Astronaut Leaves Craft for Walk in Space

CAPE KENNEDY (AP)—Astronaut Edward White stepped outside his Gemini 4 spacecraft on its third orbit today to become the first American to walk in space.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Command pilot James McDivitt decided today to put off Edward White's stroll in space from the second to the third orbit.

The Hawaii tracking station said McDivitt apparently decided things were a bit too rushed and decided to wait until the next revolution for White's outside activity.

As the critical moment approached, the astronauts felt slightly behind in their preparations and it was decided that they should postpone the maneuver until the third instead of the second orbit.

"The status aboard appears excellent, Gemini control said six minutes before the scheduled space walk, but the command pilot indicated they were a bit too rushed and decided to wait.

"WORKING HARD"

"They noted over Carnaryon station that White was working awfully hard to get all his con-

the end of a 25-foot lifeline was rescheduled for about 2:45 p.m. (Pontiac time) as the astronaut whirled over the western Pacific and the south-west U.S.

McDivitt, the command pilot, told the Hawaii ground station more than 100 miles below that he and White were running late in preparations and said:

"We'll do it next time around."

RELAYS WORD

Mission control director Christopher Kraft Jr. relayed this word from the control center at Houston:

"That's okay with us."

Earlier McDivitt and White abandoned plans for a rendezvous with a second satellite.

McDivitt announced he had used excessive fuel in an attempt to move closer to the target satellite—the burned-out second stage of the Titan 2 booster rocket.

McDivitt and White originally planned to arrive within 25 feet of the orbiting booster and White was to emerge and move close to it, perhaps touching it.

But the possibility that he would actually put his hand on it was ruled out early in the mission when it was learned that it was tumbling excessively

Schools Likely to Get Okay on Variable Levy

County Districts Could Lose $1 Million if Uniform Tax Vetoes

Developments in Lansing yesterday indicated that school districts will be allowed to levy variable millage even if this requires exceeding the legal limit of 15 mills.

Oakland County school districts had estimated a loss of $1 million next year if variable millage—a uniform levy in each district at the tax rate of each district's main municipality—was not allowed.

Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, chairman of the House Taxation Committee, said yesterday that his committee has been assured by the State Tax Commission it will issue no blanket prohibition against a school district levying a uniform tax even though a portion of the district is in a township where the uniform rate would push taxation over the legal 15-mill limit.

Montgomery said the committee expects to report out favorably a bill by Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, which would allow the uniform variable levy.

Preliminary tax rates set by the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board last month ranged from below 15 mills in some areas to 15.14 mills in others. This total combines the allocation to county government, school systems and townships.

The allocation board was scheduled to set final rates last Thursday but delayed this action to the June 7 deadline pending a review of the county budget and legislative developments.

GENTLEMEN, BE SEATED — Showing off the type of new seats to be installed in Oakland University's Howard C. Baldwin Memorial Pavilion, site of the Meadow Brook Festival, are William H. Baldwin, (left) of 720 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills, and James O. Wright, festival finance committee chairman. The pavilion is named for Baldwin's late father.

OU Pavilion Seats Aim of Kresge Gift

The Kresge Foundation has given $50,000 to the Meadow Brook Festival committee for permanent seating in the Howard C. Baldwin Memorial Pavilion at Oakland University.

The Kresge grant is expected to provide 2,138 permanent seats made of a special plastic material highly resistant to extreme temperatures and weather conditions.

They will replace folding chairs used in the festival's initial year last summer.

The Festival opens July 8 with Sixteen Eklring, Detroit Symphony conductor, directing 15 of the concerts.

Robert Shaw, noted associate conductor of the Cleveland Orchestra, will take over the podium for the concerts of July 29, 30 and 31.

More than 5,000 of the 6,414 season tickets to the six-weeks concert series have been sold.

Season tickets in the Pavilion and for grounds admission are available at the Festival office at OU.

Area to Get More Rain

Rain, rain, rain — just what we wanted. The weatherman said cloudy and warmer with occasional showers or thunder-showers is the prediction for tomorrow.

Temperatures will be a little on the cool side tonight, the low falling into the 50s. Tomorrow's high will be a balmy 68 to 75.

Cloudy and warmer with scattered showers is the forecast for Saturday.

A breezy 45 was the low thermometer reading prior to 8 a.m. today. The mercury had climbed to 67 by 2 p.m.

House-Passed Excise Tax Cut Goes to Senate

OK'd by 401-6 Vote; Upper Chamber Gets Set for Fast Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's excise tax cut roared through the House by a 401-6 vote and the Senate doesn't plan to stand in its way.

In fact the Senate is clearing the track for the bill that would lower prices on autos, air conditioners, cameras, watches and a lot of other items.

The Finance Committee is putting aside the health care bill to take up the excise bill beginning Tuesday. Only one witness will be called, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler.

The committee members agreed informally to keep the excise legislation winging along by not trying to add extraneous amendments.

For instance, Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., wanted to attach a provision to allow tax credits on the cost of college education. But the proposal is controversial and he said he will hold back.

Assistant Democratic Leader Russell B. Long of Louisiana said he hopes the Senate can pass the bill by the middle of this month.

ADDITIONAL CUTS

The House cleared the bill yesterday after adding about $900 million in cuts to those Johnson proposed. The House used only about two of the four hours allotted for debate on the measure.

The additional $900-million cut comes from complete elimination of the 10 per cent levy on automobiles over a four-year period. Johnson had proposed only cutting it to 5 per cent.

The total first-year revenue reduction would amount to only about $1.75 billion as Johnson proposed but with the additional five points coming off automobiles, the eventual annual cut would round $4.8 billion.

Texas Rookie Leads in Open

GRAND BLANC — Texas rookie Wright Garrett fired a two-under-par 70 over long Warwick Hills today to take the early first round lead in the $100,000 Buick Open golf tournament.

Garrett, just out of the University of Houston and in his second week on the tour, posted 35-35 over the 7,280-yard layout.

A stiff wind and rain-soaked fairways kept the course playing long and the scores soaring for most of the players in the 144-man field.

Arnold Palmer, here for the first time since 1958, had trouble with his long irons and finished with a 37-36-73.

Mental Health Chief Named

A 45-year-old psychiatrist was named today to the post of psychiatrist-director of the Oakland County Community Mental Health Services Board.

He will be responsible for the administration of the county's stepped-up mental health services program which now includes the recently opened psychiatric outpatient clinic at Pontiac General Hospital.

Beginning duties in Oakland County July 19 at an annual salary of $27,500 will be Dr. Robert E. Walden, presently superintendent of a West Virginia hospital.

Paul N. Averill, board chairman, said that dozens of applicants were considered for the new post before the board selected Dr. Walden.

He will be responsible for the administration of the county's stepped-up mental health services program which now includes the recently opened psychiatric outpatient clinic at Pontiac General Hospital.

Last December, Oakland County became the first area in Michigan to gain state approval for a large scale mental health services program.

The State Department of Mental Health approved a $307,105 budget for 1965.

The state appropriated half this amount, or $153,552, and the Oakland County Board of Supervisors appropriated the other half last October.

Dr. Walden, who is married and has five children, presently is superintendent of Lakin State Hospital in Lakin, W. Va.

Jobless Rate Drops in May

U. S. Figure Lowest in Over Seven Years

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson announced today the unemployment rate in May fell sharply to 4.6 per cent—the lowest figure in more than seven years.

The chief executive said joblessness dropped by 220,000 last month, leaving approximately 3.3 million unemployed. The decline was about three times the normal drop for May.

"As a result, the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate fell from 4.9 per cent in April to 4.6 per cent in May—the lowest figure in 91 months," Johnson reported.

The President warned that the nation faces an unemployment crisis "of the first order this summer" among young people between 16 and 21 years old.

He said one out of every three jobless Americans is in that age group, although they represent only one out of eight in the total labor force.

Pontiac Sets May Record

Pontiac dealers established a new all-time sales record for the month of May, E. M. Estes, a General Motors vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, announced today.

In the month, a total of 75,843 Pontiacs and Tempests were sold, a 26 per cent increase over the 60,652 cars sold a year ago.

During the last 10 days of May, sales totaled a record 24,573 units. This compares to 22,720 a year ago.

Estes said new car sales were "bristling along at an outstanding rate" and added that unfilled customer orders for Pontiacs and Tempests continued at "record levels."

Of the overall picture, Johnson said:

"We can all take pride in the figures. They show major improvements on almost every front."

1 Wife Thrilled by Space Shot

2nd Seems Awestruck Watching the Launch

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—"I'm thrilled to death," said attractive Mrs. Edward H. White today after she watched her astronaut husband blasted off into space.

"It's a moment we've been waiting for," she said. "There's no describing how I feel."

Mrs. James A. McDivitt, wife of the command pilot of the space capsule, appeared awestruck as she watched Gemini 4 rise smoothly from its Cape Kennedy launch pad.

"This seems almost unreal," she said as she and her three children sat on the floor of a bedroom, their eyes glued to a television set.

"My daddy's in there," Mike McDivitt, 4, announced proudly as the rocket soared into space.

"I'M PROUD"

Astronaut White's young daughter, Bonnie Lynn, 9, said simply, "I'm proud of him."

Her older brother, Edward III, 11, said, "It's great."

The White family watched the flight on color television in the master bedroom.

Jan Armstrong, wife of another astronaut, had joined them for the countdown and launch.

Mrs. White and Mrs. McDivitt talked on the telephone during the hold period that delayed the launch temporarily.

IN EXCELLENT SHAPE

Nevertheless, ground track reports White was in excellent physical shape and gave him the go-ahead to get out of the spacecraft.

McDivitt used 50 per cent of his fuel in maneuvering toward the Titan stage, but said he still was three to four miles away and "we just can't close on it."

When he asked if he should try to approach closer or save fuel, mission director Christopher C. Kraft Jr. replied: "Save the fuel. We're more concerned about the lifetime (of the mission) than closing with that booster. Let's scrub it."

The Gemini 4 carried enough fuel to make maneuvers totaling 245 miles. In his vain attempts to catch the booster during the first orbit, McDivitt used up 109 miles of this capability.

WITHIN 300 FEET

When they were inserted into orbit, McDivitt had jockeyed the craft to within 300 feet of the booster.

Later, they drifted apart in slightly different orbits and McDivitt began trying to close in on the target.

Looking back at the widening gap between him and the booster, he said, "I guess we're just going to have to watch it go away."

The failure to rendezvous with the booster ruined the first attempt by a manned spacecraft to come close to another satellite.

It indicated that more work needs to be done before the U.S. attempts to hook up satellites in maneuvers planned on Gemini flights late this year.

Severe engineering design changes may be required before a linkup attempt is made.

It had been scheduled next October with a Gemini craft piloted by astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford.

There was no immediate report on what effect today's rendezvous failure would have on future flights.

Perfecting the docking of two satellites is a major goal of the Gemini program and officials hoped to get at least a start in that direction with today's flight.

MUST BE PERFECTED

Docking must be perfected for later man-to-the-moon trips.

The introduction of the rendezvous maneuver for today's flight plan was a late decision.

It was made after astronaut Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young demonstrated the maneuverability of the Gemini craft on a March 23 flight.

However, they did not practice approaching any other satellite.

LATE ADDITION

The plan to have White emerge into space also was a late addition to the flight plan and was announced only last week.

The major goal of the four-day Gemini 4 mission is to determine how well men and machinery can withstand a long period in space, with emphasis on medical data on whether the astronauts suffer any physical or mental degradation.

The decision not to try to move any closer to the booster was made so not to jeopardize the long duration goal.

"Beautiful! beautiful!" were the first words to come down from the spacecraft as it soared into orbit.

GIVEN GO-AHEAD

As Gemini 4 whirled above the Carnarvon, Australia, tracking station 50 minutes after launch, the Mission Control Center gave them a go-ahead for at least three of their planned 62 circuits.

This was the first of nine scheduled "Go-go" decisions critical for the mission.

The others were set for orbits 3, 5, 16, 20, 31, 35, 46 and 50. As the Gemini 2 booster rocket drilled the Gemini 4 spacecraft on the start of its lengthy ride, McDivitt reported to Mission Control Center: "It looks great up here."

Minutes later, the 7,600-pound spacecraft was in an orbit ranging from 100 to 175 miles above the earth. This was precisely the orbital path intended.

Astronaut's World Is Fantastic

By JOHN BARBOUR

AP Science Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla.—Cold and black, the empty reaches of space offer no real notion of distance — save for the numberless stars. The sun, like the heart of the flame from a welder's torch, glares with a blinding, searing white light.

Closer is the lonely quarter-moon, soft and small.

This is the strange new world of Edward Higgins White II, American astronaut, age 35, father of two children, a would-be human planet in orbit around the earth.

It is a world of fantastic dimension and unreal sensation. It is as if you had leaped into the air and never really come down again, lost in a perpetual fall around the earth.

GOLDEN TETHER

Ahead of the spacecraft on a golden tether, you plummet to get about some 17,500 miles per hour — and yet you feel not so much as a breath of breeze — for there is no air.

The sun stands out in the blackness as a great light bulb that seemingly spreads no light. It is only when the sun's rays strike a surface that the radiation is seen. There is no air to buffet and spread the light.

Below, you see the earth's blanket of air glowing with the sun's light, splitting the white light into the splatter of color as the world of men know it.

You feel the full brunt of the sun's radiation. You turn toward the sun and feel the immediate splat of heat at your face as the rays come through your visor. And you are thankful, too, that the visor is filtered to protect your eyes from the cruel light.

COMMAND PILOT

Behind you — gleaming on its sun-side — is the spacecraft and your command pilot keeping a careful eye on your movements. And you know that the sun-side of the craft is hot, some 200 degrees Fahrenheit, and the shade side is perhaps 200 degrees below zero.

And that is probably also the temperature variation of your suit exterior if you merely stood here and didn't move.

The earth stretches out like some hairy planet — painted in browns and golds and purples — almost like colors you hadn't seen before. And perhaps through the haze you see the long peninsula of Florida stretching into the blue Atlantic.

But it is a free and wonderful feeling — and you have an unhappy thought that you must be an awkward creature in this clean, stark world of circular movements. The space you in your hand spits out a small jet of oxygen and propels you side to side, to and fro, and it is a fine way to get around, a beautiful toy in this daydream sort of world.

NOT TOO HARD

You remember to take care and not pull too hard on your tether line, because in this weightless arena, you know the only laws that hold are that any action has its equal and opposite reaction. Strike an object to send it reeling and you send yourself reeling as well. If you didn't have a helmet on and you coughed, it would back you up. It is a tentative world where everything is in motion, and motion is the only thing for sure.

And you keep an eye from time to time on the spacecraft — for it is your only reality, your only measure of up or down.

And even though you are a mere man, a lean 6-footer who weighs some 170 pounds, your tug on the tether line can move more than 7,500 pounds of monster spacecraft.

Then suddenly the 12-minute visit in space is over and voices on your headset tell you to come back to your cockpit — and you have to obey. Perhaps it is then you notice the spacecraft from your lonely post for the last time, and remember the words of the first human to float like this, a Soviet named Alexei Leonov. He looked at his spacecraft with unworried eyes. It was, he said, for him a planet — a lonely planet on a shoreless ocean.

Sgt. Ronald E. Gracey Of Pontiac

Mom Finds Photo of GI Son in Paper

A Pontiac mother was "almost floored" by her copy of The Pontiac Press yesterday.

Mrs. Thomas Gracey of 582 Luther opened the paper to find a photo of a U.S. paratrooper in Viet Nam on page 2.

The unidentified soldier is her son, Sgt. Ronald E. Gracey.

At first she was "very proud," but admittedly a little worried as she saw her son pictured on a combat mission carrying a belt of machine gun ammunition through a jungle northeast of Saigon.

The Press received the Associated Press wirephoto without identification.

Gracey was listed only as a member of the 1st Battalion of the 173rd Airborne Brigade, a unit which has been in Viet Nam for nearly eight weeks.

Mrs. Gracey said her foster parents were the first to identify the youth.

"They called me and just told me to look on page 2 of the paper."

"When I saw the picture, I knew it was Ronald right away. I was almost floored," she said.

Gracey, who was born on D-Day in 1944, will celebrate his 21st birthday Sunday.

Death Official, Morgue Law To Air Boating Control Need

The need for local boating controls on Oakland County lakes will be considered tonight at a public hearing in the courthouse auditorium.

Conducted by the Michigan Boating Control Committee, the 7 p.m. hearing will deal with ways of alleviating problems encountered on lakes in the county.

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors is seeking adoption of regulations that would prohibit the possession of alcoholic beverages by any person occupying a boat on a county lake.

The board also has asked that persons not be allowed to operate motorboats at a speed greater than swell or no wake one hour after sunset to an hour before sunrise.

Death Toll Now 237

TOKYO (AP)—The death toll in Tuesday's mine disaster at the Yamanaka coal mine in southern Japan totaled 237, police said today.

Another provision of the proposed law would make it necessary to obtain a permit from the county medical examiner before cremating a body.

Bronson said this would prohibit the disposal of a body without a police investigation, whenever criminal violence in connection with the death is possible or suspected.

City Committee on Youth To Hold Annual Dinner

The Pontiac Citizens Committee on Youth will present its third annual award dinner program, under the direction of Dr. Charles L. Bowers, youth president, at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Waldron Hotel.

Presenting five certificates of appreciation to Pontiac citizens for outstanding work with children and youth will be Mayor William H. Taylor Jr.

Dr. Dana Whitmer, superintendent for Pontiac School District, will speak on "Extending Educational Horizons to Our Youth."

The capital of Jordan, Amman, has a well-preserved Roman theater, still used for entertainment. It is a relic of the time the city was known as Philadelphia and was an important temple.

Bloomfield Twp. Vote Slated

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A millage increase which would allow the township to improve its police and fire service and establish an extended maintenance program will be in the hands of township property owners here Monday.

The proposition on Monday's special election ballot calls for the township's property tax levy to be boosted from the current 2 mills to 3½ mills in 1965-66.

The levy then would be set at 3 mills for 1967 through 1976.

With the additional millage, the township would be able to take the police and fire department contingents up to the national average.

Officials also want to increase the amount of township money applied to Oakland County matching funds for the black-topping of collector roads.

TO IMPROVE ROADS

Their aim is to improve 18 miles of roadway, at an approximate cost of $125,000 a year to the township. This is the most the township can spend and have matched by the county.

Designated for improvement are Square Lake from Opdyke to Adams, Eastway, Square Lake from Klingsmith to the western township boundary, Lone Pine, Wing Lake, Ward, Walnut Lake, Kensington and Wabek.

In addition, the two-mile Inkster stretch between Bloomfield and West Bloomfield townships could be improved if each of the communities paid 25 per cent of the cost, Supervisor Homer Case said.

Three miles of 14 Mile could be handled in the same way, although there are a number of communities having jurisdiction over it, he noted.

REPAIR OTHERS

Besides the major improvements, the township would repair existing blacktop roads and gravel and grade existing gravel roads.

Some of the additional money would be used for the purchase of a truck which would be used on a full time basis to maintain Bloomfield Township roads.

The police and fire departments would hire enough men to give each 35. The national average is about one officer per 1,000 residents.

There now are 25 officers in the police department and 31 firemen, although four of the policemen serve as radio dispatchers for both departments.

TOWNSHIP'S POPULATION

The township's population is believed to be well over 31,000, having marked an increase of 33.2 per cent from 1960 to 1964.

"Our present millage for fire, police and road purposes is about to expire," Case said, "and next Monday's ballot proposal really amounts to renewing fire, police and road millage at a slightly higher level."

If approved, the proposition would combine into one the three levies due to expire next year.

Negro Deputy Shot Dead; Armed White Man Held

BOGALUSA, La. (AP) — A Negro deputy sheriff was killed and another wounded when gunfire from a pickup truck riddled their patrol car on a lonely road near this racially tense mill town last night.

An hour later the town marshal at Tylertown, Miss., who heard of the shooting by police radio, stopped a 1964 pickup truck with a Confederate flag tag on its front bumper.

The truck's white occupant, Ernie R. McElveen, 41, possessed two pistols — one, of which officers said he had been recently fired.

Louisiana authorities booked McElveen, 6 foot 1, a papermill employee, on charges of murder. He refused to waive extradition.

FBI ASSISTANCE

FBI agents quickly joined in the probe.

Deputy O'Neal Moore, a leader in his Baptist church choir, was killed by a high-powered rifle bullet that ripped through his head. His partner, Deputy Creed Rogers, was struck in the shoulder by buckshot.

The shooting sent a shiver of apprehension through this town in southeast Louisiana, about 60 miles north of New Orleans.

STORES PICKETED

Stores have picketed downtown Bogalusa almost daily and made several marches on the white columned city hall. These demonstrations have sparked sporadic street fights.

McElveen's arrest brought to 50 the number of persons arrested in connection with racial strife here since last weekend.

An intensive search was started at dawn for evidence in the shooting. Twenty more state police arrested to reinforce the 30 already here.

Musical Will Close Season for Players

ROCHESTER — The Avon Players will take the stage of Central Junior High School at 8:30 tomorrow evening for the opening performance of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," their final production of the season.

The musical comedy will be presented again Saturday night and on June 10, 11 and 12. Curtain time is 8:30 for all performances.

The popular Broadway hit is being produced by Mrs. Jarvis Lamb and directed by Mrs. Dennis Carragher. Mrs. James Currie is musical director and choreography is by Mrs. Earl Montross.

The female lead is played by Mrs. Thomas Lusk, who as the flirtatious Lorelei Lee sets her sights on wealthy Gus Esmond, the "Button King," played by Jarvis Lamb.

A parallel romance develops between Lorelei's "chaperone," the vivacious Dorothy Shaw, played by Mrs. Richard Baker, and the wealthy Philadelphia, played by Dan Davey.

MUSIC, DANCING

The music and dancing are provided by a 13-member singing chorus and nine dancers, backed by a three-piece combo. General admission and reserved tickets are available at Hunter Pharmacy, 321 Main. General admission tickets only can be purchased at Morley's Drugs, 340 Main. June 10 will be student night.

District Offers Summer School

WALLED LAKE — Two summer school programs — one for secondary and the other for elementary students — will be offered in the Wallied Lake School District this year.

Elementary classes will be held at Decker School, Decker at Pontiac Trail. Junior and senior high students will meet at Wallied Lake High School, 2978 S. Commerce, Wolverine Lake.

The program is designed for students who want or need to repeat work or who want to supplement their regular classes.

Enrollments will be accepted from nonresidents as well as residents of the district.

Secondary classes have been scheduled for two periods of two hours each Monday through Friday from June 28 to Aug. 6.

OBSERVE REQUIREMENTS

Course offerings and hours comply with North Central Association requirements.

Classes to be held at the high school from 8 to 10 a.m. are English III, general mathematics, world history, reading improvement, 7th - 8th grade mathematics.

The 10 a.m.-noon courses are English I-II, algebra I, American history, personal typing and 7th-8th grade mathematics.

Other courses will be offered if sufficient interest is shown.

ADDITIONAL HELP

Summer school at the elementary level is intended primarily for children who need additional help. Reading and mathematics will be offered for one hour each day.

The classes will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. starting June 28 and continuing for six weeks.

The school does not provide

Early Advice Brought Rewards

Long-Time Area Educator to Retire

By JANICE KLOUSER

A career that began more than 40 years ago with his father's admonition to "preach or teach" will end this month when Arnold Ojala retires from his position as assistant superintendent of Avondale Schools.

"I remember the day I graduated from high school," he said. "My dad said to me, 'Son, make up your mind, either preach or teach,' and the next day I left for Marquette."

Requirements were different in 1923 and after six weeks at Northern Michigan University, he began teaching in a one-room schoolhouse in the Upper Peninsula at the age of 18.

The pay was different, too. On his first job, he received $65 a month and room and board. In return for room and board, however, he used to help out on the farm and milk seven cows before leaving for school each morning.

Among his early memories, he recalls after weekend visits home, returning to school by sking 14 miles through the woods with a deer rifle slung over his shoulder to keep away the timber wolves and coyotes.

SKING SCHOOLTEACHER

For this feat he became known as the schoolteacher on skis.

"In those days we never worried about class loads," he said. "I had about 60 kids and taught all nine grades."

"We were much closer to the kids in those days, too. I used to go hunting and fishing with them. Sometimes I think more teaching was done by a stream than in the classroom."

He recalls that during deer instead of going to their parents.

"I remember one time the kindergarten teacher had to be away for part of the day so I took over her class. The children and I had a wonderful time playing games and crawling around under the tables."

"The teacher came back unexpectedly and the kids managed to scamper to their seats but I was caught under the table."

He said he fears the direction that teaching is taking today.

'A LOT OF CREDIT'

"For most teachers, the day ends at 3:30. The kids are just a number and I think this is too bad. We used to teach for the sake of the kids."

On the other hand, he said teachers deserve a lot of credit today.

"They have one heck of a time keeping up with the kids," he said. "I wouldn't know how to go into a classroom and teach today."

"I think the children know more now than we did when we started teaching."

NEW HOME

At the end of June, Ojala and his wife will move to their newly built home near Lake Leelanau.

He said he plans to keep busy with his woodworking hobby, substitute teaching and fishing.

It usually takes about five years for grasshopper populations to build up to be a serious crop threat again after an area-wide spray program has been carried out.

Lynda Bird to Join in Excavating

GRASSHOPPER, Ariz. (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson probably will have a few hangnails after two weeks in Grasshopper this summer.

She will be in the heart of the Fort Apache Indian reservation excavating a pueblo believed to have been built sometime in the 14th century.

The President's daughter will be a guest student of the University of Arizona Archaeology Field School, and Dr. Raymond H. Thompson, head of the school, says she will be treated the same as the others.

"She will be one of 21 students here, but she will stay only two weeks instead of the regular eight. We don't plan to make any exceptions for her except for allowing her girlfriend and the Secret Service to stand guard," Thompson said.

PAYING OWN WAY

Thompson said he had received a request from Miss Johnson to visit the school. He said the only difference between her and the other students was that she was paying her own way and was not getting any college credit for the two weeks. Barbara Cooley, a widow who owns the Apache Trading Post at Cibecue near here said she was delighted Lynda Bird was coming to town.

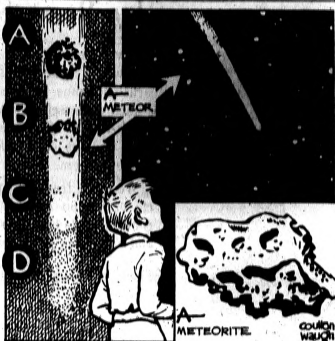

"I think this is a wonderful thing. It's about time the news and Grasshopper got a little publicity. We've got some good people around here."

"Maybe with her coming they will get this road fixed. I think this is the worst road in the United States. One look at this road and the Secret Service will say it's too dangerous for that girl to travel on."

Mrs. Cooley said she was sure the Indians would plan something for Lynda Bird. "We've got about 800 Apaches here and every one of them are Democrats," she said.

A barnacle goose, a European saltwater species seldom seen in this country, was observed recently at a wildlife refuge near Cambridge, Maryland, with a flock of Canada geese.

Junior Editors Quiz on METEORS

QUESTION: Are meteors burned up before they reach the earth?

ANSWER: It's a wonderful sight to see a "shooting star" suddenly dash across the night sky and vanish almost immediately. Shooting stars, or meteors, are pieces of stone or metal, or a combination of the two, which form a part of our solar system and travel around the sun.

These objects are invisible in the night sky but when the earth comes close enough to attract one of them because of gravity, the meteor comes whizzing down (A).

When it enters the layer of atmosphere about 65 miles up, the meteor, traveling at tremendous speed, becomes so heated by friction with the air that it turns white hot (B).

Its trail as it hurtles down when white hot is what you see (C). Most meteors are completely burned up before they hit the earth (D), which is fortunate for us, as about two hundred million enter Earth's atmosphere every day.

Some meteors are large enough, however, for fragments of them to reach the earth. Such fragments are called meteorites. Many meteorites have been preserved. There is one in the Museum of Natural History, N.Y., weighing 15½ tons.

FOR YOU TO DO: Showers or swarms of meteors, which are said to be fragments of comets, occur at certain times every year. Watch for meteor showers on the following dates: July 29, August 12 and October 22.

Military Setup Trim Proves Boon Not Bust

The old homily "Don't Cry Before You're Hurt" never applied more aptly than to the uproar that arose over Defense Secretary McNAMARA's decision less than eight months ago to close 95 outmoded military installations that would save taxpayers half a billion dollars a year.

When the program was announced, civilian leaders and Congressional representatives pushed the panic button as they pictured their communities becoming wastelands as result of the curtailment.

But as the effective date for abandonment — June 30 — nears, it appears that all the weeping and wailing was an exercise in futility.

In the short period of time since announcement of the closings, most of the facilities involved are in process of conversion to civilian use, with economic potential exceeding that generated by their operation as military centers.

More than a million acres were affected by the retrenchment program. To date, after transferring 625,785 acres back to the public domain, acreage has been converted in these categories:

- 23,101 for use of other Federal agencies;
- 5,763 for civic airports;
- 7,655 for schools and universities;
- 35,407 for parks, recreation and community development;
- 6,218 to private industrial production;
- 26,550 to private industries and small companies for various purposes.

Prime examples of quick community recovery are a Maine industry that moved in 2,000 jobs to replace the 1,500-man missile base deactivation, an Illinois location where private industry now employs 50 per cent more personnel than the former military post; a private venture in Pennsylvania that increased employment 60 per cent over that utilized by a government ordnance plant; and the increase in value from $6- to $65-million of a 636-acre tract in Utah after conversion from a naval supply depot to industrial use.

The development of this progressive military concept stands as another testimonial to the ideal that taxpayers, despite short-term dislocation of local economies, are infinitely better off when government observes principles of sound business and operates its vast realm as efficiently and economically as possible.

Lure of Foreign Lands Hooks U. S. Tourists

This year, by virtue of congressional resolution and presidential proclamation, is the year to "See the U.S.A."

More accurately, the title should be, "Spend it in the U.S.A.," for the purpose of this official emphasis on domestic tourism is to slow the outflow of American gold abroad.

Americans going overseas, the Administration charged a few months ago when it first started making noises about penalizing tourism, were responsible for $1.6 billion of the balance of payments deficit last year.

To judge by steamship and airline bookings and passport applications, however, hundreds of thousands of Americans intend to make 1965 their see-the-world year.

New passport issuances are running well ahead of 1964, and it is estimated that overseas tourism will increase by as much as 20 per cent this year—all of this despite, or perhaps in an attempt to beat, an administration bill that would reduce each tourist's duty-free exemption on the souvenirs and gifts he brings home from the present $100 wholesale value to $50 retail value.

All in all, the attempt to impose a new type of isolationism on Americans, even if it only affects about one out of a hundred of us, is adding up to one of the less glorious projects of the Great Society.

Clear and Foggy on Latin Front

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—President Johnson seems to have added both clarity and fog to his repeated explanations on the use of American troops in the Dominican Republic.

Johnson, sensitive to criticism, acknowledged at his news conference Tuesday his awareness of criticism for his handling of the Dominican problem. But he said he'd rather be criticized for his action than not to have acted.

This was one point of criticism: since this country is a member of the inter-American system — the Organization of American States — why didn't he tell the OAS he was going to use troops before he sent them in?

Going over ground he had covered before, he said, The United States had discussed the Dominican problem with Latin-American ambassadors and the OAS a number of times between April 24, when the revolt began, and the night of April 28, when he decided to use troops.

But nowhere did he indicate that in any of these consultations the Latin Americans were told Johnson might, or would, use troops if he thought the situation was becoming unbearable.

Johnson explained the OAS was notified immediately after he went on television to announce the use of troops but by then it was public knowledge.

APPARENT REASON

In Johnson's words Tuesday, this apparently was the reason: "We did not want to announce the use of troops until we were sure they had landed for obvious security reasons."

The fog set in when he was asked what were the implications of the move in terms of future policy in Latin America. Johnson became vague.

"There's an obvious reason for his vagueness: the Latin Americans don't take kindly to American intervention in their business anywhere."

By not saying the United States would intervene, he let the OAS face this: Will it set up a standby or permanent military force which can move in quickly to block a Communist threat in the hemisphere, thus making American intervention unnecessary?

QUESTION UNANSWERED

Johnson did not specifically answer the question: Would U. S. troops be used anywhere in this hemisphere to prevent Red seizure of power?

But one thing seems certain: either the OAS arranges to meet a Communist grab for power in a hurry or Johnson, or any other American president, will use American troops.

E. Germans Finally Feel 'Thaw'

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

BERLIN—The "liberal thaw," though late in coming, has finally caught up even with East Germany.

A joke East Germans tell these days goes like this:

On the Western side of the Communist-built wall that divides Berlin a little girl, while eating a banana, shouts to an East Berlin boy who stands on the other side of the wall:

"But you have no bananas."

"You have no communism," replies the East Berlin boy.

"We will have communism," cries the West Berlin girl.

"Then you will have no bananas," retorts the East Berliner.

It is true that there is an abundance of bananas (and other goods) in rich capitalist West Berlin. There are none on the Communist side of the wall.

But the mere fact that the joke could be told to an American without fear in East Berlin is a sign of the changes that have taken place in Red-ruled East Europe in recent years.

NO DOUBT

There is no doubt that Walter Ulbricht's regime, taking a cue from Hungary and Romania, has gone out of its way to make life more tolerable for East Germans.

Ordinary people no longer seem as cowed as they were three years ago when I last visited East Berlin.

Writers and artists, provided they do not challenge the Marxist-Leninist dogma, are free to experiment with new literary and art forms. The theater and political cabarets are even permitted to make fun of the regime as long as they add anti-Western propaganda to the mercurial.

Jazz and the twist, although frowned upon as expressions of "decadent American capitalism," are everywhere in East Berlin.

'CAPITALIST' MANNERS

The Red regime is even trying to bring back "capitalist" manners.

Yet East German life remains drab.

West Berlin, a capitalist island deep in the Red world, is gay and colorful.

But in East Berlin the housewife is still warned not to demand foods which are unobtainable but to change her diet by cooking dishes such as mashed dried peas, mixed with soy bean flour, in place of potatoes.

Each day, many East Germans, especially young people, still attempt to flee East Berlin in spite of the wall, the barbed wire and the machine guns that separate it from the Western part of the city.

For the fact remains that East Germany, like Russia's other East European satellites, is still a police state ruled by Walter Ulbricht's fist.

Communist dictators may change, Lenin once said, but the principles remain the same. And heeded Ulbricht, for all his tentative "liberalism," is the most faithful pupil of Lenin.

The German's hatred for Ulbricht is only to be expected, but he is hardly popular even with his Russian masters.

A Soviet diplomat obviously summed up the Kremlin's feelings about the man when he said to an American: "Do you really like your Germans better than we like ours?"

But the unscrupulous and heavy-handed Red boss is still useful to Moscow's purposes of keeping East Germany shackled to Russia.

Ulbricht is also faced with the dilemma that confronts Russia's other "liberal" puppets behind the Iron Curtain.

He must feed the East German small doses of liberalism to make the Red dictatorship more palatable.

However, liberalization offers increased opportunities for East German population to promote unity with West Germany.

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1964 tax cut worked stimulative wonders. But should reducing taxes become a habit, like taking pep pills?

The issue has been raised, in connection with the pending excise tax reductions of $4.8 billion, by an eminent critic — Howard C. Petersen, banker, lawyer, and former high official of the Defense, State and Treasury departments.

Petersen questioned only the timing, not the desirability, of excise tax repeals.

"Tax cuts taken continually can be debilitating," he observed, and went on to urge: "Our powerful policy medicine of discretionary tax cuts can — and should be held in reserve for a future time when economic ills will require them."

Tax actions of recent years — the investment stimulants of 1962 and the massive income tax cut of 1964 — were helpful, said Petersen. They helped bring the economy to a stage of prosperity where "we can gradually swing from budget deficit to budget surplus; and thereby stabilize our economy around a sustainable growth rate."

AS A REMEDY

The former assistant secretary of the Army and top negotiator with the European Common Market, now president of the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company, went on: "We must have the intestinal fortitude not to succumb to the tax-cutting habit. Tax reduction should be held in reserve, as a remedy, not injected continuously as a stimulant."

Instead, the treatment which President Johnson calls "expansionary fiscal policy" proposes further tax-cut dosage for an economy enjoying generally robust health.

The result, warned Petersen, may be to prolong a growth rate which cannot be sustained in the long run. "These policies — appropriate in their time — can generate instability if continued beyond their time," he argued.

Excise cuts are needed to offset the expected drag, the administration contends.

We quite frequently post an article of his on our family message center and do hope many other families, teachers and leaders in youth activities do the same.

Thank you for the extra thought and effort put into these articles.

Comments on Pay Raise for Legislators

If anyone does not approve of the State Representatives' pay raise he can ask his senator to vote "no" on the bill. If the Senate approves the bill you can ask Governor Romney to veto it. Let's use the power we have to our fullest.

A CONCERNED TAPAYER

The people really voted in some irresponsible state legislators this time. They needed so much money because of their desire to spend they had to cut beer taxes. Now they will have the alcoholics and beer promoters voting for them. This certainly demonstrates that they placed the welfare of special interest groups ahead of the people of the state.

As a native of Michigan, it was gratifying to read about the restoration of a historical home in Waterloo, Michigan. Michigan must have many interesting historical landmarks, but one seldom hears of them or knows just where they are or how to get to them. How nice it would be if Michigan could boast of a bus-line tour taking in all of these historical sights.

Is there a society dedicated to restoration of historical landmarks? If there is, why isn't it publicized more. Maybe there are interested citizens who would like to assist.

Views Problem of Drinking and Driving

The television program presented recently to test driving skills under various hazardous situations was extremely interesting. Everyone was made aware that driving requires all the skills and cautions at our disposal. The capstone of the program came with the last question, the relation between drinking and driving. Fifty per cent of all highway fatalities involve a driver who has been drinking alcoholic beverages. This means that more than 20,000 people die every year on this account, not to mention the greater number who are injured.

Our state legislature is now wrestling with a Sunday Liquor Bill, House Bill 2149, which is to affect Wayne County only, if it passes. If this bill passes it will spread like grass fire across the State. In Pontiac certain liquor establishments are seeking to upgrade their places of business, which in essence means that alcoholic beverages would be more easily accessible. These are steps in the wrong direction.

Not to drink may not be popular socially, but total abstinence is the only answer for us if we want to be part of the solution and not the problem.

U. S. Needs Effective Weapons

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The United States is learning in South Viet Nam that it doesn't have the weapons and equipment needed to fight guerrilla wars most effectively.

The hottest aircraft used in Viet Nam were designed for carrying nuclear weapons. They can't carry the large-sized conventional iron bombs needed for a fistful of the tasks they're being assigned.

Conventional bombs of the sizes carried have been bouncing off one of the bridges in North Viet Nam and exploding harmlessly in the water. They're not doing the damage necessary when dropped on Viet Cong headquarters hidden in heavily wooded areas.

What's needed are experiments to develop conventional bombs that carry more bang for their size and weight. A great deal of work has been done to cut the size of nuclear weapons. Research with the conventional has lagged.

(As of now, 48 or so bombs and a large escort of fighters are sent to take out a bridge meant to be handled with four to five bombers and a handful of escorts).

U. S. aircraft are overly vulnerable to ground fire in the low-level attacks that are vitally important in guerrilla fighting.

Accuracy of delivery on these low-level runs leaves something to be desired.

The bombing systems used in these U. S. planes were designed for laying the bombs within 60 feet of target on low-level runs. That's excellent for nuclear weapons. It's not good enough when using conventional iron bombs.

Military men say it's essential to get a bombing system for U. S. fighter-bombers that will lay the iron bombs within 15 or 20 feet of what they aim at.

What's needed is some sort of heat-seeking or pilot-guided missile. The planes need automatic pilots for their runs and highly efficient radar.

In fast-moving guerrilla battles, mobile ground units find they can't determine where they are quickly with very small errors.

This frequently makes rapid effective air support impossible. Supply is slowed in critical battles. Fighter-bombers run into fire ground forces could otherwise wage against.

Pilots must be given much better ways to locate Viet Cong guerrilla troops and supplies hidden under trees, in caves or camouflaged boats. The problem is especially critical in bad weather and at night.

Solution: Better coordinated ground-air operations in which the man on the ground sneaks in and pinpoints hidden guerrilla targets then, while on the spot, guides the planes in. This again requires infantryman and pilot to know precisely where the other is. (Ground-air television may be part of the answer.)

Tanks, armored personnel carriers, and artillery are largely roadbound in guerrilla base areas. If the United States is determined to use this type of weapon in this kind of war, a new breed of equipment will have to be developed able to better perform tank-armored personnel carrier-artillery functions through swamps, jungles and rivers.

Some air and ground equipment which does exceedingly well in laboratory and U. S. field testing isn't holding up under Viet Nam-type fighting.

Word is now being passed from the Pentagon to U. S. industry: "Solve these problems."

Japanese Premier Forms New Cabinet, Tries to Consolidate Party Control

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato formed a new cabinet today in an attempt to consolidate control of the Liberal-Democratic party prior to Upper House elections July 4.

No policy changes were expected. Japanese prime ministers adjust their cabinet lineups periodically.

Sato retained two members of the cabinet he took over when Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda resigned because of ill health last November. They were Foreign Minister Eisaburo Shibusawa and Chief Cabinet Secretary Tomisaburo Hashimoto.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Labor government got caught in a tie vote on a major tax reform measure in the House of Commons Wednesday night when three Laborites failed to show up in time. Two of the missing men were members of the government.

Conservative members of the House roared in jubilation as the 281-281 split was announced. The bill was saved when Sir Herbert Butcher, a Conservative and the acting chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, cast his vote in the Labor column. By tradition, the chair when breaking a tie always votes to keep an issue before the House.

The House was sitting as a ways and means committee on a proposal to introduce an American-style corporation tax. Defeat would have dealt a blow to Prime Minister Harold Wilson's prestige.

The absentees were Postmaster-General Anthony Wedgwood Benn, Pensions Secretary Norman Pentland and Michael English.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri told India's already hungry people Wednesday night to tighten their belts because a new food shortage may be developing.

Shastri said some areas of Mysore and Bihar States already have run out of food. He told a meeting of chief ministers (governors) that his government may have to reduce its monthly shipment of 600,000 tons of grain to the states to 450,000 tons soon.

Shastri blamed the India-Pakistan territorial quarrel in the Rann of Kutch without explaining how this affects the food situation.

About 2.5 million tons of U.S. aid wheat arrived at Indian ports in April and May compared with 1.2 million tons normally. Unloading and shipment have been delayed by bureaucratic red tape and lack of trains and trucks.

ROME (AP) — Premier Aldo Moro's government is asking Parliament to authorize a $90.4-billion, five-year economic plan which it hopes will create 1.6 million new jobs and boost the national income by 5 per cent a year.

The plan was to have gone into effect this year, but it was delayed for study by the National al Economic Advisory Council and political leaders. It provides money for housing, schools, hospitals, public works and public industry.

Ex-Mau Mau Is British Friend in Africa

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Perhaps no one could be more surprised than the British that one of their best friends in the hotbed of African nationalism should turn out to be none other than Kenya President Jomo Kenyatta.

NEWSOM

In 1954, the British jailed Kenyatta as the convicted leader of the dreaded Mau Mau. The Mau Mau were dedicated to the expulsion of Europeans from Kenya, a bid against their victims and in their ceremonial rites conducted practices of a particularly revolting nature.

When in 1959 it developed that Kenyatta's conviction had been obtained at least partly on perjured evidence, the British released him from jail but kept him confined to a remote residence in northern Kenya far from the capital of Nairobi.

For among his other sins, the British regarded him as a political trouble-maker.

This was the man who in 1964 became president of the new republic of Kenya.

Instead of expelling the white farmers who had built up Kenya, he encouraged them to stay. Kenya remained within the British Commonwealth and when rebellion threatened to spread from neighboring Uganda and Tanganyika (now Tanzania), he had no hesitation in calling upon the help of British troops.

Of late he has been experiencing difficulties at home and with Uganda and Tanzania, with whom he is bound in an east African common market.

The three maintain joint rail, air and postal services and use the east African shilling as a common currency. Governing the common market is a central legislative assembly.

But among the three, there are galling differences. Uganda became deeply involved in the attempt to overthrow the government of Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe. Tanzania has become a port of entry for Red China.

In mid-May, trouble developed when Kenya intercepted a 75-ton convoy of Chinese weapons traveling by night across Kenyan territory en route from Tanzania to Uganda.

The Kenyatta government seized the convoy and arrested its 47-man escort on charges of arms smuggling.

For Tanzania it was especially embarrassing because of an impending visit this month by Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai.

For a time it appeared that the three-way partnership might dissolve altogether. But in the end, the common market proved most important and Kenyatta, after exacting a growing apology from Uganda, released the weapons and men.

At home, the fly in Kenyatta's ointment is his Vice President Oginga Odinga.

He has been suspected of plotting Kenyatta's overthrow and this week aroused demands for the president's resignation with new attacks upon both Britain and the United States.

MRS. BEAUCHAMP

JACKSON (AP) — When Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lincoln moved out of their nationally famous little home here, their poltergeists apparently did, too.

At any rate the new owners of the house, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Beauchamp, say they haven't noticed any of the seemingly supernatural incidents which beset the house three years ago.

Poltergeists are known to enthusiasts of the supernatural as ghosts who make their presence known through gravity-defying, mysterious pranks.

In 1962, the Lincoln reported dishes and bottles flying across their rooms, moans coming from the empty basement, heavy footsteps with no observable cause, doors swinging open and water and gas being turned on for no explainable reason.

QUIET TODAY

But that was some time ago. Today, apparently, the spirits have fled.

"We've had no disturbances and heard no noises," says Mrs. Beauchamp.

One night, she says, the lights of the house began flashing off and on, but faulty wiring was found to be at fault.

Even the tourists who still flock through the little house are unable to provoke the poltergeists into action, she adds.

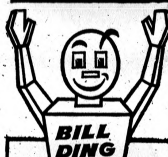

"We love it here," Mrs. Beauchamp said recently. "I would not move for anything—not even if the ghosts came back."

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Eugene Cornelius, 35, manager of Kalamazoo Municipal Airport for the past four years, will resign as soon as a successor can France exploded its first nuclear bomb Feb. 13, 1960, at a test site in the Sahara Desert.

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A curly-haired, 9-year-old knocked on the door of a farm home at Issaquah, 10 miles east of here, and announced he was the boy everyone was looking for.

The boy, George H. Weyerhaeuser, had been ransomed by his father for $200,000 after being held seven days by three kidnapers.

George had been turned loose by his abductors in the middle of the night on a lonely road and given a blanket for warmth. A $1 bill was stuffed in his pocket.

CELEBRATED CASE
It was one of the celebrated kidnaping cases of the 1930s. Today, Weyerhaeuser, grandson of the founder of the far-flung Weyerhaeuser Co., lives with his wife and six children in nearby Tacoma.

He recalls the kidnaping vividly, but the subject has never been mentioned to his children, aged 5 to 13.

A scrapbook, compiled by the family after George's return, has been unopened for 15 years.

FIRST INTERVIEW

Weyerhaeuser, now operations executive vice president of the firm bearing his name, granted his first interview since the kidnaping to Seattle Times columnist Don Duncan on the 30th anniversary of his release.

He said his family life is completely normal — no extra precautions, firearms, bolted doors or police dogs. He does not worry that any of his own children might be kidnaped.

"You live a thousand deaths in your worry constantly about the things that might befall your children," he said. "My own motto has been 'Trust your hopes and not your fears.'"

Weyerhaeuser said his own parents treated him so normally after the kidnapping he remembers feeling "no fear of being grabbed by strangers" and "only a normal boy's fear of dark alleys."

Strangers did grab him though, on a Tacoma street as he was walking home for lunch

Still fresh in his memory is the feel of being stuffed in a car with a blanket covering him, riding part of the time for hours.

cramped in the trunk, and of having the car stop for

The sensation of being led, blindfolded, through the woods and across logs over creeks, thinking his kidnapers surely would drop him in the water. . . The terror of being chained and put into holes in the ground with a kerosene lamp for warmth, and of being hidden for hours in a dark, stuffy closet of a Spokane house.

Weyerhaeuser said none of this left "any permanent scars because of the resiliency of 9-year-old boys."

His kidnapers were caught two of them quickly, and most of the money was recovered. Only one is still in prison, and Weyerhaeuser feels they have paid their debt to society "with interest."

Rebels Want Preconditions to Dominican Republic Election

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican rebels are demanding restoration of the 1963 constitution and creation of a new government before election of a new president and congress.

The rebel chief, Col. Francisco Caamaño Deno, Wednesday rejected the election formula proposed by the junta headed by Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera. Caamaño termed the proposal "a fable."

The junta suggested elections be held as soon as possible under the supervision of the Organization of American States.

The junta said all "democratic parties" should participate. Bravillan troops of the international force extended the security zone south and west Wednesday to include a key trouble spot — the National Palace. The smoothly conducted operation virtually eliminated the possibility of a serious clash between 350 junta troops that have been in the palace and rebel forces a block away.

TOKEN FORCE
The junta is leaving a token force of 25 men in the battered palace under an agreement reached by the opposing forces through OAS negotiations. The palace has not been in use since early in the revolt.

A three-nation OAS peace team prepared to leave Washington today for a new attempt to break the Dominican stalemate. It planned to meet with former Dominican President Juan Bosch in Puerto Rico in addition to negotiating with the junta and rebel factions in Santo Domingo.

The OAS has had no official contact with Bosch since his supporters last month ousted the civilian junta which Dominican military leaders installed after they overthrew Bosch in 1963.

Members of the OAS team are Ellsworth Bunker of the United States, Ilmar Penna Marinho of Brazil and Ramon Clairmont of El Salvador. Their mission was authorized early Wednesday in Washington by a special OAS conference on the Dominican crisis.

Back to Jail for Assailant

Had Been on Parole for Shooting a Mayor

DETROIT (AP) — Lester C. Ellerhorst, a former Garden City contractor, was back in jail today, his four-year probation lifted and a three-doctor psychiatric examination ordered.

When the medical report is in, Circuit Judge James N. Canham said he would sentence Ellerhorst as a probation violator.

Ellerhorst was convicted April 9, 1962, of felonious assault in the 1957 city hall shooting of James T. Tierney, then mayor of Garden City, in a dispute over a city building constructed by Ellerhorst.

JUDGE SAID

In revoking Ellerhorst's four-year probation, Judge Canham said:

"At the time of sentencing Mr. Ellerhorst, I told him that to violate the terms of his probation would subject him to four years in prison and a $2,000 fine."

Canham found Ellerhorst had violated probation by failing to file periodic reports of psychiatric examinations ordered in the granting of probation. A deputy probation officer also reported Ellerhorst had paid nothing on a court-ordered $7,584 restitution.

The judge said he was "taking no cognizance" of Ellerhorst's current trouble with the law.

On May 22, Ellerhorst and two other men were charged with conspiracy to murder and conspiracy to extort money from Tierney, now a state representative; Russell L. Swarthout, now Garden City municipal judge, and Arthur Bichan, Tierney's lawyer. Swarthout disarmed Tierney's assailant in the 1957 shooting.

Television Entertaining ---to Gorillas

NEW YORK (AP) — Gorillas at the Bronx Zoo enjoy watching kiddy cartoons on television.

What's more, the zoo TV ratings show that the gorillas prefer action type shows.

On the other hand, the Orangutans seem to pay no attention to television.

The TV viewers are Pili-Pili, a 6-year-old male mountain gorilla; Sumaili, a female mountain gorilla of 17; Mambo, a 15-year-old lowland male gorilla; and Oka, a 15-year-old female lowland. All come from the Congo area.

RELIEVE BOREDOM

The zoo installed a 16-inch television set outside their cages last winter to alleviate boredom while they are inside. The gorillas, their nerves on edge, had taken to bickering among themselves. They would pace their cages, yawn and stretch. The experiment was somewhat of a success.

Joseph A. Davis Jr., the zoo's curator of mammals, said:

"With our anthropoid apes (gorillas and orangutans), we find the biggest problem in the winter is that they tend to get bored with the simple life they have indoors."

"In the summer, it's less of a problem because they are outdoors where they can watch the people."

"We tried a number of things to alleviate this boredom. We gave them things to play with, but there was virtually nothing indestructible enough to last."

HAS MOVEMENT

"So we tried television with the idea of providing picture changes, and because it has some movement in it. We found that our gorillas do pay attention to it, and it seems to alleviate the conditions of boredom somewhat. The Orangutans seem to pay no attention to TV, so we've given up with them."

"The gorillas seem more interested in kids' cartoons and shows where there is a lot of action."

Commerce Secretary John T. Connor once served as a special assistant to the late Secretary of Navy James V. Forrestal.

Malaysian Diplomat Proves Able Chief at U.N. Security Council Sessions

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — An Indian-born Malaysian diplomat who is troubled by insomnia has just guided the Security Council through its second session in U.N. history — and with a rare display of humor.

Amid some of the harshest U. S. - Soviet exchanges in years, Ambassador Radhakrishna Ramani presided over 25 council meetings. This was the most meetings for any single month since August 1947, when 29 sessions were held because of a full agenda of varying issues.

Seventeen of the May sessions were on the Dominican crisis. The others were on Southern Rhodesia and a Senegalese complaint that troops from Portuguese Guinea violated the Senegalese border.

Ramani, 63, is a lawyer who was graduated from the University of Madras and admitted to the bar in London in 1929. He became Malaysia's chief permanent U.N. representative in November 1964.

He is sharp-featured and dark-skinned, and his accent reflects his Indian background. Malaysia was elected to the Security Council at the General Assembly — an action that led its bitter foe, Indonesia, to withdraw from the United Nations. In accord with alphabetical rotation of the council presidency by country, Ramani took over the chair for May.

He noted at his first meeting that his predecessor, Ambassador Abdul Monem Riia'i of Jordan, had only presided over one council session in April. Then, with almost prophetic foresight, Ramani said this did not mean the world had turned "suddenly pacific in the month of April, nor put aside for the nonce its propensity for continuously moving from one tension-laden month to another, disturbing or likely to disturb the peace."

TIME FOR STORY

"Early in the Dominican debate, at one point, U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said a remark by Nikolai T. Fedorenko, the chief Soviet delegate, reminded him of the story once told him by an old lawyer in Illinois:

"My boy, if you have not got the facts, argue the law before the jury; and if the law is not with you, argue the facts. If you have neither the facts nor the law, then just talk a lot."

Fedorenko retorted that this explained why Stevenson had been "taught from childhood to act in this way in regard to facts and in regard to the law."

Ramani drily interjected, amidst laughter:

"I think that I should finally thank both the representatives of the United States and the U.S.S.R. for the exhibition of their talents this evening."

EXHAUSTION

At the end of one particularly long session Ramani remarked to the council: "My list of speakers is exhausted, as perhaps we all are. Is there anyone who wishes to speak now?"

In a gesture toward Fedorenko, he commented:

"I am very conscious, from having worked with and known Mr. Fedorenko, that only his words appear violent; but I know they proceed from a gentle heart."

Ramani's troubles with insomnia are well known to his fellow diplomats, and they were also injected into the council debate.

At a time when the Soviet delegate was pressing for a late night session, Ramani said he wanted to assure Fedorenko that "I am available and awake, not only throughout the day, but also throughout the night."

Fedorenko expressed sympathy for Ramani's affliction, and remarked that the trouble was that other delegates "pretended to be sleeping" when a call for a meeting went out.

"And the point was, we did not know where," Fedorenko added.

'Aid Yourself,' Syrians Told

CAIRO (AP) — A newspaper which often speaks for President Gamal Abdel Nasser indicated today that Arab countries diverting Jordan River waters from Israel can't count on help from the United Arab Republic's army against Israeli attack.

However, the newspaper Al Ahran said "the U.A.R. will undoubtedly direct all its deterrent powers against Israel" if fighting with Israel develops into a major conflict that could mean war.

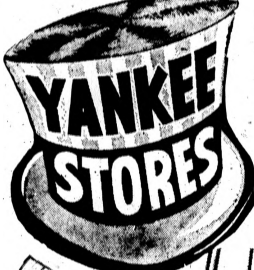

The newspaper was answering charges by Syria that Nasser is leaving other Arab countries in the lurch over defense of anti-Israeli diversion projects.

In a speech last week Nasser warned the Arab world might have to suspend diversion projects until it is better prepared to defend them. Diversion works are to be carried out in Syria, Jordan and Lebanon.

JOINT COMMAND

The original Arab agreement was for diversion to be defended by a unified Arab military command led by the U.A.R. Israel has twice shelled a diversion site inside Syria without any action by Syria or the unified command.

Al Ahran argued the Arab plan called for Syria, Jordan and Lebanon to defend their own projects.

This brought laughter from delegates and the public galleries. When Stevenson asked for the floor, Ramani commented: "As the Security Council seems to be in a mood to hear humorous interventions, I now give the floor to the representative of the United States."

At times, Ramani's rulings were challenged. This led him to observe to the council: "The president has learned by experience not to stick his neck out too frequently."

Rome Observer Bid Rejected

Southern Baptists Nix Delegate at Vatican

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

DALLAS, Tex. — Southern Baptists, sticking to a past policy, still don't want an observer-delegate at the Second Vatican Council.

A move to send one was resoundingly defeated Wednesday night at the big denomination's 108th annual convention.

It would mean according to "apostolic recognition to beliefs we do not adhere to or teach," contended the Rev. Harry E. Welch of Chattanooga, Tenn., in opposing the idea.

By a show of hands, the huge assembly of a record 15,652 "messengers" voted the proposal down. Only a sprinkling of about 100 supported it.

ATTN SESSION

The decision leaves Baptists as the only major Christian tradition in the world without an authorized observer at the Vatican Council, which goes into its fourth annual session next Sept. 14.

Before the start of the first one in 1962, the Baptist World Alliance declined a proffered invitation from Rome to send an observer. Southern Baptist representatives to the alliance opposed the bid.

Some other Baptist bodies favored it, however, including the American Baptist Convention (Northern), which last week urged reconsideration of the decision, and the sending of an observer.

The Rev. Dr. Robert Alley of the University of Richmond, Va., proposed similar action by the Southern Convention, whose 10.6 million members make it the largest bloc among the world's approximately 25 million Baptists.

FIRST-HAND VIEW

Sending an observer "would not commit us to any relationship," he maintained, but would permit a first-hand view of "something new and alive in the world and which we cannot ignore."

The move also was supported by the Rev. Dr. Glenn Hinson, church historian of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., who said it would express "our approval and sincere concern for changes in the Roman Catholicism to improve its testimony to Christ. The changes have been wholesome so far."

An observer also would provide a "last chance to lend our voice and our testimony to the Roman Catholic Church," which has shown a readiness to listen to Protestant views, he said.

Widowed Mother of 11 'Unstoppable'

GLENN LAKE (AP) — "I don't think anything is going to stop her," said Principal Harold Sweeney of Glen Lake High School as he contemplated passing out a diploma tonight to Vivian Finch.

Vivian Finch is an extraordinary high school graduate. She is 44, a widowed mother of 11, and her 17-year-old son, David, will be getting his diploma along with her.

After Mrs. Finch's house-painter-husband, Eugene, died a year ago she took a job as a nurse's aide at Munson Hospital in nearby Traverse City, working from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m.

What about home? She explains: "I run my odd jobs when I get home (in the morning) and catch my sleep as catch can. It's been a tough row to hoe, but I can't say it's been too hectic. The children have pretty well taken over their care."

Why did she choose this particular row to hoe?

"I couldn't do anything for the family with the education I had and I made up my mind I wasn't going to rot in the gutter."

She's going right on hoeing an education row, too, because she plans to enter Northwestern College next fall, charting her courses toward becoming a medical assistant. And already she's taking typing lessons two nights a week before going to work.

Mrs. Finch dropped out of Lansing Eastern High School in 1940 to be married. She was only one unit shy of graduation, so when she started at Glen Lake she took a course in U.S. history, with Sweeney allowing her to study at home and come to school for periodic tests.

FLYING COLORS

"And," says he, "she passed with a grade of A."

Incidentally, David has attended only mornings in his senior year, working afterwards as a school janitor. He had built up credits earlier by carrying heavy scholastic loads, and the family could use his monetary contributions.

David is the oldest of the seven children remaining at home, all of them boys, except for a two-year-old daughter. Away are a married daughter, a married stepdaughter, a son who contemplates marriage and a 14-year-old son who lives with his married sister.

Mrs. Finch has plans for more than just continuing her education.

She's "trying to talk David into taking a drafting course, but a lot depends on how much money he can put up this summer." She also hopes to become a home owner and has "just about decided on some property where we'll build in the Glen Lake area."

Meat Executive Dies

CHICAGO (AP) — Aloys L. Bruckner, 63, treasurer of Swift & Co., meat packing firm, died Wednesday.

The marmoset is valuable for tooth research because its teeth are like those of man.

Soviet Envoy Told to Leave U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A

Soviet Embassy expert on Africa yesterday was ordered to leave the United States in the latest chapter of cold war diplomatic tit-for-tat. The expulsion apparently was in reprisal for the ouster of an American official from Moscow recently.

The State Department announced that Stefan M. Kirasnov, a Soviet Embassy first secretary here, had been declared unwelcome for "activities incompatible with his diplomatic status." There was no elaboration.

The action was not unexpected. On May 1, the Russians ordered Norris Garnett, an expert on Africa with the U.S. Embassy in Moscow, to leave the country because of activities "hostile to the USSR."

And only last week, American diplomats — including an Africa specialist — were accused of running a "spy kitchen" in Moscow.

It has been a mark of cold war relations between Washington and Moscow that when one country evicts a representative of the other, retaliation in kind will soon follow.

$28,000 Suit Separates Man From Danger on Walk in Space

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Outer space is an alien, hostile environment, completely opposite to the earth's atmosphere.

For man to travel in outer space, he must take a little piece of the earth's environment with him. That is where the space suit comes in.

When astronauts step out into the vast void of the universe, the only thing to keep them from popping like a bubble is the space suit.

The garment also acts as a shield, bouncing away lethal specks of dust, micrometeorites flashing through the sky at incredible speed. Radiation from the sun could kill a man in an eyelid's twinkling. The suit protects against this danger.

This little world weighs 31½ pounds, has 21 layers of fabric, connections for oxygen hoses, communication lines and medical monitoring circuits and costs $28,000.

Once a man gets inside the garment, he is in a world all his own, providing all his life support equipment is working.

To make sure the suit works perfectly, technicians have bombarded it with a micro-meteorite gun, firing tiny silvers of plastic at more than 25,000 miles per hour into the fabric.

Layers of aluminized mylar, felt and dacron repel the sparkling plastic, guaranteeing safety to the astronaut.

The helmet has been beefed up with two additional visors. One for micrometeorite protection and the other to shut out the sun's undiminished brightness in outer space.

Bullets have bounced off the strong plastic. Called Lexan, it is 30 times stronger than plastic used in airplane canopies.

To protect against the sun's bright rays, the outer visor has been tinted a blue-green. The middle visor has a gold tint to control the heat and also is made of Lexan.

The innermost visor shuts tight to the suit and keeps the pressure inside the garment. It was tested by astronaut Virgil I. Grissom's visor shattered during reentry March 23.

Astronauts to Fly Over Red Nations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II will fly repeatedly over Red China and North Viet Nam aboard their Gemini 4 spacecraft.

U.S. officials, however, do not consider such passes to be overflights in the diplomatic-military meaning of the word. An overflight is an intrusion upon a nation's territorial air space — by a U2 spy plane, for example.

This country takes the position that space, starting at satellite orbit altitudes, is free territory in the same sense that the seas are free for navigation by one and all.

Russia, the only other nation now flying freely in space, apparently agrees. Communist China so far has offered no objections to flyovers by spacecraft.

Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr., who piloted space for 24 hours in May 1963, was the first American astronaut to soar over Red China.

On that occasion, the U.S. ambassador at Warsaw notified the Red Chinese ambassador at Warsaw in advance of the flight. There were no complaints.

White's projected space walk, a special pair of gloves were developed to fit over the regular pair attached to the space suit.

The over-gloves were designed to protect against thermal heating. They were tested as a man held, for five minutes without being burned, an object that had been heated to 250 degrees.

Edward L. Hays, chief of crew systems at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said the suit had been tested in every conceivable way.

Each suit is tailored for the individual astronaut.

Two garments are made for each astronaut assigned to a flight. One is used for training, and the other is set aside for the flight.

Gloves and helmet can be removed when the space capsule is fully pressurized.

Small fingertip lights are mounted in each glove so the astronaut can read instruments when power is off.

The Gemini suit program has cost more than $3 million.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Maneuvering a manned spacecraft close to another satellite in space should be easier than jockeying a jet plane behind a refueling tanker.

That's because in the vacuum of space there is no turbulence created by flying objects, says Warren North, chief of the flight crew support division of the space agency's Manned Spacecraft Center.

Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II will have several aids to help them maneuver the Gemini 4 spacecraft on the complex rendezvous maneuvers planned today.

Included were a small 56-pound computer, 32 jet thrusters aboard the spacecraft, information from ground trackers, two flashing lights and 20-20 vision.

PUSHING NUMBERS
By pushing certain combinations of numbers on the computer or White's instrument panel, the astronauts can obtain answers to questions such as: Where are we? How fast are we going? How much thrust and what direction is needed for rendezvous with another satellite?

The thrusters can be used in various combinations, depending on how McDivitt wants to maneuver, to shift the spacecraft up, down, backwards, forwards, upside down, or to speed it up and slow it down. Major shifts employ jets which produce 100 pounds of thrust — quite a kick in the vacuum of space. Smaller jets with 25 pounds of thrust are used for finer maneuvers.

The firing of the jets is controlled by a "stick" similar to that used by airplane pilots.

Ground stations track the spacecraft and the target satellite and feed the information into computers for analysis on precise position. This data is fed to the Gemini 4 pilots.

FLASHING LIGHTS
During the approach to the target, the astronauts zero in on two high-intensity flashing lights which blink 64 times a minute. The lights on today's target were the same type guidance beacons planned for Agena satellites, which will be launched separately and which Gemini astronauts will try actually to hook up with in space.

The first Gemini-Agena docking flight is scheduled next October. The target today was the burned-out second stage of McDivitt and White's Titan 2 booster rocket.

In the final few feet of a rendezvous or docking maneuver, it will be the astronauts' eyesight which will enable them to make the final precise movements to bring two vehicles together.

McDivitt and White both have 20-20 vision. Their physician, Dr. Charles A. Berry, figures they'll have no trouble spotting the Titan 2 second stage, the size of a medium house trailer.

26 Ships, 139 Planes Set for Recovery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twenty-six ships, led by the aircraft carrier Wasp, and 139 planes have been assigned to the recovery of astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White after their scheduled 62-orbit space flight.

But the worldwide recovery operations have been streamlined to involve 10,300 U.S. servicemen instead of the 15,000 originally ticketed for the job.

This was in contrast to the 18,000 involved in recovery operations for some of the Mercury manned space flights.

Air Force Lt. Gen. Leighton I. Davis, the Defense Department's manager for manned space flight support operations, said the experience gained on previous flights had made possible some reduction in today's recovery preparations.

He said the plans assure that in 99.4 per cent of the locations where the astronauts could conceivably land, an air rescue plane would be overhead within six hours. At the worst, he said, the plane would take 12 hours to get there.

In addition to the ships and planes actively engaged in the recovery, others are on the alert for use if necessary.

The largest contingent of the recovery force comprises 4,800 men aboard naval vessels in the Atlantic. The astronauts will be taken aboard the Wasp if all goes well.

Tear Adm. Ben W. Sarver, a 52-year-old native of Crookston, Minn., who normally commands a destroyer (flotilla in the Atlantic), will direct the recovery from his control center at Cape Kennedy.

The Wasp was steaming toward its station in the expected landing area 300 miles east of Cape Kennedy and southeast of Bermuda.

Other Navy task groups were on duty in secondary landing areas in the eastern Atlantic near the Canary Islands, in the mid-Pacific west of Hawaii and in the western Pacific near Okinawa.

THE GUIDING HAND — Gemini command pilot James McDivitt puts his hand to his forehead in a thoughtful moment at Cape Kennedy yesterday where he was pronounced in perfect health to guide his spacecraft on a four-day journey. Co-pilot Edward White plans to leave the capsule early in the mission.

NOT ALL SERIOUS — Gemini co-pilot Edward White smiles during session at Cape Kennedy yesterday where he and command pilot James McDivitt were given thorough physical examinations in preparation for their four-day orbital mission today. White plans to leave the orbiting Gemini spacecraft early in the flight for a solo venture into space.

McDivitt and White 20th, 21st to Take Rocket Trip Into Space

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II are the 20th and 21st men ticketed to rocket into space since the first went aloft in 1961. The previous 19, eight Americans and 11 Russians, were:

Russian Maj. Yuri Gagarin, one orbit, one hour, 48 hours 6 minutes, April 12, 1961.

U.S. Navy Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr., suborbit, 15 minutes, May 5, 1961.

U.S. Air Force Capt. Virgil I. Grissom, suborbit, 16 minutes, July 21, 1961.

17 ORBITS
Russian Maj. Gherman Titov, 17 orbits, 25 hours, 18 minutes, Aug. 6, 1961.

U.S. Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., 3 orbits, 4 hours 56 minutes, Feb. 20, 1962.

U.S. Navy Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter, 3 orbits, 5 hours 56 minutes, May 24, 1962.

Russian Maj. Andrian Nikolayev, 64 orbits, 94 hours 35 minutes, Aug. 11, 1962.

48 ORBITS
Russian Lt. Col. Pavel Popo-vich, 48 orbits, 70 hours 57 minutes, Aug. 12, 1962.

U.S. Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr., 6 orbits, 9 hours 13 minutes, Oct. 3, 1963.

U.S. Air Force Maj. Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr., 22 orbits, 34 hours 20 minutes, May 15, 1963.

Russian Lt. Col. Valery Bykovsky, 81 orbits, 119 hours 6 minutes, June 14, 1963.

3-MAN FLIGHT
Russians Col. Vladimir Komarov, pilot; Boris Yegorov, doctor, and Konstantin Feoktistov, scientist; 16 orbits, 24 hours 17 minutes, Oct. 12, 1964.

Mrs. Romney Speaks to UF Volunteers

'40 Class of Central Will Dine

Mrs. George Romney was the principal speaker Wednesday at the eighth annual awards tea of the tribute fund committee and Mrs. Romney's special hostess at Pine Knob Resort.

Blamy, Bloomfield Village chairman of the tribute fund committee and Mrs. Romney's special hostess at Pine Knob Resort.

Drive; Mrs. Olin Thomas, Gale Road, White Lake Township; Henry D. Price, Franklin; and Mrs. Clara Stuart, Joslyn Road, Orion Township.

Members of the Pontiac Central High School class of '40 are preparing for their 25th anniversary to be held August 21 at Holiday Inn.

Chairmen of the event are Mrs. Wallace R. Williams of Voorhees Road and Mark Fisher of Birmingham.

Those attending the first meeting recently in the Williams' home included Clarence Carlson, David Mansfield, Mrs. Robert Pote, Mrs. Douglas Green, Mrs. William Weaver, Mrs. Hilman Fortney and Mrs. Charles Hall.

Committee members are Fred Giddings, Mrs. Henry Daniel, Mrs. Bruce Hubbard, Mrs. Lloyd Huntley and Mrs. James Thompson.

'Giving of Self Fulfills'

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor
"The only thing we have is self," Mrs. George Romney enlarged upon this idea when she spoke Wednesday afternoon to guests at the annual awards tea of the Pontiac tation, the world has become larger, instead of smaller. And our problem is that we must know the whole world and have a concern for all human beings.

Michigan's first lady spoke of the "spiritual river of life," that indefinable part of all of us. It is what prompts us to give of ourselves.

This giving enriches not only the lives of those we help, but also our own lives. That is why, said Mrs. Romney, that occasions like Wednesday's award tea are important. They honor individuals who have attained a certain stature and character. We grow through volunteer work.

She mentioned that the concept of the United Fund drive which originated in Michigan had spread to many other parts of the country.

HELP YOUTH

She spoke, as she often does, about the necessity for helping the younger generation. It is woman's most important job, far more important than how many women there are in the legislature.

Caring for one another — our families, our friends and other individuals is so important. We should equate real progress with human progress and that will take care of our prestige.

Mrs. Romney was introduced by Mrs. Paul Gorman.

Love Letter Dispute Still Going Strong in Column

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Forgive me for taking exception to your viewpoint of "invasion of privacy" regarding the lady who read her parents' love letters after their death.

Have you ever read the classic, "The Letters of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning"? And if Margaret Mitchell had not read her grandmother's diary, who would have written "Gone With the Wind"?

If my great-grandmother had not examined the contents of her mother's trunk, a letter written by George Washington would have been destroyed.

I have saved my husband's love letters and valentines. Although my children may not be interested in reading them now, maybe after I die they will enjoy some of the sweet sentiments that are in my treasure chest.

"SENTIMENTAL"

DEAR ABBY: A letter in your column dealt with the same situation with which I was recently faced, and I would like to tell you how I handled it.

My mother had made her home with me and my husband during her last years. I knew where she had kept her "love letters" from my father, who had preceded her in death many, many years.

When Mother passed away, I did not read them. I felt as you, that they were private. Yet I could not bring myself to destroy those letters as I knew they must have been very precious to my mother or she would not have kept them for nearly 65 years.

Before her funeral, I tied her "love letters" with a white ribbon and asked the undertaker if I might slip them into the casket to be buried with Mother. He said he thought it was a splendid idea, so I lifted the coverlet and placed them deep beside her body.

I have always felt that I did what would have pleased my mother the most.

Yours very truly,
HELEN G.

UF Volunteers Receive Awards at Annual Tea

Over 140 volunteers were honored Wednesday for their hours of service and assistance to agencies associated with the Pontiac Area United Fund and the women's division committees.

At the eighth annual awards tea at Pine Knob Resort, guests heard Mrs. George Romney speak on volunteer work.

Later in the program, they saw Mrs. Romney receive one of the Florentine coin bowls bearing "Merit Award" inscriptions.

MERIT AWARDS

Thirty-one area residents also received one of the bowls as recognition for their outstanding service within the agencies or in the United Fund organization itself.

Certificates of recognition were awarded to 38 area residents who have served as Friendly Visitors; 40 to motor aid committee members; 12 to those assisting on the tribute fund; and 24 who served as various area chairmen in the 1964 campaign.

Tribute was also paid to the late Mrs. E. M. Estes who was chairman of the tribute fund committee.

SPONSOR

Pontiac State Bank sponsored the tea.

Those working on arrangements were Mrs. Paul Gorman, chairman; Mrs. Richard Veazey, Mrs. Francis McMath, Mrs. Merrell D. Petrie and Mrs. Virginia Loveland.

Others were Mrs. Adrian Ish, Mrs. Maxwell Shadley, Mrs. John Blamy, Mrs. Robert Butler, Mrs. John Bills, Mrs. Russell Grinnell and Mrs. J. Harry Baker.

Mrs. James Cowen was mistress of ceremonies.

Mrs. Merrell D. Petrie, Cherokee Road, displays one of the Florentine coin bowls given special volunteers on Wednesday. Mrs. Petrie received a merit award for her work as Pontiac Area United Fund women's campaign chairman, 1964.

To Display Arts, Crafts

The annual Clarkston Arts and Crafts Association show will open Saturday with a reception from 7 until 9 p.m. in the Independence Hall Annex. Over 100 art works will be on display at this time.

Judging the oils, ceramics, sculptures, water colors, pastels, and drawings, will be Dr. John Galloway of Oakland University and James Ewer of the Waterford School System.

Mrs. Henry Rankin chairman will be assisted by Mrs. Sanford McLean, Hostesses include Mrs. Elizabeth Lambert, Mrs. Jerome Wilford and Mrs. Fred Steiner.

The exhibit will be open Sunday from 2 until 5 p.m. and continue Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and 7 to 9 p.m. each day.

Ex-President of POH Guild to Be Feted

Members of the Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital Guild will honor their outgoing president, Mrs. Merrell Petrie, at a luncheon Saturday in Devon Gables.

The "Barbershoppers," a boys vocal group from Bloomfield Hills Junior High School, will render several selections under the direction of Alan Poland.

Newly elected officers of the organization include Mrs. Ward Ross, president; Mrs. Paul Trimmer, vice president; Mary Ann Johnson and Mrs. Kenneth Mahoney, secretaries; and Mrs. Gale Hudde Jr., treasurer.

Coffee Hours Will Inform

The first in a series of informal and informative coffee hours to acquaint friends and neighbors with the 1965 - 66 Pontiac - Oakland Town Hall Lecture Series, was held in the home of Mrs. A. Glenn Wilson of Alice Avenue on Wednesday.

Mrs. Fred Coleman and Mrs. B. B. Roush of Pontiac were co-hostesses with Mrs. Wilson.

Among those attending were Mrs. Aleck Capsalis, president of Town Hall, and Mrs. Andrew Gulesick and Mrs. Robert E. Niemi, officers.

Beta Theta Will Honor Ex-Officers

Mrs. Charles Kreher of Otsego Drive opened her home Tuesday for sister members of the Alpha Chapter of Beta Theta Phi Sorority.

Mrs. Frank Coad, chairman of the retiring officers party, assisted by Mrs. Glen Grim and Mrs. John Kinzler, announced that the dinner would be held June 22 at Devon Gables at 6:30 p.m.

The sorority also elected new officers. They include: Mrs. Kinzler, president; Mrs. Coad, vice president; Mrs. Walter Kinzler, secretary; Mrs. Homer Tinney, treasurer; and Mrs. L. Z. Monroe, conductress.

A donation will be sent to the YWCA building fund.

Mrs. Kreher entertained the group with selections on the organ.

Daughter Is Born

It's a girl, Martha Anne, for the James Huttenlochers of Middle Lake Road, Clarkston. The baby was born May 29 in Pontiac General Hospital.

Grandparents are the Howard Huttenlochers of Middle Lake Road and the James Bradleys of Spokane Drive.

Mrs. Marshall Miller, Hunting Woods, district president of the Michigan Federation of Temple Sisterhoods (from left) installed Mrs. Sherwin Birnkant as president and Mrs. Irving Gordon as first vice president, of the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Jacob, Wednesday, in Greenfield's Birmingham Restaurant. The incoming officers both reside on James K. Boulevard.

The program following the annual meeting of the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Jacob was planned by Mrs. Marvin Talan of Colrain Drive (standing). Mrs. Howard Mahler of White Pine Drive was luncheon chairman.

Dr. Sarah Van Hoosen Jones (left) and Miss Alice Serrell wave from the porch of their home on Romeo Road, Avon Township. They will be hostesses Sunday when the Zonta Club of Pontiac sponsors a tea from 2 to 6 p.m. Proceeds of the tea will benefit the Pontiac YWCA building fund.

Polly's Pointers

Avoid Soiled Grater

DEAR POLLY — When you need a small amount of grated lemon rind, use a steak knife with a serrated blade to scrape the rind. No messy grater to wash. — B. G.

DEAR POLLY — Don't bother to carry along skirt hangers when you travel. They take up too much room in your luggage and weigh too much if you are flying.

Use large hair clips on the ordinary clothes hangers that are in the hotel or motel. Just attach your skirt to the hanger and clip. Skirt hangs securely. — MRS. E. T.

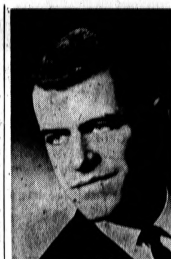

GIRLS — Turn the waistband over the lower wire clip, clip with two three-inch hair clips and you have no worries. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I stopped using the "grease" container that came with my salt and pepper stove set as I never seemed to reuse the grease. My sister suggested that I use the container for bulk salt. I find it is much easier to dip and measure a teaspoon or partial teaspoon of salt than it is to pour it from the original container.

Cover with adhesive-backed paper or paint two of the one-pound coffee cans with plastic lids. Label them "BIG" and "LITTLE." I call them job jars. Have hubby choose a slip of paper from one of them. This slip will list just one job to do in his spare time. Often I help him plan the fixing of the more time-consuming repairs contained in the "BIG" job jar. Repairs listed in the small job can should not exceed 45 minutes to an hour for completion. All over that go into the BIG jar. This little gimmick has helped my husband clean up a number of needed repairs without the usual nagging from me.

Frankly, I call it suggesting or reminding but he insists it is nagging. — MRS. A. L. B.

Proceeds will be used for the Pontiac YWCA Building Fund.

Committee heads include Mrs. Beecher Fawcett, Mrs. William T. Jackson, Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Melvin Correll, Dr. Pauline Spring and Mrs. Charles S. Renwick.

Dr. Jones became a member of the Pontiac Zonta Club over 25 years ago and has been consistently active in the group. Miss Serrell is immediate past president of the Pontiac YWCA.

Trade Stamp for Letter

HENDERSON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. L. J. Cranford answered her telephone to hear her young daughter, Ruth, ask "Mother will you bring me a stamp? I want to write you a letter and I don't have a stamp."

Mrs. Cranford got in the car and drove five miles out to the Campfire Girls' lodge. Ruth was attending, delivered the stamp and drove home.

Next day, she got her first letter from her daughter.

Surgeon. Dr. Bertha Van Hoosen.

A member of the Chicago Zonta Club, the doctor was also an honorary member of the Zonta Club of Pontiac.

In 1823, Lemuel Taylor, the great-grandfather of Dr. Jones' mother, acquired the land where the home of the pair stands. The central part of the house is over one hundred years old.

and has declined the invitations of boys who have asked her to attend social parties."

"For she has one leg a little shorter than the other. But with a built-up show, she gets along very well."

"However, she imagines people shun her, or if they do invite her to a party, she thinks they are patronizing."

"Dr. Crane, could you please talk to her and see if you can give her the proper perspective of life?"

CRIPPLE COMPLEX
Velma demonstrates a very widespread ailment of human beings.

It is called the "cripple complex." Alas, it is not restricted to young people, either, but affects millions of men and women, even after the age of 40.

For example, many women (and some men, too) get into a neurotic condition when they visit their dentist and find that they must have false teeth.

Maybe they have only a couple of old roots remaining but they will hang on to these for years as vain symbols of their youth.

Actually, the modern dentist is both a plastic surgeon as well as an artist so he can fit you with dentures that will make you look 10 years younger.

Instead of limping along with a few unsightly "anags" in your mouth, if you are at the full denture stage, rejoice about that fact, for within a few weeks you will be medically and cosmetically returned to a far more youthful appearance!

The same goes for you folks who are now hard of hearing.
GET HELP

Don't shun a hearing aid, for the modern earphones are only about the size of a small thumb.

They can even be fastened to the temple bar of your eyeglasses so your companions will not even realize you are wearing a hearing device.

But even if they do, so what!

It is a rare thing for us doctors to find a perfect baby at a State Fair baby contest.

And there is hardly one college student out of 1,000 who doesn't have some type of defect (crippled condition).

For example, how many of you readers have a perfect set of teeth, with not a single filling, gold crown or bridge in your mouth?

How many of you need glasses, even though some of you are also so sensitive on this point that you refuse to wear them, except in secret!

How many of you are medical "cripples" in that you must take insulin or phenobarbital or even tranquilizers and sleeping drugs?

NOT ALONE

So girls like Velma need to have their eyes opened and realize that practically everybody is a "cripple" in some way.

But one of the quickest ways to exorcise a person like Vel-ma is to have her visit the hospital for crippled children or the Veteran's Hospital and see the thousands who are far worse off than she is.

For that gives you a wider perspective in a few minutes of time and thus makes you grateful that you are no worse off than you are!

of The Pontiac Press, enclosing a long stamped addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Have You Tried This?

Make Rhubarb Punch

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Mrs. Tressie Fair of Pontiac was also enough to send in an interesting recipe for a rhubarb punch.

Now that fresh rhubarb is available, it can be used for this unusual beverage.

RHUBARB PUNCH
By Mrs. Tressie Fair
1 quart rhubarb

3 cups water
1½ cups sugar
¼ cup orange juice
4 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup grape juice

Cut rhubarb into small pieces and cook in water until soft. Strain through a cloth.

Add rest of ingredients, mix well and chill through-
ly. Makes 6-8 servings.

Create a Mosaic With Eggshells

In the name of Henry Penny! Now it's egg shells for art's sake.

Avant-garde Pop artists have pirated junk yards for dented fenders, boudoirs for wigs and workshops for sawed-off furniture to produce some of the most unconventional, 3-dimensional paintings on the American art scene.

Now they're raiding the chicken coop. Those fragile littered egg shells are being dye and fitted like jigsaw puzzles into wildly beautiful mosaic paintings.

IT'S POP ART

Far out? Not these days when home is definitely where the art is. It's an idea hatched right out of the basic concept of Pop Art: taking ordinary objects — like egg shells — and turning them into extraordinary objects d'art.

With this idea in mind, the Tintex Color Council has come up with simple instructions that let any woman who can crack an egg make Pop mosaics right in her kitchen.

What could be easier? Egg shells are right up your galley. Just rinse and save about five dozen of them — enough to cover a 14"x18" board. Only other materials needed are some glue and the machine fabric dyes.

First step is to sketch or trace your design on heavy cardboard. This can range from still lifes or landscapes to the bizarre subjects done by Pop artists like Andy Warhol — with his soup cans, soap boxes and comic strip characters.

Next, dye the shells using separate bowls for each color.

TWO OR MORE

Working with at least 2 colors is advised to lend enough variety. Or concentrate on shading — a light to dark array of greens, for instance, can create depth in a landscape.

Drop the shell halves in the dye for 20 minutes. To keep them from floating on the surface, anchor them by letting the dye solution fill each shell.

After they're dry, break the shells into small pieces and glue them into position on your design (the same way flagstone or tiles are laid), leaving some pieces larger than others for a "raised" effect.

Don't expect the shells to conform exactly to your sketch. This technique makes a point of staying non-conformist so that your mosaic looks almost like an abstract.
That's the beauty of it. And the beauty lasts forever. Once they're glued down, the shells will never chip.

If you're craving some "artistic nourishment," this may be just your dish. And who knows, when you're done it might be something worth crowding about.

Dog Turns on Rescuer

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — A. J.
Oberleider, city management man, got a hurry-up call from a woman who said her Pekinese dog had its long, bushy tail entangled in a washing machine wringer.

However, before he could reach the scene of the emergency, the woman had used scissors to clip the pet's fur and free it.

But — in the process — the dog bit her.

Miami Honeymoon for the Jarskis

Presently in Miami for their honeymoon are Mr. and Mrs. William Jarski (Joanna Waltman) who were wed recently in St. Joseph Catholic Church, Lake Orion.

A reception in the American Legion Hall, Royal Oak, followed the ceremony performed by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Arthur Karey.

Daughter of the Harold C. Waltmans of Orion Township, the bride appeared in a beautiful gown and train of white satinette sheer.

With her honor maid, Sue Williams, were bridesmaids

JoAnn Brown, Mrs. Dean Welner and Mrs. Rose Waite. Denise Chryznowski was junior attendant. Theresa and Maurice Janisse were flower-girl and ring-bearer.

Robert Jarski was best man for his brother. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Jarski of Oxford Township.

Ushers were Ronald Jarosz, Lawrence Swistowski and Donald Kalfayan, and Carl Waltman.

PTA Council Views Dinner as Success

The annual installation dinner and workshops of the Pontiac PTA Council held Tuesday evening was under the chairmanship of Mrs. Marvin McVicar.

Her assistants were Mrs. Robert Trachet, Mrs. William White and Mrs. William Schnekenburger.

It was at this meeting that scholarships were awarded to Kay Jackson of Pontiac Northern High School and Joel Boyd of Pontiac Central.

Others who worked on the successful event were Mrs. Ervin Christie, Mrs. Allen Ebey, Mrs. Fred Sartell, Mrs. Fred Goines, Mrs. Benjamin Shelton, Mrs. Bruce Graham, and Mrs. Harry Whitener.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton R. Thomas of Ross Drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda Sue, to Richard Clarence Austreng, son of the Clarence E. Austrengs of Elira Road. Vows are planned for August.

Conscience Is Guiding Force Here

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: Last evening, just as my husband and I were about to go to the movies, friends of ours dropped in unexpectedly. When the wife saw me with my coat on, she asked if we were going out. I told her that we were planning to go to the movies.

She said, "Don't let us keep you from going," and after a few minutes they left. I have been wondering since whether we were rude to have gone out. Should we have changed our plans and stayed home to entertain them?

A: If you were meeting other friends at the movies or if it was a picture you especially wanted to see and that was the only night you could go, you should have explained this to your visitors and asked if they would like to go along.

If they said "No," it was not rude to have gone to the movies as planned.

If this was not the case and you could have gone to the movies just as well another night, you should have changed your plans and invited your friends to stay.

THANK-YOU NOTES
Q: I am going to be married in three weeks. I have already received quite a few wedding presents. I would like to know if these should be acknowledged now or may I wait until after the wedding to write thank-you notes?

A: If possible, you should try to write thank-you notes for presents on the day you receive them. If you don't, they will soon get beyond you and you will be faced with a staggering amount of thank-you notes to write in the first very busy days of your married life.

Why Grow Old?

Eye-glasses are certainly not new, but women's attitude toward them isn't what it once was. Centuries ago, Nero, being nearsighted, had a lens made out of an emerald, hoping to see better.

What luxury to gaze through the haze of an emerald!

Because of vanity many women used to pass their best friends on the street without a "hello," trump their partner's ace at bridge and miss the beauty of the world about them.

Today they realize that nothing makes a gal seem older than squinting and fumbling. Then, too, glasses are so attractive today that many women have an eyeglass wardrobe.

COSTUME ACCESSORY

If you can afford it, glasses can literally become an accessory to the costume you are wearing. You can have several pairs in different colors and different styling. Some can be tailored for sportswear while others can be more decorative for dressier occasions.

You can have one pair with frames which will go well with practically any color, such as white, black or amber and then a pair with pastel frames in the shade most flattering to you.

If you can have only one pair be sure to select the frames carefully, so that their shape is right for your facial contour. Try many frames on just as you would many hats when buying one.

Here are a few hints to help your glasses flatter you, and glasses can be truly flattering.

• Use eye makeup when wearing glasses. If your lashes are long enough to touch the glass, curl them. This is a good idea anyway.

• Cover the ears with hair if you wear glasses.

Do not place rouge near the glasses because they throw shadow and intensify the color.

• Veils and high necklines are not flattering when wearing glasses.

• Light-colored frames make the face appear wider.

• Hats with irregular soft lines which extend beyond the contour of the face are best.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Looking Straight and Pretty" which gives you 27 hints about eyeglasses and how to make them beautiful you, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet 55 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Poet Rejects Invitation to White House

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Lowell, Pulitzer-Prize winning poet, has rejected an invitation to a White House arts festival June 14 because of what he termed his "dislike and distrust" of American foreign policy.

Lowell, 48, won the Pulitzer Prize in 1947. He made public

Wednesday a letter to President Johnson. Lowell said he was reversing an earlier decision to participate because "every serious artist knows that he cannot enjoy public celebration without making subtle public commitments."

Two other writers, Saul Bellow and John Hersey, said they will attend even though they, too, disagree with U.S. foreign policy. Bellow is the author of the best-seller, "Hiroshima." Hersey won the 1945 Pulitzer Prize for the novel, "A Bell for Adano."

Homesick Boys

Job Corps Camp

POTEAU, Okla. (AP) — Twenty homesick boys quit Oklahoma's first federal job corps camp Wednesday to return to their homes in the East.

Camp Director Stan Adams said they had been at the camp two weeks along with 60 other boys.

"All of the boys who left were from the East and they would rather be at home than at the camp in Oklahoma," he said. The boys, all high school dropouts, left by bus. They had been studying at the Stapp Work Center south of Hodges, Okla.

Senate Okays Space Program Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — An authorization of just under $5.2 billion to keep the ambitious U.S. space program in high gear during the next fiscal year moves back to the House today. The Senate gave it top-heavy approval by a 79-4 vote late Wednesday after some angry debate over patent rights to inventions developed under the multibillion dollar government programs.

Included in the funds were another $242.1 million to continue the two-man Gemini program and $2,973,385,000 for the Apollo project aimed at landing astronauts on the moon by 1970. The bill goes back to the House for consideration of numerous Senate changes, including a net increase of about $13 million.

BELOW REQUEST

The Senate total of $5,196,826,350 was about $63 million below President Johnson's budget request.

Most of nearly five hours of Senate debate centered around an amendment urged by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the assistant Democratic leader, to restrict patent rights under the program.

Long said that rich and profitable patents were "being given away" by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and other government agencies. But a majority of Democratic and Republican senators tabled and thus killed his efforts to revise special treatment on rights to inventions developed under the space program.

Voting against the huge new space outlay were Sens. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and A. Willis Robertson, D-Va.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A panel headed by presidential consumer adviser Esther Peterson has urged a nationwide effort to help poor people get better buys for their money at neighborhood stores.

In a report issued Wednesday night, the 37-member panel said "the poor pay more because of their lack of education and shopping skill; because of their special situation of needing goods without adequate means of paying for them; because the marketing system which serves others so adequately is in many ways not suited to their particular needs."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential aide McGeorge Bundy says U.S. action in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic should be judged by its results. While immediate and unanimous approval is not anticipated, he told an International Publishers Association luncheon Wednesday, "we expect to be judged in the end by the result, by the effect" of what is done. He said U.S. power was being used in the two nations in the interest of peace and the people involved.

Bundy, who is President Johnson's national security affairs adviser, recently returned from a presidential mission to the Dominican Republic.

Cavanagh Gets Post

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh was installed Wednesday as vice president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors during the closing session of its four-day conference here.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said Wednesday the drive to replace foreign laborers with Americans on U. S. farms is working well and no imports of Mexican workers are in prospect at present.

Wirtz said last year at this time there were 61,000 foreign farm workers in this country compared to only 2,500 now. He said prospects are so good that his California Farm Labor Panel unanimously recommended that no more permits for foreign laborers be granted until the supply of domestic workers is exhausted.

Congress last year allowed a special law permitting the use of Mexicans on U. S. farms to expire. Any foreigners brought in now must enter under the Immigration Act with Labor Department approval.

Wirtz spoke to some 800 Washington high school youths who have been offered summer jobs in the Michigan pickle industry at $1.25 an hour under wage rates laid down by the Labor Department.

The youths will work in Michigan under the labor department's program to recruit high school youths to help fill the need for farm labor.

The Nile River, more than 4,000 miles long, is regarded as the lifeblood of the United Arab Republic. It is the major source of water for homes, farms and industry.

Indict Detroit in Mortgage Fraud Case

DETROIT (AP) — A federal grand jury Wednesday indicted the owner of a Detroit investment firm in what U.S. Attorney Lawrence Gubow described as a mortgage milking scheme operating over a 27-county area of southeast Michigan.

William Levitt, 33, owner of the Bright Investment Co., was charged in a 12-count indictment with using the mails to defraud.

Dwight K. Hambrowski, head of the Detroit office of the Federal Housing Administration, said he knew of $13.5 million worth of residential property in the area which is being "milked."

Assistant U.S. Attorney James F. Finn termed the scheme a "complex paper manipulation" usually involving federal-agency mortgages on residential property.

FACING FORECLOSURE

It starts when a mortgagee, facing foreclosure, is approached by a party offering to purchase the equity and promising to assume the mortgage payments, he said.

But this promise is not valid, Finn said, and the original mortgagee retains primary responsibility for meeting the payments.

The person purchasing the equity then sells the property, and the new owner collects rent from the original owner until the house is repossessed.

The government then sells the property, and if the purchase price does not equal the mortgage, the original owner must make up the difference, Finn said.

Levitt is expected to be arraigned on the charges this week. The charges carry a maximum sentence of five years in prison and $5,000 fine on each of the 12 counts.

Named to $9,700 Post

LANSING (AP)—Former Rep. John Toeppe, R-Cadillac, was named Wednesday to a $9,700 job as executive assistant to the Republican Senate minority. He recently quit as public relations man for the GOP State Central Committee.

Pope Attends Mass in Memory of Predecessor

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The second anniversary of the death of Pope John XXIII was observed today with a Solemn Mass in his memory attended by his successor, Pope Paul VI.

The occasion brought new speculation that the late pontiff would become a saint, a process which ordinarily would not occur for decades or even centuries. Pope John has been talked of as a saint by some from the time he died.

The Mass in St. Peter's Basilica was being celebrated by the late pontiff's successor as patriarch of Venice, Giovanni Cardinal Urbani. This was the post held by Pope John before his election as leader of the world's Roman Catholics.

Congo Army Pushes for Rescue

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Government troops led by mercenary commander Col. Michael ("Mad Mike") Hoare today slashed through dense jungles hoping to rescue white hostages held by rebel forces.

The troops found no sign of the whites when they reached the town of Banalla, last known position of the "Lion" rebels.

Banalla is 125 miles south of Buta, which the mercenaries and government soldiers captured Tuesday.

Reports saying that as many as 75 of the 109 whites thought to have been in rebel hands were massacred, remained confused. The hardest evidence available came from a young Portuguese who arrived in Leopoldville yesterday.

He told of seeing 31 Belgian priests tossed alive to the crocodiles in the Rubi River at Buta last Sunday night.

WORST MASSACRE

If reports of the slaughter proved true, it would be the worst massacre in the Congo's bloody history of civil war.

The Dublin-born Hoare raided Leopoldville that the exact location of the rebel force now was unknown. His "Commando" unit reported there was no ferry working across the Aruwimi River at Banalla and it appeared likely the rebels had crossed the stream.

A second army column struck north from Stanleyville, onetime rebel headquarters, toward Ba-nalla in hopes of locating the rebels.

An official at the Portuguese embassy in Leopoldville said there was no indication of the fate of about 25 Portuguese citizens who were believed to have been in the area where the massacres were reported.

KNOWS OF DEAD

A white woman at Buta said yesterday she knew of 31 whites who were executed and their bodies thrown into the Rubi River.

Only about 28 of the 109 whites in the area have been officially accounted for. Of these, six were spared to death north of Buta and one died today at Paulis.

Many of the others were wounded, some seriously.

In addition to the Portuguese, some Greeks were known to be in the area. No Americans are in the rebel region.

Holiday Death Toll

Average Shows Dip

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan's 22 traffic deaths over the 78-hour Memorial Day weekend averaged one every three hours and 35 minutes, State Police say.

In the same length Memorial Day weekend last year, there were 24 persons killed, an average of one every three hours and 15 minutes.

Thousands Cheer

Lady Bird Welcomed in Virgin Islands

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands (AP) — This tropic island gave Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson a warm welcome on her first visit here and the governor added "the keys to our hearts."

In emancipation gardens where slaves were freed more than a century ago a crowd of about 7,000 turned out to cheer the first lady as she noted "the impressive way equality was translated into reality in these islands."

Mrs. Johnson is here to make a commencement address tonight at the first graduation of the College of the Virgin Islands. She aimed to get a few days vacation.

Banners in the streets of Charlotte Amalie, the capital of this island of some 40,000 persons, proclaimed "Welcome Mrs. Johnson" as she drove from the airport in a white convertible, youngsters ran alongside.

STEEL BAND

In the five-acre palm-fringed gardens, a steel band greeted her with calypso strains. Hatless in the tropic sun, wearing a peach linen suit with a gay print scarf at the neck, she smilingly told the crowd what a bargain the United States got when it purchased the islands from Denmark in 1917 for $25 million.

"We have only to look at last year's cash register," Mrs. Johnson said, "for in one year alone the Virgin Islands bought $70 million worth of goods from the states."

She relayed greetings from the President and said this was her first trip here, "but I already know it won't be my last."

NATIVE FLOWERS

College Receives Gift of $800,000 in Virgin Islands

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands (AP) — An executive whose chemical company supplies the green pigment for dollar bills gave the College of the Virgin Islands an $800,000 boost today.

Henry H. Reichhold, head of Reichhold Chemicals Inc. of White Plains, N.Y., announced the gift in connection with the college's graduation exercises tonight, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson will make the school's first commencement address.

Reichhold, who has a home here, already has contributed $200,000 to the college, a two-year-old school specializing in teacher training and nursing. It has 82 full-time students and 500 enrolled in night classes.

He noted that other Caribbean islands are not so untroubled, she did not mention the Dominican Republic but she commented "in our hearts is the prayer that their voyage to peace will be a short one."

Mrs. Johnson flew from Baltimore's Friendship Airport non-stop 1,600 miles to San Juan, Puerto Rico, Wednesday. Traveling "thrift class," she lunched on sandwiches and sat three abreast with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Taylor of Santa Fe, N.M.

But for the 25-minute hop from San Juan to St. Thomas, the airline put on a special flight and served a champagne snack.

PEACE VOYAGE

Gov. Paiewonsky told Mrs. Johnson a bandstand to be erected where she spoke will bear a plaque commemorating her appearance.

Paiewonsky said this island which has traditionally opened its doors to all peoples has no locks so it couldn't give her the key to the city.

"Instead we give you the keys to our hearts," he said.

Lincoln Park Teachers Vote Today on Election Call

LINCOLN PARK (AP)—With rival organizations urging "yes" votes, Lincoln Park's 510 public school teachers were to ballot today on whether they want an election to determine a sole bargaining agent for all.

The rival groups are the Lincoln Park Federation of Teachers, an AFL-CIO union, and the Lincoln Park Education Association, an affiliate of the Michigan Education Association.

Both sides predicted almost 90 per cent would favor a bargaining agent election and said it could be held a week hence.

Shortly after the two groups worked out details with administrators for today's voting, the federation announced its members "overwhelmingly" had given their leaders authority to call a strike if they deem it necessary.

Both teacher organizations are complaining about school board salary schedules, fringe benefits and working conditions. Both also have accused the board of refusing to negotiate in good faith.

Robert DeMars, secretary of the AFL-CIO union, said the strike vote means that "if negotiations break down, we could call a strike," but refused to speculate on the likelihood of a walkout.

ATTITUDE OF GRATITUDE — Ten-year-old Kathleen Buchta of Mayville, Wis. found an injured bird on her front lawn and nursed it back to health. She called the cedar wax-wing "Tufty." Now that the bird is well it is content to stay at the home, and Kathleen has found a fine-feathered friend.

Warn Parents on Exploding 'Candy' Balls

DETROIT (UPI) — Police warned Detroit area parents yesterday to be on the lookout for explosive "cap balls" that look like small chewing gum balls.

Police said the cap balls contain about three times as much gunpowder as roll-type caps for cap pistols.

The danger is that the cap balls look much like candy or gum and may be eaten, or, if bitten, might explode in the mouth.

One did, and a 5-year-old girl, Sharon Motley, suffered serious mouth and tongue burns.

Police traced that one to a confectionery store, owned by Norman Alkazoff, who had purchased a box of 30 packages of them. The package from which little Sharon got the cap ball that injured her had been purchased by her brother, Reginaid.

ARE DISTRIBUTED

Alkazoff had purchased the cap balls from Donald Stashefski, 30, head of the D and R Distributing company. Stashefski said he had sold boxes of the cap balls to stores throughout the Detroit area.

Both Alkazoff and Stashefski were ticketed by police for violating Detroit's no-fireworks ordinance.

Both said they did not know they were violating the ordinance, and thought the cap balls fell under the definition of caps for cap pistols, which may be sold.

A's Are Most Popular With Movie Houses

ATHENS (U) — Forty per cent of the 218 movie houses in Athens have names beginning with the letter A such as Apello, Attica, Aithal, Anna and Anixis.

The reason: they want to get their names as near as possible to the top of the alphabetical list of movie house film offerings in the daily newspapers.

Napoleon Gets Blame for Darkened Houses

PUNAT, Yugoslavia (U) — Most houses on the northern Adriatic island of Krk have few windows, and Napoleon is blamed for it.

During his rule over the area there was a tax based on the number of windows. Residents took to putting up homes with as few windows as possible, and the old custom still persists.

Lunch Counter, Library Desegregated

By United Press International
Negro demonstrators, trailed by FBI agents, desegregated a white public library and a department store lunch counter yesterday at Bensenville, Ala.

Negro leader Ebenezer Stout said the action launched a three-month campaign to "wipe out segregation."

Six Negroes received library cards for the first time and Stout checked out a book entitled, "The Negro Protest."

At the lunch counter in McLellan's variety store, the Negroes were served a meal. About a half-dozen white customers got up and walked out.

At Selma, Ala., Public Safety Director Wilson Baker said yesterday civil rights demonstrators had been warned in advance they would be arrested if they picketed downtown stores. About 156 demonstrators have been arrested since Saturday.

Baker said he called three Negro leaders to his office last week and warned them their proposed picketing would be in violation of Alabama's anti-boycott law. He said the Negroes claimed the law was unconstitutional.

ELSEWHERE

Elsewhere in the nation:
• Chicago — Negro comedian Dick Gregory said yesterday he asked President Johnson to meet with civil rights leaders here today to "help us avoid a long, hot summer."

• Leland, Miss. — A federal court was asked yesterday to take jurisdiction in the case of 80 Negro field hands on strike against a cotton plantation. The Negroes, seeking better pay were evicted after their strike.

• New Bern, N.C. — Three white men, including a Ku-Klux Klan official, drew suspended sentences yesterday after pleading guilty to charges to bombing cars outside a civil rights meeting last Jan. 24.

• Boston — Mrs. Lonise Day Hicks, chairwoman of the Boston School Committee, told Gov. John A. Volpe yesterday she disapproved of his plans for racial balance in public schools.

• Lumberton, N.C. — Negro City Councilman E. B. Turner, a Baptist minister, yesterday became the first of his race to be elected mayor pro tem of this southeast North Carolina city.

Valor No Stranger to Michigan Marine

By HAL BOYLE

A COMMAND POST IN SOUTH VIET NAM (AP) — Recently, half the members of Company D, 3rd

Reconnaissance Battalion of the U.S. Marine 3rd Division, were eligible to return to America. But to a man they volunteered for six months more of battle duty here.

"Hell, we can't go home and leave the old man to clean up this mess all by himself," said one young Marine.

The old man is Capt. Pat Collins, 32, of Grosse Ile, Mich., one of the boldest company commanders on the front, a man with whom bravery is a habit.

The 4 officers, 80 troops and 3 Navy corpsmen of his company follow him as if he were a battlefield messiah. And he returns their devotion in full measure.

AGGRESSIVE

"They're exceptionally aggressive," he said. "With men like these, leading them isn't the problem. It's keeping up with them."

Pat is stocky and has a deeply tanned face of homely eloquence with Irish blue eyes. In manner, he is both brusque and oddly gentle.

He served as a corporal in the Korean campaign and put in 28 months at Guantanamo Bay in Cuba before coming to the Far East seven months ago.

EMBARRASSED

The captain squirms in embarrassment when asked about his medals.

"In that Cuba thing, there were some people caught in a mine field that had to be gotten out," he said, "and as for that Bronze Star, I was just trying to get some of our wounded evacuated."

What Pat actually did that gained him a Bronze Star was to stand up time and time again under steady heavy enemy fire and personally direct helicopters to a landing zone where they could pick up some of his wounded men.

The captain's shyness disappears when he talks of his men and their mission.

LOCATE ENEMY

"The idea of a recon company is to locate the enemy, stay in contact and keep them under surveillance," he said.

"The infantry is supposed to move in and mop them up but it doesn't always work out that way. Sometimes we get more than we can handle."

In their first 42 days here, Pat and his men engaged in 32 squad to company size patrols and made 19 contacts with the enemy.

Their company has been locked in some of the fiercest fire fights in the Marine sector.

COVER GROUND

"We have covered every bloody inch of this ground, mostly by foot," said the captain.

"The heat and heavy undergrowth make it rough. We carry rifles, 200 rounds of ammo, four grenades and four canteens. We also try to bring along some canned fruit to provide extra fluid."

"We may go only five miles and come out by helicopter. But, on a two-day patrol, we have covered 30 miles."

"Sometimes we have to cut our way or crawl on hands and knees."

WALK IN WATER

"The other day, we walked for 3½ hours in water up to our armpits. We liked that. It gave us a chance to cool off."

The recon company has killed 5 Viet Cong, wounded 16 and probably killed 5 more. It has suffered 3 dead and 16 wounded.

"Two of our people have been wounded twice and one is still with us," said Collins. He added, as if in apology, "I haven't been hit myself once."

Tornado Kills Three in Texas

Farming Community About Half Destroyed

HALE CENTER, Tex. (AP)—A tornado which bounded more than 25 miles across the West Texas plains killed three people and left about half of Hale Center in ruins Wednesday night.

The twister all but wrecked the business section in this farming center, which has about 2,500 residents, and damaged about half the town.

It destroyed the county courthouse, the police and fire stations, a hotel and the First National Bank. The funnel cloud passed just across the street from the Hale Center Hospital which was unharmed.

Two women injured in Hale Center died early today, state police reported. They withheld the names of the victims. Authorities estimated 100 persons were injured in Hale Center, six critically. The hospital here admitted 48. Others were taken to neighboring cities.

HOME CRUSHED

Mrs. Floyd Shackelford was killed as the tornado crushed her farm home 2 miles east of Cotton Center, which is 10 miles southwest of here and 30 miles northwest of Lubbock. Her husband was among three persons suffering serious injuries.

There also was damage near the village of Spade, southwest of Cotton Center.

State police tracked the tornado almost to the outskirts of Plainview, 25 miles north of Cotton Center. It ripped out telephone wires and interrupted communications between Lubbock and Amarillo for hours.

Broken power lines and debris blocked U.S. Highway 87 between Hale Center and Plainview.

RELIEF SENT

Lubbock, Amarillo and other cities sent Civil Defense supplies, medicines and other supplies into the damaged area. National Guardsmen and Army reservists came from Plainview.

Torrential rain and hail pounded this section for about an hour before the tornado struck Hale Center about 9:45 p.m.

Denies Plan to Send

S. Korea Troops to Viet

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—President Chung Hee Park said today his government has no present plan to send combat troops to South Viet Nam, informed sources reported.

A group of the majority Democratic-Republican party leaders reported this after meeting the president. Defense Ministry sources said Wednesday work had begun on organizing about 15,000 troops for combat duties in South Viet Nam.

Before you buy any automatic washer or dryer compare these facts from

Hudson's Budget Store

This is an important fact today: a new automatic washer and dryer is a major household investment. And buying a laundry appliance is much like buying an automobile. You must weigh all of the essential points and benefits that will satisfy your particular needs. You must shop around, compare.

Like an automobile, modern automatic washers and dryers have changed to keep pace with the needs of the modern homemaker.

In performance, engineering, dependability, appearance, yes, in a hundred ways, big and little, a modern washer and dryer is an exceptional appliance value, and indeed, a household essential. That's why Hudson's believes you should consider and compare all of the facts before you make a buying decision.

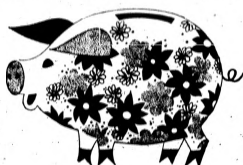

When homemakers like yourself consider buying a new automatic washer and dryer, many questions pop into your mind. Basically: "What type of washer or dryer should I buy for my family?" "Will it be simple and easy to operate?" "Is it designed with my laundry needs in mind?" "If it needs servicing will dependable service be readily available?"

We know these are only some of the questions—we hear them all, and we listen carefully. That's why we make a point of having the wide selection that we do—to make certain that you can find exactly the right washer and dryer to suit your particular family's needs.

On this page, you'll find laundry pairs representing these five famous makers: Frigidaire, General Electric, Hamilton, Speed Queen and Westinghouse. We think they're all top values, the kind you should consider before you buy any automatic washer or dryer.

Take a look at them here, then come to Hudson's Budget Store, Pontiac Mall. See them all in action. Ask all of your questions, and let Hudson's give you all the right answers.

FULL VALUE COUNTS

Hudson's believes that "price" alone does not determine the total worth of a laundry appliance. It is how the product is designed, how it is engineered, how it performs, how it lasts—plus all the "extras" you receive—that ultimately determines its full value to you.

Performance

Yes, here's a woman's word. Instant response she calls it. Want your wash to stop itself? No problem. Got a big load? There's a model to handle it. Want to fluff dry your clothes? Turn the dial. It's done. Matter of fact, you name it. There's a washer and dryer at Hudson's that will perform to your desire. It's just waiting to be picked out.

DURABILITY

A woman understands this best when her appliance gives her worry-free dependability day-after-day, load-after-load, year-after-year. Many women have come to trust the durability features of Hudson's famous name washers and dryers. Each one has gone through extensive tests to prove its strength and its ability to handle daily loads like yours

ENGINEERING

A woman's word? Perhaps not, but it's important for you to know that the famous name washers and dryers at Hudson's have combined the best of mechanical talent, advance technology and modern engineering methods to give you some of the most worry-free appliances made today.

BEAUTY

Of course. We wouldn't settle for less. A modern washer and dryer should please the eye. It should reflect all the beauty it can to create a pleasant 'working' mood. Each manufacturer has designed his laundry pair to go-together and to give your home the utmost in beauty. You'll find a washer and dryer at Hudson's to suit most any taste in styling. In sizes that will flatter the decorating lines of any laundry area.

YOU GET THESE EXTRAS

at Hudson's Budget Store

Wide selection. Choose from several models and styles from five famous manufacturers. Select from a wide range of prices. In white and fashion colors.

U.S. Funds at Stake

Romney Vows Action on Highway Aid

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney has promised his help in obtaining legislation to remove a roadblock that could cost Michigan millions of dollars in highway funds.

Howard Hill, managing director of the Highway Department, reported he talked to Romney on the problem Wednesday.

Roads has notified the department it will refuse to certify it can remove all signs in line with federal regulations.

Says Two Suspects Carried on Payroll

"The governor was very receptive," Hill said. "We talked of possible alternatives and he promised action within a few days."

Hill said he assumed Romney will either send a message to the legislature on the problem or have enabling legislation introduced to make Michigan eligible again for the federal funds.

POSSIBLE AMENDMENT

The Highway Department director said the legislation could be in the form of an amendment to an existing highway bill.

The possible loss of the federal aid results from a recent State Supreme Court decision restricting the state's right to control the construction of signs and other obstructions within highway right-of-way.

Hill said the Bureau of Public

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., says that two department officials suspected of embezzling funds were carried on the payroll long enough to qualify them for fat retirement checks.

The two officials are John R. Wylie, former head of the Pennsylvania's budget and finance branch, and James R. Loftis, Wylie and a third man, William H. Godel, have been convicted of misappropriating $66,000 in government funds. Loftis is awaiting trial.

Williams said yesterday that through a "rather strange set of arrangements," Wylie and Loftis were not fired as Godel, but were put in a position "where they could claim immediate retirement benefits far beyond what they would have been able to receive had they been routinely separated."

Hill said money is still being received for some road jobs on highways entirely within the state where the state has purchased land and has a clear said, the state will not be apt to the right-of-way as far as signing is concerned.

GIVEN DEADLINE

The state has been given a Sept. 24 deadline to come in line with federal regulations on signing. After that date, Hill said, the state will not be approved for any more federal and unless it can correct the present situation.

Scheduled bid-lettings on contracts totaling $2.4 million have been canceled so far, Hill reported. He said some $25 million more in road projects probably will have to be postponed between now and Sept. 24.

Michigan stands to lose up to $130 million a year if the legislature doesn't act on the problem, he said.

Indiana Youth Killed

Bank Burglary Suspect Married Before Hearing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Georges Lemay, 39, charged in Canada with bank burglary, and Lise Lemieux were married Wednesday in a swift ceremony by a notary public just outside an Immigration Service chamber where Lemay had been brought from jail for a hearing.

Lemay and his attractive 28-year-old bride kissed and then hurried into the hearing room. There Harvey St. Jean — best man and Lemay's counsel — decided not to press his contention that association with the separatist movement in Quebec might work against Lemay if he had to stand trial in Canada.

Immigration officer Melton Milich said the antemortem marriage would neither help nor hurt Lemay in the deportation case. He said he would announce a decision Friday.

Lemay is accused of engineering a 1961 burglary in which safe deposit boxes in the Bank of Nova Scotia's Montreal branch were looted of between $500,000 and $4 million.

2-Door Hardtop No. 1 Seller

By CHARLES C. CAIN
AP Business News Writer
DETROIT (AP) — The four-door sedan; perennial leader in new car sales, has yielded the No. 1 spot to the two-door hardtop this year.

That was substantiated today by a survey of auto buying habits made by the trade publication, Ward's Automotive Reports.

It showed that of the initial 5,277,000 new 1965 model cars sold up to April 1, about 1,817,406 or 34 per cent of the sales were two-door hardtops.

The four-door sedan, which had led in sales for 20 years, was in the runner-up spot with 30.6 per cent of the market. No. 3 in demand was the four-door hardtop at 11.3 per cent, followed by 10.8 per cent for the station wagon, 7.5 per cent for the two-door sedan and 5.4 per cent for convertibles.

In most cases the flashy two-door hardtop sells for about $150 more than the four-door sedans.

The Mustang-Barracuda-Marlin-Corvette fastbacks are the strongest selling group of two-door hardtops as they account for about 19 per cent of the market.

Other entries in the field include the Chevrolet Impala Super Sports coupe, the luxurious Chevrolet Caprice, the Galaxie 500 LTD's, the Plymouth Sports Fury, Thunderbird, Valiant Signet, Pontiac Grand Prix, Buick Riviera, Oldsmobile Starfire and Dart GT.

One of the most noticeable things about the demand for two-door hardtops is that it covers all price fields. In the $2,000-$2,500 price field, about 37.8 per cent of sales went to the two-door hardtop.

In the higher price classes the demand is almost as great—35.2 per cent in the $2,501-$3,000 class; 30.5 per cent in the $3,001-$3,500 class and 36.4 per cent in the $3,501-and-up classes.

The four-door hardtop continued to make sales gains, however, and the combination of two- and four-door hardtops accounted for 45.7 per cent of the industry's '65 model sales to date.

Sending the public interest in hardtops, General Motors reportedly will introduce a four-

Bible, Strap Fail to Draw Much Support

Secret Out—Royalty Rents

LONDON (AP) — The man who rents clothes to British society revealed today that Queen Elizabeth's relatives sometimes turn out for fancy social functions in his clothes.

Said Monty Moss, one of the directors of Moss Bros.:

"The younger members of the royal family do hire from us—particularly if they're still growing, or if it's something they don't have much use for."

Moss' admission came after another customer spotted Prince Michael of Kent getting fitted for the morning clothes he wore to the 188th running of the English Derby yesterday. Michael, who will be 23 on July 4, is the second son of Princess Marina and the queen's first cousin.

Moss refused to name other members of the royal family who rent clothes for special occasions.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A Salvation Army traveling evangelist didn't get much support around South Africa for his public suggestion: "We need to get back to the way when each home had a Bible in one corner and a strap in the other."

The leather strap was used for thrashing naughty children.

Even Maj. Alister Smith's Salvation Army colleagues were not very enthusiastic about wholesale reintroduction of leather straps for chastisement of children.

"Times have changed. We don't keep them in our homes any more. We no longer believe in all this Victorian discipline."

FOR SUMMER WEDDINGS — The mother of the bride can use a pound-cake mix to produce a delightful cake.

Crabmeat Burgers Really Different

It's time again for outdoor cooking; barbecues are being primed, charcoal and wood chips are gathering. The kids are all excited — and you're glad to get out of the kitchen.

This is the Patio Interlude — if you're lucky enough to have one. For those who don't, this is the time to plan menus that require the 1st amount of cooking over a hot stove.

The easiest solution to everyone's dilemma is the national standby — hamburger. Admittedly good. But slightly dull.

We suggest a lively perk-up: substitute tender Japanese king crabmeat for the chopped meat and the delicious result — Japanese Crabmeat Burgers — will have everyone calling for seconds... and thirds!

The Japanese Crabmeat Burgers are incredibly simple to make: just combine the succulent pink-white chunks of crabmeat with egg and flour, add relish and spices. Drop into skillet, and in minutes they are golden crusty on the outside, tender inside. Pop onto a heated burger bun, garnish with a sliced tomato, some potato chips. Serve fresh buttered corn. Add juicy watermelon.

What a marvelous dinner (the children will really dine into it) and how delightfully lazy for you!

What gives this old standby its new twist is the Japanese

Blue Cheese and Butter for Sandwich

What could be more fun than raiding the refrigerator for a mid-night snack or late Sunday evening supper? If you enjoy concocting, mightily big sandwiches, then you're sure to enjoy "Whopper."

Whopper is a "mild-high" edifice of fresh rye bread, juicy tomato slices, nut-like Swiss cheese, boiled ham, bologna, and crisp lettuce. Special accent is imparted to the sandwich with a tangy butter-blue cheese spread.

Zesty American blue cheese is combined with an equal portion of butter for a tangy spread to enhance almost any sandwich. The melon specialty cheese has a creamy texture and will blend well with the butter.

Blue cheese-butter spread will keep well in the refrigerator if stored in an air-tight container. It is an economical spread to keep on hand for sandwiches, baked potatoes and rolls, as a little goes a long way.

Blue Cheese-Butter Spread
1/2 cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 3 ounces)
1/2 cup butter
dash of hot pepper sauce

Cream blue cheese and butter. Add hot pepper sauce. Blend thoroughly. Store in refrigerator. Use as sandwich spread. Makes 1 cup.

king crabmeat. The juicy chunks spark up casseroles, salads, fritter... and burgers, of course.

The deep ocean flavor is "caught" by a special canning procedure that processes the crabmeat immediately aboard floating canneries after it is removed from the icy Pacific.

More homemakers are discovering the culinary versatility of this delicacy. Try it yourself.

Japanese Crabmeat Burgers

1 7/8 ounce can Japanese King Crabmeat
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon sweet pickle relish
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Salad oil or shortening
Remove cartilage from Japanese crabmeat gently. Combine crabmeat with egg, flour, relish, salt and pepper.

In pre-heated skillet with oil, drop heaping spoonfuls of crabmeat mixture, turning when golden. Cook few minutes more till brown on other side. Serve on hamburger buns. Makes 4 burgers.

Sweet Topping Is Broiled

Remember eating sugar bread when you were growing up? In many homes, a slice of well-buttered bread coated as thickly with brown sugar as mother would allow was a popular snack.

Now, here is a new, more sophisticated version called Cereal Flake Praline Toast. It will appeal to all ages.

A bubbly brown sugar-butter sauce touched with maple or vanilla flavoring, and containing liberal amounts of whole wheat flakes and nuts dresses up the bread. It is almost like a cookie-type dessert.

Cereal Flake Praline Toast

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
1/4 cup light corn syrup
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon maple or vanilla flavoring
1 cup whole wheat flakes
1/4 cup chopped pecans or peanuts
5 to 6 slices hot toast

Combine first 4 ingredients in skillet. Place over low heat and stir constantly until sugar melts and mixture is bubbly over top. Turn heat off and stir in flavoring. Fold in cereal and nuts. Spread two rounded tablespoons of topping over each slice of hot toast. Place in broiler to heat. Serve at once. Yield: 1 cup of topping, enough for 5 to 6 slices of toast.

Michigan Is Known for Navy Beans

Boston made them famous, but Michigan grows them. Navy beans that is. Ninety-nine point six per cent of all the navy (pea) beans harvested in the United States come from Michigan's Thumb and Saginaw Valley area. In the 1920's the United States was the largest importer of dry beans.

Today we're the top exporter of beans. We ship them to the United Kingdom, Australia, Europe, South America, Asia and Africa.

Homemade Wedding Cake Lovely

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Not every wedding cake comes from a bakery. Many mothers like to do this part of the wedding reception themselves or have a relative or friend of the family bake the cake.

It is not too big a job to be handled in the home kitchen. We're suggesting several recipes today for anyone who would like to try them.

The first cake calls for packaged pound cake mix. You bake the cake in a rectangular roasting and baking pan. This is a good idea for any cake you bake in large quantity.

ROYAL WEDDING CAKE

3 packages (each 1-pound and 1-ounce) pound cake mix
2 cups milk
6 egg yolks
3 whole eggs
1 cup commercial sour cream
Apricot Glaze and Base Coat
Royal Icing

Empty pound cake mix into large bowl of electric mixer. Add milk; stir to blend; beat 1 minute at medium low speed.

Add egg yolks; stir to blend; beat 1 minute at medium low speed. Add whole eggs; beat 1 minute at medium low speed. Stir in sour cream.

Pour into greased roasting and baking pan (13 1/2 by 9 by 2 1/2 inches). Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven for 1 1/2 hours or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean.

Cool in pan. Turn out of pan; trim 1/4- to 3/8-inch from ends of cake to make sharp corners; wrap in foil until ready to glaze. Add Apricot Glaze and Base Coat and Royal Icing as directed in those recipes. Makes 50 servings.

Notes: Cake may be baked about a week ahead and stored at room temperature; or it may be baked many weeks ahead and freezer-stored. Do not add apricot base coat and icing more than 2 days before using because of the possibility of moisture from the Apricot Glaze discoloring the white Royal Icing.

APRICOT GLAZE AND BASE COAT

2 cups apricot preserves
1/2 cup cognac
2 cups sifted confectioners sugar
4 tablespoons warm water

In a heavy 1 1/2-quart saucepan over low heat, heat the preserves, stirring often, until they liquefy somewhat; over moderate heat, continue cooking for 12 to 20 minutes or until preserves reduce by about 1/4 cup.

Stir often at beginning and constantly toward end of this cooking period because preserves become a thick glaze and may scorch. Remove from heat; cool for about 1 minute; thoroughly stir in cognac; cool for 5 minutes.

Stir and spread over top and sides of cake. Allow to set before applying base coat.

6 egg whites (use those left after making cake)

1 teaspoon cream of tartar
5 1/2 cups sifted confectioners sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Have egg whites at room temperature. Using electric mixer and large bowl, beat egg whites and cream of tartar until foamy; gradually beat in sugar. Add lemon juice. Beat at medium speed for 10 minutes.

Reserve 2 cups of this icing for decorating, covering it tightly and refrigerating. Spread remainder of icing over entire base coat of cake. Allow to dry before decorating.

Notes: Because a slightly stiffer mixture is needed for use in a decorating tube than for icing cake, it may be necessary to add a little confectioners sugar to the reserved icing.

To use this decorating icing—mark the surface of the iced cake, crosswise and lengthwise, into 5 equal portions.

Using a number 30 rose tube, pipe decorating frosting over top surface to form squares — there should be 25. Pipe rows down each of the four sides of the cake to continue the top surface piping; pipe rows down corners.

Pipe base edge of cake — using a larger rose tube if you like.

If the wedding is small, this next cake will be just right. Baked in a tube pan, it has a garnish of real Sweetheart roses.

GOLDEN BRIDE'S CAKE

3/4 cup shortening
3 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups milk
7 egg yolks
2 teaspoons vanilla

Stir shortening just enough to soften. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, sugar and salt; add to shortening.

Add half the milk, with egg yolks and vanilla. Mix until flour is dampened. Beat 1 minute.

Add remaining milk; blend in. Beat 2 minutes. (Count actual beating time.) Scrape bowl and spoon often.

Bake in 10-inch greased tube pan at 325 degrees 75 minutes or until cake tests done. Cool in pan on rack 10 minutes. Remove from pan. Cool.

Prepare fluffy white frosting from egg whites; swirl on top and sides of cake. Fill center with Sweetheart roses.

This last cake might be termed a groom's cake because it is dark. Originally, the groom's cake was a dark fruit cake. We think this one will appeal to more people.

BRAZILIAN CHOCOLATE CHIFFON CAKE

2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
1 2-3 cups sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons powdered instant coffee

1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 cup cooking oil
6 egg yolks
3/4 cup water
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 to 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
6 egg whites

Mix and sift first six ingredients. Make a well and add in order, cooking oil, egg yolks, water and vanilla. Beat with spoon until smooth. Add melted chocolate; blend well.

Add cream of tartar to egg whites. Beat until egg whites form very stiff peaks. Gently fold first mixture into egg whites until well blended. Fold, do not stir. Turn batter into ungreased 10-inch tube pan.

Bake in slow oven (325 degrees) 75 to 75 minutes or until cake springs back when touched lightly with finger. Immediately invert pan over funnel or bottle to cool. Let stand until cold. To remove from pan loosen side of cake with spatula.

Seven Minute Frosting

2 egg whites
3/4 cup light corn syrup
1/4 cup sugar

1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/4 teaspoons vanilla

Place egg whites, corn syrup, sugar and salt in top of double boiler. Beat with rotary beater until partially mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water and cook, beating constantly with rotary beater until frosting stands in peaks, about 3 to 4 minutes.

Remove from heat and continue beating about 1 minute longer. Add flavoring, beating in well. Makes enough to cover top and sides of 10-inch tube or two 8-inch layers. To tint frosting, add vegetable coloring, a few drops at a time until desired shade is obtained.

Chocolate Drops Are Nutty, Too

These cookies have medium chocolate flavor and color.

Crisp Chocolate Cookies

1 large egg
1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 squares (2 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate melted
1/4 cup unsifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup thinly sliced walnuts

With the electric mixer, in a small bowl, beat the egg until thick and ivory color. Without washing beater, in a medium bowl, cream the butter and sugar, add beaten egg; beat to combine.

Stir in melted chocolate to blend. Add flour and salt; stir to combine. Fold in walnuts.

Drop by level tablespoonfuls, 2 inches apart, onto lightly greased cookie sheets. Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven for 10 minutes. With a wide spatula, remove to wire racks to cool.

Store in a tightly covered container. Makes 3 dozen.

Freeze Unbaked Dough

When you are freezing unbaked drop cookie dough, drop the mixture as usual on a cookie sheet and freeze. When the dough has frozen, remove from the cookie sheet and freezer bag (between double sheets of waxed paper) in a small container.

Pickle Mushrooms to Serve at Party

This is a great relish for lots of guests!

Mushroom Pickle
2 cans (each 6 ounces) whole mushrooms
2 cans (each 6 ounces) sliced mushrooms
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup cider vinegar
2 teaspoons mixed pickling spice tied in cheesecloth bag
1 tablespoon instant minced onion

Drain all the mushrooms, reserving 1 cup liquid and pouring it into a 1-quart saucepan. To the measured liquid add the salt, sugar, vinegar, mixed spice and onion; stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Bring to a boil; pour over mushrooms. Cover and chill for several hours or overnight. Remove spice bag. Serve mushrooms drained.

Any leftover may be kept refrigerated in marinade for about a week.

IT'S A WHOPPER—For a mid-night snack, concoct a Whopper! This towering sandwich is of rye bread, tomato, Swiss cheese, bologna, ham and crisp lettuce. The zesty spread is an equal portion of butter and tangy American blue cheese. American blue cheese is budget-priced at your local supermarket.

Low-Calorie Shrimp Makes Tempting Spring Salad

MKT BSKT 24'S LOW CALORIE
Shrimp are nature's own perfect diet food being low in calories yet rich in proteins, vitamins and minerals. And there's no nicer slim-down-shape-up meal than this low-calorie Shrimp Salad Edwardian.

The Shrimp Association of the Americas says that there are only 168 calories per serving. As further inducement they add that an average serving supplies almost half of the recommended daily protein requirement for women; one-third of that suggested for men.

Shrimp Salad Edwardian
1 pound fresh or frozen shrimp, shelled and deveined
1 package (10 ounces) frozen asparagus spears
1 cup low-calorie Italian salad dressing
2 tablespoons chopped fresh dill or 1 teaspoon dill seed
2 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
Lettuce or chicken

Cook shrimp in boiling salted water to cover for 3 to 5 minutes or until tender; drain and let cool. Meanwhile, cook frozen asparagus spears as directed; drain then cool.

Arrange shrimp and asparagus spears in shallow refrigerator dish. Pour salad dressing over and sprinkle with dill or dill seed. Cover with plastic wrap and marinate in refrigerator for at least two hours.

To serve, drain shrimp and

Wooden Salad Bowl Needs Washing, Air

After using a wooden salad bowl, wipe the inside with paper toweling and — unless manufacturers' direction warn against this — rinse the inside with cold water and dry. After this treatment, allow the salad bowl to stand in an open place for an hour or so before putting away in a cupboard.

CHEESE FLOAT — Set the mood for dinner with canned V-8 vegetable juice in the living room. Serve it hot and topped with a dollop of bacon and horseradish cheese spread.

asparagus and arrange on a bed of lettuce; garnish with quartered hard-cooked eggs. Makes 4 generous servings.

Serve Juice With Dollop of Cheese

Hostesses know that company dinners become truly special occasions for both themselves and their guests when a mood of friendly relaxation is set before hand. The appetizer, served in the living room, is one of the most popular ways to create this atmosphere.

The appetizer itself should whet appetites as well as spark conversation. Rosy V-8 vegetable juice with its cheerful color and unique refreshing flavor does just this. This delightful beverage with its tangy blend of juices makes a wonderfully easy first course.

Served hot, with a dollop of bacon and horseradish cheese spread, canned V-8 vegetable juice will highlight any meal.

V-8 Cheese Float
1 can (12 ounces) V-8
Generous dash crushed thyme
Dash onion powder
Bacon and horseradish cheese spread

In saucepan, combine V-8, thyme, and onion powder. Heat. Garnish each serving with a dollop of cheese. Makes 3 servings.

Or, if a chilled beverage is the choice, canned V-8 vegetable juice goes Springlike with cranberry juice and ginger ale.

Sparkling V-8
1 can (12 ounces) V-8
1/2 cup chilled cranberry juice
1/2 cup chilled gingerale
Combine all ingredients. Serve in chilled glasses. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Peanut Butter for 'Burgers

One of the most versatile uses for peanut butter is in sauces — sauces for ice cream, puddings, cakes and, yes, for meat, too. The meat sauce given below is one that is especially good with hamburgers.

Sauce for Meat
1 tablespoon margarine
1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
1 medium tomato, pared and thinly sliced
2 tablespoons creamy peanut butter
Hamburgers or steaks
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley

Melt margarine in saucepan. Add green pepper, onion, and tomato. Cook over low heat 10 minutes, stirring frequently and breaking up tomato slices. Blend in peanut butter.

Gradually add milk, stirring constantly. Cook until sauce is thickened slightly.

Serve over hamburgers or steak. Sprinkle with chopped egg and parsley. Yield: 1 1/2 cups.

Bake-Off Set for January in California

The 17th Grand National Bake-Off will be held January 23-25 at San Francisco's Hilton Hotel. The Pillsbury Company has announced.

The event has been staged ten times in New York City, three times in Los Angeles, once in Washington D.C., and once in Miami Beach — but never before in San Francisco.

The city, seems a particularly apt location for a Bake-Off, company spokesmen pointed out, because San Francisco is famed, not only for charm and color, but for outstanding food.

Moving the baking contest from its usual early autumn date to January will place it more conveniently in the normal baking year, officials said.

The former Bake-Off date made it necessary for entrants to work on their recipes in the heat of spring and summer. But, with the contest scheduled for January, the entry period will begin September 1, and end October 31.

Entry recipes can be developed in fall's cooler weather, more conducive to kitchen activities. And the thousands of home bakers who annually try the Bake-Off's winning recipes will have them in hand to brighten winter menus.

Entry blanks for the 17th Bake-Off will be packed in Pillsbury Flour, beginning about August 1. The entry forms will also be available from grocery tear-off pads after mid-August, or by mail from Pillsbury's Bake-Off, Box 357, Dept. 100, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55400.

Advisory Council Holds Meeting

Thirty-seven members and guests of the advisory council of Michigan State University's consumer marketing program in Oakland County met for the eighth annual dinner Tuesday.

Mrs. Clarence Kremer, president of the council, was toastmistress at the affair in Holiday Inn.

Ray J. Paskiewicz, sales representative of Libby, McNeill & Libby, was the featured speaker.

He showed a film, "Fourteen Acres of Kitchens" which portrayed the company's meat canning facility in Chicago.

This plant is the largest meat canning operation in the world, large enough to contain eight football fields.

District extension agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, reviewed the objectives of the Michigan consumer marketing information program and reported on the past year.

Slides of a January consumer panel were shown by Mrs. Kremer.

John Odell and Dennis O'Neill, Pontiac Central High School students, concluded the program with a presentation of folk songs.

George Stachwick, Michigan consumer marketing program specialist from East Lansing, was a guest.

Dark Cherries Top Cottage Cheese

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dark cherry cottage salad is pretty as a picture.

Arrange 2 cups of cream-style cottage cheese in mounds on crisp lettuce. Drain 1 (1 pound) can of pitted dark sweet cherries, reserving syrup to serve over prepared vanilla pudding at a later meal. Arrange cherries around cheese.

Top cheese with 1/2 cup of mayonnaise thinned with 1 teaspoon of lemon juice. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons of pecan halves over mayonnaise. Serves 4.

Can You Name Kinds of Corn?

Corn meal is made by grinding cleaned white or yellow corn, a fineness specified by federal standards. Corn meal contains small amounts of fat and crude fiber and not more than 15 percent moisture.

Corn grits are names for the food prepared by grinding and sifting whole grain hominy from which the bran and the germ have been removed. It is more coarsely ground than corn meal.

Hominy is corn with the hull and green removed, left whole, or broken into particles. Pearl hominy is whole grain hominy with the hulls removed by machinery. Lye hominy is whole grain hominy with the hulls removed by soaking in water. Granulated hominy is a ground form of hominy. Hominy grits are broken grains.

Marketing Agent, Josephine Sawyer.

Food packaging is essential to modern food products and their distribution. Self-service, time saving, energy-saving shipping is provided by convenient food packaging.

Greater variety and convenience in food products is made possible through packaging, and in many instances food costs have been lowered through use of packaging.

Convenience is the keynote in food packaging and one package may be selected over another because it offers greater convenience. Consumers want food packages that are easy to grasp, carry, handle, open and close.

Consumers want food packages which fit the storage available within the product goes into the cupboard, refrigerator, or freezer. Sometimes shoppers select a package because it has reuse possibilities. If it does not, then the shopper wants a package that is easily disposed of.

While convenience is the important characteristic consumers expect in food packaging, packagers and food firms have other important criteria.

A package must contain and protect the food product from the time it leaves the farm until it is ready for the consumer's table. Naturally, the package must be strong enough to withstand handling through the food distribution system.

SILENT SALESMEN

The best food packages are distinctive and easily identified for they must act as "silent salesmen" where shoppers serve themselves. Cost is important to packagers, so they also judge package design by whether it is economical to develop, produce, fill, transport, store and display.

New developments in materials, techniques and machinery will bring rapid changes in food packaging.

Eggs Prefer Tender Care

Why do eggs spoil so fast? The answer is that if eggs are stored on the shelf of the door of the refrigerator, the constant slamming of the door breaks the tissue of the yolk and stirs it up.

As a matter of fact the egg is not spoiled; it is still fresh and edible. A strong odor is the only way to determine if the egg is spoiled.

In other words, store eggs in the refrigerator — not on the shelf of the door.

Processes such as laminating, bonding, and other techniques will be used in making food packages. Use of several materials in one package will increase.

New printing processes will make possible new color and design on all types of smooth or rough textured packaging materials. Consumers will find many improvements in glass containers.

ers of the future. Look for thinner, stronger glass containers in many new colors.

More food packages will be designed to go to the table. For example, peanut butter, cocktail olives and pickles will be packed in such containers. More produce will be sold in molded trays with overwraps of shrink film. This method will protect quality and reduce waste.

Increased use of non-returnable containers is predicted.

Food leaders say that food aerosols will be much improved in the near future. These predictions assure consumers of still better, more convenient food packaging in the years ahead.

'Time Limit' Issue Deadlocks Presidential Disability Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hopes were improved today for a break in the deadlock between House and Senate over a proposed constitutional amendment dealing with presidential disability.

The leaders of the House and Senate committees trying to work out a compromise were reported in agreement, but there is still the matter of getting the other conferees to agree.

The issue that is threatening to kill an amendment that both the Senate and House passed overwhelmingly, is a time limit the House imposed on Congress to decide who is president when a vice president challenges the right of a once-disabled president to resume office.

The House said 10 days was enough, after which the president would automatically get his job back if Congress had still not acted.

PRIZES CUSTOM

The Senate, which prizes its custom of unlimited debate, fixed no time limit. But it said Congress should proceed immediately to consider the vice president's challenge. In both bills, it would require a two-thirds vote to uphold the challenge.

Two meetings between the conference committees left the dispute unresolved, with prospects for agreement so dim no new meetings were scheduled.

But the American Bar Association, which has been pushing for such an amendment for years, refused to give up. Its efforts produced an informal meeting Wednesday between Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, and Sen. Birch E. Bayh, D-Ind., chairman of the Senate subcommittee that wrote the bill.

They are reported to have agreed on a 21-day limit for congressional action.

SEE PROBLEM

Bayh's House colleagues are believed ready to go along with the change, but Bayh could have a problem bringing his fellow conferees around.

Bayh is reported to have told Bayh 21 days is as far as he will go, and that no other meetings will be scheduled unless Bayh can swing the other senators around to the time limit.

Romantic Septuagenarians

CHICAGO (AP)—A 75-year-old grandfather and a 74-year-old great-grandmother who began a romance by mail three years ago will be married Saturday.

Jack Matranga, a Sacramento, Calif., grocer, and Felicia Cuccia of Chicago obtained a marriage license yesterday. Matranga said he has been romancing Mrs. Cuccia, a widow for three years by mail. He said she accepted his proposal of marriage by mail three weeks ago. Mrs. Cuccia said she has known Matranga, a widower, since their childhood days in a village near Palermo, Sicily.

Matranga has a daughter, two sons and nine grandchildren. Mrs. Cuccia has six children, 14 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Causes Hotly Debated

Washington Crime Rate Is Skyrocketing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Purveyors of burglar alarms, chain locks and tear gas pens are doing a brisk business in the nation's capital.

Apartments houses are locking their doors at night, and some have installed closed-circuit television to monitor all entrances.

Kennels report a tendency for customers to pass up cocker spaniels and other amiable breeds in favor of large, surly dogs.

Behind all of these trends is growing apprehension on the part of many Washington residents.

Long accustomed to being unsafe on the streets at night, they are now beginning to feel insecure in their own homes.

MASS HYSTERIA

Their anxiety is not a product of mass hysteria. It is abundantly warranted by sober police statistics.

Crime rates have been rising in many cities. But nowhere have they gone up so spectacularly as here, in the federal city which is supposed to set an example of civic progress for the whole country.

In a letter to Police Chief John B. Layton last week, D. C. Transit System President O. Roy Chalk asked that a special 250-man police squad be created to protect his bus drivers and their passengers from hoodlums.

Crimes of violence on buses have increased drastically in the last year, Chalk said, and acts of vandalism have cost the transit system "hundreds of thousands of dollars."

During the past seven years, the population of the District of Columbia has increased 5 per cent. The number of crimes committed annually has increased 137 per cent.

The average increase in crime in cities of comparable size was 45 per cent during the same period. Thus Washington's crime rate went up three times as fast as the average.

Some white residents are disposed to link the skyrocketing crime rate to the race problem. Police statistics show that 85 per cent of the felony arrests involve Negroes.

They also show that about 85 per cent of the victims of crime — the people who are raped, robbed or mugged — are Negroes.

CITY SLUMS

Recent studies, however, undercut the notion that the crime wave is a Negro problem of the inner city slums. The predominantly white Maryland and Virginia suburbs have experienced an even sharper rise in crime than the District of Columbia.

According to figures compiled by the Washington Evening Star this month, the suburban crime rate has gone up 160 per cent in the past 7 years.

What's wrong with Washington?

No subject — not even Vietnam — is more hotly debated here. Some lay the blame on Congress; others say it's the fault of the courts.

Remarkably, almost no one accused the police. There seems to be general agreement that Washington's 3,000-man police department is one of the least corrupt and most efficient in the world.

The Senate District of Columbia Committee is seeking authorization to conduct a $200,000 investigation of its own.

Members of the Senate committee, including Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Wayne Morse, D-Ore., are among the proponents of the thesis that Congress is mainly responsible for Washington's deplorable crime rate.

Kennedy charges that Congress has been stingy with funds for the District of Columbia, particularly for schools, recreational facilities and programs to combat poverty in the teeming inner-city slums which are the breeding grounds of crime.

FINANCIAL STARVATION

"I think if you came in and said, 'This is why crime is increasing . . . that is what we can do about it,' then Congress would have to put up or shut up," the former attorney general told the commissioners.

Morse believes the high crime rate is directly related to the "financial starvation" which Congress has inflicted on district public schools since their enrollment became predominantly Negro.

Of 184 schools in the city, only 31 now have counselors. Many of the schools are rat-infested buildings more than 50 years old. Budget requests for new buildings and additional teachers are invariably slashed by Congress.

The other viewpoint is represented by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., chairman of the committee which handles appropriations for the District of Columbia.

HANDCUFFED

"The courts have absolutely handcuffed the policemen here," says Byrd.

This view is shared by many others, including Police Chief John B. Layton.

They point out that Washington's crime rate had been going down steadily for several years prior to June 1957. In that month, the Supreme Court threw out the confession of a man named Andrew Mallory because of a delay between his arrest as a rape suspect and his arraignment before a magistrate.

Lower federal courts have interpreted the "Mallory Rule" in a way that virtually prohibits police from questioning a suspect unless or until he is formally arraigned and charged with a crime. Recently, the court of appeals threw out a conviction because a suspect had been questioned for five minutes prior to arraignment.

Although the Mallory Rule applies to all federal courts, its impact on law enforcement has been particularly noticeable here because this is the only city where such crimes as robbery and murder are tried in federal courts. Elsewhere they're tried under state laws and court procedures.

Legislation is now pending in Congress to modify the Mallory Rule and set reasonable limits for police interrogation.

Those who blame the courts for hobbling law enforcement here also point to what they regard as great leniency in dealing with juvenile criminals.

MURDERED CABBIE

This leniency was typified, they say, by the sentence imposed recently on a 15-year-old boy who on a dare brutally murdered a taxi driver, the father of four children. The Juvenile Court sent the boy to reform school for six years.

Within the past fiscal year, 10 murders were committed here by youths who could not be tried in adult courts.

President Johnson recently asked Congress for an "emergency" appropriation of $1.8 million to add 235 policemen and 36 scout cars before hot weather sets in. Summer is always the worst season for crime.

By Rejected Negro Space Trainee

Air Force Called 'Lily White'

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times today quoted Negro Capt. Edward J. Dwight Jr. as saying the Air Force was "petrified" about racial equality, and that Negroes' opportunities in the service were therefore stringently limited.

A Los Angeles story in the Times said the test pilot also made a charge of a "lily white" tradition in the Air Force Wednesday in a telephone interview from China Lake Naval Air Station near Los Angeles.

The Pentagon said Wednesday that Dwight, 31, the only Negro to get through the Air Force Space Pilot School, was recommended for astronaut training but the civilian space agency for that program did not select him.

The issue arose from an article in the June issue of Ebony magazine, a monthly devoted to Negro affairs. The article said Dwight apparently had been dropped from the space program because of a letter he wrote to the Defense Department charging "racial pressure" against him at the Air Force aerospace school.

NO QUARREL

The Times story said in part: Dwight said he had no quarrel with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for not selecting him as an astronaut. "I respect their decision," he said. "My objections relate entirely to the Air Force."

"The Air Force is petrified about civil rights," Dwight said. "You say 'civil rights' and anybody in authority starts backpedaling. A commander hesitates to take a stand one way or the other. He feels that he'd be ridiculed either way."

He said "the Air Force is a haven for equality up to a point." But beyond that, he continued, discriminatory treatment is involved in both social and professional matters. He declined to discuss instances.

Dwight said he had undergone "a great mental strain" from experiencing discrimination at the aerospace research pilot school at Edwards Air Force Base in California. He ascribed the strain to a continuing "lily white" tradition in the Air Force. He said he had felt handicapped by racial discrimination before and since attending the school.

ACCURATE REFLECTION

Dwight said he had not seen the Ebony article but, as far as he had been able to learn, it reflected his views accurately.

The Pentagon statement, made in response to inquiries about the Ebony magazine article, said that while Dwight was at the school he was "accorded the same rights, privileges and treatment as the other students."

The Defense Department said the Air Force recommended 26 students for astronaut training and only 7 got in.

Dwight, who is stationed at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio, is at China Lake Naval Air Station for a few days of temporary duty.

The nation's railroads hauled some 650 billion ton-miles of revenue freight in 1964, according to the Assn. of American Railroads.

AP Photos

QUESTIONED ABOUT TRAINING — Air Force Capt. Edward Dwight Jr., 31, talks with newsmen yesterday at the Naval Ordnance Test Station, China Lake, Calif., about being turned down for astronaut training after having been on the original list of basically qualified candidates.

Key Senator Backs Birth Control Bills

LANSING (AP)—Two controversial birth control bills should come to the Senate floor for debate and will have his support, the chairman of the Senate Health and Welfare Committee declared Wednesday.

Sen. Michael O'Brien, D-Detroit, added that two birth control workers told his committee Wednesday the two bills are unnecessary. O'Brien also said most of the hundreds of letters he has received oppose the measures.

"But I think they should have a full airing and we ought to try them out for a while," he said.

Opposition to the bills comes from both those who think they are too restrictive and those who think birth control is none of the state's business.

COMPROMISE

The bills, sponsored by Rep. William Ryan, D-Detroit, were the product of a compromise in the House of Representatives.

They provide that birth control information and devices may be provided to female welfare recipients upon the request of the recipient. "Departments of social welfare would be required to notify welfare recipients both in writing and orally that such materials and information are available, the bill states.

Policy already adopted by the State Social Welfare Department permits caseworkers to initiate birth control discussion in certain situations and to provide information and materials.

The State Health Department urged in December that such assistance be made available to all those who request it and that the state pay for birth control devices for needy recipients.

Dr. Ralph Tenhave, research associate at the University of Michigan School of Public Health, told O'Brien's committee that technicalities of the Ryan bills discriminate against the poor and "might through unnecessary red tape and delays endanger the health and even the lives of some mothers and children."

Mrs. John O'Brien, secretary of the Midwest Regional Council of Planned Parenthood, said the bills would make more difficult the giving of birth control information to welfare recipients.

Commission Registers Ford Share Offering

NEW YORK (AP)—Ford Motor Co. Wednesday registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission a previously announced secondary offering of six million shares of common stock held by the Ford Foundation. The stock is to be offered publicly about the week of June 21.

Shriver May Face a Choice on Two Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sargent Shriver would have to throw one of his hats away if the Senate has its way.

The late President John F. Kennedy's brother-in-law wears two in the Johnson administration: director of the Peace Corps and director of what President Johnson calls his "war on poverty."

Wednesday in passing a $115-million Peace Corps authorization, the Senate attached an amendment saying the director

"shall hold no other federal office of equivalent rank."

The amendment could be knocked out later along the legislative road, but if it stands Shriver would have to choose between his two jobs.

RECOMMENDATION

It is known that he has recommended to Johnson a successor as Peace Corps director. He has replied to inquiries about his dual assignment by saying he does the best he can and serves as the president's discretion.

A millionaire, Shriver draws his Peace Corps salary — $28,500 — but not the $30,000 salary authorized for director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The Senate acted late Wednesday at a sparsely attended session just before the legislative road.

The amendment was offered by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and accepted by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., floor manager for the bill. It was adopted by voice vote.

Javits, who describes himself as a strong admirer of Shriver, declared: "As a public servant, Mr. Shriver is one of the best." But, the New Yorker said, he should be given full time to perform in one post or the other.

Shriver was questioned about holding two jobs at a hearing by the foreign relations committee April 26. He said he was able to do both by use of a personal "hot line" telephone communications system which enables him to talk to top aides in either office by "pressing a button."

Shriver was not available for comment on Wednesday's Senate vote.

Inflicts Pane on Customers Who Don't Pay

LOUISVILLE (U) — One contractor has figured out a way to handle customers who order a fireplace for the home and are slow to pay.

He installs a pane of glass which blocks the flue of the chimney.

When the home owner complains that the fireplace smokes, the contractor tells him it will work fine when it's paid for.

Upon payment, he drops a brick down the chimney, clears away the broken glass, and everyone's happy.

In all situations when your partner has not limited his hand, the jump to game cannot be a stop bid. At the same time, it cannot be a very strong slam invitation.

South has only 11 high card points but Jacoby suits it such that he can play his even though his partner is void.

Once South jumps to four hearts, North has no problem about getting to six. He checks for aces because it is possible that South holds something like seven hearts to the king-queen-jack-ten and the king-queen-jack of diamonds.

Why doesn't North try for seven after South shows two aces? Because North knows that South would have made a stronger rebid than four hearts if he had held solid hearts and a side ace.

What form has taken? South

Burke Marshall, 42, head of the U.S. Justice Department's civil rights division from 1961 until last January, has been appointed vice president and general counsel of International Business Machines Corp.

IBM said yesterday in New York that Marshall had rejected last February an offer from Yale University to serve as dean of its law school. He is a Yale law graduate.

Marshall has rejoined his Washington law firm since leaving the Justice Department.

Hedy Lamarr Sheds Sixth Husband

Actress Hedy Lamarr, 50, has been granted a divorce from her sixth husband, Lewis W. Boies Jr., 44, an attorney she married March 4, 1963. He did not contest the action.

In granting the divorce yesterday in Los Angeles Superior Court, Judge Roger Alton Pfaff approved a property settlement under which Boies is to pay Miss Lamarr half his gross income for two years, or a minimum of $1,250 monthly for the period. Miss Lamarr also is to receive half interest in a company that manufactures massage machines.

Miss Lamarr testified that her marriage to Boies caused her to lose $500,000 and 20 pounds in weight. She said Boies had once threatened her with a baseball bat and, on another occasion, threw a table at her.

O'Brien Says Waterway Bill Reported Out

LANSING (AP) — A bill to strengthen the Inland Lakes and Streams Act has been reported out of the Senate Conservation Committee with a favorable recommendation for passage, Sen. Carl O'Brien, D-Pontiac, committee chairman, said Wednesday.

O'Brien said the committee approved the bill without dissent but made one amendment which would protect the rights of private property owners under the legislation.

"This bill is needed to prevent the ever-increasing abuses connected with the dredging and filling of our lakes and streams," O'Brien said.

Stricter regulation to control such activities would be given to the Conservation Department under the bill.

Start Planning for NATO Quiz

Interviews Lined Up for House Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans said today they have a man in Paris lining up interviews in which a GOP task force plans to delve into the troubles besetting the Atlantic alliance.

And the State Department is helping, too, said Rep. Paul Findley of Illinois, chairman of the four-man team to be head for France on June 11.

But the Republicans aren't looking for an appointment with Charles de Gaulle, Findley said. He said the French president normally would see only another head of state.

"We don't qualify," Findley said in an interview, "and it wouldn't be proper for us to try to intrude."

ACTS AS CONSULTANT

He said Robert Strauss-Hupe, director of the Foreign Policy Research Institute at the University of Pennsylvania, is making advance arrangements as a consultant to the task force.

Findley quoted George S. Vest, State Department officer in charge of NATO political affairs, as saying he was delighted at the Republican plan.

The House Republican Conference ordered the fact-finding mission Wednesday. It will foot the bill, Findley said. The conference declared "the growing rift" between France and the United States is endangering the NATO alliance.

The Republicans said they will talk with French officials, including members of the National Assembly, with American and Allied personnel at NATO headquarters, and with scholars.

"It will be a fact-finding, not a fault-finding mission — and will remain there until its members are convinced they understand the attitude of French and other officials toward NATO and NATO in the alliance," Findley said.

Splits Mark GOP Policy Talks

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans hunting a formula to vitalize their minority role are running into difficulties in pinpointing issues on which to oppose President Johnson.

GOP members of Congress made it apparent in a barrage of announcements Wednesday that they have wide differences of opinion among themselves on major international and domestic problems.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen illustrated this cleavage when he was informed that a group of four House Republicans would go to Paris June 11 to inquire into the strained relations between the United States and de Gaulle's France.

"Are you kidding?" Dirksen asked reporters. "After all, we do have a State Department and we have a president who is supposed to conduct our foreign affairs." He added that such a delegation could cause an international incident if a member talked out of turn at an overseas news conference.

Dirksen was asked how he reconciled a statement by the GOP Policy Coordinating Committee that the Democratic administration "has yet to develop an adequate military program to counter the problem of Communist aggression in South Vietnam" with general party support for the course Johnson is taking there.

"There is nothing else to support at this point," he replied.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, House minority leader, disclosed that the policy coordinating group — made up of Senate and House leaders, governors, former presidential nominees and members of the national committee — had tossed back to congressional Republicans the hot-potato issue of state laws banning the union shop.

Republicans are split over Johnson's request for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, provision which permits states to ban the union shop. Under a union shop contract negotiated by a union and an employer, all employees covered by the contract must join the union.

The Senate leader said the coordinating group hadn't acted on a 12-page task force report which generally endorsed a House GOP substitute for the administration's voting rights bill.

Republicans are of several minds about the course Johnson is following in the Dominican Republic, although their leaders have supported the President's intervention there. Significantly, perhaps, Dirksen said this issue was not raised at all within the coordinating committee.

Eaton Valve Division to Merge Production

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Eaton Manufacturing Co. Valve Division said Wednesday it will phase out operations of its plant at Lawton and incorporate its activity at the plant here. The Lawton plant employs approximately 500 persons. Division General Manager C. Carleton Swanson said its employees are being offered the opportunity to transfer to Battle Creek.

Egyptian Peasants Resist Change in Primitive Way of Life, Government Discovers

By ROY ESSOVAN
CAIRO (AP) — The Egyptian fellah-peasant—wants to live the way his ancestors have lived for thousands of years—with his farm animals in a dank, unsanitary mud hut.

This is the gist of an official government survey ordered by President Gamal Abdel Nasser and recently released here.

The survey gives the impression that Nasser's socialist revolution, launched 12 years ago, has made little dent on the ways or wants of the fellah, who makes up 80 per cent of this country's 28 million population. Hardly anyone was surprised to learn the fellah still is down-trodden in Egypt. The evidence is all around you. But the city-bred social welfare experts who conducted the survey were non-plused at the attitude of the fellah himself.

PEASANT ATTITUDE

The fellah, they reported, doesn't want running water, or windows to lighten his gloomy mud hut. He doesn't want to be separated from the farm animals with which he sleeps. And he doesn't particularly want to own the land he tills.

He doesn't want running water, for fear it will undermine and collapse his mud hut. He regards windows as an invasion of privacy. And he doesn't trust his neighbor sufficiently to let his prize bullock sleep unprotected outside.

What really threw the experts, the report said, was "the low priority the fellah placed on ownership of the land, the basic essence of their lives."

One of the declared aims of the revolutions was to give land to the landless. Vast holdings of wealthy landowners were confiscated and divided among the fellahin, and no one was permitted to own more than 100 acres.

COULDN'T CARE

But the fellahin — according to the survey — apparently couldn't have cared less.

Husband Killer Dies in Hospital

Death Occurs on 10th Anniversary in Prison

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Husband-poisoner Nannie Doss, 60, died in University Hospital here yesterday of leukemia — on the 10th anniversary of her life in prison.

Mrs. Doss was sentenced to life in prison on June 2, 1955, for the murder of her fifth husband, Samuel L. Doss — and one of four she admitted feeding lethal doses of rat poison.

She was brought to University Hospital from the state penitentiary at McAlester last May 29 and died shortly after midnight.

Mrs. Doss was sentenced by District Judge Elmer Adams who said in Tulsa at the time it would be "poor precedent" to make her the first woman sentenced to death in Oklahoma.

Murder charges had been filed against her in Kansas, North Carolina and Alabama.

RAT POISON

Doss, a 58-year-old Tulsan, died of an overdose of rat poison in October of 1955 and his wife was arrested about a month later.

She spent 90 days at Eastern Oklahoma Hospital for mental observation, then went through a sanity trial before entering a surprise guilty plea in district court.

The colorful Nannie received the life sentence verdict in character. Asked how she felt about it, she laughingly replied: "Just like I've always."

Funds Will Aid 14 Injured in Tornado

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — The $650,000 remainder in Chesterfield Township's tornado disaster fund will be used to pay continuing medical expenses for 14 persons injured in last year's twister, it was learned Wednesday.

The five-member committee administering the fund said the 14 included two persons who require plastic surgery and two suffering extensive brain damage.

The tornado swept along the west shore of Anchor Bay killing 13 persons, injuring more than 600 and damaging scores of houses.

In practice, he wound up with one or two acres for his family, too small a plot to operate economically. And ownership of the land brought problems he didn't have before, the headaches of financing and the purchase of seed, agricultural equipment and other supplies from regional cooperatives bogged down in red tape.

A government questionnaire submitted to representative groups of fellahin asked them to list their wants in the order of their importance. Ownership of the land placed a poor fifth. Health topped the list, followed by "self-sufficiency," extra funds and ownership of their homes.

Ninety-eight per cent of those questioned owned their own mud huts. Only 26 per cent owned the land they tilled.

Health also topped the list of government services the fellahin wanted. Electricity was a poor second, roads an even poorer third, and running water wasn't even in the running. Ninety-nine per cent of the mud huts of Egypt have no water or washing facilities.

The fellah's concern for health is understandable. His life expectancy is 34. He is riddled with disease from birth, his strength undermined by sickness and the bilharzia parasite which infests the River Nile and the canals and ditches from which he drinks and in which he washes.

Two years ago the government started building new villages and rebuilding old ones but the road ahead is long.

Twenty-two villages have been completed and the government estimates it will take 30 years and cost $500 million to rebuild the more than 4,000 other villages in Egypt.

The new villages have houses built of brick, with running water and electricity, and each village has a clinic, school, club and social center.

Long Hitters Favored as Buick Open Golf Tournament Starts

Nicklaus Posts 82 in Pro-Am at Warwick

Field of 144 Seeking $18,000 First Prize; Palmer on Hand

GRAND BLANC—Golf's long-hitting stars were installed as the favorites as a field of 144 teed off today in the first round of the $100,000 Buick Open.

Heading the list of long hitters is Masters' champion Jack Nicklaus, whose booming drives are well-suited to the 7,200-yard Warwick Hills layout, longest on the PGA tour.

But around to keep an eye on long-hitting Jack is Arnold Palmer, making his first appearance here since 1959.

Other contenders are defending champion Tony Lema, Mike Souchak, Billy Casper, and Detroit's Walter Burkemo, all capable of hitting the ball a long ways.

A steady rain soaked the course yesterday during the pro-am tournament, and the rain-soaked fairways could make it difficult for even some of the long hitters to reach a few of the greens with irons on second shots.

Players started teeing off at 8 a.m. today on the first and tenth tees, respectively.

HAND AILMENT

Among the first off the tee was U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi, who is playing despite a circulation ailment in his hands that hampers his play.

Venturi joined Al Johnston and Pete Cooper for the round.

Lema, who carded a 277 in winning last year was paired with Butch Baird and Richard Sikes.

Palmer, Ray Floyd and Burke had an early date on the 19th tee. The threesome of Burkemo, Gary Player and Doug Ford followed the Palmer group.

Nicklaus, Dow Finsterwald and Pete Brown started their round at 1:12.

At stake is the $18,000 first prize along with the use of a new Buick for the next five years.

Nicklaus toured the course yesterday in the pro-am in 82 strokes, 10 over par, and commented after the round that the course, "... is built for a long hitter, but it's not my kind of course."

"I don't know why," he continued, "but maybe the course is okay for me when my kind is right but it isn't now."

"I just can't guess what kind of score will win," Nicklaus said. "A lot depends on the weather. It's been wet and the wind makes a difference too."

The second round of the 72-hole tournament will be played tomorrow with the low 70 scorers moving into the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

TAKES PRO-AM

Lionel Hebert's four-man team captured the $2,500 pro-am yesterday with a score of 61.

Hebert carded a three-under-par 69, the best by any pro, and collected a check for $250 to go with $200 he won as captain of the winning team.

Palmer and Floyd turned in 71's, the only others to break par.

Mason Rudolph's team placed second with 62 strokes. Five teams—led by pros Fred Hawkins, Tommy Aaron, Palmer, Johnny Potts and Doug Sanders—tied for third with 63.

Ex-Teammates at Rites for Hockey Star Balfour

REGINA, Sask. (UPI)—The two surviving members of the Chicago Black Hawks million-dollar line attended the funeral service yesterday for Murray Balfour.

Balfour, 28, a former star wing in the National Hockey League, died Sunday of cancer. His center with the Hawks, Billy Hay, and the other wing, Bobby Hull, acted as pallbearers for Balfour at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in this prairie capital.

PNH '9' After Tourney Crown

Pontiac Northern must hurdle a comparatively new foe tonight for a shot at an old one and another fitting for the Pontiac Invitational High School Baseball Tournament crown.

The Huskies' semifinal clash with Royal Oak Kimball was postponed yesterday by wet grounds, and is set for 8 p.m. today at Jaycee Park.

Two years ago, PNH and Kimball's Knights clashed in the title contest and Northern found the crown didn't fit. The Royal Oak team won, 4-0, for the first of its two straight titles.

That was the third win in a string of eight straight tournament victories for Kimball during a three-year period.

Only first-year champion Northville has defeated the Knights in the four tournaments sponsored by The Press and the city Parks and Recreation Department.

PLAYED AGAIN

PNH and the Knights has met once since their clash two years ago. That was two weeks ago at Royal Oak during the regular season and the host team handed the Huskies a 13-3 beating.

The Northern fortunes were in the midst of a three-game tailspin at that time and indications are PNH will give the Knights a stiff battle this evening.

Should PNH finally end Kimball's streak, the Huskies then would play Southfield, an old Inter-Lakes rival, in the title tilt Friday night. The Blue Jays eliminated Walled Lake, 7-3, in the other semifinal game.

Southfield pulled out of the 11 League last spring and joined the Southeastern Michigan Association, as did Kimball. The two tied for third place in this year's baseball race.

PNH is the Inter-Lakes League champion while Walled Lake finished runner-up. The Huskies now are the sole hope for bringing the tournament title to the northern portion of the county for the first time.

Tonight's battle is expected to pair the Huskies' 6-4 junior Larry Frye against junior Bob Wlodek of the Knights.

Oakland A Track Duel

Avondale's Yellow Jackets will share the favorite's role with defending champion Warren Fitzgerald when the Oakland A League track meet gets under way tonight on the Fitzgerald track.

Preliminaries start at 6 and semifinals are slated for 7. Finals start at 8.

Avondale, Oakland County County Class B champ, wound up with a 6-1 dual record for the season, the lone loss coming at the hands of Fitzgerald, 55-53.

Seat of the Crime

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Mrs. Martha Greer, 40, today pleaded guilty to shoplifting $30 worth of merchandise while being pushed in a wheelchair through a department store. The chair pusher was not held.

ANGEL SURPRISED — Washington first baseman Joe Cunningham gets set to put the tag on Los Angeles Angels' Jose Cardenal who was caught off base by pitcher Phil Ortega in the first game of double-header last night in Los Angeles. Senators won both, 13-0, and 7-1.

'Young' Golfer Seniors' Titlist

Salesman, 55, Wins on First Attempt

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — Fred Brand, Jr. of Pittsburgh, 55, a baby in the seniors ranks, won the Seniors Golf Association Championship on his first try.

The 260-pound, 6-foot-5 insurance man won the title Wednesday with a final round 35-38-73 for a 148 total in the 36-hole tournament over the par 72 courses at the Westchester Country Club and the Apawamis Club.

Brand, who qualified for the competition at the minimum age, finished two strokes ahead of William Terrell of Charlotte, N.C.

There was a three-way tie for third at 151 among J. Wolcott Brown, the defending champion from Sea Girt, N.J., Leon Sikes, Sr. of Palm Beach, Fla., and George Haggarty of Detroit.

Rider Turcotte Faces Belmont Stakes Test

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Belmont Stakes is the severest test of a jockey on the Triple Crown circuit and Ron Turcotte knows it.

"Winning the Belmont will be an important step in my career," said the 23-year-old jockey Wednesday.

Turcotte will ride favored Tom Rolfe Saturday in the $125,000-added classic at Aqueduct. "It will enhance my reputation and I will get more stakes mounts."

Frank Whiteley, trainer of Tom Rolfe, emphasized the role of the jockey in the mile and one half Belmont, the longest test in the Triple Crown.

"The jockey probably plays a more important role in the Belmont than in any other race," Whiteley said. "A good sense of pace is essential."

Turcotte is confident Tom Rolfe will repeat his Preakness triumph Saturday, even though many observers feel strong-finisher Dapper Dan, who was runnerup in both the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby, may be best at the distance.

DAPPER DAN

"I think Tom Rolfe has the ability to go a mile and a half no matter what they say about Dapper Dan," Turcotte said.

"Barring any bad racing luck we should make it."

A poll taken by officials at Aqueduct race track showed Tom Rolfe as a probable 65 choice with Dapper Dan rated 75.

A trio of outsiders, Seclari, La Cima and First Family, whose status is not yet certain, are all evenly rated at 20-1.

Three From U-M on All-Big Ten

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan picked off three positions and Ohio State, Michigan State and Wisconsin two each Wednesday on the All-Big Ten Baseball Team announced by conference coaches.

League batting champion Carl Cmejrek of Michigan, who hit .453, and Ohio State pitcher Steve Arlin, who was 6-0 with 88 strikeouts, headed the 10-man team.

The selections:
1B—Arnie Chomko, Ohio State, .368.
2B—Joe Romano, Wisconsin, .400.
3B—John Binkbeach, Michigan State, .344.
LF—Mickey Moore, Iowa, .416.
CF—Dick Schryer, Michigan, .363.
RF—Carl Cmejrek, Michigan, .453.
C—Ted Stenstrom, Michigan, .326.
P—Steve Arlin, Ohio State, 6-0.
P—Lance Tobert, Wisconsin, 3-2.
Chomko, Romano and Tobert are the only seniors. Walker, Binkbeach, Moore and Stenstrom are juniors, the others sophomores.

Tigers Meeting Syracuse Nine

Clash With Yankees Washed Out

SYRACUSE (AP) — Weather permitting, the Detroit Tigers hope to get in some practice here today against the Syracuse farm hands of the International League.

Rain washed out a scheduled game with the Yankees in New York Wednesday night. It was rescheduled as part of a two-night doubleheader there July 27.

LIKES TO RACE

Clark again refused to speculate on whether he would be back next year. He won $166,621 for winning Monday but said "money isn't everything. I got into racing because I liked it."

Colin Chapman, designer and builder of the rear-engine Lotus car Clark drove to victory, said he couldn't see any speed limit at Indianapolis and thought speed would increase on an average of three miles an hour per year "for some time."

Asked about next year, Chapman said, "I don't know. I wouldn't come back without Jimmy. We've got to sit down and think it over. If we do come back, it would be with a new car with a lot of new features."

Team Tryouts Slated

The Pontiac Boys Club Class D baseball team will hold tryouts Saturday at 2 p.m. at Jaycee Park. All boys 18 years of age or under are invited to try out.

Dew Point Equals Win for Hurler

By The Associated Press

Don Drysdale's dew point is higher than his winning percentage — but not much higher.

St. Louis humidity wilted the Los Angeles Dodgers' premier right-hander after six innings Wednesday night but didn't stop him from becoming the winningest pitcher in the majors as the National League leaders cuffed the Cardinals 4-1.

Reliever Ron Perranoski

nailed down Drysdale's ninth victory in 12 decisions with a scoreless three-inning stint after the Dodgers starter tired in 79 per cent humidity at Busch Stadium. The triumph, which launched a 14-game road trip for the Dodgers, boosted their league lead to four games — the biggest margin they've had this season.

Cincinnati moved into second place, three percentage points ahead of San Francisco, by trimming Houston 5-2 in a game called after six innings because of rain. The rest of the schedule — New York at Chicago, San Francisco at Milwaukee and Philadelphia at Pittsburgh — was washed out.

THIRD STRAIGHT

Drysdale allowed five of the nine St. Louis hits, picking up his third straight victory and 150th since he broke in with the then-Brooklyn Dodgers in 1956. His nine victories this season top the Cardinals' Bob Gibson and Cincinnati's Sammy Ellis, the winner Wednesday night against Houston, by one.

Perranoski, unscored upon in his last five appearances — spanning 91-3 innings, fanned the side in the seventh after yielding a leadoff double to Mike Shannon. A double play helped him out of a ninth inning jam, when the Cardinals bunched their last three hits but failed to score.

Wally Moon and John Roseboro paced the Los Angeles attack with their first homers of the season and Moon drove in another run with a single. Maury Wills stole two bases, bringing his league-leading total to 32. Tommy Harper's three-run double and homers by Gordy Coleman and Johnny Edwards gave Ellis all the help he needed in the rain-shortened Astros-Reds game.

The Astros, playing without injured regulars Jim Wynn, Lee Maye and Eddie Kasko, clipped Ellis, 8-2, for two runs in the fourth. The first one scored on Pete Rose's throwing error, the other on Bob Lillis' single.

500 Victor Could Have Gone Faster

DETROIT (UPI) — If he had been pushed, victorious Jimmy Clark says he could have averaged 153 or 154 miles an hour in Monday's Indianapolis 500 Mile race.

Clark, here for a dinner sponsored by Ford Motor Co., whose engine powered him to victory, talked modestly of his winning record speed of 150.686.

"We ran the last part at lower speeds," he said. "If we had been pushed, we could have gone quite a bit faster. The average could have been up three or four miles an hour."

The 29-year-old Scotsman caused off the throttle when defending champion A. J. Foyt dropped out with engine trouble and another former winner, Parnelli Jones, was more than a lap behind in second place.

Clark had praise for both those drivers and said either could win on the European Grand Prix road racing circuit.

"I have no doubt at all" they could win, he said.

As for himself, Clark said he finds European style road racing more challenging than the closed circuit Indianapolis race around a uniform 2½-mile track.

He said it was "much more challenging to be able to come out top" in the 10 Grand Prix races for the world driving championship than to win the single Indianapolis 500.

Clark again refused to speculate on whether he would be back next year. He won $166,621 for winning Monday but said "money isn't everything. I got into racing because I liked it."

Colin Chapman, designer and builder of the rear-engine Lotus car Clark drove to victory, said he couldn't see any speed limit at Indianapolis and thought speed would increase on an average of three miles an hour per year "for some time."

Asked about next year, Chapman said, "I don't know. I wouldn't come back without Jimmy. We've got to sit down and think it over. If we do come back, it would be with a new car with a lot of new features."

A National League veteran

Amateur Track Groups Facing a New Crisis

NEW YORK (AP) — A spokesman for the Amateur Athletic Union said Wednesday that if the National Collegiate Athletic Association boycotts the AAU National Track and Field Championships at San Diego June 26-27, the AAU will "go it alone" in the dual meet with Russia in Kiev July 31.

The spokesman was referring to the warning Tuesday from Everett D. Barnes, president of the NCAA, that if college athletes compete in the AAU championships, their institutions would violate the NCAA by-laws and face penalties.

The first two finishers in each event in the AAU championships will be named as the U.S. team to oppose the Soviet Union.
"Actually, we could field a strong team even without the college fellows," the AAU spokesman said. "We hope they will be with us. But the meet is scheduled, and the international rules are clear. If a boy doesn't earn the right in San Diego, he just can't make the team."

to .302, putting him among the league's Top Ten hitters.

Headed for possibly the best season in his six-year career, the 6-foot-7, 250-pound outfielder can attribute his terrific pace partly to five pounds of lead he carried around with him during spring training.

Howard, the biggest name in a seven-player deal between the Senators and the Los Angeles Dodgers last winter, reported to the Washington camp nearly 20 pounds overweight.

To combat this problem, Howard wore a 2½-pound weight in both shoe not only in practice but in exhibition games as well.

"The guys tell me I should wear them in practice and take them off for the exhibition games," Howard said at the time. "But I don't see it that way. My main concern is to get in shape. I think that's more important than looking good in exhibition games. I won't take the weights off until opening day."

BEST YEAR

The slugger's best year in the majors was in 1962 when he batted .296, slammed 31 homers and drove in 119 runs. At his present rate, he should surpass that record. He certainly should finish ahead of his 1964 performance of .226, 24 homers and 69 RBI.

In other AL games, Minnesota defeated Boston 6-3 and Baltimore trimmed Kansas City 6-4.
Rain washed out Detroit at New York and Chicago at Cleveland.

Howard slammed two homers and a double for four RBI in the first game while Joe Cunniffham drove in five runs with three hits, including a homer, all in support of Phil Ortega's five-hitter.

Howard's three singles in the nightcap increased his average against the Angels to .458 in six games. Ken Mullen slammed a two-run homer in the first inning and added two singles as Bennie Daniels and Ron Kline combined for a six-hitter.

STRONG RELIEF

Jim Perry turned in a brilliant relief stint for Minnesota, relieving starter Jim Grant with two on and one out in the second inning and allowing only one Boston baserunner, on an error, until Lenny Green singled with two out in the seventh. The Twins' Harmon Killebrew and Jimmie Hall each smashed a two-run homer.

Baltimore overcame a 3-0
Kansas City lead on Curt Blefary's two-run double and a two-run homer by Norm Siebern in the sixth inning. Dick Haller.

pitched the final four innings for the Orioles, limiting the Athletics to two hits, one of them
Dick Green's ninth-inning home run.

No Sorceress, Angel in Pirates' Outfield

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Are there angels in the Pirates' outfield? Or a sorceress in their locker room?

"Naw," said Manager Harry Walker. "Nothing like that. But somebody came over the other day and let me rub his rabbit's foot."

Rabbit's foot, elixir or magic spell—not to mention the classic ingredients for winning baseball, good hitting and pitching — gained the Pirates the season's longest winning streak, 12 straight going into tonight's game with the New York Mets.

The spurt moved the Pirates out of the National League cellar to seventh place and comparative respectability.

Although the Bucs had been getting excellent pitching during the first month of the season, their hitters were producing less than three runs a game. Walker went to work. He brought Don Clendenon, Bob Bailey and Willie Stargell to the ball park for some private instructions.

His credentials were legitimate. The results were too. Clendenon shot his average to .340 with 27 runs batted in. Stargell started hitting homers and now has 10 with 23 RBI's.

Bailey, who started the year with a bang but dropped, almost out of sight, was moved into the leadoff position and increased his average to .255.

But the turning point was the return to activity of Bill Mazeroski and the recovery of Roberto Clemente, who was the majors' top batter last year.

Clemente had an assortment of injuries during the off-season and reached a low point when he contracted malaria. He just brought his average over the .300 mark.

Mazeroski broke a bone in his foot in spring training. Since he returned to action the middle of last month the Pirates have been nearly invincible. In 14 games he had a .316 average and 12 RBI's.

Walker agreed the two veterans' performances have helped immeasurably, but he was quick to point out the Pirates' recent success was a team effort.

"This is like an automobile," he said. "Let one of the pistons go bad and you're in trouble."

Minnesota hunters in one season killed a record number of 1,561,963 ringneck pheasants. Alabama had a 10-0 football season in 1930.

Pacers Ready in Track Duel

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — The harness race of the century unfolds here tonight when Speedy Scot and Ayres meet head to head for the first time in a gilt-edged field in the sixth renewal of the Marquis de Lafayette $25,000 invitational at Brandywine Raceway.

The two, co-holders of the world's record of 1:56.4, have beaten everything else in sight except each other, and one of them must lose in tonight's twice-around-the-half-mile track.

They head a star-studded field which includes Big John, which topped Ayres last week in what was the first start of the year for the Charlotte N. Sheppard horse, and Sumac Lad, the 11-year-old winner of $828,000 who took the Marquis in its first three runnings.

Speedy County, Express Rodney and Sprite Kid round out the seven horse field, a collection of horses which has won a staggering $2,414,896 over the years.

Speedy Scot was rated 8 to 5 and Ayres 2 to 1 in a race which sees them start from the outside.

FROM PAVEMENTS TO POLITICS — Michael J. Lombardi, a Cambridge, Mass., patrolman, is sworn in by Gov. John A. Volpe as a new member of the house of representatives. At right, patrolman Lombardi has a cup of coffee before reporting for duty. He is reading a letter from his chief who denied him a leave of absence after he won a special election to fill a legislative vacancy. Patrolman Lombardi says he doesn't believe in moonlighting but in fairness to constituents has no alternative.

Two Face Narcotic Charges

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The granddaughter of a millionaire midwestern industrialist and a young writer today faced charges of having a part in an interstate narcotics ring which supplied marijuana to college students.

Freed yesterday on $10,000 bond was Susan Ryerson, 22, a private school teacher and granddaughter of Edward L. Ryerson, former chairman of Inland Steel Co., a civic leader and head of a prominent Chicago family.

Also arrested in her apartment here Tuesday was Peter de Lissoy, 22, a writer and former civil rights worker who was arrested several times in 1963 during racial disorders in Georgia.

Both were charged with possession of marijuana and aiding and abetting the use of narcotics. Police said a valise was found in the apartment containing high grade marijuana, several hundred seeds from the plant, and cigarette papers.

Arraignment was set for June 9.

SMELLED EVIDENCE

Rochester Detective Capt. James Cavolet said postal authorities in North Carolina discovered mail bearing a Rochester return address and they "smelled the freshness" of a narcotic.

He said an investigation was being conducted in several states, including Massachusetts, Georgia and North Carolina.

Police said the recipients of the narcotics were usually "college groups."

Miss Ryerson was a seventh and eighth grade teacher at the exclusive Harley School here since September. A graduate of Radcliffe College in Cambridge, Mass., she was also a civil rights worker and took part in Mississippi activities in 1963.

"She must have been duped into this somehow," said her grandfather, Edward L. Ryerson in Chicago. "Bamboozled is the only word I can think of." "Something about this doesn't sound right," said de Lissoy's father, Igor, a designer for a Chicago printing firm. "I've never kept anything from us. This is a shocking surprise."

Town Says Calls Hurt Its 'Image'

TULLAHOMA, Tenn. (AP)—Directors of the Tullahoma Chamber of Commerce have protested to Southern Bell Telephone Co. because the city's person-to-person long distance calls go through nearby Shelbyville.

"The directors are unhappy because of what happens when a Tullahoma caller can't get his party in the distant city and must leave word."

The operator says, "Call operator so-and-so in Shelbyville and ask for Tullahoma."

Industrialist Charles Folk says that makes Tullahoma "look like a very small town way out in the sticks" to someone a long way off.

"We should combat the effect which is developing to make Tullahoma a suburb of Shelbyville," Folk said.

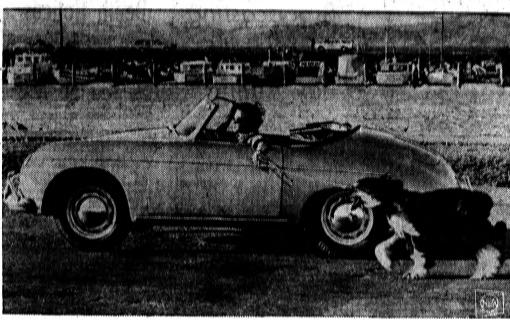

MOVED OPERATORS

It all started when Southern Bell moved the operators and switchboard to Shelbyville, where their functions were centralized with the advent of direct distance dialing in the lower Middle Tennessee area last February.

RIDE TO THE HOUNDS—Sandra Terzian of San Francisco believes that to be a champion show dog her Afghan hound needs road work. While she feels Taishan requires a one to

LBJ Asks Congress to Cut Amount of Silver in Coins

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson asked Congress today to eliminate silver from dimes and quarters and to reduce the silver content of half dollars by more than one-half.

New dimes and quarters would be three-layer "sandwich" of copper and nickel. Except for a dark ring around the edge, they would look very much like the 5-cent and 25-cent pieces currently in use.

The new half dollars would also be three-layered—but would be all but indistinguishable from present 50-cent pieces.

In a special message to Congress, the President made no mention of any possible change in coin denominations.

The reason for cutting back on silver content of coins is that the Treasury is running out of silver.

Zoning Request Is Approved by City Planners

The City Planning Commission last night voted 4-2 to recommend commercial rezoning for property next to Economy Welding & Fabricating Co., 815 Auburn.

However, city planners did impose conditions on their rezoning. They said that no building can be built within 20 feet of residential property and that a 6-foot fence must be erected between the commercial and residential property.

Voicing in favor of the rezoning were F. Keith Hills, Robert C. Irwin, Robert Norberg, and William J. Winters. Voting against the measure were Basil Brown and Dennis W. Loughhead.

Final approval of the rezoning rests with the City Commission.

Clear Southfield Mayor in Probe of Expenditures

Southfield Mayor S. James Clarkson has been cleared in an investigation of the expenditures he made while campaigning for reelection in March.

Following an investigation by assistant prosecutor Patrick H. Oliver, Oakland County prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson ruled Clarkson's expenditures did not exceed their statutory limit.

Still to be reviewed are complaints alleging that Clarkson's unsuccessful opponent, Clarence A. Durbin, did not file correct statements and that the Republican party participated in the nonpartisan election.

State Pays Fruit Bounty.

It's been printed that there is a bounty of $5 an acre on up to 10 acres each year up to five years for planting fruit trees in South Dakota.

The Board of County Commissioners pays the bounty on apple, pear, plum, apricot, cherry, or black walnut trees.

A minimum of 50 fruit trees must be planted to the acre and the trees must be planted not farther than 30 feet apart.

'Russians Stalling on Cambodia'

LONDON (AP)—The British government warned today that chances of an international conference on Cambodia are being jeopardized by the Soviet Union's failure to join in convening the talks.

Such a parley, said a government white paper, has been supported in principle by all the proposed participants including the Cambodians, Red China and Communist North Viet Nam.

Britain, the United States and other pro-Western countries agreed to take part in the nine-power talks to guarantee the neutrality and territory of Cambodia.

They had hoped that the high-level meeting would provide an opportunity for informal exchanges on the sidelines to set a basis for a Vietnamese peace settlement.

RUSSIAN PLAN

The British government document, presented to Parliament, recalled that the Russians on April 3 formally proposed joint Soviet-British action to convene a meeting in Geneva on the Cambodian question.

After they had "exerted themselves to obtain the concurrence of other interested governments," the document said, the British accepted the Soviet proposal on April 26.

The Soviet Union again has been called upon by Britain to join in convening the meeting. The two countries are co-chairmen of the peace-keeping machine created by the Geneva conference on Indochina and in that role share the responsibility for arranging any new conferences.

Moscow's failure to act on the question is regarded by British officials as a sign of Russian embarrassment. As they see it the Soviets would like to help convene the meeting but are fearful of being portrayed by the Chinese Communists as appeasers of the West and as betrayers of their North Vietnamese comrades.

Seeks Retrial 32 Years After Triple Slaying

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—After spending 32 years in prison for the murder of a mother and her two young children, 74-year-old Henry D. Bedford was fighting for his freedom again today.

Bedford, a school principal here at the time of his original arrest, pleaded guilty to the 1933 strangulation slayings of Mrs. Maggie Sue Bengert, 28, and her 7-year-old son. A young child was found suffocated in an oven.

Within 24 hours of his guilty plea, Bedford was on his way to Marquette Prison to begin a life term. He was granted a new trial April 24 on grounds that the original proceedings failed to provide him the right to legal counsel.

Appearing in Police Court during the first day of Bedford's examination Wednesday was Rev. Carl L. Bengert, 65, of Pompano Beach, Fla., husband and father of the victims.

Bengert identified Bedford as the man who had been living with the Bengert family at the time of the triple slaying.

Deadlocked Jury Ends Trio's Trial

The prosecution of three young Detroiters charged with kidnapping and assault with a knife in murder ended in a mistrial yesterday as a result of a deadlocked jury in Oakland County Circuit Court.

David Huntley, 16; Jeffrey Houghton, 18, and Clarence Swiden, 19, were accused of murdering Helene Treznick, 25, of Huntington Woods, into their car and then dumping her out while being chased at high speed by police last Oct. 31.

Circuit Judge Clark Adams dismissed the jury after it reported itself unable to agree on a verdict.

The proportionate cost of home medications to total medical costs declined from 15 per cent in 1929 to 5 per cent in 1962.

Jury to Get Slaying Case

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A jury of seven men and five women was expected to begin deliberations today on whether wealthy Timothy Nicholson, 22, murdered his twin brother, Todd.

The jury was expected to receive the case after defense attorney Max Fink concludes his summation and Superior Court Judge H. Burton Noble issues his instructions.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Joseph Carr finished his summation yesterday and Fink began his.

Fink denied Carr's charge that the bespectacled defendant was a "confessed and intentional liar" and accused the prosecutor of "conjuring up evil" as though the five-week-old trial involved medieval witchcraft.

The prosecution claimed Timothy deliberately shot Todd with a .22-caliber rifle last Dec. 7 in the twins' $400,000 apartment building in Temple City.

CLAIMS ACCIDENT

Timothy claimed the shooting was accidental during an argument.

The twins related distantly to the Pullman railroad and Cudahy meat packing families inherited $1 million between them from their father. It was estimated that Todd was worth $1 million at the time of his death.

Oh, Baby, That Was a Mistake (No Kidding)

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UPI)—Deck workers unloading a cargo vessel pilfered and consumed several cartons of what they thought were vitamin tablets.

Authorities later revealed that what the men had swallowed were contraceptive pills shipped here from London.

8 Inches off Legs

A Short Cut to Beauty

HYDE, England (AP)—The girl who was shrunk by surgery steps nervously back into the world today.

At 5 feet 11 inches, Anne Rowston still is tall. But eight months and four operations ago she was 6 feet 7 — and couldn't find a boyfriend to match.

Anne, 19, was cut down to size by removal of four inches of bone from each leg above the knee and 3 inches below.

She will be on crutches for a month or two. But the newspaper stories about her friends have brought scores of pen pals to the girl who never had a date before.

TALL FRIEND

A special one is Bill Dicker, 23, a Londoner who is 6 feet 5 himself.

"His letters were a special comfort," said Anne. "He'll be my first date."

Anne learned to draw and paint while in Gower Hospital — the only hospital in Britain with a full-time art tutor — Donald Foster. She hopes to make a living illustrating books and designing Christmas cards.

Annual Bluegrass Declared a Weed

Annual bluegrass has been officially declared a weed in New York and elsewhere.

In early spring this short-lived species, resplendent in new foliage, looks much like the aristocratic perennial Kentucky bluegrass. Both have broad, shaped leaf tips typical of bluegrass.

However, that annual bluegrass does not spread underground, and very soon throws a lot of short straw seedheads that are quite unsightly. When hot weather comes most plants die.

It has been said that most gardeners could produce twice as much in half the space if they would give their plants sufficient fertilizer.

Directions as to quantity to use on the package. Read them.

There are 70,000 different kinds of soil in the United States.

Change From Series
Patty Only Has 1 Role in Film
By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Patty Duke is making her first movie since her Academy Award triumph in "The Miracle Worker," and it's even more strenuous.
As Helen Keller in the film that won her the Oscar as best supporting actress of 1962, she had some knock-out battles with her fellow Oscar winner, Anne Bancroft.
Now young Patty is here for her first Hollywood film. Adapted from the play "Time Out for Ginger," it is now called "Billie." In it, Patty runs the 100-yard dash and hurdles, pole vaults, dances the frug and sings four numbers.
When I saw Patty in her dressing room at Paramount, she was suffering from understandable fatigue — "I think it was the hurdles that did it." But she remained as cheerful as ever. "Billie" should be a breeze for her; she plays only one role.
DOUBLE ROLE
For two seasons, she has been playing a double role on a television series entitled "The Patty Duke Show."
"In fact," she remarked, "this year I played a third role: the girls' Southern cousin. That was real fun. I put on a platinum wig and used a Southern accent and played her entirely different from the other two girls. We even had a split-screen scene with all three of us at the same time. That was something. The scene was so tight that I couldn't move my elbows."
Billie is much different from all three of the television roles, she explained. She'll look different, too; her hair is now in a very blonde Beechdeebob.
The film is being produced by her television boss, Peter Lawford, for United Artists and marks the beginning of the Californiaization of Patty. Her television show was filmed here two years ago, but work laws for miners proved too stringent for a young actress who had to play dual roles. The series shifted to New York.
MOVE TO COAST
Now Patty is 18 and glad of it. Since she is out of the clutches of the welfare workers, Lawford and other production minds have decided to shoot the series in Hollywood.
How does she feel about the move?
Mickey Hargitay
Recovering From Knife Wounds
ROME (AP) — Mickey Hargitay, the muscular ex-husband of actress Jayne Mansfield, is reported recovering in a private clinic from superficial knife wounds inflicted by an intruder.
His secretary-said the Hungarian-born Hargitay was attacked early Tuesday while sleeping in the bedroom of his Rome apartment. She said Hargitay went unassisted to a clinic. The clinic said he was in good condition.
The secretary said Hargitay could give no clues to the identity or motive of his attacker. He is finishing work on an Italian picture titled "Lo Sceriffo Non Spara" ("The Sheriff Doesn't Shoot").

Air Force Launches
ICBM in California
VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The Air Force launched an Atlas D Intercontinental Ballistic Missile (ICBM) early today down the Pacific missile test range.
In a brief announcement, the Air Force said the launch "was made in support of the U. S. Army's Nike-Zeus antimissile missile program." The Air Force did not say whether the launch was successful.

'Must Alter Research Imbalance'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Weston E. Vivian, D-Mich., said today the federal government should correct soon an imbalance it has created in allotment of billions of dollars annually in research and development contracts.

Otherwise, he told a Senate Labor subcommittee, "we may sire a number of 'technological Appalachians' in this country."

The $15 billion the federal government spends on research and development, Vivian said, is more than 75 per cent of all research and development expenditures.

"It is obvious, therefore," he said, "that these funds will have great impact on our industrial future, the future of the worker as well as of the businessman."

1963 FIGURES

Vivian said that in 1963 the nation's east north-central region, which includes Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, received $6.8 per capita in federal R&D money, while the Pacific, mountain and New England regions received $181, $115 and $108 respectively.

One half of the 50 states, Vivian said, received 96.8 per cent of all federal R&D funds while the other 25 states split the remaining 3.2 per cent.

His testimony came on the second day of a week of hearings by the subcommittee, presided over by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., who said federal spending for research and development has increased from $74 million in 1940 to $15 billion in 1964.

Newspapermen Fine Type, Says Lovely Wife of One

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Beautiful Pamela Tiffin thinks she's lucky that she married a newspaperman. "The trouble is they work so hard," lovely Pamela said with a slight frown, "and so LONG!" Pamela, a movie star at 22, married 25 years to Clay Felker of the New York Herald Tribune, told me, "His life isn't his, it's the newspaper's."

"Usually," she added, "he works at the paper real late. Well, a couple of times I've gone up there—and I found those men really are at the paper working. Once when I went up there he wasn't there, and I thought 'Aha!'"

"He had gone home and was wondering where I was."

Newspapermen's wives, she feels, should form sort of a Lonely Hearts Club. Still, it's wonderful being married to a newspaperman, she said, because you meet such interesting newspapermen. Pamela feels that women could learn a lot if they would tell us brilliant newspapermen talk at cocktail parties.

"But women want to do all the talking," Pamela complained. "We had a brilliant party with some famous men there. The women took over. They all want to put their 2c in, and mostly their 2c isn't worth it."

"Women should calm down a little and remember that it's still a man's world. We still live by men's minds and men's morals. I suppose I forgot that myself," she admitted.

"I want my husband to shelter me—but two hours later I want to say what I think!"

Pamela (if I forget to say her husband works for a morning paper) said that due to her movie-making and his late hours, "I spent a lot of nights alone last year."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

The first US unit leaves June 4 to entertain GIs in Santo Domingo (carrying Roy Acuff—and can Roy Acuff be far behind?). Co-stars Samantha Eggar and Terence Stamp of "The Collector" are feuding, refused a joint tour with the film. Robert Goulet, still being kidded for goofing the lyrics of the national anthem at the Clay-Liston fight, told a friend, "Well, tell everybody I'm a Canadian!"

Bobby Darin played the organ, and Leonard Bernstein frugged with Sybil Burton at the "Knack" party at the Arthur discolleque. . . . Gene Kelly was asked to be a judge at the Moscov Film Festival. . . . Pretty Stella Stevens of "Syanon" is a songwriter, too, but won't sing her tunes.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Betty Clavin discussed a very romantic couple: "They won't even argue, except by candlelight." EARL'S PEARLS: The Clay-Liston affair indicated boxing is good for home TV—it's not a violent sport. "M Is For Monster," a book of morder jokes (which may follow the elephant joke fad), has this one: "What is a monster's normal eyesight?" . . . "It's 20-20-20." . . . That's earl, brother. by THOMAS HORWITZ
The largest prize fight took place in the Olympic Club in New Orleans, April 1961, between Andy Bowen and Jack Burke. The contest lasted 110 rounds. 7 hours. The referee, Jack Duffy, stopped the fight in the 110 round and declared it "no contest" and the purse was later divided between the contestants.

OU Pavilion Seats Aim of Kresge Gift

The Kresge Foundation has given $50,000 to the Meadow Brook Festival committee for permanent seating in the Howard C. Baldwin Memorial Pavilion at Oakland University.

The Kresge grant is expected to provide 2,138 permanent seats made of a special plastic material highly resistant to extreme temperatures and weather conditions.

They will replace folding chairs used in the festival's initial year last summer.

The festival opens July 3 with Stetson Earling, Detroit Symphony conductor, directing 15 of the concerts.

Robert Shaw, noted associate conductor of the Cleveland Orchestra, will take over the podium for the concerts of July 29, 30 and 31.

More than 5,000 of the 6,414 season tickets to the six-weeks concert series have been sold. Season tickets in the Pavilion and for grounds admission are available at the Festival office at OU.

House-Passed Excise Tax Cut Goes to Senate

OK'd by 401-6 Vote; Upper Chamber Gets Set for Fast Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's excise tax cut roared through the House by a 401-6 vote and the Senate doesn't plan to stand in its way.

In fact the Senate is clearing the track for the bill that would lower prices on autos, air conditioners, cameras, watches and a lot of other items.

The Finance Committee is putting aside the health care bill to take up the excise bill beginning Tuesday. Only one witness will be called, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler.

The committee members agreed informally to keep the excise legislation winging along by not trying to add extraneous amendments.

For instance, Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., wanted to attach a provision to allow tax credits on the cost of college education. But the proposal is controversial and he said he will hold back.

Assistant Democratic Leader Russell B. Long of Louisiana said he hopes the Senate can pass the bill by the middle of this month.

ADDITIONAL CUTS

The House cleared the bill yesterday after adding about $900 million in cuts to those Johnson proposed. The House used only about two of the four hours allotted for debate on the measure.

The additional $900-million cut comes from complete elimination of the 10 per cent levy on automobiles over a four-year period. Johnson had proposed only cutting it to 5 per cent.

The total first-year revenue reduction would amount to only about $1.75 billion as Johnson proposed but with the additional five points coming off automobiles, the eventual annual cut would run around $4.8 billion.

First to come off, effective July 1, would be the levies of 10 per cent at retail on furs, jewelry, luggage and toilet articles, the first three percentage points of the auto cut, and the taxes, mostly 10 per cent at the manufacturer's level, on appliances, cameras, business machines, radios, phonographs, television sets, and most sporting goods.

At the end of the calendar year, theater and other admission taxes would be eliminated along with those on club dues, auto parts, and sales of stocks and real estate.

The auto levy would come down one point more and the telephone tax of 10 per cent would drop three points, first stage of a gradual elimination to be completed by Jan. 1, 1969.

Senators, like House members, have been declaiming for years against the excises, which date from the depression, World War II or the Korean War.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A go-ahead, for astronaut Edward White to leave the Gemini 4 capsule and fly free in space was given today by Dr. Charles A. Berry, the astronauts' physician.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II soared into orbit today to start one of man's most exciting adventures — an intended four-day flight during which White planned to emerge into the emptiness of space near another orbiting satellite.

The marathon flight could be one of the most spectacular and significant in the space age and give the United States a lead in the next phase of the race to the moon.

As the giant Titan 2 booster rocket drilled the Gemini 4 spacecraft on the start of its lengthy ride, McDivitt reported to Mission Control Center: "It looks great up here."

Minutes later, the 7,600-pound spacecraft was in an orbit ranging from 100 to 175 miles above the earth. This was precisely the orbital path intended.

The target satellite for White's planned excursion into space was the burned-out second stage of the rocket. The stage followed a few hundred feet behind the capsule in orbit.

McDivitt, as command pilot, twisted the bell-shaped spaceship around 180 degrees to take a look at the booster stage and to align the capsule in formation with it.

He radioed that the stage, the size of a house trailer, looked pretty and that it was tumbling.

Near the end of the second orbit — about 1:17 p.m., EST — McDivitt was to maneuver Gemini 4 to within 25 feet of the stage.

Then, in a page out of science fiction, White planned to open his hatch and leave the spacecraft, using a "space gun propulsion unit" to maneuver close to the target.

TO TAKE PHOTOGRAPH

He was to photograph it and other space objects.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had said before the flight that White might even attempt to touch the second stage if it were not tumbling too severely.

After floating in the black space void for 12 minutes on the end of a 25-foot golden lifeline, White was to return to the craft.

Variable Millage Is Likely to Get House Group OK

Developments in Lansing yesterday indicated that school districts will be allowed to levy variable millage even if this requires exceeding the legal limit of 15 mills.

Oakland County school districts had estimated a loss of $1 million next year if variable millage—a uniform levy in each district at the tax rate of each district's main municipality—was not allowed.

Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, chairman of the House Taxation Committee, said yesterday that his committee has been assured by the State Tax Commission it will issue no blanket prohibition against a school district levying a uniform tax even though a portion of the district is in a township where the uniform rate would push taxation over the legal 15-mill limit.

Montgomery said the committee expects to report out favorably a bill by Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, which would allow the uniform variable levy.

Preliminary tax rates set by the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board last month ranged from below 15 mills in some areas to 15.14 mills in others. This total combines the allocation to county government, school systems and townships.

The allocation board was scheduled to set final rates last Thursday but delayed this action to the June 7 deadline pending a review of the county budget and legislative developments.

Dr. William J. Emerson, superintendent of Oakland Schools and a member of the tax allocation board, said that the status of legislation Monday will determine the action of the allocation board in setting final rates.

More Rain Expected to Dampen Area

Rain, rain, rain — just what we wanted. The weatherman said cloudy and warmer with occasional showers or thunder-showers is the prediction for tomorrow.

Temperatures will be a little on the cool side tonight, the low falling into the 50s. Tomorrow's high will be a balmy 68 to 75.

Cloudy and warmer with scattered showers is the forecast for Saturday.

A breezy 45 was the low thermometer reading prior to 8 a.m. today. The mercury had climbed to 67 by 1 p.m.

Mrs. White had her alarm set for 5:30 a.m. but awoke earlier, had a glass of orange juice and then made a big pot of coffee for the newsmen surrounding her home. The coffee was served on a card table outside the house.

Mrs. White and her children, Edward III, 11, and Bonnie Lynn, 9, watched the Cape Kennedy lift-off on television at their El Lago home.

Wife's Last Words to White: Have Fun!

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — "Have fun," Mrs. Edward H. White calmly told her space-bound husband about 7 a.m., today as he reclined in the Gemini 4 capsule in Florida ready to be blasted off.

Both she and Mrs. James A. McDivitt had awakened before dawn to receive final prelaunch telephone calls from their astronaut husbands at Cape Kennedy and then go through a big day in their lives.

After the five-minute phone chats, the women quickly returned to watching the countdown on their television sets. The astronauts did most of the talking.

As the bright Texas sun broke over suburban Houston, Mrs. McDivitt and her three children had slipped out of their modern brick home to attend a special 5:30 a.m. Mass, at nearby St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church.

"The Mass was offered especially for Mrs. McDivitt so she could attend before the flight," said Rev. George Beck. "Normally we don't have a weekday Mass that early."

The McDivitts were the only worshippers at the special Mass. NO CHURCH

The Mass was held in a temporary chapel in the priest's home because the Clear Lake community does not yet have a parish church.

Mrs. White had her alarm set for 5:30 a.m. but awoke earlier, had a glass of orange juice and then made a big pot of coffee for the newsmen surrounding her home. The coffee was served on a card table outside the house.

Mrs. White and her children, Edward III, 11, and Bonnie Lynn, 9, watched the Cape Kennedy lift-off on television at their El Lago home.

LBj Watches Lift-Off Intently

Report of Problem Brings Slight Frown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Solemnly, silently, intently, President Johnson watched on television today the first 10 minutes of the Gemini 4 space flight.

A television camera was set up near the television receiver before which Johnson sat in the White House Fish Room. This is a reception room just across the hall from his oval office.

For the most part, the President kept his eyes on the screen. Now and then he looked up.

He frowned a bit at word from Cape Kennedy that "we're having some transmission difficulties from the spacecraft. The transmissions are intermittent."

About five minutes after the launch, the President pulled a paper from the inside of his coat, glanced at it, and put it back.

IN ARMCHAIR

The President came out of his office 1 minute, 13 seconds before the launch and sat down in an armchair about four feet from the television.

Mental Health Chief Named

A 45-year-old psychiatrist was named today to the post of psychiatrist-director of the Oakland County Community Mental Service Board.

Beginning duties in Oakland County July 19 at an annual salary of $27,500 will be Dr. Robert E. Walden, presently superintendent of a West Virginia hospital.

Paul N. Averill, board chairman, said that dozens of applicants were considered for the new post before the board selected Dr. Walden.

He will be responsible for the administration of the county's stepped-up mental health services program which now includes the recently opened psychiatric outpatient clinic at Pontiac General Hospital.

Last December, Oakland County became the first area in Michigan to gain state approval for a large scale mental health services program.

The State Department of Mental Health approved a $307,105 budget for 1965.

The state appropriated half this amount, or $153,552, and the Oakland County Board of Supervisors appropriated the other half last October.

Dr. Walden, who is married and has five children, presently is superintendent of Lakin State Hospital in Lakin, W. Va.

A native of Boston, he received a medical degree in 1945 at Maharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn., after service in the Army.

MEDICAL OFFICER
Later, he served in the Air Force and was base psychiatrist in Wichita, Kan., and senior medical officer of the Armed Forces Training Station at Ft. Wayne in Detroit.

Dr. Walden took his residency in psychiatry from 1957 to 1960 at the Brockton and Boston Veterans Hospitals in Massachusetts.

He was a psychiatrist for two years at the Veterans Affairs Hospital before taking the Lakin post.

Negro Deputy Slain; White Man Held

BOGALUSA, La. (AP) — A Negro deputy sheriff was killed and another wounded when gunfire from a pickup truck riddled their patrol car on a lonely road near this racially tense mill town last night.

An hour later the town marshal at Tyngton, Miss., who heard of the shooting by police radio, stopped a 1954 pickup truck with a Confederate flag tag on its front bumper.

The truck's white occupant, Ernie R. McDivitt, 41, possessed two pistols — one of which officers said had been recently fired.

Louisiana authorities booked McDivitt, 6 foot 1, a papermill employee, on charges of murder. He refused to waive extradition.

Federal and state authorities, convinced that several persons were involved in the shooting of to maneuver about 16 miles away from the orbiting booster. Then, during the fifth orbit, he was to try again to rendezvous with the satellite, possibly approaching to within 10 feet.

No exit was planned during this maneuver.

Both the ability to rendezvous and to operate outside an orbiting spacecraft are techniques which must be perfected for later flight to the moon.

The dramatic journey of the Gemini 4 started at 10:16 a.m. (Pontiac time), when the mighty Titan 2 thundered off its Cape Kennedy launching stand and propelled the craft into its precise orbit.

LONGEST SCHEDULE

It was the start of America's longest attempted manned flight yet — an endurance mission scheduled to end about 12:36 p.m. EST, next Monday after 82 circuits of the globe in 97 hours, 50 minutes.

The launching was delayed 1 hour, 18 minutes because of a balky launch pad service tower that would not fold down from the rocket due to an electrical malfunction.

School Board to View Plans for Buildings

Waterford Township Board of Education members tonight will review preliminary architectural plans for two proposed new elementary schools and an elementary addition.

The proposed construction will be financed from a bond issue approved two years ago at the polls.

New schools are planned on Bird and VanZandt streets and an eight-room addition is proposed for the Riverside School.

In other action tonight, the board will consider a resolution passed last month by the Waterford Township Board calling for sidewalk overpasses to promote greater walking safety for school children.

The township board proposal resulted from a study suggested a year ago by the school board on the feasibility of installing sidewalks throughout the township as a safety measure.

ALTERNATE PROPOSAL

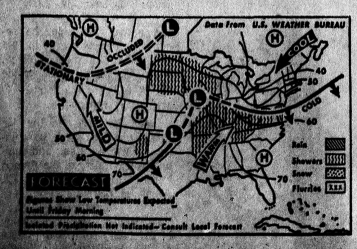

It offered the alternate proposal of the overpasses after deciding that the sidewalk cost would be prohibitive.

Also tonight, the board will hear a curriculum report on computer education by Nicholas Menghini, director of the data processing program.

Astronaut to Walk in Fascinating World

AP Science Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla.—Cold and black, the empty reaches of space offer no real notion of distance — save for the numberless stars. The sun, like the heart of the flame from a welder's torch, glazes with a blinding, searing white light.

Closer is the lonely quarter-moon, soft and small.

This is the strange new world of Edward Higgins White II, American astronaut, age 35, father of two children, a would-be human planet in orbit around the earth.

It is a world of fantastic dimension and unreal sensation. It is as if you had leaped into the air and never really came down again, lost in a perpetual fall around the earth.

GOLDEN TETHER

Ahead of the spacecraft on a golden tether, you plummet together at some 17,500 miles per hour — and yet you feel not so much as a breath of breeze — there is no air.

The sun stands out in the blackness as a great light bulb that seemingly spreads no light. It is only when the sun's rays strike a surface that the radiation is seen. There is no air to buffet and spread the light.

Below, you see the earth's blanket of air glowing with the sun's light, splitting the white light into the splatter of color as the world of men know it.

You feel the full brunt of the sun's radiation. You turn toward the sun and feel the immediate sting of heat at your face as the rays come streaming your way. And you are thankful, too, that the visor is filtered to protect your eyes from the cruel light.

COMMAND PILOT

Behind you — gleaming on its sun-side — is the spacecraft and your command pilot keeping a careful eye on your movements. And you know that the sun-side of the craft is hot, some 200 degrees Fahrenheit, and the shade side is perhaps 200 degrees below zero.

And that is probably also the temperature variation of your suit exterior if you merely stood here and didn't move.

The earth stretches out like some hazy plain — painted in browns and golds and purples almost like colors you hadn't seen before. And perhaps through the haze you see the long peninsula of Florida stretching into the blue Atlantic.

Civilians Install New Officers

The Civitan Club of Pontiac held its annual installation of officers last night at a dinner meeting at the Edgewood Country Club, Walled Lake.

Eldon Gardner Jr., 5660 Outer, Waterford Township, took office as the new president for the ensuing year.

Robert V. Reynolds, 111 N. Johnson, was named president-elect. He will take office a year from now.

Others installed as officers last night are Richard F. Benham, first vice president; Dr. Benjamin T. Brest, second vice president; Burt C. VanKoughnet, secretary; and William K. Martin, treasurer.

New members elected to the board of directors, who also took office last night were Arthur Warwick, Thomas E. Hunter, and Ray Kaluzynski.

Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson said today he will seek legislation to establish a morgue and the post of medical examiner in Oakland County.

Bronson said he is sending a copy of the proposed law to State Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, and three other legislators in hopes a bill might be introduced in the next legislative session.

Bloomfield Twp. Vote Slated

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A millage increase which would allow the township to improve its police and fire service and establish an extended road maintenance program will be in the hands of township property owners here Monday.

The proposition on Monday's special election ballot calls for the township's property tax levy to be boosted from the current 2 mills to 3 1/4 mills in 1965-66.

The levy then would be set at 3 mills for 1967 through 1978.

With the additional millage, the township would be able to take the police and fire department contingents up to the national average.

Officials also want to increase the amount of township money applied to Oakland County matching funds for the blacktopping of collector roads.

TO IMPROVE ROADS

Their aim is to improve 18 miles of roadway, at an approximate cost of $125,000 a year to the township. This is the most the township can spend and have matched by the county.

Designated for improvement are Square Lake from Opdyke to Adams, Eastways, Square Lake from Klingensmith to the western township boundary, Lone Pine, Wing Lake, and Walnut Lake, Kensington and Wabek.

In addition, the two-mile linker stretch between Bloomfield and West Bloomfield townships could be improved if each of the communities paid 25 per cent of the cost, Supervisor Homer Case said.

Three miles of 14 Mile could be improved.

To Air Boating Control Need

The need for local boating controls on Oakland County lakes will be considered tonight at a public hearing in the township auditorium.

Conducted by the Michigan Boating Control Committee, the 7 p.m. hearing will deal with ways of alleviating problems encountered on lakes in the county.

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors is seeking adoption of regulations that would prohibit the possession of alcoholic beverages by any person occupying a boat on a county lake.

The board also has asked that persons not be allowed to operate motorboats at a speed greater than swell or no wake one hour after sunset to an hour before sunrise.

Gaubatz Is Traded for Colt Halfback

The Detroit Lions traded linebacker Dennis Gaubatz to the Baltimore Colts this morning for halfback Joe Don Looney.

Gaubatz, a second year player in the National Football League, filled in as middle linebacker when Joe Schmidt was injured last season. Looney was used primarily on kickoff returns by the Colts and did the punting.

He averaged six yards rushing in 21 tries, including a 58-yard touchdown run against the Bears. The former Oklahoma halfback averaged 2.4 yards punting.

Death Toll Now 237 in Japan Mine Blast

TOKYO (AP) — The death toll in Tuesday's mine disaster at the Yamano coal mine in southern Japan totaled 237, police said today.

Rescuers recovered three bodies to raise the number of bodies to 235. Two more bodies still were entombed 2,000 feet underground in the pit that is flooded and blocked by cave-ins.

Space debris crashing at terrific speeds digs countless craters on the moon. Some craters are as big as Hudson Bay. Similar debris matter attacks the earth, but the atmosphere burns up all the largest particles, and water erodes away the gaping wounds.

Negro Deputy Is Slain in Dixie

FBI ASSISTANCE

FBI agents quickly joined in the probe.

Deputy O'Neal Moore, a leader in his Baptist church choir, was killed by a high-powered rifle bullet that ripped through his head. His partner, Deputy Creed Rogers, was struck in the shoulder by backshot.

The shooting sent a shiver of apprehension through this town in southeast Louisiana, about 60 miles north of New Orleans.

Boogaloo's racial difficulties began several months ago when Negroes began demanding equal job opportunities and desegregation of public facilities.

STORES PICKETED

They have picketed downtown stores almost daily and made several marches on the white columned city hall. These demonstrations have sparked sporadic street fights.

McElveen's arrest brought to 50 the number of persons arrested in connection with the racial strife here since last weekend.

An intensive search was started at dawn for evidence in the shooting. Twenty more state police arrested to reinforce the 30 already here.

"Those guns have got to be somewhere," said Sheriff Doran Crowe, a target of Ku Klux Klan wrath since he hired two Negro deputies a year ago this month to patrol Negro sectors.

City Committee on Youth to Hold Annual Dinner

The Pontiac Citizens Committee on Youth will present its third annual award dinner program, under the direction of Dr. Charles L. Bowers, youth president, at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Waldron Hotel.

Presenting five certificates of appreciation to Pontiac citizens for outstanding work with children and youth will be Mayor William H. Taylor Jr.

Dr. Dana Whitmer, superintendent for Pontiac School District, will speak on "Extending Educational Horizons to Our Youth."

Booms of '65, '29 Alike—and Different

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK—Could the 1929 crash happen again? Federal Reserve Chairman William McChesney Martin sees today's market as having "dissimilarities" with that of the 1920s.

But the Johnson administration holds that there's small likelihood of a repeat performance — if the Federal Reserve, business and labor all will cooperate with government in keeping the economy on a one-way street to prosperity.

This doctrine is called the new economics. It contends that the business cycle can be locked, or at least tamed, and that 1929 need never happen again.

The Martin revival of old memories sent shivers through U.S. stock markets Tuesday and the London stock market Wednesday.

Traders were alarmed that the smoldering dispute between administration economists and the money managers was coming out into the open.

They also were aware that it was just three years ago that the stock market had its worst crash since 1929. It revived and prices early this May were at record highs. The very height of these prices makes some observers dizzy.

Businessmen are more inclined to concentrate on the evidence of continuing strength of the four-year-old economic upswing. They stress the brakes on booms and the cushions for downturns that have been developed since the 1929 crash.

On the stock exchange, prices of British government bonds shot up, since with other interest rates bound to decline their fixed yields become more attractive to investors.

LOOK ALIKE

There are a number of things that make 1965 look like 1929. But even Martin concedes there are many differences, too.

The similarities: In both 1929 and 1965 government and business leaders were convinced that prosperity would last forever and that the business cycle was dead. This belief was entrenched in both instances by a long period of economic growth. In both years private debt was growing rapidly. In both years the money supply was expanding.

But 1965 is different from 1929 in many ways. Excesses of the stock market, of banking and credit are under close supervision now, while in 1929 the sky was the limit. Wages have kept pace with corporate profits. And there is now a vastly expanded middle class with higher income and impressive liquid assets — as well as debts.

Wholesale prices are fairly stable now, while in 1929 they were declining.

Business expansion of capacity now is being tailored much closer to consumer demands. Social Security, unemployment benefits, dozens of government projects insure against the disastrous drop in private income that the 1929 crash triggered.

And, as the 1929 stock market crash showed, generally prosperity isn't as closely tied to the market as it was in 1929. The stock market still has great psychological hold on the public. But the public now takes the ups and downs of the market without panicking.

The 1929 crash disturbed the public, but business itself allowed little spread from it. The 1929 crash in the market spread inevitably through the whole economy. It brought on the great depression and the moves to correct it.

These measures have expanded steadily the latest refinements on moderating the business and monetary ups and downs are dubbed the new economics.

English Bank Reduces Rate

Sets the Pattern for Sterling Bloc Interest

LONDON (AP)—The Bank of England rate, which sets the pattern for interest charges in the sterling bloc, was cut today from 7 to 6 percent.

The 7 percent rate had been in effect since Nov. 23, when the Labor government jumped it from 5 percent in an attempt to bolster the pound sterling by encouraging the investment of foreign funds in Britain.

However, the British government is armed with a new loan of $1.4 billion from the International Monetary Fund and seems confident that it can cope with any new pressure on the pound.

Said a Bank of England spokesman: "This reduction from the 7 percent rate still leaves the bank rate still high at 6 percent. It does not imply any relaxation of the restriction of credit."

GENERAL SQUEEZE
A general squeeze on credit was one of the terms of the agreement between the central banks of other Western nations in return for loans, including the one from the International Monetary Fund, to tide Britain over its monetary crisis.

Announcement of the bank rate cut was coupled with one from the government Board of Trade tightening installment buying terms.

The mandatory down payment on cars and motorcycles was raised from 20 to 25 percent of the purchase price, and on household goods from 10 to 15 percent.

On the stock exchange, prices of British government bonds shot up, since with other interest rates bound to decline their fixed yields become more attractive to investors.

In the foreign exchange market the spot rate for the pound sterling dropped from $2.79 and 5-16th to $2.78 and 1/2.

Two at Pontiac Are Promoted

Mall Merchant Is Elected to Retailers' Board

The promotion of David L. Fulkerson of 2945 Ogden Circle, Woodbury Township, as superintendent of the Pontiac Motor Division engine plant was announced today by John P. Blamy, Pontiac's general manufacturing manager.

Blamy also announced that Warren J. Henderson, of 1349 Woodbury, Waterford Township, has been named assistant engine plant superintendent, succeeding Fulkerson.

Both promotions are effective immediately.

Fulkerson joined Pontiac as an apprentice in 1943 and has held various supervisory positions prior to his most recent appointment.

GMC AHEAD
GMC Truck & Coach Division continues to hold its lead over last year to date.

Production last month was about 800 units ahead of the same month last year, bringing the total production for the year to 58,200 units. This compares with 51,143 units for the same period a year ago.

FULKERSON HENDERSON
Henderson, who had been general foreman of the engine plant since 1960, joined the Division in 1946 as a machine operator in the engine plant.

He was named foreman in 1963.

Last year's total passenger car production for the first five months was 2,186,475 compared with this year's 2,496,647.

Business Notes
Theodore D. O'Hearn, 100 Shirley, Birmingham, has been appointed to newly created position of vice president and director of account services for the Detroit office of McCann-Erickson, Inc.

O'Hearn joined McCann-Erickson in 1959 as an account executive on the GMC Truck & Coach Division account. He was made account director in 1963 and vice president and account supervisor last year.

Vigorous Trading

Stock Mart Rebounds Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rebounded in vigorous trading early today.

Gains of key stocks ran from fractions to well over a point. American Airlines ran up more than 3. Gains of 2 or better were made by IBM, Polaroid and Xerox.

General Motors also rose nearly 2, Chrysler and Ford a fraction.

The upswing prevailed in most major stock groupings, although rails and tobacco did little.

RESUMES REBOUND
The market was resuming a rebound which cut losses late in Wednesday's session. House passage of a measure to cut $4.8 billion annually in excise taxes was cited as a bullish factor.

Ahead a point or more were Goodrich, Zenith, Union Carbide, Westinghouse Electric, United Air Lines and Control Data.

News that Reynolds Tobacco will go ahead with its acquisition of Penick & Ford brought heavy buying to the latter. It was up 1/4 at 21 1/2 on blocks of 10,000, 20,000 and 30,000 shares.

Emerson Radio advanced 1/4 to 18 1/2 on a 20,000-share operation on word of the $18 a share tender offer for its stock from National Union Electric.

RECOVERED A POINT
SCM common recovered nearby a point and its convertible bonds was cited as a bullish factor.

Weyenberg Shoe was admitted to trading on the New York Stock Exchange and opened at 24 1/4, up 1/4 from its previous close on the American Stock Exchange.

Opening blocks included: Chrysler, up 1/4 at 48 1/2 on 12,000 shares; GM, up 1/4 at 102 1/2 on 12,000; and American Telephone, up 1/4 at 60 1/2 on 8,600.

Wednesday, the Associated Press Average of 60 stocks fell 2 1/2 to 59.1.

Prices rose on the American Stock Exchange.
