Many southern areas of Miami reported below freezing temperatures ranging from 24 to 28 degrees as ice blanketed the growing industries and outlying homes.

Freeze Tumbles Swank Hotel Rates

Florida Thaws Out Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Florida's third damaging cold spell of the winter season appeared ended today as temperatures climbed to around normal levels in most areas.

Meanwhile, plush vacation costs dropped within range of the average tourist as resort hotel operators scraped for business, made scarce by bad weather.

Three freezes, wind storms and torrential rains added up to the worst season for tourists within recollection of the Miami Weather Bureau. Business was off 20 per cent.

The bottom was reached early

SUNBATHERS RETURN

But by yesterday afternoon the sun was burning away the cold and wary sunbathers were trickling back to the water.

Swank hotels which formerly charged $50 a day per room and turned away takers have offered rates of $11 to $15 per person, sometimes including breakfast and dinner.

Hotels placed ads in Northern newspapers offering the rare low prices, with extras.

One promised that the hotel would pay for the wife's round trip by airplane if a couple would make a reservation for 10 days or longer.

The weather, which brings Florida a billion-dollar-a-year tourist business, is blamed almost exclusively for the slow-down. Few think the national business slump has very much to do with it.

Some, however, think the opening of swank gambling clubs in Havana, Cuba, only 200 miles south of here, is partly responsible.

However, there are indications already that the bargain vacation rates won't last much longer.

The state hotel commissioner, Richard Edgerton, said many hotels are booked solid for the remainder of February and March.

"Unless the bad weather continues, there will be terrific crowds through March and nobody believes the bad weather will continue," Edgerton said.

"Operation Sunshine," an advertising campaign designed to sell the north on the comfort of Florida's winter-time playground, will be unleashed as soon as the weather improves.

Horse Opera Continuing in Oakland Circuit Court

Sheriff Frank W. Irons still has a horse he doesn't want. And he will have custody of Dusky Diana until a continuing legal entanglement over the 10-year-old trotter is untwisted.

Dusky has been held by the Oakland County sheriff's department since Jan. 27.

When its owners Hoyt L. Wilson, 28, and William Young, 33, both of Detroit, got a writ of replevin in Circuit Court here to get their mare back.

They claim its trainer, Ben Simms of Northville, has been holding the horse illegally since July 26. Simms says the pair owe him more than $1,000 in stabling and feed bills.

While Dusky munches feed on the farm of a special sheriff's deputy in Bloomfield Township, Judge George B. Hartwick this afternoon listened to Wilson and Young's attorney argue that Dusky has "a special value."

The attorney, John McWilliams of Dearborn, has filed a petition of special value. This puts the case squarely in the lap of the judge. In the meantime, Dusky stays put.

Simms' attorney said he would make a motion to dismiss the writ and at the same time file suit against Irons that he has held the creature too long.

"Dusky should have been returned to my client after the plaintiff (Wilson and Young) failed to post a bond twice the value of the property 24 hours after seizure," said Robert B. Delaney of Plymouth.

"We're not interested in getting Dusky back," he added, "we want the money they owe us."

New Low in Thievery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two shot-gun-wielding men barged into a dairy products shop last night and grabbed $20 from the cash drawer, then they forced another customer, a 12-year-old boy, to hand over his possessions — two pints of ice cream and 31 cents.

Sun Clears Decks for Snow Flurries

For the Pontiac area, the U. S. Weather Bureau predicts tonight and tomorrow will be mostly cloudy and colder, with a few snow flurries likely.

The low tonight will be 22-26 degrees and the high tomorrow near 30.

The outlook for Saturday is partly cloudy and cold with a few snow flurries.

Heavy fog blanketed the area last night and this morning, but was cleared by morning sunshine.

The lowest recorded temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a. m. was 20. The reading at 2 p. m. was 29.

Tax Reductions on Downtown Real Estate Proposed

H. L. Blackwood, chairman of the Committee on Fair Taxation, has sent the following letter to a number of Pontiac officials, and it is being printed today as a public service.

The letter was directed to W. R. Ransom, Pontiac assessor; Walter K. Willman, city manager; members of the Board of Review and the City Commission. It reads:

"In a letter dated Feb. 18, 1957, the undersigned citizen and taxpayer brought to the attention of the governing officers of the City of Pontiac that the assessed values of commercial properties in the downtown area had not been adjusted downward commensurately with the decline in business volume and actual market value of said commercial properties, which had occurred, with increasing tempo, since the end of World War II; said decline having resulted from the development of shopping centers on the perimeter of the city; difficulties of parking in the downtown area; and an over-all expansion of retail outlets at a rate faster than population and purchasing power increased.

"W. R. Ransom, City Assessor, conceded in his letter of Feb. 21, 1957, that conditions in the old business area had changed considerably. He, together with the Board of Review, made some alterations in the direction of relief, but said alterations still left many properties assessed for more than the actual market value of those properties.

Head-On Crash Fatal to Mother

Mrs. Dora Charney of West Bloomfield Dies; 3 Girls Injured

A mother, driving her daughter and two other girls to Walled Lake Junior High School, was killed this morning in a head-on collision.

Mrs. Dora Charney, 46, of 7312 Colony Dr., West Bloomfield Township, was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital.

Her car collided in the heavy morning fog with that of Harvey J. Segnitz, 45, of 232 Wellsboro, Walled Lake, on Pontiac trail, near Green Lake road, West Bloomfield Township.

Critically injured was Judith Ann Thompson, 13, of 136 Forbush Ave., West Bloomfield. She was admitted to Pontiac General with head injuries.

The two other girls in Mrs. Charney's car were slightly injured. They are her daughter, Susan, 14, and Joyce Lee Thompson, 12, sister of Judith. Both suffered lacerations of the right leg.

Joyce was admitted to the hospital for treatment, but Susan was released.

Segnitz, who was alone in his car, also was admitted for treatment of fractured ribs, a broken nose, and face cuts. His condition was satisfactory.

According to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Donald Kratt, the cars met head-on in the fog and it has not been determined which car was on the wrong side of the road.

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams today signed a one-year contract for a reported $125,000 to continue his role as baseball's highest paid player.

The 39-year-old outfielder agreed to terms for his 17th season with the Red Sox in a friendly meeting with General Manager Joe Cronin.

Navy Uncertain About Orbiting Moon in March

Second Vanguard Flop May Mean Change in Launching Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy, studying the remains of two Vanguard rockets that failed, was uncertain today whether it could orbit a fully instrumented earth satellite on schedule next month.

Instead, Navy spokesmen were talking about doing it sometime within the International Geophysical Year.

That is their basic commitment. The IGY, a world-wide cooperative research effort, will end Dec. 31.

Project Vanguard headquarters at the Naval Research Laboratory gave a preliminary explanation of yesterday's second Navy failure.

It said the 72-foot, 11-ton Vanguard, carrying a six-inch test satellite, took off "normally" from Cape Canaveral, Fla. For 57 seconds everything was fine.

"Between the 57th and 60th seconds after takeoff, small irregularities occurred in the first-stage engine control system. After the 60th second a failure in the control system caused the engine to deflect far to the right, and the resultant abnormally high forces caused the rocket to break in the middle."

The test range safety officer then pushed a button and the whole rocket was destroyed at about 20,000 feet. Some parts fell into the Atlantic but others dropped to the grassy shore.

Salvaged particles are now being studied, along with movies and instrument readings, to get a more accurate idea of what went wrong with the three-stage vehicle.

The same kind of post-mortem was held after the first unsuccessful Vanguard attempt last Dec. 6. Less was learned then, however, because the rocket rose only about four feet.

Missing Near California Coast

Press Hunt for Bomber

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (INS) — Air Force and Coast Guard planes joined ships and flying boats today in a search for a B47 six-engine jet bomber missing over the Pacific.

The B47 Stratofortress of the 22nd Bomber Wing, was reported missing at 6:35 p. m. (PST) yesterday by its home base, March Air Force Base at Riverside, Calif.

Air Force search and rescue units at Hamilton Air Force Base sent planes over the area around San Miguel Island off Santa Barbara in search of the plane which carried a three-man crew. A Coast Guard cutter was also dispatched to the area and Coast Guard planes joined in the search.

The B47 was last reported over San Miguel Island and the search will be conducted over a 21,600-mile area of the Pacific.

Faces More Quizzing

House FCC Probers Try to Iron Out Internal Rows

WASHINGTON (INS) — A House investigating committee meets in secret session today to straighten out its internal wrangles over a probe of the Federal Communications Commission.

The committee broke up in confusion late yesterday in a fight over how much information FCC commissioners must supply about their trips and personal conduct.

The storm erupted when Committee Counsel Bernard Schwartz asked commissioners to list all trips taken at industry expense, as well as trips for which both industry and the government picked up the tab.

Ranking Republican John J. O'Hara (Minn.) objected that the committee had already ruled unanimously that commissioners must be supplied with advance notice of detailed charges against them.

To expect all seven commissioners to compile records of trips going back as much as 14 years would be an impossible imposition, he said.

"Am I to understand," exploded Schwartz, "that the investigation is to be limited to those few cases the staff happens to know about?" The committee adjourned public hearings until Monday without deciding whether FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer would be recalled or how the investigation would proceed.

Schwartz, meanwhile, introduced evidence on several items he said raised serious questions of propriety if not criminal offense. They included these charges against Doerfer:

— He took a two-day golfing trip to Pinehurst, N.C., in 1956 "at the expense of some airline" and that another guest was Chairman James R. Duffee of the Civil Aeronautics Board. (Doerfer admitted it.)

Twin Pacts Hit at Construction Featherbedding

Local Enforcement of Regulations Remains Somewhat Doubtful

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Labor leaders proudly pointed today to a twin set of rules aimed at curbing interunion strife and costly make-work practices on construction jobs.

It remains to be seen how well the rules will be enforced on local construction projects. In the past, many local unions have acted pretty much on their own.

Employing contractors at least were hopeful the agreements, although lacking real enforcement powers, will help cut building costs.

The twin pacts were announced yesterday. AFL-CIO leaders are assembled here for their winter meeting.

One pact is aimed at long-standing job rights feuds between craft and industrial (production worker) unions. It assigns new building construction to craft unions. Any disputes are to be worked out among the union leaders.

The other agreement — announced by contractors and the AFL-CIO building trades, with precise language still to be agreed upon — would bar work slow-downs, forced overtime, unneeded standby crews, and other make-work or "featherbedding" practices. Work stoppages while grievances are being processed are prohibited.

Earlier, a spokesman for the labor chiefs gave out names of Republican U.S. senators they expect to oppose for re-election.

James L. McDevitt, director of the Committee on Political Education, the AFL-CIO's political branch, said political endorsements are to be made formally this spring, but he could not forecast what they would be.

McDevitt said labor likely will oppose Senate Republican Leader Knowland's bid to become governor of California.

He predicted AFL-CIO opposition to re-election campaigns of Senators Goldwater (Ariz.), Furtell (Conn.), Payne (Maine), Beall (Md.), Potter (Mich.), Revercomb (WVa.), Thye (Minn.), Hruska (Nebr.), Malone (Nev.), Williams (Del.), Bricker (Ohio), and Barret (Wyo.), all Republicans.

2 Plants Report on Employment

Pontiac Motor, GMTC Keep to 1957 Average, but 2,665 Below Peak

Employment at both Pontiac Motor Division and GMC Truck & Coach Division is now at approximately the same level it averaged during 1957, reports from the two divisions indicated today.

"Despite readjustments in schedules which have caused a gradual layoff at Pontiac during the last three months, present Pontiac employment is 12,600, compared to a new-model peak of 14,900 in November," the Pontiac statement said.

Truck & Coach employment totals 8,656 compared to an average monthly employment last year of about 8,500, the division's report said.

"November 1957 was the month of highest employment, with 9,021 on the payroll at GMC. Of the 263 laid off since then, many of the employees who had seniority have been recalled, and only 175 seniority employees are now subject to recall," the report said.

It has been asked that any memorial tributes be made to the Pontiac General Hospital Building Fund Memorial for Harry D. Wise.

3 Cities Meet to Work on Bus Relief Solution

LANSING (AP) — Spokesmen for the cities of Ann Arbor, Jackson and Kalamazoo sought yesterday to work out relief measures for local bus lines with the state attorney general's staff.

After a lengthy conference, Stanton S. Faville, chief assistant attorney general, said no conclusions were reached on the acceptability of proposals advanced for abating state motor fuel taxes and allowing state licensing of buses at a nominal fee.

Space Planning Urged

WASHINGTON (INS) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, speaking on space legislation said: "It is apparent that our country is stepping into a totally new stage in history. Events are crowding upon us thick and fast and it is urgent we lay our basic plans now while there is still time for reflection."

What is the sequence of clouds observed with the approach and arrival of a warm front?

The first clue, from the clouds, of an approaching warm front is the appearance, very high in the sky, of cirrus clouds. Then, probably within a few hours, but may be in six to twelve, will come cirrostratus.

When these clouds, further lowering, change to altostratus, this is almost a sure sign of the warm front. The next and last cloud formation to be seen will be the nimbostratus, and with these will come rain. The rain may last several days, because a warm front often contains slow-moving steady rainfall.

The cold front will bring harder rain for a short period, and pass over more quickly.

Bishop Emrich Sings for More Than Supper

DETROIT (AP) — The Most Rev. Richard S. Emrich, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, was the "most" last night. Happy about the unanimous approval of a $1,500,000 capital development program for his diocese, Bishop Emrich treated banquet guests to a song. The banquet closed the 125th diocesan convention.

Bishop Emrich referred to the forthcoming funds drive which will enable construction of a new diocesan office building to replace the present uncomfortable one at 63 Hancock East, Detroit.

"The days of 'old 63' are numbered," he said. "So perhaps, I should sing this song."

The chorus, set to the tune of "Down in the Valley," went like this:

By the machine shop,
For all to see,
Battered and bulging,
Stands old 63.
The performance brought down the house.

in the Miami home of George Storer, owner of seven radio-TV stations, for seven days when Storer had a case pending before the FCC. (Doerfer pointed out that he later voted against Storer's petition. The purpose of the "working vacation" was to examine TV facilities around Miami, he said.)

— He has on numerous occasions taken trips at industry expense and billed the government $12 "per diem" expenses as well. (Doerfer explained that on all these trips he performed government business as well as making speeches for which he was given "honorariums," usually $100.)

— He cashed a $185.12 check for a return flight to Washington from Oklahoma City in 1954 although he never made the trip. (Doerfer labeled it an "honest mistake" and refunded the amount two weeks ago after the committee "called the error to my attention.") Doerfer has insisted vigorously that there was nothing improper in any of the arrangements. He points out that commissioners are not only judges in communications cases, but administrators.

MUNICH, Germany, (INS) — A two-engine British airliner crashed into a German village shortly after takeoff from Munich-Riem Airport today, killing between 16 and 28 persons. Among the victims, it was feared, were members of the championship Manchester United Soccer team and British sportswriters who covered the team's tie game with the Yugoslavian Red Star team in Belgrade Wednesday. The chartered British European Airways plane plunged suddenly to earth a few moments after leaving the runway. It crashed into the village of Kirchtrudering near the airport.

Tax Cuts Proposed in Downtown Area

amount the property will yield in rent.

Immediate and determined thinking should also be given by the officials of Pontiac to reduction of taxes which have been levied on our industries. The demand for their products has increased. Their overhead and taxes must be decreased. Austerity programs are now the order of the day in many large organizations. Austerity in government is in the agenda for consideration and action.

"During 1957, an association of business men was organized to survey what measures could be taken to re-vitalize the downtown retail area and stop further decay."

"A fair-minded, equitable reduction in the taxes on downtown real estate; a reduction really in line with the actual decline in value would certainly be a practical step in the direction of helping the area, the merchants and rejuvenating the area."

"The following schedule of reductions suggested by this writer is the result of careful analysis and is in line with the thinking of the State Tax Commission explained in the first part of this letter."

"Reductions proposed to be made from 1956 assessments, percentages proposed to be applied to both land and improvements:

"Both sides of Saginaw street from Huron street north to end of commercial district—East side 15 per cent, west side 15 per cent.

"Huron street to Lawrence street (exception of Pontiac State Bank Bldg.)—East side 15 per cent, west side 27.77 per cent.

"Lawrence street to Pike street—East side 35 per cent, west side 48.43 per cent.

Deciding there was nothing they could do about the weather, 190 hotelmen agreed to go 50-50 with Miami Beach on the advertising campaign. The amount of the hotel contribution was not revealed.

FIGURING DAMAGE
While the tourist-conscious Miami area counted on better weather, damage was being figured from the state's third snap of freezing weather this winter.

Welfare officials predicted more than 40,000 South Dade County (Miami) migrants—workers, their wives and children, will end up on welfare rolls in the wake of the latest freeze.

Of the usual mid-winter force of 9,000 workers needed to keep fresh produce flowing from the rich farming area, fewer than 1,000 found things to keep them busy yesterday.

Experts said it will take several days to calculate how much work is left in the fields.

In some places, potatoes—the last hope for some farmers and many migrants—appeared all right, but may die later.

Agriculture spokesmen have called this the worst winter for farmers in Florida history.

Prospects for a big citrus crop next season dimmed with the freeze.

The strawberry crop was about gone and flower growers were hurt severely.

Both Satellites Crisscross Nation Today

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—America's satellite, Explorer, and the Soviet Sputnik II both crisscrossed the United States today on different routes and altitudes.

The Soviet moon made three U. S. sweeps beginning with one in the east and ending with a passage 100 miles southwest of Los Angeles at a height of about 140 miles.

America's satellite, the Explorer, was to make evening passages and would be difficult to see because of its altitude of about 800 miles.

The first passage starts about 6:19 p.m. EST in northern Mexico, crosses Texas, Arkansas, northern Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia before leaving the coast of Cape Hatteras five minutes later.

The new passage starts in the Los Angeles area about 8:20 p.m. EST and crosses Arizona, New Mexico, northern Texas, southern Oklahoma, southern Arkansas, Mississippi and Alabama, leaving the coast at Jacksonville, Fla., about 8:29 p.m.

The final passage tonight will cross below the Southern California border and northern Mexico at about 10:22 EST.

BIRMINGHAM — Author and head of the Indian delegation to the United Nations and as president of the United Nations General Assembly.

Next on the roster for the coming season will be British author-scientist Arthur E. Clarke, a master at making clear the most fantastic facts and possibilities of our coming age of space.

He is a fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society and chairman for five years of the British Interplanetary Society. His articles in Holiday, Saturday Review and the New York Times, as well as his books, "Exploration of Space" and "Interplanetary Flight," are familiar to many.

Two more speakers completing next year's program will be announced at a later date, according to Mrs. James S. Moon, president of Birmingham Town Hall board, who revealed the four already under contract.

William H. Merrill has filed a petition as a candidate for a three-year term as city commissioner. Merrill, an attorney, has served for the past year as a member of the City Planning Board. He is married and the father of two children.

Harry Denyes, Birmingham architect, is seeking re-election for his second three-year term on the Commission.

Deadline for filing petitions is March 1, according to Irene Hanley, city clerk.

Edwin Kibert, executive secretary of the Birmingham YMCA, said the Y has a block of seats for the Saturday showing of "Old Yeller," a Walt Disney film, at a Detroit theater.

Pakistan Names Prince Aly Khan as Envoy to U.N.

KARACHI, Pakistan — Pakistan today appointed Prince Aly Khan its permanent representative to the United Nations.

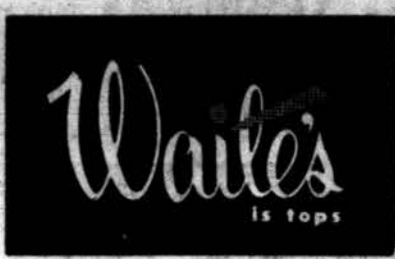

An official announcement said the prince—ex-husband of British society woman Joan Yarder-Buller and actress Rita Hayworth—would have the rank of ambassador. He is currently visiting Prime Minister Malik Feroz Khan Noon in Karachi.

The appointment is in the nature of a consolation prize for the 36-year-old eldest son of the late Aga Khan III. The Aga in his will passed over Aly and named Aly's son Prince Karim to succeed him as head of the Ismaili Moslem sect. The manager of the old man wanted his son to carry on his vast turf interests.

As to romantic interests, Aly has been keeping company for some months with a French model and divorcee, generally known by her professional name of Bettina.

At the U.N. headquarters in New York the prince will succeed Ghulam Ahmed, who has been recalled to become chairman of the Pakistan power development authority.

Navy Asks $1 Billion for 9 Special Subs

WASHINGTON — The Navy is pressing for permission and more than a billion dollars to build nine special nuclear submarines to fire the Polaris 1,500-mile ballistic missile.

This would be a tripling of the present program for three such crafts. Navy spokesmen argue the Polaris, now nearing the status of a war-ready weapon teamed with special submarines would give the United States the striking equivalent of a 5,000-mile intercontinental ballistic missile.

The Navy's plans were disclosed in testimony made public by the House Armed Services Committee, which questioned Secretary of the Navy Thomas G. Gates at a secret session last Friday.

33 Building Permits Issued Last Month

Thirty-three building permits covering $98,100 worth of construction were issued last month by Carl F. Alt, Pontiac Building Inspector.

There were no permits for new homes, but 22 permits totaling $27,600 were for residential additions and repairs. Alterations and repairs to commercial buildings totaled $56,600. Installation of a water softener at Pontiac State Hospital accounted for $7,000.

New Chemical Might Eliminate Lamprey

President EISENHOWER's recent budget message asked Congress to approve $915,000 for continuing efforts to rid the Great Lakes of the destructive sea lamprey.

This eel-like creature that attaches itself to game fish and sucks their blood has become a No. 1 menace in recent years. Several million dollars have been spent with Canada in a joint effort to rid the waters of this killer.

All sportsmen in this area, along with the Pontiac Press, stand united in any and all efforts to eradicate our waters of this pesky creature.

Recent reports indicate that a new chemical called Dowlap has been found which may mark the end of the lamprey.

For the last five years investigations have been conducted by the Hammond Bay Laboratory of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service under the direction of Dr. VERNON C. APPLIGATE and JOHN H. HOWELL. Representatives of the Dow Chemical Company have also participated.

After testing some six thousand chemicals they have finally come up with Dowlap which is working with great success in its first stream test. Tests have been going on in Little Billie's Creek near Cheboygan.

The effect of the new chemical on trout and other game fish is negligible. But literally thousands of lamprey larvae were seen dead in the stream and backwaters. This is the first real success with a specific toxicant.

The damage done by the lamprey has been so complete that in recent years it has nearly eliminated lake trout and white fish from Lake Michigan. Heavy inroads are also being made in Lake Superior and Huron.

Any success to kill the dreaded lamprey is welcome news.

U.S. Science Attaches Restored to Embassies

The State Department has reactivated the science attaché program in line with President EISENHOWER's promise to do so.

Two years ago these attaches were withdrawn from our embassies. It now is planned to send science attaches to Paris, Bonn, Stockholm, New Delhi, Tokyo and to several South American countries at a cost of some $200,000. But for reasons hard to understand none has been reassigned to Moscow nor to other Communist capitals where we should be kept informed of scientific developments.

Leading scientific groups sponsored the original program in 1949 after a State Department reorganization study. It was pointed out then that our embassies had military, political, economic, labor and cultural attaches and that science was becoming increasingly important in world affairs. The attaches were to keep the government informed of scientific and technical discoveries in both military and industrial fields.

By 1952 there were 10 science attaches in European embassies. But in 1953 Secretary Dulles ended their services despite protests of leading scientists in this country. In 1957 more than 500 military attaches were assigned to our foreign missions and not one scientific attaché.

The House Government Operations Committee voted unanimously in 1956 to restore the program but nothing was done. A member of the President's scientific advisory committee recently wrote in Foreign Affairs:

"A little timely scientific advice to the Department of State on the Sputnik would have been worth the cost of the whole program of science attaches and a fully staffed division within the department."

It is good to know that President EISENHOWER is restoring this program. We need to find out all we possibly can of scientific advances in other countries.

South Saginaw Lights Still Slow Up Traffic

South Saginaw Street traffic lights continue to plague the thousands of daily users of this main artery through Pontiac. Apparently it falls in the unpopular category of another "investigation."

In this day and age it seems practically next to impossible to take any definite action without first spending many months studying the problem.

A study has been started in Pontiac. But apparently the findings will take several months. Since it is obvious that a bad situation exists, it would seem that some local immediate action could be taken.

Perhaps a solution might be to operate several of the lights on amber during the more congested traffic periods. At least this would be a step in the right direction while we are waiting for the results from the investigation.

The Man About Town

Our Area Doing Fine Job in Keeping TB in Check

Old age: When we get quieter—because there's more to be quiet about.

The Pontiac area continues to look like a health resort, when the annual figures on tuberculosis are released. Our growing density of population does not seem to increase the TB rate, as it has in Wayne County, when compared with out-state counties or other states.

With another case-finding program in the offing, it seems that our efforts to locate the disease in its incipency will serve to further decrease it here.

David Lawrence Says:

Ike, Dulles Want 'Summit' Talks

WASHINGTON — There will be a "summit" conference if President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles can possibly bring it about—but there will have to be in advance some promise of achievement.

If the Soviets think there is any real reluctance here about meeting them in a top-level conference such as was held in Geneva in 1955, they are very much mistaken.

The President is not afraid of the propaganda battle. In some respects, he welcomes it. But he sees no point of going to a meeting which will merely make pious professions of peaceful purpose without doing a single thing actually to advance the cause of peace in the world.

It is beside the point to argue that the United States is insisting on a whole "package" of conditions and will not agree to one thing without the other. Rather it is the substance of every proposal that has to be examined carefully, and there are lots of things that can be agreed to separately without waiting for any other issues to be resolved.

The important point is that the United States does not want to bar any single issue from discussion, such as, for instance, German reunification, though it is realized there may be little chance of agreement with the Soviets on that subject.

But merely to agree, for example, to ban nuclear tests, as is being argued by political opposition party spokesmen here and in Britain, would be purposeless unless accompanied by an agreement to bar the further manufacture of all nuclear weapons, too.

The United States and her allies also want to see armament expenses reduced, but are not willing to give the Soviets military control over Western Europe through acceptance of the tricky proposals for "disengagement" or withdrawal of American forces and bases—a scheme which has been championed recently by glib and naive persons in public life on the western side.

The substantial issue of how the Communist regime is to be prevented from exercising military domination in Europe is one that may be discussed at a "summit" conference, but it is not likely to get anywhere.

If agreement is reached on only one thing, the administration here would consider it worthwhile to participate in a "summit" meeting. If, however, it is apparent from the beginning that the Soviets do not intend to agree to anything, then the probabilities are that no conference will be held.

The Soviets, on the other hand, cannot afford to accept responsibility before the world for refusal to give a single inch in advance of the "summit" conference.

Instead, they may find themselves compelled to intimate through diplomatic channels their willingness to agree on certain points.

The objection raised by Chairman Bulganin in his latest letter to participation in a foreign ministers conference in advance of the "summit" meeting is regarded here as a bit of perverse humor. For the Soviet government knows that no "summit" conference would be held without the foreign ministers of every participating country being present.

When Bulganin says a foreign ministers conference in advance of the "summit" meeting would be an obstacle because of the "biased position of certain possible participants in a ministerial conference," he must have known that Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Great Britain and Secretary Dulles of the United States are certain to play as great a part in a "summit" conference as they would in a meeting of only foreign ministers held beforehand.

In reality, the Kremlin is jockeying for position—trying to get a "summit" conference without any advance indication of a willingness to make some agreements on concrete points.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Fresh Air Best Medicine for Youngster With Croup

The Father of Pediatrics, referring to the use of copper sulfate (blue vitriol) as a rapidly acting emetic, said, in the paragraph on croup in "Therapeutics of Infancy and Childhood":

"The effect of emetics and their indispensability have often been exaggerated. Usually they are less required for the relief of the babies than for tranquilizing the fears of the mother and allowing the family physician to stay in bed."

If that sounds like a crack made by the character who conducts this column, let me assure you I'm quoting it verbatim from the book mentioned, in which Dr. Abraham Jacobi told about the use of copper sulfate as an emetic.

Dr. Emmett Holt, the Doctor Spock of old, opined that emetics "have a double value if the attack" (of croup) "is due to indigestion." In a late, if not the last, edition of his "Diseases of Infancy and Childhood," Holt subscribed to the hokum which all medical authorities of the time accepted, and some accept today.

"Generally it is not necessary to exclude fresh air from the sleeping room. Although an open window on a cold, damp night may sometimes excite an attack" (of croup), he equivocated, "plenty of fresh air regularly given tends rather to diminish the susceptibility."

You pays your money and takes your choice. If you like fresh air, Holt assures you it is good for you. On the other hand, if you don't like it, Holt assures you it's just as well to exclude it.

I have told here how I tried copper sulfate as a quick emetic on our own baby — and ever after carried it in my emergency bag.

I tried another remedy first on the baby. One winter night on returning home from a confinement case, I found my wife frightened out of her wits because our baby was having an attack of the croup.

I wrapped the baby warmly in blankets, leaving only her face exposed, and sat with her in the open window. The room was steam heated, not over-heated, but naturally the heated winter air was excessively dried out. The air outside was perhaps just above freezing, the ground was covered with snow.

The effect of breathing this cold, damp night air was promptly evident. The baby began to breathe easily, quieted down, and went to sleep. Cool or cold damp night air is better than any medicine one can apply in such a case.

Later I found it very good medicine for pneumonia. I hope I need not say that the patient may or should always be kept comfortably warm while taking the cold, damp night air — or cold, damp winter-day air treatment.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent in. The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Middle Age Melancholy Decreases

Maude's case used to be commonplace in America but is now becoming rather unusual. For modern newspapers have pioneered with the release of medico-psychological facts to help people live happy, well-adjusted lives. In fact, you will learn more marriage facts from this column than you can get from high school and college, so be grateful to your newspaper.

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case X-322: Maude R., aged 44, is a typical housewife.

"Dr. Crane, I am jittery and tense most of the time," she began.

"And I get crying spells during which I feel as if life isn't worth living. I guess it is the menopause, don't you think?"

"But it is terrifying to think I am on the shelf and no longer attractive to my husband."

"I grow melancholy and feel as if I am in the autumn of life, although I am hardly middle aged. Can't you give me some help?"

MENOPAUSAL FACTS

Millions of women used to feel and act just like Maude when they passed the age of 40.

Thanks to our progressive newspapers which have long been running this clinical column, there are fewer wives who grow melancholy after 40.

For I have reiterated the medical and psychological fact that there is no date line beyond which a wife's physical attractiveness ceases.

A wife can be thrilling and thrilling as long as she lives, if she just realizes the true facts and does not succumb to the false

Capital Punishment Given Support by Area Minister

Authors of a recent magazine article were disturbed over developments in the field of jurisprudence which limit rights of police in securing voluntary confessions, and which provide a broad meaning to the term "insanity," so broad that a man accused of a major crime was freed because he was "immature." The "Do-Gooders" are making it easier to kill and get away with it.

The Press editorial about Charles Starkweather was very timely. My personal feeling as a minister is that the Gospel summed up in "Love thy neighbor" was never intended to abrogate the Old Testament law of "Thou shalt not kill." Death was the penalty for wanton murder then and should be now.

Critics of capital punishment seek to prove its ineffectiveness by pointing to England when law provided death for pickpockets, when one was hanged, a dozen more crowded the crowd. These critics neglect to look at the English Bobby, who carries no gun. Death is the penalty for deliberately shooting a British police officer. The underworld knows this and doesn't shoot. Try this in America and our policemen would be in mortal jeopardy. Their murderers would be freed as "temporarily insane." I wonder just who is insane.

Rev. Geoffrey Day

Clarkston

Man Has Answer to 'Who Pays?'

In answer to the question about how the court decides who pays, I am one who pays and can answer this. The man pays and Friend of the Court & Co. is best to see to it. Friend of the Court collects all payments for all women regardless how worthy they may be, so long as their decree states they're to collect. And what woman doesn't collect in this state? No court or authority can collect if the poor man hasn't any money, but this seems to be one point females cannot understand.

One Who Pays

Gives Her Solution to Crime Problem

The state has a right to try a man or woman for murder and send that person to Jackson, but I wonder if people are smart enough to find out the reason for these crimes. If they would vote Michigan dry, there wouldn't be so many murders, and auto accidents will never stop until they do. Taverns will sell to a man until he can't walk and then let him get in his car to drive home. People don't act like people any more. They're more like animals of some kind. I say vote Michigan dry.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

Democrats are playing Republican inertia for all its worth and as much as they can borrow.

Harry Truman triple-tongues the acoustics like the good old trouper he always has been. He rushes in where angels consult detours.

Harry is and always has been the little man's big man. So they pay attention when Harry says he was okay when Harry ran him on tracks.

You can put that crack down as something said in the intense re-write heat of ghost writing.

But he can laugh at himself like a clown putting on his face. At the banquets dinner to Burris Jenkins we introduced him this way. "I never did you any good, Harry, but you were sure a seven-year harvest for me."

Woman's Grateful for Many 'Chiefs'

If E.T. had the same experience we had recently, she or he would thank God for those "too many chiefs."

Our boy was seriously hurt and in less than five minutes he was being given a blood transfusion and before 10 minutes he was in surgery receiving four more pints of blood. Because of his wonderful care were were able to take him home in a week. If there hadn't been a few less "chiefs," he might not be alive today. We live outside the city limits and we were treated just as well as if we were taxpayers.

If we spent more time looking for good things and passing out compliments, we wouldn't have so much time to criticize and we might find our world a happier place in which to live.

Train Whistles Named for Whistler's Father

LONDON—In 1833 George Stephenson, the locomotive builder, attached a pipe to the boiler through which steam could be expelled with a shrill note, and this soon became standard equipment on all engines. It was called a "steam trumpet" until it went to America in 1836.

In that year the Long Island Rail Road asked George Whistler, well-known engineer and father of the famous painter, to build a warning device for one of its passenger locomotives. The result was dubbed "Whistler's trumpet." Soon it was called merely "the Whistler," and, as the device spread to other engines, merely as "the whistle."

Una Merkel Making Comeback at 54

By PHYLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK (INS) — Anybody who doesn't remember the gentle daffiness of a South'n gal named Una Merkel is a . . .

hop-toed juvenile. Una was the feminist's Stanley Laurel. The traveling salesman's spur to keep smiling. The only scenes she didn't "steal" were the ones she played opposite Jean Harlow, and you can't call that Una's fault; she was upstaged by nature.

For the last decade, this lady with hair the color of other ladies' fingernails has had a rough time of it. One reason, probably, is that somewhere along the late depression years people stopped laughing at sheer dizziness.

The main reason is that she worked too hard, worried too much for the world and for several years lost interest in everything.

"I was going along fine, I suppose," she says today, remembering back to the war years, when she was making the front-line circuit for the USO. "Then one Christmas Eve (in 1943) I came home from three months in New Guinea, and found I was too emotionally involved with everything. I'd seen too much.

"It was like having no skin over your nerves."

Miss Merkel, who is 54 now and looks like Lillian Gish at 26, smiles wistfully. "But there was more."

In the next two years, she her mother committed suicide; and worked even harder, sometimes Una, in the next room under sedation on three movies at once. In 1945, she nearly died too from the gas fumes. Her husband and she were divorced shortly afterwards. The upshot—or downfall—was a nervous breakdown from which it took her several years to recover.

Una's making a comeback, which doubtless will win her the largest audience since her heyday in silent and early talkie films. She is taking the part of the mother of "Aladdin," in Cole Porter and in CBS's color spectacular of the same name, scheduled for Feb. 21.

From there, she may take over the lead in an established Broadway play. Or she may take on more television.

In any case, she'll be back in the nostalgic public's eye, and happy for the chance. "I wouldn't say radiant," she explains thoughtfully, "but happy. And grateful that so many people remember me." And why wouldn't they, except for the hop-toed juveniles? (Copyright 1958)

Security for You

Quiz: Name State With Most Oldsters

Can you name the state with the largest percentage of older people?

You win the brass ring if you name Vermont, according to Bureau of Census officials who gave me the latest figures a few days ago.

As of July 1, 1956, 11.4 per cent out of every 100 Vermonters were 65 or over. Running close behind were Iowa (11.1 per cent), New Hampshire (11 per cent) and Massachusetts and Missouri (10.8 per cent).

What may be even more surprising is that 13 of the top 15 states with high percentages of older people are in the Midwest and New England. Only Florida, Arkansas (10.2 per cent) and Oklahoma (10.1 per cent) rank 10th and 11th.

Florida ranks ninth with 10.4 per cent of its people 65 or older. Arkansas (10.2 per cent) and Oklahoma (10.1 per cent) rank 10th and 11th. California — usually thought of as a state with a very high percentage of oldsters — is in 29th place among the states and the District of Columbia. It has just a shade of a percentage less than the nationwide average. For the country as a whole, 8.7 per cent of the population is 65 or older. California has 8.5 per cent.

Despite California's low percentage ranking, it's one of the three states with more than a million older people, many of whom are living in the Los Angeles or Southern California areas.

New York State has 1,450,000 people who've reached 65 and is first in total number. California is second with 1,118,000. Pennsylvania has just passed with the million mark with 1,006,000.

The country on July 1, 1956, had 14,405,000 people 65 or older.

There are a number of reasons for the present distribution of older people around the country.

The common belief that lots of older people move to California and Florida when they retire is accurate. But, there is also a lot of younger people moving to these states. Thus, with both older and younger people moving in, the percentage of older people doesn't increase as one might think.

New England and the Midwest rank high in percentage of older people mainly because many younger people are moving out of these regions, leaving the older people behind.

The Southern states, as a group, don't rank high among the states with older people because their birth rate is high and the death rate among older people is higher than in most other areas.

Three states — Florida, Arkansas, and Oklahoma — have showed an unusual increase in the percentage of older people since 1950. Arkansas which ranked 29th in 1950 has shown an increase of 2.5 per cent in the number of its residents 65 or over. Florida jumped 1.6 per cent and Oklahoma increased 1.4 per cent.

Here's how the states not already mentioned ranked in percentage of people at least 65 on July 1, 1956.

Maine (10.7); Kansas (10.6);

Nebraska (10.5); Minnesota (9.8); Rhode Island (9.7); Wisconsin (9.6); South Dakota (9.6); Montana (9.5); Washington (9.5); Connecticut (9.4); Illinois (9.4); New York (9.2); Pennsylvania (9.2); Oregon (9.2); Indiana (9.1); Ohio (8.9); Kentucky (8.9).

Colorado (8.7); New Jersey (8.4); Idaho (8.4); California (8.4); North Dakota (8.4); West Virginia (8.1); District of Columbia (8.0); Mississippi (8.0); Tennessee (7.9); Wyoming (7.6); Alabama (7.5); Michigan (7.4); Delaware (7.4).

Texas (7.2); Virginia (7.1); Georgia (7.1); Maryland (6.9); Louisiana (6.9); North Carolina (6.3); Arizona (6.3); Utah (6.3); South Carolina (6.2); New Mexico (5.7); Nevada (5.3).

2 Gunmen Held in Store Holdup

Police Take Up Chase After Grocery Robbed of $635 in Inkster

DETROIT (AP) — Two gunmen, wounded during a police chase in western Wayne County yesterday, are being held for investigation in the $635 holdup of a suburban Inkster grocery store.

Everett Woods, 29, was shot in the neck and Frank Strange, 35, suffered a head wound when struck by a policeman's billy club. Both are residents of suburban Wayne.

Police took up the chase after two men walked into an Inkster store owned by James Smyth, pointed a shotgun and pistol at him and several customers, and told Smyth to empty the contents of his cash register.

Sheriff's deputies spotted Woods and Strange in a car a few miles away after a housewife reported seeing the men flee in the vehicle. Pursued at high speed, Woods halted the car and surrendered after a deputy shot a bullet into his neck.

Officers said Strange refused to come out but climbed into the driver's seat and escaped amid a flurry of shots. The chase was taken up again minutes later and Strange was captured on the west edge of Detroit as he sought to hide in some bushes.

A customer at the store, Theodore Hawks of Garden City, was struck in the hand by a shotgun pellet when one of the men fired into a food locker.

Commentator Not Fired for Words on Reuther—UAW

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union denies it fired radio commentator Herbert W. Hoover because he criticized UAW President Walter P. Reuther's profit-sharing plan on a union-sponsored broadcast.

A UAW spokesman said yesterday that Hoover, 39, was discharged for "medical reasons" and for ignoring an order from UAW Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey that he see a physician.

Hoover was taken off a daily UAW program, "Shift Break," (WBBC, Flint) Jan. 25. A few days earlier, he had criticized Reuther's plan to include a profit-sharing proposal in UAW contract negotiations with the auto industry this spring.

Hoover said in the broadcast he supported a shorter work week with more take-home pay and said Reuther's plan ignored long-standing UAW opposition to profit-sharing.

The commentator was an employee of the union's international headquarters and had been assigned to Flint since 1954.

GOP's Budget Taking Shape

Republican Legislators Aim at the Reduction of State Expenses

LANSING (AP) — The pattern of Republican budget-making appears to be taking shape in the legislature, with one major objective the reduction of state government operating expenses by 3 to 5 per cent below 1957-58.

This would close the gap between outgo and estimated income from existing revenues in 1958-59 by about 15 million dollars. More of the slack would be taken up in fund manipulations, leaving a "manageable" deficit of several million dollars.

The broad outlines of the approach emerged as the Senate Appropriations Committee plunged deeper into its analysis of Gov. Williams' $61 million dollar general fund spending program.

Meanwhile, in the House the wheels began to turn on making ends meet, or nearly meet, for the current fiscal year through deferring payments on liquor purchases and execution of fund transfers already agreed to by Democratic and Republican leaders.

Rep. Rollo G. Conlin (R-Tipton).

House Taxation Committee chairman, yesterday brought in a bill to channel 18 million dollars into the depleted state treasury by the deferred payment plan on liquor.

Two other Conlin bills would dump into the state treasury general till $2,750,000 now lying idle in the World War II and Korean War veterans' bond redemption funds.

70 Pct. in Area Pay '57 Property Tax

At least 70 per cent of Waterford Township's taxpayers have paid their 1957 property tax, according to Dorothy Olson, township treasurer.

Residents will have until February 28 to pay taxes at the township hall.

If they do not pay them by then, a four per cent penalty will be imposed, one half per cent interest will be added each delinquent month and the bills will have to be paid at the county treasurer's office, according to Mrs. Olson.

North Koreans Call for Union

But Include Provisions Sure to Be Rejected by ROK and West

TOKYO — North Korea's Communist regime called again today for free elections under neutral supervision to unite the divided peninsula — but once more tacked on conditions South Korea and the West were sure to reject.

The four-part proposal was adopted by Premier Kim Il Sung's Cabinet in session with the Peoples' Assembly and Communist party leaders. As broadcast by Pyongyang radio the plan proposed:

1. Simultaneous withdrawal of all foreign troops including the U.S. Army and Chinese "volunteers."

2. Free elections throughout Korea within a definite period after the withdrawal. They would be held under supervision of a neutral nations group.

3. Early negotiations "based on equality" between the North and South Korean governments on the election and North-South cultural exchanges. Kim also renewed his suggestion for free North-South travel and postal communications.

4. Reduction of the armies of North and South Korea to a "minimum" in the near future.

In the South Korean capital of Seoul, Vice Foreign Minister Kim Jong Do termed Kim's proposals "jargon not even worth considering."

Although North Korea has advanced all of the four proposals before in one form or another, this latest bid did not suggest a multination political conference on the Korean question.

The West has turned down a conference in the past because it was unable to reach an agreement on the Korean problem at the 1954 Geneva meeting, which drew up the Inochina armistice.

South Korea and the United Nations have flatly refused to negotiate with the North because this would imply recognition of the Communist regime.

Retirement Pay Hike Sought by Hudson

State Rep. Leslie H. Hudson (D-Pontiac) announced today he is introducing a bill in the legislature to increase the annual retirement pay of veteran school employees who do not qualify for social security.

Under the provisions of the measure, $1,800 would be the minimum for those with 30 years of service. Hudson said the bill would affect some 4,250 persons, and cost about $2 million annually.

Hudson said the bill would provide retirement payments of $60 per year for each year of service. "It would take insufficient retirement funds of $300 a year and raise them up to a decent level," Hudson said.

President Drops One Engagement Because of Cold

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's cold caused cancellation of one of his engagements today. But two other appointments remained on his schedule. They are a meeting of the National Security Council and a meeting with a delegation from the American College of Surgeons.

The President, who has been bothered by a sore throat and hoarseness, cancelled plans to attend a breakfast prayer meeting sponsored by the International Council for Christian Leadership. He had agreed to join a group of senators and House members at the early morning session, as he has in other years.

He decided against going to the meeting because of his cold. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said. Hagerty added in reply to questions that it was a precautionary decision. He said the President's cold was no worse.

Eisenhower's cold and sore throat developed Sunday night after he had returned from a weekend of golf and bridge at Augusta, Ga.

Hagerty said the President still hopes to get away again to the South next week to try once more for some warm sunshine.

Teen Girl Battling for Custody of 7

KELLOGG, Idaho — Teen-aged Leona Moore buried her parents yesterday, then took hold as mother to her seven orphaned brothers and sisters.

A hearing is due here Monday on the 18-year-old Mrs. Moore's request to have legal custody of the children granted her. Their ages range from 2 to 15.

Probate Judge Peter Dufresne indicated he would appoint her as guardian, since she is the closest relative.

The teenager, married 14 months to Edward Moore, a 28-year-old Lewiston, Idaho, paper worker, is determined to keep the family together. The Moores have no children of their own and plan to get a house for their new family.

Mrs. Moore's parents, Clarence and Donna Larsen, aged 41 and 36, died last Thursday when their car crashed into a telephone pole. Many residents here have come forward with money, clothing and other gifts.

Alexandra's Clothes Found, Not Jewels

LONDON — Princess Alexandra got her stolen clothes back but the thieves kept $4,000 worth of jewelry.

Alexandra, 21-year-old daughter of the Duchess of Kent and cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, stopped for a midnight cup of coffee Sunday after a weekend in the country and somebody swiped her two suitcases from the car.

The luggage turned up yesterday in a railway station.

Dogs Lured Into Cistern by Canine Temptress

BELTON, Tex. — Mrs. D. H. Wilkinson told police that under her house was the "awfullest yapping, whining and howling you ever heard!"

Sonny Blankenship, member of a city crew sent to investigate, found the cause.

Using a rope, Blankenship sent in 1953 moved 96 million tons of iron ore, 51 million tons of coal, 35 million tons of limestone, and 13 million tons of grain.

Note Artist's Centenary

OSLO — The National Gallery in Oslo has opened a comprehensive exhibit to mark the 100th anniversary of the death of Johan Christian Dahl, Norway's first great landscape painter. On display are 200 of his paintings and 125 drawings and water colors.

Iran has a population of about 17 million in an area of 628,000 square miles. Canada is six times larger in area and has about 15 million people.

Use Junk Pile in Building Car

Prison Inmates Present Shiny Pink Sports Auto to Athletic Director

NEW YORK — A group of men who aren't going anywhere for awhile have built a shiny pink sports car from a pile of junk.

The men are inmates at the Iowa State Penitentiary and the auto was a gift to a prison official who is helping them rebuild their lives.

The convicts hand-tailored the car for J. Roby Hilpert, the prison educational and athletic director.

Hilpert got into the act back in 1936 when Warden Percy A. Lainsow wanted to set up a vocational rehabilitation program that might enable the forgotten men to learn a trade and eventually earn a place in society.

Their first project was an auto repair shop where skilled inmates became instructors and unskilled ones enrolled as students. No pressure was exerted—in fact, the men lost the daily 25 to 70 cents they might have earned in the prison's factories—but many were willing to take the loss in order to learn to use their hands in constructive ways.

Welding, body repair, sheet metal, radio and television, commercial art and paint shops were subsequently added, and each of them had a full complement of enthusiastic students. The problem, however, has always been to find enough work. Classes were forced to demonstrate ingenuity.

It was during one of the slow periods that one of the inmates—an ex-forged—persuaded Hilpert to go to a local scrapyard and purchase for $12 a demolished 1940 Hudson and have it towed into the prison. With discarded parts from 12 different auto makes, they hand-built the sports car into a 100-mile per hour sports model complete with Zebra upholstery.

Prison officials are hopeful that their talented inmates will keep their feet on the ground and not go in for construction of helicopters.

'Yes, We Have No Bananas' Composer Dies

NEW YORK — Songwriter Lew Brown, 64, whose hits included "Yes, We Have No Bananas," died today in the Hotel Navarro.

He wrote many Broadway musicals with Ray Henderson and the late Buddy DeSylva. His first published song was "Please Don't Take my Lovin' Man Away."

He was a member of the firm of DeSylva, Brown and Henderson. Shows they wrote and produced included "Hold Everything," "Three Cheers," "George White's Scandals," "Calling All Stars," "Flying High," "Hot-Cha," "Strike Me Pink," "Forward March," and "Follow Thru."

They also wrote the songs for several motion pictures, including "Furnished Angel," "Carolina," "Sunny Side Up," "Stand Up and Cheer," "The Music Goes Round" and "Vogues of 1938."

Brown was born in Odessa, Russia, and came to the United States when he was five. He attended public schools in New Haven, Conn., and De Witt Clinton High School here.

Believes an Omnibus Farm Bill More Likely to Gain Acceptance

WASHINGTON (INS) — Chances of Congress passing a general farm bill this year brightened yesterday when Senate Agriculture Committee members set a March 1 deadline for drafting an omnibus measure.

The committee members showed an apparent willingness to unite the splintered farm bloc behind legislation for the basic commodities cotton, corn, wheat and milk.

Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), served notice that he will oppose any attempt to pass piecemeal laws designed to help one commodity at a time.

Ellender claims that only an omnibus bill stands a chance of overriding a potential veto by President Eisenhower. No bill emerging from Ellender's committee is likely to grant the President's request for authority to lower price supports to 60 per cent of parity.

The agriculture committee agreed, however, to act separately on several farm measures that have aroused little political anger and already have President Eisenhower's support.

Heading the list of virtually unopposed farm measures is extension of the so-called "480 program," which permits disposal of U. S. farm surpluses overseas through native currency sales, relief plans and exchanges for strategic materials.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Don Paarlberg told the Senate committee today that the U. S. could easily dispose of another one-and-one-half billion dollars worth of farm surpluses during the next fiscal year.

He added that the authority to ship government food stocks is needed in order to cut the Com-

Cancer Society Units to Merge

Addison, Oxford, Orion Branches Set Special Consolidation Meeting

ORION TOWNSHIP — Consolidation of branches of the American Cancer Society of Addison, Oxford and Orion Townships is being planned in a special meeting at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Orion Township Hall, 571 S. Broadway St.

Representatives from the three branches, and all who would like to volunteer in any of the three fields of cancer education, sewing, or service, should attend this meeting.

Cancer Society spokesmen have expressed the belief that the merger of these branches will aid greatly in the improvement of services to the cancer patients and in spreading the information from the cancer society more completely.

The branch headquarters in the Orion Township Hall will continue its Tuesday hours 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Further information on the combined meeting or cancer work in general may be obtained by calling Mrs. Harry Slater, MY 3-2703.

Oxford High Offers Courses for Adults

OXFORD — Adult education classes for residents of the Oxford Area School District will begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Oxford High School, according to Roger Oberg, assistant superintendent.

The following non-credit courses will be offered if at least 12 residents register for the course: General mathematics, typing, women's physical education, arts and crafts, beginning sewing. Driver training will be offered with a minimum of eight enrollees.

The fee for driver training will be $20, and for the other courses, $7, payable at the first session.

Each class, except driver training, will run for a period of 10 two-hour sessions, with the meeting night changed for the convenience of the group, if necessary.

Reports From Eight Communities

Oakland Area Groups Name Officers

A number of clubs, churches and civic groups in eight Oakland County communities have announced results of their officer elections.

Rochester
The Rev. Walter C. Gerken, pastor of St. John Lutheran Church in Rochester, officiated at an induction ceremony for officers of the church. Placed in office were Robert L. McWilliams, president; Howard G. Hummel, vice president; George Gels, treasurer; Forest B. Wiley, financial secretary; Russell Hummel, recording secretary; and Joseph P. Leske, trustee.

Sworn in as deacons were William J. Brown, Arvid F. Jouppl, Alister Larson, Jack McGorman, Edward Stewart, Howard Stephens, Richard Steffens, and William Anderson.

Herbert Austin was installed as a member of the Board of Parish Education; and Arthur Tobiasen, Marvin Moore and Don Kahler as auditors. Committee leaders and ushers' chairman also were placed in office.

Metamora
The Ladies Aid of Pilgrim Congregational Church re-elected Mrs. Clarence Schellinger, president; Mrs. C. W. Albertson, vice president; Mrs. Ruth Miller, secretary; and Mrs. G. E. Eckel, treasurer at its last meeting.

U.S. Exports 5 Per Cent
NEW YORK — Five per cent of the United States' national product is exported.

WINS FARMER'S WEEK CONTEST — William Middleton, 18, of Lake Orion, was winner of the Dairy Cattle Fitting and Showing Ribbon at the Farmer's Week contest last week on the Michigan State University campus, East Lansing. A short course student studying general agriculture at MSU, the Lake Orion youth outclassed 40 other MSU students for the award. Because all animals exhibited were university owned, contestants were ranked on their fitting and showing ability.

Schedule TB Skin Tests in Orion District Schools

ORION TOWNSHIP — A tuberculosis skin test will be given in grades one, six and 11 of the Orion District schools beginning on March 3.

The Mantoux test is a simple, harmless test, performed by a team of nurses who have performed the test on several thousands of youngsters. The test is within the skin like a surface blister rather than a scratch or injection.

LINDA SUE HARRIS
Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Harris of 2901 Deland, Drayton Plains, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Linda Sue, to Charles W. Ploe, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ploe of 3835 Lakeview, Orchard Lake. The wedding date has not been set.

The team is experienced in the reading of the results as well. Redness does not necessarily mean the person has active tuberculosis, and the majority will react negatively.

The purpose of the skin testing program in the schools is to find new cases in early stages and to determine the nature and extent of TB within the community.

DISEASE EXPOSURE
A positive skin test result shows that at some time there has been exposure to the disease. The tuberculin positive individual needs a chest X-ray.

All persons 15 years of age or older are urged to have a chest X-ray whenever a positive skin test is found in the family.

Further information and permission slips, which must be signed by the parents, will be sent out Feb. 13.

Deaths from tuberculosis have decreased dramatically in recent years, yet it is not under control, health authorities say. New cases reported in Michigan each year average more than 100 a week. The lives of most of these people can be saved, thanks to advances in treatment and to the availability of tuberculosis hospitals, doctors say.

Memorial Gift Received by Church in Imlay City

IMLAY CITY — A new guest register stand and two lamps, donated to the Congregational Church here in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hobolt by members of their family, will be dedicated in the near future, the pastor said.

The Rev. Darrell Tallman will return Saturday from Washington, D. C., and New York City where he has been attending the Methodist Youth Fellowship tour. Mrs. William Knight also accompanied the youth group.

Announce Engagement

LAPEER — Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Foy of Camden, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to Richard A. Quinn, son of Mrs. Richard J. Quinn and the late Mr. Quinn of Lapeer. Richard is with the U.S. Navy, stationed in Key West, Fla. An April 5 wedding is planned.

Lapeer
Recently elected officers of the Lapeer County Bowman are Bob Schomaker and Ron Reamer, both re-elected to their respective posts of president and vice president. Phyllis Bray of Imlay City was elected secretary.

The club held its first indoor shoot at the Lapeer County Building last week with children and adults competing.

White Lake Township
Elected to serve Cedar-Crest Evangelical Lutheran congregation in 1958 are Kenneth Switzer, president; Harry Johns, vice president; A. D. Sadler, secretary; Stanley Sherman, financial secretary; Ronald Hofmeister, treasurer; and Clarence Mahrie, Sunday School superintendent.

Dryden
Installed as officers of St. John Church in Dryden are Ross Reynolds, chairman, Gerald Dockham, treasurer, and Catherine Zelezak, clerk. New members of the Bishop's Committee are Thomas Robinson and Frank Alchison.

St. John's Women's Auxiliary president; Mrs. Louis Milliken, vice president; and Mrs. Doris Faulds, secretary; Mrs. Vera Blair was re-elected to her third term as treasurer of the group.

At Blanche Sims School

Fluoride Program Opens

ORION TOWNSHIP — Topical fluoride dental treatments for kindergarten and second grade students began at Blanche Sims School yesterday, with a dental chair purchased by the school PTA seeing its first service.

The program, aimed at retarding tooth decay, will continue each Wednesday for children whose parents have signed permission slips and paid the $3 cost. PTAs in the township and Oakland County Health Department are cooperating in the program, which includes dental examination, cleaning and four applications of fluoride.

Because the dental hygienist is available only on Wednesdays, beginning dates for the program in other schools in the township have not yet been scheduled.

When treatments for the Blanche Sims children of the kindergarten and second grades are completed, the dental chair will be moved to Proper School and the children of Webber, Carpenter and Proper in the same grades will be treated.

South Lyon Pair Corn Winners

McCrary, Kessler Post Yield of 115.5 Bushels in County Contest

Robert F. McCrary and Albert Kessler, both of South Lyon, are co-champions of the annual Oakland County Corn Contest, Jay Poffenberger, assistant county agricultural agent, announced today.

Each of the winners had a yield of 115.5 bushels of shelled corn per acre in the senior class division.

Douglas Long, 14, of Milford, is Junior Class Champion. He grew 98.2 bushels of shelled corn per acre.

Sam Miller of Clarkston and Keith Middleton of Lake Orion placed third and fourth in the contest, respectively.

During the contest, records were kept on the fertilizer applied, types of tillage practices used, number of plants per acre, planting date and cost of production per bushel.

Poffenberger said that an early planting date, a high plant population per acre, the right fertilization and minimum tillage usually give best results.

Van Horn's Hearing Reset for Feb. 15

Examination of Billy Ray Van Horn, charged with the first-degree murder of a Waterford Township housewife, has been rescheduled for 10 a.m. Feb. 13 before township justice Donald E. Adams.

Originally scheduled for today, the examination was adjourned on request of Van Horn's court-appointed attorney, Brackie J. Orr, of Pontiac.

An ex-convict and former Pontiac resident, Van Horn, 24, is accused of the slaying of Mrs. Hazel Murdock, 39, wife of an Alcoholic Anonymous member who had tried to help him curb his drinking.

The victim's body was found on the kitchen floor of her home, 127 N. Josephine St. Jan. 24. She had been beaten, criminally attacked, stabbed and strangled with a metal coat hanger.

Van Horn confessed about 30 hours later that he had become angered when the woman ordered him out of her home because he had been drinking.

OK Cleaning Out Novi Drain Section

Township Attorney Anthony Rennie is studying a code adopted by another township and will make recommendations for a Novi curfew order.

Proposes Federal Aid for Volunteer Fire-Fighters

Volunteer firemen will receive a hand from the federal government if Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County) has his way.

Broomfield has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives which would permit the federal government to donate surplus property to volunteer fire-fighting units.

"The federal government has a lot of equipment no longer needed which would be of invaluable help to volunteer fire departments," said Broomfield. Such equipment as water tanks for fire trucks, tarpaulins, axes and pumping equipment could be readily utilized by these volunteer departments, Broomfield said.

"Many smaller communities are hard pressed for funds to supply necessary fire-fighting equipment," Broomfield added. Broomfield pointed out that regular fire departments have made wide use of Civil Defense funds in modernizing their departments.

"The volunteers have been left out in the cold, so to speak," he said. "Who knows? This equipment could mean the difference between life and death to some area served by a volunteer. We should do all we can to see that such equipment is made available where it can do the most good."

Madison Restaurant Loses $110 in Holdup

MADISON HEIGHTS — A lone gunman held up Carrie's Drive-in restaurant, 28875 Dequindre, near Eight Mile road, last night and escaped with $110.

Mrs. Caroline Berzer, the owner, said the bandit walked into the restaurant about 12:30 a.m. and told her, "Open up and hand over the folding money."

She said she got $110 in bills from the cash register but left another $50 in change.

The only other person in the restaurant at the time was her husband, Clem, who was standing near her behind the counter.

They told Madison Heights Police the gunman was about 23 years old and 5 feet 2 inches tall. He drove off in a car which the couple didn't get a good look at, police said.

MARJORIE F. MCLENAGHAN

Mr. and Mrs. Richard McLenaghan of Big Beaver road, Troy Township, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Faye, to George May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Baron of Terrybrook Lane, Orchard Lake. No date has been set for the wedding.

Hope to Raise Sunken Liner

Ingenious Plan Devised to Hoist Andrea Doria From Ocean Floor

NEW YORK (U-P) — Two salvage operators announced today they have acquired control of the sunken Italian liner Andrea Doria and will attempt to re-surface her this spring.

They are Armando Conti, 58, president of the AAA Salvage Co., Trenton, N. J., and Richard Meyer, 41, president of the Marquise Marine Co., Wyandotte, Mich.

The Doria and the Swedish liner Stockholm collided off Nantucket Island July 25, 1956. The Doria sank in 225 feet of water. Fifty persons lost their lives in the accident.

Meyer said the salvage operation would begin "just as soon as the weather allows." Cost of the project is estimated at 3½ million dollars.

Here is an outline of the salvage plan:

1. Skin divers will attach 60 big rubber tubes to the ship, now lying on her side. Compressed air will be pumped into the tubes. This is intended to get the vessel into an upright position, though she still would be under water.

Then about 70 wire cables, 700 feet long and four inches thick, would be slipped under the liner and made fast to two Great Lakes ore vessels, one on each side of the sunken liner.

Water will be poured into the holds of the ore vessels, so they will settle about 15 feet. The slack in the cables will be taken up, and then the ore vessels will be pumped out to raise the Doria slightly.

Tugs would tow the ore vessels and the underslung Doria to shallower water. This process would be repeated until the Doria reached water shallow enough so floating drydocks could be used to take her into port.

Meyer said if the liner is raised intact it might be sold to a shipping line to be placed back in service. Otherwise it could be sold for scrap.

Battle Creek Is Breaking Out of Its Rail and Water Noose

By ROGER LANE
AP Lansing Correspondent
(Fifth in a series of articles on municipal problems)

A noose of waterways and railroad tracks was strangling the economic heart of Battle Creek.

To break these bonds by mighty and costly effort or submit to creeping decay—this was the choice.

Four years ago, the city chose the way of progress—25 million dollars worth in a bold public works program designed to:

1. End disastrous floods, like the near-catastrophe of 1947.
2. Open traffic flow in a central business district choked by hoops of railroad steel, water-courses that made it an island, inadequate bridges and awkward network of streets.
3. Raze crime-breeding slums.
4. Convert the 83 acres thus reclaimed to a central district for light and service industry, greatly expanded off-street parking, expressways and beautifying parkways.
5. Thereby replace tax-poor properties with tax-producing development.
6. Overcome pressing water and sewer problems.

Once the price tag of doing all this stood at a prohibitive 60 million dollars. But the wizardry of former Mayor William V. Bailey and the late Rep. Paul W. Shafer more than halved the figure.

The city's share in the lower amount currently is estimated at six million dollars, with the other 19 millions coming from federal and state sources.

BREAKING THE RING

For 60 years, there had been talk of breaking the ring of Grand Trunk and New York Central Railroad tracks that tightly encircle downtown, and which presently carry some 80 trains a day over a dozen grade crossings.

Consolidate the two railroad systems, elevate the track or both, planners said. But the cost was huge, and nothing much was done.

Then, 11 years ago, a flood wreaked havoc. Flood waters knocked out businesses and factories, threw 1,100 persons out of work and lapped to within a few inches of key power supply facilities.

With the high waters fresh in local minds, Bailey and other city officials started a joint attack on the flood and railroad problems. Gradually other objectives were woven into the combination plan. The railroads agreed in principle to both use one right of way, and to cooperate in removal of the bercolosis-infested "flats" section in the river's south bank.

While everything is ripped up, the city is renovating and expanding the area's sewage and water facilities.

Much of the acreage is ideal for light industry and 53 acres are being zoned accordingly, with high hopes of adding valuable property to the city's rolls, strengthening its tax base and boosting adjacent land values.

The other 30 acres will be devoted to main thoroughfares, a traffic interchange and off-street parking.

Thus the day is in sight when traffic seldom if ever will back up two and three blocks, as happens now, when a railroad train blocks two or more main business streets while picking up or letting off passengers.

Unless some big hitch develops, Battle Creek, a city that owed its founding and early prosperity to water and rail, will escape stifling by a latter day surplus of these blessings.

(Next—Grassy malls for downtown sections)

The Rockefeller Center in New York is visited daily by about 130,000 persons, including workers and tourists.

Simultaneously, wreckers busy on a slum clearance project are fast leveling 83 acres of ramshackle housing in the Jewell street redevelopment area, a tu-

Unemployment Bill Proposed

Kennedy Says States Have Not Improved Compensation Setups

WASHINGTON (U-P) — Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.) planned today to introduce legislation to increase unemployment compensation payments and extend coverage of the program.

Kennedy said the bill was designed to bring improvements which President Eisenhower has urged the states to make. He said not one state has done so.

Legislation is needed now, he said, because "unemployment has passed the four million mark and may well reach five million in the near future."

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) has announced he is drafting a bill to set up a public works administration similar to that of the 1930s. It's needed to avert "a catastrophe to our economy," he said.

Under Gore's proposals, the federal government would provide half a billion dollars for state, county and local public works projects which would use workers on the jobless rolls. Federal funds would pay 90 per cent of the project's cost.

Kennedy's bill would set up federal requirements for many aspects of the unemployment compensation program now left to state determination. It would:

1. Provide for a benefit period of 39 weeks instead of the 26 weeks suggested to the states by Eisenhower. The period now varies greatly from state to state.

2. Fix maximum weekly benefit payments at two thirds of a state's average weekly wage. Benefits now average only a third of lost wages, Kennedy said.

3. Extend coverage to all firms employing one or more persons. Present law covers those with four or more employees.

4. Establish a re-insurance fund and contingency administration expense fund to help the states worst hit by unemployment.

Kennedy said the bill would not require any increase in the present 3 per cent unemployment tax maximum.

Indictments Delayed by Wrong-Turn Juror

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (U-P) — No indictments were returned by the grand jury yesterday because one juror forgot to make a left turn. The jurors must make a left turn at the bottom of a flight of stairs en route from the jury quarters to Criminal Court.

Martin J. Murphy forgot to turn and walked out another door. His absence wasn't noted until later. By that time, he had disappeared. True bills will be returned Monday.

Mexican Roads Better

It said: "To Marie, our adopted daughter...We couldn't visit you in person so please accept this gift. Hurry and get well." Enclosed was $229.10 in cash.

Solons Ignore TB Care Bills

Heustis Declares That They're Vital for Sound State Program

LANSING (AP)—A bundle of bills the state health commissioner has declared essential to a sound tuberculosis program in Michigan has so far been ignored by the Legislature.

"I know I laid my head on the chopping block," said Dr. Albert E. Heustis yesterday, in an appearance before the Senate Appropriations Committee.

He explained he expected some criticism from local units of government and from the Legislature, mostly because his proposals would require some immediate additional expense.

The additional expense eventually would be paid off by reductions in the long-range cost of TB patient care, he insisted.

Heustis recommended four specific bills to carry out a modern TB program. None has as yet been introduced.

He declared that Michigan, paying nine million dollars a year for patient care, is at the crossroads in planning its program. Changes are essential, he said, for an economically sound program.

Main trends, Heustis said, are the increased need for supervision of patients completing treatment at home and the decreased need for sanatorium beds.

A recent check, Heustis said, showed 3,745 patients being cared for in the state's 21 state and local sanatoria while 916 beds are not being used for TB care.

Officials of seven local sanatoria, Heustis reported, already are planning to use part of their institutions for treatment of patients suffering from other diseases.

Thieves Helping Charity

GREENFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Judge Samuel T. Tisdale was charitable in handing out a sentence—but not to the defendants. Three youths, accused of stealing a total of $12 in house-to-house March of Dimes collections, were ordered to pay $120 to the fund.

Probes Death, Dies

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP)—Thomas Carberry, 43, fell 40 feet to his death while cleaning a window. John Allan, 54-year-old owner of the window cleaning firm went to investigate the accident. He leaned out the same window, also fell, also was killed.

25 Airlines May Hike Fares, Add Ticket Fee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Passenger tickets on 25 of the nation's airlines may cost more beginning Monday.

The 25 lines have asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to authorize a four per cent fare increase, plus an added $1 service charge for each ticket, effective Feb. 10. The board previously said it would grant such an interim boost while it studies airline petitions for fare increases ranging from 12 to 20 per cent.

Seek Jobs in State for Unemployed

LANSING (INS)—An all-out bi-partisan push was under way in Lansing and Washington today to win jobs for the ever-growing number of unemployed Michigan residents.

Michigan lawmakers in both capitals are urging expanded public projects such as roads, schools and post offices—traditional sources of employment in times of business recessions—be pushed with all possible speed.

Senators and representatives in Washington have demanded that the Defense Department give priority to the distressed areas in awarding missile and other contracts.

In Lansing they seek updating of highway projects to provide immediate work.

License Plates for '58 in Waterford Monday

License plates for 1958 will not be available at the Waterford Township Hall, M59 at Crescent Lake road, until Monday at 9 a.m., according to Willis M. Brewer, Pontiac Secretary of State branch manager.

A story in Wednesday's Press erroneously said the sale of the auto plates will begin tomorrow.

Raze U. of M. Building

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The 77-year-old romance language building at the University of Michigan began crumbling under the weight of the demolition worker's sledgehammer Wednesday. The razing is to be completed by April. But no new building is planned for the site. The University has moved the language offices to another building.

Crushed Beneath Truck

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Ralph L. Starks, 53, of Ann Arbor, was killed when he fell under the wheel of his fuel oil truck as it rolled down an incline during a delivery yesterday.

Delay Confirmation of 2 Appointments

LANSING (AP)—Republican Senators reviewing two of Gov. Williams' appointments to the State Public Service Commission uncovered no major criticisms but held up approving them for confirmation.

Interviewed yesterday by the Senate Business Committee were Chairman Otis M. Smith, Flint Democrat, and Thomas M. Burns, Saginaw Republican and a former House member. Smith took office last July. Burns in August.

Smith and Burns said the commission has reached a current basis in handling utilities and railroad cases, and expects to do likewise shortly in the motor carrier division.

Smith said the commission, once strife-ridden and with a big backlog of undecided cases, is operating "harmoniously."

Burns said he was "hopeful" that utility rates cases which once took a year henceforth can be decided in about 60 days after filing. Senators said privately action on the two was held up because of a need for smoothing out controversy among Republican legislators over Burns, who sometimes broke ranks with his party during his House tenure.

State Senator Assailed for Misusing Road Maps

LANSING (AP)—The State Highway Department threw 25,000 maps at Sen. John P. Smeekens (R-Coldwater) today.

The department charged that Smeekens used the maps for political purposes at the expense of the taxpayers and notified the senator he was cut off from a further supply.

The maps came into the limelight after Smeekens had charged that John C. Mackie, state highway commissioner, had not lived up to his promise to make U.S. 27 one of his prime construction projects.

"Is your statement now to be regarded as a mere political gesture to be forgotten?" Smeekens asked.

Mackie replied that if Smeekens would read the program he would find that it called for the spending of some 90 million dollars to improve and reconstruct some 200 miles of U.S. 27.

"Furthermore," Mackie said, "I am sending a letter to the senator notifying him that the Highway Department, under my administration, will no longer help finance his political career at the taxpayers' expense."

"I find last May he obtained

'Egg and I' Writer in Critical Condition

SEATTLE (AP)—Mrs. Betty MacDonald, 49, whose breezy story of life on a backwoods chicken farm exploded into a best seller 13 years ago, is in very critical condition at a Seattle hospital. She has cancer.

Mrs. MacDonald's hit story in 1945 was "The Egg and I." Later she turned out "Flora, Figgle-Wiggle," "The Flaque and I," "Mrs. Figgle-Wiggle's Magic," "Anybody Can Do Anything," "Nancy and Plum" and "Onions in the Stew."

The mother of two children, Mrs. MacDonald has been living at Carmel, Calif., in recent years.

3 Escape Serious Injury as Plane Crashes on Ice

ST. IGNACE (AP)—A 65-year-old pilot and two passengers escaped serious injury when a single-engine plane crash-landed on frozen Moran Bay near St. Ignace yesterday.

Reinhold Gehrike of Hubbard Lake, pilot and owner, suffered facial cuts. Henry Swartz and Bernard Diamond were uninjured.

Witnesses said the plane apparently stalled while Gehrike was circling in search of a landing spot. The three men had planned to go ice-fishing.

Hal Boyle Says:

Ex-Boy Evangelist Conquering Broadway

NEW YORK (AP)—A former boy evangelist has conquered Broadway in his first role.

Lonnie Sattin, son of an itinerant Negro minister, is being hailed by critics for his surprise success in the musical, "Body Beautiful" in which he plays a professional boxer.

His dramatic, concert-trained voice steals the show. "I came up singing," said Lonnie. "I can't remember a time when I didn't sing. You know how it is with a minister's boy. You get put in a choir as soon as you can toddle."

A bright future as an entertainment star of the first magnitude now appears certain for Lonnie. But he worked hard to get where he is, and the prospect of quick fame now doesn't overwhelm him.

Before undertaking any new venture, he prays long and earnestly. This is what he prays for: "I pray for happiness, not merely success. I ask God whether, if I am successful, I can handle it humbly and graciously. If not, I don't want it."

Sattin, one of nine children, was born in Jacksonville, Fla., but moved as a child to Philadelphia. He earned his way through Temple University by working as a barber, house painter, and door-to-door salesman.

His childhood interests were theology and law but for a brief time he thought of becoming a prizefighter. Then he worked out with Honeychile Johnson. "He clipped me a good one on the chin," said Lonnie, "and I decided right then in favor of theology."

Following the example of his father, a Church of God pastor, Lonnie toured the seaboard from New York to North Carolina as an evangelist.

After winning a singing contest sponsored by the National Freedom Day Assn., Sattin gave a series of concerts that won attention. Soon he had to face a choice—to stay in the ministry or to seek a musical career. It took him four months to make up his mind.

"I hated to turn my back on my father, who always had wanted me to follow in his footsteps," said Lonnie. "My father knew the spiritual torment I was going through. I finally decided to make song my ministry when he told me, 'You have to live with yourself, son. You can't preach with a divided mind.'"

Still in his mid-30s, Lonnie neither smokes nor drinks. Every now and then he accepts an invitation to preach or give Sunday School talks to boys' clubs.

"Sometimes," said his wife, "I wonder whether Lonnie is as far away from the ministry as he thinks he is."

"I do miss it," said Lonnie. "When you pray over a sick child, or a funeral, then you're at the real heart of people. You can't touch people that way in a night club. But a man can't have everything—or be everybody—and I've made my choice."

Gets Stuck in Chimney Trying to Enter House

ALTMORE, Northern Ireland (AP)—Harry McVeigh, 44, locked himself out of his new house yesterday.

Unwilling to break a window or force a door, he got a ladder, climbed to the roof and started down a chimney.

Some 13 hours and many plaintive calls for help later, McVeigh attracted the attention of a passing hiker. Rescuers hauled him out at the end of a rope, sooty but unhurt. Then they helped him force a door.

Harnessing H-Power Soviet Problem, Too

LONDON (AP)—A leading Soviet scientist said today that the Soviet Union, like the West, is still a long way from harnessing the H-bomb to give electric power.

"A number of years of intensive research by scientists of all countries will still be needed to obtain the knowledge required for the design of an industrial (thermo) nuclear reactor," said physicist Igor V. Kurchatov in a Moscow radio broadcast.

Kurchatov is director of the Atomic Energy Institute of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

Health Director to Talk

DETROIT (AP)—Dr. Frederick D. Mott, executive director of the Community Health Assn. of Detroit, will address the Economic Club Monday. He will discuss the background and purposes of the association.

Scientists have succeeded in increasing sugar cane yield by "waking up" the plants at night with powerful lights. Light inhibits the tassel development which affects sugar yield.

'Where to Park' Headache for Most Metropolitan Areas

By WILLIAM FERRIS
Associated Press Writer
(Third in Series)

Where can I find a place to park?

That plaintive question comes daily from millions who drive into the city as America's transportation revolution gathers speed.

The private automobile's skyrocketing popularity has now produced more problems than in metropolitan areas. Related to it is the sick situation of public transportation, both in the big city and its suburbs.

There are fewer and fewer people like Toledo's Al Smith, an office worker, who says: "If I drove to work, I'd have to pay for parking. The bus gets me to work in 25 minutes. I came here from New York and, believe me, 25 minutes seems like nothing."

Some cities encourage private industry to build parking lots. Others, such as Chicago, build municipal lots. Chicago has 48 city garages and parking lots.

Washington, St. Louis, Miami, Columbus and Chicago are among cities with "park and ride" plans. Parking lots are established near mass transportation lines and motorists are expected to drive to the lot, park all day and use mass transportation to get downtown.

Boston is seeking a subterranean garage under Boston Common in the heart of the city. Cleveland is attempting to induce private capital to build a garage under its public mall.

Los Angeles has a new law that no new building can be constructed in the downtown area without providing for parking by its occupants.

Other cities are going off in a different direction: keep the private automobile out of the downtown areas.

New Orleans is working on a plan to exclude traffic from a large part of its business district, allowing only pedestrians. Indianapolis is considering eliminating traffic on four diagonal avenues in the center of town. One objective of a New Haven three-year plan is the exclusion of parking in a mile-square central section of the city.

Moses O. W. Campbell, county manager of Dade County, Miami, Fla., says: "Someday the automobile may well be as outmoded downtown as the horse and buggy."

It often happens that the new highways cities are building create still newer problems.

In Philadelphia, for example, the Schuylkill Expressway, which will be finished in about a year, and the Delaware River Expressway, which has not yet been started, will each be able to carry traffic toward downtown at the rate of 4,500 cars an hour. But there is no center street downtown capable of handling more than 1,200 cars an hour.

A few cities — New Orleans is one — are toying with the idea of monorail. This scheme would transport people in 60 passenger coaches above streets.

To combat the growing stagnation of the downtown area, Rochester, N.Y., has a plan of loop highways. Robert Aex, city manager, says: "The shortest distance between two points is still a straight line but the fastest way to get from one point to another in a central city is via a circle."

One highway — the inner loop — circles around the heart of downtown Rochester. It will be completed by 1960. An outer loop, under construction, will surround the city at its fringe. Highways called "connectors" will link the inner and outer loops.

The bus as a mode of mass transportation is not popular. Numerous bus lines, particularly in

34 Oakland Men, Women Enlist in Navy, WAVES

The Navy Recruiting Station in Pontiac has announced that a total of 32 Oakland County men enlisted in the Navy and two county women enlisted in the WAVES during the month of January.

Hoadley of 60 Second Ave., Jerold L. Kovach of 111 Center St., Jesse Lane Jr. of 488 East Blvd. and John F. Peek of 35 Osburn St.

William W. Angell, William E. Barrow, Roger G. Holmes and Larry J. Davis, all of Waterford Township, and Daniel L. Cork of West Bloomfield Township also signed up.

Among the other county enlistees are Robert H. Bourque, Ralph A. MacLachlan and Peter M. Marriott, all of Lake Orion; Michael W.

Coe of Walled Lake, Arthur E. Kennedy of South Lyon, Frank H. Michelson of Birmingham, Glenn L. Portus of Oxford, Wesley H. Slingerland of Drayton Plains, William J. Swinson of Rochester and Donald C. Williams of Milford.

Also enlisting from Oakland County were Bert A. Wistow and Richard S. Armour, both of Royal Oak; Gerald P. Harris and William D. Erickson, both of Ferndale; William L. Vivian and George J. Perrault, both of Hazel Park; John R. Stuber of Huntington Woods, William C. Fokken of Madison Heights, Gerald A. Scheffler of Clawson and Marshall B. Wolverton Jr. of Berkley.

Heartbroken Vanguard Chief Vows: 'We'll Try Again'

Hagen's 'Oh, No!' Proves: Scientists ARE Human

By JAMES LEE

WASHINGTON (INS) — "Three...two...one...zero...ignition...lift-off...up...I can hear it roaring...running...steady...still going up...plus 50...plus 60...something's happened...Oh, no!"

Heartbreak. The tragedy of the Vanguard. The crushing disappointment of Dr. John P. Hagen's stricken, unbelieving "Oh, no!" echoed like a cry of doom yesterday at Naval Research Laboratory Headquarters in Washington.

But the scientists who are leading the U.S. into the uncharted reaches of outer space are men of the same giant breed as those who split the atom. They know heartbreak, but despair, no.

For the second time within two months, Hagen, 47-year-old chief of the Navy's Vanguard earth satellite project, was on a telephone line to Cape Canaveral, Fla., linking him with the mighty effort to rocket a man-made moon into space.

On Dec. 6, his chant was "Three...two...one...zero...ignition...explosion...Nuts!" At 2:35 a.m. yesterday, the tension even tighter, the pressure greater, the suspense even more unbearable, he could not choke back the anguished utterance, "Oh, no!"

Yet within moments after the second Vanguard, broken and wobbling, swerving weirdly from its fiery path, was destroyed at 20,000 feet by the touch of a button pressed by a range safety officer, Hagen was promising grimly: "We'll try again."

At Cape Canaveral, Hagen's youthful-looking deputy, J. Paul Walsh, already a veteran of the dawned Age of Space, rubbed his eyes as if to erase the memory of Vanguard II's destruction.

Maj. Gen. Donald N. Yates, missile test center commander who five nights ago experienced the glorious jubilation of success when the Army's Jupiter-C thundered into space and thrust America's first satellite, the Explorer, into orbit, turned dejected.

edly from Vanguard's launching platform.

At the test center, a technician whose face was wet with what might have been sweat or what might have been tears, spoke jerkily to no one in particular.

"You've got to remember, it's all trial and error, trial and error," he said. "These things go wrong before they go right. They all could tell you that. They could have told you that at Los Alamos, where they built the first A-bomb."

Hagen's own heartbreak was cloaked in what must have seemed strangely bitter irony. When the countdown for the blast-off of Vanguard II began Tuesday night he was at the White House, a stellar figure surrounded by his fellow pioneers of space.

President Eisenhower and the First Lady were honoring nuclear and rocket geniuses at a state dinner. There were toasts to the Explorer, and then John Hagen, the Vanguard man, was applauded when he lifted his glass and said, "Here's to our baby!"

"Aren't you worried?" asked a reporter who knew that under the flood-lights at Cape Canaveral the Vanguard's crew tolled feverishly to ready the slender, 73-foot bird for its flight. "Yes," Hagen replied quietly, "I'm worrying."

He left the White House early, rushed home to divest himself of his resplendent tail coat and white tie, hurried to his headquarters, clutched the phone linking him with the Cape, and began the excruciating vigil that was to end with his cry of "Oh, no!"

Hagen's dejection was shared by the men of his team. . .Walsh. . . Dan Mazur, Vanguard operations group manager. . . Paul Herget, astronomical consultant. . . Bob Mackey, electronics instrumentation chief. . . Dr. Joe Stry, rocket theoretician. . . John Mengel, head of tracking and guidance. . .

Others, too. . . Jim Bridger, performance analysis expert. . . Leopold Winkler, engineering consultant. . . Homer Newell, high altitude research wizard. . . Milton Rosen, developer of the Viking rocket.

Some were at the Cape; some were clustered around Hagen in Washington.

In the moment of disaster they were not only scientists, equipped with special knowledge of the mysteries of space vehicles, but human beings, men who made no effort to conceal their heartbreak.

But before the day was over they were back at their work tables, back with their computers and slide rules, back with all the esoteric tools of their strange and awesome trade, conferring, pondering, quietly arguing — getting ready to try again.

Speaking for them, Rear Adm. Rawson Bennett, chief of naval research, said he was "disappointed but not downhearted" by the fiery death of Vanguard II one minute after its blast-off.

The admiral, a man who has known much of triumph and much of tragedy in his naval career, said that the rocket's failure was an occurrence "normal to any development project."

"Who is to blame?" he was asked. Bennett stared icily at the interrogator. For a moment, his quizzical temper seemed about to explode. Then he said, gently, as if talking to a backward child: "I would not assess any blame to anybody."

"Do you still have full faith in the Vanguard concept?" he was asked.

"Absolutely," he snapped. Nearly four miles in the darkness of the Florida sky, 20,000 feet above the pyre of Vanguard I, the second Vanguard burned and split apart like a rag doll tossed into a bonfire.

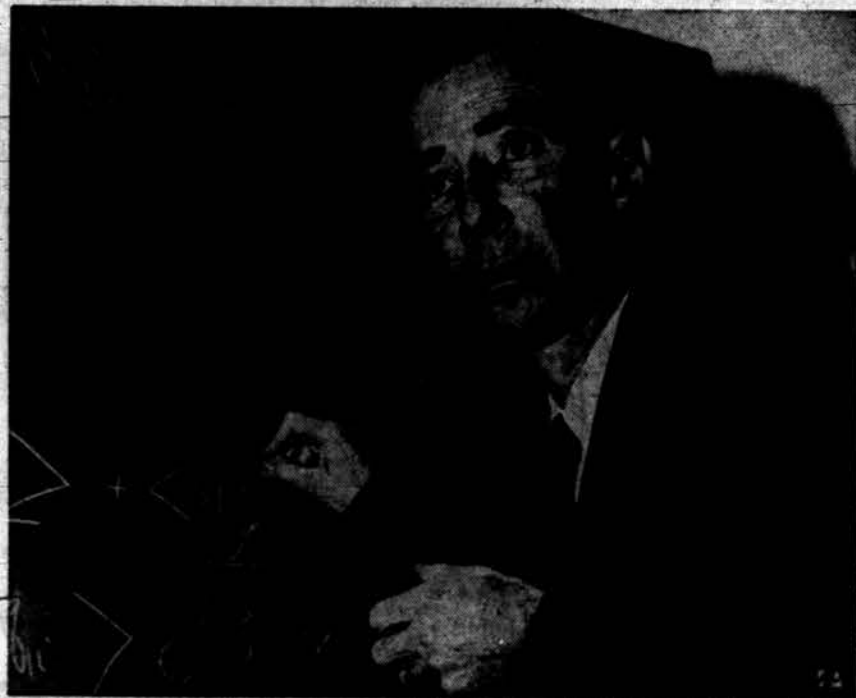

And the heartbreak of the men who built the Vanguards and staked their faith and hope in the gleaming rocket with the tiny satellite in its nose was as understandable as a child's grief.

But it was a heartbreak such as men like Enrico Fermi and Edward Teller and others who have led the world into a new age have known, mastered, and perhaps forgotten in the light of the great and continuing breakthroughs of science.

Khrushchev May Be Headed for Trouble

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Nikita Khrushchev vows to use milk, meat and butter as a battering ram to smash through capitalism. But he may be headed for serious trouble, because Soviet cattle don't seem to be cooperating.

After defeating Kremlin foes, the Communist Party chief's big bid for public support is a promise that the U.S.S.R. by 1960 will catch up with the United States in per capita meat, butter and milk production.

DESTROY POWER

If he means this and really tries it, Khrushchev may destroy his own power in the effort. If he doesn't, it means he will add one more to the long chain of broken promises made to an increasingly aware Soviet public.

The Kremlin's big butter and meat man won his purge victory by a slim margin. There is no reason to assume the struggle is over. Strong opposition remains to any threat of cutback in Soviet heavy industry, which builds military and world political power.

But without a serious cutback, Khrushchev has little hope of achieving his consumer goals for decades to come.

Khrushchev began whooping up the meat-butter-milk theme in the spring in regional farm conferences. At one of these, he said milk and meat output would fashion "the battering ram with which we will smash through the capitalist system and consolidate the socialist (communist) camp."

SHOALS AHEAD

If there are shoals ahead. Despite Moscow reports of huge economic gains, there is evidence this year's grain crop will be many millions of tons below last year's bumper output.

What's the matter with Soviet food production? It's an old story. The farmer is at the bottom of the economic ladder. He has received little but promises of future rewards. Rapid industrialization of the U.S.S.R. has been at his expense. He pays now for the emphasis on heavy industry.

Collective farm deliveries of products to the state at virtually confiscatory prices in the past all but extinguished peasant enthusiasm for cooperative farming.

The situation has been somewhat eased since Stalin's death — another bow to a growing phenomenon in the Soviet Union which looks suspiciously like public opinion.

HELP IN CITIES

In addition to all this, skilled help has been siphoned from the farms for city industries, a condition the regime recently has been trying to correct.

Against this background, the prospects for swift increases in Soviet food production seem dim.

For example, the U.S.S.R. has a dairy cow population 10 per cent bigger than that of the United States. It serves a population 15 to 20 per cent bigger. At the same time, better feeding and breeding make the total milk output in the United States twice that of the Soviet Union.

In 1953 Khrushchev admitted the overall Soviet livestock situation was worse than in 1917. There has been little significant advance in this picture since 1953. Milk output remains low. In some regions, livestock population has decreased because of fodder shortages. The poultry and cattle population is not enough to meet minimum public demands.

Fodder shortages impel peasants to slaughter livestock rather than see it perish in winter.

American farm workers achieve 6 to 12 times the labor productivity of their Soviet counterparts. A recent report prepared for the Joint Economic Committee of the U.S. Congress, says of this:

"Even if labor productivity in Soviet agriculture should continue to increase at the rate of 33 per cent each five years, as was officially claimed to have taken place between 1950 and 1955, it is interesting to note that it would take Soviet agriculture until at least 1985 to reach the 1955 level of labor productivity in United States Agriculture."

FIGURES DISTORTED

Even Khrushchev's current figures on butter, milk and meat output seem distorted. He claims the U.S.S.R. in 1956 produced 50 pounds of meat, 540 pounds of milk and six pounds of butter per person. As U.S. figures, for comparison, he uses 225 pounds of meat, 136 pounds of milk and 8.36 pounds of butter per person.

Khrushchev's own Central Statistical Board last fall announced a cow population slightly more than 30 million. By Khrushchev's figures this would mean each cow would have to produce slightly less than two tons of milk per year. By Soviet claims, relatively few cows achieved that mark.

Thus the Khrushchev milk and butter figures seem impossible. As for meat, it remains a once-a-week luxury for many Soviet families.

Even if Khrushchev's figures were correct, it would indicate that to overtake the United States, output would have to be doubled or tripled. But in the past three years, Soviet meat output increased only slightly more than 10 per cent.

The basic difference in the U.S. and Soviet food pictures is this: The United States problem is one of abundance, huge surpluses, and how to adjust a vast production capacity to demand. For years the U.S. has had surpluses. But the Soviet problem is a constant struggle to provide a minimum diet for the population. The U.S.S.R. always has had shortages.

The congressional study indicates meat and dairy production in the U.S.S.R. may still be below 1938 levels. U.S. production long ago exceeded that in 1938.

Russia's prospects for overtaking the United States at all must be considered very remote, the congressional report says. The Soviet dilemma is this: The U.S.S.R. economy could provide more food and consumer goods to the public if it would forego heavy industry's production increases. But the Soviet habit, strongly entrenched, is to give all-out priority to heavy industry.

Monkeying with this setup could be dynamite. It could signal a weakening of Soviet world political authority. That could bring a new political explosion.

The congressional report says, however, there is little room for American complacency, since "Soviet economic capabilities are already great enough to support a formidable military machine and to engage in international activities inimical to the interests of the non-communist world."

It adds: "Soviet authorities know they lag far behind the United States in providing consumer goods, with little prospect of catching up in a straight production race. They can take comfort in the doctrinaire assumption that the United States will collapse into economic depression, affording the U.S.S.R. an opportunity to surpass it. This hope should certainly be vain."

Schools Offering Scholarships on Alcohol Study

March 15 has been set as the deadline for submitting applications for scholarships to the annual session of the Yale Summer School of Alcohol Studies, according to Frances Kessler, director of the Pontiac Alcoholism Information Center.

This 16th annual session will be held at Yale University, New Haven, Conn. from June 29 to July 24.

The University of Wisconsin will be the site of the Midwest Institute of Alcohol Studies and scholarships are also available for this summer session.

The institute, held June 23 to 27, is co-sponsored by the Michigan Board of Alcoholism, Western Michigan University, the University of Wisconsin and the Wisconsin Council on Alcoholism. April 15 is the final date for applications to the Midwest Institute.

The scholarships totaling $250 for the Yale School and $75 for the Midwest Institute, will be granted by the State Board of Alcoholism to a limited number.

Further information on the scholarships or attendance at either school may be obtained by contacting George Nimmo, educational director, Michigan State Board of Alcoholism, 230 N. Grand Ave., Lansing.

Both schools are active in educational research and treatment aspects of alcoholism and are designed to meet the needs of persons interested in gaining a better knowledge of alcoholism or alcohol education.

Enrollment is open to people in community leadership, corrections, education, health, industry, law enforcement, medicine, ministry, nursing and social welfare.

The local alcoholism information center is located in the Pontiac City Hall and operated by the city health department. Films and talks are given without charge to any local organizations.

Dearborn Show Spotlight Shines on Sports Cars

A variety of foreign and American sports cars go on display Friday at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, in "Sports Cars in Review."

The three-week display will include some European sports models never before shown in the United States. Featured in the seventh annual showing are 20 cars from England, 12 from Germany, and 11 from Italy.

On display for the first time exhibition, which ends March 2. In the U.S. will be the Fiat-Abarth 750 and the Karman-Ghia convertible Volkswagen. Color films of the 1957 LeMans 24-hour endurance race will be shown continuously throughout the active volcano.

Sallade Urging New Tax Base

Ann Arbor Legislator Would Permit Local Excise Levies

BAY CITY (AP) — Rep. Sallade (R-Ann Arbor) has called for a two-point program to encourage industrial development in Michigan.

The youthful legislator, who admittedly hopes to win the GOP nomination for governor either this year or in 1960, issued his proposals in a speech here yesterday.

"The first step is to enable local governments to diversify their sources of revenue," Sallade said. "The property tax as it now exists is a handicap to new business."

Sallade said by diversifying local revenue he meant passing legislation to permit levying excise taxes of all kinds. He said this probably could be achieved by referendum.

"The second important change would be to alter the base of the business activities tax to one of profits rather than one of added value as it is presently constituted," Sallade said.

"If we really want to attract business to Michigan, our taxes must be based on the ability to pay and so framed that they do not become unnecessarily burdensome in the early stage of organizing a new business venture."

Sallade said he believes Michigan is in a "fiscal and general economic crisis."

But he said these problems could be solved by "intelligent, realistic and proper leadership."

"As citizens of a great state, we must make every effort to rid ourselves of the crepe-hangers of pessimism that dominate so much of our governmental thinking."

The boy and a companion, also 16, were arrested here yesterday. Police said they admitted stealing $36 in cash, a revolver, an electric razor and some foreign coins worth 64 cents from the Prospect Park National Bank earlier in the day.

The father of one of the youths made the unusual admission, apparently in jest, when his son asked him for some money, police said.

New Zealand ranks fourth among the world's wool producing countries.

He says he and his fellow priests must get out and carry religion personally to the people.

"The personal force of a speaker and the power of his convictions sometimes cannot get to the audience through television," he says.

His many appearances, which he calls public relations for the 20-year-old college he helped found, follow a basic pattern.

"I find the common denominator of the group, and then give them 50 minutes of entertainment and 10 minutes of commercial," he told a reporter.

The commercials deal with such topics as the opportunities available in America, work, leadership and salvation.

In his 20 years at Siena, Father Ben has become a campus legend. He jotted students for months by leading his pet duck about the campus on a leash.

His students remember him interrupting calculus classes to expound on his theory on defeating baldness:

"Let the side strands grow long, and comb them across the head. This is the method," he uses.

The Happy Friar also has been dubbed "the apostle of the buses," because of his fondness for transcontinental tours. Last summer, he made his 25th crossing of the continent, and reported he "found the nation in good spiritual health."

He refuses to argue religion with acquaintances during these tours, on the ground that sending them literature is more effective.

Included in the literature usually is his own work, a family prayer card. Father Ben compiled a pamphlet containing most of the common prayers of the Catholic faith. More than one million have been distributed, and it is being translated into foreign languages.

Despite his numerous speaking engagements, Father Ben says one of his rules is:

Charges Goons Used by UAW

Sen. Goldwater Claims Michigan Labor Thugs Sent to Kohler, Wis.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said today evidence before the Senate Rackets Committee shows "goons brought in from Michigan" helped the United Auto Workers in the Kohler Co. strike.

Goldwater is a member of the special investigating committee which announced it would start hearings Feb. 24 on UAW strike disputes with the Kohler plumbing fixtures plant in Wisconsin and the Perfect Circle Corp. in Indiana.

Committee Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) gave no details, except that UAW President Walter Reuther and Herbert Kohler, head of the Kohler firm, would be among the witnesses in hearings that "could run on intermittently for several weeks."

Goldwater told a reporter he understands the inquiry will start with an airing of violence at Kohler for which the union and the company have blamed each other. It also will develop testimony, he said, about a pitched rifle battle in 1955 between friends and opponents of the Perfect Circle.

The Arizona senator, who had vigorously demanded the inquiry, said the evidence will show that "goons were brought in from Michigan to participate in the Kohler strike. It will show this is the general pattern of violence in strikes the UAW has conducted." Sen. McNamara (D-Ark.), another committee member who has accused Goldwater of bias against the UAW, said in a separate interview he had "never heard that charge before." As to whether anybody used goons, he said, "this is a question we are going to investigate."

Moves to Scrap Bill Killing Turnpike Unit

LANSING (AP) — The House-approved bill to kill the Michigan Turnpike Authority will wind up where it did last year — in the scrap heap — if Sen. Haskell L. Nichols has his way. Nichols, Senate Highway Committee chairman, said yesterday that so far as he personally is concerned it will never reach the Senate floor. Nichols said that although the turnpike agency, created in 1953, hasn't laid down any pavements it has "helped keep the state road program before the public, kept the people aware of road needs." Moreover, said the Jackson Republican, there is still a chance that a 30 million dollar toll project might prove feasible in southeastern Michigan.

To Study Living Together in Peace

Ike Considers Launching of World Cultural Parley

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower is considering a plan for a worldwide cultural conference to seek "new and better ways for human beings to exist peaceably together" and to benefit more from scientific discoveries.

Sherman Adams, the President's chief aide, disclosed the project last night. He said the President last week "asked some able people to consider how such a project might be initiated."

Adams, describing the scope of the proposed conference, asked this rhetorical question: "Who is there who can say that a convocation in this country of scholars, historians, artisans, theologians, educators, sociologists, philosophers, artists and musicians — representatives of the cultural pursuits of all the human race — meeting each other in their respective groups — could not suggest new and better ways for human beings to exist peaceably together and to reap the greatest rewards from man's scientific discoveries?"

Adams discussed the project in addressing a Dartmouth College national alumni dinner. He is a graduate of Dartmouth, at Hanover, N.H., and a former governor of New Hampshire. Adams suggested that a conference such as the one under consideration might be organized and

CHAPTER 31

"I don't want it to be you," Alexander assured Lucy.

"I like you very much and so does Stodders. We think you're out of this world as a cook. Absolutely lovely grub. You're very sensible, too."

This last was clearly an expression of high approval. Lucy took it as such and said: "Thank you. But I don't intend to get killed just to please you."

"Well, you'd better be careful, then," Alexander told her.

He paused to consume more nourishment and then said in a slightly off-hand voice:

"If Dad turns up from time to time, you'll look after him, won't you?"

"Yes, of course," said Lucy, a little surprised.

"The trouble with Dad is," Alexander informed her, "that London life doesn't suit him. He gets in, you know, with quite the wrong type of women." He shook his head in a worried manner.

"I'm very fond of him," he added, "but he needs someone to look after him. He drifts about and gets in with the wrong people. It's a great pity Mum died when she did. Bryan needs a proper home life."

He looked solemnly at Lucy and reached out for another chocolate bar.

"Not a fourth one, Alexander," Lucy pleaded. "You'll be sick."

"Oh, I don't think so. I ate six running once and I wasn't. I'm not the bilious type." He paused and then said:

"Bryan likes you, you know."

"He's a bit of an ass in some ways," said Bryan's son, "but he was a jolly good fighter pilot. He's awfully brave. And he's awfully good-natured."

He paused. Then, averting his eyes to the ceiling, he said rather self-consciously:

"I think really, you know, it would be a good thing if he married again. . . . Somebody decent. . . . I shouldn't, myself, mind at all having a stepmother. . . . not I mean, if she was a decent sort. . . ."

With a sense of shock Lucy realized that there was a definite point in Alexander's conversation.

"All this stepmother bosh," went on Alexander, still addressing the ceiling, "is really quite out of date. Lots of chaps Stodders and I know have stepmothers—divorce and all that—and they get on quite well together—depends on the stepmother, of course. And, of course, it does make a bit of confusion taking you out and on Sports day and all that—I mean if there are two sets of parents—though again it helps if you want to cash in!"

He paused, confronted with the problems of modern life. "It's nice to have your own home and your own parents—but if your mother's dead—well, you see what I mean? If she's a decent sort," said Alexander for the third time.

Lucy felt touched.

"I think you're very sensible, Alexander," she said. "We must try and find a nice wife for your father."

"Yes," said Alexander noncommittally.

He added in an offhand manner:

"I thought I'd just mention it. Bryan likes you very much. He told me so. . . ."

"Really," thought Lucy to herself. "There's too much match-making round here. First Miss Marple and now Alexander!"

For some reason or other pigsties came into her mind. . . . She stood up.

"Good night, Alexander. There will be only your wishing things and pajamas to put in in the morning. Good night."

"Good night," said Alexander. He slid down in bed laid his head on the pillow, closed his eyes, giving a perfect picture of a sleeping angel and was immediately asleep.

"Not what you'd call conclusive," said Sergeant Wetherall with his usual gloom.

Craddock was reading through the report on Harold Crackenthorpe's alibi for December 20th.

He had been noticed at Sotheby's about 3:30, but was thought to have left shortly after that. His photograph had not been recognized at Russell's tea-shop, but then they did a busy trade there at tea time, and he was not a habitue, that was hardly surprising. His manservant confirmed that he had returned to Cardigan Gardens to dress for his dinner party at a quarter to seven—rather late, since the dinner was at 7:30, and Mr. Crackenthorpe had been somewhat irritable in consequence. Did not remember hearing him come in that evening but as it was some time ago could not remember accurately and, in any case, he frequently did not hear Mr. Crackenthorpe come in. He and his wife liked to retire early whenever they could. The garage in the mews where Harold kept his car was a private lockup that he rented and there was no one to notice who came or went or any reason to remember one evening in particular.

"All negative," said Craddock, with a sigh.

"He was at the Caterers' dinner all right, but left rather early before the end of the speeches."

"What about the railway stations?"

But there was nothing there, either at Brackhampton or at Paddington. It was nearly four weeks ago, and it was highly unlikely that anything would have been remembered.

Craddock sighed, and stretched out his hand for the data on Cedric. That again was negative, though a taxi driver had made a doubtful recognition of having taken a fare to Paddington that day sometime in the afternoon "what looked something like that bloke. Dirty trousers and a shock of hair. Cussed and swore a bit because fares had gone up since he was last in England!" He identified the day because a horse called Crawler had won the 2.30 and he'd had a tidy bit on. Just after dropping the gent, he'd heard it on the radio in his cab and had gone home forthwith to celebrate.

"Thank God for Racing," said Craddock, and put the report aside.

"And here's Alfred," said Sergeant Wetherall.

Some nuance in his voice made Craddock look up sharply. Wetherall had a pleased appearance.

In the main the check was unsatisfactory. Alfred lived alone in his flat and came and went at unspecified times. His neighbors were not the inquisitive kind and were in any case office workers who were out all day. But towards the end of the report, Wetherall's large finger indicated the final paragraph.

Sergeant Leake, assigned to a case of thefts and lories had been at the Load of Bricks, a lorry pull-up on the Waddington-Brackhampton Road, keeping certain lorry drivers under observation. He had noticed at an adjoining table, Chick Evans, one of the Dicky Rogers mob. With him had been Alfred Crackenthorpe whom he knew by sight, having seen him give evidence in the Dicky Rogers case.

School Violence Erupts Again

One New York Student Beaten, Another Knifed in Latest Outbursts

NEW YORK (AP)—Violence flared anew in the city school system yesterday, with one schoolboy monitor being beaten and another stabbed. The assaults occurred in Manhattan and the Bronx.

The outbreaks followed by a day a plan by Mayor Robert F. Wagner and the City Board of Education to curb crime in the city's nearly 900 public schools. In recent weeks a rash of rapes, hoodlums, assaults and knifings has led to posting of policemen at 41 public schools. Both Negroes and whites have been involved.

Although only a small percentage of the city's million pupils have been involved, the wave of lawlessness has touched off a continuing dispute between the Board of Education and the special Brooklyn grand jury probing crime in the schools.

As part of the plan to curb school crime, Dr. William Jansen, superintendent of schools, and Charles H. Silver, president of the Board of Education, go to the state capitol at Albany today to seek more state aid for education here.

In major incidents, 16-year-old Frank Sloan, who is white, was beaten by three other students, all Negroes, in the lunchroom of the George Washington High School in Manhattan. Sloan, a student monitor, assertedly was attacked after directing three classmates to pick up paper they had thrown on the floor, and also barring them from the girls' section of the cafeteria.

Sloan was taken to a hospital suffering from a brain concussion.

Two of his alleged assailants, both 15, were booked on juvenile delinquency charges. The third, George Addison, 16, was held on a charge of felonious assault.

Junior Editors Quiz on ANIMALS

QUESTIONS: Is a black sheep really bad?

ANSWER: We often hear the expression "he's the black sheep of the family," meaning the person in question did not turn out as well as his brothers and sisters. They may apply to people, but it certainly doesn't apply to sheep. Among sheep raisers, black sheep are just as highly regarded and sell as well as other sheep. In fact, some farmers regard black sheep as lucky and keep them long after the rest of the herd has been shipped to market. Also, wool from a black sheep is as valuable as from any other kind of sheep.

FOR YOU TO DO: Here is a little farm boy trying to catch up with his happily gambolling black lamb. Like many black sheep, this one has become a family pet and rates a pretty ribbon around his fleecy neck. Color this happy scene with your crayons and paste it with others in this series in your scrapbook.

Henry Hudson Junior High School in the Bronx was knifed at the entrance of the school building. Phillip Romano, who is white, was stationed at the school entrance to keep students from entering before the opening bell. Five minutes before the bell, Romano barred a 14-year-old boy, a Negro, from entering. Romano was stabbed in the stomach and an operation was necessary. His condition was described as satisfactory. The 14-year-old boy was arranged on a juvenile delinquency charge and paroled in the custody of his mother.

To Protect Public's Right to Know

Publishers Call for Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Newspaper Publishers Assn. today called for congressional action "to preserve for the people their right to know what their public servants are doing."

The ANPA endorsed proposed legislation that would prevent government officials from using the language of a 1789 law dealing with the handling of records to give them the blanket right to withhold information to which the public is entitled.

The ANPA views were contained in a statement by Col. J. Hale Steinman for presentation to the House Government Information subcommittee headed by Rep. Moss (D-Calif.). Steinman is publisher of the Lancaster Pa. Intelligencer-Journal and New Era, and chairman of the ANPA Federal Laws Committee.

Similar views were expressed in prepared testimony by James S. Pope of Louisville, Ky., representing the Southern Newspaper Publishers Assn., and by Clark Mollenhoff of Washington, speaking for the professional journalistic fraternity, Sigma Delta Chi.

Bob Considine Says:

Moscow, New York—Fine Places to Visit

NEW YORK (INS) — Lot of people have asked, "Did you have any trouble moving around in Russia?"

Not in Moscow, where we spent all but a fraction of our time while in Russia. There probably would have been trouble in certain other areas.

We asked to see their new super-cyclotron, about 60 miles outside of Moscow, but met with polite evasion. It was never a solid, "No," but it amounted to the same. We keep Russian visitors away from certain portions of our country, too.

Russia's (and the world's) chess champion recently was denied the right to play in Dallas. Russia's greatest violinist had to cancel a Syracuse date because a nearby plant makes a component of one of our rockets.

We might have been "bugged" in Moscow, but there was never any suggestion that we were followed. Matter of fact, the language barrier is so titanic that it was a relief — when we didn't have Serge Flegiers of INS with us — to have the services of Zoya Novikova, the lady assigned to us by Intourist, the state-owned travel agency. She knew the sights and sounds of the land and gave us a minimum of party-line.

REDS SUPERVISE

There are several ways of getting to Russia, if you've been toying with the notion, but apparently no way of just going there without some kind of Soviet supervision — as one might go into England, France or Italy.

Intourist maintains offices in the larger cities, and deputized American travel agents in smaller places to act for it.

Ide H. Schmidt of the MacPherson Travel Bureau in New York, who was prospecting for hotels, restaurants and transportation in Russia while we were there, tells me she is busy booking Americans into the U.S.S.R. right now.

Is it interesting?—people ask. Sure. It's not as gay as Paris, or as thought-provoking as Italy, or as comfortable and reassuring as England. But it is now the nation with which we may be dealing with and vying with for the next few centuries and, as such, should be better known.

Any hostility toward Americans?

We didn't feel any. Nor even too much curiosity, really. Wherever we went the people just seemed to accept us. The customs people were decent, the cops helpful, the hotel people—none of whom could speak one word of English—tried manfully (and girlishly) to figure out what the dickens we wanted for breakfast when we'd make cackling noises and otherwise imitate a hen.

Seriously, it seemed to us that the Kremlin people who have been denouncing America in print, pamphlet, text book and on the air for 40 years failed abysmally to get through to the average Russian in the streets.

Booze? No bourbon, rye, scotch or gin. But the vodka is excellent, especially if there's Polish vodka to be had. The wines are listless, and the Russian beer tastes as if—at the last moment—somebody at the brewery decided to play a little joke and pour a pound of sugar into the bottle.

In short, it's the new fine-place-to-visit-but-I'd-hate-to-live-there. Which, at least, gives New York City a bit of a respite from that hardy cliché.

Scientist Raps Animal Tests

Insists Many Conducted for Prestige of Labs, Not to Aid Mankind

NEW YORK—"Far too many animal experiments are being conducted for the prestige of the researcher and the laboratory rather than the benefits to society."

This blast is directed at the National Society for Medical Research in an article appearing in a recent issue of a national magazine.

Dr. Robert Gisell, an eminent scientist quoted in the feature said: "It is no longer the issue of vivisection vs. anti-vivisection, it is rather 'humanity vs. inhumanity in the use of experimental animals.'"

Containing that practices and techniques in the field of animal experimentation are cruel and sadistic, the magazine cites some classic examples: Among these are the notorious series of experiments carried on for six years to prove, or disprove, the theory that tobacco with glycerine caused less damage to tissues than tobacco without glycerine.

One test was to blow continuous streams of smoke against a rabbit's eyeball to ascertain how much damage occurs. In another experiment, smoke was pumped through the nostrils of dogs, until one doctor came up with the idea of cutting incisions in the tracheas and pumping smoke directly into the lungs.

Throughout all this, it was revealed that only one doctor admitted to having anesthetized an animal.

Such outlandish practices for commercial reasons are disturbing enough, but recently other distressing developments have arisen that give cause for alarm.

Among them are the untrained animal experimentation in high schools, and the approval of fatal feeding tests on living animals for students in the primary grades. This amateur experimentation has not the least bit of scientific value beyond that of gratifying morbid curiosity, the article claims.

It is far from humane, the article points out, for a high school girl to win awards for the scientific talent of cutting animals up simply because "she found the study interesting" or for a 13-year-old student to win an award for radiation experiments on 300 animals — "experiments which attracted friends who came to watch."

With tons of literature available on experiments such as these, says the article, it seems insane for amateurs to stumble over the same ground when needless suffering of living creatures is at stake.

Warren Harding was the first U.S. President to speak over the radio.

Suicide Verdict Reversed

Body of Kalamazoo Man to Be Exhumed in Probe

KALAMAZOO (U)—The body of Donn Munson, 39, who was found shot to death in his car Jan. 13, will be exhumed from Mt. Olivet Cemetery tomorrow for an autopsy.

The paper mill engineer's death, first ruled a suicide, came only a week after he and his wife brought 14-year-old Angela, a daughter of Mrs. Munson, here from an Australian orphanage.

Mrs. Munson, an English war bride, testified in Municipal Court yesterday that her dead husband was not the father of Angela. She gave the testimony when she appeared in behalf of her petition to exhumate Munson's body.

Judge Clark M. Olmsted signed the exhumation order, capping a series of events which began with a statement last Friday by County Prosecutor Jacob A. Dalm that he had evidence suggesting Munson did not kill himself.

Mrs. Munson testified Munson was aware of the child's presence and had been eagerly awaiting her arrival in Kalamazoo.

The request for exhumation followed Coroner Ralph Cook's ruling Saturday in which he reversed his suicide verdict and listed Munson's death as resulting from accidental causes. He said it could have been murder or suicide.

Dalm said the investigation into Munson's death was reopened because neither Mrs. Munson nor friends could furnish a suicide motive. Also, he said, the body had been removed before the coroner viewed it and there were reports that no powder marks had been seen on Munson's hands. A .45 caliber pistol was found on the seat beside him.

A coroner's jury will be sworn in following the autopsy, Dalm said. An inquest will take place early next week.

The Munsons appeared joyful when they met Angela at the airport a week before his death.

U.S. Eyes Possibility That Reds Want Pause in the Cold War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (U)—Top U.S. officials are looking into the possibility that the Soviet Union wants a breathing spell in the cold war badly enough to make some limited disarmament agreements.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles are working on a prompt reply to Premier Nikolai Bulganin's note of last Sunday about summit conference issue. They intend to keep it open for a possible meeting.

One aim reportedly is to explore all the possibilities of agreement which may be desired by the Soviet Union and acceptable to the West. In spite of the lack of encouragement which Eisenhower found in the latest message from Moscow.

The new Soviet ambassador, Mikhail A. Menshikov, is due here late today. Diplomats wonder whether the successor to Georgi N. Zarubin, who left last month, will have fresh instructions about pushing East-West negotiations.

Eisenhower conferred for an hour with Dulles and Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, the U.S. envoy to Moscow who came home 10 days ago for consultations. Thompson gave the President his estimate of the present situation in Russia and the possibilities of Soviet interest in easing off the cold war. Then Dulles talked with Eisenhower for an additional hour.

Seek Alpena Soldier Who Fled With Rifle

FT. LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (U)—A 20-year-old prisoner escaped from a work detail at the U. S. disciplinary barracks yesterday, taking a guard's shotgun with him.

Army authorities identified the fugitive as James L. Smith, son of Mrs. Walter Egelski of Alpena, Mich.

Officers said Smith was clearing brush on the barracks reservation when he threw an axe at the guard, knocking the guard's shotgun from his hands. Smith grabbed the gun and fled on foot.

Smith was serving a year and nine months sentence for desertion. He was convicted at Ladd Air Force Base, Fairbanks, Alaska.

HOME ON THE RANGE?—A cow in search of its home range is this black and white critter strolling along the center line of the Lake Washington Floating Bridge in Seattle, Wash. The cow was one of five that fell from a cattle truck when a panel gave way. There were no cowboys around so State Patrol officers held an emergency roundup to clear the bridge.

Blame Wonder Drugs for Skin Infections in Newborn

Parents' Cure Is Infants' Plague

LANSING (AP)—Michigan hospital nurseries increasingly are being troubled by occurrence of skin infections and abscess formations on newborn infants.

Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner, said development of strains of germs resistant to penicillin and other wonder drugs is responsible.

"This is what comes of giving everybody a shot of penicillin," he said.

Dr. Heustis discussed the situation with the Senate Appropriations Committee yesterday during a hearing on his budget request for 1958-59.

He had asked funds to hire a field epidemiologist to help get at the root of the trouble.

"There have been two cases of osteomyelitis and there may be a suit for malpractice in Western Michigan," Heustis told the committee. He did not amplify.

"We're running around like a fireman trying to put out the fires as they occur," he said.

"We ought to be doing something about anticipating the trouble and doing some preventive work."

Later, Heustis told a reporter that so far the situation hasn't become acute but said it "could blossom at any time."

He said there has been trouble in other states because of the tendency of the so-called wonder drugs to cause stiffened resistance in some organisms.

6-Foot Man Appears Giant in Argentina

By BRIAN BELL

BUENOS AIRES (U)—Throw away your elevator heels and come to Buenos Aires, Shorty. You won't need them here.

This is the city of Lilliputians and woe be it to the 6-footer who ventures out.

There are big, tall Argentines like actor Fernando Lamas but they are few and far between. Most of the men here stand about 5 feet 7; the ladies slightly over 5 feet.

Consequently beds, tables, chairs, buses, awnings and the like are built to this size. And the 6-footer goes around in a perpetual crouch as if he were seeking lost pesos on the sidewalks.

My height is exactly 1/2 inch over 6 feet—not especially tall by United States standards. But down here I don't fit at all.

BUS IS LOW

The collective (small bus) I ride regularly has all the commodious measurements of a foreign sports car. Its roof is built low to the ground. I am built high to the roof. And often the twain do meet.

My good American gray fedora was discarded after two weeks on the collective. Its crown was a mishapen mess.

And from my lonely heights I twist downward hoping to spot my stop in the gloom. Plainly I call the street at intervals until the driver mercifully releases me from my medieval cage.

After two weeks of shopping my wife has despaired of finding a bed long enough for a mere 6-foot-1/2 inch. We are having one made.

The Argentine is long torsoed and short legged. Also he sits up straight at the dining room table, something Americans do not. In restaurants they all appear giants. Then they get to their feet and rise to all of 5 feet 7.

Few eating places or private dining rooms have tables that accommodate long-legged Americans. The transplanted tall ones from the States are getting more and more slouchy in their sitting.

NO SPIKE HEELS

The Argentine women do little to appear tall. Seldom do they wear high heels except on the heaviest of dates. The 5 and 6-inch spikes of the States are virtually unknown.

The short boy in the States who always has trouble finding a date small enough for the big dance could find a large field to pick from here. The tall Americans, of course, don't necessarily suffer going out with the tiny girls in Buenos Aires either. For what they lack in height, they make up in other dimensions.

Hollywood Headlines

Pat Boone's Kid Brother Makes Name for Himself

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (U)—This fellow Nick Todd looked familiar.

The light dawned when he said his actual handle was Nick Boone.

That was it! In profile, he had the same handsome looks as Pat Boone, his brother. Darker and a year younger, Nick is also trying to carve a name for himself as a singer. He's having some success.

Tonight he appears with Bob Hope on TV, and his records are selling well. But he admits that following a famous brother can have its hazards.

"I'm often asked if being Pat Boone's brother has helped or hurt me," said the tall 22-year-old (both were born on June 1, a year apart). "I can only say this: that it certainly has helped me get my foot in the door."

But in other respects, it can be a drawback. That's one of the reasons he underwent a name change.

"I know that I can never get away from the fact that I'm Pat's brother," he explained. "People will always be conscious of it. But I think they will be less conscious if my name is different."

Nick got off to a good start with his first record, "Plaything," and is getting a nice play with his new disc, "Teen-Age Cutes." Besides the Hope show, he has appeared on TV with Ed Sullivan, Patti Page and Pat Boone, of all people.

I asked him if Pat gave him any help in his career.

"Not specifically," he said. "But he has given me some advice. He told me that when I sang a song to be sure to think about the lyrics and really believe them."

Controls Firm Gives Student Rocket Assist

WILMINGTON, Del. (U)—A lad with a persuasive pen and an eye to the space future got his wish today. For 15-year-old Richard Harkness it was a big step toward the world of tomorrow.

Last August, the Springer Junior High School student decided to build a rocket guidance system, but he lacked money—a matter of about $1,000 for a gyroscope, the basic control element of a rocket.

Richard sat down and wrote a letter to Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co., manufacturers of automatic flight control systems.

Honeywell found a gyroscope of the kind the company made until 1952 for bombers.

Today, the gyroscope, in perfect working order, was turned over to Richard by Robert L. Luban, Philadelphia area service engineer for Honeywell's Aeronautical Division.

Electronics—particularly as it applies to missiles and rockets—has been Richard's hobby since he was 10. He's already designed a selective parachute ejection system and a telemetering system centered around a radioisotope, a weather transmitting system.

Recently, he attempted to launch a two-foot solid fuel rocket, but the missile became stuck in the launching device. With his new gyroscope he hopes to have better luck with a new five-foot rocket.

So far the rocket, a maze of intricate parts when assembled, has cost him only $15. Still in the drawing board stage is a six-foot job. Richard plans to launch it with solid fuel, and if all goes well, the nose cone, equipped with a 60-cent camera rigged to take pictures, will split off and parachute back to earth.

Contestants Get Special Prizes in GM Contest

Twenty-seven additional special prize winners in plant drawings for General Motors 50th anniversary contest have been announced by Pontiac Motor Division.

Saturday is the deadline for entries in the essay contest on the question, "What General Motors Golden Anniversary Means To Me."

The winners were picked from entry blank stubs returned to the local plant. P. W. Kwapis Jr. received a portable television set, and high fidelity record players went to J. J. Dzuris, M. Roe, C. Frank, E. M. Henson and J. H. Clifton.

Transistor pocket radios went to A. D. Collom, L. A. Yarbrough, S. Rosario, M. J. McDowell, J. R. Moyet, K. K. Martinek, O. J. Bucco, D. F. Edwards, M. Harris, Imogene C. Osman. Receiving electric frying pans were R. L. Smith, W. Surles, John Striber, C. Gage and Carmen Guizar, while J. A. York, T. M. Justice, H. W. Banghart, Selma Peterson, J. W. Worley and J. E. Shearer took home electric irons.

Spotted Any Flying Saucers Lately?
Don't Be Ashamed — Contact NICAP

reveals for the first time that a Civil Aeronautics Administration radar operator tracked four UFOs flying over California at speeds up to 3,600 mph last spring. The circumstances were similar to past radar sighting which could not be identified as conventional aircraft.

KEEPS MEMBER POSTED
The magazine promises to keep members up-to-date on similar future sightings.

Donald Keyhoe, a retired Marine major and author of three best-selling flying saucer books, is the director of NICAP and editor of the new magazine. He has made flying saucers a highly profitable career.

In offering to keep names of members secret at their request

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (NEA)—You can now report seeing flying saucers without being tagged as the neighborhood nut.

That's one of the several unique services being offered by a new organization called the National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena.

Another service is that your membership in NICAP will be kept a secret, just in case the mere act of signing up might start the neighbor talking. Already there are plenty of secret members, although there are some pretty impressive names among members who aren't afraid to have their affiliation made public.

The current yearly dues in this non-profit organization are $7.50. In addition to offering the choice of anonymity or publicity, the membership package includes a new monthly publication called "The UFO Investigator." UFO is the official Pentagon designation for "unidentified flying objects," or flying saucers.

Moon Features High Mountains

Lack of Atmosphere Gives Clearer Vision but No Sounds

WASHINGTON — For centuries man has dreamed of setting foot on the moon. Today scientists are talking seriously about sending manned rockets to it in a matter of years.

The moon is the earth's closest neighbor. It orbits around the earth at an average distance of 238,857 miles. This is about 10 times the circumference of the earth, but in astronomical terms the distance is negligible. Some stars lie so far away that it takes hundreds of millions of years for their light to reach the earth.

The moon has almost no atmosphere to protect it from the rays of the sun during the day or to hold the sun's heat by night. Hence lunar temperatures shoot from about 243 degrees below zero Fahrenheit in darkness to about 212 degrees above during the day.

Placed in front of the United States, the moon would cover about two-thirds of the country and extend slightly over Mexico and Canada. But the moon's perimeter would not reach as far as the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

WEIGHTS INCREASE

Due to the weaker pull of gravity on the moon, a strong man who could lift 500 pounds on the earth could lift 3,000 pounds on the moon. A seven-year-old child could break the high-jump records of Olympic champions. A large cannon could fire a shot completely around the moon.

The moon revolves about the earth at exactly the same average rate it turns on its axis. Hence no one has seen the moon's other side.

The visible face of the moon is a lifeless desert. Its principal features are enormous mountains—some higher than the highest on the earth—and innumerable craters. Astronomers have counted some 35,000 craters, and unquestionably many more exist.

The surface of the moon may be covered by a thin layer of ash dust, although astronomers are not entirely agreed on this. The mountains and craters are rugged, because there is no rain or wind to soften their features.

VISION CLEARER

The almost total lack of atmosphere means that humans would hear no sound on the moon but would be able to see more clearly than on the earth. For this reason, astronomers dream of constructing observatories on the moon to get a better view of the universe.

Why should anyone want to go to the moon? Scientists say that exploration of the moon will greatly aid man's understanding of the universe in which he lives. Eventually, the moon might be put to innumerable uses, such as making better maps of the earth and the stars, providing new sources of raw materials, and conceivably serving as an outlet for the earth's skyrocketing population.

Radar Towers Used

DETROIT (AP) — Burroughs Corp. announced that two 65-foot towers housing powerful radar equipment were put into service Tuesday at its research center in Paoli, Pa. The equipment is capable of detecting approaching enemy aircraft at long range. The radars will be used primarily for simulated field tests of equipment.

Squeezing Airman Into Capsule in Interests of Space Medicine

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A few days from now Donald Gerald Farrell, a six-foot airman from the Bronx, N.Y., will squeeze himself into a 3-by-5-foot capsule. And if all goes well, he'll stay inside for seven full days.

No sound will reach his ears. He will see very little. He'll be able to talk to persons outside the tiny cage, but he won't be able to hear them.

Experts at the Department of Space Medicine at Randolph Air Force Base here expect to harvest important data from Farrell's solitary confinement. They intend to subject him to all the forces of nature man is likely to find on voyages through space.

The seven days of the experiment would be sufficient time for a man to rocket to the moon and return, scientists noted.

A. I. C. Farrell is not a flier. He's an accounting clerk. He's a perfectly normal 23-year-old specimen of manhood and that, essentially, is why scientists picked him. No one has spent more than 24 hours in a space chamber so far.

While enclosed in his capsule, Farrell won't even be able to stretch his legs. Nor will he be able to take a bath.

"The boys probably will have a fire hose waiting for me to take care of that when I come out," Farrell said.

"I imagine boredom will be the biggest problem."

"He's a pack-a-day smoker, but does not expect this deprivation to bother him too much."

"I've always been interested in space travel," said Farrell, who may go into the chamber this Sunday. "I felt sure that someday we'd conquer space. I still think so and hope I can contribute something to it."

There are several reasons he was picked. He's young, strong (185 pounds) and healthy. He's been a guinea pig for other experiments. He's intelligent.

But above all, the spokesmen stress that his reactions are so normal and clear-cut. He shows no physical or mental eccentricities.

When he returns from an experiment he is sufficiently articulate to tell the doctors of reactions and feelings that scientific instruments still can't record.

That is the reason that Farrell was sealed off from newsmen shortly after the department announced the project.

Col. George R. Steinkamp, the doctor directly in charge of the test, doesn't want anything to interfere with Farrell psychologically.

Farrell attended the University of Alabama for one term, and plans to study aeronautical engineering.

The airman's good reactions to tests were demonstrated in experiments involving weightlessness.

Within Farrell's capsule, which never will leave the ground, doctors will create an artificial environment which they calculate will be the minimum needed by space men.

Farrell will live under eight pounds per square inch of air pressure, half that on earth. Carbon monoxide will be removed from his air and more oxygen supplied. Heat will be reduced.

Excess moisture from his lungs, sweat glands and other organs will be purified and made into drinking water. Other body waste will be absorbed by chemicals.

He'll get food through an air lock. Otherwise, for all that Farrell will be able to determine, he will be soaring through space.

Instruments will record his blood pressure, respiration, pulse, and conditions inside the capsule. He'll be given several push-button tests to determine his working efficiency.

He can be brought back to an earth environment quickly if necessary.

Right Foods Help Prevent 'Hardening of Arteries'

By HERBERT POLLACK, M.D.
N. Y. U. Post Graduate School of Medicine

NEW YORK (NEA) — It is now an accepted fact that the basis for good health and well-being is optimum nutrition.

As a consequence, one of the first things that occurs to many people when confronted with a non-infectious or chronic degenerative state is the thought that the disorder may be of possible dietary origin. This is not always true.

In the case of atherosclerosis, more commonly known as "hardening of the arteries," there is evidence that the food intake may be one of the important contributors. To date, it has not been possible to locate the specific nutritional factors involved.

Under investigation by medical scientists throughout the world are several dietary constituents: cholesterol, total fat, soft fats (vegetable fats and marine oils), hard fats (saturated fats of animal origin), artificially hardened fats (hydrogenated vegetable oils), certain vitamins (particularly B6), total calories and the closely associated obesity and exercise, starches, and certain types of protein.

Out of this complexity certain facts begin to emerge. Dietary cholesterol, or the cholesterol you eat, plays a very minor, if any, role in the development of atherosclerosis. Evidence that tends to relate atherosclerosis to the fat intake is difficult to separate from that which relates it to total caloric intake, obesity and exercise.

Experimentally it can be shown that the soft fats, or vegetable oils, when given as a "formula diet," can lower the cholesterol content of the blood. Whether this is important in inhibiting the development of atherosclerosis remains to be seen. A long time will be required to prove the hypothesis.

The symptoms of atherosclerotic heart disease are caused by a failure of the blood to carry enough oxygen to the heart muscle. This is due to a constriction of the blood vessel which prevents the blood from flowing freely. Fat people must expend more energy than normal-weight people, or thin people, when they move around as they carry more weight. Oxygen is required to burn the food to supply the energy. Hence, fat people need more oxygen.

It is common observation that obese people breathe harder and faster than normal-weight people as soon as they exercise. Any constriction of the blood vessel will interfere with the flow of the oxygen-carrying blood. The degree of interference will be proportional to the amount of constriction of the blood vessel.

When the individual is at rest, the constriction may not be great enough to prevent the small amount of oxygen required from getting to the heart muscle. As the oxygen demands increase, the interference becomes more noticeable. Since the same distance at the same speed, their hardening of the arteries is noticed very quickly.

The same findings apply to thin people with atherosclerosis. When they walk they have no symptoms. If they run, causing a rapid increase in oxygen requirements, then symptoms may result.

The implications of the relationship of fat to the development of atherosclerosis have resulted in investigations of the other main foodstuffs, proteins and carbohydrates.

The former occurs mostly in meats, dairy products and certain leguminous vegetables. The latter are commonly known as starch and sugar. The result of these investigations to date re-emphasizes the fact that any radical attempt to alter the diet can result in many problems.

The best advice that can be given today is to eat a well-rounded diet that supplies all the minerals and vitamins, proteins and sufficient calories to maintain the optimum weight.

My suggestion is that you eat daily some meat or dairy product, green and yellow leafy vegetables, fruit, and whole grain or enriched flour products. Overconsumption of any one food group is not to be encouraged. Maintenance of desirable weight is essential.

Next: Exercise and heredity.

It's a joint undertaking of neighbors Larry P. Olds and B. O. Young.

Magnolia 51 Feet Tall
PASCAGOULA, Miss.—The largest magnolia tree in the United States grows north of Pascagoula near the Escatawpa River, according to the American Forestry Association. It is 51 feet tall, has a crown spread of more than 90 feet, and its circumference at a point 4½ feet above the ground is 12½ feet. Paul M. Myers, the owner, counted 9,000 large white blooms on the tree one year.

NO EGG ON HIS FACE — Experimental animal in St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago, protests offer of cholesterol-rich egg from Dr. C. Bruce Taylor, who has induced hardening of arteries in monkeys with high-cholesterol food. Tie-in between diet and atherosclerosis in humans has yet to be proved.

She Moves In With the Coffee

LINE FORMS AT LEFT — Employees at Pontiac Retail Store line up for their morning coffee break when the Meals-on-Wheels truck pulls in. Mrs. Bobbie Whitaker, the driver, is also cashier and general handywoman. Immaculate in black slacks and white shirt, she spends her day taking hot coffee and other food to hundreds of Pontiac working people.

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Serving food is one of woman's traditional jobs. But few women spend their day driving a truck full of food around town, serving hundreds of people.

"Bobbie" Whitaker, an attractive young woman with hair that has a hint of auburn in it, drives a Meals-on-Wheels truck five and a half days a week. She takes food for coffee breaks and complete noon meals to a number of businesses around Pontiac. Her route includes many of the city's service garages and a few small manufacturing plants.

Meals-on-Wheels is the brain child of two young men, F. Russell Fahr and Eugene L. Shaw. Both experienced in the industrial catering field, they decided to service small companies that could not afford to have a cafeteria or even a lunch wagon. Trucks with drivers dressed in black and white are now a familiar sight in this area.

Bobbie Whitaker gets to work at 6:30 every morning. For several hours before that time Mrs. Ardye Ducha ("Ma") to everyone who knows her) has been busy preparing sandwiches, salads and hot dishes. Mrs. Dorothy Shaw lends a hand with this job too.

Bobbie starts by wrapping sandwiches, doughnuts and sweet rolls in waxed paper. She makes the coffee she will need on her rounds. Then she loads her truck.

The truck is a regular van truck with a steam table fastened to one side. Kept hot with bottled gas, this table can be unhooked and rolled right into a building if there is no way for the truck to drive in.

At the rear are two huge vacuum jugs of piping hot coffee. Both of these and the cream dispenser are battened down. Underneath is an ice box full of milk. On the various shelves are the coffee "go-wits." Everything is immaculate.

I rode with Bobbie for two hours the other day. The minute she pulls her truck into a building and stops the line forms. Self-service is the order of the day. Everyone is in good humor, the prospect of a cup of hot coffee being a cheering one. As is to be expected, the bantering never ceases; but it's all good-natured.

Bobbie works on almost split-second timing. She has to be back at headquarters shortly after eleven to load up her noon makes another return trip to the main kitchen and picks up food for the afternoon coffee break. Some of the places she serviced in the morning are visited again; other stops are made just once a day.

the day's run is complete. Bobbie cleans her truck completely and calls it a day until early the next morning. Then she starts all over again.

"I wouldn't change this job — Back again to headquarters. I love it," Mrs. Whitaker is positive in her statements. Having worked several years as a waitress, she knows other sides of the food industry, but prefers the one she now sees.

Five years ago such a job — even such a company as Meals-on-Wheels didn't exist. The demand for and acceptance of the daily coffee break has turned the trick. Eighty gallons of coffee a day is a lot of coffee when poured into little paper cups!

Sanitize for PROTECTION

During the "cold" season, it's important to disinfect children's hankies, towels, undergarments. Use Roman Bleach, triple-action bleach which makes clothes sanitary as it whitens them. You get extra health-protecting benefits when you use Roman Bleach.

Fix Lamb Neck in Red Sauce

Here's a perfect way to present a less-demanded lamb cut all decked out in royal splendor. The recipe features either lamb neck slices or lamb shoulder chops gently braised with a tangy tomato sauce.

Lamb-Tangy Tomato Sauce
 1/2 lb. lamb neck slices or 1/2 lb. lamb shoulder chops, cut 1 inch
 1/2 cup tomato sauce
 1/2 cup onion, minced
 1/2 cup garlic, minced
 1/2 cup brown sugar
 1/2 cup dry mustard
 1/2 cup lemon juice
 1/2 cup vinegar
 1/2 cup Worcestershire sauce
 Brown meat in melted lard or drippings. Season with salt and pepper. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over meat. Cover tightly and simmer 1 1/2 hours or until meat is tender. Yield: 6 servings.

Choose-Brightest Carrots

Brighter colored carrots are more nutritious. Most of their deep orange or orange-red color comes from carotene, a chemical the human body converts to vitamin A, so necessary for good eyesight and normal growth. Pare them thinly. Cook in a small amount of boiling water in covered saucepan until just crisp-tender, 10-15 minutes. For salads and relish trays, or as for quick-cooked accompaniment for meat, choose small, young ones. Use larger, mature ones for soups, stews and pot roast.

Make hash with leftover meat by adding chopped cooked potato (twice the amount of chopped meat), chopped onion, salt and pepper.

Canned, Frozen Varieties Join Parade of Peas

 Pontiac Press Home Editor

Seven million more cases of canned peas and sixteen million more pounds of frozen peas are on hand this year as compared with a year ago. Need we state that there is an abundance of the little green globes? The USDA lists both kinds of peas on their list of plentiful foods for February. Prices are lower too.

One regular size can of peas has around 300 calories in it. If you serve six people, you're doling out some 50 calories per serving — exclusive of any added butter or cream sauce, of course.

A low-calorie main dish that would be welcome at luncheon or brunch is this Green Pea Puff. Separate whites and yolks of three eggs. Beat the yolks and add a half cup of drained canned peas. Beat the whites until stiff and fold into the pea and yolk mixture, along with a quarter teaspoon of salt. Put mixture in top of a double boiler which has been greased and dusted lightly with flour. Cook over low heat for about 25 minutes, until set, and serve at once on heated plate.

Peas are a natural in salads. One of the tricks we practice is to add some frozen peas that have been slightly thawed to a tossed salad. Honest, they don't taste raw at all. Try it.

Canned peas can be incorporated into all kinds of salads. An aspic is one example.

High Nutrition Found in Tangy Dried Beef

When you reach for a jar or package of dried beef, you reach for a product that is full of good nutrition. Every pound of dried beef is equal in food value to almost 2 pounds of fresh meat.

Boned and trimmed beef round is used in the preparation of dried beef. It is cured in a pickling solution under close temperature control so that every fiber of the meat is reached. Then, it is held in heated "drying houses" for four to seven days until it is reduced to a concentrated food and takes on its characteristic tasty, smoky flavor. After the "drying house" period, the meat is cooled and dried for several days.

All in all, more than two weeks of sidling care is required to produce a dried meat that is ready to be sliced paper thin and packed as delicious dried beef.

Served cold in a sandwich, creamed and served in patty shells, or combined with rice, the tasty, smoky flavor of dried beef can't be beaten!

Vegetable Aspic

1 can (16 to 17 ounces) peas
 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
 1 teaspoon sugar
 1/2 teaspoon onion salt
 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 1/2 cup chopped celery

Drain liquid from peas and add water to make 1 cup liquid. Sprinkle gelatin on liquid to soften. Heat over low heat until dissolved, stirring. Add tomato sauce and seasonings; chill until partially thickened. Stir in drained peas and celery.

Pour into a mold and chill until firm. Unmold on crisp salad greens and serve with mayonnaise. 6 servings.

Meat Loaf Garnish of Peas

 2 cups cubed day-old bread
 1/2 cup evaporated milk
 1 pound lean ground beef
 1/2 pound bulk pork sausage
 2 tablespoons grated horseradish
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 1/2 cup chopped green pepper, if desired
 2 teaspoons salt
 2 teaspoons dry mustard
 2 eggs

Allow packages of frozen peas to stand at room temperature while preparing remaining ingredients. Turn cubed bread into bowl and pour milk over. When bread has absorbed milk, stir in the meat and other ingredients. Mix well and form into a round loaf slightly smaller in diameter than 2-quart casserole. Place in casserole under cover and place in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) to bake 45 minutes.

Remove from oven and pour around the meat. (If peas do not pour out, break the hard-frozen shape into smaller pieces to turn into casserole.) Sprinkle peas with salt to taste. Cover and return to oven for 45 minutes. Total baking time for meat: 1 1/2 hours. Baking time for peas: 45 minutes.

To serve, cut loaf in wedges and spoon peas and drippings over each serving. Serves six or eight.

Biscuit Triangles Dotted With Cheese

Lenten meals have added sparkle when there's a bright quick bread on hand. Add interest with Cheese Biscuit Triangles.

Sift together 2 cups sifted enriched flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Cut or rub in 1/2 cup shortening until mixture is crumbly. Stir in 1 cup shredded American cheese and 3 tablespoons minced pimiento, drained. Add 2/3 to 3/4 cup milk to make a soft dough.

Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead gently 30 seconds. Roll out to a rectangle 1/2 inch thick. Cut with sharp knife into triangle shapes. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in hot oven (450 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 1 1/2 dozen biscuits.

New Lenten Treat in Salmon Fritters

Salmon Fritters are a novel main dish for meatless pre-Easter meals.

Sift together 1½ cups sifted enriched flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt and a dash pepper. Blend 2 eggs, beaten, and ½ cup milk. Combine 2 cups drained, flaked salmon (15½ ounce can), 1 teaspoon lemon juice and ¼ cup finely chopped parsley. Add dry ingredients to milk mixture and blend well. Stir in salmon mixture. Mix thoroughly. (Dough will be quite thick.)

Drop by spoonfuls into deep hot fat (375 degrees) and fry until golden brown and crusty. Serve with creamed peas. Makes 6 servings.

Now's the Time to Buy Grapefruit, Ground Beef

Today most food stores offer a selection of between five to six thousand items. Without a market list it is likely that you will waste both time and energy trying to remember everything you need. And as you store the new purchases at home, you may find you missed some important item.

As you make the market list, it is wise to study all available marketing information says Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, MSU Marketing Information Agent. Seldom are there drastic changes in food prices within a week's time but there is information to indicate trends, supplies and to show which foods stores are featuring.

A study of food ads will show much more than specials. Foods in plentiful supply may be offered by several stores. Sometimes the size, weight and grade of foods is given. Learning the descriptive terms can help you pick a "good buy" from your favorite arm chair.

VEGETABLES & FRUITS—Several slight changes may be noticeable in fresh produce this week. Carrot supplies are heavier, prices are lower in some instances. Lettuce quality is improving; adequate supplies are keeping costs at about 20 to 25 cents a head. At current prices, broccoli is reasonable for the season.

Ample supplies and good movement on the market make this one of the best grapefruit weeks so far this year. Marsh and Duncan are good choices flavorwise.

Michigan offers root vegetables, cabbage, dry beans, carrots and potatoes to stretch food dollars. Check the numerous canned fruits and vegetables, if you need to consider costs.

Snap beans, tomatoes, cucumbers and peppers are expected to be scarce during February.

MEATS & EGGS—If you are looking for variety at lowest cost, choose from the many variety meats. Heart, tongue, liver and kidneys are just a few of the most popular. Since these yield between three to five servings from each pound, variety meats always fit into the econo-list.

Variety meats taste best if used the day they are bought. If they cannot be, wrap them in a moisture-vapor proof wrap and freeze at zero degrees. Variety meats will keep 3 to 4 months at zero or below.

Turkey still makes news as one of the lowest cost per serving meats that consumers can put on the table. Large sizes are the most for the money buy.

Rib-end roasts, picnics and Boston butt continue to be among the best pork values. Plan on 2½ servings per pound from the rib roast, 2 from picnics, and 3 from Boston butt.

Ground beef is the big beef value. Lower grades of beef generally used for ground beef and meat products are scarce as more animals are being fed to higher grades. (More steaks for broiling should fill meat counters in the months ahead). For other beef values study the specials offered on corned beef, round, sirloin and standing rib.

Large Grade A eggs fit economically into market baskets—a combination of good eating and nutrition. Ease a tight budget by alternating two large eggs for a serving of meat.

Turkey Salad Brightened by Addition of Peas

Home economists of the Department of Agriculture say you can close your eyes and select almost any recipe in the cook book (leaving out pies and cakes, of course) and make it more attractive in appearance and taste by adding green peas right out of the can. And when it comes to using leftovers, green peas are wonderful.

For example, suppose you have some left-over turkey. Make a Turkey-Green Pea Salad. Use equal portions of cooked turkey meat, diced, canned peas, and chopped celery. Make a sauce of mayonnaise with grated onion, curry powder, lemon juice and salt. Toss the turkey, peas and celery in the sauce until evenly blended. Serve in cups of lettuce.

Once a Roman Delicacy

Asparagus was a popular appetizer at ancient Roman dinners. As early as 200 B. C. Cato gave detailed gardening instructions that would be considered good today, except that he recommended the use of seed from wild plants.

Homemade Spread

Pimento cheese spread is easy to make at home. Grate two pounds of cheese and mix with one cup chopped pimento. Add one and one-half to two cups of milk and two cups vinegar, gradually mixing with wooden spoons or electric mixer. Spoon into jars and cover tightly. The jars can be stored in the freezer.

Pineapple a Server

A fresh pineapple makes a pretty serving piece for canapés, when it's studded with olives, cheese cubes and other tidbits. Attach them to the pineapple with colorful toothpicks. When canapés time is over, the pineapple goes back to the kitchen to make an encore as dessert.

One way to get more milk into a Reluctant Young One is to pour chilled apple juice to the halfway mark in a tall glass, fill to top with milk, add a few drops of red food coloring for pretty pink color,

Toast Triangles Spoon Hot Dip

FT. COLLINS, Colo. (INS) — If you're looking for a different cheese dip, nutrition expert May Stank suggests hot pimiento dip. For about two cups of the cheese dip use:

1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/2 pound process American cheese (grated)
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup chopped pimiento
Heat all the ingredients except the pimiento in a quart saucepan over low flame. Stir until mixture is smooth, remove from heat and stir in pimiento. Serve in a chafing dish placed over hot water or a lighted candle. Triangles of thin, crisp toast can be used for "dippers."

Ice Cream Likes Spice

Plain vanilla ice cream assumes gay party airs when topped with a mixture of chopped candied ginger and canned apple sauce. One-quarter cup of the ginger to 2 cups of the sauce is a good proportion and provides enough topping for 6 servings of the ice cream.

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons slivered blanched almonds

Cook broccoli rapidly in saucepan or 10-inch skillet in a small amount of lightly salted boiling water until just tender. Put butter in a 6-inch skillet and melt over low heat; stir constantly until a light brown. Remove from heat. Add almonds. Arrange broccoli in serving dish and pour butter-almond sauce over. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Note: Broccoli bunches vary in weight. A 1-pound bunch makes 4 to 5 servings; a 1 1/2-pound bunch makes 5 to 6 servings. To prepare for cooking, peel stalks with swivel-blade vegetable parer and quarter or halve so broccoli buds are at end of each piece.

Tuna Waldorf Salad

Team tuna fish with diced fresh apples. Add mayonnaise, fresh lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste. Toss some chopped walnuts into it and blend all together lightly. Turns an every-day salad into a party-supper dish.

Biscuit Baskets Novel Main Dish

Filled with creamed lobster or crabmeat and sliced hard-cooked eggs, Biscuit Baskets are a tempting Lenten supper idea.

Sift together 2 cups sifted enriched flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Cut or rub in 1/2 cup shortening. Add 1/2 to 3/4 cup milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured pastry cloth or board and knead gently 30 seconds. Roll out 1/4 inch thick and cut into 4-inch squares. Fit each square into 3-inch muffin pans. Prick with a fork. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes. Fill with creamed shell fish and garnish with parsley. Makes 4 servings.

Apples Must Stay Cold to Keep Best Flavor

Take care. The apples you buy today are coming out of storage where temperature, and sometimes moisture, have been carefully controlled. To keep them crisp and full of flavor, keep them in a cold place where the temperature is just above freezing. Thirty-six degrees is best.

If you find apples that are withered or weeping with moisture on the outside they have not had the best of care.

Mashed Spuds Mix With Liver for Patties

Here's a new way to serve liver. It's called Favorite Liver Patties and combines ground liver with seasonings, and seasoned mashed potatoes. The liver and potato mixture is formed into patties and cooked until lightly browned on both sides.

Liver is versatile... methods of preparation are many... it can be braised, broiled, panfried, deep-fat fried or ground and baked.

Favorite Liver Patties.
1 pound sliced liver

1 tablespoon lard
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup seasoned mashed potatoes
1 egg, slightly beaten
1/4 cup lard or drippings
Cook liver in 1 tablespoon lard until lightly browned on both sides, about 5 minutes. Grind liver. Combine with seasonings, Worcestershire sauce, potatoes and egg. Shape into 10 patties, using approximately 3/4 cup for each.

Cook patties in lard or drippings until lightly browned on both sides. Yield: 4 to 5 servings.

One little cocktail frankfurter spread with sharp mustard and one little canned apple slice coiled together on a toothpick make a delectable party bite to pass with drinks.

Experts Find Most Teenagers Too Childish

Maturity and Marriage Make Best Team

(This is the last of four articles on the increasing number of teenage marriages in the U.S. explaining why they take place and the problems they create.)

By VIRGINIA KACHAN
INS Staff Writer

"Love and marriage go together like a horse and carriage," according to the song writers.

But if sociologists, religious leaders, psychologists and marriage counselors had their way, the song would be revised to go like this:

Flat as a song hit, maybe, but right on key in real life love, marriage and the pursuit of happiness.

That is why most authorities view the rising number of teenage marriages in the U.S. with gloom. The experts admit that a certain age does not guarantee emotional maturity, but they claim you are more likely not to have it in your teens.

Divorce analysts generally agree that most marriages break up because one or both of the partners are immature whatever their outward appearances.

LIZ COMMENTS

"I had a child's mind in a woman's body," admits beautiful actress Elizabeth Taylor, frankly pinning down the reason why her first marriage at the age of 18 in 1930 lasted less than a year.

And hers is as good a definition as any of emotional immaturity.

But here are other signs of emotional immaturity outlined by various authorities around the country:

—Burton Kelly, social psychologist of the University of Chicago Family Study Center singles out "the get-married-now-or-never feeling, particularly when there are strong family objections," he says:

"Teenagers seldom realize they less understanding and less sympathetic for each other's needs, and married but instead, take on two problems. They compete, instead sets for the price of one wedding license."

—Dr. Emily Mudd, head of Philadelphia's Marriage Council, calls attention to empathy, or the ability of putting yourself in the other person's shoes. She says: "Teenaged couples seem to have reliance and depended on their parents for handouts."

Clark W. Blackburn, general director of the Family Service Association of America, sums up the nationwide agency's findings this way:

"Teenagers who marry often cut their education short and regret it later. Marriage may seem to be an immediate answer but it never solves problems and one of its major risks is immaturity."

The 11th annual Midwinter Ball to be given Saturday night by the Jimmy Day Post 12 of the Amvets at the Keego Harbor post promises to be a well-planned affair. Four committee members who met Wednesday evening to complete final arrangements for the

Panhellenic Conducts Installation

Mrs. Robert Passineau was installed Monday evening as President of Pontiac City Panhellenic Association. The meeting was held in the Sylvan Shores drive home of Mrs. James Nye.

Also installed were Mrs. Richard Kuhn, vice president; Mrs. Lewis L. Irwin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Howard Owen, recording secretary; Rosamond Haerle, treasurer, and Mrs. William McGovern, historian.

Retiring President Mrs. Robert Anderson conducted the installation.

Plans for the year were discussed and chairmen appointed. Pat Wendling and Mrs. Bruce Kintler were hostesses for the evening.

Tipacon Group Learns About Direct Dialing

Mary Veasey, of Michigan Bell Telephone Co. spoke on "Direct Distance Dialing" to members of Tipacon Chapter of American Business Woman's Association. Wednesday evening at a dinner meeting in Hotel Waldron.

Vocational talks were given by Mrs. Claude Dodge and Mrs. Elsa Leese. Guests for the evening were Mrs. Lee Johnson and Joyce Holm.

Plans are being made for a "Hand of Friendship Tea" to be held March 16, a Boss Night dinner in April, a district meeting in South Bend, Ind., on May 3 and 4 and a state meeting in Pontiac in June.

Exercise for More Attractive Bustline

Good Muscle Tone Aids Curves

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A firm, lifted bustline gives the figure a youthful appearance and seems almost a requirement for today's clothes. Falsies have been a boon to many, but women prefer as much of their own as is possible and attractive.

Many factors enter into the sag of a bust. Improperly fitted brassieres may break down the tissue in the early 20s when a flat front was the bogue. Pregnancy and the nursing period may have this effect also. A large loss of weight may cause it.

The preventative measures match the causes. Be certain that your bras are properly fitted by someone who really knows how. During pregnancy and nursing times you should wear those which are especially designed to support the extra weight. Stay the right weight at these times, too.

Good muscle tone is also a great aid to bust beauty. As I have said before, in this column you cannot increase the size of your bust but you can increase the underlying chest muscles and therefore make your bust more prominent.

The following exercise is a good one: Lie on a narrow table or a piano bench (with a chair at the end to support your feet). Take a book or weight in each hand. Let your arms fall down at your sides toward the floor. Raise the arms slowly, books in hands and elbows straight, until the arms are at right angles to the body. Lower again and continue.

EXERCISE ROUTINE

If you would like to add a few inches to your bustline and make it firmer, you will have to be faithful with an exercise routine planned especially for that result. Also you must not become discouraged because it will probably be several months before you notice very much difference.

Remember, too, that posture has a big effect on the appearance of the bust. If an adequate bust rests on the ribs it becomes negligible.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Round Shoulders - Flat Bust - Reverse!" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Tomorrow: "How Your Lose That Weight is Important."

Round Table's Guest Speaks on Philippines

Mrs. Fred Stimpert of Finley avenue opened her home to members of the Round Table Club Tuesday.

Mrs. Paul Kantz introduced Mary Louise Walquist of Grand Rapids, who visited the Philippines in an international garden youth exchange. She presented a travelogue on the Philippines, pointing out methods of farming and homemaking.

A Valentine tea was served by Mrs. John Lewis, Mrs. James McQuire, Mrs. Stimpert, Mrs. Leo Heenan and Mrs. V. H. Hancock.

Mrs. H. A. Sibley Entertains MOMS

Sixteen members of MOMS Unit Two gathered at the Mathews street home of Mrs. H. A. Sibley Tuesday for luncheon and business meeting.

An invitation was read to the annual state board card party to be held at Northland April 14, and the unit discussed plans for a local spring card party.

Sunset Club Meets

Mrs. Mabel Ayris, Mrs. Catherine Elwell, Mrs. Ida McDermid and Mrs. Emory Mitchell were guests when Sunset Club met at Wilson School. Mrs. Charles Wilson presided at the meeting.

Is this dress meant for a sophisticated lady bent on a sophisticated evening? This David Morris creation of taffeta illustrates the harem drape with an extravagant side pouf looped under the hem. The top has the cut and fit of a strapless bodice, but is actually a halter with rhinestone straps.

Old Sam Has Dog's Life and He Seems to Love It

Maybe He'd Feel Inferior if He Knew About Pampered New York Pets

By RUTH MILLETT

I didn't realize what an underprivileged dog our Sam is until I picked up a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post and read an article about a New York shop that caters to canines.

This shop not only offers but SELLS such "cute" items as custom-made nylon pajamas, mink coats, topcoats, raincoats and boots, bathrobes, smoking jackets, black lace collars, etc.

Poor old Sam has worn the same fur coat ever since he was born. It's not mink, either. It's plain black Labrador retriever.

But on him, it looks good. And though it is 8 years old, it still fits fine. He wears it winter and summer, rain or shine, night and day, and he hasn't complained yet about not having a thing to wear.

Sam doesn't have a Louis XV bed, either, like one of the dogs mentioned in the Post article. For years he has slept on a cotton rug he carefully "makes" each night for himself by walking around it and pushing it up in humps to make it fit his body perfectly.

There's no ornament on Sam's collar but a couple of tags, one saying that he has a city license, the other that he has had his rabies shots.

He's never been taken to a dog beauty shop for a manicure, shampoo and "set." But it hasn't given him an inferiority complex because he holds his head high.

and steps along with all the self-confidence in the world.

He's never had a babysitter, either, like the dogs I read about in the article. When the family goes out, Sam just assumes he is supposed to guard the house, and the responsibility hasn't seemed to be too heavy for him.

Sam seems so happy, getting one good square meal a day and a treat of dog candy for fetching the morning and evening papers, that I'm mighty thankful, smart as he is, that he can't read.

I'd hate to have him know about those New York dogs who wear mink and nylon and lace. It might give him an awful inferiority complex.

It's Not So Much the Getting There as the Getting Back

Teens Keep Moondust Out of Their Eyes

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of the Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Hardly any of America's traditionally adventurous young people, our bright hope in the coming age of space, want to take a chance on the first rocket to the moon.

We polled several hundred of them recently and found that less than one out of 20 (7 per cent of the boys and 2 per cent of the girls) expressed even the slightest enthusiasm for such a trip.

Summing it up for the overwhelming majority, one 12-year-old asked our poll taker:

"Are you kidding? It's not so much the getting there as the getting back."

"You must have lost all your marbles even to consider this." "Fly first to the moon?" asked Carl Bristol, 15, of the Bronx.

"I wouldn't be invited because I'm not Russian."

DEEP IMPRESSION

Carl's caustic comment reflected another aspect of our poll — the deep impression Russia's successful Sputniks have made upon American young people.

Fully three out of four American young people feel sure the Russians will beat the United States in the race to the moon, probably landing an unmanned rocket on the lunar surface by 1960.

And, for many of those we queried, the prospect of a Communist victory is fraught with frightening implications.

"The moon could be used as a possible missile base," a 17-year-old boy from Camden, Ark., told our poll takers.

"The one who gets there first will rule the world," in the opinion of Eileen Fagen, 15, of Yonkers, N. Y.

EQUAL PESSIMISM

The pessimism about American chances in the space race is about equal among both boys and girls.

Among the girls, 73 per cent foresee a Russian victory, while 80 per cent of the boys feel the same way.

Why has the United States slipped behind Russia in this important aspect of scientific progress?

Two-thirds of youth thinks it's because American armed services have been competing in the development of the guided missiles necessary to propel a craft into space.

Slightly less than half of the young people think an unmanned rocket (Russian model) will be fired to the moon in the next five years. Half of those select the year 1960.

About one in three feel the epic firing will be made in from 5 to 10 years while nearly one in four think it will take longer than that.

Virtually all (99 per cent) of American young people can foresee a time when manned rockets will be sent to the moon and beyond.

And a large portion of them can see practical military and economic value in being able to travel to the moon and the other planets.

Dear Abby....

Change That Trio to Duet Right Now

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for three months and my mother-in-law has been living with us three months also. She has her own apartment which she just locked up because she gets "lonesome."

I can't do anything for my husband because she beats me to it. If he says he wants something she jumps up and gets it for him.

I think she should be told that we want to be alone, but I don't think it's my place to tell her. My husband is very soft-hearted.

BRIDE OF THREE MONTHS
DEAR BRIDE: Young "marriages" have a tough enough time adjusting to each other without a third party complicating matters. Your mother-in-law should have her own friends and live her own life. Tell your bridegroom to change the trio to a duet now or prepare to have her with you forever!

DEAR ABBY: I raised my son all alone and he always was a good boy. He is 17 now and everybody says he is very good-looking. There has been one girl who has been calling him on the phone for almost a year.

When I would answer the telephone he would say, "It's a girl tell her I'm not home." This means that he doesn't care for any girl, right? All of a sudden he tells me he wants me to sign for him to get married.

I know he doesn't care enough for any girl to marry her but I am afraid he is in some sort of trouble. How can I find out?

WORRIED MOM
DEAR MOM: Assume your son that no matter what the story is, you will stick by him and help him out. Meet the girl and her parents before you sign anything.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me how to go about finding out why a certain young man spent five years in Leavenworth prison? I would like to do it quietly and confidentially. Thank you.

INTERESTED
DEAR INTERESTED: If this man means something to you—ask him. If he means nothing to you, then it's none of your business.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old and think I am old enough to know a good guy from a bad one. This one kid who comes to see me is as good as they come but he just doesn't believe in dressing up. I don't mind but my father does. He told me that if that kid comes over here looking like a bum again he is going to ask him if those are the best clothes he has and if they are he is going to offer him a job on Saturdays to earn money to buy clothes with.

My father has the nerve to do it, too. If he does, I will just die. How can I stop him?

PAM
DEAR PAM: If the young man is clean and those are the best clothes he has, your father shouldn't embarrass him by an offer of a job to earn money for better clothes. It might be a good idea to prepare your boy friend for the shock.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE "PROFESSOR": What you need is a good head on your shoulder! Next time, try a brunette.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Pontiac Press. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Advent Church Auxiliary Hears Building Plans

When the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church of the Advent held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Jack Couzens on Orchard Lake road, slides were shown and plans were reviewed by Frank Arnoldi and Russell Meyer for the proposed parish hall, construction of which will begin in the spring. The building will be located on Middlebelt road near West Long Lake road.

The new president of the group, Mrs. Hugh Macduff, appointed Mrs. John S. Hart of Bloomfield Hills and Mrs. Clarence Suhr chairman and co-chairman of the 1958 Fall Fair. Mrs. Robert MacGonigal of Bloomfield Hills and Mrs. Robert D. Miller of Orchard Lake were asked to head the social activities at the Tuesday meeting.

On Feb. 12 the first of several building fund-raising projects, a kickoff dinner, will be held at Bloomfield Hills High School.

Bride Asks About Giving Boxed Cake

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married shortly at a very simple wedding. There will be no reception as we intend to leave immediately on our honeymoon.

"I would like to know if it would be proper to have small boxes of wedding cake made up to hand out to our friends and relatives as they come up to congratulate us. We have quite a large vestibule in our church and these boxes could be stacked on a table near us. I realize this is unusual.

Answer: I see no objection to it at all. In fact, I think it would be very pleasing.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell us the proper introduction for the following: (1) New employee to heads of company, (2) an in-law, (3) an ex-in-law, (4) mother who remarried and has different name, (5) husband who has title other than Mister."

ANSWER: (1) "Mrs. (or Miss or Mr.) Executive, this is Miss Blank, our new employee." Or, "Mr. Jones, this is Miss Blank who will be in your department." (2) "Mrs. Black, this is my sister-in-law, Mrs. Doe." Or to be more explicit on occasion: "My brother John's wife." Instead of "daughter-in-law" it might be "Our Mary, John's wife."

(3) Usually introduced by name: "Mrs. . . . or Miss or Mr. . . ." and that's all. But if it seems necessary to explain their past relationship, you add "who was my sister-in-law."

(4) "Mrs. Older—my Mother," and add: "Mother's name is Mrs. Blank." (5) "Mrs. Smith, this is 'Dr. Doe' or 'Gen. Doe.'"

"Dear Mrs. Post: My own mother died when I was born and I've had a stepmother from the age of 4. However, my father and stepmother were divorced a short while ago, and they are not on friendly terms. I am, with both, May I invite her to my wedding?"

Answer: By all means invite your stepmother and leave the decision about coming up to her.

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The new football rule which says that an offensive player may use only one arm and it must be held tightly against his body when blocking has been met with great disfavor by college coaches.

Fritz Crisler said recently, "I don't think it will take away blocking ability, and it will prevent injuries to players rushing a kicker or passer."

Sorry, we're not with Fritz on this argument. An old timer who also is not in favor with Fritz' thinking is George Scales, who played his football at Exeter Prep School way back in 1897-1900.

"They give football players today every protection possible with safe equipment, but they are even trying to make softies out of them with these rules," said Scales.

Scales, now 80 years old, follows football intensely. "It used to be a poor blocker who could only block with one arm, now they make it a rule that a player has to use only one arm," he said.

THE BIRDIE SEZ:

The big shuffle in Class A prep standings took place when Highland Park dropped out of the top spot for the first time this year after falling to Grosse Point in a return match, 58-52, Tuesday night.

Ferris stayed in 7th spot and Pontiac held on to 12th place after Saginaw dropped way down because of its loss to Bay City Handy.

Clarkston fell three places in "B" ranks after its loss to Brighton but Troy moved up to 3rd after a pair of victories since last Thursday.

Warriors Gain Sixth Straight and Look Forward to Playoffs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia Warriors are going to give everyone trouble for the remainder of the pro basketball season, including the playoffs. Why? There are four good reasons right now. Tom Gola has shaken his Army rust and Jack George has returned to the form that made him one of the National Basketball Assn.'s top players two years ago when the Warriors won the NBA title.

The other two reasons are the always steady play of Paul Arizin and Neil Johnston. The Warriors, with Gola and George doing a key job, whipped the Lakers in Minneapolis last night, 112-102 for their sixth straight victory. The Celtics whipped Cincinnati for the second straight night, this time 116-89 at Boston Garden with Tommy Heinsohn leading a balanced attack with 18 points. But the continuation of the Warriors streak was the big one, coming at a time when each victory is important.

Tigers Want Senators' Catcher

Says Braves Stronger Than '57

Haney Predicts Win

By FRED HANEY
Milwaukee Braves Manager

MILWAUKEE (AP) — I think the Milwaukee Braves can win again. I believe the 1958 club will be stronger than the one which won the National League pennant and beat the New York Yankees in the World Series.

First of all, we don't figure to have the number of injuries we had last season. Secondly, our pitching staff should be just as strong, if not stronger. Thirdly, any team that goes through a season as we did last year with young players, should gain from the added experience that is bound to help them.

I am quite satisfied with the team as it finished last year but we may need a little stronger hitting bench. Much, of course, depends upon the condition of Bill Bruton, who underwent a knee operation during the winter.

The doctors say he will be all right. The winter's rest should bring Joe Adcock to normal again. As you know, he broke his leg during midseason and although he was back in the lineup in September, he wasn't himself.

I believe the acquisition of Bob Rush and Don Kaiser from Chicago will help our pitching staff. I've also heard fine reports on Carleton Willey and Joe Jay, both of whom had outstanding seasons with our Wichita farm team.

Rush has been around for some time but he's still only 32, and can still fire the ball. Kaiser's potential is still questionable but he's young and can throw hard. Of course, we still have Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette, Gene Conley, Bob Buhl and Bob Trowbridge as starters.

I don't expect any infield worries either. At first base, we should be able to start with a sound Adcock and a greatly improved Frank Torre. The rest of the infield is set with Red Schoendienst at second, Johnny Logan at short and Eddie Mathews at third.

If Bruton is fit, the outfield will consist of Hank Aaron in right, Wes Covington in left and Bruton in center. Then there's reliable Andy Pafko, Bob Hanley, who had a wonderful rookie year, and rookie Ray Shearer, who batted .316, hit 29 home runs and drove in 110 runs with Wichita last year.

All in all, I'm very much pleased with our current roster, and I am looking forward to another nip-and-tuck race.

Chevrefils Sent Down by Boston for Violations

BOSTON (AP) — Boston winger Real Chevrefils of the National Hockey League has been sent to Springfield of the American League for disciplinary reasons.

Boston General Manager Lynn Patrick said yesterday that Chevrefils was demoted because he "refused to observe training rules after repeated warnings."

SEES REPEAT — Manager Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves says his team will again win the National League pennant this year. This is Haney's third season at Milwaukee, he finished out the 1936 campaign.

PATERSON, N. J. (AP) — Larry Doby, Baltimore's new left-handed slugger, predicts the Detroit Tigers will give the New York Yankees their toughest fight for the American League pennant this season.

"In my opinion, Detroit is the club to watch," Doby said in an interview yesterday. "You don't figure guys like Harvey Kuenn, Frank Lary and Billy Hoelt to have two half years in a row."

Lary and Hoelt are potential 20-game winners. Billy Martin is going to help, too, and if all these things blend the Tigers could win it all."

Doby, 33, was traded to the Orioles by the Chicago White Sox two months ago.

College Coach Against 'Timed' Shooting Rule

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Coach Phil Woolpert, who made defense the key to two national collegiate basketball titles for his University of San Francisco Dons, bitterly opposes all proposals to put a time limit in shooting.

It would just make the game more of a shoot-and-run race than ever, and would hurt the gate, the outspoken coach declared today. "In all these proposed changes," Woolpert said, "the inference is that we have a lousy game. Rule changes are one reason for lower crowds. If they put in many more new changes, we won't be playing basketball any more. It will be an entirely new game."

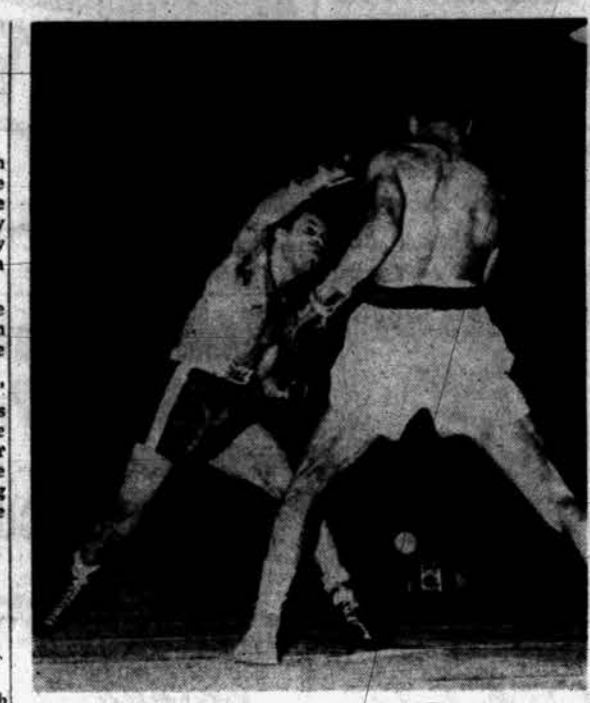

Dupas Beats Ortega in Television Bout

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Ralph Dupas of New Orleans, who wants a shot at Joe Brown's lightweight championship, took a long step in the title direction last night with a 10-round split decision over welterweight Gaspar Ortega of Mexico before a national television audience.

"Ralph is ready to meet anybody in the lightweight or welterweight division who will lead to a title shot," said the New Orleans fighter's trainer, Angelo Dundee. The second-ranked lightweight, who scaled 141 to Ortega's 145, got a 99-92 nod from referee Paddy Mills and a 98-92 edge from judge Charles Ford on the 10-point "must" basis. Judge John Burton scored the bout a draw, 96-96. The Associated Press had Dupas ahead 99-92.

Venturi Seeks 3rd Straight

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Ken Venturi, currently the hottest golfer on the pro circuit, is out to make it three in a row in the $15,000 Tucson Open golf tournament, which starts today. But the smooth-swinging 26-year old San Francisco, recent winner of the Thunderbird Invitational and the Phoenix Open, is only one of a dozen contenders considered as likely winners.

Werner Last American Ski Hope

BADGASTEIN, Austria, (AP) — giant slalom, Werner has only Sunday's downhill left in which to try to break through Austria's domination. And while he excels in the downhill, and might win it, results of the first two events of the championship series have left him so far off the leading pace only a spill or disqualification could give him the title.

Tony Sailer, Austria's great triple gold medal winner at the 1956 Olympics in Cortina, Italy leads the combined ratings with only 0.36 penalty points with Austria's Josi Rieder second with 2.90. Chick Igawa of Japan third with 5.79 followed by Werner, 6.27, and Anderi Molterer Austria with 9.62.

Experts figure Sailer's lead is so great that even a so-so showing in the downhill still would leave him first in the combined ratings. The same, they say, would hold for Rieder should Sailer fall or be disqualified, always a possibility in this breakneck sport. Sailer, second to Rieder in the slalom, last Sunday's opening

McHale Says $100,000 Deal Involves 2 or 3 Players and Cash

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers have offered the Washington Senators "a package worth $100,000" for catcher Lou Berberet.

Tiger Gen. Mgr. John McHale said yesterday the deal would involve both cash and either two or three players. He did not name the players.

"That $100,000 figure is our own appraisal and perhaps the Washington Club doesn't estimate it that high," allowed McHale. "Nevertheless it's a standing offer and we're ready to make the deal at any time."

In Washington, a Senators spokesman indicated the club certainly didn't agree with McHale's figure. "He (McHale) doesn't want to give us a Major League regular," the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, in Lakeland, Fla., the Detroit Tigers have signed seven players taking part in the club's baseball school.

They include catchers Bill Hehalco, 22, of Nanty-Glo, Pa., and Al Lavetti, 26, of Buffalo, N.Y.; pitchers Paul Mihalak, 18, of Erie, Pa., Steve Mandy of Lackawanna, N.Y., and Harold Mummert, 20, of Chambersburg, Pa.

Bob Exline, 20, of Columbus, O., was signed as an outfielder, and Dick Allen, 18, of Toledo, Ohio, as an infielder.

The school, headed by director of scouts Ed Katalinas, has attracted about 120 young players.

Chiefs, Vikings Have Home Mat Matches

The Pontiac Central wrestling team, still hopeful of finishing with a winning record, goes back into action tomorrow playing host to Royal Oak Dondoro.

Berkley takes on Toledo Whitman in the only other Friday match while two events involving Oakland County schools are set for tonight. Southfield will be guest of a surprisingly strong Walled Lake contingent at Hazel Park goes to Ypsilanti in the pair.

Pontiac bowed Tuesday to Garden City losing several close battles and is now sporting a 3-5 record with seven dual matches remaining.

If He Whips Anthony

Durelle May Get Title Shot

NEW YORK (INS) — Canada's Yvon Durelle may get a title shot at light heavyweight champion Archie Moore if he defeats Tony Anthony in their much-postponed bout.

The championship match became a possibility yesterday when Charley Johnston, Moore's manager, said Durelle could have a title chance in Canada "if Moore gets $100,000."

Johnston said he already has informed Toronto promoter Jack Allen of the price. The manager added that he'd like to hold the fight in Toronto "where there are good sports fans" or in

Spartans Lead League but Not in Statistics

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan State is proving that statistics and leadership in the Big Ten basketball race don't necessarily mix.

The first place Spartans, official conference figures showed today, are hitting field goals at a .390 clip, free throws at .567, scoring an average of 72.8 points per game while limiting foes to 68.8 and averaging 46.6 rebounds.

None of the figures is tops in the league. Eighth place Northwestern has the best field goal percentage with .409 and the best scoring average of 79 points a game.

Third place Michigan is tops in free throw percentage with .740 and in rebound average with 54.2. Wisconsin's yield of 63.6 points per game is the best defensive mark. Wisconsin shares sixth place with Indiana.

Archie Dees of Indiana continues to lead individual scoring with a 24.7 average followed by Illinois' Don Ohi with 23.5. Michigan's Pete Tillotson with 21.0 and Iowa's Dave Gunther and Minnesota's George Kline, each with 20.3.

Dees is tops in field goal percentage with .571 and Willie Merriweather of Purdue is No. 1 in free throw hitting among the more active foul shooters with an .875 mark.

New Boat Law Starts March 1

Effective Date Still Same Despite Delay Recommendations

LANSING (AP) — Despite recommendations of a water safety study commission, Gov. Williams and the chairman of the House Marine Affairs Committee both are willing to let the state's new boat registration law take effect on schedule March 1.

The study commission, appointed by the Governor and headed by George Clay of Grand Rapids, recommended the effective date of the law be postponed until Congress passes a national boat law.

Starting March 1, all motor powered boats must be registered and licensed. The fee is $2. The study commission pointed out that the national boat law may set up a completely different numbering system, creating the possibility that Michigan boat owners might have to start numbering their boats all over again.

Gov. Williams, however, told Clay that the federal boat regulations are only in a "probable" stage and that Michigan needs a registration system and an effective boat safety law immediately.

Rep. James P. Mielock (R-Whittemore), head of the House Marine Affairs Committee and author of the new bill, agreed.

Wings Call 2 Skaters

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings have called up Stuart McNeil and Brian Smith from their Hamilton, Ont., junior club for possible action in weekend games with New York and Chicago.

Top Skiers of Midwest in Kandahar's Tourney

Only ski-jumping tourney of the winter in the Pontiac area, and possibly the only event of the kind in southeastern Michigan will be held Sunday at Kandahar Club, near the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area.

The tournament holds considerable importance because among its competitors will be top jumpers from the Midwest, representing such high-ranked clubs as Chicago's Norge Ski Club, Thunderbird Jumpers from Milwaukee, Racine (Wis.) Ski Club, Iron Mountain, Briar-Hill (Meick) and Ishpeming club from Michigan, plus entries from the Michigan club which will provide plenty of competition.

The meet is sanctioned by the Central United States Ski association and awards will be made on style and distance, judged by CUSSA officials William Hyvonen and Edgar Neuman of Detroit.

Kandahar Ski area is located just off Macebay Lake road at the Orr farm. It can be reached by driving M59 to Williams Lake road (Pontiac Airport), then north to Macebay Lake road, west to site. Signs have been posted showing the way.

La-event snow is lacking, the jump will be packed with a snow and straw base so the event will take place as scheduled.

Public is invited. Tickets may be secured at the gate.

Women's Deadline in 5 Days; Bowlerama Men Set to Qualify

While the men prepare to start their qualifying rounds this weekend at Howe's Lanes and Montcalm Centre, the women of Oakland County are reminded that they have only five more days to submit their entries for the 2nd annual Press Bowlerama.

Midnight Monday is the deadline for the ladies. Like the men, one out of every eight women is assured of sharing the prize fund along with the opportunity of winning numerous merchandise gifts.

Women who have husbands qualifying this weekend can also qualify for the feature bowling pin table lamp. The top score of the husband-wife combination will win the prize.

A total of 435 men will go through qualifying rounds Saturday and Sunday. Activity will start at Howe's at 10:00 a.m. Saturday, others will follow at Montcalm starting at 1:30 p.m.

First squad Sunday will start at 11:30 a.m. at Montcalm and at 1:00 p.m. at Howe's.

All bowlers are required to report to their sites a half-hour before bowling time, and they must check in at the alley desk with Bowlerama supervisor to receive their alley assignment.

Four bowlers will roll on a pair of alleys, except the final squads which will have six on a pair of alleys.

High qualifiers in each alley will win a trophy. In event of a tie, the high qualifier with the best actual single game in his series will receive the trophy.

In event of ties for any of the merchandise prizes, such as the bowling ball, bowling shoes, bowling bags, a one-game roll off on the day of the finals will be used to break the ties.

The top 12 per cent of the total number of men, plus ties, will go into the finals. This means at least 55 or more will win 10 dollars and still get a crack at the top three guaranteed prizes and remaining purse.

Saturday's qualifiers are repeated in today's Press. Tomorrow the Sunday qualifiers will be printed.

Ex-Lion Wants Delay in Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—U. S. District Court will rule next week on a request by former Detroit Lions player William Radovich for a delay in his $105,000 suit against the National Football League.

Radovich, 42, of Los Angeles, charges the Lions and the NFL boycotted him in 1948. He played guard for the Lions in 1938. Then jumped to the Los Angeles Dons of the now-defunct All-American Conference in 1945.

Radovich said when he later tried to join the San Francisco Clippers in the old Pacific Coast Football League the team would not hire him because of its connection with the NFL.

Maxwell Keith, Radovich's attorney, asked the court to delay the trial six months because of the illness of NFL President Bert Bell.

NBA Scouts Pick Elgin Baylor Top Prospect

Tab Five as 'Pros'

NEW YORK (P)—A professional basketball scout who has seen the nation's leading college players today tabbed five men, including Elgin Baylor of Seattle and Guy Rodgers of Temple, as "most likely" to make the grade in the National Basketball Assn. next season.

He also named Archie Dees of Indiana, Mike Farmer of San Francisco and Barney Cable of Bradley.

All five are seniors although Baylor can play one more year of college ball. The Seattle flash will be eligible for the pro draft since his class graduates this summer.

"I would say that Baylor and Rodgers are the best of the lot. But the other three can make it in our league, too," said Andrew "Fuzzy" Levine, who works for the New York Knickerbockers.

Levine, a former player for the Rochester Royals and Syracuse Nationals of the NBA and coach of the Milwaukee Hawks in the same circuit, is the only paid scout in the country.

"I'm very high for Baylor," he said. "He's strong, dribbles well and is a good rebounder... just the type we look for. As for Rodgers, he's an excellent backcourt man. Guy could develop into another Bob Cousy. In fact, I think he's more advanced than Cousy was at the same stage of their careers."

"Farmer is one of the best defensive players among the big men."

STRIKES AND SPARES

Joe Wilman

When you take your stance, both your shoulders should be squared away to your target. And they should also finish that way at the foul line.

But on the 2nd and 3rd steps of a four-step delivery, the right shoulder may be pulled back a little bit as the ball is in the backswing. We show the third step today just as the bowler gets ready to bring the ball forward with his right arm as he strides and slides with his left leg.

On these two steps (the 2nd and 3rd), your right shoulder should act as a pivot for the armswing. It's only natural that the right shoulder be pulled back slightly in the backswing. If you make a conscious effort to keep your shoulders exactly parallel during the backswing, you'll reduce and cut down on the backswing. You'll also probably harm your timing. Keep this picture in mind throughout your approach. To repeat, the shoulders should begin and finish on a parallel line. But on the 2nd and 3rd steps, the right shoulder may be drawn back a bit, as we show today.

Iba Gets His 500th Win

The Associated Press—Hank Iba, the Iron Duke who teaches his kids tough, close-to-the-vest basketball, has his 500th victory at Oklahoma State today as the Cowboys continue their run for a NCAA tournament "at-large" berth.

Iba pulled in No. 500 by whipping brother Clarence Tulsa Hurricane 64-46 last night, thus joining a select circle of active major college coaches who have won that many at one school. Only Western Kentucky's Ed Diddle and Kentucky's Adolph Rupp have done it among the active coaches.

Diddle has a 673-231 record for 36 years, all with Western Kentucky, while Rupp has won 575, lost 101 in his 28-year career, all at Kentucky.

Iba ranks No. 2, behind Diddle, among active big time coaches in total games won with a 612-176 record for 29 years with Maryville, Mo., Colorado and Oklahoma State. He has lost 154 in his 24 years with the Cowboys.

Oklahoma State, ranked sixth in this week's Associated Press poll, pushed its season record to 14-2, behind the 28-point work of Arlen Clark—the only double figure cowboys' scorer. It was Clark who contributed seven points to an 18-4 burst that bagged it after Tulsa (6-12) moved within three points midway through the second half.

Temple (15-2) was the only other member of the top 10 in action last night and the Owls extended their winning streak, to 14, longest among the majors, with a 72-48 breeze past Duquesne. Guy Rodgers had one of his better nights for the 10th ranked Owls, scoring 25 points and adding six assists and six rebounds.

Bradley, rated No. 11, gained a 13-3 record with a 71-58 decision over Arizona. Unheralded Mike Owens and Gene Morse combined for 31 points for the Braves. Dayton, the winningest club among the nation's top 20, picked up a 17-2 record with a 64-62 overtime squeaker against Miami of Ohio. Don Lane broke a 62-62 regulation tie in the first minute of the overtime, and when Miami missed a return shot, the 14th ranked Flyers turned to control ball for the rest of the season.

Miami, an earlier 63-59 winner over Dayton, stayed in the game on Wayne Embury's 25 points, 21 in the second half when the Redskins came from nine points back. He scored six points in the final moments of regulation play, tying it 62-all with 12 seconds left.

Mike Moran, a 6-8 junior who had been benched for poor shooting, hit 16 of 27 field goal attempts and cracked a pair of records with 44 points as Marquette whipped Creighton 94-48. Marquette's previous individual record was 42 points, by Terry Rand in 1935, and the former Milwaukee Aerie high was 40, by Kansas' Walt Chamberlain last December.

Jon Cincebox scored 31 points as Syracuse junked Army's winning string at four, 75-63. Navy's Jim Bower scored 32 and triggered a late push that rapped Columbia 91-69 after the Lions had closed within three points midway through the second half.

Archaeologists Explore Roman Ruins in Britain

LONDON — Some 250 archaeologists gave Britain a good going over during the summer of 1937. With volunteer helpers they dug up Roman ruins.

Near Carlisle a party was busy at a Roman-British site spotted from the air and at Winterton a group excavated a Roman farmhouse. At Wyly an incense cup dug up there in 1908 has led to new excavations on the site. In the heart of Worcester, students have worked on a Roman site and near London pottery and other evidence from ancient Grim's Dyke has confirmed the theory that it was dug, possibly as Romans came to Britain.

Tax Collectors Bag Hunters and Anglers

WASHINGTON—Fishermen and hunters are themselves a pretty good bag when it comes to taxes. About $30,000,000 was collected in fiscal 1957 for hunting and fishing licenses in the 48 states. In the same year $15,000,000 was collected by the Federal Government as excise taxes on firearms, 000 in federal taxes in the same year.

on fishing rods and reels brought in almost $5,000,000. Other sporting goods netted Uncle Sam nearly $10,000,000 in excise taxes. Pistols and revolvers brought in something over $1,000,000 in federal taxes in the same year.

Latin Lovers Fading From Spanish Scene

MADRID (INS)—Spaniards like to get married when they are pretty old. According to a recent statistic, 2,000 Spaniards aged more than 60, got married during the year 1955. Usually men get married in Spain when they are between 27 and 32 years old.

About 2.5 million Americans live in mobile homes.

Seeking Employment?

MILWAUKEE (U)—Classified ad in the "Wisconsin Druggist" magazine: "Pharmacist wanted: For full time work in town of 5,000. Must be able to work long hours for short pay. Boss is ugly, demanding and difficult to please. Only those below 30 years of age who can smile in the face of adversity need apply."

Seat Cover Sales Up
