Lawmakers Fail to Heed Pleas for MSUO Aid

Reject Two Proposals
by Rep. Law to Vote
Additional $286,520

(Special to The Pontiac Press)
LANSING — Rep. Arthur J. Law of Pontiac championed two unsuccessful attempts to provide more funds for hard-pressed Michigan State University Oakland during House debate last night.

On two occasions, the Democrat legislator arose to propose that a special appropriation of $286,520 earmarked for MSUO be included in the 1961-62 higher education budget.

With the $882,020 MSUO is expected to receive as its share of the Michigan State University budget, the MSUO budget, under Law's proposal, would have been increased to $1,168,540.

Both of Law's proposals were beaten down, the first by a one-vote margin, 31-30. The second vote was 55-31.

In his plea for a separate appropriation for the new Oakland County University, Law pointed out that much confusion existed as to what share of MSU's appropriation belonged to MSUO.

REP. ARTHUR J. LAW

Because the MSU and MSUO budgets are combined in a lump-sum appropriation, he stressed it has been pointed out that MSUO might receive only $12,500 more next year than it has under the current budget.

Law said his proposals were not made to question the integrity of the MSU Board of Trustees or MSU President John A. Hannah.

"I seek to make abundantly clear what is now a confused issue," Law said.

NATIONAL ATTENTION
He pointed out that the new university has captured national attention, and has no rivals.

"It serves everybody—from the working man to the corporation executive," he said.

The four county Republican representatives—Lloyd L. Anderson of Waterford Township, Henry M. Hogan Jr. of Bloomfield Township, Raymond L. Baker of Berkeley, and William Hayward of Royal Oak—voted against the proposals.

Anderson was one of the speakers against Law's proposals.

WAITING TO TAKE OFF—Astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. rested in his capsule while awaiting his trip into space from Cape Canaveral today. There were a few delays due to cloudy weather for a few minutes, and also some slight technical difficulty, which was soon cleared up.

'Shepard'll Never Be Forgotten'

Congressmen Cheer Space Feat

From Our News Wires
WASHINGTON—Jubilant members of Congress today cheered the heroic achievement of astronaut Alan B. Shepard.

They hailed his space flight as a giant American stride in the space race with Russia. But some cautioned that there are still challenges ahead.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, who is president of the Senate and head of President Kennedy's Space Advisory Committee said Shepard "will never be forgotten."

Speaker Sam Rayburn said: "It was a great feat. I am very proud. It was very gratifying to me as I feel sure it was to all the American people that we have demonstrated that we can send a man into space."

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, Mont.—"I'm delighted on behalf of both the astronaut and our country that the flight was so successful. It is indeed great news."

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill.—"It's wonderful. This reaffirms the faith of the country in our capacity to do these things and to move ahead in the space field."

Americans gave an emotional shove today to astronaut Shepard. They passed by the million heads television sets, radios and teletypes and almost physically tried to push him along as he soared into space.

A sampling of reactions in New York showed many were concerned first for Shepard. "I'm glad he's down safely," said stock broker Lawrence E. Gray. "All our safety precautions were well-justified."

"It was thrilling — something the free world has been waiting for for several years. Now you've put up (there) with the people from Russia and I hope you pass them."

Mrs. Tom Roche of De Land, Fla., who was visiting in the City Hall area, remarked, "Gee, it's terrific. It's great."

Travels 115 Miles Aloft, Lands at Key Ocean Spot

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Steel-nerved Alan B. Shepard Jr. rode a rocket into space today, exclaimed "What a beautiful sight" as he looked down on the earth, and then dropped to a safe landing in the Atlantic Ocean.

To the wiry, 37-year-old Navy commander, the historic adventure obviously was no more frightening than many earlier flights he had made in hot experimental aircraft.

"It's a beautiful day," he told Marines on the helicopter that plucked his space capsule out of the water after a soaring flight 115 miles above the earth and 302 miles southeast from the Cape Canaveral launching pad.

Then his nonchalance gave way to excitement as he declared:

"Boy, what a ride!"

Only 19 minutes after the Redstone rocket booster blasted off at 9:34 a.m. (Pontiac time), Shepard climbed out the escape hatch of the space craft and was picked up, to be transferred to the deck of the aircraft carrier Lake Champlain.

"I don't think there's much you'll have to do to me, Doc," America's first spaceman remarked to one of the physicians waiting anxiously to determine if Shepard suffered physical or psychological harm in his flight out of the atmosphere.

Shepard had radioed from the weightless void of space that he could see, through his periscope, the entire East Coast of the United States.

President Kennedy telephoned his congratulations to Shepard on his arrival in Washington, when he will receive a hero's welcome.

ing forward to the spaceman's arrival in Washington, when he will receive a hero's welcome.

ONLY THE BEGINNING
Shepard's blazing, 5,000-mile-an-hour flight was only the beginning of American exploration of space, said Hugh Dryden, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Soon, Dryden said, an astronaut will orbit the earth and later travel to the moon and back.

Officials on board the Lake Champlain reported that Shepard walked from the helicopter under his own power and immediately went to a medical facility below deck.

Here, doctors began a quick examination of the pilot. After this initial check, Shepard was taken to the moon and back.

SHEPARD IS OFF—Redstone missile and capsule carrying America's first spaceman Alan B. Shepard Jr. takes off from its Cape Canaveral launching pad today.

'He's Fine Physically,' Say Doctors

GRAND BAHAMA ISLAND in Spaceman Alan B. Shepard Jr. flew here today and jauntily strode into hospital section to wind up the historic first American space flight.

ABOARD THE LAKE CHAMPLAIN — Astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. was reported in "excellent physical condition" and in "fine spirits" less than an hour after he returned to earth from his space flight.

The report was made by doctors who examined him on this ship. Army Capt. Jerry Strong, one of the doctors, reported:

"There is nothing we can determine that is in any way abnormal after the flight."

Dr. Strong said Shepard would not eat immediately but would take a shower and dress to go to Grand Bahama Island by plane.

At first, he shook hands with the doctors and hundreds of sailors cheered.

Then he walked toward the admiral's quarters to get a physical examination and begin to tell the story of his flight. Only the doctors were permitted to speak to the astronaut.

Clad in his silvery space suit, George Cox of Exults, Fla., the co-pilot, who also snugged the space chimp Ham from the ocean.

Seamen shouted and whooped when they first saw the orange parachute appear northeast of the carrier. The sailors had heard Shepard's voice over the ship's loudspeaker announcing he had reached 20,000 feet coming down.

Pontiac Glee Over Spaceman

The faces of Pontiac residents were all smiles today when shown a Pontiac Press wire service picture of the first American to have gone into space.

Along with the epic firing of the Redstone missile at Cape Canaveral, Fla., this morning rose the hopes of the man in the street that America was catching up — or even leading the Russians — in the space race.

"It's a grand thing," said Mrs. Charles Popp of 193 W. Cornell Ave., a part-time flower shop employee. "I think we're catching up with the Russians."

Daniel Clifton, 67, 137 Baldwin Ave., believes that the leap into space by Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr. may mean the United States is leading Russia in technological progress.

Bloomfield Twp. Boy Drowns in Lower Long Lake

A 23-year-old boy drowned yesterday in Lower Long Lake in Bloomfield Township.

Douglas Carey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Carey Jr. of 3318 Franklin Road, Bloomfield Township, was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

The boy was found just off shore in 3 feet of water by his mother who had gone to investigate his disappearance.

When mouth-to-mouth breathing by a neighbor failed to revive the child, Mrs. Carey called her husband in Livonia, where he operates an automatic laundry.

Bloomfield Township Police said they were not contacted until 45 minutes after the boy was found.

Police said that artificial respiration was applied but the boy never regained consciousness.

Astronaut's Wife and Parents Happy

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (UPI)—An excited, radiantly happy Mrs. Alan B. Shepard said today she knew her husband's flight into space would be successful. "From the minute it blasted off,"

Flashing a sparkling smile, the beautiful brunette came out on the porch of her ranch-style home at 10:25 a.m. (Pontiac time), and told a throng of reporters and cameramen, "I don't have to tell you how I feel. It's just wonderful. It's beautiful... just wonderful."

At Derby, N.H., the parents of America's first man in space said: "It's very hard to express our feelings."

Louise, Shepard's tall, willowy wife, went through the ordeal holding a transistor radio in her hand and watching the awe-inspiring flight on television.

Mrs. Shepard said she had been kept up to the minute on all of the details of the flight by Col. John Fowers, the space agency information officer at Cape Canaveral.

Now, she said, she was waiting for a call from "Al."

CALLS PARENTS
Mrs. Shepard said that as soon as she learned of the success of the space shot she immediately called Shepard's parents.

"They were so happy... just as happy as could be," she said excitedly, waving her arms and looking around at her own parents who stood proudly by her side.

Alan Shepard Sr. hugged his wife as they walked out to meet newsmen clustered around their colonial style home in the Southern New Hampshire factory town.

"When we heard he was okay, both our hands went up in excitement," the older Mrs. Shepard said.

ment," the older Mrs. Shepard said.

Mrs. Gordon Sherman of North Attleboro, Mass., the spaceman's sister, said, "We're grateful to God for the safe return of Alan."

JUST WONDERFUL
Ten-year-old David Sherman could say only "I feel just wonderful."

Asked if he'd like to be a man in space, David replied, "Maybe."

David said the family had prayed for his uncle after hearing from him by telephone about 12 hours before the launching.

Mrs. Shepard had planned to be rushed by police to a hotel for a news conference. But she staged the impromptu meeting on the porch of her brick home in order to be there when the call came through from her husband.

"WONDERFUL! WONDERFUL!"—This was the reaction of Mrs. Alan Shepard as she appeared on the front porch of her Virginia Beach home to greet friends and newsmen after the successful flight of her husband.

Sets Hearing in Teen Slaying

To Decide If City Youth Will Be Tried as Adult in Fatal Stabbing

Probate Judge Donald E. Adams has set May 17 for a hearing as to whether 16-year-old Alvin Scruggs should be tried as an adult in the fatal stabbing of another youth.

Pontiac Municipal Judge Isaac E. Fineman yesterday issued a warrant for second-degree murder against Scruggs, 664 Branch St.

Police say Scruggs, who carried a knife with a 6-inch blade under his clothing to a teen-age dance Tuesday night, twice stabbed Virgil McNeal Jr., 15, 388 Howard McNeil St.

It followed by several days a flat fight the pair had over a piece of bubblegum.

Asst. Prosecutor Edward H. Shigley, who asked for the warrant against the juvenile for the killing, said he had prepared a list of 21 witnesses for the hearing before Judge Adams, but would probably only call some of these.

He said he has seven who witnessed the scuffle and then stabbing outside the Elks Lodge, 109 Franklin Road, around 10:30 p.m.

Shigley said most of the eye witnesses would testify that McNeal prompted the fight, which climaxed the earlier fight at Jefferson Junior High School, where the two boys were students.

Scruggs is housed at the Children's Home pending the child hearing.

2 Will Bring Back Holland Slay

KADOKA, S.D. (AP)—Two Michigan police officers were today to take custody of 16-year-old youth James Scott Stephens, admitted slayer of two young girls.

Charles Long, Michigan State police detective, and Harry Smith, Allegan County deputy sheriff, arrived by car shortly before midnight.

Long said they were tired after the 1,000-mile drive and would get some sleep before conferring with South Dakota officials who took statements from Stephens after his arrest here Tuesday night.

Shefferson Warren Pearson said the youth admitted the Saturday killings of Carol Gee, 11, and Margaret Chambers, 12, as the girls were playing flowers near their homes at Holland, Mich., where Stephens also lives.

Pearson said he was asked by the Allegan County prosecutor to withhold details of Stephens' statement. The sheriff did indicate the youth had claimed the shootings were accidental.

In Holland, the attorney retained to defend Stephens said Thursday the boy has refused to talk to him or his mother since his arrest in South Dakota.

Kennedy signed the bill before a large group of congressional leaders and officials of the AFL-CIO headed by President George Meier.

Describing $1.25 as "a very minimum wage," he said "this does not finish the job but it is a most important step forward."

Two Staffers Appointed at Cranbrook Institute

BIRMINGHAM—Two new appointments to the staff of Cranbrook Institute of Science at Bloomfield Hills have been announced.

Accepting the appointments are Laurence V. Coleman and George Cooper.

Coleman until his recent retirement had served 20 years as the director of the American Association of Museums.

He will join the staff as a consultant for a three-month period beginning July 1.

Cooper has been appointed to the staff with the title of instructor in physics. His duties at first will be concerned with planning and developing exhibits in his field.

Cooper was formerly science editor for The Fine Arts Broadcasters.

The Birmingham Scriptorium Club will sponsor a card party Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Community House.

Proceeds from the party will go towards the purchase of new books for the Monrovia Nursing Home on Watkinson Lake Road.

Program committee chairmen are Mary Dewey and Nan Deen. Committee members are Dorothy Trudy Wenzel.

The Young Adult Club of the Birmingham YMCA will sponsor a chuck wagon supper and square dance at the Y building, 400 E. Lincoln, May 19 at 8:30 p.m.

Fred Meyer will be the square dance caller.

Proceeds from the program will go to the "World Service Program" of the YMCA.

Gordon Cunningham said, "We called three times. I can understand that the boy isn't up to talking to his mother or me. He's still a pretty scared kid."

Cunningham said he was not sure whether Stephens would be able to communicate with the youth before he is returned to Allegan County.

Kennedy Puts Ink to Minimum Wage Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy signed today with "great satisfaction" the bill putting another 3,634,000 workers under the minimum wage law, and increasing the minimum for those already covered.

The minimum for workers now covered by the wage law will rise to $1.25 an hour by 1963. Those now under the bill for the first time will receive a minimum of $1 an hour for the first three years and $1.25 in five years.

Kennedy signed the bill before a large group of congressional leaders and officials of the AFL-CIO headed by President George Meier.

Describing $1.25 as "a very minimum wage," he said "this does not finish the job but it is a most important step forward."

Fidel's Invasion Prisoners Jammed Into Filth, Disease

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Reports of mass terror against opponents of Fidel Castro's regime are seeping out of Cuba despite a curtain of total censorship on news communications and mail.

These reports tell of suffering among thousands of detainees rounded up in the wake of the abortive anti-Castro invasion of mid-April. They tell of thousands of prisoners crowded, without food and sanitation, in detention centers; of uprisings born of desperation among the prisoners; bloodbaths and police dogs used to threaten the prisoners.

It is now confirmed that the regime has imposed complete censorship on all outgoing news messages, which must be cleared through the chief of telecommunications. Mail censorship, long in existence behind the scenes, now is out in the open. Huge piles of mail await censorship at the office of the telecommunications chief, apparently in charge of that job, too.

This is the story of what has been happening to thousands suspected of opposing the regime, as placed together from the regime's own island.

Between 25,000 and 40,000 Cubans and foreigners, including a number of Americans, were rounded up in Havana alone after the invasion. The detainees were jammed into requisitioned buildings, such as the Sports Palace and the Blanquita Theater.

At the Blanquita, there were between 6,000 and 7,500 prisoners. Jammed into the auditorium, without any arrangements for food or sanitation. The only food available was that brought by relatives of persons held there.

Midway through the first week of their detention, prisoners were screaming for food, and fighting through the walls for a little of the food and excitement for a chance to use the few toilets. Many became ill. At least three typhoid cases were reported.

Reports from those who saw it in person say that at one point the prisoners tried to rise up against their militia guards. Several shots were fired into the crowd. Two prisoners were wounded, but this failed to quiet the detainees.

Then bloodhounds and police dogs were paraded across the stage and the militiamen threatened to turn the dogs on the prisoners if they failed to quiet down.

The prisoners attempted another uprising, overwhelming some militia guards and seizing their weapons. But later young Castro militiamen entered the Blanquita to serve as guards, and no trouble. Finally, in desperation, the detainees threatened to burn the theater and everyone in it if they were not given food and some decent sanitation. Shortly afterward Castro authorities began freeing some of those under detention and taking others elsewhere.

U.S. Protecting Cuban Escapees

Picked Up by Tanker, Invasion Survivors Are in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La. (U.S. S. officials kept 12 half-starved Cubans, believed to be survivors of the ill-fated Cuban invasion, under security wraps today.

Delirious and wild-eyed, the Cubans ended a 15-day voyage across the Gulf of Mexico in a 25-foot open sail boat Thursday.

Authorities hinted that newsmen might be allowed to talk to the men sometime today after a 24-hour quarantine ends.

They were picked up Wednesday night by the American tanker SS Atlantic Seaman about 170 miles south of the Mississippi River. Three of their companions were dead.

Officially classified as "refugees from Cuba," the 12 survivors were taken to the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital when they arrived in New Orleans after a trip up the Mississippi River in a Coast Guard boat.

They shielded their faces from newsmen and photographers.

Coast Guard Cmdr. Charles A. Greene said the boat left some part of Cuba on April 19, two days after the unsuccessful invasion party landed.

Area Youngsters to Attend Safety Patrol Rally

Four Pontiac area youngsters will join a small army of white-bellied AAA safety patrols from Michigan converging on Washington, D. C., to represent their cities at the 25th anniversary of the National AAA Safety Patrol Rally, May 11-14.

Attending from this area will be Gary Lee Richardson, 11, of 44 Poplar St., of Baldwin Elementary; Donald Brown Jr., 10, 2023 Hartline St., Avon Township; Miles School, Rochester; William Mers, 12, 244 Dorothy Lane, Waterford Township; Schoolcraft School; and Stephen Farr, 13, 739 Greenwood St., Birmingham, of Baldwin Elementary, Birmingham.

They will be among 115 outstanding patrolmen from schools throughout the state going on the four-day, all-expense trip as Automobile Club of Michigan's guests.

In connection with the trip, Ernest P. Davis, Auto Club safety and traffic director, cited the effectiveness of school safety patrols.

"Since the patrol program was launched in 1922," he said, "the traffic death rate of children in the 10-14 age group has been cut in half, while the death rate of other age groups has nearly doubled. Safety patrols undoubtedly have played a major role in this reduction."

State Employee Hurt in Crash Near Romeo

ROMEO — A 50-year-old State Conservation Department employee was injured about a mile west of here last night when his car ran off the road, snapped a telephone pole in half and crashed into a tree.

Reported in fair condition today at nearby Community Hospital was Arthur T. Quinn of Kinde who was working for the conservation department at the Stony Creek Metropolitan Park project.

Romeo state police said Kinde suffered severe lacerations of the face and neck and possible fractures of the jaw and right leg.

According to officers, Quinn apparently fell asleep at the wheel when his car swerved off 22-Mile Road just east of Camp Ground Road in Washington Township.

Police believed Quinn's car was traveling about 50 miles per hour when it went out of control. The auto first struck the telephone pole before hitting the tree about 10 feet from the road. The impact broke the pole into two pieces.

Pine Trees Available

LANSING (AP)—The State Conservation Department reminds landowners there are still about 2 million red pine seedlings and white pine transplants available at state nurseries for spring reforestation programs.

Election Set in North Oxford

School District Voters Will Meet June 12 for Their 29 Students

OXFORD TOWNSHIP — There will be no issues to be decided when the North Oxford School District holds its regular election June 12.

There usually aren't.

The tiny North Oxford district—the smallest in Oakland County—includes only one school and 29 students.

However, school district voters will gather at 8 p.m. June 12 to elect a president of their 2-member board of education. The current president is Mrs. Belle Place.

The new school board will be elected by a show of hands from the audience attending the annual meeting that day at North Oxford Elementary School, 2700 N. Oxford Road.

Enrollment at the elementary school is 21. The other eight students from the district attend Dryden High School.

Voters in the school system apparently are content not to annex to a larger district.

"As far as I can remember," said Board of Education Secretary Mrs. Alice Laidlow, "we've never had to raise any millage in an election."

State Police Nab 18,153
EAST LANSING—State police report they made 18,153 arrests in March, 16,371 for traffic offenses and 1,616 on criminal complaints. State police cars traveled 1.5 million miles during the month, the report said.

Students, Many Others Rehearsing at Avondale

The Deep South will move northward for the brief span of a few hours May 12 when the second annual "Cotton Pickin' Review" is presented on the stage of Avondale High School.

The music of a Dixieland band will make the rafters ring while Mr. Interlocutor waits his turn to pose another question to Honey-suckle or Belmont Jefferson King.

Old familiar Negro spirituals, sung by the Avondale High School Glee Club, will start the audience humming along, the producers guarantee.

Tues will begin tapping when lively ballads are sung by featured vocalists, and surprises galore are promised when prominent citizens and teachers trip the light fantastic in novelty dance routines and soft shoe numbers.

A cast of 150, ranging from high school students to housewives and businessmen, are taking part in the 1961 musical extravaganza.

One of the most humorous numbers will be a dance by the "Heavenly Heavies." Solo instrumental music also will be played by talented high school bandmen.

General chairman of the show is Mrs. Lester Oles. She is being assisted by Mrs. Alene Gelforth, costume; Lou Schommer, lights and sound; Mrs. J. Hugh Stone.

make-up; and Mrs. Earl H. Wright, publicity.
Bruce Killian is head of the scenery committee, Burton Stockwell is stage manager, and Mrs. Douglas Fowler has charge of the tickets.
The show is being sponsored by the Avondale High School Parent-Teacher-Student Association as its one big money-making project of the year.

Tickets can be purchased from any PTSA member or at the door.

Brandon Seeks Okay of $395,000 Bond Issue

ORTONVILLE—A $395,000 bond issue to finance major construction and remodeling projects in the Brandon School District will be on the ballot in the regular school election June 12.

The long-term bond issue would pay for 11 new classrooms and a library at Brandon High School and three new classrooms, an office and extra storage space at Belle Ann Elementary School.

Besides the construction work, both buildings would undergo extensive renovating if the bond issue is approved.

The 11-room addition at the high school would replace the present Brandon High School building on Cedar Street where 234 seventh and eighth grade students now are attending classes.

Immunization Clinic Slated

Avondale PTA Council to Sponsor Vaccination for Children, Adults

The Avondale Parent-Teacher Association Council, which is scheduled to install new officers Tuesday, will sponsor its third annual immunization clinic the following day at Avondale High School.

The clinic will be open from 1:30 to 4 p.m., and from 8:30 to 8:30 p.m., Wednesday at the high school gymnasium, 1335 W. Auburn Road.

Smallpox vaccinations for children and adults and diphtheria and tetanus booster shots for children 15 years old and under will be available free of charge.

Polio shots for persons of all ages will be available for $1. Senior high school students may receive their shots during the afternoon of the clinic only if they have permission slips signed by their parents.

Mrs. George Dill, newly elected president of the Avondale PTA Council, said the clinic will be open to all residents of the Avondale School District.

She reminded parents that all school children must be immunized under state law.

Officers to be installed besides Mrs. Dill at the council's final spring meeting are Mrs. William U. Porter, 1st vice president; Mrs. Max Beaman, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Cecil Denton, recording secretary; Mrs. Lonnie Mitchell, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Wilbert Lewis, treasurer.

The council meeting will be at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Stiles Elementary School, 376 Laverne Road. Sherwood Shaver, Troy postmaster, will speak on photography.

SPACE FOR INCREASE

Edna Supit, Burt Glensinger said yesterday the additions to the two schools would provide space for a 10 per cent increase in the district's enrollment, which presently totals 1,164 students.

Only property owners and their spouses who have lived in the district for 30 days are qualified to vote on the bond issue, one of three questions on the ballot.

Any registered voter in the district may vote on the other two proposals.

One of the propositions requests permission to establish the salary of each board of education member at $240 per year. The present rate is $10 per meeting for each member.

According to Glensinger, the change would result in a saving for the district since there already have been 28 school board meetings during this school year.

Costs could even be higher if school board members continue to be paid on a per meeting basis. As many as 40 meetings may be held during 1961-62 if the bond issue is approved, he said.

Also to be decided in next month's election is the election of a candidate to a four-year term on the board of education. Harold Webb, the member whose term expires in June, already has filed a nominating petition for reelection. No other candidate has taken out a petition, according to Glensinger.

Romeo Grades State Fair at South School

ROMEO—The South Grade School will be transformed into a carnival midway from 2 to 7:30 p.m. tomorrow for the annual Elementary Schools Club Fair.

Each classroom will be converted into a game room or specialty shop. Featured on sale will be such delicacies as homemade candy, cake, candied apples, baked goods and preserves.

Other traditional items to be offered for sale are white elephants, novelties and balloons. Comic books, plants and records. Food will be served throughout the afternoon and evening, and there will be pony and fire engine rides for the youngsters.

New attractions this year are a baby-sitting booth and games to appeal particularly to junior high school students.

Mrs. Wayne Kasuri is general chairman of the fair, the schools club's one money-raising event of the year. She is assisted by Mrs. Ray Gamelin.

Firm and Inspector Plan Tour, Dinner

ROCHESTER—Close to 100 members of the Southeastern Michigan Building Officials and Inspectors Association are expected at the 6:30 p.m. dinner meeting Wednesday in Rochester.

Host will be Thomas J. Turlette, Rochester's chief building inspector. He said the affair will follow a three-hour tour of the American Aggregates Corp. plant in Oxford.

The tour is slated to begin at 2 p.m. after which the Oxford company will sponsor a social hour at Knapp's Bar and Restaurant in Rochester where the dinner also will be held.

SO MUCH THAT CAN'T BE COPIED

Bucket seats alone do not a sport car make. Even when they're as cozy as ours are. You also want (and darned well need, if you're after a fun-type car) things like efficiently eager steering. Steering like you get with Corvair's rear-engine design.

You want traction that keeps your car firmly attached to the road all the time—around corners, through mudholes, everywhere. You want superlatively balanced braking. You want an amiably smooth, supple ride—like Corvair's full independent suspension gives you.

As you might have guessed, you simply can't get these happy advantages in any other U.S. car. Only Corvair. Anything that gives you less is just another social climber.

'Open Book' Attitude Is Often Liability

The United States successfully fired a man down the rocket range today, as a prelude to future orbital flights in space.

Just what happened on this historic jaunt was known to the world seconds after it happened. If our spaceman or the system had goofed, there wouldn't have been any cover up. Newsmen were everywhere, from the launch site to the recovery area.

The contrast to the Russia information is obvious. The rest of the world is still questioning whether another Red preceded YURI GAGARIN and came out of the trip a physical or mental wreck. There are enough curious details about GAGARIN's trip to spur rumors that he never left the ground.

If our effort had flopped today, and gallant Cmdr. Shepard died or was seriously injured, the news would not help our position around the globe. The positive aspects of our "wide open" system of information will probably be outweighed by the negative reaction to our failure after the Russian triumph.

Some governmental officials feel that we are defeating our own purpose when such launchings are announced in advance, and given complete coverage. They would prefer to have the launching, and announce the results, good or bad.

Of course, this might also lead to possible silence when a project does flop. This is akin to the attempts at silence when some Washington wheel buys a 210 year supply of elbow pads for service hockey players, and then tries to sit on the mistake.

But we stick to the unvarnished facts, and let the taxpayers know what is happening, good and bad. But it can be a liability, there is no doubt about that.

City Clerk Ada R. Evans Will Retire This Month

Pontiac's City Hall will lose a familiar and friendly face when Clerk Ada R. EVANS retires this month.

After nearly 42 years of service to the Community, Mrs. EVANS will turn over her responsibilities, and take up a less hectic life of retirement.

As the first woman city clerk, she has left her mark on the city during some turbulent years by handling the affairs of the clerk's office with dignity and strict attention to the myriad details.

We are confident that the Tuesday night commission sessions will not seem complete without her. You can get a small bet covered, too, that Tuesday nights will be odd ones for her in the future, without her place at the commission table.

The PRESS adds its wishes that the future years are as good as the ones she gave to the city.

Federal Government Has 'Biggest' Air Fleet

A note in the news columns recently disclosed that the Federal Government is the "biggest" in another direction—air fleet.

The tally of planes on the Government rolls is 431, with 52 additions requested. This does not include the Air Force and Navy planes.

A look at who is flying what shows the U.S. Coast Guard, Federal Aviation Administration, Department of Agriculture, and Department of Interior use 366 planes in their work.

Government ferrying of public officials when commercial air transport is available should, however, be eliminated whenever it exists.

Executives running the country or working for it can travel like the taxpayers who foot the bills.

Beating the Gun Readers Who Are Getting the Start of the Season

Hurry: What most of those who are in, there's nobody waiting for them when they get there.

White lilacs in bloom nearly a month ahead of time are reported by Mrs. Gladys Olney of Auburn Heights, whose neighbors tell her that the bush should also be celebrating its Centennial. Lilacs are long lives.

Cowslip greens, gathered in a nearby marsh near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Harrison of Cass Lake, cooked up in just as delectable fashion as on other years, although a few weeks ahead of time.

And the pesky things in their lawn are being licked by eating them up, in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Fordney of Drayton Plains, who report dandelion greens nearly a month ahead of the usual time.

Writing from away up at Harrisville, Mrs. Boris Chukroff, formerly of Pontiac, (and still a daily reader of this column), reports that her tulips were in bloom on April 29.

The poison ivy season is also reported to be ahead of time, which prompts us to repeat our annual warning—

Leaves three, let it be.

Beginning Monday, for the benefit of the 3,217 entrants in our baseball contest, this column will publish every day the standings of the top ten players in the American League. Just now, Johnny Temple of the Cleveland Indians is leading the pack, but it still is anybody's race. The standings next Thursday night determine who gets that $250 prize.

In an effort to attract tourists to their city, the Detroit Chamber of Commerce lists its ten greatest attractions, and Oakland County's

David Lawrence Says:

Small Firms Hurt by Higher Wage

WASHINGTON—The possibility of a setback in business is not a pleasant thing to discuss. But what has just been hailed as a "victory" for President Kennedy, when Congress passed the new minimum-wage bill, could turn out to be a measure that actually prolongs the present recession.

Up to now, it has always been thought to be the better part of wisdom to keep wage rates stable during a recession and wait for better times.

But the Democrats in Congress have just taken a step which not only affects the 24,000,000 workers who are covered by minimum-wage laws but provides labor unions with the excuse to start a demand for a general wage increase.

Instead of permitting the nation to treat the wounds it has received as a result of the dislocation of the national economy by the steel strike, the unions which have the support of the Kennedy administration, now have driven ahead to start a wave of wage increases.

SMALL BUSINESS HURT

The larger businesses will not be hurt so much as will small business. The new minimum-wage law will cause the loss of jobs to many persons now employed. Small businesses generally will not be able to pay the increased wage and will have to cut down the number of their employees.

Congress knew that a serious disruption would occur and start the pleas of some small business when laundry workers and cotton-gin employees were exempted from the provisions of the proposed law.

There is no doubt that small businesses will have to try to employ as few as to meet the higher payroll imposed on an already narrow margin of profit.

A concession was made to operators of laundries by exempting their workers. Though this hurts Negro employees, the result nevertheless was to gain votes in the South. The whole incident is being pointed to as a blow to the coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats. Apparently the administration has the political wherewithal to break down the Democratic party's conservatives in the South.

The significance of what has just happened is that, by throwing a bone here and there, a number of votes in the House were obtained by the administration for the minimum-wage bill.

The first of a series of increases will go into effect within four months for at least 2,500,000 workers. The proprietors of the business establishments involved will have to begin soon to make provision for the increased compensation, and this will mean considerable loss of jobs.

A New Jersey reader is delighted with the new confidence in herself she has acquired since she joined a Buxom Belle Club. This is a chartered, federated, non-profit organization for overweight women. My advice to buxom girls is this: Up to 10 per cent over average weight, do no serious dieting. Instead, just push back from the table when you have had a square meal—leave the cake, pie, ice cream or pudding to those who play or work hard enough to handle extra rations of sugar or starch.

If you can afford it, walk three or four miles every day, briskly. This is the best of all exercises to tone or "firm" the muscles and to give you good posture. A woman who has a good posture can carry a reasonable amount of superfluous weight and look lovely.

able readjustment. For something more than a wage increase for the regular work week is involved. The rate goes up also on the time-and-a-half basis for overtime.

Perhaps the biggest consequence will come in handling wage scales above the minimum. Differentials are maintained between different worker classes. Hence, when the minimum goes up, it affects workers all along the line above the minimum, too.

But shouldn't the minimum wage be increased? Certainly there is every reason for providing higher and higher compensation for everyone who has to face the decreasing purchasing power of the dollar.

But there is a good time for such an adjustment and a bad time. Recession months are not an occasion for further deterioration of the employment rolls.

The period should be used to build a sound and stable economy so that wage increases will be paid out of an expanding prosperity and increased national growth.

The tragic part of the story is that, when the present recession drags on or is followed after a brief recovery by another dip, the cry will be for more spending by government.

Yet the incentives so essential to a genuine recovery are being neglected, and the drift is toward more and more makeshift remedies and distortions of the wage structure. (Copyright 1961)

Aspirin Dulls Pain—but It Cures Nothing

"The mother of a 5-month-old baby feeds the baby aspirin almost every day to make it sleep, even though the baby is so good and playful. Then the mother whips the baby if it doesn't sleep at night . . ." (H.T.A.)

Such a mother probably thinks a little aspirin is no harm and good for a baby. She believes what she hears on radio or television.

Sometimes a fast-buck practitioner, heaven help us, will advise over the telephone that a mother feed aspirin to an ailing child he has not examined, and gets away with the quackery because Smart Alices, too, think aspirin can do no harm and is good for everything.

Aspirin is an analgesic—benumbs ache or pain—but that's all.

Sins of Omission Cause Friction

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE H-47: Donna D., aged 34, says she is a nervous wreck. "Dr. Crane," she began, "my husband criticizes everything I do."

"And he flares up on the slightest excuse. Then he even curses me right in front of our 7-year-old boy."

"He even calls me vile names and says he never did love me, even on our wedding day."

"Although I try my best, to be a good wife and mother, where have I failed?" "I am a pretty good cook, and keep the house fairly neat and clean."

"And I teach a Sunday school class and belong to the PTA, so I try to be a good influence on my son. What's wrong?"

2 WOMEN PER MAN. It takes two good women to make a good husband, and the first is his mother.

If she spoils her son and permits him to grow up as a temper tantrum brat, even an angel from heaven may not be able to live with him.

So you girls should stop around myself before you say "Yes" to a proposal.

Visit the man's home before you marry. Talk to his friends and even his former school teachers.

"Case" the man as thoroughly as a modern bank robber "cases" his next victim. For you invest your entire life when you marry.

Voice of the People:

Reader Favors Editorial on Uniform Traffic Laws

Compliments are in order for the editorial on the nation's traffic laws.

Florida has a railroad crossing law that few natives observe. Most Michigan drivers believe in signs, especially traffic, as we have some of the best highways in the world, due to being pioneers in the auto industry.

Indiana has poorly posted highways and laws that match.

In Los Angeles the pedestrian has the right of way. In New Hampshire the motorist who lays on the horn first has the right of way. Milwaukee has some downtown intersections with crosswalks, pedestrian traffic, and all cars stop on red signal. Talk about confusing traffic laws. Even seasoned Milwaukeeans must be confused to remember which streets have this so-called convenience.

In Michigan all our super highways (divided) have four lanes of one-way traffic and, on the other hand, many of our well-traveled roadways two-way traffic highways are still just half the width of only one side of the super highways. Many of our highways should be one-way traffic only.

For National Traffic Laws

'Press Doesn't Help Downtown Pontiac'

Instead of crowing about what The Press has done for the YMCA, why don't you tell us what you have not done for downtown Pontiac. You do nothing attitude is partially responsible for the downfall of downtown Pontiac. If you would give 1/4 of 1 per cent as much publicity to downtown as you give to MOTO, then Pontiac would be a better place. My suggestion is that you cut out that silly, Saturday night column and turn it into a Pontiac city booster column. Then even you might live long enough to see some changes in the old town. Demonstrate a little civic pride.

'Don't Doubt Power of Track Team'

After reading the sports section of April 27, I was distressed by the Press Box assertion that Pontiac City will no longer be a dominant power in high school track.

One dual meet does not make a track power. Looking to Waterford does not mean that PCH will no longer be a power in track.

In 1957, after PCH had won two state titles, they were defeated several times by Flint North. In 1958, PCH successfully defended its state crown. Again in 1959 Flint Northers downed the Chiefs only to lose the state title to PCH.

It is highly improbable that the coaches and the present team as well as the teams in future years will let Central's track reputation fall.

Central may not win the state title this year, but there are several excellent athletes who have excellent potential. This makes the picture for the rest of this year and future years very bright.

The Pontiac Press has done a good job of covering PCH sports, but it is a grave injustice to question its future.

The Model T was chased upon by two skin divers, Mrs. Paul L. Pfist of Battle Creek saw a picture of it in a newspaper and promptly called police to report it was stolen from her and her husband July 12, 1931.

A dented left fender and other distinguishing features convinced Mrs. Pfist the roadster was her's. But just to make sure, she and her husband plan to drive to Hastings in Barry County, in their 1960 car and take a look.

Japan Team to Train in U.S. for Missiles

SPACE ROCKET TAKES OFF — Redstone booster rocket carrying capsule with first United States spaceman, Alan B. Shepard Jr., aboard blasts off from Cape Canaveral this morning. A crowd watches from the jetty across from the Cape.

ARRIVES AT SPACE VEHICLE — In his silver space suit, Alan B. Shepard Jr. strides from the van which carried him to the launching pad for today's space flight from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Towering in the background is the rocket which took Cmdr. Shepard on the United States' manned space flight.

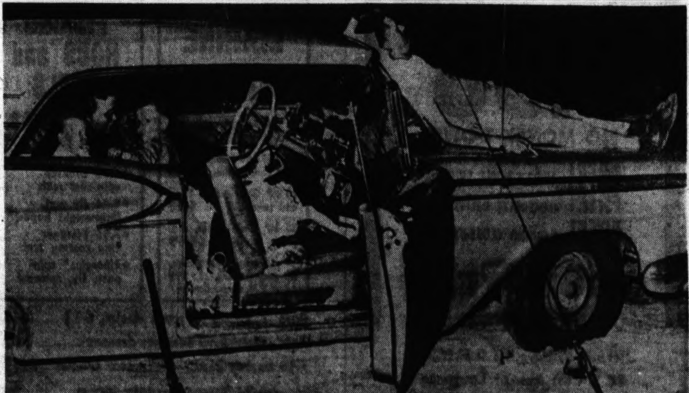

CAPSULE FOR MAN FLIGHT—This sketch, based on information supplied by the NASA, shows a cross-section of the Project Mercury ballistic capsule for America's first astronaut. It shows how the astronaut lies supine in the capsule and various controls and instruments in the space vehicle. Retro rockets at the bottom slow down the vehicle on its re-entry from space.

EIGHT STAGES OF SPACE FLIGHT—Here in sequence are sketches of eight steps in the journey of America's first astronaut: 1—Redstone with manned space capsule rises from launching pad; 2—Speed increases to 18,000 m.p.h., escape tower is jettisoned; 3—Capsule released from Redstone; 4—Plum and forward, capsule attains orbit path; 5—Retrograde rockets are fired to decrease speed for re-entry; 6—Small drag parachute stabilizes space capsule in descent; 7—Main parachute opens; 8—Helicopter picks up astronaut.

92 Judgeships Await Kennedy

JFK to Sign Bill for 73 New Posts Plus 19 Vacancies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress Thursday passed and sent to the White House a bill to create 73 additional federal judgeships.

The measure creates two new judgeships in the Eastern Michigan District.

The House approved the measure first and the Senate quickly followed, both by voice vote.

In the house, passage followed a plan by Republicans that President Kennedy avoid partisanship in appointing the new judges, 10 in the circuit courts and 63 in the district courts.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N. Y., chairman of the house judiciary committee, agreed the judgeships should not be prizes for deserving Democrats, but he added:

"Being a realist, candor impels me to say that being a Democrat will not hurt one's chances for appointment."

Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, said in addition to the 73 new judgeships to be filled, 19 vacancies exist.

He said that gives Kennedy 92 appointments to start with, more than any presidency in history ever had at one time.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Irish playwright Brendan Behan is in St. Mary's Hospital. Friends said he had a four-day champagne binge.

His wife reported today there is nothing seriously wrong.

"Brendan is in good form, but it's a good idea to have him spend three or four days in the hospital — whatever the doctors say," she said.

He recently spent some time in a Toronto hospital, and doctors warned him that his next drink might be his last.

Reuther Presented Gompers Award

NEW YORK (AP) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther said today labor and management have a joint responsibility to "close the gap between technical progress and social progress."

Reuther said men had made great progress in the physical sciences but that there has been a lag in the living of people.

He said uncommitted nations of the world will not judge American democracy on the basis of economic wealth and productive capacity, but by the way physical progress is "translated into social progress."

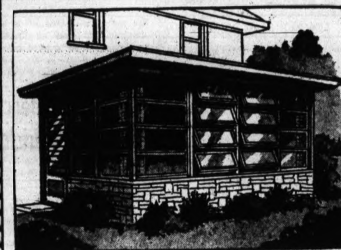

Reuther addressed students of the Samuel Gompers Vocational High School in the Bronx, where he was presented with the third annual "Gompers Labor Award."

Gompers founded the American Federation of Labor.

To Run for Con-Con Seat

FLINT (UPI) — The Genesee County Republican party has announced that Frank G. Millard, attorney general 1950-54 and general counsel of the Army 1955-60, will be a Republican candidate for constitutional convention delegate.

Ship in Key Spot to Find Shepard

By FRANK CAREY

Associated Press Science Writer
ABOARD USS LAKE CHAM-PLAIN AT SEA (AP) — For five days this 40,000-ton aircraft carrier has prowled the seas 290 miles off the Florida coast, waiting for today.

It's job: Pluck the first U.S. astronaut to be shot into space from his landing spot in the sea.

Of all the ships in the recovery fleet, this ship had the key spot
— the prime target area — a circle 24 miles across.

But to insure against a short rocket shoot, or an over-long one, Navy destroyers were strung out like beads from Cape Cana-verral to cover the possible landing areas.

CARRY HELICOPTERS

Like the Chaplains, they carry helicopters to hover over the astronaut in the space capsule and effect recovery.

The crew aboard this ship had anxiously waited for its chance to get to the scene. In the first live Project Mercury shot, a chimpanzee named Ham was fired too far for this target area, and a helicopter from the U.S.S. Donner made the capsule pickup beating out a boat from the USS Ellison.

This ship is only a way station for the astronaut. After two or three hours of questions, he goes onto a full fledged medical station at Grand Bahama Island for 16 hours of tests.

Of course this ship is prepared to keep the astronaut longer if his condition should warrant.

But here the astronaut is held incommunicado and he probably won't speak publicly until he sees President Kennedy in Washington two days after the space shot.

Commutes Sentence for William Mericle

Gov. Swanson today commuted the life sentence of a Pontiac man, William Mericle, 56, who was convicted in 1929 of murdering Edward McCrumb, also of Pontiac.

Commutation makes Mericle eligible for parole immediately. A parole hearing was held for Mericle last February.

He was sentenced Nov. 18, 1929, to Marquette Prison by Oakland County Circuit Judge Frank Covert, for killing McCrumb with an iron bar in the basement of Mc-Crumb's home.

David Wasmuth Goes to San Francisco Post

The promotion of David Wasmuth to assistant zone manager for Pontiac in San Francisco has been announced by Frank V. Bridge, general sales manager of Pontiac Motor Division. He succeeds R. W.
Wilson who has resigned from the division.

A native of Huntington, Ind., Wasmuth transfers to the West Coast with 10 years of Pontiac field sales experience. He has been of vice manager and car distributor for Pontiac's Chicago zone since June 1960, and previously held positions in the Dallas, Oklahoma City and Kansas City sales zones.

Predicts Critical Period

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said today the next 12 to 18 months are going to be critical ones in relations between the United States and Russia. He called on Americans to forget politics and unite to meet the challenge.

Firemen Carry Blaze Right Back to Station

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — The Tempe volunteer fire department carried a blaze back to the main station before putting it out.

The firemen had extinguished a stack of burning hay and started back to the station when suddenly a blaze flared in the rear of the vehicle, apparently started by spark from the burning hay. The firetruck fire was squelched quickly.

Soft U.S. Policy on Laos Seems to Irk Asian Allies

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States appears to be in trouble with some of its Southeast Asian allies over its handling of the Laos crisis.

The Kennedy administration seems to have been caught in a conflict between the countries with primarily European interests and those with primarily Asian interests. The course of nonintervention now evidently chosen by President Kennedy coincides with European, rather than Far Eastern alliance recommendations.

As a result, the administration may be compelled to take some urgent new measures to reassure countries in the area where the policy Saturday in Des Moines, Communist drive for the conquest of Laos is causing the greatest concern about the reliability of strong declarations of intent from Washington.

Dramatic evidence of the split between the United States and its Southeast Asian allies came Thursday from Manila. News dispatches reported the Philippine government had decided that the time had come to intervene militarily in Laos. Philippine informants said the government there saw no hope for a settlement to be achieved through diplomatic negotiations.

IT'S JFK'S IDEA

The cease-fire neutrality formula is that which the Kennedy administration has advocated from the beginning in spite of evidence that pro-Communist elements in Laos will hold the upper hand in political and military contacts with the pro-Western government.

Officials awaited a full report from Ambassador John D. Hickerson in Manila. Meantime, the report from the Philippine capital was held here as a protest against the way things are going in Laos.

Three Asian members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization consistently favored strong action against the Communist military drive to take over Laos. They are the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan. When the Kennedy administration took an increasingly tough stand on this issue, those countries were encouraged. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson's statement three weeks ago that the United States would not stand by and see Laos "gobbled up" was an example of the attitude favored by those governments.

HE WAS DISRUPTED

Britain and France, by contrast, consistently advocated a cautious nonintervention approach. The French argue that the West would face an impossible military job in the jungle.

Kennedy is said by some informants in a position to know to have leaned strongly toward powerful military intervention. He was confronted not only by the distaste of the European allies for such a course, but also by opposition from some of his own party leaders in Congress. In addition, he faced the hard fact that the Lao forces under the pro-Western government, even though equipped with American arms, showed no real will to fight.

The cease-fire agreement now being painfully effected through negotiations with the pro-Communist side should lead in little more than a week to a 14-nation conference at Geneva.

There is little doubt here that the Reds intend to use their strong military position, achieved while they stalled on a truce in Laos, to try to dictate the terms of a settlement. They are expected to pay lip service to the U.S. policy of Laotian neutrality but to demand a government so loaded with pro-Communists that in fact the peaceful settlement process would in the long run mean a virtual takeover of the Southeast Asian kingdom.

ALTERNATIVE A SPLIT

That, at least, is the gloomy outlook as it appears at the moment to many people in positions of diplomatic importance here. The alternative to a neutral Laos progressively dominated by persons of Communist leaning would be to split the country. How that would work in view of the extensive Communist holdings (now over three or more) and the elongated north-south shape of Laos is difficult to predict.

Probably more important than what happens in the disputed land itself, is the question of what happens in the minds of the men in the Kremlin about the relative degrees of bluff and threat to be found in future warnings from Washington.

Centennial Group Plans International Tea Party

Plans for an international tea during Centennial Week will be formulated at Centennial headquarters in the Pontiac Public Library at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. David Saks, chairman of International Day, said it is proposed that an international flavor predominate in the delicacies, displays and exhibits such as costumes and singing.

The tea is scheduled to run from 1-5 p.m. at Elks Temple on Friday, June 23, the International Day of the tea. She listed as examples the Bulgarian, Canadian, French, German, Hindu, Hungarian, American Indian, Mexican, Polish, Scottish, Turkish and Dutch.

"Representatives from all groups are welcomed," she said.

Mrs. Richard Wolfe is co-chairman of International Day, Mrs. S. V. Soltes, chairman of ethnic groups, Mrs. Jerome Varon, chairman of tea tables, and Mrs. D. Richard Veazey, talent chairman.

Scholle, Stahlin Oppose Bill

Measure on Jobless Benefits Upsets Pair for Different Reasons

LANSING (AP)—August Scholle, state AFL-CIO president, and a Republican senator were on the same side of a bill today — but for different reasons.

Scholle and Sen. John H. Stahlin, R-Bellingham, president of a Bellingham plastics firm, voiced their disapproval of a jobless benefits bill Thursday.

Stahlin called a meeting of Lansing area industrialists to point out what he said were "deficiencies and inequities" in the bill. About 25 businessmen attended.

Scholle objected to language used to dissolve the so-called Ford-Canton decision of the State Supreme Court. In a letter to the lawmakers, he complained the measure left room for unscrupulous employers to bar their laid-off workers from receiving unemployment compensation.

The bill, killed in a House committee last week, is expected to be revived. House Republicans plan to tack it on another House-approved labor bill in the form of an amendment.

2,000 Deaths a Year Seen for State Traffic

DETROIT (AP)—Three years hence Michigan's traffic deaths may rise to 2,000 a year, says State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs.

Childs raised the possibility in a talk before the Detroit Safety and Traffic Committee. The commissioner said he based his estimate on an upward trend in all forms of traffic mishaps and increases in the volume of traffic.

Michigan had 2,000 deaths in 1955 but after that year the number went down, going to a 15-year low of 1,575 in 1958, Childs said. He said an increase began in 1959, reaching 1,576 last year.

Tech' at Houghton Gets Summer Course Fund

HOUGHTON (AP)—The National Science Foundation has awarded Michigan Tech $5,000 for support of a summer program in chemistry.

laboratory training for high school teachers of science.

The program begins July 10 and ends Sept. 1. It will be directed by M. E. Volin, director of nuclear research at Tech.

Salesmen May Have to Abandon Their Gay Flings

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The upper classes haven't faced such a threat since the French revolution. It isn't the end of the world, but it may mean the end of a way of life for the favored few.

It brings the threat of doom to America's greatest postwar aristocracy.

I refer to the Kennedy administration's proposals to cut down on plush "expense account living."

If Congress adopts this program, many corporations now allowable as tax deductions no longer will be.

Salesmen no longer will be permitted tax-free to wine and dine and entertain prospective clients—and themselves—at posh parties, night clubs, theaters, high-priced restaurants and company-owned hunting and fishing lodges.

OUT WITH RECEPTIONS

Executives won't be able to throw $15,000 wedding receptions for their daughters at the country club and write them off as a necessary business expense. In fact they no longer will be permitted even to cuff their country club dues.

The proposed program also would limit "business gifts" to $10 a person a year, daily "business entertainment" allowances to between $4 and $7 a person, and "business travel" expenses to $30 a day.

Nothing has stirred the industrial world so much since the invention of the typewriter.

There'll be some startling changes if the program really becomes law.

For example:

Businessmen will go back to closing deals in their offices instead of on the golf course.

Cirrhosis of the liver will decline. Nobody will be able to entertain himself into cirrhosis under the new expense account schedule.

Wives who have made a practice of serving all the family meals at the country club—with the government picking up most of the tab—will have to stay home and learn how to cook.

NEW SITE

Coney Island may replace Atlantic City and Miami Beach as a convention center. Coney Island is about the only resort left in the country where a businessman can have a high old time on $30 a day.

Vice presidents of firms doing business together no longer will be able to give each other new cars for Christmas—courtesy of Uncle Sam. That $10 gift limit will restrict them to exchanging old Marilyn Monroe calendars.

Many of the glittering restaurants and night clubs that have been subsidized by the expense account trade may turn into self-service cafeterias.

Yep, there'll be a lot of changes.

In our own home we are already making a number of small economies in advance.

We have dropped our plan to buy a yacht. What good is a yacht if it isn't tax-deductible?

I also have abandoned my intention to take my wife on a trip around the world to cure her of a long-standing case of claustrophobia. I have an uneasy feeling that under the new regime this might not be allowed as a medical deduction.

So it's goodbye to the caviar and back to the ham sandwich.

Who Sang of Showers in April!

By MAX E. SIMON

While the rain in Spain falls mainly on the plain, the rain in Pontiac just plain fell during April.

Showers were the order of most days mostly the rainy type.

But the show-stealer was a snow shower in mid-month. The year's heaviest snow blanketed the Pontiac area April 17.

Accompanied by tumbling temperatures and frisky driving conditions, the spring snowstorm swept out of the Northern Plains with all the fury of a mid-winter blockbuster.

Three inches fell. Two days earlier the mercury had registered a balmy 64. The day the snow struck the temperature struggled to a high of 41. April was a mixed-up month.

NOVEMBER 3.7 INCHES

The month's snowfall totaled 3.7 inches, with snow or flurries on (Advertisement)

1,266 Pigs for Cuba! MONTREAL (U) — The German ship Athene sailed from Montreal Thursday with a cargo of 1,266 pigs for Cuba. Shipping officials said the pigs were the first of 7,000 head of livestock Canada plans to send to Cuba this year.

Laziness Is Red Crime MOSCOW (UPI) — It was a crime today in all 15 republics of the Soviet Union for an able-bodied citizen to refuse to work. Such "parasites" faced severe penalties, including banishment to distant regions and imprisonment.

Khrushchev in Armenia MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev arrived today in Yerevan, capital of Soviet Armenia, to take part in the celebration of the 40th anniversary of Soviet control of the territory and the establishment of the Armenian Communist party.

Discovers 'Holos' in Hell LANSING (AP) — They've got holes in Hell, Ark. John C. Mackie, state highway commissioner. He just received permanent membership in the "Holo Club" of Hell, for putting the village on the official 1961 state highway map, the department said today.

the month's low was 22 degrees on April 2.

The average high temperature for the month was 49.4 degrees, the average low 35.7.

During the month, 5.22 inches fell. The average for April is 2.91 inches.

Rain, snow and hail fell on 13 days; it was sunny on 12 others, and five days it was cloudy.

If you thought April was colder than a spring month should be, you were right.

Temperatures were 2.9 degrees below normal on the average, according to the weatherman.

The month's high was 72 degrees on April 24. Not too bad... until you remember that in April 1960, the mercury went as high as 88.

Well, Maybe Joyce Kilmer Could Help Out

As the poet wrote, there may be nothing lovelier than a tree, but unfortunately trees all look alike.

That's what's going to make the attempt to apprehend local tree thieves difficult, Pontiac police said today.

Four sugar maple trees were stolen from the east side of Madison Junior High School, it was discovered yesterday morning.

Ten feet tall, the trees were to have been taken to Pontiac Northern High School for planting.

Clues to the theft were being sought today.

But officers said they'd probably be stymied because they won't know how to spot the missing trees.

"After planting, it would be impossible to identify them," Patrolman Peyton W. Johnson reasoned.

No Legal Advice From Abby

Lady, Go Get a Lawyer

DEAR ABBY: I have been married less than a year to a man who, I think, is a mental case. I never loved him, but he wouldn't leave me alone.

He threatened to take his life if I didn't marry him. Besides, I was a divorcee with three teenage children, and this man could give us a home and security. (He has a lot of money.) He is 38 and I am 32.

Well, he couldn't get along with my children and he got very tight with his money. We fought all the time, and he would yell and storm and break up the furniture.

He took rat poison last week—but not enough. The doctor tells me he needs mental treatment. Can I put him away in an institution?

If I can prove he wasn't all there when he married me, can I get an annulment? Where will this leave me financially?

NEEDS TO KNOW DEAR NEEDS: His doctor can tell you whether your husband should be institutionalized. And a lawyer can tell you if you are entitled to an annulment, and also where "this leaves you, financially."

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that mothers are stricter with daughters, but will let their sons do anything they want? That is the situation in our family and I have talked to my friends and they say the same thing.

VIRGINIA DEAR VIRGINIA: Don't complain, dear. It all averages out. The fathers are stricter with the boys.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorcee and I would like to know once and for all what my name is. May I still call myself MRS. JOHN BROWN, or am I now MRS. MARY BROWN? Conflicting opinions have me bewildered.

DIVORCEE DEAR DIVORCEE: You are MRS. MARY (use your surname here) BROWN. You certainly should not continue to be MRS. JOHN BROWN. If your ex-husband marries again, what confusion would result in there being two MRS. JOHN BROWNS.

Invited to Camp Girl Scout troop members and their families are invited to attend "Meet The Camp Day" at Northern Oakland Girl Scout Council's Camp Sherwood, near Lapeer Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. A map of the camp will be available at camp headquarters.

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

When the Bloomfield Country Day School holds its first Strawberry Festival on Saturday, May 13, there will be a booth selling baked goods and candy. One of the featured items will be Date and Nut Bread.

- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon shortening
- 1 cup boiling water
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup sifted flour

Mix first 4 ingredients with a fork. Add shortening and water. Let stand 30 minutes.

Beat eggs with fork. Add vanilla, then sugar and flour. Beat mixture with fork. Add date mixture, mixing to just blend.

Pour into greased 3x3x3 loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven—350 degrees—1 hour and 5 minutes, or until done. Makes 1 loaf.

'Mr. Music' to Guest at Musicale Affair

Karl Haas who is "Mr. Music" each morning to area housewives on FM radio will be guest artist at Pontiac Tuesday Musicale's annual May luncheon Tuesday. The 12-30 affair will take place at Devon Gables.

Following luncheon in the Hillside Room, Mr. Haas will preside at the piano in the role of narrating host, much as he does in his daily hour-long radio program, "Adventures in Good Music."

Much in demand as a recitalist, Mr. Haas is well-qualified for his role of director of fine arts at radio station WJR. Born and educated in Germany, he received his early music training in piano, theory and conducting at the Conservatory of Mannheim.

After concertizing widely in western Europe, he came to the United States in 1936 as a member of the faculty of the Bendetsen Netorg School of Piano in Detroit. He continued his studies with Netorg and with Artur Schnabel in New York.

His close friendships with Bruno Walter, Dame Myra Hess, Leonard Bernstein and Artur Schnabel have been important influences in his musical life.

Esteemed for his outstanding work in chamber music, Mr. Haas is founder and president of the Chamber Music Society of Detroit. He has appeared widely in concerts with his own chamber music ensemble composed of first chair men of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Chairman of the music committee for the Michigan Cultural Commission, Mr. Haas has also represented the United States at the 1958 UNESCO Music Congress in Paris.

Who Said to Drain Glands?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "I have medium bones and am 5 feet tall and weigh 120 pounds. The trouble is, it shows! I am a teen-ager. I have tried dieting and exercise and have not lost any weight. I read some place that a person can have her glands drained and lose excess weight. Please tell me how this works—and how much it would cost."

A. Now I have heard everything! Usually when folks think up ways to lose weight it is a pleasant and easier way; something like standing up for 15 minutes after each meal.

Draining the glands sounds pretty gruesome. I imagine you got this impression because you read somewhere that a glandular deficiency may play a part in overweight. This is true in a very small percentage of cases.

You did not tell me your age. If you are 15 you should weigh about 105 pounds. If you are 12 you should weigh about 95 pounds. My guess is that you have not counted your calories carefully. If you have cut down some and have not lost, see your doctor and ask him about it.

SHE NEVER GAINS
Q. "I am 5 feet 4 1/2 inches tall and weigh 115 pounds. I eat and eat but never gain an ounce. I would not cure except that I have no hips. When I wear slacks the back part just hangs. How can I develop a pair of hips?"

A. If you gained weight, of course your hips would become larger just like the rest of you. However, the hips probably would remain out of proportion to the rest of you.

You can enlarge the hips by developing the hip muscles. Try this exercise regularly. It is also a good abdominal exercise.

Stand tall. Place one hand on the wall for support. Bend the knee up in front of you close to your abdomen. Kick back, straightening the leg, toe off the floor. Again bend the knee up in front of you and continue. After a while do the same thing with the other leg.

IT IS POSSIBLE

Q. "I have never seen an article about how a woman can flatten her stomach after having a baby. Is this possible?"

A. Yes. The abdominal muscles become stretched during pregnancy and exercise can help snap them back into shape. Lax muscles are the reason for the protruding abdomen.

Of course, if you gained weight yourself during those nine months, you will have to diet also. Usually, exercise is allowed about six months after the arrival of the baby. However, individual cases differ and you should ask your doctor this.

'Nuts in May' on Stage at Kingswood

Opening and closing prayers were offered by Mrs. Charles Ellender and Mrs. Jack Gilbert, respectively.

Mrs. Michael Davis and her committee served refreshments after the meeting was adjourned.

Areme Chapter Plans Affair

Hostesses for the Monday meeting were Mrs. William Cox and Mrs. Charles Reddick.

Mrs. Bernard Garner, Mrs. Russell Canterbury and Mrs. Loren Palen served refreshments.

Child Culture Club Entertains 'Dads'

Mrs. Lorne Proctor of Lake Angelus Shores was Tuesday hostess to Lake Angelus Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association.

Mrs. Newton Skillman Jr., president, told of two awards received by the branch for civic improvement and education at the recent annual meeting of the Michigan Division, WNGA.

The civic improvement award was presented for the branch's Civic Improvement and Conservation Committee's planting 300 crocus, daffodil and wild tulip bulbs on the lake's island. Bulbs were selected for color blending and planting followed natural irregular lines on a hill close to the shore line.

The education award was given for the branch's presentation of a scholarship to Michigan State University Oakland, the conservation scholarship at Higgins Lake for teachers and the Homemakers Scholarship.

Want to Beautify Your Community?

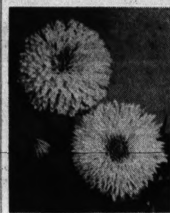

If you happen to have the knack of organizing and getting people together, you are just the person to start a community beautifying program. There's a slight bit of work involved, but if you are civic-minded and concerned with the appearance of the community in which you and your family live and work, you'll find all your efforts in improving the situation more than rewarding to yourself. They'll be an inspiration to others also.

The National Garden Bureau is here to help you by supplying a comprehensive blueprint on community beautification. There is also a 15 minute color film which can be made available. Just write the Bureau at 124 East 38th Street, New York City.

In order to add impetus to all community programs started, the Popular Gardening Magazine is offering gardening certificates of merit to groups conducting such a program.

Write to Popular Gardening, 530 Fifth Avenue, New York City, giving them the details of your community improvement program. They will do the rest.

Farm and Garden News

GLORIOSA DOUBLE DAISIES
— The big globular golden yellow, double flowers somewhat resemble chrysanthemums. Some of them are semidouble with dark centers resembling the Black-eyed Susans from which they were developed. Vigorous, 3 ft. plants are covered with long-lasting blooms borne on long, strong stems. Prized for their rugged beauty, Gloriosa Double Daisies are easy to grow and tolerate both extreme heat and cold.

Trees Breathe, Let Them!

Trees breathe all over—from top branch to lowest root. That's because they have no respiratory system comparable to that of animals.

All this spells trouble for favorite trees when grade levels are changed. Like humans, they'll smother if the air supply is cut off. When fill is placed over roots, odds are trees may decline or even die unless corrective steps are taken.

O. L. Follin, field representative of The Davey Tree Expert Company, warns you should take no chances despite reassuring words of building and grading contractors that no harm is being done. Consult the professional tree man if possible building operations or repairs result in root covering. The technique of assuring trees an unrestricted channel of fresh air is somewhat involved.

All the soil around the tree roots first must be cultivated and fertilized. The latter is to help build up the tree's vitality. Then proper drainage must be assured. This is accomplished by laying four-inch drain tile from near the lowest root level to a suitable drainage point. Next, gravel is placed in a 15 to 18-inch wide collar around the trunk to the new ground level.

From here on in, the rest is easy. This means filling over the gravel and around the tiles with suitable soil until the desired grade is reached. Don't trust to the tree's supposed hardiness in facing this procedure. It could mean the end of the trail for your arboral pet.

Begonias Are Fussy About Location

Tuberous begonia bulbs should not be buried but pressed in gently. You may put them in individual tapers or cardboard squares that go right into the ground with the plant when warm weather comes. Some gardeners prefer leaf mold or an equal mixture of peat moss and sand.

The concave side of the bulb should be up. You may pot them when the sprouts are about two inches high, using six to eight inch pots, depending on the size of the tuber. Keep the planting mixture moist but avoid getting water in the indentation of the bulb. This might rot it.

If you pot the bulbs, cover them with half an inch of good garden soil but leave half an inch of pot rim clear. If you sink pots in the garden, leave an inch of the pot above ground.

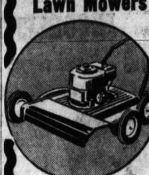

Don't keep begonias in direct summer sunlight. Even the planting is best done on a cloudy day. For better and more blooms, pinch off the first blooms before they open. The front side of the plant is the one toward which most leaves are facing. This side should face the light.

The fewer the stalks you leave on each bulb, the larger will be the flowers.

Tablespoon to a Bulb

Spring bulbs planted in beds or rows should be given two to four pounds of a complete plant food for each 100 square feet of space (about one tablespoon per bulb). At the first sign of growth above the ground, re-apply fertilizer at the same rate regularly.

Correct Fertilization Pays Big Dividends

Only by soil-testing can you determine accurately what kind of fertilizer and how much of it your soil needs. Vegetables require a fairly heavy feeding.

Generally, spread at the rate of 1,000 pounds per acre such complete fertilizers as 5-10-10 or 6-8-6. Breaking this down, it would be 2½ lbs. to 100 sq. ft., 25 lbs. per 1,000 sq. ft., or 7½ lbs. per 100 ft. of row with a three foot spacing.

We suggest broadcasting fertilizer prior to soil preparation. You can plant right afterward without danger of fertilizer burn to the plants. But if you put the fertilizer directly in the row, do so about a week before seeding and mix it thoroughly with the soil.

White (Irish) potatoes, cabbage, tomatoes, peppers and other heavy feeding items will do better with an extra side-dressing of about 6 lbs. per 100 feet of row about a month after the plants show above ground.

Encourage Grass Growth to Kill Off Chickweed

In many sections of the country where heavy snows prevailed this winter, the home gardener will experience even greater problems than usual with chickweed. This winter annual, known as common chickweed (Stellaria media) has smooth pointed leaves and can grow under the snow. With the onset of warmer temperatures, chickweed would spread this year more than in an open winter.

Once the grass starts growing, and you have a chickweed problem, it is important to get rid of this competitive weed without delay. After all, the best weed control is a healthy thick stand of grass. You waste valuable money feeding weeds instead of killing them. Chickweed will die at about the time crabgrass starts germinating. Unless measures are taken, turfgrass growth is hampered by continuous weed competition.

Mid His Invention

In 1880 Edwin Budding, a British engineer, invented the first practical mechanical lawn mower. Budding got his idea from machinery used to shear the pile on woolen cloth in the Gloucestershire textile factory where he worked. Fearful that someone might steal his invention before he had a chance to patent it, Budding did his testing on his back lawn after dark — thereby greatly mystifying his neighbors.

Pruning Essential for Good Shrubs

The occasional pruning of shrubs is very important — a fact which many times is overlooked by the home-owner until it is too late. The Michigan Association of Nurserymen advises that most shrubs used in landscape work today, require a certain amount of pruning, depending somewhat on the location of the plants and the effect desired.

The pruning of shrubs serves several purposes. The method of pruning should be determined by the final effect for which the shrub was planted. Periodic pruning will increase the bloom and will also retard the height, resulting in a much more attractive and compact plant. Different varieties of shrubs call for a different pruning time schedule, but the general rule-of-thumb is to prune immediately after flowering. For the shrubs which are planted for their berry effect, this will result in the loss of some fruit, but it is necessary if the plant is to be kept from becoming leggy and unsightly. Shrubs which are not planted for their flower or berry effect, such as broad-leafed shrubs, hedge plants and others should be pruned in early spring, in order to take full advantage of the new growth.

Many persons are unaware of the point of growth where a shrub may need pruning, so a few suggestions here might be of order. It is difficult to establish a hard and fast rule governing a pruning schedule as many factors enter into the rate of growth. Soil conditions, sun and shade, soil fertility, amount of moisture and other items have a great bearing on the rate of growth. Many shrubs such as Forsythia, honey-suckle, and mock-orange grow much faster than viburnum, cotoneasters, euonymus and others.

consequently they require pruning more often.

When most of the taller-growing varieties reach a height of six or seven feet, they usually are in need of pruning. Then the lower branches are losing their leaves and the plant is becoming unsightly near the base. In other cases the plant may have become so thick and woody that it no longer flowers as profusely as before. These are symptoms that call for a pruning job.

Pruning should begin at the base of the plant. All of the dead wood is removed first, then most of the older stems, which are usually darker and harder than the new wood. When stems are found rubbing against each other, the smallest and weakest ones should be removed.

All cuts should be made as close to the ground as possible to avoid leaving unsightly stubs. At this point the plant should have had about one-half of the stems removed, and those remaining should have from three to six inches between them.

Next, go to the top of the plant and cut back the remaining stems to the desired height, and Rose O'Day, Lobelia, Living, and before they row the growth of your flowers.

stubs are left. Start in the center of the plant, cutting back to the highest point desired, then gradually cutting lower as the sides are reached so that when the pruning job is finished the plant will still have a natural, irregular contour, rather than a harsh, stiff line. Hedge plants should be sheared each year or as often as required to keep the size and shape desired and in such a manner that the top is a trifle wider than the top. If this way, sunlight may reach all the way to the bottom. Deprived of light, thinning of foliage near the base generally occurs.

The proper care of shrubs means many years of beauty to enhance your home and yard.

Choose Low Flowers for Edging Walks

There's generally a place in your garden, particularly along walks or driveway, where you want a carpet of bloom but the absolute minimum in plant height.

Here's a list of flowers that grow no more than 4 inches high, but produce many flowers. Alyssum, and cut back the remaining stems to the desired height, and Rose O'Day, Lobelia, Living, and before they row the growth of your flowers.

Don't Burn Tender Grass With 'Food'

It is important that the lawn food you apply at this season does not burn the young grass, says A. H. Bowers, Chicago agronomist. Young shoots, tender and only recently beginning growth are easily affected.

"You will want to select your lawn food very carefully," says Bowers. "Make sure the lawn food you plan to use has been labeled plenty and that the printed instructions contain an unequivocal statement to the effect that the plant food does not burn."

"It is advisable to read the fine print. When prospective users are told that a lawn food must be watered in at the time of application such lawn foods actually burn," says Bowers.

Weeds and Flowers

If you have lots of weeds coming up, hoe between the rows in your flower beds as soon as you can make out the line of flower seedlings. Wait a day for the surface to dry out, killing the uprooted weeds, then hand weed in the row to get the weeds out while they are tiny and before they row the growth of your flowers.

Nematodes Yield to New Controls

Nematodes and other insects reduce the yields of many vegetables. Nematodes feed on roots, robbing plants of nourishment. Controls include DD, EDB and DBCP (known as Nemagon or Furazone). Apply DD and EDB in the row and cover it two weeks before seeding.

Both are available in liquid form and are recommended for all vegetables. DBCP is available in liquid or granular form and may be applied nearer seeding time for cucumbers, cantaloupes, watermelons, squash, okra, peppers, tomatoes, eggplants, sweet potatoes, onions and snap beans. Follow instructions for application.

Hawaii's normal annual output of sugar is about one million short tons. Of the 75 million Americans planning a vacation this year, four-fifths will take it in the family car.

St. Fred's Chorus to Offer 'Spring Serenade'

ST. FRED'S SINGERS — Long hours of rehearsal narrowed to a few final workouts this week for these St. Frederick High School students as they approached the date of their spring vocal concert. The concert, "Spring Serenade," will be held Sunday evening. Many small ensembles will be featured along with the choir consisting of 57 students. Rehearsing an ensemble selection are (left to right, standing) Jeanne Landry, Bob Metz, David Garza, Gwen Collins and (seated) Moretha Martin. The pianist is Edward Higbee, choir director. The program material will range from "O Lovely Hour" by Chopin to several musical comedy hits.

Annual Concert Slated Sunday

Will Feature Chorus of 57 Students; Also Small Vocal Groups

By MARY ELLEN DETMER

Under the direction of Edward Higbee, St. Frederick High School will present its annual spring concert this Sunday evening at 8 p.m. "Spring Serenade" will feature songs by a 57-member chorus. "Dites-Moi" from South Pacific, "Old Man River" from Show Boat plus two songs from Flower Drum Song will be featured.

A group of 15 students called the Small Ensemble will present several selections. They'll do "Hernando's Hideaway" from Palmyra Game, "Cranberry Corners, U.S.A.," and three others.

The Double Trio consisting of Barb Kast, Carole Hoyt, Pris Getzen, Christine LaLonde, Jean Landry, and Linda Schaefer have prepared a number from Picnic, "Moon Glow," for the gala event. For the grand finale the full chorus will sing "O Lovely Hour" by Chopin.

Singing in the chorus group, the ensemble, and Double Trio is all extracurricular work. Months of practice and hours of fun have been put into it.

The real fruits of their efforts and the fine work of Mr. Higbee, their director, will be realized Sunday in the parish hall. Admission is free and all are welcome.

SOPH'S PRINT PROGRAM
The sophomores have taken the responsibility of appropriations and publicity. They've done an excellent job of setting things up while the chorus was busy putting finishing touches on their planned program.

The sophomores have also put together a printed program for the night's activities.

The whole school is getting into the swing of selling tickets for the senior play, "High Ground," to be presented May 20 and 21. Tickets are $1.25 for adults and 50 cents for children.

TICKET CONTEST
To boost sales, a contest is going on for grades 9 to 11. The one selling the most tickets will receive $10.

The seniors are in a contest of their own and the highest senior ticket seller will also receive $10. Tonight St. Fred's Town Club is giving a farewell dinner for the grads of St. Fred's and St. Mike's.

Cakes have been ordered with the names of the St. Fred's seniors on one and the other saying "Welcome Summer."

Admission is 50 cents with all 61 grads admitted free.

Proclaims Radio Month

Mayor Philip E. Rowston has proclaimed National Radio Month as a local observance during May. He cited the many facets of commercial radio broadcasting and their importance to the nation and community.

PREP FOR PROM — Assuming these students finish their jobs on schedule, Oxford High School's student center will be decked out with everything from lotus blossoms to chompicks tomorrow night. The event is Oxford's annual spring prom, "Oriental Fantasy." Preparing flower decorations are Carol Roberts, Janet Miliolek, and Carla Buechler, while Dave Gark does a little last minute carpentry on a special tea house. The prom will run from 9 to midnight.

Marsha Deeg Chosen at PNH

Student to Visit Germany

By BILL RAMSEY

A Pontiac Northern High School student has been selected to travel to Germany this summer.

Marsha Deeg, a senior from home room A-3, applied some time ago to the Michigan Youth for Understanding program to be one of 300 high school students to visit 16 countries this summer.

Last week she was notified that she had been accepted.

The program, similar to that of the American Field Service, which sponsors foreign exchange students during the school year, is sponsored by the Michigan Council of Churches.

These "summer exchange" students will stay with a family for nine weeks, living, working and playing with them and their friends.

"We hope," says Marsha, "to gain a better understanding of people in foreign countries and help them to understand Americans."

CROSSSES GERMANY

Each hopeful applicant was asked to indicate a preference as to the country he would like most to visit. Marsha chose Germany.

"I'm honored to go to Germany. I want to find out for myself if the Communist influence is as widespread as it is said to be," she said.

Surprisingly, to be eligible for selection it is not necessary that the student speak a foreign language. Each is placed in a family with at least one English-speaking member.

When she arrives, she may find herself back in school, since German students attend classes later in the spring than American students. They also go back sooner in the fall.

Marsha is an active member of both Youth for Understanding and the Michigan Youth Advisory Council to the governor.

TROPHIES AWARDED

Another season of home room basketball has been completed, and three new trophies will stand in the showcase.

Each year after the regular season, teams from the various rooms are organized to compete for the championships of their respective classes.

Taking sophomore honors were Beryl Roush's boys from B-21, after defeating second-place B-34, Mrs. Mary Lou Jennings' team.

Kathleen Gehlman's B-17 team won over Edward Daur's B-5 in the junior finals.

In the senior circuit, Madeline McConnell's A-3 team was victorious with Mrs. Louise Vaughn's home room B-2, the runner-up.

Varsity players are ineligible for home room competition, but they often act as coaches and referees.

Plan Commencement, Check Stocks at PCH

By BARR GRIFFIN

While seniors are beginning to make plans for commencement ceremonies June 15, the minds of many Pontiac Central students turned to the stock market this week.

As stockholders in the Burroughs Corp. of Detroit, 12 students representing over 90 in Roland Hallquist's three economics classes attended the annual stockholders meeting yesterday at the corporation.

At the beginning of the semester the combined classes purchased five shares of Burroughs stock and have been closely charting its progress on a bulletin board in the classroom. Recently they received their first dividend check.

Students who went to Burroughs and attended the meeting yesterday are Dick Doerr, Bud Oster, Sylvia Roff, Dennis Diddy, Bob Light, Sharon Drew, Ben Donald.

Waterford Picks Talented Pupils for Music Camp

By BARR SEGAN

Two weeks of entertainment plus exceptional educational opportunities are in store for four Waterford Township High School music students.

Richard Meier, music teacher, has recently named Bey Ballard, Marcia Hull, Paul Kumley and Barry Blackstone as the four members of the Interlochen Quartet.

During this summer the students will be afforded the opportunity to study and practice music as well as enjoy sports and other recreation, with select students from the eastern part of the United States.

Participants were judged and selected on the basis of the quality of their voices and their musical ability.

The Summer Music Camp in Northern Michigan will be the destination of these students in July.

Costs of the trip are estimated at approximately $100 with the school paying nearly half of the expense from the profits gained in the recent production of "Showboat." Also representing Waterford at the Camp will be Tom Hubbell.

Insultations were made last week that funds for the female courts have already been appropriated. Contrary to this, however, only the site for the courts has been approved.

son, Erv Jones, Karen Antolich, Barb Griffin, Art Renpiper and Carolyn Anderson.

Graduation is quickly approaching for members of the senior class. Announcements and name cards were ordered this week and yesterday the seniors were measured for their caps and gowns.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the seniors will be taking final exams before and after school in the study halls.

Commencement has been officially set for 4 p.m., Thursday, June 15, at Wmner Stadium.

In case of rain, it will be moved to the boys' gym in the evening. Baccalaureate is scheduled for June 12.

St. Mike's Busy Testing Tests

Students Taking Part in Nationwide Trial of New Science Exams

By PAT BURNS

Science students at St. Michael High School will be participating in a nationwide trial of three new science tests from the Cooperative Test Division of Educational Testing Service.

The tests reflect widespread changes that have occurred in recent years in the teaching and content of high school courses in biology, chemistry, and physics.

Students taking the test will be among 15,000 other participating students in selected schools across the country.

The program is to test the test, not the student. These tryouts are designed to find if questions are clear and whether they are too difficult or too easy for students.

On the basis of tryout results, the tests will be revised and then given to students in other schools to provide information on typical performance of science students throughout the country.

Final forms of the test, which are for use by schools in evaluating their students and their curriculum, will be published in about two years.

Students Elect Council Officers at W. Bloomfield

By CAROLYN MAVIS

Elections for student council president and vice-president were in progress this week at West Bloomfield High School.

Last Friday petitions were released for all those interested in running. These petitions had to have 50 signatures before the candidates could put their posters up. The posters were all very interesting and eye-catching.

Yesterday there was an assembly to formally introduce the student body to the candidates. At this assembly speeches were given by candidates and their campaign managers.

Those running for the office of vice-president are Rick Kelly, Peg Nothofer, and Dave Heinschick. Bill Vaccaro and Tony Quinn are running for the office of president.

The voting took place today in all home rooms except those of the seniors. The president and vice-president were announced late this afternoon.

'Oriental Fantasy' Slated for Tomorrow at Oxford

By LINDA JACOB

The annual spring prom, sponsored by the student council at Oxford High School, will be presented tomorrow from 9 p.m. to midnight in the student center. Each year a school-wide contest is held to select an original theme to be used.

This year's winner is Phyllis Mann, a junior. For her idea she received two free tickets to the dance.

Her theme "Oriental Fantasy" centers around an oriental tea garden with flowers, bushes, trees and the like.

A couple entering the dance will first cross a small bridge which leads them into the garden. A large glass moon, Japanese lanterns and tinkling chimes will adorn the ceiling.

An oriental tea house will catch the eye of all couples attending. Here refreshments will be served during the evening.

To add to the atmosphere and glow, music will be provided by "The Lamplighters", a group from Olivet College. A former student of Oxford High, Val Sauser, is a member of this five-piece band.

Emmanuel Students Celebrate Centennial

By KATHY MCKEE

Today, students at Emmanuel Christian High School appeared to be little old fashioned people as the school observed Centennial Day.

Fests and bonnets and old fashioned apparel were donned by everyone. During last hour those not cooperating with Centennial Day were readily put into jail to await trial.

All that were found guilty paid the price of going through the riches, and for some an additional fine was levied.

Fun was had by all (even the unlucky few). Much good talent was displayed during the program with a few contests held to liven things up.

One of the popular ones was a pie eating contest.

'61 First Quarter Shows
Big Decrease From 1960
Figure

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. Thursday reported first quarter earnings of $76.2 million, equal to $1.30 per share, compared with $141.1 million, or $2.61 a share, in the first quarter of 1960.

Ford was the last of the five auto manufacturers to announce its quarterly figures and the third of the five to show a profit.

Earlier, General Motors had reported a net of $188 million, off $186 million from a year ago and its smallest first quarter profit in eight years. American Motors showed a profit of $2.1 million against $14.4 million a year ago.

Chrysler lost $2.9 million and Studebaker-Packard was $6.5 million in the red.

The Ford earnings came on consolidated sales of $1.46 billion compared with sales of $1.52 billion in the first quarter of 1960.

Ford said its worldwide factory sales of cars, trucks and tractors were 27 per cent below the similar period a year ago. The total was 654,002 of which 325,349 were domestic cars and 169,533 were cars built abroad by Ford.

$2-Million Plus
Lets Road Men
Do Extra Jobs

LANSING (AP)—A mild winter and a favorable spring breakup on state highways resulted in a near $2-million surplus in the winter and spring maintenance budget, the State Highway Department reports.

About $200,000 of the surplus, the department said, is being spent on two emergency projects and other special maintenance work. The remaining $1.8 million, the department said, will be used to finance about 25 additional miles of rural inter-state freeway next year.

The emergency projects include rehabilitation of cable guard rail throughout the state and the removal of nearly 4,000 elm trees with Dutch elm disease resulting in temporary jobs for more than 300 unemployed workers.

San Francisco Zone Manager Appointed to Replace C. L. Keyes

Changes in the Pontiac sales organization have been announced by Frank V. Bridge, general sales manager for Pontiac Motor Division.

Wendover P. Holzworth of 230 Pilgrimage, Birmingham, is appointed San Francisco zone manager. He succeeds C. L. Keyes who has resigned from the division to enter the Pontiac retail business.

Assuming Holzworth's previous duties as sales promotion manager at central office here is C. L. Copeland of 4311 Pickering, Bloomfield Township.

Holzworth has been with the division since 1948 when he joined the Boston zone as a service adjuster. From 1949 through 1954 he held various positions of responsibility in the Pontiac zone and, in 1955, was promoted to regional sales promotion manager of the central sales region.

Holzworth was named assistant zone manager in Los Angeles in 1956, returning to central office in 1958 to assume the position of assistant sales promotion manager. Later in that year he was appointed sales promotion manager.

Copeland has had wide experience with the Pontiac sales organization, beginning in 1937 as assistant car distributor in the Deaver zone.

He also held various positions of responsibility in the Portland, Ore., San Francisco and Milwaukee zones before his transfer to central office in 1958 as assistant sales promotion manager.

Keyes, a 17-year veteran with Pontiac's field sales organization, has served in the Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis, Portland, Milwaukee and San Francisco zones. He has been manager of the San Francisco zone since 1959.

Japanese Icebreaker Back From Antarctic

TOKYO (AP) — The icebreaker Soya Maru has returned from its fourth annual Antarctic trip with 17 scientists, 94 crewmen and Taro, the most famous dog in Japan.

Taro was one of several Karaito sleigh dogs the scientists had to leave behind in 1958.

When they returned the next year, they found Taro was one of two dogs that had lasted the Antarctic winter unaided. The other dog later ran away.

Negro Student Gains Law Honor in South

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—A 24-year-old Negro student has achieved the highest honor at the University of North Carolina Law School.

Julius LeVonne Chambers, a rising senior from Mount Gilead, has been named editor-in-chief of The North Carolina Law Review.

It is the first time a Negro has won such an honor at the University of North Carolina and is believed to be the first time in the South that a Negro student has been so honored at a predominantly white college or university.

Latins Writhe Under Bad Condition

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Many Americans probably think of Latin America vaguely as a land of mananas and bananas without knowledge of the life there or even interest in why millions south of the United States may not be made in love with it.

Yet, many millions there live under wretched conditions. And Fidel Castro, a strong popular support for his revolution in Cuba.

consist of luxury housing surrounded by appalling slums. Many of the wealthy have little faith in the economy or political stability of their own country, as is demonstrated by the bank accounts which they have abroad and by the chronic flight of capital to the United States and western Europe.

"History provides many examples, in the Western Hemisphere as well as elsewhere in the world, recording that where orderly reform is too long delayed, violent revolution and chaos result.

"Maintenance of their tradition, elite society and economic monopoly is no longer practicable in a country dominated by an economic aristocracy or oligarchy."

Pleasant Ridge Fights Valuation

and 'Erroneous'

Pleasant Ridge has protested as "grossly inadequate" and "erroneous" its 1961 county equalized valuation, up $1.5 million from last year, in an appeal to the State Tax Commission.

County Clerk Register Daniel T. Murphy Jr. said he would probably file the city's appeal, the only one taken in the county within the 5-day limitation, with the commission by letter today. Supervisors Arthur G. Elliott Jr., one of three who voted against the county's over-all valuation report Monday, said in his appeal that a sampling of 53 sales of property in the city for the county equalized valuation staff showed the property was assessed 15 per cent higher than its true or market value.

Elliott said the actual sales price of the parcels was $1,288, 175 while the county assessed the same parcels at $1,480,538.

The city objected also to a $1,545,702 boost in its equalized valuation from the 1960 level of $11,866,858 to the 1961 total of $13,412,560.

"This increase was based on erroneous sampling and arbitrary economic factors applied to the city of Pleasant Ridge without regard to the valuation of any single parcel of real estate," the appeal read.

Novi Man Gets Jail Term, Fine for 'Kid'-napping

A Novi man pleaded guilty to "kid"-napping charges yesterday in Highland Township Justice Court and was sentenced to three days in the county jail and ordered to pay $25 in fines and costs or spend an additional 10 days in jail by Justice of the Peace Roy J. Carl.

Gordon Killen, 34, of 26458 Novi Road admitted stealing a 5-week-old goat from a field on Arthur Charlick's farm at 2165 W. Clyde Road in the township Wednesday. He was arrested by sheriff's detectives yesterday.

Rifle-Cleaning Mishap Injures Pontiac Man

A 24-year-old Pontiac man who accidentally shot himself in the left foot while cleaning a .22-caliber rifle was reported in satisfactory condition at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital today.

Jerry Suddeth, 332 Going St., said the weapon discharged when he forced the rifle bolt closed after it had jammed.

Lake-Level Bill Passed by Senate; House to OK

Hundreds of lake property owners were promised speedy results—after years of waiting—with yesterday's passage of a new law streamlining methods of establishing lake levels.

House Bill 132 was the major target of the county's 1961 13-point legislative program.

Similar measures had met with defeat the past two legislative sessions.

The successful bill, sponsored by Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson, R-Waterford Township, and Rep. Henry M. Hogan Jr., R-Elliott Township, gave back to the House for approval to give it immediate effect. The House passed it 86-1 on April 2.

If this is granted, and it is expected it will be, Gov. John B. Swainson's signature is all that will be needed before Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry's office can go to work.

The Senate passed it yesterday. To AFFECT OAKLAND.

With one petition dating back to 1947, Barry's office has 14 petitions from citizens requesting establishment and control of lake levels in various parts of the lake-dotted county. Oakland has 423 lakes at last count.

"The old laws did not specify a method of financing," explained Robert J. Evans, deputy commissioner and a veteran of 36 years handling drain matters in the county.

"You got up to a certain point in the processing and you were

Mason Man Pleads Guilty on Dart Bank

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—James A. Dart, 49, a Mason plumbing and heating contractor, pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court today on six counts of misapplying bank funds. He had been indicted in an alleged check-kiting scheme involving $371,681 through the Dart National Bank of Mason.

Judge W. Wallace Kent accepted the plea and continued Dart on $5,000 personal recognizance bond pending a sentence date.

Judge Kent told Defense counsel Earl Dunn, "We will leave open the sentence date with the understanding that whatever must be done by the respondent be done promptly. Don't plan on any three or four months."

Fined on Reduced Charge of Reckless Driving

Monie R. Presson, 46, 1193 Featherstone Ave., yesterday pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of reckless driving and was ordered to pay a $50 fine or serve 10 days in the Oakland County Jail.

stuck. You couldn't move any further and the petition laid idle."

Property owners on Osborn, Fox, Long, Lakeville, Forest, Island, Lower Long, Duck, Bevins, Cedar Island, Cass, Upper, Middle and Lower Straits lakes know this all too well. Their petitions for action have been stymied by the deficiencies in the old laws, which the new act repeals.

It authorizes that two-thirds of property holders on any lake desiring establishment of the normal level, interfered with by development of the area, can petition Barry's office.

Or the board of supervisors can institute similar action, with the prosecutor petitioning Circuit Court for determination of the level.

There's been property damage and a threat to the public's health because of the abundance of septic tanks, with the past fluctuations in the levels of the lakes, Evans said.

Payment will be made through the creation of special assessment districts, set up by the board, with the benefited property owners in the district being notified three weeks in advance of the hearing in Circuit Court.

The law gives to the drain commissioner the right of condemnation of property on which dams or structures must be built to maintain the level.

Evans said old government surveys, high water lines as disclosed from other than government surveys, and old residents will help the office determine the level.

SOME MIGHT OPPOSE. Should the board of supervisors request the project, the law gives to the county the right to levy the costs from establishment through

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNEY
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The Michigan Sports Hall of Fame will find a home this year. Where it will be no one as yet knows, but a nickel will get you two it will be in Detroit.

The Hall of Fame group recently named a site committee with Nick Kerbawy as chairman, and yesterday the five-man committee met with mayor Louis C. Miriani to talk about Cobo Hall as the possible location of the athletic shrine.

Several cities in Michigan have shown interest in having the shrine. Among them are Marshall, Hillsdale, Lansing, Grand Ledge, Bay City, Saginaw and Grand Rapids.

If there is any city or community which feels it should be the site of the Hall of Fame, let its representatives make their offers now or forever hold their peace, because the decision for a permanent site will be made this year.

Are there no bids from Pontiac or some other area community?

DITTO FROM THE PRESS BOX

The development of facilities at Jaycee Park continues. After the $33,000 allocation for lights by the city and $500 for press box by The Press, Howard Dell reports that the Jaycees have agreed to take care of building the dugouts. Sponsors or backers are being sought for the bleachers, fence and scoreboard.

Speaking of a development program. The YMCA expansion fund has gone over $400,000. This is still about $150,000 short of the goal with the closing fund drive date only two weeks away.

Want a personal opinion? The YMCA is the best investment parents can make for their children and themselves.

The Detroit Tigers have decided to add Pontiac to their list of tryout camps this summer. Tony Stiel, area Tiger scout, will be the local representative when tryouts are conducted at Wisner Stadium, June 30-July 1st.

Tom Dodson, former athletic director of Pontiac schools, and presently a Major in the 64th Troop Carrier squadron at O'Hare Field in Chicago, is continuing his association with school system activities in the Chicago suburb of Des Plaines.

He was recently elected chairman of the caucus committee in Des Plaines for the selection of school board candidates.

Hebert Fires 66 at Las Vegas

Jay Leads but He's Pressed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Good looking Jay Hebert, one of the most popular players in professional golf, led the parade into the second round of the $250,000 Tournament of Champions today.

Hebert, who admittedly is still taking lessons in the skills of proper shot making, demonstrated he has studied well when he fired a 6-under-par 66 in the first round.

Playing against a select field of 25 rivals and bucking shifting winds that blew up to 40 miles an hour, Hebert topped the par 36-72 Desert Inn Country Club course Thursday in 133-66.

So today he held a lead of one stroke over his fellow pros and, as all conceded, nothing was safe in this charge at the $100,000 top money. The 72-hole event winds up Sunday.

Pressing Hebert at 67 were three other seasoned performers: Tommy Bolt, Doug Ford and Johnny Bore.

And tied at 68 were Sam Snead and Billy Casper Jr., and if they weren't enough to give the 69 bracket included Arnold Palmer, Art Wall Jr., and Stan Leonard.

South Africa's Gary Player, the 1961 Masters champion, and Doug Sanders posed a threat at 70.

No Arm Miseries Evident in Lefty's 2-Hit Shutout

CHICAGO (AP)—Any doubts Bob Scheffing harbored—and the Detroit Tiger manager admitted he was worried—about Don Mossi making a comeback have been dispelled.

The left-hander showed his manager last night he's over the arm miseries that prevented him from pitching after early August last season and sent him home before the season ended.

Mantle Homers Again as Yanks Beat Twins

ST. PAUL, MINN.—AP—Mickey Mantle pitched his American League lead in both home runs and runs batted in Thursday in helping the New York Yankees to a 5-2 victory over the faltering Minnesota Twins.

Mantle, hitting in his 16th consecutive game, had two RBIs on the homer and a first inning single as the Yankees swept the three-game series and handed Minnesota its sixth loss in seven games.

Whitey Ford, who retired after the sixth inning because of a cold and sore legs, got the victory, his fourth in five decisions after allowing both Minnesota runs and only five hits.

Jim Kaut, victim of a three-run Yankee first inning, was the loser. Ted Sadowski took over for him in the second and held the Yankees hitless until Mantle hit his ninth homer with none on in the sixth inning. Paul Giel finished up.

Ron Hansen drove a four-run, two of them with a game-winning single in the 13th inning, as the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Los Angeles Angels 8-7 Thursday night.

Hansen had slammed a two-run homer in the ninth when the Orioles came from three runs back and sent the game into extra innings.

Gus Triandos also hit a two-run homer for Baltimore and Ted Kuszewski's was his seventh of the season and his fifth in four games against Baltimore.

Ken Hunt led off the Angel 13th with his second major league homer but relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm, who went the last five innings for the Orioles, escaped without further damage and picked up the victory. He is 4-0.

"I'm delighted," said Scheffing. "What a pick-me-up for Don is going to be for this club."

Mossi seemed better, not even in his days as a big winner with the Cleveland Indians.

His fast ball blunted the 30-year-old southpaw now relies on cute stuff—fast curves and sliders.

The Tigers supported him with 10 hits as they remained doubled in the first place with the New York Yankees.

International flavor was added to Pontiac golf a few days ago when 2nd Lt. Jack Reynolds of Waterford Township played 18 holes at the famous St. Andrews course in Bonnie Ol' Scotland.

Reynolds, former Waterford High School Links star and a varsity golfer at Michigan State University for three years, is stationed with the U.S. Army Air Force at the RAF Lakenheath base in England, 90 miles from London.

In a letter to his father Chester, who lives on Elizabeth Lake Road, Jack relates that some of the boys at the base, including a lot of the brass, decided to have a golfing weekend at St. Andrews.

So all of them jumped aboard a conveniently handy C-47 and hopped over to Scotland for an 18-hole tour of St. Andrews, site of many great tournaments and one of the most well-known golf courses in the world.

Reynolds course flow from Reynolds' pen. "It's one of the most beautiful layouts I've ever seen, just oozin' with splendor and tradition," Jack writes. "It's located right on the ocean. And what holes! Every one different and every one a challenge."

Reynolds had only one mild complaint about English courses—the rough. "They call it heather," he notes, "and sometimes you just don't get the ball out of the stuff. It's really murder."

It should be added that Reynolds fired a highly creditable 75 at St. Andrews—and he did it with borrowed clubs. He's still waiting for his own clubs to arrive from home.

Reynolds, a 1956 Waterford graduate, was a 1957 City Medal Play finalist and ex-medalist in The Pontiac Press Prep Invitational Tournament.

He and Mike Andonian lost to Paul Bada in a sudden-death playoff for the '57 city title and Waterford won the '58 Press tourney behind his medal feat. He was graduated from MSU last June.

Lincoln Jackson is now Bob Gajda's caddiemaster at Forest Lake after serving five years in the same capacity for Tommy Shannon at Orchard Lake.

Playing in a Pontiac Motor League, Earl Kemper eagled the 460-yard par five 3rd hole at Silver Lake Golf Club. Kemper holed out his 3rd shot with a 9-iron to post the eagle.

John T. Brennan of Birmingham Country Club has been elected president of the National Club Managers' Association.

The construction of a synagogue on the property will reduce River Bank from 18 holes to a 9-hole links on June 1. Local golfers are turning out in force at Remon Golf and Country Club, head pro Cotton Strickland reports. Fact or fiction? According to Bald Mountain pro Ken Wilson, there was so much standing water on his course the other day that seven ducks swam across one of the fairways.

Masters Set to Open

All is in readiness at Detroit's Cobo Hall for the opening of the 11th annual ABC Masters Bowling Tournament tomorrow at 8 a.m.

The field of 48 star bowlers from throughout the nation will include veteran Monroe Moore and young Mike Samardzja Jr. of Pontiac, John Nicell and Dale Seavoy of Birmingham.

Everyone will compete Saturday and Sunday in qualifying rounds. Match play begins Sunday night and continues through Wednesday when the championship and $2,500 1st prize winner is decided. The purse of $17,045 is the largest in history.

Billy Golembiewski of Detroit is defending champion and one of seven automatically in the finals. The others are previous winners Ray Bluth, Tom Hennessy and Dick Hoover, Don Carter, Steve Nagy and Vince Lucel.

Qualifying will consist of two four-game blocks with the top scores on total pins moving into match competition. In the finals, matches are also held on a four-game basis with the victor determined by pinfall. A total of 64 will be in the finalist group.

Classic team play ends tonight with four teams left trying to tip the 5,883 rolled by Brentwood of San Francisco. Dynamic Air Engineering is the only team given a slim chance after its 2,870 last night.

1st Ace at Pontiac C.C.

Pontiac Country Club had its first hole-in-one of the year this week when Bob Bego won a 6-iron to ace the 165-yard 17th hole. Bego, playing in an Elks League, shot 49 for nine holes. His playing partners included Evans Brown, Bernard Tippen and Jack Pate.

3RD GENERATION—Jon Hoke, 13, represents the 3rd generation on a family bowling team which just started play in a summer league at Howe's Lanes. Other members are Mrs. May Reed, his grandmother, and Mr. and Mrs. John Hoke, his parents. The women had been keg teammates before.

Kelly, Lady Byng Going Together for 4th Time

MONTREAL, N. H.—Leonard Patrick (Red) Kelly of the Toronto Maple Leafs is the 1960-61 winner of the Lady Byng trophy, the National Hockey League's clean-play award.

The 33-year-old Kelly, converted from a defenseman to a center, nearly doubled the point total of his nearest rival, Detroit's Norm Ullman, in the voting of a committee representing the six NHL cities. The decision was announced yesterday.

In addition to the trophy, awarded annually to "the player adjudged to have exhibited the best type of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability during the season," he will receive a $1,000 bonus.

It is the fourth time Kelly has won the Lady Byng trophy—three times as a defenseman for the Detroit Red Wings.

Hurl Discrimination Charge in Seattle

SEATTLE (AP)—The Washington State Board Against Discrimination accused the Seattle Park Department Thursday of "willful violation" of the rights of Robert Wright, a Negro.

The board censured the park department on a 3-2 vote and appended to Gov. Albert D. Rosellini to use his influence to have the discrimination corrected. Wright, whose son, Bill, von the National Public Links championship in 1959, had complained he was refused membership in a private golf club using facilities of the city-owned West Side Seattle golf course.

Malcolm Higgins, discrimination board secretary, said the city agreed last year membership in such clubs would be open to all applicants, regardless of race or color.

Huskies, Skippers

Post Easy Victories

The track at Pontiac Northern was put in good enough shape Thursday to enable the Huskies to sweep past Berkeley, 7-0.

Ed Stigers and Vern Siple took the limelight away from the Waterford stars as the Skippers remained unbeaten with an 83 1/3-25 2/3 triumph over Walled Lake.

Chris Payne and Bill Young posted double victories for PNH. Dave Shields won the broad jump and tied for first in the high jump.

Workmen managed to get the track into condition for this meet. It was still slow. The facility is supposed to be rebuilt later this spring.

The condition of the track didn't slow Young or Payne. The 100 and 220-yard dashes fell to Young in 10.5 and 22.5 seconds. Payne won the 120 high and 180 low hurdles in 15.7 and 20.7.

Berkeley did not have Steve Meyer. The star trackman was sidelined with a pulled leg muscle. Northern's margin of victory would have been less if Meyer had participated.

With Meyer out of action, Shields won the broad jump. He cleared 5 feet 7 inches to gain a tie for honors in the high jump.

The Huskies of coach Dick Marsh won 11 first places and 17 for another.

Joe Falls was a triple winner. Mike Sikkels won both dashes. Mike Kaines ran another good mile, but Stigers was the big news for Waterford.

He scored 15 points while winning only the broad jump. Second place in both hurdles and the high jump gained the other points. This tied him with Falls for individual scoring honors.

Siple turned in his best shot put performance by tossing the 12-pound ball 50 feet 7 inches. This was a fast better than any previous effort this spring.

Kaines won the mile with ease in 4:33.7.

The Skippers took 11 first places and swept all the points in six events, including the two relays. Marsh said he would take a full squad to the Monroe Relays Saturday. Waterford and Birmingham are top team favorites in this meet.

Bloomfield Hills, Hazel Park, Milford, Cranbrook and Farmington have entered the University of Michigan.

Defense attorney Luis C. Glasco requested a pre-sentence investigation but said he did not plan to appeal.

The maximum sentence is 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine on each count.

THURSDAY'S FIGHTS
MONTREAL—Bob Channon, 24, Montreal, stopped Harold Carter, 24, London.

Detroit Relays Saturday. Pontiac Central is competing for Saginaw Valley honors today at Saginaw Arthur Hill.

Team Gives Jay Idea: No Runs for Opponents

By The Associated Press

In three starts for Cincinnati, in which the Reds didn't score a run in 18 innings, Joey Jay lost three. But Phil Joy got the idea. The young right-hander finally won one by pitching a one-hit shutout and barely missing a perfect game in a 4-0 victory over Philadelphia Thursday night.

The only hit by the Phils was a one-out single in the first inning by Johnny Callison. And the only other man to reach base for the Phils was Ruben Amaro, who drew Jay's lone walk, leading off the third inning.

After that Jay retired 18 in a row, with Amaro rubbed out as lying pitcher Art Mahaffey hit into a double play. He struck out seven.

It was the lone night game scheduled in the National League and gave the Reds their fifth straight victory—four against the Phils—since plunking into the cellar last Sunday. Now fifth and back at .500, the Reds are 2½ games behind first place San Francisco.

The Giants padded their lead over idle Pittsburgh to a full game by rapping the Chicago Cubs 9-3. Milwaukee grabbed third place from Los Angeles by beating the Dodgers 10-4 in 10 innings on Joe Adcock's grand slam homer.

Jay, 25, is a little league graduate who had a 24-24 record, including a two-hitter and one three-hitter, in seven seasons with Milwaukee. He was traded to the Reds for shortstop Roy McMillan last December. Jay lost 4-0 to St. Louis and dropped a three-hitter 1-0 to Los Angeles in his first two starts, then trailed 6-0 when he left after six innings in his last game against Pittsburgh. This was his sixth major league shutout, first since June 1959.

The Reds scored in two-run bursts in the first and third innings off Mahaffey (2-3) who allowed seven hits and five walks. A sacrifice fly by Gus Bell scored the first run and Gordie Coenen drove home the other three with a double and a single.

Adcock's slam, the eighth of his career, put an end to a frustrating afternoon for the Milwaukee first baseman. He had been hitless in four trips, leaving six men on base; had struck out three times, and the Dodgers had scored a run because of his error. The homer capped a five-run 10th off loser Jim Golden (1-1) after Los Angeles had taken a 6-5 lead on Gil Hodges' homer in the top of the 10th. John Roseboro also homered for the Dodgers, who blew a 4-1 lead behind starter Don Drysdale.

Carl Willey (1-0), the fourth Milwaukee pitcher to follow starter Bob Buhl, won it after losing five in a row to the Dodgers since June 28, 1958.

A five-run sixth inning gave it to the Giants, who came from behind on Orlando Cepeda's two-run single off loser Glen Hobbie (1-3). Sam Jones (3-1) went all the way for the Giants, blanking the Cubs on two hits after they scored their three in the first inning on Dan Zimmer's double, a single by Ernie Banks, a walk and Ed Bouchee's two-run triple.

Witness Says Nelle Didn't Talk of Killing

DETROIT (AP) — One of the state's chief witnesses in the Purvin (Bill) Lassiter murder case told a jury Thursday that he never heard Lassiter's pretty widow Nelle say anything about killing her husband and never talked to her about it.

Mrs. Lassiter, 38, and Gordon Watson, 45, Lassiter's former business partner in a lucrative Royal Oak auto dealership, are being tried on charges of first-degree murder and conspiracy to murder. The state claims they engineered the 1959 killing of her husband.

Today's session was not scheduled to get under way until 2 p.m. Circuit Judge Joseph G. Rashid was to devote the morning to hearing motions in other, pending cases.

Herbert A. Jones, a 28-year-old construction worker and ex-convict from Chattanooga, Tenn., testified Thursday that he never talked to Mrs. Lassiter about killing her husband and never heard her say anything about it.

But Jones did link Watson in his testimony to a plot against Lassiter and also said Watson once told him he had Mrs. Lassiter, a stately blonde, "wrapped around my little finger."

Under cross-examination, Jones said he told Watson in 1958: "If we go ahead and kill him, his estate will go to her (Mrs. Lassiter) and we'll all be out in the cold without a job."

The witness quoted Watson as answering: "Don't worry about it. I've got her wrapped around my little finger."

The state charges Mrs. Lassiter of 1960 Beverly Road, Beverly Hills, and Watson were lovers and plotted her husband's death "out the greed and lust." Both have pleaded innocent and claim the state's whole case is built on lies.

Let 'Residents' Croak in Pond Near Town

ST. ALBANS, England 4—City workmen grimly loaded 300 unwelcome "residents" of St. Albans into a truck, drove out into the country and threw them all into a pond Thursday.

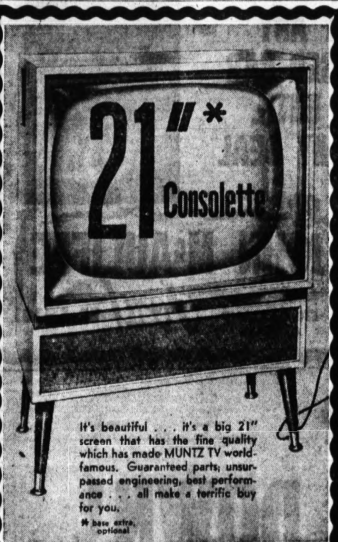

The "residents" were frogs. They were removed from a pond inside the city limits because their croaking kept people awake.

LONDON (U.P.)—Millions of Europeans crowded around their radios today to hear about Alan B. Shepard Jr. and his rocketing journey to the threshold of space and back.

The U.S. achievement made headlines and aroused admiration throughout Western Europe—even the edge was taken off the flight by Russian Yuri A. Gagarin's global orbit three weeks ago.

Radio stations broke into their scheduled programs with their reports from the United States that captured the tension and excitement of the final countdown and blastoff at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

In Japan, radio and TV programs were interrupted to announce the feat, from launching to landing.

America's frank and open handling of its first manned space flight was contrasted favorably with the secrecy surrounding Gagarin's trip.

SOVIETS GET WORD

In Moscow today Soviet citizens got their first word of the American astronaut's feat on their 7 p.m. news broadcast, an hour and a half after the event.

Speaking in a matter of fact tone, a female announcer said: "According to information received from Cape Canaveral, a rocket with a man on board was launched. After 15 minutes the capsule with the pilot Alan B. Shepard, fell in the Atlantic Ocean at a distance of 300 miles from Cape Canaveral."

"Pilot Alan Shepard feels satisfaction. The rocket was launched vertically and reached an altitude of 115 miles."

"It was a great privilege to be able to report this event."

Yuri Says Red Spaceship Could Have Been Bigger

MOSCOW (AP)—Yuri Gagarin said Thursday the rocket that raised his spaceship could have been up to a bigger and more complicated spaceship.

Gagarin, who spoke at the House of Writers, said the temperature of the rocket's engine remained a constant 23 degrees centigrade (73.4 Fahrenheit) on his April 12 flight around the world.

Masses of Art Sold on Order

Firm Retailers Original Pictures by Thousands; Has Speedy Painters

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—If anyone is in the market to buy a few thousand original oil paintings done to order from many parts of the world there is a Los Angeles company ready to do the service.

In addition, if the order isn't too complicated, the Martin Lowitz Co. can fill it within a few weeks.

Lowitz says he believes his firm is the only one of its kind in the world—a mass wholesaler of original paintings. He does no retail business.

"Our biggest customers are hotels and hotel supply houses," Lowitz explained. "Orders for over a thousand paintings to go with room and lobby decorations are commonplace."

The company buys its paintings from artists living in various parts of the United States as well as Mexico, France, England and Spain.

"Most of these artists are very fast workers," he said. "Some can turn out several paintings an hour."

He said the artists are paid an average of $15 a painting, some more and some less.

He said some of the artists who sell to him earn $12,000 a year and one or two double that.

Lowitz said he recently filled an order for 2,000 paintings for the Riviera Hotel in Palm Springs, Calif.

"The bill came to $24,000 for that job," he said, "but it took only three weeks for us to fill it."

He said that at present he is working on an order from three New York hotels, one in Guatemala City and the 1,000-room Western Hotel in Honolulu which ordered a painting for each room plus some for the lobby.

In his Los Angeles studio, Lowitz has 25 full-time employees.

Lake-Level Bill Passed by Senate; House to OK

Hundreds of lake property owners were promised speedy results—after years of waiting—with yesterday's passage of a new law streamlining methods of establishing lake levels.

Similar measures had met with defeat the past two legislative sessions.

The successful bill, sponsored by Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson, R-Waterford Township, and Rep. Henry M. Hogan Jr., R-Bloomfield Township, goes back to the

He Soars, Then Falls

A TRAGIC ENDING—Navy personnel prepare to lift Lt. Cmdr. Victor G. Prather of Bethesda, Md., from a crash boat to the aircraft carrier Antietam Thursday night after Prather was fatally injured when he fell from the sling of a helicopter in the Gulf of Mexico. He and Cmdr. Malcolm Ross had just made a record balloon trip of 21.6 miles up. Ross was rescued without mishap.

Officer Climbs Into Sky Only to Meet Death in Sea

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Navy medical officer soared higher than man has ever gone in a balloon—113,500 feet up—and then met a tragic death in a 25-foot fall from a rescuing helicopter.

Lt. Cmdr. Victor G. Prather, 34, of Bethesda, Md., fell backward from the sling of the helicopter that had picked him up Thursday in the Gulf of Mexico after an almost perfect landing. He died aboard the carrier Antietam 7½ hours after he and Cmdr. Malcolm Ross of Washington, soared to their record height.

Bloomfield Twp. Boy Drowns in Lower Long Lake

A 2-year-old boy drowned yesterday in Lower Long Lake in Bloomfield Township.

Douglas Carey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Carey Jr., of 3515 Franklin Road, Bloomfield Township, was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

The boy was found just off shore in 3 feet of water by a neighbor. He had gone to investigate his disappearance.

When mouth-to-mouth breathing by a neighbor failed to revive the child, Mrs. Carey called her husband in Livonia, where he operates an automatic laundry.

Bloomfield Township Police said they were not contacted until Carey arrived home nearly 45 minutes later at 3:15 p.m.

Police said that artificial respiration was applied but the boy never regained consciousness.

Mrs. Carey's sister, Barbara Lamb, Bloomfield Township, is the

Rep. Law Makes Two Requests for Special $286,520 Fund

(Special to the Pontiac Press)
LANSING—Rep. Arthur J. Law of Pontiac championed two unsuccessful attempts to provide more funds for hard-pressed Michigan State University Oakland during House debate last night.

On two occasions, the Democratic legislator arose to propose that a special appropriation of $286,520 earmarked for MSUO be included in the 1961-62 higher education budget.

With the $286,520 MSUO is expected to receive as its share of the Michigan State University budget, the MSUO budget, under Law's proposal, would have been increased to $1,166,240.

Both of Law's proposals were beaten down, the first by a one-vote margin, 51-50. The second vote was 55-51.

In his plea for a separate appropriation for the new Oakland County University, Law pointed out that much confusion existed as to what share of MSU's appropriation belonged to MSUO.

Because the MSU and MSUO budgets are combined in a lump-sum appropriation, he stressed it has been pointed out that MSUO might receive only $12,300 more next year than it has under the current budget.

Law said his proposals were not made to question the integrity of the MSU Board of Trustees or MSU President John A. Hannah.

At Cape Canaveral, Rep. James Fulton, R-Pa., and ranking GOP member of the House

Space Committee, said that as a result of today's space flight the United States "may not be even a month behind the Russians."

"As far as I'm concerned," Fulton said, "the Russians have almost proved that Yuri Gagarin flew, orbital flight. They haven't shown that he reached orbital speed."

"Since he only went around the earth once, it may have been simply an elongated ballistic flight."

Fulton and other congressmen witnessed Shepard's take-off from the Cape.

"I think it's fantastic," said Keith Brushfield, a sheep and cattle rancher from Sydney, Australia, who was in Rockefeller Center on a visit.

"It was thrilling—something the free world has been waiting for for several years. Now you've put up (there) with the people from Russia and I hope you pass them."

ALL SUITED UP FOR FLIGHT—Astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr., reclined on a form-fitting couch this morning just before he took off into space. A technician at Cape Canaveral adjusted hoses to the suit so pressure could be run to five pounds per square inch. Early in the morning, the flight was delayed because of weather and a little technical difficulty.

Spaceman 'Pushed' by All Americans Glad...but Thankful

From Our News Wires
Americans gave an emotional shove upwards today to astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. They cheered by the million beside television sets, radios and teletypes and almost physically tried to push him along as he soared into space.

"A sampling of reactions in New York showed many were concerned for Shepard. 'I'm glad he's down safely,' said stockbroker Lawrence E. Gray of suburban Rye. 'All our safety precautions were well justified.'"

"It's wonderful," said Mrs. Beulah Glenn, who is 68 and blind. "It's the greatest thing that ever happened and I am glad for him." She heard the news on a radio in front of City Hall.

Inside the hall, Mayor Robert F. Wagner extended the New York City congratulations.

Felisa Rincon de Gautier, mayor of San Juan, Puerto Rico, was waiting to see Wagner. She jumped with joy when she heard the news and commented: "I am very glad he made it. Thank God."

Space Committee, said that as a result of today's space flight the United States "may not be even a month behind the Russians."

"As far as I'm concerned," Fulton said, "the Russians have almost proved that Yuri Gagarin flew, orbital flight. They haven't shown that he reached orbital speed."

"Since he only went around the earth once, it may have been simply an elongated ballistic flight."

Fulton and other congressmen witnessed Shepard's take-off from the Cape.

"I think it's fantastic," said Keith Brushfield, a sheep and cattle rancher from Sydney, Australia, who was in Rockefeller Center on a visit.

Handles All His Duties During Weightless Time

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States' first spaceman, Alan B. Shepard Jr., rocketed briefly across the threshold of space today and landed safely after a 5,100-mile-an-hour journey that carried him 115 miles high and 302 miles down range.

Officials did not say whether Shepard had reported on his reactions during the weightless period.

But during the time he would have been weightless, the reports were that he was performing his tasks.

As swiftly as it came, the weightless feeling left and Shepard once again was gripped by G forces—twice the tenacity as on acceleration—as the capsule plunged back toward earth.

The pilot reported he was subjected to 11Gs during the re-entry period.

Ten minutes after launch, at an altitude of 40,000 feet, a small parachute opened to stabilize the space craft. At 10,000 feet, a 63-foot main chute unfurled to lower the capsule into the water, presumably with no more force than if it had fallen off a 14-foot wall.

Recovery ships in the area reported they sighted the large red and white parachute as it lowered the capsule toward the sea.

When this was done, Shepard climbed out an escape hatch and was pulled into the other helicopter.

Substant employees of the Chrysler Corp.'s missile plant in Warren, where the Redstone missile is produced, planned a celebration at 3:30 p.m. today outside the plant, Van Dyke and 15-Mile roads. UAW Local 136 and the corporation are teamed up for the demonstration.

raise the capsule upright. It was on its side in the water.

When this was done, Shepard climbed out an escape hatch and was pulled into the other helicopter.

A few minutes later he was on the deck of the carrier.

Officials on board reported that he walked from the helicopter under his own power and immediately went to a medical facility below deck.

Here, doctors began a quick examination of the pilot. After this initial check, Shepard was to be taken by helicopter to a hospital.

He is expected to remain there at least 24 hours for extensive examination and psychological tests.

Then he will be flown to Washington, probably Sunday or Monday, for a hero's welcome at the White House from President Kennedy.

He will remain in Washington about 36 hours and then will return (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Believe JFK Willing to Send Troops to Vietnam

Red, Pro-West Delegates Meet on Laos Cease Fire

From Our News Wire
WASHINGTON—President Kennedy today was believed prepared to send U.S. troops to South Vietnam if necessary to save that country from Communist conquest.

Chairman William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Thursday night after conferring with the President, that he thought Kennedy would be willing to commit American forces to prevent the fall of the pro-Western government.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Thursday that the President was increasing military aid to South Vietnam. His statement came as American officials sought by diplomatic means to achieve something from the dispute in neighboring Laos.

The President may have more to say at (4:30 p.m. Pontiac time) news conference today about his plans to stem the mounting Communist aggression, terror and sabotage in Southeast Asia.

He was meeting this morning with his National Security Council, the sixth such session on Laos within two weeks.

Near Ban Hin Hiep, Laos, representatives of the pro-Western royal government of Laos and the Communist-backed Pathet Lao rebels are on a dusty road to begin peace talks in a hostile atmosphere.

REFUSE TO TALK TERMS
As the delegations of the two warring factions met at that jungle spot on the main highway between Phnom Penh and Luang Prabang to work out terms of a permanent cease fire, the Communist Pathet Lao heaped abuse on the royal government representatives.

The rebels, headed by a Pathet Lao major, refused to discuss terms of a permanent cease fire, which lasted one hour.

to Cape Canaveral for further tests.

These will include simulated flights in a mock capsule, so that medical men can compare the results of similar mock flights which he made before today's real thing.

A report from the carrier said Shepard "crawled out of his capsule at sea and was hoisted into a helicopter heading back to the Lake Champlain."

The capsule later was picked up by a Marine helicopter piloted by Lt. Wayne Koons of Lyons, Kan., with Lt. George Cox of Easton, Pa., as copilot.

When the rocket roared away from the Cape, the majority of more than 400 newsmen stood up and cheered.

They also applauded as each announcement came over the loudspeaker that the flight was progressing smoothly.

SAILORS CHEER
A later report from the Lake Champlain said that when the helicopter landed on the deck it was greeted by 1,200 cheering and whistling sailors.

DR. ROBERT LANING AND JEROME SHEPARD
Strongly approved the helicopter, whose door had been closed. It suddenly opened and Shepard leaped to the deck and there were further cheers.

Lt. Cox, the copilot who lowered the hoist to Shepard was the first to get a look at the space pilot.

Shepard told him after the recovery: "Thank you very much."

KENNEDY SALUTE
In Washington, President Kennedy saluted the successful flight and at the same time urged redoubled efforts to push America's vital space program.

The Chief Executive also talked by telephone and radio with Shepard.

Kennedy voiced his personal congratulations, received assurances from Shepard that "everything worked just about perfectly," and said he was looking forward to seeing the Navy commander.

The White House said the meeting probably will be at the executive mansion Monday morning.

"What a beautiful sight!" in describing the earth below.

He radiated back that he could see the outline of the entire East Coast of the United States.

Throughout the rest of the journey, he said everything was "OK." Ships, planes and helicopters raced to attempt recovery of the astronaut when his cabin plopped into the water.

CREWMEN CAUTIONED
Crewmen of the Lake Champlain were told not to speak to the astronaut.

Doctors and psychologists wanted him to tell his story without having it colored by news conveyed to him on his return.

Pope Receives British Queen

Philip With Elizabeth in 26-Minute Private Talk; Her Second Audience

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII today received Queen Elizabeth II in audience and told her that her visit crowned the friendly relations that have existed between the Holy See and Great Britain since the start of the century.

It was the second meeting between Elizabeth—who is temporal head of the Church of England—and a Pope of the Roman Catholic Church. Pope Pius XII received her and her husband, Prince Philip, in private audience in 1951, before she succeeded to the throne.

Philip accompanied her to the audience today.

The 79-year-old pontiff received the royal couple alone for 26 minutes in the Vatican throne room, then led them to his library, where other members of the queen's party were waiting.

What the Pope and the British sovereign talked about in private was not revealed. In the library afterward the Pope, speaking briefly in French, recalled other visits of British royalty.

The Pope again expressed his hope for "the realization of Christian ideals of peace, charity and fraternity among men and nations."

Peddling Parson Visits His Parish Regularly
NEEDHAM, Mass. (UPI)—Rev. John H. Westerhoff III, of the Needham Congregational Church, rides a bicycle as he makes his parish visits.

He estimates that he covers at least 20 miles a week on his two-wheeler. "It's time-saving getting through traffic," he said, "and I can always find a parking spot."

In Holland, the attorney retained to defend Stephens said Thursday the boy has refused to talk to him or his mother since his arrest in South Dakota.

Pearson said he was asked by the Allegan County prosecutor to withhold details of Stephens' statement. The sheriff did indicate the youth had claimed the shootings were accidental.

Kennedy signed the bill before a large group of congressional leaders and officials of the AFL-CIO headed by President George Meany.

Describing $1.25 as "a very minimum wage," he said "this does not finish the job but it is a most important step forward."

Sets Hearing in Teen Slaying

To Decide If City Youth Will Be Tried as Adult in Fatal Stabbing

Probate Judge Donald E. Adams has set May 17 for a hearing as to whether 16-year-old Alvin Scruggs should be tried as an adult in the fatal stabbing of another youth.

Pontiac Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finegan yesterday issued a warrant for second-degree murder against Scruggs, 641 Branch St.

Police say Scruggs, who carried a knife with a 6-inch blade under his clothing to a teen-age dance Tuesday night, twice stabbed Vincent McNeal Jr., 15, 388 Howard McNeal St.

21 WITNESSES
Asst. Prosecutor Edward H. Shigley, who asked for the warrant against the juvenile for the killing, said he had prepared a list of 21 witnesses for the hearing before Judge Adams, but would probably only call some of these.

He said he has seven who witnessed the scuffle and then stabbed outside the Elks Lodge, 160 Franklin Road, around 10:30 p.m.

Shigley said most of the eye witnesses would testify that McNeal prompted the fight, which climaxed the earlier fight at Jefferson Junior High School, where the two boys were students.

Scruggs is housed at the Children's Home pending the waiver hearing.

Gordon Cunningham said, "We called there twice. I can understand that the boy isn't up to talking to his mother or me. He's still a pretty scared kid."

Long said both were tired after the 1,300-mile drive and would get some sleep before conferring with South Dakota officials who took statements from Stephens after his arrest here Tuesday night.

Kennedy Puts Ink to Minimum Wage Measure
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy signed today with "great satisfaction" the bill putting another 3,824,000 workers under the minimum wage law, and increasing the minimum for those already covered.

The minimum for workers now covered by the wage law will rise to $1.25 an hour by 1963. Those put under the bill for the first time will receive a minimum of $1.10 an hour for the first three years and $1.25 in five years.

Kennedy signed the bill before a large group of congressional leaders and officials of the AFL-CIO headed by President George Meany.

Senate Gives Okay to Lake-Level Bill

property holders on any lake desiring establishment of the normal level, interfered with by development of the area, can petition Barry's office.

Or the board of supervisors can institute similar action, with the provision petitioning Circuit Court for determination of the level.

There's been property damage and a threat to the public's health because of the abundance of septic tanks, with past installations in the levels of the lakes, Evans said.

Payment will be made through the creation of special assessment districts set up by the board, with the benefited property owners in the district being notified three weeks in advance of the hearing in Circuit Court.

The law gives to the drainage commissioner the right of condemnation of property on which dams or structures must be built to maintain the level.

SOME MIGHT OPPOSE
Should the board of supervisors request the project, the law gives to the county the right to levy the costs from establishment through control of the level by county at-large taxation. This might meet with some opposition, Evans admitted.

Although the board of supervisors can initiate the action quicker than property owners can petition through signatures, it is believed that most action will come from property owners.

The State Conservation Dept. is also eligible under the law to petition.

The new act gives to those in the special assessment district the right to issue bonds or tax anticipation notes as a means of payment.

He Sleeps, He Eats, He Dresses for His Trip

By ALVIN B. WEBB

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—America's pioneer astronaut started his space journey from a "home" that has all the comforts of—well, of home.

The trip to space actually began in a hospital-like row of rooms in one of the many huge hangars that dot the 15,000-acre landscape of this missile test center.

This is hangar "B", an immense, instrument-filled building where the nation's seven spacemen base their operations.

The cubicles go by numbers, starting with 5-305. Here the astronaut and his "backup" astronaut made their home during the final waiting hours.

Room 5-305 is something unique in the austerity of mechanized Cape Canaveral. It is originally the work of an attractive nurse from Oregon, LA Delores (Dee) O'Hara, and it looks like a page from a home decorator's guide.

The cubicle has wall-to-wall carpeting, a pair of double-deck beds, two beige couches and a pair of arm chairs, a television set and radio, champagne-colored draw draperies and—concealed from a quick glance—an electric clock above the doorway. The room is painted aqua, which Nurse O'Hara describes as "cool and relaxing."

HAD NO SEDATION

The prime astronaut and his buddy were allowed to go to bed around 9 p.m. EDT last night. Their personal physician, LA Col. William K. Douglas of El Paso, Tex., said in advance that the No. 1 astronaut would receive no sedation.

"He can go to sleep when he feels like it," Douglas said. Douglas, a sandy-haired pipe smoker, awakened the astronaut around 3:30 a.m. EDT. The spaceman's first movements were little different from those of the average businessman arising for a normal workday—a shower, shave and then breakfast.

The meal consisted of orange juice, toast, milk, cookies and frozen strawberries. This was especially planned as a "low residue" diet, limited in the interests of nausea but not restricted to the point of flavorlessness.

At this point, the astronaut still was in his space-age "long-johns"—an undergarment of a meshed material to allow free flow of air during his hours inside the space suit.

His next stop was a physical examination room at the extreme end of the narrow hall.

Here, the spaceman got a physical test probably as intensive and detailed as any ever given to a human in the space of an hour or less. His blood pressure was checked, body examined, reflexes tabulated, temperature read and reread.

The first of a series of small instruments was attached to his body so scientists could continue these measurements during the flight into space.

Project Mercury Director Robert R. Gilruth gave the final "go-ahead." Douglas said it would have taken something on the order of appendicitis—or at least something radical that has happened during the last two or three days—to force out the man who had been picked.

The astronaut, still in his airconditioned underwear, then walked into 5-305—the pressure suit room. Here he began the tedious task of getting into the silvery, 20-pound spacesuit—a garment rubberized on the inside and covered with aluminumized nylon on the outside.

Suit technician Joe W. Schmitt of Orlan, Tex., helped him.

Challenge Has Been Shepard's Constant Diet

'I'm Confident,' Says Alternate

Glenn Puts His Trust in God, Man, Science and Planning

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—"I figured it would probably be the nearest I'd ever get to heaven. I thought I ought to make the most of it."

With that wisecrack, John Herschel Glenn Jr., once explained why he volunteered to be the first American to ride a rocket into space.

Glenn missed the first call, which went to Alan B. Shepard, 37, a Navy commander. But as "backup" pilot, Glenn is standing by to take over if anything disqualifies Shepard.

Whether he made any wisecracks after being chosen has not been disclosed.

Chances are that if he said anything, it was a prayer, for the Marine lieutenant colonel is a deeply religious man.

MANY FACTORS

He knows that if he is still called on to make the first flight his fate depends on many things beyond his control—ability of the hundreds of experts who built the space machine, quality of the thousands of working parts in the Mercury capsule and its Redstone booster and intangibles some men call luck.

Yet knowing all this, Glenn never once let slip the slightest hint of fear.

"If you didn't know what to expect," he once said, "you would be like the U-2 pilot in mid-Africa, suspicious of everything, jumping at every leaf that moves," he said.

"When you get educated you are no longer fearful. In this field there are only a handful who understand—and they are not fearful."

Glenn, now building and almost 40, spent the last two years "getting educated" for the space mission.

Disciplining himself with diet and exercise—he runs two miles each day on the beach south of Cape Canaveral—Glenn cut his weight from 208 to 158 pounds, leaving little but muscle on his 5-foot-10 frame.

As a part of his mental conditioning, he has watched as many missile launches as possible.

'ALWAYS IMPRESSIVE'

"The more familiar you are with the shots, the less awesome they seem," he said.

"But I don't think I'll ever stop being impressed, particularly if you think of yourself sitting there on top of the rocket waiting to be shot into space."

The subsequent flight may accomplish far more scientifically than the first flight does, said Glenn. "The first mission is going to be a sort of 'gee whiz, look at me, here I am, here I am' type of thing. The second flight, once a man has been briefed on what to expect, should accomplish a lot more."

Danger is no stranger to Glenn, who has more than 5,100 hours of flying time, including 1,000 in jet fighters. He flew 59 missions in the Pacific in World War II and 20 missions in Korea, where he was shot down three Communist MiGs in the last nine days of fighting.

JOHN H. GLENN

He Looks for It at Every Turn

That Explains His Wish to Pioneer America's Orbit Program

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—To Alan Bartlett Shepard Jr., 37, chosen today to be the first American to ride a rocket into space, life has been a series of challenges.

Asked recently why he volunteered for the hazardous mission, the Navy commander said: "The flight is obviously a challenge and I feel that the more severe challenge will occur on the first flight. I signed up to accept this challenge."

His wife Louise once said that if Alan couldn't find a challenge, he would create one.

He became impatient while taking Navy flight training and went to a civilian flight school in his spare time to get his private license.

He loves water-skiing. First he used two skis, then one. Later he started hunting for a boat that would pull him fast enough to ski on his bare feet.

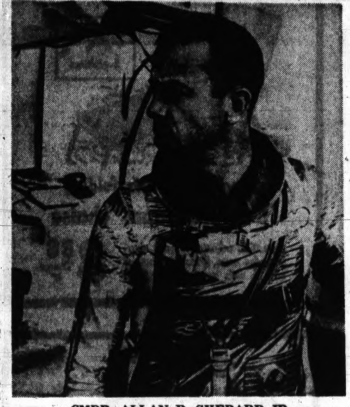

Shepard finds challenges where other men might find only chores. In his wife's words, "He is always reading technical manuals and the big policy-type journals. The kind the admirals and generals say should be read."

Other men his age drive autos. Shepard drives a high-powered white sports car fitted with racing tires.

One of his fellow astronauts, Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., had a weight problem and began running two miles every morning to keep in trim. Shepard, whose 5-foot-11 frame weighs a slender 160 pounds, watched Glenn discipline himself for a while, then apparently saw a challenge. He took up road work too.

The biggest challenge of his life came Tuesday morning when Shepard was tapped for the journey into space.

But it was a challenge he has spent two years preparing to meet.

U.S. Keeping Few Secrets Regarding Its Spacecraft

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—Unlike Russia, the United States makes no mystery of what's inside its man-in-space cabin and how it gets up and back down.

When Yuri Gagarin orbited the earth April 12, Russia told practically nothing about his spacecraft except that it weighed 5 tons.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has published thousands of words about its Mercury Project capsule, its 7 miles of wiring and its hundreds of controls, lights, levers, and machinery for keeping the astronaut alive and well.

The capsule weighs about a ton and a half. It is shaped like a bell, 9 feet in diameter at the bottom and 6 feet at the top. Inside, there is a little less room than a telephone booth's and the space is vastly more crowded.

Here are a few of its items of equipment:

A THREE-BANK INSTRUMENT PANEL. It carries 127 lights, switches, and various controls and indicators.

PERISCOPE. This is about 2 feet from the pilot's face. On low magnification it gives the astronaut a view of the earth 1,900 miles in diameter. On high, it gives a clearer view about 80 miles across.

PILOT'S COUCH. Each of the seven Mercury astronauts has a couch moulded to his shape. It is made of crushable honeycomb material to absorb shock if there should be a hard landing. It will support the pilot against high gravity forces.

RESTRAINT SYSTEM. This consists of shoulder, chest, leg, and crotch straps, a lap belt, and special toe guards to hold the pilot firmly in the couch against braking forces during descent.

ENVIRONMENTAL CONTROL SYSTEM. This, in effect, makes the cabin a tiny bit of earth. It provides the pilot with oxygen, ventilation, a livable pressure, and comfortable temperature. It is automatic, but the pilot can operate it himself if necessary. It is good for 28 hours.

SIX ASTRONAUTS MADE Flight Safer for Shepard

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The other six U.S. astronauts today helped the seventh make his trip as safely as possible.

While Navy Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard was slipping into his silvery space suit for the trip through space, the others were sequestered around the Cape for carefully planned jobs.

In the hours before the launching of today's first U.S. manned rocket flight, the modernized version of the Redstone stood gleaming white in the floodlight glare on Launching Pad No. 5.

Today's Redstone, and three like it successfully flown since last December, represent the latest modification of a basic rocket line descended from the German V-2 of World War II.

Developed by the Army for military purposes and shaped into reliability early in the nation's missile program, the Redstone was the first sizable rocket to be made operational in the hands of military crews.

Launching by U.S. Differs From Reds'

By United Press International

A comparison between Russia's first manned space flight and America's:

THE MISSION:

Russia's Yuri Gagarin circled the earth in 92.3 minutes in a 5-ton spacecraft named Vostok, at heights ranging from 109 to 175 miles. His entire flight from lift-off to descent lasted about 105 minutes, and his speed hit at least 18,000 miles per hour.

The American shot was not an attempt to orbit the earth. It involved a 1½-ton space capsule designed to go only 115 miles high and 200 miles out over the Atlantic in a total flight time of about 15 minutes. Its speed: About 4,500 miles per hour.

THE CAPSULE:

The Russian space cabin, despite its mass, apparently was rather simple. The American capsule—much smaller—was crammed with instruments and built-in space devices.

THE CONTROLS:

The Russian craft was controlled throughout its flight from the ground by radio signal. America's astronaut had a certain amount of control over his space home. He could deliberately control the pitch and yaw of the craft and control the firing of the retro-rockets which begin re-entry.

THE ROCKET:

The Russian rocket, necessarily powerful enough to put the heavy spaceship in orbit, had about 300,000 pounds of thrust in its several stages. The American launch, on the other hand, was right up until a few minutes before the actual firing.

At a meeting with newsmen Sunday, Project Mercury spokesman Paul Hines recalled the criticism of advance publicity given the ill-fated Vanguard attempt of 1957.

"If there has been a buildup of time, it has not been the government which did this," he said.

Redstone rocket with 78,000 pounds of thrust is a refined version of the old German V-2 war rocket and could not put the space capsule in orbit.

THE COMMUNICATIONS:

Russia's Gagarin broadcast a few ecstatic messages about his "high spirits." America's astronaut limits his communication to the laconic jargon of the pilot such as: "Manual roll . . . rolling left to twenty . . . returning right to zero."

NASA Opposed to Big Buildup

Didn't Even Officially Announce Launch Time; Recalls Vanguard Flop

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration made a strong effort to prevent advance "buildup" of the initial Mercury astronaut launching.

The precautions were taken by officials who recall the big public letdown after the first try to put a Vanguard satellite into orbit went awry in 1957.

Officially, the date of the first astronaut attempt never was announced in advance.

All detailed advance information on the astronaut launching had to be kept in confidence—even when made available to newsmen—right up until a few minutes before the actual firing.

At a meeting with newsmen Sunday, Project Mercury spokesman Paul Hines recalled the criticism of advance publicity given the ill-fated Vanguard attempt of 1957.

"If there has been a buildup of time, it has not been the government which did this," he said.

Chrysler Rocket Has a History of Reliability

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The 78,000 pounds of thrust behind America's first space rider came from a workhorse rocket of long-proved reliability—the Redstone, manufactured at the Chrysler missile plant in Sterling Township, Mich.

One Room Is the Nerve Center

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—In the brightly lit room, 15 men sat behind three banks of electronic consoles, listening intently into headphones, their eyes fixed on radar-like scopes and other indicators.

Now, one another spoke in low tones. A switch was thrown, a button pressed. A panel flashed green.

Along the right side of the room, two other men faced a bank of four photoboards across which pens traced charts of the guns driven by computers 50 miles away in Washington.

The men, most of them in shirt sleeves, moved crisply but without any show of excitement.

This was the way it looked in the Project Mercury control room—the nerve center of the man-in-space launch. Days ago when newsmen witnessed a rehearsal for today's pioneer rocket voyage by an American astronaut.

LOW, GRAY BUILDING

The control center is in a low, gray building less than a mile from the launching pad used for this short-range, suborbital shot. It contains, in addition to the main room, special quarters for communications, with recovery craft, a teletype center linked to Project Mercury's world-girdling tracking stations, a computer room and other support units.

The heart of the operation is a little bigger than a good size classroom.

The three banks of consoles are lined up on three facing a wall-length green-tinted map of the world. Traced on the map are the three orbital tracks to be followed on later astronaut flights, plus dots representing tracking stations, circles showing the 730-mile radius of each station's equipment and the various projected recovery areas indicated by letters from A to H.

REPORTS FROM PAD

Into this room are fed reports from the launch pad, information on weather conditions in the recovery areas, on the functioning of the capsule's instruments and by means of "impulses" or ground sensors attached to the astronaut's body, a doctor keeps a moment-by-moment check on the heartbeat, respiration and body temperature of the space pilot in the capsule both on the ground and in flight.

A brother astronaut serves as the voice link between the pilot and the ground team, keeping in touch by radio.

On the basis of the stream of information, the highly drilled and thoroughly drilled specialists can tell whether the launch should be delayed or called off, whether the flight is going according to plan, whether all is well with the pilot.

The man in charge is the operations director, Walter C. Williams, who sits at a center desk on the top row. He is flanked by Rear Adm. F. V. H. Hilles, who commands the Navy recovery forces and by a representative of the Air Force, Maj. Gen. Leighon L. Davis, who commands the Atlantic missile range.

On the tier below Williams is Chris Kraft, the flight director who functions as a kind of chief of staff to the top man. He was the first to be called "Doc" by the flight crew.

Ship in Key Spot to Find Shepard

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer
ABOARD USS SHAMPELAIN AT SEA (AP) — For five days this 40,000-ton aircraft carrier has prowled the seas 250 miles off the Florida coast, waiting for today.

It's job: Pluck the first U.S. astronaut to be shot into space from his landing spot in the sea.

Of all the ships in the recovery fleet, this ship had the key spot—the prime target area—a circle 24 miles across.

But to insure against a short rocket shoot, or an over-long one, Navy destroyers were strung out like beads from Cape Canaveral to cover the possible landing areas.

CARRY HELICOPTERS
Like the Champlain, they carry helicopters to hover over the astronaut in the space capsule and affect recovery.

The crew aboard this ship had anxiously waited for its chance to get to the scene. In the first live Project Mercury shot, a chimpanzee named Ham was fired two miles for this target area, and a helicopter from the U.S.S. Donner made the capsule pickup heating out a boat from the USS Ellison.

This ship is only a way station for the astronaut. After two or three hours of questions, he goes onto a full fledged medical station at Grand Bahama Island for 48 hours of tests.

Of course this ship is prepared to keep the astronaut longer if his condition should warrant.

But here the astronaut is held incommunicado and he probably won't speak publicly until he sees President Kennedy in Washington two days after the space shot.

Commutes Sentence for William Mericle

Gov. Swainson today commuted the life sentence of a Pontiac man, William Mericle, 56, who was convicted in 1929 of murdering Edward McCrumb, also of Pontiac.

Commutation makes Mericle eligible for parole immediately. A parole hearing was held for Mericle last February.

He was sentenced Nov. 18, 1929, to Marquette Prison by Oakland County Circuit Judge Frank Covert, for killing McCrumb with an iron bar in the basement of McCrumb's home.

David Wasmuth Goes to San Francisco Post

The promotion of David Wasmuth to assistant zone manager for Pontiac in San Francisco has been announced by Frank V. Bridge, general sales manager of Pontiac Motor Division. He succeeds R. W. Wilson who has resigned from the division.

A native of Huntington, Ind., Wasmuth, 38, has been with Pontiac for 10 years. He has been of manager and car distributor for Pontiac's Chicago zone since June 1950, and previously held positions in the Dallas, Oklahoma City and Kansas City sales zones.

Who Sang of Showers in April!

By MAX E. SIMON

While the rain in Spain falls mainly on the plain, the rain in Pontiac just plain fell during April.

Showers were the order of most days mostly the rainy type.

But the show-shower was a snow shower in mid-month.

Accompanied by tumbling temperatures and tricky driving conditions, the spring snowstorm swept out of the Northern Plains with all the fury of a mid-winter blizzard.

Three inches fell.

Two days earlier the mercury had registered a balmy 64. The day the snow struck the temperature struggled to a high of 41.

April was a mixed-up month.

SNOWFALL 3.7 INCHES

The month's snowfall totaled 3.7 inches, with snow or flurries on six days. That's more than fell in January (2.5 inches).

And the rain?

Nobody sang of April showers as the month drew to a close. Everyone was tired of them.

April was plenty soggy, but fell short of the record 6.89 inches of rain that Pontiac suffered through in April 1947.

During the month, 5.22 inches fell. The average for April is 2.91 inches.

Seven days the rain came.

There were 12 sunny days and five cloudy days.

If you thought April was colder than a spring month should be, you were right.

Temperatures were 2.9 degrees below normal on the average, according to the weatherman.

The month's high was 72 degrees on April 24. Not too bad... until you remember that in April 1960, the mercury went as high as 88.

The month's low was 22 degrees on April 2.

The average high temperature for the month was 49.4 degrees, the average low 33.7.

U.S. Chief of Spys Allen Dulles May Be Around for a Long Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—Allen W. Dulles, Washington's grandfatherly master spy, may have a longer lease on his official life than many people here thought immediately after the Cuban invasion failure.

This possibility arises because inquiry at the highest levels of the government now strongly indicates President Kennedy has not yet decided what he wants to do with the embattled Central Inteelligence Agency. Dulles, 68, is had of the agency and his fate is closely linked with its future.

What does now appear to be highly probable if not absolutely certain, is a violent shakeup of the whole complex of foreign interceptor activities carried on by many divisions of the federal government. CIA is the top, coordiating outfit but others exist in the military services and in other civilian agencies.

Kennedy now has appointed two boards to tell him what to do about the CIA and related operations. The first headed by retired

Army Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor was named April 22. It was assigned to survey on a grand scale U.S. intelligence, semimil-

SELECTS KILLIAN

The second board is actually a

ated by former President Dwight

D. Eisenhower about six years ago. Kennedy selected Dr. James

R. Killian Jr. to direct this group which will serve as an advisory committee on all intelligence activities.

Amis these portents of coming change—for the word in administration quarter is that the President foresees a shakeup—Dulles, a friendly silver-haired man with a mustache and a pipe, has become a highly controversial figure and a target of much gossipy speculation.

Indeed, there are some officials

here who think other officials have been feeding out the word to "get" Dulles. Reports have been that Kennedy will shortly fire his spy chief, that Dulles will

her—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kenedy—will take over this thankless task. At least many people around town consider it likely.

JFK 'WAITING'

Inquiries among high administration officials in position to know the views of all the principal figures in this political drama following the information on these points today:

1. President Kennedy "at the moment" has no plan to make any change in Dulles' assignment.

This does not mean any reassurance to Dulles about the future;

LBJ Says Free World Battle to Be Hard and Long and Costly

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson says he expects the Communist world offensive to reach its peak during the next 12 to 18 months.

Johnson spoke Thursday night before about 1,500 persons at the annual awards dinner of the Brand Names Foundation in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The means and methods of the Red offensive, Johnson said, "may well depend upon the Communist conclusions about the resolution of the Free World—and especially of the United States."

Warning that we are in for "a long, hard pull," Johnson said the Kennedy administration must have flexibility and freedom of action which could come only from bipartisan support.

Johnson, chairman of the new space council, pledged the eventual superiority of the U.S. in space technology.

"I must tell you that the way will not be easy, the cost will not be short, and the cost will not be cheap," Johnson said.

Sees Long Struggle in Communist Camp

FLINT (AP)—"I look for an extended period of conflict between Russia and Red China," Harrison Salisbury, New York Times Pulitzer-Prize winning reporter, said. Salisbury told a Flint Junior College assembly that "I don't see any turning back and only see them patching up their differences from time to time."

He said there is an "out and

between the two nations but said the United States should not sit back and hope Red China and Russia "knock each other out."

Math Teachers From City Will Attend Parley

Others attending include James Cox, Norbert Dasi, Adrian Dutcher and Donald Smith, all from Lincoln Junior High; Shirley Taut and Rellie Jones both from Jefferson Junior High; and Mrs. Retha Miller, from Washington Junior High.

Also attending will be Mrs. Debra Morse, who will join the Madison Junior High staff next fall.

Gerald White, coordinator of elementary education in the Pontiac School District, will be a guest speaker Sunday morning on the topic "Implementing Desirable Curriculum Changes."

Turkey Assembly OKs Liberal Constitution

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Turkey's constituent assembly Thursday night approved a new constitution for this country in preparation for general elections expected not later than this fall.

The constitution—described by political observers as "democratic and liberal as a whole"—must be approved by the ruling 25-man military junta which governs Turkey.

Yuri Says Red Spaceship Could Have Been Bigger

MOSCOW (AP)—Yuri Gagarin said Thursday the rocket that raised his spaceship could have put up a bigger and more complicated spaceship. Gagarin, who spoke at the House of Writers, said the temperature inside the spaceship remained a constant 25 degrees centigrade (73.4 Fahrenheit) on his April 12 flight around the world.

Bob's Philosophy: You Can Do Anything

By YERKON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—You can keep a good man off TV, no matter what happened to Milton Berle, Sid Caesar and Wally Cox.

This particular good man is Robert Cummings, who has earned more than $16 million from the medium and is launching his third series next September.

"I could maintain my standard of living if I never worked another day in my life," Cummings said. So why beat your head against the weekly TV monster?

"Because I'll be making a show that's never been attempted before," he answered. "It contains my own personal ideas and philosophy. The character I play is a funny fellow who also is trying to change the thoughts of the whole world."

Sounds like a big order, but that is precisely what Bob is attempting to do off-screen, too. Bob admits to being "over 50," and is an established millionaire. However, his real goal in life is to convince people to follow his lead in an exacting code of diet and positive thinking.

None of these ideas are expressed by the actor with a wink and grin. He's deadly serious. It fits in with his belief in the beneficial qualities of eating organic food and his huge vitamin and mineral business.

When he went to Japan earlier this year to endorse with Shirley MacLaine in "My Gelshe," he took along thousands of pills.

"Now I have the Japanese interested in dietary supplements and we've started sales distribution over there," he said proudly.

Cummings is so devoted to his way of life he's written a book, "Stay young and Vital," that is among the top-selling non-fiction tomes in the country. He speaks before university groups and other organizations urging his ideologies.

He already has started a second of this, "How to Be a Softy With a Thick Skin," based on the character of his new TV series.

Thus, television will be seeing a man who creates images and then makes them come true. Most of this will be done by helping Bob, Cummings is convinced.

Nixon Starting Political Tour

Travels Across Country Talking on Way to Build Up Republican Party

NEW YORK (AP)—Richard M. Nixon heads west today, ready for his first broadside attack on the Kennedy administration.

The former vice president has been reticent on what he intends to say about the man who barely beat him out of the White House. But his choice of topics for the next six days shows he will touch all political bases.

His schedule today called for a luncheon speech to the Executive Club of Chicago. Foreign policy, which Nixon calls constructive suggestions, will be discussed.

Tonight he goes strictly political. He talks to the GOP Citizens League, in Chicago's McCormick Place Theatre, on how Republicans can build a more successful organization.

Ahead are talks on farm policy in Des Moines Saturday and on other domestic and economic issues in Detroit Tuesday and Columbus Wednesday.

Nixon spent Thursday in New York in a manner unbecoming for a politician. Nearly all of his time was behind closed doors.

After his conference with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, he gave reporters accounts of the subjects covered. But he also had private appointments that he didn't discuss.

A dinner Thursday night, given by Gardner Cowles of the Cowles Publications, was off the record.

Russians Will Publish Map of Pacific Floor

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet scientists will publish a new map of the Pacific Ocean floor based in part on researches by the Soviet ships Vityaz and Ob, Tass reported Thursday.

The Soviet news agency said up to 10,000 volcanoes, mostly extinct, have been located on the ocean floor along with huge ore fields containing manganese, copper, nickel, tungsten, iron and thallium.

NEW YORK (AP)—A manhole explosion and electrical fire in Brooklyn stranded thousands of passengers on the BMT subway line Thursday.

The trouble broke out about 4:45 p.m. as about 300,000 riders headed home.

Power was temporarily restored 15 minutes later, but in another quarter of an hour it went off again. Full service was not resumed until around 6:30 p.m.

Some 22,000 passengers had to be evacuated from 11 trains stranded in tunnels. Four passengers suffered temporary shock, but required no hospital treatment.

State Legislature Moving Faster

Deadline for Passage of Laws Quicken Pace on Variety of Topics

LANSING (AP)—Michigan's Legislature, faced with an impending deadline for passage of laws, moved with a quickening pace today to clear a calendar of measures covering a broad range of topics.

Dental plates, jury duty and pornography were among the subjects discussed and debated Thursday by the Senate. The House devoted most of its attention to appropriations bills.

The upper chamber passed 32 measures and killed three others by sending them back to committees.

One of the most vigorously debated bills was one aimed at controlling dental laboratories. Final voting of the measure was postponed.

Sen. Basil Brown, D-Detroit, objected to some provisions of the bill, contending they were unconstitutional. He said one of the provisions would permit State Board of Dental Inspectors to enter a laboratory without a warrant or even a complaint.

Brown's views were supported by Sen. Stanley Nowak, D-Detroit, who said parts of the bill were setting up a "police state."

He said some dentists are bandits "who were more than Jesse James" in the prices they charge for dental lab work.

A bill aimed at curbing the distribution of pornographic literature, killed earlier in committee, was revived and passed as an amendment to another bill pertaining to the stealing of boats.

We don't go in for embarrassing moments except in yards like this one from Keeley B. Sprague of Columbus, O., who remembers when he used to be shipped in heavy wooden kegs—and occasionally sprung a leak. His father was depot agent for the C & O at Deepwater, W.Va. It was a hot August day when the keg sprung a leak. Sprague was five years old.

"My dad set a water bucket under the leak and after about two hours it was filled. My dad gave me the bucket of beer and told me to take it down and put it in the spring (our refrigerator)," he remembers.

"I did and took the bucket back. My dad asked me what I did with the beer and I very proudly said, 'Like you told me to, I poured it in the spring.'"
