City Manager Comments on Merger Move

Joining City-Township Needs Consideration, Says Willman

Pontiac City Manager Walter K. Willman commented today on the proposed merger of Waterford Township and Pontiac, a topic stirring much local interest.

The suggestion was made recently by a well known Waterford Township resident, Frank W. Steere. He asked the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce to study the proposal.

Commenting as a city administrative official, Willman pointed out that the matter is one of policy which will eventually be determined, should the question become an official one, through proper initiation in accordance with law by the city commission.

"Naturally the proposal that a city of 80,000 population and an area of 20 square miles annex a township of 40,000 population with 36 square miles, would create many problems that deserve the most careful consideration."

Mr. Norvell of the Chamber of Commerce has indicated that his organization appreciates the importance of the proposal should it become a matter for official study and an eventual vote by the people, of both city and township, and has indicated that his organization would be interested in analyzing the possibilities within the scope of the proposal.

"Back in September of this year, the City Commission authorized the

Father, Son Rope Deer While It Bucked Fence

MILLINGTON (U)—Sherwood Smith of Millington believes he's the only Michigan deer hunter to bag a buck this season by lassoing one—and bringing it back alive.

Smith, a wholesale meat dealer, spotted an eight-point buck trying to ram its way through a wire fence. He got close enough to seize the animal and held it while his 9-year-old son, R. J., slipped a rope over the deer's head.

The Smiths then wrestled the deer onto a truck and took it home where Smith plans to slaughter it. Smith, who had a deer license, said he won't have to go north now to hunt.

Ex-Mayor Frank G. Ely Dies After Brief Illness

Frank G. Ely, former mayor of Pontiac, died Tuesday morning after several weeks' illness.

Mr. Ely, 87, of 261 State St., was born in Gainesville, N. Y., May 13, 1868. Eight years later he came to Davisburg with his parents, Edmund and Helen Granger Ely, where his father opened a general store.

He learned the Morse code at the Davisburg railway station when he was 14 years of age, and worked at the Grand Trunk railway three years. He was in the mercantile business with his father 25 years, coming to Pontiac in 1913.

He entered the real estate and insurance business, retiring in 1916 to become city assessor. He was elected mayor the following year, a position which he held until the change to the commission manager form of government was made in 1920. Mr. Ely was the first city manager.

In 1934 when the Pontiac Federal Savings and Loan Association was organized, Mr. Ely was elected secretary and treasurer.

He had been High Priest of Royal Arch Chapter 5, Past Master of Austin Lodge at Davisburg, associate Past Master and Life Member of Lodge 21 F&AM. Surviving are a daughter, Marjorie, wife of Dr. Robert T.

WASHINGTON (U)—A Selective Service spokesman said today a change in the draft regulations is expected "fairly soon" which will have the effect of deferring most if not all fathers.

1. Delinquents. Defined as those who for some reasons failed to register or to comply with local board instructions to report for physical examinations.
2. Volunteers.
3. Nonvolunteers between 18½ and 26 with no children.
4. Men 26 and younger with children.
5. Men over 26.

President Picks Michigan Man

Appoint Grand Rapids Manufacturer as Aide in Commerce Post

WASHINGTON (U)—President Eisenhower has accepted a week earlier than expected the resignation of Lothair Teetor as assistant secretary of commerce and has named Frederick H. Mueller, 62, Grand Rapids, Mich., furniture manufacturer, as his successor.

Eisenhower also named Clifford Cook Furnas, chancellor of the University of Buffalo, to be assistant secretary of defense for research and development. He succeeds Donald A. Quarles, now secretary of the Air Force.

Mueller and Furnas will serve under recess appointments until the Senate acts on their confirmation after Congress convenes in January.

Mueller has long been active in the business, social and civic world, but is a relative newcomer to politics.

Prior to his appointment yesterday, on his 62nd birthday, his political experience had been limited to membership on the Michigan State Board of Agriculture. The board's only function is to govern Michigan State University, from which Mueller was graduated as a mechanical engineer in 1914.

Ruggedly handsome and an outdoorsman, Mueller for many years has been a leader in the furniture manufacturing business for which Grand Rapids is internationally famous.

He was one of the organizers of the National Assn. of Manufacturers and has served as its president.

Mueller said last night his son will become general manager of his furniture company and that he will start his new job in Washington Monday. His wife and daughter will move east later, he said.

A Prayer for Thanksgiving

O Thou Lord of the harvest by whose providence we have bread to eat and loved ones with whom to share it, we thank Thee for the good earth, for sun and rain and fertile fields; for man's ingenuity that has found the means to transport earth's bounty to our tables; for our nation and its traditions of generosity, we give Thee thanks. And may our gratitude be such that we shall find our deepest joys in things of the spirit and in love that shares Thy goodness with all our brothers, through Jesus Christ, the bread of life. Amen.

Cobo, Bentley Want Draft Call

Potential Governors to Run for Republicans 'If People Want It'

DETROIT (U)—Mayor Albert E. Cobo of Detroit and Congressman Alvin M. Bentley of Owosso say they do not want the Republican nomination for governor.

However, both men said after a private parley yesterday in Detroit, one or the other would accept the nomination if enough voters indicate they want them to run.

Cobo and Bentley are the two men mentioned most often as Republican candidates for governor in the 1956 election.

Cobo, asked by a group of GOP state legislators to try for the nomination, promised a decision by Jan. 1. His announcement yesterday was the first indication that he would accept the bid.

"I don't want to be governor just for the title," he said. "But if I really was the choice of the people, I believe I could accomplish a lot in the state."

Bentley said he prefers to remain in Washington as a congressman and would not be a candidate for governor if Cobo decides to run. But, he added, he would accept the nomination if he is convinced he is the man the people want.

Both men said the Republican candidate should be able to defeat Gov. G. Mennen Williams or any other man chosen by the Democrats.

The GOP candidate, Bentley said, will be able to base his attack on a number of issues, including the administration's lack of a sound, long-range solution to such problems as mental health, a highway program and taxation.

Bentley and Cobo both called on Republicans to conduct a harmonious primary election without "low-grade tactics" to disrupt party harmony.

Other Officials Also Forget Cares

Ike Set for Happy Holiday

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES
GETTYSBURG, Pa. (U)—The storms and cares of office take a little recess today in that big white country place on the rim of Gettysburg battlefield.

President Eisenhower has some work to do. But at the same time his three lively grandchildren are coming with their parents, Maj. and Mrs. John S. Eisenhower.

And it's Thanksgiving Eve, with a family holiday in prospect.

And like many a plain John Q. Citizen, Washington big-wigs are planning a "home-for-Thanksgiving" holiday.

Secretary of State and Mrs. John Foster Dulles will retire to the solitude of their Duck Island retreat in Lake Ontario.

If the usual pattern is followed, Mrs. Dulles will cook the Thanksgiving feast and the secretary will wash the dishes.

In a departure from custom, one of the most harried members of President Eisenhower's Cabinet—Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson—is taking the entire family to New York City for the holiday.

Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks flies to Boston for a festive get-together with his children and grandchildren and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson will be off for his home base in Bloomfield Hills.

Thanksgiving has a special significance for the nation's capital for, as the National Geographic Society pointed out, it must still be proclaimed by the President every year.

As Ogden Nash puts it: "Thanksgiving, like ambassadors, Cabinet officers and others... depends for its existence upon presidential appointment."

From President Grant's time the holiday had been observed on the fourth Thursday in November until the late Franklin D. Roosevelt upset tradition with three successive years of third-Thursday Thanksgivings.

But in the late 1941, Congress kicked over the traces and pegged the date once again on the fourth Thursday. In the past 14 years, no President has sought to meddle with tradition.

MINEOLA, N.Y. (U)—Mrs. Ann Woodward is expected to go before a special session of the Nassau County grand jury Friday to tell how she killed her millionaire sportsman husband with a shotgun blast.

Her lawyer, Murray Gurfein of New York City, says the 39-year-old widow will exercise her right to testify before the grand jury about the killing of her husband, William Woodward Jr.

The Duchess of Windsor may be a witness before the jury.

Mrs. Woodward has told authorities that she shot into a dark hallway of her home at a noise she thought was caused by a prowler. Her 35-year-old husband, who was at the door of his bedroom across the hall, was hit in the head and died almost instantly.

To appear before the grand jury, Mrs. Woodward must waive immunity—meaning that anything she says could be used against her in any possible prosecution.

The state is not calling Mrs. Woodward as a witness, which would be an unusual procedure.

County authorities, who have questioned the widow in detail, have not challenged her story that the shooting was a tragic accident.

Officials Await State Go-Ahead on $600,000 Plan

Expect to Put Bonds on Market by Feb. 1 if Okay Is Given

The City Commission last night unanimously adopted a 19-page ordinance authorizing a revenue bond issue to finance a $600,000 municipal parking program.

The acceptance of the final reading by the lawmakers now sends the issue to the State Municipal Finance Commission for study and possible approval. It is expected to be in the commission's hands for 30 days.

City Manager Walter K. Willman said he expects the bonds, to be marketed by Feb. 1, provided the commission approves.

The six hundred $1,000 bonds will have an interest rate not to exceed four per cent with interest being paid semi-annually the first day of January and July of each year.

The municipal program, which will provide 624 added 5-cent-an-hour parking spaces at four downtown locations, will actually cost $633,447.

The city treasury will provide for $33,447 of the expansion cost of the program.

The fourth lot in the program will be handled under a separate financial deal. Located off Auburn east of Saginaw, it will be leased for the present from the State Highway Dept.

It will furnish spaces for 67 autos when opened and part of it will be used to straighten the Orchard Lake-Auburn jog at Saginaw in the future. The city plans to purchase what is left.

Major lot in the program will be a three-section facility providing for 328 automobiles. The lot will be located in the Lafayette-Wayne-Pine-Jacobs section.

Another will be on West Lawrence west of Cass. It will run through to West Pike and accommodate 148 vehicles.

The last will serve 81 cars and will be located on West Lawrence at the foot of Wayne.

The city now provides 332 spaces in two municipal lots downtown.

Things Are Getting Better

Take-Home-Pay on Rise With Static Living Costs

WASHINGTON (U)—The government reported today that living costs were unchanged between September and October while take home pay of factory workers rose to a new record level.

October take home pay was estimated at $72.18 for the average factory workers with three dependents and at $64.85 for the single worker, both up more than $5 from a year ago. Take home pay represents earnings less taxes.

In living costs, food prices were lower but this drop was offset by higher transportation and housing costs to leave the government index unchanged.

The figures were announced by the Labor Department's Bureau of Statistics.

Its living cost index for October was 114.9 per cent of the 1947-49 average, meaning that what cost a dollar in that period now costs nearly 15 cents more.

The October index, matching that of September, is three tenths of one per cent higher than a year ago. It is four tenths of one per

Study Club Hears Talk on Teenagers

When members of Child Study Club Group III met at the home of Mrs. John Q. Waddell on Cherokee road Tuesday afternoon, they heard Dr. L. Jerome Fink discuss "some answers to our problems of the pre-adolescent and the adolescent child."

The speaker told how the adolescent child is leaving childhood and gaining independence by making his own decisions.

He stated that the top requirements for adolescent well-being are his feeling of security and liking his own self. He must feel worthy of being loved and feel wanted, and he must obtain recognition for what he achieves. He must know his feelings are human and natural and can be understood.

As adults, Dr. Fink stated, we should not be afraid to disagree with teenagers on some things but we should discuss these disagreements together.

A teenager needs love and understanding at this time when he seeks independence, and very often he will appear jealous. Instead he may be very sensitive about his whole being. He may be trying to be an adult but may not be able to recognize it.

In closing, the speaker charged his listeners to weigh their feelings of right and wrong when dealing with their children's problems. To be honest with the child regarding these problems and to make their demands according to his age ability.

By recalling our own adolescent problems we will have an insight into our adolescent child's problems, the speaker remarked.

Guests at the meeting included Mrs. Edward Barrett, Mrs. B. Jack Habel, Mrs. Robert Tedcastle and Mrs. James R. Jenkins.

Mrs. Russell Anderson, Mrs. D. Charles Jenter, Mrs. Max H. Doery and Mrs. Oliver Filer assisted the hostess.

Tea was served from a table centered with a fall arrangement of fruits. Mrs. L. Jerome Fink presided at the silver service.

IF mousy coloring—

Bright wools under dark coats are distinctive and so much more flattering than all-black costume which washes you out.

Before the holidays but also after to bridge the gap until spring, cheerfully bright colors look smart under winter coats. They are also light and gay enough to wear at resorts. Subtle colors for your in-between type.

Wear medium heels for long periods of shopping. Avoid spike heels, which are fine for dress wear, but are not designed for your shopping marathon.

She Can Manage Grouchy Boss

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Harriet is a very successful private secretary to a very difficult man. He had seven or eight before her. Each of them lasted about three months.

When Harriet took the job on, it was generally agreed that she, too, would be fired or would resign before very long. Harriet had other ideas.

"I knew he was difficult," she told me, "but he is a leader in his field, quite gifted, and a good man to learn the business from."

"I knew the office was said to be a hotbed of gossip and politics but it's a firm I wanted to work for because the field interests me."

"Also, the pay is good and the opportunity was there, provided I could learn to keep out of the gossip and politics. Well, I learned."

HER FORMULA

Naturally, I asked for her formula. Here it is. If you are having trouble with difficult people in business, it may be of help.

1. Be very quiet and reserved when you first join the firm. Keep your eyes open and your mouth shut.

It's better to have an initial reputation for being "snooty" than to say something that will be distorted and repeated, which will get you in trouble.

2. Lunch by yourself for the first few weeks. Pretend you have shopping to do. If you have lunch with anyone, it may be one clique and the other will be gunning for you.

3. Learn the job, the specific duties, flawlessly. You will then be sure of yourself and your conscience will not bother you.

It is usually a guilty conscience that makes us jumpy and touchy, so that one criticism from the boss makes us blow our tops.

4. If the boss blows up unreasonably, stay calm and get out fast. Let him cool off; otherwise he will say things he will be sorry for and this may make him mad at you.

FIRM, REASONABLE.

Later, if he wants to discuss it, he'll be under control. Answer firmly and reasonably and (if you're doing a good job and know it) let him know that you appreciate the stress he is under and are doing your best.

Tell him you can't work in such an atmosphere and will greatly appreciate his consideration.

In other words, if you want to keep the job, you have to protect him from his own bad temper which has lost him so many secretaries in the past.

To "just put up with it" is bad because you will eventually collapse and leave.

5. Most important of all, according to Harriet—and I agree—is to keep so busy at the work itself that you have no time to think of the personal relationships. Then they'll fall in line. (Copyright 1955)

Hubby Balks at Taking Wife's Arm

She Feels in Need of Support When Wearing Heels

By EMILY POST

"My husband refuses to take my arm when walking to church on Sunday, which I think he should do. The sidewalks in our neighborhood are uneven and when I wear high heels, which I do only on Sunday, I feel unsteady on my feet."

"He says it is improper for him to take my arm and that the only time a man takes a woman's arm is when crossing the street. Will you please tell me if he is right about this?"

Answer: Your husband is right. Correctly you take his arm.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I had some photographs taken of myself recently. They turned out very well and I thought that perhaps I would have copies made to give to my friends for Christmas."

"Before doing so, however, I would like to know what you think about this. Might this be considered very conceited on my part?"

Answer: If you send them only to intimate friends who you know will be glad to have them, it is quite correct.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I'm giving a big family dinner, the occasion being my parents' wedding anniversary. While all the arrangements are to be carried out very simply, I find that I have to use placecards to seat so many people."

"Do you think such placecards should be written Mr. Smith and Mrs. Blank or, in this case, may they be written informally?"

Answer: You write the cards by what you call them—"Aunt Mary," "Uncle John," "Jane," etc.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When a bridesmaid receives a gift from the bride and thanks her personally, is it necessary for her to send a written thank-you note, too?"

Answer: Certainly not, if you had an opportunity to say "thank you" sincerely.

There are fascinating collections of leather belts. Many small personalized leather items can be found, too, including jewel boxes, pill boxes, photograph frames, perfume flasks, coasters, place mats, and even buttons.

A real "double entendre" blouse can be worn tucked in or out. Amazing chameleon tendency is produced by the overblouse style with a decorative hipband which is bulky enough to tuck in if you like. Blouses have a Johnny neckline collar, placket front, large pocket and the extra touch of standaway cuffs and pearl buttons. The tartan plaid blouses come in misses' and girls' sizes.

Pockets Lift Drab Dresses

NEW YORK (INS)—You can make children's back-to-school clothes more useful—and more stylish—by sewing on patch pockets. A plain old last-year's dress can be dolled up by adding a pocket—perhaps a plaid pocket to a plain dress or vice versa.

And the young person of the house is much less likely to lose mittens or lunch money with roomy pockets available for storage.

The only thing you need remembering when stitching them on is to leave one side open, since they should be practical as well as pretty.

Wardrobe Must:—Dash of Color

Color is a wonderful weapon. Why every young thing is perishing to get into her first black dress is a question understandable only to sociologists.

Wearing a black dress is a symbol of being grown up, true, but black is not that important in the infinite scheme of clothing. The "Little Black Dress" gets a play every fall because it's a practical, handsome way to dress.

But this dress isn't the only dress in the wardrobe or all of the dresses there. It's a dress for several specific purposes, not for everything.

There are days when black can drain every ounce of remaining color from a woman's face. She knows pretty much, when she looks in the mirror in the morning, that this is not the day for a black dress, little or big. If she has a consoling color in her wardrobe, she immediately puts it on.

Otherwise, everyone she meets that day is moved to ask, "What's the trouble," when all it was a bad night's sleep or a disagreeable dinner.

Dinner, School Highlight Meeting

Forty-four members attended a cooperative dinner and school of instruction held by Areme Chapter, Order of Eastern Star at Roosevelt Temple Monday evening.

Mrs. Paul Hagle, worthy grand matron, conducted the school for the chapter, and was presented an honorary membership in Areme chapter.

SKIN CARE

No doubt through the years you have considered or tried many programs of care for the skin. All the ideas presented are a little different and most have good points. We believe that in this busy age, the simplest treatment is the best. Let us dispel some of the mysteries surrounding the skin. The skin is not an organ of assimilation, as many think. It cannot accept nourishment from the outside. On the contrary, it is an organ of elimination only. It also serves as a protective covering for the body. If the skin absorbed, or assimilated, everything that was rubbed on it, it would no longer be a protective covering. Many foreign substances would enter the tissue. This would be a serious impairment to our health.

So ladies, let us always remember that all any beauty product can do is to cleanse and lubricate. Any product that will do either of these two things is satisfactory as long as it doesn't irritate. The only objection to some cosmetics is that they contain wax, you will readily agree that although it is not harmful, neither will it do much good. Choose cosmetics of a soft creamy texture, these are less apt to contain wax. Next week we will discuss cleansing and massage.

Letter Writer Threatens MSU's Coach

EAST LANSING (U)—Michigan when we only led by 6 points at State Football Coach Duffy Daugherty received a threatening letter prior to last Saturday's Marquette game warning him against beating the Warriors by more than 6 points, it was revealed today.

Daugherty and his home were guarded by plain clothes officers last week.

The letter told Daugherty if he did not follow instructions "something terrible would happen."

"I didn't take it too seriously, figuring it was a crank letter," Daugherty said. "I turned it over to campus police and they insisted on the police guard, arranged with cooperation of state police."

"I didn't want to say anything about it before the game," he said, "figuring it might worry the players. But that was one reason I wanted a few more touchdowns."

Diver Will Search Lake for Golfers

DETROIT (U)—Two sport groups have hired a professional diver to search for the bodies of four duck hunters missing since Nov. 16 and feared drowned in Gratiot Lake in Upper Michigan's Keweenaw Peninsula.

The missing hunters were professional golfers. Their overturned boat was found on the lake.

Michigan United Conservation Clubs and the Grand Rapids Golfers Assn. hired diver Rollin Fountain, 35, of Grand Rapids, to look for the bodies of Daniel Nowak and Edward Van Popering, both 50 and of Grand Rapids, Ted Lamanaki, 36, of Spring Lake and Leonard Gillette, 50, of Homewood, Ill.

Gony Takes Velarde

HONOLULU (U)—Baby Gony of Manila won a close 10-round decision over Gil Velarde of Los Angeles last night after taking an early lead and matching Velarde the rest of the way. Each weighed 128½.

to campus police on the Wednesday before the game and the police provided Lt. Detective Charles Becker of the campus police said he sent photostats of the letter to police at Newark, postal authorities and the FBI.

Daugherty said he understood that similar letters were received by Football Coaches Jim Tatum of the University of Maryland, Art Lewis of the University of West Virginia and William Murray of Duke University.

Sugar Ray Doesn't Favor Sprained Ankle Which Postponed Olson Bout

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.W. (U)—The first thing all visitors to Ray Robinson's camp ask is: "How's the ankle?" The stock answer is, "I don't favor it a bit."

The medical report is a "must" for it was a sprained right ankle that forced postponement of Robinson's bid to win back his middleweight title from Bobo Olson from Nov. 4 to Dec. 9.

You don't have to take Robinson's word for it. Dr. Vincent Nardiello, his personal physician, was on hand to examine the 35-year-old former welter and middle champ.

STRAIGHT ARM—We asked several topflighters what one thing they felt more than any other thing their swing was in the pay-off groove. Without exception they agreed it was a straight right arm at the top of the backswing. An extended right arm is what they termed it, as the sketch shows.

You can see how important the straight, extended arm is. Only with it does the ball swing close to the body—with the body in perfect balance. Deviate ever so little from the straight backswing line, and you're sure to deviate your footwork as well.

You develop the straight arm by pushing the ball away at the start—by extending the arms fully to put the ball into smooth, timed swing, coordinated with footwork. Only when you angle cross-alley to the right, shooting right-side spares like the Nos. 3, 6, 9, or 10 pins, do some stars reduce their backswing a little.

We don't recommend cutting down the backswing for right-side spares, preferring the full arm extension, but it may be exactly what you need. Try it in practice to decide which type of swing is best for you.

Duffy Goes on 'Eating Circuit'

Has Logg Schedule of Banquets Before Going West

EAST LANSING (U)—Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty will have a busy time eating his way around the banquet circuit before he takes his Spartan football team to the Rose Bowl.

Here are the events he has lined up:

Nov. 23, Conemaugh, Pa., High School banquet; Nov. 25-26, trip to Philadelphia for the Army-Navy game; Nov. 28, Fremont, Ohio, High School banquet; Nov. 29, Wheaton, Ill., High School banquet; Nov. 30, Detroit Alumni Football Bust; Dec. 1, Grand Rapids Alumni Football Bust; Dec. 2 and 3, Look Magazine All-America trip to New York; Dec. 5, Marinette, Wis., High School banquet; Dec. 6-8, Big Ten meeting at Chicago; Dec. 9, Toledo, Ohio, High School banquet; Dec. 10, Warren, Ohio, High School banquet.

Pontiac, Utica Cagers on Western's Quintet

Western Michigan College's 1955-56 basketball team will have two representatives from Oakland County when the Broncos open their season Dec. 1 against Detroit Tech.

Forward Alan Berkeley of Pontiac is one of only three returning regulars for head coach Joe Hoy. Gordon Rogers of Utica, 2nd area hopeful, is considered a promising sophomore cager for the Broncos.

Daugherty Says Spartan Drills Open to Press

Writers, Radio and TV Will Be Free to Watch All MSU Workouts

EAST LANSING (U)—Michigan State's football workouts prior to the Rose Bowl game will be open to all members of the working press, Coach Duffy Daugherty announced today.

Some Big Ten teams have restricted admittance to practices on the coast.

All legitimate members of the working press and radio and television corps will be admitted to all workouts, Daugherty said.

He added that some time during the stay on the West Coast he planned to stage a wide-open practice to which the general public would be invited.

"A press day" will be staged at Los Angeles Junior College Stadium on the afternoon of Dec. 16, after the 44-man travelling squad arrives, Daugherty said. The squad will wear game uniforms and be available for pictures.

"If I didn't feel I could trust the newspapermen, it would be a poor reflection on both our professions," Daugherty said.

Daugherty said he planned about three days of practice on the MSU campus and 13 on the coast. One home practice is scheduled for Dec. 13 and the others will be worked in as weather permits.

Ohio State's Woody Hayes, last Big Ten coach to direct a team in the Rose Bowl, had several closed practice sessions while on the coast.
