U.S. Obliged to Defend Viet—Rusk

Empire Builder of GM Is Dead

NEW YORK (AP)—In his 90 years Alfred P. Sloan Jr. saw the automobile develop from a novelty to the industrial backbone of the nation. He was among the men who made it happen.

He took the moderately successful General Motors Corp., in 1920, made it function smoother than the ball bearings he once sold, and wrought the mightiest manufacturing enterprise the world has known.

ALFRED P. SLOAN JR.

When Sloan stepped down as chairman in 1956, General Motors' share of the automobile market was 52 per cent.

Sloan, who remained as honorary chairman, had been in excellent health until Tuesday, when he complained of indigestion.

He was taken the next day to Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, a hospital his philanthropy had established.

He died at the hospital at 2:35 p.m. yesterday.

PRAISED BY FORD

Henry Ford II, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., said in Detroit that Sloan was "one of the small handful of men who actually made automotive history."

James M. Roche, president of General Motors, said, "The concepts of management which he initiated will endure."

In a joint statement with Frederick D. Donner, chairman of the board, he added: "His contributions to science and education and those of the foundation that bears his name were matched only by his accomplishments in business and industry."

★ ★ ★

He set up the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation in 1936 and since then he and his wife, Irene, have donated $305 million to it.

CANCER RESEARCH

One of its first major recipients was the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research in New York, set up jointly with Charles F. Kettering.

Kettering had been a close friend of Sloan's and had been director of the General Motors Research Laboratory.

Sloan was born in New Haven, Conn., on May 23, 1875. At the age of 17 he enrolled in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and graduated in three years. Later, he became MIT's chief benefactor.

It was the automobile business that made him a millionaire.

BALL BEARINGS

He got the manufacturers to use ball bearings instead of greased wagon axles. Within a few years General Motors was his biggest customer.

Later, when General Motors acquired the Hyatt Roller Bearing Co., Sloan came along with it and quickly moved into the hierarchy of the company.

In 1923 he succeeded Pierre S. du Pont as president of General Motors.

Within the next six years net sales soared from $698 million to $1.5 billion and GM's Chevrolet Division replaced Ford as the leader in the low-price field.

A funeral service will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Christ Church Methodist. Burial will be in St. John's Cemetery, Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island.

GIVES TESTIMONY—Secretary of State Dean Rusk (center background at table) speaks today to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He answered critics of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

Senate Quiz Reminded of '54 Treaty Vote

Says Downgrading of SEATO Accord Would Weaken Other Pacts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today the Southeast Asia Treaty obliges the United States to defend South Viet Nam — and "if we as a nation decide that one of our alliances is not very important," it will undermine the others.

Rusk reminded the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that it voted with only one dissenter for ratification of the 1954 treaty.

Since World War II, Rusk said, the United States has joined in a series of alliances, created in direct response to Communist pressures.

And, he said, they have stabilized the world scene.

"But I'm very much concerned," Rusk said, "that if we as a nation decide that one of our alliances is not very important, that this will have a fundamental effect on the strength and the solidarity and the usefulness of other alliances."

PROMPT CHALLENGE

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., promptly challenged the administration position, and said in his view the Southeast Asia pact is not a basis for the U.S. role in Viet Nam.

"There must be a political settlement in Southeast Asia," said Morse, a constant critic of the American position in Viet Nam. "There's also going to have to be a political settlement in the United States."

"In my opinion now, the American people are going to have to decide this issue," Morse said.

★ ★ ★

Rusk said the SEATO treaty won lopsided backing in the Committee and in the Senate.

Project Plans Elate Mayor

"Everybody must understand that negotiations with the Taubmans on the proposed urban development of downtown Pontiac are not completed," said Mayor William H. Taylor to The Pontiac Press from Palm Springs this morning, "but we are very enthusiastic at the prospects and feel this might be the biggest thing that has happened here since the Pontiac car replaced the Oakland.

TAYLOR

"We have entered into discussions with eight different organizations over the last two years," he declared, "but this is far and away the largest conception and embraces more than twice as many square feet as any of the others.

"The current plan was proposed late last summer and city officials were very enthusiastic, but the Taubmans wanted no mention made until they had completed a huge survey.

"They aren't finished yet, but A. Alfred Taubman was sufficiently satisfied to authorize the tentative announcement that appeared in The Press."

★ ★ ★

Unofficial sources suggest the final decision can be expected in a relatively short space of time. Within the last three weeks the city liaison committee has held meetings with two other promising organizations, with proposals on smaller scales.

★ ★ ★

Backs Griffin

VanderJagt Out of GOP Senate Race

LANSING (AP) — State Sen. Guy VanderJagt pulled out of the Republican U.S. Senate nomination race today.

He threw his support behind U.S. Rep. Robert Griffin and announced for Griffin's Ninth District House seat.

VanderJagt had been reported planning the move yesterday.

He conferred by telephone with Wayne County leaders who had helped his earlier Senate candidacy and obtained their consent to withdraw.

★ ★ ★

He said his name will still be on the ballot tomorrow when Republican leaders meet to pick a party - preferred Senate candidate, but "I am releasing all commitments to me and urge all Republicans to support Mr. Griffin."

★ ★ ★

VanderJagt said he began thinking of withdrawal Tuesday, when it became evident there would be a deadlock among him, Griffin and Michigan State University Prof. Leroy Augenstein.

VanderJagt, a Senate freshman from Cadillac, said he consulted with Gov. George Romney and GOP State Chairman Elly Peterson and was told "the decision must be mine to make," and they made no effort to influence me.

He said that since becoming one of the three finalists Feb. 5, developments "have persuaded me that my continued candidacy ... would hinder, not help, Republican chances for victory in November."

Yesterday he acknowledged that Ninth District leaders were urging him to drop back into the race for the seat held by Griffin, a five-termer from Traverse City.

OTHER INDICATIONS

There also were indications Augenstein might not force a primary election fight if Republican leaders unify tomorrow behind one candidate.

Even before the VanderJagt development, Griffin was claiming support from more than 50 per cent of the Republican leaders who will meet in Lansing.

Romney has declared that one man must receive at least 75 per cent of the leaders' votes to be considered a party-preferred candidate.

Nearly 300 county, district and state officials are eligible to vote but State Chairman Elly Peterson said she expected only 150 to attend.

★ ★ ★

Augenstein, who claims 35 per cent support, said yesterday the decision should go to a primary election.

Clay to Fight Draft Status

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay's attorney said today Clay will appeal his 1A draft reclassification and it was improbable the fighter would be inducted before his scheduled March 29 title bout here with Ernie Terrell.

★ ★ ★

Ben Bentley, copromoter of the fight in Chicago's International Amphitheatre, said he was informed by Edward W. Jacko Jr., of New York, Clay's attorney, that Clay "definitely will appeal the reclassification as soon as he receives official notification of that action."

Announce 8 Russians Killed in Red Jet Crash

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet authorities announced today that eight Soviet passengers died when an African-bound TU114 airliner crashed on takeoff yesterday because it ran into a "strong gust of wet snow."

Earlier unofficial reports said as many as 50 persons may have died when the giant four-engined turbo-prop airliner crashed and burned while taking off from Moscow's Sheremetievo's Airport.

Weather Delights Skiers

Ski enthusiasts should be glad to know that slope conditions are due to improve this weekend.

The weatherman promises about 2 to 4 inches of new snow today with colder temperatures tonight. A low of 5 below to 6 above is predicted for the area.

Tomorrow will be partly cloudy and colder with a chance of snow flurries. The high expected is from 8 to 15.

Sunday will have light snow or flurries and quite cold temperatures.

One-half inch of snow was recorded in downtown Pontiac yesterday.

The low mercury reading preceding 8 a.m. today was 12. The thermometer registered 16 at 2 p.m.

Oxford Sewer Decision Is 'No Surprise'

Oxford Village Manager Robert S. Smalley said today he is not surprised at the Oakland County Health Department's refusal Wednesday to approve the rebuilding of five downtown business places until an adequate sewage disposal system is installed.

He said he has been in conversation with Health Department officials since the $250,000 fire which destroyed or badly damaged the five buildings containing seven businesses.

The problem will come before the Village Council Tuesday night, Smalley said.

"It's unfortunate," he said, "because we can't issue a building permit until we see a permit from the county."

County Health Director Dr. Bernard D. Berman told members of the health committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors Wednesday that all seven businesses used a basement cesspool for sewage disposal. He said a better sewage disposal program must be devised.

Dr. Berman indicated that a sanitary sewer system was the solution. Smalley noted that a preliminary plan for sanitary sewers was shelved about three years ago after an advisory vote indicated that residents opposed it.

"This could be a real tragedy," said Smalley, "because this is some of the prime business area in town."

OU Runs Library by Numbers

Michigan's first fully automated, computerized library circulation system went into operation yesterday in Oakland University's Kresge Library, according to Floyd Cammack, librarian.

Through the use of punched and programmed student identification badges and book cards, the system notes who borrows a particular book, the address of the borrower, and when the book is to be returned.

Once a week an IBM computer searches through the records of all books out on loan and selects those cards which correspond to overdue items.

Then it automatically addresses overdue notification post cards to the delinquent borrowers, noting on the cards when the books were to have been returned.

All of this is accomplished without requiring more than a few minutes of human effort.

The old system required every borrower to fill out multiple forms. If a borrower were taking out 10 books, a not uncommon occurrence in a college library, he might well have had to spend a full 10 minutes filling out circulation cards.

In addition, before the automated system, it was almost impossible to keep up-to-date records on which books were getting the heaviest use, which books need to be reordered and which areas of interest had the greatest circulation rate.

Cammack said the automated system "affords us an unprecedented opportunity to determine the types and extent of library use."

He added that the system, designed by assistant director of the Oakland computer center Donald Mann, is "probably the most up-to-date in the country. It's the only one I know of to handle short-term book loans as well as the regular items."

The latter feat is accomplished by means of a built-in clock. It records the exact time an item on one hour reserve, for instance, is taken out and must be returned.

Cammack, an authority on linguistics as well as library administration, claims that the system is "virtually error-free . . . it even 'socks' delinquent borrowers with the appropriate fine."

Bill Proposed to Alter State Divorce Laws

LANSING (AP) — Michigan would have new child custody and divorce laws — with no alimony — and a new department to administer them under a proposal introduced yesterday by two House Democrats.

★ ★ ★

The six directors of the proposed Department of Family Relations would receive the same pay as State Supreme Court justices, currently $25,500, and would have to have at least masters' degrees.

The proposal, sponsored by Reps. Charles Gray of Ypsilanti and David Holmes of Detroit, would give the department exclusive jurisdiction over divorce, annulment and separate maintenance.

The department also would establish programs in premarital training, try to reconcile troubled marriages, aid children and review existing marriage laws and recommended needed changes.

★ ★ ★

The bill also provides that there shall be no finding of guilt or innocence of either party and no alimony shall be allowed.

Claim Gaming House Operation; 18 Guilty

By PAT McCARTY

Oakland County sheriff's officers arrested 17 men and two women in a gambling raid on an Orion Township house early this morning.

★ ★ ★

Robert J. Breen, 27, who allegedly was using his rented house at 2465 Baldwin for poker games and prostitution, is being held for further questioning in the Oakland County Jail.

The 18 others captured in the 3:45 a.m. raid were charged with being disorderly persons loitering in a house of ill fame.

All pleaded guilty at their arraignments before Orion Township Justice of the Peace Helmar Stanaback.

OTHER CHARGES

Timothy E. Dinan, one of two Oakland County assistant prosecutors who accompanied the 13 sheriff's officers on the raid, said another half dozen charges were being considered for Breen.

The deputies were led by Sheriff Frank W. Irons and Capt. Leo Hazen.

Breen also has been accused of accepting money from the earnings of prostitutes and of

Plan Is Offered to Aid Pontiac

Retail Development Urged for Downtown

Offering a new concept for the development of central business districts, a Waterford Township man yesterday unveiled a plan for downtown Pontiac.

Gray Graham, 4138 Rich, presented a retail development plan to approximately 60 members of the Pontiac Optimist Club.

★ ★ ★

He said the total cost of the retail complex would be about $18.5 million and that he already has financing for $15 million.

In a color slide presentation, Graham proposed a retail complex with attached parking, high rise apartments, sports arena, motel-hotel facilities and office buildings.

Graham's plan to develop the city's urban renewal area would be keyed to a new retail complex he calls "spira-mart."

★ ★ ★

The four-level building, constructed on a two-degree incline that forms a rectangular spiral, now is planned to accommodate the small, independent merchant, said Graham.

700,000 SQUARE FEET

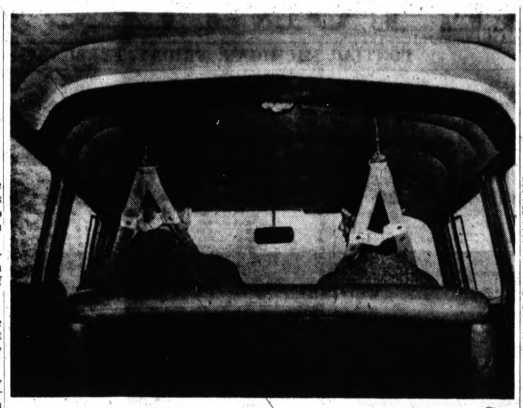

He estimated there would be 700,000 square feet in the "spira-mart" itself, which he plans for the west side of Saginaw at Orchard Lake.

A sports arena is proposed for land east of the Pontiac School Board building. The arena would be connected by covered walkways to proposed indoor parking, topped with apartments.

Graham also proposed redevelopment of retail businesses located north of Huron, and similar development of an area between Huron and Pike into a financial district with the addition of office buildings.

★ ★ ★

The head of Graham & Associates, the Waterford Township man is expected to present a preliminary proposal to the city on his redevelopment plan.

Suit Called Vote Stall in Farmington Twp.

Farmington Township Attorney Joseph T. Brennan charged yesterday that the sole purpose of a recent lawsuit by an opponent of the township's incorporation as a city was to stall an election.

Brennan made the comment during a public hearing before the boundaries committee of the County Board of Supervisors.

The committee deferred action on recommending an election date pending a report from Corporation Counsel Robert P. Allen on legal restrictions concerning when an election can be held.

Thomas Tiley, chairman of the boundaries committee, said his committee would probably meet early in March so a recommendation can be submitted to the full board of supervisors March 16.

★ ★ ★

Brennan, one of the leaders in the incorporation drive, referred to a suit filed Feb. 4 by Conrad Braseth of 21217 Waldron.

CHALLENGES VALIDITY

The suit challenges the validity of petitions circulated for the incorporation.

Brennan said that petitions contained 385 valid signatures when only 267 were required based on 1 per cent of the township's 26,700 population in the 1960 census.

He said that the burden is on the objector to raise a specific objection and prove it.

★ ★ ★

Wendell Brown, attorney for Braseth, said at the hearing that he questioned the legality of petitions notarized by Brennan and some of the township's elected officials.

★ ★ ★

Brown said he was hopeful that the election can be set far enough in the future to allow completion of the trial on the lawsuit.

Rabbi Adler 'Still Critical'

DETROIT (AP)—Sinai Hospital doctors report that Rabbi Morris Adler, 59, remains in critical condition from a gunshot wound suffered last Saturday when he was cut down during Sabbath services at Shaarey Zedek synagogue in suburban Southfield.

The hospital issued a bulletin saying the rabbi's condition "remains essentially unchanged—in coma and still critical."

Rabbi Adler was shot in the arm and head by a young member of his congregation, Richard Wishnetsky, 23, brilliant honors student, who then turned the gun on himself. Wishnetsky died Wednesday.

Operation on Hemophiliac Success With New Method

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A young hemophiliac who risked bleeding to death rather than spend his life in a wheelchair has survived a foot amputation.

University of Michigan Hospital doctors believe it may be the first successful operation utilizing a "freeze-thaw" technique to obtain a concentrate that controls the flow of blood.

The new method was used in removing the right foot of James Gerritsen, 23, of Grand Rapids. Hemophilia is a hereditary disease in which the blood does not clot. Even minor cuts can be extremely hazardous for some hemophiliacs.

Gerritsen has a severe form of classical hemophilia, and his foot had been crippled by recurrent internal bleeding. He was told his only chance to walk again would require amputating the foot and replacing it with an artificial one.

TELLS VIEWS

"I didn't want to spend the rest of my life in a wheelchair," Gerritsen said at a news conference Thursday.

Doctors said the "freeze-thaw" technique was developed to obtain an antihemophilic component known as Factor VIII from blood donors.

★ ★ ★

The amount of the Factor VIII concentrate used to raise Gerritsen's blood-clotting ability during and since his Feb. 10 operation was about the equivalent of one gallon of normal plasma daily.

Doctors said that without the concentrate they would not have attempted surgery, because a gallon of plasma would have overloaded the patient's circulatory system.

USE LIMITED

Standard concentrates of Factor VIII could not be used because Gerritsen had a reaction to some and resisted others, they said.

violating liquor laws by selling beer in his home.

The vine-covered stone cottage is on the west end of Voorheis Lake at the end of a deeply rutted half-mile trail leading from Baldwin.

UNDER WATCH

Hazen said the operation has been under surveillance for some 18 months and that two undercover deputies recently have participated in poker games there.

The two were among those in the five-room cottage last night when Hazen knocked on the door.

The door quickly was locked from the inside and had to be kicked open. Breen was dealing a hand in a back room when the officers entered, they said.

Confiscated in the raid, which took about an hour, were several packs of playing cards, seven cases of beer, $985 from Breen's pockets and a 38-caliber revolver labeled "U.S. property."

Hazen said Breen had started holding his poker games among fellow Fisher Body Division employes who get off work at 2:30 a.m.

"At first it was just friends," Hazen said, "but he started to get lax and that's when we could move in. The operation itself was never too large, but it was pretty big as poker games go."

Hazen said it was "unfortunate" that more arrests were not made, commenting that 36 persons had been at Breen's a week earlier.

7 Arrested in Numbers Raids in Area

Seven persons — four from Pontiac — were arrested yesterday afternoon as a $3,000-a-day numbers conspiracy was smashed by State, Detroit and Pontiac police.

Charged with violating state gambling laws are Anna M. Murray, 45, of 445 Bartlett; Harper Grandison, 33, of 408 Osmun; and Leon M. Looney, 56, and Katie M. Looney, 42, both of 256 Cedardale.

Also arrested were George Moore, 53, and Curtis Peoples, 43, both of New Haven, and Nick Frangoulis, 38, of Southfield, the alleged ringleader of the operation.

They were to have been arraigned this morning before Oak Park Municipal Judge Burton R. Shifman, who issued search warrants yesterday for the Bartlett and Cedardale addresses in Pontiac and Frangoulis' home at 20901 Dunscotus in Southfield.

The arrests completed a two-month investigation launched by the State Police Intelligence Squad, assisted by the Detroit Police Racket Squad.

BETTING SLIPS

According to detectives at the Redford Post, the betting slips were taken from pickup points in New Haven and Pontiac to Frangoulis' home.

No estimate was immediately available on how much money was confiscated during the arrests.

Workshop for Handicapped Sought

A group, whose goal is to form a community workshop for persons 16 and older with physical, mental and emotional handicaps will hold an organizational meeting at 10 a.m. Monday at the Oakland Schools Board of Education.

Representatives of parent groups, service clubs and special education will elect officers and draft a cooperative approach toward establishing one or more workshops.

Charles Hinkle, vocational rehabilitation field agent for Oakland County, has been holding informal meetings with existing organizations interested in providing sheltered employment, training and counseling for handicapped persons.

State and federal grants are available to supplement local funds, according to Hinkle.

★ ★ ★

He believes that a workshop can be established within a year if groups interested in helping handicapped persons pool their efforts.

Hinkle suggested that workshops located throughout the county would be the ultimate answer to providing training and job assistance to those people whose handicaps now make employment an impossibility.

Congress has appropriated $1.5 million for 1966 and $7 million for 1967 to assist in planning and beginning workshops for the mentally handicapped and other groups designated by the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Up to 75 per cent of the costs for hiring a staff are available from these funds during the first 15 months of the workshop operation.

Staff salaries are subsidized by as much as 30 per cent for three additional years.

Grants also are available for land, buildings and initial equipment.

Sheriff's Dept. Union Vote Date Is Asked

A tentative March 2 election date to determine the exclusive bargaining agent for Oakland County Sheriff's Department employes was set yesterday.

The date was proposed following a formal hearing before a State Mediation Board in Detroit.

It must be confirmed by the board at a future meeting, probably in about a week.

Present at the hearing were sheriff's department employes, county administrative staff members and representatives of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes (AFSCME), Council 23.

★ ★ ★

William J. Charron, president and director of Council 23, said that 90 of 108 sheriff's department employes have expressed support of Council 23 as bargaining agent.

★ ★ ★

The council presently is agent for the Oakland County Road Commission employes, the only county employe group organized to date.

Talk on Medicare Set for WW I Vets

Gilbert C. Gallivan, assistant district manager of the Social Security Administration, will be featured speaker at a meeting Sunday of the Pontiac Post, Veterans of World War I.

He will talk and answer questions on the Medicare program.

★ ★ ★

The meeting will be held at the Cook-Nelson American Legion Post, 206 Auburn, following a noon potluck dinner.

It is estimated there are 20,000 physicians in New York City.

Largest Field of Candidates in Lake Orion

4 Area Villages Hold Primaries Monday

Voters in four area communities will go to the polls Monday to nominate candidates for village offices in preparation for the March 14 annual elections.

The largest field of candidates on the ballot will be in Lake Orion, where 21 candidates are campaigning for seven vacancies.

Holly voters will have a choice of 16 candidates for seven offices, while the same number of candidates are seeking nine offices in Romeo.

Eight hopefuls are seeking two council posts in Milford.

* * *

The candidates and the offices they seek in each of the four villages are as follows:

Lake Orion

Clarence B. Rossman, who is completing his first term as village president, is seeking nomination on the Citizens party ticket.

Emily Pagel of 28 Highland is running for the office of clerk and Ivy M. Sweet, 260 O'Connor, is seeking nomination as treasurer.

Robert J. Swem, whose post as assessor has been a center of controversy throughout most of his first term, is again seeking nomination to the office.

Citizens party trustee candidates include J. Lewie Rossman, incumbent; Arthur J. Pagel Sr., 28 Highland; and Jessie P. Smith, 356 Newton.

OTHER CANDIDATES

Others are Agnes S. Ferguson, 54 Elizabeth; Thomas Arthur, 41 N. Andrews; and Charles E. Lamb, 703 Central.

Heading the slate for the Village party is Wallace C. Crane of 462 Algene. Incumbent Clerk Mary F. Parkinson and incumbent Treasurer Geraldine J. Campbell will also be on the ballot.

Seeking the assessor's post on the Village ticket will be Albert J. Rhodes, who was appointed to the office by the council Nov. 1, and Frank Dunaskis of 460 Crescent, whose candidacy has been challenged by the state elections director because of his apparent residence outside the village.

* * *

Trustee candidates include Fred C. (Ted) Cole and Robert Stokes, incumbents, and Herbert Hull of 272 Lakeview.

VOTE BY MACHINE

Others are Edwin R. Gilmore, 353 Atwater; Harold Roberts, 195 Lake; and Lawrence J. Giddings, 460 Hauxwell.

Voting will be conducted by machine at the Village Youth Center, 102 S. Broadway.

Milford

Two incumbents seeking nomination to the two three-year terms on the Village Council are JoAnn Colton and Hugh P. Davies.

Davies was appointed to his present position last May replacing John Dodd, who moved from the village.

Also seeking nomination to the posts are Richard G. Skarritt, 1009 Atlantic; Charles E. Roose, 1217 Marjorie; Einard J. Kauppi, 409 Bennett; Paul A. Poltzer, 618 S. Main; George K. Agnew, 823 Union; and John S. Bussey, 335 Franklin.

Romeo

Fourteen candidates are seeking election on the Republican ticket while only two are running on the Democratic ticket.

Republican candidates include incumbent Byron E. Nichols, who is seeking the office of president. He is being challenged by Marvin Sieweke, 213 Hollister, a former trustee who lost in the 1965 election.

Incumbent Norman L. Engle is seeking his third term as village clerk. He is being opposed by Joseph Mellen, 254 E. St. Clair.

The only candidate for the treasurer's post is incumbent Elaine Hosner, who is seeking her ninth term.

* * *

SIX REPUBLICANS

Six Republican candidates are vying for the three expiring council terms, including incumbent Martin Durham, who is seeking his second term.

Others are John Kegler, 244 N. Bailey, a former trustee; Edward Battani, 109 Cook; Kenneth Smith, 268 W. St. Clair; Wayne Black, 240 Tillson, former president who lost in the 1964 election; and Hugh Gates, 312 Benjamin.

Seeking the two library trustee posts are incumbents Joseph Rymill and Theodora Raymond.

* * *

Democratic candidates are George Simcina, 310 Fairgrove, who is seeking the assessor's post, and incumbent James Burke, who is vying for one of the three council terms. Burke was elected last year as a Republican write-in candidate.

Holly

The Citizens party has returned to local politics after an absence of more than five years, challenging the Union party which has been dominant.

Seeking the Union party nomination for village president are Councilman John VanDeusen and Worth Hitchcock, 711 S. Broad.

Candidates for the Citizens party nomination for presidency are Dennis Clark, 905 Emma, and Keith Dryer, 128 Park.

Union party candidates vying to be nominated for two-year council terms are incumbent Leo Oberheim, incumbent John Ramm, Cleveland Ridley of 806 Richard and Peter Beltemacchi of 201 Park.

CITIZENS PARTY

Competing for the Citizens party nominations for those posts are Bruce Dryer, 103 First; John MacKenzie, 115 Park; and Harry Luzi, 731 Hartner.

The other Citizens party candidate is Jeanne Smith, 509 Hartner, making a bid for the treasurer's post now held by Union party member Hulda Anderson, who is seeking reelection for a one-year term.

* * *

Unopposed Union party incumbents are Clerk Betty Oliver, Assessor Grant Hulet and Councilman James Greig, all of whom are running for one-year terms.

Boost Asked in Milk Price

DETROIT (AP)—An increase in the federally regulated price paid to farmers for milk has been asked by the Michigan Milk Producers Association.

The MMPA asked the U.S. Department of Agriculture to adjust methods of computing the price, now set at $4.42 per hundredweight.

* * *

The MMPA's "superpool" of $5.10, negotiated with farmers and dairy owners, would remain stable until the expiration of the current contract July 31, spokesmen said.

Atomic clocks are said to be so accurate that they will lose or gain only one second in 15 years.

For Southeastern Oakland

OCC Hears Berkley Bid for Campus

Still seeking a campus facility in southeastern Oakland County, the board of trustees of Oakland Community College last night heard a presentation on a proposed development in Berkley.

Gray Graham, a land developer, outlined plans for a multi-level $18-million retail complex with offices, apartments, a motel, sports center and deck parking.

Work on the complex is slated to begin this fall, Graham said, as he invited OCC to locate in the facility.

He said that a private corporation already has options on 80 to 90 per cent of the 12-acre parcel at 12 Mile and Coolidge, where the building is planned.

* * *

'IDEAL LOCATION'

He said that the City of Berkley would be an ideal campus location with the proposed east-west freeway a mile south, Royal Oak to the east and Southfield to the west.

The board agreed to give further consideration to establishing a campus in the complex.

OCC President John E. Tirrell said the college legal advisers would have to explore the legal aspects of land ownership and leasing in the complex.

* * *

Graham said the 12-acre site will cost about $1.2 million and that the square-foot construction cost would be about $14

FLOOR SPACE

OCC requires 500,000 square feet of floor space to accommodate an ultimate enrollment of 5,000 on the southeastern campus.

Presently the college is considering two sites in Royal Oak.

Germans 'Up in Air' Over Proposed Building Architecture

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Manhattan's Empire State Building will be dwarfed if the go-ahead is given to a new construction project in Germany.

The plan to build a 4,101-foot tower city is the most ambitious among a welter of "tall structure" concepts drawn up by German architects. The Empire State Building, the world's tallest, is 1,472 feet.

The Germans, who boast of having the world's two tallest church spires — in Ulm and Cologne — seem to be considering the idea of height leadership in secular constructions, too.

A new "wolkenkratzer" — cloud scraper — trend in Germany is apparent in a wide range of blueprints.

A TOWER CITY

West Berlin architect Robert Gabriel, 53, thinks his 356-story tower city is the ideal answer to modern housing problems. The tower would house some 25,000 people in 8,000 apartments, he says.

It also would include five churches, sixteen schools, hotels, theaters, offices and, on the top floors, special clinics for the treatment of respiratory ailments that improve at high altitudes.

★ ★ ★

Gabriel estimates the cost of the tower at about $612.5 million. He thinks the money could be raised through a joint stock corporation and through sale of the two- and three-bedroom apartments at an average of about $25,000.

The village of Michelbach, 40 miles north of Frankfurt, has announced "support in principle" for Gabriel's suggestion to build the massive tower on municipal grounds.

HIKE POPULATION

"If it's feasible, why not?" comments Mayor Willy Kaul on the plans which would boost tenfold the population of Michelbach. It is a very big "if," but still the mayor has received inquiries from several German industrial firms interested in participating in the project.

Village fathers have voted to make 7,000 acres available for the building site. State authorities have announced they will examine the project soon.

★ ★ ★

Not so tall but no less revolutionary are the designs for tree-shaped tower hotels drawn up by Stuttgart's Horst-Peter Dollinger, 36.

Basic feature of the project is a steel pillar housing the elevators. It suports branching cabins containing single- and double-room accommodations.

TOWER HOTELS

Dollinger says he has been awarded designing contracts for tower hotels in West Germany. Negotiations are under way for "dozens of others," adds the architect.

Tall construction also is thought to be the solution for West Germany's growing shortage of jail space. Fritz Bauer, attorney general of the State of Hesse, has confirmed plans for an 800-cell building that will have 16 stories behind bars plus interrogation sections and warrdens' quarters. Prisoners will get their daily fresh air on balconies.

The tall game has also inspired an architectural contest, east and west of the Communist wall in Berlin. West Berlin broadcasting officials disclosed a few years ago they were planning to build an 820-foot television tower. Communist authorities in East Berlin thereupon let it be known they were weighing a television project that would rise 984 feet.

West Berliners reacted by discussing a 1,082-foot tower. This was vetoed by allied air safety officials. But the East Germans went ahead with their project — which will have a height of 1,181 feet, according to the most recent announcements. Construction has begun.

Not to be outdone by their East German allies, the Soviet Union has published plans for a 1,706-foot television tower in Moscow of concrete and steel which is to be ready by 1968. It is to be the tallest self-supporting structure in the world.

Early Bird After Term Personified by Griffin

Whether or not the unexpected announcement by Rep. ROBERT P. GRIFFIN of his candidacy for PAT MCNAMARA'S U.S. Senate seat caught the Republican high command off its political base is probably known only within that august body.

It had planned a meeting for tomorrow to select one of three potential candidates (GRIFFIN included) who had survived an earlier meeting that narrowed the field of would-be nominees.

★ ★ ★

But regardless, the Traverse City entry, now serving his fifth term in Congress, gives the GOP an excellent candidate for the senatorial post.

Statewide, Griffin is not only the best known of the several aspirants, but he has national stature of consequence. Significantly, his sponsorship of the Landrum-Griffin antiracketeering Labor Act distinguishes him as the only Michigan member of Congress to be identified with a piece of national legislation within the last six years.

★ ★ ★

Moreover, the probability that GOV. GEORGE ROMNEY will be reelected by a substantial majority with its "coattail" potential for Republicans running with him is a favorable factor that could count heavily at the ballot box.

MSU Board Commits Typographical Error

Though capitulating to public protest, Michigan State University's Board of Trustees by no means looks like a "good loser."

The issue that led to its downfall was the sudden ban the board imposed last December against the awarding of printing jobs to nonunion firms. The ban was proposed by Trustee DON STEVENS, salaried education director of the Michigan AFL-CIO.

★ ★ ★

Plainly discriminatory against the State's 320 non-union printing plants in favor of its 120 union shops, the edict was in direct violation of state law, state practices and the Constitutional guarantee of "equal rights" in insuring that taxpayers' money in support of the university is spent judiciously.

★ ★ ★

After declining to hear a delegation of non-union printers at its January meeting, the board made a slight amendment to its arbitrary edict by lifting the printing ban on "small jobs and reprints."

★ ★ ★

But even with that concession, the potato was getting too hot for the labor-oriented seven-man board to handle, and Monday by a 5-2 vote it announced recision of the initial restriction—cloaked, needless to say, in some fancy face-saving gobbledygook.

One-sided thinking such as that evidenced by MSU's trustees seems strangely out of place in an institution dedicated to mental enrichment.

Trail to Outer Space Blazed by Explorer I

A minor space-age anniversary slipped past the other day. Explorer I, America's first satellite, chalked up its eighth year in space.

Explorer's most notable achievement was its discovery of the Van Allen radiation belt, the first important new knowledge about space to be obtained by a satellite.

★ ★ ★

The space pioneer now completes one orbit of the earth 11 minutes faster than it did in the beginning, indicating that it is slowly but inexorably being drawn back into the atmosphere where it will eventually burn up. Mathematicians calculate that this will happen sometime in 1968, or not long before men hurl themselves toward the moon.

If this is all rather ho-hum information, that in itself is a reminder of how far we have progressed since those early, uncertain space launchings and how quickly human beings come to take for granted what was once something stupendous.

Hope Cong Crack in 12-18 Months

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — President Johnson reportedly believes another 12 to 18 months of unrelenting pressure against the Communists in Viet Nam will be necessary to make them realize the crushing weight of the power brought against them. After that they may begin to move toward negotiations.

Neither the President nor any other high official presently talks of a target date for concluding the war. The operational timetable is open-ended, and individual views vary on how it will work out in the end.

Some officials see the possibility of a prolonged and spreading conflict in Southeast Asia. Others speculate that the Communists are beginning to be so badly hurt they may decide for peace talks in early 1967.

Johnson's own informal estimate is said to be that maximum military, economic, political, and diplomatic pressure will probably have to be sustained for 12 to 18 months before it makes itself felt decisively.

★ ★ ★

Johnson's thinking is geared to a four-front strategy.

This calls for continuing buildup of U.S. power with continuous ground and air offensives to batter the Viet Cong, deprive them of secure bases in the jungle, and break their morale.

SAIGON'S AUTHORITY

The strategy also calls for restoration of the Saigon government's political authority and police power in cleared areas as rapidly as they can be made secure from Communist attack.

A third element provides for broad social and economic reform and rehabilitation of war-stricken villages in an effort to win popular support for the Saigon government.

The fourth front is the diplomatic one, of which Johnson has said the United States must keep pressing for peace talks or a scaling down of the war—however remote concrete results may appear to be at the moment.

The President evidently feels that if he can pursue his strategy on present lines, and keep the fighting within present limits, the day will come when the Communists decide they can't win.

★ ★ ★

In that event he is reported to see four possibilities: The Viet Cong may fade away into the population and head back to North Viet Nam. North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong may decide to negotiate.

The Viet Cong may split with Hanoi and seek a settlement in the South on their own. Hanoi may cut its ties with the Viet Cong and leave it to fight or make peace as best it can.

★ ★ ★

Among these possibilities Johnson is said to believe that a Communist decision to negotiate is by far the most likely.

Where's Your Friend What's-His-Name?

David Lawrence Says:

D.C. Prayer Breakfast Notable

WASHINGTON—With all that is going on in the national capital these days, it is noteworthy that the President, the speaker of the House and prominent members of all branches of the government sat down together for an hour and a half at a prayer breakfast yesterday to ask God's help in meeting the challenges of the times.

LAWRENCE

It is not often that the leaders in government sit down with 1,000 other persons to engage in prayer.

This annual event is an outgrowth of the prayer-breakfast movement that started more than 20 years ago with weekly meetings of members of the House and the Senate respectively.

These now are paralleled by prayer breakfasts held regularly throughout the year by governors and mayors in many parts of the United States.

Unquestionably, the seriousness of the world situation was in the minds of everyone present at the presidential breakfast.

GROWING REALIZATION

There is a growing realization throughout the world that peace treaties themselves do not always bring peoples together but often perpetuate resentments for decades afterwards.

The emphasis, therefore, at the prayer breakfast was on the need for manifestations of human love and fellowship.

In every country, people, irrespective of religious sect or race or nationality, feel a common obligation to be more and more concerned about human welfare.

This week's meeting was presided over by Senator Frank Carlson of Kansas. The invocation was pronounced by Lt. Gen. M. H. Silverthorn, USMC, retired.

READINGS

Portions of the Old Testament were read by Associate Justice Tom Clark of the Supreme Court of the United States, while parts of the New Testament were read by Henry C. Fowler, secretary of the Treasury.

There were brief comments by Rep. Albert H. Quie of Minnesota, who spoke for the breakfast group of the House of Representatives, and by Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, who represented the breakfast group of the Senate.

President Johnson in his brief remarks talked about the spiritual strength of our nation and the importance of prayer. He said that in these troublous times he is sustained daily not only by his own prayers but by those of "hundreds of other Americans who daily take the time."

Dr. Richard C. Halverson delivered a prayer for national leaders, and then Dr. Billy Graham made the principal address, as he contrasted the spiritual with the material things of life. Benediction was given by Dr. Abraham Vereide, who founded the prayer-breakfast movement.

There were in the audience many senators and representatives as well as officials from other parts of the government. Also present were some high-ranking officers from the armed services.

In another room at the Shoreham Hotel, where the presidential breakfast was held, were the wives of members of Congress and of government officials attending a similar meeting.

President Johnson and Dr. Graham later attended this session, too, and delivered the same addresses.

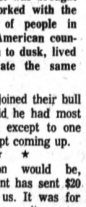

Altogether, it was a rather unusual day in the life of the national capital.

Bob Considine Says:

Stories About Foreign Aid Cause Second Thoughts

NEW YORK — On their recent trip to Moscow and Leningrad, an ecumenical group headed by Rabbi Arthur Schneier of New York was given a great deal of help by an intelligent, well-educated Intourist guide who, as a child, had lived through the siege of Stalingrad (now Volgograd, tomorrow Breschnevgrad.)

CONSIDINE

The guide remembered from childhood how the tide of battle had turned with the arrival of fresh tanks, planes, food, medicine.

"Did you know where they came from?" the guide was asked by Rev. Thurston N. Davis, S. J., a member of the group.

"Oh, yes," the guide said. "From a neighboring province."

★ ★ ★

The materiel, of course, was part of the $11-billion U. S. war aid to the Soviet Union.

BEMUSING THOUGHT

This thought bemused us as we read a letter from Billy Grady, a great old guy in the theater world and Hollywood. Goes like this:

"Couple years ago I saw a young Peace Corpsman on a TV interview. It was brought out that he worked with the lowliest class of people in some Central American country, from dawn to dusk, lived as they did, ate the same grub.

"At night he joined their bull sessions. He said he had most of the answers, except to one question that kept coming up.

★ ★ ★

"The question would be, 'Your government has sent $20 million to help us. It was for schools, hospitals, sanitary systems, roads. We, the people, haven't seen any evidence of the money. What happened to it?'

NEW ACCOUNTS

"I have a banking friend in Switzerland. One night he told me that he could tell exactly what country was in receipt of a windfall from us by the new 'number' accounts that were being opened. Big accounts, that is.

"Haven't been my banker friend of late, to ask him 'Any new accounts from Viet?'

"Here's my pitch: Every day our big corporations and little ones, too, are retiring able-bodied, completely competent executives and administrators for the crime of reaching the age of 65. It's a disgraceful waste of manpower, brainpower and patriotism.

★ ★ ★

"The government should canvass these retired execs, make them part of the foreign aid program.

"The exec, with the advice of our ambassador, would administer directly to the planned project, or pay the bills, without the middle man or local politician.

★ ★ ★

"If they don't want to play ball fairly, to hell with them. In short I say: 'SEND A MAN WITH THE MONEY.'"

Best foreign aid idea I've heard in years.

Japan's First

The Japan Times

The final figures are not in. But it is a virtual certainty that Japan led the world in shipbuilding again last year. This would make it 10 years in a row, and an occasion for a giant celebration. This is a major accomplishment.

Japan Shipbuilders Federation estimates that ship bottoms launched in Japan in 1965 will reach the all-time high of 5,040,000 gross tons, more than one million tons over the 4,010,000 tons launched in 1964. And in 1964, Japan launched more than 40 per cent of the world's ships. Japanese shipyards are now assured of another good year with an estimated backlog of orders totaling 9,210,000 tons, compared with 6,890,000 tons at the end of 1964.

The magnitude of this feat must be measured against the fact that Japan was virtually in ruins only 20 years ago. Japan's rise has been accompanied by charges from other nations that she has been guilty of unfair competition. These accusations have grown more acrimonious as Japan strengthened its position at the top. Cheap labor, unfair subsidies, and dumping have been some of the charges. Of course, there were emotional factors. Japan was the upstart, the late-comer poaching on the preserves of the traditional shipbuilding nations of West Europe. And it has not helped that Japan entered not only the international markets of the West European countries but their domestic markets as well, and today is operating full blast.

The accusations will not easily die. But thinking leaders of other countries are gradually realizing that a high quality of technological skill and efficient production methods are behind Japan's superiority.

Missions which have visited Japan have come to give credit where credit is due — to the vastly improved technology and efficiency of the Japanese shipyards. Combined with the high quality of marine designing and engineering, these have enabled Japan to deliver a ship within six to eight months after the keel is laid, compared with the nine months to two years delivery date of other countries.

★ ★ ★

But we must recognize that there is a determined move toward international cooperation in this field, and that there is a valid reason for the anxieties of other shipbuilding powers. Under the circumstances, we must be prepared to cooperate with these countries.

Voice of the People:

Ambulance Siren Noise Brings Different Views

I side with Chief Pontiac XIII. These new ambulance sirens are terrible. When I first heard one of these "wails" I wondered if the sound effects from science fiction movies were true sounds and hurried to see if a "saucer" was setting down. Let's return to the old siren that can be heard for miles for what it really is—an emergency signal.

AN INDIAN PRINCESS

How would Chief Pontiac feel if he were in an ambulance rushing a loved one to a hospital and other stupid drivers would not pull over? If it takes a weird sound to make these drivers pull over, I feel sorry for them. Isn't it a law that drivers pull over when they hear a siren approaching? Keep up the weird sounds, they may save a life.

UNION LAKE — MABEL ALLEN MULLIN

Reader Comments on Integration Progress

The Pontiac Press left out the most important fact in that Civil Rights breakfast. The "gap" that the speakers talked about was made by comparing today with 1960. Don't the Civil Rights officers know that all the integration progress of the last century has been made in the last three years? If they don't know that, how did they get their jobs? Are they any better qualified in other ways?

'When Christianity Exits, Paganism Enters'

Into each society come social innovations and phenomena indicative of characteristics of the era. Such is the Hollywood A Go Go. Born of a complex and overly-pressured society, it makes a refreshing debut like a relief valve for pent-up emotions. Youth seizes this media to express an element of futility in life, perhaps suggesting modern man's inability to control his destiny. Once in vogue this unique behavior carries the tangent too far, exaggerating the plight of man as though he has no choice in his destiny.

★ ★ ★

The slaves of rhythm depict man's slavery to forces he either cannot conquer or lacks the motivation to do so. In either case this is the door where Christianity exits and paganism enters. The essence of Christianity is hope and the password of paganism is futility.

'Foreign Aid Is Costly to U. S. Taxpayers'

Including interest, foreign aid has cost American taxpayers $144 billion. For fiscal '67 the President is asking the Congress for $3.4 billion plus increased contributions to agencies with lending power of many billions. The huge foreign aid with our multibillion dollar war in Viet Nam, and the unprecedented spending for the Great Society place an intolerable burden on American taxpayers. Congress should shift foreign aid to a self-liquidating private enterprise effort.

Answers Questions About Salt Truck

Why does Jim Denison question the salt truck on a clear night? If he were a taxpayer he would't care. I'm told one crew stays until midnight and is relieved by another crew — both at overtime pay — waiting for snow. The truck drivers may have been tired and needed some coffee and fresh air. They may have been instructed to throw rocks at any citizen who objects to the outrageous wastes of our "Highway Lords."

Yes. The only requirement for Medicare and hospital benefits is proof that you are 65 or older and have been a U.S. citizen for at least five years.

What is the final date to file for Medicare? If my wife and I don't sign up now, are we barred for good?

TWO SIXTY-EIGHTS

REPLY

Persons 65 on or before January 1, 1966, have until March 31 to file for Medicare. If you fail to apply by that date, you must wait until October 1967, which means your benefits won't start until July 1968, and your payments probably will be more. Persons 65 after Jan. 1, 1966, can apply any time during the three months before and the three months after their birth date.

'United States Lacks Strong Leadership'

The weak position of the university in allowing a Communist to spread deceitful doctrines of tyranny is inconsistent. Do we hear of the Ku Klux Klan holding rallies at Wayne State University, or of the Mafia or other forces determined to wreck our republic? The first amendment to the Constitution does not guarantee the right to destroy our democratic heritage by being so broad-minded that we allow subversion to be fed to students by the Communist propaganda.

★ ★ ★

Our Nation is suffering from a lack of strong leadership. America is constantly being weakened by Communist sympathizers and fellow travelers who through their own gullibility become the tools of Marxism. Now we can proclaim that we are truly democratic because we let Communists indoctrinate our youth. This is the true disservice to our Nation.

Suggests Citizens Not Criticize Teachers

Let's let our schoolteachers be. They have a big responsibility and I thank the Lord it isn't mine. Someone said that the teachers of 40 years ago were superior. I say no! They didn't have the vast knowledge of our teachers today, nor did they turn out students with the degree of knowledge ours have. Our children have a knowledge of chemistry, physics, biology, history and government that we never dreamed of. In many cases teachers play the part of mother, father or friend to give encouragement students would not get at home.

★ ★ ★

Teachers put in more than eight hours a day. There are workshops, meetings and even more schooling, so that they might give this generation every break. Unless we have gripes that are really valid, let's leave the reprimanding to administration and give three cheers.

93 MARK MARY SMITH

The old-fashioned school teachers are dead, and justly so. In this day things are moving faster and teachers have to teach faster. Before there were 10 to 18 children in a class and now there are 20 to 36 or more. Schools are more crowded and the teachers are expected to go on as if nothing is changed.

★ ★ ★

I have visited my child's class for regular class, art classes and speech classes, and have had lunch in the cafeteria. I have found the teachers congenial no matter what the antics of the children.

Mossler Prosecution Claims Lurid Letter

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The state, piling one lurid sensation on top another, now claims to have a revealing love letter from Melvin Lane Powers to his blonde aunt, Candace Mossler.

Circuit Judge George Schulz said at the pair's first-degree murder trial that he needs convincing before he will let any testimony about the letter reach the ears of the all-male jury.

The prosecution let it be known it considers the nine-page letter a potential bombshell.

Arguing for its admittance, the state said the letter was intercepted when Powers attempted to smuggle it out of the Houston jail after his arrest in the slaying of Mrs. Mossler's aging husband, multimillionaire Jacques Mossler.

The state presses ahead today —Mrs. Mossler's birthday—with more surprise testimony. It concerns a purported tryst last Thanksgiving weekend in a Mexican border town between the small, shapely Mrs. Mossler and her strapping, 6-foot-3 nephew—a continuation of what the prosecution claims was a love affair.

"This particular love affair went on not only up to demise of the victim but even up to a year and a half afterward," declared Asst. State Atty. Gerald Kogan in a successful argument for admission of the testimony from a Matamoros, Mexico, hotel employe.

* * *

At the time of the rendezvous, the defendants were under indictment in the 1964 bludgeon and knife slaying of Mrs. Mossler's 69-year-old husband. They were only seven weeks away from this trial for their lives.

Judge Schulz agreed that the Mexican interlude was material support of the state's claim that an unnatural love bond between aunt and nephew was a motive behind the slaying of Mossler, hard-driving head of a $33-million banking loan empire.

* * *

Mrs. Mossler's birthday fell on this final day of the trial's fifth week. She says it is her 40th. Her nephew is 29.

MSU Safety Center Report Supports Need for State Vehicle Law Check

By BERNARD F. LYONS
Managing Editor
Port Huron Times Herald

LANSING — It's entirely possible that anywhere from 30 to 60 per cent of the automobiles on Michigan highways today aren't mechanically fit to be there.

At least that's the experience in several states where vehicle inspections are required. Inspectors "consistently report deficiencies that must be corrected in 30 to 60 per cent of the vehicles inspected," a report of Michigan State University's Highway Traffic Safety Center reveals.

Safety people say there's no reason to believe Michigan's proportion of unsafe cars and trucks would be substantially different.

Although the report is more than a year old, new attention is being given to it in view of renewed efforts by Gov. George Romney and traffic safety experts to win legislative approval of a vehicle inspection law for Michigan.

* * *

In-depth studies of traffic accidents made by the Harvard Medical School, the report points out, "revealed a higher frequency of mechanical failures than is usually found in accident investigations."

And the National Safety Council notes that in spite of the difficulties in isolating and identifying vehicle failures, such causes were pinpointed in 11 per cent of all turnpike accidents.

VITAL LINK

The Highway Traffic Safety Center, a unit of MSU's Continuing Education Service, bases its strong recommendation for a state vehicle inspection program on the fact that it's a vital link in the chain of needed accident prevention measures in Michigan.

And so, apparently, does Gov. Romney, who urged vehicle inspection as part of his 1966 traffic safety program.

The safety people argue that the best traffic engineering, the best law enforcement, the best driver licensing and the best driver education programs are seriously undercut where improperly maintained vehicles are permitted to travel our highways — endangering others as well as their own occupants.

Some safety experts even go so far as to term the lack of an auto inspection program "appalling."

One outspoken critic said, in effect: "In this day and age we seek to safeguard the public health and welfare by building inspections, plumbing inspections, electrical inspections, food inspections, sidewalk inspections, health inspections and any number of other inspections.

"Why is it, then, that we can't seem to agree on inspecting the automobile — which is involved in more deaths and injuries than all of these other things combined?"

Gordon H. Sheehe, director of the Highway Traffic Safety Center, points out that not only the safety experts favor vehicle inspection.

He cites a recent public opinion survey, conducted by MSU's Department of Communication in cooperation with the Highway Traffic Safety Center, which shows a majority of the general public in favor of it, too.

Traffic safety people are careful not to call vehicle inspection a cure-all for traffic accidents — no more than an effective driver licensing program, driver education or more effective law enforcement by themselves are cure-alls.

But they contend, in the MSU vehicle inspection report, that "a sound program of periodic inspection of motor vehicles would contribute substantially to Michigan's efforts to prevent and to reduce the severity of traffic accidents in our state."

As recommended by the Highway Traffic Safety Center, here is how vehicle inspection in Michigan would work:

After an 18-month "preparation period" (for the state, the inspectors and motorists), every car would have to have a safety inspection covering such things as lights, brakes, steering, tires, directional signals, windshield wipers, exhaust system, horn, mirrors and so forth.

Inspections would be conducted in state-licensed, privately-owned garages and service stations by trained certified inspectors.

If the car passes, a sticker would be affixed to the windshield; if it doesn't, the owner would be told where his car falls short of the state standards and would have to have it repaired before an inspection sticker would be issued.

A suggested inspection fee, to be paid by the motorist, is $2.25 with the inspection station getting $2 and the state getting 25 cents.

This, it is estimated, would make the program self-supporting once it is under way, and would include the hiring of 68 State Police to check on both the inspection process and on the vehicles run through it.

If Michigan were to enact a vehicle inspection program, it would become the 21st state to have one (in addition to the District of Columbia.)

Some of the inspection programs have been in effect for many years, such as those in Pennsylvania (1929) and Massachusetts (1930).

The safety people who drew up the MSU report say an inspection program has many fringe benefits, too, such as: creating an awareness by motorists of the possibility of equipment failure, reminding the motorist of his personal responsibility to operate his car safely.

Homerooms Competing in Groves School Drive

By CANDY SPRIGGEL

Groves' homerooms competed with one another this week to determine who could earn the most money during the annual American Field Service homeroom drive.

★ ★ ★

During lunch, students from 62 homerooms sold baked goods, cotton candy, ice cream, candy, pop, cider and anything else hungry students would buy.

A wide variety of contests took place such as live turtle races on a roulette wheel, guessing games and slot car racing.

Prizes ranged from radios and records to novelty items such as Beatle dolls.

★ ★ ★

The three top-selling junior homerooms will "win" next year's foreign exchange students.

WINNING HOMEROOM

This means that each winning homeroom will get a 1966-67 AFS student in its homeroom.

The winning senior homeroom will get points toward the Senior Activities Plaque honoring the most active senior homeroom.

Small trophies but plenty of experience go to the winning sophomore and freshmen homerooms.

★ ★ ★

AFS week always promises a change from school routine and the real satisfaction comes from knowing that the total sales will help finance the three 1966-67 AFS students.

★ ★ ★

It costs approximately $2,100 per student.

★ ★ ★

The AFS is a private nonprofit organization whose purpose is the furthering of understanding and good will among peoples of the world.

WTHS Senior 'Superlatives' Handed Out

By JEAN PRIESTLEY

Waterford Township High School seniors picked class "superlatives" and chose class emblems last week.

★ ★ ★

Voted most valuable to the class were Carol Petar and Tony Kellogg, class president; most likely to succeed, Mary Ott and Mike McIntyre; most all-around Gayanne Mansfield and Dave Roemensky; most dependable, Carol Nye and John Wale.

Seniors voted Barb Humphries and Chuck Wilson most talented; Sherry Elwell and Mike Asim, wittiest; Linda Lewis and Mike Lewis, friendliest; Janet Pascoe and Howard Owen, most courteous; Debbie McNair and Rick Ziem, most athletic; and Janice Abel and Bill Dean, class flirts.

The Class of '66 chose burgundy and white for class colors and as theme song, "Cast Your Fate to the Wind."

★ ★ ★

A white rose is the class flower, and the motto is "We have crossed the bay; the sea lies ahead."

★ ★ ★

Gwen Coppinger, Kay Sirlin and Tom McCulloch went to East Lansing last weekend to take the by-invitation-only competitive test for MSU scholarships offered to outstanding Michigan seniors.

COPPER COUNT — Pontiac Northern High School seniors, (from left) Shirley Slade of 339 Fourth, Nick Ochoa of 846 Melrose and Boyd Cryer of 651 Columbia, total the results of the valentine queen contest. Marilyn Coon was chosen queen and over $200 was turned over to the International Club.

PNH Queen Is Named

By ALICE TURNER

Pontiac Northern's annual Valentine's Day dance was held last weekend.

★ ★ ★

Many of the clubs at Northern nominated a queen for the dance. Students voted for the candidate of their choice all last week.

Votes, in the form of pennies, selected the queen.

Senior Mayilyn Coon, nominated by the Catalinas, was chosen queen with a total of $61.12.

★ ★ ★

Mary DeClute finished second and Northern's exchange student, Lucia Rains, took third.

Over $200 was made and donated to International Club by the Varsity Club, the dance sponsor.

Seniors began planning their annual spring prom this week at a meeting held for all interested students.

Diane Coin and Olivia Sims were elected cochairmen for the entire dance.

★ ★ ★

Several themes were discussed including Sayonara, Enchanted Forest, Night Along the Nile, Moon River, Flight into Fantasy and Teahouse of the August Moon.

Committee chairmen chosen were Carol Harris and Bill Curtis, chaperones; Sue Bailey and Pat Perry, refreshments; and Sue Cook and Karen Jahnke, decorations.

Others are Diane Norberg and Alice Turner, publicity; Shirley Slade and Gary Killian, cleanup and Carmella Roselli, programs.

The date for the prom has been set for June 11. Any student interested in working on a committee should see the committee chairman.

★ ★ ★

The Catalinas have substituted a circus theme for this year's watershow for the previously selected "Shoes" theme.

TRYOUTS SET

Tryouts will be held this month.

Northern will be the scene for the second annual Forensics contest. Categories are as follows: declamation, oratory, serious interpretative reading, humorous reading and extemporary speaking.

The preliminary contest will be held next week and the finals March 1-3.

★ ★ ★

Music instructor Frank Irish will direct.

The triple trio, nine members of the treble choir, and the Madrigal Singers, a group formed from the concert choir, will perform.

Bob Brandon sings the solo in "Chim-Chim-Cheree," and Scherlyn Smith has the solo part in "Song of Our Own."

Concert selections include "Ei Yivneh Hagalil," a Yiddish song, "All'mein Hertzgerdanken," a German number, and "I've got a Key," a spiritual.

U.S.-Pakistani Relations Still Strained

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Broken windows gape in the low-lying modernistic building of glass and stone which is the U.S. Embassy in Karachi, remnants of an anti-American student demonstration a couple of months ago.

NEWSOM

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey could see them as he drove past on his way to explain to Pakistani President Ayub Khan the U.S. economic aid to Pakistan.

He also could see and hear other demonstrators along his route, some with signs reading: "We hate the U.S."

The broken windows, the placards and the cordial but scarcely enthusiastic official reception accorded the vice president were reminders that relations between the United States and Pakistan still have far to go before the close friendship of other years can be restored.

In the past dozen years, the United States has extended some $3 billion worth of economic aid to Pakistan and another $1.5 billion in military aid, making her Pakistan's chief supplier.

* * *

Out of the Humphrey-Khan talks came a U.S. promise of a further $50 million in economic aid and the announcement that negotiations soon would start for shipment of emergency wheat supplies to help offset a disastrous drought which hit both Pakistan and India.

12 MILLION TONS

India needs an estimated 12 million tons, Pakistan's 115 million people an estimated two to three million tons.

The $50 million will provide an immediate booster shot to provide Pakistan industry with badly needed raw materials.

But it is less than one-fifth the amount planned under Pakistan's new five-year development program and suggests that, as with India, the United States plans to exert frankly the power of its economic aid against another outbreak of the Pakistan-India war such as occurred last September.

The differences between the United States and Pakistan can, most kindly, be attributed to a misunderstanding of terms.

DEFENSE CHAIN

Pakistan regards her SEATO and CENTO links and U.S. aid more as a guarantee against India than as a part of a worldwide chain of defenses against aggressive communism.

Allied Offensives Felt to Be Cause of Red Inactivity in Viet

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Communists have not launched any major campaigns in recent weeks because U.S. and South Vietnamese offensive action threw them off balance, high-level Americans in Saigon believe.

There is said to be no indication that the Communists have moved any major elements out of the country. On the contrary, they are believed to be building up at a steady rate. The number of infiltrators coming into South Viet Nam still is put at about 4,500 each month, the same figure that has been quoted for the past five or six months.

An American spokesman said today there are now approximately 20,000 armed Viet Cong or North Vietnamese in each of the country's four corps area. The mixture of these forces varies from area to area.

In the southernmost 4th corps, the delta area south of Saigon, there are said to be about 30 per cent main force Viet Cong troops and 70 per cent local force. Local forces differ from main force units in that they normally confine their operations to one provincial area, while main force units move about, often crossing from one corps region to another.

CENTERED ON SAIGON

The 3rd corps area—centered on Saigon—is said to have about 75 per cent main force strength and about 25 per cent local force.

Moving north, the situation changes. In the 2nd corps area, which includes the central highlands, about 50 per cent of the total force is reported to be North Vietnamese regular forces. The other half is divided—about 30 per cent main force and 70 per cent local.

* * *

About one-third of the strength in the northernmost 1st corps is reported to be North Vietnamese regulars, one-third local Viet Cong und one-third main force Viet Cong.

These figures do not include an estimated 100,000 guerrilla fighters, 40,000 in political cadres and about 17,000 support personnel.

24 REGIMENTS

It is estimated that there are 24 regimental formations of Communist forces in the country, nine of them North Vietnamese and 15 Viet Cong.

There has been much speculation about why the Communists have not launched any major attacks since late last year. There have been reports that some forces had left the country.

* * *

It is felt in qualified quarters, however, that the main force units have been lying low because they have been kept off balance and have been forced to change some of their plans by U.S. troop movements and by allied offensives.

There are indications that some enemy forces have been moving south of the Pleiku area and into Darlac Province. Some major scale fighting is expected to occur in that area.

SOME BUILDUP

There also is known to have been some buildup of North Vietnamese forces in the 1st corps area, where the main body of U.S. Marines is based. It is believed that a buildup along the boundary of the 1st and 2nd corps area also may involve North Vietnamese troops.

To a large degree, most actions launched recently by the Communists have been attacks on outposts and on regional and popular force units.

* * *

Officials consider that defections among the enemy forces are now showing a favorably significant trend, but this is considered to be far from any indication of a breaking point.

It is felt the Communist units must start defecting by units and the populace must provide more information on Viet Cong activity before there is a strong indication that those on the Communist side are beginning to feel that they are losing the war.

* * *

The probability of Communist China entering the war is generally regarded as remote unless some escalation of the war threatens the North Vietnamese government itself. Washington has said repeatedly that its aim and commitment in South Viet Nam is not the destruction of the Hanoi regime.

Gruening Bill Would Bar Draftee Use in SE Asia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Ernest Gruening, who said he was talked out of it last year by President Johnson, yesterday introduced legislation to bar the sending of draftees to Southeast Asia without congressional consent.

* * *

Gruening's proposal came as Sen. John C. Stennis told the Senate that at least a partial call-up of National Guardsmen and Reservists was probable.

He predicted that U.S. troop strength in Viet Nam might reach 600,000.

Gruening said he had intended to introduce the measure last August but had been dissuaded from doing so by the President, who had begged him to wait until after January.

* * *

"The President very emphatically urged me not to do it, pleaded with me not to do it," Gruening said. "He said to me 'Well, if we're not out of there by January, you can do anything you please.'"

DEEPER AND DEEPER

"Well we're not out of there by January, or by February, and we're in there deeper and deeper and deeper," Gruening said.

In any event, Gruening said, the President had indicated to him that it was "unlikely" that draftees would be sent to Southeast Asia before this last January.

Some of the troops now in Viet Nam were conscripted.

* * *

The Alaska senator said he had agreed last year not to introduce the measure as an amendment to the military pay bill then before Congress because it was "difficult to refuse a plea by the President."

A DIFFERENCE

Gruening said there was a difference between men who enlisted voluntarily in the armed forces and those who were "snatched out of civilian life" and sent to Southeast Asia as draftees.

* * *

Gruening's amendment would provide that no draftee could be sent to fight in Southeast Asia unless he volunteers or unless Congress authorizes the assignment of draftees to the area.

Cong Front Is Shadow Regime Set to Take Over S. Viet Nam

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Evidence at hand, and past experience indicate that if the United States dealt with the Viet Cong's political front, it would be negotiating with what amounts to a shadow government prepared to take over in South Viet Nam.

News Analysis

The Mat-Tran Dan-Toc Gaialphong is organized as if it were the government of a sovereign nation with president, cabinet ministers, diplomatic representatives abroad and even regular army and police.

★ ★ ★

In English it is called the National Liberation Front for South Viet Nam. In propaganda it is known by its initials: NLFSV. It has its own flag — red and blue as distinguished from the red flag of North Viet Nam.

The manner of organization recalls classic lines devised by Communists for forces the ultimate purpose of which is to envelop a nation. Guerrilla and underground organizations have been set up elsewhere the same way for years.

DECISIVE VOICE

The Front and Hanoi insist that South Viet Nam's affairs must be settled "in accordance with the program" of the Front, which claims a decisive voice as the South's "only genuine representative."

That program was written at the time the Front was formed, probably in September 1960. Its existence was announced in December 1960.

★ ★ ★

The program bears the imprint of classic Communist tactics for underdeveloped areas around the world. It promises practically everything the ordinary people of such areas might yearn for.

The program calls for unity against the foreigner, in this case "the colonial regime of American imperialism." It pledges a liberal, democratic regime. It promises an independent economy, improved living standards, land reform and reduced land rent, distribution of land to peasants who work it and displacement of all landlords.

CULTURE, EDUCATION

The program promises culture and education. It promises a national army — but abolition of unpopular conscription. It would abolish all "foreign bases" and offer clemency to lesser collaborators with the Americans such as "simple soldiers" or lesser officers.

★ ★ ★

A lawyer, Nguyen Huu Tho, 55, is chairman of the Front's Central Committee Presidium, part of the classic form of Communist organization.

★ ★ ★

Tho made it clear this week that the front is set up along lines of a government which is prepared to take over. It has, he reported, its own "main force army" in addition to regional armed units, militia and guerrilla forces.

★ ★ ★

The Front has set up "people's self-administration committees" in areas held by the Viet Cong. These form the basis for provincial and village-level government. The Front also claims to have distributed to peasants in those areas about four million acres of rice fields and other lands.

GOVERNMENT CHIEF

The Front's Central Committee chairman is the equivalent of a chief of government. Vice chairmen are potential deputy premiers. The head of the commission for foreign relations would become a foreign minister, the member representing "liberation trade unions" would be a labor minister, and so forth.

The Front encompasses, at least nominally, all manner of groups: the People's Revolutionary party, the Socialists, the "South Viet Nam Democratic party," the national minorities, the Buddhists, the Hoa Hao and Cao Dai religious sects. One member of the Central Committee, Joseph Maria Ho Hue Bang, is described in propaganda as a "son of devout and patriotic Catholics." Also represented are "liberation associations" of women, peasants, youth and others whose organizations are linked with Communist-controlled federations abroad.

★ ★ ★

The Front has missions in Moscow, Peking and all Communist countries, and in a number of non-Communist nations among those which are described as neutralist. These missions would become the Front's diplomatic corps.

★ ★ ★

The Front claims legitimacy on grounds that it was organized in South Viet Nam's Cochin China. Its propaganda does not say when or exactly where. But the evidence points to at least inspiration from Communist North Viet Nam.

BIGGEST BOOST

Authoritative witnesses insist that the Communist movement in South Viet Nam got its biggest boost about 1957. Ngo Dinh Diem — heavily supported by the Americans — had accomplished what some U.S. sources described as a miracle by stamping out dissident armed sects and pulling the country together. Then the Diem regime grew suspicious of any opposition of whatever political color.

★ ★ ★

Historian Philippe Devillers, a French expert on Viet Nam, wrote in 1962 that Diem's policies played directly into Communist hands. Calm had been established in South Viet Nam, but Diem began to stage widespread manhunts, arresting Democrats, Liberals, Socialists, adherents of sects and suspected Communists alike with little discrimination, Devillers wrote.

★ ★ ★

The Communists began to organize in earnest in the villages. In 1959 the new phase of the war in Viet Nam began, and in 1960 the NFLSV was formed.

Dominican Deportations Threatened

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — President Hector Garcia-Godoy warned Thursday night that he will deport extremists of both the left and the right if necessary to end terrorism in the sorely beset Dominican Republic.

The president, whose provisional government was pushed close to collapse by eight days of violence and a general strike, said he also plans a thorough governmental shake-up to counter his critics' charges of political partiality.

★ ★ ★

He emphasized in an interview that he considers persuasion an ineffective weapon against disorder and that muscle will be applied hereafter against all persons "regardless of who they are."

With the end of the general strike Thursday, terrorism began subsiding in the battered Dominican capital. Two bombs exploded Thursday, and one killed a child. It was the 21st death since police fired on a crowd of demonstrators Feb. 9 and touched off the wave of violence.

RIGHT-WING ACTIVITY

Although the Communists were accused of trying to keep the violence alive, incidents in the last 24 hours also exposed the participation of right-wing extremists.

Well-known affiliates of ultra-conservative political parties were reported involved in at least three attempts to force small shopkeepers in the northern part of the city to close down.

Some of the men were heavily armed and wore military and police uniforms, authoritative sources reported. At least four of these were detained and later released by the National Police, but it could not be learned if they were actually officers.

Garcia-Godoy said the terrorists extremists were "well-known as they always have been" to the authorities.

'SUPREME INTEREST'

"I would do everything possible to avoid deportations," he said, "but there is a supreme interest in the country, and that is to carry out honest elections."

He said all legal avenues would be exhausted before resorting to extreme measures to enforce the law. He pointed out that the institutional act which is the legal base for his government empowers him to act "when the national interest and internal security are involved."

★ ★ ★

Asserting that circumstances have dictated the removal of certain persons to work out a solution to the military problems, the president said there were also "elements of friction within the public administration, and to achieve a more harmonious climate for the elections, changes will have to be made in the governmental administration."

The changes will not affect the cabinet, he said, but will mean the dismissal of a large number of persons in other positions considered to be sources of political influence.

NO INDICATION

The president gave no indication of steps he would take to make good on his pledge in a speech Wednesday night that the commanders of the army and the air force would leave the country for assignments abroad.

The removal of the two commanders was the prime objective of the general strike, and it was called off after the president's speech. The two men — top military leaders of both the Gens. Jacinto Martinez Arana armed forces and the April revolution from the scene, but only and Juan de Los Santos Cespedes — had been scheduled to the rebels and the armed forces go, under a compromise Garcia-minister, Navy Capt. Francisco Godoy worked out removing the J. Rivera Caminero, complied.

Texas White House Dateline May Change

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — When President Johnson is at the Texas White House in the future, stories about him may be datelined "San Antonio" instead of Austin.

Press, security, military and communications experts recently made a survey of San Antonio facilities. In the past, when President Johnson has been at the LBJ Ranch, press briefings have been conducted at Austin, and most stories were given an Austin dateline.

Snow and Cold Wallop North

By The Associated Press

An arctic air mass covered northern areas from Montana into Upper Michigan today, with blizzard conditions in sections of North Dakota and Minnesota.

Temperatures edged to near 40 below zero in northern Minnesota and lowest marks of the season were reported in some cities.

★ ★ ★

The worst of the bitter wintry weather hit the northeastern half of North Dakota and the northern half of Minnesota, with temperatures 20 below and lower, snow and gusty winds. Blowing snow cut visibility and driving conditions were hazardous.

Snow amounts in the cold belt were from 1 to 3 inches but there was a heavy snow cover across most of the northern border region. Subzero cold stung areas in Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

The mercury dropped to 37 below at International Falls, Minn., early today after Thursday's high of -17. At the same time it was 30 below zero at Grand Forks, N. D., and -25 at Hibbing, Minn.

Dry weather prevailed across most of the southern two-thirds of the nation except for rain from the central Gulf Coast to Georgia and northern parts of Florida. Mild weather continued in most of Florida with temperatures again in the 80s Thursday in the southern half of the state.

There was a difference of 110 degrees in temperatures early today at International Falls — 37 below — and the 73 at Key West, Fla.

Indict Suspect in Boy's Death

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Alberto Sanchez, 27, was indicted on a charge of second-degree murder Thursday in the death of 2-year-old Eddie Montalvo, whose body was found on an abandoned Monroe County, Mich., farm last Jan. 15.

★ ★ ★

Following the indictment by the Lucas County Grand Jury Sanchez was returned to jail pending arraignment Feb. 22. Second-degree murder carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment in Ohio.

★ ★ ★

The boy was the son of Carolina Montalvo, with whom Sanchez had been living.

Begging Your Pardon, You're Our Valentine

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Harry J. Neubarth received a delayed Valentine yesterday from 45 San Quentin Prison convicts who identified themselves as tenants of "Neubarth Alley."

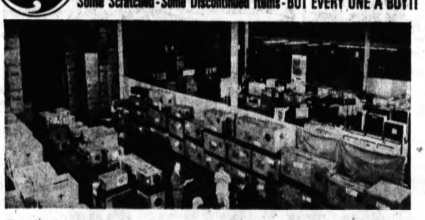

The convicts' card was 8 by 10 inches and decorated with love birds, horseshoes and words "cops" and "robbers." It's salute to the judge went: "He gave us all security . . . when he banged his gavel down . . . and dumped us in this bide-a-wee . . . in old Repressa Town."

Give Daydreaming Pupil Special Tasks

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.

Dear Dr. Nason: Teacher reports that our 9-year-old daydreams so constantly that he seldom has his work done on time. Even when it is completed, it is of such inferior quality that it is obvious he gave it very little attention. How can we help him overcome this?

R.S., Costa Mesa, Calif.

DR. NASON

It would be easier to suggest a solution if the basic reasons for his daydreaming could be determined. He may be shutting out the world and making one where he is happy. This is usually a home problem.

* * *

Or he may feel inadequate for the schoolwork demanded or, on the other hand he may be bored. These are definitely school problems.

In any event, specific projects and assignments for which he must plan and put forth unusual effort are often effective in breaking the daydreaming habit. A creative writing assignment or a major part in a play, a special report to the class as a whole, are other suggestions.

Proceed slowly and with caution, since daydreaming resulting from lack of self-confidence cannot be cured by pushing.

* * *

Dear Dr. Nason: What is the purpose of detention? I honestly can't see where it serves any purpose. Our local school gives out detentions for trivial reasons. It is as if they were trying to win some kind of a reward for giving out the most. Every day there are 20 to 50 students in the detention hall with one teacher on detention duty.

Mrs. T. H., Anonymous

After-school detention is so far removed from, and so little related to the "crime," it often loses its disciplinary value. Punishment should be prompt so that it is associated with the offense.

However, sometimes detention can serve a useful purpose as in the case of the third grade boy who was kept in at recess to reread a story. He had been a habitually careless reader.

Just this one experience had a lasting effect. From that day on he gave care and attention to reading assignments. In this case the punishment not only fitted the crime, it was corrective.

* * *

Dear Dr. Nason: My neighbor's son is halfway through college and still has no goal. How should this young man go about remedying this sad situation?

G.L., Long Beach, Calif.

Whether or not a person is goal-minded and a planner is a habit of thinking and an attitude toward life in general. This young man must make up his mind to start working toward something.

He may need the help of a job counselor from the college staff or elsewhere. Or, perhaps he needs only to make a decision to take charge of his life and start moving in some direction. The first goal chosen need not be adhered to for the rest of his life.

One third of college students change their majors during their four years of college. This does not mean that they should not have made the first choice. The educational gains made while working toward the first goal facilitate attainment of the ultimate goal.

(You can write to Prof. Nason in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions of wide interest will be answered in his column.)

House Unit Set to Work on Bills in Line With Own Ionia Findings

LANSING (AP) — The House Mental Health Committee was in a position today to start work on its own recommendations to revamp the Ionia State Hospital and revise state mental health laws.

The committee recommended changing the much-investigated and frequently criticized 80-year-old hospital from an institution for the criminally insane to a general psychiatric facility.

* * *

The committee received at least some of the tools it needed when Chairman F. Charles Raap, D-Muskegon, introduced three bills that would:

- Establish an evaluation and diagnostic center for all persons found incompetent to stand trial, found innocent by reason of insanity, or declared criminal sexual psychopaths;

* * *

- Revise state law to allow discharge of criminal sexual psychopaths under the same regulations as other mental patients;
- Commit all accused criminals found mentally ill to the mental health department, rather than directly to Ionia.

They were introduced less than an hour before the committee released its report and recommendations—the result of a year of investigations by legislators, the auditor general and the mental health department, following a series of suicides in 1964 and 1965.

Dr. Robert Kimmich, state mental health director, said he found "a substantial degree of similarity" between his findings and recommendations and those of the committee.

* * *

Gov. George Romney said he was "in basic agreement with the recommendations."

I take the John Lodge to work every day and it seems like traffic is heavier on Monday and Friday. Is that true? Why?—H.W.

True, and nobody really knows why. Best guess: Most everyone is in town Monday and Friday; salesmen and others on the road travel midweek. Peak hours on the Lodge southbound, 5-6 a.m., northbound, 3 to 5 p.m. Last year's heaviest day was Feb. 15, with 134,147 cars. Even the low, 112,000 because of the Big Snow, was well above the Lodge's rated capacity of 90,000.

I had an account at the Industrial National Bank, which is gone and I don't know where the money is. Can you find it?—J.P.

It's found. Industrial National merged with Manufacturer's National in 1955 and they have your account safe and warm. You can pick up your money any banking day.

There's a terrible smell coming from the manhole at Northlawn and Fullerton, so bad you have to hold your breath. What can be done about it?—J.B., 13639 Northlawn.

Smell's gone, probably because everybody washes their laundry Mondays, flushing out the sewers. There are 3,000 miles of sewers in Detroit, 50,000 manholes. When flow drops in some lines, decay and odor start. Sewer Division flushes out stagnant lines on request (Call 893-4300). All sewage winds up at the treatment plant on W. Jefferson where it's turned into water even more pure than state standards for swimming pools.

In 1964, the City cut down a tree in front of my house and left a big stump, which is very much alive. I have complained but nothing is being done. Will you look into this for me?—E. T.

A Forestry Division inspector is on the way. If the stump has to come out, it will, for free.

Michigan Bell says it will do "everything possible" to get you service. Problem: You moved from one exchange area to another, where all available lines are in use. Michigan's economic boom means more people switching from 2-party to private liner. Bell's spending $175 million this year to expand.

WOMEN'S SECTION

They'll Do the Rest

Start Coffee Klatch

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have positive proof that my husband is running around with five women in this neighborhood. Three live on my block and all have good and faithful husbands.

Then there is a divorcee down the street, and a young widow in the next block. Each thinks she is the only one. I hate to walk down the street because I know who they are. What should I do?

ABBY

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If you want to break up the harem, invite them all for coffee and conversation and tell them what they have in common. That should cut down the membership considerably.

And don't worry about punishing your husband. The others will take care of that!

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: A real nice guy who works with me has been looking awfully tired lately, so I asked him if he had not been feeling well.

He replied, "Our six-year-old boy has always slept with the wife and me because he's afraid to sleep alone. Now we bought him a dog that's part-German and the boy won't go to sleep unless he has the dog next to him, so I don't get much sleep in such crowded conditions." He was absolutely serious.

Abby, how idiotic can people be?

AMAZED

DEAR ABBY: A father who lets his six-year-old son sleep with him and his wife, and can't say no when the boy demands to include the dog, is in for many more sleepless nights.

This "real nice" guy needs a "real good friend" to tell him what's what.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Years ago I entered into a "shotgun" marriage. The agreement was that we marry to legalize the child's birth, the mother would raise the child, and we would go our separate ways. We never lived together.

Several years later my "wife" called me from another town to tell me that she had gotten a divorce and had remarried. I then married a lovely girl.

The other day my first wife MAILED me some divorce papers to sign!! She admitted she had lied to me about having obtained the divorce years ago, and she is just now getting it. Abby, I have a wife and family. How do I get out of this mess without a lot of publicity? Can we secretly marry quickly in another state?

For obvious reasons I can't divulge my name, and don't want to discuss this with a lawyer.

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: When people have a medical problem, they can't get a doctor fast enough. Why, then, when they have a legal problem, are they reluctant to get a lawyer?

Laws are made to HELP people as well as to punish them, you know. And a lawyer can protect you by telling you what your rights are.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold F. Kendrick, Cherokee Road announce the engagement of their daughter, Kay Christel, to John David DePauw, son of the John A. DePauws of Argyle Avenue. She is a sophomore at Central Michigan University. Her fiance attends Lawrence Institute of Technology. Late August vows are planned.

Musical Teas Are Scheduled

Next week Pontiac members of the Detroit Grand Opera Association will acquaint friends with the March 11 "Overture to Opera V" by giving a series of teas.

Hortense Riddick will begin the events on Sunday, by entertaining with Phyllis Smith Harris, Pontiac vocalist, as guest of honor.

★ ★ ★

On Tuesday morning, Mrs. James W. Gell will open her Wishbone Drive home for an informal preview of the Overtures. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. Raymond Ashare, Mrs. James Howlett and Mrs. Alphonse Zujko.

That afternoon Mrs. Harold Fitzgerald's Ottawa Drive home will be the locale for a tea where Dr. David Di Chiera will be in attendance. Dr. Di Chiera is the producer and narrator of the Opera Overtures. Mrs. Maxwell Shadley will cohostess the tea with Mrs. Fitzgerald.

★ ★ ★

On Friday the events will conclude with a tea given by Mrs. Harold Furlong, Mrs. Ferdinand Gaensbauer and Mrs. Arthur Young at Mrs. Gaensbauer's Hammond Lake home.

Guests will hear Barbara Gibson, coloratura soprano, perform during the afternoon. Miss Gibson, a Hammond Lake resident, is in the cast of the Opera Overtures.

Hems Are Inching Upwards to the Absurd

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK — In grandpa's day the first sight of a shapely ankle peeping demurely from beneath a shortened skirt — maybe four inches from the floor —sent many a gay blade into raptures.

★ ★ ★

To the serious family man of that time, though, it was cause to fulminate against the wicked wiles of womankind.

Today the baring of the next — and less graceful — joint, the knee, is again dividing public opinion.

With the Paris couturiers mostly signing off dresses two or three inches above the knee, a London columnist has suggested Queen Elizabeth II raise her skirts a bit. Hers are now 3½ inches below the knees.

Here in this country a random sampling of knowledgeable men shows that even those most opposed to the premature hemline are most wistfully resigned than vehement.

WHY NOT?

With a shrug, David McCallum, a "Man from U.N.C.L.E.," says peaceably: "Why not? So they'll go up an inch or two and then they'll go down below the knee an inch or two and then maybe back up again."

But bare knee fashions struck out with Gil Hodges, manager of the Washington Senators baseball club.

"I don't care for them," Hodges says. "That's my first opinion and probably my last. To me, short skirts are for a young child to wear. For 6-year-olds I'd go along with it. But I think dresses should grow up with the woman."

★ ★ ★

On the other hand, Andy Warhol, a leading pop artist, likes them. "The shorter the skirt the better for the space age," he sees it. "They will go very, very short and then turn into shorts."

It may take a generation for older women to get used to them, Warhol thinks, but when they start wearing them young they'll accept them as they grow older.

Norval Packwood of Mays Landing, N.J., tends to disagree.

FOR YOUNGSTERS

"On the more elderly ladies I think it would look absurd to see skirts that you are accustomed to seeing on teen-agers or younger," finally admits Packwood, reluctant about commenting at all. He is secretary of the American Health Alliance, made up of nudists' groups.

"Any man who doesn't enjoy looking at pretty legs must be evil," says singer-actor Sammy Davis Jr. Then he directed himself to women: "If you're going to be a girl, be a girl. If you've got it to show, show it — but not too much. Short skirts, as I see it, isn't too much."

NORMAN NORELL

The dean of American fashion designers, Norman Norell, who was holding the line against bare knees last fall, says now: "You have to go along with the times. You can't hold out. In my own collection I'm going a littler shorter, hitting the top of the knee, shadowing the knee a little bit. But next season something should be done with stockings to smooth out the knee."

Norell, most copied man in the U.S. wholesale fashion market, goes on philosophically:

★ ★ ★

"When something happens that gets everyone in an uproar, then something always happens to make it right.

"Elbows are just as ugly a joint as knees — although knees do meet you head on — and I can remember when all women had to have elbows covered. Now no one thinks anything about bare elbows.

"Maybe it will be the same way with knees."

Three inches above her knees and it's adorable.

Three inches above her knees and it's atrocious.

Getting 'Snippy'

There are scissors and shears galore and pinking shears of several sizes.

There should be a small pair of scissors tied to every sewing machine and a good cutting shears that is used only for cutting fabric.

* * *

Every sewing basket or box should have a sharply pointed pair of scissors ready for snipping corners, trimming and clipping seams.

There are multitudes of uses for pinkers, shears, scissors, and the special pair for the sewing machine; and none should ever be used for anything but fabrics and threads.

U-M Students Winding Up Trimester, Pledging

By PAMELA GRIFFIN

University of Michigan students are realizing this week how quickly the trimester passes. Already, students are in the midst of taking midterm examinations and preclassifying for the next semester.

Many students are also busy as new pledges, for fraternity and sorority rush is now over, after three exciting weeks.

PLEDGES

Several sororities on campus have pledged area women. Kappa Kappa Gamma claimed Carolyn Dameron and Mary Snyder, both of Bloomfield Hills. Pat French, of Motorway Drive, chose Alpha Xi Delta as her sorority; Kathy Gallagher of Franklin pledged Chi Omega; and Chris Hutton of Bloomfield Hills is a new Alpha Phi pledge.

Other girls are Nancy Patton, Bloomfield Hills, who pledged Alpha Delta Pi; Cheryl Hight, Mark Street, who pledged Alpha Omicron Pi; and Carol Metes and Kitty Shannon, both of Bloomfield Hills, proud pledges of Collegiate Sororis.

FRATERNITIES

Michigan men also took pledges this semester; and their rush, though quite different from the women, put rushees through just as busy a schedule of smokers, parties, and informal meetings at the fraternity.

Jim Embree, Ottawa Drive, this semester helped his fraternity, Chi Phi, in its Rush. Jim, a pledge of last semester, was president of his pledge class.

Another fall pledge, Dave Carney, Mohawk Road, rushed with his fraternity, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

* * *

A new member of Theta Xi's pledge class is Ed Chase of Robindale Lane. Theta Xis are busy working on Winter Weekend, as are other housing units across campus.

The big event is scheduled for February 25 and 26, and promises to be a fun-filled, busy week-end.

Location Is Factor in This Case

By The Emily Post Institute

In answer to the often-asked question of what to wear to a wedding, the choice of clothes depends upon the size and time of the wedding as well as the customary practices of the community.

Wedding guests today are wearing simpler clothes than they used to.

At very big daytime weddings, correct clothes for men used to be gray striped trousers with a cutaway coat or the less formal black sack suit.

However, today very few men wear anything more formal than plain business suits, whether dark blue or dark gray. During hot weather, especially at simple seashore and country weddings, light suits or white or light flannel trousers with plain flannel coats are suitable.

The sport coat is as out of place for a guest as it should be for the groom.

In certain cities, especially in the South where evening weddings are customary, tail coats are still seen. In those of less formality, the tuxedo coat is the only one ever worn in the evening.

In simpler communities, men wear plain navy-blue suits on all occasions in the evening as well as during the day.

As a general rule, at a formal evening wedding the women wear low-neck-and-no-sleeves evening dresses, with flowers or clips or hair ornaments or perhaps a lace scarf over their hair and shoulders in church.

At a very simple wedding in the evening or during the day, they wear afternoon dresses, with small becoming hats or else a flower.

When not going to the reception, whatever clothes are worn habitually to church are correct.

Children always wear their best party clothes.

Q: I am 16 years old and have an older married sister. When introducing her to friends my own age, do I introduce her as "My sister Eileen or as "Mrs. Jones"?

A: You introduce her as "my sister (pause) Mrs. Jones."

The Emily Post Institute offers reader booklets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette.

Learn to Live on Husband's Salary

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

"We're getting married this spring, and our budget is causing us much concern," writes M. F., of New York City. "Most of our friends are marrieds who are already in debt because of poor budgets.

MARY FEELEY

"Seeing the problems they have, I'm asking for advice in advance."

This young bride-to-be goes on to say:

"My fiance takes home $95 and I take home $86 per week. We plan on spending no more than $120 for rent. Insurance — life and medical —will come to $30 a month.

"We will both commute. I'll take a bus or train, he will use our car. The only other fixed expense I can see now is possibly a new car loan.

"We don't intend starting a family for at least two or three years. So is it advisable to rely somewhat on my salary? Our bank account should be somewhere between $1500 and $2000 when we marry (I hope).

* * *

"Your help will be greatly appreciated, as we don't want to learn from trial and error."

Let me say this first of all, M. F. The young married couple who sets up the basic budget on the husband's salary alone usually gets off to a better start. Not a more luxurious start, I admit. But the history of love and marriage tends to show that children often come along a bit sooner than the budget allowed for.

Two important things you want to watch are rent and instalment buying. Both come under the head of fixed expenses — and believe me, they are fixed! If the wife finds she's expecting a baby sooner than they had planned and has to give up her job, then the husband is suddenly burdened with larger monthly payments than his own income can support. An extra $15 to $30 a week out of his salary can topple the love nest right out of the three.

Since you say you don't want to learn by trial and error, consider these points:

$120 for rent may make sense for the kind of living standard you both are accustomed to. But try hard to find something in the way of a monthly rental closer to his one week's salary. If you're already committed to that $120 apartment, however, a weekly budget on your future husband's salary alone would work out something like this: (Note that this budget is set up on a four-week's basis for the month.

Three months a year when there are five weeks in the month, you'll have a few extra dollars from housing and utilities, included in household operating costs.)

Housing, $30; household operating costs, $5; food at home, $20; clothing, including upkeep, $5; savings and insurance, $7.50; personal allowance (his weekly work expenses), $10; miscellaneous, $4; medical, $2.50; recreation and entertainment, $5; car operation including insurance, $6. Total, $95.

Now let's see what you can do with your $86 a week:

Transportation, lunches, etc., $10; additional clothing (hose, shoe repair, etc.), $3; other related job expenses, $3; increase in purchases for the home because you're pressed for time, $4.

This is a bite of $20 out of your weekly salary for what is called Job Related Expenses for the Working Wife. To be realistic, we should also add another $6 a week for additional entertainment and unexpected expenses.

* * *

You will doubtless want to buy some furniture at the start, but go easy and don't get into instalment commitments that will burden you. On your income you could conceivably put aside about $40 a week for necessities, regular savings and furnishings, and $20 toward the purchase of the new car.

A sound aim for a savings account is from 3 to 6 months' income, based on your husband's gross income. This is ideal, and often hard to accomplish. But I'm telling you what to shoot at.

As for the $1500 to $2000 you both may have when you marry: part of this can go toward the wedding and honeymoon, or toward furniture, whichever will make the most happiness for the two of you.

* * *

Laundry is still done by hand in true Roman style at Vatican City. Behind the dignified buildings, the freshly-washed clothes are strung up between windows to fly in the breeze.

New Policy for Groups Is Subject

At their monthly dinner meeting Wednesday, the Insurance Women of Pontiac heard of a new approach to the problem of providing automobile insurance to certain groups of individuals.

The speaker was William B. Feutz, assistant director of sales for the League Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Feutz explained how the company — after considerable planning with business officials, leaders in the insurance industry and others interested — was launching a pilot program to insure their 200 employes in a group auto policy.

An open discussion period followed.

During a brief business meeting, Martha Henry was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee for "Boss Night" to be observed in May, and Mrs. Beth Jackson reported on the membership drive.

Several new members were welcomed by the group.

Model Rooms to Be Displayed

"The "gallery vignette" will give show visitors ideas on how to use period furniture. The displays are sponsored by Englander's stores.

Table Skirt Is Elegant Accessory

The current popularity of long skirts for at-home entertaining is now matched in home furnishings. Long-skirted table covers, opulently fringed, are an important part of Bates' new "Country Collection" in the Masterpiece Series.

★ ★ ★

These exciting new table fashions are rapidly gaining popularity across the country. Available in five patterns with over 30 color combinations, they have the added advantage of being machine-washable, tumble-dryable, and never requiring an iron.

★ ★ ★

The versatility of these table covers enables them to be used throughout the house: in the living room to hide the awkward legs of an old table; in a bedroom to disguise a sewing machine, luggage or TV set hidden under a plywood-topped table.

All patterns in this group can be obtained with matching spreads for a coordinated bedroom look.

Woven in one piece, these deeply fringed table covers are available in 72" and 90" rounds and 64"x84" or 64"x108" ovals.

Prices range from $16 to $25.

Will Observe 24th Year

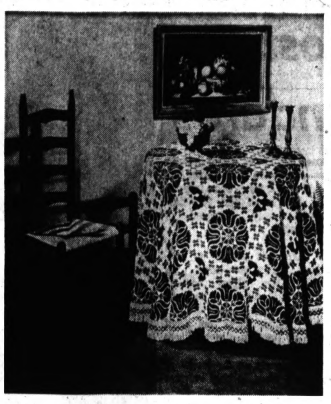

Blue Star Mothers, Chapter 4, are planning a 24th anniversary dinner Tuesday.

When members met recently at the YMCA, announcement was made of a district meeting in Detroit on March 10.

Donations were made to the group's chaplain's fund and the Veterans' Hospital at Dearborn.

Models' Trick

Powdering the lips before applying lipstick remains a favored trick of models.

"Eagle," a stylized design composed of eagles, snowflakes and Tudor roses, is reminiscent of the American colonial period. It is one of the table fashion designs in the Bates "Masterpiece Collection" of bedspreads and table covers. Machine washable, machine dryable, no press.

Government Boosts Car Safety Standards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine new automobile safety features, ranging from recessed or breakaway controls to wreck-resistant fuel tanks and lines are proposed by the General Services Administration for government vehicles.

The new standards will be published next month to boost safety requirements on all passenger and commercial vehicles purchased by the agency for government use.

★ ★ ★

Officials declined to speculate on what effect the government changes might have on general production of automobiles. However, some sources noted that the auto industry in the past has included as standard equipment safety features first required for federal vehicles.

These have included seat belts, padded dashboards and sun visors, two-speed windshield wipers and back-up lights.

NEW STANDARDS

The new standards which GSA proposes to make effective in September 1967 for 1968 models, include:

1. Window and door controls placed either in out-of-the-way spots, recessed or of types that would break away upon impact.

2. Ash trays and the like, out-of-the way, recessed or breakaway.

★ ★ ★

3. Armrests shaped to provide a fairly good-sized area without any sharp corners which might cut into a person's pelvic region.

4. Padded backs on front seats for protection of backseat riders.

5. Headrests on the backs of the front seats to help prevent whiplash neck injuries.

6. Side markers, either electrical or reflective, so that the outline of stopped cars may be seen at night.

7. Rear window defoggers capable of clearing 75 per cent of the glass area within ten minutes.

★ ★ ★

8. Roll bars for soft-top vehicles to protect the occupants in case the vehicle overturns. The officials emphasized that the government does not buy convertibles but does use a number of other types of soft-top vehicles.

9. Fuel tanks and fuel pipeline strong enough to withstand impacts without breaking.

ACCEPTABLE STANDARD

The standard requiring that the steering wheel and steering column collapse under impact would be amended to make it plain that collapsible steering wheel columns are acceptable.

GSA bought 9,542 passenger automobiles among 43,480 vehicles it purchased in the year ended last June 30. GSA figures that the Defense Department buys about the same number of vehicles.

Dismiss Charge of Embezzling

DETROIT (AP) — Embezzlement charges against Kenneth Gremore, former head of the People's Community Hospital Association, were dismissed Thursday by Common Pleas Judge Julian P. Rodgers Jr.

★ ★ ★

Gremore was charged with embezzlement of $550.98 from the PCHA. Robert C. Goussy, assistant attorney general prosecuting the case, said it could not be established that Gremore was entrusted with handling funds.

★ ★ ★

Gremore faces examination March 3 on charges on conspiracy in connection with his activities in the PCHA. He was arrested Feb. 8 after an investigation into the authority's activities.

Red Wings Ready for Run at NHL Title

GROOMING ANOTHER CEPEDA — Jose Cepeda, 20, (right), younger brother of San Francisco Giants first baseman Orlando Cepeda, gets batting tips from Detroit Tigers' manager Charlie Dressen as he waits his turn in the batting cage at the Bengals' training camp in Lakeland, Fla. Dressen invited Jose to come to the Tigers' early camp for a tryout with the club when he was in Puerto Rico early in the winter.

Club Bolstered in 6-Man Deal With Boston

Detroit Gets Prentice, Boivin; Ron Murphy, Doak With Bruins

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings say they now feel equipped to make a run for the National Hockey League championship, with acquisition of veterans Leo Boivin and Dean Prentice from Boston.

In a six-player trade announced Thursday, Detroit dealt forward Ron Murphy and rookie defenseman Gary Doak to the Bruins in exchange for Boivin and Prentice. The Bruins also will get two amateur players to be named at season's end.

'HELPED CLUB'

"I honestly feel we have strengthened the club," declared Red Wing manager-coach Sid Abel. "If we were going to make a run for the championship, we had to have an experienced defenseman."

★ ★ ★

The Wings are planning to use Boivin as "traffic cop" on defense, a role played by Doug Barkley until the all-Star defenseman was knocked out of action by an eye injury in a game against Chicago Jan. 30.

The Wings also have been handicapped by the loss of defenseman Warren Godfrey, who is expected to be out for 10 days to two weeks with a knee injury.

Boivin and Prentice are both 33 and both 13-year NHL veterans. Prentice, who began his career with the New York Rangers, has scored 236 goals, including seven this season.

Boivin, regarded as one of the hardest body-checkers in the game, started his career with Toronto and joined the Bruins during the 1954-55 season.

★ ★ ★

Abel obviously was happy with the trade.

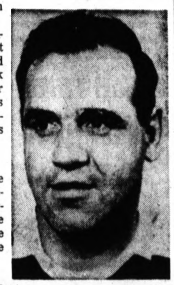

"Prentice is a veteran forward and should be even better with us. I'll probably reunite him with Andy Bathgate, who was his linemate on the New York Rangers for 11 years."

BOOSTS DEFENSE

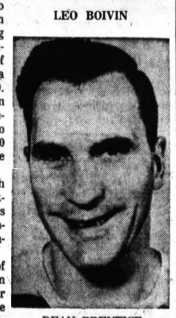

The acquisition of Boivin, Abel said, means "we'll have four able - bodied defensemen . . ." He said Boivin would work with Bill Gadsby, Gary Bergman, and Bert Marshall, making Bryan Watson available for spot play.

Murphy, 32, was in his second season with the Red Wings. He missed 19 games this year because of a knee injury and has scored 10 goals this season.

Doak, 19, is in his first season of pro hockey. He started the campaign at Pittsburgh and was called up for the second time by the Wings last weekend.

Chiefs in Road Game

'Midland Ready for Pontiac'

"Midland's ready for Pontiac."

This matter-of-fact statement was made by coach Tom Hiser of Midland after the Chemics had polished off Saginaw Douglas MacArthur, 84-64. What he will be saying just before tonight's game with PCH is another thing.

One thing the Chemics have going for them is the home court advantage. Another might be the fact that the Chemics can be very good on a given night.

They also have been prone to be very bad on occasion; such as the visit to PCH earlier this season when they were drilled, 67-54.

Coach Fred Zittel of Central scouted Midland Tuesday and came away with the comment, "Midland played the best game I've seen one team play this season on a given night."

And Zittle's seen some good ones — Saginaw, Arthur Hill, the Chiefs, Bay City Central.

This is a big game for the Chiefs. It could very well determine whether they will finish as champion, or co-champion, of the Saginaw Valley Conference.

TWO GAMES

PCH and Saginaw are tied for the lead and each has two games remaining. Saginaw goes to Flint Northern tonight and is expected to win handily. The Trojans are expected to end SVC play with a victory next week over hapless Bay City Handy.

PCH entertains Flint Northern in its finale and should defeat the Vikings. That's why it is important that they get past Midland tonight.

The Chiefs will have to show a vast improvement over their play in Wednesday's game with Pontiac Northern. Besides being "down" against PNH, the Chiefs were guilty of poor rebounding, defense lapses and signs of individualism.

The rebounding straightened out in the second half, but the other errors kept cropping up.

Forest Lake Pro 4 Strokes Behind

PANAMA (AP)— Bob Gajda, head pro at Forest Lake Country Club in Bloomfield Hills, was four strokes off the pace as the second round of the Panama Open got under way today.

Gajda, a regular on the Carribbean tour, fired a 35-38—73 and shared 19th place along with a crowd of nine golfers that included Mike Souchak.

Leading the pack with 69s were Art Wall Jr. of Honesdale, Pa., Bob McCallister of Corona, Calif., and Canada's Wilf Homenuik.

Just one stroke back after a 35-35—70 was 29-year-old Robert Clark of Monroe, Mich.

Michigan Pro Moving

HOLLAND (AP)—Phil Wiechman, 32, golf professional since 1962 at Holland's American Legion course and a member of the touring circuit last year, has taken a post as professional at Cape Fear Country Club in Wilmington. N. C. He begins his new duties March 18.

Wisconsin Wants to See Money Data

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wisconsin lawyers are seeking a court order to force open baseball's financial files.

★ ★ ★

The action, directed against all 10 National League teams, was the state's latest move in preparing for the trial of its antitrust suit against the Braves and the National League.

★ ★ ★

The trial is scheduled to open Feb. 28.

Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller, who received the state's motion Thursday, scheduled arguments on the question for today.

★ ★ ★

Defense attorneys have rejected earlier state bids for the financial documents. They have allowed the 10 clubs to list no more than general gross revenues.

Local Quintets Tumble

Mikemen Drop Fourth Contest

St. Frederick, WOLL Suffer Setbacks

Three local parochial quintets were knocked off in nonconference action last night.

★ ★ ★

Highland Park St. Benedict trimmed St. Michael, 69-53, Royal Oak St. Mary downed Waterford Our Lady of Lakes, 76-60, and Dearborn St. Alphonsus handed St. Frederick a 71-49 setback.

St. Benedict (10-3) rolled to a 37-25 lead at halftime and was never in trouble.

Tom McCleod, who led all scorers with 27 points, tossed in 17 in the first half.

★ ★ ★

Bill French picked up 18 points in a losing cause for the Mikemen (10-4).

BREAKS DEADLOCK

ROSM (12-4) broke a 41-41 tie at halftime by outscoring the Lakers 17-11 in the third period and WOLL couldn't cut the deficit in the final period.

★ ★ ★

Mike Mororski picked up 31 points to spark the ROSM attack.

Randy Wise tossed in 20 and Doug Springer added 19 for the Lakers, whose record dipped to 10-7.

St. Frederick (12-4) held a 69-60 lead with three minutes to go, but went into a cold spell and St. Alphonsus poured in 11 points in a row to sew up the victory.

★ ★ ★

John Baluk collected 29 points for the winners to pace all scorers.

St. Frederick suffered at the free-throw line in making only 11 of 24 attempts.

Leading St. Fred were Tony Bellasario with 17 points and Mike Quarles with 13.

Draft of Cassius Clay Unlikely Before April

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Chances are the heavyweight title fight between Cassius Clay and Ernie Terrell will be staged on March 29 as scheduled, despite Clay's 1-A draft classification.

"I don't think he would be included in the March call if he appealed," said Miss Winifred K. Phillips, chief clerk for Jefferson County's 10 draft boards.

WILL APPEAL

Clay, in Miami training for the fight, said he will appeal the classification assigned him Thursday by Local Board 47. "I don't know just how I'll appeal. I don't know anything about the law. I just know I will."

Miss Phillips said the quota was expected today, and that Clay's name won't be placed on the list of eligibles until 10 days after his reclassification.

★ ★ ★

"His isn't a special case," she said. "He has the same rights, privileges, and obligations as all other young men. And they all have 10 days to appeal a classification."

ATTORNEY COMMENTS

After the reclassification, however, Edward W. Jacko Jr., who identified himself as Clay's personal attorney and who testified for 40 minutes before the board, said ground for an appeal hasn't been determined.

The board meeting lasted about 1¼ hours, about 15 minutes longer than similar meetings usually require.

An appeal would be made to Clay's local board, which would forward it to the appeal board wherever his legal residence was established. This, presumably, would be in Miami at the present time.

A unanimous decision among the five-member appeal board would end the matter, and Clay's 1-A classification would stick. But a dissenting vote would send the appeal to Washington.

Miss Phillips said she doubts if the champion would be included in the March call, even if the appeal were denied. She said the quota must be filled within 10 days.

Track's Elite in N. Y. Meet

NEW YORK (UPI)—The most talented array of track and field stars to invade New York this season compete at Madison Square Garden tonight in the 98th anniversary New York Athletic Club games.

The premier portion of New York's five-meet season, the NYAC attracted most of the top American performers and a large number of European stars, including an eight-athlete delegation from Russia.

HIGHLIGHT

The highlight of the YNAC could come in the 55th running of the Baxter Mile, where defending champ Jim Grelle of Portland, Ore., and Kansas freshman Jim Ryun met head-on for the first time this season.

★ ★ ★

Grelle and Ryun, both unbeaten this winter, have run the five fastest indoor miles this season. They opposed each other six times last year with Ryun the victor on four occasions. In every race, they were under four minutes for the mile or its 1,500-meter equivalent.

Rhode Island Five Surprises Providence

By the Associated Press

Ernie Calverley and Rhode Island are back in the headlines in college basketball today.

Back in 1946 Calverley scored an historic 55-foot field goal in the last two seconds to save Rhode Island from defeat against Bowling Green in the NIT quarter-finals. Calverley went on to win the tournament's most valuable player award although Rhode Island lost to Kentucky by one point in the final.

NOW COACH

Now coach at his alma mater, Calverley saw his Rhodies score a decisive 84-61 upset road victory over the nationally ranked Providence Friars Thursday night. It shattered Providence's 39-game home winning streak.

★ ★ ★

Art Stephenson, a 6-foot-5 sophomore from New York City, led the assault with 29 points for the Yankee Conference leaders against the Friars, No. 6 in The Associated Press poll this week. Jimmy Walker, Providence star, fouled out as the Friars lost only their third game in 20 starts. Rhode Island now is 16-5 over-all.

PULL UPSET

The Denver Pioneers, playing at home, came through with the night's other upset. They snapped Oklahoma City's 10-game winning streak 84-83 aided by Rick Callahan's free throw on a technical foul called on Abe Lemons, the Oklahoma City coach, in the last 27 seconds. It was the Chiefs' fourth defeat against 20 victories.

★ ★ ★

Houston's Cougars extended their winning streak to 13 with an 111-96 home court triumph over Miami of Florida behind the combined 64 points of Joe Hamood and Elvin Hayes. Hamood, 5-11, got 33 and Hayes, 6-8, got 31.

PACES VICTORY

Dave Bing's 31 points paced Syracuse to its seventh straight, an 83-73 road conquest of Pitt. Cincinnati tightened its hold on first place in the Missouri Valley Conference by whipping North Texas 88-63 and Wichita took over second place by drubbing Bradley 98-79.

★ ★ ★

Louisville defeated Tulsa 64-50 and Drake downed St. Louis 75-59 in other Missouri Valley games. All the MVC home teams won.

OTHER GAMES

Manhattan beat Georgetown, D.C., 83-80 and NYU walloped Notre Dame 102-78 in a doubleheader at New York's Madison Square Garden. Baltimore Loyola went two overtimes to beat Seton Hall 73-71 and Mt. St. Mary's crushed American U. 92-71 in another twin bill at the Civic Center in Baltimore.

In other results, Utah State downed Seattle 84-74, Georgia Tech beat Tulane 99-85, Richmond took East Carolina 100-88 and William and Mary whipped St. Francis of Pennsylvania 67-52. All were home court victories.

Philadelphia 5 Dumps Lakers

Chamberlain Picks Up 30 in 136-121 Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The way Dolph Schayes looks at it, his Philadelphia 76ers have a good chance to win the eastern division title of the National Basketball Association.

And one of the last teams to argue with that viewpoint is the Los Angeles Lakers.

UPPER HAND

Philadelphia has manhandled the Lakers in eight of their 10 meetings this year and Thursday night was no exception as the 76ers pounded Los Angeles 136-121 at the Sports Arena in the only game scheduled in the NBA.

Wilt Chamberlain scored 30 points to spark the victory.

Philadelphia got off to a sizzling start behind the shooting of Hal Greer and grabbed a quick 35-25 lead. But Los Angeles bounced back in the second period and knotted the score at 62 apiece. At the half, the 76ers were back on top with a 71-66 margin.

The victory put the 76ers only one game back of the eastern division-leading Boston Celtics, and breathed new life into the club's hope for a playoff spot.

Group Talks of Expansion

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Expansion of the International Hockey League into Omaha, Neb., and Kansas City is scheduled to be discussed today at a meeting in Des Moines, Iowa.

★ ★ ★

Commissioner Andy Mulligan said applications of teams to be added next season will be discussed at a league meeting in March.

★ ★ ★

The IHL now has teams in Port Huron and Muskegon, Mich.; Toledo and Dayton, Ohio; Des Moines, and Fort Wayne, Ind.

MISSES THE MARK — Drake's Gary Lovemark (23) missed the mark on this play against St. Louis in a game in Des Moines last night, and the big reason for his missing was Eugene Moore (34). At right is Moore's teammate Rich Parks. Drake won, 75-59.

Lombardi's Gridiron Gamble Failed

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Wanted: young quarterback to serve as apprentice for Bart Starr and Zeke Bratkowski. Great chance for advancement if willing to sit and wait. Must like winter sports. Best fringe benefits.

Vince Lombardi, coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers is on the prowl for a young passer to take the place of Dennis Claridge, who apparently grew tired of waiting on the Packer bench.

★ ★ ★

Lombardi took a chance on Claridge in the Atlanta expansion draft and lost the former Nebraska star to the Falcons in the stocking program.

Cynical observers think Lombardi, who drives a hard bargain, had a deal set up or in the making when he put Claridge on the list. Others say the young man wanted a chance to try his wings.

EXPLAINS

This is the way Lombardi explained the situation Thursday as the National Football League meetings ended:

"Look at it this way. We won last year and we think we have a chance to win it again. That means Bart and Zeke will do most of the playing. Claridge would have had a third year sitting on the bench.

"I would like to get another young boy to bring along. I've got something to offer and some of the clubs may need what I have. I would like to have a third quarterback and I'll have one."

Lombardi said he had no intention of trading Paul Hornung or Jim Taylor, his regular running backs, before training camp opened. He has Tom Moore and Elijah Pitts, two additional veteran running backs, plus his highly touted rookies, Don Anderson of Texas Tech and Jim Grabowski of Illinois.

NO MONEY TALK

Although it has been widely reported that Anderson got $600,000 to sign and Grabowski over $250,000, Lombardi refused to talk money.

"I have no comment on any figures anybody has mentioned," said Lombardi. "But I see no problems. What makes my team anything unusual? Didn't the Bears have two big ones in Dick Butkus and Gale Sayers? They didn't come for peanuts."

★ ★ ★

The league meetings ended officially Thursday but the main business was transacted Wednesday when the Atlanta club was stocked with 42 experienced players.

No action was taken on expansion other than to repeat the league's desire to operate with 16 teams in 1967. Presentations will be made by interested cities at the spring meeting in late April or May at a site to be determined later.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said seven cities still were in the running. They are Boston, Cincinnati, Houston, New Orleans, Phoenix, Portland, Ore., and Seattle.

Rozelle said the owners had not discussed a common player draft or any merger with the rival American Football League. Rozelle indicated the bonus dollar war for collegians would continue, and pointed out that all 14 NFL teams made money in each of the last two years.

Clarkston Ace Leads

Cage Scoring Race Nears End

Time is running out for the challengers in the Oakland County scoring race.

★ ★ ★

With only two games remaining, Clarkston's junior sharpshooter, Dan Fife, owns a 31.2 average and a hefty lead in the scoring race.

Fife, a 6-2 guard, forward or center, plays at Holly tonight and closes the season next week as he and his teammates entertain Milford.

The last time Clarkston played Holly — a 67-59 victory — Fife paced the victory with 37 points, and it's unlikely the Broncos will be able to corral the Wolves' big gun tonight.

Gaining a little ground last was John Canine, who raised his average from 26.9 to 27.4 through 13 games.

Making the biggest jump, however, was Waterford's Rick Ziem, who advanced from seventh to fifth.

In two games last week, Ziem came up with 69 points to raise his average to 24.9 in 14 games.

★ ★ ★

Joe Burks continues to set the pace in the Saginaw Valley with a mark of 24.7. Bay City Handy's Bill Abbey holds second place with a mark of 230.

In the area scoring column, Paul Papak of Warren Cousino (21.0) and Bob Didur of Utica (20.6) are setting the pace.

Pro Coody Overcomes Bad Tucson Open Start

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Charles Coody carried a one-stroke lead into today's second round of the $60,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament, but no less than 20 other par-busters were within three strokes of the 28-year-old Texan.

Coody recovered from a first-hole bogey Thursday to fire a five-under-par 67 and capture the first day lead. Applying the most pressure were Dick Lotz and Mason Rudolph, who had 68s.

Doug Sanders, Larry Griggs, Joe Campbell, George Archer, Jay Dolan, Gardner Dickinson Jr., and Bob Johnson were tied two strokes back at 69.

★ ★ ★

Sanders and Dickinson have been among the pro tour's hottest players of late. Sanders won the recent Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic at Palm Springs, Calif., and Dickinson finished second in the Phoenix Open Monday after leading for three rounds.

THREE BEHIND

Grouped three strokes back at 70 after the first round were Randy Glover, Rocky Thompson, Dick Mayer, Julius Boros, Fred Parti, John Lotz, Steve Opperman, Billy Martindale, Johnny Pott and Steve Spray.

★ ★ ★

Coody, a Stamford, Tex., native who plays out of Fort Worth, toured the back nine first in one-under-par 35, then eagled the 520-yard par 5 second hole en route to a four-under 32 on the back nine.

It was the second straight sub-par opening round for Coody, who started with a 69 in the Phoenix Open and finished in a tie for ninth.

Young Net Star in Tough Match of U.S. Tourney

SALISBURY, Md. (UPI)—Arthur Ashe, one of the nation's top young tennis players faces tough competition tonight against Cliff Drysdale in the split quarter-finals of the United States Indoor tennis championships.

Ashe, of Richmond, Va., will be facing the South African who placed second in the U. S. Nationals at Forest Hills last August.

OTHER MATCH

In the other section of the quarter-finals, Ron Holmberg of Dallas will play Gene Scott of St. James, N. Y.

★ ★ ★

The first half of the quarter-finals played Thursday night saw 20-year-old Brazilian Tomaz Koch upset Mexico's Rafael Osuna 6-3, 6-4, and Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico defeated Bobby Lutz of Los Angeles 6-4, 6-4.

Pasarell and Koch, as well as the winners of tonight's quarter-finals, will meet in the semi-finals Saturday.

Amigos, Packers Victors

The Amigo's Club and The Packers took big steps in the city Class A and B men's recreation basketball playoffs Thursday night.

An upset in Waterford Township Continental League play cut its first-place tie to two teams.

The Amigos withstood Booth Homes late rally to remain the only undefeated team in the city "A" battle, 66-61. Cy Green had 20 of his 22 points in the first three periods while the winners were building a 53-44 lead.

Larry Huges had 23 for the losers before fouling out.

The Packers reached the semifinals of the "B" tourney by trimming McDonald's Drive-In, 69-48. Jeff Myers' 10 points in the first quarter sparked a quick 21-9 lead for the winners.

In the "B" losers' bracket, The Champs remained alive with an 86-44 rout of Stanfill's Sinclair; while Highland Lakes Community College ousted Tasty Bakery, 61-60.

In township action, Wayne's Service dumped Lakeland Hardware from a share of the lead, 65-63, when Dave Goff hit two free throws with three seconds to play.

Ryeson's Market and Buckner Finance continued deadlocked at 5-1 with 55-47 and 76-59 conquests of Bundy Built Homes and Zilka Heating respectively.

Jerry Paul had 29 points, including 17 free throws, to pace Buckner and lead all marksmen for the night. Gus Pantelides scored 20 for Ryeson's and Jim Hoke matched that for Wayne's.

Port Huron '6' Wins

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Frank Golembrosky's goal after 48 seconds of overtime gave Port Huron a 7-6 victory over Dayton Thursday, elevating the Flags to second place in the International Hockey League.

Game Boss Says Show Us Proof

LANSING (AP)—"Go out into the woods with us and show us," State Conservation Director Ralph MacMullan Thursday challenged those who say there is enough food in some areas to justify halting the shooting of does and fawns.

MacMullan said the department will reduce or eliminate antlerless deer quotas in northern areas where there is a proven surplus of winter deer food.

Following a sharp cut in the deer kill last hunting season, some hunters have asked for a moratorium in the harvesting of antlerless deer. One bill before the Legislature would ban such shooting for two years.

MacMullan invited "any Michigan citizen who thinks he knows of an area which can safely carry more deer to tell us about it and then go into the woods with us and show us. If there are such areas, we want to know about them."

WILL ADJUST

"Anyone who proves his case can be assured that future harvest quotas will be adjusted so that the area called to our attention will have as many deer as it can safely support," he said.

There should be some ground rules, however, he said. He outlined them as follows:

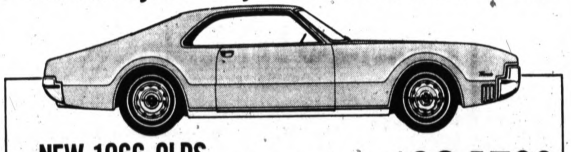

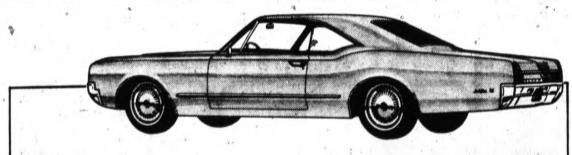

—Anyone who thinks he knows of such a surplus food area should contact the nearest department office and make a date to tour the area with a game biologist. All such requests will be acted upon, MacMullan said.

—The surplus food must be plants that deer eat and they must be in places where deer spend the winter.

—The area must be sizeable. "We cannot manage them (deer) on a 40-acre or square-mile basis. We've got to think in terms of areas at least the size of a county or larger," he said.

—The final decision must rest with game biologists. "They know what deer eat, and how much, and where they winter."

After 14 Huron Valley Handicap Team Tournaments, Dorothy and Mel Moore of Fairgrounds Bowling in Milford are seriously considering sticking to singles and doubles.

"The participation has been dropping steadily for several years," Mrs. Moore commented yesterday. A move made this year—unpopular with most of the top bowlers in the Pontiac area—has not increased the entries to date.

The team tournament, which will end Feb. 27th, has no guaranteed prizes, basing the rewards on the amount of entries.

The real sore spot with the local bowlers, though, is the banning of 200-average bowlers from the competition.

"The Stroh's team called last year and asked to bowl. Mel said it could since we had nothing on the entry blank saying professionals couldn't enter," Mrs. Moore related.

"One man became very upset, even wrote the ABC about having professionals in our tournament.

★ ★ ★

"So, we decided to make professionals ineligible this year, and there are a lot of classic league bowlers who have averages above 200 and are as good as professionals."

★ ★ ★

Therefore, the rule—created to ban professionals— was extended to prevent some of the area's "professionally-talented" bowlers from competing, also.

At least a half dozen teams from the West Side Classic stayed out of the tourney because of the rule.

Indications are, most of the same men won't support the Milford Doubles, either, which begin the first weekend of March.

Bowling is a big business in Michigan; the high-average kegler is plentiful. The Moores of Milford made their decision because they felt it was right—now they'll learn if their faith in the "handicappers" was justified.

SPARE PINS

An apology is due to Pontiac's non-touring Professionals.

Last week's column included a comment about pros being barred from the regular team event of the American Bowling Congress.

Albert Fran Bertram, secretary of the West Side Classic, was quick to correct the statement for this writer. Only touring professionals are ineligible.

Regular division ABC team entries may have one non-touring professional on their roster—but should the team win, the pro shouldn't count on attending the rigidly amateur Inter-American Bowling Tournament.

Otto Trzos of the Bloomfield Lions Club, also, promptly pointed out that group's financial support of the Pontiac Blind Bowlers at Huron Bowl.

A misguided West slipped into the club title last week.

★ ★ ★

The senior member of Sylvan Lake Tuesday's Men's League observed his 78th birthday this week with a 520 at Sylvan Lanes. Al Kohn included one game 32 pins above his 146 average in the celebration.

★ ★ ★

Local lodgemen have fared well so far in their group's state competition.

Ralph Ware of the Elks Lodge 810 reports three local leaders in the state tournament:

Ogg Cleaners has the actual team lead with 2809; Clarence Vidlund and Joe Figa pace the actual doubles with 1214; and the Dale Aumaugher-Howard King duo leads the handicap doubles with 1352.

In fact, the latter event finds Pontiac pairs controlling the top five spots. Aumaugher and King also are third in the actual doubles; while Joslyn Food Market and Matthews-Hargreaves run two-three in the team handicap standings.

At the state Eagles tournament last weekend, Pontiac's Ray James and Clyde Groat teamed for a 1282 to tie for the doubles lead with a Battle Creek duo.

U.S. Mentors Not Hopeful

HOLMENKOLLEN, Norway (AP) — John Caldwell, coach of the U.S. cross-country skiers was pessimistic about American chances in the World Nordic Ski Championships. And he was proved right.

Now Art Tokle, coach of the U.S. men's jumping team, gets his chance. He's just as pessimistic. And the chances are he also will be proved right.

The world championships opened Thursday with the cross-country event and the best U.S. finish was a 33rd by Mike Gallagher of Killington, Vt., who negotiated the 30-kilometer (18.7-mile) run in 1 hour, 46 minutes, 37.3 seconds.

That was considerably slower than Eero Maentyranta of Finland, who won an unprecedented third gold medal with a time of 1:37:26.

Caldwell admitted before the event "our chances are nil." He pointed out that the events were dominated by Scandinavians and Russians because those countries have thousands of athletes trained in the events.

"In the United States," said Caldwell, "we have maybe two or three hundred and most of them quit when they get out of college."

JUMPERS

Tokle, meanwhile, had a day to think about the chances of his team with Friday a day off before the jumping gets underway Saturday. He foresaw no medals and wouldn't even predict that his forces would be able to crack the top 12.

The U.S. four-man team will be made up of Dave Hicks and Gene Kotlarek of Duluth, Minn., and Jay Martin and John Balfanz of Minneapolis, Minn.

Seattle's Gunther Leading Qualifier

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Gunther of Seattle led after Thursday's fourth round of the Professional Bowlers Association $40,000 Fresno Open at Sunnyside Lanes.

Gunther had a total of 5,200 pins in the 24 qualifying games for a 216 average. He got the best six-game block Thursday in the tournament, registering a 1,470.

★ ★ ★

Don Johnson of Kokomo, Ind. finished second with 5,183 and Dick Weber, the bowler of the year from St. Louis, was third at 5,166.

The 16 semifinalists shoot 16 games Friday with the top four advancing to Saturday's nationally televised match game finals. The qualifying pins carry over into the semifinals.

Elks Women to End Action

Pontiac Bowlers Lag in Annual Tourney

The ninth annual Pontiac Lodge 810 Elks Ladies' National Invitational Bowling Tournament will conclude Sunday afternoon with Pontiac bowlers perhaps still in the background.

★ ★ ★

Not since 1961 has a local entry failed to take first place in at least one of the events, and that is the only time in the tournament's eight-year history.

But a record 3007 by the Ferndale Elks ladies' team has almost assured an end to Pontiac's four-year domination of the team championship.

Whether or not the local women can top the current top scores in singles, doubles and all events remains to be seen.

★ ★ ★

So far, the best Pontiac effort is the 1239 by Mary Jane Bailey and Marie Gromley in the doubles, which is good for fourth place.

Peanuts Lowry Leads Baseball Golfing Open

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Little Peanuts Lowrey of the Philadelphia Phillies increased his lead to five strokes here Thursday in the second round of the first annual Baseball Celebrity National Open Golf Tournament.

★ ★ ★

Lowrey, third base coach for the Phillies, shot 35-37—72 for even par on the Dunes Country Club course, but was still unhappy. He missed putts of less than three feet on four holes that would have given him birdies.

Dreams Alter With Age: Young Are Heroes, Middle-Aged Are Victims

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Only in youth do dreams make sense.

One of the worst things about middle age is what it does to your dream life.

BOYLE

Frankly, it turns it into a sweaty nightmare.

Girls, I suppose, dream of looking beautiful in a bridal veil and dwelling happily ever after in a 36-room, rose-covered cottage with a tall, dark handsome man who grows even handsomer with the passing years.

Boys and young men don't dream about marriage. They dream about high adventure, easy money and quick romances.

Every young fellow dreams of going alone into no-man's-land and safely bringing back a lost patrol.

★ ★ ★

Every young fellow dreams of floating through the air and reaching down and picking up handfuls of silver dollars strewn along the sidewalk, free for the taking.

Every young fellow dreams of walking down a dark street. Suddenly a long black roadster purrs up beside him. A long-haired blonde with a face of ruinous beauty leans out and says, "Hi there, sweet stuff! How about going for a li'l ole ride with li'l ole me?" He slides into the seat next to her, the car roars off and —

GENERAL IDEA

Well, I'm sure you get the general idea.

These youthful mirages of a steaming imagination are what I call sensible dreams. They portray life as it should be — chockful of fun-filled victories bought at bargain prices.

★ ★ ★

But as you grow older, your dreams change and wither. They lose their brightness and their laurel leaves. They become dull nightmares that bore you and couldn't possibly interest any other person except a psychiatrist.

We no longer dream of what we would like to have happen to us. We dream of what we are afraid will happen to us.

FRETFUL DREAM

For example, the wife who once dreamed of being a bride now dreams of someone in the family falling sick, being in an accident, or needing an operation.

At breakfast the next morning she pours these night-spawned premonitions of disaster into her husband's ears as if they were certain forecasts from heaven.

He doesn't want to hear them. He is all worn out. Bad dreams have kept him flopping like a fish all night. And what did he dream of? He dreamed of financial woes, losing his job, or work problems at the office.

In the dream most typical of a middle-aged man he is hanging from a cliff ledge by a tiny sapling. He boss is hacking at the roots with an ax, laughing maniacally, and yelling: "Ask me for more money, you!!!"

ENOUGH TROUBLES

These are what I call nonsense dreams. For we all have troubles enough while awake. Why dream up more?

Now and then, however, in middle age one does get a nonsense dream that makes sense. I had one the other night. I dreamed my wife turned into a mermaid.

"Was I a pretty mermaid?" asked Frances when I told her about it the next morning.

"The prettiest in the entire block."

"What did you do then?"

"I put you in the bathtub, called the circus, sold you for $10,000, got a divorce and married a rich young widow who owned a liquor store."

LOUSY DREAM

"I think that's a terrible dream," said Frances.

I didn't. It made me feel good all day.

State OKs 1st Claim Under New Law

LANSING (AP) — The first claims under the state's new motor vehicle accident claims fund were authorized for payment to a Lansing couple Thursday.

★ ★ ★

Secretary of State James Hare reported Harry Hendershot, a retiree, will receive $126 to cover damage to his car, hit by an uninsured driver. Mrs. Hendershot will receive $206 to cover injuries received in the accident.

★ ★ ★

Hare said fund officials currently are working on 147 cases, 71 involving property damage over a minimum of $200, as provided for by fund law, and 56 others involving bodily injury claims.

Over $1.1 Billion in Tax Boosts Eyed by States

WASHINGTON (AP) — State tax increases totaling more than $1.1 billion are reported under consideration by state legislatures meeting this year.

The increases would be in addition to a near record $1.3 billion of new or increased state income, sales and other taxes approved last year. A number of those took effect Jan. 1.

★ ★ ★

Total state tax collections for the year which ended June 30, 1964 — the latest for which records are available — were $24 billion.

The new compilation was made by the Tax Foundation, Inc., New York, and was supplemented by reports brought to the annual Washington meeting this week of the National Taxpayers Conference by its members representing 38 state taxpayer groups.

ANNUAL BUDGET

Several of the largest states, in population and annual budget, are among those in which new or higher taxes have been proposed. They include California, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey and Virginia.

New Jersey is one of three states — the others are Nebraska and New Hampshire — without either a general income or sales tax. Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes is pressing — and has predicted success for — a state income tax. Many opponents of the income tax proposal favor a sales tax.

Although some of the proposed new boosts almost surely will be voted down, many are considered likely to become law — enough to provide some perceptible further anti-inflationary drain on consumer buying power.

Their dampening effect would be added to that of the $4.8 billion of federal income, excise and corporation tax increases and speedups now pending in Congress, the $5-billion increase in Social Security taxes that took effect on Jan. 1 and a possible boost in the unemployment compensation payroll tax which President Johnson has indicated he will ask of Congress.

In addition, several cities including New York face budget problems which may require local tax action. Legislation is pending in several states to permit cities to impose sales or income levies.

Philadelphia has increased its wage tax, and several other Pennsylvania cities have voted to impose similar taxes. Louisville, Ky., has raised its occupational tax. Richmond introduced a local sales tax this year and a dozen other Virginia cities have enacted 2 per cent sales taxes.

A statewide 2 per cent levy is under consideration by the legislature.

The prospective crop of state tax increases is unusually large for an even-numbered year, the Tax Foundation notes. Most state legislatures convene in odd-numbered years.

Even in those states where legislatures meet annually, tax increases are seldom voted in even-numbered years, because these are also election years in which neither party cares to press for higher taxes.

But the press of rising population, expanding services and increasing costs has lent urgency to the fiscal problems of many states. Twenty-three legislatures — believed to be a record even-year total — are holding regular or special sessions.

The five-year business boom has generated enough revenues to help many states stave off tax action. But some are now worried by a bill pending in Congress which would limit the power of states to tax the sales or earnings of corporations operating in several states.

The tax commission of Washington state has estimated the bill would cost that state $21-million. The state taxpayer groups which have been meeting here also gave study to this problem.

This Bird Lover Is No Help

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Officials of Nashville's Metropolitan Beautiful Commission are looking for a little old lady who likes to feed the birds.

Commission Director Mary Poag says the bird lover is making a snafu out of the commission's attempts to eliminate the pigeon problem.

"I don't know the woman's name," Mrs. Poag said. "All I know is that she's called me everything but a lady because of what we're doing to the pigeons."

The commission attempts to catch the pigeons by luring them into a trap baited with food.

★ ★ ★

But the bird-loving lady manages to steer dozens of the birds from the snares each day by strewing food around Memorial Park.

THE DODGE BOYS

One of 160 crisp green reasons why Mrs. Diehr chose an electric dryer

A mountain of diapers talked Mrs. Diehr into wanting a clothes dryer. She considered the facts, decided on an electric dryer, and will save about $160 in the bargain. Here's how you can do the same.

Model for model, electric dryers cost up to $40 less than gas dryers. So you save right from the start.

And you keep on saving. There's no charge for any electrical repairs, or labor on an electric dryer, thanks to Edison's No-Charge service. So you don't have to worry about unexpected repair bills.

Can you get this kind of worry-free assurance with a gas dryer? Sure—with a manufacturer's repair service policy—but it will cost you up to $120 over the first five years of operation alone!

One thing more, Edison's No-Charge service applies even if you don't buy from Edison—so long as the dryer is electric and you get your electricity from Edison. Remember, Edison offers the only no-charge service by a utility company in this area.

So add it up. Up to $40 savings on initial cost, $120 savings with No-Charge service. A $160 total that looks good in any bank book.

And if you buy now, from a participating dealer, the low price of the electric dryer includes the cost of wiring, if any's needed.

Next time somebody starts bragging about pennies, do them a favor. Talk dollars. The real savings you get with an electric dryer.

Two young Californians, Bill Hanna and Douglas Steen, were playing in a Regional championship in St. Louis in 1952. Doug sitting North opened with three no-trump and Bill raised him to six no-trump with the South hand.

JACOBY

A very unlucky expert sitting East doubled, whereupon Bill bid seven clubs. The unlucky expert sitting East doubled that also, whereupon South proceeded to make seven clubs doubled for a top score to end all top scores.

East was really unlucky. Doug and Bill were playing a brand new convention known as the gambling three no-trump. In this convention you open three no-trump with a solid suit and possibly an honor or two in the side and pray for fair weather.

This convention was listed on their card but the unlucky expert had not bothered to read the card so he doubled six no-trump with the smile of a hungry tiger who has just been offered fresh meat.

This gave Bill-Hanna a chance to do some card reading of his own. Obviously, his partner's solid suit was clubs and it was equally obvious that East had doubled with the ace and king and possibly the queen of hearts.

Six no-trump was not going to make but there had to be hope for seven clubs so Bill bid it.

East doubled seven clubs also but it was not the cheerful sort of double he had made against six no-trump, and he was right not to be cheerful.

West had to choose which one of three suits to lead and guessed wrong. He opened the ten of spades and Bill drew trumps and claimed his grand slam.

300,000 Ailing With Asian Flu in California

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Aspirin, plenty of liquid, and rest was the mass prescription today for more than 300,000 bedridden Californians waylaid by a devastating Asian flu epidemic.

Los Angeles parochial schools were closed because of teacher shortage, and absenteeism ranged as high as 37 per cent. Public schools remained open.

Although the bug —officially identified as Type A, Asian — apparently concentrated on children, health officials said at least 30,000 adults were similarly disabled in the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

Social Security, Medicare Cut U.S. Paychecks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Higher Social Security and Medicare taxes cut sharply into the Americans' paychecks last month, the Commerce Department reported yesterday.

Personal income rose in January by only $700 million, at a seasonally adjusted annual rate, compared to monthly average gains of more than $3 billion during the past year.

★ ★ ★

While payrolls and other types of income showed a strong gain of $3.5 billion, stepped-up Social Security and Medicare taxes took away $2.8 billion of this—still figuring at annual rate.

The sharp rise in these taxes reflected an increase in the tax rate from 3.625 to 4.2 per cent and an increase in the taxable earnings base from $3,800 to $6,600. Both changes took hold Jan. 1.

$150,000 in Jewels Stolen in New York

NEW YORK — Thieves stole more than $150,000 worth of jewels in two daring daylight burglaries on Manhattan's east side, police reported yesterday.

★ ★ ★

They said the thieves stole $90,000 worth of jewelry from the town house of heiress Gloria Vanderbilt Cooper, and $61,000 worth from the Regency Hotel suite of a British jewelry salesman, Michael Bell.

★ ★ ★

In both cases, there were persons in rooms adjacent to the rooms where the jewelry was kept, but they heard nothing, police said.

Key Stocks Decline

Market Takes Moderate Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a moderate loss early this afternoon in active trading.

Key stocks continued their decline of yesterday, settling downward irregularly. As in the previous session, specialty-situated issues were strong.

Wall Street was concerned about rising interest rates, tighter credit and a possible boost in margins — the "down payment" required in buying stocks on credit. Feared action in that respect by the Federal Reserve Board did not take place, as some had expected.

Aerospace issues, helped by strength in Boeing, were on the upbeat. Motors were mixed and steels mostly unchanged except for U.S. Steel which took a fractional loss.

AP AVERAGE

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .8 at 363.6 with industrials off 1.0, rails off .8 and utilities up .1.

General Motors lost nearly a point. Down a point or so were Chrysler, duPont, Anaconda, Polaroid, Zenith and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Gains of about 2 points were scored by Texas Gulf Sulphur, Collins Radio and Admiral.

★ ★ ★

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 2.67 at 972.60.

Prices advanced in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange. Syntex rose about 4, American Book, Solitron Devices, and Valley Metallurgical about 3 each. Up about 2 were Old Town and Atlas Consolidated Mining.

★ ★ ★

Corporate and U.S. Government bonds were mostly unchanged.

Thomas Finishes Special Although Hope, Crosby Ill

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene—

Danny Thomas managed to finish taping the fifth and last of his NBC specials despite the illness of his costars Bing Crosby and Bob Hope. Thomas had the famed pair signed up for a "Road to Lebanon" spoof, but he had to settle for a walk-on by Thomas Hope, who was battling the flu.

* * *

Bing also tangled with the flu bug. He figured if the Batman couldn't beat it, neither could he; so he checked into St. Joseph Hospital after the Thomas rehearsals. The hospital is next door to NBC, and Bing found the accommodations so pleasant he returned the next night, instead of going to his hotel.

Danny figures to do only three specials next season.

GOING COMPANY

"I've got a going company, and I can't expect my partner, Sheldon Leonard, to watch it all the time," said Thomas. He'll devote his energies to a new series, "My 15 Blocks," starring Dean Jones. Thomas-Leonard shows also include Andy Griffith, Gomer Pyle, "I Spy."

BURYING THE COMPETITION? — Bob Hope has two of his competitors — Danny Thomas (left) and Bing Crosby — where he wants them in this "Road to Lebanon" spoof taped in Hollywood for a Danny Thomas TV special. Hope, portraying himself as a well-known Hollywood golfer, finds Thomas and Crosby buried in a desertlike sand trap.

Connie Stevens made her first film with Jerry Lewis; now she's back with him in "Way, Way Out," her first movie after settling her Warner Brothers contract. "Already I'm making double my Warner's salary," she crows.

Guess who volunteered for a "Batman" villain. Otto Preminger. Producer William Dozier thinks it's a great idea, and it could happen. Preminger, who once played Nazi villains ("Stalag 17"), has also been sought to play Khrushchev in a movie and a Gestapo boss in a TV spy series.

"I would like to act again," said the producer-director, "but only if I can have some fun with the role."

Joseph E. Levine continues to be Hollywood's best party giver since Marion Davies and Atwater Kent. The Boston showman tossed a wingding at the Beverly Hills Hotel after the premiere of "The Oscar," and invited winners from Dorothy Malone to Jane Darwell.

Patricia Neal was upset last year because no mention was made of her illness — she had best-actor Oscar — during the Academy Awards. Only a brief announcement was made at the end.

The Academy is rectifying the oversight with this year's event. A television crew of 15 descended on her English home to film a clip of Miss Neal to be used on the Oscar cast.

Dope Check to Cover Pennsylvania Colleges

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —The state attorney general's office says it will check all colleges and universities and high schools in the state in an attempt to determine the extent of student use of narcotics.

Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandroni said that in the last three years, 15 Pennsylvania institutions have had one or more incidents involving marijuana, barbiturates, pep pills and other drugs.

Producer Answers Wife's Divorce Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Producer-director Hall Bartlett has asked for a divorce or annulment from his actress wife, Ana Maria.

Bartlett, in a cross-complaint filed Thursday to his wife's divorce suit, charged that the former Argentine actress had an affair with a man identified as Stan Herman.

Mrs. Bartlett accused her husband of committing adultery with "unnamed movie starlets and other females," and named actress Rhonda Fleming corespondent. Miss Fleming filed a formal denial of the charge.

Teachers Pick Union

ROSEVILLE (AP)— Teachers in this Detroit suburb voted 341-131 in favor of the Roseville Federation of Teachers as their sole bargaining agent. The federation thus won out over the Michigan Education Association.

2 Contracts for School Site Work OK'd

The Waterford Township Board of Education last night approved two contracts, totaling $27,245, for installation of sanitary sewer lines and storm drains at the Cherokee Hills Elementary School site.

The pipes will be connected to the Pontiac Sewer system on Elizabeth Lake Road, according to school officials.

The school, presently under construction, is located between Marion and Scott Lake Road.

The P. J. Duffy Co. was awarded the mechanical contract with a bid of $23,476, while the E. E. Powell Co. secured the fill and grading contract at $3,769.

* * *

Previously, the school land proved unsuitable for a septic tank operation as determined in a series of ground tests.

NEXT FALL

The school is earmarked for completion next fall.

In other business, the board heard a request by a group of speech, art and dramatic teachers from Waterford Township and Waterford-Kettering high schools, urging inclusion of auditoriums for both buildings in the $13-million bond issue.

The board concurred with the Citizens' Advisory Committee's recommendation that these facilities be reconsidered in the future when funds are available.

* * *

Led by Patty Looman, a speech instructor at Waterford-Kettering, the group noted there is "constant conflict" for use of the gymnasiums.

PROGRAMS LIMITED

They said that inadequate existing facilities at the schools limit the number of programs that can be conducted.

The group spurned the idea of one large auditorium to serve the community, claiming it would not fulfill educational needs.

The proposed five-year building program, which comes to a vote March 28, includes only one auditorium—for the new high school.

* * *

Cost of building auditoriums for the two existing high schools would total in excess of $1 million, it was estimated.

The board endorsed a "Helping Hand" program for the township after hearing a presentation by Mrs. E. L. Windeler, representing the Waterford Youth Assistance Committee.

Under the project, a home on each block would be selected where a child, sick person or an old person could go to in case of emergency.

School principals would be asked to recommend homes, which, in turn, would be approved by the police department.

The program is voluntary and could be operated at token expense, according to Mrs. Windeler.

CURRICULUM REPORTS

In still other business, curriculum reports on vocation education were presented by Dr. Burton K. Thorn, N. Henry McCandless, Maynard W. Mathers, Mrs. Mary McGinley and Mrs. Gladys Rohrer.

* * *

Thorn, the director of vocational education, proposed formation of a community service corps.

* * *

The board approved purchase of $11,814 worth of musical instruments for secondary schools; granted William Aeberhold, Pierce Junior High School principal, a sabbatical leave for 1966-67 and accepted a teacher resignation.

OCC Approves Agent Vote Bid

The Oakland Community College Board of Trustees last night authorized filing of petitions requesting an election to determine an exclusive faculty bargaining agent.

Petitions will be filed with the National Labor Relations Board by the Oakland Community College Faculty Association.

The association, comprising faculty members of both OCC campuses, seeks to represent all faculty members in future bargaining with the board of trustees.

Association representatives present at last night's board meeting said that about 70 per cent of the faculty members favor the association as agent.

* * *

A 30 per cent representation is required to petition an election.

An informal hearing on the proposed election probably will be held in about a week with the election expected in from three to four weeks.

OCC Employes Are Rewarded for Extra Work

Several Oakland Community College employes were rewarded last night for extra work performed a year ago by being granted compensatory vacation time.

The college's board of trustees awarded the vacation bonus in recognition of extra time worked between January and June last year when the college was in its development stage.

A total of 17 contractual employes, whose annual vacation period is four weeks, will receive 10 compensatory vacation days.

Some 25 hourly rated employes were awarded five days. Their vacation period is two weeks.

MAKES THE GRADE — Pfc. Winstel R. Belton, who last August staged a seven-day hunger strike at Fort Benning, Ga., to protest the draft and the Viet fighting, is proving himself a worthy soldier. Yesterday at Ben Cat, South Viet Nam, Belton was promoted a grade and complimented by his 1st Infantry Division company commander.

Protester Does About-Face, Promoted by Army in Viet

By PETER ARNETT

BEN CAT, South Viet Nam (AP) — Seven months ago a university graduate named Winstel R. Belton staged a seven-day hunger strike at Fort Benning, Ga., to dramatize his distaste for being drafted and his refusal to fight in Viet Nam.

Thursday a big, proud smile flashed across Belton's face as he was promoted to private first class on a battlefield in South Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

Looking just as proud was his company commander, Capt. R. E. Spriggs of Mexico, N. Y., a professional soldier who had hated everything Belton's hunger strike had stood for.

Spriggs was furious last November when he returned to his unit after recovering from a bullet wound to find Belton assigned there.

TAKE HIM ANYTIME

Spriggs said Thursday he would take the 26-year-old Winslow, Ariz., soldier into combat with him any time, anywhere.

Belton arrived in Viet Nam with a 12-month suspended jail sentence hanging over his head because of his hunger strike in mid-August. A court - martial had given him a bad conduct discharge, total forfeiture of pay and the jail sentence.

★ ★ ★

But he was also given a chance.

Belton was told that if he went to Viet Nam and proved himself, he would not have to serve his jail sentence. If he failed, he would serve it.

OLD UNIT

His old unit, the U. S. Army's 1st Cavalry Airmobile Division, wouldn't take him back. The 1st Infantry Division accepted him.

Spriggs was the only man in "A" company of the 2nd Battalion, 28th Regiment, who knew that the new radio telephone operator was the hunger striker Belton.

★ ★ ★

Lt. Gus Berzines, a weapons platoon commander from Kalamazoo, Mich., recalled talking with Belton one day about various things and finally saying, "You mean you're that Belton?"

More and more men in the unit began realizing that Belton had publicly protested what they themselves had accepted as a patriotic duty. None of them brought up the subject with him except the company commander, and few ever discussed it among themselves.

HIS BUSINESS

"That was his business," said Sgt. Frederick Range of Dallas, Tex. "We treated him like any other soldier."

Belton, holder of a bachelor of science degree in education, was initially cold and reserved with his buddies. But the heat of battles in December and January melted his attitude and forged ever-tightening bonds with Spriggs and the other men in the company.

★ ★ ★

Initially given the job of laying wires between the company headquarters and the platoons, he began carrying Spriggs' radio.

Early in January, he proved he had what it takes.

UNDER HEAVY FIRE

Spec. 5 Larry Kabriel of Summerfield, Kan., recalls that the company was under heavy fire near Trung Lap and an urgent call came over the radio for Capt. Spriggs.

The radioman shouted back: "The captain's not here. He's up front. There's heavy fire, I can't reach him."

★ ★ ★

Kabriel said Belton shouted out, "It's your duty to get up to the captain," crawled over to the reluctant radioman, grabbed the apparatus and moved up under fire to his captain.

Spriggs has used him as his radioman ever since.

ABOVE AVERAGE

"Belton in his conduct and bearing has been above average as a soldier and a valuable asset," Spriggs said. "He has worked in very well socially and he has got along with the men.

"I am personally satisfied that he now honestly believes his actions in the past have not been consistent with being a soldier or a man.

★ ★ ★

"I personally wrote to the commanding general recommending that he be promoted and his sentence remitted. Belton has seen men fight and die for their country, and he has felt the honor that comes when you do fight."

Spriggs tried to promote Belton two months ago, but the Army wanted to wait longer. Spriggs was told he must be absolutely sure Belton had changed his ways.

DESERVED PROMOTION

"I told Belton he deserved to be promoted," Spriggs said. "I knew he was happy. I knew he felt he had made it."

Belton is still a man of few words.

★ ★ ★

Asked why he launched his hunger strike, he replied: "I figured the Army had interrupted my education, and I needed the schooling. And when they said I had to go to Viet Nam, well, I thought why should I go there, I don't think we should be there.

"I wasn't a part of a protest movement. I wasn't then and I'm not now."

NOW PROTESTING

What about those now protesting American involvement in Viet Nam?

"We have good reasons to be doing what we are doing here," said Belton, "and we belong here, I know that now. I don't know if we'll ever win. But we're here and we have to stay."

★ ★ ★

Belton added that he hasn't changed his ideas "a full 360 degrees."

"I still don't like killing," he said. "I get faint when I see a dead man. I hate to kill, but I do my job."

CREDITS CAPTAIN

The husky Belton credited Capt. Spriggs with getting him his promotion and the remittance of his sentence.

"I'm glad I came to this company," he said.

★ ★ ★

Belton intends to go back to school in Milwaukee, Wis., when he gets out of the service, hopefully on the new GI bill.

And he wants to forget his experience as a hunger striker. The forgetting has already begun for the 1st Division. The commanding general, Maj. Gen. Jonathan O. Seaman, said: "I had deep satisfaction in remitting Belton's sentence."

MADE A MISTAKE

"Belton made a mistake," the general added, "but he had a chance to correct it on the field of battle and he did so. He proved he had the courage and the spirit to overcome the difficulties brought about by an unthinking action."

★ ★ ★

Belton will be in Viet Nam with his company until late April at least. His personal motto, printed across his steel helmet, probably reflects his change of thinking as much as anything else.

★ ★ ★

It reads: "Cast your fate to the winds."

Sheriff Sued for $25,000 by Ex-Deputy

Sheriff Frank Irons was sued today for $25,000 by a deputy he fired in December.

In asking the Oakland County Circuit Court to award him damages, Worth Hitchcock claims that Irons made false and malicious statements to newspapers about his discharge.

Hitchcock, 47, says he was fired and two other deputies allowed to resign, following a disturbance involving an ambulance in Holly.

The incident occurred Dec. 24 after a party at Hitchcock's home.

Hitchcock, with the department for six years, said Irons made it appear that he had been drinking and was directly involved.

A former village president, Hitchcock contends he did not participate in the incident, and did not know about it until it was over.

★ ★ ★

He said Irons discharged him without giving him an opportunity to prove the allegations false, and because he was fired he has been unable to get work with any private police force.

Pontiac Area Included in Census Bureau Poll

The Bureau of the Census has begun a nationwide survey designed to ascertain how well-off the American people are.

In the Pontiac area, the questions will be asked by Mrs. Arthur Petar, 788 Irwindale, Waterford Township. She will ask people about their jobs, layoffs, incomes, assets and debts.

Court Backs 9th Judge for County

The Michigan Supreme Court has recommended to the Legislature that a ninth judge be added to the Oakland County Circuit bench.

Opposition to the proposal has been voiced by the Oakland bench, as it did when the eighth judge was added by the legislature last year.

At that time, the bench stated that it didn't need another judge because its docket was current.

The eighth judge will be elected this fall, and take office the first of the year.

★ ★ ★

In addition to Oakland, the Supreme Court recommended additional judges for Genesee, Kent, Washtenaw, Monroe and Jackson counties and the Allegan-Ottawa County circuit.

RECOMMENDATIONS

The recommendations, said Chief Justice Thomas Kavanagh, were based on population, case loads, complexity of cases and composition of the circuits.

★ ★ ★

The additional seven judges recommended should take office next Jan. 1, the report said.

The additions would give Oakland County nine, Genesee six, Washtenaw three, and Jackson, Monroe and Allegan-Ottawa two each.

Red Cross Names First Aid Instructors

The Oakland Regional Office of the Southeastern Michigan Chapter, American Red Cross, has announced the appointment of four volunteer first aid instructors.

The four are Program Chairman Dr. O. L. Smith, 2940 Acorn and Floyd Bunt, 6th Faculty Row, Cranbrook School, both of Bloomfield Hills; Milford Fuller, 1312 Melton, Birmingham, and John Schafer of Royal Oak.

★ ★ ★

Interested persons may enroll in first aid classes by contacting the Red Cross office, 118 Franklin Blvd.

Bronson to Try to Obey Ruling

Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson said today that he will try to comply with a Circuit Court decision to send criminal cases to Bloomfield Township Justice of Peace Alice C. Gilbert.

★ ★ ★

The prosecutor has boycotted the justice's court since last summer when she refused to use the Central Justice Court he established in Pontiac.

Mrs. Gilbert sued, and last week Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams ruled that Bronson was interfering with her court by not directing warrants to her.

Adams' opinion was more of a suggestion than an order, but implied he would enforce it if Bronson didn't cooperate.

Bronson cites a shortage of manpower in saying his assistants "will attempt to appear at hearings on cases in her court."

The central court, according to Bronson, is not a perfect program, but it does represent a practical solution since it eliminates the need to send assistant prosecutors to lower courts throughout the county.

In addition to Salley, Mrs. Carol Wolfe and Elmer Faugboner were reelected to three-year terms.

Power Import Plan Gets Tentative Okay

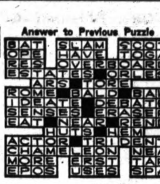

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — The Vermont Senate has given preliminary approval of a $400-million plan under which a non-profit corporation would import electricity from Canada for distribution in New England.

The prime source of power would be the hydroelectric plant at Churchill Falls, Labrador, and plants in Quebec Province.

New Guinea is the second largest island in the world.

Actor Crosby Is Reducing for Fat Part in New Film

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The rediscovery of Bing Crosby, the movie actor . . . who might get Oscar-nominated for playing a whisky salesman who drinks his own merchandise in "Stagecoach" . . . has launched Dar Bingle on a youthfulizing, slimming program so he can world-travel with his epic.

WILSON

He checked into La Costa spa at Carlsbad, Cal., to peel off pounds before doing a TV spec with Bob Hope and Danny Thomas, "The Road to Lebanon."

"Do you think I'm good enough actor to play this part?" Bing asked director Gordon Douglas before starting it.

"For 25 years, I've hated your singing but loved your acting," replied Douglas — so Bing took the part.

At the Denver world premiere in May, with cowgal Sharon Gillpatrick around, you'll notice that Bing accepted "alphabetical billing."

So it'll be Ann-Margret, Red Buttons, Michael Connors, and Alex Cord . . . all ahead of Bing "Couldn't you get Steve Allen, Count Basie, and Carol Channing, and place me last?" demanded Bing. He was surely relieved when Bob Cummings came on.

★ ★ ★

Edie Adams' husband Marty Mills gasped when the m. c. at the NY Hilton premiere of "Made In Paris," said, "Miss Adams will show her perseverance." Marty barked out, "She'll show nothing of the kind." Nothing so fightening has happened on Broadway since a Texan showgal, Vera Milton, "You have marvelous potentialities," and she drooled, "Sssh, the cab driver will hear you."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Mimi Hines busted a toe—and did three "Funny Girl" shows before she realized it . . . Jackie Kennedy brought son John to see "The Fantasticks," requested no publicity . . . A restaurant workers' union talks of organizing the Playboy Club bunnies. (Where would they pin their union buttons?) . . . Jimmy Durante, who broke a rib in a fall, says the worst part is being ordered to quit smoking, temporarily: "Dat's da big blow!"

Five Children Die as Fire Razes Home

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — Five children from two families were killed in a fire today that destroyed the two-story frame house in which the families lived.

The dead were Stanley Thatcher, 14, his brother Steven, 9, and Kevin Paul, 11, his sister Tracy, 6, and brother Matthew, 3. All five died in their bedrooms on the second floor of the house.

★ ★ ★

Two Thatcher children escaped the fire. Ron Thatcher, 19, and his sister Nancy, 16, leaped from second-floor windows to the street below.

The children were alone in the house.

Project Plans Elate Mayor

"Everybody must understand that negotiations with the Taubmans on the proposed urban development of downtown Pontiac are not completed," said Mayor William H. Taylor to The Pontiac Press from Palm Springs this morning, "but we are very enthusiastic at the prospects and feel this might be the biggest thing that has happened here since the Pontiac car replaced the Oakland.

TAYLOR

"We have entered into discussions with eight different organizations over the last two years," he declared, "but this is far and away the largest conception and embraces more than twice as many square feet as any of the others.

"The current plan was proposed late last summer and city officials were very enthusiastic, but the Taubmans wanted no mention made until they had completed a huge survey.

"They aren't finished yet, but A. Alfred Taubman was sufficiently satisfied to authorize the tentative announcement that appeared in The Press."

★ ★ ★

Unofficial sources suggest the final decision can be expected in a relatively short space of time. Within the last three weeks the city liaison committee has held meetings with two other promising organizations, with proposals on smaller scales.

★ ★ ★

Orion Twp. Raid Nets 19

By PAT McCARTY

Oakland County sheriff's officers arrested 17 men and two women in a gambling raid on an Orion Township house early this morning.

Robert J. Breen, 27, who allegedly was using his rented house at 2465 Baldwin for poker games and prostitution, is being held for further questioning in the Oakland County jail.

The 18 others captured in the 3:45 a.m. raid were charged with being disorderly persons loitering in a house of ill fame.

Among them were Wayne C. Brook, 27, of 33 W. Brooklyn, Pontiac; Lawrence A. Smith, 19, of 4161 Gregory, Orion Township; and Harry R. Boyt, 22, of 65 S. Francis, Avon Township.

Also James E. Abel Sr., 36, of 448 Grixdale, Waterford Township; James E. Cypret, 25, of 434 Jordan, Orion Township; and Dannis P. Lee, 20, of 70 Cadillac, Farmington.

ALFRED P. SLOAN JR.

Death Claims Empire Builder of GM at 90

He Helped Develop Firm's Growth After Taking Over in 1920

NEW YORK (AP)—In his 90 years Alfred P. Sloan Jr. saw the automobile develop from a novelty to the industrial backbone of the nation. He was among the men who made it happen.

He took the moderately successful General Motors Corp., in 1920, made it function smoother than the ball bearings he once sold, and wrought the mightiest manufacturing enterprise the world has known.

When Sloan stepped down as chairman in 1956, General Motors' share of the automobile market was 52 per cent.

Sloan, who remained as honary chairman, had been in excellent health until Tuesday, when he complained of indigestion. He was taken the next day to Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, a hospital his philanthropy had established.

★ ★ ★

He died at the hospital at 2:35 p.m. yesterday.

PRAISED BY FORD

Henry Ford II, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., said in Detroit that Sloan was "one of the small handful of men who actually made automotive history."

James M. Roche, president of General Motors, said, "The concepts of management which he initiated will endure."

In a joint statement with Frederick D. Donner, chairman of the board, he added: "His contributions to science and education and those of the foundation that bears his name were matched only by his accomplishments in business and industry."

★ ★ ★

He set up the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation in 1936 and since then he and his wife, Irene, have donated $305 million to it.

CANCER RESEARCH

One of its first major recipients was the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research in New York, set up jointly with Charles F. Kettering.

Kettering had been a close friend of Sloan's and had been director of the General Motors Research Laboratory.

Sloan was born in New Haven, Conn., on May 23, 1875. At the age of 17 he enrolled in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and graduated in three years. Later, he became MIT's chief benefactor.

★ ★

It was the automobile business that made him a millionaire.

BALL BEARINGS

He got the manufacturers to use ball bearings instead of greased wagon axles. Within a few years General Motors was his biggest customer.

Later, when General Motors acquired the Hyatt Roller

'Decision on Oxford No Surprise'

Oxford Village Manager Robert S. Smalley said today he is not surprised at the Oakland County Health Department's refusal Wednesday to approve the rebuilding of five downtown business places until an adequate sewage disposal system is installed.

He said he has been in conversation with Health Department officials since the $250,000 fire which destroyed or badly damaged the five buildings containing seven businesses.

The problem will come before the Village Council Tuesday night, Smalley said.

★ ★ ★

"It's unfortunate," he said, "because we can't issue a building permit until we see a permit from the county."

SEWAGE DISPOSAL

County Health Director Dr. Bernard D. Berman told members of the health committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors Wednesday that all seven businesses used a basement cesspool for sewage disposal. He said a better sewage disposal program must be devised.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Berman indicated that a sanitary sewer system was the solution. Smalley noted that a preliminary plan for sanitary sewers was shelved about three years ago after an advisory vote indicated that residents opposed it.

★ ★ ★

"This could be a real tragedy," said Smalley, "because this is some of the prime business area in town."

VanderJagt Out of GOP Senate Race

LANSING (AP) —State Sen. Guy VanderJagt pulled out of the Republican U.S. Senate nomination race today.

He threw his support behind U.S. Rep. Robert Griffin and announced for Griffin's Ninth District House seat.

VanderJagt had been reported planning the move yesterday.

He conferred by telephone with Wayne County leaders who had helped his earlier Senate candidacy and obtained their consent to withdraw.

★ ★ ★

He said his name will still be on the ballot tomorrow when Republican leaders meet to pick a party - preferred Senate candidate, but "I am releasing all commitments to me and urge all Republicans to support Mr. Griffin."

VanderJagt said he began thinking of withdrawal Tuesday, when it became evident there would be a deadlock among him, Griffin and Michigan State University Prof. Leroy Augenstein.

VanderJagt, a Senate freshman from Cadillac, said he consulted with Gov. George Romney and GOP State Chairman Elly Peterson and was told "the decision must be mine to make, and they made no effort to influence me."

He said that since becoming one of the three finalists Feb. 5, developments "have persuaded me that my continued candidacy ... would hinder, not help, Republican chances for victory in November."

★ ★ ★

Yesterday he acknowledged that Ninth District leaders were urging him to drop back into the race for the seat held by Griffin, a five-termer from Traverse City.

OTHER INDICATIONS

There also were indications Augenstein might not force a primary election fight if Republican leaders unify tomorrow behind one candidate.

Even before the VanderJagt development, Griffin was claiming support from more than 50 per cent of the Republican leaders who will meet in Lansing.

Romney has declared that one man must receive at least 75 per cent of the leaders' votes to be considered a party-preferred candidate.

Nearly 300 county, district and state officials are eligible to vote but State Chairman Elly Peterson said she expected only 150 to attend.

★ ★ ★

Augenstein, who claims 35 per cent support, said yesterday the decision should go to a primary election.

'Farmington Twp. Suit Is Vote Stall'

Farmington Township Attorney Joseph T. Brennan charged yesterday that the sole purpose of a recent lawsuit by an opponent of the township's incorporation as a city was to stall an election.

Brennan made the comment during a public hearing before the boundaries committee of the County Board of Supervisors.

The committee deferred action on recommending an election date pending a report from Corporation Counsel Robert P. Allen on legal restrictions concerning when an election can be held.

Thomas Tiley, chairman of the boundaries committee, said his committee would probably meet early in March so a recommendation can be submitted to the full board of supervisors March 16.

★ ★ ★

Brennan, one of the leaders in the incorporation drive, referred to a suit filed Feb. 4 by Conrad Braseth of 21217 Waldron.

CHALLENGES VALIDITY

The suit challenges the validity of petitions circulated for the incorporation.

Brennan said that petitions contained 385 valid signatures when only 267 were required based on 1 per cent of the township's 26,700 population in the 1960 census.

He said that the burden is on the objector to raise a specific objection and prove it.

★ ★ ★

Wendell Brown, attorney for Braseth, said at the hearing that he questioned the legality of petitions notorized by Brennan and some of the township's elected officials.

★ ★ ★

Brown said he was hopeful that the election can be set far enough in the future to allow completion of the trial on the lawsuit.

Cites Lopsided Senate Vote on SEATO Treaty

Recalls That Several Present Members of Unit OK'd '54 Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today the committee itself had voted lopsidedly for a basic commitment — the 1954 Southeast Asia Treaty — which he said obliges America to defend South Viet Nam.

"The far - reaching implications of this commitment were well understood by this committee when it recommended, with only the late Sen. William Langer, R-N.D., dissenting, that the Senate consent to the ratification of the treaty," Rusk said.

"All members of this distinguished committee who were then senators voted for that treaty."

Among those committee members who have been critical of president Johnson's current Viet Nam policy and who were senators a decade ago are Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark.; Wayne Morse, D-Ore.; Mike Mansfield, D-Mont.; and Albert Gore, D-Tenn.

★ ★ ★

Rusk's testimony brought toward a climax the crackling Senate probe of administration Viet Nam policy begun a month ago before Johnson ordered resumption of the bombing of North Viet Nam and went to Honolulu to meet South Vietnamese leaders.

SECOND APPEARANCE

Rusk was appearing for the second time since the hearings got under way and he could be the administration's final chief defense witness.

Fulbright was uncertain whether Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara would come to the stand.

Yesterday presidential adviser Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor held the spotlight in a stormy session.

★ ★ ★

With France's 1954 loss of Indochina in mind, the general suggested that even with military success South Viet Nam could be lost by dissension in Washington.

Bill Proposed to Alter State Divorce Laws

LANSING (AP) — Michigan would have new child custody and divorce laws — with no alimony — and a new department to administer them under a proposal introduced yesterday by two House Democrats.

The six directors of the proposed Department of Family Relations would receive the same pay as State Supreme Court justices, currently $25,500, and would have to have at least masters' degrees.

The proposal, sponsored by Reps. Charles Gray of Ypsilanti and David Holmes of Detroit, would give the department exclusive jurisdiction over divorce, annulment and separate maintenance.

The department also would establish programs in premarital training, try to reconcile troubled marriages, aid children and review existing marriage laws and recommended needed changes.

New Chapter at OU: Library by Numbers

Michigan's first fully automated, computerized library circulation system went into operation yesterday in Oakland University's Kresge Library, according to Floyd Cammack, librarian.

Through the use of punched and programmed student identification badges and book cards, the system notes who borrows a particular book, the address of the borrower, and when the book is to be returned.

Once a week an IBM computer searches through the records of all books out on loan and selects those cards which correspond to overdue items.

Then it automatically addresses overdue notification post cards to the delinquent borrowers, noting on the cards when the books were to have been returned.

* * *

All of this is accomplished without requiring more than a few minutes of human effort.

MULTIPLE FORMS

The old system required every borrower to fill out multiple forms. If a borrower were taking out 10 books, a not uncommon occurrence in a college library, he might well have had to spend a full 10 minutes filling out circulation cards.

In addition, before the automated system, it was almost impossible to keep up-to-date records on which books were getting the heaviest use, which books need to be reordered and which areas of interest had the greatest circulation rate.

Cammack said the automated system "affords us an unprecedented opportunity to determine the types and extent of library use."

* * *

The latter feat is accomplished by means of a built-in clock. It records the exact time an item on one hour reserve, for instance, is taken out and must be returned.

Cammack, an authority on linguistics as well as library administration, claims that the system is "virtually error-free . . . it even 'socks' delinquent borrowers with the appropriate fine."

Better known at Oakland for his efforts to "warm up" the library with music, original student art works, carpeting, and comfortable lounge areas, Cammack was asked whether he felt OU students would resent the computer's invasion into their use of the facility.

"They still have the opportunity of trying to talk the head of the circulation department out of a portion of their fines," he said, smiling.

"The real educational significance of the system," he concluded, "is that now we can know who borrows what.

Plan Is Offered to Aid Pontiac

Retail Development Urged for Downtown

Offering a concept for the development of central business districts, a Waterford Township man yesterday unveiled a plan for downtown Pontiac.

Gray Graham, 4138 Rich, presented a retail development plan to approximately 60 members of the Pontiac Optimist Club.

* * *

He said the total cost of the retail complex woul be about $18.5 million and that he already has financing for $15 million.

In a color slide presentation, Graham proposed a retail complex with attached parking, high rise apartments, sports arena, motel-hotel facilities and office buildings.

Graham's plan to develop the city's urban renewal area would be keyed to a new retail complex he calls "spira-mart."

* * *

The four-level building, constructed on a two-degree incline that forms a rectangular spiral, now is planned to accommodate the small, independent merchant, said Graham.

700,000 SQUARE FEET

He estimated there would be 700,000 square feet in the "spira-mart" itself, which he plans for the west side of Saginaw at Orchard Lake.

A sports arena is proposed for land east of the Pontiac School Board building. The arena would be connected by covered walkways to proposed indoor parking, topped with apartments.

Graham also proposed redevelopment of the retail businesses located north of Huron, and similar development of an area between Huron and Pike into a financial district with the addition of office buildings.

* * *

Orion Twp. Raid Nets 19 Arrests per; and three Flint men, Lowell R. Bandy, 35; Paul W. Cornett, 36; and Charles Gable, 26.

The two women were Vicki J. McKinney, 20, of 222 Prospect, and Hatty Duncan, 22, of 58 Wall, both of Pontiac.

Breen was booked at the jail for investigation of keeping and occupying a building for gaming.

OTHER CHARGES

Timothy E. Dinan, one of two Oakland County assistant prosecutors who accompanied the 13 sheriff's officers on the raid, said another half dozen charges were being considered for Breen.

The deputies were led by Sheriff Frank W. Irons and Detective Lt. Leo Hazen.

Breen also has been accused of accepting money from the earnings of prostitutes and of violating liquor laws by selling beer in his home.

The vine-covered stone cottage is on the west end of Voorheis Lake at the end of a deeply rutted half - mile trail leading from Baldwin.

UNDER WATCH

Hazen said the operation has been under surveillance for some 18 months and that two undercover deputies recently have participated in poker games there.

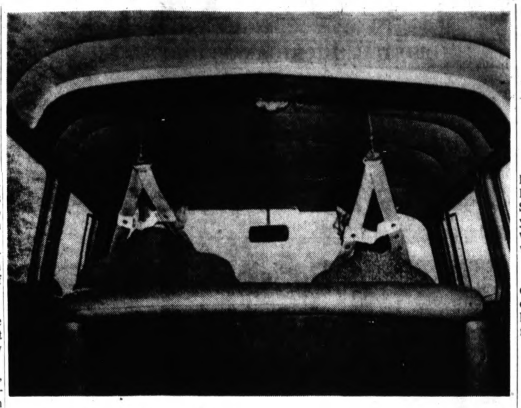

The two were among those in the five-room cottage last night when Hazen knocked on the door.

The door quickly was locked from the inside and had to be kicked open. Breen was dealing a hand in a back room when the officers entered, they said.

Confiscated in the raid, which took about an hour, were several packs of playing cards, seven cases of beer, $985 from Breen's pockets and a 38-caliber revolver labeled "U.S. property."

Hazen said Breen had started holding his poker games among fellow Fisher Body Division employes who get off work at 2:30 a.m.

"At first it was just friends," Hazen said, "but he started to get lax and that's when we could move in. The operation itself was never too large, but it was pretty big as poker games go."

Operation on Hemophiliac Success With New Method

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A young hemophiliac who risked bleeding to death rather than spend his life in a wheelchair has survived a foot amputation.

University of Michigan Hospital doctors believe it may be the first successful operation utilizing a "freeze-thaw" technique to obtain a concentrate that controls the flow of blood.

The new method was used in removing the right foot of James Gerritsen, 23, of Grand Rapids. Hemophilia is a hereditary disease in which the blood does not clot. Even minor cuts can be extremely hazardous for some hemopohiliacs.

Gerritsen has a severe form of classical hemophilia, and his foot had been crippled by recurrent internal bleeding. He was told his only chance to walk again would require amputating the foot and replacing it with an artificial one.

TELLS VIEWS

"I didn't want to spend the rest of my life in a wheelchair," Gerritsen said at a news conference Thursday.

Doctors said the "freeze-thaw" technique was developed to obtain an antihemophilic component known as Factor VIII from blood donors.

* * *

The amount of the Factor VIII concentrate used to raise Gerritsen's blood-clotting ability during and since his Feb. 10 operation was about the equivalent of one gallon of normal plasma daily.

Doctors said that without the concentrate they would not have attempted surgery, because a gallon of plasma would have overloaded the patient's circulatory system.

USE LIMITED

Standard concentrates of Factor VIII could not be used because Gerritsen had a reaction to some and resisted others, they said.

In the "freeze-thaw" method, male donors with type AB blood were selected and screened against hepatitis, an undercover disease which can can be transmitted through plasma transfusions.

The plasma is stored at -70 degrees centigrade for up to one year. When it is thawed out at refrigerator temperatures, Factor VIII can be extracted.

Doctors said the concentrate is about 13 to 17 times more active and shows greater persistence in blood-clotting ability that equal amounts of fresh plasma.

Viet Critics Answered by Rusk servicemen to fight in the Asian land has been one of the chief targets in the questioning.

Presenting a full - scale defense of what he portrayed as a vital U.S. policy of stemming Communist aggression in Viet Nam as well as elsewhere, Rusk underlined the eight - nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization commitment entered into with Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan in 1954.

"It is this fundamental SEATO obligation that has from the outset guided our actions in South Viet Nam," he said.

* * *

Rusk said that "in joining SEATO, the United States took a solemn treaty engagement of far-reaching effect" and the treaty was ratified by the U.S. Senate by a 84-1 vote, only Langer dissenting.

IN REPORT

And this was after the foreign relations committee itself had stated in its report approving the treaty that the commitment was far-reaching, he said.

He quoted from the committee document; "The committee is not impervious to the risks which this treaty entails.

"It fully appreciates that acceptance of these additional obligations commits the United States to a course of action over a vast expanse of the Pacific.

* * *

"Yet these risks are consistent with our own highest interests.

"There are greater hazards in not advising a potential enemy of what he can expect of us, and in failing to disabuse him of assumptions which might lead to a miscalculation of our intentions."

James Clarkson, campaign manager, said that letters asking for funds to remodel the former city library building on Williams Street will be in the mail today.

Tuesday night the Pontiac City Commission approved a 10-year lease for the organization at $1 a year with option to renew or buy at the end of this time.

The commission also voted $15,000 for repairs to the building.

The lease was signed yesterday before the arts center board of directors and representative members of local women's groups supporting the program.

The layout is located at the club's headquarters in the Grand Trunk Western passenger station on Eton at Maple.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The Cranbrook Institute of Science has scheduled a lecture and four classes for both young and old.

Dr. Maynard M. Miller, professor of geology at Michigan State University, will tell the story of his trek across the Mt. Elias Mountain range in the Cranbrook School auditorium at 8:15 p.m., Wednesday.

* * *

Miller led a field team in a survey across the range at elevations of more than 13,000 feet, shortly after the much-publicized climb of the same range by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The wonders of science will be explored on four Saturdays in March at the Cranbrook Institute of Science.

Instructor Martha Schaefer, of the Institute staff, lists the programs to be given as, "Mighty Mite," a demonstration program on electrons, "Insect World," "Marine Life," and "Treasures of the Earth," on March 5, 12, 19 and 26.

* * *

The series will be held at 9 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. with emphasis for children in grades 4 through 6.

7 Arrested in Numbers Raids in Area

Seven persons — four from Pontiac — were arrested yesterday afternoon as a $3,000-a-day numbers conspiracy was smashed by State, Detroit and Pontiac police.

Charged with violating state gambling laws are Anna M. Murray, 45, of 445 Bartlett; Harper Grandison, 33, of 408 Osmun; and Leon M. Looney, 56, and Katie M. Looney, 42, both of 256 Cedardale.

Also arrested were George Moore, 53, and Curtis Peoples, 43, both of New Haven, and Nick Frangoulis, 38, of Southfield, the alleged ringleader of the operation.

They were to have been arraigned this morning before Oak Park Municipal Judge Burton R. Shifman, who issued search warrants yesterday for the Bartlett and Cedardale addresses in Pontiac and Frangoulis' home at 20901 Dun Scotus in Southfield.

The arrests completed a two-month investigation launched by the State Police Intelligence Squad, assisted by the Detroit Police Racket Squad.

BETTING SLIPS

According to detectives at the Redford Post, the betting slips were taken from pickup points in New Haven and Pontiac to Frangoulis' home.

No estimate was immediately available on how much money was confiscated during the arrests.

'China Developing A-Bomb for Jet'

They also expressed the opinion that judging by the level of Chinese technology, Peking may already have an intercontinental ballistic missile "within its reach."

In a report published Thursday, the experts said the Chinese may explode a third atomic device within a few months.

Workshop for Handicapped Sought

A group, whose goal is to form a community workshop for persons 16 and older with physical, mental and emotional handicaps will hold an organizational meeting at 10 a.m. Monday at the Oakland Schools Board of Education.

Representatives of parent groups, service clubs and special education will elect officers and draft a cooperative approach toward establishing one or more workshops.

Charles Hinkle, vocational rehabilitation field agent for Oakland County, has been holding informal meetings with existing organizations interested in providing sheltered employment, training and counseling for handicapped persons.

State and federal grants are available to supplement local funds, according to Hinkle.

* * *

He believes that a workshop can be established within a year if groups interested in helping handicapped persons pool their efforts.

Hinkle suggested that workshops located throughout the county would be the ultimate answer to providing training and job assistance to those people whose handicaps now make employment an impossibility.

Congress has appropriated $1.5 million for 1966 and $7 million for 1967 to assist in planning and beginning workshops for the mentally handicapped and other groups designated by the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Up to 75 per cent of the costs for hiring a staff are available from these funds during the first 15 months of the workshop operation.

Staff salaries are subsidized by as much as 30 per cent for three additional years.

Grants also are available for land, buildings and initial equipment.

Sheriff's Dept. Union Vote Date Is Asked

A tentative March 2 election date to determine the exclusive bargaining agent for Oakland County Sheriff's Department employes was set yesterday.

The date was proposed following a formal hearing before a State Mediation Board in Detroit.

It must be confirmed by the board at a future meeting, probably in about a week.

Present at the hearing were sheriff's department employes, county administrative staff members and representatives of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes (AFSCME), Council 23.

* * *

William J. Charron, president and director of Council 23, said that 90 of 108 sheriff's department employes have expressed support of Council 23 as bargaining agent.

* * *

The council presently is agent for the Oakland County Road Commission employes, the only county employe group organized to date.

Talk on Medicare Set for WW I Vets

Gilbert C. Gallivan, assistant district manager of the Social Security Administration, will be featured speaker at a meeting Sunday of the Pontiac Post, Veterans of World War I.

He will talk and answer questions on the Medicare program.

* * *

The meeting will be held at the Cook-Nelson American Legion Post, 206 Auburn, following a noon potluck dinner.

It is estimated there are 20,000 physicians in New York City.

Getting 'Snippy'

There are scissors and shears galore and pinking shears of several sizes.

There should be a small pair of scissors tied to every sewing machine and a good cutting shears that is used only for cutting fabric.

★

Every sewing basket or box should have a sharply pointed pair of scissors ready for snipping corners, trimming and clipping seams.

There are multitudes of uses for pinkers, shears, scissors, and the special pair for the sewing machine; and none should ever be used for anything but fabrics and threads.

U-M Students Winding Up Trimester, Pledging

By PAMELA GRIFFIN

University of Michigan students are realizing this week how quickly the trimester passes. Already, students are in the midst of taking midterm examinations and preclassifying for the next semester.

Many students are also busy as new pledges, for fraternity and sorority rush is now over, after three exciting weeks.

PLEDGES

Several sororities on campus have pledged area women. Kappa Kappa Gamma claimed Carolyn Dameron and Mary Snyder, both of Bloomfield Hills. Pat French, of Motorway Drive, chose Alpha Xi Delta as her sorority; Kathy Gallagher of Franklin pledged Chi Omega; and Chris Hutton of Bloomfield Hills is a new Alpha Phi pledge.

Other girls are Nancy Patton, Bloomfield Hills, who pledged Alpha Delta Pi; Cheryl Hight, Mark Street, who pledged Alpha Omicron Pi; and Carol Metes and Kitty Shannon, both of Bloomfield Hills, proud pledges of Collegiate Sororis.

FRATERNITIES

Michigan men also took pledges this semester; and their rush, though quite different from the women, put rushees through just as busy a schedule of smokers, parties, and informal meetings at the fraternity.

Jim Embree, Ottawa Drive, this semester helped his fraternity, Chi Phi, in its Rush. Jim, a pledge of last semester, was president of his pledge class.

Another fall pledge, Dave Carney, Mohawk Road, rushed with his fraternity, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

★ ★ ★

A new member of Theta Xi's pledge class is Ed Chase of Robindale Lane. Theta Xis are busy working on Winter Weekend, as are other housing units across campus.

The big event is scheduled for February 25 and 26, and promises to be a fun-filled, busy week-end.

Location Is Factor in This Case

By The Emily Post Institute

In answer to the often-asked question of what to wear to a wedding, the choice of clothes depends upon the size and time of the wedding as well as the customary practices of the community.

Wedding guests today are wearing simpler clothes than they used to.

At very big daytime weddings, correct clothes for men used to be gray striped trousers with a cutaway coat or the less formal black sack suit.

However, today very few men wear anything more formal than plain business suits, whether dark blue or dark gray. During hot weather, especially at simple seashore and country weddings, light suits or white or light flannel trousers with plain flannel coats are suitable.

The sport coat is as out of place for a guest as it should be for the groom.

In certain cities, especially in the South where evening weddings are customary, tail coats are still seen. In those of less formality, the tuxedo coat is the only one ever worn in the evening.

In simpler communities, men wear plain navy-blue suits on all occasions in the evening as well as during the day.

As a general rule, at a formal evening wedding the women wear low-neck-and-no-sleeves evening dresses, with flowers or clips or hair ornaments or perhaps a lace scarf over their hair and shoulders in church.

At a very simple wedding in the evening or during the day, they wear afternoon dresses, with small becoming hats or else a flower.

When not going to the reception, whatever clothes are worn habitually to church are correct.

Children always wear their best party clothes.

Q: I am 16 years old and have an older married sister. When introducing her to friends my own age, do I introduce her as "My sister Eileen or as "Mrs. Jones"?

A: You introduce her as "my sister (pause) Mrs. Jones."

The Emily Post Institute offers reader booklets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette.

Dreams Better With Age: Young Are Heroes, Middle-Aged Are Victims

MAKE OVER PAGES

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Only in youth do dreams make sense.

One of the worst things about middle age is what it does to your dream life.

BOYLE

Frankly, it turns it into a sweaty nightmare.

Girls, I suppose, dream of looking beautiful in a bridal veil and dwelling happily ever after in a 36-room, rose-covered cottage with a tall, dark handsome man who grows even handsomer with the passing years.

Boys and young men don't dream about marriage. They dream about high adventure, easy money and quick romances.

Every young fellow dreams of going alone into no-man's-land and safely bringing back a lost patrol.

★ ★ ★

Every young fellow dreams of floating through the air and reaching down and picking up handfuls of silver dollars strewn along the sidewalk, free for the taking.

Every young fellow dreams of walking down a dark street. Suddenly a long black roadster purrs up beside him. A long-haired blonde with a face of ruinous beauty leans out and says: "Hi there, sweet stuff! How about going for a li'l ole ride with li'l ole me?" He slides into the seat next to her, the car roars off and —

GENERAL IDEA

Well, I'm sure you get the general idea.

These youthful mirages of a steaming imagination are what I call sensible dreams. They portray life as it should be — chockful of fun-filled victories bought at bargain prices.

★ ★ ★

But as you grow older, your dreams change and wither. They lose their brightness and their laurel leaves. They become dull nightmares that bore you and couldn't possibly interest any other person except a psychiatrist.

We no longer dream of what we would like to have happen to us. We dream of what we are afraid will happen to us.

FRETFUL DREAM

For example, the wife who once dreamed of being a bride now dreams of someone in the family falling sick, being in an accident, or needing an operation.

At breakfast the next morning she pours these night-spawned premonitions of disaster into her husband's ears as if they were certain forecasts from heaven.

He doesn't want to hear them. He is all worn out. Bad dreams have kept him flopping like a fish all night. And what did he dream of? He dreamed of financial woes, losing his job, or work problems at the office.

In the dream most typical of a middle-aged man he is hanging from a cliff ledge by a tiny sapling. He boss is hacking at the roots with an ax, laughing maniacally, and yelling: "Ask me for more money, will you!!!".

ENOUGH TROUBLES

These are what I call nonsense dreams. For we all have troubles enough while awake. Why dream up more?

Now and then, however, in middle age one does get a nonsense dream that makes sense.

I had one the other night. I dreamed my wife turned into a mermaid.

"Was I a pretty mermaid?" asked Frances when I told her about it the next morning.

"The prettiest in the entire block."

"What did you do then?"

"I put you in the bathtub, called the circus, sold you for $10,000, got a divorce and married a rich young widow who owned a liquor store."

LOUSY DREAM

"I think that's a terrible dream," said Frances.

I didn't. It made me feel good all day.

State OKs 1st Claim Under New Law

MAKES THE GRADE — Pfc. Winstel R. Belton, who last August staged a seven-day hunger strike at Fort Benning, Ga., to protest the draft and the Viet fighting, is proving himself a worthy soldier. Yesterday at Ben Cat, South Viet Nam, Belton was promoted a grade and complimented by his 1st Infantry Division company commander.

Protester Does About-Face, Promoted by Army in Viet

By PETER ARNETT

BEN CAT, South Viet Nam (AP) — Seven months ago a university graduate named Winstel R. Belton staged a seven-day hunger strike at Fort Benning, Ga., to dramatize his distaste for being drafted and his refusal to fight in Viet Nam.

Thursday a big, proud smile flashed across Belton's face as he was promoted to private first class on a battlefield in South Viet Nam.

★ ★ ★

Looking just as proud was his company commander, Capt. R. E. Spriggs of Mexico, N.Y., a professional soldier who had hated everything Belton's hunger strike had stood for.

Spriggs was furious last November when he returned to his unit after recovering from a bullet wound to find Belton assigned there.

TAKE HIM ANYTIME

Spriggs said Thursday he would take the 26-year-old Winslow, Ariz., soldier into combat with him any time, anywhere.

Belton arrived in Viet Nam with a 12-month suspended jail sentence hanging over his head because of his hunger strike in mid-August. A court - martial had given him a bad conduct discharge, total forfeiture of pay and the jail sentence.

★ ★ ★

But he was also given a chance.

Belton was told that if he went to Viet Nam and proved himself, he would not have to serve his jail sentence. If he failed, he would serve it.

OLD UNIT

His old unit, the U. S. Army's 1st Cavalry Airmobile Division, wouldn't take him back. The 1st Infantry Division accepted him.

Spriggs was the only man in "A" company of the 2nd Battalion, 28th Regiment, who knew that the new radio telephone operator was the hunger striker Belton.

★ ★ ★

Lt. Gus Berzines, a weapons platoon commander from Kalamazoo, Mich., recalled talking with Belton one day about various things and finally saying, "You mean you're that Belton?"

More and more men in the unit began realizing that Belton had publicly protested what they themselves had accepted as a patriotic duty. None of them brought up the subject with him except the company commander, and few ever discussed it among themselves.

HIS BUSINESS

"That was his business," said Sgt. Frederick Range of Dallas, Tex. "We treated him like any other soldier."

Belton, holder of a bachelor of science degree in education, was initially cold and reserved with his buddies. But the heat of battles in December and January melted his attitude and forged ever - tightening bonds with Spriggs and the other men in the company.

★ ★ ★

Initially given the job of laying wires between the company headquarters and the platoons, he began carrying Spriggs' radio.

Early in January, he proved he had what it takes.

UNDER HEAVY FIRE

Spec. 5 Larry Kabriel of Summerfield, Kan., recalls that the company was under heavy fire near Trung Lap and an urgent call came over the radio for Capt. Spriggs.

The radioman shouted back: "The captain's not here. He's up front. There's heavy fire, I can't reach him."

★ ★ ★

Kabriel said Belton shouted out, "It's your duty to get up to the captain," crawled over to the reluctant radioman, grabbed the apparatus and moved up under fire to his captain.

Spriggs has used him as his radioman ever since.

ABOVE AVERAGE

"Belton in his conduct and bearing has been above average as a soldier and a valuable asset," Spriggs said. "He has worked in very well socially and he has got along with the men.

"I am personally satisfied that he now honestly believes his actions in the past have not been consistent with being a soldier or a man.

★ ★ ★

"I personally wrote to the commanding general recommending that he be promoted and his sentence remitted. Belton has seen men fight and die for their country, and he has felt the honor that comes when you do fight."

Spriggs tried to promote Belton two months ago, but the Army wanted to wait longer. Spriggs was told he must be absolutely sure Belton had changed his ways.

DESERVED PROMOTION

"I told Belton he deserved to be promoted," Spriggs said, "I knew he was happy. I knew he felt he had made it."

Belton is still a man of few words.

★ ★ ★

Asked why he launched his hunger strike, he replied: "I figured the Army had interrupted my education, and I needed the schooling. And when they said I had to go to Viet Nam, well, I thought why should I go there, I don't think we should be there.

"I wasn't a part of a protest movement. I wasn't then and I'm not now."

NOW PROTESTING

What about those now protesting American involvement in Viet Nam?

"We have good reasons to be doing what we are doing here," said Belton, "and we belong here, I know that now. I don't know if we'll ever win. But we're here and we have to stay."

★ ★ ★

Belton added that he hasn't changed his ideas "a full 360 degrees."

"I still don't like killing," he said. "I get faint when I see a dead man. I hate to kill, but I do my job."

CREDITS CAPTAIN

The husky Belton credited Capt. Spriggs with getting him his promotion and the remittance of his sentence.

"I'm glad I came to this company," he said.

★ ★ ★

Belton intends to go back to school in Milwaukee, Wis., when he gets out of the service, hopefully on the new GI bill.

And he wants to forget his experience as a hunger striker. The forgetting has already begun for the 1st Division. The commanding general, Maj. Gen. Jonathan O. Seaman, said: "I had deep satisfaction in remitting Belton's sentence."

MADE A MISTAKE

"Belton made a mistake," the general added, "but he had a chance to correct it on the field of battle and he did so. He proved he had the courage and the spirit to overcome the difficulties brought about by an unthinking action."

★ ★ ★

Belton will be in Viet Nam with his company until late April at least. His personal motto, printed across his steel helmet, probably reflects his change of thinking as much as anything else.

★ ★ ★

It reads: "Cast your fate to the winds."

Sheriff Sued for $25,000 by Ex-Deputy

Sheriff Frank Irons was sued today for $25,000 by a deputy he fired in December.

In asking the Oakland County Circuit Court to award him damages, Worth Hitchcock claims that Irons made false and malicious statements to newspapers about his discharge.

Hitchcock, 47, says he was fired and two other deputies allowed to resign, following a disturbance involving an ambulance in Holly.

The incident occurred Dec. 24 after a party at Hitchcock's home.

Hitchcock, with the department for six years, said Irons made it appear that he had been drinking and was directly involved.

A former village president, Hitchcock contends he did not participate in the incident, and did not know about it until it was over.

★ ★ ★

He said Irons discharged him without giving him an opportunity to prove the allegations false, and because he was fired he has been unable to get work with any private police force.

Pontiac Area Included in Census Bureau Poll

The Bureau of the Census has begun a nationwide survey designed to ascertain how well-off the American people are.

In the Pontiac area, the questions will be asked by Mrs. Arthur Petar, 788 Irwindale, Waterford Township. She will ask people about their jobs, layoffs, incomes, assets and debts.

Court Backs 9th Judge for County

The Michigan Supreme Court has recommended to the Legislature that a ninth judge be added to the Oakland County Circuit bench.

Opposition to the proposal has been voiced by the Oakland bench, as it did when the eighth judge was added by the legislature last year.

At that time, the bench stated that it didn't need another judge because its docket was current.

The eighth judge will be elected this fall, and take office the first of the year.

★ ★ ★

In addition to Oakland, the Supreme Court recommended additional judges for Genesee, Kent, Washtenaw, Monroe and Jackson counties and the Allegan-Ottawa County circuit.

RECOMMENDATIONS

The recommendations, said Chief Justice Thomas Kavanagh, were based on population, case loads, complexity of cases and composition of the circuits.

★ ★ ★

The additional seven judges recommended should take office next Jan. 1, the report said.

The additions would give Oakland County nine, Genesee six, Washtenaw three and Jackson, Monroe and Allegan-Ottawa two each.

Red Cross Names First Aid Instructors

The four are Program Chairman Dr. O. L. Smith, 2940 Acorn and Floyd Bunt, 6th Faculty Row, Cranbrook School, both of Bloomfield Hills; Milford Fuller, 1312 Melton, Birmingham, and John Schafer of Royal Oak.

★ ★ ★

Interested persons may enroll in first aid classes by contacting the Red Cross office, 118 Franklin Blvd.

Bronson to Try to Obey Ruling

Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson said today that he will try to comply with a Circuit Court decision to send criminal cases to Bloomfield Township Justice of Peace Alice C. Gilbert.

★ ★ ★

The prosecutor has boycotted the justice's court since last summer when she refused to use the Central Justice Court he established in Pontiac.

Mrs. Gilbert sued, and last week Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams ruled that Bronson was interfering with her court by not directing warrants to her.

Adams' opinion was more of a suggestion than an order, but implied he would enforce it if Bronson didn't cooperate.

Bronson cites a shortage of manpower in saying his assistants "will attempt to appear at hearings on cases in her court."

The central court, according to Bronson, is not a perfect program, but it does represent a practical solution since it eliminates the need to send assistant prosecutors to lower courts throughout the county.

In addition to Salley, Mrs. Carol Wolfe and Elmer Fangboner were reelected to three-year terms.
