Bloomfield Hills Businessman, 2 Others Killed

Authorities Seek Clues on What Caused Blast While Plane in Flight

State and Federal authorities today began investigations into the explosion and crash of a privately-owned helicopter which took the lives of a Bloomfield Hills executive, his brother, and the pilot, Monday.

The victims were: Louis A. Garavaglia Jr., 40, of 580 E. Long Lake Rd.; his brother Jule C. Garavaglia, 28, of Grosse Pointe Woods; and James Kennedy, 31, of East Detroit.

Louis was president and Jule vice president of the Louis Garavaglia Construction Co., of Warren.

Kennedy was piloting the plane which had carried the men on an inspection of building projects in the area.

Authorities are searching for clues leading to what caused the craft to explode while in flight over a Centerline cement company yard.

The Bloomfield Hills man, father of three children, went down with the wreckage, said observers. His brother fell from the craft after the explosion.

Witnesses said the helicopter was flying at a low altitude when it blew up in what one onlooker described as a "mass of red and black flame and smoke."

The Garavaglia firm specializes in road and bridge building and is one of the largest of its kind in Michigan.

GM, UAW Open Talks; Firm Favors Long Pact

FROM OUR WIRE SERVICES

DETROIT — General Motors called today for a long-term contract to contribute to "stability and public confidence" as it prepared to begin negotiations with the United Auto Workers Union.

The union already has gone on record against a long contract.

Louis G. Seaton, GM vice president in charge of personnel and head of the company's bargaining team, said the talks beginning today will require "a lot of patience and hard work." He added:

"The economic facts of life as they exist today will have to be weighed most carefully.

"We are hopeful that we can arrive at a settlement without the waste of a stoppage of work. Any settlement, however, must be economically sound. It must not contribute to further inflation.

FAIR TO EMPLOYES

"We want a settlement that is fair to our employes but it must also be equitable from the standpoint of our 725,000 shareholders, our dealers, our suppliers and the millions of customers of General Motors.

"And it must be in the best interests of the country."

UAW President Walter P. Reuther, who usually enters talks only during crucial stages, will take charge of the union negotiating team today.

Reuther and UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock, head of the union's GM Department, will outline union demands, which include:

—A share of profits above 10 per cent on net capital before taxes.

—A general wage hike, estimated at between 7 and 12 cents an hour.

—Improvements in pensions, supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) and hospital-medical insurance coverage.

—Protection for workers affected by plant and job movement.

Woodcock said previously that the union is entering the negotiations with no thought "of the eventuality" of a strike. He said the UAW hopes to win its demands through negotiation.

STRIKE FINANCES

The union voted in January to add $5 to monthly dues of members in an effort to build up a 50 million dollar strike fund.

It probably will take about three days for the union to present its

State Senate Passes Bill for Fifth Circuit Judge

Almost as an anti-climax, Oakland County's bill for a fifth circuit judge cleared the Senate in Lansing last night without debate or dissent and was readied for submission to the governor's desk.

In contrast to its defeat in an unexpected vote Friday, the bill last night was approved unanimously by 30 Senators present.

State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge (R-Oakland County), who had angrily branded last week's defeat as a "parliamentary trick pulled off while my back was turned," today was in a forgive - and - forget mood.

"Many of my colleagues have explained they were not aware I was temporarily out of the Senate chamber when the bill was brought up Friday," he said.

"I think last night's easy victory shows that Friday's defeat was a mistake," he said. The vote Friday had three Senators against the bill, three abstaining from voting, and 17 for it — one less than the required majority of 18 votes.

Lodge believed there was "every indication" the House - approved measure would be signed by Gov. Williams.

It calls for a fifth judge to be elected next spring for two terms, a short one beginning July 1, 1959 and a regular six-year term beginning Jan. 1, 1960.

The short term was added by representatives of both political parties in the House in an attempt to make the bill acceptable to Williams.

Williams vetoed a somewhat similar measure last year on grounds that a new judge should take office at the time a new position on the bench is created.

His veto was interpreted as part of a political battle in which Williams, a Democrat, wanted to appoint the new judge and the predominantly - Republican legislature wanted him elected.

Probers Label Hoffa, Beck

Union President Called Betrayer, Dangerous in Final Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rackets Investigating Committee said today President James R. Hoffa of the Teamsters Union is a betrayer of labor and "dangerous to the country."

In a report prepared for the Senate, the committee described Hoffa as a man with a lust for power who has built "a hoodlum empire" in his giant union. It termed Dave Beck, Hoffa's ally and predecessor, a man who could not resist temptation to engage in "thievery" of the union's funds.

It accused Frank W. Brewster, West Coast Teamster boss and a top lieutenant to both Hoffa and Beck, of involvement in a thwarted "plot to control vice" in Portland, Ore., through crooked deals with politicians and racketeers.

"The stench of corruption permeates many" in the Teamsters high command, said the committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark).

The report was prepared as a summary of the committee's first year of work on a two-year assignment to ferret out evidence of racketeering and other evils in the labor-management field.

12c Fraction for Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agricultural Marketing Service estimates that about 12 cents of every dollar spent for food in this country goes for taxes. This 12 cents is added, it said, to the cost of processing and distributing food. The tax collector's share is a third of the portion of the food dollars farmers now get.

Ambulances and a helicopter were used to remove the injured to hospitals.

Sees Road Bill Providing Jobs

Sen. Gore Also Notes Nation's Highways Are Sound Investment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) said today the highway construction speed-up bill now before the Senate will constitute "a major step toward putting America back to work."

But he added in a prepared Senate speech that the immediate economic benefit he said it will provide is not the only reason for its enactment.

"This is a bill for the building of roads," he said. "The funds authorized in this bill are a sound investment in the future of America — an investment which will pay ever-increasing dividends in the years ahead."

By increasing and advancing allotments, the bill would make available to the states this year 1½ billion dollars more in federal funds than presently programed.

Gore, chief sponsor of the legislation, said this would result in a $5,400,000,000 highway construction program this year, including the matching state funds.

He said one new feature of the bill could mean that dirt would be flying 60 days after its enactment.

City OKs Improving of Lafayette Corner

State Highway Department plans for construction at Oakland Ave. and Lafayette St. of the first installation in the proposed progressive traffic signal system on Saginaw street through downtown Pontiac have been approved by City Traffic Engineer Theodore M. Vanderstempel.

Vanderstempel urged the highway department yesterday to authorize construction soon as possible.

With this authorization, he believed, the city's electrical city and engineering departments could begin actual construction in May.

The work includes modernization of the intersection, installation of new signals, and improvements of old ones, Vanderstempel said.

Included is a new traffic island in the middle of Saginaw opposite the Sears Roebuck & Co. store, and an extension to the triangle separating Saginaw and Oakland south of the First Baptist Church.

Calls for Longer Aid to Jobless

Executive Committee of Area Advisory Council Contacts Legislators

A thirteen week extension of unemployment compensation has been urged by the Executive Committee of the Greater Pontiac Community Advisory Council.

Judge Clark J. Adams, president of the council, today released letters sent to Senators Pat McNamara and Charles E. Potter, Congressman William S. Broomfield, State Senator L. Harvey Lodge and State Representatives Lloyd L. Anderson and Leslie H. Hudson urging them to support any pending legislation on this subject.

The Council expressed its opposition to increasing the present eligibility requirement of fourteen weeks of covered employment, in the letters sent to the State legislators.

The Council took this action as a result of a recommendation by a sub-committee appointed last month to study the impact of unemployment on our community's health and welfare services. The Committee was composed of Robert Langer, Chairman; Maurice Croteau, Fred V. Haggard, and Everett C. Spurlock.

Miami-Panama Plane Crashes in Everglades

Dead, Injured Strewn in Swamp Mud as Craft Falls Early Today

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Braniff Airlines plane crashed moments after its takeoff for Panama early today with a mighty explosion visible for miles.

Nine were killed and 15 survived, many of them badly injured.

The four-engine DC7C had been airborne less than a minute before watchers on the ground saw fire spurt from an engine.

A night watchman on duty at a city dump near the swampy scene of the crash saw the plane go down "like a rock." It fell 4½ miles north of Miami International Airport.

The dead, dying and injured lay in the wreckage or in ankle-deep mud and water.

Rescuers had to push their way through dense brush which kept fire trucks and ambulances away from the scene.

Rescuers were directed to the crash site in a fairly remote section of the greater Miami area by cab driver Bob Grant who said he saw the plane hit the black mucky marshland. He said the plane broke into at least three pieces on impact with the ground.

DIRECTS RESCUE

Grant used his taxi radio to tell his dispatcher where the plane came down and then stood at a crossroad directing firemen and policemen to the wreckage.

More than 50 ambulances, 20 fire trucks and 100 police cars sped to the scene. Thousands of spectators' cars jammed the area, forcing police to block off the section for miles south and north of the scene.

Two helicopters that brought the injured and dead to hospitals criss-crossed spotlights on the desolate scene so that rescuers could find the victims.

At the hospital, a parking lot was pressed into service as a landing port for the helicopters.

The big plane, which would have gone to Lima, Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro from Panama, broke cleanly in two.

Judge Regards Heaven as Reward for Good Life

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles on Heaven, written by local residents and compiled by Mary Anglemier, Pontiac Press church editor.)

By JUDGE H. RUSSEL HOLLAND

Although I have been urged to write down my impression of Heaven, I am reticent to do so because I feel that I am wholly incapable of giving a picture that would benefit others and because I feel it will be trespassing upon the prerogatives of the theologians and members of the clergy.

Theological definitions of Heaven are difficult for me to understand, so I shall therefore avoid them.

Circuit Court Judge H. Russel Holland teaches an adult Sunday School Class at Bethany Baptist Church. Director of Pontiac State Bank, he is a past president of the YMCA, Rotary Club, Michigan Judges' Assn., Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Oakland County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

There is a thought which can bring a sort of realization and a certain comfort to all which ought to be stated at the outset about God and Heaven. It is this — the same God who created the earth, created us to live upon it as best we can until He sees fit to call us to return to Him.

At that time we will receive our reward depending upon how well we have succeeded in living a good life upon the earth. God created Heaven as the reward for the just.

My initial impression of Heaven was gained as a child from my first Sunday School teacher. Her brief definition has lingered with me and is more understandable and comforting than more orthodox ones.

I was told that God created Heaven and Earth, that God lives in Heaven; that people who love God and keep His commandments live with Him in Heaven after death; that in Heaven the faithful live according to God's Commandments and the teachings of Christ,

In Speech to Kiwanis Club

GM History and Progress Outlined

Pontiac Motor Division executive J. H. Shimmick spoke on General Motors' 50 years of progress today, in an address delivered to members of the Downtown Pontiac Kiwanis Club at the Waldron Hotel.

Shimmick, who is assistant personnel director, reviewed GM growth and what it has meant to the employes and communities all over the nation.

"As you know, this is General Motors' 50th anniversary and with our sister GM plants in 71 communities across the country, we at Pontiac are celebrating this important milestone.

"An anniversary has little meaning, beyond marking the passage of a given number of years, unless it is viewed in terms of accomplishment. So I would like to sketch very briefly what the growth and progress of General Motors, as represented by Pontiac Motor Division has meant to this community and its people.

"For example, in 1908, Oakland Motor Car Company (as it was then known) had approximately 50,000 square feet of floor space for automobile production. Today the Pontiac plant has almost seven million square feet of floor space utilized for automobile production. Obviously, plant expansion such as this has been accompanied by similar growth in employment and payroll which has been good for the community.

"We know that from a physical standpoint our facilities and working conditions are among the very best in our industry. Our employe facilities in particular we consider outstanding. We want every job in our organization to be a good job. We want our employes to want to work for General Motors.

"What is a good job?

"Obviously, the definition would comprehend the physical aspects such as: a clean place to work; the best tools and facilities that technology can provide; and mechanical power to reduce the tax on human muscles wherever possible. But in our view a good job means much more than that.

"In this broader view of what constitutes a good job we include the fact that our people enjoy unusually safe working conditions; that their pay is good; that they receive substantial assistance in protecting themselves against the hazards of life; and finally and importantly, that relationships with and among the people in our plant are good.

"Over the last ten years we have reduced time lost due to accidents, in relation to hours

UNIFIED SIGNALS

A new set of signals is to be installed at the intersection of Oakland and Saginaw to operate in unison with the existing signals at Oakland and Lafayette, Vanderstempel said.

The project would cost an estimated $5,000, with the city and state splitting the bill equally.

"It is designed to allow north and southbound traffic on Saginaw to move smoothly in conjunction with eastbound turning traffic on Lafayette in one phase," Vanderstempel explained, "while in the other, cars using the north and southbound Oakland-Saginaw route will be able to proceed without interference from traffic on the other two streets."

Vanderstempel said the next step would be to secure plans for the improvement of the signal system from Lafayette to Huron street. He hoped the entire system, from Lafayette to South boulevard, could be in operation by this fall.

Today's Weather Across Nation Stays Dampish

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's weather pattern showed only minor changes today, with more precipitation in wide areas of the Western and Eastern sections of the country.

A storm centered over the Southeastern part of the country continued to bring rain from the middle Mississippi Valley and Arkansas eastward across most of the South and Middle Atlantic states.

Snow mixed with rain fell along the northern border of the storm belt and in parts of the Appalachians. About an inch of new snow was reported in parts of the Virginias.

The wet weather was expected to extend into the upper Ohio Valley and lower Great Lakes region, most of the South and Middle Atlantic states and northward into southern New England. Snow mixed with rain was forecast in northern parts of the wet belt.

Murder Trial Case Hearing Postponed

A Circuit Court hearing on a motion to dismiss a first - degree murder charge against Ray Goff has been postponed to March 31.

Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty granted the postponement yesterday because of a crowded docket in his courtroom.

The motion was made by Goff's attorneys after a hung jury was discharged following his trial last month.

Goff, 35, of Flint, is accused of shooting his estranged sweetheart, Mrs. Rita Cummings, 27, of Flint, to death on Aug. 21, 1955 near Holly.

He spent the next two years in Ionia State Hospital and pleaded insanity as a defense.

demands. After that, current plans call for at least a week's recess while GM experts study the proposals and prepare a reply.

The GM contract covering about 350,000 UAW members expires at midnight, May 29. Ford and Chrysler pacts expire two days later. Negotiations with Ford begin next Monday and with Chrysler the following day.

Appearances today by Reuther and Seaton are regarded as token in nature.

Contract provisions covering seniority and job classifications were expected to occupy bargainers in early talks.

Union officials have not specified what they will seek in a wage increase.

PRESENT CONTRACT

GM has offered to renew its present contract with the UAW which gears wages to the cost of living and provides an annual increase of 6 cents an hour based on the theory that the private economy's productivity rises at a rate of about 2½ per cent a year.

The union contends the productivity improvement factor is 3.9 per cent.

The average GM wage rate is $2.21, exclusive of fringe benefits, which the company estimates at 67 cents per hour.

Would Raise Budget $10,500

Firefighters in Waterford Seek 2 More Men, Truck

Although only two items had been announced for last night's regular Waterford Township board meeting according to officials, nine additional projects kept members conferring until after midnight.

A committee from the Firefighters Association headed by Leon Thorton presented the fire department's proposed annual budget, requesting an additional $10,500 over last year's budget for the hiring of two more full - time firemen and the purchase of a new pumper truck.

The budget for fire department operations last year was $66,640 as compared with this year's proposed budget of $75,960.

The committee also proposed that a one mill tax for fire protection be placed on the fall primary ballot for a long range township fire protection plan. The department is now supported by the general township fund.

The group also proposed to ask voters for the approval of civil service as well as a pension plan for the full - time men. Both matters were tabled for further consideration.

Also tabled was the Waterford Township recreation budget which was approved by the Township Recreation Board and later tabled by the board of education for additional study.

Builders Abe Friedman and Saul Coleman were present requesting the termination of an agreement with the township for the operation of the sewer treatment plant in their subdivision near Pontiac Lake and Cass Lake roads.

The agreement specifies that the developers pay for operation and maintenance of the plant until 85 homes have been occupied. So far there are only 53 homes occupied but the board agreed to terminate the agreement providing the company put the money in escrow for the remaining unoccupied homes.

Friedman also objected to the payment of four repair bills and after a lengthy discussion, an agreement was reached whereby the township will pay one half of the first $590 repair bill and the company will pay the following three bills totaling some $700.

A proposed budget for the township - owned Water System No. 1 was also tabled. Last year's operating costs were $27,000 and this year's budget was set at $36,000.

Another project was tabled for further study when an engineer's opinion and estimate on extending water lines from the Watkins Hills system to the proposed new Cooley Elementary School was presented.

Also tabled was the termination of the Lake Oakland Heights water agreement pending further action by the builder regarding the pumping system.

at peace with themselves and each other.

HOLDS TO CONCEPT

Despite the varying impressions I have gained from various denominations, religions and religious thinkers, I have held in the main to the simple concept received from this Godly woman.

I still believe that God was the creator of the earth and man; that He was the author of the natural and moral laws: that He is ever present to guide our lives and fortunes; and sustain us if we will but bend our will and desires to His, observe the basic laws given us in the Ten Commandments and heed the teachings of Christ, to love God, to serve and love each other.

To me the location of Heaven and the body with which one is raised up are of little concern.

The important thing is we will be at peace with God, man and with ourselves. There will be opportunity throughout eternity to worship God: to reflect upon His precepts and goodness to us, and continuing opportunities to serve.

ed about 50 yards from the rear section of the fuselage.

Flames still were roaring into the sky hours after the crash. Traffic was backed up for miles along roads leading to the area.

R. H. Sands, the dump watchman who summoned help but was prevented by the sawgrass and underbrush from forcing his way to the scene himself, said it was about 20 minutes before rescue crews arrived.

UNABLE TO HELP

"Those were the longest 20 minutes I ever spent," he said. "I could hear the passengers yelling for help and there was nothing I could do."

Ray Stolz, a Miami Springs policeman who was among the first to reach the wreckage, said victims could be seen "like bundles on the ground. I heard them yelling.

"The flames weren't as bad as they got later but it was something fierce — the heat.

"I carried one man out to the road and then I came back and called out for the survivors. They heard me and yelled, 'Please help us. We're hurt bad.'"

Pete Vigna, 67, Civil Aeronautics Administration official returning to his job in Colombia, suffered only a cut ear.

"The plane was running good until it hit about 1,500 feet," Vigna said. "All of a sudden, the engine next to the fuselage on the right sputtered fire.

"The next thing I knew, the world had fallen out beneath me. I found myself tumbling inside the plane, falling every which way."

Wreckage was strewn over a half-mile square area. It seemed as if a giant mixing contraption scattered bits of the plane in every direction.

worked, by 75 per cent. Our accident rate is only about one-fifth the average for all industry. This means that 99.76 per cent of General Motors employes lost no time because of accidents last year.

"Another facet of a good job is good pay, obviously. Not only are our people paid well, but they have made important progress toward higher living standards over the past ten years. In 1948 General Motors proposed a wage formula to the union in an attempt to arrive at a workable method of determining what is a fair wage. The union accepted this formula. It was continued in two subsequent agreements and is in effect now.

"Certainly, from the employe's standpoint the help he gets in providing against the hazards of life is an important consideration. In General Motors this help has taken the form of several major benefit plans, introduced or improved over the past 10 years.

"First there is the pension plan for hourly-rate employes put into effect in 1950. It covers all plant employes. General Motors pays the entire cost of the plan. Since its inception more than 22,000 employes have retired under this pension plan. General Motors payments into the non-contributory pension fund from 1950 through 1957 have totaled over $356 million.

"Our employes and their families are protected when illness strikes. Under local Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans they are provided with hospital and surgical insurance, the cost being shared approximately 50-50 by General Motors and the insured employe.

"A final aspect of a good job has to do with what might be called the climate that prevails in an organization, in other words, the opportunities that are provided for, and the relationships that exist with and among the people who work together as a productive team.

"Basic to this climate are the policies by which a business is operated. These policies must recognize that a team is made up of individual people — people with different talents, natures, ambitions, and problems. Only good policies, constructively implemented by effective organization, can weld a group of people into a successful productive team.

"This thinking is reflected specifically in the Six Basic General Motors Principles by which we operate our business. Five of these principles have to do with people.

"1. Put the right people in the right places . . . so that there will be a minimum number of square pegs in round holes.

"2. Train everyone for the job to be done . . . so that employes individually may have an opportunity to qualify for better jobs.

"3. Make the organization a coordinated team . . . to minimize friction and reduce nonproductive or unnecessary work, as well as to stimulate the initiative of the individual employe.

"4. Supply the right tools and the right conditions . . . to enable employes to produce more with the same amount of human effort — a sound social and economic objective.

"5. Give security with opportunity, incentive, and recognition . . . as proper incentives to conscientious application to and interest in the job on the part of employes.

"6. Look ahead, plan ahead . . . for more and better things . . . through research and continuing product development to place ourselves in a position successfully to anticipate the future requirements of customers, thereby making the future of the business and its employes more secure.

"We at Pontiac and our General Motors top management as well, are firmly convinced that people—good relationships with and among the folks who work together—are the keystone in any sound business structure."

CHICAGO — Illinois cities are faced with the loss of mass transportation unless bus and trolley companies obtain relief from the Illinois Legislature, the 200 delegates to an executive board meeting of the Illinois Municipal League were told.

The meeting was held in Chicago and Mayor Jerome J. Munie, a member of the executive board, attended.

"All major cities in Illinois are confronted with the loss of their mass transportation systems," said Munie. Revenue has been declining and operating costs increasing.

The 200 delegates represented 837 cities and villages.

Commissioners Accept Bus Anti-Nuisance Plan

BIRMINGHAM — An agreement by the Great Lakes Transit Co. to remedy the nuisance factors at its bus parking lot was accepted by the Birmingham City Commission last night.

The firm purchased Greyhound's suburban lines after Greyhound had been sued by residents of the Hunter boulevard and Forest street area for creating a nuisance with its bus parking lot.

Acceptance of the Great Lakes agreement to eliminate the noise and fumes coming from its lot at night will bring suspension of the $100 levied against Greyhound, according to City Attorney James Howlett.

No bus operations will be made on the lot between 9 p.m. and 6 a.m., according to the new agreement, and not more than six buses will operate at a time.

The company pointed out that in an emergency such as mass evacuation it will not regard this agreement as binding.

In other action, commissioners approved the special assessment district for the paving of Elm street north from Hunter boulevard.

Birmingham Police yesterday arrested Robert Felk, 25, of 1079 E. 14-Mile Rd., Birmingham, and Otis Chiles, 28, of 1411 Amelia St., Royal Oak, on charges of tire theft from a Birmingham Service station.

About 24 whitewall tires were recovered, police said.

Also arrested yesterday were Joseph S. Young Jr., 32, and Donavan Plum, 19, both of 52 E. Baker St., Clawson. They were charged with theft of groceries from the Wrigley Supermarket, 855 S. Hunter Blvd.

A Royal Oak man has been turned over to Detroit police, who charged him with forgery.

Flamboyant Mike Todd to Be Buried in Chicago

CHICAGO (INS) — Burial services for movie producer Mike Todd were advanced two hours today to avert the possibility of the gathering of a huge crowd at the cemetery.

The change from 2 p.m. to noon (CST) was announced after Elizabeth Taylor, beauteous widow of the flamboyant showman, arrived by plane from the West Coast for the last rites at Waldheim Cemetery in suburban Forest Park.

WEEPS CONSTANTLY

Miss Taylor "wept almost constantly" during the TWA flight from Los Angeles, said Richard Hanley, an employe of her late husband.

As she left the plane at Chicago's Midway Airport, Miss Taylor held the arm of her brother, Howard Taylor, 28, who accompanied her on the sad flight. Hanley said:

"The only time she stopped crying was when she couldn't cry any more. She is in terrible shape. She is stunned. We were all shocked to see how bad she is."

STAYS UP

The plane's hostesses said Miss Taylor sat up most of the night-long trip and slept very little.

Miss Taylor wore a small black hat with a heavy veil, a mink coat and black gloves. Four limousines sped her and the mourning group from Hollywood, including singer Eddie Fisher, to the Drake Hotel.

At the hotel, Todd's sister and three brothers were waiting. They are Mrs. Shirley Stender of Chicago, Carl Goldbogen, 61, of Los Angeles, David Goldbogen of Lake Zurich, Ill., and Frank Goldbogen of Highland Park, Ill.

From the hotel, the mourners were to leave for the cemetery. Todd will be buried in the family plot where his father, Rabbi Chaim Goldbogen, also is buried. The father died in 1931.

Miss Taylor entered a limousine occupied by Michael Todd Jr., 29-year-old son of Todd by a previous marriage. He held her hands and they looked silently at each other. Miss Taylor will return to Los Angeles on a TWA plane departing at 6:10 p. m. (CST.)

William Doll, vice president of Todd's theatrical enterprises, said the time of the funeral had been changed because the family desired to keep the services "simple and private." Doll added:

"It was thought best to conduct the burial service at noon to avoid the possibility of a huge crowd gathering in the cemetery."

Police Chief Joseph L. Cortino of Forest Park assigned 40 policemen to guard the area around the grave and to keep order.

Todd, 50, who perished Saturday with three other men in the fiery crash of his luxurious private plane near Grants, N. M., will be interred in the Congregation Beth Aaron section of the cemetery after a simple Jewish service.

A memorial service will be held at Temple Israel in the movie capital with George Jessel delivering the eulogy.

Elvis in the Army Now; Makes Own Bed Today

FT. CHAFFEE, Ark. (AP) — Pvt. Elvis Presley, idol of America's rock 'n' roll fans, and 21 other recruits arrived here in a blaze of publicity last night.

Presley's schedule today calls for five hours of aptitude tests, a classification interview and several lectures. Presley will make the rounds in the sports jacket and slacks he wore to camp. He won't get a uniform until tomorrow.

The 23-year-old singer, whose gross income last year was almost a million dollars, will get the $7 salary advance provided to tide over recruits until payday.

Presley and the others in his group rolled in from Memphis aboard a chartered bus shortly before midnight. He was greeted by a shouting crowd of newsmen, photographers and civilian fans.

"We never had anything like this before," commented a reception center officer as camera flashbulbs winked and teen-age girls among the 100-odd civilians screamed a welcome to the unruffled Presley.

The celebrated draftee, who had charge of his contingent, went immediately into a reception room, where a sergeant called the roll above a din of newsmen.

Presley willingly posed for pictures in the reception room, but he declined to give autographs while he was in ranks.

The recruits were taken to a supply building where blankets, sheets and pillows were issued. Then Cpl. John D. Smith of North Little Rock, Ark., steered them to a nearby barracks.

Photographers and reporters followed Presley into the barracks. Smith showed the newcomers how to make up a bed GI style. As Presley worked on his bed, someone asked if he ever made one before. He smilingly said he had not.

At 12:30 a.m. about an hour after the arrival, Presley and his comrades turned in.

Presley was sworn in at Memphis Monday. After three days of processing here, the Army will decide where he will take his eight-week basic training.

'COPTER CRASHES — This was once a helicopter. The jumbled mass of metal is all that remains of the whirlybird which crashed near Warren Monday, killing three men. Witnesses reported seeing an explosion and two bodies hurtling from the helicopter. Brothers Louis and Jule Garavaglia, heads of a Detroit-area construction firm, and pilot James Kennedy were killed.

Churchill Reported 'Very Well Indeed'

ROQUEBRUNE, France (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill today was reported "very well indeed." His secretary said a general statement on the condition of Britain's 83-year-old former Prime Minister will be issued this afternoon.

The secretary, Anthony Montague Browne, declined to say whether Churchill would be able to make his scheduled April trip to Washington. It is generally assumed he won't, but there has never been any official word that the trip has been canceled.

Churchill, spending his annual winter vacation on the French Riviera, fell ill with pneumonia and pleurisy five weeks ago. He had been recovering until he suffered a slight setback over the weekend. Now he is reported once more on the road to recovery.

Meet the man who watches Moscow from Michigan Avenue

Jacob G. Tolpin, expert in the field of foreign scientific developments, often is consulted by leaders in academic, government and industrial enterprises.

He keeps tab on Russian scientific moves

WHAT are Russian scientists up to now?

Few people in America are better able to answer this question than a mild-mannered, unobtrusive man dressed like other business executives on Chicago's Michigan Avenue.

There is no cloak-and-dagger atmosphere surrounding Jacob G. Tolpin or his office.

It has been the daily job of Mr. Tolpin since 1937 to keep track of Russian scientific advances. He was born in Russia and is a graduate of the University of Kiev. He did postgraduate work in Germany and the United States. Now an American citizen, he is a key man on the staff of specialists at Standard Oil who analyze foreign technical journals and patents.

The primary purpose of this work is to keep Standard Oil research scientists informed of developments throughout the world. But the work has broader significance. Standard Oil furnishes important foreign technical data to nationally important bodies and to libraries, such as the Library of Congress. The knowledge gained from the foreign periodicals thus is made available to all.

Mr. Tolpin has found it is possible to predict Russian scientific moves by careful interpretation of what is printed in the technical and news publications.

Even the Russians admit, says Mr. Tolpin, that American knowledge of petroleum technology is superior to their own. Standard's research at Whiting and other centers has resulted in many important discoveries which have helped to make America supreme in the field of petroleum and to strengthen its defenses. In the last few years alone, Standard scientists have made outstanding contributions that have advanced America's missile program and its jet air defense.

Since our first laboratory opened 68 years ago, we have spent hundreds of millions of dollars to learn more about oil—how to find it, produce it, refine it and make it more useful to more people than ever before.

What makes a company a good citizen? One measure is the contribution a company makes to the economic and physical strength of its country. Through constant and intensive research, we at Standard have tried to make oil yield its maximum usefulness—both for civilian and military purposes. Steadily mounting efficiency also has helped to keep the price of oil and gasoline down.

America's jets now have a new, improved smokeless starter cartridge (being used in the engine above, left) as the result of a Standard Oil research development. The old method, on the right, was so smoky it made concealment impossible and also blocked fliers' views of the field.

Radiation-resistant lubricants for atomic powerplants are under study in Standard's research laboratories. Seymour Meyerson, above, is engaged in pioneering work in this new field. He is an authority on the controlled shattering of molecules by electron bombardment.

Many Oldsters Happy Studying Hobbies

By RAY HENRY

A 65-year-old retired engineer is finishing high school in Los Angeles. A 68-year-old housewife is learning to make ceramic pottery in Jupiter, Fla. A 78-year-old retired mechanic is going to poetry classes in Cleveland.

These are some actual examples of what the older generation is doing these days with their free time. And, they show the wide use being made of the booming adult education business around the country.

A recent government survey showed that more than half a million persons who are at least 60 attend adult education classes each year, including some 50,000 who are 75 or older.

As you might expect, the survey showed that much of this study involves getting ready for retirement. This includes learning about Social Security, how to stay healthy in old age, dieting and nutrition and developing recreational interests.

Older people also wade deeply into civic and public affairs subjects. Some study to learn new skills in an effort to keep on working.

The study is sponsored by many organizations and is carried on in a variety of locations. The biggest share of the activity goes on in public school classrooms in the evening, under the guidance of local boards of education. Classes sponsored by private concerns, such as department stores, run a close second.

Evening classes at colleges and universities also are extremely popular. For recreational skills, older people often turn to such organizations as the YMCA, YWCA, and Red Cross.

Los Angeles has by far the most successful adult education program in the country. Of the eight million Americans who get involved in such schooling each year, more than a million are in the Los Angeles area with a good share in the older generation.

To meet the demand for adult education, Los Angeles has 30 full-time principals for its evening schools. One person is specifically assigned to the program for older people. California and the city put some 16 million dollars into adult education last year.

The bulk of the schooling for adults is in cities, although many small towns have well-organized programs.

If you're wondering whether there are classes in your area, check with the local schools or libraries.

If there aren't any classes going, getting some started wouldn't be too difficult if you can round up a half-dozen interested people.

Suppose, for example, you want to set up a class on retirement preparation.

There are a number of organizations you could turn to for advice. Chances are your state university would be glad to give you help. The United States Office of Education in Washington could also assist.

Even without such help, you could no doubt work out a course of study. The key would be to get some experts to talk to the class on the obvious problems which face people in retirement.

A local Social Security representative might be one. A physician could help with advice on health, dieting and nutrition. A Veterans Administration (VA) representative might be called in to tell what VA benefits are available to older veterans. The high school manual training teacher could be enlisted for a class or two on handicraft and woodworking.

No doubt all would be willing to contribute their time without charge.

To hold your classes, the library might be willing to give you space. You might be able to meet in the nearest school or in the recreation room of a friend.

Once you got such a class started you could probably get some established organization to continue it.

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service. You may obtain Ray Henry's new social security handbook by sending 35 cents in coin to this newspaper and requesting "Security for You" booklet.)

Gas Pipe Line Co. Seeks to Expand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission (FPC) will open hearings April 21 on a proposal by Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Co. of Detroit to expand its natural gas system.

Applicants are seeking gas service for Michigan Wisconsin or its affiliate, American Louisiana Pipeline Co., also of Detroit.

Michigan Wisconsin wants to build a gathering system in the Laverene field of Harper County, Okla. It also would build about 101 miles of pipeline and other facilities. Estimated cost of the expansion is about $22,069,000.

The company said the project would enable it to transport about 40 million additional cubic feet of gas per day to existing markets, principally in Michigan and Wisconsin.

Tips on 'Phone Etiquette

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Don't expect a man who outranks you to return your call when you leave a phone message, the University of Utah personnel office advises readers of its monthly U-Clues publication. Good protocol, it says requires that you "don't ask people up the line to call back, but feel free to ask people down the line to do so."

Attempts to introduce the salmon from the cold waters of the north into Australian waters have been unsuccessful.

Pontiac Has Vital Stake in Current Negotiations

Negotiations are under way between General Motors Corporation and the United Auto Workers.

No city in the country has a bigger stake or a bigger interest than Pontiac. In proportion to its size, no community is more vitally interested than this one.

The Corporation has three huge plants here. They employ somewhere around 95 per cent of the plant workers in the whole city. In fact, if every home in Pontiac provided one GM worker each day, the total number would not be sufficient to handle the GM employment rolls in prosperous times.

Hence, both employers and employes have a consuming interest in what transpires.

Retail trade in Pontiac depends directly upon the activity of the three GM plants. All employes of retail institutions are concerned with that also, for when GM workers no longer buy, downtown jobs fade and melt away.

Thus the issues and the outcome are of vital importance to everyone.

This is not a very happy moment to "talk" strike, and we hope it has no part in the strategy of either side.

This is a good time to learn who is sincerely interested in more jobs for more men or fewer jobs at higher wages. The President, Union officials, Statesmen, Governors and all manner of public and private officials are alarmed at the steady increase in living costs and decline in employment.

Prices cannot be held down when the factors going into manufactured goods advance. Everyone recognizes this.

The PRESS hopes that the bargaining table will see high level talks with each side willing to hear the problems of the other. In the meantime, there are more than five million men out of work. There are also more than 60 million at work. The current problem is to lower the smaller figure and swell the larger. Let's negotiate with that in mind.

Anti-Billboard Action Defeats Free Enterprise

Action in the Senate attaching an anti-billboard rider to the Accelerated Public Roads bill has aroused sharp criticism and comment.

If billboards can be legislated out of existence, what's to prevent all other advertising mediums from suffering the same fate? The beginning of the United States was almost predicated on the belief that freedom of expression and action is everyone's right and privilege.

Probably very few people in this country want Federal control of advertising. The less Federal control we have of everything, the better off the nation is.

We are an unfettered people.

We prefer to live without shackles.

The further the U. S. can get from Russia, the happier we'll be. In Russia, everything is under federal control and federal direction. In the United States, we prefer to take national bureaucrats out of business.

If we pass laws against billboards, what's to prevent legislation against the sale of Iowa's corn or against fishing in Michigan's lakes? Control over private enterprise must be deprecated as long as the activity is clean, honorable and above board.

Home-Made Rockets Potentially Dangerous

While the present surge of interest in rocketry is encouraging, says Chemical News, the potential good to come from interesting young people in science could be destroyed by a rash of accidents and fatalities.

News reports of accidents have revealed carelessness in launching home-made rockets and attempting to make rocket fuels. The publication has some safety suggestions to offer:

1. Don't experiment with dangerous materials unless you know the safe procedures.
2. Launch home-made missiles only under competent supervision.
3. Check all ideas with your science instructor or someone equally qualified before attempting any experiment.
4. If the rocket fizzles, disconnect all electrical equipment and pour water or sand on the rocket.
5. Wear safety goggles or glasses at all times.

Chemicals can be deadly if they are not handled properly. The U.S.A. needs adult scientists—not dead or badly maimed amateur experimenters.

The Man About Town

Our Big Brothers

To Hold State Conference in This City Next Month

Evening gown: What enables a woman to be seen in the best places.

April 12 will be a big day in Pontiac for the Big Brother Movement,

as the state organization holds a conference here that day. Already catching on over a wide area, and with upwards of 50 local men working with as many boys in this great manhood building work,

William L. Clark,

Executive Director for the Oakland County branch, tells me this Michigan conference should give a further impetus to the work here. The project already has conclusively demonstrated its possibilities in fostering good citizenship. Here's my extended hand of greeting, Big Brothers.

From our files of March 15, 1901, I learn that the horse of

of Waterford dropped dead while tied to a hitching post on Saginaw, St. Its owner wanted damages from the city because he claimed the animal died of fright at the passing of "one of those rattle trap horseless buggies."

Some Florida gas stations give a free copy of that day's local newspaper to every customer.

A new Pontiac area resident has a rather unique name. Born on Sept. 19, 1881, when a U.S. president died from assassination, and was succeeded by his vice president, recently moved from a southern city to Drayton Plains.

Arthur Garfield

My Lansing correspondent sends word that our state officials have much trouble making Detroit politicians understand that Michigan's north border isn't the Eight-Mile Road.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

"Last One In Is Out"

David Lawrence Says:

Unions Trying to Strangle Probe

WASHINGTON — A shocking story of corruption, embezzlement and misappropriation of funds in the trade unions of America, involving misuse of more than $10,000,000 of dues paid by workers, has been unfolded by the Senate committee on rackets.

LAWRENCE

Little—and perhaps nothing—will be done about it, however, at this session of Congress. Many of the leaders of unions not themselves listed in the report issued by the Senate committee are already beginning to scoff at the findings in an attempt to belittle them.

For the fact is that the union-labor bosses, by reason of their heavy campaign contributions, believe they have under their thumb a substantial number of the members of Congress.

The surprising thing is that the committee's investigation has gotten this far, and already there are determined attempts by union spokesmen to strangle the committee and prevent it from doing any more investigating.

Senator McNamara, Democrat, of Michigan, was the only member of the Senate committee on rackets who declined to sign the committee report. He himself is a former union official.

There are many union leaders who admit that, without the exposures made by the Senate committee, the evidence would not have been available as a basis for expelling bad unions. Certainly the AFL-CIO, through its top organization or council—not matter how high-minded its personnel may be—can do relatively little to punish malefactors in the labor-union movement.

Only federal and state laws can achieve that result. That's why the legislative recommendations of the Senate committee are so important. They include proposals for:

"1. Legislations to regulate and control pension, health and welfare funds.

"2. Legislation to regulate and control union funds.

"3. Legislation to insure union democracy.

"4. Legislation to curb activities of middlemen in labor-management disputes.

"5. Legislation to clarify the 'no-man's land' in labor-management relations."

But specifically it is the states which have been negligent. They primarily punish crimes involving embezzlement, theft and misuse of union dues.

Here are some of the findings of the Senate committee:

"Constitutions have been perverted or ignored. One-man dictatorships have thrived. Through fear, intimidation and violence, the rank-and-file member has been shorn of a voice in his own union affairs, notably in financial matters. Use of the secret ballot has been denied in many cases."

Some of the international unions surveyed have "flagrantly abused their power to place local unions under trusteeship or supervisorship" and "rank-and-file efforts to throw off such shackles have been ignored, rejected and sometimes met with violence and intimidation."

There have been, moreover, instances of collusion between certain managements and the unions in disregard of workers' rights, and some trade associations have "conspired with unions to achieve industry monopolies."

The report minces no words on the misuse of money. It says:

"With these incredibly loose practices, the misuse of union funds, including outright thefts and 'borrowings' for personal profit, has totaled upwards of $10,000,000 in union-dues money—an average of $5 out of the pocket of every member of the unions covered in this report."

The unions surveyed have 2,000,000 members, and, of course, there is as yet no way of knowing to what extent the same practices prevail in other unions. Hence the effort to put an end to the investigation cannot but raise questions as to what is behind the desire of some unions to bring about the termination of the inquiry.

The investigation will go on. It is commendable that eight of the nine members of the Senate committee signed the report.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Dried Air, Not Climate, Will Bring On Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis, said Dr. Osler, in his "Practice of Medicine" published in 1906, is the "cough of the aged, recurring with regularity as the weather gets changeable." Here the great teacher errs grievously, as I shall explain in a talk to follow, although there is not the slightest doubt of his honesty and sincerity.

DR. BRADY

Suffice to say that it is not cold and changeable weather but overheated and excessively dried out air of the indoor climate where elderly folk spend their time that is so hard on the lining of nose, throat, sinuses, eustachian tube, middle ear cavity, larynx (voice box), trachea (windpipe), bronchial tubes and lungs.

We are indebted to Dr. Osler for the home remedy I recommend to people who persist in remaining in the indoor Sahara despite the availability of means of keeping the climate balmy.

"Turpentine," said Dr. Osler, "the old-fashioned remedy so warmly recommended by the Dublin physicians, has in many quarters fallen undeservedly into disuse."

Turpentine for internal use is NOT the crude, frequently adulterated industrial turpentine. Medicinal turpentine is called rectified oil of turpentine. Instructions for taking it are given on page 62 of the booklet Call it CRI (kree), for which send 35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope. Or just take two or three drops (no more) of rectified (purified) oil of turpentine (not the spirits of turpentine intended for industrial use) on a little sugar or in a capsule, after food, twice a day, for two or three weeks.

If you are a finicky cuss, maybe you can take a turpentine derivative more readily — it is called terpin hydrate. I'm not sure it is as effective as rectified oil of turpentine; but it is easy to take — either a two-grain tablet or a teaspoonful of an elixir of terpin hydrate, twice a day after food.

Watch out, if you choose the elixir, for too often such a preparation contains a dash of codeine, morphine or heroin, and such dope is dangerous for anyone with bronchitis.

In the CRI book I recommend to persons with chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis (ballooning or cavity formation of bronchial tube) or emphysema (constant wheezing) two other remedies, which many such sufferers have assured me give more relief than any medicine. These are (1) bellows breathing three or four times daily, and (2) inversion for five minutes first thing every morning.

For the booklet Belly Breathing, there is no charge—provided you furnish me a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

The Country Parson

"Some folks try to get their piety out where you can see it, hoping you won't notice what's behind it.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Facts Dispel Woman's Worries

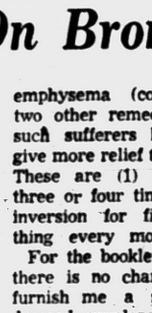

Martha finally removed her fears by facing the facts. Millions of other Americans grow panicky because of false notions. Dissect your worries logically. Then tackle the legitimate problems with new strategy. And team with God so you can sleep soundly at night without tranquilizer pills or other sedatives.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case X-362: Martha G., aged 43 is the attractive wife who had become a chronic tranquilizer pill addict.

"Yes, Dr. Crane," she admitted, you are right in saying I have been using drugs to hide from my problem.

"For I couldn't stand the thought of losing my husband's love. And I was sure he could not be physically devoted to me after the menopause.

DR. CRANE

"All my life I have believed that a wife lost her sexual charm after the monopause.. So that's what drove me into my panic and caused me to become a drug addict with tranquilizer pills."

GOD'S FORMULA

Yesterday I told you that most of the drug and liquor addicts in America could eliminate such chemical crutches if they'd just face their problem and analyze it logically.

Dissect your dilemmas. Tear them apart in the cold light of day. Don't develop the cowardly habit of running away from dilemmas. Instead, grit your teeth and face them. Declare a revolution from your slavery.

"The truth shall make you free," Christ stated.

So get the truth and you'll be surprised at the way you can relax thereafter without doping up with drugs and alcohol.

Much of the worry of Americans is needless, anyway, because they are dreading things that actually don't exist.

Martha's deep fear was likewise based in a totally erroneous idea that the womb is the barometer of a woman's physical charm.

That is medically and psychologically false. A wife can have her womb removed surgically and her husband would never know the difference unless she told him verbally.

For the womb is not primarily a "marriage" organ, anyway, but is a "maternal" organ.

Unless a wife is bearing children, the womb is just excess baggage in her relationships with her mate.

DISSECT YOUR WORRIES

After you dissect your worries, either alone or with a competent advisor, then ignore those that are based on false notions.

If there is a real basis for other worries, then follow the logical plan for solving them.

And when you go to bed at night, be sure you team-up with God Almighty.

If you are trying to lead a constructive life and plant roses where thistles grew before, whether as a factory worker or farmer, salesman or preacher, then you are on God's team.

If you are still tense and afflicted with insomnia, just tell God you are trying to work on His team, so ask Him to take over the night shift for you while you get some much needed slumber.

God never fails to take over the night shift for all who try to play on His team!

So just lift your hand upward,

as if you are placing it in God's own hand and say:

"Lord, I'm trying to play on your team. But I must get up early in the morning, so I need a sound night's sleep. Will you please take over the night shift for me?"

Then let your hand drop back upon the covers, as if it were a dead weight. You'll be surprised at how quickly you will relax and start snoring.

If you middle-aged folks are fearful about your erotic vigor, send for my booklet "How to Prevent Impotence," enclosing a stamped return envelope plus 20 cents (non-profit).

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac Michigan enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Voice of the People

Readers Are Still Debating Issue of Working Women

In some cases it's necessary for mothers to work, but there's no sympathy when it becomes more important than children's welfare.

As a former teacher, I was constantly confronted with this problem. One year I had five children with serious speech difficulties and when the mother was contacted to make an appointment with the speech teacher, four of them were too busy, as they worked. Another was a widow with five children but managed on the allotted pension. Her children weren't the best dressed in school, but they were well behaved and happy.

It's time some mothers re-evaluated their living standard.

Former Teacher

From some letters, you'd get the idea women work for the sheer joy of it. I worked during the war and for the last eight and a half years have been working in a small plant that employs mostly women.

Most of that time was spent as chairman of the shop committee taking care of employes' problems, so I have a fair idea of them. Few women would seek jobs in plants if there was security in their homes. Some of them are up until two or three in the morning getting washings, ironings, etc., done. Others get up at 4 a.m. to do housework.

Now that those of you who have never had to work are feeling the squeeze with your husbands out of work, you scream your heads off about women who've been in that position for years. You should thank God for your good fortune and leave the working women alone. Thank God unions opened factory doors to women, because many mothers have been able to support their children that otherwise might have been taken away from them.

Mrs. E. H.

This is only for people who covet the married women workers in factories. There will be some working when He comes.

Watch, therefore, for you know not what hour our Lord doth come. Beware of covetousness.

Requests Prayer for Bus Drivers

While the bus rider is on his knees in prayer, why not ask God to remember the underpaid bus driver who helps make the poor bus service possible?

I'd like to know where Mr. Rider gets his information about the company losing money. I read that it's netting only 3½ per cent profit instead of the desired 10 per cent, but that seems pretty good, considering no money is put back into the business for equipment and drivers' wages are below standard. I also hear their truck rental is doing fairly well.

Now if there's a five-cent increase and only one million passengers are hauled this year, that's another $50,000 profit, so I think drivers should be remembered in your prayers as they're the ones who face a financial crisis.

'Would You Take Ten-Cent Cut?'

UAW Worker, are you willing to take a 10-cent-an-hour cut in wages rather than a raise as a means toward combatting our present economic recession? Or are you a "Let George Do It" fan?

Two More Write About Dog Laws

If Orion Township Taxpayer has any influence in getting dog laws changed, he deserves support. Right now laws are neither just nor enforced, yet honest dog owners are paying more.

The dog catcher says he can't catch many of the stray dogs, yet it's easy and lawful to take a dog from his pen if his master hasn't licensed him and given him a rabies shot. I have a dog and a nice big pen and I like him, but I like flowers and shrubbery, too, and I like stray dogs off my lawn.

Dog Tired

Can't something be done about dogs that destroy trees, flowers and lawns? Owners just laugh when something is said to them and they say there's no law to keep them at home. If they love their dogs, you'd think they'd keep them home. Call the dog warden and you're told to swear out a warrant and the neighbors will be made to pay for the damage. Now who wants to swear out warrants against neighbors. I don't want to cause trouble, but I don't want someone's dog causing us trouble, either.

Hal Boyle Asks:

Will Egghead Become National Hero?

NEW YORK (AP)—Will the egghead become America's new national hero?

There are those who feel that the arrival of the space age has elevated the egghead to a new stature. They are hopeful that the victories of science, in test tube and rocket, will win a new respect for education and a decline in anti-intellectualism in the United States.

It is hard to go along with this optimism. It is certainly, at the moment, premature.

As a nation, we still pick our heroes and heroines on the basis of charm or brawn, not brainpower. We admire the obvious; we distrust the subtle.

You can measure a culture by the heroes it produces.

We have created a great science, yet how few ordinary citizens can even name three living can name two leading American architects? How many can name four living American poets, five world-famous living American novelists, three native-born opera singers, or even one top American composer?

We are one of the most politically minded people on earth. Politics has always been one of our major sports. Yet how many of us can spontaneously name and identify a dozen U.S. senators and the states they come from? How many of us can even name the U.S. representative in Congress from our own district?

Who, then, are our heroes?

Well, ask the average American to name five famous movie stars, five famous heavyweight boxing champions, five great baseball players, five outstanding television performers. He'll pass this quiz with a perfect score.

The fact is that the great majority know very little about the men who control and change their lives, but a great deal about those who entertain them.

No, there is very little prospect that the egghead will soon replace Babe Ruth as a national hero. We would rather, in the snobbery of our general ignorance, see the egghead fall flat on his face like Humpty Dumpty.

Too Much Talk by Governments

People Soon Give Up Trying to Figure Out Who Sounds Better

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ever get the feeling governments talk too much?

Ever since Soviet Premier Bulganin wrote President Eisenhower last December, proposing a summit meeting, the United States and the Soviet Union have been doing the double job of talking about the summit and making propaganda for themselves.

The trouble is: they get so involved with their fancy diplomatic footwork and their hair-splitting that the people of the world can't keep it clear in their heads. The result is the people give up trying to figure who sounds better or who's ahead.

Here's a picture of what's been going on since December:

Bulganin wrote four letters to Eisenhower; Eisenhower replied with three and is probably preparing another; Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have talked about the summit at their news conferences; Bulganin and Communist party boss Khrushchev have talked about it in the Soviet Union; the Soviets have sent this country an aide-memoire, which is fancy for a note; this country has sent the Soviets an aide-memoire; and yesterday the Soviets fired back with another note.

Thousands and thousands of words have been written or said.

Meanwhile, since all this involves propaganda beamed at the whole world, each country hopes it's getting the better of it.

This writer often wonders just how much the man in the street, here or anywhere, can possibly remember who said what, or even what's been said, by this time.

Township Might Appeal Ruling on Storm Drain

By PETE LOCHNER

Southfield Township, principal opponent of the proposed $44 million Twelve Town Storm Relief Drain, may decide within "two or three weeks" whether to appeal a court decision by Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland.

Judge Holland, who yesterday filed his decision after trial of suits brought by Southfield and Troy to block the drain, declared that special legislation for the project was constitutional and dissolved a court order that has held it up for 18 months.

The decision to appeal to the State Supreme Court will not be made until a final decree in the case has been entered, said Township Attorney Harry N. Dell. This may take two or three weeks, he added.

Attorneys for both sides will be asked to agree on details of the decree. If they cannot agree, the decree will be settled by Judge Holland.

County Corporation Counsel Harry J. Merritt hailed the court victory.

"The southeast Oakland County area, for which the project is designed, needs additional drains badly to stop season flooding," said Merritt, who with other county officials helped author the legislation under which the drain is planned.

"We're very happy that our proposed solution to the flooding problem has passed this courtroom test."

Merritt said that the county drainage board, in charge of the project, would wait to see if Southfield files an appeal before taking any new action.

The board's next step is to set a public hearing at which the total cost of the drain would be apportioned among the 14 participating communities.

Southfield and Troy will have 20 days after the decree is entered before making an appeal.

ROCHESTER — The Rochester Village Council last night re-elected Sydney Q. Ennis to his second one-year term as village president.

Councilman James Hill was elected to succeed Mrs. Elizabeth Maitroff as president pro tem. Mrs. Maitroff declined to seek re-election to her council post.

The meeting was the first for the new council following the March 10 election in which four councilmen were elected. Among them was one newcomer, William C. Chapman, who last night officially assumed his duties.

Other business included the annual appointments of village department heads by village Manager Paul A. York.

Named were Mrs. Grace Crissman, assessor; George J. Ross, fire chief; Edwin Cage, superintendent of public works; Glenn Breakie, superintendent of the sewage treatment plant; John D. Monroe, health officer; Thomas Turkette, building and utilities inspector; R. D. Stark, superintendent of water supply; Ramon Zellner, superintendent of the Department of Public Works; Lee F. Wilcox, electrical inspector, and Leslie Aris, who was reappointed to a three-year term on the Board of Review.

The only new appointee was Breakie, who succeeds the late James Salyer.

After the election of officers, the council accepted the low bid of $1,574.90 by L. I. Whims for fleet equipment and liability insurance.

The council also heard a report by traffic consultant T. M. Vanderstemple of Pontiac stating that the construction of the South Main Street Bridge will begin no later than June. The project has received final approval by the state, which will build the four - lane bridge, he said.

Royal Oak OKs Building Plans

Cooperative Apartment Development Approved by Commission

ROYAL OAK — Plans to build an estimated 4½ to 6 million dollar cooperative apartment building on Woodward Avenue north of 12-mile road met with unanimous approval by the Royal Oak City Commission at last night's meeting.

Realtor Eldon G. Walcott said this morning that construction of the first unit will begin immediately if the City Planning Commission agrees to rezoning.

Present zoning of the seven-acre tract is for commercial use. The co-op would require rezoning to multiple use.

Walcott, spokesman for a group of private investors, said present plans call for five, eight-story tower apartments with 42 living units. The apartments will have from one to three bedrooms at an estimated price of $20,000 to $35,000.

This will be the largest single real estate development ever contemplated in Royal Oak, Walcott said.

Will 1958 Be the Year That Changes the World?

A strange man in Los Angeles known as "The Voice of Two Worlds," is offering, free of charge to the public, an astounding 64-page booklet analyzing famous world prophecies covering these times. Written in 1954, it successfully predicted that the next great world crisis would be in the Near East (Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Jordan, Turkey). It shows that four of the greatest prophecies could not come true until the present time. But now they can and the years that change the world are at hand. Great dangers but still greater opportunities, confront forward looking people in 1958.

"The Voice of Two Worlds," a well known explorer and geographer, tells of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement of power in mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

These strange methods were found in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it.

He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

The 64-page booklet he is now offering free to the public gives guidance for those who wish to prepare themselves for the momentous days ahead. It gives details of what to expect, and when. Its title is "Beware of These Days!"

The book formerly sold for a dollar, but as long as the present supply lasts, it is offered free to readers of this notice.

For your free copy of the astonishing prophecies covering these momentous times, as revealed in this 64-page book, address the Institute of Mentalphysicts, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. 43B, Los Angeles 4, California. Send no money. Just your name and address on a postcard or in an envelope will do. No obligation. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.

Street Projects Up for Hearings

City to Air 7 Paving, Widening Proposals at Meeting Tonight

Public hearings on the city's intention to construct seven street projects are scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight before the City Commission.

Three projects are for regular paving on Elizabeth Lake avenue from Telegraph to State; Washington street, State to Prall; and Taylor street, Oak Hill to Ellwood.

Two others are for extra-thick paving to accommodate industrial traffic on Brush street from Bagley to Linfere; and Linfere street, Franklin road to Brush.

Another is for widening of the south side of West Huron street from Williams to the Grand Trunk Railroad, and the final hearing will concern proposed graveling on High street from Summit to Euclid.

All of these projects would be financed on a special assessment basis.

In addition, commissioners are expected to approve special assessment rolls for seven other projects involving new curbs and gutters. They are:

Ann Arbor avenue, Carlisle to Stanley; Cornell avenue, Baldwin to Carlisle; Euclid avenue, from High street east about two blocks; Kinney road, Oakland to Stanley; Pensacola avenue, Oakland to Monticello; Stanley avenue, Kinney to Kennett, and Wyoming avenue, Bagley to Franklin road.

Cost estimates have been prepared for these four other improvements, involving new curbs and gutters:

Adelaide street, Oakland to Baldwin; Harriett street, Cadillac to Adelaide; LeGrande avenue, Baldwin to Euclid; West New York avenue, Baldwin to Walton, and Gladstone place, Cooper to Edison.

Hope Reveals Gags Snipped by Red Censor

HOLLYWOOD (INS)—Bob Hope said today the Russians didn't invite him back to Moscow.

The comedian, who returned over the weekend from a six-day visit behind the Iron Curtain, said maybe it was because of that crack he made about Malenkov in a bikini.

The gag went as follows:

"I just gave a taxi driver five bucks, and for change he gave me back 12 kopeks, a jar of caviar and a picture of Malenkov in a bikini."

Hope said the remark really seemed to irritate the Russian cultural bigwigs.

"I guess you can't refer to Malenkov in public," he commented.

Other remarks the Soviets snipped from his upcoming TV show filmed in Moscow included:

"Moscow has millions of TV aerials — the trouble is, no sets!"

"I've been made a member of the Communist labor party; remind me not to pay my dues" . . . and:

"Everybody here in Russia has a stiff neck — bowing to those commissars."

Hope said he filmed much of his TV show, to be shown April 5, in nippy 15-below-zero weather.

He also took pictures of Stalin and Lenin lying in state in Red Square.

The ski-nosed comic said he found the Russians "very friendly and cooperative."

In summing up his experiences in the land of chicken soup and Vodka, Hope said prices were high (he paid $4.80 for three chocolate bars), the Russians have the jump on the United States in the jet plane department (plush 70-seater jobs) and he suspects the girls don't wear falsies.

"I'm not sure," he gagged. "After all, I was only there six days!"

New Drain Bill Gets Approval

Allows Public Works to Take Over Projects; Up to Williams Now

A new measure to speed stalled drain projects has passed the legislature in Lansing and is being readied for Gov. Williams' signature.

Introduced by State Sen. L. Harvey Lodge (R-Oakland County) it would allow the county drain commissioner to hand drain proposals over to the more powerful Department of public works.

It also authorizes cooperation between two or more counties on inter-county drain projects where the natural drainage boundaries cross county lines.

"The measure would allow the county to proceed on several projects that have been held up because of red tape and inability of local communities to push their projects through," Lodge said.

It is specifically aimed at speeding new drains in Southfield Township and portions of Wayne County.

There is no state religion in France. The French government permits freedom of worship but supports no church.

Tax-Date Bill Set for Passage

Senate Measure Would Be 1958 Shot-in-Arm for State Businesses

LANSING (AP) — A bill that backers say would save Michigan businesses up to 150 million dollars in federal income taxes for 1958 breezed to passage stage in the Senate last night.

The measure merely would change the next tax day, that is the legal day for property tax assessments, from Jan. 1, 1959 to Dec. 31, 1958, moving it ahead into this calendar year.

Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings (R-Holland) said the effect would be to permit many firms to double up on state property taxes in figuring allowable deductions for federal income tax purposes.

The device would be available to corporate and unincorporated businesses on an accrual accounting basis and operating on a calendar fiscal year.

It would not benefit individual property owners. The boon to businesses would be a one-shot affair, limited to this year.

Geerlings said much of the money saved could be plowed back into expansion.

The plan was adopted last year by Ohio and met with approval by the Internal Revenue Bureau, he said.

The insulation value of three inches of wood is said to be greater than 12 inches of common brick or 20 inches of concrete, according to recent materials testing conclusions.

Lauds Oakland Circuit Court as 'Best Run'

Michigan Supreme Court Justice Eugene Black lauded the four-man Oakland County Circuit Court bench as "the best run" in the state yesterday, "although it carries the heaviest case load per judge of any circuit."

When speaking before the Birmingham Rotary Club, he also revealed that he will not seek election to any political office when his term ends Dec. 31, 1963.

The Port Huron judge said he planned to return to private law practice. His announced retirement came in the wake of some accusations that his recent attacks on Wayne County circuit judges were prompted by political ambition.

He has criticized half-day court sessions held by Wayne Circuit judges during summer months and long vacations they customarily take.

Sturgis Stimulates Antislump Buying

STURGIS (AP) — A grass roots fight to lick the recession without waiting for government help is picking up steam in this southwestern Michigan community.

It's called a "Help Your Neighbor" program. The folks here are determined to start a nationwide avalanche of buying which will wipe out current business gloom.

The program in this city of 10,000 is the brainchild of Harold S. Pringle, general manager of the daily Sturgis Journal. Pringle also is chairman of the Industrial Committee of the Sturgis Chamber of Commerce.

"What we hope to do is to start a chain reaction in buying that will extend over the nation and create an immediate demand for products of all kinds," Haines said.

"The idea is for a prospective purchaser to anticipate his needs, things that he had plannned to buy next year or perhpas even two or three years hence, and buy them now."

To stimulate spending here Haines offered a full-page advertisement free to each of 32 Sturgis indistries which employs 10 or more workers. Accompanying each ad is a news story telling the history, operations and products of the concern.

The term, "turnpikes," comes from 1795 when long poles (or "pikes") barred privately built roads in Pennsylvania. The "pike were not turned up to permit passages of stages and other vehicles until a toll was paid.

Junior Editors Quiz on BEES

QUESTION: How do bees make honey-comb?

ANSWER: Honeybees seem much like people in some ways. They live together in groups. They are skillful builders.

The honeybees of a hive work together to make the comb. They cluster together for warmth and remain in this position for a day and a night. Each bee's body makes wax which collects on scales called "wax plates" on his abdomen. The bee scrapes off these plates with its hind feets and transfers the wax to its jaws. The worker chews the wax and then shapes it into delicate six-sided cells. These are so even and regular that they look as if they were made by machinery. Some of these cells are used to store honey. Others are used for laying eggs.

Most of the honey sold in markets is strained from the comb. The comb is then cleaned and used over again.

FOR YOU TO DO: Ask your mother to buy some honey in the comb at the store so you can examine the comb yourself —and eat the honey.

Millie Shows Promise in 'Diary of Anne Frank'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Time for a progress report on young Millie Perkins, the New Jersey girl who is playing Anne Frank.

Her progress is good, according to George Stevens, who picked Millie and is directing her in "The Diary of Anne Frank."

After three weeks of shooting, he reports: "She is turning out beautifully—even better than I had hoped for. Millie is kind of a slow starter; she's a quiet girl who doesn't let out too much at first. But then she starts to unfold —like an artichoke. And what you see underneath is very good indeed."

He said he felt no qualms about putting a totally inexperienced girl in such an important role.

"Every woman is an actress. The question is how to get them to loosen up and perform," he said.

Getting Millie to loosen up in an interview is also a problem, since she is admittedly shy.

"I was terrified the first day of shooting," she said. I "thought I would never get through it. But Mr. Stevens did a very nice thing. He had us rehearse the whole day—didn't shoot a thing. That helped me overcome my nerves."

Until recently, Millie was a New York model, posing for teen-age fashions and magazine covers. She finds acting easier.

"I don't mean acting comes easily to me," she explained, "but I was surprised to find it less physically tiring than modeling."

She still isn't sure she wants to be an actress.

"I never had the desire," she said. "I never acted in school or anything. I'm not even sure I want to pursue an acting career after this picture is over. I suppose I will decide then."

It looks as if her decision has been made for her. The studio has her under exclusive contract. "Anne Frank" will make her an international star, and there's slight chance that she'll be allowed to seek other pursuits.

Opens at Charlotte Instead of New York

Smell Sweet? It's the Circus

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—The big circus doesn't smell any more.

Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey, which opens here tomorrow in the first non-New York premiere in circus history, is as clean and sweet-smelling as your own home—well, almost.

The circus' new look of indoor performances, more girls and fewer animals is responsible for its cleanliness and its change from the traditional opening in Madison Square Garden.

Instead of sawdust, the circus performs on green rubber padding which is hosed down after each performance.

Now that the circus travels with only 40 horses and 20 elephants, the huge circus trains are gone. Some of the single performers travel in leased railroad cars, but all families drive their own cars and pull house trailers.

It's a long drive from winter quarters in Sarasota, Fla., to New York. Too long, circus authorities decided, and Charlotte's big coliseum 10,000 seating capacity is just about halfway.

As performers garbed in jeans and bathing suits prepared for the big dress rehearsal last night, dozens of small children stood in the drizzle, peering through an open door at the wondrous goings-on.

In a small tent, the elephants munched their hay and waved hopeful, hungry trunks. The circus new look doesn't suit the elephants at all. No peanuts.

"Nobody can get in to feed them," said an elephant handler.

"But in New York, they really get their peanuts. They are in the Garden basement with the side show and they get two or three bushels of peanuts a day."

Is Government Responsible for Our General Welfare?

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower — because of a milestone passed 12 years ago — can use the government's resources in fighting the recession. Seem simple and natural? It wasn't always.

For most of American history there was argument over whether the government had responsibility for the general welfare. There still is. It's academic now. Congress made such responsibility the law of the land in 1946.

The dispute over the two words "general welfare" goes right back to the shaping of the Constitution, where they appear twice, briefly in the preamble, and then this way in Section 8, Article 1:

"The Congress shall have the power to lay and collect taxes. . . to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States." What "general welfare" meant wasn't explained.

DISAGREE

Two of the signers, James Madison and Alexander Hamilton, disagreed almost at once. Madison said the words meant nothing. Hamilton said the opposite: Congress' power to tax and spend was limited to one consideration: that it must be for the general welfare, as distinguished from local purposes.

That cleared up nothing.

In 1854 President Pierce blocked Congress from turning over some federal lands to the states for the benefit of the insane. He reasoned the welfare clause didn't give the government the right to use its resources for the indigent insane or the indigent.

In 1887 President Cleveland made a statement forever after famous when he vetoed a bill to give $10,000 to drought sufferers in Texas: "Though the people support the government the government should not support the people."

President Hoover quoted this phrase of Cleveland's in 1931 when he opposed giving 25 million dollars to drought sufferers in 21 states. He wanted the Red Cross to help them.

UMPIRE IN ECONOMY

Hoover took this position about government help: the government is an "umpire instead of a player in the economic game" and he said, "I am opposed to any direct or indirect government dole." He wanted unemployment and relief handled by local communities, states and charity.

In the early depression days he was against unemployment insurance — and so was AFL President William Green — and he vetoed a bill providing for employment exchanges.

It wasn't until late in 1932, with the country near collapse, that Hoover approved government loans to the states for relief work. Loans were not grants.

The whole philosophy about the welfare clause changed after President Roosevelt took office and Congress in 1933 passed the Federal Emergency Relief Act, which gave the states grants — not loans — for relief.

Finally, in 1937 the Supreme Court ruled the government had responsibility for the general welfare when it approved the Social Security Act, which imposed taxes for unemployment insurance and old-age pensions. Justice Cardozo, writing the opinion, upheld Hamilton over Madison and said: "The issue is closed."

NO REQUIREMENT

Not quite: although the court said the government could use tax money for the general welfare no future administration was required to spend money or even lift a finger to provide for the general welfare if it didn't want to.

Then in 1946, fearing tremendous unemployment after the war, Congress passed the Employment Act, which said two things: ". . . It is the . . . responsibility of the federal government . . . to. . promote the general welfare" and use all "its resources" in doing so. It particularly mentioned overcoming unemployment.

So at last this had become the policy of the government, and all future administrations had a directive to act.

Sees Outgrowth of Kohler Probe

Senator Believes That Strike-Control Laws Will Be Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Rackets Committee said today he believes legislation will be proposed as the outgrowth of its probing into the Kohler Co. strike.

"I feel legislation will be considered in respect to mass picketing, violence and secondary boycotts," the chairman said.

He indicated that the committee later this week will wind up its current hearing into the strike called by the United Auto Workers at the Kohler, Wis., plant. The hearing is now in its fifth week.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said the committee has only a few more witnesses to hear and hopes to call Herbert Kohler, head of the Kohler firm, and UAW President Walter Reuther tomorrow.

Reuther, in a telegram to Kohler, formally proposed arbitration of the strike by Walter Kohler Jr., former governor of Wisconsin and now president of the Vollrath Co. at Sheboygan, Wis.

There was no immediate comment either from the Kohler president or from the former governor, who once held stock in the Kohler Co. and is the son of a former company president.

The strike was called April 5, 1954. The Kohler plant was shut down for about two months but has operated since with nonstrikers and new employes. A company attorney, Lucius P. Chase, said the company now is operating normally and has made a profit each year despite union boycott efforts.

Lyman C. Conger, another Kohler attorney, said the firm will not write a new labor contract with the UAW until it is shown the UAW represents a majority of workers at the plant. Conger contends the UAW does not represent a majority.

Conger said the company has won the strike and survived the boycott instituted by the union in 1954, but still is willing to negotiate a final settlement of the strike.

Switch in Saudi Arabia

Pro-Egypt Prince Gains Control of Oil-Rich Land

CAIRO (AP) — King Saud has turned over to his brother, the pro-Egyptian Crown Prince Feisal, full control over the oil-rich Saudi Arabian kingdom's foreign, financial and internal affairs.

Cairo's press said Feisal presented his elder brother, Saud, with a list of strong demands which, if authentic, might indicate the crown prince was emerging as the kingdom's strong man.

(The Saudi Arabian delegation at the United Nations confirmed the transfer of internal and domestic power to Feisal. Arab sources at the U.N. said Feisal now will have complete authority over the Saudi Arabian armed forces, but that Saud intended to remain head of the state.)

While some sources cautioned against reading too much into the Saudi decree, there were indications that Cairo was expecting Feisal to work for a reconciliation between Saudi Arabia and Egypt.

The two nations have been feuding over Egyptian-Syrian charges that King Saud plotted to have President Gamal Abdel Nasser assassinated and to break up his new United Arab Republic (U.A.R.) of Egypt and Syria.

Crown Prince Feisal long has held the titles of premier and foreign minister, but the actual power had been wielded by King Saud himself.

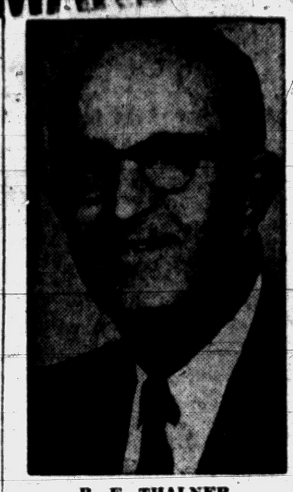

Feisal's pro-Egyptian tendencies indicate that Saudi Arabia probably will remain aloof from the Iraqi-Jordani Federation which rivals Nasser's U.A.R.

In addition, a Saudi-Egyptian reconciliation could strengthen Nasser's position with regard to the flow of Middle East oil to the West. The U.A.R. is astride the Suez Canal and the pipelines which carry oil westward.

Cairo sources say a rise in Feisal's power and influence might have the effect of increasing pressure on the Arabian American Oil Company (ARAMCO) to increase oil revenues to Saudi Arabia, but that otherwise it would have little effect upon American oil operations.

Italy Notes Big Jump in Synthetic Fibers

ROME — Tremendous postwar expansion has made the Italian rayon and synthetic-fiber industry one of the world's largest. For rayon, annual production capacity has increased from just over 6,500,000 pounds in 1930 to more than 450,000,000 pounds at present.

From 1955 to 1956, rayon output rose by more than 10 per cent and synthetic fibers jumped nearly 30 per cent.

All set to go "beagling" at Bloomfield Open Hunt Club are (left to right) Buster Farro, Frank Farro and DeDe Holmes. The lively dogs here are all set to give the enthusiasts an exciting time. These beagles are part of a number which are used at BOH for the sport.

Who would know she was a grandmother? "Egyptian Mate," mother and grandmother of most of the Hess beagles, receives special attention from Mary Pierce (left) and Philip Monaghan, both of Bloomfield Hills, and Sue Foley of Birmingham. When she is not raising a family, "Mate" joins the pack for a day of hunting.

Hounds Are Off and Running at Bloomfield Open Hunt Club

Sunday afternoons at Bloomfield Open Hunt Club wouldn't be the same without the Hess beagles. These happy hounds can always be counted on to scare up cottontails for a day of exciting sport.

The pack, owned by Gordon Hess of Birmingham, leaves the kennels every Sunday afternoon — weather permitting — from January to April.

The enjoyment of beagling comes from watching and listening to hounds. They go excitedly about the business of finding a rabbit in seemingly impenetrable brush piles.

Then comes the thrill of watching hounds as they hit the scent and take off after their quarry with heads down and tails high. A pack of hounds running and working together is a spectacular sight.

* * *

The melodious sound of hounds' voices as they follow the scent cheers the followers on. They scramble over all types of terrain so as not to miss a view of the rabbit and hounds.

Cottontails are usually hunted, but occasionally a jack rabbit is flushed out of hiding. He can be counted on for longer and faster runs than his smaller cousin.

* * *

The rabbits are rarely caught and never killed by any member of the field or staff. The thrill of the chase is what counts.

PATIENT TRAINING

It takes long, intense hours of patient work to train and develop a pack of beagles to work and hunt together as a responsive and disciplined unit.

The huntsman must know his hounds well and have their complete confidence so they will respect his commands and be eager to work for him.

Under the tutorage of huntsman Frank Farro, who is well qualified for the job by a lifetime of beagle work, the Hess beagles have become an exceptional pack of hounds. They are eager to hunt and quick to respond to his commands, whether by voice or horn.

* * *

Once young hounds have been started with the older ones, the huntsman must discriminately weed out any hounds that might destroy the unity of the pack.

DETRIMENT TO PACK

A hound that is faster or slower than the majority is a detriment to the pack. Trouble may also come from a lazy hound or one that causes other hounds to scatter by giving tongue unnecessarily or being too independent.

Some masters like their packs similar in size, voice and color. All these things may take years of selective breeding and intelligent culling.

The Hess beagles are individually registered with the American Kennel Club. After three years of successful hunting, they may become registered this year as a recognized pack with the National Beagle Club of America.

At present, there are some 25 recognized packs in this country.

Full of good spirits, hounds and huntsman take off for an afternoon of sport. Despite their exuberance and eagerness to be off on the chase, hounds follow the huntsman obediently.

Puppies come running as Howard Miller of Rochester gives a few lusty toots on the huntsman's horn. These puppies learned at an early age to obey the horn signals.

Always happy to receive guests are these ambitious young beagle puppies, Karen and Dolf Andreae of Bloomfield Hills pay their respects to the puppies, who will have their first taste of rabbit hunting this coming fall.

Dear Abby....

Barber Is the Only Man She Wants in Her Hair

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: In case some people think barbers are a bunch of numbskulls who can't do anything else, let me set them straight. It takes brains to be a barber. The licensed barber has to pass an exam that is as tough as any pre-med course for an eye - ears - nose and throat specialist.

ABBY

He has to know all about skin disease and scalp disease and anatomy. I'll wager a good barber could make as fine a set of dentures as a dentist, but I'd like to see a dentist who could give a man a decent haircut.

FIRST-RATE BARBER

DEAR FIRST: My barber is the only man I want in my hair and my dentist can stick to the same old grind.

DEAR ABBY: I've got a complaint against my son-in-law. We live in the same house, which happens to be my house. He is wonderful to me but the trouble with him is that on Sunday he walks around all day in his pajamas.

I spoke to him and my daughter and she says he is comfortable and he says the same thing. Should I start walking around from Friday to Monday in my nightgown to show him how terrible it looks?

MOTHER MAE

DEAR MOM: Walking around in your nightgown will not stop him from walking around in his pajamas . . . It probably will give him the idea that it's perfectly all right. Have you ever thought of buying your son-in-law a bathrobe?

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I am just a silly old fool, but I am 59 years old and have buried two husbands. I am so in love with a handsome white-haired old gent of 74 that I can't sleep nights for thinking about him.

He's had two heart attacks and they say everything comes in threes. When he leaves me I cry like a baby for fear he will die in his sleep and I won't be with him. Please, Abby, what shall I do?

I know he loves me, but he is too proud to ask me to marry him on his social security check and I know if we live on my assets my family will say I bought myself a husband.

A LADY IN LOVE

DEAR LADY: If you love each other, tell it to the preacher. Put your assets and his social security check in a box—shake it up and share it.

DEAR ABBY: I work for a man who is very nice but he is getting too friendly. He keeps giving me compliments on my clothes and my figure and my hair in front of the other employes and it embarrasses me.

He is married and has children. He tells me he likes me very much and I remind him of his wife. What should I do? I need this job.

DELIA

DEAR DELIA: Say, "Thank you"—keep your distance, and keep on REMINDING HIM OF HIS WIFE!

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman who lost her husband (I refuse to use the term "widow" as I detest it). All my friends have been perfectly lovely to me.

They always invite me to be with them, but I can't help but feel they pity me and that I am only a third leg or a fifth wheel. How can I get over this terrible complex?

FIFTH WHEEL

DEAR FIFTH: Complex is right! If your friends invite you — don't look a gift invitation in the motive. Go and show your appreciation by being good company.

CONFIDENTIAL TO EARL: Don't hire her until you find out for whom this belle toiled.

Bridge Tells Plenty About Every Couple

By RUTH MILLETT

If you play much "evening bridge" you'll recognize these couples—

The man and wife who can never get together on their bidding. (Do you suppose they ever get together on any other decisions they have to make as a couple?)

The husband who can't accept his wife as his equal partner even for the length of a bridge game, and is always telling her patiently how she should have bid or played a hand. (He probably bosses the show at home, too.)

The wife who has memorized her favorite bridge expert's latest book and quotes its rules and regulations to her husband, who plays a better hand by ear than she plays following the rules as though they were laws.

(She probably has the upper hand at home when there's a decision to be made regarding the children. For she is sure to be able to quote a child authority with the parrot-like precision with which she quotes a bridge expert.)

The husband who will bid on nothing because he can't bear to see his opponents ever get a bid. (He probably has to win every argument at home, too.)

The couple who are all smiles when they get cards and the breaks, but start snarling at each other when they get set. (Bet they start blaming each other when things go wrong at home, too.)

And then there's the couple who never call attention to each other's mistakes, who can hold poor hands all evening and still enjoy the game, who enjoy winning but don't get disgusted when they lose.

(You're pretty sure they're happily married and likely to stay that way.)

Help Her Maintain Health, Beauty

Tricks Aid Middle-Aged Woman

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

As my readers know, this column does not advocate thinking in terms of years. However, there is information and there are tricks which will add to the health and beauty of the middle-aged woman.

1. Do not wear orange-tinted makeup, or be very sure it is right for you, since most complexions tend to sallow some with the years.

2. Do not put rouge over wrinkles, and powder over them very lightly, if at all.

3. Use lipstick and eye makeup but do so cleverly, which means subtly and not extremely.

4. Tight curls and shoulder-length hair are usually aging. Beware of them.

5. Do not wear too much jewelry (bracelets, earrings, necklaces and pins) all at the same time. I do not know why older women have a tendency to do this. Women of this age must depend on line and color and on being chic for greatest charm in appearance.

6. Do not become careless about your figure and blame it on age.

AVOID SLUMPING

7. Fight against the tendency to slump as you grow older. The spine shortens and many women allow gravity to win the battle, with protruding chins and round shoulders as results. Nothing is so attractive in middle-aged and older men and women as good posture. This always gives the illusion of youth. This is one attribute everyone can take down the years.

Good posture always gives the illusion of youth.

8. Take exercises regularly but be sure that they are right for you and stop long before you are tired. Of course you must have a physical checkup before beginning.

9. Even if you have not done so before, take short rest periods during the day.

10. Have your breasts examined and a vaginal smear taken for cell examination at least twice a year during these years.

11. You do not need so much food but the kind you eat is of the greatest importance to your health and your looks. Most older folks are deficient in iron, calcium and protein.

More Room for Movement

Women in White Wear Chemise Fashions, Too

DALLAS, Tex. (INS) — The chemise has invaded the ranks of the millions of women who wear white uniforms to work.

A Dallas manufacturer who was among the first to take the "uniform look" out of uniforms has added the unfitted shirtwaist to his line and is designing a more complicated version.

ROOM TO MOVE

"The chemise should be quite comfortable for the woman who must wear a uniform," said Philip Aronoff, "because it gives the busy worker room to move."

"Not that this is necessarily a requirement for a new uniform style," he confessed, "because if a woman likes the way a uniform looks, she'll wear it even if it makes her miserable."

"Because she puts easy-care fabrics and styling ahead of the utilitarian features," Aronoff pointed out, "the woman in a uniform has already sacrificed some of her comfort."

"Women like sheath skirts, snug fits and pockets placed where they are hard to get to, and they gladly forego convenience for style," he added.

BASIC UNIFORM

Aronoff said his company made the same basic uniform for more than 20 years, then suddenly it became apparent women wanted high style in their work clothes even if they couldn't have color.

Brooks now keeps a full-time designer at the board constantly, and calls in guest designers from other Dallas firms to help in the quest for new looks in uniforms.

"Most of the visiting designers throw up their hands," Aronoff confessed, "saying they just can't do anything with plain white."

But with the use of many tucks and incorporating the latest styles, the Dallas firm now comes up with 20 new styles a year, many of them made in variations of 35 fabrics—all white.

There are such things as stand-away collars, bloused backs, belted half fronts, tabbed roll-up sleeves — and the chemise.

Germs Distress Mother

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I have just recently had a baby. I am still in the hospital but expect to be discharged in a day or two. I have many friends and relatives who are anxious to see the baby and I am sure they will come to see her soon after I return from the hospital.

"What with the flu epidemic and so many people with colds, I was wondering if it would be proper to have some masks on hand and ask the visitors to please put one on before going in to see the baby?

"Perhaps I am being overcautious but we have waited a long time for this baby and I don't want to expose her to any germs and run the risk of having something happen to her. Could this possibly hurt anyone's feelings?"

Answer: Ask your doctor's advice, and if he orders the masks and you then insist your visitors wear them, you can say that it is the doctor's orders and no one's feelings will be hurt.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how a wedding invitation should be addressed to the wife of a relative whose husband is in a sanatorium and will be unable to come to the wedding? Should it be addressed to Mr. and Mrs., or Mrs. only?"

Answer: Under most circumstances it would be best to address it to Mr. and Mrs., unless he is hopelessly insane and has been away for a very long time.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me whether or not bread-and-butter plates are a must on a correctly set table, or could I put the butter in the center of the table with a butter knife on it, and pass it to anyone who would like it?"

Answer: When butter is to be served at all (which is not at a formal dinner) having butter on the bread-and-butter plates before guests are seated is certainly more convenient than their having to help themselves to butter passed around and raving to put it on their dinner plates.

Grain Futures Take Slight Dip

CHICAGO (AP) — Early dealings in grain futures were at an unusually slow pace on the Board of Trade today and most prices were only minor fractions from their previous closes—but on the minus side.

Traders said the market appeared to have settled down to await some new influences or perhaps Washington developments. Export and other commercial business, they said, has been very slow.

Near the end of the first hour wheat was ⅛ cent a bushel lower to ⅛ higher, May $2.17; corn unchanged to ¼ higher, May $1.16½; oats ⅝ higher, May 65⅛; rye ⅛ higher to ½ lower, May $1.31; soybeans ⅝ higher to ⅜ lower, May $2.26⅛; lard unchanged to 8 cents a hundred lbs. higher, May $12.72.

There appears to be a fairly general feeling in the trade that corn prices now will work lower in view of recent more liberal cash offerings and word that the 1958 support price will be lower than last year's.

At $1.30 or $1.31 a bushel, the corn support would be at the legal minimum of 75 per cent of parity. Last year it was $1.40 a bushel or 77 per cent of parity. Parity is a fluctuating figure calculated to give farmers a profit in relation to prices they must pay.

Gas Station Break-In Reported at Waterford

An undetermined amount of money and some cigarettes were taken. Entrance was gained after breaking a side window, police said.

Trailer Earnings Drop

NEW YORK (AP) — Fruehauf Trailer Co. reported its earnings for 1957 declined to $1,702,279 equal to 22 cents a share from $6,300,317 or $1.03 a share in 1956. Sales dropped to $243,250,317 from $268,460,758 in 1956, the firm said yesterday.

Highest Mark Still Barrier

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market backed away cautiously from a penetration of the 1958 high in early trading today.

Key stocks were down fractions to a point or so. A few small gains spotted the list. Trading was quiet.

Coppers declined despite further encouraging news about the industry, including another price boost by a big Belgian producer and reports of good consumer demand at recently increased prices.

Oils, which staged a good technical rally yesterday, also were down. Steels edged backward following news of a drop in the industry's operating rate to its lowest figure, barring strike and holiday periods, since April 1952.

Market analysts noted that the stock average has climbed to a level just below the Feb. 4 recovery high. This has proved a barrier to upward progress in the past because of supplies of stock for sale at such prices.

Magma Copper was clipped for a loss of well over a point. Anaconda, Kennecott and American Smelting dropped fractions while Phelps Dodge eased.

City Attorney William A. Ewart has prepared a report on the legality of a proposed citizens committee to arbitrate debts of workers whose unemployment benefits have been exhausted.

The report, Ewart said, is based primarily on a study of a committee of that nature that has been set up in Flint.

State Farmer Bids for National Title

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A west Michigan man carries state hopes into a national judging at Indianapolis next month to determine the Junior Chamber of Commerce choice as foremost young farmer of the year.

Thomas Greiner, 30, of Crystal Township in Oceana County, was named the Michigan candidate in a state Junior Chamber of Commerce contest at Adrian. The national judging is held April 13-16.

Greiner, a 1945 graduate of Hart High School, has had two years of short courses in agriculture at Michigan State University. He is married and the father of two children.

An active member of the Jaycee group at Hart, he shares operation of a 480-acre dairy farm with his brother Gerald, and their father, Leo T. Greiner.

The Greiner enterprise includes 50 head of Holstein dairy cattle in a herd of 110 animals. A modern milking parlor accommodates six cows at a time. The younger Greiners are able to complete milking and barn chores in less than two hours.

Two extra men help during summer months in the cultivation of cash crops on 380 acres of the farm, which also was among the first in Oceana County to practice soil conservation.
