

Docking With Agena Is First Task

Gemini 8 Astronauts Begin Difficult Mission

Record Space Walk Slated Tomorrow

IN POSITION — Suited up and tightly stowed in their Gemini 8 spacecraft at Cape Kennedy before their launch this morning are astronauts Neil Armstrong (top) and David R. Scott.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 8 astronauts soared into orbit today on man's most difficult space venture and began staking an Agena satellite across the sky in the first attempt to link up two orbiting vehicles.

Neil A. Armstrong and David R. Scott planned to close in on the Agena late today after a 105,000-mile chase and complete the historic docking about 6 p.m. high above South America.

But the excitement of the action-packed flight won't end there.

Three additional hookups are planned and tomorrow Scott is to drift out into the silent emptiness of space for a record space-walk of nearly 2½ hours.

By the time the astronauts return to earth on Saturday, if all goes as planned, they will have rehearsed many of the vital techniques that must be perfected before men venture to the moon.

THUNDERING BLAST-OFF

The great space hunt started at 11:41 a.m. with the thundering blast-off of a Titan 2 rocket from Cape Kennedy.

The 109-foot-tall projectile vaulted upward on a blazing trail of hot gasses and drilled Gemini 8 into orbit more than 100 miles above the earth.

Command pilot Armstrong desired the Titan 2 and fired jet thrusters to provide the final orbital speed of more than 17,500 miles an hour.

The firing climaxed a spectacular launching doubleheader that started at 10 a.m. when an Atlas burst away from another launch pad to propel the Agena target satellite into orbit 185 miles high — precisely the path Armstrong and Scott were in their Gemini 8 spacecraft when the Atlas-Agena took off.

They watched the launching on a television monitor placed outside the hatch.

When told by the control center that the Agena was in an excellent orbit, Armstrong commented: "Beautiful. We'll take that one."

Dems Expect Senate Battle

By GENE SCHROEDER
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT — The curtain appeared about to go up today on a primary election battle that could split Michigan's Democratic party wide open.

The political donnybrook would match G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams, 55, former six-term governor, with Jerome Cavanagh, 37, two-time Detroit mayor who was just reelected to a four-year term last November, in a fight for the U.S. Senate nomination.

Williams, who has been assistant secretary of state for African affairs for the past five years, already has announced his candidacy for the seat to be left vacant by the retirement of Sen. Patrick McNamara.

Cavanagh, one of the brightest stars on the Democratic political horizon, reportedly has made up his mind to

Two Are Killed in Watts Riot

26 Injured; Outbreak Is Halted by Police

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An estimated 600 Negroes, rampaging for six hours, stormed violently through Watts—the south Los Angeles area that still shows scars of last August's bloody riots—leaving two dead and 26 injured.

Killed during the height of the outbreak were a truck driver, beaten by the mob and shot; and a Negro who walked out of a building into a sniper's fire, police said.

A massive force of several hundred police moved in quickly to quell the outbreak.

Officers armed with shot-guns sealed off a 2½-square-block section in predominantly Negro district late yesterday afternoon, then swept through to clear the streets of mobs firing guns, hurling bottles, looting stores and upsetting cars.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown flew to Los Angeles, decided against calling out the alerted National Guard and guardedly announced: "Everything is well under control for the time being."

Bystanders in the area, some in anguish, looked on as roving mobs of mostly teen-agers led the charge.

HUMAN TARGETS

As was the case last August, while people were potential human targets for the mob's wrath.

The first victim of the outbreak was a white man, Lawrence Gomez, 30, a truck driver and father of five. After he was beaten and shot he staggered to four nearby doors seeking refuge from the mob, then fell dead, police said.

A short time later, Joe Lee Crawford, 33, a Negro, died after he walked out of a store into a sniper's fire, officers said.

House Passes Bill on County Districts

LANSING (AP) — The House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday an admittedly unconstitutional bill to apportion county boards of supervisors on a one man-one vote basis.

The action precedes by nearly a month a Michigan Supreme Court ruling which most legislators expect will call for equal-population representation on county boards.

Many also anticipate the court will rule unconstitutional that section of the State Constitution that now calls for one representative on the board from each organized township in the county.

Board Urges Two Changes

Oakland Supervisors Hit Commission Setup

Claiming that House Bill 2774, is unconstitutional, the Oakland County Board of Supervisors today suggested two major changes in the bill.

The measure passed on a 65-32 near-party line vote, with most Republicans against it. They did not take a group stand, however, and Minority Leader Robert Waldron, R-Grassie Pointe, voted "yes."

NO DISPUTE

In more than an hour of debate, no one directly disputed the population-only concept in the bill, although the court has not yet ruled they must be elected from equal population districts.

House sources, however, said they understood "the votes for population apportionment of county boards are there in the Supreme Court."

The court has had Kent and Muskegon county cases under consideration since early last year. It is expected to hand down its opinion April 12.

The general Democratic strategy is to have the bill part way through the legislative mill, ready for quick action as soon as the court rules.

The board members would be selected by the executive committee of their respective parties.

Secondly, the board agreed that the bill fails to set a standard population criteria to be used in determining apportionment in districts.

WITHIN 10 PCT.

It proposed that apportioned districts should be within 10 per cent (under or over) the average.

The board also suggested that redistricting be given more consideration in the State Legislature than in the past because of the great changes it will bring about in county government.

Board members termed the bill itself "in violation of the constitution and a derogation of the power of the Supreme Court," since the court has not yet issued a decision on a Kent County test case.

AGENA ROARS OFF — The Agena unmanned space vehicle is blasted from its pad at Cape Kennedy this morning for its flight into space where it is scheduled to link up with the Gemini 8 spacecraft, manned by astronauts Neil Armstrong and David Scott.

City Approves Workable Plan

Seeks Recertification by Federal Agency

By L. GARY THORNE

In quick fashion last night, the city's 1966 Workable Program for Community Improvement was presented and approved for submission to federal authorities.

The bulky document now goes to Housing and Urban Development (HUD) officials for recertification.

Improved significantly by two important decisions made within the last three weeks, program offers an optimistic review of the city's progress last year.

Despite optimism, however, city officials have indicated they anticipate some difficulty in obtaining recertification.

Some critics of the program have urged HUD officials to investigate closely the city's compliance with last year's program.

NEGRO HOUSING

Meantime, the Michigan Civil Rights Commission is investigating allegations concerning the reported lack of city action to provide housing for Negroes.

Prospects for recertification are improved by a recent City Commission decision to build public housing for senior citizens and the proposed study of minority group housing needs.

Action on the senior citizen housing is in line with advice last year by federal officials that the problem be studied.

Also, hopes of recertification are improved by the appointment Feb. 24 of a subcommittee of the Citizens Improvement Advisory Committee (CIAC) to study minority group housing.

Creation of the subcommittee was disclosed for the first time last night.

MEMBER GROUP

The chairman of the new six-member subcommittee is JoAnn VanTassel, 51 E. Iroquois.

Two objectives are listed for the subcommittee in the 1966 workable program:

- Obtain an indication of the minority group housing situation and specific problems that ought to be studied.
- Determination of what additional groups should be represented on the committee.

Critics of the workable program have recently contacted the regional office of HUD to complain that the city did not have a minority group housing subcommittee.

Housing problems and citizen participation are the two areas in which the city has anticipated difficulty obtaining recertification.

The 1966 program submission details one area of the housing problem.

Mild Weather Due for St. Pat's Day

The weatherman reports St. Patrick's Day will dawn partly cloudy but temperatures will be warmer, the highs aiming for 52 to 60.

Partly cloudy and a low of 28 to 35 is tonight's forecast.

And here's more good news — partly cloudy and mild is the outlook for Friday.

Morning easterly winds at 10 to 16 miles per hour will continue tonight.

A sunny 24 was the low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The mercury had crept up to 45 by 2 p.m.

News Flash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House labor subcommittee today approved legislation to increase the federal minimum wage to $1.60 an hour. It also would bring more than 6.5 million additional workers under wage-hour law coverage.

In addition, larceny of goods valued over $50 increased 18.8 per cent.

Offsetting the rise in six of the seven categories was a sharp drop in reported armed robberies, with only 10 reported so far this year compared to 24 in a similar period in 1965.

Offenses in the two other categories which showed increases — murder and forcible rape — totaled three, as opposed to none reported through February of last year.

Hanger singled out the steep climb in auto theft as being "genuinely alarming," even though the high percentages can be misleading early in the year when total reports are still low.

Car thefts so far in 1966 total 49, compared to only 18 last year.

The chief noted, however, that police had also boosted the department's arrest rate in the auto theft category.

Nearly three-fourths of the offenses — 71.4 per cent — have

LBJ Signs Viet Tax Bill; Hints of Hike Later in Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson has signed the $6-billion Viet Nam tax bill into law with a veiled warning that new taxes may be in the offing later this year.

"I can make no prediction... on the need for additional taxes this year," the chief executive said. "But you may be assured that this administration stands ready to act when action is needed — if it is needed."

The President signed the tax measure last night only hours after Congress gave its final approval.

He said that by signing the bill immediately "We are saving the government a million dollars in revenue," adding with a smile, "that more than makes up for the lights we are using."

Johnson stressed the measure would be "a force for prudence and restraint" against inflation, in addition to helping finance the Viet Nam war.

He warned against "carelessness, or selfishness, or shortsightedness" which might move the nation's current economic boom — now in its first month — ahead at too fast a clip.

He called on all Americans to exercise discipline and prudence "so that what we have worked so hard to build will last and prosper."

The legislation the President signed will bring the Treasury $12 billion in higher excise taxes on new cars and telephone calls, and a $4.8-billion speedup in payroll withholding and corporate tax collections.

It passed the House on a 288-102 vote yesterday, accompanied by a warning from Rep. John W. Byrnes, Wis., ranking Republican on the Ways and Means Committee, that Congress was on a "collision course" toward a tax rise unless domestic spending is cut.

SENATE VOTE

The Senate vote on final passage was 72 to 5. During the debate, Sen. John F. Williams, R-Del., who was later commended by Johnson for his aid in passing the measure, predicted the President would ask for a tax hike after the November elections.

A subcommittee of the Joint Congressional Economic Committee, headed by Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., opens hearings today on how Congress should go about raising taxes again if the war in Viet Nam or the inflationary threat worsens.

In approving Johnson's $6-billion package, the lawmakers gave the President virtually everything he asked for and added a little of their own.

The excise tax on new cars will go from 6 to 7 percent immediately, adding $30 to the price of a $2,000 car. The tax on phone calls will rise from 10 to 12 percent on April 1, adding 70 cents to a $10 phone bill.

CHANGE BASIS

On May 1, the current 14 percent payroll withholding rate will be replaced by a system of graduated rates that won't raise anyone's taxes, but will put wage-earners on more of a pay-as-you-go basis. Corporations also will have to pay their taxes sooner.

The House and Senate also adopted an amendment by Sen. Winston Prouty, R-Vt., that will provide monthly pensions for about 300,000 persons over 72 who now receive none.

Payments, which being Oct. 1, will range up to $35 for single persons and $52.50 for married couples.

forced to relocate in the city due to governmental action.

Of these 80 families, urban renewal has had contact with only 20 families.

J. David Vanderveen, administrative assistant to the mayor, admitted last night's presentation, made no formal records of displaced families.

However, a form has been developed to provide such records in the future.

The workable program submission estimates 233 families will be relocated by government action in the next two years.

The 1966 program plans that some comparison be made in Pontiac of the housing demand and the supply.

Elsewhere in the 1966 workable program, the city plans to revise three city codes — building, electrical and the air conditioning and refrigeration codes.

The city's program of systematic housing code enforcement is to be further expanded in 1966 with two new areas to receive door-to-door inspection by the fall.

The new areas are to be approached when the two existing areas are completed.

Vanderveen said last night that the systematic code been cleared by arrests of suspects.

Over half of those apprehended were under 18 years old, underlying the modern phenomenon of joyriding.

"Kids out for a thrill cause a great deal of our problem in this area," Hanger said.

ARREST FIGURES

Arrest figures were similarly high in murder (106 per cent) and assaults (78.3 per cent).

Police also upped the percentage of arrests in reported burglaries, from 22 per cent last year to 24.6 per cent through the first two months of 1966.

Dinner to Start Public Drive for Hospital Funds

The public phase of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital's $3.25-million building fund campaign will begin at 6:30 tonight with a kick-off dinner at the Pontiac Elks Club.

Nearly 400 workers are expected to attend the dinner to receive final instructions and celebrate the official kickoff.

E. M. Estes, fund chairman, will preside at the fete.

Key figures in the public campaign phase are Robert R. Eldred, Pontiac area chairman, and Don B. Whitfield, Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills area chairman.

enforcement program was accelerated last year with the equivalent of 1 1/2 to two full-time men working in the two areas.

He further claimed the city has been recruiting for three months for another inspector to be added to the systematic enforcement program.

Vanderveen said there were 91 complaints last year on the various code enforcement problems. This was a 200 per cent increase over 1964 when there were only 29 complaints, he said.

The workable program estimates the city will receive 125 complaints in 1966.

$39,000 INCREASE

Financing various phases of the workable program is to be increased by $39,000 in 1966, said Vanderveen.

He also said that among capital improvements planned for 1966 are completion of M59 relocation by the Michigan State Highway Department, construction of pedestrian overpasses and further beautification efforts through the planting of trees and shrubs.

Maur said some 400 barbiturate capsules were sneaked into Sykes the day prior to the brawl in the cutaway bottom of a cigarette package.

The victim, Marvin Taylor, testified during the examination that Sykes had "drugged him with goofballs" before attacking him in a cell he and Sykes shared with five other prisoners.

Versaille D. Rowells, 23, one of the other prisoners in the cell, took the stand today and testified in support of Taylor's allegations.

Rowells stated Sykes had beaten Taylor after Taylor had sought help from one of two turnkeys in the jail.

Vanderveen said the workable program submission also details current efforts to establish by ordinance a local Human Relations Commission, replacing the existing committee.

When the astronauts took off, the 26-foot long Agena was directly over the cape.

By the time they achieved orbit six minutes later, the fast-moving Agena had streaked out about 1,200 miles in front of them and was over the Atlantic northeast of the island of Antigua.

Gemini 8 was aimed at an orbit ranging from 100 to 168 statute miles out and mission control reported it was almost precisely on that path — ranging from 88 to 178 miles. Officials reported this was "very acceptable."

ORBITAL SHIFTING

Armstrong and Scott were to execute a number of orbital shifting maneuvers which would enable them to catch the Agena during the fourth orbit.

The linkup of the two vehicles was scheduled to occur 185 miles above Peru when command pilot Armstrong, the first civilian astronaut to rocket into space, was to guide the nose of the Gemini into a funnel-shaped docking collar on the Agena.

The astronauts were to fly the same course that Gemini 6 and 7 followed, with Walker M. Schirra Jr.

Armstrong, 35, veteran pilot who flew seven missions in the X15 rocket research plane, was at the controls as the space race began.

His partner, Scott, 33, an Air Force major, was to handle the computer that calculates the precise directions enabling them to make three major orbit changes and several minor adjustments to narrow the gap with Agena.

The twin launching, the first ever conducted in the U.S. space program, was viewed by thousands who crowded into favorable vantage points at the Cape.

Sewer Problem Arises Again

Oxford Businesses in Rebuilding Dilemma

By JANICE KLOUSER

OXFORD — Two years ago, village residents turned thumb down in a straw vote on a proposed sewer system and the matter was dropped.

Now they are squarely up against the problem again.

Most concerned at the moment are the businessmen whose buildings were damaged or destroyed in a $250,000 fire on Jan. 31.

The County Health Department says they must have an adequate sanitary sewage disposal system before they can rebuild. Up until the fire they had been using basement cesspools.

Two of the men, David Parrish and John Cowe, are going to appeal to the County Board of Supervisors Health Committee tomorrow for permission to rebuild with the present system. But what happens if this permission is denied?

"It takes two years to put in a sewer system," said Village Manager Robert Smalley, "and conceivably these buildings could just sit there that long."

"It's not fair to them and it's not fair to us because this is a prime business area."

He said the present disposal methods have proved adequate until now and would probably continue to do so if there were no radical change in the amount of water used each month.

ADEQUATE FOR BUSINESS

"For instance, Dave Parrish uses about 600 gallons of water a month in his insurance office," Smalley said, "and the present system is adequate to take care of it."

"But what if he wanted to take a beauty shop, for example, which uses a lot more water. Would the system be adequate then?"

When the matter was first brought up in 1964, villagers were told they were lucky not to have had any serious outbreaks of typhoid, hepatitis and dysentery.

Board OKs Resignation of Recreation Director

BIRMINGHAM — The recreation board has announced that the resignation of Recreation Director Don Martin has been accepted and that Patricia Husemann, supervisor of recreation, has been named acting director until the vacancy can be filled.

Martin submitted a letter to the board last month, but the decision to accept it was not announced until this week.

Martin, 32, becomes superintendent of parks and recreation in Southfield on March 28.

"This was a hard decision to reach," said Martin. "I have had excellent working conditions here and the working relationship with the board has been great."

Martin, who lives at 2400 Derby, explained that he feels there is greater growth potential in his new position because he will have a larger responsibility in directing both departments.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Administrators and teachers from public and independent elementary and secondary schools and colleges will attend a "Symposium on Independent Learning" Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Cranbrook School.

The symposium is being sponsored by Brookside School, Cranbrook School and Kingswood School. It is designed to discuss the meaning of independent learning and how it can be applied to all types of learning and to all ages.

Huber, 43, of 4909 Beach, Troy, is presently serving his first term in the Senate.

His district includes Birmingham, Royal Oak, Bloomfield Hills, Troy, Clawson, and the townships of Bloomfield, Avon, Pontiac and Southfield.

Mayor OF TROY

Mayor OF TROY for six years and an Oakland County supervisor for six years, Huber for 16 years has managed a diversified corporation.

He is a graduate of the Sheffield Scientific School, Yale University.

As a member of the Senate committees on municipalities, corporations and public utilities, Huber notes that he has worked in cooperation with legislators "for a balanced, rational program designed to encourage stable state government while increasing the powers and responsibilities of local units."

According to an independent, nonpartisan survey, Huber had the highest percentage of individually sponsored and cosponsored bills signed into law in 1965.

Willis M. Brewer, supervisor from Sylvan Lake, was chairman of the nominating committee that also included Homer Case, supervisor from Bloomfield Township and Harry Horton, supervisor from Royal Oak.

No other nominees were named.

Soviet 'Cosmomutts' Return After 23-Day Space Journey

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia's two space dogs that orbited for 23 days through a radiation belt returned safely to earth today, the official Tass news agency reported.

The official announcement came as the American Gemini 8 manned space ship was on the final countdown at Cape Kennedy on the other side of the world.

Tass said the space dogs were in good condition.

Tass said the animals will be under close observation. Russian scientists also carried out an extensive program of medical biological research during the flight, it said.

"Preliminary data were obtained on the effects of long space flight on living organisms at a considerable distance from the earth," Tass said.

It said the results of the studies would be made public.

No man nor beast ever survived such a flight before. The first dog in space, the Soviet's Laika, flew twice as high in 1957 but died when the space-ship disintegrated.

Passing British Driver's Test No Snap

(EDITOR'S NOTE—In Britain a man has failed his 17th attempt to pass the test for a driver's license and a woman has been trying to get a license for 27 years. Many others have flunked too, raising the question of why the test proves to be so difficult. The following is written by one who tried and failed, only to try again.)

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
LONDON (UPI)—I have in my hand a red-jacketed license with the seal of her majesty's government entitling me to drive "heavy locomotives, light locomotives, motor bikes, vehicles propelled by electrical power and motorcycles."

I—and many other inhabitants of these sceptered isles—had to sweat blood to get that license.

I didn't want to drive mopeds or locomotives but just wanted to continue to drive an ordinary motorcar as I have been doing with not a great trouble for 25 years in Brooklyn, New York, and other places such as Moscow, Paris, Rome, Istanbul and Baghdad.

It was not the bother of driving on the "wrong" side of the road—traffic here moves on the left. That's simple after you get the hang of it.

I failed my first British driving test simply because I didn't "drive the British way." These examiners, my friend, are tough.

FAMOUS LEARNER DRIVER
Take the case of Mrs. Margaret Hunter, probably the world's most famous learner-driver.

This 67-year-old retired schoolteacher had her first driving lesson 27 years ago and is still trying to pass the test.

You probably first heard about her back in 1962 when one of her instructors abandoned her in the car in the street with the cry: "This is suicide."

Miss Hunter's last try at driving in England was a secret trip to the Republic of Ireland where she wrangled a license.

RAMMED TREE
She returned proudly to England last year to drive—right into a tree.

Then there's plucky Arthur

Ries, 65, a retired machine operator who last month failed his 17th test.

My supreme confidence after years of driving—including in England—was shaken by the waiting list for tests—up to five months in the London area.

Next, was the disturbing statistic that up to 40 per cent of those taking the test for the first time failed.

FIRST TEST
I took my test in the London suburb of Bromleigh where, spies told me, the inspectors were aged, failing of sight and pro-American.

My inspector turned out to be a vigorous, very British type, who could read a license plate and the rule book at five miles on a foggy night.

I thought I did fine on the practical test, keeping my American mouth shut, and executing I thought—flawless turns on terrifying test hills, parking, backing up, signalling.

I whipped off, after we came back outside the test headquarters, a half dozen crisp answers to as many questions on how long it took to stop a car traveling 30 miles an hour (the answer is 75 feet).

FAILED
"You failed," said the instructor. And to my question of why, he said, "You don't steer the British way, old chap."

He advised me to take British driving lessons from British school of motoring in a British car. Or, use the underground—subway.

I like driving, so I started all over at school again.

It was worth it because I got rid of several nasty driving habits and picked up some genuine good tips along the way.

PASSED
On the second time around, I made sure I would get the same inspector—We Americans have pride too—even though it meant waiting an extra week.

I passed, steering British all the way.

How do you steer British? Simple.

Don't ever cross hands while turning, or end up with, say, the right hand at 12 o'clock on the wheel and the left at 6 o'clock—it leaves you in an awkward and potentially dangerous driving attitude.

The British way is to "thread" the wheel—keeping the hands always at a roughly "10 minutes to 2 p.m." position by using one hand to guide and the other opening and closing to steady the wheel.

I haven't tried it on locomotives yet.

Drivers have to be well-trained and disciplined in Britain which has the highest density of road traffic in the world. At the end of 1964, there were about 8½ million cars and about 1¼ million motorcycles and a motor scooter officially registered of a population of 54 million.

The fatal accident rate in Britain is better than most other European countries but slightly worse than in the United States and Canada.

But although volume of traffic has at least trebled in Britain since 1946, road accident casualties only doubled.

In 1964, according to official statistics, 7,800 persons were killed on British roads and over 377,000 injured.

Cityhood Vote June 6

Lake Orion Council OKs Deficit Budget

LAKE ORION — In an unusually quiet, sparsely attended meeting last night, the Village Council passed a deficit budget and set June 6 as the date for a vote on cityhood.

The budget for the coming fiscal year shows anticipated receipts of $162,450 and anticipated disbursements of $185,700, leaving a deficit of $23,250.

Property owners in the village pay taxes of 29.5 mills which are expected to provide $32,200 for the general fund, $12,500 for the highway operating fund, $5,000 for trash, garbage and snow removal and $2,500 for the cemetery fund.

The estimated tax receipts are based on a total 1965 assessed valuation of $2,982,375, up $176,400 from the previous year.

The millage rate of $20.50 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation is broken down as follows: $12.50 for the general fund, $5 for highway operating, $2 for trash, garbage and snow removal and $1 for the cemetery fund.

INCOME SOURCES

Other major sources of income are state sales tax diversion, expected to bring in $23,500, traffic fines $12,500, state motor vehicle tax $22,000 and water rates $22,200.

Major expenditures include $28,500 for police salaries, $18,000 for labor for the motor vehicle fund and $19,700 for operation of the water department.

A letter to the council from Assessor Albert J. Rhodes announced that the tax rolls are complete and taxes ready to be spread.

The board of review will meet at the village hall April 11 and 12. Members are Brandt Stanback of 258 Lakeview, James Norton of 403 N. Shore and Rhodes.

CITYHOOD VOTE

The council's action to put cityhood to a vote came just 25 hours after the electorate cleared the way for incorporation as a home rule village.

A five-member charter commission was elected Monday and will begin drafting a new village charter which will be put up for a vote when it is completed.

Voters will go to the polls June 6 to elect a nine-member city charter commission. It is doubtful that the village charter will be completed before that time.

Proponents of cityhood claim that there are financial advantages in becoming a home rule city rather than a home rule village. In either case the present village boundaries will remain the same.

1965 STATUTE

The community is presently governed under a state General Law charter based on a 1965 statute.

Registration deadline for the city charter commission election is April 19.

In other business last night it was announced that Lake Orion will swap chief executives with Caseville in observance of Mayor Exchange Day of Michigan Week, May 15-21.

Assistant Gets Post

Rochester School Chief Resigns

ROCHESTER — Schools Supt. Dr. William J. Early has resigned his position, effective June 30, to become superintendent of schools in Fribourg.

He will be replaced by Douglas Lund who has been assistant superintendent of instruction since 1961.

Both men will assume their new positions on July 1.

Dr. Early came to Rochester three years ago from Fenton where he had served as superintendent for six years. Prior to that he was head of Deerfield schools for three years.

He began his career as teacher, coach and administrator of Bedford schools near Toledo.

WITH REGRET

In announcing Dr. Early's resignation, the board of education said, in a joint statement, "Although we deeply regret that Dr. Early will be leaving us at the end of the school year, we are pleased that his abilities and performance here in Rochester have helped qualify him to head one of Michigan's largest and most progressive school systems."

"Rochester has been fortunate in having him as its superintendent for the past three years."

"Not only has his leadership contributed greatly to our continuous program for quality education, but he has demonstrated outstanding administrative capability in meeting the problems of providing facilities for an ever-increasing number of students."

Lund began his educational career in Rochester in 1950 as a teacher at the Avon School. The following year he became teacher-principal there.

PROMOTIONS

In 1962 he was named principal of the Harrison Elementary School and three years later was promoted to the position of director of elementary instruction.

He was appointed director of instruction of the entire district in 1959 and assistant superintendent in charge of instruction two years later.

In his position as assistant superintendent, Lund has been responsible for interviewing and hiring teachers, determining and evaluating both elementary and secondary curricula, selecting instructional materials, guidance and counseling, summer school and leadership training classes, adult education and developing new instructional programs in connection with the National Defense Education Act and other programs financed in part by the federal government.

He has also worked directly with teacher organizations on salaries and other personnel is active in work of the Abiding Presence Lutheran Church.

"I'm personally very pleased with my appointment," he said, "and I hope to carry on some of the fine things Dr. Early has started."

In appointing Lund as the new superintendent, the board said it has selected an able administrator who has had close association with many phases of the instructional and facilities improvement programs for several years.

"This was a vital factor in our decision," the board said in joint statement, "and we feel that Mr. Lund is well-equipped to carry on the programs we are engaged in to insure that the school district maintains a sound educational program for boys and girls."

In Farmington Program

4 New Adult Courses Offered

FARMINGTON — The local public schools will kick off the spring term of the adult education program by offering four new courses to interested students.

The new classes are golf, driver education for adults, current American foreign policy issues and advertising.

Registration for the 10-week term of classes has been set for March 23 and 24 from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. at Farmington

High School, 32900 Shiawassee.

The classes will begin the week of March 28 and will be held at the high school. Adults need not be residents of the local school district to participate in the classes.

The golf class will meet every Monday and Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. Three sessions will be held indoors at the high school and the remaining classes will be conducted at a local driving range.

The driver education class will include 10 hours of classroom instruction and five hours of actual driving time.

The American foreign policy classes will include the conditions in Viet Nam, Cuba, Rhodesia, the Congo, Dominican Republic, Red China, Russia and United Nations.

The stress in the advertising courses will be on the practical basic approaches to the creation and production of advertising.

Appointed to JP Post

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Melvin Jurva, 86 Oakmont, has been appointed justice of the peace to replace the late Robert Hodge, who died last July.

Jurva has been with the Pontiac Township Fire Department for 10 years and a special deputy with the sheriff's department for 12 years.

$1.2-Million Bond Issue Okayed for Clarenceville School District

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — The State Municipal Finance Commission has approved a $1.2-million bond issue for the Clarenceville School District.

The money raised from the bonds will constitute funds for the second phase of the current building program within the school district.

Voters in the district accepted a $3.5-million debt for new buildings last March. Officials determined at that time to divide the construction into two phases.

The first phase began last August when the commission approved the sale of $1.3 million of school bonds.

Original plans for the construction called for the addition of an auditorium and six to eight classrooms to the high school plus expansion of the school's library and cafeteria.

TO BE EXPANDED

Also scheduled to be expanded were the junior high school and two elementary schools.

"After getting under way with our work, we found that we would fall a little short with our plans for the high school," said Schools Supt. Louis E. Schmidt. "We decided to step up our program in order to do a really good job on the high school."

Schmidt pointed out that present plans now call for approximately $600,000 of the phase two funds to be used on the completion of the high school.

He noted that the expansion of the junior high and the elementary schools can still be completed with no financial problems.

"This is just a case of pure economics," he said. "We feel it will be less expensive in the long run to complete the high school now rather than add to it later."

School Aide Gets Transfer

UTICA — Assistant Schools Supt. Floyd Ebeling has been granted a transfer to the position of elementary school principal.

Ebeling told the board of education he wanted the transfer for health reasons. He has been with the school system 18 years.

In other action Monday night the board accepted the resignation of William Teller, assistant principal of Shelby Junior High School.

On April 15 Teller is to become assistant superintendent of the East China School District near St. Clair.

Area Woman Elected

District VP for JC Unit

ROCHESTER — Mrs. Richard Gilchrist, 1355 Nancywood, Waterford Township, was elected district vice president of the Joyce Auxiliary at the spring district meeting held recently at Rochester High School.

Guests at the meeting included state officers and candidates for state offices to be elected in June.

Sewer System Major Problem

thority to put in a sewer system without going to the people, but felt that residents should have a voice in the decision.

OPPOSED SYSTEM

In an advisory vote, the residents opposed the system 221 to 144.

At that time, the sewers would have cost about $900,000. Smalley said the cost now would be about 20 per cent more, although there is a possibility of federal assistance.

Sewers could well mean a building boom in Oxford. In the eastern section of town around Oxford Lake there are 330 acres of vacant land which Smalley says could be opened up to 400 $30,000 homes.

The area is reclaimed gravel land owned by American Aggregates Co.

ATTRACT DEVELOPERS

"A lot of developers would be interested in the area if we had sewers," said Smalley.

Four hundred homes could conceivably increase the village population to half again its present size of 2,400.

Another area which could be affected is an industrial strip in the southern part of town near the railroad tracks.

Smalley says he has received numerous inquiries about the possibility of industrial development in the area. The interest dies down when the inquirers find out there are no sewers, he said.

SALE HINDERED

The sale of a factory building, unoccupied since it was built at Draher and M24 in 1965, is reportedly hindered by the lack of sewers.

"It's a tough problem, but I hope we can come up with a solution soon," said Smalley.

North Farmington's Bonnie Britton

Area Girl Hopes to Be U. S. Junior Miss

By PAT McCARTY

Go, Bonnie, GO!

The sentiment is expressed in two-foot letters on one of the banners currently decorating North Farmington High School corridors.

In high school fashion, it wraps up the feelings of a host of well-wishers as Bonnie Britton prepares to represent Michigan at the Junior Miss America Pageant in Mobile, Ala.

Bonnie, now wearing the Junior Miss Michigan crown, will seek the national title in a week-long contest to be culminated March 26.

If she is successful, she will have followed one step farther in the path of the 1965 Junior Miss America, Patrice Gaunder of Stevensville, Mich.

TAFFY BLONDE

A 5-foot-4 taffy blonde with rosy cheeks, Bonnie has blue-green eyes with a twinkle of hazel.

Next week she will compete for top ratings in the categories established by the Jaycees for picking the national Junior Miss—scholastic achievement, character, youth fitness, poise, personality and creative ability.

Bonnie will fly to Chicago tomorrow to meet other contestants from the northwest United States. The group will continue on to Mobile from here Friday.

Bonnie's chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Haskill, 2640 Woodbine, Pontiac, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jorgensen, 2019 Woodland, Sylvan Lake.

REPRESENT JAYCEES

The two couples represent the Pontiac Jaycees, who sponsor the state contest.

For the talent portion of the competition, Bonnie has planned a bi-lingual rendition of "Girl from Ipanema." The 17-year-old high school senior, who spent last summer in Brazil under the auspices of the American Field Service, will sing the song in both English and Portuguese.

Helping her prepare the number are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Britton of 34234 Northwick, Farmington Township.

Both former Broadway performers, Bonnie's parents have encouraged her in her aspirations to a theatrical career.

Now an account super-portraying Anna in "The singer, dancer and actress, ever, is that contest next week.

Car Safety Defeated by Unsafe Car

Auto safety has justifiably become one of the Nation's foremost concerns.

Congress has addressed itself to it, but the emphasis seems more on making auto makers the villain of the piece than in attacking the problem as the triangle that it is.

One of the angles reflects built-in safety of the vehicle. We think the manufacturers are well meeting their responsibilities here.

Another is the road on which the motorist travels. That too is being constructively dealt with as more freeways are being built, on which the accident rate is less than half that of conventional two-lane two-way highways.

The third angle—and by all odds the most important—is represented by the driver and the condition of his car.

States have been slow—Michigan is no exception—to legislate in the areas of driver eligibility, better licensing procedure and mandatory inspection of cars.

For a starter, the latter statistic cries aloud for remedy. A State survey showed that 76 per cent of cars tested had improper headlight focusing; 58 per cent had poor wheel alignment; 25 per cent had windshield wipers; 17 per cent poor brake linings; and the same proportion showed deficient hand brakes.

Of the 1,110 cars that were spot checked, a total of 8,319 shortcomings in safety standards were revealed.

If supporting evidence of Michigan's need for a mandatory auto inspection law is needed, we invite the Legislature's attention to the survey cited.

Let's Fight War in Viet Nam—Not at Home

President JOHNSON, reviewing our aims in Southeast Asia at a Freedom House dinner, may have said nothing new, but he did produce a clear, concise summary that should help to counteract the confusion caused by the recent hearings of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations.

While he has said the same things before, this time he said them louder—our determination not to escalate the war blindly into a general conflict with China; our equal determination to meet force with added force if required; and our commitment to South Viet Nam to assure its people a free choice of their own government, in elections free of subversion and infiltration from outside.

Now that the President has again stated his position, overwhelmingly supported by Congressional resolution within the last few days, it is worth noting that his opponents have failed to produce any logical alternatives to his policies.

BOBBY KENNEDY has backed down on his proposal for a coalition South Viet Nam government including the Viet Cong; Gen. GAVIN has modified his original suggestion that our armed forces retire to seaside fortified enclaves; there is broad agreement that we cannot and must not pull out.

So the great debate, for all purposes, has ended, and it is time to let the Chief Executive do the job that only he can do.

Industry Preps Reps for Foreign Service

One of five courses scheduled this year by the Business Council for International Understanding begins Monday at Washington's American University. Since 1958 BCIU has been running a new kind of training school open to all executives (and their wives) engaged in international activities.

been graduated from courses that represent a cross-section of American industry. Since graduates are serving in 66 foreign countries, language study is an important part of the training program.

A recent check of BCIU trainees indicates that fewer than 1 per cent have failed and been brought back from their overseas assignments. This is but another attestation to the innumerable unsung projects of private enterprise and of the efficacy which characterizes them.

Earl Warren High Court Strongman

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — Earl Warren, 78 next Saturday, after 13 years on the Supreme Court is the strongest and most influential chief justice in American history, with the possible exception of John Marshall.

Marshall died in 1835 as chief justice. He was not an intellectual, neither is Warren. Like Marshall, Warren is a tough-minded, practical man who is making the court a directly active force in American life and government.

Their effect will last forever in this country.
Before Marshall, who took his seat in 1801, the court had been so weak and little regarded that the very first chief justice, John Jay, a rich aristocrat, resigned to be governor of New York.

After a few years on the court, Warren, who had been governor of California three times, said, "I could not imagine going back to the other life."

Marshall made the court as strong as the presidency or Congress.
Many times in the years that followed the court was wish-washy, timidly bowing to the will of Congress or the White House, particularly after the uproar over the reactionary court which invalidated the early part of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal.

MARLOW

For example: In 1896 the court ruled it was constitutional to segregate Negroes. In the next 58 years the court chipped away at this but never quite got up the courage of saying the 1896 decision itself was unconstitutional.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower appointed Warren chief justice in 1953 and a few months later, on May 17, 1954, the nine justices unanimously knocked out segregation and the 1896 ruling by outlawing segregation in public schools.

Just getting unanimity among the other eight justices on this was a great achievement for Warren.

In 1954 the court did what Congress had failed to face up to. It was denounced for this and later decisions. This didn't disturb Warren.

COURT UPHELD LAWS
But once the court had acted in 1954, Congress passed one civil rights act after another and the court upheld them.

The Warren court has enforced the separation of church and state, and extended the guarantees of freedom from unreasonable searches and seizures, the privilege against self-incrimination, the right to counsel.

The Marshall court had established the right of the court to review any act of Congress or of state courts, the right of Congress to regulate interstate commerce. In short, it made the central government iron-clad.

David Lawrence Says:

More China Contact Ill-Advised

WASHINGTON — Judging by recent utterances in Congress and elsewhere, one gets the impression that the United States government should advocate the admission of Red China into the United Nations as a means of "talking" to the government at Peking.

LAWRENCE

Yet the truth is that the United States has for 11 consecutive years been talking regularly to the Chinese government through diplomatic channels, even though formal recognition has never been extended.

There have been no less than 123 meetings since 1955 between an ambassador of the United States and an ambassador of the Peking government.

This very week, the American ambassador to Poland, John A. Gronouski, is conferring with the Red Chinese ambassador to Warsaw, who is also an important member of the Foreign Office of the Peking government.

TRANSFERRED TO WARSAW
The talks originally took place at Geneva after the historic conference in 1954 on Indochina, but were transferred in 1958 to Warsaw. The ambassadors usually read to each other communications from their respective governments, and then discuss them.

So, for all practical purposes, there is diplomatic contact between the United States government and the Red Chinese government.

In fact, it is said in diplomatic circles that the United States has much better contact with Peking than does any of the other non-Communist governments in the world, even though some of them have ambassadors in Peking. The latter rarely see top Chinese officials.

But, despite the existence of a system of direct communication with the Peking government, there is constant reference to the need for "talks" with Red China.

This is really a smoke screen for an attempt to develop a program that would appease Red China, though few of the proponents admit any such intention.

If Red China is admitted to the United Nations, there are bound to be repercussions in Formosa, and the confidence of the Chinese Nationalist government in its Western allies would certainly be shaken.

Red China has made it clear that it will not join the United Nations unless the Chinese government on Formosa is expelled. Secretary Rusk told newsmen this week that the other U.N. members would never vote to oust the Nationalist government, as it is a charter member of the organization and has been "loyal, helpful and constructive."

There is, moreover, little likelihood that Red China would alter its attitude in world affairs just because it is given membership in the United Nations.

What Red China really wants is to be left free to continue carrying on an exploitation and conquest of the Asian continent.

Sen. Ribicoff Cites Lack of Federal Car Controls

NEW YORK — More and more suggested ways and means of staying alive, even if you do drive a car, are coming in from concerned motorists.

"The federal government can control the contents of many daily," points out Sen. Abe Ribicoff, D-Conn.

Joseph M. Shelt of Sherman Oaks, Calif., urges "permanent daylight saving time to reduce dusk and night driving hours — the most dangerous time."

"Driving never will be safe for anyone as long as teen-agers drive like mad," opines Irene De Leon of Baltimore. "You never see or hear of an older person speeding!"

"Taking a reckless teen-aged driver's license away from him for a month or two, or fining him, is a joke. He'll speed again the moment he gets behind the wheel, or do something else that isn't rational."

BURST OUT LAUGHING
"Recently I witnessed a head-on crackup and hurried to the scene to see if I could be of any help. The two young drivers involved burst out laughing at me when I offered first aid. They explained that they were simply playing 'chicken.'"

"Having just completed a 'refresher course' in driving a car, taken a written examination for a learner's permit and a 'simple road test for a driver's license — both of which I failed at first crack — I strongly suggest a periodic review test for all car operators, no matter how well they think they can drive," recommends Ellen Wallace of New York City.

Arthur C. Winter of Teaneck, N.J., asks the manufacturers to make a side-lighting standard equipment. He complains that many new models with recessed head lamps and rear lights are menacing on dark roads when approached from the side.

Economic gain is possible in tourism as well, the premise being that an ever-growing number of Europeans now are affluent enough to visit the U.S. and, hopefully, Michigan.

According to Sen. Guy VanderJagt, R-Michigan, one reason Michigan isn't getting its share of the tourist trade from Europe is that the State fails to print brochures in the native language of the various nations.

VanderJagt says "unpardonable sin" of sending tourist promotion material to Europe printed only in English.

VanderJagt's suggestion that

EMERGENCY POWER

Several letters demand that manufacturers provide emergency power to take over automatically when the system which operates power steering and power brakes fail and the car becomes as unwieldy as an old truck.

A 21-point program proposed by James Wetherbee, Long Island City, N.J., includes a seat rearrangement plan that would isolate the driver in a seat by himself, to guard him from distraction, parking on sidewalks to facilitate moving traffic, and police vans equipped with a roof turret "for observation purposes and to let a cop accurately shoot at a getaway vehicle."

Voice of the People:

'Efforts Are Being Made to Promote Bullfighting'

A universal effort is being made to promote so-called "bloodless" bullfights. There is no such thing as a "bloodless" bullfight. There is no way a bullfight can be produced without cruelty and it is too lopsided to be considered a sport.

Michigan has a law which states that the baiting and goading of an animal cannot be classified as entertainment or sport, and is in direct violation of Michigan law. Some like to contrast the fate of defenseless animals, like lambs and chickens which are killed for human consumption, with the death of a fighting bull in the arena. They say the bull has every opportunity to defend itself.

The bullfight is, not an equal contest between a man and a bull. It can be defined as the torture and death of an animal at the hands of men, who pretend and assert that it is a display on their part of bravery and art—an art reminiscent of the Roman Circus!

I am frightened about our world situation, and more frightened about the attitude of our college students. College draft protests set a poor example of patriotism for our country. An education is important, but what good is an education when you don't have the freedom to use it? People should consider it a privilege and an honor to fight for what they believe in. I am not proud of our college students and teachers who protest against the privilege of fighting for freedom.

Urges All Citizens to Support Local Police

In regard to comments on citizen-controlled police departments, this is a Communist idea and a plot to make our police force inefficient and weak. Our police are among the foremost guardians of freedom and thus a major target of the Communists. A citizen-controlled review board or such is a scheme for harassing the police, discrediting individual policemen and discouraging those who might want to do their duty.

The punishing of police officers belongs to the police commander, not to glibble do-gooders and bleeding hearts. If the Communists could weaken the police with these efforts, they would have an open field to take America.

Support of local law enforcement agencies by citizens everywhere is especially important now that possible Communist-inspired racial riots are getting to be a regular part of the American scene. For the good of America, don't listen to these agitators. Support your local police.

Dogs must be fenced, tied or on a leash. Owners who fail, face a penalty up to $100 fine or 90 days in jail. A signed complaint by the dog warden or a citizen, is necessary.

A Senate Committee headed by Sen. Gilbert E. Bursley, R-Mich., toured Europe last fall to study ways to enlarge Michigan's role in international commerce and to promote tourism from overseas.

Permanent signs, warning of possible ice, may help, but are not nearly so effective as a lighted sign which will give the motorist a definite warning that he is heading into trouble.

The sign has the words, "Bridge Ahead" with the word "Icy" placed between them. When the bridge is ice-coated, the "Icy" lights up, giving the Ice on bridges long has been a problem. The reason the bridge becomes slicked with ice when the surface roadway may be relatively clear is that the bridge is not in contact with the earth.

The latent heat in the ground which helps to melt ice and snow on the road is missing. Cold air circulates around the bridge, causing the ice to form when it's not expected.

Opposition to French Plan to Pull Units Out of NATO Is Rising

LONDON (AP) — Opposition to France's plans to withdraw its forces from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization military command mounted today on all sides of the North Atlantic alliance.

The French Senate's Foreign Affairs Committee also registered its disapproval, saying in a resolution that President Charles de Gaulle's decisions on NATO "compromise the security of France, the unity of Europe and the consolidation of peace."

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson sent de Gaulle a letter disputing the French leader's arguments supporting his decision to resume command over the 65,000 French troops under NATO control in West Germany.

West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard told a meeting in Bonn that it would be unbearable for West Germany if a new kind of occupation statute were to be created as a result of a French pullout.

STAND FAST
Erhard said de Gaulle's stand concerned the whole alliance and added that it was essential that West Germany stand fast with the other partners.

Italian Premier Aldo Moro told the Italian Parliament any changes in NATO's defense setup should come within the framework of interdependent military organization.

Britain challenged the legality of de Gaulle's move at the opening Tuesday of a two-day ministerial meeting in London of the seven-nation Western European Union.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart said French withdrawal from NATO's military structure would violate a whole series of agreements which set up the Western European Union in its present form, set the basis for West German independence and defined the limits of German rearmament.

Delegates of West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg supported Stewart.

Jean de Broglie of France replied briefly: "France's desire for changes in NATO is as great as her desire that the treaty itself (in its political agreements which set up the

JOSEPH PALMER II

LBJ Names Successor for Soapy's Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced yesterday he will nominate Joseph Palmer II, a specialist on Africa for more than 20 years, to succeed G. Mennen Williams as assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

Palmer, 50, now is director general of the State Department's foreign service, a post he has held for the past two years.

A native of Detroit, Palmer joined the foreign service about 25 years ago and spent most of that time specializing in Africa.

He was the vice consul in Nairobi, Kenya, in World War II. Since then, Palmer has been acting chief of the division of African affairs, deputy assistant secretary for African affairs, consul-general at Salisbury, Rhodesia, and in 1960-64, ambassador to Nigeria.

When trouble erupted in the Congo in August 1964, Secretary of State Dean Rusk named Palmer to head a working group which coordinated all federal government activities involving that country.

Palmer was graduated from Harvard in 1937 and the following year did graduate work at the Georgetown University of Foreign Service here. He lives in suburban Springfield, Md.

Williams, who has been assistant secretary since 1961, has resigned to seek the Democratic nomination for senator from Michigan.

Doctor Gets Up to 20 Years

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Dr. Robert E. Boehme, convicted Feb. 4 of first-degree assault with intent to kill his wife, has been sentenced to up to 20 years in prison.

The Port Orchard physician's wife, Mary, 34, who was with him in court, collapsed when she heard Superior Court Judge Hardy Soule pronounce sentence. Boehme's attorneys plan to appeal the conviction.

Boehme, 45, was convicted of trying to poison his wife by injecting a toxic substance while she was in a hospital last June under treatment for a head injury. During and after the trial, she insisted he was innocent.

In 1962, Boehme was acquitted of a charge of assault with intent to kill his second wife, Dorothy, 35, by injecting a toxic substance. Dorothy died of natural causes three months later.

About a year after Dorothy died, Boehme married his former sister-in-law, Mary Boehme.

Warns of Too Much Concern With Politics

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney said Tuesday he was inclined to think the church was too much, rather than too little, concerned with politics.

"I believe in separation of church and state," Romney told some 1,100 delegates to a Michigan Council of Churches legislative seminar at the Lansing Civic Center. "Both the freedom of religion and of the state depend upon it."

Romney drew applause from the church delegates when he said too much reliance is being placed today on the material.

"That is the Communist philosophy," he said.

PRINCIPAL PROBLEM

One of the principal problems of this era, Romney said, is the decline in religious conviction, moral character and family life.

"The energy and effort of the church should be placed where it is most needed and will produce the best results," the governor said.

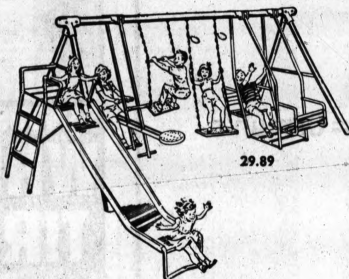

"What society needs most are responsible individuals capable of being good parents and good citizens."

The church, Romney suggested, should encourage individual members to take a strong part in the party of their choice. It should take a position on issues which have moral implications.

IN MORAL AREA

"But the church itself," Romney said, "should not become active or identified with a political party or candidate. This would undermine its effectiveness in the moral area."

Earlier, State Republican Chairman Edly Peterson and Ferency were in unusual agreement. Both urged churchgoers to become political workers to help frame the policies and select the candidates of the political party of their choice.

Fire Route Has Hazard

FRANKLIN, Ky. (AP)—A Simpson County fire truck had reached the center of a wooden bridge when their was a loud crash, the span collapsed and the truck dropped about six feet into the water yesterday.

After regaining his composure, Fire Chief Bobby Turner drove the vehicle out of the creek and proceeded to a nearby grass fire.

Neither Turner nor two other firemen were injured but damage to the truck was estimated at $100.

"We took a detour on the way home," said Chief Turner.

"But the more you read about tanks, the more they interest you."

"We have a tank expert who trained at Ft. Knox helping us get the engines working, but we found out Sunday that someone had swiped a carburetor," he said.

As for Mrs. Bouman, she can hardly wait for her first ride, but she thinks she'll probably have to.

"Everybody and his brother-in-law says they're first. The phone has hardly stopped ringing," she said.

"I'm a bug on tanks and my wife is almost as bad," Bouman said.

HAULED 145 MILES

The tank was hauled the 145 miles on a flat bed truck at a cost of $214, about a third the price of the tank.

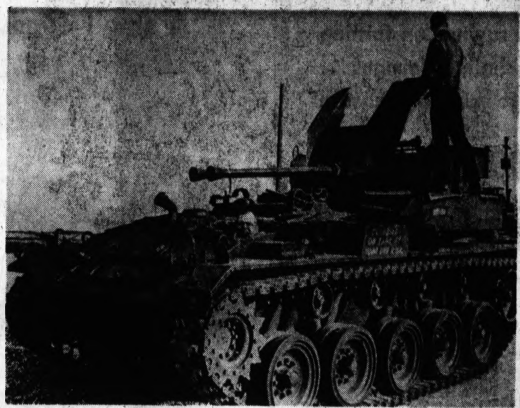

It also cost Bouman a lot of sweat.

The Kent County Road Commission ruled the tank was too heavy for a small bridge. So Bouman had to detour six blocks. It took three hours of towing, winching and bracing, up and down several hills.

On hand to welcome the tank were Bouman's wife, Donna, and five-year-old daughter, Sheri Yvonne. Two sons, Jerry, 8, and Mark, 6, were at school — under protest.

As Spring tip-toes in on the last footstep of winter, it holds the promise of gentle winds, open cars, sailboat excursions... and fresh breezes. Spring styling is on the up-beat... the lightweight homespun and Orlons, snazzy and classic sportswear in sharp young patterns.

High on the Spring fashion agenda is the color. For the shift from the wintery to the spring garden, Bobbie Brooks offers heather match-mates in an assortment of matching socks, hats and handbags. It's a collection of lightweight sportswear that will carry you ever so fashionably into the sunshine days.

In sunshine or raindrops, the junior misses' raincoat is an all-out fashion fuss in slick 'n shiny vinyl, styled for attention in spiffy young patterns. Bobbie Brooks uses this shiny fabric to add a distinctive air of intrigue to her wardrobe with a zesty "007" vinyl raincoat, slicked white as a whistle and pepped with bright patterns.

Inevitably, those cool spring days will favor the playful look of casual coordinates... casual and comfortable, and colored cool as an ocean breeze in navy triangles, hats and clutch bags — offering a natty accessories — fabrics.

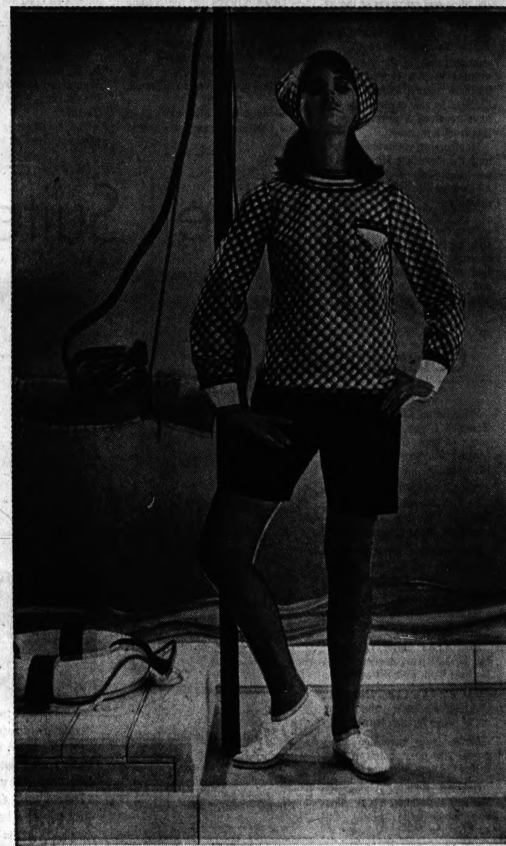

HEATHERED SPIRIT: Go-togethers with a heathered flair capture the look and spirit of spring. The classic-minded cardigan is bound in grosgrain ribbon and knitted from heathery light-weight Orlon. It's featured over a simply stated blouse, sparked with contrast smocking at the neck...and knee-skipping kiltie that's plaided, pleated...and buckled in leather. Bobbie Brooks completes the total look with matching knee high socks.

SLICK 'n SHINY: Bobbie Brooks' rain or shine coat is very "007-ish" in slick 'n shiny vinyl. Note the plentiful dash of savoir faire, from its buttoned epaulettes and double breasted styling to the gold buckled belt and roomy hip-level pockets. This dashing young adventurer looks equally at home under an umbrella or under cloudless skies... and its enamel-white appeal is appropriate for day or datetime wear.

ON DECK: On deck coordinates by Bobbie Brooks are ready for the sun and salty air. The easy-on popover top is checked on the bias and sports clean white banding, piped in navy, on cuffs, neck and pocket. The neat-fitting shipmate is a trim Bermuda walker in solid navy... and topping a total look, is the saucy checkered kerchief that reverses to a solid color. Crisp Dacron and cotton is the fabric...easy to care for...comfortable to wear.

Town Hall's Board Is Looking Ahead to 1966-67 Series

Dr. Norman V. Peale

With the closing of the 1965-66 season of Pontiac Oakland Town Hall last week, the board of directors is completing plans for the 1966-67 series.

BENEFITS EDUCATION

Profits from this all-volunteer organization are devoted to promoting and encouraging educational and cultural activities in Pontiac and Oakland County. One third is given to the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra and the other two-thirds to different projects and scholarships.

Since 1959, the group has given the symphony over $5,000 and other organizations $6,000.

Norman Vincent Peale will be the first speaker next fall on Oct. 5. He will speak on "Creative Thinking and Creative Results" at the Huron Theater where all the lectures are given. Time is 10:30 a.m. with a celebrity luncheon at Devon Gables following.

In November, Beverly Younger will present original character sketches. A stage actress, Miss Younger is also a veteran of radio soap operas.

With December always omitted from the schedule, the Town Hall series begins 1967 with David Schoenbrun, television-radio news analyst and commentator, speaking on "As America Goes."

John Peer Nugent, Newsweek's chief African correspondent and author, will discuss South Africa on Feb. 8. Model and fashion authority, Nancy Cooke, winds up the year on March 8.

Tickets are available from Mrs. Frederick Cockle of Shawnee Lane or Mrs. Aleck Capalis, Ottawa Drive. Only season tickets are sold. Lunch reservations are made just prior to each lecture.

Ask Sister or Friend as Attendant?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am going to be married this summer and I have asked my roommate to be my maid of honor. (I am away at college.) She isn't a "new" friend, Abby, we have gone all thru school together.

I wrote my sister, who is 2 years younger than I am, asking her to be a bridesmaid. Here is a part of a letter I just received from my mother: (Quote.)

ABBY

"Marilyn, I am not going to say anything about your choice of maid of honor, except this: Your sister is very hurt and I don't blame her. You will have many friends in your life, but only one sister. Think it over." (End of quote.)

Now I am really in a fix. How can I explain to my friend that she can't be my maid of honor after she already accepted?

I really WANT her to be it, but I'm afraid if I don't have my sister it will cause permanent hard feelings in my family, and I don't want that either. Can you help me make a choice?

IN AFIX

DEAR IN: You know your family better than I do; so if you fear that "permanent hard feelings" will result should you choose your friend for maid of honor, ask your sister.

Explain your predicament to your friend. She will probably be much more understanding than your sister.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know why that wife is making such a big thing over washing her husband's back. Every man likes to be spoiled a little. Take mine. I serve him martinis while I give him a haircut. EUNICE

DEAR EUNICE: Well, your husband is one man who won't have to look for a bartender to tell his troubles to.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PROVED MY LOVE" IN CLARKSBURG, W. VA.: You paid dearly for your lesson. If he comes near you again, call the police. Or do you want to try for two?

Problems? Write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Rules Are Changed for Wedding News

Starting on April first, new rules regarding engagement and wedding news will go into effect.

If pictures are desired for both occasions, there must be FOUR months between them. Girls announcing their engagements in April may not have both engagement and wedding pictures, if they are married before August.

No engagements are announced less than a month before the wedding date.

WEDDING PICTURES

While The Press prefers to receive wedding stories and pictures before the event, pictures will be accepted not later than two days after the ceremony (that is, Tuesday for Saturday weddings).

For out-of-town weddings, this deadline is extended. The Pontiac Press makes no promise to use every picture submitted but some printed mention of the event will be made.

NO CHARGE

There is no charge for editorial space, but it cannot be reserved. No promises can be made regarding size of picture nor its position.

All pictures are kept for two months, then discarded. They may be called for any time after publication.

Phosphorescent Fashions Get Glowing Report

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK — Women who like to be first in what's new are clamoring for garments that can have them radiating like glowworms when the lights go out.

And very soon at the races jockeys in the pitch of night will be streaking around their courses on horses in harnesses lit up like Times Square.

The new fashion brilliance of people and horses has nothing to do with that invention Edison once lost so much sleep over.

COMARK VINYL

Comark vinyl, a glossy plastic material which recently won several awards for its glowing technical achievement, is suddenly finding its way to all sorts of dark places.

At Roberto Capucci's collection in Paris last month, the blacked-out female was a spectre of disembodied females in costumes made of the glowing plastic.

American coat, suit, hat, shoe and skiwear manufacturers have been pioneering these garments that will eventually let a girl look like a candle burning at all ends.

Some advocates tout the safety factors of these garments. A woman so dressed can shed her own light down darkened stairwells. In luminous shoes her toes have more than a fighting chance with clumsy dancing partners.

There are other advantages. A woman can always find such a coat in a dark closet. And her escort can always find her.

THEY'RE DIFFERENT

Phosphorescence should not be confused with fluorescence, a dye treatment for theatrical costumes which glow when spotlights are trained on them.

Because of their safety value, policemen have been wearing orange or yellow raincoats that shine when headlights are trained on them.

Also because they are easily seen, coats and jackets made of fabrics with this color property are now popular for children, hunters, and skiers.

AP Wirephoto

Glow, little glowworm... Latest thing in the fashion world is a coat that glows in the dark. It's made of a phosphorescent plastic that stores light and then glows in darkness. The model made a kerchief of the material and put some on her glasses and fingertips. The picture was made by time exposure in a completely dark room.

ABWA Gals Give Annual Tea Event

The Tipaon Charter Chapter, American Business Women's Association, together with more than 600 chapters throughout the nation, will hold its annual Hand of Friendship Tea on March 20.

The program, centered around the aims and purposes of the association, will be from 2 to 4 p.m., in the First Federal Savings of Oakland civic room.

At this time of the year, invitation to join is extended to business women friends and associates in the community who have received a special invitation from a member.

Membership cochairmen planning the event are Maxine Davidson and Mrs. Walter Latozas along with their committee members.

Mrs. Dorothy Brooks will design the floral pieces and others assisting will be the social, contact and scrapbook committees and the chapter's photographer, Mrs. Carroll Welch.

PEO Unit Elects New President

Mrs. J. Waldron Keasey was elected president of chapter CL, PEO Sisterhood, Monday afternoon. Hostess for the luncheon meeting was Mrs. R. L. Justice of Farmington; she was assisted by Mrs. William Irons and Mrs. Paul Thams.

Mrs. Thams was named vice president and a delegate to the state convention in April. Elda Sutter, the second delegate, was elected chaplain of the chapter.

Other officers for the coming year are Mrs. R. B. Fell, and Mrs. L. G. Rowley, secretaries; Mrs. Justice, treasurer; and Mrs. J. E. Williams, guard.

Mrs. Williams and Mrs. B. M. Mitchell are alternate delegates.

Monday was also marked as the 12th anniversary of chapter C. L.

Mrs. Shunck Is Hostess for Group

The Waterford Book Review Group will meet on Monday in the home of Mrs. William Shunck on Longworth Street. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. Constantine Garvey and Mrs. Abraham Ryerson.

Mrs. Tull Lasswell and Mrs. K. B. Valentine will review the drama and biography of Thornton Wilder, "The Skin of Our Teeth."

The meeting is open to all women interested in good books.

Well Suited for Coming Spring Season

Young refined look of Dior in a coat and dress ensemble of pure wool toile. The three-quarter redingote with very low slashed pockets and paneled back, opens on a shift dress with a pleated hem.

Designed to lead an exciting contemporary life Chanel inspired both mood and line of this costume combining tweed and satin. The jacket's detachable satin collar is matched to a sashed surplice overblouse. Skirt, intriguingly shaped with a side panel. By Handmacher.

There's something romantic about a cape. Something to bring out your sense of drama... make you a heroine of every scene. Handmacher makes this one very "Spring '66" with a double-breasted closing and contrasting rimming of faille. It's all part of a three-piece costume in fine wool worsted. The matching jacket beneath is lightly fitted, sleeveless, belted, and terribly chic.

Take spring on the wing in a costume parading buttons down the jacket front and on to the swinging panel pleated skirt. The line is long and lovely—the look fresh as flowers. Handmacher gives it master tailoring and a coordinating blouse with a softly cowed neckline.

Exactly this sort of perfection leads women to say that nobody surpasses Handmacher in the shaping of a suit! This one, doubly nice in double-knit, is a three-piece costume. Under its elongated double-breasted jacket is a matching sleeveless overblouse.

The elegant look of the cardigan suit by Dior. In navy and white pure wool jacquard, the short jacket has a soft bow at the neck, and skirt has two slit pockets repeating those of the jacket. Monks cap is in matching fabric.

Don't 'Break In' Feet

NEW YORK (UP) — When trying on shoes, see that the widest part of your foot rests comfortably on the widest part of the shoe, suggests Dr. Murray B. Goldstein, president of the Podiatry Society of New York.

At the same time, see that foot sole and insole exactly coincide. What else you should do: allow for at least three-quarters of an inch free space at the tip of the shoe.

Don't assume that wearing low-heeled shoes that are too tight, especially around the house, will "break them in."

The only things that will be broken will be your feet, Goldstein said.

Find Most 'Fortune-ate'

TULSA, Okla. (UP) — Enroute to the theater, Mrs. Glen Campbell found a pearl bracelet lying on the sidewalk in front of a book store. She left it with the proprietor, thinking the owner might look for it there.

Inside the theater, she entered the powder room to find a mother and daughter searching for an expensive cultured pearl bracelet. Mrs. Campbell told them where to find it.

The owner was happily amazed because at a Chinese restaurant a short time earlier, she had opened a fortune cookie to read, "You are going to lose something but you will find it again."

Mesh Playpen Easy to Clean

To wash the type of plastic mesh found on children's playpens and cribs, work with a sudsy sponge or cloth in one hand as you hold a dry cloth on the other side of the mesh.

This cushioning technique catches drips and also provides a backup to help the suds penetrate all the mesh holes for thorough cleaning. Then wipe with a damp cloth in each hand to rinse both sides at once. It is not necessary to wipe the surface dry.

To See Films

Movies will be shown by Truman N. Lamphere at the Thursday meeting of the Fashion-Your-Figure Club. The event at 7:30 p.m. will be a family night.

In 1737 New York City's first fire department was organized, made up of "42 strong, able, discreet, honest and sober men."

Child Study Group I Elects Mrs. Holan

Mrs. Robert Holan was elected president of Waterford Child Study club at the March meeting.

Serving with her will be Mrs. Thomas Hunt and Mrs. Robert Lawyer, vice presidents; Mrs. William Freymuth and Mrs. John Alles, secretaries; Mrs. Morton Jacobs, treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Lewis, historian.

Mrs. W. J. Emerson presented a program on the international opportunities for young people.

Mrs. Robert Randall is a new member of the group.

The meeting was held in the Curtis Lane home of Mrs. John Sawyers. She was assisted by Mrs. Holan.

Plan Food Sessions on Far East

Della H. Keller, Michigan State University extension home economist in St. Clair County, will come to the Pontiac area next week. She will assist her counterpart here, Mrs. Carol Kurth, in a leader training session on "Food and People of the Far East."

Tuesday's session will be in the Congregational Church of Birmingham on Cranbrook Road.

Thursday's meeting is in the Drayton Plains United Presbyterian Church on Sashabaw Road. Both run from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Leaders attending will participate in presenting information about various Far East countries. A buffet luncheon will feature foods of several of these countries.

The lesson will present problems and needs of and for foods in countries other than America.

A total of 1100 homemakers in extension study groups will receive this information through the method of group leader teaching.

Polly's Pointers

Avoid Mix-Up

DEAR POLLY—When getting ready to bake I put all the ingredients for a recipe at the left of my mixing bowl. As each item is added, its container is put on the right side.

Make this a habit and you will never have to worry about what has been put in and what has not if the procedure has been interrupted while you answered the doorbell or the telephone. —IRENE.

DEAR POLLY—When I make or remodel plastic curtains I sew a heading of cloth for the rod to go through instead of making it of the plastic material. After laundering it dries much faster than waiting for the water to drain out of the heading or to evaporate as one has to do with plastic headings. The cloth seems to last longer, too. —MRS. L. S.

DEAR POLLY—I made myself a white wool jumper and chose to wear a navy blue blouse with it. To my dismay when dressing to go out in this outfit I found that the end of my dark blouse could be seen through the jumper.

I immediately hit upon the idea of removing my slip and wearing it on top of the blouse. Like magic, the blue could no longer be seen through the white wool. —CAROL.

GIRLS—Carol has a slick idea IF the top of the jumper hides all of the top of the slip. If this does not work, a half-slip will solve the problem with the "tail" of the blouse underneath it. —POLLY.

DEAR POLLY—For many years we have been the most "mobile" members of our large family. Quite a few good-natured complaints have been received as to how our frequent moves mess up address books of family and friends.

I recently read that 37 million Americans will change their addresses in 1966. May I suggest that they do their personal correspondents a favor by enclosing an extra printed name and address label when they write to tell of a recent move.

This label can be applied over the old address in the same spot in the address book without a lot of messy crossing out or scribbling in the margin. —LOIS.

Wrinkles Now

Permanent press now goes into lingerie. The use of the new wrinkle-resistant fabric treatment that eliminates ironing usually has been associated with outer ready-to-wear.

Now, one maker is introducing it in its brassiere line so that bras keep their shape and fit and won't wrinkle or droop. The firm tested bra fabrics through as many as 40 washings before introducing it in lingerie.

What Quality Beef Does A&P Sell?

That's a fair question. But not an easy one to answer because we have our own quality standards, different from any other meat merchant.

These standards don't fit exactly the familiar terms you know for grades of meat. As an example, did you know that some beef, graded U. S. Choice, just doesn't meet our "Super-Right" specifications? It's true! You see... we don't buy by grade. We use our own high standards to bring you the best values.

That doesn't mean we don't approve of such grading—not at all. It just means we're very fussy about the beef we label "Super-Right." It stands to reason we have to be or A&P wouldn't be America's number one meat merchant.

If you haven't learned the true meaning of "Super-Right Quality—try it. Let the taste be the test. After all, it doesn't matter what the label or grade is. It's the EAT in the MEAT that counts.

The EAT in the MEAT is unconditionally guaranteed in "Super-Right" Beef. Either you agree that the "Super-Right" Beef you buy is as flavorful, as tender as you think it should be or you get your money back.

Is it any wonder with a quality guarantee like that, that "Super-Right" Beef is the choice of thousands?

Are "Super-Right" Meats a good reason for shopping A&P?

sale of shirts by the country's 2 best-known makers 3 for $10

Think of two top shirtmakers—and you've probably guessed the label that are on these shirts. A big, big collection of manufacturer's close-outs with long and short sleeves—and you'll find them in regular finish white broadcloths, wash 'n' wear white broadcloths, all-cottons in white and solid shades, and fine oxfords in white and fancies. And you'll find them in all your favorite styles: regular spread, button-down, and snap-tab models with regular or convertible cuffs. Because the price is so low, we can't mention the makers' name, but you'll recognize the label at first glance. Better hurry, though . . . the supply is limited and they'll go like lightning at this price.

For Proposed Industrial Park

Purchase of Six Vacant Lots Approved

The first step was taken last night by the city toward development of an industrial park planned for a southeast section of the city.

The City Commission approved the purchase of six scattered vacant lots in the projected park area at the corner of South and East boulevards.

Total cost of the lots is $4,330. The monies are to come from the city's newly created sale of land fund.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren said purchase of the vacant lots would round out the western half of the proposed 25-acre park.

Last night's action was the city's first purchase since taking structures were represented by the two bids. The low bid was for a concrete span.

Go-Ahead Given Appeal on Gas Station Zone Issue

"It's pouring money down a rat hole to continue with the court appeal."

This was the acid comment last night of City Commissioner Robert C. Irwin prior to a 5-1 vote on a resolution that offered a solution to a complicated rezoning hassle involving the southwest corner of West Huron and Williams.

Irwin did not object to the solution contained in the resolution. But, he did object that the resolution, in effect, permitted a Circuit Court appeal on the rezoning to proceed.

Irwin's argument was joined in spirit by Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson, but the latter voted in favor of the resolution.

The complicated controversy is another chapter in the city's attempt to prevent the location of a gas station on the West Huron-Williams corner owned by Earl Kneale and his wife, Marilyn, of Port Austin.

UNREASONABLE ZONING

Last month the property owners won a decision from Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem that the present residential-3 zoning was unreasonable. The zoning was ruled invalid.

Commercial rezoning reportedly was sought to permit a gas station there, although the court's decision was not based on a specific business.

In a 4-3 vote last month the City Commission voted to appeal Ziem's ruling. Irwin, Hudson and James H. Marshall opposed appeal.

Last night the commission was notified that Harold Ward, who owns property to the south and west of the corner, had taken an option on the property embroiled in the dispute.

DEVELOPMENT PLAN

Ward reportedly would present a plan to develop all of the property. He has asked that the city drop its appeal.

This the commission is eventually willing to do. However, Ward's option runs until Feb. 1, 1967.

Indicating concern over the length of time on the option, the commission resolution provided that the court appeal should be withdrawn only when it was shown the option had been picked up.

The appeal must be filed within 90 days of Ziem's ruling, which was made in early February.

LEGAL EXPENSES

In addition to the time element, there are legal expenses, which are expected to run about $600 to $1,000, involved.

The high bid was for an aluminum arch-type bridge. Neippling said the arch-type structure would enhance the development of the downtown area.

After hearing a presentation in favor of the aluminum overpass, the commission postponed action for one week.

A preliminary application for federal funds to buy land and construct intern housing for Pontiac General Hospital was approved.

The commission okayed a submission of the application for 30 apartment units to house 130 persons. Total cost of the project is estimated at $1,241,950.

Cost of the housing units is to be entirely paid by the federal government.

STATE HOSPITAL

The units are proposed for land on the grounds of Pontiac State Hospital.

In other business, the commission set a public hearing for March 22 on a petition for a water main on Joslyn from Brooks to the north city limits.

The vacating of the alley east of and parallel to Joslyn between Madison and LeBaron was approved. The vacating was requested by Pontiac State Bank.

Final action was taken last night to hike taxicab fares in the city. The basic rate was hiked to 40 cents for the first quarter-mile.

Also, the new rate for each additional quarter-mile or any fraction is to be 10 cents. Two-penny cents will be charged for each three-minutes waiting time.

The taxi rates go into effect ten days from last night's action.

Bids were ordered for April

4 on the sale of some 72 acres of city-owned land on Crooks in Avon township.

An offer to purchase a portion of the old incinerator property at East Boulevard and Featherstone was referred to the staff for study and recommendation.

A petition for rezoning for 97 and 121 Prall for an addition to the Groves Convalescent Home was referred to the City Planning Commission.

3 Arraigned in Break-In Three men apprehended by police early yesterday inside a go Harbor and Sylvan Lake at Wolverine Enterprises Inc., 1728 Pontiac, Bloomfield Township, were arraigned yesterday on charges of breaking and entering.

Township Justice Alice L. Gilbert set preliminary examination for the trio at March 24 and put bond for each at $2,500.

Two of the men, Timothy C. McLean, 32, and Theodore P. Dingman, 53, were later released after posting bail.

The third, Peter P. Fronius, 36, is still held at the Oakland County Jail.

All three are from Ferndale. They were arrested by police from Bloomfield Township, Pontiac, Waterford Township, Ke-

Found inside the building was an overturned and partly opened safe.

PRIVATE GROUP

The private group had turned the project over to the city after encountering legal and financial difficulties.

In related business last night, the corporation turned over its remaining assets of $217 to the city. The money was deposited in the sale of land fund.

Also last night, the commission received a report on bids for a pedestrian overpass on East Wide Track at Whittemore. Seven bids had been received by the city.

Pastor Uses Bible Message: Don't Sidestep Your Troubles

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the 19th in a 40-part series by famous and unknown persons on how faith in God played a part in their lives.)

By JOSEPH BISHOP
Pastor, First Presbyterian Church, Rye, New York
A single day in the life of a minister can bring to him a kaleidoscope of human need and heartbreak. Look with me at three troubled situations presented for pastoral counseling...

A 40-year-old wife has discovered that her husband has been unfaithful. Humiliated and crushed, she decided to pack up her belongings and those of her 10-year-old daughter and leave home without ever facing her husband again. The lawyer, she decides, can handle everything.

LENTEN GUIDEPASTS

The office is tense with suspicion.

The manager realizes that he hates to go to work in the morning, even though it is a good job which pays him a fine salary. Should he look for another position?

A 65-year-old man, recovering from the death of his wife and trying to cope with the loneliness of retirement, realizes that he is overcome by a kind of paralysis when it comes to travel.

He knows he should visit friends and relatives, but he fears to fly. Nor will he consider the train. He won't even do part-time work offered him. Instead, he makes excuses and refuses to leave his small home except for basic errands.

HOW TO COPE

How do you cope with such desperate needs — each different, each complicated by hidden factors?

It was only after years of trying to help people that I began to see one common denominator to the solution of all the problems troubled people presented to me.

It is a principle applicable to any difficulty. It is always valid: The way out is the way through.

The answer to any human dilemma is never to slip out the side exit. It is not to run out the back door.

The way out of trouble, grief, frustration, humiliation, even personal disaster is to come face-to-face with the matter at hand and go on through to the other side.

The stories of God's dealings with men, as recorded in the Bible, illustrate for us over and over how the way out is always the way through.

See Moses, a nobody in Egypt, a herdman with a speech defect, being inspired by God to take the head-on approach with the Pharaoh.

See the children of Israel hesitating on the brink of the Promised Land, afraid to claim what God had promised them. Hear God instructing them, "Arise, go over this Jordan."

Every place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given unto you. But notice that only that ground would be theirs that was claimed by the resolute tread of the foot marching straight ahead.

NEVER DEVIATED

And centuries later, the Prince of Man understood this principle and never deviated from it.

With Jesus, it was always the same... straight on... the sole of the foot treading the enemy's territory to claim every last inch of ground against evil, degradation, disease, even death.

The wife of the unfaithful husband never will find any peace and happiness by running away. Painful as it is, she must face her husband, talk to him, try to understand him. And difficult as it is, try not to judge him.

She will have God's help toward the saving of her marriage only by standing and praying and loving. The way out is the way through.

The sales manager will not find the answer by resigning his good job. Problem people are a part of every business organization and the spoiled, arrogant son of the boss will defeat himself eventually.

Meanwhile, the sales manager owes it to himself, to his company, and even to the problem boy to see the matter through, difficult as it will be. On this basis, he may find rare wisdom being given him by God as to how he can help the young man grow up.

The retired man has the choice of retreating completely from life or going out to meet it head-on.

He should go down to the airline office and buy a ticket to the farthest spot where he has relatives.

He has to see that God does have a plan for his life now, and that he never will find that plan or victory in his closing years by a head-in-the-sand approach to life.

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS

1 OUT OF 3 DOES

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting special itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. Only parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jay's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First — a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jay's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work — kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jay's P-W Vermifuge — small, easy-to-take tablets... special size for children and adults.

COPTER WRECKED IN CRASH — A 28-passenger helicopter which fell on its side at Los Angeles International Airport yesterday before attempting a takeoff was heavily damaged. The accident apparently resulted from a collapsed wheel. Three persons aboard the copter escaped injury, but a ground crewman was critically hurt when struck in the back by a piece of concrete churned up by the helicopter's whirling rotor.

Hindus Fatally Burn 3 in India Rioting

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Fanatical Hindu Nationalists today burned three persons to death in continuing violence over the creation of a separate Punjabi-speaking state in northwestern India, reports reaching here said.

Six persons have already been killed and hundreds injured during five days of Sikh-Hindu rioting.

Today's incident was said to have occurred in the Punjab town of Panipat, about 55 miles north of the Indian capital. There was no immediate official confirmation.

The reports said the victims were Hindus, but supporters of Sikh demands for an independent state. Members of the militant Hindu Jan Sangh party were blamed for the immolation.

The right-wing Sangh party has played a leading role in the continuing Hindu-Sikh violence which has turned into a religious war.

One of the dead Hindus was identified as an active member of the ruling Congress party which approved the creation of an independent Punjabi-language state.

Another was a local correspondent of Punjab's only English-language newspaper, Tribune of Amritsar.

Meanwhile, a tense calm settled over other cities and towns in the troubled Punjab state.

State officials said the situation was "under control but tense."

New Delhi, Ludhiana, Bhiwani and Amritsar — all hit by serious rioting this week — were quiet today. But the Indian capital was still under a curfew and groups of more than five persons were forbidden to gather on streets.

Premier Mrs. Indira Gandhi sharply criticized the riots in a speech in Parliament yesterday.

She said the government would take swift action to carve a separate Punjabi-speaking state from Punjab, whose main official language is Hindi.

SHOOT ON SIGHT

Police in most Punjab cities,

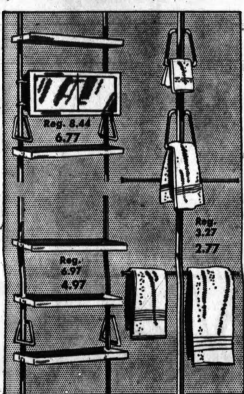

meanwhile, were under orders to shoot on sight anyone attacking government property.

Raging Hindu mobs attacked government buildings and a sacred Sikh temple here Monday in fierce fighting that killed three persons and wounded more than 100 others.

In Bhiwani, police fired on mobs, killing one person and injuring 10 more, and five rioters were killed in Jullundur by police attempting to control the mobs.

On the other side of the subcontinent, a mob protesting food rationing sacked a railroad station and burned one train in the Calcutta suburb of Naihati. Police dispersed the crowd with gunfire, wounding three persons.

Sukarno Order for Assassination of 4 Anti-Red Generals Said Uncovered in Jakarta

SINGAPORE (AP) — Sources in Singapore said today an order from President Sukarno for the assassination of four anti-Communist generals has come to light in Jakarta.

The sources said Lt. Gen. Suharto's new military regime has also discovered that Sukarno is in constant touch with Peking by radio from his palace at Bogor, 40 miles from Jakarta.

The sources said they did not know which generals were named in the assassination order but that they understood they were members of Suharto's regime.

They said the order apparently was drawn up before Sukarno handed over his powers to the military last Saturday. He remains as a figurehead president.

The sources said discovery of the document could lead to "violent action" against Sukarno.

"The whole situation may now be changed," they said.

The sources said reports of the assassination order are circulating widely in Jakarta and could lead to new student demonstrations.

The sources said intelligence agents in Jakarta gave the assassination order "a high credibility rating." They said it apparently was found in the offices of Sukarno's pro-Peking foreign minister and first deputy premier, Subandrio, or in the offices of Subandrio's intelligence service.

Anti-Communist student demonstrators stormed into the Foreign Ministry last week and seized documents. During the army take-over Saturday, paratroops and military police shot their way into the offices of Subandrio's intelligence service and made off with other documents.

Whale's Gulch, Mizzen Topsail and Come By Chance are among place names in the seafaring province of Newfoundland, Canada.

Woman in Canada Sex-Security Case Denies Being a Spy

OTTAWA (AP) — The German woman in Canada's sex and security scandal declared in a radio-television interview Tuesday night that she had never been a spy and that her relationship with two former Canadian Cabinet ministers was purely social.

The interview with Mrs. Gerda Munsinger, carried by the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., came a few hours after the House of Commons ended a stormy four-day debate on the Liberal government's charges that the 36-year-old blonde's contacts with high officials of previous Conservative governments may have endangered national security.

Mrs. Munsinger, who now is in West Germany, lived in Canada from 1956 to 1961. She said she was a close friend of former Associate Defense Minister Pierre Sevigny and an acquaintance of former Trade Minister George Hees. Both have acknowledged knowing her but denied that any question of security was involved.

The government has ordered a judicial inquiry into the entire matter.

WOULD APPEAR

Mrs. Munsinger has indicated her willingness to appear before the investigating commission if she is asked to do so.

In the televised interview, which was filmed in Munich, she was asked whether she had ever served the Russians or any other country as an agent.

"That's a lie," she said.

"Those people harmed me so much in my young life that I would never even move a finger for any one of them."

FARMER'S DAUGHTER

"I was 16 years old when the war was over — a farmer's girl with long blonde pigtails. The Russians did what they felt like with me for three years. They ruined my life because of those three years."

She said she had not communicated with anyone in East Germany since she left there in 1948.

Unusual Project Aids Problem Students

By PAT McCARTY

The Bloomfield Hills youth with a problem has a lot going for him.

He often has concerned parents, teachers and friends—yes. But he also has the resources of Wayne State University and a team of psychologists, social workers and counselors.

Their job is to get him on the right track, through an unusual university—school district arrangement called the Learning Abilities Laboratory.

Under an agreement now in its third year, the school system is able to supply services which normally would not be available.

RESEARCH CENTER
In return, Bloomfield Hills School District has become a research center for the department of clinical and educational psychology of WSU's College of Education.

The ideas developed by the Learning Abilities Laboratory are being incorporated into the district's program at a regular rate.

An example is evening study periods for high school youths. They are geared to the student with average or above-average intelligence who is bringing home D's and E's on his report card, according to Dr. Walter J. Ambinder, Learning Abilities Laboratory director.

"Parents have been told not to put any pressure on him, that he'll come out of it himself," Ambinder said.

UNREALISTIC

The advice may be sound, but it's unrealistic to expect a parent to ignore a child who is watching television the night before an important exam, he noted.

Frequently the home provides merely a "continuation of school 'anxiety'" to a youth already resisting pressure, Ambinder said.

The evening study periods, then, are aimed at redirecting the pressure.

The 20 high school students involved spend four evenings a week at school with five college students who serve as tutors.

SUPERVISED

The 7-9 p.m. sessions are supervised by a psychiatric social worker or guidance counselor from the university.

Once a week there is a group psychotherapy session in which the students are encouraged to air their problems and complaints.

The organization provided in the study hall is a help, "but studying is only part of the picture," Ambinder said. "These kids have gripes. They're angry."

"This is no attempt to go deep into their psyches," he said. "We don't feel these kids are sick. They're just going through adolescent turmoil."

IST IN NATION

Ambinder said he believes this program is the first of its kind in the nation.

It was initiated last year but proved to be expensive, consuming more than a quarter of the laboratory's $29,000 budget.

This year it is self-supporting, with parents paying tuition fees.

Ambinder estimated that at least three students graduated from high school last year only because of the help they had received in the evening session. Some were able to raise their grades and others were not noticeably helped, he said.

Another Learning Laboratory idea, to be used on a systematic basis this year, is a prekindergarten orientation program involving both youngsters and their parents.

The preschoolers will be screened in May to determine if they are ready for kindergarten.

Those who need help will be offered a six-week summer program. For two hours a day, the children will attend classes to develop their speech, motor skills, perception and vocabularies while their parents discuss how best to prepare them for school.

GROUP DISCUSSIONS

Other parents have participated in Learning Abilities Laboratory programs which provide group discussion sessions for those whose children are troubled or are "normal" but having a minor difficulty.

Ambinder and his associates spend a major portion of their time dealing with youngsters who have been referred to them by parents or teachers.

They have talked to some 700 students since the laboratory was established in 1963.

"About 80 per cent of the referrals are because of poor achievement," he said.

Both parents and teachers are interviewed by a member of Ambinder's staff, then a troubled youngster is given a series of personality, intelligence, aptitude and achievement tests.

The next step is a meeting with the teacher, principal, visiting teacher and, perhaps, a consulting psychiatrist to determine the best course of action and the nature of facilities available.

Most of the WSU staff members have master's degrees and are doing doctoral work. Others already have their doctor's degrees.

Currently there are five visiting the district on a regular basis.

"We have had as many as 12 here in a single day," Ambinder said. "We have the resources of the university at our disposal and we draw upon people as we need them."

Tot Strangles as Hood Catches in Door Spring

DETROIT (UPI)—Three-year-old Jamie Haddock of suburban Lincoln Park strangled yesterday when the hood of his parka caught in a garage door spring. Police said the child apparently stood on a refuse can in an attempt to reach the red knob on the end of a rope that pulled down the door. As he reached, he lost his balance and the hood caught in the door.

Plain Omelets for Main Course, Sweet Ones for Dessert

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Consider the egg. Nature has done a perfect job of packaging an excellent food.

Eggs are a good source of protein and a versatile course at any meal. Unfortunately, they are off the list for most fat or sodium controlled diets (the yolk is high in fat, the white high in sodium.)

But for the average family, eggs are useful. Not only do they substitute for meat, but they extend small amounts of other food.

Buy eggs from stores that keep them in refrigerated cases and store them in the refrigerator at home. For some strange reason, their quality stays higher if you keep them large end up.

But don't pay higher prices to get all white or all brown eggs; there is no difference in nutritive value or quality. The only time you might want to be sure to get all white eggs is at Easter when you're coloring them.

Omelets are good as main courses or desserts. The first recipe is for an omelet made on top of the stove and served with creamed spinach inside the fold.

SPINACH OMELET

6 eggs
6 tablespoons milk

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
4 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup hot cooked spinach
1/2 cup undrained mushroom soup
1/4 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Beat eggs thoroughly with milk, salt and pepper. Pour over melted butter in omelet pan or fry pan. As omelet cooks, allow soft part on top to run under by lifting sides of omelet with spatula.

Mix well-drained, cooked

spinach with mushroom soup. Place on one half of omelet. Fold omelet and slide onto hot platter. Top with shredded cheese. Makes 3-4 servings.

The following omelet is one we always had at home while I was growing up. You start cooking it on top of the stove, then put it in the oven to finish baking.

OMELET WITH FLOUR

3 eggs, beaten separately
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt

Stir one-quarter of the milk with the flour and salt mixed, until smooth. Add rest of milk and stir over the beaten yolks. Fold in whites, beaten dry.

Place in hot buttered skillet and cook slowly on top of stove five minutes. Place in 325-degree oven and bake 20 minutes more until golden brown. Fold and serve on hot platter. Serves 3-4.

Dessert omelets are different. Serve them when the rest of the meal is on the skippy side.

A dessert omelet could properly be served at a brunch too. You might like to use cherry pie mix instead of canned peaches for the filling.

PEACHES AND CREAM OMELET

2 eggs
2 tablespoons water
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon butter

1 lb. can sliced cling peaches, well drained
1/4 cup sour cream

Mix eggs, water and salt with peach slices. Makes one serving. One can of cling peaches is enough for two or three omelets.

With a spatula or fork, carefully draw cooked portions at edges toward center, so that the uncooked mixture flows to the bottom. Slide pan rapidly back and forth over heat to keep mixture in motion and sliding freely.

When eggs are set and surface is still moist, increase heat to brown bottom quickly.

To serve, spread half of sour cream on omelet. Place peach slices on omelet. Fold in half. Spread remaining sour cream on top. Garnish with a few

Bread Pudding Has Many Guises

From the early days of our nation, bread puddings opened the kitchen door on originality and ingenuity for the homemaker. This dessert has been labeled the humble cousin of the pie. It has been called the poor man's dessert.

Such descriptions belittle the proud ancestry of the bread pudding. It is, you see, a lineal descendant of the English plum pudding which went through many adaptations during hard and frugal pioneer days on these shores.

The transition of plum pudding into bread pudding came, perhaps in early colonial times. Pioneer cooks often found it difficult to obtain some of the needed ingredients for the spicier, richer version.

The Shakers who migrated here from England were particularly talented at creating delicate, tasty versions of bread pudding. Lacking flavoring extracts and some of the exotic spices, they used dried or fresh fruits, and fruit peels for color and flavor.

Today's bread puddings feature the basic ingredients of butter, milk, eggs and bakers' bread in much the same manner as did those puddings of some 140 years ago.

Rhubarb's Coconut Bread Pudding

1 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 cups (1/2 inch) pieces fresh

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Beef shank cross cuts.

Q. Where do they come from? How are they identified?

A. They are small pieces, about two inches long, made by cutting across the bones of the fore shank. Thus, they are a tapering almost round shaped cut with a cross section of the shank bone and a good percentage of meat.

Q. How are they prepared?

A. They may be cooked in liquid, as for soup, or they may be braised, usually with vegetables. To use them for soup, cover with water, cover utensil tightly and cook slowly for 2 to 3 hours. Add vegetables and cook until they are done. To braise, brown the meat first, season and add not more than 1/2 cup of liquid and cook until tender. Add vegetables before meat is done. Thicken cooking liquid for gravy, if desired.

Grapefruit Is Good Mixer

A grapefruit-cranberry cup starts with tangy grapefruit sections and then is topped with a combination of ground raw cranberries and ground whole oranges, sweetened to taste.

Another gay combination is grapefruit and orange sections with sliced strawberries — garnished with mint.

Or grapefruit sections may be combined with raspberries, melon balls or cubes, peaches, pears, banana slices, seeded grapes, diced apricots, apples, pineapple or cherries.

Move Over, St. Patrick, Batman Is Here

By ED McCUSKER

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—With Batman and International spies so popular these days, it's hard to impress a youngster with the importance of St. Patrick—even if his family ties go back to the old country.

"Sean," I asked my nephew the other day, "do you know what Thursday is?"

"Sure, Unk, that's Batman Day on television."

I looked into the face of the 7-year-old and rubbed his thatch of carrot-colored hair, and said, "It's also St. Patrick's Day."

"Was he a spy?"

"No, but he was a good guy. He was against the bad guys."

"Like Thrush, huh?"

"Thrush?"

"Yeah, Thrush, in 'The Man from U.N.C.L.E.'," he said.

ATTENTION GETTER

I poured him a glass of milk and fetched some cookies to rivet his attention.

Before I could make my pitch for St. Patrick—the man from Ireland—he said, "Batman has a cape and he can fly."

It must have been about that time that St. Pat smiled on me because I conjured up a bit of barney:

"St. Patrick was kind of a spy for the good guys. A lot of people from Thrush were in a country called Ireland, a long time ago. The bad ones didn't care about good things. They would fight and steal and kill each other."

"So, St. Patrick was assigned to Ireland on a special mission to drive out the bad guys. They were called snakes."

"He would walk into little towns, unafraid. He wore a long green cape and told the people to try to be good."

Sean interrupted, "Batman has a cape."

"That's right. Well, St. Patrick spent most of his life fighting the bad guys. And now on March 17 each year, we remember him on this special day. People from Ireland and descendants of the Irish honor St. Patrick."

"Do you think St. Patrick had a secret radio?"

"He didn't need one. He lived in the 5th century, a long time ago, and he had a special way of keeping in touch with headquarters."

"I bet St. Patrick didn't have a Batmobile."

About that time, his mother came through the kitchen door and said:

"Sean, you devil, I've been looking all over for you. Sister Margaret called from school and she wants you to play Batman in the school play on St. Patrick's Day."

He grabbed a supply of cookies and raced out the door yelling over his shoulder, "Sorry, about that chiel!"

WASHINGTON (U)—A $358,000 construction program at Wurtsmith Air Force Base at Oscoda, Mich., was submitted in a congressional authorization bill by the Defense Department Tuesday. The construction would be for operational facilities and troop housing.

FIGHT ASTHMA & BRONCHITIS TO SLEEP BETTER

At the first sign of wheezing, difficult breathing or coughing from recurring bronchial asthma or bronchitis, aggravated by air contaminated by smoking, smog, dust and pollen, take quick relief with MINTADOL. It contains salbutamol, a powerful bronchodilator, which helps remove thick, choking phlegm. This usually eases breathing fast, allows coughing, thus promoting better sleep. Ask MINTADOL at drugstore. Let it help you.

OXFORD, N. J. (UPI)—Free cocktails before dinner at county welfare homes?

A regular cocktail time or "happy hour" could save a welfare house more than $2,000 a year on tranquilizers, according to Mrs. Mildred Ochse, Warren County Welfare Home superintendent.

Recently returned from a three-day study of county home administration at Pennsylvania State University, Mrs. Ochse said much money could be saved according to surveys she saw. She added the program would be conducted by a doctor—not a bartender.

The welfare board took no action on her suggestion.

word Arch. Analysis of the lead indicates that it is probably a four or five card heart suit, since he would not lead a short-suit after hearts have been rebid, so my first step is to abandon the idea of trying to break the hearts 3-3 to set up a diamond discard."

Review of the bidding tells me nothing. The opponents did not bid. Count of the losers shows one possible loser in diamonds and two possible losers in trumps. If I have to lose a diamond I must play the trumps for no losers which means taking a trump finesse and finding two trumps in each hand.

If I don't have to lose a diamond I can afford one trump loser which means that the correct play will be to play my ace of hearts to see if I can drop the singleton king. If I don't drop the king I lead to king and lead toward my queen. After all this preliminary thought I decide that the best play will be to test the diamonds first. I come to my hand with a club and try the diamond finesse. Does it work?

Oswald: "Yes."

Jim: "Then I lead a trump to my ace."

Oswald: "You drop the sin-

Jim: "It sure goes to show the value of studying the whole play at trick one."

A—Bid five clubs. If your partner has bid correctly he will have 6-5 or maybe 7-5 distribution and your high clubs should be worth their weight in gold.

Record Seen for Legislator Trips Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators and House members may have set a record for overseas travel last year.

Most of the reports are yet to be filed, but the trend indicates the totals will top the $157,378 spent by senators in 1964 and the $239,300 spent by House members.

More spending reports trickled into the Congressional Record Monday. The biggest was $25,323 for members and aides of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy for meetings and inspections in Japan, France, Hong Kong, Israel, Malaysia, Switzerland and Germany.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee reported $12,586, the Senate Judiciary Committee $12,959 and the Senate Government Operations Committee $11,095.

Most of the cost of overseas travel is covered by U.S.-held foreign currencies obtained in the sale of surplus farm commodities abroad.

24-Hour Machine Post Office Is Planned at MSU

EAST LANSING (AP) — The Post Office Department plans to open a 24-hour-a-day post office, run entirely by machines, on the campus of Michigan State University.

Just in case a human's assistance is needed, the office also will include a direct-line telephone to the nearest manned post office, Frederick C. Belen, deputy postmaster general, said Monday.

"If the experiment is successful — and we fully expect success — it may be the forerunner of others for colleges and the urban developments," Belen told about 500 Michigan postmasters attending a training session.

Machines will sell stamps, make change for coins or currency, weigh packages and indicate rates for sending them.

Big Increase Forecast in Wheat Exports

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Wheat exports will increase greatly by 1975, says Ralph J. Crawford, president of the Kansas City Board of Trade.

He said estimates indicate that this year the United States will export 850 million bushels of wheat, but that, by 1975, the figure may reach 1.25 billion bushels. "If we set out to feed the world."

FIRE

QUESTION: What is fire — and why does water put it out?

ANSWER: Fire is the result of the oxygen gas in the air combining with the carbon or other organic material in the fuel being burned. Water is also connected with oxygen. It is one part oxygen and two parts hydrogen.

It may seem strange to think of water quenching fire, since water contains oxygen, and fire comes from an action of oxygen gas.

But the oxygen in the air, being a gas, is a very light state of matter, while the oxygen which has combined with hydrogen to make water, has become part of another, heavier state of matter, a fluid.

For fire, there must be, first, some fuel which will burn. Second, this fuel must be heated to what is called its "kindling point." Third, there must be plenty of free oxygen gas to unit with the fuel.

In the diagram, you will see that paper must be heated to 363 degrees F. before it will burn.

The kindling point of wood is still higher. But notice that the highest point to which water can be heated, under ordinary pressure and before it turns to steam, is 212 degrees.

This means that the boy in our picture is throwing water with a lower temperature on fire with a very much higher one. The water instantly lowers the fuel below the temperature at which it burns — and the fire goes out.

FOR YOU TO DO: Follow the example of George in our picture. If you're about to leave a camp fire, he's lowering the fuel's temperature below its kindling point so there's no chance of any more fire.

But Reminders Are Many

Soviet Voice in Ghana Quiet

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—The once loud voice of the Soviet Union in Ghana has been lowered to a discreet diplomatic whisper.

Army and police officers who overthrew absent President Kwame Nkrumah Feb. 24 quickly ordered the expulsion of almost 1,000 Soviet advisers.

They were hustled through Accra airport at riflepoint and herded into Soviet-built transports belonging to Ghana Airways. The shuttle service to Moscow has ended but the planes have not returned. Ghana Airways was having difficulty paying for them and one businessman here said they were returned in lieu of the unpaid balance.

Many reminders of the Soviet Union remain.

BUILT IN RUSSIA

The army, which ousted all Russians except the Soviet Embassy staff, rides around in jeep-like cars built in the Soviet Union.

Buildings designed for wintry climates are a rusty reminder of ill-planned aid. These Soviet machines have closed cabins heated by the engine. Heat is the last thing needed in this tropical land.

Soviet taxicabs roll through Accra streets. Soviet suits, Polish sports shirts and Chinese shoes are stocked in Accra's biggest department store, British-owned.

The Ministry of Education is busily transferring teachers to fill gaps left by some 100 deported Soviet instructors.

A fishing project in nearby Tema, which even Western diplomats praised as expert and intelligent aid, is bogged down because many Soviet technicians were sent away.

Left unfinished is a $30-million airfield in northern Ghana which Westerners here understand was to provide an alternative stop for Moscow to Havana flights.

The cream of Ghanaian society once flocked to social gatherings at the Soviet embassy. Thousands turned out to greet Soviet space girl Valentina Tereshkova during her visit two years ago.

Now civil servants studiously avoid Soviet diplomats. Ghanaian journalists quickly moved away when a Soviet correspondent approached them at the local press club.

DESERTED CENTER

The elaborate Soviet trade center in Cocoa House, Accra's largest office building, is deserted.

Philip's Visit to Hollywood Is Surrounded by Oddities

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—Last November Princess Margaret of England was guest at a fancy movie studio luncheon. This week it was Prince Philip. Neither of them said a word.

Not to the gathered lunchers, anyway. The princess's excuse was a bad case of laryngitis. No explanation was made for the prince.

Prince Philip wasn't at a loss for words, however. He carried on a sprightly conversation with Rosalind Russell at his left and Glynis Johns at his right. Also at the head table were Connie Stevens, Mia Farrow, Barbara Parkins, Dorothy Malone, Natalie Wood, Anne Francis and Stephanie Powers.

Now KEEGO

Asked for an explanation, a 30th Century-Fox aide replied: "Well, he's a male, isn't he?" That's about as much logic as the luncheon contained. It was held on the Western-street set of the studio, and the trappings were frontier-style. The lunch was a curious mixture of Caesar salad, prime ribs of beef, parmesan spare ribs, mixed vegetables and hot apple pie with cheese, served with a California wine, Pinot Noir, 1965.

"No photography during lunch," announced a voice on the loudspeaker. It is a rigid rule that royalty is not to be caught in the mundane act of eating. The announcement was scarcely necessary; Prince Philip ate little.

The entertainment was an odd mixture, too. First came a group of bagpipers and Scottish-type dancers from La Habra High School, Calif. The reasoning apparently being that that was just the thing for the Duke of Edinburgh.

The Long Beach Mounted Patrol, cowboy types on palominos, attempted a ride down the Western street but were headed off at the crossroads; it seemed to be too risky in the star-studded crowd, which included Donna Reed, Groucho Marx, Edward G. Robinson, Robert Cummings, Tony Franciosa, James Garner, Charlton Heston and Keenan Wynn.

The prince was presented with a Winchester rifle by Van Heflin, who made the presentation on behalf of "Stage Coach," a new 20th Century-Fox movie. This was followed by square dancers and a demonstration by Thelma Houston, who bills himself as "The Fastest Gun in the World." The prince held his hands over his ears. The U.S. Marine Corps Band played a medley from "The Sound of Music," another film by 20th Century-Fox, which has the fastest plug in the West. Bob Hope, Jack Benny, Danny Kaye and Jerry Lewis were seated at the table next to Prince Philip's. If their writers had prepared any special material, it was wasted, no one called on them.

The luncheon broke up shortly after Prince Philip was presented with a badge by Los Angeles' Sheriff Pete Pitchess, the fastest badge-pinner in the West.

ACROSS THE GENERATIONS—An old man holds a child whose gummy eyes are attacked by flies in Rajasthan State of western India. The children in this area possess the bleary eyes and skinny frames typical of those without sufficient food. Disease is rampant, faces don't smile, eyes don't twinkle and the playful run is slowed to a walk. American food supplies are being rushed to help the children.

AP Photo/

Hope Glimmers for India's Starving

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The tired tip-tap of their hammer sounds through rock quarries. Their quick eyes fill watchfully over herds of cows. Their gay laughter blends with the roar of coastal surf.

These are the children of India, and in their faces is the story of this impoverished nation's cruel economic troubles and its hope of a better tomorrow.

Nowhere is the gulf between reality and dream as clearly portrayed as in young faces.

It is the children among India's 400 millions who show the pinch of malnourishment. Some have scab-covered legs and gummy eyes that betray rampant disease.

HOPE LINGERS

But in their laughter lies the hope.

In the state of Kerala, a 7-year-old girl sits under the blazing sun, chipping small rocks into smaller pieces.

Her future is 100 yards away, where old women chip big rocks into small rocks. Her brother's future is farther up the rock face, where men drill all day, shrouded in choking dust.

A child chips for eight hours like this and still doesn't earn enough to eat as humans should.

NO SMILES

In the rock quarries, the young faces don't smile. The eyes don't twinkle. The run slows to a walk. There is no time for fun and games.

But farther north, along the Arabian Sea coast, not even the filth, disease and hunger of a backward fishing village can still the laughter.

Little brown packages of mobile dynamite, bare as the day they were born, charge into the surf, are bowled over, rise laughing to help father drag in a net.

Here the future looks bright; er. It is to ride out to sea along side the men in narrow, rough-hewn fishing boats, learn to placate the storm gods and outwit the devils of the sea.

NO SURE COUNT

No one knows for sure how many children are born in India every year. Best estimates are that the population increases 12 million annually.

In a country deficient in almost every necessity of life, how can 12 million new mouths be filled every year? How can enough doctors be trained to care for them? How can schools be constructed?

Education Minister M. C. Chagla announced in Parliament recently that 50 million Indian children are in primary schools.

A fine accomplishment, he said — except that many millions more never have seen the inside of a classroom and never will.

ILLITERATES

There are more illiterates over the age of 10 in India today than there were a decade ago. American experts put the number at 260 million and say the ranks of the unlearned are increasing by 4 million annually.

Thousands of open-air schools have been established in an attempt to give the increasing swarm of children at least the rudiments of an education.

Village life is looking second best to many Indians. City slums are spreading rapidly, luring hundreds of thousands of families away from the villages to a new, but drab, life of rootless street wandering.

To cry "baksheesh" (alms) and stretch up a thin arm is second nature for these city nomads.

American food and relief supplies from around the world are being rushed to these children. New Delhi pledges that none will starve.

But this summer, when a developing food crisis seems destined to reach a new, cruel height, it will be a narrow thing for many of the children of India.

Did You Know?

Skilled chemists develop new, advanced products in Wards own modern paint factories. For example, they have developed a process in which alkyl oil is added to an acrylic latex base to produce Acrylic Latex 401—the only paint we know of that promises 1-coat coverage over any previously painted chalk-like surface—without priming! 401—an example of Wards continual quest to develop the best, through research... then better it.

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO KANAR
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The story that the 62-year-old Saginaw Valley Conference is on the verge of collapse, or in nicer words—ready for re-alignment—is a fact which shouldn't be hard to swallow.

It certainly indicates the changing times and the territorial changes which are essential in this rapid period of growth. Progress, with its great by-products, is something which in most cases only the naive would attempt to stop.

It would thus be naive for anyone to think that tradition can salvage the status quo or the basic structure of the Saginaw Valley Conference.

Likewise, it is just as foolish for other high school leagues all around us to sit back contentedly without looking at the future and appraising their status.

In 1956 there were six class A high schools in Oakland County. Today there are 22.

REALIGNMENT NEEDED

In 1956, in 1960 and in 1961 in this column we warned high school educators to take a careful look at the future growth of schools and consider a scale of realignment which would give every new school or those changing in classification, a place in the over-all county community.

While the taxpayers were gnashing their teeth in millage votes, while some schools were curtailing their athletic programs because of bond issue failures, athletic teams were, and still are, traveling around like vagabonds from 50 to 150 miles for competition.

Why? What is wrong with competition under their noses? Why didn't they and why can't they still sit down like the intelligent educators they are and look at the problems realistically?

The answers range from pride to prejudice and from apathy to agitation:

- a) We're better than you.
- b) You're too tough for us.
- c) We like it where we're at.
- d) You're a different type of community.
- e) We can't afford your kind of athletic program.
- f) Our school systems are or aren't comparable.

There are 22 class A schools, 15 class B schools, four class C schools and two class D schools in Oakland County, a total of 43 schools involved in 14 different leagues, and nearly every league has its misfit, a school with no logical reason for being a member, either from standpoint of size or area.

MISFIT LEAGUES

To face the facts, Pontiac Central has been a misfit in the SVC ever since the league started entertaining thoughts about Midland and now Alpena.

Likewise is either classification or by area, Kettering is out of place in the Tri-County; Rochester in the Oakland-A (half of which is "B"); Clarkston, Milford and Bloomfield Hills in the Wayne-Oakland (with 5 "B" schools); Birmingham Groves in the Northwest Suburban; St. Mike, St. Fred, Waterford Our Lady in the Macomb League; Royal Oak Dender in the Border Cities and Madison Lamphere in the Central Suburban.

Those 14 different leagues could be cut to six or seven with room for everyone, thereby creating good competition, cutting costs, engendering compatibility and establishing better relations among county schools and communities.

Sandy, Drysdale Unsigned Rules Keep Pitching Arms Tied

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — What can Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati's Jim Maloney do if contract negotiations remain at their current impasse?

Quit.

They can go to work in another industry or they can retire, but they cannot in any way get another job in what is termed organized baseball — the major leagues, the minor leagues or any other parties to their various rules and agreements.

Koufax and Drysdale, as well as Maloney, and other holdouts are bound to the clubs they played for last year by a contract which contains the unique, much-disputed and highly controversial reserve clause.

Under the reserve clause, each player becomes the property of the team he signs with until that team relinquishes rights to him, either by trading him or giving him his release.

NO RECOURSE

If the team does not wish to release the player, the player must sign with that club in order to play organized baseball. He has no other recourse.

In other sports, the player's contract differs in this key aspect. For football for example, a player signs with an option clause. Under that clause, when a player signs, he signs for one year with an option for another year's renewal.

If a player does not want to continue playing for his present club he can "play out his option" in the second year of his contract by not signing another pact. He then becomes a free agent and can sign with any club he wishes, even one in the same league.

That can't be done in baseball.

Cazzie's Back in Action With Ford Motor '5

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. entered a team in the AAU basketball tournament Tuesday and announced Michigan star Cazzie Russell would lead it.

Also named to the squad, called the Ford Mustangs, were Michigan players Oliver Darden, John Clawson and John Thompson; Michigan State stars Stan Washington and Bill Curtis as well as Dorie Murrey and Lou Hyatt, both standouts on this year's University of Detroit team.

The team, coached by former Michigan State star Horace Walker, also includes 1964-65 college standouts Oliver Darden, John Clawson and John Thompson; Michigan State stars Stan Washington and Bill Curtis as well as Dorie Murrey and Lou Hyatt, both standouts on this year's University of Detroit team.

Ford said the Mustangs were one of two all-league teams invited to the AAU tournament at the Kansas City's Camp Campaneris Tuesday at Bradenton, Fla. Stanley then loses his balance and tumbles into the fence, but holds onto the ball as Tiger teammate Jim Northrup approaches. The catch resulted in a first, but the Tigers went on to their first defeat, 7-6.

Hot-Shooting Cadet Sparkles in NIT Surprise

Utah Providing NCAA Surprise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unranked Utah is a little surprised to find itself in the NCAA championship basketball tournament, but Coach Jack Gardner isn't conceding a thing.

An d Coach Don Haskins of Texas Western, the nation's third-ranked team which meets the Utes Friday night at the University of Maryland, isn't taking Utah for granted.

"We're a little surprised to be there," Gardner said Tuesday in a five-way news conference with the coaches of the four teams in the playoff. "As a matter of fact it's the most surprising thing in my 30 years of coaching. After all, we finished in the cellar (of the Western Athletic Conference) last year."

Gardner said, however, that his Utah squad, which has a season record of 23-6, should not be sold short even though he admitted his team will have to overcome some handicaps to win — mainly playing without three regulars.

NOT ELIGIBLE

Among Utah's problems: George Fisher, the team's top rebounder and defensive player broke his leg near the end of the regular season; Ron Cunningham is not eligible for the tournament, and Lyndon MacKay twisted a knee last Saturday night and might not play against Texas Western.

In addition, if Utah does get by Texas Western Friday night, it must play the winner of the Kentucky-Duke game, the nation's first and second ranked team, Saturday for the NCAA championship.

Coach Don Haskins of Texas Western, 26-1, said his team will have to stop Utah's running game.

"Gardner has always had good offensive teams," he said. "If we are to beat Utah, we are going to have to stop his breaks and slow the game down. We have to play our game, and we are more conservative."

Meanwhile, Duke, 25-3, and Kentucky, 26-1, who many believe will be playing for the national championship when they meet Friday, are having problems with illness.

Two Wolverines Battling for '66 Quarterback Slot

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Versatile Rick Volk and Dick Vidmar were tabbed the top quarterback candidates today as Michigan launched its third day of spring football practice.

Volk, under study to start quarterback Bob Timberlake on the 1964 Rose Bowl champion team, played defensive halfback last year, but probably will return to quarterback next fall.

Coach Bump Elliott said he underwent a post-season operation and will not participate in spring scrimmages.

Elliott, surveying 30 hopefuls including 26 lettermen, said his toughest job might be finding tackles to replace stars Tom Mack, Bill Yearby and Charley Kines, all of whom graduated this year.

BROADCAST LINEUP SET FOR 1966 Tiger Season

DETROIT (AP) — Six television and 29 radio stations will carry the Detroit Tigers' baseball games this season, James L. Campbell, executive vice president and general manager, announced Tuesday.

The TV stations will be carry 40 games and the radio stations will broadcast all 162 encounters he said.

Signs Three-Year Pact

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Joe Heyer, named LaSalle coach last Nov. 30 on the eve of the Ex-plosive's first game, has signed a three-year contract after guild-voted by Kansas City's Camp Campaneris Tuesday at Bradenton, Fla. Stanley then loses his balance and tumbles into the fence, but holds onto the ball as Tiger teammate Jim Northrup approaches. The catch resulted in a first, but the Tigers went on to their first defeat, 7-6.

Brush-Off Doesn't Faze Monbouquette

The deal sending Monbouquette to Detroit was announced last Oct. 4. He got the message personally a week or so before that.

It would be so easy for Bill Monbouquette to knock the Red Sox, particularly because every one else did when they sent him packing to the Tigers last October for a pair of second-innings, infielder George Thomas.

"I thought something was funny when I missed my turn the last week of the season," he recalled. "It was the first time I missed my turn since I came into the league. I think I was supposed to go against the Yankees."

Monbouquette, Boston's bread-and-butter pitcher for years, doesn't pit the Red Sox, however. He even defends their part of what everyone else considered a lopsided deal.

"Billy Herman told me, 'I wanna pitch one of the kids.' That sounded reasonable to me. But then when one of the kids was sick and the other kid's shoulder was bothering him and Herman still pitched someone else, I knew I was gone."

"Their biggest problem for years has been defense," points out the 25-year-old right-hander, who ought to know because he was a frequent victim of it.

With the Tigers, leading 6-4 in the last of the eighth, pinch-hitter Randy Schwartz slammed a two-run triple off the center fielder, but Schwartz came around with the winner, run when Ray Oyler threw Stanley's relay away.

"I should have backed off from the wall when I saw I had no chance for Schwartz' ball," said Stanley. "Instead I hit the fence and was off balance when I made the throw to Oyler."

Army Quintet Blitzes Dons; Villanova Wins

Wildcats Hold Off Boston College 5; Semifinals Thursday

NEW YORK (AP) — Wishful thinking doesn't win basketball games but Army's Bill Helkie was a coach's dream come true.

Helkie, a near-sighted upperclassman, triggered the torrid-shooting Cadets into the semifinals of the National Invitation Tournament with a brilliant 34-point performance that cut down San Francisco's tall Dons 80-63 Tuesday night.

Resurgent Villanova, sparked by Bill Melchioni's 30 points, beat off a fierce Boston College press 86-85 in the second game of the Madison Square Garden doubleheader. Joining Army, New York University and top-seeded Brigham Young in Thursday night's semifinal round.

The Cadets, dwarfed by San Francisco's 6-8, 6-6, 6-6 front line, ran away from the Dons by hitting 27 of 39 shots from the field, with Helkie's 15-for-30 jump shooting leading the way.

"It reminded me of the time when I was a sophomore at Ohio State and we shot 16 for 19 in the first half of a game in California," said Bob Knight, the Cadets' first-year coach who played on the Buckeyes' 1960 NCAA title team.

"It's funny, but I was thinking about the game today and figuring how nice it would be if something like that happened against San Francisco."

Helkie, who what happened to the stunned Dons in the decisive opening half as the Cadets rolled to a 39-24 lead. Helkie canned his first six shots and made 12 of 15 before intermission en route to topping his career high of 27 points set in last Saturday's round victory over Manhattan.

Army, now 18-6, meets Brigham Young and Villanova, 17-10, plays NYU in Thursday night's semifinals.

FRANTIC FINISH

The Wildcats, beaten by St. John's in last year's NIT title game, edged Bob Cousy's Boston College club in a frantic finish after the Eastern press and soph Steve Adelman's outside shooting closed a seven-point gap in the closing minutes.

Melchioni, who scored 19 of his points in the first half, cracked the BC press with three long passes resulting in Villanova baskets down the stretch. The decisive points, however, were two free throws by reserve Terry McGuire with 1:09 to play.

Adelman led the Eagles with 32 points, 18 in the first half.

Exhibits Stir Legal Battle

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A battle over exhibits, sparked by a charge that baseball attorneys had in effect "disowned" former commissioner Ford Frick, continued today in Wisconsin's antitrust suit against baseball.

The argument, involving acceptance by the court of more than 100 documents, seemed likely to slow up the entire case unless Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller stepped in to end the bickering.

The judge promised a decision today on the admission of a book of facts authorized by Frick and offered in evidence by the state.

The state has already completed its presentation of evidence and was prepared to formally rest its case after admission of its exhibits, bringing the defense to bat in the argument over the National League's approval of the Braves' transfer from Milwaukee to Atlanta.

But before the defense began calling witnesses, attorneys planned the customary motion for non-suit. Presentation of defense testimony may take two weeks.

TEMPERS FLARE

Defense attorneys took up much of Tuesday's session, reading into the record lengthy portions of depositions deleted by the state. These included depositions from Braves officials, National League President Warren Giles and Mayor Ivan Allen Jr., of Atlanta.

The tedium ended late in the day as tempers flared.

First, William Stafford, special counsel for Wisconsin Attorney General Bronson La Follette, took violent exception to a request by baseball attorneys to take testimony from Richard Cecil, Braves' business manager, at a deposition in Chicago Friday.

Stafford called it an "imposition" to require the state to send an attorney to Chicago. He said Cecil ought to be brought to Milwaukee and put on the witness stand, and he implied the defense was delaying the trial.

Given Brother's Credit

Tuesday's Press incorrectly credited Bud Hayward with 41 points in the city Class C men's recreation championship basketball game. His brother Bill did the scoring.

Cecil is expected to be questioned about statements he allegedly made to Duane Bowman of Madison, Wis., a former Braves' director, three months before the club's directors voted to move to Atlanta, that the Braves were "long gone" from Milwaukee.

The state charges that National League members conspired to boycott Milwaukee as a major league city by refusing to grant a replacement for the Braves.

Death Takes America's Basketball Ambassador

CHICAGO (AP) — Abe Saperstein, the man behind basketball's little ambassador of good will, died Tuesday night at the age of 63.

Saperstein, owner of the Harlem Globetrotters' basketball team, died of a heart ailment at Weiss Memorial Hospital where he was admitted Friday.

Saperstein could have served as a model for the United Nations. He was one of a Jewish family of 10 born in London, England, who organized a Negro team which traveled throughout the world and found the welcome mat out in the Vatican as well as behind the Iron Curtain.

New CC Boss Desires Only Men on Links

GROSSE POINTE (AP) — Golf for men only is back. The idea isn't new, but George Haggarty, one of the nation's top amateur golfers, thinks he can make it work.

Haggarty, a retired corporation attorney, has purchased Lakepointe Country Club in nearby St. Clair Shores. He has sent invitations to a select group of businessmen to pay $250 for a 1966 membership.

This entitles the member to 20 rounds of golf and use of an electric golf cart. No caddies or caddy carts will be allowed. Additional rounds are $8 during the week and $12 on weekends and holidays.

OFF LIMITS

But women and children under age 21 will not be allowed to play the course. Mothers and children may come around for special activities after 6 p.m. on 12:30 p.m. on Sundays. This is contrary to most private golf clubs.

A 5-footer who couldn't play basketball at the University of Illinois because of his size after competing in basketball, baseball and track at Lake View of Chicago, Saperstein organized the Harlem Globetrotters, an all-Negro team, which made its debut in Hinckley, Ill., back in 1927.

TRICK SHOTS

Through the years, the clowning Globetrotters caught on with their trick shooting and traveling through 37 countries while logging five million miles.

Through the depression years, Abe stuck it out with his team despite the fact they had to travel in a Model T Ford and had to make the most of nothing for meals.

The Globetrotters played in old movie houses with pot-bellied stoves to keep warm, barns and basements and then advanced to New York, then California in 1934.

Gaining fame in the United States, the Globetrotters went on world tours starting in 1950 when they made their first European trip.

Since then they hit nearly every continent and major city in the world as they performed before kings, queens, rajahs and even Russian commissars on a year-round schedule of 340 games.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday in Temple Beth Israel.

Perhaps 'Only' $40,000 After Taxes

'Slim' Pay Day Looms for Cassius Clay

By The Associated Press
Cassius Clay's last fight in possibly a couple of years could turn out to be a financial bomb for the champion.

As the heavyweight champion (except in World Boxing Association territory) prepared to leave Miami for a fateful meeting with his Louisville draft board Thursday, most of the reports on finances concerning his defense against George Chuvalo seemed to be gloomy.

Clay, or Muhammad Ali as he prefers to be called, could wind up with a gross purse of about $71,500 before taxes for his 15-round with the Canadian champion at the Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto, March 29. And taxes could chop that figure to $40,000 or so.

There will be no radio broadcast of the bout and the British Broadcasting Corporation, which had contracted for a live telecast of the projected fight, Ernie Terrell fight, said Tuesday it was not interested in the day-Chuvalo fight for an expensive relay by Early Bird Satellite.

Closed circuit television provides the biggest part of the loot for heavyweight title fights these days but the pickings may be small for this 5-1 and out (get 5-1 on Chuvalo but can't bet be gross more than $200,000 at prices ranging from $7 to $100. Clay is contracted for 50 per cent of everything. Half of a $200,000 gate would be $100,000 Canadian—or $93,000 American. Half of $100,000 ancillary would make his total $143,000.

From this, $143,000 Clay has to pay half to the Louisville sponsoring group which manages him. The Louisville group pays expenses.

So the unbeaten 24-year-old champ would have $71,500—before taxes—for his end. That's not chicken feed but it's a sharp drop from the purses he received for his two fights with Sonny Liston and one with Floyd Patterson.

No Curtailment Seen in Mouille Hunting

Duck hunters concerned over a bid by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority for Pointe Mouille game area won't find their shooting curtailed if the move is successful.

A wire service story out of Lansing late last week indicated that H-C was interested in the entire area at the mouth of the Huron River.

The authority's primary goal is acquiring 200 acres along the north side of the river that has little public use and even less hunting pressure.

The waterfowl hunting marshes would remain in Conservation Department hands.

No hunting is permitted in authority-operated parks.

The proposal was made at last week's Conservation Commission meeting and department officials seemed favorable. They said legal problems, however, would have to be overcome.

Department officials pointed out that a few people use this area for picnics and pheasant hunting.

The Huron-Clinton group is interested in developing the site for recreational purposes. Officials site the potential heavy usage by residents of Detroit.

Authority officials stated it needed about 200 acres of property north of the river plus an additional 220 acres held by various private property owners to complete the project which will consist of about 500 acres which would be developed at some future time.

Bow Hunters Taking Aim at Rough Fish

Ice fishing in the area has ended and now it's the bow hunter's turn to take his shots.

An ever increasing number of archers are finding out rough fish make good sport. Certain species can be taken now, namely carp, garpike and dog fish.

On Lake St. Clair, the Detroit and St. Clair rivers, spear or bow and arrow may be used without artificial light to take the above mentioned fish.

Crow shooting is very good this time of year. These young birds are gaining up preparatory to the nesting season.

Southern migrants are returning north and joining those crows that stayed the winter.

Mid-morning and late afternoon are the best times for luring the black bandits of the bird world with a call.

Trout fishermen—particularly those interested in spring run rainbows—are checking their equipment. The early season of steelheads opens April 1 on selected Northern Michigan waters.

The regular season starts April 30.

It's Tougher for European

Any sportsman who thinks hunting has become too complicated and regimented in Michigan should compare notes with the European animal.

For example, to hunt in Bavaria a person must, first of all, be 18 years old and take a six-month course in hunting laws and customs, basic game management, and identification of wildlife.

If he passes an exam on the course, he then must:

- 1) Buy a $12 hunting license;
- 2) Purchase $35,000 worth of personal liability insurance and $2,500 worth of property liability insurance;
- 3) Get written permission to hunt from the landowner;
- 4) Hire a qualified guide; and
- 5) Get permission from his guide to shoot the game he sees.

After cutting through all this red tape, the Bavarian hunter may then pull the trigger—provided his nerves aren't too frayed by all of these preliminaries.

Receives Recognition

William W. Lowe, 1932 Dawn Ridge, Walled Lake, won recognition for good sportsmanship in the Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament when he recently caught and released 23 jack and one barracuda while fishing out of Garrison Light in Key West.

Alpena JC '5' Ousted

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)—Mobility of Missouri eliminated Alpena Community College 78-69 Tuesday in the first round of the National Junior College Basketball Tournament. Tom Richardson had 24 for Alpena.

Biologist Gives Advice

Time of Year for Rabies

Avoid handling any wild animal which appears tame, sick or is found dead.

This advice is passed along by Howard C. Greene, district game biologist at the Conservation Department's Pontiac Lake office, as part of a warning on rabies.

"This seems to be the time of year when people become most concerned about rabies outbreaks," said Greene.

He listed two basic forms of rabies, a virus disease in warm blooded animals that is usually fatal.

"The first is known as 'furious rabies,'" he pointed out. "These animals shake as dogs, cats and foxes to become very excited and vicious."

"During this phase the rabid animal wanders aimlessly and is prone to attack moving objects. This phase lasts three or four days and is followed by convulsions, paralysis and death."

The second form is "dumb rabies."

Here the animals become lethargic. Paralysis prevents swallowing and saliva drools from the mouth. Paralysis eventually effects the entire body and the animal dies.

Rabies is transmitted through the saliva of a rabid animal, usually by biting, but also through an open wound. The incubation period varies from two weeks to several months.

This long period of incubation permits effective vaccination of the person or pet that is bitten by a rabid animal.

Greene advises that anyone bitten by a suspected rabid animal should wash the wound with strong soap and water, consult a doctor as soon as possible and notify the nearest law enforcement agency so that the animal can be tested for the disease.

Having pets vaccinated each year is another safety precaution.

Driving has Changed

Back in the summer of 1916—when the Auto Club was founded—a motoring trip frequently was a pioneering adventure. Packed in with the family were plenty of tools and tires because a good motorist had to be prepared for anything.

Today the best preparation a motorist can have is his Auto Club Membership Card. He knows that his Club Membership will help him LEAD THE WAY to car-related motoring with Personalized Travel Planning, Round-the-Clock Road Service, Broad Personal Accident Insurance, Protective $5,000 Bail Bond.

Salmon Plant Ceremony Set

Two Locations Picked for First Stocking

Special fishplanting ceremonies are planned for two locations April 2 to mark the introduction of silver (Coho) salmon into Michigan waters.

The plantings will be made at the Platte River trout rearing station on the river, east of Honor in Benzie County, and at Big Eric's Bridge, east of Skaneateles on the Big Huron River in Benzie County.

The Platte and Big Huron Rivers are two of three streams selected to receive first plantings of about 250,000 salmon.

The fish, reared from eggs obtained from Oregon, also will be planted in Bear Creek, Manistee County.

It is hoped the young salmon will migrate downstream into lakes Michigan and Superior and return to the rivers to spawn.

Three dams on the Kalamazoo River have been tentatively offered to the State Conservation Department for $1 each. These are the Trowbridge, Otsego and Plainwell Dams.

A fourth dam on the Kalamazoo—the Allegan Dam in Allegan—probably will be sold to either the city or the Imperial Carving Co., which also has an interest in it.

NO PLANS

The company had no immediate plans for disposal of the LaPlage dam on the Thornapple River. It will probably go to some public agency.

There are also no commitments on the Lowell Dam on the Flat River.

The Newsgo Dam on the Muskegon River is being offered to the village of Newsgo, similarly the Union Street dam at Traverse City is being offered to Muskegon City.

There are no immediate plans now for disposal of the Elk Rapids Dam. A public agency purchaser would be preferred, however, since the dam controls the levels of Elk and Torch Lakes.

The Alverno Dam on the Black River is earmarked for Cheboygan County for $1.

The Cheboygan Dam at Cheboygan has been promised to the Waterways Commission.

The Union Street Dam at Allegan probably will go to Allegan.

Company policy, explained William Reid, Consumers Land supervisor, is to try to sell the dams into public domain.

That is so that such an agency as the State Public Service Commission, State Waterways Commission or a local municipality will take care of the dam and see that it is used for the public good.

If no interested public agency is found, however, the dams might go to a private bidder.

Three dams have been sold by Consumers to private individuals. They were interested mostly on the land involved and not so much the dams themselves.

Here is a rundown of the dams up for grabs.

Michigan Ranks 2nd in Outboard Motors

Michigan's use and sales of outboard motors placed second in the country to New York during 1965, reports the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers and the Outboard Boating Club of America.

An estimated 445,000 outboard motors were in use in this state last year, some 1,000 more than in 1964. Only the front-running eastern state had more—606,000.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Saginaw Field Stream was honored as Michigan's top conservation club during the National Wildlife Federation annual meeting which concluded here this week.

Paul Wendler, a member of the Saginaw club, and NWF representative, accepted the President's Citation for Outstanding Service in 1965 on behalf of his club, from Judge Louis McGreggor, NWF president.

Saginaw Field and Stream is one of the more than 70 organizations which make up Michigan Union Conservation Clubs. MUCC represents Michigan in the NWF.

Yank Describes Syrian Ordeal

Jailed for 22 Months After Crossing Border

NEW YORK (AP) — "They hit me a few times, but the bad thing was the mental toll and the quiet," said Edward Levy in describing 22 months of imprisonment in Syria.

The 25-year-old student and former West Point cadet was last week in Israel and returned to his New York home Tuesday night. He had been arrested in June 1964 when he wandered into Syria at Nar Ein Gey settlement on the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee.

"It was so depressing," Levy recalled of the prison life without letters or even conversation. "To hear Arabic every now and then but I couldn't understand what they were saying. The only things they would tell me got my hopes up. When they didn't materialize, that made it worse."

CROSSED FRONTIER

Levy, in a telephone interview, said he had gone across the Israeli frontier because he was broke and thought he could continue his vacation tour by hitchhiking from Syria to Turkey.

"I was at the crest of a hill near the border and decided to go over," he related. "All of a sudden there were soldiers from me and a machine gun nest behind. It was too late."

He Said the Syrians Suspected Him of Being an Israeli Spy

A prison guard who he believed to be Damascus Prison life, he said, followed a routine: occasional questioning, meals of rice, beans, potatoes and bread — and endless hours of just sitting in his cell.

HAD CELLMATE

"Sometimes they'd put an Arab in with me for a day, but we could never talk," he said. "The only time I heard anything I understood was when they were asking me if I was a spy."

Two letters he wrote to his parents never were received.

Levy's release was negotiated in exchange for a Syrian who had crossed into Israel a year ago.

"They didn't tell me anything," he said. "They just took me from the prison and brought me to some other place and then to the frontier."

Collect Books for Children in Malaysia

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — When Sandie Blakeslee arrived at the Tabut primary school in Malaysia as a Peace Corps teacher, she discovered there was nothing to teach with. We have no reference books, no library sources, not a single science book, no story books, nothing," Sandie wrote in a letter to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Blakeslee of Port Washington.

As a result of the letter, children at the Main Street, Merriman Port Washington Elementary School, on Long Island, Sandie's alma mater, have begun a books-across-the-sea program and are collecting discarded books from school and home to send to the children at the Tabut school.

Mary Weissman, the teacher in charge of the project, said "we hope to set up a miniature library, plus a miniature library to send to the children at Tabut."

"We are looking for books with a universal theme," she said. "Science books, especially those which are heavily illustrated, will be particularly valuable."

The Port Washington Home and School Association has agreed to pay the cost of shipping up to 200 pounds of books — about $40. Fathers from the association will crate the books for shipping. Mrs. Weissman said it probably will take about nine months for the books to reach Malaysia.

The children volunteered to send books as soon as they heard parts of Sandie's letter, read to them by the daughter of a friend of the Blakeslees, Mrs. Weissman said.

Illegally Took Benefits

FLINT (AP) — Mrs. Doris Marion Coon, 46, has pleaded guilty to illegally accepting more than $2,000 in survivor benefits from her husband's death in World War II after she had married a second time. Federal Court will pass sentence after a probation investigation.

Winds that blow across the world are called by many names: cyclone, typhoon, monsoon, tornado, sirocco, kiltorm, willow and cock-eyed bow.

Hospital Official Cleared of Charge

DETROIT (AP) — A charge against a second defendant in Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley's case against officials of a hospital group was thrown out of court Tuesday.

Lopez's Success Formula Eludes Critics and Self

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK—Trini Lopez, the once-upon-a-time little Mexican boy from Spanish Town in Dallas, now has such intellectuals as the Bennett Critics, the Jule Styne, the Soupy Saleses and the Tony Randalls, analyzing his style . . . and when they find out what he's doing right, he hopes they'll let him know.

He was the Charlie on a recent night and the following a.m. at the Basin St. E. . . the joint overflowed.

"His formula," said Jule Styne's wife Maggie, "is he sings pop to a rock beat. And he never waxes for applause."

Mr. Styne, introducing Trini, did just great, except that he forgot to mention Trini's name, which was all right, since Trini knew who he was anyway.

"If I could sing like that I'd give up 5% of my stock in Random House," Bennett Critics said. His wife Phyllis gave him a sharp economic look. "Make that 4%," he said.

Trini, now on the Best Dressed List, wore 8 black studs on his dress shirt, and a long-pointed collar held down by two white buttons.

Trini's enthralled that after Basting, he, Lee Marvin, Robert Ryan, Ernie Borgnine and others flit to Europe to make his first big movie, "Dirty Dozen," which'll probably mean that we won't see him any more except on big wide screens.

"TV Row" on 6th Av. in the 50s is distinguished now by the word "rock." NBC's at 30 Rockefeller Plaza which is always called "30 Rock." CBS because of its dark stone front is called "Black Rock." The new ABC building because of its color and the name of its president Leonard Goldenson, is called "Gold Rock." (A business, if you ask me, that is definitely on the rocks).

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "One of the troubles with adults today is that even though they don't believe in Santa Claus, they're sitting around waiting for him to come."
EARL'S PEARLS: The modern child thinks he's underprivileged if he has to play a guitar without electricity. Shelby Friedman.
Gayety Burlesque producers Leroy Griffith was advised by his doctor to relax. "For the next six months," the medic said, "I want you to forget everything — except what you owe me."
That's earl, brother.

Gleanings From Mailbag:

Teen Marriages Increasing

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Teen-age marriages are increasing, despite the fact that 50 per cent of them break up. About 14 out of every 100 teenage lads have said, "I do," and about half of all the brides wed this year will be under 20.

If you're taking your wife to Las Vegas, Nev., be sure she isn't wearing moccasins. Women in the shoe, a survey found, could play the slot machines for four hours, those in high heels were out in 2 1/2 hours.

Speaking of high-heeled shoes, King Louis XIV of France is credited with making them himself. The pint-sized monarch wore a red pad at court functions to make himself look more impressive.

Prosperity note: The federal government will spend about $3.3 billion for education in 1966, or 20 times the sum it expended 10 years ago.

STILL FLOURISH
Durable br'er rabbit: Although hunters kill them by the tens of millions each year, cottontail rabbits still flourish as America's No. 1 game animal. Most never last through their first winter, although rabbits have been known to live from seven to nine years. Their survival secret: One doe can have from 28 to 40 bunnies between spring and frost.

Quotable notables: "If you stop and think about it, you'll realize that three out of four people do not know exactly what they're doing a large part of the time" — Robert Burgess.

Safety tip: You are about 40 times less likely to be killed in a commercial airliner than in an automobile. The fatality rate per 100,000 passenger miles is 5.7 for private cars, only 0.14 for the airliners.

History lesson: Can you name the most dangerous and the safest months for U.S. presidents? Well, seven died in July; none so far has died in May.

Contact Lens Dangers Cited

U. S. Survey Points to Eye Damage Cases

By SCIENCE SERVICE
CHICAGO — Fourteen eyes had to be removed or were blinded and 157 eyes were permanently damaged within one year among approximately 50,000 contact lenswearers, a national survey has shown.

Infection was present in each of the 14 reported cases of eye loss or blindness, the American Association of Ophthalmology study reveals in the Journal of the American Medical Association (March 14).

There were also 7,007 "reversible" changes in patients' eyes among the 49,954 persons examined. These were changes from which patients recovered without permanent defects.

"The popularity of contact lenses has exceeded the public knowledge of potential hazards associated with their use," the organization's committee on contact lenses says.

Eye complications associated with contact lenses are more frequent among older persons and those with previous eye injuries or disease. Prolonged wearing or sleeping with the lenses on the cornea can cause trouble.

ABNORMAL CONDITION
As soon as any complications appear, the lenses should not be worn.

"The wearing of contact lenses is an abnormal condition which can result in serious medical complications," the report states, advising prompt medical diagnosis and treatment when trouble occurs.

"This survey and previously published clinical and laboratory studies suggest that the majority of patients wearing contact lenses have some degree of alteration of the ocular tissues, changes in the corneal metabolism, or other medical problems associated with their use."

Properly constructed lenses that fit correctly and cause a minimum of corneal changes are among the responsibilities of the ophthalmologist, the researchers state.

Drs. Joseph M. Dixon, Charles A. Young Jr., Joseph A. Baldone, C. Peter Halberg, Whitney Sampson and William Stone Jr. made the report with the assistance of eight other physicians who served on the committee on contact lenses.

Family Service's Annual Meeting Is Set March 24

Family Service of Oakland County will hold its annual meeting March 24, at 7 p.m. at Holiday Inn, 1801 S. Telegraph. Dr. Ralph D. Rabinovich will be the featured speaker.

Dr. Rabinovich is director of Hawthorn Center in Northville.

Hawthorn Center is a facility for treatment, training and research in child psychiatry under the Michigan Department of Mental Health.

For the past 20 years he has served as a consultant to social agencies and schools, and is considered one of the nation's top experts on child psychiatry.

Astronauts Chasing Agena Target

CAPE KENNEDY (AP) — Gemini 8 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and David R. Scott watched on a television monitor just outside the hatches of their Gemini 8 spacecraft.

They had climbed into the craft, perched on top of a Titan 2 rocket on another pad 6,000 feet away, 22 minutes before the Atlas engines burst into life.

As the Agena was drilled into a circular orbit, 185 miles out from earth, the two astronauts prepared to ride their own rocket aloft at 11:41 a.m.

"Very good! Very good!" Armstrong exclaimed as word was received in the Gemini spacecraft, the Atlas-Agena's perfect performance.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The two Soviet space dogs landed safely back on earth today after 23 days in orbit, unofficial but reliable sources said. An official announcement was expected shortly.

Then would begin a fantastic chase at 17,500 miles an hour.

If nothing went wrong, it would end 6½ hours later with the first linkup of spacecraft in orbit.

Tomorrow, Scott planned to drift out of his hatch and for nearly 2½ hours fly as a human satellite—a world record for exposure of a man to the space void.

The Atlas, veteran of many U.S. space shots, bathed its pad in a fountain of red-orange flame as its three main engines ignited and hoisted the silvery projectile.

As the rocket penetrated the cold air of the upper atmosphere, a long white vapor trail spewed out behind.

A bright puff of smoke high in the sky two minutes, 11 seconds after launch marked the separation of the two booster engines from the rocket.

The rocket continued under the power of its main sustainer engine.

Three minutes, 20 seconds into the flight, the control center reported that after a slight deviation in course, the rocket guidance system put it back on its precise path.

The sustainer engine shut down at four minutes and 40 seconds into the flight.

SEPARATION

Then came separation of the Agena from its booster engines.

The Agena's primary propulsion system — which failed in a previous Gemini flight last year — took over and hurled the Agena on toward orbit.

Last Oct. 25, in a similar attempt to link two spacecraft, the Agena exploded in flight and the Gemini 6 launch was scrubbed.

The Gemini 6 astronauts later rendezvoused with the pilots of the Gemini 7 spacecraft.

10 HOURS OF SLEEP

Command pilot Armstrong and pilot Scott turned in for 10 hours of sleep yesterday while technicians solved three late-developing problems in the Gemini vehicle which threatened the launch.

The troubles — in a communications link, a fuel cell power system, and a jet thruster — caused a 90-minute holdup in fueling but did not delay the countdown.

Armstrong, 35, a civilian, and Scott, 33, an Air Force major, were, in the words of a space agency spokesman, "ready to charge" into their historic flight.

Given a perfect flight, Gemini 8 will pursue the target over a 105,000-mile course for a rendezvous after a chase of 5½ hours.

HISTORIC DOCKING
The historic docking of the two vehicles was scheduled an hour later.

If successful, it will be the first time two objects have been hitched together in space and the United States will clear a significant hurdle on the path to the moon.

Both the United States and the Soviet Union must perfect the docking technique before committing men to lunar voyages.

Gemini 8 will fly the identical path that Gemini 9 did in moving to within one foot of Gemini 7 during the historic December rendezvous of two manned spacecrafts.

When Gemini 8 catches the Agena, it initially will pull out 3,000 feet, in front of it and turn about to face it.

City Approves Workable Plan

Seeks Recertification by Federal Agency

By L. GARY THORNE

In quick fashion last night, the city's 1966 workable program for community improvement was presented and approved for submission to federal authorities.

The bulky document now goes to Housing and Urban Development (HUD) officials for recertification.

Improved significantly by two important decisions made within the last three weeks, the workable program offers an optimistic review of the city's progress last year.

Despite optimism, however, city officials have indicated they anticipate some difficulty in obtaining recertification.

Some critics of the workable program have urged HUD officials to investigate closely the city's compliance with last year's program.

NEGRO HOUSING
Meantime, the Michigan Civil Rights Commission is investigating allegations concerning the reported lack of city action to provide housing for Negroes.

Prospects for recertification are improved by a recent City Commission decision to build public housing for senior citizens and the proposed study of minority group housing needs.

Action on the senior citizen housing is in line with advice last year by federal officials that the problem be studied.

Also, hopes of recertification are improved by the appointment Feb. 24 of a subcommittee of the Citizens Improvement Advisory Committee (CIAC) to study minority group housing. Creation of the subcommittee was disclosed for the first time last night.

AGENA BLAST-OFF — Trailing a trail of fire, the Atlas Agena rocket leaves the pad at Cape Kennedy today. Later, Gemini 8 astronauts will attempt rendezvous and docking with the orbiting Agena stage.

2 Killed, 26 Injured as 600 Riot in Watts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An estimated 600 Negroes rampaging for six hours, stormed violently through Watts—the south Los Angeles area that still shows scars of last August's bloody riots—leaving two dead and 26 injured.

Killed during the height of the outbreak were a truck driver, beaten by the mob and shot; and a Negro who walked out of a building into a sniper's fire, police said.

A massive force of several hundred police moved in quickly to quell the outbreak.

Officers armed with shot-guns sealed off a 36-square-block section in predominantly Negro district late yesterday afternoon, then swept through to clear the streets of mobs firing guns, hurling bottles, looting stores and upsetting cars.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown flew to Los Angeles, decided against calling out the alerted National Guard and guardedly announced: "Everything is well under control for the time being."

Two Features to Watch For

A glance at our editor's assignment book reveals The Pontiac Press has another impressive edition on tap for tomorrow.

He'll have members of his staff make a pictorial report of tonight's important social event, the Avon Players' benefit performance of "Annie Get Your Gun" in Rochester. He will also feature a story on a construction "first" scored in building a Farmington Township school.

Our editor wants The Press readers to be impressed — and they are.

Mild Weather Due for St. Pat's Day

The weatherman reports St. Patrick's Day will dawn partly cloudy but temperatures will be warmer, the highs aiming for 52 to 60.

Partly cloudy and a low of 28 to 35 is tonight's forecast.

And here's more good news — partly cloudy and mild is the outlook for Friday.

Morning easterly winds at 10 to 16 miles per hour will continue tonight.

A sunny 24 was the low in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The mercury had crept up to 44 by 1 p.m.

SPECIAL SCHOOLGIRL — Bonnie Britton will be cutting classes at North Farmington High School for seven days. To find out why, see page A-5.

Farmington Twp. Cityhood Vote June 6

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors today authorized a June 6 special election on the incorporation of Farmington Township as a home rule city.

The boundaries committee of the board of supervisors recommended the election date two weeks ago after ruling that petitions for the election were sufficient.

Proponents of the incorporation move were motivated by the fear of annexation which would cost the township its potential industrial tax base.

An opposition group headed by attorney Wendell Brown is actively campaigning against the incorporation.

Most of the 50 members of Brown's organization live in the villages of Quakertown and Wood Creek Farms. Both are included in the incorporation proposal.

Dems Expect Senate Battle

By GENE SCHROEDER
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT — The curtain appeared about to go up today on a primary election battle that could split Michigan's Democratic party wide open.

The political donnybrook would match G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams, 55, former six-term governor, with Jerome Cavanagh, 37, two-time Detroit mayor who was just reelected to a four-year term last November, in a fight for the U.S. Senate nomination.

Williams, who has been assistant secretary of state for African affairs for the past five years, already has announced his candidacy for the seat to be left vacant by the retirement of Sen. Patrick McNamara.

Cavanagh, one of the brightest stars on the Democratic political horizon, reportedly has made up his mind to tackle Williams—despite pleas by some party leaders that he stay out of the race.

The young mayor refused to comment on published reports in Detroit's two daily newspapers that he definitely will run in the Aug. 2 primary.

He said he would announce his decision formally at a news conference Saturday.

SOAPY MUM
In Washington, Williams also declined comment prior to any announcement.

Some observers believed the Cavanagh camp may be floating a trial balloon to see what reaction the front page headlines would stir up the next four days.

If the response from Democratic leaders is too violent, he might change his mind and decide not to run.

Many Democrats had urged Cavanagh to enter the race for governor—rather than senator—and try to unseat Republican George Romney, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination.

THUMBS DOWN
But Cavanagh turned thumbs down on this proposal two weeks ago, apparently feeling that Romney would be virtually impossible to upset.

During his first four years in the nonpartisan mayor's office, Cavanagh gained national attention as a strong man in a strong mayor form of government.

Major Crimes Soar in City

30 Pct. Rise in Index Significant—Hanger

Increases in auto theft, burglary and aggravated assault are pushing what Police Chief William K. Hanger calls a "significant" rise in reported major crime in Pontiac.

Figures released through the department today show the city's "crime index" of seven major offenses up 30.6 per cent over the first two months of 1965.

Assaults through Feb. 28 are up 44 per cent, burglaries 27.3 per cent, and auto thefts have nearly tripled, jumping 172.2 per cent.

In addition, larceny of goods valued over $50 increased 18.8 per cent.

Offsetting the rise in six of the seven categories was a sharp drop in reported armed robberies, with only 10 reported so far this year compared to 24 in a similar period in 1965.

Oxford Sewer Problem Top Issue Again

By JANICE KLOUSER

OXFORD — Two years ago, village residents turned thumbs down in a straw vote on a proposed sewer system and the matter was dropped.

Now they are squarely up against the problem again.

Downtown Oxford Remains Fire-Scarred While Officials Battle With Sewer Problem

The County Health Department says they must have an adequate sanitary sewage disposal system before they can rebuild. Up until the fire they had been using basement cesspools.

Two of the men, David Parrish and John Cowe, are going to appeal to the County Board of Supervisors Health Committee tomorrow for permission to rebuild with the present system.

But what happens if this permission is denied?

"It takes two years to put in a sewer system," said Village Manager Robert Smalley, "and conceivably these vacant buildings could just sit there that long."

"It's not fair to them and it's not fair to us because this is a prime business area."

He said the present disposal methods have proved adequate until now and would probably continue to do so if there were no radical change in the amount of water used each month.

ADAPTED FOR BUSINESS
For instance, Dave Parrish uses about 600 gallons of water a month in his insurance office," he said, "and the present system is adequate to take care of this."

"But what if he rented to a beauty shop, for example, which uses a lot more water. Would the system be adequate then?"

When the matter was first brought up in 1964, villagers were told they were lucky not to have had any serious outbreaks of typhoid, hepatitis and dysentery.

Passing British Driver's Test No Snap

(EDITOR'S NOTE—In Britain a man has failed his 17th attempt to pass the test for a driver's license and a woman has been trying to get a license for 27 years. Many others have flunked too, raising the question of why the test proves to be so difficult. The following is written by one who tried and failed, only to try again.)

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
LONDON (UPI) — I have in my hand a red-jacketed license with the seal of her majesty's government entitling me to drive "heavy locomotives, light locomotives, motor bikes, vehicles propelled by electrical power and motors."

I — and many other inhabitants of these sceptered isles — had to sweat blood to get that license.

I didn't want to drive mopeds or locomotives but just wanted to continue to drive an ordinary motorcar as I been doing without great trouble for 25 years in Brooklyn, New York, and other places such as Moscow, Paris, Rome, Istanbul and Baghdad.

It was not the bother of driving on the "wrong" side of the road—traffic here moves on the left. That's simple after you get the hang of it.

I failed my first British driving test simply because I didn't "drive the British way." These examiners, my friends, are tough.

FAMOUS LEARNER DRIVER
Take the case of Mrs. Margaret Hunter, probably the world's most famous learner-driver.

This 67-year-old retired schoolteacher had her first driving lesson 27 years ago and is still trying to pass the test.

You probably first heard about her back in 1922 when one of her instructors abandoned her in the car in the street with the cry: "This is suicide."

Miss Hunter's last try at driving in England was a secret side trip to the Republic of Ireland where she wrangled a license.

RAMMED TREE
She returned proudly to England last year to drive — right into a tree.

Then there's plucky Arthur

Ries, 65, a retired machine operator who last month failed his 17th test.

My supreme confidence after years of driving—including in England—was shaken by the waiting list for tests—up to five months in the London area.

Next, was the disturbing statistic that up to 40 per cent of those taking the test for the first time failed.

FIRST TEST
I took my test in the London suburb of Bromleigh where, spies told me, the inspectors were aged, failing of sight and pro-American.

My inspector turned out to be a vigorous, very British type, who could read a license plate (and the rule book) at five miles on a foggy night.

I thought I did fine on the practical test, keeping my American mouth shut, and executing I thought—flawless turns on terrifying test hills, parking, backing up, signalling.

I whipped off, after we came back outside the test headquarters, a half dozen crisp answers to as many questions on how long it took to stop a car traveling 30 miles an hour (the answer is 75 feet).

FAILED

"You failed," said the instructor. And to my question of why, he said, "You don't steer the British way, old chap."

He advised me to take British driving lessons from British school of motoring in a British car. Or, use the underground—subway.

I like driving, so I started all over at school again.

It was worth it because I got rid of several nasty driving habits and picked up some genuine good tips along the way.

PASSED

On the second time around, I made sure I would get the same inspector—we Americans have pride too—even though it meant waiting an extra week.

I passed, steering British all the way.

How do you steer British?
Simple.

Don't ever cross hands while turning, or end up with carry, the right hand at 12 o'clock on the wheel and the left at 6 o'clock — it leaves you in an awkward and potentially dangerous driving attitude.

The British way is to "thread" the wheel — keeping the hands always at a roughly 10 minutes to 2 p.m. position by using one hand to guide and the other opening and closing to steady the wheel.

I haven't tried it on locomotives yet.

Drivers have to be well-trained and disciplined in Britain which has the highest density of road traffic in the world. At the end of 1964, there were about 8 1/2 million cars and about 1 1/4 million motorcycles and a motor scooter officially registered of a population of 54 million.

The fatal accident rate in Britain is better than most other European countries but slightly worse than in the United States and Canada.

But although volume of traffic has at least tripled in Britain since 1946, road accident casualties only doubled.

In 1964, according to official statistics, 7,620 persons were killed on British roads and over 377,000 injured.

North Farmington's Bonnie Britton

By PAT McCARTY
Go, Bonnie, GO!
The sentiment is expressed in two-foot letters on one of the banners currently decorating North Farmington High School corridors.

In high school fashion, it wraps up the feelings of a host of well-wishers as Bonnie Britton prepares to represent Michigan at the Junior Miss America Pageant in Mobile, Ala.

Bonnie, now wearing the Junior Miss Michigan crown, will seek the national title in a week-long contest to be culminated March 26.

If she is successful, she will have followed one step farther in the path of the 1965 Junior Miss America, Patrice Gaunder of Stevensville, Mich.

TAFFY BLONDE

A 5-foot-4 taffy blonde with rosy cheeks, Bonnie has blue-green eyes with a twinkle of hazel.

Next week she will compete for top ratings in the categories established by the Jaycees for picking the national Junior Miss—scholastic achievement, character, youth fitness, poise, personality and creative ability.

Bonnie will fly to Chicago tomorrow to meet other contestants from the northwest United States. The group will continue on to Mobile from there Friday.

REPRESENT JAYCEES
The two couples represent the Pontiac Jaycees, who sponsor the state contest.

For the talent portion of the competition, Bonnie has planned a bilingual rendition of "Girl from Ipanema."

The 17-year-old high school senior, who spent last summer in Brazil under the auspices of the American Field Service, will sing the song in both English and Portuguese.

Helping her prepare the number are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Britton of 34234 Northwick, Farmington Township.

Both former Broadway performers, Bonnie's parents have encouraged her in her aspirations to a theatrical career.

Now an account supervisor for Wilding, Inc., in Detroit, Britton played the male lead of Emile de Beque in the Broadway production of "South Pacific" for 2½ years.

Bonnie says she decided to become an actress "when I was about 3, sitting in my father's dressing room backstage at 'South Pacific'."

After performing in "George Washington Slept Here" for the Farmington Players last month, Bonnie went into rehearsal for the school musical in which she has the lead, portraying Anna in "The King and I."

EYES U. OF M.
She plans to attend the University of Michigan to major in dramatic arts and minor in psychology.

While carrying a 3.5 grade average, Bonnie is active in various clubs and has performed in school productions as a ever, is that contest next week.

It might be noted that her North Farmington High School classmates last fall voted Bonnie the girl most likely to succeed.

Town Hall's Board Is Looking Ahead to 1966-67 Series

Dr. Norman V. Peale

With the closing of the 1965-66 season of Pontiac Oakland Town Hall last week, the board of directors is completing plans for the 1966-67 series.

BENEFITS EDUCATION

Profits from this all-volunteer organization are devoted to promoting and encouraging educational and cultural activities in Pontiac and Oakland County. One third is given to the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra and the other two-thirds to different projects and scholarships.

Since 1959, the group has given the symphony over $8,000 and other organizations $6,000.

Norman Vincent Peale will be the first speaker next fall on Oct. 5. He will speak on "Creative Thinking and Creative Results" at the Huron Theater where all the lectures are given. Time is 10:30 a.m. with a celebrity luncheon at Devon Gables following.

In November, Beverly Younger will present original character sketches. A stage actress,

Ask Sister or Friend as Attendant?

Bride-Elect Is Confused

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am going to be married this summer and I have asked my roommate to be my maid of honor. (I am away at college.) She isn't a "new" friend, Abby, we have gone all thru school together.

I wrote my sister, who is 2 years younger than I am, asking her to be a bridesmaid. Here is a part of a letter I just received from my mother: (Quote.)

"Marilyn, I am not going to say anything about your choice of maid of honor, except this: Your sister is very hurt and I don't blame her. You will have many friends in your life, but only one sister. Think it over." (End of quote.)

Now I am really in a fix. How can I explain to my friend that she can't be my maid of honor after she already accepted?

I really WANT her to be it, but I'm afraid if I don't have my sister it will cause permanent hard feelings in my family, and I don't want that either. Can you help me make a choice?

IN A FIX

DEAR IN: You know your family better than I do; so if you fear that "permanent hard feelings" will result should you choose your friend for maid of honor, ask your sister.

Explain your predicament to your friend. She will probably be much more understanding than your sister.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know why that wife is making such a big thing over washing her husband's back. Every man likes to be spoiled a little. Take mine. I serve him martinis while I give him a haircut. EUNICE

PEO Unit Elects New President

Mrs. J. Waldron Keasey was elected president of chapter CL, PEO Sisterhood, Monday afternoon. Hostess for the luncheon meeting was Mrs. R. L. Justice of Farmington; she was assisted by Mrs. William Irons and Mrs. Paul Thams.

Mrs. Thams was named vice president and a delegate to the state convention in April. Elda Sutter, the second delegate, was elected chaplain of the chapter.

Other officers for the coming year are Mrs. R. B. Fell, and Mrs. L. G. Rowley, secretaries; Mrs. Justice, treasurer; and Mrs. J. E. Williams, guard.

Mrs. Williams and Mrs. B. M. Mitchell are alternate delegates.

Phosphorescent Fashions Get Glowing Report

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK — Women who like to be first in what's new are clamoring for garments that can have them radiating like glowworms when the lights go out.

And very soon at the races jockeys in the pitch of night will be streaking around their courses on horses in harnesses lit up like Times Square.

The new fashion brilliance of people and horses has nothing to do with that invention Edison once lost so much sleep over.

COMARK VINYL

Comark vinyl, a glossy plastic material which recently won several awards for its glowing technical achievement, is suddenly finding its way to all sorts of dark places.

At Roberto Capucci's collection in Paris last month, the blacked-out finale was a spectacle of disembodied females in costumes made of the glowing plastic.

American coat, suit, hat, shoe and skiwear manufacturers have been pioneering these garments that will eventually let a girl look like a candle burning at night.

Some advocates tout the safety factors of these garments. A woman so dressed can shed her own light down darkened stairwells. In luminous shoes her toes have more than a fighting chance with clumsy dancing partners.

There are other advantages. A woman can always find such a coat in a dark closet. And her escort can always find her.

THEY'RE DIFFERENT

Phosphorescence should not be confused with fluorescence, a dye treatment for theatrical costumes which glow when spotlights are trained on them.

Because of their safety value, policemen have been wearing orange or yellow raincoats that shine when headlights are trained on them.

Also because they are easily seen, coats and jackets made of fabrics with this color property are now popular for children, hunters, and skiers.

Glow, little glowworm... Latest thing in the fashion world is a coat that glows in the dark. It's made of a phosphorescent plastic that stores light and then glows in darkness. The model made a kerchief of the material and put some on her glasses and fingertips. The picture was made by time exposure in a completely dark room.

Rules Are Changed for Wedding News

Starting on April first, new rules regarding engagement and wedding news will go into effect.

If pictures are desired for both occasions, there must be FOUR months between them. Girls announcing their engagements in April may not have both engagement and wedding pictures, if they are married before August.

No engagements are announced less than a month before the wedding date.

WEDDING PICTURES

While The Press prefers to receive wedding stories and pictures before the event, pictures will be accepted not later than two days after the ceremony (that is, Tuesday for Saturday weddings).

For out-of-town weddings, this deadline is extended. The Pontiac Press makes no promise to use every picture submitted but some printed mention of the event will be made.

NO CHARGE

There is no charge for editorial space, but it cannot be reserved. No promises can be made regarding size of picture nor its position.

All pictures are kept for two months, then discarded. They may be called for any time after publication.

Well Suited for Coming Spring Season

Young refined look of Dior in a coat and dress ensemble of pure wool tole. The three-quarter redingote with very low slashed pockets and paneled back, opens on a shift dress with a pleated hem.

Designed to lead an exciting contemporary life Chanel inspired both mood and line of this costume combining tweed and satin. The jacket's detachable satin collar is matched to a sashed surplice overblouse. Skirt, intriguingly shaped with a side panel. By Handmacher.

There's something romantic about a cape. Something to bring out your sense of drama... make you a heroine of every scene. Handmacher makes this one very "Spring '66" with a double-breasted closing and contrasting rimming of faille. It's all part of a three-piece costume in fine wool worsted. The matching jacket beneath is lightly fitted, sleeveless, belted, and terribly chic.

Take spring on the wing in a costume parading buttons down the jacket front and on to the swinging panel pleated skirt. The line is long and lovely—the look fresh as flowers. Handmacher gives it master tailoring and a coordinating blouse with a softly couled neckline.

Exactly this sort of perfection leads women to say that nobody surpasses Handmacher in the shaping of a suit! This one, doubly nice in double-knit, is a three-piece costume. Under its elongated double-breasted jacket is a matching sleeveless overblouse.

The elegant look of the cardigan suit by Dior. In navy and white pure wool jacquard, the short jacket has a soft bow at the neck, and skirt has two slit pockets repeating those of the jacket. Monks cap is in matching fabric.
