If he elects to continue on the board, he will be eligible to run as a candidate in the annual school election, to be held the second Monday in June.

Avondale's Beleaguered Superintendent Keeps in Trim

John W. Dickey
Out In Front In Avondale Ruckus

By JEAN SAILE

At about 200 pounds and just about six feet tall, a daily exerciser, nonsmoker and nondrinker, John W. Dickey — Avondale's beleaguered school superintendent — is probably in condition — physically and mentally — to take on most comers.

He hasn't had to resort to the physical yet, although recent events have severely tried his ability to "keep his cool."

Comments Dickey: "It's difficult in dealing with people you consider unjust, illogical and unfair."

Dickey's "cool" nearly toppled at a recent board meeting when a self-announced 6-foot-5-inch 250-pound detractor said he'd like to punch him in the nose.

Dickey's ever erect carriage became a little straighter as he muttered, "Come on ahead." The critic didn't.

SET OF WEIGHTS

Dickey keeps a set of weights in his office closet, which speaks for his condition.

He hasn't had time to use them much lately, but they remain the symbol of the former police officer's belief in self-discipline.

The product of Missouri farm people, he has come through teaching ranks, a stint as a wartime factory worker and Detroit police officer, to assume his first superintendent's job two years ago in Avondale at the age of 51.

Dickey doesn't believe much in compromise.

A tall, red-headed, sometimes steely-eyed figure, he seeks to weld the factional Avondale district together in a progressive educational system.

Cited by university educators for his efforts and applauded by about half the residents of his district, he is not about to give up now that the going has roughened.

"I will not be intimidated by a pressure group," he told a Pontiac Press reporter.

"I have aspirations to make this the best district possible with the funds available," he said. But he admitted that he had recently brought his educational specialist credentials up to date at Wayne State University.

BETTER OFFER

"The only thing that would make me change jobs would be an offer that it would be impractical not to accept. I don't like to consider quitting under fire."

What bothers Dickey the most are the many rumors that have circulated in the district since the board of education recently effected an economy program in the wake of a millage defeat.

An avid sports fan who played basketball until three years ago, he is now a member of the volleyball adult education group that meets each Wednesday night at Stone School.

He is proud of the fact that he has not once missed attendance at an Avondale football game (whether home or away.)

In the light of his sports interest, he feels it unfair that most of the blame for the board's decision to eliminate spring sports and reduce busing service in the district has come to rest on his head.

"These economies were not recommended by me alone," he said. "They were suggested by a large number of people — teachers, staff, the Avondale Education Association — and they were discussed in study session by the board of education."

"In fact," he added, "one of the suggested economies — that principals be required to substitute in elementary classrooms — was stricken at the request of teachers. I was glad to see them do it," he said.

Looking back further to the hefty 12.7 millage proposal attempted by the district, Dickey reviewed, "I told the board I didn't feel we could pass 12.7 mills, however we (the administrative staff) showed them where we needed that much."

"The board felt it wouldn't be fair to go for less than we actually needed. I admired their courage and still do," said the superintendent who feels he has had complete and total backing by the board ever since he came to Avondale.

"There are times when we haven't agreed 100 per cent, but I wouldn't want a rubber-stamp board," he mused.

Dickey remains proud of the improvements, both in curriculum and staff, that have occurred in the district since his administration and he feels proud of what was "the improved Avondale image."

The father of five children, Dickey lives in the district with his wife and their 10-year-old son who attends Stone School.

Taxation Has Its Limits, Economists Believe

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the tax burdens in other countries. Expressed as a percentage of the nation's total income, the tax burden is the highest in the world, according to economists' views that taxation has its limits.

But the solace is mental rather than monetary, for none of the government economists who were asked if there is a limit to taxes was willing to speculate on where the limit lies.

Under the Constitution, there is no legal ceiling on how much federal, state and local governments can collect in taxes from their citizens.

Government economists regard the limit as the point at which private incentive would be destroyed and people would balk at working only to pay a huge share of their wages in taxes.

BREAKING POINT

One economist, declining to be quoted by name, said that fixing the limit is more a question of figuring out how much the public will stand for than a question of social or economic theory.

A breaking point of a political nature already has arrived for some Americans who have said they refuse to pay part of their income taxes in protest against the Vietnam war.

Another economist cited tax-financed programs like Medicare and Social Security as examples of government services which have pushed taxes up but which could not possibly be repealed, tax limit or no tax limit.

The experts who help develop the nation's economic policies do not believe the country is yet anywhere near the breaking point — even assuming that Congress approves the 10 percent tax surcharge proposed by President Johnson to reduce the projected federal budget deficit.

LOW TAX BURDEN

With the surcharge enacted, Americans still would carry one of the lowest tax burdens of any industrial nation.

The following figures for the year 1966 show where the United States stands in relation to other countries.

United States 27.3
Great Britain 28.6
Italy 29.6
Germany 34.4
France 38.5

Despite lower federal tax rates, America's 27.3 per cent figure is higher than it was during World War II — 25 per cent — and during the Korean War, when it was 26 per cent. The U.S. position in relation to other major industrial nations probably comes as small consolation to the taxpayer, who sees more and more of his dollars pouring into federal, state and local treasuries.

FEDERAL SHARE DROPS

As the federal share has gone down in the 1960s, state and local governments have increased their share. Even though the federal rate has gone down, many people feel they are paying more dollars to the federal government — and they are because their incomes have gone up.

Government experts insist that the high cost of the Vietnam war — and the consequent need for an increase in federal taxes — just represents an interruption in the trend to lower federal rates and not the abandonment of the trend.

Two Educators Resign Posts

GRANDVILLE (AP) — Two Grandville school administrators Thursday submitted their resignations after a controversy involving a school board rejection of their recommendations. Edwin L. Taylor, superintendent of the past 19 years, asked for a June contract release and Ford Finkel, assistant Supt. of elementary education, requested his resignation effective the end of March.

On Monday, the board failed to act on a recommendation to have an elementary school principal relieved of her duties.

The Tax Foundation, a local share was 57.6 cents, the federal share 29.2 cents and the state's 13.3 cents.

The federal share zoomed to 80.6 cents of every tax dollar in 1944 during world war II.

GRADUAL INCREASES
The Tax Foundation figures for the 1960s show gradual increases in total tax collections at all levels as well as increases in the amounts collected at all levels for each man, woman and child in America.

From 1964 through 1966, federal per capita collections went up from $566 to $598; the jump for state collections was

Poisons, Friend or Enemy of Man

National Poison Prevention Week, which begins Sunday, might more accurately be called National Poison Control Week. The point is that poisons are too numerous to do away with entirely; besides, many of them are essential ingredients in ordinary household and washing products. Adults would not dream of drinking oven cleaner, but unknowing children have been known to do so.

The National Safety Council recently described a pie made by three children. It contained drain cleaner, ammonia, bleach, fabric softener, floor wax, car polish and cleaner, and spray starch. The children ate the pie, vomited it, and recovered after hospital treatment.

But others are less fortunate. More than 2,200 persons (one-fourth of them under five years of age) died last year after swallowing similar products.

Putting small children out to play in the back yard presents certain dangers, too. The long list of poisonous plants includes not only belladonna and wolfsbane but also acorns, Japanese yew berries, azaleas, rhododendrons, daffodils, jonquils, larkspur and wisteria. Cherry blossoms likewise are lethal, but rose petals are not.

Aspirin has been the leading cause of fatal poisonings among children under five years since records were first kept by Chicago's Poison Control Center. Home poisoning deaths from all types of liquid and solid substances increased by 6 per cent in 1967 over the previous year.

"With the increasing number of potentially toxic household products and medicines on the market each year," Richard Winsor of the National Safety Council says, "these figures may increase even more unless mothers take the necessary precautions to keep injurious preparations out of the reach of their children."

Are Half-Dollars Being Hoarded Out of Circulation?

The Treasury Department has announced that it will cut production of half-dollars after June 30 by more than two-thirds — from the current rate of 360 million pieces annually to 100 million.

As far as the ordinary person is concerned, the rate may as well be cut to zero. It may as well have been zero all along. Anyone who has laid eyes on more than three or four half-dollars in the course of the past year can count himself as exceptional.

Where are all these millions upon millions of half-dollars going? That is the major monetary mystery of the 1960s.

The original KENNEDY halves were understandably a great collector's item, both for sentimental reasons and because they were the last of the all-silver halves.

Beginning in 1965, silver, a metal in growing demand for industrial uses, was eliminated entirely from dimes and quarters. For some reason, however, Congress decided to retain 40 per cent silver (instead of the former 90 per cent) in half-dollars.

The continuing scarcity of halves, contrasted with the abundance of silverless dimes and quarters, suggests that speculators are still hoarding the bulk of them in hopes that the price of silver rises high enough to make it profitable to melt them down—although the law would have to be changed to make that legal.

Whatever the explanation for the vanishing half-dollar, it is obvious that it is not serving its intended function as a medium of exchange. Either Congress should abandon the coin altogether or else start making it out of the same nickel-copper sandwich as dimes and quarters.

Pin-Ups Reveal Antarctica Scientists' Duty Span

Scientists who study the scientists who are studying the secrets of Antarctica have noted an interesting behavioral phenomenon, reports Science Service.

According to one psychological study of the men, who spend up to a year in isolation on the frigid continent, the first pictures to appear on the walls of their under-the-ice quarters are pin-ups.

These begin to be covered by travel posters after several months — pictures of sun-drenched beaches and mountain forests.

Then, about two or three months before the men are due to return home, the pin-ups reappear. From which you might conclude that in the long run the scientists favor biology over geography.

Empty House to Be Home for Girls

By DICK SAUNDERS

There's a big, gray, wood-frame home, standing vacant, like an empty promenade, at 228 Orchard Lake Ave.

It's about to stir with a new breath of life; about to become a symbol of human kindness and community concern.

By the middle of next month, with a little luck and lots of help, it may be the only operating halfway house for troubled girls in Michigan.

A halfway house is a link between a state training school and normal community life, the purpose being to prepare wards of the state for independent living. It's sort of rehabilitation with heart.

Behind it is the faith and compassion of Mrs. Eldred Sweeney.

The Sweeneys aren't wealthy benefactors. He is a welder at GMC Truck & Coach Division. They have three kids of their own and it's not always easy to make ends meet.

But the Sweeneys of 249 Orchard Lake Ave., are going to be foster parents.

The idea began when Mrs. Sweeney heard Daniel Gillespie, supervisor of the Oakland County Delinquency Control Unit, State Dept. of Social Services, explain the need for a halfway house one night at a meeting of the Voice of Oakland County Action League (VOCAL).

Mrs. Sweeney recognized the need and wasted no time. She told Gillespie she'd like to be a foster parent.

The 16-room house on Orchard Lake Avenue was suggested by a member of VOCAL.

"What we're trying to do is get the whole community interested. This is a project of people," said Mrs. Sweeney.

So far interest and help has been encouraging. Support has come from VOCAL, the Pontiac Organization of Black Youth (POBY) and various church groups. More will be needed in the long run to keep the project operating successfully.

With some crash efforts of community groups, the house will be cleaned up and furnished hopefully by April 1 to accept its first two youngsters from the Girls' Training School at Adrian.

"It's not going to be easy," said Mrs. Sweeney. "We'll need all the help we can get." All the girls will be former Pontiac residents returning home. They'll go to high school just like any other youngsters.

The girls will be placed in the home in pairs; two now, two more in another month or so, not to exceed six at the end of five months.

The state will license the home and pay room and board ($100 per month) for each girl. The Sweeneys will pay at least half of the $200 monthly rent, along with the phone and water bills and any repairs not covered by the landlord.

The balance of the rent, and funds for heat and electricity and furnishings will have to come from community donations.

"The important thing is to give these kids a chance," Mrs. Sweeney commented.

Every community, it seems, has a lot of talkers and only a few doers. Carole Sweeney stuck her neck out. She put up money and effort on faith alone.

I wonder if there are enough Carole Sweeneys in Pontiac to make this thing click.

Some Sort Of A Record!

Bobby's Tactics Aimed at 1972

WASHINGTON — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's announcement that he will soon "reassess" his previous position of support for the renomination of President Johnson at the Democratic National Convention in August has stirred up considerable friction inside the Democratic party.

LAWRENCE

This doesn't necessarily mean that, if the New York senator is unsuccessful in getting the nomination for himself, he will form a third party. Rather, it is a piece of strategy designed to find a way to boost his own chances for the presidential nomination four years hence.

He may either enter some of the primaries himself this year or openly support Sen. McCarthy in other primaries, and then "reassess" the results.

It may be doubted that Sen. Kennedy will lead any third-party movement. His objective may not be clear as yet to the average person who is unfamiliar with the devious ways of politics.

The senator is anxious, of course, to stay in the limelight and strengthen his position inside the Democratic party so that, if Mr. Johnson is reelected, the Kennedy faction of the party may be effectively organized to dictate who shall be nominated in 1972.

VICE PRESIDENCY

If the New York senator, moreover, became an active candidate for the 1968 presidential nomination, he would make himself available as a possible choice for the vice presidency in the event that President Johnson is compelled, by reasons of political expediency, to pick the New York senator in order to assure himself of the support of the Kennedy bloc in the party.

Whichever way it is viewed, the Kennedy tactics are in accord with political precedent.

Indeed, if he is unsuccessful in boosting Sen. McCarthy's candidacy or his own or in actually bringing about a close race at the August convention, he could at any time proclaim his support for President Johnson as the party's nominee.

Thus, Sen. Kennedy has everything to gain and very little to lose by participating in the primaries. In fact, many people have assumed that his friends and supporters have been behind Sen. McCarthy's bid for the nomination, since the Minnesota senator is relatively unknown in national politics.

WOULD LEAVE SCARS

A preemption battle, of course, between the Kennedy faction and the Johnson supporters is bound to leave scars. Hence the Republicans privately are jubilant. They view the Kennedy insurrection as likely to benefit them in the long run.

President Johnson, on the other hand, holds many trump cards. Between now and the November election, he will have the opportunity dramatically to act for national unity in time of war.

Also, he may be able to develop a formula for peace and begin international conferences with the leading nations of the world in an effort to solve the Vietnam problem.

It was called to the Kremlin after the Soviet diplomat attended last Saturday's Gridiron Dinner.

Goes like this, if you can believe our man:

"Comrades Brezhnev and Kosygin:

"I wish to report the impending downfall of the imperialist United States.

"At the Statter-Hilton Hotel tonight, in the presence of Vice President Humphrey, members of the Johnson cabinet, several Supreme Court justices, many senators, representative industrial tycoons, merchant princes, publishers, editors, and honest workers like waiters, I heard and saw things that clearly support my opening statement. Chaos prevails. All respect for high office has vanished.

"President Johnson, Vice President Humphrey, Dean Rusk (who sat next to me at the head table), Richard Nixon, George Romney, Nelson Rockefeller, Ronald Reagan, John Lindsay, Robert Kennedy, Eugene McCarthy, George Wallace, and even Harold Stassen, our favorite candidate, were cynically lampooned in songs and skits.

"I was assured by a Washington correspondent, a member of the corrupt press, that this was all in fun — that it had been going on for some time. But I question this.

"You, my comrades, certainly would not sit in George Hall, let us say, and listen to raffish comment about your glorious administration or future chances, from obvious revisionists posing as members of the news media.

"You would have them

jailed, as well as all who even chuckled at their audacity.

"Thank goodness we retain a sense of sobriety that rules out such outrages.

"If you see a picture of me standing up with Dean Rusk and apparently champagne-toasting President Johnson, disregard it. Since the head of the CIA, Mr. Helms, was present at the dinner, you can rest assured that the picture is a composite, using a photo of me taken last November at our embassy, toasting the 50th anniversary of the Great October."

'Urge Township Voters to Vote Yes on Millage'

The West Bloomfield League of Women Voters urges the citizens of West Bloomfield to vote "yes" on the millage proposal on March 25. Our league has studied, discussed and debated the adequate financing of our township government and, as a result of membership consensus, supports the millage proposal.

We are sponsoring a public meeting at 8 p.m. March 19, at the Warren Abbott School to answer voters' questions on why we need the millage and the cutbacks in services which will result if it does not pass.

A "yes" vote will mean you are willing to spend only $1.67 more per month (based on township assessment figures per average household) to increase police and fire protection, to keep present library services and to prevent cutting off of road improvements.

Angry area taxpayers should count their blessings that they are not residents of Brandon Township where our taxes are higher and our benefits much fewer. It is gratifying to the United States — concerned for hemispheric solidarity and strength — that Galo Plaza Lasso, former president of Ecuador, has been elected secretary general of the Organization of American States.

He personifies conviction, and the courage of it, on freedom's side; the character of responsible leadership, which sidesteps no problem confronting it — but meets it with honor and resolution.

Such was his record as Chief Executive (1948-52) with the distinction of being Ecuador's first constitutional president in 28 years to complete a four-year term. Such was his engrossment in the political and economic stability of his country, and its resistance of dictatorial takeover from without.

For service to the cause of hemispheric progress, in the pattern of united purpose for freedom and security as a mutual responsibility, he received in 1955 the Americas Award annually bestowed by the Americas Foundation.

Born in New York, and a graduate of the University of California, Galo Plaza is a friend of the United States. He is not one of those who have inherited the pot-of-gold theory at the end of the global "foreign aid" rainbow, but a stalwart spokesman and toiler in Latin America for policies of economic advancement by self-help and not handout; by loans where warranted — not free-loading.

The OAS has heavy responsibilities in its assignment of mutual effort for hemispheric progress — and achievement in the security particular never has been of greater urgency. With Galo Plaza at the helm in the capacity of secretary general, the job is in able and trustworthy hands.

Interest in camping and the outdoors continues at a phenomenal pace, and nowhere is there better proof of this than in Michigan, which offers a fine state park system and unmatched scenic beauty. But interest is not limited to Michigan. It is nationwide.

Three factors are credited for the rapid growth of the recreational vehicle industry — the healthy state of the nation's economy; employment and disposable income at an all-time high level and increased leisure time.

The industry points to these benefits: A family can travel almost as economically as it can stay home; sportsmen can camp, fish and stay in every part of the U.S. while living on a budget; vacationers can gain friendships with fellow recreational vehicle owners, and they can join groups such as those sponsored by the late Wally Byam.

Only Indiana and California are ahead of Michigan in production of recreational vehicles. Other areas of outdoor recreation share in this growth, too.

HOLE IN THE DESERT—Nuclear excavation experiment Cabrioleto blasted a 400-foot crater in Nevada with relatively little radioactive debris. But more and bigger tests will be needed before the bomb can be safely used for what it does best—making big holes. A five-bomb test is expected soon.

AEC Experimenting With Atomic Plowing

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — Project Plowshare, designed to develop peaceful uses for atomic explosions, plays a touchy role in world politics.

In trying to persuade non-nuclear nations not to build nuclear weapons by signing a nonproliferation treaty, the U.S. has offered to make Plowshare-type technology available on a low-cost basis.

But developing that technology, runs the risk of ogy, particularly in nuclear explosions, violating the limited test ban treaty by allowing fallout to cross international borders.

After a year of cautious misgivings, the White House last month gave the Atomic Energy Commission permission to set off a small atomic explosion in an excavation experiment called Cabrioleto.

The experiment, which blasted a hole in Nevada 125 feet deep and 400 feet across, was a success — the small amount of radioactive material released hit a fortuitous snowstorm and was dispersed.

And there was a minimum of political fallout as well.

But the test was only the first of six the AEC feels will be necessary to demonstrate the feasibility and safety of atomic excavation for such a project as a new Panama Canal. Bigger bangs will be necessary, since the projected canal would be about 1,000 feet wide.

Next in line in the excavation series, and currently in preparation, is Project Buggy One, in which a row of five explosives, each a little smaller than the Cabrioleto bomb, would be set off simultaneously to produce a smooth, ditch-like crater. The AEC hopes to run Buggy One sometime before mid-April, but is waiting for authorization.

Following that, a much bigger explosion, Schooner, is planned for a hardrock area. Compared to the 2.5-kiloton Cabrioleto test, which was about a tenth the size of the Hiroshima bomb, Schooner would be somewhere near 100 kilotons.

RADIOACTIVE FISSION

Out of Schooner, the AEC hopes to demonstrate the progress made in the last six years in cutting down release of radioactive fission products.

As Son Picks Up Baton

Spike Jones Music Is Rocked

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — The name is the same but the music has been changed to give it a rocking beat.

The musical madness of the late Spike Jones has been passed on to his namesake son, a self-assured 19-year-old who hopes to cater to today's diverse musical tastes.

"Naturally I get compared to my dad," says Spike Jr., "but I'm obviously not like him. I expect to play about two-thirds in his comedy style and one-third of my own. It's not a hard-rock. Not that I don't like hard-rock; it's groovy, but it's just not my bag, to coin a phrase."

Young Spike is hunting for his own bag, and he leaves soon for some engagements in Canada to try out his new organization. He may well be the only band leader who does his schoolwork on the road. "I'm going nights to Santa Monica City College," he explained, "and I work it out with the teachers when I have to go out of town. They give me the advance assignments and I keep up with the course while I'm traveling."

The elder Spike made a good thing of his School of Musical Deception for 20 years. He gave differing versions of how he got the idea for his slam-bang style. One story was that he hit the wrong note on the chimes while playing drums on the Bing Crosby radio show; the clincher caused guffaws.

SQUEAKY SHOES

In our last interview, Spike gave another account: He saw the comic possibilities with music when Igor Stravinsky walked across a concert stage with squeaky shoes. Whatever the inspiration, he went on to earn a fortune with music punctuated by pistol shots and irreverent versions of "Cocktails for Two," "Chloe," "Holiday for Strings," etc.

Although the field did well for him, Spike didn't raise his boy to be a musician.

"Dad was set against my following his footsteps," says young Spike. "He wanted me to be a lawyer. But when he got sick at Harrah's Lake Tahoe in 1965, I went up to take over the band. I knew all the routines by heart, so that was no problem. Later Dad saw me do a couple of engagements, and he was pleased and happy with how I handled myself."

His father died in May 1965.

and Spike Jr. fulfilled a couple of the band's engagement. Then he returned to graduate from Beverly Hills High School.

He has been organizing a new band, and he explained his reasoning: "If I tried to lead my dad's old band, it would look strange—I look even younger than 19. So I've put together a group of musicians who range from 19 to 23. There are seven of them; I found out it was too expensive to travel with 12. I won't use any brass unless we play someplace where they have a house band."

Viet Tempers Copter Pilot

VINH LONG, Vietnam (AP) — Back in 1963 when Robin Miller first came to Vietnam—there was lots of glamor flying a helicopter gun-ship-the-blue-sky spirit with fresh pilots eager for the dawn patrol.

Five years of war have tempered the spirit and 30-year-old Capt. Miller, in his third tour, now has wrinkles around his clear gray eyes.

But he still has, as his commander says, a knack for being in the right spot at the right time. In the past two months alone, in addition to twice-daily combat missions, he has plucked an American soldier from Vietcong captivity and rescued nuns and girls from a Roman Catholic school almost overrun by the Vietcong.

These things are waved aside by Miller. He admits, however, that a chopper pilot's life in Vietnam "isn't quite what it used to be."

FLYING TIME

"On my first tour we averaged about 80 hours' flying time a month," Miller recalled. "In '65 and '66 we averaged maybe 100 hours. Now it's about 120." Among the chopper pilots he is a legend, one of a handful of three-tour pilots with more than 2,500 combat flying hours.

He has been wounded three times. Gunners have brought down five choppers he was flying. He has the Silver Star, two Distinguished Flying Crosses and is up for the Distinguished Service Medal.

Once, with his own gun system shot away, Miller used his chopper as a decoy to draw fire from an infantry assault.

ENLISTED MAN
Miller enlisted in the Army 12 years ago and spent five years as an enlisted man.

With four months to go on his Vietnam tour, he's looking forward to joining his wife and four children in Columbus, Ga.

Parochial Sponsors Insist Upon Hearing

LANSING (AP)—Controversy over the holy debated nonpublic school aid bill moved Thursday to the House, where the measure is stalled in the education committee.

Sponsors of the bill — Reps. Thomas Brown, R-Lansing, and J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City — demanded a public hearing before the March 22 deadline for reporting out bills.

A move appeared forming, meanwhile, to attach the proposal to another bill, possibly the public school aid bill when that is reported out of committee.

The bill would authorize state grants of up to $150 per child to the parents of nonpublic school children at an estimated cost of $21 million a year. Identical versions of the bill have been introduced in both House and Senate.

FURTHER STUDY

House Education Committee Chairman Clifford Smart, R-Walled Lake, and Sen. Anthony Stamm, R-Kalamazoo, and chairman of the Senate Education Committee, announced earlier this week the bills would be kept in the House and Senate's committees pending further study.

Both indicated the study would not be completed before the end of the current session. "The parents of 333,000 nonpublic school children have a right to a public hearing... as well as citizens who wish to oppose it," said Brown and Traxler.

The bill would affect parents of children in the state's 950 parochial and 16 private schools.

ONLY REPETITION

"A public hearing would only result in a repetition of what has already been written and spoken and in the generation of more divisiveness," Smart said. Stamm said his committee planned a hearing, but he did not specify when.

Smart pointed to "many public school systems on the verge of bankruptcy."

"In my judgment," he said, "it is untimely to present proposals which would provide aid to nonpublic schools when null-ages are being defeated, half-day sessions are in effect or planned, pupil-teacher ratios are being increased and reductions are taking place in teaching and service personnel" in public schools.

Sponsors of the measure say passage of the nonpublic school aid bill would help cut the increasing number of pupils forced by parents or schools' financial problems to transfer to public schools and therefore save money for Michigan taxpayers.

The 333,000 Michigan youngsters now enrolled in nonpublic schools saved taxpayers an estimated $205 million this year, they say.

Meanwhile, one House member who asked not to be identified said there are plans to try and tack the nonpublic school proposal onto the public school aid bill as an amendment.

He declined to elaborate.

Brown said he would not attempt to amend the public school bill because "it's not our intent to take $21 million away from public education."

Traxler said he would wait through next week to find out what the House Education Committee would do and then "look at the alternatives."

SIMPLE MAJORITY

A second alternative, which House members considered unlikely, would be a move to discharge the bill from committee without committee approval. That would take a simple majority vote.

The controversial nonpublic school aid bill has sparked a tremendous church-state battle in the past several weeks.

Thousands of letters clogged legislative channels.

Opposing the measure are numerous public school associations, the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers and Citizens to Advance Public Education (CAPE).

Leading proponent is Citizens for Educational Freedom (CEF), an organization of some 20,000 families and several religious groups.

$50-$100 GRANTS

The bill would call for grants of $50 to parent for each child in a nonpublic elementary school and $100 for each in a nonpublic secondary school.

Grants would be increased to $75 and $150 for children attending private or parochial schools in core city areas like Detroit.

Debate Will Start Monday on Senate Code of Ethics

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed code of ethics generated by the Bobby Baker scandal comes before the Senate amid signs it won't require full public disclosure of each senator's financial assets.

The code is to be put before the Senate by its ethics committee. Debate is scheduled to start Monday.

The Senate's version of a code to govern the conduct of its members will be made public one day after the House took up an ethical code of its own. The House proposal was sparked by the case of Adam Clayton Powell, excluded from his seat on grounds of financial misconduct.

Strong Senate advocates of a code of ethics have called for annual public disclosure of the amount and sources of each member's income, along with assets, liabilities and outside business and professional activities.

Opponents contend this would be an unwarranted invasion of privacy.

Indications were the committee would recommend a middle course between these two positions. Bitter controversy is likely to surround the issue.

The Senate Ethics Committee was created in 1964 during the politically explosive probe into the financial affairs of Robert G. Baker, onetime secretary to Senate Democrats and a confidant of Lyndon B. Johnson when the President was the Senate Democratic leader. Baker was convicted of income-tax evasion and is appealing the federal court decision.

Shortly after the committee was organized, Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., said he considered its role to be "the preservation of the good name of the Senate."

The committee set the drafting of specific standards of conduct for senators and Senate employees as its first business, but was twice interrupted by

The Oakland County Bar Association announced today it is accepting nominations for its Liberty Bell Awards to be presented in connection with the Law Day USA Program, May 1.

The awards will be presented at a ceremony in the Supervisors' Auditorium at the Oakland County Courthouse.

The purpose of the awards is to recognize community service which strengthens the effectiveness of the American System of freedom under law.

Such services would include activities which would promote a better understanding of government, and especially the Bill of Rights; encourage greater respect for law and the courts; and stimulate a deeper sense of individual responsibility so that citizens recognize their duties as well as their rights.

Only lawyers and judges are ineligible for the awards, according to Bernard N. Portnoy, Law Day chairman.

The names of nominees, together with their addresses and phone numbers and a resume of their activities which might qualify them can be mailed to Portnoy at 9 W. Huron, Pontiac, no later than April 22.

investigations of misconduct charges against fellow senators. The investigation of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., culminated in the Senate's censure of Dodd last June. The committee found he had converted at least $116,083 in political funds to his personal benefit.

The committee later probed charges that Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., had misused a wiretap investigation in an effort to help James R. Hoffa, imprisoned president of the Teamsters Union.

Last Oct. 25 the committee unanimously reported it found no facts to support the charges against Long by Life magazine.

STILL CONTINUING
After the magazine called the inquiry a whitewash and made fresh charges, the committee announced it would fully consider the latest allegations against Long. The inquiry is still continuing.

The House code was written after nearly a year's work by its ethics committee, headed by Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill.

The eight-point code would apply to House members, officials and employees, but its financial disclosure provision could apply as well to relatives and close business associates of members.

The House Ethics Committee was created following the investigation of Powell, a Harlem Democrat, for alleged financial misconduct. Powell has been denied his seat for more than a year.

The House committee noted that a code of ethics would completely block a congressman who sought to sell his vote or influence.

Foreground: Camaro SS Sport Coupe with mag-style wheel covers.

Background: Corvette Sting Ray Coupe with new lift-off roof panels.

Presenting the genuine article and a very reasonable facsimile.

There are a great many sporty cars made in America. But still only one sports car. Only one honest-to-goodness production sports car: The Corvette Sting Ray.

Of all the sporty cars, Camaro comes closest to Corvette. They're both Chevrolets. And the family resemblance is obvious.

They also handle a lot alike. Like Corvette, Camaro clings exceptionally well to a curve. (Which helps explain its nickname, The Hugger.)

Like Corvette, Camaro has Astro Ventilation. You get a flow of outside air even with the windows up, so the lady's hair won't muss on the way to the party. Both have a 327-cu.-in. base V8 engine.

Of course we've left a lot to you. Exactly how close your Camaro comes to Corvette depends on what you add. For example, you can "customize" your Camaro with a rear deck spoiler that makes the car look all the more Corvette-ish. (You can also get mag-style wheel covers, special sport striping, whitewalls, and your choice of four special colors—three of which are also Corvette's.)

CamaroCorvette.

They're about as close as that.

What's wrong with Pontiac (FSC), not to mention students, teachers and parents. And next year more students are expected. More than half the classes are overcrowded. Fifty-four years ago it was built to hold 1,700 students. It now has 500 more.

TWO-CAR GARAGE CLASSROOM—This crowded classroom of 30 students at Pontiac Central High School is about the size of a two-car garage. Normally this room would house no more than 15 students but limiting classes to that number is not possible when the school is filled to 120 per cent capacity.

Solicitations Must Be Labeled

An amendment to the Postal Revenue and Federal Salary Act of 1967 states that solicitations in the guise of bills or statements of account are nonmailable unless properly labeled. Effective today, all such solicitations must contain on the front in large and conspicuous type: "This is a solicitation for the order of goods and or services and not a bill, invoice, or statement of account due. You are not under obligation to make any payments on account of this offer unless you accept this offer."

"Last year two persons were convicted for fraudulently mailing solicitations which appeared to be invoices for legitimate directories, four other operators were indicted, and several promoters quit to avoid possible prosecution or because public exposure of such schemes reduce their profitability," according to Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien.

A spokesman for the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce warned citizens against being taken in by these classified directory schemes.

He advised businessmen to tell their personnel not to pay any billings which appear to be payments for classified advertising in the local telephone directory.

The building's 71 classrooms are not enough, says McMillen. Classes needed in art and trade programs could not be added because of a shortage of classrooms, for example.

THREATENED Central High is in danger of losing its accreditation because of inadequacies, McMillen said. If this happens, its students bound for college may be turned down.

The North Central Association, the nation's largest regional educational accrediting agency, has criticized the school. Central High is one of only about three Michigan high schools to be accredited by North Central for at least 50 straight years.

Next year, the high school has been told it will be officially warned by the agency to expand its library or be put on probation.

McMillen related that the library's 86 seats should be increased to 140—about double its current size. This would take two more classrooms out of circulation.

CAFETERIA TOO SMALL

Central's cafeteria is too small to serve more than 1,500 students. So about one-third of the students leave the building for lunch and are permitted to do so.

Other problems include a number of fire hazards and cramped facilities for vocational education and physical education, says the citizens finance group.

"English and other departments are scattered all over the building because there aren't enough rooms and

Hearing Views Exhaust Curbs

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—The automobile industry collided with Californians yesterday at a hearing called by the State Air Resources Board to find the best way to reduce exhaust smog.

The board heard testimony from both citizens and representatives of car manufacturers on whether averaging exhaust emission levels of all cars would be the most effective smog-reducing method or if each car should be tested individually.

Fred W. Bowditch, a General Motors staff engineer, and Christopher Landsman of Mercedes-Benz urged continuance of the averaging concept. "The concept of averaging has been used to date since it best fits the peculiarities of the automotive emission problems," Bowditch said.

He said that, if averaging was abandoned, Detroit would have to test every vehicle at the assembly line or test a large fleet of cars to meet emission standards. He said such alternatives would mean building new facilities, more test equipment, training workers and "a probable reduction in rate production."

House Passes Bill Easing Adoption

LANSING (AP) — Bills intended to lower the barriers to interfaith and interracial adoptions and to make county burial benefits available to servicemen in Vietnam were approved by the House Thursday.

Measures requiring fences around junk yards and outlawing sparklers were defeated.

Also passed were bills allowing servicemen on leave to drive with expired licenses, protecting tenants of public housing projects, and making it a misdemeanor to help or conceal a runaway youngster.

The approved bills now go to the Senate.

ADOPTION CHANGE
Endorsed 79-15 was a measure introduced by Rep. Johannes Kolderman, R-Wyoming, which deletes an existing provision that a preadoption investigation take into consideration the "racial, religious and cultural backgrounds" of the child and the prospective parents.

The existing provision does not forbid couples to adopt children of different races or creeds, but advocates of Kolderman's bill said the law might encourage investigators to recommend against such adoptions.

"If the parents want to adopt a kid, I don't see what difference it should make to the court whether they are of different racial or religious backgrounds," said Rep. Raymon Smit, R-Ann Arbor.

Given 86-15 approval was a measure raising existing county-paid veteran's burial benefits from $200 to $300 and making Vietnam servicemen eligible for them. Currently only discharged veterans are eligible.

SPARKLER BILL
A bill originally intended to outlaw larger, more dangerous fireworks and explosives but later amended to include common sparklers, was defeated 34-64.

Black, White America Tied in Need-King

DETROIT (UPI) — The Rev. Martin Luther King said last night there are two Americas — black and white — but the destinies of both are tied together.

"Somehow we have all got to learn to live together in this country as brothers, or else we will perish as fools," the Rev. King told a mostly white audience in the posh and almost all-white suburb of Grosse Pointe.

"The black man needs the white man to free him from his fear," he said. "And the white man needs the black man to free him from his guilt."

The civil rights leader received a standing ovation at the beginning and end of his speech to a capacity crowd of 2,800 in the Grosse Pointe High School auditorium. But he was interrupted several times by hecklers from an organization of young whites who consistently try to break up such gatherings in the Detroit area.

After his hour-long speech, the Rev. King told newsmen he had never faced heckling quite like that.

ORGANIZED

"I have never received a reception on this level. It obviously was organized," he said.

"The vast majority of the people were overwhelmingly in my favor," he said. "I appreciated that, and it was a wonderful feeling."

The Rev. King was introduced by the Rt. Rev. Richard S. Emrich, Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Michigan. His appearance was sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Human Relations Council.

after opponents charged it was too restrictive.

Rep. Daniel Cooper, D-Oak Park, urging adoption of the bill, said sparklers of the type waved by children on the Fourth of July, burn at 2,000 degrees centigrade and are "deadly dangerous."

"You don't buy a box of matches and then tell your kids to go out and play with them," Cooper said.

Rejected 45-55 was a bill which would have required junk yards not regulated by existing laws to be screened off from adjacent roads.

Rep. Robert W. Davis, R-St. Ignace, sponsor of the bill, said it would apply only to junk yards along county roads, since those on state highways have been covered since 1966.

A bill introduced by Rep.

Matthew McNeeley, D-Detroit, and passed 92-1 would make it a misdemeanor to help a youth under 17 violate a juvenile court order. Outlawed also would be concealing or harboring a juvenile who had run away from his parents, his guardian or a court.

Violation would be punishable by up to one year in jail and a $500 fine.

A serviceman who came home on leave and found his driver's license had expired in his absence would be allowed to drive for 30 days without renewing it under a measure sponsored by Rep. Gustave Groat, R-Battle Creek, and passed 101-0.

Another bill, introduced by Rep. Stanley Powell, R-Ionia, and passed 97-0, would provide that public housing tenants could be evicted only for "just cause."

Bridge Catastrophe Still Felt by Towns

POINT PLEASANT W. Va. (UPI) — The shock and horror which transfixed this Ohio River area has passed—almost. The hurt lingers on for some, but life has returned to normal for most residents.

The families of 42 victims of the Silver Bridge collapse have buried their loved ones.

The families of four other persons whose bodies have not been found live on with another sorrow. Legally, their loved ones are not dead. But the survivors know the law lies.

The tragedy that befell Point Pleasant and its ancient French-founded Ohio neighbor, Gallipolis, has drawn the towns closer.

FEW LOSSES

Loss of the bridge put dents in the area's economy, but for the most part, large losses have been few.

Walk down the main street of Point Pleasant or Gallipolis and you find little on the surface to remind you of the disaster.

When residents talk about the collapse, the main point seems to be inconvenience.

For the Point Pleasant and Gallipolis residents who live in one town and work in the other, life has become a timetable. No longer can they sleep in and make the five-minute river crossing in time for work.

35-MILE TRIP

It is either wait for a ferry or make a 35-mile trip via the Pomeroy Bridge upriver.

A group of executives from the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. plant at Apple Grove, W. Va., live in Gallipolis. They started their own ferry.

Each morning, briefcases in hand, they board small pleasure craft just below the Gallipolis Locks and Dam and, resembling a military landing force, ply to the West Virginia shore and to their old, specially purchased "junk cars" which they ride to work.

The Rev. Gaston Boyle, a small man with thinning hair, a quick smile and a drawl, has taken a personal hand in helping families of the victims.

DISASTER FUND

His Point Pleasant Presbyterian Church started a bridge disaster fund.

With contributions from as far away as Massachusetts, the fund has grown to more than $3,500.

A board of bankers and townspeople from both communities acts on grants to needy families.

"There are not too many whom you would classify as destitute," the Rev. Boyle said, "but several have needed rent money or coal or some other emergency need."

DIFFERENT CROSSING

Trucks which used to roll off the West Virginia Turnpike at Charleston and pick up W. Va.-17 to Point Pleasant, the Silver Bridge and on to Columbus now cross the river at Huntington.

There were four truck stops between St. Albans, W. Va., and Point Pleasant last Dec. 15. Now there are three.

Ninety-three persons have been put out of work, representing an approximate annual pay check of $386,000.

Officials have announced that a modern, four-lane bridge will be built south of here to replace the Silver Bridge.

TICKLISH CLEANING JOB — Mrs. Melvin G. Hawk of Shannondale, Pa., runs a vacuum cleaner over a stuffed polar bear which her husband shot in Alaska. The 1,450-pound animal has attracted the attention of passersby who see it in the Hawks' sun-porch window.

And Even a Traffic Hazard

Polar Bear Is a Dust Catcher

SHANNONDALE, Pa. (AP) — "Oh, I cannot begin to tell you how many people have stopped to see him," she says. "It got so bad, though, that we finally pulled our drapes and went out on weekends."

It's a stuffed polar bear.

The bear, shot by Mrs. Hawk's husband, is a natural dust catcher.

But Mrs. Hawk has solved the latter problem neatly. She regularly cleans the bear's white fur with a vacuum cleaner, keeping the hair fluffy and bright.

NO PROBLEM

"Really, he's no problem at all," said Mrs. Hawk.

But sometimes he is.

Passersby stop short when they catch a glimpse of the huge, white bear, its fangs bared, glaring from the Hawks' sun-porch window.

Weightless Astronaut Can Be Weighed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Everyone knows an astronaut in orbit becomes weightless. But that doesn't mean he can stop worrying about his weight, especially if he lives in a space station.

Each pound he gains still shows up in his belt line. The same is true if he loses weight, a possibility considered more likely based on past space-flight experience.

During long space station flights in the 1970s, this could play havoc with the fit of an astronaut's space suit. More important, doctors must keep track of an astronaut's weight changes during long flights to know his health.

But how, except by measuring his girth occasionally, can a weightless man in orbit keep up with how much he gains or loses? Lacking gravity to hold him down, the earth-type scales he would step-on back home are no good.

An Air Force doctor puzzling over this problem—which the medical men must solve in order to fully monitor the physical condition of orbiting spacemen—has come up with a new kind of scales for weightless weighing.

Dr. John Ord described his device as a "spring mass pendulum," which substitutes a very slow back-and-forth bouncing for the gravity earth scales need.

Delicate electronic counters measure the frequency of this bouncing, or oscillation, to determine the mass of the body being weighed. This, in turn, is easily converted into pounds or ounces.

Ord and William E. Thornton, now an astronaut but then an Air Force captain, developed the weighing instrument at the School of Aerospace Medicine in San Antonio, Tex. Their first was a device to measure small laboratory samples.

"This instrument comes in two versions now—one capable of measuring the small masses up to one kilogram (2.2 pounds) and one capable of measuring man," Ord said.

The small weighing machine looks like a metal shoe-box with a tray mounted inside on two vertical, flat metal springs. It weighs 14 pounds. The sample being weighed is placed on the tray, which is then pushed against one end of the box and locked there.

To weigh the sample, the astronaut pushes a trigger button and the tray starts oscillating from end to end of the box, making one full swing about every three seconds. The time needed for three full cycles—which differs slightly with differing masses—is measured to calculate a sample's weight.

New Business Operates on Old Principle

By YOLANDA BENAVIDES
The newest proprietress in downtown Pontiac, Mrs. Truman Mason, has an idea for pleasing customers that's as old as the American flag and apple pie. Service with a smile, perhaps a little conversation, and, if you've got time, a cup of coffee, is the motto at her one-man endeavor, The Exchange Shop.

"We're a service shop," she says. "And we feel we can do something for the customer that he can't get anywhere else."

As implied by the name, anything new and unused can be exchanged for any item or items in the shop at the same price. If a customer wants to purchase a costlier item, he merely makes up the difference in cash.

IDEA FROM TV

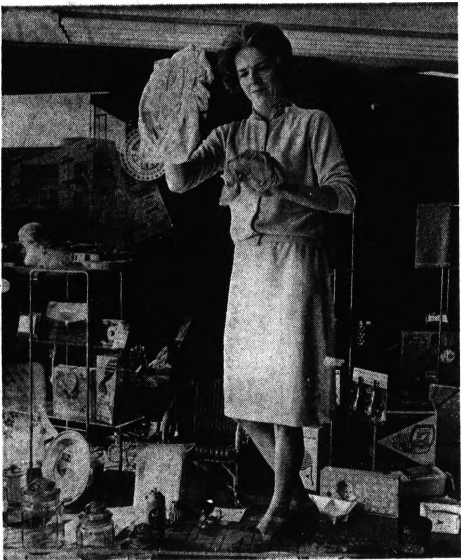

She first toyed with the idea of an exchange shop after hearing about it on a television program. "I thought it was just wonderful because I knew how the originator felt when he talked about stored odds and ends that had accumulated over the years," she said.

"My dresser drawers were full of similar items and I too had boxes of larger 'unusables' by the time I opened up shop," she continued.

Audrey Mason, who lives on a large rambling farm on Delano Road in Oxford Township with her husband and nine-year-old son, Billie, chose Pontiac to open shop because of its central location.

Although she harbors a few doubts concerning the downtown area's lag in competition with surrounding shopping centers, she is still optimistic about the City's potential.

When she's not busy at the store, Audrey retreats to her home to be with Billie or catch up on some reading. "I've never been in the retail business," confides Mrs. Mason with a broad grin. "And I still don't think of this as such."

Running a one-man-show as owner, saleswoman, and at the moment, maintenance man, is the newest proprietress in downtown Pontiac, Audrey Mason, (Mrs. Truman). The Exchange Shop, on West Huron Street, a haven for customers with unusables, is now in its second month of operations.

An adventure in creativity, sparked by the forthcoming spring opening of the Pontiac Creative Arts Center (PCAC), will soon be available to area residents. A 30-day advance drive for PCAC memberships began today with a mailing of some 7,500 invitations and subscription envelopes by the membership committee. Memberships are open to everyone in the community and surrounding areas, according to Mrs. Merrill D. Petrie, PCAC membership chairman.

As a part of the month-long drive activities, membership enrollment and information about the Center and its program will be available at booths set up at various locations, neighborhood teas, and through tours of the Center at 47 Williams Street. "Although a membership is not required to register for any of the many courses being offered, membership privileges include: newsletters and bulletins; invitations to special previews and receptions; discounts on class fees in public class programs; and invitations to lectures, art films and demonstrations," Mrs. Petrie stated.

ADVANCE PURCHASES
Annual memberships purchased in advance of the late spring opening will become effective on the date of the Center's opening and constitute charter membership.

Annual memberships obtained after the opening will run for a period of one year of the purchase date.

Memberships, required for the operation and maintenance of the Center and the basis for supplying a well-rounded program for all ages, are offered in the following categories: individual, $10; family, $25; sustaining, $50; patron, $100; benefactor, $500; and business, $500.

A daytime summer schedule for adults and children, being prepared by the program committee headed by Mrs. Ray E. Hayes and education chairman Mrs. Lewis Serrano, includes courses in drawing, sculpture and painting.

A broader course offering for the fall term will include evening, afternoon, after-school classes and a Saturday program for exceptional students.

Brochures and additional information may be obtained by contacting the Pontiac Creative Arts Center, P.O. Box 747, Pontiac, Mich. 48066.

Artist to Have Show

Frederick Simper Jr., Spring Road, West Bloomfield Township, will have a one-man show of his watercolors at the Arwin Galleries in Detroit.

An opening reception to meet the artist will be held Monday from 5:30-9 p.m. at the galleries, on West Grand River. Viewing hours on following days are 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Just then a customer walked in. "Ooh, I could have used you when my daughter got married," she laughed. "Just came in to browse today though."

"Glad to have you," smiled Mrs. Mason. "Care for some coffee?"

Daughter Is Wrong

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: My sister and I are both widows (in our sixties) and live in separate houses in a small town. We are very congenial, go everywhere together, enjoy each other's company, and you might say we are inseparable. My married daughter lives in another town close by. She says I am in a rut (she is right)—that my sister and I see too much of each other and need to go our separate ways for a while. So my daughter has invited me to take a vacation with her just to get away from the same old routine—and she surely doesn't want to include my sister. I told my daughter that I couldn't just up and go on a trip without inviting my sister because she would be so hurt and I couldn't blame her. I know how I would feel if she did that to me. So I am on the spot. What should I do? Should I go with my daughter and hurt my sister, or stay home and hurt my daughter?

ON THE SPOT
DEAR ON: Your daughter may be well-intentioned, but she is putting you on the spot. Perhaps a vacation away from your sister would get you out of a "rut"—but at what a price? As long as you and your sister enjoy each other's company and are congenial, perhaps that "rut" is not such a bad one. Pass up the trip with your daughter. If you were to go, your conscience would prevent you from enjoying it.

INSULTED
DEAR ABBY: I recently telephoned a friend of mine and asked her if she was going to be home that evening because I wanted to visit her, and she said, "Yes, I'll be home, watching my favorite television program, so if you want to come over and watch it with me, you are welcome. Otherwise, let's make it some other time."

What do you think of such a friend? DEAR INSULTED: I'd prefer her forthright brand of frankness to the person who tells me I'm welcome, foregoes her favorite TV program, and resents me for it. Or, the friend who tries to entertain me with one eye on the TV.

DEAR ABBY: Can you help us get the message across to our 16-year-old daughter that it is in extremely poor taste for young people to put on a show of affection in public? I refer to the disgusting manner in which a girl will hang on a boy, and let him put his hands all over her. Our daughter walks down the street with her arm around her boyfriend's waist and vice versa. And when they drive together in an automobile, she practically sits on his lap.

Our daughter says she sees nothing wrong with it. Maybe you can tell her. We can't.

OLD FASHIONED
DEAR OLD FASHIONED: Hello, "young lovers" (wherever you are) and for the "older" ones, too: All the world may love a lover, but he doesn't have to act out his role in public. A boy who respects a girl will keep his hands off her in public, and a girl who respects herself, will make sure she does.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48066 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The engagement of their daughter, Margery Jean, to John F. Teggehaar, is announced by the Harry Guests of Orchard Lake. She is a senior at Western Michigan University, where her fiancé, son of the Claude Teggehaars of East Grand Rapids, is a graduate student. July vows are planned.

Air Traveler Points Out His

By ELIZABETH L. POST
The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of "Emily Post's Etiquette" has been sent to Frederick Sylvester of New Jersey.

Dear Mrs. Post: Your Airplane Traveler's Quiz caught my eye. I have traveled in practically every foreign country and have piled up well over two million miles of air travel in almost thirty-five years. I thus consider myself reasonably conversant with good manners in air travel.

Regrettably, you missed one good one which is the bane of most experienced air travelers. The rudest habit, strictly lack of consideration and down-right stupidity and found in most inexperienced travelers, is the habit of slamming the drop-away tray on the back of modern airline seats into its locked position.

At least 75 per cent of the air travelers do not know how to drop that little shelf down or put it in place in its closed position. I've sat in many an airplane seat both economy and first class, either trying to read or trying to catch a few winks of shut eye, only to be disturbed by someone behind me trying to lock that shelf into place by simply slamming it against the back of the seat.

I fully realize it's not easy to educate the public in good travel manners nor is it easy to explain to people how to utilize the various facilities in the aircraft without disturbing others, but I do keep hoping. — Frederick F. Sylvester

Dear Mr. Sylvester: I travel by air a great deal myself and I certainly agree with you about "tray-slammers." Your letter also reminds me of their cousins — the thoughtless "seat-lifters." They are the passengers who, the moment their own meal is removed (or whenever they wish) drop their seats back without a thought as to what the traveler behind them may be doing.

A glance back to make sure he isn't in the middle of a sip of coffee or leaning forward for something, is all that is necessary, but few passengers take the trouble.

Thanks for writing, and I'd be delighted to have more errors pointed out by other readers. Maybe we can do something about air travel manners.

PARK FREE in WKC'S Own Lot at Rear of the Store!

By BETTY CANARY

We were finishing dessert after dinner at the home of friends and the mother asked her daughter if she would mind doing the dishes. "Not tonight, mother, please!" Judy said. "You know I have my telescope set up and everything."

"You might as well get used to it, young lady," the father said. "You're a woman and you're going to be doing dishes all your life."

Shades of Betty Friedan, I thought, this family could have been a case history in her book, "The Feminine Mystique." Why didn't father merely point out it was Judy's turn to do the dishes? He could have said there is time for both star-gazing and kitchen cleaning.

Mother folded her hands and said, "There are times I wish I had never given her my old telescope."

"Oh, I didn't know you were interested in astronomy,"

POOR ME

"Why, yes! From the time I was a Girl Scout and had my first trip to a planetarium. In college I even planned to . . . well, it doesn't matter about me. My problem is to get that night of the falling stars. Just think! You could have exclaimed it all to us."

"Remember when the Leonid meteor shower made such a spectacular display? We sat outside until almost dawn and the children still talk about the

"Well," she said, rather uncomfortably. "I don't think about that kind of thing anymore." She smiled around the table at her children and husband. "I have my family."

Not understanding why this should keep a woman from looking through a telescope, I said nothing.

"Judy will straighten out," father said, holding his head stiffly so the halo would not fall. "She needs to go to more parties and meet some young people."

If I thought this was the place where mother would make a statement, I was wrong. Instead, she nodded in agreement and said, "That's what I've told her. I've told her, 'Judy, my dear, you're not going to meet any eligible young men in a mountaintop observatory!'"

On the other hand, I wonder how many stars she's going to see floating in a dishpan.

Worries About Virility

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-577: Lon G., aged 43, is a high school principal.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I am a bachelor."

"For I had to support my semi-invalid parents so I felt I could never afford to get married."

"However, my parents have passed away and I have become very much attracted to the young widow of our former athletic coach."

"She is 36 and a charming person."

"We have been dating for the past six months and I am falling madly in love with her."

"But I shun any talk about marriage for I have a secret fear that sexually I might prove a poor second to her husband."

"For I have led a celibate life, and her former mate was a virile, outdoor type of male. What should I do?"

SEX DREADS

The usual American woman never dreams that men entertain such sexual fears. Yet they complicate millions of homes and are a factor in the delayed marriage dates of many bachelors, plus widowers who have lived alone for several years since their wife's death.

Many an attractive woman will exclaim:

"Dr. Crane, I've been dating a wonderful man for over a year."

"He tells me he is crazy about me. And we have talked about marriage."

But he keeps stalling about the wedding date. Yet he vows that he loves me with all his heart. So what is wrong?"

Lon has explained what is often wrong in such cases!

Alas, the more a prospective bridegroom worries about his sexual ardor, the surer he will become platonist.

For worry is a brain or "cerebral" process and thus inhibits emotional action.

In psychology we say that a man "can't" simultaneously "cerebrate" and also "emote."

That's one reason why a suitor tries to keep his girl friend's mouth shut via his ardent kisses.

For if a girl keeps her escort engaged in conversation, as by asking him questions that compel him to answer, she thus keeps his brain cerebrating and dissipates his passion.

The mere act of casual conversation is a brain function and thus kills emotional ardor.

Incidentally, it dissipates other emotions, too, such as fear, for if you can make a terrified person talk, he will lose much of his apprehension.

Grief, too, expends itself when you can let the victim get her sorrow expressed via words, as well as pent-up tears.

Our medical answer to Lon is that physical ardor has no date line and thus does not suddenly stop because a man (or woman) reaches middle age or has been celibate for 40 or 50 years.

But a smart wife must understand this widespread dread of men and banish his apprehension by taking a more aggressive role in their marital boudoir.

Sixten Ehrling to Conduct at Interlochen

A conductor who has concluded engagements with five major orchestras within a year is to be on the podium when the Interlochen Arts Academy Orchestra gives its next concert on Sunday. He is Sixten Ehrling, distinguished conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Ehrling just will have finished four concerts with the Boston Symphony Orchestra when he arrives here—after having conducted the Cleveland, Philadelphia, New York Philharmonic and Chicago orchestras, as well as his own, within a year's span.

The concert is regarded as one of the highlights of this year's series at the academy, not alone because Ehrling is to conduct but also because of the program he has chosen.

It is to open with Glinka's tuneful overture, "Russian and Ludmila."

The major number will be the Sibelius Symphony No. 2 in D Major, which with the great Finnish composer's first symphony, is probably the most popular of seven he wrote. This work is regarded as the start of Sibelius's advance toward personal freedom in symphonic writing from the purely classical form.

The other number on the Sunday program will be Maurice Ravel's "La Valse."

The concert on the 17th will be Ehrling's second at Interlochen. He conducted his Detroit orchestra before an audience of 4,000 during the meeting of the International Society for Music Education here in the summer of 1966—and electrified that audience.

A report published by the American Cancer Society shows that most children who begin smoking in school come from homes in which one or both parents smoke.

What if Price of Gold Goes Up? Here Are Some Answers

NEW YORK (AP) — What happens to your pay check if the price of gold is increased? Will a car cost you more money?

These are some of the questions people ask when the talk and the headlines turn to the international gold situation.

Economists interviewed by the Associated Press provided these answers to some of the most common questions:

Q—How would a man in the street be affected by an increase in the price of gold from the present rate of $35 an ounce.

A—An increase would mean that the United States had de-valued the dollar. At home, pay checks, bank accounts, the costs of domestic products, and real estate would show no change. The dollar would buy less gold, but it would continue to purchase the same amount of goods—housing, cars—as it did prior to devaluation. However, imported goods might cost more.

ANY BENEFITS

Q—Would anyone benefit immediately from a gold price increase?

A—Hoarders and speculators in foreign countries would reap the immediate profits if they had bought gold for $35 an ounce and sold it, at say, $70.

Some economists say doubling the price would end speculative attacks on the dollar, since hoarders and speculators presumably would get rid of their gold at the higher price.

Q—Could there be detrimental effects?

A—Some economists foresee a breakdown in world trade and commerce, which has been pegged to gold being worth $35 an ounce. If world trade slumps, jobs would dwindle. Over the long run an inflationary trend would develop.

PRICE HOLD

Q—Why is the price of gold held at $35 an ounce?

A—This is the price at which the United States has guaranteed since 1934 to buy and sell gold. It's the keystone of international finance.

Q—Why a price increase for gold?

A—Some argue a higher price for gold would restore confidence in the dollar and produce economic expansion. It would discourage hoarding and promote gold production, some say. Boosting the price requires congressional action.

FIRST FELT?

Q—Where would a price increase in gold be felt first?

A—In the field of international trade and commerce, a field remote from many people.

Q—What can a person do to protect himself in these uncertain monetary times?

A—"Probably the best thing to do would be to sit still," said one economist. Some have sought refuge in gold mining stocks, which have increased in price recently. But this is a personal investment judgment. Advocates of a tax hike say the best way to help would be to write Congress urging the tax bill passage.

Q—Would a tax increase stem the gold flow abroad?

GOLD FLOW

A—It would tend to take the steam out of inflationary pressures. It would reduce purchasing power and dampen what economists call an inflationary psychology. People expect prices to go up, so they ask for higher wages, say economists. A tax increase long has been recognized in other countries as a traditional, orthodox fiscal step by countries with balance of payments deficits. These countries, one banker said, "would say the United States is taking the right kind of medicine. It would dampen gold speculation and store confidence in the dollar."

Q—What touched off the current gold stampede?

A—Britain's devaluation of the pound last Nov. 18 sent tremors through the international monetary world. Faith in paper currencies, including the key stone dollar, suffered a blow. Hoarders see gold as a haven from paper currencies, especially in nations where devaluation has occurred frequently. Speculators have been betting on a rise in the gold price and gobbling up large amounts of gold. And in France, the governmental love of gold is unquestioned.

HOARDERS?

Q—Who are these hoarders and speculators?

A—Their identities are cloaked in mystery. But likely the largest single hoard is in the oil-rich Arab states. In other countries, such as India, gold is the traditional form of savings, even for dowries. In other European countries, wracked by war twice in the same generation, businessmen feel safer with some gold as a hedge.

Q—Why does the United States keep losing gold?

A—Since World War II, the United States has spent or sent abroad more dollars than foreigners have spent in this country—creating a balance of payments deficit. The Vietnam war has aggravated this deficit. Foreigners, banking on the U.S.

pledge to redeem dollars for gold, have cashed in their dollars. The deficit has caused gold to flow out of the country to pay debts to nations. An additional amount of gold is lost through the United States' 59 per cent share of gold used in the seven-nation London gold pool, designed to stabilize the gold price at $35.

GOLD SUPPLY

Q—How much gold does the United States now have?

A—The regular Treasury gold stock is about $11.4 billion, lowest since 1936.

Q—How much gold have we lost recently?

A—Since Britain devalued the pound last year, the gold stock has dropped $1.475 billion.

Conservation Program Gains

Water Cleanup Bonds Get Senate Panel OK

LANSING (AP) — Michigan Conservationists have set an ambitious goal — to persuade legislators they should take action on a whopping $435-million bonding program for water pollution control and recreation.

They won a first round Thursday when a bill for a $335-million bond issue for water pollution cleanup was reported out of the Senate State Affairs Committee with recommendation for passage.

Still in committees in both the House and Senate are bills for $100 million in bonding for recreation spending.

"It won't be an easy job to sell the Legislature," Lt. Gov. William Milliken told a rally of conservation groups at the Lansing Civic Center Thursday.

'MUST BE SOLD'

"But it must be sold. We will do everything we can to fight the proposals through the Legislature," Milliken promised for the executive office.

Water pollution, in particular, has become a "crisis" problem in Michigan, Milliken told the group.

The proposed bonding issues were key planks in Gov. George Romney's recommendations for conservation legislation.

The separate proposals will require a two-thirds majority of both houses before they can be put in the November election ballot. A majority vote of the people then would be required to authorize issuance of the bonds.

LOBBY PLANNED

The Michigan United Conservation Clubs organized the meeting of several hundred sportsmen and conservationists to lobby for action on the issues. James Rouman, MUCC executive director, was named president of a new group to carry on the conservation fight. It will be known as MARS for Citizens Action Council of Michigan — America's Recreation State.

"It will be a real tough road to go," Rouman admitted, "especially with members of the House. You will be asking them to approve a $435-million bond issue just before an election."

It was pointed out, however, that the lawmakers can explain they are not actually approving the bonding—only allowing the voters to decide for themselves.

HOUSE ELECTIONS

Members of the House of Representatives come up for reelection in November. Senators don't face reelection for another two years.

Young Oregon Voters May Hold Key for Morse

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Voters still in their crisis when Wayne Morse was elected to the U.S. Senate 23 years ago may hold the decision on whether he keeps his office.

Robert B. Duncan, 47, former congressman, is in the May 28 Democratic primary against Morse. He has captured much of the regular party leadership. He has broken into what he calls "the solid phalanx of Morse labor support."

As a result Morse, 67, is looking for new faces.

"The ground we will be plowing will be the 21-35 age group," said Charles Brooks, Morse's executive assistant in Oregon.

ON VIETNAM ALONE

The general belief is that on Vietnam alone Morse will dominate the votes of young people.

University of Oregon students held a mock election last month and in the Democratic primary Morse got 1,378 votes, Duncan 351.

If the campus balloting has significance it is this: An estimated 50 per cent of the university's 13,200 students are old enough to vote.

And about one in every five Oregonians of voting age is under 30.

MAJOR ISSUE

Duncan is a staunch supporter of the administration's role in Vietnam. Two years ago he ran for the Senate against Republican Mark O. Hatfield and the war was a major issue. Hatfield, a critic of the administration, won.

Morse, also a critic of the war, refused to campaign for Duncan.

That set the stage for this year's Democratic primary fight. Many party regulars still are nursing their anger against Morse. Many think his refusal cost the Democrats a seat in the Senate.

The campaign, even in its early stages, has had overtones of great bitterness.

NO STRONG CANDIDATE

Recently a top Duncan aide charged that in payment for Morse staying out of the 1966 campaign, Hatfield and the GOP promised to put no strong candidate against him this year.

Then Phil McAlmond, a political newcomer who is third man in the Morse-Duncan race, charged that Duncan people were trying to buy him off and that they were using political threats to win labor endorsement. The district attorney will look at these charges.

A Duncan leader said the charges were a hatchet job by "the Morse-Hatfield axis."

Race Relations Is Topic at Y

The second in this season's public affairs programs at the Pontiac YWCA, 269 W. Huron, will take place March 25 at 8 p.m.

Speaking on "Race Relations, 1968" Albert Shaw, community director at Jefferson Junior High School and acting chairman of VOCAL, will be assisted by several adult advisors of the Pontiac Organization of Black Youth.

They will try to evaluate the present situation in Pontiac and offer some positive suggestions.

March 21 has been designated by the United Nations as "Related International Day for Elimination of Racial Discrimination" and the YW will present this program in connection with the occasion.

The meeting is open to the public without charge.

(Announcement)

Duncan has not yet moved into an intensive campaign. But he said polls show him well in front.

On the war—the issue that put him into the 1966 campaign and that marks in the public's mind a major split with Morse—Duncan said, "I want to get the war over as quickly as we can, but I'm not going to turn South Vietnam and Southeast Asia over to the Communists."

LOOKING OTHER WAY

Through it all, Morse seemingly has been looking the other way.

Duncan said he expects this to change with Morse lighting into him any day now: "He's ripped everybody up who's opposed to him. But so far it's been sweetness and light."

Morse has been talking on Vietnam and inflation and regional problems such as the plight of the lumber industry. He has been in Oregon speaking and shaking hands at every opportunity since last summer. In mid-February he started a television advertising campaign.

"Morse is a winner"—and began buying newspaper space.

"It is far earlier than we have ever done anything before," Brooks said.

Events from overseas are found few who said they would vote for Morse. Then he repeated what is part of Oregon political folklore: "Every election it is hard to find anyone who ever admitted he voted for Morse."

Most observers say the election now seems close but they expect Morse to win. Some say he will win by a substantial margin.

But a Duncan backer said this was part of what he called the myth that Morse was unbeatable: "It's like in 1948 when all the opinion makers said Dewey would beat Truman."

May 28 will be the day for the answers.

The winner then will face state Rep. Robert Packwood, 35, unopposed bright rising star of the Republicans, in the fall.

HARD TO SAY

L. R. Martin, the Dalles, parish chairman for the sprawling 2nd Congressional District, said: "The Central Committee groups are for Duncan. But they follow politics. It's hard to say about the people."

He added that on a trip through eastern Oregon, he

It is on the war issue that Morse is believed to have much of his strength with young voters. And just the other day Democratic Central Committee County voted with little dissent to endorse withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

Ray Lamborg, county chairman at Medford, where Duncan lived before opening a law office in Portland, said, "Duncan is ahead of Morse in Jackson County but the tide is turning."

Junior Editors Quiz on NAMES

QUESTION: What does the name Barbara mean?

ANSWER: Where did names come from anyway? Most names had meanings which originally applied to one person. As the names were passed on, people forgot about the meanings or how the names started.

A great many first names come from the Bible. John, for example, means "gracious gift of Yahveh," Elizabeth, "oath of God," Hannah, "God has favored me," and David, "beloved."

From North European sources comes William, composed of "Willie" meaning resolution and "helm" or helmet.

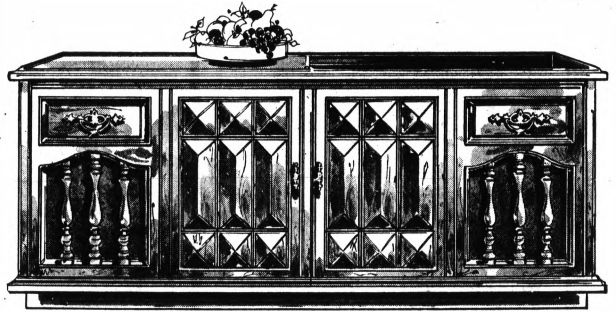

Now study our picture. Next to each head our artist has drawn some symbol to give a hint as to the name's meaning. Give up?

Here they are: Herbert means "glory of the army" and Barbara, "a stranger." Diana means "goddess." (Congratulations, all you Dianases!) Leonard is as "strong as a lion;" Roy, "king," from the French roi. What could Vivian stand for? It means "full of life."

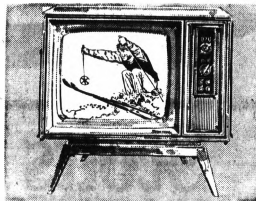

You can't expect these ancient names to fit all the people who happen to have them, but sometimes they seem to click.

Apollo Takes on New Air

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency, in an attempt to reduce fire hazards that contributed to the deaths of three astronauts 13 months ago, is changing to an oxygen-nitrogen mixture in the Apollo spacecraft during launchings.

But the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said yesterday astronauts would switch to pure oxygen once the spacecraft has left the launch pad.

The decision to use a mixture of 60 per cent oxygen and 40 per cent nitrogen while the spacecraft and its crew are on the ground results from the fatal Jan. 27, 1967, launch-pad fire at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

NASA said in a statement that since the gas mixture will be used in the spacecraft only during ground operations, there will be no change in the existing environmental control system.

NASA said more than 140 tests since last October show modifications of the Apollo spacecraft since the 1967 disaster have drastically reduced the hazard of fire.

Sources of ignition have been eliminated and certain materials changed to avoid flame propagation, NASA said. In addition, the spacecraft has been equipped with a fire extinguisher and with a new hatch permitting quicker escape.

NASA said that in evaluating the atmosphere for prelaunch activity, a major consideration was providing an adequate amount of oxygen to assure performance ability and yet reduce the fire hazard to an acceptable level.

Pilot in Vietnam Banks on God's Guidance

By MAJ. BERNARD M. FISHER
U.S. Air Force

We were halfway to our target near the Laotian border when the radio at our base in Pleiku crackled new orders: the flight of six propeller-driven A1 Skyraiders was to proceed immediately to a Special Forces camp at a canyon near A Shau in the north-west corner of South Vietnam.

Seventeen Green Berets and 400 Vietnamese were under savage attack there. Some 2,000 North Vietnamese regulars were pouring a murderous fire on them from dugouts between the camp and its airstrip and from the surrounding hills which were 1,500 feet high.

We had been there the day before and had been told that radio contact had been lost and the camp overrun. Now the survivors had reestablished radio contact and were all holed up in one bunker. There was a chance to get them out.

This was my 170th mission. One way to account for that many safe rides is "luck." Another is to feel that if the Lord helps you, no one can hurt you. I trusted in the Lord. There was a lot to trust Him with. I did want to see my wife and five sons again.

The weather was foul: an 800-foot ceiling. The enemy would actually be firing right down from the hills. And there was very little room to maneuver.

PLANE'S CANOPY HIT

Just before we got to A Shau one of the pilots took a hit in his plane's canopy. He couldn't see out of his windshield, and was ordered back to base.

When we came over the camp all of us got hit, but one pilot, Major Dafford "Jump" Myers, from Newport, Washington, couldn't pull up. He got it from a 37 mm. cannon.

He radioed, "I'm hit." I radioed back, "You're burning real bad," and talked him down for a crash landing, strafing enemy positions to provide some protection for him.

When he came down his plane exploded, but I saw him jump out and roll into a ditch. He was alive — when I turned and pulled up he was to me.

I radioed for a rescue chopper. The base replied that they could get one there in 20 minutes. Too long. We were running out of ammunition.

I asked for the length of the camp's runway. The reply: "The runway is 3,300 feet but the metal pad is mangled and pock-marked. We advise you not to try and land."

"Jump" Myers was down there alone, maybe badly burned, certainly a close enemy target. And there were all the others in the bunker.

A few ideas bounced around in my head. I asked the wing men for support. All three, Captain Jon Lucas, from Steubenville, Ohio, Captain Dennis Hague, of Kellogg, Idaho and Captain Francisco Vaquez, from Puerto Rico, started trying to land. In those seconds, coming down, I was clean out of ideas and scared.

To save time I climbed only 100 feet, turned and came in from the opposite direction. The wing men were strafing the runway to protect me. That strip was actually 2,500 feet and on the overrun was a fuel dump with 55-gallon gas drums.

All I could think of was that going in there would be like flying into a football stadium with everyone in the stands firing machine guns at me.

There comes a moment of decision in every crisis. I would try to land. In those seconds, coming down, I was clean out of ideas and scared.

There comes a moment of decision in every crisis. I would try to land. In those seconds, coming down, I was clean out of ideas and scared.

Then it hit me that I had the best idea in creation. I voiced it aloud: "Lord, You know what I must do."

And I just left it up to Him.

I set down on the shell-pocked, mangled runway and hit the brakes as hard as I could, bouncing over the craters and the debris and right into the overrun and the fuel dump. All that happened was I nudged the drums.

Myers was at the other end of the strip, so I had to taxi back. That took another three minutes. Lucas and Hague and Vaquez were strafing to cut down the enemy's steady fire.

I didn't see Myers climb onto the plane until he was on my wing. He just about made it. I reached out and pulled him in by the seat of his pants. He was singed, but not severely hurt.

STRAFING HELPS EXIT

I felt the plane peppered three times by enemy bullets. We used only two-thirds of the runway to lift off. We might not have gotten out if the three wing men hadn't kept hosing down the enemy with gunfire to keep them off us.

When we landed back at Pleiku there were 19 bullet holes in the plane. And we learned that 12 of the Green Berets and 68 South Vietnamese had been rescued.

Some days later there was a detailed recounting of what had taken place. "Jump" Myers and I were there. We were asked a lot of questions. It seemed as if it was going to go on for a long time.

I just had to excuse myself for an hour or so for something important. It was Sunday. There was church service and I owed the Lord a special prayer of thanksgiving.

Tomorrow — Annamie Cheney, missionary in the Philippines, tells the heart warming story about her husband who made a kite that was to make a great change in the life of a small boy.

Swindle Warning

EAST LANSING (AP) — Spring is the season for migratory confidence men and contractors. State Police have warned Michigan residents. The transient workers often specialize in home repairs and generally prey upon the elderly, police said. These include offers to repair roofs and chimneys, fix furnaces and resurface driveways. Police said complaints are received every year of shoddy work with poor materials and blatant over-charging by such traveling tricksters.

Tigers Continue Losing Ways

Failure in Clutch Situations Leads to Detroit Setback

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

LAKELAND, Fla. — Don't give up yet Tiger fans, these games are for fun. The best suggestion in the dreary 5-0 defeat at the hands of the Los Angeles Dodgers in Marchant Stadium yesterday came from one of 1,628 fans who yelled, "Wake everybody up, play some music."

The suggestion was directed at the entertainer who plays the electric organ between innings at the stadium.

It was a dreary afternoon despite the fact that the Tigers matched hits with the Dodgers, 9-9, but it was the same story when the runners were waiting on the base paths. The Tigers couldn't come through with the clutch hit and they left 12 runners stranded.

Denny McLain started and pitched two scoreless innings only to the Dodgers put four hits and a walk together in the third frame for three runs.

Bob Bailey walked, catcher Tom Haller singled him to third and pitcher Bill Singer brought home a run with an infield grounder. Willie Davis drove in Haller with a double down the right field line and Zoilo Versalles followed with a single to right for the third run.

In the fourth inning after two outs, Haller again singled. Pinch hitter Willie Crawford lined a ball down the right field line. Al Kaline kicked the ball trying to field it and Haller scored, with Crawford going to third. Davis followed with another single and that scored Crawford with the final run of the game.

FRUSTRATING TIME

Except for Dick McAuliffe's 3-for-3 at the plate, it was sheer frustration for the Tigers who are now 25 in Grapefruit League play.

With eight hits in 15 times at the plate, McAuliffe now becomes the leading Tiger hitter in exhibition play. The little second baseman has done his job as leadoff man by getting on base four times in his first trip to the plate in four of the six games he has played.

With the six walks he also has been issued, he had thus been on base 14 times in 21 trips to the plate.

The only other player whose bat has been hot, Jim Northrup, did not play yesterday.

McAuliffe opened the Tiger first inning yesterday with a two-base hit but was left at the keyhole sack as Kaline lined to short and Willie Horton hit into a double play.

He started the third inning with a single and advanced to third when Kaline's sharp grounder went through Versalles at short.

But Singer then caught Kaline napping at second and with a fast turn he picked off the veteran outfielder.

Hot-Shooting Warriors Roll Past Lake Orion, 88-70

By JERE CRAIG

The Dragons' fire went out Thursday night. The Lake Orion cagers saw their hopes doused not by any cold-shooting night or a lack of rebounding, rather it was the superior firepower of Birmingham's Brother Rice that led to the Dragons' 88-70 downfall at the Seaholm Class A regional tournament.

The victorious Warriors thus move into the finals against Warren Cossino Saturday night in their first appearance in a regional hoop tourney.

Their chances of reaching the quarter-finals next week would appear good—coach Bill Norton sees them going all the way to East Lansing—if they can maintain last night's sizzling shooting pace.

Making at least 50 per cent of its field goal tries in each quarter, Brother Rice connected on 33 of 62 shots for 53 per cent to offset impressively the Dragons' 46 per cent effort (27 of 58) in their first regional appearance in 15 years. Lee Hart was the key man in the winners' attack. The massive 6-6, 240-pound

Warrior pivotman started by missing his first two shots and missing two of six free throws, but drawing a very significant three personal fouls on Orion's 6-7 Gary Mize.

As soon as Mize drew his restricting third foul in the first quarter, Hart went to work. He hit his final two shots for eight of the winners' initial 20 tallies.

Brother Rice led, 20-14, after the opening session and Hart rested the entire second period on the sidelines. Despite a 9-for-17 shooting effort and a 12-5 rebounding edge for the Dragons in the second period, they fell two points further behind.

COMES BACK

The third quarter began with Brother Rice ahead, 40-32, and Hart rejoining the lineup. A three-point play by Tim Daigle brought Orion within seven, 44-37, at the 6:20 mark.

That was the last bright moment for the losers. Hart poured in 14 points in the quarter, connecting on five straight field goal tries and four in a row at the charity stripe.

It was 69-47 at the period's end. Hart added six points in the early moments of the final quarter to finish with 28 points. More significant were his nine consecutive successful shots from the field and six straight from the free throw line.

The points all came on close-in shots although Hart only had four rebounds in the game. Mike McGill led the winners' rebounding with eight retrieves, and he made five of six shots.

John MacAloon and Steve Jones sparked with their ball handling and also scored in double figures.

Mize led Lake Orion's statistics by making 8 of 14 shots for 18 points and 11 rebounds, but his best efforts came in the final quarter when the issue was settled.

SPURTS

Bill Foss started strongly with his rebounding but didn't get any in the last half and made all nine of his points in the middle two sessions.

The Dragons matched Brother Rice on the backboards with 40 rebounds, thanks to a 15-8 last quarter edge. In the decisive third session, they were outscored, 15-5.

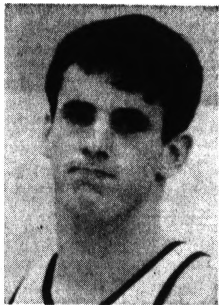

Turnovers also hampered the losers; they relinquished the ball 19 times without a shot while Brother Rice committed 9 violations. Orion finished with a 16-3 mark while the Warriors are now 13-8 after their ninth consecutive win. During the streak, they have averaged 85 points a game and the closest victory margin has been 16 points.

Tankers Seek State Honors

Individuals and teams from Oakland County are expected to bag their share of the honors when the state Class A swimming championships open this afternoon at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Preliminaries in all events but diving were slated to open at 4 p.m. today and continue through the evening. The diving preliminaries are on tap for tomorrow at 9 a.m. Finals in all events get under way at 2 p.m.

Battle Creek Lakeview, which shared the title last year with Trenton, again ranks as the team to beat.

Also good bets to give the Battle Creekers a run for their money are Birmingham Groves and Seaholm, Royal Oak Kimball, Southfield, Ann Arbor and Warren Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald placed third last year and Seaholm ranked fifth.

Among the individuals bidding for honors from Oakland County will be Mike Burt of Southfield, who won the 400-yard freestyle last year in 4:00.62.

FREESTYLE HOPEFUL

Greg Orgeta, also of Southfield, is a candidate for honors in the 100-freestyle.

Gary Gottschling of Royal Oak Kimball is the county's top swimmer and he'll be hard to beat in the individual medley and the 100-yard butterfly.

Among the other area swimmers on hand will be diver Rich Matheny of Bloomfield Hills Andover, Larry Driver of Birmingham Groves and Tobin Rote of Seaholm.

Mike Boga and John Mason will represent Pontiac Central in the state competition, while diver Nolan Mason will carry Pontiac Northern's colors.

Ceylon Is Undecided

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Ceylon still is undecided whether to take part in the Mexico Olympic Games after the admission of South Africa.

When the council of the Ceylon Olympic Games Association met Thursday night it merely passed a resolution unanimously asking the International Olympic Committee to reconsider its decision to allow South Africa to take part.

Balance Helps Lakers Triumph in 'D' Tourney

Special to the Press

YPSILANTI—Waterford Our Lady reached its first regional basketball championship title game Thursday night with a convincing 57-46 conquest of Litchfield in the Class D tournament at Eastern Michigan University.

Getting a well-balanced scoring attack and strong rebounding from Brian Haskins and Dan Sioma, the Lakers gained their fourth straight tournament victory (but first ever in regional play) and upped their record to 12-7.

Next on their march to a possible state championship is a 7 p.m. encounter tomorrow with Adrian Catholic Central's potent Fighting Irish, 74-57 victors over Ecorse St. Francis last night.

WOLL took an early lead, up to eight points in the second quarter, before growing careless and falling five points behind just before the halftime break.

The Lakers were plagued by 27 turnovers in the contest. They stayed within striking range and finally regained the lead on a Dennis McCulloch jump shot in the closing 10 seconds of the third period, 40-38.

FOUL SHOTS

The two teams continued their tight duel until the winners pulled in front by five with about three minutes to play. Making 11 of 16 charity tosses in the fourth session, Waterford OLL padded its lead to 11 points in the stretch run.

Haskins and Sioma's backboard work was a key factor. They combined for 34 rebounds (19 and 15, respectively) as the Lakers produced a 50-37 advantage.

Neither team shot very well, but the winners had an 8-5 edge in baskets during the final half. McCulloch worked well all the scorers with 16 points, and diminutive Pat McColgan managed 12, plus a surprising eight rebounds.

Ryun vs. Lindgren in Two-Mile Run

DETROIT (AP) — Gerry Lindgren of Washington State faces the task of getting psyched up for fabulous Jim Ryun in the NCAA indoor track and field meet.

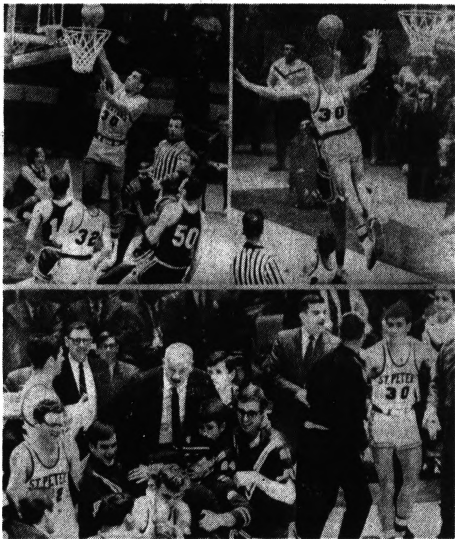

Ryun, the nation's top Olympic hope at 1,500 and 800 meters, is skipping the NCAA 800-yard run in which Villanova's Dave Patrick upset him last January.

Instead, the University of Kansas ace will compete against defending champion Lindgren in tonight's two-mile run and will shoot for his second straight mile title Saturday afternoon.

In an 11th-hour guessing game, Kansas Coach Bob Timmons finally scratched Ryun from the 800.

Patrick, whose Villanova squad is favored with Kansas to give defending champion Southern California a tough battle for the team title, expressed some disappointment in not getting another shot at Ryun.

Although Ryun holds the outdoor world record at 800, the mile and 1,500 meters, he bowed to Patrick in the 1967 NCAA half-mile as the Villanova star ran him into the boards in a record 1:48.9.

Hermansville Quintet Ousts Top-Rated Ewen-Trout Creek

By The Associated Press

A smooth outfit from Hermansville jumped to an 8-0 lead in the first minute of Class D regional tournament play and never let up the pace, dropping first-rated Ewen-Trout Creek to a 81-69 defeat.

Spartans' Gym Coach Nixes NCAA Playoff

EAST LANSING (AP) — "We are not going," said Michigan State University gymnastics coach George Szypula, when informed there would be a three-way Big Ten playoff to determine who goes to the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship meet in Chicago later this month.

The Spartans finished in a tie with the University of Michigan and Iowa recently after winning the conference championship. Points from the conference meet and season dual meets added up to the three-way tie.

It was only the second loss of the year against 20 wins for Ewen-Trout Creek, an amalgamation of two of last year's Class D powers and considered unrivaled in its category this year.

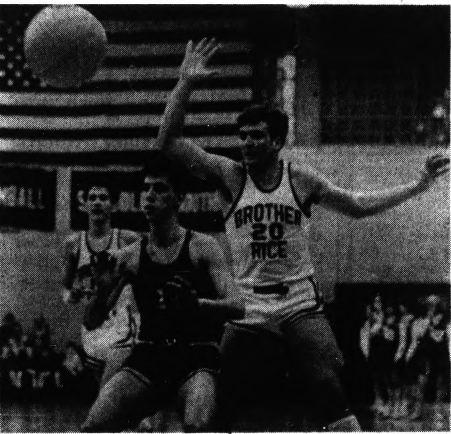

Hermansville has yet to face Painesdale Jeffers in Region 26 action. Jeffers, which finished the season unblemished in the top 10 already has dumped seventh and eight-rated Dollar Bay and Baraga in district play.

In another Class D upset, Bay City St. Joseph, rated No. 9, lost to Au Gres 50-47.

In Class C action, Detroit St. Hedwig, rated eighth, dropped a 69-63 decision to Detroit St. Gregory.

St. Gregory won the game on the eagle-eye freethrow shooting of Joe Charnley, who sank 17 of 18 foul shots in the game. Only 5-foot-11, Charnley was the game's high scorer with 29 points.

The only rated team to play in Class B, No. 10 Kalamazoo Hackett, overcame a two-point halftime deficit behind Bob Callington's 21 points to whip Berrien Springs, 63-53.

WARRIOR TESTS DRAGON — Brother Rice's John Maloney (24) gets off an unsuccessful jump shot over the defensive effort of Paul Mailey (31) of the Lake Orion Dragons last night. Tim Daigle watches the shot at the left. The Warriors won, 88-70, to reach the Seaholm Class A regional finals.

rebounding and 10 points, the Pirates hit for 15 straight points in a 2:22 hustling surge.

Two baskets by Greg Howard earned Dryden a 57-all tie at the 3:21 mark, but Peck's Tom Fletcher connected for the final go-ahead basket 30 seconds later.

The losing Cardinals had a 28-20 edge in field goals but were victimized by 23 personal fouls. Dryden made only 3 of 10 tries.

Peck now will play Au Gres (17-4), a 50-47 winner over Thursday.

New Driver 'Bothering' Nicklaus

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Challengers in the Citrus Open Golf Tournament may scoff, but Jack Nicklaus—the king of the fairway belters—is having trouble with his driver.

"I'm not hooking or slicing, I'm just striking the ball off the wrong way," said Nicklaus. "I got a new driver, before last week's Doral Open, and I haven't found out how to direct it yet."

Nicklaus still managed to take a share of the lead into today's second round after shooting a 67 to the Miller Barber in Thursday's opener.

Nicklaus said he wasn't complaining, however, "because it is silly to say how bad I drove it and how many putts I missed and still come in with a 67."

FIVE UNDER

The Ohio strongman salvaged a five-under-par round with some lucky bounces and great iron play, and hit 17 greens in regulation strokes.

Barber tied Nicklaus' score and 41 other players broke par as the flashy field started scrambling for the $23,000 first prize payoff.

The last finish by Nicklaus and Barber just before dusk broke open one of the biggest logjams of the year.

Playoff Hopes Spark Royals

Defeat St. Louis '57 for First Time

By The Associated Press
 Don't count the Cincinnati Royals out of National Basketball Association playoffs — not yet, anyway.

The Royals kept alive their playoff hopes by beating the St. Louis Hawks at Cleveland Thursday night, 102-96, for the first time this season.

In the only other game scheduled, an American Basketball Association contest, the Dallas Chaparrals tightened the ABA's Western Division race with a 90-87 home court triumph over the first-place New Orleans Buccaneers.

Oscar Robertson's 30 points paced Cincinnati over the Hawks, although it was John Tresvant's jump shot with five minutes left that put the Royals ahead for good at 88-86.

Cincinnati, with two games left to play, now trails fourth-place Detroit by only one-half game in the NBA Eastern Division. Detroit has five games to play in the regular season.

Eastern Michigan Ousted From Basketball Tourney

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two of the top teams and two that weren't supposed to be around after the opening games met in the semifinals tonight in the NAIA basketball tournament.

Sixth-seeded Westminster of Pennsylvania, which knocked out Eastern Michigan, 92-84 Thursday, takes on third-seeded Central State of Ohio, which defeated Central Washington State 66-47.

Upstart Oshkosh, Wis. State and Fairmont, W. Va. State do battle tonight also. Oshkosh drubbed Drury College of Springfield, Mo., 75-57, and Fairmont ousted Dickinson, N.D. State, 86-81, in Thursday's action.

Doug Webster Sets Mark; EMU Ahead

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — Eastern Michigan and Claremont-Mudd were locked in a two-team battle for the NAIA Swimming Championship after five finals were held Thursday night.

The meet continues Friday and Saturday, with six more finals each of those nights.

Three records were set in Thursday's five events — by Ken Tillman of Monmouth with a time of 4:56.2 in the 500-yard freestyle, Doug Webster of Eastern Michigan and Royal Oak with a 2:04.2 clocking in the 200 individual medley, and the Claremont-Mudd 800-yard freestyle relay team with a time of 7:30.2.

Only a few 1967 M-Gs left in stock. Must sacrifice to make room for the 1968s. These M-Gs contain many extras such as: wire wheels, tonneau covers, and heater.

McAuliffe Goes 3-for-3

Norm Cash and Bill Freehan both started the fourth inning with singles but never left the bases as Don Wert, Mickey Stanley and Gates Brown, batting for McLain, went out on short fly balls.

McAuliffe again started the fifth inning with a single to right, but Tom Matchik popped to first, Kaline walked and Horton and Cash again failed to deliver a much needed RBI.

Two more hits in the sixth inning and two in the eighth were to no avail.

Jim Price had two singles after relieving Freehan, and Stanley got his two hits in late innings.

RETURN VISIT
The Tigers meet the Phillies today at Clearwater and on Saturday they face the White Sox at Sarasota. Sunday the Chisox return the visit to Lakeland.

Manager Mayo Smith, who has been using rookies and reserves after four innings of each game said he planned on revising the pitching assignments.

Ankle Injury Slows Carter

Special To The Press
BOZEMAN, Mont.—Orchard Lake's Tom Carter hoped to overcome a sprained ankle today in the Junior Alpine Championships boys' downhill race.

Carter was one of numerous Central Division team members plagued with injuries after the practice runs and girls' downhill competition.

The division's top boy skier, Tom Gratsch of Wallon Lake, also has a sprained ankle. The top girl, 13-year-old Cindy Nelson of Lutsen, Minn., placed sixth among the 47 downhill racers Wednesday.

Denver in Finals After 4-1 Victory Over Boston Six

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Denver University applied the pressure on Boston College goalie George McPhee in the third period and the Pioneers scored two goals in a 4-1 victory in the semifinals of the NCAA Hockey Tournament Thursday night.

Defending champion Cornell meets North Dakota Friday night in the other semifinal. The title game will be Saturday night, following a consolation game Saturday afternoon.

Denver takes a 27-5-1 season record into the title game and has won 21 games in a row since bowing to the Russian Olympics team last December. Boston College now is 19-10-1.

The dormant 700 Club, active only in the recruiting of new members over the winter, will regenerate its activities with a Club Tournament and buffet Sunday afternoon at Maple Lanes in Walled Lake.

Although the organization has added a dozen members this season, the Pontiac chapter's monthly get-togethers tailed off as the members have been preoccupied with other activities.

Sunday's session, also, is designed to permit discussion for the annual election of new officers. This confab will be during the buffet. Each bowler and a guest is invited to the meal.

The actual competition, which will include monetary prizes, is set up in two phases: that with 185-and-up averages and those under 185. All bowling is actual pinfall except for those members 65 and older.

The 700 Club is a national organization open to all bowlers who have American Bowling Congress or Women's International Bowling Congress sanctioned 700 series.

Those eligible and interested in joining but not yet members are requested to be at Maple Lanes at 1 p.m. Sunday.

SPARE PINS
Wednesday evening at Savoy Lanes a delegation of retarded children from the Pontiac State Hospital sampled the thrills of bowling with a trip to Savoy.

Smith's bowler has won 10 professional bowlers association tournaments and is second all-time in the world in the PBA. He had a six-game series of 1360 Thursday night on games of 217, 222, 247, 203, 256 and 215. Bob Stramer of Detroit dropped from 15th to 16th.

The field will be cut to five bowlers after 16 games of match-play Friday. They will meet Saturday for the title and the $6,000 winner's check.

Women's Keg Play Reaches Halfway Mark

Lois Arms Leading in Two Divisions of 35th Tournament

The Pontiac Woman's Bowling Association's 35th City Tournament reaches the halfway point tomorrow with its third Saturday of team competition at Sylvan Lanes.

The singles and doubles will resume Sunday with the women all hoping to emulate the consistent scoring displayed last weekend by Pontiac's Lois Arms.

Mrs. Arms, a 158-average bowler, registered actual series of 321-333-433 in her three events to take over the actual all-events lead with 1593, and her 39-pin handicap per event enabled her to grab the top spot in the handicap phase, also, with 1872.

She and partner Gertrude Zargars took fourth in the handicap phase competition as four new leading totals were posted last weekend.

Four new singles leaders also moved in and a Milford team cracked the top three in that phase of the action.

For All Primary Action: Equal and Mixed Reaction

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON UPD — An event of some importance transpires in some remote corner of the world. Say, for example, Remote Corner, N.H.

The next time you pick up your newspaper or turn on your television, you are immediately confronted with the Washington reaction to that event.

Quite often, the Washington reaction outweighs the event itself. And sometimes even precedes the event. It is not at all uncommon to find Washington reaction to something that hasn't happened yet.

Everyone is familiar with the miracle of modern communications that permits instant transmission of news from remote corners. But did you ever wonder how instant reaction is produced?

I did, and after making a few inquiries I learned that a goodly percentage of it is produced by the Washington Reaction Co., which operates a modern, one-story, stainless steel reaction factory near the capitol.

SAM McBACKLASH

On the morning after the New Hampshire primary, when the place was really humming, I stopped by and made a tour of the plant. My guide was Sam McBacklash, vice president in charge of public relations.

He directed me to a large room lined with boxes bearing such labels as "favorable," "unfavorable," "quibbles" and "sour grapes." In the center was a huge bowl and what appeared to be a giant blending machine.

"This is our mixing room," McBacklash said. "This is where we turn out the mixed reaction, which is so popular in Washington."

"Have you had any trouble meeting the demand for New Hampshire primary reaction?" I asked.

OVERTIME SHIFTS

"We had to put on a couple of overtime shifts," McBacklash said. "But we have been able to fill all the orders. It was a tricky job because of the great variety of reaction needed."

"The primary requires reaction that made everybody look like a winner, including some who weren't even running."

"Have you had any other major problems lately?" I asked.

"Romney gave us trouble because we were completely out of withdrawal reaction at the time. We hadn't had any calls for it since Stassen withdrew his challenge to Nixon at the 1956 GOP Convention."

CURRENT DEMAND

"What other types of reaction are in demand right now?" McBacklash led me into an adjoining room, which had a moving staircase.

"This is our advanced escalation machine," he said. "It manufactures reaction to American troop buildups in Vietnam even before they are announced. It has been operating full-time for the past week or so."

So now you know.

Groups Fighting Jury Ban on Foes of Death Penalty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major Protestant and Jewish groups, driving for a ban on the death penalty, have urged the Supreme Court to allow opponents of capital punishment to serve as jurors in death cases.

"The rule of law excluding from a jury persons with conscientious scruples against capital punishment is deeply prejudicial to the accused," they said in a brief.

Later this year the court will review the long-time practice by which prospective jurors who say they have scruples against the death penalty can be disqualified.

This nationwide procedure, being tested in a murder case from Chicago and a rape case from North Carolina, is said by opponents of capital punishment to assure "hanging juries" for prosecutors.

The constitutional argument before the court is whether a defendant is being tried by a cross-section of the community when opponents of the death penalty are disqualified.

The religious organizations, all opposed to capital punishment, are:

American Friends Service Committee; Council for Christian Social Action of the United Church of Christ; General Board of Christian Social Concerns of the Methodist Church; the United Presbyterian Church in the United States; Union of American Hebrew Congregations; Central Conference of American Rabbis; and the Commission on Social Action of Reform Judaism.

HALF OPPOSE

Their attorneys said at least half of all Americans are opposed to capital punishment and that the death sentence is not necessary for the community's protection.

"This exclusionary rule," the brief said, "results in jurors willing to decree for many a sentence society is willing to impose actually upon few."

Additionally, the organizations said, allowing prosecutors to ask prospective jurors if they oppose capital punishment "permeates the trial with prejudice. Before evidence is heard, the jury is led to infer that the prosecution has a powerful case, one warranting death."

The brief said national bodies of at least 14 denominations have taken a stand against capital punishment and cited ancient Jewish law barring men lacking in compassion from hearing a capital case.

"We need not adopt wholly these humanitarian views which weigh the scales on the side of mercy," the organizations said, "we ask only that the scales not be weighted against the accused."

Quality Dems Sought to Run at Local Level

LANSING (UPI) — The two top Democratic state office holders are heading up a drive to find "top-quality Democrats" to run for county and local offices this fall.

Secretary of State James M. Hare and Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley have taken on the job at the request of Sen. Sam Y. W. Levin, the Democratic state chairman.

"We intend to carry the Democratic message through vigorous candidates into every county and locality in Michigan," Levin said yesterday. He said he wanted to give the people a "genuine choice" in every contest.

Levin said Hare and Kelley are setting up a series of regional meetings with local party officials and prospective candidates and will contact individual prospective candidates to urge them to run.

Meetings have already been arranged in Bay City, Marshall, Mount Pleasant, Traverse City, L'Anse and Manistique, he said.

DUCK WITH A PROBLEM — This duck, which makes its home along Turtle Creek in Dallas, Tex., has a six-pack problem. Its head is sticking out of one of the plastic circles that hold six-packs of beer together. No one seems to know how the duck got into the predicament, but its mobility on land or water, hasn't been affected.

Group Joins in Opposing Highway Fund Diversion

LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan Good Roads Federation yesterday joined the State Highway Commission in vigorously opposing proposed diversion of a portion of highway funds for township roads and traffic safety.

The two powerful organizations last fall were the key backers behind the successful drive to up highway taxes by $62 million a year for road building.

James M. Telford, the federation president, said the twin proposals would "seriously affect current efforts" to upgrade state, county and municipal road systems that he said are "already inadequate to meet increased traffic needs."

One would allocate $12-$14 million for township roads; the other would earmark $2.7 million for reflectorized license plates and to help meet administrative expenses for traffic safety planning.

"Any action now to divert or decrease motor vehicle funds for purposes other than intended would serve to dilute highway improvement programs and undo the Legislature's forward-looking action of 1967," the federation said in a formal resolution.

The good roads federation represents major segments of the highway industry and of highway users. Townships, which now get no road construction money from the state, would get 4 per cent of highway revenues under a bill sponsored by Rep. James N. Callahan, D-Mount Morris.

They would get the money by shaving shares that go to the state and the counties. Money that goes to cities would not be affected.

Key Supporter Commits Suicide

Czech Leader Is in Trouble

Vladimir Janko, deputy defense minister, took his life Thursday just 24 hours after an urgent Cabinet discussion of the flight of Maj. Gen. Jan Sejna to the United States. Reliable sources said Janko, who won the Order of Hero as a World War II troop commander, shot himself through the head in his apartment.

Both Janko and his boss, Defense Minister Bohumir Lomsky, had been indirectly implicated in Sejna's flight after the general was accused of an illegal deal in sales of grass seed to peasants. The Cabinet hearing had been called for Lomsky to defend himself, and the Cabinet expressed dissatisfaction with his defense.

Earlier Thursday another Novotny supporter, Michal Chudik, a leading conservative member of the party hierarchy, resigned as head of the Slovak National Council. Chudik, 53, had apparently abandoned hope that Novotny would be able to ward off liberal pressures and keep the figurehead presidency.

PRESSING HARD
The Slovaks, who make up about one third of Czechoslovakia's 15 million population, have been pressing hard for liberalization and for greater ethnic autonomy.

The new liberal leaders under Alexander Dubcek, who supplanted Novotny as party chief in January, say Sejna was involved in an abortive attempt to mobilize armored troops to keep Novotny in the party leadership.

Sejna is now somewhere in the United States under U.S. government protection. Czechoslovakia's ambassador in Washington asked the State Department Wednesday for his extradition, and the department asked for documentary evidence against him.

Ambassador Karel Duda said Sejna is accused of embezzlement, obtaining money by false pretenses and fraud.

The man mentioned as the likely successor to Novotny is easy-going, crew-cut Josef Smrkovsky, 56, the most prominent survivor of the bloody Stalinist purges in Czechoslovakia in the 1950s.

Smrkovsky's popularity increased this year after he delivered a passionate speech before the party's Central Committee denouncing the Old Guard regime.

MIA LONG HAIR AGAIN — Actress Mia Farrow, whose long blonde tresses and subsequent boyish trim were the talk of the film world for some time, shows she has come full circle as she peers from beneath a brunette wig in London today. The wig is part of her costume for the film "Secret Ceremony," which goes before the cameras Monday.

Heart Transplant Patient Near Release

Dr. Christiaan Barnard says he will check the results of tests on Philip Blaiberg, sole surviving heart transplant patient, before deciding on a date for Blaiberg to leave the hospital in Cape Town, South Africa.

It is generally expected that Blaiberg will go home in a few days. The 35-year-old retired dentist has lived 2½ months with his transplanted heart.

Barnard said yesterday there was no evidence that Blaiberg's heart was damaged permanently by the rejection period it underwent a few weeks ago.

Injured Actor Thanks Hospital Staff

Cary Grant, injured in a freak traffic accident in New York Tuesday, has sent a note to the staff of St. Johns Hospital in Queens thanking them for taking good care of him. He said he was feeling "much better."

Grant, 64, suffered bruises on the face and chest when the auto in which he was riding was struck by rear wheels of a truck. Also injured were a companion, Gratia von Furstenberg, 23, and a chauffeur, Troy Lindahl, 33.

In his note, the actor said, "I am feeling much better and, after seeing photos of the wrecked limousine, I am particularly glad to learn that the young lady who accompanied me and our remarkably level-headed driver have also made good progress."

Soviet Envoy Visits Goldberg

Ambassador Jacob A. Malik, new head of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations, paid a courtesy call yesterday on Arthur J. Goldberg, head of the U.S. delegation. He visited Goldberg at the U.S. mission the day after presenting his credentials to Secretary General U. Thant. The two discussed various subjects for 35 minutes.

Trailer Park Near State GI Killed

FREMONT (AP) — A 60-site trailer park planned for Hardy Pond is scheduled for completion in June, the Newaygo County Park Commission announced. Included in the $22,400 project is a service building and sewer, plumbing and light systems.

Grand Rapids (AP) — Sgt. Warren C. Lane, 23, of Grand Rapids was killed in Vietnam Sunday, according to information received by his wife, Marcia. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lane of Greenview, he entered the Army in November 1966 and was killed by a booby trap explosion.

Shenanigans to Salute St. Pat

NEW YORK (AP) — A green wave rolls across the land this weekend when the Irish and the honorary Irish salute St. Patrick with high-spirited parades and parties.

The bagpipers will skirl and the drumsticks will twirl as the Kevins, Brians and Mikes—joined by Tonys, Abes, Angels and Maxies—turn out for Magnus Sucusus Patricius. That was the saint's real name.

He was born in Britain when it was part of the Roman Empire. Patrick's father, Calpurnius, served the emperor as a decurion, a provincial official.

After being ordained in France, Patrick spent his lifetime converting the Irish to Christianity from the pagan practices of the Druids. He died in Ireland on March 17 in the year 461.

OFFBEAT PLANS

Some of the offbeat plans for the weekend:

The Chicago River will be dyed green. Green water will flow in the city's Civic Center fountain.

Niagara Falls will be bathed in green light.

Nassau County rink in Hewlett, N.Y., has green ice and Irish music ready for skaters.

San Francisco's Mayor Joseph Alioto, the son of Italian immigrants, has presented Carmel O'Leary, Irish vice consul in that city, with a book that asserts the Irish migrated from Italy.

Rep. Francis J. Lynch wants the Pennsylvania Legislature to declare St. Patrick's Day a legal holiday like Washington's Birthday.

PARADE ROUTE

John F. Kennedy Boulevard will be included in the route of the parade in Philadelphia.

New York's parade up Fifth Avenue Saturday remains one of the nation's biggest. An Irish mayor who attended it a few years ago was asked if they had anything like it in Ireland.

"No," he replied. "Sure, where would we put it?"

Rights Bill Fate Is Eyed by Hart

Warns Against Joint House-Senate Parley

DETROIT (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said Thursday the Senate-approved civil rights bill could run into trouble if the House takes action to force it into a joint House-Senate conference.

Hart, a supporter of President Johnson, said the large voter support of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn. in the New Hampshire Democratic presidential primary this week shows that President Johnson has "got trouble."

"If it goes to conference, we will try to do the best we can," he said at a news conference at Wayne State University.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., minority leader in the House, called for a joint conference to work out a compromise. The bill has been sent to the House for action.

IN TROUBLE

Hart, a supporter of President Johnson, said the large voter support of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn. in the New Hampshire Democratic presidential primary this week shows that President Johnson has "got trouble."

Ruling Backs Arbitration of Road Disputes

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Arthur E. Moore has found state legislation providing for arbitration of the 1,600 freeway dispute to be constitutional.

In dismissing a suit brought against the State Highway Commission by two home owners' associations and 224 citizens of Southfield, Moore said the city's jurisdiction over its local streets was "unimpaired" by the recently adopted arbitration act.

Actual dismissal of the suit was based on the commission's contention that the citizens were not proper parties to bring the suit.

The suit had asked an injunction against the commission on the grounds that the Legislature could not alter or vacate streets or highways under local jurisdiction.

Moore, however, said that under arbitration, the rights of citizens could be protected by their locally elected representatives. "In fact," the judge added, "the plaintiffs may well be better protected because of the arbitration statute."

Two Men Held in Rape Case

Two men were arrested by Pontiac police early today, shortly after a 21-year-old city woman told officers she had been raped in her home.

Police said Richard L. Glisson, 25, of 2287 Benstein and Clyde Hyttinen, 25, of 118 Novi, were stopped about 3:30 a.m. at Orchard Lake and Telegraph in a car answering the woman's description of the vehicle in which she was driven home from a Commerce Township bowling alley.

The suspects will probably be arraigned today, according to officers.

The woman told investigators she had accepted a ride home with the men, who then forced their way into the house.

She said one of the suspects raped her while the other held her roommate at bay.

Fine Arts in Fore

By JOANNE SANDERSON

Students of Walled Lake High School will present the third annual Fine Arts Festival tonight and tomorrow night at the high school.

There are seven areas of presentation. Each is put on by students with the help of faculty members.

The International Cafe, sponsored by the students of the language department, will have a true international flair.

While patrons enjoy the international dishes which will be served to them, they will be entertained by cancan dancers from France, strolling violinists, polka dancers, the Mariachi Band from Mexico, and folk singers with tunes from various countries. The International Cafe has been sponsored by Pat Molesta, Debbie Davies, Jane Randall and Dorothy Ferris of the faculty.

Groves Puts 106 in Honor Group

By BENITA ROSEN

"Character is like a diamond. If it is good, it sparkles and is able to make a mark upon any other stone," philosophized Wylie E. Groves High School senior Patli Holt.

She spoke on the attributes of good character at the National Honor Society Induction Ceremony that was held at Groves Monday morning.

Patti was speaking on one of the four qualities a student must have to qualify for NHS.

The other three qualifications—service, leadership and scholarship—were covered by other National Honor Society members, Leslie Conlon, Jim Burnstein and Doug Feslie.

NHS President, Scott Hastings delivered the 3 opening remarks for the occasion and served as emcee for the program.

MUSICAL NUMBERS

The Groves A Capella Choir, directed by Evelyn Micheletti, varied the program format with musical numbers.

Another NHS student, Claire Burstadt, announced the roll call for the procession of new members. Added to the list of 23 members, all seniors, were 51 junior inductees and 55 more seniors.

Charles Lundy, Groves principal, welcomed the new members after they took the National Honor Society Pledge.

The club's president then extended an invitation to the inductees and their parents to attend a reception in honor of the occasion. Mrs. William Sharrard is the group's adviser.

ART CLUB

Artistically inclined students have organized the new Groves Art Club.

The group's first project is an art sale to be held sometime this spring. Original paintings, silk screens and block prints, calendars, purses, pots, chess sets, guitar straps and beads will be among the handmade items for sale.

Profits from the sale will go not only to the club, but will be divided among club members who participate in the project.

Officers of the Art Club this year are Jim Siddall, president; Gordon Bellings, vice president; Nadine Hyde, secretary; and Jim McDonald, treasurer.

The club is supervised by art teachers George Landino, Michael Miller and Mrs. Fredrick Woell.

The Drama Club will present the play, "Opening Night," based on the short story by Cornelia Otis Skinner and dramatized by Roland Fernand. The director is Alexander Zerban, faculty member. Assistant director is Ray Champe.

CAST LISTED

The cast includes Pat Spurr, Mark Loveland, Joanne Sanderson, Cindy Buttenmiller, Diane Hruska and Ellen Simmons.

Other parts are played by Donna Sills, Sue Ward, Ed McCallum, Linda Hooper and Debbie Thompson.

The drama class will present the play, "Wall-to-Wall War" under the direction of Jacqui Bowers, assisted by Jerri Sedler.

Cast members are: Jim Monroe, Cass Kymila, Dan Rafferty, Ray Buffmeyer, Diane Moore, Debbie Kelsey, Chuck Hall, Shutta Crum, Cindy Davis, Jim Thomas, Sue Armstrong and Norm Tuer.

Each production will be presented twice each night "Wall-to-Wall War" at 7 and 9 and "Opening Night" at 8 and 10.

FASHION SHOW SET

The Future Homemakers of America will present a fashion show with the theme "Fashion Through the Ages" featuring styles from the 18th century to the present. Virginia Stollhoff of the home economics department, helped students prepare the presentation.

The English department will transform two classrooms into an authentic coffeehouse. Folk songs, readings of poetry, music from the "Greatest" and various bands will provide atmosphere.

Helmut Holland-Moritz has helped the stage band prepare its numbers. Instrumentalists include Scott Barrie, Sue Barasch, Jane Menzies, Dave York, Madelyn Liedig, Doug Chynoweth and Terry Hazan on saxophones.

Don Durbin, Ric Cotter, Dave Dingell, Don Crick and Glenn Boice comprise the trumpet section.

On the trombone are Dan York, Glenn Fogle, Tim Higgins, Eric Holmquist and Joan McNab.

Playing the piano will be Norma Hoffmeister and Brian Rogers will play the guitar. Robin Ward will be on bass and Steve Whitte and Rick McLennan on drums.

The band will play in the front lobby during the intermissions of the other shows.

An art display will be sponsored by the art department. The work has been contributed by students who have concentrated on sculpture, paintings, etchings, ceramics, jewelry and textiles. Entries were judged by Mrs. Douglas Wallace and Mrs. Gary Burkhardt.

'Masco' Has Birthday

By CINDI WYZGOSKI

Dominican Academy's sophomore class celebrated the birthday of its class "masco," Linda Patterson, Monday. Linda lives in Detroit and was chosen because, as Beth Soraruf says, "She's the model of a perfect girl and the kind of sophomore we would all like to be."

Many students at DA are somewhat skeptical as to the authenticity of Linda Patterson. Some are inclined to believe that she is a figment of the sophomores' imagination. But only the sophomores know for sure!

PNH Male Chorus Takes First-Place Honors at Event

BY BETTY ATWELL

The Pontiac Northern High School male chorus recently took first-place honors among the 26 choruses present at the District XI Choral Festival.

The festival, held in Northern's auditorium represented the schools in Oakland County.

The number of students representing their schools for the event was 1,600, according to John Tousey, Northern music instructor.

Northern not only walked away with first-place honors, but the A Cappella Choir and Girls' Choir received second-place ratings.

SIGHT READING

The sight reading judges were Dr. Geneva Nelson, professor of music at the University of Michigan, and Dr. John

Elwell, professor of music at Eastern Michigan University.

Yesterday, approximately 35 exchange students attending neighboring schools visited Northern.

The purpose of visit from both foreign and American students was to exchange ideas as to how the educational and social routines differ in various countries.

At the close of the discussion day, the students were treated to a pizza party at Northern.

YOUTH FOR UNDERSTANDING

Three girls have been accepted by the Youth of Understanding organization to go overseas as exchange students.

These students are Cindy Kells, Linda Pruett and Connie Miller.

Sara Ratnofsky, visiting PNH from Chile, will soon return to her native land after attending Northern for eight weeks.

She is staying at the home of senior Brenda Drake.

It's Laker 'Magic'

Get-Well Cards Really Work!

By DIANNE REED

The Lakers seem to have magic powers. When they send a get well card, the most wonderful thing happens; the sick person gets well.

Our Lady of the Lakes Principal Sister Therese is home from the hospital. It is expected she will return to school next week.

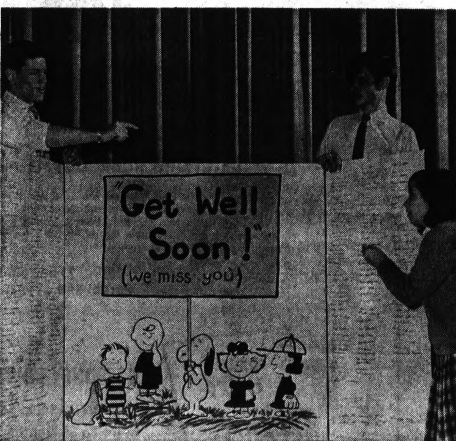

Sunday is the birthday of our pastor, Father Delaney. Both the Glee Club, under the direction of Jim Stevenson, and the cheerleaders are practicing to present the pastor with a memorable program.

Seniors' mock elections named Darlene Paul and Dan Sioma, most shy; Anna May McAllister and Steve Dunkley, most attractive; Diane Green and Mike McColgan, most likely to succeed and Debbie French and Brian Haskins, most athletic.

Eric Solwish and Mike Janz were voted most likely for Vietnam; Dianne Reed and Ken Treanor, friendliest; Diane Green and Dave Miller, most all-around; Pat Conlon and Dan Fahlgren, best dressed; Joan Moody and Ernie Omans, prettiest eyes.

Joan Moody and John LaForge won the prettiest hair category; Pam Lang and Mike McColgan, the prettiest smile; Marietta Wall and Jim Torrey, class wits; Rosie Mauro and Mike Janz class flirts and Joan Moody and John LaForge, class clowns. Class couple was Dianne Reed and Denny McCulloch.

Avondale's Girls Week Promotes Students' Spirit at Stevenson

By JAN MALANE

The girls' varsity basketball team of Avondale High school has finished the season undefeated in eight games.

The girls' varsity is made up of seven seniors and six juniors. The seniors are Lois Armstead, Karen Bolton, Sally Hackett, who have played varsity for three years Kay Clark, Vicki Sheldon, Sally Tompkins, who have played varsity for two years, and Jan White who transferred to Avondale this year.

Juniors on the squad are Irene Ackerman, Christi Armstrong, Gerry Pielowski, Kathy Sage, Karen Sheldon and Jo White.

The two top scorers on the team are Karen Bolton and Kay Clark. Karen averaged 22 points per game. Her single-game high was 35.

Kay averaged 11 points per game with a single-game high of 21.

In the last three years the team has played 21 games, losing only two. The team has won 17 games in a row.

Baby pictures of faculty members were displayed all week. Winner of the contest will be the class with the most students correctly identifying the teachers.

At first glance Tuesday, SHS appeared to be a military academy, but at closer examination it was just color day. Most students were clad in blue and white, the school colors, with the goal of outdoing the other classes.

SHS students entered school Wednesday in completely different attire. It was slack and sweatshirt day, and only the teachers got safely away with wearing skirts and suits. To add to the day's activities, Student Council sold baked goods during the day.

DRESS-UP DAY

A total switch from the previous day, Thursday was dress-up day as well as the day for a scavenger hunt. Certain announced items were placed throughout the school, and the class with the greatest number of students discovering the location of the hidden items won the victory.

Today was the grand finale. First hour was interrupted by a pep assembly. During the assembly the winning class for the week's antics and games was announced and presented a trophy.

The trophy will be engraved each year with the name of the winning class.

Later today the SHS gym will be used as a basketball court for the first time as the Student Council and faculty battle it out for victory.

Bringing the week to a close will be tonight's sock hop in the SHS cafeteria from 8 to 11.

Lake Orion Gets New Trophy

By DIANE CHAMBERLIN

"Our team is red hot!" shouted all of Lake Orion High School as the class A district basketball championship trophy was presented to Student Council President Ed Bretzlaff last Monday during a special pep assembly.

The trophy was presented to the team captains, Bill Foss and Judd Bankert, at last Saturday's game. It is now on display in the main trophy case in the lounge.

Team praise will also be cheered in the near future by hopeful freshmen, sophomore and junior girls as trophies for next year's cheerleaders are held.

Helping several faculty members judge the girls will be the four graduating varsity cheerleaders—Ruth Anne Brown, Diane Chamberlin, Jennifer Dowdy and Chris Ross. The new cheerleaders will be chosen on the basis of their skill, character and pep. Each girl must have a "C" average or better before she will be allowed to participate in the competition.

The three students who bring in the most subscriptions per day will be awarded $1. The two students who bring in the most money over $20 will be awarded $10 each.

Troy

By LINDA SWEET

Troy High School's newspaper, "Something Else," is planning a new pocket edition.

The idea was prompted by exchange with other schools.

The first page resembles pop art as it is a collection of geometrical black and white figures.

The content has changed too. More feature stories are being included and the least important news stories are being deleted.

"The Secret Life of Henry Wilkins" and "Profile of a Troy Student" are regular features aimed at boosting circulation.

Mott

By GEORGIA ROSEWALL

"Express your opinions, don't be afraid," has become a familiar expression around Waterford Mott.

Instead of sit-ins, walk-outs and demonstrations that other schools have had, Mott uses the open forum.

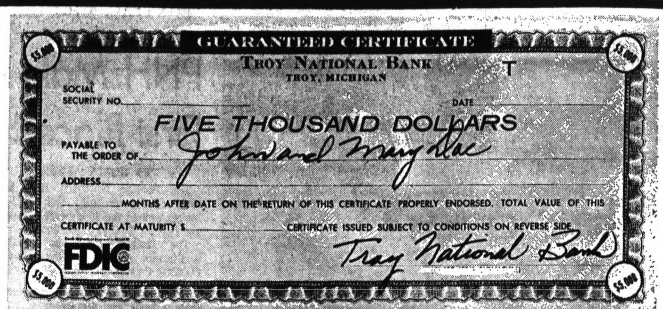

Open forums, under the direction of the Student Council, teachers and administration, give students an opportunity to express their opinions on school issues.

In these recent meetings, it has been stressed that for every right a student has in our school society, he also has the responsibility of seeing that the rights of other students are upheld.

Several examples were cited in which the rights of some students had been violated by other students.

One of the examples cited was the student vandalism giving Mott students a bad reputation.

As a result of an open forum, vandalism by Mott students has been greatly reduced.

Paris Gold Price Hits $44.36; London Mart Closed

Related Story, Page B-5

Wild speculation in Hong Kong sent the price to $40.47 while the London gold market suspended operations under government decree.

The New York Stock Exchange opened as scheduled today. There had been some speculation that the exchange might remain closed because of the gold crisis and the expectation of severe strains on stock prices.

The American Stock Exchange also opened as usual today.

France refused to go along with other major European gold-dealing nations in accordance with local supply and demand.

However, the Bank of France played a major role. It allowed the price for one kilogram—2.2 pounds—to rise to an unprecedented 7,000 francs or $1,400 from the outset of dealing in a bid to hold down demand.

Today's over-all volume was $43.86 million compared with $52.6 million Thursday. Thirty three tons of fine gold, excluding coins, changed hands, compared with 45 tons Thursday.

U.S. in Giant Viet Push

SAIGON (AP) — At least 50,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese troops are sweeping between Saigon and the Cambodian border in the biggest operation of the Vietnam war, the U.S. Command announced today.

Elements of six divisions and two special task forces moved out Monday in an ambitious maneuver designed to regain the initiative seized by the Vietcong with their countrywide assault on Jan. 30.

The allied force has killed 215 enemy soldiers, seized 22 suspects and uncovered three huge arms caches, spokesmen said.

U.S. losses were reported as 11 killed and 94 wounded, while the Vietnamese Command said its troops suffered light casualties.

The vast operation—named Quyet Thang, or Resolved to Win—is anchored in Saigon and extends in a semicircle through five provinces north, west and south of the capital.

Fifty allied battalions have been committed plus support troops and national police units.

It is the first significant operation uncracked by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in South Vietnam, since Vietcong forces invaded Saigon Jan. 31 and turned the city into a battlefield.

First goal of the operation is to destroy enemy units continuing harassing attacks around Saigon. Second aim is to restore a sense of security and confidence among the civilian population, officials said.

For the first time in the war, sections of Saigon were included in the battle plan of an allied offensive. National police and units of the 5th Vietnamese Ranger

Group were assigned objectives in western Saigon and Cholon, the Chinese quarter.

The operation includes units of the U.S. 1st, 9th and 25th Infantry divisions, the South Vietnamese 5th and 25th Infantry divisions, Vietnamese paratroopers and marines, and Vietnamese Ranger group, and national police.

Vietcong caches containing tons of ammunition and weapons were discovered 10, 12 and 24 miles northwest of Saigon.

Elsewhere, Vietcong and North Vietnamese gunners shelled allied posts below the demilitarized zone, in the central highlands and in the Mekong Delta.

In the air war, U.S. Navy pilots flew over Haiphong to bomb a vital railroad-highway bridge and a power plant for the second day in a row.

BROTHERLY STROLL — The brothers Kennedy are deep in talk as they walk the Capitol grounds yesterday. Sen. Edward Kennedy (right), D-Mass., has been counseling his brother, Sen. Robert D.N.Y., on whether the latter should seek the Democratic presidential nomination.

No Hullabaloo This Year Over Daylight Time

LANSING (AP) — Daylight Saving Time is just going to sneak up quietly on Michigan residents this year.

One minute after midnight on the last Sunday in April, everyone will push his clock one hour ahead.

They will lose an hour of sleep and gain an extra hour of daylight.

This is in marked contrast to the hours which spent on the issue last year in the Legislature, the confused round of court fights and the high-pressure propaganda from the fast-time and slow-time advocates.

Last year, the Legislature adopted the Federal Uniform Time Act and thought it could forget about that daylight saving business.

ELBOW TO ELBOW — Inadequate facilities at Pontiac Central High School make it difficult for students to move from room to room in the halls, sometimes creating discipline problems.

School Building Needs Cited

By DICK ROBINSON

Construction of $23 million of school facilities as proposed on the Pontiac School District ballot will not increase tax bills of property owners.

A major item in the plans is an $18.7-million educational park for three separate high schools on the Pontiac State Hospital grounds to replace Pontiac Central High School.

Approval of the bond issue would only continue the present $4 million debt service now being paid for previous construction for 18 more years.

Pontiac's present school millage of 22.35 ($22.35 per $1,000 of assessed property value) is made up of 18.35 mills (6.25 increase is proposed) and 4 mills for debt retirement of bonds.

Crime Control Scrutinized at State Meeting in Detroit

By JIM LONG

Crime and its control came under close scrutiny in Detroit yesterday during the first statewide conference aimed at focusing attention on all aspects of the growing problem.

The all-day session at Cobo Hall attended by about 750 persons, including judges, administrators, representatives of business and concerned citizens.

One point made clear during the numerous talks by leaders in various fields of combating crime was that while the public has become extremely aware of crime on the street much apathy still exists toward the area of organized crime.

Stressing this was Prof. Robert Blakey, of the Notre Dame Law School, one of the chief speakers at the program sponsored by the Michigan Commission on Crime, Delinquency and Criminal Administration, and the Michigan Council on Crime and Delinquency.

"The major obstacle is that people tend to view things in very direct, personal terms," said Blakey, a former assistant U.S. attorney in the organized crime and racketeering section.

It lies at the heart of our failure to do what must be done about organized crime, and it seems clear that the time available to us to arrest and reverse the growth of organized crime seems to be running out."

CRIME SUCCESS

The success of the La Cosa Nostra criminal syndicate is symbolic of the general breakdown of law and order "which has become so characteristic of so many segments of our society," said Blakey.

Keynoting the program was James E. Fain, executive editor of the Dayton (Ohio) Daily News, who outlined his views on the National Crime Commission Report authorized by President Johnson and released about a year ago.

But a powerful group of retail merchants circulated petitions to put the issue on the November 1968 election ballot.

The Michigan Farm Bureau and hunting and fishing interests fought the issue up to the State Supreme Court.

They lost, and Michigan — later than the rest of the nation — went on Daylight Saving Time when the Board of State Canvassers ruled there were enough signatures to make time a ballot issue.

"We're not going to fight it in courts or legislature this year," said Dale Sherwin, a Farm Bureau spokesman.

U.S. Eyes Retests for Private Pilots

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are 400,000 private pilots in this country and none of them has had to prove his flying skill since the day he got a license, no matter how long ago that was.

Now the government is proposing to require nonprofessional pilots to take periodic refresher courses and proficiency tests, and the proposal is raising their tempers sky-high.

The 22,000 airline pilots and those of the 130,000 commercial pilots who fly for hire already must pass regular proficiency tests.

There is no such rule for student and private pilots. And they, with less opportunity to keep skills sharp, outnumber the professionals 3 to 1.

In 1966, the last year for which there are statistics, there were 5,712 aircraft accidents, involving 1,151 fatalities. According to the National Transportation Safety Board, "pleasure flying" accounted for 2,469 of the accidents and 712 of the fatalities.

Administrators says these facilities will be necessary to house an estimated student enrollment of 35,440 in 20 years compared to 23,729 today.

Another suggestion of the council is to convert the current kindergarten-sixth grade, 7-9 and 10-12 school organization to K-6 for elementary schools, 6-8 for junior high (or middle schools) and 9-12 for high school.

"This change will mean we will need no new elementary schools," says FSC Chairman Francis Webster. "There will be 50 vacated classrooms available for libraries, special rooms and auxiliary services in all elementary schools."

"This also means smaller classes. In the school district now there are 140 elementary classes with over 30 pupils in a room."

'Police Pinched on Enforcement'

By BOB WISLER

In an era of increasing lawlessness and rising crime rates, law enforcement is getting to be a more difficult problem for Michigan police chiefs agreed yesterday.

But they said stop-and-frisk laws provide no real answer to the problem of crime.

Police chiefs speaking at a regional meeting of the Michigan Municipal League at the Kingsley Inn yesterday were William K. Hanger of Pontiac, Frank T. Cribb of Clawson and James W. Rutherford of Flint.

Hanger said no stop-and-frisk law has been in effect long enough for a judgment to be made.

"I'm for anything that would increase the reasonable authority of police officers dealing with criminals... but I think it (stop and frisk) is in conflict with the Supreme Court ruling on admissibility of evidence," he said.

AUTHORITY EXISTS

Cribb and Rutherford were unequivocally against such laws. Cribb said police officers have all the authority they need now to search someone suspected of committing a crime or about to commit a crime.

"This isn't anything new, we've been doing it for years," he said.

Rutherford said: "I personally doubt there is much validity to the need for stop and frisk." He said because of the questionable constitutionality of such laws court cases involving a stop-and-frisk law might negate prosecution of criminals.

"We are doing a good job now... If we got an ordinance we might eventually lose the cases we are now making."

McCarthy Expects Challenge by RFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, convinced Sen. Robert F. Kennedy plans to join the Democratic presidential race soon, is moving to head off the New Yorker in the remaining preference primaries.

"I think he will announce before Monday," McCarthy told reporters Thursday, "unless the reaction is bad" to Kennedy's statement he is reassessing whether to challenge President Johnson.

McCarthy aides said the timing of his Thursday announcement that he will enter primaries in Indiana May 7 and South Dakota June 4 was prompted by Kennedy's statement and a desire to get into these states ahead of any possible Kennedy candidacy.

"It certainly has that effect," McCarthy told a reporter.

EXPECTS CHALLENGE

The Minnesota said he expected Kennedy to challenge him in Nebraska May 14, Oregon May 28 and California June 4.

McCarthy is due to undergo a test of his strength compared with Kennedy's this weekend at a meeting of the 30,000-member antiwar California Democratic Council.

The council spawned the McCarthy movement in California but there is an undercurrent of Kennedy sentiment within the membership. The group is expected to endorse McCarthy overwhelmingly at the close of the convention Saturday.

HE'S EARNED IT

"McCarthy has earned, through his courage and leadership, the right and duty to be supported," said Gerald N. Hill, council president and co-chairman of the McCarthy campaign in California.

At least one of Kennedy's closest political advisers meanwhile is urging him against risking his political future by making a race for the Democratic nomination this year.

"It's entirely possible," said the informant, who asked not to be identified, "that he will announce he has reassessed the situation and decided not to make the race."

"I, for one, don't think he can take the nomination from the President if Johnson decides he wants to stay in office," the adviser said, adding he expects Kennedy to make up his mind in two or three days.

McCarthy, indicating he was distinctly cool to the possibility of a Kennedy candidacy, said it might divide the bloc of opposition to Johnson's war policies and help the President win re-nomination.

Reading the document, it was his conclusion that "pathetically little is known about crime."

The criticism, he emphasized was not aimed at the study committee, but at the lack of documentation due to the problem of reliable crime statistics.

INCREASING CRIME

"Crime is increasing but no one knows exactly why," said Fain. "But as unreliable as these figures are they are the only indication of what is happening."

He said that none of the recommendations made by the crime commission have any far-reaching effects, "except in the enactment of stricter gun laws."

Expressing hope that the report is only a beginning towards better crime enforcement, Fain said that the only indication of crime will be a "long, tedious job," but one in which every effort should be directed because "We can not afford to live in fear."

Judge James Carter of the U.S. Court of Appeals in San Diego, Calif., speaking at one of the six workshops offered to participants during the session, said new methods in the courts must be implemented to eliminate the general dissatisfaction of the public with criminal justice.

EXISTING TOOLS

Improvements can come about and be accomplished by better administration in the courts, and better use of the tools the courts have already, he said. Legislative bodies at both the state and federal level must also provide additional tools and procedures, the judge said.

"The real opportunity for progress in the field of law lies in improvements in procedures," said Carter. "Regrettably, the law has fallen behind medicine and the physical sciences."

Cost-Sharing Plan OK'd for Rubbish Group's Trip

BIRMINGHAM — The Southeastern Oakland County Incinerator Authority has agreed to share part of the cost of a trip to Seattle, Wash. for members of a committee studying the advisability of a rubbish transfer station in this city.

The City Commission Monday night postponed a decision on the sale of city property to the authority for a transfer site until the committee, proposed by Mayor William Roberts, could have time to inspect similar operations in the Detroit area and possibly a "model" facility in Seattle.

A. J. Kronbach, general manager of the authority, said that no actual figures for sharing costs of the trip had as yet been worked out. However, he estimated total cost of the trip at $2,500, including air fare, meals and transportation for committee members.

The composition of the committee has not yet been definitely determined, but Roberts suggested that it include three members of the commission and one representative each from two home owner groups who have protested against the transfer station.

In addition, Kronbach said, he and City Manager Robert S. Kenning might make the trip.

Local transfer sites to be located are those in Dearborn, Lincoln Park, Trenton and Wyandotte.

City Delays Parking Ban

Parking will not be eliminated on West Huron from West Wide to Perry until after Easter, traffic engineer Joseph Koren said today.

The city had scheduled a parking ban to take effect in March. Koren said that because of cold weather prolonging necessary work on the street and because of expected Easter sales it was decided to delay the ban.

Parking will be eliminated from the street as part of an over-all improvement program affecting M59.

Koren said new lanes will be pointed on the street and parking meters will be removed in April. The new street will have five lanes with one being utilized for left turns.

Riot-Powers Bill Near Final State Vote

LANSING (AP) — A hotly contested bill giving local authorities emergency powers to deal with riots and other public emergencies was in position for a final State Senate vote today.

Supporters of the bill, similar to a measure already passed by the House, said Thursday it is needed to avoid the bloodshed and violence of possible riots this summer.

MSU Hiring Bias Claimed

DETROIT (AP) — A report accusing Michigan State University of racial discrimination in some hiring practices is on file with the Office for Civil Rights, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, federal officials confirmed Thursday.

The 20-page document includes recommendations for correcting the situation at MSU and Ted Sennett, deputy regional director for the Office of Civil Rights in Chicago, is in Washington this week to determine how the recommendations should be implemented.

MSU Provost Howard Neville, asked about the report, said, "There have been discussions. I am unable to comment about this at this time."

The report recommends that MSU set up an office of equal opportunity with a staff responsible to the university president, Dr. John Hannah.

These would include orders imposing curfews, prohibiting the sale of liquor, weapons and ammunition and inflammable liquids such as gasoline.

Such orders could be effective for a maximum of 72 hours.

Antiwar Issue Put on Ballot

Wisconsin City to Vote on Withdrawal

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A referendum demanding that the United States withdraw from Vietnam goes before the voters of Wisconsin's capital April 2, compounding problems of administration supporters seeking a victory for President Johnson in the state presidential primary that day.

So far the only outspoken opponents of the resolution, which got its start in the University of Wisconsin community, are the city councilmen. They voted to put it on the ballot after the city attorney advised they had no choice, then voted 20-0 to urge a "no" vote.

Supporters of the referendum say offers of support have multiplied since Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy won 42 per cent of the vote in the New Hampshire primary Tuesday.

McCarthy also is opposing Johnson in the Wisconsin primary.

More than 8,000 signatures were on petitions forcing the City Council to put this question on the ballot.

"It is the policy of the people of the city of Madison that there be an immediate cease fire and the withdrawal of United States troops from Vietnam, so that the Vietnamese people can determine their own destiny."

Strong sentiment for a year ago appeared centered in the university campus, which has 33,000 students.

There has been a concerted drive to register students to vote. The largest number of new voters, the city clerk's office has been registered in heavy student population areas.

The proposed three high schools in one facility on 68 acres on Elizabeth Lake Road near Cass Avenue will each contain 1,500 students.

Each school or house will operate independently with its own staff and principal but they would share certain facilities such as auditorium and gymnasium.

"While the large school idea and the house plan of organization may appear new to many people, they do have a long record of successful utilization," Pontiac Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer comments, "and they demonstrated that they can preserve the individuality of students."

"Trends today indicate that urban schools will construct more large high schools in the years ahead in response to factors of urban growth and urban problems."

Hanger and Rutherford agreed that recent rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court have placed unreasonable restrictions on police officers.

Hanger said there is a glaring need for more police personnel in every city. He said steps should be taken to reestablish foot patrols in commercial areas and on streets where high crime rates are apparent.

"The motorized patrol is not effective enough," he said.

A bloodmobile Monday will be open to donors for Sally Hanger and other individuals, businesses and clubs.

The Red Cross will conduct the blood drive at the Pontiac Elks Temple, 114 Orchard Lake, from 2 to 8 p.m.

Sally, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Hanger, 3991 Perkins, Waterford Township, has a rare blood disease called aplastic anemia.

headed by a director of the complex and also have a principal in charge of central level facilities and instruction.

With two high school complexes possible in the city — one at Pontiac State Hospital and an enlarged Northern High — an attendance boundary line is expected to bisect the school district to have a racial balance in each complex.

"Central High could be rehabilitated and converted into a middle school taking advantage of its auditorium, gym, science labs and vocational education facilities," Webster said.

PHASE OUT

Enrollment at the school would be at least 1,200 students including the phasing out of Jefferson Junior High School. It would be available to all junior high school pupils.

An architectural study a year ago showed that it would be cheaper to build a new Pontiac Central High School than improve the present structure.

It was estimated that a new building would cost at least $8.6 million compared to at least $6 million for remodeling Central,

Hanger also said courts "are going to have to give more realistic sentences."

He said it is a common experience to take a person to court only to find he is awaiting trial on another serious charge or awaiting an appeal process.

The chiefs told an audience of 200 delegates from cities and villages in Oakland, Genesee and Macomb counties (Region IV) that mutual aid agreements now being drawn up by Michigan cities are merely formalization of understandings that have existed previously.

'PLUG GUN LOOPHOLES'

In discussing gun laws, Cribb said federal legislation should be passed to "plug loopholes in the firearms trade."

Hanger said he is for legislation which would prohibit dealers from selling to out-of-state citizens but against registration of rifles and shotguns.

He said if a citizen feels in need of a rifle or shotgun to be safe he should not be restrained from having one.

The regional league meeting—hosted by Pontiac—also featured a discussion on city income taxes, conferences and a report by Robert E. Fryer on impending state legislation.

Officers elected at the meeting for the next year were Roy Rowold, mayor of Rochester, as chairman; Lottie E. Chambers, councilwoman from Wixom, vice chairman and Robert Smalley, village manager of Oxford, as secretary.

adding on to it and taking over Crofoot Elementary School next door.

Asst. Supt. William Lacy had this to say about the proposed school organization:

"There appear to be no significant disadvantages to the instructional program in changing from the present 6-3-3 type organization to a 5-3-4 plan and such a change seems to provide opportunities for improvements."

RACIAL BALANCE

"If the racial balance of pupils and utilization of present facilities can be improved by changing to a 5-3-4 plan, the other instructional implications do not offer important reasons for continuing the present plan."

Lewis A. Crew, director of instructional personnel services, commented on the plan this way:

"The problems of staff procurement in a K-5, 6-8 and 9-12 school organization would be greater than what presently exists and would be centered in the schools organized on a grades 6-8 basis. The degree of success that can be expected is uncertain."

Poisons, Friend or Enemy of Man

National Poison Prevention Week, which begins Sunday, might more accurately be called National Poison Control Week. The point is that poisons are too numerous to do away with entirely; besides, many of them are essential ingredients in ordinary household and washing products. Adults would not dream of drinking oven cleaner, but unknowing children have been known to do so.

The National Safety Council recently described a pie made by three children. It contained drain cleaner, ammonia, bleach, fabric softener, floor wax, car polish and cleaner, and spray starch. The children ate the pie, vomited it, and recovered after hospital treatment.

But others are less fortunate. More than 2,200 persons (one-fourth of them under five years of age) died last year after swallowing similar products.

Putting small children out to play in the back yard presents certain dangers, too. The long list of poisonous plants includes not only belladonna and wolfsbane but also acorns, Japanese yew berries, azaleas, rhododendrons, daffodils, jonquils, larkspur and wisteria. Cherry blossoms likewise are lethal, but rose petals are not.

Aspirin has been the leading cause of fatal poisonings among children under five years since records were first kept by Chicago's Poison Control Center. Home poisoning deaths from all types of liquid and solid substances increased by 6 per cent in 1967 over the previous year.

"With the increasing number of potentially toxic household products and medicines on the market each year," Richard Winsor of the National Safety Council says, "these figures may increase even more unless mothers take the necessary precautions to keep injurious preparations out of the reach of their children."

Are Half-Dollars Being Hoarded Out of Circulation?

The Treasury Department has announced that it will cut production of half-dollars after June 30 by more than two-thirds — from the current rate of 360 million pieces annually to 100 million.

As far as the ordinary person is concerned, the rate may as well be cut to zero. It may as well have been zero all along. Anyone who has laid eyes on more than three or four half-dollars in the course of the past year can count himself as exceptional.

Where are all these millions upon millions of half-dollars going? That is the major monetary mystery of the 1960s.

The original KENNEDY halves were understandably a great collector's item, both for sentimental reasons and because they were the last of the all-silver halves.

Beginning in 1965, silver, a metal in growing demand for industrial uses, was eliminated entirely from dimes and quarters. For some reason, however, Congress decided to retain 40 per cent silver (instead of the former 90 per cent) in half-dollars.

The continuing scarcity of halves, contrasted with the abundance of silver dimes and quarters, suggests that speculators are still hoarding the bulk of them in hopes that the price of silver rises high enough to make it profitable to melt them down—although the law would have to be changed to make that legal.

Whatever the explanation for the vanishing half-dollar, it is obvious that it is not serving its intended function as a medium of exchange. Either Congress should abandon the coin altogether or else start making it out of the same nickel-copper sandwich as dimes and quarters and see what happens.

Pin-Ups Reveal Antarctica Scientists' Duty Span

Scientists who study the scientists who are studying the secrets of Antarctica have noted an interesting behavioral phenomenon, reports Science Service.

According to one psychological study of the men, who spend up to a year in isolation on the frigid continent, the first pictures to appear on the walls of their under-the-ice quarters are pin-ups.

These begin to be covered by travel posters after several months — pictures of sun-drenched beaches and mountain forests.

Then, about two or three months before the men are due to return home, the pin-ups reappear.

From which you might conclude that in the long run the scientists favor biology over geography.

Empty House to Be Home for Girls

By DICK SAUNDERS

There's a big, gray, wood-frame home, standing vacant, like an empty promise, at 228 Orchard Lake Ave.

But not for much longer. It's about to stir with a new breath of life; about to become a symbol of human kindness and community concern.

By the middle of next month, with a little luck and lots of help, it may be the only operating halfway house for troubled girls in Michigan.

A halfway house is a link between a state training school and normal community life, the purpose being to prepare wards of the state for independent living. It's sort of rehabilitation with heart.

Behind it is the faith and compassion of Mrs. Eldred Sweeney.

The Sweeneys aren't wealthy benefactors. He is a welder at GMC Truck & Coach Division. They have three kids of their own and it's not always easy to make ends meet.

But the Sweeneys of 228

Orchard Lake Ave., are going to be foster parents.

The idea began when Mrs. Sweeney heard Daniel Gillespie, supervisor of the Oakland County Delinquency Control Unit, Supt., Dept. of Social Services, explain the need for a halfway house one night at a meeting of the Voice of Oakland County Action League (VOCAL).

Mrs. Sweeney recognized the need and wasted no time. She told Gillespie she'd like to be a foster parent.

The wheels began turning. The 10-room house on Orchard Lake Avenue was suggested by a member of "What we're trying to do is get the whole community interested. This is a project of people," said Mrs. Sweeney.

So far interest and help has been encouraging. Support has come from VOCAL, the Pontiac Organization of Black Youth (POBY) and various church groups. More will be needed in the long run to keep the project operating successfully.

With some crash efforts of community groups, the house will be cleaned up and furnished hopefully by April 1 to accept its first two youngsters from the Girls' Training School at Adrian.

"It's not going to be easy," said Mrs. Sweeney. "We'll need all the help we can get."

All the girls will be former Pontiac residents returning home. They'll go to high school just like any other youngsters.

The girls will be placed in the home in pairs; two now, two more in another month or so, not to exceed six at the end of five months.

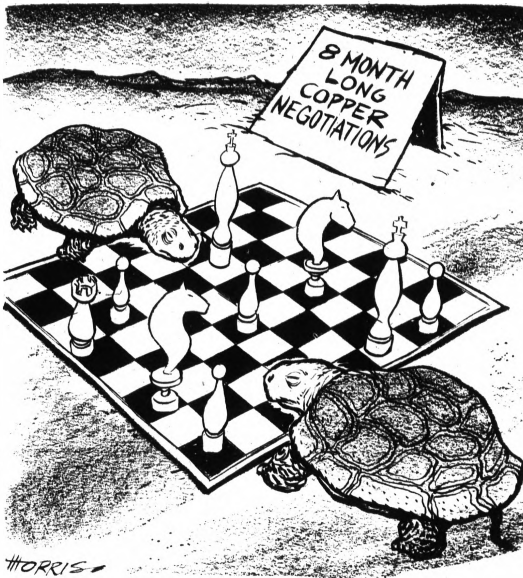

The state will license the home and pay room and board ($101 per month) for each girl. The Sweeneys will pay at least half of the $200 monthly rent, along with the phone and water bills and any repairs not covered by the landlord.

The balance of the rent, and funds for heat and electricity and furnishings will have to come from community donations.

"The important thing is to give these kids a chance," Mrs. Sweeney commented.

Every community, it seems, has a lot of talkers and only a few doers. Carole Sweeney stuck her neck out and put money and effort on faith alone.

I wonder if there are enough Carole Sweeneys in Pontiac to make this thing click.

Some Sort Of A Record!

David Lawrence Says:

Bobby's Tactics Aimed at 1972

WASHINGTON — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's announcement that he will soon "reassess" his previous position of support for the re-nomination of President Johnson at the Democratic National Convention in August has stirred up a considerable friction inside the Democratic party.

LAWRENCE

This doesn't necessarily mean that, if the New York senator is unsuccessful in getting the nomination for himself, he will form a third party. Rather, it is a piece of strategy designed to find a way to boost his own chances for the presidential nomination four years hence.

He may either enter some of the primaries himself this year or openly support Sen. McCarthy in other primaries, and then "reassess" the results.

It may be doubted that Sen. Kennedy will lead any third-party movement. His objective may not be clear as yet to the average person who is unfamiliar with the devious ways of politics.

The senator is anxious, of course, to stay in the limelight and strengthen his position inside the Democratic party so that, if Mr. Johnson is re-elected, the Kennedy faction of the party may be effectively organized to dictate who shall be nominated in 1972.

VICE PRESIDENCY

If the New York senator, moreover, became an active candidate for the 1968 presidential nomination, he would make himself available as a possible choice for the vice presidency in the event that President Johnson is re-elected, by reasons of political expediency, to pick the New York senator in order to assure himself of the support of the Kennedy bloc in the party.

Whichever way it is viewed, the Kennedy tactics are in accord with political precedent.

Indeed, if he is unsuccessful in boosting Sen. McCarthy's candidacy or his own or in actually bringing about a close race at the August convention, he could at any time proclaim his support for President Johnson as the party's nominee.

Thus, Sen. Kennedy has everything to gain and very little to lose by participating in the primaries. In fact, many people have assumed that his friends and supporters have been behind Sen. McCarthy's bid for the nomination, since the Minnesota senator is relatively unknown in national politics.

WOULD LEAVE SCARS

A pre-convention battle, of course, between the Kennedy faction and the Johnson supporters is bound to leave scars. Hence the Republicans privately are jubilant. They view the Kennedy insurrection as likely to benefit them in the long run.

President Johnson, on the other hand, holds many trump cards. Between now and the November election, he will have the opportunity dramatically to call for national unity in time of war.

Also, he may be able to develop a formula for peace and begin international conferences with the leading nations of the world in an effort to solve the Vietnam problem.

Russia's Envoy to U.S. Toes the 'Party' Line

WASHINGTON — Our spy in the Russian Embassy has delivered what he swears on a stack of Pravdas is a copy of a secret report by Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin.

It was cabled to the Kremlin after the Soviet diplomat attended last Saturday's Gridiron Dinner.

Goes like this, if you can believe our man: "Comrades Brezhnev and Kosygin:

"I wish to report the impending downfall of the imperialist United States.

"At the Statler-Hilton Hotel tonight, in the presence of Vice President Humphrey, members of the Johnson cabinet, several Supreme Court justices, many senators, representative industrial tycoons, merchant princes, publishers, editors, and honest workers like waiters, I heard and saw things that clearly support my opening statement. Chaos prevails. All respect for high office has vanished.

"President Johnson, Vice President Humphrey, Dean Rusk (who sat next to me at the head table), Richard Nixon, George Romney, Nelson Rockefeller, Ronald Reagan, John Lindsay, Robert Kennedy, Eugene McCarthy, George Wallace, and even Harold Stassen, our favorite candidate, were cynically lampooned in songs and skits.

"I was assured by a Washington correspondent, a member of the corrupt free press, that this was all in fun — that it had been going on for some time. But I question this.

"You, my comrades, certainly would not sit in George Hall, let us say, and listen to raffish comment about your glorious administration or future chances from obvious revisionists posing as members of the news media.

"You would have them

jailed, as well as all who even chuckled at their audacity.

"Thank goodness we retain a sense of sobriety that rules out such outrages.

"If you see a picture of me standing up with Dean Rusk and apparently champagne-toasting President Johnson, disregard it. Since the head of the CIA, Mr. Helms, was present at the dinner, you can rest assured that the picture is a composite, using a photo of me taken last November at our embassy, toasting the 50th anniversary of the Great October."

'Urge Township Voters to Vote Yes on Millage'

The West Bloomfield League of Women Voters urges the citizens of West Bloomfield to vote "yes" on the millage proposal on March 25. Our league has studied, discussed and debated the adequate financing of our township government and, as a result of membership consensus, supports the millage proposal.

We are sponsoring a public meeting at 8 p.m. March 19, at the Warren Abbott School to answer voters' questions on why we need the millage and the cutbacks in services which will result if it does not pass.

A "yes" vote will mean you are willing to spend only $167 more per month (based on township assessment figures per average household) to increase police and fire protection, to keep present library services and to prevent cutting off of road improvements.

'Township Taxes High and Benefits Few'

Angry area taxpayers should count their blessings that they are not residents of Brandon Township where our taxes are higher and our benefits fewer. Our roads are almost impassable many times and our schools are far below the caliber found in other areas. Perhaps it's time the residents of Brandon Township take a stand and vote in people who have the best interests of the majority of residents in mind.

In a statement about the recent protest at Avondale High School, Mr. Dickey said he had never heard such language in all his years on the police force and with all his encounters with prostitutes, pimps and dope addicts. It is gratifying to the United States — concerned for hemispheric solidarity and strength — that Galo Plaza Lasso, former president of Ecuador, has been elected secretary general of the Organization of American States.

He personifies conviction, and the courage of it, on freedom's side; the character of responsible stewardship, which sidesteps no problem confronting it — but meets it with honor and resolution.

Such was his record as Chief Executive (1948-52) that the distinction of being Ecuador's first constitutional president in 28 years to complete a four-year term. Such was his engrossment in the political and economic stability of his country, and its resistance of dictatorial takeover from without.

For service to the cause of hemispheric progress, in the pattern of united purpose for freedom and security as a mutual responsibility, he received in 1955 the Americas Award annually bestowed by the Americas Foundation.

Born in New York, and a graduate of the University of California, Galo Plaza is a friend of the United States. He is not one of those who have believed the pot-of-gold theory at the end of the global "foreign aid" rainbow, but a stalwart spokesman and toiler in Latin America for policies of economic advancement by self-help and not handout; by loans where warranted — not free-loading.

The OAS has heavy responsibilities in its assignment of mutual effort for hemispheric progress — and achievement in the security particular never has been of greater urgency. With Galo Plaza at the helm in the capacity of secretary general, the job is in able and trustworthy hands.

Three factors are credited for the rapid growth of the recreational vehicle industry — the healthy state of the nation's economy; employment and disposable income at an all-time high level and increased leisure time.

The industry points to these benefits: A family can travel almost as economically as it can stay home; sportsmen can camp, fish and stay in every part of the U.S. while living on a budget; vacationers can gain friendships with fellow recreational vehicle owners, and they can join groups — such as those sponsored by the late Wally Byam.

Only Indiana and California are ahead of Michigan in production of recreational vehicles. Other areas of outdoor recreation share in this growth, too.

Debate Will Start Monday on Senate Code of Ethics

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed code of ethics generated by the Bobby Baker scandal comes before the Senate amid signs it won't require full public disclosure of each senator's financial assets.

The code is to be put before the Senate by its ethics committee. Debate is scheduled to start Monday.

The Senate's version of a code to govern the conduct of its members will be made public one day after the House took up an ethical code of its own. The House proposal was sparked by the case of Adam Clayton Powell, excluded from his seat on grounds of financial misconduct.

Strong Senate advocates of a code of ethics have called for annual public disclosure of the amount and sources of each member's income, along with assets, liabilities and outside business and professional activities.

'INVASION OF PRIVACY'

Opponents contend this would be an unwarranted invasion of privacy.

Indications were the committee would recommend a middle course between these two positions. Bitter controversy is likely to surround the issue.

The Senate Ethics Committee was created in 1964 during the politically explosive probe into the financial affairs of Robert G. Baker, onetime secretary to Senate Democrats and a confidant of Lyndon B. Johnson when the President was the Senate Democratic leader. Baker was convicted of income-tax evasion and is appealing the federal court decision.

Shortly after the committee was organized, Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., said he considered its role to be "the preservation of the good name of the Senate."

SPECIFIC STANDARDS

The committee set the drafting of specific standards of conduct for senators and Senate employees as its first business, but was twice interrupted by investigations of misconduct charges against fellow senators. The investigation of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., culminated in the Senate's censure of Dodd last June. The committee found he had converted at least $116,083 in political funds to his personal benefit.

The committee later probed charges that Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., had misused a wiretap investigation in an effort to help James R. Hoffa, imprisoned president of the Teamsters Union.

Last Oct. 25 the committee unanimously reported it found no facts to support the charges against Long by Life magazine.

STILL CONTINUING

After the magazine called the inquiry a whitewash and made fresh charges, the committee announced it would fully consider the latest allegations against Long. The inquiry is still continuing.

The House code was written after nearly a year's work by its ethics committee, headed by Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill.

The eight-point code would apply to House members, officials and employees, but its financial disclosure provision could apply as well to relatives and close business associates of members.

The House Ethics Committee was created following the investigation of Powell, a Harlem Democrat, for alleged financial misconduct. Powell has been denied his seat for more than a year.

The House committee noted that a code of ethics would completely block a congressman who sought to sell his vote or influence.

Nominations Are Open for Law Awards

The Oakland County Bar Association announced today it is accepting nominations for its Liberty Bell Awards to be presented in connection with the Law Day USA Program, May 1.

The awards will be presented at a ceremony in the Supervisors' Auditorium at the Oakland County Courthouse.

The purpose of the awards is to recognize community service which strengthens the effectiveness of the American System of freedom under law.

Such services would include activities which would promote a better understanding of government, and especially the Bill of Rights; encourage a greater respect for law and the courts; and stimulate a deeper sense of individual responsibility so that citizens recognize their duties as well as their rights.

Only lawyers and judges are ineligible for the awards, according to Bernard N. Portnoy, Law Day chairman.

The names of nominees, together with their addresses and phone numbers and a resume of their activities which might qualify them can be mailed to Portnoy at 9 W. Huron, Pontiac, no later than April 22.

There are a great many sporty cars made in America. But still only one sports car. Only one honest-to-goodness production sports car: The Corvette Sting Ray. Of all the sporty cars, Camaro comes closest to Corvette. They're both Chevrolets. And the family resemblance is obvious. They also handle a lot alike. Like Corvette, Camaro clings exceptionally well to a curve. (Which helps explain its nickname, The Hugger.) Like Corvette, Camaro has Astro Ventilation. You get a flow of outside air even with the windows up, so the lady's hair won't muss on the way to the party. Both have a 327-cu.-in. base V8 engine. Of course we've left a lot to you. Exactly how close your Camaro comes to Corvette depends on what you add. For example, you can "customize" your Camaro with a rear deck spoiler that makes the car look all the more Corvette-ish. (You can also get mag-style wheel covers, special sport striping, whitewalls, and your choice of four special colors—three of which are also Corvette's.) CamaroCorvette. They're about as close as that.

Worries About Virility

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-577: Lon G., aged 43, is a high school principal.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I am a bachelor. For I had to support my semi-invalid parents so I felt I could never afford to get married."

"However, my parents have passed away and I have become very much attracted to the young widow of our former athletic coach."

"She is 36 and a charming person. We have been dating for the past six months and I am falling madly in love with her."

"But I shun any talk about marriage for I have a secret fear that sexually I might prove a poor second to her husband."

"For I have led a celibate life and her former mate was a virile, outdoor type of male. What should I do?"

SEX DREAMS
The usual American woman never dreams that men entertain such sexual fears.

Yet they complicate millions of homes and are a factor in the delayed marriage dates of many bachelors, plus widowers who have lived alone for several years since their wife's death.

Many an attractive woman will exclaim:
"Dr. Crane, I've been dating a wonderful man for over a year."

"He tells me he is crazy about me. And we have talked about marriage."

"But he keeps stalling about the wedding date. Yet he vows that he loves me with all his heart. So what is wrong?"

Lon has explained what is often wrong in such cases!

Alas, the more a prospective bridegroom worries about his sexual ardor, the surer he will become platonic.

For worry is a brain or "cerebral" process and thus inhibits emotional action.

In psychology we say that a man can't simultaneously "cerebrate" and also "emote."

That's one reason why a surried person talks, he will lose much of his apprehension.

The mere act of casual conversation is a brain function and thus kills emotional ardor. Incidentally, it dissipates other emotions, too, such as fear, for if you can make a surried person talk, he will lose much of his apprehension.

Grief, too, expends itself when you can let the victim get her sorrow expressed via words, as well as pent-up tears.

Our medical answer to Lon is that physical ardor has no date line and thus does not suddenly stop because a man (or woman) reaches middle age or has been celibate for 40 or 50 years.

But a smart wife must understand this widespread dread of men and banish his apprehension by taking a more aggressive role in their marital boudoir.

Sixteen Ehrling to Conduct at Interlochen

A conductor who has conducted engagements with five major orchestras within a year is to be on the podium when the Interlochen Arts Academy Orchestra gives its next concert on Sunday. He is Sixteen Ehrling, distinguished conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Ehrling just will have finished four concerts with the Boston Symphony Orchestra when he arrives here—after having conducted the Cleveland, Philadelphia, New York Philharmonic and Chicago orchestras, as well as his own, within a year's span.

The concert is regarded as one of the highlights of this year's series at the academy, not alone because Ehrling is to conduct but also because of the program he has chosen.

It is to open with Glinka's tuneful overture, "Russian and Ludmila." The major number will be the Sibelius Symphony No. 2 in D Major, which with the great Finnish composer's first symphony, is probably the most popular of seven he wrote. This work is regarded as the start of Sibelius's advance toward personal freedom in symphonic writing from the purely classical form.

The other number on the Sunday program will be Maurice Ravel's "La Valse."

The concert on the 17th will be Ehrling's second at Interlochen. He conducted his Detroit orchestra before an audience of 4,000 during the meeting of the International Society for Music Education here in the summer of 1966—and electrified that audience.

Tigers Continue Losing Ways

Failure in Clutch Situations Leads to Detroit Setback

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

LAKELAND, Fla. — Don't give up yet Tiger fans, these games are for fun. The best suggestion in the dreary 5-0 defeat at the hands of the Los Angeles Dodgers in Marchand Stadium yesterday came from one of 1,628 fans who yelled, "Wake everybody up, play some music."

The suggestion was directed at the entertainer who plays the electric organ between innings at the stadium.

It was a dreary afternoon despite the fact that the Tigers matched hits with the Dodgers, 9-9, but it was the same story when the runners were waiting on the base paths. The Tigers couldn't come through with the clutch hit and they left 12 runners stranded.

Denny McLain started and pitched two scoreless innings until the Dodgers put four hits and a walk together in the third frame for three runs.

Bob Bailey walked, catcher Tom Haller singled him to third and pitcher Bill Singer brought home a run with an infield grounder. Willie Davis drove in Haller with a double down the right field line and Zoilo Versalles followed with a single to right for the third run.

In the fourth inning after two outs, Haller again singled. Pinch hitter Willie Crawford lined a ball down the right field line. Al Kaline kicked the ball trying to field it and Haller scored, with Crawford going to third. Davis followed with another single and that scored Crawford with the final run of the game.

FRUSTRATING TIME

Except for Dick McAuliffe's 3-for-3 at the plate, it was sheer frustration for the Tigers who are now 2-5 in Grapefruit League play.

With eight hits in 15 times at the plate, McAuliffe now becomes the leading Tiger hitter in exhibition play. The little second baseman has done his job as leadoff man by getting on base four times in his first trip to the plate in four of the six games he has played.

With the six walks he also has been issued, he had thus been on base 11 times in 21 trips to the plate.

The only other player whose bat has been hot, Jim Northrup, did not play yesterday. McAuliffe opened the Tiger first inning yesterday with a two-base hit but was left at the keystone sack as Kaline lined to short and Willie Horton hit into a double play.

He started the third inning with a single and advanced to third when Kaline's shaggy grounder went through Versalles at short.

Brother Rice, Waterford OLL in Finals

Hot-Shooting Warriors Roll Past Lake Orion, 88-70

By JERE CRAIG
The Dragons' fire went out Thursday night. The Lake Orion cagers saw their hopes dashed not by the cold-shooting night or a lack of rebounding, rather it was the superior firepower of Birmingham Brother Rice that led to the Dragons' 88-70 downfall at the Seaholm Class A regional tournament.

The victorious Warriors thus move into the finals against Warren Cousino Saturday night in their first appearance in a regional hoop tourney.

Their chances of reaching the quarter-finals next week would appear good—coach Bill Norton seems them going all the way to East Lansing—if they can maintain last night's sizzling shooting pace.

Making at least 50 per cent of its field goal tries in each quarter, Brother Rice connected on 33 of 62 shots for 53 per cent to offset impressively the Dragons' 46 per cent effort (27 of 58) in their first regional appearance in 15 years.

Lee Hart was the key man in the winners' attack. The massive 6-6, 240-pound

Warrior pivotman started by missing his first two shots and missing two of six free throws, but drawing a very significant three personal fouls on Orion's 6-7 Gary Mize.

As soon as Mize drew his restricting third foul in the first quarter, Hart went to work. He hit his final two shots for eight of the winners' initial 20 tallies.

Brother Rice led, 20-14, after the opening session and Hart rested the entire second period on the sidelines. Despite a 9-for-17 shooting effort and a 12-5 rebounding edge for the Dragons in the second period, they fell two points further behind.

COMES BACK

The third quarter began with Brother Rice ahead, 40-32, and Hart rejoining the lineup. A three-point play by Tim Daigle brought Orion within seven, 44-37, at the 6:20 mark.

That was the last bright moment for the losers. Hart poured in 14 points in the quarter, connecting on five straight field goal tries and four in a row at the charity stripe.

It was 69-47 at the period's end. Hart added six points in the early moments of the final quarter to finish with 28 points. More significant were his nine consecutive successful shots from the field and six straight from the free throw line.

The points all came on close-in shots although Hart only had four rebounds in the game. Mike McGill led the winners' rebounding with eight retrievals, and he made five of six shots.

John MacAlon and Steve Jones sparked with their ball handling and also scored in double figures.

Mize led Lake Orion's statistics by making 8 of 14 shots for 18 points and 11 rebounds, but his best efforts came in the final quarter when the issue was settled.

SPURTS

Bill Foss started strongly with his rebounding but didn't get any in the last half and made all nine of his points in the middle two sessions.

The Dragons matched Brother Rice on the backboards with 40 rebounds, thanks to a 15-8 last quarter edge. In the decisive third session, they were outclassed, 15-5.

Turnovers also hampered the losers; they relinquished the ball 19 times without a shot while Brother Rice committed 9 violations.

Orion finished with a 16-3 mark while the Warriors are now 13-8 after their ninth consecutive win. During the streak, they have averaged 85 points a game and the closest victory margin has been 16 points.

Tankers Seek State Honors

Individuals and teams from Oakland County are expected to bag their share of the honors when the state Class A swimming championships open this afternoon at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Preliminaries in all events but diving were slated to open at 4 p.m. today and continue through the evening. The diving preliminaries are on tap for tomorrow at 9 a.m. Finals in all events get under way at 2 p.m.

Battle Creek Lakeview, which shared the title last year with Trenton, again ranks as the team to beat.

Also good bets to give the Battle Creekers a run for their money are Birmingham Groves and Seaholm, Royal Oak Kimball, Southfield, Ann Arbor and Warren Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald placed third last year and Seaholm ranked fifth.

Among the individuals bidding for honors from Oakland County will be Mike Burt of Southfield, who won the 400-yard freestyle last year in 4:00.62.

FREESTYLE HOPEFUL

Greg Orgeta, also of Southfield, is a candidate for honors in the 100-freestyle.

Gary Gottschling of Royal Oak Kimball is the county's top swimmer and he'll be hard to beat in the individual medley and the 100-yard butterfly.

Among the other area swimmers on hand will be diver Rich Mathey of Bloomfield Hills Andover, Larry Driver of Birmingham Groves and Tobin Rote of Seaholm.

Mike Boga and Nolan Mason will represent Pontiac Central in the state competition, while diver Craig Sanderson will carry Pontiac Northern's colors.

Ceylon Is Undecided

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Ceylon still is undecided whether to take part in the Mexico Olympic Games of Africa.

When the council of the Ceylon Olympic Games Association met Thursday night it merely passed a resolution unanimously asking the International Olympic Committee to reconsider its decision to allow South Africa to take part.

Balance Helps Lakers Triumph in 'D' Tourney

Special to the Press
YPSILANTI—Waterford Our Lady reached its first regional basketball championship title game Thursday night with a convincing 57-46 conquest of Litchfield in the Class D tournament at Eastern Michigan University.

Getting a well-balanced scoring attack and strong rebounding from Brian Haskins and Dan Sioma, the Lakers gained their fourth straight tournament victory (but first ever in regional play) and upped their record to 12-7.

Next on their march to a possible state championship is a 7 p.m. encounter tomorrow with Adrian Catholic Central's potent Fighting Irish, 74-57 victors over Ecorse St. Francis last night.

WOLL took an early lead, up to eight points in the second quarter, before growing careless and falling five points behind just before the halftime break.

The Lakers were plagued by 27 turnovers in the contest. They stayed within striking range and finally jumped the lead on a Dennis McCulloch jump shot in the closing 10 seconds of the third period, 40-38.

FOUL SHOTS

The two teams continued their tight duel until the winners pulled in front by five with about three minutes to play. Making 11 of 16 charity tosses in the fourth session, Waterford OLL padded its lead to 11 points in the stretch run.

Haskins and Sioma's backboard work was a key factor. They combined for 34 rebounds (13 and 15, respectively) as the Lakers produced a 58-37 advantage.

Neither team shot very well, but the winners had an 8-5 edge in baskets during the final half. McCulloch of WOLL led all the scorers with 16 points, and diminutive Pat McColgan managed 12, plus a surprising eight rebounds.

Ryun vs. Lindgren in Two-Mile Run

DETROIT (AP) — Gerry Lindgren of Washington State faces the task of getting psyched up for fabulous Jim Ryun in the NCAA indoor track and field meet.

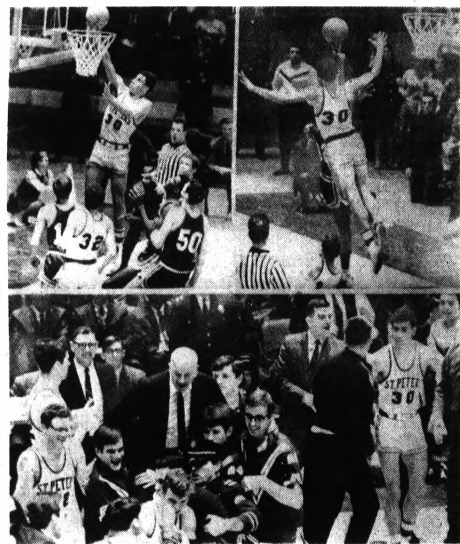

Ryun, the nation's top Olympic hope at 1,500 and 800 meters, is skipping the NCAA 880-yard run in which Villanova's Dave Patrick upset him last year.

Instead, the University of Kansas ace will compete against defending champion Lindgren in tonight's two-mile run and will shoot for his second straight mile title Saturday afternoon.

In an 11th-hour guessing game, Kansas Coach Bob Timmons finally scratched Ryun from the 880.

Patrick, whose Villanova squad is favored with Kansas to give defending champion Southern California a tough battle for the team title, expressed some disappointment in not getting another shot at Ryun.

Although Ryun holds the outdoor world record at 880, the mile and 1,500 meters, he bowed to Patrick in the 1967 NCAA half-mile as the Villanova star ran him into the boards in a record 1:48.9.

Hermansville Quintet Ousts Top-Rated Ewen-Trout Creek

By The Associated Press

A smooth outfit from Hermansville jumped to an 8-0 lead in the first minute of Class D regional tournament play and never let up the pace, dropping first-rated Ewen-Trout Creek to a 81-69 defeat.

Spartans' Gym Coach Nixes NCAA Playoff

EAST LANSING (AP) — "We are not going," said Michigan State University gymnastics coach George Szypula, when informed there would be a three-way Big Ten playoff to determine who goes to the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship meet in Chicago later this month.

The Spartans finished in a tie with the University of Michigan and Iowa recently after winning the conference championship. Points from the conference meet and season dual meets added up to the three-way tie.

It was only the second loss of the year against 50 wins for Ewen-Trout Creek, an amalgamation of two of last year's Class D powers and considered unrivaled in its category this year.

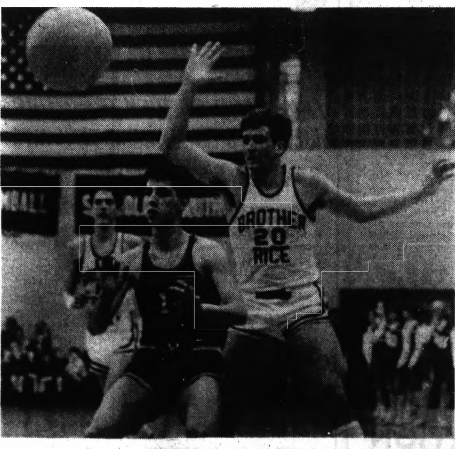

Hermansville has yet to face Painesdale Jeffers in Region 26 action. Jeffers, which finished the season unlisted in the top 10 already has dumped seventh and eight-rated Dollar Bay and Baraga in district play.

In another Class D upset, Bay City St. Joseph, rated No. 9, lost to Au Gres 50-47.

In Class C action, Detroit St. Hedwig, rated eighth, dropped a 69-63 decision to Detroit St. Gregory.

St. Gregory won the game on the eagle-eye freethrow shooting of Joe Chanley, who sank 17 of 18 foul shots in the game. Only 5-foot-11, Chanley was the game's high scorer with 29 points.

The only rated team to play in Class B, No. 10 Kalamazoo Hackett, overcame a two-point halftime deficit behind Bob Callington's 21 points to whip Berrien Springs, 63-53.

Playoff Hopes Spark Royals

Defeat St. Louis '57 for First Time

By The Associated Press
Don't count the Cincinnati Royals out of National Basketball Association playoffs — not yet, anyway.
The Royals kept alive their playoff hopes by beating the St. Louis Hawks at Cleveland Thursday night, 102-96, for the first time this season.
In the only other game scheduled, an American Basketball Association contest, the Dallas Chaparrals tightened the ABA's Western Division race with a 90-87 home court triumph over the first-place New Orleans Buccaneers.
Oscar Robertson's 30 points paced Cincinnati over the Hawks, although it was John Tresvant's jump shot with five minutes left that put the Royals ahead for good at 88-86.
Cincinnati, with two games left to play, now trails fourth-place Detroit by only one-half game in the NBA Eastern Division. Detroit has five games to play in the regular season.

Fine Arts in Fore

By JOANNE SANDERSON

Students of Walled Lake High School will present the third annual Fine Arts Festival tonight and tomorrow night at the high school.

There are seven areas of presentation. Each is put on by students with the help of faculty members.

The International Cafe, sponsored by the students of the language department, will have a true international flair.

While patrons enjoy the international dishes which will be served to them, they will be entertained by cancan dancers from France, strolling violinists, polka dancers, the Mariachi Band from Mexico, and folk singers with tunes from various countries. The International Cafe has been sponsored by Pat Molestia, Debbie Davies, Jane Randall and Dorothy Ferris of the faculty.

The Drama Club will present the play, "Opening Night," based on the short story by Cornelia Otis Skinner and dramatized by Roland Fernand. The director is Alexander Zerber, faculty member. Assistant director is Ray Champe.

CAST LISTED

The cast includes Pat Spurr, Mark Loveland, Joanne Sanderson, Cindy Huttenmiller, Diane Hruska and Ellen Simmons.

Other parts are played by Donna Sills, Sue Ward, Ed McCallum, Linda Hooper and Debbie Thompson.

FASHION SHOW SET

The Future Homemakers of America will present a fashion show with the theme "Fashion Through the Ages" featuring styles from the 18th century to the present. Virginia Stoinoff of the home economics department, helped students prepare the presentation.

The English department will transform two classrooms into an authentic coffeehouse. Folk songs, readings of poetry, music from the "Group" and various bands will provide atmosphere.

Helmut Holland-Moritz has helped the stage band prepare its numbers. Instrumentalists include Scott Barrie, Sue Barasch, Jane Menton, Dave York, Madelyn Liedigk, Doug Chynoweth and Terry Hazan on saxophones.

'Mascol' Has Birthday

By CINDI WYZGOSKI

Dominican Academy's sophomore class celebrated the birthday of its class "mascol," Linda Patterson, Monday.

Linda lives in Detroit and was chosen because, as Beth Sarraf says, "She's the model of a perfect girl and the kind of sophomore we would all like to be."

Many students at DA are somewhat skeptical as to the authenticity of Linda Patterson. Some are inclined to believe that she is a figment of the sophomores' imagination. But only the sophomores know for sure!

PNH Male Chorus Takes First-Place Honors at Event

By BETTY ATWELL

The Pontiac Northern High School male chorus recently took first-place honors among the 26 choruses present at the District XI Choral Festival.

The festival, held in Northern's auditorium represented the schools in Oakland County.

The number of students representing their schools for the event was 1,600, according to John Tousey, Northern music instructor.

Northern not only walked away with first-place honors, but the A Cappella Choir and Girls' Choir received second-place ratings.

Judges evaluating the individual performances were Dr. Wilbur Peterson, dean of music education at Wayne State University; William Koepfer, superintendent of music for Detroit; and Dr. Abraham Silver, head of musical education at Northeastern University.

SIGHT READING

The sight reading judges were Dr. Geneva Nelson, professor of music at the University of Michigan, and Dr. John

Elwell, professor of music at Eastern Michigan University.

Yesterday, approximately 35 exchange students attending neighboring schools visited Northern.

The purpose of visit from both foreign and American students was to exchange ideas as to how the educational and social routines differ in various countries.

At the close of the discussion day, the students were treated to a pizza party at Northern.

YOUTH FOR UNDERSTANDING

Three girls have been accepted by the Youth of Understanding organization to go overseas as exchange students.

These students are Cindy Keils, Linda Pruett and Connie Miller.

Sara Ratnoff, visiting PNH from Chile, will soon return to her native land after attending Northern for eight weeks.

She is staying at the home of senior Brenda Drake.

Get-Well Cards Really Work!

By DIANNE REED

The Lakers seem to have magic powers. When they send a get well card, the most wonderful thing happens: the sick person gets well.

Our Lady of the Lakes Principal Sister Therese is home from the hospital. It is expected she will return to school next week.

Sunday is the birthday of our pastor, Father Delaney. Both the Glee Club, under the direction of Jim Stevenson, and the cheerleaders are practicing to present the pastor with a memorable program.

Seniors' mock elections named Darlene Paul and Dan Sioma, most shy; Anna May McAllister and Steve Dunckley, most attractive; Diane Green and Mike McColgan, most likely to succeed and Debbie French and Brian Haskins, most athletic.

Eric Soldwish and Mike Jantz were voted most likely for Vietnam; Dianne Reed and Ken Treanor, friendliest; Diane Green and Dave Miller, most all-around; Pat Conlon and John LaForge, best dressed; Joan Moody and Ernie Omans, prettiest eyes.

Week Promotes Students' Spirit at Stevenson

By PENNY McMILLEN

Students at Stevenson High spent the third week in their new school, establishing an SHS tradition: spirit week.

Monday's Chain Day kicked off the week of class competition. The Student Council set up booths where students signed their names to slips of paper and dropped them into their respective booths: sophomore, junior or senior. These slips were connected into links all week, and today the winning class (the one with the longest chain) was announced.

Baby pictures of faculty members were displayed all week. Winner of the contest will be the class with the most students correctly identifying the teachers.

At first glance Tuesday, SHS appeared to be a military academy, but at closer examination it was just color day. Most students were clad in blue and white, the school colors, with the goal of outdoing the other classes.

SHS students entered school Wednesday in completely different attire. It was slack and sweatshirt day, and only the teachers got safely away with wearing skirts and suits. To add to the day's activities, Student Council sold baked goods during the day.

DRESS-UP DAY

A total switch from the previous day, Thursday was dress-up day as well as the day for a scavenger hunt. Certain announced items were placed throughout the school, and the class with the greatest number of students discovering the location of the hidden items won the victory.

Today was the grand finale. First hour was interrupted by a pep assembly. During the assembly the winning class for the week's antics and games was announced and presented a trophy.

The trophy will be engraved each year with the name of the winning class.

Later today the SHS gym will be used as a basketball court for the first time as the Student Council and faculty battle it out for victory.

Bringing the week to a close will be tonight's sock hop in the SHS cafeteria from 8 to 11.

Lake Orion Gets New Trophy

By DIANE CHAMBERLIN

"Our team is red hot!" shouted all of Lake Orion High School as the class A district basketball championship trophy was presented to Student Council President Ed Bretzlaff last Monday during a special pep assembly.

The trophy was presented to the team captains, Bill Foss and Judd Bankert, at last Saturday's game. It is now on display in the main trophy case in the lounge.

Team praise will also be cheered in the near future by hopeful freshman, sophomore and junior girls as tryouts for next year's cheerleaders are held.

Helping several faculty members judge the girls will be the four graduating varsity cheerleaders—Ruth Anne Brown, Diane Chamberlin, Jennifer Dowdy and Chris Bass.

The new cheerleaders will be chosen on the basis of their skill, character and pep. Each girl must have a "C" average or better before she will be allowed to participate in the competition.

City Bandits Employ Trick

A 23-year-old Pontiac man told city police he was robbed at gunpoint by three men early today when the bandits tricked him into stopping his car.

Elmer R. Austin of 84 N. Marshall told officers he turned onto Sanford from Ferry about 1 a.m. and saw the men waving for his attention.

When he stopped, Austin said, one of the assailants drew a pistol and the others jumped into the car.

The bandits stole Austin's watch and wallet containing a check for about $100, then fled on foot, investigators were told.

When A Fella Needs A Friend . . . And Shovels

New Project to Aid Jobless Is Detailed

Project TEAM, a specialized program for training the unemployed, was explained in detail to some 215 persons attending yesterday's Community Interest program.

The luncheon at the Elks Temple was organized by the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the local service clubs.

Project TEAM (Training and Experience to Augment Manpower) is being tried in Philadelphia by the Education and Technical Services (ETS) Division of Philco-Ford Corp.

The program is open to those "hard core" unemployed who want to go to work, according to speaker J. William Bryd, manager of defense and industrial education for the division.

There are no educational or work experience requirements. GAIN SKILLS.

The program aims to give the person job exposure, experience, and long-range marketable skills.

The trainees attend a pre-occupational education program for about six weeks in which they are oriented to the program. During this time a specific plan which includes counseling and work sampling experience are worked out for each trainee.

The trainees then go into the job training slots for experience. The employer, who Philco-Ford has subcontracted for the responsibility of specific skill training, will be reimbursed for the actual training cost of the unskilled workers up to $25 per week.

Once the person's training is completed and he has reached a marketable skill level, he will become a full-fledged employee.

There are currently some 5,000 unemployed persons in Oakland County, according to E. Eugene Russell, Chamber president, who also spoke of the need of finding work for these people.

He commented that motivation could come through the rewards of employment.

Harry Hall, president of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, urged businessmen and the local Chamber to current themselves with the current waste of human resources. He volunteered the State Chamber's assistance whenever possible to help solve the problem on local levels.

Detroit Doctor Says Gravin Was Sane

A Detroit psychiatrist is on record today that he believes William G. Gravin of Troy was not insane at the time he killed all seven members of his family.

Dr. William Gordon gave his testimony yesterday in Oakland County Circuit Court in the jury trial before Judge James S. Thorburn.

Gordon also testified that Gravin, recently released from Ionia State Hospital as fit to stand trial, knew the difference between right and wrong at the time of the slayings in September 1964.

His testimony conflicts with that given by two psychiatrists called to the stand by defense attorney Joseph Hardig Jr.

Doctors Edward S. Eysseff and Edward Wisniewski, both of Birmingham, said that Gravin did not know what he was doing and was incapable of controlling his will.

FORMER FIREMAN. Gravin, a former Royal Oak fireman and also a former mental patient, is accused of killing his wife, Betty, 40; a 5-year-old daughter, and four 17-year-old children ranging in age up to 17.

Six were found brutally hacked with an ax in their home. The seventh had been shot.

A blood-stained ax, two knives, a hammer and two shotguns were introduced in evidence earlier in the current trial, expected to end today.

Specifically, Gravin, 34, is on trial for first-degree murder in the slaying of a 16-year-old stepdaughter, Judith. Ann Bentley, but charges are pending against him in the other six deaths also.

INCOMPETENT. Ruled incompetent to assist in his defense shortly after the killings, Gravin was committed to the Ionia Hospital until such time as he might be declared fit to defend himself.

Gravin was sent to Pontiac State Hospital, a mental institution, in 1961, following an alleged knife assault on a cousin's wife. He was released from that hospital in July 1964, two months before his family was slain.

Airport Land Purchase OK'd

Would Be Developed by Aviation Firms

Purchase of 47½ acres adjacent to Oakland-Pontiac Airport for $190,000 has been approved by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

The land is at the northwest corner of the field next to Hatchery and Williams Lake Roads.

Joseph Davis, airport manager, said the land now unused, will be available for commercial development for aviation firms.

The property previously belonged to Standard Airways, Inc., which offers passenger service from the Waterford Township field to Detroit's Metropolitan Airport.

The supervisors also approved expenditure of $25,000 for an added taxiway at the airport. This has been urged by aviation officials to facilitate landings.

The taxiway will be an extra runway from the landing strip. The work is expected to start as soon as weather permits.

Archdiocese Schools Plan Open House

A large open-house program will take place from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday when all of the 355 Catholic schools in the eight-county Archdiocese of Michigan open their doors.

"This could be titled our first annual open house," Rev. John B. Zwerns, superintendent of Catholic schools for the archdiocese, said, "because we hope to make this welcome to our friends an annual occasion."

"We believe the community generally will benefit by comparing our schools with the public schools in the area."

Area schools participating are Pontiac Catholic High School, St. Michael, St. Frederick, St. Benedict, all of Pontiac; St. Joseph, Lake Orion; Our Lady of the Lakes High and Grade School, Waterford Township; Sacred Heart, Pontiac Township; St. Andrew, Rochester; St. Patrick, White Lake Township; and Dominican Academy, Oxford.

5 or 6 Missing as Montana Hotel Burns

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A fire, fed by a broken gas line, leveled the five-story Grand Hotel in less than an hour Thursday night, and left firemen wondering if they had gotten all the residents out.

Police first said they thought all residents had been evacuated but the hotel manager, Bob Kroll, said five or six of the 50 guests were still unaccounted for.

Kroll said he was unable to tell if the missing guests had found refuge elsewhere or if they had perished in the building.

A number of guests escaped through front doors. Police Officer Vic Sandru said about 15 were carried down ladders and fire escapes to safety.

FLAMES SPREAD. Three of the four walls of the 1800 vintage hotel collapsed, setting a house next door afire and spreading flames to the roof of a church two blocks away. The church fire was not quickly put but the home suffered extensive damage.

Police Chief Jack Williams climbed a fire ladder and helped residents out of upper stories. "I think we got them all out, but we can't be sure," he said.

The fire apparently started in the basement, Sandru said. He said police got the call about 11 p.m. By midnight the brick hotel was a flaming ruin with only one wall standing.

Leo Demarais, 64, a hotel guest who was brought down to a ladder, said, "It wasn't too long in my room on the fourth floor. All the noise woke me up."

The hotel manager said the guests had scattered to homes around the hotel and it was impossible to make an accurate count.

Present life expectancy for men in this country is about 66½ years, while for women it is 73½ years.
