

Pontiac Police Have Their Own 'Most Wanted' List

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The Pontiac Press, in cooperation with Pontiac area law enforcement agencies, periodically will publish lists of the most wanted persons. This is the first.)

By MEL NEWMAN
The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) issues nationwide a list of the 10 persons "most wanted" by that agency. The Pontiac Police Department has a list of its own — of persons sought in connection with crimes committed locally.

Offenses involved range from passing bad checks to statutory rape, some of the warrants issued dating back 10 or more years.
Five suspects head Pontiac's most wanted list:
ENRIQUE GAYTAN
Sought in connection with the alleged statutory rape of a 12-year-old girl, Gay-

tan, 37, is named in a warrant issued in 1965. His last known address is 228 W. Beverly.
Gaytan is described as 5 feet 4, 165 pounds, black hair, black eyes and light complexion. Identifying marks include a mole on the left side of his nose. He has been known to wear a mustache, police said.
COLIS ANDERSON
Sought in connection with a felonious assault in July 1966, Anderson, 21, allegedly attacked a Pontiac man with a cue stick and a pistol. His last known address is 188 Crestwood. No physical description is available.

Baker, about 42, is named on a 1966 warrant for fraud and embezzlement.
He allegedly came into illegal possession of U.S. currency and checks totaling $1,170 belonging to a Pontiac man.
Baker, whose last known address is 52 Jackson, was known to drive a 1964 four-door light blue Pontiac. No physical description is available.

DONALD GIDDINGS
Named in a 1955 John Doe warrant for rape, Giddings, whose last known address is a Detroit hotel, is sought in connection with the alleged sexual assault of a Pontiac woman in August of that year.
His age is not known and no physical description is available.

RICHARD BENNETT
Bennett, about 39, is named in a 1961 warrant for auto theft.
He allegedly was in possession of a 1967 car owned by a Pontiac man which he failed to return in July of that year and was charged with converting it to his own use.
Bennett, whose address was not known, is described as of medium build, about 175 pounds, with brown hair and brown eyes.

Expect Fight, O'Brian's Friend Warns Police

Police searching for Donald V. O'Brian of Pontiac, wanted for questioning in the rape-murder of a Grand Ledge girl, have been warned that the 40-year-old escapee from Ionia State Hospital won't give himself up without a fight.
Grand Ledge Police Chief William Eveleth said Donald Ringler, who escaped with O'Brian and two others March 28, told him yesterday O'Brian would not surrender peacefully.
Ringler, 32, linked O'Brian to the slaying of 10-year-old Rona Cypher when he was questioned after surrendering himself to Sargis police earlier in the day.
Her body was found in the Grand River near her grandparents' home. Police said she had been strangled and assaulted while running an errand Saturday for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Cypher.

Sources at both the Pontiac Police Department and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department said they are investigating the possibility that O'Brian may be headed for the Pontiac area.

SEARCH AREA

Reports that O'Brian was in Grand Ledge Wednesday led to a search of abandoned buildings and wooded areas there, but police said they found nothing.

Pontiac police said several reports that O'Brian or a man answering the description here proved invalid.

O'Brian, Ringler and two patients committed from Detroit saved their way out of the hospital while other inmates were watching a movie.

RAPIST

O'Brian, committed from Pontiac in 1953, was charged with the rape and murder of a 55-year-old city woman in July of that year and at least five other assaults on women.

He is described by hospital officials as a criminal sexual psychopath.

GOV. GEORGE ROMNEY

Governor's Viet Talk Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's Gov. Romney confronts tonight the biggest issue yet facing his unannounced bid for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination — the war in Vietnam.
All signs point to a general endorsement of President Johnson's war policies — as an unpleasant but necessary task — spiced with criticism of the way the administration has sought peace and internal stability in South Vietnam.

Romney is to discuss Vietnam at a dinner in Hartford, Conn., marking the 150th anniversary of the Hartford Times.

The governor already has said he will offer no specific alternatives, discuss no tactics. Romney said he will outline his basic view, and that is all.

Nor will he discuss that view, before or after he outlines it. "I don't intend to let a lot of reporters divert attention from what I have to say," Romney said Wednesday.

What Romney has to say is crucial to his embryo campaign for White House nomination in 1968 simply because, since emerging as a potential candidate, he has refused to take a position.

While he has harshly criticized Johnson at times, Romney's standard answer to questions about Vietnam has been that he had the subject under thorough examination.
Romney announced three weeks ago

he was ready to talk in Hartford tonight.

That announcement — said to have startled some of his own assistants — cast political attention on his speech.

CONSULTATION

The governor plans a trip to Vietnam this year. He has consulted diplomats, politicians, Senate speeches and liberal-minded Republican senators in his quest for information.

GOP Fiscal Reform Bills Are Readied for Debate

LANSING (AP) — Surprisingly little debate was heard as House Republicans amended their tax reform bills yesterday and moved them into position for final passage.

There was scarcely a murmur from Democrats.

But something more than a murmur is expected next Wednesday if debate begins on schedule on the $314-million tax package which includes a 2 1/2 percent personal income tax.

Yesterday's action was only technical, and Democratic leaders had agreed in the morning not to interfere.

The process involved amending bills already reported from the House Taxation Committee to incorporate new ideas approved by the Republican caucus after the committee sent the measures to the floor.

LIVE BROADCAST

Michigan State University radio station WKAR broadcast the proceedings live — a rarity in the Legislature — but all listeners heard were voice votes on amendments offered with little or no explanation, almost no debate and usually no dissent.

Republican Floor Leader William Hampton, R-Bloomfield Hills, planned to move today to schedule the opening of debate on tax reform for Wednesday. He said he hoped for a final vote next Thursday or Friday.

KIDNAPING STORY — Kenneth Young, 11, joins his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Young, in looking over newspapers at their Beverly Hills, Calif., home last night, telling how he was kidnapped from his home Monday. He was released unharmed yesterday after his father paid $250,000 ransom.

Salute to Youth Honors 215

Teen-age talent — and the youthful vigor which makes the best of it — came on strong last night at Pontiac Northern High School.

There, 215 young people were honored at the third annual Salute to Youth.

Sponsored by the Pontiac Citizens' Committee on Youth, the program was attended by about 800 persons.

The program, honoring 14- to 18-year-old students at public and parochial schools in the Pontiac School District, is thought to be unique because of the specialization of award categories.

"Our 215 honorees this evening are receiving recognition not only for talent and distinct achievement, for talent alone is worthless if misdirected," Pontiac Mayor Pro Tem Leslie H. Hudson noted.

'OUTSTANDING CITIZENS'

"All of our youth honorees have also exemplified themselves as outstanding citizens not only for the present, but also for their past record and example," the speaker said.

"They have accepted their freedom to create, to be different, to dissent and to lead with a true sense of responsibility."

Presentations were made by 10 educators and professional persons who have distinguished themselves in the fields represented.

Outstanding accomplishment was recognized in business, speech, art and handicrafts, science, creative writing, traffic safety, music, scholarship, athletics and leadership.

Mistress of ceremonies was Mrs. David Saks, chairman of the Salute to Youth. Featured in the entertainment portions of the program were the Northern Madrigal Singers.

WRITERS MEET — Novelist John Quirk of West Bloomfield Township presents Salute to Youth awards to three Pontiac teen-agers who last night were honored for their creative writing achievement. Among 215 young people who received awards in 10 categories were Martin Rastall, St. Michael High School sophomore; Cecylia Brown (second from right), Pontiac Central High School junior; and Leslie Hotchkiss, a ninth grader at Madison Junior High School.

Freezing Weather Is the Prediction for Area Tonight

Just when Pontiac area residents are getting enthusiastic about shedding winter togas, the weatherman turns off the heat and everyone shivers in light topcoats.

If anyone has planted geraniums or tomato plants this early he should cover them tonight. The prediction is clearing and cooler with freezing temperatures.

The temperature dropped to 35 at 7 a.m. today.

According to the official U.S. Weather Bureau report, the outlook for the Pontiac area through Sunday looks like this:

TODAY — Cloudy and cooler with partial clearing this afternoon. High today ranging from 40 to 48. West to northwest winds at 8 to 16 miles per hour.

TONIGHT — Clearing and cooler with freezing temperatures, the low 26 to 30.

TOMORROW — Sunny and warmer.

Big Names Varying

AUGUSTA, Ga. — The big names of golf were going in different directions in the second round of the Masters Golf championship today at the Augusta National Golf Club.

Former PGA champion Bobby Nichols went on a birdie spree, Jack Nicklaus faltered with a string of four straight bogeys and veteran Julius Boros continued his steady pace of consistent golf this morning.

First-round leader Bert Yancey, who had a five-under-par 67 yesterday, continued his surge today as he birdied two of the first three holes and was seven under par after 21 holes.

Nichols, who fired an even par-72 yesterday, added a 69 for a 36-hole 141 total.

Nicklaus, meanwhile, was fading out of contention. He was even par-72 to start the day but took bogeys on Nos. 1-3-4. Boros, one-under-71 yesterday, was still one under after the first seven holes following a birdie on No. 2 and a bogey on No. 4.

U.S. Judge Dismisses Powell's Ouster Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. dismissed today Adam Clayton Powell's suit for his seat in Congress.

Hart also denied Powell's application for a three-judge court to hear the constitutional challenge of the resolution that excluded him. He said the federal court does not have jurisdiction in the case.

Herbert Reid, one of Powell's attorneys, said that the issue will be taken as quickly as possible to the U.S. Court of Appeals. Reid said he would file the appeal probably sometime today.

Waterford OKs Its Tentative School Budget

A tentative 1967-68 school budget was approved last night by the Waterford Township Board of Education for submission to the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board which will specify a millage rate for the district.

Expenditures next year are estimated at $9,937,235, a $636,334 boost over the current budget.

Largest anticipated increase is $496,205 for instruction.

Other estimated hikes are $71,332 for operation; $29,967 for administration; $16,858 for maintenance; $14,680 for fixed charges; $4,043 for transportation; and $3,349 for community services.

Of the total estimated expenditure, $7,723,513 is earmarked for instruction, which includes staff increments and staff additions.

REVENUE

The estimated revenue of $9,201,211, however, is $736,024 less than expenditures.

The final budget to be adopted this summer will hinge on amount of state aid forthcoming, the school district's 1967 total equalized valuation and the millage rate granted by the County Tax Allocation Board.

Tentative plans call for an operating tax increase from 22.61 to 23.60 mills. In addition, 10.33 mills are levied for bond indebtedness.

Based on a projected state equalized valuation of $143,000,000 and a 90 per cent tax collection rate, the district would draw $3,037,330 in local revenue.

OTHER INCOME

Other revenue sources are estimated at $67,574.

Consumers Exec to Head UF Division

Wallace B. Schroth, assistant division manager of Consumers Power Co., will head Manufacturing Division efforts of the 1967 Pontiac Area United Fund drive in October.

His appointment was announced today by Frank J. Poole, president of the F. J. Poole Co. and general chairman of the annual United Fund drive for 55 health, family, youth and research agencies.

Schroth of 425 Donagel, Avon Township, will begin immediately to fill campaign posts within the division, which includes some 70 manufacturing firms in the area, which last year raised $28,069.

"The building and maintenance of a better community must, to be effective, come from within the community itself," Schroth said in accepting the appointment.

"It is a tribute to our nation that men and women from all segments of our society lend themselves to constructive humanitarian achievements. It is a further tribute to our community that we establish the second United Fund to be conceived in our nation and has resulted in over 2,000 local United Funds being organized throughout the country."

Schroth, who served as vice chairman of the UF Manufacturing Division last year, is active in the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, Pontiac Jaycees, Pontiac Citizens Finance Study Committee and Rotary Club of Pontiac.

He is a graduate of the University of Illinois School of Engineering and received his Masters Degree in Business Administration from the University of Michigan.

Schroth was transferred to the Consumers Power Co. Pontiac office in January 1966 from the Saginaw Division of Consumers Power.

GEESSE GIFT — Riverside School pupils Billy O'Neill of 1433 Irwin and Terri Bailey of 1265 Edgemoor, both of Waterford Township, and John J. Shea, assistant director of the Drayton Plains Nature Center, observe a pair of Canadian geese purchased from funds raised by the Riverside student body. About $2,000 has been raised since a fund drive for the nature center was launched Feb. 15.

Nature Center Drive at $2,000 Baker Is Sentenced to 1-3 Years in Jail

By HUDSON WILLSE

Nearly two months have elapsed since a fund drive was launched for the Drayton Plains Nature Center. Yet only $2,000 has been raised, a fractional amount considering between $87,500 and $200,000 is needed.

Besides funds to acquire an 82½-acre site and for maintenance and operational expenses, equipment and volunteer workers are badly needed at the proposed out-of-doors educational facility.

Nonetheless, supporters of the nonprofit organization refuse to become discouraged as new memberships are on the upswing and several service clubs have shown more than a passing interest in the project.

Located off Hatchery Road at 2155 Denby in Waterford Township, the center consists of almost 140 acres. Funds to buy a 5½-acre tract were obtained through a loan from the Natural Science for Youth Foundation.

The remainder of the property — 82½ acres — is owned by the Michigan Department of Conservation which wants action by July 1. The price is $82,500.

The Kresge Foundation will donate $30,000 toward the purchase if sufficient local funds are acquired.

Volunteers are needed to help during visiting hours which are 4 to 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, 3:30 to 5 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Friday and 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday.

Among donations since the fund campaign began Feb. 15 was money from pupils of Riverside School in Waterford Township to buy a pair of Canadian geese.

Purchased near Goodrich by John J. Shea, the center's assistant director, the geese cost $35 each.

The school's PTA and a Cub Scout pack, consisting primarily of Riverside pupils, also have contributed.

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Bob by Baker, the longtime Senate aide whose political contacts helped him become a millionaire, was sentenced today to a prison term of one to three years.

He could become eligible for parole after serving as little as four months, attorneys said.

No fine was imposed. Baker could have been sentenced to as much as 48 years in prison and fined up to $47,000.

Baker was convicted on seven counts on charges of income tax evasion, theft and conspiracy.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Gasch sentenced him to one to three years on each count, with the sentences to run concurrently.

Baker's attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, promptly announced the conviction and sentence will be appealed.

Baker remained free on $5,000 bond pending disposition of his appeal.

Baker appeared before the court in a dark blue suit, a dark blue tie and a pale blue shirt.

Pontiac Airport Reports Flying Activity Soars

Pontiac Municipal Airport reported 17,230 takeoffs and landings last month, an increase of about 50 per cent over March 1966 activity.

This total includes 8,658 itinerant and 8,572 local craft and a record single-day tally of over 1,000 takeoffs and landings.

Airport Manager J. David VanderVeen said that last month's activity increase reflects the trend in recent years.

He attributed the general boom in aviation interest and the high level of the economy as the basis for the increase.

Takeoff and landing activity at the airport increased from 123,968 in 1965 to 172,672 last year, according to VanderVeen. This is a rise of 39 per cent.

QUARTERLY INCREASE

The increase in the January-March quarter this year over the same quarter of 1966 was 36.2 per cent on a total of 30,378 operations in the 1966 quarter and 38,347 the first three months of this year.

Oakland County purchased the airport from the City of Pontiac and took over the operation as of last Jan. 1. A name change to Oakland-Pontiac Airport is pending.

Gravlin Faces Tests at Ionla

A Troy man accused of killing his wife and six children will undergo further psychiatric tests at Ionla State Hospital to determine if he is capable of standing trial.

The reevaluation of William G. Gravlin is scheduled for May 4, according to his court-appointed attorney, Joseph Hardig of Birmingham.

Gravlin was committed in January 1965, after Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn ruled that Gravlin was unable to assist in his own defense.

Gravlin was charged with murder after his family was found slain in their home at 2121 Garvin in September 1964.

Hardig said that Gravlin has informed him that he wants to stand trial.

City Workers Pick Teamsters

BIRMINGHAM — The Teamsters Union will represent hourly paid employees of the city after yesterday's election conducted by the Michigan Labor Mediation Board.

The vote was 36-11 to establish the Teamsters Conference of Michigan as the employees bargaining agent.

George Rickey, city director of personnel, said certification of the election should come in about five days.

After that, the membership will meet and draw up proposals and present a tentative contract on working conditions to the city, said Rickey.

The choice of the Teamsters Union instead of the American Federation of Labor is an apparent current trend among civic employees, Rickey indicated.

SIMILAR MOVES

Many groups of civic employees in the state have recently allied themselves with one union or the other.

Recently in Troy hourly rated employees chose the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, as representatives. The same group was chosen by the Bloomfield Township police last month.

Rickey said employees in the union category, department of public works, recreation, and some water and police workers, receive salaries that range from $2.50 to $3.74 per hour.

This is among the top bracket in the state, Hickey said.

The series is "Fun With Math," taught by Robert DeVers of the Ulica School system.

Subjects offered on the consecutive Saturdays will be "Rubber Sheet Geometry," "Flexagons," "Games of Chance," and "Thinking Machines."

Powell Cleared to Run for Seat

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The way has been cleared for Adam Clayton Powell to run for his former Congressional seat from Harlem next Tuesday.

The Court of Appeals unanimously ruled Thursday that Powell was eligible to run for Congress from the 18th Congressional District. The state's highest court issued no opinion in upholding a decision by a State Supreme Court judge in Manhattan.

The Rev. Ervin F. Yearling, 35, Conservative party candidate in the special election, had filed suit contending that the House action ousting Powell also prevented his serving in the 90th Congress.

In addition to Powell and Yearling, Republican Lucille Pickett Williams is seeking the post. All three are Negroes.

Several See Berserk Man Kill 2 Officers

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A man who killed two policemen could have been stopped without bloodshed, Police Chief William Barnes says.

"If just one person had stepped in, my men would be alive today," Barnes said. He said a group of women witnesses told him several men stood by Thursday while a berserk man disarmed Sgt. William H. Fletcher and killed him with his service revolver.

"They just stood there," Barnes said. "And if my man had used his pistol to subdue the suspect he would have been charged by the press with police brutality."

Fletcher, 52, and motorcycle patrolman David Van Currier, 31, a father of five, were slain with their own service revolvers as they answered a complaint at a federal savings and loan association.

John C. Cooley, 32, was charged with first degree murder. He was captured in front of the Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan Association as he stood over the dead policemen, a gun in his hand.

Cooley was subdued by Thomas Gorman, 20, a Silver Star winner who picked up Van Currier's discarded gun and got the drop on Cooley. Van Currier's pistol had only one bullet in it but the other was empty.

Action Delayed on Multiples

Formal W. Bloomfield Ordinance Is Awaited

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A decision on a request to rezone the corner of Maple and Orchard Lake to multiple housing has been postponed by the Township Board until a formal ordinance is drafted.

The plan has already been recommended for approval by the Planning Commission and the Oakland County Coordinating, Zoning and Planning Committee.

One board trustee, Wayne Blood, has indicated he would vote against the rezoning because he likes the character of the township as it is and is not convinced that the multiples would contribute to the tax base.

He said it would all depend on the type of multiples proposed but that he feels it is a "questionable thing" at this time.

"I will vote against it," he said, "but it is not an irrevocable decision."

PLAN APPROVAL

Henry Moses, chairman of the planning commission, pointed out that multiples are no longer considered second-class dwellings and stressed that the planning commission has the power of site plan approval before anything can be developed.

Supervisor John Warren said that no community can develop with only a single type of development and that multiple dwellings would provide a greater share of the taxes than would single-family dwellings.

In other action, the board has set salaries in the new budget at a total package, including fringe benefits, of $309,542.

Warren said the figure contains raises for employees but said the amounts will not be made public until the budget is approved later this month.

Holly Twp. Area Developed as Possible Recreation Site

By ED BLUNDEN
HOLLY TOWNSHIP — A developer here has taken a piece of marshy land dotted with small lakes on the eastern edge of the township, built a dam and levee and covered the land into what he hopes will be a prime recreation area.

The land is just east of the Genesee County border between Grange Hall and Tinsman roads. The developer is Les Cortill of Flint.

He said he acquired all the property adjacent to the newly created lake, once part of six different farms. He calls the new lake Seven Lakes. Another lake, Dickinson Lake, is on the property, but at a higher elevation.

According to county drain officials, Cortill has thus far followed every legal step required to form a man-made lake, working with drain authorities and the State Conservation Department.

His next legal move will be a hearing in Oakland County Circuit Court May 9, at 9 a.m., to establish the normal elevation of the lake at 822 feet above sea level.

'REAL ASSET'

Cortill said his property will be "a real asset to the community and an addition to property values."

Cortill said his property now has a 180-acre lake on what was six small lakes and surrounding marsh and bogland.

He said the lakes were 28 to 45 feet deep. His dam added 11 1/2 feet of water over the area, he said. The land is covered with good trees, oak and hickory, he added.

Cortill was uncertain yesterday as to the future of the property. He said, depending on circumstances, he and his company, may develop or subdivide the land themselves.

WON'T BE PUBLIC

Also being considered is selling the whole development to a single buyer. He said he has considered selling it to a church or college for a camp.

He said in no case would the place be a "public" facility.

According to county drain officials, the water in the area does not drain into Oakland County, but north and east, toward the Shiawassee River basin.

IMPASSABLE ROAD

Cortill said he has had some problems with the city and users of Eddy Lake Road. He said the road is impassable at present.

This is mostly due to the heavy snow and rainfall this winter and happens every spring, according to both Cortill and county drain officials.

However, Cortill said he has the Delta Engineering Co. of Flint working on the problem and pumps are now in operation.

A drainage ditch of 2,300 feet will be built to handle the Eddy Lake Road problem in the future, Cortill said.

COULD BE CONTRIBUTION

Vic Smith, Fenton city manager, said the new facility "could be a great contribution to his city."

"We'll have to wait and see how it works out," he added. Smith pointed out the lake is 600 feet from the Fenton city limits.

The city has requested to be heard at the May 9 hearing.

"We're not sure we'll have objections, but we want to protect our interest," he said. Eddy Lake road was under two feet of water yesterday, he said.

"Cortill is willing to work with us. Perhaps the ditch he plans to build will solve the drain problem there permanently," Smith said.

W. Bloomfield Not Slated for Post Office

In answer to an inquiry from the Township Board, Donald L. Swanson, regional director of the Post Office Department, said it is not possible at this time to provide the service.

Several residents had asked about a post office for the township to obtain its own identity and because of the increasing population.

Swanson said it is not the policy of the Department to establish a new post office in unincorporated areas where service can be maintained in those areas from existing facilities.

Also, he said, units are not established in order to provide community identity.

Kite Flying Season Is Here

By JEAN SAILE

Noticed any shortage of old sheets around the house lately? Any shirts missing their tails?

Look up, mother! They're apt to be in orbit. And, given enough string, quite likely out of sight.

It's kite flying season again—and mothers jealously guard their old tie towels. That is, they guard them when they aren't gambling about the yard or climbing a ladder to the rooftop or standing stock still winding up 1,800 feet of kite string.

It's not that mothers actually like kite flying. It's the inescapable fact that few 5-year-olds can successfully launch and retrieve such missiles.

LITTLE CHOICE

And an unhappy 5-year-old can frequently be considered more bothersome than galloping up and down the street in a frantic attempt to lift a paper Superman. Even with the neighbors making sadistic comments.

Now fathers—they seem to enjoy the battle against the elements. Superiority washes their faces after a successful attempt.

"It's really quite simple," they offer.

They should have been around at 4 in the afternoon!

FAMILY DEBATES

Who needs a discussion on the relative merits of box kites as opposed to "bat wings" as opposed to the 7-cent variety at the dime store after it's dark outside?

Mother rubs her sore toe—injured earlier when she ran full tilt into the curb across the street—and reflects that, if the wind keeps absolutely still, the kite on the neighbor's roof won't blow down for the next week.

County Unit Delays Ruling on Two Incorporation Bids

The boundaries committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday delayed ruling on the legality of incorporation petitions filed in Farmington and Avon townships and recommending election dates.

Action on the Farmington Township incorporation move was deferred to allow time for County Corporation Counsel Robert P. Allen to investigate a lawsuit in Genesee County concerning incorporation.

This litigation, Allen said, could have some bearing on the Farmington Township petition which excludes the township's two villages and a small, pie-shaped area in the northeast section from the incorporation plan.

Allen anticipated that an evaluation of the Genesee suit would be completed within a few days.

The boundaries committee is slated to meet prior to the April 17 meeting of the board of supervisors to take the action that was deferred yesterday.

ACTION WITHHELD

Committee members withheld action on the move to incorporate all of Avon Township because Township Supervisor Cyril E. Miller requested that it be in two years," he added.

public hearing precede setting an election date.

Miller said that he would arrange a location and date for the public hearing which will be conducted by the boundaries committee.

The Committee could call a formal session immediately after the hearing to make its recommendations to the supervisors.

The attempt to incorporate Farmington Township into a third city is the second such effort within a year.

Petitions bearing 700 signatures were filed Jan. 12 by the Farmington Township Citizens Committee for Community Development, headed by Robert Pierce of 32306 Baintree.

Last June voters turned down the proposed incorporation of the entire township by a margin of about three to one.

William E. Brown, president of Wood Creek Village, told the boundaries committee yesterday that he was concerned about the split of the remaining township into two segments if the incorporation is successful.

He did not suggest, however, that Wood Creek should have been included.

FILED JAN. 19

Petitions for the incorporation of Avon Township containing 340 signatures were filed Jan. 19.

Proposed is incorporation of the entire township into the "City of Avon."

Dirty-Air Curb

FLINT — As part of its plans to reduce air pollution, Buick Motor Division has announced that it will install a dust collecting system in its foundry cupolas. Robert Breeden, general manufacturing manager, said work would begin immediately.

"There will be a significant improvement in air pollution within a few days," he added.

Information presented to the boundaries committee yesterday indicated that petitions for both cityhood proposals were valid.

Shelby Twp. Supervisor-Elect

Holmes Eager to Assume Post

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Supervisor-elect Kirby Holmes is set to prove his election last fall was no fluke.

Judging by last Saturday's annual meeting, the six Democrats on the Township Board are going to have to give way to some young Republican thinking.

"Nothing is going to get accomplished quickly because of the situation on the board," stated Holmes, 34, elected to the position of supervisor last fall, a post which he will assume Monday.

He feels however that while the board may have won the first round, he came out the solid victor in the second skirmish.

KIRBY HOLMES

Following the resignation of veteran Supervisor Lorin Evans two-and-a-half months ago, Holmes feels he was seriously slighted by the board by their failure to appoint him interim supervisor before his term of office legally began.

TIME LOST

"We could have been two-and-a-half months ahead," he said, "and by that, I mean the whole township—not just me."

Nevertheless Holmes marshaled his forces last Saturday to pack the annual meeting and get elected moderator over Evans.

Game to Raise Funds for School

The Avondale Junior High School Student Council, which last year carpentered the school library through its fund-raising activities, is sponsoring a double basketball game tomorrow night to raise more money for the school.

School administrators, teachers, parents and students are expected to take part in the game which starts at 8 p.m. in the school gym.

In a solidly Democratic township, Holmes, without a recognized party to back him, defeated Evans by better than 500 votes.

Since that time Republican forces have been marshalled and Holmes reported the party now has 35 members in Shelby.

He looks forward to his first board meeting April 18. Holmes has items he'd like to see accomplished, foremost among them being the construction of sidewalks near 10 district schools.

COST SHARED

"The school board has offered to share the cost," said Holmes, "and we must take advantage of that."

Interested in youth, both as a former teacher and as the father of two, Holmes next has his views on the beginning of an organized recreational program in the area.

Though the suggestion was made at the annual meeting that millage might have to be voted for such a program, Holmes feels the township can start small with monies from the general fund and perhaps in cooperation with the schools. He feels the township needs any extra millage it can get for improving and upgrading its police and fire departments.

MILLAGE PROPOSAL

"I will do everything in my power to get the millage proposed at the annual meeting approved," he avowed.

Holmes considers the township dump situation "deplorable."

"There are six operating dumps, including a township dump, that will have to start complying with the laws for land-fill operations," he promised.

He objects to their physical appearance and unsanitary conditions. "Garbage is exposed for days and rats abound," he said.

$13,000 SALARY

Holmes will make $13,000 a year as a supervisor, somewhat more than he did as a teacher. He resigned his teaching job April 1.

There's still a teacher in the family, however. Mrs. Holmes is employed at Sterling Junior High School.

Strike Idles 250 in Oxford Twp.

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — A strike at American Aggregates Co. here has idled some 250 employees for the past week.

Negotiations between Pontiac Teamsters Local 614 and the company have been discontinued awaiting intervention by Federal or State Mediation Boards.

The union says it wants to get rid of a "no strike" clause in the contract and that it wants an increase of about 25 cents an hour over the 54 cents allegedly offered by management. Some of the increases offered includes fringe benefits.

Blended Scotch Whisky. 50 Proof. Imported in original cases by MacMaster's Import Co., Allen Park, Mich.

You can tell it's an expensive Scotch, even in the dark.

By the taste not the price.

McMaster's Scotch tastes expensive, smooth and mellow. You can tell that without looking. Try the McMaster's Scotch taste test: Pour McMaster's fine Scotch and your expensive Scotch into separate glasses. Have a friend blindfold you, rearrange the glasses. Taste both. Aren't you glad you tried McMaster's?

All you have to pay is $4.98 for a $7.00 value; how do we do it? We bring McMaster's fine Scotch over from Scotland in barrels. And bottle it only after it arrives in this country. So we save on taxes, shipping and handling. We pass the savings on to you. The only expensive thing about our Scotch is the taste. 4.98 4/5 QT.

Scotland Yard Goes Modern, Gets PR Man

LONDON, (AP) — For the first time in its history, Scotland Yard, the heart of Britain's police, has acquired a top public relations man.

George D. Gregory, who for the last nine years has been promoting a soft drinks firm, bottlers of ginger ale, tonic water and the like, moved onto the scene just as Scotland Yard moved early in March from its turreted home on the banks of the Thames to a modern glass and steel building near Westminster Abbey.

He is a part of the Yard's move into modern times, along with the computerized police station use of radio, radar and scientific analysis, and modern communications.

For six months he intends to study, read, watch, meet people, and then strike out with an active program.

He wants to know the multiple jobs the Metropolitan Police do, the points of friction with the public, the best ways to recruit the best men, and the best ways to sell the bobbies to the people who pay the bill.

In time the job will involve perhaps advertising, close contact with the press, radio and television, and creation of an atmosphere to lift Scotland Yard out of insular thinking while still preserving the secrecy and security any police forces lives by.

As a naval officer for 22 years, a civilian in government departments, and then a public relations man, Gregory, 33, is outspoken, highly vocal and quite unafraid to take on anything new.

"I am still amazed in this short time to find out just how many jobs the police do," he said. "Only five per cent of the public ever have any contact with the police and they don't really know what he is doing."

POLICE SUPERVISION
"Take the Aldermaston marchers (antinuclear demonstrators) for instance. The Metropolitan Police stand by, steer them, keep them under control, and the result is an orderly procession with no trouble."

This image of the bobby—courteous, strong and, above all, available—is one that Gregory wants to promote.

He has already decided that the policeman on the beat is the heart of London's law enforcement—"he is seen, and that is what matters."

policeman helping kids across the street or otherwise being a pillar of aid around the place, he's still a bobby, which goes back to the founder—Sir Robert Peel. To those in the villages, he's "constable." Judges address him as "officer."

Camels are believed to have come into existence not in Africa but in North America—40 million years ago.

Let's Hear It for the Boys' Clubs

This is National Boys' Club Week, the theme of which is "Boys' Clubs Give Him a Place to Go."

Across the land, a million boys from 8 to 18 in 750 clubs are participating in activities commemorating the birth of the Boys' Club concept in Hartford, Conn., 107 years ago.

The motivating philosophy of the establishment is the development of physical, mental and moral qualities of boys in their formative years in preparation for the responsibilities of citizenship in their adulthood.

Along with the Auburn Heights and Waterford Township Boys' Clubs, Pontiac's programed a full week of events, many of them involving family participation, winding up tomorrow with the Annual Penny Carnival.

The local Boys' Club was organized in 1947, and in 1950 took possession of a new building on East Pike. Five years ago, a building and property on West Columbia was acquired and developed to provide outdoor activities for the present membership of 2,500.

With dues of but a nominal $1 a year, the club is a United Fund-supported agency. It has, however, been the recipient of substantial contributions from other sources as its facilities and needs have expanded.

We salute this splendid character-building organization on the superb job being done in building good citizens. Never has America needed them more.

Spring is the time of rising spirits as winter-beaten mortals look forward to many months of outdoor recreation, travel, gardening and other summer benefits.

It is also, regrettably, the time of sharpshins, like burgeoning plant life, make seasonal appearance.

The slickers offer many meretricious wares. Home improvement, repair and landscaping projects offer fertile fields for victimization of the unwary. So do solicitations for all manner of charities and causes.

Needless to say, within these categories there is much that is legitimate, with satisfaction in store for those in the market for the products or services offered.

However, to protect the citizenry against fringe operators who prey on the credulous, the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce renders a valuable reference service.

Since reputable suppliers of goods or services invariably establish themselves with the Chamber in advance of solicitation campaigns, potential customers are urged to check with that source on unknown solicitations before signing agreements or parting with money.

An ounce of prevention, a simple phone call, is worth a pound of cure of the headache arising from trust imposed in a con artist.

The answer is a weak No to both questions. The legal limits on campaign expenses are bypassed by devices such as independent state committees, immune to the law, which give financial support to candidates.

Another loophole in the law is provided by exemption of certain expenses. These include personal travel, meals, postage, printing, telephone and telegraph bills.

In the interest of brightening the somewhat tarnished image of congressmen in the area of personal finance, it is time that a realistic approach be taken toward establishment of an equitable limitation on campaign expenditures.

And, it might be added, such a limitation is a paramount need if the makeup of our legislative bodies is not to be determined mainly by the financial resources of candidates rather than their qualifications for office.

The case cited is not unique. The established campaign expense limits are generally disregarded by those aspiring to seats on Capitol Hill.

Aren't they, then, in violation of the law, and shouldn't they be called to account?

In the White House 'tween Johnson, Johnson's staying at home was even more noticeable.

But Johnson has had the Vietnam war to handle, worry about and keep him busy. No doubt his official receptions would have been cordial — but perhaps not hearty, because of some dissatisfaction in Europe over the U.S. role in Vietnam.

Just because there is dissatisfaction, there was no assurance that any Johnson trip through the streets of Europe would not be hectic, molested, or even violent.

And if Johnson were mistreated, or worse, this country's European relationship might be wrecked. So, as time passed, Johnson had a lot to think about before going abroad. Humphrey went.

He left March 26, visited one capital after another, had a more or less pleasant journey, argued with the British Parliament in private about Vietnam, handled himself well and got a few jeers.

He ran into some long-

WASHINGTON — It was like holding a wet finger up in the air to see which way the wind was blowing when President Johnson sent Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey on a goodwill mission to Europe.

For what almost happened to Humphrey might have turned out far worse than the roughing up Vice President Richard M. Nixon got on his Latin-American tour in 1958.

Johnson himself has not visited Europe as President. This caused some wondering about his concern for relations with the allies, a relationship which has deteriorated a bit.

Since President John F. Kennedy, with even less time hired demonstrators in Holland, had his car pelted with eggs in Florence, but otherwise seemed to be coming through all right until Wednesday in West Berlin.

There the police announced they had seized 11 extremists involved in a bomb plot against "the life or health" of Humphrey on his scheduled visit to the city today.

The extremists didn't represent the German people, but they were a menace and there are probably bands of them in every city in Europe where Johnson might have gone if he, instead of Humphrey, had made this trip.

At this writing, it isn't clear whether the group arrested in Berlin was anti-American because of Vietnam or "anti-American because of some ideology or whether they were agents of some government set loose to cause chaos.

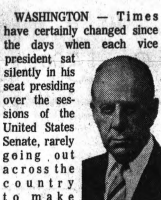

But there are so many nuts loose in the world, the same thing might have happened here if the Queen of England visited the United States or French President Charles de Gaulle came over.

Coup De Grace

VP Carries U.S. Message Well

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Times have certainly changed since the days when each vice president, sitting in his seat presiding over the sessions of the United States Senate, rarely going out across the country to make speeches and almost never taking a trip abroad.

Today the vice president is a busy functionary of the administration and can perform missions as a roving ambassador. He acts as the administration's foremost public relations man, with the exception of the President himself.

Vice President Humphrey is well-fitted to be a special envoy for President Johnson, not merely because he has had experience as one of the leaders in the Senate itself, but because he manages to make speeches in controversial issues without involving himself in personal disputes that cause ill-feeling anywhere.

Humphrey is an articulate spokesman for the government on many subjects.

His task on the current tour of Europe is to inform the various governments friendly to this country that the United States wishes to remain its ally but that the cost of maintaining a large military force in Europe is beginning to be a burden, so some changes will have to be made.

President Johnson has been compelled to clarify American policy because President de Gaulle of France has, in effect, downgraded the value of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in a military sense.

Certainly there are indications that the days of a large standing army on the continent of Europe itself are numbered.

N-RETAILATION The fact is that any attempt to repeat the kind of acts of aggression which started World War I and World War II would result in retaliation with nuclear weapons.

Even the ground forces are equipped with certain tactical nuclear devices, and this may perhaps be one of the reasons why a large number of troops is not deemed so necessary in previous decades.

Vice President Humphrey is making his present trip largely to reassure the Europeans that, whatever troops the United States withdraws and whatever cutbacks Great Britain may make in her forces on the continent of Europe, the spirit of the Western alliance has not been impaired and that the United States still feels as deep an obligation as ever to come to the aid of any NATO country which may be attacked.

This is the commitment written in the North Atlantic treaty itself and, irrespective of how many American troops are stationed in Europe, it is a pledge that will be fulfilled.

Vice President Humphrey is an adroit diplomat, and satisfaction is expressed here with the way he has carried the American message to the high officials of West European governments.

Bob Considine Says:

Toots Shor Goes to War Against a Certain Drink

CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Toots Shor, the owner of Toots Shor's West, an eating and drinking place, was recently overheard (which doesn't take a particularly good hearing) knocking a drink.

This is believed to be a new AAU record for here—y, though hardly an AA record.

The drink Shor knocked was the martini. He calls a martini a "bomb."

During a recent nine-month period on the dry, Toots' dreams underwent a sharp change.

He stopped dreaming about Nita Naldi, after all those years, and pictured himself lifting a cold, clear, dazzling martini on that happy day when the condition of his broken leg would permit him to leap nimbly off the wagon.

That wagon, after nine months, had become to him a kind of tumble in which he was being nightmarishly carted to a guillotine commanded by the chairman of the WCTU.

Well, as it happens to so many dreams, it was pure snare and delusion.

The stage had been set, and all that ABC television wheeled in a camera and a man from Time dropped back to see Toots return to the drinking wars.

All went well except for one thing: the martini. Toots can't drink them, he soon found out.

They are just a bit too much for him, and when he admits to something like that it is akin to Cassius Clay saying that he is mortally afraid of fighting, say, Floyd Patterson.

"Watch the bombs," he now says to members of the bar, some of whom are even lawyers. "They're not good for you, like other booze is. If I can't drink them, nobody can."

"Anyways, a martini can change a guy's personality. A guy comes in the store here and he looks like he's fresh from taking the lessons as an altar boy. He has one

Voice of the People:

Union Council President States Position of Labor

As President of the Oakland County AFL-CIO Council, I present the following statement on behalf of myself and those members of the Tax Study Committee who are associated with the labor movement:

"We agree that Pontiac is in trouble. City services are at an austerity level. City employees must be adequately compensated. City services must be increased. Problems in the City such as police protection, fire protection, code enforcement, the housing crisis, the crisis in downtown development, the recreational crisis, etc., must be met.

"But, before a vote, advisory or otherwise, is held, the City of Pontiac must present a positive program to the citizens of Pontiac. Failure to do this is gambling with the City of Pontiac's future. In our opinion, the citizens are likely to turn down a tax increase unless they are offered a positive program for Pontiac's future. Until such a program is offered, the City cannot afford to go to the people of Pontiac for a vote, advisory or otherwise.

Labor intends to take a long, hard look at the problems and needs of Pontiac and to study any proposals for their solution before it takes any position on taxation in Pontiac. Labor will do this and then take a position that is in the interest of all citizens of Pontiac. In this endeavor, we look forward to working with all groups that make up the City of Pontiac."

The committee starred in the position enunciated in my statement almost unanimously.

OAKLAND COUNTY AFL-CIO
JACK DOUGLAS, PRESIDENT

Has Words of Advice for Gov. Romney

Governor Romney, you are treading a dangerous path. Placating political supporters will result in loss of prestige and in bitter defeat. The citizens of the United States finally elect a President. Go before them and state a firm platform. No hogwash, just plain facts.

Tell the American people what they want to hear: (1) The war in Vietnam should be ended immediately by complete withdrawal of all American troops and supplies. (2) The U.S. should start to rearm immediately to make us the strongest nation in the world. (3) Halt immediately all Federal Aid to foreign nations. This money is now being wasted. Use some of it to supplement depleted State revenues. (4) Outlaw communism and take immediate steps to imprison our internal enemies.

Do not seek the presidency of this Nation for prestige and status. Be resolute in your purpose to rid this country of its enemies, to promote and insure a healthy economy and return law and order to this land that is fast losing its civilization.

Question and Answer

When was the old Orpheum Theatre built? We purchased some of the marble, lobby lights, soda fountain and cashier's counters and would like to know how old they would be.

MRS. GEORGE GRANGER
CLARKSTON

REPLY

According to the Pontiac Daily Press of Feb. 20, 1926, the Orpheum Theater was begun in 1920, but post war decline delayed construction for several years. The theater was opened for public inspection Feb. 22, 1926.

Some powerful state Democratic leaders of the past worked mightily to repeal Michigan's one-man grand jury law. But Alty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley isn't carrying on the fight.

On the contrary, he is trying to rally the public to oppose two bills in the Legislature that would repeal the law — thereby, says Kelley, creating "a vacuum which could be filled with equal parts of corruption and organized crime."

We couldn't agree with him more. Admittedly the one-man grand jury system isn't perfect. But neither is any other method of getting at deep-rooted crime.

The fact is, however, that at the moment we don't have a better way to get at organized crime and corruption than through the powers granted the grand jury to subpoena and grant immunity to witnesses.

Okinawa Problem The New York Times

The first visit to Washington by the locally elected Chief Executive of the Ryukyus, Seiko Matsuoka, calls attention to the fact that, 22 years after the war, the United States is still administering a chain of Japanese islands with a population of almost a million. In the vital military base of Okinawa, 400 miles from Shanghai, nuclear weapons can be stored in proximity to the principal American air base in the western Pacific.

The Okinawa base defends Japan as well as the United States. Nevertheless, as Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last month, the Ryukyus have become perhaps the most serious problem in Japanese-American relations.

In both Japan and Okinawa, the reversion of the Ryukyus to Japanese administration is now a critical political issue, exploited by left-wing opposition parties.

But the governing groups recognize privately that no change in Okinawa's status is possible so long as the Vietnam war makes it vital to American military logistics in the region.

But Congressional parsimony has held down the American contribution to the ridiculously low level of $13 million a year.

The Administration proposals now before Congress are moderate. They would lift aid appropriations to $17.3 million in the current fiscal year and $19.5 million next year.

American military expenditures pour about $340 million a year into the Ryukyus, almost half the gross national product, and keep the economy in boom. But this influx will fall off when the Vietnam war ends.

When the Americans depart, Okinawa will face poverty unless a diversified economic base for the future is built now.

Discount Rate Cut May Spell Trouble for LBJ Surtax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first drop in the Federal Reserve discount rate in more than 4½ years could spell more trouble for the administration's plan for a 6 per cent surtax on corporate and most individual incomes.

The board, in a dramatic move Thursday which could signal a further general easing of credit and lower interest rates, dropped the discount rate from 4.5 to 4 per cent over most of the country effective today.

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate House Economic Committee, said the action should reinforce opposition to the surtax plan designed partly to stem inflationary pressure expected by government economists later this year.

Proxmire said softening business conditions demanded the unanimous action taken Thursday by the board for 10 of its 12 districts. Although the Atlanta and St. Louis districts failed to seek a lower discount rate, they are expected to follow suit.

A MISTAKE?

If government policy now is aimed at stimulating the economy, Proxmire said, "It would be a mistake to shove up taxes that would discourage business expansion at the same time we reduce interest rates to encourage business."

The Treasury Department welcomed the discount action as a sign of a "desirable further interest rate levels." The easing of credit availability and administration has sought lower interest rates.

Some government experts said the lower discount rate would act as a stimulant to the economy which is now more sluggish than the administration anticipated. This could give the administration stronger economic data to present to Congress later this spring in defending its surtax plan.

A lowering in the discount rate normally means lower interest rates for businessmen seeking loans and for consumers buying houses, automobiles and other goods on the installment plan.

Just how fast the lower discount rate might be felt on consumer loans is open to conjecture. One New York banker said loan demand still is good but in time consumers should be able to borrow money more cheaply. The discount rate is in the charge made by the Federal Reserve for funds borrowed by its more than 4,000 member banks to improve their reserve positions. Other interest rates are pegged upward from it.

IN LINE WITH DECLINES

The board said its action was in line with recent declines in interest rates and in keeping with its policy of assuring enough credit to permit orderly economic growth.

Banks have already lowered their prime lending rate from last year's peak 6 per cent to 5.5 per cent. This is the rate banks charge their most favored customers, usually corporations, for loans.

One source said the Federal Reserve, which can lead or follow the market in its discount operations, appears to have taken the middle road. He said more damage to the economy might have occurred if the board not acted, since some financial activity undoubtedly had been based on the expectation of a lower discount rate.

The Gettysburg Battlefield attracted 3,506,802 visitors during 1966, breaking the old record set in 1965 by 1.3 million.

Complex Copyright Bill Vexes House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House spent nine hours Thursday demonstrating what happens when many of its members don't understand the legislation they are considering.

The bill before the House was a complex, 55-page proposal to overhaul the nation's copyright laws for the first time since 1909. It is a product of some 12 years of work.

By the end of the long day, members had made little progress on the two most controversial issues: Whether jukeboxes and Community Antenna Television systems should be subject to copyright laws. Decisions on these were put off until debate resumes Tuesday.

The major achievement, a nonrecord vote to continue exemption of educational television from the copyright laws, could be reversed on a role call vote at that time.

'NOBODY KNOWS'

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, who lost 252 to 126 in an effort to kill the bill entirely, noted at one point "nobody apparently knows what this bill does."

Earlier, he said "jukeboxes were a late addition and CATV was the late, late show," even though both provisions were in a similar bill approved last October by a House Judiciary subcommittee.

Reps. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., and Richard H. Poff, R-Va., who spent two years writing the bill, tried with little apparent success to describe it to the membership.

Despite repeated efforts by House leaders to keep their troops on the floor, fewer than 150 of the 433 members heard much of the debate.

Detroit Mum Over Wiretap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elijah Mays, a former employee of the Detroit Police Department, declined Thursday to answer a Senate Judiciary subcommittee's detailed questions in its wiretap probe, saying he feared for his safety.

Another witness, Albert Nomall, a retired Detroit police officer, refused to reply on grounds his answers might tend to incriminate him.

A third witness, Vincent Pierante, now chief investigator of the Michigan attorney general's office and for years a member of the Detroit Police Department, answered some questions on wiretap matters but declined to answer others on grounds he is a defendant in a $3.5 million lawsuit.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., is considering a bill to tighten up the use of wiretaps and other electronic listening devices.

Will King's Viet Stand Hurt Rights Bill?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief sponsors of President Johnson's civil rights proposals disagree on what effect Dr. Martin Luther King's intensified attacks on U.S. policies in Vietnam might have on the bills' already shaky chances for passage.

The minister-civil rights leader has called for mass demonstrations in an effort to force the administration to admit "We have been wrong from the beginning" in Vietnam.

Sen. Philip S. Hart, D-Mich., sponsor of the civil rights recommendations on behalf of Johnson, said King's comments will hurt efforts to rally congressional support for the bills.

"It shouldn't be true but probably is," Hart added. He said earlier he was not optimistic about chances of passage.

DISAGREES

But Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., who introduced Johnson's open-housing proposal as a separate bill, said King's views would be of "minor, if any, importance."

In determining the outcome of the legislation.

He described King's stand on Vietnam and the pending rights bills as "logically two different things."

ANOTHER VIEW

In the House, where the civil rights proposals have not been introduced, Rep. Emanuel E. Celler, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, also said King's Vietnam outlook and the legislation are independent.

He declined to speculate on any possible effects from King's remarks.

The Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights will open hearings on the proposals May 23.

Musical Comedy

Curtain Up at Troy

By ROYCE DEW
At 8 this evening, Troy High School will be the site for a musical comedy.

As the curtain opens, an estimated 300 people will await the transfer into the medieval setting of "Once Upon a Mattress."

The play concerns the crazy antics of a romantic king, played by Royce Dew, playing cat and mouse with his domineering queen, Marsha Elliott.

The audience will see affection grow between the shy prince, Steve May and a not-so-shy princess, Karen Ure.

Minstrel Thomas Miller and court jester John Patrick resolve many problems that arise throughout. They prove chivalry isn't dead by helping a damsel in distress, the Lady Larken, played by Stephanie MacColman, to run away from her Sir Harry, Bill Carnegie.

The object of the meeting was to acquaint schools in the league with Oxford who will be joining the league next year.

Increase of 15-20 Pct. Over Last Year Predicted

Collegians, Teens Prepare for Record Travel Abroad in '67

By SALLY RYAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly 300,000 college students will pack their phrase books, bikinis and guitars for trips abroad this summer. Even little brothers and sisters will join the exodus. "It's just snowballing," said James Glendinning, director of the National Student Association's tour program, Educational Travel, Inc.

He predicted that student travel would be up 15 to 20 percent over last year.

The State Department issued passports of 324,190 persons aged 15 to 25 last year, up from 247,140 in 1965, and 48,970 youngsters aged 10 to 14 obtained passports, up from 37,480.

GROUPS SPLIT
The number of younger travelers has increased so much that Arista, which bills itself as America's largest student travel organization, now splits its group into teen-agers (15-17), collegiates (17-21) and young adults (21-28).

Hundreds of other travel agencies, colleges and airlines are setting up tours and seminars for young people. They may study political science in Czechoslovakia or chamber music in Germany.

Most first trippers still go to Europe, but the number traveling to the Far East, particularly Japan, has been increasing, the council on student travel reports.

The council has chartered a ship to make 10 all-student transatlantic crossings this summer, with open-air language classes, panel discussions on civil rights, jazz sessions and warnings about shipboard romances.

STUDY PROGRAMS

The National Student Association has lined up tours and study programs that cost from $745 for three weeks in Europe to $1,815 for more than seven weeks.

The tours cater to students with fondue parties with Swiss students in Zurich, dances at the Danish students' club in Copenhagen and an evening at a student inn in Heidelberg.

The number of American colleges and institutions sponsoring foreign study programs more than doubled from 103 in 1962 to 208 in 1965, the council reports. In 1960, there were only 6.

Stanford University now reaches out from its California campus to administer year-around study centers or campuses in Japan, Formosa, Italy, France and Germany.

EMPHASIZED

This summer, the emphasis for many students will be on travel-study work programs. Adventist Colleges Abroad in Riverside, Calif., offers credit for an around-the-world tour ($3,075, plus tuition), and Beloit College in Wisconsin will sponsor an eight-week seminar in Geneva on international organizations ($1,300).

Georgetown University will set up summer schools in France, Mexico, Austria and Japan.

A number of groups, many of them religious, will sponsor work camps, particularly in Mexico, Africa and India.

BICYCLE TRIPS

For high school students, there will be bicycle trips, home exchanges, sightseeing tours, bar mitzvah pilgrimages and study programs.

For high school boys and girls who have had one year of Russian, there even is a Russian studies program: one month at the Choate school in Walling-

Benefits Hike Date Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chances are fading fast that an increase in Social Security benefits will be in effect by July 1 the date suggested by President Johnson.

"Sept. 1 is a good date to think about," said one source deeply involved in the legislative handling of the bill.

Congress is considered certain eventually to pass some legislation aligning payments more closely with today's cost of living. But benefit increases probably will not be initially as generous as the 20 per cent average increase Johnson proposed, nor will the payroll tax increase be as steep as such a boost would require.

House Republicans are backing a limited increase now with provision for further rises later. Some key Democrats have expressed concern with the added tax burden on payrolls that the Johnson proposals involve.

HANDICAPS

The measure has been held back by a number of handicaps, including its own complexity. It is really a half-dozen bills in one, dealing also with administrative adjustments of the medicare program, limits on federally assisted state health care undertakings, a pilot dental program for children and aids for the training of social workers.

The bill has run into a jammed schedule of the House Ways and Means Committee, which has been in almost daily session for two months.

The Social Security bill also is to some extent entangled with the proposal for an income tax surcharge, now also a candidate for delay or even possibly withdrawal.

DISRUPTIONS

The administration is concerned that the timing of the two measures — one taking money out of the private sector of the economy, the other pumping it in — avoid any violent disruptions.

The ways and means committee will not begin until late next week its private review of the legislation.

The panel estimates that job will take at least six weeks and will be interrupted by the necessity to consider the second bill this year to increase the national debt limit.

The outlook is for House action sometime in June. Then the whole process begins again in the Senate. Normally that body goes considerably beyond House-approved increases in Social Security, requiring conferences to design a compromise bill and another round of action in both houses.

Hoffa's Son Will Run for Kowalski Seat

LANSING (AP) — James P. Hoffa, son of imprisoned Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa, said Thursday he will be a Democratic candidate for a seat in the Michigan House of Representatives.

Young Hoffa said he will seek election from Detroit's heavily Democratic 19th District in an April 25 special election to fill a vacancy created by the recent death of House Democratic Leader Joseph Kowalski.

Hoffa, 25, is an attorney and has served since last summer as a legislative aide to the Senate Labor and Judiciary Committees. He said his father, who began serving an eight-year federal prison sentence last month on a jury tampering conviction, "has encouraged me to run."

'VERY ENTHUSIASTIC'

He said he had talked with his father, who is in a federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa.

"I told him about my plans and he is very enthusiastic," young Hoffa said. "He just asked me to run a good, hard race."

school which will be located on a 16-acre site off Crescent Boulevard.

CENTRAL LOCATION

Geared for large group functions, the learning center will be centrally located to all classrooms. It will join the lecture center. A sound-proof folding partition will separate the two facilities.

Although the plans were approved by the four board members attending last night's meeting, Robert G. Crumpton, executive secretary of the Waterford Education Association, lodged complaints.

He said since the school is earmarked for an exemplary program, it should be equipped with more specialized facilities. Crumpton mentioned the possibilities of including a greenhouse and art and music facilities.

He contended that special area instructors (music, science and art) weren't given enough consideration during planning stages.

'FUND LIMITATIONS'

Supt. of Schools Dr. Don O. Tatroe said, "If we weren't limited by funds, we would have more specialized facilities."

Target date for completion of the one-story structure is early next year.

Principal of the school will be Patricia Knudsen, who currently holds a similar position at the district's Hudson Covert School.

Also last night, the board voted to apply for a $302,054 loan from the State School Bond Loan Program to pay the principal and interest on indebtedness due June 1.

LABOR ATTORNEY

The administration was authorized to hire a labor attorney to help negotiate contracts with school district personnel at a salary not to exceed $5,000.

He will be employed at least until the new contracts are signed. The board also accepted the resignation of Cray Junior High School Principal Jerome A. Weiser effective July 1. Weiser will accept a position as assistant professor of education at Eastern Michigan University.

The board also approved 1967-68 contracts for seven teachers last night.

Flint Man Slain in Burglary Try

FLUSHING (UPI) — A would-be burglar was gunned down by state and city police waiting for him after receiving a tip yesterday that the break-in was planned.

Killed by police was Clarence Jobin, 31, of nearby Flint.

Police said they received word of the robbery attempt at the home of Albert Fekke and waited in the dimly lit front room for the burglar.

Officers saw Jobin park his car about one-quarter of a mile from the Fekke home and approach through a field, John McGraw, chief assistant Genesee County prosecutor, said.

Jobin smashed in the front door and was told to surrender by officers in the house.

PULLS A KNIFE

He pulled a hunting knife, which police thought might be a gun, and was shot down, McGraw said.

Jobin, who was dead at the scene of the attempted burglary, was wearing a nylon stocking mask, McGraw said.

Unique Project Clears Board

Computer Program Needs Federal Okay

If approval is granted by the U.S. Department of Education, the Waterford Township School District will embark on a unique three-year exemplary program to develop a computer-based in-depth communications system.

Waterford Township reportedly would be the only district in the U.S. conducting this specific type of project.

About $1 million in federal funds would be entrusted to the district to implement the experimental program over the next three school years.

Only possible local expense would be for staff time, assured school officials.

An answer on the Elementary and Secondary Education Act Title III application is expected in two weeks.

MEASURE APPROVED

The board of education approved by a 4-0 vote last night.

The program probably would be established in an elementary school and a secondary school.

Students in audio-visual response carrels would have access to computer-linked equipment and would receive instruction via television screens, slide projectors, film strips, typewriters and panel lights.

An outside computer would attempt to analyze responses to look for student behavior patterns.

ALL OF SENSES

The system would test all of a student's senses.

Purpose of the project is to test and evaluate ideas, said Supt. of Schools Dr. Don O. Tatroe.

The ideas with the most promise, said Tatroe, may be used on a larger scale throughout the nation.

You'll find some of Canada's most exciting wild life in Toronto, Ontario.

If you don't feel like moving around too much on your first night, relax and watch someone else do it.

When night falls on this metropolis of over 2,000,000 people, the real northern lights go on. They're neon lights.

Up and down its main streets, you can feel the pulse of swinging Toronto.

Yet a night on the town needn't cost a fortune. Take a quick subway ride to Yorkville, Toronto's own "village," sip cappuccino at a coffee house, listen to music in jazz clubs or discotheques, and before you know it, you've had a great, yet inexpensive time.

But if coffee houses aren't your style, you can wine and dine at some of North America's finest restaurants and night clubs. And the menus are limitless in their variety.

25 cents gets you a return fare on one of Toronto's island ferries. Stop at one of the offshore islands, relax, stroll along, and watch the city skyline across the harbour.

Because it's a focal point for major highways and air routes, Toronto makes a perfect stopping-stone to the rest of the province.

Drive 100 miles north from Toronto to Ontario's beautiful central vacation spots of Muskoka and Georgian Bay, with sunny lakes, beaches, resorts and camping areas.

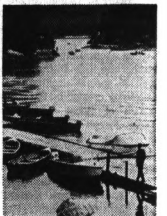

Or drive south from Toronto along Lake Ontario's shoreline on the Queen Elizabeth Highway to Hamilton and historic Dundurn Castle where a "son et lumiere" display using concealed lights and a soundtrack movingly re-creates the days of 100 years ago. Then drive on to the Niagara Peninsula where you can dine high above magnificent Niagara Falls.

Or head east along one of Ontario's modern superhighways to Ottawa, the capital city of Canada. Wander through Ottawa's tulip-banked streets and slopes, take in Parliament Hill and the colourful Changing the Guard. Then travel on to the majestic St. Lawrence Seaway, and to historic Upper Canada Village, and to Gananoque, heart of the magnificent Thousand Islands region.

(Then head east on the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway to Montreal, Quebec, and Expo 67, the largest World's Fair ever held.)

There are countless vacations waiting for you in Ontario. Especially this year. It's Canada's 100th birthday. Our Centennial.

So, naturally, there'll be Centennial celebrations for you to take part in. To help you plan your Ontario vacation, send in the coupon below for free maps and brochures. Have a nice vacation.

It's our 100th birthday. Join us in our year-long, coast-to-coast Centennial celebrations.

"Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness" are symbolized in this arrangement by Mrs. Marvin Katke, Kirkwood Drive, president of Michigan Division, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association. Scorning the traditional red, white and blue, Mrs. Katke placed brilliant red blooms low in the antique brass container to represent life as the basis of all. Green leaves denote immortality and high rising lines suggest spiritual searching for happiness. Sunny yellow blooms represent its attainment. This arrangement was displayed Thursday at a preview in the Village Woman's Club.

Where's Family Spirit?

She Resents Older Sister

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl with a problem. It is my 24-year-old sister who considers herself "independent." She has her own apartment and her own car, which my parents pay for. She lives in the same city as we do, and teaches school.

When she comes home for a visit, she walks in unannounced and goes right into our refrigerator and helps herself to anything she wants.

Don't you think she should wait to be offered something to eat? Or should she just barge right in and take over just as if she were still living there? After all, we do not support her any more.

SEEING RED

DEAR SEEING RED: YOU may be "seeing red"—but I am "seeing green." What do you mean, "WE don't support her any more?" Your sister apparently still feels very much at home. And until and unless your parents inform her otherwise, I see no reason for her to wait until she is offered something to eat. (What's eating YOU?)

DEAR ABBY: The blabbermouth who worked for a loan company isn't the only one who uses confidential information picked up at work to entertain her friends.

I heard tell there are several Gray Ladies (or whatever you call those do-gooders) who are only too happy to do volunteer work in a hospital in exchange for a free lunch and all the snooping they can do in a few hours. They claim they have access to the patients' charts, which tells how old Mrs. So and So is, and also the details of what ails her.

When women volunteer to work at a hospital, someone ought to be there with a yardstick to measure their tongues.

GEORGIA ON MY MIND
DEAR GEORGIA: There are exceptions among professionals as well as volunteers, but generally speaking, people who elect to serve the sick are unselfishly motivated, and know how to keep their mouths shut.

DEAR ABBY: I am always pleased when you encourage mothers to build the kind of relationships with their daughters that will enable them to have good frank talks. DON'T QUIT, Abby. It is so important.

I work for an adoption agency, and until parents realize that "going steady" usually leads to going "all the way" we will continue to do a booming baby business.

At least 95 per cent of our girls are pregnant by their "steadies."

I wish every parent who has a daughter "going steady" could sit beside me for one day and hear all the misery and heartache reflected in the conversa-

May Legalize Abortions Under Special Conditions

LANSING (UPI) — A series of hearings will be held this summer on a bill pending in the Michigan Senate to legalize abortions under certain conditions.

Sen. Robert L. Richardson, R-Saginaw, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said his committee would hold the hearings following completion of this year's regularly scheduled legislative session in June.

SEEKS ADVICE

"We will probably have qualifications with girls who are giving up their babies.

KNOWS IN HOUSTON
CONFIDENTIAL TO "WONDERING IN ENCINO": I wouldn't "wonder" about a man who knits in public. He obviously has no doubts about his own masculinity.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, care of The Pontiac Press.

Writers' Workshop

Mrs. Joseph E. Smith Jr. will open her Bloomfield Village home to members of the Detroit Women Writers group Saturday. The occasion is a noon work shop combining both poetry and prose.

Medical personnel, people with personal experiences to relate and persons with religious views called before the committee to discuss the bill," Richardson said.

Sen. John E. McCauley, D-Wyandotte, introduced the abortion bill.

It would permit abortions in cases where the county prosecutor and three physicians recommended termination of a pregnancy caused by rape or incest.

McCauley calls his proposal a "humanitarian" measure. Richardson said no action is being planned during this session of the Legislature on the measure because there hasn't been sufficient time to hold public hearings.

WNFGA Has Preview of Annual Show

Pontiac Press Photos by Ed Vanderwerf

Mrs. Arthur Stiller of Perryville Road, Gropeland Township, a member of the Holly branch, displays her abstract exhibit in the "Treasures of the World" category. A straying lichen-covered jungle root thrusts its points upward from an antique-appearing, but modern, hand-crafted vase. The primitive lines are softened by pale-green cymbidium orchids and dark-green jungle foliage to symbolize the mixture of ultramodern and the unexplored in the make-up of Colombia, South America. Emeralds will accompany this arrangement.

A press preview luncheon, Thursday at the Village Woman's Club, sponsored by the Michigan Division of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, provided a sampling of imaginative flower arrangements and table settings.

These will be featured at Wright Kay and Company, Detroit, in the annual spring show April 26 and 27.

Displays will also grace the windows of Wright Kay branch stores in Grosse Pointe and Northland.

The theme of this year's show is "Treasures." Each design will strive to exemplify some facet of the myriad treasures of life and beauty in the world around us.

It is a broad theme and ranges through appreciation of the fiery jewels derived from the earth to the great natural and architectural wonders, to the simple pleasures of "Great Books" and precious intangibles of "Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

ACCESSORIES

Each arrangement will be complemented by appropriate jewelry or accessories.

The public is invited to attend without charge.

Mrs. Marvin Katke, a member of the Birmingham branch, is president of the Michigan Division, WNFGA.

Mrs. Chester Wisniewski, is serving as chairman of the flower show committee.

Golden Anniversary for Altrusa

The Altrusa Club of Greater Birmingham will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the founding of Altrusa International Tuesday evening in the Birmingham Community House.

Members of the newly organized Altrusa Club of Macomb County and Birmingham Kiwanis and their wives will join the Altrusans at a 6:30 p.m. dinner.

Genevieve (Hap) Hazzard, vice president of Campbell-

Ewald Company will be the principal speaker.

GAINS PREEMINENCE

One of the leading women advertising executives in the country, Miss Hazzard has gained preeminence in her field through work as an advertising copywriter, radio and TV producer, fashion expert and advertising account executive.

She is in charge of women's programs on the Chevrolet Motor account and the only woman on the faculty of the Chevrolet

School of Modern Merchandising and Management.

She has received numerous national awards and is active on the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women and the national Public Relations Committee of the Girl Scouts of the United States of America.

Altrusa is the pioneer service club for women; only Rotary, Sertoma and Kiwanis are older service organizations.

The present 550 clubs have grown from the original six; Nashville, Tenn. is the club's birthplace. Thirteen other countries have Altrusa clubs.

Membership in Altrusa is classified and limited to professional women and business women of executive standing. Besides a program of community betterment and local philanthropy, Altrusa has long been interested in vocational opportunity for women and has disbursed more than $262,662 in small grants to help women job seekers to more productive lives.

In keeping with its interest in international relations, the Altrusa Foundation has provided $394,738 in scholarship grants to women from Latin America, Asia, the Middle East, and Africa, for graduate study in United States universities.

Altrusa Clubs throughout the world will salute these achievements at simultaneous celebrations on April 11, marking the organization's first "50 Years Growing in Service."

Fragile Colors Recommended for Lovely Eyes

Eye shadow adds depth and luster to your eyes. But at all costs avoid a too-bright, clownish look.

For daytime, try the soft, hazy shades, such as brown, gray, amber, pale blue and turquoise.

White shadow used under colored shadow gives a clear tone. Used over shadow, white gives a pearly translucence.

For after-dark eyes, brighter hues are effective, as well as the frosted shades.

And if you use cream or stick shadow, set the color with a faint dusting of powder.

Multi-Prints Are Fashion

Put yourself in a print from the newest collection ever. This year, the print is news. The story is told with multi-prints, quilted prints and Paisley prints.

And they are not limited to tops, skirts and dresses. Mantled slacks in prints make you the "fanciest pants" ever.

Case No. B-545

Is Surgery Necessary?

By Dr. GEORGE W. CRANE CASE B-545: Norma D., aged 27, is worried.

"Dr. Crane," she began,
"We have been married for 5 years but I have never become pregnant."

"Yet our family physician says I seem to be O.K. medically and my husband is not sterile."

"So I secretly consulted a surgeon the other day and he says I need to have my womb straightened."

"He wants me to come into the hospital at once for a suspension operation but my husband thinks I ought to wait."
"So would this suspension operation give me a baby?"

HORSE SENSE Biblical Sarah and Rachel and Hannah were also childless for many years, yet later became pregnant without any surgical aid.

Which doesn't mean that the "suspension" operation that Norma's surgeon recommended, would not be helpful.

But millions of women have have tipped wombs and still bear babies, so there is no absolute guarantee that straightening her womb would give her an infant.

Besides, you laymen should use more "horse sense" (and so should some scalpel-happy surgeons).

Surgery should be resorted to only after the practical non-surgical treatments have first been applied.

Many childless couples have simply missed the brief period (perhaps only 6 hours) in the month when a wife can conceive.

But many hospitals are now forcing doctors into excessive surgery just to retain their top standing on said hospital staffs.

For, unless a doctor channels enough cash business through the usual hospital pay window, he tends to be downgraded and even dropped from the staff!

For further shocking data on this point, consult my college textbook, "Psychology Applied," at your local library.
Therein I mention the survey by Dr. James C. Doyle of the University of California, which showed that of 6,248 hysterectomies (major surgery), 40 per cent were totally unwarranted!

Should Wash Electric Knife

The blades of an electric knife should be kept in top notch condition by washing in hot suds and rinse water, drying thoroughly, and storing carefully.

With normal use, such blades should maintain their cutting ability for a long while. When sharpening is required, it must be done by a professional — never at home.

And of the 385 appendectomy cases analyzed by Dr.
Walter Alvarez, 50 per cent were unjustified as per the pathologist's reports!

So why do you suppose those surgeons erred in 40 per cent of their hysterectomies and 50 per cent of their appendectomies?

Was it indirect pressure on them to maintain their cash volume of business through the hospital operating rooms each week?

In Norma's case, I explained that the most likely time for conception is 15 days prior to the onset of the next menstrual period.

Since the ovum may deteriorate until it is not fertilizable after 12 to 24 hours, and the male sperm may likewise be effective only 6 hours, it is easily possible for this narrow time range to be missed during many years of marriage.

An alkaline douche often seems helpful in increasing the likelihood of conception, and possibly causing more boy babies to be procreated.
So send for my booklet
"Facts About Pregnancy," enclosing a long stamped envelope, plus 20 cents.

Norma was pregnant within 60 days after following the data therein and thus avoided the major surgery on her womb.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Too Simple to Break

CARSON CITY, Nev. (P) — A new law makes divorces easier in Nevada, the pioneer in quick divorces.

Gov. Paul Laxalt signed
Thursday a measure adding incompatibility as a ground and reducing from three years to one the time required for a divorce on grounds of separation.

Attorneys backing the bill argued that incompatibility would be a more realistic ground for divorce than "extreme cruelty."

Nevada reduced its residency requirement for divorce to six weeks in 1961, the same year it legalized casino gambling.

"Destined to be 'at home' on any continent, the back-zipped top of this luxurious Society Linerie outfit swirls gracefully from its bias cut. The straight-line pants have a comfortable elasticized waistband and are trimmed, like the sleeves and hem of the top, with wide color coordinated double fabric folds.

Ironing Aim

To iron a blouse so that it will look its best and be wrinkle-free, dampen it about 10 minutes beforehand and wrap it tightly in a wet turkish towel. It makes for easier dampening and a better looking job of ironing.

In the End We All Must Walk Alone

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Once, when two almost simultaneous deaths in my family had plunged me into deep grief, I was required to survive the harshest cruelty I have ever experienced. So I could not cry.

Between my shocked resistance to the cruelty in death and cruelty in people, weeks of daze went by and still I could not cry a single tear of acceptance. Then, one day, a doctor friend asked me to drive with him into the country where he had to make a professional call.

While he visited his patient, he left me in a chair on the wide green lawn.

I was sitting there, still lost in my daze, when a tiny ant, intent on some personal business, walked up my forearm. Straight, unswerving and direct, he marched up my arm and I began to cry.

I cried and cried and cried. On the drive home, I cried again. And so I felt obliged to tell my friend about that straight-walking little ant. He is a psychiatrist as well as my friend. He stooped the car and said, "Muriel, you are crying because you have stopped walking in your own direction."

"You are crying with envy and admiration of that ant."

He was right. No one has ever been more right. It is lovely, of course, when we can share the same direction with other people. Sometimes we cannot. Then, like the ant, we have to walk in our own direction, alone. And that is true, too.

It's been hard for me to write about that ant, small messenger that he was to me. But no harder, I expect, than it's been for a reader to write me a letter which says:

"My husband has treated me yellow and mean for 24 years. I cannot leave him as we have a sick girl and I don't know how to earn a living."

New Position for Local Man

John R. Bassett, son of the Russell Bassetts, East Ironquils Road, has been appointed assistant professor of forestry at the University of Michigan, effective June 1.

A former U.S. Forest Service staff member and holder of four U of M degrees will assume a silvicultural management position.

He will also serve as a member of the staff of the U of M Camp Filbert Roth in northern Michigan and have responsibility for the forest properties there.

Tell Engagement

The engagement of Susan Jean Harris to Thomas Walter Clippert is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George K. Harris of Birmingham.

His parents are the forest J. Clipperts of Troy. She is a graduate of Adrian College and he is a graduate of Alma College. August 12th vows are planned.

"He tries to show me up in a bad light to our neighbors by doing jobs for them without pay and getting them to favor him. He spends our household money doing these favors for them. I love everything you write. I guess you'll say I need a psychiatrist..."

Maybe you don't. Maybe you do. Maybe just a friend is what you need.

One like mine, one who will remind you that sooner or later we all have to continue to walk in our own direction. Whether we're compelled to this lonely walking by the death of people or the death of kindness, in the end it's what we all have to do.

The fact is, that's exactly what you've been doing for a long, long time. The trouble is, you haven't realized it. You haven't yet said to yourself, "Lonely walking is what I have been doing for some 20-odd years—and so I can continue to do it."

"I will be wise then to stop resisting circumstances I cannot change and go right on in my own direction."

Thank you for liking what I write.

The engagement of Michigan State University students Trudy Ann Moore and Lloyd Louis Shenefield is announced by her parents, the William K. Moores of Roseberry Court. His parents are Mrs. Louis Shenefield of Coldwater and the late Mr. Shenefield.

Why Grow Old ?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Who should and who shouldn't — wear a girdle! Actually, I think that most women look best and feel best when wearing one. Of course, it should be the right kind for you individually.

Ideally, this is not true. If a young or an older woman has firm strong abdominal muscles which are capable of doing the work they were meant to do and is not overweight, then outside help is superfluous. But how many of these are there? Few women exercise regularly enough to be the exceptions.

The condition of our abdominal muscles has an important effect on our health and energy as well as on our figure. These support internal organs. An internal slip can cause backaches, constipation and chronic fatigue.

Those women who are overweight or extremely underweight will surely need abdominal support. The former because of health as well as figure.

A pendulous abdomen due to accumulated fat and relaxed muscles places a strain on ligaments and allows for the downward slump. Women who are extremely underweight may not have enough fat to help with the support needed.

When a woman has had a child, or several, her abdominal muscles are stretched and relaxed, unless she has done a great job of reconditioning with exercise in between children. Even then the muscles may not be as taut as they once were.

Now that we have straightened out the health angles to some extent, let's think of the figure. If you have just a few pounds too many and have only a small roll over the usual girdle, you will probably look slimmer when wearing one which comes just to the waistline or a bit below it. The flesh will not be pushed up into a roll at all.

If you have more than a little fat at the waistline, you will require a girdle which rises above your natural waistline. This may pose the problem of having the flesh at the waist pushed up so that your diaphragm and the flesh below your bra becomes more prominent. If this is the case, then you will look best in a one-piece garment.

As all my readers know, I believe in giving nature a chance with exercise, good nutrition and enough sleep, but also in giving her a hand with cosmetics, girdles, and extra hair pieces.

Speaking of wigs and falls and so forth, most women who wear them don't really need them because of loss of hair. If, on the other hand, you are worried about thinning hair, you may want my booklet "Is Your Hair Thinning?"

If you wish to have this, send 15 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Proves a Mouse, Plus a Mouse, Equals Eight

LANSING (P) — Mommy mouse, daddy mouse and the six babies all are doing fine, thank you.

But their startled 13-year-old owner still is getting over the shock.
The babies were born at a science show.

Lynn A. LaVercombe, a seventh grader at St. Thomas Aquinas School, paid 60 cents each for mommy and daddy mouse about two months ago.

"I wanted to use them in a science project," she said. "But I didn't know one was a boy and one was a girl."

Lynn found out when the mommy started giving birth to six babies just 15 minutes before the science show was about to open to the public.

"I was shocked," Lynn said. Mrs. Beth Baldwin, assistant program director of the Lansing Parks and Recreation Department, a sponsor of the show, took the babies in hand.

CARED FOR

She made a nest for them out of tissue paper until Lynn and her parents could fashion a more comfortable cotton nest.
The little family will stay at the science show through Sunday.

"Then I think I'll give them to a girl friend who's doing another science project," Lynn said.

College fraternities began in America in the late 18th century.

Reverse Method of Housecleaning

For good results, reverse the old dusting idea. Always dust before you do the floor dust mop.

Start with one clean, dry, lintless cloth and another wrung from warm sudsy water. The damp cloth removes finger marks from tables, lamps, woodwork, as well as those hard little pollen marks often dropped by flowers.

What About Kids?

DEAR POLLY—I hope some of the readers can give me tips that would be useful when traveling with small children. We need some quiet but interesting activities for seven days to be spent on a boat.

Our quarters will be small and we will need to be conscious of not disturbing others. I am sure some parents have developed wonderful activities for travel as well as for use at home.—MRS. W. L. S.

DEAR POLLY—Wrap some waxed paper or cellophane around a foam pillow to make an easy job of getting the pillow into a rough-textured pillow cover, such as terry cloth, corduroy and so on. Wrap it all around the pillow, slip it into the case and then pull the paper out. No more tugging and pushing.—MARIE

DEAR POLLY—A wooden clothespin makes a very good gadget to use for coring apples. Just insert the stem end and gently press down.—L. W.

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Mrs. J. C. that the mold that forms on her shoes may be there because she keeps them in tightly closed plastic containers. Leather shoes must "breathe" and hers may have had some moisture in them when put away in such air-tight containers. This would cause the mold to form.

She could try punching holes in the plastic containers or bags—such holes as are often in fruit or vegetable bags. Cardboard boxes with holes punched in them could also be used.—MRS. A. C. P.

DEAR POLLY—A melon baller is good to use when trying to get olives out of a jar. The hole in the middle lets the juice out.—KIM

DEAR POLLY—When I finish ironing with my steam iron, I empty the water while the iron is still hot so the heat will dry its inside completely and prevent any corrosion.

I use thin plastic bags that come from the dry cleaner, when packing things to be mailed. They are space-filling and pliable and hold the item stationary. They weigh so little that today's high postage rates are not greatly increased.

When we take the children on a long automobile trip I always take along a cookie sheet with sides. It is just right for a lap board and the sides prevent crayons and pencils from rolling off to the floor.—MRS. H. E. M.

The familiar peg board may be succeeded by a new wall panel of wood with horizontal grooves in which hooks and brackets can be inserted.

MANNED SPACE CENTER, become a deputy administrator in NASA's office of manned space flight in Washington.

"I wouldn't look at any of these things as a promotion or demotion," Webb told newsmen. "We're putting our team together to do the job that's got to be done. We're looking now at the problems we face and the work we have to do following the accident."

He said Shea, who had managed the office since 1963, would provide "expert knowledge and capability with respect to the reorientation of the program."

A board of review is due to make its final report to Webb Sunday, when its findings will be made public. Indications are that the board narrowed the probable cause down to four or five areas in the electrical system with a broken wire or cracked insulation as among the most likely.

Two top-level management switches have already been made. And James E. Webb, chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, has indicated more might follow.

Webb said a realignment of the Apollo spacecraft office at the Manned Spacecraft Center this week was a result of "the conditions we face in NASA, including the situation which results from the accident."

NASA announced Wednesday that Dr. George Low, deputy director of the center, would replace Dr. Joseph F. Shea as manager of the Apollo spacecraft office, the key position at the center for the $23-billion man to the moon program.

Effective Monday, Shea will

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dayton Township has been awarded a $32,600 advance by the Department of Housing and Urban Development to start planning a new sewage collection system, Sen. Philip A. Americans spent $2 million for books in 1965.

King Death Plot Said Motive in Slaying

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — A sheriff has testified he was told that the 1966 slaying of Ben Chester White was an attempt to lure Dr. Martin Luther King to his death.

Circuit Judge James A. Torrey was considering whether the testimony could be presented to the jury as evidence.

Sheriff Odell Anders of Adams County read in court Thursday statements he said were given to him by James L. Jones, 57, a white man being tried on a charge of killing White, 63, a Negro, and dumping his body in a creek.

The statements quoted Claude Fuller, 47, as saying White's murder was a ruse to get King to Natchez so he could be assassinated. Fuller and Ernest

White had not been active in civil rights work, and the sheriff's testimony was the first hint of a motive.

The safety pin was invented in 1849.

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Those repentant and apologetic words Ken Venturi used after his heroic U.S. Open championship in Washington, D.C., in 1964 must now be lost somewhere in the back of his mind.

It will be remembered that since his amateur days and in his moments of glory when he was USGA runner-up in 1956 and again in 1960, Venturi was often regarded as a high strung and temperamental player. But after 1960, he fell from the pinnacle of success to the bottom.

Finally, in 1964, on the hot, humid Congressional Country Club course in the nation's capital, Venturi had his greatest moment.

He not only won the tournament after collapsing in the heat on two occasions, but he also won the hearts of golf fans when he tearfully made admission of his pompous attitude of his early years and when he thanked God for giving him enough strength to finish the final 36 holes in the grueling heat which at one point went over 100 degrees that final day.

His speech of acceptance of the 1964 USGA crown so stirred everyone that, primarily through the efforts of hundreds of sportswriters and hundreds of thousands of kind words, he became the accepted King of American Golf.

Not too long after the 1964 championship, a peculiar circularity ailment in his arms and hands shook him from his heights. Since then, he has found very little success on the golf front.

HUMILITY GONE
Through it all, he has apparently lost some of the 1964 humility.

He has become indignant to writers who go to him occasionally for an interview, mainly because they go to him only on occasions.

He apparently is also plying himself because people no longer glorify his past golf exploits.

So when a writer at Augusta went to interview him this week, he said, "Me, for an interview? I don't mind though, at least I don't have to bother reading the paper. It says the same thing all the time anyway."

Another writer (from San Francisco) was told in essence by Venturi, "You won't print it right anyway."

PEOPLE FORGET
He also proceeded to say "I had my days in 1964. I won the Open, the American Golf Classic and was named PGA Player of the Year. Then I was knocked down at the top of my career."

"People forgot, but that's the way people are. It's human nature."

He also was quoted as saying, "I hold no grudges. I think I know people very well. In 1962 and 1963, I might have felt differently. But, after what I've been through, I know people very well. It rolls right off my back."

Venturi is wrong. He ought to reread all the things he said and those printed stories which came out of the 1964 Open.

People haven't really forgotten. They still remember his victory as one of the most courageous in golf.

KEN FORGOT
It's Mr. Venturi who has forgotten. He forgets that the spoils of victory after every triumph include the public acclaim that goes with it through the words of men who print the news.

He also forgets the concern and hope everyone had for him during the months after his victory when illness knocked him from the top and that it was a little bit of humility which put him back in the public graces.

Venturi shot a 76 in the first round of the Masters yesterday. He didn't have any interviewers around him either.

If he does shoot a 66, he might have a hard time convincing anyone this time of his humble sincerity.

As he put it, "If I win, it'll be an interesting press conference."

Bert Yancey Builds Three-Stroke Lead

Ex-Army Cadet Knows Angles on Masters Course

By BRUNO L. KEARNS

Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Bert Yancey, 28-year-old Floridian who once studied engineering who studied and learned the carefully laid plans at the Augusta National Golf course to take the first round lead in the 31st Masters Classic with a five-under-par 67 yesterday.

Yancey had never before to the Augusta National before this week, primarily because this was his first invitation to the Masters. He received the invitation because of his three tournament victories since last fall.

In playing 36 holes here Sunday, 18 more Monday and Tuesday and nine Wednesday, Yancey used his knowledge of straight lines and curves to plan his strategy in playing his 6,800-yard course.

"Most golf courses are planned for the players who normally hit to the left. I think this is true here at Augusta. The strong hook can mean a lot of trouble."

Yancey's 67 was two strokes more than the first round record of 65 by Gary Player in 1965.

Jack Nicklaus started with a 67 that year and ended up winning the tournament with a 17-under-par 271, nine strokes ahead of Arnold Palmer.

Three strokes behind Yancey yesterday were Billy Casper and amateur Downing Gray.

Casper, a strong favorite to dethrone Jack Nicklaus, had a 37-33-70, while Gary, U.S. Amateur runner-up to Deane Beman, came in with 36-34-70.

Julius Boros, a sentimental favorite of the gallery in Augusta, and Tony Jacklin, the New Zealand PGA champion from Middlesex, England, were tied at 71, while 11 others were even par-72, including Nicklaus, Bobby Nichols, Tommy Bolt and Sam Snead.

Boros, who turned 47 just last week, is second in money wins and if he picks up at least $2,300 from this Masters it would make him the fourth player in history of pro golf to win more than $500,000 in official money, joining the trio of Palmer, Casper and Nicklaus.

STEADY START
Boros played steady golf with a par-36 on the front side, and after his birdie-4 on No. 15, he kept the one stroke advantage to finish with 35.

One of the feature shots of the opening day was a double bogey on the 15th hole.

MASTERS COURSE — Florida golf professional Bert Yancey has a good reason for licking his lips after finishing his first round at the Masters Golf Tournament Thursday.

Even coach Toe Blake was thinking of running up the white flag when his Montreal Canadiens launched one of the great rallies in Stanley Cup playoff history.

The rally — five goals in eight minutes and 55 seconds late in the third period — carried the Canadiens to a 6-4 victory Thursday night and a one-game lead over the New York Rangers in their playoff series.

The NHL champion Chicago Black Hawks whipped Toronto, 5-2, in Chicago to take a 1-0 series lead.

Blake admitted after the game that he was thinking of putting in goalie Lorne Wersley when the Rangers led 4-1 "to give him a little work."

But Blake first decided on a desperate move — forming a new line of Dick Huft, Claude Provost and Bobby Rousseau — in an attempt to spark the team.

The line responded with a goal-Provost scored at 9:12 — and touched off the spectacular rally.

J. C. Tremblay tallied at 9:34 to make the score 4-3, John Ferguson connected at 11:08 to tie the score, Ralph Backstrom put the Canadiens ahead at 14:55 and Jean Beliveau added the clincher at 18:07.

YESTERDAY
"It was just like the first series in 1943-44 when we were down 4-0 against the Chicago Black Hawks," said Blake. "We came back to win 5-4 in overtime and take the Stanley Cup."

The Rangers had taken their 1-1 lead on two goals by Rod Gilbert and one each by Bernie Geoffrion and Vic Hadfield with Montreal's only response a second-period goal by Backstrom.

The Canadiens will try to take a 2-0 lead in the series at Montreal Saturday afternoon.

Ken Wharram, Pierre Pilote, Stan Mikita, Bobby Hull and Lou Angotti scored for the Black Hawks while Frank Mahovlich scored for the Rangers.

MASTERS COURSE — Florida golf professional Bert Yancey has a good reason for licking his lips after finishing his first round at the Masters Golf Tournament Thursday.

The 28-year-old entrant conquered the Augusta National Golf Club course for a five-under-par 67 and the first-round lead. Billy Casper is second with a 70.

Even coach Toe Blake was thinking of running up the white flag when his Montreal Canadiens launched one of the great rallies in Stanley Cup playoff history.

The rally — five goals in eight minutes and 55 seconds late in the third period — carried the Canadiens to a 6-4 victory Thursday night and a one-game lead over the New York Rangers in their playoff series.

The NHL champion Chicago Black Hawks whipped Toronto, 5-2, in Chicago to take a 1-0 series lead.

Blake admitted after the game that he was thinking of putting in goalie Lorne Wersley when the Rangers led 4-1 "to give him a little work."

But Blake first decided on a desperate move — forming a new line of Dick Huft, Claude Provost and Bobby Rousseau — in an attempt to spark the team.

The line responded with a goal-Provost scored at 9:12 — and touched off the spectacular rally.

J. C. Tremblay tallied at 9:34 to make the score 4-3, John Ferguson connected at 11:08 to tie the score, Ralph Backstrom put the Canadiens ahead at 14:55 and Jean Beliveau added the clincher at 18:07.

YESTERDAY
"It was just like the first series in 1943-44 when we were down 4-0 against the Chicago Black Hawks," said Blake. "We came back to win 5-4 in overtime and take the Stanley Cup."

The Rangers had taken their 1-1 lead on two goals by Rod Gilbert and one each by Bernie Geoffrion and Vic Hadfield with Montreal's only response a second-period goal by Backstrom.

The Canadiens will try to take a 2-0 lead in the series at Montreal Saturday afternoon.

Coaches Like Madison, Rochester in O-A Race

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles discussing the coaches' forecasts for their high school baseball league races: today the Oakland A League.)

Warren Fitzgerald's Spartans have been making their final school year in the Oakland A League a succession of titles, but the baseball pennant looks out of reach.

Both defending champion Madison and Rochester's aspiring Falcons are expected to finish ahead of the Spartans, and at least one league mentor sees Avondale in a contenting position.

Troy rates consideration as a dark horse along with Fitzgerald, Cousino, Lake Orion and Clawson will create problems if they get pitching.

Madison posted an unbeaten O-A campaign last season and has five regulars back. This list includes two pitchers, southpaw Jim Guld and hefty right-hander Carl Olson, who combined for 6 of the 10 mound victories.

Bill Pietrosky, first base; Danny Wandell, second base; and shortstop Bill Ball also return and all yield good bats. Guld is a solid hitting outfielder when he doesn't take the hill.

Coach Joe Gosseau of the champions expects trouble from Avondale this campaign; but the Yellow Jackets may not have the pitching to match their hitting potential.

First baseman Lee Saunders, catcher Bob Burt and outfielder-pitcher Tom McGee provide good run-making potential.

Russ McArthur, second, and center fielder Russ Beebe offer defensive help, while third sacker Steve Burnell is a returning regular, too.

But last season's sophomore mound surprise Tom Hering transferred to Rochester and it could hurt Avondale more than it helps the Falcons.

Their mound outlook was already good. Jim Burton, Randy Hinds and Brent Thurham all return determined to atone for last season's disappointing spring.

The threesome all had fine earned run averages but the team won only two starts in the league. Poor hitting and fielding hurt its cause.

In addition to the hill staff that has been strengthened with the addition of Hering, coach Ron Murray has eight other regulars to build with. Leading the returnees is infielder Dick Farrand, a .300 hitter.

Hinds is expected to fill an outer garden berth. Murray must develop additional run making and defensive prowess.

Five regulars are back at Troy after the Colts finished among the top four last spring. The team has hitting potential in infielders John Popovich, Jim Chitt and Rick Drake, plus outfielders Dave Cornwall and Dave Humphrey. But mentor Bill McElreath is concerned with the Troy pitching beyond the versatile Popovich.

Orion coach George Elias has a dependable moundman in Leslie Waggoner, and plans to key the Dragons' defense around returning shortstop Tim O'Dea.

Hitting looms a shortcoming and the Dragons need mound depth before they'll be able to challenge the stronger teams.

A strong summer program may provide the impetus for Fitzgerald's Spartans to add to the football and basketball laurels, but their spring success may be in track. Cousino, meanwhile, could be the stronger of the two.

Finish their participation in the O-A circuit.

Estrada, listed on the roster of the Mets' Williamsport farm club in the Eastern League, most likely will move up to the parent club on the basis of his fine showing.

The former member of the Baltimore Orioles and Chicago Cubs, who spent most of last season with Vancouver in the Pacific Coast League, didn't pitch this spring until two weeks ago because of a blister on his index finger. The Mets obtained him from Vancouver for about $20,000.

WINNING PUN
Estrada got the victory when Jerry Grote doubled home Jerry Grote in the bottom of the 10th. Don Cardwell pitched the first six innings for New York, giving up three hits and striking out six. Bob Gibson yielded one run on five hits and struck out eight in going seven innings for St. Louis.

Woody Held's two-run double capped a three-run 10th inning burst as Baltimore beat Minnesota 5-3 in a night game at Orlando, Fla., and the Chicago White Sox 8-4 under the lights at Arlington, Tex.

In day games, Washington outbatted the New York Yankees but still won 5-2; California edged San Francisco 1-0; Boston trounced Houston 5-2; Boston topped Detroit 4-1; Kansas City trounced Philadelphia 11-3 and Cleveland routed Cincinnati 11-1.

Chuck Estrada was perfect—and that might be just good enough to get him back into the major leagues.

The veteran right-hander retired all 12 men he faced Thursday night in the New York Mets' 2-1 10 inning victory over St. Louis at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Florida Pro Plays Angles in Taking Lead in Masters

eagle on the no. 8 hole by Australian Bruce Devlin.
Devlin used a 4-wood for his second shot and the ball lingered around the lip before falling in. He finished 55-38-72, Palmer, Gay Brewer and Dave Marr were among those at one-over par.

confidence, Yancey was not overly excited about his three-stroke lead over Casper and bigger lead over tournament favorites Nicklaus and Palmer.
His excitement was subdued, primarily, because "it's a long way to go to Sunday evening," and secondly, because a nervous breakdown while at West Point put a big dent in his career thereby "teaching me to relax and not to get overly excited."

How did he feel playing in his first Masters?
"It has always been one of my dreams. I was a little lonely on the course today. My mom and dad and my wife, Linda, were the extent of my gallery," he jested.

When the hole-by-hole scores were being posted and Yancey went three-under par on the 13th hole with a three-foot birdie chip shot went long and he putted downhill twice.
On the rugged par-3 12th hole, he camed a 40-foot putt to go three under, and on the 13th he went four under with a three-foot birdie.

He could have eagled No. 15, a 530-yarder, when his 3-wood shot dropped four feet from the pin, but he putted for the birdie.
"I had a 63 and a 66 during the past winter, but under the circumstances of this tournament, this has to be my best played round ever," he said.

He started in trouble on a freakish situation on the first hole, when at the moment of his swing on his second shot under a tree, a man's hat flew off and landed a couple feet from the ball.
He actually muffed the shot. The ball went straight up and hit the tree. He hit out, and then on his fourth shot, the ball he has more confidence than ever about winning the Masters this year, was two over par after seven holes.

"But you never give up. I learned a long time ago not to do that," he said.
He still remembers his 1964 opening round when he split an eagle and two birdies, he had an 87, the highest score of the day.

Jacklin, 23, had been a consistent money winner on the foreign tour in recent months, winning a share of prize money in New Zealand, Australia, the Philippines, Thailand, Malaysia and Hong Kong.
He will be with the British Ryder Cup team which will face the U.S. team in Houston this fall.

BREAKDOWN
"I started at West Point in 1957 and would have graduated in 1961, but I had this nervous breakdown in 1960 and received a medical discharge from the academy," he said.
At the academy, he played golf and took part in the NCAA tournament in 1960. Oddly, the college player who defeated him in the first round was an Ohio State senior by the name of Jack Nicklaus.
After he recovered from his illness, Yancey went on to complete his college education at Florida State University.

8 Lunar Landing Sites Chosen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fu-NASA Office of Manned Space Operations U.S. astronauts en route to flight explained that the sites chosen for lunar landings were chosen to provide each prime lunar landing site at lunar landing missions with a choice of three sites along the equator.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Thursday it had chosen the prime sites from 20 that had three opportunities to launch Apollo spacecraft in a single month. He added that each site chosen for the Surveyor spacecraft is large enough for one or more landings.

NASA released Thursday more of some 360 photographs taken by Lunar Orbiter 3.

PINT-SIZED PERSUADER — Seventy-year-old John Loescher holds one of the reasons he won't be going back to his home in East Germany. Four-month-old Kristine Loescher of Minneapolis, Minn., is one of 21 grandchildren the elder Loescher has never seen. When he arrived earlier this week he was still debating whether to go back. However, the grandchildren proved the deciding factor.

Responsibility Is Shared Under Teen Driver Law

LANSING (UPI) — Michigan has a unique law that pulls together parents and law enforcement officials into shared responsibility for the driving habits of youths under 18 years of age.

The law requires parents to accept the responsibility for their own offspring conduct, themselves when they are behind the wheel.

In turn, the state is required to cooperate with a parent who thinks his child has abused his driving privileges.

The law, in effect, gives parents the right to revoke the driver's licenses of their children under 18.

Though the act has been in force since April of last year, the state has used administrative authority to accomplish the same ends prior to that time.

PARENTAL APPROVAL — Michigan grants driving licenses to persons between 16 and 18 only with parental approval and after completion of a drivers' education course.

In rare instances, licenses will be issued to youths between 14-16 whose parents are disabled or for some other valid reason cannot drive.

The Michigan State Police and officials of the secretary of state's office who handle driving license responsibilities are convinced that the law has served its purpose.

"We feel it's a good thing," said Capt. Don Downer, commanding officer of the State Police Safety and Traffic Division. "It provides parental control. It does this because a parent who is not succeeding in keeping his son's driving under control can ask for help from the department of state and, of course, will receive action under this law."

Neither the State Police nor Milan Clark, chief of drivers' licensing for the state, keep separate records on the number of parents who have requested that their children's licenses be revoked.

However, a supervisor in Clark's office estimated the total at 250 since April 1966.

Downer said a study would have to be made before it could be determined whether the law has reduced the accidents of Michigan's teen-age drivers.

HAS HELPED — "It would be 'safe to assume' that it has helped," Downer said.

The consensus among state and local traffic officials is that the psychological effect of the law exceeds its practical effect.

Bataan, Corregidor Vets Gather in Manila

MANILA (AP) — About 300 Philippine and American war veterans, some still on crutches, stood silently at attention today for the ceremony opening the four-day observance of the 25th anniversary of Bataan and Corregidor.

A military guard of honor presented arms as the Philippine flag was raised at the memorial to Jose Rizal, the Philippines' national hero, on the shores of Manila Bay overlooking the famed World War II battleground.

The veterans then went to the Spanish-style palace of President Ferdinand Marcos, a survivor of the Bataan death march and the most decorated Filipino soldier of World War II.

"I see many familiar faces from across the seas," said Marcos, as he welcomed them in his study. A captain during the war, he escaped from the Japanese after Bataan was captured and became a legendary guerrilla fighter.

RECEIVES PLAQUE

Arthur Bressi of Mechanicsburg, Pa., commander of the American Defenders of Bataan and Corregidor, presented Marcos with a plaque and cap making him honorary commander of the association.

"It is not an honor we take lightly," said Bressi, who fought on Corregidor with the 20th Coast Artillery.

He said the title was bestowed "because of the esteem we have

The silver anniversary ceremonies will include visits to the battle sites and old prison camps.

OTHER OFFICIALS

Among those present were officials of the Philippine Defenders of Bataan and Corregidor, including Southeast Asia Treaty Organization Secretary General Jesus M. Vargas.

Abishai, son of the biblical David's sister Zeruah, was a celebrated warrior during the reign of King David and killed upwards of 300 men with nothing but a lance.

A letter from El Paso, Texas, asks: "Does the correct play always win? Don't experts ever take a losing finesse?"

The answer to this is that experts frequently take losing finessses. Sometimes they have no choice. If you have to take a finesse for a king you only have one way to go.

Other times they go wrong just as everyone else does and on some occasions they deliberately finesse in a certain direction to make sure that the dangerous hand does not get in the lead.

West opens the seven of spades against South's three no-trump contract. East plays the jack and South holds back his king. East continues with the ace and another spade and South is in with the king.

He has two ways to finesse for the queen of diamonds. You can see that queen reopening quietly in the West hand and can see that if South plays the king of diamonds and continues the ten he will take the rest of the tricks and won't even have to finesse at all. The queen will show up when he leads the ten.
 Our expert would also lose his membership in the experts' union if he made that play. The reason is that he does not know where the queen of diamonds is but he does know where the rest of the spades are.

What do you respond?
 A—If you are sure that your partner won't pass you should bid two hearts. There may be a slam here. If he is likely to pass at two hearts, then bid three no-trump.

TODAY'S QUESTION
 You bid two hearts and your partner bids three spades. What do you do now?

Ransom Kidnapings Have Become Rare

NEW YORK (AP) — Kidnaping for ransom in the United States became commonplace in the depression '30s, but since World War II crimes like the abduction in Beverly Hills of 11-year-old Kenneth Young have become increasingly rare.

One major recent kidnapping that has remained unsolved is that of Daniel Goldman in Miami in March 1966. His parents were asked for $50,000 ransom, but the money was not paid and the boy never found.

The FBI says the Young case, the Goldman case and only three others of more than 700 kidnappings since the passage of the Lindbergh law in 1932 remain unsolved. Under the law, the bureau is given jurisdiction when it is believed the victim has been taken across state lines.

OTHER CASES

The three other unsolved cases:

Mary Lou Olsen, 10, kidnapped Jan. 3, 1960, in National City, Calif. No request for ransom was made. The body was found nine days later in a ravine 14 miles south of Tijuana, Mexico.

Peter David Levine, abducted while on his way home from school in New Rochelle, N.Y., Feb. 24, 1938. The boy's body was found washed up on the shore of Long Island Sound in New Rochelle May 29 after attempts to pay a $30,000 ransom were unsuccessful.

Charles Fletcher Mattson, 10, snatched Dec. 27, 1936 in Tacoma, Wash. while playing with three friends. A ransom of $25,000 was demanded. The child's body was found near Everett, Wash.

SINCE 1936

Other major kidnappings cases since 1936 include:

Michael Katz, Kansas City, seized March 18, 1930. Returned March 19. Ransom of $200,000 paid.

Nell Donnelly, Kansas City, seized Dec. 17, 1931. Returned Dec. 18. Ransom demand of $75,000 not paid.

Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. 19 months, Hopewell, N.J., seized March 2, 1932. Four dead March 12. Ransom of $50,000 paid.

Charles Boettcher II, Denver, seized Feb. 12, 1933. Returned March 3. Ransom of $60,000 paid.

Miss Mary McElroy, Kansas City, seized May 27, 1933. Returned May 28. Ransom of $30,000 paid.

William Hamm Jr., St. Paul, Minn., seized June 15, 1933. Returned June 19. Ransom of $100,000 paid.

Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City, seized July 22, 1933. Returned Aug. 1. Ransom of $200,000 paid.

Brooke Hart, San Jose, Calif., seized Nov. 10, 1933. Body found Nov. 26. Ransom demand of $40,000 not paid.

$200,000 RANSOM
Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul, seized Jan. 17, 1934. Returned Feb. 6. Ransom of $200,000 paid.

George Weyerhaeuser, 9, Tacoma, Wash., seized May 24, 1935. Returned June 1. Ransom of $200,000 paid.

Charles Bailey Cash, 5, Princeton, Fla., seized May 28, 1938. Body found June 9. Ransom of $10,000 paid.

Bobby Greenleaf, 6, Kansas City, seized Sept. 28, 1963. Body found Oct. 7. Ransom of $600,000 paid.

Adolph Coors III, Denver, seized and slain Feb. 9, 1960. Ransom demand of $500,000 planned but never delivered.

Anthony Alessio, San Diego, Calif., seized Nov. 24, 1960. Returned Nov. 25, 1960. Ransom of $200,000 paid.

Frank Sinatra Jr., Hollywood, seized Dec. 8, 1963. Returned Dec. 11. Ransom of $240,000 paid.

Legal Aid OK'd
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity has approved a $46,825 grant to the Lansing, Mich., Legal Aid Bureau to provide low-income residents in Ingham, Eaton, Clinton and Shiawassee counties with civil and legal services for a period of four months. U.S. Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said Thursday.

Redistricting OK'd in Allegan County

ALLEGAN (AP) — Supervisors in Allegan County Thursday agreed on apportioning the county into 21 districts with each supervisor representing about 3,000 people. The county now has 38 supervisors.

Under the plan, cities and villages in the county would be represented by nine supervisors and townships by 12.

The commission studied five plans, two calling for 21 districts, and others for five, 10 and 14 districts, according to the Commission Chairman Grover Grigsby.

NATO Nuclear Group Mulls ABMs for W. Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atlantic alliance's permanent nuclear planning group continues today its discussion of nuclear policy and strategy for the defense of Western Europe.

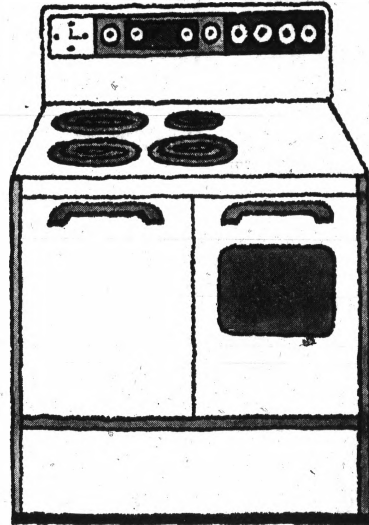

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara reportedly briefed the other six allied defense ministers who are members of the group Thursday on the results of a feasibility study of a European antiballistic missile system.

Some observers believe costs of such a system might be prohibitive, ranging from $3 billion to $14 billion, according to the commission Chairman Grover Grigsby.

The possible need for a Euro-lead to a further arms race, prompting President Johnson to suggest to the Soviets that discussions be held to curb the possibility. Talks now are underway in Moscow.

Watts Is Example of Consumer Explosion

By AILEEN SNOODY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON — What happens when the consumer is pushed too far and becomes irked by shoddy merchandise, side salespersons, misleading credit charges?

Watts happens.

This is the opinion of many who are working with the poverty programs.

They are watching the handling of the numerous consumer protection bills outlined by President Johnson in a special message to the 90th Congress.

The multimillion dollar shock to retailers and property owners last summer in Los Angeles is a dramatic, if hotheaded, argument for more interest in the consumer.

NEED PROTECTION
The President's Committee on Consumer Interests points out that two groups need the most protection from federal, state and local governments. These are the poverty-stricken and the elderly.

A pilot project on consumer education for the low income people in the capital is under way and, if successful, will be used in other cities.

Special committees are meeting to investigate harking of the elderly through real estate fraud, drug and medical quackery. And the President asked for congressional action in these areas.

It is estimated there are 10 million American families living in or on the doorstep of poverty. Allied with them are the retired or elderly called "the most intense" consumers.

MOST FOR MONEY

These really are the full-time consumers who must get the most for their money."

However, the politicians who may use the consumer bills to lock in '68 votes are thinking of the midstate, those who supposedly can read, write and who should be equipped to buy wisely.

That they find it difficult to do so when shopping comes out in a study revealed by the President's Consumer Advisory Council.

College-educated shoppers directed to select the least expensive package in 20 product categories failed 43 per cent of the time, at an extra cost of 9 per cent.

ONE ARGUMENT

This is one argument for federal action to help the consumer.

Another point is that "the consumer must be a chemist, mechanic, electrician and a nutritionist to fathom what he is buying, what it will do, how well it will perform and endure, and how to take care of it."

Some consumer dilemmas include:
• The woman who bought a $14.98 per square yard carpet and discovered one sunny day that the fabric installed varied in quality and color from room to room.

• The young man who took a trial membership in a health club and learned later he had unknowingly signed a contract and owed the club $168.

• The mother and father who accepted and paid premiums for a "serviceman's policy" issued by a fly-by-night firm.

According to Gale Gotschall, assistant counsel for the FTC in the last year there has been a 40 per cent increase in deceptive practice complaints.

MORE AWARENESS

He feels, though, that this reflects "not so much an increase in actual deceptive practices going on in the economy but more awareness of the consumer of availability of aid."

Yet he also answers the question, "Does the consumer know where to go for help?" with, "I doubt it."

If more consumers would factually report what they think is deception, fraud or a bad product to the FTC, the BBA or local Chamber of Commerce "we could focus on the problems more effectively," Gotschall adds.

He stresses that about half of the complaints to FTC are who would like to see bad business practice stopped. It hurts their business as much as it hurts the consumer.

PREFERENCE

The FTC, however, and other governmental agencies would prefer state or local officials to take the lead.

But Gotschall realistically doesn't believe in the honor system.

"The public can't protect itself from false, fraudulent acts through self-regulation by industry if the regulation is not backed by laws and departments to protect the honest."

"Believe in independent self-regulation is like telling in Sunday school how good I'm going to be on Monday."

NEW GROUP

Consumers are organizing. Mrs. Paul West, a housewife who spearheaded the supermarket boycotts in the Denver area last year, is president of the new United National Consumers Association, Inc.

Another group the Consumer Organization Federation is headed by the Rev. Robert J. McEwen, S.J., chairman of Boston College's Economics Department.

He was a member of the President's Consumer Advisory Committee.

It is reported there are 50,000 members in 37 states of Federated State Consumer groups.

What to Do When Cheated

Government and private agencies are interested in what consumers feel are deceptive practices, fraud or bad products which manufacturers offer to the public.

If you believe you've been taken, offer the evidence to any or all of the following consumer protection agencies:

- Your local Better Business Bureau
- Your local Chamber of Commerce
- Bureau of Deceptive Practices Federal Trade Commission Washington, D.C.
- Education and Information Division Food and Drug Administration Department of Health, Education and Welfare Washington, D.C.
- Your state attorney general Consumer Affairs Bureau State Capital
- The manufacturer of the product or operator of the service in question.

80 Miles of Beauty

'Tulip Time' in Louisiana

Tulips by the tens of thousands in dazzling colors are adding new dimensions of spring beauty to Tensas Parish — along the highways, in home gardens, and in the famous Louisiana Dutch Gardens just off the Great River Road (U.S. 61) in Newellton, Louisiana.

The spring extravaganza began ten years ago with a highway beautification program initiated by E. R. McDonald, planter, conservationist and community beautifier. At that time it was called "Six Miles of Beauty." Today the tulip trail has become "Eighty miles of Beauty."

McDonald, known as "Mr. Ed" to thousands, felt something could be done to make the vast empty turnarounds more attractive to out-of-state travelers. He encouraged several of his neighboring planters to join him in a highway beautification project. Along a six mile route from Newellton to Somerset they planted and cultivated various trees, plants and shrubs.

Flowering plum trees, quince and peach, green young pines, oaks, magnolia, crepe myrtle, paracantha — these and others soon were blossoming and growing in the bright Delta Sun.

Neighbors who joined Mr. Ed in the venture were the late W. W. Burnside on his Franklin Plantation, Jack P. Mabry on Somerset, and the Panola Company on Blackwater and Balmoral Plantations.

"Mr. Ed's" vision of beauty was contagious and with the help of garden clubs, banks, residents large and small Tensas Parish residents have stretched the original six miles to "Eighty Miles of Beauty."

All over the Parish now people are planting tulips and other spring flowers to beautify their parish and to add to the tourism effort. All three towns — Newellton, St. Joseph and Waterproof — have organized a strong tourism commission to capitalize on the national reputation of that Tensas Parish had acquired as leaders in the current highway and community beautification program. This year they have a parish Tulip Queen, petite Miss Cynthia McDonald of Newellton.

McDonald was not satisfied with beautifying only the "top." Four years ago he created the internationally famous Louisiana Dutch Gardens on Duvesset Plantation just two miles off the Tulip Trail.

On this five acres are landscaped plots of tulips and roses, imported windmills from the Netherlands and built a series of Dutch shops with displays of Holland cheeses, tobacco, candies and other memorabilia of the Old Country.

For the children, there is a miniature railway — The Delta Dutch Line — which travels the length and breadth of the vast concentration of tulip plantations.

For the 1967 season a larger rose garden has been added; additional ornamental trees and shrubs; a Dutch fence in rainbow colors; an imported Windmill and a second engine and train of passenger cars, as well as a tractor driven trailer to convey children of all ages the full mile around the gardens and tulip farm.

Expansion is the basic philosophy of the founder who believes that future plans should be unrepresented projects are completed.

The second year at Louisiana Dutch Gardens, the size and number of tulip beds trebled — and an adjacent tulip farm was added.

This brilliant "Bit of Old Holland" which stretches in rainbow coloration through his wheat fields involved the planting of more than 170 varieties of tulips, many of which have not been cultivated in Louisiana before. The results are spectacular.

With the aid of horticultural researchist Warren Meadows of Louisiana State University, it has been proved once and for all that tulips do, after all, grow well in the South if proper planting techniques are used. These modern methods of tulip culture have been published in a colorful booklet, "How to Grow Tulips in the South," which "is distributed free of charge to home gardeners over the South."

SHIPPED TO MICHIGAN

When the first tulip bulbs were harvested last fall, they shipped them to hoe gardeners as far away as Michigan. All of the orders for the first crop were placed when spring visitors saw for themselves the beauty of the various varieties and made their selections from those they saw in full outburst in McDonald's tulip fields.

The new McDonald Tulip Farm is a first in the South and represents a new industry for Louisiana.

To add continental flavor to the Louisiana Dutch Gardens, antique band organs and calliope were installed. The Holland tattoo and the organ grinder's serenades were actually recorded on the streets of Amsterdam, and are as distinctly Dutch as a Rembrandt, delicate Royal Delft, and clog shoes.

The music of brass bands is always associated with a holiday mood, and the array of instruments makes every day a festival at Dutch Gardens. As in Holland, the constant strains of music echoes throughout the area.

One of the most popular features of Louisiana Dutch Gardens is the Old Holland Cheese Shop. Here is concentrated one of the finest stock of imported cheese in America. While Holland is revered for the paintings of Old Dutch Masters, this "other art of the Dutch" has inspired gourmets for centuries.

Delicacies in Dutch Gardens include the famous Edam, Gouda, and Leyden cheese from Holland, as well as Swedish, Danish and special domestic varieties. The shop is a year-around delight, and represents one of the South's largest mail order firms.

This year new lines were added to the cheeses, candies, to

SPRING BEAUTIES — Louisiana Dutch Gardens had its real start almost 10 years ago when E. R. McDonald and neighboring plantations owners started a highway beautification program in Tensas which impressed the nation. Flowering shrubs and great numbers of Holland flower bulbs, mostly tulips, dazzled travelers on the Great River Road. Garden Clubs of Newellton, St. Joseph and Waterproof helped with the beautification program.

Succos and other delicacies from Holland — a complete line of canned vegetables and meats.

New institutions have been part of the outgrowth of Dutch Gardens. An exchange program of students have been initiated which has already created interest among school children of the Southwest. Students from Holland have added to the Old World flavor of Dutch Gardens every year since its inception.

An annual Easter Sunrise Service comprised of church choirs of the area was initiated last season. Singers gather in a crescent around Willow Pond for the early morning service, as in Tensas and on Louisiana visitors through the gardens for the enjoyment of inspirational music and the beauty of sunrise and flower plantations.

For information on the tulip season in Tensas Parish, Louisiana Dutch Gardens and the McDonald Tulip Farm, write to E. R. McDonald, Louisiana Dutch Gardens, Newellton, Louisiana. Two movies in 16mm on the highway beautification program the early morning service, as in Tensas and on Louisiana Dutch Gardens are also available at no charge. They are "Eighty Miles of Beauty," and "A Bit of Old Holland."

DOWN SOUTH—Tulips by the millions add new dimensions of beauty in Louisiana Dutch Gardens and in the new McDonald Tulip Farm. Six miles of beauty in Tensas have grown to "80 miles of beauty" and extend north of Lake Providence. More than a quarter of a million visitors will visit Louisiana Dutch Gardens and Tensas Parish during March and April.

Rose Annual Gives Hints for Everyone

Did you ever eat a rose? Or do you grow them? Or just like to look at them? The 1967 American Rose Annual has something for everyone who likes roses — in one way or another.

"Would You Eat Your Roses?" tells how to make sugared rose petals, "rose dew" and other delicacies.

"Proof of the Pudding" evaluates on a nationwide basis the newer rose varieties, while color plates show many of them.

Another article helps you decide which trees to plant to complement your rose garden. Yet others are for those who are scientifically minded, discussing rootstock research, methods of introducing polyploidy and rose photography.

The 1967 "American Rose Annual" is available from the American Rose Society, 4048 Roselea Pl., Columbus, Ohio 43214.

This 250-page book may be purchased or received free with a membership in the American Rose Society.

Membership in the society also includes a subscription to the "American Rose Magazine," the use of the society's lending library on roses and general gardening, free admission to gardens and rose shows and the availability of a staff of authorities to help with your rose problems.

Riding Mower Safety Tips

With riding mower and lawn tractors becoming a part of the suburban scene, the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute suggests the following rules for safer operation of these 4-wheeled vehicles:

- Learn the manual and know how to stop the machine quickly.
- Do not carry passengers.
- Do not operate the machine on hills.
- Do not allow children to operate machine — The garden tractor is not a toy. Adults who aren't familiar with the controls should not be allowed to operate it.

- Clear area of children and pets — They are in danger of being injured by objects hurled from the mower and from being run over by the machine, if itself.

- Clear foreign objects from work area before starting — A small stone can become a deadly missile when picked up and tossed by the mower's blades.
- Put machine in neutral before starting — to avoid those sudden starts — especially on hills.

- Stop engine whenever you leave machine — A running tractor or riding mower can present a dangerous temptation to a curious toddler.

- Fill gas tank before starting — A running engine and some carelessly poured gasoline is a sure fire recipe for danger.
- Watch for holes and hidden hazards — Always keep an eye on where you're going.
- Look behind before backing — The most tragic of all tractor accidents — a parent backing his machine without looking to see if a pet or child is in danger — "til it's too late!"

- Watch traffic near roadways — Try to keep your tractor off roads. If you must use public ways, exercise extreme caution at all times.

IMPENDING DANGER — This innocent looking scene is about to be interrupted by a spray of danger. Dad forgot that the mower's blades can pick up small objects hidden in the lawn and hurl them from the discharge chute. Accord-

Bird Housing Goes Authentic Colonial

An authentic and unusual form of colonial housing will be available to Williamsburg's feather population this spring for the first time in 200 years. Williamsburg residents prepare to greet hundreds of catbirds, matins, evening grosbeaks, and Baltimore orioles that migrate here each spring.

Other species such as bluebirds, cardinals, mockingbirds and chickadees which have remained to winter in this onetime capital of the Virginia colony also will be encouraged to take up residence in the new dwellings.

The question is, will the birds themselves recognize these long-forgotten objects as their ancestral homes?

The clay birdhouses are authentic reproductions of an eighteenth-century bird bottle which was excavated last summer from the James Caddy House yard by Colonial Williamsburg's director of archaeology, Ivor Noel Hume.

Another Williamsburg archaeological site has yielded a number of fragments of the bird bottles which are known to have been owned and used by Tidewater's colonial residents.

The 1746 inventory of John Burdett, who kept an ordinary at Edinburgh Castle on Williamsburg's Duke of Gloucester Street, included "16 bird bottles", along with a garden pot, a chimney flower pot and the like.

It is not known where Burdett bought his bird bottles, but in March of 1752 the following advertisement appeared in the Virginia Gazette: "To be Sold, at a Store near the Church in Williamsburg, at very low Terms, for ready Money only, a large Assortment of Stone and Earthen Ware."

Among the sundry items listed for sale were "Butter-pots of various sizes" and "Martin-pots." This latter was another name for the clay vessels.

The bird bottles currently are on sale at Colonial Williamsburg's Craft House and will appear in the next revision of the Craft House catalog, to be printed next fall.

The Williamsburg Pottery Factory in Lightfoot, Va., is making the bird bottles for Craft House. The clay birdhouses were put through a rigid and minute examination, including precise measurements and detailed comparison with the original.

Furnished last fall with drawings of the eighteenth-century prototype, Williamsburg Pottery owner James E. Maloney made several batches before perfecting the final version which was approved by Colonial Williamsburg's Craft Advisory Committee in February of this year.

The bird bottles, fashioned from native James City County clay and hand-thrown and turned on a potter's wheel like the eighteenth-century original, are coated with a transparent glaze to make them waterproof and provide prospective inhabitants with adequate insulation.

Material Salvage for Sweet Peas

When the weight of a sweet pea vine becomes very heavy, weak tendrils often lose their grip on ordinary string. To keep them from slipping this way, cut strips of selvages from material, tie them together and string them from a wire.

This stops the slipping, for the rough pliable surface gives the tendrils something to hold onto.

If any of your perennials look crowded in the garden, be sure to divide them. Give them room to flourish.

To Age-Old Problem

Seed Firm Has Solution

As seedlings begin springing from the ground, gardeners, both old and new, often wonder which ones they planted and which ones are weeds.

Northrup, King & Co., Minneapolis-based seed firm, offers a solution. On each packet of seed the company has printed a sketch of the seedling of that variety in its earliest recognizable state.

From Ageratum to Zinnia, the complete collection of drawings includes 80 flower varieties and 13 herbs. A horticultural artist made the drawings from close-up polaroid pictures of the seedlings.

This spring, when you are selecting seeds from your neighborhood seed rack, look for the back of the packet. They can be a real help when your garden starts to sprout.

Insects Wondrous Creatures

Insects are truly wondrous creatures.

They produce food for humans, and are eaten by them. They are also used by man for fruit and vegetable pollination, in checking water contamination and as the source of ideas for jewelry and fabric design.

But in addition to their good, they also do evil.

“The fact is that the insect is probably the most underrated and least understood creature on earth,” contends Dr. Julius R. Hoffman, a Michigan State University entomologist.

HARDSHIP

“They do cause man a great deal of hardship, but their good and their evil create industry and a source of employment for millions of people,” he recently told a conference of state park concessioners on the MSU campus.

The only domesticated, food-producing insect on the earth today is the bee, which converts flower nectar into honey, he reminded.

As a potential food source for man, the bee again qualifies, he said, as do silkworm larvae, ants and pupae. These creatures are richer in protein than chicken eggs, he reported.

Insects are also on nature's menu for fish, birds and animals, and are used by man as bait to catch fish, he noted.

“Another important contribution of insects to man is in fruit and vegetable production,” Dr. Hoffman said. “They are vital for the effective pollination of figs, apples, onions and other farm crops.”

Insects contribute themselves and their products to industry, he said. They are used in the manufacture of shaving cream, cosmetics, candles, carbon paper, lacquer, shellac and other consumer items, as well as for ideas for jewelry, fabrics, ornaments, plaques and symbols, he continued.

“Songs (‘The Boll Weevil’), stories and poems have been written about insects,” he said, “and they are the source of some of our familiar proverbs and adages (‘Busy as a bee,’ ‘Industrious as an ant’).”

In addition to eating a goodly portion of our food, insects have given man a rough time in other ways, he said.

Grass Clippings Are Good Mulch

First, they must be thoroughly dried out before scattering them around.

Thick layers of green grass clippings will generate heat, become slimy, and give off a bad odor.

So spread thin and dry them first

Citronella Prefers Woodland Site

Citronella, collinsonia canadensis, is a deciduous perennial that grows from 1-3 feet tall. Blooming from July through October, it prefers a damp rich woods situation.

ARE TV SERVICE DEALERS GYPS?

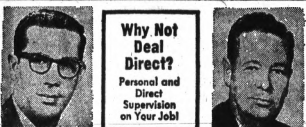

Service technicians are not fly-by-night businessmen. 99 out of 100 run their businesses properly. The other one per cent — the gyps — can usually be spotted a mile away. Nine times out of ten, they are the shops that feature "tourist" prices and ridiculously liberal service contracts. And their victims are generally not owners who expect to beat the game by "getting something for nothing."

Aboard a Barge, Columnist Drinks in Texas Landscape

By EARL WILSON

SAN ANTONIO — After they decorated me with a red bandana from the LBJ Ranch the other day, some Texas friends took me barge-riding on the San Antonio River, which, they say here, "winds around the town like a drunken old man going home late at night."

San Antonio hopes the Texas legislature will scuttle the law against mixed drinks this year—so folks can go pub-crawling by boat at the big exposition, HemisFair '68, anywhere they like, without totting a jug.

Our barge ride was almost Venetian, with barges instead of gondolas and "El Cucaracha" instead of "Arrivederci, Roma," and tequila instead of champagne.

San Antonio struck us with its beauty. We got a big look at it as part of our trip to cover the Latin-American ambassadors' hoodwink on at the LBJ Ranch.

The ride to the ranch on U.S. 281 had its fascinations, including signs saying "Whopperburgers," and occasional pretty names such as "Honey-suckle Lane." And the LBJ Ranch house is surprisingly modest in size.

On our barge ride we had bartenders, who, we were told, were millionaires, and we believe they were — rich fellows being hospitable to the city's guests.

"See that beautiful house," one guide said. "The owner told the architect to spend $250,000 on it, but make it look like it didn't cost $250,000."

"We are now going through San Antonio's poverty area," some wit remarked as we passed those palaces.

It was a wonderfully rewarding trip. I'd been to the Alamo a couple of times, but now, sauntering along a street opposite, I came to a tantalizing restaurant sign: "CORN DOG."

"What's a corn dog?" I couldn't resist asking the pretty waitress.

"Hot frankfurter on corn bread," the gal said. Praise be to Texas for that idea alone!

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN N.Y. . . . Mayor Lindsay's red-white-and-slightly-blue act at the fundraising at the Americana included a line: "Do you think Bobby Kennedy'll run for President?" . . . Only his hairdresser knows for sure. . . . The Mayor didn't clean up his act, by the way.

The Richard Kleiys became grandpapas via son David (who'll appear with his father in "Lamancha" in LA and San Francisco). Kiley'll star on Broadway next season in "Her First Roman," based on Shaw's "Caesar & Cleopatra" . . . Lawyers are buzzing around at "The Warm Body" rehearsals. Since Diana Merrill left claiming illness and Lois Markie, the standby, took over. Miss M. reportedly went to Florida.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Middle age is when one wishes there were some other way to start the day than by getting up."

EARL'S PEARLS: Soupy Sales has a timely hint on what to give the man who has everything: An accountant to tell him how to keep it.

A toy manufacturer's bringing out a doll so real that you can claim it as a dependent. . . . That's earl, brother.

Pontiac Police Have Their Own 'Most Wanted' List

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Pontiac Press, in cooperation with Pontiac area law enforcement agencies, periodically will publish lists of the most wanted persons. This is the first.)

By MEL NEWMAN

The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) issues nationwide a list of the 10 persons "most wanted" by that agency. The Pontiac Police Department has a list of its own — of persons sought in connection with crimes committed locally.

Offenses involved range from passing bad checks to statutory rape, some of the warrants issued dating back 10 or more years.

ENRIQUE GAYTAN

Sought in connection with the alleged statutory rape of a 12-year-old girl, Gay-

tan, 37, is named in a warrant issued in 1965. His last known address is 228 W. Beverly.

Gaytan is described as 5 feet 4, 165 pounds, black hair, black eyes and light complexion. Identifying marks include a mole on the left side of his nose. He has been known to wear a mustache, police said.

COLIS ANDERSON

Baker, about 42, is named on a 1966 warrant for fraud and embezzlement.

He allegedly came into illegal possession of U.S. currency and checks totaling $1,170 belonging to a Pontiac man.

Baker, whose last known address is 52 Jacksons, was known to drive a 1964 four-door light blue Pontiac. No physical description is available.

DONALD GIDDINGS

Names in a 1955 John Doe warrant for rape, Giddings, whose last known address is a Detroit hotel, is sought in connection with the alleged sexual assault of a Pontiac woman in August of that year.

His age is not known and no physical description is available.

RICHARD BENNETT

Bennett, about 39, is named in a 1961 warrant for auto theft.

He allegedly was in possession of a 1957 car owned by a Pontiac man which he failed to return in July of that year and was charged with converting it to his own use.

Bennett, whose address was not known, is described as of medium build, about 175 pounds, with brown hair and brown eyes.

Expect Fight, O'Brian's Friend Warns Police

Police searching for Donald V. O'Brian of Pontiac, wanted for questioning in the rape-murder of a Grand Ledge girl, have been warned that the 40-year-old escapee from Ionia State Hospital won't give himself up without a fight.

Grand Ledge Police Chief William Evelett said Donald Ringle, who escaped with O'Brian and two others March 26, told him yesterday O'Brian would not surrender peacefully.

Ringle, 32, linked O'Brian to the slaying of 18-year-old Roma Cypher when he was questioned after surrendering himself to Sturgis police earlier in the day.

Her body was found in the Grand River near her grandparents' home. Police said she had been strangled and assaulted while running an errand Saturday for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Cypher.

Sources at both the Pontiac Police Department and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department said they are investigating the possibility that O'Brian may be headed for the Pontiac area.

SEARCH AREA

Reports that O'Brian was in Grand Ledge Wednesday led to a search of abandoned buildings and wooded areas there, but police said they found nothing.

Pontiac police said several reports that O'Brian or a man answering the description here proved invalid.

RAPIST

O'Brian, committed from Pontiac in 1953, was charged with the rape and murder of a 15-year-old city woman in July of that year and at least five other assaults on women.

He is described by hospital officials as a criminal sexual psychopath.

GOV. GEORGE ROMNEY

Romney Viet Talk Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's Gov. Romney confronts tonight the biggest issue yet facing his unannounced bid for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination — the war in Vietnam.

All signs point to a general endorsement of President Johnson's war policies — as an unpleasant but necessary task — spiced with criticism of the way the administration has sought peace and internal stability in South Vietnam.

Romney is to discuss Vietnam at a dinner in Hartford, Conn., marking the 150th anniversary of the Hartford Times.

The governor already has said he will offer no specific alternatives, discuss no tactics. Romney said he will outline his basic view, and that is all.

Nor will he discuss that view, before or after he outlines it. "I don't intend to let a lot of reporters divert attention from what I have to say," Romney said Wednesday.

What Romney has to say is crucial to his embryo campaign for White House nomination in 1968 simply because, since emerging as a potential candidate, he has refused to take a position.

While he has harshly criticized Johnson at times, Romney's standard answer to questions about Vietnam has been that he had the subject under thorough examination.

Romney announced three weeks ago

he was ready to talk in Hartford to-night.

That announcement — said to have startled some of his own assistants — cast political attention on his speech.

CONSULTATION

The governor plans a trip to Vietnam this year. He has consulted diplomats, politicians, Senate speeches and liberal-minded Republican senators in his quest for information.

GOP Fiscal Reform Bills Are Readied for Debate

LANSING (AP) — Surprisingly little debate was heard as House Republicans amended their tax reform bills yesterday and moved them into position for final passage.

There was scarcely a murmur from Democrats.

But something more than a murmur is expected next Wednesday if debate begins on schedule on the $314-million tax package which includes a 2½ per cent personal income tax.

Yesterday's action was only technical, and Democratic leaders had agreed in the morning not to interfere.

The process involved amending bills already reported from the House Taxation Committee to incorporate new ideas approved by the Republican caucus after the committee sent the measures to the floor.

LIVE BROADCAST

Michigan State University radio station WKAR broadcast the proceedings live — a rarity in the Legislature — but all listeners heard were voice votes on amendments offered with little or no explanation, almost no debate and usually no dissent.

Republican Floor Leader William Hampton, R-Bloomfield Hills, planned to move today to schedule the opening of debate on tax reform for Wednesday. He said he hoped for a final vote next Thursday or Friday.

KIDNAPING STORY — Kenneth Young, 11, joins his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Young, in looking over newspapers at their Beverly Hills, Calif., home last night, telling how he was kidnaped from his home Monday. He was released unharmed yesterday after his father paid $250,000 ransom.

Salute to Youth Honors 215

Teen-age talent — and the youthful vigor which makes the best of it — came on strong last night at Pontiac Northern High School.

There, 215 young people were honored at the third annual Salute to Youth.

Sponsored by the Pontiac Citizens' Committee on Youth, the program was attended by about 800 persons.

The program, honoring 14- to 18-year-old students at public and parochial schools in the Pontiac School District, is thought to be unique because of the specialization of award categories.

"Our 215 honorees this evening are receiving recognition not only for talent and distinct achievement, for talent alone is worthless if misdirected," Pontiac Mayor Pro Tem Leslie H. Hudson noted.

'OUTSTANDING CITIZENS'

"All of our youth honorees have also exemplified themselves as outstanding citizens not only for the present, but also for their past record and example," the speaker said.

"They have accepted their freedom to create, to be different, to dissent and to lead with a true sense of responsibility."

Presentations were made by 10 educators and professional persons who have distinguished themselves in the fields represented.

Outstanding accomplishment was recognized in business, speech, art and handicrafts, science, creative writing, traffic safety, music, scholarship, athletics and leadership.

Mistress of ceremonies was Mrs. David Saks, chairman of the Salute to Youth. Featured in the entertainment portions of the program were the Northern Madrigal Singers.

WRITERS MEET — Novelist John Quirk of West Bloomfield Township presents Salute to Youth awards to three Pontiac teen-agers who last night were honored for their creative writing achievement. Among 215 young people who received

Freezing Weather Is the Prediction for Area Tonight

Just when Pontiac area residents are getting enthusiastic about shedding winter togs, the weatherman turns off the heat and everyone shivers in light topcoats.

If anyone has planted geraniums or tomato plants this early he should cover them tonight. The prediction is clearing and cooler with freezing temperatures.

The temperature dropped to 35 at 7 a.m. today.

According to the official U.S. Weather Bureau report, the outlook for the Pontiac area through Sunday looks like this: TODAY — Cloudy and cooler with partial clearing this afternoon. High today ranging from 40 to 48. West to northwest winds at 8 to 16 miles per hour.

TONIGHT — Clearing and cooler with freezing temperatures, the low 26 to 30.

TOMORROW — Sunny and warmer.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. dismissed today Adam Clayton Powell's suit for his seat in Congress.

Hart also denied Powell's application for a three-judge court to hear the constitutional challenge of the resolution that excluded him. He said the federal court does not have jurisdiction in the case.

Herbert Reid, one of Powell's attorneys, said that the issue will be taken as quickly as possible to the U.S. Court of Appeals. Reid said he would file the appeal probably sometime today.

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Bert Yancey, a former West Point cadet from Tallahassee, Fla., was the golfer to overtake in the second round of the 51st Masters Tournament today at Augusta National Golf Club.

Yancey's five-under-par 67, fired on the demanding 6,989-yard course yesterday despite strong, gusty winds, was termed "remarkable" by four-time champion Arnold Palmer who found himself six strokes behind with a 73.

Palmer and defending champion Jack Nicklaus, who had a par 72, said they weren't overly concerned about their status and Yancey's big lead.

For Nicklaus, a 1955-time Masters champion, it was the poorest opening round since his 74 in the 1963 tournament.

"I didn't drive particularly well and my putting was scratchy," he said, pointing to the fact that he had only two birdies.

'PRETTY SLOPPY'

Palmer called his round "unusual" and "pretty sloppy" in spots. "You've got to make birdies around here on the par fives," he said. "One birdie is not a very good round."

Powell Cleared to Run for Seat

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The way has been cleared for Adam Clayton Powell to run for his former Congressional seat from Harlem next Tuesday.

The Court of Appeals unanimously ruled Thursday that Powell was eligible to run for Congress from the 18th Congressional District. The state's highest court issued no opinion in upholding a decision by a State Supreme Court judge in Manhattan.

The Rev. Ervin F. Yearling, 35, Conservative party candidate in the special election, had filed suit contending that the House action ousting Powell also prevented his serving in the 90th Congress.

In addition to Powell and Yearling, Republican Lucille Pickett Williams is seeking the post. All three are Negroes.

Several See Berserk Man Kill 2 Officers

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A man who killed two policemen could have been stopped without bloodshed, Police Chief William Barnes says.

"If just one person had stepped in, my men would be alive today," Barnes said. He said a group of women witnesses told him several men stood by Thursday while a berserk man disarmed Sgt. William H. Fletcher and killed him with his service revolver.

"They just stood there," Barnes said. "And if my man had used his pistol to subdue the suspect he would have been charged by the press with police brutality."

Fletcher, 52, and motorcycle patrolman David Van Curler, 31, a father of five, were slain with their own service revolvers as they answered a complaint at a federal savings and loan association.

John C. Cooley, 32, was charged with first degree murder. He was captured in front of the Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan Association as he stood over the dead policemen, a gun in his hand.

Cooley was subdued by Thomas Gorman, 29, a Silver Star winner who picked up Van Curler's discarded gun and got the drop on Cooley. Van Curler's pistol had only one bullet in it but the other was empty.

Action Delayed on Multiples

Formal W. Bloomfield Ordinance Is Awaited

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A decision on a request to rezone the corner of Maple and Orchard Lake to multiple housing has been postponed by the Township Board until a formal ordinance is drafted.

The plan has already been recommended for approval by the Planning Commission and the Oakland County Coordinating, Zoning and Planning Committee.

One board trustee, Wayne Blood, has indicated he would vote against the rezoning because he likes the character of the township as it is and is not convinced that the multiples would contribute to the tax base.

He said it would all depend on the type of multiples proposed but that he feels it is a "questionable thing" at this time.

"I will vote against it," he said, "but it is not an irrevocable decision."

PLAN APPROVAL

Henry Moses, chairman of the planning commission, pointed out that multiples are no longer considered second-class dwellings and stressed that the planning commission has the power of site plan approval before anything can be developed.

Supervisor John Warren said that no community can develop with only a single type of development and that multiple dwellings would provide a greater share of the taxes than would single-family dwellings.

In other action, the board has set salaries in the new budget at a total package, including fringe benefits, of $389,542.

Warren said the figure contains raises for employees but said the amounts will not be made public until the budget is approved later this month.

Holly Twp. Area Developed as Possible Recreation Site

By ED BLUNDEN

HOLLY TOWNSHIP — A developer here has taken a piece of marshy land dotted with small lakes on the eastern edge of the township, built a dam and levee and covered the land into what he hopes will be a prime recreation area.

The land is just west of the Genesee County border between the roads. The developer is Les Correll of Flint.

He said he acquired all the property adjacent to the newly created lake, once part of six different farms. He calls the new lake Seven Lakes. Another lake, Dickinson Lake, is on the property, but at a higher elevation.

According to county drain officials, Correll has thus far followed every legal step required to form a man-made lake, working with drain authorities and the State Conservation Department.

His next legal move will be a hearing in Oakland County Circuit Court May 9, at 9 a.m., to establish the normal elevation of the lake at 882 feet above sea level.

'REAL ASSET'

Correll said his property will be "a real asset to the community and an addition to property values."

Correll said his property now has a 180-acre lake on what was six small lakes and surrounding marsh and bogland.

He said in no case would the place be a "public" facility.

He said the lakes were 28 to 45 feet deep. His dam added 1 1/2 feet of water over the area, he said. The land is covered with good trees, oak and hickory, he added.

Cottrill was uncertain yesterday as to the future of the property. He said, depending on circumstances, he and his company, may develop or subdivide the land themselves.

WON'T BE PUBLIC

Also being considered is selling the whole development to a single buyer. He said he has considered selling it to a church or college for a camp.

He said in no case would the place be a "public" facility.

According to county drain officials, the water in the area does not drain into Oakland County, but north and east, toward the Shiawassee River basin.

If opposition develops, it may come from the city of Ponton.

IMPASSABLE ROAD

Cottrill said he has had some problems with the city and users of Eddy Lake Road. He said the road is impassable at present.

This is mostly due to the heavy snow and rainfall this winter and happens every spring, according to both Cottrill and county drain officials.

However, Cottrill said he has the Delta Engineering Co. of Flint working on the problem and pumps are now in operation.

A drainage ditch of 2,300 feet will be built to handle the Eddy Lake Road problem in the future, Cottrill said.

COULD BE CONTRIBUTION

Vic Smith, Ponton city manager, said the new facility "could be a great contribution to his city."

"We'll have to wait and see how it works out," he added. Smith pointed out the lake ends 600 feet from the Ponton city limits.

The city has requested to be heard at the May 9 hearing.

"We're not sure we'll have objections, but we want to protect our interest," he said. Eddy Lake road was under two feet of water yesterday, he said.

"Correll is willing to work with us. Perhaps the ditch he plans to build will solve the drain problem there permanently," Smith said.

Utica Party Set for Police Chief

UTICA — Some 500 people are expected to turn out for a benefit party for Police Chief Hazen Anderson tomorrow night.

A dinner-dance has been slated for 7 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 4425 Utica.

Anderson, age 55, was hospitalized last November with a stroke, having served 22 years with the Utica Police Office. He was the town's first police officer.

FLINT — As part of its plans to reduce air pollution, Buick Motor Division has announced that it will install a dust collecting system in its foundry cupolas. Robert Breeden, general manufacturing manager, said work would begin immediately.

"There will be a significant improvement in air pollution within two years," he added.

Information presented to the boundaries committee yesterday indicated that petitions for both cityhood proposals were valid.

Strike Idles 250 in Oxford Twp.

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — A strike at American Aggregates Co. here has idled some 250 employees for the past week.

Negotiations between Pontiac Teamsters Local 614 and the company have been discontinued awaiting intervention by Federal or State Mediation Boards.

The union says it wants to get rid of a "no strike" clause in the contract and that it wants an increase of about 25 cents an hour over the 54 cents allegedly offered by management. Some of the increase offered includes fringe benefits.

Shelby Twp. Supervisor-Elect

Holmes Eager to Assume Post

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Supervisor-elect Kirby Holmes is set to prove his election last fall was no fluke.

Judging by last Saturday's annual meeting, the six Democrats on the Township Board are going to have to give way to some young Republican thinking.

"Nothing is going to get accomplished quickly because of the situation on the board," mused Holmes, 34, elected to the position of supervisor last fall, a post which he will assume Monday.

He feels however that while the board may already have won the first round, he came out the solid victor in the second skirmish.

Following the resignation of veteran Supervisor Lerin Evans two-and-a-half months ago, Holmes felt he was seriously slighted by the board by their failure to appoint him interim supervisor before his term of office legally began.

TIME LOST

"We could have been two-and-a-half months ahead," he said, "and by that, I mean the whole township — not just me."

Nevertheless Holmes marshaled his forces last Saturday to pack the annual meeting and get elected moderator over Evans.

"I never suspected they'd try to name Evans for the job," he said, "but we defeated them."

ELECTION NO FLUKE

"They've (the board) always looked on my election as a fluke," said the former Utica High School government teacher, "but maybe we convinced them it wasn't."

KIRBY HOLMES

He looks forward to his first board meeting April 18. Holmes has items he'd like to see accomplished, foremost among them being the construction of sidewalks near 10 district schools.

COST SHARED

"The school board has offered to share the cost," said Holmes, "and we must take advantage of that."

Interested in youth, both as a former teacher and as the father of two, Holmes next has his views on the beginning of an organized recreational program in the area.

Though the suggestion was made at the annual meeting that millage might have to be voted for such a program, Holmes feels the township can start small with money from the general fund and perhaps

In a solid, Democratic township, Holmes, without a recognized party to back him, defeated Evans by better than 500 votes.

Since that time Republican forces have been marshalled and Holmes reported the party now has 35 members in Shelby.

Though the suggestion was made at the annual meeting that millage might have to be voted for such a program, Holmes feels the township can start small with money from the general fund and perhaps in cooperation with the schools. He feels the township needs any extra millage it can get for improving and upgrading its police and fire departments.

MILLAGE PROPOSAL

"I will do everything in my power to get the millage proposed at the annual meeting approved," he vowed.

Holmes considers the township dump situation "deplorable."

"There are six operating dumps, including a township dump, that will have to start complying with the laws for land-fill operations," he promised.

He objects to their physical appearance and unsanitary conditions. "Garbage is exposed for days and rats abound," he said.

$13,000 SALARY

Holmes will make $13,000 a year as a supervisor, somewhat more than he did as a teacher. He resigned his teaching job April 1.

There's still a teacher in the family, however.

Mrs. Holmes is employed at Sterling Junior High School.

W. Bloomfield Not Slated for Post Office

LITTLE CHOICE

And an unhappy 5-year-old can frequently be considered more bothersome than galloping up and down the street in a frantic attempt to lob a paper Superman . . . Even with the neighbors making sadistic comments.

Now fathers—they seem to enjoy the battle against the elements. Superiority whishes their faces after a successful attempt.

FAMILY DEBATES

Who needs a discussion on the relative merits of box kites as opposed to "bat wings" as opposed to the 7-cent variety at the dime store after it's dark outside?

Mother rubs her sore toes—tired after she ran full tilt into the curb across the street—and reflects that, if the wind keeps absolutely still, the kite on the neighbor's roof won't blow down for the next week.

No Breeze for Mother Kite Flying Season Is Here

By JEAN SAILLE

Noticed any shortage of old sheets around the house lately? Any shirts missing their tails?

And, given enough string, quite likely out of sight.

It's kite flying season again—and mothers jealously guard their old dish towels. That is, they guard them when they aren't gambling about the yard or climbing a ladder to the rooftop or standing stock still winding up 1,600 feet of kite string.

It's not that mothers actually like kite flying. It's the inescapable fact that few 5-year-olds can successfully launch and retrieve such missiles.

Detroit Mum Over Wiretap

WASHINGTON (AP)—Elijah Mays, a former employee of the Detroit Police Department, declined Thursday to answer a Senate Judiciary subcommittee's detailed questions in its wiretap probe, saying he feared for his safety.

Another witness, Albert Nor-mali, a retired Detroit police officer, refused to reply on grounds his answers might tend to incriminate him.

A third witness, Vincent Pier-sante, now chief investigator of the Michigan attorney general's office and for years a member of the Detroit Police Department, answered some questions on wiretap matters but declined to answer others on grounds he is a defendant in a $3.5 million lawsuit.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Minn., is considering a bill to tighten up the use of wiretaps and other electronic listening devices.

Will King's Viet Stand Hurt Rights Bill?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chief sponsors of President Johnson's civil rights proposals disagree on what effect Dr. Martin Luther King's intensified attacks on U.S. policies in Vietnam might have on the bills' already shaky chances for passage.

The ministerial rights leader has called for mass demonstrations in an effort to force the administration to admit "We have been wrong from the beginning" in Vietnam.

Sen. Philip S. Hart, D-Mich., sponsor of the civil rights recommendations on behalf of Johnson, said King's comments will hurt efforts to rally congressional support for the bills.

"It shouldn't be true but probably is," Hart added. He said earlier he was not optimistic about chances of passage.

But Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., who introduced Johnson's open-housing proposal as a separate bill, said King's views would be of "minor, if any, importance." In determining the outcome of the legislation. He described King's stand on Vietnam and the pending rights bills as "logically two different things."

Some senators who would not vote for civil rights measures this year under any circumstances might use King's statements as "another excuse for their opposition," Mondale said. Asked to evaluate chances of passage of the open housing proposal, Mondale said, "We just don't know."

ANOTHER VIEW
In the House, where the civil rights proposals have not been introduced, Rep. Emanuel E. Celler, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, also said King's Vietnam outlook and the legislation are independent. Celler, a New York Democrat whose committee acts on civil rights matters, said he expects to sponsor the President's proposals in the House.

He declined to speculate on any possible effects from King's remarks. The Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights will open hearings on the proposals May 23.

WNFGA Has Preview of Annual Show

Pontiac Press Photos by Ed Vanderworp

Mrs. Arthur Stiller of Perryville Road, Groveland Township, a member of the Holly branch, displays her abstract exhibit in the "Treasures of the World" category. A straying lichen-covered jungle root thrusts its points upward from an antique-appearing, but modern, hand-crafted vase. The primitive lines are softened by pale-green cydium orchids and dark-green jungle foliage to symbolize the mixture of ultramodern and the unexplored in the make-up of Colombia, South America. Emeralds will accompany this arrangement.

A press preview luncheon Thursday at the Village Woman's Club, sponsored by the Michigan Division of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, provided a sampling of imaginative flower arrangements and table settings.

These will be featured at Wright Kay and Company, Detroit, in the annual spring show April 26 and 27.

Displays will also grace the windows of Wright Kay branch stores in Grosse Pointe and Northland.

The theme of this year's show is "Treasures." Each design will strive to exemplify some facet of the myriad treasures of life and beauty in the world around us.

It is a broad theme and ranges through appreciation of the fiery jewels derived from the earth to the great natural and architectural wonders, to the simple pleasures of "Great Books" and precious intangibles of "Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

ACCESSORIES

Each arrangement will be complemented by appropriate jewelry or accessories.

The public is invited to attend without charge.

Mrs. Marvin Katke, a member of the Birmingham Branch, is president of the Michigan Division, WNFGA.

Mrs. Chester Wisniewski, is serving as chairman of the flower show committee.

St. Dunstan's to Produce Light Farce

"Ring Around the Moon" by Jean Anouilh is the April production of St. Dunstan's Guild. Performances are scheduled for 9 p.m. on April 14, 15, 21 and 22 in the playhouse on Lone Pine Road.

Billed as a "sophisticated romp," the plot involves identical twin brothers with opposing personalities. Both are played by Dick Hartle.

A madhouse assemblage of aristocrats cavort in the spring of 1910 in this farce directed by Dean Warner, assisted by Dave Fox.

Mrs. Eugene Moore and Mrs. James Hubbard are producers.

In addition to Hartle, the cast includes Roger Marquis, Ginger Bone, Dick Guilford, Sidni Coppin, Dick Monley, Mary Janet Remington, Gretchen Newmann, Phil Savage, Pamela Guest and Mary Marquis.

Tickets are available at Grinnells in Birmingham, or by calling the playhouse.

Golden Anniversary for Altrusa

The Altrusa Club of Greater Birmingham will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the founding of Altrusa International Tuesday evening in the Birmingham Community House.

Members of the newly organized Altrusa Club of Macomb County and Birmingham Kiwanians and their wives will join the Altrusans at a 6:30 p.m. dinner.

Genevieve (Hap) Hazzard, vice president of Campbell-

Ewald Company will be the principal speaker.

GAINS PREEMINENCE

One of the leading women advertising executives in the country, Miss Hazzard has gained preeminence in her field through work as an advertising copywriter, radio and TV producer, fashion expert and advertising account executive.

She is in charge of women's programs on the Chevrolet Motor account and the only woman on the faculty of the Chevrolet

School of Modern Merchandising and Management.

She has received numerous national awards and is active on the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women and the national Public Relations Committee of the Girl Scouts of the United States of America.

Altrusa is the pioneer service club for women; only rotary, Sorority and Kiwanis are older service organizations.

The present 550 clubs have grown from the original six; Nashville, Tenn. is the club's birthplace. Thirteen other countries have Altrusa clubs.

Membership in Altrusa is classified and limited to professional women and business women of executive standing. Besides a program of community betterment and local philanthropy, Altrusa has long been interested in vocational opportunity for women and has disbursed more than $262,662 in small grants to help women job seekers to more productive lives.

In keeping with its interest in international relations, the Altrusa Foundation has provided $394,738 in scholarship grants to women from Latin America, Asia, the Middle East, and Africa, for graduate study in United States universities.

Altrusa Clubs throughout the world will salute these achievements at simultaneous celebrations on April 11, marking the organization's first "50 Years Growing in Service."

Where's Family Spirit?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl with a problem. It is my 24-year-old sister who considers herself "independent." She has her own apartment and her own car, which my parents pay for. She lives in the same city as we do, and teaches school.

ABBY

When she comes home for a visit, she walks in unannounced and goes right into our refrigerator and helps herself to anything she wants.

Don't you think she should wait to be offered something to eat? Or should she just barge right in and take over just as if she were still living there? After all, we do not support her any more.

SEEING RED

DEAR SEEING RED: YOU may be "seeing red" — but I am "seeing green." What do you mean, "WE don't support her any more?" Your sister apparently still feels very much at home. And until and unless your parents inform her otherwise, I see no reason for her to wait until she is offered something to eat. (What's eating YOU?)

DEAR ABBY: The blabbermouth who worked for a loan company isn't the only one who uses confidential information picked up at work to entertain her friends.

I heard tell there are several Gray Ladies (or whatever you call those do-gooders) who are only too happy to do volunteer work in a hospital in exchange for a free lunch and all the sniping they can do in a few hours. They claim they have access to the patients' charts, which tells how old Mrs. So and So is, and also the details of what ails her.

When women volunteer to work at a hospital, someone ought to be there with a yardstick to measure their tongues. GEORGIA ON MY MIND

DEAR GEORGIA: There are exceptions among professionals as well as volunteers, but generally speaking, people who elect to serve the sick are unselfishly motivated, and know how to keep their mouths shut.

DEAR ABBY: I am always pleased when you encourage mothers to build the kind of relationships with their daughters that will enable them to have good frank talks. DON'T QUIT, Abby. It is so important.

I work for an adoption agency, and until parents realize that "going steady" usually leads to going "all the way" we will continue to do a booming baby business.

At least 95 per cent of our girls are pregnant by their "steadies."

tions with girls who are giving up their babies.

KNOWS IN HOUSTON

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

May Legalize Abortions Under Special Conditions

LANSING (UPI) — A series of hearings will be held this summer on a bill pending in the Michigan Senate to legalize abortions under certain conditions.

Sen. Robert L. Richardson, R-Saginaw, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said his committee would hold the hearings following completion of this year's regularly scheduled legislative session in June.

SEEKS ADVICE

"We will probably have qual-

fied medical personnel, people with personal experiences to relate and persons with religious views called before the committee to discuss the bill," Richardson said.

Sen. John E. McCauley, D-Wyandotte, introduced the abortion bill.

It would permit abortions in cases where the county prosecutor and three physicians recommended termination of a pregnancy caused by rape or incest.

McCauley calls his proposal a "humanitarian" measure.

Richardson said no action is being planned during this session of the Legislature on the measure because there hasn't been sufficient time to hold public hearings.

More Changes Due at NASA

MANNED SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The nation's space agency, stalled in its efforts to land men on the moon, has more changes coming at its management levels in an effort to recoup from the Apollo 1 tragedy.

Two top-level management switches have already been made. And James E. Webb, chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, has indicated more might follow.

"We're adjusting our strength in NASA to do the job at each major turn," he told a news conference Thursday. "I think we do need to develop our strength toward the work of the future rather than to assume that what we did in the past is 'A-OK.'"

Webb said a realignment of the Apollo spacecraft office at the Manned Spacecraft Center this week was a result of "the conditions we face in NASA, including the situation which results from the accident."

NASA announced Wednesday that Dr. George Low, deputy director of the center, would replace Dr. Joseph F. Shea as manager of the Apollo spacecraft office, the key position at the center for the $23-billion man to the moon program.

Effective Monday, Shea will become a deputy administrator in NASA's office of manned space flight in Washington.

"I wouldn't look at any of these things as a promotion or demotion," Webb told newsmen. "We're putting our team together to do the job that's got to be done. We're looking now at the problems we face and the work we have to do following the accident."

He said Shea, who had managed the office since 1963, would provide "expert knowledge and capability with respect to the reorientation of the program."

FINAL REPORT

Webb said he did not think the final report of investigators that would pinpoint the exact cause of the fire.

Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee perished inside their spaceship Jan. 27 on a launch pad at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

A board of review is due to make its final report to Webb Sunday, when its findings will be made public. Indications are that the board narrowed the probable cause down to four or five areas in the electrical system with a broken wire or cracked insulation as among the most likely.

HUD Advance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dayton Township has been awarded a $2,600 advance by the Department of Housing and Urban Development to start planning a new sewage collection system.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., announced Thursday. The system is expected to cost $1,228,820. Construction will begin early in 1968.

Americans spent $2 million for books in 1965.

King Death Plot Said Motive in Slaying

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — A County read in court Thursday statements he said were given to him by James L. Jones, 57, a white man being tried on a charge of killing White, 65, a Negro, and dumping his body in a creek.

Circuit Judge James A. Torrey was considering whether the testimony could be presented to the jury as evidence.

The statements quoted Claude Fuller, 47, as saying White's murder was a ruse to get King to Natchez so he could be assassinated. Fuller and Ernest Avants, 36, also have been charged in White's death and are to be tried later.

FIRST HINT

White had not been active in civil rights work, and the sheriff's testimony was the first hint of a motive.

The safety pin was invented in 1849.

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Those repentant and apologetic words Ken Venturi used after his heroic U.S. Open championship in Washington, D.C., in 1964 must not be lost somewhere in the back of his mind.

It will be remembered that since his amateur days and in his moments of glory when he was USGA runner-up in 1956 and again in 1960, Venturi was often regarded as a high strung and temperamental player. But after 1960, he fell from the pinnacle of success to the bottom.

Finally, in 1964, on the hot, humid Congressional Country Club course in the nation's capital, Venturi had his greatest moment.

He not only won the tournament after collapsing in the heat on two occasions, but he also won the hearts of golf fans when he tearfully made admission of his pompous attitude of his early years and when he thanked God for giving him enough strength to finish the final 36 holes in the grueling heat which at one point went over 100 degrees that final day.

His speech of acceptance of the 1964 USGA crown so stirred everyone that, primarily through the efforts of hundreds of sportswriters and hundreds of thousands of kind words, he became the accepted King of American Golf.

Not too long after the 1964 championship, a peculiar circulatory ailment in his arms and hands shook him from his heights. Since then, he has found very little success on the golf front.

HUMILITY GONE

Through it all, he has apparently lost some of the 1964 humility.

He has become indignant to writers who go to him only occasionally for an interview, mainly because they go to him only on occasions.

He apparently is also plying himself because people no longer glorify his past golf exploits.

So when a writer at Augusta went to interview him this week, he said, "Me, for an interview? I don't mind though, at least I don't have to bother reading the paper. It says the same thing all the time anyway."

Another writer (from San Francisco) went in essence by Venturi, "You won't print it right anyway."

PEOPLE FORGET

He also proceeded to say "I had my days in 1964. I won the Open, the American Golf Classic and was named PGA Player of the Year. Then I was knocked down at the top of my career."

"People forgot, but that's the way people are. It's human nature."

He also was quoted as saying, "I hold no grudges. I think I know people very well. In 1962 and 1963, I might have felt differently. But, after what I've been through, I know people very well. It rolls right off my back."

Venturi is wrong. He ought to reread all the things he said and those printed stories which came out of the 1964 Open.

It's Mr. Venturi who has forgotten. He forgets that the spoils of victory after every triumph include the public acclaim that goes with it through the words of men who print the news.

He also forgets the concern and love people have for him during the months after his victory when illness knocked him from the top and that it was a little bit of humility which put him back in the public graces.

Venturi shot a 76 in the first round of the Masters yesterday. He didn't have any interviewers around him either.

If he does shoot a 66, he might have a hard time convincing anyone this time of his humble sincerity.

As he put it, "If I win, it will be an interesting press conference."

This could be the only true statement he's made during this Masters.
