

Employ Space Data in Car Safety Hunt, Ford Chief Urges

WASHINGTON (AP)—The president of Ford Motor Co. proposed today a research program using space-age techniques to solve the problems of automobile safety — problems of driving, highways and enforcement as well as vehicle design.

Arjay Miller, the Ford president, told the Senate Executive Reorganization Committee in prepared testimony the solution cannot be found alone in building more safety features into cars.

ARJAY MILLER

If safety were the sole consideration, not affected by need for speed and low cost, "we could design a vehicle that would look like a tank, float in water, and not travel over 10 miles an hour, with all occupants harnessed inside like astronauts," he said.

Miller proposed the federal government direct the research program, which would use modern processing equipment to handle masses of data, but that much of the work be contracted to universities and private industries.

Experience gained by Philco Corp., a Ford subsidiary, in its work for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, would be useful, he said.

YEARS NEEDED
He estimated the complete program would require years, but that some useful information would be forthcoming early.

Ford already has participated in developing some equipment that could be used in the study, he said, such as a device to evaluate drivers' reactions, and a project to provide road information through car radios.

He estimated his company is spending about $138 million annually on automotive safety. Ford is making seven safety features standard instead of optional on its 1966 models, he added.

The questioning of the Ford executive winds up but one phase of the committee's long-term study of auto safety problems and how to solve them.

SHARP QUESTIONS

Shortage Possible in Southern Michigan

DETROIT (UPI)—Southern Michigan was braced today for a possible milk shortage as the Michigan Milk Producers Association carried out plans to halt deliveries of raw milk to the Sealtest Co., one of Michigan's largest processors of drinking milk.

The MMPA said yesterday it planned to halt deliveries to Sealtest in response to "a deliberate attempt by the dairy to break Michigan prices by importing milk from Wisconsin."

Sealtest, which has plants in Detroit and Lansing, gets more than 37 million quarts of raw milk from the MMPA's 12,000 members each month.

The current MMPA pact with the dairies calls for payment of about 10 cents a quart for raw milk that is processed for drinking. The six-month pact is set to expire July 31.

The association and the dairies currently are negotiating a new price agreement.

Glen Lake, MMPA president, said Wisconsin raw milk prices are much lower than Michigan prices.

He said the boycott was called when the MMPA learned that Sealtest was bringing raw milk from a plant near Green Bay, Wis., to its Lansing plant, then reloading the milk tankers at the Sealtest plant in Detroit and sending them back to Wisconsin.

Foster Guilty of 1st-Degree Murder

HOT ITEM—A fire yesterday afternoon at the Sam Allen & Sons, Inc., scrap yard, 22 Congress, damaged this metal crushing machine, which has been the focal point of a recent Circuit Court case. The city and 15 residents claim the machine is a nuisance because of the noise. Fire officials estimate fire damage to the building and contents at $3,000. Firemen said the blaze started when a spark ignited gases in the building.

Judge Says Testimony of Pathologist and Killer's Friend Key

By JIM LONG

Carl F. Foster was found guilty today of first-degree murder in the slaying of his first wife.

The 28-year-old former Pontiac factory worker, already serving a 10- to 15-year prison term for another killing, will be sentenced July 31.

In finding Foster guilty of strangling his wife, Angela, 25, Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem has no choice in setting the sentence. A first-degree murder conviction carries an automatic life sentence.

Before announcing his decision, Ziem, who heard the case without a jury, said that there were three principal issues that he had to decide:

- Was Angela a suicide as her death on Feb. 28, 1964, was originally ruled?
- If she wasn't a suicide, did Foster commit the crime?
- If he did, was the killing premeditated?

After reviewing in court the testimony of a number of witnesses and the credibility of each, Ziem answered yes to all of the questions.

MOST CRUCIAL
Ziem said the testimony of Dr. Richard E. Olsen, pathologist at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, was most crucial on the first issue.

It was on the basis of an autopsy performed by Olsen on the body of Mrs. Foster 14 months after she died that Pontiac police charged Foster.

Olsen said immediately after the autopsy that Mrs. Foster had been strangled manually.

The defense testimony of two pathologists was somewhat different than that of Olsen, said Ziem, but basically they didn't contradict what he had said.

In regard to Foster's confession to a friend, Ziem said that he believed that Wayne D'Auremont was telling the truth.

During the five-day trial, D'Auremont testified that Foster had once told him that he killed his wife. D'Auremont said Foster blurted out the story while they were returning from a bar in Orionville last fall.

Ziem said it was his conclusion that Foster planned the crime. He said that testimony revealed that Foster was having marital troubles, was jealous and had made threats.

Some Savings Immediate

Telephone Rates Are Reduced

LANSING (AP)—The State Public Service Commission today announced that Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and the commission have agreed on a rate reduction and adjustment plan that will save Michigan phone users $8.38 million a year.

Peter Spivak, commission chairman, said a saving of $7.68 million will be realized immediately, an additional saving of $704,000 is projected for the near future and customers will realize $1.3 million in value added at no additional cost.

An optional one- and two-party flat rate service which will cut the cost of interzone calls in the Detroit area will start Sept. 1.

The new econo-unit service carries a charge of $1 more than the present flat rate charge with a 60-message unit allowance for interzone calls.

With this new service, the customer who now pays $1 for message units can more than double his unit calling at no cost increase. Spivak said the immediate effect of this service will be a reduction of $2.24 million.

RURAL RATES

All rural residence rates will be reduced 20 cents to 30 cents a month on Sept. 1, depending on the size of the exchange.

A new metro-calling service will be offered to one million metropolitan Detroit area residence customers Oct. 1. Spivak said the new service will result in a $2.19 million rate reduction.

The state's more than 302,000

nounced by a single utility in Michigan history. It follows a previous Michigan Bell rate reduction effective last Feb. 1 which totaled $2.21 million.

Negro Police Chief Quits; 'Got Threats'

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (AP)—The South's first Negro police chief said today he was threatened prior to the time he handed his resignation to City Council last night. The 66-year-old man, Jesse Meadows, held the job less than a week.

Meadows refused to say whether the threat was made by whites or Negroes.

State Growth $881 Million

LANSING (AP)—Industrial expansion in Michigan during the first six months of the year amounted to $881 million, the State Department of Economic Expansion reported today.

B. M. Conboy, department director, said expansions should pass the one billion mark in July. The expansion total for last year was $1.6 billion for the one billion mark being passed in August.

"This does not necessarily mean that we will have a banner year equal to 1964," Conboy said. "But it does indicate the economic growth of the state is continuing at an excellent pace."

Conboy said one significant factor was that there were no industries reported moving to other states in the first six months of the year.

The first six months also saw the percentage of favorable movement of industry reach 90 per cent, a high for the figure since the department started tallying the figures in 1957.

City Taxpayers Challenged to Back Storm Drain Plan

City Commissioners sounded the alarm last night over the lack of proper storm drains in the city and challenged taxpayers to support a $15- to $20-million program to solve the drain problem.

Citing the use of canoes on city streets after a two-inch rain last Friday, Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson said a poll should be taken to see if the public will support a one-shot program to solve storm drain problems.

Hudson said that a recent study reported that it would take $15-$20 million to meet the city's storm drain needs. He said two questions should be asked:

- What is the opinion of the taxpayers on the $15-$20 million cost of city storm drains?
- Would taxpayers support a program to solve storm drain problems even though it would raise city taxes?

The District 4 commissioner estimated that the cost of a citywide storm drain program would run $4 per $1,000 assessed valuation for the next 30 to 40 years.

"We can't stop talking about the problem just because it costs too much," claimed Hudson.

Commissioners Robert C. Irwin and John A. Dugan indicated support for Hudson's idea. Dugan said that he was shocked at the costs of the storm drain problem.

RIVER WORK
Dugan pointed out that the Clinton River must also be completed to help solve drainage problems.

A master plan for storm drains to combat recurrent problems of flooded basements and streets was presented to the commission last month.

The master plan put an estimated price tag of $9.2 million on the construction of storm trunk drains. This cost would not include the cost of easements or right-of-way acquisition or the construction of lateral lines down individual streets.

Offering 13 specific projects, the master plan divided the city into 35 drainage districts.

Previously, city officials decided to proceed with implementation of master plans for storm and sanitary sewers on a stage basis as funds were available.

Senate Unit OKs Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation to make the killing of a president a federal crime has moved another step toward enactment.

Health Care Agreement Is Reached

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate and House conferees agreed today on a historic bill to establish a comprehensive medical care program for older Americans.

The agreement was nailed down at a sixth meeting of the conferees to resolve differences between the bills passed by the House April 8 and by the Senate July 9.

One of the last decisions reached, said Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., was to make the first $4,000 in income taxable to support the broadest expansion of Social Security in 30 years.

The measure will be ready for final action by next week in the House and Senate.

The most immediate item is a 7 per cent increase in cash payments under old age, survivors and disability insurance.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, announced the major decisions reached by the conference committee.

- Among them are:
1. 60 days of hospitalization under the bill's basic health insurance plan for persons over 65. The patient would pay the first $40 of the hospital costs. For each day above 60 but up to a 90-day limit, the patient would pay $10.
 2. 100 days of posthospital care in a nursing home, with the patient paying $5 for each day above 25.
 3. 100 home visits by nurses or technicians.

BELLY LANDING—While a rescue helicopter hovers overhead, a six-engine Air Force jet bomber makes a crash landing today at Pease Air Force Base near Newington, N.H. The runway was coated with foam to reduce friction and danger of fire when the plane radioed it had landing gear trouble. Drag chutes are slowing the plane, which came to a stop with little damage and no injury to four crewmen.

Industry Park Project Taken Over by City

Plans for an industrial park on the city's southeast side were revived last night through action of the City Commission.

The commission authorized spending $68,000 to salvage the planned 25-acre park project slated for the northeast corner of South and East boulevards in South Park Subdivision.

Essentially, the city takes over the project featured by the Greater Pontiac Industrial Development Corp. (GPIDC), acquiring 31 lots as a gift from the corporation and assuming GPIDC commitments on 143 other lots.

Twenty other lots, some with houses on them, would remain to be purchased to round out the planned site.

The $68,000, which will come from a surplus in the capital improvement fund, will be used to pay off a GPIDC land contract of $23,442 to Abraham Friedman and George Coleman, both of Huntington Woods.

MAJOR PORTION

A major portion ($35,000) of the balance of funds will go to the developer, Rubin Grynman of Ecorse, as the first payment on a second land contract.

The $49,476 balance on this contract is to be paid from funds in the 1966 capital improvement fund.

Other portions of the $68,000 allocated last night would pay taxes and special assessments against the property and closing costs.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren said the city acquires about $110,000 worth of equity which the GPIDC put into the project. The corporation offered this to the city as a gift.

PROPERTY DEEDS

Deeds to the paid-up property are to be presented at the commission meeting, Aug. 3.

The city takes over the industrial park project, planned for small, light industry, after efforts by the GPIDC to legal and financial snags.

Initially, the city will acquire

Firm Sends Out Stop Order to Block Sales

NEW YORK (AP) — Gerald Mulcahy, 38, a Wall Street messenger, told police he was waylaid by two men who robbed him of more than $2 million in negotiable stock certificates.

But the bandits, who took Mulcahy's empty wallet and the stock he was carrying in a manila envelope, may have a big zero for their lunchtime robbery Tuesday.

The securities were owned by Goodbody & Co., a brokerage house at 2 Broadway, which immediately sent out a stop order to block sale of the stocks.

A New York Stock Exchange spokesman said: "Technically they are negotiable, but I don't see how they would be of use to anybody."

CANCELED CHECKS

Harold P. Goodbody, partner of the firm, likened the stolen stocks to canceled checks.

"I think those fellows got a white elephant," Goodbody said. "I want to make it quite clear that there is no monetary loss."

The securities are insured, Goodbody said.

The $4,800 shares, worth $2,033,012 at current prices, were taken by Mulcahy, of Hoboken, N.J., to the Bank of Nova Scotia at 37 Broadway as collateral for a margin loan.

"No reputable bank or brokerage firm would buy these certificates without checking with us," Goodbody said, "particularly from someone they didn't know."

Romney Vetoes Bill Allowing U.P. Park Road

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney today announced veto of a senate bill which would have forbidden the State Conservation Department to block the extension of state highway M107 through the Porcupine Mountains State Park.

"No reputable bank or brokerage firm would buy these certificates without checking with us," Goodbody said, "particularly from someone they didn't know."

In a veto message to the Senate, Romney said the bill "simply strips a state department of its rightful responsibility and calls for extension of a particular road that conceivably could result in the worst solution to the problem that proponents seek to correct."

"It is shotgun legislation," the governor said, "lacking the specific restrictive approach required. It calls for action that, once taken, could never be reversed, however wrong."

"NOT BE PARTY"

"I will not be a party to what could be a classic miscalculation in the quest both for development and preservation of the Upper Peninsula," he said.

Romney said purpose of the bill, sponsored by Sen. Joseph Mack, Kironwood, is the extension of M107 through the entire Porcupine Mountains State Park. It now ends in a scenic overlook at Lake of the Clouds.

'Space Data' for Car Safety

one point wondered out loud why the auto industry was "always lagging behind, waiting for someone to tell them something should be done" to build more safety into cars as standard equipment.

His hearings at this stage do not concern any particular bill. Rather, they are designed to provide the basis for a national policy on highway safety and for the creation of a federal auto safety center to foster safety research, coordinate federal-state-local safety efforts, and investigate in depth the causes of accidents to determine how to avert similar ones.

MORE TO TESTIFY

The broad scope probe is scheduled to last from two to three years, and to bring to the witness stand later many state and city officials, students of safety problems and others.

The first three of the auto industry's Big Four companies insisted one after another that most of their engineering efforts are intended to make their cars safer.

They pictured car buyers as often reluctant, however, to pay the additional costs for such safety features as seat belts.

All three companies sought to blame carelessness and lack of training on the part of drivers for most accidents. Ribicoff contended this was all the more reason to make cars as fool-proof as possible.

Flood-Stricken Missouri Area to Get Respite

By The Associated Press

Forecasters promised a sunny day at last and thus, a respite from cloudbursts Sunday and Monday that triggered devastating floods, leaving seven dead and damages in the millions in northwest Missouri.

SUN RAGING TODAY was the stem of the Platte River, which rises about 120 miles due north near the Iowa line and bends across the northwest edge of the Kansas City metropolitan area into the Missouri River.

The Platte hit a record crest 16 feet above flood stage early today at Agency, Mo., 50 miles above its mouth.

A northeasterly branch, the Little Platte, receded after climbing 15 feet above flood stage at Smithville, a town of 2,000 on the north outskirts of Kansas City.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes asked the White House for all possible emergency assistance.

The Small Business Administration declared it a disaster area.

School Communication Is Taken Under Study

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — An organized method of channeling communication between teachers and school board members is now under study in the Bloomfield Hills School System.

School trustees last night received a report from Supt. Eugene L. Johnson on modifications he would make in the plan proposed last year by the Bloomfield Hills Education Association (BHEA).

The superintendent was asked to study the situation when the BHEA submitted a professional agreement plan drafted by the Michigan Education Association (MEA).

Johnson's recommendation is that problems of a professional nature recognized by the teachers be taken first to the superintendent.

If no agreement can be reached, the problem then would be submitted to the school board.

FINAL APPEAL

Final appeal could be made to a citizens' committee, the membership of which would be approved by teachers and school trustees.

Johnson noted that the MEA model agreement calls for monthly meetings of the teachers and board members, allowing the teachers to deal directly with trustees.

It also provides that an MEA official be chosen as final arbitrator.

"The board feels that the preliminaries should be channeled through the superintendent," Johnson said. "Since he will be held responsible, he should have a hand in it."

LITTLE VARIATION

The superintendent noted his recommendation does not vary much from the existing method of communication.

However, it does systematize the operation by providing a contractual agreement.

"Perhaps there is a need for this," Johnson said. "It would discourage splinter groups from attempting to get control."

The modified plan will be submitted to the BHEA with discussion of a final form expected in August.

MOSCOW (AP) — Roving U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman met with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin for an hour and 40 minutes today and said later he had now finished his business in Moscow.

"I have a good statement for you later," Harriman told reporters after the Kremlin meeting.

He declined to discuss the meeting, his second with Kosygin in six days.

Harriman said he will fly to Brussels, Belgium, tomorrow.

WORLD PROBLEMS

The two men met last week for a discussion of world problems which it was said would be continued today.

The Harriman-Kosygin meetings were the highest-level contacts between the American government and the new Soviet leaders. They are reported to be an attempt to avoid misunderstandings between the present strained relations over Viet Nam.

Sources said Kosygin restated last week the Soviet viewpoint that the United States is engaged in aggression in Viet Nam and should halt bombing of North Viet Nam.

After that three-hour meeting, Kosygin warned the United States in a speech that it is engaged in an "extremely dangerous" gamble in Viet Nam.

EXPECT REBUFF

"Each new aggressive action in Viet Nam undertaken by the Americans is meeting and will inevitably meet a corresponding rebuff from the forces of national liberation and the Socialist states," he said.

Harriman came to Moscow July 12 on what he called a vacation. He was American ambassador here from 1943 to 1946 and has visited Moscow many times for governmental negotiations and for private reasons. He is scheduled to leave in the next few days to visit several West European countries for talks before returning to Washington.

He said that he learned recently that the names of only 50 persons had been drawn for jury panel and that some have already been excused because of illness.

Roeber told Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem, who will be presiding at the trial, that he had anticipated that there would be at least 120 persons to draw from since he is entitled to 105 challenges, five for each of the defendants.

Ziem said that he would take the matter into consideration after he reached Manatee.

Goldberg Unpacks Vacation Bags to Get Ready for U.N. Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur J. Goldberg, a justice with his suits and his certiorari all packed for a working vacation in the Virgin Islands, unpacked today and prepared to step into his new assignment as ambassador to the United Nations.

"I'd rather the President hadn't asked me," said the jurist named to succeed Adlai E. Stevenson, "but I will do my best."

When Goldberg was named to the Supreme Court three years ago by President John F. Kennedy, Goldberg's wife exclaimed in joyful joy: "It's an American dream come true."

Tuesday she was more articulate than the usually articulate Goldberg in voicing their joint regret at leaving the Supreme Court.

LAW IS HOLY

"The law is holy," she said. "Those marble halls were not just a high tribunal. They were a sanctuary."

It was Mrs. Goldberg who disclosed that the Goldbergs had called off, at least temporarily, their vacation in St. Thomas, the Virgin Islands. He had packed to take along all his working papers, including applications for writs of certiorari, which if granted mean bringing cases of national importance before the Supreme Court.

As for Goldberg himself, he simply pledged that he would pursue his U.N. duties in strictly nonpartisan fashion, aiming always for world peace.

To most commentators, President Johnson's selection of Goldberg to succeed Stevenson came as a surprise. The common explanation today was that Goldberg established a reputation in labor negotiations, as a man with unerring instinct for finding "areas of accommodation" without surrendering principle.

No target date has been set for Goldberg to take over his new post. The Senate must consider the appointment first.

Here is a sort of play-by-play account of how Johnson picked Goldberg:

When Stevenson died suddenly of a heart attack a week ago on a London street, Johnson began to toss around in his mind the names of 25 to 35 Americans who might fill the post. This was the account given by Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary.

Moyers refused to name any of the others who were considered, out of consideration for them. But it turned out that while the presidential jet was winging toward Stevenson's burial in Bloomington, Ill., Monday, the President leaned over and talked earnestly into Goldberg's ear.

FOREIGN PROBLEMS

The nation's foreign problems were very important, the President said, and the possibilities at the United Nations were also important.

Johnson at that time never mentioned the possibility of Goldberg taking the post, but Goldberg, a quick man on the uptake, got the drift.

He told reporters the airborne conversation "did seem to have some significance; otherwise I would not understand why the President was talking thus to me."

At 10 p.m. Monday night Goldberg got a call at George Washington Hospital, where he and Mrs. Goldberg were visiting the latter's 82-year-old mother, Mrs. Louis Kurgans, ill of a heart condition. The call was from the President, and it made pretty plain that Goldberg was

The dynamic, up-from-poverty Supreme Court justice, former labor lawyer and whirlwind secretary of labor, held a news conference Tuesday to explain why he heeded the summons from President Johnson.

"I responded to the call of duty," he said simply.

WIFE SPEAKS

But it was his wife, black-haired Dorothy, an abstract painter of professional standing, who put the situation in more poignant words. "Say all the Jewish prayers, say all the Hail Marys, say all the Protestant prayers for us," she implored reporters.

"We will need them all. I am mourning for Adlai. We are going into something new. I don't know the first thing about

MIDLAND (AP) — A Grand Lodge minister has been ordered by a Midland County Justice of the Peace to preach a sermon on "Is Safe Driving Really a Moral Obligation?"

Cobb had been cited by state police for driving in excess of the speed limit.

Two Pontiac area recruits are members of the first all-Michigan Navy company of recruits, formed Monday in ceremonies at Tiger Stadium, Detroit.

They are Eugene Johnson of 2327 Maplewood, Sylvan Lake, and Thomas Rolando of 2965 N. Adams, Avon Township.

The company was honored by mayors of several cities during the ceremonies. Johnson and Rolando both enlisted through the Pontiac Office of the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station.

To Seek State OK to Build 2 Overpasses

Approval of the Michigan State Highway Department will be sought for construction of pedestrian overpasses on two Pontiac streets.

The City Commission last night authorized that state highway officials be contacted for approval of an overpass for West Huron in front of Webster School and East Wide Track at Whittemore.

The commission further authorized that negotiations begin with Grand Trunk Western Railroad for a pedestrian overpass between Sheffield and Walton across the railroad switching yards, near Stanley.

This overpass was agreed to in a 1967 agreement with the railroad. The agreement provided that the cost would be split evenly between the city and the railroad.

City Engineer Joseph E. Neippling said that a 1967 estimate put the total cost of the overpass at $70,000.

NEW DESIGN

However, a new design should trim this cost somewhat, said Neippling.

Estimated cost of the two other overpasses was $18,000 each, he said. There is $54,000 allocated in the 1965 capital improvement fund to cover the cost of overpasses, he added.

Procedures for the sale of 17 odd-shaped lots in the urban renewal R20 project were approved by the commission in other business last night.

Planning and Urban Renewal Director James L. Bates said that most of the lots will be purchased by abutting property owners. The lots are small, odd-shaped, scattered and cannot be built upon.

REVOLVING FUND

The commission approved establishing a revolving fund to buy the lots for resale to individual property owners over a period of time.

In another urban renewal matter, the commission stayed additional relocation payments to 28 families and seven businesses relocated because of the two urban renewal projects.

Bates said that the families are eligible for relocation payments up to $500, while businesses can receive up to $1,500. Relocation costs are borne entirely by the federal government.

In other business last night, Martin J. Keller was reappointed as Municipal Court clerk for a term expiring Aug. 1, 1967. He was recommended by the city's two Municipal Court judges.

REQUEST APPROVED

Also last night, the commission approved a request for an SDM license to be held with a Class C liquor license at 9 N. Saginaw.

A special assessment roll for curb, gutter, grade and gravel on Cottage from East Boulevard to Clifford was accepted by the commission. A public hearing on the assessment roll was set for Aug. 2.

A public hearing on intention was set for Aug. 3 for similar construction on Osburn, East Boulevard to Clifford; Fuller, Columbia to Peacock; Astor from Michigan to Pike and Clara, Joslyn to Columbia Way.

Cost estimates totaling $80,530 were presented on the street construction. Cost of the street projects would be split by the city and affected property owners.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. pointed out that the scheduling of the public hearing on necessity was a new procedure for the city. Previously, petitions were submitted before the public hearing was held.

Taylor said that now the city is stating that the city should be done in certain areas and holding a public hearing to determine the necessity for the improvements.

In still other business last night, the commission received an independent audit of city accounts and a report by the city finance director on the 1964 fiscal year, which ended Dec. 31.

In addition, a supplementary report was received from the auditors recommending changes in the city's accounting procedures.

The commission received all three reports and referred them for further study at an informal meeting.

Commission action against a developer having difficulty arranging financing for a proposed multiple housing project was tabled until the next regular (Aug. 3) meeting.

The commission has held off action against developer Sheldon Goldman, who has encountered problems in connection with an apartment project on land in the R20 urban renewal project.

Goldman, who has put a deposit down on the purchase of the land, has not been able to go ahead with his project.

The commission is holding up action terminating the city's agreement with him.

Retroactivity Asked on City Pay Raises

A pay raise is waiting in the wings for all Pontiac city employees, but it may be September before the actual cash will be in hand.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren disclosed last night that a reclassification study by the Michigan Municipal League (MML) has just about reached a conclusion.

He expected the MML study to be complete by Aug. 13.

However, Warren said it would take four weeks to implement the study, which surveyed city jobs—their titles, duties and pay—to put them in line with industry and other cities.

Hence, the city manager asked the commission to make any pay adjustments retroactive back to the Aug. 8 pay period. City employees would not lose any money and the city could take time to study the full effect of the MML findings.

Warren thought that this would eliminate any bad feelings that could result from the delay in implementation.

"There is no question that there will be pay adjustments," added the city manager.

He said that the 1965 budget allocated $103,000 to pay for pay hikes necessitated by MML reclassification.

Warren thought that there would be no problem in financing the pay adjustments for the balance of 1965, but thought there might be a problem financing these adjustments for the full 12 months of 1966.

In granting the Aug. 8 date for applying the MML study, the commission said that this did not mean that everything in the study would necessarily be adopted.

Labor Act Amendment Testing Solons' Wit

A year ago Congress passed a law outlawing job discrimination on the basis of color, race, religion or sex.

With that law now in effect, the Administration backed by strong Congressional sentiment now shows signs of going into reverse and pushing for the amendment of a law that would thereby establish job discrimination.

This law is the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, and the legislative surgery contemplated is repeal of section 14(b) that enables states to pass "right to work" laws. These laws make it unlawful to make union membership a condition of employment, and 20 states have passed such legislation.

To reconcile two such opposite positions on "discrimination" should tax the rationalization resources even of Congress — traditionally adept at such exercises.

It will be interesting to see what the lawmakers come up with.

Syngman Rhee

SYNGMAN RHEE lived fully half his 90 years in exile from his native Korea. It was in exile that he died.

All of that long life was devoted to fighting for the freedom of his country and his people — first against its own royal rulers, then the Japanese, then the Communists.

He never achieved that goal entirely. When freedom came, it came to only half the nation. And in the end he was defeated not by any external foe but by his own single-minded, dictatorial nature, by the poverty and ignorance of his own people, by the scheming and corruption of those about him.

Throughout the era between the two World Wars, Rhee carried his plea of freedom for Korea to the League of Nations and any head of state who would listen to him. But it was not until the defeat of Japan in 1945 that independence finally came — and with it partition and the setting of the stage for even greater tragedy for the Korean people.

Rhee was elected president of South Korea in 1948, and served a second and a third term. A month after his election to a fourth term in 1960 at the age of 85, student-led demonstrations forced his resignation. Rhee returned to exile in Hawaii under a cloud of charges of corruption and rigged elections.

To the last, Rhee maintained that the cease-fire in Korea was a humiliating defeat. To the last he doubtless dreamed of someday returning to lead a free and unified nation.

Korea owes much to Syngman Rhee, a patriot without honor in his own land. The time will come when Koreans will be free enough from the fetters of the past and of the present to accord him the place he deserves in their history.

Reds' Apple Polishing Not Always Fruitful

Those who have harbored the idea that our Commie opponents are gifted with infallible execution of their foreign relations projects and those of the U.S. are marked by blunder and misdirection will find comfort in Victor LARSEN's new book "The Ugly Russian."

The author studies Soviet aid projects in Africa and Asia and cites chapter and verse of some typical boo-boos:

In Guinea, Russia constructed a powerful radio station atop a mountain of iron ore, whose magnetic properties frequently blotted out the radio signal.

A hospital built by the Communists in Burma had its tuberculosis ward situated over a swamp, and a luxury hotel, designed to attract foreign tourists to the country, had no air-conditioning. Moreover, the Soviet-built elevators did not work properly. In the end, the Russians had to buy American air-conditioning equipment and elevators.

They also built a huge bakery in Afghanistan to turn out Western-style loaves of bread, only to find that the Afghans prefer another kind, which the bakery is not equipped to produce.

Finally, says the author, the Reds manage to make enemies in other ways. Everywhere they show race prejudice, keep to themselves and adopt an air of superiority.

All of which leads to the conclusion that government ineptitude in its foreign public relations department knows no national allegiance.

Rusk Quietly Does His Job

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON—Can you remember anything Secretary of State Dean Rusk ever said except for that "eyeball to eyeball" bit about the Cuban missile crisis?

Probably not. And that in itself is one of the best commentaries on how he runs his job. He is one of the most anonymous secretaries of state this country ever had. He wants it that way.

Nevertheless, for a man who says so little memorable or controversial, it's odd how rumors keep popping up about President Johnson, who inherited him from President John F. Kennedy, is going to replace him.

There was one after Johnson won the presidency on his own in the 1964 election. There were rumors after that. There was one last week. There was another, coming out of Congress, Monday.

This one had Johnson appointing Rusk U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations to succeed the late Adlai E. Stevenson. But if Johnson had any such thought, he put himself in an awkward position to do anything about it.

ASKED ABOUT RUMOR
Last week, the day before Stevenson died, Johnson was asked about the rumor going around then that he planned to get rid of Rusk. The President told the questioner:

"I think you do a great damage and a great disservice to one of the most able and most competent and most dedicated men I have ever known, Secretary Rusk. He sits to my right in the Cabinet and he rears first with me."

On the face of it that would seem the best piece of job insurance Rusk could get.

Highly intelligent, amazingly self-effacing, Rusk almost always says the usual.

BEST-REMEMBERED STATEMENT
His best-remembered statement came in talking about the head-on American-Russian showdown over Cuban missiles in 1962. Rusk said the two countries were "eyeball to eyeball and I think the other fellow blinked."

Rusk, unlike McNamara, avoids public clashes almost totally. Therefore, since he is obvious and usual in public, his great value to Johnson must come in his contributions behind closed doors.

One thing is sure: he's calm and he is a master in his field of foreign affairs, which means he's an expert technician. This would seem to make him to order for Johnson and Kennedy.

Both insisted on doing the talking on big problems. Thus Rusk is a switch from his two most famous predecessors of the past 15 years: Secretaries of State Dean Acheson and John Foster Dulles.

Both were always in hot water from talking.

David Lawrence Says:

Deficits Dim Tax Cut Success

WASHINGTON — It has often been said that "figures don't lie."

The most spectacular figures today are those which show that the cutting of federal taxes has supposedly been a "success."

But at the same time the change in tax policy has not wiped out the Treasury deficits because government spending has actually increased.

If it weren't for the enlargement of federal expenditures, the current budget, even with the tax cut of the last two years, would show a surplus.

So, while the theory that a cut in taxes improves business and augments revenue receipts has been proved, the other side of the story is that, no matter how much taxes are reduced, there isn't going to be any budget surplus unless government spending is held down.

A substantial rise in federal income, despite the tax cuts, has just occurred.

MADE UP
Thus, in the fiscal year which ended on June 30, the $8.5 billion in revenue which was presumed to have been lost to the Treasury due to the change in the tax rates was actually made up in its entirety by the expansion of business.

There was, in addition, an increase of $3.4 billion from the same stimulus. So the total added intake from taxes amounted to $11.9 billion in Treasury receipts.

Now, if the federal government had only reduced its spending considerably, there would have been a surplus in 1965.

The deficit, however, in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1965, was $3.5 billion, compared to $2.2 billion in 1964.

AN IMPROVEMENT
While this represented something of an improvement, official estimates for 1966 show that the deficit will be further increased next year to $4.3 billion. This is because spending is being increased to $69.7 billion, which is more than it was in either 1964 or 1965.

The story told by all these figures is that cuts in taxes do improve business and not only offset the revenues theoretically lost when the tax rates were diminished but also provide an increased amount of tax receipts for the Treasury due to the stimulus given business.

The realistic problem, on the other hand, is that this improvement fails to achieve the major goal because the federal government continues to spend and spend and pile up more deficits.

The theorists who are behind the doctrine that tax cuts will improve business now are saying that budget surpluses will hurt business.

As long as this doctrine prevails, it means that the government will continue to cut taxes and will accumulate more and more deficits.

This can only bring an era of inflation of prices and wages, a decline in the purchasing power of the wage-earner's income and perhaps a devaluation of the dollar in terms of gold.

There hasn't begun to be heard as yet an effective rebuttal to the theorists.

It looks as if that rebuttal will come only when the depreciation has started in and the deficits have reached a point where the integrity of the dollar itself is threatened.

ROME — The fathers of the Roman Catholic Church — cardinals, archbishops, bishops, etc., numbering about 2,500 — are presently mulling over the semantics of the final concrete proposals of the first Ecumenical Council in nearly a century.

As is the case in most congresses, the toughest legislative nuts have been left at the bottom of the bowl.

Among the last-ditch resolutions to be voted on, when the council meets in September, are these:

• A completely new outlook by the church's nearly half-billion communicants on the Jews in relation to the crucifixion of Jesus Christ;

• A clearly defined acknowledgment that the straight road to heaven does not necessarily lead down the center aisle of a Catholic Church;

• Collaboration of the good works and disburals of hotly rival Christian missionary efforts, as well as those almost equally competitive missionary projects within the church itself.

American Catholics sources laboring at the Vatican insist that the vote in these cases will be swift and sure, and all on the liberal side. But as of now the non-Catholics involved cannot rest assured, and for good reason.

ALARMING COMBINATION
Pope Paul's Passion Sunday sermon and a loud London Observer report combined to alarm and offend Jewish communities all over again.

The Pope's talk was interpreted in some quarters as depicting of John XXIII's determination to demolish for all time the persecution of Jews per se for what a few Jews persecuted a Roman Jew called Pontius Pilate to nearly 2,000 years ago.

The Observer, edited further out on a limb than discretion warrants, repeated and added to persistent gossip that Pope John's feelings in this matter, expressed so ably through the brilliant old Jesuit Cardinal Bea, tion of the dollar in terms of gold.

There hasn't begun to be heard as yet an effective rebuttal to the theorists.

It looks as if that rebuttal will come only when the depreciation has started in and the deficits have reached a point where the integrity of the dollar itself is threatened.

Still, the feeling here is that everything is going to go through just about as John XXIII dreamed.

Paul VI disappointed the more progressive fathers at the end of the third session by approving a decision to hold the vote on religious liberty until the final session. But there's no question that it will pass with as great or a greater majority.

As for the controversial statement on the Jews, it will pass overwhelmingly.

CONSIDINE
The question was whether the Senators would be allowed to put it in their own pockets.

Sen. John Williams of Delaware wanted a ruling that if members didn't spend all their office stationary allowance on paper, pens and so forth, it would have to be returned to the Treasury at the end of the year. He estimated $200,000 a year would be saved. This horrified some of his colleagues, who wanted to keep on with the present costly practice of using the extra money for anything they want.

Sen. Ross Bass of Tennessee cried out that Williams was trying to turn the Senate into a "rich man's club." He begged his fellows not to vote for "this nit-picking amendment."

So the Senators righteously voted Williams down, deciding to keep the $200,000 a year for their own use. Now it is up to us taxpayers to decide whose pocket got nit-picked.

Voice of the People:

Round of Applause Is Due Community College Board

In about six weeks our new community college will open its doors for approximately 3,000 eager students and this is just 15 months after the voters approved. Late in June '64, this new board met and within two months they announced the selection of dynamic Dr. John E. Tirrell to be the college president. His selection consumed many hours of the "spare" time of each member and was one of several early decisions which will influence the college for the next quarter century.

Your readers should be reminded that these board members receive no monetary remuneration. They serve here in addition to their regular work. I imagine that each one has contributed 500 hours, or almost 13 weeks of work. The voters of Oakland County should consider themselves fortunate to have selected six people who have worked so well and accomplished so much.

The members of the board of trustees are: Earl Anderson (Pontiac); Fred Chapman (Bloomfield Hills); Verne Fitch, treasurer (Birmingham); David Hackett (Auburn); Lila Johnson, secretary (Huntington Woods); and George Mosher, chairman (Birmingham). Clifford Smart (Walled Lake) served from June to December 1964 when his place was taken by Mr. Hackett. The members of this remarkable board deserve a round of appreciative applause.

'Parking Meter Time Should Be Consistent'

Why don't the City Fathers change the expiration time on parking lot meters to correspond with those on the streets? In the first instance the time is 9 p.m.; in the second, 4 p.m.

Many patrons of downtown establishments do not know the difference and I have known of several shoppers being issued violation tickets for having unwittingly overparked.

Sure, I know that the fine print on the meters spells out the hours of meter parking, but people can't be expected always to give thought to possible inconsistency where none should exist.

'Does Action Correct Legitimate Grievance?'

We read with vague discomfort of the prolonged situation, violence and civil disobedience being directed against Girard College in Philadelphia — this being with the expressed aim of breaking the "will" of an early American who left his estate as an endowment for the education of "white, male orphans."

If such tactics are a legitimate means of action for Negroes (and bear in mind that the intent of his will was, back in colonial times, hardly directed against them) should we not encourage similar countermeasures by girls and/or women who are similarly excluded?

There are many more valid targets for our civil rights movement and their action here strikes more as a resentment against the good fortune of another needy minority group than the correction of a legitimate grievance.

U.N. Won't Do

The Tallahassee Democrat

The United Nations organization is 20 years old. It was born in the wake of war with hopes that it would perpetuate peace. It was launched with high ideals for serving the causes of freedom and self-determination through international cooperation towards solving economic, cultural and humanitarian problems.

Its failures have been more notable than its successes. Realists in the days of its birth could not have expected it to fulfill the bright hopes for it in a mere 20 years. Realists as it approaches the age of majority must now doubt that it ever will become the responsible agency they thought it might be. The U. N. has been tarnished, not polished, by time and events. It has been more abused than used in the causes for which it was organized.

If it were not for the billions of dollars and the native popularity given by the United States it long ago would have collapsed. While we have sought to make it a cornerstone of our foreign policy, most other nations have seen it as a tool to manipulate things to their own advantage.

Too many of our idealists have visualized the U. N. as some world government without recognizing that it has no proper machinery for governing at all, and certainly none that would give our nation and our ideals much room to breathe, let alone to thrive and expand. The power to act is held by a coalition of tiny new states which contribute next to nothing and represent little but savage tribes. The power to prevent action is held by an unjustifiably large bloc of votes in its own name and names of conquered satellites.

Certainly, the world needs some international forum where problems between sovereign states can be freely discussed and arbitrated without war. But it should be clear now that the United Nations is not the vehicle.

Training for Getting Jobs

Who Says Teens Not Looking Ahead?

High school students may be making better plans for themselves than adults give them credit for.

Two separate studies recently conducted by Oakland Schools reveal that the percentage of students who find employment shortly following graduation matches the percentage enrolled in vocational education courses.

A survey of existing job-preparation courses offered throughout the county school system showed that 59 per cent of the 52,189 students enrolled in grades 9 through 12 are enrolled in at least one vocational or technical course.

In a two-year study of employment bound students, Dr. William Moorhouse, Oakland Schools guidance director, has found that 59 per cent of a representative sample of 2,666 high school graduates are employed either full time or part time or in military service nine months after graduation.

In the survey of existing job-training courses, David Soule, Oakland Schools director of vocational education, found that business education accounts for more than half of the 29,944 students taking vocational courses.

INDUSTRY TRAINING

Industrial courses, including auto mechanics, machine shop, electricity-electronics, graphic arts, welding and woodworking, are taken by one-third of the students.

Homemaking classes attracted 3,717 students during the spring semester of the 1964-65 school year; training in sales and distribution, 1,541; agricultural courses, 429; technical courses, 235, and nurses aid and practical nursing courses, 89.

There were 1,388 students enrolled in cooperative education classes.

Students received course credit for supervised work experience in offices, stores and industrial plants.

Plans for new vocational educational courses were limited to the school districts south and east of Waterford and Pontiac.

Courses in electronics, data processing, retailing, auto mechanics, machine shop, welding, food service and power analysis as well as additional courses in business and office practice will be incorporated in the high school curriculum this fall in 23 districts.

Secretary Is Hit in Head by Pole Falling 9 Stories

NEW YORK (AP)—A New York secretary remained in critical condition today with her skull pierced by a metal-tipped window pole that dropped nine floors.

The pole fell from the sill of an employment agency office, and struck Frances Levin, 45. Miss Levin was among a lunch-hour crowd watching police make an arrest on 42nd Street near Broadway.

Police sawed off two feet of the inch-thick pole before placing Miss Levin in an ambulance. Several inches of the pole remained embedded in her head.

She underwent a six-hour operation at St. Clare's Hospital to remove the pole.

'Base County Board on Equal Population'

An employee of the Oakland County Democratic Committee said yesterday that fair and equal representation was the most important factor to be considered in reapportionment of the county.

Speaking at a meeting of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors' Home Rule Study Committee, Louis Beer suggested from 35 to 40 districts of equal population.

Beer, a Democratic Committee staff assistant who said he was representing Democratic County Chairman George Googasian at the meeting, proposed that the 35 to 40 district representatives might be full- or part-time employees.

This would depend on the necessary extent of duties of the board of commissioners to run the county, Beer said.

The present part-time board of supervisors has 86 members. The County Republican Committee has proposed a board of commissioners of from 20 to 30 members after redistricting.

BETTER REPRESENTATION
Beer said the County Democratic Committee felt that the larger group of commissioners would provide better representation for county citizens.

It is noted that a 35-man board was the maximum in proposed base rule legislation that failed to pass in the last session of the State Legislature.

Eye New Formula for Filling Post

Hopeful eyeing political appointment to the Oakland County Board of Auditors 10 fill the post of retiring John C. Austin may be in for a disappointment. Chances are that his replacement will be hired, serving on a part-time basis and compensated at a per diem rate.

In fact, elimination of a political appointment on the board in favor of a professional per diem administrator is favored by Delos Hamlin, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

Other county officials also favor this formula, Hamlin said.

The alternative would be to name a political appointee as full-time successor to Austin. Hamlin said he knows of no definite candidates for the appointment.

UNIT MEMBERS
The board of auditors consists of chairman Daniel T. Murphy, Austin and Robert Lilly.

As chairman, Murphy, in effect, serves as the county's chief administrative official.

Elimination of a full-time member of the board by naming a per diem member would strengthen Murphy's present position.

Hamlin said that when Murphy was named chairman of the board of auditors two years ago, the intent was to make him the county administrator.

APPOINTMENT
The appointment of Austin's replacement is expected at either the October or November meeting of the board of supervisors.

Austin, 71, announced his retirement yesterday, effective the end of this year. He has served on the board of auditors since 1938.

Trucker Admits Painting Theft

BY COLIN FROST
LONDON (AP)—An unemployed truck driver, who turned himself in to a police station today after a detective told a Magistrate's Court the driver had admitted pulling Britain's most publicized art steal—the theft of a Goya portrait of the Duke of Wellington.

The 61-year-old defendant, Kempton Bunton of Newcastle, was ordered to appear for another hearing on Aug. 22. He entered no plea but told the magistrate the court would have to appoint a lawyer for him because he didn't have the money to hire one.

Bunton, father of five children, walked into London's West End police station Monday night and gave himself up. Detective Ferguson Walker told the magistrate he handed over a written statement admitting the theft.

Detroit Freeway Section Is Computerized

DETROIT AP)—A computer hitched to 80 miles of electric wiring may set the style for future control of America's automobile traffic.

The electronic gadget, unveiled formally Tuesday, is at work now spying on the 10,300 cars that sweep along a 3.2-mile piece of expressway within an hour's time.

Engineers who worked 10 years on the computer's planning and construction say they expect it eventually to control the expressway's 180,000 daily drivers.

Right now a six-month testing period is in progress on the John C. Lodge Freeway, a segment of Detroit's expressway network.

The Michigan Highway Department, one of the test's sponsors from 14 states, calls the computer the "world's most advanced traffic control system."

Edward Gervais, administrative engineer for the Michigan department, has high hopes.

"By late fall," Gervais said, "the computer will be able to operate the signals controlling the traffic with greater reliability than the men now in control."

The computer stores data from television cameras on ramps above the expressway and from 40 ultrasonic detectors that spot the car-by-car expressway flow.

The detectors not only count the number of cars that pass any given expressway point each minute but even report the height of the cars, the engineers say. Car speeds also are recorded.

Williams Putting Data Together for African Program and Book

WASHINGTON (UPI) — G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, is putting the finishing touches on a new program for Africa and a book about Africa.

The former Michigan governor declines to be specific about the "more vigorous, coordinated" African program that President Johnson asked him to develop for Africa.

And he said only that he is "looking into the possibility" of a book on Africa.

But it was understood that Williams is well along on drafting both the program and the book, and that both are aimed at least partially at improving understanding of U.S. policy in Africa.

Williams' friends cite his effort on the program and the book to refute reports that he is tiring of his current job.

NO SPECIFIC PLAN

"I have no specific plan other than to remain here," was Williams' response to a published report that he has told friends he hopes to leave the State Department by the end of the year and return to Michigan politics.

Williams has made no secret of his interest in seeking the seat of Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., should McNamara, 71, not run again. But late indications are that McNamara will run again.

The assistant secretary also is reported to be under pressure from some Democrats to challenge Gov. George Romney for the governorship in 1966.

Williams presumably will take some political soundings when he vacations in Michigan in August. But much of his time will likely be spent at his Mackinac Island summer home working on his book.

U.S. Seeks to Avoid Taking Over War

Viet Buildup Will Create Problem in Policy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Perhaps the most critical question the Vietnamese conflict poses to President Johnson today is how to send about 100,000 more U.S. troops into South Viet Nam in the next several months without taking over the anti-Communist war.

For years the official U.S. stance in the Southeast Asian conflict has been one of advising and assisting the South Vietnamese forces in the defense of their own land.

As American forces have grown in number and have moved into attack operations against the Viet Cong guerrillas, this formal policy position has appeared to some officials to become increasingly inadequate.

The problem seems certain to grow more difficult as the numbers and actions of U.S. forces increase.

LARGER ROLE

One specific issue which arises in this connection is the issue of command, as the United States assumes larger and larger responsibilities for the conduct of the war. Some kind of joint structure would appear to be a logical necessity. The roles of U.S. and Vietnamese forces would appear to be increasingly those of allies. In a joint command system the United States, with its greater ultimate resources of arms and men, would surely have to assume primary responsibility.

Top administration policy makers, however, are reported extremely reluctant to take any such step. The aim of the United States in fighting in South Viet Nam is to preserve that country's opportunities for freedom and independence from Communist domination.

In this sense — in the larger political meaning of the war — the fight really is considered here to be a South Vietnamese fight and whatever widening part is played by U.S. forces will still be directed toward the preservation of South Viet Nam and not to any enhancement of the U.S. position in Southeast Asia.

In addition, there are immediate questions of morale and of measures to encourage the South Vietnamese leaders and the people whose support they can command to continue to take primary responsibility, not only in the military, but in the political fields. The dominant idea of the Johnson administration in planning expanded military pressures on the Communists is to try to encourage and reinforce South Viet Nam's sense of independence and self-reliance.

ACTUAL PRACTICE

How this can be done in actual practice will be considered by Johnson and his top military and diplomatic advisers in conferences beginning today upon the return from Saigon of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Ambassador-designate Henry Cabot Lodge.

Administration officials have no doubt that the President will order very large increases in the number of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam. As these increases become effective, they may radically alter the nature of the war in the sense that American forces will undertake more and more attack operations against the Viet Cong.

Emrick of Oxford; Marcia Blackman of Rochester; Cindy Pletcher of Ortonville; Carol Headlee, Rochdale Drive, Avon Township; and Pam DeRycke of Lake Orion.

Carrying a full pack for an "overnight" is no chore when practically all food rations are flash frozen and packed in plastic bags, light as a feather. Wendy Talan of Colrain Drive (left) calls off her food list to counselor, Judy Bos of West Iroquois Road.

The whole trouble with eating is the dishwashing job afterward. But when you work as a team, the job is done fast. Doing their share of KP duty are Carol Crossman (left) of Donegal Drive, Avon Township and Adele Gates of North Astor Street.

"It's not the size that counts," says Denise Jadsin of Clarkston, as fellow campers wish her a happy birthday.

Teamwork is an important element at camp. Gay Norton of Sylvan Lake and Pam Dulmage of Orchard Lake will take turns rowing across Davis Lake for a cook-out. Campers are required to wear life jackets at all times while using boats and canoes.

Hold Head High

Ignore Nasty Rumors

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Shortly before school let out for the summer vacation we took our daughter (she is 16) out of school so she could attend a wedding out of town with us. Arrangements were made for her to take her examinations, get her grades, etc. We made a vacation trip of it and returned three weeks later. The first inkling I had that something was wrong was when several of my friends telephoned to ask, "Did your daughter come back with you?"

ABBY

I couldn't understand why they would think she wouldn't. Finally, a dear friend told me that it was all over town that we had taken our daughter out of school to place her in a home for unwed mothers! When she returned, the rumor had changed to, "She must have either lost the baby or had an abortion!" Our daughter has a nice circle of friends and none of them has ever been in any trouble.

How can respectable, innocent people combat a rumor of this kind?

HEARTSICK MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: Unless you can track down the instigator and charge him with slander (which is about as easy as putting toothpaste back in the tube), you can do nothing but hold your head high and ignore the talk.

DEAR ABBY: I know this letter will not get in the column but I want my say about "Second Place," the husband who resented his wife's closeness to her parents. You said the wife needed a psychiatrist. Abby, I think

YOU need one. I am married and I see my parents every day.

I wouldn't think of buying anything or making an important decision without their okay. And my husband doesn't resent this closeness.

I love my parents deeply and they won't be here forever so I am making the most of everything now.

SANDY IN PENN. DEAR SANDY: I am all for maintaining a close relationship with parents after marriage.

But "Second Place" complained because he was in second place after his wife's parents. Wise parents teach their children that their mates must always come first.

True, parents are not here forever — but neither are mates.

DEAR ABBY: I will be a September bride and all our plans are made for the wedding.

My future mother-in-law has warned me that if I serve alcoholic beverages at the wedding dinner, she will not attend. Our wedding will be held in a church, and the wedding dinner will be held at a fashionable hotel.

I planned to serve wine at the dinner. We do not have any rowdy friends. My parents feel that since they are paying for everything, my fiance's mother should not interfere.

My fiancé feels badly about this, but says she is his mother and that's the way she is. But he wouldn't blame me for having wine.

My parents say that I should not change my plans to suit his narrow-minded mother. I want to do the right thing. Can you advise me?

MIXED UP ALREADY

DEAR MIXED UP: The wedding and all festivities are the bride's responsibility and I think your fiancé's mother is being unreasonable and difficult.

What she wishes to drink or abstain from drinking is her business, but she shouldn't be allowed to make that decision for all the other guests.

Remind her that wine was served at The Last Supper.

Problems? Write Abby, care of The Pontiac Press. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pontiac Man Is Married in California

A noon ceremony recently in Fort MacArthur Chapel, San Pedro, Calif., marked the vows of Frances B. Smith to William Edward Cashin III, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Cashin Jr. of Chippewa Road.

The bride, daughter of the Cloyd L. Smiths of Canal Fulton, Ohio, chose a gown and train of white silk organza with bodice of Chantilly lace.

Completing her ensemble were a pearl tiara capping a silk illusion veil, and a cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Dolores L. Stuhr and William Stewart attended the couple who received their wedding guests in the Fort MacArthur Entertainment Center following the rite.

A honeymoon on Catalina Island is planned.

F. J. Baileys Repeat Vows

Mrs. Jean E. Roehm, formerly Jean Hills, recently wed Frederic J. Bailey in ceremonies at Folkston, Ga.

After a honeymoon in Florida, the newlyweds will reside on Fremont Avenue.

Their parents are Mrs. Robert O. Hills of Voorhees Road and the late Mr. Hills and Mrs. Rufus Martin of Hollywood, Fla. and Harold Bailey of Walled Lake.

Going Abroad

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Takis of Bloomfield Hills are leaving Tuesday for a six-week tour of Europe and Greece.

Oakland Unit Is Represented at Convention

Twins' Mothers Club of Oakland County will be represented at the fifth annual convention of the National Organization of Mothers of Twins Clubs in Chicago this week.

Mrs. Robert VanMeer and Mrs. Jerry Hocky, both of Pontiac, are delegates for the club's 56 members. Highlights of the convention will be a banquet closing the convention Saturday evening.

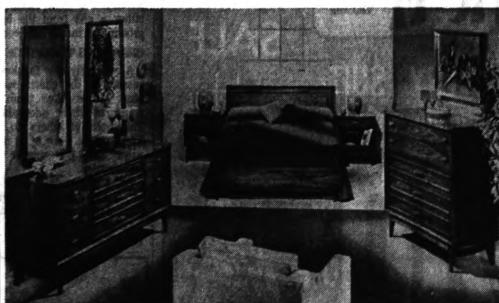

Purpose of the national organization is primarily scientific. Collecting data from all the world over on multiple births, it assists scientific studies in which twins can provide valid comparisons. The group's motto is: "The club where God chooses the members."

The James L. Conlons of James K. Boulevard announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Suzanne to Ferdinand Charles Arens, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Arens of New York City. The bride-elect is a graduate of Garland Junior College, Boston, and her fiancé is an alumnus of Dartmouth College, Hanover, N.H. A fall wedding is being planned.

The Mandon Lake Community Church was the setting for the recent vows of Jan Louise Carter and Joseph Charles Chisholm before Rev. Dorr Fockler. The William A. Carters, Mrs. Granville Jenner and Delos Chisholm, parents of the couple, are all of White Lake Township. Lace applique highlighted the brides' Empire gown and train of white peau de soie styled with Kabuki sleeves. An orchid corsage centered her bouquet of stephanotis.

Two Ladies Hired, Fired

LYNCHBURG, Va. (U)—Two women were hired by the police department here to give out parking tickets.

They not only were hired but were ordered to court for parking violations. Mrs. Betty Tyree and Mrs. Belle P. Murphy, while patrolling their beats looking for illegally-parked cars, had parked their own cars.

Police said one car was in an expired meter space and the other in a loading zone.

Pressing Matter

Versatile paper towels make emergency pressing clothes, at home or on vacation. Place lint-free paper towels over skirt or dress, sprinkle lightly with water and press carefully to avoid "iron shine."

Use With Flowers

A thrifty use for leftover plastic berry boxes and plastic mesh frozen food containers is to turn them upside down for flower arrangements. First sanitize them by washing in hot soap or detergent suds.

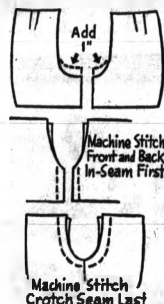

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I have just finished making some shorts and they don't fit the way they should. If I pull them up at the waist, they fit the crotch better. Can I change them now? Also, the pockets don't lie flat but gap and make my hips look larger than they are.

Mrs. L. T.

Machine Stitch Crotch Seam Last

As to pockets in shorts and slacks, you are probably fitting them too tight. The pockets will gap if the shorts are too tight. Actually, unless you are very thin in the hips, I would eliminate the pockets altogether. Another note for that slim look in shorts: Use a center back zipper instead of a side closing.

Dear Eunice:

I am making a skirt that has the center-front panel cut on the bias. The seam doesn't lie nice and flat, but the bias part of the skirt seems to look too full and drawn up. There must be a little tip that will help me with this.

Mrs. C. M.

Dear Mrs. C. M.:

Usually this pulled look is caused from easing the bias section to the straight section of your skirt. It's almost the same theory as hanging a bias skirt for several days before hemming it. You must pull the bias part of the skirt slightly as you pin it to the straight section. Don't be concerned if the lower edges aren't the same length in this instance.

Remember, any bias cut seam must be pulled slightly as you stitch so that you will get the same elasticity in your stitching that there is in the fabric. Without it, your seams would break in several places.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Frank Grassl, Pompano Beach, Florida, is this week's winner of a Tailor Trix pressing board for this suggestion.

"The facings inside a ready-made dress solved my problem of replacing lost self-fabric buttons, or changing unattractive plastic ones. One facing is ample to make a self-bow. Replace the facing with any other matching fabric, it won't show from the right side of your dress."

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY: Miter: A diagonal seam made in the hem or the facing in finishing a corner.

The wedding vows of Janet Marie Miles and Joseph Daniel Lozano were solemnized recently by Rev. L. Marie Randall in the Community Bible Church, Lake Orion. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur N. Miles of Independence Township and the Rudy Lozano of Foster Street. A Sabrina necklace enhanced the white lace gown with a crown attached to a bouffant illusion veil. Her flowers were white orchids and stephanotis. A trip to northern Michigan followed the reception in the church parlors.

Reading, Pa. was the setting for ceremonies in the Calvary Baptist Church uniting Carol Ann Clemmer and Gordon A. Kelley Jr. both of that city. White brocaded taffeta styled in the princess fashion was worn by the bride as she descended the aisle carrying white rosebuds. She is the daughter of Mrs. Charles A. Clemmer and the late Mr. Clemmer. Parents of the bridegroom are the Gordon A. Kelleys of Clarkston. Following a reception in the church parlors, the newlyweds left for a Canadian honeymoon.

Suffragette in 100th Year

WASHINGTON (U)—Young women should follow wherever their talents lead them, believes Mrs. Ann Manchester, an active suffragette during the early years of this century, who recently celebrated her 100th birthday at a nursing home here.

Heartened by the interest of young students in the affairs of their age, Mrs. Manchester still keeps a keen eye on politics. She lost the vote she worked so hard to get when she moved to Washington.

But last year, when residents of this city were allowed to vote, she cast her ballot in the presidential election.

Time Moves Forward in Fashion Circle

The fashion world changes. Spike heels become Mary Janes. Jeans are exchanged for hipsters. Shifts give way to smocks. And watches today are no longer just a necessity but an important fashion accessory.

When can a girl wear a wrist watch? A charm watch? Where?

Marcia Moore, Bulova's fashion coordinator, has answered all the questions of watch-wearing etiquette in her booklet, "Time on Your Hands."

Which wrist is right? Either, says Miss Moore, as long as the watch is appropriate for the girl, the activity and the time of day. In other words, no athletic-type watches at a dance, no delicate gold-and-diamond watches at a weenie roast.

Today's fashion-minded girl can wear bracelets on the same wrist as her watch, provided the colors and size harmonize. But no heavy Mexican bracelets with a precious diamond bracelet watch, and no chunky silver watch with a favorite gold charm bracelet.

For that second watch, Miss Moore recommends waterproof models for the swimmer and scuba diver, shockproof models for the golfer and tennis player, and styles with a sweep second hand for the girl entering nursing school.

In her booklet, Miss Moore cites three Nevers. Never wear a watch over long gloves, to anchor long sleeves in place, or with a wedding gown. It's traditional that any jewelry the bride wears be either a gift from the bridegroom or a family heirloom.

CHARMING TIMEPIECE A relatively new fashion accessory is the charm watch. Miss Moore likes them because of their adaptability. Thousands of others do, too. They can be worn in as many ways as the wearer has imagination.

On a chain as a necklace, or across the waist of a Chanel-type suit. As a bracelet charm. As a pin. On a belt or handbag.

Some Rules for Dating Are Rigid

By the Emily Post Institute

When a man has invited a girl to go out with him, he must call for her at her home.

Only if he knows her well and if there is good and sufficient reason (such as an early dinner appointment in the city) may he meet her at some other convenient place.

It is the man's responsibility to plan for everything they do that evening—transportation, entertainment and food.

He should arrive on time, and the girl must be ready promptly; there is no truth in the old saw about "keeping him waiting."

She should be suitably dressed, assuming the young man has told her what they are going to do; if he has been vague, a simple dress will be in best taste.

It is always better to be under- than over-dressed. Should she discover that her date is dressed for bowling, while she thought they were going to a party, she should excuse herself for 10 minutes—no more—while she changes into something more casual.

When the young man arrives, the girl should introduce him to her parents. The man who takes a few minutes to chat with her parents makes a good impression.

She should join in the conversation briefly before saying, "Shall we go now?" and then get her coat and handbag and bid her parents good night.

During the evening, she participates with enthusiasm in whatever activities have been planned. At the end of the evening it is she who suggests that it is time to go home.

At her door, he thanks her for the pleasure of her company; she thanks him for an enjoyable evening. He may say, "I'll call you next week," or even make another date then and there.

But if he is not interested in seeing her again, he says nothing but "Good night."

PAPER NAPKINS
Q: When served a paper napkin, what does one do with it after one has finished eating?

A: It is put at the side of the plate as a linen one is, or is it crumpled together and put on the plate?

Details concerning the announcing and christening of a baby are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled "The New Baby."

To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — When auto rolled up North Boulevard to the home of the Cramers for a tea honoring their debutante daughter, it was a Capt. Tom Sawyer, Houston's famous cop, who handled the traffic.

What Mother Should Tell You If You're Getting Married

Don't risk disappointment by having a friend attempt to photograph your wedding. Photographers can't be taken over again. In years to come your wedding pictures will recall the happy moments. Don't trust it to an amateur.

Professional portraits are not as expensive as most brides think. For picture cost is about the same as paying for your own film, flash bulbs and having prints made.

Visit two studios before you decide on a photographer — compare quality and prices but don't be misled by black and white. It's obsolete. Look into a mirror. Much of your beauty is color.

If your wedding is within 6 months make your appointment soon so professional photographers can schedule a day and most are already booked for months. Kandise Studios, who have been photographing weddings for 20 years, has a complete 1/2 hour extra — 30 newspaper glossy, card wedding sign, album and information sheet for newspaper.

Must Fit Budget

Furniture Buying a Big Decision

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

With couples thronging to the altar in ever increasing number, furniture sales should be soaring to astronomical heights.

If they are not to live in a furnished apartment, the bride and bridegroom have an important job to do in deciding what they will buy in the way of furniture.

Many start out with attic treasures from one family or both. To these, they add their wedding presents and then buy whatever else is essential.

EXPERT'S ADVICE

Mary Feeley who writes on money matters for The Pontac Press says that newlyweds should limit their spending for furniture to 12 per cent of their take-home pay.

We will add to that: don't forget to count the carrying charges if you are buying on time; don't base that 12 per cent on two incomes.

Many couples have gotten into financial trouble early in their marriage because they based their budget on both salaries. Then, the wife becomes pregnant, has to stop working, and the monthly payments are too high for one paycheck alone.

TRY SAVING

If you can get along without buying furniture at first, one check can possibly be saved for future furniture needs.

By delaying a purchase until you can pay cash, you may be able to take advantage of sales or save interest on time payments.

Whatever your furniture budget, don't skimp on bedding. If you must eat your meals from a card table and sit on cushions on the floor, spend what is necessary to get a good mattress and springs.

Never mind about a bed, if your budget is tight; you can put legs on the bed frame or get a headboard set. But buy the best mattress you can.

What you decide on — double or twin beds — inner-spring or foam mattress — is a personal choice. Just be sure to get a bed that is large enough and long enough.

GETTING LARGER

One bedding expert has said that in a few years we won't even see regular double beds; queen size will be the smallest.

Don't be hesitant about trying the mattress in the store by lying on it.

You're not buying for a lifetime, but for at least eight or 10 years which is the average life of a mattress and box spring.

As for the rest of your furniture . . . buy quality and you can use it wherever you move.

There is no economy in buying cheap furniture and having to replace it within a year or two. Better get along with less at first.

Then use ingenuity, imagination and inexpensive accessories to brighten your home.

Nurses Prefer to Wear Cotton

A study made by the American Journal of Nursing indicates that nurses prefer cotton for uniforms — partly because it is so eminently washable.

Stated special advantages: "soil and stains are much easier to remove from cotton, and cotton stays whiter. Also, it is durable and seams are less likely to fray or pull."

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Drader of Birmingham will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary tonight with a dinner. Sons Joseph P. and Donald A., both of Utica, and their wives will join daughter Mrs. Clayton Ramseyer (Helen) of Birmingham and her husband in honoring their parents. A third son, Robert, is deceased. There are 15 grandchildren.

A few pieces of furniture can go a long way and do a lot of jobs. The sleep sofa holds two extra-long latex foam rubber mattresses, which double as cushions. The sofa opens into a queen size bed. The stacking units have storage space in the closed bases, and the open top units serve as bookcases and display shelves. Foam rubber floor cushions provide spare seats for larger groups. All the furniture retails for only about $750. By Heywood-Wakefield.

Batteries Needed on Vacation

These days it is not necessary to give up a lot of your home comforts while on the road. For example, one of the small TV sets that operates on a battery (or plugs into the cigarette lighter) will soothe the fidgety youngsters in the back seat. Transistor radios, with ear-plugs for quiet listening are also excellent for whiling away the miles.

There is a new tape player, mounted under the dash, that will give up to two hours of your favorite music . . . without commercial! Or your children may want to take along a portable battery-powered photograph and their special records.

USE TAPE RECORDER

In addition to your camera, you might consider taking a battery-powered tape recorder so the children can keep a "living diary" of your trip. Incidentally, if you take anything that is battery-powered, you should also carry along a couple of spare batteries . . . just in case.

While some of these things are fairly expensive, keep in mind that they can be used for years of fun and entertainment long after this particular vacation is over, making the investment doubly worthwhile.

Root systems of the saguaro, or giant cactus, is said to absorb a ton of water after rainfalls.

Why Grow Old?

I am sure that it happens to everyone! I am certain that I do not have an exclusive on how hectic life can become and how it can gang up on one. I do not have an easy or sure-fire answer but I do have a suggestion which has kept life vibrant for me, and at times even humorous, through difficult periods.

LEARN TO ROLL WITH THE PUNCH — and I don't mean planter's punch or champagne punch.

We cannot plan life like we would a menu. The things we worry about will probably never happen and the things we least expect may happen.

HAPPENS IN BUNCHES

I don't know why life happens in bunches, good luck and bad, but it seems to. This is often true in big ways as well as small.

I know that you have all had days like the one I will now describe. Perhaps I worked quite diligently in order to have a day when I would have no special obligations and I could do what came naturally.

I barely have my eyes open in the morning when it begins. Just simple little inconveniences and chores. Everything goes wrong. The telephone of some friend I want to reach is out of order, the dog is sick and must be taken to the vet, I have forgotten a birthday or an anniversary I didn't want to forget, and by mistake, I threw my false eyelashes away with the garbage.

I have learned to sense these days early in the day. I brace myself for the big guns. I say to myself "It's happening again." What? Life! So long as one leads a busy life with many different interests and obligations these hectic times will occur. These days are not bad if you are adjustable and roll with the punches.

Household organization is useful, but it seems to me that many women take themselves and their duties too seriously. It really disturbs them when plans must be changed suddenly.

It makes all the difference if you are adjustable, flexible, love life and have a sense of humor. Anyway, you know you are alive!

Attitude Hasn't Changed Since Convention

Scranton Still Reluctant Presidential Material

By JACK LYNCH

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The year since the Republican National Convention at San Francisco appears to have made no outward change in the attitude of Gov. William W. Scranton toward the presidency.

Almost as soon as the tremors of his hectic and futile 32-day bid to head off Barry Goldwater had subsided, the Pennsylvania governor returned to his oft-stated position that he has no interest in becoming president.

He has said repeatedly he can only give Republican delegates a choice and because, no one else in the party seemed willing to prevent a take-over by the conservatives.

He said he is interested only in finishing his term as governor of the third largest state.

Stewardess Jobs Going to Negroes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Negro airline stewardess, without fanfare, is quietly becoming an accepted part of U.S. civil aviation.

The exact number of Negro stewardesses now in service is not known, but a survey of major airlines indicates the total is about 50.

That's still only a small percentage of the 14,000 girls employed by U.S. domestic airlines as cabin attendants. But it is a significant breakthrough for Negroes in a career long open only to whites.

It has been accomplished so quietly that some Negro civil rights organizations apparently are unaware of its extent.

One such organization recently filed charges of racial discrimination against an airline, only to have the airline point to four Negro stewardesses who had been flying for several months.

SAME PROPORTION

Airline officials said the number of Negro girls applying for jobs is small, and that number accepted for training is in about the same proportion as for whites — one hired out of every 25 who apply.

Of the 11 major U.S. airlines, seven currently employ Negro cabin attendants. American and TWA each have 11, United 10, Eastern 3 and Western 1.

Northwest and Northeast each have several but are reluctant to give an exact total, feeling that any numerical breakdown would be as undesirable as publicizing religious affiliation.

At least another 15 Negro girls are in or about to start training for stewardess jobs. By the end of the year, the total will be approaching the 100 mark.

NO DIFFICULTY

No airline has yet reported any difficulty, either from passengers or white crew members. The same is true with regard to hotel accommodations on layovers. Negro girls have quit and a few have been fired but for the same reasons whites leave or get discharged.

There have been rumors that Negro organizations have sent girls to the airlines merely to test a carrier's integration policy—and with instructions to leave as soon as they finished training.

The nation's biggest airlines, United, flatly denies this, and other airlines support United. Said Charles Urbach, United's staff manager of stewardess employment:

"We've had several Negro girls who resigned within a few months' after graduation, but this isn't uncommon. It happens with all girls.

"The percentage of Negroes who resigned in a short time is no higher than white girls. Nor have we had any indication that the girls who resigned were part of an NAACP project or were just going through the motions to prove they could become stewardesses."

10 OF 12
As a matter of fact, of the 12 Negroes who won United wings, 10 are still flying. Two resigned and six others failed to graduate.

AP SPECIAL REPORT

The term, limited by state constitution to one four-year span, ends in January 1967 and that could be politically convenient for the 1968 presidential race. After all, Scranton is 48, vigorous, handsome, and identified with the party's liberal wing.

KEEPS CONTACT

Scranton maintains contact with prominent Republicans across the land, especially with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose Gettysburg farm is only 30 miles away.

Ft. Custer Mobilizes---for Poverty War

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — At one time, youngsters about their age came here to learn to march, fire rifles, and generally to be moulded into soldiers.

But the 100 or so youths at Ft. Custer now have enlisted for a different kind of struggle — the War on Poverty. They're here to be turned into skilled and self-supporting workers.

Part of the former Army training camp has been turned into a Job Corps center, one of seven pilot projects in which a federal agency hopes to teach underprivileged and undereducated youngsters to work profitably with their hands.

Being here is a little like being in the Army. In fact, Ft. Custer has been chosen by the Office of Economic Opportunity as one of three Army — type reception centers to handle incoming Job Corps recruits.

DIFFERENCES

But there are differences. A Corpsman can drop out of the program whenever he wishes. And he can decide for himself whether to wear his uniform — blue dungarees and a tan, short-sleeved shirt.

The barracks are still here, but they've been repainted a bright yellow, with trimming of turquoise or pink.

And instead of learning to wield bayonets, the new crop of recruits will learn maintenance trades, machine tool operation, auto mechanics and body work (the most popular course so far) and clerking.

About 1,500 corpsmen are expected here by November, when operations on the 1,800-acre Custer Job Corps Center are in full swing.

SCHOOL DROPOUTS

The first 100 youths — aged 16 to 21 — to enter the project here are mostly high school dropouts. Nationwide, more than 60 per cent of the trainees come from below-average housing areas and three out of four have unskilled parents.

They usually get up about 7 a.m., with lights-out at 11:30 at night. Classes, exercise and recreational activities occupy them from 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m.

For this, a trainee is paid $1 a day, and if he sends money home to his parents, the government will match it up to $15 a month.

After one year, the trainees will be given a "certificate of completion" and referred to a placement center which is designed to help them find jobs where they can put their new skills to use.

Most of the youngsters here are far from home. It was planned that way. The object is to uproot them, to make them mobile — in case the job markets in their home areas are "depressed."

For example, the Custer center's 100th recruit, 16-year-old James P. Babcock, came here from Essex Junction, Vt.

His first trainee, however, was a Michigan boy — Walter R. Jacko, 17, of Newbury.

Jacko told center officials he got a head start on the other recruits the week he was due to arrive. He dropped in a day early for an unannounced inspection tour.

He said he liked the place, and less than 24 hours later signed up as the center's first recruit. The boy, who says he wants to study auto mechanics, is still here.

GOV. WILLIAM SCRANTON

State Democrats, at least, don't believe Scranton's disclaimers. They say everything Scranton does is done to further "presidential ambitions."

Combined with this is Scranton's ability to get things done despite Democratic control of the State House of Representatives. He recently outmaneuvered Democrats when they tried to raise his spending proposals by more than $31 million.

Pennsylvania, which has had financial problems for almost two decades, piled up a record $32.7-million surplus this year. That, certainly, doesn't hurt Scranton, whether the excess resulted from the general economic boom, as Democrats claim, or from a combination of good times and good administration, as Republicans aver.

URBAN AREAS

Legislatively, Scranton has developed considerable attention to urban areas, proposing a department of urban affairs and sharply increasing state aid for mass transit.

A hoped-for side effect of this is renewal of Republican strength in the Democratic-dominated big cities.

Scranton continues to make himself available for speeches. He speaks outside the state on an average of better than twice monthly.

At home, Scranton has lent considerable weight to party unity efforts through the Republican Coordinating Council. And although he campaigned for Goldwater last fall, he condemned efforts by Goldwater and others in setting up separate party organizations.

For himself, Scranton professes no plans beyond the last 18 months of his governorship, but it is difficult to rule him out as a presidential prospect.

Meeting Starts Today

AFL to Discuss Miami Franchise

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Football League, thwarted in its first steps toward expansion, is expected to move into the Southeastern area by tapping Miami, Fla., for a 1966 franchise at a meeting beginning today.

Rebuffed in an attempt to invade the South via Atlanta, the AFL has cleared the way for an anticipated move to Miami by reaching general agreement on the use of the 76,000-seat Orange Bowl stadium and will start screening applicants preparatory to reaching a final decision.

"We have indicated we want to go there," Milt Woodard, the assistant AFL commission, said today. "But the move would be contingent upon the new franchise-holder contracting with the city of Miami for the Orange Bowl. If they will negotiate a fair lease, we will go to Miami."

The path south apparently was cleared last Thursday when AFL Commissioner Joe Foss met with city officials and worked out verbally a long term agreement for the use of the Orange Bowl. But the final contract must be drawn up with the new franchise holder.

MUST PAY

Besides reaching formal agreement on a contract for use of the stadium, the group awarded the franchise will have to pay the league in the neighborhood of $7.5 million.

Pontiac Thinclads Gain Third Places

Bill Gottschall and Bill Tipton took third places last night in the Flint Olympic Development AAU Track and Field Meet. Gottschall earned his third in the shot put and also placed fifth in the discus. Tipton was third in the 120 high hurdles.

Other placements by Pontiac Track Club members were Bob Harris, fourth in the mile and fifth in the 100; and Jerry Hintersperger, fifth in the high jump.

It is known, however, that there still is opposition in some AFL quarters toward the projected move to Miami and Woodard pointed out that "there is nothing assured. It still takes a three-quarters vote of the owners to do anything."

"But unless complications arise," Woodard continued, "I think the expansion committee will be able to decide by Thursday and then contact the other owners for a vote."

A move to Miami would be the initial step in AFL expansion to 10 teams for the 1966 season. Other cities prominently mentioned are Chicago, New Orleans, Washington, Milwaukee, Philadelphia and the Los Angeles-Anaheim, Calif., area.

GAM Champs Repeat

F. E. Rickert and son Rich of Ann Arbor successfully defended their GAM Father-Son golf championship by firing 70 at Country Club of Detroit yesterday.

Angry Fan Puts Knife to 'Mummy'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Make no mistake about it: John W. Jones, 79, doesn't like the way Benjamin The Mummy Ramirez wrestles.

Ramirez, 33, was reported in good condition Tuesday despite a three-inch chest wound.

The 235-pound Columbian professional wrestler was stabbed by an angry spectator Monday night after being disqualified for roughness in a bout with Pedro Morales.

Police have charged Jones — 11 inches shorter than Ramirez and weighing only 113 pounds — with assault with a deadly weapon.

LIKES PETE

"I like a good, clean match," the bewhiskered, ex-race horse exerciser said in a Pasadena jail. "This Mummy was making Morales bleed. And I'm crazy about Pete."

Jones straightened to his full 5-feet-1, and told reporters: "Anyway, that guy hit me right here (pointing to his chest) before I got him."

His wife Emma, 76, was philosophical about the entire affair.

Peaches Falls on Court

HAVERFORD, Pa. (AP) — Peaches Bartkovic of Haverford, Pa., lost, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4, to Mrs. Karen Hantz Susanman of St. Louis in the second round of the Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis Championships Tuesday.

Aussie Pair Dominating Penn Lawn Net Tourney

HAVERFORD, Pa. (AP) — Australians Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle, who finished one-two in the latest United States and Wimbledon Championships are threatening to do the same thing in the Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis Championships.

Each won two matches Tuesday to advance into the third round at the Merion Cricket Club.

Emerson, the Wimbledon and U.S. champion, defeated Karl Hedrick of Freeport, N.Y., 6-1, 6-4 and Robert Siska of San Francisco 6-3, 9-7.

Stolle displayed an overpowering service in defeating Jack Jackson of Tuscaloosa, Ala., 6-0, 6-2, and John Mangan of Larchmont, N.Y., 6-2, 8-2.

Other seeded-players who advanced Tuesday were Gene Scott of St. James, N.Y., Tom Edliefson of Los Angeles and Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif.

SEXIAS ADVANCE

Scott defeated Greg Grant of Phoenix, Ariz., 6-2, 8-6; Edliefson ousted Gary Rose of Orind, Calif., 6-1, 6-3, and McManus eliminated Richard Anderson of Oakland, Calif., 6-3, 6-2.

Others who reached the third round were Rodney Mandelstam, South Africa; Bob Puddicombe, Canada; George Seewagon, Bayside, N.Y.; Robert Lutz, Los Angeles; Gerry Cronwell, Long Beach, Calif.; John Harrison, Richmond, Va.; Dave Powers, Fort Collins, Colo.; William Leonir, Tucson, Ariz.; Charles Pasarell, San Juan, Puerto Rico; and Cliff Buchholz, St. Louis.

Some upsets occurred in the women's championships at Justin Bricks, the defending champion from St. Louis, fourth-seeded Mrs. Carol Hanks Aucamp, also of St. Louis, and Tory Fretz of Los Angeles failed to reach the quarter-final round.

Miss Bricks was beaten by Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, 6-5, 6-4.

Mrs. Aucamp, who is ranked fifth in the United States, lost to Mrs. Donna Floyd Fales of New York City, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Miss Fretz was defeated by the No. 2 ranking U.S. junior, Kathleen Harder of Seal Beach, Calif., 6-2, 7-5.

Bids for Harness Title

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Farrington, Richwood, Ohio, defending harness race driving champion, has picked up 149 victories so far this season and is well on his way toward his fourth straight title and a new record. Farrington holds the American mark of 312 victories.

Franchise Reportedly Offered Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Milwaukee County asked Tuesday for another major league franchise to replace the lame-duck Braves and reportedly was offered the promise of one through expansion if it would drop a planned antitrust suit against baseball.

Braves Board Chairman William C. Bartholomay met privately with Milwaukee businessmen in Washington Tuesday night and a congressman present indicated a move to Atlanta this season would be a part of any compromise.

But the county's highest elected official shunned the meeting and voiced opposition to any go-ahead for the move.

In a key step in announced plans to file an antitrust suit because of the Braves' move, the Milwaukee County Board voted unanimously Tuesday to apply to both the American and National Leagues for a new franchise.

The suit is expected to be filed if the applications are rejected.

A few hours later Bartholomay met with a Milwaukee delegation at Washington's exclusive Metropolitan Club and made the offer to propose National League expansion, with a new team assigned here.

Release of the Braves from a court order requiring them to complete the 1965 season in Milwaukee and dropping of plans for the suit were conditions of the offer.

Congressman Henry Reuss, a Milwaukee Democrat, said the group met at the invitation of himself and Rep. Charles L. Welner, an Atlanta Democrat,

"to discuss ways and means of continuing major league baseball in Milwaukee, which would permit an early commencement of major league baseball in Atlanta."

Members of Teams, Inc., a private group of Milwaukee businessmen trying to obtain another franchise here, expressed optimism after the meeting with Bartholomay.

But Milwaukee County Executive John Doyle declined to attend and said he could not agree to a Braves' move this season "on a promise."

Baseball Commissioner Ford C. Frick said he had no information on an expansion proposal, but did say, "it could come whenever they (the owners) want to expand. There would be problems but they have original plans for expansion."

Katzenbach Says War on Organized Crime Will Yield Impressive Results Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach says the government fight against organized crime faltered for several months but has regained its momentum and should yield impressive results soon.

He regards the effort against crime of all kinds as his most important task in the Department of Justice.

He is convinced that the commitment of J. Edgar Hoover and the Federal Bureau of Investigation in combating the organized underworld is "beyond question."

He feels that the most serious threat posed by recent disclosures of unauthorized wiretapping is that it could kill the morale of Internal Revenue Service agents, who have been responsible for 80 per cent of organized crime prosecutions.

AT INTERVIEW

Katzenbach, attorney general since February but head of the department since the resignation of Robert F. Kennedy last September, discussed the crime picture in an interview with the Associated Press.

Sitting in on the interview were Assistant Atty. Gen. Fred M. Vinson Jr., chief of the department's criminal division, and William G. Hundley, head of that division's organized section. "There was some slowdown in the pace of organized crime work for about six months beginning last September," Katzenbach said. "It was a period of transition. Agents were wondering whether I had the same status and outlook as Bobby Kennedy, whether Sheldon Cohen over at IRS would be the same as Mortimer Caplin, whether Joe Fowler would take the same line at Treasury as Douglas Dillon.

"My crime experts told me it would be impossible not to experience some sort of letup. But it's picked up now, and we're getting someplace. I don't see how you can say there's been any deterioration in the effort."

Katzenbach said the pace of prosecutions has been maintained in the New York City area. He predicted impressive results in the fight against Chicago's deep-rooted crime syndicate.

GETTING RESULTS

"We're already getting some results in Chicago," he said, "and that's highly encouraging. You've got Sam Giancana in jail, and I think you can look for a steady stream of new cases in the next 18 months."

During the winter transition, he recalled, "I met with all of our organized crime people" to see that the momentum wasn't lost. I talked to President Johnson at length on the subject, and he gave me carte blanche to push the program, even while I was only acting attorney general.

He added: "We've always boasted about the increase in the number of racketeering indictments and convictions since 1960 — something like 1,200 per cent. Well, now these figures will tend to level off. But it's not because our effort has deteriorated. The cases left are the hardest and will take more time."

U-M Prof Calls Draft Unjust

Fire at Detroit Bowling Alley

State Group Pushes Atom Smasher Bid

ANN ARBOR (AP) — The United States draft law was branded "an unjust source of slave labor" and "out-of-date" today by Prof. Rosa Wilhelm of the University of Michigan Graduate School of Administration.

Wilhelm, speaking at a university radio program, said there was "a clear need for national debate" over the draft law, particularly in view of the Viet Nam situation.

He said the "draft helps distort our economy by encouraging early marriages; inducing students to stay in graduate schools longer than necessary; and causing high unemployment rates among men in their teens."

Wilhelm also said that "the draft law, according to the employment standards set in the civil rights law is completely discriminatory. (It) discriminates directly on the basis of sex, which is in conflict with our basic public policies relating to the selection and hiring of persons by government and business.

PECULIAR METHOD

"And, of course, the draft law is nothing more than a peculiar method of securing employees to perform military duties. Indeed an economic sense, the draft law is a slave labor law or an involuntary servitude law by every definition," Wilhelm concluded.

"The President promised in the last presidential election that we would have a report on the draft by April 1965; it's about time he delivered. And it is also about time for Congress to start substituting money for force as the means of securing military personnel. If there is money enough for tax cuts and foreign aid that is largely wasted, there is more than enough to eliminate this vicious form of coercion."

DETROIT (AP) — More than 100 firemen fought a fire at a combination bowling alley and bar in midtown Detroit Tuesday night before bringing it under control.

No one was injured. Fire Chief Glenn Thom estimated damage at $175,000. Thom said cause of the blaze was not immediately determined, adding that the building, whose interior was destroyed, had been closed for about two months.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Michigan delegation headed by Gov. George Romney presented additional information to the Atomic Energy Commission Tuesday in support of applications to have a $200-million atom smasher located at one of two possible Michigan sites.

The group was accompanied to the meeting by Reps. Weston E. Vivian, D-Mich., who is backing a site near Ann Arbor, and Paul H. Todd, D-Mich., who favors a site at Ft. Custer. Romney, at the 90-minute meeting, stressed the attributes of Michigan as an educational, recreational and research area and one of great resources. Romney invited the commission to make a tour of the proposed sites. He also said the land would be made available to the AEC if it decides to build the accelerator in the state.

AEC OFFICIALS Also attending the meeting were Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the AEC; commissioner Gerald Tate; Paul W. McDaniel, director of research for the AEC; and John Kenney, an aide to McDaniel.

About 100 applications were presented to the AEC by the June 15 deadline, including the two from Michigan.

Building Ban, Parking

City Eyes 2 Zoning Changes

A pair of major zoning changes were introduced last night by the City Commission.

Recommended by the City Commission, the zoning changes will have a public hearing Aug. 10, before final action by the City Commission.

The first zoning change would establish a new zoning district to be known as "parking." The second change would amend the zoning ordinance to prohibit residential construction in industrial and commercial districts.

The new parking district was created to enable commercial establishments to have parking adjacent to their businesses, but also to protect neighboring residential districts from encroachment by commercial zoning.

In the past, according to city officials, commercial zoning was necessary to set up new parking areas adjacent to commercial establishments.

COULD BUILD

However, once the property was zoned commercial, even though the intent was for parking only, the individual business could build on the new commercial property and make full use of it as such.

City officials said that this frequently meant further encroachments on neighboring residential areas.

The new parking district will zone a given area for parking only.

Prohibiting residential construction in industrial and commercial districts — the second change introduced last night — would give the same protection to these districts that already exists for residential districts.

HIGHER USE

Previously, residential use was permitted in the latter two districts because it was considered a higher use.

The ordinance amendment would eliminate this.

Debt Total Reported Near $14.3 Million

Pontiac's municipal debt totals nearly $14.3 million, according to figures presented last night in a review by City Manager Joseph A. Warren of city finances.

Although he claimed that the total figure was meaningless because of the three separate and distinct debt funds, Warren listed the city's total debt at $14,285,802.

Debt payments extend through 1996, he added.

Despite the total, the city is not at its debt limit of 8 percent of its annual equalized valuation ($306,215,848) as set by the city charter, said Warren.

The debt limit applies only to general obligation bonds, which are $26.2 million under the limit.

Warren said the city has $4,665,178 in outstanding general obligation bonds on the 1963 Pontiac General Hospital addition ($1.9 million) and the 1961 sewage treatment plant ($2.8 million).

DRAIN PROJECTS

Four drain projects, totaling $5,290,624, make up the city's contractual debt. These include the two Clinton River projects, the Murphy Park drain and the city's portion of the Hamlin drain.

Annual payments on these projects by 1966 will cost about 93 cents per $1,000 valuation on the December tax bill, said Warren.

Petitioned through the County Drain Commissioner, these projects are paid for through a tax levy made on the city by the county.

Warren listed the city's revenue bond indebtedness at $4.3 million for four projects. This includes $185,000 on the 1952 sewage disposal system, $3,730,000 on the 1962 water supply system and a total of $385,000 on the city's two parking lot systems.

DEBT SMALL

The city manager said that Pontiac's debt was "very small" in relation to the city's ability to borrow and to repay.

Warren said that funds are available through the debt funds for future borrowing. He pointed out that the charter limit was $11 million on general obligation bonds.

The city has about $26.2 million to go before the borrowing limit is reached.

Warren said it is possible that voters would approve a debt levy to repay bonds issued against the $26.2 million.

OTHER FUNDS

Still other funds can be used to finance future projects through the County Drain Commissioner.

Debt acquired this way is retired through a levy on the county tax bill.

He estimated that the tax bill would rise by about $1 per $1,000 valuation for every half-million dollars of debt in added projects.

Fire Destroys Car of Waterford Man

An automobile, owned by Rudolph Fortino, 747 Joyval, Waterford Township, was destroyed by fire early this morning.

Waterford Township firemen said the fire may have been caused by a short circuit in the vehicle regulator.

The car was valued at $600, according to firemen.

Firm to Build Center on Detroit West Side

DETROIT (AP) — A $4 million distribution center is to be built on a 49-acre site on Detroit's west side by Borman Food Stores, Inc.

Paul Borman, firm president, said Tuesday ground breaking would begin late this year. He said the center eventually would provide about 350 new jobs.

Bids Received on R44 Loan

The City Commission last night received bids on $1,335,000 in preliminary loan notes for the R44 urban renewal project.

Pontiac State Bank, asking a 2.36 per-cent interest rate, was the lowest of six bidders.

The loan notes will finance continued operations in the R44 project for six months through February.

Although originally scheduled to close out by Aug. 31, the R44 project has been extended until April 1, 1966.

A second extension to April 1, 1967 has been requested in a revised R44 plan now being reviewed by federal renewal officials.

Desserts Needn't Be Weighty

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Although it is easier to diet in summer, it's not time to stop counting calories. Fortunately, one prefers lighter food in hot weather.

We're trying to do our bit to help you stay slim by suggesting some new low-calorie dessert recipes.

Making ice cream at home is fun.

You can make "ice milk" that are deliciously creamy, smooth and rich-tasting. Prepared with sucaryl solution, these frozen desserts will stay that way after freezer storage.

Try all three versions of this simple dessert.

Banana Ice Milk
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
2 cups skim milk, scalded
1/4 cup nonfat dry milk
4 teaspoons sucaryl solution
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 medium bananas, mashed

Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine scalded milk, dry milk, sucaryl, lemon juice and vanilla. Add softened gelatin, stirring to dissolve.

Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in mashed bananas. Pour into electric ice cream freezer.

Freeze, using 8 parts ice to 1 part rock salt. Freezer will stop when ice milk is done (about 20 minutes).

Makes 2 1/2 pints or 5 servings.

each 143 calories; 12 grams protein; 6.5 gram fat; 34 grams carbohydrate. (With sugar 272 calories.)

Strawberry Ice Milk: Follow directions for Banana Ice Milk, increasing sucaryl to 2 table-spoons, and replacing bananas with 2 cups strawberries, crushed. Freezing time about 30 minutes.

Makes 2 1/2 pints or 5 servings, each 120 calories; 12 grams protein; 0.5 gram fat; 19.5 grams carbohydrate. (With sugar 202 calories.)

Chocolate Ice Milk: Follow directions for Banana Ice Milk, increasing sucaryl to 2 table-spoons, omitting lemon juice, decreasing vanilla to 1 teaspoon and replacing bananas with 1 ounce unsweetened chocolate, melted.

Beat with rotary beater to blend in chocolate. Freezing time about 30 minutes.

Makes 2 pints or 4 servings, each 160 calories; 15 grams fat; 20 grams carbohydrate. (With sugar 385 calories.)

Unflavored gelatin is a boon to the dieter. By using it in salads and desserts, you can control the amount of sugar in the dish. And this gelatin is pure protein.

Lemon jelly with peaches or other fresh fruit looks delicious and tastes as good; you can consume it with a clear conscience.

Fresh Lemon Jelly With Peaches
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup sugar

3 cups cold water, divided
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup lemon juice
4 large peaches, sliced
Mint leaves

Mix together unflavored gelatin and sugar in saucepan. Stir in 1 1/4 cups cold water. Place over low heat; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat; stir in salt and lemon juice.

Pour into 4 cup ring mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with sliced peaches and mint. Fill center of mold with sliced peaches. Yield: 8 servings.

90 calories per serving with sugar; 28 calories with sugar substitute.

Note: Granulated sugar substitute or other non-caloric sweeteners may be used in place of the sugar. Add to dissolved gelatin mixture. Follow directions on package for sugar equivalent.

New low calorie cranberry products are another help for those who are trying to hold the line.

Cranberry Fluff Dessert
2 cups low calorie cranberry juice cocktail
2 envelopes (1 1/2 ounce each) dietetic strawberry flavor gelatin
1 cup sliced fresh strawberries
1 package (2 ounces) whipped topping mix
1/2 cup cold milk

LOW CALORIE ICED MILK

until hot, add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add remaining 1 cup cranberry juice and blend well. Chill until very thick.

Beat gelatin until light and fluffy. Fold in strawberries, sliced. Whip topping mix with milk according to package directions. Fold 1/4 of the whipped topping into the gelatin.

Spoon mixture into sherbet glasses and fill with remaining topping. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 6 servings.

Special Butters Add to Joy of Waffles

Add to your enjoyment of hot breads and waffles with Whipped Maple Butter. It's easy to do. Just beat 1/4 cup butter with 3/4 cup pure maple syrup until fluffy.

Other variations on whipped butter are: Maple Nut Butter—use basic recipe, adding 1/2 cup chopped nuts; Cinnamon Maple Butter—use basic recipe, adding 1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon.

Modern Potato Salad Departs From Tradition

Potato salads are year around favorites, but they take on added taste appeal during the summer months. The Deutch Potato Salad is an ideal addition to an outdoor meal, and it is unique in its class for several reasons.

It's a hearty adaptation of hot German-style potato salad. The dressing trick is a package of onion salad dressing mix.

There will be no crying over onions when you are shipping up this dish! Another surprise is the addition of small early peas.

They add a just-right color note and, with the hot potato-pear combination, no other vegetable is needed on the menu.

Deutch Potato Salad
6 slices bacon, diced
One 7-10 oz. package onion salad dressing mix
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 cup vinegar
Two 8-oz. or one 17-oz. can small early peas, drained
1/4 cup drained pea liquid
4 cups warm sliced cooked potatoes
Salt and pepper

Fry bacon until crisp. Blend salad dressing mix and flour into bacon drippings. Stir in vinegar and drained pea liquid. Cook over very low heat about 1 minute, stirring constantly until slightly thickened.

Season potatoes lightly with salt and pepper. Add drained canned peas and hot dressing. Toss lightly to coat vegetables.

Cook Fresh Fish in Foil on Grill

Scale and clean fish; removing the head, and trim off tail and gills. Fish weighing about one pound may be cooked whole, allowing one to a person. Larger fish may be cut into portions.

Place fish on a square of heavy duty foil. Add a slice of lemon, salt, pepper and a pat of butter to each. Bring foil up over fish and seal on top with double fold.

Seal ends of packages same way, turning them up so juice does not run out. Place packages on the grate over a moderately hot fire and cook about 20 minutes. Shake packages occasionally. No need to turn though, as fish steams in its own juices. Open and eat right from the package.

Use a Little Bit

Note to new cooks: when you try your hand at rolled cookies — and they are really fun to make — roll out only a little of the dough at one time so you can manage it! A small sheet of dough is much less likely to get warm and stick than is a large sheet.

Stop scrubbing with old-fashioned cleansers!

Michigan Cherry Crop to Result in Varied Products

It's cherry time in Michigan every day of the year, but July is the peak of the harvest announces the Consumer Market-

Change Location

Some good cooks like to place their pie shells (when they are being baked before filling) on the upper shelf of a hot oven until the edges are brown; then they remove the shells to a low shelf of the oven to brown the bottom and finish baking.

ing Information Agent, Josephine Lawler.

Michigan will produce about 65 per cent of the nation's 1965 crop of red tart cherries — primarily in counties bordering Lake Michigan from Charlevoix to Benton Harbor.

The June 15 forecast is that the crop is 37 per cent smaller than a year ago, but still 47 per cent above an average size harvest.

Michigan's sweet cherry crop is expected to be about 15 per cent larger than a year ago, while nationally the crop is 25 per cent below the heavy 1964 production.

Records for 1964 show that most Michigan cherries are processed. Tart cherries are sold in many forms, and some of the most popular include:

• Canned — Water pack in water. Dessert cherries in light or heavy syrup. Pie filling in thickened syrup. Jelly Sauce. Juice blends and punch-single strength cherry juice blended with other fruit juices. Dietetic pack in water with artificial sweetener added. Jellies and preserves.

• Frozen — Cherries frozen

Oven Braising

You can braise short ribs in the oven instead of on top of the range. Brown the ribs first, then cover them tightly, add the braising liquid and bake them in a moderate oven for two hours or until tender.

with sugar. Concentrated cherry juice. Thirty-pound packages of pitted sweetened cherries with one pound of sugar to five pounds of cherries.

• Other Cherry Desserts — Turnovers, tarts, dumplings, cobbler, cherry crisp fresh or frozen, baked or unbaked. Ready-made pies fresh or frozen, baked or unbaked.

• Ice Cream — Nineteen Michigan dairies will process Michigan Tart Cherry Ice Cream this summer. It will be

The Borden Company, Detroit
Richardson Farm Dairy, Pontiac
Risdon Brothers, Detroit
Wilson Dairy, Detroit
United Dairies, Detroit

Shoppers may look forward to new products with cherries. Individually Quick Frozen Cherries are pitted, then individually frozen with no sugar or liquid, making them a "pour and store" product with the color and flavor of fresh cherries.

Dried cherries are pitted, then dried without sugar, and are excellent for snacking, for candies, cookies, cakes and muffins.

Both products are being produced on a limited basis this season.

Corn, Green Beans and Onions Mix With Shrimp and Apples in Delightful Salad

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Here's one of the best pantry-shelf salads we've ever come upon. Surprising, delightful, easy to prepare!

When we encountered this recipe, the combination of ingredients struck us as unusual.

Although the salad was highly recommended by a fine cook, we wondered whether our tasters really would give it a top rating. We needn't have wondered — the salad was immensely pleasing.

We call it pantry-shelf-style because its three main ingredients — shrimp, cut green beans and whole-kernel corn — are canned and may be on hand in the kitchen.

The refrigerator ingredients needed are easy to come by.

The cook who passed along this rule to us said the salad reminded her of a straw hat because the bowl into which the shrimp combination is placed is outlined with the long shredded green tops of scallions!

It's the shrimps that give this salad its main-course quality.

Packed in small cans, this seafood is great to have on hand. You can always use the shrimps for a quickly make spread by mashing them with sweet butter and adding a suspicion of cutting.

Or you can add them to a tomato sauce for fish filets or baked fish; or to a cream sauce to serve over toast or in pastry shells or patties.

Special Shrimp Salad

2 cans (4½ ounces each) shrimp
1 can (about 1 pound) cut green beans, drained
1 can (12 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained
2 medium red apples
6 small green onions (scallions)

1 cup chopped celery
¼ cup Vinaigrette Dressing
Lettuce

Have all ingredients chilled. Drain and rinse shrimp. Core unpeeled apples and cut into small fan shapes.

Cut green tops from onions and slice lengthwise into thin long shreds; reserve. Coarsely chop the white bulbous parts of the onions.

Mix together the shrimp, beans, corn, apple, chopped

white part of onion and celery; toss with Vinaigrette Dressing

Place in a chilled bowl and garnish around the edge with the long shredded green onion tops so that they stand up. Serve on crisp lettuce. Makes 6 servings.

Vinaigrette Dressing

1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon paprika

¼ teaspoon white pepper
¼ cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons water
Salad oil

In a glass measuring cup (for liquids), with a fork, beat together the salt, sugar, mustard, water. Add enough salad oil to make 1 ounce (1 cup).

$859,029 Budget Okayed by Oxford Board of Education

OXFORD — An $859,029 budget, which includes provisions for an assistant superintendent, was approved by the board of education last night.

Schools Supt. Roger Oberg said the board hopes to hire an assistant this year. He said the amount allocated will depend on the person hired.

The 1965-66 budget represents an increase of about $80,000 over the 1964-65 budget, most of which is reflected in increased personnel.

Oberg said a high school shop teacher is needed as well as some special education teachers, a visiting teacher and five or six elementary teachers.

The increase is also the result of a $200 across the board raise, granted to teachers in March, which increased the starting salary to $5,100.

TAX RATE

The budget is based on a tax rate of 22.39 mills — 8.59 allocated, 9 mills extra operational and 4.8 mills for debt retirement — an increase of .8 of a mill.

The operating tax was increased by one mill in June when voters approved an additional 1 mill as well as renewal of 3 mills which were due to expire. However, the debt retirement rate was reduced 2 of a mill.

Oberg said that under the new state aid bill, the district should receive about $80,000 more than last year. He said this is based on an estimated increase of 90 students this year bringing the school enrollment to 2,160.

Name Justice of the Peace in White Lake

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Attorney Richard L. Murphy today took office as a White Lake Township justice of the peace.

He was appointed by the Township Board last night to succeed David J. Wood for a term that is less than a month old.

Raymond W. Stempien, a member of the Township Planning Commission for three years, will fill Murphy's post on the Township Board.

Both appointees are Democrats.

The change in officers was necessitated by the resignation of Wood, who is going to move out of the township.

Murphy's law office is at 2288 Highland, Waterford Township. He, his wife and their daughter live at 827 Hill-top.

Stempien, a coordinating engineer at Wetlaufer Engineering Co. of Detroit, lives with his wife and two children at 8790 Chabane. He serves as president of the Twin Shores Civic Association.

Stempien's term on the Township Board will run until 1966.

Yet to be filled is the vacancy he left on the planning commission.

Action Delayed on City Hall

WALLED LAKE—City Council consideration of the new building as a potential city hall has been postponed until September.

Meanwhile, a seven-member committee appointed by Mayor Wendel G. Kellogg Jr. will continue to study information on the building.

Created last month, the committee originally was to report back to the council last night.

But its work is taking longer than expected.

Yet to be obtained are cost estimates on the remodeling necessary to convert the building into municipal headquarters.

IS OCCUPIED

The structure at 209 E. Wall Lake now houses Shuman Ford Sales, Inc.

The mayor noted that another factor in the delay is that the councilmen are taking vacations.

"We want a full council there when this is discussed," he said. "It was generally decided that there's not a big rush to do this."

Facts and figures received by the study committee will be referred to the city planning commission.

Utica Teen Dies When Hit by Auto

UTICA — Ronald Hanson, 15, of 542 Creek was killed near Alpena yesterday when he was hit head-on by a car while riding a motorcycle along M56.

Police said he apparently swerved into the path of an oncoming car while drinking a bottle of pop.

The driver, who told police he was traveling only about 15 miles an hour, said he swerved off the right side of the road in a futile attempt to avoid the youth.

The accident occurred about 19 miles west of Alpena.

Target: Cereal Leaf Beetle

Southern Michigan Under Quarantine

All of 40 southern Michigan counties, including Oakland, and parts of five others have been included in the revised cereal leaf beetle quarantine area following action of the Commission of Agriculture at its July meeting. The revised quarantine became effective July 12.

The cereal leaf beetle is a native of Europe and is a major destroyer of growing grains such as oats, wheat, barley, rye and similar crops. It has destroyed entire small-grain crops in Europe.

It was first reported in the United States in 1962 at Galien, Berrien County, the initial appearance of the pest anywhere in North America.

The northern boundaries of the recently revised quarantine area are some of the southern townships of Lake, Oceana, Oshtemo, Clare and Antrim counties. All the rest of lower Michigan lying east and south of this as far as the state line is under quarantine.

The purpose of the quarantine is to help prevent spread of the pest into other small-grain producing areas.

This spring, an aerial treatment program using five ounces of technical malathion per acre proved highly effective in destroying the insect in areas of heavy infestation in five southwestern Michigan counties. Nearly 250,000 acres were treated, about half of which was treated a second time to destroy late emerging adult beetles.

Surveys conducted since the aerial treatment program have disclosed cereal leaf beetle in new areas, but not in the concentration found in the regions of heavy infestation effectively treated this spring.

The program is a cooperative one between the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry Division and the USDA's Plant Pest Control Division.

Terms of the revised quarantine are changed little from the quarantine previously imposed. Under it, certain commodities cannot be moved out of a regulated area into an unquarantined area without inspection, treatment and certification. In the case of hay, straw, and

Keego Hearing Is Postponed

Estimate on Piping in Detroit Water Low

KEEGO HARBOR—The need to revise the estimated cost of bringing Detroit water to Keego Harbor has brought postponement of a public meeting on the project.

The informational session scheduled for tomorrow night has been called off at the request of the Oakland County Department of Public Works.

Plans for extension of the water lines into Keego Harbor have been discussed by city councilmen and DPW representatives on the assumption that the total cost would run about $530,000.

"Bids that we and other concerns have been receiving lately indicate this estimate was too low," DPW Director R. J. Alexander said. "We want to review the figures more carefully."

Another informational meeting will be scheduled when the new figures are available — probably in two weeks, Alexander said.

COULD BE EXTENDED

It originally was thought that Detroit water would not be available to Keego Harbor until 1970.

However, the main now is being installed up to Square Lake and Middle Belt roads and could be extended to the city next year, Alexander said.

The project is to be financed through the sale of 30-year revenue bonds backed by the county.

One farm worker can now supply more than 30 persons with food needs, compared with about 10 in the 1930's and less than eight before World War I.

similar material, fumigation is required before certification.

Articles that cannot be moved from a quarantined area without a certificate are the insect itself in any stage of development, small grains, corn, uncultivated grass and forage crop seed, hay, straw, fodder, sod, plant litter of any kind, or used harvesting machinery.

Other articles that may require certification include any other farm products, equipment, trucks, railroad cars, or other means of conveyance, used crates, boxes or bags, soil or any other product that might carry beetles.

Articles cannot be moved from a regulated area to an unquarantined area without meeting requirements. But movement is not restricted within a regulated area in Michigan or contiguous regulated areas in Ohio and Indiana where the cereal leaf beetle is also present.

Information on requirements is available from county agricultural extension directors, the Michigan Department of Agriculture, or the USDA's Plant Pest Control Division.

20 Will End Nature Study at Area Park

Several area teachers and residents will be among the 20 persons completing a nature interpretation workshop course at Kensington Metropolitan Park Friday.

This is the seventh year the instruction has been offered at the facility southwest of Milford.

The three-week workshop is cosponsored by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority and Eastern Michigan University's department of biology and division of field science.

Dr. John E. Lutz, EMU associate professor who served as instructor this year, was assisted by the park's naturalist staff headed by Richard Montemore.

Area teachers participating in the program include Mrs. Stanley D. Dombrowski and Mrs. Howard S. Cagle of Lake Orion Community Schools, Jo Ann Burgess and Wilma I. Forry of Utica Community Schools, and Mrs. Gerald Fuller and Mrs. Phil Harris of the Huron Valley School District.

Bruce Beebe, a Livonia teacher who lives at 2310 North, Highland Township, also attended the sessions, as did non-teachers Michael G. Hanes, 3317 Hopecrest, Farmington Township, and Mrs. Warren Tait, 60610 Sue, Lyon Township.

Says Bill Hits State Bakers

LANSING — The president of the Michigan Farm Bureau says if Congress passes the administration's wheat and feed grain bill, Michigan could lose its baking industry to Canada.

Elton Smith, a Kent County wheat grower, objected in a statement today to provisions under which flour millers, when they buy wheat, in many cases also must buy certificates at $1.25 a bushel to bolster the price the farmer receives.

Smith said this would amount to a "tax which everyone will pay" of nearly $2.80 for each 100 pounds of flour.

"There is no import duty or quota on finished baked goods shipped from Canada and the bakers already are working full blast to take advantage of this," Smith added.

To Reconsider Property Offer

MILFORD — Village councilmen tomorrow night will take another look at the problems they would encounter in converting an "attractive nuisance" into a recreational area.

In an informal meeting with representatives of three other generators would have to be filled. Other areas would require fencing.

Councilmen decided the safety measures necessary would be too expensive.

However, they will review the figures with insurance agents tomorrow night and investigate the possibility of obtaining a federal grant for purchase of the property.

AREA NEWS

Other advisers at the meeting will include village planning consultants from Villican-Lerman and Associates of Southfield.

Also scheduled to participate in the discussion are representatives of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, owner of a 185-acre parcel adjacent to the site.

While the village would pay nothing for the land, there is a $1,000 price tag on an overhead crane and well pump located there.

FOLLOWING REVIEW

The decision not to invest in the property was made following a review of the situation by the village's Auto Owners Insurance Co. agents.

Noting that the site posed a safety hazard for children attracted to it, the company indicated insurance costs would be high.

ENCLOSED CATAWK

An open catwalk over the dam would have to be enclosed, the insurance company maintained, and the holes that once held

Research Increases University Costs

By LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.

State and private universities face a common problem of skyrocketing costs. Operating costs go up year after year even when enrollments are held constant.

For example, Dr. J. Roscoe Miller, president of Northwestern University, points to the upward cost trend for that school. In 1949, the university budget was approximately $16 million. Next year, with a somewhat smaller enrollment, the budget will be in excess of $20 million.

Northwestern dedicated a $8 million addition to the School of Medicine, May 18, 1946. In dedicating the Searle Building, Dr. Miller noted that while the new building will increase the space for teaching and research facilities at the medical school by more than 70 per cent, it will have little, if any, effect on the size of the school's enrollment.

The program calls for giving an improved type of education to about the same number of prospective physicians.

In 1953, President Clark Kerr gave the operating expenses of the University of Southern California from all sources as nearly half billion dollars with nearly $100 million additional for construction.

TOTAL EMPLOYMENT
The total employment figure at the school was over 40,000, with nearly 100,000 students. These figures are total coverages of all the divisions of the university scattered throughout the state.

The cost per student for university education is difficult to compute from these figures. On the face it would approximate $5,000 per student per year. But, as President Kerr pointed out, much less than one-third of the university expenditures were directly related to teaching.

College education is provided at less cost to the taxpayer in state colleges where there isn't as much emphasis on research and publication.

MAJOR ELEMENT
It can be seen, therefore, that a major element in the accelerating costs is the change of emphasis from teaching to research.

While advanced work in science, engineering and medicine requires more expensive laboratories and equipment, much undergraduate college work can be carried out effectively in junior and senior high school buildings not otherwise used on Saturdays or in the evenings.

The University of California is already providing service to approximately 200,000 students in extension courses. In addition to lower division courses, it includes one out of every three lawyers and one out of every six doctors in the state.

Jim Jacoby starts today's discussion.

Jim: "I have a couple of potential bridge geniuses in my current instruction class. Here is a hand I gave the class to bid and every North-South pair had trouble reaching six no-trump after each South player opened one no-trump in spite of the five-card heart suit and each North counted 18 points and jumped right to six."

Oswald: "Pretty good bidding for any group but not really difficult if you have taught standard no-trump bidding. Did anyone find the safety play?"

Jim: "I helped the group a little by telling them to study the hand carefully and to plan their whole play from the very beginning."

Oswald: "Was this hand supposed to be an introduction to safety plays?"

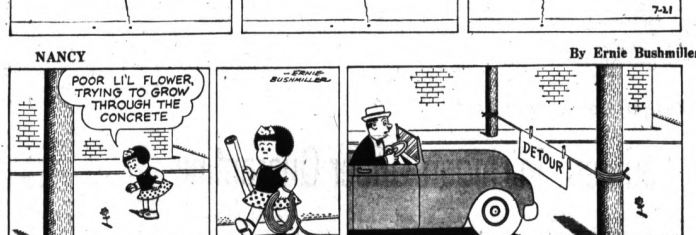

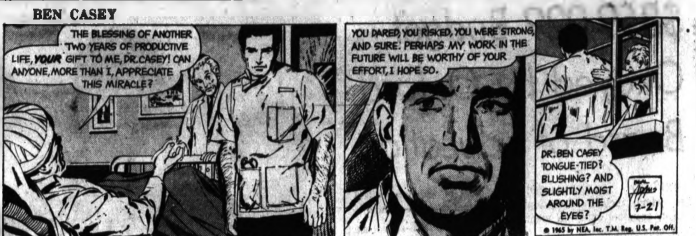

Jim: "It was."
Oswald: "We might as well point out that the king of hearts play insured four heart tricks against any adverse holding in the suit. Since South only needed four heart tricks the play had to be correct. If he needed five heart tricks the best play would be to start with the ace."

Recovery Under Way

Market Still Low on Average

NEW YORK (AP)—A recovery trend continued early this afternoon but the stock market was still a little lower on average.

The stock list was a mixture of gains and losses running mostly from fractions to about a point.

The market was at its worst in early trading when there was a follow through to Tuesday's brisk shakeout as news worsened about the Viet Nam situation.

A rebound got under way almost immediately among neglected issues, and as the session wore on, more and more stocks erased losses and posted plus signs.

Nonferrous metals, drugs, rubbers and rails continued lower on balance while the trend was edging to the upside among chemicals, aerospace issues and office equipments.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 54 at 886.25.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

LBJ, Katzenbach Talk

About Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson talked with Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach today about potential candidates for appointment to the Supreme Court.

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said Johnson is not beginning his search for a successor to Justice Arthur J. Goldberg with race, religion or sex as a precondition.

Moyers said Johnson and Katzenbach talked on the telephone and one topic of the conversation concerned "some vacancies on the judicial system."

The president, he said, asked Katzenbach for suggestions and consideration of people from the federal judiciary, from universities and from private life.

NO NAMES

Moyers mentioned no names. "I've seen a lot of names floated in the press and I don't think that any of these are people the President now is considering, he said.

As for speculation that Johnson may name a Negro or a woman to fill the vacancy created when the President named Goldberg ambassador to the United Nations, Moyers said:

"I have yet to see the President consider any person, starting out with that person being of a particular race or a particular sex or a particular religion or from a particular region."

TO SERVE POST

Moyers said that Thurgood Marshall, a Negro federal judge, is going to fill the post of solicitor general for which Johnson nominated him recently.

Marshall's name had figured in speculation about the Supreme Court vacancy.

Consumer Spending Boosts Retail Firms

By SAM DAWSON

Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The American consumer is bringing a golden flood of sales and profits to the most of the companies catering to his many needs and desires.

Benefiting in the second quarter of this year from the steadily increasing total of consumer spending, retail firms were such industries as food, clothing, paper, drugs, retail chains and suppliers of the gadgets which are the status symbols of prosperity.

Free-spending shoppers have brought increased profits to many retail chains, with some conspicuous exceptions.

In the first three months of the year retail firms scored a 21 per cent gain over the like period of 1964. In the second quarter of 1965 the profit upswing continued at much the same rate.

PROFIT GAINERS

Profit gainers in the 1965 second quarter over the same quarter of 1964 include: Sears, Roebuck with 145 million net earnings against $43 million a year ago; May Department Stores, $5.5 million against $5 million; Associated Dry Goods, $2.75 million against $1.8 million; Gimbel Brothers $2.1 million; Allied Stores, $2.7 million against $906,038; and R. H. Macy, $1.04 million against $791,000. But slipping a little was Federated Department Stores, $11.5 million in this year against $11.7 million last. Operating in the red were: E. J. Korvette, Arnold Constable, and Russells.

In the food store field, A&P was ahead this year $11.7 million from $11.8 million; Jewel Tea, $2.6 million from $2.4 million; and Grand Union $2.4 million from $1.9 million. But Safeway Stores slipped to $9.8 million from $10.4 million in 1964's second quarter. And H. C. Bohack operated at a loss.

Food producers, on average, scored a 15 per cent gain in profits in the first three months of 1965 over the year-ago period. Many continued the trend in the second quarter.

OTHER FOOD PRODUCERS

National Biscuit reported $8.8 million profits in its second quarter against $8.4 million the year before; Beatrice Foods $4.2 million against $3.4 million; and Corn Products $13.8 million against $12.7 million. But Fairmount Foods was off to $1.08 million from $1.1 million; and General Baking operated at a loss.

Americans continue to buy more and more drugs, particularly the new ones as they hit the market. Drug makers netted a 16 per cent profit advance in the first quarter over a year ago. In the second quarter just ended most companies showed a further profit rise.

The second quarter net earnings of Chas. Pfizer & Co. were $12.6 million, up from $10.1 million in the like 1964 period; Upjohn, $8 million up from $6 million; Parke, Davis, $6.4 million from $5.1 million; Abbott Laboratories, $4.6 million from $4.2 million; McKesson & Robbins, $2.6 million from $2.4 million; and Miles Laboratories $1.5 million this year from $1.1 million last.

Paper, pulp and lumber companies also gave many consumers a rise. Rising sales gave the industry an 8 per cent rise in profits in the first three months of this year over the like quarter of 1964. Second quarter results also mostly top year ago figures.

Scott Paper's second quarter profit was $11.5 million against $10.6 million a year ago; Union Bag-Camp Paper, $6.3 million against $4.8 million; West Virginia Pulp Paper, $4.6 million from $5.1 million; Abbott Laboratories, $4.6 million from $4.2 million; McKesson & Robbins, $2.6 million from $2.4 million; and Miles Laboratories $1.5 million this year from $1.1 million last.

United States Plywood netted $2.2 million in its second quarter, compared with $2.2 million a year earlier; Container Corp. of America $7.4 million against $6.1 million; and Masonite $2.8 million against $2.5 million.

If consumer buying holds up as expected, July 1965 will be a record for most of the companies catering to the public.

Millionaire's Daughter Fights Extradition

MIAMI (UPI) — Former honor student Mary Jane Hollingsworth Farrell was fighting today against extradition to South Carolina where she is charged with helping steal $650,000 from her millionaire father.

The state was given 15 days by Circuit Court Judge Ralph Cullen yesterday to file briefs contesting the arguments to the pretty Miami housewife's attorney against her return.

The dark-haired, 19-year-old former University of Miami student who has been called a genius was released under a $2,500 bond last night following nine hours in jail. She surrendered yesterday morning and was arrested on a warrant from South Carolina.

Mrs. Farrell is charged in Greenville, S.C., with house-breaking and grand larceny in the alleged theft of the cash — it was kept in seven leopard skins and leather bags — from a bathroom cabinet in the private offices of industrialist John D. Hollingsworth.

Implicated along with Mary

Jane was her mother, Hollingsworth's estranged wife.

Mrs. Farrell, who at 16 became the youngest graduate in the history of the University of Miami, said last week that her father had always upset her where money was concerned.

"At night when he came home, he would bring his money with him," she said. "He would bring it to the dining table and keep it on the floor. When he went to bed he would keep the money at his feet.

None of the money allegedly taken Easter night 1964, has been recovered.

Both Mrs. Farrell and Mrs. Hollingsworth were implicated by Mary Jane's brother-in-law, Jeffrey Farrell. He pleaded guilty to his own part in the affair and was put on four years' probation.

Mrs. Farrell's attorney argued yesterday that there actually was no crime, since any money involved belonged to the mother and daughter as well as Hollingsworth.

Deputies Arrest Five Migrants

STOCKBRIDGE (AP) — Five migrant workers were arrested by a heavily armed group of sheriff's deputies Tuesday in connection with the slaying of a Wisconsin farmer last Friday night.

The farmer, Peter Stewart, 20, of Marquette County, was slain near Montello, Wis., after he reportedly interceded to protect a 15-year-old girl from the men. Ingham County deputies said.

Eighteen deputies of Ingham, Washtenaw and Livingston counties, armed with shotguns and carbines, descended on an area near a migrant workers' camp in making the arrests.

The Michigan arrests, in a southern section of the state, followed the earlier detention of three other men in El Paso, Texas.

IDENTIFIED

The men seized here and held were identified by authorities as Richard Costello, 19, Yuma, Ariz.; Jimmie Panya, 20, Oakland, Calif.; and Carlo A. Ducia, 21, Frederick A. Palafox, 27, and Abino Espina, 22, all of San Francisco.

The Ingham County Sheriff's Department said all were charged with murder in warrants issued in Wisconsin.

The five, all lettuce field workers, were seized as they returned from the fields by bus to a migrant workers' camp four miles north of Stockbridge.

Bob Hope Entertains More GIs

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD — The intrepid Bob Hope is back from entertaining in another trouble spot, the Dominican Republic. His assessment of the morale of the American troops on the island, "They are the greatest."

THOMAS

The Department of Defense requested Old Faithful to fly to Santo Domingo, knowing full well that Hope can't resist a war. The comedian whipped together a troupe that included Jerry Colonna and Tony Romano, who appeared with him before another generation of soldiers in World War II.

For whistle-bait Hope also took along actresses Tuesday Weld and Mary Hetherington and singer Lola Dee.

"We did six scheduled shows and three off the cuff," Hope reported. "We would go to a place like the military police headquarters, where they presented us with gifts. There would be 300 guys waiting and a microphone set up, so naturally we did a show."

NO GUNFIRE
Hope said he heard no gunfire during his two-day visit to the island, but he added: "It's pretty exciting to be driving down the street and see a sign, 'Yankee dogs, go home.' When I came onstage, I said, 'Hello, Yankee dogs,' and the audience broke up."

Other big laughs: "How are you enjoying this wonderful, air-conditioned swamp? This is the only place where you can get your laundry done while you're wearing it. Imagine — the Beatles getting decorated and you're just sitting here!"

Hope told of going to bed in his hotel room and seeing something on the ceiling that looked like a large moth. In the morning he could see that it was a hole.

"Oh, that's where a bullet hit," the hotel manager told him. "You're only on the third floor. You should see the fourth floor, where the rebels were trying to get a newspaperman."

WEATHER HOT
The weather? "It was hot," said Hope, "but we had air-conditioning — bullet holes in the windows."

Although he steered clear of gunfire, Hope was felled by a Caribbean bug. On his return to Miami, he succumbed to a virus that put him in bed with a 100-degree fever for two days. But he's home with his health and willing to travel to whatever trouble spot turns up next.

"I'm packed," he said. "I've got my Whiz Bang joke book all ready to go."

Ferndale Bank Robbed

FERDALE (AP)—A bandit escaped with approximately $2,000 from a Detroit Bank & Trust Co. branch in Ferndale Tuesday, the FBI said.

No Hike Seen in MSU Tuition

Trustees to Meet on 1965-66 Budget

EAST LANSING AP) — No tuition increase for 1965-66 is included in the budget to be considered Thursday by Michigan State University's board of trustees, MSU's chief finance officer said Tuesday.

MSU Vice President Philip J. May said the budget still is subject to change by the trustees, but "we've been discussing this for three months with the board as the appropriation moved through the legislative process."

"We feel we have developed a reasonable budget based on current fees and legislative support," he added.

MSU's tuition last was raised for the 1962-63 school year — to $324 an academic year for Michigan residents and $670 for non-residents.

TUITION HIKE
The University of Michigan recently touched off a furor by announcing a tuition raise this fall of up to $100 in some divisions.

Michigan resident undergraduates will pay $348 a year and nonresidents $1,000.

Meanwhile, MSU President John A. Hannah reported an encouraging letter from a national medical body which accredits medical schools.

MSU proposed to open a two-year school of human medicine, possibly in the fall of 1966.

NOTE ASSURANCE
Hannah said the liaison committee of the American Association of Medical Colleges and the American Medical Association has sent to the U.S. Office of Education a "letter of reasonable assurance" that the university is well on the way to establishing a school which eventually will be accredited.

Bystanders Ignore Man Being Robbed

DETROIT (AP) — A Nachman Tevli, 53, told police he was beaten and robbed of $162 Tuesday night by a gang of juveniles as some 30 persons stood by and did nothing but watch.

Tevli, a Brooklyn, N. Y., man in Detroit on a visit, said he stopped his car at a corner store and got out to buy a soft drink when the nine juveniles jumped him. He said they knocked him down several times and fled with his wallet which contained the money. He said that during the assault, a group of bystanders did nothing to help him.

State Employees' Car Insurance Requirements Set

LANSING (AP)—State employees using their own cars on state business will have to carry liability insurance covering death and injury claims up to $50,000.

The ruling was issued Tuesday by the State Administrative Board.

Board members pointed out the state's own liability coverage will take care of any claims exceeding $50,000 against state employees using private cars on state business.

The board members noted a number of state employees, who frequently carry state workers' compensation in their private cars on state business, did not have enough insurance.

The insurance coverage was ordered to assure that no state worker would be faced with an accident without adequate coverage, the board said.

Stamp to Be Issued in Stevenson's Honor

WASHINGTON (AP) — A commemorative postage stamp will be issued in honor of Adlai E. Stevenson.

President Johnson asked the Post Office Department Tuesday to begin work immediately developing a stamp design appropriate to the life and work of the late ambassador to the United Nations.

Life Hectic at Beauty Pageant

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — It was the eve of the Miss Universe semifinals: Miss Mexico's age was questioned, Miss Argentina changed her name, Miss Argentina was home in Buenos Aires and false headlines were selling like hotcakes.

Fifteen of the 57 girls chosen tonight as semifinalists will compete Saturday for the crown worn by Corinna Tsopei of Athens, Greece.

Pageant officials huddled over whether Juana Acosta of Mexico City was 18 as she says. In Mexico City Tuesday the chief of the Office of Civil Registration said she was 18.

Teary-eyed from a cold, Juana said the age question "is loco. I don't know what to say. It is silly."

WOULDN'T LIE

The dark-eyed brunette, daughter of actor Rudolph Acosta, says she has always dreamed of being a Miss Universe and wouldn't lie to do it.

Pageant officials said her passport indicated she was 18.

But the Mexican official said her parents had taken out a birth certificate in 1949 saying she was born June 29, 1949. That would make her 16.

On July 13, 1965, the official said, Miss Acosta's mother applied for a second certificate showing she was born in 1947. The legal issue may have to be decided in court.

'CHANGED NAME

Miss Israel, meanwhile, announced she wanted to be introduced on stage as "Alisa Sadeh." She is registered as Alisa Panfil.

Sadeh, she said, is the Hebrew word for "field" and she was named Sadeh in Israel after her crowning.

Alisa, green-eyed and red-haired, is a soldier in Israel. She works in a cooperative farm camp near Egypt.

National Tests for U.S. Schools Termed Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I'll lay odds of 2 to 1" a state superintendent of schools said today, "we'll have national tests within five years, and the start of a national curriculum dictated by Washington within 10 years."

"Don't take the bait," said another prominent educator. "The tests are being drawn up now."

The men declined to be quoted by name. Both, however, have been closely involved in the most controversial issue before the conference: Should there be a "national assessment of educational progress?"

This would involve a program of tests of elementary and high school pupils to see how good education is throughout the country and how areas and communities compare.

Life on Mars Still Mystery

No Signs Evidenced by Mariner — Experts

PASADENA, CALIF. (UPI)—Scientists have seen "no signs of life"—animal, vegetable or mineral—on the planet Mars in pictures transmitted to earth by America's marvelous Mariner 4 space camera.

Dan Schneiderman, Mariner project manager for Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL), repeated that the 74-month voyage of the 575-pound probe "was not intended to look for life."

Whether life exists on Mars must remain a mystery for at least six more years. The U.S. Space Agency yesterday named JPL in develop such a "life-seeker," named voyager, to land on the planet in 1971.

Schneiderman, JPL director William H. Pickering and other experts denied a report which said some scientists believed "dark spots" in Mariner's "historical pictures might be vegetation" on the planet.

"Not a single soul (on the Mariner program) has suggested these might possibly be anything except dark spots," said Schneiderman.

It was a day for denying published reports. Scientists yesterday also:

• Rejected speculation that the Zond 3 probe launched by the Soviet Union was a shot at Mars. "At this time of year," said one, "Mars is simply out of reach." Another said JPL's "imaging" camera.

• Turned down the idea that Russia had done something the United States had not when it sent Zond 3 deep into space from an "orbiting platform" around earth.

Contrary to reports, Mariner 4 was not launched directly toward Mars. It, too, was triggered on a Mars along a 4,000-mile-long "panoramic view" of the planet's face.

The first three snapshots, already released to the world, showed a hazy Martian horizon against the black velvet background of space, a mysterious Whipped formation in the planet's Amazonian desert and a craterlike "pockmark" about 12 miles across.

Mariner 4, more than 138 million miles from earth, today was sending back the 14th of its scheduled 21 close-up pictures of Mars. From the photographs, scientists hope to build up the first true map of Mars along a 4,000-mile-long "panoramic view" of the planet's face.

Plan to Make Town's Name Sleepy Hollow Wakes Citizens

LAINGSBURG, Mich. (AP) — Once upon a time, in a quiet Michigan city of 1,057 souls, someone suggested changing the city's name to "Sleepy Hollow."

That woke everyone up in a hurry.

The name was made famous in Washington Irving's "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," the story about schoolteacher Ichabod Crane and the headless horseman.

It is being given to a state park being developed seven miles northwest of Laingsburg.

BRING TOURISTS

Fred J. Veith, editor of the weekly Laingsburg Press, suggested that giving the city the same name as the park would bring in tourists to shop in Laingsburg's stores.

His newspaper immediately was deluged with letters.

"Change Laingsburg's name

— how stupid can you get?" said one.

"Who has thought of how the initials 'SHHS' (Sleepy Hollow High School) will look on our football jerseys?" asked another.

POOR EXAMPLES

That writer also said the characters in Irving's story were "dull, greedy, stupid, commonplace, open-mouthed and sleepy-eyed."

Another said: "Sleepy Hollow stands for nothing, means nothing (and . . . sounds witless). We like (Laingsburg's) name, its steady drive, its friendly and welcoming business places and churches, and the neighborhood atmosphere which prevails. It's a rare good place to come home to."

The issue will stay alive until at least next spring. Veith and other backers of the name change obtained enough signatures on a petition to force an election on the question next spring.

Veith is ready to change his newspaper's name to "Legend of Sleepy Hollow."

Any other name would have to be changed, and sign painter Robert E. Tisch agreed that "Sure, I'd have plenty of business if we changed the name."

But, he added: "I have to be against changing the name."

"I look at it this way: more than 125 years ago, this guy Doc Laing came here and, through guts and determination, founded the town out of the wilderness. To change the name at this late date would be to tamper with history, and for no good reason."

Doc Laing's town prospered to the point where an 1886 poster declared: "Laingsburg is the stuff; beautiful, busy, bountiful Laingsburg." The city once boasted 40 business places and three hotels.

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Most people do. For nothing can tell you as much about a product as a message in print. Print shows colors best. Styles, too. And comparative prices, special uses, designs, shapes. Shows them as no other medium can. That's why your customers—and your competitor's customers—look to print when they're really ready to buy. If people can paint with your product, sit on it, eat it, serve it to company, walk on it, wear it, freeze foods in it, or drive it . . . better put it in print. Print makes sense, because print makes sales.

Foster Is Guilty of Killing 1st Wife

HOT ITEM—A fire yesterday afternoon at the Sam Allen & Sons, Inc., scrap yard, 22 Congress, damaged this metal crushing machine, which has been the focal point of a recent Circuit Court case. The city and 15 residents claim the machine is a nuisance because of the noise. Fire officials estimate fire damage to the building and contents at $3,000. Firemen said the blaze started when a spark ignited gases in the building.

Halt Milk to Sealtest

DETROIT (UPI) — Southern Michigan was braced today for a possible milk shortage as the Michigan Milk Producers Association carried out plans to halt deliveries of raw milk to the Sealtest Co., one of Michigan's largest processors of drinking milk.

The MMPA said yesterday it planned to halt deliveries to Sealtest in response to "a deliberate attempt by the dairy to break Michigan prices by importing milk from Wisconsin."

Sealtest, which has plants in Detroit and Lansing, gets more than 37 million quarts of raw milk from the MMPA's 12,000 members each month.

The current MMPA pact with the dairies calls for payment of about 10.5 cents a quart for raw milk that is processed for drinking. The six-month pact is set to expire July 31.

The association and the dairies currently are negotiating a new price agreement.

MUCH LOWER

Glenn Lake, MMPA president, said Wisconsin raw milk prices are much lower than Michigan prices.

He said the boycott was called when the MMPA learned that Sealtest was bringing raw milk from a plant near Green Bay, Wis., to its Lansing plant, then re-labeling the milk tankers at the Sealtest plant in Detroit.

Viet Cong Positions Attacked by B52s

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Guam-based B52 jet bombers attacked Viet Cong installations in a jungle area 30 miles north-northwest of Saigon tonight a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The spokesman said only that a number of the big Strategic Air Command bombers took part in the mission in Binh Duong Province.

The fifth announced raid made by the B52s in the Vietnamese war, it was carried out at the request of the Vietnamese government "in a program of continuing harassment and disruption of known areas of Viet Cong activity," the spokesman said.

American casualties last week were among the heaviest in any single week of the war.

A spokesman announced 28 U.S. servicemen were killed, 100 were wounded and seven were listed as missing or captured.

735 CASUALTIES

Military officials said South Vietnamese forces suffered 735 casualties during the week, including 240 killed, 340 wounded and 155 missing or captured.

Viet Cong losses were 419 killed and 33 captured, the officials said.

The United States kept up its air war against North Viet Nam today as the Viet Cong scattered action was reported on the ground in South Viet Nam.

One U.S. Air Force plane crashed at sea 100 miles southwest of Saigon after being hit by gunfire but the pilot was picked up unharmed, a spokesman reported.

GUERRILLA TOLL

The spokesman said 150 Communist guerrillas were killed in the Viet Cong attack yesterday on the Vietnamese special forces camp at Bu Dop, 80 miles north of Saigon. The figure was based on Vietnamese body counts, he said.

Vietnamese and American casualties in the camp previously were reported heavy.

The camp came under small arms fire again last night but no casualties were reported.

Salvage operations were under way for a Vietnamese landing craft that was damaged by a mine south of Saigon resulting in casualties described as heavy.

ADVISERS ON BOARD

much of the work be contracted to universities and private industries.

Experience gained by Philco Corp., a Ford subsidiary, in its work for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, would be useful, he said.

YEARS NEEDED

He estimated the complete program would require years, but that some useful information would be forthcoming early.

Ford already has participated in developing some equipment that could be used in the study, he said, such as a device to evaluate drivers' reactions, and a project to provide road information through car radios.

He estimated his company is spending about $138 million annually on automotive safety. Ford is making seven safety features standard instead of optional on its 1966 models, he added.

The questioning of the Ford executive winds up but one phase of the committee's long-term study of auto safety problems and how to solve them.

SHARP QUESTIONS

Spokesmen for General Motors, Chrysler Corp. and American Motors met some critical questioning last week.

Subcommittee chairman Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., at one point wondered out loud why the auto industry was "always lagging behind, waiting for someone to tell them something should be done" to build more safety into cars as standard equipment.

Carl F. Foster

Verdict Carries an Automatic Life Sentence

Judge Says Testimony of Pathologist and Slayer's Friend Key

By JIM LONG

Carl F. Foster was found guilty today of first-degree murder in the slaying of his first wife.

The 29-year-old former Pontiac factory worker, already serving a 10- to 15-year prison term for another killing, will be sentenced July 31.

In finding Foster guilty of strangling his wife, Angela, 25, Ziem has no choice in setting the sentence. A first-degree murder verdict carries an automatic life sentence.

Before announcing his decision, Ziem, who heard the case without a jury, said that there were three principal issues that he had to decide:

• Was Angela a suicide as her death on Feb. 23, 1964, was originally ruled?

• If she wasn't a suicide, did Foster commit the crime?

• If he did, was the killing premeditated?

After reviewing in court the testimony of a number of witnesses and the credibility of each, Ziem answered yes to all of the questions.

MOST CRUCIAL

Ziem said the testimony of Dr. Richard E. Olsen, pathologist at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, was most crucial on the first issue.

It was on the basis of an autopsy performed by Olsen that the body of Mrs. Foster 14 months after she died that Pontiac police charged Foster.

Olsen said immediately after the autopsy that Mrs. Foster had been strangled manually.

The defense testimony of two pathologists was somewhat different than that of Olsen, but basically they didn't contradict what he had said.

TELLING THE TRUTH

In regard to Foster's confession to a friend, Ziem said that he believed that Wayne D'Auremont was telling the truth.

During the five-day trial, D'Auremont testified that Foster had once told him that he killed his wife. D'Auremont said Foster blurted out the story while they were returning from a bar in Orionville last fall.

Ziem said it was his conclusion that Foster planned the crime. He said that testimony revealed that Foster was having marital troubles, was jealous and had made threats.

Among those in the crowded courtroom when the verdict was announced, were Foster's mother and his second wife, Thana, who has filed for divorce.

SAME DAY

Foster and Thana were married in Ohio the same day he killed Mrs. Maurice Crook, a Bloomfield Township divorcee, in a lovers' lane in Pontiac last December.

Foster pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Crook.

Viet Report Given to LBJ

McNamara Returns, Cites Cong Strength

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara sat down today for a full dress conference on Viet Nam, surrounded by a group of top administration officials.

McNamara returned today from Viet Nam, and told men the ratio of Viet Cong to government forces is "totally unacceptable." He appeared ready to recommend an increase in U.S. strength in South Viet Nam.

But the White House said today's meeting was not a decision-making session but one of deliberations.

Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers said it may be some time, perhaps a matter of days, before the deliberations and discussions are finished and any announcements of results can be made.

So, for the time being the questions of increased U.S. military reinforcements in Viet Nam and the possible expansion of the draft and calling up of reserves were left in suspension.

McNamara said that he, Ambassador-designate Henry Cabot Lodge and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Army chief of staff, who accompanied him on the trip, would report to "government officials" today.

McNamara told newsmen that the Viet Cong guerrillas now total about 165,000 and that this compares with about 500,000 South Vietnamese government forces.

This, McNamara said, is "a totally unacceptable ratio."

Officials have said in the past that a ratio of at least 10 to 1 is necessary to offset the hit-and-run tactics of the guerrillas.

McNamara was asked about his Saigon statement that he had seen a deterioration in the situation since his last visit 15 months ago.

His reply centered on the intensified attacks by the guerrillas, especially in the increase of terror activities against the civilian population.

LBj's High Court Choice Could Shatter Precedent

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, who delights in surprise appointments, has an opportunity to shatter precedent by putting a Negro or a woman on the Supreme Court.

No one concerned professed to have any inkling of Johnson's intentions in filing the vacancy created by the appointment of Justice Arthur J. Goldberg as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

The feeling was strong in Congress, however, that the President will make a spectacular move. This could involve his selection of the first Negro or the first woman to serve on the high court.

Johnson's surprise designation of Goldberg to fill the U.N. vacancy created by the death of Adlai E. Stevenson stirred immediate speculation that he might withdraw the nomination of Judge Thurgood Marshall, a Negro, to be solicitor general and name him to the Supreme Court bench.

Marshall, whose nomination is pending before the Senate Judiciary Committee, discounted these reports.

"That's just you fellows (the press) talking," he told reporters. "It just isn't in the cards."

The name of Clarence C. Ferguson, Negro dean of Howard University Law School, also cropped up.

The President has placed stress in the past on the elevation of women to high government posts. He set out in 1964 to find places for 25 outstanding women.

In this connection, the names of prominent women attorneys drew some attention. They include U.S. Dist. Judge Sarah Hughes, who administered the oath of office to Johnson after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

If Johnson were disposed to name a Negro woman, Marjorie Lawson, former District of Columbia juvenile court judge, has come to his attention. The President recently appointed her as vice chairman of the District of Columbia Crime Commission.

Others mentioned were Judge Lorna Lockwood, Democratic chief justice of the Arizona Supreme Court, and Rep. Patsy T. Mink, D-Hawaii.

There would be less surprise, of course, if Johnson named one of the advisers who have been close to him. Attorneys Abe Fortas, Clark Clifford and former Secretary of State Dean Acheson are in this classification.

With Goldberg leaving the court makeup stands at five Democrats and three Republicans, a division that might indicate the choice of a Democrat for the vacancy.

City Taxpayers Challenged to Back Storm Drain Plan

City Commissioners sounded the alarm last night over the lack of proper storm drains in the city and challenged taxpayers to support a $15- to $20-million program to solve the drain problem.

Citing the use of canoes on city streets after a two-inch rain last Friday, Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson said a poll should be taken to see if the public will support a one-shot program to solve storm drain problems.

Hudson said that a recent study reported that it would take $15-$20 million to meet the city's storm drain needs. He said two questions should be asked:

• What is the opinion of the taxpayers on the $15-$20 million cost of city storm drains?

• Would taxpayers support a program to solve storm drain problems even though it would raise city taxes?

The District 4 commissioner estimated that the cost of a citywide storm drain program would cost $4 per $1,000 assessed valuation for the next 30 to 40 years.

"We can't stop talking about the problem just because it costs too much," claimed Hudson.

Commissioners Robert C. Irwin and John A. Dugan indicated support for Hudson's idea. Dugan said that he was shocked at the costs of the storm drain problem.

RIVER WORK

Dugan pointed out that the Clinton River work must also be completed to help solve drainage problems.

A master plan for storm drains to combat recurrent problems of flooded basements and streets was presented to the commission last month.

The master plan put an estimated price tag of $9.2 million on the construction of a storm trunk drains. This cost would not include the cost of easements or right-of-way acquisition or the construction of lateral lines down individual streets.

Offering 13 specific projects, the master plan divided the city into 33 drainage districts.

Previously, city officials decided to proceed with implementation of master plans for storm and sanitary sewers on a stage basis as funds were available.

ARJAY MILLER

Urges Ford President 'Use Space Research for Auto Safety'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of Ford Motor Co. proposed today a research program using space-age techniques to solve the problems of automobile safety—problems of driving, highways and enforcement as well as vehicle design.

Arjay Miller, the Ford president, told the Senate Executive Reorganization Committee in prepared testimony the solution cannot be found alone in building more safety features into cars.

If safety were the sole consideration, not affected by need for speed and low cost, "we could design a vehicle that would look like a tank, float in water, and not travel over 10 miles an hour, with all occupants harnessed inside like astronauts," he said.

Miller proposed the federal government direct the research program, which would use modern processing equipment to handle masses of data, but that much of the work be contracted to universities and private industries.

Experience gained by Philco Corp., a Ford subsidiary, in its work for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, would be useful, he said.

MAKING THE PONTIAC INDUSTRIAL PARK PROJECT TAKEN OVER BY CITY

Plans for an industrial park on the city's southeast side were revived last night through action of the City Commission.

The commission authorized spending $68,000 to salvage the planned 23-acre park project slated for the northeast corner of South and East boulevards in South Park Subdivision.

Essentially, the city takes over the project fostered by the Greater Pontiac Industrial Development Corp. (GPIDC), acquiring 21 lots as a gift from the corporation and assuming GPIDC commitments on 14 other lots.

Twenty other lots, some with houses on them, would remain to be purchased to round out the planned site.

King Boosted in Greek Crisis

5 in Ex-Chief's Party Join New Cabinet

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — King Constantine's position in the Greek throne crisis grew stronger today as five more members of ex-Premier George Papandreu's party bolted and joined the new government.

The 25-year-old monarch swore in the five new ministers Tuesday night, completing the 20-member Cabinet of his hand-picked premier, George Athanasiadis Novas. All 20 were members of the Center Union party who went over to the king's side despite Papandreu's warning that anyone joining the new government was a traitor.

Papandreu's party holds 170 of the 300 seats in Parliament. Athanasiadis Novas said he was confident he would win the vote of confidence he must seek from Parliament by Aug. 1.

C. of C. Sets Annual Event

The annual summer meeting of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce will be held Aug. 18 at the Pontiac Country Club. The day-long meeting will consist of a golf outing and an evening banquet.

Feature attraction at the banquet will be entertainer Wes Harrison, "Mr. Sound Effects."

Firm Sends Out Stop Order to Block Sales

NEW YORK (AP) — Gerald Mulcahy, 18, a Wall Street messenger, told police he was waylaid by two men who robbed him of more than $2 million in negotiable stock certificates.

But the bandits, who took Mulcahy's empty wallet and the money he was carrying in a manila envelope, may have a big score for their lunchtime robbery Tuesday.

The securities were owned by Goodbody & Co., a brokerage house at 2 Broadway, which immediately sent out a stop order to block sale of the stocks.

A New York Stock Exchange spokesman said, "Technically they are negotiable, but I don't see how they would be of use to anybody."

CANCELED CHECKS

Harold P. Goodbody, manager partner of the firm, likened the stolen stocks to canceled checks.

"I think those fellows got a white elephant," Goodbody said. "I want to make it quite clear that there is no monetary loss."

The securities are insured, Goodbody said.

The 34,800 shares, worth $2,003,012 at current prices were being taken by Mulcahy, of Hoboken, N.J., to the Bank of Nova Scotia at 37 Broadway as collateral for a margin loan.

"No reputable bank or brokerage firm would buy these certificates without checking with us," Goodbody said, "particularly from someone they didn't know."

Romney Vetoed Bill Allowing U. P. Park Road

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney today announced a veto of a senate bill which would have forbidden the State Conservation Department to block the extension of state highway M107 through the Porcupine Mountains State Park.

Romney, who took a six-mile hike through the park earlier this month, said any road through the wilderness area would need careful planning — which the bill did not provide.

'Space Data for Car Safety'

In a veto message to the Senate, Romney said the bill "simply strips a state department of its rightful responsibility and calls for extension of a particular road that conceivably could result in the worst solution to the problem that proponents seek to correct."

"It is shotgun legislation," the governor said, "lacking the specific restrictive approach required. It calls for action that, once taken, could never be reversed, however wrong."

Flood-Stricken Missouri Area to Get Respite

By The Associated Press
Forecasters promised a sunny day at last and thus, a respite from cloudbursts Sunday and Monday that triggered devastating floods, leaving seven dead and damages in the millions in northwest Missouri.

Still raging today was the stem of the Platte River, which rises about 120 miles due north near the Iowa line and bends across the northwest edge of the Kansas City metropolitan area into the Missouri River.

A northeasterly branch, the Little Platte, receded after climbing 15 feet above flood stage at Smithville, town of 2,000 on the north outskirts of Kansas City.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes asked the White House for all possible emergency assistance.

DISASTER AREA
The Small Business Administration declared it a disaster area.

School Communication Is Taken Under Study

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — An organized method of channeling communication between teachers and school board members is now under study in the Bloomfield Hills School System.

School trustees last night received a report from Supt. Eugene L. Johnson on modifications he would make in the plan proposed last year by the Bloomfield Hills Education Association (BHEA).

The superintendent was asked to study the situation when the BHEA submitted a professional agreement plan drafted by the Michigan Education Association (MEA).

Johnson's recommendation is that problems of a professional nature recognized by the teachers be taken first to the superintendent.

Harriman Ends Moscow Talks

Says He Has 'Good Statement' for Later

MOSCOW (AP) — Roving U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman met Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin for an hour and 40 minutes today and said later he had now finished his business in Moscow.

"I have a good statement for you later," Harriman told reporters after the Kremlin meeting.

He declined to discuss the meeting's second with Kosygin in six days.

Harriman said he will fly to Brussels, Belgium, tomorrow.

WORLD PROBLEMS

The two men met last week for a discussion of world problems which it was said would be continued today.

The Harriman-Kosygin meetings were the highest-level contacts between the American government and the new Soviet leadership. They are reported to be an attempt to avoid misunderstandings during the present strained relations over Viet Nam.

EXPECT REBUFF

"Each new aggressive action in Viet Nam undertaken by the Americans is meeting and will inevitably meet a corresponding rebuff from the forces of national liberation and the Socialist states," he said.

Harriman came to Moscow July 12 on what he called a vacation. He was American ambassador here from 1943 to 1946 and has visited Moscow many times for governmental negotiations and for private reasons.

He is scheduled to leave in the next few days to visit several West European countries for talks before returning to Washington.

Negro Resigns as Police Chief in Georgia Town

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. — Retired Negro sawmill worker Jesse Meadows, made chief of police in this small northeast Georgia town less than a week ago, has resigned.

Mayor W. G. Taylor announced the resignation Tuesday night after Negroes and whites met to discuss grievances that have brought civil rights demonstrations and arrests.

Crippled Plane Lands Safely; 4 Aboard Safe

NEWINGTON, N.H. (AP) — A six-engine Air Force jet bomber crash-landed safely on a foam-covered runway at Pease Air Force Base today after circling the field for nearly five hours with a jammed landing gear.

The B47 stratojet bomber with four men aboard landed its emergency when it started to come in for a landing about 1 a.m. after an 11-hour training flight out of Pease.

The four men walked out of the plane unaided after it skidded for 250 yards and stopped.
